New Englanders Cast Their Ballots

SLEIGHING TO POLLS — William G. Walsh and family, of Dublin, N. H., are typical of New Englanders who went to the polls yesterday in the nation's first presidential primary of the year. Deep snow kept some voters away, however.

Heavy Snowfall Seen for Tonight by Weatherman

The weatherman is predicting a heavy snow by late afternoon with an accumulation of 2-5 inches. The forecast for tonight is colder with a low of 18-22.

High tomorrow will be near 30 degrees with occasional snow flurries. The outlook for Friday is mostly cloudy and continued rather cold with a chance of additional snow.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 29 degrees. The thermometer registered 32 at 1 p.m.

Man Acquitted in Dixie Killing

Mississippi Is Freed in Shotgun Slaying of 33-Year-Old Negro

SUMNER, Miss. (AP)—Elmer Otis Kimbell was acquitted of murder late yesterday in the shotgun slaying of a 33-year-old Negro.

"I wasn't sure justice would be done," said the 35-year-old white Glendora cotton gin operator, "but I should have known."

A 12-man, all-white jury, made up mostly of farmers, deliberated more than four hours before freeing Kimbell.

Two witnesses testified they saw Kimbell blast Clinton Melton three times with a shotgun Dec. 3 at a Glendora service station.

Witnesses said the shooting was an aftermath of an argument between Kimbell and Melton over gasoline to be put into Kimbell's car. Kimbell testified that Melton cursed him during the argument.

Defense Atty. J. W. Kellum said Kimbell fired the fatal shots in self-defense. Kimbell said three shots were fired at him before he opened fire, one wounding him in the shoulder. He showed a scar and brought in a doctor who verified the gunshot wound.

WITNESSES DISAGREE
But neither Lee McGarr, white owner of the service station, nor George Woodson, Negro who said he witnessed the slaying, said they saw or heard Melton fire. No weapon was found on Melton's body or in his car.

The trial took place in the same courtroom where half-brothers J. W. Millam and Roy Bryant were found innocent six months ago of the murder of 14-year-old Emmett Till, Chicago Negro.

Kellum was one of five defense attorneys in the Till case.

Dawson Admits Larceny Count

Former Auto Dealer Enters Plea of Guilty Prior to Trial

Former Lake Orion auto dealer David P. Dawson, 32, pleaded guilty to larceny by conversion today just before his trial was to begin in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Dawson was arrested last June 23 on a warrant obtained by the Universal CIT Credit Corp. which bought vehicles from the factory for sale by the dealer who was to return the wholesale price to CIT.

The firm claimed Dawson owed them $87,146, although $28,862 was specifically claimed in the warrant. It alleged the dealer had sold four sedans, three station wagons, nine trucks and one tractor between Oct. 27, 1954 and May 13, 1955, without paying CIT for them.

Dawson, who has three sons, lost his dealer's franchise shortly after his arrest.

Besides larceny by conversion, Dawson was charged with embezzlement and concealing mortgaged property. The last two counts were dismissed today, said Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem.

Dawson is free on $7,500 bond pending sentence April 9 by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams. Larceny by conversion can bring up to five years in prison or a $2,500 fine.

Summerfield Repeats Hike Plea to Congress

WASHINGTON (INS)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has called on Congress again to increase postal rates and stop burdening American taxpayers with subsidies for commercial mail.

The administration bill which Summerfield was supporting in his testimony before the House Post Office Committee would increase rates on second-class mailing of newspapers and magazines by about 15 per cent while boosting other mail rates by smaller amounts.

Georgi Off to Britain

MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi Malenkov left by plane for Britain today to tour British power stations. It is the former Soviet Premier's first trip to the Western world.

Since he resigned the premiership in February 1955, Malenkov has been a deputy premier and minister of Soviet power stations.

6 Win Contracts to Erect, Equip Safety Building

Bids Top First Estimate by $49,401 as Officials Approve Builders

Bids totaling $49,401 more than the estimated $750,000 for the new Public Safety Building were unanimously approved last night by the City Commission.

