Hoover Slated to State Position for Assembly

To Air U.S. Viewpoint on Crises in Hungary and Mideast

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. is scheduled to spell out today for the U.N. General Assembly America's position on the Middle East and Hungarian crises.

There was some question, however, whether the 79-nation body would become bogged down in a wrangle over completing its agenda that might delay the start of general debate until tomorrow.

The United States last night pushed a resolution through the powerful Steering Committee recommending that the Assembly postpone for another year any action on seating Red China in the U.N.

The 8-5 decision countered India's proposal that the Assembly put the question on its agenda. India and the Soviet Union were expected to carry their fight to the Assembly. Although there was little likelihood of the committee's decision being upset, a protracted debate could follow.

Tension over the Middle East eased a little in the Assembly last night when word came that first units of the new U.N. police force had been ordered by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to proceed to Egypt. Hammarskjold left New York by plane to take personal charge of the operation.

Hammarskjold acted as dispatches from Moscow said Egypt had called on Russia to permit thousands of "volunteers" to go to the Arab state.

President Eisenhower commented in Washington that the United States would oppose — probably through the U.N. — the entry of any such volunteers into Egypt.

Hammarskjold will confer in Italy with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the U.N. force, before pushing on to Cairo. Before leaving, Hammarskjold made public a letter from U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., giving details of the American offer of help for the emergency force. Lodge said the United States would provide air and surface transport for an estimated 3,500 to 5,000 men and their equipment to staging areas as requested by the U.N. command.

Russian Threat Hurries Entry of World Army

Nasser Calls on Soviet to Send 'Volunteers' to Assist Egypt

LONDON (AP)—First units of the U.N. Middle East police force landed in the Suez Canal zone today.

They were rushed in on urgent U.N. orders in a move to forestall the threat of Communist "volunteers" being poured into the tense area.

The first Swiss airliner loaded with 45 Danish troops touched down behind the Egyptian lines at sun-baked Abu Suweir at 9:30 a. m. A second plane carrying 47 Norwegians landed at 10:02 a. m.

A third plane carrying equipment for the international police force landed 45 minutes later. The Swissair planes were chartered by the U. N. to move the police units and supplies to Egypt.

Word of the planes' arrival was radioed to the U. N. staging area at Capodichino, Italy, near Naples.

Swissair officials said the aircraft were making a quick turn-around, but it appeared unlikely that a second contingent could be ferried to the canal zone today.

Later a U. N. spokesman said a second group of about 100 men will leave the staging area tomorrow for Egypt. He said the second contingent would be made up of the first Colombian troops and another party of Norwegians.

The command at Capodichino announced that the "technical problems with which we were faced seem now to be solved."

A spokesman added that the shuttling of planes between the staging area and the canal zone will be speeded up in the next few days.

Nothing was said, however, about the solution of the major political problems of where the force would operate in Egypt and for how long.

Orders for the U. N. peace army to get moving to Egypt were issued last night after an Arab diplomatic source had reported in Moscow that President Nasser had requested Russia to send volunteer forces to Egypt immediately.

Fat Eight-Pointer 1st Deer in County

Pontiac Press Photo

FIRST DEER OF '56 — His very first deer in two seasons of hunting today fell to 55-year-old Percy Duncan of 2854 Campers' Drive, Milford, opening the 1956 deer season. Duncan's deer, a fat 8-pointer, was the first reported in the Oakland county area. It is also the first Pontiac Press contest entry. Its rack was 14½ inches wide. The deer was downed at 7 a. m. today with one shot at 75 feet, from a 16-gauge shotgun slug, near GMC's proving grounds near Milford. Second deer reported was a 160-pound, 8-pointer shot in Holly Recreation Area at 8 a. m. by Jim Mayo, of Davison.

Hunters Put Deer to Flight

By JACK PATTERSON

GRAYLING—It is possible, on this opening day of the 1956 deer season, that there are more deer than hunters in the woods, but it doesn't seem likely. The really surprising thing is that the local deer herd will count any survivors at nightfall, yet experience indicates that casualties will be surprisingly light.

PATTERSON

This doesn't mean that Au Sable Valley hunters can't hit the broad side of a barn. It just means that bucks can make themselves mighty scarce when trouble starts.

The Grayling-Lewiston-Mio triangle is an especially popular area for Oakland County hunters. From Clarkston we find Bob Jones and son Bobby at the "Half Dozen club" south of Grayling. Around Lewiston, and also from Clarkston are Herb Beach, Roy Jarvis, Kim Skaritt, Ward Dunstan, Carl Bates, Joe Sarvis and Chuck Beach.

Deer around Mio have a better than even chance of getting knocked off by a fellow named Kelly, since Lee Kelly and his four brothers are operating in that area. Other Clarkston hunters in the triangle area are Richard Bullen and his son Tom and "Tink" Ronk.

Sallying forth from "Rocking Chair Ranch" near Grayling are Henry McCandless, Jack Foster and Charlie Newsome. Up on the Gilchrist, north of Comins, Walt Kergan and Ralph Morehouse forsake the warm comfort of "Pocahontas Park" to go afield after antlers.

At Benson's place near Comins long-time openers Charlie Hayner, Dawson Baer, John Benson, Henry Houston and Jack King are adding their firepower to the general effort.

Not far away, Jack Habel, Horace Hatfield and "T" Powe are adding lustre to the scene. And so it is everywhere one goes. More local people up here, by far, than at home.

Several husband-wife teams from Pontiac, Art and Pat Meyer and "Bonnie" and Irma Wilkins are headquartering at Mid - Forest Lodge. Art's antelope-hunting buddy Clark Easley is on the firing line near Rose City.

Back in our own area, surrounding clubs are brim full of full-time, part-time and one-time hunters. A quick glance up highway 65 finds scarcely an empty bunk in "Buckhorn," "Cowe-Boy Ranch," "Ten-Buck," Oakland Hunt Club, "Silver Wolf" or in fact in any of the many outfits in the so-called "club area."

Tomorrow we can give you a blow by blow account of how the doughty hunters of Sleepy Hollow fared on this day, the 15th of November, and maybe some early returns on what friends and relatives hung on the pole.

B36 Hits, Burns With 21 Aboard

Fate of 4 Unknown, 17 Hurt as Big Bomber Crashes Near Denver

DENVER (AP)—A six-engine B36 bomber with 21 persons aboard crashed and burned north of Denver's municipal airport today.

A Lowry Air Force Base spokesman said "17 of those on board have been brought to the hospital here, but none is reported critical."

"We have no information yet as to the other four," he said.

The giant craft, assigned to the Strategic Air Command, was based at Ellsworth Air Force Base at Rapid City, S.D.

The plane took off at Lowry AFB at 6:29 a.m. and radioed that it would attempt an emergency landing at Stapleton, about three miles north of Lowry. It veered left and crashed about a mile north of the north-south Stapleton runway.

The big plane, its landing gear retracted, hovered as if intent on a landing.

"Then I realized—hell, there wasn't any field there," said Roy Miller, a Denver dairy owner who witnessed the crash.

Another witness, Iver Leef of Aurora, a cook, said "the plane was burning and some of the crewmen were helping others out. I jumped in to help them and got my clothes all bloody.

"It was pretty terrible — especially for one crewman who was trapped in the wreckage up front. "I counted 15 men we helped out. Then I lost count."

Showers Tonight, Snow Due Friday

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts occasional showers tonight, with the temperature dropping to a low of 36-40.

Tomorrow will be colder with snow flurries, and a high near 40.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 56 degrees. At 2 p.m. the mercury stood at 60.

Reaches 88 Per Cent

UF Drive $30,000 Short

Pontiac's area United Fund drive seemed destined to end up at least $30,000 short of its $612,202 goal tomorrow, UF officials said today.

Latest figures show the campaign has reached $536,825, or 88 per cent of quota.

The eighth annual campaign, started last Oct. 23, officially winds up with a victory luncheon at noon in the Elks Temple.

Speaker will be Earl W. Prosser, executive vice president of the Michigan United Fund. The luncheon will be sponsored by Consumers Power Company.

Campaign chairman Walter K. Willman explained that how closely this year's campaign comes to its goal depends on last minute reports coming in until luncheon time.

UF leaders strongly urged volunteers to turn all remaining reports into Fund Headquarters, 20½ E. Lawrence St.

If the campaign ends short of its goal, UF leaders may call for an extension of the drive.

In its seven-year history, the UF never has failed to reach goal, although time-extensions have been necessary.

Willman explained that the UF goal is carefully calculated to support 54 community service agencies next year.

"If the UF runs short of its goal," he said, "then the agencies which help residents of Pontiac, Pontiac Township and Waterford Township will be operating on reduced budgets."

The agencies supported provided health, recreation, youth, welfare and family services.

Women solicitors of the door-to-door Geographic Division seemed sure to make their $19,000 quota, Willman said. At last report, they were 98 per cent of the way to success.

But contributions in the all-important Industrial Division, as well as the Commercial Division, are lagging, Willman said.

So far, the Industrial Division has reported $357,487, or 86 per cent of its $414,000 goal.

The Commercial Division stands at 88 per cent, or $138,802 of its $158,086 goal collected.

Commercial chairman James F. Nye felt that his division will be able to report 100 per cent success, but probably not by the time of the victory luncheon.

Two Fatalities Mar Opening of Deer Season

Michigan deer hunters got away to a big start this morning on the 1956 bear and deer season. They took many deer with Oakland county "stay-at-homes" reporting the earliest successes. They also started on the wrong foot, with at least two fatalities.

Two who died from gunshot wounds both were victims of Upper Peninsula woodland accidents. Within minutes after the season opened, 52-year-old Lloyd Westeen of Ironwood was killed by a stray bullet near Ironwood. In a mid-morning shooting, Ronald Clegg, 15, of Sterlingville was fatally wounded.

Oakland county deer hunters today were finding success right in their own "backyards." Many didn't have to make a long trip upstate to bag an opening day buck.

Wind and rain didn't deter Percy Duncan of Milford, who downed an 8-pointer estimated to weigh 160 pounds, for the first deer reported (7 a.m.).

Others bagging their bucks in county areas included, in order of their reports:

Arthur Evon Jr., 3461 Fort street, Pontiac, spikehorn, at Gladwin (7:30 a.m.); Jim Mayo, Davison, 8-point-160 pounder at Holly Recreation area (8 a.m.); Victor Miller, Davisburg (9:30 a.m.), 8-pointer shot in woods across street from home.

Attorney Raps Murder Verdict

Henry Plans Appeal, Hits Court Procedure in Moore Trial

Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry confirmed today he plans to appeal the first-degree murder conviction of Howard Wayne Moore, 24, of Lake Orion, sentenced to life imprisonment Oct. 29 for the sex slaying of three-year-old Martha Little July 27.

Henry said he has "several new witnesses to establish the fact that Moore was nowhere near Lake Orion when the girl was first missing at 7:30 p.m."

Testimony in the four-day trial indicated Martha was last known to be playing outside her house at 7:30, but was not known to be missing until 8 p.m.

Moore's wife, Irene, 20, testified he returned to his house, next door to Martha's, about 8 p.m.

Henry also said in his opinion the introduction as testimony of results of a lie detector test Moore took was legally prejudicial to his case, even though Moore's court-appointed attorney, Carl Ingraham, agreed to their introduction.

Henry indicated he will challenge method of selection of the Moore jury, and by inference all juries in Oakland County. The system has recently drawn criticism, and the county Bar Association has passed a resolution calling for a new "jury commission" system.

Henry said he already has ordered a transcript of the trial, necessary in appeal procedure, but has not yet filed a motion asking a new circuit court trial.

If the motion is denied, Henry said, he will appeal to the state Supreme Court. In a first-degree murder conviction, he said, the high court legally is required to grant permission to appeal.

Court Rejects Defense Bid in Child Cruelty Hearing

Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick denied a move by the defense attorney in today's opening session of the child cruelty trial of a Keego Harbor couple, that the county jury panel should be dismissed.

Attorney Milton R. Henry based his motion on his charge that the Michigan Jury Act is unconstitutional in the light of the federal constitution.

He pointed out that six jurors on the present panel of 75 are over 70 years of age, while 26 have served on juries before.

Henry said federal courts have ruled juries must come from "the broadest possible cross-section of the community."

Judge Hartrick said this question was "one of state sovereignty and would be for the Legislature and not the courts to settle."

"I cannot say there has been an improper selection of jurors," the judge added.

Lie detector test results loomed as a question mark today as the trial began.

Population of U.S. Near 169,000,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau estimated the population of the United States at 168,921,000 on Oct. 1.

This represents an increase of 283,000 over Sept. 1, and is 2,865,000 higher than the total on Oct. 1, 1955.

The bureau said the new total shows a population growth of 17,789,000 or 11.8 per cent since April 1, 1950, the date of the last official census.

The census clock at the Commerce Department, which registers the estimated net increase in the population every few seconds, showed a total of 169,265,254 at 9:48 a.m. EST today.

Hungarians March in Mass Protest

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

VIENNA — Ten thousand unarmed Hungarian workers marched on the houses of Parliament in revolt-torn Budapest today in protest of mass deportation of Hungarian youths to Russia.

At noon there were no reports of clashes between the workers and the Russian troops who stood guard in the streets with tanks and guns.

The demonstration, and the general strikes which have paralyzed Budapest and the whole country, were organized despite continuing pleas for order by puppet Premier Janos Kadar.

Kadar today, Budapest radio reported, promised that free elections would be held in the near future even though, the premier admitted, they would mean the "probable defeat" of the Communist party.

Kadar made his pledge to 500 representatives of the millions of striking workers.

Kadar today rejected neutrality as a future policy for the nation and refused any negotiations with former Premier Imre Nagy as long as he remains in the asylum of the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest.

He showed clearly he has no intention of walking out of the Soviet-dominated Warsaw Pact or giving up the close ties with Moscow which set off the three-week revolution.

As for the man the revolt had made premier briefly, Kadar said an agreement with Nagy "could be possible only if he changes his attitude and comes out of the Yugoslav Embassy to negotiate."

Nagy took refuge with the Yugoslavs when the Russians poured troops into Hungary and Budapest to suppress the revolution.

In a desperate attempt to end the general strike paralyzing the revolt-shattered nation, Kadar's regime announced a mass purge of former top Communists and the Premier expressed approval of limited "free" elections "at a later date."

Budapest radio said Kadar told the workers' delegation, however, that the only parties which would be allowed to participate in elections would be those which "stand for Socialist principles and serve the interests of the workers."

Nagy sent word to Western newsmen yesterday that he would have (Continued on Page 34, Col. 2)

Convict Martin of Child Cruelty

Waterford Father of 2 to Be Sentenced Nov. 26 for Burning Boy, 4

Arthur La Martin, 27-year-old Waterford Township father of two children, was convicted yesterday of child cruelty by a one-man, 11-woman jury after a day-long trial in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Martin will be sentenced Nov. 26 by Judge George B. Hartrick, who said yesterday he wants a "detailed examination" by probation officials before the sentencing.

In testimony yesterday, Martin took the stand to deny he intentionally burned Dennis, claiming first and second degree burns the child suffered were accidental. Dennis did not testify.

Martin accused Waterford police Captain Millard Pender and detective Donald Gravlin of perjury in denying they promised him he would be released if he "told the truth" about the incident.

Holding a rosary on the witness stand, Martin said the officers called him a liar and "took the name of the Lord in vain" when he told his version of the story.

Earlier, assistant prosecutor James E. Nichols had read the jury the statement Martin made, admitting the crime.

Jury Deliberating in Cruelty Trial

A four-man, eight-woman jury this afternoon began deliberating charges against William R. Norman, 24, of 39 Mechanic St., in the third child cruelty case tried in Oakland County Circuit Court in two days.

The case against Norman, who is accused of beating a 10-month-old girl, seemed weakened as the case went to the jury by the defection of key prosecution witness Mrs. Judy Bishop.

Mrs. Bishop, mother of the girl, failed to testify she saw Norman beating her daughter, Janice, Oct. 17. On the witness stand, Mrs. Bishop said the child's bruised face may have been caused by a fall.

Auto Misses Curve, Woman Escapes Injury

A young woman driver whose car missed a curve in last night's fog escaped serious injury, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said.

June M. Davis, 20, of Rochester suffered only a cut leg when her auto rolled over in a ditch, they said. She was treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

The accident was on Dutton road east of Squirrel road.

Haircut Hearing to See Contrasts

Balding School Leaders vs. Thick-Haired Pupil in Court Tomorrow

It will be the "haves" and the "have nots" in Macomb County Circuit Court tomorrow, when the Romeo High School haircut edict goes on trial.

The Romeo Community Schools' board of education and administration have been ordered to show cause why they have not readmitted 16-year-old Robert Phernetton, of Washington.

Phernetton has quite a healthy head of hair. Four of the school board members are quite thin on top. The fifth, Dr. Ralph G. Renwick, sports a crewcut.

Presiding Judge Alton H. Noe is also bald.

The youth was expelled when his haircut failed to measure up to administration's standards, aimed at minimizing delinquency and misbehavior.

He secured a haircut, but the result was not acceptable to school authorities.

The reported "Elvis Presley" type haircut wrangle has spurred rumors that the rock and roll singer will attend the court session to defend his tonsorial style.

Blushing Breech Is 'Victim' on TV in Detroit

DETROIT (INS)— Ralph Edwards of television fame exposed Detroit's best-kept secret last night when he took "Ernie" Breech by the arm and said "This is your life."

Ernest R. Breech, Chairman of the Board of Ford Motor Co., said he was "completely surprised" when the nation-wide TV program told his life story.

"Ernie" said he thought the program would tell the life story of Henry Ford, as rumored.

He was blushing and flustered when he joined in the first family reunion in years. His sisters, Mrs. Henry M. Nichols, of York, Pa., Mrs. Leonard Dickerson, of St. Louis, Mo., and his brother, Earl, of Birmingham, Mich., joined him on the stage of the Henry Ford Auditorium.

Breech described the feeling as "worse than planning a new model car."

The Day in Birmingham

Planning Group to Wait to Study Zone Minimums

BIRMINGHAM — Lot sizes and building size requirements suggested to be added to the zoning ordinance have been tabled by the City Planning Commission.

The suggestions, submitted by City Planner Herbert Herzberg to the City Commission and referred to the planning commission, "deserve immediate consideration," according to Herzberg.

At least 1,000 square feet of floor area per family would be required, with 4,500 square feet of lot area per family, under section 606 of ordinance No. 357.

A minimum of 800 is asked in the suggestions per family under sections 703 and 806 of Ordinance 406 and 900 under Section 906 for three bedroom apartments, 750 for 2-bedroom, and 500 for 1-bedroom units.

A minimum land space of 3,000 is called for in sections 703 and 806 in the request.

The request stems from the study of many months being conducted by the planning board, which has brought the board's attention to what they feel are weak points in the present ordinance.

Need $1 Million to Equip Addition

Women May Spearhead Hospital Drive

Pontiac General Hospital's Board of Trustees is expected tonight to appoint the Woman's Auxiliary of the hospital as the group to spearhead a proposed campaign to raise $1 million to equip the new addition under construction.

At a meeting held last night at the Waldron Hotel, a preliminary committee decided to send a delegation headed by Dr. Harold A. Furlong, chief of staff at the hospital, to the Dec. 6 meeting of the Greater Pontiac Advisory Council.

Dr. Furlong outlined the urgent need to raise this money to the group last night.

He stressed that even when Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy Hospitals complete their additions, the Pontiac area would still be short 500 hospital beds to fulfill needs.

DIRECTOR REPORTS

Miss Lauretta Paul, director of the hospital, repeated last week's report that $1,017,588 was needed because much of the equipment had to be deleted from original contracts because of the increased amount of the bids.

Voters approved, in 1954, a $3 million bond issue. Bids received this year soared to the $4 million mark, forcing an emergency appropriation by the city of $500,000.

William P. Babcock pointed out that what was planned as a $3 million wing is now headed closer to $4.5 million.

Dr. Furlong emphasized that $750,000 of the cost must go toward revamping and remodeling facilities of the present hospital to tie it into the new extension.

He added that the medical staff of the hospital hoped to raise $100,000.

INDIVIDUALS DONATE

A $1,000 check from Mayor William W. Donaldson was received by the auxiliary, along with his promise of additional donations not to exceed $4,000. This money will be from the wages Donaldson is expected to receive in his present tenure as a city commissioner.

Considerable discussion was held last night as to whether the money needed should be raised by an additional bond issue or by public subscription. No decision was reached.

Comfort for Hens

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Carl Dossin, poultry specialist at Pennsylvania State University, says laying hens will show a better output if they have comfortable quarters. And he adds, they will generally be more profitable if kept confined than allowed to run on range.

Not at Fault, Architects Say

Firm Denies Blame for High Cost of New Detroit Hall

DETROIT (AP)—An architectural firm has denied responsibility for a more than $6 million increase in the cost of Detroit's new convention hall, now under construction in the waterfront civic center.

Mayor Albert E. Cobo recently blamed the firm for a "mistake" in estimating the amount of steel to be used in the construction.

Raymond F. Giffels, executive vice president of Giffels and Vallet, Inc., and L. Rossetti, the architects, wrote the mayor yesterday.

Cobo said the architects figured the cost of the building at $42,548,000 last April, but that recent estimates put the cost at $49,441,000. He indicated the boost was the result of a miscalculation in the amount of steel needed.

NEED MORE STEEL

Giffels said the orginal steel estimate was 1,500 tons short. But "any engineer or architect will tell you no greater degree of accuracy can be expected in very preliminary estimates," he added.

Subsequent increases in the estimates, Giffels said, "have been due to a continuing rise in costs of labor and materials and to many changes in the scope and character of the facility, all ordered by the memorial hall commission."

"It has not been shown that we have made errors costing the city one cent, or that we are responsible in any way for the mounting costs of the project," he added.

Cobo said city engineers would review the steel bids and the increase could be financed in budgets for the next two fiscal years. The bids must be approved or rejected by Nov. 16.

Crash Convinces Hare on Insurance Issue

LANSING (AP)—Secretary of State James M. Hare says he is more convinced than ever that compulsory auto insurance might be a good thing for Michigan.

Hare showed up in his office yesterday for the first time since Oct. 20, when he was seriously injured in an automobile accident on Detroit's Eight Mile Road.

The driver of the other car, whom police said ran a red light, did not have insurance.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

Chapter 18

There seemed to be two doors into Anita's apartment. The one in the end of the hall appeared to be the main one; it had a dainty brass knocker on it. The door in the side wall had the modest air of a service entrance.

It most likely opened into the kitchen. I listened at it first, then I moved past it to the other one and put my ear to the panel beside the brass knocker. Again I listened for the sound of a window pane being broken, the window being raised, footsteps inside . . . some sign that Steve and I would soon be reunited.

But either the door was too thick or Steve was in trouble. I was beginning to wonder how much longer I should wait for him.

Then I heard a sound, but it hadn't come from behind Anita's door.

It had come from behind me.

I started to turn toward it, and there was a sudden rush of motion. I flung back my right hand. It hit something . . . and something hit me, a walloping blow on the side of my head . . .

Before I knew anything else, I knew that Steve was with me. I could hear his voice. At first it was far away, very far away, then it came closer and closer. That made me feel some better. When I opened my eyes and saw Steve's face near mine, felt his arms around me, the dimness of my view toward life in Greenwich Village's Rhinebeck Place began to lessen.

"I think I can stand up," I said.

"Take your time."

"I can manage . . . "

With Steve's help, I got to my feet. My surroundings began to register on me. We were in a living room. On the table a lamp was burning.

"Steve!" I said, "the light! Someone will see . . "

"It's all right. There's only a skylight in this room. The window I came through is in the bedroom. Connie, what made you pass out?"

"Pass out? You think I fainted?"

"Well . . . "

"Steve, somebody knocked me out!" I felt my head; a lump was in its ascendency. "I got sandbagged!"

"Who . . . "

"I don't know. I didn't see him. I just felt him. He came up behind me in the hall."

"He was waiting there in the hall?"

"No, there was no one there."

"Wait."

Steve went through a door. I followed him just far enough to see that he was going into a small kitchen. In a moment he was back.

He said, "There's a service door in there. Someone could have got through it out into the hall. He must have heard me climbing the fence or breaking in the window."

"Yes, he must have been in here. Jack Walston? Wendell Kipp?"

"You think it was a man who hit you?"

"I don't know. When I heard the sound I swung out my arm backwards, like this . . . " I showed Steve how I had swung out my arm. "And then . . . "

I stopped, staring at my right hand. On my glove was a smear of vivid orange lipstick. I looked at Steve.

"It was a woman," I said. "I hit her in the face."

"Dottie Harris?"

"Maybe, but I don't think so. She's so short. I have the feeling it was someone taller."

"Someone else," Steve said slowly. "Dottie Harris, Jack Walston, Wendell Kipp. And now still another person. What is it that's so damned fascinating about this apartment?"

We looked around. The living room took up most of the apartment. It was a large, rather narrow room. The long side wall that held the door to the corridor was lined with waist-high bookshelves, decorated with a series of camera studies of New York City.

The opposite end was broken by doors into two bedrooms, one into the kitchen. Between the two bedroom doors was a long, lush modern couch, flanked by modern end tables.

Still examining the room, I sat on the edge of the couch; I needed a little more rest. The end wall to my right was centered by a combination desk and table. To its right was an easy chair, beside it a telephone on a low circular table. The wall at the other end was filled mostly with the giant-sized cabinet of a radio-phonograph.

On each side of it was a straight-backed, matching chair. All in all, it was a very pleasant place for a bachelor girl to live.

I looked at Steve and found him staring at the end table at the right of the couch. I stared at it, too. There was a crystal ash tray on it, a cigarette box, a lighter, and that was all . . . nothing really to stare at. I looked back at Steve. Now his attention was focused on the couch's other end table. It held a lamp, a squat cylinder of pottery with a square wooden base. There was an ash tray, too, and an aluminum dish filled with books of matches.

"Connie," Steve said, "wouldn't you think there'd be a lamp on that table, too?"

"Well, yes," I said. "I guess so. It needs a lamp."

Steve closed in on the table, bent over it.

"Look," he said, "There was a lamp on it."

"That's right. There was a lamp."

He touched the clean circle, then examined his fingers.

"No dust there at all. The lamp's been taken away lately. Maybe even by the person who knocked you out."

"But why? Why would anyone want to steal a lamp?"

"Maybe," Steve said, "she didn't want the lamp. Maybe she wanted something that was inside it. And if she heard me, she wouldn't have had time to get whatever it is out of the lamp. So she took the whole thing. Ripped out the cord and ran."

Steve move to the other table.

"Would you say it's a good bet that the lamps were a pair?"

"Possibly. You can see that the bases were the same size."

Steve removed the shade. It was the kind of lamp where the cord is attached to the bulb socket. He picked it up, tried to unscrew the wooden base from the pottery urn. He succeeded. He lifted the urn off its base.

In the center of the base was a brass spindle. On the spindle were one . . . two, three reels, about the size of home movie film. Steve slipped one of the reels off the spindle, unwound about a foot of it.

I asked, "Is it a movie film?"

"No."

"What is it then?"

"Recording tape."

"Recording tape . . . could that be what everybody was looking for?"

"It must have been. And there probably was more of it in that other lamp. We didn't give whoever was in here time enough to get at this one."

"Steve, I'm dying to know what's on that tape."

"I can hardly wait myself."

"There must be a recorder someplace in the apartment. Let's look around."

"No, I'll pick one up at the office and we can hear it at home. I wouldn't say it was very safe around here, Connie."

I felt the lump on my head.

"You're right," I said. "Let's go."

Great Lakes Need Quick Transfusion

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court was asked yesterday to approve a 100-day emergency transfusion of Great Lakes water. Atty. Gen. Latham Castle of Illinois said the move would ease drought effects on the big midcontinent shipping artery.

The action came as spokesmen for and against increased diversion presented arguments at the annual session of the six-state Great Lakes commission, an unofficial cooperative advisory body.

Castle asked the high court in Washington to modify temporarily its 1,500 cubic feet per second Chicago diversion limit of 1930 by permitting the flow from Lake Michigan to be upped by 10,000 cubic feet per second, to 11,500.

He said the action was taken in the interest of inland shipping interests, and to guard the health of city residents along the waterway, in the face of an expected record low water situation throughout the Upper and Middle Mississippi and the entire Missouri River systems.

In the new Lincoln Tunnel tube being constructed under the Hudson River between New York City and New Jersey, it will be possible to change the air every 1½ minutes.

Never have the happenings around the globe been covered so swiftly, and yet with incredible accuracy.

The current Middle East crisis brings the amazing resources of the Associated Press into sharp focus. Here is a list of the date lines seen on Associated Press stories within a week, all of them bearing directly on the single matter just mentioned:

In addition to the millions its spends directly, the Associated Press has the entire news gathering resources of every member at its disposal. For example, the full editorial department of The Pontiac Press is covering the news here for the AP as well as for The Pontiac Press. This means some thirty people in our area alone are protecting the world-wide interests of the AP. Multiply this by the number of members and the Associated Press becomes the far flung and gigantic organization it really is.

It has members in 69 countries.

Commission Puts O.K. on Grand Trunk Yards

Pontiac's City Commission approved the plans for the new switching yards of the Grand Trunk Railroad Tuesday night. The vote was 4 to 3. Their action followed several months of controversy, spearheaded by residents of the area affected.

After thorough study, and conferences with railroad representatives, a majority of the Commission became convinced that there were sound reasons for locating the yards where the railroad asked.

Recognizing the natural desire of residents of the area to have the yards built as far from their homes as possible, these four Commissioners nevertheless realized their responsibility to consider first the overall needs of the whole city.

Believing that Pontiac's future would best be served by placing the yards where the Grand Trunk suggested, Mayor William W. Donaldson, Dr. Roy V. Cooley Jr., Philip E. Rowston and John A. Dugan voted for the location south of Walton Boulevard and west of Baldwin Avenue.

At the same time they have done their utmost to protect the adjacent residents. They have insisted that no steam engines be used there, only diesels, and that the yards be hidden by a protective belt of shrubbery.

