

GMC '65 Pontiac Payrolls Total Nearly $317 Million

General Motors Corp. expenditures for employee payrolls at its three Pontiac manufacturing operations reached nearly $317 million during 1965, it was announced today.

This is an increase of $76 million over last year.

In addition, General Motors spent $91.4 million with approximately 1,000 area companies which supplied goods and services to the Pontiac GM facilities during the past year.

The year-end figures were released jointly today by John Z. DeLoach, GM vice president and general manager, Pontiac Motor Division; Calvin J. Werner, GM vice president and general manager, GMC Truck & Coach Division; and Thomas F. Wiethorn, Fisher Body plant manager.

Combined GM employment in Pontiac averaged 35,200 for the year, rising more than 5,100 above 1964. In December, the average number of employees climbed to 36,273.

BUY BONDS

During the past year, employees invested $7.3 million in U.S. Savings Bonds through payroll deduction, up $1.4 million from the previous year.

Employees at the three GM plants were awarded over $451,000 for ideas submitted in the GM suggestion Plan in 1965.

The maximum suggestion award of $6,000 was given to Pontiac Division employees, Wilfred Osman, Wayne Ridgeway and Elwood West, and to Norman Bishop and Charles Daily of GMC Truck & Coach Division.

In addition, two GMC Truck employees, Clyde Spangler and Asa Uwer cosponsored a suggestion for which they split a $6,000 award.

To the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund, GM employees contributed $483,256, an increase of $71,856 over last year. In addition, General Motors made a corporate gift of $185,000 to the UF campaign.

During 1965, GM operations in Pontiac established several new production records. For the model year, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Asphyxiation Ruled in Waterford Death

An Oakland County Probate Court official died of asphyxiation early this morning in a fire at her Waterford Township home.

Dead is Mrs. William N. Pipe, 57, of 2451 Voorhees, probate registrar in charge of the office staff.

Her body was found in bed by Waterford Township firemen shortly after 4 a.m.

Fire Chief Lewis Goff said the blaze apparently started from a cigarette in a living room couch and then burned downward into the basement of the five-room frame home.

Total damage was estimated at $10,000 by Goff—$7,000 to the home and $3,000 to contents.

DISCOVER FIRE

A passing motorist, Warren Eisenhardt, Sr., 282 S. Hospital, Waterford Township, discovered the fire.

He and a next door neighbor of Mrs. Pipe, LaVerne Boge, attempted to enter the house but were driven back by smoke and heat.

Mrs. Pipe, a widow, was pronounced dead of smoke inhalation at the scene by deputy coroner Dr. William Crommett.

A county employee for 25 years, she had held her present position since 1961.

COURT REPORTER

Prior to then, she had been a court reporter to Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore, then a probate judge.

She was a member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Her body is at the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home. Surviving are two daughters.

Romney Hails Improvement of Economy

LANSING (AP) — Economic improvement — from more money in the treasury to more jobs in the factory — is pinpointed by Gov. Romney as "the dynamic strength that has become our state's trademark."

In a year-end report released yesterday, Romney said the treasury would contain at least $100 million in surplus by June 30.

He said Michigan, in his three years as governor, has "evolved from a problem state to a problem-solving state."

"Our greatest accomplishment has been the increased acceptance of responsibility by more and more Michigan citizens to insure continuation of the level of progress and prosperity begun three years ago."

Besides the surplus, the Republican governor listed these evidences of a strong economy:

• Personal income through September up 11.1 per cent over 1964, keeping Michigan first among major industrial states.

• Business and industrial expansions totaling $1.3 billion announced through November, including diversification away from the auto industry.

• Construction through October up 28 per cent over 1964 to $1.9 billion.

• Employment by last September up 1.1 per cent over 1964.

U.S. Airlifts More Troops to Viet

Harriman's Warsaw Visit May Be U.S. Peace Move

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman flew to Warsaw by presidential plane today in a surprise move believed connected with American efforts to end the fighting in Viet Nam.

The veteran diplomatic troubleshooter was accompanied by 17 aides including State Department experts on China when he arrived in this snow-covered Polish capital aboard a special presidential jetliner.

Warsaw is the only site of diplomatic contact between the United States and Communist China and it appeared the experienced Harriman was there for talks with Chinese Ambassador Wang Kuo-chuan.

The U.S. Embassy said W. Averell Harriman was in the Polish capital on official business.

Also with Harriman was David Dean, the State Department specialist on China. Dean usually flies to Warsaw whenever Chinese-American talks are scheduled.

After Harriman's arrival, an embassy spokesman said U.S. Ambassador John Gromowski was cutting short his visit to Poznan, in Western Poland, and was returning to Warsaw to meet Harriman.

BOMBING LULL

In Viet Nam, the United States moratorium on bombing of targets in Communist North Viet Nam entered its sixth day today.

There was no confirmation in Washington but there were widespread reports the Johnson administration had called the bombing truce in hopes Hanoi would react to offers of peace talks.

The London Daily Express said President Johnson sent an offer for the New Year holiday.

Officials said the explosion hit at 11:45 p.m. The crew had gone on shift at 3 p.m. and was working overtime to get extra time off for the New Year holiday.

ALL MARRIED

The men all were married and most of them had children.

The mine is operated by the Mid-Continental Coal & Coke Co. with headquarters in Chicago and offices in Glenwood Springs.

Miners in other tunnels of the workings were not injured.

'Pontiac Not Singled Out for Special Bias Probe'

A state civil rights official declared last night that Pontiac has not been singled out for any "special" investigation.

The statement came amid allegations of Negro and minority group unrest over local racial discrimination.

A spokesman for the Michigan Civil Rights Commission (CRC) said that Pontiac shared problems of discrimination with every other community in Michigan having a minority group population.

Dr. Burton Levy, CRC director of community services, said Pontiac had not been singled out as having the severest problems.

"Pontiac is not alone," he explained. "The commission (CRC) said that Pontiac shared problems of discrimination with every other community in Michigan having a minority group population."

Once inside, Beebe said, one of the men pulled a gun and forced Beebe to open a safe containing the coins.

Beebe and his son, Royal, were then bound by their hands with adhesive tape before the robbers fled.

Neither of the victims was injured.

Beebe said the coins, which had a face value of $1,000, were insured.

Nine CRC offices are proposed across the state.

Levy said the services of the CRC had been requested by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) on behalf of many community groups.

GIGANTIC MESS

"There may not be a gigantic mess in Pontiac," Levy noted, "but there certainly are a lot of little messes."

Urging a closer relationship between the City Commission, the city's human relations commission and civil rights groups, the CRC spokesman supported a suggestion that a public hearing be called on specific problems such as housing.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and other commissioners objected to the reports of the "mess in Pontiac" and charges that the commission was doing nothing.

Bandits Take Coins Valued at $8,000

A Rose Township man and his son were bound and robbed of an estimated $8,000 worth of collector's coins last night.

Elvin G. Beebe, 11665 Milford, told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies two bandits gained entry to their house by asking to use a telephone following "a bad accident."

Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson objected to a charge that Pontiac Motor Division was bringing in 600 workers a week.

Hudson said this would mean a population increase of 32,000 over a year's time.

American Planes Hold Off Strikes in North for Sixth Day

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Truce talk pervaded the Vietnamese theater of war tonight, but the United States underscored its commitment to South Viet Nam by airlifting another brigade of U.S. troops into the jungle conflict.

The moratorium in the U.S. air war on North Viet Nam went into its sixth day, but the halt in the air attack still drew no public peace feeler from Hanoi.

The South Vietnamese government was reported ready to join the Viet Cong in proclaiming a cease-fire for the Vietnamese New Year next month.

The United States entertained some doubts but was expected to concur in the truce.

Neither Washington nor Saigon saw the Communist offer of a truce on Tet, the lunar New Year festival Jan. 20-23, as a significant breakthrough toward peace.

LONG WAR

In the long guerrilla war, a military lull during the national holiday has become an annual ritual.

The airlift of some 4,000 jungle fighters from Hawaii to the central highlands base of Pleiku, 240 miles north of Saigon, raises the total American force in Viet Nam to 175,000 men.

The 3rd Brigade of the U.S. Army's 25th "Tropic Lightning" Division was arriving by C-141 and C-130 transports to join the American challenge to six or seven North Vietnamese regiments reported operating in the mountains.

The brigade is taking over an area of 100 square miles.

Medical Imposter Held Teacher Post

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The credentials of "Dr. Thomas E. Miyawaki" appeared impeccable. So for 15 months he taught medicine at the University of California Medical Center and even earned a promotion.

But, embarrassed officials revealed yesterday, Miyawaki was not really a doctor, but was an undergraduate dropout from Loyola University in Los Angeles.

After the gigantic hoax was discovered, university officials hastened to emphasize that in his position as an associate in anatomy, Miyawaki did not treat patients or assume any of the duties of a physician.

The fraud was uncovered last week when Miyawaki performed poorly on an oral Ph.D. examination. Astounded at the "doctor's" lack of medical knowledge, an investigation was launched.

But Miyawaki, a 35-year-old Japanese whose parents live in Hawaii, was "apparently competent" in his work of conducting laboratory courses for groups of five or six students, Dean Harold Harper of the graduate division said.

DID NO HARM
"He did no harm except to some administrators' psyches," the dean added.

"Considering his investigative, the gentleman was aptly named. His full name is Thomas Edison Miyawaki."

In Honolulu, where he went with his wife and young son after leaving UC last weekend, Miyawaki said he "did it because of extreme family pressure — very extreme — to become a doctor."

"This was the result... of the Japanese custom of obeying your parents' wishes. They so

The State Health Department said today it has found no harmful substance in a test sample of Austrian-made plastic ice cubes being sold in Oakland County.

Oakland County health officials asked for tests on the Austrian-made cubes after similar products made in Hong Kong had been found to be carrying bacteria.

offer to Hanoi to halt the bombing of North Viet Nam if Hanoi agrees to stop sending reinforcements to the Communist Viet Cong.

The Express, quoting highly placed sources in Washington, said so far Hanoi has made no response to the President.

MAJOR DEVELOPMENTS

There were a series of major developments in the Viet Nam situation including:

- Moscow announced that Alexander N. Shelepin, the No. 2 man in the ruling Communist party, will lead a top-level Kremlin delegation to Hanoi soon. Shelepin's visit could mean more Soviet aid for North Viet Nam — but it could be connected with peace moves.

- Washington dispatches said the Johnson administration, behind a screen of secrecy, is conducting a new probe of the possibilities for peace in Viet Nam. But so far there were no reports it would be a success.

- The North Vietnamese Communists were maintaining silence on the reported peace moves. The Viet Cong yesterday offered the South Vietnamese a four-day lunar New Year truce Jan. 20-23 and Saigon dispatches today indicated the South would accept.

- The South Vietnamese said they were opposed to any formal cease-fire or unconditional negotiations with the Communists. Foreign Minister Tran Van Do told UPI in an interview today South Viet Nam was dead set against peace talks under present conditions. Saigon thinks only a military victory can stop Hanoi.

- The Communist Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported today from Peking that Communist China is making increased appeals to conserve peace. The official agency said the appeal "imply the threat of war operations spreading from the Viet Nam battlefield on to China."

OFFICIALS MUM
U.S. officials did not say whether the rest of the division would be moved in from Hawaii.

Twenty-one Americans were killed in combat last week compared with 10 in the previous Sunday-to-Saturday reporting period, a U.S. spokesman announced. There were 95 Americans wounded.

Government casualties were listed as 227 dead, 499 wounded and 104 either wounded or captured, while the Communist toll was given as 837 killed and 137 wounded or captured.

AIR LULL

Despite the air lull in the north, the air war in the south continued unabated.

U.S. Air Force B-52s from Guam hit two suspected Viet Cong concentrations in Quang Tri Province, 400 miles north of Saigon.

The raid last night ended speculation that the big bombers, which had stayed away from South Viet Nam for four days, had joined the air war.

There was also no relief for the tactical situation. The strikes in the south, U.S. carrier planes and South Vietnamese propeller-driven Skyraiders splashed Viet Cong positions in Long An Province to help small government positions 25 miles southwest of Saigon.

The Viet Cong made widely scattered attacks.

They blew three bridges in the Quang Ngai area, 320 miles northeast of Saigon, and overran a Vietnamese district headquarters at Minh Long, 15 miles southwest of Quang Ngai City.

Air observation reported the capital port deserted but some outposts still fighting it out.

Tactical planes flew 34 sorties against the attackers up to mid-afternoon.

EXCURSION NEAR-TRAGEDY — Members of a group of 14 on a seagoing houseboat journeying to liferats in the Atlantic off Miami Beach yesterday. All aboard were rescued. The party was headed for Nassau when the houseboat broke up in a heavy sea.

Probe Atlantic Sinking

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The Coast Guard investigated today the near-tragedy of a holiday party of skindivers whose seagoing houseboat broke up and sank "like a rock" in heavy seas in the Atlantic.

All 14 aboard — mostly teenagers from Illinois — were rescued yesterday after several hours in a life raft and skiffs 14 miles off the coast. They were spotted by a passing oil tanker, the Amoco Delaware.

The survivors said they had no warning the boat was in trouble until water began seeping through the floor boards and the vessel started to go down.

"It went down like a rock. It was halfway down before everybody was off," said Dick Peters, 21 of Oak Park, Ill., a passenger.

The owner of the 75-foot Marana, Logan Lachance, 33, of Chicago, said he was about to of the Oakland County Chapter of the NAACP.

Tucker explained that the NAACP appearance before the CRC resulted from a vote taken at a community-wide meeting this month.

"If we want to do right," said Tucker, "we should have no fear of the CRC coming in here."

AUTO WORKERS

Citing the recruiting of auto plant workers from other states, Tucker said high employment has put demands on housing.

He claimed that the city had a responsibility in the relocation of families displaced by the city's efforts at code enforcement.

"When the plants go down," asked Tucker, "what is going to happen to all the people hired in the past 18 months?"

Tucker claimed: "The city did not have a subcommittee on minority group housing, as per federal regulations for federal funds."

There was not one Latin American, on any city commission or commission that he knew of.

There are only eight patrol cars at night to patrol a population of nearly 90,000.

There has not been any in-service training for Pontiac policemen since 1957.

Other Negro spokesmen offered supporting charges.

Former District 1 City Commissioner Milton R. Henry supported the claim that Pontiac was a potential powder keg on the race relations issue.

Robert Newby, spokesman for the Progressive Action Committee for Equality (PACE), in reference to a recent charter amendment, said district 1 and 7 voters had been disenfranchised and had no voice in local government.

Mayor Taylor, at one point last night, reminded the speakers that before there could be further public housing in Pontiac an ordinance prohibiting such housing would have to be rescinded.

NOT ACTIVE

Acknowledging that the city's human relations commission had not been active, Taylor said plans are under way to reestablish the group.

Taylor said the human relations group was slated to meet Jan. 17 with CRC representatives and that plans to reestablish the committee had been known prior to the present controversy.

In addition to the need for low-cost and public housing, Negro complaints last night and to the CRC have covered other areas of discrimination, including in employment, education, and voting.

Suggestions that the current controversy stemmed from the city's pending spring primary were generally denied by the Negro spokesmen, although the policies involved with local government was often mentioned.

Urban Unit Lists Goals in Proposals

Decent homes and clean neighborhoods were the avowed goals expressed yesterday in three proposals submitted to city officials by representatives of the Pontiac Area Urban League.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and City Manager Joseph A. Warren met with the league's three-member housing committee.

The committee asked for: "A systematic housing analysis by the city's urban renewal department."

Smooth relocation of eligible families into Lakeside Homes, 535 Branch, the city's only public housing project, from the Crystal Beach housing project, adjacent to the Lakeside units.

An attempt to extend urban renewal and slum clearance programs into District 1.

Taylor said the proposals would be studied and discussed with the commission and city staff personnel.

He suggested that in the future a meeting might be set with people in the area to determine their feelings on possible urban renewal.

Also, he said regional urban renewal officials might be invited to explain some of the built-in delays of urban renewal.

The mayor did cite some of the city's efforts — street and light improvements — to better conditions in the Crystal Beach project.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A man who walked away from his wife and four children eight years ago and started a new life with a second family in Cincinnati, Ohio, pleaded guilty to desertion and nonsupport charges Tuesday.

Birmingham Area News

Report on School Buses Is Submitted to Board

BIRMINGHAM—Every weekday morning and afternoon, 55 school buses transport some 6,313 youngsters to and from their homes in the Birmingham School District.

The problems connected with this large shuttle service were discussed in the 1965-66 transportation report made recently to the board of education by Assistant Schools Supt. Norman Wolfe.

"For a variety of reasons, an attempt is made to open all schools at approximately the same time and to dismiss them at about the same time," Wolfe noted. "This necessitates very careful scheduling and... a well-defined number of bus stops."

To maintain schedules, the number of stops must be kept to a minimum and the routes must be planned to avoid streets that are difficult to travel, he said.

Safety precautions include regular inspection and maintenance of buses and a requirement that all bus drivers complete a training course.

LOADS VARY
As children move in and out of the area, the loads on buses vary, Wolfe noted.

"In the early fall and in the spring, a number of children ride bicycles to school or are driven by parents," he said. "This creates a problem in determining the load for various buses."

Wolfe noted that a breakdown of the 1964-65 transportation budget indicates $189,436 was spent on salaries; $36,300 on gas, oil, tires, repair parts and garage operation; $33,035 on vehicle replacement; $6,000 on insurance; and $4,500 on field trips.

The board of education expects to be reimbursed by the state for $119,000 of the total.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Dr. Howard H. McNeill of Hickory Grove Road has been reappointed to the State Board of Registration in Medicine by Gov. Romney.

Three new appointments and two reappointments were announced by the governor yesterday. All terms are for four years and require Senate confirmation.

Trace Suspects by Matchbook

Three men were apprehended by West Bloomfield Township police and held for investigation of breaking and entering this morning after discovery of the theft of $800 in coins and a shotgun valued at $150.

The three suspects were picked up after police traced a matchbook cover found at the site of the break-in at the home of Bobby Clay, 7555 Drake, West Bloomfield Township.

The burglary was discovered last night when Clay returned from a vacation to find the items missing.

The matchbook cover — bearing the name of a hotel bar — had been found in the pocket of one of the suspects who was allegedly involved in previous coin thefts.

Warren Mayor Seeks Plan to Halt Flooding

WARREN (UPI)—Mayor William A. Shaw yesterday ordered a "crash program" to eliminate causes of flooding which he said damaged at least 50 homes last weekend.

He said he will ask the Warren City Council for a $100,000 appropriation to finance a start on the flood control program.

New Vice Presidents

4 Officers Promoted by CNB

Donald D. Taylor, 37, of 3822 Bald Mountain, Pontiac Township, has been appointed vice president and cashier at Community National Bank, A.C. Girard, president and chairman of the board of directors announced today.

Taylor, employed with the bank's accounting department since 1949, was one of four men named to vice presidential posts.

Others promoted were F. Ward Richards, 54, of 122 Wabasso, Wolverine Lake; Harold J. Owen, 56, of 2795 Lakewood, Waterford Township; and Robert M. Howland, 60, of 444 Minot, Romeo.

Richards, who has been employed at the bank since 1941, is administrator of all branches. Manager of the Huron office, Owen has been employed at Community National Bank for 29 years.

Howland, who entered the banking field in 1947, is presently manager of the Romeo office, a position he had held since 1959.

Purchase by City Urged

Power Firm Offers to Sell Property

City officials last night received an offer from Consumers Power Co. to sell their service building and adjacent property for $540,000.

The service building is located south of Wessen and west of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks.

The offer, good until Jan. 15, was received last night by the City Commission along with a staff recommendation in support of the purchase.

Terms of the offer provide for an eight-year land contract at a per cent annual interest.

The city would put down $2,000 at the time of the contract signing and one quarter of the balance when the municipality took possession, tentatively scheduled about April 1, 1968.

FUND SOURCE
Funds for the purchase would come from the city's capital improvement fund.

The two-story service building, plus smaller buildings and some vacant land, takes an area of nearly 13 acres.

An appraisal of the property offered by Consumers set the value at $648,000.

Charles Brown, Pontiac division manager for Consumers Power Co., said the utility with a staff recommendation in support of the proposed purchase.

If acquired, the service building would house the Department of Public Works, parks and recreation and electrical departments, according to Warren.

He added that although specific plans had not been drafted, it was generally felt that to provide adequate accommodations for these departments would run about $800,000.

SINGLE LOCATION
These departments are located either at City Hall, the Lake Street Yard or in both locations.

Warren said the Consumers' facilities would amply provide for all the current needs of the city and provide a reasonable space for expansion.

The city manager told the commission that a local appraiser Leslie Tripp, had been employed to make an appraisal of the land and buildings being offered.

An appraisal report, he said, was expected within three weeks.

Hearing Is Set on '66 Budget for Hospital

A public hearing was scheduled Jan. 11 on a record $8.3-million budget for Pontiac General Hospital.

The City Commission last night received the 1966 budget submitted by Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

Euler, in his letter of submission, cited the increasing demand for the hospital's services, pointing to a 10-15 per cent growth each year in emergency room services.

In other business, rezoning to residential-3 was approved for an area north and west of Prall. An apartment project is planned there.

SIMILAR REZONING
Rezoning for a similar apartment complex was approved by the commission for land bounded by the railroad tracks, Cherry-lawn and Ypsilanti.

The latter rezoning included an exchange of land between the city and developer Michael Chernik.

His Wife's a Sergeant
LEICESTER, England (UPI) — Police Constable Geoffrey Matthews will be breaking regulations when he goes on duty and says "hello dear" to his wife, who has been promoted from policeman to sergeant. But he doesn't care. "I simply can't say 'good morning, sergeant,' to my wife," he said.

planned to construct a new service center in the city.

City Hall Vote Set in Oxford

OXFORD — A $60,000 bond issue to pay for construction and furnishing of a new municipal building will be on the ballot in the March 14 general election.

The proposal will ask voters to increase their taxes to cover the obligation. Village Manager Robert W. Smalley said the amount of the increase has not yet been determined.

The municipal building is to be part of a civic center complex which will also house the Oxford Township Hall and the Oxford Public Library.

The cost of the library is to be met with a federal grant, donations and sale of the present building on Mechanic Street.

JCs to Burn Yule Trees

AUBURN HEIGHTS — The Jaycees will hold a Christmas tree burning at 7 p.m. Jan. 8 on property across Squirrel Road from the Auburn Heights Elementary School.

The Jaycees will pick up trees Jan. 7 in Bloomfield Orchards, Oaknoll and Knollwood subdivisions and on Jan. 8 in Auburn Heights and surrounding areas. Pickup boundaries are Featherstone, Adams, South Boulevard and Opdyke.

All trees must be on the curb to be picked up.

Utica Man Injured in 3-Car Collision

UTICA — A local man is in satisfactory condition at Almon Community Hospital today following an auto accident early this morning at Van Dyke near 29 Mile in Washington Township.

Involved in the three-car collision were the hospitalized man, Eddie Hall, 39, of 6095 24 Mile; Arthur Schroeder, 26, of Big Rapids; and Stanley Kiszczak, 33, of Armada.

Police are still investigating.

