

Teamsters Face Expulsion Today

Satellite Launching Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — (INS) — The U. S. failed today in the attempt to launch its first earth satellite.

The launching carrier was ignited at seconds after 11:45 a.m. (EST) but blew up. The rocket did not rise from the ground.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — A launching of America's first test satellite some time after 11:20 a.m. EST today appeared possible as crews readied the giant Vanguard rocket.

A hoped-for dawn launching failed to materialize after a series of "holds" interrupted the count-down process which precedes any rocket or missile firing.

The longest of these holds lasted from 3 a.m. to 6:30 a.m. When the count was resumed,

AF Sends Up Snark

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS) — The Air Force announced today that a 5,000-mile intercontinental "Snark" missile was fired successfully from Cape Canaveral last night. No further details were given. The rocket-launched, jet-propelled missile, which has been tested more than 60 times, was placed on target Oct. 31 after soaring more than 5,000 miles.

The time remaining before a launching — assuming that all went well from then on — was 4 hours and 56 minutes.

The final two hours before a launching are the most critical and frequently develop the most unexpected delays.

The weather looked favorable. Scattered clouds started clearing after daybreak and the outlook was that wind would be moderate. The reasons for the delays were not announced but they could be guessed at. There were endless numbers of things that could go wrong at the last moment.

At 1 a.m. the Defense Department announced that a six-hour countdown, or final time checking process, was starting in hopes of a launching at sunrise, at 7 a.m. Shortly thereafter a one-hour "hold" was ordered. Later this delay was extended.

Snow May Follow as Mercury Drops

The weather man predicts it will turn colder tonight and cloudy skies with occasional showers can be expected. Tonight's low will be near 34 to 38 degrees.

Rain, beginning early this morning, ended before noon and skies were overcast for the remainder of the day.

Tomorrow the prediction from the U.S. Weather Bureau is cloudy and colder with a chance of some rain or snow. The high will be near 40.

Precipitation is expected to end by Sunday but temperatures will be lower.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 35. The reading at 1 p.m. was 47.

$599,000 Raised by United Fund as Drive Ends

Total Is 98 Per Cent of Goal; More Donors Yet to Report

The Pontiac Area United Fund drive, which was extended 10 days beyond its original closing date, has reached 98 per cent of its goal.

Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, campaign chairman, announced today, the final day of the drive, that the PAUF has raised $599,000 of its $612,000 target.

"We have high hopes of achieving or surpassing our goal," Dr. Whitmer said, "and by next week we will be in a better position to give a more complete final tally."

Campaign officials report that returns have come in fairly heavy this week after a Thanksgiving week lull.

The Industrial Division, headed by George Watson, reported $358,423 pledged or collected, which brings it within 1.4 per cent of its goal.

Watson also announced that Pontiac Motor Division has reached 100 per cent of its quota for the ninth straight year.

The 10 plants included in the Pontiac Manufacturers Assn. have reached 99 per cent of goal for employees and 99.1 for firm gifts, Watson revealed.

The only group still lagging in his division, he added, is the general manufacturers which has raised 72.5 per cent of its goal, or $5,455.

The Commercial Division, led by Carroll Osman, has raised $157,000 of its $164,280 goal.

Latest division returns show the financial group in the lead with 112.1 per cent of its quota already in, Osman said.

The door-to-door Geographic Division has raised $20,352 of its $21,548 quota. Waterford solicitors, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Donald White, hit 87.5 per cent of quota and need only $183 to meet their goal.

Mrs. Ralph T. Norvell's solicitors in Pontiac are racing the Waterford group to be first to reach quota.

Imagination Needed to Pick Suitable Gifts

By JANET ODELL

We've been Christmas snooping again, this time with a definite price limit in mind. There are so many parties this month to which you take a small gift. Today we'll concentrate on gifts for half a dollar and less; next time we'll go up to a dollar.

Handkerchief boxes in assorted color plastic will fit nicely in the corner of a lady's drawer because they are wedge shaped. You could enclose a small silk scarf if your budget allows more than the fifty cents.

Brass and copper colored coil candle holders make a good gift. They look like a miniature slinky toy, except that the ends are joined. They fit candles of several sizes.

Early gifts mean that you can give something for the Christmas tree. We saw some amusing twirling ornaments made of plastic and thin metal. The heat from the tree lights make the little whirling go round.

On the practical side we saw terry cloth dishcloths to match the terry dish towels, now so popular. Other practical but interesting kitchen items are cake pans with Santa heads or Rudolph recessed in the bottom of the pan.

BELLS TO JINGLE

Give someone a spray of jingle bells to hang on the front door during the holiday season. Start a miniature bell or angel collection for your friend. Imported bells from India each have a different tone when shaken. There's even a combination angel-bell.

Several pairs of colored metallic knitting needles are a perfect gift for the friend who knits. Golfing friends would like tees to put away for next spring's first game.

For a youngster a giant box of colored crayons is always welcome. We read recently that all one youngster wanted was his own tube of tooth paste and two boxes

Annual Newspaper Sale

Goodfellows Out Saturday

The cries "Buy a Goodfellow paper" will echo through Pontiac and Waterford Township Saturday, as dawn to dusk sales are conducted in both areas to raise funds for the less fortunate.

Pontiac Goodfellows will sell their copies of a special edition of The Pontiac Press throughout the city.

Service club members and Metropolitan Club men of Waterford Township will cover the street corners all day Saturday, also seeking funds for needy children and families.

Labor Secretary at Convention

CHATS WITH LABOR LEADERS — Secretary of Labor James P. 'Only a Miracle' Can Save Union, Says AFL-CIO

Ouster Recommended by Appeals Committee of Parent Organization

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (INS) — The AFL-CIO Appeals Committee today recommended to the convention of the corruption-tainted Teamsters Union from the 15-million-member federation.

The convention planned to take up the teamsters' case as the first order of business at 1,200 delegates gathered for the second day of their biennial meeting.

Federation officials freely predicted that the nation's largest union would be expelled from the "House of Labor" by a much larger vote than the required two-thirds majority.

They declared that "only a miracle" could block the move to oust the Teamsters.

The one hope for keeping the Teamsters in the federation was said to be a surprise announcement by James R. Hoffa that he would step out as a teamster officer. At the same time, those close to Hoffa said he would not yield to the pressure to remove himself.

Hoffa has been accused by the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee of racketeer connections, misuse of union funds and use of his union position for personal profit and advantage.

REPORT SCHEDULED

Alex Rose of New York, chairman of the millinery workers and head of the AFL-CIO Appeals Committee, was scheduled to present a report on the Teamsters expected to uphold the union's suspension on corruption grounds and recommending expulsion.

The committee reportedly has already notified the teamsters that they can expect drastic action.

AFL-CIO officials said a roll vote on supporting the committee recommendations would follow, and that a two-thirds majority of those voting would be required to expel.

Meanwhile, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the federation's 170-man general board will take up next Tuesday the question of what legislation should be recommended. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Uses Ladder to Support Weight

Neighbor Rescues Girl After Ice Breaks

Rescue of a 12-year-old girl by a White Lake Township neighbor was praised today by Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons.

Mary Ann Bottorf, daughter of Mrs. Andra Bottorf, of 1143 Clearwater, was pulled from Mandon Lake yesterday evening by Peter Passini, 38, of 1670 Round Lake Rd.

Mary Ann was walking home across the lake about 6:30 p.m. after skating with a girl friend. The ice gave way over deep water about 25 feet from shore.

Keeping calm, the girl dropped her skates, grabbed the ice edge for support and began to scream for help.

As she clung to the ice, Mary

Ann said, the edge began to break off and she constantly had to grab fresh edges. Her wotten mittens helped her maintain a grip.

Her cries for help were finally heard by a neighbor's boy, Roger Passini, 11.

Roger had just left his house when he heard the screams and summoned his mother.

Mrs. Passini called her husband and his brother Marino, 54.

Peter Passini got a long ladder out on the ice to the girl and crawled out along it. The ice cracked under his weight as he proceeded.

"I prayed very hard it would hold my weight," he said.

Finally he reached Mary Ann and pulled her from the water. His brother then pulled in the ladder with the two of them hanging on.

Mary's mother said the girl suffered no apparent harm outside of exposure and some shock.

Gas Explosion Takes 12 Lives

Georgia Town Probes Wreckage for Bodies; 20 Known Injured

VILLA RICA, Ga. (U) — Grim-faced men resumed the search for additional bodies today in the blackened wreckage left by a terrific gas explosion and fire in this northwest Georgia town of 3,500.

Half a block was leveled by the blast yesterday. Twelve persons were known to have been killed and about 20 injured.

The town was without gas service, and people were warned not to turn on appliances.

The tragedy was the whole town's.

