Truman to Tap His Man Today

Oakland Democrats Pour Into Windy City for Convention Stay

By JOE HAAS

Those two Oakland County stalwarts, Willis M. Brewer of Pontiac, and Carlos Richardson of Waterford, are among the first to arrive. They are considered to be the Mr. Democrats of the county when it comes to convention procedure.

HAAS

The former turned the county chairmanship over to Richardson when he was appointed manager of the Pontiac branch office of the Secretary of State, a juicy plum that came as a reward for his service to the party. He is the first Democrat to hold that job for a generation or two.

Both Brewer and Richardson are among Michigan's 44 delegates, but that only remotely states the case. Willis is considered to be about as close to Governor G. Mennen Williams as other higher ups in state Democratic circles.

I happen to know Soapy confers with him on many matters of statewide importance, and at least one of national scope. He has told me that he considers the Oakland County man to be among the best posted in Michigan, politically and otherwise. Their twosomes are frequent.

Harriman Sees Chance to Win

By JOE HAAS

CHICAGO — The Michigan delegation will be urged by Gov. G. Mennen Williams to throw its support behind Harriman, after the initial ballot, it was indicated here this afternoon.

CHICAGO — Averell Harriman told me last night: "If Stevenson does not win by the second ballot, I expect to be at the head of the ticket in the November election."

* * *

Harriman has little hope of winning on the first or second ballot, but looks for enough favorite son and Kefauver delegates to begin an upward climb in the third ballot.

In my interview with Harriman Friday, he asked more questions than I did. He remembered making the same queries to me four years ago.

"Because you then did not try to jolly me, but talked straight from the shoulder, I'll ask two of the same questions."

THE QUESTIONS

The first was, "Why do you think a wealthy man cannot be elected president?" He recollected that four years ago I told him that a great many people are jealous of financial success, expecially when the foundation for it was inherited.

He agreed with me, but pointed out that he had built well on the financial foundation given him. He feels his contribution to good government in services rendered by himself in high positions should more than offset the feeling against him, "because I not only was born on the right side of the railroad track, but my father owned the track."

The other question was: "What inspires a man of great wealth to seek the highest office in the world?"

* * *

Harriman answered: "Service is the only thing you can give away without wondering if you're doing the right thing. I have found that the most difficult thing in the world is to give away money. Look at the foundations."

Busy Port Said Loves Tourists — and Business

PORT SAID, Egypt (UP) — The sleepy town of Port Said shut down early as usual. By 10 p.m., all shops were closed and most lights were out. A few white-uniformed policemen patrolled lonely beats in the arcaded streets.

An hour after midnight Port Said awakened. Lights blazed again. Horse-drawn carriages clattered through the streets and ancient taxi cabs wheezed past.

Every shop in town had opened its shutters and merchants were talking at mile-a-minute clips in many languages, trying to sell souvenirs of Egypt.

This nocturnal activity, common in Port Said, was caused by one thing—the arrival of a passenger liner loaded with well heeled tourists. It had anchored in the harbor, waiting to pass through the Suez Canal on a trip to the Far East.

* * *

Ships entering the port at night must wait in the harbor till 7 a.m. Then they join the morning convoy for the 14-hour trip south through the waterway under the guidance of canal pilots.

While the ships wait, most tourists go ashore. Merchants, hawkers, vendors and guides descend on them, offering every kind of souvenir from fly whisks to fezzes. For the stay-aboards, merchants roll out in skiffs to sell from the side of the ship.

Headlines of the world's press tell of tension over Egypt's nationalization of the canal, but business goes on as usual for Port Said merchants.

There are two convoys daily—morning and evening—from each end of the canal. At almost the same time a convoy leaves Port Said, another starts from the other end at Suez. All ships must travel in convoy because the canal is too narrow to permit unescorted navigation.

Teenager Kills Himself Playing Russian Roulette

Brother, Buddies Try to Halt Suicidal Game in Living Room

A Keego Harbor teenager killed himself playing Russian roulette last night when he fired a fatal bullet into his head despite warnings of a brother and two companions.

The victim, 17-year-old Allen E. Rickel, of 1801 Sylvan Glen, was pronounced dead shortly after 8 in the Rickel living room where the four youths had been watching television.

An autopsy today will be part of an investigation into the apparently accidental death by State Police and Keego Harbor Patrolmen James Sisk and Dale Halgemo.

Witnesses were Allen's brother, Carl, 13; George Deacon, 18, of 2405 Fordham St., and Earl I. Sawyer, 19, of 3166 Tribham St.

They were unable to explain why Allen fired the shot. They said he failed to heed their warnings to stop pulling the trigger "because it will go off."

The boys said Allen gave no explanation for going to his father's bedroom to get the .32 calibre revolver.

Tests of powder burns and casts of the other boys' hands will be made today.

"It appears to have been accidental," a trooper commented.

The boys told investigators Allen had gone to the bedroom and came out pointing the gun at them.

They said they kept warning him not to. He finally stopped and took five bullets out of the six-shot pistol and then put the gun up to the side of his head.

"The boys said the gun went off at the same time they were yelling at him to stop pulling the trigger," an investigator said.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern C. Rickel, his parents had been out visiting a neighbor at the time.

Canadian Fires Blazing Round in Tam Tourney

CHICAGO (UP) — Al Balding of Erindale, Canada, was off to the week's most sensational start in the "World" golf tournament today, being 7-under-par through the 1st 13 holes of the third round.

While all of the 36-hole leaders were late starters, Balding took off on the rain-soaked Tam O'Shanter course with a 1st nine of 33, three under regulation. Then he strung out successive birdies 4-2-3-3 on the next four holes.

He entered the 3rd round with 146 to be imbedded in a field that included 51 pros who were under par at the halfway point.

Bo Wininger and Cary Middlecoff led the par-busters into the 3rd session with 9-under-par 135s.

Truman's Decision May Sway Convention

Delegates Are Waiting HST's Announcement at 3:30 This Afternoon

CHICAGO (AP)—Harry S. Truman kept Adlai E. Stevenson and Gov. Averell Harriman on the political hot spot today waiting for him to name his preference for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Truman jealously guarded his secret from a succession of callers in advance of a 3:30 p.m. EST news conference.

But most signs pointed toward a pronouncement that—while he regards both Stevenson and Harriman as equally qualified, capable men—he would vote for Harriman if he were a delegate to next week's convention.

Truman is not a delegate, but will address the convention Friday.

WILL BACK NOMINEE

Truman has made it emphatically clear that, come what may, he expects to support and work for the Democratic nominee. With Stevenson presently in a commanding position to win the nomination, associates thought Truman would not want to say anything against Stevenson that might be embarrassing in the general election campaign.

Truman, a political realist, was said by friends to recognize that any personal pat on the back for Harriman would not necessarily result in the New Yorker's nomination.

Stevenson's backers have claimed 630 of the necessary 686½ votes on the first ballot. Harriman's supporters have said they will have 350 to 400. Both claims might be inflated.

The Stevenson camp estimated it might lose 50 votes by a Truman nod to Harriman. Harriman's followers said they could come close to Stevenson's claimed total on the first count.

Whatever his reasons for making it, Truman's endorsement was sure to have a psychological impact on the convention. Truman controls no state delegation, not even that from his home state of Missouri.

4-H Youths Pack Ribbons Away

Hundreds of Oakland County youths will pack ribbons away today, load prize livestock back into trucks and end the 1956 4-H Club Fair.

Behind them, they will leave well-plowed fields, thoroughly-trodden paths between booth sites and the realization among thousands of visitors that the farmers of tomorrow are as skillful at their chosen vocations as any in history.

Last night's carnival and 4-H Cavalcade of Horses drew the largest crowd by far of the five-day run.

50 ENTERED

An impressive array of farm machinery, featuring the latest innovations in power steering, hauling equipment and combines, also drew attention to the area.

Yesterday afternoon, runnersup in the Tractor Field Day contest finished in a tie with Charles Wright of Galloway Lake taking top plowing honors and James Thompson of Milford taking the top tractor operation award.

BYRAN, STORM JUDGE

Second place in the plowing contest went to Lynn Rowe of Gingellville and Thompson took third. Second place in the operational event went to Paul Norland, of Bloomfield Township, with Rowe coming in third.

Robert Bryan, a Pontiac soil conservationist, judged the tractor contest. Supervisor was Leon Storm of Lake Orion.

After horse judging today, the over 2,000 4-H boys and girls will begin to haul their exhibits and animals back home.

The carnival will continue through tonight. The exhibit booths will be closed this afternoon.

Ferndale Teacher Named Principal of Bagley School

A former Ferndale teacher, John F. Perdue, has been named principal of Bagley School by the Pontiac Board of Education.

He is the first Negro to be named a school principal in Pontiac.

Mrs. Golda Holecheck, principal of Bagley School for 20 years, has been named principal of LeBaron School to replace Mrs. Beryl Sherman, who retired in June.

JOHN F. PERDUE

Perdue, 44, will take over duties for the fall semester. He plans to move to Pontiac from his present home in Detroit.

Perdue attended college after service in the Army during World War II. He was graduated from the University of Toledo in 1950 and received a master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1955.

He formerly was associated with an insurance agency in Philadelphia, where he was born.

Perdue has taught seventh and eighth grade subjects at Grant School in Ferndale for seven years.

Oakland Cyclist Killed in Crash

William Burleigh Thrown Head-on Into Oncoming Car on Nine Mile Road

A Madison Heights motorcyclist was killed on E. Nine Mile Road in Warren Township yesterday when thrown into the path of an oncoming car after striking the rear of another car which stopped suddenly.

Police said Burleigh apparently smashed the rear of a car driven by Richard Rucker, 24, of Van Dyke, careened to the other side of the road, and crashed head-on into a car driven by Ezra Meade Jr., 36, of Hazel Park.

Watta Y'no — a Nice Weekend

Partly cloudy with little change in temperature is the prediction for the Pontiac area tonight. The low will be near 60 degrees.

The weather man says tomorrow will be fair and pleasant with a high of 82 to 86 degrees.

In downtown Pontiac, the lowest temperature reading preceding 8 a.m. was 60 degrees. The mercury rose to 82 degrees at 2 p.m.

Legislature Recesses Again

Refuses to Act on Bills to Help Jobless; Sets Sept. 19 to Reconvene

LANSING (UP) — Michigan's Legislature recessed its marathon special session for the fourth time yesterday without acting on Gov. Williams' unemployment compensation proposals.

* * *

The lawmakers agreed to return Sept. 19. In the meantime, they said, they will keep an eye on the unemployment picture.

Rep. George Van Peursem (R-Zeeland), House Labor Committee chairman, said Republican majority members are satisfied the unemployment situation has improved and no emergency action is necessary.

Van Peursem's committee has been studying the governor's plan since the first days of the session in early June.

* * *

"It seems clear to us that the turning point has been reached," Van Peursem said. "We now have reason to hope, barring unforeseen developments, that August — not September—will see us past the peak of the unemployment situation."

Detour on U. S. 25

LANSING (UP) — The State Highway Department said today a detour will start on U.S. 25 Monday near the St. Clair-Sanilac county line. The detour will permit paving of 3.7 miles of the highway.

3 Killed, 8 Injured Near Saugatuck

SAUGATUCK (INS) — Three persons, including a mother of three, were killed instantly and eight others seriously or critically injured early this morning in a headon collision near Saugatuck.

Mrs. Cynthia Sirk, 26, of Watervliet, Jesus Laca, 25, of Holland, and Alejandro Gutierrez, 24, of Holland, were all killed when a car driven by Laca crashed headon into one driven by Mrs. Sirk on U.S. 31. Mrs. Sirk's husband, 32, and daughters, Louandra, 4, and Cynthia, 2, were seriously injured. Her parents, Oscar Smith, 72, and his wife, and Mrs. Sirk's son, William, 10 months, were in critical condition.

Cleveland Pro 11 Crushes College All-Stars 26-0

By BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

CHICAGO—An educated "Toe" and bulldozing "Mo" were weapons the Cleveland Browns used to whip the College All-Stars, 26-0, in a lustreless football game at Soldier Field here last night.

The toe was that of veteran Lou Groza who kicked for 14 of the Browns' 26 points and if was linebusting Ed "Big Mo" Modzelewski who put Groza into kicking position each time.

Groza kicked four field goals in four attempts, plus two extra points. This was a new record for total number of field goals in an All-Star game and also by one individual.

The crowd of 75,000 expected to see a wide-open game after Earl Morrall of Michigan State hit end Harold Burnine of Missouri with a first down pass on the Stars' first play from scrimmage.

Bustling Betsy Rams Toward West Indies

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — Hurricane Betsy, packing winds up to 120 m.p.h., howled near the tiny island of Dominica in the British West Indies today.

In a 6 a.m. advisory, the San Juan, P. R., weather bureau said the season's first Atlantic hurricane was centered about 450 miles east-southeast of San Juan and was moving west-northwest at 16 m.p.h. The center was about 1,516 miles southeast of Miami.

* * *

Small craft in the Leeward and Windward Islands should remain in port, the advisory said. A hurricane watch is in effect for Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

It's Easy? . . . to Get Rid of Starlings

"Well I'll be a dirty bird . . ."

Grin until it hurts when you utter that phrase, neighbor and be quick to assure all within earshot that the bird whose identity you have just taken on is indeed only a robin that toppled into a sooty chimney.

* * *

Otherwise, some tormented bystander might take you for a starling.

In more lucid moments the bystander probably would mourn the demise of an annoying fly, squashed under his hand in an instant of anger. But if you could see into his mind, a Chinese torture chamber would seem like a bower of violets.

He might set traps, ones that would grasp you painfully so your screams would frighten away others like you. Maybe he'd pound tin cans together, hoping the din will make you nervous enough to seek other resting places.

Or he might be merciful and just shoot you.

These are just a few of the suggestions which flowed into the ears of Press staffmen Thursday and yesterday after an article asking for community action against new droves of the pests.

'NOT POPULAR'

The "sturnus vulgaris," as he is known to scientists and possibly to the many to whom starling is too nice a word, "is not regarded as one of the more popular of our bird species" as one encyclopdic account so subtly put it.

In fact, it was the decade's prize understatement if the calls that reached the Press are a fair gauge.

One reader, a veteran of sleepless nights under the limbs of a tree much sought after by generations of the garrulous birds, assured us a muskrat trap anchored in the branches is a sure-fire deterrent.

The object is to capture one (a bird, not a muskrat) and let its distress cries terrify the others away. He didn't explain how he slept while the starling wailed.

A similar campaign was carried out recently in another Michigan city where starlings, situated in strategic trees around the area, made late afternoons a nerve-racking period with their cacaphonies of restless chirping. On rainy days the smell of wet feathers would permeate right through a wool coat.

Both Sides Await Harry's Blessing

Harriman Sure He'll Be Tagged

Even Opponents Hint New York Governor Has Inside Track

CHICAGO (AP)—This promised to be a fateful day for the presidential ambitions of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

* * *

By nightfall the veteran New Dealer could be catapulted into a position of strong contender for the Democratic nomination or be knocked out of the picture.

All depended on whether former President Truman would favor him over front-running Adlai Stevenson when the "elder statesman" of the party makes his preference known this afternoon.

As the party's only living former President, Truman's word was bound to have considerable weight with the delegates jamming into Chicago for the opening of the convention Monday.

* * *

Reports spread unofficially, even from a source close to Stevenson, that Truman would come out for Harriman, barring a last minute change of mind. The Stevenson forces stoutly contended they had the strength to win regardless.

But Harriman's headquarters here radiated optimism that a Truman endorsement for the New Yorker would start a swing that would give him the nomination.

Truman declined to tip his hand pending his news conference, and the Harriman forces professed not to have any inkling from him.

* * *

While keeping their fingers crossed, they buoyed their hopes by recalling that Truman is a long-time personal friend of Harriman, that Harriman served under him as ambassador to London and secretary of commerce, and that Harriman long has hewed to the New Deal-Fair Deal philosophy.

They grasped, too, for possible significance in some of Truman's remarks of the past few days. He said he wanted a fighter as the nominee, and then described Harriman as a fighter. He said he was not a "bandwagon" man, an indication he would not support a man solely because he was out in front.

On the other hand, Truman is a strong Democratic party man. Some figured he might hesitate to endorse Harriman since that could lead to a big floor fight that might damage party unity.

* * *

These and similar questions brought endless discussions among the early convention arrivals as they awaited Truman's pronouncement.

Harriman, after a news conference and visit with Truman yesterday, spent the afternoon and evening in his suite on the Blackstone Hotel's fourth floor, directly under Truman's fifth floor suite.

Adlai Confident He's In Anyway

Spends Day in Huddles With Campaign Aides, Party Bosses

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, confident he will win the Democratic nomination, resumed conferences today with men who could help him to reach that goal.

* * *

The leading contender moved into his convention headquarters in the Conrad Hilton Hotel yesterday, and began a series of conferences with party leaders.

Stevenson kept an ear cocked, too, for Harry S. Truman's expected announcement of whom he favors for the top spot on the 1956 Democratic ticket.

Stevenson told reporters yesterday he thinks he can win the nomination even without Truman's blessing.

* * *

But his aides make it clear that Stevenson would welcome an endorsement by the former President.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee talked with Stevenson last night and then told reporters:

"He has enough delegates to be nominated."

* * *

Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts and Gov. George Leader of Pennsylvania, both Stevenson supporters, predicted he will win on the first ballot at next week's nominating session.

* * *

Five days before the convention roll call on the presidential nomination, Stevenson's strategists estimate he has 630 votes — just 56½ shy of the total necessary to win.

Sen. Kefauver, who stepped out of the competition for the presidential nomination late last month and asked his supporters to back Stevenson, said he had 259 delegates at that time.

* * *

Of these, he said, about 100 have shifted to Stevenson and about 20 to Gov. Averell Harriman of New York. He said the others are uncommitted and he plans to try to swing them to the Stevenson column.

* * *

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina preceded Kefauver in the Stevenson sanctum.

"Mr. Stevenson still is the best man," he told newsmen later.

He said he had been "shocked" Tuesday by Stevenson's call for firm approval by the party platform of the U.S. Supreme Court's antisegregation ruling. But, he added, Stevenson's position is "much more understandable" when viewed in the light of the fact that a candidate has to "run for the whole country."

* * *

Hodges said he would have to talk with his state's 36-vote delegation before coming to "any conclusion."

The Day in Birmingham

School Building Survey Assures Sept. 6 Opening

BIRMINGHAM—"Classroom sections of Derby Junior High School, additions to four other schools, and the two cottage kindergarten schools will all be put to use when school opens Sept. 6," says Dr. Richard Featherstone.

Dr. Featherstone, assistant to the superintendent of schools in charge of building details, inspected all buildings Thursday and yesterday after his return from a two week's training stint at Camp McCoy.

Ready at Beverly will be six new classrooms and a kindergarten; at Pembroke, six rooms; at Bloomfield Village, two rooms; and at the high school, 11 classrooms, he says.

"Steel has thrown us back on every job we have except Derby which was too far along," he said, referring to structural work planned for this summer that the steel strike affected.

The two swimming pools, at Derby and at Birmingham High School, are both being slowed in construction by steel needs.

Also, the addition to Walnut Lake School, where youngsters will use the gymnasium for classes until it is completed, won't be opened until late fall. That addition was just started, Dr. Featherstone says.

"We've been pushing for classroom sections," he says. Sections B and C of Derby Junior High will be opened, with the first housing classrooms and the latter, shops and music rooms.

The shell roof was recently poured over the Derby gymnasium and a similar roof is to cover the pool there.

"Youngsters can play outdoors until October," Dr. Featherstone says, referring to the gymnasium's completion date not expected until later this fall. "The pool will be done later yet," he says.

At the high school, the pool which will be attached to the south end of the gymnasium, requires steel trusses for its roof. Grading is now underway, and when the roof is trussed and the corrugated wall removed, the pool excavation will be dug and the foundations poured.

The corrugated wall was placed for easy removal when pool plans were dropped several years ago. It completes the enclosure formed by two sides of the school and a permanent wall on the third side.

Cottage schools across from Pierce will be ready to house kindergarten classes Sept. 6, Suggested by the citizens committee, they cost about $16,000 each and are temporary measures to help the peak load years.

Dewey Guiding GOP's Future

Backstage Maneuvering May Result in Nixon's Early Nomination

WASHINGTON (INS) — Thomas E. Dewey, in a flying visit to Washington, has zestfully resumed his 1952 role of Republican power-behind-the-throne.

Political insiders say they believe the surprise trip made to the capital by the former New York governor and 1944 and 1948 GOP Presidential nominee could have these two top results:

1. Richard M. Nixon will be renominated on the first ballot at San Francisco as the Republican vice presidential candidate despite Harold E. Stassen's claim of growing strength in his campaign to replace Nixon with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

2. Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., may resign from President Eisenhower's cabinet to seek the Senate seat now held by Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.).

On the first point, Dewey, whose strategy in 1952 enabled the then Gen. Eisenhower to wrest the Presidential nomination from the now deceased Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, made it plain that he is in Nixon's corner.

When he returned to New York from the Washington mission which included a four-hour secret talk with the vice president, Dewey declared:

"Personally, I feel Nixon has done an excellent job as vice president and I am certain he will be renominated."

The unequivocal statement effectively spiked persistent — though always denied — rumors that Dewey was lending hidden support to Stassen's "dump Nixon" drive.

The speculation involving Brownell was based on these facts:

Sitting in with Nixon and Dewey throughout their long, hush-hush talk in the seclusion of a Washington hotel room Thursday night was Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, a former Dewey aide and the logical successor to Brownell in the cabinet post.

Greeters Are Well Rehearsed

Harriman Met by Quiet, Proper Hoorays

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York flew into town yesterday, and the Democrats gave an honored political tradition a mild workout.

The tradition is that a covey of backers should meet each candidate at airport or railway station. When he steps out, they holler and cheer and wave, thereby proving, of course, that their hero is best fitted to lead this nation.

So today Harriman backers were out to welcome their man, and though the demonstration wasn't much by past standards —no brass bands, for instance— it did keep a tradition alive.

Shortly before Harriman's plane dropped down, a stage director hustled up and surveyed his cast of 50 or so. Each person had a standard bearing such admonitions as "Win with Harriman" or "Harriman's Our Man."

WELL REHEARSED

Curiously for a candidate who has been in the race as long as Harriman, the signs were crudely lettered with crayons, as if somebody had goofed and it had taken fast handwork to produce any signs at all.

"Hold your banners up," yelled the stage director. "Will you hold your banners up, everybody?"

(As in a hayloft fire, political spontaneous combustion always is helped along if you sprinkle liberally with kerosine.)

