

Electrical Fires Black Out 80-Block Area of Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Stores closed, city and county employees went home early, prisoners at the city jail went without dinner and traffic was snarled yesterday evening when a section of Seattle's downtown business area was blacked out by a power failure.

A series of underground electrical fires put the first lights out about 2:30 p.m.

Within a few minutes, power was out from 1st Avenue to the waterfront, from Stewart Street 14 blocks south to Jackson Street and on stretches of 3rd and 6th Avenues.

The 80-block area contains mainly department stores and office and business buildings, including the King County Courthouse and other city and county offices.

It was more than six hours before 60 to 70 Seattle City Light crewmen were able to replace burned underground wiring and restore power.

Police rushed to intersections in the area where traffic signals were out. A police helicopter directed police units to congested areas.

City jail prisoners went hungry when jailers were unable to finish preparing a spaghetti-and-meatball dinners in the basement kitchen.

D. D. Denise, City Light's director of operations, said damage to underground wiring probably would amount to thousands of dollars.

Denise said the cause of the fire may never be determined.

"In most of these types of fires," he said, "it is impossible to tell what the cause was because the evidence goes up in smoke. It could have been a rat, but we may never know."

Need for Viet Gls Is Lessening

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's projection of lower military manpower needs in 1967 indicates the Viet Nam buildup has lost some of its open-ended character, Pentagon sources say.

Nevertheless, they add, the United States may have as many as 600,000 men in Viet Nam next year. A force of this magnitude for the war effort has not been ruled out by the Pentagon.

"We are reaching a leveling-off point," McNamara told reporters assembled at President Johnson's Texas ranch.

The Pentagon chief said 900,000 men were drafted or enlisted in the services this year, but next year's input for the armed forces will be about one-third less, or about 600,000.

In line with this lower rate of buildup, McNamara disclosed plans to cut January's announced draft call of 27,000 to 18,000. Draft calls in the August-November period have averaged 40,000. Last January's draft was 38,280.

Observers were unable to recall when, if ever, McNamara had talked publicly of a "leveling-off" in the current manpower buildup although a few days ago he forecast lower draft calls for early 1967.

The secretary declined to predict when a plateau would be reached. He said more men will go to Southeast Asia next year but at a lower pace than this year.

Sources said McNamara's forecast of 600,000 men being taken for service in 1967 indicated planners are now thinking in terms of a ceiling for the military expansion.

The sources estimated an intake of this scope would result in a net gain in the services of perhaps 150,000 men, compared with a net increase of about 450,000 from this year's 900,000 draftees and enlistees.

The armed forces lose from 450,000 to 500,000 a year due to completion of tours, retirements and deaths.

McNamara said overall military strength will be around 3.3 million at the end of the year but he would not project the 1967 year-end total.

In 1965 the Pentagon set a level of armed strength to be reached by June 30, 1967. That point was attained a year early, and the services now have over 3.3 million men.

The Viet Nam war needs, of course, have dictated the expansion. The buildup has swelled from 182,000 in January to an expected 385,000 by next year.

U. S. Running Below Normal in Road Deaths

No Advance Estimate of Toll Made Because of Fewer Long Trips

By The Associated Press

The nation's traffic deaths in the early hours of the Thanksgiving week-end appeared running below the normal toll for a nonholiday period.

The count of highway fatalities for the four-day period started at 6 p.m. local time yesterday and will end at midnight Sunday, covering 102 hours.

First reports showed a total of 20 deaths, including four persons under the age of 18.

The National Safety Council, which does not make advance estimates of traffic deaths for the Thanksgiving period, has reported that in the first nine months this year, 38,190 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents.

That was 10 per cent higher than the corresponding period last year and an average of more than 4,200 a month.

COMPARATIVE SURVEY
For comparative purposes on the final toll, the Associated Press made a survey of highway deaths in a nonholiday period of corresponding length, from 6 p.m. yesterday, Nov. 9 to midnight Sunday, Nov. 13.

The total was 546, including 81 victims under the age of 18.

The four-day Thanksgiving observance last year was a record high traffic death toll of 615. The lowest since the AP started to tabulate the holiday period was 442 in 1960.

Traffic deaths during the nation's four major holiday periods this year set record marks: New Year 564, Memorial Day 542, Independence Day 576 and Labor Day 636.

Same Weather Conditions Will Prevail Awhile

Mild temperatures and sprinkling - type showers greeted church and parades today, with almost the same predicted for tomorrow.

It's expected to turn cooler by late tonight with lows of 38-45. Tomorrow it will again be cloudy and cooler with light rain expected at least in the morning.

Much the same weather is forecast for Saturday. A mild 50 was the low temperature preceding 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac. The mercury stood at 53 at 10 a.m.

"WAKE UP AND EAT"—The smell of hot roast turkey fails to keep 2-year-old Shawn Williams awake at an early Thanksgiving dinner celebration held in Pittsford, Vt., yesterday evening. Older brother Airman J.C. Douglas, 18, does the carving for the family which includes five other brothers and sisters. The Williams' family celebration was held early because Douglas is leaving for Viet Nam.

Thanksgiving 1966: Football, Prayers, Parades and Protests

By The Associated Press
Thanksgiving 1966 arrived with its own mixture of tradition and timeliness. There were prayers and family reunions, football games and parades.

While 360,000 U.S. fighting men ate turkey dinners and attended religious services in Viet Nam, leaders of a group made up of veterans and reservists said they would march on Broadway in New York to protest the war.

There were the usual parades with Christmas buying themes, too.

In New York, Macy's added Superman and Noah's Ark to its list of giant balloons and floats. In Hollywood, a motorcade with radio, television and movie personalities welcomed the holiday season. Philadelphia had its Gimbels parade.

Religious services featured exchanges between different churches. Ministers in Kansas City swapped churches to deliver sermons and Episcopalians, Baptists, Methodists and Unitarian-Universalists attended an ecumenical service in Boston.

Traditional dinners for the homeless were on the Salvation Army schedule in Manhattan,

San Francisco and other cities. Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston had 2,000 elderly people as his guests for a big meal.

Turkey also was on the menu for 43 condemned men in California's San Quentin Prison.

Football played a big part in the day for sports fans with three pro games and one college contest on national television.

Some 75,000 people were expected to attend the Dallas-Cleveland National Football League game in Dallas. About 40,000 were expected at a freshman game between Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia in Atlanta. Its proceeds go to charity.

Rain Threat to State Holiday

By The Associated Press
More than 3,000 brilliantly costumed marchers cast wary eyes toward the skies today as they prepared to join Detroit's Thanksgiving Day Parade and families throughout Michigan celebrated the holiday.

Upwards of 500,000 spectators were expected to line the street in the annual J. L. Hudson Co. parade, one of the largest Thanksgiving parades in the nation. The parade featured 21 floats and 15 bands and was being televised nationally. The prospect of rain existed.

Among other top events was the National Football League game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Detroit Lions.

Among religious observances, a ministerial association sponsored an ecumenical service in Detroit's Metropolitan Methodist Church. Members of Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths participated in the service.

Gov. George Romney, in his special Thanksgiving Day proclamation, urged Michigan citizens to support the 18th annual Catholic Bishops Clothing Campaign, the Protestant "Share Our Substance" appeal and the United Jewish Appeal.

MEANINGFUL
"Thanksgiving Day can be a meaningful observance for all of us in Michigan if we do not lose sight of the reasons why this national holiday is held," Romney said.

"We, along with other Americans, are the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven, but too often we forget that it is He who serves with his favors and mercies," the governor said.

Keego Youth Killed on Bike

Lapeer Man, 87, Dies in One-Car Crack-Up

A 13-year-old Keego Harbor youth was killed yesterday when struck by a car while riding his bike on Orchard Lake, just north of Maple, in West Bloomfield Township.

According to police, Samuel E. Jenkins of 3024 Portman made a U-turn in the path of a car driven by Hanna Berger, 5365 Centerbrook, West Bloomfield Township.

The accident took place about 5:30 p.m. yesterday on Orchard Lake, 100 feet north of Maple.

An 87-year-old man, James Spencer of 1086 Peppermill, Lapeer, died yesterday in an accident on M-10 just west of Mearns in Lapeer Township, according to police.

Spencer, police said, apparently suffered a heart attack, lost control of his car and struck an embankment.

Vows Draft Fight

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — James Taylor Rowland, terming himself a radical, vows to resist efforts to draft him — at the risk of a possible five-year prison sentence and $10,000 fine.

Police Pay Hearing Told of City Surplus

The city of Pontiac will have a surplus "in the neighborhood" of $1 million by Jan. 1, City Finance Manager Marvin M. Alward testified yesterday in an appearance before a fact-finding hearing into the police-pay dispute.

Whether the money will be available to meet wage demands of the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA), however, was still conjectural following the second day-long session of PPOA leaders and city officials.

Conducting the hearing is Harry N. Casselman, a Birmingham attorney appointed by the State Labor Mediation Board.

Alward's statement acknowledging a probable city surplus came in response to questions from PPOA attorney Winston Livingston.

Livingston, who quizzed personnel director Nicholas Santavirta as well as Alward, attempted to establish the

Hungary Exile Returns to Budapest

By TOM A. CULLEN,
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
BUDAPEST — No one would ever suspect Sandor of being a Hungarian, let alone a hero of the October 1956 Hungarian revolution, as he huddled in his seat on the night flight from Munich to Budapest.

For one thing, there was his age.

Judging by his boyish appearance, he could hardly have been more than a tyke in 1956 when the population of Hungary arose against its Russian and native Communist oppressors.

Then there were his clothes.

The raw silk suit looked as American as the cigarettes he was smoking.

CANADIAN CITIZEN
As a matter of fact, Sandor was born in Budapest, but is now a Canadian citizen.

He was returning to his native city to visit his parents and although he had the visa of the Hungarian People's Republic stamped in his passport he felt uneasy.

"I guess I'm what you would call a split personality," he confided. "Most of the time I think of myself as a Canadian, but now that we're approaching Budapest I feel all mixed up inside. I don't know what I am."

Over the roar of the Illyushin engines he told me his story, speaking in English with only a trace of accent.

10 YEARS AGO
"Ten years ago I was one of those who fought the Russians in the streets of Budapest," he began.

"It was hopeless from the start, but it seemed worthwhile at the time, trying to stop Russian tanks with our bare hands."

His smile was a wry one. Only 15 at the time, Sandor was an all-around athlete at his local gymnasium, which is Hungarian for high school.

CHAMPION SWIMMER
"I was a champion swimmer and I was selected for the all-youth team to play soccer in the big sports stadium," he explained. "I couldn't have cared less about politics."

Sandor and his fellow students at the gymnasium took part in the October uprising more as a lark, but they were soon caught up in its stirring events.

They saw the statue of Joseph Stalin toppled from its pedestal in City Park until all that was left of the Soviet dictator were his giant boots.

They saw the Hungarian flag for the first time without its hated hammer-and-sickle emblem from the flag's center.

HEARD CHANTS
They heard the crowds chanting, "Russians go home!" as they marched on Parliament Square.

That was on Oct. 23, 1956.

Two days later there was a bloody massacre in this same square, when Russian tanks, abetted by AVH secret police snipers on the rooftops, opened fire on the unarmed demonstrators.

They fled in panic, leaving behind their dead like little dark mounds of discarded clothing on the cobblestones.

Events like these turned boys like Sandor into men overnight. FORCED TO FLEE

After the revolution had been drowned in blood, many teen-aged students were forced, like Sandor, to flee abroad.

Now, 10 years later, some of them are returning home for the first time to visit their relatives, the present Communist regime of Janos Kadar allowing them into the country on limited visas.

Now, at 25, Sandor is earning good money as a civil engineer in Toronto.

He had been sponsored by a Canadian family, who helped him to complete his education and to find a job.

NEUTRAL GROUND

An only child, he has already seen his real parents once, when they came out from behind the Iron Curtain in 1963 to meet him on neutral ground in Vienna. But it was the present reunion on native soil which excited him.

"They'll all be at the airport to meet me — dad, mom and all the aunts and uncles," he said. "There'll be at least 20 of them, you'll see."

"And my dad will walk down the street with me and his chin will be in the air, he will be so proud."

I asked him if there was any possibility of his parents joining him in Toronto. "I've begged them to," he declared. "I've even offered to buy a house for all of us, because I will need a house anyway when I get married. But they won't have it."

FASHION PREDICTION—Painted women may become a more literal term if a fashion prediction from the new MGM comedy "Penelope" comes true. A young lady is being prepared here for a Greenwich Village scene in the movie by having a Picassoque figure painted fore and aft. Fashion painting has already achieved some small popularity among teen-age girls, who have figures painted on their knees.

Pilgrims to Space Explorers--- A Thankful Nation Under God

EDITOR'S NOTE—In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Thanksgiving Day editorial has been written by Brigadier Ernest Alder, Director of The Salvation Army's Men's Center.

By BRIGADIER ERNEST ALDER

"O give thanks unto the Lord; for He is good; for His mercy endureth forever."

—The Psalmist

As we compare the bleak and unpromising existence of the Pilgrims in the Massachusetts Plymouth colony in 1621 with our present day affluence and modern comforts, it is rather incredible that among this group there were those with enough interest and appreciation to call for a special day of Prayer and Thanksgiving to the Almighty. Certainly this thanks was not for fine or luxurious living or for an abundance of material gifts which had been bestowed upon them. There was, very obviously, something much deeper than outward manifestations which called the Pilgrims to a recognition of Divine Guidance and Direction in their affairs.

It is apparent that deep within their hearts they were truly grateful for their new-found country which offered them freedom—a freedom which had come at such enormous cost in life and creature comforts. Here in their new home the Pilgrims had opportunity to live their lives without fear of impossible restrictions being placed upon them, and they had also won the privilege to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences.

After nearly three and one-half centuries has passed since the first Thanksgiving observance was held on our shores, "freedom's holy light" still shines forth in our country with its blessings of human dignity, brotherhood, respect for the rights of others, not to mention the more basic political and religious freedoms so dearly cherished by all Americans.

As we stand on the threshold of the exploration of space, with all the exciting discoveries and attainments yet to be experienced, let us ever be mindful of the Providential Hand which has led us as a Nation to these heights of knowledge and achievement. Our way of life, with all its benefits and advantages, has never been equalled in all of recorded history, but even as we give thanks for it, let us ask the Almighty for wisdom to handle our blessings and affluence wisely.

If the Pilgrims, with their meager blessings and enjoyments, could place such emphasis on the need to pause for a Day of Thanksgiving, surely we ought, also, to consider this day a time for true and sincere gratitude to God.

May we once again catch the spirit of the Pilgrims who pioneered in establishing our basic freedoms; who prized so highly the liberty their determined efforts secured for themselves, and who through their sacrifices endowed us with this treasured possession as our heritage.

Government Weighted Down by Paperwork

The Post Office and Civil Service Committee of the House of Representatives has issued its annual report on Federal government paperwork. And for those who like copious reports on everything, with plenty of carbons, the news is good.

The report reveals that the government finds it necessary to use 360,000 different forms and to make 15 billion copies of them every year.

Romney Has a Long Way to Go

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Gov. George Romney of Michigan has good reason to feel a little queasy, at least right now. He has a lot going for him. At 50 he is trim, square-jawed, with an undaunted gaze. This is the strong, executive-type look. And he was good executive when he was head of American Motors. He switched to politics and this month was elected to his third term as governor. A recent public opinion poll, which showed him more highly regarded than President Johnson, said voters considered him a man of higher character, with compelling moral overtones.

He has refused so far to say whether he will seek the Republican presidential candidacy in 1968 although at the moment he seems to be in the front of the field of likely prospects.

Yet, he has a long way to go before he can get the nomination and an even longer one before he can ever win the White House.

For one thing, he will have to do a lot of explaining on where he stands on national issues. Outside of Michigan, most people who admire him probably are admiring Romney as a person without much knowledge of what he stands for.

ONE EXAMPLE

The reason is that he hasn't said much, or has been very vague, on problems outside his state. One example is the war in Viet Nam. On this subject he has wiggled and wobbled and in one memorable news conference made hash of it.

The annual cost of processing all this is $8 billion.

Estimating that to throw away existing records at the rate of one page every second would take 2,000 years, the committee sternly proclaimed: "The burden of paperwork imposed on the citizens by our government should be greatly reduced."

And to prove that it can be done, the committee held down its own report to a mere 70 pages!

Besides this, he is going to have a job reconciling Goldwater Republicans and inducing them to support him—if he wants to run for president—after his attitude toward Sen. Barry Goldwater in the 1964 campaign.

He didn't endorse the Arizona. And recently Goldwater, while not closing the door on the governor, said Romney has a "lot of homework to do with party leaders" to atone for failing to endorse him.

It's possible, if Romney moves into the national scene, that he will show a tendency to shoot from the hip. He did a bit of that over the weekend.

LOOKING AHEAD

He and New York's reelected Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller arranged to meet at Dorado, Puerto Rico, before Romney arrived Rockefeller, who has taken himself out of presidential consideration but vividly remembers the split condition of the GOP in 1964, tried to lead ahead to see what it needed to get solidified for 1968.

He suggested Republican governors reach a "consensus" on moving away from the dogmatic ideology characterized in the 1964 race. Immediately after arriving, and before seeing Rockefeller, Romney attacked Rockefeller's "consensus" proposal. After talking with Rockefeller, Romney endorsed Rockefeller's "consensus" in principle. He said the difference between them was more apparent than real.

Romney, like so many other governors, talks about the need for more independence by the states. At the same time he wants the federal government to hand back to the states for their needs, but without strings, income tax money.

By Golly, There Is A Lot To Be Thankful For Capital Letter:

Connor Philosophical About Job

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—To paraphrase Winston Churchill, John T. Connor did not become secretary of commerce to preside over the liquidation of that empire. But in one stroke of the presidential pen, Connor's domain has lost 20 per cent of its personnel and 90 per cent of its money—mostly highway trust funds— to the brand-new Department of Transportation.

Transportation now becomes the fourth largest department, after Defense, Post Office and Agriculture, while the 63-year-old Commerce Department drops to 10th place, topping only the fledgling Department of Urban Affairs, and Labor.

Ruth Montgomery

Putting a brave face on his loss of power, the former president of Merck Drugs calls the shearing a "healthy development."

He says he can hereafter devote increased attention to the "original concept" of the Commerce Department: the promotion of foreign trade, domestic economic development, travel and technology. Half of Connor's personnel and budget will now be involved in science and technology, which includes oceanography.

Since 70 per cent of the earth's surface is covered by water, this realm is virtually unlimited, and the department will concentrate on uncovering new sources of minerals and foods overseas.

As the fact-finder and economic analyst for the Great Society, Connor is also seeking ways to develop our economy along regional lines, rather than within the artificial boundaries of counties and states.

As technology grows more complex, there is an increasing demand for new standards.

An industrial society could not exist without precise measurements, and this segment of Connor's responsibilities is vital, inasmuch as a tiny machine part might be defective by less than a thousandth of an inch could put a space shot hundreds of miles off course.

A series of booklets published by the Commerce Department under the general title "Do You Know Your Economic ABC's?" has become a runaway best-seller, with more than a quarter of a million copies already in circulation.

