Area Dems Hit GOP Plan for Redistricting

Ask Romney to Veto Proposal; Offer Two of Their Own

By JIM DYGERT

Oakland County Democrats have launched an attack against Republican proposals for the congressional redistricting of the county.

They "have said," George Romney a resolution urging him "to veto any bill so obviously gerrymandering Oakland County" as one being considered by the GOP caucus in the State Legislature.

The Democrats also sent Romney a map showing two alternate redistricting plans they said "make more rational sense" than the GOP proposals.

The resolution adopted by the County Democratic Executive Committee centers its objections on a plan to split the county into three districts by putting Madison Heights and Hazel Park into a proposed new 9th district with Macomb County.

Such a division "cannot be justified on any moral, legal or ethical grounds," the resolution reads.

No reason exists for it, it says, "except the obviously political one of removing two cities with customarily Democratic majorities from the 19th District."

Reference is to a proposed change in a redistricting plan introduced in the Senate by Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, and in the House by Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Township.

Roberts' and Hogan's plan would split the county into only two districts.

It would put Pontiac, the western three-fifths of the county and Livingston and Lapeer counties into the state's new 19th district.

House Passes $16-Billion Bill

Huge Military Outlay Given Authorization

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed the biggest military buying bill in history — a $15.8-billion authorization for aircraft, missiles and ships.

The measure goes beyond the administration's wishes and those of Republicans bent on cutting the budget.

The $16.7 billion tacked on by the Armed Services Committee to build an extra pair of R57 reconnaissance strike planes touched off most of the controversy before the bill was passed Wednesday on a 374-33 roll call vote.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara doesn't want to build any more than the three R57s already authorized, but in a separate vote on the issue the House backed the committee 225 to 173. This puts the R57 controversy up to the Senate, which gets the bill now.

Rep. Thomas C. Curtis, R-Mo., sponsored a GOP bid for an across-the-board slash in defense authorization. Curtis sought a 5 per cent reduction in each procurement authorization, and a 12 1/2 per cent cut in the research and development category.

His motion was defeated on a 268 to 149 roll call, largely along party lines.

Investigate Killing of Waterford Man

Waterford Township police are investigating the killing of Aubrey Posey, 32, 571 Crescent Lake Road, whose body was found last night face down in a rear bedroom.

Posey, who was separated from his wife and lived alone, had a knife wound in his chest, according to police. An autopsy revealed that he had been struck in the forehead by an object police believe was a beer bottle.

Police said that the doors to the house were unlocked when they answered a call at 6:30 p.m. Posey, a GMC Truck & Coach Division employee, also suffered a stab wound in his foot which police believe was inflicted during a struggle before the fatal wound.

Capt. William Stokes is heading a team of detectives investigating the case. Charles Gilbert of 2595 Watkins Lake Road, Posey's brother-in-law, and Lawrence Cunningham of 56 Sanderson St., called police.

They found Posey's body when they went to his home to see him last night.

They told police the door was unlocked when they got there.

The autopsy indicated Posey had been dead for 12 to 24 hours, police said.

The Poseys had two sons, 2 and 4 years old, who went with Mrs. Posey when she left to live with relatives in Pontiac about two weeks ago, neighbors said.

Neighbors described them as "quiet people who seldom enter," and said that Mr. Posey was "a friendly type of fellow; well liked in the neighborhood."

House All Set to Okay Plans

LANSING (AP) — With a one-man resistance movement firmly squelched in an off-the-floor battle, the House today appeared ready to approve two bills opening the way for a $25-million Olympic stadium to be built in Detroit.

The second of the two bills, providing for an increase in state taxes on horse race betting, reached the floor yesterday after Gov. George Romney and House Republican leaders joined forces to overcome the objections of Rep. Lloyd Gibbs, R-Portland.

It emerged with one minor change from Gibbs' State Affairs Committee as a companion bill, setting up a special recreation building authority to issue stadium revenue bonds, came back to the floor from two amendments tacked on by the Ways and Means Committee.

"This is a victory for Michigan," declared Romney in the immediate aftermath of the fight to pry the parliamentarians increase bill loose from Gibbs' committee. Passage of the two bills by the House today could put them on Romney's desk before he leaves to help make Detroit's renewed pitch for the 1968 Olympics in New York Monday.

The governor will join other Michigan and Detroit officials in making a presentation to regain the U.S. Olympic Committee's sanction, lost last month after an intensive propaganda campaign by the city of Los Angeles.

"This is a demonstration of unity," Romney said. "With this support, we'll be able to make a firm, strong presentation to the Olympic Committee."

OBJECTIONS TO BILL. The only thing appearing to complicate matters was Romney's reported objections to amendments to the stadium authority bill — one setting a $50 million limit on bonding, the other specifying no bonds can be sold before March 31, 1964.

The governor refused to comment on either amendment yesterday, but his legislative aide, Robert Danah, told House Speaker Allison Gresh, R-Kalamazoo:

"We can live with the debt ceiling, but I don't think we can accept the effective date."

Green, who devoted his efforts to getting the parliamentarians bill from committee but favors the stadium bill amendments, said they were designed to provide safeguards that the authority won't get carried away with its authority.

Gibbs said he raised no objections to the bill being reported out although he is not anxious to see "gambling interests" in the state expanded.

"This would just mean another group will be getting a slice of the gambling pie," he said.

But Pigeon's a Pest

Dove's Role Noble

By DICK SAUNDERS

The pigeon, that downy-breasted habitation of West Huron Street rooftops, is described thusly in Webster's Dictionary:

"A dove, especially one of the domesticated varieties. . . One regarded as pure and gentle."

In the New Testament it is the "symbol of the Holy Spirit."

In Pontiac, it is a pain in the neck and the pocketbook.

Regardless of their symbolic status in the Bible, pigeons are a financial problem as well as a pest to the congregation of First Presbyterian Church at Wayne and West Huron streets.

They've cost the church nearly $1,000 so far and no end to the problem is in sight.

A two-man committee was appointed by City Manager Robert A. Stierer Feb. 28 to recommend ways of exterminating the large number of pigeons roosting atop the church and nearby buildings.

No report has been filed on the committee's findings to date and Stierer yesterday said he doesn't expect one "for a couple more weeks."

When the old Oakland County pigeons found a natural haven in the church's towers.

Rev. Galen W. Hershey, pastor, thinks "the City Commission should authorize a citywide program of pigeon extermination on a humane basis."

He suggests that the problem could be attacked by a joint effort of the property owners involved, the city and the humane society.

STOP UP PIPES. The church has already spent more than $800 to combat the pigeons by screening the towers, according to Norman Allen, chairman of the church's board of trustees.

This was done because pigeon droppings stopped up drain pipes and water began leaking through ceilings upstairs, according to church members.

"We've been concerned about the pigeons for quite some time," Allen said. "Now that the birds can't get into the towers, they stay outside on ledges."

"This is very disagreeable to people on the street. The birds

Europe Likes U.S. Policies

Popularity Hits Peak as Russ Score Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The popularity of U.S. foreign policy has hit a record high among West Europeans but the Soviets have scored striking gains too, according to a new U.S. Information Agency poll.

The recent rise in pro-Soviet sentiment was attributed to "the avoidance of war, over Cuba which many in Europe attribute more to Soviet moderation than to U.S. strength."

The USA survey of opinion in four major European nations, dated last month and still classified as confidential, reported that America still runs well ahead of the Soviet Union in popular opinion.

It also said:

1. Confidence in U.S. leadership showed record gains in Britain and West Germany, but dropped some in France where President Charles de Gaulle is "so dramatically at odds" with President Kennedy.

2. Frenchmen nonetheless continue to hold the United States in high esteem, although de Gaulle's drive for "independence" from America is making some headway and predominant French opinion favors monilateralism with either Washington or Moscow.

Snow Flakes Can't Keep Spring Away

Blustery snow flurries blowing in with a fury now and then may seem ferocious as a lion but don't be fooled. Spring will come to town next week.

Warmer temperatures will greet area residents through Saturday with a low of 28 to 30.

WARMING TREND

Right. Tomorrow's high is expected to soar to 40 with little change Saturday.

Eighteen was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 38 at 2 p.m.

GOP Candidates Praise New State Constitution

Republican candidates for state office — whose fates may be closely tied to that of the proposed new state constitution in the April 1 election — had nothing but praise for the document today.

Seven GOP candidates at a morning press conference at Devon Gables in Bloomfield Township agreed the proposed constitution was the No. 1 issue in the spring campaign.

But they thought its effect would be beneficial to them.

The document, has generated more interest in the candidates for state educational posts and the State Supreme Court rather than overshadow the races, according to Circuit Judge Donald E. Holbrook of Clare.

Holbrook is a candidate for one of two seats on the State Supreme Court.

The GOP nominee for the other nonpartisan high court post, Circuit Judge Richard G. Smith of Bay City, agreed it was an issue "to talk about" in the campaign.

Raymond N. Hatch, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, said "there would be some transfer of support from the constitution issue to the GOP ticket."

But he hastened to point out that any such support should be based on what's good for the state.

Gary Taylor Faces $100,000 Action

Oakland County's first phantom sniper, Gary A. Taylor, 26, is the defendant in a $100,000 damage suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court by a Detroit woman he slashed with a machete in 1961.

Mrs. Addie Dixon, 55, claims Taylor's attack caused "a great shock to her nervous system." As a result, the suit alleges, she suffered and continues to suffer "from a traumatic neurosis."

The civil action also charges that Mrs. Dixon suffered a "great loss of earning capacity."

Mrs. Dixon and her 30-year-old daughter, Mrs. Barbara Kraus, were slashed when they refused to give Taylor some money.

ADMITTED SHOOTINGS

Taylor, who had been committed to Ionia State Hospital for the criminally insane after admitting he shot at 15 Royal Oak women with a 22-caliber rifle in 1967, was rooming in Mrs. Dixon's house.

He had been released from Ionia to Lafayette Clinic in Detroit where he was granted limited freedom.

The slashing incident, in which Mrs. Dixon and her daughter suffered superficial cuts, touched off an investigation into Taylor's release from Ionia.

Taylor was returned to Ionia where he is now an inmate.

Officials of Lafayette Clinic admitted they erred in granting Taylor limited freedom.

Ionia officials said he was transferred because of overcrowded conditions after the late Circuit Judge Frank Doty had repeatedly refused to concur in the hospital's recommendations that he be released as cured.

Scholle, Pal Bolt Labor Dept. Banquet

DETROIT (AP) — The AFL-CIO's ranged Detroit's celebration of speaker, Romney preceded Roy Scholle and Barney Hopkins the anniversary.

"I'm sorry about the walkout. I know and like Gus Scholle very much," Beattie said.

Scholle also said in departing "it is obviously other people who are assuming to be friends of labor and who are taking over the whole show."

James J. Reynolds, assistant secretary of labor, substituted for Secretary Willard Wirtz as main speaker.

"I had anticipated this would be a celebration in which labor would be the principal participant," said Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO. "This is not the way it turned out to be."

Scholle and Hopkins, secretary-treasurer of the state AFL-CIO, left the hotel without entering the grand ballroom where the banquet took place. They departed after reading the list of speakers.

Mrs. Myra Wolfington, international vice president of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers, left with Scholle and Hopkins. Her husband, W. F. Wolfington, an attorney, escorted her as she departed with the others.

The Scholle-Hopkins departure brought an expression of regret from Frederick C. Beattie, Ionia staff chairman here for the Department of Labor. Beattie said:

After the press conference, the candidates separated to set out on different campaign paths throughout Oakland County for the rest of the day.

They will come together again at 7:30 p.m. today for a Republican rally at Birmingham Community House where Gov. George Romney will be the keynote speaker.

Floods Recede as Rains End

Estimate Damage to Property in Millions

By The Associated Press
Mad, much and misery greeted thousands of families returning to their homes today in portions of five southern states hit hardest by rampaging rivers and streams. Other thousands were homeless still, but the torrential rains were over and the flood waters were receding in most sections.

Property damage mounted to many millions of dollars, and massive cleanup operations added to the cost. Thick mud coated homes, businesses and roads in some areas. Occasional mudslides blocked streets.

Parts of southeastern Kentucky and southwestern West Virginia were declared disaster areas by President Kennedy.

Fifteen deaths were attributed to the floods and five persons were missing. Six died in West Virginia, four in Tennessee, two in Kentucky, two in Virginia and one in Alabama.

Volunteers built an emergency wall of dirt to augment a flood barrier at Preston, Ky., and the barrier turned back the Big Sandy River with just four inches to spare.

At Paintsville, down river from Preston, water was reported over the parking meters on the main street. About 1,000 of the 2,400 persons in the town were evacuated, but a civil defense spokesman described the situation as well in hand.

Ten passengers and a driver were rescued from a Greyhound bus trapped for more than eight hours in flood waters on a highway 35 miles west of Chattanooga, Tenn.

FORCED TO STOP
Amphibious vehicles were used to remove the passengers and driver Forrest F. Darnell of Memphis, Tenn. He said he was forced to stop the vehicle in shallow water sweeping across highway 74 when a car stalled in front of him shortly after midnight Wednesday.

The water rose quickly to about four feet and poured two feet deep into the bus, he said.

"The water was so swift it pushed up the front of the bus and set it on the shoulder of the road," he said. "The bus rocked all night."

Skies were clear across two thirds of the nation today with most of the wet weather in the northeastern section of the country.

Rain, drizzle and fog dampened coastal areas of the Middle Atlantic Coast states, the eastern half of the Ohio Valley and the Lower Great Lakes region. Fog also shrouded most of the Gulf Coast region.

The advisory committee is a major factor in the continued success of Pontiac's urban renewal projects.

Without the participation of citizens in a workable community improvement program, the federal government might not recede Pontiac's renewal program.

PROGRAM CERTIFIED

The program is certified by federal officials each spring. Failure to get certification would mean federal urban renewal funds would be cut off.

Mayor Robert A. Landry welcomed some 43 members who were able to attend last night's organizational meeting. He said:

"It is definitely not the intention of the City Commission that this committee develop into a political body."

"You form a handicapped nucleus of civic leaders to help speed the rehabilitation and redevelopment of the new City of Pontiac."

Russell explained that the group's work would be mostly in the area of neighborhood and community improvements, including standard housing.

Forms will be distributed to members at next month's meeting, whereby they will survey their own communities.

"Our first job will be to learn the nature and extent of community problems," Russell said.

"Then we can recommend the most economical methods of solving these problems, both to the city and to the neighborhood residents."

are spotting our windows and we must scrub and scrape the walks prior to Sunday services."

Allen, of 107 Newberry St., doesn't think that merely driving the pigeons away from the church with repellants will solve the problem.

"If we got rid of them, they'd just go to another nearby building and unload the problem on someone else."

Oddly enough, the Presbyterian faith and pigeons have somewhat of a common sociological bond.

John Calvin, a founder of the Presbyterian Church, wore a modest cap when preaching sermons in Geneva during the mid-1500s.

One of the reasons for the cap, according to a local cleric, was that the church rafters were a favorite nesting place for pigeons.

The "homing instinct" seems to be reasserting itself in Pontiac.

"We hope something can be done soon," said Allen. Nesting season is approaching.

Controversy Aroused Over Zoning Proposal

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Considerable controversy is being aroused here over a proposed zoning ordinance that would triple the area designated for commercial use.

A public hearing to discuss the ordinance is scheduled for 8 to 10 tonight in the Cranbrook auditorium.

In a report to the citizens of Bloomfield Hills opponents of the ordinance charge that it "would fundamentally change the character of this city."

Mayor John S. Bugas charged today that the report issued by Commissioners Lyman J. Craig, Robert A. Frye and Henry L. Wolfenden is misleading and incomplete.

He noted that while the ordinance increases the acreage zoned commercial to 77, it also decreases multiple housing acreage from 130.7 to 87.3.

"Multiple housing should be brought to a reasonable minimum," he said.

He charged that the opposition report also failed to state that two-thirds of the 77 acres to be rezoned commercial would consist of drives, off-street parking and landscape.

Office type structures, Bugas said, are "most conducive to the character of Bloomfield Hills."

He said the reduction in multiple dwelling units provided in the ordinance will result in a "more appropriate type of multiple housing development."

Bugas said that tonight's public hearing on the ordinance is premature.

"We should not adopt an ordinance until we have ironed out the differences."

If this isn't done, he warned, the ordinance may be rendered vulnerable.

He charged that the ordinance is being forced to a vote by the majority of the city Commission.

The sections of the ordinance in dispute are supported by the City Planning Commission, Villan-Leman & Associates, Inc. of Southfield, designers of a city master plan, and Commissioner James A. Beresford, a candidate for Mayor.

Louis Colombo Jr., a candidate for the city commission, released the following statement to The Pontiac Press regarding the proposed ordinance.

"I am vitally concerned with the maintenance and preservation of the character of the city of Pontiac. Whenever you get here, Faththe finest residential area in the country, and I'll do everything in my power to preserve its traditional form."

Candidate David W. Lee said he would wait to hear the planning commission report at tonight's public hearing before issuing any comment on the ordinance.

Two Campbell-Ewald Co. executives and their pilot escaped injury yesterday when both engines of their private plane quit at 10,000 feet, forcing an emergency landing in a muddy corn field 40 miles west of Toledo.

The company-owned plane was bound from Pontiac to Indianapolis when the engines iced up over Archibald, Ohio.

Hatch resides at 3405 Broadway Blvd., Bloomfield Village; Davis at 1000 Pilgrim St., Birmingham; and Barrenfeld, 924 Beachway St., Milford.

The plane took off from Pontiac Municipal Airport at 9 a.m. and was in the air about a half hour when engine trouble developed. Only minor damage resulted from the forced landing.

A crew from Pontiac Municipal Airport is laying planks in the muddy field today so the plane can be pulled out to a road and take off.

Campbell-Ewald administrative vice president Stoffer J. Rozema said the plane will probably be able to fly back to Pontiac tomorrow.

McNamara Lashes Out at His Critics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara lashed out yesterday at critics, who charged he acts like a dictator, accusing one such complainant of backing "irresponsible" action.

Saying it is his job to make the tough decisions on defense policy, McNamara told the Advertising Council, in a response to criticism Tuesday by Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill.:

"The man who made that attack yesterday is the ranking minority member of the committee that added $1.1 billion to the defense budget. I don't think it is right when we have a man to support an irresponsible action in adding over a billion dollars to the budget that is not needed and then criticize the responsible official who took out the billion."

McNamara said it is "true in a sense" that he has acted as a dictator.

"The budget submitted by the chiefs of staff and service secretaries totaled $67 billion," he said. "I took $14 billion out of that."

This comment drew loud applause from the audience of businessmen.

McNamara continued, "If I don't do that, we're going to have a turn over all the tough problems to the President. I turn over enough already."

In response to a question about Republican predictions they will cut the defense budget by $3 billion, McNamara said that since Republican Arends has joined in adding $1.1 billion to the budget, "now they've got to cut $4 billion."

Church Consecration Set

TROY — The congregation of the Troy Methodist Church will move into its new church at 6383 Livernois Road Sunday.

The day of consecration will begin with a 10:30 a.m. gathering at the former church, 90 E. Square Lake Road.

Following the opening portion of the service, these in attendance will move in a procession of automobiles to the new facilities. The service will be concluded there.

Preaching the special sermon and leading the consecration service will be Bishop Marshall R.

Reed, resident bishop of the Michigan area.

Assisting him will be Dr. Everett K. Seymour, superintendent of the Detroit district; Dr. Benjamin F. Holme, executive secretary of the Methodist Union of Greater Detroit, and Rev. Ralph W. Janka, pastor of Troy Methodist Church.

The second phase of the all-day program will be staged from 2 to 6 p.m., when residents of the community and church members will have the opportunity to tour the new building.

Refreshments will be provided during this period by ladies of the church.

YOUTH TO JOIN

The youth of the church will conduct a special 7:30 p.m. service for the entire congregation. Guest preacher will be Rev. Robert P. Ward, former pastor of the church. He is now minister of the First Methodist Church in Ypsilanti.

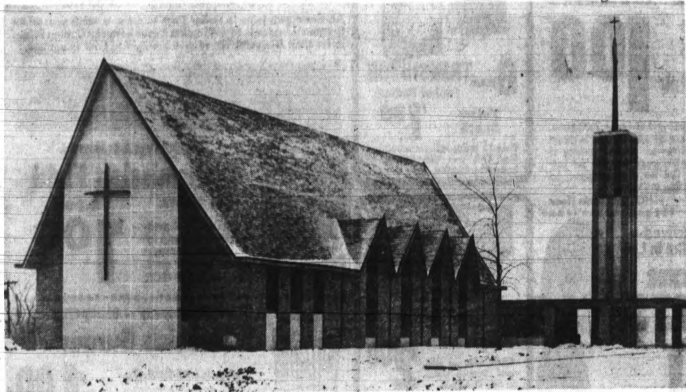

Troy Methodists have been meeting since 1858 in the church they are leaving. The building had been purchased from St. John's Episcopal Church of Troy.

The new facilities, designed by James B. Morison, AIA, of Detroit, were constructed by the McComb Construction Co., of Troy, at a cost, including contents, of $220,000.

The church features a sanctuary designed to accommodate 450 worshippers. Other facilities include the office areas, church school rooms, a large fellowship hall and a kitchen.

A cordial invitation is issued to the public to share in this occasion.

OPENS SUNDAY — Built to accommodate 450 worshippers, the new Troy Methodist Church is basically contemporary in design. The sanctuary is sandblasted brick inside and out and features a marble chip wall behind the altar. In the belfry rings a bell brought from the old church, which was erected in 1837. The congregation will participate in consecration ceremonies in Troy Sunday.

To Start Work on Restaurant

Combination Station Set at Wixom, I-96

WIXOM — Construction on a $150,000 service station-restaurant at Wixom Road and I-96 is slated to start in early May, according to Pure Oil Co. official James L. Markey.

The City Council recently changed the zoning classification of 10 acres at site from residential to general business to accommodate Pure Oil's plans for development.

Working with Pure Oil will be the Farnsworth Development Co. of New Orleans, operators of Aunt Jemima chain of restaurants.

The restaurant will feature a colonial motif, with a canopied front entrance. It will contain three separate dining rooms with a seating capacity of 100 to 150.

One unit will house both the restaurant and the Pure Oil station, according to Markey.

Future plans call for the addition of a motel to the two facilities. However, Markey was quick to point out that this is still in the talking stage.

In addition, the company will consider requests from other businesses interested in locating at the site, he said.

Directs Republicans in Commerce Twp.

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Albert Krusac, 942 Decker Road, has been named Republican organization director for Commerce Township, Charles L. Lyle, Oakland county chairman, announced today.

The contest starts on Monday and runs until May 1.

Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard is president of the Troy Arts Festival Association. Birmingham architect Minoru Yamasaki will serve as chairman of this year's festivities.

Already scheduled to be featured in this year's show are several photographic works of art.

Following the talk, parents will be divided into two groups for discussion.

Parents of ninth-grade students will talk of the adjustment involved in the changeover to high school, and parents of eighth-graders will exchange views on courses of study offered during the last four years of school.

Election of officers for the 1963-64 PTA will also take place at the meeting to be held in the school cafeteria.

Holly Wears Daisies to Honor Girl Scouts

Awarded Contract to Complete Road

HOLLY — Daisies never have been given such prominence as they are this week in Holly.

In celebration of National Girl Scout Week, March 10-16, paper daisies are displayed in every home and business in this north-west Oakland County community.

Holly Girl Scouts picked the white and yellow flower as their emblem in remembrance of the founder of girl scouting, Juliette "Daisy" Law.

Some 95 window displays deck the village, and more than 300 school girls are wearing the flower. Even the village signs are decorated.

First prize of 10 silver dollars for the best window display went to 10-year-old Bonnie Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Bates, 201 Center St.

Her display features a birthday cake signifying the 51st anniversary of girl scouting, a doll dressed as a girl scout and three scenes depicting girl scout activities.

In the center is a large daisy she made at school.

Second prize of $5 was awarded to Linda and Leslie Longstreth, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Longstreth, 817 Richards Drive.

Virginia Perry is girl scout chairman in Holly. Prizes were awarded by Oral Maccombs of the Loyal Order of the Moose, which donated the money.

Teachers, school administrators and members of the local board of education heard Barnard discuss the court's program for prevention of delinquency.

He also reviewed the progress of Camp Oakland's Work Education Program and the success with which the training prepares boys for occupations in mechanical trades.

The meeting, held at the high school, was sponsored by the Lake Orion Teachers Association.

Ortonville Set for Improvements in Phone Service

ORTONVILLE — Telephone service improvements amounting to $94,800 are planned for this area in 1964, it was announced today.

New wire and buried cable facilities costing $89,100 are to be placed throughout the Ortonville exchange, according to C. E. Hall, Milford district manager.

These additions are expected to expand and improve local telephone service by reducing the number of customers on rural multiparty lines.

Detailed engineering of the improvement program is presently under way, and actual construction is expected to begin early in 1964.

Moscow Reds Stage Anti-Iraq Protest

MOSCOW (UPI) — More than 1,000 Russians hurled snowballs and ink bottles at the Iraqi Embassy here today in a mass protest against the repression of Communists in Iraq.

The demonstration, which had started with chanting and placard-waving, erupted into violence after about an hour.

The initial group of about 200 student demonstrators was joined by surging groups which jostled passers by and broke into a dead run as they neared the front of the embassy.

Many hurled snowballs, pieces of ice and ink bottles brought along for the occasion.

There was no immediate attempt to enter the embassy building, which was guarded by a cordon of Soviet police.

An estimated 40 Soviet policemen in black knee-length coats, fur hats and leather boots formed a cordon to keep the demonstrators about 20 feet from the embassy on the edge of the sidewalk.

The demonstrators, bundled against freezing temperatures, carried placards with such slogans as "the criminals must answer."

Many Communists were reported killed in the Iraqi revolution last month, or executed later by the new regime. The revolutionary government said the Iraqi Reds supported the ousted regime.

The demonstration in front of the Iraqi Embassy was a sequel to similar protest meetings reportedly held in cities throughout the Soviet Union in factories and on farms yesterday.

FOOLISH DRIVE

In Iraq, Baghdad radio said the Soviet Union was carrying out a "foolish campaign" against the Iraqi revolutionary government and bluntly told Moscow radio to "shut up."

The Baghdad broadcast, heard in Beirut, Lebanon, carried the text of an article in Iraqi newspapers saying that the Russians were shedding crocodile tears at the fate of Communists under the new revolutionary regime.

"Soviet consciences which say they are shocked at the fate of local Communists and the death sentences against them should have been shocked when the hammer of dictatorship fell on us during the regime of Kassem," Baghdad radio said.

Abdel Karim Kassem was premier and leader of the government overthrown in Baghdad Feb. 8. Kassem himself was executed the next day.

Moscow should have, but didn't, raise its voice against the excesses of Kassem, Baghdad radio said.

"Communist criminals killed our bravest people" in the five years before the February revolution, the broadcast said.

ENJOY FREEDOM — Five of 13 East Germans who fled through a tunnel to the West walk near the Marienfelde refugee camp. Hans Willner (right), 41-year-old tuberculosis patient, told yesterday how he and a young companion worked six months to dig the tunnel. With him are (from left) Martin Agard, 45; Gertrud Agard, 70; Detley Agard, 11; and Lucie Agard, 43.

Romney Slams Steel Industry

AP Photo/

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan Gov. George Romney last night accused the nation's steel industry of bowing "to virtual government control" in negotiations concerning prices, contracts, wages and competition.

Romney briefly addressed a dinner marking the 50th anniversary of the U.S. Labor Department.

The former president of American Motors Corp. said, "By and large, unions have learned to live with management and management has learned to live with unions."

"Isolated incidents of non-accommodation regularly appear, of course, and likely will reappear for some time."

Romney said "different routes are open for the economic participants."

"Steel has chosen one route — the route of virtual government control of negotiations — of prices, of wages, of competition and contracts."

"Those of us who are concerned about our future as a nation of free collective bargaining must be concerned about what such a route portends for our national social and economic future," he said.

Romney said there were hopeful signs that labor and industry will be able to work out their problems without too much government intervention.

"Labor-management relationships must enter a new era . . . (which) holds promise of either a further breakthrough into economic progress, or a further backslide into the status concept which will make the term 'free collective bargaining' only a text-book phrase of ancient, social and economic history," Romney said.

Women were allowed to practice law in Canada courts on December 28, 1892.

PROMOTED — Roger Hillman Jr. has been named assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs. The Waco, Tex., man is now director of the State Department's bureau of intelligence and research. He will replace W. Averell Harriman.

Ike's Retreat Kennedys'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's family will use Camp David, Md., during the next several weekends until their country home in Virginia is ready for occupancy in mid-April.

The First Family has not renewed its lease on Glen Ora, the country estate near Middleburg, Va., which the Kennedys have used for the past two years.

A new country home is being constructed on Rattlesnake Mountain, a few miles from Glen Ora.

Soviet Rocket to Mars 60-Million Miles Up

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet rocket-probe to the planet Mars is reported more than 60 million miles from the earth.

The half-ton space ship launched last Nov. 1 is traveling at a rate of about 84,000 miles a day. It is expected to reach the vicinity of Mars in late May, making the journey in seven months.

Olympics Bill Passage Important to State

It appeared for a day or two that Gov. ROMNEY's Olympics finance plan was running into difficulty. The latest move yesterday by the House State Affairs Committee apparently has eased the tension.