Southfield Man One of 2 Rescued From Scaffold

SOUTHFIELD — William A. Keller, 50, of 21280 Midway was one of two men rescued yesterday by a Detroit Fire Department snorkel crew when the pair was stranded on a scaffold 40 feet above a downtown street.

Keller and Harold Schmitt of Detroit, who were inspecting a window-washing device at the First Federal Savings building, were trapped for two hours due to a scaffold mechanical failure.

As rush hour crowds looked on, firemen maneuvered the 85-foot snorkel tower into position beside the building and brought the two men to safety.

Other than being cold from the long wait in subfreezing weather, both were in good condition.

To Hire Cityhood Consultant

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Members of the Township Board have authorized hiring of a public management consultant to advise the township's incorporation study committee. Donald Oakes of Grand Rapids, a specialist on municipal charters, was named to the consulting post at a fee of $15 per hour.

The extent of his services will be determined by the study committee, according to Township Clerk Floyd Cairns.

A limitation on the number of hours the consultant will work for the township, however, will be set at a future Township Board meeting, Cairns added.

Oakes' primary duties will be to plan a public information program on the proposed incorporation and determine what type charter would be best for the municipality.

DRAFT OF CHARTER — The actual draft of a charter, however, would be the responsibility of the charter commission.

In other business, the board named two new members to the study committee, bringing the total to 12.

They are Norman Kreider, Wood Creek Farms, president, and Charles W. Fritz, of 28251 Wildwood.

Wirtz to Get Panel Report

Foreign Worker Ban Surveyed in State

EAST LANSING (AP) — A study panel is to report to W. Willard Wirtz, U.S. labor secretary, Thursday on how the ban on foreign farm workers affected Michigan cucumber growers this year.

The panel, headed by Charles Killingsworth, a Michigan State University labor professor, also is to present recommendations for 1966 at its meeting with Wirtz in Detroit.

Nearly 13,000 Mexicans helped with the 1964 harvest of pickling cucumbers in Michigan.

STUDY NEEDS

Wirtz appointed the panel last May to study the need for foreign workers in Michigan. It recommended approval of 5,000 Mexicans for Michigan in 1965—a recommendation on which Wirtz did not follow through.

In October, Wirtz asked the panel to reconvene to study what the farm labor experience was in the 1965 cucumber season.

Charter Amendment on Ballot in Milford

MILFORD — The Village Council once again will ask voters to strike from the village charter a controversial special assessment election provision.

The proposal has been placed on the March 14 ballot by unanimous vote of the councilmen.

It has been sent to Gov. Romney, who must review and approve a charter amendment before it can be offered to the electorate.

Vote approval of the proposal would rescind the amendment adopted in 1963 calling for special assessment districts to be established only after approved by the electorate.

Last March, a council proposal to rescind the amendment was defeated at the polls 443-339.

AMENDMENT PROVISIONS

The controversial amendment provides that "no special assessment shall be made unless approved by a majority of the qualified electorate of the special assessment district who shall vote thereon."

It does not define "qualified electors" or the method to be used in determining majority opinion.

The amendment has halted public works programs here because councilmen have been advised by their bonding attorneys that the amendment is "ambiguous and unworkable."

Special assessment bonds approved in this manner could not be sold, they warn.

Adoption of the amendment by a 494-367 vote in 1963 resulted from opposition to a proposed $213,000 street improvement program.

The council maintains it still would like to see village streets improved.

Fire Dooms Dance Hall, Rekindles Its Memories

The sweep of flames out of control is a gripping spectacle, sadly intensified when nostalgic memories are involved.

It was with deep poignancy that an older generation viewed or learned of the fire that consumed the Walled Lake Casino, for two decades one of the area's top entertainment attractions.

Erected in 1928, the pavilion drew myriads of pleasure seekers to dance or listen to leading name bands of the country.

But inevitably, the Casino fell a victim to time-wrought change, as a new generation found other outlets for diversion. It was closed in 1958, to be reopened two years later by a new ownership hopeful of recapturing the climate and patronage that had made the establishment famous and prosperous.

But it was not to be, and at the time of its destruction the Casino had been converted to a teen-agers' rendezvous under a new name—the Club A-Go-Go.

Although the building died in flames, the cherished recollections of thousands who found pleasure within it will live on.

Uncle Sam 'Touched' by U. N. Levy Plan

With the exception of an effective cease-fire mandate in the incipient hostilities between India and Pakistan, the United Nations has wound up another year of pointless deliberations and debate.

The organization's frustration lies in the continuing hassle over the status of the $100-million deficit in peace-keeping assessments that 13 nations led by the Soviet Union and France refuse to pay.

In defending the delinquency of the debtor nations, Russia (who alone owes nearly $53 million) maintains that the peace-keeping levies at issue were authorized by the General Assembly of the United Nations rather than its Security Council, in which the Kremlin has decisive veto power.

It was the Reds' continuous exercise of this power, virtually hamstringing U.N. peace-keeping intervention, that led to a shift of such decision-making function to the General Assembly, where majority vote prevails.

During the closing days of the 1965 session, a resolution proposed by Canada was passed that provided for the peace-keeping arrangement to be made up by a voluntary-contribution formula and apportionment of the $33.9 total for global intercession in 1965 and that anticipated for 1966.

Bolled down, $3.9 million of the $18.9 million expense incurred in 1965 would come from the more than $20 million in voluntary contributions that 23 nations have pledged to help pay off the peace-keeping deficit. The balance of $15 million would be apportioned among all members—but 26 "economically developed" countries (including, of course, Uncle Sam) would ante up $14.2 million and the other 91 U.N. members but $800,000.

The developed countries (Uncle Sam again included) would be asked to pay 25 per cent more than their apportionment "to meet reserve requirements."

Under this approach, the United States would have to pay nearly two-fifths of the two-year U. N. package, exceeding the limitation advocated by Congress of not more than one-third.

Though the resolution scrambled through by a 38-14 vote with 37 abstentions, it holds little hope for effective resolution of the fiscal cleavage that has kept the United Nations General Assembly spinning its wheels for two sessions.

Justice Wheels Spin in Car Accident Suits

Here's another reason, if one is needed, to practice safe driving habits.

It takes longer than ever to bring personal injury suits—almost all of which arise out of automobile accidents—to jury trial in state courts.

According to the 12th annual survey of state court calendars by the Institute for Judicial Administration, the average waiting period in the 94 courts that provided information grew to 19.9 months this year. In 1964 it was 18.4 months.

Fifteen of the courts, all in populous counties, report a lapse of more than 30 months between the time a suit is filed and a decision rendered. Worst was Cook County (Chicago), with a delay of 69.3 months.

It's doubtful if even SHAKESPEARE was thinking in terms of over five and a half years when he spoke of "The law's delay."

Political Unit Spending Lid Hit

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leftover thousands in the coffers of an organization created for Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign are indirectly the product of a political fund raising law Republican leaders want repealed.

It is the $3 million limit on the annual spending of political committees.

The Republican Coordinating Committee, a council of party leaders, has decided the ceiling is unrealistic and should be wiped off the books.

Meeting privately, one day before the coordinating committee took that stand, the steering committee of an organization called Citizens for Goldwater-Miller had decided to use its remaining funds to help conservative Republicans who seek reelection to the House and Senate next year.

That decision was in large measure shaped by Goldwater himself, although he wasn't on hand, associates of the former Arizona senator and 1964 GOP presidential nominee reported.

DETERMINED Goldwater was said to have been determined to see the money used for Republican campaigns.

It affects a treasury which reportedly contains more than $200,000, almost all of it raised but not spent in Goldwater's unsuccessful try for the White House.

Citizens committees are a feature of presidential campaigns. Theoretically, they are set up to attract the dollars and the votes of people who like the presidential candidate but not the party he represents.

But the coordinating committee gave this account of campaign organization in calling for repeal of the "voluntarily unrealistic" limit on fund raising and spending.

"In practice, this provision has not limited the amount of money spent in presidential campaigns, but has spawned the creation by both major parties of hosts of satellite committees, each legally able to collect and spend $3 million."

Texas GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell, who now is a leader of the Citizens for Goldwater-Miller, has pointed out there were no strings attached to the funds still in its treasury.

Just how string-free it was demonstrated when some men in the citizens organization argued it should be transformed into a conservative political action group.

Goldwater and former Rep. William E. Miller, the GOP vice presidential nominee last year, agreed however, that the money should be used to help Republican candidates after they have secured the party's congressional nominations.

In fact, Goldwater once suggested it be turned over to the Republican congressional and senatorial campaign committees.

Verbal Orchids to—of Kinde, formerly of Pontiac;

62nd birthday.

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Is Patient for Viet Peace

WASHINGTON—The truth in Viet Nam was violated by the North Vietnamese, but whether by design or accident isn't clear as yet.

The United States prefers to go on the assumption that the violation was unintentional.

For even if the Communists, including the Viet Cong, aren't skilful in avoiding unfavorable public impressions, the United States sees an opportunity to convince the world that it is being patient under the most exasperating circumstances in the hope of getting the other side to talk peace.

It is being assumed here, for instance, that the violations of the truce on Christmas Day were due either to faulty communications between the Hanoi government and the guerrillas in inaccessible locations, or that communication between the North Vietnamese and their masters in Peking is slow and clumsy and needs time for clarification.

Americans generally do not realize that red tape in the leadership committees of the Communists can often delay decisions. Nor is discipline easy to apply in the field during guerrilla warfare.

Meanwhile, the United States is, in effect, telling the world that it wants to extend the truce and would like to arrange some kind of armistice out of which peace talks could develop.

The attacks on American forces since Christmas Day have not caused any stepped-up warfare. Retaliation is being confined instead to defense tactics in the areas where the assaults occur.

REAL TEST

The real test of whether the war should be resumed on a full-scale basis will come when something happens that necessitates the bombing of military installations in North Viet Nam.

The failure to carry on vigorously in the interim may be hard to bear, but the United States government sees in the long run some benefits from a psychological standpoint.

For, if the war should be renewed, the whole world will have had a dramatic manifestation of America's forbearance and sincere desire to bring the war to a peaceful conclusion.

So Peking is up against a serious decision. If it gives the word to its subservient ally in North Viet Nam to return to the fighting on an aggressive basis, the inevitable result will be a change in world opinion.

YULE TRUCE

It will have been demonstrated that the United States went to the limit of actually prolonging the Christmas truce in an effort to get negotiations going.

The Communist side will be shown to have disregarded all offers of peace and to be interested solely in prolonging the war. Under such circumstances, the United States would be able to point out that it had no other choice but to step up the bombing raids.

The United States, if forced to go ahead with the war, will be able to tell the people of the world that it had no other alternative.

Also, when Congress assembles, a request may be made for authorization to carry on an even more extensive military action and a blockade of the ports through which North Viet Nam now is getting its supplies.

Unless the Communists have lost all sense of what is practical and want to risk heavy destruction and gain nothing by it, they may yet find some way to join in a move to put into effect an armistice.

Bob Considine Says:

Copter Ride Is Best Way to See New York Sights

NEW YORK—It won't be remembered with Lindbergh's flight, or even Wrong Way Corrigans, but those of us who took the inaugural hops from the heliport atop the 38-story Pan Am Building in the heart of Manhattan to Kennedy Airport, and return, must class the experience as the best $7 worth of thrill obtainable in this rather expensive town.

The guess here is that New York Airways, operators of the twin-blade Boeing-Vertol jet-engine choppers, is going to find a lot of takers for its shuttle service who have no intention of flying anywhere else except to and from the heliport.

When they alight near the Pan Am terminal at the airport they'll not be rushed to Flight 2 bound for Bangkok. They'll simply want to ride back to the top of the Pan Am Building, if that's okay with the management.

Haven't tried it by day, but it's sure a dilly at night. Millions have flown over our town in planes coming here or leaving. But the law limits their perigee to such a degree that the Empire State Building looks like a child's toy.

By helicopter, well, we live in a much more spectacular city than the oldest inhabitants dreamed it was.

You buy your ticket at an ordinary-looking airplane ticket counter on the mezzanine floor of the skyscraper, and it is there that the ordinary steps aside.

An elevator whips you to the 57th floor, where a lounge-bar reserved for helicopterists will soon be ready. The next lift is by escalator to the glassed-in "ready" room.

LID OF BUILDING

Pass through two glass doors, designed for soundproofing and windproofing and you're on the lid of the spectacular building. The Boeing-Vertol, which seats 21 and carries two pilots and a stewardess, sits there like some kind of supernatural beetle-fly.

There was not a courteous or pleasant word uttered to any individual. It is a shame that public officials should behave in such an irresponsible fashion. The individuals seem to feel that they can treat the public rudely and indifferently because they have the power to refuse to issue the licenses. They fail to live up to their assignments.

I am anxious to cooperate with the local, state and national governments. I am equally concerned that the government treat the people with courtesy and consideration.

Tells Plan for Expired Drivers' Licenses

It was with interest that we read that Michigan can do almost nothing in regards to drivers who fail to get their licenses renewed when they expire. A simple plan for this would be to let the people who issue the new license also issue a ticket for $10. If the party refuses to pay the fine, the State should not issue a license until the driver completes the requirement of driver education and a written examination, the same as a driver applying for his first license. Under the point system we have "other violations," 2 points. Driving on an expired license is a violation. Or is it?

Voice of the People:

Reader Tells Experience at Local License Bureau

On November 26, my son called the Drivers' License Bureau and was told it is open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., with no mention that it is not possible to take the licensing tests after 4 p.m. We arrived at 4:15 to discover that we had made the trip for nothing. A few words by the girl on the telephone would have saved us a 20-minute drive plus five extra hours. The desk man told us to come back Saturday, neglecting to mention road tests are not given that day. So, back we went on Saturday. The boy passed the written tests, but could receive only a permit to drive with an adult.

I am a widow with a job in Detroit. Monday I took time off and we were in Pontiac by 9 a.m. The man told us to be back by 10:10 a.m. and we returned at 10 o'clock. As I walked in the above-mentioned man and another walked out to get a cup of coffee. At 10:40 they returned. Three road test candidates were called. My son was first, but because the car was not parked in the road testing area, the man refused to take him until he had tested the other two. At 11:20 my son finally was allowed to take his test, which he passed.

There was not a courteous or pleasant word uttered to any individual. It is a shame that public officials should behave in such an irresponsible fashion. So the sad word going about is that taxes may have to be increased. True, Gardner Ackley, the chief economic adviser to the White House, dismisses this talk as premature, but what else can he say? It would hardly be tact-take in the first place. The first order of business of the new Congress should be to reexamine, in the cold, dry light of dawn, its extravagance of the night before. It isn't too late to undo much of the damage that has been done.

With a well-aimed meat-axe Congress should be able to repeal enough of these measures to provide the billions needed for the war today and to save billions for tomorrow's taxpayers as well. We don't need inflation. We don't need higher taxes. All we need is a modicum of common sense and gumption on the part of Congress.

VP Arrives in Manila After Asking Japan for Help on Viet MANILA (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in Manila today on the second stop of his brief Asian tour after asking the Japanese government to help bring peace to Viet Nam.

Humphrey will represent the United States at the inauguration Thursday of President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Zurhellen said his appeal, and Zurhellen said that is just what the United States wants to do. But he added it would not do so until the freedom and peace of Viet Nam are guaranteed.

Humphrey said the U.S. desire for peace and for peace negotiations are not signs of American weakness but rather an indication of American strength.

He wound up his conversation by urging Japan to extend more social, economic and medical aid to Southeast Asia, particularly to the refugees of South Viet Nam, but he did not ask Japan for military aid.

The Japanese constitution bars sending military men overseas.

FAVORABLE REACTION

Sato appeared to react favorably to the suggestion for non-military help, Zurhellen reported, but said it would depend on the tuba.

Goldwater Victor in Trombone Bet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Former Sen. Barry Goldwater has conquered the trombone and is taking up the tuba.

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential candidate, played "Silent Night" on the trombone to win a bet with his sister-in-law that he could learn to play the tune by Christmas.

Then for Christmas, the family gave him the tuba. A family member reported that Goldwater also played "Silent Night" on the tuba.

U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer, presidential assistant Jack Valenti and Zurhellen were present during Humphrey's talks with Sato.

Emperor Hirohito received the vice president in a long audience earlier.

The opposition Socialist party, a militant critic of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam, snubbed Humphrey when its chairman, Kozo Sasaki, boycotted a luncheon for the vice president at Sato's residence.

SHUNNED PROTEST

But the Socialists did not join the Communists in demonstrating against Humphrey's visit.

The Reds mustered about 2,000 persons for a march in downtown Tokyo just before Humphrey arrived Tuesday night.

The Japanese public took little notice of Humphrey's visit. There were no welcoming crowds and only about 200 per-

Lynda Bird Johnson Is Learning To Ski

AP Photos

Lynda Bird Takes to Ski Slopes

PARK CITY, Utah (AP)—Miss Lynda Bird Johnson breezed through this old mining town turned ski resort yesterday, followed by other skiers, Secret Service agents, and a 25-year-old medical student.

She didn't ski much, when she did Brent Eastman showed her a little about the sport on a beginners slope.

She and her college roommate, Miss Warrie Lynn Smith, have been staying with Eastman's parents in Evanston, Wyo., 65 miles northeast of Park City.

Eastman, a senior at the University of California Medical School, is the Snake River boat guide Miss Johnson met last summer.

Winds of up to 50 miles an hour had forced the resort to close down its gondola ski lifts.

MINE TRAIN RIDE

So a mine train ride and 1,500 foot elevator ride were taken to reach the summit of 9,400-foot Treasure Mountain.

Miss Johnson wore a bright blue parka, green ski pants, a pink knitted cap and a smile, pulling off her gloves every-time someone asked to shake her hand.

Eastman's parents were along, and his father, Arnold, said Miss Johnson was "a fine, down-to-earth girl — just like homefolks."

Oil Refining Patent Issued

More Residue Usable for Making Gasoline

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—A method for refining crude oil to make gasoline for automobiles, part of a process now in commercial use, was granted a patent by the U. S. Patent Office here this week.

A few of the patents covering the entire process have already been issued, but many are still pending. The process makes possible using more of the residue left when crude oil is first distilled to make such desired products as gas.

Dr. Warren G. Schlinger of Pasadena, Calif., assigned rights to patent 3,224,958 covering one method of refining to Texaco, Inc. Among the catalysts used in the process are the oxides or sulfides of cobalt, nickel and molybdenum, either alone or in combination.

A system to "scramble" either wire or radio messages so that only those to whom such secret communications are sent can tell what is being transmitted earned patent 3,224,142.

RIGHTS TO BELL

Dr. Manfred R. Schroeder, who has some 30 other patent applications pending, assigned rights to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., New York.

His system for scrambling a message signal to render it unintelligible to an unauthorized person consists of a device on the transmitter that adds randomly delayed copies of the desired message to the original signal.

The receiving station cancels out the message replicas, so that only the original communication is received.

A clever idea by which machines can read the printed word using fiber optics was awarded patent 3,225,329.

TO CONTROL DATA

Dr. Jacob Rabinow, president of Rabinow Electronics, Inc., Rockville, Md., assigned patent rights to Control Data Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.

The method involves solving problems in logic using fiber optics, whereas most machines now operating solve the same problems with parts made of solid-state materials.

The Spending Issue: Military vs. Domestic

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League
Support for cutting of present and planned expenditures in the domestic public sector of our government, in order to more adequately finance our expanded international involvements, is being voiced more and more frequently by private and public officials.

It is true that some of those who advocate this kind of move have never been supporters of public programs — the War on Poverty, federal aid to education, expanded health and welfare benefits, and others — and it can be easily recognized that they are simply using the international situation to destroy that which they never favored in the first place.

Nevertheless, there are others who are more sincerely motivated and who have less invidious reasons for supporting the idea of a reduction in domestic expenditures.

Their reasons, however, are largely based on the belief that we are presented with only two choices — military preparedness or domestic programming — and they feel that under no circumstances must military preparedness be weakened.

In addition, there are those who are reluctant to accept the fact that in this period of unprecedented prosperity and employment any self-respecting, conscientious, hard-working person would be unemployed and dependent.

Finally, there are those who have themselves only reached comfortable incomes in this generation, who feed their own sense of adequacy — and, indeed, superiority — by suggesting that even temporary government support of the unemployed contributes to their dependency; or worse still that being unemployed reflects some congenital moral flaw in the person so affected.

While President Johnson and his Cabinet members remain committed to the Great Society, and have given no indication that they would propose such a cutback, it is conceivable that unless those who feel differently from the above begin to make their feelings known, then it can be assumed that these propoents represent a great consensus. And if this is true the pressure on the Administration will be most difficult to resist.

The fact remains that not only does our country spend a smaller percentage of its budget on programs of health, education and welfare than any other country in the world, but, actually, in relation to the value of the dollar today we are spending only a fraction more than we spent twenty years ago.

And by far the large percentage of that which is spent goes for those who are basically unemployable — children, the chronically disabled, and the elderly.

We are also faced with another fact — that while miraculous technological advances may not have reduced the number of jobs per se, these advances have greatly affected the employment picture in that so many jobs now require skills which are not present among a large group of workers displaced by machines.

Few of those who glibly recommend the transfer of Great Society funds to the Viet Nam war effort really stop to contemplate what would be the alternative were we not to spend in the public sector not only at the present level, but at a greatly increased level.

And this, unfortunately, notwithstanding the dramatic example of a Watts riot, which is estimated to have cost — in economic terms alone — between forty and one-hundred and seventy million dollars in one week.

Too few people are aware of the image of our country abroad having a gross national product almost that of all other countries combined but with a rate of unemployment, school dropouts, mental illness, substandard housing far exceeding many much-less-affluent countries.

It is tragic that almost no one conceives that the best long-range defense of this country — as well as its appeal — is a society where each human being, regardless of race, religion, nationality or economic class, has the opportunity for a full education — to the limit of his capacity and desire; an opportunity for decent housing, the best health and medical care; an opportunity for a job at the highest level of his ability; and the security of adequate insurance against economic fluctuations, health hazards, or the dependency and boredom of old age.

GLENWOOD PLAZA CORNER NORTH PERRY AT GLENWOOD

Seek to End Key Munitions Plant Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government steps up its pressure today to end a strike which the Pentagon says could virtually cut off the supply of rifle and machine gun ammunition for U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam. "We want a settlement," said chief federal mediator William E. Simkin after reporting scant progress toward ending the 29-day strike of AFL-CIO machinists at the Olin Mathieson Chemical Co. plant in East Alton, Ill.

The Pentagon said the plant is the sole supplier of gunpowder for rifle and machine gun bullets and 20mm shells used in Viet Nam. "The Army will face a critical problem in supplying the ammunition requirements" unless the strike is settled quickly, the Pentagon said.

COURT ACTION

While Simkin pressed for a voluntary settlement of the dispute over wages, fringe benefits and working conditions, the White House reportedly was ready to halt the strike with court action if necessary.

President Johnson would have to sign a petition to a federal court for an 80-day "cooling off" injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The talks almost broke off completely Tuesday, sources said, but Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz stepped in and talked with the negotiators for two hours.

Simkin then announced the resumption of negotiations today after giving both sides all night "to reappraise their positions."

MUST RESUME

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor said it was imperative that production at the Illinois plant be resumed.

"The only other plant in the United States equipped to produce ball powder is the Inacordive Badger Army ammunition plant in Wisconsin," the Pentagon said.