Controversial issues such as this inevitably bring differences of opinion. Groups affected bring great pressure to bear upon the individual commissioners. By their action, these four men have earned the thanks and appreciation of all citizens who wish to see Pontiac grow.

The Man About Town

12,000 Turkeys

Biggest Farm in the Local Area Has That Many Birds

Deer: A numerous wild animal that seems to get scarce about Nov. 15.

The Travis Farms,

near Lakeville in Addison Township, has raised 12,000 of the birds in 1956, about the same number as last year. According to who has managed the farms for several years, this has been an exceptionally good season for the rearing of this most temperamental of all fowls. He states that the general run of the birds is from 11 to 15 pounds, but some of the husky gobblers run above 30 pounds. The price is a little lower than last year, with most of the birds already spoken for.

If the northward bound travel on the Dixie Highway is any criterion, deer hunters will not be as plentiful in the northwoods as in most former years. The day before the opening of the season did not see any more cars bound in that direction than on many weekends last summer.

Word comes to me from

David Laidlaw,

Superintendent of Kent Lake Park in western Oakland County, that the herd of 100 or more deer in the area are covered by the regulations of a wild life sanctuary, and there is no open season on them. They have become so numerous that signs are displayed beside the highways in that vicinity.

"Deer Crossing Area"

After reading your item about parakeets," phones

Mrs. Phletus Harmon

A parakeet recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Arondson of Keego Harbor keeps repeating something that sounds like "Rock and Roll," also goes through the motions. They've named it "Elvis."

Another indication of an early winter is that a large warty toad that for several years has been around the back yard of

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Garardin

Living near the Wisner Stadium,

George Smith

reports that the pheasants who inhabit the brush section on North Cass Ave. in that vicinity, and who disappeared when the open season shooting began, have returned to their old haunts.

He Voted—The Hard Way

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Would Join U.N. Police Force

WASHINGTON — The United States stands ready to cooperate with the United Nations in exposing the acts of aggression by Soviet Russia in the Middle East.

A scheme to send Communist "volunteers" into Egypt—officially and openly endorsed by the Moscow and Peking governments—even though the United Nations has received pledges from Egypt herself that she will respect a "cease fire," is regarded here as a climax to many months of plotting and intrigue in the Middle East by the Communists.

Israel's reprisals against border raids and the decision of Britain and France to use force to secure free passage of the Suez Canal are merely effects—not causes—of the Soviet intervention.

The discovery that millions of dollars worth of arms were supplied Egypt and that along with the munitions and equipment went Soviet technicians and aviators indicates plainly that the Communist activity started many months ago and that the present muddled situation was brought about by the Moscow regime.

Proof of this is in the possession of the British government, as described in Parliament.

President Eisenhower hinted at his Wednesday press conference that the United States might be willing to go a considerable distance to back up the U.N. in measures to present a world war that might arise as a result of Middle Eastern aggression by Soviet Russia.

U.N. WOULD ACT

He pointedly said that "it would be the duty of the United Nations, which would include the United States, to oppose such an effort (the sending by Soviet Russia of 'volunteers' to Egypt)."

Mr. Eisenhower further declared that, if the United Nations took some steps in that direction, this country "would again try to be their supporters in any such action."

When the President was questioned as to what form American action might take if new armed forces were introduced in the Middle East, he added:

"Well, I can't tell what it would be. But the United Nations, if you will read its charter, is not by any manner of means limited to resolutions, and, in one instance, at least, showed that it was not so limited. So I don't know exactly what we would do. It would depend upon the circumstances."

The President undoubtedly was referring to the 1950 action of the United Nations in ordering, through its Security Council, the sending of armed forces to Korea "to repel aggression."

This was possible because the Soviets were absent from the Security Council meeting, but since then the general assembly has been empowered to authorize its members to take collective action irrespective of a Soviet veto in the Security Council.

It is conceivable that, if the United Nations police force seeks to take over the Suez area from the British and French forces and finds itself menaced by Communist "volunteers," the United States will view the new situation as one requiring action by the U.N. General Assembly.

In those circumstances it seems likely that American troops might join to protect the U.N. police force.

If the Soviets really want to keep the peace, they have such an opportunity in the policy they pursue in handling the "volunteer" problem. The President indicated this when he said:

"Really, for the first time in history, an international machinery, set up by nations for the settlement of international disputes, is receiving a truly thorough test."

If the test fails, the world is in for serious trouble—and that includes the United States.

LI'L ONES

Dr. William Brady Says:

Buy Stretch-Socks to Fit, Avoid Ingrown Toenails

Correspondent wonders whether stretch socks cause ingrown nails. He is not on his feet much, and he changes his shoes once or twice a day. He is 61 and has only recently had trouble—since he began wearing stretch socks.

I'm glad you brought the question up, sir.

I had a good deal of trouble with ingrown nail many years ago, but upon switching from pointed toes to a make of shoes with broad, almost square toes, a make which, I gather, is no longer on the market, I found relief.

My toes had room, and my feet were free to turn in, something like the feet of a bow-legged pigeon-toed person. The shoes had very flexible shafts, no rigid splints on the feet.

I, too, have some recurrence of ingrown nail in the past year. It never occurred to me until this correspondent inquired about it, that my stretch socks might be to blame. I discovered stretch socks less than two years ago and have worn them exclusively.

SIZES VARY

Although the salemen assure me that there's only one size, which is right for feet of any size, it has seemed to me that some of them are too tight for comfort and others (I never noticed whether they are of different makes) are loose enough for comfort.

If I buy any more stretch socks —I wouldn't want any other kind —I'll take along samples of the comfortable kind and the tight kind and insist that I shall get my money back if I'm stuck with any more of the tight kind.

In fact I know I won't have to stipulate anything — the people where I buy clothing are so accommodating about exchanging or refunding the price of anything I decide I don't like that it is sometimes embarrassing.

ANKLES WEAK

It's odd—reminds me of the belated recognition of the meaning of "weak ankles" which I made only after years of practice. I had treated many cases of pronated feet, with strapping and special exercises, plus the freakish looking shoes which seem to be unavailable now.

Pronated feet are weak feet. When the young person (usually teenage) walks, her ankles turn or roll in. Weak ankles, stupid.

For ingrown toenails, try going barefoot as much as possible, wearing shoes broad enough across ball of foot to give all the toes room and prevent pressure of one upon another. Wear a strip of ahesive plaster applied to the skin at the edge of the ingrown nail and around under and over base of toe to draw skin edge away from the nail edge.

Keep the groove between skin and nail powdered with powdered alum. Trim or cut the nail straight across, not attemping to round the corners, and, if you must put shoes on, wear sandals or cut out the toe.

My nail seemed more convex from side to side than the other nails. Also thicker on top. So I kept rasping away at it until I had it thinned down nearly to the quick. On the theory that it would grow flatter, less convex, and so keep the nail edge from irritating the skin edge next to it. This proved successful. The rasping may be repeated every month or two if necessary.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Curious' Asks Why Dulles Didn't Know About Attack

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

If, as our President said, the American Intelligence at this time is a lot better than it was during Pearl Harbor, how come that our government didn't know that England and France were going to attack Egypt? It seems incredible that Dulles didn't know about it, since he was with them until the very end.

Curious

Says It's Crime to Shoot Our Birds

I think it's a crime to see men heading up north to shoot birds. They were put on this earth to brighten the scenes. It's quite different with deer hunters. They are providing something for the family to eat and it has an economic value. In the olden days, our ancestors used to live on venison and so did the Indians. But the birds are our feathered friends.

Grandmother Has Plan for Teens

I see some of the teenagers don't want any school assignments over the weekends. Well, let's do away with all assignments in schools. The overburdened little dears could go half days and be shown western movies on the screen and fan dancers in person. Of course, if either of these began to bore them, they could be taken home by a school bus or in taxi cab at public expense.

General Burns Uncertain About His Duties in Egypt

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns may get more ulcers than medals in his "Rainbow Army" venture in Egypt.

The 58-year-old Canadian officer has been named chief of command in charge of the polyglot international police force intended to separate the belligerents in Egypt.

Much confusion exists not only in the public mind but also in that of the general on just what he may or may not do in the unprecedented job. Burns intends to get more details from New York headquarters of the U. N.

Egypt has agreed to accept the entry of the "peace force." But some of the conditions circulated in Cairo appear destined to give Burns and his men many headaches.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency says the U. N. force "would have no duties" in invaded Port Said and the canal zone after the Anglo-French troops withdraw.

The agency said the police force would be confined to the Egyptian-Israeli armistice line and that the U. N. troops must get out of Egypt once Cairo withdraws its agreement.

THEY WON'T LEAVE

Britain and France are on record as saying they will not leave "unless and until there is a U. N. force to take over" from them. Israel also will try to hold on to the Gaza Strip area it captured even if it gives up the Sinai Peninsula.

Burns has an initial small force of Danes, Norwegians and Colombians and offers of aid from other small nations, hence the nickname, "Rainbow Army."

LACK OF UNITY

Burns faces the problem of units of mixed uniforms, difference in arms and languages. His token force has no heavy tanks or arms, no aircraft. Some of the men have only a few months' service.

The U. N. police force could be pushed aside by any of the three armies now entrenched in Egypt.

Militarily the police force is decidedly weak. But morally it is a majority of the U. N. member-strong because of its backing by ship which voted its creation.

If the U. N venture is successful it will offer hope that some day every nation will have a token force dedicated to the U. N. and ready for swift police action on a world scale.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Overfatigue Can Cause Explosion

Sally's case is a double tragedy, for her Daddy is supposed to be a cultured man. Yet he exploded like any average father under undue fatigue and strain. Discuss this case in high school and Sunday School. Have a family forum around your dinner table. And if you parents have courage, let your children rate you on the tests named below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case T-322: Sally B., aged 14, offers a challenge to parents.

"Dr. Crane, my father has a wonderful reputation and I am very proud of him," she began.

"He is a doctor and spends much of his time away from home, not only treating patients but making speeches.

"But when he does come home, he is always mad at me about something! Last week while he was watching TV, I asked him if I could go next door to visit a girl friend, and he said it was O.K.

"But he was furious when I reached home about 25 minutes late. I got a beating. I don't mean a spanking. He beat me.

"Next day I was too ashamed to go to gym class because I didn't want to tell the other kids how I got those big ugly bruises on my legs.

"My Mom also is so strict she will not let me have any friends unless she is well acquainted with their parents.

"She doesn't approve of my making friends with kids from shabby homes who live on the other side of town.

FALSE FRONTS

"Because their parents may not drive as nice a car as ours or dress as well as we do, she thinks they have a bad reputation.

"I think she is unfair to these kids. They are friends of mine and I feel they have a right to overcome the handicaps of their home life. Isn't it Christian to show friendship to all people and try to help them?

"Oh, Dr. Crane, I am all confused! I have even thought I would run away from home.

"I used to be energetic and study hard before Daddy beat me. But now I don't say a word at the table unless I have to.

"They have me constantly afraid I'll do something wrong. Have you ever been in a fix like mine?

"I've read some books on adolescence but so far I haven't found the answers to my problems."

PARENTS, TAKE CARE

This case is not as unusual as you might imagine. Sally's Daddy is a brilliant M.D. and a popular after-dinner speaker, yet he let his temper get away from him because his daughter came home 25 minutes late.

Why do you suppose he was so upset by her tardiness? Well, he was probably tired.

A toddler may thus strike at its own mother and say "I hate you," just because of excess fatigue and failure to get food on schedule.

And we adults often react just like such toddlers. Sally's Daddy was fatigued. He was also worried by her tardiness.

He imagined she might have been been sexually assaulted. He conjured up all sorts of things to torture his mind.

When she did arrive, he whipped her till he raised welts on her calves.

And it wasn't the beating that rankled so much, as his failure to apologize for his excessive punishment afterwards.

Children don't resent corporal punishment unduly. And when warranted, it may do some good.

But angry punishment of a disproportionate sort, causes a bad domestic situation. Sally's Daddy should have admitted his error to Sally.

How many of you fathers, however, have ever apologized to your children?

Men often make mistakes in rearing their children but are usually so stubborn and egotistical that their pride refuses to let them say "I'm sorry. I was unduly upset."

15 Jet Airplanes Go to German Base

FUERSTENFELDBRUCK, GERMANY (AP) — Fifteen American F-84 thunderstreak fighter-bombers were delivered Tuesday by the United States to the New West German fledgling air force.

The 15 jet planes are the first to be used for active frontline duty by the Luftwaffe which so far had only training planes.

The American-built jets will form the 320th German Fighter-Bomber Squadron.

One Infant—2 Adults Victims of Crash

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—Thomas Wilcox, a young textile worker, drove to the scene of a car-train wreck last night. Three persons had been killed.

He struck a match to view the body of a dead woman.

"My God, it's my wife," he cried.

The other victims were Rita Faye Wilcox, his 21-months-old daughter and James Cecil Wilcox, 31, his brother.

The child was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The adults died when the car struck a freight train.

Thomas Wilcox was on his way home from work. His brother worked a late shift and he and Thomas' wife were on their way to the plant when the accident occurred.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (INS) — The University of Kansas has exhibited a display designed to show students the development and size of the newspaper syndicate business.

The exhibit is part of the Albert T. Reid Cartoon Collection which contains more than 1,300 original items by approximately 525 comic strip artists and is one of the largest in the country.

The current exhibit is sponsored by King Features Syndicate of New York. It contains originals of comic strips, humor panels and editorial cartoons the syndicate distributes, as well as promotion material used to help market the approximately 180 features it sells. The material will become a permanent part of the Reid collection.

Statutes Allow State to Receive Federal Aid

LANSING (AP) — Two bills permitting Michigan to receive federal grants in aid, passed by the special session of the legislature at its meeting on Nov. 8, have been signed into law by Gov. Williams.

One would qualify the state to receive federal grants for the construction of sewage treatments works. It makes $55,373 available to the state water resources commission to administer the program and up to $1,350,000 available for the various municipal building projects approved.

The other permits the state to take advantage of federal legislation expanding the school milk program to include non-profit nurseries and summer camps.

Colleges Debate Hike in Tuition

32 of Possible 71 Educators Send an Answer to Fee Poll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presidents of 30 state colleges and universities said today they believe a substantial increase in tuition would reverse the traditional pattern of American education.

Two other presidents, whose schools have comparatively low charges, expressed doubt an increase would affect opportunities for higher education in their states.

The American Assn. of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities, meeting here, polled the presidents of its 71 member institutions but received replies from only 32.

The poll was prompted by recent statements by Wilson Compton, President of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, and others calling for increases in student fees at both public and private colleges to help meet their rising costs.

The council was established to encourage contributions to higher education by business, foundations and individuals. Compton, however, said he spoke as an individual in suggesting that students at tax-supported institutions "pay 50 per cent of the cost, or at least much more than the 16 per cent which on the average they are now paying."

U. of M. Professor Outlines Home Rule

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "Home-Rule Charters in Michigan represent a prodigious citizen effort to streamline municipal government and make it more responsible to the voters," a University of Michigan Political Science professor said here yesterday.

Speaking to the 62nd Annual National Conference on Government, Prof. Arthur W. Bromage outlined home rule as applied in Michigan as "the authority of a city under a state constitution which has laws to draft and adopt a charter for its own government."

The U-M professor explained that Michigan adopted such a constitution in 1908 and the following year the legislature adopted the Home-Rule Act.

The Political Scientist advised citizens action groups in cities where state laws forbid home rule to seek an amendment to their state constitutions, if necessary by referendum.

JUST HAVING FUN — One may have called the other a dirty pig. Or the other may have called the other a dirty dog. At any rate, a moment after this picture was snapped they were going at it apparently for dear life. But neither got hurt. To them, the rough stuff is just fun. The battle takes place daily on the farm of Ted Ricklefs near Atchison, Kans. Out of a herd of 100 hogs, the boxer picks on the same porker day in and day out. When one gets the other down, he lets up — and they go at each other again.

Californians Drink Up

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Californians drank 188 million gallons of beer during 1955. That's an average of 14.3 gallons per citizen. The State Board of Equalization, compiled of the statistics, said hard liquor consumption totaled 20,953,000 gallons during the year for an average of 1.61 gallons per resident. The figures were based on a population count of 13,035,000.

Bookless Libraries?

EAST LANSING (AP) — Libraries without books are envisioned by an educator. He says books are being printed so fast these days they become outdated before libraries find room for them. John S. Millis, president of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, says microfilm, microcards, magnetic tapes and similar devices may take the place of books.

One-fifth of Utah is said to be underlain with coal.

'Stratosphere' Chamber

PATUXENT RIVER, Md.—In a "stratosphere chamber" at the Naval Air Test Center at Patuxent River, pressure can be changed from that at sea level to that at 70,000 feet in 6 minutes. The chamber is used for testing airplane instruments. Temperatures can go through a range of minus 55 to 90 degrees Centigrade in 45 minutes.

Thirty-five per cent of Canada's total area is forested.

New Wafer Helps Ulcers

NEW YORK (INS)—A radically new anti-ulcer compound has been developed which reportedly allows ulcer victims an unrestricted diet, "ordinary use of tobacco and moderate use of alcohol."

Reports on the compound said it "eliminated symptoms and restored ability to work" and was based on the theory that ulcers are caused by nutritional deficiencies.

Present ulcer drugs operate on the theory that ulcers result from hyperstimulation of stomach nerves caused by emotional stresses. This, so the thinking goes, leads to harmful acid accumulation in the stomach.

To attack this, present ulcer treatment prescribes rest, change of habits and bland foods.

The new compound consists of vitamins, minerals, milk solids and sucrose, plus an extract named "nupra." This last was described as the "specific ulcer healing factor."

Nupra, a term coined from the initial letters of "nutritional ulcer preventive and restorative agent," is an extract developed in Denmark from cattle organs, liver and brain cells.

A series of reports on the new wafer showed it to be effective in treating ulcer victims on all levels of society whose illness ranged from a few months to 14 years.

It was emphasized that science does not know for sure what causes ulcers but that the new compound's "healing effect" would indicate ulcers arise from improperly-balanced meals. The wafer apparently makes up for the missing elements.

Reports were made by Drs. Ejner Jarlov, University of Copenhagen; Carl W. Ebeling, Department of Medicine University of Maryland; Dr. Jacques Fischl, Lenox Hill Hospital, New York City, and Dr. Louis Gilbert, St. Luke's Hospital, New York City.

The drug will be sold on a doctor's prescription only. It presently is in use in Denmark, Italy and Canada.

Tail Wag Will Get Head

NEW YORK (AP) — Sculptress Jeanne Owens has offered an unusual reward for the return of her missing basset hound named Tuesday. She said she would sculpture a head of whoever finds and returns it.

Turkey Replaces the Chicken in Every Pot

BY BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — The old political pledge of a "chicken in every pot" seems to have been brought up to date. The Family Economics Bureau has come up with the startling statistic that U.S. turkey farms and markets now possess 1% gobblers for every family in the U.S.

Turkeys apparently are getting out of hand. They threaten to take us over. We have 76,000,000 of them today as opposed to 44,000,000 in 1950.

Back in 1930 only 17,000,000 were around, and if memory serves one recalls what part most of us got that particular year.

Why more now? Seems that turkey people have developed new varities which can be marketed much younger, hatched birds have a greater life expectancy, package has become more attractive, and birds have become an all-year-round delicacy instead of just at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Benjamin Franklin argued loud and long to put the turkey instead of the eagle on the Great Seal of the young United States government. He preferred the turkey's fastidious eating habits to those of the eagle, first cousin of a vulture.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

How was a native American bird named after a foreign country? Simple. Colonists, who gave a great many wrong names to things they found here, confused the bird with the guinea-fowl, in those days a delicacy imported into Europe by way of Turkey.

The Supreme Court refused to review Dr. Sam Sheppard's appeal. The verdict of his Cleveland jury, reached after five tense days just before Christmas two years ago, now has stood up in all the appeal courts.

Dr. Sam's life sentence for bashing in the head of his pretty wife still stands. In time he will be eligible for parole.

Thus ends what may be the final chapter, for some time at least, in a matter that aroused more feeling one way or the other than almost any criminal trial of the past decade or two.

Many continue to believe that there was, indeed, a "bushy-haired stranger" who killed Marilyn Sheppard and twice belted out the husband who in time was convicted of her murder. Many must believe, too, that law and order found the right man and put him away.

WHY NO PROTEST?

If Dr. Sam was as guiltless as he, his family and his supporters insist, one who sat in the same courtroom with the accused for two months still finds it hard to comprehend why he never once cried out against the testimony as it piled into the record against him.

Dr. Sam's manner throughout his long ordeal was not "How dare you!" But "All right, prove it." The Supreme Court now says, in effect, "Okay, they did."

Every time we pass the U.N. buildings on Manhattan's East Side we are reminded of how many centuries mankind has yearned for an answer to the malignant curse of military conflict.

Tennyson was not the first to pray for "the Parliament of Man, the federation of the world." The prophet Micah, more than 2,500 years ago, looked forward to the time when "nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither they learn war any more."

Immanuel Kant wrote, in 1795, "Since reason condemns war and makes peace an absolute duty; and since peace cannot be effected or guaranteed without a compact among nations, they must form an alliance of a peculiar sort."

After seeing India side with the Communist bloc when asked to condemn the brutal Red Army's slaughter of flickering Hungarian freedom, one must inform Kant by Ouija board that the nations did indeed form an alliance of a peculiar sort.

Deadest for 3 Years, Guy's Now the Livest

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"I was very dead," this gentleman remarked. "For three years, I was the deadest."

The ungrammatical gentleman was, of course, not Noel Coward, but young Guy Mitchell, the San Francisco cowpoke.

GUY AND ELSE

He was very dead because, although a singer, he hadn't had a hit record (also known as a hot platter). All over America people weren't talking about him. So he went to England where you don't have to have a torrid disc to be an attraction. Shortly everybody in England wasn't talking about him, either.

Then he got married seven weeks ago in Bay St. Louis, Miss., to Else Sorensen, one of Playboy's Playmates, and immediately he became the livest. But the very absolute livest.

"We drove over to Atlanta where I found this song, 'Singin' the Blues.' It's unbelievable how it took off. Now I'm swingin' . . ."

The fact that the lad took up cowboyin' and rodeoin' when he lived near the San Francisco stockyards 10 years ago in a section called "Butchertown" is just a sidelight.

"I even had a horse of my own—$25 worth. I had to steal hay for it.

"I was so nuts about the stuff I got a job in a saddle shop. The owner, Creed Haberlin, gave me my first pair of boots. And he told me since I was always singin' at work, why didn't I try singin' as a job?"

But it was rougher'n bronco-busting, but he eventually got to New York, roomed with Eddie Fisher and Al Martino, got a hit record, "My Heart Cries For You"—and then became very dead because hotplatters and torrid discs don't last very long.

But now things are bright again for Albert Cernick. That's the cowpoke's real name.

"Who's gonna care," said Miller, "about listening to the romantic cowboy voice of Albert Cernick?"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Roz Russell went to Waterbury, Conn., to celebrate her mother's 82d birthday . . . Bing Crosby did a couple of tunes in Judy Garland's Palace act.

The Paramount will revive vaudeville for the week of Jan. 11 with Nat (King) Cole, Count Basie and Ella Fitzgerald.

Lionel Hampton cancelled his tour of Ireland: union troubles . . . Billy Rose is hunting a compact little country estate . . . Jerry Lewis is a possibility to follow Judy Garland at the Palace . . . Some Las Vegas hotels have talent scouts in New York—looking for bartenders and waiters . . . Joseph Cotten's TV capital gains deal will pay him $200,000 a year.

Earl's Pearls . . .

The way taxes are today, you might as well marry for love.—Eureka (Kans.) Herald.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Just back from a Nassau vacation, Roger Williams complains, "Once travel broadened you. Now it leaves you flat."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Rob't Q. Lewis hears that Elvis Presley wants a little privacy—he arranged for an unlisted draft board number. . . . That's earl, brother.

Detroit's Judge Murphy Retires at Age 75

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County Circuit Judge George B. Murphy announced his retirement Tuesday. The 75-year-old jurist had not been on the bench since suffering a cerebral hemorrage last May.

Judge Murphy, whose term has three years to run, retained his retirement rights under state law by notifying the proper authorities before the Nov. 30 deadline.

Discuss Parking Ramp

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The Municipal Automobile Parking Authority has recommended construction of a six-level parking ramp with 374 parking spaces, estimated at a cost of $920,000, in the downtown area. The authority says one municipal parking ramp, across from city hall, returns about $63,000 a year in revenue.

Nine states supply 50 per cent of the nation's nurses.

Plan Facility Addition

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Plans for expanded Military Reserve facilities in Grand Rapids, with new buildings costing more than $300,000, were disclosed Tuesday. Lt. Col. David E. Cleary announced a proposed addition at the Army Reserve Armory to cost about $200,000. Cmdr. Arthur W. Bunting said the Naval Reserve Training Center plans a $145,000 addition to its facilities.

Nine of Eisenhower's Top Aides Reported Retiring

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
International News Service
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (INS) — The inside dope indicates that four cabinet officers and five presidential assistants are planning to make their exodus from the Eisenhower administration shortly after inauguration day.

A top source told this correspondent that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks are expected to bow out of the administration early in the new year, barring an emergency in the international field.

He said that Treasury Secretary George Humphrey will probably remain as "strong man" of the cabinet at least until next summer, in order to help guide the administration's legislative program through the Democratic-controlled congress.

The source disclosed that the current front runners to replace the four retiring cabinet officers are: Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles for Wilson, either United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge or former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for Dulles, Commerce Under Secretary Louis S. Rothschild for Weeks, and Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall for Summerfield.

STASSEN TO QUIT

He predicted that "Peace Secretary" Harold Stassen, Peck's bad boy of the Republican convention who engineered the unsuccessful "Dump Nixon" drive, will shortly tender his resignation to practice law. Stassen's most likely successor as Presidential Assistant for Peace, he said, would be Christian Herter, retiring Republican governor of Massachusetts who declined to run for a second term.

It was Herter whom Stassen tried to promote as a vice presidential substitute for Richard M. Nixon, despite Herter's disavowal of the movement.

This informant revealed that the other administrative assistants to the President who have indicated their intention of returning to private life are C. D. Jackson, Bernard M. Shanley, Gabriel Hauge and Kevin McCann.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, resigned Tuesday.

The informant said Shanley, counsel to the President, is anxious to return to Newark to lay the groundwork for his contemplated race for the governorship of New Jersey next year.

Burns is expected to take a private position as an economist, and Hauge is considering two or three lucrative offers besides his original berth with Business Week magazine.

McCann plans to return to the presidency of Defiance College in Ohio, and Jackson to his executive position with the Time, Life and Fortune publications.

Top presidential aide Sherman Adams expects to remain on, at least for the present, in his key role as "Assistant President". Deputy presidential assistant Wilton B. Persons and his chief assistant, Homer H. Gruenther, also plan to remain at their posts, as does presidential news secretary James C. Hagerty.

PAY INADEQUATE

The contemplated exodus from the White House signifies no dissatisfaction with the Eisenhower policies, but is simply the old story of inadequate government pay for top-flight executives. In the case of the retiring cabinet officers, all four had amassed private fortunes before entering government service and would now like to take life a little easier.

Dulles, a wealthy international lawyer, and Summerfield, millionaire automobile dealer, are currently recuperating from serious operations and are under pressure from their families to forego the strenuous 60-hour work week and social schedule which their official positions demand.

Dulles, whose lifelong ambition had been the secretaryship he now holds, will be the most reluctant to leave. His job, however, has also been the most grueling and the most time-consuming.

If he bows out as expected, he will undoubtedly make himself available as a presidential adviser on foreign policy in an "elder statesman" role. The timing of his departure will, of course, rest with the world situation and the state of his returning health following an operation for a cancerous obstruction in his intestines.

Sweden to Ration Oil

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden's government today rushed plans to begin rationing oil at midnight to conserve dwindling supplies choked short by the Middle East crisis. A sweeping government request for wartime economic powers was put before Parliament today. Quick approval was regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Russian Jets in Operation

Air Force Secretary Describes Red Planes' Fighting Capabilities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Quarles said today that long-range jet bombers, "Capable of delivering atomic weapons on our homeland," are coming off Soviet production lines.

Large Russian fleets of advanced jet fighters and light bombers already are in operation, he added in an address prepared for the American Assn. of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities.

He said too that "the Soviets are capable of building atomic weapons at an imposing rate" and in view of Russian claims about developing ocean-spanning missiles "we must assume that they will be able to deliver nuclear warheads with disastrous accuracy."

Quarles said that at the end of World War II the United States had a very large lead in technology and industrial development over the Soviets but "they must now be credited with a rough numerical equality with us in scientific and technical manpower." This trend, he said, "is disturbing."

There will be a need, "probably for many years to come," he said, of maintaining a force capable of demonstrating to any would-be aggressor that resort to war would be unprofitable."

Hungarian Premier Prints New Organ

VIENNA (AP)—Premier Janos Kadar's Hungarian regime has come out with a new newspaper called Nepszabadsg, which means "Freedom of the People." It was quoted extensively today by Radio Budapest.

It apparently replaces Szabad Nep (Free People) which has been the central organ of the ruling Communisty party.

Address by U. of M. Profs

Ike's Press Meeting Hurries Along as If Nothing Had Ever Happened

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The champ strode into his news conference yesterday and for a quarter of an hour it looked as if some mistake had been made and that Nov. 6 had been nothing but a dream.

For the minutes ticked by, and neither Dwight D. Eisenhower nor his questioners so much as hinted that only a week ago the American people had said they'd like Ike for another four years.

Instead, the questions roamed the world. Especially that part of the world in dreadful trouble, the Middle East and Hungary.

Oddly, the question of health also came up, but not the President's health, mentioned so frequently during the long presidential campaign.

Each time it was brought up by the President. He spoke admiringly of the stamina of Dag Hammarskjold, Eisenhower said, to get by on only one or two hours' sleep at night during this time of crisis.

And he reported on the health of John Foster Dulles, his secretary of state, in the hospital recovering from an operation. He's feeling fine, Eisenhower said.