"Wave, everybody!" said the S. D. "Yell!"

Whether or not he was satisfied with this brief workout wasn't clear, because the plane came in then, airline officials hastily rolled out the red carpet they save for these great occasions, and Harriman stepped out.

Banners went up, and the waves and cheers rolled out on schedule.

NON COMMITTAL AVE

Harriman came down the ramp, answered a few routine questions routinely, and reminded reporters he had a news conference planned soon.

"I'm not going to give you any scoops here," he said. And he didn't.

This demonstration has been gone into in some detail only because it represents such a change from four years ago. In 1952, candidates at both the Democratic and Republican conventions poured into Chicago every hour on the hour.

Each was welcomed with varying degrees of frenzy, some of which was genuine and some simulated.

COMPLACENT AURA

But whether real or somewhat phoney, they did point up the thrill of a wide open race, with a number of candidates running for their political lives.

But so far this year there has been little to equal the excitement, or the foolishness, of four years ago.

Adlai Stevenson, the front runner, has slipped into town from his suburban home without fanfare. His followers, though, are observing the other, quieter traditions:

The pretty girls, the paper hats advertising Adlai, the copious literature no one ever seems to find time to read.

activities than anybody else is Billie Farnum who lives just out at Williams Lake. He not only is a delegate but he is sergeant at arms of the Michigan delegation. Hence it is up to him to keep the 104 Michigan delegates, alternates and others from our state in order.

Farnum has long been prominent in CIO circles, both on a Pontiac level and higher up. For some time he was body guard for the late U.S. Senator Blair Moody, and is a close friend of Gov. Williams who heads the Michigan delegation. He is now connected with the Detroit branch of the secretary of state's office.

OTHER OAKLANDERS

Other delegates who lives in Oakland County are Lt. Gov. Phil A. Hart and Dr. Howard H. McNeil, both of Bloomfield, and Mrs. Harriett Phillips of Huntington Woods.

Alternates from our county are Mrs. Margaret McCall of Holly, who is vice president of the county committee; Mrs. Jean Leel of Farmington and Mrs. Martha Shepard of Royal Oak.

All of these delegates and alternates are already in Chicago, or will arrive in time for the Michigan caucus at the Congress Hotel on Monday morning.

Others from the Pontiac area here for the convention include Mrs. Carlos Richardson of Waterford, Mrs. Donald McGee of Birmingham, Harvey Holdsworth of Rochester, Francis Bushman of Walled Lake, Robert Phillips of Huntington Woods, Lawrence Best of Hazel Park, Fulton Ostendorf of Royal Oak and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Frownfelter of Drayton Plains.

As the convention nears, an ominous cloud appears on the horizon. It is the attitude of one Harry S. Truman.

Some claim the cloud has a silver lining. Others take a distinctly somber view, and regard it as something akin to a specter.

HARRY WILL RUN IT

They fear it is an omen that portends some action which will culminate in dire results in November. In plain words, is Harry's endorsement an asset or a liability?

It is generally conceded that he will be running the show. His expert political training tells him to make no endorsement of any candidate until he senses who will be piloting the bandwagon.

The attempted Stassenation of Nixon cannot possibly draw more attention in the Republican convention itself in San Francisco than it is drawing here as the Democratic convention approaches.

The Michigan headquarters tell me that delegates to the convention are about equally divided between union backing and those outside the union. It includes 31 businessmen, 26 labor officials, 21 government employes, 13 housewives, 13 lawyers and 12 industrial employs among its regulars and alternates, several being in two classifications.

National headquarters are at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel, the Michigan delegation is at the Congress Hotel, and I am at the Palmer House, where any brickbats or skunk's cabbage may be sent.

Wagner, Kennedy Doubt Religion Could Cost Votes

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) say they don't think their Roman Catholic faith would affect their chances as Democratic vice presidential candidates.

* * *

The two Democratic leaders, both mentioned as vice presidential possibilities, said yesterday they are not actively seeking nomination at the party's Chicago convention.

Asked about the old political maxim that a Catholic cannot be elected nationally, Wagner commented: "I think it's a myth."

On the same topic, Kennedy said:

* * *

"I would hope that it would not have any effect one way or the other.

* * *

Kennedy said he would accept the vice presidential nomination if asked. Wagner said it "would be a fine honor."

Both are supporters of Adlai E. Stevenson for the presidential nomination.

More to Advise on Rights Plank

Long Session Expected to Wrap Up Hearings for Democrats

CHICAGO (AP) — Spokesmen for the Dixie and Northern wings of the Democratic party get another chance to blow off steam today on the issue of civil rights.

* * *

More than 30 witnesses, most of them from the North, were on deck to advise the party what it should say in its 1956 platform on the touchy question.

Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, chairman of the 108-member resolutions committee, ordered a long session, starting at 9 a.m. in hopes of winding up the hearing.

After that a 15-member drafting group will spell out its ideas of a winning platform for this year. Next the full 108-member committee will pass on the draft before it reaches the convention floor next week.

* * *

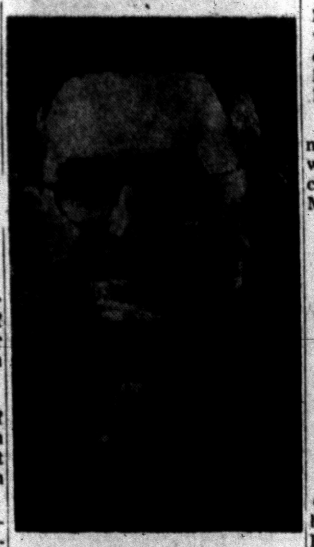

The thorniest problem appeared to be whether the 1956 version would even mention the controversial but unanimous decision of the Supreme Court outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr., of South Carolina, recalled that four normally Democratic states went Republican four years ago and warned that eight others may break away this time unless the views of the South prevail in the convention platform.

Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York, describing himself as "an old war horse" in the battle for civil rights, said a certain way for Democrats to lose again this year was to "pussyfoot" or use "weasel words" on the school desegregation decision.

* * *

Lehman recalled the 1948 convention floor fight that strengthened a civil rights plank and was followed by a Democratic victory for President Truman.

CHAD M. RITCHIE

County GOP Group Elects Four Officers

Officers of the Oakland County Republican Committee were named yesterday, with Chad M. Ritchie of Birmingham, being unanimously re-elected for the next two years.

* * *

Other officers named were Mrs. Dorothy Andrews, Clarkston, vice-chairman; Mrs. Madeline Vernon, Waterford Township, secretary, and Jack Hayward, Royal Oak, treasurer.

* * *

Officers of the county committee are elected immediately following the biennial primary by the party nominees for office, as prescribed by the state election laws.

Good Weather Due for Convention Opener

CHICAGO (INS) — The weather bureau says temperatures Monday —opening day of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago— will be around 84 degrees.

* * *

Night temperatures Monday and Tuesday, the weather bureau adds, should be around 63.

were striving to keep the controversy in hand.

Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina told the committee yesterday that a strong civil rights plank might cause the party to lose in November.

If the platform "repudiates" Southern states, the Dixie states in turn "may repudiate the party," Timmerman said and added:

"I do not see how the national Democratic party can expect to win in November without the Southern states."

On the other side of the issue, AFL-CIO President George Meany called on the party to meet the problem "head on" with a strong plank.

* * *

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky continued to pursue elusive delegate strength in the hope that if Stevenson and Harriman deadlock, he might wedge in as a compromise candidate.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who was one of the major contenders until he dropped out of the race for the top nomination, said he "probably would accept" the vice presidential nomination if it comes his way.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts said he will accept the No. 2 spot "if I am asked."

Urges Women to Vote, Catch Congress' Eye

WASHINGTON (INS) — A Republican congresswoman wants all women to vote this year so Congress will pay more attention to problems "that matter most to us."

In a statement to constituents, Mrs. Bolton said surveys indicate in national elections fewer women than men vote even though there are more women over 21.

It's Easy to Chase Starlings – Maybe

cans together and firing shotgun blasts into the troublesome hordes. Least perturbed of all were the starlings. They gazed down disinterestedly and infuriated gunwielders by adopting an all-the-more-room-for-me attitude when the body of a branch mate hurtled to the ground.

The problem was solved when a college professor who lived in the city captured a starling and recorded its cries. He played the record over and over through an amplifier while the other birds were roosting.

After several days of this misery, the starlings flew away. After three years they are only now beginning to return.

Other cities reported some success with ominous-looking metal owls which they placed around in prominent places. The sight of those unblinking and baleful eyes on every convenient perch were unnerving enough to discourage the "dirty birds" for awhile.

CAN'T MISS

And then there's the reader who suggested a large shingle and a mallet. "Sure-fire," he said.

The effective way to use this combination, he said, is first catch a starling. Lay the starling on the shingle and hit it sharply on the skull with the mallet . . .

Then Take Another Starling . . . and so on.

Telegraph Car Crash Sends 2 to Hospital

Two persons were hospitalized today after an auto crash at Telegraph road and Golf drive, Pontiac police said.

Dominic N. Shoha, 18, of Detroit, was listed in "good" condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with head injuries.

Mrs. Helen Hall, 41, of Waterford Township, was listed in "fair" condition there with leg injuries.

Mrs. Hall was riding with George H. Kimball Jr., 71, of Waterford Township, who told Pontiac police he was in collision when turning from Telegraph.

Urges Riders Pick Drivers Cautiously

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Carl J. Potthoff, an American Medical Assn. safety and first aid consultant, said at least half of non-pedestrian traffic deaths probably happen to persons whose only fault was "accompanying others who did the driving."

Writing in Today's Health, an A.M.A. publication, Potthoff said people should not take risks with irresponsible drivers, even if it means offending them. He said, "Some of these drivers pay little attention to their responsibility for passengers."

"We hesitate to offend men," Potthoff said, "but they are entirely willing to jeopardize our life."

He said newspaper accident accounts indicate "It is the passengers who often pay the price for the careless driving of others." Potthoff said parents and safety educators should teach children how to deal with irresponsible drivers to protect themselves when there are "social pressures" toward accepting dangers.

Scared to Death

NEW YORK (AP)—Roberto Gutrervez 5, was frightened at the prospect of having his long curly hair cut for the first time. He fled to the bathroom of his parents' apartment last night and locked himself in. Then he crawled out a window and fell four floors to his death.

Can It Be? — Reds Renounce Invention Claim

MOSCOW (AP)—The authoritative magazine "Questions of History" says claims made during the Stalin era that a Russian invented the airplane were false.

In a roundabout way it gave credit to the American Wright brothers, praising their inventions and those of other Western pioneers. The Wrights generally are conceded to have made the first flight in a heavier-than-air machine in 1903.

As for past Russian claims that Alexander Federovich Mozhaisky invented the airplane and first flew it back in 1882, the magazine said there was a bad storm that day and no plane could have flown.

Explosion in Casbah Kills 16, Injures 15

ALGIERS, (AP)—The death toll in an explosion which crumbled five buildings last night in the heart of the Casbah mounted to 16 today as rescue workers still dug into the ruins. Fifteen persons have been found injured in wreckage.

The explosion demolished five houses and badly damaged four others in the crowded native quarter.

German Seamen Die in Delaware Blast

LEWES, Del. (AP)—An explosion at sea killed two crewmen aboard the German freighter Heidberg and critically injured six others.

* * *

The blast shook the freighter, inbound to Philadelphia from Venezuela, yesterday afternoon just as the ship entered the Delaware Bay.

The dead seamen were Suergen Schwittner and Herbert Goeldener. Beebe Hospital in Lewes reported the other seamen were badly burned and in critical condition. All were German nationals.

Capt. Heinz Nauersberger, master of the Heidberg, said a piston on the ship's engine came loose and rammed into the heavy casting of the power plant. The blast wrecked the crew's quarters. A fire followed the explosion but was quickly put out.

* * *

Coast Guard authorities said an investigation would be made to determine the cause of the blast. No date was set.

Irate Drinker Booked; Deadly Weapon? — Car

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"You'll be sorry," a slightly-tipsy bar patron cried when a bartender refused to serve him another drink last night police reported.

The man left and a few minutes later, officers said, he drove his car crashing through the bar's front door. One of the 20-odd other customers suffered a minor leg injury.

Police said the irate driver, Boyd G. Franklin, 31, was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Reverse on the Sheriff — Money Is Baled

SCOTTSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Moda G. Taylor was rooting around in a pile of hay yesterday, but he wasn't looking for needles.

Taylor, 44, a farmer, was supervising hay baling when his wallet containing $678 dropped into the baler.

The ensuing search turned up $393 in currency, $185 in checks and scraps adding up to $100—a total of $678 if the scraps are honored.

'55 Crash Costs Could Have Paid for Straits Bridge

LANSING (AP)—Losses from 1955 traffic accidents in Michigan could have built the Mackinac Bridge—with two million dollars to spare.

The Michigan Insurance Information Service says 1955 insured losses from auto accidents last year totaled $101,734,000, an increase of $7,306,000 over 1954.

The increase alone would have paid the cost of operating the State Police last year, the agency said.

The State had 196,812 traffic accidents last year, an increase of 11,278 over the 1954 total.

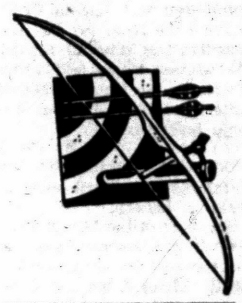

The agency, representing 11 Michigan insurance companies said losses rose in every category; bodily injury, property damage, collision, medical payment and comprehensive coverage.

Insured losses are the biggest factor in automobile insurance rates, the agency said.

Voltage Victim Buried

ALANSON (AP)—Funeral services were held Friday for Delbert Blumke, 30, a Consumers Power Co., lineman who died of burns suffered when he fell on a 44,000-volt power line at a Big Rapids substation. Blumke died Wednesday at Community Hospital in Big Rapids.

Truman's Weight on Selection of Nominee May Be Over-rated

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman, who calls himself a living politician rather than an elder statesman, is playing the political role in the grand manner but perhaps for the last time.

* * *

He's 72, retired, and still beloved by millions, and like a fire horse hearing the bell once more, he swept into Chicago this week which opens Monday. He is the center of attraction.

One reason: because he was the colorful Harry Truman. Another: because he has whetted political appetites by steadfastly refusing to name the Democrat he'd like to see get the party's presidential and interest in himself—by announcing he'd state his preference nomination next week.

* * *

Then he boosted the suspense—Saturday. Thus he maintained an appearance of political importance which may be all out of keeping with his power in the party.

He has far less influence than he did in 1952 when he was leaving the presidency and helped make Adlai Stevenson the Democratic candidate. He should have even less by the next convention in 1960, if he lives that long.

For what isn't clear is this: How much difference does it make who his preference is?

* * *

If he prefers Gov. Averell Harriman of New York over Stevenson—and some reports say he does — delegates who like Stevenson are not committed to be swayed by Truman.

After this election, if Stevenson wins, he's the one who can repay delegate votes with favors, not Truman. Truman, by keeping his choice to himself until Sunday, has a chance to check the box office.

He's a good Democrat and party man. If he prefers Harriman but finds Stevenson has the nomination sewed up, Truman will probably come out for Stevenson. He wouldn't want to wreck the party's chances by sowing discontent uselessly.

* * *

Reports about Truman's liking for Harriman seem based on the idea that he thinks Stevenson is some kind of political softy and that Harriman would make a better, rip-roaring campaign.

But one of the myths of the 1956 political year—and it's been deliberately built up by Harriman himself—is that he's a give-'em-hell Democrat who has no time for Stevenson's kind of "moderation."

Harriman has lambasted the Republicans all right. That's been his strong point. But his weak point is that he has offered practically nothing as a substitute for what Stevenson stands for or as an antidote to the Republicans.

* * *

Aside from 90 per cent of parity price supports for farmers and a proposal that federal funds for education be withheld from segregated public schools, he's offered practically nothing in the way of a program.

* * *

Stevenson's for 90 per cent supports too, and sees eye to eye with Harriman on handling the school segregation problem except that he wouldn't withhold federal funds for education.

Truman seems to have more fire than either Stevenson or Harriman. He's probably irked that somehow he can't get either of them to bounce up and down like he does.

You can take that word two ways — "pro" for professor or "pro" for professional politician. The former President stepped zestfully into both roles — and the crowd loved it.

So did Truman. You'd almost have thought he was running for something himself, the way he flailed away at Republicans on every issue he could think of at the most spirited session Democratic platform writers have held all week.

The Mayfair Room of the Sheraton - Blackstone Hotel was jammed and steaming when Truman, to all appearances perky as ever, hand-shook his way through the mob and took his seat on one of the undertaker-type chairs provided for spectators and expectant witnesses.

* * *

Mrs. Truman sat on his right. Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, who ran for vice president four years ago, joined the party. So did hostess-with-the-mostest Perle Mesta, wearing sunglasses, and Irish tenor Phil Reagan.

The atmosphere was so chummy that it called for a song — and Reagan, a onetime policeman who got rich by way of vocalizing and oil wells, sand one: "Irish Lullaby."

This had little to do with the platform which the 107 - member committee is trying to write, but it got a big hand. So did star witness Truman when he settled into the witness chair and addressed himself to the platformers and the battery of microphones on the table before him.

* * *

He couldn't resist the familiar Truman urge toward being a professor of history.

Speaking of the 14th Amendment —which guarantees equality under the law to all citizens—he admonished: "Read it. Read it. You need to read it."

Later, as he made his way through the throng, a woman in the rear made a plaintive appeal: "Please make way for Mrs. Truman."

It's Not Civilization's Dread

Cancer Experts Will Study Disease Effects in Africa

By E. A. JONES

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Twenty-five medical specialists from 14 countries are converging soon on this town in the heart of Africa, seeking new clues to the causes of cancer.

* * *

Statistics produced by the Kampala Cancer Research Committee in a conference here Aug. 24-30 may give a new lead on the disease that ranks second only to heart ailments as a killer among civilized nations.

Until recent years it was believed cancer was a disease of civilization — that peoples with a more primitive way of life suffered little from it.

Now it has been discovered that cancer is as common among the Africans around Kampala as it is in Europe and America.

This, in itself, would not advance knowledge of the disease greatly. But types of cancer and parts of the body affected in Africans are startlingly different from the situation among whites.

Cancer of the liver, for instance, is some 20 times as common among Africans. Cancer of the lymphatic glands is twice as prevalent.

Other types are correspondingly less frequent. Despite their unhygienic food and the parasites which infest their intestines, Africans are only half as liable as Americans to suffer from intestinal cancer.

* * *

If the reasons for the discrepancies can be pinned down by comparing African and, say, American diet and living habits, some of the causes of cancer may be revealed.

* * *

The delegates include some of the top names in international cancer research. The United States, Britain, France, Switzerland and India are among the nations represented.

Tokyo Population Rises

TOKYO (AP) — The population of metropolitan Tokyo increased 173,978 the first six months of this year to 8,243,979 as of July 1, city officials announced today.

Awkward Situation — in a Dry State

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. Raymond Gary described as "embarrassing" the disclosure that the Oklahoma Turnpike Authority has a bar in its conference room. He said he will ask the authority to remove it.

* * *

"It is a very embarrassing thing to happen in a legally dry state," said Gary, who does not drink. "I don't like it at all."

* * *

This bar bounced into the spotlight yesterday when State Sen. George Miskovsky, Oklahoma City, staged a one-man "raid." Miskovsky hired a locksmith to open the refrigerated liquor cabinet in the turnpike offices. He said he found two bottles of whisky.

You don't want rain coming through your roof, but some people who have had leaks repaired by itinerant or "bargain" roofers would rather have the rain than the headaches which have resulted from association with these repairmen.

The itinerant roofer comes to your door, tells you he has just repaired a roof in your neighborhood, and offers to look over and repair yours for a small charge. He says he will guarantee the work for fifteen or twenty years. He then proceeds to do some work (sometimes unnecessary work) and presents you with a bill which astonishes you. Instead of the five or ten dollars you expected to pay, it may be fifty, a hundred and frequently more.

Ah-ah-ah Choo! It's Hay Fever

Pollen Count Climbing to Torment Sufferers Until First Frost

LANSING (AP)—The sneezing season is upon us.

* * *

This is the time of the year when hay fever sufferers who can afford it head for vacations in Michigan's north country.

IT'S NOT FUNNY

Those sensitive to irritating pollen don't find any humor in their stuffed noses, sneezes and weeping eyes.

Aug. 10 is generally regarded as the start of the season. That's when the pollen count starts climbing.

The State Health Department said no county in Michigan is absolutely devoid of ragweed pollen. But the count drops off once you get North to the tree country.

* * *

Resorts in the northern Lower Peninsula and in the Upper Peninsula attract thousands of sufferers every summer. The count is so low in the vacation country that victims find relief.

Mackinac Island and other areas washed by lake winds are particularly fine refuges for those who have sneezing seizures.

FEEL WORSE

This was discontinued two years ago. One reason was because publication of the daily bulletins only made sufferers feel worse. They'd read the pollen count and then start sneezing.

Probably another reason—and this is unofficial — is that we don't like to admit we've got the pesky pollen problem in Michigan.

The season rises to its peak in late August and early September and then tapers off. The first frost, which kills ragweed, knocks it out.

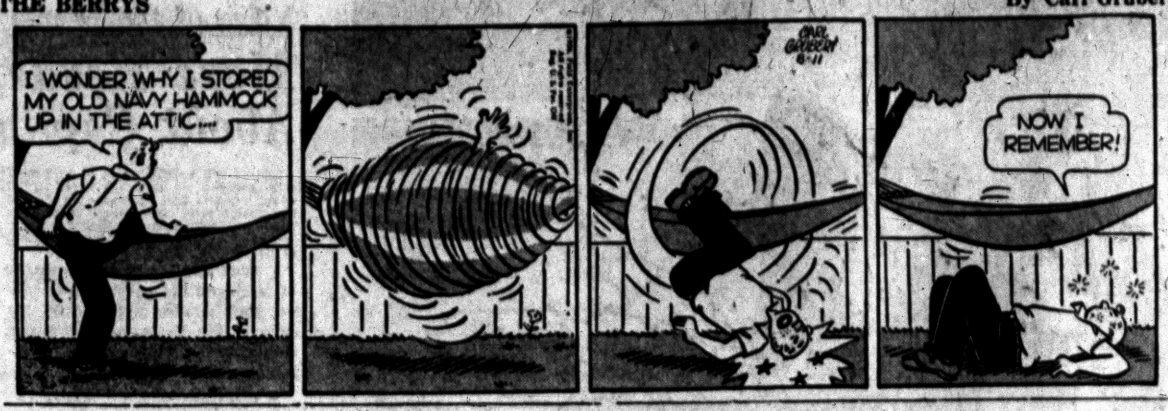

Most of Southern Michigan is ragweed country. Exceptions are areas where there have been determined drives to root out the pesky weed.

