Freighter Crew Flees Blazing Explosives Ship

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Crewmen of a Greek freighter loaded with explosives battled raging flames through the night but were forced to abandon ship today in stormy seas 300 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Buffeted by 30- to 60-foot waves, the 7,187-ton freighter, the Captain George, sent frantic distress messages as fire spread after a violent explosion almost blew the ship apart at around 10 o'clock last night.

A tanker—the Virginia, flying the Liberian flag—reached the freighter just before the captain gave up the fight and went over the side, with his 24 crewmen, into lifeboats at 10:30 a.m.

The Coast Guard raced to the rescue of the freighter and another vessel, the American schooner Curlew, abandoned by her six-man crew 90 miles northwest of Bermuda in the Atlantic storm.

Capt. John W. Forder, 40, pilot of a British airliner, told of sighting the blazing freighter at 2:25 a.m.—more than four hours after the ship sent its first SOS.

"The first thing I saw was a light," said Forder, who turned around his London-bound flight to land at Idlewild Airport, N.Y., to refuel.

"We started down. There was the ship, wallowing in the white-topped water. The whole air was aflame."

"I started circling and calling. We got to reply on the distress frequency. One of our navigators was able to read the Morse (code). They were asking their position and when help would come. We radioed an SOS, ship sinking."

"HELPLESS"
"There was too much smoke, and too many broken clouds, to see the men on deck. And giant waves pounded at the ship. It was terrible. It gave us such a feeling of helplessness."

The freighter, after leaving New Orleans, stopped at St. Marys, Ga., to pick up 400 tons of commercial explosives—described in one report by the Coast Guard in New York as "explosive bombs."

The explosives were consigned to Tripoli, Libya, to be used in oil-well drilling, agents at St. Marys reported. The rest of the cargo included 12,000 bags of nitro-carbonyl, used both as an explosive and as fertilizer, and 4,000 pounds of blasting caps.

Elsewhere, three small ships were in trouble more than 120 miles out in the North Atlantic. They were caught in a storm that whipped up 30-mile gales and extremely heavy seas offshore and brought bitter winds to New England generally and heavy snow in Maine.

K's Cuba Offer Too Conditional

Continue Solution Stall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has sent President Kennedy an offer to pull Soviet jet bombers out of Cuba but attached so many "ifs" that a Cuban settlement is not within sight, authoritative sources said early today.

Khrushchev's proposal, it was learned, was received several days ago and is being discussed at negotiations—presumably in New York where U.S. and Soviet representatives have been trying to hammer out an agreement.

Exactly what conditions the Soviet premier attached to his offer were not disclosed.

But there were so many, the sources said, that they cannot foresee a swift solution to the problems that have been keeping a fire to the Cuban crisis.

Authoritative sources said the Soviet premier's proposal for withdrawing the planes came in the form of several letters he and Kennedy exchanged—none of which has been made public—since their weekend letters of Oct. 22-23 drafting an agreement to end the crisis.

How often Kennedy and Khrushchev have communicated over the Cuban dispute has not been revealed. It was understood that some of the exchanges have been handled by intermediaries at the United Nations.

Kennedy has insisted that the 750-mile bomber bombers are in the same offensive weapons category as the Soviet missiles and must also be removed.

U.S. officials have reported that 42 of the missiles were counted on Soviet vessels steaming away from Cuba. That's the number of missiles the Soviets say they had on the island.

Officials here look upon the removal of the missiles (unless some are hidden in caves) as fulfillment of the most important of Khrushchev's promises to Kennedy.

ANOTHER PROMISE

In addition to the bomber issue, Khrushchev has not carried out his promise to allow U.N. inspection of the dismantling of weapons and their bases—which Castro has cried he will not permit.

The United States pressed the Soviet Union on the planes Tuesday during the New York talks. U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson politely but firmly told Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov that the issue is of great importance and that the United States looks to the Soviet Union for a response.

BIG TARGET — Irving C. DeHut of Rochester gave local hunters something to shoot for when he entered this 230-pound buck in The Press' Big Deer Contest this morning.

White Tail Season Opens

Buck Bagged Early

By DON VOGEL
Outdoor Editor, The Pontiac Press

ROSE CITY — A Pontiac man ended 26 years of deer hunting frustration today.

Harold Wehner, 42, of 2735 Hatton St., tagged a four-point buck at 8 a.m. in the Rifle River area five miles east of this Ogemaw County community.

Wehner and 175 other hunters entered the 3,800-acre Conservation Department game area before daylight today to open the white tail season in the lower peninsula.

One blast from Wehner's 12-gauge shotgun was enough. The slug broke the 111-pound deer's back.

"I've been hunting deer every year since I was 16," said the excited Wehner, "and this is the first deer I've ever killed."

Wehner was hunting with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Berry of Troy.

NO SNOW

Hunters found weather conditions about the same as opening day in 1961. The temperature in Rose City was 38 degrees at 7 a.m. There was no snow, but fog began rolling in at 9:30 a.m.

Over 400,000 hunters are expected to take to the woods before the season closes Nov. 25 in the western Upper Peninsula and Nov. 30 in the remainder of the state.

Because the "second opener" is in the middle of the week, only about half of the eventual hunt is on hand today. The remainder will pour in this weekend.

Conservation Department game experts are predicting a kill of 50,000 bucks and 37,000 antelope deer. Over 80,000 hunters are carrying permits allowing them to legally take deer of either sex in designated areas of northern Michigan.

The Pontiac Press Big Deer Contest opened last Saturday, the same day whitetails became legal targets in the western two-thirds of the UP.

'No Yule Release for AF Reserves'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Defense Department spokesman said today there is no plan to release by Christmas the 14,000 Air Force reservists who were called up for the Cuban crisis.

The spokesman said the reservists are still based at their home stations.

Man Admits Slaying Wife in Argument

Police Seek Weapon;
Suspect Held in Jail
Until Examination

A Pontiac factory worker, who has admitted the fatal shooting of his wife during an argument over money, was arraigned today in Municipal Court on a first degree murder charge.

Curtis J. Hackney, 44, appeared before Maurice Finnegan, who set a Nov. 21 examination date; Hackney is being held in the Oakland County jail without bond.

Hackney, 26 Garner St., has admitted killing his wife, Verda, 43, at their home yesterday, according to Pontiac detectives.

A wirer at the Fisher Body plant, Hackney, who police said apparently had been drinking before the shooting, has been unable to remember what happened to the weapon.

Police today were continuing their search of the house and area for the Mrs. Hackney weapon, a 20-caliber automatic pistol.

Mrs. Hackney, mother of two, was found dead yesterday afternoon in the living room of the couple's house. She had been shot twice in the head—above the left ear and in the forehead.

Hackney admitted the crime while being interrogated during a lie detector test early this morning, according to detectives, Capt. Donny E. Aashley and Sgt. John A. Depauw.

Senior Asst. Prosecutor Jerome K. Barry Jr. recorded Hackney's statement at that time. A more complete statement was taken today.

Mrs. Hackney's body was found on the couch when police arrived at the home yesterday after a neighbor had reported the shooting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bell, 22 Garner St., called police after Hackney came to her home and said he had found his wife unconscious and thought there was something wrong.

Initially, Hackney repeatedly denied knowing anything about his wife's death.

Coroner Joseph L. Shirley Jr. set the time of death between 2 and 3:30 p.m. when the body was discovered.

Prosecutor Barry said that Hackney, in his statement said that he had shot his wife during (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Tax Cut Essential, Wirtz Tells Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said today a quick and significant tax cut is essential to correct what he called the deplorably high level of unemployment.

Wirtz spoke at a conference of businessmen, union officials and economists called by the Kennedy administration to discuss a tax reduction and other elements of fiscal and monetary policy.

Participants, after hearing Wirtz, entered into a closed debate.

The labor secretary said that while inflation, fiscal irresponsibility, and international bankruptcy are vices the American economy

$200,000 Fire Hits Restaurant

A fire today leveled the Rosemond Hills Inn, a popular Franklin restaurant at Inkster Road and Northwestern Highway, causing damages estimated at more than $200,000.

Firemen from Franklin and three neighboring communities were unable to save any portion of the rambling frame building.

However, they kept a steady stream of water directed on three large propane gas tanks, located only six feet behind the inn, to keep them from exploding.

No one was hurt.

A Franklin resident who lives about a quarter of a mile from the restaurant phoned in the emergency call about 3:30 a.m. when he saw flames shooting through the roof.

About 30 men and six pieces of equipment were at the scene within minutes, coming from Franklin and Southfield as well as Bloomfield and West Bloomfield Townships.

DON'T FEAR INFLATION

Wirtz indicated belief that steps to curb unemployment, including a tax slash and public health, education and other government-financed programs, should not be withheld out of fear of inflation or other consequences.

Rain Likely Tomorrow

Low of 35 Expected Tonight

Skies will be mostly cloudy but no rain is predicted until late tomorrow. Tonight will be cloudy and somewhat cooler, the low dropping to 35.

The outlook for Saturday isn't so good. The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts rain or snow with little change in temperature.

Morning southeasterly winds at 2 miles per hour will become 8 to 12 m.p.h. north to northeast tonight and 10 to 15 miles tomorrow.

Forty was the lowest thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The recording was 57 at 2 p.m.

Asks Safety in Watford

Loren Anderson Wants More Traffic Tickets

Watford Township Board Trustee Loren Anderson has called for a stepped-up traffic enforcement program in the township for the sake of "cutting down the number of accidents and saving lives."

Anderson, long critical of what he calls a high accident rate in the area, said yesterday that three elements are required for traffic safety: Education, enforcement and engineering.

"Watford Township has a fine driver education program in the schools and engineering pertaining to roads is progressing well, but we are falling down in the area of enforcement," he explained.

Anderson was particularly critical of the fact that only 432 tickets have been issued by the township police force during the first 10 months of the year compared to a total of 729 accidents, 282 of which involved bodily injuries.

"According to National Safety Council standards, the ratio of moving violation tickets issued to injury accidents should be 15 to one," he said.

Anderson feels the Township Board has shown a lack of interest in the traffic problem.

"For the past two years," he said, "monthly traffic reports come before the governing body, are reviewed briefly and accepted as a matter of routine."

He thinks the township police department is handicapped in traffic enforcement by lack of personnel but suggested some of the other police activities yield precedence to promoting road safety.

"After all," Anderson commented, "when a man takes his car out for a ride, there should be enough enforcement in effect to provide maximum protection."

Anderson is convinced that an expanded police force is the basic answer to the traffic problem. He said he will do all he can to advocate other board members of this need as a millage proposal can be placed on the April ballot to provide needed funds for the 1964 budget.

"In the meantime," Anderson said, "we must become aware of the problem and do the best we can with our 17-man police force which serves nearly 50,000 residents in a 36 square mile area."

The 1963 township budget has already been established and provides no funds for hiring additional police personnel.

Through October the Sheriff's Department handled 553 personal injury accidents and issued 3096 tickets in the county.

The Pontiac post of State Police issued 679 tickets for 657 accidents during the 10-month period.

Mikoyan (Dark Glasses) Visits Corn Field

'Let Donovan Set Up Mikoyan's Ransom'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adlai E. Stevenson suggested jokingly yesterday that possibly attorney James B. Donovan should be sent to Cuba to try to arrange the "ransom" of Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

Donovan successfully arranged the exchange of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel, and recently has been negotiating for the release of 1,100 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

Mikoyan has been in Cuba two weeks, presumably trying to placate Premier Fidel Castro over the withdrawal of Soviet missiles.

Stevenson made the jest at the Albert Lasker Medical Research Awards lunch.

Judge Censures Center

'Situation Explosive'

Overcrowded conditions at the Oakland County Children's Center pose a dangerous threat to youngsters placed there in the county's care, Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore declared yesterday.

"The situation is potentially explosive" due to intermingling of normal and emotionally disturbed children for lack of adequate space to separate them, Judge Moore told the juvenile committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

These disturbed youngsters are a threat to other underprivileged children under the prevailing conditions, he added.

The immediate solution called for additional cottages, providing another 80 to 100 beds, Judge Moore said.

He recommended a special meeting of the County Board of Supervisors in order to evaluate the situation.

The juvenile committee agreed yesterday to request such a meeting early in December, at which time it would be prepared to fully explain the problem and present a master plan for a proposed Children's Village.

The Children's Village concept, originally promoted by Judge Moore, would combine and expand the county's existing juvenile facilities in a campus-like setting.

It would contain schools, a medical care unit, diagnostic center, nursery, kitchen and numerous cottages where children would be segregated according to age and special requirements.

NEED COTTAGES NOW — Three such cottages are needed now, James W. Hunt, county juvenile affairs director, told the committee.

One would provide separate quarters for emotionally disturbed children. The other cottages would further relieve overcrowding at the center, Hunt said.

Pontiac architect Harry M. Peys Jr. estimated the cottages would cost roughly a total of $200,000 to $400,000. He is preparing preliminary plans for the three cottages and a master plan for the entire village at the committee's direction.

The Board of Supervisors already has purchased 36 acres adjacent to the County Service Center for part of the future site of the village.

90 ACRE VILLAGE — The proposed site, approximately 90 acres in all, is located west of Telegraph Road and south of the Pontiac state police post.

The entire Children's Village is expected to cost over $2 million. No method of financing construction has been recommended yet by the juvenile committee.

Committee member Richard W. Marshall of Madison Heights reported that the board's ways and means committee "made it perfectly clear" there could be no appropriations included in the county budget.

He said Ways and Means Chairman David Levinson of Birmingham recommended a public vote to approve additional millage to build the Children's Village.

OPEN FOR STUDY — Juvenile Committee Chairman Abraham Brickner of Oak Park recommended leaving the question of finances open for further study.

He said his committee is immediately faced with one task—to point out the present emergency to the Board of Supervisors.

The juvenile committee agreed to recommend prompt board action in such a way that cottages built now would become an integral part of the proposed Children's Village later when methods of financing have been determined.

"If people have to be sold on the urgency of this problem, let's put up some army tents to house the children in," Marshall suggested.

Rome Council Undecided on Controversy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The question of whether to go ahead with a discussion of the place of the Bible and tradition as sources of the word of God hung over the divided Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today.

The first day of debate on the controversial project to clarify the church's view disclosed a deep split among the council fathers. The immediate question was whether to continue discussion of the proposed constitution on divine revelation, whether to throw it out and substitute a new version, or whether to leave the whole matter over for future popes and bishops.

The council fathers do not meet on Thursdays in St. Peter's Basilica. But many of them met informally in their seminary quarters or hotel rooms to discuss the disputed constitution, or thesis.

The quickest way to decide their future course would be a vote Friday in the next session in St. Peter's. But council sources agreed that more speeches may be heard before there is any balloting on the course to take.

an argument over the loss of his wallet containing $80, this past weekend.

Mrs. Hackney, when found, was on her back with a blanket pulled up under her arms as if she was sleeping, police said.

The body had been placed in that position after the shooting, according to Capt. Ashley. He said Hackney shot his wife, according to his statement, while both were sitting on the couch.

Two empty cartridges were found near the body.

Conflicting statements by Hackney as to where he spent the early morning hours yesterday are still being sifted by police.

The couple's son Donald, 10, told police that he last saw his father shortly after 8 a.m. when his father took him to work at Pontiac Motor.

The son learned of his mother's death when he returned home from work at the same time police arrived at the scene.

A daughter, Judy Ann, 16, left home several months ago, relatives told police, and is believed to be living in the Detroit area.

The inn is owned by two Detroit men, Benjamin Kramer and Alex Popovich.

Mariner II Sets Mark — PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The Venus-bound Mariner II spacecraft was scheduled to radio scientific data back to earth today from nearly 18 million miles away, setting a distance record for communication.

The proposed site, approximately 90 acres in all, is located west of Telegraph Road and south of the Pontiac state police post.

Committee member Richard W. Marshall of Madison Heights reported that the board's ways and means committee "made it perfectly clear" there could be no appropriations included in the county budget.

Bloomfield Man to Head Ohio Bell

Eckley, vice president and general manager of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. since January 1961, was elected to the Ohio utility post yesterday.

Prior to his appointment, Eckley had been director of personnel and public relations for the long lines Department of American Telephone and Telephone Co.

He will be succeeded as vice president — general manager in Michigan by Frederick B. Hunt, now vice president in charge of personnel at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

with the unemployment problem on fiscal grounds.

"You sometimes get the feeling," he said, "there is a shell game going on, with three shells marked 'inflation,' 'unbalanced budget,' and 'unfavorable dollar balance.'"

"Any proposal for achieving full employment is met today by an objection cast in terms of at least one of these phrases, often all three."

Wirtz said he doesn't accept the idea put out by the administration a year ago that reducing the unemployment rate to four per cent is an acceptable interim goal.

The labor secretary said he could see no excuse for the four per cent figure having crept into the current economic debate.

He said that if the economy is put fully to work, with full use of new idle facilities, "the unemployment problem will take care of itself."

The Kennedy administration was clearly hopeful it would get general endorsement from the conference for a tax cut.

Heavy Snow Hits Maine

Heavy snow fell on Maine today and strong northerly winds caused considerable drifting in some localities.

Bangor, Maine, measured 9 inches of snow by early morning and the Weather Bureau in Portland said it expected up to a foot of snow in the eastern part of the state.

High winds accompanied the storm in parts of the state. Cool and wet weather prevailed across northern sections of the country from the Rockies to New England.

India Has Launched Strongest Offensive

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian army troops have launched their strongest offensive in the undeclared Himalayan border war with the Communist Chinese, a defense ministry spokesman said today. He said the attacks were carried out on the northeast frontier and that an unknown number of Chinese were killed.

The Indian forces attacked Chinese positions near Wangong, about 15 miles from the Burma border, and carried out offensive actions against a Red-held village near Jang, near the Bhutan border.

The spokesman said there were no Indian losses in the attacks, ended yesterday.

6 Million American Snuffers Sniff Back to a Pungent Age

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is it President John Adams, Dolley Madison, Voltaire, Napoleon Bonaparte and Babe Ruth had in common?

Why, they all used snuff!

You may have thought that snuff went out with the perogee wig or the bus-tle. Fie on your ignorance, sir! A double fit!

The so-called "Great Age of Snuff" in Europe was during the 16th and 17th centuries and was largely a privilege of the aristocracy. But snuff is now in its second great age, and has more devotees in this country than during the U.S. Revolution.

WE USE MOST

"America leads the world in snuff, and we use far more than all the rest of the people on earth put together," proudly proclaimed Gerry Gilmartin, spokesman for the Snuff Information Center.

"Our production last year was 34 million pounds with a retail value of $60 million. That can be compared with a production of only three million pounds in 1875."

Gilmartin estimates America's snuff clientele at about six million. The reason you don't notice them is that few snuff snuff in public anymore. Most simply park their snuff under their lower lip, or between cheek and gum, and let it slowly dissolve.

"Snuff precedes the discovery of America," said Gilmartin. "Indians here customarily sniffed it through an eight-inch reed called a cohui."

NAMED NICOTINE

Explorers brought snuff back to Portugal. Jean Nicot, French ambassador to Lisbon, sent samples home to his queen, Catherine de Medici, who spread the fad through European nobility. Nicot's reward: He gave his name to nicotine.

Snuff comes in two forms—dry and finely powdered—known in the trade as "scotch"—and moist, which is coarse cut.

There are some 60 brands, flavored with licorice, clove, cinnamon, wintergreen and other flavoring ingredients. Each manufacturer guards his secret formula as carefully as do the makers of fine whiskeys or Coca-Cola.

So far no one has thought of coming up with a whisky-or-cola-flavored snuff, thus combining the various markets.

Why would anyone want to take snuff? There are several reasons. You don't have to light it, filter it or puff it—and it leaves the hands free to work. Second, it is inexpensive. A weekly supply of three ounces costs about 36 cents.

Many of its fans also claim snuff helps clear their sinuses, settle their stomachs and relax their nerves. And, finally snuff doesn't start forest fires or cause explosions in chemical factories.

"All kinds of people use snuff," said Gilmartin. "Construction workers, farmers, lumberjacks, hunters, miners, laboratory scientists, mechanics, refinery employees, professional athletes and judges who don't allow smoking in their courtrooms."

"The U.S. Senate has kept its free snuff wells filled for more than 100 years."

Snuff is also educational. Gilmartin said probably between

Dead Airmen Found in Plane Wreckage

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—National Park rangers recovered the bodies of two officers, including an Air Force reserve general, in wreckage of a small Air Force plane atop a snow-covered mountain yesterday.

A ground rescue party radioed it had found the bodies of Brig. Gen. John I. Lerom of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. Ludwig Gesund of New York City.

They were en route from Andrews to Robins AFB near Macon, Ga.

The 1,000th anniversary of the death of King Haakon the God of Norway was marked on June 17-18 in the crash of the 6,821-foot high Mt. of this year.

Guyot in Great Smoky Mountains National Park on Saturday. The head of the search party said he understood the plane was carrying top-secret documents.

Lerom was a member of the 2nd Air Force Reserve regional headquarters at Andrews Air Force Base, Washington. Gesund was assigned to the office of the deputy chief of staff for plans and programs in headquarters at New York.

Urges Resumption of Sabin Shot Use

OTTAWA (AP)—The Dominion Council of Health has recommended the resumption of Sabin oral polio vaccine programs that were canceled in Canada a month ago, Health Minister Jay Montleith told the House of Commons Wednesday.

He read a report from the council, a federal-provincial advisory body, which urged that "the use of Sabin vaccine be deferred no longer."

Hong Kong Reds Whack at K

HONG KONG (AP) — Officials of leading Communist Chinese newspapers in Hong Kong seem to be taking a stronger line even than Peiping in criticism of Premier Khrushchev.

In the past week they have called the Soviet leader an opportunist, a weakling and a traitor. They have sought out Western newsmen to air their views, with every indication that they expected their remarks to be reported and to reach Moscow ears.

The surprisingly frank charges didn't kill Khrushchev.

included a blast at the Russian withdrawal of missiles from Cuba under U.S. pressure.

The whole seems to indicate Soviet-Chinese relations have taken a sharp turn for the worse. Fugitives from Red China were quoted as saying Peiping's leaders regard Khrushchev as an amateur in Marxism-Leninism.

The Peiping leaders also were quoted as saying: "Stalin's only mistake was he didn't kill Khrushchev."

That was relayed by Chen Chao, a former associate professor at Chungshan University, who arrived recently in this British crown colony.

World Has New Champ of Raw Egg Gulpers

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — Roger Wooler, 15, a student, gulped 45 raw eggs in five minutes and 40 seconds to break the previous world's record of 31 in nine minutes and 15 seconds. "No more, no more," he gasped after the 45th. "I have never eaten a raw egg before in my life — and I'll never eat another. I just don't care about eggs. I only did it because I'm that sort of a fool."

Kalamazoo Man, 77, Killed in Car Accident

BIG RAPIDS (UPI) — A 77-year-old man was killed early today when his car went out of control and left the road. State police identified the victim as Philip Chambers. They said the accident happened on U.S. 131, Austin Township, Mecosta County.

Scaffold Falls, Kills 6

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Six volunteer firemen were killed and 36 injured today by falling scaffolding. The firemen had just put out a fire in a downtown building under construction when the scaffolding collapsed.

Contest Win Puts New Car in Cool State

DETROIT (UPI) — Officials at Lincoln-Mercury figure Joe Kendler will be keeping the top up on his new convertible for a few months anyway.

Kendler, whose address was listed as box 1114, Juneau, Alaska, won a Comet convertible in a company-sponsored dealer contest. A check of company records showed that it was the only convertible sent to Alaska this year. "He could have won a station wagon or sedan," a company man said. "Of all places to win a soft-top."

Steel Corporation Slates Expansion

DETROIT (UPI) — The McLouth Steel Corp. today announced a $6-million expansion program primarily aimed at using a process for removing scale from hot rolled steel strip.

The facility will be housed in a 45,000 square-foot addition to the plant's present building in Gibraltar. Officials said the new installation would mean additional jobs. Construction on the program is expected to begin within 30 days, with completion scheduled by late 1963.

Was GOP Too Hasty in Decision on Rocky?

New York State Republican wheel horses are engaged in a little silent contemplation and personal soul searching.

Right after election, they were heralding "their boy" as the next presidential candidate and a "sure thing" for the GOP nomination. Now they're pausing to evaluate the whole situation in the calm, cool light of the following week and they have some new ideas. Perhaps they should wait. 1968 might be preferable.

Gentlemen, if you Empire State bigwigs want a positive reply to your tentative question, we volunteer an answer that's "for free" and absolutely guaranteed. It all depends upon a Mr. KENNEDY.

If JFK prances through the next two years without any more Cuban invasion fiascos, and if he gets along a little better with his own Congress, he could be a real tough nut to crack two years hence, in spite of his narrow squeak in 1960. On the other hand, if he slips badly or if he incurs general public wrath on a substantial scale, he might be a very tempting target in 1964.

It's that uncertain.

Also, a waiting game will give Rockefeller's advisers a chance to appraise the GOP opposition and assay the chances against such men as Michigan's Romney, Pennsylvania's Scranton and Arizona's Goldwater.

Next question.

Interested in Observing Holidays on Mondays?

American Petroleum Institute people are urging that all national holidays be celebrated on Monday to provide big weekends.

They ask all manner of national associations including railroads, air lines, automobile associations, resorts, Chambers of Commerce, etc. to join the movement. In other words, if the Fourth of July came on Wednesday as it did this year, it would automatically be celebrated as a holiday on the previous Monday to provide a long weekend.

They may have something there. Would you agree?

Students Indifferent to Scientific Field

In view of the continuing push to match or surpass the Russians in space exploration, it is discouraging to find that attempts to stimulate science studies with Federal funds are failing.

A report by the U.S. Office of Education indicates that although studies of the humanities have declined, the gain has not been made in the natural science field.

According to the study, the gains have been made, instead, in the social sciences.

More than $1 billion is being spent annually in the program, but apparently the desired effect is missing.

The study included 36 universities, with varying amounts of Federal assistance under the program. One of the conclusions reached was that many of the best graduate students prefer Federal fellowships and research assistantships, rather than teaching undergraduate science sections and laboratories.

This is attributed to faculty members' stress on research at the larger universities.

"Few young scientists were found willing to devote their time solely to teaching, and those who do are not highly regarded by their professional colleagues," the report said.

Recommendations that the scope, balance and administration of these vast funds be improved were included.

We concur. Studies such as this point out the chinks that federal funds slip into, without achievement of the original intent.

The Man About Town

A Basic Gown! It Adorned Nine Babies for Successive Baptisms

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

A beautiful baptismal gown, made by a Canadian order of nuns, links four generations of Pontiac residents.

Originally worn in 1876 by the great-granddaughter of Michigan's second governor

William Woodbridge

Mrs. Donald Hagadone of 950 Fremont Ave., wore it in 1936.

For other christenings it was worn in 1894, 1915, 1949, 1959, 1960, and 1961, being sent across the country for a couple of the ceremonies.

