Heavy Snowfall Heads for State

By The Associated Press

Heavy snow, chilling winds and sub-zero cold weather gripped the north-central section of the nation today, and gale warnings flew on the Pacific Coast.

Severe blizzard warnings were in effect for an area ranging from Iowa and central Nebraska to Minnesota and southeastern North Dakota.

★ ★ ★

Heavy snow warnings were in effect for Upper Michigan, and travelers warnings were posted for northwestern Wisconsin. Considerable blowing and drifting snow plagued the warnings areas.

★ ★ ★

A new snowfall was expected to dump as much as four inches of snow on Upper Michigan.

DRIVING WARNINGS

The U. S. Weather Bureau warned of hazardous driving conditions: poor visibility and roads made slippery by falling temperatures and freezing rain. Bad roads were reported at Calumet and Wakefield in the Upper Peninsula.

One inch of overnight rainfall was reported at Iron Mountain where the thermometer stood at 25 degrees at mid-morning today.

★ ★ ★

Six inches of snow was reported at the Houghton airport in Keweenaw County.

The weather bureau warned that strong, shifting winds might break up the Houghton Lake ice field, endangering fishermen before the expected cold front moved in. Gale-force gusts of up to 50 miles per hour were predicted for the area.

VISIBILITY REDUCED

Throughout the north central blizzard warning area, wind gusts of more than 40 miles an hour, accompanied by snow, reduced visibility to near zero. Wind gusts of more than 50 miles an hour were recorded in eastern Nebraska and the eastern Dakotas. Norfolk, Neb., reported winds up to 62 miles an hour.

Snow and high northeasterly winds created blizzard conditions in parts of the eastern Dakotas and northern and central Minnesota, with near-blizzard conditions reported in southwestern Minnesota. As the winds subsided, much colder weather was expected to follow. The Minnesota Highway Department advised travel only in emergency cases. Some roads were snow-blocked.

★ ★ ★

Thunderstorms erupted ahead of the cold front from Louisiana to the Lower Great Lakes. Up to 3 inches of rain soaked parts of Texas and Louisiana during the night.

★ ★ ★

Some early morning reports: Boston 38 cloudy, New York 34 clear, Philadelphia 27 clear, Washington 37 partly cloudy, Atlanta 43 cloudy, Miami 71 cloudy, Chicago 47 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 24 snow, St. Louis 40 cloudy, Kansas City 27 clear, Dallas 44 clear, Denver 24 partly cloudy, Phoenix 40 clear, Los Angeles 54 clear, San Francisco 41 partly cloudy, Seattle 41 cloudy, Anchorage 15 partly cloudy, Honolulu 72 rain.

Romney: Won't Quit Till OK'd

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney said today he would not resign as governor until after the U. S. Senate confirms his appointment as secretary of housing and urban development.

He noted Senate confirmation of major appointees "usually has taken place soon after the inauguration of a new president." Richard Nixon takes office Jan. 20.

Michigan's new Legislature will convene Jan. 8.

★ ★ ★

Romney said he had informed Lt. Gov. William Milliken, his successor-to-be, that Nixon had advised cabinet appointees who hold public office to continue in their present posts until confirmed by the Senate.

"To do otherwise would be to assume the prerogatives of the Senate, which holds the constitutional authority to approve or disapprove nominees for cabinet positions," Romney said.

TALKS WITH MILLIKEN

Romney met for about an hour with Milliken today, the two holding their first discussion since Romney's appointment was announced by Nixon Wednesday night.

In New York, meanwhile, the president-elect was turning to more specific problems of government at home and abroad.

★ ★ ★

To emphasize the shifting of gears within his still-building administration, Nixon confers today with representatives of the Urban Coalition, concerned with poverty and city problems, and with former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who has returned from a sometimes-controversial tour of the Middle East.

Dad Loses Fight for Wounded GI

Leslie Lampi's battle to keep his wounded son from returning to Vietnam apparently has been lost.

"I imagine Billy's back there by now," he said resignedly this morning.

Lampi, 47, of 857 E. Walton received word from the office of Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, late yesterday that Spec. 4 William J. Lampi, 20, was on the way back to the combat zone for the remainder of his year-long tour there.

"I tried everything," said the elder Lampi, a steelworker.

$700 PHONE BILL

This, he said, included asking McDonald to intercede, calling the Pentagon, contacting the surgeon general's office and making $700 in phone calls to the Army hospital in Japan where Billy was sent for treatment of combat wounds.

The young soldier's injuries included a hole in his left eye and more than a hundred stitches in his arms and legs—the result of a jungle booby trap outside Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Lampi explained that the eye injury has resulted in double vision and said that Billy duly informed Army physicians of the condition.

However, the Army seems bent on returning Billy to Vietnam to rejoin his outfit — the 101st Airborne.

"I know Billy's not one to object," said Lampi. "He's got a lot of courage and doesn't complain. Still, he's not the kind to make a thing like this up either. If Billy says he's seeing double, it's true.

"It looks like I'll just have to sweat out the last four months of his hitch," he said.

Role of PAPC to Be Studied

By JIM LONG

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) may be in for a shake-up.

If the reorganization is to take place, it will depend largely on a report to be submitted by study committee created by the PAPC last night.

★ ★ ★

Criticism by several members of the PAPC that its recommendations to the Pontiac City Commission and the Pontiac Board of Education are being disregarded touched off the issue of realignment within the advisory group.

Generally, it was the board of education that took the brunt of the attacks, particularly in regard to its selection of a site at Pontiac State Hospital for a new super high school.

INSTRUMENTAL

Both the City Commission and school board were instrumental in setting up the planning council.

The basic question raised is whether it is advantageous to have members and staff of both policy-making groups be part of the PAPC since the ones receiving the advice and guidance are among those giving it.

★ ★ ★

Carl F. Ingraham, chairman of the county poverty program and a district judge-elect in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, requested that the investigative committee be formed.

The intent of the study is to determine the relationship between the commission and the school board with the PAPC.

"It appears to me that there is a feeling among some members that representatives of the city and board of

Local Stores Thrive on Holiday Crowds

Holiday shoppers are keeping cash registers jingling and store owners merry as the Christmas spirit appears to have taken a firm grip on Pontiac.

A variety of weather, from a nose-numbing cold on Monday to last night's rain, has failed to dampen shoppers' enthusiasm.

Parking lots are busy outside area shopping centers. Inside warm stores, people are busy hunting for the right gifts.

With 12 shopping days remaining, business in downtown Pontiac is steadily increasing, merchants say.

"Business this year is very good in all departments, said Howard Nelson, Sears & Roebuck general manager. He added the busiest time of the day is from around 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

William Sexton, sales manager of downtown Federal Department Store said business is improving daily, adding, there has been an over-all increase over last year's sales. He speculates that it is perhaps because of the parking Mall.

One of the biggest selling items in the toy department at Kresge's is a toy called the Ker-plunk, said Douglas Scott, sales manager. He added that Saturday is still the biggest shopping day.

★ ★ ★

Business is steadily good through the week but Friday night is the busiest, Pontiac Mall officials said. The corridors are sometimes lined with people waiting to see Santa, they added.

★ ★ ★

At the Miracle Mile Shopping Center, weekends are generally the busiest time, officials said and weekdays the heaviest traffic flow is usually between the hours of 3 to 5 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Robert Woodard, manager of Winkleman's in the Tel-Huron Shopping Center, said buying this season has been excellent. Business at Osmun's is "fantastic," said Robert Osmun, manager of the Tel-Huron men's store.

Pontiac Sales Up for Dec. 1-10 Period

Pontiac Motor Division reported today that its sales for the Dec. 1-10 period totaled 22,149 units.

Thomas L. King, general sales manager, said this represented a 7 per cent increase over the 20,637 new cars sold in the first 10 days of December last year.

14 Feared Dead on Ship

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Fourteen crewmen are feared dead following an explosion aboard the Liberian-registered tanker Diane, Amsterdam harbor police reported today. Two bodies have been recovered.

The explosion last night aboard the 33,750-ton tanker was followed by a fire, but this was brought under control early today.

None Survive Caracas Crash

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A Pan American 707 jet exploded over the Caribbean Sea and plunged into the water last night 16 miles from Venezuela's international airport north of Caracas.

Forty-two passengers and a crew of nine, including a trainee stewardess were reported aboard. A search for survivors was continuing, but none was reported.

★ ★ ★

Officials said it was possible not all the bodies would be recovered.

Seven bodies were reported recovered before dawn.

21 U.S. ADDRESSES

A passenger list from Pan American in New York listed 21 persons from addresses in the United States, but a number of these had Latin names, and it was not known if they had been residing or visiting.

Another five passengers were listed from addresses in Canada, one was from Italy and one passenger was believed to be from Ireland. The airline listed the other 14 passengers from Venezuela.

The pilot was Capt. Sidney E. Stillwaugh, 50, of West Islip, N. Y.

Among wreckage recovered from the shark-infested water were interior cabin fittings and some life rafts that inflate automatically upon contact with water.

MINUTE BEFORE LANDING

The big jet was ending a nonstop flight from New York to Caracas. The airport control tower said it lost contact after the plane reported its approach one minute before it was due to land at 10 p.m. (9 p.m. EST)

★ ★ ★

"I heard a strong noise and then I saw a red ball fall towards the sea," said a guard at the La Guaira Naval Base, 12 miles north of Caracas.

★ ★ ★

Other residents reported seeing the explosion. Wreckage was reported scattered over a wide area.

Radio Aeropuerto, a commercial station at the airport, said the plane reported it was in trouble before its radio went dead, but an airline spokesman said the pilot radioed the airport only "no maintenance," a routine transmission indicating no service would be required on the ground.

★ ★ ★

Among the passengers was Mrs. Olga Antonetti de Dugart, who had been "Miss Venezuela" in 1962. A resident of New York, she and her 4-year-old daughter were en route to spend Christmas with relatives.

A prominent Venezuelan advertising executive, Luis Beltran Gonzalez was also on the plane returning from a business trip to New York.

Chilly Weekend in Store for Area

It looks like Pontiac area residents will have a chilly weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau offers the following official day-by-day forecast:

TODAY — Turning colder, with snow flurries, possibly beginning this afternoon. Rather windy. High 47 to 52.

TONIGHT — Mostly cloudy and much colder with a chance of snow flurries. Low 23 to 28.

★ ★ ★

TOMORROW — Cloudy and much colder with a chance of snow flurries. High 28 to 32.

SUNDAY — Partly cloudy and a little warmer.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent: 80 today, 60 tonight and tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Forty-one was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. After recording 46 at 8:30 a.m. the mercury dipped to near 34 at 2 p.m.

Micki King Thanks Her Home Town

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is an open letter from Air Force Lt. Micki King to the citizens of Pontiac, extending her gratitude for the encouragement and support she received during and after her competition in the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City. Miss King of Pontiac was on her way to a gold medal when on the ninth dive of the 3-meter event she hit the board and broke her arm.)

LT. MICKI KING

To the Citizens of Pontiac:

It has been over a month now since I returned from Mexico City and the Olympic Games. During this time I've been residing in Ann Arbor where I work on the University of Michigan campus with the Air Force ROTC unit. When I came home to Pontiac for Thanksgiving, two wonderful things happened, both of which touched me very deeply.

The first was a gift I received from Mr. Bruce Norvell, a dear friend from my Pontiac Central days. Bruce was the promoter of the good-luck telegram which was signed by hundreds of Pontiac citizens and sent to me in the Olympic Village.

On behalf of those who contributed to the telegram, Bruce and his wife, Diane, presented me with a beautiful silver tea set. This he purchased with the money collected over and above the cost of the telegram.

The telegram alone left me speechless. It arrived in the village at noon between the preliminary sessions of the first day of my event. I took all 15 feet of it to the dining hall and the telegram instantly became the talk of the village. With a vote of confidence like this backing from home, I couldn't miss. The first day's competition ended with me in the lead.

SUPPORT FELT

My heart broke, too, when I broke my arm the following evening. All of Pontiac was cheering and hoping and I knew it. And I could also feel the crowd at the Olympic pool pull for me on each dive.

Everything was going my way, when suddenly I found myself being administered first aid on the pool deck. During the flight of my ninth dive (a reverse 1½ somersault layout) I put my arms overhead a split-second too early in preparing for my entry into the water. I was above the level of the board when I began reaching for the water. The ex-

Downtown Plan Reality 'Within Our Grasp'

The long-awaited redevelopment of downtown Pontiac is nearer to becoming a reality than ever before, the Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) was told last night.

Jack Simon, chairman of the PAPC's Downtown Task Force, reporting on a downtown feasibility study, said "It appears right now that it is within our grasp."

* * *

His enthusiasm was based on meetings this week between James Bates, city urban renewal director, and officials of the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) agency in Chicago.

Bates, who only briefly reviewed the meeting for PAPC members since he is first to make a detailed report to the City Commission, said the HUD officials had to admit that they had never seen a plan so comprehensive or of the magnitude presented by the city.

COST OF $110 MILLION

The redevelopment plan, which Simon referred to as costing $110 million, was designed by C. Don Davidson of Pontiac, chief designer for Bruno Leon & Associates, Detroit, and financial consultant Marvin Skelton of Waterford Township.

* * *

Simon said today that the developers have said that they will have no problem with financing the plan.

"They say that the money is the least of their worries at this time," said Simon, "and that all they need is the green light from the City Commission and HUD."

Simon said that at the next meeting of the PAPC in January, the PAPC will be asked to make a recommendation to the City Commission to endorse the downtown concept.

Between now and then, he said, Aaron Blumberg, a market analyst from Detroit, will have reviewed all of the surveys and reports made on downtown Pontiac, and submitted a capsule report to the task force.

* * *

"HUD seems ready to move," said Simon. "Now all we need is the City Commission to move.

'HARD TO BELIEVE'

"This could be a phenomenal thing," added Simon. "It's almost hard to believe that this could happen to Pontiac."

* * *

Bates said that the implications are so great that it is beyond the scope of the regional HUD office and that some decision may have to be made in Washington.

* * *

"Now that Gov. Romney, our neighbor (Romney resides in Bloomfield Hills) has been named to head HUD, it is suggested that we talk to him," said Bates.

Planning Council to Study Own Role

education dominate this group," said Ingraham in proposing that a five-man committee study the problem.

Those appointed to review the situation were Robert Jackson representing the City Commission, Dr. Robert Turpin of the board of education, William Morgan, Hubert Price Jr. and Ingraham, all PAPC members.

* * *

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., PAPC chairman, requested that they attempt to return with a report at the next meeting of the PAPC Jan. 9 in the offices of the board of education.

The restructuring issue was first raised by James Dyer during a lengthy discussion on the role the PAPC played regarding the site of the planned super high school.

ENDORSEMENT REJECTED

The school board rejected the endorsement of the PAPC that the school be built on a central location bordering between the black and white community.

Dyer was particularly irked that the school board did not delay its decision until after the City Commission decided if it would take part in the federal Neighborhood Development Program, which is subsequently approved. The program would have provided funds for redeveloping the area of the central school site.

* * *

Monroe Osmun, school board president, and the one who cast the deciding vote on the school site, explained that it was economics that he considered in making his selection.

"I felt at least it would be four or five years (on the central school site) and it would cost $2.5 to $5 million and I didn't know where we would get it," Osmun said.

NUMEROUS CRITICS

David Doherty, PAPC director, told members that he has received numerous telephone calls and letters criticizing the PAPC and its actions.

He emphasized that it was the school board that first brought the school site to the attention of the PAPC. "at no time did the PAPC go out to bring in the school issue," he said.

* * *

Mayor Taylor urged that the PAPC continue to move forward in other areas and not be stymied by "one issue that was not agreeable to everyone."

Chevy Picks Camaro, Nova Design Exec

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Lloyd E. Reus has been appointed chief design engineer for the Camaro and Chevy Nova, according to an announcement by A. C. Mair, director of engineering of Chevrolet Motor Division.

Reus of 2719 Courville, has served as staff engineer for administration since July.

* * *

He joined the engineering staff at General Motors Corp. in 1959 as an experimental engineer. In 1960 Reus joined the Chevrolet engineering department as a test engineer for transmission development at the GM proving ground at Milford.

In 1966, he was promoted to assistant staff engineer on axles and transmissions.

BIRMINGHAM — Lodge No. 44, F&AM, will install new officers for the coming year tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Birmingham Masonic Temple, 357 Woodward.

The managing partners of the Rogers Investment Co. are Lee E. Morrison and Gerald H. Daugherty. Both men are vice presidents in the commercial banking division of COMAC Co., a managment consulting firm.

City Man Held in Fatal Shooting

A Pontiac man is being held in Oakland County Jail today on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of a Detroit man who reportedly tried to hold him up last night, police said.

Elmer Yarborough, 46, of 328 Crystal Lake is accused of shooting a man identified as Robert McGowan, 20, of Detroit. Yarborough told police the victim entered his home on the pretense of using the telephone and then attempted to hold him up at gunpoint.

* * *

McGowan complained that his car ran out of gas and said he wanted to use the phone, according to Yarborough. Once in the door, McGowan reportedly pulled a 38-caliber snub-nose revolver.

Yarborough told police he grabbed the gunman and a struggle ensued, during which the gun discharged once.

The pair reportedly wrestled into the kitchen where Yarborough grabbed his own revolved from a table and shot McGowan three times.

McGowan was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Fire Hits College Hall

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — A multialarm blaze heavily damaged Old Founder's Hall today at Whittier College from which President-elect Nixon was graduated in 1934. There were no reports of injuries.

Fire officials said the cause and damage estimates were not immediately determined.

U.S., Viets Set New Talks Offer

PARIS (AP) — High-ranking U.S. and South Vietnamese diplomats met again as they readied a new offer to the Communists today aimed at ending the stalemate holding up the expanded Vietnam peace conference

There was no advance indication that the Communists would agree to the latest allied plan. The allies were reported proposing a two-table arrangement for the conference, hewing to their concept of the parley as being two-sided between them and their opponents.

* * *

A North Vietnamese delegation spokesman stood fast on Hanoi's position. He said the table layout must reflect the Communist view of the meeting as four-sided, with full status for the Vietcongs' National Liberation Front.

Informants said the deputy chief U.S. negotiator, Cyrus R. Vance, arranged to present the new allied offer to his North Vietnamese counterpart, Col. Ha Van Lau, late in the day.

Earlier, sources said Vance and U.S. delegate Philip CM. Habib paid a call on South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky. The U.S. delegation head, W. Averell Harriman, worked on the plan with Ky Thursday.

tra length I added to my body by putting my arms overhead, along with my position above the board, combined to cause the accident.

* * *

I finished the meet in fourth place; no medal, no glory — only a broken arm for a souvenir. What was I to say to my family, my friends, my city, all of whom supported me to the utmost? I led them into thinking through nine dives that they were backing the champion: giving them only an "honorable mention" instead.

Yet when I returned home, I received the welcome of a champion. You — the citizens of Pontiac — still claimed me as "yours" and even presented me with an elegant gift.

EXPECTATIONS EXCEEDED

I expected your condolences, but received your congratulations. I expected your disappointment but saw only your pride. I didn't feel sorry for myself and I didn't want anyone else to. People seemed to understand this. My own disappointment was overshadowed because I was proud; proud to be a part of the Olympic Games, proud to be there as an American.

I realized just how proud I was again when I received my second gift. It was a beautiful inscribed desk set, given to me by the Pontiac Swim Club. The inscription reads "To Pontiac's Champion for Her Determination — Courage — Example." The words are as beautiful as the award itself. I hope I can live up to them always.

Thank you seems too small a phrase to show my appreciation for the efforts of my Olympic endeavor. I mean it sincerely nevertheless and send this message with my warmest wishes to each of you. Thank you — Pontiac.

Hospitals Act in Flu Threat

All Pontiac-area hospitals have changed their policy on visitors to protect against the Hong Kong flu which seems to be filtering into the area.

Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital decided today to shut off visiting hours, except for extremely serious patients or in special cases, to protect patients from the flu. Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital shut off visiting hours yesterday.

* * *

Crittenton Hospital in Avon Township will allow only members of the immediate family to visit patients, starting today. But a hospital spokesman said these visits are even being discouraged.

ABSENTEEISM UP

Absenteeism in Pontiac's schools, and industry indicates the Hong Kong flue has arrived.

Clark Balch, supervisor of child accounting for the Pontiac school system, reported today that a meeting earlier this week of school principals showed that absenteeism due to the Hong Kong flu is generally up from a normal of 6 per cent to as much as 12 per cent.

A spot check of Pontiac schools showed absenteeism high in many areas but still normal in some. Faculty absenteeism is also above normal in some schools.

* * *

Only one school, Alcott Elementary School, reported absentee rates extremely high, 28 per cent above normal, but it was felt that some of the absences were due to mumps.

ABOVE-NORMAL RATE

Waterford Township School System reported an above-normal absenteeism in schools, and said that today the absenteeism among teachers was so high, school officials were unable to get enough substitutes to fill all of the vacancies. Substitutes also have Hong Kong flu. School principals are filling in today.

County Dems Reelect Chief

George Googasian, Oakland County Democratic chairman since 1964, was named to serve a third two-year term last night.

* * *

A Pontiac attorney, Googasian was reelected by party's executive committee, meeting in the supervisors' auditorium at the county courthouse. His selection was unanimous.

In addition to choosing officers, the committee also adopted a resolution opposing plans by the Defense Department to locate an antiballistic missile site in either Avon Township, Pontiac Township or Troy.

The resolution points to the possibility of an accident and the consequences to the metropolitan Detroit area.

3 VICE CHAIRMEN

Other officers winning two-year terms were Mrs. Morris Weiss of Oak Park, Harold Julian of Farmington and Waymond Guthrie of Pontiac, all vice chairmen.

Mrs. Weiss has served as recording secretary of the committee. Julian was reelected to office.

* * *

Replaced as vice chairmen were Mrs. Frances Clark of Bloomfield Township and Willis Brewer of Sylvan Lake. Neither sought reelection.

Also elected were Mrs. Frank Craig of Bloomfield Township, recording secretary; Aldo Vagnozzi of Farmington, corresponding secretary; and William Ralls of Birmingham, treasurer. Vagnozzi had been treasurer.

Girl, 14, Stabbed to Death, Autopsy Finds

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — An autopsy performed Thursday on 14-year-old Nancy Fleece has determined she was stabbed to death.

Battle Creek Police Chief Clifford Barney offered no clue to the identity of the murderer.

The girl was discovered earlier in the day after she had been missing for 11 days.

Chief Barney said the body, found southeast of Battle Creek, could easily be seen from a distance, and no attempt had been made to conceal it.

A search party combed the area for three days before the body was found about five feet from the edge of a river.

★ ★ ★

Nancy had not been seen since someone had reported seeing her turning a corner after pausing to talk to a motorist in a blue car. The body was found six miles away from where she had been seen.

★ ★ ★

Russell Clayton Dodge, 24, of Ypsilanti was held in Washtenaw County jail in Ann Arbor Thursday, charged with trying to extort at least $5,000 from Nancy's father, claiming he knew where she was. Dodge stood mute when arraigned.

State Averaged 24 Violent Crimes an Hour in 1967

LANSING (AP) — Michigan averaged 24 violent crimes per hour during 1967 for an annual total of 210,871, just-released State Police statistics show.

★ ★ ★

The total represented a 25 per cent increase over the previous year and produced a 22 per cent increase in the per capita crime rate, since the number of crimes grew much more than the state's population.

★ ★ ★

Persons aged from 10 to 16, who make up less than 15 per cent of the population, accounted for 47.7 per cent of the arrests, the police report showed.

Since 1962, it added, more than three-quarters of the persons arrested for major offenses have been under 22 years of age.

★ ★ ★

The crime report — which counts homicide, rape, aggravated assault, robbery, auto theft, burglary and felonious larceny — showed the rate of commission of those crimes has nearly doubled since 1963.

New 'Police' Put Leash on Teen Parties

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Four new "patrolmen" have been added to the township police force, and have already proved their worth in curbing wild teen-age partying.

The new members of the force are German shepherd police dogs —Hans, Nicki, Sam and Babe— and while they can handle regular duties, too, they excel at helping police round up errant teens who throw wild parties in vacant buildings and open fields, according to Police Chief Robert Snell.

Sam, who accompanies Patrolman Al Daisley, helped round up some teens recently in a large three-story building that once housed the swimming pool of a large estate. Before getting the dogs, the youths used to scatter in all directions and then return for more partying when police left.

But the recent raid at the building was a completely different story.

THEY FROZE

"We walked to the top of the stairs," recalls Daisley. "I announced that I had a dog with me, and they froze.

"One girl kind of tested Sam by jumping at him and he lunged right back at her. She almost collapsed, and we marched them all right to the station without any trouble," he said.

* * *

Snell said the dogs are not used to threaten. But, he said, "no one can put a real value on their psychological effect."

Liquid Disposal Incinerator In Operation

Incinerator Vibration Test Set

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Spurred by complaints from residents, the township zoning board of appeals has asked for vibration tests to be made in the area surrounding the special incinerator of Liquid Disposal Inc.

A public hearing on renewal of the company's license to operate the incinerator, billed as a weapon against pollution, has been recessed until Jan. 13 to allow time for the tests and other investigation.

Attorney Richard Brightheart and Charles Meyers, president of Liquid Disposal, represented the company at the recent board hearing.

The pair conceded that some problems have been encountered in the operation of the incinerator, the largest of its kind in the world at the time of installation.

1,200 GALLONS A DAY

The "alumina core" retort, produced by Garver-Davis Pollution Control Systems Inc. of Cleveland, can dispose of 1,200 gallons of liquid industrial wastes in a day.

According to Meyers, any combination of waste from pure water to pure hydrocarbons can be burned in the retort — the more water, the slower the process and the more gas used. The end products are carbon dioxide and water vapor.

* * *

Previously, the wastes — including such materials as paint thinner, paint sludges, contaminated and dirty industrial oils, and other unusable by-products of the paint and petroleum industries — were dumped in industrial land-fills or other areas.

Recently, however, nearby residents have complained of smoke and loud noise vibrations like sonic booms.

'PLASTER CRACKS'

Among those registering objections was Shelby DPW chief George Crombe. Crombe, who lives at 47791 Greenview, near the incinerator, told the board in a letter that vibrations have caused plaster in his house to crack.

Brightheart and Meyers attributed the vibrations to the firing of the incinerator and uneven burning of the liquids. They added that the retort is currently only used about 15 per cent of the time, rather than on a more efficient 24-hour basis.

* * *

The smoke, they explained, is almost entirely water vapor, which does not pollute the atmosphere.

Board members Harvey Hansen and Roy Rogensues indicated they felt the question deserved further investigation, and Hansen said tests of at least a week's duration should be made to determine the extent of the vibrations.

The actual tests will have to be scheduled by the township board of trustees.

New High School Proposed by Brandon Superintendent

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — A new high school may be in the offing for this school district.

The board of education and a citizens' advisory committee are studying the problem posed by the district's rapid growth, according to Schools Supt. Clyde C. Fischer.

The district, covering 54 square miles, is one of the largest in area in the county, Fischer said, and enrollment is presently growing at the rate of 5 per cent annually.

So far, he added, the increase has been primarily in secondary school, but any new development in the area — such as apartments or a subdivision — could put a serious strain on facilities.

NEW SUGGESTION

The citizens' committee originally proposed construction of a middle school, which would serve grades five-eight. However, Fischer, citing recent studies of projected enrollment, has suggested retaining the present high school as a middle school for grades six-eight and building a new high school.

The superintendent said he thought it might be possible to finance construction of the high school without an additional bond issue or tax levy.

In other business, the board approved a policy on student absences from school.

A parent allowing a student to be absent from school for reasons other than illness, injury or emergency will assume responsibility for the student's progress. Supplemental work may be assigned by teachers to help the student catch up.

Also a note from a parent explaining cause of absence must be brought to school by a student who does not attend classes.

The board also received from Fischer the results of a study breaking down the district's teaching staff by sex, age, professional training, geographical background, teaching experience and other similar factors.

The study, the superintendent explained, may be used to help coordinate teacher recruitment activities. "We want to have a staff with as broad a background, geographically and experience-wise, as possible," Fischer commented.

Firm Tells Dividend

BIRMINGHAM — Kuhlman Corp. headquartered here, has announced a regular quarterly cash dividend of 10 cents a share on the company's common stock. The board of directors also announced an extra cash dividend of 10 cents, both dividends payable Jan. 10, 1969, to stockholders of record Dec. 27.

Hazel Park Councilman Seen as Likely Supervisors' Head

By JEAN SAILE

News Analysis

If Philip O. Mastin, 38-year-old Hazel Park city councilman, can control eight Democratic votes and maintain party discipline, it appears he has an excellent chance of becoming the Oakland County Board of Supervisors' new chairman.

Mastin, caucus leader for the Democrats on the board, says he has avoided any discussion regarding the chairmanship.

"Discussion of the leadership at this time is premature," Mastin said. "Once we start that kind of discussion, we can't proceed with committee and by-law formation."

The caucus so far has directed its efforts to condensing the present 28 committees on the board to a more manageable 12.

It also has discussed the liberalizing of bylaws, whereby representatives of the audience may speak during sessions and members may have more time to discuss an issue under consideration.

Mastin's party, which he serves as Oakland County deputy chairman, won a 15-to-12 majority on the new board in last month's electoin.

It was the first time in county history that board power here fell to the Democrats. Republicans are quick to point out, however, that a tally of the total votes showed more Republican than Democratic ballots cast.

Delos Hamlin, at 64 a 25-year member of the board who has served the last 13 as its chairman, fully expects to return to ordinary member status on Jan. 1.

"I never sought the chairmanship," said Hamlin, "and I don't intend to seek it now."

Meanwhile, Mastin has competition within his own party. William L. Mainland of Milford and Charles B. Edwards Jr. of Madison Heights have reportedly announced their interest in seeking the chairmanship.

Mainland is chairman of the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). He is considered a moderate. Edwards has a long history of activity in the Democratic party.

Former State Sen. Carl O'Brien of Pontiac is considered by many to be in the running for a top post. Reportedly not seeking the chairmanship, O'Brien is a likely candidate for vice chairman because of his legislative experience.

Of the new supervisors elected to the 87-man board, 12 have previous experience. The number includes Robert Patnales, a Royal Oak Republican. Patnales is not a present member of the board but has previously served on it.

Seven of the returning supervisors are Democrats and four are Republicans.

The control of eight Democrats would give Mastin control of the party caucus, which would put forth the Democratic nominee for chairman. If party discipline is maintained, the Democrats would then vote for that nominee and, with their majority on the board, determine the new chairman.

The election of chairman for the new board is not expected before Jan. 20, the likely date of the new board's first meeting.

Army Vows Hearing on Antimissile Site

Last night the Oakland County Democratic executive committee passed a resolution stating its formal opposition to locating the proposed misile sites anywhere within the county or within the Detroit metropolitan area.

Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-18th District, announced today that the Army will schedule a public hearing on the proposed Pontiac-area antiballistic missile site after a tentative site is selected.

* * *

Broomfield said the Army has promised a hearing before the House Armed Services Committee takes final action on the site to be recommended by the Army.

* * *

Preliminary study for a Sentinel missile site is now under way. A tentative selection is to be made by Jan. 1. The hearing will then be scheduled in the affected area, according to Broomfield.

A closed "classified" briefing is to be held within the next week for congressmen, Broomfield said. The Royal Oak Republican had wired the Army Wednesday requesting the hearing.

A hearing must be held on the site choice with local government officials, according to law, said Broomfield.

Meantime, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., was scheduled to talk on the ABM site controversy at a news conference this afternoon in Detroit.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., said yesterday that the Army's plan to locate missiles in area suburbs represents a change in plans originally approved by Congress.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is currently studying potential ABM sites in Avon Township, Troy and Pontiac Township. The Army also seems to be interested in a parcel of land in Orion Township.

"Congress authortzed this program based on the Defense Department's statement that the missiles would be located away from population centers," Conyers said after a meeting with area congressmen to discuss the matter.

"Apparently the plans have been changed and they are now going to be located near the cities," he said. "If there are some new factors that require that these missiles be placed near population centers, then, at the very least, Congress should take another look at this matter.

Farming Families Can Obtain Tax Data at Meeting

Farm families concerned with obtaining up-to-date information for their 1968 federal income tax returns can obtain such data at a meeting Tuesday, announces Bill Muller, Oakland County Agricultural Agent.

An open meeting for all Oakland County farmers will be held at the Cooperative Extension Service Office, 155 N. Saginaw in downtown Pontiac beginning at 1 p.m.

Norman Bless, Michigan State University District farm management agent, will discuss such items as depreciation schedules, workman's compensation, investment credit, income averaging, captial gains and losses, various schedules appearing in the 1968 income tax package, and tax filing dates for farmers.

Dog Wakes Man as Fire Guts Home

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A Pekingese dog saved Thomas J. Lamaster's life yesterday. As fire swept Lamaster's home at 1779 Post, the dog jumped up on the bed and woke his sleeping master.

The family claims the dog has never before had the strength to jump up on the bed.

* * *

The rented house was gutted by the blaze. Mrs. Lamaster and her daughter were away at the time.

The fire, reported at 5:15 p.m. was caused by a short in the electrical wiring running in a wall in the closet adjacent to the vestible, according to the West Bloomfield Township fire chief Boris Nicoloff.

Huron Valley Eying School Park Plan

The school park concept is being investigated by the Huron Valley Board of Education as a possible way to meet rising student enrollments with a minimum of money.

The novel park plan calls for a high school-junior high school and one or more elementary schools on the same 135-acre site.

* * *

Each school would be separate, but all would share some of the so-called expensive facilities which are not directly concerned with classroom instruction, explained district Supt. Theodore E. Hagadone.

Hagadone said that cost reductions could come from having one central heating plant instead of three, one kitchen with separate eating facilities for elementary, junior and senior high—this would require less staff—and one sewage system.

CHEAPER, EASIER TO MAINTAIN

Transportation to one site is cheaper, as is a single electrical system and overall maintenance. One large partitioned gym area would be cheaper and easier to maintain.

Educationally there would also be several advantages, added Hagadone. There could be one large auditorium for all community uses instead of several small ones.

* * *

Further, the specialized areas of a high school such as science and language labs, special education, art studies, home economics and vocational equipment would be available to a wider range of students and could be used on a full-time basis, thus justifying the costs.

Comprehensive evening courses for adults would also utilize these facilities.

The board has authorized Richard Prince and Associates Inc., architects, to prepare a report on the merits of the school park plan. The study will also include opinions on the conventional one-story buildings and on two-story buildings.

* * *

The board will use the report in deciding which kinds of buildings to construct to help prepare for the expected 7,600 students in the 1971-72 school year.

Prince has said, "We recommend the construction of an educational park on an economic basis."

He explained that monetary savings are possible in the facilities because the number of students served permits efficient utilization and a reduction in maintenance costs and insurance rates.

PITTSBURGH COMPLEX

Such a complex is currently being built in Pittsburgh. That plan calls for six high-rise high schools housing 1,000 students each.

The term, educational park, is used because the facilities will be used in a park setting such as Kensington and the facilities would be available for public use, according to the superintendent.

* * *

Hagadone pointed out that the district will be pressed for junior and senior high facilities by the end of the present building program.

There is room for 2,800 students in grades 7-12 now, but by next fall there will be 2,868 students enrolled. Within four years this number is expected to grow to 4,000 students.