The Olin Mathieson plant produces the powder for all U.S. firms that manufacture bullets for the new M16 lightweight rifle, the standard M14 rifle, M60 machineguns, tracer bullets and 20mm shells used in Viet Nam, the Army said. While Simkin said Johnson had not officially intervened in the talks, there were indications that Wirtz' sudden appearance in the negotiations followed conferences with the White House.

INJUNCTION USED

Johnson has used a Taft-Hartley injunction only once before, in a strike by longshoremen. "It's always a last resort," said one government source.

Simkin said he did not foresee any immediate use of a Taft-Hartley injunction. But, he added: "This is a tough case."

MEMBERS REJECT

Machinists' and Olin Mathieson negotiators four times previously reached agreement, but union members voted it down. The talks were called here Monday after the latest rejection.

Some 4,200 workers are involved in the strike, 3,800 of them machinists. Two other unions — the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Independent Western Employees Trade Council — with a total of less than 600 members are also on strike. Simkin said there was reason to believe they would settle quickly once the machinists reached agreement.

Workers at the plant now average $2.78 per hour. The last rejected offer reportedly was worth about 34 cents an hour more.

Traditional Concepts in Medicine Due for a Shuffle Over Next 10 Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

AP Science Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. — A physician today predicted that 10 years from now when you go to a doctor:

He will be a member of a team caring for you.

The stress will be on preventing illness in the first place. Almost all your medical services will be paid with government or welfare funds.

VARIETY OF TESTS
You may have as many as 30 or more tests run — most of them simple — with automated equipment and a computer analyzing the results initially for your doctor.

But you will get total, comprehensive care with one doctor taking personal charge of you regardless of how many specialists you might see.

The predictions — and "it is precarious trying to prognosticate" — came from Dr. C. C. Cutting, executive director of the Permanente Medical Group, Oakland, Calif.

"We are standing on the brink of a medical care explosion," due to vastly expanded knowledge, greater public interest and a rash of health legislation, Dr. Cutting told the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"The resulting tremendous demand, coupled with a serious shortage of medical manpower, will of necessity sweep traditional medicine into entirely new concepts of providing service," by 1975, he said. Eventually, Dr. Cutting said, "there probably will be three major divisions of medicine":

Health care — New and better efforts to keep you well.
Predictive care — Spotting symptoms very early to prevent serious illness.
TRANSPLANTS

Sickness care — If or when you do fall victim to disease. But "perhaps much of sick care will be transplants and artificial organs, a sort of spare-part medicine."

Dr. Cutting declared that to be effective, all medical programs and planning "must be the primary responsibility of physicians and not lay persons."

"The great challenge will be the willingness of traditional medicine to accept these new concepts and reorganize to provide these services. The future of private enterprise in medicine may well rest on the open-mindedness of the doctors of the country to anticipate inevitable trends and lead the way," he said.

Dr. Cutting heads one of the medical groups associated with the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, which offers prepaid group medical care to Kaiser

Co. employees and other persons as well.

3-YEAR PROJECT

His group started a comprehensive research project three years ago in health medicine designed to keep people well, he said. Some 5,000 persons a year are receiving a battery of screening tests, a physical examination by a doctor and some special examinations. Up to 35 tests are made, many of them with single specimens of blood or urine. The tests are run through automated laboratory equipment, and a computer reports these results plus answers to questionnaires to the doctor who then examines the patient.

The mechanization involved will not make relationships between doctor and patient more impersonal, Dr. Cutting said.

"The challenge is to do quite the opposite. By increasing the physician's knowledge of the patient, by utilizing more technical and nonprofessional help, his time with the patient should be more constructively utilized to know the patient as a person and guide him through sickness."

Says Son's Viet Trip Dangerous

U-M Grad's Mother
Hopes for Safe Return

ROYAL OAK (AP)—Thomas Hayden's going to Hanoi was a dangerous thing, says his mother, Mrs. Gene I. Hayden. "But I hope he brings back some useful information and gets back safely," Mrs. Hayden said.

The mother of the 26-year-old University of Michigan graduate expressed herself Tuesday after disclosure of Hayden's trip with two others to the North Viet Nam capital.

Their announced purpose was to get first hand information on peace views of North Viet Nam's Communist government and the Viet Cong guerrillas.

POSSIBLE PENALTY
They risk possible federal penalties for their unauthorized trip.

Mrs. Hayden, librarian for the South Oakland film library in Ferndale, said her son, a Royal Oak resident went to Hanoi "only as part of a fact-finding mission."

Hayden, former editor of the Michigan Daily, student newspaper at the university, was a founder of Students for a Democratic Society.

He went to Hanoi with Staughton Lynd, associate history professor at Yale University, and Herbert Aptheker, described as a Communist party veteran.

FINE THINGS
Mrs. Hayden said she had heard "many fine things" about Lynd.

Politically active at the university, Hayden campaigned through the Daily for liberalized rules for women students.

A result was reorganization of the university's office of student affairs and elimination of the post of dean of women.

He also was connected with Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee activities in Alabama and Mississippi and helped organize a community project in Newark, N. J., dealing with housing, unemployment and welfare.

Little Expected at Last Session of Legislature

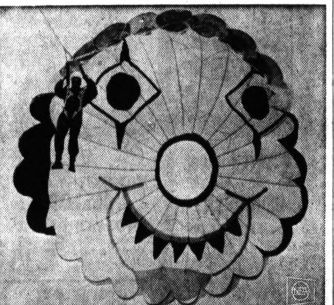

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature returns Thursday for its final session of 1965, but virtually no action of significance is expected.

The major chore will be to officially adjourn for the year. The Democratic-controlled House and Senate recessed rather than adjourned after their winter-spring, autumn and one-day December sessions.

That left control of the legislative calendar in their hands and gave Republican Gov. George Romney no opportunity to summon legislators to consider items of his choosing.

Lawmakers will be adjourned for less than two weeks before returning Jan. 12 for their 1966 session.

Tells of International Living

By MARGARET BROWN

"The best way to learn about a foreign culture is to live with its families in their surroundings."

Mrs. Russell Grinnell of Hatchery Road thus summarizes the aim of the Experiment in International Living in existence since 1932.

"It's the oldest foreign exchange program in the country," said Mrs. Grinnell, area project chairman for EIL. Her job is finding families who will host internationals for a "homestay" here.

Among the thousands who participate in Experiment's many-faceted educational activities — as guests or hosts — are foreign students, enrolled in United States colleges and universities. EIL arranges their placement in individual homes for one month upon arrival in this country to adjust to American life.

LOCAL MEMBER

Locally an Experimenter from India is "homestay" at Orchard Lake while fulfilling a teaching fellowship in chemical engineering at the University of Detroit.

Rajendra Kumar of Chandausi near New Delhi has been at home with the Leonard Grossman family of Elmgate Drive since August 1964.

"Rajendra came only for a month, but he's still with us," said Mrs. Grossman. "His mother wrote that she felt we'd been related in another life, or why should we be so good to her son."

Son of a building contractor, Rajendra has four brothers and four sisters. "They wanted to make him feel comfortable, so they sent him to us," said Mrs. Grossman. "We have six children."

Weekdays Rajendra shares a house in Detroit with two other Indian students. "We enjoy fixing our own kind of food," said Rajendra.

Having frequently observed Indians dining at Mexican cuisine establishments, we queried Rajendra who responded warmly, "Oh yes, we like their spicy foods. They are quite similar to our dishes in India."

An international flavor distinguishes Mrs. Grossman's spacious sunroom where she pointed out a few Indian decorative pieces. The family is especially pleased with Rajendra's gift, an exquisitely detailed soapstone Taj Mahal miniature.

AMERICAN STYLE

Rajendra is "mobile" now, having purchased a car here. "I bought it and then learned to drive," he laughed.

He explained that in his country few people own cars; there is no automobile importing, purchase and gasoline costs are exorbitant and parts are "few and far between."

A Hindu, Rajendra spoke of the numerous sects following his faith, each worshipping one of the many gods which they believe are manifestations of the one true God. "We have a friendly feeling toward all religions," he said.

Rajendra came to the Grossmans wearing about his neck his mother's gift of a string of cardamom to ward off illness. "It freshens the breath," he added.

NONPROFIT GROUP

An independent and nonprofit organization, EIL is supported by fees, foundation grants, gifts and government contracts. It has more than 50 participating nations have a General International Meeting once a year where Experimenters' schedule includes consideration of a ponderous "New Areas of Awareness" list.

It covers observations as to values, social framework, economic and political awareness and crime and punishment in the host country.

Mrs. Grinnell and Mrs. Grossman attended this year's meeting which was to have been in India, but was changed suddenly to London when the India-Pakistan Kashmir conflict erupted last fall.

"I'm still ill about it," said Mrs. Grossman. "It sounded so exciting," added Mrs. Grinnell. "Key people on all branches of the Indian culture were on the program, supplemented with field trips."

Fifteen members of Rajendra's family, bearing opulent gifts, had traveled miles to greet the EIL plane which never arrived. His telegram of the change in countries arrived too late.

"We had such big plans," said Mrs. Grossman. "I even knew the time of the full moon for viewing the Taj Mahal at its loveliest."

Notice of the meeting's shift to London found the English organization hard-pressed to make hotel arrangements, but the visit turned out to be "a nice way to drown our tears."

Mrs. Grinnell and her husband stayed with a London couple they had met via amateur radio.

"I was amazed at the number of foreign persons living in London," commented Mrs. Grossman.

Experimenters didn't want for evening entertainment. "London has 39 legitimate theaters operating nightly — and inexpensively," she said.

Area residents interested in EIL's "homestay" program may contact Mrs. Grinnell who has "family description forms." Foreign guests are placed on the basis of a "Dear Family" letter which relates their background and interests.

Pontiac Press Photo

Rajendra Kumar of Chandausi, India, a teaching fellow in chemical engineering at University of Detroit, has a project chairman for the Experiment in International Living which introduced the foreign visitor to this area.

Cranbrook Has Classes

Two drawing and painting classes for adults are being offered at Cranbrook in the near future.

A class beginning Jan. 5 and continuing for 10 weeks with instructor Don Willett will meet from 8 to 10 p. m. Wednesdays in the room below the Art Academy library.

The second 10-week session of classes will begin Jan. 11 and will be held at Cranbrook School from 7:30 until 10:30 p. m. Tuesdays with instructor Peter Kerr.

In each case, students will be able to select their own media.

Classes are limited in size and applications will be accepted in order of date of enrollment.

Registration information may be obtained by calling Cranbrook.

Let Child Be the One to Decide

By The Emily Post Institute

The question of what children should call their stepparents is frequently asked and is a difficult one to answer because the circumstances are so variable.

The most important thing, however, is that children should NEVER be forced to call a stepparent "Mother" or "Father" or any nickname having that meaning, especially if their own parent is living.

If they CHOOSE to do so, it is a compliment to the stepparent and should be encouraged. If a child goes to live with a stepparent at a very young age, and if his own parent is dead or if the child is not and probably will never be acquainted with that parent, then he would consider his stepparent as his own and say "Mother" or "Father."

This is especially true if he has stepbrothers and sisters whom he hears using those names. However, if the child is older when one parent remarries the situation is quite different.

If he has known the stepparent for some time, he may call him (or her) by a nickname or even by his first name. Actually, a nickname seems to be the best solution if one can be found that is appropriate and not a derivative of "Mother" or "Father."

A ROUND-THE-CLOCK SHOWER

Q: The other day I overheard one of the girls in the office tell another girl that she was giving a "round-the-clock" shower for a bride-to-be.

I never before heard of this type of shower and am curious to know just what it means. Can you enlighten me?

A: At a "round-the-clock" shower, each guest is given an hour of the day on her invitation and brings a present appropriate for the hour.

For example, if her hour is 10:00 a. m., she might take a dustpan and brush, or if it is 6:00 p. m. she might take a set of four or six cocktail glasses. The correct wording and addressing of wedding invitations and announcements are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements."

To obtain a copy, send ten cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute in care of The Pontiac Press.

J. L. Hewitts Reside Here After Vows

At home on Kimball Street after recent vows and reception in the Mariette Methodist Church are the James Lee Hewitts (Carol Dianne Gould).

Their parents are Robert G. Goulds of Shoals Drive and the William Hewitts of Mariette.

A bouffant illusion veil complemented the bride's semi-Empire gown and monk's chapel train of white peau taffeta inset with rose point lace.

Janet Riley of Mariette attended the bride and Richard Brown of Mt. Pleasant was best man. Ushers included Richard Hewitt, James Gould of Chicago, and Charles Hoover of Sandusky, Mich.

Plans Open House Before Big Dance

Jo-Lynn Yansen will be hostess at an open house this evening in the home of her parents, the George Yansens on Chippewa Road, preceding an annual holiday dance in the Elks Temple.

Theme for the party sponsored by the Amies, Trabajas and Kelos auxiliaries will be "Candlelight and Mistletoe."

This Story Is Tale of Woman's Progress

RAROTONGA, Cook Islands (U. S. — Madam Speaker they call her. She's a housewife with five children, who plays basketball, tennis, runs a Girl Guide troop and works in social welfare.

Mrs. Marguerite Story is speaker of the Cook Island Legislative Assembly, organized recently when the island chain gained self-government from their parent island, New Zealand.

"The only thing I haven't had time to concentrate on seriously is swimming," says dark-eyed, vivacious Mrs. Story.

She's called Marguerite by her friends in the government and is fluent in both Maori and English.

She's graduated in music and nursing from schools in nearby New Zealand and until her appointment as speaker of the assembly, was chief interpreter in the island's social welfare department.

Mrs. Story's brother, A. R. Henry, is premier of the tropical island chain.

The Storys live in a spacious home overlooking the airstrip at Rarotonga. Her husband is Albert Lawton Story, a technician.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for ten months and am expecting any minute. Waldemar has lots of faults, but I love him just the same.

Waldemar never goes out at night without me, but here is my problem. A friend of his told me that my husband is being unfaithful to me.

He says Waldemar brings this girl to his (the friend's) house to make use of the spare bedroom during his lunch hour. She's a college student, but I don't know her name.

Now I am thinking that maybe Waldemar put his friend up to telling me so I would leave him. This friend told me I could come to his house any day between 12 and 1 and catch them!

Her fiancé attends Oakland Community College.

A June 4 wedding in Orchard Lake Community Church Presbyterian is being planned.

Abby, I won't leave my husband, no matter what, even if I have to share him. Should I try to find out the truth or not I live 1,300 miles away from my family and have no one to talk to.

TRUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: If finding out the "truth" won't make any difference, why bother to find out? You really should tell Waldemar that he should cut out his lunch-hour rendezvous with that college girl.

If he's not familiar with the law, he could be put in the pokey.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter married a mortician. My sister's husband recently died. Will you tell me if my daughter was right in refusing to visit her deceased uncle because my sister gave the business to another mortician?

DEAR WONDERING: Your daughter was dead wrong.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, our 14-year-old son and I have always been considered a "perfect" family. We are well-known and respected in our community.

I just found out that when I was pregnant, 14 years ago, my husband was unfaithful to me. He even took that woman to my apartment when I was out of town. When I approached him with the story, he admitted it was true.

He said he had forgotten all about it, had never done anything like that since, and would never do it again. He begged me not to leave him. He swears he loves me and our son more than anything in the world and all he wants is a chance to prove that he is sorry.

He has always been such a devoted husband and father, I can't understand it. I want to be broad-minded about this, Abby, but I just can't forgive him. I trusted him completely. Do you think it's possible for a man to make one mistake and stop?

BETRAYED

DEAR BETRAYED: Yes, a husband CAN make one mistake and stop, providing his wife doesn't keep reminding him of it. Forgive him, and tell him you forgive him. And never mention it again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN'T FORGIVE": To borrow a priceless quote from Herbert: "He that cannot forgive others, breaks the bridge over which he himself must pass if he would ever reach heaven; for everyone has a need to be forgiven."

Troubled? Write to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Skirt Can Become Two Pillowcases
Don't discard a full-gathered skirt of good cotton cloth just because it has become too small for the wearer.
Instead, make the front part of a pair of pillow cases from it and use the remainder to border the tops of two sheets. Solid colors, florals and thin checks are nice for girl's rooms and bold plaids for boy's rooms.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here are a few tricks for the would-be reducer.
• Green salads, vegetables and fruits not only give you vitamins but also provide bulk.

This helps avoid that hollow feeling. It is also preventive to constipation which is sometimes a problem when the good intake is limited.
• It doesn't matter WHEN you consume your 1000, 2000 or 1400 calories a day. You can divide the allowable number into 10 small meals or eat the whole amount at one meal so far as weight loss is concerned.

However, it is most inadvisable to skip a meal. You are almost sure to more than make up for it sooner or later at another meal or with between-meal snacks. There is a new theory called scientific nibbling which allows you to nibble all day so long as you stay within the allowable number of calories. Many women have been successful when using this method.
• Studies have shown over and over again that the most successful reducers do not skip a meal. Not only are you apt to overeat later on but such long periods without food will lead to fatigue and probably to irritability.
• Eat slowly. It really is more satisfying if you do. Give your blood sugar level a chance to increase.
• Bake, broil or boil foods. Frying adds so MANY calories. You can scramble an egg in the top of a double boiler.
• Don't talk about dieting. It bores others and keeps your mind on food constantly.
• If you break over one day because of social life be sure to make up for it the next day, not next week.
• If you have a lot of weight to lose don't think in terms of 20, 30 or 40 pounds more. Forget that! Take it five or 10 pounds at a time. For instance, set 10 pounds, or if you like it better, five pounds, as your goal, and keep your mind on that. When you have reached this goal make 15 pounds your goal and so forth.

May vows are being planned by Cynthia Mary Overstreet, daughter of the junior Edward V. K. Overstreets of South Cass Lake Road, and Vernon R. Wiggins of Nancywood Drive, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Wiggins of Cincinnati, Ohio. She attended Ferris State College and her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.

Flip Your 'Lid' for This Idea

(AP) — To have your child's beret dry in a perfect shape and look like a new one when you launder it, place the right size sauce-pan lid inside it.

Tie a piece of string to the knob on top of the lid which you have placed so that the knob is on the underside. Hang to clotheslines by the string.

A Rule of Thumb

— The rule of thumb for adequate protection, according to the Institute of Life Insurance, is that a family breadwinner should carry life insurance equal to four or five years of his income.

Pampering Pleases Plant

If you receive a plant this holiday season, you can help it thrive with the proper dose of tender loving care. Here are some pointers from Florists' Transworld Delivery experts to help you care for your Christmas plants.

Star-shaped Poinsettias are the floral symbols of the holiday season. The plants should be placed by a sunny window. The flower should not touch the cold pane and should be kept away from drafts and radiators.

Room temperatures between 65 and 70 degrees are best for Poinsettias, which require water whenever the surface soil becomes dry. Azalea plants, with their masses of bright blossoms, favor cool, light locations. Be sure to keep the soil moist from top to bottom. If the soil becomes extremely dry, submerge the flower pot in water for approximately five minutes.

Fruit-bearing plants are holiday favorites, and the richly colored harvest of fruit is strictly decorative.

If Christmas Peppers or Jerusalem Cherries brighten your holiday scene, place them in a sunny window and in cool temperatures — from 55 to 65 degrees.

Dwarf Orange Trees also like coolness and moisture. Keep the plant in a shady area for the first few days, then place it in south light through the winter months.

Plenty of light and cool temperatures are important for chrysanthemum plants. FTD florists suggest giving the plant a change of temperature at night by placing it in a cooler room. Water at least once a day, and your Chrysanthemum plant should enjoy a long, healthy life.

Fibrous and "Lady Mac" Begonias require light, but never direct sun, and constant moisture. Snip the tops of shoots on Fibrous Begonias as they grow taller to encourage additional branches and flowers.

Cyclamen, in a choice of Christmas red, pink or white, thrive on temperatures near 70 degrees in the daytime and 55 degrees during the night.

WANT LIGHT
Place the plant in a south or east window to get the benefit of full light. Water Cyclamen before the top soil becomes completely dry.

Tropical plants generally need light but should be kept out of direct sun. Wash the foliage frequently with lukewarm water to help the plant breathe, and water moderately.

Shrimp and Cheese Are Team Mates for Dinner

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
It's time for some simple food. Most of us have had our fill of turkey dinners and rich desserts.

One pound of cooked shrimp and half a pound of cheese are the main ingredients of a casserole that will feed six people. With a green salad and fruit for dessert, you have a good meal that will please the palate and be kind to the budget.

Mrs. R. J. Van Waggoner of Lake Orion is our cook today.

SHRIMP AND CHEESE CASSEROLE
By Mrs. R. J. Van Waggoner

6 slices of bread
1 pound prepared shrimp
1/2 pound old English cheese, sliced
1/4 cup margarine, melted
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

3 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
Remove crusts from bread and break bread into pieces the size of a quarter. Break cheese into bite-size pieces.

Arrange shrimp, bread and cheese into several layers in a greased casserole. Pour melted margarine over this mixture.

Beat eggs. Add mustard and salt, then milk. Mix thoroughly and pour over ingredients in casserole. Let stand covered in refrigerator at least three hours (overnight is preferable).

Remove from refrigerator three hours before putting into oven so dish won't break. Bake one hour at 300 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Mrs. Van Waggoner says that increasing the amount of shrimp definitely improves the dish.

The James H. Bartleys of Lake Orion announce the engagement of their daughter Judith Mae to Robert William Johnson, son of the Russell W. Johnsons of Walnut Street. She attends the Ann Arbor Practical Nurse Center and her fiancé is a medical student at Wayne State University.

Switch in Mortgage Means New Interest

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money
Management

Dear Miss Feeley: I have an $18,000 mortgage with a local savings and trust company. The interest rate is 6 1/2 per cent, which I feel is too high. How would I go about getting it reduced?

Do I seek another mortgage or go to the present holder and ask for a reduction?

Read your contract over again and see if you have a prepayment clause and what penalty, if any, there is if you pay up this mortgage ahead of time.

As to whether you could make a new arrangement with the present mortgage holder, you can always talk the situation over. If the answer is no, then shop around to see what kind of deal you can make somewhere else — considering the value of your property.

Keep in mind that a change in mortgages would involve new closing costs. So you would want to consider this expense in relation to the new monthly payments you would have to make.

Your arithmetic homework would boil down to this: add any prepayment penalty to the total amount you now owe on your mortgage. Now add on whatever the new closing costs would be. Then find out what the new monthly payments would be for a lower interest mortgage which would run for the same length of time as your present one is scheduled for.

If you find you can save anything per month by a switch, then by all means start looking around.

Dear Miss Feeley: We have a mortgage with a private party at 6 per cent. We would like to help our daughter with her educational expenses, and are considering refinancing our home.

Do refinancing charges depend on the amount you borrow? A. B., Monterey Park, Calif.

Dear A. B.:

The interest rate you will get will depend on the value of your house as well as the amount you borrow. Usually the interest rate is higher when the mortgage represents a larger proportion of the appraised value. The closing costs are also calculated on the amount you borrow.

Dear Mary Feeley: I need $1,000 as soon as possible for medical reasons. I still owe a little more than $4,000 on my FHA mortgage — at an interest rate of only 4 1/2 per cent.