The city had estimated $750,000 for the proposed building but accepted a combined six-section bid of $799,401 for the edifice which will contain police headquarters and jail, plus municipal court offices.

The general architectural trades contract was awarded to J. A. Fredman, Inc., of Pontiac. The bid was $556,665.

The contract for mechanical trades was won by Jack Skitch of Royal Oak who bid $134,199 with the understanding that the proposed pistol range, a boiler and air conditioning for the building be eliminated.

City Manager Walter K. Willman told the commissioners the work could be completed in 1957 at the estimated low bid with the jail section included, or the contract could be awarded without the jail, lowering the cost considerably.

He added that the amount of $49,401 approached what the city paid the county for use of the Oakland County jail and for transporting prisoners to it.

Willman said $575,000 could be made available this year with the balance coming from 1957 funds.

Commissioner Floyd F. Miles questioned whether the present two-story system at the City Hall could not be used for the new building thus eliminating the one boiler to be installed.

Leo J. Heenan, architect for the building, along with Willman, explained that this would not be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Restore Dems' 49-47 Margin in U.S. Senate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The Democratic 49-47 margin in the U. S. Senate was restored yesterday when Gov. William C. Marland appointed William R. Laird III to temporarily fill the seat of the late Harley M. Kilgore.

He will serve until a successor is elected in November and sworn in next January.

Wilson Supporting Nixon for Vice President in '56

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says Vice President Nixon is the best man the Republicans can offer as a running mate to President Eisenhower. Wilson indicated his vice presidential preference in a question-and-answer exchange yesterday after he had addressed the National Press Club.

"I am sure that I know the vice president better than any possible candidate who would do as well," he said.

Wilson said flatly that he himself is not a candidate for Nixon's post and that "it doesn't sound right to me" to dump Nixon, a move some political informants say is developing.

Wilson replied simply "yes" when asked whether he expects to be Secretary of Defense under the next President.

He also said he doesn't think he "would be in character as Defense Secretary" to make any campaign speeches for President Eisenhower.

Britain Resents 'Meddling' of U.S. in Cyprus Dispute

LONDON (AP)—Regiment against the United States—including charges of American meddling—boiled up among Britons today over the Cyprus issue.

But the Foreign Office indicated a surge of tension between the two governments had eased.

The Foreign Office said it has "no criticism to make" of the U. S. State Department's stand on the dispute between Greece and Britain over the future of the British island colony.

The State Department denied last night the United States was taking sides and offered to help find a "fair and just solution."

This conciliatory declaration was issued in Washington after British anger was sparked by a statement of U. S. Ambassador Cavendish Cannon to Greece yesterday.

Cannon expressed to the Greeks, who want to annex the restive island, "the sympathetic concern of the U. S. government over recent developments in Cyprus."

The statement was the target of furious attacks in almost all British newspapers. Most of them viewed the envoy's remarks as outright meddling.

There was an hour-long discussion today of the United States position on Cyprus by U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich and Minister of State Anthony Nutting. The Cyprus issue was up for debate in the House of Commons today.

Meanwhile, in Cyprus pro-Greek terrorists shot and killed a British police sergeant and seriously wounded a Cypriot policeman today in the heart of Nicosia.

A Greek civilian bystander was wounded slightly by the two bursts of automatic gunfire which rattled through a main street of the British island colony's capital gripped by a general strike for the fourth day.

Terrorists also set fire to a school at the village of Karavass where a huge American radio monitoring station listens to broadcasts from behind the Iron Curtain. The school was gutted.

Gives All-Out Endorsement to Californian

Vice President Gets Heavy Write-In Vote in New Hampshire

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower said today he would be happy to have Vice President Richard M. Nixon as his 1956 Republican running mate and indicated that the matter is settled.

He told a news conference anyone who doesn't know what he means now in regard to Nixon can't understand the plain, unvarnished facts.

Mr. Eisenhower said he told the vice president, apparently at a private meeting yesterday, what he was going to say today.

The President's dramatic endorsement of Nixon came after the 43-year-old vice president rolled up a big write-in vote in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary election.