Fairly heavy rains and cool weather have kept the pollen count down so far this year. But it's on the climb and will soar during any stretch of dry weather.

Scores Clean Sweep

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (INS) — A youth entered the Percy Andrews Jewelry Store in Inglewood and told clerk Lila Ward the boss had sent him to sweep out the store. Lila got the broom and the youth went to work. When owner Donald L. McNeill returned to the store he promptly called police when the clerk told him the unidentified sweeper had made a "clean sweep" of $3,500 in diamonds.

Security for You

Citizenship Not Required for Social Security Aids

By RAY HENRY
AP Writer

From A. B. D. of Brooklyn, N. Y.: "My employer has an Italian maid whom he has employed for the last seven months. She's only been in this country for about two years. My employer was wondering whether he's supposed to pay Social Security tax on her wages. She's not a United States citizen yet. Should he pay?

If he pays her $50 or more every calendar quarter (three months) he must pay the tax. Citizenship is not a requirement for Social Security coverage.

* * *

From F. H. of Washington, D. C.: "My aged gardener is not covered by Social Security. He works for me only one day a month for which I pay him $10. He has no other jobs. I understand that in order to be covered by Social Security, he must earn at least $50 every three months. Is it possible for me to pay the Social Security tax as if he had the $50 required earning and, thereby, put him under Social Security—even though I only actually pay him $30?"

No. You can only report and pay Social Security tax on wages you actually pay.

* * *

From Mrs. W. R. of New Orleans: "Though I have never paid Social Security tax on my own earnings, I have employed persons between 1937 and 1949 and have contributed toward the sums recorded in their accounts with Social Security. On this basis, am I entitled to any Social Security benefits? I retired in 1949."

No. Employers earn Social Security coverage in only one way: By paying Social Security taxes on their own earnings. This wasn't possible until 1950 since it was at that time self-employed coverage was added.

From M. E. G. of Lincoln, Nebr.: "My husband died in late 1939. We separated before his death, but I just wondered if there is any chance of my collecting benefits in my old age from his Social Security."

Regardless of your marital status at the time of his death, you don't stand a chance. Survivors benefits are not paid for deaths before 1940.

* * *

From T. J. O. of Newark, N. J.: "My husbend and I both draw Social Security. We just took on the support of our 11-year-old grandson. Can we draw extra benefits for his support?"

Yes, if you legally adopt him.

* * *

From S. O. R. of Phoenix, Ariz.: "Can you give me the exact day, month and year on which the collection of Social Security tax went into effect?"

Jan. 1, 1937.

* * *

From Mrs. M. H. of Wichita Falls, Tex.: "I worked for my son for three years and paid Social Security tax. Recently, I applied for Social Security benefits and was told that work performed by a parent for a son or daughter is not covered by the law. Is this correct?"

It's partially correct. Work by a parent for a son or daughter is not covered unless the business is: (A) A corporation, or (B) a partnership involving at least one member from outside the family. If your son's business is either of these, you're eligible.

(You may write Ray Henry in care of this newspaper about your Social Security or retirement problem. Please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin.)

State Police Testing Cameras in Cars

LANSING (AP)—State Police went into the movie business Friday in an effort to get bad actors off the highways.

An unmarked patrol car from the East Lansing post was equipped with a movie camera. The camera can take one frame at a time or a moving sequence.

State Police said the cars will be used in the day time only. If the experiment proves a success, cameras will be placed in other cars.

Law officers say the films will be of great value in cases where violators plead innocent. They will also provide a graphic record of the way violations can cause accidents.

The two camera-equipped cars will be rotated among all other posts in the state after their try out at Brighton and East Lansing.

He's Not Standing on the Corner, but He's Watching

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — When Dan Hughes blows out the 109 candles on his birthday cake today, he'll make one wish.

"I want better eyesight so I can watch the girls," the former slave said in an interview. "Old Dan loves to see a good-looking woman—but not one in shorts. I turn my back on them."

Except for his eyesight, Dan is in good physical condition. He takes short walks during the day, swinging his cane as often as he uses it for support.

"I don't like to fool around on the streets much. I'm afraid I might get run over," he says.

THAT "ONE" TOUCH

J. L. VOORHEES

Everyone can draw a line; the artist brings those lines to life. To make lines and call them a face is not enough; that face must have eyes that sparkle, lips that smile — it is that "One" touch that brings those lines to life, makes them live.

Some people have artistry in their voices; they sparkle with lively interest, we are attracted to them. Two sisters, one beautiful with repelling personality and the other one comely with a magnetic personality; you can guess which one has the most friends — the latter one. She has the "One" touch that changes flesh and bones into someting lovable. More than likely that touch has been acquired.

A picture approaches perfection when we see the smile and listen to the voice; the person with a smile that sings, whose eyes dance is the one with "That One Touch" of an artist — and it can be acquired.

Solution of Suez Crisis Vital to Western World

The 24-nation conference on the Suez Canal crisis, scheduled for August 16, will be a critical one for the Western world's economy.

That is so because Europe can not be run on oil whose delivery may depend on the whims of a political adventurer who hates the West.

In his worldwide broadcast Prime Minister Eden termed the supplies that come from the Middle East through the canal a matter of life and death for Western Europe. Britain now gets 70 per cent of its oil through Suez and Europe 50 per cent. Moreover, the probability is that these percentages will rise sharply in the next decade.

For these reasons and because of our own interests, the United States is deeply concerned over Egyptian President Nasser's nationalization of the canal. Of the 67,000,000 tons of oil shipped via the canal last year, we got 8,600,000 tons. We also get 60 per cent of our tin that way and 90 per cent of the natural rubber for our automobile tires.

★ ★ ★

Actually, every nation whose ships ply the oceans has a stake in the economical, efficient and uninterrupted operation of the canal. Suez is a world waterway. It would be disastrous to allow it to fall under permanent Egyptian control.

Yet Nasser's angry action is a threat to the canal's future which is not dispelled by his questionable assurance that it will be operated fairly and well.

★ ★ ★

Millions of Western world homes will be affected if means aren't found to assure the canal's operation and growth as envisioned before seizure. Finding those means is the responsibility of the 24 nations invited to the conference in London.

American Ideals Win Praise From Sukarno

During his visit here last May and June, Indonesia's President Sukarno made a favorable impression on all Americans with whom he came in contact.

Judging from his Jakarta broadcast about his trip, we at the same time made a strongly favorable impression on him. Explaining that he had come here to find out whether "the noble ideals of Thomas Jefferson were still alive in the hearts of the American people," he reported that they were.

Although President Sukarno has been the target of criticism here as a neutralist, a Socialist and as "blind" to the Communist danger, he had only good words for the United States. His remarks were in pleasing contrast to criticisms of us voiced by leaders in some other countries.

The United States, he told the people of Indonesia, "has not sacrificed freedom of expression for freedom from want. I found that the American people believe that all men under God are equal."

President Sukarno obviously was impressed by our material well being, declaring he was unable to tell by appearances whether a house belonged to a rich man or a poor man. He also was impressed not only by the greatness of America but by our industrial and engineering achievements.

Certainly, the people of this country can hope that his visit here will inspire him to initiate further political and economic advances for his own people.

Salk Vaccine Available for Chicago Delegates

Windy City health authorities say that Salk polio vaccine will be available for delegates who want it. At the same time Dr. Karl Meyer, convention medical officer, expressed himself as not considering the situation serious for delegates and did not advise their mass inoculation.

Nonetheless, Chicago is suffering the country's worst polio outbreak with cases having passed the 650 mark and 18 deaths. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, board of health president, who previously had said vaccine would be available to convention visitors, now is advising all Chicagoans to be inoculated.

★ ★ ★

According to U.S. Public Health figures, the disease won't reach the epidemic stage in Chicago, a city of nearly 4,000,000 until cases total at least 1,330.

State Democrats Fussing Over New Committeeman

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—Replacing Ernest H. Lacy as national committeeman has generated friction among Michigan Democrats.

★ ★ ★

It is not likely to go down in history as a masterpiece of political craftsmanship.

Barring an unexpected turn in the final chapter of the episode— naming of Lacey's successor in Chicago Sunday night—many party figures will be left with ruffled feelings.

Selection will be made by the state delegation to the national convention.

DUMP MOVE

The party leadership decided some time ago to "dump" Lacey, an affable court clerk in Detroit held to be occupying a position beyond his talents.

Lacey's friends say he was never told of the decision, and feel he was mistreated. This caused resentment.

Among other things, the move led to a blast at Gov. Williams and Neil Staebler, Democratic state chairman, by Rep. Thaddeus M. Machrowicz, who said he was speaking as well for the party's six other congressmen from the state.

Professing the "highest respect" for Kavanagh, Machrowicz said nevertheless Williams and Staebler "handpicked" him and this was a "serious mistake."

SUPPORT FOR DUNNIGAN

Meanwhile, Sen. Patrick McNamara stayed in Dunnigan's corner.

Resistance to Kavanagh led to his retirement from the picture. A substitute for him was selected in the person of Thomas H. Quimby.

Quimby, who like Kavanagh is a state office holder—director of the Workmen's Compensation Department—has been received in certain segments of the party with less vocal but essentially the same objections.

Quimby's record of party activity on the state level dates back only four or five years. Some Dunnigan supporters were quick to call him a "Johnny-come-lately."

★ ★ ★

One criticism of the Kavanagh selection was that he could not do justice to both the party job and the state job.

In Quimby's case, some Dunnigan friends refer to this language in the Workmen's Compensation Law:

The director shall devote his entire time to and personally perform the duties of his office and shall engage in no other business or professional activity."

They say the spirit, if not the precise wording, would be offended by Quimby's election as committeeman, and give Republicans something to crow about during Quimby's absences from the state as committeeman.

So whether Quimby makes the grade, as it appears, or Dunnigan does, or it's somebody else, the whole affair will have caused a good deal of dissension.

Days of All Faiths

Lutheranism Began Here in 1748

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

The United Lutheran church with its two million members is the largest body of Lutherans in America. It can trace its beginnings to Aug. 15, 1748, when Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, a German missionary, organized its first synod in what was then the Colony of Pennsylvania.

Eastern Pennsylvania in the early days had a great attraction for German immigrants, and there were many scattered Lutheran congregations in that part of the country when the 31-year-old Muhlenberg came from Germany to minister to them. He soon saw, however, that something besides organization was needed.

This was new country, pioneer country, totally unlike the land and culture these people had left, and the greatest of all problems was to develop a Lutheranism adapted to the life of the New World rather than that of the Old.

Muhlenberg did not limit his activities to Eastern Pennsylvania. He ranged from New York to Georgia, building new congregations, training and ordaining pastors, and helping his people to make the transition that would change them from German Lutherans to American Lutherans. The energetic young missionary is still known as "the father of Lutheranism in America."

REMARKABLE WOMAN

Saturday, Aug. 18 commemorates the death, in 328, of the woman who is credited with having found the three holiest of all Christian objects: The Cross on which Jesus died, the tomb in which He was buried, and the house in which the Holy Family had lived. What is still more remarkable is that she was 79 years old when she made these great discoveries.

This extraordinary woman was St. Helena, mother of the Roman Emperor Constantine. Starting life as an innkeeper's daughter she rose, through her own ability and her son's, to be dowager of the Empire and one of the most important saints in the Christian calendar.

It is likely that Helena died as she was returning from the Holy Land and was buried in the Church of the Holy Apostles in Constantinople. The city of Constantinople, formerly called Byzantium, had been renamed in honor of her son.

FIREWORKS AND RELIGION

In many cities, particularly where there is a large Latin population, there will be great dazzling displays of fireworks this week in connection with the Feast of the Assumption (Wednesday). This always brings up the question of what fireworks have to do with religious festivals. Most Americans, accustomed to thinking of Independence Day as the proper time for pyrotechnics, are puzzled by the Assumption displays, just as they are by the shooting of firecrackers at Christmas time in the southern part of this country.

The answer, once discovered, is simple and logical enough. Light has always been a feature of the festive celebrations of all religions, not only Christianity. From earliest pagan times people have carried torches and built bonfires on their big religious occasions. What could have been more natural than that the spectacular colored and self-moving light of fireworks should be added to the festivities when it became available.

As to the shooting of firecrackers, the explanation is similar. Noisemakers of all kinds have always been part of humanity's happiest festivals. And when Marco Polo in the 13th Century came back from China bringing gunpowder, it was only natural that it should be used—in guns, cannons and firecrackers—to add to the joyful uproar.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Weather Does Not Cause Sinus

You say the weather has nothing to do with sinus trouble. Yet I can predict the weather better than . . . (W.G.M.)

Answer—So can my girl friend, children, grandchildren, secretaries, professional associates, neighbors, and readers. When the weather makes bowling impossible, I'm impossible too. All I mean to say is that weather does not CAUSE sinus trouble. Unless you know you know better, you may get some helpful advice by studying Little Lesson No. 5, Call It CRI, for which send me, in care of this newspaper, 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I myself and several others I know have enjoyed complete relief from migraine for several years now, thanks to your advice . . . (E.S.)

Answer — Anyway, it can do no harm. For instructions send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet Why Have Headache?

I am one of those horrid parents who should be in jail — I have two youngsters who are dripping wet every morning, and do I gripe about it! Please bail me out—send the pamphlet on bed-wetting . . . (Mrs. A.A.)

Answer — If you scold, punish, ridicule, or humiliate in the presence of other persons, the child with the bed-wetting habit you belong in jail. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet, The Habit of Bed-Wetting.

A few years ago the gray streak in my hair would disappear when I ate a couple of cans of sardines, believe it or not. Now I guess I'm getting older, or maybe the sardines today don't contain enough iodin, for it doesn't work any more. (Mrs. H.B.P.)

Answer — I believe you. No reason why you should lie about it. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for instructions for taking Iodin Ration. Inclose 35 cents in addition if you want the booklet The Hair and Scalp.

Please send me any literature you have about tannic acid lotion for pruritus. (N.H.)

Answer—By express or freight? I have no literature, but if you will send me a stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll send you a pamphlet on Itching.

At 42 years of age I have been using digitalis for 12 years, and until I read your column on the subject I thought my life depended on it . . . (Mrs. V.M.)

Answer — It is downright shameful that the medical profession upholds this cruel deception or preserves "dignified silence" when the headline hunter from Boston tells the world it is so. For the truth about digitalis and a real heart tonic send 35 cents and stamped, self - addressed envelope for booklet CVD.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Leave Good 'Personality Prints'

Mrs. Crane thinks the letter quoted below is possibly the nicest one that I have received in 20 years of writing this column, so she asked me to reprint it today. It certainly was gracious of Mrs. Soley to be so kind with compliments, but it also shows all of us why it is so important that we leave constructive "personality imprints" on our companions while we mingle with them.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-336: Mrs. James Soley, aged possibly 32, lives near St. Louis, and sent me a very unusual letter not long ago.

The cases I describe in this column are office patients, but once in a blue moon I get such a unique letter that I feel warranted to reprint it.

Mrs. Crane thinks Mrs. Soley's recent letter is probably the nicest that ever came to me, so I am quoting most of it herewith:

"Dr. Crane," Mrs. Soley began, "I want to thank you very much for the wonderful way in which you reared my husband.

"You didn't know it, but ever since he was a boy of 12 and without a father, you have been his guide.

"And I must say you have done a job to be proud of. If you could meet Jim personally, you'd realize why I say that.

"We have been married for five years and it has taken me that long to get all the details, a little at a time.

"When Jim was eight his mother remarried. At 12, he was practically earning his own way. And when the war broke out, he felt he owed it to his country to get in immediately.

"He took special training at the University of Iowa. It was hard and he had no encouragement from home.

"But he said your daily newspaper articles always seemed to catch him at his low points and spur him onward.

"Even overseas he followed your column. On the Beach at Normandy; in the Black Forest; and through the Bremmer Pass you kept boosting his morale.

Jim says he was scared some times in those long fights but his prayers always seemed to be answered by your newspaper columns.

"Well, Jim came home from the war and we met. After a courtship of two years, we were married. And we have been very happy.

"But once again I wish to thank you for the wonderful way you guided my husband from boyhood to manhood.

* * *

"If you and Mrs. Crane ever come to St. Louis, you have a standing invitation to a home cooked meal (I bake my own bread, too). You are always most welcome."

NEWSPAPER INFLUENCE

Well, even if Mrs. Soley were exaggerating greatly, her gracious letter shows the power of the newspaper to help buoy up morale and educate people to meet the problems of adulthood.

The front page of a newspaper contains the news flash stories of deaths, storms, war and other last-minute startling events.

The comics entertain and the sports pages stimulate youth to wholesome competition.

But the editorial page and the various columns can also render a valuable educational service that may have lifelong influence.

On several occasions I have received letters from distraught readers who said they were on the verge of suicide or divorce or mental collapse.

In desperation they had appealed to God in prayer to please show them a way out of their dilemmas.

And that very day I may have a Case Record that seemed to be that exact answer to their prayers.

Maybe that's how God often operates. Perhaps He uses one human being to answer the prayer of another and vice versa.

This is a wonderful world when you team up with God Almighty and try to live according to the rules of the game of life.

When the roll is called up yonder, you may be surprised to find how many people you have helped over the rough spots here on this earth, even though you weren't even aware of doing so.

Each day we place our "personality prints" on the world around us, so we shall strive to make sure they always produce constructive results.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

More Readers Tell Ideas About Capital Punishment

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I think it about time the people of Michigan did something to protect their women and children. No state in the Union can get away with this brutality except Michigan.

I can't see why we taxpayers should pay to keep such trash, then give them $15.00 a month to buy candy and cigarettes. Decent people don't have that much to fool away.

I suppose they will give him a Beautyrest mattress to sleep on.

Men and women of Michigan had better wake up and get capital punishment here. Next time it may be your baby or mother.

Mrs. Gertrude L. Johnson
Walled Lake

Due to the recent child murders, there has arisen a strong clamor for action in the State of Michigan. How sincere the desire for this action is remains to be seen. It is true that our legislators have it in their power to pass laws, but true action will have to come from the people themselves.

Social chaos exists only because evil exists. Evil exist in the abence of good. It exists where me are too busy looking after their own petty interests and fail to take upon themselves their responsibility to society. They refuse to take active part in government. They refuse to vote. They refuse to interest themselves in bettering education or to take active part in other issues of social importance.

How many working mothers are out building bank accounts instead of home building character? How many belong to and support the right organizations such as PTA and other organizations that work towards social welfare? It is not enough for a man to stand for democracy or freedom. It is not enough for a man to believe in what is right. A man must live the things he believes in.

So long as man holds himself apart from this great network of society and neglects his duties to that society, so long will social chaos exist. But when man recognize himself as a need in that society and works actively towards social betterment, then our society as a whole will be more harmonious place in which to live. Only then can we look for strength in our legislators. For their strength will be in "We, the People."

J.P.

Recently the Press stressed the need for the death penalty for sex slayers. Well, we just seem to sit back and talk and do nothing about it. You can't expect the Press to do it all.

I say let's get on base and show these sex slayers we mean business. Let's back our Press. We may shed a little blood, but people of Michigan aren't all jellyfish. I'm a grandmother of two little girls, and if anything like that ever happened to them, I'm afraid I wouldn't be able to stand back and do nothing.

If you have children, you need a gun to guard them. I'm from a state where they have capital punishment, and at least you don't have to worry there about a sex slayer being set free in seven to ten years.

World Awaiting Nasser Statement on Suez Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government officials said today a statement promised for tomorrow by Egyptian President Nasser should provide strong clues as to the possibility of a peaceful settlement of the dangerous Suez Canal dispute.

President Eisenhower scheduled another meeting with Secretary of State Dulles today to discuss the situation and to review American moves aimed at promoting a peaceful, compromise solution of the controversy growing out of Egypt's seizure and nationalization of the vital waterway.

Eisenhower and Dulles have invited Republican and Democratic congressional leaders to meet at the White House tomorrow for a briefing on the crisis, including a discussion of the dangers of war if a negotiated settlement cannot be worked out.

The meeting is scheduled on the eve of the opening of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago on Monday. A special Air Force plane has been assigned to fly the Democratic congressional leaders from Chicago for the session with Eisenhower and Dulles, and then to fly them back to Chicago.

The White House talks also come just two days before Dulles leaves for London where an international meeting has been called for next Thursday to consider the Suez problem. In all, 24 nations have been invited, and almost all have accepted.

Meanwhile, informed officials said they were encouraged because Nasser has not yet slammed the door completely on the possibility of accepting arrangements for international control of the canal.

Also heartening to these officials are diplomatic reports indicating that, even among some of the Arab governments which have strongly supported Nasser's nationalization action, there is an interest in guarantees that would keep the canal open to the traffic of all nations.

The 22 other nations invited by Britain all indicated they would come, although Russia's acceptance was couched in reservations unacceptable to the West.

You Should Know Method to Bring Out Your Best

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Recently I met a distinguished European violinist, whose distinction as a musician has earned him a worldwide reputation. He had come to this country to give a concert on a famous violin, a Guarneri, made two hundred years ago in the workshops of the famous Guarneri family of Cremona, in Italy.

* * *

We always think, in our country, of a Stradivarius as the world's greatest violin. But this concert performer, while highly respecting that make, believes that his particular violin is greater than the Stradivarius. Almost since his Guarneri was made, it has been in the private collection of a very wealthy family. For two centuries, it has lain in its case on a velvet pad and has been played only a few times. And, now, it is in active use for the first time.

PEALE

I asked the violinist if it would be necessary to work with the Guarneri for a while before it could be brought up to its best form.

"Ah, yes," he said. "It's asleep. It doesn't know its own power and beauty. I must play it until I wake it up and when I do there will pour from it riotous melody and harmony."

The thought occurred to me then that far too many of us lie asleep and ineffective, waiting for a master touch to awaken us and fill us with life. For there is great power in each of us, much greater power than we realize or even dare imagine. This power was built into us in the process of creation and we cannot lose it — but we can permit it to lie dormant and useless.

WHAT IS MYSTERIOUS POWER?

There is no mystery about it — it is simply God-power and every child of God has it. The Bible says, "The Kingdom of God is within you." And what is the Kingdom of God? It is the assembling together of God's riches, His powers, His greatness and His goodness. It is in you and, by wise and proper use of it, you can change anything in your life that needs changing and overcome any difficulty.