The manager of the bank does not want me to borrow on it. He says I would lose this low interest rate. I am a widow with no business head and I know there are people just waiting for people like me to come around! What should I do?

U. V., Victorville, Calif.

Dear U. V.:

Go back to your banker and see what you can arrange for in the way of a personal loan. I assume you have some kind of FHA steady income, and even though it may be just barely enough, interest will be answered in this you might be able to swing a column.)

long-time personal loan in order to get the medical attention you need.

I agree with your banker that a mortgage at only 4 1/2 per cent is worth hanging onto. You couldn't expect to do this well if you try to refinance your mortgage.

You might also contact the nearest Health and Welfare Department in your area and talk over the situation with them. This isn't charity, since you are a property owner and a taxpayer, and you are entitled to find out what help you can get on some kind of paying basis.

'Dunking' Fountain Lasts

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "We trust it will stand for a century," said Pearl Caldwell when she presented the Senior Class gift to Florida State University in 1915.

The Westcott Fountain, erected just inside the main gate of the University has become the school's best-known landmark. The Class of 1915, returning to the school for the 1965 homecoming, found its gift had made it halfway to the 100 years they hoped it would stand.

The class president, Pearl Caldwell, is now Mrs. Frank D. Warren. At the time of her graduation, the school was known as Florida State College for Women.

High and Dry

— Hang damp towels and other wet items suspended from the top of the clothes chute by spring-type clothespins until they are dry rather than drop them into the basement while they are still wet. It prevents soiled laundry from becoming mildewed.

Let Youngsters Help Themselves

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Nursery school students can gain confidence from use of self-help clothing, a Texas A&M University Extension consumer education specialist says.

The easy-care, washable fabrics which a child can handle himself encourages self-reliance and speeds up the day when a child can dress and groom himself completely, according to Lynn Parks.

Bleach Pan Stains

Stains and discolorations may be removed from an enamel pot or pan with chlorine bleach. Use water with one-fourth cup of bleach. Let it stand in pan until stain disappears. Then wash the utensil well with warm sudsy water and rinse.

Polly's Pointers

A Sweater Bag

DEAR POLLY — A beautiful pocketbook can be made from a discarded sweater. Cut off the sleeves and lay them aside for awhile.

Seam the back and the front of the sweater just below the neck. The shape is now square. Sew in lining on a stiffening material, fold the sweater in half, according to your taste or depending on the size of the sweater.

The sleeves can be used to make pockets for the outside, arranged in an interesting fashion.

or, even inside if you prefer. Sew around the open end of the bag, sew in a zipper, and for handles use a chain from a discarded bag — MRS. M. B.

GIRLS—I was intrigued with this idea as I was with one, a few years ago, for making sweaters from old nylon hose.

Mrs. M. B.'s letter was not completely clear to me but this is the way I worked it out. Both sides of a slipover sweater might be usable but only the back of a cardigan.

Before cutting out the bag-shape, be sure to mark the outline with straight pins or chalk. Stitch, on the sewing machine, a bit beyond the line so the knitting does not ravel.

Be sure to do this before cutting. Lining is imperative as it eases the strain and weight of things put in the bag. Such weight on knitting alone would cause it to stretch and sag out of shape. A casing, put in at the top so a small dowel stick could run through it, would help hold the bag in shape at the top.

Some of you may have tops, saved from other bags, that have holes in the frame so the bag could be sewed at the top.

I have one such tortoise top that has been used over a period of years for many bags. The idea would be very good for a knitting bag and a nice big one could be made from a big man's sweater.

Monograms cut from felt or wool flowers could attractively decorate the outside of such a bag whether it be a purse, or knitting bag — POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When I am sitting under the dryer at the beauty shop I always have with me a small container of moisturizing cream which I dab around my eyes to prevent dryness.

Also, when I travel I take this small container of cream to keep my skin from becoming dry. You would never guess my age — DORIS

Stop Their Scorn Before It's Too Late

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Come now! So that little boy called his mother a "fink"! Why don't you suggest that she do what I did when my youngster brought home a nasty four-letter word? I looked it up in the dictionary, and when he saw that it wasn't listed there, I said, "Words that the dictionary doesn't include aren't worth using." Result: no more of the nasty word.

I may not have a college degree but I'm told I have a fine command of the English language.

Answer: Perhaps your child didn't use that four-letter word to shock you. Perhaps he just used it experimentally to see if its newness fascinated you as it did him.

The column to which you refer wasn't talking about youngsters who use offensive words experimentally. It was talking about those who use them out of desire to shock us.

And I reiterate that it is a desire we must not indulge. That is because it contains a certain degree of scorn. Whether it's a child who angrily calls us a "fink" or an off-Broadway playwright who stuffs as many four-letter words into the mouths of his characters as he can, the purpose is the same: the desire to so overwhelm us with super-sophistication that we are made to feel a helpless dismay while the words' user is made to feel big, strong and very knowledgeable.

Perceiving this intent in a recent off-Broadway play, a psychiatrist I know walked out on it. He didn't walk out because the words shocked him. He walked out because he saw no point in making himself the butt of the playwright's scorn.

How we make ineffective a child's scorn of us by the use of shock words doesn't matter in my opinion. What matters is our refusal to gratify the desire to scorn.

It matters because children who succeed in shocking us with four-letter words (or scornful names) may come to regard as much as the scornful off-Broadway playwright regards his middle-class audience — as over-protected, prissy stuffed shirts who know nothing about the kind of world they know about.

This is a view of us that we cannot afford to encourage. For the child who is allowed to scorn us stuffy pruders at the age of six can become an adolescent who feels no respect whatever for our counsel and guidance at the age of 16.

Our opinions on everything from politics through to sex and education will be seen as worthless — the opinions of an over-protected old dodo who lives in a world that no longer exists.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Freeman of Paulsen Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Fern, to David Arthur Wheatcroft, son of the Arthur Wheatcrofts of Hopefield Street, Orion Township. Late spring vows are planned.

The Roy B. Wards of West Chicago Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter Cynthia Joyce to Richard Henry Gosley, son of Mrs. Wilda Lyons of West Chicago Avenue and Henry Gosley of North Adams Road, Avon Township.

Teacher Gives Suggestions for Left-Handed Children

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A South African teacher wants teachers of the world to give more effective and sympathetic attention to the problems of the left-handed child.

Pretoria teacher G. M. Batty, writing in a local education bulletin, says it is important that teachers themselves be taught to cope with left-handers. Special attention, he says, must be paid to the left-handers are taught to write.

He says if a left-handed child has no guidance in using his pen, he may grow up with damaging peculiarities — like the "hook" position where the whole body is distorted.

In the "hook" one shoulder is held higher than the other and the spine is twisted. One hip is pushed forward to take most of the weight and one leg is probably hanging in midair, with other hooked round the chair leg.

This twisted posture easily does damage to growth, says Batty.

His suggestions for avoiding this and for helping the left-hander over his special difficulties:

- The child should be put where the light falls over his right shoulder. If on a double desk he should be put on the left side so as not to disturb his neighbor.
- Ball points should not be used. Left-handers should be brought up to use a fountain pen with a fairly blunt or angled point.
- The slant of the writing should be either vertical or slightly backward, and the pen should be held at least an inch away from the point so the child can see past his hand.
- Psychologists have shown considerable dangers of forcing natural left-handers to write with their right hand, says Batty. But teachers must not leave them to their own awkward devices or make them feel in any way that they're using the "wrong" hand.

And even if you can distinguish the source of your stain, results may not justify the

The total look in elegant bedroom decor is now possible. New Englander beds have fashion-keyed tickings with the luxury look and feel of velvet. This 1966 model with the "velvet touch" is an adaptation of a Regency pattern in midnight blue on pale blue satin, designed by Irene Tanner of New York City.

Soak Linens First for Results

After you've done with your holiday entertaining, you'll be taking a dismal look at your laundry.

Added to your normal load of linens and cloths will be guest towels, a tablecloth or two, place mats, napkins and a bevy of dish towels. Many will carry stains — indelible reminders of festive fare.

To administer the prescribed antidote to each, you have to be sure of its origin and sometimes after a stain has dried and set it's hard to distinguish between grandma's coffee spill and junior's gravy spill or cranberry sauce and raspberry jam.

And even if you can distinguish the source of your stain, results may not justify the time and energy spent applying the remedy.

TREAT ALL TO SOAK

Your best bet is to simply treat everything en masse to a pre-wash soak.

Use warm water, as hot water will set some stains while cold water sets others. Add three or four tablespoons of sal soda concentrated and then limit the soak to the length of time it takes the water to cool off. No longer.

Or you can run the load through the regular machine wash cycle, with your water temperature set at warm and with just the sal ... no detergent or soap powder.

The sal, used in either of these pre-treatment procedures, loosens the stains so that they'll respond more willingly to the subsequent wash. And for this, the final phase, add another three tablespoons of sal soda. It softens the water and accelerates the detergent's action.

Just be sure, if you're using a high sudsing detergent, to use less than you normally do or you'll have more suds than you bargained for.

Most stains should vanish with this double-barrel treatment. Even if the faded trace of a few remain, they'll disappear in another couple of washings.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

Here is a darling idea to play around with during the holidays. Use your leftover scraps of colored yarn and make knitted sleeves for a wool jumper dress. The sleeves will be knitted from a sweater pattern, using rectangles of colored yarn knitted down the center of a white sleeve to form diamond shapes. Set the sleeves into a jumper just as you would set in regular sleeves.

Complete the garment by knitting a 2-inch wide strip of bias to bind the neckline of the jumper. This will look like a very expensive dress and I know you will love it.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. P. Roth, Evanston, Ill., wins a Tailor Trix pressing board for the following idea.

"Do not discard the plaid wool blankets used on your children's beds. Instead, make ponchos, which are so very popular with the small fry since the "Sound of Music" made them famous.

"Cut the blanket into a square, cutting off the fringe or hem. Fold into a triangle and make a slit for the head. Insert a 7-inch Zipper front. Bind the neck edges with wool braid. Use a skein of heavy yarn for fringe for all the outer edges. Fringe should be about 7 inches long and very close together for a heavy look.

"If you have any leftover yarn, make a yarn pom-pom and tie it to the Zipper. Just think, it won't cost a cent; just a few hour's time and your children will love it."

(Since there is very little machine stitching on this garment, it would be a nice thing to make during the holidays when you are taking it a little easy):

It's time again to wish you the happiest holiday season you have ever had, and to follow these wishes with a New Year packed with continued good health and happiness.

Visit to Salon a Hair-Raiser

By JAY BOWLES

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — As usual, I was about two weeks late in getting a haircut. And, as usual, some fellow worker wisely cracked that I might as well go to a beauty parlor and get it set. I did the next best thing. I went to a men's hair salon.

Two hours later, I had some compassion for the distaff population. My hair had indeed been styled — and I had gone through a shampoo, sat under a dryer and been topped with hair spray in the process.

But you can bet your scissors and razors—no electric clippers, please—that I got my $7 worth—which is the shop fee.

One step across the marble foyer puts the work-a-day world far away indeed. You step on the plush carpet, hand your coat to an attendant—together with your shoes for a shine—and settle back in a velvet-backed oak chair to await your turn.

Then, into the thick of things, where Sue Hinds—a graduate of both beauty and barber schools—holds a razor in wait. After Sue expertly whisks the sharp instrument around your head, trying a few new styles in the process, it's on to the shampoo couch. Then to the dryer. And finally back to go, where your hair style is finally perfected.

Do men feel self-conscious about sitting under a hair dryer? Not by the hair on your chinny-chin-chin.

"Nobody feels any complex sitting under the dryer because, Buddy, everybody goes under here," says co-owner Tim Bishop.

SPRAY COMMENT?

What do they say about the hair spray?

"Nothing. As a matter of fact, many men confide they're being using their wives' spray for years."

The shop, says Bishop, operates successfully on the "snob appeal" associated with it. Suburban businessmen, and some prominent recording artists, are numbered among the customers.

"They either like us or they don't like us," explains Bishop. "And most of them that don't like us just don't like the price."

PLAIN STYLING
The $7 figure includes a shampoo. Just a plain old hair styling sets you back $5.

Bishop, who has been in the business of styling women's hair for 18 years, has definite tenets by which he feels every male head of hair ought to live.

"First, a man should have hair on his head. Period. No man should walk the streets with his skin in the wind. Secondly—and of almost equal importance—no grease. Period. No hair oil. Period. Wash the hair every third day, at least. Grease and oils on the hair collect dust like a magnet, attracting dandruff like nothing else."

And then he disappears into another corner of his tonsorial Taj Mahal.

And you sit there, thinking, "Boy, if my barber could only see me now."

Cowbirds lay their eggs in other birds' nests. The young cowbird is raised by the foster parent.

AP Photos

Cemetery Case More Confused

DETROIT (AP) — With the judge hospitalized and his court-appointed receiver resigned, Brookdale Memorial Park Cemetery's affairs were newly complicated today.

Circuit Judge Joseph G. Rashid, scheduled to decide Thursday on one of three auction bidders for the Livonia cemetery, entered a hospital Tuesday for treatment of a stomach ailment.

Rashid, 51, said it was uncertain whether he would be able to hand down a ruling by Thursday.

The cemetery's receiver, Kevin Barry, at the same time tendered his resignation to Rashid. Barry, assistant superintendent of another cemetery, said he lacked the time to tend to Brookdale.

Meanwhile, Rashid disclosed that the cemetery manager, Raymond Graessle, quit last week to take a post with another cemetery.

Brookdale, faced with a total of more than $8 million in lawsuits, has been under investigation for alleged improper burial practices. The suits were brought by survivors of persons left in Brookdale's care.

Still another possible problem was added by Livonia's Mayor Harvey W. Moelke. Moelke said any buyer of the cemetery would have to deal with zoning restrictions that forbid commercial or residential use.

'Must Not Cut Domestic Plans'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case said today the election in Viet Nam must not be allowed to pinch off funds for the war on discrimination, poverty, disease and ignorance at home.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said that "we must fight the war first" and that domestic programs are going to have to be cut back to provide for sharp increases in the defense budget.

Case, New Jersey Republican who is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, called in a statement for increased federal outlays for education. He said that "the federal contribution has become a vital ingredient in our total educational effort and we simply cannot afford to scale back this effort at any level, federal, state or local."

"There is a wide range of federal activities, many of them recently authorized or expanded, that bear importantly on national goals with the same top priority as our commitment in Viet Nam," Case said. "The wars we face against discrimination, poverty, disease and ignorance are also vital to our long-run security."

KENNEDY COMMENT
Case thus lined up with neighboring Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who said recently that Viet Nam costs must not be permitted to delay or diminish domestic programs. But it was Dirksen declined in a telephone interview to comment on Case's stand. But he made it clear he believes something has to give when it comes to balancing off domestic expenditures with the mounting costs in Viet Nam.

"This is one of the big headaches the President has," Dirksen said. "He is probably going to have to take the $100 billion lid off his new budget. To keep expenditures in balance, he is going to have to cut somewhere and he certainly can't cut on the war."

"When you are in a war you extricate yourself the best way you can, honorably. Short of giving up and pulling out, which would be unthinkable, we are going to have to put into South Viet Nam whatever is necessary. We've got to fight the war first and hold down domestic expenditures."

HIGHER EDUCATION
Case said he hoped the President will ask immediately for an additional $640 million for implementing the Higher Education Act. If such a request is made, it will signal the beginning of a fight over the runs vs. butter issue on domestic spending.

On the Democratic side of the fence, Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas called for a moratorium on new federal spending programs because of the war. In a speech Tuesday at North Little Rock, Ark., he said "we've got to decide where to retrench."

In other action Tuesday, the President approved the appointment of Donald F. Simpson as assistant secretary for administration in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Simpson, 48, has served as executive officer of the Public Health Service since 1962.

Even while considering military funds, however, Johnson was much occupied with moves to promote a peaceful settlement of the war that might make needless new money requests for the coming fiscal year, starting July 1.

The White House, which has kept silent on all Viet Nam developments in recent days, did announce before McNamara's departure Tuesday that he and Johnson talked about Viet Nam, including moves to quiet the fighting there.

This was the first word from the White House that Johnson had discussed Viet Nam since his arrival here more than a week ago.

Though no one doubted the President was keeping close tabs on vital questions of war and peace, the White House had maintained a solid silence on the subject.

ENDS HOLIDAY VISIT — Former President Harry S. Truman says goodbye at Newark Airport yesterday to two of his grandsons, Clifton (left), 8, and William, 6.

The boys are children of Truman's daughter Margaret and newspaper executive Clifton Daniel. Truman spent the Christmas holiday with the family in New York.

Predict Road Toll for Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimated today that between 300 and 400 persons could be killed in traffic accidents during the three-day New Year's weekend.

The holiday period begins at 6 p.m. Thursday and ends at midnight Sunday. The period actually covers 78 hours.

The Safety Council said some 360 persons would be expected to die in traffic accidents this weekend if it were not a holiday.

Traffic accidents during the three-day year-end period last year killed 474 persons. The highest toll on record for that holiday.

A record 720 persons were killed in last week's three-day Christmas observance, the highest number recorded for any holiday period since record-keeping began.

Semester System Delays Progress

Year-Round School Plan Offers Benefits

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Operating schools the year-around would save large amounts of money.

This is 1966, not 1910, and students are no longer needed for summer farm work. We have become an urban society and should adjust our schedule of school and study accordingly.

What's stopping us? The semester system! Two semesters leave too short a time for a summer period of equal length.

There is a better arrangement already in use in many colleges — the quarter system. With four periods, lasting 12 weeks each, it permits year-around operation of schools.

Two years ago the University of California announced its campuses would, one by one, change to the quarter system. The same scheduling in California high schools would produce a smooth flow of students from secondary to college level.

THREE-WEEK BREAK

In its last session, the state legislature authorized an experiment in year-around quarter system scheduling of the Del Campo High School in the San Juan Unified District near Sacramento. For two years, starting September 1966, the Del Campo school year will be composed of four quarters of 38, 38, 38 and 34 days.

There will be a one-week break between the third quarter and the 54-day summer quarter. There will be a three-week break between the summer quarter and the first or Fall quarter. The three-week break will allow time for needed heavy building maintenance.

There are several possible advantages to the use of the quarter system in high school.

Year-around school, with its acceleration of learning, will allow a superior student to enter college earlier or give him extra time to pursue his high school courses in greater depth.

SPREAD COURSES

The longer school year will allow the spreading out of subject matter requirements for those students ranking around the average mark and lower in ability range. Thus, the quarter system and year-around school can provide a time latitude so that individual students may profit according to their learning capacity.

Teachers would be employed for the full year, placing them in a better economic position than at present. They could be allowed a quarter off for travel, study or just recreation.

A study-plus-work program operating on a year-around basis works successfully at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio. A similar program at the high school level, in which groups of students could alternate 12 weeks of work with 12 weeks of high school, might well be a major break-through in the solution of the dropout problem.

Students who are losing interest in high school classes would not only get 12 weeks of relief but the experience gained on a job would serve as motivation for continued formal schooling.

(You can write to Prof. Nason in care of The Pontiac Press.)

Italian Foreign Minister Refuses to Withdraw Resignation

ROME (AP) — Amintore Moro asked Fanfani to stay on after the foreign minister resigned Tuesday because of publication of remarks critical of U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Moro which Fanfani's friend Prof. Giorgio La Pira made at a party given by the foreign minister's wife.

PEACE FEELER

Fanfani recently reported to Rusk on a conversation between La Pira and President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam which La Pira said contained a peace feeler. North Viet Nam later denied it, but La Pira stuck to his version.

"I beg you ... not to insist upon your dismissal, which I do not think I am able to accept," Moro told Fanfani in a telegram from his Alpine vacation retreat.

The right-wing magazine Borghese published La Pira's remarks, and said he made them in an interview. La Pira, a former mayor of Florence, said they were tongue-in-cheek observations made at a private party. Mrs. Fanfani gave the party Dec. 20 while her husband was in New York, serving as president of the U.N. General Assembly.

Borghese quoted La Pira as saying, "Rusk is incompetent. Rusk knows nothing. He does not understand very much." It said he called Moro "soft." La Pira said the magazine "has taken seriously voluntary paradoxes and jokes" spoken with no political motivation and printed them out of context with "bassness and malice."

CAST DOUBTS

"Unjust" and unfounded considerations and judgments of a friend (La Pira) and the imprudent initiative of a member of my family (his wife) rightly or wrongly have cast doubts on the

Jan. 6, the day after the foreign minister goes before a special session of the Chamber of Deputies Foreign Affairs Commission to explain his role as middle-man in the peace feeler affair.

Fanfani said he wanted to stay on until after he appears before the commission to forestall any suggestion that he or the government wanted to avoid giving his explanation. Fanfani's part in the affair touched off a furor within Moro's four-party coalition government.

POLITICAL RIVALS

Although Fanfani and Moro are both members of the Christian Democratic party, they are political rivals. But Moro three times last fall turned down offers by Fanfani to quit the foreign ministry because of his U.N. Assembly post.

Moro's government is a coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists, Democratic Socialists, and Republicans. Observers said if Moro accepted Fanfani's resignation, it might start a breakup of the coalition.

Flavio Orlandi, a Democratic Socialist deputy, said Fanfani made "too much noise over too little a thing" by resigning. The newspaper Il Messaggero said in an editorial: "We ask that Fanfani stay at his post and that he stay there with full dignity."

L'Unita, the Italian Communist party newspaper, said Fanfani's resignation was "difficult to judge." It again defended La Pira for a "concrete initiative for peace" by his private mission to Hanoi.

Traditional Salad of Swedes Has Pronounced Flavor

What beans are to Boston and spaghetti is to the Italians, her-Scandinavians have long per- ring is to many Scandinavians, formed sorcery with fish — es- pecially herring.

This salad, tossed with fresh dairy sour cream, beets, apples, and potatoes, is one of the finest ways to enjoy this fish delicacy. The subtle seasonings with the flavor-making tang from the sour cream go to make this an adventure in eating.

Mounded on a chilled platter and garnished with sieved yolks and white of egg, this is a centerpiece for your table. Serve it as a salad or as an appetizer.

Either way, be sure to include crackers or a typical Swedish bread such as limpa, a molasses-sweetened light rye.

Swedish Herring Salad
2 tablespoons beet juice (from pickled beets)
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups dairy sour cream
1 cup diced pickled herring
1 cup diced cooked potatoes
1 cup diced pickled beets
1 cup diced apples
1/2 tablespoon chopped pickles
1 hard-cooked egg for garnish
Chopped parsley for garnish
In a medium-size mixing bowl gently blend beet juice, mustard, sugar and salt into sour cream. Add herring, potatoes, beets, apples and pickles. Gently toss to blend. Chill.

Sieve egg yolk and white separately. When ready to serve, mound onto a chilled platter and garnish with alternating rows of sieved yolks and white of egg and chopped parsley.

Serve with crackers or a typical Swedish bread such as limpa, a molasses-sweetened light rye. Serves 4-6 if served as salad, 10-12 if served as appetizer.

Add Color to Dressing

Even salad dressing can get the Holiday spirit. Noel Dressing, with flecks of green (from minced sweet gherkins) and red (from chopped pimiento) adds color to tossed greens. Make this delightful dressing ahead of time and keep chilled until serving.