The MAT's deep felicitations on this heart-warming and charming symbol of American family unity.

Mrs. Paul A. Kern

of 1977 Long Point Drive, recently saw a pigeon hit by a car at Orchard Lake and Ottawa. Another pigeon, presumably the mate, immediately appeared at the scene and evidenced pathetic grief.

The motorist moved the dead bird to the side of the street, but the sorrowing one followed and continued its stricken behavior.

Our informant was touched by the incident, but was also curious as to whether pigeons are monogamous by nature — she hadn't thought that they were.

Recently honored by the Northeastern Area of the Knights of Pythias was Fred J. Stevens of Oxford, a Past Chancellor of the Oxford Lodge and an active member for over 60 years.

The event was held in the Pontiac Loize where a class of candidates was initiated in honor of the 87-year-old Stevens. A column salute to this outstanding area figure, and all best wishes for many more enjoyable and rewarding years.

Mrs. J. F. Ellison

phoned from Lake Orion that one morning recently a flock of 15 all-white geese was seen on the lake. The observer said that she had never known geese of this hue—sheir greater wing spread ruled out that they were ducks—and wondered whether Canadian "snow geese," with which she is familiar, had unprecedentedly come down this far.

Last year, there was a changing flock of some 450 mixed ducks and geese on the water as they arrived and departed during migration. The geese, the MAT was told, would stay but a few days, rarely a week, but the ducks would stay on until the lake ice over.

David Lawrence Says:

Why Did JFK Delay on Deficit?

WASHINGTON — Why were the American people not told before the congressional election that the federal budget would show a deficit this fiscal year of an estimated $7.8 billion?

Why did President Kennedy in his message to Congress only last January make an estimate of a surplus and a Canadian order of nuns, links four generations of Pontiac residents.

Originally worn in 1876 by the great-granddaughter of Michigan's second governor William Woodbridge It is shown below adorning five-month-old Lynda Lee Hagadone

These questions are being LAWRENCE asked because they go to the root of democratic government in contrast with a totalitarian state where the facts are manipulated and the truth is for certain intervals concealed from the people.

Certainly the reason could not have been an ordinary error in estimating the figures for the current fiscal year, which runs from July 1, 1962, to June 30, 1963.

The treasury must have known for several months that such a large discrepancy did not justify the continuing impression derived from the optimistic estimate made last January.

Could politics have been the reason? The January prediction of a federal surplus of $463 million for this fiscal year was used all through the campaign to emphasize the comparison with the big deficit of the Eisenhower administration in fiscal year 1958. This was a red figure of $12.4 billion — the largest in any peacetime year.

ADJOURNED LATE The excuse that doubtless will be given for the delay this year is that Congress didn't adjourn until Oct. 13, but the fact is the figures could have been issued before the election if desired by the administration, particularly since the midyear review just issued this week is an abbreviated version of those of the prior six years and is much more of a summary than a detailed review.

What the public didn't know during the election campaign was that the estimated rate of spending had risen from $92.5 billion in 1961 to $97.7 billion, even though the estimated receipts were declining from $93 to $85.9 billion.

The government knew that its receipts were declining, but the Democratic party, which controlled Congress, was authorizing expenditures far above the intake.

ANNUAL DEFICITS

Actually, the national debt is growing year by year because of the perennial deficits. The Democratic party has been in control of Congress for nine out of the last 11 years, and the U.S. Treasury shows a total deficit of $45.5 billion in that period. Even on a cash basis, the Treasury shows a total deficit of $28.7 billion in the fiscal years 1953 through 1963.

The outstanding point is that, despite the decline in estimated income this year, the administration kept on spending and is promising more and more spending for the future.

A tax cut is being advocated for next year by administration economists as a means of improving the business situation.

But this can be offset by the ill effects of a growing deficit which will, for instance, affect adversely the American dollar abroad.

BANKRUPTCY!

In private business, if year after year more money is spent than is taken in and there seems no prospect of turning the tide as more and more deficits are envisaged, the usual result is bankruptcy.

The federal treasury would keep on borrowing to meet deficits but at a higher and higher rate of interest.

When, however, the public loses confidence in the monetary unit, prices tend to rise faster than they can be absorbed by wage increases, and a steady devaluation of the currency is the inevitable result.

The latest budget review is certainly discouraging, as the public will find it hard to believe the administration's estimates of a balanced budget or surplus when, within so brief a period as ten months, a promised surplus of $463 million turns out to be a deficit of at least $7.8 billion — and now the outlook is for a $10-billion deficit for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1963, even without a tax cut.

CONSIDINE

The Russian agreed to take his missiles out, has done so, and called for neutral on-the-ground observers to affirm their liquidation. We said in that event we'd lift the quarantine and not invade Cuba.

There have been a few mixups since then. Showing surprising deference to the crown prince of Soviet puppets, Mikoyan has now said that Russia can't very well pull out the medium jet bombers it sent to Cuba because they belong to Castro.

CAN'T FIRE MISSILES

The missiles never did belong to him, in the Russian view, and to back up their claim they remind us Khrushchev pointed out at the time of the dithering that they were solely in the hands of Russian officers. By implication, he was saying "no crackpot Cuban would be able to fire them." He didn't mention jet bombers.

We say get them out of there, too, Russia. If Russia sticks with its story, I think we'll then let them off the hook and say in effect, "Okay, so they are Castro's. Goodbye! Now it's just between us and Castro."

Bombers menace us just as much as the missiles did; in fact, they might be capable of a much better bombardment of hemisphere targets than scattered missiles.

We'll then tell Castro to get rid of them himself, on pain of having them chewed up by an air strike. If he still refuses, we'll let him know just when the strike will occur and suggest that he get his ground crews and his other people out of the way.

And we'll strike. Both the Navy and Air Force have superonic

In the middle of November... When the ground is damp and cold... Of the sunny days of summer... Memories my mind will hold... And I long to have the roses... In my little garden grow... And the tender songs of breezes... Singing for them their sweet and low... And I dream about the mountains... Where so often I have seen... Tiny golden sunbeams dancing... When the world was warm and green... And I think about the stardust... Sprinkled over all the ground... And a silver moon that saunters... In the silence all around... In the middle of November... There are memories for me... And the crystal pools of dew-drops... Tears inside my heart will be.

Meddling in News Spells Trouble

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Kennedy administration is now picking its way out of a mess of its own making on the handling of news about the Russian missile bases in Cuba and the blockade.

At President Kennedy's first news conference, Jan. 25, 1961, he declared that he and the press must work out a new plan for the flow of government information to the public when the security of the United States was involved.

Three months later in a speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the President declared that the press should impose voluntary restraint on itself so that the public wouldn't be given news that it shouldn't have.

This was just 10 days after a complete foul-up in the administration on handling news of the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban rebels.

Anyway, a committee of distinguished editors met with the President a couple of weeks later to hear these ideas in the back of his mind on control of the news in a cold war.

Nothing came of it. In the absence of any officially declared national emergency, the editors refused to consider any kind of even voluntarily imposed censorship.

The government has of course had stand-by plans for setting up wartime censorship, ever since the Truman administration. There is an "Executive Reserve" of censorship officials who can be quickly mobilized if an emergency requires it.

William P. Stevens, Houston Chronicle editor and a member of the World War II Office of Censorship staff was called to Washington recently to review the old plans and make sure they're still good. But there is no known plan to operate them now.

The triumvirate that now directs the flow of national security news for the President, the secretaries of state and defense are White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester at the Pentagon, Robert Manning at State.

They confer frequently by phone or in person but deny that their operations are in any way related to censorship.

All are former newspapermen and good ones. If they were still playing their old trade, they would probably be in the front ranks of reporters criticizing government bureaucrats for any dumb handling of the news. But they're bureaucrats themselves now, controlling the flow of news, if not its writing.

They are on the pan for the way news was released on the Russian build-up of long range missile bases on Cuba and the President's imposition of a blockade of the island.

Sylvester and Manning have issued orders that officers and civilian officials talking to newsmen must now report whom they talked to and what subjects were discussed, even on a background basis. This has caused many legitimate news sources to claim up and refuse to see reporters, which creates frustration.

Secondly, correspondents

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Thursday, Nov. 15, the 319th day of 1962 with 46 to follow. The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1777, the Continental Congress adopted the articles of Confederation uniting the states under a common government.

In 1929, the first meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva, Switzerland, was called to order.

In 1948, William Lyon Mackenzie King retired as prime minister of Canada after serving for over 21 years in that office.

In 1960, the U.S. Air Force's rocket plane, the X-15, was flown at 1,500 miles an hour. (The X-15 now has been clocked over 4,000 miles an hour.)

A thought for the day — The English philosopher Herbert Spencer, said: "Education has for its object the formation of character."

were denied access to Guantanamo, the aircraft carrier, cruisers and destroyers on blockade patrol. The reasons given were that the government did not want to create a big news flow out of Guantanamo and that the blockade was organized so rapidly that the Navy did not feel it was logistically able to fly reporters around by helicopter or to handle their dispatches on limited communications facilities.

It was felt that reporters scattered on destroyers in the Caribbean might get no news or would be unable to report back what news they got as fast as newsmen sitting in the Pentagon, getting official communiques as they were handed out.

Finally, even Sylvester would probably admit now in private that he said a lot of things he should not have said about the government "generating news," managing the news and controlling the news on Cuba as a part of weaponry to create a certain image or favorable impression on the public.

He knows better than that. He won't do it again.

Any government officials try to manipulate the news for propaganda purposes instead of giving it out straight when and as they get it, they get in trouble.

LOS ANGELES (U) — Take it from the nation's newest "terrannaut," weightlessness is no fun. Terrannauts are men who strap themselves in space simulation devices and try to do tasks astronauts someday must perform in space, outside their ships.

One of these devices was demonstrated Tuesday at the American Rocket Society convention, and a reporter was fool enough to try it.

Called a "spaceworker," it consists of a stretcher-like basket on a three-footed mast. The basket is connected to the mast by a bracket which has ball bearings that let the basket move sideways, backward and forward whenever its occupant makes the slightest motion.

The mast was kept floating a fraction of an inch off the floor by compressed air forced through its three padlike feet. Any motion of the basket made the mast slither across the floor.

FRictionless MOVEMENT
The object was to provide frictionless movement in all directions — the same condition an astronaut would face if he had to go outside a space ship to make repairs in flight.

The reporter was strapped in the basket and assigned a

Youth Stabs Self in Freak Accident, Dies

RIDGWAY, Pa. (AP) — Wayne Jones, 16, of Ridgway, died Wednesday of a stab wound suffered the night before while searching for deer.

Here is the police account of what happened:

Jones and five friends saw a movie in which an actor tried to lose running game from a moving vehicle. The six youths decided to try something similar.

With Jones perched on the left front fender with a hunting knife, the youths drove a station wagon across a field trying to spotlight deer Tuesday night.

task of turning a valve on a space ship mockup nearby.

He tried to turn the valve and instead found himself spinning wildly.

Following instructions shouted by GE engineer Gen Day, 35, of Philadelphia, the reporter righted himself by throwing his arms in one direction, then another, until a delicate temporary balance was achieved.

"You find out you can get the job done even if you're standing on your head," Day said. That is precisely the position the reporter once again found himself in when he finally grabbed hold of the space ship with one hand and turned the valve with the other.

Released at last from the basket, the reporter was asked how he felt.

"Okay," he said, "but I seem to be missing something — my stomach."

May Operate Body Electrically

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrialist data in medical research. Such processes, he said, take days or weeks by conventional methods.

David Sarnoff, noting that body-implanted electronic devices now keep hearts pumping in cardiac patients, said yesterday he can foresee the time when such devices will operate other human organs, too.

They may be used, for example, to operate the lungs or kidneys when their functions have become impaired, he said.

ORGAN SUBSTITUTES

"It is within probability that there will be complete electronic substitutes for worn-out or otherwise useless human organs," Sarnoff said.

"Missing legs, arms or hands also may find effective replacement through electronically controlled prosthetic devices operated by the body muscles."

Sarnoff, board chairman of the Radio Corp. of America, made the predictions in calling for a greatly stepped-up attack against disease through broader application of electronics to medicine.

In a speech prepared for a luncheon honoring winners of the 1962 Albert Lasker medical awards, Sarnoff said electronics can be the "single most important instrument in the arsenal of medical research in the years that lie ahead."

His speech was to be read for him by his son, Robert W. Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co. The elder Sarnoff is convalescing from a recent operation.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the vice president, presented the awards. The two winners, previously announced, are:

C. H. Li, professor of biochemistry and experimental endocrinology and director of the Hormone Research Laboratory at the University of California, Berkeley.

Dr. Joseph E. Smadel chief of the laboratory of virology and rickettsiology, a division of the National Institutes of Health, Washington, D.C.

Li won the basic medical research award for significant contributions to basic research in diseases that are a major cause of death and disability.

Smadel's clinical research award was for significant contributions to clinical investigation; and for the application of basic research findings to eliminate major medical causes of death and disability, resulting in prolonging the prime of life.

Sarnoff proposed a national clearing house for medical information, using electronic computers.

He said there is a need to classi-

Cite Rescuer of Mayor's Son

DETROIT (AP)—The American Red Cross today awarded former Detroit Theodore S. Stacy Jr. its certificate of merit for saving the life of the son of Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh. Stacy, who lived across the street from the Detroit mayor before moving to Columbus, Ohio, recently, heard a call for help July 1.

Cavanagh's son, Christopher, 2, apparently had tripped the switch of a power window on the family station wagon and caught his head in the window. The Cavanaghs were inside the house preparing to leave for church.

When Cavanagh reached the car, the boy was strangling.

The mayor freed his son from the window, and Stacy, a certified Red Cross first aid instructor, gave the boy mouth-to-mouth respiration until he was taken to a hospital for oxygen.

Stacy's "quick thinking and prompt action saved the child's life," the Red Cross certificate reads. The award was the 85th in Michigan since it was first given 49 years ago.

The father of five children, Stacy is on the industrial security staff of North American Aviation Co. at Columbus.

Finds Trouble Trying to Give Away Money

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Charles Heitkemper found out it's not easy to give away money.

P. Booker Robinson, president of a Louisville bank, said Heitkemper, 33, a plumber's helper, walked into a branch of the bank Tuesday and tried to leave $1,900 for charity.

The branch manager refused to accept it.

Heitkemper came back in the afternoon. This time the money was accepted, after Robinson had been consulted.

Police questioned Heitkemper, who convinced them the money was his savings.

Robinson said Heitkemper asked that the money be sent to Roman Catholic Bishop Fulton Sheen of New York for distribution "to poor kids."

Russian Girl Makes Daring Chute Rescue

MOSCOW (AP)—Valentina Tkachenko watched while Alexander Kidalov jumped in a recent parachute competition.

One of the two chute he was wearing opened accidentally and caught in the tail of the plane flying at 4,200 feet — putting both himself and the pilot in trouble.

Eighteen-year-old Valentina jumped, landed on Kidalov's shoulders and cut him free with a knife. She succeeded in opening his other chute and her own. Both landed safely.

The Soviet news agency Tass, in relating the story, said:

"Grateful authorities have awarded her a watch."

Prescribes Tight Slacks for Operating Nurses

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Andrew Tindal, lecturer in medicine at Glasgow University, has prescribed tight slacks for nurses.

Negroes Face Slaying Charge

NATCHITOCHE, La. (AP) — Murder charges have been filed against five Negroes in the mistaken-identity slaying of a senior of Northwestern State College here.

John F. Fisher III, 22, from Detroit, Mich., was shot early Sunday as he stood with friends in front of his apartment.

Murder charges signed by Sheriff Earl Morris were placed Monday against Edward Ward, 45, who admitted firing the bullet that killed Fisher. Charges were filed Tuesday against Charles Cage, 17; William Chevalier, 20; Earl Edward Davis, 18; and George Wright, 40.

The five are being held in an undisclosed jail.

Fisher was killed by a bullet fired from a passing car. Ward told police he and the three younger Negroes had gone looking for two white youths who had clothes similar to those of one of the other white youths.

Wright is part-owner of a Negro night club where the three younger Negroes found Ward and from where they set off to look for the white youths.

Homosexual Spy Charge Shakes Britain

LONDON (AP)—A leading expert on Britain's security system today began an investigation of sensational rumors that a government minister planned to flee to the Soviet Union with a homosexual spy.

Prime Minister Macmillan in a startling statement to the House of Commons Wednesday called for a "trial of truth" and named Lord Radcliffe, 63, as the head of a tribunal with sweeping powers to look into the rumors and the state of government security.

SPY ALARM

The spy alarm was heightened by Charles Ian Orr-Ewing, civil lord of the admiralty, who said in a speech that thousands of Communist secret agents are operating in Britain.

Macmillan himself warned that "hostile intrigue and espionage are being relentlessly maintained on a large scale" in Britain and that "massive efforts are being made by every possible method to undermine our security."

His statement was prompted by a rumor that Thomas Galbraith, former civil lord of the admiralty and the second-ranking civilian official there, planned to defect to the Soviet Union with William John Vassall.

RED BLACKMAIL

Vassall, an admiralty clerk, confessed at his trial last month that the Soviets used his homosexuality to blackmail him into giving secrets to the Soviet Union.

Lord Radcliffe's tribunal also will investigate a press report that it was known for 18 months before Vassall's arrest last September that there was a spy in the admiralty.

This will be Lord Radcliffe's second inquiry into government security. He led an investigation of intelligence services after George Blake, a foreign office intelligence agent turned traitor, was jailed for 42 years last year.

As a result of the investigation greatly tightened regulations for civil service employees went into effect.

CONDUCTS INQUIRIES

Before that Lord Radcliffe, a lifetime peer, made almost a career of conducting government inquiries. He headed commissions that drew up the boundaries of India and Pakistan and the constitution for Cyprus and another that made a four-year study of the tax, monetary and credit system. He served as director general of information in World War II.

Assisting him will be Sir Milner Holland, one of Britain's top lawyers, and Justice Patrick Barry, a high court judge since 1959 who in 1952 tried William Marshall, a foreign office radio operator, and sent him to prison for five years for giving secrets to the Soviet Union.

DARK CLOUD

Macmillan told Parliament a "dark cloud of suspicion and innuendo" has surrounded Galbraith, the former admiralty minister, who last week resigned as undersecretary for Scotland.

Vassall had worked for him at the admiralty, and a number of brief, seemingly innocent letters from the minister to the clerk were found in Vassall's apartment.

"It is no good beating about the bush," declared the prime minister. "What was being spread about was that he was guilty of a perverted or immoral association with Vassall."

As Macmillan spoke, Galbraith, 45, married, and the father of two children, sat white-faced on the Conservative benches behind him. He is a member of the House of Commons from Glasgow.

IMPLY DEFECTION

A British newspaperman, Macmillan said, claimed he had been told by the police or security services that Vassall, before his arrest Sept. 12, intended to join Galbraith in Italy.

The implication, said Macmillan, was that Galbraith either intended to defect to the Soviet Union or help Vassall do so.

Macmillan said the report that the presence of a spy was known in the admiralty implied that the first lord of the admiralty, Lord Carrington, and his service chiefs had been "guilty of palpable negligence" and a "betrayal of their trust."

"If this is true," he said, "then it should be known. If it is not true, it is right that this untruth should be plainly and clearly established after a thorough investigation."

Soon after Macmillan's statement, Orr-Ewing, the present civil lord of the admiralty, said thousands of Red spies in Britain were "trained to detect weakness in character, weakness for drink, blondes, drugs and homosexuality. They are carefully card-indexed for future use."

Screen Revives 'Elephant Boy'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — It should not be a surprise that Sabu the Elephant Boy is no longer a boy.

After all, he starred in "Elephant Boy" back in 1937, when he was 11. That makes him all of 36, yet he is now playing his first really grownup role in films. He even has his first screen wife.

Sabu is working at Warner Brothers in "Rampage" with Robert Mitchum, Elsa Martinelli and Jack Hawkins. It is the Indian-born actor's return to acting after a long absence, during which he suffered a deep personal loss.

His brother, Shaik Dastgir, was killed by an 18-year-old boy he had hired in his furniture store. The youth decided to rob him, and Dastgir was shot in a scuffle.

Sabu said that he didn't feel like working after the tragedy. "It took me a long time to get over it," he remarked. "My brother and I were very close, and the whole thing was so senseless."

MARRIED 14 YEARS

He busied himself with running the furniture store, and engaged in building and operating apartment houses. Married for 14 years and father of two, he is aware of his responsibilities.

The new film is a good return of the actor.

for him. He plays the head tracker for a game-hunting expedition in Malaya. The company recently returned from the island of Hawaii, which doubled for the Malaya jungle.

Sabu, who has seen many a jungle in his day, had nothing but praise for the Hawaiian variety.

"Most jungles are swarming with flies and snakes," said the actor. "But there were none in Hawaii. The jungles there are the most beautiful I have ever seen. They get 200 inches of rain a year and the foliage is the greenest imaginable."

His ambition now is to stay in the jungle—with a television series. "I think the time is ripe for a good jungle series," he said. "There is very little on television for children nowadays, except for Walt Disney's show."

Malformed Children Get 2nd Chance at a Normal Life

ANN ARBOR (U) — Bit by bit, doctors try to replace and repair the human parts that nature has forgotten.

Children are born with cleft palates, or the swollen heads of hydrocephalus, or twisted limbs or partial limbs or damaged or constricted hearts.

Often these things can be replaced, covered, replaced, repaired. One element cannot. Brain damage, and resulting mental retardation can't be reversed.

The scope of what doctors can do and cannot do to help some of the children born with birth defects was described yesterday at a science writers seminar held by the National Foundation and the University of Michigan.

Experts talked about their patients — and showed some of them.

Here was a child with hydrocephalus — what many people call water on the brain. The infant's skull had been enlarged because certain fluids secreted within the brain had no place to drain. Normally these fluids would follow natural channels to an area where they could be absorbed by the heart.

drain the fluids out of the skull area and into the heart where they can be absorbed in the blood.

The tubing is planted in the small patient's skull under the skin and through veins to the heart.

Perhaps better than 65 per cent of the children can be helped in this way, some of them without undo damage to their brains compressed by the swelling of the fluid reservoir.

Even in these children, the valves and tubing must be sometimes replaced. The mere presence of the tubing and valve sometimes leads to infection.

In other cases, doctors showed how cleft or incomplete palates were repaired through plastic surgery. A tiny baby, three weeks old, amazingly showed no signs of the birth defect which disfigured its face and mouth only a week ago.

A lively young boy — who came within perhaps weeks of death two years ago — played in the meeting room as doctors described the hours-long operation which repaired his damaged heart.

The veins and tubes which channel the blood to his heart and lungs had become confused. In the development of the unborn child the tubing had followed a primitive pattern — a left-over from the growing and dependent embryo.

As a result his heart and lungs were incapable of freshening and pumping the blood to service his body. Doctors corrected the de-mixed-up plumbing so the heart could do its work.

Airport Dedication

Lounges Will Aid in Dulles Take-Off

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An important event in commercial aviation is coming up this week-end with the formal dedication of the splendid new Dulles International Airport.

I haven't seen the program yet, but I assume that President Kennedy will throw out the first stewardess, or something of that nature.

The ceremony will be followed on Monday by the official opening which will make it possible for passengers to miss connections at an airport specifically built for jet age travel.

Heretofore, they have had to miss connections at airports designed for propeller-driven aircraft and merely enlarged to accommodate jets. So this will be a big step forward.

Dulles Airport was built by the Federal Aviation Agency to provide jet facilities for the capital area. I use the word "area" loosely.

It is located about 25 miles farther from the capital than the old Washington National Airport. The simplest way to get from the capital to Dulles airport would be to go to National Airport and catch a plane.

NO CONNECTIONS

There is no connecting air service at present, however, so when the FAA conducted a press tour at Dulles this week I drove out by car.

Your first impression as you approach the Dulles terminal is that the roof is sagging. I was told, however, that the late Eero Saarinen, the terminal architect, designed it that way.

As I understand it, Saarinen wanted to give the building a soaring effect appropriate to its mission. In a pinch I suppose they could ground all the planes and fly the terminal.

At other airports, passengers have to walk from the terminal to the planes. At Dulles, they will ride in bus-like contraptions called "mobile lounges," which have their own boarding ramps.

An FAA representative gave some of us newsmen a trial spin in one of the lounges and answered our questions about it.

"Will it make comfort stops?" asked one reporter.

"How many miles to the gallon does it get?" inquired another.

Never let it be said that we journalists don't ask intelligent questions.

One of the press releases I picked up described the lounges as "revolutionary," and I'll agree that they will add a new dimension to air travel. Dulles will be the only airport where you can get to the terminal in time to catch a plane but miss connections with the ramp.

Young Socialite Indicted in Slaying

BOSTON (U) — A young blonde post-debutante, member of a socially prominent Boston family, was under indictment today for first-degree murder in the slaying of her Italian-Swiss boy friend.

A Suffolk County Grand Jury yesterday returned the indictment against Suzanne Clift in less than two hours.

Miss Clift, niece of movie actor Montgomery Clift, is accused of shooting Piero Brentani, 27, an engineer, on Oct. 1.

Brentani's nude body was found in Miss Clift's bedroom in the Beacon Hill home of her grandmother.

The slender, young girl was ordered to remain in Suffolk County jail where she has been held without bail since her arrest six weeks ago.

Although non filter cigarettes have recently been chalking up their first sales gains in 10 years, filter brands still control over 50 per cent of the market.

'Red Hot Mama' Looking Forward to Her 75th Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophie Tucker, "the last of the red hot mammas" is looking forward to her 75th birthday on Jan. 13.

"I have no intention of settling down," she told newsmen Wednesday on arriving by plane from London after a command performance climaxed a tour of Honolulu, South Africa and Israel. In Israel she dedicated a "Sophie Tucker Forest" of 400,000 trees.

Miss Tucker added: "How can you settle down in this country? I'm going to keep going as long as I can keep putting it over."

Offers Beer Bargain, but Gets Fined by Court
HEYWOOD, England (UPI) — Pub-keeper Terry Chadwick was fined $14 yesterday for selling beer in bigger-than-half-pint glasses at half-pint prices. He pleaded guilty but said he borrowed the glasses and didn't think to check their size.

Sees Exciting Developments From 'Boss' Gland Insights

NEW YORK (UPI)—The scientist with the keenest chemical insights into the "boss" gland of the human body believes such insights will produce "exciting developments" in the treatment of cancer, arthritis and other devastating human ills within the next 10 years.

Dr. Choh Hao Li, who would be "Dr. Pituitary" if science went in for such sobriquets, was revealing heretofore unknown pituitary fact. The molecule of its substance which stimulates human growth also contains the substance which stimulates the flow of natural baby food.

That gives you an idea of the amazing chemical intricacies of this "boss" gland hardly the size of a walnut situated at the base of the brain. Dr. Li had just received the Albert Lasker basic medical research award for 1962 for his years-long pituitary studies.

He is professor of biochemistry and experimental endocrinology and director of the hormone research laboratory at the University of California, Berkeley campus. He revealed some of his newest insights in an award-commemorating lecture last night.