There is no reason at all why any of us should not be our best selves, giving and doing our best. There is no reason why we should be defeated and victimized by anything. You can draw a bow across the strings of a violin and, if you know how to do it properly, if you know the technique, you can waken that instrument and bring out the most beautiful music from within it. How do you waken a human being and bring out the best within him? You must know the technique.

Fortunately for all of us, the technique is relatively simple. It is thinking and believing in terms of faith. And what is faith? Faith is the releasing mechanism of a human being. It is not merely intellectual assent to some doctrine, proposition or creed. It is belief, and the Bible uses that word in its real Anglo-Saxon sense, deriving, as it does, from a word meaning "akin to God."

* * * * * *

So, the secret is to achieve a real sense of being akin to God. It is more than merely affirming that you have faith and that you believe — it is living by that faith and that belief. And, when you actually live by it, you are bound to bring out the best that is within you.

* * * * * *

There is nothing theoretical about this process. I have seen it happen to thousands of people and am certain it can happen to you. Never forget the basic fact about yourself—you are greater and finer than you think. Follow the technique I have suggested and you will awaken yourself to a better life than you have ever known before.

PONTIAC COMMITTEE — The Board of Directors of the Baptist Institute of the Ozarks is forming 25 Living Endowment Committees to enlist some 2,000 persons who will subscribe at least 25 cents weekly to the support of the Institute. The Pontiac area committee consists of (left to right) C. A. Ebey of 3294 Frembes St., Drayton Plains; Floyd Evans of 1306 Airway St., Perry Walton of 490 W. 10,000 Persons Attend Meeting

Four - Day Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses Held at Lansing

More than 10,000 persons attended the four-day district assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses held at Lansing recently.

Sponsored by the Watchtower Society, the event drew members from Europe, South America, Canada and all parts of the United States.

* * *

R. L. Anderson of New York City spoke on "Why Permanent Peace Will Come in Our Day."

Counsel was given on moral conduct, Christian marriage and its obligations.

Taking up the ministerial work of Jehovah's Witnesses will be the 349 candidates who were immersed in water at the mass baptism.

* * *

A special resolution was unanimously endorsed by the entire assembly and sent to Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin of Soviet Russia, demanding the release of all Jehovah's Witnesses and restoration of the freedom of worship to all people behind the Iron Curtain.

Ike OKs Law to Stamp Down Pornography

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has signed into law a bill that may make "fly-by-night" dealers in pornography and obscenity knuckle under to postal regulations.

* * *

The new law gives the postmaster general authority to impound for 20 days mail suspected of violating postal laws on pornography. The department head can get a court order extending the ban if a federal judge agrees the confiscated publications violate the law. The extension can remain in effect until the case comes to trial.

The advantage of this new law is that it enables postal officials to move in quickly on dealers. Previously, the operator could send out order forms for his obscene material, wait a few weeks for the orders and money to arrive, then mail the material and close down his business.

Usually, he opened under a new name some time later. Generally, postal authorities were unable to catch him before he closed because of a series of administrative delays made necessary by old laws.

Under the new measure, they can act as soon as a complaint is received. It is thought they will be able to reach the dealer before he closes shop and runs.

* * *

A. McGregor Goff, solicitor of the postoffice department, told the NCWC News Service that what is still urgently needed is a law permitting criminal prosecutions of pornography dealers in the states to which they mail their materials.

102 Million Drinkers

A recent Gallup Poll survey discloses that of the United States' estimated adult population of 102 million, 62 million persons use alcoholic beverages, 40 million do not.

Topic: Teenage Drinking

Last month at a Connecticut, New Jersey, New York conference of some 50 county and community officials, New York's teenage drinking situation was the main topic of discussion.

Baptist Institute Will Enlist 2,000

Program to Provide Training for Christian Service

In order to strengthen its program and expand its activities, the Baptist Institute of the Ozarks has launched a Living Endowment Campaign.

The Institute will seek $25,000 in private subscriptions throughout the six states in the mid-western area.

The program is slanted toward providing foundational training for Christian service on both high school and junior college levels.

Students will be required to study the Bible; to pray and witness; to be honest and dependable; courteous and cooperative; industrious and well-groomed.

All full-time instructors have one or more academic degrees and several have had post graduate training.

All transfer students have received credit for courses completed at the Institute.

Several institutions of higher learning have approved the high school and junior college program as being acceptable prerequisites for advanced study, provided that graduates meet all other requirements for entrance.

Satisfactory marks in the more advanced courses must also be maintained.

Perry Walton of 490 W. Walton Blvd. is chairman of the local area committee to interest about 2,000 people who will contribute 25 cents or more weekly to the support of the Institute.

Takes Time for Bible

During training for a featherweight fight, Shigezi Kamako, featherweight boxing champion of the Orient, takes time out for his Bible class. Mr. Kamako was converted to Christianity seven years ago because his sister interested him in going to church. Her gift to him when he won his boxing title was a Bible.

Bibles Still Very Popular With GM Factory Workers

A few months ago the personnel department of General Motors sent in a surprise request to an agency it employs to prepare booklets for its employes' reading racks. "Give us one," they said, "on how to read the Bible."

* * *

The agency had never been asked to supply anything in the field of religion before.

When the booklet was prepared, General Motors ordered not the customary 275,000 required to fill all the racks in its various plants, but 325,000, feeling the subject would have an especially wide appeal. They were not mistaken; the number ordered eventually approached half a million.

"Does your rack service carry this leaflet?" asked a General Motors employes of his next-door neighbor, who works for International Harvester. "Never saw it," was the reply; "but we need something like that. I'm going to ask them to get it."

* * *

And so it came about that the "How to Read the Bible", booklet originally prepared for General Motors found its way into the reading racks of United States Steel, Aluminum Company of America, General Electric, Socony-Vacuum Oil, Koppers Company, Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation and literally scores of other great industries. Altogether more than 2,000 orders were received, until the total number distributed approximated a million and a half copies!

Bishop Sheen Returns to TV on October 15

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Auxiliary Bishop Fulton J. Sheen of New York said here his television program, "Life Is Worth Living," has been tentatively scheduled to resume Oct. 15. It will be the program's fifth consecutive year.

* * *

The bishop made the statement in an interview during a visit to Fort Worth for celebrations marking the 25th anniversary of the consecration of Bishop Thomas K. Gorman of Dallas-Fort Worth.

He said the new series is expected to run 26 weeks and is planned for Mondays over the ABC-TV network.

It is estimated that 130 radio and TV stations will carry the program, as compared to 117 during the 1955-56 season.

* * *

Bishop Sheen's program is aired under contract with the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, of which he is national director. All the money received by the society for the program is devoted to helping needy peoples in foreign mission territories throughout the world, regardless of religion or race.

'In God We Trust'— Now Official U.S. Motto

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — The official motto of the United States now is "In God We Trust."

A Congressional resolution making that phrase the nation's motto has been signed into law by President Eisenhower.

Prof. Kato Heads Kwansei Gakuinites

Professor Heidjiro Kato has been elected to the presidency of Kwansei Gakuin University, Methodist College in Nishinomiya, Japan. Professor Kato is a graduate of Oberlin College, Ohio, and lived in the United States for several years. He has been on the faculty of Kwansei Gakuin for more than twenty years and for several years has been principal of the junior college in that institution.

* * *

Kwansei Gakuin was founded by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the city of Kobe in 1889, with high school and theological departments. Dr. Walter N. Lambuth is regarded as the founder of the institution.

* * *

A college department was added in 1912, and the University now includes a graduate school with five colleges, a junior college of English and Commerce, and senior and junior high schools. Originally admitting men students only, since World War II, the junior college and university department have been open to women as well.

23 College Graduates Set for Mission Field

Twenty-three young women and three young men are in training at National College for Christian Workers, Kansas City, Mo., through August 31, for service as mission workers in institutions of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist Board of Missions, in the United States and its territories.

All members of the group are college graduates, most of them having graduated this year. They constitute the sixth such group to serve as special team (two year) missionaries in the home field. The "U.S.-2" program, as it is called, was started in 1951 and is similar to a foreign service program which sends young lay mission workers abroad for a three year term.

Sanctuary, Sunday School Are Under Construction

Footings and foundation walls are in for the new Christian Missionary and Alliance Church located on the 3½ acres of ground at the northeast corner of W. Huron and N. Cass Lake roads.

* * *

The overall size of the sanctuary including the foyer, platform and baptistry will be 50x100 ft. with the sanctuary seating 400.

The Sunday School unit at the back of the sanctuary will be 46x154 ft. According to the plans, it will include 20 class rooms, a library and two assembly rooms.

The church offices will be located above the foyer and the glass enclosed nursery will be beside the foyer.

* * *

The front will be of brick and red siding with no steps at the entrance. The walls of the sanctuary both inside and outside will be of buff brick. The arches will be of laminated wood.

The architect has estimated the cost at $150,000. The building committee, acting as general contractor and sub-letting contracts, hopes to build at a lesser cost as members of the church will assist with the work.

The Rev. G. J. Bersche, pastor, stated that the financing of the new building is a faith project; the free-will offerings of the people are counted on to keep the program moving.

A seven room parsonage was erected on the site last year. The pastor expects the congregation to occupy the new church within two years.

* * *

The Christian Missionary and Alliance Church had its beginning in a prayer meeting held in a home in February 1929.

In October of the same year, a Sunday School was started. A month later, the group held worship services in a store on Colorado Ave.

In January 1930, families moved to the old contagious hospital on Franklin Rd. A lot was purchased on Arthur Ave. and a cement block building was erected. The group moved into their new church in 1931 at which time they received a charter.

In 1933 the church at the present site, 178 Green St. was rented from Bethany Baptist Church. The Arthur Ave. property was sold and the present church home was purchased in 1934.

The pastor, the Rev. G. J. Bersche, came to the church in 1948.

Progress of Church Told at Conference

Dr. G. E. Hutches of Lansing, president of the Michigan Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, released figures today telling of the progress of the church in Michigan at the annual camp meeting being held near Grand Ledge.

He reported that the conference had acquired by purchase or construction a new church, a new school or other building every 16 days the past year.

Major projects included a new headquarters office building in Lansing and an auditorium at Adelphian Academy, Holly.

Tonight the campers will hear the last of the series of sermons by H.M.S. Richards of Glendale, Calif. A temperance rally is slated for tomorrow night.

Mercy College Nurses Aided by Federal Grant

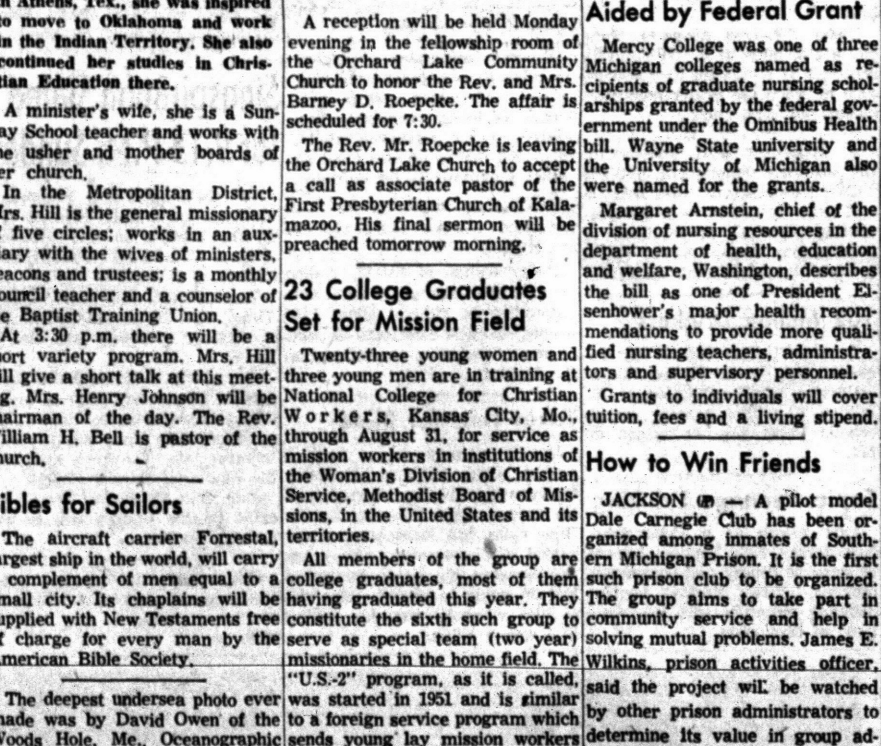

Mercy College was one of three Michigan colleges named as recipients of graduate nursing scholarships granted by the federal government under the Omnibus Health bill. Wayne State university and the University of Michigan also were named for the grants.

Margaret Arnstein, chief of the division of nursing resources in the department of health, education and welfare, Washington, describes the bill as one of President Eisenhower's major health recommendations to provide more qualified nursing teachers, administrators and supervisory personnel.

Grants to individuals will cover tuition, fees and a living stipend.

Church Group Seeks Membership in Council

The Evangelical Lutheran Church, with nearly 1,000,000 members has voted to apply for immediate membership in the World Council of Churches. Action was taken during the body's 22nd general convention held recently in Minneapolis, Minn.

It removes the main obstacle remaining in the path of the Church's proposed merger in 1960 with two other U.S. Lutheran groups, the American Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church. An article in the proposed merger plan for the three churches contains a section requiring it to apply for membership in the world organization.

American Buys Killarney Lakes

Shure, Me Bucko, Ye Better Keep Up Thim Traditions

KILLARNEY, County Kerry, Ireland (AP)—The beautiful lakes of Killarney, hailed in many a minstrel's ballad, have been sold to an American—but one who vows he has true respect for the traditions of Erin.

* * *

J. Stewart Robertson, Boca Raton, Fla., purchased the famed Irish scenic spot owned by the Kenmare family under a grant issued by Queen Elizabeth I some 400 years ago. Trustees for the late 7th earl handled the transaction.

The late earl's granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Grosvenor, put the lakes up for sale when she found the British wanted $196,000 inheritance duty on the estate which includes properties in both Ireland and England.

* * *

The purchase price was not divulged, but it was reported Mrs. Grosvenor was asking $280,000. She has retained a portion of the land to build a home for herself.

Robertson told reporters in Boca Raton his purchase includes the lower and middle Killarney "beautiful, rolling countryside."

The townfolk of Killarney took the purchase announcement in good spirit. And they brightened perceptibly when told Robertson's father, who was born near Glasgow, Scotland, had the foresight to move to County Kilkenny, Ireland, in his youth.

* * *

Robertson has promised to honor the traditions of the picturesque, mountain-ringed lakes. He said he thought the Kenmare family representatives had cleared the deal when they realized "I had lived in Ireland . . . and would not exploit the property."

He said he plans to occupy 400-year-old Kenmare house, a huge 18-bedroom mansion in Killarney as a seasonal home.

* * *

Robertson, 59, a native of Chicago, was a New York City businessman until he went to Florida 11 years ago.

Twins Joining Mission Ranks

Graduates of Minnesota Head for Asian Fields to Spread Word of God

* * *

Both are graduates in industrial engineering of the University of Minnesota and both are headed for Southeast Asia as Methodist missionaries. They are believed to be the first twins to go out as missionaries either under the present Methodist Church or under any of the three Methodist bodies which united in 1939 to form the present denomination.

* * *

The Johnson twins, both of whom were track lettermen at Minnesota, are going out as special-term missionaries for three years, Tom to Sumatra and Dick to Malaya. Both will teach in mission schools, primarily industrial trades and technical subjects, of their joint decision to go as missionaries (at $1,200 a year) in the face of more lucrative offers in the engineering field, they said:

"Our purpose is from a sense of obligation to our church. This is the way we can give our lives for three years in a place where our talents and education can be used to serve."

* * *

Since June 26, the Johnsons have been at Scarritt College for Christian Workers, Nashville, Tenn., taking a six-week orientation course in missions and missionary work with 36 other missionaries-to-be. The group mostly 1956 college graduates, will serve in Korea, Japan, Hawaii, Southeast Asia and Latin America.

* * *

Tom and Dick were born in Alexandria, Minn., but spent most of their early life in Owatonna, having attended elementary and high school there. They were students two years at Macalaster College, St. Paul, and then transferred to the university. Both were graduated last spring.

* * *

Working as a team, the Johnson twins engaged in much the same activities in college. In addition to runners and members of the Toastmaster's Club (of which Dick was secretary), the Minnesota Society of Work-Study Students, the Athenean Society, the Lettermen's Club and the Wesley Foundation, an organization for Methodist students (of which Tom was treasurer).

* * *

In addition to their academic training in industrial engineering, both Johnsons worked as student engineers for the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company in Minneapolis, they are members of the First Methodist Church in Minneapolis.

Methodist Church Spreads in Korea

Evidence of the growth of the Christian church in Korea, and specifically of the Methodist growth, comes to the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church from two sources.

* * *

Korea, with the Belgian Congo, Bolivia and northern Borneo, is to receive special Methodist evangelistic efforts in the next four years because mission strategists consider it a "land of decision" for Christianity.

To WHICH CHURCH did the APOSTLES BELONG?

There is much unnecessary confusion about the beginning of the Christian Church—the early New Testament Church to which the apostles belonged.

Much of this confusion is rooted in the fact that some segments of Christianity in the twentieth century have claimed the early New Testament Church as their own exclusive ancestry. In so doing there has inevitably been distortion in presenting the picture of the early Church.

The fact is, the early Church did not have various "faiths" and "denominations." It was simply composed of those who came to believe in the risen Saviour, Jesus Christ. Through their faith in Christ they knew that they would be saved from the wrath of God. The Bible says that "the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." (Acts 2: 47)

Bible-believing Christians today do not maintain that the Church is made up of just one sect or denomination. The basis of membership in the Church has not changed since the first century. The Church is still composed of all those who believe in Jesus Christ as Saviour. It is still made up of all those who are saved.

There is close fellowship today among Bible-believing Christians in numerous Protestant groups, just as there was close fellowship among the various groups of believers in the days of the apostles. Among these believers the Bible has always stood as the supreme authority in spiritual matters.

Through the Bible message of salvation these Christian believers have come to know a newness of life which was known to the apostles—and to all believers of their day. The Bible says that "if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away: behold, all things are become new." (II Corinthians 5: 17)

June K. Dwyer Becomes Bride of R. Richard Ray

June Kathryn Dwyer became the bride of R. Richard Ray this morning at an eleven o'clock Nuptial Mass in St. Joseph Church, Lake Orion. The Mass was celebrated by the Rev. George Ging.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis W. Dwyer of Lake Orion are June's parents, and Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Ray of Detroit.

The gown was fashioned with a Queen Anne collar covered with lace and embroidered with seed pearls. Long sleeves were pointed at the wrists. Soft folds of the skirt fell from a dropped waistline, and extended into a cathedral-length train.

The bride's fingertip veil of illusion was secured by a Juliet cap covered with heirloom lace and embroidered with seed pearls. She carried white orchids and stephanotis on a white prayer book.

SISTERS TOOK PART

Carol Dwyer was her sister's maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. William F. Anhut of Ypsilanti, another sister of the bride, Mrs. Joseph C. Dwyer of Saginaw, sister-in-law of the bride; Joan Ray, sister of the bridegroom, Rose Marie Brand of Alexandria, Va.; Cecilia Shea of Detroit and Patricia Laney of Buffalo, N. Y.

World Law Is a Necessity

NEW YORK (INS)—Dr. Norman Cousins told the Soroptimist International Assn. Friday that it is necessary to "substitute world law for world anarchy."

Dr. Cousins, editor, lecturer, traveler and writer, told the women's service clubs convening in New York that even more horrible than the extermination of life in a third world war is "the possibility that the scientists may be wrong and that mankind could survive the next war."

The dignity of man, not to mention the genes which shape his heredity, could be changed by the terrible weapons which we now possess.

Cousins; after stressing the need for organized religion to make itself felt as a unifying factor in the destiny of mankind, told the group:

"Passing from the role of the church to the political machinery set up for the establishment of peace, we naturally turn to the United Nations. Here, we face the cold fact that many people are losing confidence in the U.N. as an adequate and effective means in maintaining peace in the world." He added:

"The U.N. has the obligation to prescribe for itself. It must be a living organism, with ideas and a personality of its own, rather than a zone of diplomacy or a projection center for foreign policies which regard the U.N. as secondary rather than as central in the affairs of the world."

Cousins advised striving for "freedom from aggression" via armaments control, "enforceable world law" and "a United Nations strong enough to safeguard the cause of human life."

He said:

"A world free from aggression is a world ready for the great steps that can now be taken for liberating the human species from hunger, degradation, disease. For the same energies that can pulverize this planet can make of it a good earth."

While Cousin's speech was the serious highlight of the convention's last day, the social main event was the tea given by the wife of New York's mayor, Mrs. Robert F. Wagner, for the officers of the Soroptimist International, and those of the British, continental and American federations.

John C. Maddox Jr. Takes Jane F. Germany as Bride

BIRMINGHAM — In the First Presbyterian Church of Mansfield, Ohio this afternoon Jane F. Germany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Germany of Mansfield, was married to John C. Maddox Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. John Cowling Maddox of Walnut Lake road, Birmingham.

The bride's gown was of white taffeta, princess style, with a portrait neckline on the Chantilly lace bodice. Two lace panels curved over the hipline into a chapel train.

Mary Germany was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Elizabeth Garland of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Nancy Ward of Mansfield. They wore aqua taffeta frocks with matching caps and carried yellow roses and stephanotis.

David Beatty of Oxford was best man. Ushers were Richard Spademan and Peter Gryson of Birmingham and James Germany of Mansfield, brother of the bride.

* * *

Mrs. Maddox wore a tangerine and white printed organza dress and a corsage of white roses.

* * *

For her wedding trip to Florida by motor the bride wore a champagne linen dress and jacket. The couple will live in Ann Arbor where the bridegroom will study for two more years at the University of Michigan Dental School.

Primer to Ivy League, He-Man Togs Rate A-Plus

High Style for Blackboard Brigade

Whether they're off to the "little red school house" or the "halls of ivy," this fall's masculine blackboard brigade will be as dapperly dressed a group as ever learned the three R's.

And it won't take the teacher's "Old Hickory Stick" or Mom's fervent pleas to make these prize pupils dress up.

Taking highest honors in the fashion curriculum this semester, are he-man shirts, sweaters and coordinates that are styled to perfection and meet the most exacting demands of the junior set, aged two to twenty.

* * *

All the wardrobe additions have been carefully designed to look well together, color and style-wise, and yet be comfortable and long lasting.

MANY COORDINATES

There are, for example, coordinated Ivy League dress and sports shirts. Both are available in red, blue and brown checks and stripes two of fall's most favored patterns.