Selling for a quarter at the Government Printing Office, the booklets cover such wide-ranging subjects as science and technology, patents, and balance of payments.

A new one called "measurements" rolled off the presses last week.

Thus, Connor, if he does not resign, should have plenty to keep him busy for the next two years.

Bob Considine Says:

Japanese Coming Around to Our Thinking on Viet

TOKYO—Slowly but surely, the Japanese people are coming around to the conviction that President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam is the only way he can and should play his hand.

For the most part, it was highly critical of the United States through the latter part of 1964 and throughout 1965.

Now they collectively shrug and say, in effect, "What else can America do but what it is doing?"

These people are like us, basically.

A national poll taken earlier this year developed revealing answers to such questions as "Name the countries you like."

Forty-six per cent chose the U.S., followed by 33 per cent in favor of Great Britain, 4 per cent for Red China and 4 per cent for the Soviet Union.

As for the Japanese public pulse on the question of "Do you think that Japan should side with the free bloc, with the Communist bloc, or be neutral?" about half chose the free world, about a third wanted to remain neutral, and many were undecided—but not the 98 per cent that made it emphatic that they did not want to belong to the Communist bloc.

Even the Japanese Communist party is having misgivings about belonging to the Communist bloc.

Its 250,000 members, meeting last month in Tokyo, tossed out pro-Peking members, and at the same time slammed the door on the Russian Communist party.

Looks like Japan's our pal.

Cambodian Neutrality a Fraud

By RAY CROMLEY

ON THE CAMBODIAN BORDER, South Viet Nam (NEA)—The bridges were new. So were the roads. They came from Cambodia into South Viet Nam.

On the ground, it's possible on moonless nights to sneak in and watch these roads and bridges being built. They're usually impossible to spot from the air.

There's one Cambodian Viet Nam trail used regularly by the Viet Cong, however, that you can see a few minutes each day if you fly exactly the right course, at the right height at exactly the right time of day. If you fly the reverse direction you can't see it.

Movement on these routes has been heavy the past few months.

It's facts like these that make it difficult for Vietnamese here to understand how some U.S. officials in Washington call Cambodia "neutral."

A hundred miles or so south of here, where the road was a week ago, the wood are thinner and you can see farther. A man can stand a few miles from the border almost any clear night and watch the Viet Cong signal lights on innumerable small

Voice of the People:

'Investigate Need, Seek Means for Bus Service'

Before our City Commission decides the people do not need bus service, may I suggest they first find out what the public needs and wants. One way, would be to walk three miles morning and night, in addition to working 14 to 17 hours a day on the job and at home. My husband and I are nearing retirement age and cannot afford two cars, yet have found it necessary for both to work in order to educate our children.

Second, learn how other cities maintain successful bus service. During the summer we visited Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and observed well-kept and well-filled buses loading and discharging passengers at a neat brick station in the downtown area. We learned these buses are on a 15 minute daily schedule and half-hour schedule on Sundays and holidays. The fare is twenty cents.

18-Year-Old Mature Enough for Bar Stool?

We hear the saying, if a man is old enough to fight he is old enough to vote. If so, then at age 18 a man is old enough to sit on a bar stool.

I was under 21 and doing foreign duty when Georgia lowered the voting age to 18. My father sent me an absentee ballot, already marked, which I signed and returned. If I had known the issues, I would have killed 'dear old Dad's' vote.

W. G. STANLEY

'Pontiac Head Start an Expensive Program'

The Pontiac Head Start program is another example of exorbitant wastage of tax dollars when, as I understand, it costs almost $800 per student enrolled, plus the expense involved in providing bus service between districts to achieve so-called integrated atmospheres.

On the $248,828 Office of Economic Opportunity grant, those 320 children, and others besides, could have been enrolled in almost any private or parochial school at a saving! How I wish I could afford to spend that much on education for my children.

The biggest mistake seems to be to work for a living, pay taxes, and thus be ineligible to benefit from such "opportunities."

Question and Answer

Why is the Grand Trunk crossing on South Saginaw so bumpy? It would seem about time the City and Grand Trunk made some corrections. The jarring a car takes is entirely unnecessary.

BARNETT

REPLY

The City Traffic Engineer tells us both City and Grand Trunk officials are aware of this need, and it was scheduled to be done by now. However, the railroad people are running behind in their work of upgrading railroad crossings and it will be done as soon as possible.

Vietnamese troops to carry their attack into Cambodia.

The Cambodian officials said they would continue giving the Reds sanctuary and would keep on supplying quantities of rice, medicines and other supplies, but that the VC and North Vietnamese troops in return must co-operate by improving their security.

North Vietnamese commanders present at these talks came away with the belief the Cambodian officials were quite angry. The commanders held a hurried meeting to discuss their problems.

Here are the results of that conference:

Our (VC and North Vietnamese) troops have been overconfident. They think they are safe because they're on friendly territory (Cambodia).

"We're getting careless at concealment. We're easily seen. Our air and artillery shelters are visible. They're dug near roads. The shelters are not dug in the same pattern the Cambodians use.

"Some of our units are located near main roads and rivers. Smoke from their cooking can be seen. Our paths are too exposed and can be easily detected.

"The Cambodians complain that if our troops do not do better in preserving security, they (the Cambodians) will be attacked. We must be careful so as to be able to continue using Cambodian soil.

Today's Toys Prove Kids Color Crazy

If this year's crop of toys appears more colorful than in years past it isn't because you're seeing things. Toys are getting brighter and more colorful, and there is a good reason for it all.

Studies by number of universities and child guidance centers show that children have a distinct preference for toys that they like certain colors better than others.

Robert Hicks, director of research and development at Fisher-Price Toys, Inc., producers of creative pre-school toys, says, "While many factors are considered in designing toys which will appeal to 'play with' child, you're licked before you start if color properly used is not one of them."

"There is no question that good toys should be regarded as teaching devices," Hicks says. "A child, particularly a younger child, relies to his environment through the toys he plays with. Because we recognize this we choose not to abstract toys or their colors too far beyond reality."

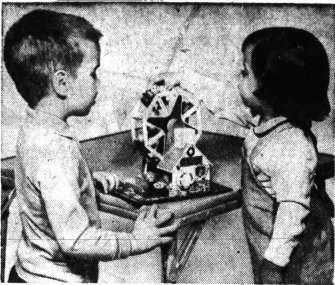

"This where color is concerned, sky is blue, grass is green, sun is yellow and it belongs. Our toys are designed to be educational, but before a child can learn from playing he must first play with it."

BRIGHT COLORS

According to Hicks, primary colors and the secondaries appear most to preschoolers. Variety is important, and the brighter the colors the better. Some studies indicate that in the very young child, say under two, there is some preference for reds and yellows with blues taking a back seat.

Pastels and the more sophisticated shades are noticed during these early years but are not preferred until child is well into his school years. "You might see how these preferences work," says Hicks "by giving children crayons to color with a observing the choices they make."

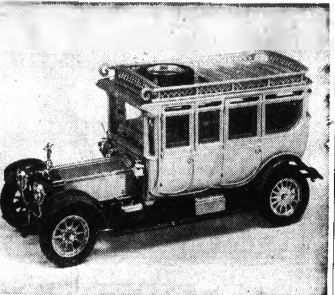

Fisher-Price has conducted a number of controlled studies in its research program by giving preschoolers a choice between toys in bright colors, pastels and in a varnished wood finish.

COLORFUL FERRIS WHEEL — A colorful ferris wheel for preschoolers is shown. Wind the music box and the wheel revolves, carrying three passengers and a dog while the operator cranks furiously.

SNOOPY SNIFFER — This sad-eyed basset hound has delighted millions of children during the past 29 years. His name is Snoop Sniffer. He sports a brown, black and white coat and woofs as he walks.

SILVER GHOST—You've always wanted a Rolls Royce? Now you can own one. This replica of the famed Silver Ghost is only 4 1/2 inches long. It is complete with spare tire, "silver" radiator ornament, "brass" tool and battery boxes, railway style windows and gas lamps.

Children Can Make Gifts of Miscellaneous Items

From the time they make their first mud pie and present it lovingly to Mommy, youngsters delight in making gifts for members of their family.

Christmas is the ideal time to encourage this young creativity. Here are some ideas that the small fry, with a little help from their elders, will love to make, and that the family will love to receive.

The gifts are based on soft, colorful socks made with a carefree acrylic fiber — fashion-right knee socks for young ladies of all ages, and comfortable, good-looking sport and dress socks for men and boys.

Another present is included in all these gift ideas. For example, the gift of a magazine subscription joins forces with a pair of brown men's socks to become a delightful little dachshund.

A rolled-up copy of the magazine is the body of the dog. One sock is rolled inside the magazine, and the other covers it. The head, ears, and tail are cut from felt and basted or taped on; features are done with buttons or embroidery.

LITTLE ELEPHANT

A little elephant is made from a pair of men's grey sport socks and a gift tin of tobacco, candy, or nuts.

To make him, insert a pipe cleaner into the foot of one sock and roll the sock, starting from the toe, for about five inches.

Then, bind with matching thread to form the elephant's trunk. Stuff the remainder of the foot with the second sock and cotton batting to make the elephant's head.

Stick on button eyes and grey felt cut in the shape of ears. Slip the foot of the sock over the tobacco can, and tape the cuff to the underside of the can.

FOR DISTAFF SIDE

For the distaff side of the household is a delightful Santa made of red knee socks. He brings season's greetings in the form of a can of hair spray. One of the socks covers the other as well as the can; the toe part becomes Santa's stocking cap. Features and hatband are cut from felt, and Santa is completed with a yarn tassel.

These gifts have all the makings of the most successful Christmas presents: wonderfully wearable socks of Creslan acrylic fiber, the extra surprise gift tucked inside, and the pleasure a youngster derives from putting his time and effort into the Christmas gift for someone he loves.

Junior Editors Quiz on DRAGONS

QUESTION: How did the idea of dragons originate?

ANSWER: In ancient days, people invented myths to try to explain things they did not understand. Symbols were needed for the myths.

For a symbol of the extreme in ferocity, the dragon was invented, combining different parts of the most dangerous looking animals. Even if such a fantastic beast never existed, the idea of it could stand for something real.

As an example, in ancient China, the dragon was used to express the idea of kingly power. Pictures or statues of dragons were used to frighten away thieves who might steal treasure.

Most mythical dragons, however, stood for vicious and evil forces, to be faced by heroes and destroyed.

In a famous old story, the brave English knight, St. George, found a dragon about to devour a king's daughter. The knight slew the dragon, later marrying the beautiful maiden.

The story has a meaning for us even today, for we all have our dragon-like difficulties to face up to and overcome. If St. George could win his battle, so can we!

FOR YOU TO DO: Drawing dragons is fun, for it stretches the imagination. Try your hand at one.

Low-Cost Kidney Machine Developed

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — A low-cost kidney machine that can be used at home will be available in a few months, Dr. William J. Kolff of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation told Science Service here.

The initial cost of presently used custom-made models requires an initial outlay of an estimated $14,000 for purchase and installation of a machine in hospitals, and a yearly expenditure per patient of about $10,000 a year.

Dr. Kolff estimates the equal cost of home use of the new artificial kidney (which is adapted from a washing machine), to be around $1,500, since parts are reusable and families of patients can be trained to use it.

"The matter of cost is the preponderant deterrent from transplantation and dialysis," Dr. Kolff said, "and the cost of maintaining a patient on the plants are successful, Dr. Kolff said.

Kidney transplants, however, are preferable to dialysis among the 50 per cent to 60 per cent of patients in whom transplants are successful, Dr. Kolff said.

Driver Charged

DETROIT (AP) — A manslaughter charge has been brought against a Plymouth motorist whose passenger was killed in a crash during a high-speed police chase. William H. Shouse, 22, was charged Wednesday with being responsible for the death of William Canaday, 22, also of Plymouth, when Shouse's car hit a tree last Friday. Plymouth police said they were chasing Shouse at speeds approaching 100 miles an hour when Shouse's car skidded into a tree.

Savings Seen in New Tank Tread Rotator

By Science Service
WARREN — A device that makes it possible to shift tank treads around the same way as automobile tires are rotated to distribute wear may save the U.S. Army as much as $4.5 million a year that it now spends on replacement treads.

The current tread unit, called the T762, must be completely replaced when it wears out, which it does after about 2,200 miles. This considerable expense has prompted the Army to spend more than $600,000 in the past 13 months developing a solution. The solution is called the T142. It is not only the first rotatable track shoe designed for a heavy vehicle, but it has a life expectancy of more than 5,000 miles.

Eight pilot models of the experimental tread have been tested over the past five months at the Army's Yuma, Ariz., and Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds. Six of them recently ran up a total of 38,000 miles, operating on a two-shift, 16-hour day. An amendment to the Constitution does not have to be signed by the President.

BOTH STORES OPEN FRIDAY AND SATURDAY 'TIL 9 P.M.

Mrs. Philip Goetzmann of North Berkshire Road is the perfect symbol of Thanksgiving today in her authentic Pilgrim dress. Seated before her fireplace with its primitive antiques on display, Mrs. Goetzmann is spinning flax into thread. While on a trip through New England with her husband, Maj. Philip A. Goetzmann and two sons, Michael 10, and Philip 8, she persuaded Mrs. Ellsworth Doll to make this outfit for her. Mrs. Doll makes the costumes for the Old Harlow Fort House, historic landmark of Plymouth, Mass. The dress of rich gold silk is styled in the Elizabethan manner. The apron is a darker shade of brown with white cuffs, cap and shawl in white. Mrs. Goetzmann is an avid collector of antiques and extremely interested in the life of our early settlers. A native of Pontiac, she and her family have just been back in this area a year following the return of her husband from Viet Nam. Quilting, hooking and crewel embroidery take up the spare hours of Mrs. Goetzmann, along with teaching at Hawthorne School. Her pupils were surprised recently when she donned the costume for a Thanksgiving program. She remarked that their interest in studying the Pilgrims was increased by actually being able to see first hand, the way these people dressed.

Thanksgiving Is Shared Hospitality

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Jones are expecting a household of guests in their Bloomfield Hills home on Thanksgiving Day. Daughter, Crystine, will be home after a tour with the United States Equestrian Team which included competitions in New York, Washington, D.C. and Toronto, Can.

Crys, incidentally, rode the winner of the President's Cup in Washington.

Now stationed at Selfridge Air Force Base, Lt. Ernest A. Jones II U.S. AF Reserve will take part in the family gathering as will Mrs. Jones' nephew, Bill Nordstrom, a University of Michigan student from Albany, Ga.

Rounding out the family picture will be Mr. Jones' mother, Mrs. Albin Jones coming from Jamestown, N.Y. and his sister, Carol Jones of New York City.

Tiny nine-month-old Steven Norvell will spend his first Thanksgiving in the home of his grandparents, the Ralph T. Norvels of Wenonah Drive. His proud parents, the Bruce Norvels, will be there along with Bruce's two sisters, Virginia and Carol, the latter home from studies at Western Michigan University.

Other guests will include Jack London and the Charles Bickfords with their son Roger and Mrs. Norvell's mother, Mrs. Russell Austin.

Signora Meni Rendina of Bologna and Venice, Italy is the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard R. Andree of Bloomfield Hills. Their visitor will be on hand to help the Andrees and their family, Karen, Chris, Adriane and Dolph celebrate Thanksgiving.

Wants Vows Taken on Baseball Lot

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé is in the Air Force and is also a member of the ball team. We would like to be married on the baseball field, the wedding taking place before the game begins.

The ball players will be included in the wedding ceremony — all the men will be wearing their baseball uniforms, including my fiancé. Do you have any information on a wedding of this type? — Alberta Brown.

Dear Alberta: Nothing quite so unconventional as this has come to my attention in some time. The wedding is yours and you should certainly have it any way you wish, as long as you have the cooperation of your clergyman and you can retain the dignity and seriousness that the ceremony demands.

Have you considered what a daughter may think when, after seeing pictures of a friend's parents' church wedding, she sees those of you and your husband on a baseball field? There are certain occasions in life — and a wedding is the most important one — when tradition and dignity play an all important part.

I cannot help you with any specific suggestions — I can only hope you will not regret your decision to be married in this way.

Abby Sends Holiday Wish
With Prayer for Our Blessing

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
HAPPY THANKSGIVING
May I share with you my favorite "blessing" to be offered before mealtime?

I think it is especially appropriate before the Thanksgiving meal:
O, heavenly Father,
We thank Thee for food and remember the hungry,
We thank Thee for health and remember the sick,
We thank Thee for friends and remember the friendless,
We thank Thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.
May these remembrances still us to service that Thy gifts to us may be used for others,
Amen.

Faithfully,
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am looking for a beautiful, rich, nice, sincere single woman between 25 and 45 who would like to settle down with a plain, honest, not-too-bad-looking man 33 years of age. (That's ME!)

She could be a widow, divorcee, or bachelor girl. I have been married and divorced once. No children, but I like them. I also like pets. I am an auctioneer by trade, and if I say so myself, I am good. I am a high school graduate and have nothing against Democrats although I am a registered Republican.

I would even consider a movie star. (I mention this because when a pal of mine was in service, he got very chummy with one on a USO tour, and she said they were the loneliest women in the world.) How are my chances?

DEAR SLIM: Slim!

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been with the same company almost 17 years. Joe loves his work, and it has been good to us, but we have had to move six times and I am sick of it. I with each move, but as I see it, there is more to life than money and advancement. I want roots! My husband can't see it that way.

The company wants us to move again. This time with more money and an executive title in the sales organization. I say that unless the company can positively guarantee us that this will be our last move, we should stay where we are. Am I WANTS ROOTS: When a man's moving up and ahead in his work, root for him. And when age finally roots both of you, be satisfied.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter (I'll call her Pam) is being married this Christmas and we are planning to give her a lovely big church wedding. Her older sister (I'll call her Sue) self-addressed envelope, was married eight years ago at a very simple wedding because that was all we could afford at the time. Our problem is that well-meaning relatives have tipped us off that Sue is very hurt because SHE didn't get anywhere near the kind of wedding we are planning for Pam, and we would be wise to hold down the wedding a bit for Sue's sake. Now I am really torn. I love both girls equally and don't want hard feelings in the family. What do you think?

DEAR TORN: More hard feelings are caused from "tips" from well-meaning relatives than by just blundering along and doing the best you can with no inside information. Give Pam the best wedding you can afford. That's what you did for Sue.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this question which has puzzled me for a long time. When a person has taken his own life, should the whole incident be ignored as though nothing had happened, out of kindness and consideration for his family? There are some in my family who believe that this is the best course to follow. What do you think?

DEAR NAMELESS: When a person dear one is lost, his family suffers a loss, whether he has taken his own life or not. The "cause" should, of course, not be mentioned, but the friends of the family should acknowledge the loss and send words of comfort just the same.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DOTTY: Tell your husband that you want a clothes dryer for Christmas. Clotheslines are for the birds.

Troubled? Write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press. For a perky lovely big church wedding. Her older sister (I'll call her Sue) self-addressed envelope, was married eight years ago at a very simple wedding because that was all we could afford at the time. Our problem is that well-

Actors of Meadow Brook Theatre Have Become Trailerites

By EDGAR A. GUEST
Meadow Brook Theatre Staff
It would be interesting to know if a gypsy fortune-teller ever foresaw the possibility of a midwestern university looking to the traveling troupes of Bohemian performers for a magic solution to a seemingly hopeless problem.