Now it looks as if the Olympic bill, which seems to be tied in with the dog-racing bill and the increase of the state tax on horse racing, will overwhelmingly pass the House today.

For the moment, we are not particularly interested in the other two bills, but the one to finance the Olympic stadium and help bring the Olympics to Detroit is important for the entire State.

Michigan and Detroit need the Olympics. It will help our national image.

Assuming the Olympic bill gets by the House today, we hope the Senate, where the Governor seems to have more influence, acts favorably immediately.

Let's fight for the Olympics. California is not letting down.

New Fighter Aircraft to Serve Dual Purpose

A joint Air Force and Navy development is well under way that bodes good for interservice efficiency and economy, with related benefit for the taxpayers.

It combines basic principles of man's first venture into air—when he strapped crude wings to his arms and jumped off cliffs—and his first successful fixed-wing, pulled-by-a-propeller concept of flight.

The revolutionary aircraft is the TFX tactical fighter now in the news. Once in service, it will be known as the F111.

This is the plane, incidentally, involved in the current Boeing-General Dynamics controversy, now being investigated by a congressional committee and centering on policy governing placement of armament contracts by the Department of Defense. Designers say the TFX will be able to fly great distances at slow speeds with wings extended. This is important to the Navy in long, ocean patrol flights and to the Air Force in shifting planes from continent to continent.

Its twin attribute is that, with wings retracted, it can zoom in for a ground level attack at more than twice the speed of sound.

We think this example of eliminating one type of plane by the advanced, dual-purpose TFX is most praiseworthy and rates a snappy salute of recognition for the cooperating military services.

U.S. Men Don't Want to Work Fewer Hours

People like to work, and they need to work. This is a fact, and retirees who are bored to tears have been saying so for years.

Results of a study by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan bear out this need for work, in the midst of demands for shorter and shorter weeks by many unions.

Survey subjects were asked whether they would continue to work even if they had enough money to satisfy all their needs. Eighty per cent of the men answering said they would continue their labors to avoid the empty hours.

but they still want some form of labor.

Statistics from Akron, Ohio, where workers in the rubber industry have a shorter than average work week, show that many took another job to fill up their leisure hours.

Many firms who offer senior employees three weeks' vacation a year have seen more and more split up the vacation, rather than be away from their work for three weeks at a time.

In truth, many of the demands for a shorter week boil down to demands for more hours at overtime pay.

Misses Minister Hospital's Aged Patients Cheered-by Girl Scouts

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

It is always pleasant to learn of thoughtfulness evidenced by young people—particularly when the youth of the land currently are making headlines with their peccadilloes and delinquency.

A warm note from

Mrs. Martin Bacak of 716 Cortwright, contains a splendid report about a sympathetic project of Girl Scout Troop 286.

This unit of 15 teen-agers has virtually adopted the patients in Pontiac State Hospital's Geriatrics Ward. The patients have come to eagerly anticipate the holiday-related visits of the girls, with their program of entertainment, refreshments and remembrances.

For Christmas, the scouts made 80 pairs of slippers for their friends—a pretty formidable production job, if you ask me.

Valentine's Day was enlivened for the old young group with a variety of handmade cards. Plans were made for a St. Patrick's Day get-together, but prevalence of flu at the institution necessitated postponement of it.

By way of a relayed salute,

Mrs. Lillian Neville of 106 Cadillac, merits praise for the leadership given the troop and the fine spirit exemplified. The girl, despite a full-time job, gives unstintingly of her free time to her scouting interest.

Folks are telling the MAT quite a lot about the birds lately—very little about the bees. Here are a couple of observations concerning pheasants.

Miss Norma Strickland of 106 Miami Road, saw from Riker Building office window a pheasant stroll nonchalantly across the old courthouse site. Its course was southerly to the alley where (figuratively pausing to light a cigarette) she turned south and passed from view.

The lady can't imagine where the bird came from in the first place and where it was headed, in the second. But regardless, her sight of the pheasant through glass is just as welcome to the MAT as one under glass. (Truth to tell, I never thought it would turn out that way.)

And, a short time ago,

Mrs. Mac T. Whitfield of 575 W. Iroquois, saw a pheasant high-tail across Voorhees and enter Mt. Hope Cemetery, deftly side-stepping traffic en route.

Our advice to that bird is to stay in the car. away from automobiles—and where the visit to the cemetery may turn out to be sadly prophetic.

While, chipping in with a birdie three is

Mrs. Basil Werth of Givengille who saw her first robin of the year in the snow near the lilac bush—and looking pretty unhappy and hopping mad about the whole thing. Maybe, remembering the old song "Lilac Time," he thought that proximity to the bush would radiate the felicity of spring. . . something for him to chirp about, anyway.

'Care To Join Me In A Little Snack?'

David Lawrence Asks:

Why the Delay in Cuba Statement?

WASHINGTON—Why has it taken five months for the American people to be told just what the policy of the United States government is toward the Soviet military activity in Cuba? Why was it necessary for members of Congress of both parties to keep prodding the administration before a clear-cut statement of the intentions of the United States became available in the form of a speech by Secretary of State Dean Rusk this week?

These questions are being asked in Capitol Hill, but having Mr. LAWRENCE as yet been answered.

Plethora of comments have been made by administration spokesmen in denouncing as "irresponsible" or "paranoid" those members of Congress who feel the American people are entitled to have their questions about Cuba answered.

But, at last, Secretary Rusk has made clear the essentials of American policy, as follows:

1. The United States under no circumstances will "accept or tolerate the reintroduction of offensive weapons into Cuba."

2. The armed forces of the United States and other countries in this hemisphere are available to see to it that any arms now in Cuba shall not be used outside of that country, either in "an organized effort or through piecemeal infiltration."

3. Surveillance will continue and, if necessary, force will be used to protect "the free and active use of international waters and air space" in the Caribbean.

FIRM POSITION

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, moreover, told the House Armed Services Committee in testimony released this week that, if there is an uprising in Cuba and the Soviets send in more troops, the United States will consider this "an invasion."

Broad statements indicating a firm policy toward Cuba were made originally on Oct. 22 last by President Kennedy, but, unfortunately, the modifications and interpretations which the administration itself has permitted to circulate since then have confused the American people and led to assertions by critics that the policy actually had been weakened.

Now that Secretary Rusk considers the Soviet troops and technicians in Cuba could be used in an "offensive" action against Latin-American countries and a says that the United States will use force to prevent any such action, there are members of Congress who wonder why a "quarantine" of ships carrying strategic supplies to Cuba can't be undertaken at once without involving "an act of war" any more than did the interception of Russian ships last autumn.

PARTISAN NOTE

Secretary Rusk made one comment in his speech this week which will add to the emotions of the political battle. He injected, perhaps unwittingly, a partisan note when he said that "having failed to take the steps that might have prevented, in years past the establishment of a Marxist-Leninist regime in Cuba, the problem of finding a cure is more difficult."

But it will be recalled that in October 1960, after many vigorous protests, our ambassador was recalled from Havana, an embargo was placed on most exports to Cuba, and the Organization of American states was alerted to the growing capacity of Cuba "to give armed support to the spread of its revolution on other parts of the Americas."

Hal Boyle Says:

Practice Double-Talk to Pep Up Conversation

NEW YORK (AP)—There are people who always mean exactly what they say—and others who rarely say what they mean.

The first group usually are statesmen. The second group can always be seen at the best parties.

If your social life is dragging, perhaps it is because you're not using your mind too frankly. That usually frightens people away.

What you probably need is a little exercise in double-talk to pep up your conversational charm. Double-talk is the art of saying one thing—aloud—while silently thinking something usually just the opposite.

EXAMPLES

Here are some common examples:

"Rodney, I just love riding on the buddy seat of your motorcycle." When is this jerk going to grow up and buy himself an automobile?

"There will be a 15-minute delay in the start of flight 3047." We'll be lucky if we get it off the ground by tomorrow.

"Oh, Jennifer, how nice! I haven't seen you in ages and ages." And if I had seen you first, I wouldn't be standing here now.

"No, I haven't been active in the stock market lately." It takes all my strength trying to raise money for the rent.

"Just for the experience, Marge, why don't you let me take you to this new vegetarian restaurant everyone's talking about? Then I won't have to sit and watch you stuff yourself with steak at my expense."

"I want to be the first to congratulate you on your promotion, Gracie. It certainly was well-deserved." Maybe now you'll get off my back and find someone else to do your work for you.

HELL, PAY YOU

"Honest, Henry, I'll pay you back every penny on pay day." But not this pay day. Maybe some pay day next year.

"Oh, Auntie, don't talk like that. You'll probably live for years and years and years." And then probably leave everything in your will to a home for orphan dogs.

Finally, on Jan. 3, 1961, diplomatic relations with Cuba were severed by the Eisenhower administration.

The massive military build-up which finally brought matters to a climax didn't really begin, however, until early 1962—after the Kennedy administration had been in power for more than a year. When the military threat arose, the "cure" came clearly into view—no, to rid Cuba of Soviet armament and troops by whatever means are necessary.

'Voters, There's Still Time to Study New Constitution'

On April 1 we are to "accept" or "reject" a full package known as "con. con." This should not be passed on lightly, as we may have to live with it for a long time.

It would be ideal if each of us compared the old constitution against the "new" to see where a comma has been changed, note any stops, pauses, or deletions which were made in a sentence, paragraph or section.

'Churchmen Visit Another Red Trick'

Why were Russian churchmen invited by the National Council of Churches to tour the United States? Can't the American people see that it is another trick of the Communists to infiltrate our churches or are some of our leading churchmen Soviet spies hiding under the cloak of religion?

'All Pupils Aren't Taught the Same'

I'm wondering if "Father of Two" has taken a close look at Waterford Twp. High School.

Granted that some students rated well in the state math examination, all students are entitled to a fair chance and only a few are assigned to the capable teacher.

When my grandson was in his senior year his English teacher could not make herself understand the English language and finally had to be replaced, but she was kept on the staff. I know of at least two students who gave up their plans to major in foreign languages in college because of their unhappy experience in this teacher's Latin class.

Today is Thursday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1963 with 292 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening star is Mars.

Those born on this day include world famous physicist Albert Einstein, in 1879.

In 1794, Eli Whitney received a patent on the cotton gin.

In 1923, President Harding became the first chief executive to file an income tax.

In 1932, Congress approved a measure authorizing the sale of 3.2 beer.

In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippine Islands were leased to the United States for 99 years.

A thought for the day: Albert Einstein said: "As long as there are sovereign nations possessing great power, war is inevitable."

In Washington:

U.S.-Latin Pact at a Standstill

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Alliance for Progress has been getting a bad press.

Chargin over developments in Cuba is partly responsible. Also, the unpopularity of foreign aid as a whole rubs off on the special programs to aid Latin America.

There is disappointment that the Alliance in its less than two years of existence has not performed miracles, like saving Cuba.

The fact that the plan was over-sold at the beginning is responsible for building too high hopes. Organization of American States has just released a first report on its planning operations for the Alliance in 1962, and it does not reveal great progress.

A score or more of Latin-American, international alphabetical agencies have held conference after conference. Only six countries have completed their development plans, though more are due shortly.

Former Presidents Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil and Alberto Lleras Camarago of Colombia now are trying to simplify the Alliance bureaucracy. But they haven't come up with a plan yet.

OAS has spent $4 million and allocated the other $2 million of a special U.S. appropriation for planning.

OAS wants more. But this will require a new appropriation by the U.S. Congress, and there may be some opposition to that.

Actually, Teodoro Moscoso of Puerto Rico, who is U.S. coordinator for the Alliance in the State Department, says that the whole program will require little if any more money to run next year than it is costing this year. This is about $600 million for loans and $100 million for grants.

The Alliance is not all just a foreign aid giveaway. Total U.S. assistance for Latin America in the year and a half ending last Dec. 31 was $1.5 billion, of which $1.2 billion was loans and $300 million grants.

Agency for International Development—AID—provided $643 million. Food for Peace $328 million. Peace Corps $12 million.

Moscoso believes that the 10-year assistance program can be carried out on the original plan. This was for $20 billion in U.S. government and private financing, with four times that much, or $80 billion, coming from the Latin Americans.

The Private Business Co-ordinating Committee headed by J. Peter Grace of New York recently criticized the Alliance for moving too slowly. Grace said $2.5 billion a year should be going to Latin America from government and private sources, instead of the $1 billion supplied last year.

Moscoso's position is that Latin America cannot absorb outside capital that rapidly now. He believes it will take several years of training technicians before Latin America is ready for wide-scale industrial investment.

Latin America now has 50,000

technicians to serve 287 million people, as compared to 1.1 million engineers in the U.S.—still not enough for its 180 million people.

When Latin America has raised its technical proficiency, then there may be need for a more rapid investment rate.

Educationally, says Moscoso, Latin America is moving. Nearly 17,000 schoolrooms are being built this year. Fifty U.S. universities are working with as many Latin-American universities on student and faculty exchange programs.

One of the principal criticisms of the Alliance is that Latin American countries aren't doing their part in reforms which were to be a condition to receiving aid. Tax reform and land reform, urban and rural slum elimination are admittedly moving slowly, as in every country.

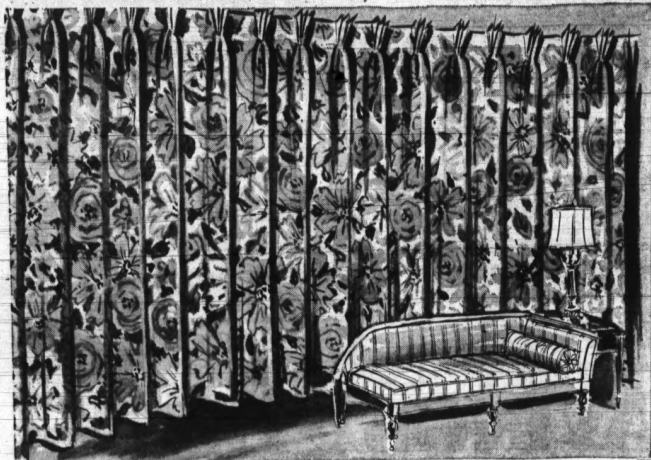

For purposes of comparison, it is pointed out that it took 30 years to clean out the worst slums in Washington, southeast of the Capitol. The job isn't done yet. And there is no great rush to reform taxes in the U.S. Congress, either, to set a good example for Latin Americans.

Herter Feels French Veto Adds to Trade Job Importance

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Christian A. Herter, U.S. trade negotiator, discusses in this exclusive interview the prospect for basking under foreign tariffs.)

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christian A. Herter, special U.S. trade negotiator, said today he does not feel that the significance of his new job was shattered by the recent French veto of Britain's entry into the Common Market.

"In some respects the veto enhanced the importance of the trade expansion program," Herter said in an interview. "It's a somewhat complicated matter."

Just how much the matter has been complicated may become clear in the next two months when international trade experts meet in Geneva. The Geneva talks may determine whether Herter, armed with the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, can help batter down foreign tariffs and launch bombing, new U.S. trade in the 1960s.

Some congressmen have introduced bills that would amend the Trade Expansion Act to get around the French veto. The amendments would allow Herter to negotiate for the complete elimination of tariffs when the United States, the Common Market, and Britain together account for 80 per cent of the world's trade.

RESERVATIONS

"I've had some reservations on those amendments," Herter said. "If you open the whole trade expansion act up to amendments, God knows what will happen."

And, despite the French veto, Herter said, the program still gives him the power to negotiate with the Common Market and other countries to cut tariffs in half.

"But we don't know what the French attitude will be on these specific negotiations," he continued.

Herter said protectionist pressures have been growing greater as the Common Market has been increasing its own tariffs against American farm products.

As an example, he cited the case of frozen poultry. Common Market tariffs have almost eliminated the importation of U.S. frozen poultry. So American poultry farmers have demanded retaliatory action.

CAN BOOST TARIFF

Under the Trade Expansion Act, the United States can combat what it considers an unreasonable foreign tariff by boosting an American tariff on goods coming from the offending country.

"Unless the tariff on frozen poultry is modified, we may have to take retaliatory action," Herter said.

"But it really doesn't help the poultry industry to take retaliatory action against some other product coming in to the United States."

Herter, who will be 69 in two weeks, can display a lifetime of laurels, as congressman, as governor of Massachusetts, as Secretary of state.

Now, as trade negotiator, he faces one of his most complicated and delicate tasks: Planning and negotiating tariff reductions amid uncertainty on whether Europe really wants them.

For this reason, Herter described the talks ahead as critical. A working party, including some Americans, goes to Geneva next week to set the agenda for a May 16-21 meeting of ministers from the 44 nations that have signed the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Herter will represent the United States at the ministers meeting where the U.S. plan to begin tariff negotiations in 1964 will be discussed.

TO USE CRUTCHES

Afflicted with painful arthritis, he will have to attend the forthcoming meeting in Geneva on crutches.

Herter was examined by a team of physicians from Johns Hopkins University before President Eisenhower appointed him secretary of state in 1959. They decided then that the arthritis would not get worse.

"I feel the same now as I did then," Herter said.

Herter has served as a Republican through his long political career, but he says "I couldn't very well refuse" serving in a Democratic administration when President Kennedy asked him to take the job of trade negotiator.

"For one thing, I had been advocating such a trade program for some time. I testified in favor of it," he said.

"The President has been very generous and has allowed me to sit in on policy consultations. But since my job really is a technical one, I don't feel odd in a Democratic administration, although I

Acheson Rips De Gaulle Aim

Calls Grand Designs Suicidal Policy

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson yesterday blasted French President Charles de Gaulle's European policy as "suicidal."

By excluding the United States, de Gaulle's grand design would lead to Soviet domination of Europe, Acheson said.

In an address at the University of California, Acheson also blamed U.S. "flirtation with Moscow" in continuing Berlin talks for creating uncertainty and apprehension in West Germany.

This was responsible, he said, for German interest in closer ties with France.

"Our flirtation with Moscow," Acheson said, "like many which have no serious purpose, has succeeded only in embittering more legitimate relationships."

Acheson pegged his speech to the events of January when de Gaulle blocked Britain's entry into the European common market, made a treaty of cooperation with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and spelled out his aim for Europe largely independent of U.S. influence with France possessing an independent nuclear striking power.

Acheson praised de Gaulle personally for strong character and intelligence and said he could not be persuaded to abandon his policy.

Thus, what the United States with its vast resources must do, Acheson said, is to make it impossible for de Gaulle to carry out the policy, by developing a partnership between Western Europe and North America while keeping the door open to French cooperation.

3 Speeches in Costa Rica Set by JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will give three public speeches during his three-day visit to Costa Rica next week.

They are included in a busy schedule of conferences and ceremonies outlined Wednesday by the White House.

His first address—outside of remarks on arriving on Costa Rica Monday—will come later in the day at the opening session of his conference at San Jose with presidents of the six Central American republics.

Another appearance is slated for Tuesday when he looks over the El Bosque housing project just outside San Jose, which is an Alliance for Progress program.

His last scheduled address before returning to Washington will be a speech to students at the University of Costa Rica on Wednesday.

The White House said the President intends to spend this weekend in Palm Beach, flying to San Jose from there Monday morning.

Cats Pussyfoot Inn, So Kennedy Is Out

CHICAGO (UPI)—The cats pussyfooted into the O'Hare Inn before President Kennedy.

The President had planned to use the inn for a convention hall during his March 23 trip, but an official of the Greater Chicago All-Breed Cat Club said it already reserved the space and Kennedy would have to find another hall.

He's Driven to Work

LONDON (UPI)—A Daily Telegraph columnist said today he knows a chauffeur with a Rolls Royce who runs it as a taxi in his spare time. He charges double if he wears his chauffeur's cap.

FCC Delays Order for Line Rate Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission has indefinitely postponed its order authorizing rate increases for the private use of leased communications lines.

The increases had been authorized Jan. 29 after a seven-year study. And the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union were ordered to arrange to put the higher rates into effect May 1.

However, the FCC said Wednesday the order would be stayed while it considers petitions for reconsideration.

Press interests, who opposed the AT&T and Western Union applications for higher rates, had sought the reconsideration.

"This story is just beginning," says Sarratt. "The easy" job of getting compliance—in the border states and the more moderate Southern states—has been accomplished, true. But the hard part of this job has just started."

ment industry were cut off by the wall.

Now the industry is campaigning to persuade housewives, especially those over 40 whose children are grown, to work for four or five hours daily.

They can either have work sent to them at home or come to the fashion houses to use semiautomatic sewing machines.

So far 800 women have taken the part time jobs.

ALL BETTER — Diane Carlisle, 4, feels the spot where doctors extracted a large tick imbedded in the back of her head. She was being treated at a Miami hospital for a mysterious paralysis when doctors discovered the bug. Within minutes after it was removed the girl recovered her body movement. A Dade County Health Department doctor said the tick injected a poison into her bloodstream causing the paralysis.

Beware of Swindlers

Senior Citizens Warned

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's senior citizens were warned by the commission on aging today to beware of various schemes designed to swindle them out of their life savings.

Director Gary Hansen urged retirees to be on the alert against promoters and salesmen who offer get-rich-quick investments or so-called "cures" for various diseases such as arthritis.

A special Senate committee on the aging recently exposed quackery frauds and various schemes to exploit senior citizens, Hansen said.

Among major frauds, he warned are those involving land and health.

Retirees spend millions of dollars to buy undeveloped property in distant places as retirement havens. There are also popular health frauds, such as urging the oldsters to buy an increase of some nutrient or food not supplied by the ordinary diet.

Dance studios are another racket, Hansen said, since there have been instances where oldsters have spent their savings on "lifetime" dancing lessons.

Any senior citizens approached on suspected fraudulent schemes should report to the commission, Hansen said.

The complaint will be checked, he said, and other oldsters may be saved from unwisely spending their money.

Defense Boss to Head Soviet Economic Unit

MOSCOW (AP) — Dmitry F. Ustinov, boss of Soviet defense industry, will head the Soviet Union's new supreme national economic council.

Creation of the council to run the Soviet economy, announced yesterday, capped Premier Khrushchev's sweeping reorganization of industrial and agricultural management.

Centralization of control once more replaces a system of regional economic councils that in six years failed to produce cures for Soviet farm and industrial ills.

Ustinov, a 55-year-old deputy premier, was promoted to first deputy premier. Khrushchev's other first deputies are Anastas I. Mikoyan and Alexei Kosygin.

Work on State Airports Ready to Zoom Ahead

LANSING (AP) — The construction season for improvement of Michigan airports is getting underway, reports the State Aeronautics Department, with eight contracts worth more than $12 million scheduled to be awarded this month.

During the 1963 construction season, bids will be received on other first deputies are Anastas I. Mikoyan and Alexei Kosygin.

Jolted by Lightning, Plane Lands Safely

DETROIT (AP) — A TAG Airlines plane made a safe landing at Detroit City Airport yesterday after it was struck by lightning on a flight from Cleveland.

The pilot and three passengers escaped injury. The lightning knocked out some electrical equipment on the two-engine plane and burned seven holes in the fuselage, officials of the feeder airline reported.

Schedule Dinner of Harvard Men in White House

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard announced Wednesday night that the university overseers and the Harvard Corp. will hold their annual dinner May 13 at the White House.

One of the overseers, President John F. Kennedy, '40, issued the invitation for the Harvard groups to meet with him.

Other Harvard alumni in Washington include U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Reject Sunday Closing

IONIA (AP) — The Ionia County Board of Supervisors yesterday adopted a resolution exempting the county from observance of the state Sunday closing law which takes effect March 28. The vote was 18 to 3 to adopt the resolution.

NMC to Be University

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney yesterday signed a bill changing the name of Northern Michigan College to Northern Michigan University.

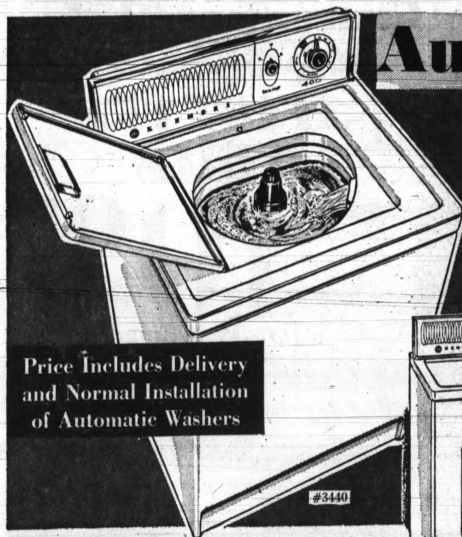

The bill goes into effect June 1. The ceremony in the governor's office was attended by 19 Upper Peninsula legislators, and Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president of the institution.

Where's Shebeen? The Same Ol' Spot

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Despite the lifting of African prohibition in August 1962, many Africans here still prefer to drink their liquor in the speakeasy atmosphere of the illegal shebeen.

The shebeens have flourished in the cities of South Africa for decades. Their customers range from gangsters and prostitutes to African city workers and even the occasional white man who enjoys the freeheeling, no-holds-barred aura of illicit drinking.

Some shebeens have reputations for providing the best live jazz in Africa today.

The survival of the shebeens had been predicted even before the new liquor act came into force, theoretically putting them out of business.

Psychologists, both amateur and professional, said the lure of "forbidden fruit" and sheer force of habit would keep the shebeens busy.

Now a sociological survey by the University of the Witwatersrand has confirmed this. The study was made by four sociology students, all newbies. They worked independently and came to identical conclusions.

According to the researchers, the shebeen, selling its liquor illegally, without a bar license, at prices up to double the official price fulfills the function of an African social club.

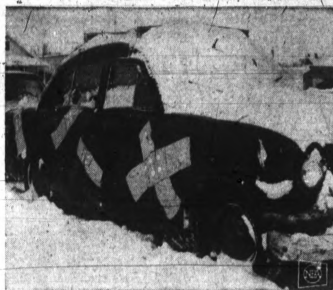

With few exceptions, the scores of shebeens in the Johannesburg area are still crowded.

The Johannesburg City Council has provided "drinking areas" for the city's 700,000 Africans, but they are drab, antiseptic places compared to the riotous atmosphere of the shebeens.

The "drinking areas" are all in the African townships ringing Johannesburg. They do not cater to the mass of Africans working and living in the city.

The findings of the research project were summed up by sociologist Lawrence Schlemmer in the newsletter of the University's Institute for the Study of Man in Africa. He said the shebeens flourish because of the inadequate facilities for Africans in European areas.

"In the absence of adequate meeting places, many of these people have to use the shebeen not only as a drinking haunt but as a place where friends are entertained," he said.

SHOULD'A SEEN THE OTHER GUY—Banged-up, middle-aged auto, looking as though it took a beating in more than one winter traffic bout, was "bandaged" with adhesive and left near the police station in Bozeman, Mont.

Loud Verdict Cost $5 Fine

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (U) — Municipal Judge James A. Maloney decided to let a "jury" of three women decide whether Lawrence E. Menefee's car had overly loud mufflers.

Menefee had pleaded innocent. So, when he appeared in court, Judge Maloney picked three women spectators who had nothing to do with the case to go outside and listen to the mufflers under dispute.

They marked secret ballots and which they gave to the judge. Verdict: too loud.

The judge fined Menefee $5.

30 French Rockets. Fired During '59-'61

PARIS (U) — France fired more than 30 experimental rockets in the two-year period 1959-1961 in the start of its space exploration program.

The newly created Space Council, meeting recently for the first time, discussed plans for continuation of the program.

The council includes many of France's important space research scientists.

Gaston Palewski, government minister for scientific research and issues concerning space and atomic power, spoke of the French shots.

He added that although France could not undertake programs as ambitious as those of the United States or Russia, "France and Europe have nevertheless the opportunity to play an important role in the space race."

Excuse for Tardiness:

Stagecoach Was Late

WICKENBURG, Ariz. (U) — This excuse would never work in the east, but for Pete Melapanes, 17, it was a reasonable explanation for being late to Wickenburg High School.

The excuse read, "The stage was delayed."

Melapanes is one of a dozen students who rides a stagecoach from the Slash Bar K Ranch northeast of town to school. The ranch foreman said the trips keep the horses exercised.

Soviets, Italians?

Film Production

ROME (U) — Geofredo Lombardo, head of Titanus films, met here with a Soviet moving picture delegation to discuss possibilities for Italian-Soviet joint film production.

Lombardo also is reported to have prodded the Russians to speed up permission for his company to film its planned anti-war movie "Sergeant in the Snow" in Russia.

Filming was to have started there last winter but Titanus is still waiting for the filming permits from the Soviet Union.

Language Closer in Britain, U.S.

Observatories Make Moves

Seek Better Locations for Studying Heavens

NEW YORK (UPI) — American English and English English are closer together than ever before, and the language merging process is being speeded by mass communications, air travel and intermarriage, an American dictionary editor says.

Dr. Philip B. Gove, editor in chief of the Merriam-Webster dictionaries, disagreed sharply with the view of British Education Minister Sir David Eccles, who said the language was in danger of splitting into several idioms such as Oxford English, New York English, or Australian English.

Sir David in a speech in Rome urged the United States to join Britain to maintain English as a world language. He pointed to the fact that ancient Rome produced an international language in Latin, which later split into such forms as Spanish, French and Italian.

He said English was headed toward a similar fate unless word meanings were agreed upon.

Gove replied that the printed word and radio and television exchange have hastened the melding of English, American, Canadian and Australian English.

He said Britons are clear about the meanings of "hot dog," "hamburger," "jazz," "ok," and "swing," and that Americans understand "gin and tonic," "pub crawl" and "shopping mall."