There was a boy who broke a tooth in school and went to the dentist's office and died; a nurse who kept on working after the bodies of her brother and father were brought in; the people who visited a dime store to buy Christmas ornaments and were carried out later on stretchers.

GAS LINE EXPLODES

The explosion demolished a drugstore, dress shop, 10-cent store, jewelry and florist shop and a second-floor dentist's office. It was attributed by Asst. Police Chief H. G. Black to a faulty gas line in the basement of the drugstore.

Hundreds of rescue workers from other communities rushed to the scene. Volunteers, police and firemen came from as far away as Atlanta, 37 miles east of Villa Rica.

Construction contracts were awarded the following firms: Architectural trades, Ward W. Ross, Inc., of Pontiac, $318,884. Mechanical trades, Great Lakes Power Piping Co., of Detroit, $105,542.

Electrical trades, J. J. Campbell Co., Van Dyke, $29,447.

The total cost of the building will be $453,873 as compared with the architect's estimate of $455,770.

Club Guides Fledgling Scientists

John H. Stefanski was one step ahead of President Eisenhower when he made his plea encouraging increased science education and training in the country.

When the President urged scientific advancement in schools in a speech at Oklahoma City last month, Stefanski had already formed a neighborhood club of youngsters to teach them the wonders of electronics.

"It started out when several boys came into the shop and asked help on a few gadgets they had made," explained Stefanski, who owns and operates the Stefanski Radio & Television Shop at 1157 W. Huron St., Waterford Township.

"Often I didn't have time to answer all their questions," Stefanski went on, "so I arranged to meet with them at night in the shop. We got so many kids that we had to gather at St. Benedict's hall."

Now the club membership is growing by leaps and bounds. There are now about 25 youngsters ranging in age between 10 and 15 years who gather with Stefanski every Thursday night to talk and work on science projects.

"With all the talk these days on scientific achievements, I believe the sooner these youngsters, the future leaders of our country, get into the field the better they will understand it and want to advance in it," the 50-year-old Stefanski said.

For this effort and numerous others in which he has distinguished himself as a community leader, Stefanski will go to Washington, D. C. Sunday to receive a $500 award from General Electric Co. He was named as one of 13 electronics technicians in the country for outstanding public service awards.

Along with this award the members of the West Pontiac Kiwanis Club will donate $1,000 to aid Stefanski in promoting the boys club which is slated to be called the Youth Science Club.

Activities will soon blossom into woodworking, model aircraft building and sports, the leader anticipates.

Helping others is nothing new to Stefanski. He and members of the Oakland County Electronics Assn. service TV and radio sets free of charge for Oakland County Tuberculosis Hospital patients.

He was instrumental in establishing better ethics in television. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

AMA Approves Fluoridation of Water

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — The American Medical Association reported today, on the basis of an exhaustive new study, that fluoridation of public water supplies is "not harmful to the general health."

The only negative side of the controversial problem of fluoridation, the report said, is slight mottling of tooth enamel in a small percentage of individuals after prolonged exposure. But the importance of this mottling in a few individuals is outweighed by the benefits which children up to 10 years of age receive as the result of having fewer dental cavities, the AMA report indicated.

The AMA report, adopted today by the AMA house of delegates, said: "Fluoridation of public water supplies should be regarded as a prophylactic measure for reducing tooth decay at the community level and is applicable where the water supply contains less than the equivalent of 1 PPM (parts per million) of fluorine."

The findings of this new study, while more exhaustive, are essentially the same as in the report of the same two councils, which was made in December, 1951. At that time, the AMA report said, "The councils believe that the use of drinking water

But it's not hard to see where Stefanski gets his biggest pleasure. "I get a big kick out of working with these youngsters," he said. "And I'm learning some new things from them too."

And Stefanski's desire to aid others hasn't ended. He and members of the association are seeking second-hand TV sets which they will repair and put in tip-top shape and then donate to hospitals in the area.

Do mountains have anything to do with rainfall? What role do they play in controlling precipitation in the United States?

Mountains have a definite effect on cloud movement and rainfall. In the United States the really high mountains near the West Coast are a major influence on the weather. In this case they block moist, maritime air, or drain the moisture out of it, as it moves east; thereby causing the dry regions in the western area.

The United States is favored with four sources of moist maritime air, which brings rain and produces a necessary vegetation. From the Pacific, air masses move in from the northwest and southwest. In the Atlantic, air masses enter from northeast and southeast.

Only from the polar regions, via Canada, and from Mexico (in summer) do we get dry air masses over the United States.

containing up to one part per million of fluoride is safe."

Since then many studies have been made, many negative observations have been recorded, and many arguments have been presented.

"All of them were given careful review and study," said Dr. James P. Leake of Washington, D.C., vice chairman of the AMA council on drugs. He added:

"The AMA recognizes the fact that printed material on the subject is not only enormous, but also very controversial."

The "conclusions" of the AMA study:

"Fluoridation of public water supplies to provide the approximate equivalent of 1 PPM of fluoride in drinking water has been established as a method for reducing dental caries in children up to 10 years of age."

"In localities with warm climates, or where for other reasons the ingestion of water or other content is high, a lower concentration of fluoride is advisable." On the basis of the available evidence, it appears that this method

3 to 6 Parking Still Prohibited

Certain Pontiac Streets 'Off Limits' During Rush Hours of Day

Motorists were reminded today that parking is still prohibited on certain Pontiac streets during the 3 to 6 p.m. rush hour, despite the fact that hooding of parking meters has been eliminated.

City Traffic Engineer Theodore M. Vanderstempel said drivers have been ignoring the "no parking" signs posted on the meters which replace the hoods formerly used.

The hooding of meters was eliminated Nov. 15 in order that patrolmen who normally place and remove covers may be assigned other duties.

Vanderstempel listed the following streets where parking will be prohibited for the three-hour period six days a week: west side of North Saginaw between Lafayette and Huron; west side of Perry between Huron and Water; and north side of Orchard Lake between the Cass avenue viaduct and Front Street.

The official said signs indicated "no parking" for these hours are secured to the meter posts along these routes.

ommended to correct labor-management abuses.

Meany made this comment when asked for his reaction to a sweeping, seven-point legislative program presented to the convention Thursday by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell.

Speaking on behalf of the administration, Mitchell said that President Eisenhower will recommend to Congress when it reconvenes in January a legislative program providing for full disclosure of union operations and criminal prosecution where abuses develop.

Dissatisfaction sprang up to some of Mitchell's recommendations, particularly to that calling for election of union officers by a secret ballot.

The AFL-CIO general board is expected to back a legislative program more modest in several respects than that proposed by Mitchell.

Hospital Replies to Sullenberger

Statement Relative to Recent Action Issued by Carl I. Flath

In reply to Dr. Neil A. Sullenberger's suit against the Pontiac General Hospital trustee and the medical staff, Carl I. Flath today issued a statement. Flath is executive director of the Hospital.

The statement follows:

"Suspension of Dr. Neil A. Sullenberger from the medical staff of the Pontiac General Hospital occurred only after a thoroughgoing review of his professional and personal behavior within the hospital, and of the record of his performance and proficiency as a surgeon. This action was taken by the Board of Trustees, in the public interest, and upon prior recommendation of its medical advisory body, the executive committee of the medical staff, that Dr. Sullenberger be removed from the medical staff, for cause."

"After acknowledging in writing prior misconduct and infractions of hospital rules and regulations, and upon his written promise to conform to established rules in the future, Dr. Sullenberger was reinstated to the medical staff in July, 1956. In so doing, the Board of Trustees acted contrary to a vote of the medical staff as a body, that Dr. Sullenberger's request for appointment be denied."

"In October 1957, after receipt of a recommendation for Dr. Sullenberger's dismissal from the medical staff, the Board of Trustees instituted a thorough review of all reports and records supporting the recommendation, following which, the board presented Dr. Sullenberger with a copy of the recommendation for dismissal and invited him to review the evidence with the board and answer for himself on November 8, 1957."

"Dr. Sullenberger did not accept the invitation to appear at the Nov. 8 meeting but requested postponement to Nov. 15, 1957. This was granted. Again he failed to appear on Nov. 15 and requested a second postponement to Nov. 19, 1957. This was granted. On Nov. 16, by telegram from Northport, Mich., a third request was made for postponement of the Nov. 19 meeting. The Board of Trustees met on Nov. 19 to grant continuance to Dec. 2, 1957, and upon reviewing all the circumstances, voted to suspend Dr. Sullenberger from all medical staff privileges pending final disposition on the recommendation for action by the Board of Trustees."

"Actions of the Board of Trustees have been entirely within the framework of the by-laws, rules and regulations in effect in every accredited hospital in the United States and Canada. Moreover, such regulations are designed solely to protect the best interests of patients, the public and the professional rights of members of the medical profession."