TWO CHAMBERS

The pituitary has two chambers and both secrete substances which activate a host of body processes, most of them indirectly because the substances called hormones are aimed at other endocrine glands — thyroid, adrenal, and gonad. From the front pituitary chamber he has so far isolated and identified six hormones, including ACTH and growth hormone.

His new work reveals growth hormone serves two purposes in natural infant nutrition. In collaboration with ovarian hormone, (whose flow another pituitary hormone regulates), it produces required changes in the mammary gland, and then apparently by itself initiates flow.

The molecule of growth hormone is a long chain of amino acids, as is the molecule of ACTH and other pituitary hormones. His most recent work, he said, has shown that the hormone molecule does not have to be intact to exercise its extraordinary biological powers.

Chessman's Estate Goes to 4 Defenders

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—The estate of convicted author Caryl Chessman has been divided among the four persons who fought unsuccessfully to save him from the gas chamber.

The Southern California kidnaper was executed at San Quentin prison May 2, 1960, nearly 12 years after he was convicted and condemned in Los Angeles.

The estate, mostly royalties from books which he wrote while on death row, amounted to $12,488. However, expenses reduced this to $7,593.85, which was divided by a Marin County Superior Court.

Rosalie Asher, Chessman's chief attorney, received $2,839.85; attorney George Davis of San Francisco, $2,072.90; attorney A. L. Wirin of Los Angeles $1,837.50; and private detective William Linhart, $642.80.

Punch-Card Breeding

LONDON (R)—Cattle may be bred on a system of punched cards processed by an electronic brain. A plan launched by pedigree Friesian breeders would card-index 25,000 cows in 67 different classifications of shape, size and breed characteristics. The plan calls for making cattle breeding "an exact science."

GOP Official Hails Outstate Romney Help

HOLLAND (UPI) — Jerome C. Gryen, GOP vice chairman for voter registration, yesterday said the analyst's answers to George Romney's victory "have left out the most important ingredient."

Gryen said, "while the percentage of votes in Wayne County is important, of equal importance, and perhaps more so, is the tremendous number of votes cast in his behalf in outstate Michigan."

He praised the work of outstate county chairmen and their followers, Romney voters, Romney Girls and the thousands identified with those groups. He said, "they deserve far more credit than they have been getting."

He claimed the "lethargy" on the part of voters in outstate Michigan was broken by the efforts of the volunteer organizations.

"Wayne County may have put the frosting on the cake, but there wouldn't have been any cake at all without the untiring work of these fine groups," Gryen said.

Wants Legislature Add 150 Troopers

DETROIT (AP) — The Traffic Safety Committee of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police yesterday urged the coming legislative session to add 150 troopers to the authorized strength of the state police.

Additional manpower will be needed because of the state's expanding expressway system and for assistance of other police agencies, said committee chairman Frederick J. Serra, chief of police at Mount Morris.

In a press release, E. B. Wilson, executive secretary of the MACP, said the state police has a current shortage of 39 officers below the authorized strength of 1,155 men. "Correction of this situation also is asked," Wilson said.

The State Police Department included a request in its proposed budget for the next fiscal year that authorized manpower be increased by 150 men from the 1,155 officers to 1,305, Wilson reported.

'Ideal' Site Picked for Huron Valley Hospital

Obtains Option for 14-Acre Plot

Association Reports Location in E. Milford

MILFORD — A 14-acre site on the east side of Milford has been picked as the location for the proposed new Huron Valley Community Hospital.

The Huron Valley Community Hospital Association announced that it has obtained an option on property fronting on Atlantic Avenue and bounded on the west by Mont Eagle Avenue.

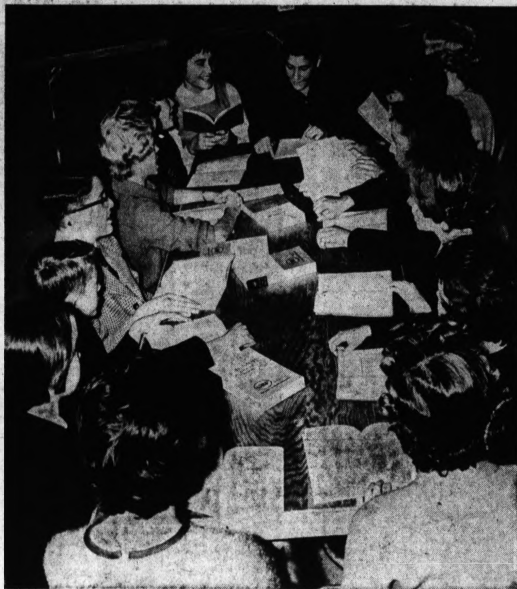

Association directors said the site is considered an "ideal location" since adequate water, sewer and electrical services are available.

It also is centrally located in the 10-township area to be served by the proposed hospital.

The 100-bed hospital, which would be built so it could be expanded to a 200-bed facility, is expected to cost $1,825,000, according to hospital association directors.

The cost estimate, the directors say, is based on studies by the hospital's building committee and on consultations with architects, engineers and administrators of other hospitals.

A building fund campaign is now under way under the direction of a professional fund raising firm, Burrill, Inc. of Kansas City, Mo. The hospital would be built to serve the western section of Oakland County and the eastern edge of Livingston County.

READING'S FUN — Typical of the size and enthusiasm of groups in the new Junior Great Books Program is this representation of fifth and sixth graders at Our Lady of Refuge School in Orchard Lake. The youngsters shown here, moderated by Mary Ann Poniatowski and Mrs. Colvin Taylor, are among more than 600 Oakland County students taking part in a pilot project in southeastern Michigan for the Great Books Foundation. The junior program will be offered nationally after the pilot study is completed.

Children Read Books Via National Project

By DON FERMOYLE

Johnny can't read? Nonsense, replies Mrs. James Worley, an energetic Royal Oak woman who is coordinator for the increasingly popular Great Books Program in Michigan.

Thousands of young Johnnies and Janeys throughout Southeastern Michigan are not only reading — they're reading Shakespeare!

They are doing it, explained Mrs. Worley, through a new Junior Great Books Program being organized for students from the fifth through the 12th grades.

The pilot program for the national Junior Great Books project is being carried out in Southeastern Michigan.

More than 600 students are helping to pioneer the program in Oakland County, she said.

Informality is stressed as the youngsters gather around a conference table once or twice a month to discuss works of history's great thinkers. The discussions are lively, often humorous, but usually in earnest as high schoolers knit their brows over the writings of Plutarch, Sophocles and Thoreau.

The Junior Great Books, graded for each reading level, include reading for fifth graders which includes "Alice in Wonderland," "King Lear," "Hamlet," "Aesop's Fables," and "Kipling's 'Jungle Books.'"

But sometimes it's difficult keeping up with these nimble young minds, said Mrs. Worley. "They aren't inhibited," she said, explaining that this often leads the youngsters into phases of the Great Books which may have eluded less imaginative adults.

Fifteen youngsters of each grade level are led by two adult leaders, usually parents or teachers. However, "the adults do not teach," Mrs. Worley pointed out. They act only as moderators who use the Socratic technique to guide discussions.

Mrs. Worley said 300 new adult moderators are being sought by Dec. 1 to start an eight-week course on Junior Great Books Leadership Training in Pontiac, Southfield and Birmingham.

Prospective adult leaders needn't be teachers, parents or persons with special educational backgrounds. They can register by contacting Mrs. Worley at her home, 2433 Ferncliff Ave., Royal Oak.

Adults who take the leadership course and later moderate the junior groups often find that they receive as many benefits as the youngsters, she added.

"The leaders learn the art of questioning. They learn to become more critical readers and thinkers themselves," concluded Mrs. Worley.

Trustee Wants Royal Oak Trial

Asks Change of Venue Because of 'Prejudice'

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — Ernest Wilson, a township trustee charged with extortion, conspiracy and bribery, yesterday filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court to force a transfer to Royal Oak Township of his examination on the charges.

The suit also seeks an injunction to prevent Farmington Township Justice Allen C. Ingle from holding the examination in his court, where Wilson stood mute on the charges Oct. 31 and was freed on $2,500 bond.

Wilson asks for a change of venue on grounds that the offenses are alleged to have occurred in Royal Oak Township and that the case should be tried before Royal Oak Township Justice Lonnie C. Cash "as a matter of equity and fairness."

He said the transfer should be made so that he would "not be unduly harmed and injured by a calculated public prejudice."

A former township policeman, Wilson is accused by state police of being involved in numerous payoffs or attempted payoffs ranging from $25 biweekly to a lump sum of $600.

One of five counts against him claims he demanded a kickback from James F. Eaton, the township's urban renewal program director.

Re-Elected President of Milk Producers Body

North Branch—Glenn Lake, 5025 North Branch Road, yesterday was re-elected president of the National Milk Producers Federation at the group's 46th annual conference in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lake is president of the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

Still at Odds in Southfield

Mayor, Council Split on Assessing Dept.

SOUTHFIELD — Mayor S. James Clarkson and the City Council here still are deadlocked in a long-standing battle over the city's assessing department.

The mayor has been at odds with the council for some time over what he claims is the "inadequacy of the assessing department."

In his latest move, Clarkson has vetoed a council resolution which rejected an earlier proposal by the mayor that an assistant city assessor be hired.

The mayor said another man is needed in the assessor's office for the posting of land values and the preparation and mailing of some 20,000 change of assessment notices as required in the city charter.

The council complains that early this year it hired the firm of J. M. Clemmishaw for the recommendation of the mayor to re-evaluate the entire city, two-thirds of which is still undeveloped.

The council says that the Clemmishaw firm, which was to get $10,000 for the job, still has not submitted a report on what it has accomplished to date.

City Assessor Gerald C. Eastlick has notified the council that his office will have to go on overtime to complete the posting of land values and mailing of assessment notices.

The council disagrees. Clarkson at one time fired Eastlick for alleged incompetence.

The council then vetoed the mayor's action and Eastlick still is on the job.

Mayor, Council Split on Assessing Dept.

HOLLY — The president of Allied Corrugated Container Co., one of Holly's largest employers, has confirmed reports that his firm plans to vacate its present plant here.

"We don't have the facilities in Holly," said the company's president, Hy Sweet. "We simply have outgrown them."

Sweet, unavailable at his firm's Detroit offices yesterday for comment on the rumored move, was contacted later in the day by telephone in Battle Creek.

At Tuesday night's village council meeting here, Village Pres-

'State Dems United,' JFK's Aides Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Michigan Democratic Party Chairman John (Joe) Collins said he told President Kennedy's aides yesterday the state party is united despite its loss of the governorship.

Collins said he called at the White House to offer his thanks for the administration's election campaign help and to report on the favorable outlook in Michigan for 1964.

Collins told newsmen defeated Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson was the party's "undisputed titular head in Michigan and that the Democrats are more strongly united now than two years ago."

Michigan initiated the first state program of consultant service to hospitals on care of mothers and newborn babies.

dent John F. Oldani said he would speak to Allied Corrugated Container officials in an attempt to keep the plant in Holly.

EYES PONTIAC

"We are receptive to any offer in Holly," Sweet said. "We have no definite plans yet."

However, Sweet indicated that he had looked at sites in other areas, including Pontiac.

"We have seen several plants which interest us in Pontiac," he added, explaining that they were existing structures which could be remodeled and renovated for his business.

"We have not committed ourselves," he said.

The company manufactures corrugated cardboard boxes. The executive said the firm employs about 125 persons in its Holly operation.

Sweet said the firm will employ a work force of approximately 200 when it obtains larger quarters.

DIFFERENT REASONS

Sweet, who said yesterday he had not yet been contacted by the village president, indicated that the reasons for giving up the Holly plant were not the same as those given when the former American Spring of Holly, Inc., left the village.

American Spring officials blamed "high wages and taxes" for the decision to move its entire operations to Charlotte, N.C., little more than two years ago.

The same company, operating under a new management and a new name, returned here early this year. However, the spring company employs only some 100 workers, about half the total work force of the old company.

Rochester PTA Plans Meeting

Financial Problems Will Be Studied

ROCHESTER — The Rochester School District's Parent-Teacher's Association Council will sponsor an open meeting Tuesday to discuss the district's financial problems with the view to possible organization of a school study committee.

The meeting, to be at 8 p.m. in the Central Junior High School, was called because of impending expiration of a three-month operating tax.

School Supt. Donald C. Baldwin requested the assistance of the PTA council in setting up a new citizen's group to study the financial situation.

When formed the committee will have the task of recommending a suitable millage proposal to replace the operating tax due to expire in December.

Expiration of the tax will mean a loss of approximately $150,000 in school operational funds, Baldwin said.

Mrs. Morton Conrad, president of the PTA Council, has issued an invitation to the general public to attend the meeting.

"This is a matter of concern for the whole community," she said. "I hope a large group will turn out to assist us in determining how to face this problem."

State Traffic Kills 1,344

EAST LANSING — Traffic accidents have killed 1,344 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The toll at this date last year was 1,342.

Eastern Star Sets Saturday for Joint Class

CLARKSTON — Joseph C. Bird Chapter, No. 294, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a joint school of instruction with Orvilleville, Chapter No. 286, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Shirley Jones, Grand Conduress of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, O.E.S., will be the instructor. All members of the Order are invited to attend the session.

A special meeting of the Joseph C. Bird Chapter is scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m. for the conferring of degrees, the first initiatory activities of the new officers.

The evening will end with a social hour and refreshments.

Board Asks Citizens Help

Troy School 'Committee' to Study Needs, Finances

TROY — Delegates will soon be sought for the "Troy School Advisory Committee," a citizen's group recently established by the board of education to study current expected problems in the school system.

The board's decision to form the citizen's group is based on the "essential need to adjust the school program," according to School Supt. Rex B. Smith.

Smith said the advisory committee will study the present and expected school needs here. "The district appears to be facing tremendous growth problems," he said.

Organizations within the boundaries of the school district will be contacted and asked to delegate one or two representatives to serve on the committee.

In addition to the association delegates anyone else interested in the improvement of the Troy School District is invited to join, according to Smith.

The advisory group will receive consultative service from Wayne State University's College of Education.

Representatives of the college will conduct the first three meetings of the committee, prior to the election of committee officers.

The board of education, school superintendent and all teachers will also be available to the group as sources of information, Smith said.

In addition to preparing an evaluation of the present school situation the committee will have the task of making a long-range study of expected population growth up to 1980.

The board also is asking the group to analyze the desire and ability of district residents to provide adequate financial support for school expansion programs.

Smith said the advisory group will be expected to present its findings to the board by next June 30, if possible.

Teen Dance to Honor Boy Who Lost Legs

CLARKSTON — Richard Cranick, 15, who lost both legs during the summer in an accident on his uncle's farm, will be guest of honor at a teen dance tomorrow night at the Clarkston Community Center.

All proceeds of the 8 to 11:30 p.m. event will be turned over to the boy's family to help defray expenses resulting from the mishap.

Teen-agers from the Clarkston-Waterford area are invited to attend. The "Initials" will provide music and refreshments will be available.

6-Year-Old Learns Facts of Politics

WASHINGTON 679 — It took the 1962 senatorial campaign in Indiana to teach Evan Bayh, 6, that everyone didn't think his daddy was the nicest man in the world.

Evan, son of Democratic Sen. Evan Bayh Jr., came home in tears from the Meadows school at Terre Haute, his mother recounted. He said the other children had sung:

"Birch Bayh is a rat
"Cause he is a Democrat."

"And they told him, 'my folks hope your daddy doesn't win,'" Mrs. Bayh said. "That was the first time in his life anyone suggested his daddy wasn't a very nice person."

Marvella Bayh said she did not think the experience had any lasting harmful effect on her son, however.

'REALITIES OF LIFE'

"I think the quicker a child learns the realities of life, the better off he is," she said in an interview. "He seems to be taking it in stride — he's really a very good trouper."

Mrs. Bayh, 28, a pretty hazel-eyed blonde, with a trim figure and a warm smile, apparently was a pretty good trouper herself, although she had her share of heartaches.

"The only hard part was the last three weeks of the campaign when I received some very cutting letters and telephone calls," she said.

"The people never would give their names and Birch said, 'dissiminate it from your mind because they're ashamed of what they're doing,'" but I haven't quite learned to do that yet."

One thing she did learn, she said, was always to carry an extra pair of stockings.

"I fell to the floor at the nominating convention, and when Birch won the nomination I had to pose with him with a big grin in my stocking," she recalled.

Since last January Mrs. Bayh has made at least two speeches a week for her husband, stepping up that pace to include daily breakfast, lunch and dinner meetings during the final weeks of the campaign. Speaking was easy, she said, "because I believe so in Birch."

Seek Increase in City Service

Suggest Keep Office Open on Saturdays

In line with other recent steps taken to insure better service to citizens visiting municipal offices, City Commissioner Winford E. Bottom has suggested that the driver's license bureau remain open Saturdays.

At Tuesday's commission meeting, Bottom asked City Manager Robert A. Stierer to "see if the license bureau's business hours can be extended to include Saturdays."

Bottom suggested it would be a worthwhile item to consider along with other recently recommended policy changes in the police department.

Stierer said he would study the possibility with Police Chief Joseph Koron. Bottom indicated he would like a half-day operation on Saturdays.

The bureau is currently open daily except weekends.

The question of office hours came up last summer when several citizens complained they weren't able to pay traffic tickets because the city violations bureau was closed during the lunch hour.

City administrators and commissioners took immediate steps to assure that the bureau would be open daily 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Staffs in other city offices have also been staggered so that someone will always be present to handle citizen requests at noon.

Non Farm Workers Soar to 56.3 Million in October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nonfarm employment rose to 56.3-million workers in October, an all-time high, the Labor Department announced yesterday.

However, the increase from September was only 58,000. Labor Department analysts said this showed that the employment picture continued on the plateau where it has remained during recent months.

However, compared with a year ago, these was considerable improvement — an increase of 1,342,000 jobholders.

Seymour Wolftein, the department expert, said the main reason that the unemployment rate dropped from 5.8 to 5.5 per cent during October was that almost 200,000 women who entered the labor force in August found jobs.

He said he did not know in what fields they found employment.

Wolftein said the most significant factor in the jobless picture was that long-term unemployment has continued to decline. In October, there were nearly 900,000 persons unemployed for 15 weeks or longer. This was 400,000 below last year's total, he noted.

Average hourly earnings of factory production workers held steady during October at a record of $2.46. Weekly earnings, however, fell 72 cents to $96.72. This reflected a reduction in average weekly hours.

Wolftein said part of the decline in the work week was due to religious holidays and Columbus Day which came during the week that the Labor Department made its survey.

Unemployment during October totaled 68.9 million, the highest October level on record. It was more than one million above that for October 1961.

Seeds of Unrest Sown in Russia

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For many weeks, long before eruption of the Cuban crisis, unusually frank dispatches from Moscow have been reporting mounting troubles in Nikita Khrushchev at home.

These included widespread agricultural failures and a seemingly endless list of industrial snafus running all the way from a shortage of women's black lace lingerie to production of cement.

This week brought new stories of Russian labor unrest which, coupled with earlier reports of rioting against increased meat and butter prices, added to evidence of mounting discontent among the Soviet people.

Taken together, these dispatches gave new reason for other Moscow reports that the Kremlin now seeks a period of quiet on the international front so it can turn its attention to problems at home.

Disappointing crop reports came from the virgin lands of northern Kazakhstan and from the Ukraine. Only in Great Russia, the area surrounding Moscow, was there a report of a "record" grain harvest.

Industrial failures alone would give the party central committee plenty to consider when it meets next Monday.

Last summer, reports never confirmed by the Kremlin but generally credited by the West, told of wild rioting in the southern industrial city of Novocherkassk, near Rostov, over the hike in food prices.

THOUSANDS WALK OFF

Later reports have told of thousands of Soviet construction workers walking off their jobs in the industrial Kuznetsk Basin in Siberia. The workers were protesting unsatisfactory living and housing conditions.

These same reports told of more than $900 million tied up in unfinished construction projects and more than $80 million in machinery idle because of unfinished factories.

All this points to a new shakeup in Soviet planning agencies and perhaps to more belt tightening for the hapless Soviet citizen.

Among those seeking straws in the wind pointing the direction of Soviet policy, party slogans accompanying the celebration of the Bolshevik revolution's 45th anniversary seemed to provide interesting food for thought.

The slogans virtually ignored heavy industry, indicating a continuing de-emphasis on that branch of the Soviet economy, along with curtailment of new capital investments.

Coal miners were urged to their "utmost" to make full use of their tools, but there was no mention of further mechanization or automation.

Similar omissions were noted in the oil and gas industries.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

Rapid expansion of electric power, building, wood-working and chemical industries, according to the slogans, will be continued.

References to Khrushchev's pet agricultural projects, such as the planting of sugar-beets, beans, peas and corn, were dropped. And smacking suspiciously of capitalism have been recent suggestions that an incentive system should be installed for Soviet workers.

BOSTONIAN CRAFTS AN EXCELLENT SHOE, AND HERE ARE FOUR OF THEIR HANDSOMEST STYLES FOR FALL

One of the most surprising things about Bostonian is that they can put so much quality into a shoe selling for a modest price. Their leathers are carefully selected and painstakingly tanned; soft, supple leathers that wear well and retain their handsome appearance. Their soles are exceptionally flexible, yet sturdy and long-lasting. And the stitching and finishing is excellent. We like to call your attention to these four styles: (a) the dressy wing-toe at 21.95 ... (b) the low-line moccasin toe slip-on at 23.95 ... (c) the classic moccasin toe at 19.95 ... and (d) the traditional plain toe with slightly raised upper at 19.95.

Explore Tshombe Letter

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Acting Secretary General Thant's experts on the Congo studied a long letter from Katanga President Moïse Tshombe today to determine the next step in settling the Congo problem.

Thant is expected to summon his 20-nation Congo advisory committee within the next few days to formulate strategy for ending Katanga's secession and reuniting the Congo under a new federal constitution.

The contents of Tshombe's letter were not disclosed pending thorough examination of the French text by Thant's advisers. A U.N. spokesman said the message, received late Tuesday night, was "very long and complicated."

Tshombe beat an unofficial deadline set by Thant for a reply to a letter sent by the acting Secretary General last week.

Thant asked Tshombe for action by today on his plan for reunification of the Congo.

NOT SIGNIFICANT
U.N. sources did not attach any particular significance to the fact that Tshombe replied in time. They said Thant did not consider his request a "hard deadline," but it has become evident that the U.N. chief is impatient for a settlement.

Pressure has been building up in the United Nations for a settlement before another major crisis develops as a result of recent bombings by Katangese aircraft in northern Katanga.

Reports from Leopoldville Tuesday said five Congolese were killed and six wounded in an air raid on the village of Buyu.

The people of northern Katanga traditionally have been tribal rivals of Tshombe.

Names Committee for Mrs. Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP)—To honor the memory of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Kennedy has named a committee to promote interests to which she devoted her life.

The White House said the committee's attention is to be "focused particularly on the securing and protection of human rights and on improvement of living conditions among the underprivileged. It was to these matters that much of Mrs. Roosevelt's efforts were devoted."

As its chairman, Kennedy named U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who has been a close friend of the wartime president's widow.

HALE AND HEARTY
Grishka, a German shepherd dog, sits in Moscow park with Russian surgeon Vladimir Demikhov who gave the dog a second heart in place of its left lung.

Guard Escapes Over East Wall

BERLIN (AP)—A young East German border guard early today fought a pitched gun battle with other Red guards but they could not stop his escape to West Berlin.

West Berlin police said the 19-year-old refugee and other border guards exchanged about 30 shots.

The escaping guard reached West Berlin territory unharmed. Because of darkness, the Western police could not tell if any of the other East German guards were hit. The Western police said they did not fire any shots.

The shooting occurred at the border between the suburb of Rudow, in the American sector, and East Germany.

Shortly afterward, a member of the East German People's Army escaped across the barbed-wire border between East Germany and the northern parts of West Berlin, police reported. They refused to give details of that escape.

Animal Trapper Dies at Work Near Marion

MARION (AP)—Howard A. Gerberich, 86, of Evert fell victim of a heart attack while operating an animal trap line about two miles south of Marion, state police at Reed City said Thursday.

A search party found his body late Wednesday night. Osceola County coroner Howard Foxnaught of Marion ruled on the cause of death.

Editor Boosts UP to 300

DETROIT (AP)—An Escanaba editor pictured Michigan's Upper Peninsula as an area "immensely rich in copper, iron, limestone, wood, farmland, water, weather, and people" for an audience of some 300 Detroiters and out-of-staters yesterday.

Editor Jean Worth of the Escanaba Daily Press spoke to the downtown Detroit Rotary Club, whose guests included a score from elsewhere here for a convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He was introduced by A. H. McKeown, a Detroit News executive.

"The Upper Peninsula shares a problem with California," Worth said, "more people want to live there than the area can support. This situation is interpreted by some as meaning that the Upper Peninsula is poor."

"But it has lost farms without losing production."

"It is building more pellet iron production on the Marquette Range than it has ever had in direct shipping ores."

"An important copper strike at Calumet has just been announced. Its forests are producing so much wood that it can't all be sold."

"There is more iron mined today in the Upper Peninsula than has been mined in the past century."

"The most modern sawmill in the nation has just been built in the Upper Peninsula."

"Not even Venice has as much water as the Upper Peninsula. Only about one-tenth of its boundary isn't on the Great Lakes."

Worth said the Mackinac Bridge and super highways haven't changed things much yet, "but no one in the Upper Peninsula believes they won't eventually."

And to this, he added, tongue-in-cheek:

"Some dread the day. One of their devices to keep out strangers is the weather. Upper Peninsulans have lied about it so much and posed with so many snow shovels that they have conditioned the metropolitan press like Pavlov's dog. Mention a snowflake and the banners say 'Blizzard!'"

Singer, Husband Break Marriage of 8 Years

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Singer Jane Powell and her businessman husband Pat Nerney have separated after eight years of marriage, it was reported yesterday.

Miss Powell, 33, who starred in such films as "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "Hit the Deck," and "Ginny Most Likely," said no plans for a divorce have been made.

Adenauer Has New Trouble
Minority Party May Join Revolt

BONN, Germany (AP)—The minority member of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government coalition threatened today to join the opposition socialists in demanding the resignation of Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss over the Der Spiegel affair.

The threat by the Free Democratic party threw up a new crisis for the 85-year-old chancellor, but it was not likely to come to a head before he returns from Washington tomorrow.

Without Free Democratic support, Adenauer would lose his majority in the Bundestag, parliament's lower house, and would have to resign.

Free Democratic members of the Bundestag called a meeting for Monday in Nuernberg to decide whether they will insist on Strauss' resignation.

Adenauer's Christian Democratic party already has rejected a Socialist demand for the minister's dismissal.

Authoritative sources said yesterday that Strauss was ready to resign until the Socialists demanded his ouster.

Had he resigned, "the public would have accused the party of bowing to the socialists," and official close to the Adenauer administration said.