Even terms used only in Britain such as "petrol" are completely intelligible to Americans, who say "gasoline," Gove said, and the interchangeability of British terms once used exclusively in Britain, Australia, Africa and India is a significant aspect of today's English.

DETROIT (U) — Ziegler Osteopathic Hospital in Detroit was granted $1.5 million in federal funds yesterday to aid in the construction of a proposed $3.5-million hospital in Farmington Township.

Ex-Ad Official Dies

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Willard A. Pleuther, 61, retired vice president of the advertising firm of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne, died yesterday at the University of Florida health center.

WASHINGTON — Observatories are on the move. As cities grow, both new and old seek better locations for stargazing.

Astronomers are particular about the spot they choose to study the heavens. Cloudy or dusty places are taboo; so are well-lighted cities. They prefer high, secluded vantages with moderate temperatures and many clear nights.

Possible sites for a new observatory, especially in developed countries, are more intensively surveyed than ever before, says the National Geographic Society. Three years of study preceded the selection of Kitt Peak, in a remote section of southern Arizona, as the home of the new national observatory.

Russian astronomers face the same problem of location—even in the vastness of the U.S.S.R. Their giant 236-inch scope, scheduled for completion in 1970, may scan the skies from desolate Siberia.

HOTELS BANNED

Japan's 74-inch telescope atop Mt. Chikurin enjoys fair weather. A range of hills blocks the glare from neighboring cities. The government has banned the building of hotels in the scenic area. Only lodges and youth hostels are permitted.

England has shifted its famed Greenwich Observatory from the prime meridian to the ancient castle of Herstmonceux in the clear air of Sussex. The 98-inch Isaac Newton telescope, when completed, will not have to peer through the heavy fogs that often mask the London metropolitan areas.

The United States Naval Observatory has transferred its 40-inch reflector from Washington, D.C., to the crystal-clear atmosphere of northern Arizona. A 60-inch will soon join it.

The Hopkins Observatory of Williams College in Massachusetts, oldest in the country, also made a recent trip. Workmen jacked the stone building with its seven-inch refractor onto steel rails and hauled it to a vacant corner of the campus to make room for new dormitories.

Diamond Land Losing Luster

Sierra Leone Exports Nearly Cut in Half

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (UPI) — In the language of love, diamonds are forever. But unfortunately for Sierra Leone, they may not go on forever here.

Local production of diamonds has fallen off sharply. Diamond dealers expect it to continue to fall unless new fields are found.

This is important to a new West African nation of 2.5 million people and 27,925 square miles, about the size of Ireland, which gained independence on April 27, 1961, after more than 250 years of British rule.

In 1961, diamond exports amounted to $43.4 million, nearly three-fifths of the country's exports. By the end of 1962, diamond exports were running at the rate of only $22.4 million.

Diamonds were discovered in Sierra Leone at the end of the 1920's. For years, one company, the Sierra Leone Selection Trust, had a monopoly on mining.

But then in the early 1950's, native diggers began finding diamonds galore in river beds or covered by only a few feet of soil.

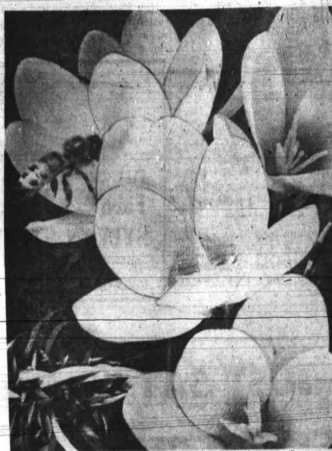

Since, legally, the precious stones all belonged to the monopoly company, native finders began smuggling them in quantities across the borders, especially into Liberia.

Finally, in 1956, the government bought out the monopoly and began licensing native diggers.

Improved marketing arrangements through the Diamond Corporation (largely owned by De Beers) further reduced smuggling, but dealers believe some always will go on.

LOW INCOME

Other than diamonds, Sierra Leone has deposits of rich iron ore and also produces some export crops such as Pissave, coffee, cocoa, ginger and kola nuts. But per capita gross national product is around $50 a year, one of the lowest in Africa.

Miners Cool Toward Move by De Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—France's 167,000 striking coal miners took a cool attitude today toward a conciliatory move from President Charles de Gaulle's government.

The cabinet, after a long discussion of the strike situation, announced it was starting a series of studies of the mine and fuel problem. A Socialist Union spokesman commented that if such a study had been made three months ago, the experts would have approved the miners' demands.

A cabinet spokesman said de Gaulle no longer plans to make a radio-television appeal to the strikers to abandon their defiance of his government. The spokesman said the president only intervenes when the state is in danger, and de Gaulle doesn't believe the mine strike is endangering the state.

Terrorists Act Up in Venezuela Again

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Terrorists were busy again in Venezuela Wednesday night. Communists and Castroites were blamed.

One band blew up transformers carrying electricity to five communities on the coast southwest of Caracas.

Another group bombed a cooking oil factory in Valencia, knocking out machinery. No one was injured. A university student was arrested.

Whee, There It Goes! Time for Another Picnic

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI)—Whenever a Thor-Agent missile is to be launched, the entire population of the nearby town of Surf is evacuated by the Navy. The civilians, Southern Pacific Railroad maintenance employees and their families, usually are served a picnic lunch at a park a safe distance from launch facilities.

TFX Contract Is Defended

McNamara Expects Better Plane, Saving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara claims his disputed award of the TFX warplane contract to the General Dynamics Corp. promises a better plane at a potential $1-billion saving.

Had the award gone to the Boeing Co., McNamara said yesterday in a statement to the Senate Investigations subcommittee, "the prospects of saving $1 billion would have evaporated."

In delving into the contract award the subcommittee has been told by witnesses—some of them McNamara's subordinates—that the Air Force and Navy evaluated the Boeing design as both better and cheaper.

McNamara said he took full responsibility for the decision in favor of General Dynamics and made clear he doesn't intend to budge an inch under fire. He declared:

"I decided to select General Dynamics (as) best qualified to design the most effective plane... at the least cost, in the least time, to meet our military requirements."

The secretary said the revolutionary concept of the TFX fighter-bomber as a single weapons system for both the Air Force and Navy holds promise of a $1 billion saving for the taxpayers over the two services' original plan to develop their own roughly similar planes for roughly similar missions.

He said the Boeing design would have produced "essentially two different planes," and that to approve it would have meant foregoing the prospective savings.

Cigar and Ticket Given to Driver by Trooper

VERNON, Conn. (UPI)—Truck driver Walter S. McCulloch, 43, got a bonus yesterday along with a ticket for a minor traffic violation.

State Trooper John Wittenzeller also handed him a cigar because his wife had given birth to a daughter in a Hartford hospital.

Computers May Register Nik's Anger

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Diplomats may someday use electronic computers to gauge the boiling point of the world's Castros and Khrushchevs.

A Stanford University team of behavioral scientists, led by political scientist Robert C. North, already has tried predicting the reaction of world leaders through a program developed for a computer.

North and his co-workers fed into the school's Burroughs 220 computer a behaviour analysis of each leader's reactions to past events and a rating of how intense that reaction was.

The computer combines the judgments of the different experts working independently of each other and produces a complicated numerical pattern.

This pattern is plotted on a "lever chart"—a graph that reveals the day-to-day variations in international tensions.

North says reactions to diplomatic moves could be predicted before the moves are made, with a degree of scientific accuracy, by try-out plotting on the international tension chart.

Knows Only Too Well How Important It Is

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI)—State Fire Marshal Howard R. Hutchinson, addressing the Trenton Fire Officers Association at a restaurant yesterday, said, "Gentlemen, fire prevention is important..." and the sirens sounded.

Firemen rushed out to help fight a fire in a store across the street and it wasn't until two hours later that the marshal finished his sentence.

Nearly 100 Rounded Up

Hunt for Reds Intensified in Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's new revolutionary regime is reported stepping up its Communist manhunt throughout the nation. Troops and military police are said to have rounded up nearly 100 Reds.

Informed sources said at least two members of the central committee of the Syrian Communist party have been arrested along with Communist writers and other party activists.

Also sought are Socialist party followers of the former U.A.R. vice president from Syria, Akram Hourani. Police arrested two of his aides, former Finance Minister Khaled Kallas and former Agrarian Minister Mustafa Hamdoun.

Hourani was rumored to be either under house arrest at Damascus or at Yabroud, 60 miles from Damascus, after being mauled by a mob.

GUARD STRENGTHENED

The revolutionary council has strengthened heavily armed military guards at key points in Damascus and coupled an appeal for public cooperation with the coup by pro-Nasser army officers.

promise to crush "any attempt to create dissension." It charged that "Communists and separatists" are trying to undermine Syria's new quest for Arab unity.

Damascus was quiet. Students whose pro-Nasser demonstrations were tolerated during the first days of the new government chartered their Arab union slogans indoors.

About 50 soldiers with sub-machine guns and fixed bayonets patrolled outside the Turkish Embassy, where deposed Premier Khaled El Azem took refuge Friday. The embassy has been the target of several hostile demonstrations.

Taleb Hussein Shabib, Iraqi foreign minister, flew home from Cairo with Nasser's agreement for talks with Iraqi and Syrian leaders. Informants said these are planned for mid-April.

The sources said the Nasser-Shabib talks concentrated on political and economic matters and no decision was made on Iraq's proposal for Syria, the U.A.R., Iraq and Yemen to form a joint military command.

U. S. Highway Group to Meet in Michigan

LANSING (UP) — Boyne Falls will be the site of the annual summer meeting of the American Association of State Highway Officials, State Highway Commissioner John Mackie said yesterday.

Mackie, president of the association, said the sessions of the Planning and Design Policies Committee and Executive Committee would run June 18-21. AASHO last held its summer meetings in Michigan at Mackinac Island in 1953.

Vehicle, Use Taxes Pass '62 Collections

LANSING (U) — State tax collections on motor vehicles currently are running $1.5 million ahead of last year and use tax collections are $78,194 above the same period of 1962, the secretary of state's office reports.

Sales tax collections on cars are $7.7 million and use tax collections $226,352 for the first seven weeks of the year, the office said.

Record Promotion Gimmick

Duds for Dogs a Stunt

NEW YORK (U) — The Society for Indecency to Naked Animals (SINA) shapes up as a stunt to promote the sale of a new record.

The society reaped publicity last week when its pickets circled the White House with placards asking the First Lady, "won't you please clothe your horse for decency?"

Vice President (and picket) Bruce Spencer said that SINA was a band of 50,000 moralists headed by C. Clifford Prout Jr., of New York.

Prout's father had left $400,000 to institute an organization dedicated to the proposition that "all animals should wear clothing for the sake of decency." Spencer said, and Prout was carrying out his father's wishes.

Despite Soviet Campaign

Religion Survives in Russia

VIENNA (UPI) — Soviet bloc experts say the Russian peasants who complained of religious persecution and sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow recently pointed up a constant campaign which Poland's Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński has described as a "religious war."

Observers said the Soviet leadership is conducting a stubborn struggle against the expansion of the church's influence and of religious congregations.

They noted the churches remain the only organized bodies in Eastern Europe which are not directly controlled by the Communist parties and which propagate the only rival ideology to communism.

The anticlerical campaign has been carefully mapped out at party headquarters and the ideological generals are said to favor a two-front attack.

DIRECT ATTACK

The direct attack is carried out through legislative and administrative restrictions and includes persecution of church leaders and ordinary priests.

It Wasn't His Day!

MACHIAS, N.Y. (AP) — Howard Gasz's automobile skidded off route 16 early today and landed on its top in Lime Lake. He waded to shore in freezing, hip-deep water.

subvert the churchgoer through atheistic propaganda.

In the Soviet Union and Bulgaria, believers cannot belong to the party. In Bulgaria, Communists or members of the Komsomol (Communist Youth) have been expelled for religious activities.

Particularly zealous ecclesiastics often are accused of such criminal offenses as concealment of income, forcible recruiting of children for their churches or sects, or morals offenses and are sentenced to long prison terms.

In many localities behind the Iron Curtain, atheist propaganda is accompanied by "social" decisions to close churches.

INEFFECTIVE Even such measures cannot cope with the religious sentiment deeply ingrained in the mass of the Russian population.

Accurate figures of the numbers of Soviet citizens who belong to religious faiths are impossible to obtain.

But the United Nations Commission on Human Rights in January, 1959, said there were 50 million Russian Orthodox, 24,500,000 Moslems, 10 million Roman Catholics, five million Protestants, two million Jews, and a half million Lamaist Buddhists.

This would amount to about 4 per cent of the Soviet population, a figure believed too high by western observers.

Communist newspapers admit the spread of religious practice in some areas, though funds to support churches are lacking and improved transportation facilities have made it unnecessary for every small village to have its own church.

LBJ's Charge Hit by GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican congressional leaders yesterday scoffed at Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's charge that their criticism of Cuban policy is "irresponsible partisanship."

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., at the same time, sharply dissociated himself from a statement by GOP National Chairman William E. Miller that the United States should block Cuba even if it meant war.

"No Republican in his right mind would want to carry the country into war," Dirksen told a news conference. He said that while he had not seen Miller's statement, an "unrestricted blockade" could be construed as an "act of war."

House GOP leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., announced the first GOP reaction to Johnson's Tuesday night speech.

Without naming the vice president—as Johnson did not name the Republicans—Halleck said some people "high" in government have tried to "paint Republicans in Congress as people trying to destroy our unity of purpose."

CHELMSPFORD, England (UPI)—Mrs. Alice Yell, 77, got out of her sick bed yesterday for the first time since Christmas. She was in an adjoining room when a truck crashed through the wall of her house an hour later and struck her bed.

It Took Time to Find No Beards

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—George Hartje came up with a welcome and thrifty anniversary gift for his wife—a college diploma. And he got it for only $3.60.

The story goes back to 1953 when the future Mrs. Hartje graduated, but not quite, from Hendrix College here. There was the matter of a library fine which the school insisted must be paid before a diploma was given.

"She said that after all her father had spent on her education already, she was ashamed to ask him for $3.60 more," Hartje recalled.

The diploma went into the college vault. Two months later the Hartjes were "wed and through 10 years of marriage Hartje from time to time heard wistful comments from his wife about the missing sheepskin."

So, when their anniversary came up the other day, the couple drove to the college where Hartje anted up the $3.60.

The diploma was brought out, dusted off and conferred on Mrs. Hartje.

CHESTER, England (UPI)—Officials have learned why all the telephones at the national times ring simultaneously.

Cossacks Back; Find No Beards

WASHINGTON (AP)—A band of bearded Cossacks, who fled Russia rather than shave, has returned in hirsute glory after a century of exile in Turkey.

The sword-wielding horsemen of the steppes sought refuge in 1855 when Tsar Nicholas I banned their beards.

The expatriates abandoned prosperous farms recently because the practice of intermarriage made it increasingly difficult for many young people to find suitable mates.

On returning, the exiles found that beards and even mustaches have almost disappeared from their old villages, and horses belong to the Soviet collective farms where most Cossacks now work.

The traditional boast—"One hundred Cossacks: one hundred horses, one hundred beards"—is dead.

Cossacks are not an ethnic group, but a pastoral people who developed a warlike way of life. Their name derives from a Turkish word meaning adventurer, or disturber of the peace, and they have been living up to it for 500 years.

The first Cossacks were serfs who fled from harsh masters, sentries who deserted frontier posts, daring men seeking adventure, fugitive criminals, and an occasional Tatar escaping from repressive rule.

Most were Ukrainians and Russians with a sprinkling of Poles, Lithuanians, Scandinavians, Serbs, Germans and Turks.

The common bond that united all Cossacks was a love of freedom and disdain for social conventions.

A cherished proverb said: "The Cossack does not remove his cap even before the Tsar."

Wakes Up to See Dual Carnapping

LANSING (AP)—Carl Remus of Lansing woke up and looked out his window at 3 a.m. Wednesday and saw both his cars being driven from his garage.

He promptly called police. Patrolmen came to his home and as they questioned Remus about details, he saw one of the cars whiz past the house.

Police pursued the car, found both autos parked around the corner from Remus' house and later caught two youths who admitted the thefts.

The youths said they got the idea for the theft when they heard Remus left the keys in his car, officers reported.

World Chetist Champ Wins Top Red Award

MOSCOW (AP)—Yevgeni Andreyev, holder of the world record for delayed-opening parachute jumps—nearly 16 miles—was awarded yesterday the title of Merited Master of Sports, highest sports award in the Soviet Union.

Andreyev jumped from a balloon Nov. 1 from 83,502 feet, falling 80,360 feet before opening his parachute. Pyotr Dolgov, who jumped with him, was killed.

During the 1961-62 season, 50 three-game series of 800 or more were recorded by men bowlers.

Noisy Crow Ranks as All-American Bird

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Even bird watchers seldom put crows, which flock so rascally at winter roasts, on their lists of favorite feathered friends.

These eggheads of the bird world are living proof that a combination of brains and crime can be made to pay. Moreover, they seem to know to a fraction the range of a farmer's gun.

Crows are born kleptomaniacs. No known defenses keep them from trespassing—into grain fields and gardens. Crows steal the eggs of more beloved birds with lesser IQ's. They have been called, by an Audubon official, the "Pigeon Birth Control League" of the U.S. Capital.

Henry Ward Beecher, the 19th-century American clergyman, said that if people wore feathers and wings, very few of them would be clever enough to be crows.

Every hand has been raised against the crow, yet it thrives: common crow and share its amazing ability to adjust to changes in food, foliage, enemies, and the elements.

THE CROW CLOSE TO BEING THE ALL-AMERICAN BIRD. Possibly 10,000 people recognize the crow instantly, for one who has even seen a bald eagle, the national emblem. The crow, unlike the eagle, is not in the slightest danger of extinction.

A quarter of the world's 400 varieties of crows and jays flourish in the Western Hemisphere, but no one knows how this Old World family got here. The earliest settlers found that crows had preceded them and were known by special names to all Indian tribes.

Widest ranging is the common or Eastern crow (Corvus brachyrhynchos brachyrhynchos), powerfully built bird about 19 inches long with jet-black plumage and a stout beak.

The fish crow is slightly smaller. Most varieties look like the

ROOKERIES EXPAND

Crow rookeries expand to enormous size in winter. The birds call less attention to themselves in nesting season, usually March, April, or May.

A young crow is all appetite; it will eat anything. No less than 656 different items have been identified in the diet of crows.

Crows serve as scavengers, and they help control insect pests. But it is the evil they do that lives after them. Crows have been observed working in pairs to pillage robin nests.

One crow taunts the parent robins into pursuing him while the other swoops down quietly on the fledglings. Then the partners meet in a rendezvous tree to share the take.

Brunei the Size of Delaware

It's Swamp, Jungle on Island of Borneo

WASHINGTON—Armed uprisings in Brunei, on the island of Borneo, spotlight one of the world's richest jungle sultanates. Sandwiched between Sarawak and North Borneo, Brunei covers 2,226 square miles of swamp and jungle.

Sultan Sir Omar Ali Saifuddin rules the Delaware-size state, though Great Britain is responsible for foreign affairs, security and defense.

It is this British control that nationalist insurgents are resisting.

Oil deposits along its South China Sea coastline have given Brunei enormous wealth for its size. The Seria oilfield is the largest producer in the British Commonwealth, next to those of Canada.

TRAFFIC JAMS

The capital, Brunei Town, once a cluster of ramshackle huts, now has concrete-glass office buildings, paved roads, and traffic jams. An Oriental shopping center sells automatic washers and hi-fi sets.

A new, golden-domed mosque with marble walls is equipped with floodlights and an express elevator to the top of the 200-foot-high minaret.

Oil revenues—$40 million annually—support an extensive welfare system for the country's 84,000 people. Pensions are given to the aged, infirm, insane, blind, orphans and widows.

The state provides free schooling and hospital care. There is almost no personal taxation.

NO MALARIA

Malaria, once a scourge in this land of sluggish, crocodile-infested streams, has been virtually eliminated, says the National Geographic Society.

Malays and Chinese form the bulk of Brunei's population; most live in and about the capital.

Some homes are on stilts in the suburb of Kampong Ayer, the "water village" begun when early settlers decided it was easier to build over the water than to clear the jungle.

Pontiac Chapter 'Gets to Work'

Women Voters Selling Constitution

By JIM DYGBERT

Here's a tip for the young man with executive ambitions. "When you want a job done, give it to ladies who have made up their minds to get to work."

These are the words with which Lillian H. Davidson explains the energy of League of Women Voters members in their all-out drive to sell voters on the proposed new state constitution.

whose members found themselves up to their chic hats in meetings, pamphlets and posters after making up their minds to get to work.

The ladies have made themselves available to speak on behalf of the document at any meeting, whether public or private, formal or informal. And they've been getting plenty of dates.

MANY REQUESTS

Since getting their campaign under way in earnest Jan. 1, they've been requested to appear at meetings of Parent Teacher associations, business and professional women's clubs and an assortment of other groups.

They never forget to take along their charts and literature pointing out the document's good points, which they claim far outweigh its bad points.

They also are in demand at "coffee" put on by small neighborhood groups interested in the league's stand on the issue.

When not dashing to or from a meeting, they're tacking up posters, distributing pamphlets or mailing out literature.

Between and between, they're getting ready for a final onslaught during the last week of March, a house-to-house distribution of 4,000 flyers urging a "yes" vote on the constitution April 1.

HARDEST WORKERS

Of the 60 or so ladies in the Pontiac chapter, about a dozen who "really stick to it" when they get enthused are the hardest campaign workers, according to Miss Davidson.

They work directly under the leadership of Julia Delzell, of 59 Monroe St., chairman of the League's "State Item-1," which includes support for the new document.

Some 3,500 members of the state league will take part in an estimated 1,000 meetings regarding the constitution throughout Michigan, predicts State LWN President Mrs. Margaret Fersch of Dearborn.

A nonpartisan, nonprofit voluntary organization devoted to studying local, state and national problems and supporting programs it deems in the public interest, the league went on record in favor of the new constitution after a vote of its membership last year.

Members supported the document despite failure to get 12 of the provisions they wanted written into it. They did get 26 of their recommendations.

The stand has plunged the ladies into more controversy than they ordinarily encounter. Democrats have challenged their nonpartisanship because Republicans also support the new constitution.

Miss Davidson says two or three of the Pontiac chapter's members have left to work against adoption of the document. About the controversy in general, Miss Davidson says, "We don't mind."

Seven other Oakland County LWN chapters — Birmingham, Rochester, West Bloomfield, Southfield, Oak Ridge, Royal Oak, and Ferndale-Pleasant Ridge—are equally energetic in the campaign.

If the job the ladies have accomplished is any indication, voter approval of the proposed constitution appears to be a cinch.

GIVEN CREDIT

Although they waste no time putting themselves on the back, league members throughout the state are given most of the credit for bringing about a revised constitution for voters to look at.

They surmounted many frustrations and overwhelming odds to do it.

The ladies began their uphill fight for a constitutional convention in 1955. Their campaign for approval of a convention call in 1958 was defeated by a requirement that a majority of those going to the polls approve it. Many who voted for governor failed to vote on calling a convention.

But the ladies were undaunted.

In 1960, they cosponsored a successful petition drive to put an amendment on the ballot that would change the vote requirement that beat them and put a new con-con call up to voters. They accounted for 209,000 of the 332,000 petition signatures.

Then they joined with 19 other organizations to help win approval of the amendment in 1960 and to win again in the April 1961 balloting on a constitutional convention.

Whatever the outcome April 1, the ladies will get little rest afterwards, according to Miss Davidson. They will still have plenty to keep them busy as they concentrate on taxation, urban renewal and a host of other problems.

BANDWAGON — In this case it's a station wagon decked out in an eye-catching sign urging adoption of the proposed new state constitution. Owner of the car, Mrs. Francis McGinty, 4719 Crescent Point, Waterford Township, is heading for a meeting loaded down with signs and pamphlets.

NY Papers Get R20 Office Closes Another Pact as Job Nearly Done

Stereotypers Settle, Guild Gets Last Offer

The R20 urban renewal site of 108 Cottage St. has been closed—a victim of its own ability to get things done.

The office, established in the early stages of urban renewal development, shut its doors forever this week. There's practically nothing left for the office to accomplish.

It will be demolished along with other structures marked for clearance in the R20 area.

It once was a busy place, the center of urban renewal property management, relocation and rehabilitation transactions.

PROGRESSED WELL

These phases of the R20 program have progressed so well that they will henceforth be handled in the urban renewal office at City Hall, according to City Manager Robert A. Stierer.

To date, 95 per cent of the homes to be rehabilitated are either in the process of being improved or have already been completed. Homeowners have spent $300,000 to rehabilitate homes in the R20 project so far.

According to Roland Bourke, assistant urban renewal director, Pontiac's rehabilitation program is one of the best ever displayed in a federally assisted urban renewal program in this country.

"This is about the toughest part of urban renewal to sell," he noted, "because the total rehabilitation cost must be borne by the homeowner."

"Many cities have encountered very lax cooperation than we have, and our citizens are to be congratulated. There's much more desire here for individual neighborhood improvement than we ever expected."

Bourke said that the national average for rehabilitation programs in urban renewal areas is about 50 per cent. That is, of the homes found to need improving, about 50 per cent of the owners agree to make the improvements.

Relocation of families and businesses in the R20 project is also about 95 per cent completed now. Only about 11 families, a dozen businesses and eight individuals remain to be relocated.

There were 300 families, 80 individuals and 100 businesses designated for relocation in the original R20 plan.

Relocation payments to persons in both the R20 and R44 projects now total $81,000.

To Open Bids on Road Work

Highway Dept. Plans M218 Modernization

Bids for an estimated $610,000 modernization project on Pontiac Trail (M218) will be opened April 3 by the State Highway Department.

The modernization will involve a stretch of highway from Commerce Road to the I-96 Freeway at Wixom.

Bids also will be opened for 17.5 miles of traffic-sign installation on the I-75 Freeway now under construction from 13-Mile Road to Walton Boulevard just outside Pontiac. Estimated cost of this project is $90,000.

The M218 project includes widening of 12.3 miles of roadway from 20 to 24 feet, new paving, elimination of sharp curves and lowering of steep grades.

The project is intended to provide a safer connection between Pontiac and the I-96 Freeway.

The road will be removed from the state trunkline system and returned to Oakland County Road Commission jurisdiction after the work is completed, according to the highway department. In the past, the road commission has maintained the road with State Highway Department funds.

The highway department will open bids April 3 for a total of 13 projects in the state estimated to cost about $5.5 million. Included is construction of 3.1 miles of I-94 Freeway near Port Huron.

Members supported the document despite failure to get 12 of the provisions they wanted written into it. They did get 26 of their recommendations.

The stand has plunged the ladies into more controversy than they ordinarily encounter. Democrats have challenged their nonpartisanship because Republicans also support the new constitution.

Miss Davidson says two or three of the Pontiac chapter's members have left to work against adoption of the document. About the controversy in general, Miss Davidson says, "We don't mind."

Seven other Oakland County LWN chapters — Birmingham, Rochester, West Bloomfield, Southfield, Oak Ridge, Royal Oak, and Ferndale-Pleasant Ridge—are equally energetic in the campaign.

If the job the ladies have accomplished is any indication, voter approval of the proposed constitution appears to be a cinch.

Although they waste no time putting themselves on the back, league members throughout the state are given most of the credit for bringing about a revised constitution for voters to look at.

They surmounted many frustrations and overwhelming odds to do it.

Muskegon Manager Renamed to State Unit

LANSING (AP) — George Liddle, city manager of Muskegon, yesterday was reappointed to the State Water Resources Commission by Gov. George Romney.

Liddle is serving on the commission at the present time without Senate confirmation, for a term expiring in 1965.

He represents municipalities on the seven-member commission.

Sell Section of River Bed for $1

The City Commission has approved the sale of 1,285 square feet of the Clinton River bed to the Michigan State Highway Department for $1.

It couldn't sell the river — that keeps moving — so it sold the bed.

Included in the deal is a small triangular parcel of city owned land at Mill Street and Milbourne Place. Both parcels were in the proposed perimeter road right-of-way.

A portion of the Clinton will flow under the perimeter road near East Huron Street.

Rail Strike, U.S. Intervention Possible

CHICAGO (AP) — A nationwide railroad strike and quick White House intervention appeared possible today after the collapse of railroad-union negotiations on the featherbedding issue.

Just 90 minutes after Wednesday's bargaining session opened, a conference of representatives of the five operating labor unions and the railroads broke down. H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, said the carrier representatives walked out of the meeting.

BLAMES 'THEM'

"We did not leave the bargaining table," he said. "They did."

We are ready to negotiate whenever the railroads make up their minds to engage in true collective bargaining.

"We went into the conference with the hope that the carriers would be willing to bargain honestly," he said. "We found they wouldn't."

James E. Wolfe, chief management negotiator, said: "I don't think that anybody walked out. We told them we were disappointed and that we thought they were stalling."

Wolfe announced that the railroads will act as soon as possible to make sweeping changes in the work rules to eliminate what they call featherbedding. The carriers first notified the unions of the changes in 1959.

200,000 MEMBERS

The union, representing 200,000 members, has stated that such action would trigger a strike.

Gilbert would not say flatly that adoption of sweeping rules changes would bring a walkout. "We'll know what to do if the railroads put the rules changes into effect," he said.

Wolfe said the breakdown in negotiations, the third, should lead to a fact-finding board by President Kennedy, which would delay any strike for at least 60 days.