DETROIT (INS)—The $4.5 million damage suit case of Carl Renda against the United Auto Workers and Detroit and state police continued today in circuit court with the reading of the controversial statement of Donald Ritchie which implicated Renda in the April 20, 1948 shooting of Walther Reuther, UAW president.

The Day in Birmingham To Break Ground Sunday at 2 for YMCA Addition

BIRMINGHAM — Ground breaking for the $144,000 Birmingham YMCA addition is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday. The contract for the first unit is being signed this week and work will begin immediately.

Of brick and masonry construction, the new building will house offices, clubrooms, a large meeting room, kitchen, teenage room, chapel, boiler room and lavatories. It will provide approximately 6,000 square feet of additional operating area. A hallway will connect the addition to the old building. Alteration to the latter will provide more space for the youth department program.

The Metropolitan Detroit Building Fund allocation of $100,000 has been the major contribution. Other funds are expected to come from "Y" members and friends.

The program Sunday is in charge of Joseph Dailey. Special guests will include YMCA officials and local members of the clergy.

Architects for the new structure are Odell, Hewlett and Luckenbach with Harry Denyes supervising.

The quick thinking of a 16-year-old boy, Dale Moncreiff, prevented a tragedy yesterday at Gilbert Lake, according to Bloomfield Township police.

Police Chief Norman Dhenke said the youth was skating near the shore when he saw three girls toward the center of the lake go through the ice.

Moncreiff pulled Susan Gogoon, 13, Linda McCombs, 12, and Jane Durban, 15, from the water. He suffered severe ice cuts about the face and was taken to William Beaumont Hospital for treatment.

Police ask parents to warn children of the dangerous ice condition. Dhenke said the girls had seen two adults skating near shore and had been unaware of the condition of the ice farther out in the lake.

"Actually there was water over some of the ice yesterday," Dhenke said. "Parents should instruct their children that this ice is extremely dangerous. It is only through this type of instruction that we are going to be able to avert tragedy at the lake," he said.

Army Engineers Curb Projects

Rivers, Harbors Work Held Off to Provide Funds for Missiles

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Army Engineers have clamped the brakes on any new spending for rivers and harbors construction projects in a move to provide more money for missile development.

A spokesman for the Engineer Corps said it is holding up all "pork barrel" projects until it finishes reviewing its entire building program "in the light of new budgetary considerations."

It was indicated by other sources that the study is being made at the suggestion — if not the order — of the budget bureau which is searching for every possible means of saving money to pay for vital military research and development work.

One engineer emphasized, however, that there was no battle going on between the corps and the budget bureau over the demand for a cut in spending.

The corps refused to say how much money was involved in the ban on new contracts, but the corps was given $449,398,500 for general construction projects approved by Congress in what is commonly called "pork barrel" authorizations.

Of this total amount, the budget bureau said it held up $6 to $5 million dollars at the start as a reserve fund which could be paid out to the Engineer Corps later if great need could be shown. Such a reserve at the start of a fiscal year is a normal occurrence.

The Engineer Corps has had approximately five months — ever since July 1 — however, in which to award new contracts on the rivers and harbors projects and it is not known how much of the appropriation is left.

Dag 'Global Fireman'

Dampens Mideast Crisis

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The "global fireman," U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, has once again damped down an explosive international situation in the Middle East.

Hammarskjöld, who thinks nothing of hopping a plane for a faraway point at a moment's notice, dashed off to the Middle East last Friday at the first rumblings of the Jordanian-Israeli dispute.

BAN DROPPED

In characteristic Hammarskjöld manner, no rumors or news leaked out about the progress of his mission until the announcement that Jordan had been persuaded to drop her ban on the Israeli shipment of supplies to Mt. Scopus.

Often called a "diplomat's diplomat," the Swedish peace-maker believes implicitly in the value of what he terms "quiet diplomacy."

Shunning headlines and fiery speeches, the handsome blond U. N. official carries on his real work through private talks. A key to Hammarskjöld's technique is his persistence in emphasizing the areas of agreement rather than allowing the disputing parties to get bogged down in their disagreements.

ROCKETS TO FAME

In the past few years, the secretary general has rocketed to fame because of his role as mediator in the Middle East. However, it was his "mission to Peiping" in 1955, resulting in the release of the 15 American flyers imprisoned in Red China, that gave the world the first dramatic demonstration of the secretary general's abilities.

Hammarskjöld, who was unanimously re-elected to a second five-year term as secretary general in September, originally was the "dark horse" candidate of Britain and France when the Security Council stood deadlocked for many months over a successor to Trygve Lie, first U. N. chief.

When notified of his election, he stated bluntly that he accepted the post "with great reluctance" and could "think of nicer things than becoming secretary-general." But Hammarskjöld gives no sign he dislikes his back-breaking job.

The U. N. literally has become the all-consuming interest of the 53-year-old bachelor, who has successfully used his diplomatic skill to avoid traps set for him by women the world over.

Hammarskjöld is a fervent T. S. Eliot fan, and one of his close friends once remarked that perhaps the intellectual Swede never had found a woman who was well enough versed on the complicated British poet.

Top traffic experts in Detroit told Common Council impatience has distorted the sense of time of expressway drivers.

Seeks Enlarged West Point

Army to Ask Congress Next Year to Allow 50 Pct. More Students

WASHINGTON (U)—The Army is preparing plans to expand West Point to accommodate possibly 50 per cent more students.

Officials said there is no possibility that legislation to carry out any such plan could be offered Congress for at least a year. Behind the idea is the Army's desire that half of all its future incoming regular officers be academy graduates.

To keep the officer corps at its authorized strength of 39,000, the Army needs about 1,600 new second lieutenants annually. The present military academy, with its total authorized strength of 2,496 cadets, graduates only about 530 annually.

One of the possibilities now being discussed would involve establishing several subcampuses on the West Point reservation, where 1, 1959.

Merchants Seek Aid to Relieve Shoplifting

LANSING (U)—Michigan merchants have asked the state to relieve a 12-million dollar headache brought on by shoplifters.

Otis Cook, executive secretary of the Michigan Retailers Assn., told a legislative study committee Wednesday that shoplifters pilfer goods worth about that much every year.

But merchants, he said, aren't adequately protected by state law and face the threat of lawsuits for false arrest unless the suspected culprit is caught with the goods in his possession.

Rep. Thomas J. Whinery (R-Grand Rapids), committee chairman, asked Albert Perlin Jr., general counsel for the J. L. Hudson Co. of Detroit, to draw up a bill designed to give merchants better protection against lawsuits. It may be introduced to the legislature next year, Whinery said.

Perlin said shoplifting losses at the Hudson department stores add up to about a million dollars a year.

Inventor Samuel F. B. Morse established the first underwater telegraph line in the United States in 1842. It was on "the floor" of New York harbor.

Arrest Man Speeding to Talk on Traffic Safety

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (U)—Clayton Harmon of Asheville arranged a program on traffic safety for his men's club meeting last night and was to introduce the speaker, a highway patrol sergeant.

The red-faced Harmon apologized for being late. In his rush to get to the meeting, he was arrested by the highway patrol for speeding.

In the market at the time were proprietor John Short, 63, and his wife, Florence, 56.

Short told Lt. Valoris Scott of the Hazel Park Police that he wrestled the gun away from one of the men, but lost it when he was punched by the other bandit.

He said he was in the back of the store and his wife was behind the counter when the gunmen entered. Hearing a commotion, he ran to the front and started to scuffle. The money was taken from the cash register.

No Further Aid Needed for Crippled Freighter

HONOLULU — The crippled freighter Margarita Chandris steamed alone and unaided toward Honolulu today with the dangers of Hurricane Nine far astern. The Coast Guard Cutter Winnie-bago withdrew its escort yesterday when the freighter messaged it was having no difficulty and could proceed alone. It should arrive here late tomorrow or early Monday.

The ship, with 31 men aboard, had radioed in distress Tuesday, reporting it was unable to maintain full power and was "out of control" near the raging hurricane.

Winkles Home? Sir Winston Charity Collector

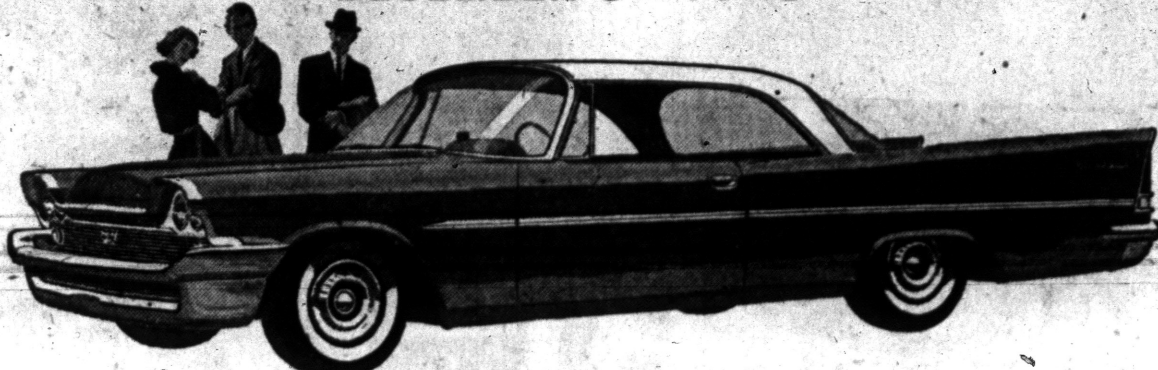

HASTINGS, England — Sir Winston Churchill caught two Hastings aldermen without their winks yesterday and earned one shilling — 14 cents — for charity. The 83-year-old statesman had just been made a freeman of the seaport city. He suddenly reached into a pocket, produced a golden winkle and demanded, "Winkle up!"