Then, finally, after 17 minutes had drifted by, pure politics got into the presidential act. Eisenhower was asked if he'd do anything to get Gov. Allen Shivers of Texas to appoint a Republican to the U.S. Senate.

Eisenhower looked a bit startled, and then said with a grin:

"The internal affairs of the state of Texas is something I'd never dream of interfering with."

After the laughter had died down he said: "Now, if you say, do I want a Republican senator from Texas, yes."

Yet another couple of minutes went by before you could be sure that Eisenhower, like the rest of us, had read the election returns.

It came during the discussion of what the President calls "Modern Republicans." And at one point he said: "In these four years ahead of us. . . ."

So he knew all the time.

Yet the fact that so many minutes could go by without anyone mentioning that the President had been rehired for another term has its significance.

For in times like these even a one-sided victory such as Eisenhower scored over Adlai E. Stevenson apparently leaves little time for gloating.

Yet if anyone still yearns to be president, here's a tip from the man who had the job.

"I am not one of the desk-pounding type," the President said, "that likes to stick out his jaw and look like he is bossing the show. I would far rather get behind and recognizing the frailties and the requirements of human nature, I would rather try to persuade a man to go along, because once I have persuaded him he will stick.

"If I scare him, he will stay just as long as he is scared, and then he is gone."

WHAT'S MY LINE? — Sounds far-fetched, but the job of this Burmese anti-malaria worker is to collect mosquito larvae from a pond near Rangoon. The project is part of a United Nations project in which house-to-house spraying and health measures have helped to protect some 6,300,000 people threatened by the disease.

STILL STANDING — You can tell that "Rickie," a fox terrier belonging to a Memphis, Tenn., family, has had some tough luck recently. First, his mistress accidentally stepped on his left foreleg and broke it, and shortly afterwards he broke the other when he jumped out of bed and made a crash landing. But it takes more than two breaks to keep a barker down, as the bandages on his legs show.

BELOVED HOMELAND — Greek prisoners of war kiss the ground at Piraeus, Greece, on their return from 10 years' imprisonment in Russia. The 38, carried away when Communist guerrilla forces withdrew behind the Iron Curtain, were returned along with 78 women and children. Some 50,000 more Greeks are rumored to still be in Soviet hands.

Area Justices Discuss Probation

Meeting last night in Rochester, the Oakland County Judicial Association, preparing for the coming of the county's new justice court probation officer, heard Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum discuss probation procedures and benefits in Pontiac.

Although a recent Circuit Court ruling prohibits justices from placing offenders on probation except to a regular probation officer, the Pontiac court operates under a special statute.

The main benefit of probation, McCallum said, is that it allows a judge to retain jurisdiction over the offender long enough to make sure he mends his ways.

Justice court probations, he said, can be issued for as long as two years, and the terms of the probation given can be amended at any time to deal with changed conditions.

For example, McCallum said, a man who fails to support his wife is a double expense to the county if jailed, since taxpayers must pay for his keep at the jail and welfare funds for his family.

If placed on probation, he can be ordered to support the family. If he fails to furnish them money, the terms of probation can be altered to require him to deliver his pay check each week to his probation officer, who can turn it over to the family.

"Clinics" for chronic bad drivers, McCallum said, can be made compulsory as a condition of probation. He said the offender would be ordered to attend the clinic, and given a "report card" to be filled out with each date of attendance and the clinic officer's signature.

The Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Supervisors now are discussing sources of funds for a justice court probation officer, recommended to the board recently by its Miscellaneous Committee and approved by the board.

Justices and municipal judges last night also discussed "misinformation" about arrest and ticketing procedures which they say area police are given by Northwestern University traffic safety experts who have spoken here.

Association president Allen C. Ingle, Farmington justice, emphasized that "We're not against traffic safety. What we're trying to do is protect the people's rights and follow the letter of the law."

The Northwestern experts, he said, have inadvertently spread "misinformation" among police by reference to the uniform ticket printed form, which is accepted as a legal summons and warrant in some states, but not in Michigan.

Ingle advocated informal "bull sessions," to be held by justices with police in their areas, to discuss proper Michigan procedures. He appointed Royal Oak Municipal Judge Fletcher R. Renton to draw up an outline of the legal requirements.

The Association also discussed proposed legislation to be sent to Lansing for possible action in the next session of the Legislature, and reviewed a proposal to set up trust bank accounts for the justices' court funds.

Rochester Tot, 2, Swallows Works: Doll, Pin, Penny

ROCHESTER—Little Sylvia MacKinnon's operation yesterday yielded a two-inch long rubber doll, an open inch-long safety pin and a penny from her stomach.

Dr. E. E. Ludwig of Rochester operated on the 2-year-old after her mother, Mrs. Alex MacKinnon, 444 S. Boulevard, saw the child's brother push her on the floor when the girl had something close to her mouth.

She was reported in good condition at Avon Center Hospital today, where she will probably remain about a week.

Murderer Missing From Reformatory

IONIA (AP) — Norman Harris, 34, convicted Detroit murderer who served as a cook for the warden, apparently walked away from the Michigan State Reformatory last night.

Harris, described by Deputy Warden George Kropp as a trusty with a good prison record and not dangerous, was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1942 for the stabbing death of a woman who caught him in the act of burglarizing a jewelry store in Detroit.

Sometime after 8 p.m. last night he was noticed missing when he did not attend a prison movie with other inmates. A resident reported that a man was seen prowling about nearby.

Later prison authorities caught a glimpse of a man in the basement of the warden's residence, but the man escaped. His shoes were lost in the escape.

Negroes to End Boycott of Buses

Wait U.S. Court Ruling to Call Off Montgomery Segregation Protest

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Negro bus boycott that became a symbol of mass resistance to racial segregation was voted to an end last night at the church where it was born 345 days before.

An estimated 5,500 hymn-singing persons crowded into the Holt Street Baptist Church to vote thunderously for an end to the Montgomery boycott.

The Negroes decided to return to city buses as soon as the U. S. Supreme Court's decision that bus segregation is unconstitutional goes into effect here.

Their leader, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., told the cheering throng that the decision should reach Montgomery courts in several days. He urged calmness and restraint when it comes.

Until then, boycotters at the church and at a similar meeting on the other side of town agreed unanimously, they will walk to work or share rides with friends.

British-French Ruin Relations

Nasser Gains Prestige in Western Nations Since Faux Pas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The British-French invasion of the Suez Canal zone was a "monumental blunder" that increased the prestige of Egyptian Premier Nasser among the Arab and Asian nations, the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. was told today.

Max Harrelson, AP chief correspondent at the United Nations, told the second session of the four-day 23d annual APME conference that the British-French move "seriously damaged their relations with the United States and undermined their positions as Western champions of international law and order. It increased the prestige of Nasser among the Arab and Asian nations. It left a vacuum into which the Russians were quickly moving."

The explosion in the Middle East, Harrelson said, "was bound to occur."

"If Israel hadn't started it," he said, "Nasser would have. Everything pointed in that direction since September 1955 when the Russians made an arms deal with Egypt."

The determining factor, Harrelson added, "was the Soviet difficulties in Poland and Hungary."

And, he said, "the principal factor in the cease-fire and the agreement of Britain, France and Israel to withdraw was not public pressure or U.N. action but threats of Soviet intervention."

"All three invaders," he said, "were firmly convinced that Russia would move in and start a third world war."

The Egyptian situation, Harrelson said, is still "highly explosive."

"So much so," he said, "that it could touch off a real war. When will the U.N. be able to get the police units out? And, if so, what happens then?"

MEETING OF THE CLANS — What does a widower with 10 children do when he meets a widow with 12 children? He proposes — at least that's what Kennieth Huber of Enumclaw, Wash., did. He is pictured as he marries Mrs. Adele Zane as 12 of the 22 children look on. Mrs. Zane was attended by her daughter Carol while Huber's son Kenneth acts as best man. Eight of Mrs. Zane's children were adopted. The ceremony took place recently in the Huber living room.

'THE GOLDEN YEARS' — Two of the nation's oldest residents show that when some people pass their 100th birthdays their fancies lightly turn to thoughts of food. Peter V. Ortiz (left) of Anaheim, Calif., who claims to be 106, cooks his dinner in his tidy home. The only philosophical contribution Ortiz has to make about his longevity is the fact that he has always "tried to be honest." Mrs. Margaret Schmucker (right) of South Holland, Ill., prepares to cut a cake in honor of her recent 106th birthday. She hasn't had a cold in over a year and likes to talk about the Civil War in which she took care of the wounded at Dixon, Ill.

Pin Jet Loss on Malfunction

Control Failure Caused Seaplane to Split Open During Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Loss of the Navy's second jet-powered seaplane resulted from failure of a control mechanism.

The Navy said yesterday it had been determined the XP6M1 SeaMaster crashed last Friday after it looped out of the pilot's control and then broke apart in midair.

This accident bore a resemblance to the crash of the first SeaMaster last December. In both cases, destruction of the planes was attributed to malfunctioning of control gear.

The Navy said the second SeaMaster, on a test flight over Delaware, got into trouble at about 21,000 feet when it went into a tight inside loop "against the full opposite control by the pilot." A statement said the horizontal control surfaces on the ship's tail "did not follow the pilot's control," but went in the opposite direction to cause the loop.

In the crash of the first SeaMaster 11 months ago, control trouble sent the plane into a partial outside loop, after which it disintegrated. Four persons on board were killed.

Despite the loss of the first two SeaMasters, costing $5,600,000 apiece, a spokesman said the Navy plans to continue its jet seaplane program. It has ordered 24 SeaMasters from the Martin company.

FOREST OF DERRICKS — Supplying 1,600,000 barrels of oil per day is this forest of oil derricks sprouting from Venezuela's Lake Maracaibo. New concessions just granted by the government will soon boost the supply.

Star Witness Feels Practically Certain

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — A key prosecution witness in the treason trial of Dr. Otto John testified today he was virtually certain he saw the former West German intelligence chief crossing the Iron Curtain and fully conscious.

Gerhard Schmidt, 21-year-old West Berlin customs guard, told the Supreme Court three times that on July 20, 1954, he recognized John in an American-made car which stopped briefly for inspection and then drove into East Berlin.

Schmidt admitted he could not definitely rule out the chance he had made an error. But he said that on the basis of photographs submitted to him by police investigators he also identified Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth as having been in the car.

John claims that Wohlgemuth, a friend and pro-Communist Berlin physician, drugged him with doctored coffee and abducted him to Soviet headquarters.

John is charged with defecting voluntarily to the Reds and with leaking state secrets to the Soviets during his 17-month stay behind the Iron Curtain. He returned last December and gave himself up to the West German authorities.

Province Progressive

NEW BRUNSWICK, Nova Scotia —Some 171 miles of roads were paved in Nova Scotia in 1955, bringing the total of paved highways in the province to 1,837 miles. More than 75 per cent of the tourists who visited Nova Scotia last summer came by automobile.

Result Is Uncertain for Japanese Bends

SASEBO, Japan (AP)—Yoshio Oyama, a Japanese diver who had been living in and out of the sea for eight days with a severe case of the bends, was released today from an American ship's decompression chamber.

Doctors said he was improved but it was too early to determine final results.

Oyama, 37, was treated aboard the Coucal, a U. S. Navy auxiliary ship. He was transferred to the city hospital for observation, and if he has a relapse will be returned to the Coucal.

A Japanese doctor said the diver had regained partial use of his arms and legs but still complained of leg pains.

Budapest Youths Ask: 'Can We Get Help for Any of Our People?'

(American newsman Seymour Freidin was one of the reporters trapped in Budapest by the Russian attack that smashed the city and killed and wounded an estimated 100,000 persons in Hungary's revolt for freedom. In the following article, Freidin tells through the words of two of the boys who fought in Budapest why and how they fought, and what they think the future holds for their ravaged country.)

BY SEYMOUR FREIDIN

VIENNA (INS)—It was hot, crowded and noisy in the little cafe restaurant. Over the radio a Gypsy fiddler was beating madly to a climactic frenzy of a "Czardas."

I asked the two hollow-cheeked kids sitting at the table with me if they wanted the music tuned out.

"We are accustomed to noise now," one remarked shyly. "We don't mind that."

"We were all having a reunion in Vienna. But neither the youngsters nor I back a few days ago in Budapest ever thought it would happen this way. I didn't ever think I would see these boys again.

Janos—that's his first name and he's nineteen and a machinest—and Zoltan, 18, and a university student, had just made their way through Soviet armored divisions trying stifle Hungary into submission.

They are each or both typical of Hungarian kids who beat their lathes and school laboratories into weapons that still baffle and lash back at the power of Russia's Red Army.

Janos and Zoltan fought in the streets of Budapest. They contested every inch where they took on concentrated Soviet firepower.

"We were seventy or eighty in our group," recalled Zoltan, his eyes flashing with remembrance. "When we left there were 11 of us." Janos and Zoltan learned how to fight in the hardest possible way.

They fought to defend the streets in which they had lived all their lives. "We learned quickly how to knock out a tank if you got up close enough," Zoltan said. "It was always a problem getting near so you could throw a bottle of gasoline."

You look at them and you think they are pretty scrawny. Eighteen days of fighting and staring at death rammed down your throat a few yards away don't tend to flesh out growing boys.

But these are the products supposedly of a Communist generation, a skilled young worker and a university student. Of the new generation they were the most fussed over regime, the most indoctrinated. So the Communists believed. Besides, like other youngsters in their echelon of society, they are both sons of workers. What made them turn and turn so violently against the regime?

EVERYONE WORKED

"You have to go back almost to the time we first went to school or even earlier," said Janos. "We hardly ever saw our parents. Everyone in the family had to work just to live in a room or maybe two rooms. Adults were always exhausted. Getting a suit of second-hand clothes was almost a cause for celebration."

"There also was fear and terror," chimed in Zoltan. "Every family had someone who had been arrested or was at some time in jail. We came to hate authority, the kind of authority we swallowed even when we went to buy a loaf of bread. We learned how to hate the people who watched you suspiciously when you talked to a friend in whispers."

"In my factory I listened with amazement to the discontent of workers," said Janos. "At first I was afraid. You don't talk that way, I thought."

"One thing they taught youth that helped us," said Zoltan. "Many of us had to go in semi-military units to help fight for peace. So we learned after a fashion how to use some weapons," he observed. "Some of us did. Others learned during our revolution. There were girls who had about ten minutes experience learning how to use a tommygun before they went into action."

"Nobody thought of revolution," said Zoltan. "I don't know anyone personally who did before the Russians came in the first time. After they came in and killed, everyone thought about revolution."

Who were the leaders?

Janos smiled bitterly before replying. "That was our biggest strength and greatest weakness," he said. "There was no central leadership. It just spread. Take the district where Zoltan and I live. Our friends just came out and fought there. That was it."

"You saw us," Janos resumed. "We had about one weapon or one grenade for every five of us at the beginning. But soldiers who were our own countrymen wouldn't fire on us. They gave us their own weapons or joined us."

EVERYONE PITCHED IN

"When the Russians came in we had a good supply—theirs," added Zoltan. "Everyone in our block pitched in. There was no treachery from our people."

Then there was pride in his expression as Janos added, "And workers, my comrades, they fed us, gave us the last crusts of bread and fought with us. There were no differences."

How about organization? How did they communicate with other resistance units?

"Most of the time we didn't know what the resistance units 800 meters away were doing," said Zoltan. "All we knew was that they were fighting and dying. You must remember it caught on like a fire that starts in dry grass in a park. When it catches it is a forest fire. That is what happened."

"The Russians call us Counter-Revolutionaries and Fascists," said Janos, "How do they account for the fact that almost everyone in Communist youth organizations like I fought against them? Communism is finished in Hungary forever by what they did."

Where are their parents, their families?

"We don't know," replied Zoltan. "We saw most of our families doing something to resist. We don't know what happened to them."

How had they managed to slip past the steel cordon the Russians had clamped on the country?

"You forget that people are with us," said Janos. "They help pass you along. To stop that the Russians would have to put soldiers into every house in Hungary."

Zoltan stared up from his half-filled coffee cup. "We would like to ask: Can we get any help for our people?"

I didn't answer.

What did they plan to do after scouting around?

"We will go back home, of course," said Zoltan. "We will live with our people—or we will die with them."

Expect Ban on Segregation to Affect All Public Utilities

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There can be no doubt now where the Supreme Court is going, whether or not the South likes it, protests it or defies it.

It is going straight down the line in banning racial segregation in all fields of American life which involve public utilities, like buses, or the use of tax money, like public schools.

The court had banned segregation in public schools, in public swimming pools, parks and golf links; and on buses which cross state lines. And yesterday it extended its ban to buses which operate entirely within a state.

Whether the nine justices will go so far as to outlaw segregation in privately owned enterprises which cater to the public — like a restaurant—is something for the future to show. They face no such decision soon.

Nor are they likely to. For Negroes, fighting segregation, will have their hands full for some time trying to get racial discrimination ended in the various areas where tax money is used.

The court no doubt — judging from the consistency of its opinions, although a test case hasn't reached it yet — will in time ban segregation in public housing.

By the same reasoning the court may eventually extend the ban to any housing development built with government loans or financing since that money comes from tax revenue.

And, since the court has banned segregation on buses which operate within a state or cross state lines, it can hardly avoid — when confronted with a test — banning segregation on all railroad trains, whether or not they cross state lines.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, undoubtedly taking its cue from recent court decisions, ordered railroads and bus companies last Nov. 25 to end segregation in interstate travel and banned segregation in waiting rooms.

But 13 states have laws requiring segregation of whites and Negroes who intend to travel across state lines. The ICC ruling does not invalidate these laws in so far as travel within a state is concerned. This mixes up the picture.

A test of the ICC ruling will have to go before the Supreme Court for a final ruling and clarification.

Yesterday's decision — which knocked out segregation on buses in Montgomery, Ala. — set the precedent for all buses everywhere, within every state. The other Southern states will not comply immediately, of course, any more than they did in desegregating their schools.

They will fight individually but in the end, in view of the court's position, they cannot win. The most they can do, unless the American government breaks down, is to delay compliance.

Hearing Held in West

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities plans to move westward in about a week to continue hearings on what it has called the Communist counterattack on anti-Communist measures.

May Hold Missile Tests at Old Penal Colony Site

What for many years was Brazil's most unpopular island may become an important element in testing Western defenses.

Officials are negotiating with Brazil to build a tracking station for long-range guided missile tests on Fernando de Noronha, a former penal colony. Strategically located about 225 miles northeast of the Brazilian bulge, the six-mile-long island lies near the southern-most end of the United States testing range that reaches thousands of miles southeast from Florida into the South Atlantic.

Convicts on Fernando de Noronha have now been replaced by personnel of the Brazilian Air Force which maintains an Airfield there. But political prisoners were banished to the outpost as recently as the 1940's. Earlier, an ornithologist, George Finlay Simmons, reported that he had seen about 350 felons, 150 exiles, and 50 guards on the island.

As leader of an expedition for the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, Dr. Simmons went to "Murderers' Island" in search of rare birds. However, he found the island jailbirds "worthy of all of Pandora's curiosity." One inmate, who had killed a policeman 24 years before, helped the expedition hunt for some rare red-billed tropical specimens. Also helpful was the colony's barber. A murderer too, he described his crime in hair-raising detail as he wielded a razor across Dr. Simmons' face.

PEAK SEEN 40 MILES

The convicts lived in a group of old stone-and-mortar houses that sprawled picturesquely across the foot of Pyramid Peak, the island's summit. Pointing like a long finger more than 1,000 feet into the air, the peak can be seen 40 miles away.

Northeast of Fernando de Noronha is a string of islets. The largest, one-mile-long Rat Island, is rich in recently surveyed phosphate deposits. Kidnapers, it is claimed, used to hide out on Rat. It is now inhabited only by birds and wild cats.

The latest official population for Fernando de Noronha is 581. In addition to military personnel who have been stationed there off and on since 1942, there are farmers raising cattle and growing corn, manioc, cotton, fruits, and medicinal plants. The island also has a saltworks, limeklin, manioc flour mill, and guano deposits.

Discovered in 1503 by the Portuguese Count of Noronha, the island was coveted by several naval powers in the 17th and 18th centuries. Portugal defended it successfully and eventually turned it over to Brazil which made it a dependency of the State of Pernambuco. Since 1942, the island has been governed as a federal territory.

Another Brazilian island in the general area is tiny Trindade. It lies still farther south, 750 miles east of Brazil's State of Espirito Santo. The British, having noted that the isle had remained unlaid claim to it in 1895. Brazil objected, and its ownership was upheld by the King of Portugal, the mediator in the dispute. Trindade is still uninhabited.

C&O May Cut Train Service

Light Passenger Loads in Grand Rapids Region Force Decision

PETOSKEY (AP) — The last two passenger trains serving this northwestern lower Michigan area may be pulled out for lack of passengers.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railway said yesterday that it would ask the Michigan Public Service Commission for permission to discontinue trains 25 and 26 between Grand Rapids and Petoskey.

The Pennsylvania Railroad ended its passenger service north from Grand Rapids in 1950. Now the C.&O. says that its trains along the 250-mile line are averaging less than 19 passengers a trip over the most heavily traveled part.

A spokesman said: "Continuance of this service in light of steady loss of patronage appears to be economically impossible."

At the same time in Cleveland, the railway announced its quarterly dividend on common stock would be raised to $1, payable to shareholders of record, Dec. 3. The previous quarterly dividend was 87½ cents, paid quarterly since Dec. 1955. Previous to that the dividend was 75 cents.

Missing Since Monday, Tuesday's Taken Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Sculptress Jeanne Owens has her basset hound back, but the man who found the pooch isn't interested in collecting his reward.

The hound, named Tuesday, disappeared Monday. Miss Owens said she would sculpture a head of whoever found him.

Patrolman George Bryant found Tuesday lolling on a street corner. He returned the droopy-eared dog to its owner but politely declined the acquisition of another head.

Elvis Won't Wiggle in Louisville, Ky.

Police chief Carl Heustis said he won't permit "any lewd, lascivious contortions" on the part of the entertainer.

Expect Liquor Sales to Rise

DETROIT (AP) — The president of one of the leading distilleries says the liquor industry expects to increase its United States sales by 5 per cent this year over last.

Howard R. Walton, president of Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts Ltd., put the industry's expected U.S. sales at 210,000,000 gallons. He said overall consumption of distilled spirits for the eight months from January through August amounted to 127,352,000 gallons. In the same period of 1955 consumption was 119,446,000 gallons, Walton said.

Walton spoke yesterday at a meeting of the Financial Analysts Society of Detroit.

Sulphur Is Key to Our Economy

Has Widespread Use in Manufacture of Thousands of Items

WASHINGTON—A man wakes up, washes, shaves, combs his hair, dresses, eats breakfast, takes a vitamin pill, reads the newspaper, and drives to work.

Everything he has used in the process—including his own eyesight — contains sulphur, or required sulphur in the making.

This all-pervading element, says the National Geographic Society, is a keystone of the industrial economy. Brought to the surface by ingenious wells in Texas and in Louisiana, where a new major source has been found under water, sulphur stands in huge golden-yellow platetus, awaiting distribution to manufacturing plants of every type.

THOUSANDS OF USES

Rubber is vulcanized with the use of sulphur. Gasoline is refined with it. Paper, textiles, leather, ivory, plastic, fertilizers, medicines, wool, disinfectants, explosives, weed killers, special plasters, vitamin B1, synthetic steels, oils, bleaches, mustard fabrics, perfumes, printing inks, cellulose, paint, dyes, insecticides, toothpaste, sheep dip, and soaps also contain sulphur, as do some 32,000 articles in common use.

A vital constituent of plant cells, organic sulphur compounds are part of animal protein, and are found in body enzymes. In the human eye, light acts on sulphur compounds in the retina to produce vision.

Although it is widely distributed through the earth's crust, much sulphur is chemically combined with other elements such as iron. Production of free sulphur from these ores is expensive. In certain places, however, sulphur is found in uncombined deposits.

SICILIAN MONOPOLY BROKEN

Rich sources on the island of Sicily enjoyed a virtual production monopoly until 1903, when the Frasch process was invented to tap deposits under the marshy land of the United States Gulf Coast.

Through soil too soft to permit tunnel mines, wells are driven down to the stone formation that contains the sulphur. Each consists of three pipes, one inside another.

Judge Saund Wins

Sprinkler Ruins Shoes

COLUMBIA, Pa. (UP)—Water from a fire-sprinkling system ruined 72,000 pairs of shoes at the Beacon Shoe Manufacturing Co. Lewis Fritz, plant superintendent, estimated water damage at about $75,000 and fire damage at $20. He said an electric plate ignited a wooden table and set off the sprinkler system. No workers were in the plant.

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (UP)—Officials of Israel and the U.N. Relief and Works Agency have initialed an agreement for continued assistance of 200,000 Arab refugees in the Israel-held Gaza Strip. Unrwa had been assisting the refugees before Israel seized the Gaza Strip from Egypt.

Council to Discuss Problems of Oldsters

LANSING (AP) — Three public hearings have been scheduled by the legislature's advisory council on the aged to discuss problems of housing, employment and health of the state's oldsters.

Representatives of labor, industry, government, health and philanthropic agencies and community organizations have been invited to attend the meetings Nov. 19-20 at Lansing, Nov. 29-30 at Detroit and Dec. 5 at Marquette.

The total area of Minnesota is 54,943,579 acres of which 3,602,210 are of water, mostly in more than 11,000 lakes.

Ever Lose Wallet? Here's AWOL Building

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A building which disappeared from a south Springfield lot was found by police yesterday—on a north Springfield lot.

But they aren't quite sure who owns it, or how it was moved and by whom.

John Tyler of Jamestown had reported the missing building Monday. He said he had bought it with the intention of moving it to Jamestown.

But John H. Culp, on whose lot the building was found, said he is the rightful owner. Police left the ownership question to the courts.

Desperate, Say Officials of Mideast Food Situation

WASHINGTON (INS)—Top Agriculture Department officials are studying the Hungarian and Middle East situations to determine what steps—if any—the U.S. can take to avert skyrocketing prices and serious food shortages in the two areas.

When the appraisal is completed, it will go to the White House with recommendations for or against action.

The officials said the apparent prolonged shut-down of the Suez Canal will tend to increase food prices both in the Middle East and in Europe. Some increases have already gone into effect.

Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of agricultural commodities are shipped through the now-blocked strategic waterway each year. In 1955 the total shipments were valued at one and one-half billion dollars—to and from the East and West.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson told a news conference that there is now a "considerable delay" in shipments of U. S. commodities to the Middle East. Both Egypt and Israel, among other Middle East nations, have long-standing agreements to buy U.S. surplus farm products.

Benson emphasized that there have been no instructions to slow up these shipments, but added: "There has been some reluctance on the part of private shipping companies to go into that area."

OFFICIALS TO MANILA

begin to hoard ood in ear o short-

The secretary said that top department officials would go to Manila for a first-hand review of the food supply situation in the Far East. This will be in connection with a Nov. 19-24 conference of U.S. Far Eastern agriculture attaches scheduled for the Philippines capital.

Department sources expressed concern that individuals, commercial concerns and possibly governments in the troubled areas would begin to hoard food in fear of shortages.

Hoarding, one expert noted, would tend to raise prices. He added that any such upsurge in world food prices would be only temporary, continuing "as long as the canal remains closed to traffic."

Most countries, he added, have sufficient food stocks to last at least six weeks.

AMERICANS FLEE CAIRO — A convoy of cars is pressed into service to evacuate American citizens from Cairo, Egypt, to Alexandria, where they will board U. S. ships. The efforts of U. S. citizens to leave the area, in compliance with State Department instructions, were hampered when Egyptian airfields were closed down as a result of the Israeli invasion.

Democrats to Meet on Future Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's 11-member executive committee has been called to meet here Nov. 26-27 to decide future plans for the party.

One major problem will be what to do about erasing an estimated one-million-dollar deficit.

The party took a terrific licking in the Nov. 6 presidential race but broke a century-old precedent by retaining Senate and House majorities. On that basis it says it is looking confidently ahead to the 1958 congressional elections.

Aware that it was going to wind up in the red after the recent expensive campaign, the Democrats have already trimmed their national headquarters staff from a campaign peak of 175 employes to a normal of around 55 to 60.

Sam Brightman, publicity director for the committee, said in an interview that Paul M. Butler has no intention of resigning the national committee chairmanship.

Hal Boyle Says:

Are Beauty Contests Evil? Yes, Cries Anita

NEW YORK (AP)—"Beauty contests," said Anita Ekberg, "are a terrible evil.

"I don't like them. I never have."

This sounded almost as heretical as if the late J. P. Morgan were to denounce gold. After all, Miss Ekberg's own stepping-stone to Hollywood stardom had been the winning of a contest to pick a "Miss Sweden."

"Yes," she admitted, "but it was the only one I ever entered, and I did so only because my mother urged me to. I already was a top model."

What's so evil about beauty contests?

"Everything," said Miss Ekberg. "Many of them are such nonsense. They pick a 'Miss Fender of 1955' or a 'Miss Washing Machine of 1956.' But what does it mean?

Usually they always look for the wrong kind of girl in beauty contests. They want the—how do you say it—pretty next-door girl, the sweet, innocent, nothing-at-all girls.

WINNER RUINED

"This kind of a girl is ruined by winning a beauty contest. She doesn't have the drive, ambition, talent or courage to make a career.

"But her head has been turned. She is afraid she will drop out of notice, so she is willing to do anything rather than go back home and live as she did before.

She listens to men who tell her they can help her get ahead in show business. Often those men have no connection with show business at all. You know what they really want?"

"No, tell me," I said, cupping both hands to my ears to hear her next words better.

"They simply want a date with a pretty girl so they can show their friends what a big shot they are," said Miss Ekberg. I dropped my hands.

WALK-ON ROLES

Anita said even beauty contest winners who land starlet contracts are little better off.

"A starlet gets walk-on parts to save the studio the cost of hiring another extra," she remarked. "But she is also expected to help entertain distinguished visitors.