Noel Dressing
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup finely chopped sweet gherkins
1 tablespoon finely chopped pimiento
Combine ingredients in flask or jar. Shake well. Chill. Shake again before serving. Serve over tossed greens. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

SQUASH CONTAINER — Banana squash grows nearly cylindrical with a slight tapering at both ends. The skin resembles a smooth bark and changes to creamy pink as it stays in storage. The shell is of medium hardness. Choose a small one weighing about 6-8 pounds. Wash. Decide which side will be the top. Take a pencil and sketch the size of the opening. Use a butcher knife or any broad knife blade and follow pencil pattern by tapering the blade into the squash with a hammer. Remove seeds and pulp. Fill the cavity with wads of foil paper. Tuck in raw vegetables as desired.

SWEDISH SALAD — From a cuisine rooted in the Continental tradition comes this delightful Swedish Herring Salad with the extra zest of dairy fresh sour cream.

Brush Coiled Biscuits With Honey, Add Nuts

Offer delectable Biscuit Honey at coffeetime, or use them as morning "bait" for a "rise n' shine" family.

To prepare, roll out basic biscuit dough about 1/4-inch thick. Cut into 1/2-inch strips and coil into "snails" on baking sheet. Brush each biscuit with honey and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in a preheated 450 degree oven, 10 to 12 minutes, or until golden brown.

Some good cooks like to rub over a half a lemon over the inside of a chicken that is to be roasted.

These Fig Bars Have Jam Center

It's easy and fun to fancy-up your menus with California dried figs! As a golden garnish or as an ingredient, these nuggets of goodness add concentrated nourishment as well as subtle and exotic flavor. Pies and puddings take on new texture and interest. Your favorite cakes, hot breads and cookies are suddenly new again. And these plump figs — whole or cut up, take to main dishes beautifully — inside or on top or around the edges.

They should be as standard in your kitchen as the best-used spices in your cupboard or the favorite fruit in your fruit bowl. Try them! You'll wonder how you got along without them!

Marmalade Fig Bars

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/2 cups quick-cooked oats
1 cup brown sugar, packed
1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup chopped dried figs

1 cup orange marmalade
1/2 cup slivered almonds
Sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add oats and brown sugar. With pastry blender, cut in butter until crumbly. Mix in figs.

Pat 1/2 of mixture into 13x9-2 1/2 inch pan. Spread with marmalade. Sprinkle remaining mixture over; top with almonds. Bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Cool; cut into bars. Makes about 2 dozen.

Side Dish for Pork

Apple sauce as vegetable with roast pork: Heat 2 cups canned apple sauce. Add 1/4 cup raisins plumped in apple juice. Stir in butter to taste and serve hot with dusting of cinnamon.

Mr. Andronick, a retired employe of GMC Truck & Coach Division, died Monday.

More Rain Hits West Coast

3-Day Storm Brings Extensive Damage

By The Associated Press
Winds diminished from gale force, but more rain fell in areas from Northern California to Washington today and heavy snow piled up in mountain sections.

The three-day storm in the Pacific Northwest has caused extensive property damage. Power was knocked out in several communities. Many roads and some major mountain passes were closed. Floods from rain-swollen rivers and streams threatened some areas.

Rain was reported in nearly every city from Puget Sound to Southern California. More than eight inches of rain hit Cape Blanco on the southern Oregon coast.

Winds of 70 m.p.h. Tuesday halted four ships outside San Francisco's Golden Gate for several hours as storms battered the area. The rain and high winds extended into northwestern Nevada.

BLIZZARD HITS

A blizzard swept Mt. Shasta in Northern California and derailment of a freight car at Dunsmuir delayed the Southern Pacific's Cascade passenger train for more than nine hours Tuesday. The train runs between Portland, Ore., and Oakland, Calif.

On a fishing boat sank in Bodega Bay, north of San Francisco and another sank at Half Moon Bay south of San Francisco. Several others were blown ashore a mile from their anchorage in Bodega Bay.

The only other wet spots during the early morning were in the northern Great Lakes region which reported freezing drizzle. Warm southerly winds took the chill out of most of the central part of the nation, including areas where temperatures had dropped to below zero in northern sections in the last few mornings. Readings in most other areas were generally above normal except in northern New England and near the northern border of Montana.

Surviving are two sons, Marshall and William, both of Oakland, Calif.

3 Deputies Resign After Party Probe

Three deputies have resigned from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at the request of Sheriff Frank W. Irons following an investigation into an off-duty party.

They were identified as Worth Hitchcock, 47, 711 S. Broad, Holly; Harold Earp, 27, 722 Ontario, Oxford; and Lawrence G. Lueper, 27, 8125 Marshalsea Commerce Township.

Irons said he asked the deputies to quit for "conduct unbecoming a deputy" during an early-morning party at Hitchcock's home in Holly last Thursday.

Hitchcock joined the department in 1960, Earp in 1961 and Lueper in March of this year. All three were in the department's uniformed division.

Pontiac; three daughters, Mrs. Ray Hellock of Bay City and Mrs. Dorothy Williams and Mrs. Robert Saunders, both of Pontiac.

Also surviving are three brothers and two sisters.

Mr. Sweet died Monday. He was a self-employed decorator and painter.

Diplomats Ride Bikes in Zambia

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Government ministers have laid up their American cars for smaller models. U.S. Ambassador Robert Good and other diplomats have bought bicycles. Work schedules have been altered to end lunch trips home. "Is your journey really necessary?" That's the watchword in Zambia as gasoline rationing limits motorists to one gallon a week.

Zambia normally gets its petroleum supplies from Rhodesia, its neighbor to the south. When Britain embargoed oil shipments to that rebellious central African territory, Rhodesia's white government cut off supplies to Zambia to conserve its own stocks.

Communication is not helped by Lusaka's temperamental telephone system which now is the public tries to do more business over it. But people seem prepared to wait for nearly 30 minutes to complete local calls rather than waste their precious gasoline.

SUFFICIENT SUPPLIES

Emergency supply measures have ensured that the majority of industrial users have sufficient supplies. An increase in the general ration is expected within three months, as a fuel lift by plane and tanker trucks creates the supply to about 76,000 gallons a day.

That is just over half Zambia's needs, and it will be supplied without U.S. help. There is hope that the United States will make up the balance with a large fleet of planes.

British Royal Air Force transports are flying a daily airlift from Tanzania. Four Canadian air force transports begin a fuel lift from the Congo this week. More than 150 tanker trucks are making a 1,000-mile haul from the railroad in Tanzania, at Mikumi. The operation is not being made any easier by rainy season downpours which play havoc with the mud roads.

Russian Sees Continued Coexistence

MOSCOW (AP) — A news analyst for the official Soviet news agency Tass says the Soviet Union will not change its basic policy of coexistence with the West in 1966.

But the analyst, A. Sovetov, indicated that relations with the United States would remain frozen because of the war in Vietnam.

"The hopes for a possibility of peaceful coexistence with the Soviet Union are vain if the leaders of some imperialist power undertake aggressive steps against any other Socialist country," he wrote.

In Soviet terminology, the United States is an imperialist power and North Vietnam is a Socialist country. Sovetov made the comments in an article for the January issue of the magazine International Affairs.

"Washington is following a line which combines military gambles with political maneuvering and subversion," he wrote, but added there was hope of improving Soviet relations with the West European countries.

Thieves Take Car's Tires as Motorist Dies

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Thieves, apparently believed Freeman Humphrey, 57, of Canoga Park, was in a drunken stupor in his parked car, jacked the vehicle up and stole three tires, police reported yesterday.

But he was not drunk. Humphrey was either dead or dying.

"It seems obvious," said Detective Sgt. Don Zellers, "that someone thought they had a chance to steal from a helpless drunk."

"It's possible that Humphrey was dead when the wheels were taken."

An autopsy disclosed Humphrey died of natural causes — internal hemorrhaging.

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Strikers stoned and injured four Americans and 12 Canadians at India's atomic power plant site when the foreigners tried to repair construction equipment damaged earlier by the striking workers.

Bechtel India Ltd., the American firm which is building the plant at Atarapur, 60 miles from Bombay, reported the incident Tuesday.

About 4,000 employes have been on strike at the site since Dec. 9 over a wage dispute.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese government has suspended the independent monthly magazine Wen Hsing for a year because it criticized the government.

The Interior Ministry said the magazine had been registered as a publication devoted purely to literary subjects but had become a political journal strongly critical of the government. It cited three articles in the December issue which it said reflected on the judicial system.

The magazine has been published since November 1957. Its publisher, Hsiao Mong-neng, said it had a circulation of 7,000.

PENZANCE, England (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to the Scilly Isles to England, for a short vacation. He said he hoped to get in some golf, walking and reading.

Wilson was accompanied by his wife and son Giles.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — President Joseph Mobutu promoted Premier Leonard Mulamba from colonel to brigadier general today.

Col. Leopold Masiala, commander of the Leopoldville army group, also was advanced to brigadier general. Both promotions were for "exceptional services."

Mulamba, 36, became premier when Gen. Mobutu, the army commander in chief, overthrew President Joseph Kasavubu last month.

Employees Capture Store Theft Suspect

Three employes of the Kroger store in the Miracle Mile Shopping Center captured a shoplifter last night who allegedly took $60 from a cash register.

Facing a charge of larceny from a building is Charlie Williams Jr. of 503 Gog.

Bloomfield Township police said that Williams, who had pushed a shopping basket up to the check out counter, suddenly fled with three $20 bills.

Williams dropped the money when the three employes caught him, police said.

Area Man Hit With Fine, Costs in Shooting Case

An Avon Township man charged with felonious assault pleaded guilty yesterday to a lesser count of careless use of firearms.

King E. Jaynes, 44, of 2904 Grant was assessed a fine and court costs totaling $100 by Avon Township Justice Luther C. Green.

The charge stemmed from a Dec. 18 incident which resulted in the hospitalization of a 16-year-old youth with a gunshot wound.

Jaynes admitted firing a 30-caliber rifle at a group of youths who fled his home in a car after allegedly entering the house against the wishes of Jaynes' wife.

W. Berliners Donate to Show Viet Support

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berliners have contributed $32,691 to show support for American policy in Viet Nam, it was announced today.

The money will be used to buy replicas of the Berlin Freedom Bell for families of American servicemen who died in Viet Nam. It also will finance the purchase of medical supplies for Viet Nam.

5 Suspects Arrested After Area Break-In

Five men arrested today by Huntington Woods police, face charges after a break-in at 5:40 a.m. today at JFK Salon, 91 W. Long Lake, Bloomfield Hills. A witness to the break-in, which netted about $1,000 in merchandise including $600 worth of wigs, called Bloomfield Hills police.

Hearty Italian Minestrone Is Good Source of Protein

Minestrone, known as the soup of soups to Italians, and as a fine meal for a meatless Friday to Americans of Italian extraction, is a combination of macaroni, dried chick peas and other vegetables, in a rich, tomato-flavored broth.

It's not only filling, but a good source of protein because of the dried peas, particularly when eaten with cheese.

This version is "alla Genovese" or Genoa Style because it uses much fresh greenery — parsley, spinach, peas and green beans.

Genoa, on the Italian Riviera, is known for its green sauces which are tossed into minestrone or over dry pasta — noodles, fettuccini, linguine. While southern Italy likes its pasta with tomato sauce, or "alla Napoletana," northern Italy likes it with green sauces or "alla Genovese."

Some green sauces are simply chopped parsley, grated Parmesan or Romano cheese and butter; others are made with chopped fresh basil, cheese, garlic and pine nuts soaked in olive oil.

It's the fresh taste of the green spinach and parsley, peas and beans, that make this minestrone outstanding, though frozen vegetables may be substituted.

Genoa has another claim to fame besides its green sauces, incidentally. It was the seaport city from which Columbus sailed for Spain and eventually to America.

MINNESTRONE ALLA GENOVESE

(Minestrone of Genoa)

2 medium onions, minced
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) Contadina pear-shaped tomatoes (about 3½ cups)
6½ cups water

3 celery stalks with leaves, diced
¼ cup diced carrots
1 tablespoon minced parsley
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup elbow macaroni
¼ pound fresh spinach, chopped, or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen, chopped spinach
1 cup green beans, cut in 1-inch lengths, or 1 package (9 ounces) frozen cut green beans

¾ pound fresh peas, shelled or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) chick peas (ceci beans) or garbanzos, drained
Grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Cook onions in oil until tender. Add water and bring to a boil. Add celery, carrots, parsley, salt, pepper and macaroni. Cover and simmer 20 minutes or until macaroni is tender.

Add spinach, beans, green peas and chick peas; bring to boil and cook, covered, just until vegetables are tender — about 10 minutes. Serve immediately, sprinkled generously with cheese. Makes 8-10 servings.

If you want superb walls, use plenty of melted butter or margarine in the batter!

The hero sandwich, like the Beatles and the Watul, is very much a part of today's young world. And doubtless it is here to stay.

Actually, today's teen-agers aren't much different from their counterparts of yesteryear. For one thing, they still like to eat at all times of the day, although the simple after-school snack of bread and jelly has given way to the sandwich of heroic proportions.

If your youngsters crave a super sandwich, try this new recipe. It is noted not only for its numerous layers of ham, bologna, cheese, pickle, onion rings, and slices of tomato, but also for its delicious Mustard-Cheese Butter Spread which is made in a jiffy with prepared yellow mustard and an envelope of cheese sauce mix.

This luscious spread is also good for other teen-age favorites. Spread it on hamburger or hot dog rolls before toasting under the broiler. Very good!

Super-Duperoo Sandwich
1 loaf (14 oz.) Italian bread
Mustard-Cheese Butter, recipe below
8 leaves garden lettuce
Mayonnaise
8 large slices Lebanon bologna
Prepared yellow mustard
4 square slices Swiss cheese

Voters Taking Local-Level Districting Battle to Courts

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP). — Voters who want a bigger say in the election of their city council, county commissioners and school boards have taken their case to court in communities from New York City to Snohomish County, Wash.

Their aim? To apply in local elections the letter of the one-man-one-vote doctrine set down by the Supreme Court for apportionment of state legislatures.

In at least 16 states, local government reapportionment cases have been filed or threatened. Some cities have reapportioned their elective bodies in the 18 months since the Supreme Court determined that both branches of state legislatures should be apportioned on the basis of population.

New York State's court of Appeals already has held that

Rainmaking Unpredictable

By Science Service
BERKELEY, Calif. — Sprinkling clouds with silver iodine or other chemicals to wring rain from them can sometimes decrease rainfall instead of increasing it.

On the other hand, flinging huge quantities of silver iodide into the air to prevent hail may actually increase the number of hailstorms.

Such contradictory results of rainmaking attempts are being reported at a two-day symposium on weather modification at the American Association of Science meeting here.

Dr. Jerzy Neyman, director of the University of California's Statistical Laboratory here, said that sometimes cloud seeding may increase rainfall and at other times it may decrease it.

Detecting the physical properties of storms in which cloud seeding gives positive results and those in which it gives negative results may be an important step toward mastery of the weather," Dr. Neyman said.

Junior Editors Quiz on PEARLS

QUESTION: How are pearls formed?

ANSWER: Many of the simple animals called mollusks — such as the clam, oyster and mussel — have a pair of hard shells to protect their soft, defenseless bodies.

To make these shells smooth on the inside, the animal secretes a substance called nacre, which has a soft shine.

The body of the mollusk is very sensitive to any foreign matter like a grain of sand, which may work inside its shell. When this happens, the covering of the animal or mantle surrounds the foreign object with nacre.

More and more is added until a round shape is made, which finally gets so large that it breaks off at its base and exists as a loose ball. Such balls may be found inside many mollusk shells but only the ones inside one special oyster, the pearl oyster, are pearls.

This is because the crystal structure of the nacre in this oyster differs from others. By its construction it reflects delicate rainbow colors to create a beautiful luminous effect.

To find such pearls, many oysters must be opened on a pearling ship. When a fine pearl is shown up, it is a big moment, for these gems have a high value of if perfect color and shape.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look in a jeweler's window and see if you can find real pearls shown there. Notice their wonderful depth and iridescence. Artificial pearls may be beautiful, but they lack that subtle inner fire.

the one man-one vote rule applies to local legislative bodies. So has a U.S. District Court in New York.

STILL A PROBLEM

New York City reapportioned its council eight months ago to meet the one man-one vote test. But the city still has a problem.

In addition to the 27 district councilmen, there are 10 councilmen at large, two from each borough. That adds two votes for the 222,000 people on Staten Island, and two votes for the 2.7 million in Brooklyn.

Members of the Liberal party have challenged the at-large election system. After a three-judge federal court upheld the system, the challengers' appeal to the Supreme Court.

In Snohomish County, north of Seattle, Wash., district apportionment for the election of three county commissioners is being challenged.

State Sen. Robert Greive of Seattle said he might try to carry the one man-one vote rule into political organization, seeking in court to force election of delegates to the Democratic State Central Committee on a population basis.

LOCAL LEVEL

In Ohio, state officials expect to see apportionment suits at the local level before long. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe said he is sure there will be action in one of the 133 Ohio communities which elect their councilmen on a ward basis.

What Saxbe forecast in Ohio already has happened in cities and counties scattered throughout much of the nation.

Among them: —Butte, Mont. There a woman named Phoebe Herweg challenged population discrepancies in the city's eight wards. The City Council was elected on an at-large basis this year. Then U.S. Dist. Judge W. D. Murray handed down an order which equalized the eight wards so that the smallest has only 95 fewer voters than the largest.

Next year, county precincts and school district precincts are to be realigned to conform with Butte's new apportionment.

—Rutherford County, Tenn. Sixteen citizens have filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking reapportionment of the school commission. Charging "invidious geographic discrimination," the suit says voter population in the county's school zones ranges from 465 in the smallest to 10,110 in the largest.

DEMANDS Reapportionment demands have been aimed, as well, at Washington County Court by people in Johnson City, Tenn., and at the Coffee County Court by the Bar Association in Tullahoma, Tenn.

—Tulsa County, Okla. Here, a new apportionment designed to equalize population in county commissioner districts goes into effect Dec. 20 after a long political feud.

Reapportionment came in Comanche County, Okla., after a State District Court ruling, and in Washington County when a suit was threatened.

—Jackson County, Mo. Kansas City Mayor Ius W. Davis, and Della Hadley of the League of Women Voters filed suit seeking reapportionment of two county court (commission) districts.

STRONGER VOICE

The reapportionment they seek would give Kansas City a far stronger voice in county government. They said the western district, which includes the city, has 440,379 people; the eastern district 182,361.

—South Bend, Ind. The City Council, controlled by Republicans, is arguing about reapportionment now. State Sen. Leonard Opperman, a Democrat, said legislation to require population balance within 10 percent may be filed at the next General Assembly session, in 1967. He said it would apply to city and county councils, and to county boards of commissioners.

—Suffolk County, N.Y. A three-judge federal court has ruled invalid a system allowing each of the county's 10 towns to choose one county supervisor. The towns range in population from 1,312 to 173,000.

The Democratic-controlled state legislature passed a bill to require that county boards be said City Atty. Joseph Henri, reapportioned on a population basis: Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller vetoed it. His chief complaint was a provision prohibiting the submission of county reapportionment plans to the voters for a final decision.

GOP CONTROL

Republicans now control 51 of the 57 county boards outside New York City.

—Monroe County, N.Y. A new charter, adopted Nov. 2, substitutes a county legislature, apportioned on a population basis, for the board of supervisors. The county includes Rochester.

—Juneau, Alaska. The city filed a court challenge against the weighted vote system used in the Greater Juneau Borough Assembly. The suit also challenged the legality of an assembly in which rural members outnumber the city's representatives.

As things now stand, the city's representatives are apportioned on the basis of the city cannot comply with the constitutional requirement of one person-one vote, and one legislator-one vote.

—Virginia Beach and Chesapeake, Va. Both must seek reapportionment of City Council representation at the next session of the state legislature, or face a court order to hold elections at large.

ISSUED RULING

U.S. Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman issued that ruling Dec. 7.

—Gaffney, S.C. The Gaffney Citizens Committee has threatened court action to realign the city's wards to make them as equal as possible in both population and area.

—Harrison County, Miss. Four taxpayers have filed suit seeking reapportionment of supervisory districts. They now are apportioned on the basis of

One of the worst racial riots in the nation's history occurred Sept. 22, 1966, when 18 Negroes and three whites were killed in a melee in Atlanta.

U.S. Birth Control 'Exporters'
Told to Look Closer to Home

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A scientist from India suggested Tuesday that Americans who propose birth control measures for Asia and Latin America should be concerned about their own country, particularly Southern California.

Prof. S. Chandrasekar, director for the Indian Institute for Population Studies in Madras state's 58 counties — including a visiting professor at the University of California at Riverside, said "surprising as it may seem" the U.S. population is increasing at a faster rate than India's.

And he further noted that California as a whole had a population increase of 48.5 per cent between 1950 and 1960, while the national average for the U.S. was only 18.5 per cent.

Chandrasekar told the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at the University of California that Southern Californians should reduce their birth rate, cut back to one child per family and make up their minds.

He also predicted that "man's convenience of the 20th century of deserts — the automobile — will be his greatest curse."

By 2000 A.D., he predicted, "Southern California alone will probably have 25 million people, and as there is not much space, the region between Santa Barbara and the Mexican border will be one solid, unrelieved metropolitan complex."

MORE CONCERNED

But he was more concerned about Southern California in his report, which covered 11 of the Population Studies in Madras state's 58 counties — including a visiting professor at the University of California at Riverside, said "surprising as it may seem" the U.S. population is increasing at a faster rate than India's.

By 2000 A.D., he predicted, "Southern California alone will probably have 25 million people, and as there is not much space, the region between Santa Barbara and the Mexican border will be one solid, unrelieved metropolitan complex."

Million Miles From Nowhere, but Only 26 Miles From Home

By HUGH MILLIGAN
AP LOI NGUYEN, South Vietnam (AP) — In the Mekong River delta, you're a million miles from nowhere when you're 26 miles from home.

Up until six weeks ago, this thatched hamlet was 22 miles north of Can Tho, a thriving market city. Now it's four miles below Can Tho.

The entire hamlet with its population of 528, most of them rice farmers, was moved by the Vietnamese government when the area surrounding their old location was declared a free strike zone for bombing raids against Viet Cong troop concentrations.

At first the people of Ap Loi Nguyen were lonely and frightened in their new hamlet, even though the government with the help of USOM—U. S. Operations Mission—funds provided clean new bamboo houses fronting on a wide new road.

SCHOOL CROWDED

They hesitated to go to market in the nearby town of Cai Rang, because they wouldn't be dealing at the shops and stalls their ancestors had been dealing with for generations. They couldn't get their children into school because the local schools were already crowded. They had no general merchandise store in their new hamlet. No church, no barbershop, no corner coffee shop for the heady dark French coffee and the redolent of formaldehyde that the Vietnamese love.

There was a graveyard, weather-beaten headstones barely visible in the tall tropical weed growth but it was a Buddhist graveyard and the people of Ap Loi Nguyen are all Roman Catholics.

Because land is scarce in the overpopulated delta and because no one seemed to have lived here in a long, long time, the citizens of Ap Loi Nguyen planted their first crops in the force company to sit in little sheet metal watch towers and wait for the Viet Cong. Whenever small arms fire crackled in the darkness, the hamlet dwellers never knew if they were about to be overrun.