The Free Democrats are furious with Strauss for what they consider an insult to the Bundestag, a party spokesman said.

The result, he explained, was Strauss' delayed admission, after many denials, that he played a

But Others Say Give Younger Republicans Chance to Talk

Ev and Charlie Won't Change Conservative Tune

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "Ev and Charlie" show will be back on the boards in the next Congress with no change in its political format dictated by this month's election results.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Wednesday he sees no reason why he and House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana would swing out of the conservative groove they followed in weekly news conferences taped for television during the last Congress.

Halleck who tends to be a little more conservative than Dirksen, was said by friends to be determined to continue blasting away at New Frontier proposals.

However, Rep. William H. Ayres of Ohio, the Republican congressional publicity chairman, believes it's time for a change in order to give the younger GOP Congress members a chance to be heard.

TOO FREQUENT TALKERS

Dirksen and Halleck, he said, speak too frequently from their own point of view. He suggested they be replaced with interviews with various Republican members of Congress.

At a news conference Wednesday, Dirksen, who won re-election by a not very comfortable margin, said he was not unhappy with the results of the voting which displaced four GOP senators with liberal Democrats and gave the Republicans only two additional House members.

Despite the Senate losses, Dirksen said that Republicans had made some strategic gains in county and state offices which promised to develop for them some "solid party strength" in the 1964 presidential contest.

He said the GOP had made gains in the South which would add to its strength in bidding for electoral votes in 1964.

VAGUE ABOUT STANDS

Dirksen was vague about stands he thinks the Republicans will take in the next Congress.

Asked if he and Halleck would reiterate their contention that taxes ought not to be reduced unless there is a cut in expenditures, he said he held no hard and fast views on this subject. He added that if a tax cut were going to increase the deficit, "you had better reduce expenditures or something else."

Dirksen said he expects foreign aid and farm legislation to present major problems in the new Congress. He predicted there will be extended hearings on the proposal to submit again for Social Security financing of health care for the elderly.

In reply to a question, Dirksen stopped short of endorsing the suggestion of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that Kennedy fire U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and other advisers. Goldwater contended they were "soft on communism."

'WON'T ASK PROBE'

Dirksen, who conferred with Kennedy after his return to Washington, also discouraged the idea that Republicans will demand an investigation of the Cuban crisis, particularly Kennedy's assurances to Soviet Premier Khrushchev that there would be no U.S. invasion of the island if offensive weapons were removed.

Foreign Relations Committee to explore what happened during the crisis "but not in the terms of an investigation."

'Little Guys' Make R20 Project a Success

"ROTTEN APPLE" — Although structurally sound, this house at 60 Parkhurst St. was referred to by urban renewal officers as "a rotten apple in a pretty good block." Marked for rehabilitation in the R20 urban renewal project, its owner sold it. This is what it looked like on Nov. 15, 1961.

'Suburban' Home Owners Invest in Neighborhood

By DICK SAUNDERS

While civic leaders and city fathers have been hustling prospects for the investment of private capital on downtown urban renewal parcels, a story has been brewing in the "suburbs."

The "suburbs" of urban renewal in this case consist of the vast, predominantly residential portion of Pontiac's first urban renewal project (R20) east of the central business district.

Private capital totaling approximately $305,000 has been invested there.

It can't be measured as one measures a multimillion dollar investment by a big-time developer or corporation.

This $305,000 can be measured only in terms of sweat, faith, spirit and cooperation. It came mostly from the little guy who never gets his name in the paper.

It came in small amounts and a little at a time. And it was hard-earned.

TOUGHEST TO SELL

Rehabilitation is the toughest phase of urban renewal to sell.

The fact that rehabilitation has been one of the shining successes of Pontiac's urban renewal program is a tribute to the cooperative spirit of home owners and the salesmanship of staff officers.

"To be honest about it," said Stanley Boekins, rehabilitation officer, "we felt pretty good when the total reached $250,000."

"Credit for the current figure, we feel, belongs to people who have a genuine interest in their homes and neighborhoods."

At this time last year, rehabilitation officials thought things were going well. Progress made since then is evident in the pairs of pictures on this page, taken of the same scenes a year apart.

There were originally 278 structures in the R20 project slated for rehabilitation by the owners.

These homes needed work to correct violations of city codes or were in need of simpler items like a coat of paint.

NO HANDOUTS

While owners could apply for loans at special rates under the urban renewal rehabilitation program, there weren't any handouts or federal grants for them.

The money spent had to come out of their pockets.

Recently, a revised R20 project plan has been proposed whereby some 40 additional structures will be purchased for clearance, lowering the total marked for rehabilitation to about 238.

These structures to be added to the acquisition list are either too costly to rehabilitate, undesirable for residential use, or needed for future repurposing or planning purposes.

Of the 238 structures, rehabilitation has at least begun on all but about 15.

Code-required repairs have been completed on some 81 structures, and about 114 have finished work on all recommended improvements not covered by codes.

To date, about 80 structures on which both code and noncode improvements were needed have been completely rehabilitated and given final approval by urban staffers.

In addition, the city already has built about 7,000 feet of new sidewalks at a cost of $18,000 without assessing property owners in the urban renewal area.

WORK ON SEWER

Work is under way on the Parke Street sewer, estimated to cost about $8,000, and the city is grading cleared land for a $40,000 neighborhood park bounded by Wall, Willard, Paddock and Perkins streets.

In most cases, property owners are finding it pays to rehabilitate when the guy next door is doing it too.

A year ago, Oscar Pung of Rochester owned a home at 133 Judson St. His first reaction to rehabilitation, according to Boekins, was to try and sell the house.

"He couldn't get a decent price," Boekins related. "After putting some $6,800 into renovating the home, he sold it for a slight profit."

Many others who rent properties have found rehabilitation and urban renewal redevelopment to be a combination that's reaped rewards in rental rates.

"Some owners just tell us bluntly that they'll sell before they rehabilitate," Boekins admitted. "We try to find them a buyer interested in renovating the property."

Now averaging well over $1,000 invested per structure, the R20 rehabilitation program could well become a model for urban renewal projects in other cities across the nation.

PRIZE WINNER — Last year's "rotten apple" was transformed into this year's show stopper by its new owners, John R. Lumber Co. of Berkley. With a completely redesigned

interior, new wiring, hardwood floors, heating system, roof and aluminum siding, it has a bright future. This rehabilitation job helped spruce up a whole neighborhood.

BEDROOM - AFTER — Below is a portion of the same bedroom as it looks today. It's owners now live in a home that is tasteful, pleasant and designed for the future, in a community being rebuilt for the future.

NEW BACKYARD — A little work on the porch and a few coats of paint make a big difference. Adding to the total effect is a new rear door and the addition of two windows

Abby Comforts Wife

Hubby's Alibi So Far-Fetched It Must Be Nothing but Truth

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last night, while I had the bridge club over, my husband went to a drive-in movie. When he came home at 5 o'clock in the morning he said, "Now don't get mad at me. I fell asleep at the drive-in movie and nobody woke me up." Can this be true?

GRAND SLAM

DEAR ABBY: I was told not to wear black to a wedding. I went out and bought a new dress, although I had a perfectly good (new) black one in my closet. When I got to the wedding, two out of five women were wearing black dresses. The wedding was at 7 p.m. Please answer in the paper. I want to settle this with someone.

ELKHART gives you any satisfaction to know that YOU were more appropriately dressed than the women in black — here it is.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the 15-year-old girl who signed herself SLAVE because her mother asked her to do a few chores around the house. I, too, felt that I was being imposed upon because my mother insisted that I help with the housework. Now that I have a home of my own I am sorry I didn't learn more under my mother's supervision.

Do you know how to mop and wax tile floors? And how to polish furniture properly? Can you wash and iron your husband's shirts? Do you know how to clean an oven? And defrost a refrigerator? Do you know what to do if a fuse blows? Can you buy groceries in the right amounts? Unless you can answer yes to all these questions, don't complain.

YOUNG WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know what you think about a 16-year-old girl buying her boyfriend a shirt that matches her blouse. He is 18 and we have been going together for about a year.

FAITHFUL READER "surprise" him with it. Ask him first.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Italian-American Unit Gathers in Club Hall

The Auxiliary of the Italian-American Club met Monday evening in the club hall with Mrs. Joel Puertas and Mrs. Ralph Puertas serving as hostesses.

Mrs. Eugene Sada and Mrs. Carl Grassi are cochairmen for the annual Christmas dinner party for members only Dec. 6 in the Alpine Inn.

Dirt Gardeners View Unique Arrangements

"Autumn Leaves" was the theme for the Dirt Gardeners' Club meeting Tuesday in Adah Shelly Library. Fall foliage and dried plant material were made into unique arrangements.

Mrs. Donald Gilchrist and Mrs. Rose Thomas were hostesses and Mrs. Blythe Abare led devotions. The club welcomed Mrs. Orville Prokash into membership.

The annual Christmas party will be Dec. 11 in the home of Mrs. Ray O'Neil on West Walton Boulevard.

To Address PTA

Dr. Edgar G. Johnston, director of research for Waterford Township Schools, will speak to the Douglas Houghton School PTA this evening at 8 p.m. His subject will be "Educating the Child in Today's World."

Chairman of the children's Christmas party Dec. 16 in the club hall is Mrs. Giulio Bernero, with Mrs. Sam Calabrese, Mrs. Roger Davis and Mrs. Frank Soda assisting.

Proceeds from the annual candy sale will be sent to a Flint family with 14 children whose home was destroyed by a recent fire.

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: The invitations to my wedding were sent out about 10 days ago. Reply cards were enclosed for guests to answer. The invitations were addressed to Mr. and Mrs. alone with no mention of the children.

However, some of the replies have come in with the children's names included on them.

This is the one thing I wanted to avoid as I am having a sit-down dinner at a hotel where the charge is so much per person.

Will you please tell me if there is anything I can do about this?

A: The only thing you can do is to write and say: "We are very sorry but the reception is to be a sit-down dinner to which unhappily the number is limited; and as much as we would like to include Mary and Tim, if we do, all the other children will be hurt if they aren't invited."

Q: Will you please answer the following question for me: When a boy and girl go ice skating together, is the girl expected to put the girl's skates on for her or does she put them on herself?

A: When grandfather was a boy, he put on grandmother's skates for her but the modern young girl of today is no longer considered a helpless creature and puts on her own skates.

Q: Will you please tell me the proper way to serve refreshments to guests in the living room?

For example, if I bring in a tray of cheese and crackers or cookies, do I start with the person nearest the door of entrance even though he be a man and go around the room in turn, or should I first serve the lady visitors, then the men and last of all members of my family?

A: If you have only a handful of guests and you can easily serve the women first without awkwardly passing the tray back and forth, you do so.

Otherwise you serve each guest in turn as you come to him or her.

Newcomers Play Bridge

Mrs. Francis McDowell opened her home on Delaware Drive to the Pontiac Newcomers' Wednesday afternoon for a dessert bridge party. Mrs. Laurence Sherwood and Mrs. Robert Nordman were guests.

Highlight of the Nov. 28 meeting with Mrs. Morton Bacon of Chippewa Road, hostess, will be a talk by Mrs. Mary Hardy, home demonstration agent, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

St. John at Town Hall

Author Reveals Africa

By LINDA LA MARRE

"The gospel according to St. John in Pontiac."

It was no celestial host speaking, but Robert St. John, foreign war correspondent, radio newscaster and author. He addressed Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall Wednesday in the Huron Theater.

While not exactly a Bible study, there was good amount of food for thought in the guest speaker's talk, "Explosive Africa."

In it, the 60-year-old journalist discussed what everyone knows about Africa, what he has observed during his innumerable fact-finding trips to the continent, and finally what we can do with the 200-million inhabitants.

The key word here, is "with," Mr. St. John pointed out. The African people "are finished having things done to and for them."

The key to understanding Africans, he suggested, is five words that describe their outlook: bewildered, discontented, searching, frightened and angry.

OVER TWO-MILLION MILES

By his own estimate, Mr. St. John has traveled well over two-million miles, visited with leading figures and ordinary people in more than 60 countries. He has lost count of the number of visits to Africa.

Interrupting himself frequently, Mr. St. John said that "most black Africans speak three languages fluently." The three — their native language (there are 700 different languages, he pointed out, and they're not merely dialects), Swahili and English.

"All wisdom did not come to the African continent with the arrival of the first white man."

"The most important event in our lifetime," he continued, "is the revolution now occurring, this surge of depressed peoples," the end of empires and colonialism.

"We have really missed the boat while this is happening," Mr. St. John suggested the smear on the word "revolution" was principally responsible.

'DON'T EMBARRASS'

What we should have done, he pointed out, was to tell these people "We are the original revolutionaries. Let us show you how, we're your friends." Rather than embarrass our "bedfellows" with colonial holdings, or lose our bases abroad, Americans preferred to disregard their revolutionary experience of 1776.

What can we do to help the emerging African nations? Mr. St. John suggests we "get rid of stupid prejudice, not in your husband, wife, friend, but deep inside yourself."

"Remember that we live in a golden bowl, that the Monroe Doctrine is as dead as a dodo. We are involved in the rest of the world from our bases to Coca-Cola exports. "Don't fall victim to the shallow idea that we have no right to interfere in others' internal affairs."

Mr. St. John pointed out that we have extended safeguards for "civilized behavior" — police, courts, traffic lights — on the local level, and the insistence for the same behavior on the national level "is starting."

The first good worldwide publicity we've had in a long time, he said, was the result of Federal action in the state of Mississippi.

The house guest of Gen. and Mrs. S. L. A. Marshall in Birmingham, Mr. St. John will continue his lecture travels to Northville and Plymouth.

Leal Emes Members Elect New Officers

Florence Schlusser was chairman and June Schlusser gave an explanation and discussion from the Book of Romans. Martha Leach reported on the book "Rim of East Asia." Esther Voorhes led a discussion of a recent Supreme Court decision.

Three magazine subscriptions will be sent to the Oakland County Medical Care Facility residents for Christmas. Mrs. Larry McDowell of Birmingham will be hostess for the annual Christmas meeting and party.

Ebels Travis was a guest at the meeting.

Pontiac MSU Student Debates Britishers

Two members of the Oxford (England) University debate team matched wits with two representatives of Michigan State University's Spartan debaters, Wednesday evening, in Anthony Auditorium on campus.

Clark Davis, sophomore majoring in marketing, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Davis of Rose Court, and James Hudek, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, engineering freshman, represented MSU in the

Anglo-American debate exhibition.

They upheld the affirmative and Oxford the negative position on the proposition: "Resolved, that the U.S. should not tolerate the continued existence of the Castro regime in Cuba." (The arguments presented did not necessarily stem from personal conviction.)

The visiting Britishers, on tour of the United States, have been featured by the National Broadcasting Company in a network international championship debate. They are graduate students and members of the Oxford Debating Union where weekly debates hold the same interest for students as major sporting events do for their American counterparts.

Among 34 Central Michigan University seniors who have been elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" are three from the Pontiac area.

They are Vicki Sue McLaughlin, daughter of the Charles McLaughlins of Mohawk Road; Frances Loretta Spencer, whose parents are the O. D. Spencers of Cosyburn Drive, and Robert Reimer, Walled Lake.

Introverts Not Funny

Humor a Social Matter

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE 1476: Clint W., aged 22, was a journalism student, who enrolled in my "Applied Psychology" class at Northwestern University.

When we reached Chapter 12 in my text book, entitled "The Psychology of Writing and of Art," Clint wanted me to discuss humor.

So I constructed a "multiple choice" test where I listed situations and then offered several possible answers to each.

The students were then to pick out the correct solution from this group.

Here is one of those typical problems, now listed on Page 788 of my textbook:

"A butler accidentally opens the bathroom door while the lady of the house is bathing. He should say:

— "Oh, excuse me, Madame. I didn't know you were in here."

— "You should have locked the door."

— "Oh, excuse me, Sir."

Which of those answers would indicate the best judgment on the part of that butler?

MANY WROTE IN

Well, when I used this same problem in a newspaper puzzle some years ago, hundreds of brilliant scientists, clergymen and business executives telephoned and wrote letters and even sent telegrams demanding to know if it wasn't a misprint when I gave the third answer as the proper one.

"Why, Dr. Crane," these people with a single-track mind would protest, "surely that third reply couldn't be right! For it was a woman in the tub, not a man, so why should he say 'Sir'?"

Well, that was an evidence of the butler's tact or diplomacy!

So polite speakers, as well as writers, are almost compelled to laugh at their own jokes or else insert the printed word (joke) in their speeches, to make sure these overly serious folks get the point.

Many people have such a tendency to place a serious meaning on everything they hear, that they even attempt to dissect jokes in an effort to figure out some ulterior meaning.

To have a good sense of humor means that you must have wide social (human) experience.

INTROVERT NOT FUNNY

If you grew up as an introvert or have lived like Robinson Crusoe, you will not be very humorous.

Nor will you laugh much, for humor and laughter involve social psychology.

An audience of salesmen will thus laugh far more loudly than a crowd of chemical engineers.

Furthermore, a mixed audience will laugh harder at the same joke than an audience composed only of men or only of women.

For there is a subconscious sexual interstimulation in a mixed crowd. They are thus far more keyed up, so when they let loose with a laugh, it has much more energy. This, it is louder or shriller.

Children, too, require visible humor. That's why slapstick comedy fits the mood of youngsters and those of little education.

Chesterfield wit is limited largely to highbrows.

A "pun" is thus a twist on word meanings, so it leaves children flat.

But a custard pie, slammed in the face of the villain, makes youngsters shriek with laughter.

Another element of wit is the incongruous, as when a stuffed shirt dignitary slips on a banana peel.

For further facts, send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long-leaf stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing cost when you request my booklet and pamphlets.

Polly's Pointers

Easy to Shorten Knits

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—The girls here in the office wonder if you could help us with a problem we all seem to have.

—How to shorten knit suits and dresses (boucle knit, not the Italian knit.) M. P.

GIRLS—A friend who works constantly with knitted garments suggests the following method for shortening skirts.

Sew a thread of contrasting color where the skirt is to be cut—not the length it is to be because there is a hem to be turned up.

With the zigzag attachment on a sewing machine, stitch along this guide line, being careful to steady the knit fabric with a hand on each side of the machine needle.

Cut off the extra. Do not bind the edge with tape but let the zigzag stitch serve as a finish. Sew the hem in by hand. POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I have found a way to cut my little girl's bangs evenly and without getting hair in her eyes. I comb and part her hair with the bangs straight down in front.

Then take a six or eight-inch long strip of cellophane tape and press it over the hair across her forehead. Then I cut through the middle of the tape. The loose hair sticks to one half and the other half holds the bangs in place.

Remove the remaining tape carefully. My daughter says it doesn't hurt a bit. Her hair is fine but the same idea should work well on thicker hair. G. S.

DEAR POLLY—That imported perfume you brought back from a trip abroad will last twice as long if kept in the dark (inside your dresser drawer or cupboard). Also, if you smear a little vaseline inside the stopper, it will prevent the scent from evaporating. E. S.

GIRLS—Try this even if your perfume came from the corner drug store.

POLLY Share your favorite home-making ideas... send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Art, Music Enrich Life

Need an Outlet? Create!

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I received a very interesting and touching letter the other day. My reader said, "Could you suggest some place I could go where there is a piano? I am 56 and have been a widow for ten years. I get very lonely. I cannot seem to make friends and never go anywhere, but I love the piano and play by ear. Life would be a little more bearable if I could get near a piano."

GOOD OUTLET

It is true that an interest such as this can make the greatest difference in a person's life. Music is comforting and stimulating, and for one who plays, it is a great outlet for the emotions and the creative instinct.

Those who play a musical instrument wonder how others "get by" with life's strains and stresses unless they can bang it out or strum it out or blow it out with some form of music.

I have always envied anyone who could play by ear, and those who can are in great demand. They are always an asset on social occasions. I think this woman should join church groups, and become active in her local YWCA and other such organizations.

It might well be that she could use the YW's piano for an hour or so a day in return for playing or exercise classes.

"A man that has a taste of music, painting, or architecture is like one that has another sense, when compared with such as have no relish for those arts." Joseph Addison, The Spectator.

Also, in most communities a small piano can be rented by the month for a small fee. However,

I think that this lonely reader should use her ability to play to make friends.

Every human being needs some individual personal outlet, some form of emotional expression and some opportunity for creating something lovely. It doesn't have to be expert. If you enjoy writing poems or songs to express your emotions and thoughts, do so. It will keep you young even if it never reaches a magazine or Broadway.

Tomorrow: "Count Calories to Lose, Exercise to Redistribute."

Thais Keep Ancient Process

Silk Weaving Goes On

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

BANG KOK, Thailand — That four yards of silk which went into a simple late day dress one of us might buy in the United States took more than a month in production by one young Thai woman.

"On some of the more elaborate fabrics, 35 days of weaving are required for four yards of silk," said Lewis Cykman, San Francisco-born managing director of Star of Siam, one of Bangkok's largest makers of yard goods and of the finished garments of Thai silk.

We toured the firm's dyeing and weaving plant on the outskirts of this capital city to find that there is no such thing as modern production methods or modern working conditions, as known in the United States or Europe, used here in turning out one of Thailand's best known products.

Almost every step at the plant is one used for centuries by Thai women weaving in the home. These include crude bamboo wheels for spinning the silk onto skeins once it is dyed and foot pedal-operated looms for the weaving.

BOILER AUTOMATED
The boiler for the chemical dyeing of the raw silk, most of which is produced in the northeastern provinces of Thailand, is the one automated process, Cykman said. Control of temperature in the dyeing is necessary, he added.

But it is the hand process, plus the varied lengths and sizes of the silk threads, which combine to give the finished fabric its textured, often nubby character.

Cykman said that for the smoothest of silks the fine yarns only are used. For coarser fabrics for men's suits, for instance, a medium weight is used. And for upholstery and drapery, even coarser yarns are woven. To get some unusual surface effects, the industry combines Thai and the "silky" longer thread produced in Japan.

Cykman's firm operates 140 looms and produces from 15,000 to 18,000 yards of silk per month, most of it sold in Bangkok, Hong Kong and the United States, either in piece goods form retailing for $2 (U. S.) and up per yard, or in the finished garment stage.

The firm, in its seventh year, hires 217 Thai girls of 16 years and older, who live in a compound on plant grounds. They do their own cooking, laundry and cleaning, Cykman said.

There is an eight-hour day, six days a week, for which they earn on the average from $20 to $30 (U. S.) per month, he said. Each gets at least three weeks vacation a year.

The floor of the huge section where all weaving is done, with loom set against loom, is of dirt. Cykman said the girls work barefoot and prefer the softness of soil to concrete underfoot — "and the mud keeps down the insects," he said.

We asked him about the girls' social life in this dormitory-like existence several miles from town.

"It is a problem," he said. "But almost all of these girls have come from farms. Some arrive in Bangkok knowing only how to eat with their hands . . . not with knife and fork."

JFK May Have to Reheat His Cuban-Russ Demands

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
If Fidel Castro is not to emerge in the guise of victor and hero from the U.S.-Soviet confrontation, it may be necessary one of these days for the United States to reheat the Cuban crisis.

The appearance of a Castro victory in the Cuban standoff, after all that has happened, could have disastrous results for U.S. policy.

News Analysis

In Latin America, where it scored heavily with the strong posture which resulted in dismantling of Soviet missiles in the Caribbean.

Yet under certain circumstances Castro might make points for his side. It is entirely possible for him to proclaim himself a victor over the "North American imperialists" if nothing is done about those Soviet bombers on Cuban soil or inspectors are not put in Cuba to make sure offensive weapons have been removed. Freight Derails, 2 Hoboes Killed

ANTHONY, N.M. (AP) — A Southern Pacific freight train derailed in the southern New Mexico desert Wednesday night, killing two hoboes and injuring nine others.

Railroad officials said eight smashed cars might contain other victims. About 30 cars left the track.

The wreckage blocked traffic on the railroad's main line and officials said it would be at least 12 hours before service could be restored.

The dead and injured have not been identified. No trainmen were hurt.

Cause of the accident has not been determined.

Demands Recount in Minnesota Race

With county canvasses completed in all but two of the state's 87 counties, Rolvaag held a lead of 619,777 to 619,501 for Andersen. Rolvaag, political protégé of Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, picked up 20 votes yesterday in a canvass of Nobles County.

The state canvassing board, which meets Tuesday, will name the official winner of the election.

Navy Packs Belongings of 900 Ghetto Families

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said Wednesday an estimated four million pounds of household goods and personal belongings of more than 900 Navy families evacuated from the Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba are being packed for shipment to the United States.

It will take about six weeks to do the job, the Navy said.

gandize the compromise on either of these points as a backdown by the United States in the face of Castro's defiance. Castro might thus try to recoup some of the losses he sustained in Latin America when both Kennedy and Khrushchev humiliated him in the showdown.

It is difficult to believe that the long stay of Anastas I. Mikoyan in Cuba has been anything more than a Kremlin masquerade, a subterfuge to indicate to the world that the Havana regime still enjoys its sovereignty, that it is not owned outright by Soviet communism.

It is difficult to believe there was no collusion between Castro and the Soviet first deputy premier in what is presented to the world as a stubborn Castro stand against inspection and against giving up the bombers.

The Soviet Union, through Premier Khrushchev, pledged itself to remove from Cuba any weapons Kennedy regarded as offensive, and to permit on-the-spot inspection. Moscow's excuse for not removing the bombers and fulfilling the inspection commitment was that Castro wouldn't permit it.

OBEYS MOSCOW

But Castro has no place to go. His bridges are burned. He has no choice in the long run except to obey Moscow. The whole Cuban economy and all the island's military hardware depend upon the Russians. If Moscow support were withdrawn, Cuba would be in chaos. The Red Chinese are in no position to substitute for the Russians even if Castro wanted to pull a deviation.

Therefore, it seems logical to suppose that if Moscow wanted to insist, to twist Castro's arm, the Cuban boss would have no choice but to do as he was told.

However, instead of insisting on Cuban permission for inspections and surrender of the bombers, Mikoyan and the Soviet press take up a cry of support for Castro's critics in the camp make so-called "five points," which include a demand that the United States give up its Guantanamo base.

The Russians must know the five points will get nowhere, but the cry provides Khrushchev with excuses.

The Kremlin obviously has difficulties within the Communist bloc. Red China and its adherents view the Cuban events as a Soviet retreat, a "Munich," a betrayal of world communism. Khrushchev in opposing "U.S. imperialism."

CALLS IT 'RETREAT'

Soviet propaganda already is painting a picture of U.S. retreat in the Cuban crisis. Writing in Izvestia, a Russian commentator says Khrushchev's actions "saved the peace and forced the frantic warmongers to retreat," and that it is incorrect to assume that a U.S. policy of strength went out.

An East German propagandist writes that "Kennedy gave in during the Cuban crisis at the last minute, gave a guarantee against any military invasion, and thus enabled the government of the Soviet Union to dismantle the defense measures on the island."