"She is like a hostess in a restaurant where the girls have to drink with the customers. She is afraid not to do everything the studio asks her to, because she is afraid of losing that $250 a week. But usually she does anyway, and then what is left for her?"

Miss Ekberg, who is known as "the blonde iceberg" and has a bigger silhouette than Marilyn Monroe, is a graduate of the starlet system herself.

Her seventh and latest film, "Zarak," produced for Columbia Pictures and co-starring Victor Mature and Michael Wilding, gives her the first real opportunity to unveil her statuesque charm.

She plays a native dancer who becomes the fourth wife of a tribal chief, "but I hate every minute of it, and then I fall in love with the chief's oldest son, Victor Mature, and ——." It's a real life drama.

Miss Ekberg, who thinks a star should act like a star, says the movie fan magazines are mad at her because she won't pose for them in her kitchen or while putting her hair in curlers.

"That isn't what fans want to see," she said. "They want to see the stars in glamorous situations—on a dance floor or at a bar drinking champagne.

"We should keep up the standard. But some people are tearing it down."

Visitor to U. S. Also Noted for His 'Heart'

Greek Premier Boasts Expressive Brows

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—Of the vast assortment of hopeful hearts and furrowed brows now gathered in the United Nations Assembly hall, none is more conspicuous than those belonging to a new arrival to America—Prime Minister Constantine Karamanlis of Greece.

Here is a man young enough (49) and handsome enough to have inspired a male movie hero to cry, "Thank the Lord, sir, you're not getting out as far as Hollywood!"

Yet Karamanlis' "heart" for his country's constantly precarious position in Europe, where the breath of communism blows hot, is of such enormity that he has not taken a vacation from work in 20 years.

GREAT IMPORTANCE

He was doing so now, as he said: "The present General Assembly is very greatly interested in events of the Middle East, and because of the international tension this particular Assembly has a great importance. I thought that is why I should come here now and personally lead our delegation."

This interview took place shortly after his arrival in New York, and he had been hailed in advance not only as the "white hope" of his country but as its most able, youthful, self-made, fast-rising politician. As well as its most vocal and impassioned anti-Communist.

The admiring personal phrases were shrugged off easily by Karamanlis.

"You do what you have to do in life, when you form a philosophy that you can't talk yourself out of," he said resignedly.

"When I was young and growing up on a farm (in Macedonia) I thought: What should a man do in order to justify his presence in life? Making money is not enough. Having a beautiful wife is not enough . . .

HUMAN BETTERMENT

"The fullest justification for living is working for the betterment of people. Since I decided that—" he laughed shortly—"I never allowed myself to enjoy life. People who decide they came to earth to work, who make work their personal philosophy, are kept very busy."

(Corroborating Karamanlis' self-estimate, members of the Greek Consulate here said that the faith of the people in his ability stems from the fact that since he became a representative to Parliament at the age of 28, he has kept round-the-clock office hours, now works from 7 a.m. till midnight as Prime Minister. "He is a railroad steam engine," summed up one fan, "in a country where there are not many."

Before the U.N., Karamanlis will plead the case for the people of Cyprus, "asking for them the right of self-determination," and will assure those who are concerned that comaunism will not spread in Greece as a result of the current crises.

"The percentage of Communists in Greece," he assured us, "is quite unimportant and certainly does not exceed 10 to 11 per cent of our population.

"In the present chamber of 300 members, only 17 seats went to the Communist Party — so I certainly discard the possibility that recent events in Eastern Europe and the Middle East can have increased the strength of communism in Greece. If anything, those events will reduce that strength."

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

FAMOUS BOOK FRIENDS — 4
Hans Brinker

As a child, Mary Mapes Dodge was interested in a book her father owned called the "Rise of the Dutch Republic." When she grew up and had children of her own she told them a story of Holland, centered around a little Dutch boy named Hans Brinker.

Floods had left the Brinker family poor, and Hans' father was sick. Hans and his sister got their only pleasure from skating on home-made skates Hans whittled out of wood. Through the generosity of Hans, his father had an operation and recovered, and the family fortunes were regained.

Here is Hans in his patched old clothes and wooden skates, skating on a canal. Color the picture with your crayons and paste it down on cardboard. Cut along the heavy outline. Fold Hans forward on the dotted line at the bottom of his left skate and fold the background up at the dotted line so he will stand. Put a thread through his hands at the indicated holes and pull him along a flat surface.

(Junior Editors $10 award goes to Lee Ann Johns, Lawton, Okla., who submitted this idea first. Perhaps you have an idea. If so send it in care of this newspaper and you may win the award. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

Antiquated Produce Marts Boost Nation's Food Bill

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEW YORK (NEA)—Millions of dollars are plucked from American pocketbooks each year by gaslight-era methods of bringing fresh fruit and vegetables from farm to family dinner table.

Powerful and long-entrenched interests across the nation persist in operating dilapidated wholesale markets in industrial slums, blighted by filth, congestion and unsanitary handling of produce.

The result is that spoilage, deterioration and excessive cartage costs add about 20 per cent to the nation's annual seven billion dollar bill for fresh produce. Who picks up the tab? You and the farmer—you pay more, he gets less.

In New York City, where some 150,000 carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables roll in every year, $100 is added to the cost of each carload by an antiquated wholesaling setup.

The Washington Wholesale Produce Market is a group of ancient buildings covering 17 city blocks in the shadow of lower Manhattan's financial-district skyscrapers. Here most of the city's 300 wholesalers have ground-floor stores. The top floors are abandoned, their broken windows inviting bats.

Patsy D'Agostino, who owns a chain of supermarkets in Manhattan, must send his trailer trucks from his Bronx warehouse at 11 o'clock at night to pick up produce in time for next morning's shopper.

At Washington Market his trucks, along with hundreds of others, get snarled into the narrow, produce-piled streets. His drivers must park blocks away and the produce must be hefted out by porters, at extra cost. Meanwhile his own men, paid at union rates, sit idly by.

Because of confusion and congestion it often takes four or five hours to load.

Every effort to move Washington Market to cheaper land on direct railroad lines, accessible to river traffic and trucks, has run into strong opposition. Real estate interests who get sky-high rents for firetrap buildings and some unions, have dug in to retain the present site in all its inefficiency.

Such appalling conditions are not confined to any one section of the country. San Francisco's wholesale market is one of the worst. It was built 50 years ago, on the site of the old market destroyed by the earthquake and fire in 1906.

I wormed my way through streets where trucks were jammed like straws in a haystack. Sidewalks and lanes were cluttered with decaying produce. Alley cats slept undisturbed on boxes of apricots. This market serves over 1,500,000 persons in San Francisco and the Bay area. Because of its lack of space and direct rail connections, as well as inflated cartage costs and spoilage, $3,500,000 a year is going down the drain.

Boston's historic Faneuil Hall Market, first built in 1742, and Quincy Market nearby, opened for business in 1826, are just as dirty, antiquated and wasteful as those in New York and San Francisco.

Like most other metropolitan centers Boston distributes produce to suburban areas, and to much of New England. Hence its muddled marketing system rifles budgets in countless New England homes.

In Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Detroit similar conditions are running up retail prices. Smaller cities are no better.

Here and there, however, action is being taken to end this hidden cost.

For years, many of Philadelphia's merchants have been agitating to abolish the old Dock Street Market, some of whose buildings date back to the time of William Penn. Civic groups have joined the fight and plans have been made for a modern food-distributing center four miles from the center of town. It is estimated that the new market center will save Philadelphia's citizens nearly four million dollars a year.

Even in New York City, despite the powerful opposition, the New York Market Study Committee of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association is spearheading a drive to move the present market. It would cut overhead by at least 50 per cent.

The most active factor in the battle to bring produce distribution up to modern business standards is the Transportation and Facilities Branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Its chief, William C. Crow, marketing expert, is one of the most consulted men in food distribution.

"Our hope," Crow says, "is to improve all the hundreds of operations from farm to marketing, so that produce gets to the table as fresh as when it left the farm. And at a lower cost."

YURE SKOOL SHURE IS SHOT — Protesting high school students in Lynwood, Cal., need more than just a new school. Witness the spelling on sign at right. Demonstration came after voters failed to put through a bond issue for new school construction. Present overcrowded building has been condemned as unable to withstand earthquakes.

Gen. Gruenther Commences Stay in Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the Atlantic alliance's supreme commander in Europe, bade farewell to 250,000 U.S. servicemen in this NATO must be maintained "regardless of the strains that come up from time to time."

"We must keep it working," he said, because its "No. 1 mission is to deter war, to make an act of aggression so destructive and so expensive that it can never happen."

His remark about strains on NATO was an evident reference to the split between the United States and Britain and France over Middle East policy.

Gruenther returns to the United States next week after 3½ years as boss of SHAPE, the NATO headquarters. U.S. Army, Air Force and Navy contingents took part in his final review here.

During the ceremonies a special message to Gruenther from President Eisenhower was read.

"To me personally," the message said, "it has been a source of great comfort to know that these exacting responsibilities were in your hands."

College Heads Favor Adult Education Plan

YPSILANTI (AP)—Michigan needs an expanded program for adult education, according to a study made by the Michigan Council of State College Presidents.

The report on adult education, entitled "field and extension services in the state supported institutions of higher learning in Michigan," was released this week by the council's president, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott of Eastern Michigan College in Ypsilanti.

Adult education develops a well-informed citizenry and puts to use advances in arts and sciences, the report says.

The college presidents urge that every one receive educational benefits to the limit of his ability and especially stress the need of adult programs for those who were unable to attend colleges or universities.

Complex Problem

ROME (INS) — When Federico Serra told the psychiatrist his wife was suffering from an inferiority complex, the doctor said to bring her to his office—he could help her.

But Federico explained there was some misunderstanding. He wanted the doctor's help to keep her that way.

Lads Win Fellowships

CINCINNATI (UP) — Two University of Michigan men, cited for outstanding crop and soil research during the year, have been awarded American Society of Agronomy Fellowships. Named as fellows were John F. Davis and Stephen T. Dexter. Some 24 persons were named to fellowships across the nation.

Summerfield on Way to Quick Recovery

ANN ARBOR (UP) — "Up and around" after throat surgery, Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield was reported "much better" today and "feeling like his old self again."

A spokesman at University Hospital said Summerfield will continue to be fed through a tube inserted in his lower throat so that food will not pass over the operation scar.

Operated on Monday for the removal of a small sac which formed in the esophagus, Summerfield is expected to return to his Flint home next week.

Walks Into Death at Air Force Base

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UP) — A 23-year-old Michigan airman was killed last night when he walked into a turning propeller of a parked four-engine KC97 aerial tanker at Hunter Air Force Base.

He was identified as Frederick H. Krauss of Detroit, a radio operator assigned to the 2nd Aerial Refueling Squadron.

Capt. Joseph H. Fulton, Base Public Information Officer, said the accident occurred while the plane's engines were being warmed up.

Bathing Destroys 'Bloom'

OMAHA—Eggs with clean shells keep best. Wipe off soiled spots with a damp cloth, but do not wash eggs until just before using. When eggs are laid, the shells have a film known as the "bloom," which seals the pores and helps keep out bacteria and odors. Washing removes this protective film.

Huffing and Puffing May Start Next Year

PORT HURON (UP) —Diesel engines may be puffing and chgging their way through the St. Clair Tunnel sometime next year.

That's the report from Thomas Ward, terminal superintendent for the Candian National Railway. He said yesterday, the electric locomotives now on the job are more expensive to operate.

Tests have just been finished that were to measure the amount of smoke and gases, the diesels would produce in the tunnel, which runs beneath the St. Clair River between Port Huron and Sarnia, Ont.

Gunman Gets Penalty

DETROIT (UP) — John Kowalowka, 68, was sentenced to 3½ to 20 years in Southern Michigan Prison Wednesday for second degree murder in the shooting of a bar owner's wife who he thought was padding his bar bill. Kowalowka, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced by recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis. The shooting June 18 took the life of Mrs. Lillian Smiecinski, 55, of Detroit.

Plan Reshuffle of Ambassadors

U.S. to Switch Envoys to Britain, France, Italy, Germany, 4 Others

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is reported planning a major shakeup of ambassadors in at least eight countries during the next few months.

The reshuffle will send a new lineup of American envoys to the four most important Western European countries—Britain, France, Italy and West Germany.

In the Asiatic area, new ambassadors are to be appointed to India, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. Three of these posts are now vacant.

Nearly all the diplomatic changes have been planned for a long time, especially those involving the Western European posts. But they also come at a time when top State Department officials, including Secretary Dulles, are known to be dissatisfied with the caliber of some diplomatic reports immediately before the outbreak of Middle East hostilities.

Dulles is understood to have been particularly upset that Ambassadors Winthrop Aldrich in London and Douglas Dillon in Paris were unable to break through what is regarded as a deliberate blackout of news by the British and French foreign offices in the week before the invasion of Egypt.

Both men were reported definitely resigning their present posts in keeping with previous plans. So is Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce, who has returned from Italy on one of her frequent visits to New York, after recovering from a serious illness. Mrs. Luce agreed to stay on until after last week's elections at White House urging.

Ambassador James Conant, former president of Harvard University, also is reported anxious to leave his post in West Germany.

Flame Is Brewing in Gas Companies

LANSING (AP)—The chairman of the State Public Service Commission today vigorously defended the right of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. to sell gas directly to a Detroit area steel firm.

In a sharply-worded, 14-page opinion, Chairman John H. McCarthy said he refused to go along with two other commissioners because to do so would be "to stifle legitimate competition."

The commission voted 2-1 last week to reverse an earlier decision allowing Panhandle to sell gas directly to the McLouth steel plant at Gibraltar, near Detroit.

Voting for the reversal were Commissioner James H. Lee and Commissioner Maurice E. Hunt. McCarthy opposed the move.

The commission action came after Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. appealed the case to the Ingham County Circuit Court. Consolidated formerly held the right to supply gas to the steel company.

Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon, who heard voluminous testimony on Consolidated's appeal, referred the case back to the commission.

NCNF Will Meet With the Public

Plans for an open meeting of the Michigan Chapter of the National Child Nephrosis Foundation, were announced today. Stanley Allen, local chairman, said that the session will take place Jan. 7 at 8 p.m. in the Moose Temple, Mt. Clemens street.

A color-sound film on nephrosis will be shown and Dr. Howard Johnson, Ford Hospital pediatrician will be guest speaker. State chapter president Douglas Adair will also be heard.

Choking Brings Death to Retarded Youth

William Wheeler, 25, a mentally retarded student at the Haven Farm, school for exceptional children in Romeo, died yesterday when he choked on a large piece of bread.

His parents, the Basil Wheelers and a brother and sister live in Ypsilanti, where the body was sent for service and burial last night.

Feud May Flare at NLRB Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The long feud between the United Auto Workers and the Kohler Co. of Sheboygan, Wis., may flare again in National Labor Relations Board hearings.

Both the union and the general counsel for the NLRB have filed separate briefs asking the reinstatement of unfair labor practices charges against the Wisconsin firm.

George A. Downing, an NLRB trial examiner, dismissed the long-standing charges because, he said, complaining UAW Trustees had failed to file non-Communist affidavits with the NLRB.

This would have in effect disqualified the union from acting as a bargaining agent and as a petitioner to the NLRB. Law requires that union "officers" must file affidavits.

The union argued in its brief that the union trustees, although listed in the UAW constitution, are not union officers, since they have no policymaking function or other authority. Periodically, they make audits of union funds.

Like Father—Like Son

CADILLAC (AP)—Sgt. Lewis Cook, 46, who heads the Cadillac State Police Post, marked 25 years of service Wednesday knowing that anytime he chooses to retire, there'll still be a Cook on the force. His son, Jerry, 23, is a trooper at the West Branch Post.

Egypt's Nasser: Daring Ruler Willing to Gamble

Israel's Ben-Gurion: No Man of Mystery to World

The man with the hawk-like nose, stiletto-thin moustache and 200-pound build who directs the destinies and defense of Egypt is first and foremost a soldier.

The 38-year-old dictator of 23 million Egyptians has the experience of battle behind him and the scars to prove it.

Since the first of the year Nasser has stepped into the world spotlight as a daring ruler willing to take a long gamble.

The dramatic cotton-for-weapons swap with Czechoslovakia also illustrates Nasser's dare-devil tactics. More than that, however, it reflects his determination to build up a strong military force in Egypt, according to observers.

Nasser has never forgotten the humiliating defeat the Egyptian armies suffered at the hands of the Israelis in 1948, mainly due to Farouk's corrupt regime.

GAMAL ABDEL NASSER

DAVID BEN-GURION

During the Palestine war Nasser was wounded several times. At one point he was taken to the hospital for a month's recovery, but several days later he escaped to return to the front.

After the hostilities, he organized a small legion of army officers and pulled off the revolution which put King Farouk out of power and set up General Naguib as a front man.

This rebellion, engineered by Nasser, was nothing new for him. When he was a 14-year-old school boy, Nasser jumped into a demonstration and wound up in jail with a bloody nose.

Although he developed at an early age into a first class revolutionary firebrand, Nasser managed to get into a military academy and become a career officer.

Today he still lives like an officer in a simple, five-room house with his wife and five children.

Also in military tradition he rises at 6:30 and generally puts in an 18-hour day. He comes from pure Arab stock and his father was a lowly paid civil service postmaster.

It is 70-year-old David Ben Gurion, Israel's Prime Minister, Minister of Defense and moral and intellectual leader of his country.

Whatever else is being said about him around the world, nobody is calling him a man of mystery. His personality, abilities and ambitions are well-known and understood.

His moody brown eyes, set deep beneath heavy dark eyebrows, reveal the fearless, tireless dedication of his life to the cause of Zionism and the future of his beloved Israel.

A baby-pink, somber, wrinkled face, topped by a balding pate which is framed by a kinky thatch of snow-white hair, gives him a kind of Churchillian look—a comparison which irritates him.

He is frequently likened to Churchill, but has never bothered to explain why he does not like it.

Much of Ben-Gurion's time during the past few years has been spent personally inspecting Israel's troops, talking to the soldiers, and visiting hospitals where the wounded from recent Egyptian-Israel skirmishes were cared for.

He has spent long hours with Israel Army intelligence officers, too.

Several months ago he vividly demonstrated both his great energy and keen interest in military affairs by attempting to make a drop with a group of paratroopers. His military advisers had a tough time trying to talk him out of it.

He is a great flying fan and travels about his tiny country in a Piper Cub. He springs in and out of it with the agility of a man less than half his age.

He never drinks and only eats plain food. His home is a simple, small structure, furnished with only the bare necessities.

Ben-Gurion was born in Poland, spent much of his early life in Palestine, fought during World War I, and traveled widely in Europe and the U. S. after that. After World War II he dedicated his life to building the Israel nation.

Pakistan Plans Irrigation

KARACHI — Pakistan plans to have an irrigation plant within two years, including some of the largest pumps in the world, for the irrigation of the Ganges-Kobadak region of East Pakistan. Each of the three pumps that will work the plant will be able to draw 1,700 tons of water a minute.

Brick Homes Popular

WASHINGTON — About 33 per cent of the single-family houses now being built are brick houses, a rise of 14 per cent over last year's figure of 29 per cent. Some 70 per cent of the nation's brick production is going into the housing market.

Educators have ruled that night school classes in women's hairdressing in an Auckland, New Zealand, suburban school must cease. This is to halt home competition with professional beauty salons.

Progress in Air Is Bought With Lives of Test Pilots

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The price of aviation progress is a toll in human flesh and blood that can't be redeemed in dollars and cents — and often goes forgotten.

It's paid by men like 32-year-old Capt. Milburn Apt, who met death last September in the costly crash of the Bell X-2 rocket plane at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Apt was a test pilot — a member of an elite fraternity of men whose trademark is courage and who have died attempting to hurdle the barriers of speeds, sound and survival, men who sometimes call themselves the "cautious daredevils."

There's no known tally of all the test pilots who have lost their lives, but from the files of the Pentagon, from aircraft companies and from the memories of their friends, you can pick a few. They speak for the rest.

Nearly to a man they are veterans of hot wars who came back home as heroes. Take Maj. Richard Bong, the country's greatest World War II air ace who accounted for 40 Japanese planes.

Ironically, Bong was brought back to the U.S. for "safe" duty near the close of the war so as not to risk his valuable battle experience.

It was in that capacity that he was flying one of the early jet fighters, the Shooting Star P-80, on Aug. 6, 1945. Coming over the airfield at Burbank, Calif., on a test run Bong's plane wobbled, veered off and crashed half a mile away. He never had a chance.

The X-2 in which Capt. Apt took his first and last flight had established a new record of 1,900 miles per hour last July.

The man who made that world speed record is Cal. Frank Everest, a close friend of Apt whom he described as "one of the best pilots in the fighter group" at Edwards AFB.

Everest was assigned to test the X-2 as a replacement for "Skip" Zeigler, a civilian pilot for the Bell Aircraft Corp., who on May 23, 1953, went down with the first X-2.

"Skip was all we had as a test pilot," says a Bell spokesman. "When we lost him, Col. Everest had to come into the picture."

Zeigler and Frank Wolko, 33 a flight engineer, died when the experimental research plane was blown away from its mother B-50 by an explosion over Lake Ontario.

Other civilian test pilots besides Zeigler have been victims of air accidents.

"We've had our share of losses," is how officials of most of the major aircraft companies sum it up.

An outstanding example is George Welsh, the first man to shoot down a Japanese plane at Pearl Harbor. On Oct. 13, 1954, he died of injuries after attempting to parachute from a jet aircraft that exploded. Welsh, 33 at the time, was testing the Super Sabre Jet F-100 for North American Aviation.

He left two sons and a wife he met and married during the war in Australia.

Then there was Stanley A Beltz who crashed a year ago August on the desert near Lancaster, Calif., He used to insist that test pilots are the "most cautious daredevils" in the world.

Considered a perfectionist, the end came for Beltz when he was testing a Lockheed F-94B modified with the nose of an important missile design of another company.

British Force Refuses Help

Italian Relief Offered Citizens of Port Said by Consul

PORT SAID (INS) — Off Port Said stands the Italian ship Ascania loaded with medicine, food, clothing and blankets for the destitute.

It is also loaded with a potential explosion between Britain and Italy.

The British said they do not need or want the Italian relief ship but were still considering the situation.

An official spokesman announced that British forces were well able to take care of all the military and civilian population of Port Said and outside help was unwelcome.

Italian Consul General Francesco Vincenti-Mareri, who has been working since a week ago Tuesday to spare the city as much hardship as possible, disagrees violently.

First he was shocked by the news the British don't want his ship. And it is his ship. He asked Rome to send it. That was last Thursday evening when he had the Italian school classrooms filled with wounded Egyptians and foreigners.

That day he asked the British for penicillin, sulfa, bandages, cotton and other rudimentary hospital supplies. The British said that some items were unavailable and the rest could be purchased locally.

By the time Mareri knew all hospitals in the city had long been out of everything including bandages. Drug stores had been looted and were shuttered tight.

The Italians organized door-knocking teams to "beg" foreigners for food, clothing and medicine for the hospital that started with 60 beds and increased to 70.

Mareri was shocked, too, by the implied British claim that everybody is getting enough to eat at Port Said.

His Consulate has been handing out 3,000 rations daily for four days. The rations, he said, are going not only to Italians but also to Egyptians and even to some French and British.

Court Refuses Bid to Dismiss Jurors

Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

Whether the tests will be admitted as evidence is up to Taylor and defense attorney Milton R. Henry, who Taylor said requested them.

Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick must rule on the motion if the attorneys agree to enter the results.

The husband, William, 29, did not ask for a lie test, Taylor said. Mrs. Wyatt was tested by State Police at the Redford post yesterday and in Bay City Wednesday.

Sherry and 9 other children of the family—including three Wilkinsons and six Wyatts — were found alone in their home August 23.

Two of Sherry's sisters by the first marriage had run away and were held at the Oakland County Children's Home.

Mrs. Wyatt was hospitalized for an operation, and Wyatt, helper at a produce stand, was in Indiana purchasing supplies.

Testimony at the couple's pretrial examination before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C Dieterle indicated Sherry had been tied to her bed in an upstairs room.

Sherry's right hand was severely burned, allegedly when Mrs. Wyatt held it over a gas burner. Doctors have said she may regain use of the hand, untreated for two months, after two years of surgical treatments.

Sherry also was suffering burns on her back and legs, which she told police were also inflicted by her mother. She was hospitalized for three weeks for treatment of the burns and malnutrition.

Chicago Man Found in U.P.

Alleged Murder Victim Missing Since Dec. 7 Positively Identified

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP)—The skeleton of a suspected murder victim, found last Monday in a spruce thicket, was identified today as that of Odess Demopoulous, 31, a Chicago grocery store operator.

A newspaperman in this Upper Peninsula community called the Chicago Tribune yesterday with information which quickly solved part of the mystery surrounding the skeleton found by a hunter chasing a wounded rabbit.

Positive identification was established this morning by the victim's brother, Gust Demopoulous, and two brothers-in-law, Andrew Becker and George Costas, all of Chicago.

His family had not seen or heard from Demopoulous since last Dec. 7, when he was driven to a Chicago train station by a sister. He told her he planned a short trip to Gary, Ind.

Dickinson County Sheriff Peter Carlevato said Demopoulous probably died shortly after he left Chicago since he had carried only $34 on the trip. He had access to a $15,000 checking account but no money had been drawn on it since he disappeared.

Iron Mountain officers said they do not think Demopoulous committed suicide although his brother's German Luger pistol was found in a glove near the body.

They said he was shot through the head from left to right at an angle that would have been difficult if not impossible for a right-handed person.

Investigators also said clothes on the skeleton were bunched in a manner that indicated the body had been dragged under the thick, low-hanging spruce boughs.

The victim's wallet and other identification, including the label from his clothes, were missing with the exception of a belt buckle initialed "O. D."

Troops on Hand at Camp Kilmer to Aid Refugees

CAMP KILMER, N.J. (AP)—This sprawling Army installation, a staging area for five million GIs during World War II, is coming to life again to receive 5,000 Hungarian refugees from Soviet terror.

The first contingent of 250 service troops arrived yesterday and began restoring heating and lighting to the camp's 1,139 buildings, most of them wooden barracks.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said in Washington there is "a very good chance" that the first refugees will arrive at the camp by the end of next week.

The Army here said that before this week is out, the troops on hand to take care of the Hungarian men, women and children will number 600. They will include doctors, nurses, mess personnel, orderlies and administrative staffs.

Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, 1st Army commander, said Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker has charged him with the refugees' reception, processing and welfare "until such time as they can be given over to the appropriate civilian welfare agencies."

Camp Kilmer went into standby status July 1, 1955, with only a caretaker force to watch over its 1,372 acres.

Official Hare Proposes Fund

Uninsured Motorists to Contribute $30 to State Accident Plan

LANSING (AP) — State officials started drafting legislation today for a state-supported accident fund to reimburse the victims of uninsured drivers.

Secretary of State James M. Hare offered the plan yesterday at a meeting of the State Safety Commission. He said he would submit it to Gov. Williams in two or three weeks.

"In my opinion this law would answer many of the problems in the state caused by the seven or eight per cent of the drivers who are uninsured," Hare said.

The plan would be patterned after a New York law which takes effect Jan. 1. It requires uninsured motorists to contribute $30 to a motor vehicle indemnification fund.

When a motorist is involved in an accident with an uninsured driver, he is reimbursed from the state fund.

But, Hare explained, the uninsured driver must then in turn reimburse the state fund or lose his driver's license. The state also has the right to impound the uninsured driver's car.

"The New York plan does not have the bad angles of a compulsory insurance law such as Massachusetts has, where insurance rates rose substantially," Hare said.

The New York plan would guarantee protection to victims of uninsured drivers and be especially valuable in hit-run cases, he said.

no dealings with the Kadar regime.

Former Communist Party First Secretary Enroe Geroe and former Premier Andras Hegedues headed the long list of those purged by the new regime. Budapest radio said they had been barred "forever" from any public and party activity and advised to resume their former jobs in private life.

CLAIMS AGREEMENT

Kadar claimed he had reached an agreement with Soviet military authorities in Hungary that "no one may be deported," and declared the government would "hold no one responsible for participating in the uprising of the past three weeks."

This contradicted a Budapest radio broadcast yesterday which admitted the Soviet army is deporting Hungarians to the East in sealed railway cars in a desperate effort to stamp out revolutionary elements.

The radio told of the deportations in explaining why the general strike had not ended.

Another broadcast said the Hungarian army would get new uniforms and recruits wouldn't have to shave their heads. It promised lighter penalties for infractions of military law, bigger pensions for officers and noncoms, and more passes and furloughs.

The flood of refugees from the battered country continued. More than 4,000 crossed into Austria yesterday, bringing the total since the anti-Soviet revolt began Oct. 23 to nearly 30,000.

Budapest radio said approximately 8,000 of the city's apartments had been destroyed by gunfire and explosives during the rebellion and the Soviet blitz which followed. The Red radio claimed that some 160 restaurants and bars had reopened in the capital.

But the general strike continued, apparently unabated. The only stores open were selling food mostly.

Even Budapest radio admitted that some workers who had returned to their jobs in the provinces now were quitting again at word of deportation of rebels to Russia.

Hammarskjold is expected to return to New York in five or six days. He said that after his Middle East journey, he might go to Hungary "to lay a basis for the humanitarian activities on which the General Assembly has passed a resolution."

"I have not yet got a reply from Budapest," he said, "and for that reason, I cannot say exactly what my plans will be."

Pontiac Balloons, Gift Certificates Travel Long Way

Two of the thousands of balloon-borne gift certificates released at last Saturday's "Pontiac Salutes Industry" parade have been discovered a long ways from home—one 300 miles away.

Floyd P. Miles, owner of Christian Literature Sales, 39 Oakland Ave. said yesterday he has been asked to redeem a $1 certificate by a Bridgeport, W. Va., man, who found balloon and certificate while hunting Sunday.

Another balloon was found Saturday afternoon in Dover, Ohio, by a young boy exploring a river bank. Attached was a $1 certificate good at Neisner Bros. department store, manager Oscar Berg said today.