It took a little more than a wave of a wand, but the effect was just as spell-binding as Oakland University conjured up a "village" where none was before to house 22 actors who were knocking on the campus door.

The "sorcerer's apprentice"

In the act was Oakland University Chancellor D. B. Varner.

He was told about six weeks before the arrival of the John Fernald Company of the Meadow Brook Theatre that the actors' standard contract stipulated that they be provided housing within a half-mile of the theatre, or transportation to and from the theatre.

The university had neither the season was less than four months away, and the actors and actresses were packing their trunks at scattered points on the globe ready to alight on the campus.

With a trouper's dedication to putting a show on despite all odds — and a reputation for doing so — Varner turned to the modern-day gypsy wagon: a mobile home.

It took a high-level push and the full capacity of two mobile home manufacturers in almost round-the-clock production to get the project rolling.

But when the company of 22 arrived last week, 14 large two-bedroom and three-bedroom units were in place on foundation piers of quick-setting concrete.

Those mobile homes were not forgotten in the haste. Flickering gaslight lanterns line the village's "Main Street," redwood-stained porches provide patio living beside each unit and the entire caravan is nestled beneath the branches of old elms.

There was some momentary hesitation on the part of the players. One feared claustrophobia. Another saw nothing romantic in the real-life role of a "gypsy." But after the arrival of the company, the typical reaction to the homes was "exceptional," "great fun" and "absolutely fabulous."

Although definite commitments were made in July to establish the first Michigan-based professional theatre company, the problems of housing the troupe were not realized clearly until the company's administrative staff began work in October.

In addition to the half-mile distance limitation, contracts under Actors' Equity stipulate that each performer must have at least $100 in his weekly paycheck after his rent is paid. In the area's tight housing market, the requirements seemed impossible to meet.

A glance at the University map, however, indicated that just four-tenths of a mile from the Theatre in Matilda Wilson

Hall was a cluster of attractive barns that once housed prize Belgian draft horses. The former barnyard looked like the ideal site.

The mobile homes were purchased under a self-liquidating loan that will be paid off in five years. The cost required rentals of $135 for the two-bedroom models and $150 for those with three bedrooms.

Even if one actor chose to occupy one of the smaller units alone, the cost would be low enough to conform with the Equity contract.

They stand up well in comparison with small apartments even if such apartments were available. Measuring 12 feet wide and either 50 or 80 feet long, they are paneled throughout, well furnished, fully carpeted and equipped with modern kitchen facilities. They boast full baths, gas heating, ample closet and storage space and chiming doorbells.

Paved walkways will link the "townhouse" layout of 10 units on what Varner calls "Main Street." Four of the mobile homes are off to the side in what the chancellor terms his "suburban development."

A private laundry has been installed in one of the former barn outbuildings and outdoor gaslights donated by Consumers Power Company provide after-dark illumination with the atmosphere of flickering candlelight.

Lorna Lewis, who will have a principal role in the company's opening production, was among the early skeptics. "My first feeling was that I wanted nothing to do with it," she says. "I could just see a gypsy caravan, with the dancing gold earrings and all. But when I saw them I thought they were absolutely fabulous."

She occupies one of the units that feature a large bedroom and an adjoining smaller room that she plans to use as a sewing room. She has already gone shopping for pots and pans and plans to have her china sent from her home in New York City.

Barbara-Mae Phillips, the petite 29-year-old stage manager of the troupe called living in the village "great fun."

She is sharing a two-bedroom unit with actress Angela Wood.

Robert McKee, also in the acting company, says, "They are much more than anyone expected, as much as we might kid about them. They are exceptional accommodations for out of city (New York City) stock. You're likely to find yourself in a $4 a night hotel, or in little decrepit rooming houses with little decrepit landladies, that a sort of thing."

Peter Stevens, technical coordinator of the new company, says the mobile homes are "very comfortable... much bigger inside than they look. They need living in, that's all. Everything smells a bit new."

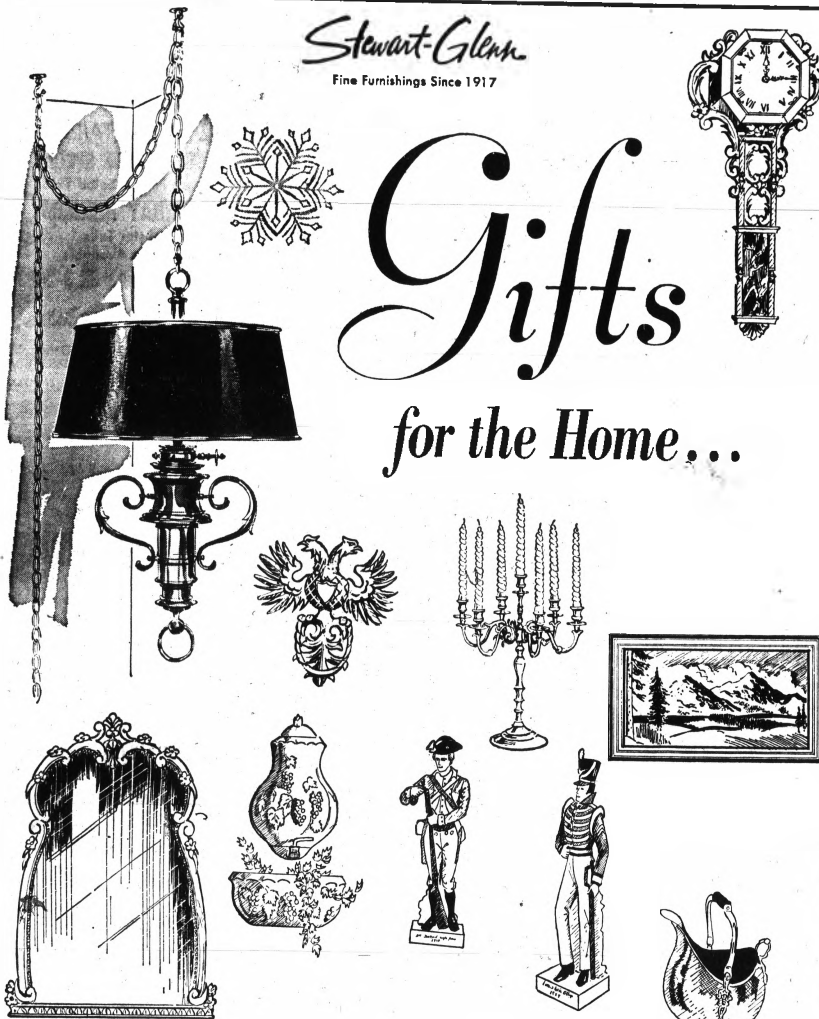

He also is sharing a two-bedroom unit with actor Victor John Holchak.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
Various names have been suggested for the settlement, in addition to Varner's preference for "The Village," "Repertory Row," "Angel Street" and "The Barnyard" are among the more flattering choices. Lorna Lewis is holding out for "Fernald's Funny Farm."

The mobile homes will remain as permanent housing for the John Fernald Company, although during the summer months they will be used in connection with the Meadow Brook Music Festival.

Mrs. Louise Troy (left) and Mrs. Rose Ryan, employees at Pontiac General Hospital examine entries in a contest for the most original decorations of a Thanksgiving basket.

The turkey took second place with first place going to the log cabin on the table. All departments submit entries.

One Contest Where Each Is Winner

For two weeks now, "Operation Thanksgiving Basket" has been in full force by employees of Pontiac General Hospital. The 27 baskets of turkey and canned goods (for needy families) get the full treatment with holiday decorations adding a note of festivity.

It has now become a contest for employees to compete in unusual decorations. This year, the first prize went to the laundry department whose basket depicted a log cabin with animals and pilgrims.

Second prize went to the central service department. Theirs was a large turkey made entirely of crepe paper complete with a large fanned tail.

The nursery came in third with its symbolic little girl surrounded by gifts of food. Judges for the event were Mary Guthrie, Margaret So-winski, Andy Donellan, Nellie Martineau and Perolin Boyce. Baskets were distributed on Wednesday.

News of Interest

Mr. and Mrs. William Seabright of Evanston, Ill. and their children, Caitlin and David, will be spending the Thanksgiving holiday with Mrs. Seabright's mother, Mrs. John Irwin Sr. of Dell Rose Drive.

They will all be dinner guests of the Richard Irwins of Hammond Lake. Mrs. Everett Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cal-low and the John Irwins Jr. will also be present for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bigler of West Ingois Road will be celebrating a double occasion over the Thanksgiving holiday, as it is their daughter Jane's 21st birthday. She will be home from University of Michigan with two sorority sisters, Marilyn Mall of Oakwood Park, Ill. and Debbie Holden of Tecumseh.

Also present will be Wilber Rowston, Mrs. Bigler's father, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rowston. Jane's brother, Bruce, will also be home from University of Michigan to share the holiday with his parents and sister Susie.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cramp-ton of Bloomfield Hills and their two sons will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Hoogerhydes of Chippewa Road. Also present will be the Hoogerhydes' daughter Judy, home from school for the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Criss-man of Applewood Lane, are planning a real family-style holiday dinner for their son, Dr. Richard K. Crissman and his wife and eight children who will be visiting them from Grand Rapids.

Dinner guests of the B. Jack Habels of Miami Road on Thursday will include her mother, Mrs. Carl Felix, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Felix of Woodmont Street, and sons Kevin, Paul and Michael (who attends University of Detroit). The John S. Blacks of Foxcroft and Roger White of Howell complete the list.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Coughill of Middle Belt Road, West Bloomfield Township and their daughter Gail, home from Western Michigan University, will be guests of Mrs. Coughill's mother, Mrs. Oscar H. Lundbeck of Chippewa Road.

Thanksgiving will see two of the Colin H. Johns' children home for the big day. Both Tynna who attends DePauw University and "Pike" a student at Colgate University will be home to celebrate the day in their Birmingham home. Raughter, Sally, who's busy with a career in Chicago, will be unable to make the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Kimmins of Bloomfield Hills will be entertaining at Thanksgiving dinner for their daughter and son-in-law the Harold Hacketts of Tilmor Drive and their children Christine and Christopher.

Another son, Dr. Robert Kimmins, his wife and children Elizabeth and Barbara will be present.

The Lloyd Eatons of Lowell Street will also be guests with their son Frank Lloyd Taton Jr. and his family.

It will be a double celebration for the family group as it is also the birthday of Christine and Mrs. Harry Kimmins.

Cake Topper Serves Again

LAKELEND, Fla. (AP)—When Marti Youkey wed Lt. Charles Hawkins here, her wedding cake was topped with the same ornament that topped the wedding cake of her parents 24 years ago.

The statue of an Army lieutenant and his bride was used by City Manager and Mrs. Bob Youkey 24 years ago. Youkey was then Lieutenant Youkey, stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. Lieutenant Hawkins is also assigned to Fort Knox.

Adopting Reasons Vary

By BEA SWORDS

Part II of a Series

Everyone who adopts a child has his own special reason. Sometimes an adoption is made because a family has lost a child and wants to replace it. Sometimes there are no children at all. People adopt a child to supply an heir and to carry on a family name.

But they all adopt because they want to love a child. The very idea of adopting is a major decision for any family, just as having a child is a major step. Your whole life is rearranged.

ALL CHANGES

Whether you are mother or father, you will have your pre-formed ideas on child-raising scrambled and your way of life rearranged. As a matter of fact, nothing will be the same for probably 20 years.

People who have raised their children tell us, nothing is the same without the children home either.

Adoption is easier than you think. You have probably been the victim from time to time of a dozen false ideas.

At Michigan Children's Aid Society I asked Louis Lovitt some very honest questions and received some very honest answers. Children's Aid Society is primarily interested in finding homes for small children and infants. The older children are handled by Oakland County Probate Court's Adoptive Services.

FAMILY ALREADY

I asked if a family that already had children could adopt. He said "yes," quite simply "yes."

There are of course different circumstances with different people, but if a family with children wants to take on another child and can afford to without hurting themselves or their children—fine.

He also pointed out that a set amount of money in the bank as ready cash was not necessary. Prospective adoptive parents do not have to own their own home.

At Oakland County's Adoptive Services I was told that the only concrete stipulation in adopting children is that the prospective parents want a child and want to care for it.

Mrs. Dorothy Reason of Adoptive Services told me that it is usually not too difficult to know which families are sincere in adopting a child and which are not. People who really mean to adopt are not discouraged.

RED TAPE

Yes, there definitely is red tape to adopting a child. That is because the court must make the adoption legal by giving consent. But it is a good kind of red tape.

Don't let anyone, not your family doctor, your lawyer or your clergyman "help" you adopt a child from any other source but an agency. Their intentions may be the very best, but the risk is still high. Only in a court approved, legal adoption is there any protection for you.

Celebration for Couple

The Earl F. Kauls of North Opdyke Road, Pontiac Township, observed their golden wedding anniversary Nov. 17. Their children, Vernell E. of Warbler Drive, Independence Township, Joseph F. of Loon Lake Shores and Mrs. Louis Lessard of Clarkston honored them Sunday with an open house.

Some 50 guests attended the occasion which took place in the Kaul home. Out of town guests came from Clare and Ann Arbor.

The couple have nine grand-children.

Christmas Is a Time to Renew Faith, Hope

By ARCHBISHOP IAKOVOS
Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America

Christmas is a time for renewed hope, faith and regeneration. The birth of Christ the Saviour, Who did so much to make man free, to emancipate him from centuries-old bondage and give him new dignity and incentive, offers us renewed hope in transformation; and that man, in turn, can transform the whole world; that he can tame all the wild and ferocious forces within and without him, and that he can make the dark windows of his confinement suddenly become luminous stars in a new firmament.

Christmas gives us renewed faith—faith in man. The birth of Christ, and the life and death of Christ, bear witness to the fact that man is faithless, as he so often seems to indicate in his words and deeds.

Christmas, and all that it means, asserts that deep in the hearts of men there is plentiness of faith, dormant perhaps, but nevertheless strong enough to move even mountains.

On Christmas Day there are neither walls nor mountains in the way of men. For on the day that Christ was born, all men were given the opportunity to become one in Him.

This is an opportunity that has existed since the first Christmas Day; an opportunity that will exist every day on this mortal earth until the last syllable of recorded time, which ends not in a dusty death, but in the brilliant reality of the life to come, where the illumination of Christ pervades everything.

NEW UNDERSTANDING OF LOVE

From the birth of Christ on Christmas Day we gain regeneration, a renewal that gives us a new awareness and a new understanding of love. For the love that Christmas teaches us is different from any love the world knew before the birth of the Saviour.

This is the love of mercy and compassion, the love in which all men can share; the love by which our heart and our conscience are compelled to open up and give joy to the saddened and the oppressed, to the downtrodden and the hopeless, to those who have sinned and to those who have been cast aside.

This is the love, the charity of Christianity, without which, as St. Paul says, all our virtues and capabilities are of no avail: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

"And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could move mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing."

"And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing."

"Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up."

"Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh not evil;"

"Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth;"

"Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things."

"Charity never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away."

"... And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity." (1 Cor. 13, 1-13).

Those of us who profess belief in Christ have a very special obligation to Him to set an example for those who, though they do not worship Christ, are never precluded from sharing the humanity of Christian preaching and practice—and included herein are all men.

WE MUST LIVE CHRISTIANITY

But in order to give the true example of Christianity to others, we must first, those of us who bear witness to Christ, become better Christians ourselves.

And to become better Christians, to be in fact worthy of being called Christians, we must truly live our Christianity, rather than be too much occupied with the conventions and trappings of it. We must emulate Christ, as best we can, in courageous sacrifice for our fellow men, to perpetuate our Saviour's example.

It is Christmas Day, and all that it stands for, that inspires us to give this example to the world—strengthened with hope, faith and love, enriched by the repossession of the dearest of all our possessions, and imbued with the mercy and the saving grace of our Incarnate Lord, our Saviour Jesus Christ.

In closing, it must be pointed out that Christmas has a very special meaning for the women of the world. That meaning is embodied in the Virgin Mary, the Mother of Christ, who, having received the Supreme Call, bore herself, while she was bearing our Saviour, with a grace, modesty and humility that gave her the aura of a pure white radiance, the reflection of which would give women their greatest enhancement.

Jigsaw Puzzles Are Booming

Card game variations are evident on game counters this Christmas. Bird Brain, for example, bases play in a circular bowl shaped playing area ringed with birds; the Bird Brain cards are prime trouble-makers. Back-O involves racking up numbered cards on plastic racks.

Jigsaw puzzles are enjoying a boom. There's a particular demand for large puzzles with 1,000 and 1,500 interlocking pieces, said to appeal to insomnia and to provide a day-to-day project for family activity, positioned on a bridge table, according to Mr. James J. Shaw, president, Milton Bradley Co.

Solving a mystery is a new angle for jigsaws, keyed to the Men From U.N.C.L.E. scenes.

Octagonal puzzles are another novelty. A new Devon series of the octagonal variety features Rembrandt paintings.

The secret agents, James Bond adventures, too, are the base for a puzzle series of re-enacting high points of action.

Treated Cones Make Yule Fires Burn Magically

Your Christmas fire can be even more magical than usual if you throw on cones that burn with a bright variety of colors. They are easy to make.

All you need are: pine or spruce cones shellac and a brush tin cans for mixing a stick and the following chemicals: yellow-sodium chloride (salt) orange-calcium chloride red-strontium nitrate purple-lithium chloride apple green-barium nitrate green-copper nitrate or borax

Wear gloves to protect your hands. Mix a small amount of each chemical with shellac in a tin. Paint the cones thoroughly and let dry.

An assortment of fire cones wrapped in cellophane with a big bow would be a thoughtful gift for almost anyone on your list.

Home-Style Santas Need Assistance

Home-style Santas usually need help! And to aid Pop in his Christmas chores, consultants suggest these tips to lighten the load:

1. THINK AHEAD. Many chores that are left for Christmas Eve can be done in advance to save time and temper. For instance, locate the Christmas tree stand in advance and make sure it is in working order.

The tree itself also should be purchased ahead of time. It will keep perfectly well outdoors until ready for trimming, and chances are you'll have a better selection from which to choose if you pick yours early.

Also check out the ornaments and tree lights to see whether replacements are needed and if complicated toys need assembly repairs are in order. And finally, buy, start chores several evenings ahead.

Many a frantic father can attest that some instruction leaflets require the skills of a computer and the mind of an Einstein to decipher!

(After you have located "tab BB-62") and placed it in "slot CC-43," give late-evening eyes a 60-second refresher with soothing eye drops, such as Visine, a sterile decongestant that instantly relieves irritation.

2. SHARE PREPARATIONS. The more that everyone participates in holiday preparations, the more meaningful the spirit of the season becomes for each member of the family.

3. PLAY SAFE. Every year at this time, accidents mount in the home. Faulty wiring, inflammable decorations and ornaments can cause fires, and Papas perched precariously on ladders can fall — the accident list is long.

So be sure your paper decorations are flameproof, and your tree lights are in perfect working order. Make certain that extension cords are tacked safely in place, and that candles and matches are out of reach of small children.