At stake are 65,000 jobs and call featherbedding. The carriers

12 Striking Choir Boys Slip Demand an Octave

ST. IVES, England (UPI) — Twelve choir boys, aged 9 to 12, at Halesworth Parish Church have amended their week-old "no-pay, no song" strike.

They accepted a six-penny fee for each practice or service they attend.

Ancient Rome Just Like Today

Travelers Stopped at Motels, Read Books

WASHINGTON — Ancient Roman travelers stopped at motels, complained about the food, bought paperback books, spent beyond their means, and in general behaved like 20th-century Americans on the road.

But the Romans had a few exceptional habits. They ran the risk of being sold into slavery and for practicing cannibalism unwillingly.

Roman highways stretched from Scotland to the Sahara and from western Spain to the Euphrates.

Before the Roman Empire declined and fell, it had built 49,635 miles of first-rate roads.

A Roman rode in the most luxurious carriage he could afford.

The philosopher Seneca once took a trip in a compact model, but the State had to admit it felt wretched all the way.

PARCHMENT BOOKS

On the road, Seneca and other scholars perused the ancient equivalent of paperbacks—parchment books that were more convenient to carry than the ordinary papyrus scrolls.

Some wealthy travelers slept in their carriages or in tents, foreshadowing modern campers. Others stayed in expensive inns. Strabo, the well-traveled Greek geographer, recommended to his readers several inns where the food was excellent.

Along the major roads were mansions, rowdy lodging places where a Roman could pull up his chariot and spend the night. The Roman counterparts of traveling salesmen liked these primitive motels, but for the more sedate they could be sheer misery.

WATERED WINE

Innkeepers watered the wine, stuffed beds with rushes instead of feathers, and grossly overcharged.

They often were in league with highwaymen who seized wayfarers and sold them into slavery.

A well-beeled Roman never had to carry more than 50 denarii in cash because banks issued travelers' checks, albeit at the considerable fee of 12 per cent of their value.

Julius Caesar was concerned about traffic congestion. Two thousand years before New York came into being, he banned parking in Rome's crowded garment district.

Cuba Burglars Face Penalty of Execution

HAVANA (AP)—Burglars who enter homes or use minors as accomplices will be liable to the death penalty, Prime Minister Fidel Castro announced Wednesday night.

In a speech televised from the steps of Havana University, he also announced that bail would no longer be allowed in felony and misdemeanor cases.

Castro denounced three Protestant fundamentalist sects—the Pentecostal Church, the Jehovah's Witnesses and the Gideon Evangelists—as agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

"To the firing wall! To the firing wall!" students chanted, but Castro announced no specific plans to take action against the churches.

Pope Asks Sharing of World Resources

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII appealed today to all men of good will to work for better use and better sharing of the world's resources.

He spoke at a private audience for 30 world leaders in science and sociology who are in Rome to draft an appeal for a united fight against hunger.

"May this world week for the fight against hunger—and the approaching world food congress in Washington—be a call and a stimulant to all men of good will," the Pope said.

Won't Close on Sunday

HASTINGS (P)—Supervisors of Barry County voted 20-2 yesterday to adopt a resolution exempting the county from observing the state's Sunday closing law.

Junior Editors Quiz on PATRIOTS

QUESTION: Who were the Sons of Liberty?

ANSWER: Before the American Revolution, England tried to tax her prosperous colonies in order to support her armies. The colonists were forced to pay duties on needed imports such as sugar, coffee, cloth, and this made them angry.

They felt if they were to be taxed, the money should go to their own governing bodies, instead of to England where they had no representation in Parliament. The cry went up, "Taxation without representation is tyranny!"

The crowning insult came with the Stamp Act of 1765. Stamps had to be purchased (1) and placed on all newspapers and legal documents (2), even on playing cards. Now the colonists were furious (3). In Virginia, Patrick Henry made a fiery address (4).

Groups of citizens called the "Sons of Liberty" were organized in different colonies to keep the flame of protest alive. When British soldiers cut down a "Liberty Pole" put up by American patriots, they were attacked by a Sons of Liberty group.

Later, another group tossed a shipment of tea on which the British had put a heavy duty, into the sea. Acts such as these emboldened the colonies to break entirely with England.

FOR YOU TO DO: In a later speech delivered in Old St. John's Church in Richmond, Va., in 1773, Patrick Henry made a famous remark which resounded throughout America. Can you find out what it was?

Life of a Plant Gatherer Can Be Full of Peril

WASHINGTON—The life of a botanist may be more perilous than the gathering of plant specimens suggests.

The recent death of the eminent plant explorer Dr. Joseph F. Rock recalls his hairbreadth escapes from death in the primitive western regions of China during the 1920s.

The country was torn by civil war, with Communists, Nationalists and other elements jockeying for power. The rugged Chinese interior was a battleground for struggles between war lords and demon-leaving local chiefs.

It was infested by bandits, who looted defenseless villages and constantly attacked travelers and traders.

Two of Dr. Rock's expeditions (1923-24 and 1927-30) were sponsored by the National Geographic Society. Reporting on the first of these in the September 1925 National Geographic Magazine, he told of being trapped by bandits in the funeral chamber of an old temple in a small settlement north of Yunnanfu.

While the small army he had hired for protection kept the brigands at bay, the explorer sat amid coffins, with two 45-caliber pistols in hand, and his precious plant collection nearby.

By morning the bandits had disappeared, though Dr. Rock noticed the heads of several hanging from poles outside the village.

Military authorities then controlled that part of Yunnan Province, but it was not easy to distinguish between regular soldiers and robbers.

One of Dr. Rock's own relatives was later headed by a chief who had been a notorious outlaw before joining the authorities. His influence in brigand circles made him a valuable escort.

Dr. Rock explored Southeast Asia for more than 20 years. His quest took him into deep forests and across bleak treeless wastes and flowering meadows.

He witnessed weird Buddhist rites in lonely lamaseries, was welcomed and feasted by friendly natives, and once met a blood-chilling scene of massacre in a Tibetan village that had been raided by enemies.

From the hills of Burma he brought back seedlings of the chaumogra tree whose oil is used to treat leprosy. Among the thousands of plants he collected in China and other Asian lands were hundreds of varieties of rhododendrons and a long-sought, blight-resisting chestnut tree.

When he died in Honolulu at the age of 79, Dr. Rock left behind an impressive list of contributions to world knowledge.

'1-2-3-4'—Tape Runs Machines Using Numbers

NORWALK, Calif. (P)—Numerically controlled machine tools operated by punched tapes are among the radical changes in the machine tool industry which has caused a "second industrial revolution," according to Paul Henry, chairman of the metals division at Cerritos College.

"Now many machine operations are programmed on a punched tape somewhat similar to a piano player roll," Henry explained. "A tape reader supplies commands to the machine."

The college is offering an evening course in "Fundamentals of Numerical Control."

British Short of Marinas

LONDON (P)—The British boat industry is experiencing the kind of marina shortage that threatened a couple of years ago to throttle the boating boom in the United States. The Duke of Edinburgh, a yachting enthusiast, recently called attention to the problem.

Post Office Shut by Angry Owner; Gets His Money

CAPETOWN, South Africa (P)—An irate man stormed into the village post office in Bloubergstrand near here and ordered the astonished staff out into the street.

The staff—consisting of one man, the postmaster—obeyed and the man, locked the office door and stalked off.

For the next four hours Bloubergstrand was cut off from the world except by the coast road. Telephones were silent.

Villagers who wanted to send telegrams or collect mail gathered bewildered outside the locked office.

The angry man was A. A. Strydom, who owns the post office building.

He declared that for eight months the Post Office had not paid him a penny of the agreed rent—R30 ($30) a month.

His drastic action brought results. Within four hours the money was paid, the office unlocked and Bloubergstrand was on the map again.

Data Processors Aid Ancestor Seekers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—The state library has turned to modern data-processing methods to give additional help to those interested in tracing their Ohio ancestors.

Names of approximately 90,000 Ohioans counted in the U.S. Census of 1820 are being arranged alphabetically.

State librarian Walter Brahm says these will be put on punch cards and run off in lists showing county of residence in 1820 and other personal information.

There's Gold in Them Thar Hills, By Gum!

LONG ISLAND, Kan. (P)—Bob Near has found profit in dirt near his home.

In spreading the dirt with a bulldozer he found two $20 gold pieces, dated 1881 and 1891. Their value as collectors' items is estimated at $55 each.

About the same time a neighbor, Johnnie Kneubel, found $20 gold coin in a load of dirt he had borrowed from Near's land.

The dirt had been left when Near tore down a house to build a new one.

Close point to a couple who came to this community from England near the turn of the century. They built the house which Near recently dismantled.

Boost Own Salaries

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)—Despite warnings of possible reprisals at the polls, House members yesterday passed and sent to the Senate a bill boosting the annual pay of legislators from $1,800 to $3,000.

U.S. imports of cotton linters, mostly felting qualities, amounted to 123,000 bales in the first 11 months of the 1960-61 season.

Photography Brings Art World Into Home

BY IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The use of photography in the realm of art has shown some ingenious applications in recent years.

The most recent example is a current publishing undertaking whereby famous art masterpieces are reproduced in 35mm color slides which are enclosed in a book explaining a specific school of art.

The combination of authoritative book text, color slides and a hand viewer makes it easy for anybody, anywhere, to see, learn about and enjoy fine art in his own home at his own convenience.

At hand are the first two volumes in a series of 19 titles which will be published by McGraw-Hill Book Co., New York, called "The Color Slide Book of the World's Art" ($8.95 each).

The first one deals with "Impressionist Painting" and the second with "Dutch Painting, 17th Century."

Very shortly, "Italian Painting of the High Renaissance" and "Early Flemish Painting" will be issued and other schools of art and other periods are presently in preparation.

Each book contains 24 color slides and a collapsible cardboard hand viewer.

The slides are protected by a double cardboard cover, half of them in front and the other 12 in the back of the book.

Each one fits into a transparent pocket and has the name of the artist and its title imprinted, as well as the museum in which the original painting hangs.

The text in each volume has been written by an art authority and is illustrated with black-and-white reproductions.

This is followed by a commentary and description of each of the 24 color slides, including its original dimensions.

Thus, by projecting the slides in a normal 35mm slide projector, many of the paintings can be reproduced in actual size... if the screen is large enough.

DUTCH MASTERS

Emil R. Meijer, director of the educational services of the Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, Holland, is the authority who discusses the Dutch paintings of the 17th Century.

And among the artists whose masterpieces are reproduced in color slides are: Rembrandt, Frans Hals, Jan Vermeer, Jan Van Goyen, Jacob Van Ruisdael and Gerard Dou.

I've come across several other applications of color slide art on a personal level because it is such a convenient, economical and accurate way to show paintings.

In one case, an art lover who had vacationed abroad several years ago made the acquaintance of several Italian artists whose work he admired.

Through the years, the artists photographed their finished paintings and sent color slides to their American friend.

He bought the ones that suited his fancy and thus, through photography, eliminated the uncertainty and expense that the transaction might have been otherwise.

HELPED THE SALE

In an other case, a neighbor called in an artist to paint a mural in the home.

To show examples of his style and rendition of different subject matter, the artist showed a series of slides of work he had done in other homes.

The color slides made it easy to reach a decision and clinched the deal.

It was easier, certainly, than hauling original paintings around for the artist or visiting various homes to study the results for my neighbor.

In any event, while a home may not be a castle, it can, through color slides, be an art museum.

U.S. Experts See No Real Agreement Between K, Mao

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Red Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung may yet succeed in silencing their public quarrel behind a facade of Communist unity, but U.S. experts are skeptical that any real agreement can be achieved.

It was announced Wednesday that Mao has invited Khrushchev to a meeting in Peking to discuss the bitter dispute. Alternatively, the Chinese leader suggested that lower level talks could be held in either Peking or Moscow.

Authorities here who have followed the conflict through hundreds of thousands of words since it came into the open about three years ago find it hard to believe that Khrushchev can accept Mao's invitation to the Red Chinese capital any time in the near future without risking a serious loss of face.

BASIC DIFFERENCES

The issues involved in the dispute arise out of the contradictory national interests of the Soviet Union and Red China. They are so basic, no expert in the U.S. government sees any prospect that the differences can be resolved.

If the Red Chinese had given any indication that the way was open for a settlement and that they were prepared to accept Soviet leadership of the whole Communist bloc, Khrushchev could go to Peking expecting to score a triumph. If he goes on Mao's terms, experts here agree, his action will be construed in other Communist countries and in Communist parties over the world as a sign of weakness on his part, and evidence that the Soviet Union needs the Chinese—to return to the fold—more than the Chinese need the Soviet Union.

If that were indeed the impression created, Communist leaders sensitive to shifts in the power balance inside the Red camp might be inclined to pay more attention in the future to Peking's line and less to the Kremlin's.

One of the forces working in favor of some restoration is that the Sino-Soviet split has created confusion in the parties of Western Europe and the Western Hemisphere. For example, it is believed here that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro is ideologically lined up with the Red Chinese though he is dependent for military and economic support on the Soviet Union.

The exchanges which led to the decision to hold some kind of meeting apparently began with a letter from Khrushchev to the Chinese last Feb. 21. On March 9 the Chinese replied, agreeing that a meeting was necessary.

Experts here believe that the recent intensification of the Sino-Soviet argument is further confirmation of their view that while both Khrushchev and Mao would like to have unity neither one is willing to yield any important point in order to get it.

The reasoning behind this belief is that the issues involved cannot easily be compromised without sacrificing national interests. It is undoubtedly true, for example, that the Chinese want no-clear force. Khrushchev has never been willing to give such help, which would result in building a powerful military strength on his own borders.

The Chinese badly need economic assistance from the Soviet Union. In recent years they have had to spend large quantities of their foreign exchange to buy wheat from countries like Canada and difficulties, and, while it could give China some assistance, it could not meet the whole Chinese requirement.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Joanne Dru and contractor George Rodgers Pierson plan to wed Saturday.

Pierson, 40, and Miss Dru, 41, took out a marriage license Wednesday.

She was previously married to singer Dick Haymes and actor John Ireland. She has three children by her marriage to Haymes. Pierson has been married once.

Utah Solons Repeal Law Against Intermarriage

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—The Utah House of Representatives passed a bill Wednesday to repeal Utah's law prohibiting marriages between whites and persons of dark-skinned races.

Previously approved by the Senate, the bill now goes to the governor. The House vote was 52-6.

Negro Parents File Desegregation Suit

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A suit asking total desegregation of the High Points, N.C., school system has been filed in U.S. Middle District Court here by the parents of eight Negro students.

The suit, filed Wednesday, asked that all students, teachers and other school personnel be assigned without regard to race. It names the High Point Board of Education as defendant.

The plaintiffs claim the High Point board has used the State Pupil Assignment Act to maintain discriminatory practices.

Iowa Pensions Doubled

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Gov. Harold Hughes signed a bill yesterday to double the pensions paid to retired public employees and schoolteachers.

Adlai Denies U.N. 'Instrument of Communists'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says there is no basis for fears "the United Nations is somehow the instrument of Communist manipulation."

As a matter of fact, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said, whatever influence the Soviet Union had with the Afro-Asian bloc "diminished perceptibly last year" when Red China invaded India and Soviet Premier Khrushchev bowed to U.S. demands for the removal of Soviet missiles from Cuba.

Even in Cuba, Stevenson told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee Wednesday, Soviet political influence appears to be diminishing, despite its "life and death hold" over Fidel Castro's military defenses and economy.

Misjudged on Number at Wedding

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: A friend of the family was recently married, and my husband and I were invited to the wedding and reception. On the day of the wedding, which happened to be a dreary, rainy Sunday, we dressed and drove 15 miles to attend the ceremony.

We arrived about 10 minutes before the time set for the wedding only to find the church filled to capacity. We were both very much annoyed at having to stand and my husband was not for leaving right then and there.

A: We're right in feeling that it was very improper for the bride's family to send out more invitations than the church could seat.

A: It is not unusual to invite more people to the church than it can seat because rarely are all those invited able to come to the wedding. In the situation you describe, the bride's parents evidently misjudged the proportion of those who would come.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Girl Scout Program Is Being Revamped is to prepare girl scout volunteers for the program change to become effective in September. Instead of the present three groups there will be four.

The four-age-level program is to establish better continuity from beginning to end of the 7-17 age range of the scouts.

Service is still high on the list of requisites for good scouting. The organization in this area has just completed a year of service to the children at Pontiac State Hospital.

Last summer 16 senior scouts were delegates either to the Senior Roundup in Buton Bay, Vt., or the alternate roundup in Wisconsin.

ACTIVE GROUP
Ideas of the senior troops are exchanged at the monthly meeting of the senior planning board which has representatives from each senior troop in the council.

Recent activities of this age group have included a ski trip and a party for teen-age girls at Pontiac State Hospital. Plans are under way for a weekend at Camp Sherwood in May.

Exploring vocations is another part of their program and 27 senior scouts will attend a conference in Flint this weekend.

This week is also Girl Scout Cookie Week. Profits from sale of the cookies supports Camp Sherwood, the camp owned and operated by Northern Oakland County Council near Lapeer.

Leaders are learning how to handle the new four-level program by attending training and discussion sessions. Mrs. Spencer Libby, Square Lake Road (left) and Mrs. George Beauchamp, Kuhn Street, talk over the essentials that a good girl scout leader should know.

Group Hears Two Studies

Mrs. Donald McCandless was chairman for a meeting of the Marbach group of the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Donald McCall on Fernbarry Drive. Mrs. Kenneth Nagley was cohostess.

A Bible study on the church and the prophets was given by Mrs. Robert Anderson. Mrs. Guy Duffield presented a missionary study.

Mrs. William Vaughn was received into active membership.

Children's Theater Group to Visit 6 Pontiac Schools

Six Pontiac schools will be visited by the children's theater group of the Birmingham Junior League Players. Under the direction of Mrs. Stephen Booth they will present, "The Farmer and the Fox."

Club Discusses Business, Turns to Bridge Game

Members played bridge following a brief business meeting of the Pontiac Newcomers Club Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Mert Jennings opened her Wenonah Drive home for the meeting with Mrs. Lawrence Dupree as guest.

The next meeting will be a musicale at the home of Mrs. William Emerson on West Iroquois Road on the evening of March 27.

To Discuss 'Shake-Up' in Nurses' Association

Esther Sherrod, RN will be the speaker at the March 19 meeting of the Oakland County Nurses' Association at Beaumont Hospital at 7:30 p.m. Her topic will be "Shake-Up" in the American Nurses' Association.

Following her completion of a BA degree from Montclair Teachers' College of New Jersey, Mrs. Sherrod taught in secondary schools.

JOINED FACULTY

She attained a B.S. degree from Wayne State University college of nursing and joined the faculty of McAuley's School of Practical Nursing at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Shortly after joining the school, she became director.

Organization Sets Plans for Dinner

New officers assumed their duties at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Pontiac area branch of the Transatlantic Brides and Parents Association. The business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James Turner.

Plans were made for an English-style "Fish and Chip" dinner to be held in April.

Guest for the evening was Mrs. A. J. Harding. Anyone wishing to become a member may contact Mrs. Milton Ott or Mrs. Gordon Gray for information.

To Crown Queen

It was announced at the Tuesday meeting of the Fashionette Club at the Adah Shelly Library that the coronation of the queen will be held at next week's meeting.

sent, "The Farmer and the Fox."

Based on an ancient Chinese legend by Lois Dean, the play revolves around the adventures of "White Fox" who is trying to regain the favor of the powerful goddess "Niang Niang."

Schools included in the tour are Bagley, Bethune, Franklin, Central, Whittier and Wilson.

Director of the show is Mrs. John K. Armstrong. Properties are handled by Mrs. Andrew J. Shepard. Sets were designed by Mrs. Fredrick C. Shorey Jr.

She held this position until she resigned to devote her time to studying for a masters degree in Nursing Service Administration at Wayne State.

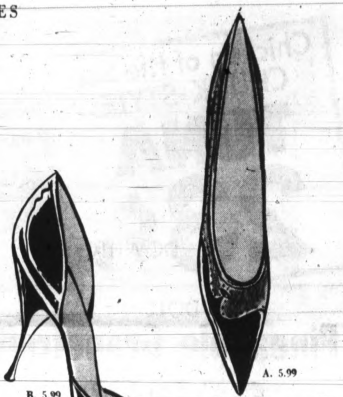

Mrs. Sherrod has served as president of the Oakland district and vice president of the Michigan State Nurses Association. All registered nurses are invited to attend the meeting.

During Girl Scout Week the girls in green are taking orders for girl scout cookies. In the background Rachel Merkovitz, Pine Ridge Road; Carol Hietanen, Mallard Court; and Linda Holland, Cedar-

Dear, Sweet Adorable Mother Has Absolutely No Style

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my brother is 18 and our problem is our mother. She is the sweetest, best-natured, most adorable little mother-but she has such poor taste in clothes that sometimes we are embarrassed for her.

She's a little plump but refuses to wear a girdle because it's uncomfortable. Every dress she owns has a full skirt or lots of pleats. When she goes to church, women's clubs meetings or an afternoon tea she always wears rhinestone earrings and a rhinestone necklace.

I've told her that rhinestones are for after five, and not for older women, but she says she LIKES rhinestones! I even show her pictures of smartly-dressed matrons in fashion magazines, but she's not impressed. We hate to hurt her feelings, but want her to look nice. How?

LOVING DAUGHTER: DEAR LOVING DAUGHTER: If you have suggested improvements and pointed out smartly dressed women in fashion magazines and your mother remains "unimpressed" — accept her for what she is: A sweet, good-natured, adorable little mother who loves rhinestones, pleated skirts and comfort. And don't be embarrassed.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a man signed FLORIDA wrote to you saying he was 67 years old and wanted a wife about 48 or 50. What makes him think he is entitled to a woman that young?

If that's the way he figures, a man 25 years old wouldn't want a girl over six! These old curmudgeons give me a pain. Why can't a 67-year-old man be satisfied with a 65-year-old woman?

A YOUNG WOMAN OF 65

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is too silly to answer, because I have been trying to find the answer to this question for a long time and you are my only hope.

Does the groom carry the bride through the door of the motel on their honeymoon?

Or is it the door of the apartment or house where they are going to live that she gets carried through?

CURIOUS DEAR CURIOUS: Traditionally, the groom carries the bride over the threshold of their home. But let's face it—once a bride, who cares?

CONFIDENTIAL TO BETTY: You're offering him lip service. He's interested in lips. There's no future in it for either of you.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby in care of The Pontiac Press.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar for Abby's new booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Women-Only Program Set

The Ladies Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold a program for women only March 19 at 8 p.m. in the church basement.

A lecture on cancer will be given and two films entitled "A Chance to Live" and "A Breath of Fresh Air" will be shown.

Women from St. Trinity, St. Stephens and Grace Lutheran churches will be guests.

Patio Design Branch Topic

"Patio Design" will be the topic of speaker Mrs. Claude A. Welles, Jr. of Birmingham at the meeting this evening of the Pine Lake Estates Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

Members will meet at the home of Mrs. Peter Thomas with Mrs. Robert Ruth and Mrs. Edward Ladenberger as hostesses.

Study Floor Care

A lesson on care of carpets and hard floors was given to the Friendly Neighbors Extension club when they met Wednesday at the Seeden

Street home of Mrs. Myron Bailey.

There are about 102.7 males to every 100 females in Australia, according to recent census estimates.

In for summer is the look of the embossed crocodile shortie in polished, glistening white. By Hansen, it's also available in black, dark brown or beige.

Woman Judge Lauds Contemporary Female

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The much maligned contemporary American woman has found an articulate defender in Los Angeles Municipal Judge Vaino Spencer.

"I react with a great deal of emotion," she said, "to the castigation of modern woman for her failure to live up to responsibilities."

"Think in terms of all that a modern wife and mother does today compared to what our mothers did. Not only is she running her home more efficiently, but she spends her spare time to the great advantage of the community in both civic and charitable work."

Judge Spencer — who is one of three Negro women jurists in the United States and the sole one in California — has been active in various legal, political and civic work in addition to her professional duties. In private life, she is married to a real estate broker, Lorenzo Spencer.

Judge Spencer, now 41, reached the bench by a round-about path. When she finished high school in 1938, she entered the real estate business in Los Angeles. She was a broker until 1947 when she decided to return to school.

"I never have been able to pinpoint why I went back to study law," she said. "I suppose association had something to do with it. A number of attorneys had been very close to our family."

She was graduated summa cum laude from Los Angeles City College in 1949 and received her law degree from Southwestern School of Law in 1952. She was a practicing attorney in 1961 when she was appointed to her present position by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

She said that one phase of civil work she never enjoyed was domestic relations. In divorce cases, oddly enough, she found herself representing more men than women.

She said that often when a couple has an argument of any consequence, one or the other will threaten divorce.

"They keep repeating this threat until sometimes they seek a divorce as a face-saving device because they have yelled divorce so often," she said.

Judge Spencer added a criticism of the male of the species.

"It seems to me the average male today does not want to assume responsibility," she said. "He feels completely inadequate to cope with the responsibilities that come with marriage."

U.S. Warns:
Don't Wear
Live Jewels

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department had stern advice today for persons who buy and wear decorated live beetles as costume jewelry: "Destroy them."

The department said several decorated live beetles have been intercepted at U.S. borders. Importation of such live insects is restricted, because they may escape and damage crops or forests.

The beetles are being sold as curios in Mexico. Beetles that have been seized were about an inch long and had small jewels glued to their backs. A chain is often glued to the beetle for fastening to the owner's clothing.

The two species most commonly used for "live brooches" are reported to feed on wood. They are not known to be present in this country.

Customs officials recently seized nearly 200 live, jeweled beetles in New York City. These beetles had been brought into the United States without authorization and were being sold in local bars.

Most Teens Favor Federal Aid for Aged

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth
Research, Inc.

There's one segment of the American public that's overwhelmingly and perhaps unexpectedly in favor of Medical Care for the Aged.

Nearly 70 per cent of teen-agers answering our latest nationwide opinion survey say medical care for the aging should be handled by the government.

Only 28 per cent prefer leave-

ing the problem up to private individuals.

As Marcia Reed, 15, of Oradell, N.J., explains, "The government is instituted to aid and protect its citizens."

"Care of the aged is every-one's responsibility," declares Jay Brady, 16, of New Hope, Pa.

DESERVING RECIPIENTS

However, one New Jersey girl qualified her opinion by saying there should be strict regulations to make sure deserving people get aid and the money is not squandered on those who can take care of themselves.

The minority view is represented by Lance R. Pledger, 16, of Corry, Pa. who says "Our government is becoming too socialized."

A surprisingly high percentage of the teen-agers, about three-quarters of the boys and more than three-fifths of the girls, report they have considered the possibility that they might have to care for their parents in later years.

David Clive, 15, of River Edge, N.J. says "I feel it is my responsibility (and my brothers') to care for them. Should the government sponsor medical care for the aged, it should cover those who can't afford or are incapable of caring for aging parents. I can."

Although they've thought about the possibility of this problem arising, about 68 per cent of the boys and 57 per cent of the girls don't think there is much chance they will really be called upon.

Apparently there is no decline in the devotion of today's youth to their parents, for ninety-five per cent of the teen-agers say they will gladly help their parents

if it becomes necessary. But most just don't think their parents ever will be dependent on them.

Ninety-three per cent have no definite plans for meeting the problem.

One rather dominant view among the youngsters is they will be glad to assist their elders but they don't want them living with them if it can possibly be avoided.

As a California girl says, "I feel it ruins a home to have grand-parents living in it and it's not going to be mine."

Want to taste their wares? Members of Pontiac Bethel 5, International Order of Job's Daughters, are sponsoring a smorgasbord Saturday. They're showing off a bit of their food. Donna

Chambers, Coleman Street, holds the cup; Eleanor Stuart, Stout Street, proudly displays a cake; and Edna Isenberg, Henderson Street, is ready to pour.

Bethel 5 to Sponsor Dinner Fete

Pontiac Bethel 5, International Order of Job's Daughters, will sponsor its biannual smorgasbord from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday in the First Federal Savings of Oakland club rooms.

Working with Edna Isenberg, poster chairman, are Linda Isenberg, Cheri Gay, Joy Carroll and Donna Wisniewski. Donna Chambers is in charge of tickets, which may be obtained from Bethel members or at the door.

Children under 5 years of age will be served without charge, with special prices for older children.

Brazilian Speaks on Native Land at XBB Meeting

South America was the study program for a meeting of Xi Beta Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Tuesday evening in the Coleman Street home of Mrs. Thomas Ogden. An exchange student from Brazil spoke on life in his native country.

Plans were discussed for the style show and card party Wednesday in the '300 Lounge.

Helen Bower, former Detroit newspaper columnist, will speak at the Founders Day banquet on April 24.

Collegians to Present Concert

The 41-voice Baldwin-Walace College Choir of Berea, Ohio, on its spring tour, will present a concert at 9:40 a.m., Wednesday in Pontiac Central High School auditorium.

Highlights will be the 20-voice women's chorus, accompanied by Karen Risberg, harpist, also a barbershop quartet.

The group makes occasional television appearances and has performed for meetings of the Music Educators National Conference and the National Music Teachers Organization. It takes part in the annual Bach Festival each May on campus.

Art Class Set for 6 Weeks at Pontiac 'Y'

The Pontiac YMCA announces a six-week art class called "Art for Fun" Tuesday mornings from 10 to 12 a.m. Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

Mrs. Raymond Ellsworth will teach beginners basic drawing and art media including pastels, charcoal, water colors and oils.