* * *

In the last ctiizens committee report, the need for new junior and senior high school facilities was recognized.

IRS Switch Toughens Gun-Control Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has reversed an earlier interpretation of the 1968 Gun Control Act, putting strong new teeth into the controversial measure four days before it becomes law.

"This is going to disappoint a lot of these gun people" said a spokesman for the IRS which is charged with enforcing firearms control.

★ ★ ★

Over-all, the bill that was prompted by the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June and cleared Congress Oct. 10 bans the interstate mail order sales of all guns and ammunition.

It also bans over-the-counter sales to nonresidents of a state unless the states are adjacent and the law in each state "permits" such sales.

IRS WRONG

When the IRS issued proposed regulations embodying the law last month, it said the adjacent-state sales would be legal unless one or both states enacted laws specifically prohibiting them.

But Thursday the IRS said it had been wrong—that such sales would be permitted after the over-all bill takes effect Monday only when states pass laws permitting them.

The effect, said an IRS attorney, is to shut off at least temporarily all individual sales of firearms across state lines.

The section of the gun-control act that applies says a sale to a resident of a contiguous state is to be legal "if the purchaser's state of residence permits such a sale or delivery by law, . . . (and) the sale fully complies with the legal conditions in both contiguous states."

DODD OBJECTIONS

However, a Senate attorney who worked on the legislation when it was in House-Senate conference committee, said "What it means is that sales are permitted if lawful in each state. It doesn't say there is to be positive action."

★ ★ ★

The IRS said it reviewed its interpretation after objections by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., just before a public hearing on the proposed regulations Nov. 21.

A spokesman quoted Dodd one of the staunchest backers of strict gun controls, as saying he had commented at least once on the intent of the section during a Senate proceeding.

★ ★ ★

Asked whether it was usual for the IRS to revise its interpretation of a law worked out in conference committee when a single senator objected, an IRS spokesman said:

"We don't take the word of one person. But when we are pressed to pursue the law and a second look convinces us they are right, we'll change it."

GETS STICKY

"Our job is to interpret and implement the law, but we cannot go beyond it," said the spokesman.

"Often this gets very sticky," he added.

Can you spot the Volkswagen?

Lost among five of the world's great sports cars is one of the world's great Volkswagens.

The VW Karmann Ghia.

If you confuse it with a 170 mph sports machine, we wouldn't be surprised.

The racy lines are the work of a famous sports car designer, the Ghia studios of Turin, Italy.

And the bodywork is the handiwork of one of Europe's oldest custom coachmakers, Karmann of Osnabruck.

What makes the Karmann Ghia a Volkswagen is everything that makes it go. Independent 4-wheel suspension that takes curves like a racer. Surprisingly smooth 4-speed gear box. And an air-cooled engine that gets up to 28 mpg.

OCC Is Seeking Housing for 2

Oakland Community College is seeking housing for two students from Belize, formerly known as British Honduras.

As part of its cooperative effort with Michigan Partners of the Alliance, OCC will assume all instructional costs and will provide a complete orientation, counseling, testing and placement program prior to admission.

★ ★ ★

If housing can be obtained, the applicants will be selected from a group of five — three men and two women between ages 18 and 20. All are single.

Since OCC is a commuting institution with no on-campus resident facilities at its three campuses, the family accepting a student must be able to provide transportation to the campus.

★ ★ ★

If a family would like to offer housing and transportation for a Belize student for the coming academic year they may contact Charles Braun at the OCC office of research development.

Brazil will introduce coins made of stainless steel, because of the worldwide nickel shortage.

No Need for Solon's Proposed Laws

With the stated objectives of tightening recruitment screening for Michigan's police departments and meting out extra-stiff punishment for such members of them found guilty of unlawful acts, State Sen. GEORGE W. KUHN (R-W. Bloomfield Twp.) has indicated that he will introduce two bills in the next session of the Legislature.

While we have no quarrel with the Senator's desire to assure the highest caliber of police personnel for Michigan's law enforcement bodies, we think the proposed laws are unnecessary and likely to prove more detriment than benefit in achieving the goals sought.

In general, the police establishment has been increasingly hampered in playing its proper role by high court rulings restricting its procedural rights while liberalizing those of the criminal element. What is needed are not more laws affecting the guardians of the peace but a reinterpretation of the laws now shackling them in performance of duty.

As justification for his proposed laws, the legislator points to instances where candidates with criminal records have been accepted for employment by police departments, and to others where police officers have violated the laws they were sworn to enforce.

But, in realistic perspective, society has suffered little from culcability in either aspect of the tremendous undertaking of protecting public safety. Moreover, there are presently ample laws and police department regulations to deal effectively with such sinister matters as KUHN is concerned with.

★ ★ ★

No, let's not impugn the fine character of tens of thousands of conscientious, faithful policemen by putting a couple more superfluous laws on the books. Rather, let's pay these public servants tribute for the fine job they are doing in the face of obstacles imposed upon them, and support them in restoring the proud public image they once enjoyed.

Clinton Valley Council Marks 50 Years' Progress

During the week, the Clinton Valley Council Boy Scouts of America cut a 50-candle birthday cake.

Since it was established in 1918 as the Pontiac Council, changed in 1928 to the Oakland Area Council and in 1938 revamped to its present two-county (Oakland - Macomb) base, Clinton Valley's Scouting roster has grown to 11,500 boys and 3,700 volunteer adult leaders.

Needless to say, the Council's physical plant has grown apace, until its 115-acre Camp Agawam near Lake Orion has become a complex of 26 buildings affording complete administrative, service and camping facilities for year-round activities.

But with Agawam bursting at the seams to accommodate the increasing Scouting population of the area and faced with a projected enrollment of 16,000, the Council two years ago moved boldly to solve its space problem by acquiring a 2,284-acre tract near Clare. Named "Lost Lake Reservation," the purchase and development of the camp and recreation facility represents an investment of $550,000.

Scouting takes its place among other fine youth-development organizations in preparing the youngsters of America for their adult role of preserving the ideals of a strong, democratic nation while contributing to its culture.

The PRESS warmly salutes the Clinton Valley Council on its golden anniversary and congratulates the staff and volunteer leaders whose devoted service has made possible its significant growth.

Big Labor Alliances Rooted in Self Interest

JAMES RIDDLE HOFFA, though serving an eight-year term in Federal prison for jury tampering, happily accepts nomination to succeed himself as president of the 18,000-member Local 299 (Detroit) of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Five days of voting begin today. Few would bet against him in favor of his opponent, ANTHONY PROVENZINO.

In the enforced absence of HOFFA, acting President FRANK FITZSIMMONS of the whole Teamster network negotiated an agreement with the United Auto Workers union. The UAW-Teamster Alliance for Labor Action is to pursue joint goals in labor organization and bargaining and in political and social-welfare activities.

Thus the two largest unions in the United States are informally combined outside the AFL-CIO. The Teamster union was expelled from the federation in 1957 and the UAW formally disaffiliated last July 1.

★ ★ ★

Nonetheless, the Teamster-UAW amalgam and the AFL-CIO participated in "effective and meaningful cooperation during the recent election campaign." The Teamster-UAW combination is now proposing to the AFL-CIO a "universal no-raiding agreement."

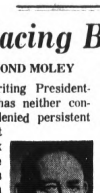
★ ★ ★

Thus, in the labor structure, as in many another, mutual interests are the cement of alliance.

Replacing Bliss Would Be a Mistake

By RAYMOND MOLEY

At this writing President-elect Nixon has neither confirmed nor denied persistent rumors that he will seek to replace Ray Bliss as Republican national chairman.



MOLEY

Such a change would be most unfortunate at a moment when a vigorous and united GOP is so essential to the reconstruction of the two-party system.

The rumors include the suggestion that the national chairman should be an evangelist rather than a manager.

★ ★ ★

In electing Bliss in the spring of 1965, the National Committee made a very important break from past traditions in the party. It looked for a permanent, full-time chairman, solely and distinctly dedicated to party management and to working with state and local parties in building GOP membership, party spirit and national influence.

Bliss had made a remarkable record in Ohio. After a crushing party defeat in 1958, which was not his fault, he put new life into the party which not only gave Richard Nixon his largest state majority in 1960 but, by 1964, a Republican governor, most of the congressional seats and control of the Legislature.

SAME SUCCESS

Since 1965 he has achieved the same brilliant success nationally.

As a recognition of his efforts, and especially for the efficient manner in which the Republican convention was managed this year, the National Committee at its meeting in Miami Beach reelected him chairman by a unanimous vote.

★ ★ ★

It always has been assumed that this action of the National Committee substantially guaranteed the chairman a four-year term.

But to make a change with the inauguration of a new president, in this important office which has been so efficiently managed, will no doubt have serious consequences within the party itself.

No one else in sight has a record which can match that of Bliss, and he is highly respected by party workers everywhere.

This, it is to be hoped, will influence President-elect Nixon to discourage and deny all reports of changing managers in the Republican party.

David Lawrence Says:

Nixon Unveiling Is Remarkable

WASHINGTON — No president has heretofore addressed as many people prior to his inauguration as President-elect Nixon did on Wednesday night over the nationwide television networks and major radio stations.

LAWRENCE

It was an extraordinary event, not only because Nixon introduced the 12 members of his Cabinet but because he explained the reasons and purpose which motivated him in making the appointments.

★ ★ ★

The president-elect spoke extemporaneously — without any notes or memoranda in front of him.

He made one small mistake when he introduced the new secretary of commerce, and didn't mention the name of Maurice Stans, but he made up for it later in the speech.

Nixon was careful to speak graciously about the outgoing secretary of state and others in the Johnson administration.

★ ★ ★

It is being pointed out that Nixon has not included in his Cabinet a Negro or a woman or a Democrat. But the president-elect did try unsuccessfully to get Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to take the position of secretary of defense, and it is understood that a Cabinet post was offered to Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., a Negro.

Members of Congress are, generally speaking, inclined to go along with a new administration at the start.

GOOD WORD

Many Democrats have already spoken favorably about the selections for the Nixon Cabinet. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, says he feels sure that the new Secretary of State, William P. Rogers, has "the common sense and good judgment" to serve the country well.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader of the Senate, also lauds Rogers.

The several weeks prior to an inauguration and the first few months of a new president's terms are customarily described by persons in the political world as the "honeymoon" period.

When the "honeymoon" does come to an end, it is usually over some major issue, and the parties begin to divide either along traditional lines or with an opposition argument based on what opponents believe will meet with popular support.

Bob Considine Says:

Apollo 8 Vehicle Makes Long Trip to Launch Site

NEW YORK — The Apollo 8 vehicle needed five and a half hours to make the trip from the colossal Vehicle Assembly Building to the launch pad — whence it will spring toward the moon a week from now.

CONSIDINE

The distance between the assembly place and the pad is only three and one half miles. On the day of the big move Apollo 8 and its attached gear weighed 12.3-million pounds. The crawler on which it rode weighs 6 million pounds. It has a total of 30 motors, conventional and diesel, and develops about 6,000 horsepower.

★ ★ ★

The best speed at which these monstrous space vehicles can be moved along the ground after assembly is .75 m.p.h. At .8 m.p.h. there is ominous vibration and a tendency for the towering structure to tip.

Aboard its crawler, the top of Apollo's escape tower stood 451 feet above the ground. It was akin to moving a 45-story skyscraper to a new location, on rollers, without having it topple.

DANGEROUS TURN

At the end of Apollo 8's trip to its rendezvous with history, the crawler had to negotiate 1,200 feet of 5 per cent grade.

The floor level of the crawler had to compensate for this dangerous "hill," and did. Biggest danger before that was to clear a turn coming out of the assembly building (which is the largest single room in history.) The turn took 25 minutes.

★ ★ ★

All of which is a prelude to man's swiftest voyage. After a circuit or two in earth orbits, at 17,500 m.p.h., Apollo 8's crew will step on whatever it is that substitutes for the gas and up the speed to 25,000.

This will break the grip of the earth's gravity and start it on its way to the moon — which it hopes to circle a number of times on Christmas day. As it reenters the earth's atmosphere it will be tooling along again at 25,000.

Braking itself in time, as it glows through the thick atmosphere like a flaming meteor headed for the blacked-out Pacific, Apollo's heat shield will glow with about 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit. It will not have much space in which to slow down to a point where it can let out its parachutes.

The space has been compared, harrowingly enough, to ramming an ice pick into an apple with all one's might and stopping the pick before it completely punctures the skin of the apple!

It's an adventure that will bring a blanch of fright to the bravest Walter Mittys in the land.

Voice of the People:

'Let's Voice Our Support of Firm Law and Order'

It's time for the well-adjusted majority of our Nation's citizenry to rise in the defense of our law enforcement officers. Too much has been said on the side of the so-called "innocent" demonstrator. The recent TV reshowing of the Chicago Convention disturbances seemed to support the charge of police riot. This is highly unjustified. Although there are probably a few policemen all too ready to exercise their weapons, I am certain that many of those unkempt, demonstrating misfits got exactly what they were looking for — a rumble.

★ ★ ★

Unless the day comes soon when the concerned citizens raise their voices in support of firm law and order, this Country is destined for chaotic destruction.

★ ★ ★

What law, written or unwritten, gives minority groups of students the right to flagrantly flaunt their power by violently demonstrating against the authority of their schools and community? Property owners are heavily taxed to support these schools so that the privilege of learning can be extended to all who want it. There are due processes by which to change the governing laws of the majority, and if those dissident few who persist in violence to further their beliefs cannot agree with these processes, then expel them. I am fed up with spending my tax dollar to support the mutinous student.

'Campaign to End Throwaway Containers'

I note with interest Mr. Barber's comments regarding throw-away bottles. His point is well taken. It is only a matter of time until we run out of places to put our refuse. Even now we in Waterford Township have no dump and must use Pontiac's dump. It is filling up fast. It is high time for the press and the people to start clamoring for an end to the throw-away container program fostered by the beer and pop companies. We must go back to return container and place a higher return price on the container so that public salvage will pick up the litter along our highway. This would relieve our tax burden instead of increasing it as the throw-away program has done. Let's write our Congressmen and Legislators on this important subject.

Question and Answer

How and why can Friend of the Court, Mr. Homer Gerue, be the judge of a court order from Frederick Ziem, as happened when I was supposed to appear before Judge Ziem? Mr. Gerue held his own little court, and I didn't get to see the Judge.

VODRA L. BRIDGES

REPLY

We called Judge Ziem's office. They checked the case and referred us to Mr. Gerue, who said by statute Friend of the Court is authorized to act as referee for judges. At Judge Ziem's request, Mr. Gerue acts in this capacity in all contempt citation cases. However, since you're not satisfied with the arrangement, the case will be scheduled as an adjourned show cause case and you will be heard by the court. A court order will be sent telling time and date.

Tune Changed

Philadelphia (Pa.) Inquirer

Perhaps it was inevitable; perhaps the teeny-boppers soon will have ceased trusting anybody over 20 instead of 30. Joan Baez, the sweet folk-singer of the erstwhile Far Left, has had a haircut and sounds almost conservative.

Except about war. She still doesn't like that — and has plenty of company, not only from convicted draft-evaders like her husband — and considers resistance to the minions of General Hershey the "only 'in' thing" left.

★ ★ ★

She says she's not looking for a utopian non-violent society any more, leaving room at least for healthy barroom brawls. She finds college revolts "downright silly and irrelevant," which is what a lot of people think, especially, just now, at San Francisco State, Colorado State University and the University of Connecticut, for example.

★ ★ ★

And she finds it "patronizing" of white "liberals" to "swing along" with the Black Panther Party, which has demonstrated nothing but a minor capacity for destructive wrong-headedness.

But the new haircut (close-cropped) and the modest and normal garb (blue blouse, gray skirt) are not, she says, to be taken as politically significant.

★ ★ ★

It is possible, no doubt, that the guitar and the buckskins could come out again in a trice, and the long, flowing locks reappear over a somewhat longer period.

Nevertheless, the tune has changed, or is in the process of changing, and nobody sings quite the same at 27 as at 20.

Time has a way of catching up with us all, something the dedicated hippies still have to learn.

Cruelest Tax

Indianapolis Star

Inflation has correctly been called the cruelest tax because it affects most the poor and elderly who must live on fixed income, savings, pensions or annuities.

But inflation strikes equally hard at everyone. How much so since January, 1965, the beginning of the present administration, makes interesting comparisons.

Your dollar of January 1965, is now worth less than 90 cents.

Your $10 bill of January 1965 is now worth $8.96.

A $100 net paycheck of January 1965 is now worth $89.63.

A $500 savings account withdrawn in January 1965, would buy only $448.15 today.

A $10,000 life insurance policy, payable in January 1965 would be worth only $8,962.90.

An annual retirement income of $2,500 a year in January 1965 would now be worth only $2,240.73 a year.

The difference between January 1965 and today is nearly 11.6 per cent.

That's inflation! That's the cruelest tax!

Praise Decision of Board of Education

The Board of Education is to be congratulated for keeping faith with the voters in spite of pressures to do otherwise. Printed materials handed out at meetings to promote the mill-age and issuance of bonds for school construction needs stated "a school site on State Hospital property and property in the vicinity of Wisner Stadium currently owned by the school district has been chosen for the educational park site." Another quote states "allocated for (1) new Pontiac Central High School—$18,700,000 (an educational park—4,500 students on State Hospital Grounds.)" These quotes were used by the PTA and others to convince reluctant citizens to vote yes for the proposals.

Where do the parties promoting the Bagley-Orchard Lake area expect to get the additional $4-$5 million millage? Where would the displaced citizens be housed? How many Pontiac Area Planning Council members live in Pontiac? How many have school-age children? Are these children in private or public schools? Economic feasibility and educational needs now support the Board of Education decision.

LUCILLE GOINES

I am a Pontiac taxpayer interested in schools and civic affairs. I don't understand how the new high school can honestly be built any place but on property near Pontiac State Hospital. We were shown drawings of the new building, just how it fitted on the land, etc. We were told it did not matter where you lived as all students' names were put into a computer and it determined which school the student attended. This is the information voters voted on. The school board had to vote for what the voters voted on.

'Believe People in Area Are Willing to Help'

In reply to Mrs. Stover's letter which told about her daughter being refused use of an Avon Township resident's telephone on Thanksgiving when she had car trouble, I suspect she tried the only two homes that wouldn't help. This weekend and next there will be many universities closing for Christmas vacation and more college students, including myself, will be hitchhiking home for the holidays, confident that there will be someone willing to help us home. Maybe the thing that disturbs me most about Mrs. Stover's letter is that she seems to think all people in the greater Pontiac area are too busy or can't be bothered to help someone in trouble. I don't think this is true.

'Driver Endangered Others on Bus Route'

A light blue Pontiac seen going east on Clarkston-Orion Road near Clintonville came upon a line of cars stopped for a school bus to let students off. The minute the bus started up, this car passed one car and had to cut in very short as the bus was making another stop. With the danger the driver of the car put herself and others in, she turned into a driveway approximately one-quarter mile from the point where she came upon the scene. Poor light blue Pontiac. You won't look pretty long with a person like that driving you through your life span.

To members of Local 594, before the national election, pamphlets from our local were passed out at the plant gates. These were smear sheets to lead us to believe that Gov. Wallace's State of Alabama was No. 1 in the Nation in crime. Now that the election is over, our Local paper lists the first seven states leading in crime rate and Alabama isn't in the top seven. To those that let our union sway your vote from Wallace, you've been had.

Defeat of Waterford Tax Prompts Letters

All of us are concerned about the recent tax millage election whether we were for or against the outcome. I am concerned about the size of the tax we now pay. An average wage earner that has a house valued at about $12,000 pays almost $350 taxes. Most new homes being built and sold sell for $24,000 to $40,000. According to the size of the homes and the taxes they should pay, why is there not enough tax coming in to be used more advantageously?

CONCERNED PARENT

As one Oakland County teacher I am going to impute the disaster of the polls last Saturday to something other than original sin. You may have to tell us Ichabods again and again that we could do a much better job with the funds you provide us. We shall cry for more money to build swimming pools in high schools when they more properly belong in the elementaries. We will claim that every luxury subject is a necessity, claim that every child must be taught to swim although many never get to high school, and deny that requiring them to learn during summer without building school pools would be feasible.

When you tell us that you believe in musical training we will tell you that you must pay for the instruments, not let the user rent them. We will inform you that every dropout must be trained for Hollywood; otherwise, you will drive him to crime. When you suggest frugality we will pour forth the pedantic news that we don't even have air-conditioning. We will tell you that we support freeways instead of tollways which would take the burden of increased school costs off the home owner's back. You may have to tell us again and again because we will be back again often. We never learn to make do.

Gives View on Pontiac Press Editorial

It is shocking to read that The Pontiac Press editorial policy supports double jeopardy in criminal trials, believes that a person should be a witness against himself; believes a person can be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law; believes in taking private property without compensation for public use. This is what you said in your editorial supporting Thomas E. Dewey when he said: "We could get along just as well if we repealed the Fifth Amendment . . ." Lord help us, if this type of thinking is part of the Nixon government.

Most of Cabinet Nominees Taking a Pay Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though the wealth of the Nixon Cabinet won't match that of the "nine millionaires and a plumber" of the original Eisenhower Cabinet, most if its members will suffer pay cuts by coming to Washington.

★ ★ ★

A Cabinet secretary draws $35,800 a year. The men picked out by President-elect Nixon from banking, law and the construction industry have been doing a lot better than that. Most of the public officials and educators he chose have been doing about as well, and only two of the appointees are likely to improve their financial status.

★ ★ ★

Nixon's reported income of around $200,000 a year as a senior partner in a New York law firm gives some kind of clue to the income of the incoming attorney general, John N. Mitchell, who was a senior partner in the same firm.

★ ★ ★

William P. Rogers, who will be secretary of state, is a member of another major law firm of New York and Washington, serving wealthy corporate clients.

★ ★ ★

The state of Michigan pays its governor more than George Romney, former head of American Motors Corp., will make as secretary of Housing and Urban Devlopment.

★ ★ ★

John A. Volpe makes $35,000 as governor of Massachusetts. But salary is not a big worry for Volpe, who organized a multimillion-dollar construction operation.

★ ★ ★

David M. Kennedy's bank in Chicago pays him far more than he will get as secretary of the Treasury.

★ ★ ★

Maurice Stans, secretary of commerce-designee, reportedly has made a fortune in accounting and banking.

★ ★ ★

Clifford M. Hardin, incoming secretary of agriculture, makes $35,000 as chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

★ ★ ★

The University of Chicago refuses to tell the salary of George P. Shultz, who will be secretary of labor. But as dean of the graduate school of business, he presumably gets more than $30,000.

★ ★ ★

Winton M. Blount, who will be postmaster general, now draws zero salary as president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. But Blount presides over a vast contracting empire, Blount Brothers Corp.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska draws only $27,500 in gubernatorial pay, but he also is a reputed millionaire.

★ ★ ★

That leaves Rep. Melvin Laird, who will be secretary of defense, and Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, who will be secretary of health, education and welfare, as perhaps the only Cabinet officers who will improve their financial status.

Could Embrace Repentent Thieu—VC Leader

PARIS (AP) — Taking a page from her Saigon adversaries, the Vietcong's chief peace delegate says it will embrace even President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky if they repent.

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh said in an interview the Vietcong's National Liberation Front is prepared to work with officials of the Saigon regime if they make amends for their "crimes against the South Vietnamese people."

Said the 41-year-old woman revolutionary:

"Those in the puppet army and puppet administration at any level who have committed crimes against the people but are now sincerely repentant will be pardoned. Those who redeem their crimes by meritorious deeds will be rewarded accordingly."

Asked if this applied to such leaders as Thieu Ky and Premier Tran Van Huong, she added: "Anyone, regardless of his past if he realizes the new situation and participates in the common struggle for national liberation will be received and welcomed."

Thieu Ky and their associates have said repeatedly that any and all members of the Vietcong and the NLF are welcome in their fold if they renounce the Communist cause and swear allegiance to the Saigon government.

In answer to another question, Mme. Binh asserted there can be no real peace in Vietnam until the Americans stop bombing and fighting in the South and show willingness to withdraw from the country.

"The essential thing is that the American government shows it is willing to stop its aggression and to withdraw its troops," she said. "The other issues will depend on that main question."

NO DIRECT ANSWER

Asked to clarify whether agreement on the political future of South Vietnam must precede any cease-fire, she avoided a direct answer. But again she stressed that peace will be restored "as soon as the American government is willing to stop its aggression and withdraw its troops."

She also sidestepped most other questions relating to the posture the NLF will take when the expanded peace parley begins to roll.

The interview took place in the drawing room of the NLF delegation's rented villa in the suburb of Verrieres. A large gold-starred, blue-and-red NLF flag hung from the balcony outside and French security police were on guard inside and outside the house.

Mme. Binh spoke softly but without hesitation in Vietnamese. A pretty Vietnamese girl acted as her interpreter, but it was clear Mme Binh knew enough English to follow the questioning. At times she used her hands to emphasize a point. Occasionally she chuckled when something amused her.

ARRIVED IN NOVEMBER

She came to Paris early in November to head the NLF delegation at the enlarged conference which has still to begin. She said she expects to be joined next week by the head of the NLF's commission of foreign affairs, Tan Buu Kiem, who will take over the delegation's leadership. Mme. Binh will remain as Kiem's deputy.

She was emphatic in rejecting the attempt by the United States and South Vietnam to give the conference a two-sided appearance, with the NLF sitting as part of Hanoi's delegation.

It is "essential for the Front" to sit with the "status of an independent and fully equal participant," she said, because the NLF is negotiating not as a supplicant but "in a victorious position."

* * *

She also appeared to rule out talks outside the conference between members of her delegation and Saigon's men.

"If the representative of the Saigon administration wants to give any viewpoint," she said in answer to a question, "let him do it in the four-party conference."

Mme. Binh declined to estimate how long it might take to achieve the reunion of North and South Vietnam.

"Reunification will be realized step by step through peaceful means," she said, adding that it will be reunion "on the principle of negotiation between the two zones without either side using pressure against the other and without foreign interference."

* * *

How about the future relationship between Vietnam and the United States?

"You're thinking about the beautiful future," she replied, her face lighting up. "We want friendly relations with all countries on the basis of equality and mutual respect. And we accept aid without any political conditions, and when we say that, we include the United States."

SNO-BALL CANDIDATES — Prospective Pontiac Northern queens (from left) Denise Coin, Diane Walker, JoAnn Woodside and Colleen Gerber are coaxing the weatherman for snow for tomorrow night's Sno-Ball. The semiformal dance, to be held in the school cafeteria, is sponsored by the Pep Club. The Glass Onion pop group will be featured.

Pontiac Northern Will Throw Its Sno-Ball

By LARRY HELTSLEY

Pontiac Northern will hold its Christmas Sno-Ball dance tomorrow night from 8-11 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Girls were to invite their dates for this semiformal dance. The dance is sponsored by the Pep Club with Denise Coin as the dance chairman.

★ ★ ★

Robin Kirby was decorations chairman, and JoAnn Woodside was responsible for ticket sales.

Band Chairman Diane Walker chose the Glass Onion to play at the dance after an audition.

VOTING FOR QUEEN

Votes for queen will be cast by those who attend the dance. Coronation of the queen will take place at the dance. Edie Hartung is in charge of the voting.

★ ★ ★

Members of the court were selected by a vote of the Pep Club. Diane Walker, Denise Coin, Colleen Gerber and JoAnn Woodside will make up the court.

JoAnn Johnson will handle the refreshments which will be served at the dance.

The Pep Club is also in the process of selling laminated bookmarkers. Each bookmarker sells for 35 cents and lists the Pontiac Northern basketball schedule.

FOOTBALL AWARDS

Football awards were given to members of the sophomore, junior varsity and varsity teams. Letters and recognition awards were awarded to the members of the varsity who had earned them.

Pontiac Northern's music department will hold its Christmas concert Sunday. Admission is free and the public is welcome to attend.

Numbers will be performed by Northern's Male Chorus, the A Capella choir, the Girls' Concert Choir, the Girls' Ensemble, and the Madrigals. The mixed chorus will also perform at the concert which is scheduled to start at 3 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The entire group will perform a mass contata finale entitled "Love Transcending."

Senior pictures will be distributed Monday with final payments required. Storer Spellman studios handled the senior picture settings.

OPTIMIST

Northern students attended a school assembly to recognize human relations week.

Optimist honoree and PNH Human Relations club president Robert Wright, opened the assembly and turned discussion over to civil rights leader James Dire.

Joint Waterford Event Sunday

By JANICE CRISP

Waterford Township High School's annual Christmas Concert will be presented Sunday at 3 p.m.

For the first time in the 18-year history of the concert, it will be presented jointly with another school. Waterford Mott's band and chorus and band will join ours, boosting the total number of participants to over 250.

★ ★ ★

Each band and chorus will perform several selections. They will also combine to present "Children's Prayer" and selections from Handel's "Messiah."

Along with the two Waterford groups will be a band sextet and a camarad. Solos will be sung by Claude Baugess and Nancy Petty.

DAR WINNER

Lois Fenlon is this year's winner of the Daughters of the American Revolution award.

Every year a senior girl is elected by the faculty to receive the award and represent her class and school. She is judged on her leadership, academic achievement, character and service to her school.

★ ★ ★

Lois is an active participant in Student Council and GAA.

Each of the girls selected from area high schools were honored at a tea last week. The girls all received a corsage and DAR pin.

CHILDRENS' PARTY

Last Saturday afternoon the Co-op Club sponsored a Christmas party for 14 children from the Oakland County Childrens' Home.

The Waterford students and their guests ate lunch, and played games and records. A little later Santa Claus visited the party and gave away gifts.

The Co-op students had been selling candy for the past month to make enough money to help Santa along.

Although it may be only the beginning of winter the senior class is working on summer problems.

'69 DANCE

The site of the class of 69's prom is set at Pine Knob.

Last week's vote showed the seniors in favor of different colored caps and gowns. Waterford's school colors have been adopted, with gold for the girls and blue for the boys.

The location of the senior trip has not been decided yet.

★ ★ ★

The fifth annual Waterford Wrestling invitational will be held tomorrow in the WTHS gym. Advance tickets cost 75 cents, and tickets will be sold at the door for $1.

Eighteen teams, including Waterford, will be represented. Preliminaries begin at 1 p.m., semifinals at 6:30 p.m. and finals at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone wishing to order a yearbook should do so before next Friday. A $3 deposit is required.

Citizen Award by DAR Goes to Groves Senior

By BENITA ROSEN

Peggy Maass, Wylie E. Groves High School senior, is the winner of this year's Daughter of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award.

Presented annually to a senior girl with qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism, the recipient is determined by a vote of the senior class. Melinda Rex and Linda Shahan were runners-up in the balloting.

KNOWN FOR TWIRLING

Probably best known for her half-time twirling as a majorette, Peggy is also active in the American Field Service water ballet, French Club and Pep Club. She spent two months in France as a Youth for Understanding foreign exchange student.

Peggy is the seventh winner of the Groves award which is presented by the DAR's Piety Hill Chapter. Previous winners were Leigh Young, Joan Schmitzerle, Tina Steele, Sue Whitecell and Leanne Sarkesian.

★ ★ ★

The sounds of Christmas will be heard at the annual combined vocal and instrumental concert Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The choir of 75 members, directed by Evelyn Micheletti, will present Christmas pieces from different musical periods. The selections range from Handel's "And the Glory of the Lord" to Shaw's Contemporary arrangement of "Two Kings" with a brass ensemble.

The orchestra, directed by Richard Wade, will play several familiar pieces, Anderson's "Sleigh Ride" and "Suite of Carols" featuring the string section playing "Away in a Manger."

★ ★ ★

The band, directed by Burton Bronson, will present Handel's "Messiah Overture" and "Selections of Carol" arranged for brass instruments by Anderson.

Opens Tonight at 8

'Charlie Brown' at Andover

By ANN PETERS

The premiere performance of Bloomfield Hills Andover High School's play, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," will be held tonight at 8.

This play is the first musical revue to be presented in Andover's history.

★ ★ ★

Running through Saturday night, the revue is directed by Mark Gallo. The leads are Floyd Fisher as Charlie Brown and Margie Van Haltern as Lucy.

Christmas spirit has infested nearly every club in Andover. Halls have been assigned for decorations, and the range of ideas is great.

CLOTHING, FOOD DRIVE

The Spanish, club, La Pandilla, is sponsoring a clothing and food drive. Proceeds will be sent to families in Pontiac and Detroit. Spanish Club members will also go caroling in Spanish in school halls and in neighborhoods. Its Christmas fiesta will be held on Wednesday.

La Pandilla is on the go. Club members have recently lunched at El Nibblenook, Acapulco and Cadena's restaurants.

★ ★ ★

Last Saturday 16 Spanish II students took 15 Mexican elementary students from Pontiac to tour Greenfield Village.

Andover's Spanish Club also plans to see the Ballet Folklorico of Mexico and the Danzas Venezuela. Easter trips now under consideration include tours of Mexico and Spain.

CHRISTMAS BANQUET

Tuesday, the French Club's Christmas Banquet will be held. Planned entirely by club members, entertainment will include French skits and a French carol songfest.

Charitable activities have always been an important part of the Latin Forum Christmas plans. This year, the Forum is sponsoring a clothing drive for the Friendship House.

★ ★ ★

Northville Hospital will receive not only a $50 donation but also boxes of cosmetic surprises. The Latin Saturnalia, a cooperative dinner, will be held later on.

Yule Concert Thursday at Walled Lake

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Walled Lake Central High School will hold its annual Christmas Concert on Thursday at 8 p.m. The concert will be the result of eight weeks of rehearsal.

The concert will feature the Concert Band, the Orchestra, the Girls' Glee Club, the Girls' Chorus, the Boys' Chorus, the Mixed Chorus, and the A Capella Choir.

Among the featured numbers will be the "Concerto Grosso" by Vivaldi which will be played by the Concert Band; the "Concerto Grosso" by Correlli, played by the school orchestra; and "Have a Merry Little Christmas" sung by the A Capella Choir.

Highlight of the evening will be the performance of highlights from Handel's "Messiah." The Handel selection will be performed by the Orchestra, Concert Band and the combined choruses.

The number will feature solos by Mrs. Carl Grapentine and Alexander Zerban, music instructor.

The Concert Band and the Orchestra will be under the direction of Helmut Holland-Moritz, instrumental music instructor and Mrs. William Windscheif, student teacher.

The vocal part of the program will be directed by Zerban. "The Messiah" will be led by Holland-Moritz.

The junior class is sponsoring a bake sale Saturday, during the Wrestling Quadrangular in the gym lobby.

This project will help raise money for the Junior Prom on Jan. 25.

FTA PROJECT

The Future Teacher's Association is having its annual Christmas project Sunday. The party is for SPUR, an organization for handicapped and mentally retarded children.

FTA members spent one night last week wrapping gifts and making candy for the children. The club is sponsored by English teachers Mrs. John Boyd and Ed Hara. Tom Lareau is president.

★ ★ ★

The juniors and sophomores going to Walled Lake Western next year cast their vote Tuesday for the mascot and school colors.

The WLC "Viking" (yearbook) went on sale at the bookstore at $4.

Students at WLC are participating in a Walled Lake Community Youth Project, selling Christmas trees for the Sacred Heart Rehabilitation Center for the destitute and for alcoholics.