Then one day the advisory team arrived from Cai Rang led by Capt. Ken Johnson of St.

Urges Unit to Study Uses for Kincheloe

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—Dr. Kenneth Shouldice, president of the Sault Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday a committee should look into possible uses of Kincheloe Air Force Base. The base is scheduled to be closed down by 1970 as an economy measure. Such a study might take three years, Shouldice said. Such a committee—yet to be set up—should have a full-time professional staff, he said, but added he did not know when such a group might be formed.

Louis, Mo. It brought a doctor to examine the sick and inoculate the babies, and an agricultural specialist to show them how to grow lettuce and beans and other vegetables to work them away from a one crop economy and a guerrilla expert to show them how to defend their new hamlet.

Finally and most important of all, they brought Maj. Alvin Campbell, Catholic chaplain at Can Tho. Father Campbell, a big bubbling man with a grin as broad as the Mekong, brought them the gift of friendship that look them out of their strangeness and loneliness.

SOMEONE CARES
He helped them build a church, encouraged them to start their own school rather than wait for available desks in the village and, by visits several times a week, showed them that someone cared.

Soon there were a little store at the head of the long rows of huts, and a new barbershop under the banana trees, and row on row of budding new crops, already growing taller than the headstones.

Whenever his Jeep bounces down the muddy road between the flooded paddies, they swirl and swarm around, dragging younger brothers and sisters, toting babies on their backs. The Pled Piper of Hamelin never had such a following. Even the little crippled boy, who never had been shown how to use a crutch, drags himself along in the mud to be with the happy throng crowding around the American priest.

Back home in Springfield, Ill., Father Campbell once dreamed of having his own parish.

In the straw-thatched hamlet of Ap Loi Nguyen, a million miles from nowhere in the Mekong delta, he has found one.

Russia Seeks More Influence in Hanoi—at Expense of China

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is preparing a strong bid to increase its influence in Hanoi by trying to reduce Red Chinese influence there.

The result of the Soviet effort will have a major bearing on the course of the Vietnamese war and, therefore, on Soviet-U.S. relations. They have been soured by the war.

Indications are that Soviet influence will be used to try to bring peace in Viet Nam. But the Russians could, instead, decide to step up support for a Communist victory effort.

These conclusions were drawn today by experienced observers from an announcement that Alexander N. Shelepin will shortly lead a Soviet delegation to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

HOLD HIGH POST

Shelepin, 47, holds the "second secretary" post in the Soviet Communist party next to party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, according to Communist sources. Since the party runs the Soviet Union, this makes Shelepin one of the most powerful men in the nation.

The former chief of the Soviet secret police also is an experienced troubleshooter in Communist countries where Moscow-Peking rivalry for influence is intense. He was in Mongolia and North Korea earlier this year.

North Viet Nam seems to be leaning increasingly toward Moscow lately. It has praised Soviet military aid at a time when Peking is attacking the aid as inadequate. It has ignored some Chinese calls for a tougher line within the world Communist movement.

The rivalry in North Viet Nam has been building up since the last high-level Soviet visit to Hanoi. Premier Alexei M. Kosygin was there last February when the United States began regular bombing of North Viet Nam.

China said Nov. 11 that a division must be drawn between its supporters in the Communist world and pro-Soviet parties.

If Peking pushes this, as it is believed will happen, President Ho Chi Minh's regime in North Viet Nam could be forced to choose between the big neighbor on his northern border and more distant Soviet support.

Peking has made clear that its influence will be used for a bitter-end battle in Viet Nam.

The Russians seem to support a negotiated settlement that would allow an improvement in Soviet-American relations. This would permit Soviet leaders to turn more attention and resources to domestic problems.

CAUTIOUS LEADERS

But, partly because of Chinese criticism and partly because of concern for their image as Communist revolutionaries, Soviet leaders are cautious about openly advocating a settlement. They have denounced the United States over Viet Nam with increasing vehemence.

While the indications are that Shelepin would counsel caution and even a settlement, his trip could provide an assessment of the military situation which would lead to more Soviet arms for Hanoi.

Either way, the Russians could strengthen their influence in Hanoi by providing decisive assistance for peace or for more fighting. And a stronger position there would be a major Moscow victory in the vicious infighting between the Russians and Chinese.

'65 Hollywood News Varied

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This was the year when Hollywood's royalty met England's, when two films named "Harlow" were playing the theaters, and when Lana Turner married for the sixth time.

It was quite a year. Few years in Hollywood's recent history have brought such a variety of news as has 1965. At the year wanes, it is time once again to weigh the Hollywood events and trends that seemed most important to this reporter. Here they are:

Other 'New Hard Steps' Might Be Taken

U.S. Viet Manpower May Equal Korea's 402,000-Man Peak

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Unless peace talks come soon—and they don't seem to be imminent—President Johnson has spoken of new hard steps that will have to be taken in Viet Nam. What will this involve in military terms? This is the third of four articles on the American role in Viet Nam.)

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. military effort in Viet Nam may approach or exceed the 402,000-man peak level of the Korean War by next summer. With this buildup, the tempo of the fighting will increase. There will be longer American casualty lists.

These doubts will bring still stronger pressure on the Johnson administration to bomb such so-called "privileged sanctuaries" as Hanoi, the port city of Haiphong and perhaps even Cambodian border areas where the Communists resupply and rest.

So far the United States has committed about 240,000 men to the Viet Nam fighting — 180,000 on land and 60,000 with the 7th Fleet in adjoining waters.

Official sources indicate American strength may be increased by another 150,000 in the next six months or so. Some high military officials say they would not be surprised to see 300,000 Americans engaged by this time next year. Peak U.S. strength in the Korean War theater was about 402,000 men.

BIG REINFORCEMENTS

Even more than the decision last winter to bomb North Viet Nam, the fundamental turning point probably was President Johnson's action ordering the Army's 1st Cavalry, Airborne Division and other big reinforcements into the Viet Nam battle.

That action last summer stripped away whatever was left of the U.S. guise as adviser to the South Vietnamese armed forces. It made the United States a major combatant in the ground war.

Now U.S. prestige is on the line — and North Viet Nam has raised the stakes by choosing to confront the United States in South Viet Nam with a growing number of Hanoi's regular army troops.

North Vietnamese and Communist Viet Cong soldiers number around 200,000, and the North Vietnamese are expected to pour in another 4,500 a month now that the rainy season is over.

100,000 TROOPS

The land forces opposing the Reds total about 700,000. This includes U.S. troops, more than 500,000 South Vietnamese, 18,000 South Koreans and small contingents of Australians and New Zealanders.

The ratio in favor of the Communist side thus is roughly 3-1. This is far less than the 8-1 and 10-1 preponderance often cited as the effective requirement to win a guerrilla type war.

Gen. B. E. Spivy, a planning director for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said some time ago: "Frankly, I do not know the ratio of government to guerrilla forces required to prevail in Viet Nam. This is something we shall learn."

Among other things, the professionals say the availability of hundreds of helicopters to move anti-Communist troops swiftly tends to downgrade the old ratio theory.

LOSERS GUERRILLA FACE

Also, the more the enemy comes out in battalion and regiment strength, and the more he stands and fights, the more the U.S. loses its guerrilla character.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has pledged that this country will send as many fighting men as are needed.

President Johnson's warning that "other hard steps" may be taken if the Communists spurn negotiations has been interpreted as laying the foundation for intensification of the war, particularly by air.

Repeated assaults on bridges, roads, ferries and similar targets have been notably unsuccessful.

URGENT AIR ATTACKS

The Joint Chiefs of Staff and powerful members of Congress have been urging that the air attacks be aimed at North Viet Nam's economic heart.

The proponents of this strategy favor going after all North Viet Nam's oil stocks, her industry, and the port of Haiphong. Some call for bombing dikes and irrigation works, thus imperiling North Viet Nam's food supplies.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, retired Air Force chief of staff, believes that if North Viet Nam's entire oil supply were knocked out, transportation would halt. North Viet Nam has to import oil and stockpile it.

LeMay and the Navy also want to cripple the port of Haiphong by smashing the dredges that keep open a channel to the docks, by destroying the docks themselves, and by mining the approaches.

GIVE THEM CHANCE

Gen. Thomas S. Power, former commander of the Strategic Air Command, favors a carefully graduated scale of such attacks coupled with a leaflet and psychological warfare campaign. He would pause between each round of attacks and give the Reds a chance to seek peace.

Civilian leaders in the U.S. government so far have resisted such demands. They feel that escalation of this kind would carry the high risk of bringing Red China directly into the fighting.

Officials view the recent bombing of a Haiphong area power plant as an intensification rather than an escalation of the air war, though they concede the attack came closer to the port city than any previous U.S. air assault.

The U.S. Air Force and Navy bomber strikes which began last Feb. 7 have halted daylight travel on the roads and hindered night movement. The attacks have mangled 60 or so bridges.

ALTERNATE ROUTES

But the North Vietnamese — using ox carts bicycles and their backs — have moved supplies via alternate routes.

The cost to the United States in airplanes lost passed the 100 mark last week.

On the ground, the prospect is for more actions similar to the 1st Cavalry's "find 'em and kill 'em" operations in the Ia Drang Valley and the Marine amphibious landing to trap a Communist force below Da Nang.

The toll of Americans killed in action in the air and on the ground is edging toward the 2,000 mark. About 1,000 have fallen in the past six months.

In the three-year Korean War, 33,629 Americans were killed in action. For the most part, that war was a conventional struggle between mass armies. Until now, actions in the Viet Nam war have mainly been fought out between forces of battalion size or smaller.

LOSSES HIGHER

If brigade-size battles become the pattern in the year ahead, the casualties will increase correspondingly.

The rate at which more U.S. forces can be introduced into Viet Nam depends directly on the speed with which new airfields, ports and supply bases are brought to completion.

Army engineers are creating a giant base at Cam Ranh Bay, the best anchorage in that part of the world. They are, in effect, building a small city from scratch.

When Cam Ranh Bay is in high gear, it may by itself be able to support a force as big as 600,000 men.

are at work on construction projects throughout South Viet Nam.

Navy engineers and civilian contractors have finished more than $150 million worth of military construction in Viet Nam and another $150 million worth is on the way. The expansion of the Marine-Navy base at Da Nang is one of the Navy's largest undertakings.

The pipeline has had to be organized all the way back to the United States — a pipeline not only of thousands of tons of arms, ammunition and supplies but of men as well.

The Army has boosted its training output and expects to produce 400,000 new soldiers this year, compared with 195,000 last year. It takes four months of basic and advanced individual training to make a soldier.

MARINES EXPAND

The Marines also have intensified and expanded their production of fighting men. As of the end of October, more than 40,000 men were under Marine training.

Where will the men come from to maintain the accelerated war effort, plus this country's worldwide responsibilities?

Probably by continuing large monthly draft calls and encouraging enlistments.

BRUIN BUMPED DOWN — The Boston Bruins' Tom Williams (11) is spilled and goaltender Roger Crozier of the Red Wings (1) keeps the puck away from the nets during last night's 1-0 Detroit win at the Boston Gardens. Detroiters

Andy Bathgate (21) and Ab McDonald are right behind Williams. The win was the second straight 1-0 shutout for Crozier, who now leads the National Hockey League this season in whitewashes.

Hustling Wings Blank Boston

Crozier Posts 2nd Straight Shutout, 1-0

BOSTON (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings are parlaying an aggressive defense anchored by goalie Roger Crozier and mastery of the Boston Bruins in a bid for a second straight National Hockey League championship.

The hustling Red Wings moved to within two points of the first place Montreal Canadiens by defeating the Bruins for the seventh straight time Tuesday night as Crozier registered his second consecutive 1-0 shutout. It was the only league action.

"Have you ever seen a club check like that?" Boston Coach Mil Schmidt asked in amazement after the Wings made the Bruins look like a group of complete strangers.

"They're the best checking club in the league by far," Schmidt said. "They'll make anyone look bad because of the way they can forecheck and backcheck. However, we had our chances in the first period and couldn't connect."

HALTS BRUINS
Crozier, the NHL's Rookie-of-the-Year last season, turned in a fine game on scoring bids by Teddy Green and Al Longolis in the opening minute before the Wings took command.

The slender Crozier was shaken badly in a collision with Boston's Tom Williams at the 12-minute mark. After first aid on the ice, he skated to the bench and was replaced by Hank Bassen.

The Wings gave Bassen such fine protection that he made only two saves in the next eight minutes. Then Crozier returned for the final two periods and protected his fourth shutout, only two fewer than his entire 1964-65 total.

Paul Henderson bettered his goal production of a year ago when he scored his ninth tally for all the cushion Detroit needed. Henderson teamed with Jimmy Peters and Pete Mahovich, brother of the Toronto Maple Leafs star, Frank, and best Boston goalie Ed Johnston with an angle shot into the far upper corner at 4:47 of the second period.

$2 Million Prizes

Record for Golf Circuit

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers Association predicted Tuesday that total prize money to be paid in its 1966 spring and summer tournaments would exceed the record $2 million set this year.

The schedule opens April 14 with the $100,000 Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas and winds up Sept. 10-11 with the World Series of Golf.

The $200,000 Carling World Open goes overseas for the first time and will be played at the Royal Birkdale Golf Club at Southport, England, Aug. 31-Sept. 3.

In another change, the Canadian Open will be played Sept. 29-Oct. 2 at Vancouver, B.C., as part of the fall schedule. It previously was part of the spring-summer tour.

The Western Open, with a purse of $100,000, moves to the Medinah, Ill., Country Club. The U.S. Open will be played at the Olympic Country Club at San Francisco.

The spring-summer schedule (some prizes will be increased as television revenue grows):
April 14-17, $100,000 Tournament of Champions, Las Vegas, Nev.

Exhibition Date Set

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals will play an exhibition baseball game here May 16 for the benefit of amateur baseball in Michigan, the clubs announced Tuesday.

Four Defensive Ends Okay Detroit Pact

The Detroit Lions wound up the old year with a look at the new one by signing a handful of collegiate draft choices, four of them defensive ends.

Two of the players — Bill Sullivan of West Virginia and Ralph Dunlap of Baylor — were selected in the 1965 draft. The other three were picked as future choices in 1964.

They are Bob Kowalkowski, 6-3 and 240, from the University of Virginia; Frank Pence, 6-5 and 250, from Florida State; and Sonny Odum, 6-1, 190-pound flanker from Duke University.

Sullivan at 6-4 and 220, was a co-captain at West Virginia last season. A native of Claridge, Pa.

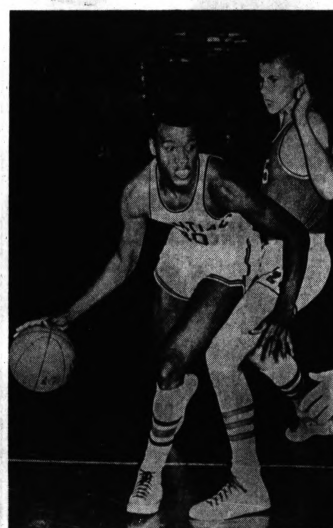

he was Detroit's 15th choice in the recent NFL draft.

Dunlap, 6-4 and 240, is from Seattle and was the Lions' 17th selection. Both are defensive ends and represent the 11th and 12th players from the 1965 draft who have been signed by personnel director Russ Thomas.

The three 1964 draftees — Kowalkowski, Pennie and Odum — were seventh, 10th and 17th round choices respectively.

The signing of running back Bruce McLeana, another 1964 future choice who established an all-time ground gaining record at Hillsdale (Mich.) College this season, previously was announced.

Players drafted this year who earlier signed 1966 contracts include end Bill Malinchak of Indiana, guard Doug Van Horn of Ohio State, flanker Willie Walker and end John Robinson, both of Tennessee State; linebacker Bill Cody and tackle Bruce Yates of Auburn, back John Pinchavage of Virginia, defensive end Tom Brigham of Wisconsin, linebacker Jack O'Billovich of Oregon State, and tackle Bob Baier of Simpson College.

DETERMINATION — Both Jessie Evans (with ball) of Pontiac Central and Don Hayward of the Northern Huskies have looks of determination during this one-on-one situation last night in the local schools intra-city clash. The Chiefs, won, 82-57.

Chiefs' Quintet Collects Easy 82-57 Triumph

Sophomores Sparkle for Northern; PCH Ups Series Lead

By FLETCHER SPEARS
There are better days ahead for Pontiac Northern's basketball squad.

At the moment, the Huskies' fortunes are a little on the bleak side but the prospects for the future are bright.

Heading for the worst season in their history, the Huskies suffered their fourth setback of the present campaign last night when they were thrashed by Pontiac Central's Chiefs, 82-57.

But even in defeat coach Dick Hall found reason to smile. Not a hearty ho, ho, ho, but enough to leave the impression that one of these days things'll change.

The bright spots in an otherwise dismal evening for Hall and the Huskies were the performances of a pair of sophomores — 6-2 forward Don Hayward and 5-7 guard Mike Clancy.

TOP SCORERS
The two played almost the entire game and wound up with 19 points apiece to share game scoring honors with the Chiefs' Jim McLendon.

And what makes Hall smile is the thought that both will be around for the next couple of years.

The victory for Central was its fifth without a loss while the setback left PNH with a 1-4 mark.

The win also upped the Chiefs edge in the series to 15-2, and the 82 points was the highest total recorded in the battles between the two which began back in 1958.

Hall's worst record with the Huskies was a 5-10 mark in the school's first year — 1958-59 — and indications are now that the team may have a hard time matching that figure this season.

A SCRIMMAGE
The win was little more than a scrimmage session for the Chiefs.

"With the holiday layoff, you never know how the team will play," said coach Fred Zittel with some concern just before the tipoff.

Any doubts Zittel may have had were dispelled quickly as the Chiefs rolled up a 21-9 first-quarter lead and raised the count to 45-27 at intermission.

The Chiefs, hitting on 41 per cent of their shots in the first half, romped to a big lead without a lot of scoring help from two of their big guns.

Forward Ross Ludwig, averaging more than 10 points a game, shot often in the first half and failed to connect, and center-forward Jessie Evans, the team's top scorer, picked up only six in the opening half.

LEADS CHIEFS
Leading the Chiefs were guards McLendon, Eddie Pruitt and Prentice Hill.

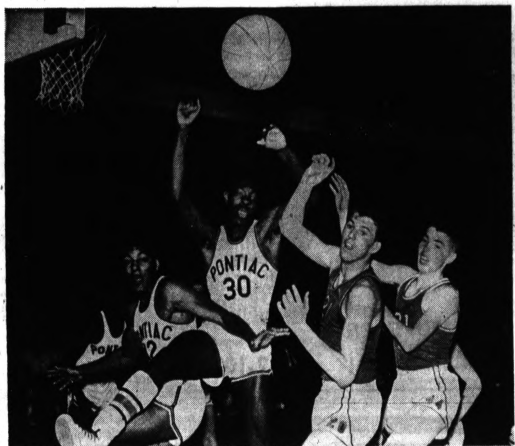

All three banged away from the outside and McLendon wound up with 19 markers. Pruitt added 15 and Hill, filling in for Pruitt, collected 10.

Evans found the range in the second half and finished with 17 points.

For the evening, the Chiefs hit on 38 of 90 shots — a 42 per cent pace — while the Huskies managed to connect on only 33 per cent — 22 of 64. PCH held a 52-49 edge in the rebounding department.

PCH and PNH will return to the basketball courts Jan. 7. The Chiefs will entertain Midland in a Saginaw Valley Conference contest while the Huskies will open the Inter-Lakes League campaign at Walpole Lake.

Wilt, 76ers Bounce Celtics; Pistons Bow

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics, perennial champions in the National Basketball Association playoffs, may be in trouble in their own Eastern Division this year.

Here it is, almost January, and the Celtics haven't made the race a runaway yet.

The Celtics are on top in the East but only 2 1/2 games separate them from third place Philadelphia after the Warriors and Wilt Chamberlain whacked Boston 102-83 Tuesday night. Cincinnati is second, two games back, in the closest race. East has seen in years.

In other games Wednesday night, Los Angeles slugged St. Louis 107-100 and San Francisco battered Detroit 120-107.

Chamberlain turned his head-to-head duel with Boston's Bill Russell into a one man show. Wilt scored 31 points and grabbed 40 rebounds as the 76ers won their fifth game in the last six.

Russell managed 11 points and had 17 rebounds.

Hal Greer hit 27 points for Philadelphia while John Havlicek led the Celtics with 28, and Sam Jones added 24.

The All-Tournament team included Murrey and Jim Boyce from Detroit, Bodkin, Keith Sealeck from Harvard and Walter Wenk, a 6-2 guard from W & M.

The All-Tournament team included Murrey and Jim Boyce from Detroit, Bodkin, Keith Sealeck from Harvard and Walter Wenk, a 6-2 guard from W & M.

West, the NBA's leading scorer, had 27 points, and Baylor, hobbled by knee trouble most of this season, pitched in with 20.

Detroit, which has won only nine of 33 games this season, dropped its seventh straight with two hot spurts triggering San Francisco's victory.

EARLY LEAD

The Warriors spun off a 23-7 string at the start of the third period and then locked it up with an 11-2 spurt. Rick Barry led the Warriors with 24 points, and Nate Thurmond added 19.

Guy Rodgers picked up 12 points and 16 assists.

Eddie Miles topped the Pistons with 24.

Attendance 2,195.

Darkness Slows Top Tennis Pair

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Frank Froehling of Miami, Fla., and top-seeded Ham Richardson of Dallas, Tex., were locked in a grueling semifinal match in the Sugar Bowl Invitational Tennis Tournament Tuesday.

The third set was called by darkness with Froehling, the tourney's No. 4 seed, leading Richardson 2-1. Richardson took the first set 6-6, but Froehling battled back for a 12-10 upset in the second.

Ron Holbert of New York whipped Mike Belkin of Miami 6-4, 6-2 in the other semi. Holmberg was the No. 3 seed; Belkin No. 2.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — ers to a 13-10 victory over Baltimore in sudden death overtime, a No. 2 boy for most of after Starr was injured on the his 10 years in the National first play from scrimmage.

Zeke's hair has gotten a bit thin on top in the years since he came out of Georgia as the Chicago Bears second draft pick in 1953. He is 34 now and has a family of three boys—Sunday against the Cleveland Browns in the NFL championship game at Breen Bay's start-up quarterback. "Thank goodness the batteries won't be determined until later are running down," said Zeke. "Bart and I are the closest friends," explained Bratkowski. "If he plays and does the job, it will be a great thing for all of us. If he can't play, then I have to try to do my best."

"You work for this game, or any game, as though you are going to start. Bart and I and young Dennis Claridge like to look at the films before the coaches give us the game plan. They usually do that on Wednesday, along with a lot of technical stuff."

"You try to get the over-all and recalled wing Dave Richardson. The defense they use. Then, it was Zeke who did the job last Sunday, guiding the Pack."

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Head Coach Mike Nixon of the Pittsburgh Steelers and all of his assistants were fired Tuesday by owner Art Rooney in the wake of a 2-12 National Football League season.

Nixon held the post one season, replacing Buddy Parker two weeks before the 1965 campaign started. His ouster was the second in the NFL in a week. Earlier, the Los Angeles Rams dismissed Harland Svare. There was no immediate announcement on Nixon's successor.