A nursery is available for those attending the day class.

Use Seed Pearls on Dress Gloves

Cotton gloves take on an expensive look with just a little extra expense. Sew a few seed pearls on them.

Trick Kids to Help

Hide a few treats in the dresser drawers of small children and tell them they can have anything they find that they can eat or play with, provided they rearrange everything neatly in the drawers. That's an easy way to get one chore done.

GEORGE'S DEPT. STORE JUST SAY: "Charge It"

Visits Painful Sins of Parents on His Son

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mr. Dobbs' parents taught him to pay his bills promptly.

They taught him this socially desirable lesson by evading payment of their bills as long as possible. As a child, Mr. Dobbs never broke on the first of any month—without the sound of a landlord hanging on the front door of his home.

He learned to avoid the shops of neighborhood merchants who were likely to pop out of their doors and call, "Hey, tell your Pop I want to see him."

He learned to shrink into himself at the whine in his mother's voice pleading with installment creditors.

He learned to eat uncooked meals without asking what had happened to the stove and to go to bed in darkness imposed by unpaid utility companies.

Today he takes much pride in his own A-1 credit rating and he heaps scorn on an 11-year-old son who has run up a $3 bill at the local stationers.

He speaks eloquently of the honest man who can look the world in the face because he doesn't owe it any money. He talks about "self-respect" and "responsibility." Then he makes Eddie open his toy bank and count out $3 in dimes and quarters to be delivered to the stationer.

NOT TALKING

But he isn't talking to Eddie. He is addressing the parents whose chronic indebtedness had filled his childhood with menace and humiliation. Unfortunately, he doesn't know this.

In Mr. Dobbs' memory, his irresponsible parents still survive in the character they gave themselves — kindly, hard-working folk abused by a greedy and unending world.

So he is compelled to imagine that his scorn for Eddie's indebtedness is interest in Eddie's moral future instead of knowing what it actually is — a still white-hot resentment at the pop and mom who made any indebtedness a nightmare of terror to him.

Had he known the truth, scorn would have been absent from his discipline of Eddie.

Our grand speeches demanding better virtue from children are seldom addressed to them. Much of the time they are directed to the painful misbehavior of our

Polly's Pointers

Fun Gift for a Girl

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — For little girls' birthday parties, I buy a child's handbag for about $1. With the second dollar to be spent, my 6-year-old daughter and I roam the 5 and 10 cent store to find things to go in the purse. For example, we might get a 10 cent comb, a 5 cent pack of facial tissues, a 10-cent hanky, a pack of chewing gum and a little mirror. This is fun for the little girl who gives the gift as well as for the recipient.

An inexpensive gift for toddlers learning how to button their clothes can be made from scraps of felt and odd buttons. Using the same idea as that used to make jointed paper dolls, cut the body, legs, head and so on of the animal from felt.

Sew buttons to one piece and have a buttonhole, to fit, on the part to be attached. I found these good for brownies and girl scouts to make.

GERALDINE

DEAR POLLY — My hat veils always looked wrinkled until I discovered this way to store my hats. I use a quart preserve jar and wrap tissue paper or a plastic dry cleaning bag round and round the top, shaping it to the size of the veil. Then I set the hat on top of the jar and pull the veil neatly down over the paper wrapping. The next time I wear the hat the veil is neat and unwrinkled.

MRS. JACK J. B.

DEAR POLLY—When you buy a child's dress that needs to be shortened a bit, take a tuck in the under side of the hem. Then when the child grows taller all you have to do is to pull the stitches out of the tuck and the original hem is already in place.

Use Sandpaper to Sharpen Scissors

Sharpen scissors by cutting sandpaper. Pasting a strip of sandpaper on the back of a ruler also works well for sharpening knives.

Use Hot Iron

If you need an extra wide piece of wax paper, seal two pieces together with a hot iron.

Paris Fashion Goes Oriental

Numerous oriental touches showed in the spring and summer fashion collections from Paris designers. Designer Lida Ascher did pantaloons that might have stepped out of a harem, or out of the stage wardrobe of a Thai dancer. The pantaloons were in floral silk prints.

New Car Sales Up in U.S. ... as Regular as Clockwork!

BY BEN PHILEAS
Automotive Writer

DETROIT—Sales records continue to be set and broken with such regularity in the auto industry that any change in the pattern is certain to be viewed with alarm.

So far, no change is in sight.

Regular as clockwork for the past 16 months new car sales in the United States have surpassed the comparable month of the previous year.

Sales figures look like one-way stairs—always up.

Take February. This is never a red hot sales month. Would-be buyers prefer to stay home by the fire and shun the showrooms. In February 1961, new car sales averaged about 15,000 daily, not counting Sundays when many dealers are closed.

For February, 1962, the daily sales average climbed to a shade over 19,000. This year it was almost 22,000.

November, December and January all behaved the same way. The last time there was a deviation was in October 1961, when sales failed to match or exceed October 1960, by a smattering of 200 cars daily.

This month sales will need to average at least 22,829 to beat March of last year, but this should be achieved with no trouble. The average would be less than a 1,000 daily higher than February and the normal jump is closer to 3,000.

Once again, however, the pattern of improvement is not uniform among the five passenger car companies. Last year Chrysler was the laggard, finishing the year with its smallest share of the total market since the early '20s. This time it is Ford.

Ford's percentage of the market has trailed its year-ago performance in each of the five months of the 1962 model year starting with October. In February it dropped to 24.1 per cent.

For all of last year Ford took 27.4 per cent of the domestic sales, down from 30.7 in 1961 and 28.5 in 1960.

EMBARRASSING TO FORD

The lag is particularly embarrassing to Ford officials this year since among other things, the company is staging a year-long celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of its founder. Earlier this week, in a letter included in Ford's annual report, Chairman Henry Ford II and a board of directors said, "no effort is being spared to improve our present market position."

But they didn't quite sound as optimistic as their counterparts at General Motors, whose annual report also hit the mails recently.

Ford and Dykstra said: "While abundant consumer credit is available and the industry's 1963 automobiles have been well received by the public, total automobile sales in 1962 will depend to a great extent, as always, upon the performance of the general economy."

GM's chairman, Frederick G. Donner and President John F. Gordon, in their stockholders' letter, endorsed 1962 as a good year "for the domestic economy as well as for the automobile industry and for General Motors."

And they noted that so far in 1963 the confidence of consumers is "being demonstrated by the high levels of demand, both for durable and nondurable goods."

As a footnote to the percentage race, the last time (1959) Ford fell below 26 per cent, General Motors took only 45 per cent. This year GM is taking 56 per cent.

Romney Supports Children's Aid Bill as Big Improvement

EAST LANSING, Mich. (U.P.)—Gov. George Romney admitted yesterday that his federal Aid to Dependent Children of Unemployed (ADC-U) bill may have some weaknesses, but termed it "100 per cent better than no bill at all."

"A partial reform actually accomplished and in operation is worth a thousand still in the pamphlet or argument stage," the governor told the legislative forum of the Michigan Welfare League.

"A course that resists the possible and insists on the impossible is obstructionism, just as surely as any veto bloc in any legislative body anywhere."

Some 200 members of the welfare league attended the meeting at which the governor, judges, social workers and other in related fields discussed crime and delinquency, mental health, human relations and welfare problems.

NOTES CRITICISM

Romney took note that his federal ADC-U program proposal was criticized as "inadequate" last week by welfare league officials.

He said criticisms that the bill is too restrictive, limits the number of people eligible for benefits and sets up unwise eligibility standards, "may have some validity," but added:

"This bill is much more liberal than the present situation, in which this aid to dependent children is not available to any unemployed parents."

"This bill grants benefits to 100 per cent more people than presently are getting them. And it can be adopted."

Shortly before Romney spoke, Dean Fedele Fauri of the University of Michigan-School for Social Work, told the league that the ADC-U bill discriminated between workers.

The ADC-U bill—buried three times in past sessions by Republican-controlled committees—has passed the House and is awaiting action in the Senate, where it is also expected to pass.

It would provide federal ADC payments to some 10,000 families in which the parents have children under 18 but have exhausted their state jobless benefits. The federal and state governments would share costs, relieving county welfare departments of a heavy burden in direct relief.

OPPOSING PRESSURES

Romney told the welfare gathering that those who seek to close the gap between what is available and what is needed to solve problems of crime delinquency, poverty and illness are confronted by opposing pressures.

"One of these is the pressure of rising expectations of future welfare needs, and the other is pressure against increased public spending to fulfill them," he said. "The challenge in the field of social welfare is to meet human needs while maintaining a balance between these forces."

To do this, Romney added, there must be a definition of the "boundaries between private and public responsibility," and "those in the front lines of social problems will bear the burden of this test."

The House-approved ADC-U bill is scheduled for Senate debate this week.

Democrats planned to introduce a series of amendments broadening the measure and have threatened to halt passage unless some concessions are made.

At last count, Republicans did not have the voting majority needed to push through the measure and were seeking some Democratic support.

Car Was Overheating; Radiator Was Stolen

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (U.P.)—When Bill Sain found his car overheating he drove into a service station to have water put into it.

"Where do you want me to put the water?" asked the attendant as he lifted the hood. It seems that somebody had stolen the radiator.

Trial Adjourned for Six Weeks

The Circuit Court trial of a West Bloomfield Township woman on a charge of selling securities without a license was adjourned for six weeks Tuesday.

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero ordered the adjournment in the trial of Mrs. Mildred Puddington, of 222 Horseshoe Drive, to permit attorneys time to file briefs.

Judge Dondero dismissed charges of fraud and false pretenses against Mrs. Puddington in the sale of stock in a corporation she headed.

The charges were brought against Mrs. Puddington in June by her former secretary, Mrs. Shirley Wharton, of 1834 Sheffield Road, Birmingham.

Mrs. Wharton said she bought $1,450 worth of stock in Showcase, Inc., formerly of Birmingham. Mrs. Puddington was president of the firm, which exhibited new household products to the public. The dismissed fraud and false pretenses charges were based on allegations that Mrs. Puddington misrepresented the firm's condition.

Dow Plans Automation Labor Pool

MIDLAND 10 — Dow Chemical Co. has announced a three-point program to aid company employees forced out of their present jobs by automation.

Dow said the program provides for the retention of pay by employees idled by automation for up to six months; the formation of a plant labor pool to retain workers; and the formation of an advisory board to help solve unemployment problems created by automation.

The three-point program was issued in a revised "statement of intent" on Dow's policy toward automation and job security.

Dow issued a similar statement of intent in 1960. The revised statement followed conferences with officials of Local 1809B of the United Mine Workers. The union represents some 10,569 Dow employees in the Midland area.

AT FULL PAY

Under the new statement, Dow said it will keep employees idled by automation, and resultant seniority demands on remaining jobs at full pay for a period of 185 days or until they take on new jobs with the company.

In part of the 185 day period idled employees will be placed in a plant labor pool for training.

Company officials said the nature of the jobs to be performed by pool workers would be determined by a company-union conference.

The statement of intent advisory board will work toward re-training workers and in securing new jobs for Dow.

Sale of Bonds by Pontiac's Schools OK'd

The Pontiac School District's projected sale of $2.5 million in bonds to complete a 10-year building program in 1964 was approved yesterday by the State Municipal Finance Commission.

The bonds are to be sold to finance construction of two new schools, new school board administration and service buildings and an addition to Irving Elementary School.

Schools slated for construction by next year are a new junior high school on Baldwin Avenue at the city limits and a new elementary school on Cottage Street on the city's east side.

A new administration building is required because the city plans to raise the school district's offices at 40 Patterson St. as part of the urban renewal program. The new building is to be erected at the Civic Center near City Hall.

Conversation's Circling Around a Dizzy Topic

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The other day I heard someone say that age two main topics of conversation in America are sex and money. This came as a surprise to me.

I had been proceeding under the assumption that the discussion list was headed by international trade agreements. In my circle, we talk of little else.

In fact, it is difficult to discuss international trade without talking in circles.

WEST

It was my interest in this subject that prompted me to attend a recent press preview here. I don't ordinarily go to press previews because they are usually frivolous affairs and may be infested with movie stars.

In this instance, however, I was invited to preview a new Japanese cigarette lighter. So, of course, I accepted.

The lighter, made by Starion Co., Ltd., of Tokyo, is a sleek, gas model with an 18-carat gold case, which will sell for $500. At least it will be offered for sale for $500.

With each lighter you get an insurance policy to cover loss or theft. I neglected to ask whether the policy includes fire insurance.

As every smoker knows, a Japanese firm has for years been turning out a cut-rate imitation of a windproof lighter originally developed in the United States.

TAKES NO CHANCES

Well, Starion is taking no chances that some American company will now start turning out a cheap imitation of its new lighter. It is bringing out an imitation model itself.

While on the subject of international trade, I might mention that the Kent Brush Co. of London recently introduced in this country a brush especially designed for brushing wigs.

The wig brush sells for $9.50 although I suppose the firm would make a 500-lb. carat gold model if you ordered one. Kent also is offering a crew cut brush and a brush for men whose hair is getting thin.

Presumably, the brushes on the brush for the baldish are further apart than on ordinary brushes.

From Allentown, Pa., comes word that a department store is advertising imported dog houses. Made in Italy of genuine mahogany, they sell for $49.95 and have a canine coat of arms over the entrance.

This should make an imported dog feel right at home.

I would not want to leave the impression, however, that international trade is a one-way street. I have run across a new American-made product that ought to export well. It is a $1,000 solid gold golf club. No Scottish golfer will be content with less than a matched set.

Far away from the mother country are Wallis and Futuna Islands, French Overseas Territories, which lie 10,500 air miles from France in the Pacific Ocean.

Grown-Up Tony Perkins Ready to Get Married

BY PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK—Tony Perkins is such a good actor that you can't be thorough in your search for the "other" sincere when he said, "This is the opportune time for me to get married. This year, I think I can handle being married now."

Mr. Perkins was asked if he had a girl in mind, and he paused to think. "Perkins has two characteristics in common with Marlon Brando: acting ability and a delight in pausing to think." After maybe 30 seconds of intense concentration, he said, "I think I don't want to marry an actress. I come from a one-marriage family, and I don't want to spoil the batting average. I think marrying an actress might raise the odds on success. Besides, I want a wife, not a co-star."

He grinned. "Of course, don't be surprised if next week I announce my engagement to Diane McBain or somebody. Say, who is Diane McBain?" A press agent explained she was somebody in television. "I knew I'd heard the name," said Tony.

Perkins is, of course, one of the female-cherished stars of film and television, and since he became a big name several years ago he has carefully avoided not only romantic ties but even close friendships. Costars claimed you couldn't get "close to" Tony. He seemed to have his guard up.

LESS WARY
"That's true, but a very remarkable thing has happened recently," he said. "I have made some very close friends. It's a change in me—not in the people I meet. I've become less wary."

"I used to be withdrawn with people who wanted to be close. I thought that the only reason they wanted to be friends was because I was a movie star—because I was a movie star—because I was a movie star. But my theory was a little muddled there. Wait, let me stop and think how to say this."

Perkins really thought about this one. His tall, skinny figure paced. He frowned. Finally he came out with what he had thought:

"I was supposing I could suddenly stop and not be an actor and see if I still had close friends. But life doesn't work that way. It was an epiphany... Say, is that a dictionary over there? (He paused to look up 'epiphany') Well, let's forget that word. It was quite an experience, realizing I was wrong."

Tony, who WAS catapulted suddenly into stardom, said that the problem of becoming an "overnight celebrity" is the most difficult torment.

"It's an unbelievable experience, really. You come totally unprepared for it. There's no book to tell you how to behave. You can go to school to learn how to be a successful executive, but there's no school to train celebrities. That moment when everybody knows you—you only live through it."

"You go through a period of nightmare values—where nothing seems to weigh anything, and when yet everything weighs too much. It's frightening. That's why so many young careers are cut off sharply. Either the celebrity himself can't take it, or he believes so badly that nobody else can take it."

ENGAGED 3 TIMES

This is why, the actor said, he spent so many years without friends and without thoughts of marriage though he is definitely the marriageable sort. He was engaged three times during his years at Rollins College. But he knew, then, it was not the time to settle down. Did he love the college girls, sincerely?

Tony says, "I never had had any phony engagements. I never have done anything I disagreed with in principle. I never committed an act of publicity."

Tony recently made "Five Miles to Midnight" with Sophia Loren, and will soon be the first American ever to costar with Brigitte Bardot. He is particularly proud of this distinction. He considers it another assurance that he has become "established... This isn't a joke, a dream."

And he needed this self-assurance of success in order to declare, "Now is when it becomes fun, and important, to be married. I'm grown-up now."

Death Valley, situated in eastern California, is 210 feet below sea level and it is about 150 miles in length and up to 35 miles in width.

Pontiac Man Imprisoned

A $10 theft from a drinking partner's pocket Feb. 10 landed a 22-year-old Pontiac man in Jackson Prison Tuesday for two to 10 years.

Donald F. Rodgers, of 840 Blaine St., was sentenced by Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dwyer. Rodgers pleaded guilty Feb. 13 to larceny.

He was accused of taking the money from the pocket of Joseph Calhoun, 62, of 60 Rundell St., who was riding in Calhoun's car in Orionville after they left a Pontiac bar.

Rodgers was previously convicted for a 1957 burglary of a Pontiac grocery.

Colburn 'Can't Justify' Blue Cross Rate Hike

LANSING (UPI)—State Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn, it was learned today, has told Gov. George Romney he is finding it impossible to justify Blue Cross-Blue Shield requests for rate increases.

Colburn reportedly told the governor yesterday "the Blue Cross and the Blue Shield and the insurance commission are at an impasse. If a determination were to be announced today both proposed increases would be rejected."

According to information leaked out of the conference Colburn criticized the medical services for "not yielding on any item that the department feels is important for the healthy existence of the organizations."

The conference was the third Romney has had with Colburn on the rate increases, which would amount to an average 27 per cent, since they were requested by the hospital and medical care services Jan. 14.

Colburn acknowledged today he had met with the governor yesterday and said another meeting was scheduled Monday "when I will give him the full details of all negotiations to date."

The insurance commissioner said he could not now release all the details of yesterday's meeting but he admitted, "We have not made any progress to speak of with the two service organizations about facing up to what the department believes is necessary to best protect the public interest."

Colburn said he expected to announce his final determination on the rate hikes by March 28.

News Society to Hear Hoffa

LANSING (UP)—Teamster Union President James Hoffa will speak here tonight at a meeting of the Central Michigan Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society.

Topic of Hoffa's address has not been disclosed, but he is expected to give his views on the press and labor legislation pending before Congress. A question-and-answer period has been scheduled.

Dean Rusk to Tour Eastern Capitals

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will visit India, Pakistan, Iran and Turkey in April and May, the State Department said yesterday.

Rusk will attend the ministerial council meeting of the Central Treaty Organization in Pakistan April 30-May 1.

En route to Pakistan he is scheduled to make brief stopovers in Ankara, Turkey, and Teheran, Iran.

After the CENTO meeting he will go to New Delhi, the Indian capital, May 2.

Benton Harbor Gets Aid to Plan Low-Rent Homes

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Public Housing Administration has announced a loan of $20,000 to Benton Harbor, Mich., to help plan a program for the construction of 100 low-rent homes.

The Urban Renewal Administration approved a grant of $352,245 to Buchanan, Mich., for preliminary work on a 44-acre North Side No. 1 slum clearance project.

Bandits Are Too Late, Bar's Already Held Up

DENVER (UPI)—Two bandits, one with a gun, burst into Glenn's Bar and Grill Monday night where they found barmaid Ruth Beck and four customers just getting to their feet.

The barmaid told the intruders their demand for money was too late because they had just been robbed by two men who made them lie on the floor while they escaped. The come-lately left.

Cheese Sauce Put on Avocado

Welsh Rarebit gets a fancy new partner in "Avocado Rarebit." The cheese sauce is spooned over luscious slices of California avocado on crisp toast. This meatless main dish is very easy to prepare for a Lenten supper or brunch. It's also very easy to tell when a winter avocado from California is eating-ripe. Cradle it in the palms of your hands; if it yields to gentle pressure, serve it.

Avocado Rarebit

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 cup grated process American cheese
1 California avocado
4 slices toast

Melt butter in a saucepan and stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in salt, Worcestershire, paprika and cheese. Continue cooking and stirring until cheese melts.

Cut avocado lengthwise into thick slices. Arrange slices on toast and cover with sauce.

Makes 4 servings (2 cups sauce).

Add Water Chestnuts

For family or company fare, serve this creamy good soup. Combine a can of frozen condensed cream of potato soup and a soup can water. Heat until soup thaws. Add 2 tablespoons sliced water chestnuts and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley; continue heating, stirring now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Beef and Pork Continue to Be Lower Priced

Reports from the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicate the production of beef and pork during the first half of this year is larger than a year ago. Marketings of fed cattle are expected to rise 8 to 10 per cent over this same period in 1962, and beef prices are running slightly lower. The 1962 fall pig crop was the second largest on record. The result is a large volume of pork for now and during the spring months. Pork prices are expected to be average substantially under those of last spring.

It seems logical to take advantage of weekly meat values. Enjoy favorite cuts and freeze some for future use advises the Consumer Marketing Information agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawler.

At present, retailers report that wholesale beef and pork prices are lower. Shoppers will notice many store features of these meats this week. Some stores are offering sides, quarters, chucks and ribs of beef.

The take-home meat from a 120 pound beef hindquarter, of U.S. Choice or comparable grade, includes about 18 pounds of porterhouse, T-bone, and club steaks; 16 pounds of sirloin steaks and roasts; 29 pounds of round steaks and roasts; 6 pounds of boneless rump roasts; 3 pounds of flank; and 25 pounds of ground beef. This totals around 97 pounds, a loss of about 25 per cent of unusable trimmings, bones, and fat.

FRESH PRODUCE

Hardy vegetables continue as dependable sources of good eating. Carrots, cabbage, dry onions, potatoes and sweet potatoes are among the better values. Supplies of broccoli, cauliflower, and sweet corn are increasing. Head lettuce supplies are expected to be smaller, good quality limited, and prices higher during the next two or three weeks.

Ample stocks of canned vegetables are welcome at this season. Tomatoes and tomato products, sweet corn, green peas, and snap beans make up about two-thirds of the total pack of canned vegetables. With the exception of snap beans, all the major vegetables are in larger supply than a year ago.

Because of a larger carryover of stocks from a year ago, cold storage holdings of frozen vegetables on January 1, 1963 were 4 per cent larger than the previous year. The vegetables frozen in largest quantities include French fried potatoes, lima beans, sweet corn, green peas and snap beans. Many of these are featured items this week.

Leaders at fruit counters include apples, avocados, bananas and pears. Shortages of orange and grapefruit crops continue to be reflected in smaller sizes and relatively high prices. Strawberries are arriving in better volume, quality is good, and prices in line with the season.

Egg production is expected to average slightly below year earlier levels for the next few months. The total laying flock is smaller, and the egg output per layer is not up enough to offset the decrease number of layers. Increased marketing and handling efficiency, and careful inspection and grading will provide consumers plenty of high quality eggs.

Pear Custard

Sprinkle brown sugar and ginger in buttered custard cup. Place drained canned pear half in bottom of cup. Fill with custard mixture and bake until set. Turn out when warm or serve chilled in cup.

Fresh Rhubarb Spring Dessert

A good recipe is a good thought! And here is one: Oatmeal Rhubarb Crumble. A pie made of a well-browned oatmeal crust, tender to cut, but pleasantly rough in texture. A filling of pink rhubarb, faintly spicy and bursting with the juices of springtime. And the top! Just more of the pie crust mixture, scattered in crumbles over the fruit. Quick to make—to bake.

* * *

Let this breakfast cereal crumble to be your first real springtime dessert. The sturdy quality of the first rhubarb are foods to spotlight now because they build lasting memories of spring sunshine.

Oatmeal Rhubarb Crumble

1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 cup rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked
½ cup melted butter or margarine
3 cups diced rhubarb
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon water

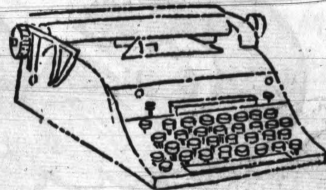

Save 1 tablespoon flour for rhubarb filling. Sift remaining flour, salt, and ¼ cup sugar; stir in oats. Stir in melted butter or margarine until mixture is crumbly. Press ½ of the oat mixture evenly over bottom and sides of 9-inch pie pan.

Combine rhubarb, ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, cinnamon and water. Turn into crust. Sprinkle remaining oat mixture over fruit. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until rhubarb is tender and crust is lightly browned, about 45 minutes. Yield: One 9-inch pie.

One of Ireland's Sons Brings Fine Food to Pontiac

By JANET ODELL,
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Should you need information on Irish food this week, you'll be interested to know that an expert works in Pontiac. Not only does Sean Griffin, catering manager of the Waldron Hotel, know about Irish food, but he's a goldmine of information on Irish history and Irish folklore. In addition he's charming as only an Irishman can be.

Griffin arrived in Pontiac from Ireland by a devious route. After he and his wife, Kathleen, were married (she was an airline hostess), the young couple decided opportunities were better in the New World.

They went to Canada by way of Cuba on a ship that picked up sugar for our northern neighbor. "The smell of that sugar was awful," Griffin remembers.

The day after they arrived in Montreal from New Brunswick, Griffin shipped out as second cook on a Canadian National Railway passenger train. Mrs. Griffin was left alone in a strange city. It was their headquarters for four years while Griffin traveled all over Canada as a railroad cook and Mrs. Griffin worked in an airlines office.

In 1933 the Griffins came to the states to Chicago. By this time they had Timothy. Fifteen months later Griffin became food and beverage manager at Hotel Olds in Lansing (now the Jack Tar hotel).

Then Botsford Inn called him to be manager. Anthony appeared on the scene. Mary Therese was born in Pontiac.

Griffin, the youngest of 12 children, was apprenticed to a confectioner. He studied to become a chef and served as one in several Irish hotels. But the life of a chef is too hectic, he says and he decided to go into hotel administration. He keeps his love of good food and his preference for French cooking. He thinks that the preparation and serving of food should be carefully and — yes — lovingly done. There is no substitute for quality.

IRISH BEEF

Over lunch we talked about all these things, then went on to speak of Irish food in particular. Irish beef is sweeter than ours because it is raised solely on grass four seasons of the year and is never confined. Nor is it forcibly fed for quick butchering.

Irish hams are of three kinds — green, salted and smoked. Here again, the process is a slower one than ours.

In America we may stop somewhere for ice cream or a hamburger or pizza. In Ireland we would have Irish soda bread or scones with butter jam and tea. Mr. Griffin gave me some typical Irish menus. They even sound musical and lots more interesting than some of our menus. Check these examples:

DUBLIN BAY PRAWN SOUP
20 medium prawns (shrimp) cooked and shelled
1 quart white fish stock, made with addition of crushed prawn shells
1 onion
Sprinkle of mace
1 peppercorn
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
2 tablespoons flour
1 gill (1/2 cup) cream
Chop onion, simmer in fish stock with mace and pepper.

corp. Strain. Mix flour to a smooth paste with cream, add celery salt, then add to strained fish stock. Simmer for 15 minutes. Add a very small amount of red food coloring (original recipe calls for coloring with cochineal).

Rice Pancakes Good Eating in Lent

From New Orleans where rice is a staple in all Creole households comes this recipe for rice pancakes. In New Orleans they would serve them for breakfast, much the same way as they serve their famous Calas or rice cakes.

Here they are featured as a luncheon dish and served with a cheese sauce and tangy sliced apples. Being meatless, it makes an ideal Lenten lunch.

Rice Pancakes

- 1 cup sifted flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 eggs, beaten
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1/2 cup light corn syrup
 - 2 cups cooked rice
 - 1/2 cup raisins
 - 1/2 cup corn oil margarine
- Sift flour and salt together into mixing bowl. Add eggs, milk and corn syrup; blend until batter is smooth. Mix in rice and raisins. Melt about 2 tablespoons margarine in large skillet over medium heat. Pour in batter for several pancakes, using about 1/4 cup for each and spreading rice, if necessary.

Cheese Sauce

- 1 tablespoon corn oil margarine
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 8 ounces cheese, shredded (about 2 cups)

Flaming Cherry Sauce Served on Ice Cream

Here's the answer to a request for a spirited version of a cherry sauce to accompany ice cream.

FLAMING CHERRY SAUCE

- 1 jar (1 pound and 1 ounce) dark sweet cherries in heavy syrup
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/4 cup light corn syrup
 - 1/4 cup light rum
- Drain and pit cherries leaving them whole. Reserve cherry juice; there should be 1 cup.

In a saucepan stir together the cornstarch and sugar; gradually add cherry juice, stirring until smooth after each addition. Add corn syrup. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until slightly thickened, clear and boiling. Remove from heat; pour into heat-proof serving dish.

Heat rum until warm; light rum with a match; pour flaming over cherry sauce. Pass at once with vanilla ice cream; makes enough sauce for 1 quart ice cream—8 servings.

Tangy Apples

- 1 (1 pound 4-ounce) can sliced apples (2 1/4 cups)

- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
 - 2 tablespoons corn oil margarine
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- Drain apples. Combine apple juice, corn syrup, margarine, lemon juice and grated lemon rind in saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat. Boil 5 minutes. Add apple slices. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Use as desired. Makes 6 servings.