The center, under the direction of the Rev. Robert Quinn, is badly in need of a sprinkler fire system. The money received from the trees will help to provide some of the needed sum for the system.

New Unit Added at Mott

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

Something new has been added at Waterford Mott High School, the Curriculum Planning Committee. Designed to improve the school's curriculum, members include both students and teachers.

A survey is being conducted this week by the planning committee. By interviewing all the students the committee hopes to discover their likes and dislikes concerning the school's educational program.

"To see how the school can better suit the wants and needs of the students today," is the main purpose of the survey according to Dennis Price, survey chairman.

"Winter Reflections" is the theme of the Christmas dance to be held Dec. 21.

FUNDS FOR SENIOR TRIP

Sponsored by the junior class, proceeds will go towards its senior trip.

Tickets are on sale now and may be purchased until next Friday.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Mott debaters attended a cross-examination debate Wednesday at Kettering.

Varsity team members were Karen Rickets, Vicki Kochn, Keith Sirlin and John Niles. Junior varsity debaters include Linda Sampson, Margo Schierfler, Janet Wiegand and Dwayne Height.

RECEIVED SWEATER

Members of the Girls Athletic Association (GAA) received their sweaters yesterday. They are light-blue V-necks.

Through various moneymaking projects GAA paid for half the cost while the girls paid the remainder.

★ ★ ★

"Yea Juniors," is the yell around Mott as the class of '70 won the spirit horn for the basketball season. The contest took place at a recent pep assembly.

Oxford to Present Christmas Concert

The Oxford High School vocal department will present its annual Christmas concert, "The Story of the First Christmas," Sunday at 4 p.m. in the school auditorium.

There will be nine living tableaus depicting the Nativity scenes. Over 200 students will participate.

★ ★ ★

The concert is under the direction of teacher Mrs. Lee Valentine. She will be assisted by English, science, art and shop department teachers.

A band concert will be held Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium, under the direction of Wendell Honsinger. The Christmas concert will be followed by an open house.

PC Holding Dance Tonight

By GERI KLINKHAMER

Pontiac Catholic High School is sponsoring a dance tonight in the cafeteria.

The "Get-Acquainted Dance" is for all adults and their friends who have students attending PC. Admission is $3 per couple. Dance hours are from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

★ ★ ★

The sale of tickets for the Pontiac Catholic Christmas play will begin tonight at the dance. Students will launch their sale Monday.

★ ★ ★

The play will be presented Dec. 22, at 7:45 p.m. in the gym. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The sophomore bake sale was a success last week. It earned $25.50.

The National Honor Society had its meeting Monday. The draft of the new constitution of the club was presented by Tom Bleau, vice president. It will be voted on next week by the members.

★ ★ ★

The Ski Club met Wednesday. Members have plans arranged with Mount Holly for skiing each week. Lessons for beginners are available.

The varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders sponsored a clinic for neighboring schools Sunday. Held in the gym with refreshments in the cafeteria, they hosted 15 other cheerleaders from Pontiac Northern and Waterford Kettering.

★ ★ ★

Mel Larson, assistant principal, started the festivities off by welcoming the visitors to PC and explained that the clinic was the first of an annual event to be held at Pontiac Catholic.

Christmas Concerts Are Set at Novi

By THOM HOLMES

The Novi High School music department presents its annual Christmas Concerts Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8 in the high school commons.

The high school bands and choir will perform Monday. Tuesday the junior high school bands and chorus will perform.

* * *

High school selections include the "Christmas Song" and "Carol of the Drum" by the concert band, "Coventry Carol" and "Silver Bells" by the choir, and Overture to "The Messiah" and Leroy Anderson's "Sleigh Ride" by the Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

There will be no admission fee.

BAND VARIETY SHOW

A standing - room - only audience was entertained at the Third Annual Band Variety Show held recently. Proceeds from the show were used to make the final payment for the band uniforms.

One-hundred and ten uniforms have been purchased over the past two years at a cost of $11,000, half of which was earned by the band students through the Novi Band Boosters.

* * *

The Novi High School seniors have been receiving kind favors from secret admirers this week. The reason: Senior Kris Kringle week at NHS.

All of the seniors put their names in a box and drew someone else's name. From that point on, for the rest of the week, each senior is supposed to do secret little things for the person whose name they drew.

COOPERATIVE DINNER

Tomorrow night, at the school, there will be a cooperative dinner for the students who participated in the Kris Kringle activities. Sometime during the evening, everyone will find out who his or her secret pal was.

The seniors had no intention of making a profit from this activity. It was simply for fun.

After the goods collected in the Serviceman's Drive were totaled, it was found that the freshman class donated the most. Willie, the wildcat mascot of Novi, will now be in the possession of the freshmen until another activity. The results of the drive were tremendous.

Three times as many goods were collected as anticipated.

Two-hundred pounds of canned food, books and other useful items have now been sent to Novi servicemen overseas. Twice as much is left.

Some will be sent later, and some of the surplus food that cannot be sent will be given to a needy Novi family for the holiday season. The Serviceman's Drive was a Student Council activity.

The senior class has chosen colors for graduation gowns: green for boys and white for girls.

Dominican Girls Buying to Give

By ANDI BARNES

Food was the main interest at Dominican Academy this week as the girls buy to give away.

* * *

The Christian Action Club is sponsoring a food drive. The entire student body is participating in the drive. In order to help a needy family in the area have a bountiful Christmas dinner, students are bringing in canned foods. An interclass competition is stirring students as each class competes to see which homeroom will bring in the most food.

* * *

The club hopes to fill five baskets.

In order to make empty shelves full again, girls at Dominican are supporting the freshman candy sale. The frosh are selling various types of goodies for $1 and $1.50. The profits will be the first in its treasury.

* * *

Monday, seniors were visited by an admissions officer from University of Detroit and were apprised of the college's entrance requirements.

Holly Bows to Yule: Activities on Deck

By MARCIA CLARK

"What am I going to do? I just don't have time to take in all the holiday festivities at Holly High School?"

That was the voice of a typical HHS student who was bewildered by the wide assortment of activities planned by clubs and other organizations for December.

* * *

Christmas parties are being planned by most of the clubs.

The Round-Up (school paper) staff party will be Saturday. The admission will be something psychedelic. The "somethings" then will be used as decorations.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE

The Christmas issue of the Round-Up goes on sale Wednesday.

The Library Cub's Christmas party will be held next Friday in the library.

Also to be held next Friday will be the annual Christmas dance.

The cheerleaders got their Christmas present early. A minitramp, which will be used by the group during the basketball games, was delivered last week.

GRAB BAGS SOLD

The cheerleaders recently sold grab bags to help pay for their new uniforms.

Some of the bags contained free passes to neighborhood theaters or basketball games, credit at local gas stations or drugstores. Others contained rubber bands, paper clips, erasers, pencils or crackerjack prizes.

The HHS vocal music department is holding a candy sale. The chocolate and almond candy sells for 50 cents per quarter pound.

FOR CHOIR CAMP

Proceeds will send a deserving member of the department to choir camp this summer.

The annual Christmas concert, recently presented by the vocal music department was directed by Darrell Burget. It featured the Girl's Ensemble, the Madrigal singers, the Honors Choir, the A Cappella Choir, the Boy's Quartet and the Mixed Choir.

Avondale Girls on Bouncy Trip

By KAREN SHELDON

Four senior girls at Avondale High School recently helped the basketball season bounce onto the scene by dribbling a basketball 20 miles to Romeo High School.

* * *

The trip began at a pep assembly where the four girls — Jo White, Kathy Aldridge, Sheila Burrell and Karen Sheldon — were sent off about 2 p.m. The team reached its destination about 7 p.m. to the accompaniment of a resounding ovation.

* * *

Advisers for the trip were Vibeke Eggen and William Lightcap.

Girls' varsity and junior varsity basketball teams started practicing this week. The varsity squad will be trying for its third undefeated season.

* * *

Coaching both varsity and junior varsity teams is Elizabeth Diem, girls' physical education teacher.

The band and choir of Avondale High School are holding a candy sale to purchase new band uniforms and choir robes.

'Spirit Store' Set Up at Troy

By LUANNE GREENSTEIN

"We, the students of Troy High School, in order to supervise student activities, encourage school spirit and good sportsmanship, and promote citizenship, do ordain and establish this Constitution for Troy High School."

To help "encourage school spirit," Troy's student government has started a "spirit store." This store, located in the old ticket office near the gym, has Troy Colts bumper stickers and pompons for sale.

* * *

It also offers information on student government activities, including agendas, minutes and copies of the school constitution.

Sue Gonzalez, chairman of the spirit store committee, says that in the future, patches to wear on jackets and "GO COLTS" balloons will be available.

*

Noisy cowbells, to be sold only during games, are among other things that Troy students will be able to purchase.

"The idea behind the spirit store is to bring the student government and the students closer together. We hope that it will be an outlet for all information on student activities," Sue said.

Troy's new spirit store is open for business during the Friday school day and during basketball games.

Money-Makers Busy at Brandon

By MARJORIE WIDMAN

It's a mixed-up world at Brandon High School as the moneymaking efforts of school clubs and classes reach a fever pitch. Giving sales pitches are members of the Ski Club, the Contemporary History Club and the junior class.

Money from the junior's candy sale is earmarked for the prom and the junior-senior banquet, both junior-sponsored activities.

Group pictures were taken Tuesday.

Tonight the Brandon Blackhawks play the Lake Fenton Blue Devils on the opponents' court.

For W. Bloomfield Event

Music Classes Rehearsing

By SHARON CARR

"Do you hear what I hear?" It's the vocal music classes at West Bloomfield High School practicing for their annual Christmas concert.

Under the direction of Merlin Asplin, the eighth grade choir will join the West Bloomfield High School veteran choir and newly-formed chorus for an evening of good spirit, presented free Wednesday in the WBH cafetorium at 8 p.m.

* * *

On the program for the evening are: "Christmas Was Meant for Children" with a solo from Kym Desjardins; and "Come Hasten Ye Shepherds" with soloists Bill Bullock, Carol Shaw and Marg Weiss.

Soloist Cliff Book will sing "White Christmas," followed by Marg Weiss's rendition of "Sleigh Ride."

SATIN DOLLS

The Satin Dolls will perform numbers including "What Child Is This." The senior and junior girls have added members, and changed their outfits to match their new names.

Dressed in purple satin drindle skirts and lace blouses will be Linda Doering, Carol Shaw, Patti Hubby, Marg Weiss, Gail Couch, Pat Bentley, Barb Swart, Vicki Pawlik, Barb Starr, Chris Barnard, Viola Palletta and Holly Browne.

* * *

An active Varsity Club has been formed this year under the direction of Jim Watkins and Lee Averill, both coaches at WB. Boys who have won a varsity letter in a sport are eligible for membership.

Among the service projects the club will undertake are: a candy sale at all of the home basketball games, usher during the games, and referre games under the intramural sports program.

All profits in any activities will be used to buy sports equipment for the athletic department.

Officers of the club are Mike Walosin, president; Dave Karlson, vice president; Tom Starr secretary-treasurer; and Kevin Gawronski will be the representative to the Student Council.

* * *

Votes have been counted, and results of senior elections announced.

The class flower will be the wild rose, class song "The Impossible Dream," and colors, navy blue and gold. Chosen as class motto is "To seek, to strive, to find, and not to yield," as suggested by Gopal Rampal, whose school in Malaysia had that as its motto.

While leading a tour of incoming cabinet members' children around Washington Thursday, Tricia Nixon, (left) arrived at the White House and was met by Luci Johnson Nugent. The daughters of the incoming and outgoing Presidents stand side by side, providing this cameo of famous profiles.

Grand Tour for Children of New Cabinet Members

WASHINGTON (AP) — They were brought to the White House by a daughter of the president-elect and conducted through it by a daughter of the President.

They sat in the speaker's chair in the House of Representatives and were greeted at the Federal Bureau of Investigation by J. Edgar Hoover.

Secret Service agents followed closely and officials of the Smithsonian Institution served as guides.

It was, all in all, far from a typical tour as children—of practically all ages—of the newly designated Cabinet members followed the tourist paths through Washington Thursday.

Tricia Nixon, 22-year-old daughter of the President-elect, was the arranger and leader for the day-long expedition.

"I wanted to get all the Cabinet children together," she explained. "But the tour was Daddy's idea."

LUCI GREETS

The group of 33—it dwindled throughout the day—rolled up to the White House aboard a bus, and Mrs. Luci Johnson Nugent was there to meet them.

"It was quite a surprise when she met us, she was very gracious to be there," said Tricia.

Serving as guide with the help of the curator's staff, Mrs. Nugent provided both historical and personal recollections of her years in the White House.

"This can be the loneliest house in the world but if you want it to be, it can be the most rewarding time of your life," she said.

What did the guests think of the White House?

"It looks like it's glad to see you instead of being snobbish," said 10-year-old Jim Hardin, whose father will be secretary of agriculture.

★ ★ ★

Ronna Romney, daughter-in-law of Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who will be secretary of housing and urban development, said she was impressed that "Luci Johnson took the trouble to show us around."

Priscilla Finch, 12, gave a sweeping endorsement to the nation's capital: "It's really a beautiful town."

Daughter of Lt. Gov. Robert Finch of California, who will be secretary of health, education and welfare, Priscilla said she was not worried about moving from Sacramento.

"We move every four years on the average, anyway. If we don't, we get bored," she said.

When the tourists reached the Capitol they were led onto the House floor by chief doorkeeper William "Fishbait" Miller, who made one of the few mistakes of the day.

Miller, introducing himself to Jim Hardin, said, "Your daddy is secretary of labor."

★ ★ ★

Young Hardin stuck to his guns and responded, "no, agriculture."

One of the most eloquent reactions of the day was from 6-year-old Carl Hickel, whose father will be interior secretary, as he walked into Statutory Hall in the Capitol with an older brother: "Gee, whiz, Joe."

Asks Which Pronunciation Is the Best

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Could you please tell me if it is correct to pronounce a country's name in the manner of its natives? I have traveled but wouldn't dream of saying "Paree" — maybe I haven't traveled enough? — Roberta

★ ★ ★

Dear Roberta: I wouldn't dream of saying "Paree" either! When you are speaking to foreigners, you should say the name of their country or its cities in their language if you know how, but in speaking English to fellow-Americans, you should use the accepted English pronunciation.

The other can only sound affected.

BOTH FAMILIES

Dear Mrs. Post: My cousin says that when both families involved (bride and groom) pay for the wedding reception jointly, both families' names should be printed on the invitations. I disagree, because etiquette requires the bride's parents pay for the reception and people don't really care whether the groom's parents "helped out."

★ ★ ★

If an invitation does have both names is this an indication that both families paid for the reception? — Mrs. M.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. M: Some years ago it was unheard of to issue a "joint" wedding invitation — an insult to the bride's family and in the worst of taste. It still clearly implies that her parents cannot afford to give the wedding alone as they would normally do.

★ ★ ★

But people face facts more realistically today, and occasionally the groom's family does pay for half or more of the expenses. When this is so, it is only right that they, as co-hosts, should be included in the invitation to the reception.

★ ★ ★

Unless they have actually arranged the wedding too, the invitation should be issued by the bride's family only.

A KNIFE

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband, who has always had good manners, has recently begun piling his potatoes (mashed or baked) on his knife and putting them into his mouth with the knife.

★ ★ ★

When I was startled by this, he said that it is a new thing being done by many business executives that he has lunch with. Is there ever any excuse for eating with a knife? — Agnes Glenshaw.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Glenshaw: You husband is "putting you on." No executive in any business I've ever heard of would remain an executive for long if he ate with his knife. A knife is for cutting food and a fork is for getting it to your mouth.

Stop your husband now or he will soon be the laughing stock of those executives he lunches with.

A driving rain Thursday evening kept outdoor parts of Pontiac State Hospital's Fairlawn Center Christmas party to a minimum. Lights on the 9-foot living Christmas tree presented last month to the Center by Zonta Club of Pontiac were turned on for the first time. Dr. James W. Johnson, director of child psychiatry division, holds daughter Anne up to the window for a better look. With them is Mrs. Herman Dickstein, Chippewa Road, chairman of the Zonta service committee.

University Seeks to Remove Its Campus Job Corps

MARQUETTE (AP)— Northern Michigan University's faculty senate has recommended that a women's job corps center be removed from the campus.

The Senate, in a lengthy report to NMU President John X. Janrich recommended that if the center could not be removed, the University take steps to solve what were called certain "social problems" involved with the center.

★ ★ ★

If this is not possible, the eight-member faculty statement recommends that NMU not seek renewal of the job corps contract.

★ ★ ★

The job corps center for women is in its third year, operating under a $1.6 million contract with OEO. Enrollment in the Center is approximately 310.

★ ★ ★

A University spokesman said the faculty report also stated that guests of job corps enrollees had clashed at times with students and employes at the University.

★ ★ ★

The faculty also concluded that the job corps program had "minimal" involvement in the University's academic activities.

Festive Party Spirit Prevails With Approach of Holidays

By SHIRLEY GRAY

The Christmas partying season is on — and how. Folks hereabouts will be burning the candle at both ends for the next two weeks — there's no other way to keep up with it all.

The Colony Town Club is having its traditional Christmas cocktail party Sunday afternoon. They're having it in Bloomfield Hills, which is not traditional. The usual spot has been Detroit. Hosting will be done by Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Flanders.

Assisting the Flanderses will be the Philip C. Bakers, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Barnes, Mrs. Alfred Cousino, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Harms, Mrs. Robert J. Hesse and Mrs. Laurence J. Hetzelt.

Completing the host and hostess list are Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Richhart, Dr. and Mrs. Herman D. Scarney, Mrs. Jesse G. Vincent, Mrs. Roger V. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wilson Jr.

★ ★ ★

The ladies of the Colony Town Club have just completed the making and packaging of fancy bedjackets, which they will be distributing bright and early Christmas morning to women cancer patients in local hospitals.

The Village Woman's Club had one holiday party Tuesday and will have another on Saturday.

Tuesday night's dinner program was highlighted by a community sing. Club ranks were slightly decimated by the flu, so everyone just sang louder.

Chairmen were Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Rakas, aided and abetted by Dr. and Mrs. Chauncey G. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Steele, Mrs. Royal H. Bradford and the Robert H. Foleys.

Saturday night will be the VWC's formal dinner dance. Chairman is Mrs. Jesse P. Judd. Assisting will be Mrs. Earle S. MacPherson, the Austin G. Conrads, the Charles L. Brickers, the Lewis D. Fykses and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hartman Jr.

Plus the Paul E. McDonalds, the Richard M. Olsons, Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Mensing and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Merrigan.

Boy Is Born to Widow of Trapped Miner

FAIRMONT, W.Va. (AP) — Barbara Toler finally had her baby Thursday night—a 7-pound 11-ounce boy.

Barbara was expecting the child last month when her husband, Dennis, and 77 other coal miners were trapped by fire and explosion inside Mountaineer No. 9 mine near Mannington.

★ ★ ★

The pretty 24-year-old brunette vowed not to leave the company store until she received word of Dennis as rescue efforts continued for ten days.

The company store served as an information center during the long vigil. With the baby due momentarily the Red Cross made arrangements to turn their mobile canteen into a delivery room.

Barbara spent most of those ten days talking quietly with her sister whose husband also was trapped in the mine.

CLEAN CLOTHES

One day she brought a clean shirt for Dennis because she said she knew he'd come out all right and would need it. But she said she was mad at herself "for forgetting to bring him a clean pair of pants, too."

When the decision was made to seal the mine, thus making it a tomb for the 78 miners, Barbara was distraught. She caught pneumonia and several times experienced false labor pains.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Thomas Evans, Barbara's obstetrician, put her under sedatives for a while and reported she was "in real good spirits now."

"She told me she wanted a boy," Dr. Evans said.

The birth of Barbara's baby raises the number of dependents of the Mannington disaster to an even 200. About 125 are children.

Thousands of dollars and truck-loads of food, toys and general merchandise are pouring in to Mannington from all parts of the country to aid the relatives. Much of the money will be placed in a trust fund for the childrens' education.

Create Festive Feeling on These Special Dates

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday was our ninth anniversary and my husband didn't remember it. I was heartsick all day. I suppose I should have gotten over it by now, but I still feel very hurt about it.

He is a good provider and otherwise a good husband and father, but he's very serious-minded and isn't given to sentimentality. He just doesn't have any "soul." Birthdays, anniversaries and most holidays are overlooked. If the children didn't make such a big fuss about Christmas, I'm sure he'd forget that, too.

★ ★ ★

Last year I tried giving him a taste of his own medicine and I "forgot" his birthday, but it didn't work because he forgot it, too. I am so hurt, Abby, I have even considered leaving him. Any suggestions?

HURT AGAIN

DEAR HURT: Yes. Create a festive mood by planning in advance to celebrate "occasions." On HIS birthday, bake him a cake and invite some friends in. Or arrange to go out to celebrate. On YOURS, do the same.

This goes for Mother's Day, Father's Day, anniversaries, St. Valentine day, and any other day about which you're sentimental. But if you sit in silence feeling sorry for yourself, you have no one to blame but yourself.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, 16 and a junior in high school, slipped off the other day and got married to her 19-year-old boy friend.

★ ★ ★

To beat all, HIS mother went with them! She didn't even have the courage to tell her husband. The children had gone together for two years. I thought for sure his mother was on my side and didn't want an early marriage either, because she had even told me so. And now this, with her blessings! I am so mad at her I just don't know what to do.

★ ★ ★

I am not going to show my anger because I don't want the children to start off married life with parents who are mad at each other, but I want you to tell me what you think of this whole sneaky deal. Thank you.

BOILING OVER

DEAR BOILING: I think it's pretty sneaky. But simmer down. There may be a little "sequel" to that story."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BLUE YES" IN ALBION, MICHIGAN: When a married man tells his girl friend that he and his wife have decided to try to "work things out," he means, "Let's cool it for a while, sister." In other words, the first thing he'd like to "work out" is YOU!

Included in special Christmas observances at Greenfield Village, opening today, is a display of Nativity scenes and figures at The Henry Ford Museum. The displays are made of plaster, wood and paper and date from the late 18th century to modern times with origins in many different countries.

Provides Glimpse of Early Times

A wide variety of special events, designed to recreate the atmosphere of the Yuletide season in earlier America, opens today at the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village.

Many of the Village's 100 historic buildings have been decorated in the way they might have been by their occupants of as much as 300 years ago.

A collection of early Christmas cards, children's books and prints of holiday scenes are available for viewing. Craftsmen along the Street of Early American Shops practice crafts as they were in past centuries.

Traditional Christmas melodies emanate from antique music boxes, adding to the holiday atmosphere.

PLAYERS

The Greenfield Village players will present J. M. Barrie's fantasy, "Peter Pan" in the Museum Theater Dec. 20-Dec. 28 inclusive. Matinees are at 2:30 p.m.; evening performances at 7:30.

There will be no matinee on opening day and no performances the night before Christmas or Christmas Day when the Museum and Village will be closed. Special group rates are available.

Tours of the decorated buildings will include hot spiced cider and holiday cookies in the 19th century Clinton Inn and will conclude with a sleigh or carriage ride. Tours continue through Dec. 31.

The display of nativity figures remains to Jan. 5. The Museum and Village will close for New Year's Day.

Oh Well, What's Another Birthday?

By BETTY CANARY
NEA Writer

Sooner or later your kids will turn on you. Mine picked dinnertime, the first day of November.

I don't want to be hostile about it, but November 7 happens to be my birthday. Every year.

When they were toddlers, my birthday was a festive occasion for them. We all wore paper hats and I ooohed and aaahed over their handmade cards while they bedecked the walls with ice cream and frosting.

Now, when I'd just as soon forget the whole thing, they grow ever and ever more festive.

"How old are you going to be THIS year, mother?" they have maliciously asked me every day this week.

"The same as always," I answer, making a pretty moue. "Younger than Shirley Temple and older than Bardot."

"We're planning a skit for your birthday," Rick, my eldest, informed me. "It's sort of a 'This Is Your Life' thing," he said.

"That's telling YOUR age, Rick," my 12-year-old mumbled through his mashed potatoes. "What I had in mind was a 'Laugh-In.' "

"We'll bake you a cake, mommy," my youngest cried. "And we'll put dozens and dozens of beautiful candles on it. Dozens and dozens and dozens and dozens," she said dreamily.

Why, I wondered, as I hurled her dessert at her, have I read all these books and attended all those meetings just to find out how to communicate with my children when all I really want is for them to shut up?

"Oh, yes, we'll bake a cake for you," my eldest daughter said, agreeing, for the first time in six months, with her sister.

"I'd rather do it myself," I said, in my surliest manner.

"I'll bet she makes one with peanuts because that's the kind you're allergic to," my youngest son said happily to his sister, showing that he, too, could add to the general merriment of Our Dinner Hour.

"It can't be a peanut crumble cake because that wouldn't go with champagne!" Stu reminded me.

"Are we really going to have champagne?" I cooed. "Oh, I knew you were all just teasing me," I said, cutting everybody an extra piece of pie.

"Yes. I thought we could drink it from your slipper," he answered. "Do you think a magnum would fill it?"

Arrests Will Upset Colleagues

BAY CITY (AP) — Two women arrested Wednesday for allegedly stealing $4,000 worth of fur coats may be part of a large shoplifting ring operating throughout Michigan, according to Bay City police.

The women, Helen M. Prince, 30, of Cleveland and Sharon C. Steele, 23, of Detroit, were held in Bay County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond pending examination.

Police said the pair grabbed the fur coats from a downtown store and ran outside to a waiting car. A cab driver, responding to shouts for help from a store manager, blocked the car's getaway, police said.

Officers said they found thousands of dollars worth of new clothing in the trunk of the car and confiscated more stolen clothing from a bus enroute to Cleveland.

Expansion Is Urged for MSU Med School

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Dr. Robert J. Mason of 5801 E. Millerway, Bloomfield Township president-elect of the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS) addressed a regional meeting of the state society last night and urged expansion of the Michigan State University medical school to a four-year institution.

"The developing shortage of doctors is reaching the critical point," he said.

★ ★ ★

Michigan, with over 4 per cent of the nation's population, is producing just over 3 per cent of the nation's physicians, Mason said.

"We should turn out 540 physicians in 1976, to produce our fair share. Michigan's two 4-year medical schools actually graduated slightly more than 300 doctors in July of this year," Mason said.

IMMEDIATE EXPANSION

"We need to immediately expand the enrollment of our existing medical schools in Michigan, and to expand the present two-year medical program at MSU to a four-year degree-granting program," he said.

Mason urges a more aggressive plan of action in developing a larger medical program in Michigan. The state board of education approved the four-year plan for MSU in 1967, but the Legislature did not appropriate funds to carry it out.

★ ★ ★

He urged formation of a Michigan Citizens Committee on Medical Manpower to assist physicians in influencing the legislature to appropriate the needed funds for the expansion of medical programs in the state, and to develop a long-range program for medical manpower designed to meet foreseeable demands by 1980.

Mason pointed out a MSMS suggestion to help relieve the manpower shortage in Michigan — that the medical schools in the state take the necessary steps to develop curricula which will make possible the granting of either the degree of Doctor of Medicine or Doctor of Osteopathy, according to the students option.

"Accordingly, it would be possible for additional graduates at Wayne State University, University of Michigan and new graduates at MSU to enter practice as osteopaths. Students educated in these outstanding institutions who elected to accept an osteopathic degree would be the best trained osteopaths in the nation," Mason said.

"Together, we must more effectively tell the people of Michigan to urge their governor, elected representatives and the state legislature to get on with the job," Mason said.

MSMS members from Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Monroe counties attended the regional meeting, at the Fox and Hounds Inn, Bloomfield Hills.

Hanoi to Take Gifts for POWs

U. S. Doesn't Connect Move to Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Deparment yesterday announced that contrary to last year, Hanoi will accept Christmas parcels for delivery to American prisoners this year.

The officials said they were gratified by Hanoi's decision, communicated in Paris by North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy to U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

★ ★ ★

The official did not, however link the goodwill gesture to possible future movement in the Paris talks on Vietnam. They also indicated continued distress over the uncertainty surrounding the American prisoners' fate.

★ ★ ★

The officials pointed out that to date North Vietnam has declined to provide the United States a list of American prisoners of war or to permit Red Cross inspections of their living conditions as specified by the Geneva Convention on prisoners of war.

FAMILIES INSTRUCTED

Thus U.S. military authorities imply do not know exactly which missing American pilots are prisoners in North Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

As a matter of precaution, the military services on Nov. 25 informed families of missing pilots to prepare small Christmas packages for kinfolk believed to be prisoners.

★ ★ ★

These instructions went out even before North Vietnam's official attitude was made known. Xuan Thuy's communication to Harriman was made, in fact, in response to a specific inquiry earlier by the American ambassador.

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials said that on Nov. 25 the Navy also contacted relatives of the crew of the USS Pueblo under detention in North Korea. In this case, U.S. officials have received no assurance Christmas packages would be accepted by the Communists for transmittal to the Americans.

6 HELD IN CHINA

Communist China is holding at least six Americans and according to long-standing arrangements packages have been forwarded regularly to these prisoners through the Red Cross.

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials said that as of Nov. 23, 1968, there were 879 American servicemen missing in Southeast Asia and another 336 were known to be prisoners in either North or South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

Cambodia is holding 11 Americans who were captured when their landing craft wandered into Cambodian waters through a navigational error earlier in the year. They are not considered prisoners of war and have been receiving messages and packages from time to time through the Australian embassy in Phnom Penh.

Burglars Give Brandon High Half Day Off

Brandon High School students got a half-day vacation from school yesterday as a result of a burglary Wednesday night.

The thieves broke some glass in the school cafeteria, and school officials were wary of serving lunch because of the possibility of fragments being contained in food, Schools Supt. Clyde C. Fischer explained.

★ ★ ★

Fischer said the burglars entered by smashing five plate-glass windows, broke into the school office with crowbars and took a hatchet to a safe found there.

Since money received is deposited daily in a bank, the superintendent added, the thieves netted only about $10 from the safe. However, they also made off with some radios which were in a corridor display case, after breaking the glass in the case.

★ ★ ★

Detectives from the Pontiac State Police post, who investigated the burglary, were unavailable this morning for further details.

Death Claims Ex-Owner of City Business

Frank Stout of 168 Ottawa, former owner and operator of Oakland Machine and Stamping Co., died yesterday at the age of 81.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Ida A.; two sons, Herman Eddy of Petoskey and Lawrence Eddy of Monroville, Pa.; and two daughters, Mrs. A. G. VanAllen of Petoskey and Mrs. Herbert Twing Jr. of Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

Stout, who founded the Oakland Machine and Stamping Co. of Pontiac, retired from the business in 1958.

★ ★ ★

He attended First Presbyterian Church and was a member of Masonic Lodge 21, Moslem Temple, the American Ordinance Association and Pontiac Elks Lodge 810.

Burglar Gets $420 in Items

A burglar broke into a Pontiac home and stole about $420 worth of items, including 30 sets of gold cuff links, it was reported to police yesterday.

Dr. Roy V. Cooley 49, of 224 Astorwood told police a rifle and shells plus a radio, television set and the cuff links were missing.

★ ★ ★

He said glass was broken in the front door to gain entrance and the bedrooms were ransacked.

Sen. Huber Urges Probe of Oakland U. Morality

Sen. Robert J. Huber of Troy has called for a full-scale investigation into what he termed "disintegrating morality" at Oakland University.

The Republican legislator demanded the inquiry in a telegram sent yesterday to University Chancellor Durward B. Varner after reading reports about nude lecturer Lee Elbinger.

Huber said he would ask all state legislators from the county to take part in the hearing.

He said he has already discussed the matter with State Rep. Bill S. Huffman of Madison Heights, a Democrat, and that he too is concerned with the report.

'SITUATION FANTASTIC'

"I really want to go after this and find out what's going on," said Huber. "From what I've heard, the situation at the university is fantastic."

Huber said that he was bothered by the apparent disinterest shown by university officials.

★ ★ ★

"I really don't know what's happening to us," said Huber. "No priest or rabbi has spoken out on this, but I have received calls from citizens who are worried about what is going on at the university."

The university issued a statement yesterday denouncing Elbinger's disrobing before an audience of about 50 persons Tuesday night.

The incident occurred while he gave a 15-minute lecture on poet William Butler Yeats' "concept of personal freedom."

The next day, Elbinger, a senior, left for India where he said he would study with a guru near Bombay.

Mail Project Cheers Up GIs

Letters of Strangers Brighten Yule Season

SAIGON (UPI) — The letters are written to strangers, and usually the hand-inscribed notes begin: "Dear soldier, you don't know me, but . . ."

They come from a housewife in Casper, Wyo., a cerebral palsy victim in Mount Clemens, Mich., a first grade class in Wakefield, Mass.

★ ★ ★

During the Christmas season, more than 100 cards and letters arrive daily from the United States for distribution to the 15 USO clubs scattered throughout Vietnam. And each, somehow, helps make life in Vietnam a bit less lonely.

"I am writing you because I was told you were lonely," says a 12-year-old boy from Denver.

'CALL ME CRICKET'

"My name is David, but my friends call me Cricket sometimes. I would like you to call me Cricket because I know I would like you."

The letters, bearing a 10-cent air mail stamp, are addressed to "a lonely soldier" or "any serviceman" or "a GI who doesn't get much mail" and sent to USO Director, AP San Francisco 96243.

In the Saigon USO, which caters to 80,000 servicemen a month, they are opened, stapled to their envelopes and placed in seven barrels, each representing a handful of states arranged alphabetically.

"It's probably the best project we have going," said an attractive USO worker on a two-year assignment to Vietnam. "I don't think there's a single GI who hasn't stopped to read five or six letters."

COMMON BOND

Whether the writers are vehemently against the war or unalterably in support of it, they share a common bond: their concern for 540,000 young Americans far from home.

"I'm not so sure I believe in this war," writes a girl named Janice from a small city in Vermont. "But I am sure that I will support anyone from this country who is fighting it."

★ ★ ★

Adds a housewife from Brooklyn: "We are praying for an end to this senseless war. I know the anguish of a parent whose son is old enough to fight. We have a 20-year-old daughter who has many friends in the service."

Many letters reflect a touch so personal they are elevated to elegance by the very nature of their simplicity. Others mirror the confusion of trying to make a judgement about the war.

New Detroit Inc. Planning Police Study

DETROIT (UPI) — New Detroit Inc., the city's riot recovery agency, plans to launch a study early next year of the city's 4,700-man police department with an emphasis on police-community relations.

The Detroit Free Press, in its Friday editions, said the $367,000 study will be conducted by members of both New Detroit and representatives of Mayor Jerome Cavanagh's administration.

★ ★ ★

The two parts of the study will include:

● A look at police methods of fighting crime, especially relating to the Negro community, and design of a training program to better equip officers to better handle police functions.

● A management study geared to updating the police structure and showing ways of utilizing its personnel in a more efficient manner.

'FACTS VERIFIED'

New Detroit has felt that the study has been needed and has backed up its position in several of its papers.

"Our analysis of survey responses, letters directed to New Detroit subcommittee and task force interviews and the findings of national opinion polls verify the fact that the community, both Negro and white, considers police problems as the most critical problems that must be solved," one paper said.

★ ★ ★

In its Progress Report, published one year after the 1967 riot, New Detroit pledged to press "for an early initiation of a management review of the Detroit Police Department and for a separate community relations review and program for the Detroit Police Department."