The dress shirts boast a handsome box pleat in the back, plus new shorter collars. Sport shirts, too, come with one-piece collars or in the button-down version.

* * *

Vertical and horizontal striped sport shirts, corduroys in solid colors or with handsome Navajo and African chest motifs, flannels and tartan plaids also are being offered to the pint-sized fashion expert. Color combinations of blue and brown are rainbow favorites.

Another pennant-winner is the no-iron shirt group. This group is highlighted by Saturday afternoon prints, colorful shirts with either a parking lot or flag vendor motif.

For the football field, ice skating and skiing, or any other sport, orlon sweaters are sure to score. Colors are brilliant, chest patterns striking and the yarn is soft and fluffy.

Also important in the fall lineup are coordinated outfits consisting of neatly pressed slacks, shirts, jackets and caps. Red is one of the "hottest" fashion attractions this term.

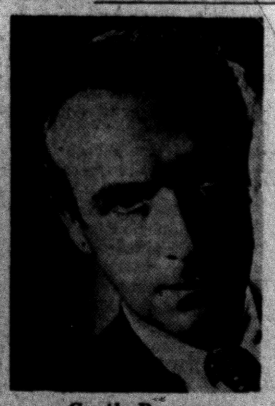

Corduroy coordinates are worn by the kindergarten contingent. This outfit consists of corduroy slacks, jacket and cap, plus a plaid flannel shirt. The trouser cuffs, jacket and cap lining are also made in matching plaid flannel.

For jumping through hoops or down-to-earth playing, these corduroy separates fit the bill. The patterned tapered slacks are topped by a contrasting drawstring overblouse.

Bride Needs Nutrition Know-How

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I do not know whether or not more young women know how to cook today than did in the past. Whatever the truth may be concerning this there are still lots of girls who marry without the slightest idea of how to prepare food.

This isn't too serious because anyone with average intelligence, a good cook book and practice can learn to cook well.

Of course it would be much better for the bridegroom if his bride did not have to practice on him. Cooking skill seems especially important today when very few young couples can afford any help.

However, the thing which is most distressing is the lack of knowledge of nutrition. In the hands of the wife lie not only the health and vitality of her family but emotional values as well. A man whose diet lacks important food elements is very likely to be touchy and hard to live with.

BUILDS HAPPY HOME

Food which is appetizing and attractively served in a harmonious atmosphere and yet contains the essential food values, goes a long way toward building a happy home. Without some study of nutrition and psychology it is difficult for a woman to realize the importance of the food she serves her family.

The most vital thing is to be sure that your menus give you and your family all of the elements essential for fine health. After that cater to the tastes of your husband in food as much as you can without lowering your standards of good nutrition.

The husband and wife may have greatly different tastes in food. As in so many cases in marriage, compromise seems best here. Why not have at least one favorite dish for each of you at each meal. With a little effort you can each cultivate the taste of the other.

* * *

Not only are young brides lacking in a knowledge of nutrition but many women who have been married for years know little or nothing about food, a subject which is so important to the wellbeing, happiness and success of their husbands and children.

There is a tremendous amount of material about nutrition. Why not spend a few hours a week at your local library or buy a few books on this subject?

If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamin Defense" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 37 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Anyone with average intelligence, a good cookbook and practice can learn to cook well. The most distressing thing about cooking is the lack of knowledge of nutrition. The health, vitality and emotional values of the family lie in the hands of the cook.

Up-to-Date Accessories Important

PARIS (INS)—Litlte things mean a lot, particularly those tiny touches in the field of fashion which show that a woman is up-to-date on all the latest style details.

Starting at the throat, you can invest in four strands of pearls to add to your choker necklace. The latest fashion calls for pearl necklaces which cover the throat like a bib.

FEMININE TOUCH

Look for a wide satin belt to shape your jersey tube dress. These belts look feminine when trimmed in front with three flat little bows, one above the other.

* * *

Plan your budget so it includes a high, Russian-looking fur hat as well as a saucy chapeau of ostrich feathers or swan's down.

Save up for a cape. It can be suit-jacket length for street wear or dress length for formal occasions.

Full-Sized Check

Best checkup on your appearance is a glance in the full-length mirror. The hat that seemed so right with the dress when you were seated may prove to be all wrong.

Dad Refuses to Call Son Before Visit

Dropping In on Boy, Wife Brings About In-Law Problem

"Dear Mrs. Post: My son recently married and he and his wife live about 20 minutes away from here. My husband and I drop in on them occasionally in the evening for a visit. The last time we were there my daughter-in-law hinted that we should telephone before going to see them.

"I must admit I was quite taken back at this, but I am perfectly willing to call to keep peace in the family. But my husband flatly refuses to do so as he feels that he has the right to visit his son whenever he pleases without having to telephone. I would very much appreciate your opinion on this matter."

Answer: It certainly would be pleasanter if you could get your husband to agree with your daughter-in-law. I am sure she has good reasons for asking this and that it isn't anything personal to you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon. I plan on having a rather large church wedding and a small reception for both families and closest relatives. Two weeks ago my aunt gave a shower for me and invited 25 friends.

"I had intended to invite these friends to the church only buthave been told that all those invited to the shower must be invited to the wedding reception. Will you please tell me if I am obliged to invite them all to the reception?"

Answer: If you are really not inviting anyone but relatives and very close friends, it is perfectly excusable not to invite these others and they should not feel hurt.

Wash the storm windows now, and cover with newspapers. Store in a corner of the garage or basement against the day when you'll just have to put them up.

Volunteer Work Should Fit Talents

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"The trouble with me is, I can't say no when people ask me to take on a volunteer job." This statement is made often and always with a great deal of pride.

"I'm so kind - hearted," they seem to be saying, "I just work my fingers to the bone."

But usually, these people don't do a very good job or stick with any one chore very long or really follow through. They just like to feel needed.

In fact, whenever people complain about some facet of their personalities, it's a cinch they're really very proud of it. Nobody ever says, "The trouble with me is, I have no sense of humor!"

MAY BE WEAKNESS

If you find yourself complaining about all your volunteer chores, face the fact that it may not be kind-heartedness at all—it may be weakness and lack of self respect for your own abilities.

* * *

The woman who honestly knows her main talent, and takes it and it alone to her volunteer work, never has this kind of trouble.

And she does a wonderful job for the organization and for her own self-development.

If you are a good cook, take your cooking talents to your volunteer work. Provide church suppers but do not, even if the church pleads with you, take on the every-member canvass or do filing or record-keeping.

* * *

USE ABILITY

And by taking your real ability for cooking, and giving lavishly of it, you will do them more good than you will if you try to be "noble" and ruin their filing system!

Moreover, if your volunteer work is along the lines of your real abilities, you will feel a sense of accomplishment which will make you want, really want, to stick with it.

If it goes against the grain of your abilities, you will have to have the will power of a saint to make yourself keep at it.

One woman I know has been a volunteer at her local hospital for 14 years. She works for the hospital library and loves it.

She has always been interested in books, reads all the reviews and loves helping the patients make their selections. She has a real specialty and it colors and enhances every area of her life.

The hospital couldn't get along without her. And she always says a firm and pleasant no to any other requests. This keeps her busy and she cannot take on irrelevant duties.

If you're interested in making your volunteer work more meaningful, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope care of this newspaper and I'll send you "Pointers Toward Finding the Right Volunteer Work."

Sittin' on Curbs Stringing Leis

HONOLULU (INS)— Curb-stone sitters in Hawaii don't just sit and bask in the sunshine—they keep nimble fingers busy stringing orchids into leis.

The lei-makers include hefty Hawaian mothers and grandmothers and also quite a few men, all sitting on the curb next to their flower trucks.

They are so expert that they can string a thousand blossoms an hour into leis to welcome tourists to Hawaii.

Make a Shirtwaist Sheath for Many-Occasion Wear

Anne Klein of Jr. Sophisticates knows the kind of thing that is most likely to succeed on the campus—it's this step-in shirtwaist sheath designed without a waistline to add to its casual air and adaptability.

Although tailored in appearance, it can serve at many occasions since its formality depends on fabric choice. Thus in wool, tweed, gabardine or dark cottons it is a classroom favorite.

In shantung, faille, brocade or novelty materials it becomes a lovely afternoon tea or cocktail model—and you might try moving the belt up under the bust, or even lower than your normal waist.

Even a beginner will discover how easy this is to make, in spite of the blind front opening and vented and welted bodice pockets because the pattern is custom cut with accurate perforations to insure precise matching.

NOT STANDARD CUT

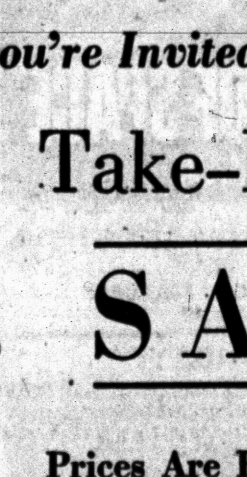

This hand cut, custom made pattern is not standard size but is the only pattern available with exclusive designers retail sizing measurements for a more accurate fit, better styling, less altering.

The pattern features open perforations for easy markings without damaging tissue; also time saving, fabric saving, money saving; no tracing wheel or carbon paper needed; easy to follow instructions for beginners.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips Inches	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
7	32½	22½	32½	15¾
9	33½	23½	34½	16
11	34½	24½	35½	16¼
13	36	26	37	16½
15	37½	27½	38½	16¾

Size 13 requires 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material for dress and ¼ of a yard of 35 inch material for interfacing. To order Pattern No. 1273, state size, enclose $1.00. Airmail handling requires 25c extra. Do it yourself: collar and cuffs of tweed (to match skirt) on leather jacket for newest campus or country wear.

Leather and tweed are hard to beat as a combination because they look so well together and the way the textures offset and complement each other. Add a set of collar and cuffs of tweed to your leather jacket.

Mental Tricks to Help You Keep Cool on Torrid Days

Don't Fret and Fume at Temperature; Do Absorbing Task, Freshen Up, Swim

By RUTH MILLETT

There are a lot of things you can do on a hot, hot summer day to help you forget the heat, at least for a little while.

You can take the children swimming. Instead of sitting on the sidelines while they splash away happily, forget your hairdo, climb into your bathing suit and splash right along beside them.

Fill the bird bath and you'll feel refreshed just watching the birds going back for dip after dip.

Plan a cool looking, inviting evening meal and wait until the sun goes down to serve it outdoors or on the porch.

* * *

Put on the coolest looking dress in your closet, tie your hair back with a ribbon and see if you don't feel cooler just by looking fresh and pretty.

IGNORE TEMPERATURE

Ignore the weather report in the paper that tells you how hot it is going to be today or how hot it was. When the temperature soars it is even hotter if you know exactly how high it has gone.

* * *

Don't be ashamed of being lazy. On a scorcher of a day do only the things you really have to do. Slide through those as easily as possible.

Don't mention the heat to everyone you meet. Talking about the weather always makes it seem worse.

If you can, spend at least part of the day doing something that is so absorbing you don't have time to worry about the heat.

Summer lasts just so long. But it will seem longer if you fight it. Make up you mind to take it in your stride.

Ike Turns Down Flood-River Bill

'Not in Public Interest,' He Says in Veto Note, Expresses Regret

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criticizing some provisions as "not in the public interest," President Eisenhower yesterday vetoed a bill authorizing $1,600,000,000 for flood control and river and harbor development.

This was the first time since 1940—also an election year—that a president has vetoed such a measure—known by tradition as a "pork barrel" bill because it contains so many pet projects of congressmen.

* * *

The measure would have authorized 99 projects, or project modifications, and 14 river basin improvements around the country.

Eisenhower said he regretted the veto, but that "my action . . . need cause no delay in starting the many worthwhile projects in the bill."

The President's veto statement said that since funds have not been appropriated for the projects, the next Congress can reconsider provisions in the rejected authorization measure.

Boater Gets Ticketed for Reckless Driving

NEW YORK (AP)—Two policemen on patrol in a helicopter chased down a motorboat speedster and tagged him with a ticket yesterday. They said he zoomed through a crowd of bathers at Manhattan Beach.

The helicopter hovered over the boat until it ran aground. The aerial patrolmen landed nearby and gave Albert Castrulli, 35, Brooklyn, a ticket for endangering bathers.

Arranger Buddy Bregman Startling Music World

By HAL McCLURE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the hottest newcomers in the music world today is a husky boy-next-door type named Buddy Bregman.

* * *

The 26-year-old arranger and orchestra leader has come a long way since he left the University of California at Los Angeles six years ago. He was then considering following his father in the steel business.

Today his credits include arrangements for such hits as Gogi Grant's "The Waywind Wind," "Who Are We," "Suddenly There's a Valley," and "Ella Fitzgerald Sings Cole Porter."

Bregman's contract with RCA-Victor allows him to appear on any other record label as arranger or orchestra leader. Victor has the sole use of his services as starring piano artist, however.

Bregman says he thinks he clicked because of his versatility as an arranger. He added:

* *

"I believe I can do a jazz arrangement for Count Basie as one for, say, Jane Powell." He's done both, by the way.

And where many arrangers have trouble knocking out one song arrangement a day, Bregman says, "I can do four without trouble."

Bregman's talent has landed him the top spot as artist and repertoire man for Norman Granz's (Jazz at the Philharmonic) Verve label. He should earn about $75,000 this year.

* * *

Not bad for a young man who couldn't make up his mind about what to do when he left school. In May 1950 he married Gloria Haley, daughter of comedian Jack Haley, and they left for New York on their honeymoon.

He was visiting Haley at a television studio where the latter was starring in a summer replacement show when he got his start in the music business. The pianist didn't show up for rehearsal and Bregman filled in.

"Right then I decided I wanted to be a musician," he said.

He got a job as an arranger on the show with orchestra leader Carl Hoff. "They even paid me while I learned," he said.

After the show folded the Bregmans came back to Hollywood, where they found the going rough. "Man, I pounded on doors for six months," he said.

And it wasn't until he did the arrangements for singer-actress Joanne Gilbert for her 1952 Mocambo opening that his career started moving again. For two years, he says, he did arrangements "for practically every big name in Hollywood who took a night club act to Las Vegas." Van Johnson, Vic Damone, Kay Thompson and Jane Powell, to mention a few.

UNUSUAL STORY — Love and suspense prevail in "Autumn Leaves," film play starring Joan Crawford and Cliff Robertson, now at the Pontiac Drive-In Theater. Also billed are Rossana Podesta and Alan Ladd in "Santiago."

Blue Ribbon Changes Cries – to Top Prize

A month ago today, four-year-old Johnny Matas was losing weight and crying in his sleep over "Paisan," a 100-pound black German Shepherd dog that hadn't come home for nine days.

* * *

* * *

A Pontiac man gave the dog to Johnny after his family was told by anonymous phone calls that a neighbor had shot and buried Paisan.

Johnny's mother, Mrs. John Matas of 1175 Jay Rd., Waterford Township, reports the cocker, "Mike," is the apple of Johnny's eye.

'Father' Rescues ROK Orphans

West Coast Farmer Adopts 8, Finds New Homes for 80 Others

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Harry Holt came home yesterday with 24 more orphans fathered by GIs in Korea.

The Cresswell, Ore., farmer has adopted eight himself and found homes on the west coast for 80 others.

* * *

Holt said the abandoned tots get harsh treatment in Korea because of their mixed parentage. He hopes to rescue 140 more now being cared for at an orphanage in Seoul before a refugee relief act expires at the end of the year. He estimated there are 1,500 such youngsters in Korea.

Holt's 19-year-old daughter, Barbara, helped him take care of the 24 new arrivals on their flight across the Pacific by commercial airliner. The 51-year-old farmer had one of his recurring heart attacks after the plane left Honolulu but appeared to have recovered when it landed here yesterday.

He works through World Vision Inc., a religious organization helping the youngsters.

Coachers, CIO Blank City Foes as Season Ends

Unbeaten General Motors romped to its 22nd win of the summer and the CIO Local 594 was victorious in City Baseball League games Friday night as the Class A circuit finished its regular season schedule.

* * *

Both triumphs came via the shutout route. Dick Goldsworthy pitched a one-hitter as GMC whitewashed Fowler's Fine Foods, 12-0, at Wisner Field. Gene Cox and Judge Booker each made three safeties for the Coachers. The CIO blanked Griff's Grill at Columbia-Joslyn, 4-0, behind the six-hit hurling of Dan Keating.

The Class A post-season playoffs open Sunday afternoon at Wisner. The Union club will face Griff's again at 1:30 and Elks No. 723 will clash with Oliver Buick in the 3:30 nightcap.

Seeks Another Chance

Ronnie O'Berry, young Pontiac welterweight boxer, is going to get another chance at Dick Custer of Bay City, if his dad, Pat, can line up a return bout. Custer outpointed Ron Thursday night in Saginaw, in what has been described as one of the best scraps on the big upstate card. An injured right shoulder, received in pre-bout drills proved a tough handicap for O'Berry, his father reports.

Browns Crush College All-Stars, 26-0

On five plays Morrall moved the Collegians from the 29 to the Browns' 34 but at this point the ex-Spartan All-America was injured and the Stars were unable to cross midfield again.

Jerry Reichow, ex-Iowa signal caller came in for Morrall and his first pass attempt was intercepted in the end zone giving the Browns possession on the 20.

With Modzelewski carrying and George Ratterman hitting on four passes, the Browns went 80 yards in 11 plays.

The touchdown came on a 13 yard pass play from Ratterman to halfback Fred Morrison with 1:50 remaining in the first quarter.

Without any long yardage plays, the Browns moved into field goal position four of the next five times they had the ball.

Groza made it 10-0 early in the second quarter with a 45 yard kick and with 1:30 remaining in the half he made it 13-0 by splitting the bars from 30 yards out.

A field goal in the 3rd period was nullified because of a holding penalty but on the next play from the 24 yard line Groza made it 16-0.

Only 30 seconds remained in the 3rd quarter when the "Automatic Toe" made it 19-0 from the 34.

Gene Philipski former Villanova All-America, registered the Browns' final tally from the two yard line with two minutes remaining in the game.

* * *

There was little shown offensively by the All-Stars. Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Don McIlhenny and Jerry Reichow, the three Detroit Lion draft choices, all were in the backfield together on two occasions.

Cassady's best running display came on a 28 yard runback of a kickoff. He had a net of 21 yards on six carries.

Reichow completed one pass for one yard in four attempts and McIlhenny carried three times for six yards.

Modzelewski drove for 76 yards and was responsible for picking up eight of the Browns' 18 first downs.

* * *

Gary Glick of Colorado, did an outstanding job defensively as linebacker for the Stars.

The Pro-All-Star crowd had its biggest moments when a youngster raced off the field and through the stands, chased by an usher, after getting the ball following Groza's last extra point.

The three Lion rookies arrived this morning at Ypsilanti training camp where Detroit coach Buddy Parker was awaiting their arrival in time for a full dress scrimmage.

Temperature in the 80's at Soldier Field undoubtedly added to the seeming sluggishness of the graduated collegians as well as the National Football League Champion Browns.

Nothing could have been simpler than Groza's four field goals which measured 38, 30, 24 and 27 yards from the line of scrimmage.

* * *

Injuries and lateness of some players to report for drills were hurdles in head All-Star Coach Curly Lambeau's effort to weld mobile units among his group of collegians.

* * *

Nashua, Eight Rivals Seek $65,000 Purse

Nashua, the millionaire horse, is the big attraction on the national racing program today.

The 4-year-old son of Nasrullah, who cost a syndicate headed by Leslie Combs II $1,251,200 and has won $1,236,965, stands to pick up another $65,000 if he whips eight classy rivals in the inaugural running of the mile and one-eighth of the $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap.

Konno's Last Bid Gains Berth

U. S. Olympic Swim Team Complete

By BILL CORNWELL

DETROIT — When the United States Olympic swimming and diving team goes to Melbourne in November, this nation can relax with the knowledge that its future will be in secure hands.

Optimism over America's chances in the 1956 games, already at a high peak, soared to even greater heights here Friday when the final swimming and diving trials came to an end in Rouge Park's Brennan Pools.

The 46-member squad was officially completed after two more records went by the boards in yesterday's 7-event climax. A total of six American long course records were shattered and five Olympic marks were bettered during the 4-day tryouts.

Little Ford Konno, the ex-Ohio State star from Hawaii who sparkled in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki, earned a 2nd trip to the international competition by winning the 200-meter freestyle. It was Konno's last chance to repeat.

Clarence E. Pinkston, director of the Detroit Athletic Club, last night resigned his position as women's Olympic diving coach and a power failure, which blacked out the swimming pools, delayed proceedings to furnish additional closing highlights.

Yesterday's record breaking performances were turned in by George Breen of Buffalo in the strenuous 1,500-meter freestyle and Sylvia Ruuska of Berkeley, Calif., who smashed her own mark in the 400-meter freestyle.

Breen, who can best be described with superlatives, tirelessly stroked to a new American record for his 2nd victory of the final trials. Breen's time of 18:13.7 broke the figure of 18:19.0, set by Hironoshin Furuhashi at Los Angeles in 1949, and also topped Konno's winning effort in the '52 Olympics by almost 17 seconds.

The 14-year-old Miss Ruuska, whose clocking of 5:10.7 in the preliminaries Thursday was a record, registered the time of 5:10 flat. Both readings were better than the Olympic record.

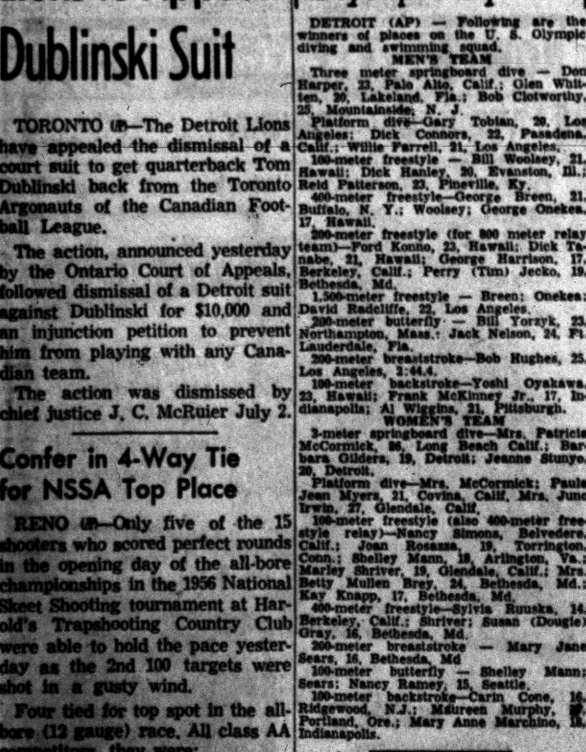

Carin Cone of Ridgewood, N.J., who set an American record of 1:14.4 in the 100-meter backstroke qualifiers, fell short of her time in the finals, but still won the event with 1:15.0. Shelley Mann of Walter Reed Swim Club posted 1:12.3 to win the 100-meter butterfly, a new Olympic event for women this year.