Both stores will send merchandise or cash to the finders. Numerous other Pontiac stores and businesses donated certificates to the parade.

Driving and Writing Sometimes Headaches

Driver's License Candidates Plague Sheriff

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

Two major problems that confront the driver's license division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Office are applicants for the written test . . . who can't read or write, and applicants for the road test . . . who can't drive.

A knowledge of all three must be had to obtain a license.

Mrs. Mildred Crozier, a deputized clerk in the driver's license division, said that more people fail the written exam than the road test.

"But our biggest trouble," said Mrs. Crozier, "is with people who can't read or write and want their relatives to sit down and read the exam for them. We can't permit that."

County residents who do not live in incorporated cities can apply for their licenses at the Oakland County Sheriff's Office driver's license division. The cities issue their own licenses.

An applicant must be at least 16 years of age, and have the written consent of a parent if he is under 18, to obtain a license. The cost is $3 for an original driver's license. If a license has been expired for more than three years a test must be taken again.

The written test consists of 25 questions with four answers for each. Two answers per question are correct. A score of 18 correct questions is passing.

"It's a tricky exam," said Mrs. Crozier, "all of the answers supplied sound right, but they aren't. You have to know the material in the booklets."

All applicants are given state booklets to study.

A repeat test will be given to a person two days later if he flunks the first one. If he fails to pass it the second time he cannot apply again for 90 days. A Lansing appel board meets here every two weeks for those who fail and want to contest their case.

Said Mrs. Grozier "We get a lot of people who are obviously 50 years old but have lost their birth certificates. They'll complain 'Look at me, I'm old enough to drive', but we can't issue them a license until they get a new birth certificate."

Once the written test is passed the road test is the last obstacle. The new driver must supply his own car. Deputy Sheriff Stephen Navarre, director of safety, said that the officer conducting the test marks the driver on six points. They are 1. Starting. 2. Observing. 3. Signaling. 4. Obeying Laws. 5. Parking. 6. Stopping.

The driver is allowed to fail two of the six points and still obtain a license.

Navarre said that the biggest trouble with most people applying for a road test is that they come in too early.

"A man from Australia got behind the wheel and asked me what to do first," said Navarre. "I showed him how to put the key in because I thought he was just unfamiliar with the friend's car he was using. Then I had to show him how to start it.

"Then when the man still looked at me and said 'now what do I do?' I told him to get out. New drivers can't be experts but they must come here prepared. We can't teach them how to drive."

Deputy Sheriff Bill Jackson tells that most new drivers are nervous when they take the road test.

Jackson pointed out that the officers don't try to trick the drivers, but instead try to help them as much as possible.

Wife Concedes in Struggle With Secretary

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP) — Mrs. Phyllis Tobeler obtained a divorce after testifying that her husband once told her "A secretary is more important than a wife—you can get another wife any time."

Mrs. Tobeler said she didn't get along with the secretary of her husband, Paul, a wealthy industralist.

Mrs. Tobeler testified: "Once my husband picked up a ruler and a piece of metal and said, 'You girls fight it out. Here are your weapons.'"

Cost Nearly 10 Billion Stabilizing Farm Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Suppose that each adult and child in America contributed $5.91 to a special fund.

The total, an agriculture department spokesman said today, would come to about 975 million dollars—the amount it cost to run the farm price support system in the year ended June 30.

Those figures were supplied at the request of a reporter who asked what expenses are entailed in the government's job of stabilizing farm prices.

Q. What did storage cost the government on all surplus commodies in the year ended June 30, 1956?

A. About 374 million dollars, a little over a million a day.

Q. How much did the government receive on sales of surplus commodities during that period?

A. 916 million dollars, but that figure can not be related to the storage costs. There are many other costs.

Q. What has been the approximate over-all cost of stabilizing farm prices since the government's program started?

A. About 10 billion dollars.

Q. Would it be cheaper for the government to buy surplus commodities and destroy them than to pay storage and other costs?

A. Of course not. As an example, we spent $32,478,000,000 on support loans and commodities purchases from June 30, 1956 on all that spending, we $3,171,-600,000. If we had bought those commodities, we would have lost the entire $32,478,000,000.

"Actually," said the spokesman, "over the years the average cost of the farm price support program has been much less than 975 million.

"In fact, over the entire 23-year period that the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) has been supporting farm prices, the net cost has been $3,624,000,000.

"That averages to 158 million dollars a year."

This money has been spent to assure what the government considers a fair price to farmers on crops and products in which surpluses have developed.

Both Democratic and Republican administrations have acted on the assumption that prices on surplus items—such as wheat and corn—would sometimes drop to unreasonably low levels if left to the law of supply and demand.

Probate Murphy Estate

DETROIT (AP)—Frederick M. Alger, now United States ambassador to Belgium and Mrs. Francis Alger Boyer, his sister, were the main benefactors of their mother's will filed in probate Tuesday. Alger and Mrs. Boyer were named to receive the bulk of the estate of Mrs. Fred T. Murphy, which totals about $1,500,000.

Up Fairbanks way, in Alaska, tourists have their days pleasantly lengthened by the phenomenon of the "midnight sun." Be 'Hep' When You Buy Your Thanksgiving Bird

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

When you go to buy your Thanksgiving bird this week, you will have a wide choice. Not only are there more turkeys this year than last year, but they come in assorted sizes.

How much should you buy for each person? If you are having a small turkey, one under 12 pounds, you will need ¾ to one pound of oven-ready turkey per person. If your bird is over 12 pounds, you'll need ½ to ¾ pound of oven-ready turkey.

What do we mean by oven-ready turkey? That is a bird ready for stuffing, with head, neck, feet and innards all removed. Naturally, you will have to buy a heavier bird to start with than the oven-ready weight.

Almost all the turkeys you see today are oven-ready and frozen. They are frozen because they were killed at the time when they would be best to eat. Turkey growing is a year-'round business nowadays. Few growers wait until the week before a large demand is anticipated to begin killing their birds.

You are getting better poultry this way. You are getting poultry that probably was cleaned and packaged in a sanitary plant, inspected by a health officer and kept in sub-zero temperatures until you buy it.

Look for the small blue circle and grade seal stamped on all frozen poultry that has been government inspected. It is prominently displayed on the package. The circular mark means inspection for wholesomeness, the shield and grade tag for quality.

In a few local markets you may still be able to buy what is known as New York dressed poultry. These have only their feathers removed and still need cleaning and drawing to be oven-ready.

Make note of the color of your frozen poultry. If it is ice white, that means it was quick frozen and has been kept at sub-zero temperatures ever since. Birds that have not been flash frozen, or that have thawed a bit, will have a darkish tinge to their skin. Beware of them.

You can buy Beltsville turkeys that range from four to nine pounds. They may be broiled or fried or roasted. They average about seven pounds.

Hen turkeys range from 10 to 15 pounds, with 12 pounds considered average. Tom turkeys are over 15 pounds. You get 56 per cent roasted meat in a turkey weighing over 15 pounds; 50 per cent roasted meat in one under that weight.

If you like to have a large bird because there is more meat per pound, consider buying a tom turkey and having it split. Meat men are happy to perform this service for you. If you don't have a freezer in which to keep the other half until Christmas or some later date, see if a neighbor isn't interested in doing the same thing. Then you can each take half a bird.

You will find more ready-stuffed birds this year than last. They are expensive, but under certain circumstances, they are a good buy. Just be sure to follow directions on the package exactly. Do not thaw this kind of turkey at all before roasting.

Allow plenty of time for thawing your regular turkey. It will take the better part of two days for the larger sizes. Keep it in the warmest part of your refrigerator for slow thawing. If you need to thaw it quickly, let cool water run over the package until it is thawed.

There is an ample supply of all kinds of poultry in the markets this year. Prices are reasonable, in fact lower than they were a couple of years ago. You can find some kind of bird to fit both your purse and your taste.

Roasting chickens which come under any number of brand names now make good holiday eating. If you want to be a little different, try duck or goose.

Store Those Spices in Baby Food Jars

Baby food jars are excellent for storing spices which gradually become weak and lose flavor when exposed to air.

When stored in pry-off capped containers, the spices retain their aroma, and the glass lets you see just how much of each spice you have on hand.

To reseal the jars airtight each time the spices are used, set the cap on evenly and press down firmly with the heels of the palms of both hands. You will be able to hear a little "click" as the lid slips back into place. Keep a lid flipper in your spice cupboard to flip the lids quickly and easily every time.

Want a really shiny glaze for a hot bread? Then spoon on the confectioners' sugar frosting usually used while the bread is hot.

You'll Want to Purchase Holiday Foods This Week

Thoughts are turning in the direction of what to have for Thanksgiving. If refrigerator or freezer space is available, the meat for Thanksgiving might be purchased this week, says the Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. At least, most families will reserve their preferences of turkey, ham, beef or pork roast, or other meat choice at their favorite grocery store.

MEAT IN THE MARKET—During this year's Thanksgiving month, 18 per cent more turkeys will be marketed than last November. About 29 per cent more heavy breed turkeys were raised this year. Light breeds total about 18 per cent of the total turkey crop, compared with 26 per cent last year.

Large turkeys often cost less per pound than small ones. If the family can use a large bird or has enough storage space, the large birds are often the most economical buy. A 25 pound tom turkey will yield 56 per cent roasted meat, while a 15 pound turkey yields about 50 per cent.

When it is time to choose a turkey, the size to buy is often a problem. A half pound to ¾ pound of large ready-to-cook turkey gives one average size serving. Be sure to add "seconds" for those with good appetites.

Recent purchasing of pork for the school lunch room programs caused pork prices to raise some. However, plentiful supplies will keep pork one of the best meat values when prices are compared to other red meats. Prices of smoked cuts are lower now than is expected later in the season.

A juicy pork roast can stretch food dollars. Boston butts supply about 3 servings per pound; loin roasts yield about 2 servings per pound.

If ham is the choice for Thanksgiving, whole 10 to 14 pound hams are available for about 50 to 60 cents a pound. Whole hams will serve about three people per pound.

VEGETABLES — Just as potatoes reached a peak price last summer when they were scarce, so they now have reached a low in price while fall supplies are large. Storage costs and losses will start adding gradual increases to consumers' costs until the next harvest. Already retailers are offering fewer of the 50 pound bag sizes.

Quantity buying of potatoes is wise only if adequate storage is available. A cool, moist, dark cellar or basement where the temperature remains about 55 degrees is ideal potato storage. Keep potatoes off a damp floor, by placing them on a wooden riser.

Light supplies of head lettuce and tomatoes are responsible for the seemingly high prices of these vegetables. Other salad items such as cabbage, carrots, spinach, and celery can trim the salad budget to fit the pocketbook.

FRUITS —Tart red cranberries are a must for Thanksgiving, but why not use them in many ways, now that they are in season? Most fresh cranberries come in plastic bags, allowing an opportunity to select berries of high quality. Look for fresh cranberries that are plump, dry and firm.

Soft or shriveled berries and those with dull appearance most likely have passed their prime. Small dark berries may be sweeter and keep better than larger bright red ones.

Team cranberries with Michigan's plentiful apples or with Florida oranges that are becoming more flavorful and lower in price as the citrus season progresses.

EGGS — The medium size egg is now the one in largest supply, and in most markets, represents the best egg value. These eggs are laid by young hens, are of good quality (if they have been handled properly), and cost less per ounce than the large size eggs. Always select eggs from refrigerated cases.

Apple Dressing

8 quarts lightly packed bread crumbs
½ cup melted butter or margarine
2 cups diced celery
1 cup diced onion
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 teaspoon rosemary
2 teaspoons thyme
2 teaspoons savory
4 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
2 cups diced apple

Combine bread crumbs and melted butter. Add enough milk to moisten the bread crumbs. Add remaining ingredients in order given and mix well. Brown in skillet with butter or margarine, and stuff turkey.

Flavor-Rich Extender to Make Steak Stretch

Beef steak can be served even to unexpected guests by the judicious use of flavorful "extenders." Cut 1½ pounds of ½-inch thick round steak into serving-size pieces. Sprinkle with ¼ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and a dash of black pepper. Brown the pieces in 2 tablespoons shortening. Add 1 can (1¼ cups) beef gravy and ¼ cup ketchup.

Cover and simmer about 1 hour or until steak is tender. Just before serving, stir in ¼ cup sliced stuffed olives. Makes 6 servings. Scalloped potatoes with cheese and Harvard beets are filling fare for brisk weather.

How to Soften Yeast

Compressed yeast should be softened in warm (110 to 115 degrees) water. Use dry yeast before the date on the envelope expires.

Season that cream sauce for flaked crab meat with lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and dry mustard.

SKILLET CLUB FOR MEN

By Frank Kahler

GOULASH STROGONOFF. "Here is a pot roast I like to make. It is not a beef Strogonoff as some people like to call it, nor is it a Hungarian goulash. It is somewhere in between," says N. W. Stroup, Chicago Daily News Chapter. For 6:

2 tablespoons fat
1 onion, sliced
3 tablespoons flour
3 to 4 pounds piece of beef chuck
1 teaspoon salt
2 cans beef bouillon
1 can (8 ounces) tomato puree
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons Worcestershire
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 cloves garlic, minced (optional)
6 medium-to-small potatoes
6 small onions
3 turnips, halved
6 small carrots

Use a 6-quart roasting pan or Dutch oven. Melt fat, add sliced onion, cook until onion is browned, then discard the onion. Flour the meat well, dust with salt and brown on all sides in the pan. Add 1 can of bouillon, and remaining flour if any. Cover and simmer in oven at 275 degrees until tender. This takes about 2½ hours.

Combine tomato puree, second can of bouillon, sugar, Worcestershire, paprika, oregano, and garlic in a saucepan and simmer until thoroughly integrated and cooked down a bit.

Pare and boil potatoes, onions and turnips in same saucepan. Scrub, boil, then scrape the carrots and add with their water to the other vegetables. Add a little of the water from the vegetables to the meat if it is cooking too dry. Keep vegetables hot.

If vegetables are small, we like to have one of each for each customer. If large, we cut the potatoes and turnips into smaller pieces, and slice the onions at time of serving.

Twenty minutes before serving, stir the sauce in with the meat. The meat may be served in one piece on a large, heated platter, surrounded by vegetables, or the vegetables served in a separate hot dish. Mr. Stroup usually serves the gravy separately.

He has a fine idea for leftovers. He grinds the remaining meat coarsely, then heats it with the remaining sauce. He seasons the mixture to taste, using a little chili powder, and chili sauce or catsup, and a dash of Tobasco. He serves this over spaghetti, with grated Parmesan or Romano cheese.

Skillet Beef Has Flavor All Its Own

Flavorsome—this skillet beef!

Skillet Beef

¼ cup knife-chopped beef suet
2 medium-sized onions (chopped)
1½ pounds beef round steak (cut in 1-inch squares and about ⅛ inch thick)
2 medium-sized tomatoes (each peeled and cut into quarters)
½ cup water
1 clove garlic (minced or crushed)
1½ teaspoons chili powder
1½ teaspoons wine vinegar
1½ teaspoons dark brown sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt, pepper

Make Mincemeat Sauce

To make mincemeat sauce to serve over ice crea mand cakes blend 1 cup moist mincemeat with ¼ cup dark corn syrup, 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract and 1/16 teaspoon pure orange extract. Heat to boiling point.

Dice mint-flavored maraschino cherries and add to a chocolate ice-cream soda.

"Dressed" turkeys are picked but not drawn. Allow about 1¼ pounds per person when you buy market-dressed or New York dressed turkeys.

"Ready to roast" turkeys, either fresh or frozen, are cleaned—just stuff and roast. Allow about 1 pound per person when you buy "drawn" turkey.

When roasting turkey
Defrost frozen birds in refrigerator or at room temperature if time is limited. Remove outer wrappings, cover loosely with waxed paper, and place in shallow pan. Allow about 6 hours per pound defrosting time in refrigerator; and about 1 hour per pound to thaw at room temperature. Place stuffed turkey on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast in slow oven (325°F):

20-25 min. per lb. Small Turkey (6-10 lbs.)

Brown Sugar Custard Has Velvety Texture

Brown Sugar Custard

4 eggs
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk (scalded)
1 teaspoon vanilla,
¼ teaspoon nutmeg (if desired)

Beat eggs just enough to combine yolks and white; at once beat in brown sugar and salt just enough to combine. Slowly add scalded milk, stirring constantly, and vanilla.

Strain into 6 to 8 custard cups; sprinkle with nutmeg if used. Set custard cups in deep pan; pour very hot water into pan to come almost to top of custard cups.

Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 45 to 60 minutes or until knife inserted half way between center and outside edge comes out clean. At once set custard cups into pan of cold water to cool. Chill.

Serve Turkey Waffles

If you're planning a post-Thanksgiving brunch, why not serve your favorite creamed turkey over crisp, golden waffles. To make 4 servings of waffles, sift together 1 cup sifted enriched flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Beat 2 egg yolks and add ¾ cup milk and 3 tablespoons melted shortening. Add to flour mixture. Mix well. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour on hot waffle baker. Bake until lightly brown and crisp.

That good old combination, cooked diced carrots and green peas, may be added to an aspic and served with cold meats.

Glaze Apple Slices

Good fruit accompaniment with your Thanksgiving ham are glazed apple slices; easily prepared with this simplified method. Core 3-4 Delicious apples and cut into thick slices. Do not peel. Dip apple slices in granulated sugar to coat. Heat 3-4 tablespoons butter or margarine in medium sized frying pan. Saute apple slices lightly, about 10 minutes, or until tender and glazed, turning once.

Pie Has Less Calories

If you should really watch your calories, but can't resist a tempting apple pie, sprinkle the pie lightly with water and bake it without a top crust, suggest Michigan State University specialists.

Melted butter, lemon juice, soy sauce and a little sugar make a delicious basting sauce for broiled fish or poultry.

Serve Basic Foods for Holidays, Also

Thanksgiving is a time of plenty. But even when food is less abundant, you can keep your family well nourished by selecting foods from the seven basic food groups.

Every day plan 1 or more servings of leafy, green and yellow vegetables; 1 or more servings of citrus fruits, tomatoes and raw cabbage; and 2 or more servings of potatoes and other vegetables and fruits.

Drink 1 pint to 1 quart milk, or serve an equivalent in cheese and other milk products. Eat 1 serving of meat, poultry and fish daily, and have 3 or more eggs a week.

Serve 3 or more servings of enriched, restored or whole grain bread, flour and cereals each day. Butter or fortified margarine may accompany each meal.

Tired of seeing gingerbread in the same square pan? Well, try this. Just use gingerbread mix. Pour into 9" greased and floured ring mold. Serve hot with a bowl of applesauce in the center. Appetizing and so pretty!

Gentle Custard Sauce as Dessert Topper

A smooth and gentle custard sauce for fruit, gelatine molds, puddings, or cake squares can be made in short order with evaporated milk and vanilla pudding mix.

Combine 1 cup evaporated milk and ½ cup water. Add to ½ package vanilla pudding mix in a saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick enough to coat spoon. When cool, add flavoring extract, if desired. Makes 1 2-3 cups.

How Are You Going to Stuff That Bird?

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

We wonder how many family arguments have raged over what kind of dressing is best for the Thanksgiving turkey. We all seem to like what we had as youngsters. Then when we marry, we have to make a compromise if the two ideas don't agree.

If you buy a ready-stuffed turkey, you have no choice. You should, however, decide whether you will need an extra pan of dressing baked in the oven. Most ready stuffed birds have only enough for one meal. Lots of people think leftover dressing is the best part of Thanksgiving.

That extra pan of dressing is a solution, if you find your family likes two kinds. Stuff the bird with one; make up the second to cook separately.

As usual, we have hunted up some unusual dressing recipes for your consideration. Better buy your bread early. Everyone will have the same idea if you wait too long. You will need from three to six loaves to stuff a large tom turkey.

Our first recipe is for a dressing that uses lots of celery and some marjoram.

Celery Stuffing

1 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsely
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2½ cups bread crumbs
½ teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Water to moisten

Cook celery, onion and parsley in butter or margarine for a few minutes. Add other ingredients and enough liquid to make a slightly moist stuffing.

Stuff your turkey just before roasting. It is not safe to stuff it the day before. You cannot chill it fast enough or low enough to prevent contamination. And remove all dressing as soon as dinner is over. Refrigerate it separately from the left-over turkey.

New Englanders have long used oysters in their dressing. Before the days of quick transportation they could use oysters because they were near the source of supply. Today, oysters are as close as your nearest grocery.

Oyster Stuffing

1½ pints oysters
10 cups coarse bread crumbs
2 cups finely diced celery
2 medium chopped onions
1 cup butter or other fat
4 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 pint chicken or turkey stock

Moisten bread crumbs with the stock and let stand. Saute oysters lightly in butter or margarine until partly cooked. Remove oysters and add them to the bread crumbs.

Saute onions and celery in the same butter or margarine until cooked but not brown. When cooked add poultry seasoning. Add to oysters and bread crumbs and mix thoroughly. If a more compact stuffing is desired, more chicken or turkey stock may be used.

We learned something interesting just the other day. A butcher told us that the way poultry is dressed nowadays gives more space for dressing. By removing the neck and leaving the neck skin attached there is room for an extra loaf of bread made into dressing. The loose skin can cover the dressing and the breast to prevent excessive browning.

Don't pack the dressing in too tightly. Dressing expands during cooking and will become soggy if there is too much. Put all the excess dressing in a casserole for baking.

We'll end this article on stuffing with a basic recipe and two variations.

Basic Bread Stuffing

¾ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
2 quarts enriched yeast-raised bread crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¾ cup hot chicken broth

Melt butter or margarine in a skillet. Add onion and celery and cook until tender, about 10 to 15 minutes. Pour mixture over bread cubes, seasoned with salt, pepper, poultry seasoning and parsley. Stir until well blended. Add hot water and mix thoroughly. Makes enough stuffing for a 10-pound turkey (dressed but not drawn).

Bread-Nut Stuffing

Sausage Stuffing

Oatmeal Rolls to Fix Ahead

Convenient is the word for Oatmeal Refrigerator Rolls, because you can make the dough ahead and store it until you're ready to use it:

Oatmeal Refrigerator Rolls

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
½ cup water, (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
½ cup shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup quick cooking rolled oats
1 cup boiling water
1 egg
2¾ cups sifted enriched flour
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Soften yeast in ½ cup water. Combine shortening, sugar, salt and rolled oats in a bowl. Add boiling water and mix well. Cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast, egg and 1 cup flour. Beat well. Add remaining flour and mix thoroughly.

Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth. Place in lightly greased bowl, cover and store in refrigerator until ready to use. When wanted, remove dough from refrigerator and punch down.

Form dough into small balls the size of marbles. Dip each into melted butter or margarine and place 3 balls into each section of greased muffin pans.

Let rise until doubled (about 1½ hours). Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen 2-inch rolls.

Icing for Cookies

A chocolate dip-trim for crisp cookies can be made by melting over hot water a 6-ounce package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. To the melted chocolate, beat in 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and 1/3 cup evaporated milk. Keep the frosting over hot water while decorating so the icing will not thicken.

Essential to Dieter

Lean meat is important in the reducing diet. Meat leaves you with a feeling of satisfaction and allays the hunger pangs for a longer period than other foods. It also provides important minerals—iron to protect you from nutritional anemia, and phosphorus, which is essential for bones and certain physiological functions.

Vary that morning oatmeal by serving it with cooked prunes or cooked dried apricots.

Strengthens Fingernails

An envelope of unflavored gelatine taken in a glass of fruit juice or water for at least a 90-day period is a medically researched and economical aid for problem fingernails. Bought in the 32-envelope box, unflavored gelatine costs about 5 cents per day. The 90-day period of use is the time generally taken to grow a new nail.

Right Touch Needed

Wondering about the shape of yeast rolls for Thanksgiving dinner? To form crescents, roll ball of dough into circular shape about ¼ inch thick.

Cut in pie-shaped wedges. Brush with melted butter or margarine and roll up, beginning at the wide end. Curve into crescents on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled.

For bowknots, roll dough under hand to ½-inch thickness. Cut in pieces about 6 inches long. Tie in knots. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled.

Clover leaf rolls come from dough formed into small balls. Dip each into melted butter or margarine and place 3 balls in each cup of greased muffin pans. Let rise until doubled.

Rack Is Advantage

What's the advantage of using a rack in an open roasting pan? It keeps the meat out of the drippings and permits the circulation of the heat under and around the meat.

California Designers Lower Hemline for Spring

The bewitching hour will be enhanced by the appearance of a sheath that is deceptively simple. The widely placed straps border a square neckline, intriguingly draped. The forward view is one of slimness, and a backward glance will reveal controlled fullness in the form of a mock panel. This fashion, by Marjorie Montgomery, is in silk linen.

Crisp, cool and designed with the slim silhouette all women love is this smart dress of imported woven cross-stitch striped cotton. This design displays the careful planning which is characteristic of De De Johnson's extraordinary styling.

Two giant patch pockets, self-buttoned, are the focal point of a casually correct dress by Addie Masters. This designer drapes silk linen into a beautifully full skirt and tailored bodice. It is fully lined and has a self-contour belt.

Frothy Tulle Drapes Necklines

Flying Panels Insure Back Interest

Helen of California makes fashion news with an uneven hem—plaid lined to match the tidy Ascot scarf on a wrap-around dress of Forstmann sheer chiffon flannel. Wonderful with furs, it is destined to be a favorite all through spring.

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

LOS ANGELES—California fashion designers definitely have lowered the hemline for spring, 1957. This was evidenced in Wednesday's showings held at our headquarters, the Town House.

Some designers brought the hemline down 2 inches, while others are taking the debatable issue more slowly. However, most dresses are at least 1 inch lower.

Back flying panels are still much in evidence, and designers use frothy tulle for draping around necklines, often continuing the draping to the hemline.

Stripes in lively colors and in subdued tones highlight every collection, and spaghetti-thin straps cannot be overlooked as an important feature in California styles.

FAMILY COMPETITION

In strict competition are designers Peggy Hunt and her designing daughter, Jeannette Alexander. Peggy was designing clothes when Jeannette was growing up. Today, both top designers, they disagree on a few fashion hints.

Daughter Jeannette says that mothers don't always know best when it comes to fashion. In her dresses she concentrates on back interest through flying panels and side drapes. A gal should look good when retreating is her theory.

This is all good, agrees Miss Hunt, but she focuses attention on the bosom, using unusual necklines, some dipping like this year's hemlines, and others softly molded with appliques of fine lace to a more gentle look.

HER TRADEMARK

These dresses, the first to appear just 12 inches from the floor, are beautifully designed for hats and accessories, as they are basic, yet feminine.

Yesterday's showings revealed little interest in the empire line until the Phil Altbaum show. In this grouping were dresses with striped fronts (like panel inserts) for the long, lean line in which this firm believes. Abbreviated boleros and capes for a costume look were favored.

Lilli Ann dresses emphasize custom detailing and fine fabrics. Leather belts, buckles and Swiss embroidery are quickly identified as Lilli Ann's, alone. The firm has given a new version of the jacket dress which is expressed in a sheath with a very short double-breasted jacket.

The little "Dutch boy" dress stood out in the Helen of California showing. This has a slightly bloused hemline, called the pantaloon skirt.

We're leaving now to see the premier of Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" as guest of Paramount Pictures, but tomorrow we'll tell you about California's coats and suits for spring.

One Eye Dominates

Mildred Bennett Speaks Before Hospital Auxiliary

Explains Red Cross Disaster Service to Pontiac General Group

Mildred Bennett, executive secretary of Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross, was guest speaker at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital held at the Elks Temple.

"Oour role in the event of a disaster is service to people," Mrs. Bennett said.

She explained that it is the chapter's responsibility to be well enough organized to move into the affected area and to give help and assistance to the people as quickly and thoroughly as possible.

Exercises Improve Flabby Arms

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Fat or flabby upper arms are the bane of existence for many women. If you are overweight, of course your upper arms will be fat, but sometimes this measurement is out of proportion even when a woman is the correct weight because of the individual glandular setup. However, in only a minority of cases is this true.

The problem which haunts the average woman from the age of 40 on, and often sooner, is the flabby upper arms.

Sometimes the condition is so extreme that it actually is disfiguring. This is usually the result of losing a great deal of weight too rapidly and without proper diet and exercise.

However, flabbiness appears sooner or later unless a woman has exercised regularly beginning in her early years. This is every woman's problem! Today so many of the attractive clothes are sleeveless or have very short sleeves. There are exercises which will help if you will do them faithfully.

1. Stand tall with your arms at your sides. Lift both arms and place the fingertips on the shoulders, lifting the elbows. Straighten the arms and reach for the ceiling, turning the palms out. Return fingertips to the shoulders. Now shoot the arms straight down by the sides and turn the palms back. Return fingertips to shoulders and continue. Do this vigorously.

2. The following exercise is one I designed to tone the upper arms. Stand tall. Raise the arms sideward, shoulder height, palms toward the floor. Slowly, lower the arms toward the floor just a few inches, as though you were pushing against resistance.

If you have someone to help you, ask him to stand facing you. He raises his arms sideward, shoulder height, elbows straight, palms toward the ceiling. Place your palms on his. When you push down he resists. Rest. Continue.

It will take time and effort but you CAN improve that flabby condition. Swimming, tennis, badminton and golf also are helpful.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 11, "Armfuls of Beauty," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Spanish Sojourn Helps Ava 'Find Herself'

(What makes Ava Gardner flit from romance to romance? Will the beautiful and seductive actress find lasting happiness and peace of mind? This is the third of four articles.)

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
International News Service

In her cyclonic career of work and play, Ava Gardner has often been lost, strayed and stolen.

Today, the more philosophic observers of her "escape into Spain" believe she is beginning to find herself. By doing exactly what she likes, when she wants to do it and with whomever she chooses, the beautiful girl from Hollywood is standing on her own two feet at last.

She is being her own boss, just as she was in the childhood days in Smithfield, N. C. (pop. 3,678), when she ran about barefoot, smoked cigarettes back of the barn with the boys and was (as she puts it) "this strange little hillbilly."