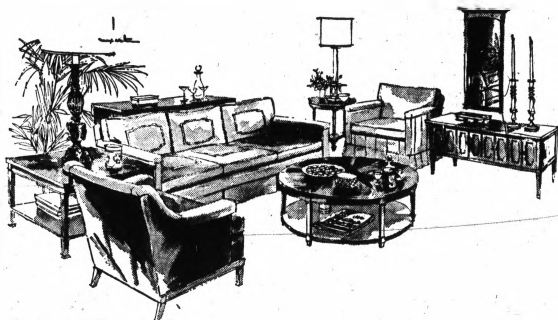

IF ACCIDENT OCCURS

If Father does fall off the ladder, or any other accidents occur, seek medical attention promptly. For external aches and pains and muscular strain, a soothing rubdown such as Bengay, the external ouch-reliever, gives hours of comfort.

THIS UNUSUAL SAVINGS EVENT is prompted by our desire to reduce our inventory as much as possible before it becomes necessary to vacate our building to make way for any eventual renewal project! It's public knowledge that LEWIS Furniture has sold their building to the City of Pontiac . . . Therefore our operations in Downtown Pontiac must of necessity be temporary. In view of this uncertainty we have decided to reduce our inventory drastically in the shortest possible time.

Kit Carson's Brainchild Told

Indian Fighters Sought
Out Tribes in 1868-69

FORT LYON, Colo. (UPI) — An unpublished manuscript and notes written by a 19th century soldier and cattleman have shown that a 1868-69 winter campaign pitted an all-star lineup of Indian fighters against the Cheyenne, Comanche and Arapaho tribes.

But there is no indication that Kit Carson, Wild Bill Hickok, Buffalo Bill Cody and Gen. George Custer ever met that year.

Notes left by the late Luke Cahill say the campaign was the idea of Gen. Kit Carson.

Cahill said Carson convinced President Andrew Johnson and a reluctant Lt. Gen. U.S. Grant that a winter thrust like the one he used to defeat the Navajos in 1863 was only answer to the Indian problem.

But before Carson's brainchild was transformed into action, he died at Fort Lyon.

HOLDING HAND

Cahill claims in his manuscript that he was holding the great frontiersman's hand when he "breathed his last" May 23, 1868.

The plan devised by Maj. Gen. Philip H. Sheridan that summer had Custer moving south from Fort Dodge, Kan., with his column; Brevet Lieut. Col. A. W. Evans was to march from Fort Bascom, N.M., and a third column under Brevet Maj. Gen. Eugene A. Carr was to get out from Fort Lyon, Colo.

Cahill said Buffalo Bill was a scout for Carr's column and Hickok was a scout for Brevet Brig. Gen. Penrose, who commanded Carr's advance element.

Cahill's manuscript then deals with Carr's column.

BITTER BLIZZARD

Cahill said the troopers never shot at an Indian that winter and became hopelessly slowed by a bitter blizzard that swept over the plains and then bogged in the resulting mud.

"We had little medical accommodations on this campaign," said Cahill, who was a sergeant in the column.

Cody became a hero in the campaign, staying with the column and providing buffalo meat with his hunting skills.

But nobody, including Cahill, seemed to know what happened to Wild Bill Hickok.

CARILL'S THEORY

Cahill theorized Hickok either stayed with Penrose or was transferred to another command.

Scientists Study How Much Power Is in Lightning

By Science Service

TUCSON, Ariz. — How much voltage in a stroke of lightning? How much light? Scientists here expect to have answers for such questions as soon as they finish analyzing data from this year's summer storms.

Using high speed tapes and films, a University of Arizona team has collected the most complete information on a single stroke of lightning ever obtained, said Dr. Walter H. Evans, professor of electrical engineering and meteorology.

They even have photographs of the strokes.

Once analyzed, the new data should give information on the stroke's duration, channel size, current, luminosity and ionization, as well as knowledge of the cloud's electrical field.

Rainmaking efforts are "hung up" for lack of such knowledge, said Dr. Evans, particularly as concerns the electrical field in clouds.

Dr. Evans and Dr. Roger C. Jones, also a professor of electrical engineering, are conducting the lightning research with National Science Foundation support.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE LEADERS

GROWTH INDUSTRY — Public junior colleges, called community colleges in many states, have become American education's major "growth industry." New two-year schools are opening at the rate of 50 a year, and enrollment, now nearly 13 million, is growing at the rate of 200,000 yearly. California heads the states with 80 schools.

Tour Offers Chance for Talks on Equality

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG, JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

I have recently returned from a two-week tour of five East European nations — Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia.

While the trip to these faraway nations was interesting and informative, my basic reason to make it was the chance for talks with my fellow tour members.

They were 25 of the nation's most important business leaders; the chief executives of companies employing a total of about 2 million workers and contributing a large share of the nation's industrial production.

These are the men who are in position to materially improve the economic situation of the nation, and of course, Negro citizens, both through the jobs they have at their disposal, and through the great influence they wield in the councils of industry.

I am glad to report that this phase of the trip was very successful. I found these business leaders to be extremely well informed and quite sympathetic to the great efforts need to bring equality of opportunity to Negro citizens.

ECONOMIC WOES — They recognized that discrimination has kept Negro citizens in serious economic difficulties and they are sophisticated enough to understand that they can bring about some of the needed changes.

It was heartening to find that these energetic and successful men had no use for the racism behind the "white backlash" and that they were truly concerned about increasing the role America's great corporations must play in expanding opportunities for Negroes and other minorities.

I am confident that our talks will yield impressive results very soon.

I was glad that I went, too, because I feel very strongly that Negroes must be part of any large group traveling abroad and meeting government leaders and other persons.

A DIVERSITY

America is a multiracial country whose great strength is its diversity of peoples, and this should be reflected in every such group we send abroad, even such an unofficial, private tour as ours was.

I was also anxious to gain a better understanding of East-West relations which affect all Americans. In each of the countries we visited, I found the same themes running through our conversations with government leaders.

They all share a sincere concern over the war in Viet Nam, and fear the possibility that it may escalate into another world war, a horror they have already lived through and never want to see.

The emotional scars of the last war are still evident in their fear of a reunited Germany and in their fear that Germany will gain access to nuclear arms.

MASS MURDER

The Nazi "master race" theories resulted in mass murder and the destruction of their countries and they never again want to have a powerful Germany on their borders.

Paper money was issued for the first time in the Colonies in 1690 by the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Red China Military Has Split in Ranks

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a two-part series on the internal struggle being waged in Red China.)

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HONG KONG — It is wrong to say the Red army has a tight grip on Communist China and that the army's way will prevail. The evidence does not support this theory.

Lin Piao, Mao Tse-tung's heir apparent and his country's chief military theorist, is commander of the army. But that army is badly split into many factions.

Some military chiefs, admittedly, follow Mao and Lin loyally, yet others, equally important in the military hierarchy, are frankly cool to both men.

Some of these factions are based on personal loyalties that stretch back to the Long March and Yenan days.

During the Long March, some military chiefs were with Mao and some were not. Even the famous Chu Teh split away for awhile.

Other loyalties to one man or another were built during the war against Japan and have not lost their strength.

PRO-SOVIETS

Factions include pro-Soviet Union and anti-Soviet Union groups. There is also disagreement among the war lords as to how the next war — most believe they will fight again — will be fought.

Mao Tse-tung's thesis is that China hasn't the wealth to build a modern army able to fight a conventional war with the United States successfully.

The army must therefore remain a guerrilla force which would suck the enemy deep into the mainland and harass him in front and rear as the Viet Minh harassed the French in Indochina until they withdrew.

But some of the militarists feel that China must modernize its forces in the Russian style, feeling, apparently, that their superior strength in numbers would compensate for a possible lack in military technology.

MODERN ARRAY

They believe that guerrilla warfare is acceptable — as far as it goes — but in these days, even in China, the first-line troops must match those of the United States and Russia in modern armament as far as possible.

The continuous testing and probable refinement of China's nuclear devices tend to indicate that the military technocrats have a certain amount of influence on Mao.

These "modernists" were headed by Peng Te-huai, former head of the army who was replaced by Lin Piao. Peng, one of the most famous of the Yenan generals, has many disciples.

It is certain that a number of them are still in key army positions and that many other officers share Peng's opinions.

MANY FACTIONS — Red China's huge army is divided. Modernists fight with old-guard guerrilla war theorists. Soviets fight with anti-Soviets. The army, while short on modern weaponry, is said to be well-trained.

For Thanksgiving

The President's Proclamation

By THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A Proclamation

They came in tiny wooden ships. On an unknown and alien shore, they planted and built, settled and survived. Then they gave solemn thanks to God for His goodness and bounty. America, well over 300 years ago, had its first Thanksgiving Day.

For many years our Presidents have had the opportunity to proclaim Thanksgiving Day, to address themselves to the American people, to remind us of the blessings we enjoy and the thanks that we owe.

If we consider the fervor with which those colonists in Virginia and Massachusetts gave thanks, when they had so little, we are taught how much deeper should our thanks be when we have so much.

Never, in all the hundreds of Thanksgiving Days, has our nation possessed a greater abundance, not only of material things but of the precious intangibles that make life worth living.

Never have we been better fed, better housed, better clothed. Never have so many Americans been earning their own way, and been able to provide their families with the marvelous products of a momentous age.

Nor has America ever been healthier, nor had more of her children in school and in college. Nor have we ever had more time for recreation and refreshment of the spirit, nor more ways and places in which to study and enrich our lives through the arts.

Never have our greatest blessings—our freedoms—been more widely enjoyed by our people. Nor have we ever been closer to the day when every American will have an equal opportunity and an equal freedom.

No, we do not yet have peace in the world. Our men are engaged again, as they have been on so many other Thanksgivings, on a foreign field fighting for freedom.

But we can be thankful for their strength that has always kept our liberty secure. We can be thankful for our science and technology that helps to guard our America.

Thanks are better spoken by deed rather than word. Therefore, it behooves a grateful America to share its blessings with our brothers abroad, with those who have so little of the abundance that is ours.

Simple justice and a concern for our fellow man require that we be ready to offer what we can of our food, our resources, our talents, our energies, our skills, and our knowledge to help others build a better life for themselves.

We should thank God that we are able.

Let us, therefore, in this splendid American tradition, thank him who created us and all that we have. Let us do so with a firm resolve to be worthy of his abundant blessings. Let us assemble in our homes and in our places of worship, each in his own way.

Let us thank God for the America we are so fortunate to know.

Now, therefore, I, Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States of America, in accordance with Section 6103 of Title 5 of the United States Code designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 24, 1966, as a day of national thanksgiving.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington this seventeenth day of October in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-six, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-first.

Lyndon B. Johnson

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

NEEDED: Two whistles giving steady and near-similar tones. Teakettle whistles are good; whistles with a ball inside, such as police whistles, are not good for this experiment.

PROBLEM: The Ghost Whistle.

DO THIS: Two people blow the whistles.

A third whistling sound, of a lower pitch, will be heard.

HERE'S WHY: The "ghost" sound represents the difference between the pitches of the whistles. If one emits vibrations 500 times a second, and the other, 500 vibrations, the difference of 100 vibrations per second will be the frequency of the "ghost." Try this with one whistle and a second person making a whistling sound with the lips. It works. Try it with two people lip-whistling. Listen carefully for the faint "ghost."

Two volumes of these experiments are available. Science Circus and Science Circus No. 2 are approved by educators for use in classrooms. Order from your bookstore or the author.

Mothers Voice Protest to Holiday War Toys

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

In San Francisco, an antiwar group collected war toys for the Pentagon to drop to Vietnamese children.

In New York, women carrying black umbrellas dubbed "Toy Fair or Warfare" picketed the annual Toy Fair for the third straight year.

A hand-painted sign "No War Toys" hangs in the window of a Greenwich Village toy store.

In recent years vocal groups—mainly women—have protested the sale of war toys, claiming children who learn to glorify violence are much more likely to unleash it when they grow up.

"Toys don't create war," said Jerome M. Fryer, president of the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A. Inc. "Wars create toys."

"Unless you eliminate the adult activity, you can't stop the child from duplicating it. If you took away dolls would girls stop having babies?" he asked.

Maurice Martin of Multiple Toymakers said exposure to war toys prepared a child for adult reality.

"It is unfair to isolate a child from guns when chances are he will eventually be drafted into the Army as part of our effort to maintain the peace," he said.

SMALL PERCENTAGE

The toy people claim war toys account for only a small percentage of sales—far less than bikes and dolls, for instance.

But in recent years there has been an increase in war games, refighting the battle of Guadalcanal and recasting Hitler's Blitzkrieg.

"Are our memories so short we can now allow our children to play Blitzkrieg?" a New York man objected. Emence has a military casting set—make your own soldiers, jeeps, cannons—for instant military maneuvers.

Much of the attention has been fastened on G.I. Joe, a boy doll. This year he has a Green Beret Special Forces outfit and a frogman and sea sled outfit.

Bats Caught in Winds Blown to Iceland

By Science Service

NEW YORK Migrating bats have been literally blown off course by strong North Atlantic storms that carried them to the coast of Iceland, a scientist has reported here.

Hoary bats, a species that lives in North and South America, have been found in Iceland where no bats are native.

Four bats found within the last 25 years were probably swept 1,500 miles from northeastern North America to Iceland in Reykjavik, Iceland.

Hoary bats are a fairly large species, with a wing spread of about 15 inches.

Dr. Karl F. Koopman of the American Museum of Natural History received the preserved bats from Finnur Gudmundsson of the Museum of Natural History in Iceland. There are an estimated 50,000 caves in the U.S.

Huskies Expect to Contend; Rebuilding at PCH

Farmington 5 Highly Rated in Lakes Loop

Rebounding May Hurt Waterford; Vikings Hope to Move Up

Defending champion Farmington is favored in the Inter-Lakes basketball race, but Pontiac Northern is expected to make a strong challenge.

The Huskies, who suffered through a lean (4-11) campaign and finished third last season, lost only one veteran. Eight lettermen return to bolster the title bid.

Waterford lost its scoring punch and key rebounders from its second place 1965-66 team. Walled Lake finished last and isn't expected to pull higher than fourth above newcomer Livonia Stevenson.

"This team could win 10 to 12 games this year," said PNH coach, Dick Hall. He lists the strong points as good speed, an adequate bench, improved rebounding and a "good attitude."

"However, we have only average shooters, no real big man and we are inexperienced at guard," he points out.

Don Hayward (6-3) and Dana Cohn (6-2½) are juniors who were starters last season. The remaining six lettermen saw considerable action as Hall started pointing toward this season when it was apparent things weren't going to turn out well.

Mike Clancy, Rich Rhoney and Craig Deaton are the leading guard candidates.

Jack Brown, a senior and double letterman, can play either forward or guard. Bob Traylor and Stan Allison, a pair of 6-3 juniors who started last season on the junior varsity, will vie for the remaining front line spot.

Farmington's only serious loss was playmaker Mike Wilson. The Falcons have at least seven players back who have the potential of making this season's team one of Farmington's finest.

In addition, Farmington had a fine junior varsity team last season.

Among the top varsity returnees are Mike Ames (6-3), Greg Darrow (5-1), George Grimala (5-10), Fritz Simons (6-1) and Mike Thompson (6-2).

Waterford has only Rick Ziem's scoring records. The sharpshooting forward is now at Albion College.

"We are very small," said coach Bob Taylor, "and rebounding will be the big question. With the type of team that we have it's very difficult to predict the season ahead."

Five lettermen return and the tallest is Karl Arrington (6-11) who showed scoring potential on occasion last season. Guard Cliff Seiber turned in some good performances.

Paul Thomas, Ron Stafford and Bill Hill are the other veterans, but they saw only limited action.

Walled Lake is another team that will have to give away height on the boards and rely on shooting.

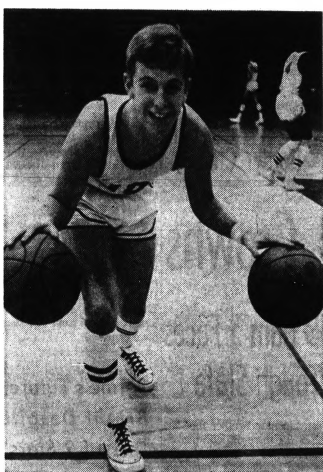

Seven players who started at least one game last season return. Steve Fogle, Larry Grinnell, Tom Carl, Russ Herron, Gus Maragos, Dave Baker and Rick Schmalz form the nucleus. Grinnell is the tallest, at 6-3.

DOUBLE THREAT— Pontiac Northern senior Rick Rhoney is counted upon by coach Dick Hall to provide both scoring punch and aggressive defense for Huskies who are hoping to dethrone Inter-Lakes League champion Farmington this winter.

Groves, Again, Boasts Championship Material

Birmingham Groves posted the best record last winter among the Class A prep basketball teams in Oakland County, winning 18 straight games before dropping a close decision to Ferndale (the eventual state champion) in the regional tournament on the Eagles' home court.

The defending Northwest Suburban Activities Association Champ Groves has 64 leading scorer Mike Rafferty—one of two returning All-County players this year—and 6-8 center Craig Love (who possesses a title hopes.

If North Farmington doesn't mature rapidly enough to become a factor in the race, Livonia Franklin and possibly Detroit returning All-County player Keith Thurston could emerge as the top challenger to Groves' title hopes.

Trojans Given Nod in Saginaw Valley

Although the football team has done well the last couple of years, Pontiac Central still is better known for its strong basketball teams.

The Chiefs have been one of the dominant forces in the Saginaw Valley Conference over the years and this probably is the reason why three other league coaches pick PCH to win the title this season.

Coach Fred Zittel doesn't agree and the facts seem to be on his side.

Graduation stripped PCH of its top players. Only two lettermen return from last season's team that missed the SVC title by a total of five points and lost in the regional finals to eventual state Class A titlist Ferndale.

Zittel is planning to use two and possibly three juniors as starters, Lettermen Practice

Saginaw Valley

Hill and Alton Wilson are key players.

Probably the big reason other coaches are high on Central—besides the past performances—is the fact that PCH consistently has strong junior varsity teams.

Coach Ralph Grubb turned out another highly successful reserve unit last season and players from that team are making up the bulk of this season's varsity.

Waller Causey (6-2½) and Gordon Hamilton (6-3) are the tallest of the newcomers. Dan Daniels, Ardell Sheldon and John Childs are others who have a chance of seeing considerable action.

"This is a very young and inexperienced team," said Zittel. "I hope that we might improve as the season goes along."

TOP RATED— Defending champion Saginaw is rated the team to beat again this season.

The Trojans have the tallest and shortest lettermen in the conference. Adrian Prince (6-6) and Charles Kelley (5-4) join with touted newcomer Gene Seals to pose another strong threat.

Arthur Hill, another consistent power, is rated a good chance of overtaking Saginaw.

Seven lettermen return. Top rated are John Decker (5-10), Tom Thon (6-4), Bob Cady (6-2), Chuck Henne (6-2), Ike Reims (6-2) and Craig Johnson (6-5).

What graduation didn't take from Flint Northern, cross-town rival Flint Central received in the form of transfer students.

Freels Bacon and Herb Washington are now at Central. Washington, however, won't be eligible until the second semester. Tim Bograkovs, who scored 34 points last season, returns to help Stan Gooch start his first season as head coach.