Golden winks are the badge of the Hastings Winkle Club, founded by the city's fishermen for the benefit of poor children. Any member caught without his badge has to fork over sixpence (7 cents) for the kids.

Two embarrassed aldermen of the eight present had left their winks at home. They paid up. Diesel-powered sled trains are used to bring heavy equipment in to the new mining projects in northern Manitoba.

Indonesia Seeks Oil-Rich Island

Childless Couple Finds Key to Happiness on Christmas

Dutch Invested Heavily in West New Guinea Oil Since 17th Century

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Indonesia has been trying to get West New Guinea and its oil riches away from the Dutch ever since Indonesia won independence from the Netherlands in 1949.

The Netherlands excluded West New Guinea in its grant of independence to the East Indies but promised to negotiate on its future status within a year.

Negotiations at The Hague got nowhere and Indonesia carried its case to the United Nations, where the matter rests without decision. The Dutch have been planted in West New Guinea since the 17th century. They have heavy investments there, not only in oil production but in local industry. With some U.S. and British capital, the Dutch have been developing West New Guinea's oil resources. Production in 1955 amounted to 3,412,000 barrels.

West New Guinea has a population of 700,000, mostly Puaans, spread over 160,000 square miles. The Dutch have sent in teachers, set up schools and say they will give New Guineans a measure of self-rule as soon as conditions permit.

Indonesians began hinting they might use force, if necessary, to take West New Guinea shortly before the U.N. opened debate on the issue this fall. President Sukarno told a mass rally Nov. 13 that Indonesia must force if the issue is rejected by the United Nations.

But the U.N. General Assembly on Nov. 29 refused even to urge Indonesia and the Netherlands to get together and settle the dispute. A resolution urging negotiations failed to get a majority. The Indonesian government then began putting the squeeze on the Dutch with restrictive measures and a protest strike against Dutch firms.

Australia controls East New Guinea under a U.N. trusteeship. Not so well developed, this 63,000-square mile area has not yet been directly involved in the Dutch-Indonesian dispute.

BANGOR, Me. (INS) — James Ramsey, 101, was refused citizenship papers 40 years ago because of technicalities. But the red tape was finally unsnarled today and the Newfoundland native has been informed he will become a full-fledged citizen next month.

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Waterford Township's perennial Santa Claus team, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aderholdt, will soon begin their 20th consecutive year of spreading the Christmas spirit in the township.

These two happy people, who live at 4156 Dixie Highway, have become a legend in the area because of their love for children.

and all the fun that goes with making them happy at Christmastime. The Aderholdts lost their only child when she was two years old.

Thousands of cookies are baked by Mrs. Santa Claus each year, to be wrapped in bright cellophane and given to children.

About the middle of December, the telephone begins to ring, with folks telling "Santa Claus" and his wife, where toys for their children will be hidden.

On Christmas Eve, the couple steal silently into garage or basement, load up with toys and enter the front door of residents' homes, amid jingle bells and much "Ho-Ho-ing."

Most of the little folks are thrilled by a personal visit of the legendary pair, but occasionally a little one is frightened by the sudden appearance of the two.

"Through the years we have learned to calm down a little, and handle the situation with as much tact and diplomacy we can muster—in order to gain the confidence of a startled child," Mrs. Santa explained.

The Aderholdts first began to go "Santa Clausing" when their many nieces and nephews were little. Now the relatives have grown up and branched out with children of their own, who invite all the neighborhood kiddies in when Mr. and Mrs. Claus are expected.

Demand for their services grew to such proportions that the pair a few years ago established a small fee to strangers. Didn't help much, however, as the telephone still rings and rings. Regulars from earlier years get first attention.

Older people, those who are "shut-ins," are high on the list for regular calls.

"We dream of Christmas all year long," Mrs. Aderholdt says.

Everywhere in the big house in Drayton Plains there are signs of happy anticipation for the approaching holiday season—in a home that could be very dull without the happy laughter of children at Christmas time.

Silver is the best conductor of electricity with copper next.

Only STEEL can do so many jobs so well

Check Your Answers With These

The following are the correct answers and explanations to the Pot-O-Gold puzzle that appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (2) CLOSE. By careful shopping a woman can make the most of her CLOSE budget, which is restricted, or limited, in funds for everything, including clothes.

B. (3) BRISTLE. When Gristle, the tough fiber of meat, gets caught in the teeth, a toothpick usually will get it out. But a BRIS-

TLE from a toothbrush is so tiny, it is often hard to find exactly where it is and equally hard to remove it.

C. (6) DISPLAYING. If the storekeeper were not DISPLAYING his merchandise—showing it—the customers would have no way of knowing how Dismaying, or discouraging, it was in its inferior quality.

D. (8) BOOK MART. An avid reader is likely to have a favorite little store where they sell books, perhaps second-hand ones which can be bought cheaply. In general, more people note the page where they stopped reading, rather than use a Bookmark—a small strip of some material—to mark their place.

E. (9) RETINUE. It is nowadays taken for granted that the wealth of rulers in small oil-rich kingdoms is fabulous, with all the Western oil companies paying Revenue. But since these Moslem kings have many wives and concubines, in addition to the customary attendants, their RETINUE or following is the thing that would amaze those accustomed to a Western style of living.

F. (12) FENNEL. Dog's FENNEL is a weed with a disagreeable odor that certainly would not add to the attractiveness of a garden. A dog's Kennel, neatly carpentered and painted, can be made to blend very nicely with its surroundings.

G. (14) DESPERATE. Many nations offer suggestions for disarmament that are reckless in nature since they provide no check-up on both sides keeping a "paper agreement." The plans are not DISPARATE—all different—because whole blocs of nations would share each point of view.

H. (15) INHABITED. Life was grim in early New England towns that were lived in by Pilgrims, who created them. It was the people, rather than towns, who were repressed, or inhibited.

I. (17) TOURNEY. A TOURNEY, a contest in which knights on horseback met in combat to prove their skill, was usually held at the invitation of some nobleman who sent heralds even to foreign countries to invite competitors. Naturally much preparation was required for such an elaborate entertainment and many guests. A Journey, whether by stagecoach or horseback, was certainly less complicated to arrange, in spite of the difficulties of travel.

J. (19) CONTENT. A wife usually needs to have her husband's Consent, or give his approval, for a new wing on the house, but his consent may be reluctantly given. However, she would be glad to have her husband well-pleased about it, that is, CONTENT.

K. (22) MURMUR. An ominous MURMUR among his close associates would alarm a dictator. Such grumbling could lead to a conspiracy against him. A Murder might be the result of a feud that did not affect the dictator.

L. (24) WHIRRING. The great WHIRRING noise of an airplane at take-off adds more to the sense of excitement for a small boy than just watching the propeller speed up in its Whirling, when its blades become almost invisible.

M. (25) PRIOR. The PRIOR is the head of a monastery, and it would be he, rather than a Friar, or one of the monks, who would grant hospitality to a weary traveler.

N. (28) MATURED. Fruit trees must be perhaps five years old before they really bear good crops. In these days of manufactured fertilizer, orchards, and gardens are not always Matured, or fertilized with stable refuse.

O. (30) ANGUISHING. A man who has been convicted unjustly would be suffering mental torment in prison, which would be heart-breaking to his family as well. Since our modern prisons have a humane regard for their prisoners' welfare, Anguishing, or a physical deterioration, is not so likely.

P. (31) SALIENT. At a medical convention many doctors read papers they have written on special subjects. Their SALIENT observations—those that attract notice—impress people, and are usually reported in newspapers. They are not necessarily Sapient observations—due to superior wisdom—but are the result of hard work and experiments.

Q. (33) HOAX. The man who is life of the party likes nothing better to fool somebody for a big laugh, and will spend time thinking up a deceptive trick. With Jokes, such as funny stories, there is apt to be more competition.

R. (36) FOUNDED. A well-FOUNDED report of a shake-up in a foreign government would be news, and correspondents would try to be first to report it as accurate. The well-Rounded report, with background material, is less concerned with speed than with a thorough checking of facts.