Three marriages, to husbands who tried to govern and educate her, and a 13-year-career in Hollywood, where press agents and directors bossed her behavior, made her escape to find herself again, so the "authorities" on Ava believe. And she confirms it. Asked about returning to Hollywood, her face darkens.

"What do I have to go back to Hollywood for?"

BULLFIGHT ROMEO

Ava went to Madrid in 1950 and fell in love, more or less simultaneously, with the country and bullfighting and a bullfighter named Mario Cabre.

Cabre was so confused by her attentions, he says, that he narrowly missed death in the ring three times because he wasn't paying any attention to the bulls.

In fact, during the shooting of one scene in "Pandora," he departed from the script and let himself be tossed and trampled by a bull right in front of the woman he loved.

A few months later, the novelty of this impassioned treatment wore off for the glamor queen and she married Frank Sinatra. Mario retired to Buenos Aires, published a book of "Poems to Ava Gardner" at his own expense.

Ava was not happy with Frankie, and she didn't want to come—or stay—home. Her next sign of affection for Spain was expressed in a romance with Luis Miguel Dominguin, a slim bullfighter who was top man in the bull-killing set.

They met at a gay late party in 1953, and thereafter Ava was a frequent guest at his ranch. It was there that she learned to parry young bulls with a red cape.

FANCIES WANDER

When Ava left Madrid to film "The Barefoot Contessa," Luis Miguel's fancies wandered and he married an Italian movie star, Lucia Bose. Since then, no bullfighter has been able to monopolize Ava's attentions.

She now is associated closely with many at a time—and all the more famous matadors consider her a lovable mascot.

She attends almost every important fight in Spain, in whatever city it is being held. She is such an addict that she insists on sitting in the front row "barrera" below the President's box, where the bullfighters come to ask the President's permission to fight.

She sits quietly—conscious that the eyes of the old-time "aficionados" are on her.

If by chance she doesn't get the seat she wants, Miss Gardner squeezes her attractive torso in between whatever Spaniards are sitting in her favored section. It is said the Spaniards never mind sharing their chairs with Ava.

WITH HER SISTER

In the days when she was romancing one bullfighter at a time, she usually went to the fights with a handsome matador; now her co panion is her elder sister, Beatrice, who lives with Ava in the large house outside Madrid.

After the fights, she loves to attend "tientas"—which are parties organized on wealthy bull-breeding ranches where young bulls are brought out to be tested. The distinguished guests can try their luck with the cape, and eat, drink and dance till the small hours.

Never a nightclub girl in Hollywood, Ava loves Madrid latespots. She enjoys sitting in small, barish rooms with gypsy dancers in gaudy costumes, sad-faced guitarists, and bottles of the fiery liquor, "anis."

Despite her numerous, swarthy escorts, Ava has the reputation of living alone. She drives a Cadillac convertible for long hours by herself. Occasionally, she is struck by a fit of seeming loneliness and will spend $1,000 for champagne and invite friends in to consume it.

ANTIQUES AND GOLF

During the days that do not follow all-night parties, the mysterious (to the Madrid natives) Miss Gardner roams the streets, looking for antiques; or plays a round of golf at Puerta de Hierro, Madrid's most exclusive country club, or goes partridge shooting on the estates of Spanish friends.

The men who know Ava Gardner well today—if any could be said to know her well in this tempestuous stage of her life—will not talk about her. And those who only observe her from afar are not equipped to analyze.

And she has not the slightest interest—much less the time—to go into that now.

Make the Best of Life's Vacuums

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Every life has periods of emptiness when we seem to be marking time, living in a vacuum.

If I were doing a biography of a person, I would most want to know how he handled those marking-time periods. It would give the key to the whole personality.

For example, I know two girls both of whose husbands were in Korea for two-year stints. Both had small children, but that's where the resemblance ends.

Kay considered the whole business an unmitigated tragedy, and unfair at that. Her husband had been in Germany in World War II. Why did he have to go again?

She settled down to a two-year period of unhappiness and frustration. She spent her time having coffee sessions with the girls, complaining endlessly about her loneliness and the general unfairness of life.

When her husband came home, it took her some time to pick herself up. She simply wasted two years of her life.

DIFFERENT SOLUTION

Vera was faced with the same problem but she handled it in a vastly different way.

In the very beginning, she went through the same feelings Kay did —the sense of loneliness, injustice and sadness. Pretty soon, she picked herself up and decided to make the best of things.

Vera couldn't take an outside job because she had two small children.

"But after all," as she told me, "they were bedded down every evening by 7:30. I decided not to sit around and moon about my loneliness every night.

"Neither did I want to have my family and girl friends over to sympathize with me and help me kill time. I decided to put those evenings to work.

A GOOD SPORT

"George hadn't asked to be sent to Korea. He was working hard and taking it as a good sport. It seemed to me, the least I could do was to be a good sport, too.

"I had always wanted to learn how to do ceramics but had never had time. Those lonely evenings gave me the time.

"I began by lining up an aunt who had offered to help. She came in to babysit two nights a week while I went to a local adult education course and learned about making ceramics.

"Then, I fixed up a place in the basement where I could work. I began making some lovely and useful things for the house. For a small fee, I used the kiln at school.

"Before the two years were over," she concluded, "I was pretty good at it and sold a good many things. I loved every minute of it. It's now a real hobby, income-producing, too.

"George was delighted and proud of me. I must admit, I was proud of myself!"

Metropolitan Star Will Sing in Waterford Saturday

Waterford Civic Music Association will open the season with the presentation of Blanche Thebom, Metropolitan Opera star, Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Isaac Cary Junior High School.

Miss Thebom will come to Waterford in the course of her annual coast to coast tour of more than 45 cities.

A reception will be held for her at the school immediately following the concert. All members, holders of season tickets, of Waterford Civic Music Association are invited to attend. Arrangements are being made by Mrs. William Shunck and Mrs. Donald Redmond.

Miss Thebom is well known to millions of Americans for her appearances on national radio and television programs. Already this year she has given 10 performances with Sweden's Royal Opera, appeared at the Frankfurt State Opera, and given a series of concerts in Iceland for the U.S. State Department.

In addition to this schedule of performances, she will be on concert tour and performing many roles in the Metropolitan Opera Company.

AMERICAN ARTIST

A native American, she was born in Philadelphia, brought up in Ohio and educated in New York. One of the outstanding musical figures of today, she was an office worker until she was discovered at a ship's concert when she and her parents were taking a trip to her parents' native Sweden.

BLANCHE THEBOM

A fellow passenger who had been an accompanist for Marian Anderson heard her and recognized the possibilities of her untrained voice. Miss Thebom received financial aid for her studies and, because of this, she has established a scholarship of $1,000 annually, called the Christman Award, to aid young singers.

The scholarship is open to all singers working toward a professional career. The winners must pledge to return to the fund an amount equivalent to their scholarships when their earnings exceed $10,000 yearly, thereby increasing the number of yearly grants.

Miss Thebom's rich voice, her personal beauty and her wide and versatile repertoire promise to make this an outstanding concert.

Gift Candy Not Wanted by Patient

By EMILY POST

"I have just recently returned home from the hospital after having undergone an operation. Many of my friends have come to see me since I have been home and quite a few of them have brought me boxes of candy.

"My sister-in-law came in to see me the other day and she also brought me a box of candy. I have more candy now than I know what to do with and my husband and I eat very little of it.

"When my sister-in-law left I asked her please to take the box of candy she had brought me home with her for the children as we could not possibly eat all of the candy we had and I knew the children would enjoy it. She didn't want to take it but I persuaded her to do so.

"After she left, my husband said it was a very unappreciative thing to do and that I perhaps had hurt his sister's feelings. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?"

Answer: Although you obviously meant to be kind and it is scarcely a serious matter, it would have been more tactful had you offered her one of the other boxes instead of her own.

"Dear Mrs. Post: At camp this summer my young son met a boy with whom he became great friends. The boy invited my son to spend a week at his family's house, and he had a grand time.

"Should I, perhaps, write the boy's mother expressing our appreciation or send her a gift? Should this be from the family or from my son? Just what would seem appreciative and be correct?"

Answer: Write to the boy's mother and tell her how kind she was to give your son such a pleasant time; that he enjoyed every minute of it. Do not send a gift.

'Just a Minute' May Cost Hours of Precious Time

Housewife Who Can't Get Work Done Should Start Clocking Herself

By RUTH MILLETT

"I'm going to run over to a neighbor's for a minute. I should be back in an hour."

* * *

When I realized what I had just said, I laughed out loud. But it started me thinking.

We housewives always seem to be pushed for time. "There just aren't enough hours in the day," we tell ourselves.

Part of the reason why we are so often behind in our work is because we kid ourselves about the things we can do in "just a minute."

We'll interrupt our work to talk for "just a minute" to a friend. A glance at the clock when we start to dial and again when we have finally said "I've really got to get to work, goodby," would often show us that "the minute" turned out to be anywhere from 20 minutes to half an hour.

TIME SLIPS BY

We figure it will only "take a minute" to run to the grocery store. But on the way, we stop by a friend's house and decide to have a cup of coffee. The time slips by.

* * *

We are always doing things for our children which they are old enough to be doing for themselves because it will only take us "a minute." Besides, it is easier than trying to get the children to do the things themselves.

But the minutes add up.

Any housewife who doesn't have enough time in any day to get everything done she feels has to be done should start watching her "minutes."

"Leaders in Fine Home Furnishings"

From the Press Box

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Writers from all over the state of Michigan gathered Tuesday for the tremendous task of choosing the outstanding prep grid stars in all classes.

Nominations, balloting and re-balloting for seven hours brought up the names of over 500 high school players from 20,000 schoolboy gridders in the state.

When it was all over everyone sighed. They had just picked the official all-state teams to be released by the Associated Press in the final four days of November.

What makes it the official team? Simply the fact that representatives from all corners of the state presented and weighed the merits of every player under consideration.

There was a lot of room for error, but far less than if selections were made by any individual.

WAYNE-OAKLAND LEAGUE OUT OF STEP

An interesting but unfortunate note out of the long session was the fact that nary a player from the Wayne-Oakland League even got mentioned.

It seems the league has a policy which infers that everyone else in the state is out of step except the seven schools that make up the conference.

A league ruling of the principals forbids the participation of coaches in selecting honor teams. There's a feeling that any honor as such glorifies the individual.

The league has its all-star band, and any student who excels in his studies fits into an honor list, so what is wrong with giving credit to the boy who excels in his sport?

Whether the league wants to accept it or not, athletic all-star teams are here to stay.

By forbidding participation, the league also is depriving every boy of an athletic honor which could gain him recognition toward a college scholarship. Not every boy has the financial means to go through college, and if he has the athletic ability he deserves an equal opportunity with players from other leagues.

SOME CONCESSIONS TO COACHES

This year the coaches were given some concession. They were permitted to pick the top 22 boys without regard to positions as the league's "all-star" team.

It would be the same as if the voters last week would have selected a list of politicians and then told them to take any office they want.

Players selected by colleges for scholarships must have been prepped at some particular position. No school is going to throw a 4-year scholarship at just any player without knowing where he is best suited.

And let's be realistic, some players are better than others.

Parents of these boys in the Wayne-Oakland League school districts should have something to say on the matter.

Surely, there are a few boys in the league who are good or better than some of the 500 or better who received recognition in all-state selections.

But how is anyone supposed to know?

Mantle Named 'Most Valuable'

NEW YORK (AP) — If Mickey Mantle needs any ammunition for his $50,000 salary bid, he can point to his unanimous election as Most Valuable Player in the American League.

Only once before in the voting by the Baseball Writers Assn. of America has a player placed first on the ballots of all of the 24 members of the committee, three from each league city. Al Rosen of Cleveland won that distinction in 1953 when he led in homers and RBIs but lost the batting title by a point to Mickey Vernon.

Mantle's selection as most valuable was a foregone conclusion when he swept the triple batting crown with a .353 average, 130 RBIs and 52 home runs. His unanimous victory wasn't made official until the votes were opened and counted yesterday.

Actually the 25-year-old New York Yankee centerfielder won the "triple crown" of the majors for his marks were higher than corresponding figures in the National where Hank Aaron of Milwaukee won the batting at .328, Stan Musial of St. Louis led with 109 RBIs and Duke Snider of Brooklyn was tops with 43 homers. The last to lead both leagues in all three divisions was Ted Williams of Boston in 1942.

It was Mantle's first MVP award in the greatest of his six seasons at Yankee Stadium. In addition to his three big victories, Mantle finally lost out due to an extended slump in September. During most of the season he held a comfortable lead on the Babe's figures but he fell victim of Ruth's sizzling September pace of 17 homers.

Mantle's sweep and the solid second-place vote for teammate Yogi Berra emphasized again the ease with which the Yanks won the pennant. Yogi, a three-time winner in 1951-1954-19554, was second on nine ballots and third on 10. He and Mantle were the only players to be named on all 24 ballots.

The point total, figured on the basis of 12 for first, nine for second and so on down to one for 10th, found Mantle with a maximum 336 points to 186 for Berra.

Al Kaline of Detroit, the exceptional young right fielder who battled Mantle down to the wire for the RBI title and finished with 128, wound up with 142 points.

The Mantle-Berra-Kaline combination dominated the voting although 31 men were named. The Yanks led with six point-getters including Mantle Berra, Gil McDougald, Whitey Ford, Hank Bauer and Johnny Kucks.

Ted Wilhams, winner in 1946 and 1949, finished way down the list in sixth place with 70 points, mentioned by 14 of the 24 voters. Harvey Kuenn, Detroit shortstop, and Billy Pierce, Chicago pitcher, both were ahead of Williams in the point totals.

The first 10 with point scores:

1	Mickey Mantle, New York	336
2	Yogi Berra, New York	186
3	Al Kaline, Detroit	142
4	Harvey Kuenn, Detroit	80
5	Billy Pierce, Chicago	75
6	Ted Williams, Boston	70
7	(tie) Bob Nieman, Baltimore and
8	Gil McDougald, New York	55
9	Vic Wertz, Cleveland	45
10	Bob Lemon, Cleveland	40

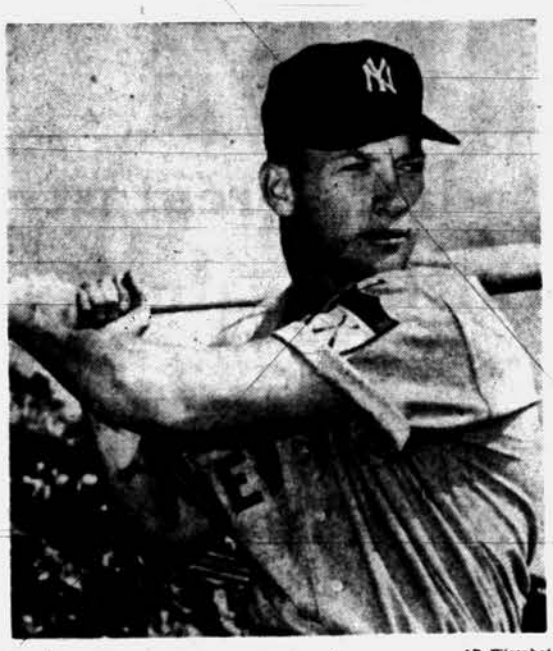
Harry Simpson, Kansas City, 37; Whitey Ford, New York, 33; Early Wynn, Cleveland, 32; Jim Piersall, Boston and Nellie Fox, Chicago, 28; Sherm Lollar, Chicago, 27; Frank Lary, Detroit and Pete Runnels, Washington, 24; Herb Score, Cleveland, 18; Jackie Jensen, Boston, 15; Mickey Vernon, Boston, 14; Tom Brewer, Boston, 11; Hank Bauer, New York and Charlie Maxwell, Detroit, 8; Luis Aparicio, Chicago, 7; Gus Triandos, Baltimore, 6; Frank Bolling, Detroit; Minnie Minoso, Chicago and Vic Power, Kansas City, 3; Johnny Kucks, New York, 2; Roy Sievers, Washington, 1.



AP Wirephoto

MOST VALUABLE IN AL — Mickey Mantle, 25-year-old batting sensation of the New York Yankees was today named the "Most Valuable Player" in the American League. Mantle was the league's triple batting crown winner the past season, leading in homers with 52, in batting averages with .353 and in RBI's with 130.

Riddled Team Meets Gophers

MSU in Need of 'Sunday Punch'

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State will need its Sunday punch this Saturday to beat Minnesota in a crucial Big Ten football test for both teams.

So State is rated third in the nation. And Minnesota 17th.

But the ratings give no clue to the things involved. Minnesota must win if the Gophers are to keep their Rose Bowl hopes alive. Michigan State must win if the Spartans are to have a shot at their first undisputed Big Ten title.

Michigan State is hurting bad injury-wise, going into this game. The loss of so many regulars was reflected in last week's struggle with Purdue. State won 12-9 but didn't look good.

The backs were being stopped at the line of scrimmage and the passing was only incidental.

There was a pall over the MSU camp too with the word that tackle Noel Jones, a standout in the line, is through with football.

"The operation was a success," reported coach Duffy Daugherty, "but we can't risk letting him play any more. His knee was just about wrecked by that injury.

Daugherty noted that Jones, a junior from Weirton, W. Va., was one of the few players who came to play Spartan football without recruiting inducements.

"He just showed up one day," he recaled. "We had never heard of him. But he gave a powerful punch to our line and was one of the big factors in the success we've had so far this season."

Jones is the third starter downed by knee hurts this season. Others are tackle Pat Burke and left half Clarence Peaks.

Nominate Dales for Bowl Battle

State NAIA Selects Team for Aluminum Game Spot

BIG RAPIDS (AP)—Hillsdale College's unbeaten Dales have been nominated for the post-season Aluminum Bowl football game over Central Michigan's unbeaten Chippewas.

The announcement yesterday by Sam Ketchman, president of the Michigan Chapter of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, was described as "a big step" favoring Hillsdale.

Ketchman said Michigan members voted 7-1 for Coach Muddy Waters' team. The only opposition vote went to Central Michigan, a new member of the NAIA.

Similar balloting will be conducted in 32 other areas through the nation, then the NAIA will make a decision as to which teams will play in the nationally televised game at Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 22.

The game, billed as the small college championship, is probably the most desired of all post-season goals for small college teams.

Swaps' Leg Healing

CHINO, Calif. —Rex Ellsworth says Swaps' broken leg is healing satisfactorily but that it is too soon to tell whether he'll ever race again.

Swaps, holder of four world records and co-holder of a fifth, was injured during a workout Oct. 9 at Garden State Park, N.J. He is still confined there but coowner Ellsworth says he plans to bring the 4-year-old California colt home "as soon as possible."

College Prexies View Football as Necessity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intercollegiate football, sometimes condemned as an intrusion on American education, was viewed by four college presidents today as a worthy institution that's here to stay.

The presidents, interviewed between sessions of a convention of the American Assn. of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities, included Frederick L. Hovde, a former star quarterback at Minnesota. Hovde now is president of Purdue.

Others were Ralph B. Draughon, Auburn; A. N. Jorgensen, Connecticut, and C. C. French, Washington State.

None would comment on yesterday's crackdown on four major schools by the Council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. They were all aware, however, of recruiting scandals which rocked the West Coast, a reported questioning policies of the Big Ten, and troubles which have hit just about every major conference in the country.

A few days ago, they had heard the head of their association, President Irvin Stewart of West Virginia University, declare recent NCAA disclosures "reveal a pattern of actions that might well be reviewed by institutions which regard intellectual integrity as a desirable attribute of their students and alumni."

Jorgensen foresaw "no serious problems" in his area. Connecticut plays in the Yankee Conference, whose members offer no aid to athletes as such.

It was Jorgensen who said football is firmly established on the college scene. "So long as it occupies the proper place," he added, "fine."

Hovde described sports as "an extremely vital part of our American environment." In any competitive system, he said, "troubles arise from those who abuse the freedoms involved."

Deer Season Opens Today

Approximately 400,000 Hunters Invade Upper Regions of Michigan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An estimated 400,000 hunters were in the woods of the deer country in the northern Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula.

All, except a few with special permits, were out to shoot a buck —a big, old male deer with antlers to brag about.

In scattered sections, where the deer are too numerous for the feed, does and fawns also were legal targets.

These included sections of Lake, Newaygo, Mason, Manistee, Wexford, Mason and Osceola counties and also Boris Blanc Island.

The Lake-Manistee county area was the most popular stalking ground for hunters with the special permits, as the conservation department issued 4,500 for the area. Bois Blanc Island had 40 permits issued.

The temperature dropped down below freezing during the night in most of the deer country. Predicted light snows produced only a light dusting in scattered areas. Only the earliest hunters could follow deer tracks through this snow since the sun soon turned it into slush.

Boxing Talent Seems Lacking for Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP) — Boxing teams from the United States, Poland, South Africa and Argentina may dominate action in the Olympic Games veteran ring expert Nat Fleischer of New York predicted today.

Individual talent seems to be lacking, Fleischer said, but most teams are better balanced than at Helsinki four years ago.

Polish team members have averaged 187 bouts each giving them a marked advantage in experience. Russia is not as strong as had been reported, Fleischer said.

Doran Aspirant for Iowa St. Job

Doran, an Iowa State end in 1949-50, was one of a flock of men reported interested in the job following the resignation of coach Vince Difrancesca.

College officials refuse comment on a successor, but they say the new coach will be named when he is selected.

Also rumored as heir after Difrancesca's three year reign are:

Carl Brettschneider, former Iowa State tackle now with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League; former Iowa State assistant coach Alex Agase; Ev Faunce of Utah State and Bob Davis of Colorado A & M.

Barr Patched for Hoosiers

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Terry Barr, numbed by aches and pains, gets by on fortitude alone these dark days as the football season wanes.

Barr just wants to play football, although his ankle hurts and he can hardly walk. His vast ability impaired by a succession of ailments that would have sidelined a lesser man, the Michigan halfback has played in every game and is determined to play against Indiana Saturday.

First it was his hip and then a charley horse and then a serious ankle sprain that puzzled doctors. But still Barr played, gritting his teeth to stand the pain.

Each day while his teammates practiced the game he loves to play, Barr was with trainer Jim Hunt undergoing treatment for one injury or another.

On Saturdays, Barr was there in action as long as possible and then running along the sidelines, begging his coaches to put him back into the game.

"I don't want to go if I can't play." Barr said before the Wolverines departed to face Iowa. took him along anyway, knowing full well he could never make an appearance on the field.

"Just his being there will help the team," Oosterbaan said.

In the 4th quarter Barr hobbled onto the field, his painful ankle swatched in bandages under a special football shoe. The Wolverines perked up. Barr returned a punt eight yards and carried the ball three times. Then he limped back to the bench.

Last week Barr played against Illinois.

His ankle still bothered him, but he limped 27 yards, shaking off tacklers along the way to set up a Michigan touchdown. His belated appearance in the game, tightened Michigan's defense which had yielded a lightning fast tally to the Illini.

"He does something to this team," Oosterbaan has said time and time again when Barr's absence illustrated the Wolverines' defects.

Now Barr, running better than he has in weeks is back to spur Michigan's drive to the Rose Bowl.

Giardello Is Back After Law Trouble

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Joey Giardello, with everything to lose, will try tonight for the third time this year to beat unranked Charley (King) Cotton in a 10-round middleweight boxing bout scheduled for the Milwaukee Arena.

Giardello is now rated third among the middleweights as he battles in a comeback campaign after clearing himself following a brush with the law in his hometown of Philadelphia. He also has a date with Rory Calhoun in Cleveland Dec. 14.

Seeks Title Try for Kenny Lane

Muskegon Fighter Wins Unanimous Nod Over Frankie Ryff

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jack Kearns is beating the drums for an early lightweight title bout for his boy, Kenny Lane, and the crafty old manager said he had $75,000 in cash for which to lure the champion, Joe Brown.

"This showed Lane is championship caliber," Kearns said last night after his battler from Muskegon, Mich., had taken a unanimous decision over Frankie Ryff of New York.

"I've got $75,000 for a guarantee to Brown if he'll fight Lane for the title in Miami Stadium in February. I'm going to get his managers on the phone and I'm sure they'll be interested."

Judge Sam Margolis and Referee Billy Regan gave Lane a 97-95 margin over Ryff in the nationally televised fight. Judge Jerry Sherrard voted it 98-92. It was 98-95 on The Associated Press card.

Win Wild Game

Canadiens Back in Gear

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The defending champion Montreal Canadiens, after a slow start, are in high gear again — which is bad news for the rest of the National Hockey League.

Only two points separate the third-place Canadiens from the front-running Boston Bruins today following Montreal's 5-3 victory over the hapless New York Rangers at Madison Square Garden last night.

Once again, it was that bad man — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who had a hand in the Rangers' downfall. The League's all-time top scorer, who gets a special bang out of beating the Blueshirts, sank his fourth goal of the season against the Rangers and the 99th of his career against them.

This goal came in the second period to tie the score at 2-2. Maurice's mates went on from there. Floyd Curry, Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau followed with three more goals to more than offset Larry Popein's third-period goal.

It was the sixth consecutive defeat for the Rangers, who are mired in fifth place with nine points for 13 games, only four points ahead of the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks.

Montreal now has a record of eight victories, seven defeats and one tie.

The game was a wild one with 13 penalties meted out. Ranger defenseman Lou Fontinato, the league's bad boy, accumulated 17 minutes in the penalty box. He received a 10-minute misconduct, five-minute fighting and two-minute charging penalty.

Recreation Leader Urges Balanced Local Program

Dr. Arthur S. Daniels, Professor of Physical Education at Ohio State University, emphasized the fact that each student has the right to expect the opportunity to develop as far as he can under the recreation and sports programs of our schools, as the guest speaker at a meeting of junior high school leaders and physical education instructors of Pontiac and surrounding areas at the Madison Junior High School auditorium yesterday.

Speaking on the topic "What a Good Recreation Program is and Does for School Children," Dr. Daniels pointed out that sports and recreation must be looked on as an integral part of the entire school program to be successful. He said the program should be well balanced for the development of all pupils physically, psychologically, and socially.

The former Illinois end coach stressed that skills are the core of such programs but added that with most persons "the reasons for learning the skill are more important than the skill itself."

He told the group that various skilled levels, adequate facilities, and strong leadership were the main factors needed for a successful program. Dr. Daniels said he favored inter-school competition among Junior High Schools although most major colleges are against it.

"I am for it if it is done in a reasonable manner with small schedules, proper coaching, and medical supervision. But I can't see putting pressure on the boys as if they were a senior high team," he commented.

Thomas W. Dodson, Supervisor of Physical Education and Director of Athletics and Recreation for Pontiac Public Schools, presided at the session. A question-and-answer period followed Dr. Daniels' talk and the meeting concluded with a dinner.

The 1956 football tie between North Carolina and Wake Forest was the second between the Schools in 53 games. North Carolina holds a 35-16 edge in games.

Bob Prall, 20-year-old Salem amateur, won the Oregon Golf Assn. medal play title for the second straight year with a 217 for 54 holes.

Coach John Kundla of the Minneapolis Lakers figures Clyde Lovellette will be a better basketball scorer this season due to his loss of excess weight.

THEY MEET AGAIN — The Rev. Bob Richards, U. S. Olympic track and field member from LaVerne, Calif., has a reunion at Olympic Village near Melbourne with Bagnar Lundberg of Sweden. The Rev. Richards was gold medalist in the pole vault at 1952 Olympics and Lundberg was third in the same event. They will meet again in the 16th Olympiad starting November 22nd.

Landy's Showing Is Poor in Practice

MELBOURNE (AP)—John Landy's miserable showing at Geelong developed into a major subject for rainy weather discussion among Olympic athletes of other nations today at the rapidly filling Olympic Village.

The world's premier miler, holder of the 3:58 world record, ran a stiff-kneed second from last in the big field of the two-mile race last night at a hometown track meet to evoke sad remarks from his fellow Australians.

But Landy still insisted he'd run in the 5,000 as well as the 1,500-meters in the Games.

He had a dedicated look in his room today as he telephoned his mother after limping about the duplex apartment.

A barricade of Australian officials kept the press away, but Landy let the outside world know "I intend to ease down slightly in my training for the next few days, but at present I intend to go on with my races at the Olympics."

Bert Guyot, Australian track and field team manager, conceded Landy's effort last night "was no help."

He said Landy suffered a "deep seated shin soreness, but he's made no arrangements for treatment." He added: "He'll be in the race. If I were a competitor I couldn't disregard him."

Landy was only one of several track stars who created an armada of groans which always echo these pre-games days.

A batch of Americans moaned whitefacedly in the mess hall, where they successfully managed to get down an excellent luncheon of steaks, that they were suffering stomach aches which they personally characterized as "food poisoning."

One of the most notable was Thane Baker, 100 and 200-meter man who many are tipping as a possible upset winner in the sprints. Baker claimed he ran last night in great discomfort as did Rafer Johnson.

However, they didn't look like invalids yesterday or today and American officials said the team was in magnificent shape.

Greeks Traditionally Lead Olympic Parade

MELBOURNE (AP) — George Roumbais, a 6-3 Greek pole vauler will have the honor of leading the Olympic athletes into Melbourne's Cricket Grounds next week in opening ceremonies for the 1956 Games.

The Greek team traditionally leads the parade of nations and Roumbais, 27, was selected to lead his contingent by the Greek chef de mission.

Player on Top at Melbourne

MELBOURNE (AP)—Gary Player, a 21-year-old South African, shot a brilliant 7-under-par 66 to take the first-round lead in the $22,500 Open golf tournament yesterday.

Player, using only 32 putts, wound up with a four-stroke lead over the international field which includes George Bayer of Grossinger, N.Y., and Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City. Most of the field had more difficulty with the greens at the Yarra Yarra Course, which drew angry appraisals from many of the entries.

Bayer, who finished with a 74 to Wininger's 73, said "these greens disgust me. The nap of them is terrific and I defy anyone to read them."

Australia's own Peter Thomson, the fourney favorite and the British Open champion, complained the whole course "needs a haircut." Thomson carded a 71 for a third-place tie.