Khrushchev would like to have something more convincing, however, in the way of a U.S. backdown to show his critics. Speculation thus is justified that Mikoyan went to Cuba not to get Castro to buckle under, but to instruct him on how to conduct himself. Castro's stubbornness is perhaps convenient for Khrushchev.

Won't Service State Highways

'We're Losing Money,' Ingham County Says

LANSING (AP) — The Ingham County Road Commission, ending a 35-year-old agreement, has decided to stop maintaining state trunklines in the county and has the job over to the State Highway Department.

Asserting that the county has lost money for several years because of an inadequate reimbursement from the highway department, Frank K. Evans, county road superintendent, said Tuesday Ingham County will not contract with the state to maintain state roads in 1963.

Evans said Ingham County has been losing money particularly in the areas of supervision and administration of such maintenance work.

He estimated the dropping of the contract would mean reduction of about $200,000 in county expenditures and would mean the jobs of eight or nine employees would be eliminated.

Harold J. Rathfoot, chief highway maintenance engineer for the state, said yesterday that the highway department would like to discuss the possibility of hiring the employees no longer needed by the county, because the state will need experienced men for the maintenance work.

Rathfoot said the major disagreement between the county and the state involved the paying of foremen.

Under the formula for reimbursement, the State Highway Department, in its new contract, will reimburse the county for foremen's wages on the basis of the average wage paid to road commission foremen in the county.

State Giving Advice Only to Dislocated

LANSING (AP) — Free advice but no cash is available for people moved by highway projects in Michigan, advises the State Highway Department.

The department said it is prepared to give advice on relocation to any business or individuals displaced by land purchase or right-of-way acquisition in any highway project involving federal aid.

Federal law enables some states to use public money to pay part of the moving expenses of those dislocated by highway construction. The Michigan Legislature has not authorized such tax spending, so the help here must be limited to advice.

The advisory assistance will be available through the branch managers of each of the 10 Michigan district offices.

Rabies Epidemic Strikes Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Public health authorities Wednesday declared Buenos Aires and other nearby cities an emergency zone because of a rabies epidemic that has killed 24 people and infected thousands of others in nine months.

Public Health Minister Turbio Padilla decreed compulsory vaccination and a host of other emergency measures. He said the worst concentration of cases is in Buenos Aires and nearby La Plata. Stray dogs and cats in large numbers run loose in cities and towns in this area of Argentina.

Don't Seat Lady Toward the Wall, Waiters Taught

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — One of the things a waiter does not ever do is face a lady toward the wall. "It's almost a rule of thumb," said Dick Johnson, an expert on these matters, Wednesday.

"A woman will start an argument with her husband—or even with another woman—if you have her face to the wall."

This is good to know if you are one of nine men taking a course on how to become waiters, conducted by the State Department of Education for the Oregon State Employment Service. Johnson is an instructor.

New S. Viet Nam Tactics Paying Off in Rebel War

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — An American officer appraising the war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam, says: "Improved military reaction time is ruining the disappearing act that has kept the Viet Cong in business up to now."

There is little doubt that quick government responses to Communist initiatives recently have cost the rebels lives, captives and equipment.

The new tactics are simple. The idea is to counterattack as soon as possible after the Viet Cong have staged a raid—and then follow through.

"It's not enough to arrive on the scene promptly after the Viet Cong have struck," the officer said. "You have to chase them in force, for days if necessary, until you run them into the ground and destroy them. It works."

In several cases, air force fighter-bombers arrived to strafe the enemy while Communist assaults were still under way. Troops and helicopters usually arrive soon after, and operations are mounted on the spot.

The Viet Cong may evade the first wave of troops moving in. The rebels increasingly are surprised to find that government units are still close on them many miles from the scene of the initial clash.

TESTIFY TO SUCCESS

Enemy death tolls during the past few weeks, especially in the Mekong River delta, testify to the success of the new method.

"Every time they attack, they tell us where they are. That's all we need to know," an officer said.

As recently as several months ago it often took days for government commanders to organize operations.

"Eagle flights" also have helped. A small group of helicopters loaded with a few squads of troops flies around the countryside looking for trouble. At the first sight of Viet Cong activity the flight lands and attacks.

"This is a running war, in which minutes mean the difference between success and failure, a U.S. adviser says. "The whole trick is to stay loose."

The Viet Cong normally travels in small groups or as individuals posing as peaceful farmers.

Individuals and small groups combine into fighting units for raids, then disperse quickly.

"If you can catch them while they're still moving as units, they're as good as dead," the adviser said. "And we're beginning to do it."

'Hotels Look Like Motels'

DETROIT (AP) — The distinction between hotels and motels is rapidly disappearing, a real estate counselor said here yesterday at the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Earl K. Lottetter, Roswell, N. M., said the distinction in services provided by hotels and motels is tending to disappear as well as the difference in the physical plants.

"As a corollary," Lottetter said, "Hotels are providing parking space for patrons, motor lobbies, rapid registration and many of the characteristic facilities of the motel which were so readily accepted by the traveling public."

Lottetter told a panel sponsored by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers that other significant developments were taking place. Motels are locating near airports and moving near medical centers or industrial locations if there is a demand for them.

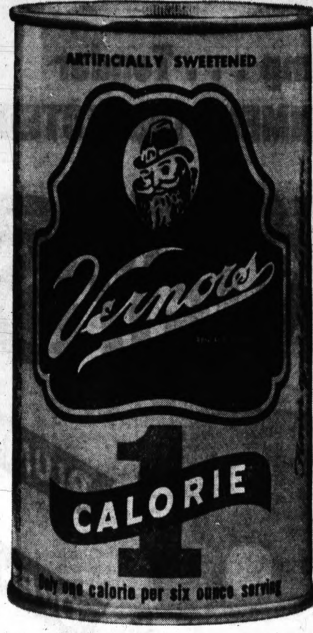

Allen J. Lowe, vice president of the Sheraton-Cleveland Hotel, said factors such as space-age communications, television, radio, and motion pictures have brought about a change in people's general mood and philosophy.

Lowe pointed out that times are changing, and hotels and motels are keeping pace with it through increased luxury and convenience.

Corn Fritters Fine Right Now

Brighten frosty days with this nourishing new filler-upper that's easy, quick, and inexpensive. It's "Sunny Cheese Corn Fritters"—a scrumptiously rich new treat made of crushed inch square cheese crackers mixed with corn, milk, flour, eggs and paprika. Good for lunches and just the thing for den mothers to serve after scout meetings. Delight your youngsters soon, this easy way:

Sunny Cheese Corn Fritters
1 cup fine cheese cracker crumbs, about 1/4 of 6 1/2-oz. box
1/2 cup milk
1 7-oz. can whole kernel corn, well drained
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
3 egg yolks, beaten until light
3 egg whites, beaten until stiff but not dry
4 to 6 tablespoons salad oil or fat

Crush crackers with rolling pin between waxed paper. Mix into milk; add corn, salt, paprika, flour and egg yolks to crumb-milk mixture; blend well. Gently fold in egg whites.

Place about half the oil in a skillet over moderate heat. Drop mixture by tablespoons into hot fat. Sauté on both sides until brown. Add more fat as necessary, heating again before adding more batter.

Drain on unglazed paper in warm place. Serve with frankfurters and milk, or as desired. Yield: 6 to 8 ample servings.

Grapefruit Is Back to Please Calorie Counters

Diet-conscious friends coming? This menu should please them.
Parsley Bouillon

Shrimp Cocktail Salad
Pink Grapefruit Beverage

Pink Grapefruit
2 large white or pink grapefruit
Maraschino cherry juice
4 maraschino cherries

Pare grapefruit so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes. Cut sections in half crosswise and arrange in sherbet or champagne glasses, adding just a little of the grapefruit juice.

Pour a teaspoon or two of maraschino juice over sections in each glass; top with cherries. Makes 4 servings.

Color and Size Are Important in Grapes

To be of good quality, table grapes should have a general appearance of freshness. They should be mature, and the individual berries should be firmly attached to the stems. Mature grapes are usually plump.

High color for the variety is generally indicative of a well-developed sugar content and flavor, but not a certain indicator, because many varieties color before they are ripe. Usually white or green grapes are at their best for flavor and sweetness when they are turning to amber.

This Will Keep

Maple Whip (for serving on hot pancakes or waffles). Cream 1/2 cup soft butter. Add 1 cup maple-flavored syrup gradually. Beat until smooth and of spreading consistency. This can be refrigerated for future use.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Pork Loin Chops.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?
A. They come from the loin section and contain two muscles separated by a T-shaped bone.

Q. How are they prepared?
A. Usually by broiling. The chops are first browned in a small amount of lard or drippings. The drippings are then poured off, a small amount of liquid added and the pan covered tightly. The meat cooks slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Turkey Takes Spotlight on Most Shopping Lists

Turkey will top shopping lists between now and Thanksgiving. Shoppers will find outstanding retail values in all size of frozen ready-to-cook turkey and in frozen stuffed turkey.

Turkey supplies in 1962 are the second largest on record states the Marketing Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Despite a 15 per cent reduction in number of turkeys raised in 1962 from 1961, total supplies in 1962 were down only 6 per cent because of the record large carryover of frozen turkey from last year.

Supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables in major terminal markets during the past week averaged about the same as those of the previous week. Consumers will notice little if any difference in quantity or price in the produce department.

Lettuce harvest is in full swing in Arizona. In Florida, cool weather slowed cucumber market, but many pork cuts appear as features. Smoked and canned hams, loin cuts, bacon and sausage are most frequently listed.

Shoppers with extra freezer space may wish to take advantage of the bruler price-supply situation during November and December. There are more fryers than last year at this time, and this is the season when shoppers are more interested in buying red meats and turkey, than in buying fryers. Naturally, fryer prices will be lowered to move them through the marketing channels.

BEEF UP
Generally, beef prices are the same as a week ago to slightly higher. Ground beef among the lower priced beef cuts and standing rib roast among the higher priced cuts are about the only ones listed at below regular prices in some stores.

Cranberries are in abundant supply. The crop of almost 140 million pounds is 13 per cent more than last year, and 30 per cent above the average of the previous 10 years.

Shoppers will now find three types of tomatoes. Greenhouse tomatoes are grown in houses under glass. Vine-ripe tomatoes are allowed to reach a bluish stage before picking from the vine in the field. Tube packed tomatoes are picked in the field when green, then ripened and packaged. Flavor is different for each.

Revolutionary Dulles Airport to Open as Work Goes On

By DICK BUCK

Special to The Pontiac Press
WASHINGTON — Dulles International Airport—which really isn't ready—opens for business Monday to commercial airlines passengers who are likely to be delighted and disturbed.

The delight will come over the revolutionary features of this new airfield for the nation's capital. These are the distinctively designed terminal and control tower, and the mobile lounge, which takes the foot out of air travel.

The disturbance will come over the far-from-complete condition of the terminal, in which customers will compete with carpenters for space.

A press preview of the new facility near Chantilly, Va., 27 miles west of downtown Washington, was held yesterday.

President Kennedy will dedicate Dulles International Airport Saturday morning. Former President Eisenhower and members of the late John Foster Dulles' family will be there.

The airport was named by Eisenhower in honor of the late secretary of state, who flew nearly 600,000 miles during his five years in that office.

Dulles International cost the American taxpayers $106 million. The original estimate was $60 million.

It was to have opened two years ago. Construction started Sept. 2, 1958.

Its operator, the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), says the cost will have been paid off in 30 years.

SAARINEN'S 'BEST'

The landscape-dominating terminal and control tower were designed by the late Eero Saarinen of Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Saarinen, on his last visit to the airport site before his death in 1961, called the terminal "the best thing I have done."

Mr. Saarinen also shared in development of the mobile lounge concept. The idea was molded into reality by Chrysler Corp., builder of the lounge chassis, at its defense plant in Warren, Mich.

Bodies are supplied by the Budd Co. of Philadelphia and Chrysler does final assembly of the units at the airport.

A mobile lounge is a comfortable waiting room on wheels, at a second-floor level. The lounges lock snugly to the terminal and airline passengers step into them out of the waiting room just 150 feet from the building's front door.

The lounges, driven from both ends, can carry 90 passengers, with 73 seated. The trip by lounge from terminal to plane averages 5½ minutes.

LOUNGE SCHEDULE?

A new fact air travelers using Dulles Airport will have to grasp is this: If you miss your lounge, you miss your plane. Accordingly, airlines are expected to use lounge departure times in their schedules.

Upon reaching the intended airliner, parked on a special apron a half mile from the terminal, the mobile lounge creeps toward the plane until an extended rod makes contact with it.

One of two telescoping ramps is stretched out and adjusted to the door's level and the passengers step a few feet from the lounge into their plane. The process is reversed for arriving passengers.

Why the mobile lounge? Federal Aviation Administrator N.E.

14-Mile Road to Airport

Special to The Pontiac Press
WASHINGTON — Access to the new Dulles International Airport is provided on a controversial $18-million "federal airway on the ground."

A 14.7-mile-long expressway provides the final surface link between the nation's capital and the airport.

No traffic other than that going to or from the airfield is able to use the four-lane highway. Surrounding communities, hoping for some relief from commuter traffic pressure, are angry.

Federal Aviation Administrator N. E. Halaby insists that the unique road, financed from aviation funds, must keep its airport-only status.

Halaby explained, "Airports are not gymnasia. They're for the traveler. We're thinking of the traveler in eliminating the long walks which have become too much a part of air travel."

Airline economics also are involved. It costs $25 per minute to taxi a jetliner. Using mobile lounges cuts taxi time considerably and costs $6.50 per trip.

ACRES OF GLASS

The terminal is a glass manufacturer and window washer's dream come true. The glass covers the equivalent of 2 acres. Some panels are 15 feet long.

The curved terminal roof is high in front, lower in the middle and slightly higher in back. It's supported by a row of columns 40 feet apart on each side of the concourse, 85 feet high in front, 40 feet high in back.

"It is like a huge, continuous hammock suspended between concrete trees," said Mr. Saarinen. "It is made of light suspension-bridge cables between which concrete cables of the roof deck fit."

There's not one upright support within the terminal. What seems to be the roof's only inside support is actually a huge drain which can carry 12,500 gallons of rain water after the 2½-acre roof to a storm drain leading to a 20-acre manmade lake.

Inside, the terminal is a conservative scene. All airline ticket counters and concession areas are done in a quiet gray with wood-type background paneling. White marble and poured concrete carry through the soft tones.

Banners hanging at both ends inside the terminal present a paradox on its incompleteness. They read: "ARE YOU DOING YOUR BEST DEDICATION—NOVEMBER 17?" A thought was expressed that perhaps the signs have done more harm than good.

Workers swarmed throughout the building. There seemed to be far more things that needed finishing than had been finished.

The litter which accompanies construction was scattered liberally.

It seemed that merely sweeping the floors would consume more time than the clock can offer between now and Saturday. The President and his party may have to man brooms or hammers as they lead the public into the building for an inspection tour.

TWO-LEVEL CONCEPT

The FAA insists that the show will go on and today and tomorrow may go down in construction annals as two of the most hectic days ever.

The terminal has the same two-level concept used at Detroit Metropolitan and other modern airline facilities whereby passengers boarding planes check in on the upper level and those arriving pick up their baggage below.

Walking hasn't been eliminated for all passengers by the mobile lounge. Those flying on feeder lines which use smaller planes will reach them through a concourse on a trek which is still short as airports go.

The control tower, jutting impressively 177 feet into the air, lies at the end of the concourse. At the base of the tower is the airport restaurant. It won't open for another month or so.

An elevator carries FAA personnel to the lowest of the tower's three upper levels. This level is getting little use now but gives needed expansion flexibility.

On the next floor is the IFR room (radar room), shielded from outside light but glowing with illumination from radar scopes and related traffic control electronics.

Above this room is the control tower cab, a spot from which the airport's 10,000 acres and the surrounding countryside offer a spectacular view.

But the scenery of interest to personnel in the tower cab is visual contact with aircraft aloft as well as on the ground. From here, clearance to take off, land, taxi and other instructions are given.

Though DIA (official FAA abbreviation) may not be ready from the passenger standpoint, it certainly is ready from the flying aspect.

A complete system of the most modern navigational aids available has been installed and checked out. Air traffic control people are described by Halaby as among FAA's best. The three jet-length runways and associated taxiways are fully usable.

Why is Dulles International being open despite its incompleteness? Halaby explained at a press briefing that more than being a showplace, the airport is a business. He said it's time for the business to start taking in some money.

SOME LINES WAIT

Not all the airlines are rushing to Dulles from Baltimore Friendship and Washington National airports immediately. Some which will start service from there Monday will do so on a limited basis. Others are waiting till the end of the year or later.

Jet service for the Washington/Baltimore area has been at Friendship, with nonjets operating out of National—the nation's third-busiest airport, and seemingly the busiest when you're waiting to take off from there.

Baltimore has complained the Dulles Airport would kill its field.

Halaby disagrees. "Our projections show that there will be enough increased traffic generated in future years to warrant both jet fields," he said.

He was unsure what National Airport's fate would be and said that would be up to the public "because the airlines will do what the public wants them to do."

Halaby noted that landing costs at the older field are about half those of the new one and said that would no doubt influence the air carriers' decisions.

The administration strongly denied that he had been pressuring the airlines to abandon Friendship Airport for the government-operated Dulles airfield.

Heat Ham Rolls in Pineapple Sauce

You can bring the flavor of the tropics to your next dinner party. These Island Ham Rolls accented with Sweet-Sour Pineapple Sauce will give the buffet table an exotic air of the South Seas.

The tender, juicy rolls of ham boast a special filling of sweet potatoes seasoned with clove and chopped pecans. Top them off with pineapple dressed in a Polynesian-style sweet-sour sauce. It's delicious!

Slices of canned ham are perfect for this fancy recipe because they have an even shape and will roll easily. Make the rolls ahead of time, then simply heat thoroughly in a copper chafing dish or electric skillet.

Here's a new version of a ham garnish, too. Give a tropical touch to the traditional fruit often served with ham. Spear apple slices, kumquats, pineapple and maraschino cherries on skewers and stand them up in a bowl of crushed ice.

Island Ham Rolls

1 can (1 pound 2 ounces) sweet potatoes in syrup
 ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
 3 tablespoons brown sugar
 ½ cup chopped pecans
 ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
 8 thin slices canned ham (5 to 6 pound size)
 1 can (13½ ounces) pineapple tidbits, undrained
 1 tablespoon vinegar
 1 tablespoon cornstarch

Drain sweet potatoes; save 2 tablespoons syrup. Mash potatoes; add the 2 tablespoons syrup.

up, butter, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, pecans and cloves; mix well.

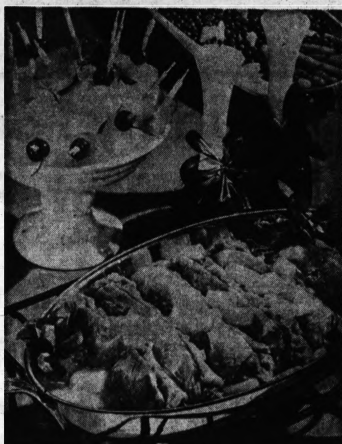

Divide sweet potato mixture into 8 equal portions. Spread each ham slice with a portion of potato mixture; roll slices up jelly roll fashion. Arrange ham rolls in chafing dish or electric frying pan.

Combine pineapple, vinegar, remaining 2 tablespoons brown sugar and cornstarch; mix well.

Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour ¼ of the sauce over ham rolls. Cover and heat slowly, spooning additional sauce over ham as needed, about 15 minutes. Serve with remaining sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

*For larger hams, use 6 slices.

ISLAND HAM ROLLS — Fill slices of canned ham with sweet potatoes and pecans. Heat them in a sweet-sour pineapple sauce for an unusual entree. Keep this dish warm in a chafing dish or on a modern table warmer. Garnish with watercress.

Packaging Costs

Of every $30 we spend for groceries, we pay from $1.50 to $2.00 for the packaging that helps to keep the food in good condition and attracts our attention, the U. S. Department of Agriculture states.

Byblos, Lebanon, one of the world's oldest inhabited towns, gave its name to the Bible.

Bacon Biscuits

Try adding an interesting ingredient to the regular 2-cup recipe of baking powder biscuits such as ½ cup crispy cooked diced bacon.

Great for Breakfast

Banana cinnamon toast is a breakfast idea that has great family appeal. It's easy to make and adds a spark to breakfast—a meal that can be very difficult at times. Toast bread and spread with butter or margarine. Cover with banana slices and sprinkle with ¼ tsp. cinnamon and 1 tsp. sugar.

5 Ingredients Go Into Fluff

Looking back with nostalgia to long-ago marshmallow roasts, it's obvious that we have never outgrown our affection for these sweets. We have simply found new and more sophisticated ways to enjoy marshmallows.

Coffee Fluff, for instance, is one of the prettiest, perkiest desserts you could choose. Yet it's easily prepared with our old friend's, the marshmallows, blended with coffee, whipped cream and flavorings and chilled to a smooth, cool consistency.

Since Coffee Fluff is a refrigerator dessert, you can prepare it well ahead of schedule. At serving time, after you have the coffee-pot a-brewing, place a dollop of whipped cream on each serving of Coffee Fluff. You'll find fragrant cups of coffee and this dainty dessert ideal for all sorts of entertaining, from a bridal shower to a neighborly kaffeeklatsch.

Coffee Fluff

32 marshmallows
 1 cup strong, hot coffee
 ¼ teaspoon Angostura bitters
 1 teaspoon rum flavoring
 2 cups whipping cream, divided

Cut marshmallows in quarters with scissors dipped in cold water. Put in top of double boiler with hot coffee. Cook over hot water until marshmallows are completely melted and blended with coffee. Remove from heat. Add bitters and flavoring. Chill until mixture begins to thicken.

Whip 1½ cups cream. Fold into coffee mixture. Spoon into dessert glasses. Chill until firm. Whip remaining cream. Use to garnish tops of desserts. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Simmer Chops and Cabbage in Sweet Sauce

A 'double-duty' sauce with a slight oriental savor enhances the pork chop flavor and gives crisp cut cabbage an unusual dressing.

Skillet Sweet-Sour Chops and Cabbage

6 pork chops
 2 tablespoons cooking oil
 1 onion, chopped
 1 cup tomato juice
 ¼ cup vinegar
 2 tablespoons soy sauce
 1 tablespoon sugar
 ¼-½ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 5 cups coarsely cut cabbage

Trim excess fat from chops. Brown chops in a large frying pan in oil. Combine and add remaining ingredients except cabbage. Cover and cook on high heat until steaming freely.

Then lower heat and simmer for 30 minutes or until chops are tender. Add cabbage. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer.

Remove chops. Toss cabbage in sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Woman's Club Has Recipe Contest

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Who says today's homemaker feeds her family nothing but TV dinners and things out of cans? Anyone who attended Wednesday's recipe contest luncheon at the Village Woman's Club would argue the point.

Called "Food With a Flair," the contest challenged cooks in four categories: breads; salads; main dishes; and desserts. Some 75 cooks took up the challenge and brought an imposing array of tempting foods to the clubhouse on East Square Lake Road.

After the judges had decided prize winners, the cooks and about 100 other members lined up to sample the entries. The judges were Kay Savage and Kay Kopera, Detroit newspaper food editors; Mary Jackson of Pontiac, Peggy Lewis and Marion Ryan of Detroit utility companies.

First prize in the bread category went to Mrs. Fred Zimmerman's Kugelhopf. Mrs. Robert Campbell won a blue ribbon for her Mustard Ring salad.

Mrs. E. H. Lerchen's interesting 24 Hour Cheese Souffle won the main dish class; and Mrs. Harvey Kresge brought in an almond blitz torte to win top prize in the desserts. Mrs. other two were not available think this would be nice molded in souffle cups and used as a garnish for a meat platter.

Winner of the first prize in the main class division and also winner of the grand prize at the Village Woman's Club recipe contest Wednesday was Mrs. E. H. Lerchen of Lowell Court. Her recipe was for a 24 Hour Cheese Souffle.

MUSTARD SALAD RING
By Mrs. Robert Campbell

4 eggs
2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons dry mustard
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream

Mix dry ingredients, add vinegar, water and well-beaten eggs. Soak gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water and heat in a double boiler. Add rest of ingredients and cook until creamy.

Remove from heat and cool by beating over cold water; fold in whipped cream. Chill in a ring mold or individual molds.

Turn out on lettuce leaves or water cross and fill center with pickled peaches, pickled beets or black or stuffed olives. Makes 8 servings.

They'd Take Anything for a Cuppa Coffee

When unusual situations or crisis render common currency useless, people tend to fall back on the age-old habit of bartering. History shows that coffee has often been an item of barter. Our early American pioneers frequently used coffee to clinch deals for blankets or beautiful skins brought to the trading posts by the Indians.

During the Civil War when coffee was scarce, ten pounds bought 300 bushels of corn. And in Texas, a cattle-farming family in a trade of fruit exchanged a pound of precious coffee for a longhorn heifer named Pecos.

Change of Pace Good to Try With Potatoes

Potatoes are a lot like dresses. Every woman has her "favorite" dress which she enjoys wearing time after time. But like dresses, potatoes sometimes need just a dash of appeal to impart added enjoyment.

For example, sharp and snappy cheddar cheese together with some diced parsley transforms creamed potatoes into a tantalizing blend of flavors.

Diced red beets added to hash brown potatoes become "red-flannel" potatoes, a favorite dish of the Northeast.

Soups, chowders, scalloped dishes, creamed concoctions and baked casseroles all have a lot more "eating appeal" when they contain potatoes.

Delicious potatoes are always energy-giving — about 100 peep-packed calories in each medium-size, spud. Baked, boiled, broiled, fried, roasted and, mashed potatoes are good anytime. And right now supplies are good, attractive priced and full of appeal.

The United Church of Canada ministers to 23,000 Indians in 30 missions, employing 28 ordained missionaries.

Try Cinnamon Syrup on Cakes

Pancakes once called "heart cakes" were one of the earliest forms of baking. Dutch settlers first brought them to America, and today popular pancake houses serve them in almost infinite variety across the nation.

Pancakes lend themselves to leisurely brunch on weekends, to supper menus, and hearty breakfasts to start the family on a busy day. Make them now the modern way from ready-measured biscuit mix in handy one-cup packets—eight to the package.

For pancake variety at your house, why not add moist, tangy, grated unpeeled apple? Apple Pancakes are truly a taste treat, light, tender, golden brown and drenched in Cinnamon Syrup. The spicy syrup, a delightful complement to the apple pancakes, is served warm with melted butter in it.

Cinnamon Syrup With Apple Pancakes

2 packets biscuit mix
1 2/3 cups milk
1 egg
2 cups grated unpeeled apple
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice

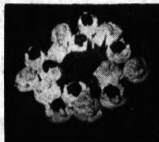

Blend biscuit mix, milk and egg. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Mix in apple, sugar and lemon juice. Bake as usual. Serve hot with Cinnamon Syrup: beat 1 cup maple syrup, 1 tablespoon butter and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon together.