S. (38) EVASION. The avoiding of an algebra lesson, one which covered questions asked on the exam, would cause trouble for a boy who had played hooky. Evasion "in an algebra problem" would be more likely phrasing than equation "of an algebra lesson."

T. (39) ALLUSION. A reference to "her man" that builds him up as a hero is certain to please a woman in love, since it proves that her opinion is shared by others. An Illusion is something that she mistakenly believes herself, but her pleasure in believing it is dimmed when others do not agree. (Copyright 1957)

Success Linked to Decisions

Seaway Tolls Fateful

DETROIT (AP)—The president of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Assn. says decisions by the Canadian and United States governments "may determine for the next five to 10 years the success or failure of the seaway's original purposes."

N. R. Danielian said in a speech to the Detroit Tomorrow Committee that "most of the opinions expressed on the Canadian side are in behalf of no tolls or low tolls, whereas most of the pressures on the U.S. side emanating from the former opponents of the seaway have been for higher tolls."

Danielian said studies "show that the use of the seaway is marginal and that in the case of bulk cargoes, a few cents either way will tip the scales in favor of the alternate Atlantic coast route."

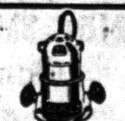

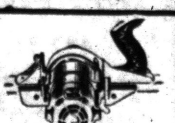

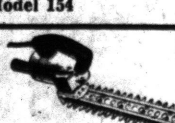

"We cannot," he said, "be merely historical, political or dogmatic about a complex economic problem that is constantly changing." He added: "We must hopefully take the position that competitive realities of today and tomorrow will be carefully weighed."

Hopes to Send Youths Abroad

Michigan Professor in Long Struggle to Get Orchestra to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Joseph E. Maddy was ready today to unveil a new gimmick in his long and fruitless struggle to take his National Youth Orchestra to a European tour.

But the State Department appeared adamant in its determination not to spend any public funds to send the high school youngsters abroad.

Maddy, a University of Michigan music professor, is president of the National Music Camp of Interlochen, Mich. Teenage musicians from around the country gather there for eight weeks of music-making each summer.

He has long sought to send a select group of the youths behind the Iron Curtain on a good-will concert tour. Now, he wants a 100-piece orchestra from the camp to represent the United States at an international festival of youth orchestras in Brussels, Belgium.

And Maddy had a stunt ready to prove his proteges' musical proficiencies at a meeting with State Department officials in the office of Michigan's Sen. Potter this afternoon.

He has phonograph records of two Richard Strauss compositions—"Till Eulenspiegel" and "Death and Tribulation"—played by the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra of Philadelphia and his National Youth Orchestra.

"Pick which one is which," Maddy defied the State Department.

Extra Yule Gift for 578 Students: Plush $1,500,000 New Milford High

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

MILFORD — Five hundred and seventy-eight Milford teenagers are eagerly looking forward to moving into their new 1½-million dollar high school soon after Christmas.

Designed to be a community center as well as an educational institution, the new school is situated a quarter of a mile west of North Milford road and is spread over four acres of the 30-acre site.

Many young people have driven out in their old jalopies and had "sneak previews" of the magnificent building, long before this week's student tours were scheduled.

A long boulevard type road brings pupils from the main highway to the entrance of the school. Here, black-topped pavement provides parking facilities for almost 100 cars.

To the north of the school, there is additional space for some 400 more automobiles. This space will eventually be used for driver-training during the day.

SCENIC VIEW

be seen through the window both to the right and left. An unusual brick fireplace is centered in the glass wall, with a steel chimney on the outside.

Comfortable lounge chairs, lamps, tables and planters are predominant in the huge lobby — a far cry from drafty entrance halls of other years.

Around the corner is a big dining room, which can be converted to an all-purpose room for special functions. Here again is one entire wall of glass from the floor to the ceiling, with an indoor-outdoor planter for added beauty. The walls are painted a pale pink.

In the kitchen, everything is stainless steel. The dividing wall between the serving area and the kitchen was eliminated from the plans so that pupils may view food-preparing activities.

The stacked-ovens, automatic pressure cookers, dishwashers and 20-gallon pots would have staggered a school chief of 20 years ago.

A big 10 by 10 foot cooler can maintain an even temperature of 40 degrees, while the walk-in freezer gets down to 40 below zero. The storage room back of the kitchen will be stocked to resemble a modern supermarket.

Across the entrance hall in the new building is a theater-type auditorium for concerts, plays and special presentations. The seats are comfortable, acoustics good and the stage equipment professional.

ACTIVITY ROOMS

Adjoining the rear of the stage are choral group activity rooms with storage space for all types of costumes. Under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Beam, one of the finest boy and girl singing choruses has been practicing in a small classroom in the old high school — when there wasn't another class in session there.

One of the most breathtaking features of this structure is the gymnasium. Roll-away bleachers with seating capacity for 1,750 spectators are stored in special adjoining rooms when not in use.

Locker rooms are all ceramic-tiled in color, as are the girls' locker rooms.

A full equipped air-conditioned press box is built up in the north corner of the gym, and is reached by a circular spiral stairway. Through a plate glass window, sports activities may be seen from any angle.

Hundreds of people had been turned away from basketball games held in the old Milford high school due to lack of space for spectators.

Those who were lucky enough — and early enough — sat on plank seats so close to the playing court that many times a "Redskin would hit the dust" — and land in the lap of a spectator.

And the teenagers are not the only ones anticipating the happy move.

Band director Phil Haddrell has been teaching youngsters how to make music for more than 10 years. In an old schoolhouse which was moved to the rear of the present high school.

Some 60 musicians were jammed in the tiny room and often a delicate-toned flute would be drowned out by a blustering tuba player, sitting practically on the same chair.

HAS PRIVATE OFFICE

All that is a thing of the past. Haddrell now will have his own private office with audio-equipment at the touch of his fingertips.

Six practice rooms, big uniform cupboards and open-shelved music racks are included back of the main band auditorium. All have been soundproofed.

With an emphasis being put on scientific advancement, Huron Valley officials have included rooms with equipment far in advance of present day facilities.

A glass "knock-out" wall in the biology room permits pupils to experiment with plants and animals out in the open, the year round. The fish tanks and growing beds make the study of birds and bees a pleasure.

An intricate heating, lighting, water and sewer system runs underground. It is enclosed in a concrete tunnel 8 feet high and 16 feet wide, which is completely illuminated for servicing. Automatic gas-fired hot water heats the building.

Contour seats, making it impossible to turn around and durable plastic attaching desks are color-matched to each of the 30 individual classrooms in the building.

Superintendent Harold Hansen and the Huron Valley Board of Education have spent many months of toil on the new school. And one of the people who has promoted hundreds of practical as well as dollar-saving ideas is Assistant Superintendent Erwin Johnson.

From the time the school was in the blue-print stage, he and his wife, Avalyn, now deceased, studied, made personal surveys and practically lived with the plans.

This high school is just one of many modern educational institutions mushrooming up all over the country. But for Milford teenagers, this one — its the most!

NEW MILFORD HIGH SCHOOL — Shortly after Christmas, Milford students will be adjusting themselves to the plush surroundings and atmosphere of this brand new school building. Recently completed, the school was constructed at a cost of around a million and a half dollars.

Lake Orion Pair Weds; Journeys to Indiana

MRS. MARTIN J. BUSHMAN — Following an Indiana honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Bushman will make their home on Broadway street.

For her morning wedding the bride, the former Sheila Cluff, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace with chapel train, featuring a pleated nylon tulle panel and tapered sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of large white chrysanthemums centered by two red orchids and encircled with Oregon holly.

The twin sister of the bride, Mrs. Lawrence Longpre, was matron of honor while Trudy Claussen, Mrs. Harry Shoup, Mrs. Chester Bushman Jr., Mrs. Daniel Gedert and Mrs. Larry Denis served as bridesmaids.

Larry Denis was best man and Ronald Pageau, Gerald Bowland, Chester Bushman Jr. and Daniel Gedert ushered.

The bridegroom's twin nieces Sheila and Sharon Gedert were flower girls. Billie Bushman was ringbearer.

The Rev. George E. Ging officiated before more than 600 guests at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

At noon, a small reception breakfast was held at Club Rochester. An evening reception for all guests was held at the Helene Hall in Pontiac.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Pilon of Long Lake boulevard, was employed at Utica Bend in Utica.

The bridegroom, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bushman Jr., reside at 54 Elizabeth St., is the owner of Ellen's Specialty Shop.

Protest Letter Goes to Mackie

WALLED LAKE COUNCIL Hits Stopping Extension of Northwestern

WALLED LAKE — The City Council here is protesting plans by the State Highway Department for abandoning the extension of Northwestern highway. Councilmen went on record with a unanimous request that a letter of protest be sent to Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

In other business, the council acknowledged a petition from the residents of Leon road for blacktopping that street. It will be included in the work to be done in 1958.