The Indians are expected to get much stronger as the season progresses.

Bay City Central could be a spoiler. The top players from last season's team are gone and the Wolves probably will be hard-pressed to repeat a third place finish.

Tom Mehnert (6-2), Kenon Murphy (6-2) and Jack Gruber (5-10) are the top returning lettermen.

Flint Southwestern will be tough, particularly when the Colts come to Pontiac, and so will Midland, but neither is expected to make the first division.

The same holds true for Bay City Hardy.

Track Director Named

HAZEL PARK (AP)— Collett Griffin, 39, has been named director of racing for Hazel Park Race Track in suburban Detroit. Griffin has been a placing judge at the track for the past several years.

Eagles Rule SEMA's Nest

The Eagles rule the nest in district, regional and quarter-final victories on the Ferndale court. He built a potent attack around captain guards Rick Bloodworth and Sam Dunlap, both of whom have graduated.

Center Dave Jensen also has departed but Burkhardt does have experienced forwards in Charles Packett, Tim Marsac and Jim Stevenson, all around the 6-2 mark.

Centers Wayne Clapp and Bob Kirsten should provide rebounding strength but the guards again must develop into the playmakers and defensive stalwarts.

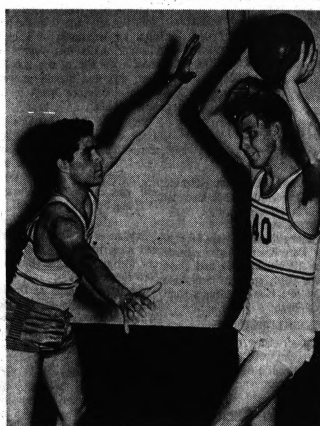

TOP THREAT— Southfield appears the best threat to Ferndale's hopes for a fourth straight title. Coach Bob Neff took the Blue Jays to the state finals two years ago when Ted Simmons was a sophomore, and now the all-round athlete has progressed to his senior season with several other returnees back from last year's off season.

Birmingham Seaholm could be a darkhorse prospect along with Berkley. The Maples had their worst campaign in several years last winter; nine letterwinners are back to prove they've learned their lessons and are ready to win.

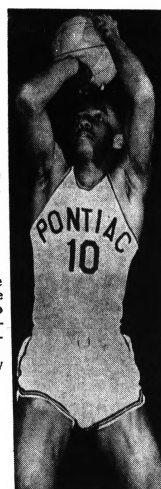

There is a well balanced unit available to coach Lew Perry. Guard Richie Slater leads the group with his 18-point average while forward Dave Cook, 6-3, lends talent to the forefront.

Both Hazel Park and Kimball lost too many key players to expect to contend this year, although both coaches promise to have upset-minded teams on the playing floor.

PRESSING DEFENSE— The Shamrocks of St. Michael may resort sometimes to a pressing defense as practiced by Al Pelletier (left) against teammate Tim Loviska when they make a final bid for a Macomb Catholic League basketball title this year. The Mikemans will begin their campaign against arch rival St. Frederick Friday night on the Madison Junior High School court.

CAPTAIN CONNECTS — Kettering center Dave Cox rams a dunk shot through the hoop as the confident Captains prepare for their season opener at North Farmington next week. Cox stands 6-3 and is a returning regular from last winter's unit that lost only once until the Class A District playoff final at Pontiac Northern's gym against Pontiac Central.

Oxford, Romeo Await Slip

Will Kettering Soar or Sink?

Coach Joe Duby of Waterford Kettering can't be blamed if he appears a bit uneasy as the basketball season approaches — he could be riding a big balloon that is going to sail higher and higher, or slowly descend to earth.

The balloon is Kettering's basketball entry in the Tri-County League and the intangible power the best season in its history, going unbeaten during the regular season and last year's entry only lost once going into the post-season state Class A playoffs. This year's cage squad has the potential to surpass both of those teams' accomplishments.

25 STARTERS

The reason for the optimistic outlook is the return of all five starters. Four of them have two years' experience, there is an excellent blend of size, scoring and defense, and five reserves are returning letterwinners. At least one of the starters from last season appears out of his job. Guard Bob VonBargen has been slow to shape up while recuperating from a football arm injury.

Jack McCloud, a 6-2 southpaw backliner, has the inside track for that berth; while 6-5 Ralph Winkler and 6-11 Benzo are eager to grab one of the spots reserved for 6-3½ Dave Cox, 6-1 Dick Miceli, 6-1 Pete Evans and 6-2½ Joe Raczynski.

One Tri-County mentor points out, "Kettering should be good unless senioritis sets in." Duby affirms, "There won't be any on this team." Oxford's 6-4 Miller averaged better than 21 points per game last year. He is starting his fourth season with the Wildcats; but the team has yet to have sufficient balance to pose a solid contender in the league. Coach Lee Nofz hopes Mickey

NEW MENTOR — Milford's basketball fortunes will be guided by a new chief this winter with Dave Torrance being promoted after two seasons with the junior varsity.

Cummings and Ron Shamblin, both two-year monogram wearers, will provide offensive and defensive support for Miller. A 6-3 sophomore, Ted Pearson, may develop into a suitable backboard aide.

Romeo has height and size in its forefront with 6-4 Rick Schapman, 6-4 Don Craft and 6-3 Roger Ross all going 185 pounds or better. If new coach Larry Randall can produce the backcourt to augment this trio, the Bulldogs will definitely be a factor in the Tri-County race.

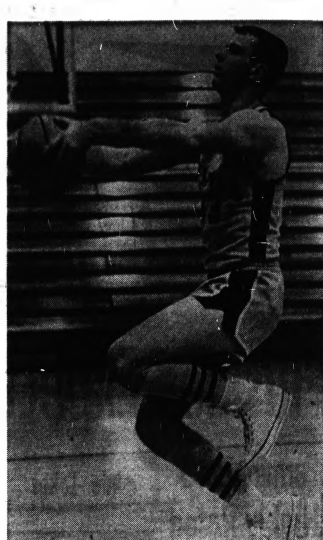

The youthful mentor is putting much of his backcourt hopes on speedy, jumping Jack Dwight Ford, playmaker Jim Miceli and defensive specialist Clyde Oushberry. The Bulldogs expect to grow.

Lapeer will go almost exclusively with juniors; while L'Anse Creuse will miss re-turnees Jim Carden and Mickey Thiry in the early going. Several juniors are expected to see considerable service.

SHOOTING STAR — The leading prep basketball scorer in Oakland County during the 1965-66 campaign was Clarkston's Dan Fife. The 6-2 senior returns this season intent on leading the Wolves to the Wayne-Oakland League crown. An All-Stater as a junior, Fife specializes in drive-in shots and aggressive play under the basket.

Spartans O-A Choice

Avondale '5' Has Potential to Challenge

The Warren schools — Cousino and Fitzgerald — are bowing out of the Oakland A League after the '66-'67 campaign, and it's unlikely the other six squads will shed any tears. Fitzgerald is still celebrating its 6-0 football season which included the Oakland A champion.

Oakland A ship, and now the Spartans are viewed by their opponents as the best in the loop basketball race.

With the coaches picking them, it looks like Fitzgerald and Cousino will run one-two, followed by Avondale and Rochester in the upper crust.

It was the other way round last year for the Spartans and Cousino. The top spot went to Cousino. Fitzgerald finished second.

Avondale, placing fifth in the loop race last year, has five lettermen returning from that squad and those five are strong enough to make the Yellow Jackets a definite threat in the league race.

TALL SQUAD

Coach Nick Neira will head a tall team at Avondale, flooried by 6-3 forward Lee Sanders who was also one of the team's top scorers last year with a 13.7 average.

Like Avondale, Fitzgerald and Cousino will put tall squads on the floor, taller than the Jackets.

The Spartans have eight lettermen returning from the '65-'66 team that posted an 11-4 record, and among them is Dave Dubowski, a 6-3 senior who tallied 203 points last year.

TOP REBOUNDER

Cousino's hopes will ride with the Papak Cousins — Paul (6-3) and Bob (6-4). Coach Billy Skaggs also has 6-1 Steve Seaton on hand and coming up from the reserves is 6-7 center Dave Klassen and 6-3 Jack Lupo.

Paul Papak averaged 22 points a game and Bob ripped the nets at a 15-point-a-game average last year.

Rochester has only two lettermen returning but there's a lot of talent in these two. Jim Burton, who posted a 13.0 point-a-game average last year, returns along with Don Goding (6-1), who averaged nine points a game.

Orion, Madison, Clawson and Troy will field young teams that could develop as the season progresses.

In Macomb Parochial

Tight Race Forecast

Three squads shared the Macomb Parochial basketball title last year, and the '66-67 forecast is for another close race.

St. Michael's, St. Frederick and Waterford Our Lady wound up with 9-3 loop marks last season to share the championship, and all have enough talent returning to make another bid for the title.

The Mikemens have height, speed and scoring ability.

Bill French, a 6-5 center, gives the Mikemens an edge in rebounding and the big guy posted in 293 points in 16 games last year.

GOOD SPEED

For speed, coach Jim Niebauer will call on guards Greg Glynn (5-9), Butch Finnegan (5-8) and Pat Thornberry (5-9). All are short, but they are able ball handlers and sharp defensive players.

Al Pedier, a 5-10 senior, is a holdover at forward, and Niebauer will dip into the junior foursome of Tom Richards (6-3), Tim Loviska (6-0), Tom Slavin (6-2) and Mike Keller (6-2) for added height.

The Rams of St. Frederick lack experience, but they, too, have a lot of talent.

The Rams, under new coach Mike Boyle, will be going with 6-2 Gary Roodiger at center. Forwards Sam Brady (6-2) and Roy Boyer (6-4) are expected to provide some shooting and rebounding balance.

LOSE OPENER

The Lakers of Waterford Our Lady opened with a non-conference loss to Orchard Lake St. Mary Tuesday night, but they'll be ready for the league campaign.

The Lakers have a pair of steady scorers in Tom Sibburgh (6-3) and Dennis McCulloch (5-11), but coach Mike Boyle needs some strength from the reserves to keep pace with St. Frederick and St. Michael.

Sibburgh posted a 9.1 scoring average last year while McCulloch maintained a 9.8 mark.

Marine City Holy Cross has five lettermen returning and could give the favorites a run for the marbles.

Among the top returnees at Holy Cross are John Dietlin (6-1) and Fred Goodell (6-1). Both forwards, Dietlin posted an average of 18.0 a game last season while Goodell scored at a 17.0 pace.

Orchard Lake St. Mary has the title, but Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows has the talent, enough talent, say the North-West Parochial League coaches, to lift the crown from the brow of OLSM's Eagles.

OLSM opened the season Tuesday with a 62-56 non-conference victory over Waterford Our Lady, but the team faces stiffer competition in the loop race.

Missing from the OLSM attack this year will be guard Conrad Kragulski, the Eagles' playmaker and top scorer on last year's squad.

A PROBLEM OLSM's problem may be in the rebounding department, a problem the Lancers of Sorrows won't have.

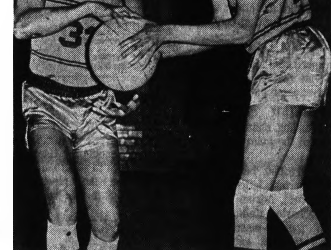

POLS, fifth in the race last year, has one of the loop's top players returning in 6-3 center Jim Doyle, who averaged 24.2 last season. Coach Bob Morris also has 6-2 forward Frank Carpio back for another campaign. Carpio posted a 10.9 average last season.

Boistering Briggs' hopes for a successful campaign are forward Dick McEwan (6-5) and guards Paul Bowman (5-8) and Al Curry (5-11). Those three will join center Dale Duckert (6-2) and John Schulte (5-10).

Coach Bob Mason at Dryden has only three lettermen back in John Malinich (6-0), Joe Gordin (6-4) and Greg West (5-7), and those three saw little action.

Coach Ed Gallup has only two lettermen on hand but three transfers have given the club a lift. Moving into the school district were Mike Smith (6-2), Will Martin (6-3) and Jerry Martin, a 6-6 prospect.

B'ham 5 Faces Tough Slate

Birmingham Brother Rice has one of the more difficult basketball divisions of the Detroit Catholic League and despite obvious talent had trouble winning last year.

The Warriors under coach Bill Norton hit at a 40 per cent-plus clip from the field last season but only won three games in the Central Division and seven of 18 overall.

Norton welcomed 10 letterwinners back but is concerned over the condition of Doug Keating's knee. He is last year's top point producer and one of six double letterwinners (all of whom stand 6-2 or better) that are returning.

Keating tallied 234 points last season. Dan Patrick, a 6-4 forward, and Tom Schaefer, a 6-2 guard, both had better than 25 to follow Keating closely.

Filling the center spot likely will be 6-4, husky Lee Hart whose main responsibility is to set picks for the shooters.

Met Boomer, a 6-2 forward, figures to see a lot of action as does 6-2 backliner Mike Bowen. Dave Palms at 6-5 will keep Hart hustling for the center berth. Dave Druze and Lee Jett are experienced guards also in contention.

Shrine's Future Bright Despite Loss of 2 Stars

Coach Martin Foley predicted and achieved his best season last winter at Royal Oak Shrine.

Potentially, the Knights may be better this season despite the loss of their top two scorers and leading rebounder, Rick Chudy and Bob Turner, from last year's team.

Foley has five returnees (among Shrine's eight letterwinners) who had starting positions at one time on the 16-5 quintet that lost to River Rouge in the state Class B semifinals last March.

The two outstanding prospects are 6-10 backliner Mickey Brazinski (251 points) and 6-5 center Paul Seymour have the job of getting the ball on rebounds and making up the 30-35 points per game of Chudy and Turner.

Backing up Seymour are 6-4 Randy Gray, a senior letterwinner, and 6-5 junior Wayne Ham-brell. Jim Cassidy, a 5-10 guard, also is a monogram wearer.

THE SHRINE DOUBLES A DIVISION title campaign opens Friday night at Kimball High School against Detroit St. Ambrose.

Clarkston Ace Vital Factor in W-O Race

F-I-F-E: That's the way you spell it; here's the way we yell it: Clarkston High School, etc....

Though it may sound a bit extreme, Wayne-Oakland basketball teams visiting the Clarkston gymnasium may hear a cheer similar to that arising from the Wolves' supporters.

Dugan (Dan) Fife for the past two years has been Clarkston

Wayne-Oakland

High School sports and frequently he's been the difference between victory and defeat.

An Associated Press Class A All-State selection last basketball season, Fife will headline his fourth and senior season on the Wolves' varsity with the obligation to lead the veteran quintet to the W-O cage championship.

Clarkston is almost a unanimous choice to capture the crown shared by Bloomfield Hills and Northville last winter. Each of the defending champs rates one vote to repeat in the preseason poll of the coaches.

West Bloomfield, the opening opponent for Clarkston, will be missing No. 1 performer Tim Miller until after the Christmas holidays. Coach Art Paddy has mostly green players 16 work with once he looks beyond returnees Pat Windey and Ted LaPratt.

Northville was 15-6 last year and has several players advancing from its 15-3 junior varsity squad, but the Mustangs will have to do without guard Nelson Hayti at the outset. Captain Jim Zayt is expected to pace the eager crop of candidates in the early going.

Hills' Barons probably will give Clarkston the biggest tussle for the laurels. The Bloomfield quintet has an outstanding center prospect in Bruce Hall, a 6-5 senior who developed significantly last winter.

Milford expects consistent, all-round fine play from versatile Don Hill, a 6-2 senior forward who missed much of last season due to an injury. But Paul Skinner, the returning top scorer, will be tied for several games and this will severely limit the manpower-ely R-ed-skins who are starting their title campaign under coach Dave Torrance.

Chiefs Boast Ground Power in AFL Loop

Kansas City Holds Big Rushing Edge, Jets First in Air

NEW YORK (AP)—Kansas City, doing most of its traveling along the ground, continues to hold a wide edge in total offense in the American Football League.

Statistics released by the AFL today show the Chiefs averaging 361.1 yards per game—a shade less than 32 yards per game more than second place Buffalo. Veteran Bert Can and rookie Mike Garrett carry the brunt of the Kansas City running game, which is averaging 151.3 yards per game—almost 14 more than second place Boston.

New York's Joe Namath has the Jets far in front in passing offense with an average of 242 yards per game. That's 25.1 yards more than second place Houston. But the Jets are running eighth in rushing offense, averaging only 83.1 yards per game along the ground. New York's total offense average of 327.1 yards per game is third behind Kansas City and Buffalo. Oakland leads the league in total defense, yielding 250.3 yards per game, 1.4 yards less than the Jets. The Raiders also lead in passing defense with an average of 127.5 yards per game.

Boston has the stingiest rushing defense with only 72.1 yards per game allowed. But the Patriots are running last in passing defense, permitting 235.9 yards per game through the air.

Florida State in Bowl Tilt

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida State University accepted a bid yesterday to play in the Sun Bowl, sending its offensive-minded football squad a day against Western Athletic Conference champion Wyoming in El Paso, Tex., Dec. 24.

Florida State has a 9-5 record for the season. Wyoming finished 9-0 in the WAC and 9-1 overall record.

Pasadena—Only once has the Rose Bowl game been played away from Pasadena where it started. The 1949 contest was in Durham, North Carolina, because of wartime travel limits.

Low-Scoring Duel Cost Irish Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame, just its college football scoring lead but retained its scoring edge, according to statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau.

The Irish, tied by Michigan State, 10-10, Saturday, also dropped from second to fourth in total offense and slipped out of the top 10 in rushing all together after being ninth last week.

In scoring defense, the Irish have yielded an average of 37.2 points per game.

Spartans Give Record Writers Stiff Workout

MSU Gridiron Squad Leaves New Marks With 9-0-1 Season

EAST LANSING (AP)—Four more points, and Michigan State would have two perfect football seasons going into the record books.

As it is, MSU players—and fans and even sports writers assigned to the team—have done plenty to keep the record keepers busy.

Spoiling an absolutely perfect record are a 14-12 loss to UCLA in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1 and a 10-10 tie against Notre Dame last Saturday.

But there were these entries for the books:

—An all-time high season attendance, 426,740 for six home games, and three game crowds bigger than any in any previous season: 80,011 for Notre Dame, 78,833 for Michigan and 76,004 for Purdue.

—A record press box crowd, 745, for the Notre Dame game, and a record number of words on that game, 120,000 filed by Western Union and an estimated total of 375,000.

—Three Big Ten records: 268 yards rushing against Iowa by Clint Jones, 607 yards rushing against Iowa by the team and a 95-yard punt return for a touchdown against Illinois by sophomore Al Brenner.

—Four MSU career records: 102 catches for 1,857 yards by Gene Washington, 16 touchdown catches by Washington, 19 field goals by Dick Kenney, and 386 rushes by Jones. (Jones' 1,921 yards gained in his MSU career make him second in that department.)

—An MSU record number of yards gained on pass receptions in one season, 677 by Washington for an average of 25 yards a catch.

—Jimmy Rave's becoming the second Spartan to pass the 1,000-yard mark in passing in one season. His total was 4,110. Steve Juday passed for 1,173 yards last year.