The cinnamon syrup is a natural combination for delicious apple pancakes.

Pleased with the blue ribbon she won for her Kugelhopf, Mrs. Frederick Zimmerman of Squirrel Road tastes it after the judges had rendered their verdict.

A plate of filled meringues was centered with a deep pink "rose." Mrs. E. K. Pilcher who entered this dessert made the rose with grapefruit peel dyed with food coloring and coiled into flower shape.

This luscious looking almond blitz torte won first prize in the dessert category. Silvered almonds form part of the top crust and are placed porcupine fashion around the sides.

PLANNING ART PROGRAM — Preparing for tomorrow afternoon's art workshop for nearly 300 Waterford Township elementary school teachers are (from left), Mrs. Patricia Spencer, Mrs. Jay Oyer and Mrs. Gladys Brian. These women were among the school system's 35 art resource people who met earlier this week under the direction of elementary art coordinator Mrs. M. J. Root to outline workshop plans. Teachers will gather at five schools to see demonstrations of various Christmas projects in graphics, jewelry and paper sculpture.

Junior Miss Dates Revealed for Area

MSU Chief Explains Futura Saginaw Need

Pontiac, Clarkston, Walled Lake and Milford Junior Chambers of Commerce announced dates for their local Junior Miss Pageants today.

They are each seeking the community's outstanding high school senior girl.

The girls then will enter the Michigan's Junior Miss Pageant to be held here in Pontiac Jan. 25.

Among other prizes, Michigan's Junior Miss will be awarded a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

She also will compete for $14,000 in additional scholarships while on an expense paid trip to the national finals in Mobile, Alabama where America's Junior Miss will be named.

Dates announced were:

CLARKSTON
Dec. 8 at the Walled Lake Junior High School.

WALLED LAKE
Dec. 8 at Walled Lake Junior High School.

MILFORD
Dec. 1 in the Community Room of the Federal Savings and Loan Building, Milford.

PONTIAC
Nov. 24 at the Pontiac Northern High School.

Chairman of the Pontiac pageant Darwin Johnson stated that entries are still being accepted for the Pontiac and all other pageants.

Any high school senior girl between the ages of 16 and 19 years with personality, poise and talent is eligible for this contest.

The Mt. Washington Carriage Road, 100 years old this year, is the oldest toll road in the United States in operation.

This system would be built around the junior college program now in existence at the Bay County institution, he said, adding that the best alternative would be for the state to assume control of Delta and establish it as a four-year college.

TO MEET DEC. 11
The committee headed by Rep. Lester O. Beggs of Bay City, adjourned until Dec. 11 after hearing testimony from Hannah and a series of other educators.

Philip Gannon, dean of Lansing Community College and president of the Michigan Community College Administrators suggested that Delta be retained as a two-year junior college and that the state build a new four-year college nearby.

He pointed out that the community college's role is more than just to feed juniors into larger schools to complete their education. Community colleges also provide education for those who wish merely to take two years of college or technical training, he said.

"I would prefer to see Delta left the way it is, to carry out its function as a community college," Gannon told the committee.

Others who testified yesterday were Dr. John X. Jamrich, assistant dean of administrative services for the college of education at MSU, and Ferris N. Crawford, the state's assistant superintendent of public instruction for general education.

College Head Tours

HOLLAND — Hope College President-elect Calvin Vander Werf and his wife were visiting the campus at Holland where they will take up residence effective Jan. 1. Dr. VanderWerf, now chairman of the department of chemistry at the University of Kansas, is succeeding Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, who is retiring from the Hope presidency.

Fruehauf Tells Dividend

DETROIT — Fruehauf Trailer Co. yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share and an extra dividend of 30 cents a share, both payable Jan. 2, 1963, to common stock holders of record Dec. 3.

Equipping Police Cars With Seat Belts

DETROIT (UPI) — Seat belts now are being used or will soon be installed in police cars in 173 of 214 medium to large cities around the country, a survey showed today.

The study was designed to determine how many police departments use seat belts in their patrol cars and what the police men think of them.

It was conducted by the fiber marketing department of Allied Chemical Corp., which makes the caprolan nylon used for webbing in seat belts.

The survey of 214 police departments showed that 132 have all or some of their vehicles equipped with belts and another 40 have current plans to install them. Twenty per cent, or 42 departments, are without belts.

Another survey conducted by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee indicates that nearly 4.5 million cars are equipped with belts — about 6.9 per cent of today's cars and an increase of 2.5 million in a one-year period.

Two of the police departments queried by Allied Chemical said the belts prevented serious injuries to their patrolmen. New York City and Detroit credited belts with saving officers' lives.

Charleston, W. Va., which plans to install belts, said some of its officers in the accident prevention division are so sold on the belts "they already have bought their own."

DETROIT BELTS

In Detroit, police officials now have 275 cars equipped with belts and expect to have belts on the remaining 400 cars by next month. It probably will be made mandatory that all officers wear them.

But, as one Detroit official said, "It's still basically an educational thing. They have to want to wear them. But I think more and more officers are becoming believers."

Lt. William Harcourt, head of the department's motor service bureau, said several officers have been saved from serious injury or even death because they wore belts.

One officer, he recalled, was trying to catch a spender on an expressway when the policeman lost control and crashed head on into a bridge abutment.

"He walked away with a couple of broken teeth and a bruised finger," Harcourt said. "Ordinarily, we would expect him to go through the windshield. The belt saved him."

Francis P. Gavigan, a seat belt specialist for Allied Chemical, said, "Local police officials deserve praise for the support they have given seat belt campaigns around the country. With their help, we hope to increase the number of cars equipped with belts from the present 7 per cent to 12 per cent in 1963."

Teamster Local Facing 'Walkout'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One of the biggest locals in James Hoffa's Teamsters Union faces a challenge today from an insurgent group that wants to oust the Teamsters as bargaining agent.

About 5,000 to 10,000 Teamsters are expected to vote in a four-day election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board. The voting began today.

The year-long campaign has been marred by outbreaks of violence. U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy telephoned Mayor James H. J. Tate last Friday to ask assurance that police will provide close and impartial supervision.

U. S. marshals and FBI agents joined local police in guarding the two polling places.

Doesn't Sound Right

SKIPTON, England (UPI) — A soccer match between two police teams was delayed 15 minutes yesterday because neither the players nor the referee — a policeman — could find a whistle.

Bees hum by vibrating their wings rapidly. They do not produce any sound with their mouth parts.

Reverend Handles Wedding by Himself

INGOLDMILLS, England (AP) — The Rev. Wilfrid Curtis is a handy man to have around the church.

As a young couple entered his church earlier this week to get married, they found the minister keeping the carpet.

Whipping off his overalls, he distributed hymnals and prayer books for the service.

PLAYS ORGAN, TOO

Then, with the bride ready to walk down the aisle, the Rev. Mr. Curtis walked briskly to the organ and played the wedding march.

Reaching the chancel, the bride halted for a moment and looked up.

There was that man again. With book in hand, the minister performed the ceremony. Then he led the couple into the vestry for the signing of the registry book.

KEEPS BUSY

As the last notes echoed through the church, the Rev. Mr. Curtis hurried to the vestibule. With each hand he pulled a bell rope, and with his right foot operated a contraption that pulled another.

"The organist was at work. We have no verger, who would ordinarily distribute the books, the cleaner was off duty and, of course, having no verger we have no bellingring," he explained.

"As for the registry, the clerk would normally look after that, but this job's done by my wife and she was not available."

Abandoned Gas Station Discussed as Town Hall

POMTNEY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Town Council will consider a proposal Nov. 26 to spend $13,500 to buy a 10-year-old abandoned gas station for use as the town hall. Town supervisor Richard F. Long said the gas station was better equipped than the present town hall because it has running water, toilet facilities and adequate heating.

For Rails, Buses and Boats

Federal Taxes on Travel to End Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of American travelers will begin saving nearly $150 million a year on their combined travel expenses when wartime transportation taxes are wiped off the books at midnight tonight.

The 10 per cent federal tax on air fares will be replaced immediately by a 5 per cent "user charge" designed to help pay for airports, navigation aids and other government-financed facilities used by the airlines. The 10 per cent tax on the price of rail, bus and boat tickets will be eliminated completely.

These tax changes, approved by Congress last summer, will trim about $170 million from federal revenues. Cash benefits to the public will be less, however, because 24 railroads and about 50 bus lines will increase fares to offset all or part of the tax savings.

At present, no major airline plans to boost fares to take advantage of the tax action. Air fares thus will be 5 per cent cheaper on all flights starting on or after 12:01 a.m. Friday. Air carriers hope the reduced cost will attract more business and lessen profit margins.

RAIL FARES UP
All 23 eastern railroads will increase their fares by 10 per cent as soon as the tax expires. And the Chicago and North Western Railway will put a similar boost into effect on coach tickets. These fares are, in this way, to partly reduce heavy passenger hauling deficits.

No fare changes are planned by southern and western railroads, which enjoy a better profit position. The cost of tickets on these lines will drop 10 per cent.

Most of the bus lines that have notified the Interstate Commerce Commission of plans to increase fares are regional operators. The increases they will impose range from 2 per cent to 10 per cent.

An ICC spokesman said no fare changes have been proposed by the big interstate carriers such as Trailways and Greyhound.

The tax changes were endorsed by the Kennedy administration. It hoped that reduction or elimination of the tax would help ailing transportation companies by permitting fare boosts or by encouraging more travel at present fares.

Proposal Sounds Good to Lovers of Music

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Hear now and pay later is the new plan being offered to Rochester music lovers.

The management of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra has introduced a six-month installment plan on tickets for its concert series.

French Stores Change

PARIS (AP) — An increase of 50 per cent in the number of self-service stores operating in France in 1961 has been reported. Such stores, formerly a novelty in Europe, rose in numbers to 2,690.

Vopo at Wall Swims Canal to W. Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — An East German policeman on duty along the Berlin Wall swam a border canal to the American sector of Berlin, West Berlin police reported yesterday.

The policeman was stationed in the third story of a border house to observe the border and prevent escapes.

He let himself down to the ground with a rope and swam a canal to the American sector district of Kreuzberg last night. He fled in his uniform but left his weapon behind.

His escape was discovered only after he had reached the western bank. Other Communist police combed the area with searchlights looking for him, not knowing he had reached the West.

He was taken to a West Berlin hospital for treatment for exposure.

On the border of the American sector district of Steglitz, Communist police burned down an old factory building, apparently to make way for new border barriers to prevent escapes.

Collegiates Not Whining Over This Class

NEW YORK (AP)—A lot of college students are smacking their lips over an extracurricular course.

One of the visiting professors calls it "Oenology 1." But to the less classically inclined students it's known as wine-tasting.

Drum-beaters for American and French wine growers are visiting numerous campuses and holding one-day, student-sponsored seminars.

Steve Handel, 18, described the wine tasting class today as "another aspect of college education that the deans don't supply."

Handel, who arranged the affair as a member of the student board of managers, said that various vintners have sponsored the wine lectures at Columbia in the last two years.

Handel said the cheese and bread provided to refresh the students' palates between sips went much faster than the wine.

"Which proves," he said, "that students are much more concerned with hunger than thirst."

There was wine left over, but not a morsel of food.

NOT ENOUGH GIRLS

Although the seminar drew some 250 students, Handel said he had one regret—not enough girls turned up.

A Barnard student, Linda Israel, 19, of Manhattan said she thought the wine was delicious.

"I don't know all kinds of wine," she said, "but I have favorites. The boys I go out with buy me wine for dinner."

However, Linda obviously doesn't go out with Leonard Pack, 18, of Eastchester, N.Y.

"I don't buy wine for girls," Pack said. "We don't go out for dinner."

Court Upholds Sunday Closing

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A federal court has ruled that Missouri's 136-year-old Sunday closing law does not violate the U.S. Constitution.

Judge Marion C. Mathews of the U.S. Court of Appeals dissented, contending the law is unconstitutional. But Judge Roy W. Harper and Judge John K. Regan upheld the law.

Two St. Louis County stores of Government Employees Mart International challenged the law, claiming it had the effect of establishing religion.

The law prohibits sale of non-essential items on Sunday but doesn't define what is non-essential.

Detroit Plans Yule Fantasy

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Jerome Cavanagh said Wednesday that Detroit would sponsor a Christmas fantasy to "help fill the void" created when fire destroyed the Ford Rotunda last Friday, wiping out the famous Ford "Christmas Fantasy" which had been held there annually.

Cavanagh said one of the giant exhibition halls at Cobo Hall will be turned into a Christmas wonderland, opening by Dec. 8.

Huskies Look for Closest Battle in Intra-City Rivalry

PNH Hopes High in 3rd Meeting Against PCH Friday

Round three . . . and if the statistics sheet and the comments from the coaches are any indication, Friday night's clash between the Pontiac Central and the Pontiac Northern's gridiron elevates at Winder Stadium promises to be the best one in the young series.

With 5-14 and 27-12 victories in their tussles after the first two games in the inter-city rivalry and a schedule that is considered as tough as any in the state, the Chiefs should be heavy favorites for another win over their northern neighbors at the 8 p.m. kickoff.

However, coach Ed Heikkinen and the PNH squad feel they have enough plus factors going for them to give the Central eleven a tough time. It will be recalled that the Huskies put up a strong fight last season before dropping the two-touchdown verdict.

Both Heikkinen and coach Paul Dellerba at PCH have indicated the players are keyed up and working hard in practice sessions this week.

"We know they'll be stronger than last year," Dellerba said yesterday.

Heikkinen tossed bouquets to Central's way when he advised: "They are a good strong team when they are ready and we are sure they'll be ready this week!"

While the two Class A schools have not played a common opponent, statistics do indicate some strengths and weaknesses which each may attempt to exploit against the other.

PCH has scored 96 points in eight games while losing a 2-51 log. It has relinquished 172 points, an average of four touchdowns a game. However, the Chiefs have only tallied four times in their last three games and have relinquished 14 six pointers in the same span.

The Huskies have outscored their opponents 57-45 in fashioning a 4-1 mark. They have scored seven of their 15 touchdowns in the last three starts while only relinquishing four.

Dellerba is concerned about the Chiefs' leaky pass defense which has been pierced for 15 completion while winning two of the last three clashes. The Huskies, however, are not expecting the Gold and Black to touch much.

"They'll throw the ball," he warned. While the PCH defensive linemen will attempt to rush quarterback Jim Kimmel, they'll have to keep one eye on halfback Mike Marcum who, also, has thrown for a winning touchdown this year.

The Northern's squad has not been terrors with its pass defense, either, yielding 15 for 21 to the position while winning two of the last three clashes. The Huskies, however, are not expecting the Gold and Black to touch much.

"They'll throw the ball," he warned. While the PCH defensive linemen will attempt to rush quarterback Jim Kimmel, they'll have to keep one eye on halfback Mike Marcum who, also, has thrown for a winning touchdown this year.

Not to use it," Heikkinen commented yesterday.

This trend of sticking with the normal plays and defenses appears applicable to both eleven. Neither coach will admit to plotting any new gimmicks for the traditional season finale.

The two teams are not beset by injuries and expect to be at full strength Friday. The Chiefs' running attack is led by Charlie Humphrey who has tallied six times this season, while tackle

Dick Richards spearheads the defense.

Heikkinen praised halfback Don Weyer as his most consistent runner; linebacker Marcum will be the Huskies' defensive leader.

AP All-State Teams to Appear Next Week

DETROIT (AP)—It's coming—the 22nd annual Michigan all-state football team.

The Associated Press' teams will start appearing in The Pontiac Press next Monday with the publication of the class D all-stars.

The class C team will be published Tuesday and the class B team Wednesday. On Friday, after Thanksgiving, the 1962 class A All-State dream eleven will be announced.

Along with the class A team, Friday November 23rd, the annual All-County Football team picked by the coaches and writers will be featured in The Press.

A member of this year's AP panel as chairman of Region III which included the Pontiac, Royal Oak, Port Huron and Mt. Clemens areas was Bruno L. Kearns, sports editor of The Press.

This year's all-stars will join such current pro stars as Terry Barr, Earl Morrall, Tom Tracy, Jim Ninowski and Leo Sugar as members of the annual Associated Press teams that come from the cream of Michigan's high school players. These pros went from Michigan gridirons to star in college football and then into the National Football League.

Players such as these make up the 1962 all-state team. The AP team is chosen through an intensive screening system in which Michigan coaches and sports writers state over a say.

Lions May Be 'Looking Ahead'

NEW YORK (AP)—Is Green Bay heading for an upset this week? Can the Baltimore Colts end the Packers' winning streak Sunday at Green Bay?

The statistics of their Oct. 28 game at Baltimore indicate the Colts have a chance. Baltimore outgained the Packers both in the air and on the ground with total yardage of 309 to 252. No other club has outgained Green Bay one way, let alone both running and passing.

"There is only one statistic that counts," warned Webb Ewbank, Baltimore coach, today. "That is the final score, today, they beat us 17-6."

"We respect the Packers as one of the finest football clubs ever," said Ewbank. "We know they are good but they do not overawe us. If we play our best game we will have a fine opportunity to beat them. When we played them the first time we had several opportunities but our own errors killed us."

"The first time we got down there we fumbled. We had an interception later. If we can eliminate those errors we think we have a chance."

DEFENSE GREAT

The Colts' defense was sensational in the past two weeks against the San Francisco 49ers and Los Angeles Rams. The 49ers got a field goal while losing 23-3 and the Rams had to settle for a safety in a 14-2 defeat. Nobody has scored a touchdown on Baltimore since Green Bay and they got two, one passing and one running.

The Vikings show big offense via aeriels.

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions are faced with a situation that has been the death of many athletic teams during a high pressure season—that of looking ahead to the "big" game.

Minnesota, with a 2-7 record, may not be expected to give the Lions too much trouble but this is always the situation when a team looks ahead as the Lions may be doing with the Packers' game one week from today.

The Vikings have shown their ability to cross the goal line having scored at an average of 30 points in their last five games.

The past two weeks they lost to Pittsburgh, 39-31 and to the Bears, 31-30, with sophomore quarterback Fran Tarkenton passing for 14 touchdowns in the last five games. He now has a total of 16 for the season putting him in second place in the league for touchdown passes.

This may spell trouble for the Lions who have been too tough to run against but have been easily penetrated by passes.

LIONS HURTING

The Lions themselves will not be in the best of condition for the game with Nick Pietrosante out of action with a leg injury.

A little good news came to the Lions yesterday that Terry Barr was back working out with the team but would be held out until the Thanksgiving Day encounter.

Several Lions suffered bumps and bruises in the rough game with the 49ers last Sunday but all are expected to be ready. Out with leg injuries were Danny Lewis, Jim Gibbons, Alex Karras and Paul Ward.

Danny Watkins and Yale Lary both suffered hand injuries against the 49ers.

The game will be televised back to Detroit at 2:06 p.m. Pontiac time.

Colts in Gear for Green Bay

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Pistons dissipated an early 16-point lead, then bounced back in the fourth period to upset the San Francisco Warriors 125-115 Wednesday night for their second victory in 12 National Basketball Association contests this season.

After Detroit took a 46-29 advantage at 3:17 of the second quarter, the Warriors bounced back to trail by only 59-57 at halftime, then 91-90 after three quarters.

A free throw by Walt Chamberlain in the first minute of the final quarter deadlocked the game at 91-91. The Pistons then hit for nine straight points as Willie Jones, Don Ohl, Dave DeBusschere and Baily Howell each made a basket and DeBusschere a free throw.

San Francisco again rallied to close within three points with 3:59 left in the game. Chamberlain's 49 points, 28 of them in the second half, were the well-balanced Detroit attack.

Scott also set a Convention Arena record for rebounds in one half when he nailed 17 in the first two quarters.

Things were back to normal again today in the Eastern Division. The vaunted Boston Celtics were in first place, a perch they have occupied with monotonous regularity the last few years.

The Celtics didn't have to raise a finger to regain their customary spot in the standings. The Cincinnati Royals hoisted them there by spanking the Syracuse Nats 125-120 Wednesday night in Cincinnati.

Oscar Robertson's 33 points and Bob Boozer's 19 rebounds were spot in the standings. The Cincinnati Royals hoisted them there by spanking the Syracuse Nats 125-120 Wednesday night in Cincinnati.

Winners of the finals receive points which are accumulated through the year toward a trophy award.

Possible for Michigan to Surpass MSU

Road Contests to End Season for Both 11s

Spartans, M Rated Definite Underdogs for Saturday

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The peculiarities of Big Ten football leave this strange possibility: downtrodden Michigan can finish higher in the conference standings than Michigan State.

It's only a possibility, of course. But right now, Michigan has more momentum than it's had all season, and Michigan State is at its lowest ebb.

The Spartans and Wolverines are on the road Saturday and again the following week.

Bump Elliott takes Michigan to heavily favored Iowa Saturday for the first time since he resigned as a Hawkeye assistant. Then comes the finale with heavily favored Ohio State.

Michigan State, with two straight spankings, goes against Northwestern Saturday. The Wildcats, angered by their defeat to Wisconsin, are favored to bounce back. Then Michigan State finishes at Illinois and the Spartans should be overwhelming choices there.

But suppose Michigan's momentum does carry it to two victories. And for the sake of argument, suppose Michigan State loses its last two. The final standings will show Michigan 3-4 and Michigan State 2-4.

Michigan will go to Iowa at full strength for the first time in its history. With Bob Chandler improving at quarterback and Dave Raimey running as he did a year ago, Michigan now has an attack it lacked in the unhappy early portion of the season.

The Spartans have to cure their butterfly to cope with Northwestern. Michigan State has fumbled 33 times—and lost the ball 22 times—in seven games. Their opponents have lost the ball on fumbles only seven times.

One of the reasons for Michigan's ever-so-slight improvement in the victory over Illinois is credited to Elliott's departure from the platoon system. At the start of the season he went to platoons to build up experience among his green players. Now he's going to two-way players and is relying mostly on his first team.

It's Michigan State that's in the throes of change, instead. The Spartans, at this late stage, are trying a new quarterback. He's Roger Hailey, who was untried as a passer in the Purdue defeat.

"We hadn't planned to use him this year," said coach Duffy Daugherty.

But the downfall of Michigan State was due to lack of passing as much as its slight improvement. The Big Ten's top game Saturday is the Minnesota-Purdue affair. Minnesota expects to be at top strength with end John Campbell, tackle Carl Eller and back Bill Munsey recovering from injuries. The Boilermakers may be without fullback Gene Donaldson.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf said Minnesota may be the toughest opponent this year for Purdue.

Wisconsin plays Illinois and hopes to add to its Rose Bowl chances. Although they beat Northwestern 37-0, coach Bill Bruhn has criticized the Badgers' pass protection for quarterback Ron Vanderkelen.

Iowa is idle Saturday while Ohio State has a non-conference go with Oregon.

The Los Angeles Angels have yet to produce a .300 hitter. They have been in the American League two seasons.

Wolverines Have Incentive, Too

Iowa Fired Up for M Game

IOWA CITY, Ia. (AP) — The Iowa Hawkeyes have plenty of reasons to be fired up for their football battle with Michigan here Saturday.

The incentives include: hopes to finish over the .500 level for the season; a bid to become the first Iowa team ever to beat Michigan at Iowa City; and a triumph in the final home game of the season, which also marks the end of Iowa's Big Ten play.

In addition, four Iowa starters and coach Jerry Burns, all natives of Michigan, will be out to make a strong showing, and avenge a 23-14 loss to the Wolverines last year.

BURNS 'HANGED'
Burns, who along with Michigan coach Bump Elliott has been hanged in effigy this year, is a native of Detroit, was a reserve on the Michigan football team and formerly coached at St. Mary's of Redford high school in Detroit.

Iowa starters from Michigan include end Tony Giacobazzi of Farmington, tackle Gus Kasapi of Detroit, halfback Paul Krause of Flint and fullback Vic Davis of Niles.

Other varsity players from Michigan include halfback Bob Leszotte of Royal Oak and Bob Sherman of Durand.

Ironically, Frosty Evashevski is a quarterback on the Michigan team although he attended Iowa City High School and is the son of Forest Evashevski, Iowa athletic director.

Giacobazzi is a doubtful starter for the game because of a leg injury but Burns says "he really wants to play against those Michigan boys."

Except for the rivalry between the schools, not much is at stake in the battle. Michigan has won two games and its only conference victory was a 14-10 victory over Illinois last week.

Iowa has beaten Indiana and Ohio State in the conference but was defeated by Wisconsin, Purdue and Minnesota.

The Hawkeyes passed only four times in the victory over Ohio State and relied mostly on running plays in the loss to Minnesota.

However, the passing of quarterback Matt Szykowski is still considered one of the Hawkeyes' sharpest weapons, and he probably will take to the air often against Michigan.

Iowa has averaged 283 yards rushing and passing in its first seven games, but much of the Hawkeyes' rushing and passing in its first seven games, but much of the yardage has been wasted by fumbles.

The Hawkeyes have lost the ball 16 times on fumbles and 12 times on pass interceptions.

Annual Baseball Draft Offers Buddin, Casale

NEW YORK (AP)—The list of players who will be available for drafting during the forthcoming Minor League convention was released today by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

The minor league convention will be held in Rochester, N.Y., starting Nov. 28.

Three price tags have been placed on the players to be drafted, $25,000, $12,000 and $5,000.

Players in the $25,000 bracket are mostly old-timers who have been in and out of the major leagues at one time or another.

Among well-known players listed as available for $25,000 are Steve Bilko, Ray Jablonski, Al Worthington, Don Buddin, Al Cotto, George Witt, Johnny Kucks, Harry Simpson, Ken Appenante, Ferrarese and Jerry Casale.

The list contains the names of several players who received large bonuses for signing with major league clubs. Among these are pitcher-infielder Von McDaniel of Oklahoma City, pitcher Arnie Thorseland of Rochester, pitchers Richard Sorenson and Bruce Swango of Vancouver and catcher Cecil Hudley of El Paso.

The New York Mets of the National League, who won fewer games than any of the 20 major league teams, will get first choice. A source close to the Mets said they probably would pick Worthington, former pitcher with the Giants who won 15 and lost four last season with Indianapolis. Worthington's earned run average was 2.94.

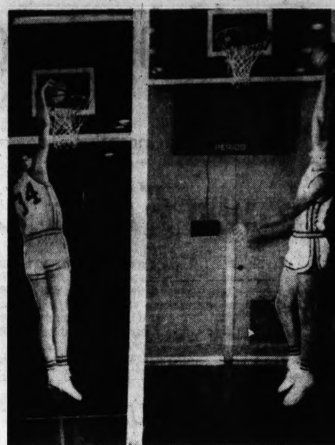

After the Mets make their selection, the other clubs will follow in this order: Washington, Chicago Cubs, Kansas City, Houston, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Louis, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Chicago White Sox, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cincinnati, Los Angeles Angels, Los Angeles Dodgers, Minnesota, San Francisco and New York Yankees.