DEAD MAN 'OVERPAID' — Dallas policeman Floyd A. Knight, 23, was slain by a gunman during a grocery store holdup Sunday night. The city auditor's office yesterday asked the slain officer's widow to return $27.72 of his pay check which he picked up before going on duty Sunday. The explanation was that Knight lacked two days, four hours and 45 minutes of working the period covered by his check. Friends of Knight collected the amount among themselves and took it to the auditor's office.

The Merrier Christmas Card

Next to Santa Claus himself, Midwest Bank Card is a Christmas shopper's best friend. It lets you buy more things at more places for less money than any other credit card in the Oakland-Macomb area.

It's accepted by over 400 local merchants—all listed in the Midwest Bank Card Shopping Guide that's available at all 20 offices of Community National Bank. Extended payment charges are 20% less than most credit cards—with no charge at all for full payment within 25 days of billing. And there are two big new advantages for Midwest Cardholders with Christmas travel plans.

First, we've gone international. A new agreement with other charge card networks makes Midwest good from coast to coast and in foreign countries. Second, automatic loan privileges at the hundreds of banks in the Midwest system now match the full amount of your personal credit limits.

All this makes Midwest the most welcome Christmas card. Use yours for your Christmas shopping. And if you don't have one yet, give yourself a present. Stop at any Community National office and apply for a Midwest Bank Card today.

We want everybody to have a Merrier Christmas.

Santa and the Hippies

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Salt on Edgar's feet turns Santa into a top. Edgar says the Butterfly Queen may know how to break the spell. Ding Dong takes a bath and prepares to visit the Queen.

CHAPTER II

The Butterfly Queen

Ding Dong felt wonderful after his bath — the first he'd had in Hippieville. He felt light and shining and as if he could breathe again. But the hippies felt sorry for what he'd had to do. To make up for it they brought him their most cherished possessions.

They gave him the popcorn popper and their last set of finger paints and their only unbroken record of rock 'n' roll music and a fistful of hippie poems.

* * *

Ding Dong knew these were things the hippies could hardly live without and still be hippies, but when he protested they said it was the very least they could do in view of the sacrifice he had made by taking a bath.

Ding Dong put the things in a paper bag. He picked up the spinning top that had been Santa Claus and carefully placed it, too, in the bag where it went on gently spinning inside the popcorn popper.

SAILED AWAY

Then he and Edgar the elf climbed into Santa's little plane and sailed away leaving the hippies in Hippieville sadder than they had been in many a day.

A long time later Ding Dong and Edgar landed in a wide meadow beside a lake in Butterfly Kingdon. Ding Dong looked around in awe.

The water was greener, the sky bluer, the sun brighter than anyone could ever have imagined. And the flowers! Jessamine and hawthorne. Marigolds and ladyslipper. Violets and daisies. Name any flower — it was there in Butterfly Kingdom.

Thousands and thousands of butterflies played among the flowers. They paid no attention to Ding Dong and the elf as they made their way to the Queen whose palace was a woven trellis of columbine and larkspur and black-eyed Susans.

CREATURE OF BEAUTY

The Queen was a creature of breathless beauty. Her silvery blue wings were spotted with pink and bordered with gold and her small head was crowned with rose.

She looked at Ding Dong kindly and asked him what he wanted.

* * *

Ding Dong was glad he had taken a bath and looked so clean. How else would he have had the nerve to face such a queen? He bowed from the waist and said "Ma'am" politely though he had never done or said such a thing in his life, try though his mother had to make him use some manners.

He told the Queen about Hesekiah and how he'd turned Santa and all the Santa Land folk into spinning tops. He asked if she knew what the three-colored string was that Santa had said would break the dwarf's spell.

QUEEN UPSET

The Queen was terribly upset. There were, she said, three threads. One black. One red. One purple. If they were all woven into one string the creature who broke it would lose all his power.

"But, alas," she moaned. "The threads are spun by three fearful witches who would never part with them."

* * *

"I will get them!" announced Edgar the elf.

But the Queen said he could not for if there was one thing the witches hated it was elves. "I myself will go,' 'she declared.

"But," protested Edgar, "if you leave your kingdom you will die!"

"What does it mean to live if Santa Claus is no more?" she wept.

Ding Dong stood up as straight and tall as he possibly could and said in a very small voice, "I'm a man. I will go."

Monday: The Black Witch

The queen was a creature of breathless beauty.

Wire Precedes GI's Yule Card

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. John E. Moore of Maryland Heights, a St. Louis suburb, received a Christmas card from Marine Pfc. Paul Dains Thursday.

* * *

Moore, Dains' brother-in-law, said the card followed a telegram informing them of the 19-year-old Marine's death in Vietnam.

Socialist Italy's Foreign Chief

ROME (AP) — Petro Nenni, Italy's leading Socialist and its new foreign minister, once admired Stalin's sense of humor, predicted that the North Atlantic Pact would provoke war and urged diplomatic relations with Red China.

Since then the Socialist party giant has changed his mind about all these things—and more.

★ ★ ★

Christian Democratic leader Mariano Rumor named Nenni Italy's foreign policy voice in the new center-left Cabinet Rumor announced Thursday night. The regime is dedicated to keeping the Communists out of the government, but for almost half the years since World War II, Nenni led his party in unity with communism.

Italian President Giuseppe Saragat, also a Socialist, once called Nenni a stooge of the Reds. But Nenni and communism came to an abrupt parting in 1956, when Russia crushed the Hungarian revolution.

PRIZE RETURNED

Nenni sent back the Stalin Peace Prize he had won and turned the prize money over to the Red Cross.

From then on he argued, browbeat and hauled his faction-ridden party onto the long, hard road back into the Italian government and alliance with the Christian Democrats against communism.

Repeatedly revolts threatened his leadership. Several times he resigned. Once he said sadly: "I am a beaten man."

But he was his party's golden orator. Each time he talked his way back to power.

CIRCLE COMPLETED

His appointment as foreign minister in Italy's 29th postwar government completes the circle. He was foreign minister in the first postwar government, an all-party regime headed by Alcide de Gasperi.

Now less than two months from his 78th birthday, the old Socialist warrior is egg-bald, stoop-shouldered and weak-eyed.

★ ★ ★

He still is a spellbinder, but his voice has begun to falter, and his hands tremble when he speaks.

Last February he underwent a prostate operation. Six years ago he slipped and fell into an icy alpine stream, hitting his head on a rock. He remained near death for several weeks.

Nenni led the Socialist Brigade in the Spanish Civil War. He was jailed in 1911 for opposing Italy's adventures in Libya. Mussolini threw him in prison three times and he was imprisoned once by the Nazi Gestapo.

★ ★ ★

Despite his long time leftist political record and former Communist ties, Nenni tells the time with Pope John XXIII's old gold watch. Pope John had received him in audience, and Pope Paul gave him the watch after Pope John died.

A cave millions of years old with stalactites up to 50 feet long has been found in central Ceylon. It may be the oldest cave known to man.

Milliken Due Raise, but State Will Save

LANSING (UPI) — Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken will get a pay raise from $22,500 to $40,000 a year when he takes over the governor's office. But state government will end up saving money on the move.

★ ★ ★

Milliken will serve the last two years of resigning Gov. George Romney's four-year term. No one will succeed to the lieutenant governor's office, so the salary for that post will end until 1971.

★ ★ ★

There also will be a savings in expense money. The new State Salary Commission has provided for $3,000 in expenses for the lieutenant governor. The governor will get $25,000 annually.

OSMUN'S GUIDE TO MEN'S WEAR

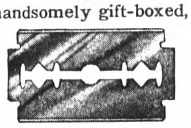
Chapter 10 Christmas Shopping...again

Official Mouseketeer Hat

Remember when your cousin Dave used to come over during the holidays? There he'd be, in his Mickey Mouse hat, eating cookies, fruitcake, apples, bananas, tomorrow's turkey and yesterday's meatloaf. He didn't care. He'd be glued in front of the tube—more interested in Spin and Marty than Annette Funicello.

Things were a lot easier in those days. You could have given him Rocket Richard's autograph, say, and he'd have been your slave. A pair of ice skates, a model car, Monopoly—any one of those would have blown his mind. Then. But now what are you going to do? Here the kid refuses to speak to you half the time, and the other half, you don't want to speak to him. Still in all, you want to give him a little something—like a gift certificate for a haircut. That would really make for a good fight.

There are, however, alternatives. Like Osmun's. We've got alternatives all over the place. Nine Flags Shaving Cologne, handsomely gift-boxed, is nice. Without being as blatant as a razor blade. Or some nice warm gloves, the kind Gates makes, for example. Dave'll be pleased because they're practical for sign-carrying.



A classic V-neck Bernhard Altmann sweater is good-looking—and you know he'll like it. He can wear it for dress. He can also wear it under his Army surplus jacket. We've got sweaters in all colors, starting at $16.00. You could give him a pair of Farah permanently pressed slacks. They make a great gift, especially if you can't stand the thought of him showing up for dinner wearing his everyday sweatpants. But try to be fair. Had he made the team, you might not be so easily offended by them now.

Ideas from Osmun's. Clockwise from the two Bernhard Altmann V-neck sweaters (they're $16 each); pop-arty ice bucket, $10; set of four matching mugs, $5; the $14 hollow owl has an empty flask inside; the 9-bottle set of Nine Flags shaving cologne, $15; Farah permanently pressed slacks, $9; Gates wool-lined leather gloves, $8; double action clothes brush, $3.

The alternative, to all the other alternatives, that is, is an Osmun's Gift Certificate. It's what's known as the zenith of alternatives. And we've got them in a selection of prices. Next, we'd like to suggest that you try to understand Dave. There's an interpreter in our Young Men's department. Come in, and he'll gladly arbitrate. See? Christmas shopping isn't so tough, after all. As a matter of fact, it's pretty easy at Osmun's—even if you haven't got a cousin Dave. In which case, disregard this ad.

Big Ten Rejects Round Robin Cage Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten rejected Thursday a program of 26 basketball games for the 1970-1971 season and kept the 24-game limit in effect.

The action by faculty representatives and athletic directors killed off plans of a round robin conference schedule that would have been possible under the 26-game chart. The 24-game schedule includes 14 conference games. If the 26-game slate had passed the voting, 18 conference games would have been set up.

Basketball coaches, who earlier mulled over a plan to have the Big Ten runner-up enter the National Invitation Tournament in New York while the champion went to the NCAA tourney, failed to make a formal application of the proposal.

The Big Ten also reaffirmed its policy of football television, prohibiting all telecasting of a sellout game unless it be by the educational station of the university. The NCAA permits sellout television if there are no other games in the area at the same time.

★ ★ ★

Other action included:

Saturday rainouts in Big Ten baseball will be rescheduled the next day unless the teams involved are mathematically eliminated from the race.

★ ★ ★

If a baseball player who receives a tender is signed by the pros between Aug. 1 and the start of the school year, the tender can be used for another athlete and not be lost from the quota.

The number of tickets for visiting schools in football was reduced from 2,500 to 2,000.

Wisconsin and Ohio State will become eligible this season for the Big Ten hockey championship. They join Minnesota, Michigan State and Michigan, who have been the only teams competing in the sport.

Athletic championship dates set included:

Cross country — Nov. 14 at MSU in 1970 and Nov. 13 at Minnesota in 1971.

Indoor track — March 6-7 at MSU in 1970 and March 5-6 at Wisconsin in 1971.

Outdoor track — May 15-16 at Illinois in 1970 and May 14-15 at Northwestern in 1971.

Tennis — 1969 at MSU May 15-17; 1970 at Minnesota May 14-16; 1971 at Northwestern May 20-22.

WINGS AT WORK — Detroit Red Wings' Gordie Howe (9) and Gerry Ehman (8) of the Oakland Seals scramble for control of the puck in front of the Seals' goal in the final moments of play in the first period of their game in Oakland last night. Watching closely are goalie Gary Smith and teammate Carol Vadnais. Red Wing in background is Gary Unger (7). Seals won, 6-0.

Sagging Wings Head Home

Detroit Routed by Seals; Canadiens, Toronto Win

By United Press International

The Detroit Red Wings' West Coast road trip was a disaster. Easily beaten by the Los Angeles Kings 6-3 Wednesday night, the Wings staggered into Oakland to be shut out by the Seals 6-0 Thursday night in the California club's biggest scoring surge of the season.

The Wings, now 11-11, have tonight off before hosting the Seals at Olympia Stadium in Detroit in a Saturday matinee. Oakland peppered Detroit goaltender Roger Crozier with 40 shots while their own goal-tender, Gary Smith, and a line of Ted Hampson, Norm Ferguson and Gerry Ehman produced their best game of the season.

Smith, a burly 6-foot-4, turned away Detroit's meager 24 shots and the Hampson-Ferguson-Ehman line accounted for 10 points in goals and assists.

TWO GOALS

Ferguson netted two goals from his right wing to spark a four-goal middle period. Ehman and Jarrett got the other two. Smith notched his second shutout in three games to tie Glenn Hall of St. Louis and Ed Giacomin of New York. Jacques Plante of St. Louis leads the National Hockey League with three this season.

★ ★ ★

Although 11 penalties were called during the game, Oakland's goals came while both teams were at full strength. In other games, the Montreal Canadiens edged St. Louis 5-4 and Toronto defeated Philadelphia 1-0.

St. Louis has never beaten Montreal in 11 meetings since the Blues were formed — including the four games in the Stanley Cup playoffs last season.

★ ★ ★

Henri Richard scored a pair of goals to pace Montreal to its triumph. The Canadiens were trailing 2-1 when Richard's first goal tied the game 2-2 with 17 seconds left in the first period. His second put Montreal ahead 3-2 with 2:13 elapsed in the second period and goals by J. C. Tremblay and Serge Savard iced the win.

Craig Cameron scored twice for the losers.

★ ★ ★

Ron Ellis scored the only goal of the game late in the second period as Toronto nipped Philadelphia. Goalie Johnny Bower made 27 saves to get the shutout over the Flyers, who've gone 10 games without a victory.

Big 10 Agrees to Extensions of Eligibility

CHICAGO (AP)—Faculty representatives at the annual winter business meeting of the Big Ten athletic conference Thursday granted eligibility extensions to 11 athletes at Michigan State and the University of Michigan, as well as to a Detroit basketball player at Iowa.

★ ★ ★

Also approved were petitions by six Indiana swimmers who returned from the Olympics too late to enroll for the fall term. They were cleared for varsity competition this semester.

Ben McGilmer, a 6-foot-7 Detroit native playing basketball at Iowa, also was cleared.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State wrestler Mike Allen was granted one year eligibility after he sits out a year under the transfer regulation;

KEPT OUT

An extra year of eligibility was approved for 10 athletes whose injuries or illnesses kept them from competition this year or in 1967:

Michigan— Bob Baumgarner, Tom Weinmann, Dave Farabee, Werner Hall, Jon Kramer and Joe Lukz, all football; and Bob Harmony, swimming, and Erroll Seaton, track.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State — Jon Kenne, baseball, and Dennis Smith, gymnastics.

Tiger Film Available

DETROIT (AP) — A special film of the Detroit Tigers' 1968 World Series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals was shown for the first time Thursday.

Although only newsmen attended the showing, Tigers public relations director Hal Middlesworth said six prints of the film are now available free of charge to various organizations. He said he already has more than 300 requests for the film.

Umpires Make Headway

THE PONTIAC PRESS
SPORTS
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1968 C—1

Cronin Huddles With Officials

BOSTON (AP) — The historic first meeting between the American League president and the Umpires Association was like a "live-in" as threats of a congressional probe were issued in Washington.

AL President Joe Cronin, who jolted the umpiring world by firing veterans Al Salerno and Bill Valentine last September, and representatives of the Umpires Association met for 2½ hours behind closed doors Thursday at league headquarters.

★ ★ ★

Neither Cronin nor the association representatives had much to say after the meeting. However, they went out of their way to indicate a sweetness and light atmosphere prevailed.

About the same time, Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., chairman of a House labor subcommittee, said in Washington that plans for early hearings on the firing of the two umpires have been expanded to include the labor problems of professional athletes generally.

"I have seen no evidence that American League officials are taking affirmative steps to give these two men a hearing or any other kind of reconsideration," said Thompson, who apparently was unaware of the Boston meeting.

Thompson, who said he was concerned because he is a baseball fan, hinted in a statement that he may not open his hearings if Cronin reinstates the umpires fired with a couple of weeks left in the season.

John Reynolds Jr. of Chicago, the Umpires Association attorney, and Cronin said in a joint statement that "the matter of Salerno-Valentine was discussed and further discussion will be held."

AFL Knot Tightens

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs, tied for the American Football League's Western Division lead, battle Denver's young Broncos Saturday afternoon.

It's a must game for the Chiefs, deadlocked with Oakland in the West. If both the Chiefs and Raiders win this weekend, there'll be a playoff to see who will meet Eastern Division champion New York for the AFL crown.

BEST TEAM?

Denver Coach Lou Saban says Kansas City is "perhaps the best team in the league at this moment," but says he expects a good game.

The Broncos have looked better than they have all season in the past two weeks, despite losses to both San Diego and Oakland.

Rookie quarterback Marlin Briscoe will take charge for Denver and is expected to rely heavily on receivers Al Denson and Eric Crabtree.

Denver's running backs have been hit by injuries and last week Saban was forced to use flanker Mike Haffner as his halfback.

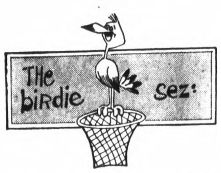
Len Dawson will guide the Chief attack and receive a lot of help from halfbacks Bob Holmes, a top rookie, and former Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett. Kansas City's defense is one of the best in the AFL.

Ty Tyson Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Ty Tyson, a pioneer sports commentator who narrated one of the first regular big league baseball games ever broadcast, died Thursday at the age of 80.

Tyson died in a hospital in Grosse Pointe Farms, a Detroit suburb. For some months previously he had been in a nursing home. Tyson had suffered an ailment of the arteries for several years.

On April 19, 1927, Tyson was the commentator for the first broadcast in Detroit of a regular baseball game. The contest was between Detroit and Cleveland, the Tigers won it 8-5.



Our little fair feathered friend the Birdie had his nest blitzed Tuesday when he missed the Blue Plate Special, but he managed to pick four of his six predictions.

Northern and Highland Park playing their first games were among the unknown in quality and our friend with the beak just didn't look into their potential . . . a good word for a birdie.

The Birdie sees tonight's games this way:

Pontiac Central over Bay City
Waterford over Walled Lake
Lake Orion over Troy
Rochester over Clawson
Kimball over Seaholm
Ferndale over Hazel Park
Clarkston over Andover

THE BLUE PLATE SPECIALS:

Northern over Stevenson
West Bloomfield over Kettering
OL St. Mary over Pontiac Catholic

Grid Finale Sunday

Lions Head for Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Detroit Lions have a chance to end their season Sunday at Washington with something which has eluded them through most of the season: a winning streak.

The Lions toppled the Atlanta Falcons last week to bring their National Football League record to 4-7-2. The Redskins have been having troubles too— they're 4-9.

★ ★ ★

After dropping the season's opener, the Lions rallied for victories over Chicago and Green Bay before losing. A key to last week's victory was the accurate passing of quarterback Bill Munson.

Munson hit on 21 of 28 passes most of them going to flanker Billy Gambrell.

"I never had it so good," said Gambrell. "That's the first time in my six years in the league that I scored three (touchdowns) in one game." Final score in the Atlanta game was 24-7.

Chiefs Journey to BC Central

Pontiac Central's young cagers make their first road trip of the season tonight when they journey to Bay City for a Saginaw Valley Conference clash with the Central Wolves.

The BC Central cagers are older but they don't have the shooting potential of the PCH Chiefs. Both teams are seeking their first league win.

CHIEFS EVEN

Pontiac has trimmed Bloomfield Hills Lahser and lost to Flint Central after seeming on the verge of an upset win over the SVC title contenders.

* * *

But the Chiefs' inexperience led them into foul trouble and ball-handling errors that enabled the Flint quintet to overcome a 19-point deficit and pull away in the late going.

Bay City Central so far has decisioned Fenton in overtime, then was pounded by Saginaw in the SVC opener for both. Tonight's game is the Wolves' home opener.

GOOD SHOTS

They will have to correct their defensive shortcomings, particularly in the rebounding phase of play, to keep pace with PCH's quick, "jumping jacks" who like to shoot the basketball from all over the floor.

Tonight's schedule is the busiest one of the young season and finds most of the area teams in action.

FULL SLATE

There's a full slate on tap in the Inter-Lakes, Wayne-Oakland and Oakland A.

Pontiac Northern entertains Livonia Stevenson in the top I-L game, while Waterford visits Walled Lake and Southfield Lathrup hosts Farmington.

KETTERING TRAVELS

The big one in the W-O finds Kettering at West Bloomfield. In others, Northville is at Milford, Bloomfield Hills Andover at Clarkston and Brighton at Clarenceville.

Lake Orion's Dragone will try to make it 3-0 in a trip to Troy in a big O-A contest, while Rochester entertains Clawson, Avondale visits Madison and Romeo journeys to Utica in other games.

LEAD AT STAKE

On the parochial front, Pontiac Catholic (3-0) plays host to Orchard Lake St. Mary (3-0) in a battle for the lead in the Northwest Catholic League.

Elsewhere in the Northwest, St. Francis de Sales visits Waterford Our Lady, Farmington Our Lady is at Royal Oak St. Mary and Ferndale St. James plays host to Detroit St. Rita.

OPENING NIGHT

It's opening night in the Northwest Suburban with the top game at North Farmington where Birmingham Groves will provide the opposition. In others, Detroit Thurston is at Oak Park and Livonia Franklin visits Wayne John Glenn.

Waterford Mott will try to end a three-game losing streak this evening at Dearborn Annapolis, while Ortonville (1-1) takes tough Lake Fenton.

Elsewhere on the schedule, Bloomfield Hills Roeper is at Maumee Valley, Detroit Salesian at Birmingham Brother Rice, Royal Oak Kimball at Birmingham Seaholm, Hazel Park at Ferndale and Berkley at Southfield.

TOP SCORER — One of the big guns in the arsenal of Waterford Our Lady of Lakes this season has been Jerry Yezbick, who flipped in 21 points as the Lakers downed St. Rita Tuesday night, 67-52. The win was the first of the campaign for the Lakers, who (1-2) will entertain St. Francis de Sales this evening.

2 Cagers Spur Union Squad

Willie Peck and John Hooper collected 23 points apiece last night in sparking Local 596 to an 83-42 victory over Roy White's Unbeatables in city recreation basketball.

The union squad roared away to a 42-18 lead at halftime and cossted the rest of the way. Azeli Powell paced the losers with 12 points.

In another game, Roy White's No. 1 team checked in with an 83-69 decision over Perry Drugs. Rudy Ransome flipped in 20 points and Walter Moore added 16 to spark the winners. Richard Tredeu paced Perry with 22.

In other games Conn's Clothes gained a forfeit decision over Black Culture Center and Pontiac Police picked up a forfeit win over Town & Country.

21 Point Spree Helps Victory in Waterford

A 21-point effort by Gary Hayward plus a 14-point production from Dick DeWeese powered Duek's Speedo to a 60-55 victory over Coulacos Insurance last night in Waterford Township American League action.

Haywards also figured in the scoring for the Coulacos team. Bud tossed in 16 and Bill added 15 to set the pace.

In other AL games, Kampsen Realty downed Genesee, 59-39, and Lighthouse Lanes gained a forfeit win over Lakeland Pharamacy. Mike Miley paced Kampsen with 15 markers and Bob Burt matched that total for Genesee.

'CACTION

In Class C International League play, Mel's Sport Shop whipped Spencer Floor, 52-44, Irwin Realty downed M. A. Benson, 51-37, and CIO 594 rolled past Sparks-Griffin, 61-37.

Tim Burt's 14 points sparked Mel's win while Bud Bradon flipped in 13 markers to spur the Irwin attack.

CIO, paced by Jerry Beseau's 18 points, raced to a 30-14 lead at halftime and coasted. Tim Mahrle tossed in 20 for Sparks-Griffin.

Table Netters End Deadlock

Mr. Steak knocked off Elliott Engineering last night, 5-1, to take the lead in the National Division of the Pontiac Table Tennis Association.

Starting last night's play, Mr. Steak, West Side Mobil and Richardson Dairy were deadlocked for the No. 1 spot.

West Side stayed within a point by downing Baskin & Robbins, 4-2, while Richardson Dairy slipped five points off the pace in a 5-1 loss to China City.

China City heads the American Division with 40 points. Dawn Donuts (38) holds second place.

Pontiac Open Squads Await Big Semifinals

Bowlers Start Huron Action at 9 Sunday

It will be a long day of bowling as 510 semifinalists in the Pontiac Open Bowling Championship take the lanes starting at 9:00 a.m. Sunday at Huron Bowl.

Because of the huge field, nine squads will participate in the semifinals and 30 per cent will earn their way into the finals Sunday Dec. 22 at Airway Lanes.

* * *

As an added incentive for the semifinalists, the top score of the day Sunday will earn $50 and the runnerup $25.

TWO DETERMINED

Two prizes have already been won in the tournament, the Mix 'n Match Doubles and the Mix 'n Match Team. Rose Davis and Larry Angott with a total of 1366 at Cooley Lanes took the doubles, while Huron's team of Jack Aldred, Joe Prey, Willie May, Pat Copabianco and Dave Breeding with 3310 total took the team.

Each team receives $50 as winners, plus a trophy for each member.

All bowlers listed for the semifinal squads should report at least 15 minutes before starting time. Tournament officials reserve the right to default bowlers failing to appear at their scheduled times.

* * *

Shirley Pointer is supervising the semifinals at Huron Bowl and any problems in the squad and any problems in the squad schedule should be cleared before designated time. Because before the huge field each squad must get underway at the exact time listed.

Bowlers will pay $2.25 at the time of registration to cover bowling fees and scoring costs. The added few cents difference has made it possible to give the prizes in the semifinals.

* * *

Every bowler who enters the finals is assured of gaining at least a $10 prize.

The Actual's Invitational is scheduled for 300 Bowl Sunday morning Dec. 22 at 10:00 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. The finals at Airway will have two squads at 1:00 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Title Hopes Gone

Pride Moves LA's Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Title hopes went down the drain a week ago for Los Angeles and so the Rams hook up with the Coastal Division champion Baltimore Colts in what might be called the Sunken Bowl Sunday.

A near-capacity crowd of 75,000 is expected for this National Football League finale for the Rams. It was sold out weeks ago when it appeared Baltimore and Los Angeles would be playing for the division crown.

The Chicago Bears wrecked that prospect last Sunday, 17-16, giving the Rams a 10-2-1 record. Baltimore, hustling by Green Bay 16-3, stands 12-1-0 and will meet either Minnesota or Chicago for the Western Division title.

Ram linebacker Maxie Baughan summed up Sunday's game this way: "The Rams still intend to end the season as a winner. The Bears knocked us out of the division race but I think we'll try even harder, if it's possible, to beat the Colts.

"It would take some of the sting out to know that they wound up with as many losses as we did."

* * *

Baltimore Coach Don Shula earlier this week said his team could concentrate on the Western Division title game at Baltimore Dec. 22.

But of the game here, Shula added, "We'll want to win that game, of course. We know the Rams will be ready and we've got to keep our momentum going."

Business 5 Wins

DEARBORN (UPI) — Detroit College of Business, breaking loose late in the second half behind the shooting of Maurie Kocher, moved to a 100-81 basketball victory over Northwood Institute Thursday night.

O. J. Stands Tall in Gridiron Circles

By DUFFY DAUGHERTY
Head Football Coach
Michigan State University

Even on the banquet circuit Southern California's O. J. Simpson is a hard man to pin down.

Simpson was so mobbed by tuxedo draped autograph seekers during the recent National Football Foundation dinner in New York that Chicago's Jay Berwanger, winner of the first Heisman Award in 1935, had trouble getting near him.

"I don't even want his autograph," Berwanger complained. "I just want to meet him and shake his hand."

Berwanger made a second effort later and congratulated Simpson for winning football's No. 1 individual award. There is only one thing wrong with Simpson. He has to use four fingers to sign O. Jay and his surname because he gets writer's cramp.

When the Philadelphia Eagles had lost their first 11 games it looked like Joe Kuharich's hapless team would get first pick in next month's pro draft of college seniors.

Someone asked Simpson what he thought about playing in Philadelphia and O. J. replied that he didn't like the town. He quickly amended that by saying that on his one trip there he was too tired to enjoy the city of Brotherly Love.

However, when O. J. went from New York to Washington to accept the Pigskin Club award he was smart. He flew right over Philadelphia.

Simpson is no accident. With his swivel hips, jukes, speed and high stepping moves he scored 54 TDs in two years for San Francisco City College. Last year he scored 14 TDs for the USC Trojans and this year he crossed the alumni stripe 22 times.

★ ★ ★

It'll be worth the price of admission just to see him play in the Rose Bowl against unbeaten and untied Ohio State on New Year's Day. After that it's the Hula Bowl on Jan. 4 in Honolulu then it's the pro draft with practically every team trying to deal for his services.

O. J. is the greatest runner I have ever seen in college football. Purdue's Leroy Keyes is as fine an all around back as I've ever seen. And Notre Dame's Terry Hanratty is the finest quarterback.

No pro team could go wrong making any of these three their No. 1 draft choice.

The Buffalo Bills won only one game in the AFL and as the least successful pro team this year they get the No. 1 pick. Maybe they won't take Simpson but the phone lines to upstate New York must be busy because the team that gets a Simpson could trade him for half a dozen good players to build a winner.

Simpson is a very obliging fellow. One of my friends shoved a Hall of Fame program under O. J.'s nose and told him what to write.

"To Duffy," he wrote, "Glad we didn't play you this year! O. Jay Simpson, USC."

Well, here's my message to O. Jay:

"Our Spartans are glad we didn't have to stop you this year We had enough trouble trying to tackle you in your junior year."

OCC Quintet in Semifinals of Tourney

Special to The Press

LANSING — Oakland Community College Orchard Ridge gained the semifinals of the Concordia basketball tournament here last night by rolling past Lansing CC, 84-74.

Orchard Ridge will play Concordia tonight. The other semifinal game will have Highland Park meeting Sturgis Glen Oaks. Finals will be tomorrow night.

Highland Park disposed of Southwestern, 75-67; Glen Oaks beat Washtenaw, 84-76; and Concordia downed Monroe, 87-79, in last night's other opening games.

BALANCED SCORING

Former Royal Oak St. Mary star Mike Charette led the balanced OCCOR attack with 18 points. Four others were in double figures, including Fred Street who made his first appearance after recovery from a fractured ankle. He netted 15.

Orchard Ridge led all the way. At one time the bulge reached 21 points.

Rockets Shine in Cage 'Comeback'

By the Associated Press

The Toledo Rockets, a disappointment last season, are out to redeem themselves in college basketball this campaign.

Bob Miller and Steve Mix combined for 53 points to lead the Rockets to a decisive 88-65 victory over 15th-ranked Western Kentucky in New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

"We have four seniors who were 23-1 as sophomores, but fell to 16-8 last year," said Bob Nichols, Toledo coach. "They're out to prove something this season.

"Everything went right for us, but we won't know how good we are until we play 10th-ranked St. Bonaventure Saturday night."

BIG SCORERS

Miller scored 28 points and Mix 25 as the Mid-American Conference club overwhelmed the Hilltoppers from the Ohio Valley Conference. It was Western Kentucky's first defeat after five wins at home.

"They just drove the ball down our throat," commented Johnny Oldham, the Western Kentucky mentor.

"We particularly hate to lose in the big city," Oldham went on. "Our tonsils are sore from looking up at these big buildings."

Jim McDaniels, the Hilltoppers' 7-foot soph, tallied 16 points and fouled out midway of the second half. Jerome Perry was high with 24 points. Rutgers crushed St. Louis 91-67 behind Dick Stewart's 30 points in the first Garden game.

Ron Washington also scored 30 points in leading Wichita State to a surprise 93-88 home court victory over Iowa. Washington got the go-ahead basket with less than two minutes to play after John Johnson's layup had tied the score for the Hawkeyes at 87-87.

It was Wichita's first victory and the first defeat for the 19th-ranked Hawkeyes. Western Kentucky and Iowa were the only teams in The Associated Press top 20 to see action.

Colorado continued to impress with a 112-81 rout of Arizona State at Boulder. Cliff Meely's 22 points paced the Buffaloes, who now boast a 5-1 record.

Ralph Barnett's layup gave George Washington an overtime 74-73 victory over the Georgetown Hoyas.

Andover Evens Record With 61-40 Triumph

The Barons of Bloomfield Hills Andover set seven varsity records last night in swimming to a 61-40 decision over Warren Cousino.

Steve Kuzma, Brad Adams, Ted May and Rich Troost opened the record-setting evening with a 1:52.2 clocking in the medley relay.

Dave Groth followed with a 2:00.7 time in the 200 freestyle and a :52.7 clocking in the 100; Chick Adams lowered the 50 freestyle to 23.9 seconds; Jeff Klann turned in a 2:18.5 in the individual medley; Rich Matheny's 225 points in the diving produced another mark; and Kuzma turned in a 1:00.8 time to set a 100 backstroke record.

The win evened the Barons record at 1-1.

Skiing Mark May Be Set This Winter

LANSING (AP) — Record numbers of skiers are expected to slip down Michigan's numerous snow-covered slopes this winter, the Michigan Tourist Council predicts.

A record 300,000 skiers spent an estimated $30 million last winter, the council reported.

★ ★ ★

Michigan has more snowfall every winter than any state east of the Rockies, with the exception of a few isolated spots in New England.

Michigan has more than 600 slopes to challenge both expert and novice skiers, with more than 50 chair lifts and 325 rope tows, T-bar and pomalifts, the council said.

Simpson vs. Keyes

Stars in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (AP) — Nine first team 1968 All-Americans—paced by Southern California's fabulous O. J. Simpson and Leroy Keyes of Purdue—will appear in the 23rd annual Hula Bowl football game at Honolulu Stadium Jan. 4.

★ ★ ★

In all, 21 All-American grid stars are listed in the North-South roster including three members of The Associated Press' All-American backfield. They are Simpson, Keyes and Chris Gilbert of Texas. The fourth member of the AP backfield, Notre Dame's Terry Hanratty, was scheduled to play, but will miss the game because of a knee injury.

Simpson and Gilbert will be on the South team, Keyes will head the North squad.

Two other first string all-American players will be on the North team with Keyes. They are center John Didion of Oregon State and back Al Worley of Washington.

Other first string All-American players on the South squad are left tackle Mike Montler of Colorado, right tackle Ed White of California, back Roger Wehrli of Missouri, and Ron Sellers, the split end from Florida State, who will play at halfback in the Hula Bowl.

North coaches will be Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse and Larry Price of Hawaii. Coaching the South will be Dan Devine of Missouri, John McKay of USC and Dave Holmes of Hawaii.

Skippers Fall on Mats, but Not Vikings

Walled Lake and Clarkston checked in with victories last night, but Waterford's Skippers ran into trouble in their wrestling match with Porth Huron.

The Vikings of Walled Lake pinned a 24-17 setback on Warren Fitzgerald, while Clarkston rolled past the young Barons of Bloomfields Hills Andover, 50-6.

WATERFORD FALLS

Waterford dropped a 27-15 decision to the Port Huron squad.