Councilmen learned also that Bolton street is open now to through traffic. Yield right of way signs have been installed at four places in the Tri A subdivision and at three spots in Carole Acres. Stop signs are being installed on Market at Barnston.

The city will install Christmas decorations and a tree at the memorial at the point. This will be done under the supervision of Councilman William Nixon.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is being contacted regarding other decorations.

The council voted to give city employees the regular Christmas checks and to again keep an area on Walled Lake, back of Taylor's lot, cleared for ice skating.

The sidewalk ordinance was tabled for further study, but the council voted to have an estimate made of the cost of a water filter for the Tri A and Carole Acres subdivisions. Water commissioner Harold Ackley reported that a water sample is being tested.

In the future all firemen's cars will be identified by signs, and an auxiliary pump, additional hose, boots and coats have been purchased.

Science Faculty Group Marks First Birthday

ROCHESTER — The Oakland County Science Teachers Association Wednesday night celebrated its first anniversary at a meeting in the new Rochester High School.

Among the guests were members of the Detroit Engineering Society who, along with county science instructors, made a first hand inspection of lab facilities at the recently completed two million dollar school.

The group, organized last year through the efforts of Cecil Myers of Waterford High School, seeks to have a leading specialist in industry and science at each monthly session.

At Rochester, Dr. R. C. Gibson of the Parker Rust Proof Co. demonstrated the use of a kit showing phosphate coating of metal surfaces.

Clarence Hartung of the Rochester High faculty was host at the meeting.

The association will hold its next meeting Jan. 30 at the Farmington High School.

Huge Turkey to Grace Governor's Yule Table

LANSING — The State's largest turkey, a 45-pounder named "Michigan Tom," will be the main entry on the Christmas dinner table of Gov. Williams and his family.

Doris D. Moyer, secretary of the Michigan Turkey Growers Association, at its annual business meeting here Thursday said the big bird will be presented to the Governor by the association.

The turkey was raised by Arnel VanderKolk of the Pine Creek Turkey Hatchery near Holland. About 10 pounds will be lost when the turkey is dressed out and processed for eating, Moyer said.

Bank Robber Eludes Police

Mutilated U.S. Money and Canadian Currency Taken in Grand Blanc

GRAND BLANC — State Police called off road blocks in the Flint area today after failing to trap an armed man who robbed the First State and Savings Bank of Grand Blanc.

Troopers said the gunman escaped with between four and five thousand dollars in Canadian currency and mutilated American money.

"He might as well have a sack of three-dollar bills," a trooper said. "That money will be easily spotted in this area."

The tattered American money was to be retired from circulation. The Canadian currency is conspicuous except in border cities.

Courtland Hall of Holly, assistant manager of the bank, said the gunman came into the building yesterday, hung around until customers left and then asked about a small loan.

Hall said moments later the man pulled a gun and declared: "I want all the money I can get and as quick as I can get it, I don't care about denominations." Hall said he scooped up loose cash from two teller windows and gave it to the gunman who fled in a car.

Rochester Set for Ben Jones Goodfellow Bid

ROCHESTER — The annual Ben Jones Goodfellow newspaper sales drive will be held in Rochester and Avon Township today, tomorrow and Sunday. The goal is $3,000.

For over 30 years the paper sale was handled alone by the late Ben Jones, but in 1947 he solicited the help of the Metropolitan Club and it has been carried on in his memory each year. The spirit of the founder still lives on and the volunteer Goodfellows will try to provide a merry Christmas for every needy child in the area.

The Goodfellows and members of the Metropolitan Club, made up of Rochester, Brooklands and Avondale firemen, postal employees, policemen and anyone who will give a few hours of his time to sell the papers.

Fire Chief George Ross Sr. will act as chairman of the sale and John Albertson as co-chairman. Fire Chief Harold Graves of Brooklands and Chief Harold Miller of Avondale will head the drives in their areas.

Part of the funds from the paper sale will provide the annual Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 21 for 350 or more needy children. Christmas baskets also will be provided from the paper funds. Police Chief Sam Howlett will act as a clearing house for names of needy families.

Goodfellow Edition in Highland Saturday

HIGHLAND — Tomorrow is Goodfellow Day here. Beginning at noon, members of the Highland Township Fire Department will be in the streets making their annual Goodfellow newspaper sales drive to help the needy.

Drive chairman George Volkert says they'll stay out until they sell all their 900 papers. They hope to raise at least $500, he says.

Most of the money will be used to make up Christmas baskets of clothing, food and other necessities for needy township families. And money left over goes into the department's welfare fund, to be used to aid hardship cases throughout the year.

Volkert says clothing and toys people wish to donate to needy families for Christmas also will be accepted by firemen. Call him at MU 4-4383 or John Winners of the Highland Police, MU 4-4368, and the items will be picked up.

The increases were in the form of butter and cheese. Less dried milk is being bought.

Goodfellows in Troy Sell Papers Today

Police Chief David Grattop said the paper sale until the last two years had been their only fund-raising item.

Grattop added that food baskets during the holidays and other assistance throughout the year has been scheduled to help many families.

Teenager's Complaints Indicate Growth

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Five weeks before Nina G.'s 15th birthday, her parents offered to give her a party.

She accepted delightedly. But several days later when her mother asked her guest list, she said she hadn't had time to think about it. The next afternoon, pressed again for the list, she suddenly turned on her mother.

Flushing, Nina cried, "Do you think I want kids I don't know well to see that old carpet in the upstairs hall? Do you think I want them to discover I haven't got a bathroom of my own? I have some pride. Goodness, Mother, you're dense sometimes!"

Mrs. G. was so hurt she didn't answer. Later, after telling her husband the party was off, she said, "Harry, could we turn Nina's clothes closet into a bathroom for her? So many young people nowadays have their own bathrooms."

Though Mr. G. doesn't want to rebuild his house, he promised to take this suggestion seriously.

This does not seem too intelligent to me.

Nina's attack on her one-bathroom home is simply a new variation of general adolescent dissatisfaction with what we can give them.

We cannot remove it. The truth is, we shouldn't want to satisfy the adolescent child. He is preparing to leave us and find satisfactions in what people other than his parents can give him.

It is part of this preparation to find fault with everything we've got from our politics to the arrangements of our second floor.

When we undertake to add a bathroom to please Nina, we undertake a basically hopeless task. From this point on, she's not going to be wholly content with anything we can give her.

So the way to deal with her complaints is to remind her of this reality and say, "We're sorry we can't afford to give you a private bathroom. Someday you'll have a house of your own that may give you one."

The adolescent complains of what we give him because he is a hatching creature. When a butterfly starts tearing at the chrysalis that has sheltered it, we don't feel obliged to patch up the cracks in the shell.

We just let it peck and tear as part of its struggle toward adult existence.

Government run by women is called gynarchy.

Honey Keeps Cakes and Cookies Moist

Many housewives like to cook with honey. They know cakes and cookies made with honey remain moist. In using honey, reduce the liquid in the recipe by one-fourth cup for each cup of honey substituted for a cup of sugar.

Also use one-fourth to one-half teaspoon soda for each cup of honey. This is in addition to the baking powder.

Postmastership Isn't Easy to Fill

U.S. Strives 6 Years to Find Somebody for Charlotte Job

WASHINGTON (U)—The government is having trouble in filling the postmastership at Charlotte, Mich.—a job that pays $5,280 a year.

The postmaster at Charlotte (population 6,606 in the 1950 census) retired Dec. 31, 1951. His place was taken by Ward H. Keeney, who served as acting postmaster until March 31, 1953, when the job was turned over to Orrin E. Packard.

Acting postmasters are appointed by the Post Office Department to serve temporarily until the job can be filled by someone who is appointed by the President under civil service rules.

This involves examination by the Civil Service Commission of qualifications of applicants, selection of three eligibles, appointment of one of them by the President, and Senate confirmation of the appointment.

All of this usually takes a year or so. But seldom does it take the more than six years that will have elapsed before the Charlotte job is filled.

INVITES APPLICANTS

Three times the Civil Service Commission, acting at the request of the Post Office Department, has invited applicants for the job. After the first examination, Keeney and Packard were certified by the commission to be the only eligible applicants.

Under the civil service rules, the Post Office Department is entitled to ask the commission for another examination whenever less than three eligibles are certified for an appointment.

In Charlotte's case, the second and third requests for applicants resulted in no one other than Keeney and Packard applying. While the commission isn't saying anything about this angle, both are reported to be over the 55-year age limit for first, second, and third class postmasters, except for those with veterans' preference.

What's to be done is up to the Post Office Department. It hasn't said. Meanwhile, Packard is postmaster-acting, that is.