The overflow audience cheered wildly as Konno came home 1st in the 200-meter freestyle with a time of 2:10.6. Konno, along with Richard Tanabe, George Harrison and Perry Jecko, will comprise America's 800-meter freestyle team in Australia.

Mrs. Pat McCormick of Los Angeles made her 2nd consecutive sweep of diving honors by winning from the 10-meter flatboard. Mrs. Paula Jean Myers and Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin, the only two women who ever beat her in platform diving, finished 2nd and 3rd. Gary Tobian of Los Angeles won the men's platform diving, followed by Dick Connors and Willie Farrell.

The announcement of Pinkston's resignation was made by J. Edwin Aspinall, chairman of the women's Olympic swimming committee, at the conclusion of the final race. Glenn McCormick, coach of the Los Angeles Athletic Club's swimming team and husband of the famous Olympic champion, will replace Pinkston as women's diving instructor, Aspinall said.

The start of last night's program was held up for nearly an hour when the lights went out, plunging the arena into darkness. An estimated 36,000 spectators attended the Olympic trials during their 4-day stand.

Boys Club Teams Draw 1st Blood

Two Pontiac Boys Club teams drew 1st blood in the Class F and Midget regional baseball tournaments here Friday while the Pontiac Police and a 3rd Boys Club representative annexed city Junior titles in classes D and E.

* * *

A couple of Center Line squads fell before the Pike Street campaigners in the two younger division games. Tom Mayes and Darrel Thorpe combined to pitch a three-hit shutout for a 1-0 decision in "F" and the Midget nine rapped out a dozen hits for a 6-2 triumph.

Whitey Larson pitched a dazzling two-hit shutout as the Policemen handed the Boys Club its only setback yesterday, 3-0, to win the "D" crown. Clarkston bowed to the Boys Club in Class E, 2-1, when the latter team scored two runs in the 6th inning.

Emmanuel, Drayton Win Playoff Tilts

Glenn (Winmy) Johnson pitched a one-hit shutout as Emmanuel Baptist eliminated White Brothers, 2-0, and Drayton Drug trounced Thrifty Drug, 14-5, in Waterford League playoff softball games Friday night at Drayton Plains.

* * *

Johnson struck out 14 batters and Eugene Daniel accounted for both Baptist runs. His double in the 3rd broke the scoring ice and four errors in a row permitted him to tally the 2nd run in the 5th stanza. Doug Brown was the losing pitcher on a four-hit effort.

Drayton assaulted Ed Farnsworth for 14 hits during its easy triumph. Arlo Flesher hurled a no-hitter, but 14 bases on balls gave Thrifty its five counters. Bob Turnbull slammed an inside-the-park homer for Drayton in the 5th inning.

Richardson Beats Aussie

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Richardson, the conqueror of Australia's Ken Rosewall, with a score of 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, today seeks a victory over another Aussie, Ashley Cooper, after boosting U.S. Davis Cup hopes with the most encouraging win of the year.

* * *

The Australian contingent attempted to shrug off Rosewall's upset because it was only a best-of-3-sets match, not the best-of-5, as it is in Davis Cup competition.

In Cooper, the seventh-ranking U.S. player faces a 19-year-old second-line Aussie Davis Cupper who hasn't lost a set in this tournament at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Cooper yesterday whipped Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif., 7-5, 6-2. Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, bounced out Sid Schwartz, Long Beach, N.Y., 6-3, 6-2, and will play Aussie Neale Fraser, who eliminated Paul Remy of France, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Frisch Suffers Heart Ailment

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (AP)—Frankie Frisch, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs, was resting comfortably early today in New Rochelle Hospital following a heart attack.

* * *

His physician, Dr. J. M. Vaughan, said that he had not determined yet if Frisch's attack was a coronary.

* * *

"It probably will be Monday before we know for sure," said Dr. Vaughan. "He is in an oxygen tent, but that is routine treatment."

Frisch, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, is 58 years old. He had been conducting television shows after New York Giants' games.

Cooper and Nary Among Tam Leaders

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Michigan professionals, Pete Cooper of Birmingham and Bill Nary of Wayne, were within striking distance of 1st place today going into the 3rd round of the "World" golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter.

Cooper was among five shotmakers knotted a stroke off the lead in 3rd place with 136 totals. Cooper had 67-69.

Nary was a stroke back with 67-70—137.

In the Women's pro division, Marilyn Smith of Bloomfield Hills was in a four-way tie for 4th with 78-73—151.

Lions to Appeal Dublinski Suit

TORONTO (AP)—The Detroit Lions have appealed the dismissal of a court suit to get quarterback Tom Dublinski back from the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

The action, announced yesterday by the Ontario Court of Appeals, followed dismissal of a Detroit suit against Dublinski for $10,000 and an injunction petition to prevent him from playing with any Canadian team.

Confer in 4-Way Tie for NSSA Top Place

RENO (AP)—Only five of the 15 shooters who scored perfect rounds in the opening day of the all-bore championships in the 1956 National Skeet Shooting tournament at Harold's Trapshooting Country Club were able to hold the pace yesterday as the 2nd 100 targets were shot in a gusty wind.

Four tied for top spot in the all-bore (12 gauge) race. All class AA competitors, they were:

Jack Horner, San Francisco; Andy Laird, Stockton, Calif.; Titus Harris, Jr., Galveston, Texas, and Howard Confer, Detroit.

Michigan Boy Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Leslie Dodson, 19, of Kalamazoo, Mich., has been named to the junior Davis Cup team and will begin a week's practice session at Baltimore Monday with nine other squad members.

Walled Lake Wins Crown

Walled Lake Market, beaten in the 1st round of the men's National League softball playoffs, successfully climaxed an uphill fight Friday night at North Side Park by defeating upstart Richard's Tavern twice, 6-5 and 5-2, to win the city Class C championship.

The double victory entitles Walled Lake to enter the Michigan Softball Association's Class C district tournament Aug. 16-19 at Waterford.

Meanwhile, in the American League playoffs at Beaudette Park, John Helisik pitched a magnificent no-hitter as Bicmar Inn eliminated Sam Benson, 2-0. It was Helisik's 2nd shutout this week. He struck out nine, walked two and hit one batter.

Iron-man pitching by Cal Bidwell and outfielder Don Williams' sensational catch brought Walled Lake the Class C crown. Bidwell allowed 10 hits in the 10-inning opener, which wound up 6-5, and permitted only four safeties in the 5-2 nightcap.

* * *

Williams' 9th-inning shoestring catch of pinch-batter Jim Cheal's sinking liner prevented defeat in the 1st game. Jerry Long's double won the extra-inning encounter. Richard's Lloyd Harper tried to match Bidwell by hurling both tilts, but faded in the stretch.

Aces 170-Yard Hole

Firing a No. 3 iron shot from the third tee at Oakland Hills Country Club yesterday afternoon, Al Gornick watched the ball hit the green and bounce into the cup. It was reported to be his 1st hole-in-one.

Giveaway Night!

8 Walks Aid Hose 6-1 Win

DETROIT (AP)—It was giveaway night at Briggs Stadium, and the Tigers made sure it was a howling success.

While a church group gave away gifts—including eight portable television sets—to members of the Detroit Tiger organization, pitcher Paul Foytack gave up eight bases on balls that sent the Bengals spinning to a 6-1 defeat at the hands of the Chicago White Sox.

Foytack, losing his 9th game against an equal number of victories, walked two men in the first, fourth and fifth innings and one in the second and sixth.

Asked which pitches gave him particular trouble, the fast-balling righthander replied: "When Foytack has trouble, he has it good. Every pitch gave me trouble."

As the partisan crowd of 40,274 roared for a Tiger rally, Al Kaline narrowed the load to one run with his 23rd home run in the bottom half of the 7th.

But Chisox righthander Dick Donovan didn't let the home run unnerve him. He retired the next three batters on routine grounders and experienced little difficulty in the 8th and 9th to get his 5th decision of the season.

Cary, Bo Lead Attack on Tam's Par

CHICAGO (AP) — Cary Middlecoff and Bo Wininger led a gang of 51 par-wreckers into a third round charge on Tam O'Shanter's dismantled golf acres today.

Par of 36-36—72 wasn't worth a dime in the chase for chunks of a $101,200 purse that will be distributed after 72 holes Sunday in the "World" championship.

The winner's purse of $50,000, accompanied by a contract for 56 exhibitions at $1,000 each, was enough to leave the pros panting in anticipation—even the well-heeled Middlecoff, the PGA's second leading money winner with $24,132.

He and Wininger, 14th on the financial list with $12,482, shared the halfway lead with 135, nine strokes under the standard. But they didn't have a chance to breath easily in today's third heat. Only one stroke away, clustered at 136, were Peter Thomson, Jerry Barber, Pete Cooper, Errie Ball and Ted Kroll.

* * *

In this group, only Ball could be regarded a darkhorse. He is a 45-year-old club pro at Oak Park, Ill., son of an old-time instructor in England who has been teaching golf there 40 years.

* * *

The brigade of 137 shooters included Johnny Palmer, Bill Nary and Billy Maxwell—all seasoned campaigners—and Herman Scharlau, who usually goes along just for the ride.

Par-busting didn't stop with the pros, however. Women and men amateurs also got into the act.

Mickey Wright, the long hitter from Chula Vista, Calif., maintained her lead in the $15,000 women pro sideshow with 75 for 146. Betty Jameson and Marlene Hagge followed with 149.

Musial Nearing NL Record for Extra-Base Hits

CHICAGO (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals needed only one extra base hit in today's game with the Chicago Cubs to tie the National League record of 1,071 set by Mel Ott in 22 seasons with the New York Giants.

Musial, now in his 15th season, pushed his total to 1,070 with his 20th home run of the year yesterday as the Cards beat the Cubs 4-3.

The major league extra-base record is 1,356, by Babe Ruth in his 22 seasons with the Boston Red Sox, Boston Braves and New York Yankees.

DOMINO PILLOWS — These black and white domino pillows are for decoration, but they are often used to play the ancient game, Mrs. Hicks says. Fireplace wall and sectional sofa are aqua, in contrast to the rose beige of the rest of the room. Mrs. Hicks designed and made the cocktail table in front of the sofa. The hearth, a low one, is slate.

LOTS OF WINDOWS — The windows are high, wide and handsome. Because the house is set up above the road, the view is of trees. Exposed ceiling beams are stained dark brown. The wall at the right shuts off the kitchen from the living room. Outside this room is a small cement porch. The sculptured rug is light rosy beige, while the arm chairs are much deeper in tone.

Your Neighbor's House

Brick Home Has Unusual Features

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

"We planned our home for many years in the future. We want to live here the rest of our lives." Mrs. Gordon (Phyllis) Hicks of Lahser road was showing us around her new home.

A secretary before her marriage a year and a half ago, Mrs. Hicks has an artistic bent that is evidenced in every room in her house. Her previous experience with interior decorating in other people's homes prepared her well to do her own. Sometimes hobbies pay unexpected dividends.

The part of the house facing the road is actually the side. The front door faces the lot line. The 100x200 lot slopes upward, thus setting the house both above and back from the road. Across the road the new Hickory Grove School is going up.

The entire living area is open, with storage walls making room separations. These walls go only part way to the ceiling. To the right of the entrance the wall contains a coat closet. This area and the adjoining hallway are painted a rosy beige. One wall is papered.

Except for the wall around the fieldstone fireplace, the living room is painted the same rosy beige. The time of day, the proximity of other colors determine the exact shade. Sometimes it looks pink, other times it fades to a neutral beige. Most interesting!

The living room is carpeted in a sculptured rose-beige wool. Traverse draperies are white with a gold line; they are printed in black, with a bit of aqua and pink in the design.

In the corner next to the fireplace a large aqua sectional sofa sets the second color in the room. The fireplace wall also is aqua. Amusing rectangular pillows in black felt with white domino dots are perched on the sofa backs.

The coffee table is one of its kind. Made by Mrs. Hicks, it its a palette, complete with brushes. She cut Formica and mounted it on plywood, then cut holes for planters painted to resemble the paint daubs. The black legs are tipped in brass.

Two bright colored ceramic clowns on this coffee table are also products of Mrs. Hicks' clever fingers. She has plans to make a third one for the group.

On the other side of the room two matching rosy chairs with brass legs are grouped with a blond table. At the window end of the room there's a modern lounge, covered in a textured gray upholstery.

The dinette wall is covered with rough textured plywood. The wainscoting below is pink, while the wall above is gray. The wrought iron table has a glass top. Handmade gray table mats are used on it. The seats and heart-shaped backs of the black chairs are covered in a gray tweedy material.

The door to the garage opens from the dinette. A small lavatory is also built into this end of the house. Louvered doors are used to front conventional medicine cabinets. Painted green like the walls, they boast a design of ivy that continues on around the wall. Of course, Mrs. H. did it.

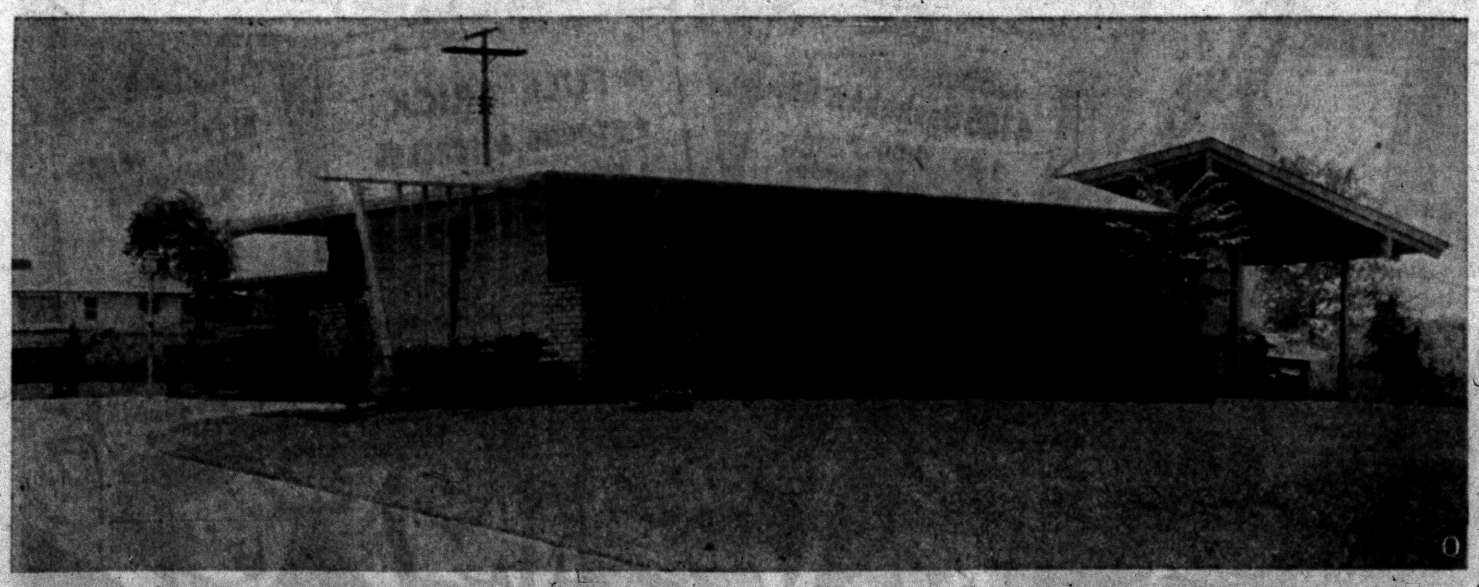

The kitchen is purely functional. One wall has a storage closet, the laundry appliances and the refrigerator. Opposite are the sink and work counters. Walls are gray, cupboards pink. There are pink flowered chintz curtains above the sink.

On top of the closet Mrs. Hicks

FRONT ENTRANCE — The front door of the Hicks' home is completely hidden from the road by the garage. A brown wood fence sets off the front yard. Above the white bricks, the wood shingles are stained dark brown. Trim and the wide overhang are painted aqua. The low planter box between the door and the garage is filled with evergreens and pink petunias.

APPROACH FROM THE FRONT — It takes three pictures to do justice to the exterior of the Hicks home. Here is shown the driveway and front of the garage. Except for a planter box near the entrance to the garage, the front of the house has no decoration. Bruce Kinzler designed and built this house.

HOME ORGAN — Music has a definite place in the Hicks household. In addition to a spinet piano, the family owns this electric organ. Above it is an unusual driftwood decoration Mrs. Hicks made. Wiring a large piece of the wood, she fitted it with tiny flickering lights. A trailing vine makes a planter out of it. Behind the wall divider (a coat closet on the other side) is the front door. The wallpaper on the back wall has brown, yellow and a deep rosy beige in its print. The leaves just visible in the upper left corner come from the planter atop the kitchen closet.

BERT GORDON REALTY CO. UN. 4-7371

Gordon Hicks Plan for Lifetime in House

At the opposite end of the room from the dinette there is a storage cabinet for dishes. Painted to match the walls, it has glass doors on top and solid doors below.

In this section of the house there is an electric organ. Above it on the wall is a piece of driftwood the Hicks' found on a beach up north. It has been wired for a multitude of tiny flickering lights. Philodendron twines around its length, while wee, bright birds nestle in the crotches. Definitely a conversation piece.

The den is paneled in the rough textured plywood. The builders first painted it white, then covered it with brown and wiped off some of the latter paint. The result is a pleasant two-tone effect.

On the white ceiling, near the windows, there are pink, aqua, gray and black diamonds in a harlequin pattern. The rug is aqua. A brown tweed sofa and a white plastic chair invite the guest to relax. Floor-to-ceiling bookcases and a spinet piano set the tone of the room.

Mrs. Hicks' artistic fingers worked on the bathroom too. She painted the ceiling pink, then carried the color down on the gray walls in a scalloped design. Elsewhere on the walls she scattered pink and white flowers. The curtains are pink with a gold thread.

Mr. Hicks has two daughters, one in nurses training, the other at home. Marsha is away from home except for vacations, but Jill, the thirteen-year-old, is a school girl.

The room they share, when both are home, has luminous stars applied on the off-white ceiling. One wall—behind the bed—is brown. A hand-painted bird cage decorates one corner. The other walls are aqua.

Under the brown spread on the bed is an aqua, brown and white checked dust ruffle. This material is also used on the chair. For light over the bed there is a hanging bubble lamp. The girls have their own radio and TV set.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks' room is a small one with just room for the bed and storage chests of blond wood. Here, the rough textured walls are finished like those in the den. Aqua silk has been used to make the dust ruffle and the floor length draperies. The bedspread is white with a bowknot design on it in bronze. The rug is a grayed aqua.

As an afterthought the Hicks built an extra room beyond the bedroom. In this family it is a hobby room for Mrs. Hicks. For many families it would be a second sitting room, especially if teenage children were using the living room.

This same chintz is used on the back of a black and white chest. One of the most unusual ways it is used it to slipcover thick dowels that extend from the chest to the ceiling.

The exterior of the Hicks house is white brick and brown shingles. The trim is aqua. Next to the front door is a long low planter box filled with evergreens and flowers.

On the road side of the house the two-car garage has built in storage units. The garage doors are aqua. The furnace and water heater are located in a separate little outside room near the fireplace. Bruce Kinzler designed and built the Hicks home.

Air Conditioning in Newer Homes

Surveys of the home building industry indicate that as high as 15 to 20 per cent of this year's new homes will be air conditioned.

* * *

Otto F. Wenzler, architectural consultant says figures so far this year show that new home starts declined slightly under the same period of 1955 yet dollar volume was higher. He interpreted this as an unmistakable trend toward larger, costlier houses.

"It is logical to conclude that builders are protecting these heavier investments with air conditioning," Wenzler reasoned.

Wenzler pointed out that the sustained high demand for Thermopane insulating windows bears out this swing to air conditioning. Just as warm air seeks to escape through uninsulated wall sor windows in winter so does heat flow indoors through the same uninsulated areas in summer.

Thermopane has an insulating value equivalent to an eight-inch brick wall, he said, consequently is called on by builders to give a lift to the efficient and economical operation of air conditioning equipment.

Enamel Does It

Kitchens and bathrooms require frequent scrubbing and they must be able to "take it". For that reason, most people prefer to paint the walls, ceilings and woodwork of these rooms with a durable, easy-to-wash, high gloss enamel.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A SMART HOUSE in compact space — 1,185 square feet — this plan is efficiently arranged with a center hall controlling traffic throughout. A dropped study, one step down from the dining room, with sliding glass doors to a garden terrace is a feature of this house. A basement is optional. The space occupied by the stairs can be used for additional storage and a modern heating plant can be located in the garage adjacent to the chimney. This is plan B2975AP by Alwin Cassens Jr., architect, 145 S. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N. Y.

Leaky Sewers Overload Sewage Plants in Storms

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Sewage treatment plants alone may not eliminate the nation's polluted waters, warns Homer E. Robertson, executive vice president of the Cast Iron Soil Pipe Institute.

Heavy rains overload some sewage plants as much as four times. "Consequently," he said, "the excess raw sewage is bypassed into the nearest river or other waterway."

"For instance, a large Texas city normally pumps into its treatment plant 65 million gallons of sewage daily. During heavy rain, this jumps to 300 million gallons and the untreated excess goes into the river. A recent survey by the city's superintendent of water works revealed that a large part of this increase is caused by rain water collected through leaky joints of non-metallic house sewers. Another example is a Missouri city of about 60,000 population, where the normal daily sewage plant load of 8 million gallons rises to 25 million gallons in a rain storm."

Robertson explained the average lawn is like a huge sponge that soaks up water in a downpour. Ordinarily this water would remain in the ground. However, he pointed out, where a non-metallic house sewer is used, leaky joints draw in rain water beneath the lawn and convey it to the sewer. When this is repeated for thousands of homes, a tremendous volume of water mixes with the normal sewage and overloads the treatment plant, he added.

Robertson stated, "The answer to the problem is strict enforcement of the special installation instructions required for non-metallic house sewers or their elimination. They were introduced as substitutes during the World War II iron shortage, since nothing else was then available. The shortage has long since ended, but many communities still allow builders to use these substitutes."

Don't forget that most wood fillers shrink after they have hardened; gaps should be filled slightly above the surface and, if necessary later, sanded level with the surrounding surface.