Love Me, Love My Dog —May Be Truth in That

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (P)—If your dog is fat or nervous, take a good look at yourself.

Francis T. Candlin, a Denver veterinarian, told the American Veterinary Association convention that dogs' ailments mirror those of their owners.

"Most nervous people have nervous dogs," Candlin said. "And many fat people give the dog a snack every time they snack."

1888 Big Year in United States

Camera Perfected, Photograph Bowed In WASHINGTON—The Victorian Age was nearing an end in 1888, the year the National Geographic Society was founded.

The year 1888 was a placid interlude in world history. But it was a time of intense mental stimulation in the United States, an incubation period for great advances in science and discovery.

In 1888, George Eastman perfected the box camera and roll film, which led to the fantastic popularity of photography. Thomas A. Edison brought out his phonograph; Nikola Tesla offered the induction motor; and Sir Hiram S. Maxim made history with the first practicable machine gun.

YEAR OF THE ELIZARD

This was the year of the great blizzard, the cholera work "Wreck of the Hesperus," and the first public recitation of "Casey at the Bat."

Women's fashions caused considerable comment. It may not have been exactly new, but the 1888 look was heavy pleating, multiple-tight banding, and corsets providing the utmost constriction.

The political slogan, "As Maine goes, so goes the Nation," came into being. In local elections, the populace first voted by secret ballot.

ERA OF GREAT RESORTS

Americans had more money and leisure than ever before, and the society matrons were donning the diamond stamers for the great extravaganzas of the great resorts.

The phrase, "The Four Hundred," entered the vocabulary. The government created a Labor Department.

The "safety" bicycle—so called because its low, twin-sized wheels gave the rider a chance to save his neck if he tumbled—took the jet set by storm. In towns, bicycle traffic became horrendous, and parking a problem.

The top news story of the year was the blizzard from March 11 to 14, which immobilized New York and took 400 lives.

A beautifully shelled sea mollusk known as conch (pronounced conk) abounded in the waters of the Bahamas and is an occasional producer of valuable pearls. One adorns a crown among the crown jewels of Sweden and another was purchased by a London jeweler for $10,000.

Auto Statistics: Do Americans Ever Walk?

By COLIN BARRETT
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you're an average American driver, chances are you drove your car almost 9,000 miles last year. You also spent some 210 hours, the equivalent of more than 25 working days, behind the wheel.

This figure is part of a statistical report issued by the Automobile Manufacturers Association (AMA), which reported that the nation's 87 million drivers logged a phenomenal 722 billion—that's right billion—miles in 1961.

Commenting on the reluctance of Americans to walk whenever they can ride, the AMA also noted that three out of every five times the average driver got behind the wheel, he headed for a destination less than five miles away.

Other AMA statistics showed that:

—Auto salesmen in 1961 hit their lowest point since the 1959 recession, chalking up only 5.5 million sales.

This was more than a million short of 1960 sales and a whopping 2.5 million below the 1955 peak of almost eight million new cars sold.

General Motors' Chevrolet was the nation's biggest-selling car in 1961, with the Ford Galaxie and Ford Falcon running second and third respectively.

Between them, General Motors and Ford grabbed off almost 80 per cent of last year's new car market.

HIGHEST PRODUCTION

—Despite the drop-off in new car sales, the United States still produced 52 per cent of the world's cars last year, 45 times as many as the Soviet Union.

Tiny Island Shuns 20th Century

WASHINGTON—The winds of change blow gently over Tangier Island, a tiny Virginia fishing community in the lower Chesapeake Bay.

The 900 or so islanders still speak with a touch of Elizabethan accent and bury their dead under vast funerals in the front yard. They harvest oysters, crabs, and clams much as their ancestors from Cornwall, England, did 275 years ago.

The islanders manage to get along without a supermarket, a department or drug store, dry-cleaning shop, hardware store, bank, or movie house. Most shopping is done by mail-order catalogue. A once-a-day-mailboat from Crisfield, Md., 18 miles away, is the only regular contact with the mainland.

TOM THUMB TOWN

The 5-mile-long silver of Virginia soil is really a marsh separated by two sandy ridges, the National Geographic Society says.

People of Tangier live in small, snug, brightly painted clapboard houses that suggest a toy town. The 12-foot-wide main street is flanked by white picket fences and tiny front yards.

Despite the absence of automobiles, the narrow lanes sometimes take on a Paris-like confusion of bicycles, motor scooters, pedestrians, and barking dogs.

The island was discovered in 1606 by Captain John Smith. In 1666, according to tradition, Two Virginians bought it from the Pocumoke Indians for two overcoats.

Tangier was not settled until 1686 when John Crockett, his wife, four sons, and four daughters moved there. Today, one-third of the inhabitants are named Crockett.

Layers of Insulation

Fail to Check Leak

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (P)—Investigating a report that the roof of a shipping building was leaking, Bill Waldman, a maintenance man for a packaging corporation, climbed to the top of the building.

He was a little puzzled how a roof that cluttered could leak. On it he found a baseball, basketball rubber ball, bus company money changer, portion of a red warning flasher, three flashlights, remnants of a small savings bank, tin snips and some beer bottles.

Critic of Noise Sounding Off

NEW YORK (UPI)—noise, poor building acoustics and jets wrack the sound waves.

Chicago is a close second, he said, with elevated trains in particular contributing to the problem. Then, in order, come Boston, Pittsburgh and St. Louis because of traffic noises.

Noise can never be completely eliminated, Beranek believes. "But it can and should be better controlled."

He said manufacturers sound-test such things as refrigerators, air conditioners, fans, toilet fixtures, dish washers, washing machines, power equipment, automobiles and lawn mowers.

But this does not mean they are made sufficiently quiet.

"Manufacturers in most cases understand the noise problem," he said, "but they do not necessarily know how to reduce the noise at low cost."

Where the cost is sufficiently high, the manufacturer often believes that consumers will not pay the extra cost for quieting and hence the product remains noisy.

Lack of knowledge about sound and its behavior is the major reason why 80 per cent of all new multi-use buildings now being constructed (apartments, hotels, motels, schools, churches, etc.) have sub-par acoustics, Beranek says.

He contends pressures such as those which resulted in seat belt and smog control legislation have yet to be brought to bear on hearing and construction acoustic problems.

Rome's Sued for Digging by Archaeologist

ROME (P)—Italian archaeologist Alessandro Sottile has filed suit in the Rome courts claiming that the state owes him 40 million lire ($4,000) for digging which he said uncovered 300 million lire ($30,000) worth of ancient Etruscan art and artifacts.

He said he had spent the 40 million lire digging over the past five years in partly explored Etruscan ruin regions around Tarquinia, Cerveteri and Piombino, north of Rome.

Under Italian law the valuable pieces he uncovered went to the state, as property of the Department of Antiquities and Fine Arts.

Sottile said the department was happy to have his findings, but had refused to pay him back for his digging costs.

West Bloomfield, Clarkston Ousted From Regional Tournaments

Fenton Whips Lakers, 56-31, in 'B' Contest

Romeo vs. Marysville
Tonight at Clarkston;
Final on Saturday

By DON VOGEL

West Bloomfield's Lakers fouled themselves out of the state Class B regional tournament at Clarkston last night.

Fenton players converted 11 of 12 free throws in the first quarter to gain a nine-point lead and then went on to rout the No. 1 ranked Class B team, 56-31.

Romeo is now the only area team remaining in the state 'B' tournament.

The Bulldogs will attempt to reach the championship game in the Clarkston regional tonight when they play Marysville. The upset will be at 7:30.

Defense as much as the early free throws enabled Fenton to reach Saturday's title game.

Coach LeRoy Decker had the Tigers use a full-court zone press that caused the Lakers to throw several wild passes in the first half.

When the Lakers did manage to get the ball over the midcourt line, the Tigers would drop into a sliding man-to-man that was almost impossible to penetrate.

FEW SHOTS

The potency of the Fenton defense is indicated by the fact West Bloomfield managed only 23 field goal attempts in the first three quarters.

The final tabulation showed the Lakers with 10 out of 38. The third quarter was the most futile for the Lakers as they connected on only one of nine.

Fenton's offensive punch wasn't much better from the floor for three quarters. The Tigers made 12 of 43 field goal attempts during that time. They picked up seven more baskets in the fourth quarter as the Lakers forgot about defense in their attempt to overcome a 14-point deficit.

John Bradley had his best scoring night of the season for the Tigers by netting 20 points. Teammate Dick Bachtel added 15, several on long one-handers from the side.

Chuck Robinson led the Lakers with seven.

Jeri Heffner and Chuck Ayotte gave the Tigers control of both backboards until the final three minutes when the reserves took over.

The Lakers were guilty of several hacking and bumping violations in the first quarter and the Tigers couldn't seem to miss from the free throw line. They made only two baskets in the period but carried a 15-4 lead into the next eight minutes.

Fenton's defense allowed West Bloomfield only five field goal attempts in the second quarter. But the Lakers made four good, three on fast breaks.

They cut the deficit to 19-15 with five minutes left in the half, but the Tigers shot back in front by 10 and held a 27-20 lead at the intermission.

Three points in the third quarter and a four minute drought in the fourth enabled the Tigers to open a 52-28 gap. The 1,500 fans began to file out.

Marysville and West Bloomfield each carried 16-3 records into the regional and were co-favorites. Romeo had to overcome some poor early shooting to down Clintonville in the regional opener 61-55 Tuesday. The Bulldogs proved they may be tough for Marysville to handle.

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—The annual NCAA Hockey Championship Tournament gets underway tonight with host Boston College.

Pre-tourney favorite Denver, 22-4-1, winner in three of the last four years, plays the other Eastern entry, Clarkson, 19-4-2, Friday night in the second semifinal. The final round will be played Saturday night.

Boston College, 22-7, will be playing with a revamped lineup due to injuries to first team defenseman Dave Duffy, and Paul Alken, of the high-scoring first line.

Clay Wins Thin Decision, Goes Silent on Predictions

NEW YORK (AP)—Even in victory the Cassius Clay balloon has been punctured. The self-proclaimed "greatest heavyweight" is just human after all.

There were no knockouts, no knockdowns, no "total annihilation," and brash Cassius was lucky to get a thin, lustily booed decision in 10 rounds over hard-working Doug Jones of New York at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

At times Clay looked like a novice both at long range and inside. His bombs didn't explode.

And he had to rally furiously in the final two rounds to capture the unanimous verdict.

As for Sonny Liston, Clay is no more ready for him this year than Floyd Patterson was in the second minute of his title debate.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner of the Garden wants to put Clay and Jones in Yankee Stadium this June and there was talk also of a lucrative international fight with Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the former heavyweight champion.

But at 21, 6-foot-3, 202½ pounds and, undefeated, the unsmiling Louisville Lip still has a bright future ahead of him even if he has sworn off poetic predictions.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner of the Garden wants to put Clay and Jones in Yankee Stadium this June and there was talk also of a lucrative international fight with Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the former heavyweight champion.

There were cries of "fake" and "fix" by some of the pro-Jones fans in the capacity crowd of 18,722 seconds after the unanimous decision was announced. Varied objects were tossed into the ring by irate fans.

Judges Arlie Alda and Frank Forbes had the same 5-4-1 scores while referee Joe LoScalzo, on his first important assignment, made it 6-1-1 in rounds for Clay.

The Associated Press card had Jones ahead 5-4-1. A sample check of boxing writers on the four sides of the ring showed a 7-5 edge for Clay with three calling it even.

"From now on no more predictions of what round I'm going to finish my opponent," said Cassius. "People are so hypocritical. I had predicted 'Jones will fall in four.'"

The gimmick was a gold mine as long as it lasted. It produced the first boxing sellout—$104,943 gross gate—in the Garden in six years, and purses of about $90,000 for Clay and $75,000 for Jones, including the closed circuit television.

"They came to see me to see me," Clay complained. "They hated to see me keep winning. I hit Jones twice as much as he hit me. That's why they were upset."

Cassius, himself, has developed the anti-Clay cult to his own profit. There was no question that many of the fans were just rooting for an anti-Clay ticket. They showed that when they booed him at his entrance to the ring. The boos almost lifted the rafters when the fourth ended and Jones didn't fall.

last Sept. 25. Yet the undaunted Clay said he wanted that "big, ugly bear, Liston" within six months.

"Clay showed me that I'll get looked up for murder if we're ever matched," was the comment of Liston, who saw the closed circuit telecast in Miami Beach. Without Cassius to beat his ears, he'll be able to concentrate on his return bout with Patterson April 10.

"From now on no more predictions of what round I'm going to finish my opponent," said Cassius. "People are so hypocritical. I had predicted 'Jones will fall in four.'"

The gimmick was a gold mine as long as it lasted. It produced the first boxing sellout—$104,943 gross gate—in the Garden in six years, and purses of about $90,000 for Clay and $75,000 for Jones, including the closed circuit television.

"They came to see me to see me," Clay complained. "They hated to see me keep winning. I hit Jones twice as much as he hit me. That's why they were upset."

Cassius, himself, has developed the anti-Clay cult to his own profit. There was no question that many of the fans were just rooting for an anti-Clay ticket. They showed that when they booed him at his entrance to the ring. The boos almost lifted the rafters when the fourth ended and Jones didn't fall.

OBJECTS FLY
There were cries of "fake" and "fix" by some of the pro-Jones fans in the capacity crowd of 18,722 seconds after the unanimous decision was announced. Varied objects were tossed into the ring by irate fans.

Judges Arlie Alda and Frank Forbes had the same 5-4-1 scores while referee Joe LoScalzo, on his first important assignment, made it 6-1-1 in rounds for Clay.

The Associated Press card had Jones ahead 5-4-1. A sample check of boxing writers on the four sides of the ring showed a 7-5 edge for Clay with three calling it even.

Birmingham Seaholm is the overwhelming choice to take team honors in the annual State Class A swimming meet at East Lansing tomorrow and Saturday.

The Seaholm tankers, defending a perfect won-lost slate, will be one of 140 Class A and B high schools swimming in the two-day meet.

Although Seaholm is expected to walk away with team honors because of exceptional depth, Coach Cory Van Fleet indicated respect for a dozen different schools.

Bob Wolf and Don Spencer, of Seaholm, are the top favorites to capture individual honors.

Wolf swims the freestyle and butterfly. He has posted a 1:14.4 for the 100-yard freestyle and a 5:1.7 for the backstroke.

Meantime, Spencer currently holds the state butterfly record of 5:44.

Pontiac Central has only two swimmers qualified for the state meet. Bob Lorenz and Jim Howard, both freestyle artists, will make the trip.

Lorenz, who has been clocked in 2:30.1 in the 200-yard distance is expected to break the two-minute mark by Coach Doug Treas.

He finished eighth in the state last year.

Howard swims the 50-yard freestyle.

He has been timed in 1:18.4 in Central's short 40-yard pool. Howard has not been clocked on the full-sized pool.

THREE ENTERED
Pontiac Northern, according to Coach Ed Dauw, has three promising participants in the weekend meet. Skip Ervin, Alex Hiller and Carl Cascadian are singled out by Dauw.

Ervin and Hiller will compete tomorrow in the 400-yard freestyle and diving, respectively. The preliminaries for both events are scheduled for Friday with the finals Saturday night.

Cascadian is a contender in the breaststroke. He owns a time of 1:06.3.

Undefeated Seaholm is the proverbial "team to beat." Van Fleet and his charges took the Eastern Michigan Conference crown with a 7-15 dual meet.

Van Fleet, however, pointed to several individual swimmers to watch. Foremost among them was Thurston's Ken Wiebeck, who holds state records in the 200-yard individual and backstroke.

The Seaholm coach mentioned another record-holder in Pete Adams, of Detroit Pershing. Adams is tops in the 400-yard event, but also does the shorter 200-yard distance.

Tim Cash, of Royal Oak Kimball, is rated a contender in the 200 and 400 yard freestyle swims.

O'Neill team past Hoyt with a 27-point performance, while Dave Goff led the losers with 22.

A&W had a two-fisted attack led by Dave Abel (20) and Rod Lyons (19) to overcome a 34-point effort by Ken Titheridge of Drayton Inn.

Tonight at Cray JHS, A&W will play Reeves at 8:30 preceded by a 7:15 contest between Tim's Barbershop and Woodcum Drilling.

Club Quintet Captures City 'A' Championship

Southwest Community Club became the second Pontiac recreation basketball team to qualify for the district playoffs by defeating Westside Recreation in the Class A city tournament, 89-49, last night.

In the city Class B playoffs, McDonald's Drive in forced an extra game in the double elimination when it beat the Bachelors' Club, 65-57.

In the Waterford Township Class B playoffs, A&W Root eliminated defending champion Drayton Inn 80-71; and in the winners bracket, O'Neill Realty edged Hoyt Realty, 71-67.

The Pontiac Class C league playoffs continued with Columbia Avenue Baptist, third place team during the regular season race, moving into the first round with a 79-54 whipping of Local 594.

The union team, second in the league race, will play Michigan Bell tonight at 7 p.m. in the Madison JHS gym for the right to move into the finals against the Baptists. The telephone team moved up last night with a forfeit victory.

EARLY LEAD
SWCC had five men in twin figures and built a commanding 25-10 first quarter lead to coast to the "A" championship. Steve Thompson's 18 points for Westside were high in the games.

Gary Holtz's 24 markers paced the McDonald's victory. The winners jumped ahead 37-23 at half-time and stayed off a late comeback by the B shooters. The same two clubs will decide the "B" crown at 7 p.m. today in the PCL gym.

George Ratledge's 25 points topped the Columbia Avenue Baptists' winning effort as four men hit double figures for the winners. The church team held a 37-30 halftime margin but continually built it in the final half.

In the lowly playoffs, Dave Struble managed the 18 points for the winners.

'Irish' Seek Coach

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Joe Kuharich's resignation as Notre Dame head football coach kicked off one of college football's all-time guessing games.

Kuharich's resignation was announced by the university Wednesday and at the same time freshman coach Hugh Devore was named "interim coach for 1963."

As Kuharich's ultimate successor, that will be tossed around until possibly after the 1963 season and no name probably will be more prominent than that of Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State.

Kuharich quit to take a job with the National Football League as supervisor of NFL officials, replacing Mike Wilson, who is retiring at 66.

LOSING RECORD

The 44-year-old Kuharich, with four years to run on his present contract, had a 17-23 record at Notre Dame after succeeding Terry Brennan in 1958.

The firing of Brennan brought on a national wave of criticism especially since it happened a few days before Christmas but Notre Dame President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, C.S.C. said the maneuver was an attempt to combine academic excellence with Notre Dame's athletic record.

Brennan had a 32-18 record at Notre Dame from 1954-58 and, although much better than Kuharich's, it was rather timid in comparison to that of Brennan's predecessor, Frank Leahy, with 87-11-9, or Knute Rockne with 105-12-3.

Devore, 52, has bounced around from Notre Dame to other colleges back to Notre Dame to professional coaching and again back to Notre Dame for 30 years. He also served as interim coach in 1945 when Leahy was in service and came up with a 7-2-1 record.

"Interim coach, that's exactly what it means," said Devore. "I have no designs on the main job. After all, I've been coaching for 30 years. I'm here to help out and Kuharich suggested I take over. My job as freshman coach will not change. I want to see the university come out of this situation as well as possible."

"Joe's resignation was not anticipated," continued Devore.

Softball Teams Sought by Waterford Township

All prospective 1963 men's softball teams are urged to contact the Waterford Township Recreation Department, according to an announcement this week.

Two leagues — Class B and C — are planned for this summer and anyone wishing to manage or sponsor a team should call the department at OR 4-037.

Games will be played under the lights at Drayton Plains' Softball Park.

Farmer Wins on Gift Horse

One-Eyed Mount Is Top English Hurdler

CHELSTENHAM (AP) — Never look a gift horse in the mouth, even if it's only got one eye.

Somebody made Irish farmer George Spencer a present of a foal because it had lost an eye and was considered no good to anybody.

Spencer, 43, came to England for the first time in his life Wednesday and rode one-eyed Winning Fair to victory in the Champion Hurdle Challenge Cup for a prize of 5,585 pounds ($8,830).

The whole of Ireland seemed to appear on the scene as Spencer dismounted after his surprise victory. Irishmen clapped him on the back, hoisted him on their shoulders and carried him straight to the champagne bar.

FIRST TIME

"Sure, England's a wonderful place," Spencer said. "I rode in an aeroplane for the first time to come here. Now my one-eyed darlin' has done it."

"You should have seen the trouble I had riding him at first. He couldn't see straight."

Winning Fair, sired by Funnair out of Winning Hazard, finished the 2-mile course three long's ahead of Farney Fox.

Capac vs. St. Paul in Regional Highlight

Like stepping on thin ice without a swim suit, any prediction on the outcome of tonight's regional Class C tussle at Fernalde would have to be a cautious guess.

Both clubs have rolled to impressive records this season. Capac was rated the top 'C' team in the state in the final polls, while Grosse Pointe tied for third.

This is natural enough when the squads are compared on paper, but court results often contradict paper advantages.

Nevertheless, Capac must be rated a slight favorite on the basis of records. The Chiefs have posted a perfect record in 19 games. The tipoff is at 8:20.

The Southern Thumb champs have not dropped a league contest in more than two years. However, in tournament play, it is a different story: one that warms the heart of St. Paul cagers.

True enough, Capac has dominated the Southern Thumb Conference, but Grosse Pointe has like-wise dominated Capac.

The parochial city champs, who now own a 20-1 record, have eliminated Capac in the last two regional tournaments. Last year, the Grosse Pointe cagers knocked off the Chiefs 48-32.

St. Paul won the title for Class C teams in 1961. Capac was eliminated in the regional 45-38 in overtime. In 1962, Grosse Pointe fell in the semi-finals to Kalamazoo Christian.

STUMBLING BLOCK

Grosse Pointe easily has been the Chiefs' major stumbling block. Capac will need more than paper figures to win tonight.

Coach Harry Moore is expected to start John Scheuer, 6-foot-4 center; Ken Adamski, 6-2 forward; John Stanloui, 6-2 forward; and guards Dan Petz and Ken Kobayashi.

Combining a snappy fast break offense with solid defensive play, Capac has received balanced scoring from Scheuer, Petz, and Adamski this year.

The Chiefs are a particularly tough five on defense and have good depth. The nearest any opponent came to catching Capac all season was 13 points.

Grosse Pointe, who took the Detroit city title with a win over Class A Pershing, also receives double figure scoring from three starting regulars.

St. Paul is usually topped by Bob Martin, a 6-foot-4 center; Gary Ghesquiere, a guard; and Jim Bigham, the other guard. Brain Schick and Berry Trombley round out the quintet at the two forward posts.

In the test that tears 'em apart — the Daytona "500"—Ford durability conquered the field!

Score another big win for Ford—this time at Daytona, February 24! The Daytona "500" is one of the toughest tests of automotive machinery. The twisting, turning, acceleration and braking a car gets in a little over 3 hours and 15 minutes at Daytona easily equals the wear and tear of 2 or 3 years' normal driving. And over 70,000 spectators saw dramatic proof of the stamina and durability built into the '63 1/2 Super Torino Ford. Outperforming competitive cars in a field of 50, Fords finished 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th! Daytona was open competition, too—not a "pattern" test arranged by one car builder to favor his car's strong points. Never before has one make dominated so completely a major U.S. 500-mile track event. Ford's 540-hp victory at Daytona stands as a spectacular demonstration of total performance!

Bonus Awaits Gordie Howe

DETROIT (UPI) — If Gordie Howe scores a goal against the New York Rangers at Olympia tonight, it would be more fitting to flash a green light than a red one.

Howe's next goal will be the 35th of the season and will mean a lot of green stuff for the National Hockey League great $1,000 of it to be exact.

Every goal he scores after his 35th goal will be worth an extra $100.

Howe wasn't even aware that he was close to a bonus when he flashed the red light for the 35th time against Boston Sunday.

But manager-coach Sid Abel checked the contract yesterday, he found the 35th one will be a big one for Howe.

"All the bonus clauses sounded so fantastic last summer when I signed my contract that I didn't think I could reach them and forgot about them," Howe said.

He added, "Maybe I'm better off not knowing. I might choke up."

But the Red Wings aren't worried a bit about the possibility of Howe "choking."

The great veteran has been doing fantastic things for the Wings for years and they've stopped being surprised at his feats.

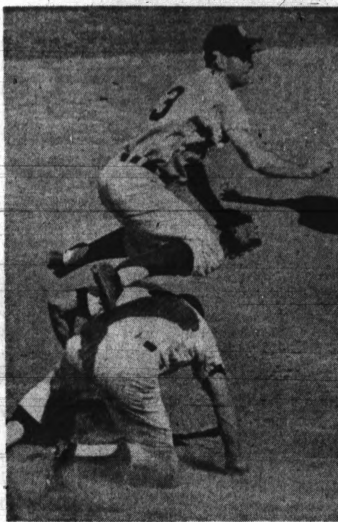

EIGHT FROM MARK

He stands just eight goals from Maurice (Rocket) Richard's all-time total of 544 and is a cinch to break it at the outset of next year.

Although the Red Wings game with the Rangers means little in the NHL standings with the Wings and Rangers in fourth and fifth to stay, it could mean a lot in the scoring standings.

With 31 goals and 42 assists, Howe leads the NHL with 76 points while the Rangers' Andy Bathgate is right behind with 73 on 31 goals and 40 assists.

The rivalry between the two players is keen since Howe beat out Bathgate for the first-lead All-Star selection at mid-season.

Set Back Job Hopes

Phillies Bomb Wynn

By The Associated Press

Early Wynn has one foot inside baseball's record books. He may be too old to lift the other.

The 43-year-old right-hander, one victory shy of becoming the 14th major league pitcher to win 300 games, is trying to stick with the Chicago White Sox in a final bid to join the select circle. Philadelphia's Phillies gave him a shove toward the old peoples' home Wednesday.

Working without a contract and needing some impressive performances to get White Sox brass to draw one up, Wynn was shelled for two triples, a double, and a home run by the Phillies at Saratoga, Fla.

TABLES TURNED

That was it for Wynn. The White Sox managed to turn the tables in the third inning and belted Phil's ace Art Mahaffey and reliever Billy Smith for eight runs and a 10-7 victory. Catcher J. C. Martin had two hits in the inning, a two-run homer off Mahaffey and a double of Smith.

It was a tough day for pitchers. Cleveland 29-game winner Dick Donovan was shelled for seven straight hits and four runs in a 6-5 loss to Houston at Tucson, Ariz., and New York Yankee hopeful Stan Williams was tagged hard as the world champions lost to Detroit 4-2 at Fort Lauderdale.

Get Into a Stem Swing

Skiing Tips by Toni Sailer

Why turn? Because you can't ski, easily glides into parallel position. DON'T miss that split second while you pass the vertex to shift weight from left ski to right. For if your weight remains on the left ski, you can't turn. The right turn is carried out in the same sequence of maneuvers with your weight being shifted from the right ski to the left on the vertex. That's it.

The turn normally connects two traverses running in opposite directions. The basic turning maneuver from which all various turns develop is the "Stem Turn." Once you are in command of the Stem Turn, you'll be able to tackle any run no matter how steep or narrow.

Let me explain the left turn (in the right turn you just reverse skis, shoulder, arm and pole).

Again you start out from traversing position, observing the general rule — weight on downhill ski, uphill shoulder and uphill ski slightly forward, hips slightly bent. The steeper the slope, the deeper the crouch.

- Weight on left (downhill) ski. Right shoulder and right (uphill) ski forward.
- Just before the turn starts, left shoulder goes ahead and the left pole runs into the snow.
- Right heel presses the rear end of right ski outward, just as if you were doing a "half" snow plow.
- Your body turns toward the line of fall and more and more to the left, at the same time shifting weight outward and then from the left to the right ski which now becomes the downhill ski.
- Left shoulder remains forward while the left ski, now the upper DEMONSTRATES stem turn: (1) Around you go. The start of a turn. (2) Here's where you really use that pole. (3) Crucial moment — when you shift weight.

American Ski Jumpers, Beauty Queen in Oslo

OSLO (AP) — The two top American ski jumpers, John Ballanz and Gene Kottlarek, arrived in Oslo Wednesday on the same plane as Minnesota's Viking queen Karen Sevendsen.

Miss Sevendsen, who is here for a nation-wide goodwill tour, will watch Ballanz and Kottlarek compete against 90 other jumping aces on the reconstructed 90-meter Holmenkollen Hill Sunday.

Ballanz and Kottlarek, both 22, are also from Minnesota.

College Teams Open NIT

By The Associated Press

College basketball's post-season derby draws another starter tonight with the opening of the 26th annual National Invitation Tournament in New York.

The NIT starts off with a first-round doubleheader pairing Villanova against DePaul and Fordham against Memphis State. Six twinbill sessions are scheduled, with the championship final set for Saturday afternoon, March 23.

On Friday night, Cincinnati begins its drive for a third straight national collegiate title in one of four regional semifinals doubleheaders in the 25th NCAA tourney. Elsewhere, the NCAA small college tournament continues tonight.

day night against the DePaul-Villanova winner and Canisius meets the Memphis State-Fordham survivor the same evening. Next Tuesday night, Marquette faces the St. Louis-LaSalle winner and Providence meets the Miami-St. Francis victor in the quarterfinals.

Finals will be Thursday night, March 21.

Cincinnati, top-ranked nationally with its 23-1 record, enters the NCAA firing Friday night against Texas at Lawrence, Kan. Colorado plays Oklahoma City in the other Midwest Regional semifinal game.