★ ★ ★

The win upped Clarkston's record to 2-0 and a couple of the Wolves ran their individual marks to 5-0. Bud Mumpower remained unbeaten at 103 pounds and Al Hamilton continued his string in the 145-pound class.

Walled Lake's win evened its record at 1-1 and the Vikings will play the role of host in a quadrangular tomorrow. Providing opposition in the meet will be Owosso, Lansing Everett and Hazel Park.

Tigers Harvest More Honors

CHICAGO (UPI) — The World Champion Detroit Tigers did more than just win their first pennant in 23 years this past baseball season—they accounted for 19 new records.

Official figures released here today by the American League showed that Eddie Mathews, now retired, also helped rewrite the record book as he set marks for most games in the majors for a third baseman (2,181), most chances accepted at third (6,361) and most assists at third (4,322).

Outfielder Jim Northrup set a record for most grand slam homers in a week (3). Northrup also tied three others, most grand slams in a game (2), most grand slams in a month (3) and most consecutive grand slams (2).

★ ★ ★

Bill Freehan, the Tiger catcher, had three American League marks — most putouts in a season (977), most chances accepted in a season (1,051) and most times hit by a pitcher in a season (24). He tied two records, most times hit by a pitcher in a game (3) and fewest stolen bases (0).

The Tigers won the club slugging percentage honors with a .385 mark while Frank Howard of Washington took the individual title with a .552 slugging average. Boston's Carl Yastrzemski received the most bases on balls (119) and Minnesota's Tony Oliva was walked intentionally the most times (16).

BEGINS AT 40

But with all the records set, it is Hoyt Wilhelm who may be the living testimony to the old adage that life begins at 40.

The 45-year-old knuckleballer broke six major league records and three American League marks last season with the Chicago White Sox.

★ ★ ★

The veteran relief specialist set marks for most consecutive errorless games for a pitcher (319), most games in the majors as a relief pitcher (885), most career victories in relief (111), most games finished in a career (587), most innings pitched in relief (1,164) and most games pitched in the majors (937).

Wilhelm also set league records for most games finished (404), most games as a relief pitcher (526) and most games won as a relief pitcher (68).

OTHER RECORDS

Howard also helped rewrite the books in 1968. The home run leader in the majors with 44, Howard went on a rampage in May to set major league marks for most homers in a week (11), most home runs in five consecutive games (8) and most homers in six consecutive games (10).

He established a league record for most home runs in four straight games (7) and tied a league mark by hitting a home run in six consecutive games.

The towering Howard also had an undesirable record of striking out over 100 times for the seventh straight year and tied marks for fewest stolen bases (0) and fewest times caught stealing (0).

By JERE CRAIG
Gen Bradley, secretary-treasurer of the Pontiac Woman's Bowling Association, is expecting a large bundle from the mailman Monday morning; and most of the correspondence, she hopes, won't be Christmas cards.
She's happy to receive the glad tidings of the season, but right now her big concern is the anticipated late rush of entries from the PWBA members for the annual city tournament.
The deadline is midnight Sunday, although Gen will probably accept any "walk-in" applications carried by team captains or their representatives to the association's bright new offices one flight down from the main floor at Pontiac State Bank.
"I don't know why but the women usually wait 'til the last minute and then we have a lot of entries come in the Monday morning after the deadline," Gen noted yesterday.
This year's applications have been below normal and the hard-working PWBA official is hopeful the past pattern will repeat itself. The tournament entry record of just over 200 teams was reached two years ago.
The 36th city women's tournament will begin Mar. 1-2 at Orchard Lanes. The format is the same—singles, doubles, team and all events titles will be determined.
The entry fee is $5 per event plus $1 for the all events. The mailing address is PWBA, B2, Pontia State Bank, Pontiac, 48058.
SPARE PINS
The 300 game rolled by Stroh's star Mike Samardzija, Jr., who laid the foundation for his excellent professional career right here in Pontiac, last month in the annual Pinky's Pro-Am Tournament is his first sanctioned one.
Young Mike has maybe a dozen perfect ones in practice and several 298 or 299's. He and Pete Ciccinelli took the title, making Mike the first one ever to win it twice.
★ ★ ★
One tournament for which Mike won't be eligible for several years is the annual Old Timers meet. The 38th renewal is set for Jan. 11 at State Fair Bowl.
Only men with at least 25 years of sanctioned pinspilling behind them are eligible. The championship will go to the best actual three-game total by an entrant at least 50-years-old.
There are also categories for under-50, 50-59 years, 60-69 and 70-up The reservations will close Dec. 21 and must be made through secretary Clarence Schmidt at 934-4373.
★ ★ ★
All contestants in Sunday's Pontiac Open semifinals are reminded they must register for their squad at least 15 minutes before the assigned starting time.
Due to the number of qualifiers and the tight schedule, no squad will be delayed for a tardy bowler.

BOWLING

Art Pearson stood out Wednesday night in the Cooley Lanes Classic with his fine 221-255—681 tempo commanding the laurels and sparking the first-place Angott Vending team.

Teammates Bob Gormong (215-236—648; and Bob Vangeloff (232—625) also made some noise. Ed Lovell hit a 246—627 duo for Chandler Heating, and Ron Cotner had 244-213—660 for Wonderland Lanes.

At nearby Wonderland Monday night, in the Masters League, Elmer Dixon took top honors with his 246—671 pair. Close behind were Bob Chamberlain (677), George Bishop (245) and Dav Martins (244).

The Sportsman's Bar team had a 3001 actual, while Conklin-Palmer posted 1077 actual pins in one game, and Wonderland 1052.

U.S. Sees Red Buildup for 2 Key Thrusts in S. Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. analysts say there are strong indications that the North Vietnamese are preparing thrusts in two key areas of South Vietnam, principally with troops brought back from Cambodia and Laos.

* * *

These analysts estimate as many as 70,000 enemy troops are likely to be involved in a new winter offensive, which some officials believe entered its early stages this week.

* * *

As they judge it, the enemy's aim is not to take and hold cities but to show—with the peace talks stalled in Paris—that North Vietnam is still able to take the battle initiative.

* * *

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford told a news conference Tuesday it was too early then to tell whether the enemy planned a winter offensive, although there had been signs of a buildup.

EVIDENCE FIRMED

Apparently the evidence crystallized to the satisfaction of the analysts later.

* * *

About three months ago, some 30,000 to 40,000 North Vietnamese soldiers in five divisions were reported by U.S. intelligence to have pulled out of South Vietnam into sanctuaries in neighboring Cambodia and Laos.

The prevailing military opinion at the time was that those divisions were being refitted, resupplied and reinforced for a fourth offensive this year.

* * *

High-level U.S. leaders chose to regard that pullback, and an accompanying lull in the fighting, as an indication that North Vietnam wanted to get down to serious peace negotiations in Paris.

NUMBERS INCREASED

Now, with the peace talks still stalled, reports reaching Washington indicate that the enemy's 2½ divisions, left behind when the others pulled back in September, have been increased to six divisions totaling about 45,000 men in the Cambodian border area of Tay Ninh and Binh Long Province northwest and north of Saigon.

* * *

This force, analysts said, is expected to push along highway 22, which runs southward from Cambodia through Tay Ninh city.

* * *

At the same time, they reported that between 2½ and 3 North Vietnamese divisions, totaling 20,000 to 25,000 men, have been detected moving into South Vietnam from Laos.

The objective of this force, officials said, seems to be to attempt some spectacular move in the vicinity of Hue, the ancient imperial capital of South Vietnam and scene of some of the heaviest fighting during the Tet offensive early this year.

American authorities contended the enemy is incapable of sustained fighting because many of the arms and food caches set up by the North Vietnamese and Vietcong have been captured by allied troops.

Some experts estimated the enemy cannot keep up a prolonged fight for more than five days in succession because of this supply situation.

Therefore, these officials reasoned, the enemy objectives are relatively short, sharp offensive actions to get maximum attention in Paris and elsewhere in the world.

Junior Editors Quiz on SEAHORSE

QUESTION: How does a seahorse swim?

* * *

ANSWER: The seahorse is a very small creature, only 6 to 10 inches long. The resemblance of its head to that of a real horse (1) is one of the coincidences of nature.

The snout, location of the eyes, the bumps on the forehead and the back of the neck where a horse's mane is located, the arching of the neck—all suggest the appearance of a horse's head. But this resemblance goes further than the head and neck.

The reason seahorses don't have legs is that they are not land animals requiring legs; they are fish. They have only a slight resemblance to regular fish. However, look closely at (2) and you will see a fin on the seahorse's back which he beats back and forth to move along with, and a fin is the sign of a fish.

There is another small fin back of the gills, almost suggesting an ear. The seahorse has a remarkable tail which he can curl in different directions, often wrapping it around a water weed to anchor himself in place. An equally strange seahorse relative is (2) the pipefish.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Birmingham Branch Starts Yule Season

By JODY HEADLEE
Garden Editor, The Pontiac Press

Clever arrangements, wall hangings and table and room settings heralded the arrival of the Christmas season in Birmingham.

Thanks to the efforts of the Birmingham branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, residents and visitors alike could stroll through the Community House and glean ideas to adapt to their own homes and holiday decor.

* * *

Former Michigan Division President Mrs. Marvin Katke's invitational arrangement characterized the show's theme "Heralding the Holidays" with massed pine trees and three golden horns suspended from the stage ceiling.

Plans for the gala event absorbed much of Mrs. Lester Newbern's past summer as she set about refurbishing exhibit niches with a fresh coat of celadon green.

TEAM WORK

A branch member of little more than a year, Mrs. Newbern was quick to compliment the industry of her comembers.

"The show has been a delightful experience," she said. "It was a privilege to work with the members and a marvelous opportunity to get to know them better."

* * *

Commitee chairmen assisting Mrs. Newbern included Mesdames Seth B. Slawson, and Hobart D. Andreae, schedule; Clifford Ross, staging; Aldo Patria, properties; F. Gordon Davis, registration and A. H. Webster, classification.

Others were Mesdames C. E. Nickel, judges and clerks; Herbert Carr, publicity; John Rossier Jr., hospitality; and D. H. Goldsmith, social.

SIX SECTIONS

The six-section show included table settings, artistic arrangements, junior gardening, horticulture, conservation and arts and crafts.

Winner of a blue ribbon and the best of show tricolor in the arrangements section was Mrs. Lewis Dibble's interpretation of "A Christmas Welcome."

* * *

The exterior door arrangement incorporated a hand carved wood piece and weathered driftwood with its focal point natural materials and a single Christmas ornament.

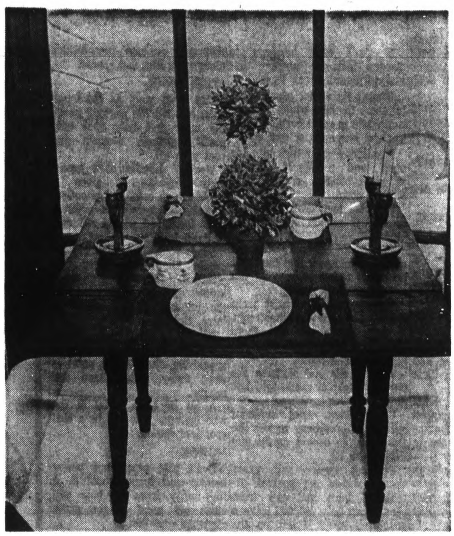
Branches of spruce and pine sprayed gold added holiday spice to the grouping.

Class chairmen were Mesdames R. A. Taggart, G. W. Chesley, William Hyland, George Dixon, Robert Fowler, Richard Kaltz and Charles Davison.

Others included Mesdames William McCallum, Norman Berry, Paul Pentecost, William Burlingame, Robert Leeder, Sydney McKenna and Russell Gilpin.

Mrs. Chester Wisniewski is the branch president.

WARM-UP TIME—A bit of whimsy earned Mrs. Carl Rigg a red ribbon with her entry in the "Deck the Hall and Let's Be Merry" class. A snow-capped overhang of spruce boughs sheltered Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus as they warmed themselves by a red felt pot-bellied stove. A red velvet ribbon completed the wall hanging.



Pontiac Press Photos by Ron Unternahrer

BLUE RIBBON—Mrs. David Bates earned a first place with her holiday tea party setting for the small set. Using an authentic child's table which has delighted many little girls since it was new in the 1800s, Mrs. Bates chose red place mats, miniature Santa Claus' cups, white dishes, red candlesticks with white candles and a topiary centerpiece.

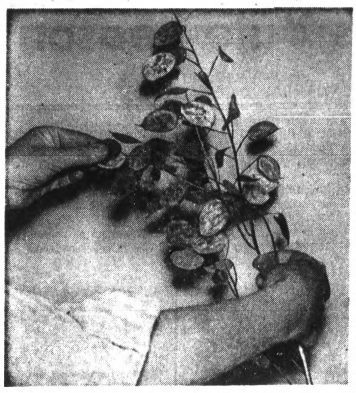
ENTRANCE HALL—Following a formal approach secured a red ribbon in Class 2 of the artistic arrangements section for its creator Mrs. Kenneth Moore. A gold angel mounted on forest green velvet held a curved arrangement of grape ivy and colorful clusters of pyracantha berries.

WINTER WONDERLAND—Interpreting "Chilly Winds Go Whistling By," Mrs. Ronald Goforth created a forest snow scene. A jolly, plump snowman skated across the mirror pond as deer paused in the snow-covered clearing. Frost-covered spruce boughs and chunky pine cone trees furnished the backdrop. Judges awarded Mrs. Goforth a blue ribbon for her efforts

JOINT VENTURE—Mrs. P. N. Askounes and Mrs. David Bates combined their efforts to produce the invitational tea setting and fireplace grouping. Pink sweetheart roses, Ruby celosia, gypsophilia and a collection of pewter candlesticks accent the table's spruce and cedar boughs. The colonial cranberry of the candles was duplicated in the arrangement's velvet ribbon. The mantel also followed the cranberry and pewter theme.

TRICOLOR WINNER—Winning a blue ribbon first and the coveted table tricolor was the entry by Mrs. Richard Kaltz. On a cork-topped table, Mrs. Kaltz achieved color excitement through Christmas red candles in brass candlesticks highlighted by juniper sprigs and pine cones and a gold-leaf cherub framed by a similar bed of juniper and cones with white chrysanthemums and a red velvet bow.

CHRISTMAS COMFORT—Mrs. Richard Corkery's invitational ski lodge setting proved equally inviting to the sports-minded and the stay-at-homers. Trimming the pine Christmas tree were red and green costumed elves hanging from red ribbon swings. Greens roping marked the window frames and the fireplace. A red banded hot punch bowl with matching cups and red poinsettia napkins held the promise of a cordial end to a day on the slopes.



FLIP SIDES — To change the natural brown color of silver leaf to silver, flip off the outer covering on either side of each seed pod.

Moonpennies Make Lovely Decorations

It looks like a dull brown spray of roundish seed pods until you flip off the outer covering on each side of each pod.

Then you see the silver lining that gives this plant its beauty and several of its common names.

Silver leaf and moonpenny both refer to this silvery membrane to which the seeds are attached.

Pope's money, Pope's penny and honesty are names that call attention to the coinlike shape of the seed pods.

No matter by which name you call this plant, the silvery sprays are beautiful to use in winter arrangements.

BIENNIAL

This plant is a biennial. Seeds may be planted in spring and will produce leaves the first year.

The second year the plants will bear sprays of beautiful red-violet flowers which mature into the seed pods you see in the picture.

Silver leaf is very easy to grow. Just choose a lightly shaded place in your garden and scatter the seeds early next spring.

Then forget about them until the summer of the following year when you'll see the flowers and know that the seed pods soon will form.

Gardeners Beware

Winter Can Shorten Tool Life

It isn't what happens to garden tools all summer that always shortens their lives.

During the winter a good deal happens to them while they remain idle in some corner of the garage, basement or tool shed.

Small rust spots turn into big ones and metal is ruined. Wooden handles rot. Rubber breaks down.

Put your tools away clean and they will remain as good as new.

Put them away sharpened and in good repair and they will be ready to use as soon as you want them next spring.

Remove caked up dirt from spades and hoes and other tools. A wire brush will get them clean in a hurry. Steel wool will get the metal bright.

Take a file and sharpen the cutting edges of spade and hoe now.

Wipe clean metal surfaces with oil. An oily rag makes the job easy, so does a spray gun filled with oil.

Pruning shears and grass shears should get special attention. Jpice and sap from plants you have cut will have a corrosive effect if left on the blades.

Kerosene is a cheap solvent that will remove this residue along with dirt and grease.

STEEL WOOL

Use steel wool on the tough spots. Oil all the working parts, the nuts and bolts that hold parts together. Sharpen and coat with oil.

Wooden handles are amazingly durable if given a minimum of care and attention. Unless the handle is painted, treat the wood with a rubdown of linseed oil.

Sand rough spots. Slight cracks should be glued and clamped. Major splits and breaks call for replacement of the handle. If the handle is loose, tighten it.

On all of your tools — any metal parts that are painted should be checked. If paint is worn away, clean, sand and repaint.

A bit of bare metal in the wheelbarrow now will be a rust spot next spring.

MOWER

Don't just park your power mower and forget about it. A fine spray from the hose will clean off most of the grass clippings and dirt.

Rotary mowers should be turned over and the housing scraped clean of all the dried grass that accumulated there.

Oil all the moving parts. Use the oil holes provided and, in addition, oil all joints. Do not oil belts.

* * *

Drain the gas from the tank. Run the engine to burn up any remaining drops. The tank will dry out and will not rust.

Leaving fuel in the tank will create a problem. It will turn gummy by spring.

Painted surfaces should be touched up where needed. Non-painted surfaces should be coated with oil.

Remove the spark plug, clean it, wrap it and store it. A good idea is to tape or tie the bundle to the mower. Put a piece of tape over the hole to keep out dirt.

Drain the oil. Clean and replace air filter. Sharpen the blade.

Set the mower on blocks or pieces of 2x4 to take the weight off the tires. Wrap in building paper, tarpaulin or even an old sheet.

The garden hose must be drained and allowed to dry. A hose that hasn't been drained could burst in a severe freeze.

Coil it on a reel or make a loose coil and hang it over a bracket or pipe. It you wait until cold weather it will be too stiff to coil.

The washers in the hose fittings and the sprinklers are probably worn by now. Throw them out and replace with new washers.

Put tools away on racks or hangers. Don't leave them on the floor or in a loose pile in a corner. Keep accessories together. Bags and jars of extra fertilizer and seeds should be labeled.

* * *

The way you leave your tools this fall is the way you will find them next spring.

Grow Bentgrass From Quality Seed

Penncross has become the favorite creeping bentgrass from seed, very much used for golf greens and similar turf.

Penncross is so named because the seed results from the crossing of three bentgrass selections made at Pennsylvania State University.

To be certain that the three parent selections remain pure, these are planted vegetatively in adjacent rows in the Oregon seed-growing fields.

Natural crossing produces Penncross seed. So that there will be no change in proportion of the parent strains, the seed fields are kept in production only three years and then replanted.

Landscape Suffers

Each year, winter-kill takes its toll of landscape and foundation planting — evergreen shrubs, trees and ornamentals. Last year was one of the most damaging, especially to the broadleaf evergreens.

* * *

Nobody can predict with certainty what the coming winter will bring. If the "Farmers' Almanac" is correct, there's more trouble in store. In any case, foresighted gardeners will take preventive measures now.

Winter-kill results not from freezing, but from excess water loss. Drying winter winds dangerously intensify the process of transpiration, the normal evaporation of water through foliage and stems.

At the same time the frozen ground prevents the intake of water through the roots.

To combat winter-kill, mulching helps . . . but foliage and stems should be sprayed with Wilt Pruf antidesiccant, a preparation which retards water loss through transpiration. It forms a transparent protective film which permits the necessary passage of oxygen and carbon dioxide, while allowing only the minimum movement of water vapor necessary to plant life.

Incidentally, treatment preserves the freshness and reduces the fire hazard of Christmas trees and wreaths. Messy shedding of needles by the Christmas tree is virtually eliminated.

Indoor Garden Helps Home

With the indoor graden look achieving year-round popularity, the potted plant collections, which set the decorative tone for these areas, must always be top shape, too.

Nothing destroys the graceful and fresh mood of an indoor garden effect like bedraggled and unattractive plants.

★ ★ ★

To assure your plants a healthy beginning, start by selecting them from local florists and growers who condition and sell their plants in porous red clay pots, the traditional containers.

Unglazed, thick-walled clay containers allow oxygen to enter through porous walls to feed the root system of the plant. Their porosity also permits excess water to evaporate from pot sides.

The rootball of a house plant in a clay pot never becomes waterlogged. Since the number one cause of house plant failure is overwatering, these porous containers are a great help in maintaining healthy plant collections.

WATERING

When watering plants, water only when the topsoil in the pot begins to dry out. This might be every day, every other day, or in the case of a large plant, once a week.

A great many foliage plants should be allowed to dry out almost completely between waterings. Some, like ferns, should be kept in a semi-moist condition, so it's best to check with your florist or greenhouse on watering advice.

★ ★ ★

When selecting plants for your indoor garden, choose only those plants which fit the light conditions available.

If you have sun streaming in from floor-to-ceiling south windows in an enclosed porch, there is no problem. You can grow any healthy house plant. Your only worry is too much light and bright sun for those foliage plants which florish in filtered sun.

However, this embarrassment of riches can easily be handled with a multitude of window treatments to control the amount of light. Try sheer curtains, decorative window shades, or shuttered doors.

INDOOR AREA

If your indoor garden area is a sunless dining room or a windowless foyer, you'll have to make your plant selections carefully.

Though all plants need light, some foliage types do well in shaded areas. These plants include Chinese evergreens, schefflera, cast iron plants, snake plants, jade plants, rubber plants and philodendron.

★ ★ ★

These greens vary in size, shape and richness of foliage, so a varied and interesting pot garden can be achieved even with "dim" prospects.

Artificial light may be substituted for natural growing conditions. Many home gardeners maintain elaborate indoor collections under fluorescent lighting.

Another hazard to the indoor garden is high heat conditions. During fall and winter, the air in homes and apartments tends to be hot and dry — not very satisfactory for people or plants.

ATMOSPHERE

To increase atmospheric humidity in a garden area, try grouping plants in a pebble garden. Cluster the plants on pebble-lined trays, with the pebble layer constantly moist. The resulting evaporation will keep the air around the plants humid.

Watering clay-potted plants when topsoil is dry, insuring sufficient light, and increasing humidity in the atmosphere, will mean healthy plants which contribute to the total effect of the indoor garden look.

Time to Give Roses Winter Protection

It is time to think about protecting roses for the winter.

The farther north you live, the more important this becomes, say the garden experts.

★ ★ ★

While gardeners south of the Mason-Dixon Line rarely need to take extreme measures, those in the northernmost tier of states had better, if they want to have their hybrid teas, floribundas and polyanthas alive and ready to grow next spring.

The reason is that these are heavily-flowering sorts due to a strong infusion of warm climate types and they continue to grow and bloom until stopped by freezing weather.

DIG OR BURY

Although some gardeners with only a few plants dig their plants up and bury them, while others are experimenting with the new foamplastic caps, the majority will still use the tried and true method of banking their plants with soil.

Just before the ground freezes in your area cut off the stems 2 feet from the ground and tie those of each plant together to facilitate handling and prevent wind-whipping in winter.

However, if you see any signs of stem canker — blacky scabs on the stems which spread and kill all the growth beyond them — spray all the stems with a solution of lime-sulphur or other preventative before tying.

★ ★ ★

When thoroughly dry you are ready for the next step.

Next take your soil shovel and mound up soil around the plants to a height of 8 or 10 inches or more, if you can get it to stay.

Preferably bring this soil from another part of the garden, for digging up the soil between the plants exposes the roots to possible injury by cold.

Also, new soil is much less likely to contain disease spores. If the soil is dry, after banking wet the outside an inch or two deep when a cold night is predicted, so that it will freeze into a hard, protective shell. Dry soil cannot freeze.

When the hills are frozen hard, cover them and the soil between with several inches of straw, salt hay, leaves or evergreen branches, not to keep the cold out but keep it in and the ground frozen.

★ ★ ★

One final word: It has been traditional to recommend manure for this purpose. Even if you can get it, don't waste it this way. The nutrients which reach out cannot penetrate into the frozen soil. They just drain away and are wasted, because the good gardener never lets water of any kind stand in his rose bed.

When spring comes hoe the soil mounds away, prune your plants back to live wood, spray again as you did in the fall and your plants will be ready to grow.

(Tender climbers lay on the ground and mound their whole length with soil).

Clay Pots Make Useful Dishes

Because they are available in a variety, of sizes that can be adjusted to fit almost any modern jardiniere and dish garden, clay pots form the sound basis of most of the attractive dish gardens you'll find at your local florists and garden stores this fall.

Porous clay pots are perfect for imbedding in the soil, or for sitting sturdily on top of pebbles or vermiculite. They allow for ample watering, provide enough oxygen and preserve the constant temperature most popular dish garden plants need to thrive and keep healthy.

Growers Prefer Red Clay Pots

Most of the popular foliage plants that keep summer alive in American homes like it cool at night.

That's why most northern professional growers make these plants available in porous red clay pots, which keep roots cooler than other types of containers — and provide the natural even drainage needed to guard against possible harmful effects of overwatering.

Apollo Crew Too Busy for Yule

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — For America's Apollo 8 astronauts, there is little time for thoughts of Christmas as they work to make this nation's biggest bid yet for the moon.

If all goes according to schedule, Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Cap. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders will be a quarter-million miles away from home, circling the moon, while their families in Houston, Tex., are celebrating the holidays.

"The past 6½ years that I have been in the space program have meant far more separations from the family than I like," said Borman. "And doing this at Christmas is just another one of the burdens of doing what we are doing. Christmas as such, I don't believe, makes a difference in the mental attitude."

For if all is well, this will be the scene during the more than six-day flight of Apollo 8, beginning with Dec. 21, the day their 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 rocket blasts off.

RIDE ELEVATOR

Dressed in glistening white space suits, the three astronauts ride an elevator to the spacecraft level of their Saturn 5 rocket—the best booster American technology could produce. They are out to prove the best is good enough.

It is approaching 7:51 a.m., the moment of lift-off.

* * *

Inside the roomy Apollo capsule, Borman, Lovell and Anders report to the launch control center three miles away, where hundreds of systems experts monitor flashing lights on consoles that will tell if something is wrong.

They talk of switch positions, of pressures, of power levels. There is no talk of the moon yet. There is much still to be done on earth.

CLOCK CLICKS ON

The countdown clock clicks on. Thirty seconds . . . 20 . . . 10 . . . 5 . . . 3, 2, 1, zero, ignition.

Five big engines at the base of the first stage suddenly roar to life. For eight long seconds, the majestic machine remains locked on the pad. Twin fountains of flame gush out two sides of the launch pad until the Saturn 5 develops the 7.5 million pounds of thrust needed for lift-off.

* * *

Borman, Lovell and Anders are on their way—the first men ever to ride atop a Saturn 5, the type booster developed for man to the moon missions. There will be no lunar landing on this trip, however. That will await another day, maybe Apollo 10. But they have been given a flight plan that is to take them around the moon 10 times, and for this moment in history, that is the best man has ever done.

Slowly, creating a noise almost unbearable to people below, the 36-story booster lumbers skyward and rolls toward a southeast heading over the Atlantic Ocean. At an altitude of about 35 miles, the Saturn 5's first stage completes its job and drops to the sea.

MILLION-POUND PUSH

Five more engines on the big rocket's second stage then ignite for a million-pound push that lasts more than six minutes, when the last stage of the rocket takes over to kick it and the Apollo 8 spacecraft into a circular earth orbit 115 miles high.

Less than three hours later, after Apollo 8 has circled earth 1¾ times to give the astronauts and tracking stations around the world time to assure all is well, Saturn 5's upper stage is restarted. It burns for a crucial five minutes to push Apollo 8 free of earth's gravity and toward the moon.

* * *

It will be nearly three days later, Christmas Eve, when the craft is pulled behind the moon by lunar gravity. At that time, Borman will trigger Apollo 8's main engine as a space brake to slow the moon ship down and swing the astronauts into an egg-shaped lunar orbit ranging from 69 to 196 miles high.

After two laps around the moon, another burn of the same engine will shift Apollo 8's path to a more circular orbit 69 miles above the lunar surface.

PLENTY TO DO

Traveling at 3,400 miles an hour, the astronauts will require nearly two hours to make each orbit. There is plenty to do, however. They must gather data to answer the many questions that forced the decision to send them moonward in the first place.

Lovell, the guidance and navigation expert, will take sightings of at least one real Apollo landing target zone selected for the lunar landing mission itself, and make believe other areas are landing sites to see how well an orbiting Apollo ship can locate and track them.

* * *

Anders will be a busy cameraman, photographing areas not covered by unmanned shutterbug satellites which orbited the moon previously, and seeing if changing sunlight angles can confuse spacemen by making the same spot on the moon look different at different times in a lunar day.

The lives of the astronauts are now dependent on the performance of their spaceship engine. If it fails to fire after their lunar orbit mission is completed, the crew will be left stranded circling the moon where they will eventually perish.

HAS TO WORK

"The engine has to work for us to get back out of lunar orbit," Lovell said candidly.

The high-speed trip from lunar orbit back to earth will take 58 hours and should produce some spectacular photographs by the astronauts showing how this planet looks while approaching from the moon.

* * *

Reentry is planned six days and four hours after lift-off, when Apollo 8 parachutes to awaiting recovery ships in the Pacific Ocean 30 minutes before sunrise there.

Aid for College Costs of 1 Million Is Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education proposed yesterday to President-elect Nixon and the Congress a civilian "GI Bill" to allow an additional one million students to attend college.

The recommendation, one of 22 in a 56-page report issued by the commission, called on the federal government to provide "educational opportunity grants" to qualified youths unable to afford the rising costs of college. At present 40 per cent of young Americans go to college.

* * *

"Today a young man or woman whose family's income is in the top half of the national income range has three times the chance to get a college education as one whose family is in the bottom half," said the commission chairman, Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California.

"This economic inequality is holding back the next generation and our country," Kerr said. "The first priority in our proposals is to end this form of inequality."

MEDICAL EDUCATOR

A second key proposal called for expansion of medical education in the next eight years to provide the capacity to train 5 per cent more doctors and to meet the rapidly growing demand for a variety of medical services under Medicare.

The report was introduced at a news conference and Dr. Kerr's remarks were prepared in advance for delivery at that time.

He said the report "is a direct response to two major goals of the American people." They are, he said, that "parents are almost unanimous in their desire for a college education for their children" and that "the nation wants the educated manpower it will need to continue its growth and progress in the modern world."

Neither goal, he said, "can be achieved unless we give more of our young people a chance for college."

SHOULD CONTINUE

The 14-member commission said private sources, which today pay half the costs of higher education, should continue to provide the major share of support to preserve the autonomy and diversity of higher education.

The report estimates that its proposals would cost the federal government $7 billion by 1970 and $13 billion by 1976. Government spending in related areas at present amounts to $3.5 billion.

* * *

The aid to students would cost an estimated $1.91 billion by 1970 and $3.56 billion by 1976. The aid to medical education would cost $330 million by 1970 and $430 million by 1976.

The payments would be channeled through the universities and colleges chosen by the students. The aid would include grants, matching grants and work-study payments based on need for low-income students, fellowships for doctoral students and a broad program of loans for educational expenses.

* * *

The report also recommends the creation of two new federal bodies in the field of higher education.

A White House Council of Advisors on Higher Education would suggest policy, and a National Foundation for the development of Higher Education would encourage and finance experimental education programs.

Scientists believe that within 10 years the human heart can be replaced by a machine, possibly an atomic-powered motor that will be installed in the abdomen and serve as a pump for failing hearts.

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

Don't forget old-fashioned baked beans when you prepare some of those family meals or even when you're entertaining. Here are a few ways to serve canned baked beans with a little bit of oomph: Heat canned apricots in a little of their syrup in a skillet; top heated baked beans with the apricots. Nice served with crisply browned little pork sausages for a weekend brunch . . . . Top hot, baked beans with deviled eggs for lunch or supper. The contrast of hot and cold tastes good . . . Cook onion strips in butter until they are golden brown; mix with heated baked beans. If you have some individual beanpots stashed away, bring them out to use for heating these baked-bean combinations.

A Look at TV

Low Ratings Put Kibosh on Trip

BY RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I was sitting around not long ago, thinking how nice it was that there were so many American television shows filmed in England. My mind was working deviously, and feverishly, on a brilliant plan.

I mean, ABC-TV may have had its own reasons for hoping that "The Avengers," "Journey to the Unknown," "The Ugliest Girl in Town" and the upcoming Tom Jones variety series would be great successes. But my reason was very valid, too, if perhaps one-dimensional.

★ ★ ★

It's like this: A dedicated, perservering reporter really has to be close to his subject to keep up with what's going on, and it had dawned on me that I just wasn't close enough to London to tell the true, vital stories behind these cultural video series.

In short, what I needed, to improve my work, was a trip to London to look at all those shows firsthand. And while I was there, I surely should hop a plane, or pick up a car and head over to the French Riviera for a few days to see how the shooting was going on Harold Robbins' upcoming television series, "The Survivors," with Lana Turner and George Hamilton.

'HARDSHIPS' SEEN

It would be difficult putting up with all those English pubs and theaters and miniskirts and restaurants and elegant flats, not to mention the inconvenience of a trip to the Riviera, but when you become a reporter you realize you just have to put up with certain things.

So there I was, finally convincing myself that I really ought to go, when the television ratings came in and ABC-TV started chopping shows.

"Journey to the Unknown," a good anthology series, was marked for execution. And so was "The Ugliest Girl In Town." And when I called Universal Studios to inquire about "The Survivors," I learned that shooting had stopped after several segments, and wouldn't resume again until March.

Well, that left only "The Avengers," which isn't really a novelty anymore—being a veteran entry—and the Tom Jones series, which begins Feb. 7,. And the notion of traveling 6,000 miles or so to look at a single variety show is not the easiest thing to sell to your managing editor. I decided not to raise the issue.

★ ★ ★

But if, in the future, you see some rave reviews here for "The Saint," a terrific series we always get from England, please don't be suspicious. It's all in the line of duty, and we spare no expenses to get a story.

Big-Hearted Broadwayite Dies of an Enlarged Heart

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"He died because he had too big a heart . . ."

Irving Hoffman, a magician with words, a wit, critic, caricaturist, a Broadway press agent who dedicated many years exclusively to doing good for people, had these words spoken over him by his brother Leonard at his funeral.

WILSON

Irving died at 59 at Mt. Sinai — literally of an enlarged heart — about four hours after telling his close friend Irving Berlin he was going into the hospital but wouldn't be in long . . . a statement that turned out to be true.

He did have probably the biggest heart on Broadway.

"I called him the Irving Trust because when he told you something, you could bank on it," one friend remarked.

★ ★ ★

His passion for helping people without thought of pay or reward was almost priestly. He was always phoning, or reading the papers, mailing great envelopes of clippings to assist in some way. He sent whole troops of youngsters to Hollywood jobs.

Shirley MacLaine, Britt Ekland, Lauren Bacall, Lizbeth Scott and Producer Ernest Lehman got his help. Adviser to studio heads, he was so honest, he couldn't lie even to the famous about their work.