TOP SCORER — Ron Brewer, Southfield's deceptive halfback, is Oakland County's 1956 scoring champion. Brewer made 21 touchdowns and two conversions in nine games for a total of 128 points to lead all high school gridders in the county.

Brewer, Ballman Scoring Kings

Elusive Ron Brewer of Southfield and flashy Gary Ballman of East Detroit are scoring kings for 1956 in Oakland County and area respectively.

Brewer, swivel-hipped halfback for the Bluejays, topped all high school point-makers in Oakland County with 21 touchdowns and two conversions in nine games for a total of 128 points.

The fleet-footed Ballman, who operated at halfback for the unbeaten-untied Shamrocks, led all area prep scorers with 24 touchdowns in nine contests for 144 points.

Brewer and Ballman proved that their scoring championships were not flukes by tearing off huge totals of yardage during the season.

The ever-dangerous Brewer carried the ball 153 times and gained 995 yards for an average of 6.5 per try. His 128 points were more than half of his team's total of 230.

Ballman amassed 1,042 yards rushing for an average of 10.9 per carry. His 144 points were also better than half of the 267 compiled by the Shamrocks.

Following Brewer in the Oakland County scoring race was big Jim Kearney of Bloomfield Hills. The hard-running Kearney scored 86 points on 13 touchdowns and eight conversions.

Sven Blomberg, Avondale's chunky halfback, chalked up seven touchdowns in the last three games to catapult into 3rd place. Blomberg's 14-TD total was good for 84 points.

Classy Lyndon Salathiel of Waterford finished 4th with 13 TDs for 78 points, followed by Rochester's terrific threesome of Dave Peters, Dave Eldred and Fred Weaver, who scored 77, 67 and 66 points respectively.

Doug Storey of Lake Orion came next with 61 points. Walled Lake's great John Walker was next in line with 56 points, followed by teammate Don Yeargan and Orchard Lake St. Mary's Terry Raymond, who scored 54 points apiece. Tom Kollin of Clawson had 52 points, including a field goal.

Trailing Ballman in the area race for scoring honors was Almont's Alex Iloncie, who recorded 18 touchdowns for 108 points. In 3rd place is the brilliant Tom Wilson of Lapeer with 91 points on 14 TDs and seven conversions.

Imlay City's Orill Frantz accumulated 87 points for 4th spot. John (Scott) Fowler of Romeo scored 66 points, East Detroit's Eugene Picard made 60, and Bill Avery of Dryden had 52.

U. S. Plays Yugoslavians

MELBOURNE (AP) — The United States today drew the powerful Yugoslavian team as its first-round opponent Nov. 28 in the Olympic soccer tournament.

The new draw was made necessary by the withdrawal of Red China from the Games. Only eight teams will vie for the title won last year by Hungary. The Hungarians are not defending their championship.

Expect 45,000 for Miami-Clemson Tilt

MIAMI, Fla. —A crowd of 45,000 to 50,000—largest of the season to date — is expected tomorrow night when Miami entertains Clemson College in the Orange Bowl.

Miami, tied by Georgia and denied a possible bowl bid when the NCAA failed to lift the suspension still standing against the Hurricanes, hopes to do some bowl spoiling in this one.

Clemson, unbeaten but tied by Florida and Maryland, hopes to hold the inside track for an Orange Bowl bid as Atlantic Coast Conference representative.

Bielat Leads MSU Frosh

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State found it had a perfection passing football quarterback late yesterday.

The only trouble is he won't be eligible until next season.

He passed for two touchdowns and set up another with a throw.

Voted most valuable by the frosh themselves was Tom McNealey, a tackle from Arlington, Mass.

The complete roster of MSU frosh from Michigan:

Japs Improved but Lack Power at the Plate

TOKYO — Japanese baseball players have improved their batting but they still need more power, Brooklyn Dodger third baseman Jackie Robinson believes.

"They look stiff and lack flexibility," he stated in an interview.

"I think they ought to eat better food, particularly more milk and meat."

Robinson praised the caliber of Japanese teams and players who defeated the Dodgers four times and tied them once in a 19-game tour of Japan.

The first contingent of Dodgers was to leave for the States tonight. Robinson will be with the second group leaving Friday.

"I think Japanese professional baseball is in AAA class," he said. "I know it has made great progress."

Off the Grapevine —

The grapevine, along with the crystal ball which so often led it astray during the 1956 high school football season, has been stowed away by The Pontiac Press sports department until another year.

For the 1st time since the season began, Bill Cornwell bested his colleagues in the art of picking gridiron winners.

Cornwell missed four out of 15 choices last weekend while Bruno Kearns and Guy Moats each muffed five. All three crystal ball gazers were thrown for a loss by Utica, Holly and Lakeview.

A total of 109 games were picked off the grapevine with Kearns coming out on top with 76 wins for a .760 percentage. Cornwell edged Moats for 2nd place, getting 69 right for .690. Moats had 68 correct for a percentage of .680.

Eight games ended in ties and were not figured in the tabulations.

Fines, Jail Sentences for 2 Deer Hunters

CEDAR SPRINGS (AP)—An early start on the deer season brought two Cedar Springs men into justice court Wednesday on charges of illegally shooting a six-point buck. It cost them nearly $175 in fines and costs and a jail sentence.

Walter Laurich, 28, and James Babylon, 22, both of Rte. 3, Cedar Springs, were found guilty by Justice Fred Weaver of shooting the animal in an Algoma Township farmer's front yard.

25 State Preps Go Unbeaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty-five Michigan high school football teams wound up the 1956 campaign with undefeated records.

Flint Northern's state Class A champs are undefeated in eight games, but have a Thanksgiving Day date with Flint Central.

One team finished the season, untied and unscored on! But there's a catch: the team is Lawrence, playing football for the first time. And the Lawrence club played only one game, beating Saugatuck 13-0.

No team playing a full schedule was unscored on, but Paw Paw came closest, giving up a touchdown to South Haven and a safety to Mattawan.

Three "newcomers" to high school football made the list, compiled for the Associated Press by Dick Kishpaugh of Kalamazoo. Frankenmuth made the grade in its second year of football, Oscoda in its 3rd year and Mt. Clemens St. Louis in its 4th.

It's been a long time since some of the teams came through with unbeaten records. Hudson (9-0) had its first unbeaten club in 50 years. Sault Ste. Marie, East Detroit and Grand Blanc (each 9-0), and Boyne City, Manchester, Mendon, Paw Paw, Lake Shore, Walled Lake, Lincoln, Coleman and Mesick are others who came back into the select group after a long absence.

Flint Northern—providing the Vikings aren't hit by the upset bug—will be on the list for the first time since 1950, a state title year for Northern. Bay City St. Joseph last appeared on the list 10 years ago.

Five teams dropped from the unbeaten ranks last week. They are Dearborn Sacred Heart (13-19 by St. Alphonsus); Detroit Western (0-15 by Detroit Denby); Romeo (0-27 by Utica); Parma (25-27 by Concord) and Berrien Springs (0-7 by Buchanan).

Here's the list of the unbeaten teams, their points and points scored against:

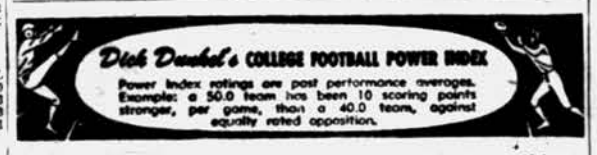
THURSDAY'S GAMES

Minneapolis at Syracuse
Boston at Ft. Wayne
Rochester vs. Philadelphia at Hershey



By DICK DUNKEL

Apparently there's no longer any speculation about whether or not Oklahoma, the nation's No 1 college football team, will win its forthcoming games.

The question is simply by how many points the Sooners will take them.

Last week the Power Index rated them 47 points better than Iowa State, and the Okies responded, 44-0. This week, looking for their thirty-eighth consecutive triumph, they'll be at home to Missouri and, on the record, they are 31 points stronger than the Tigers.

Meanwhile, second ranking Tennessee will have its hands full with Ole Miss. The Rebels will be storming Knoxville next Saturday and the undefeated home forces rate only a nine-point edge.

Other national leaders show the following Power Index differences over opponents of this week-end:

No. 3 Georgia Tech, 20 over Alabama; No. 4 Michigan State 7 over Minnesota; No. 5 Texas A & M, 13 over Rice; No. 6 Michigan, 24 over Indiana; and No. 7 Iowa, 2 over Ohio State.

In other week-end games the past performance comparison is as follows:

East — Syracuse 19 over Colgate, Pitt 3 over Army, Penn State 20 over N. C. State, Navy 12 over Virginia, and Princeton 4 over Yale.

Far West — So. California 10 over Oregon, Oregon State 24 over Idaho, Stanford 6 over Washington, UCLA 16 over Kansas.

Our Air Force of the Future

Guided Missiles With Atomic Weapons to Be Major Striking Power in 10 Years

BIGGEST MISSILE — The Redstone is shown, soaring into the stratosphere.

SMALLEST MISSILE—The Falcon is designed for use in air-to-air combat by the Air Force.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A peek at the U. S. Air Force 10 years from now, given by its top brass, reveals a radically altered fighting force in the making.

Pilots will be obsolescent, with guided missiles performing close to three-quarters of their missions.

The first family of atomic and chemically powered planes will be growing obsolete.

Only atomic ammunition will be in use.

AF units will be widely dispersed in very small groups. A big percentage of civilians will have combat-type AF assignments.

This future look at the Air Force comes from reports made at the 10th Anniversary celebration of the Air Force Association.

Since becoming an independent service the Air Force has grown from 306,000 men to 910,000 men. The 25,000 aircraft it had have been replaced by jets and newer planes. For example, the B29—the best bomber then—has been successively succeeded by the B50, the B36, the B47 and now by the 600-mph B52.

There are 131 wings—with 137 the goal—as compared to 63 wings.

The AF budget has zoomed from $1.2 billion to $17.7 billion.

Within the next decade guided missiles will be performing at least 50 per cent of the missions of the Strategic Air Command and 30 per cent of the missions of the Tactical Air Command, according to Maj. Gen. Richard C. Lindsay, a top AF operations officer.

tal ballistic missiles will take the SAC assignments. So will new air-breathing missiles, powered by conventional jet engines.

In planning missle bases "we are utilizing the principles of dispersion and hardening," Gen. Lindsay reveals. "Hardening," he explains, "is construction of a base so that a direct attack by an atomic weapon will not destroy more than one-third of the facilities or capabilities."

Only isolated bits of information have leaked out about new chemical power for aircraft to be used in radically new engines. But it's believed that chemical planes will be flying about the same time as atomic-powered planes are ready.

Both of these developments will be having severe competition from the guided missiles.

All missiles, from the smallest air-to-air rocket to the ICBM, are being made to carry nuclear explosives.

The increasing civilian character of the Air Force, even intruding into combat units, is already apparent. Food services are being taken over by civilian contractors, for example. So is pilot training.

At even the most distant foreign bases the number of civilian technicians is increasing. This is to compensate for relatively low military pay and the increasing need for technicians because of the complexity of the weapons.

It is also reported that intercontinental missiles will some day be based at the plant site where they are finally assembled. In this case the only AF officer is the one who pushes the button.

Eventually missiles will account for 90 per cent of all missions, he says.

Manned planes will remain in use longer for TAC's missions. They will do pinpoint bombing for such things as close troop support. Missiles are inherently more inaccurate. But they are more adaptable to SAC's strategic bombing which requires area damage rather than accuracy.

Intermediate range ballistic missiles and 5,000-mile intercontinen-

Choose Low Man for Bridge Project

LANSING (AP) — Fresh Construction Co. of Iron River was low bidder on a bridge construction project in Mackinac County, the State Highway Department said today.

The company entered a low bid of $196,726 on construction of a bridge to carry the relocation of M134 over the Pine River 14 miles northwest of Hessel.

Iron Company Fights Assessment in Court

LANSING (AP) — The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. today asked the State Supreme Court for leave to appeal from a 1952 franchise fee assessment.

The company, which has extensive holdings in the Upper Peninsula, is disputing a 1952 assessment of $114,236 plus an extra assessment of $62,667.

The Michigan Corporation tax appeal board set the assessment but the company has been fighting it through the courts for the past three years.

Asks Freedom From Two Wives in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — David Hunter wants a Detroit court to free him from marriage—twice.

In a circuit court petition, Hunter said that his first wife told him after they had been married for 10 years that she had obtained a divorce.

He married again. This time his second wife and he became separated after 10 months. Then he found out that his first wife had never really divorced him.

He's asking the court to annul the second marriage and grant him a divorce from his first wife. No children are involved by either marriage.

Marine Renton Given Penalty

Trial of 19-Year-Old Tells Truth of Recent Cruelty to Recruits

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Frederick A. Renton, accused of more than a dozen cases of striking and maltreating recruits at this sprawling Marine base, pleaded guilty at his court-martial trial yesterday to two specifications of the charges against him.

Several more charges remained against the 19-year-old New York City youth as the trial entered its second day.

Renton admitted forcing privates Robert A. Palaisa and Clement R. Ploof Jr. to suspend themselves on their elbows and toes while the point of a bayonet was held under their stomachs.

Renton was accused of holding the bayonet himself in the case of Palaisa while another recruit, Edward R. Juneau Jr., allegedly was forced to do it in the case of Ploof.

Another trainee, Joseph W. Androlowicz, testified that he beat another recruit on the instigation of Renton.

Pvt. Harry Dunevapt told the court that he was beaten up in a shower room. He testified that though he was "dazed and bleeding," Renton, who was the noncommissioned officer on duty at the time, refused to see to it he got medical aid.

Pvt. B. C. Howe of Northampton, Mass, testified that he was hit twice in the stomach for being slow in taking his mattress out of a barracks to air.

Since charges have been filed Renton has been reduced in rank from corporal to private first class and has been restricted to the base.

Weighty Case

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—An attorney came into court pulling his youngster's coaster wagon—on it 150 pounds of papers in a suit the attorney filed. Atty. Roy Seagrave had to have one copy for each of 438 defendants in an action to establish a right of way through a new subdivision.

Dies as Son Scores

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Death tapped R. W. Vollmer as he sat in the stands rooting for his 14-year-old son, a junior high halfback, to make a touchdown. Vollmer, 49, an avid football fan, was stricken seconds before halfback Russell Vollmer plunged over for the score.

May Replace Soap

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A detergent bar may soon replace the old-fashioned cake of soap, says Richard R. Deupree, chairman of the board of Procter & Gamble Co. It "makes lovely lather," he said, and leaves no ring in the bathtub.

Backs Home Financing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Albert M. Cole, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, said today, "We have now reached a point where we must not risk a continued drop-off in the availability of home financing." He declared it's his belief the government must act affirmatively to see that housing production is protected. 5

Globe 'in Ferment,' Dulles Says

Terror in Hungary Marks Reds' Return to Stalinism

WASHINGTON (INS) — Central Intelligence Director Allen W. Dulles says that "the world is in ferment" and that Russia's rulers seem to have returned "to the days of ruthless Stalinism."

The nation's intelligence chief, making one of his rare public appearances, said the Free World faces "acute crises" in Egypt and other Arab states. He said similar crucial situations exist in Hungary and Poland.

Dulles, in an address before the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, cited four top global problems in connection with his statement that "to say that the world is in ferment is to put it mildly."

He enumerated the problems as:

1. "Revolt against the last vestiges of colonialism."

2. "Uprising within the satellite states of Europe against Moscow domination."

3. "The all-out attempt by the Communist bloc to sell its theories and its wares throughout what we call the uncommitted areas of the world."

4. "The conflict between the Free World and its program of building up a society based on the principles of freedom and the attempt by the Communist bloc to make over the world in its image."

Dulles declined to predict the outcome of the Middle East crisis.

But, he said, the U. S. knows "with reasonable accuracy the hardware which the various contestants in the Middle East have available to put into the struggle if the uneasy cease-fire should be broken."

Dulles added that in the case of Hungary, the U. S. knew what forces the Soviet had available and approximately where they were located to throw into that country to put down the spontaneous uprising of those brave people if the Soviet finally elected, as they did, to take the course of ruthless oppression."

Luce Warns Against Appeasing Russia

NEW YORK (INS) — U. S. Ambassador to Italy Clare Boothe Luce warns that America faces a third world war if it appeases the Soviet Union.

The ambassador, en route to Washington for two weeks' consultation, called for a "firm" U. S. foreign policy in the Middle East that will "satisfy all the legitimate aspirations" of both Egypt and Israel.

"I think," she said, "if we go to another Munich with Soviet Russia, a third world war will then become inevitable."

About one-fifth of New Hampshire's total area is under cultivation.

Russia Believed to Be Gambling

'Volunteer' Offer Seen as Dangerous Attempt to Dominate Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is believed to be making a dangerous gamble for very high stakes with its offer of "volunteers" to assist in Egypt's struggle against Britain, France and Israel.

The danger is that large-scale Soviet military intervention in this vitally important area of the world, even through the device of volunteers, could lead to a conflict that would touch off World War III.

President Eisenhower told a news conference yesterday that the United States would back the U.N. in any steps to oppose entry of Russian or Red Chinese "volunteers."

He did not say what precise steps might be contemplated. The U. N., he said, "is not by any manner of means limited to resolutions."

The prize which may be luring the Russians on is ultimate domination of the region. The men in the Kremlin may see the present confused and uncertain conditions in the region as an opportunity to try for a strangle hold on the flow of oil, the sea lanes and the air bases that make the Middle East one of the most strategically important pieces of geography anywhere.

Giant Redwood Tops Them All, Students Claim

ARCATA, Calif. (AP) — Humboldt State College students today said they had found a new tallest tree in the world.

Founders Tree on U. S. Highway 101 near Dyerville, Calif., long has been recognized as the tallest at 364 feet.

Now students at this school which specializes in forestry conservation report there is a giant redwood in Bull Creek Flat near Dyerville which they measured at 368.7.

They said another tree in Bull Creek Flat measured 354.

And, they added, they remeasured the Founders Tree at only 347.7 feet, deflating it to the world's third tallest.

Baby Attendant Goes to Prison

Woman Is Convicted of Killing Two Infants by Shaking Them

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—Baby attendant Virginia Jaspers, her blonde hair awry and her pale face red and tear-streaked, was led from a courtroom yesterday to begin serving 10 to 22 years in prison.

A big woman (she weighs 220 and stands six feet), she entered the courtroom smiling, and joked with attendants.

She sat with her plump arms folded tightly over her blue sweater as a state's attorney read her confession. She heard, in her own words, of the "uncontrollable urge" that made her grasp 11-day-old Abbey Kapsinow by both arms, press her thumbs against the tiny chest, and shake the child violently.

That was last August. She did the same to 2-month-old Jennifer Malkan in 1951. Both died. Police said she admitted killing a third in 1948 — too long ago to allow prosecution.

She heard her own words, the closest she ever came to offering a motive: "I guess I was angry in my own mind because they wouldn't stop crying."

Then she turned and started to walk back to where her parents were sitting, and her control broke.

Boy Handcuffed Proves to Be Officer's Loss

If you are 7 years old, like Sammy Garcia, and on your way home from school, you snap one end around one wrist.

Along comes Ronald Davis, 12, who snaps the other end around a garage door handle.

They unlocked Sammy and the garage door, checked the serial number on the handcuffs and found that officer Richard Cullinan had lost them while on patrol.

Transplanting Teeth Successfully at UM

ANN ARBOR (UP)—The transplanting of live, human teeth and their successful storage in "tooth banks" is the goal of a University of Michigan research team.

Dr. James K. Avery, project director, said if the study is successful, it could lead, in certain cases, to elimination of artificial bridges for lost teeth.

"We know it is possible to transplant teeth in humans," he said. "It has been done successfully in selective cases of young adults by other members of our team. But there are still problems to be solved."

Along with its huge production of bituminous coal, West Virginia is also a considerable agricultural state. It produces about $5 million worth of alfalfa annually in addition to other crops.

All-Steel Airliners in High-Speed Future

NEW YORK (UP) — Tooling engineers in the aircraft industry are dreaming up new ways to shape and fabricate steel to build an all-steel plane capable of breaking the thermal barrier where aircraft must encounter extremely high temperatures.

"Steelways," official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said that, at speeds of 2,000 miles per hour, many designers are convinced that steel is the only material known that can withstand the scorching 600 degrees that weakens the structural parts holding the wings stiff and the fuselage together.

The magazine said that it is almost a certainty that future commercial airliners, capable of flying from New York to Los Angeles in 90 minutes, will be all steel.

President Ousts Councilman

Fire Romeo Official

ROMEO — Councilman William Totten was fired from his position as chairman of the police commission this week by Village President Ray Mellen, who charged "failure to cooperate" with other police commissioners and the rest of the village council.

The ouster action stemmed from two main issues upon which Totten differed primarily with Mellen.

One was the proposed closure of Sisson street to heavy traffic, now awaiting a ruling from the state Attorney General's office.

The other was the recent Totten-sponsored proposal to end village rubbish pickup in the business district. The proposal won council approval by a majority vote.

The Sisson street closure and ban on trucking on four other streets, now being enforced, was authorized while the village president was on vacation last summer.

"Mellen's prime objection is to the initiative taken by myself on street and police problems," Totten said today.

Ironically, Totten is acting as acting village president in the absence of Mellen and the president pro tem, Lynn Posey, both of whom are deer hunting in northern Michigan.

Totten, as a member of the Romeo rescue squad, shared in two emergency runs within an hour yesterday afternoon. He operates a restaurant on North Main street, across the street from one operated by Mellen.

Face for Another Decade

Farmers Must Meet Surplus Challenge

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Agriculture will be faced with the surplus problem for another decade, a speaker predicted at the 38th annual convention of the California Farm Bureau Federation yesterday.

Arthur Mauch, extension specialist in agricultural economics at Michigan State University, said in a prepared address that although the nation's population has more than doubled, we are producing too much.

He predicted total surpluses of all farm products will be close to 6 per cent of the annual production rate 10 years from now.

"Farm prices will have to adjust to these conditions," he said. "The average price decline for all agriculture products will be near 8 per cent."

Mauch said farmers must face the economic facts of life, explore alternatives and make wise decisions.

"This is a real challenge for farm organization members and their elected leaders," he said. "How well farmers meet this challenge will determine how well farmers will live in the next 10 years."

Commerce Has Own Firehall

Final Purchase Action Ends Months of Details; Move in Trucks

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The Commerce Township Board last night officially completed the purchase of a fire department building from the Oakley Park Volunteer Fire Department Association. The action was taken at the board's regular monthly meeting in the township hall.

The township board signified its intention of buying the building several months ago. However, several legal measures had to be taken before the actual purchase could be consummated.

The township fire department will house the fire truck obtained from Walled Lake in the Oakley Park structure. That truck came back to Commerce Township after Walled Lake received delivery of a new fire truck for its own station.

Romeo Woman Mashes Hand in Cornhusker

ROMEO — A Romeo woman's left hand was mashed yesterday afternoon in a corn husking machine while she was helping her husband and their son in a field on their farm at 13420 E. 29 Mile Rd.

The hand was amputated later at a Mt. Clemens Hospital.

Mrs. Katie Lawrence, 35, had been picking corn by hand when her son, Gerald, 17, called for her help with the shucker mechanism of the farm implement, which had jammed with two ears of corn.

When she reached in with her gloved hand, her arm got caught. Her husband immediately stopped the motor, but neither he nor the son could release her arm.

She was freed when the Romeo rescue squad and state troopers of the Romeo post arrived.

She was rushed by ambulance to the St. Joseph Hospital, Mt. Clemens.

Air Test Equipment Lands in Backyard

Arrangements were made today to return the equipment to General Mills, Inc., which has been filling the air with similar balloon carried apparatus to obtain samples of high-altitude air.

The load, released by its balloon, parachuted to earth Tuesday night, landing in the backyard of a Watervliet home. It broke a few telephone wires but caused no other damage.

The Minneapolis firm has been conducting research for the government with its balloons carrying scientific apparatus across most of the Great Lakes region.

Public Works Cost 60 Million in 9 Years

WASHINGTON — Figures made public by the Labor and Commerce departments show that State and local governments combined spent a total of almost 60 billion dollars in capital outlays on public works in the 1947-55 period. ROOFING THEIR CHURCH—Members of the White Lake Presbyterian Church had a roofing bee Saturday to speed up their building program, and these men clambered up and down ladders for the day-long project. With 30 men taking part in laying of plywood to cover seven classrooms, two offices, a new heating plant and an addition to the kitchen, they reduced costs. Expected total will be only $50,000, says Mel Miller, in charge of fund raising.

U.S. Army Puts Spiders to Work

Strands From Webs Form Cross Hairs in Precision Sights

WASHINGTON — Black widow spiders are spinning webs for the United States Army—and saving the government thousands of dollars each year.

Kept in jars and fed on flies, the notoriously venomous spiders docilely produce nets of dark strands for use as cross hairs in telescopes, microscopes, gunsights and other instruments.

The black widow was selected for military service over other species because of the strength and elasticity of her web, which has been found capable of withstanding compressed-air blasts of up to 90 pounds.

FEMALE DOES THE WORK

Spiderwebs, made largely by the dominant female, come in all shapes and textures, says the National Geographic Society. Threads range from invisible single fibers to combined lines woven into snares heavy enough to entangle a snake or a mouse.

In all, there are some 25,000 known species of spiders, each with its own style of web.

The black widow's weave is coarse and irregular, with a central tunnel where she lies in wait for victims. A member of the poisonous world-wide genus Latrodectus, she is fond of setting up housekeeping in dark, protected spots in and around human dwellings. Though she attacks man only on accidental contact, her bite is excruciatingly painful and occasionally has proved fatal.

Even stranger is the way of the bolas spider. Swinging from a loose trapeze line, she draws from her abdominal spinnerets short lengths of thread that she finishes off with a sticky ball of silk. With these she "lassoes" passing insects, and draws in her prey.

The raft spider ties leaves and twigs together with silken strands and sails the open pond on the finished craft. Underwater spiders make small domed tents of waterproof silk.

Man, too, has made odd use of spiders' work. From ancient times webs have served as health charms and remedies for disease. Applied to wounds, they checked blood flow. Primitive South Pacific peoples still make strong spider webs into fishing nets, bags and headdresses.

Rochester Copes With Growth

President Stresses Incorporation as City

(Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles describing Rochester's swift growth.)

Importance of the plan to incorporate Rochester as home rule city was emphasized by Clarence M. Burr, village president.

It is vital that Rochester should remain as the center of most of the business, social, religious and recreational activities of the community," he pointed out. "Rochester is better fitted, government wise, to cope with the current growth and the problems it brings than is the township.

"It was necessary to extend the present village boundaries in order to offer an opportunity for growth under proper city services and controls. We now have some 40,000 people in our immediate trading area. This will increase very soon to 70,000."

President Burr cited the many new subdivisions and shopping centers which are springing up on all sides. The Wrigley center in the northern part of the community is perhaps the largest. Others are on Livernois and adjacent to other subdivisions.

"It is our aim to preserve Rochester's character as a friendly wholesome, attractive and progressive community," said Burr. "We are proud of its history. We want to be proud of its future.

"One of our biggest problems is lack of recreational facilities. We are making a start with our new civic center. There are other tracts that might be acquired later to add to the recreation program, possibly a baseball field for children. The village's present baseball field could later become an industrial site after another field had been provided."

Mr. Burr has served on the village council for 10 years and is serving his third consecutive term as president. He is enthusiastic about Rochester's potentialities. "We have adequate water and a presently adequate sewer system, though we will have to enlarge the latter soon," he said. We are practically debt free.

"Our parking plans, when completed, will enable all who wish to come into Rochester to shop. All our metered parking spots will be within two and a half blocks of any downtown business place."

President Burr called attention to Rochester's churches. "Our village is the center of the community's religious life," he said. "There are five churches on Walnut Street within two blocks. Incidentally this creates a real traffic problem on Sundays. However, several of these churches are planning on new buildings in new locations.

"St. Andrew Catholic Church is planning to build a new church later on its new 27 acre site in the northern part of the village, where it already has an elementary school. It is also planning an addition to the school.

St. John Lutheran Church School also is growing rapidly. This church and school have been built recently.

"Regardless of what our older residents feel," said Burr, "nothing can stop the growth that lies before us. We may lose some of our village atmosphere, but we will retain all that is possible of it."

Burr is manager of the Rochester plant of Ray Industries. This sand, gravel and charcoal distributing company employs 15 men in its Rochester plant, which lies halfway between Rochester and Utica on Avon Road. It contracts for its trucking, which represents some 150 more men.

Ray Industries owns a "Hot-Glo" charcoal manufacturing plant in Ontario. In addition Ray is distributing agent for Dow Chemical Co.'s charcoal. It is also owner of the largest specified gravel plant in the world at Oxford. This plant is leased and operated by the American Aggregates Co.

Tomorrow — Outside area is growing rapidly.

Field Joins School, Community

"Closer school-community relations and a paying proposition are the results of Avondale High School's athletic field expansion," says Athletic Director Frank Crowell.

Having just completed the first full football season with the lighted field and the second full season with bleacher seats for spectators, Crowell has released figures to back up his conclusions.

"We had an average of about 1,000 people to each of our five home games this season as compared to an average of around 200 spectators in 1953 and 1954," Crowell declared.

He further pointed out that a good share of the spectator increase is due to a greater number of adults attending games now.

"Many people, who were formerly unable to come to the games, are now giving vent to their natural desire to follow the school's fortunes on the gridiron," according to Crowell. He further pointed out that "it is desirable to have the community share in the school's activities in a close relationship, as they are now able to do by attending night football games."

Financial data also indicates that night football is a success at Avondale.

Crowell points out that the admissions receipts for the game that gave Avondale the first league championship in its history in 1953 amounted to $50. This year the average income has been $500 per game. Over $800 was taken in at the gate in the season opener this year.

Average figures per game for 1954, in a championship year but before bleachers or lights, was estimated at $130. Last year, after the bleachers and lights were installed, the estimated average was $400 a game.

Income from the games is now being used to pay off the $60,000 bond issue which the Avondale Board of Education floated in order to finance the lights and the 1000-seat bleachers.

The bonds should be paid off in 10 years, according to Crowell.