Among those mentioned for a job include Jim Trimble, former coach of the Philadelphia Eagles and the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, and Nick Skorich, assistant at Cleveland, and Ernie Stautner, assistant at Washington and a former defensive great for the Steelers.

Finals Today for Sailboats

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Southern California collegians swept to a big lead Tuesday over eight challengers in the first day of the Sugar Bowl Regatta.

Racing in two men crews on flying junior class sailboats, Southern Cal won seven straight races after Tulane took the day's first test. Southern Cal will take 79 points into the finals Wednesday on Lake Pontchartrain.

The Merchant Marine scored 54 points, Tulane 51, Michigan 48, MIT 47, Kent State 47, The Citadel 39, Yale 37, and Rensselaer 26.

Weather Is Concern of Rose Bowl Teams

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The weather became a matter of some concern Tuesday as Michigan State and UCLA continued semi-secret drills for their clash in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

In the event of rain and muddy ground, views differed on the advantages or disadvantages. The unbeaten Spartans from Big Ten country are big and fairly mobile on a dry field, but slow-going might bog them down in their own weight.

Admittedly the Uclans' quarterback star, sophomore Gary Behan, must put the ball in the air since the ever-so-small Bruins don't figure to run very well against the MSU line.

HANDICAP

A wet football would handicap the Behan passing, it would appear.

"Sure, we hope for a dry field," said Coach Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State. "Ideal weather conditions are better for the participants and the spectators."

"Yet weather doesn't help anyone except the umbrella makers and the farmers."

Tommy Prothro, the UCLA field boss, put it this way: "Every coach feels the weather will help the other team. Personally we hope for dry, fast going."

Daugherty herded the Spartans in the afternoon "for the first of two of the toughest days of the MSU 13-3 victory over the Bruins in the first game of the 1965 season.

STUDY FILMS

The morning hours were devoted to studying UCLA game films, with the MSU offensive team gathered in one room and the defense in another.

Daugherty and Prothro from the outset agreed on an unlimited exchange of their game movies.

Of particular interest to the Spartans were reels of UCLA against Tennessee, Washington, Southern California, as well as

Kansas, Providence Win

Vanderbilt '5' Triumphs

By the Associated Press
It took some time for tall Clyde Lee to get used to short pants and a lot longer to get mad. Now Clyde is a tiger and the Vanderbilt Commodores are running wild.

Vanderbilt, the nation's No. 2 college basketball power, rolled to its ninth straight victory Tuesday night, outscoring previously unbeaten Syracuse 112-88 in the first round of the Los Angeles Classic as 6-foot-9 pivot Lee poured in 39 points.

Lee's 31-point second half enabled the Commodores to withstand a record 46-point binge by Syracuse ace Dave Bing and hand the Orange its first setback in seven starts.

The victory sent Vanderbilt into Wednesday night's semifinals with Southern California. 75-63 victor over Northwestern in Tuesday night's second game, and UCLA and Purdue, who won their Monday openers.

Tenth-ranked Providence, only other member of the Top Ten in action, edged Illinois 81-79 on Bill Blair's tap-in with three seconds to play and gained the final of the ECAC Holiday Festival at New York. The Friars, 7-1, meet Boston College, which whipped Army 95-82 behind John Austin's 26 points, for the title Thursday night.

PULLS UPSET

Navy pulled off the night's biggest upset, stunning powerful Davidson 65-60 in the opening round of the Charlotte N. C., draft choice of the Pistons in Invitational behind Jim Snook's 18 points. The loss was Davidson's second in nine games. Soph John Haarlow caged 18 points as Princeton nipped Mississippi State 69-67 to gain the tourney final against the Mid-dies.

Walt Wesley, Kansas' 6-foot-11 center, outscored 7-foot-11 Nick Pino of Kansas State 24-12, leading the Jayhawkers to a 69-63 decision over the Wildcats in the first round of the Big Eight Tourney. Iowa State topped Colorado 89-72, joining Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma in the semifinals.

Virginia Tech, beaten only by top-ranked Duke in six starts, over-powered Texas A&M 101-74 and tourney favorite Wichita nipped Xavier, Ohio, 82-81, completing the first round of the All College Tournament at Oklahoma City. The host school and Rhode Island reached the semis with victories Monday night.

Idaho's Ed Haskins ripped off 37 points in a 96-90 victory over Texas Christian and 6-foot-9 Mel Daniels led the way with 19 points as New Mexico trounced Tulane 78-56 in first round play at the Lobo Invitational at Albuquerque.

Pistons Deal Joe Caldwell to St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks traded veteran guard John Barnhill Tuesday night to the Detroit Pistons for forward Joe Caldwell.

The trade was the second within five days between the two Western Division clubs of the National Basketball Association. Last week the Hawks sent Charley Vaughn and John Tresvant to the Pistons for Rod Thorn.

Caldwell, a 6-foot-5 graduate of Arizona State, was the first round draft choice of the Pistons in 1964. This season, he has averaged 10.3 points per game.

The Hawks said they planned to use him as a forward although he could see limited action as a swing man.

This was Barnhill's fourth season with the Hawks after a college career at Tennessee State University. This year, he averaged 8.5 points per game after being a holdout early in the season.

Favorite, Long Shot Santa Anita Winners

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Anita is off to a rousing start—one which gave 41,155 fans their first lesson of the season in the perplexing economics of horse racing.

Native Diver won the $22,800 Palos Verdes Handicap for older horses, as expected, in the feature of Santa Anita's opening day Tuesday. He was the betting favorite, carried high weight of 129 pounds, and paid $3 to win.

Poona Queen won the $26,200 Las Flores Handicap, paying $29.80.

Outdoor Gains Noted in '65

By DON VOGEL
Outdoor Editor, Pontiac Press

The greatest gain in outdoor activities in Oakland County during 1965 actually had its start a year earlier.

That was when the Conservation Department announced that it would establish a district field office at Pontiac Lake. The facility, however, didn't get into full operation until last spring.

The work of personnel in the new office already has started to bear fruit — although this may not be noticeable to the average outdoor user.

Improvement in state parks, long overlooked by the department, started to materialize.

At Masini, longtime manager at Proud Lake recreation area and for a shorter duration at fish biologist Henry Vondet's Highland, was elevated district parks supervisor.

He knows the problems that have constantly plagued area managers and has been trying to make the necessary corrections and additions.

HELPING HAND

Lending a hand was State Sen. Carl W. O'Brien of Pontiac, chairman of the Senate Conservation Committee, who helped get a good share of the parks budget headed in the right direction — toward Southeastern Michigan.

Camping facilities have been added and improved, picnic areas increased, beach facilities improved and land acquired.

Many of these have been in the department's master plan for several years, but park managers had trouble convincing the home office in Lansing that a crash program was needed in this area.

The main problem was lack of supervisor stationed in Oakland County — the hub of outdoor activity for Southeastern Michigan. This was corrected with the opening of the district office.

The county has over 400 lakes and ponds and many are in dire need of study from a fisherman's point of view. District and for a shorter duration at fish biologist Henry Vondet's Highland, was elevated district parks supervisor.

He knows the problems that have constantly plagued area managers and has been trying to make the necessary corrections and additions.

These lakes have been neglected by anglers the last few years because of stunted ponds and trash fish, or both. Lakes have been treated and restocked with bluegills, bass or trout.

The Fenton and Davisburg trout ponds have been cleaned out and fishermen will find these popular spots deeper and the water clearer next spring. All lakes, with public access will come under close scrutiny by the fish experts.

Results satisfactory to fishermen may not be noted for a few years, but the work has started.

GAMES HABITAT

Game habitat improvement under the direction of district biologist Howard Greene will be carried on at recreation areas other than Holly and Ortonville where the emphasis has been placed the last few years.

Greene has indicated that the Pontiac Lake area is due for some habitat improvement in 1966.

The district office now is housed in a rented building on M59. Construction on a state owned building is scheduled for next year.

Fishermen had their ups and downs during 1965. Inconsistent weather during January and a February hindered ice fishermen the way it looks this December most anglers will have to wait until next year for sufficient ice on their favorite lakes.

Bass fishing was excellent last summer with four and five pounders being taken with more consistency than in past year. Pike fishing, however, took a nosedive. Trout fishing in lakes and streams was only fair.

The department plans to continue stocking lakes with rainbows, but there is going to be a major curtailment in put-and-take stream plantings.

This started to show up last spring when some streams that were usually teeming with freshly stocked trout opening day didn't have the former numbers.

Pheasant hunting was poor in the area. This went along with the overall picture in the Thumb and Southeastern Michigan. Oakland County was included in the list open to quail hunting, but the bobwhite population was hardly decent, mainly because of a lack of hunters.

Rabbit hunters continued to complain about a lack of targets and the outlook doesn't look too favorable for the remainder of this season. Squirrel hunters had very good results. Ducks and deer were about the same.

More geese were taken than in 1964 and the outlook is for better hunting next year. Hunters are finding fewer grouse in the area this year.

Fishermen, pleasure boaters and water skiers continued to vie for control of the lakes in 1965 while the legislature and local bodies of government tried to come up with solutions that will make everyone happy.

FIRST SEASON — The restocking of wild turkeys in Michigan has become such a success that the state's first modern-day season was held last fall in Allegan County. Additional areas may be opened next year.

Farmington 5 Wins; Walled Lake Beaten

The still young basketball season grew a bit more discouraging for new Walled Lake coach Ken Butler Tuesday night, while Farmington's Jack Quiggle is gaining encouragement for the upcoming Inter-Lakes League race.

Both teams are using the annual Northwest Suburban Invitational Tournament to prep for the 14 race which starts next week.

Walled Lake lost to Wayne, 67-58, and Farmington topped Redford Union, 66-51, in last night's play.

The victory for the Falcons evened their season mark at 3-3 and put them in the consolation showdowns for fifth place tomorrow afternoon against Wayne.

Mike Ames' 22 points led Farmington as it posted its top winning margin of the season. The Falcons could develop into the surprise team in the loop race.

Walled Lake, conversely, now has lost five straight after an opening victory and appears to be in trouble as its loop opener at Pontiac Northern nears.

One bright spot last night was John Huebner's 25 points for the 42nd straight day. The guard hit 43 in the season opener, then slumped in the three losses prior to this week.

Tonight in the tournament semifinals, unbeaten Southfield meets Livonia Bentley at 7 o'clock followed by the Berkley-Ypsilanti contest in the Farmington gymnasium.

Walled Lake tomorrow afternoon will play Redford Union in the battle for seventh place. The championship finals and the consolation battle for third place, also, will be Thursday on the Farmington court.

Glenn Davis Receives Cornell Track Post

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Glenn Davis, three-time gold medal winner for the United States in the Olympic Games, was named co-coach of the Cornell track team Tuesday for the remainder of the 1965-66 season.

Davis, 31, who has been assistant coach, will serve with veteran Lou Montgomery. Davis starred in track at Ohio State and played pro football with the Detroit Lions.

Year Okay for Conservation

LANSING (AP) — The year 1965 was a good year for conservation in Michigan—except for a barrage of flack directed these fighting fish will be at the State Conservation Department by unsuccessful deer hunters.

Earlier it had been a honey-moon situation between the new-reorganized department and hunters, fishermen and other outdoor enthusiasts.

This year's deer kill was estimated at 108,000—some 32,000 down from 1964, one of the best years on record. The kill still was slightly better than average.

A very verbal group of disappointed license-holders protested, however, that the department was allowing too much shooting of does and fawns.

CUTBACK SEEN

A study of the situation has been promised and it is indicated the take allowed of antlerless deer may be cut back somewhat in 1966.

Also on the negative side, shooting success was down for pheasants, grouse and waterfowl.

Michigan's second elk hunt had to be termed successful although the final bag of 183 was well below the 269 shot a year ago.

The legislature did well in the cause of conservation.

The bounty on foxes and bobcats was scratched, saving the state some $180,000 a year. Only coyotes now are bounty species.

Other forward steps were bills giving the state much stronger control over water pollution and protecting the public interests in inland waters and the Great Lakes.

The quail season, first since 1911, attracted a limited number of hunters but was pronounced a success by backers.

Michigan's first wild turkey shoot since the late 1800s also was hailed as opening a new sport for gunners.

NEW SPECIE

Fishermen probably had the most to cheer about.

Some 2.5 million Kokanee salmon were planted in Torch and Higgins lakes and the first of these fighting fish will be caught next spring. The department hopes eventually to stock the Great Lakes and other large inland lakes with the exotics.

In an unfortunate accident, an estimated 95,000 fish were killed by escape of cyanide from a commercial firm into the Kalamazoo River.

50 LAKES

The Conservation Department in southern Michigan got off to a fast start with the acquisition of land for two major state lake-parks in Clinton and Ionia counties.

The department also announced plans for a $133 million state parks expansion program by 1975. Details of financing are being left up to the legislature.

Federal donations for the conservation cause were stepped up. The latest bonanza was $2.8 million to help develop outdoor recreation lands with $3.5 million were promised for next year and additional grants in succeeding years.

Only a scattered dieoff of wildfowl resulted from Great Lakes pollution compared to large kills in some years.

Forest fire damage was kept to 2,190 acres, the lowest since record-keeping started.

BOSTON (AP) — Defending NCAA hockey champion Michigan Tech nipped determined University of Michigan 7-6 Tuesday night in the opening round of the Boston Arena Christmas Tournament.

Boston University downed Northeastern 4-1 in the second game.

Michigan Tech's Bob Baird scored four goals with assistance from Mel Wakabayashi to lead the attack.

Rabbit hunters continued to complain about a lack of targets and the outlook doesn't look too favorable for the remainder of this season. Squirrel hunters had very good results. Ducks and deer were about the same.

More geese were taken than in 1964 and the outlook is for better hunting next year. Hunters are finding fewer grouse in the area this year.

Fishermen, pleasure boaters and water skiers continued to vie for control of the lakes in 1965 while the legislature and local bodies of government tried to come up with solutions that will make everyone happy.

Relieve Jurist of All Duties

Order Is Mandate of Judicial Council

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Stephen S. Chandler, chief judge of the U.S. District Court for Western Oklahoma, was judge in name only today.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Judicial Council relieved him of all duties Tuesday but allowed the 65-year-old jurist to perform the $30,000 per year salary, office and staff.

The 22-year veteran of the bench said he knew the order was coming and, "I have already answered it." He made his comment as he accepted a copy of the order in the U.S. marshal's office.

Four of the five 10th Circuit judges drew up the order Dec. 13. It asserted Chandler is "unable or unwilling" to perform the duties of his office.

RECENT ACTIONS Years of controversy lie behind the order. Also involved are recent civil and criminal actions against Chandler.

In the February 1964 American Bar Association Journal, Chandler wrote an article in which he argued vigorously that district courts are coequal with the courts of appeals and should be so considered with respect to salary, prestige and administrative authority.

Writing of what he called the erosion of the trial courts, Chandler declared:

"... I have felt and seen the erosion take place and gain momentum. The importance of public understanding has made it necessary to lay aside polite understatement and any delicate sense of courtesy or propriety."

NOTE LAWSUITS

The council report noted Chandler had been involved in both civil and criminal lawsuits and that two proceedings had been brought before the 10th Circuit Court "to disqualify him from handling special litigation."

The report said that Chandler had been a subject of discussion by the council for several years "with particular regard to the attitude and conduct of Judge Chandler" toward the business of the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Oklahoma.

Kellogg Foundation Grant Announced

Children's Charter of the Courts of Michigan, Inc. today announced a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of $280,065 to continue its work in social and court services.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore was the first president of Children's Charter and, with Probate Court Judges Donald E. Adams and Norman R. Barnard, still serves on the board of directors.

The organization, headquartered in Kalamazoo, this year opened its previously restricted membership rolls to interested citizens as well as judges.

Not in Tune With Law

TOULON, France (UPI) — Claude Feyrier, 32, had a way with electricity and electronics. He lamented today that police arrested him on charges of stealing radio equipment "on the very day when I succeeded in getting Radio Peking on my electric guitar."

GMC '65 Pontiac Payrolls Total Nearly $317 Million

General Motors Corp. expenditures for employee payrolls at its three Pontiac manufacturing operations reached nearly $317 million during 1965, it was announced today.

This is an increase of $76 million over last year.

In addition, General Motors spent $91.4 million with approximately 1,000 area companies which supplied goods and services to the Pontiac GM facilities during the past year.

The year-end figures were released jointly today by John Z. DeLoe, GM vice president and general manager, Pontiac Motor Division; Calvin J. Werner, GM vice president and general manager, GMC Truck & Coach Division; and Thomas F. Wieland, Fisher Body plant manager.

Combined GM employment in Pontiac averaged 35,200 for the year, rising more than 5,100 above 1964. In December, the average number of employees climbed to 38,275.

During the past year, employees invested $7.2 million in U.S. Savings Bonds through payroll deduction, up $1.4 million from the previous year.

Employees at the three GM plants were awarded over $451,000 for ideas submitted in the GM suggestion plan in 1965.

The maximum suggestion award of $5,000 was given to Pontiac Division employees, Wilfred Osman, Wayne Ridgeway and Elwood West, and to Norman Bishop and Charles Dally of GMC Truck & Coach Division.

In addition, two GMC Truck employees, Clyde Spangler and Asa Uwer cosponsored a suggestion for which they split a $6,000 award.

To the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund, GM employees contributed $682,258, an increase of $71,858 over last year. In addition, General Motors made a corporate gift of $165,000 to the UF campaign.

Insurance Chief Quits to Return to Teaching Post

LANSING (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Allen Mayerson resigned today to return to teaching.

In a lengthy letter to Gov. George Romney, Mayerson said he has "made some progress" in improving department operations but he listed three problem areas remaining. He has been commissioner for two years, two months.

He asked to be relieved Jan. 6 so he can return at the winter semester to his post as professor of insurance and actuarial mathematics at the University of Michigan.

He has been on leave of absence.

More Yanks Arrive in Viet

U.S. Peace Bid Hinted

By United Press International
Roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman flew to Warsaw today by presidential plane in a surprise move believed connected with American efforts to end the fighting in Viet Nam.

Warsaw is the only site of diplomatic contact between the United States and Communist China and it appeared the experienced troubleshooter was there for talks with Chinese Ambassador Wang Kuo-chuan.

However, there was a report that Wang was in Peking for a brief vacation.

The U.S. embassy said only that Harriman was in the Polish capital on official business. But his 17 aides were said to include Chinese language interpreters.

With Harriman was David Dean, the State Department specialist on China. Dean usually flies to Warsaw whenever Chinese-American talks are scheduled.

POLES, SOVIETS
Washington sources said it was possible that Harriman might meet in Warsaw with Poles, Russians or other members of the Communist bloc.

Poland particularly is known to be anxious to play the role of middleman in any Viet Nam peace settlement.

Indications were Harriman's visit would be brief, adding to the mystery of the trip.

It could also be that he might only be stopping off in Warsaw for a briefing on the last meeting between the ambassadors of the United States and Red China.

DECEMBER MEETING
The talks between John A. Gronoski and Wang were held Dec. 15.

In the meeting between Gronoski and Wang, they talked for three hours in what the U.S. ambassador called a "frank" discussion on Southeast Asia.

No details were disclosed in accordance with the ground rules for the talks.

Gronoski cut short an official

Father of 2 Families Guilty of Charges

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A man who walked away from his wife and four children eight years ago and started a new life with a second family in Cincinnati, Ohio, pleaded guilty to desertion and nonsupport charges Tuesday.

Maurice Mallion, 35, was arraigned before Washington County Circuit Judge William P. Ager, who ordered him held in lieu of $5,000 bond pending sentencing Jan. 7.

visit to Ponzan, site of the only U.S. consulate in Poland, to hurry 200 miles back to Warsaw to meet with Harriman.

TOUCHY
Harriman is a veteran of touchy east-west negotiation.

After serving Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman as a trouble-shooter and later as envoy in Moscow, Harriman participated in the 1961 Laos conference under President John F. Kennedy and headed the U.S. team that negotiated the partial nuclear test ban pact in Moscow.

Economic Progress Is Hailed by Romney

LANSING (AP) — Economic improvement — from more money in the treasury to more jobs in the factory — is pinpointed by Gov. Romney as "the dynamic strength that has become our state's trademark."

In a year-end report released yesterday, Romney said the treasury would contain at least $100 million in surplus by June 30.

He said Michigan, in his three years as governor, has "evolved from a problem state to a problem-solving state."

"Our greatest accomplishment has been the increased acceptance of responsibility by more and more Michigan citizens to insure continuation of the level of progress and prosperity begun three years ago."

Besides the surplus, the Republican governor listed these evidences of a strong economy:

- Personal income through September up 11.1 per cent over 1964, keeping Michigan first among major industrial states.
- Business and industrial expansions totaling $1.3 billion announced through November, including diversification away from the auto industry.
- Construction through October up 26 per cent over 1964 to $1.9 billion.
- Employment by last month up 145,700 over November 1964; unemployment down 22,000 to $1,000 in the same comparative periods.

Complementing this, he said, was action "increasing the job potential and protection of our workers."

Here the governor listed ramping of workmen's and unemployment compensation, and revised labor relations law for public employees.

TAX ACTION
Romney listed lack of tax action as the biggest disappointment of 1965. He said enactment of an $819-million budget — up $125 million from 1964 — "increased the need" for more taxes.

The tax situation topped his list of specific programs unresolved as the state prepared to enter 1966.

He also included lowering of Mackinac Bridge tolls, local government reform, highway safety, strengthening of the National Guard and governmental, efficiency and economy.

Blaze Claims Court Official

Asphyxiation Ruled in Waterford Death

An Oakland County Probate Court official died of asphyxiation early this morning in a fire at her Waterford Township home.

Dead is Mrs. William N. Pipe, 57, of 2451 Voorheis, probate register in charge of the office staff.

Her body was found in bed by Waterford Township firemen shortly after 4 a.m.

Fire Chief Lewis Goff said the blaze apparently started from a cigarette in a living room couch and then burned downward into the basement of the five-room frame home.

Total damage was estimated at $10,000 by Goff—$7,000 to the home and $3,000 to contents.

DISCOVER FIRE
A passing motorist, Warren Eisenhardt Sr., 282 S. Hospital, Waterford Township, discovered the fire.

He and a next door neighbor, of Mrs. Pipe, LeVerne Boge, attempted to enter the house but were driven back by smoke and heat.

Mrs. Pipe, a widow, was pronounced dead of smoke inhalation at the scene by deputy coroner Dr. William Crommett.

A county employee for 25 years, she had held her present position since 1961.

COURT REPORTER
Prior to then, she had been a court reporter to Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore, then a probate judge.

She was a member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Her body is at the Donaldson-Johns Funeral Home. Surviving are two daughters.

Coins Valued at $8,000 Are Taken in Rose

A Rose Township man and his son were bound and robbed of an estimated $8,000 worth of collector's coins last night.

Elvin G. Beebe, 11055 Milford, told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies two bandits gained entry to their house by asking to use a telephone following "a bad accident."

Once inside, Beebe said, one of the men pulled a gun and forced Beebe to open a safe containing the coins.

Beebe and his son, Royal, were then bound by their hands with adhesive tape before the robbers fled.

Neither of the victims was injured. Beebe said the coins, which had a face value of $1,000, were insured.