Darryl Zanuck's pride and joy picture was "Wilson." They were buddies. Irving walked out on it. He could tell Walter Winchell that a particular paragraph was odoriferous.

★ ★ ★

He took me by the hand 25 years ago. He would call to say he liked a column. But once when I did a radio show, he said it stank.

"What was wrong with it?" I asked.

"You were," he said.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

TV networks are secretly worried that there'll be a widespread slash of cigaret advertising (either voluntarily or by regulation) costing them millions of $. The networks deny it.

Wynne Miller, Glenn Miller's niece, had a delightful miniskirted, multi-voiced opening at the St. Regis Maisonette, loudly applauded by Jack Carter who had done 25 TV guest shows in a week. Particularly good: "Dear World" and "Kiss Her Now," new Jerry Herman tunes for the Angela Lansbury musical.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Yawning may be bad manners. But sometimes it's just an honest opinion.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "It's easy to have a well-balanced personality. Just forget your troubles as easily as you do your blessings."

EARL'S PEARLS: The book "How to be an Italian" notes: "Our thanks to Columbia Pictures for the photo of Miss Cardinale, to Embassy Pictures for Mr. Mastroianna, and to God for Miss Loren."

Bob Hope (at the Hotel Trinidad, Palm Springs) said he'd seen Raquel Welch in a full evening gown: "In fact, I've never seen a fuller evening gown." That's earl, brother.

KETTLE TIME—Four-year-old Patricia Thomas of 655 Elkinford, Milford, wants to help needy boys and girls have a merry Christmas as she drops money in the Salvation Army kettle at Saginaw and East Lawrence. Patricia is with her mother, Mrs. Franklin Thomas. Salvation Army worker Mrs. John O'Berry of 5871 Jerose, Waterford Township, is in charge of the kettle.

Greece Forgets Its King

ATHENS (AP) — Almost no one talks about King Constantine one year after the failure of his abruptly staged counter-coup.

The 28-year-old king and his young wife, Anne Marie, once were the center of daily attention-pictured on front pages, feted on their trips throughout the country.

★ ★ ★

Now, the regime of George Papadopoulos, the colonel turned premier, hardly ever mentions the king, living in self-imposed exile in Rome. The military-backed regime seems in no rush to bring the king back to his throne — if at all.

The new Greek constitution, approved Sept. 29, provides for the king's return with powers greatly slashed. But in the face of growing strength acquired by the present regime and stringent demands by the king of concessions before he returns, Premier Papadopoulos has shown little interest.

GRIP TIGHTENS

Papadopoulos has strengthened his grip on the nation.

Major opponents have been jailed or exiled since the king fled last Dec. 14 to Rome, the day after failure of his counter-coup.

★ ★ ★

The death of former Premier George Papandreou last month was a blow to those who had hoped to rally around him to press the regime for greater civil and political rights.

Even inside the government, Papadopoulos has consolidated his power by removing several hard-line officers to cabinet posts with less influence.

Czech Workers Threaten Strike

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak workers today threatened a general strike for the first time since the Soviet invasion in August.

Prace, newspaper of the nation's trade unions, carried a letter from Prague workers threatening the use of "all means available to the working class, including a general strike," if the progressive president of the National Assembly, Josef Smrkovsky, is ousted from the Communist party leadership.

★ ★ ★

The paper reviewed recent Soviet actions snubbing Smrkovsky and expressed fear that his position was being undermined.

University students also planned strikes and other protest actions if Smrkovsky is ousted.

★ ★ ★

Smrkovsky was missing from the list of leaders who attended a reception Thursday night at the Soviet Embassy honoring the 25th anniversary of the Soviet-Czechoslovak friendship treaty. The assembly president was among the local leaders who signed a congratulatory telegram to the Soviets, but the Soviets left his name off their reply.

16 Arrested in SF College Skirmishing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Brief rock-throwing skirmishes erupted Thursday on the San Francisco State College campus as police arrested 16 persons, including a bearded troubadour in a red velvet cape.

The incidents, latest in a series resulting from a strike called by Negro students, came as the state college system trustees rejected an outside mediation offer and appointed a four-man consultation committee.

★ ★ ★

George Gorner, 24, guitar-playing troubadour, was arrested on charges of using obscenities, disturbing the peace and inciting to riot after he sang out for the resignation of S. I. Hayakawa, the school's acting president.

★ ★ ★

Students, who had been quietly debating their next strike action, rallied around Gorner and the picketing was on.

★ ★ ★

Violence flared later in the day when police moved among pickets and arrested John Lev in, 24, a strike leader who is a member of the Students for a Democratic Soviety and the Progressive Labor party.

Opening lead—♠ Q

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

In one of the later rounds of the national team trials J. Ff Westheimer chose to make a slightly unsound two-club response to Ira Rubin's one-heart opening. Somehow or other he couldn't sign off short of six clubs.

West opened the queen of spades and when Jeff saw the dummy he wished he hadn't bid quite so ambitiously. Then Jeff started to look for a way to bring home his very doubtful contract.

He decided that he would have to be lucky in trumps in order to bring it home. Therefore he won the spade lead with the ace, led a club at trick two and finessed dummy's 10.

It held and Jeff was ready to go after 12 tricks. Before you read any further, see if you can figure out how he made the slam after that lucky start.

After the club 10 held he ruffed a low heart in his own hand. Then he led a second club and finessed dummy's jack. Next came the ruff of a second heart and a lead to dummy's ace of diamonds.

He ruffed a third heart with his king of trumps, entered dummy with the king of diamonds, cashed dummy's ace of trumps to pull West's queen of trumps and to get rid of another little spade, then he led dummy's nine of diamonds and made two more diamond tricks when East's jack fell.

He was still left with a low spade but he had his 12 tricks.

This type of play is known as a dummy reversal. Jeff started with five trumps but ruffed hearts with three of them to leave dummy with a long trump. Of course he was lucky he could have been even luckier. Had hearts divided 4-4 he would have been able to discard one more spade and wind up making a grand slam.

Relieved at Fed Inaction

Market Mounts Brisk Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, relieved that the Federal Reserve Board took no further action to tighten credit, mounted a brisk rally early this afternoon.

Gains outnumbered losses by more than 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange. The market rose from the start and expanded gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.04 at 981.17—approaching the 985 level at which it stood before a consolidation move got under way two weeks ago.

Merger situations sparked interest in a number of stocks, producing the wider moves.

The rising trend was more sedate for the list as a whole, most gains ranging from fractions to a point. A few of the higher priced glamor stocks moved more broadly to the downside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose 1.2 to 368.8, with industrials up 1.9, rails up 1.1, and utilities off .2.

In a delayed opening of 6,300 shares, Clevite spurted 8 points to 93 on news that it had reached a preliminary merger agreement with U.S. Smelting, which dropped 3 as traders "sold on the news," anticipated for some time.

Prices were fairly strong on the American Stock Exchange. Continental Materials was the volume pacemaker as it gained a fraction. Also active, Equity Fund recovered about 1½, and "21" Brands rose more than a point, while Ormand Industries added about a point. H&B American slipped about 2 points. Nuclear Corp. was heavily traded but unchanged.

Heart Recipient Dies in Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Milton Wackstein, 54, of Flushing, N.Y., died Thursday night in St. Luke's Episcopal hospital two weeks after he received a transplanted heart.

Hospital officials said death resulted from rejection of the new heart.

Legal Redress Something to Subscribe To

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the great landmark cases in America jurisprudence was resolved last week when a defrocked magazine reader won back his subscription to the Saturday Evening Post.

WEST

Robert L. Jacques of Rockville, Md., was among the four million subscribers the Post had dropped as part of a circulation cutback designed to give it a higher percentage of sophisticated readers.

★ ★ ★

Unlike the other 3,999,999 outcasts, Jacques did not take this cut laying down. Or content himself merely with writing a nasty letter to the publisher.

He filed a court suit that resulted in the Post paying him $66 for $32 issues still due him, plus a promise to restore him to good standing on the subscription list.

DEBT OF GRATITUDE

All of us who subscribe to sophisticated periodicals owe Jacques a debt of gratitude. You never know when other publications might decide to upgrade their readership and declare you persona non grata.

By instituting a test case, Jacques has lighted a torch of hope for legal redress should be stripped of our subscriptions. A thing like that can be a devastating blow to the ego.

★ ★ ★

Just the other day as I was walking along a downtown street when a seedy character shuffled out of a doorway and touched me on the arm.

"Brother, can you spare 40 cents for a copy of Life?" he whined. "I haven't seen a magazine for almost two weeks."

SOMETHING FAMILIAR

Something about the supplicant was instantly familiar. But the heavy stubble on his chin, his tattered clothing and hangdog manner temporarily delayed the dawn of recognition.

Finally I said, "aren't you Sidney Urbane, the famous social climber? Good heavens, man, why are you masquerading as a street-corner panhandler?"

"I am indeed the selfsame Sidney," he replied, "but the sorry state you see me in is, alas, no imposture. This is now my true station in life."

"Incredible!" I exclaimed. "What started you on the road to ruin and degradation? Storng drink? An evil woman's wiles?"

SUBSCRIPTION LOST

Something for more shattering, Urbane said sadly. "I lost my subscription to the Butter and Egg monthly journal. Every hostess in town found out, and my social career was wrecked."

I said, "maybe you could move to aother city and build a new life for yourself."

"It's too late," he lamented, stepping into the gutter. "My spirit is broken. I could never escape the stigma of having a magazine refuse to renew me."

73 Million Total Is Record

Nixon Vote Edge: 499,704

WASHINGTON (AP) —President-elect Nixon received 499,704 more popular votes than Hubert H. Humphrey in the Nov. 5 presidential election, complete official totals show.

Nixon received 31,770,237 votes, Humphrey had 31,270,533 and third-party nominee George C. Wallace had 9,897,141. An assortment of other candidates received 239,910 votes.

* * *

Nixon got 43.40 per cent of the vote, Humphrey got 42.72 per cent and Wallace 13.53.

A record total of 73,177,821 votes were cast, compared with 70,913,673 votes cast in the 1964 presidential election. But it represented only 60.2 per cent of the estimated 121.5 million Americans of voting age.

NO CHANGE

The official totals from all 50 states and the District of Columbia did not change the electoral vote totals, which show Nixon 302, Humphrey 191, Wallace 45.

The electors meet in their respective state capitals next Monday to cast their votes, which will be counted officially by a joint session of Congress on Jan. 6.

* * *

Besides the three major candidates, the official canvasses showed these totals for other candidates:

E. Harold Munn Sr., Prohibition party, 14,519; Eldridge Cleaver, Peace and Freedom party, 36,385, most of them from California; Henning Blomen, Socialist-Labor party, 52,588; Fred Halstead, Socialist Worker party, 41,300; Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., 25,858, mostly from California; Dick Gregory, New Politics party, 47,097, more than half in New York; and Charlene Mitchell, Communist and Free Ballot parties, 1,075.

In addition, 1,480 votes were cast for the antiwar New Politics party in three states where no presidential candidates were listed and 19,608 votes were cast for an assortment of other candidates, including New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefelled and comedian Pat Paulsen.

Witches, Hippies Linked

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — When a hippie takes a "trip," he probably is riding the same broomstick a witch mounted in medieval Europe.

Dr. Michael J. Harner of Columbia University told delegates to an anthropologists convention in Seattle that some witches apparently believed their nocturnal rides across the face of the moon were the real thing.

* * *

And, of course, so did a lot of burghers who also thought it was the Christian thing to do to burn the devil out of those witches.

One thing most witches seemed to have in common with present-day hippies who freak out on LSD and other hallucinogens was their mode of transportation — an animal, a tree limb or a broomstick.

HAD 'SALVE'

Witches didn't have LSD or other synthetic psychedelic drugs but they had something just about as crazy — a substance described in old manuscripts as "witches' salve."

Apparently the reason witches were always depicted as stirring bubbling cauldrons was because they were occupied concocting this mysterious lotion from such plants as belladonna, thorn apple and henbane. These spices of flora are known to contain a poisonous crystalline alkaloid called atropine, and they grew commonly in Europe.

Such delicacies as eye of newt and toes of toad seemed to have been more seasoning for the pot.

Medieval literature tells how witches' salve was rubbed into the skin in preparation for a midnight ride on a broomstick.

ATROPINE DRIES FLUIDS

Atropine today is extracted from various plants of the nightshade family for pharmaceutical preparations. It is used in surgery, for instance, to dry up saliva and other body fluids. It also prevents sweating.

Atropine is extremely poisonous. There are many recorded instances of children dying because they ate the attractive purple berries of the nightshade plant which can be found growing wild in all parts of the United States, often in a back yard garden plot.

The hushabye heat.

Soft and low. Gentle and quiet. That's electric heat.

It's the quietest heat you can get.

If it's radiant, there's no sound at all. If it's a warm-air furnace, the fan runs at a lower speed. Gives only a gentle hum, soft as a lullaby.

What else?

Electric heat is clean. No fumes. No soot. No draft. No chill one moment nor a burst of hot air the next. The humidity stays in the comfort range. It's better for you. Your nose and throat. Better for your home.

Call Edison for the name of your nearest Edison-approved Electric Heat Contractor. He'll give you a no-obligation survey. And we'll see that you get a $100 trade-in allowance on your old heating plant.

Electric heat . . . the hushabye heat. Comforting to have while your little one, your pretty one, sleeps.

Suburban Adults Now Tuning In on Young--Chaplain

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Rev. William Sloane Coffin, Yale University chaplain, says middle-class suburban Americans may at last be listening to their children.

That's because they are threatened with losing them, he said in a speech Thursday at Brown University.

★ ★ ★

The younger generation is divorcing itself from adults "who refuse to live up to their religious ideals or even take them seriously," Coffin said.

★ ★ ★

Rebellions by Negroes and other minorities might be overlooked, he added, but it is harder for people to overlook the revolt of their own children.

New Flu Hiking U. S. Sick Call

By the Associated Press

The spreading Hong Kong flu epidemic has forced the closing of some schools and colleges and raised absenteeism in business and industry.

It even prevented a New York City woman from being present when her husband was named a member of the new Cabinet.

★ ★ ★

The absent Cabinet wife was Mrs. Maurice Stans, whose husband was named secretary of commerce Wednesday night by President-elect Nixon.

Reached at her home Thursday and asked about the Washington events, Mrs. Stans said, "I didn't make it. I have the Hong Kong flu. I am one very sick cookie."

The new strain of flu has spread from Los Angeles—where officials say almost 300,000 adults and children are absent from work or school—to New York City where Adelphi University in suburban Garden City canceled undergraduate classes until Jan. 5, saying, "The Hong Kong flu has hit." The Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point began Christmas vacation eight days early after about half the 728 midshipmen were stricken.

★ ★ ★

The National Communicable Disease Center said deaths from pneumonia and influenza have exceeded normal expectations and termed the flu outbreak an epidemic. The center said outbreaks of flu and respiratory diseases from 30 states have been reported, with Hong Kong flu confirmed in 14 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

★ ★ ★

Actress Tallulah Bankhead, 65, died Thursday of pneumonia, which developed after she came down with the flu.

A RUNDOWN

Here's a rundown on what effect the flu has had on some areas of the country:

California—Los Angeles county health officials say the epidemic is expected to reach a peak between Dec. 17 and Christmas. Gov. Ronald Reagan's voice is husky and he's coughing frequently. All members of the police department have been immunized. In San Diego, four judges, eight court clerks and five court reporters are out sick. Schools reported absentee rates of 10 to 25 per cent, instead of the normal 5 to 6 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Michigan—Two Catholic schools in Detroit were closed because of flu and a spokesman for the public school system said 13 per cent of the students were absent Thursday. The normal absenteeism rate is 5 to 10 per cent. Chrysler Corp. reported "a significant increase in absenteeism," and a General Motors Corp. employe said, "You could tell something was wrong. The expressway traffic was too light this morning." Classes at public schools in suburban Livonia, Mich., were canceled after 150 students came down with the flu.

★ ★ ★

Illinois—Hospital administrators in Chicago said employe absentee rates were four times as high as normal and warned outpatient services at some hospitals might have to be curtailed. Wheaton College in Wheaton, Ill., said it would close for Christmas vacation Friday—five days early—because of the flu.

Iowa—Several cases of Hong Kong flu have been confirmed at the University of Iowa in Des Moines and at Parsons College in Fairfield. Dr. Arnold Reeve, chief of the preventable disease division of the state health department, said there was no epidemic yet but warned the disease could spread when college students went home for the holidays.

Massachusetts—College infirmaries are reported filling up, although no schools or colleges are closed. Dr. Nicholas J. Fiumara, director of the state's division of communicable diseases, predicted 30 per cent of the people in the greater Boston area would get the flu when the epidemic reaches its peak—expected around the first of the year.

Nebraska—Spokesmen for the Omaha school district said the number of absent teachers has increased from a normal figure of 80 to 85 to between 110 and 140. Creighton University suspended Friday and Saturday classes at the colleges of business administration and arts and sciences.

'God Will Be With Me'

Heart Surgery Today for Girl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Eight-year-old Janice Marie Hutcherson goes into open-heart surgery today with a prayerful acceptance of her fate. She could care less that it was Friday the 13th.

"It will be all right," said Janice. "God will go with me into the operating room."

★ ★ ★

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hutcherson of Macon, Miss., also have learned to view the operation in the same light.

Surgeons at Ochsner Foundation Hospital planned for a long operation on Janice, in effort to repair four defects in her heart.

BORN WITH CONDITION

Janice was born with a condition that prevents her body from getting sufficient oxygen into the bloodstream. She already has had one operation to prepare her heart for this major surgery.

Residents in the Macon area contributed to a fund to help pay for the operation. Rev. Lynwood Porter, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church at Macon, has been managing the fund drive which he estimated has reached $3,000.

★ ★ ★

Mississippi State University football players also chipped in what they could. They donated 35 pints of blood.

Janice's father, a foreman in a brickyard, also has been troubled with a heart condition.

Mrs. Hutcherson has been praying for five years for the success of this operation and eventually hoping that Janice "will be home before we know it and be able to run and play and live the life a little girl should. . ."

Calm and cheerful, Janice said again: "I know everything is going to be all right. Please don't worry."

BIG DAY FOR JANICE — Friday the 13th is a big day for 8-year-old Janice Marie Hutcherson of Macon, Miss. Janice gets kisses from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hutcherson, as she awaits a complex heart operation in a New Orleans hospital today. Doctors face the task of repairing four defects in her heart.

HHH Likely to Take Dual Professorship

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The University of Minnesota and Macalester College are expected to offer Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey a dual professorship and he is expected to accept.

There are strong indications the offer will be made at a meeting of the university board of regents today. Humphrey, a Minnesota graduate and former teacher at Macalester, will visit Minneapolis-St. Paul during the weekend.

★ ★ ★

The Minneapolis Tribune, in a copyright story from Washington, said that Humphrey also has signed a contract with Doubleday and Co., New York, to write one or more books on his career and political philosophy. The contract was said to call for a fee of more than $100,000.

Humphrey graduated from the university here in 1939 with a bachelor of arts degree and magna cum laude honors. Later he earned a pharmacy degree from the Denver College of Pharmacy and a masters degree from the University of Louisiana.

EX-TEACHER

In 1943 and 1944 he taught political science at Macalester College in St. Paul before launching a political career as mayor of Minneapolis in 1945.

Officials of the university and Macalester declined to confirm the reports about the faculty post in advance of today's meeting.

★ ★ ★

Teaching at the two institutions will offer sharp contrast in size for Humphrey, who is expected to live on or near one of the campuses. The University of Minnesota, with more than 45,000 full-time students at Minneapolis-St. Paul and other branches, is one of the nation's largest. Macalester, with about 2,000 students, is a liberal arts college founded by a Minnesota pioneer Presbyterian minister and educator.

Truck Hijacked

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two robbers hijacked a telephone company truck which carried change from pay telephones and made off with 44 to 50 boxes of nickels, dimes and quarters, estimated at $2,000 to $3,000.

U.S., Mexico Change Border

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A dynamite blast set off by Presidents Johnson and Diaz Ordaz of Mexico diverts the Rio Grande and reshapes the U.S.-Mexico border today to end a century-old boundary fuss.

Diversion of the Rio Grande through a new concrete channel by the detonation ceremony on the Santa Fe International Bridge near El Paso completes return of 437 acres of land to Mexico.

★ ★ ★

The new boundary, which also divides the cities of El Paso and Juarez, is dedicated to former Mexico President Adolfo Lopez Mateos who reached agreement on its placement with the late President John F. Kennedy in 1962.

The dispute over the boundary through the dry, bush country of El Chamizal dates back to a series of floods starting in 1852 that changed the Rio Grande's course.

FLOODED LAND

The agreement reached by Kennedy and Mateos with a handshake turns 193 acres of Cordova Island over to the United States and 630 acres which were on the Mexico side before the floods, back to that country.

Johnson and Diaz worked out details at five meetings and signed the formal exchange of territory Oct. 28, 1967.

★ ★ ★

The ceremonies may not be over. The El Paso Times said it has learned President-elect Nixon plans to meet Ordaz on Chamizal territory, possibly next April.

S. Africa Limitation to Be Pushed at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Despite opposition from both East and West, the Africans are reported determined to push for General Assembly approval of their move to suspend South Africa from a key U.N. agency.

However, many diplomats believe a resolution demanding suspension of the white supremacist government from the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development will fail to win a two-thirds majority.

They have been using this as a lever to try to persuade the sponsors to wait until next year.

But the sponsors are said to be insistent upon pushing for action now.

Both the Western powers and the Communist bloc have opposed the move on grounds that it sets a dangerous precedent and could spread to other agencies.

RUSHED THROUGH

The 33 sponsors pushed the resolution through the assembly's economic committee last week despite a ruling by U.N. Legal Counsel Constantin Stavropoulos who said the assembly had no authority to take such action without approval of the Security Council.

Informed sources said a group of Western nations had attempted to persuade the sponsors to let the assembly shelve the resolution indefinitely because it was too controversial.

★ ★ ★

Kenya Ambassador Burudi Nabwera indicated that the Africans were determined to press for a vote despite appeals from the West and the Communists.

Police in Chicago Dish Up Figures on Meals in Jail

CHICAGO (AP) — One thing a prisoner does well while in the central detention area of the Chicago Police Department is eat.

Records show that in the first three months of 1968 in both men's and women's lockups food consumed amounted to: 2,062 loaves of bread, 2,205 pounds of bologna, 309 pounds of coffee, 900 quarts of milk, 6 cases of canned milk, 400 pounds of sugar, 2 cases of tomato, chicken noodle and vegetable soup.

★ ★ ★

The cost of detention comes to an average $7.57, up 45 cents from the cost in 1967.

Throughout the 20 districts a total of 64,116 feedings was made during the first quarter of 1968.

UAW Strike Averted at Ohio GM Plant

WARREN, Ohio, (UPI) — A scheduled strike at the giant Chevrolet Fisher Body plant at the General Motors complex in nearby Lordstown was averted yesterday when the international headquarters of the United Auto Workers union withdrew its sanction of a walkout.

B. L. Muth, president of UAW Local 1112, said he had received a telegram from the international in Detroit instructing the 5,000-member local to continue working as usual.

★ ★ ★

The local and company officials have been negotiating work and safety grievances and an alleged speedup since October, the same issues which closed several GM plants in Michigan in the past two months.

Wall Falls, 3 Die

LANUS, Argentina (AP) — A 33-foot-wall, part of a factory being built in this Buenos Aires suburb, collapsed Thursday and fell on a house next door, killing a man and a woman and their 7-year-old son.

Swedes Give 9 Gls Asylum

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden granted asylum today to nine America servicemen opposed to U.S. Vietnam war policy, raising to 149 the number of GIs in legal exile here.

The aliens commission also ordered two U.S. draft dodgers expelled from Sweden.

★ ★ ★

The commission said it granted asylum to the new nine on the usual "humanitarian grounds."

OPPOSE WAR

The nine GIs given refuge in this neutral country all told the commission they opposed the Vietnam War and feared they would be sent to fight there.

The spokesman identified them as:

- David Labinger, 22, Boston, Mass. Labinger also brought his wife, Madelaine, who also was granted permission to remain in Sweden.
- James Roberson, 22, of West Virginia.
- Edward Smith, 22, Mansfield, Ohio.
- Gelbert Bruce Owen, 22, Decatur, Ill.

★ ★ ★

- Walter Marshall, 20, Portsmouth, N.H.
- Terry Keck, 21, Illinois.
- Robert Townsend, 27, Paterson, N.J.
- Staffan Paul Kraus, 20, Fitzhburg, Mass.
- Billy Staton, 21, Wichita, Kan.

The commission gave no information concerning ranks, units or street addresses.

B52s Pound Enemy Positions

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 100 U.S. Air Force B52s rained 2,500 tons of bombs on enemy positions in an arc north of Saigon from noon Wednesday until noon today.

★ ★ ★

In the latest missions Thursday night and this morning seven groups of the eight-jet Stratofortresses blasted base camps bunkers, supply depots and maneuvering troops.

The raids were in an umbrella pattern stretching from jungle infiltration routes 75 miles northwest of Saigon to within 27 miles northeast of the capital.

U.S. intelligence sources say 15,000 to 25,000 North Vietnamese troops and perhaps even 30,000 are deployed along a 100-mile stretch of the Cambodian border in the arc.

★ ★ ★

U.S. analysts in Washington reported Thursday north of Saigon that there are strong indications these troops are preparing for a new winter offensive, while another 20,000 to 25,000 North Vietnamese detected moving in from Laos are believed setting their sights on Hue, the old imperial capital at the northern end of South Vietnam.

Meanwhile Vietnamese police and military staffs in Saigon remained on 100 per cent alert after intelligence reports indicated the enemy may step up terrorism and attempt suicide squad attacks on allied installations to commemorate an anniversary.

★ ★ ★

The Communists celebrate Dec. 19, the anniversary of the first Vietminh attack in 1946 on the French in Hanoi.

★ ★ ★

Six Vietnamese civilians were reported wounded today when a grenade exploded in front of a house under construction in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon. Authorities said it had not been determined whether the blast was the work of Vietcong terrorists. They said the house was being built in an alleyway and there reportedly had been a neighborhood dispute about locating it there.

Police Get Goodies on Jelly Roll Thief

KALAMAZOO (AP) — For three weeks cartons of pastry had been disappearing from the service entrance of a Kalamazoo restaurant.

Thursday, police were watching and, after they saw a man pick up the pastry, they gave chase and arrested Robert Woodhouse, 21, of Kalamazoo.

* * *

Woodhouse pleaded guilty to a petty larceny charge and did not post $25 bond. When apprehended, Woodhouse was carrying three dozen jelly rolls.

None Survive Caracas Crash

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A Pan American 707 jet exploded over the Caribbean Sea and plunged into the water last night 16 miles from Venezuela's international airport north of Caracas.

Forty-two passengers and a crew of nine, including a trainee stewardess were reported aboard. A search for survivors was continuing, but none was reported.

★ ★ ★

Officials said it was possible not all the bodies would be recovered.

Seven bodies were reported recovered before dawn.

21 U.S. ADDRESSES

A passenger list from Pan American in New York listed 21 persons from addresses in the United States, but a number of these had Latin names, and it was not known if they had been residing or visiting.

Another five passengers were listed from addresses in Canada, one was from Italy and one passenger was believed to be from Ireland. The airline listed the other 14 passengers from Venezuela.

The pilot was Capt. Sidney E. Stillwaugh, 50, of West Islip, N. Y.

Among wreckage recovered from the shark-infested water were interior cabin fittings and some life rafts that inflate automatically upon contact with water.

MINUTE BEFORE LANDING

The big jet was ending a nonstop flight from New York to Caracas. The airport control tower said it lost contact after the plane reported its approach one minute before it was due to land at 10 p.m. (9 p.m. EST)

★ ★ ★

"I heard a strong noise and then I saw a red ball fall towards the sea," said a guard at the La Guaira Naval Base, 12 miles north of Caracas.

★ ★ ★

Other residents reported seeing the explosion. Wreckage was reported scattered over a wide area.

Radio Aeropuerto, a commercial station at the airport, said the plane reported it was in trouble before its radio went dead, but an airline spokesman said the pilot radioed the airport only "no maintenance," a routine transmission indicating no service would be required on the ground.

★ ★ ★

Among the passengers was Mrs. Olga Antonetti de Dugart, who had been "Miss Venezuela" in 1962. A resident of New York, she and her 4-year-old daughter were en route to spend Christmas with relatives.

A prominent Venezuelan advertising executive, Luis Beltran Gonzalez was also on the plane returning from a business trip to New York.

Blizzard Whips Northern Midwest

From Our News Wires

A onetime Pacific storm — now grown into a full-fledged blizzard — whipped through the northern Midwest today and posed a menace to highway travel over much of Minnesota.

A cold wave drove temperatures downward from the Canadian border to the Texas Panhandle and eastward through the Mississippi Valley. The arctic outbreak ended several days of record December mildness.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour heaped 4 to 8 inches of snow into travel-impeding drifts in northern, north-central and western Minnesota.

The Minnesota Highway Department reported visibilities reduced to zero in northern and western sections and it advised against travel in the storm areas. The department also reported highways slippery in central and south-central portions.

SNOW IN DAKOTAS

Two to five inches of snow was on the ground in much of North Dakota, while South Dakota averaged one to two inches.

Flights at Chicago's O'Hare International airport were delayed nearly an hour as wind gusts up to 30 miles an hour reduced available runways to one, late yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures plummeted below zero over the northern Rockies and ranged into the teens as far south as the Texas Panhandle. Glasgow and Cut Bank, Mont., were 6 below shortly after midnight.

Thunderstorms erupted ahead of the cold front from Louisiana to the Lower Great Lakes. Up to 3 inches of rain soaked parts of Texas and Louisiana during the night.

NEW PACIFC STORM

In the Far West, a new Pacific storm approached. Gale or storm warnings were posted from the central California coast northward into the state of Washington. The blizzard sweeping the north-central states grew out of a similar storm that pounded the Pacific Northwest early in the week.

Warming, southerly winds funneled into the eastern third of the country to drive away much of the chill that had stung the East and South for several days.

Some early morning reports: Boston 38 cloudy, New York 34 clear, Philadelphia 27 clear, Washington 37 partly cloudy, Atlanta 43 cloudy, Miami 71 cloudy, Chicago 47 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 24 snow, St. Louis 40 cloudy, Kansas City 27 clear, Dallas 44 clear, Denver 24 partly cloudy, Phoenix 40 clear, Los Angeles 54 clear, San Francisco 41 partly cloudy, Seattle 41 cloudy, Anchorage 15 partly cloudy, Honolulu 72 rain.

Nixon Is Busy With Meetings

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon, back from Washington after naming a Cabinet and meeting with President Johnson, is turning now to more specific problems of government at home and abroad.

To emphasize the shifting of gears within his still-building administration,

Related Story, Page A-7

Nixon confers today with representatives of the Urban Coalition, concerned with poverty and city problems, and with former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who has returned from a sometimes-controversial tour of the Middle East.

Leading a delegation from the Urban Coalition was the group's chairman, John W. Gardner, former secretary of health, education and welfare in the Johnson administration.

Scranton, who visited Israel and five Arab neighbors at Nixon's behest, was to give a personal report in the privacy of the president-elect's Fifth Avenue apartment.

8 HOURS WITH CABINET

After spending more than eight hours with his new Cabinet in a series of briefings, Nixon drove to the White House for a 65-minute private session in Johnson's office that dealt with the Middle East, Vietnam and other problems.

Johnson, during the meeting, informed Nixon he was available to meet individually with members of the incoming Cabinet and that he would confer first with William P. Rogers, Nixon's choice for secretary of state and thus, by protocol, the ranking member of the new Cabinet team.

White House press secretary George Christian was asked if a possible summit meeting with Soviet leaders was discussed. "It was not listed in their summary," he said.

Christian said the two men did discuss the state of the union, budget and economic messages which Johnson will deliver to Congress next month; various housekeeping matters and the relationships between Cabinet designates and present Cabinet members.

Dad Loses Fight for Wounded GI

Leslie Lampi's battle to keep his wounded son from returning to Vietnam apparently has been lost.

"I imagine Billy's back there by now," he said resignedly this morning.

★ ★ ★

Lampi, 47, of 857 E. Walton received word from the office of Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, late yesterday that Spec. 4 William J. Lampi, 20, was on the way back to the combat zone for the remainder of his year long tour there.

"I tried everything," said the elder Lampi, a steelworker.

$700 PHONE BILL

This, he said, included asking McDonald to intercede, calling the Pentagon, contacting the surgeon general's office and making $700 in phone calls to the Army hospital in Japan where Billy was sent for treatment of combat wounds.

The young soldier's injuries included a hole in his left eye and more than a hundred stitches in his arms and legs—the result of a jungle booby trap outside Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Lampi explained that the eye injury has resulted in double vision and said that Billy duly informed Army physicians of the condition.

However, the Army seems bent on returning Billy to Vietnam to rejoin his outfit — the 101st Airboren.

"I know Billy's not one to object," said Lampi. "He's got a lot of courage and doesn't complain. Still, he's not the kind to make a think like this up either. If Billy says he's seeing double, it's true.

"It looks like I'll just have to sweat out the last four months of his hitch," he said.

Downtown Pontiac Stores Are Busy With Holiday Shoppers

Role of PAPC to Be Studied

By JIM LONG

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) may be in for a shake-up.

If the reorganization is to take place, it will depend largely on a report to be submitted by study committee created by the PAPC last night.

★ ★ ★

Criticism by several members of the PAPC that its recommendations to the Pontiac City Commission and the Pontiac Board of Education are being disregarded touched off the issue of realignment within the advisory group.

Generally, it was the board of education that took the brunt of the attacks, particularly in regard to its selection of a site at Pontiac State Hospital for a new super high school.

INSTRUMENTAL

Both the City Commission and school board were instrumental in setting up the planning council.

The basic question raised is whether it is advantageous to have members and staff of both policy-making groups be part of the PAPC since the ones receiving the advice and guidance are among those giving it.

★ ★ ★

Carl F. Ingraham, chairman of the county poverty program and a district judge-elect in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, requested that the investigative committee be formed.

The intent of the study is to determine the relationship between the commission and the school board with the PAPC.

"It appears to me that there is a feeling among some members that representatives of the city and board of

Local Stores Thrive on Holiday Crowds

Holiday shoppers are keeping cash registers jingling and store owners merry as the Christmas spirit appears to have taken a firm grip on Pontiac.

A variety of weather, from a nose-numbing cold on Monday to last night's rain, has failed to dampen shoppers' enthusiasm.

Parking lots are busy outside area shopping centers. Inside warm stores, people are busy hunting for the right gifts.

With 12 shopping days remaining, business in downtown Pontiac is steadily increasing, merchants say.

"Business this year is very good in all departments, said Howard Nelson, Sears & Roebuck general manager. He added the busiest time of the day is from around 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

William Sexton, sales manager of downtown Federal Department Store said business is improving daily, adding, there has been an over-all increase over last year's sales. He speculates that it is perhaps because of the parking Mall.

One of the biggest selling items in the toy department at Kresge's is a toy called the Ker-plunk, said Douglas Scott, sales manager. He added that Saturday is still the biggest shopping day.

Business is steadily good through the week but Friday night is the busiest, Pontiac Mall officials said. The corridors are sometimes lined with people waiting to see Santa, they added.