Speaking in emphatic, emotional terms, the President said anyone who tries to drive a wedge between Dick Nixon and himself might just as well try to do the same with his brother.

He said he is very close to Nixon and would be happy to be on any political ticket with him.

The statement appeared to end—finally and irrevocably—any question that Mr. Eisenhower was considering "dumping" the vice president.

The President said he will have nothing more to say on the subject until the Republican convention next August.

When a reporter checked the President's comment about his being happy to be on any ticket with Nixon, Mr. Eisenhower replied crisply that he had said the same thing last week.

But his comments today were much stronger than a week ago when he said he had asked the vice president to "chart his own course."

Mr. Eisenhower strongly indicated today that the course has been charted and that Nixon definitely will be on the Republican ticket in November.

The first question asked at the President's weekly news conference was whether he had any comment on Nixon's surprising write-in vote in New Hampshire.

He replied with a smile that apparently there are lots of people in New Hampshire who agree with what he has said about Dick Nixon.

Hospital Wing Bonds Approved

$2,900,000 Issue OKed by City Commissioners for Expansion

The City Commission last night unanimously approved the issuance of $2,900,000 worth of general obligation bonds to finance the addition to Pontiac General Hospital.

The figure is $100,000 below the original $3,000,000 estimate because bonds in this amount have become void because their retirement date will have been reached before the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission gives approval to the issuance of the bonds.

In another resolution passed by the commissioners, Director of Finance Oscar Eckman was authorized to make application to the Lansing financial group for permission to issue the bonds.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said the deduction of $100,000 would be compensated for from $105,000 authorized in the 1955 city budget.

Between Nov. 2, 1954 when Pontiac voters approved the bond act, and expected state approval, the retirement date of April 1, 1956 is expected to be passed, making the $100,000 worth of bonds void, Willman said.

He stated that after approval by the Municipal Finance Commission, the bonds will be advertised for sale after bids are taken.

Skin Diver Locates Body Beneath Cooley Lake Ice

A skin diver swam for three minutes under the ice of Cooley Lake this morning to recover the body of an ice fisherman who drowned last night.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Jackson voluntarily lowered himself into 12 feet of icy water after Sheriff Frank Irons declined to order him under the ice.

Jackson recovered the body of 32-year-old August Vangeloff of White Lake Township, reported missing last night after an evening of ice fishing on the lake.

Sheriff's deputies Donald W. Fauser and Donald K. Kratt, on patrol last night, found Vangeloff's wife, Mary, weeping hysterically in her car beside the lake at 11:10 p.m.

She told the deputies her husband was to have joined her in the car when she flashed the car lights over the lake at 10 p.m. Investigating Vangeloff's tracks in yesterday's fresh snow, Kratt found he had not left the lake. His coat, hat and fishing equipment were discarded beside the hole he had cut in the ice.

After dragging operations by deputies and White Lake Township firemen failed to recover the body, Jackson volunteered for his icy swim.

According to his wife, Vangeloff recently received treatment for mental illness and had attempted to take his life three months ago.

Peron Wants Duel

PANAMA (AP)—Juan D. Peron, ousted president of Argentina, has challenged his successor, provisional President Pedro Aramburu, to a duel. Reporters were shown a copy of a registered letter addressed to Aramburu suggesting the duel be held on the Argentine frontier. Peron said he had read news dispatches in which Aramburu described him as a "coward" and suggested meeting on a field of honor "if you have doubts as to my personal valor."

House Splits on Two Michigan Aviation Hassles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Michigan aviation hassles, one involving a jet base, the other a proposed switch of commercial airline operations, erupted into sharp words on the House floor yesterday.

Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich.) set off the first dispute, drawing rebuttal from Rep. Meader (R-Mich.), by demanding that the Defense Department seize Detroit's Willow Run Airport for military purposes.

Then Rep. Knox (R-Mich.) assailed the House Armed Services committee for voting to shift a proposed jet fighter base from Kalkaska to Manistee County. Both are in the northern sector of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Kalkaska is in Knox's district. Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich.) has sought for two years to have the base built in her district, which includes Manistee County. She listened while Knox read his 11-page speech, but said nothing afterward.