Modernization of Homes Proving Popular

Owners of middle-aged homes, who weigh the relative advantages and disadvantages of buying a new house or modernizing the old one, often decide in favor of modernization.

Reluctance to leave the old home with its years of association, its nearness to friends, and its convenience to transportation are factors that count heavily in favor of Operation Home Improvement.

Bathroom modernization naturally starts with the fixtures. It is in the design of plumbing fixtures that the most striking improvements have been made in recent years. Because plumbing contractors are familiar with the different styles and types of fixtures, it is advisable to consult with a plumbing contractor before launching on a modernization program.

Simple Tools Used to Install Insulation

Only four simple tools are needed to install batts and blankets of mineral wool insulation. The tools are a staple gun, a sharp knife, a measuring rule, and a straight edge.

* * *

The staple gun can be rented from most hardware or building material dealers, a butcher knife from the kitchen will do all the cutting, a 6-foot carpenter's rule is fine for measuring, and a scrap of board is an adequate straight edge.

* * *

Measure the space to be filled, then cut the insulation slightly larger by slicing along the straight edge. Don't cut through the vapor barrier. You'll need a flange of this about 1½ inches wide at both sides and sometimes the top and the bottom.

* * *

When the batt or blanket is cut, wedge it tightly into the space; vapor barrier toward the inside of the house, and staple the flange to the stud, rafter, or joist. Staple along the flange every six inches.

Following the urge of people who want "a little place in the country," more non-farming people are living in rural areas in the U.S. today than there are actual farmers.

NEW ASBESTOS SHINGLE STYLE—Something new in asbestos-cement roofing shinges, a large-size unit known as "ranch style," is winning favor because of its moderate cost and fast, easy application. Marketed under various trade names, "ranch design" asbestos shingles are 24 inches wide and 12 inches deep. Laid with a head lap of 3 inches and a side lap of 4 inches, each shingle provides an exposed coverage of 180 square inches. The rigidity characteristic of all asbestos shingles helps them lie flat in heavy winds. They are permanent and cannot burn.

Looking for Space? —Use Wall Spaces

If your bathroom is short of storage, why not make use of the wasted wall space above the toilet tank and have a small cabinet made for the spot?

* * *

An attractive cabinet is readily made with Marlite predecorated hardboard and a framework of wood strips. This paneling is decorated in a variety of plain colors, marble patterns and wood grains, and is protected by a surface of baked plastic.

* * *

The Marlite can be joined to the framework with quick setting contact cement. Pieces of the same paneling can serve as sliding doors. If the back panel is applied with the predecorated side exposed, it will not have to be finished. Similarly, the bottom may be placed with its prefinished side up. Exposed back surfaces and edges may be painted.

* * *

Newest Foldaway Bed

No home at the turn of the century was regarded as complete without a "folding bed." Today's version is a murphy-type bed, so constructed that sheets, blankets and even pillows can be left on the bed when it is folded away into a cabinet that appears to be a six-drawer sideboard.

Modern Gas Heaters Take Up Less Space

Whereas old-type furnaces or boilers took up half a cellar, the modern gas heating system fits into as little as two and three-fourths square feet of space and can be mounted in attics, first-floor closets or alcoves, crawl spaces under basementless houses and attached garages, as well as in basements. There also is a horizontal type of furnace, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, that lies on its side or can be suspended from the ceiling so that it takes up no floor space at all.

When using bar clamps, be careful not to tighten them too much, a common cause of buckling.

Asbestos Shingles Afford Top Protective Covering

When a builder roofs a home with asbestos shingles he is utilizing the protective characteristics of a mineral with a romantic history dating back more than 2,000 years, students of building materials report.

While asbestos roofing shingles were first manufactured in this country just fifty years ago, the unique rock which is an important ingredient in their composition was mined in the Italian Alps by the early Romans and woven by them into various fabrics. The ancient Greeks used it as lamp wicking as early as 450 B.C.

Cloth made of asbestos fibers is mentioned in the tales of Charlemagne, king of the Franks from 768 to 814 A.D. It figures, too, in stories of Marco Polo, who saw specimens while traveling in Siberia in 1250. Nevertheless, asbestos was regarded chiefly as a freak of nature as late as the 19th Century. It's "ancient history" ended in 1877 with the discovery of great deposits in the province of Quebec, Canada. Since then the use of asbestos in manufactured products has flourished.

In the manufacture of asbestos roofing shingles, asbestos fibers are combined with portland cement. The union of those two noncombustible materials produces a shingle that will not burn, rot or wear away.

Because of their extreme durability, asbestos-cement shingles are a favored roofing for better class homes. Their long life is an economy factor. They are the least expensive of shingle types in the "permanent" class.

Asbestos roofing shingles also are highly regarded for their beauty and prestige values. Thick enough to command impressive shadow lines, they are made in many attractive colors. Blacks, greens, browns, blues, grays and white are among the most popular.

A new style of asbestos roofing shingle is now being placed on the market. Known as "ranch design," they are sold under various brand names. They are readily identifiable by their size, which is 12 by 24 inches. Builders are finding them particularly suited to low, rangy houses. Ranch design asbestos shingles are applied with both a headlap and a sidelap. For the utmost in security, they are attached with storm anchors as well as nails.

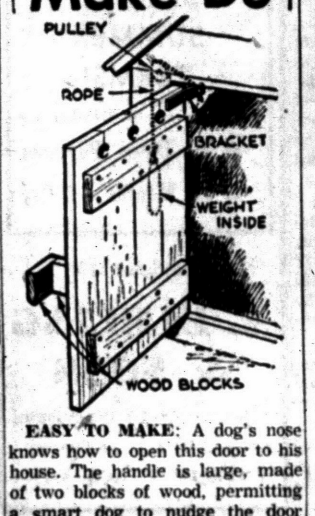

Manufacturers report the new asbestos shingles have all the durability and protective qualities of older styles. Because of their large size and easy application, they can be put on at less cost than some of the other styles.

Another easily applied asbestos shingle is the style known as "strip." Each unit gives the coverage of from three to five individual shingles. When in place, the appearance is that of individually applied American method shingles.

Unique Fireplace

Unmortared bricks laid on a panel of asbestos-cement board provide a unique hearth for an attic living room recently designed by a Chicago decorator. For the fireplace itself he used a modern version of the old Franklin stove.

Make Do

EASY TO MAKE: A dog's nose knows how to open this door to his house. The handle is large, made of two blocks of wood, permitting a smart dog to nudge the door open. A rope over a pulley, and a small weight, keeps the door closed.

Use Structural Glass

Vitrolite structural glass is another member of the glass family which has many uses in the homes, being used chiefly for bathroom and kitchen walls, and for countertops in the kitchen or utility room. This glass is opaque, non-absorbent and impervious to moisture, and comes in a number of decorator colors.

Hanging That Door Takes Great Skill

Any carpenter knows that fitting a door to the frame so that it swings easily, fits snugly, latches properly, and closes just right is a time-consuming and intricate process. To him, it's an art.

A carpenter can fit one of these ponderosa pine units with its door pre-hung by factory craftsmen into the door casing and have it ready to paint within 15 minutes. The home handyman, equipped with only a hammer, can do it almost as quickly.

Floating Walls Decrease Annoying Noises in Home

Floating walls for homes are one of the latest developments for comfort. They don't mean that your house will be able to float away into the Land of Oz. They've been developed merely as a new method of sound conditioning to reduce the amount of noise in a home.

* * *

These walls act as mufflers to soak up some of the sound that otherwise reverberates from room to room through the house framing. By hanging plaster or wallboard away from partition studs and ceiling joists much of the sounding board effect is overcome. This system is summed up as floating walls.

It is not a difficult form of construction. Special metal clips are used to hang lath or paneling away from framing members. The clips act as shock absorbers to keep sound waves in the room where they originate. When you combine these floating attachments with gypsum lath covered with acoustical plaster you've got something.

A bonus in this system is less plaster cracking. The Gypsum Assn. says "Plaster cracking is often occasioned by movement of structural elements which are stronger than the plastered interior. Floating systems of attachment permit a limited movement of structural members without imposing undue stresses in the lath and plaster."

The additional cost of using floating attachment clips over the usual nail-on method of applying lath is estimated by the association not to exceed 30 cents per square yard.

CUTS DOWN NOISE

Of course, you can't stop all noise in a house even if you use every known form of practicable sound conditioning including wall-to-wall carpeting. And it's just as well. Robert B. Newman, professor of acoustics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology insists that silence is not always golden. "It can be as annoying as too much noise."

The professor made his remark to members of the New York chapter of the American Institutue of Architects. Some background noise is pleasant, he said. When a ventilator was turned off in the MIT library, he found the students disturbed every time someone flipped the pages of a book.

But there's no denying that the rattle of kitchen pans, the flushing of toilets, the blare of a record player in the family room, don't have to be broadcast throughout your home.

NEW SOUND

Engineers say there are two main breeds of sound in a house — impact sounds and airborne sounds. Impact sound, including the click of heels on floors and the buzz of washing machines and other machinery in operation, travels through the structure and on onto the air. Airborne sound, voices and music, travels in waves like those made by a pebble in water, only sound waves travel spherically in all directions instead of on a single plane.

When airborne sound hits a hard wall, the opposite side of the wall acts like a diaphragm in a telephone receiver to start new waves through the next room. So what you hear isn't the original sound wave, but a new one recreated by the wall.

Tests have shown that a half-inch of plaster on a ⅝-inch panel of gypsum lath nailed on 2 by 4s will stop 41.1 decibels—the unit of measurement for sound. The same construction, using floating clip attachments, has cut sound transmission by as much as 51.8 decibels. Acoustical plaster, generally used on ceilings, naturally cuts further.

Special casein emulsion paints also have been developed so you can redecorate acoustical surfaces without spoiling their sound absorption qualities.

Maybe the time will come when all modern kitchen machinery as well as youngsters will be seen, but not heard.

Pullman Car Takes Credit

Baseboard Heat Plan Began in Old Sleepers Which Homes Copied

Baseboard heating was born in the Pullman car.

From a bare pipe in the old sleepers to the attractively styled heating enclosure in modern bedrooms and roomettes the units have undergone a gradual evolution in recent years.

* * *

Taking note of these significant developments in Pullman car construction, the heating industry has adapted its heat distributors for use in homes and other types of structures where economy of space with heating efficiency is desired.

So enthusiastically have builders adopted baseboard heating that sales of this type of heat distributor were up 40 per cent in 1955 over 1954, says the Bureau.

* * *

More than 30 manufacturers are now engaged in the production of baseboard heating systems adaptable for use in various types of structures from homes and commercial buildings to hotels, apartments, institutions, and industrial plants.

* * *

Baseboard heating not only offers the advantage of an inconspicuous and unobtrusive source of heat, but it also delivers the heat at a low level, thus providing the utmost in comfort and freedom from drafts.

New installation techniques making possible economies in labor and materials have been developed in recent years as a result of research work at the University of Illinois sponsored by The Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers.

New Jai Alai Arena Is Engineering Marvel

A miracle of modern engineered timber construction is a new jai alai arena at Riviera Beach, Fla. Laminated wood arches 294 feet long and nearly eight stories high at their apex span a record 242½ feet, the greatest distance ever covered by construction of this type.

By eliminating the need for supporting columns, the wood arches provide 50,000 square feet of unobstructed floor space — roughly the area covered by 50 of today's average-size homes.

Four Walls Are Now a Sight to Behold — Thanks to Decorating Concepts

NEW YORK — Looking at the same four walls—once the bane of a homemaker's existence — has been miraculously transformed into a refreshing sight to behold. Thanks to a whole new concept in decorating, walls are no longer the same.

Texture has made the difference. Bored with the flat, uninteresting surface, leaders in the wallcoverings industry have begun anew with three-dimensional effects — the luxury of glittering metallics and striated textures, the fabric-like feel of raised weaves, and the nature-inspired beauty of patterns stimulating masonry and wood.

The relief of gazing at walls with varied surfaces, manufacturers point out, is not meant to be confined to the living room. Texture all over the house—particularly in those areas where the homemaker passes much of her time—is the newest theme for home interiors.

In the kitchen—scene of long hours which, for the most part, the lady of the house spends with only the walls for company — dimensional wallcoverings can provide a cheerful "lift" for what might otherwise be a dull workspace.

White — currently enjoying a peak period of popularity in interior decor—offers one solution for imparting freshness and light to the kitchen. Timbertone Decorative Company suggests brick patterns as an ideal background for this important part of the house.

White-washed brick wallcovering—emulating the same rough texture and raised mortar joints of real hand-laid brick—invites experimentation with copper pots hung in Colonial fashion, ivy and other creepers, or serves as a foil for gaily-curtained windows. A full range of decorator colors—in both common and Roman brick— is also included in the selection of Timbertone brick textures, all of which are not only washable, but paintable.

For the dinette area—which is rapidly replacing the fullscale dining room in most new homes and apartments — texture fools the eye into seeing spacious surroundings. To achieve such an illusion in even the most confined space, Timbertone offers cool stone patterns, or superb reproductions of natural bark to lend a dining-outdoors feeling.

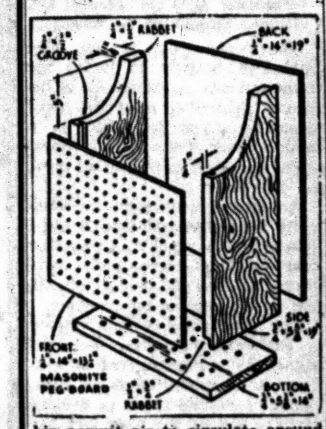

In a complete reversal from the recent practice of decorating one wall differently from the other three, the popularity of textured wallcoverings has influenced a trend back to the four-wall treatment. To arrive at a more wide-open, spacious look, in fact, many homemakers are repeating the same texture through rooms and hallways that open into each other. The new things being done with textures — colors that are softer and lighter, and designs that blend with furnishings rather than dominate them — have made this a decorating possibility for all homemakers to consider.

Door Bin for Potatoes

The logical location for storing potatoes is under the kitchen sink. As described in The Home Craftsman, the potato bin may be fastened to the back of a cupboard door under the sink.

Perforations in the sides (not shown), front and bottom of the bin permit air to circulate around the vegetables; such circulation is essential for longer storage.

The front panel is a Masonite "Peg-Board" panel. Sides and bottom are lumber, and the back is ¼" Tempered Presdwood. All the essential dimensions are shown on the accompanying drawing. The wooden sides should be drilled in a pattern in order to provide maximum air circulation. Some 30 holes 3-16" in diameter should be bored in the bottom.

Sides, back and bottom should be assembled with glue and finishing nails. The front slides out for easy cleaning. Prime and paint the bin to match the sink, but give the "Peg-Board" panel front a contrasting color.

Utilize Vacations

One of the leading home magazines recently conducted a survey to find out how many of its subscribers spent part of their vacation on home improvement projects and following are the results: 68 per cent spent all or part of their vacation at home. Of this number 81 per cent devoted their time to workshop or home improvement projects. Of these latter projects—which included room modernization, house repair, garden and yard care—an estimated 60 to 70 per cent represented painting and decorating.

Noiseless Cans Preserve Sleep

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (INS)— Here's good news for anyone sick of having slumber interrupted in the wee hours of the morning by the clang-crash of noisy trash cans.

* * *

One of the new items being shown at the 25th national housewares manufacturers exhibit is a 20-gallon, "Texas-size" noiseless plastic trash can.

According to the manufacturer, the noiseless trash can is not only the largest housewares article ever molded of polyethylene, but it is also unbreakable rustproof, odor-resistant and features a lock-lid to keep stray animals out.

Another trash can dilemma is solved with this new item. You don't have to worry about where to hide it since it's easy on the eyes in four decorator colors—green, rust, grey and lemon yellow. Like most polyethylene plastics, it is easy to clean.

* * *

Another advantage of this super-sized plastic can is that it is light for its size and easy to handle.

UPPER LEVELS — A center hall divides this house into distinct zones and gives access to all rooms. The entrance can be at either end of the hall, depending upon the lot location.

GROUND FLOOR — This level has a large basement area, in addition to the good-sized recreation room and the two-car garage. There is a lavatory off the basement room.

Press House of the Week Features Adaptable Plan

Keeping cool economically, with or without air conditioning, is made practicable by Design HW-12 for The House of the Week. This smart and comfortable split-level home has been planned with an overall purpose of keeping down summer cooling expenses as well as winter heating costs.

* * *

Air conditioning engineers long have recognized the need to have a house specially designed, properly placed on its lot and adequately shaded if you want to get the most for your money in summer cooling. In the air conditioned village of 22 homes at Austin, Texas, it was found that a slight turning of a house at an angle could have reduced its air conditioning needs by as much as one ton out of three.

So broad overhanging eaves to shade all windows from the midday sun, a light colored roof to reflect radiant heat, extra insulation and complete ventilation of rafter spaces, plus a west wall without any windows are some of the features that distinguish HW-12.

STATISTICS

The architect estimates this house can be built in the Camden, N. J. area for $20,000 to $21,500, including $1,500 for air conditioning.

Such careful engineering to combat heat gain in summer and heat loss in winter should result in a much more comfortable home even when not equipped with air conditioning.

REVERSE PLANS

The architect, Samuel Paul, has kept operating efficiency foremost throughout this plan. The house is divided into three distinct zones: 1—The living room, dining and kitchen zone; 2—the bedroom zone, and 3—the recreation room which opens on a rear garden patio. This makes it practicable to air condition the bedroom zone only during the evening and night when most needed, while cooling for the living-dining and recreation areas could be turned off at night when not needed.

The house is planned to have its long sides face in a north-south direction. For an opposite side of the street, the plan would be reversed to keep its windowless wall toward the west to block the hot afternoon sun.

Direct sunlight is kept off all main windows. The overhang above dining room and kitchen windows is 3½ feet, so that even if these windows should face south no noonday summer sun would reach them even in northerly regions. The overhang above the living room windows is 5 feet. In addition to 3½-foot overhangs for all bedroom windows, the master bedroom has a balcony overlooking the garden and this shades the sliding glass doors of the recreation room.

FANS HELP OUT

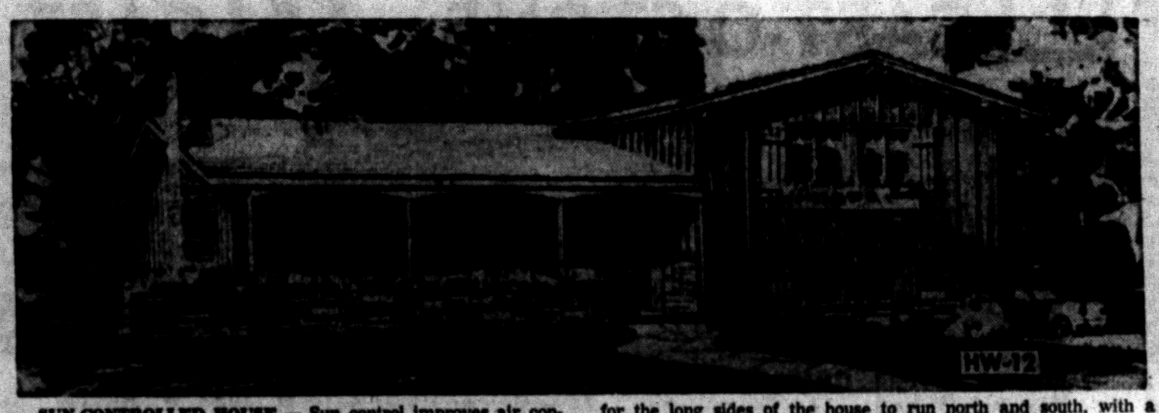

Continuous screen venting is provided along the soffits under the eaves to clear roof spaces of excess heat. Such air washing of attics has been found to be another major factor in cutting air conditioning operating costs. One large house in Ohio was able to use a 3-ton, instead of a 5-ton air conditioner, because of its power ventilated attic.

Exhaust fans in kitchen and bathrooms help to create air changes throughout the house.

The center hall in this plan makes it possible to locate the front entrance on either side of the house, depending upon the most desirable orientation. This is a main feature of the room arrangement and gives access to all parts of the house.

An interior bathroom, mechanically ventilated and lighted by a plastic dome skylight, is another feature. This keeps both bathrooms, kitchen and laundry plumbing closely grouped for economy.

The house could be built without a basement, but since it is designed for a minimum of excavation, the basement offers an abundance of storage space as well as laundry and heating plant facilities in addition to an extra lavatory convenient to the recreation room.

SUN-CONTROLLED HOUSE — Sun control improves air conditioning and cuts costs. The broad overhanging eaves and a white roof give this house efficiency and smart modern lines. Plans are for the long sides of the house to run north and south, with a windowless wall on the west.

Remove Dirt, Grime From Floor With Acid

Sometimes a ceramic tiled floor becomes grimy and dirty through years of neglect. In such a case, cleaning with commercial muriatic acid may be necessary. But a word of precaution: don't use acid until it is absolutely necessary.

An overdose could harm the cement lines between tiles. If acid cleaning is really required, use commercial muriatic acid diluted with water in the proportions of one part acid to nine parts water.

Cold Water Freezes Softer

It has long been thought by many people that hot water will freeze quicker than cold water. This is not so. The reason for the misconception, however, is probably that a frozen hot water pipe is more likely to burst.

* * *

Why? Well, this is because of the nature of the ice formed in each case. Where water which has been recently heated freezes, the ice formed is more compact and solid and hence more likely to burst the pipes.

It has sometimes been thought the thawing of ice and not the freezing is what causes the bursting of the pipes. Actually the pipes are burst by the expansion of water as it congeals into ice, but, since the water cannot flow when frozen, it is not until the ice begins to melt that the pipes begin to leak.

Such examples typify the stubborness of misconception. Here is another:—it is unfortunately assumed, at times, that substitute piping will do the same job for sanitary equipment as vitrified clay pipe.

Vitrified clay pipe has been used for sanitary wear since before the birth of Christ. It has actually been found in good condition after 5,000 years of use.

Today, research programs by the manufacturers of vitrified clay pipe are constantly finding ways to improve their product. They realize the trust which the general public places in them. They know it is their product which must carry away the deadly wastes of the city. Their products are a city's sanitary life line.

5,134 Building Permits Issued in Oakland County

Bloomfield Township led Oakland County in issuing building permits in the first half of 1956, according to figures released by the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission.

Bloomfield Township listed 495 permits for the period, compared to 485 for Royal Oak, 454 for Waterford Township, and 449 for Southfield Township.

Also high on the list were Farmington Township, 385; Pontiac, 328; and Independence Township, 311.

Permits in Oakland County were 614 short of the number issued during the first six months of 1955.