Japan, Russia Sign Big Trade Agreement

TOKYO (U)—Japan and the Soviet Union today signed a commerce treaty expected to more than quadruple their trade to 28 million dollars a year each way. The signing at the Japanese Foreign Office followed almost three months of negotiation. The treaty becomes effective after it is ratified by the Japanese Diet this month, and the Soviet government.

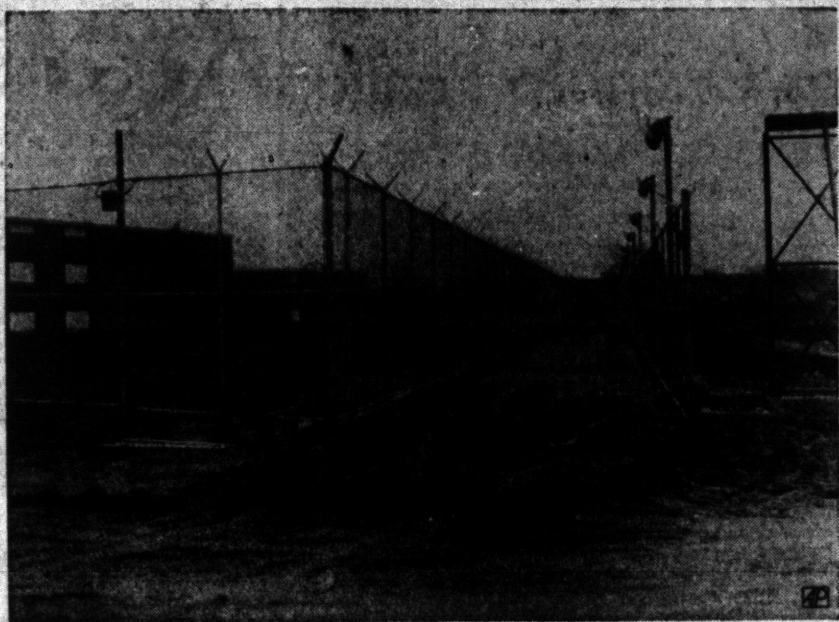

In the first nine months of this year Japanese exports to Russia totaled $4,170,000, while the Soviets sent $3,130,000 worth of goods to Japan. The new pact did not fix the amount of trade, but the Soviet Union agreed to sell Japan timber, manganese and chromium ore, crude oil, precious metals, non-ferrous metals, fertilizer, chemical products, raw textiles, machinery, motion pictures, books and publications, records, and "sundry" goods.

Japan will send the Soviets ships, rolling stock, machinery and equipment, electric equipment and installations, marine products, steel and nonferrous metals, cables, synthetic thread, and chemical products, as well as motion pictures, books and publications, records and sundries. The agreement also provided for establishment of a Soviet trade mission in Japan.

Belgrade Trains Hit; 3 Die, 22 Injured

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (U)—A passenger train entering the Zagreb railway station at full speed last night crashed into a halted freight train, killing at least three persons.

Gasoline cars in the freight train exploded, setting the wreckage afire. Rescue workers said more bodies might be found. Twenty-two persons were reported injured, five seriously.

INTERIOR OF NEW PRISON — This is the interior of one wing of a housing unit of the new medium-security prison at Ionia. Individual rooms, seven by ten feet, will have steel doors with screened windows. The cinderblock interior is painted green, blue and gray-pastels. Sixty persons are accommodated in each wing. Note the absence of bars.

But With New, Different Ideas on Inside

Michigan Prisons Have Strong Bars

By ROGER LANE

JACKSON (U)—Gus Harrison, state corrections director, says "We're interested in any program or activity which potentially can change human behavior for the better—even in a small way."

Does this mean that stone walls, steel bars, guns, explosive tensions and sullen bitterness somehow have been banished from the Michigan prison system, that the riots of 1953 can be forgotten?

Not at all. They all are there, ugly and deeply rooted, and will be for a long time. And mounting prison population pressures leave no room for relaxation or complacency.

But a purposeful, organized effort is being made, where it gives some rehabilitation promise, to change things for the better.

Consider these examples of what Harrison was talking about, leavers to the dull routines and regimentation of prison life:

At Southern Michigan prison and the Ionia Reformatory, some inmates take college courses in English, music and other subjects via a closed television circuit to Michigan State University. (They pay $20 each for college credit courses, $3 for others).

At Ionia, boxing matches are staged, sometimes for the public outside the walls.

At Jackson only last month, "Film Flam for Tonight," a musical comedy written and acted by prisoners, was put on to raise money for chapel furnishings. Tickets were sold to the public.

HOCKEY PLAYED

Marquette Prison has developed a hockey sextet that schedules the Detroit Red Wings. Ionia fielded a football team that went through most of the season unbeaten.

Inmates seek personality development through Dale Carnegie classes at Ionia and Southern Michigan Prison, and through similar Harry Stevenson classes at Marquette.

Hobbycraft is widely practiced, and inmates can get a chance to develop proficiency and pick up pocket money by marketing purses, belts, moccasins and other leather and wood objects.

WELCOME RELIGION

Religious activities are encouraged—in the camps, which combined have a full time chaplain, as well as in the walled institutions.

Alcoholics Anonymous units function for prisoners who stand to benefit.

Organized singing groups, checkers and chess, painting in water colors and oils, newspaper production and a variety of athletic pursuits are stimulated or encouraged.

Discussing hobbycraft, Harrison observed:

"These men are like you and me. If we go home at night and make a stool in the basement, it makes us feel good, gives us pride in tangible accomplishment."

So all these and other extra-curricular activities supplement the regular prison or prison camp work, school or vocational programs, with the aim of better fitting prisoners for a healthy, normal groove in society following release.

STAFF DOUBLED

To give the entire constructive

phase of corrections work a boost, including parole supervision, and to staff the reception center and psychiatric clinic, the corrections department has nearly doubled its professional staff in the last five years.

Of about 1,725 department employees, some 235 now fall into the professional category—as parole and probation officers, teachers, recreation directors, counselors, psychologists, chaplains, psychiatrists and the like.

Parole officers and supervisors with the job of keeping tabs on, and guiding, some 4,300 former prisoners through the readjustment period now number 66, compared with 49 in 1953.

There is an interesting financial aspect, particularly appealing to budget conscious legislators, to the whole picture.

For Michigan to provide sufficient additional maximum security facilities for all corrections prisoners living outside the walls and parolees would require capital outlay of about 80 million dollars.

Arctic to Be Combat Area?

Chief of Navy Reactors Says Battlefield Will Be On, Under Pole

NEW YORK (INS)—Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover called the uncharged expanses of water under the northern ice pack and the reaches of the Arctic Ocean a new battleground for nuclear navies of the not too distant future.

The chief of the naval reactors branch said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Overseas Press Club in New York that atomic power has given the Navy unlimited cruising power to carry missiles with nuclear warheads to any shore.

He called the northern icepacks a new frontier and said "we must learn all about this new sea operating area as quickly as possible in order to be able to counter any threats which may develop in that region."

His remarks on the Arctic were made in reference to the submarine Nautilus which earlier this year cruised 1,393 miles under the Arctic ice pack to come closer to the pole than any ship in history.

"We have learned that we can go anywhere in the Arctic basin in a nuclear powered submarine," Rickover claimed, and the Nautilus voyage to within 180 miles of the pole "will go down as one of history's greatest feats of exploration."

A power failure in the gyro compass was one of the reasons the Nautilus did not reach the pole, Rickover said, in expressing optimism that Capt. William Anderson and his crew will be the first men ever to voyage under the pole.

Air Force Postpones Speed Record Assault

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (U)—The Air Force has postponed until next week its planned assault on the world air speed record.

The attempt to better the record of 1,132.1 m.p.h. held by Great Britain originally was to begin today. But an Air Force announcement late yesterday said it now will be started next Tuesday or Wednesday, depending on wind conditions.

NEW DELHI (U)—The United States boosted by more than two million dollars today its financial aid for India's fight against malaria—which killed about 200,000 Indians last year.

The Indian government and a U. S. technical cooperation mission signed an agreement calling for American help of 8 million dollars next year instead of the 6½ million provided for the current Indian fiscal year. India's new goal is to wipe out malaria instead of keeping it under reasonable control.

A three-year battle will begin next April 1, said B. A. Rao, director of the Malaria Institute of India. He predicted almost complete victory within three years. The present program, aided by American dollars, has cut malaria deaths from an estimated high of 650,000 yearly.

Intensive spraying with modern insecticides can finish malaria, Rao told a news conference.

Hawaii Governor Asks Funds for War Shrine

HONOLULU (U)—Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn today asked public support of a nationwide fund-raising campaign to construct a shrine aboard the sunken battleship USS Arizona.

Quinn also invited the governors of the 48 states to join him in a similar proclamation.