In the Eastern Regional at College Park, Md., New York University meets Duke and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia plays West Virginia. In the Midwest Regional at East Lansing, Mich., Loyola of Chicago is scheduled against Mississippi State and Illinois takes on Bowling Green. In the West Regional at Provo, Utah, it will be Arizona State against UCLA and San Francisco against Oregon State.

MISS. STATE

Mississippi State remained a question mark as a competitor in the NCAA after another move to uphold the state's unwritten law against segregated athletics. State Sen. Billy Motts was granted a temporary court injunction Wednesday banning the team's participation in the tourney but a school spokesman later said the trip to East Lansing was going on as scheduled since no official court notice had been received.

Wittenberg, the nation's first-ranked small college club, led the way into the NCAA college division semifinals at Evansville. The Tigers from Ohio blanked Northeastern for a 64-minute stretch late in their game Wednesday night and beat the Boston team 84-71.

Wittenberg meets Oglethorpe tonight and Southern Illinois plays South Dakota State, with the winners competing for the title Friday night.

Top-seeded Grambling advanced in the NAIA marathon with a 56-45 victory over Athens, Ala., Wednesday night but Fort Hays, Kan., upset second-seeded Augsburg 82-71.

In other second round games it was Northern Michigan 101, Central Michigan 87; Carson-Newman 70, Indiana State 63; Pan American 64, Stetson 41; Lewis and Clark 88, Transylvania, Ky., 80.

The tourney, which started with 32 teams Monday, will have its final Saturday night.

U.S. Southpaw Wins in First Tennis Upset

Those fast, chunky "niblets" of snow and ice were evident at Mt. Holly last weekend where the reports have the conditions fair-to-good.

Pine Knob reports good powder snow on its slopes and is open.

A late report this morning announced there will be skiing at Teplee Hill this weekend.

Sun and warm weather have taken their toll at Alpine Valley, Mt. Brighton and Grampian Mountain, however, which are closed.

No special ski outings have been announced for the remainder of the month by any of the areas, and ski races and jumping events have ended for the season.

Those fast, chunky "niblets" of snow and ice were evident at Mt. Holly last weekend where the reports have the conditions fair-to-good.

Pine Knob reports good powder snow on its slopes and is open.

A late report this morning announced there will be skiing at Teplee Hill this weekend.

Sun and warm weather have taken their toll at Alpine Valley, Mt. Brighton and Grampian Mountain, however, which are closed.

No special ski outings have been announced for the remainder of the month by any of the areas, and ski races and jumping events have ended for the season.

2 Teachers Hired by Amish; School Closing Averted

HILLSDALE (U) — The Amish people of Camden and Woodbridge townships in Hillsdale County have averted threatened closing of their schools, it was reported yesterday.

The sect has hired two certified teachers to replace two 16-year-old Amish girls who conducted classes, said Walter P. Holliday, Hillsdale County superintendent of schools.

The county had threatened to close the schools unless the Amish complied with state teaching standards.

Attendance at the schools totals 33.

'Intermarriage Not Sought'

DETROIT (UPI) — The Rev. Martin Luther King responded to a question last night about racial intermarriage by saying that the Negro wants to be the white man's brother, not his brother-in-law.

King spoke at a lecture in Alton, and was due to arrive here today on his swing up from the South.

One of the leaders of the integration movement, King has been jailed on numerous occasions. "I expect to be jailed again," he said.

King charged that the Protestant churches in the North are falling down in the responsibility. "There is an old gospel saying," King said, "that the church is the light of the world" but in the integration movement, he added, "the church has been the light instead of the headlight."

The church, he said, must remove the yoke of segregation from its own body and move more into the realm of action.

King said the South is segregated and the North is desegregated, but neither, he believes, is integrated.

Rabies Serum Dropped to Ship at Sea

NEW YORK (U) — A Coast Guard plane dropped a supply of antirabies serum to the liner Queen Elizabeth at sea today for possible treatment of a 4-year-old Canadian boy.

The Cunard liner was about 250 miles east of New York when the plane made its drop into the sea. The package was recovered within three minutes.

The serum was flown to the vessel after a Canadian health official, Dr. Stuart Smith, said in Stony Plain, Alta., that Andrew McLeod was either bitten or scratched some time ago by a dog which might have been rabid.

There also was the possibility, Smith said, that it could be distemper, a canine disease.

The boy and his mother are traveling to England.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

One of the late Sir Harry Lauder's most popular songs had a chorus that went something like:

"Did you ever see a bridge hand go this way, go that way? Did you ever see a bridge hand go this way, go that way?"

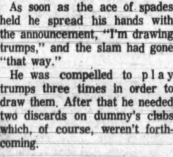

JACOBY Without going deeply into the merits of the North-South bidding I must point out that they arrived at a mighty good slam contract.

West thought about saving at seven diamonds, but finally decided that he might just as well try to get a small profit in the event that North and South were too high. He would have acquired that profit easily if he had opened a low diamond. East would have won with the jack and would have had no trouble figuring out the club return, but West opened the king of diamonds and the hand went "this way."

Put Off Action on Policeman

Commission Wants to Talk With Chief

No decision on four requests of the Pontiac Police Officer Association, including overtime pay, will be made by the City Commission until it meets with Police Chief Joseph Korman and City Manager Robert Stier.

The PPOA, meeting with the commission last night, however, asked that the commission try to have answers on the requests before the association meets again next month.

Sgt. Herbert C. Cooley, Association president, said yesterday's meeting was "very worthwhile" to all parties concerned.

"The Association hopes that some of these problems that have arisen in the department can be resolved quickly," Cooley said. "The commission also is looking for a satisfactory solution to these problems."

"The commission was very attentive to our proposals," said Cooley. "I think we were able to give them a better understanding of what we are asking."

The commission made no commitment, however, and said it would not until the meeting with the police chief and city manager was over, Cooley said. No date was scheduled.

Car Production Continues Up

DETROIT UP — Car production schedules for the week were down slightly from last week but the output is 10 per cent above the same week last year.

Automotive Industries, the trade magazine, said today that 149,643 new cars were scheduled to be produced. Last week 151,566 cars were assembled and last week 135,704 cars were turned out.

This week's estimates mark the ninth consecutive week that 1963 production has been higher than the comparable week last year.

Through Saturday, the industry will have produced 1,621,162 cars, nearly 9 per cent higher than the same period in 1961.

General Motors accounted for 56.2 per cent of this week's production, Ford 22.8 per cent, Chrysler 13.6 per cent, and American Motors 7 per cent.

Preiss was in the military Co. of Milwaukee offered a scholarship through the International Road Federation to a highway engineering student in Perth in recognition of the city's flash in lights during Glenn's space capsule passes in February.

Briton Plans Warring on De Gaulle

LONDON (AP) — Foreign secretary Lord Home plans to warn the North Atlantic Treaty Organization members and allies that French President Charles de Gaulle's policies imperil their alliance with the United States.

Word spread today that Home also intends to lead the weekly session of the NATO council in Paris that the security of Europe imposes these demands on America's 14 NATO allies.

1. Loyalty acceptance of military and political cooperation with the United States.

2. Reaffirmation of the Allies' shared goals.

3. Fairer distribution of the defense burden, which falls heavily on the British.

Barraged from the European Common Market by French objections, the British now are preparing to hit back at de Gaulle in a bid to thwart his ambition to lead Europe.

British leaders had hoped for effective action by France's Five Common Market partners to counter the French veto of Britain's application to join the group. This hasn't developed.

Home and his advisers believe the French president would like to see a phased American and Soviet withdrawal from central Europe. But they feel de Gaulle would not dare to suggest such a thing in the foreseeable future because he could never sell it to his West German partner.

U.S. envoy Livingston Merchant told British support for a NATO common market of surface ships manned by crews of mixed race.

U.S. Assets Practice Shots Taken in Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has denied a Soviet charge that three American warships fired on a Soviet trawler last Friday.

Six Navy destroyers fired gunnery exercises in the area—700 miles east of Norfolk, Va.—but the nearest surface ship was 12 miles away, five miles beyond the destroyers' maximum anti-aircraft range, said a statement issued Wednesday night by the State Department.

The surface ship was not identified and a spokesman said he did not know if it was a Soviet vessel.

In its protest the Soviet Union said two cruisers and a destroyer fired dummy — nonexplosive — shells near a Soviet ship. This, said Moscow, was "an act of their wantonness which could have grave consequences."

Blames Parents for the Students' Lack of Training

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — It is mainly the fault of parents when college engineering students do not have the necessary high school background, a national leader in the field told fellow engineers here.

More physics, chemistry and math courses should be taught at the high school level, said Joe J. Ralby, national director of the American Society of Professional Engineers.

But many parents, he declared, object to the courses since they take up much time and cut down on social activities of the students.

Can't Be Trusted

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran bondsman Jesse Herman says criminals can't be trusted now as well as they could be a generation ago. In the last 10 years, he says, bail skippers have cost him $60,000, and he rarely writes a bond any more without collateral.

Set Lie Tests for Kin of Missing Woman

BROOKLYN (UPI)—Lie detector tests were planned by police today for the family of Mrs. Joan Watkins, who disappeared from a laundromat the morning of Feb. 17.

Police said they were checking a mysterious telephone call, which nobody remembers taking, to the missing woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Ferry, of Walden.

The call came, police said, about 10 hours after the 23-year-old Mrs. Watkins had vanished. The call was reportedly made by a man from a telephone at Clark Lake, about five miles southeast of here.

Mrs. Watkins' parents were not at home at the time of the call, but other members of the family were. No one recalled taking the call.

A check of telephone company records by police showed that the call had been placed collect and that someone at the home accepted. Police said relatives of the missing woman had agreed to take lie-detector tests.

Mrs. Watkins, the mother of a little girl, left her home that night telling her husband she had to go down to the laundromat to wash out a few diapers for the baby. When she didn't return, her husband called the laundromat but received no answer.

He telephoned police and they picked him up and drove down to the building. It was deserted. The woman's keys and cigarettes were found inside and the car was parked outside, a neatly folded bundle of diapers on the front seat.

There were no clues. A week following her disappearance, a massive search of the area was conducted, but no trace was found.

Chicago's Mayor Awaiting JFK Visit

CHICAGO (AP)—President Kennedy plans to fly to Chicago March 23—a visit that will coincide with the windup of Mayor Richard J. Daley's campaign for reelection.

The White House said Tuesday that the President will attend the dedication of O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest commercial field.

Daley, top Democrat in Illinois, is opposed in the April 2 election by Benjamin S. Adamowski, a Republican and onetime Democrat who served a term as state's attorney for Cook County.

The powerful Chicago Democratic organization produced the votes that put Illinois in Kennedy's column by 8,858 votes in 1960.

20-Year-Old Sent to Prison

Stealing $1,100 from a drawer in his grandparents' home led to a 1½-to 4-year prison-term Tuesday for a 20-year-old Commerce Township youth.

Richard Wyckoff, of 160 Polverdera St., was ordered to serve the term by Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondora. Wyckoff pleaded guilty Feb. 25 to larceny in the theft.

from a Kentucky prison where he was sent for stealing a car, was accused of taking the money from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fern Wyckoff, 2883 Franklin Road, Southfield.

YOURS $1.00 STEREO or
FOR ONLY MONAURAL

Here's the greatest sound since records began, RCA Victor's brilliant new LP album, "The Sound of Tomorrow," in the revolutionary new "Dynagroove" recording process. You've never heard such depth, such beauty, such realism. This great new album is a special preview of RCA Victor's first 10 releases in the new Dyna-groove process featuring such world-famous performers as Charles Munch conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Leontyne Price, the Robert Shaw Chorale, Peter Nero and the Boston "Pops" Orchestra under the baton of Arthur Fiedler. It's a truly great musical experience and it's all yours for just $1.00.

2 Stadium Bills Ready for All-Clear

Legal Dog Racing Gets to House Floor

LANSING (AP) — "As long as they want racing, we'll give it to them — with both barrels."

This comment was offered by members of the House State Affairs Committee yesterday in explaining why a bill to legalize greyhound racing in Michigan made a sudden, surprising appearance on the House floor.

It bounced out of the committee in company with a controversial bill to increase state taxes on horse race pari-mutuels as a way of guaranteeing bond payments on the proposed $25-million Olympic stadium in Detroit.

"We wanted the pari-mutuels bill but we didn't ask for the greyhound bill," said Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, the House Republican floor leader.

Rep. Lloyd Gibbs, R-Portland, chairman of State Affairs and the lone antagonist to Gov. George Romney and GOP leaders in the pari-mutuels dispute, offered little explanation of why the greyhound bill emerged when it did.

"The committee did it," said Gibbs. "Maybe it was just to please the governor. Everybody is trying to tell this committee what to do. If the governor wants these racing bills, he can have them."

Gibbs said he raised no objections to the bill being reported out although he is not anxious to see "gambling interests" in the state expanded.

This would just mean another group will be getting a slice of the gambling pie," he said.

NOT PLEASED

Rep. Harry Demaso, R-Battle Creek, chief sponsor of the bipartisan dog racing bill, said he didn't expect the bill to come out of committee as it did, and wasn't pleased about it.

He indicated he would ask that it be sent to the Ways and Means Committee, instead of being held on the floor for a vote.

The greyhound proposal would set up a schedule of four race meetings a year, at least one of which would be held in the Upper Peninsula, and one in a county of more than 400,000 population.

The greyhound racing would be supervised by a racing commission patterned after the horse racing commission, with a commissioner appointed by the governor at the head.

A bill to set up greyhound racing in the Upper Peninsula was defeated in the legislature last year.

A group known as Michigan Greyhound Racing, Inc., already has filed papers with the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission and plans to set up an indoor track for winter racing in the Detroit area and a summer outdoor track in the Upper Peninsula, provided dog racing becomes legal.

Don't Be Fooled! Spring's Headed Pontiac's Way

Blustery snow flurries blowing in with a fury now and then may seem ferocious as a lion but don't be fooled. Spring will come to town next week.

Warmer temperatures will greet area residents through Saturday with a low of 23 to night. Tomorrow's high is expected to soar to 40 with little change Saturday.

Eighteen was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 34 at 1 p.m.

West Europe Goes for U.S. Foreign Policy

Popularity Hits Record High but Russ Score Striking Gains

WASHINGTON (AP)—The popularity of U.S. foreign policy has hit a record high among West Europeans but the Soviets have scored striking gains too, according to a new U.S. Information Agency poll.

The recent rise in pro-Soviet sentiment was attributed to "the avoidance of war over Cuba— which many in Europe attribute more to Soviet moderation than to U.S. strength."

The USA survey of opinion in four major European nations, dated last month and still classified as confidential, reported that America still runs well ahead of the Soviet Union in popular opinion.

It also said:

1. Confidence in U.S. leadership showed record gains in Britain and West Germany, but dropped some in France where President Charles de Gaulle is "so dramatically at odds" with President Kennedy.

2. Frenchmen nonetheless continue to hold the United States in high esteem, although de Gaulle's drive for "independence" from America is making some headway and predominant French opinion favors nonalignment with either Washington or Moscow.

USED BY JFK

Findings of USA polls were the basis of contentions by Kennedy in his 1960 presidential campaign that U.S. prestige abroad had slumped during the Eisenhower years.

Last month USA agreed to make public its surveys after they are at least one to two years old.

Its stated reason for the delay was to avoid damage to U.S. foreign relations by publicizing current studies. Under present USA policy, last month's poll would not be released before 1965.

The report's first conclusion from preliminary returns on the European poll was that "favorable impressions of U.S. foreign policies now stand at the highest point registered in measurements on this index extending back to 1955."

Past, Present Dovetail Here

By DICK SAUNDERS

The pigeon, that down-breasted inhabitant of West Huron Street rooftops, is described thusly in Webster's Dictionary:

"A dove, especially one of the domesticated variety. . . . One regarded as pure and gentle."

In the New Testament it is the symbol of the Holy Spirit."

In Pontiac, it is a pain in the neck and the pocketbook.

Regardless of their symbolic status in the Bible, pigeons are a financial problem as well as a pest to the congregation of First Presbyterian Church at Wayne and West Huron streets.

They've cost the church nearly $1,000 so far and no end to the problem is in sight.

A two-man committee was appointed by City Manager Robert A. Stierer Feb. 28 to recommend ways of exterminating the large number of pigeons roosting about the church and nearby buildings.

No report has been filed on the committee's findings to date and Stierer yesterday said he doesn't expect one "for a couple more weeks."

When the old Oakland County Courthouse was torn down, pigeons found a natural haven in the church's towers.

CAMPAGNING — Two Republican candidates for state office worked in a few moments of campaigning at the stop light on Telegraph Road at Long Lake Road this morning before a 9 a.m. press conference at Devon Gables.

The candidates are Ink White (left) for University of Michigan Board of Regents and Circuit Judge Donald E. Holbrook for State Supreme Court.

Republican Hopelists Praise Proposed New Constitution

Republican candidates for state office — whose fates may be of two seats on the State Supreme Court.

The GOP nominee for the other nonpartisan high court post, Circuit Judge Richard G. Smith of Bay City, agreed it was an issue "to talk about" in the campaign.

Raymond N. Hatch, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, said "there would be some transfer of support from the constitution issue to the GOP ticket."

But he hastened to point out that any such support should be based on what's good for the state.

CITE IMPROVEMENTS

All the candidates joined in citing the proposed constitution for improvements in judicial and educational areas.

Main topic of discussion at the press conference, as in the candidates' campaign, was the proposed constitution, which the candidates insisted was a nonpartisan document.

They accused Democrats of making it a partisan issue despite approval of 70 per cent of its provisions by Democratic

Unionists Bolt Banquet

DETROIT (AP)—The AFL-CIO's Gus Scholle and Barney Hopkins walked out on last night's banquet climaxing Detroit's observance of the U. S. Labor Department's golden anniversary celebration.

The two bolted the downtown hotel (Stater-Hilton) meeting of labor and management people just as Gov. George Romney was about to make a speech.

"I had anticipated this would be a celebration in which labor would be the principal participant," said Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO. "This is not the way it turned out to be."

Scholle and Hopkins, secretary-treasurer of the state AFL-CIO, left the hotel without entering the grand ballroom where the banquet took place. They departed after reading the list of speakers.

Mrs. Myra Wolfgang, international vice president of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers, left with Scholle and Hopkins. Her husband, W. F. Wolfgang, an attorney, escorted her as she departed with the others.

The Scholle-Hopkins departure brought an expression of regret from Frederick G. Beattie, field staff chairman here for the Department of Labor. Beattie arranged Detroit's celebration of the anniversary.

"I'm sorry about the walkout," he said. "I know and like Gus Scholle very much," Beattie said.

See Opposition to Closing Law

6 Counties Discuss Topic in Farmington

Michigan's Saturday-or-Sunday closing law, slated to become effective March 28, appeared to be in for some strong opposition today.

The new law, which empowers each county to void it, is to be the topic of discussion at a meeting of supervisors from six counties in Farmington today.

A suit challenging the legality of the law was filed in Wayne County Circuit Court by 61 district stores in 13 southern Michigan counties.

The American Civil Liberties Union of Michigan announced it is backing a movement to repeal the law.

In a letter to Rep. Lloyd Gibbs, R-Portland, the union urged his state affairs committee to favor a repeal bill sponsored by Rep. Russell Strange, R-Clare.

At the Farmington meeting today, supervisors from Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Monroe, St. Clair and Washtenaw counties will be striving for uniformity of the law in the metropolitan area, according to Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

BOARD NONCOMMITTAL

The board of supervisors has remained noncommittal on whether it favors voiding the law here.

The board's miscellaneous committee is expected to make a recommendation either way at a meeting tomorrow. But it may schedule a public hearing before making any recommendation to the board which meets March 21.

So far the board has received only three letters from area stores, two opposed and one in favor of the new law.

An additional 800 form cards signed by private citizens opposed to the new law also have been received by the board's clerk of committees office.

Foe Squelched, House Can OK Olympic Facility

2nd Measure Out of Committee After GOP, Romney Halt Uprising

LANSING (AP) — With a one-man resistance movement firmly squelched in an off-the-floor battle, the House today appeared ready to approve two bills opening the way for a $25-million Olympic stadium to be built in Detroit.

The second of the two bills, providing for an increase in state taxes on horse race betting, reached the floor yesterday after Gov. George Romney and House Republican leaders joined forces to overcome the objections of Rep. Lloyd Gibbs, R-Portland.

It emerged with one minor change from Gibbs' State Affairs Committee as a companion bill setting up a special recreation building authority to issue stadium revenue bonds, came back to the floor with two amendments tacked on by the Ways and Means Committee.

"This is a victory for Michigan," declared Romney in the immediate aftermath of the fight to pry the pari-mutuels increase bill loose from Gibbs' committee.

Passage of the two bills by the House today could put them on Romney's desk before he leaves to help make Detroit's required pitch for the 1968 Olympics in New York Monday.

The governor will join other Michigan and Detroit officials in making a presentation to regain the U.S. Olympic Committee's sanction, lost last month after an intensive propaganda campaign by the city of Los Angeles.

"This is a demonstration of unity," Romney said. "With this support, we'll be able to make a firm, strong presentation to the Olympic Committee."

OBJECTIONS TO BILL

The only thing appearing to complicate matters was Romney's reported objections to two amendments to the stadium authority bill — one setting a $30 million limit on bonding, the other specifying no bonds can be sold before March 31, 1964.

The governor refused to comment on either amendment yesterday, but his legislative aide, Robert Danhof, told House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingsford:

"We can live with the debt ceiling, but I don't think we can accept the effective date."

Biggest Military Bill Yet OK'd in House: $16 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has passed the biggest military buying bill in history—a $15.8-billion authorization for aircraft, missiles and ships.

The measure goes beyond the administration's wishes and those of Republicans bent on cutting the budget.

The $363.7 million tacked on by the Armed Services Committee to build an extra pair of RS70 reconnaissance strike planes touched off most of the controversy before the bill was passed Wednesday on a 374-33 roll call vote.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara doesn't want to build more than the three RS70s already authorized, but in a separate vote on the issue the House backed the committee 226 to 179. This puts the RS70 controversy up to the Senate, which gets the bill now.

Rep. Thomas C. Curtis, R-Mo., sponsored a GOP bid for an across-the-board slash in defense authorization. Curtis sought a 5 per cent reduction in each procurement authorization, and a 12 1/2 per cent cut in the research and development category.

His motion was defeated on a 268 to 149 roll call, largely along party lines.

Republicans have said President Kennedy's $80.8-billion budget can be slashed by $5 billion to $15 billion.

The procurement bill authorizes purchase of 3,000 aircraft, about 60,000 missiles and 43 new naval vessels. It also authorizes conversion work to modernize 35 old on has been lifted at his request, ships.

Sniper Charged in Damage Suit

Gory Taylor Faces $100,000 Action

Oakland County's first phantom sniper, Gary A. Taylor, 26, is the defendant in a $100,000 damage suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court by a Detroit woman he slashed with a machete in 1961.

Mrs. Addie Dixon, 55, claims Taylor's attack caused "a great shock to her nervous system." As a result, the suit alleges, she suffered and continues to suffer "from a traumatic neurosis."

The civil action also charges that Mrs. Dixon suffered a "great loss of earning capacity."

Mrs. Dixon and her 30-year-old daughter, Mrs. Barbara Kraus, were slashed when they refused to give Taylor some money.

ADMITTED SHOOTINGS
Taylor, who had been committed to Ionia State Hospital for the criminally insane after admitting he shot at 13 Royal Oak women with a .22-caliber rifle in 1957, was rooming in Mrs. Dixon's house.

He had been released from Ionia to Lafayette Clinic in Detroit where he was granted limited freedom.

The slashing incident, in which Mrs. Dixon and her daughter suffered superficial cuts, touched off an investigation into Taylor's release from Ionia.

Taylor was returned to Ionia where he is now an inmate.

Officials of Lafayette Clinic admitted they erred in granting Taylor limited freedom.

Ionia officials said he was transferred because of overcrowded conditions after the late Circuit Judge Frank Doty had repeatedly refused to concur in the hospital's recommendations that he be released as cured.

Peace Overtures Published

Russia-China Truce May Be Near

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and Red China, the two superpowers of the Communist world, appear to be on the verge of a big step toward patching up their quarrel, western observers here said today.

Both countries published and broadcast an exchange of letters in which Mao Tse-tung, leader of the Chinese Communist party and ruler of the vast Chinese mainland, invited Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to pay a visit aimed at settling their differences.

While there was no indication that Khrushchev would accept the invitation, western observers said the fact the letters were published here indicated peaceful coexistence policy which the two superpowers will triumph over capitalism through economic means rather than military.

The Chinese do not exclude nuclear war as a means of spreading communism.

The Russians have cut off much of its economic assistance to Peking and has withdrawn thousands of technicians and teachers from China.

The dispute has grown in intensity over the past year and reached a climax recently with the open, published defense of its position and challenge to Moscow to debate the quarrel in the open.

The Chinese letter suggested that Khrushchev stop in Peking while on a trip to Cambodia—a trip that had not been announced publicly before.

If Khrushchev would prefer not to visit Peking, the Chinese said, the Russians can send a delegation headed by "another responsible comrade," or "we can send a delegation to Moscow."

The Chinese letter did not indicate whether Mao himself would be willing to go to Moscow. He rarely travels outside China.

The letters, which were released by the official Tass news agency last night and published by all Soviet newspapers today, were the biggest move taken so far by Moscow and Peking to heal the rift that has led to virulent charges of "treason" and "cowardice."

Civic Group Reorganizes at City Hall

The reorganized City Improvement Advisory Committee held its first meeting at City Hall last night.

E. Eugene Russell was named general chairman of the 75-member group. Russell is Pontiac district commercial manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The advisory committee is a major factor in the continued success of Pontiac's urban renewal projects.

Without the participation of citizens in a workable community improvement program, the federal government might not certify Pontiac's renewal program.

PROGRAM CERTIFIED
The program is certified by federal officials each spring. Failure to get certification would mean federal urban renewal funds would be cut off.

Mayor Robert A. Landry welcomed some 43 members who were able to attend last night's organizational meeting. He said:

"It is definitely not the intention of the City Commission that this committee develop into a political body."

"You form a handicapped nucleus of civic leaders to help speed the rehabilitation and development of the new City of Pontiac."

Russell explained that the group's work would be mostly in the area of neighborhood and community improvements, including substantial housing.

Forms will be distributed to members at next month's meeting, whereby they will survey their own communities.

"Our first job will be to learn the nature and extent of community problems," Russell said.

"Then we can recommend the most economical methods of solving these problems, both to the city and to the neighborhood residents."

Floods Recede as Rains End

Estimate Damage to Property in Millions

By The Associated Press
Mud, muck and misery greeted thousands of families returning to their homes today in portions of five southern states hit hardest by rampaging rivers and streams.

Other thousands were homeless still, but the torrential rains were over and the flood waters were receding in most sections.

Property damage mounted to many millions of dollars, and massive cleanup operations added to the cost. Thick mud coated homes, businesses and roads in some areas. Occasional mudslides blocked streets.

Parts of southeastern Kentucky and southwestern West Virginia were declared disaster areas by President Kennedy.

IS DEAD
Fifteen deaths were attributed to the floods and five persons were missing. Six died in West Virginia, four in Tennessee, two in Kentucky, two in Virginia and one in Alabama.

Volunteers built an emergency wall of dirt to avert a flood at Prestonsburg, Ky., and the barrier turned back the Big Sandy River with just four inches to spare.

At Palatka, down river from Prestonsburg, water was reported over the parking meters on the main street. About 1,000 of the 2,400 persons in the town were evacuated, but a civil defense spokesman described the situation as well in hand.

Ten passengers and a driver were rescued from a Greyhound bus trapped for more than eight hours in flood waters on a highway 55 miles west of Chattanooga, Tenn.

FORCED TO STOP
Amphibious vehicles were used to remove the passengers and bus driver Forrest F. Darnell of Memphis, Tenn. He said he was forced to stop the vehicle in shallow water sweeping across highway 4 when a car stalled in front of him shortly after midnight Wednesday.

The water rose quickly to about four feet and poured two feet deep into the bus, he said.

"The water was so swift it picked up the front of the bus and set it on the shoulder of the road," he said. "The bus rocked all night."

Skies were clear across two-thirds of the nation today with the most of the weather in the northeastern section of the country.

Rain, drizzle and fog dampened coastal areas of the Middle Atlantic Coast states, the eastern half of the Ohio Valley and the Lower Great Lakes region. Fog also shrouded most of the Gulf Coast region.

to getting the parliament bill from committee but favors the stadium bill amendments, said they were designed to provide safeguards that the authority would not be carried away with its authority.

After House passage, the bills would return to the Senate where they originated and were passed, and there were predictions by some lawmakers that an effort to remove the two amendments would be made there.

Gibbs was subdued but not silent yesterday after a House GOP caucus voted heavily in favor of having the parliament bill brought to the floor.

"I still think it's bad legislation," said the Portland lawmaker, who objected to the parliament bill on grounds it could mean tax money would be used for the Olympic stadium.

BOND GUARANTEE
The bill provides that a 1-to-2 percent increase in the state's share from wagered money at thoroughbred and harness tracks would go into the treasury as a guarantee that the bonds and interest would be paid off.

It would be used only if rental income from post-Olympic use of the stadium failed to meet bond payments.

Gibbs had unsuccessfully sought an amendment making with repellants will solve the problem.

"If we got rid of them, they'd just go to another nearby building and unload the problem on someone else."