Lesinski's arguments centered around a recommendation by President Eisenhower's air coordinating committee that airlines now using Willow Run should move to Detroit—Wayne Major Airport, main commercial air terminal.

Lesinski said he has asked Secretary of Defense Wilson to seize Willow Run so that military air activities may be concentrated there, as proposed by the President's committee.

Lesinski, in an obvious reference to Meader, added: "When one congressman can say for four million people what airport they are to be served from, some definite action should be taken."

Lesinski is from Detroit and Meader from Ann Arbor.

Meader said his major reasons for battling to keep the airlines at Willow Run was to save the taxpayers the 30 million dollars he said it would cost to make an adequate terminal out of Wayne-Major.

Lesinski accused Meader of "fighting for ANTSCO (Airlines National Terminal Service Co.)." ANTSCO operates Willow Run, which it rents from the University of Michigan.

Meader, in turn, suggested Leroy Smith, Wayne County Road Commissioner, inspired Lesinski's speech. Smith, Meader declared, "has been plugging for the Wayne Major Airport bullheadedly and foolishly against all expert advice for 10 years and it is only natural that he should get some congressman from Detroit to help him in his fight."

"Leroy Smith never saw me," Lesinski retorted.

Lesinski accused Capital Airlines and the U. M. of "collusion" in the matter. He said the airlines pay only $35,000 a year rent for Willow Run and that Capital has been subsidized for many years by the federal government and now is trying to stay on "the gravy train."

Robert Wilson, Capital vice president, said Lesinski's remarks were "misdirected."

He said in a statement that Capital was only one of six children that have joined in opposing a move to Wayne-Major.

In the second dispute, Knox accused "self-seeking individuals" with trying to force the Kalkaska-to-Manistee move "in total disregard of defense considerations, without concern for economy and in a selfish effort to further their own personal interests."

Quick and Easy on the Draw...

My! How sophisticated corduroy has grown! Stepping out with extra and lace, to the finest formal funerals, but retaining its air of washability and long wear. What it can do to cheer up a dreary room! I'm impatient to copy the gold-colored corduroy drapes Ebie's made for her wide living room windows. Needing panels that could be drawn at night, she attached soft-curtain hanging lengths down the side of one panel of corduroy—attached large self-covered buttons down the side of a second panel—then buttoned them together. They're handsome, and so easy to handle at cleaning time.

THE WELCOME MAT IS OUT

With all the suggestions contributed for being a good hostess, has anything about a guest's contribution? A guest can be a star attraction! She's not expected to come laden with gifts, but let's hope she'll come laden with thoughtfulness.

Entertaining is usually hectic for all hostesses. There's extra excitement and work, but NO extra help. So blessed is the guest who keeps her eyes open to such things as the need for emptying and cleaning the ash tray... takes over part of keeping the children from underfoot... or ASKS how to manipulate the electric dishwasher instead of guessing. Blessed is the house guest of several days, when she leaves the bathroom in apple-pie order, refolding the towels and washcloths and hanging them neatly on their racks... who remembers Dad's shaving time... and who gets her own breakfast if she sleeps later than the usual hour for the family breakfast. These are the guests who receive another invitation, for in spite of words to the contrary, a guest always means extra work for a hostess.

ALL THAT GLITTERS IS NOT GOLD

The neighbor gold dropped in yesterday, and during the conversation one of my friends was telling us about eating the many delicacies of the world during her round-the-world trip—all very interesting too. But why travel great distances just to eat, when at any National Food Store you have the finest selection of "worldly" foods right at your finger tips. Maybe they're not all imported, but did you ever hear tell of anyone getting a delicious "Corn Fed Beef" steak anywhere else in the world besides the good old U. S. Buddy Baers Divorcing
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now that she had a property settlement, Mrs. Buddy Baers has sued the former heavyweight boxer for divorce. Viruses Killing Cancer in Tests

Scientists Reveal New Find After Encouraging Results in Patients

WASHINGTON (INS) — Government researchers report that giving patients an illness closely akin to the common cold may help treat advanced cases of cancer.