The campaign opens at 7:55 a. m. Saturday—the 16th anniversary of Pearl Harbor—with special memorial services aboard the Arizona. The ship is almost completely submerged in Pearl Harbor.

There are 1,102 men entombed within the Arizona.

Reds Say U.S. F84s Fly Over 2 Nations

MOSCOW (U)—The magazine Soviet Aviation today accused U. S. reconnaissance plane of violating the air space of two Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

The magazine did not give the names of the countries nor the dates of the alleged violations. It said warplanes of the F84 type with American markings flew over the territory of one East European state for 30 minutes recently. Almost at the same time a plane appeared over another country from the direction of West Germany, the magazine said.

Soviet Aviation listed types of American reconnaissance aircraft and said these planes were being prepared at "an accelerated pace for aggressive war."

Since 1950 Arizona's population has risen from 750,000 to 1,150,000.

Don't Choose Hobby Travel Series Goes Next to Portugal and Azores

DENVER (INS) — Denver University Chancellor Chester M. Alter says a hobby should bring out the best in the lazy side of a person. Dr. Alter said, "If you're physically lazy, take up golf. If you're lazy about reading, you can always collect books."

The educator's own hobby is collecting and caring for cacti plants. He has more than 200 varieties of the desert plant in his greenhouse.

Dr. Alter explained, "I'm a lazy gardener. Actually I've little time to devote to caring for plants that are difficult to cultivate. But cacti... they have to be watered only once every two months in the winter. That appeals to me."

Dr. Alter, once a chemist and now an administrator, contends one's hobby shouldn't be closely related to his normal profession. He said it should be something entirely apart, a project that is relaxing, yet broadening.

KARL ROBINSON

The Travel and Adventure Series, sponsored by the Downtown Pontiac Kiwanis Club, will continue its season Tuesday, Dec. 10 with "Portugal, Madeira and The Azores," presented by Karl Robinson.

Throughout the lecture field Robinson is well known. He has made more than 1,500 personal appearances in recent years. Robinson has spent 25 years living and working in foreign fields. His programs reflect the conviction that when we know the peoples of the world well enough to think of them as our neighbors, and acquire a tolerance and appreciation of their customs, we are much nearer the kind of world in which we can live and work in peace and mutual understanding.

He spent the first 10 years of traveling in the Orient and followed this with several years in Alaska. He was one of the last to film China before the Communists took over. Recently he has alternated between Europe and Asia and continues to be a careful observer of both these world areas.

Rudolf Friml Has Birthday, but Which One?

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Tomorrow Rudolf Friml celebrates another birthday and he'll spend it as he has most of his life—improvising.

The survivor of the Herbert Friml-Romberg trio of operetta composers, the Czech-born musician is listed by most authorities as 73. He doesn't really know, but suspects he is older.

"Recently I got a letter from a man in Prague who said he couldn't get records of 'Donkey Serenade' which Friml hates and others of my songs," he said.

"I told him I would send him some if he would look up the official records and see how old I am."

"I hope it turns out I am 95. It would be nice to know I feel so good at such an age!"

There can be no doubt that he feels good. He had just returned to his cliff-hanging Hollywood Hills home from a massage and steam bath on the Sunset Strip. He told of his Palm Desert home where he does gymnastics and rides his bicycle. He displayed a leg wound inflicted by a unfriendly chow dog on a recent bike jaunt.

It's music that seems to keep him young. The Chinese-decorated incense-scented home, where he lives with his Chinese wife, is filled with sheet music and recordings of piano pieces Friml has improvised. He sits at his grand piano for hours, pouring out the music that is in his head.

"Sometimes I think some dead composer is using me to get rid of the music he never wrote," Friml sighed. "Perhaps it is Chopin. I am very much like Chopin."

He said that he might be wandering through the Farmer's Market humming a tune and someone will comment that he appears happy. "I am in pain," the composer replies, and the pain doesn't cease until he gets the tune out on the piano.

U.N. Considers Algerian Issue

Top Political Unit Heads for Vote on Rival Plans to Settle Rebellion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N.'s top Political Committee headed for a vote today on rival resolutions aimed at settling Algeria's three-year-old rebellion against French rule.

Committee approval was expected to go to a watered-down draft by seven pro-French nations that virtually repeats the innocuous resolution voted by the last Assembly.

France—whose insistence that Algeria is her own private affair is supported by Britain and the United States—let it be known she would accept the seven-nation proposal. The French bitterly oppose one by 17 Arab-Asian nations to endorse the Algerians' right to decide their own future.

The seven-nation draft expresses concern that no way has been found to end the revolt and voices hope a "peaceful, democratic and just solution" will be found through appropriate procedures in conformity with the U.N. Charter.

The resolution takes note of both the Tunisian-Moroccan offer to mediate the dispute and recent French legislation to give limited self-government to Algeria. The resolution is sponsored by Spain, Italy, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, Cuba and the Dominican Republic.

The Asian-Arab proposal calls for talks between the French and the rebels and asks the Assembly to recognize that the principle of self-determination applies to the Algerian people.

The French, who oppose any suggestion of Algerian sovereignty, argue that self-determination would result in partition of Algeria and would end plans for a French North African community. France claims Algeria is part of metropolitan France and has asked that she be left alone to solve her problem.

Jade Important in Chinese History

HONG KONG — The whole body of early Chinese civilization is centered around jade. Jade has always occupied the place in Chinese esteem which Western peoples have given to gold and precious stones.

The word, jade, in Chinese shows something of its place in Chinese life. The character for jade means "something belonging to the king." Three lines represent the heavenly kingdom, the human kingdom, and the earthly kingdom. The Emperor is the connecting link between them.

A little spot is placed to indicate that this is something belonging to the Emperor. The symbolism is that jade is the connection between human beings and heaven and that the owner of jade belongs to the noble class.

Merle Oberon's Feeling Very Domestic Now

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Up on the 41st floor of the Waldorf Towers, Merle Oberon was feeling very housewifely.

A fine place to be housewife, too. No garbage men, no milkmen, and such nice room service! Miss Oberon announced that she wants to have a baby—retire from TV and films—and get real domestic (assisted by one Spanish cook and one Mexican cook).

"Gollymoss!" she exclaimed. "There's a rumor I'm expecting. It's not true—but I hope it will be."

Bruno Pagliai, the wealthy Mexico City Italian with steel mills and things whom she married July 28, is in a hospital getting checked-up and his bride said "He's so sweet, I want to make him happy. I want to have children. I want to paint. I've found I like to play card."

Merle Pagliai looked up guiltily. "I always thought it was a waste of time. But Bruno taught me cannasta. You see," added this attractive star, who's 43 in Who's Who, "I've had no life at all. I did 'Henry VIII' and boom, I was a star at 18."

Her husband wants her just to run his big house in Mexico City (she'll keep her home in Hollywood), but CBS TV may ask her to continue "Assignment Foreign Legion," now running here and also in England, where it's been No. 1. "But if I'm going to have a baby, I'll plead Act of God or something!" she warned CBS.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Dress designer Elgee Boye discourages a teenage clientele, because, "It's hard to design a gown for a girl who rides the back seat of a motorcycle." That's earl, brother.

Ava Gardner's Lip Cut; She's Extremely Nervous

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Immediately on the heels of a long distance call from Ava Gardner in Madrid to friends in New York asking them to get her the best surgeon available — Ava herself arrived in the big town. Ava's lip, cut in a spill from a horse, has never properly healed and it has made her extremely nervous.

This news comes straight from someone close to the unhappy brunette actress. Last week she was ready to keep an appointment with an eminent New York physician, but at the last minute canceled that visit. Now she is in the U. S. determined to waste no more time undergoing surgery if necessary.

She cannot make any picture until the stiff lip heals completely, but it's believed that proper medical care will cure her.

12,000 Veterinarians Practicing in U.S.

ROANOKE, Va., (AP) — Animals in America, which outnumber humans better than four to one, have their health guarded by 12,000 practicing veterinarians.

Dr. W. W. Armistead, dean of Michigan State University's veterinary medical school, says there are 18,000 veterinarians but that one-third are teaching, doing research, in government service or with commercial concerns. Of the 12,000 practicing, some 3,000 specialize in pet animal practice.

Service men living abroad, Taylor told the representatives of Protestant and Orthodox churches, "by and large are hard working, dedicated, God-fearing people who have taken as their life's work the prevention of war and the perpetuation of peace."

Common Ground Seen for Soldiers, Clergy, Teachers

ST. LOUIS, Mo., (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, said today soldiers have one thing in common with teachers and clergymen:

If they were principally interested in money they would be in another line of work.

Taylor's talk was prepared for the General Assembly of the National Council of the Churches of Christ.

Servicemen living abroad, Taylor told the representatives of Protestant and Orthodox churches, "by and large are hard working, dedicated, God-fearing people who have taken as their life's work the prevention of war and the perpetuation of peace."