Bleachers were installed with the lights last fall; the lights to enable more people in the community to come to the games, the bleachers to give the spectators a better chance to see the action.

Bleachers were also deemed necessary to adequately enjoy band formations and other pregame and halftime entertainment.

Other recent improvements include an electronic scoreboard and a refreshment stand, both also for the convenience of the fans.

Long range planning by Mr. Crowell calls for more bleachers, a track, and a fence completely around the field. He also feels that "receipts would be higher now with a fence." Increased attendance is the reason given for the plans for a larger seating capacity.

Pan-Am Airways Runs Ten Flights on Paper Weekly

NEW YORK (INS) — Pan-American Airways is operating ten "ghost" flights a week to South America from New York.

The imaginary "flights" are being carried out entirely on paper, and involve trial runs, in theory, of the plane Clipper J, a DC-8 jet transport which Pan-American will be receiving in 1959.

The "ghost" flights of Clipper J are charted as though they were actual, so that when the jets do go into service the airline will be ready.

Daily, weather charts are prepared and flight plans laid out in accordance with wind velocities, directions, temperatures and other conditions expected aloft.

A regular "schedule" has been set up for Clipper J, with departures from New York at 8 a.m. and from Caracas at 7 p.m. These "flights" are all on paper, as "dress rehearsals." Later, similar "rehearsal" flights may be extended to take in Rio de Janeiro and possibly Buenos Aires.

It is the belief of PAA engineers that with these "paper test" flights they will be ready for potential problems that can be expected when the jet Clippers go into actual service.

Need 45,000 Signers to Acquire Acre of Land

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Highway Department may have to get signatures of 45,000 persons who own a portion of one acre of land needed as a highway right-of-way near Anadarko.

Sold in two-square inch lots at $1 per lot, the land was used to raise funds to construct an amphitheater.

Wes Wyatt, president of the Redman Land Co. which sold the tiny lots, quoted highway representatives as saying a quit claim deed signed by him and a "dedication deed" by the former owner might clear the property for the state purchase.

Hollywood Headlines

Jimmy Stewart Expects Film Business to Change

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Does the movie business have a future? James Stewart thinks so, but he adds there'll be some changes made.

Stewart is worth listening to. After all, he's a No. 1 star at the box office. Despite his casual manner, he's a keen student of things cinematic. Probably no actor in the postwar period has earned more from movies than he.

Jimmy was the pioneer of the 50 per cent deal. When his salary got too big for Universal-International, he was offered half of the returns for his services in a picture. Since most of his films attract multimillion-dollar grosses, this proved profitable indeed.

"The picture business has got to change," Jimmy reflected on the "Night Passage" set. "We've got to make movie going more attractive for the average public.

"That means we've got to have more comfortable seats, better air conditioning, more attractive theaters. We've got to make going out to the movie theater a real treat for the family."

The biggest bore, he opined, was going to the movie house and being unable to get in.

"There's nothing that sours a movie goer more," he said. "I think we've got to think about having a reserved seat policy, the same as legit houses. When people go to the theater, they want to know they're going to be able to find a seat."

As a matter of fact, much debate is going on in theater circles on the same matters Stewart brings up. The trade journal Variety has raised the issue that many theater owners are poor housekeepers and have allowed their theaters to get run down.

New Health Officer for Eight Counties

CADILLAC (AP) — Eight Western and Central Michigan counties will get a new health officer after being without one for more than two years.

Dr. Max Cook, 36, of Charlotte, has been named to the post covering Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Benzie, Kalkaska, Wexford, Crawford, Missaukee and Roscommon counties. Dr. Cook was formerly health officer for Eaton County for 4½ years.

The eight-county area has been without a health officer since the death of Dr. Clare Merritt who held the post last.

Court Dismisses Charge Against Phone Solicitor

DETROIT (AP) — Because state laws on false advertising don't cover telephone solicitations, Recorder's Judge O. Z. Ide said he had to dismiss the case against a 29-year-old woman yesterday.

Judge Ide said he would recommend that the state legislature include telephone advertisements in state statutes which he said cover all other types of advertising media.

He dismissed a false advertising charge against Mrs. Joyce Mae Holt of suburban Highland Park. She was accused in the charge of luring customers to her photographic studio with false promises, made over the telephone.

Judge Ide, while dismissing the case, said "this method of doing business is phony, unethical and designed to prey on unsuspecting persons."

Memory of 'Badger' Lingers On—and On!

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maldonado heard something move in their bedroom. They called Maldonado's brother Manuel. After inspecting a portable closet, Manuel said:

"It must be a badger. Badgers bite. We'll have to kill it."

The brothers pressed against the closet door to squeeze the animal to death. But the badger turned out to be a skunk. The skunk died. But the memory lingered on.

Senator Learns Reverse Politics

Dem Church of Idaho Found Party Arguing With GOP Dad

By MARTIN WALZ

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — If Frank Church's father had been a Democrat, young Frank might have wound up as a Republican senator from Idaho.

But the elder Frank Church was a staunch Republican. And today his handsome son is a Democrat and will be the youngest member of the Senate when the 85th Congress convenes in January.

Church is a lanky, dark-haired lawyer who looks even younger than 32. Making good use of an engaging grin, a firm handshake and a polished speaking style, he beat Republican incumbent Herman Welker by some 50,000 votes in the general election Nov. 6.

Church says he started along the road to the Senate when he was in junior high school and his father, who loved to argue politics, used him as an opponent.

Besides being taken to hear both sides of politics at party rallies, young Frank had to bone up on Democratic principles and background to hold his own in the friendly family debates.

"By the time I was a senior in high school, I was a converted and confirmed Democrat, much to the amazement of my father," he said.

By then, too, he had decided he wanted to become a senator.

His father, a Boise merchant, died in 1950.

When he began campaigning this year he was practically unknown outside of Boise.

He got into his car and traveled at least 30,000 miles — not counting plane trips and travel with others.

His theme in the primary, in which he beat three other Democrats, including former Sen. Glen Taylor, was:

"Let's build Idaho and get away from the leadership which has kept it dormant these last 10 years."

Laws Completed, City Needs Police to Enforce Them

EAU CLAIRE, Mich. (AP) — This southwestern Michigan town of about 500 persons which for five months had a policeman but no laws to enforce, now has laws — but no policeman.

For two years city elders worked on a new set of ordinances to replace the old set which unexplainably "disappeared."

At the same time they approved the ordinances, the village councilmen fired the town's only full-time policeman, James Alford. They said they couldn't afford his $3,600-a-year salary.

Alford had no comment.

Taylor-Todd Take Vacation in Florida

"I may never work again," Miss Taylor said when she and Todd flew to Miami from New York.

Tonight they planned to attend a Southern premiere of "Around the World in 80 days," a Todd production. They said they hoped to get a "few days of rest" in the Miami area.

Todd, 48, said he did not know when he planned to marry Miss Taylor, 24. "She hasn't asked me yet," he added. He called his gift "a friendship ring."

Miss Taylor sued British actor Michael Wilding for divorce yesterday at Santa Monica, Calif. She charged mental cruelty. The actress asked custody of their two children, Michael, 3½, and Christopher, 1½, and $250 a month for their support. She waived alimony but a property settlement dated July 27 will give her a large, undisclosed amount.

Forged Sheriff's Name to Cash Bogus Check

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Maricopa County Sheriff L. C. Boies is looking for a daring forger who cashed a $64 check in a Phoenix supermarket. Here's how the man signed the bogus check:

"L. C. Boies, Maricopa County Sheriff."

Detroit was the capital of Michigan for 10 years, from 1837 to 1847.

Tiny San Marino May Become Haven

WASHINGTON — The world's smallest republic, San Marino, founded 16 centuries ago as a sanctuary for persecuted Christians, may become an atomic-age haven for precious paintings, books, and other irreplaceable cultural works.

A member of UNESCO, tiny San Marino was one of the first to ratify a new convention which provides protection for cultural property in the event of war.

San Marino is a nation within a nation, the National Geographic Society says. Its 13,000 people see more of Italy from their mountaintop than their own 38 square miles of territory. Yet that land has been theirs since the time of the Roman Empire.

A Christian stone-cutter named Marinus is believed to have fled from the Dalmatian island of Arbe to the Apennine mountains in northeastern Italy. There, atop three-pronged Mount Titano, safe from the Roman inquisitors, he and his followers established the state which bears his name.

"We do not want an inch of others' lands," said Marinus, "and we will not give up an inch of ours." True to their saint's maxim, the San Marinese have successfully resisted all assaults on their freedom. Their refusal even to annex a piece of neighboring land temptingly offered by Napoleon may explain why they escaped swallowing up in the Italian unification.

The new United Nations agreement involving San Marino seeks to immunize museums and monuments from attack. Shelters also will be built for movable works of art.

When the San Marinese ratified the agreement, they offered a shelter which was already built, tested and ready for use. It's a deep tunnel, nearly two miles long, through which a railroad formerly ran to the Italian city of Rimini, 11 miles away on the Adriatic coast. No longer in use, the tunnel withstood a severe bombing in 1944 when several nearby buildings fell and many people were killed.

Except for this foray into films the San Marinese have lived a peaceful life marked only by the physical ups-and-downs of their hillside existence. Primarily a peasant people, they export cattle, wine, building stone, and stamps.

Though the bombing shattered the illusion, San Marino still gives the appearance of invincibility. Topped by three mighty citadels strung together with thick walls, craggy Mount Titano once was rented in its entirety by an American film company for use in a movie about the Borgia clan. The scene's authentic medieval look imparted reality to a spectacular battle in which the defenders clouted the Borgia men with rubber-knobbed war clubs and drenched them with boiling oil (dry ice and water).

Heavy Selling Lowers Grains

CHICAGO (AP) — A heavy burst of selling swept into grains on the board of trade today, forcing all cereals lower.

An overnight improvement in the international situation, halting the war scare buying of commodities, was an important factor in the downturn.

But there were other reasons for selling, including a threat of a shipping tie-up from a strike and sharply lower government supports for 1957 crop corn.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ to 1⅛ lower, December $2.38, corn ¾ to 1⅜ lower, December $1.38, oats ⅜ to ⅝ lower, December 78¼, rye 1¼ to 1¾ lower, December $1.53½, soybeans 1⅝ to 2¾ lower, November $2.52 and lard 5 to 20 cents a hundred lower, November $12.95.

First U.N. Police Reach Canal Zone

Egyptian diplomatic sources there still declined to discuss the report. There was a complete blackout on information at the Egyptian Embassy there. Requests for confirmation or denial of the report were met by "no comment" or "no one is available who can discuss this matter."

Before the vanguard's takeoff the international force at Capodichino had swelled to 467 men of four nations — Denmark, Norway, Colombia and Canada. More are to come, with the force finally totaling perhaps 10,000.

There still was no word of a clear-cut agreement on the exact task of the police force in Egypt. This apparently remained to be worked out by U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, who left New York last night for Rome and Cairo.

Takeoff of the first units had been stalled two days by technical and political difficulties. The departure came on urgent orders from Hammarskjold, who acted shortly after a report from Moscow that Egyptian President Nasser had asked the Soviet Union to send to Egypt immediately the thousands of Russians who reportedly have "volunteered" to join the Egyptians against the British, French and Israelis in Egypt.

Before leaving New York, Hammarskjold said his mission was "to do what I can to assist setting up and getting going a United Nations emergency force in Egypt."

"It is the first experience of its kind," he told reporters. "It is the first truly international force. Let us hope it will succeed. Let us hope we will succeed in establishing peace and order."

Squarely confronting the U. N. operation were the conflicting stands of Egypt and Britain, France and Israel on the role of the police force.

Egypt demands that the British, French and Israeli invasion forces withdraw immediately, that the U. N. force take up positions along the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice lines, and that Egypt resume full control of the Suez Canal.

Britain and France say their troops now holding the north third of the Suez Canal will give up that area only to the U. N. force. They also have indicated that they expect the U. N. to put the canal back into operation and to control it until a settlement with Egypt.

Israel has given every indication it will not pull out of the Gaza Strip, which had been under Egyptian control since the end of the 1948 Palestine War. The strip was seized after Israeli forces plunged into Egypt Oct. 29.

Passing on the outside lane last night resulted in a two-car collision injuring one passenger Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said.

She was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for minor bruises.

The other driver, Maxwell D. Dunlap, 33, of Oaklawn, Ill. admitted, deputies said, he was passing on the right side on Auburn road east of Opdyke road. When the road narrowed, Dunlap said, he braked, pulling his car into the side of Reynolds'.

Average Tax Figures

CHICAGO — According to Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business lag, the average American family paid a total of $3,030 in federal income taxes over the last six years. The average American family's personal income during the six-year period totaled $30,690, or $5,115 a year, and Uncle Sam took 9.87 per cent in direct income-tax bites.

Santa Fe Architecture Stirs Fight in Old City

SANTA FE, N. M. (INS) — Santa Fe, N. M., the oldest capital in the United States, faced a fight today involving "progress versus charm."

Santa Fe, the ancient city of dusty old adobe walls and narrow dirt streets, has long attracted tourists interested in history, romance and an atmosphere which can best be described as "charming."

But there are many who think it ridiculous to keep bumpy streets and antiquated systems. There are many who object to the adobe-type house, where brick would be more utilitarian.

These believers in "progress" point out that with just a little bit of work in Santa Fe it could be made into just as nice a town as, say, Albuquerque.

The believers in "charm" fight the "progressives" on every front. Every time an old tree comes down, or a historic house is demolished, this particular segment of Sante Fe comes to life with indignant vigor.

The most recent "Save Santa Fe" alarm was sounded as leaders of the movement helped draft an ordinance patterned after laws now in effect in Carmel, Monterey and Santa Barbara, Calif. The law would control the style of new buildings, make them stick roughly to the three types of "Santa Fe Style" — Pueblo, Hacienda and Territorial.

ARCHITECTS IN ARMS

But even before the proposed law got to the city planning commission, a well-organized local group of architects polished up arguments against what they termed the principal of restrictive style.

A spokesman for the group said: "It implies that the best that can be accomplished in Santa Fe has already been done. Such an ordinance would be against the tradition of Santa Fe, a tradition of growth, development, change and progress. If there had been a restrictive style ordinance in the 1700's, this progressive development would not have occurred."

The slogan of the progressives became: "Let us be free to build history, not archeology."

The planning commission attempted to work out a compromise measure and recommended to city council some sort of law that would set up the ordinance as a compromise measure. It recommended to the council that the ordinance apply only to the older section of town.

INCONGRUOUS

This drew immediate criticism from those who felt it would result in the incongruity of old adobe in one block and glittering chrome in the next.

Mass meetings were called, speeches made, new groups organized, and some public-spirited citizens started a fund for the preservation of old Santa Fe.

The net result was that the planning commission is now reconsidering the ordinance that would place all new building plans before a special committee for action.

And while the commission reconsiders, an uneasy peace lies over the historic city. Predictions are that the proponents of "charm" will win the ultimate battle, for, Santa Fe actually has changed little in 600 years.

Says Russians Plan to Step Up Farm Output

ROME (INS) — Experts of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization report that the Soviet Union is planning huge increases in agricultural production by 1960.

In the "Monthly Bulletin of Agricultural Economics and Statistics" FAO specialists report that the U.S.S.R. plans to increase its meat production by 100 per cent, its milk production by 95 per cent and its output of eggs by 154 per cent.

Information gathered by FAO shows that methods to achieve this agricultural increase seem to be inspired by what Soviet farm leaders saw in the United States during their visit last year.

Main items in Russia's new bid for bigger farm production include greater use of mechanization and less rigid and centralized planning.

In its attempt to achieve greater mechanization of agriculture, the Soviet Union plans to step up its output of tractors from 163,500 in 1955 to 322,000 in 1960, and of combines from 48,000 to 140,000.

The Russians also expect to increase rural electrification by 120 per cent, the FAO report indicates.

'Average Man' Visits Russia

Seeks 'Average Ivan' but Can't Surmount Soviet Red Tape

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—A movie-type "average American" who went to Russia to find his Soviet counterpart came away with a frendly wave to the Russian people and a juicy Bronx cheer for their leaders.

The term "red tape," Bill Kennedy, an irrepressible, 31-year-old businessman, declared today, must have been invented by the Russians.

He actually tried to get his "average Ivan" off Soviet soil and back to this country to appear on NBC's "People Are Funny" TV show, which bankrolled the international stunt.

"But I want to stress one thing," the impudent, energetic Kennedy said in one of his rare serious and motionless moments. "The Russian people I met were helpful, friendly, cooperative and hospitable.

From the first day that Kennedy landed on Soviet soil as a special emissary for video performer Art Linkletter, he began angling — at which he is obviously adept—to get Mr. average Russian through the Iron curtain—if he found him.

He found his man all right. The Kremlin saw to that. But the hand-picked "average" Muscovite turned out to be Viktor Sergeievich Guriev, a gray-haired 60-year-old engineer at the Molotov Poliographic Combine, which prints Russian encyclopedias.

Kennedy spent 10 days rushing futilely from ministry to ministry to agency to bureau to what have you trying to oil the tracks for his average man's departure from Russia.

"I ran over to the American embassy and asked for a special visa that wouldn't require my boy to be fingerprinted. The man there just smiled and said if I got a Russian to go, they'd arrange the visa."

Finally Kennedy wound up being sent to Intourist, which handles all tourist matters in Russia, to see a Mr. Moulin.

"That took two days," he said, "and right away Moulin gave me the business about fingerprinting and said Russia couldn't submit one of her citizens to such humiliation.

"I let him talk himself out and then told him about my deal for the special visa. He went into a state of shock. I went out to get a haircut, which was a doozy, by the way, while he conferred with his bosses.

"When I came back he told me it would be unfair to the average Soviet citizen to select one individual and free him from the fingerprinting requirement. He said I'd have to make arrangements to change the law for all Soviet citizens before they'd consider letting my man go to America."

That tore it as far as Kennedy was concerned. He settled for making some films of the inside of Guriev's home and boarded a plane for home.

Can You Tie It? Men Wore Cravat to Bed in '80s

The University of Michigan's Clements library has a volume entitled "The Art of Tying the Cravat," which was published in New York in 1793. Author H. LeBlanc wrote:

"Those who are accustomed to sleep in the cravat should be most careful in examining whether it be loose. In all cases of organic diseases of the heart, or large vessels, it should be entirely prohibited."

Loose ties also were urged by LeBlanc "before the commencement of study, or any important business."

A yank on a man's tie wasn't considered a very funny joke in LeBlanc's time for he also wrote: "The greatest insult that can be offered to a man is to seize him by the cravat. In this place, blood only can wash out the stain upon the honour of either party."

State headquarters of the National Foundation said county chapters now have received $250,307 in additional funds from March of Dimes money to supplement local funds. In addition, 76 respirators, five hot pack machines and 23 rocking beds were distributed.

Electric Shock Victims Make One Deadly Mistake

Nearly 1,000 innocent victims walk "the last mile" to death by electric shock every year in the United States.

A miscarriage of justice?—not at all, for they are victims not of a jury's verdict, but of their own or someone else's lack of knowledge. They lose their lives not the electric chair but in whatever everyday pursuits electric power is a factor, and though they are guilty of no crime, these unfortunates are just as dead asthough they had been strapped in the electric chair and the current turned on.

Nearly every day we read or hear about someone who has committed unpremeditated suicide by ignoring the inexorable laws of electricity that separate the quick from the dead.

Recently a young woman in Chicago was electrocuted when she picked up the cord of an electric fan while mopping a floor. The cord was frayed and the floor was wet—a deadly combination.

Every year a few unthinking citizens decide to enjoy the convenience of a radio, hair-dryer or sun-lamp while taking a bath. And every year some of them have their lives snuffed out when the appliance falls into the bathtub. For when a person is sitting or shock is hundreds of times more powerful than a dry surface, according to L. C. Meyer, electric system specialist.

QUICK THINKING

Quick thinking can often mean the difference between life and death when electric power is running wild, Meyer says. Recently four young men in the midwest were riding in an automobile when a live power-line fell across the top of the car. One by one the group jumped clear of the car, being careful not to be in contact with the vehicle and the ground at the

Bison Cut Trail Now at Parkway

Natchez Trace Winds 450 Miles Over Route Indians Followed

WASHINGTON — On Natchez Trace, where early frontiersmen stumbled in fear and darkness, American motorists speed today with an ease unimaginable 150 years ago.

The 450-mile Natchez Trace Parkway, which memorializes the wilderness path that once linked Nashville, Tenn., with Natchez, Miss., is almost half finished. It follows as closely as possible the route of the original trail, much of it now almost obliterated.

BISON BUILT FIRST

The original builders were bison, says the National Geographic Society. Returning year after year to favorite feeding grounds and salt licks, they beat many paths with their hoofs. The Indians linked the paths and soon there was a trail, snaking like a slack thread around treacherous swamps and impenetrable clumps of forest.

In the early days people called the passageway Chickasaw Path for the Indians that trod it. It was also known as Notchey Trace for the "notched" trees that marked the route, as well as Natchez Trace—"trace" coming from the French word for track or line of footprints.

By 1800 Congress had established a post road over the route. Settlers used it, too, on their way west. But the principal users were the "Kentucks," the flatboatmen who floated cotton, sugar, and flour down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to New Orleans.

Because they couldn't push their boats upstream, the rivermen sold them in New Orleans and walked 500 miles home—25 miles a day or three weeks in all—over Natchez Trace.

They used to bet on beating the post rider to Nashville. "Walking" Johnson, known as the greatest pedestrian of his day, actually did beat the mail three times.

Soviet Bosses Greet Gomulka

Polish Leader Given Full - Scale Reception at Moscow Depot

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's top leadership turned out today to give a full-scale reception to Wladyslaw Gomulka, jailed as a Polish Titoist during Stalin's regime and now the spearhead of Poland's drive for equality with Moscow.

(Earlier this week it was believed that Khrushchev was in Budapest, seeking to help establish the Hungarian regime of Janos Kadar on a firmer footing.)

Subjects to be taken up during the delegation's visit include the ate with Warsaw Pact members for the withdrawal of Soviet troops from their countries.

Warsaw reports said it was unlikely Gomulka would demand the withdrawal of all Soviet troops from Poland.

Also expected to be discussed is a reported Russian offer of a million tons of grain to help meet the Poles' agricultural crisis.

Observers here believe Gomulka will be able to talk on equal terms with the Kremlin leaders. He was named head of the Polish Communist party during the October unrest in Poland.

African Natives to Americans

Scotman's Plaid 'Infects' Other People

WASHINGTON—When "brither Scots forgether" on high occasions, the proper dress is nothing short of a kilted tartan.

Such, indeed, is the Scotsman's pride in the plaid that it has infected other people around the world, says the National Geographic Society. On her current African tour, for example, Princess Margaret was greeted in Mombasa, Kenya, by a piping band of ebony-skinned Gaels, resplendent in whirling plaid.

* * *

Pipers and drummers in the new army of Pakistan wear plaids of nearly every section of Scotland along with turbans from every part of Pakistan. In Singapore another new pipe band, comprised of Malay, Indian, and Chinese dock workers, has ordered a brand new tartan, designed especially for it.

"NEW SCOTLAND"

Similarly, Nova Scotia recently became the first Canadian Province to acquire its own authentic tartan. Because a plaid does not become a tartan without official approval, Province officials applied for—and won—the necessary nod from the Court of the Lord Lyon, Her Majesty's Register House in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Classed as a district tartan, Nova Scotia's new emblem may properly be worn by all the inhabitants of the province. Clan tartans are meant to be worn only by chieftains and the families under them. A clan member may wear his district and family colors together.

Although, historically, district tartans are believed to have preceded clan tartans, the orgins of both are lost in antiquity. The early Highlander wore a loose tartan garment known as the breacan-feile. He draped it over his shoulders and belted it in at the waist. Then at night he had only to remove the belt to make a blanket of the tartan. The Standard Highland garb of today, the feile beag or little kilt, devolves from the lower part of this earlier dress. The shoulder drape now is pinned on separately and is called the plaid.

The use of specific tartans as clan symbols did not develop until the 17th or 18th century, and no formal records were kept of the designs as in heraldry. To make matters worse for genealogists, the Highland dress was banned by law after the Scottish rebellion in 1745.

RALLIED TO TARTAN

Hated as it was, the Disarming Act had this in its favor: it solidified veneration for the old dress. To thousands of Scots who fled to new homes in America and to the many more at home, Lowlanders as well as Highlanders, the outlawed tartan became synonymous with Scotland—the symbol of nationality, a badge of bravery.

When, in 1782, the men of the bens and glens were allowed to wear their ancestral dress again, many were confused over the choice of tartan. Eventually, the tangled genealogy was unraveled. Today the firm that tailors to the British Royal Family lists more than 450 tartans, each associated with a family or organization.

The setts (patterns) vary considerably, and the colors range from bright hues to mellow blends. All the tartans are rich enough, however, to make one Scotsman's warning to his people apply to anyone. When the "heart doesn't warm to the tartan," he cautioned, "it will be as cold as death can make it."

Mexico City Grows Up With Tall Buildings, Autos

Like so many large cities throughout the world, Mexico City has witnessed a great many changes in the last ten years.

An article in a recent issue of a national magazine points out that burros loaded with wood that used to plod by the Palacio de Bellas Artes, in the center of the city, have disappeared. Now, endless lines of cars stream by the Palacio, giving the impression that Mexico City has become a metropolis or long rat race.

A number of colonial buildings are now gone or have been modernized, while skyschapers have sprouted up—like the Torre Latino Americana, an office building across the street from old Sanborns. Mexico City today is a busy metropolis with a profusion of flowers along streets, in parks, and around hundreds of sparkling fountains.

There are dozens of spectacular buildings in the city, but almost everyone immediately notices one in particular because it is decorated with a huge mural whose colors shine in the sun. This big mosaic depicts tthe culture of Mexico and covers the twelve-story library building from top to bottom on all four sides. It is the work of the famous artist and revolutionary Jaun O'Gorman.

Ten years ago, the big problem in Mexico City was finding good restaurants. They were few and far between, the old stand-bys being Sanborns for American food and a handful of Mexican or European places. Today, there are at least a dozen restaurant-bars with excellent French or European cuisines and more than 50 restaurant-bars specializing in all kinds of good food from American to Yucatan.

* * *

Where to stay presents no problem at all, for some of city's newest and highest buildings are luxury hotels, and there are many fine older hotels.

Oil Royalty Drops With Production

LANSING (AP) — Royalties received by the state from public land leased to oil companies dropped from $1,400,000 in 1952 to $650,000 this year, the State Conservation Department reported today.

In 1955, oil production totaled more than 11,200,000 barrels, but that was the lowest output since 1934.

This year, production will total about 10,500,000 barrels. Gas production dropped to seven billion cubic feet in 1955, compared to an output of 24 billion cubic feet in 1947.

In 1951, more than 900,000 acres of state land was leased to gas acreage is only about 225,000.

British Salute NBC Network

Ruth Hussey Will Play the Bette Davis Role in 'Old Acquaintance'

By JACK O'BRIAN

British Broadcasting Co. is saluting NBC's 30th anniversary with a radio show tonight starring Sirs Laurence Olivier and Ralph Richardson, Alec Guinness and Joan Greenwood.

American stars Joan Crawford, Charles Coburn, Tyrone Power and Lloyd Nolan and a young lad named Sir Winston Churchill are also taking part in the London broadcast.

MONEY COMES FIRST

NBC assigned Jess Oppenheimer (ex-Lucy brains) to create a format for Nanette Fabray . . .

In England, it's "The 64,000 question." No mention of dollars, because the 64,000 is sixpence . . .

If at first you don't succeed item: Westbrook Van Voorhis (March of Time narrator, etc.) had 14 roles in stage flops in three years . . .

NO CONTROVERSY

Carroll Wins on Third Try

Proves Irish Blood in Fighting Comeback for Senate Seat

DENVER (AP) — Colorado's senator-elect, Democrat John A. Carroll, should be ready for any battles that develop in the coming session: he's Irish and he can bounce off the ropes.

He proved that by getting elected to the Senate after he was beaten twice before. What's more, he knows Washington. He served two terms as a representative and became a close friend and adviser of President Truman. In his four years in Congress he was known as a liberal.

Carroll's election a week ago yesterday in a state favored to go Republican helps to give the Democrats their slim majority in the new Senate. He defeated Republican Dan Thornton, golfing friend of President Eisenhower, by nearly 8,000 votes.

The new senator said he intends to "strengthen and support President Eisenhower's program when I feel in good conscience it is in the best interests of the West and the nation."

"I am going to Washington not to obstruct but to watch very carefully what moves the administration makes," Carroll said in an interview.

He said he plans to work closely with Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) "in carrying out an investigation of big corporations of the country which I think are fixing prices and doing great damage to our free enterprise system."

Carroll termed his win over Thornton "a sweet victory" after losing in 1950 to Republican Eugene D. Millikin, whose seat he now moves into, and Republican Gordon Allott in 1954.

Carroll, 55, and his wife Dorothy have a daughter, Diane, attractive blonde graduate of University of Colorado, who has been a clerk in the Denver District Court this year.

Convicts Smash Legs, Break Is Futile

BUFORD, Ga. (AP) — Five Rock Quarry Prison convicts involved in a fresh outbreak of self-mutilation did not claim they were protesting alleged brutal treatment or oppressive working conditions, the state prison director said.

Jack Forrester, director of the State Department of Corrections, said the two smashed their legs Monday with 20-pound sledgehammers. Three others, he said, were prevented from smashing theirs by foremen.

He quoted one as saying he "thought it was the nearest way out of here."

The five Negro convicts broke away from a work force while returning to the quarry from a rest period, Forrester reported. He said they hid behind a rock from tower guards and grabbed sledgehammers to smash their legs.

Convicts have been separated from their hammers during rest periods since last July, when 41 inmates mutilated themselves in a two-day outbreak of leg smashing.

Could This Be Example of Feminine Logic?

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—"What time does the next bus leave?" a woman asked Otis Smythe, bus station owner in suburban Fairborn.

"Where to, ma'am?" he asked.

"None of your business," she snapped.