This new line of attack was disclosed by scientists at the National Cancer Institute, who have already completed "encouraging" tests on 36 patients at their Bethesda, Md. clinical center.

The discovery stems from attempts to produce a vaccine that can prove effective against the so-called "APC" viruses, which bring on symptoms very much like the common cold.

Researchers at the national microbiological institute were attempting to grow APC virus in a laboratory culture of uterine cancer cells. The experiments "failed" — but the scientists found to their amazement that the virus actually destroyed the cancer cells.

They took their findings to the cancer institute where it was decided to inject small amounts of APC virus into patients who had received other types of treatment for their advanced cancers.

DAMAGES CELLS
The researchers began by injecting the virus directly into tumors. It was found that the cancer cells were damaged "within a few days." Later, the doctors combined this type of injection with injection through the arteries.

"Tumor damage resulted in all cases," the scientists reported, although the effect did not last long because the body soon built up resistance to the virus.

The scientists are now working on production of stronger virus doses in an attempt to destroy the cancer cells before the body's immunity-building process can nullify the virus action.

Information on the new development was recently submitted by the National Cancer Institute to the House Appropriations Committee.

The researchers also reported important new progress in chemotherapy—the use of drugs to treat various forms of cancer.

They disclosed that contracts have already been let with five commercial laboratories for the screening of 2,000 new chemicals by June 30 of this year. During 1957, another 5,000 drugs will be tested.

Can You Tie a Bow?

Everyone needs to know how to tie a bow. Not only must neckties be tied, but packages, shoelaces and ribbons.

Here is a clown who would like to have a necktie. Color him brightly and paste the picture on cardboard. Cut it out and cut or punch out the circles under his chin marked X. Strengthen these circles with ring reinforcements pasted on the back — the same kind used for notebook paper.

Take a piece of ribbon, tape or shoelace and thread it through the holes so that the loose ends appear in front, as shown in the small sketch. Fold back the side panels on the dotted lines just enough so that the picture stands up. Now try tying the ribbons in a bow. Your mother or an older brother, sister or friend can show you just how. Practice until you can do a neat job.

George Schwartz of Milwaukee, Wis., gets $10 for this idea. If you have one as good or better, send it to Junior Editors, in care of this paper. It cannot be acknowledged.

Red Cross Has Big Booster in Chicago Hack

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago cab driver who has made a habit of helping others plans to dig deep into his pocket this month to aid the Red Cross.

Milton Bronstein, 48, has big signs on his veteran cab reading: "I will match your contribution up to the amount of your fare. The Red Cross needs you. You need the Red Cross."

He said in an interview today he plans to display the signs each Tuesday during the rest of March and figures it could cost him well over a hundred dollars.

"I thought it might provide an incentive for other cab drivers throughout the country to do the same thing and bring in a lot of contributions," he said in explaining his newest project.

Bronstein regularly campaigns for many charities, usually having customers put their offered tips into containers for the heart, cancer, polio and cerebral palsy funds.

He has offered the elderly and handicapped free rides to the polls on election day and hauls donors to blood banks free of charge.

Bronstein, a taxi driver-owner and member of the American-United Cab Assn., said his charitable pursuits have not hurt his income.

"In most cabbies' lives there are often hours or days one wastes sitting in restaurants talking, whereas I'm out plugging for charity," said Bronstein who is married and the father of two children.

Old hand learns new tricks of Advanced Engineering

Another reason why GM and General Motors dealers are prospering together

WHAT HAPPENS when engineers develop advanced designs which make automatic transmissions smoother—or give them a quicker getaway than they have ever had before?

What changes gave power steering a better "feel" in 1956—and power brakes even more perfect control?

Even the smartest old-timer at servicing cars wants to know the answers to questions like these and scores of others.

How about automatic window lifts—or six-way adjustable seats—or air conditioning? There's something that opens up a whole new field to men who have been servicing cars for most of their lives.