U.S. Brigade Is Airlifted to Jungle Conflict

American Planes Hold Off Strikes in North for Sixth Day

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Truce talk pervaded the Vietnamese theater of war tonight, but the United States underscored its commitment to South Viet Nam by airlifting another brigade of U.S. troops into the jungle conflict.

The moratorium in the U.S. air war on North Viet Nam went into its sixth day, but the halt in the air attack still drew no public peace feeler from Hanoi.

The South Vietnamese government was reported ready to join the Viet Cong in proclaiming a cease-fire for the Vietnamese New Year next month.

The United States entertained some doubts but was expected to concur in the truce.

Neither Washington nor Saigon saw the Communist offer of a truce on Tet, the lunar New Year festival Jan. 20-23, as a significant breakthrough toward peace.

LONG WAR
In the long guerrilla war, a military lull during the national holiday has become an annual ritual.

Twenty-one Americans were killed in combat last week compared with 10 in the previous Sunday-to-Saturday reporting period, a U.S. spokesman announced. There were 95 Americans wounded.

Government casualties were listed as 227 dead, 499 wounded and 104 either wounded or captured, while the Communist toll was given as 937 killed and 137 wounded or captured.

U.S. AIR FORCES B52s from Guam hit two suspected Viet Cong concentrations in Quang Tri Province, 400 miles north of Saigon.

The raid last night ended speculation that the big bombers, which had stayed away from South Viet Nam for four days, had joined the air moratorium.

There was also no relief for the Reds from tactical air strikes in the south. U.S. carrier planes and South Vietnamese propeller-driven Skyraiders splashed Viet Cong positions in Long An Province to help small government positions 25 miles southwest of Saigon.

The Viet Cong made widely scattered attacks.

They blew three bridges in the Quang Ngai area, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, and overran a Vietnamese district capital headquarters at Minh Long, 15 miles southwest of Quang Ngai City.

Air observation reported the capital post deserted but some outposts still fighting it out.

Tactical planes flew 34 sorties against the attackers up to mid-afternoon.

Switch in Mortgage Means New Interest

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money
Management

Dear Miss Feeley: I have an $18,000 mortgage with a local savings and trust company. The interest rate is 6 1/2 per cent. which I feel is too high. How would I go about getting it reduced?

Do I seek another mortgage or go to the present holder and ask for a reduction?

MARY FEELEY
E.L.S., Chicago
Dear E. L. S.: Read your contract over again and see if you have a pre-payment clause and what penalty, if any, there is if you pay up this mortgage ahead of time.

As to whether you could make a new arrangement with the present mortgage holder, you can always talk the situation over. If the answer is no, then shop around to see what kind of deal you can make somewhere else — considering the value of your property.

Keep in mind that a change in mortgages would involve new closing costs. So you would want to consider this expense in relation to the new monthly payments you would have to make.

Your arithmetic homework would boil down to this: add any prepayment penalty to the total amount you now owe on your home. Now add on whatever the new closing costs would be. Then find out what the new monthly payments would be for a lower interest mortgage which would run for the same length of time as your present one is scheduled for.

If you find you can save anything per month by a switch, then by all means start looking around.

Dear Miss Feeley: We have a mortgage with a private party at 6 per cent. We would like to help our daughter with her educational expenses, and are considering refinancing our home.

Do refinancing charges depend on the amount you borrow? A. B., Monterey Park, Calif.

Dear A. B.: The interest rate you will get will depend on the value of your house as well as the amount you borrow. Usually the interest rate is higher when the mortgage represents a larger proportion of the appraised value. The closing costs are also calculated on the amount you borrow.

Dear Mary Feeley: I need $1,000 as soon as possible for medical reasons. I still owe a little more than $4,000 on my FHA mortgage — at an interest rate of only 4 1/2 per cent.

The manager of the bank does not want me to borrow on it. He says I would lose this low interest rate. I am a widow with no business head and I know there are people just waiting for people like me to come around! What should I do?

U. V., Victorville, Calif.
Dear U. V.: Go back to your banker and see what you can arrange for in the way of a personal loan. I assume you have some kind of steady income, and even though it may be just barely enough, you might be able to swing a long-time personal loan in order to get the medical attention you need.

I agree with your banker that a mortgage at only 4 1/2 per cent is worth hanging onto. You couldn't expect to do this well if you try to refinance your mortgage.

You might also contact the nearest Health and Welfare Department in your area and talk over the situation with them. This isn't charity, since you are a property owner and a taxpayer, and you are entitled to find out what help you can get on some kind of paying basis.

(You can write to Mary Roberts of Rochester in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of widest interest will be answered in this column.)

'Dunking' Fountain Lasts

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — "We trust it will stand for a century," said Pearl Caldwell when she presented the Senior Class gift to Florida State University in 1915.

The Westcott Fountain, erected just inside the main gate of the University has become the school's best-known landmark. The Class of 1915, returning to the school for the 1965 homecoming, found its gift had little halfway to the 100 years they hoped it would stand.

The class president, Pearl Caldwell, is now Mrs. Frank D. Warren. At the time of her graduation, the school was known as Florida State College for Women.

The school is now co-educational, and much tradition is connected with the fountain. It has become the custom for men students and girls they "pin" to be thrown into the fountain.

High and Dry

— Hang damp towels and other wet items suspended from the top of the clothes chute by spring-type clothespins until they are dry rather than drop them into the basement while they are still wet. It prevents soiled laundry from becoming mildewed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick E. Roberts of Rochester announce the engagement of their daughter, Melanie Viella, to Thomas Lloyd Baugh, son of the Vincent L. Baughs of Orchard Road, Arvon Township. Both attend Central Michigan University where she holds an office in Alpha Xi Delta sorority. Her fiancé is president of Chi Sigma fraternity. August vows are planned.

Average Changes

— In 1920 the average woman worker was single and 28 years old. Latest figures show the average woman worker is married and 41 years old.

Ask Jeweler About 'C's'

NEW YORK (AP)—Shopping for a Christmas diamond? Ask a jeweler about the Four C's of each stone.

They are carat, the unit of measure in weight; color, the whiter the rarer; cut, planes that catch the light and make the diamond sparkle; clarity, the absence of carbon spots, bubbles or other natural imperfections.

Diamond experts say you can judge the color by looking at the stone sideways, through the thickest part, as you hold it up to the north light on a clear day.

The traditional bridal diamond is clear and colorless.

A Sweater Bag

DEAR POLLY — A beautiful pocketbook can be made from a discarded sweater. Cut off the sleeves and lay them aside for awhile.

Seam the back and the front of the sweater just below the neck. The shape is now square. Sew in lining or a stiffening material, fold the sweater in half, according to your taste or depending on the size of the sweater.

The sleeves can be used to make pockets for the outside, arranged in an interesting fashion, or even inside if you prefer.

Sew around the open end of the bag, sew in a zipper, and for handles use a chain from a discarded bag.—MRS. M. B.

GIRLS—I was as intrigued with this idea as I was with one, a few years ago, for making sweaters from old nylon hose.

Mrs. M. B.'s letter was not completely clear to me but this is the way I worked it out. Both sides of a slipover sweater might be usable but only the back of a cardigan.

Before cutting out the bag shape, be sure to mark the outline with straight pins or chalk. Stitch, on the sewing machine, a bit beyond the line so the knitting does not ravel.

Be sure to do this before cutting. Lining is imperative as it bears the strain and weight of things put in the bag. Such weight on knitting alone would cause it to stretch and sag out of shape. A casing, put in at the top so a small dowel stick could run through it, would help hold the bag in shape at the top.

Some of you may have tops, saved from other bags, that have holes in the frame so the bag could be sewed at the top.

I have one such tortoise top that has been used over a period of years for many bags. The idea would be very good for a knitting bag and a nice big one could be made from a big man's sweater.

Monograms cut from felt or wool flowers could attractively decorate the outside of such a bag whether it be a purse or knitting bag.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When I am sitting under the dryer at the beauty shop I always have with me a small container of moisturizing cream which I dab around my eyes to prevent dryness.

Also, when I travel I take this small container of cream to keep my skin from becoming dry. You would never guess my age.—DORIS Bennington stoneware is still a practical and popular pattern. Crafted in the sturdy tradition of New England where quality stoneware was first produced in 1790, it is designed for today's relaxed casual living. These timeless classic shapes function handsomely at family time and party time. Available locally.

Shoe Stores

In answer to many who have questioned us about the signs on our Downtown Pontiac Store, here are the facts folks. All our records and our trained sales people have been moved to 928 W. Huron Street Store. This store also has complete size and style ranges of all the shoes we used to stock Downtown.

Very soon now we will open a brand new store on W. Huron Street near the Huron Theatre. It will be as completely stocked and equipped as we can make it. There will be free parking right beside our door.

So you see we are not going out of business but actually going into business in a new location. We'll expect to welcome you in this new location. In the meantime may we continue to serve you at either our 928 W. Huron Store or 418 Main Street Rochester Store?

At Least 8 Die in Mine Blast

Hunt for 9th Victim in Colorado Explosion

REDSTONE, Colo. (AP)—At least eight miners, and probably nine, were killed in a methane gas explosion in the No. 1 Dutch Creek coal mine, 28 miles southwest of Glenwood Springs, late Tuesday night.

Officials said eight bodies have been found. They said shift records showed that nine miners were in the No. 4 south tunnel of the workings when the blast occurred.

Officials identified seven of the bodies as those of James Amidey, 36; Ed Smith, 27; Al Oberster, 43; George Dunlap, 32; Martin Carter, 32; Bob Story, 22, and Eston Snow, 40.

They said the eighth body was that of Magnus Abelin, 47, or Glen Anderson, 30.

ALL MARRIED

The men all were married and most of them had children.

The mine is operated by the Mid-Continental Coal & Coke Co. with headquarters in Chicago and offices in Glenwood Springs.

Miners in other tunnels of the workings were not injured.

Officials said the explosion hit at 11:45 p.m. The crew had gone on shift at 3 p.m. and was working overtime to get extra time off for the New Year holiday.

GOP Senator Plans to Retire in January

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., announced his retirement today, bringing to a close 45 years in public office, including 21 years in the U.S. Senate.

Saltonstall, 73, said he is retiring at the end of his term in January. He said he reached the decision after "painstaking thought" and after discussing it with his family and friends.

Saltonstall has held elective public office almost continuously since 1920.

His retirement will touch off a scramble for his seat, both among members of his own party who would hope to budge him in a primary, and among Democrats who time after time have seen him tumble their vote-getting campaigns.

Area Partners Buy Royal Oak Property

Lorne G. Olsen and B. H. Carey, partners in the Birmingham certified public accounting firm of Carey & Olsen, have purchased two Royal Oak apartment complexes for a total of $1 million.

Olsen, 1136 Asher, Waller Lake, and Carey of Royal Oak, bought the 40-unit Hillside Manor and 40-unit Carleton House apartment complexes.

They purchased the Farmington Shopping Plaza at Orchard Lake Road and Grand River a year ago for $1.4 million.

Lewis Geer, an employee of Bel-Air Home Builders, Inc., of Detroit, reported to Pontiac police yesterday the theft of a small air furnace valued at $150 from a new home site at 556 Bloomfield.

Gerald C. Jacobs of Jacobs' Grocery at 626 W. Huron St. announced that he was resigning his retirement and the closing of Jacobs' Grocery as of Dec. 31, 1965.

Plastic Firm Is Hit by Fire in Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A spectacular fire of undetermined origin destroyed the one-story building of an Ann Arbor plastic and research firm, Chemtronic, Inc., Tuesday night.

Firemen did not give any damage estimates, but they described the fire as a major blaze. Police Sgt. Howard Renard estimated flames shot up 100 feet.

profitable. Above that, older year when a strike seemed a possibility. But new orders from those who cater to business expansion plans are picking up.

Plant and equipment outlays have hit a record $61 billion this year. Many observers look for this spending next year.

FLOW OF NEW ORDERS

The flow of new orders for equipment and for the raw materials from which plants are made seem to justify such predictions.

The steel industry is still plagued by the inventory-cutting of some of its customers who built up stocks earlier in the year.

Orders for machine tools—a symbol of business expansion and modernization—are pouring in at a rate unequalled since the Korean War.

New orders for steel products from construction companies, the railroad equipment industry and auto makers are picking up in recent days as the mills close out their biggest year ever.

MACHINE TOOLMAKERS

Most machine tool makers and steel executives see little chance of order cancellations changing their prospects for increasing prosperity in the months just ahead.

Order backlogs for metal-cutting machines took a big jump in November and now require 7.9 months of operations, higher since May 1966. Backlogs for metal-forming machines soared to 10.6 months.

The National Machine Tool Builders Association says orders for both kinds of equipment totaled $1.3 billion in the first 11 months of the year, against $1.1 billion the previous year.

Some machine tool makers are saying that at the rate new orders are coming in 1966 could top 1965 by 10 per cent.

BOOM TO EXPAND

The boom to expand industry's capacity by constructing new plants or buying new equipment for old factories has been gaining strength since summer. Part of this has been due to the belief in corporate boardrooms that industrial activity is bound to increase next year, even without further money stimulation. Part is belief that such military stimulation is inevitable and likely to continue.

But part also is due to the momentum of the nearly five years of prosperity which has used up much of the idle industrial capacity and is now putting a strain on facilities in some industries. This calls for new plants and equipment to meet the demands that 1966 is expected to provide.

Manufacturing in general has been operating ever closer to the 92 per cent of capacity which is considered the most profitable.

Pollution StudyU.S., Canada May Ask Check at Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Canada may ask the International Joint Commission to study the problem of air pollution in some areas along their common border.

The American and Canadian officials said the matter is under discussion. When a decision is reached, they said, the Joint Commission may be requested to handle such a survey.

The international body — consisting of three U.S. and three Canadian members — undertook a study during the 1960s on air pollution caused by shipping in the Great Lakes. As a result, officials said, the two governments put into effect measures curbing smoke contamination.

Officials of the two governments said Tuesday that Canada has suggested the problem of industrial air pollution in various border areas would be worth a joint study.

The United States is favorably disposed to this idea. However, it has pointed out that because of the limited number of skilled personnel available, only a limited area can be studied at any one time.

Discussions are now concerned with what area should be examined first. The Detroit-Windsor area is a likely possibility.

Playwright
Under Fire
May Get Aid

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A high school drama instructor who is under fire for writing a play entitled "A Cal Cal Jesus" may get financial aid for her defense from fellow teachers.

Directors of the San Diego Teachers' Association voted Tuesday to seek such aid for Geri Turner Davis, 31, in her hearing before the California Credentials Committee. The directors acted after receiving a report from attorney Robert Thorn, clearing Mrs. Davis of misconduct.

Thorn had been selected to look into the situation after Mrs. Davis' accusers termed her an "immoral person." Among those criticizing the play — particularly its title — was a watchdog unit of the California Republican Assembly.

The plot of the play centers on the friendship of a jailed Negro boy in the South and a sheriff's daughter who owns a cat named Jesus. The play was not presented at Mission Bay High School, where Mrs. Davis teaches. However, it won a first prize in April at the San Diego Community Concurrence Theater.

When the State Department of Education first studied Mrs. Davis' case, a tentative finding of unprofessional conduct was made. She then was given the option of a formal hearing, which she said she will exercise.

Case for Explorer Lief Ericson

Is Full of (Worm) Holes—Judge

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—A Pennsylvania Supreme Court justice said yesterday the claim by Yale University that Norwegian explorer Lief Ericson reached America 500 years before Christopher Columbus is full of holes — worm holes.

Justice Michael Musmanno, author of a dozen books and presiding justice at the Nuremberg trials, spent five hours yesterday studying the famous Vinland map on which the Yale claim is based.

According to Yale experts, worm holes in the map correspond with those of other manuscripts known to have been written in 1440. Yale stirred up a storm by releasing the new claim on Columbus Day this year.

Musmanno said "statements have been made that worm holes in the map proved in relation with other manuscripts and this established the date of the map to be 1440."

"Not one worm hole penetrates these three manuscripts to show that they are part of one complex as announced by the Yale University Press."

SPINNING WHEEL

However, Norwegian experts said today, a small soapstone spinning wheel is proof that Lief Ericson discovered America some 500 years before Italian explorer Christopher Columbus.

The Norwegians came up with the latest ammunition in the battle over just who it was that made the big find. Said the Norwegian experts: "The Italians may like it or not, but the archeological finds made by Helge Ingstad in Newfoundland are definite proof that Lief Ericson and his men really landed in the new world centuries ahead of Columbus."

Warn of Food
Preserved by N-Radiation

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Three Cornell University scientists warn — and the Army denies — that food preserved by nuclear radiation could be deadly.

Their report Tuesday collided also with actions by the Food and Drug Administration, which has approved irradiated bacon, potatoes and wheat products for human consumption.

But the scientists said irradiation was a dangerous procedure for foods containing sugar.

They said sugar breaks down under radiation and can pass on lethal effects to living plant cells and probably to animal and human cells.

YEARS OF TESTING

In Natick, Mass., Dr. Ferdinand P. Mehrlich, director of the Food Division of the U.S. Army Laboratories, said that 10 years of testing have failed to show any harmful effects from food preserved by radiation.

The Food and Drug Administration's approval was based on work done at the Natick laboratories, the principal location for research on food radiation by the Army and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Specific doses of gamma radiation retard the growth of bacteria that spoil food without causing the food to become radioactive.

The scientists' report was issued by the Laboratory for Cell Physiology, Growth and Development at the State College for Agriculture, a publicly supported unit of Cornell. The scientists involved were Prof. Frederick C. Stewart, the laboratory director, and Dr. Richard D. Helsten and Dr. Michiya Sugii, who grew plants in irradiated solutions to test the results.

Singing Star Pleads Guilty in Drug Case

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Johnny Cash, the country and western singing star, pleaded guilty yesterday to a federal charge of possessing stimulant and depressant drugs. U.S. District Judge D. W. Suttle will sentence him later.

Cash was arrested Oct. 4 as he arrived at El Paso International Airport to board a flight. He has been free on $1,500 bond since then. He could be sentenced to a year in prison and be fined as much as $1,000.

'Joe Thief'
Makes Good

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — The Salvation Army has received a $10 contribution from "Joe Thief" as a form of restitution for Joe's lightfingered activities several years ago.

"Joe Thief" — that's how he signed his name — wrote a letter to the owner of a luncheonette confessing that he had taken about $10 worth of newspapers from a machine in front of the restaurant over the course of several months in 1963.

Joe enclosed two $5 bills in payment for the stolen papers, and asked Dino Pappas, the proprietor, to turn the money over to whoever owned the papers.

Pappas turned the money over to the Norwich Bulletin, which owned the stand and the papers, and the Bulletin then contributed the money to the Salvation Army.

"This should make Joe feel even better," said a spokesman for the newspaper.

New Owner

for Chain of Newspapers

LIVONIA (AP) — Philip H. Power of Ann Arbor has purchased the Observer Newspaper Group, which publishes community newspapers in six Detroit suburbs, it was announced today.

The purchase was announced by Power, who is administrative assistant to U. S. Rep. Paul H. Todd Jr., Kalamazoo Democrat, and Mrs. Paul M. Chandler, publisher of the Observer.

The Observer Group, formerly headed by the late State Senator-elect Paul M. Chandler, publishes papers in Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City, Redford Township, Nankin Township and Farmington. Total circulation is 86,000.

Following Chandler's death a year ago, the papers have been operated by the widow in association with William C. McKay, a Detroit attorney, and Stanley Swinton of New York City, assistant general manager of The Associated Press.

Power, 27, said he would retain Mrs. Chandler as editor.

Face Hearings

PONTIAC (AP) — Removal hearings for two justices of the peace in Wayne County's Nankin Township will be held by an Oakland County judge after the first of the year.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Edward S. Piggins, a one-man grand jury probing alleged traffic ticket fixing in the Wayne County Sheriff's Department charged the two justices with misconduct and asked Gov. George Romney to remove them from office.

The justices, accused by Piggins of failure to report ticket fixing information and other offenses, are Michael W. Bradley and George R. Perry. Both were grand jury witnesses.

The justices, accused by Piggins of failure to report ticket fixing information and other offenses, are Michael W. Bradley and George R. Perry. Both were grand jury witnesses.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Norman R. Barnard said Tuesday he will start Bradley's hearing Jan. 17. He said Perry's hearing would be scheduled later. Romney ordered the hearings.

Leo Maki, assistant to Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley and participant in the grand jury investigation, will represent the state at the justices' removal hearings.

Says Drinking Starts at 14

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — "Despite all the laws, the average child today drinks at age 14," a spokesman for the American Medical Association says.

Dr. Marvin A. Block of Buffalo, chairman of the association's committee on alcoholism, said Monday that in many U.S. suburbs, 85 per cent of the children drink at 14 years of age. About 75 per cent of that number drink with their parents' permission, Block said.

The fact that children drink so early makes a farce of legal age statutes, he added.

Patti Shaken by Exposure to Tragedies of Warfare

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Patti Page now knows that war is hell — after singing for American wounded in Tokyo, Okinawa and Taipei.

One night at a prosperous officers' club which had slot machines and gaiety, there were also empty chairs at the table. Some fliers who, gone on missions over Viet Nam that day, had not returned, and it was probable they never would. . . . In a hospital Patti saw nurses place a sheet over a boy who had died as Patti walked through. . . . Patti was so shaken she couldn't perform. . . .

But most terrifying was a quiet talk with a boy in uniform who said to Patti, "Would you give this note to Tab Hunter? I was with Tab's brother when he was lost in action."

Billy Rose and Joyce Matthews will remarry—their third marriage to each other after two marriages and two divorces—in a very short time.

That's the prophecy of close friends. Billy, who's 66, returned from the Houston Methodist Hospital a few nights ago with a nurse—and with Joyce after a difficult operation and 20 days of hospitalization. . . . would only comment to me, "I'm not ready to say anything about the marriage rumor, but I will say I adore Joyce and think she's the most wonderful girl in the world."

Joyce, who was also twice married to and divorced from Milton Berle, has been Billy's constant companion and comfort since his operation for respiratory trouble. His last will gave her $1,000,000 and she also receives big alimony, tax-free, for life.

Billy's operation performed by the same doctor who operated on the Duke of Windsor in Houston, is said to be a fairly safe assurance that he will have 20 years more of life than he'd have had without it. "I just hope so," says Billy.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Alan King, who's co-produce "The Lion in Winter" starring Robert Preston & Rosemary Harris (with Gene Wilder and Walter Hylton) is discussing Alan Jay Lerner's next musical in infatuation with Lerner. . . . Mrs. Peter Sellers (Britt Ekland) will be featured in "Trial of O'Brien" TV'er.

Richard Burton'll be seen frugging with Sammy Davis when he and Liz guest on Sammy's TV'er. . . . UA's preparing another film for its "Viva Maria" co-stars, BBarot and Jeanne Moreau. . . . Al Hirt's dr. Greichen is studying acting with Agnes Moorehead. . . . Joe Anthony, director of the Broadway show, "Playroom," was injured seriously in an auto crash.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A newlipped pair claimed their apartment's so small that if they added another layer of wallpaper there'd be no room to walk around.

EARL'S PEARLS: Christmas gifts fall into two categories—those you didn't like, and those you didn't get. . . . Bob