City Cage Teams Near Deadline for Entries

The deadline for entry fees for the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's Class A, B and C men's basketball leagues is 5 p.m. Friday.

There will be a meeting of all team managers at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the conference room of the Health Department at City Hall. The meeting agenda includes discussion of classifications, league organizations, playing schedules, practice sessions and other rules and regulations concerned with league operations.

All teams not represented will be omitted from the league unless prior approval for the absence is obtained from Leonard Buzz, supervisor of recreation.

BIG CHANGE — Fred Thomann, Michigan State's 6-9 center shows the big difference between a 10 and 12 foot basket which will be featured in an experiment at Michigan State, in the intra-squad game Friday night as part of a coaches clinic. He is shown "dunking" in the 10-foot bucket but does not make it in the 12-foot height.

Cage Basket Raised in MSU Experiment

EAST LANSING — An experiment designed to put the little man back into college basketball will be tried Friday and Saturday at Michigan State University.

The baskets at MSU's Intramural Building have been raised from 10 to 12 feet. They will be used at this height in a full-scale game Friday evening between two MSU teams composed of varsity players and outstanding freshmen prospects.

Spartan cage Coach Ford Anderson points out that the 12-foot basket has been a subject for conjecture for the past few years.

Coach Phog Allen at Kansas and Athletic Director Pete Newell at California have experimented with the high hoop, he says, and the results were interesting.

The extra height tends to minimize the effectiveness of the big man around the bucket, he adds, and there are no "dunk" shots, fewer tip-ins, less jamming up under the basket, longer rebounds, more set and hook shots and less jump shots.

"It's an experiment we have wanted to try for some time," Coach Anderson explains, "and we are sure it will prove to be interesting."

Cage fans can judge for themselves the merits and demerits of the 12-foot basket at Friday's game, a highlight of the 10th annual MSU Basketball Coaches Clinic.

Open to the public, the game will begin at 8 p.m. and will be played under Big Ten regulations. Tickets are $1 for adults and $3 for students and others.

Wrigley Hires Kennedy as Newest Cub Coach

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Kennedy, former Chicago White Sox player, has jumped on the Chicago Cubs' merry-go-round of coaches.

The Cubs named him as a coach Wednesday and said he is regarded as a potential head coach for the club.

The White Sox named Charlie Metro as a coach Monday, four days after the Cubs had dismissed him. Metro had served most of the 1962 season as head coach in the Cubs' managerless system.

The field of 128 men and 64 women include holders of every major United States individual title. Topping it are Don Carter of St. Louis and Marge Merrick of Columbus, Ohio, defending champions.

The amazing Carter won in 1957, 1959, 1960 as well as last year and was runner-up when Ed Lubanski of Detroit took it in 1958.

Miss Merrick will try to become the first woman to repeat as women's champion. Marion Ludwig of Grand Rapids won twice, in 1957 and 1960, but none has won in succession.

The final standings will be determined by the Petersen point system which awards one point for each game won and one for each 50 pins scored.

Don Drysdale Wins '62 Young Award

BOSTON (AP)—Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who won 25 games last season while leading the major leagues in strikeouts, was named winner today of the Cy Young award as baseball's outstanding pitcher of 1962.

The right-hander, 26, polled 14 of the 20 votes cast by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Only four pitchers received votes. All were National League, with the writers ignoring World Series star Ralph Terry of the New York Yankees.

Jack Sanford of the pennant-winning San Francisco Giants won runner-up honors with four votes. Cincinnati's Bob Purkey and Billy Pierce of the Giants each received one vote.

The Cy Young award, proposed by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, is given annually by the writers.

Drysdale is the fourth National League pitcher to win it since its inception in 1956 when Don Newcombe was the recipient.

OTHER WINNERS
Other winners were Warren Spahn in 1957, Bob Turley in 1958, Early Wynn in 1959, Vernon Law in 1960 and Whitey Ford in 1961.

The controversial Drysdale, often accused of head-hunting with his brushback pitches, was a 20-game winner for the Dodgers by Aug. 3, the earliest National League pitcher to hit the magic mark since 1918.

The strapping fast-baller ended up with a 25-9 record, the most victories by a National League since Newcombe won 27 for the 1957 Dodgers.

Drysdale struck out 232 batters, leading both leagues in that department for the third time in four seasons.

His three 300-plus strikout seasons placed the 6-foot-2, 215-pounder in select National League company.

Special Meet Will Precede Pin Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—The parade of champions will officially open the sixth annual World's Invitational Match Game Bowling Championship at McCormick Place tonight.

The special $5,000 competitive preview precedes the meet's championship action starting Friday morning and continuing through Nov. 25. Prize distribution is $48,240 with a $7,500 first award to the men and $4,000 to the women.

Miss Merrick will try to become the first woman to repeat as women's champion. Marion Ludwig of Grand Rapids won twice, in 1957 and 1960, but none has won in succession.

The final standings will be determined by the Petersen point system which awards one point for each game won and one for each 50 pins scored.

The Bulgy Major Picks Close Ones

By MAJOR AMOS H. HOOPLE
Father of Double Reverses

Egad, friends, seldom during a long and illustrious career as a football prognosticator have I seen the collegiate elvans so evenly matched as they are this weekend.

In many games only a hair's breadth will separate the winners and losers at the conclusion of Saturday's hostilities. I have been forced to marshal all the forces at my command to evaluate these games.

After many tortured hours in my laboratory with pencil, paper, test tube and slide rule, I have determined the likely winners.

One-point victories will be the order of the day for Oregon, Rice and Oklahoma over Ohio State, Texas A. & M. and Missouri respectively.

Two other engagements almost as close will find UCLA topping Washington, 18-13, and Texas sliding past Texas Christian by a 16-14 count.

Saving the best for last, I give you not one, but two Hoople Specials this week.

I predict a Michigan State conquest of Northwestern, 28-27. And down South, a bevy of Georgia Tech stars will fall on Alabama and talk off with a thrilling 18-8 victory—Ho-Ho!

Gross in Home Finale Saturday Night

Titans Host Tough Foe in South Carolina

Atlantic Coast Team Highly Favored to Stop U-D Ace

DETROIT — This is it, Jerry Gross' final Titan Stadium appearance, the penultimate game of a brilliant three-year career. And everyone is wondering what the former Bay City Central white can do for an encore when the Titans host the University of South Carolina at 8:15 p.m., Saturday.

The reference, naturally, is to Gross' one-man show in Detroit's 15-14 triumph over Cincinnati last Friday when he gained 295 rushing yards and scored all 18 Titan points. The 5-10, 175-pound quarterback's performance ranked him on the list of great Gross moments.

The South Carolina meeting will also be the last home turf game for seven other seniors, including fullback Vic Bantian, who currently leads the club in rushing with 243 yards (Gross has 240), ends Tom Bolt and John Lower, the two pass receivers with 28-40.3 and 19-260.0 credentials, respectively; defensive specialist Gary Banks; center Tom Aroensmith, co-captain with Gross; left guard Ron Read and left tackle Frank Hecker.

South Carolina, 2-4-1 and riding the crest of a two-game winning streak, will bring to Detroit one of the finest halfbacks in the nation in Billy Grambrell, a fleet, 175-pound senior from Athens, Ga.

Grambrell currently leads the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing (545 yards in 88 attempts) and in per-carrier average, 6.2. His 50 points this fall ties him for conference leadership in that department and those same 50 markers are a new USC school record.

Directing coach Marvin Bass' attack is another Peach State transplant, sophomore quarterback Dan Reeves, 6-2, 189, from Andersonville, Ga. Reeves is a pocket runner-pass threat who is second in Grambrell in rushing (189 yards in 113 carries) and who leads the Gamecocks in passing with 500 yards and four touchdowns.

South Carolina opened its season with a 37-20 loss to Northwestern and then dropped a 21-0 decision to Duke. A 27-0 tie with Georgia came next, followed by a 27-6 walloping of Wake Forest. The Gamecocks then lost two heartbreakers to North Carolina, 19-14, and to Maryland, 13-11. Their two-game success streak has come at the expense of Virginia, 46-6, and North Carolina State, 17-4, last Saturday.

Completed Season for Comets

5 Local Gridders Get Olivet Awards

Five area athletes who completed their gridiron careers for Olivet last Saturday have been awarded letters at the school.

Playing their last game in the loss to Kalamazoo were seniors Chuck Brown, Bill Cassidy, Tom Nesbitt, Jeff Snarey and Larry Spencer.

Brown went to Olivet from St. Michaels where he won three letters in football, basketball, baseball and track.

Upon graduation in 1957 he entered the University of Detroit where he played freshman basketball and track.

At the end of freshman year at U. of D. he worked right up until he enrolled at Olivet in 1958.

NESBITT For the last two years he has played at a defensive halfback position for the Comets. Cassidy is a graduate of St. Fredericks where he earned 4 letters in football. He is now in his fourth year of varsity competition at Olivet. For the past two seasons he has been the Comets starting center and this year he is offensive captain.

Nesbitt, also in his St. Fredericks

He has led the Olivet team in ground gaining for the past three seasons and during that time has averaged better than 5 yards per carry.

Last year Tom was named to the All MIAA Team as well as to the All-State Associated Press and All MIAA teams. This year Tom leads all MIAA scorers.

Snarey is a graduate of Lake Orion where he won letters in football, baseball and track.

At Olivet he has won four letters in football.

It was during his freshman year that he broke his neck in the Hope game. He was switched to a defensive halfback position in his sophomore year.

Spencer is a product of Oxford High School. Upon graduation in 1955 he joined the Marines. Larry entered Olivet in 1958 and was a chosen most valuable player.

Last year, as co-captain Larry was named to the All State, the All NAIA and All-MIAA teams.

Touch Grigger Takes Aerial, Scores, Dies

DALLAS 679 — The soft spiral sailed into Jerry Allman's arms and the 15-year-old W. H. Gaston junior high school student dashed down the sideline for a touchdown.

"My heart feels like it is in my mouth," Jerry told a teammate.

Then he collapsed. A few minutes later he died at a hospital. A post mortem was underway today to determine what caused Jerry's death.

He had no history of a heart condition. He had been playing touch football. There had been no body contact.

The boy's sudden death stunned his schoolmates in the physical education class.

Nesbitt Leads Scorers

By The Associated Press

Simple arithmetic shows why Kalamazoo is on the verge of an unbeaten season. And it boils down to simple football fundamentals—good offense and good defense.

The MIAA champion Hornets, with a non-conference game left for its finale, are Michigan's only team with a perfect record. They have scored more points than any other team—188—and have allowed the lowest average amount of scoring by their opponents—10.6.

The individual scoring race was unchanged this week with Tom Nesbitt of Olivet leading with 54 points and George Salines of Michigan State in second with 48. But Nesbitt has completed the season while Salines has two games to play.

Newcomers to Ways, Means Unit Can Help, Hinder JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The powerful Ways and Means Committee of the House will be getting some new members next year — and they might make or break some of President Kennedy's key programs in the untested 80th Congress.

The committee could tip the balance for or against the kind of tax cut the President will recommend, in fulfillment of his promise to submit a tax reform program including a net reduction in income taxes. It could go along with, or drastically reshape, the complex major tax reforms the Treasury is expected to propose.

If Kennedy renews his controversial proposal for health care of the aged under Social Security, the crucial vote likely will come in this committee. Health care was defeated this year by a hair-breadth margin in the Senate — but the Democrats have picked up seats there.

MAJOR EVENT
So, for the President, a shift in membership of Ways and Means could be a major event — if it meant a shift in sentiment.

It is too early to tell whether this will be the case. But there is a recent example of what even a small difference could mean: The President, despite a personal plea, lost an unemployment insurance extension bill in the committee by a one-vote margin.

What is in view now, because of retirements from Congress, is the replacement of two Democratic members and one Republican, Noah M. Mason of Illinois, all of whom are among the 25-member committee's pronounced conservatives.

One of the most significant legislative-political undertakings of next January will be the filling of the two Democratic seats. They now are occupied by Rep. Burr P. Harrison of Virginia and Rep. James B. Frazier Jr. of Tennessee, neither of whom was a candidate for re-election. They are two of the four majority party members who voted against the administration on the unemployment insurance issue.

NAMES POP UP
Names are already popping up in speculation, but the lists will remain wide open until the eve of the first Democratic caucus in 1963.

Among three Southerners figuring in the speculation, two might be considered by Kennedy lieutenants as generally friendlier to administration proposals than the Kennedy bills, and Rep. W. Pat Jennings of Virginia, regarded as a moderate in the generally conservative delegation from the Old Dominion.

The other is a staunch conservative. The committee reflects the close division the House has shown on economic issues — Republicans plus conservative Democrats closely balancing all-out administration supporters. The committee is probably a shade or two more conservative than the House itself as such votes as the one on unemployment insurance indicate.

Kennedy supporters could never get close enough to a majority on his health care plan to bring it to a vote in the committee.

Yet Ways and Means gave Kennedy essentially the interim tax bill he wanted — the Senate later cut it up — and also what may turn out to be his greatest legislative triumph of 1962, the five-year foreign trade extension bill.

It is backed up by a formidable well-informed staff of tax specialists. Some of the more senior members — notably Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, a courteous but hard-driving Arkansan — qualify as experts in their own right.

Advertiser Wants to Quit TV Over Hiss

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The head of the Schick Safety Razor Co., angered by a television show on which Alger Hiss appeared as a critic of Richard M. Nixon, wants to cancel its million-dollar advertising contract with ABC-TV.

But ABC won't agree.

Patrick Frawley, chief executive officer of the Schick firm, sought cancellation of the contract in a telegram to Vincent Francis, ABC-TV's western advertising director.

The wire said in part: "We are shocked at the extreme poor taste and judgment shown by the ABC network in presenting a convicted perjurer involved in the passing of United States secrets to the Communists as a critic of the former vice president of the United States."

In a return telegram, Francis said: "We value our relationship with you and your company, and, of course, we regret that you feel as strongly as you do about that broadcast. However, we cannot grant your request."

GOOD BUSINESS
Asked why Schick would not be permitted to cancel, Francis said: "We're just being good businessmen."

A Schick spokesman said his company had contracted with ABC to sponsor parts of two shows — "Combat" and "Stony Burke" — starting the first of next year. The spokesman said the contract called for an expenditure of more than a million dollars.

Francis said Schick was the only advertiser to complain about the program, which was shown nationally last Sunday night. Frawley has backed various anti-Communist functions, including Dr. Fred Schwarz's school of anti-Communism.

SLANTED COMMENT
Murray Chotiner, who took part in Nixon's unsuccessful campaign for the California governorship this fall, also appeared. He said Wednesday he didn't know the title of the show in advance and was unaware Hiss also would appear in a taped interview.

Asked whether he would have appeared knowing this, Chotiner said: "If the program was going to go on anyway, I would have thought it even more important that someone be on to present the facts concerning Dick Nixon, so slanted any more than the way that the program wouldn't be it was."

Chotiner said he didn't think it was necessary to have Hiss on the program. He said Smith's comments were slanted against Nixon.

Evacuees Describe Guam Typhoon Horror

HONOLULU (U)—The first tired group of evacuees from typhoon-smashed Guam arrived in Honolulu yesterday and ate their first hot meal in days. They then asked for beds.

They walked slowly from a giant Military Air Transport Service (MATS) C-119, flopped in wooden chairs in a bleak conference room, and gratefully sipped Red Cross coffee while they awaited assignment to quarters.

The group first was taken to Wake Island, an assembly point for refugees, to await pickup by the MATS mercy flight.

Many appeared confused by events since Typhoon Karen lashed the island Sunday night with winds of more than 170 miles an hour.

"I'm in such a daze I still can't remember how it all happened," said Mrs. Mary Lou Danskin, wife of an Air Force captain, of Ontario, Calif.

TOUGHER TYPHOON
Maj. Howard Ledbetter, his wife, Billie, and their sons, Greg, 12, and Randy, 7, of Livingston, Tenn., had been through a typhoon four years ago on Okinawa. Mrs. Ledbetter said the Guam storm was far worse.

"The winds were sustaining," she said. "They just kept going on Okinawa, at least they came in gusts, every so often."

Mrs. Albert Cole of Omaha, said "our house was supposed to be typhoon-proof. In a pig's eye it was."

"It was beyond anyone's imagination," said Mrs. Gerald Landau of Denver. "I've never been through anything so terrible."

These first evacuees considered themselves lucky. They salvaged sufficient clothing to be the first to leave the storm-battered island in the western Pacific.

All were due for transfers or discharge shortly, and that's one reason why many were lifted out first.

"Wait until you see those on the next planes," said Sgt. Landan. "They lost everything."

Airman I. C. David Kunze, Secaucus, N. J., was in a barracks at Andersen Air Force Base when the typhoon struck.

"It hit about 7 Sunday night," he said. "Then about 11 we were in the eye and all was quiet. About midnight, it started up again and next morning it was still blowing real good."

ONE BIG MESS
Airmen 2 C. William Harding of Cambridge, Mass., said "Guam is just one big mess. I was in the barracks and climbed up on top of the lockers. You can say Guam looks like a bomb hit it. It really does."

Airman I. C. Eugene Mohr, of St. Louis, Mo., put his 6-week-old baby Robert on a shelf in the clothes closet before the storm.

"He slept through the whole thing," Mohr said with a grin.

Harding described conditions as bad, with no running water and no electricity. "But they have wells, and they were starting to get water when we left."

The 68 evacuees breezed through customs in minutes. They went by buses to quarters at Hickam for cleanups and rest before taking off again for the mainland at noon today.

AIRLIFTED — Brig. Gen. John A. Rouse, Hickam AFB commander, assists Mrs. Albert Cole and daughter Teresa, 2, on their arrival at the base from typhoon-devastated Guam yesterday.

Junior Editors Quiz on SCHOOLS

QUESTION: What is the meaning of caps and gowns?

ANSWER: There was a time, long ago, when the clothes of men and women were much alike — both wore long gowns reaching almost to the floor (first picture). Founded about 1163, Oxford University in England had its students wear gowns with hoods hanging down in back.

The fashion changed, but Oxford refused to change its students' dress. Gowns came to be regarded as correct for students.

However, as years went by, their use, by most colleges, was for graduation purposes only. They gave such dignity to these important occasions that their use spread from colleges to many high schools.

The cap, named a "mortar board" because it resembles that used by masons, is a development of a 13th century skull cap called a "bireta."

In the 1700s, clergymen began to use a square board on top covered with cloth, with a tassel hanging down. Since such hats had become symbols of office or achievement, colleges adopted them to go with the gowns.

The meaning of caps and gowns is that the wearers have entered the ranks of those who have received school or college education. It means that these students have worked hard to achieve such a distinction. It means, too, that a new world lies ahead.

FOR YOU TO DO: There's a dramatic moment in a graduation ceremony when the students swing the tassel hanging from their caps from one side to another. This act has a symbolic meaning. Find out what it is.

3 Navajos Await Verdict in Cactus Chewing Case

SAN BERNARDINO (U)—A verdict is expected Nov. 29 in the case of three Navajo Indians accused of violating the state narcotics act by chewing buttons from a tiny cactus plant called peyote.

All agree peyote produces hallucinations. But, before the case was taken under submission in Superior Court yesterday, there was considerable disagreement as to how dangerous peyote chewing can be. The case was tried without a jury.

The three defendants, all railroad laborers, were arrested by sheriff's officers last April in a raid on an Indian hogan near the desert town of Needles. Officers said they found 30 persons, including the defendants, in various stages of stupor induced by peyote chewing.

Peyote issued as a sacramental in rites of the Pan-Indian Native American Church, which claims 225,000 members, and the defense contends freedom of religion would be abridged if peyote chewing were forbidden.

The prosecution contends peyote is a dangerous narcotic.

Most of the testimony was incomprehensible to the defendants.

Only one of them understands much English. A Navajo translator was provided to keep them aware of what was going on.

Dr. Gordon A. Alles, a pharmacologist who invented Dextro-urine and Benzedrine, said under cross-examination yesterday that 10 grams of mesquite derived from peyote might kill a man.

But, under questioning by a defense attorney, Dr. Alles said 80 buttons of peyote would have to be consumed to produce such a lethal dose. And he said he has read of a case in which a person consumed 92 buttons in one sitting "without noticeable effect."

Prosecutor Kenneth L. Pike, in his summation, said the defendants knew they were using a hallucinating drug. Pike said the testimony of Dr. Alles, a defense witness, demonstrated peyote can be toxic if taken in excessive amounts.

The number of prisoners in the 34 federal penal institutions at the end of 1961 rose to 23,791. This was a record for the 12th straight year.

Liechtenstein: Cosmopolitan Land of Past

VADUZ, Liechtenstein (AP) — There's no railroad station in this capital of the principality of Liechtenstein. International trains pass through the country but don't stop. Liechtenstein has no daily newspapers, no airports, no customs officials, no army.

With 17,125 residents, Liechtenstein is a cozy country that has survived the wars and turmoil that have swept Europe for centuries.

LIFE AS IN PAST
"Things are going topsy-turvy most everywhere else," says farmer Frederick Ospelt, "but we hope to go on living pretty much as we have in the past without too much worry about the outside world."

The Liechtensteins have not developed tourist attractions. "You're welcome to come here," said farmer Gunther Vogel, "but we don't go out of our way to get you here."

Liechtenstein lies in the center of Europe. Covering 62 square miles, it stretches 17 miles north to south and about 7 miles east to west at its widest point.

The Austrian princes of Liechtenstein bought the territory from two other bankrupt noblemen and founded the state in 1713.

NEIGHBOR LANDS
Switzerland and Austria are immediate neighbors. The Swiss supply border guards, diplomatic representation abroad, and use of their currency. From the Austrians come the lion's share of the legal system plus rich pastries and meat dishes swimming in cream sauces.

Most of their German-speaking Swiss neighbors are Protestants, but the Liechtensteins, like the Austrians, are largely Roman Catholics.

"Our heads are with the Swiss but our hearts with the Austrians," says Mrs. Joseph Rheinberger, 80, a farmer's wife.

Every village is a picture of compromise—Swiss cleanliness on the outside but an atmosphere of relaxed Austrian comfort inside.

RULING MONARCH
The ruling monarch is Franz Joseph II. A shy, retiring man of 56, the prince lives in a castle atop a hill on the outskirts of Vaduz. He owns the castle and the surrounding acre or so of land, plus vineyards.

His rights are limited. Liechtenstein's 15-member Parliament, which his grandfather set up in 1921, sees to that. Aside from opening and closing Parliament, signing measures approved by Parliament and okaying the law makers' choice of prime minister, he grants amnesties and bestows titles on deserving subjects.

LIVESTOCK IN CAPITAL — A herd of cattle moves along the main street of Vaduz, capital of Liechtenstein, a tiny principality in the center of Europe. In background is the city hall. The village has no railroad station and though international trains speed through this tiny country of the past, it is not even mentioned on timetables. Liechtenstein has 17,125 residents.

The prince controls a large share of the wine industry, which produces red and white vintages. Little of it is left to send abroad after Liechtenstein consumers buy their at $2.50 a bottle.

The income the prince derives from industrial and farm holdings in Western Europe is substantial but not enough to let him live extravagantly.

NO GOVERNMENT FUNDS
The prince receives not a penny of government funds and pays no taxes, but his subjects look to him in times of need. When a widow's barn burned down and her cows were lost, the prince's family supplied money for a new barn and a new herd of cows. After the last war when the treasury was short, the prince's family helped pay for new roads.

The Swiss let Liechtenstein turn out stamps despite its incorporation with the Swiss postal system. The sale of limited editions to collectors provides a tidy income — exactly how much is a secret.

Liechtenstein's specialty is the registration of foreign companies whose directors need not reside in this country of reasonable tax.

Heavy Traffic Expected
In its first year of service, Dulles International Airport is expected to handle 1.2-million passengers — approximately the total 1960 population of the states of Utah and Wyoming.

Yugoslavia produces aluminum for the United States and other customers. It turned out 25,000 tons in 1960.

ber of the country's largest party, the Citizens party. The other party, the Union, is likewise Roman Catholic and conservative.

Before the last war, 80 per cent of the Liechtensteins lived from farming. Only 12 per cent do today. The others have gone to work in new metal plants and in factories making false teeth and artificial sausage skins.

WASHINGTON—What seemed simple is sticky. What looked calm is disturbed. And Fidel Castro, who wasn't talked to, became very talkative. That's the story three weeks after the Cuban crisis reached the explosive point.

If the picture isn't completely ugly now, it's far from pretty. In fact, it's a mess. And the reported new offer by Soviet Premier Khrushchev—with many conditions attached—to pull his jet bombers out of Cuba hasn't helped to untangle the situation.

The cars are exact models of autos in use around the world. The prize-winning Mercedes-Benz 300 SL sports car, for example, is copied on a 1/25th scale for the ITC Electric Roadways racing set. The cars — 7 1/4 inches long — achieve a scale speed of 200 miles per hour.

Track layouts often are exact copies of internationally-famous racing courses. One ITC kit includes such courses as Le Mans, Sebring, Monza and Daytona Beach.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—It was bad enough that thieves stole $2,000 in cash and $5,000 in checks from a laundry firm. But adding insult to injury was the fact that the bandits used one of the laundry's trucks to haul away two safes holding the valuables.

Diggers Find Pueblo Infant Mummy in Cave

WASHINGTON — A Pueblo infant mummy, wrapped in rabbit skins and a feather blanket, was recently found in a long-abandoned cliff city at Colorado's Wetherill Mesa.

The well-preserved body was discovered in a trash-filled cave at Step House, near the remains of two other babies, one bound carefully to a crude board. The mummy had been preserved naturally since Pueblo Indians did not embalm their dead.

Recent excavations by the National Park Service and the National Geographic Society have also uncovered a curious oval stone pit with a slab-lined hearth believed to be the site of secret religious ceremonies.

The discoveries brought to an end the third season of excavation and stabilization of the prehistoric cliff houses of Wetherill Mesa. In recent months, archaeologists have uncovered some 20 other skeletons and seven storerooms filled with pottery and kitchen debris.

The diggings are part of a major scientific effort to learn more about the cliff-dwelling Pueblo Indians who flourished for centuries and reached a high state of culture before mysteriously vanishing 700 years ago.

The National Park Service and the National Geographic Society have been exploring three sizable areas at the beginning of the cliff dwellings at Wetherill Mesa — Long House, Step House and the shadowed cliff caves and constructed, stone by stone, the first skyscraper cities in America.

LIKE CLIFF HOUSE.

Long House is comparable in size to the largest of the Mesa Verde communities, the well-known Cliff House, which has 300 rooms and 28 kivas, or underground ceremonial chambers.

Step House is unusual in that it has a long flight of stairs cut into the cliff face by Indians. Normally they used ladders or ropes to reach their inaccessible homes.

Mag House was named by a Swedish archaeologist, Baron Nordenfalk, who found a beautiful mag there while excavating in 1891.