Miracle Mile, the area's oldest shopping center, is experiencing it's 10th Christmas buying season this year. Weekends are generally the busiest time, officials said and weekdays the heaviest traffic flow is usually between the hours of 3 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Woodard, manager of Winkleman's in the Tel-Huron Shopping Center, said buying this season has been excellent. Business at Osmun's is "fantastic," said Robert Osmun, manager of the Tel-Huron men's store.

Pontiac Sales Up for Dec. 1-10 Period

Pontiac Motor Division reported today that its sales for the Dec. 1-10 period totaled 22,149 units.

Thomas L. King, general sales manager, said this represented a 7 per cent increase over the 20,637 new cars sold in the first 10 days of December last year.

Flash

Congressman Willia mS. Broomfield, R-18th District, announced today that the Army will schedule a public hearing on the proposed Pontiac-area antiballistic missile site in the affected area after a tentative missile site has been selected. A briefing for congressmen on the Sentinel defense system is to be held "within a few days." (Earlier story page A-4.)

Chilly Weekend in Store for Area

It looks like Pontiac area residents will have a chilly weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau offers the following official day-by-day forecast:

TODAY — Turning colder, with snow flurries, possibly beginning this afternoon. Rather windy. High 47 to 52.

TONIGHT — Mostly cloudy and much colder with a chance of snow flurries. Low 23 to 28.

★ ★ ★

TOMORROW — Cloudy and much colder with a chance of snow flurries. High 28 to 32.

SUNDAY — Partly cloudy and a little warmer.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent: 80 today, 60 tonight and tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Forty-one was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. After recording 46 at 8:30 a.m. the mercury dipped to near 32 at 12:30 p.m.

Micki King Thanks Her Home Town

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is an open letter from Air Force Lt. Micki King to the citizens of Pontiac, extending her gratitude for the encouragement and support she received during and after her competition in the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City. Miss King of Pontiac was on her way to a gold medal when on the ninth dive of the 3-meter event she hit the board and broke her arm.)

LT. MICKI KING

To the Citizens of Pontiac:

It has been over a month now since I returned from Mexico City and the Olympic Games. During this time I've been residing in Ann Arbor where I work on the University of Michigan campus with the Air Force ROTC unit. When I came home to Pontiac for Thanksgiving, two wonderful things happened, both of which touched me very deeply.

The first was a gift I received from Mr. Bruce Norvell, a dear friend from my Pontiac Central days. Bruce was the promoter of the good-luck telegram which was signed by hundreds of Pontiac citizens and sent to me in the Olympic Village.

On behalf of those who contributed to the telegram, Bruce and his wife, Diane, presented me with a beautiful silver tea set. This he purchased with the money collected over and above the cost of the telegram.

The telegram alone left me speechless. It arrived in the village at noon between the preliminary sessions of the first day of my event. I took all 15 feet of it to the dining hall and the telegram instantly became the talk of the village. With a vote of confidence like this backing from home, I couldn't miss. The first day's competition ended with me in the lead.

SUPPORT FELT

My heart broke, too, when I broke my arm the following evening. All of Pontiac was cheering and hoping and I knew it. And I could also feel the crowd at the Olympic pool pull for me on each dive.

Everything was going my way, when suddenly I found myself being administered first aid on the pool deck. During the flight of my ninth dive (a reverse 1½ somersault layout) I put my arms overhead a split-second too early in preparing for my entry into the water. I was above the level of the board when I began reaching for the water. The ex-

Downtown Plan Reality 'Within Our Grasp'

The long-awaited redevelopment of downtown Pontiac is nearer to becoming a reality than ever before, the Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) was told last night.

Jack Simon, chairman of the PAPC's Downtown Task Force, reporting on a downtown feasibility study, said "It appears right now that it is within our grasp."

★ ★ ★

His enthusiasm was based on meetings this week between James Bates, city urban renewal director, and officials of the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) agency in Chicago.

Bates, who only briefly reviewed the meeting for PAPC members since he is first to make a detailed report to the City Commission, said the HUD officials had to admit that they had never seen a plan so comprehensive or of the magnitude presented by the city.

COST OF $110 MILLION

The redevelopment plan, which Simon referred to as costing $110 million, was designed by C. Don Davidson of Pontiac, chief designer for Bruno Leon & Associates, Detroit, and financial consultant Marvin Skelton of Waterford Township.

Simon said that at the next meeting of the PAPC in January, the PAPC will be asked to make a recommendation to the City Commission to endorse the downtown concept.

★ ★ ★

Between now and then, he said, Aaron Blumberg, a market analyst from Detroit, will have reviewed all of the surveys and reports made on downtown Pontiac, and submitted a capsule report to the task force.

★ ★ ★

"HUD seems ready to move," said Simon. "Now all we need is the City Commission to move.

'HARD TO BELIEVE'

"This could be a phenomenal thing," added Simon. "It's almost hard to believe that this could happen to Pontiac."

Bates said that the implications are so great that it is beyond the scope of the regional HUD office and that some decision may have to be made in Washington.

★ ★ ★

"Now that Gov. Romney, our neighbor (Romney resides in Bloomfield Hills) has been named to head HUD, it is suggested that we talk to him," said Bates.

Planning Council to Study Own Role

education dominate this group," said Ingraham in proposing that a five-man committee study the problem.

Those appointed to review the situation were Robert Jackson representing the City Commission, Dr. Robert Turpin of the board of education, William Morgan, Hubert Price Jr. and Ingraham, all PAPC members.

★ ★ ★

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., PAPC chairman, requested that they attempt to return with a report at the next meeting of the PAPC Jan. 9 in the offices of the board of education.

The restructuring issue was first raised by James Dyer during a lengthy discussion on the role the PAPC played regarding the site of the planned super high school.

ENDORSEMENT REJECTED

The school board rejected the endorsement of the PAPC that the school be built on a central location bordering between the black and white community.

Dyer was particularly irked that the school board did not delay its decision until after the City Commission decided if it would take part in the federal Neighborhood Development Program, which is subsequently approved. The program would have provided funds for redeveloping the area of the central school site.

★ ★ ★

Monroe Osmun, school board president, and the one who cast the deciding vote on the school site, explained that it was economics that he considered in making his selection.

"I felt at least it would be four or five years (on the central school site) and it would cost $2.5 to $5 million and I didn't know where we would get it," Osmun said.

NUMEROUS CRITICS

David Doherty, PAPC director, told members that he has received numerous telephone calls and letters criticizing the PAPC and its actions.

He emphasized that it was the school board that first brought the school site to the attention of the PAPC, "at no time did the PAPC go out to bring in the school issue," he said.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Taylor urged that the PAPC continue to move forward in other areas and not be stymied by "one issue that was not agreeable to everyone."

The concerts begin at noon with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday when they start at 11 a.m.

City Man Held in Fatal Shooting

A Pontiac man is being held in Oakland County Jail today on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of a Detroit man who reportedly tried to hold him up last night, police said.

Elmer Yarborough, 46, of 328 Crystal Lake is accused of shooting a man identified as Robert McGowan, 20, of Detroit. Yarborough told police the victim entered his home on the pretense of using the telephone and then attempted to hold him up at gunpoint.

★ ★ ★

McGowan complained that his car ran out of gas and said he wanted to use the phone, according to Yarborough. Once in the door, McGowan reportedly pulled a 38-caliber snub-nose revolver.

Yarborough told police he grabbed the gunman and a struggle ensued, during which the gun discharged once.

★ ★ ★

The pair reportedly wrestled into the kitchen where Yarborough grabbed his own revolved from a table and shot McGowan three times.

McGowan was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Fire Hits College Hall

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — A multialarm blaze heavily damaged Old Founder's Hall today at Whittier College from which President-elect Nixon was graduated in 1934. There were no reports of injuries.

Fire officials said the cause and damage estimates were not immediately determined.

U.S., Viets Set New Talks Offer

PARIS (AP) — High-ranking U.S. and South Vietnamese diplomats met again as they readied a new offer to the Communists today aimed at ending the stalemate holding up the expanded Vietnam peace conference.

There was no advance indication that the Communists would agree to the latest allied plan. The allies were reported proposing a two-table arrangement for the conference, hewing to their concept of the parley as being two-sided between them and their opponents.

★ ★ ★

A North Vietnamese delegation spokesman stood fast on Hanoi's position. He said the table layout must reflect the Communist view of the meeting as four-sided, with full status for the Vietcongs' National Liberation Front.

Informants said the deputy chief U.S. negotiator, Cyrus R. Vance, arranged to present the new allied offer to his North Vietnamese counterpart, Col. Ha Van Lau, late in the day.

Earlier, sources said Vance and U.S. delegate Philip CM. Habib paid a call on South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky. The U.S. delegation head, W. Averell Harriman, worked on the plan with Ky Thursday.

tra length I added to my body by putting my arms overhead, along with my position above the board, combined to cause the accident.

★ ★ ★

I finished the meet in fourth place; no medal, no glory — only a broken arm for a souvenir. What was I to say to my family, my friends, my city, all of whom supported me to the utmost? I led them into thinking through nine dives that they were backing the champion; giving them only an "honorable mention" instead.

Yet when I returned home, I received the welcome of a champion. You — the citizens of Pontiac — still claimed me as "yours" and even presented me with an elegant gift.

EXPECTATIONS EXCEEDED

I expected your condolences, but received your congratulations. I expected your disappointment but saw only your pride. I didn't feel sorry for myself and I didn't want anyone else to. People seemed to understand this. My own disappointment was overshadowed because I was proud; proud to be a part of the Olympic Games, proud to be there as an American.

I realized just how proud I was again when I received my second gift. It was a beautiful inscribed desk set, given to me by the Pontiac Swim Club. The inscription reads "To Pontiac's Champion for Her Determination — Courage — Example." The words are as beautiful as the award itself. I hope I can live up to them always.

★ ★ ★

Thank you seems too small a phrase to show my appreciation for the efforts of my Olympic endeavor. I mean it sincerely nevertheless and send this message with my warmest wishes to each of you. Thank you — Pontiac.

Absentee Rate Says Flu's Here

Absenteeism in Pontiac's schools, hospitals, police department and industry indicates that the Hong Kong flu seems to be filtering into the area.

★ ★ ★

Clark Balch, supervisor of child accounting for the Pontiac school system, reported today that a meeting earlier this week of school principals showed that absenteeism due to the Hong Kong flu is generally up from a normal of 6 per cent to as much as 12 per cent.

A spot check of Pontiac schools showed absenteeism high in many areas but still normal in some. Faculty absenteeism is also above normal in some schools.

★ ★ ★

Only one school, Alcott Elementary School, reported absentee rates extremely high, 28 per cent above normal, but it was felt that some of the absences were due to mumps.

ABOVE-NORMAL RATE

Waterford Township School System reported an above-normal absenteeism in schools, and said that today the absenteeism among teachers was so high, school officials were unable to get enough substitutes to fill all of the vacancies. Substitutes also have Hong Kong flu. School principals are filling in today.

GMC Truck and Coach Division reported no significant change in absenteeism, although Pontiac Motor Division and the Fisher Body plant indicated that there was a slight rise in absentee rates among both hourly and salaried employes.

★ ★ ★

A second Pontiac area hospital, Pontiac General, this morning decided it will shut off visiting hours, except for extremely serious patients, to protect patients from the flu. Pontiac Osteopathic shut off visiting hours yesterday.

Other area hospitals have retained regular visiting hours.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Rain mixed with showers is forecast for tonight along the northern Pacific Coast and much of the Atlantic Coast. There will be snow flurries throughout much of the upper Midwest and western Montana. It will be warmer in the central and northern plateaus and colder elsewhere.

County Dems Reelect Chief

George Googasian, Oakland County Democratic chairman since 1964, was named to serve a third two-year term last night.

★ ★ ★

A Pontiac attorney, Googasian was reelected by party's executive committee, meeting in the supervisors' auditorium at the county courthouse. His selection was unanimous.

In addition to choosing officers, the committee also adopted a resolution opposing plans by the Defense Department to locate an antiballistic missile site in either Avon Township, Pontiac Township or Troy.

The resolution points to the possibility of an accident and the consequences to the metropolitan Detroit area.

3 VICE CHAIRMEN

Other officers winning two-year terms were Mrs. Morris Weiss of Oak Park, Harold Julian of Farmington and Waymond Guthrie of Pontiac, all vice chairmen.

Mrs. Weiss has served as recording secretary of the committee. Julian was reelected to office.

★ ★ ★

Replaced as vice chairmen were Mrs. Frances Clark of Bloomfield Township and Willis Brewer of Sylvan Lake. Neither sought reelection.

Also elected were Mrs. Frank Craig of Bloomfield Township, recording secretary; Aldo Vagnozzi of Farmington, corresponding secretary; and William Ralls of Birmingham, treasurer. Vagnozzi had been treasurer.

Chevy Picks Camaro, Nova Design Exec

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Lloyd E. Reus has been appointed chief design engineer for the Camaro and Chevy Nova, according to an announcement by A. C. Mair, director of engineering of Chevrolet Motor Division.

Reus of 2719 Courville, has served as staff engineer for administration since July.

★ ★ ★

He joined the engineering staff at General Motors Corp. in 1959 as an experimental engineer. In 1960 Reus joined the Chevrolet engineering department as a test engineer for transmission development at the GM proving ground at Milford.

In 1966, he was promoted to assistant staff engineer on axles and transmissions.

BIRMINGHAM — Lodge No. 44, F&AM, will install new officers for the coming year tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Birmingham Masonic Temple, 357 Woodward.

Girl, 14, Stabbed to Death, Autopsy Finds

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — An autopsy performed Thursday on 14-year-old Nancy Fleece has determined she was stabbed to death.

Battle Creek Police Chief Clifford Barney offered no clue to the identity of the murderer.

★ ★ ★

The girl was discovered earlier in the day after she had been missing for 11 days.

Chief Barney said the body, found southeast of Battle Creek, could easily be seen from a distance, and no attempt had been made to conceal it.

A search party combed the area for three days before the body was found about five feet from the edge of a river.

★ ★ ★

Nancy had not been seen since someone had reported seeing her turning a corner after pausing to talk to a motorist in a blue car. The body was found six miles away from where she had been seen.

★ ★ ★

Russell Clayton Dodge, 24, of Ypsilanti was held in Washtenaw County jail in Ann Arbor Thursday, charged with trying to extort at least $5,000 from Nancy's father, claiming he knew where she was. Dodge stood mute when arraigned.

State Averaged 24 Violent Crimes an Hour in 1967

LANSING (AP) — Michigan averaged 24 violent crimes per hour during 1967 for an annual total of 210,871, just-released State Police statistics show.

★ ★ ★

The total represented a 25 per cent increase over the previous year and produced a 22 per cent increase in the per capita crime rate, since the number of crimes grew much more than the state's population.

★ ★ ★

Persons aged from 10 to 16, who make up less than 15 per cent of the population, accounted for 47.7 per cent of the arrests, the police report showed.

Since 1962, it added, more than three-quarters of the persons arrested for major offenses have been under 22 years of age.

★ ★ ★

The crime report — which counts homicide, rape, aggravated assault, robbery, auto theft, burglary and felonious larceny — showed the rate of commission of those crimes has nearly doubled since 1963.

None Survive Caracas Crash

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A Pan American 707 jet exploded over the Caribbean Sea and plunged into the water last night 16 miles from Venezuela's international airport north of Caracas.

Forty-two passengers and a crew of nine, including a trainee stewardess were reported aboard. A search for survivors was continuing, but none was reported.

★ ★ ★

Officials said it was possible not all the bodies would be recovered.

Seven bodies were reported recovered before dawn.

21 U.S. ADDRESSES

A passenger list from Pan American in New York listed 21 persons from addresses in the United States, but a number of these had Latin names, and it was not known if they had been residing or visiting.

Another five passengers were listed from addresses in Canada, one was from Italy and one passenger was believed to be from Ireland. The airline listed the other 14 passengers from Venezuela.

The pilot was Capt. Sidney E. Stillwaugh, 50, of West Islip, N. Y.

Among wreckage recovered from the shark-infested water were interior cabin fittings and some life rafts that inflate automatically upon contact with water.

MINUTE BEFORE LANDING

The big jet was ending a nonstop flight from New York to Caracas. The airport control tower said it lost contact after the plane reported its approach one minute before it was due to land at 10 p.m. (9 p.m. EST)

★ ★ ★

"I heard a strong noise and then I saw a red ball fall towards the sea," said a guard at the La Guaira Naval Base, 12 miles north of Caracas.

★ ★ ★

Other residents reported seeing the explosion. Wreckage was reported scattered over a wide area.

Radio Aeropuerto, a commercial station at the airport, said the plane reported it was in trouble before its radio went dead, but an airline spokesman said the pilot radioed the airport only "no maintenance," a routine transmission indicating no service would be required on the ground.

★ ★ ★

Among the passengers was Mrs. Olga Antonetti de Dugart, who had been "Miss Venezuela" in 1962. A resident of New York, she and her 4-year-old daughter were en route to spend Christmas with relatives.

A prominent Venezuelan advertising executive, Luis Beltran Gonzalez was also on the plane returning from a business trip to New York.

Blizzard Whips Northern Midwest

From Our News Wires

A onetime Pacific storm — now grown into a full-fledged blizzard — whipped through the northern Midwest today and posed a menace to highway travel over much of Minnesota.

A cold wave drove temperatures downward from the Canadian border to the Texas Panhandle and eastward through the Mississippi Valley. The arctic outbreak ended several days of record December mildness.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour heaped 4 to 8 inches of snow into travel-impeding drifts in northern, north-central and western Minnesota.

The Minnesota Highway Department reported visibilities reduced to zero in northern and western sections and it advised against travel in the storm areas. The department also reported highways slippery in central and south-central portions.

SNOW IN DAKOTAS

Two to five inches of snow was on the ground in much of North Dakota, while South Dakota averaged one to two inches.

Flights at Chicago's O'Hare International airport were delayed nearly an hour as wind gusts up to 30 miles an hour reduced available runways to one, late yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures plummeted below zero over the northern Rockies and ranged into the teens as far south as the Texas Panhandle. Glasgow and Cut Bank, Mont., were 6 below shortly after midnight.

Thunderstorms erupted ahead of the cold front from Louisiana to the Lower Great Lakes. Up to 3 inches of rain soaked parts of Texas and Louisiana during the night.

NEW PACIFC STORM

In the Far West, a new Pacific storm approached. Gale or storm warnings were posted from the central California coast northward into the state of Washington. The blizzard sweeping the north-central states grew out of a similar storm that pounded the Pacific Northwest early in the week.

Warming, southerly winds funneled into the eastern third of the country to drive away much of the chill that had stung the East and South for several days.

Some early morning reports: Boston 38 cloudy, New York 34 clear, Philadelphia 27 clear, Washington 37 partly cloudy, Atlanta 43 cloudy, Miami 71 cloudy, Chicago 47 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 24 snow, St. Louis 40 cloudy, Kansas City 27 clear, Dallas 44 clear, Denver 24 partly cloudy, Phoenix 40 clear, Los Angeles 54 clear, San Francisco 41 partly cloudy, Seattle 41 cloudy, Anchorage 15 partly cloudy, Honolulu 72 rain.

Nixon Is Busy With Meetings

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon, back from Washington after naming a Cabinet and meeting with President Johnson, is turning now to more specific problems of government at home and abroad.

To emphasize the shifting of gears within his still-building administration,

Related Story, Page A-7

Nixon confers today with representatives of the Urban Coalition, concerned with poverty and city problems, and with former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who has returned from a sometimes-controversial tour of the Middle East.

Leading a delegation from the Urban Coalition was the group's chairman, John W. Gardner, former secretary of health, education and welfare in the Johnson administration.

Scranton, who visited Israel and five Arab neighbors at Nixon's behest, was to give a personal report in the privacy of the president-elect's Fifth Avenue apartment.

8 HOURS WITH CABINET

After spending more than eight hours with his new Cabinet in a series of briefings, Nixon drove to the White House for a 65-minute private session in Johnson's office that dealt with the Middle East, Vietnam and other problems.

Johnson, during the meeting, informed Nixon he was available to meet individually with members of the incoming Cabinet and that he would confer first with William P. Rogers, Nixon's choice for secretary of state and thus, by protocol, the ranking member of the new Cabinet team.

White House press secretary George Christian was asked if a possible summit meeting with Soviet leaders was discussed. "It was not listed in their summary," he said.

Christian said the two men did discuss the state of the union, budget and economic messages which Johnson will deliver to Congress next month; various housekeeping matters and the relationships between Cabinet designates and present Cabinet members.

Dad Loses Fight for Wounded GI

Leslie Lampi's battle to keep his wounded son from returning to Vietnam apparently has been lost.

"I imagine Billy's back there by now," he said resignedly this morning.

★ ★ ★

Lampi, 47, of 857 E. Walton received word from the office of Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, late yesterday that Spec. 4 William J. Lampi, 20, was on the way back to the combat zone for the remainder of his year long tour there.

LAMPI

"I tried everything," said the elder Lampi, a steelworker.

$700 PHONE BILL

This, he said, included asking McDonald to intercede, calling the Pentagon, contacting the surgeon general's office and making $700 in phone calls to the Army hospital in Japan where Billy was sent for treatment of combat wounds.

The young soldier's injuries included a hole in his left eye and more than a hundred stitches in his arms and legs—the result of a jungle booby trap outside Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Lampi explained that the eye injury has resulted in double vision and said that Billy duly informed Army physicians of the condition.

However, the Army seems bent on returning Billy to Vietnam to rejoin his outfit — the 101st Airboren.

"I know Billy's not one to object," said Lampi. "He's got a lot of courage and doesn't complain. Still, he's not the kind to make a think like this up either. If Billy says he's seeing double, it's true.

"It looks like I'll just have to sweat out the last four months of his hitch," he said.

Role of PAPC to Be Studied

By JIM LONG

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) may be in for a shake-up.

If the reorganization is to take place, it will depend largely on a report to be submitted by study committee created by the PAPC last night.

★ ★ ★

Criticism by several members of the PAPC that its recommendations to the Pontiac City Commission and the Pontiac Board of Education are being disregarded touched off the issue of realignment within the advisory group.

Generally, it was the board of education that took the brunt of the attacks, particularly in regard to its selection of a site at Pontiac State Hospital for a new super high school.

INSTRUMENTAL

Both the City Commission and school board were instrumental in setting up the planning council.

The basic question raised is whether it is advantageous to have members and staff of both policy-making groups be part of the PAPC since the ones receiving the advice and guidance are among those giving it.

★ ★ ★

Carl F. Ingraham, chairman of the county poverty program and a district judge-elect in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, requested that the investigative committee be formed.

The intent of the study is to determine the relationship between the commission and the school board with the PAPC.

"It appears to me that there is a feeling among some members that representatives of the city and board of

Local Stores Thrive on Holiday Crowds

Holiday shoppers are keeping cash registers jingling and store owners merry as the Christmas spirit appears to have taken a firm grip on Pontiac.

A variety of weather, from a nose-numbing cold on Monday to last night's rain, has failed to dampen shoppers' enthusiasm.

Parking lots are busy outside area shopping centers. Inside warm stores, people are busy hunting for the right gifts.

With 12 shopping days remaining, business in downtown Pontiac is steadily increasing, merchants say.

"Business this year is very good in all departments, said Howard Nelson, Sears & Roebuck general manager. He added the busiest time of the day is from around 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

William Sexton, sales manager of downtown Federal Department Store said business is improving daily, adding, there has been an over-all increase over last year's sales. He speculates that it is perhaps because of the parking Mall.

One of the biggest selling items in the toy department at Kresge's is a toy called the Ker-plunk, said Douglas Scott, sales manager. He added that Saturday is still the biggest shopping day.

Business is steadily good through the week but Friday night is the busiest, Pontiac Mall officials said. The corridors are sometimes lined with people waiting to see Santa, they added.

Miracle Mile, the area's oldest shopping center, is experiencing it's 10th Christmas buying season this year. Weekends are generally the busiest time, officials said and weekdays the heaviest traffic flow is usually between the hours of 3 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Woodard, manager of Winkleman's in the Tel-Huron Shopping Center, said buying this season has been excellent. Business at Osmun's is "fantastic," said Robert Osmun, manager of the Tel-Huron men's store.

Pontiac Sales Up for Dec. 1-10 Period

Pontiac Motor Division reported today that its sales for the Dec. 1-10 period totaled 22,149 units.

Thomas L. King, general sales manager, said this represented a 7 per cent increase over the 20,637 new cars sold in the first 10 days of December last year.

Flash

Congressman Willia mS. Broomfield, R-18th District, announced today that the Army will schedule a public hearing on the proposed Pontiac-area antiballistic missile site in the affected area after a tentative missile site has been selected. A briefing for congressmen on the Sentinel defense system is to be held "within a few days." (Earlier story page A-4.)

Chilly Weekend in Store for Area

It looks like Pontiac area residents will have a chilly weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau offers the following official day-by-day forecast:

TODAY — Turning colder, with snow flurries, possibly beginning this afternoon. Rather windy: High 47 to 52.

TONIGHT — Mostly cloudy and much colder with a chance of snow flurries. Low 23 to 28.

★ ★ ★

TOMORROW — Cloudy and much colder with a chance of snow flurries. High 28 to 32.

SUNDAY — Partly cloudy and a little warmer.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent: 80 today, 60 tonight and tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Forty-one was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. After recording 46 at 8:30 a.m. the mercury dipped to near 32 at 12:30 p.m.

Micki King Thanks Her Home Town

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is an open letter from Air Force Lt. Micki King to the citizens of Pontiac, extending her gratitude for the encouragement and support she received during and after her competition in the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City. Miss King of Pontiac was on her way to a gold medal when on the ninth dive of the 3-meter event she hit the board and broke her arm.)

LT. MICKI KING

To the Citizens of Pontiac:

It has been over a month how since I returned from Mexico City and the Olympic Games. During this time I've been residing in Ann Arbor where I work on the University of Michigan campus with the Air Force ROTC unit. When I came home to Pontiac for Thanksgiving, two wonderful things happened, both of which touched me very deeply.

The first was a gift I received from Mr. Bruce Norvell, a dear friend, from my Pontiac Central days. Bruce was the promoter of the good-luck telegram which was signed by hundreds of Pontiac citizens and sent to me in the Olympic Village.

On behalf of those who contributed to the telegram, Bruce and his wife, Diane, presented me with a beautiful silver tea set. This he purchased with the money collected over and above the cost of the telegram.

The telegram alone left me speechless. It arrived in the village at noon between the preliminary sessions of the first day of my event. I took all 15 feet of it to the dining hall and the telegram instantly became the talk of the village. With a vote of confidence like this backing from home, I couldn't miss. The first day's competition ended with me in the lead.

SUPPORT FELT

My heart broke, too, when I broke my arm the following evening. All of Pontiac was cheering and hoping and I knew it. And I could also feel the crowd at the Olympic pool pull for me on each dive.

Everything was going my way, when suddenly I found myself being administered first aid on the pool deck. During the flight of my ninth dive (a reverse 1½ somersault layout) I put my arms overhead a split-second too early in preparing for my entry into the water. I was above the level of the board when I began reaching for the water. The ex-

Downtown Plan Reality 'Within Our Grasp'

The long-awaited redevelopment of downtown Pontiac is nearer to becoming a reality than ever before, the Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) was told last night.

Jack Simon, chairman of the PAPC's Downtown Task Force, reporting on a downtown feasibility study, said "It appears right now that it is within our grasp."

★ ★ ★

His enthusiasm was based on meetings this week between James Bates, city urban renewal director, and officials of the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) agency in Chicago.

Bates, who only briefly reviewed the meeting for PAPC members since he is first to make a detailed report to the City Commission, said the HUD officials had to admit that they had never seen a plan so comprehensive or of the magnitude presented by the city.

COST OF $110 MILLION

The redevelopment plan, which Simon referred to as costing $110 million, was designed by C. Don Davidson of Pontiac, chief designer for Bruno Leon & Associates, Detroit, and financial consultant Marvin Skelton of Waterford Township.

Simon said that at the next meeting of the PAPC in January, the PAPC will be asked to make a recommendation to the City Commission to endorse the downtown concept.

★ ★ ★

Between now and then, he said, Aaron Blumberg, a market analyst from Detroit, will have reviewed all of the surveys and reports made on downtown Pontiac, and submitted a capsule report to the task force.

★ ★ ★

"HUD seems ready to move," said Simon. "Now all we need is the City Commission to move.

'HARD TO BELIEVE'

"This could be a phenomenal thing," added Simon. "It's almost hard to believe that this could happen to Pontiac."

Bates said that the implications are so great that it is beyond the scope of the regional HUD office and that some decision may have to be made in Washington.

★ ★ ★

"Now that Gov. Romney, our neighbor (Romney resides in Bloomfield Hills) has been named to head HUD, it is suggested that we talk to him," said Bates.

Planning Council to Study Own Role

education dominate this group," said Ingraham in proposing that a five-man committee study the problem.

Those appointed to review the situation were Robert Jackson representing the City Commission, Dr. Robert Turpin of the board of education, William Morgan, Hubert Price Jr. and Ingraham, all PAPC members.

★ ★ ★

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., PAPC chairman, requested that they attempt to return with a report at the next meeting of the PAPC Jan. 9 in the offices of the board of education.

The restructuring issue was first raised by James Dyer during a lengthy discussion on the role the PAPC played regarding the site of the planned super high school.

ENDORSEMENT REJECTED

The school board rejected the endorsement of the PAPC that the school be built on a central location bordering between the black and white community.

Dyer was particularly irked that the school board did not delay its decision until after the City Commission decided if it would take part in the federal Neighborhood Development Program, which is subsequently approved. The program would have provided funds for redeveloping the area of the central school site.

★ ★ ★

Monroe Osmun, school board president, and the one who cast the deciding vote on the school site, explained that it was economics that he considered in making his selection.

"I felt at least it would be four or five years (on the central school site) and it would cost $2.5 to $5 million and I didn't know where we would get it," Osmun said.

NUMEROUS CRITICS

David Doherty, PAPC director, told members that he has received numerous telephone calls and letters criticizing the PAPC and its actions.

He emphasized that it was the school board that first brought the school site to the attention of the PAPC. "at no time did the PAPC go out to bring in the school issue," he said.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Taylor urged that the PAPC continue to move forward in other areas and not be stymied by "one issue that was not agreeable to everyone."

City Man Held in Fatal Shooting

A Pontiac man is being held in Oakland County Jail today on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of a Detroit man who reportedly tried to hold him up last night, police said.

Elmer Yarborough, 46, of 328 Crystal Lake is accused of shooting a man identified as Robert McGowan, 20, of Detroit. Yarborough told police the victim entered his home on the pretense of using the telephone and then attempted to hold him up at gunpoint.

★ ★ ★

McGowan complained that his car ran out of gas and said he wanted to use the phone, according to Yarborough. Once in the door, McGowan reportedly pulled a 38-caliber snub-nose revolver.

Yarborough told police he grabbed the gunman and a struggle ensued, during which the gun discharged once.

★ ★ ★

The pair reportedly wrestled into the kitchen where Yarborough grabbed his own revolved from a table and shot McGowan three times.

McGowan was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Fire Hits College Hall

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — A multialarm blaze heavily damaged Old Founder's Hall today at Whittier College from which President-elect Nixon was graduated in 1934. There were no reports of injuries.

Fire officials said the cause and damage estimates were not immediately determined.

JOY TO THE WORLD! — Pontiac Northern High School's a capella choir, directed by John Tousley of the school faculty, sings out yesterday at an annual Christmas concert at Pontiac State Bank's main office, 28 N. Saginaw. The bank will continue its concert program through Dec. 20 with area school groups singing and Mrs. Sam Dudley at the organ. The concerts begin at noon with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday when they start at 11 a.m.

U.S., Viets Set New Talks Offer

PARIS (AP) — High-ranking U.S. and South Vietnamese diplomats met again as they readied a new offer to the Communists today aimed at ending the stalemate holding up the expanded Vietnam peace conference

There was no advance indication that the Communists would agree to the latest allied plan. The allies were reported proposing a two-table arrangement for the conference, hewing to their concept of the parley as being two-sided between them and their opponents.

★ ★ ★

A North Vietnamese delegation spokesman stood fast on Hanoi's position. He said the table layout must reflect the Communist view of the meeting as four-sided, with full status for the Vietcongs' National Liberation Front.

Informants said the deputy chief U.S. negotiator, Cyrus R. Vance, arranged to present the new allied offer to his North Vietnamese counterpart, Col. Ha Van Lau, late in the day.

Earlier, sources said Vance and U.S. delegate Philip CM. Habib paid a call on South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky. The U.S. delegation head, W. Averell Harriman, worked on the plan with Ky Thursday.

tra length I added to my body by putting my arms overhead, along with my position above the board, combined to cause the accident.

★ ★ ★

I finished the meet in fourth place; no medal, no glory — only a broken arm for a souvenir. What was I to say to my family, my friends, my city, all of whom supported me to the utmost? I led them into thinking through nine dives that they were backing the champion; giving them only an "honorable mention" instead.

Yet when I returned home, I received the welcome of a champion. You — the citizens of Pontiac — still claimed me as "yours" and even presented me with an elegant gift.

EXPECTATIONS EXCEEDED

I expected your condolences, but received your congratulations. I expected your disappointment but saw only your pride. I didn't feel sorry for myself and I didn't want anyone else to. People seemed to understand this. My own disappointment was overshadowed because I was proud; proud to be a part of the Olympic Games, proud to be there as an American.

I realized just how proud I was again when I received my second gift. It was a beautiful inscribed desk set, given to me by the Pontiac Swim Club. The inscription reads "To Pontiac's Champion for Her Determination — Courage — Example." The words are as beautiful as the award itself. I hope I can live up to them always.

★ ★ ★

Thank you seems too small a phrase to show my appreciation for the efforts of my Olympic endeavor. I mean it sincerely nevertheless and send this message with my warmest wishes to each of you. Thank you — Pontiac.

County Dems Reelect Chief

George Googasian, Oakland County Democratic chairman since 1964, was named to serve a third two-year term last night.

★ ★ ★

A Pontiac attorney, Googasian was re-elected by party's executive committee, meeting in the supervisors' auditorium at the county courthouse. His selection was unanimous.

In addition to choosing officers, the committee also adopted a resolution opposing plans by the Defense Department to locate an antiballistic missile site in either Avon Township, Pontiac Township or Troy.

The resolution points to the possibility of an accident and the consequences to the metropolitan Detroit area.

3 VICE CHAIRMEN

Other officers winning two-year terms were Mrs. Morris Weiss of Oak Park, Harold Julian of Farmington and Waymond Guthrie of Pontiac, all vice chairmen.

Mrs. Weiss has served as recording secretary of the committee. Julian was reelected to office.

★ ★ ★

Replaced as vice chairmen were Mrs. Frances Clark of Bloomfield Township and Willis Brewer of Sylvan Lake. Neither sought reelection.

Also elected were Mrs. Frank Craig of Bloomfield Township, recording secretary; Aldo Vagnozzi of Farmington, corresponding secretary and William Ralls of Birmingham, treasurer. Vagnozzi had been treasurer.

Absentee Rate Says Flu's Here

Absenteeism in Pontiac's schools, hospitals, police department and industry indicates that the Hong Kong flu seems to be filtering into the area.