So we recognized that we had a duty to our dealers—and their customers.

That duty was—to pass on to dealers' mechanics the best possible information about engineering advances.

This was a big challenge—and it would take a big program to answer it.

It would take, in fact, something that the automobile industry has never had before—complete facilities for individual mechanic training—thousands at a time.

So—in thirty cities throughout the country—new Training Centers were built, new from the ground up.

They were equipped with the service tools, the classrooms and specially trained instructors to make the service departments of our 16,957 dealers the finest in the industry.

And no one needed to tell those dealers twice what an opportunity this is.

The proof of this statement is—General Motors' 30 Training Centers are now handling more than 20,000 service mechanics and other dealer personnel every month.

Advanced thinking and planning, such as this, is surely one reason why General Motors—and General Motors dealers—lead the sales parade.

THE POWERHOUSE

Ebbets Field is getting along in years and the Dodgers no longer think it a proper house for the baseball they play. The answer to their stadium problem, it seems, is to erect a Brooklyn Sports Center.

O'Malley's original scheme called for the city to condemn some acreage so that he could build his own park, but the servants of the people figure on a big athletic center, which would accommodate sports and crowds of all kinds.

It's funny how the ball bounces. It wasn't too long ago our Dodgers were two jumps ahead of the sheriff and couldn't go into a bank to get a blotter. Now, the most modern of stadiums is in the works.

Right about now, I'd like to wonder outloud what Charley Ebbets would think and say if he saw what was going on.

Some of the graybeards in the sports writing lodge will recall the trials and tribulations old Charley went through to erect the present "inadequate" Ebbets Field. EBBETS BECAME CLUB PRESIDENT IN '47

In 1897, after 14 years of club service, Charles Hercule Ebbets found himself with enough stock to become club president. His first move was to shift the club back to South Brooklyn from East New York, where it had migrated eight years before.

Thus, you can see, the Jersey City switch is not new to the Dodgers. They were pulling stakes due to lean crowds when JC was still considered a British possession.

The financial setbacks in East New York forced Ebbets to lease land between First and Third Sts. and Third and Fourth Aves. The contractors threw up a fence and wooden grandstand and the "new" Washington Park was ready for business.

Inside of 10 years, though no flags were won, Ebbets was starting to yell that Brooklyn needed a new park. The fact that too many cash customers were being turned away for lack of space probably had something to do with Charley's yelling.

Realizing that if Brooklyn was to have a new home he'd have to build it, Ebbets began buying parcels of land in a four and a half acre plot in Flatbush known as Pigtown. When Charley spotted the territory, it was being used as a garbage dump by neighboring residents.

Just when he was acquiring his land at no great expense, someone got wind (no easy trick in a garbage dump) of what was going on and in no time, landowners were doubling and tripling their prices.

In March, 1912, Charley, pretty well strapped for cash, broke ground for the new park. In company with Ebbets as the squire turned the first spadeful of dirt were the Brooklyn newsmen, known collectively as "The Four Kings."

"The Kings"—Abe Yager of the Brooklyn Eagle, Lew Wooster of the Brooklyn Times, Bill Granger of the Citizen and Bill Rafter of the Standard-Union—were the most influential scribes in the borough.

"What are you gonna call the joint, Charley?" inquired Wooster.

"I dunno, Washington Park, I guess," replied Ebbets.

"Washington Park?" roared Wooster. "That name means nothing out here. It's your monument. You're in hock because of it."

AND SO THEY NAMED IT FOR CHARLEY

"All right," said Ebbets, "we'll call it Ebbets Field."

Halfway through the construction, old Charley suddenly ran out of money. However, in August 1912 Ebbets field was assured when Charley induced the McKeever boys to back him.

In return for their $100,000 investment, the McKeever—Ed and Steve—received 50 per cent of the club's stock. That was a partnership that the heirs on both sides later regretted. But, when the dough was needed, the McKeever brothers supplied it and Charley Ebbets never forgot that.

Albright, Heiss, Hayes, Jenkins Among 100 in U.S. Championships

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Competition in the U.S. Figure Skating Championships began here today with an entry of almost 100 skaters topped by the world's five best amateurs.