MSU's string of 14 straight Big Ten victories over two seasons also is a conference record. And its two straight Big Ten championships is something that hasn't been done in 12 years.

The 1966 Spartan record brings Coach Duffy Daugherty's record for 13 seasons at MSU to 82 victories, 35 losses and four ties.

Veterans Boosting MSU Ice Hopes

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's hockey team opens a new season Dec. 2 with four of the six starters who led the Spartans to the national collegiate championship last season.

Among them is goalie Gaye Cooley, who was named most valuable player of the NCAA tournament last year. The other are defenseman Bob Brawley, center Tom Mikola and wing Mike Jacobson.

With them on the first line will be defense letterman Dick Bois and sophomore wing Chuck Phillips.

All-American wing Doug Volmar heads the second line. Volmar, who led last year's squad with 26 goals and 28 assists, will team with letter winner Bill Faunt and sophomore Lee Hathaway.

Atlanta Wants Title Showdown

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves offered their field Wednesday as a site for the Jan. 6 "Super Bowl" between the National and American Football Leagues.

John McVale, president of the Braves, who subleased the stadium to the Falcons of the NFL, sent a telegram to Commissioner Pete Rozelle making a bid for the game.

Romans And English Lose To Asterix

Biggest French Hero Tiny Cartoon Figure

By ROSEETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
PARIS — The next time President De Gaulle looks into his magic mirror and asks, "Who is the most popular of them all?" the answer is likely to be "Asterix, naturellement."

Asterix, and le grand Charles both have big noses, but there the resemblance ends. Asterix has a droopy yellow mustache and happens to be the most popular cartoon character in all of France.

What's more, he helps school children with their Latin and, to the delight of Anglophobes, frequently twists the English.

It's estimated that one out of every five Frenchmen regularly follows his adventures.

Asterix is described by his creators, Rene Goscinny and Albert Uderzo, as "stirred, brave, hot-tempered, with a weakness for food and drink. He's not bellicose but is unwilling to be trodden underfoot."

ROMAN HISTORY
Asterix the Gaul is a kind of long-verdure atonement for the Roman conquest. The strip was created in 1959. "We did a lot of bawling up on our Roman history," Goscinny said, "and disarray covered there was a lot to learn about the Gauls."

Asterix and his pal Obelix, a kindly, clumsy giant, always get the better of the homesick Roman Gai's efforts to bring them to heel, thanks to a magic potion.

Their adventures have taken them all over the ancient world — to Germany, Rome, the Egypt of Cleopatra, Britain and Africa.

The Romans in the strip speak a kind of kitchen Latin interspersed with quotations taken from the special back pages of Petit Larousse, France's popular dictionary which is found in every schoolboy's satchel.

BRITISH MOCKED
But parents particularly enjoy the clever way in which the British are mocked.

"The early Britons resembled the Gauls," the authors say, "and many descended from tribes which came to Gaul. They spoke the same language but had a quaint way of expressing themselves."

Despite their courage and peacock fogs, the Britons always lose, the strip points out regularly. Goscinny said, "and disarray covered there was a lot to learn about the Gauls."

Task Force Defends Against Biological War

By Science Service

FT. DETRICK, Md. — In a cluster of unimpressive looking "temporary" buildings built during World War II, a task force that now numbers 350 men has for a decade waged the U.S. Army's only war against the horrifying specter of biological warfare.

Using classified techniques against a classified number of diseases (less than 100) is a group at Ft. Detrick called the Medical Unit, including 172 men who double as human guinea pigs to test defenses against those few of the suspected diseases for which there is some known treatment.

Well-known maladies such as malaria and cholera are unlikely to be chosen as biological weapons, said Col. Kenneth Dirks, Deputy Commander of the unit, so research centers on the "much more esoteric" disease.

Most of the ones being investigated occur seldom or never in this country, so that little is known about the cause, identification or treatment.

Though the unit's work is emphatically described as defensive, it is often necessary to "think like the enemy" in order to develop countermeasures.

GOOD CANDIDATE

What kind of disease, for example, makes a good candidate as a weapon? It must be highly infectious, spread rapidly and be stable in storage.

It must also be compatible with the means of delivery, such as aerosol spraying. It may be desirable to "tailor-make" the disease-causing organism so that it loses its potency after a period of time, allowing occupying troops to enter safely.

How do you deliver your disease? There are a number of ways: a crop-spraying-type airplane, a missile, an artillery shell.

A small wall emptied into a municipal water supply might also work, but most filtration and chlorination systems would remove all but very heavy dosages.

EFFECT UNKNOWN

Biological warfare has never been used on any effective scale, said Col. Dirks, although in the French and Indian War, a century before the Civil War, the French tried sending the Indians blankets carrying smallpox germs. How effective this was is not known.

Occasionally, The Medical Unit's research has proven valuable against epidemics that sprang from natural causes.

A vaccine against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis was made available "through diplomatic channels" when an outbreak of the disease caused Venezuela to approach the United States for help.

Holiday Clothes Should Be Fun

Clothes for the holidays should be fun. They should be wild and colorful and lush.

This year designers showed either a lot of texture in their clothes or none at all. The lushness of brocade, matelasse and fur contrasts with space age plastics and metals.

Hinged plastic paillettes jiggle, gleam and sparkle in dresses and tops. Silver and gold shimmer like a Christmas tree in long hostess gowns or lounge pants suits.

And set among the silver and gold are jewel-like colors: ruby reds and emerald greens in exotic patterns. Even they take on a hint of the space age by using metallic threads as accents.

It is the year of evening pants. Not only are there straight legged pants and bell-bottomed ones, but harem pants that range anywhere from knee to ankle.

Desalting Plants May End Droughts

CHICAGO (AP)—Giant nuclear-powered desalting electric plants may eventually solve drought conditions.

This is the finding of an Atomic Energy Commission study in drought regions, especially those in northern New Jersey and New York City.

Large dual-purpose electric power and desalting plants would be capable of producing upward of 300 million gallons of fresh water daily.

They could supply standby capacity and supplemental water during a drought and also provide additional reservoirs of safe water during dry periods.

Embarrassing

CADIZ, Ky. (AP)—Someone stole two sets of dishes from the car of Zelmer Coffey while he was talking with a state patrol trooper. The trooper was embarrassed, but no more than Coffey, who is the Triggs County sheriff.

Swingingest Christmas

The "swingingest" Christmas organ, will be high on the ever is coming up for teen-agers. Christmas lists of the country's. The reason is the introduction of teen-agers not only because they portable electronic organs which provide a new sound for "the add a new dimension to the tra- group," but also because they ditional rock 'n' roll sound. make it possible for a combo Played by a combo that in- to get by with three instrumen- cludes one of these unusual in- talists rather than the usual four struments, "Jingle Bells" and or five.

For instance, the solid state dual manual Travelorgan features a string "bass accent" which, if desired, can replace the combo's bass guitar.

FUN TO PLAY—Organs bring holiday happiness that can last all year. So easy to play that even small children can enjoy them, reliable chord organs are electric or electronic. The keys are numbered and the chords are lettered so that, using especially written music books, the instrumentalist can play a recognizable melody on first try. Chord organs are a good introduction, too, to dual manual electronic organs, which require more musical background on the part of the organist.

SNAP AND SAVE MEMORABLE MOMENTS—Christmas provides a perfect opportunity for taking delightfully natural pictures of your children. For the best results, kneel and move in close enough to catch the expression on the child's face. It's so easy to take pictures with new instant-loading cameras, like the one shown. Just drop in the film cartridge, aim and click. For indoor shots, pop on a flashcube. No need to miss precious and fleeting pictures while changing bulbs—the flashcube rotates automatically to let you take four flash pictures in succession.

TEXAN IN THE WHITE HOUSE (6)

The "Great Society" was launched by a smashing Democratic victory at the polls in 1964. The liberal-dominated 89th Congress rapidly translated promise into fact, beginning with a package of 88 anti-poverty proposals. Already, however, there were signs that the real record of the Johnson Administration would be decided not in the domestic but in the international arena.

In August 1964, U.S. planes had attacked North Vietnamese patrol boat bases. In April 1965, the President dispatched troops to the Dominican Republic to forestall a Castro-type revolution. Throughout 1965 and 1966, the escalating war in Viet Nam cast a lengthening shadow over Washington. Rising prices and racial strife further tarnished the Johnson image.

In October, he made his first trip abroad as President. But a successful Asian tour, culminating in the Manila Conference, resulted neither in hopes for an early end to the war nor a boost to Democratic candidates in the off-year elections.

by Don Oakley and John Lane

Preparing for minor throat and abdominal surgery, the President faced the prospect of a 90th Congress far less tractable than its predecessor. Most of the problems vexing the Great Society remained unsolved. Lyndon B. Johnson has determined to become a great President, yet the verdict of history was still uncertain.

Diamond Gift Will Tell Her 'I Love You'

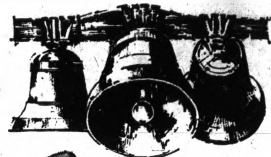

An eternity of enchantment is the sparkling promise of diamonds. And loving Santas who are preoccupied by prices can give the dazzle and drang of diamonds at very reasonable cost, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

Even with modest means, you can surprise her with that something special which will continue to say "I love you" through a lifetime of Christmases.

The ever-enduring beauty of a gift of diamonds never wears out and will never be forgotten. Once the gem of kings only, diamonds are no longer confined to royal revenues, and you can give this incomparable captivation at prices under one hundred dollars.

All the sublime sparkle of a huge stone is caught for delight in miniature in a single, small diamond.

Her Noel will be a never-ending thrill if you present her with earrings, pins and bracelets of delicately designed white or yellow gold stunningly sprinkled with tiny diamonds.

Smokers Seen as More Disagreeable

By Science Service
BOSTON — Smokers are apparently more disagreeable people than nonsmokers, if the opinions of their friends are to be trusted.

In a new study on smoking and personality, Dr. Gene M. Smith of Harvard Medical School in Boston assessed 1,402 college and nursing students, mostly females.

He used both self-ratings and ratings by classmates, on the assumption that the latter might describe personality characteristics untapped in the self-reports. He was right.

Three elements of personality emerged to differentiate the smokers from the nonsmokers, which did not show up through the self-rating method used in most previous smoking studies.

According to peers, the smokers were more "disagreeable" (more demanding, attention-seeking, assertive, prone to jealousy; less good-natured, adaptable, tender, self-effacing and trusting)," said Dr. Smith.

LOWER SCORES
They had lower scores on "strength of character (less conscientious, self-reliant, responsible and persevering)."

Both methods produced a significant difference between smokers and nonsmokers in orderliness and extroversion, with the smokers less orderly in personal habits and more extroverted.

Dr. Smith noted that on the basis of the peer ratings alone, an observer could pick out a heavy smoker (a pack or more a day) three-fourths of the time. His accuracy in tagging moderate smokers was 68 per cent.

The psychologist admitted that the two groups overlap each in 1978.

other considerably, with some smokers being more introverted, agreeable, responsible and mannerly than the average nonsmoker. But on the average, Dr. Smith found stronger differences than have earlier studies.

Dial by Card

New Phones on Gift Circuit

"The perfect gift for yuletide cheer is one that's used throughout the year," is an easy slogan for Christmas shoppers to remember. But finding that gift is a more difficult task.

Many gift-giving ideas can be found in the variety of useful home telephone services available.

Almost everyone from the active teen-ager to grandma looks to the telephone as an essential part of modern living, particularly in the home.

Christmas is the ideal time to choose a gift from the different types of telephones for your list of people with different needs.

If dad works at home or is busy with club or civic activities, his outlook is bound to brighten when he gets a look at the card dialer telephone, a phone that automatically dials calls for him.

CODED PLASTIC CARD

Numbers are dialed by inserting a coded plastic card into the phone and pressing the start button.

The phone then dials the number itself, eliminating both manual dialing and repeated searching for phone numbers in a directory.

Cards are easily coded by using a pencil point or similar object. For Mother, leaving the kitchen to answer the telephone can result in anything from a fearful interruption in baby's feeding time to a fallen soufflé.

KITCHEN PHONE

With a colorful kitchen phone for mother, she can make or take calls and still keep an eye on the soup, the roast AND the baby.

Kitchen wall phones, which never get in the way, are available in four bright colors: yellow, pink, beige or white.

If she is like most girls her age, the teen-age gal doesn't feel the allure of the kitchen as much as mother. Basting a roast doesn't hold a flame to cooking up plans for the high school dance or comparing classroom notes over the phone.

An extension phone of her own will give the privacy she desires while enabling the rest of the family to make calls without waiting for sis to get off the wire.

FOR FAVORITE AUNT

For that favorite aunt, an attractive Princess phone will bring holiday joy and make a lovely addition to her home.

MANY SANTAS — A collection of Santa Clauses, or Saint Nicholas as he is known in Denmark, parades by "Bakken," an amusement park near Copenhagen.

'Julesvenn,' 'Pelznikel'

Santa: Man of Many Aliases

By MARY SCHURZ

In parts of China, he's been known to arrive by ricksha. At the service of God, he distributed Amsterdam's harbor, he steps off a steamer astride a dazzling white horse.

But for all his varied appearances, he's the same figure American children know to descend from a reindeer-drawn sleigh — Santa Claus. Next to the Christ child, he is the figure most equated with gift-giving at Christmas.

His critics deplore Santa for detracting from the religious significance of Christmas. But the historical and legendary roots of St. Nicholas, as Europeans call him, trace back to the early Christian era.

St. Nicholas, the Bishop of Myra in Asia Minor, was born around the turn of the fourth century. Numerous good deeds and miracles were attributed to the saint. He was adopted as the patron saint of merchants, bakers and mariners, but he was most famous as the patron saint of children.

Legend has it that St. Nicholas was orphaned as a young boy and left with a large fortune which, after he turned to the service of God, he distributed among the poor. His gifts were made anonymously, often dropped at night through a window.

FEAST DAY DEC. 6

Believing in the good works and miracles of the saint, children started praying to him and observing his feast day, Dec. 6 at Christmas.

Soon the children in many European countries began writing Christmas present lists which they left on their window sills in hopes that the saint would deliver them to the Christ child. The custom is still practiced in Austria and Bavaria.

The association of reward and punishment for behavior has carried over from medieval times. In Czechoslovakia "Svaty Mikalás" is accompanied by an angel and a devil.

In Belgium, St. Nicholas leaves candy for children who have been good, switches for those who haven't.

Many countries adopted a substitute figure during the Reformation when reverence of the saints and religious festivals were suppressed. In Germany, he was "Pelznikel" (Fur Nicholas), in England, Father Christmas.

In Norway he was revived in the form of Julesvenn, an ancient Norse figure. Sweden had its Kris Kringle or Jul-tomten, a gnome-like figure who guarded the household and distributed gifts.

The Dutch and the English were responsible for introducing Santa Claus to the colonies. Early 19th century writings of Washington Irving, who organized a society in his honor, and Dr. Clement C. Moore, who gave him a sleigh and reindeer, added to the lore.

Cartoonist Thomas Nast immortalized him in his first fur-trimmed suit for a Harper's Illustrated Weekly issue drawn in Civil War days. He became fully Americanized. Should his legend ever catch up with the space age, no telling how he may change.

ARRIVES BY SHIP — Carrying out an old tradition, Saint Nicholas, accompanied by his servants, arrives in Amsterdam from Spain by ship with Christmas gifts for the Dutch children.

Smog Fighters Ready New Assault

By DICK KLEINER

Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LOS ANGELES — The smog fighters in the City of the Angels are about to take on the automobile industry again and the repercussions of the clash will resound nationwide.

The Air Pollution Control District (APCD) blames 90 per cent of Los Angeles smog on the pollutants that gush from a car's exhaust pipe.

And it will soon claim in a public report that the anti-smog devices required on all new cars bought in Los Angeles County are useless after 10,000 miles of operation.

Since new car buyers have been forced by legislation to pay up to $50 for these devices, a lot of Angelenos are going to complain about paying for nothing.

The auto industry, however, is not about to take such criticism without an argument, particularly since the U.S. General Services Administration will insist its cars have such devices by 1968. And that normally means ALL cars.

CHALLENGE SEEN

The industry required to manufacture, test and install the devices in products sold in the county — is expected to challenge the APCD assertion with what it considers persuasive evidence that the devices do their job if properly maintained.

According to the Pollution

Control District, tests have shown that after a car has gone between 5,000 and 10,000 miles, the anti-smog system ceases to function.

The industry, on the other hand, maintains that its own 50,000-mile tests show that the systems, while not foolproof, operate efficiently if checked and maintained at regular six-month intervals.

Industry spokesmen say they will again recommend to the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors that it require motorists to subject their cars to supervised inspections on a regular basis.

REVOLUTIONARY

If the industry's evidence isn't accepted by the APCD and the Board of Supervisors, the APCD will make a revolutionary recommendation.

Louis J. Fuller, the air pollution control officer, will suggest some time in December that a system of quarantining automobiles must be undertaken.

Details of this scheme are not now available. But it involves limiting the number of cars which are allowed in certain areas at certain times.

The APCD's statistics indicate that most of the smog causes, other than the car, have been pretty well controlled.

When the battle began, in the late '40s, 40 per cent of the pollutants in the air came breathing from what is called stationary sources — the smoke from industry and from private incinerators.

That figure is now down to 10 per cent. Private incinerators have been banned.

Industry has been forced to use various devices to curtail dangerous emissions and, as a result, "pollution from industry has been reduced almost to the practicable minimum," Fuller says.

There are still a few loopholes being plugged. This fall, the APCD's Rule, 66 went into effect.

The rule is designed to control emissions from organic solvents. According to the rule's timetable, beginning July 1, 1967, no paint will be permitted in the county which does not contain solvents approved by the APCD.

But this is only a small matter, when measured against the car. Organic solvents, such as paint, now add about 600 tons of contaminants to the air every day.

But the car is responsible for around 2,000 tons a day, the experts maintain.

At the APCD's headquarters in Los Angeles — and at 11 other air monitoring stations throughout the basin — machines sample the air constantly, measuring the amounts of hydrocarbons, nitrogen, sulfur and carbon monoxide residents are

If these amounts reach a certain level, a smog alert is called. The first alert stage is merely a warning, but there have been four such alerts this year.

The second stage, which has never been reached in Los Angeles' history, calls for a shutdown of all but essential industry and a stoppage of all vehicular traffic except for emergency vehicles.

The APCD believes that Los Angeles eventually will have a second alert, if something is not done to curtail emissions from cars.

"If we had not stopped smog from stationary sources," says an APCD official, "Los Angeles today would be uninhabitable. If we are not able to stop smog from automobiles, it will be uninhabitable in a very few years."

Some Shopping Tips for Your 'Fair Lady'

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The tinkle of silver bells, the festive shop windows and the sound of yuletide carols create an exciting atmosphere as you walk into a store to buy your first Christmas gift.

When you finally emerge from that crowded emporium, battered and weary, clutching a substitute for what you planned to buy (they didn't have what you wanted), peace and good will might well be spelled PHOOEY as far as you're concerned.

In a woman's world there's so much to choose from at every price level that shopping for the fair sex can be a taxing chore for the confused husband, baffled boyfriend or even the gal who needs a few little gifts for her office cronies.