★ ★ ★

Clark Balch, supervisor of child accounting for the Pontiac school system, reported today that a meeting earlier this week of school principals showed that absenteeism due to the Hong Kong flu is generally up from a normal of 6 per cent to as much as 12 per cent.

A spot check of Pontiac schools showed absenteeism high in many areas but still normal in some. Faculty absenteeism is also above normal in some schools.

★ ★ ★

Only one school, Alcott Elementary School, reported absentee rates extremely high, 28 per cent above normal, but it was felt that some of the absences were due to mumps.

ABOVE-NORMAL RATE

Waterford Township School System reported an above-normal absenteeism in schools, and said that today the absenteeism among teachers was so high, school officials were unable to get enough substitutes to fill all of the vacancies. Substitutes also have Hong Kong flu. School principals are filling in today.

GMC Truck and Coach Division reported no significant change in absenteeism, although Pontiac Motor Division and the Fisher Body plant indicated that there was a slight rise in absentee rates among both hourly and salaried employes.

★ ★ ★

A second Pontiac area hospital, Pontiac General, this morning decided it will shut off visiting hours, except for extremely serious patients, to protect patients from the flu. Pontiac Osteopathic shut off visiting hours yesterday.

Other area hospitals have retained regular visiting hours.

Girl, 14, Stabbed to Death, Autopsy Finds

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — An autopsy performed Thursday on 14-year-old Nancy Fleece has determined she was stabbed to death.

Battle Creek Police Chief Clifford Barney offered no clue to the identity of the murderer.

★ ★ ★

The girl was discovered earlier in the day after she had been missing for 11 days.

Chief Barney said the body, found southeast of Battle Creek, could easily be seen from a distance, and no attempt had been made to conceal it.

A search party combed the area for three days before the body was found about five feet from the edge of a river.

★ ★ ★

Nancy had not been seen since someone had reported seeing her turning a corner after pausing to talk to a motorist in a blue car. The body was found six miles away from where she had been seen.

★ ★ ★

Russell Clayton Dodge, 24, of Ypsilanti was held in Washtenaw County jail in Ann Arbor Thursday, charged with trying to extort at least $5,000 from Nancy's father, claiming he knew where she was. Dodge stood mute when arraigned.

State Averaged 24 Violent Crimes an Hour in 1967

LANSING (AP) — Michigan averaged 24 violent crimes per hour during 1967 for an annual total of 210,871, just-released State Police statistics show.

★ ★ ★

The total represented a 25 per cent increase over the previous year and produced a 22 per cent increase in the per capita crime rate, since the number of crimes grew much more than the state's population.

★ ★ ★

Persons aged from 10 to 16, who make up less than 15 per cent of the population, accounted for 47.7 per cent of the arrests, the police report showed.

Since 1962, it added, more than three-quarters of the persons arrested for major offenses have been under 22 years of age.

★ ★ ★

The crime report — which counts homicide, rape, aggravated assault, robbery, auto theft, burglary and felonious larceny — showed the rate of commission of those crimes has nearly doubled since 1963.

New 'Police' Put Leash on Teen Parties

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Four new "patrolmen" have been added to the township police force, and have already proved their worth in curbing wild teen-age partying.

The new members of the force are German shepherd police dogs —Hans, Nicki, Sam and Babe— and while they can handle regular duties, too, they excel at helping police round up errant teens who throw wild parties in vacant buildings and open fields, according to Police Chief Robert Snell.

Sam, who accompanies Patrolman Al Daisley, helped round up some teens recently in a large three-story building that once housed the swimming pool of a large estate. Before getting the dogs, the youths used to scatter in all directions and then return for more partying when police left.

But the recent raid at the building was a completely different story.

THEY FROZE

"We walked to the top of the stairs," recalls Daisley. "I announced that I had a dog with me, and they froze.

"One girl kind of tested Sam by jumping at him and he lunged right back at her. She almost collapsed, and we marched them all right to the station without any trouble," he said.

* * *

Snell said the dogs are not used to threaten. But, he said, "no one can put a real value on their psychological effect."

Liquid Disposal Incinerator In Operation

Incinerator Vibration Test Set

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Spurred by complaints from residents, the township zoning board of appeals has asked for vibration tests to be made in the area surrounding the special incinerator of Liquid Disposal Inc.

A public hearing on renewal of the company's license to operate the incinerator, billed as a weapon against pollution, has been recessed until Jan. 13 to allow time for the tests and other investigation.

Attorney Richard Brightheart and Charles Meyers, president of Liquid Disposal, represented the company at the recent board hearing.

The pair conceded that some problems have been encountered in the operation of the incinerator, the largest of its kind in the world at the time of installation.

1,200 GALLONS A DAY

The "alumina core" retort, produced by Garver-Davis Pollution Control Systems Inc. of Cleveland, can dispose of 1,200 gallons of liquid industrial wastes in a day.

According to Meyers, any combination of waste from pure water to pure hydrocarbons can be burned in the retort — the more water, the slower the process and the more gas used. The end products are carbon dioxide and water vapor.

* * *

Previously, the wastes — including such materials as paint thinner, paint sludges, contaminated and dirty industrial oils, and other unusable by-products of the paint and petroleum industries — were dumped in industrial land-fills or other areas.

Recently, however, nearby residents have complained of smoke and loud noise vibrations like sonic booms.

'PLASTER CRACKS'

Among those registering objections was Shelby DPW chief George Crombe. Crombe, who lives at 47791 Greenview, near the incinerator, told the board in a letter that vibrations have caused plaster in his house to crack.

Brightheart and Meyers attributed the vibrations to the firing of the incinerator and uneven burning of the liquids. They added that the retort is currently only used about 15 per cent of the time, rather than on a more efficient 24-hour basis.

* * *

The smoke, they explained, is almost entirely water vapor, which does not pollute the atmosphere.

Board members Harvey Hansen and Roy Rogensues indicated they felt the question deserved further investigation, and Hansen said tests of at least a week's duration should be made to determine the extent of the vibrations.

The actual tests will have to be scheduled by the township board of trustees.

New High School Proposed by Brandon Superintendent

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — A new high school may be in the offing for this school district.

The board of education and a citizens' advisory committee are studying the problem posed by the district's rapid growth, according to Schools Supt. Clyde C. Fischer.

The district, covering 54 square miles, is one of the largest in area in the county, Fischer said, and enrollment is presently growing at the rate of 5 per cent annually.

So far, he added, the increase has been primarily in secondary school, but any new development in the area — such as apartments or a subdivision — could put a serious strain on facilities.

NEW SUGGESTION

The citizens' committee originally proposed construction of a middle school, which would serve grades five-eight. However, Fischer, citing recent studies of projected enrollment, has suggested retaining the present high school as a middle school for grades six-eight and building a new high school.

The superintendent said he thought it might be possible to finance construction of the high school without an additional bond issue or tax levy.

In other business, the board approved a policy on student absences from school.

A parent allowing a student to be absent from school for reasons other than illness, injury or emergency will assume responsibility for the student's progress. Supplemental work may be assigned by teachers to help the student catch up.

Also a note from a parent explaining cause of absence must be brought to school by a student who does not attend classes.

The board also received from Fischer the results of a study breaking down the district's teaching staff by sex, age, professional training, geographical background, teaching experience and other similar factors.

The study, the superintendent explained, may be used to help coordinate teacher recruitment activities. "We want to have a staff with as broad a background, geographically and experience-wise, as possible," Fischer commented.

Firm Tells Dividend

BIRMINGHAM — Kuhlman Corp. headquartered here, has announced a regular quarterly cash dividend of 10 cents a share on the company's common stock. The board of directors also announced an extra cash dividend of 10 cents, both dividends payable Jan. 10, 1969, to stockholders of record Dec. 27.

Heat Put on Army Over Missile Sites

Last night the Oakland County Democratic executive committee passed a resolution stating its formal opposition to locating the proposed missile sites anywhere within the county or within the Detroit metropolitan area.

Heat is being applied to the Army to explain why its proposed Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) sites are being located in or near population centers.

Two congressmen have indicated they want an answer to the question. Meantime, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., was scheduled to talk on the ABM site controversy at a news conference this afternoon in Detroit.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., said yesterday that the Army's plan to locate missiles in area suburbs represents a change in plans originally approved by Congress.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is currently studying potential ABM sites in Avon Township, Troy and Pontiac Township. The Army also seems to be interested in a parcel of land in Orion Township.

"Congress authorized this program based on the Defense Department's statement that the missiles would be located away from population centers," Conyers said after a meeting with area congressmen to discuss the matter.

"Apparently the plans have been changed and they are now going to be located near the cities," he said. "If there are some new factors that require that these missiles be placed near population centers, then, at the very least, Congress should take another look at this matter.

In addition to Conyers' statement, Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-18th District, has requested that the Army hold public hearings before deciding on an ABM site.

The Royal Oak Republican has wired Lt. Gen. William F. Cassidy, chief of the Corps of Engineers, with his request.

* * *

Broomfield said many fears and questions about the potential for an accidental misfiring of the nuclear missiles have been raised. He added that the Army could explain at the same hearing the benefits of the Sentinel system.

The Sentinel Spartan and Sprint missiles are part of a new $5-billion system designed to protect American cities primarily from attack by Red China.

Farming Families Can Obtain Tax Data at Meeting

Farm families concerned with obtaining up-to-date information for their 1968 federal income tax returns can obtain such data at a meeting Tuesday, announces Bill Muller, Oakland County Agricultural Agent.

An open meeting for all Oakland County farmers will be held at the Cooperative Extension Service Office, 155 N. Saginaw in downtown Pontiac beginning at 1 p.m.

Norman Bless, Michigan State University District farm management agent, will discuss such items as depreciation schedules, workman's compensation, investment credit, income averaging, captial gains and losses, various schedules appearing in the 1968 income tax package, and tax filing dates for farmers.

Dog Wakes Man as Fire Guts Home

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A Pekingese dog saved Thomas J. Lamaster's life yesterday. As fire swept Lamaster's home at 1779 Post, the dog jumped up on the bed and woke his sleeping master.

The family claims the dog has never before had the strength to jump up on the bed.

* * *

The rented house was gutted by the blaze. Mrs. Lamaster and her daughter were away at the time.

The fire, reported at 5:15 p.m. was caused by a short in the electrical wiring running in a wall in the closet adjacent to the vestible, according to the West Bloomfield Township fire chief Boris Nicoloff.

Huron Valley Eying School Park Plan

The school park concept is being investigated by the Huron Valley Board of Education as a possible way to meet rising student enrollments with a minimum of money.

The novel park plan calls for a high school-junior high school and one or more elementary schools on the same 135-acre site.

* * *

Each school would be separate, but all would share some of the so-called expensive facilities which are not directly concerned with classroom instruction, explained district Supt. Theodore E. Hagadone.

Hagadone said that cost reductions could come from having one central heating plant instead of three, one kitchen with separate eating facilities for elementary, junior and senior high—this would require less staff—and one sewage system.

CHEAPER, EASIER TO MAINTAIN

Transportation to one site is cheaper, as is a single electrical system and overall maintenance. One large partitioned gym area would be cheaper and easier to maintain.

Educationally there would also be several advantages, added Hagadone. There could be one large auditorium for all community uses instead of several small ones.

* * *

Further, the specialized areas of a high school such as science and language labs, special education, art studies, home economics and vocational equipment would be available to a wider range of students and could be used on a full-time basis, thus justifying the costs.

Comprehensive evening courses for adults would also utilize these facilities.

The board has authorized Richard Prince and Associates Inc., architects, to prepare a report on the merits of the school park plan. The study will also include opinions on the conventional one-story buildings and on two-story buildings.

* * *

The board will use the report in deciding which kinds of buildings to construct to help prepare for the expected 7,600 students in the 1971-72 school year.

Prince has said, "We recommend the construction of an educational park on an economic basis."

He explained that monetary savings are possible in the facilities because the number of students served permits efficient utilization and a reduction in maintenance costs and insurance rates.

PITTSBURGH COMPLEX

Such a complex is currently being built in Pittsburgh. That plan calls for six high-rise high schools housing 1,000 students each.

The term, educational park, is used because the facilities will be used in a park setting such as Kensington and the facilities would be available for public use, according to the superintendent.

* * *

Hagadone pointed out that the district will be pressed for junior and senior high facilities by the end of the present building program.

There is room for 2,800 students in grades 7-12 now, but by next fall there will be 2,868 students enrolled. Within four years this number is expected to grow to 4,000 students.

* * *

In the last citizens committee report, the need for new junior and senior high school facilities was recognized.

Hazel Park Councilman Seen as Likely Supervisors' Head

By JEAN SAILE

If Philip O. Mastin, 38-year-old Hazel Park city councilman, can control eight Democratic votes and maintain party discipline, it appears he has an excellent chance of becoming the Oakland County Board of Supervisors' new chairman.

Mastin, caucus leader for the Democrats on the board, says he has avoided any discussion regarding the chairmanship.

"Discussion of the leadership at this time is premature," Mastin said. "Once we start that kind of discussion, we can't proceed with committee and by-law formation."

News Analysis

The caucus so far has directed its efforts to condensing the present 28 committees on the board to a more manageable 12.

It also has discussed the liberalizing of bylaws, whereby representatives of the audience may speak during sessions and members may have more time to discuss an issue under consideration.

Mastin's party, which he serves as Oakland County deputy chairman, won a 15-to-12 majority on the new board in last month's electoin.

It was the first time in county history that board power here fell to the Democrats. Republicans are quick to point out, however, that a tally of the total votes showed more Republican than Democratic ballots cast.

Delos Hamlin, at 64 a 25-year member of the board who has served the last 13 as its chairman, fully expects to return to ordinary member status on Jan. 1.

"I never sought the chairmanship," said Hamlin, "and I don't intend to seek it now."

Meanwhile, Mastin has competition within his own party. William L. Mainland of Milford and Charles B. Edwards Jr. of Madison Heights have reportedly announced their interest in seeking the chairmanship.

Mainland is chairman of the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). He is considered a moderate. Edwards has a long history of activity in the Democratic party.

Former State Sen. Carl O'Brien of Pontiac is considered by many to be in the running for a top post. Reportedly not seeking the chairmanship, O'Brien is a likely candidate for vice chairman because of his legislative experience.

Of the new supervisors elected to the 27-man board, 12 have previous experience. The number includes Robert Patnales, a Royal Oak Republican. Patnales is not a present member of the board but has previously served on it.

Seven of the returning supervisors are Democrats and four are Republicans.

The control of eight Democrats would give Mastin control of the party caucus, which would put forth the Democratic discipline is maintained, the Democrats would then vote for that nominee and, with their majority on the board, determine the new chairman.

The election of chairman for the new board is not expected before Jan. 20, the likely date of the new board's first meeting.

IRS Switch Toughens Gun-Control Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has reversed an earlier interpretation of the 1968 Gun Control Act, putting strong new teeth into the controversial measure four days before it becomes law.

"This is going to disappoint a lot of these gun people" said a spokesman for the IRS which is charged with enforcing firearms control.

★ ★ ★

Over-all, the bill that was prompted by the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June and cleared Congress Oct. 10 bans the interstate mail order sales of all guns and ammunition.

It also bans over-the-counter sales to nonresidents of a state unless the states are adjacent and the law in each state "permits" such sales.

IRS WRONG

When the IRS issued proposed regulations embodying the law last month, it said the adjacent-state sales would be legal unless one or both states enacted laws specifically prohibiting them.

But Thursday the IRS said it had been wrong—that such sales would be permitted after the over-all bill takes effect Monday only when states pass laws permitting them.

The effect, said an IRS attorney, is to shut off at least temporarily all individual sales of firearms across state lines.

The section of the gun-control act that applies says a sale to a resident of a contiguous state is to be legal "if the purchaser's state of residence permits such a sale or delivery by law, . . . (and) the sale fully complies with the legal conditions in both contiguous states."

DODD OBJECTIONS

However, a Senate attorney who worked on the legislation when it was in House-Senate conference committee, said "What it means is that sales are permitted if lawful in each state. It doesn't say there is to be positive action."

★ ★ ★

The IRS said it reviewed its interpretation after objections by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., just before a public hearing on the proposed regulations Nov. 21.

A spokesman quoted Dodd one of the staunchest backers of strict gun controls, as saying he had commented at least once on the intent of the section during a Senate proceeding.

★ ★ ★

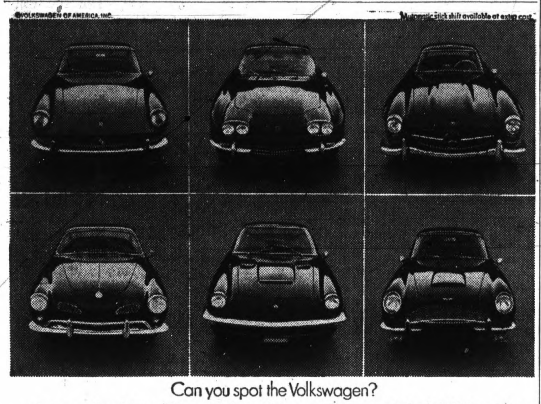
Asked whether it was usual for the IRS to revise its interpretation of a law worked out in conference committee when a single senator objected, an IRS spokesman said:

"We don't take the word of one person. But when we are pressed to pursue the law and a second look convinces us they are right, we'll change it."

GETS STICKY

"Our job is to interpret and implement the law, but we cannot go beyond it," said the spokesman.

"Often this gets very sticky," he added.



Can you spot the Volkswagen?

Lost among five of the world's great sports cars is one of the world's great Volkswagens.

The VW Karmann Ghia.

If you confuse it with a 170 mph sports machine, we wouldn't be surprised.

The racy lines are the work of a famous sports car designer, the Ghia studios of Turin, Italy.

And the bodywork is the handiwork of one of Europe's oldest custom coachmakers, Karmann of Osnabrück.

What makes the Karmann Ghia a Volkswagen is everything that makes it go. Independent 4-wheel suspension that takes curves like a racer. Surprisingly smooth 4-speed gear box. And an air-cooled engine that gets up to 28 mpg.

Of course, you can't reach the speed of a $15,000 Ferrari (top left), a $16,000 Lamborghini (top center), a $9,000 Mercedes-Benz (top right), a $15,000 Maserati (bottom center), or a $14,000 Aston Martin (bottom right) in a Karmann Ghia (bottom left).

But it costs only $2,513.91 to give the impression that you can.

OCC Is Seeking Housing for 2

Oakland Community College is seeking housing for two students from Belize, formerly known as British Honduras.

As part of its cooperative effort with Michigan Partners of the Alliance, OCC will assume all instructional costs and will provide a complete orientation, counseling, testing and placement program prior to admission.

★ ★ ★

If housing can be obtained, the applicants will be selected from a group of five — three men and two women between ages 18 and 20. All are single.

Since OCC is a commuting institution with no on-campus resident facilities at its three campuses, the family accepting a student must be able to provide transportation to the campus.

★ ★ ★

If a family would like to offer housing and transportation for a Belize student for the coming academic year they may contact Charles Braun at the OCC office of research development.

Brazil will introduce coins made of stainless steel, because of the worldwide nickel shortage.

Expansion Is Urged for MSU Med School

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Dr. Robert J. Mason of 5801 E. Millerway, Bloomfield Township president-elect of the Mishigan State Medilal Soliety, (MSMS) addressed a regional meeting of the state sosiety last night and urged expansion of the Michigan State University medical school to a four-year institution.

"The developing shortage of doctors is reaching the critical point," he said.

* * *

Michigan, with over 4 per cent of the nation's population, is producing just over 3 per cent of the nation's physicians, Mason said.

"We should turnoht 5 4 0 physicians in 1976, to produce odr fair share. Michigan's two 4-year medical schools acthally graduated slightly more than 300 doctors in July of this year," Mason said.

IMMEDIATE EXPANSION

"We need to immediately expand the enrollment of our existing medical schools in Michigan, and to expand the e present two-year medical program at MSU to a four-year, degree-granting program," he said.

Mason urges a more aggressive plan of action in developing a larger medical program in Michigan. The state board of education approved the four-year plan for MSU in 1967, but the Legislature did not appropriate funds to carry it out.

* * *

He urged formation of a Michigan Citizens Committee on Medical Manpower to assist physicians in influencing the legislature to appropriate the needed funds for the expansion of medical programs in the state, and to deveop a long-range program for medical manpower designed to meet foreseeable demands by 1980.

Mason poointed out a MSMS suggestion to help relieve the manpower shortage in Michigan — that the medical schools in the state take the necessary steps to develop curricula which will make possible the granting of either the degree of Dcotor of Medicine or Doctor of Osteopathy, according to the students option.

"Accordingly, it would be possible for additional graduates at Wayne State University, University of Michigan and new graduates at MSU to enter practice as osteopaths. Students educated in these outstanding institutions who elected to accept an osteopathic degree would be the best trained osteopaths in the nation," Mason said.

"Together, we must more effectively tell the people of Michigan to urge their governor, elected representatives and the state legislature to get on with the job," Mason said.

MSMS members from wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Monroe counties attended the regional meeting, at the Fox and Hounds Inn, Bloomfield Hills.

Hanoi to Take Gifts for POWs

U. S. Doesn't Connect Move to Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Deparment yesterday announced that contrary to last year, Hanoi will accept Christmas parcels for delivery to American prisoners this year.

The officials said they were gratified by Hanoi's decision, communicated in Paris by North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy to U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

* * *

The official did not, however link the goodwill gesture to possible future movement in the Paris talks on Vietnam. They also indicated continued distress over the uncertainty surrounding the American prisoners' fate.

* * *

The officials pointed out that to date North Vietnam has declined to provide the United States a list of American prisoners of war or to permit Red Cross inspections of their living conditions as specified by the Geneva Convention on prisoners of war.

FAMILIES INSTRUCTED

Thus U.S. military authorities imply do not know exactly which missing American pilots are prisoners in North Vietnam.

* * *

As a matter of precaution, the military services on Nov. 25 informed families of missing pilots to prepare small Christmas packages for kinfolk believed to be prisoners.

* * *

These instructions went out even before North Vietnam's official attitude was made known. Xuan Thuy's communication to Harriman was made, in fact, in response to a specific inquiry earlier by the American ambassador.

* * *

U.S. officials said that on Nov. 25 the Navy also contacted relatives of the crew of the USS Pueblo under detention in North Korea. In this case, U.S. officials have received no assurance Christmas packages would be accepted by the Communists for transmittal to the Americans.

6 HELD IN CHINA

Communist China is holding at least six Americans and according to long-standing arrangements packages have been forwarded regularly to these prisoners through the Red Cross.

* * *

U.S. officials said that as of Nov. 23, 1968, there were 879 American servicemen missing in Southeast Asia and another 336 were known to be prisoners in either North or South Vietnam.

* * *

Cambodia is holding 11 Americans who were captured when their landing craft wandered into Cambodian waters through a navigational error earlier in the year. They are not considered prisoners of war and have been receiving messages and packages from time to time through the Australian embassy in Phnom Penh.

Sen. Huber Urges Probe of Oakland U. Morality

Sen. Robert J. Huber of Troy has called for a full-scale investigation into what he termed "disintegrating morality" at Oakland University.

The Republican legislator demanded the inquiry in a telegram sent yesterday to University Chancellor Durward B. Varner after reading reports about nude lecturer Lee Elbinger.

Huber said he would ask all state legislators from the county to take part in the hearing.

He said he has already discussed the matter with State Rep. Bill S. Huffman of Madison Heights, a Democrat, and that he too is concerned with the reprt.

'SITUATION FANTASTIC'

"I really want to go after this and find out what's going on," said Huber. "From what I've heard, the situation at the university is fantastic."

Huber said that he was bothered by the apparent disinteres: shown by university officials.

* * *

"I really don't know what's happening to us" said Huber. "No priest or rabbi has spoken out on this, but I have received calls from citizens who are worried about what is going on at the university."

The university issued a statement yesterday denouncing Elbinger's disrobing before an audience of about 50 persons Tuesday night.

The incident occurred while he gave a 15-minute lecture on poet William Butler Yeats' "concept of personal freedom."

The next day, Elbinger, a senior, left for India where he said he would study with a guru near Bombay.

Burglar Gets $420 in Items

A burglar broke into a Pontiac home and stole about $420 worth of items, including 30 sets of gold cuff links, it was reported to police yesterday.

Dr. Roy V. Cooley 49, of 224 Astorwood told police a rifle and shells plus a radio, television set and the cuff links were missing.

* * *

He said glass was broken in the front door to gain entrance and the bedrooms were ransacked.

Burglars Give Brandon High Half Day Off

Brandon High School students got a half-day vacation from school yesterday as a result of a burglary Wednesday night.

The thieves broke some glass in the school cafeteria, and school officials were wary of serving lunch because of the possibility of fragments being contained in food, Schools Supt. Clyde C. Fischer explained.

* * *

Fischer said the burglars entered by smashing five plate-glass windows, broke into the school office with crowbars and took a hatchet to a safe found there.

Since money received is deposited daily in a bank, the superintendent added, the thieves netted only about $10 from the safe. However, they also made off with some radios which were in a corridor display case, after breaking the glass in the case.

* * *

Detectives from the Pontiac State Police post, who investigated the burglary, were unavailable this morning for further details.

Trading Moderate

Prices Higher at Mart Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices moved higher at the opening today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

★ ★ ★

Shortly after the opening the United Press International stock market indicator showed a rise of 0.30 per cent on 309 issues on the tape. Or these . advances exceeded declines, 149 to 84. The Dow Jones industrial average was on the plus side.

★ ★ ★

Steels were higher. Autos were mixed. Chemicals moved to the uptrack. Oils also were strong.

★ ★ ★

In the steels, Bethlehem picked up ⅜ to 32. U.S. Steel gained ¼ to 44. Republic, traded at 49.

MOVES UP

Ford moved up ⅜ to 54½. General Motors fell the same amount to 81⅞. Chrysler eased ¼ to 59¼.

★ ★ ★

Du Pont and Union Carbide were standouts in the chemicals. The former rose ⅞ to 170⅞, the latter ¼ to 48. Allied Chemical was unchanged at 36¼.

★ ★ ★

The oils turned up a flood of plus signs. Occidental Petroleum hose ⅜ to 48⅞ and Atlantic Richfield picked up ¾ to 125½. California Standard added ⅜ to 75⅞. Cities Service jumped 1 to 79⅞.

Utility Company All Wet, He Finds

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — John Ahola stopped checking for leaky faucets Thursday when the billing office of the utility company said his $17,516.79 water bill was a mistake.

★ ★ ★

It had to be. "We don't even own a lake," Ahola said.

Record Pace for Auto Sales

Last Weeks of Year Confirm Predictions

DETROIT (AP)— The closing weeks of the year continue to confirm industry predictions of a record sales year, as new car sales for the first 10 days of December jumped 23.7 per cent over the same period last year.

Once again, Ford has shown the most spectacular gain with 58 per cent over the same week in 1967. Ford was still recovering from a nationwide strike last year, however.

★ ★ ★

The other auto makers showed healthy increases as well, with General Motors 17.1 per cent, Chrysler 14.4 and American Motors 16.5. There were eight selling days during the period for both years.

★ ★ ★

Latest to add his prediction of a record year was Henry Ford II, speaking at his year-end news conference. Ford concurs with other company heads that 1968 new car sales will top 9.6 million, beating the 1965 record by some 300,000.

★ ★ ★

Ford expects sales to be down slightly next year, due largely to an excess of used cars and low-er prices for them, Ford said.

The big factor in the record, Ford said, is the near 1 million sales of imported cars projected this year. To meet the challenge Ford will be first to introduce a subcompact. Their Maverick will appear next spring.

Total sales for the 10-day period this year were 215,628 compared to 174,279 for 1967. The daily rates, respectively were 26,953 and 21,785.

AMC 'to Invest $200 Million'

CHICAGO (UPI) — American Motors Corp. will spend about $200 million for capital investments between 1970 and 1973, Roy D. Chapin Jr., president, said yesterday.

Chapin predicted 1969 car sales will run between 9.2 million and 9.3 million, compared with recent forecasts of 9.4 million to 9.6 million made by other top auto industry executives.

"I do not think the present trend of buying activity can be extended through the first quarter," Chapin said.

Chapin also said American Motors does not intend to lag behind any move by its competitors to produce smaller cars but he declined to discuss any specific production plans.

★ ★ ★

Ford Motor Co. already has announced its minicompact Maverick will be introduced in mid-April, and General Motors Corp. is working on one to hit the market in 1970.

Fall in River Fatal to Welding Boss

BAY CITY (AP)—The body of a 55-year-old Bay City man was recovered from the Saginaw River Thursday some 8½ hours after the man fell into the water.

★ ★ ★

Police said James Colliton, a welding superintendent for a Bay City shipbuilding firm, fell into the river at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday while attempting to climb a ladder to the docked Great Lakes freighter J. F. Schoellkopf Jr.

Heart Recipient Dies in Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Milton Warkstein, 54, of Flushing, N.Y., died Thursday night in St. Luke's Episcopal hospital two weeks after he received a transplanted heart.

Hospital officials said death resulted from rejection of the new heart.

New Classes Teach Family Cash Plans

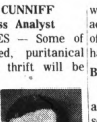
By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

LOS ANGELES — Some of the old-fashioned, puritanical practitioners of thrift will be disturbed to learn what some financial counselors are preaching today:

★ ★ ★

Borrow on your life insurance. Don't pay off the mortgage in advance. Practice deficit spending in your youth. Speculate. Quit your job.

These are extremes, of course, and perhaps they apply mainly to inflationary times, which these are. But those who advise such courses do so out of a sense of responsibility and have some logic on their side.



CUNNIFF

BASIC THESIS

Their suggestions arise out of a basic thesis which goes something like this:

In order to live efficiently with today's complex marketplace every person should have a financial plan. But few do, and lack of a plan costs them thousands of dollars in a lifetime as well as needlessly depriving them.

As a consequence of poor planning, low-income families ignore chances to improve their status, young people dissipate their energies and learn of their mistakes too late, and even wealthy families foolishly squander their assets.

Convinced that this need not be so, some colleges are showing more interest in teaching financial planning, not only in regular course but in summer sessions for high school and adult education teachers.

At the University of California, Dr. Lawrence W. Erickson directs such a course, one of 12 related courses in college throughout the country in which financial experts advise instructors in the arts of personal counseling.

MOST IMPULSIVE

Most people, Erickson believes, are impulse buyers. "Economists say man is a rational animal," he comments, "but he'd be better off if he really were."

As a consequence of impulse purchases, the consumer often drifts aimlessly and expensively. Erickson believes, satisfying himself with passing pleasures and perhaps a pile of trash and squandered assets.

★ ★ ★

By simply making a financial plan and following it, he teaches, many people would discover that rather than being trapped in a hopeless financial bind, they had many options available to them.

"Everyone has more flexibility than he realizes," says Erickson. One aspect of this flexibility concept is that food bills could be cut in half, a dictate that few housewives are likely to accept from a professor.

HOW TO BEGIN

To begin the plan, Erickson would make up a balance sheet of assets and obligations, set goals, determine how to get there, then do the things that lead to the goal.

Although the fundamentals of thrift, self-denial and a strict budget are stressed, some of the ideas sound like heresy.

★ ★ ★

"I would review my insurance and perhaps borrow on my life. Sure, why not? If I had an annuity policy, I might decide instead on term insurance. At certain times term is best; when the children are growing, for example."

The mortgage should be reviewed. "Anybody who pays off a mortgage in advance today would be foolish if he's paying a lower rate than currently exists. It might even be worth taking out a mortgage."

DEFICIT SPENDING

While recognizing that every situation is a disfinct one, Erickson generalizes to the extent that he believes young people should practice deficit spending and hedge against their future.

Erickson reasons that "if you wait in this life until you have the money, you'll never own anything." Buying power, he notes, reaches a peak late in life, a time when expenses very often are growing less.

★ ★ ★

A young person, he maintains, might even consider quitting his job and going back to school. "The best investment a young person could make," he states.

Young families must be extremely careful also about how they invest their money. A home might not be the best buy. Renting, for example, might leave money available for more profitable investments elsewhere.

★ ★ ★

Erickson cautions that a young investor cannot get emotional about the stock market, but that under certain conditions, speculation might be wise.

A guide that Erickson and Barbara Sinn of San Fernando State College wrote for instructors in adult education courses is available from the Center for Family Finance Education, University of California, Los Angeles.

Cancellations Not Result of Race---Insurer

NEW YORK (AP) — The two top officers of the Royal Globe Insurance group denied Thursday that they canceled policies in Negro slum areas for racial reasons. The vice president said the cancellations were made to cut down on risk.

H. Clay Johnson, president of the company, told a state hearing, "At no time have we based our underwriting judgment on racial characterizations. The reluctance of licensed insurance companies to write insurance in core city areas is not just of recent origin."

★ ★ ★

The hearing officer reserved decision after Johnson's statement.

Earlier, C. Fred Blackburn, company vice president, said, "We're most concerned with civil disturbances in these areas. Old heating and wiring systems and congestion result in high risks. Race has nothing to do with it."

318 POLICIES CANCELED

Royal Globe, through its parent London concern has admitted that it ended 318 policies in Detroit after the 1967 riots there. But a spokesman said only a few were outright cancellations, and those applied to policies nearing the end of term.

★ ★ ★

The New York State Insurance Department has charged that Royal Globe, representing seven insurance firms, has canceled 309 fire insurance policies in the Harlem and Bedford-Stuyvesant Negro slums. The policies had a combined value of $5.3 million, the state claimed.

★ ★ ★

The state insurance law provides for a maximum fine of $500 in any case where a policy is canceled for racial reasons.

A Negro witness for Royal Globe, Ernesta G. Procope, said her office in Bedford-Stuyvesant in Brooklyn had great difficulty placing customers with most insurance companies.

"But with Royal Globe," she added, "I've never had any trouble . . . In my opinion Royal Globe is not guilty of racial discrimination."

News in Brief

A tape recorder valued at nearly $200 was reported stolen yesterday from Pontiac Central High School, Pontiac police said.

Must 'Balance' Wages--Roche

CHICAGO (AP) — James M. Roche, board chairman of General Motors Corp., said Thursday the public must be alerted to "excessive wage demands and their implications on prices" so that wages can be balanced with productivity and thus inflationary tendencies can be checked.

"The illusion that the annual increase in productivity is automatic underlines many hasty and hostile reactions to wage and price decisions," said Roche at the 75th anniversary meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

★ ★ ★

He said productivity increases must be earned by efficient management and can be adversely affected by unnecessary work stoppages, resistance to improve technology, low-quality workmanship, absenteeism, poor employe morale and other factors.

★ ★ ★

The misconception of automatic productivity increases was one of two examples of "areas of misunderstanding" between government and business which Roche cited.

FASTER RATE

The other false concept is that the growth of big business has occurred at the expense of small business, he said, saying that the total number of businesses in the United States has grown at a much faster rate over the past century than the nation's population.

MSU Accepts $1.66 Million in Gifts, Grants

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State University Board of Trustees Thursday accepted gifts and grants totaling more than $1.66 million, including more than $1 million from the U.S. Office of Education.

That grant is provided to support 185 MSU graduate students who are National Defense Education Act fellows. Forty of the students are receiving fellowships for the first time this year.

★ ★ ★

Also included in the grants was $249,992 from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for continued support of the MSU regional instructional materials center for the handicapped children and youth.

Directed by Mrs. Lou Alonso, the center serves teachers of students who suffer physical, mental or emotional handicaps.