Ten titles will be decided by Saturday night. Entrants in the men's and ladies' novice school figures go through their paces today.

Jenkins will oppose Ronnie Robertson, 18, a Californian who gave him a great run in the Olympics, and his talented 18-year-old brother, David Jenkins.

Miss Albright, 20-year-old Bostonian, defeated Miss Heiss, of New York, for the Olympic Games' championship in Italy. A few weeks afterward in Germany, Miss Heiss, a high school junior, outscored Miss Albright for the world's title.

Meets Saxton Tonight

Basilio Defends Welter Title

CHICAGO (AP)—It's slugger vs. boxer for the welterweight championship of the world tonight as champion Carmen Basilio defends his 147-pound crown against ex-titlist Jimmy Saxton in a nationally televised bout.

Basilio, a wade-in belter, held as a 2-1 favorite as the two little scappers turned up for the official weigh-in at the Chicago Stadium (1 p.m. EST) where the 15-round title match will be contested beginning at 10 p.m. EST.

A crowd of 10,000 is expected to contribute a $75,000 gate with another $50,000 coming from TV-radio. The fighters will split 30-30.

Excepting an 80-mile blackout of the Chicago area on TV, the scrap will be beamed to the nation's video and radio fight fans via ABC.

This is the second title defense for Basilio, 28, who won the championship from Tony DeMarco June 10, 1955, and then repulsed DeMarco's bid to recapture the crown Nov. 30, the champ's last start.

Saxton, 25, lost the 147-pound title to DeMarco April 1, 1955, on a 14th round TKO in his very first defense after winning the toga from Kid Gavilan with a much-debated decision Oct. 20, 1954.

A rough tonight's principals have somewhat similar records. Basilio with 45-11-7 and 22 knockouts and Saxton with 50-4-2 and 20 KO's, the muscular little titlist from Canastota, N.Y., is regarded much the harder puncher.

While Basilio was dishing out two knockouts to rugged DeMarco last year, both in 12 rounds but the first called a technical KO, Saxton chilled only one foe, Jimmy Fuller.

In a Class B game, opening the First National, Fuller bowed out in First Tech 46-43 in a hotly contested argument that was not settled until the final minute.

BATTING CHAMPIONS — These are mighty big bats in the American and National Leagues. St. Louis Cardinal star Stan Musial (left) who won the NL batting title six times meets the Dick Mariowe who faced only 11 men in his three inning stint. He was touched for one hit and walked a man.

Babe Birrer was the only Tiger hurler to run into trouble and it didn't take him long. After retiring the first man to face him Birrer hit Alex Grammas, gave up a single to Hal Smith on a hit and run play and then made a pitch too fat to Cardinal pitcher Gary Blaylock. Blaylock blasted it far over Downs' head in left field for a triple.

Birrer settled down but in the next inning, while pitching to Stan Musial, he pulled a muscle in his side and had to retire. But Black answered the hurried call to the bullpen, walked Musial and Rip Repulski, gave up a single and then Grammas squeezed Musial home on a sacrifice bunt. All three of the runs were charged against Birrer.

Favorites Fall in NCAA Tilts

Four Teams Picked to Win Get Bounced in Eastern Eliminations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DEFENDING champion San Francisco, Iowa, Kentucky and Utah had better forget about favorite roles in their opening games Friday in the National Collegiate Championship Basketball Tournament—this year's shindig is fast becoming a haven for underdogs.

All four favorites were given the boot in the first-round Eastern eliminations at Madison Square Garden, with Dartmouth toppling West Virginia 61-59 in overtime and Connecticut walloping Manhattan 54-75 in last night's windup doubleheader.

And at Wichita, Kan., Southern Methodist, considered the best club to come out of the Southwest Conference in a long, long while, had to scramble to get past Texas Tech 60-47.

Oklahoma City was the only favorite to come through without too much trouble last night, beating Memphis State 97-81—but even with a 64-point second half, the Chiefs didn't see the lead until the last 10 minutes.