Critical flooding in Lathrup, Clawson and Oak Park has caused a curtailment of permits for new homes in some areas, until adequate sewer and drainage systems can be provided.

County permits for the 6-month period totaled 5,134, compared to 5,748 in 1955, and 5,717 in 1954.

Old Spindle Back Chair Returning to America

The spindle back chair, a style from the Colonial period of this country, is now returning to the homes of America after a stay in Denmark. A new version of this popular American design, Danish-adapted, is contemporary in feeling, has been beautifully handcrafted by the Danes and is even lighter in scale than its American "parent."

The new chairs, recently introduced to this country by Selig of Leominster are in two sizes, for occasional use or as a desk-dining chair. Colorful pillows fit the back of the spindle back.

Overall illumination on textured draperies or rugs minimizes the texture: Sidelighting or direct overhead lighting emphasizes it.

Asbestos Board Strong

Many major builders of ranch-type houses are now using asbestos-cement board for exterior sidewalls. Asbestos board, they have found, is strong, incombustible, weatherproof and easy to paint. A popular practice is to use battens over the vertical joints between sheets, with supplementary battens over studs for decorative effect.

SMART RADIATOR COVER — Metal lath can make a smart radiator cover. This is a good home workshop project.

Build Own Radiator Cover

An easy way to enhance the appearance and increase the usefullness of cast iron radiators is to construct enclosures for them out of wood frames and metal lath.

Enclosures of this type provide decorative stands and yet allow the full flow of heat when the radiator is being used.

PLASTER BASE

Made of expanded copper alloy steel, diamond mesh lath can be obtained at well stocked building supply yards with either a protective paint covering or galvanized.

* * *

Patterned Glass Can Be Frosted

Patterned glass is cast much like plate glass with the molten glass passing between rolls on which a design is engraved. Its most common uses in the home are for screens, partitions and cabinet doors.

* * *

Sometimes a beautiful patterned glass is used to exclude an undesirable view or to borrow light from an adjoining room. Patterned glass is also subject to satinol, frosted, sand-blasted and textured finishes for decorative purposes or light control. It may be heat-strengthened and bent for certain specified uses.

* * *

Patterned glass as well as plate glass can be heat tempered to make it from three to five times as strong as non-tempered glass of the same thickness.

Wood Windows Survive Weather for Many Years

Metal is used for frying pans and ice cube trays because it is an excellent conductor of heat and cold. Wood is the preferred material for framing windows because it is a very poor conductor of heat and cold.

Builders recognize that the snug fit and high insulating qualities of wood windows minimize condensation and do a superior job of weatherproofing. An example of wood windows at their best is found in the 196-year-old Sheldon House at Litchfield, Conn., where George Washington once spent the night.

In driving cut nails into flooring, have the flat sides parallell with the grain.

Builders Raising the Roof

Homebuilders are "raising the roof" — but literally — about higher land costs, say construction industry observers, who attribute the recent renaissance of the two-story home to growing site shortages.

Scarcity of suitable land is blamed for current costs of lots. They've jumped 17 per cent during the past year, to an average price of $2,600.

Meeting the high cost of land by adding a story, of course, adds problems. Which rooms should go on which floor? What about basements and attics? Where will the stairway go? Will one stairway be enough?

* * *

Although answers to such questions depend on individual needs, every home requires some sort of bathroom facilities on each floor. Bathroom building can be simplified and costs minimized by such devices as installing ceramic tile on floors and walls with an adhesive that meets specifications of Commercial Standard 181-52, locating the bathrooms one over the other and placing all fixtures against the same wall.

In the case of two-story homes with four bedrooms on the upper floor, two bathrooms are necessary — one for each pair of bedrooms. In such houses many steps can be saved and guests spared by providing a powder room or half bath on the lower floor. The wide variety of colors, sizes and shapes of a waterproof material like ceramic tile makes it possible to dress this room up and keep cleaning down.

If there is a bedroom or emergency guest facilities on the lower floor, a corner should be found for a stall shower. Spaces as small as three feet square will accommodate stall showers. Several styl are available including a corner model either built on the job or manufactured.

Finish Coast Hemlock to Obtain Antique Effect

Here is a simple way to finish a wall of west coast hemlock vertically grained panelling to get an antique effect. Rough sand first, then fine sand the boards with a 2/0 paper. Brush on thinned white primer and wipe off immediately. Dry 12 hours. Then sand with 6/0 paper.

Brush or spray with clear varnish, rez or lacquer or one of the plastic coatings. Add extra coats, if desired. Rub last coat with steel wool. Green, blue, reds or yellows may be used instead of the white primer to get varied color effects.

Glass Divides Rooms

One means of space economy being practiced by builders of small homes is the installation of patterned glass room dividers in place of regular walls. In addition to cutting space requirements, the dividers facilitate natural lighting of room areas.

Brighten Kitchen With These Tips

Conversion Possible If You can Forget New Dream Equipment

A remarkable conversion may be accomplished by a few simple measures combining both your own good taste and features recommended by expert kitchen designers.

1. Wall space is the most valuable part of the kitchen. Devote as much of it as possible to continuous work surfaces of waterproof material like ceramic tile, and be sure that ample footage of counters is located next to the range and the sink.

2. Floor plan is a vital factor. The wrong plan can add to a homemaker's work and consume her time. Be certain the plan reduces walking as much as possible. The most highly recommended design is the "U" form, with the sink at the base of the "U," the range and sink forming the sides of the pattern.

3. Difficulty in cleaning is one of the bugaboos of the old-fashioned kitchen. Thus the modern kitchen almost invariably has at least wainscots of material like ceramic tile, if not whole walls built of the easily cleaned surfacing.

4. Good ventilation and illumination are important to a homemaker's morale and health. Windows and mechanical devices can provide air and light.

5. Plan for as large a refrigerator as the space will accommodate. Ample storage space for perishable foods makes it possible for the homemaker to shop less often.

Mid-Summer Dullness Cured by Wall Painting

To lift you from mid-summer doldrums, why not have a change of scene right in your own home or apartment? The most important change you can make in a room is in its wall color. Get yourself a color card, or some color "swatches" from your neighborhood paint store, and take them home and try them.

Dir you know that on very hot days you can hose down your terrace to make the thermometer drop several degrees?

INEXPENSIVE PATTERNED PATIO—This large checkerboard patio is a welcome party and play retreat for every member of the family. The very lowest grades of Douglas fir 2-inch planks form an economical deck to match fir retaining walls and estate-type fence. The tot's wading pool lined with the same fir converts to a sandbox, and decking may be laid around trees and shrubs to preserve a shady spot.

Boarded Deck in Backyard Provides Versatile Area

* * *

But, unfortunately, all backyards don't look like this, especially in a family full of active growing children tracking divots into your clean kitchen or uprooting the perennials in a heated game of baseball. And, besides, when lawn mowing time comes around, your yard looks like a forty acre field.

Perhaps your problem is a heavy crop of malignant weeds, or a rocky surface where grass refuses to grow.

One good way to handle these situations is to deck your backyard with very inexpensive economy grades of Douglas fir planks. If you elevate the deck the boards will not be as apt to suffer from decay, but you can lay them right over the ground. These 2x10 or 2x12 planks are so inexpensive that as one becomes unusable you can just lift it up and replace it with a new one. The planking should be laid on a simple frame or support to just clear the ground.

A concrete wading pool is too expensive? Then make a Douglas fir pool. Build a box of the fir and dig a hole right in the deck area and sink the box in it. You don't need to put a drain in the wading pool, for the water will eventually all run through the cracks in the boards anyway. This is a good safety factor especially where very young children are using the pool.

You can use short length boards for your backyard deck, for they cost even less, and are good to use in sections for a checkerboard pattern. You get this effect by laying eight or ten boards all parallel to form a solid square, then place the next series perpendicularly.

VERSATILE AREA

If you have shade trees in your backyard, just cut holes in the deck sections that surround them so you can take advantage of the shade.

You will find that with a large deck like this, multiple activities can be in progress at once. It's a good place for the busy mother to lounge for a few minutes and still keep an eye on her offspring, as well as the kitchen. It's a wonderful spot to entertain with outdoor suppers or bridge parties on warm evenings. It's even a makeshift basketball court for the kiddies.

The flat, solid surface provided by the fir boards is easy to keep clean with the garden hose that is also used to fill the wading pool.

* * *

Plantings around your deck can be outlined with fir or western red cedar retaining walls to keep the soil from sifting over onto the deck floor and to more clearly define your surrounding gardens. The retaining walls also protect flower beds from wear and tear by the small fry.

U.S. Leads the World in Lumber Consumption

The United States uses more lumber than any other country in the world, says the National Lumber Manufactuerers Assn. Only Canada and New Zealand, with smaller populations, exceed the per capita use of lumber. The average U. S. citizen uses twice as much lumber as a Russian, four times as much as an Englishman and six times as much as a Frenchman.

Wash or wax newly-laid asphalt tile after allowing at least a week for the adhesive to harden thoroughly.

Wood Still Tops in Building of U.S. Homes

In an age of plastics, miracle metals, and man-made fibres, the question often arises: Why is wood still retained as one of the principal materials in home building today?

* * *

The answer is that science never has come up with a substitute for wood that can equal its multiple advantages in home construction. Here are some of those advantages:

Durability. Wood, when used properly and given good maintenance, will outlast the structure of which it is a part.

* * *

Warmth and beauty. Wood is pleasant to the touch and takes to paint or natural finishes readily and lastingly.

Insulation value. Because wood is a natural insulator, windows and doors made of wood such as ponderosaa pine won't heat up excessively in summer and resist frosting and sweating in winter.

* * *

Economy. A high percentage of wood used in modern construction is ponderosa pine. Its easy cutting texture saves time on the job. Its lightness reduces shipping and handling costs.

Committee Tells Ike to Aid Small Business

WASHINGTON (UP) — A cabinet committee's recommendations for aiding small business, through tax relief and other measures, may find their way into the Eisenhower administration's legislative program for next year.

President Eisenhower's Committee on Small Business has handed in 14 recommendations it adopted unanimously. Nine proposals — in the tax, antitrust, financing and other fields — would require congressional action. Other suggestions are aimed at getting small firms a bigger slice of government business.

Receiving the seven-man committee's proposals, Eisenhower said he will give them the "prompt and favorable consideration they deserve." He said he will follow them up with action in the executive departments and in putting together his legislative program for the new Congress. Regardless of the outcome of the November presidential election, the Eisenhower administration is scheduled to send Congress in January proposals for new legislation.

Sligh Won't Run Again

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Charles R. Sligh Jr., said Thursday he will not seek re-election next week as chairman of the Kent County Republican Committee. Sligh, a Grand Rapids and Holland furniture manufacturer, said he believes two terms are enough for one man to serve in the post. He was elected in 1952 and renamed two years ago.

Board Questions Billing for Legal Aid on Water From Judge Moore

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—The township board, meeting in special session Thursday, appointed Albert Gain, township building inspector, to the post of supervisor.

* * *

Gain will replace Ward Eagle who resigned last week.

Gain has served the township as building inspector since June 1, 1955. Previously he spent 20 years as a custom builder in Michigan.

The new supervisor is 58 years old, married and lives at 23522 Longacre. He had held no community office previous to the inspector's post.

On a motion by Mrs. Elise Avery, trustee, the board also agreed to call a meeting in the near future with Judge Arthur E. Moore of Pontiac, to request a report on progress he has made with regard to obtaining water in dry areas of the township.

* * *

Moore was employed by the board almost a year ago, to speed progress on a water system for two sections of the township.

Mrs. Avery pointed out that Moore has already billed the board for $4,000.

"I think we should do something about this," Mrs. Avery said. "So far we don't know what he has done and have no idea how much more we owe him."

* * *

"If Judge Moore hasn't made any progress, we had better try somewhere else," she added.

At the time Moore was employed by the board, he did not give an estimate of cost of his services and the board set no limit on fees to be paid to him. The $4,000 has not yet been paid.

The board also passed two ordinances. One made provision for the prevention of deposits in roadside drainage ditches and the second would prevent surface drainage waters from entering a sanitary sewage system in Farmington Township.

33 From Pontiac Area; Kyes Paints Optimistic Picture of Future

An optimistic picture of the future, characterized by rapidly accelerating progress, unprecedented technological advances—and increased emphasis on human relationships was forecast last night to the graduating class of General Motors Insitiute.

* * *

The speaker was Roger M. Kyes, group vice president and a director of General Motors, who talked on "New Dimensions in Management" before 939 seniors, 33 of them from Pontiac.

Kyes called specifically for intellectual leadership against those who "falsely represent business as an evil, destructive force against the public good."

Citing the stimulating effects of rising incomes, swelling suburban living, better values for the customer dollar and the tremendous highway program, Kyes said:

"I am quite certain you will see the day when it will be the usual thing for a family to own two, or even three cars; when a production level of 100 million cars a year will not be unusual."

The GM executive said the country is at the beginning "of a revolution in technology" but that "the art and science of management" will have to improve pace if the promises for future progress are to be fully realized.

* * *

Kyes said tomorrow's management leaders should be research minded with an eternal "inquiring mind" approach, capable of making informed decisions, ever alert to the public needs and welfare, and capable of leadership in thought as well as action.

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry next year may equal or surpass record-breaking 1955, L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler Corp. said yesterday.

* * *

Colbert told a dealers' preview of the company's 1957 model cars that it plans to "put more steam than never before" behind promotiton of Plymouth cars, its lowest priced line.

Referring to sales generally for next year, Colbert said recent surveys show consumers are more optimistic about business conditions than any time in the last three years.

He adds: "Consider the fact that more than 18,000,000 persons have bought new cars in the last three years and a lot of these will be potential customers for new cars in 1957."

* * *

Another good indication of good business ahead, he said, "is the steady demand for used cars and the firmness of used car prices."

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF ETHEL Young, who passed away Aug. 12, 1954.
You left sweet memories to blossom;
Bearing fruit for the years to come.
In the lives of those who loved you,
Sadly missed by Howard and Russell Wilson.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HENRY Gallardo who passed away Aug. 9, 1955.
Not dead, but passed beyond
The mist that binds us here
Into the newer, larger life
Of that unclouded sphere.
Dearly missed by his mother brothers and sisters.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HENRY Gallardo, who passed away one year ago today.
A wonderful husband, man and guide;
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true.
One in a million, that husband was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal ever upright.
Loved by your friends, and all who you knew.
A wonderful husband, that husband was you.
Loved and sadly missed by Mrs. Henry Gallardo.

Looks Like Mitchum Has Become a Bogart

By EARL WILSON

LONDON—Bob Mitchum's become the boy Bogart.

Bogie may hate me for implying that he isn't a boy any more. Mitchum came up to my room at the Dorchester here the other day between scenes in "Fire Down Below," which he's making with Rita Hayworth and Jack Lemmon . . . and after a long interval of, say, 15 seconds, declared yes, he'd be glad to have a drink of practically anything at all.

"It's remarkable," I said, "how many American actors are over here this summer."

"Yeah," agreed Mitchum, "and there are a lot of English actors in America—but there's one difference. When the English actors go to America . . . they stay!"

That set him to philosophizing.

"I'm an under-the-table patriot," he announced. "It's funny how the Europeans react to our industriousness. You know what they say? They say, 'You're idiots, you know, for working so bloody hard. Why do you do it?'

"I want to tell them, 'So you can play cricket and tennis.' They say 'But how do you keep fit?'

"How? By working your tail off!"

Mitchum gets in no fights like Bogie did when he was young. In fact, he permitted a British reporter to blast his ears off all due to a misunderstanding. Bob could have torn the hanky-in-the-sleeve journalist apart but didn't, because he realized he'd said something that had been misunderstood.

THE MITCHUMS

"There's only one thing I mind, it's when somebody over here tells me I'm supposed to do something," said Bob.

"I tell them to wait a minute. I don't take any of that 'you're supposed-to' gaff. We settled that in 1776."

After the conversation in my room, I visited the set where Mitchum was working in a night club scene.

"Sit down and have a coke" invited one of the bosses of the picture. "Mitchum sat on the set today drinking Cokes during the shooting. At least," he added, "I thought it was Coke—till I got about 20 feet from him."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Jules Dassin, director of the French film, "Rififi," was forced to accept 25 per cent of the film because the producers didn't have the money to pay him. The movie, a hit, will make him rich.

"Manhattan" . . . A record company wants teen-age actor Sal Mineo to be its newest rock 'n' roll crooner.

Gil Bloom of the Charcoal Room asked actor-art expert Vincent Price to identify a painting, and Price was puzzled by it. "It's by a little-known artist," confessed Bloom, "—me" . . . Newest teen-age gimmick: Soaking Elvis Presley records in water to warp 'em and get weird sounds . . . D. C. Buzz: Gov. Herter is due for a cabinet post if Pres. Eisenhower's reelected.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's Jerry Warren's observation on bikini bathing suits: "One girl's charming exposure is another girl's unfortunate disclosure."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "There's nothing rare about the four-minute mile," sighs Jerry Lieberman. "Every horse I bet on does it."

H. G. Hutcheson saw this sign on a backwoods gas station: "Buzz twice for night service. Then keep your shirt on while I get my pants on." . . . That's earl, brother.

Bob Crosbys Split, Wife Asks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Bob Crosbys have separated and Mrs. Crosby, the former June Kuhn, has sued the bandleader for divorce, alleging that he beat her and threatened to cut her off without a dime.

The 42-year-old Crosby denies the beating charge. He says his wife, who is 36, has been ill and in the hospital six times in the past year.

The Crosbys have been married nearly 18 years and have five children. Her suit yesterday asked for their custody and $3,155.75 monthly support. She estimated her husband's earnings at $8,500 monthly.

Texas has no State income or general sales tax.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Separate Convention Sites to Hike TV Bill $5 Million

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—The networks are set to lose five million dollars on the conventions because they're not in the same city this year. . . . Gals in national politics have been sent little packets of info as to what they should wear in range of the TV cameras at the presidential klatches — diamonds and gold aren't TV's best friends. . . . Pearls are a girl's best pal in politics, TV style. . . .

★ ★ ★

There's a bit of sticking in of foreign noses—or anyway lenses—into conventions this season: CBS imported its creepie-peepie, or tiniest, TV camera and lens from France; ABC from Germany, while NBC, via its RCA parent, went to the bother of inventing its own.

John Cameron Swayze heads a new travel segment of Arlene Francis' "Home" show. . . . Eva Marie Saint, who got her start in TV, has turned cool and snooty toward the medium what spawned her career. . . .

Tuesday's "Sgt. Bilko" episode was a rerun but more topical than had been planned—it had Phil Silvers telling his colonel "I'm a friend of Ed Sullivan's"—I can get you on his show." . . . Same day, Phil was asked to fill in for Smiley, still in the hospital. . . .

The $64,000 Question still murders the TV code's "limitations" on length of commercial pitches. . . . NBC wants Janis Paige for "The Soft Touch," an original musical spectacular by Ernest K. Gann ("The High and Mighty") with tunes by Sammy (Oscar winner) Fain and Jack Brooks. . . .

Jean Hagen quit the Danny Thomas show because she didn't like being locked into her housewife's role; so her first post-Danny part on Ford Theater is, of course, a housewife. . . .

Another chip off the finest old block moves into TV—Eddie Foy III, son of the "Pajama Game" star and grandson of one of the finest oldtime names, makes his TV debut with Ray Milland in another Ford Theater film. . . .

The sort of quotes that chill—Henry Salomon, producer of NBC's great "Victory at Sea," opined: "In television, the word is, if it's original, new and different, run very rapidly in the opposite direction." . . .

Tom O'Neil, boss of the Mutual Network (and RKO pictures), says thus: "There's just one word to describe the future of films on TV. It's 'assured'."

TV FILM JUNKED

The confessed embezzler bounced from "Do You Trust Your Wife" won $600, which the show let him have, though it scrapped the film he appeared in. . . .

Margaret Whiting flies here to do her best to cadge Perry Como as star of her pop's (the late great songwriter Richard Whiting) film biography. . . . There's a fine, fond, unspoken father image in wanting Perry to play her dad, we'd say. . . .

TV's as fat a cat as films used to be—income soared 66 per cent last year from '54. . . . DuMont Broadcasting's in the black again. . . .

Kelly Returns, but This Time as the Hero

HOUSTON, Mo. (AP)—The man remembered by an older resident as "a kid around town always getting in the way" returned home after 36 years yesterday to be the guest of honor in this Ozark town of 800.

Kelly came to take part in the annual Old Settler's Reunion and Texas County Fair. He strolled down the street with his wife and month-old daughter, shook hands and exchanged reminiscences with boyhood acquaintances.

It was C. E. (Deacon) Elmore, now 71, who recalled the kid always in the way. Kelly remembered Elmore as the man who indirectly helped him make up his mind to be a cartoonist.

When he was only 20 Kelly left Houston for Kansas City in search of a cartooning job. He found one and there Weary Willie was born.

While in Houston Kelly will see the dedication of the new Emmett Kelly Park and will get a key to the city.

Longer Hospital Stay Slated for Ed Sullivan

DERBY, Conn. (AP)—Ed Sullivan will be kept in the hospital five to seven days more.

The complications of a bronchial condition have caused the longer stay for the TV master of ceremonies and syndicated columnist. He was one of four persons injured in a head-on automobile collision Monday. He suffered a fractured rib and abrasions of the nose and body.

Democrat Keeps Post

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Dr. Louis Bozin was re-elected Thursday night as chairman of the Kent County Democratic Committee. He has been chairman since May when he replaced Robert C. Jakems, who resigned.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

DON'T TOUCH THAT

Dick and Doris are walking along a country road. Doris is older than Dick, and she knows she must never pick any plants or berries along the way. She is holding Dick back as he reaches for a vine on a brick wall because it might be poison ivy.

Many vines are harmless but beware when they are bunched in three. Doris remembers this because of an old saying her grandmother taught her: "Leaves of three — leave it be."

Color this picture with crayons, and paste it down on cardboard. Cut around the heavy outlines. Fold the panels forward on the dotted lines and the group will stand. Put up the sign where you can see it.

TV IS WONDERFUL!
Your TV set whether it is old or new will at certain times need replacement of tubes and other parts that wear out from normal use. There is no TV set made today that can evade this fact. But when you stop to consider that if you had to pay to go out and see all the movies and entertainment for one year that you see on your TV for that length of time the maintenance cost of your TV is a mere trifle compared to the many hundreds of dollars it would cost to go see this entertainment were it not available to you on your TV set. To keep this TV maintenance cost at a minimum be sure you get the best parts and service available call one of the following listed TV service firms when you need service.