For what help they may be to the harried shopper, here are some pointers on what's around waiting to be purchased:

Both fine jewelry and costume pieces are always welcome. Charm bracelets are lady to the salesperson. Tell her about the girl you're gifting — and charms come in all sizes and at all prices. Just be sure to check the size of the charms and the type of metal already on HER bracelet so that you buy the right kind.

WATCHES, EARRINGS
Pendant watches that swing from chains, and look for all the world like lockets or cameos, make handsome gifts. So do dangling, sparkling earrings that will twinkle in the dim light of her favorite disco.

New this time around are see-through colored ear bangles that hold enough perfume to last through many wearings.

Gifts of beauty are sure hits for girls of any age. Jeweled lipstick cases, bath powder and purse atomizers are easy-to-find stocking stuffers.

Furs are an expensive and very personal gift and it would be better to let her choose her own. So check the desire to surprise her with the real animal pelt in a gift-wrapped package. A gift certificate will be a wiser choice.

YOUR FAIR LADY
If you aren't adroit enough to find out, describe your fair

Or you might just buy a fragrance YOU like and on the gift card say, "Wear this for me." It will work just fine.

At-home wear is another area to explore. All kinds of robes and slippers from Terry to velvet are waiting to be snapped up. If you don't know the size you need, shop for the ones that come in "small," "medium" and "large." If you know the girl at all, you can't go too wrong.

The husband who plans to surprise his wife with the small fur she has wanted for years shouldn't do it.

Furs are an expensive and very personal gift and it would be better to let her choose her own. So check the desire to surprise her with the real animal pelt in a gift-wrapped package. A gift certificate will be a wiser choice.

The most difficult gift to buy is the "little something," — not expensive, just a thought. This calls for more imagination than most of us have during the holiday rush. But here are a few ideas:

You can buy a group of ball-point pens in several different colors. The tops and barrels are interchangeable so that every girl can have a coordinated ensemble every day, right down to her matching pen.

Attractive nylon holders for hair rollers, bath brushes and even just one cake of expensive soap make good small gifts.

WHAT'S HER DESIRE? — If she likes the glamor of swinging earrings and the heady scent of perfume, she can have both combined for Christmas in Hattie Carnegie perfumed earrings (top left). From Great Aunt Mary to sister Kate, you can't lose with a gift of a leather handbag. Country-city bag (lower left) is crafted of natural soft waxy leather in darkened brown. Trim is hammered brass. Caravalle pendant watches by Bulova make charming yule gifts. Watch (top right) looks just like a cameo. Perfume is always welcome especially when it's as delicate as Chantilly lace (lower right). And the small fur is the answer to a dream if it takes the shape of Fredrica's romantic triangle in Russian ermine framed with Aurora Chinchilla (far right).

BEWARE ALL SCROOGES! — The Plazer Ray Gun's Panoramic scope sight will seek out all holiday season dampeners. It sends a beam of light slowly sweeping out toward the target, giving off a high-frequency electronic sound. Then an instant Destruct trigger releases a cap-firing mechanism and flash effect in the sight — all taking place safely inside the gun. It also has a day or night Filter Control, plus a "Dial-a-Ray" Selector for a hot Red Rug Ruby, cold Blue Cobalt, or intense Solar Green Ray.

Movies and TV Inspire Toys

Bond, Batman, Plazer and Gators for Christmas? Yes, transistorized laser beams, air and land races, animal cut-ups and magic wizardry come in Santa's pack this year, according to Multiple Toy-makers Division of Lorai Corporation.

According to the manufacturer, the new toys range in appeal for boys and girls in the preschool through teen-age levels.

Highlights include: 5 new James Bond 007 toys being added to the Bond Shooting Attaché Case, so popular last year ... Batman bog bag.

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC — For the little miss is Gabriel's Magic Phono, a battery-powered transistor phonograph designed for the pre-school child. She simply puts a record into a slot and it plays automatically.

If he's insufferable, give him Accutron® and make him unbearable.

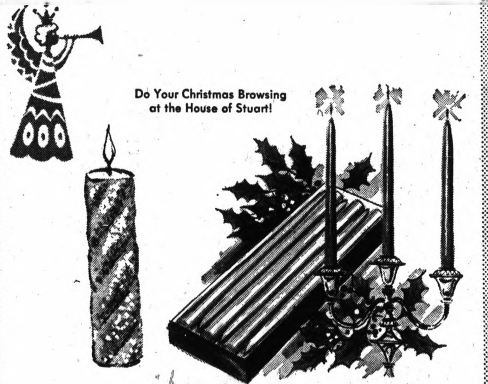

ACCUTRON "214". Stainless steel case, waterproof, applied markers on dial, alligator strap. $125.00.

Lively Puppy Makes an Ideal Holiday Gift

No Christmas stocking is complete without a bulge that wriggles and says "Woof!"

When you choose a Christmas puppy for Junior, however, be sure it is one that will be equally acceptable to Mother, Dad, and teen-age sister, says Bob Bartos, manager of Friskies Research Kennels.

If your heart is set on a purebred dog, choose the best kennel or breeder you can find, and check the pedigree and availability of registration and transfer of ownership papers.

Pet stores sell both purebred and mixed breed dogs.

If you are looking for a mixed breed, you may find just what you want at the Humane Society or an animal shelter.

(One complication in acquiring a pet of uncertain parentage is that it's impossible to predict the ultimate size, appearance, or other important characteristics of the full grown dog.)

Your veterinarian may also know of a puppy who needs you.

Wherever you find him, don't depend on the cute way he wags his tail as your only criterion of selection. Here are some more important points to keep in mind:

- Age: As close to 8 weeks as possible.
- Sex: A matter of personal preference. A boy-dog is usually more tractable, a bit neater in her personal habits, but does look for romance about twice a year.
- Health: Be sure he is clear-eyed, active, well-fed, that his coat looks cared for, that he has sturdy legs, good teeth with proper bite, and clean, firm gums. Beware of inflammation in ears, a drippy nose or eyes, and a listless manner. (And see that whatever puppy you choose has his shots and a check-up with the veterinarian as soon as possible.)

- Personality: A quiet, steady puppy with an outgoing, friendly curiosity will often make a better family pet than the more bold, barking type.

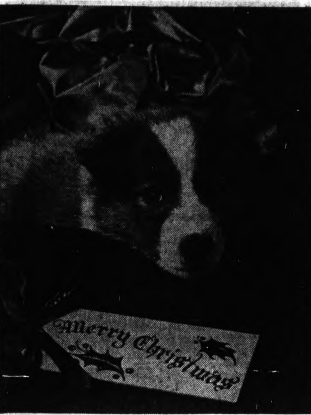

Don't take the dog that shows no interest in you or his brothers and sisters.

Before Master Fido joins the family on Christmas day (if you are smart you will bring him home a few days ahead of time), be sure he has his own house or box for sleeping — either for the house, garage, or out of doors.

Provide a collar (it doesn't have to have a name), leash, comb and brush to keep him well groomed, and his own feed pan and water dish.

If it occurs to you Christmas morning that acquiring a puppy is a little like preparing for a new child in the house, you are perfectly right. He is not a new football or set of golf clubs to stow in the corner when not in use. So don't forget the love.

FREE for the asking: "Care & Feeding of Puppies" — Write to: Friskies, Dept. SC-3 P.O. Box 540 Pico Rivera, Calif. 90660 Be sure to print name, address, with zip-code.

ADORABLE GIFT — But be sure you take several other factors into consideration. When choosing a puppy, select one that is as close to 8 weeks old as possible. A male dog is inclined to be more aggressive and to roam. A female is usually more tractable and a bit neater. Be sure the new pup is in good health, has sturdy legs, good teeth with proper bite, and clean, firm gums. Look for an all-around good appearance: Clear-eyed, active, well-fed and a coat that's handsome, due largely to proper diet.

GOING TO JOIN THE FAMILY? — If so, be sure to bring him home a few days in advance. Provide him with his own house or box for sleeping — either for the house, garage or out of doors. Make certain to buy a collar, leash, comb and brush to keep him well groomed, and his own feed-pan and water dish. And last but not least, lay in a good supply of top-quality canned or dry dog food.

Ranks of the WACs Slimmed Down

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — Next spring, the Women's Army Corps will celebrate its 25th year of service to a United States citizenry which, ironically, is apt to be very much surprised by the festivities.

Why surprised?

"Nobody," explains a WAC colonel, "knows we still exist."

To a great extent, she's correct. Born in patriotic necessity during World War II, the corps has shrunk from 100,000 to 10,000 members.

Rare is the lady lieutenant in uniform today who hasn't been mistaken for a meter maid.

EMBARRASSED
"I'm always embarrassed to ride in an airplane," says one sergeant. "Every time I get up from my seat, one of the passengers thinks I'm the stewardess and insists I fluff his pillow or something."

Moreover, even within the military fraternity itself the WAC has become something of an oddity . . . and, consequently, is seldom taken seriously.

Soldiers will salute a corps captain sharply and then wolf-whistle when she gets out of range.

One gag that is almost legend in the Army concerns the encounter of a WAC officer and an infantry enlisted man.

"GOOD MORNING," the soldier says.
"Oh, sorry," says the WAC, "I'm not miss," the WAC retorts huffily.

"No, it's major!"
"Good morning, Miss Major." Understandably, this army-mity is resented by those concerned.

And although the public utterances of the WAC command are stiff, polite and all that, the private opinion wonders aloud about the future of women in the armed services.

"My view," admits an officer, "is that we are not large enough to either lobby attention to our problems or to do the larger jobs we are capable of doing."

ADD TO NUMBERS
Her suggestion?
"Double or triple our numbers."

Her method?
"Draft women, what else?"

Such advice, however, is apparently not even being considered by either military or Selective Service officials.

The New York draft board says bluntly: "We have never conscripted women and we probably never will." Pentagon people, when asked about the possibility, merely shake their heads and chuckle.

And the WAC command itself has no official wish for compulsory service laws for ladies.

SHARP COMMENT
Corps director Col. Liz Holsington, 48, brushes the prospect aside with a proud and sharp comment: "We think it's better if all our girls are volunteers."

They are that now, of course, and always have been. It is an organizational point of pride that requirements are high.

Despite the fact the service continues to shrink (down 1,000 in five years), Col. Holsington believes that enlistment is now "comfortable" and that free-willed volunteers will continue to "do all of the chores" assigned the service.

"Really," she says, "we're very happy just as we are. We think we are doing a vital job."

We think our girls are educated and ambitious. And we think we can lick the world with this wonderful combination.

COL. LIZ HOLSINGTON

Plants Add Color, Aura to Holidays

Gifts of living plants add to the Christmas cheer of any household.

The traditional holiday favorite, of course, is the stately, luxurious poinsettia. Pairs of these lovely plants, with red and white flowers, make a happy holiday combination.

Kept out of drafts, in temperatures between 60 and 75 degrees, and given filtered sunlight, they will bloom throughout the holidays. It's important too, that the plants be in red clay pots that will drain off excess moisture from overwatering.

Another plant rapidly growing in popularity for Christmas giving is the Norfolk Island Pine. This symmetrical pine has a dignity uncommon to pines and does well as a house plant attaining a height of about three feet.

It is unique in that it is the only pine that will do well in doors if given partial sunlight, a cool location and moderately watered.

GIVE LIVE TREE
If you choose to give a live Christmas tree such as spruce, pine or hemlock, the little tree should be balled and burlaped.

In addition, you can help these trees survive the hot, dry air of today's homes if you keep your selection down to the size that will fit in a large 14- or 16-inch clay pot. With a half-inch of pebbles in a matching red clay saucer, you can water the pebble layer through the holidays and be sure that the plant will remain relatively cool and have adequate moisture.

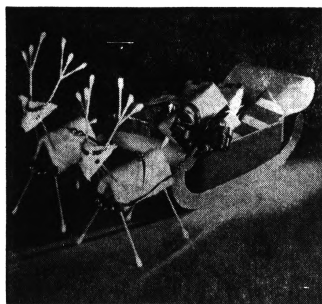

Podocarpus is another plant worth consideration as a Christmas gift. It's a yew-like evergreen shrub that grows slowly, but can grow to five feet or higher.

Such foliage plants as the "Star of Bethlehem" hanging vine; the lush, green Jade or Prayer plant (Maranta) and syngonium (green gold) are always-welcomed holiday additions to any house plant collection.

Other popular plant gifts plentiful at holiday time include the Christmas cactus, the Christmas begonia, Jerusalem cherry combination plants, specially grown for the season, eperonnies and succulents.

A number of year-round flowering plants can supplement your traditional gifts of poinsettias. Most popular favorites include clay-potted chrysanthemums, miniature roses, azaleas, African violets or perhaps a lovely cyclamen or anthurium plant.

Not Bottomless
Nearly six dollars a day, mostly pennies, is tossed into the "Bottomless Pit" at Carlsbad Caverns by visitors, to be retrieved later by 6 rangers.

SNOW-ANTLERED — These reindeer have already arrived for the Christmas party pulling a sleigh piled with a little gift for each guest. And, Santa's helpers make an attractive centerpiece for any party table. Easy to make, too. Use colored paper, cotton batting, ribbon, cotton swabs, odds and ends of beads, half a medium-size box and some glue. To make the reindeer, bend a square of cotton batting and cut out a triangle for the face. Glue the antlers made of cotton swabs in place as shown. Legs are four cotton swabs glued to the cotton batting. Decorate reindeer with ribbons and bells, then construct the sleigh out of a box and colored paper. Pile in the gifts and have fun!

DOUBLE PLAY — A good deal of pleasure is packed in this Four-Pack Gift Set containing two double packs of playing cards with Cel-U-Tone finish. The cards are nestled in a velour and French gray satin-lined Leathertex case with golden metal trim. Its lid is embossed with four attractive gold playing card pips. Because the card divider inside is removable, the case is reusable if desired for jewelry, cigarettes, as a change caddy or for hosiery storage.

Holiday Time Is Bad Period for Litterbugs

An estimated 400 million pounds of wrapping paper, boxes, ribbon and tags will delight litterbugs on Christmas morning.

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of Keep America Beautiful, Inc., notes that most people properly dispose of gift wrappings, but too many are careless.

That not only creates unsightly litter but is a major fire hazard in the home and can cause accidents on streets and highways.

Mr. Seed lists four basic steps to brighten the holidays by eliminating litter:

- Refrain from littering streets and stores when Christmas shopping.

DISCARD WRAPPINGS

- Place discarded wrappings in proper rubbish receptacles as soon as presents are opened.

- Store reusable decorations and wrapping materials safely so they won't become a fire hazard.

- Don't dump old Christmas trees and wreaths in the street, a vacant lot or back yard. If in doubt about how to get rid of them, check with your local department.

MARKET MESS — A jumbled array of mixed food scraps was left in a supermarket in Minneapolis, Minn., yesterday when a gravel truck hit the building and crashed through the roof of food. A customer and an employee suffered minor injuries.

Navy Families Can Celebrate

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Thanksgiving will be a particularly happy time for 3,000 Navy families across the country.

The aircraft carrier Intrepid arrived home Wednesday for a joyful greeting by wives, children, parents and friends.

But five of the 3,000 men who left for Vietnam on the Intrepid did not return.

As the carrier sailed out port, sailors held up cards of greeting that spelled out: "Would you believe 75,000 miles?" That's the distance the carrier had traveled since leaving Norfolk April 4.

After the gangplank was lowered, Mary Yannacone of Minneapolis, Minn., threw her arms around her son, Seamus Arthur Yannacone, 20.

Tears streamed from her eyes and she kissed his cheek. "Oh, Arthur," she cried. "Oh, Mom, don't. I'm here now," he said.

Many Are Sort of Trivial

New Laws Not All 'Big Deals'

By JOHN BECKER (AP)

WASHINGTON (AP) — With all the talk about the "Great Society," one might think Congress did nothing but work on President Johnson's legislative program.

Nothing, as a final tabulation of the Congress' activities shows, could be further from the truth.

Where, for example, do the bills proclaiming Youth Temperance Week (fourth week in April), International Literacy Day (Sept. 8) and Gas Industry Week (June 13-19) fit into the "Great Society"?

And should Johnson get credit for enactment of the bills naming the Bert Doshack Lock on the Florida Barge Canal and the Fritz Garland Lanham Building in Fort Worth?

How ABOUT IT?

Or how about the bill entitling Illinois to representation on the Legislative mill can grind exceedingly small. Thanks to the 88th Congress, there are new public laws proclaiming Sir Winston Churchill Day, National Ski Week and American History Month.

Metals have been struck by act of Congress for the 50th anniversary of the Federal Land Bank System, the 75th anniversary of the American Numismatic Association and the 50th anniversary of San Antonio, Tex.

MORE INDIANS

The Nocksk Indians were enshrined in the legislative embrace of the 88th Congress. So were the Quillees, the Otos, the Duwamish and the Skokomish.

It spread its favors from Maine to authorizing conveyance of certain lands in Maine to the Mt. Desert Island regional school district, to California in removing a restriction on certain real property heretofore conveyed to the state.

And from Florida in conveying certain property in Pinellas County for recreational purposes to Washington in establishing the Pig War National Historical Park.

Indeed, when one looks at the record of the 88th Congress, it's a wonder if you get around to the "Great Society" at all.

Nine Hospitalized by 5 Area Crashes

At least nine persons were hospitalized last night and early today from injuries received in five separate area traffic accidents.

Four Detroit youths were injured when their car ran off the road, traveled 775 feet over a ditch and slammed into trees on Middle Belt Road south of Long Lake Road in West Bloomfield Township at about 4:30 a.m. today.

Listed in serious condition in Pontiac General Hospital is 18-year-old Jerome Moore. The driver, Gregory Galanek, 18, Martin Degan, 18, and Ronald Galanek, 18, are all in fair condition.

All four were thrown from the car, according to sheriff's deputies.

A man and a woman were injured seriously when their car collided head-on at Walton Boulevard and Silver Lake Road in Waterford Township just before 5 this morning.

SUFFERING INJURIES
Ronald R. Cuduhovsky, 22, of 7220 Ida Terrace, Waterford Township, sustained chest contusions and facial lacerations, according to officials at Pontiac General Hospital.

Receiving scalp lacerations and possible internal injuries was Virginia M. Smith, 38, of 3965 Dill, Waterford Township.

Another head-on crash on Pontiac Trail near Ladd Road in Walled Lake resulted in the hospitalization of a 24-year-old woman.

lacerations is Janice Kinson of 1245 Laura Lane, Walled Lake.

In HOSPITAL
Walled Lake police said the other driver, Charlotte Weborg, 28, of 204 N. Wixom, Wixom, was sent to Bloomington Hospital in Farmington Township.

Injured last night in a one-car accident on Dauner Road at Edley Lake Road in Holly Township was Mark C. Freeman, 16, of 825 Milford, Milford.

A passenger in a car driven by Allen L. Pennell, 21, of 414 Lakeville, Oxford Township, he is listed in satisfactory condition in Flint's McLaren Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Pennell lost control of his car which went off the road.

Also injured last night following a two-car accident on Opdyke near Featherstone in Pontiac Township was Evan H. Davies, 27, of 811 Pensacola.