Indians settled the Mesa Verde area at the beginning of the Christian era. For unknown reasons, they moved from the mesa tops to the shadowed cliff caves and constructed, stone by stone, the first skyscraper cities in America.

Cliff House was a busy village whose multistoried apartments stuck like wasp nests to the yellow limestone. By 1300, however, the Mesa Verde Indians had abandoned their homes and disappeared.

24-YEAR DROUGHT

Tree-ring studies indicate a prolonged drought parched the region from 1276 to 1299. Soil erosion and overpopulation may have helped trigger a mass desertion of the cliff settlements.

The cliff sites were lost to man for 600 years until two cowboys rode through the twisting canyons in 1888 and chanced upon the ruins while chasing stray cattle.

Reid Gains, but Not Much

Picks Up Votes Slowly as Canvassers Report

Republican Clarence A. Reid gained 119 votes in Oakland County today when the county's election canvassers completed their official count in the lieutenant governor race.

But Reid said he doubted he will seek a recount in his contest with incumbent Democratic Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, unless he gains several hundred more votes in Genesee and Wayne counties, the only two counties yet to complete their official canvasses.

The gain in Oakland County over unofficial tallies left Reid 3,274 votes behind Lesinski, whose lead was in danger of dropping below 2,000 before yesterday's report that he had picked up 1,172 votes in Kent County.

Latest figures show Lesinski with 1,337,584 votes and Reid with 1,334,310.

REVISED FIGURES

Reid said Monday he would ask a recount after revised figures had trimmed his deficit to only 2,438.

The new totals in Oakland County gave Reid 146,393 votes compared to 146,274 reported in unofficial returns.

Lesinski's total in the county of 104,106 was not changed.

Reid said he doubted he would ask for a recount after the official canvases from Kent County added 158 votes to Lesinski's total and reduced Reid's by 1,024.

"I figured I might have a chance on a recount if the difference had been 2,100 or 2,200 votes," Reid said. "But I don't think a recount would do any good if the difference stays up around 3,000."

He said, "I doubt that I'll pick up any votes in Wayne County or Genesee County. We'll just have to wait and see."

'HOLY MACKEREL'

— Lesinski, when he heard the news of the Wayne County change, said, "Holy Mackerel! That should do it." Lesinski is vacationing in Florida with Gov. John B. Swainson.

He said his gain in Kent County had made safe his margin of victory.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State James M. Hare ordered all city and township clerks to guard their ballot boxes and voting machines to insure security in the event of a recount.

The refund stems from a surplus assessment in the 1960 paving fund said City Manager Leroy Traflet.

Council members also agreed to inspect the site of the new Woodland Storm Drain where it empties into the Sylvan Lake at Lakeview Street.

A number of residents in the area had protested dumping the drain's water into the lake at the edge of the beach.

Traflet said engineers now are studying an alternative proposal of moving the drain line northeast of the present site where it could join an older drain.

Councilmen will meet at the Lakeview site at 1 p.m., Nov. 25, he said.

Official Tally Ready in East

Massachusetts Scrap May Lead to Recount

BOSTON (U) — The official vote totals in the race for governor of Massachusetts will be made public today.

The executive council is tallying the official returns from all 351 Massachusetts cities and towns. A crew of 32 state bank examiners will do the actual tabulating.

The returns in the gubernatorial contest between Democrat Edith Peabody and Republican Gov. John A. Volpe will be totaled first. That job is expected to take three to four hours. When it is completed, state law requires that the press be informed of the results.

The unofficial vote is Peabody 1,049,999; Volpe 1,046,131.

It is expected to take several days before returns on the contests for the U.S. Senate and other offices are tabulated.

Both candidates for governor have circulated petitions in anticipation of requesting a recount.

Gov. Volpe's office announced yesterday his petitions will be filed if the margin is less than 4,000 votes.

If it is higher, "We'll have to think about it," a spokesman said. If there is no official decision by the end of Volpe's term, Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr. has ruled that Lt. Gov.-elect Francis X. Bellotti would become acting governor upon being sworn in Jan. 3.

A court challenge of any disputed ballots that turn up in a recount could delay the final decision.

DOUBLE-BARREL ROLE — If your Scotch whisky smacks faintly of Kentucky bourbon, your taste buds have been spoiled by imagination. It is true, however, that much of today's Scotch is aged in barrels which formerly contained bourbon. Here, piled high in a Scotland distillery, the erstwhile bourbon barrels are playing out the second part of their double lives.

Curtice Widow Gets $1 Million

FLINT (UPI) — The widow of former General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice was named sole beneficiary in a will of about $1 million.

The will was filed in Genesee County Probate Court yesterday. An inventory of a safe deposit box held by Curtice showed 2,883 shares of GM "B" stock and 2,200 shares of stock in the Genesee Merchants Bank & Trust Co.

Curtice died Nov. 3 of a heart attack.

The will, which was dated Sept. 17, 1949, named Mrs. Dorothy B. Curtice and the Genesee Merchants Bank & Trust Co. as co-executors and co-trustees.

Half the estate will go to Mrs. Curtice now and the other half will be placed in an income-producing trust, the will indicated.

Wednesday was Davitt's first day on his teaching job.

Horses May Be Obsolete Soon on the Farms

CANTON, Ohio (U) — It hasn't come yet, but the day is arriving when a farmer may have to take his children to the zoo to see what a horse looks like.

Even in this Wayne-Stark County area which encompasses some 1,000 Amish families who refuse to use motorized equipment, it is a rarity when a man uses a horse to pull a plow.

Some Amish farmers now hire men to till their fields with tractors. Owning the tractor is irreligious, not having it used.

The use of the tractor is not always for speed. The Amish farmers are finding it more difficult and more expensive to find good work horses.

The horse farms are disappearing. Those that remain raise track horses, saddle and show animals.

Average Wage $2.40 Per Hour

Factory Work Pay Sets Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department says factory workers earned a record average of $2.40 an hour in October and September.

Seymour Wolfstein, the Labor Department's manpower director, reported Wednesday the average weekly paycheck in October was $96.72.

The record hourly average compares with $2.18 an hour in October 1961. The previous high was $2.39 hourly last July.

Wolfstein said there were 56.3 million workers on nonfarm payrolls in October, another record, and an increase of about 1.35 million over the October 1961 figure.

Reid said Monday he would ask a recount after revised figures had trimmed his deficit to only 2,438.

The new totals in Oakland County gave Reid 146,393 votes compared to 146,274 reported in unofficial returns.

Lesinski's total in the county of 104,106 was not changed.

Reid said he doubted he would ask for a recount after the official canvases from Kent County added 158 votes to Lesinski's total and reduced Reid's by 1,024.

Visiting Judge Presides Here

Circuit Court Judge Robert W. McIntyre of Hillsdale County will preside as visiting judge in the Oakland County Circuit court room of Judge H. Russel Holland through Nov. 30.

Judge McIntyre, the only Republican appointed to a judgeship by Gov. John B. Swainson, became Hillsdale County's circuit judge July 27. He filled the vacancy created by the death of Judge Charles O. Arch in June.

A graduate of the Detroit College of Law and a Marine Corps veteran of World War II and the Korean War, the 51-year-old McIntyre was Hillsdale County prosecutor for seven years prior to his appointment.

He began a three-week term as visiting judge here Tuesday.

Judge Holland, who is on vacation, will return Dec. 10.

3rd Atlas F Launch Termed a Success

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (U) — The Air Force says its third launch of an Atlas F missile down the Pacific missile range was a success.

The 82½-foot ICBM an advanced model that is elevated from an armored hole before firing, soared 4,000 miles yesterday to an undisclosed target in the Pacific.

A Strategic Air Command crew handled the launch, which was described as a test of operational ground equipment and of missile systems.

Of the two previous Atlas F launches from this West Coast test center, one was a complete success and the other was destroyed when it swerved off course.

Gutenberg's Printing Changed World

WASHINGTON — Some time between 1450 and 1456, a debt-ridden German craftsman printed a book — and changed the world.

The man was Johann Gutenberg, a goldsmith turner printer. The book was the Bible, the Latin version of St. Jerome.

Some historians believe the event marked the dawn of the modern age, for Gutenberg unlocked the storehouse of human knowledge to every man who could read.

Previously, only a privileged few had access to laboriously handwritten manuscripts, the National Geographic Society says.

After centuries of debate, most authorities now credit Gutenberg and his associates with inventing movable metal type. He also solved the unprecedented problems of finding suitable materials and methods for printing a complete book.

Though calendars, grammars, and a few other works preceded Gutenberg's Bible, his magnum opus was the first great book printed in the Western world.

The Library of Congress, which owns one of the 46 remaining copies of the Gutenberg Bible, recently paid tribute to the book's perpetual interest by publishing a facsimile of the first page of Genesis.

Printed on heavy paper, the facsimile is available directly from the Library for one dollar.

Little is known of the early life of Gutenberg, who was born about 1400 in Mainz, a city that celebrated the 500th anniversary of its founding in 1902.

Gutenberg's father was a public accountant and goldsmith named Gensfleisch, but the son took his mother's surname to prevent it from becoming extinct. He made the name immortal.

Gutenberg's family moved to Strasbourg in about 1415 because of ecclesiastical strife in Mainz. The young man joined the goldsmith's guild, but grew more interested in experimenting with printing.

Mart Bucks Profit Taking

Stocks Push to Higher Levels

NEW YORK (AP) — Bucking heavy pressure from profit taking on a prolonged advance, the stock market pushed to higher levels early this afternoon. Trading was lively.

If the market were to hold its gain until the close, it would be the tenth clear-cut rise in 13 sessions.

General confidence was bolstered by word that new car sales in early November continued at record levels.

Hart Plans Bill to Save Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip Hart will introduce a bill early next year to protect supermarket shoppers from tricky and deceptive packaging.

The recent campaign against him, he said, that the legislation would be popular.

Hart was chairman of a subcommittee which earlier this year held extensive hearings into packaging and labeling practices. He emerged with a strong ally in proclamations like "the giant half-pint," and such deceptions as a six-inch cardboard tray to hold a four-inch candy bar.

Enforced honesty in the markets could save the careful housewife hundreds of dollars a year, he said. Businessmen would be required to use the same standards.

Hart said his new bill will be patterned after the "truth-in-packaging" measure he submitted during the closing days of Congress this fall. He had no hope it would be passed, he said, but introduced it to invite study and discussion aimed at enactment of similar legislation in 1963.

He said he listed three requirements for all market shelf items: The product's net weight would be displayed prominently on the front panel of its package, unadorned by adjectives.

No deceptive pictures or illustrations would be allowed. Chocolate chips would be as plentiful in the cookies, for example, as in the package illustration.

Cents-off deals, economy-size designations and other such designations would be banned on grounds they presupposed a control over retail prices that the manufacturer usually does not have.

There will be no cash payment. Instead, most of the profits earned by workers will go toward paying for health and welfare programs.

Romney, president and board chairman when the plan was written, resigned last week in February when he began his campaign as Republican candidate for governor.

He accepted the newly-created post of vice chairman of the board, but on leave of absence without pay. He resigned that job as well as his directorship.

Romney will keep his 104,000 shares of AMC stock (worth $1.75 million) in trust — a precedent established by G. Mennen Williams, who held his interest in the company.

Marked back down about a cent a bushel. Brokers said there may have been an increase in offers, but more significantly there seemed to have been a slackening of commercial support, particularly on export accounts.

Dealers said the firmness of the past few days apparently had attracted some profit selling.

Transactions elsewhere were somewhat mixed.

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Uncle Sam

is collecting more in taxes this fiscal year than last—$4.15 billion more, in fact. But he is spending more, too—at least $6 billion more. And so he's running further into the red—the third year of steadily rising deficits.

Plans for still higher spending next year, plus a promised cut in taxes which will hold down revenues, forecast a continuing deficit—to make it four years in a row.

Many stock traders have interpreted this as inflationary—despite repeated denials by administration economists that any further inflation will be triggered by federal deficits under present conditions.

But one of the reasons given for the big burst in stock prices since Soviet Premier Khrushchev said he wouldn't start a war over Cuba was the belief in Wall Street that the economy was in for a forward part, with big government spending as one of the bolstering factors.

Defense may well cost more. And space projects are sure to. But this year in the Treasury deficit is traceable to defense spending only to a minor degree. Defense costs rose only slightly over the previous year. Spending on other programs increased more. And a soaring federal deficit means higher outlays in interest payments.

This year rising expenditures are part of the fault. But the administration's chief disappointment is that business didn't make as much profit as it had hoped—so the corporate income tax receipts are short of expectations, although corporate profits for 1962 may well be at a record high. And personal incomes this year are at a record. But they, too, haven't gone as high as first estimated, so collections on personal income discontinue the Treasury. The total shortfall from earlier revenue expectations is $7 billion.

The administration hope is that the deficit—the government pumping more money into the economy than it is taking out—and the still promised tax cuts will help get business activity back into higher gear. This profit will rise as well as tax revenue, and there will be more Treasury revenue.

And more people will be working and making more from various activities—and again the Treasury will get more money, even if the tax rates themselves are lower.

Whether it will work out that way will be widely debated. But many stock traders have been betting that corporate business should rise—either from a government nudge to the economy, or from an inflationary push such as those that in the past often have followed protracted Treasury deficits that pump more money and credit into the economy.

BIG 10-POINTER — The first "heavy-weight" to be reported for The Pontiac Press deer contest was this 203-pounder brought down by Bill Fairise of Clarkston and Bill McGovern of Pontiac. Irvin Humbough of Elizabeth Lake Road hauled the 10-pointer down from upper Michigan this morning.

White Tail Season Opens

Buck Bagged Early

By DON VOGEL
Outdoor Editor, The Pontiac Press
ROSE CITY — A Pontiac man ended 35 years of deer hunting frustration today.
Harold Wehner, 42, of 2735 Halton St., tagged a four-point buck at 8 a.m. in the Rifle River area five miles east of this Ogemaw County community.
Wehner and 175 other hunters entered the 3,000-acre Conservation Department game area before daylight today to open the white tail season in the lower peninsula.
One blast from Wehner's 12-gauge shotgun was enough. The slug broke the 111-pound deer's back.

"I've been hunting deer every year since I was 16," said the excited Wehner, "and this is the first deer I've ever killed."
Wehner was hunting with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Berry of Troy.

NO SNOW
Hunters found weather conditions about the same as opening day in 1961. The temperature in Rose City was 38 degrees at 7 a.m. There was no snow, but fog began rolling in at 9:30 a.m.
Over 400,000 hunters are expected to take to the woods before the season closes Nov. 25 in the western Upper Peninsula and Nov. 30 in the remainder of the state.

Because the "second opener" is in the middle of the week, only about half of the eventual turnout is on hand today. The remainder will pour in this weekend.

Administration, Industry Air Tax Reduction Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration tosses its tax reduction idea into a big roomful of industry, labor and civic leaders today and invites a free-for-all debate on how, when and whether to cut.
But the debate is mostly behind closed doors. And Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, gave notice last night that Kennedy already has made his basic decision on how to jog a jaded economy.

"The basic economic case for a tax cut," Heller said, "rests on clear economic principles, now well known, repeatedly demonstrated, and widely accepted."

"To remove the dual tax drag on the economy—both the drag on markets and drag on incentives—is a central concern of today's economic policy in the Kennedy administration."

He spoke before a special expanded meeting of the President's 21-man Labor-Management Advisory Committee.
It was expanded by the invited participation of some 150 other executives, union chiefs, economists and public officials.
Heller rejected the idea, voiced by some members of Congress, that tax reduction has become unthinkable in view of this fiscal year's expected $7.8 billion budget deficit announced on Tuesday. Tax reduction would deepen the red ink.
The committee's speeches—Heller last night, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon today—were open to the press. The debates in between, were not.

Too Many Strings on K's Cuba Offer

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has sent President Kennedy an offer to pull Soviet jet bombers out of Cuba but attached so many "ifs" that a Cuban settlement is not within sight, authoritative sources said early today.

Khrushchev's proposal, it was learned, was received several days ago and is being discussed at negotiations—presumably in New York—where U.S. and Soviet representatives have been trying to hammer out an agreement.

Exactly what conditions the Soviet premier attached to his offer were not disclosed.
But there were so many, the sources said, that they cannot foresee a swift solution to the problems that have been keeping a fire to the Cuban crisis.

Authoritative sources said the Soviet premier's proposal for withdrawing the planes came in one of several letters he and Kennedy exchanged.

Castro Hero Role Could Renew Crisis, Page B-16

exchanged—none of which has been made public—since their weekend letters of Oct. 27-28 drafting an agreement to end the crisis.

How often Kennedy and Khrushchev have communicated over the Cuban dispute has not been revealed. It was understood that some of the exchanges have been handled by intermediaries at the United Nations.

Kennedy has insisted that the 750-mile range bombers are carrying permits allowing them to legally take deer of either sex in designated areas of northern Michigan.

The Pontiac Press Big Deer Contest opened last Saturday, the same day whitetails became legal targets in the western two-thirds of the UP.

ANOTHER PROMISE

In addition to the bomber issue, Khrushchev has not carried out his promise to allow U.N. inspection of the dismantling of weapons and their bases—what Castro has cried he will not permit.

The United States pressed the Soviet Union on the planes Tuesday during the New York talks.

U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson politely but firmly told Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov that the issue is of great importance and that the United States is determined to see it through.

Gale Winds Whip the Sea Around Vessel

Second Ship Caught, Deserted Off Bermuda; Coast Guard on Watch

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Fire swept a Greek freighter loaded with explosives today and the 25-man crew abandoned the ship in raging seas 300 miles northeast of Bermuda, the Coast Guard reported.

Gale winds whipped the Atlantic as the crew gave up the fight to save the 7,187-ton freighter, the Captain George, bound from New Orleans to Port Said, Egypt, and other stops.

The tanker Virginia, flying the Liberian flag, stood by as the ship's crew went over the side. The Coast Guard reported waves of 33 feet in the area.

Another vessel—identified only as the schooner Curlew—was caught in the storm 90 miles northwest of Bermuda and the Coast Guard said the crew of six abandoned the two-masted sailing ship.

The Captain George caught fire after a terrific explosion last night.

The crew battled the spreading flames through the night in a storm that kicked up some waves reported as high as 80 feet.

A U. S. Coast Guard plane circling overhead radioed at 9 a. m. the fire was out of control.

EXPLOSIVES ON BOARD

In St. Marys, Ga., it was reported that the Captain George was loaded with 400 tons of commercial explosives before its departure from that port last Friday.

The 450-foot-long vessel, whose home port is Piraeus, Greece, also carried a cargo of sulphur, flour and rice.

It was bound for Tripoli, Libya, where the explosives, of the type used in oil well drilling, were to be unloaded.

A Coast Guard report said sulphur stored in an afterboard was ablaze and the freighter's captain said there was danger fire might spread to other holds, containing oil and explosives.

While struggling to check the flames, the freighter's captain said at 5:30 a. m.: "Crew morale is high."

The freighter is leased by the Blue Star Steamship Company of Kingston, Ga., the Coast Guard said.

There was no indication of the cause of the explosion.

Police Seeking Weapon in Pontiac Fatal Shooting

Curtis J. Hackney, who has admitted killing his wife, was arraigned before Municipal Judge Maurice Finnegan shortly before 11 a.m. on a first-degree murder charge.

A 22-caliber automatic used in the fatal shooting of a Pontiac mother is being sought today by Pontiac police following the admission of the murder by the woman's husband.

Curtis J. Hackney, 44, of 26 Garner St., has admitted killing his wife, Veda, 43, at their home yesterday, according to Pontiac detectives but he's been unable to remember what became of the weapon, they said.

Hackney, a wirer at Fisher Body, admitted the crime while being interrogated during a lie detector test early this morning, according to Capt. Donny E. Ashley, head of the detective bureau, and Det. Sgt. John A. Depauw.

Senior Asst. Prosecutor J. E. Mrs. Hackney, one K. Barry Jr. recorded Hackney's statement at that time. A more complete statement was to have been taken today.

Mrs. Hackney's body was found on the living room couch when police arrived at the home yesterday after a neighbor had reported the shooting. Mrs. Hackney had been shot twice.

Rome Council Undecided on Controversy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The question of whether to go ahead with a discussion of the place of the Bible and tradition as sources of the word of God hung over the divided Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today.

The first day of debate on the controversial project to clarify the church's view disclosed a deep split among the council fathers.

The immediate question was whether to continue discussion of the proposed constitution on divine revelation, whether to throw it out and substitute a new version, or whether to leave the whole matter over for future popes and bishops.

The council fathers do not meet on Thursdays in St. Peter's Basilica. But many of them met informally in their seminary quarters or hotel rooms to discuss the disputed constitution, or thesis.

The quickest way to decide their future course would be a vote Friday in the next session in St. Peter's. But council sources agreed that more speeches may be heard before there is any balancing on the course to take.

But Others Say Give Younger Republicans Chance to Talk

Ev and Charlie Won't Change Conservative Tune

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "Ev and Charlie" show will be back on the boards in the next Congress with no change in its political format dictated by this month's election results.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Wednesday he sees no reason why he and House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana would swing out of the conservative groove they followed in weekly news conferences taped for television during the last Congress.

Halleck who tends to be a little more conservative than Dirksen, was said by friends to be determined to continue blasting away at New Frontier proposals.

However, Rep. William H. Ayres of Ohio, the Republican congressional publicity chairman, believes it's time for a change in order to give the younger GOP Congress members a chance to be heard.

Dirksen and Halleck, he said, speak too frequently from their own point of view. He suggested they be replaced with interviews with various Republican members of Congress.

At a news conference Wednesday, Dirksen, who was re-elected by a not very comfortable margin, said he was not unhappy with the results of the voting which displaced four GOP senators with liberal Democrats and gave the Republicans only two additional House members.

He said the GOP had made gains in the South which would add to its strength in bidding for electoral votes in 1964.

Dirksen was vague about stands he thinks the Republicans will take in the next Congress.

Asked if he and Halleck would reiterate their contention that taxes ought not to be reduced unless there is a cut in expenditures, he said he held no hard and fast views on this subject. He added that if a tax cut were going to increase the deficit, "you had better reduce expenditures or something else."

Dirksen said he expects foreign aid and farm legislation to present major problems in the new Congress. He predicted there will be extended hearings on the proposal President Kennedy is expected to submit again for Social Security financing of health care for the elderly.

In reply to a question, Dirksen stopped short of endorsing the suggestion of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that Kennedy fire U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and other advisers. Goldwater contended they were "soft on communism."

Dirksen, who conferred with Kennedy after his return to Washington, also discouraged the idea that Republicans will demand an investigation of the Cuban crisis, particularly Kennedy's assurances to Soviet Premier Khrushchev that there would be no U.S. invasion of the island if offensive weapons were removed.

He said he expects the Senate investigation of the crisis "but not in the terms of an He said he expects the Senate investigation."

'Little Guys' Make R20 Project a Success

"ROTTEN APPLE" — Although structurally sound, this house at 60 Parkhurst St. was referred to by urban renewal officers as "a rotten apple in a pretty good block." Marked for rehabilitation in the R20 urban renewal project, its owner sold it. This is what it looked like on Nov. 15, 1961.

'Suburban' Home Owners Invest in Neighborhood

By DICK SAUNDERS

While civic leaders and city fathers have been hustling prospects for the investment of private capital on downtown urban renewal parcels, a story has been brewing in the "suburbs."

The "suburbs" of urban renewal in this case consist of the vast, predominantly residential portion of Pontiac's first urban renewal project (R20) east of the central business district.

Private capital totaling approximately $305,000 has been invested there.

It can't be measured as one measures a multimillion dollar investment by a big-time developer or corporation.

This $305,000 can be measured only in terms of sweat, faith, spirit and cooperation. It came mostly from the little guy who never gets his name in the paper.

It came in small amounts and a little at a time. And it was hard-earned.

This $305,000 represents what property owners have spent to rehabilitate their homes, brighten their neighborhoods.

TOUGHEST TO SELL

Rehabilitation is the toughest phase of urban renewal to sell.

The fact that rehabilitation has been one of the shining successes of Pontiac's urban renewal program is a tribute to the cooperative spirit of home owners and the salesmanship of staff officers.

"To be honest about it," said Stanley Boekins, rehabilitation officer, "we felt pretty good when the total reached $250,000."

"Credit for the current figure, we feel, belongs to people who have a genuine interest in their homes and neighborhoods."

At this time last year, rehabilitation officials thought things were going well. Progress made since then is evident in the pairs of pictures on this page, taken of the same scenes a year apart.

There were originally 278 structures in the R20 project slated for rehabilitation by the owners.

These homes needed work to correct violations of city codes or were in need of simpler items like a coat of paint.

NO HANDOUTS

While owners could apply for loans at special rates under the urban renewal rehabilitation program, there weren't any handouts or federal grants for them.

The money spent had to come out of their pockets.

Recently, a revised R20 project plan has been proposed whereby some 40 additional structures will be purchased for clearance, lowering the total marked for rehabilitation to about 238.

These structures to be added to the acquisition list are either too costly to rehabilitate, undesirable for residential use, or needed for future repurposing or planning purposes.

Of the 238 structures, rehabilitation has at least begun on all but about 15.

Code-required repairs have been completed on some 81 structures, and about 114 have finished work on all recommended improvements not covered by codes.

To date, about 80 structures on which both code and noncode improvements were needed have been completely rehabilitated and given final approval by urban staffers.

In addition, the city already has built about 7,000 feet of new sidewalks at a cost of $18,000 without assessing property owners in the urban renewal area.

WORK ON SEWER

Work is under way on the Parke Street sewer, estimated to cost about $8,000, and the city is grading cleared land for a $40,000 neighborhood park bounded by Wall, Willard, Paddock and Perkins streets.

In most cases, property owners are finding it pays to rehabilitate when the guy next door is doing it too.

A year ago, Oscar Pung of Rochester owned a home at 133 Judson St. His first reaction to rehabilitation, according to Boekins, was to try and sell the house.

"He couldn't get a decent price," Boekins related. "After putting some $6,800 into renovating the home, he sold it for a slight profit."

Many others who rent properties have found rehabilitation and urban renewal redevelopment to be a combination that's reaped rewards in rental rates.

"Some owners just tell us bluntly that they'll sell before they rehabilitate," Boekins admitted. "We try to find them a buyer interested in renovating the property."

Now averaging well over $1,000 invested per structure, the R20 rehabilitation program could well become a model for urban renewal projects in other cities across the nation.

PRIZE WINNER — Last year's "rotten apple" was transformed into this year's show stopper by its new owners, John R. Lumber Co. of Berkley. With a completely redesigned

interior, new wiring, hardwood floors, heating system, roof and aluminum siding, it has a bright future. This rehabilitation job helped spruce up a whole neighborhood.

BEDROOM - AFTER — Below is a portion of the same bedroom as it looks today. It's owners now live in a home that is tasteful, pleasant and designed for the future, in a community being rebuilt for the future.

NEW BACKYARD — A little work on the porch and a few coats of paint make a big difference. Adding to the total effect is a new rear door and the addition of two windows