Oddly enough, the Presbyterian faith and pigeons have somewhat of a common ecclesiastical bond.

John Calvin, a founder of the Presbyterian Church, wrote a modest tract when preaching sermons in Geneva during the mid-1500s.

One of the reasons for the cap, according to a local cleric, was that the church rafters were a favorite nesting place for pigeons.

The "homeing instinct" seems to be reasserting itself in Pontiac.

"We hope something can be done soon," said Allen. Nesting season is approaching.

Controversy Aroused Over Zoning Proposal

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Considerable controversy is being aroused here over a proposed zoning ordinance that would triple the area designated for commercial use.

A public hearing to discuss the ordinance is scheduled for 8 to 10 p.m. in the Cranbrook auditorium.

In a report to the citizens of the ordinance charge that it "would fundamentally change the character of this city."

Mayor John S. Bugas charged today that the report issued by Commissioners Lyman J. Craig, Robert A. Frye and Henry L. Woolfenden is misleading an incomplete.

He noted that while the ordinance increases the acreage zoned commercial to 77, it also decreases multiple housing acreage from 19.7 to 8.7.

"Multiple housing should be brought to a reasonable minimum," he said.

He charged that the opposition report also failed to state that two-thirds of the 77 acres to be rezoned commercial would consist of drives, off-street parking and landscape.

Office type structures, Bugas said, are "most conducive to the character of Bloomfield Hills."

He said the reduction in multiple dwelling units provided in the ordinance will result in "a more appropriate type of multiple housing development."

Bugas said that tonight's public hearing on the ordinance is premature.

"We should not adopt an ordinance until we have heard the differences."

If this isn't done, he warned, the ordinance may be rendered vulnerable.

He charged that the ordinance is being forced to a vote by the majority of the city Commission.

The sections of the ordinance in dispute are supported by the City Planning Commission, Villan-Leman & Associates, Inc. of Southfield, designers of a city master plan, and Commissioner James A. Beresford, in addition to Bugas.

Louis Colombo Jr., a candidate for the city commission, released the following statement to The Pontiac Press regarding the proposed ordinance.

"I am vitally concerned with the maintenance and preservation of Bloomfield Hills as one of the finest residential areas in the country, and I'll do everything in my power to preserve its traditional form."

Candidate David W. Lee said he would wait to hear the planning commission report before tonight's public hearing before issuing any comment on the ordinance.

Private Plane Lands Safely in Ohio Field

Two Campbell-Ewald Co. executives and their pilot escaped injury yesterday when both engines of their private plane quit at 10,000 feet, forcing an emergency landing in a muddy corn field 40 miles west of Toledo.

The company-owned plane was bound from Pontiac to Indianapolis when the engines lapsed over Archbold, Ohio.

Hatch resides at 3406 Broadway Blvd., Bloomfield Village; Davis at 1030 Pilgrim St., Birmingham; and Barrenfeld, 924 Beachway St., Milford.

The plane took off from Pontiac Municipal Airport at 9 a.m. and was in the air about a half hour when engine trouble developed. Only minor damage resulted from the forced landing.

A crew from Pontiac Municipal Airport is laying planks in the muddy field today so the plane can be pulled out to a road and take off.

Campbell-Ewald administrative vice president Stoffer J. Rozema said the plane will probably be able to fly back to Pontiac tomorrow.

Olympics Bill Passage
Important to State

It appeared for a day or two that Gov. ROMNEY's Olympics finance plan was running into difficulty. The latest move yesterday by the House State Affairs Committee apparently has eased the tension.

Now it looks as if the Olympic bill, which seems to be tied in with the dog-racing bill and the increase of the state tax on horse racing, will overwhelmingly pass the House today.

For the moment, we are not particularly interested in the other two bills, but the one to finance the Olympic stadium and help bring the Olympics to Detroit is important for the entire State.

Michigan and Detroit need the Olympics. It will help our national image.

Assuming the Olympic bill gets by the House today, we hope the Senate, where the Governor seems to have more influence, acts favorably immediately.

Let's fight for the Olympics. California is not letting down.

New Fighter Aircraft to Serve Dual Purpose

A joint Air Force and Navy development is well under way that bodes good for interservice efficiency and economy, with related benefit for the taxpayers.

It combines basic principles of man's first venture into air—when he strapped crude wings to his arms and jumped off cliffs—and his first successful fixed-wing, pulled-by-a-propeller concept of flight.

The revolutionary aircraft is the TFX tactical fighter now in the news. Once in service, it will be known as the F111.

This is the plane, incidentally, involved in the current Boeing-General Dynamics controversy, now being investigated by a congressional committee and centering on policy governing placement of armament contracts by the Department of Defense.

Designers say the TFX will be able to fly great distances at slow speeds with wings extended. This is important to the Navy in long, ocean patrol flights and to the Air Force in shifting planes from continent to continent.

Its twin attribute is that, with wings retracted, it can zoom in for a ground level attack at more than twice the speed of sound.

We think this example of eliminating one type of plane by the advanced, dual-purpose TFX is most praiseworthy and rates a snappy salute of recognition for the cooperating military services.

U.S. Men Don't Want to Work Fewer Hours

People like to work, and they need to work. This is a fact, and retirees who are bored to tears have been saying so for years.

Results of a study by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan bear out this need for work, in the midst of demands for shorter and shorter weeks by many unions.

Survey subjects were asked whether they would continue to work even if they had enough money to satisfy all their needs. Eighty per cent of the men answering said they would continue their labors to avoid the empty hours.

Many respondents indicated they would like a different job.

but they still want some form of labor.

Statistics from Akron, Ohio, where workers in the rubber industry have a shorter than average work week, show that many took another job to fill up their leisure hours.

Many firms, who offer senior employees three weeks' vacation a year have seen more and more split up the vacation, rather than be away from their work for three weeks at a time.

In truth, many of the demands for a shorter week boil down to demands for more hours at overtime pay.

The Man About Town

Misses Minister
Hospital's Aged Patients
Cheered by Girl Scouts

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

It is always pleasant to learn of thoughtfulness evidenced by young people—particularly when the youth of the land currently are making headlines with their peccadilloes and delinquency.

A warm note from Mrs. Martin Back of 716 Cortez, contains a splendid report about a sympathetic project of Girl Scout Troop 229.

This unit of 15 teen-agers has virtually adopted the patients in Pontiac State Hospital's Geriatrics Ward C. The patients have come to eagerly anticipate the holiday-related visits of the girls, with their program of entertainment, refreshments and remembrances.

For Christmas, the scouts made 50 pairs of slippers for their friends—a pretty formidable production job, if you ask me.

Valentine's Day was enjoyed for the old young group with a variety of handmade cards. Plans were made for a St. Patrick's Day get-together, but prevalence of flu at the institution necessitated postponement of it.

By way of a related salute,

Mrs. Lillian Neville of 110 Cadillac, merits praise for the leadership given the troop and the fine spirit exemplified. The lady, despite a full-time job, gives unstintingly of her free time to her scouting interest.

Folks are telling the MAT quite a lot about the birds lately—very little about the bees.

Here are a couple of observations concerning pheasants.

Miss Norma Strickland of 100 Miami Road, saw from Riker Building office window a pheasant stroll nonchalantly across the old courthouse alley. Its course was southwesterly to the alley where (figuratively) passing to light a cigarette it turned south and passed from view.

The lady can't imagine where the bird came from in the first place and where it was headed, in the second. . . But regardless, her sight of the pheasant through glass is just as welcome to the MAT as one under glass. (Truth to tell, I never thought it would turn out that way.)

And, a short time ago,

Mrs. Mac T. Whitfield of 575 W. Irons, saw a pheasant high-tail across Voorhees and enter Mt. Hope Cemetery, deftly side-stepping traffic en route.

Our advice to that bird is to stay in the air, away from automobiles—otherwise the visit to the cemetery may turn out to be sadly prophetic.

While, chipping in with a birdie three is of Gingsville who saw her first robin of the year in the snow near the lilac bush and looking pretty unhappy and hopping mad about the whole thing. May be, remembering the old song "I'll be home, remembering the old song "I'll be home," he thought that proximity to the bush would radiate the felicity of spring . . . something for him to chirp about, anyway.

'Care To Join Me In A Little Snack?'

David Lawrence Asks:

Why the Delay in Cuba Statement?

WASHINGTON—Why has it taken five months for the American people to be told just what the policy of the United States government is toward the Soviet military activity in Cuba? Why was it necessary for members of Congress of both parties to keep prodding the administration before a clear-cut statement of the intentions of the United States became available in the form of a speech by Secretary of State Dean Rusk this week? These questions are being asked on Capitol Hill, but haven't LAWRENCE as yet been answered. Plenty of comments have been made by administration spokesmen in denouncing as "irresponsible" or "partial" those members of Congress who feel the American people are entitled to have their questions about Cuba answered. But, at last, Secretary Rusk has made clear the essentials of American policy, as follows:

1. The United States under no circumstances will "accept or tolerate the reintroduction of offensive weapons into Cuba."
2. The armed forces of the United States and other countries in this hemisphere are available to see to it that any arms now in Cuba shall not be used outside of that country, either in "an organized effort or through piecemeal infiltration."
3. Surveillance will continue and, if necessary, force will be used to protect "the free and active use of international waters and air space" in the Caribbean.

Hal Boyle Says:

Practice Double-Talk
to Pep Up Conversation

NEW YORK (AP)—There are people who always mean exactly what they say—and others who rarely say what they mean. The first group usually are states-at-homes. The second group can always be seen at the best parties. If your social life is dragging, perhaps it is because you "peak your mind too frankly. That usually frightens people away. What you probably need is a little exercise in double-talk to pep up your conversational charm. Double-talk is the art of saying one thing about while silently thinking something usually just the opposite.

U.S.-Latin Pact at a Standstill

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Alliance for Progress has been getting a bad press. Chagrin over developments in Cuba is partly responsible. Also, the unpopularity of foreign aid as a whole rubs off on the special programs to aid Latin America.

There is disappointment that the Alliance in its less than two years of existence has not performed miracles, like saving Cuba. The fact that the plan was oversold at the beginning is responsible for building too high hopes. Organization of American States has just released a first report on its planning operations for the Alliance in 1962, and it does not reveal great progress.

A score or more of Latin American, international alphabetical agencies have held conference after conference. Only six countries have completed their development plans, though more are due shortly. Former Presidents Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil and Alberto Lleras Camarago of Colombia now are trying to simplify the Alliance bureaucracy. But they haven't come up with a plan yet.

OAS has spent $4 million and allocated the other $2 million of a special U.S. appropriation for planning. OAS wants more. But this will require a new appropriation by

'Voters, There's Still Time to Study New Constitution'

On April 1 we are to "accept" or "reject" a full package known as "con con." This should not be passed on lightly, as we may have to live with it for a long time.

It would be ideal if each of us compared the old constitution against the "new," to see where a comma has been changed, note any stops, pauses, or deletions which were made in a sentence, paragraph or section.

Copies of the proposed document are available at the Council office.

'Churchmen Visit
Another Red Trick'

Why were Russian churchmen invited by the National Council of Churches to tour the United States? Can't the American people see that it is another trick of the Communists to infiltrate our churches or are some of our leading churchmen Soviet spies hiding under the cloak of religion? Concerned

'All Pupils Aren't
Taught the Same'

I'm wondering if "Father of Two" has taken a close look at Waterford Twp. High School.

Granted that some students rated well in the state math examination, all students are entitled to a fair chance and only a few are assigned to the capable teacher.

When my grandson was in his senior year his English teacher could not make herself understood in the English language and finally had to be replaced, but she was kept on the staff. I know of at least two students who gave up their plans to major in foreign languages in college because of their unhappy experience in this teacher's Latin class.

One tavern owner wins against many business firms. Our City Commission voted in favor of a tavern owner to be relocated on North Saginaw Street.

Commissioner Harmon stood with the business firms, and Mr. Henry asked that the motion be tabled for one week to allow study of same. The vote lost 5 to 2.

This is an insult to the only decent uptown business. Take a good long look at your commissioners.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Thursday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1963 with 292 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening star is Mars.

Those born on this day include world famous physicist Albert Einstein in 1879. On this day in history: In 1794, Eli Whitney received a patent on the cotton gin.

In 1923, President Harding became the first chief executive to file an income tax. In 1933, Congress approved a measure authorizing the sale of 32 beer.

In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippine Islands were leased to the United States for 99 years.

A thought for the day: Albert Einstein said: "As long as there are sovereign nations possessing great power, war is inevitable."

technicians to serve 267 million people, as compared to 1.1 million engineers in the U.S.—still not enough for its 150 million people.

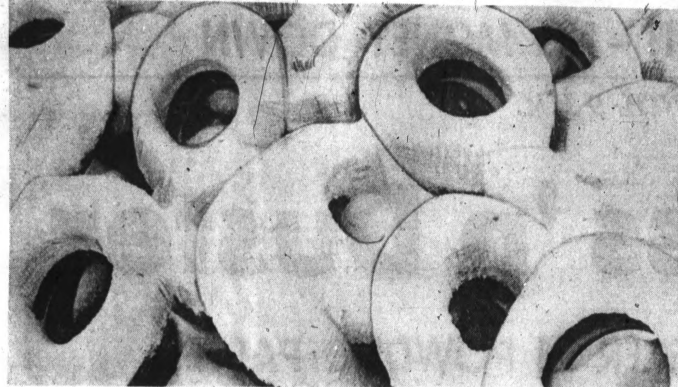

When Latin America has raised its technical proficiency, then there may be need for a more rapid investment rate. Educationally, says Moscoso, Latin America is moving. Nearly 17,000 schoolrooms are being built this year. Fifty U.S. universities are working with as many Latin American universities on student and faculty exchange programs.

One of the principal criticisms of the Alliance is that Latin American countries aren't doing their part in reform which were to be a condition in receiving aid. The reform and land reform, urban and rural slum elimination are admittedly moving slowly, as in every country.

For purposes of comparison, it is pointed out that it took 30 years to clean out the worst slums in Washington, southeast of the Capitol. The job isn't done yet. And there is no great rush to reform taxes in the U.S. Congress, either, to set a good example for Latin Americans.

The Private Business Co-ordinating Committee headed by J. Peter Grace of New York recently criticized the Alliance for moving too slowly. Grace said $2.5 billion a year should be going to Latin America from government and private sources, instead of the $1 billion supplied last year. Moscoso's position is that Latin America cannot absorb outside capital that rapidly now. He believes it will take several years of training technicians before Latin America is ready for widespread industrial investment.

Latin America now has $9,000

Hunt for Reds Intensified in Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's new revolutionary regime is reported stepping up its Communist hunt throughout the nation. Troops and military police are said to have rounded up nearly 100 Reds.

Informed sources said at least two members of the central committee of the Syrian Communist party have been arrested along with Communist writers and other party activists.

Mustafa Amin, acting secretary-general of the central committee, was arrested soon after Friday's coup by pro-Nasser army officers.

Also sought are Socialist party followers of the former U.A.R. vice president from Syria, Akram Hourani. Police arrested two of his aides, former Finance Minister Khali Kallas and former Agrarian Minister Mustafa Hamdoun.

Hourani was rumored to be either under house arrest at Hama, at Yabroud, 60 miles from Damascus, after being mauled by a mob.

U. S. Highway Group to Meet in Michigan

LANSING (UPI) — Boyne Falls will be the site of the annual summer meeting of the American Association of State Highway Officials, State Highway Commissioner John Mackie said yesterday.

Mackie, president of the association, said the sessions of the Planning and Design Policies Committee and Executive Committee would run June 18-21. AASHO last held its summer meetings in Michigan at Mackinac Island in 1953.

Vehicle, Use Taxes Pass '62 Collections

LANSING (U) — State tax collections on motor vehicles currently are running $1.5 million for talks with Iraqi and Syrian leaders. Informants said these collections are $78,184 above the same period of 1962, the secretary of state's office reports.

Sales tax collections on cars are $7.7 million and use tax collections $206,352 for the first seven weeks of the year, the office said.

Record Promotion Gimmick

Duds for Dogs a Stunt

NEW YORK (U) — The Society for Indecency to Naked Animals (SINA) shapes up as a stunt to promote the sale of a new record.

The society reaped publicity last week when its pickets circled the White House with placards asking the First Lady, "won't you please clothe your horse for decency?"

Vice President (and picket) Bruce Spencer said that SINA was a band of 50,000 moralists headed by C. Clifford Prout Jr., of New York.

Prout's father had left $400,000 to institute an organization dedicated to the proposition that "all animals should wear clothing for the sake of decency," Spencer said, and Prout was carrying out his father's wishes.

The man using the name of Prout is a writer for the Garry Moore television show with the professional name of Buck Henry and the actual name of Buck Zuckerman.

He was reported by his office today to be in California.

Time Magazine quoted Zuckerman as saying "It's not fair to say C. Clifford Prout Jr. doesn't exist. A large part of the time that is who I am."

The magazine added, "a more thorough explanation was to be found in a just-released record, 'Inside SINA, narrated by, of all people, Vice President Spencer...'"

EATON RAPIDS (U) — Winston R. Cheal, 34, who has been on the sports staff of the Lansing State Journal, will become publisher of the Eaton Rapids Journal Monday.

South Viet Nam Girls Get Military Training

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Phu is a slim, 18-year-old college girl with warm, wide eyes and a beautiful smile. She wears her long, black hair in a pony tail and dresses in shimmering, white silk.

She also is a good shot with a U.S. Army carbine and is trained to kill silently with daggers and other weapons.

Phu and her sister, Minh, are among 19,000 South Vietnamese girls who have been trained during the past year to defend themselves and kill Communist guerrillas.

Each received a month of training at the women's military school in Saigon, and spent a few weeks at a strategic hamlet in the Mekong River delta to learn the finer points.

Why does a delicate, 5-foot Asian girl volunteer for military training?

COPTER PILOT
Minh explains: "Our brother was a helicopter pilot in the Vietnamese air force. His helicopter disappeared and probably crashed a year ago. Maybe he was captured by the Viet Cong."

"Also, being in the para-military force makes it easier to go to college."

Women students who volunteer for military training receive special assistance from the Saigon government.

Several of the para-military girls have been killed or captured in Viet Cong ambushes. Combat may be in the cards for at least some of the girls. Five hundred are undergoing advanced combat training at the Thu Duc military school, complete with U.S. military advisers.

To Show Film of Bike Tour

A bicycle tour of the Canadian Rockies with noted photographer Stan Midgley will be the next film presentation in a series of programs sponsored by the Pontiac Kiwanis Club at Pontiac Central High School.

Tickets for the March 19 program can be purchased at the door before the 8:15 p.m. show. Midgley will describe his trip through Banff, Lake Louise and Yoho Valley with a commentary on the lighter side.

their male counterparts, Vietnamese and American, on rifle and pistol ranges.

Many of the girls are civil servants who keep up their military training with one session a week. Some are learning English, which they practice on American military advisers. Many come from refugee families from North Viet Nam, and have a real grudge against the Communists.

SLEEP IN BUNKS
In training, the girls sleep in wooden bunks with straw mats. They work hard. Hand to hand combat training includes judo and bayonet drill. Some are qualified paratroopers.

Off duty, the girls look as gentle and feminine as any of their nonmilitary sisters.

Accepting Bids for Park Projects

Bids are now being accepted from Pontiac area contractors for two improvement projects at Dodge State Park No. 4, according to the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Construction of a new combination bathhouse, rest rooms and concession building is proposed. Also planned is the replacement and extension of beach area water and sewer systems.

Sealed bids will be opened March 28 at 2 p.m. by the Department of Administration, Lansing.

The park, located at the north end of Cass Lake, embraces parts of West Bloomfield and Waterford townships.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—She wanted to live in Hollywood, her husband preferred New York, actress Peggy Ann Garner testified.

The couple was married in 1956 in New York. They have no children.

Fuji Slopes Lure 100,000 Each Year

WASHINGTON—The mystic appeal of Japan's Mt. Fuji attracts 100,000 climbers a year.

The climbing season lasts from July 1 through Aug. 31, the National Geographic Society says. As many as 15,000 people have hiked up Fuji in one day.

During most of the year, Fuji's symmetrical slopes are covered with snow, and only experienced alpinists attempt to reach the top of the 12,388-foot quiescent volcano.

SACRED MOUNTAINS
Mountains are revered in Japan and Fujiyama ("yama" means mountain) is the most sacred of all. The graceful cone is venerated by Buddhists and Shintoists alike.

An 18th century poet wrote: "Lo! There towers the lofty peak of Fuji. . . It baffles the tongue, it cannot be named. It is a god mysterious."

The mountain was regarded as the intermediate stage between earth and heaven. But it wasn't until the 15th century that pilgrimages became popular. Women were barred from Fujiyama until 1688.

Pilgrims find that ascending Mount Fuji is an arduous but infinitely rewarding experience. "He who toils up Fuji is a fool—but a worse fool not to have done so," a proverb says. It is not uncommon for a village to select a representative to make the journey and offer prayers for the town.

Climbing Fujiyama thus has become highly formalized. Buddhist cultists, notably the Fujiko, try to make 33, 88, or 108 ascents, these being sacred numbers.

Dear, Sweet Adorable Mother Has Absolutely No Style

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my brother is 18 and our problem is our mother. She is the sweetest, best-natured, most adorable little mother, but she has such poor taste in clothes that sometimes we are embarrassed for her.

She's a little plump but refuses to wear a girdle because it's uncomfortable. Every dress she owns has a full skirt or lots of pleats. When she goes to church, women's club meetings or an afternoon tea she always wears rhinestone earrings and a rhinestone necklace.

I've told her that rhinestones are for after five, and not for older women, but she says she LIKES rhinestones! I even show her pictures of smartly dressed matrons in fashion magazines, but she's not impressed. We hate to hurt her feelings, but want her to look nice. How?

LOVING DAUGHTER: If you have suggested improvements and pointed out smartly dressed women in fashion magazines and your mother remains "unimpressed" — accept her for what she is: A sweet, good-natured, adorable little mother who loves rhinestones, pleated skirts and comfort. And don't be embarrassed.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a

man signed FLORIDA wrote to you saying he was 67 years old and wanted a wife about 48 or 50. What makes him think he is entitled to a woman that young?

If that's the way he figures, a man 25 years old wouldn't want a girl over six! These old curmudgeons give me a pain. Why can't a 67-year-old man be satisfied with a 65-year-old woman?

Confidentially, I think women hold their age better than men anyway.

A YOUNG WOMAN OF 65

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is too silly to answer because I have been trying to find the answer to this question for a long time and you are my only hope.

Does the groom carry the bride through the door of the motel on their honeymoon?

Or is it the door of the apartment or house where they are going to live that she gets carried through?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Traditionally, the groom carries the bride over the threshold of their home. But let's face it—once a bride, who cares?

CONFIDENTIAL TO BETTY: You're offering him lip service. He's interested in lips. There's no future in it for either of you.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby in care of The Pontiac Press.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar for Abby's new booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Women-Only Program Set

The Ladies Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold a program for women only March 19 at 8 p.m. in the church basement.

A lecture on cancer will be given and two films entitled "A Chance to Live" and "A Breath of Fresh Air" will be shown.

Women from St. Trinity, St. Stephens and Grace Lutheran churches will be guests.

Patio Design Branch Topic

"Patio Design" will be the topic of speaker Mrs. Claude A. Welles, Jr. of Birmingham at the meeting this evening of the Pine Lake Estates Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

Members will meet at the home of Mrs. Peter Thomas with Mrs. Robert Ruth and Mrs. Edward Ladenberger as hostesses.

Study Floor Care

A lesson on care of carpets and hard floors was given to the Friendly Neighbors Extension club when they met Wednesday at the Sweden

Street home of Mrs. Bailey.

There are about 102.7 males to every 100 females in Australia, according to recent census estimates.

In for summer is the look of the embossed crocodile shortie in polished, glistening white. By Hansen, it's also available in black, dark brown or beige.

Woman Judge Lauds Contemporary Female

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The much maligned contemporary American woman has found an articulate defender in Los Angeles Municipal Judge Vaino Spencer.

"I react with a great deal of emotion," she said, "to the 'castigation of modern woman for her failure to live up to responsibilities."

"Think in terms of all that a modern wife and mother does today compared to what our mothers did. Not only is she running her home more efficiently, but she spends her spare time to the great advantage of the community in both civic and charitable work."

Judge Spencer — who is one of three Negro women jurists in the United States and the sole one in California — has been active in various legal, political and civic work in addition to her professional duties. In private life, she is married, has a real estate broker, Lorenzo Spencer.

Judge Spencer, now 41, reached the bench by a round-about path. When she finished high school in 1933, she entered the real estate business in Los Angeles. She was a broker until 1947 when she decided to return to school.

"I never have been able to pinpoint why I went back to study law," she said. "I suppose association had something to do with it. A number of attorneys had been very close to our family."

She was graduated summa cum laude from Los Angeles City College in 1949 and received her law degree from Southwestern School of Law in 1952. She was a practicing attorney in 1961 when she was appointed to her present position by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

She said that one phase of civil work she never enjoyed was domestic relations. In divorce cases, oddly enough, she found herself representing more men than women.

She said that often when a couple has an argument of any consequence, one or the other will threaten divorce.

"They keep repeating this threat until sometimes they seek a divorce as a face-saving device because they have yelled divorce so often," she said.

Judge Spencer added a criticism of the male of the species.

"It seems to me the average male today does not want to assume responsibility," she said. "He feels completely inadequate to cope with the responsibilities that come with marriage."

Most Teens Favor Federal Aid for Aged

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth
Research, Inc.

There's one segment of the American public that's overwhelmingly and perhaps unexpectedly in favor of Medical Care for the Aged.

Nearly 70 per cent of teen-agers answering our latest nationwide opinion survey say medical care for the aging should be handled by the government.

Only 20 per cent prefer leaving

ing the problem up to private individuals.

As Marcia Reed, 15, of Oradell, N.J., explains, "The government is instituted to aid and protect its citizens."

"Care of the aged is everyone's responsibility," declares Jay Brady, 16, of New Hope, Pa.

DESERVING RECIPIENTS

However, one New Jersey girl qualified her opinion by saying there should be strict regulations to make sure deserving people get aid and the money is not squandered on those who can take care of themselves.

The minority view is represented by Lance R. Pledger, 16, of Corry, Pa., who says "Our government is becoming too socialized."

A surprisingly high percentage of the teen-agers, about three-quarters of the boys and more than three-fifths of the girls, report they have considered the possibility that they might have to care for their parents in later years.

David Clive, 15, of River Edge, N.J. says "I feel it is my responsibility (and my brothers') to care for them. Should the government sponsor medical care for the aged, it should cover those who can't afford or are incapable of caring for aging parents. I can."

Although they've thought about the possibility of this problem arising, about 68 per cent of the boys and 57 per cent of the girls don't think there is much chance they will really be called upon.

Apparently there is no decline in the devotion of today's youth to their parents, for ninety-five per cent of the teen-agers say they will gladly help their parents

if it becomes necessary. But most just don't think their parents ever will be dependent on them.

Ninety-three per cent have no definite plans for meeting the problem.

One rather dominant view among the youngsters is they will be glad to assist their elders but they don't want them living with them if it can possibly be avoided.

As a California girl says, "I feel it ruins a home to have grand-parents living in it and it's not going to be mine."

Pontiac Motor Has Best '63 Sales Period

Pontiac dealers sold more cars in the first 10 days of March than in any first 10-day period so far this year, following a continued sales boom throughout the auto industry.

Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac Motor Division, said division sales totaled 15,177 units for the period.

There were 11,756 Pontiacs and 3,421 Tempests sold.

"On a daily rate basis," he noted, "sales were six per cent ahead of the previous record for the period set in 1955, and a 16 per cent improvement over last year."

Suggests Probe of Press Labor

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK—President Kennedy is trying to clear up the bewilderment many Americans feel when faced by today's economic trends and issues.

In a talk to the Advertising Council on Wednesday he tried to bring the problems debated by the administration and the Congress, and by business and labor and other taxpayers, into clearer focus.

Stanford Smith, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said today a House subcommittee is brooding in study of competition among news media to include the power and practices of labor unions.

Smith told the subcommittee in view of the fact that long strikes it had a duty to determine whether the continued exemption of labor unions from antitrust laws was in the national interest.

Testifying on the second day of what is shaping up as the most searching look Congress has ever taken at the press, Smith challenged a major premise of the hearings, as announced by Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

DEBATE NARROWED

In opening remarks Wednesday, Celler said the steady erosion of the number of metropolitan newspapers is threatening to deprive the public of a diversified source of news.

"The factual picture in the United States is one of amazing diversity of sources of news," Celler said. "There are many individuals and organizations which are producing news."

He buttressed his remarks with a mass of statistical data and supported his testimony by Jesse Markham, professor of economics at Princeton University.

Markham said an ANPA study of news dissemination in 30 representative metropolitan areas showed the public had more news sources than it could use.

"Typically, residents of these areas have access to, and regularly use, several daily papers, weekly papers, numerous specialized magazines and other publications, about 10 radio stations and several television stations," Markham said.

The president's idea, naturally, is that his proposals are the best for the country: a moderate tax cut this year with more to follow; increased defense and social spending, with a brake if possible on civilian project spending; out-qualms over what the federal deficit will do to the purchasing power of the dollar at home or abroad; and an end to the idea that a legal limit on the debt set by Congress does good instead of harm.

The administration's hope is that its plan will get the economy growing at the rate it did before.