He is listed in fair condition with multiple lacerations at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The other driver was Helen Pierce, 52, of 3435 Parkland, Pontiac Township, according to sheriff's deputies.

Victim Identified

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Authorities have identified the victim of a twin-engine plane crash off the Grand Bahamas Tuesday as Marcia Donnelly, about 22, of Hialeah, Fla. Al Ackerman, 22, pilot of the craft owned by the Kellogg Co. of Battle Creek, survived the accident.

Film Lovely Gives Answer for NY's Financial Woes

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Ingber Stevens is such a dynamic, imaginative, independent-thinking blonder that she took one look at New York City's financial problem . . . and solved it.

So here it is, Mayor Lindsay. She said it could tell you.

"Convert the World's Fair grounds into big indoor and outdoor movie studios and companies from all over the world would come here and pay big rent to film here. Then the Mayor wouldn't have to raise taxes." "Oh, he'd find a reason," spoke up a Democrat . . . a Democratic cigarette smoker.

Inger got this positively brilliant idea while she and Don Murray were filming "The Borgia Stick," mostly in Riverdale, which is New York's way out.

One day she began rambling about New York City's financial potential while also rambling about the fact that New York City, which claims to have everything, doesn't have one thing that it needs a lot of: powder rooms.

"We had two portable powder rooms for the company and that wasn't really enough," Inger said.

"We were up in this nice residential area of Riverdale, and what were we going to do for powder rooms? Portable powder rooms are always not working, it seems to me."

So Inger got to thinking, where could New York City install powder rooms?

"The World's Fair grounds, of course," Inger thought. "You could have acres and acres of powder rooms. Forty thousand acres of powder rooms!"

"Of course," she had to admit, "there are some people who wouldn't want to go all the way to the World's Fair to go to the powder room. And besides, maybe Bob Moses wouldn't allow it. So just build a few Johns and use the rest for movie studios."

Well, that's so much constructive thinking for one day that I'm tired already. Inger's company, filming a picture to be shown on NBC-TV first and then released to theaters, found that a big historic house they were using in Riverdale was terribly popular with movie people.

"Jane Russell's picture company used the same house—in fact, I was involved in a death plot in the picture, and I escaped just in time for Jane's company to move in."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "I worry about women who wear wigs, false eyelashes and padded bras, and complain there are no real men around."—George Kaye, on Merv Griffin's.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Try praising your wife, even if it does frighten her at first."—Billy Sunday.

EARL'S PEARLS: Charlotte Hollicker knows a town so small, the church steeple bell goes "Ding."

In "Don't Drink the Water," Kay Medford explains why she hasn't told her husband the escape plan from behind the Iron Curtain: "You know how he hates to take me anywhere."

... That's earl, brother.

Boy's Leg Broken in Road Mishap

A 4-year-old boy suffered a broken leg yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a car in front of his home in Pontiac. Listed in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital is Boyd R. Cooper of 817 St. Clair.

The driver, Jerry L. Brooks, 24, of 154 Lincoln, told police that the youngster ran into the street from between parked cars.

Children Blamed in Home Blaze

Children playing with matches were blamed by Pontiac firemen for a fire yesterday afternoon that caused an estimated $3,500 damage to the home of Henry Smith, 365 S. Marshall. The fire started in a bedroom closet at the rear of the two-story frame house, according to firemen. They estimated damage to the building at $2,000, and $1,500 to the contents.

CHRISTMAS FANTASYLAND

Santa is Coming to the Mall Tomorrow at 12 Noon

TELEGRAPH AT ELIZABETH LAKE ROAD

Boys' Club Christmas Is Rewarding

In over seven hundred Boys' Clubs, Christmas celebrations are now in order. And you're invited!

The clubs that mean so much to thousands of future citizens also mean a great deal to their communities. Boys' Clubs of America are dedicated to keeping youngsters on the path of juvenile decency. They substitute teams for gangs, fun for fights. They offer their members an outlet for endless energy and wide-ranging interests. Also, there is always at least one adult on hand who understands and is ready to listen.

A Christmas call at a Boys' Club is a rewarding experience for any adult. But it can be a trifle exhausting. Clubs are not quiet. Boys are not quiet. Clubs are not always neat and tidy. Neither are boys. Clubhouses fairly burst with excitement, fun, activity — and noise.

If you can hear a few statistics above the din, you will be impressed: Boys' Clubs have turned out millions (that's right, millions) of fine citizens over the past century.

MORE THAN 700,000

Right now they are serving more than 700,000 deserving youngsters. Hundreds of boys have received advanced education under club scholarships and grants.

Ninety-eight per cent of the young members volunteer to help on civic or patriotic projects. And crime rate for juveniles goes down when a club enters a community.

Give your local Club a chance to show you what it is doing for your boys. You may even want to go back as a volunteer. You'll be welcome!

Pine Cones, Oil Santa's Helpers

Need a Santa's helper this Christmas? Try products from the pine tree. For example, a giant pine cone can be turned into the world's smallest Christmas tree.

Just mount an 8-12 inch pine cone on a piece of plastic foam, decorate as you would a tree but with sequins and glitter glued on the cone edges. Top off with a star.

On the practical side, use a pine oil cleaner to banish crushed candy cane, spilled food, and turkey grease from the holiday scene.

The pulp and paper industry earmarked $75 million in 1965 for new products research, to improve manufacturing processes and find new uses for existing products. Research allocations have almost doubled in the past decade.

Holiday Hints on Lights, Tree

There is no doubt about it, evergreens and the entire garden appear much more attractive when the Christmas lights are on. The reason is that darkness blots out unsightly areas. But the bulbs should be placed so that they do not touch the needles of the evergreens and one should check the position of them each day. Winds may shift them out of position.

Just before setting up the tree, saw off the trunk at an angle at least one inch above the original cut. Place tree in water, making sure that the level of water is above cut at all times.

Make sure the tree is well supported and is placed away from sources of heat such as fireplaces or radiators and where it will not block any exits in case of fire.

New Topping

For an original topping to your Christmas package, tie tiny pine cones and sprigs of plastic pins to a big red bow. Pine adds an original touch to place cards for your holiday party.

With Murals, Plants

Give Hallway a Fresh Touch

This year how about giving a present that's different — look for your home before the recipient and yet extend a welcome to all who visit him too? Here's the answer for not one, but two gifts which fit this category: a bright new trimmed and pasted wallpaper mural for an entrance hall and shiny fresh leafy plants in clay pots to enhance the mural.

Entrance halls, especially those on the small side, are often the duller rooms in a home or apartment. This is easy to remedy, since a small area is relatively inexpensive and easy to decorate.

All it takes is a bit of imagination. In a small room, two things are very important in getting a larger effect — light and color. In this case, fresh plants and an illusion of distance. If the room is dark, Chesapeake or perhaps "Atchafalaya" are even more important.

If your entrance hall is dull and drab, why not surprise the rest of the family on Christmas Eve or Christmas morning with a wallpaper mural and beautiful plants? We'll bet that when the "do-it-yourselfer" in the family reads the easy how-to-hang instructions, you'll have a new turkey on the table. This would make a lovely "family" gift for close friends and relatives, too.

"Spanish Courtyard" is just one of several packaged murals you can buy. This particular one comes in several color combinations and is very much in vogue with today's emphasis on Mediterranean interiors.

If this theme would not be appropriate to the person or the home you have in mind, select a mural with an entirely different feeling.

You might choose "Pebble Beach," "Alpine," "Tropic Sands," "On the Riviera," "Old Tance. If the room is dark, Chesapeake" or perhaps "Atchafalaya." You can strike many a different mood with a wallpaper mural. In this case, fresh plants in clay pots emphasize the garden-like atmosphere created by the mural.

Prices for these welcome gifts range from about twenty-three to forty-five dollars.

Angelic Notes Come From 'Wild Indians'

WASHINGTON (AP)—"I can't believe such lovely sounds can come from that band of wild Indians."

The "wild Indians" are the youngest members of the world-famous Choir of Men and Boys at the Washington National Cathedral.

The man who called them that was a visitor who had just watched them at horseplay in a Cathedral courtyard, wrestling, running — and whooping.

The horseplay stopped at the beckoning of the choirmaster, and the boys trooped indoors and began to pour out notes with angelic voices.

Two men are credited with making the choir famous. They are Paul Callaway, organist and choirmaster at the Cathedral, and David Koehring, his assistant.

HISTORY OF CHOIR

A Cathedral spokesman provided a wide range of information on how members of the choir are trained, and related some of its history:

"For 30 years music by the choir has been carried on nationwide networks — in the early years by radio and more recently by national television."

"Each Christmas, for the past few years, the Cathedral's service of Lessons and Carols is telecast all over the country."

"The real difficulty is obtaining and training boy sopranos who can sing difficult passages."

REACH PEAK

After such boys are found, and reach the peak of vocal clarity about their third year with the choir, their voices begin to change. As a result, about 10 of the choir's 30 boys must be replaced each year.

"The boys are selected in auditions of third grade pupils in both private and public schools throughout the Washington area."

After they have been carefully screened by Dr. Callaway, the most talented are recommended for testing at the Cathedral's St. Albans School for boys. Those showing the highest personal, scholastic and musical aptitudes are then granted vacant choir boy scholarships to the school.

"The life of the choir boy is not easy. Because St. Albans school prepares its young men for entrance into college, it is primarily interested in graduating educated students rather than singers."

HIGH STANDARDS

"For this reason, not only must the choir boys meet the traditionally high standards of education at the school, but they must give up some 15 hours a week to rehearse and sing for Cathedral services."

"Despite this heavy schedule, many of the boys are active in school athletics, class activities, and additional musical studies."

"There is no breaking-in period for new choir members. They must sing the service on the first Sunday following the opening of school. Thus, these nine-and-ten-year-olds are immediately confronted with the most complex music."

Discipline is strict. Lateness at rehearsals is particularly frowned on. A favorite story in choir circles goes like this:

QUESTIONED

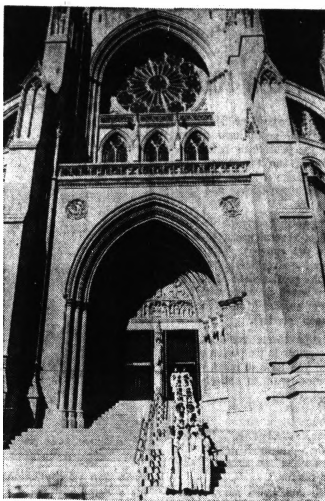

A tardy boy is asked: "Smith, why are you late?"

"Sir, Mother forgot to pick me up in time."

"No excuse, Smith. Copy psalm 130 four times and bring it to the Friday."

Smith will leave feeling indignant with his mother, and she won't be late again.

In fact, it is said, she may even write the psalm—which has amused the choirmasters on several occasions.

IMPRESSIVE ARCH — The arch of Washington National Cathedral's South Transept frames the Cathedral Choir of Men and Boys. For 30 years music by the choir has been carried on nationwide radio and television networks.

IN REHEARSAL—The boy sopranos of Washington National Cathedral's Choir of Men and Boys lift their voices in rehearsal. The boys are all students at the Cathedral's St. Alban's School for Boys.

A lovely gift of jewelry for a sweet-sixteen is a pretty lock-et or pendant — a "something special" Christmas gift that is so popular with teen-agers.

Eve's Apple Tree Started It All

By LYNN SHERR
What did Adam and Eve have to do with the Christmas tree? Everything. And nothing. Chalk it up to medieval custom if you like, but the same apple tree that caused all the trouble in Eden is said to be the forerunner of our Christmas tree.

They usually centered around Paradise and the apple that Eve gave to Adam. The plays were presented around Christmas time; the tree with the apples stood in the background. Thus, the earliest association of a tree with the Christmas holiday.

Gradually, any fir tree hung with apples took on significance.

It stood for immortality because it was ever green; it stood for religion because of the apples. In its first home, Germany, it was called the Paradise Tree.

OBJECTS D'ART

The custom spread to Italy and England, picking up lights and ornaments along the way. Tiny creches, candles and other objects d'art began to appear on the boughs. Soon, they had replaced the apples entirely.

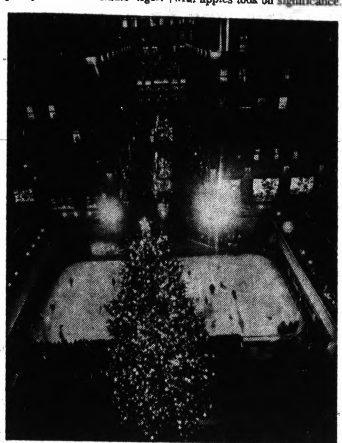

Across the ocean the new symbol of Christmas flourished. Tradition has it that the Hessian soldiers, homesick for Germany, set up Christmas trees during our Revolutionary War.

At least one source credits George Washington's victory at Trenton to the Christmas tree—for the German mercenaries were celebrating around the tree that cold night when the colonial soldiers attacked.

By the early 1800s, the Christmas tree had come to stay. One popular magazine described "trees visible through the windows, whose green boughs are laden with fruit" at the holiday season.

In individual homes, in New York's Rockefeller Center, on Christmas cards and in popular magazines—wherever it is found the Christmas tree today is a sturdy symbol of all that is good and cheerful and warm about the holiday.

And, like everything else, it all started in Eden.

FAMOUS TREE — From its great height New York's Rockefeller Center tree overlooks the skating rink and Channel Gardens.

New Toys, Twists... Easy Formula to Keep Tree Green, Pliable and New Prices

There are new toys and new twists on old toys that will undoubtedly intrigue your children this year. But beware, toys are going to cost more. Manufacturers are raising prices to cover the cost of labor, packaging and materials. A miniature car that cost 49 cents last Christmas may cost 55 this year.

Another factor in raising your toy bill is that toys have more working parts and are made of better materials. Dolls talk and many toys are musical.

Last year there was a run on miniature ovens that really bake. This year there is a chocolate factory, a soda fountain, a dairy stand, and a set to make your own bubble gum. Many board games are mechanized and use your child's skills.

Some toys are just plain expensive. Slot racing sets cost $15 and up and are scale models of Detroit test tracks or Le Mans. One company has a model that would fill half a basement.

Error by Monk

During the sixth century a learned Roman monk made an error in calculating the date of Jesus' birth. Now that more information has come to light, it is believed Christ was born between 7 B.C. and 4 B.C.

Oh, George, you just knocked the needles off the Christmas tree. It's not really George's fault, ma'am. Maybe you should know that now there is a formula that will double the life of your tree. It will also, by keeping the needles green and pliable, reduce the possibilities of fire. This formula was developed by a nationally known florist:

1 cup horticultural iron concentrate (available at florists, garden supply and hardware stores)
1 gallon hot water
2 cups light corn syrup
4 teaspoons chlorinated household bleach

Mix horticultural iron concentrate with hot water. Stir in corn syrup and chlorinated household bleach. The horticultural iron concentrate does not completely dissolve; with particles that settle at the bottom.

Saw about one inch from the bottom of the tree trunk to remove any clotted resins and to level the base. Pound or smash the base of the trunk with a hammer to crush the fibers.

Stand the tree in a holder large enough to take one gallon of fluid, and pour in the solution. Add warm tap water daily as needed, to keep the holder filled.

FOR SWEETHEARTS — Unusual bridal shower provides newlyweds with a sweetheart chest filled with sheets and towels and kitchen needs. Bridal Christmas party gives friends and relatives a chance to be inventive.

Wedding Shower Gifts Harmonize With Season

NEW YORK (NEA) — The at shower time to help fill in bride's Christmas stocking is with meaningful essentials. Taking on a new shape. With the Storage is a big problem no holiday season running neck-matter the size home a young and-neck with June as a favor-couple will have. A decorative it time for nuptials, brides and item for the home to add more brides-to-be find their gift show-space is a sweetheart chest ers full of surprises.

Wedding gifts, studies show, amount to just over $1,000 and a couple invests several thousands of dollars more establishing their household.

They'll need some help, even though the couple will spend more than $1,100 for furniture in spite of the gifts. The study by a national bedding manufacturer (Sealy) proves a help to those in a quandary over what type gift couples really want. Number one choice is bedroom furniture, followed by linens, living room furniture, refrigerator, car, washer, dinette set, television, radio and rugs.

It isn't up to friends to dole out large chunks of cash for one keep a list to avoid duplicate gifts. Those who do want cards. Dress these in a special to say "congratulations and a Santa's pack to present to a happy home" can get together very lucky bride.

NOT DANGEROUS — This is one porcupine she can get close to. Handmade by Steiff of mohair plush, this gentle animal is in a natural brown color with white tipped quills.

Rush Hours at Stores Ahead

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

A weary dime store clerk in Portland, Ore., goes through the counter helping an 8-year-old boy find something for her mother — for less than $1.

In New York, a slinky blonde of models a full length mink coat for a man sipping martinis.

It is the rush before Christmas; everywhere from the bargain basements to the haute couture salons, as cash registers jingle merrily.

There are glad tidings for retailors with sales running into billions of dollars.

For the toy people, the record makers, the lingerie set, the apparel manufacturers, the perfume companies and many others, it is the biggest season of the year, and each year it gets bigger.

SPECIAL SHOPPERS

Many stores have hired special shoppers to handle the lists of those with few ideas but more money.

In recent years, the women's specialty stores have added Men Only clubs and lounges to help red-faced males through the fluff.

For those who can't face the crowds, there are Christmas catalogs — selling everything from kitchen gadgets to Chinese junk.

Officially, the shopping season begins the day after Thanksgiving.

There are those who brag they finished their shopping before Labor Day, but late in December you never would know it in the stores.

Silver Thimble

The gentle and ladylike art of sewing and embroidering can be made extremely attractive to a favorite little girl if the reward is a silver thimble for her first successful try.

As she gets better, she may receive a coveted gold thimble as a sign of her accomplishment.

Personal Charms

Those endearing young charms... Charms are an easy way to give your gift that "personal touch" this Christmas.

Scandinavian Import Store Offers Unusual Ornaments

By MARY SCHURZ

If the decorations on this year's Christmas tree look good enough to eat, they might be. Or nearly. They might, for instance, be crocheted snowflakes, dipped and starched in sugar, or gaily decorated angels made of bread dough.

Both ornaments are offered this season by a well known Scandinavian import store, in New York City as part of a growing trend in Christmas tree decoration — use of folk art.

"About 95 per cent of our ornaments are hand-crafted," said Silg Skoglund, who heads the store's ornament department. "They are made of every conceivable material."

The store draws on the native skills of artists in 37 countries in addition to the United States for its display.

Whether they are owls made out of pinecones, stained glass stars in leaded frames, or chunky balsa Santa Claus mobiles, the ornaments have become increasingly in demand, Skoglund noted, adding that a number of out of state customers annually send him checks for fixed amounts, requesting only a representative selection of ornaments.

SUPPLY ON THE RISE
Happily, the supply of decorations is as much on the rise as the demand. Skoglund said he adds the work of at least 15 new American craftsmen and women to his stock each year. The ornaments are made by people of varying backgrounds—housewives, working girls, schoolgirls, hospital patients, in addition to artists.

Skoglund had received hand-painted stockings and paper tree mobiles from a nurse in Texas, airy threaded balls from a doctor's wife in Rhode Island, fused glass ornaments from a Connecticut woman who formerly taught at the

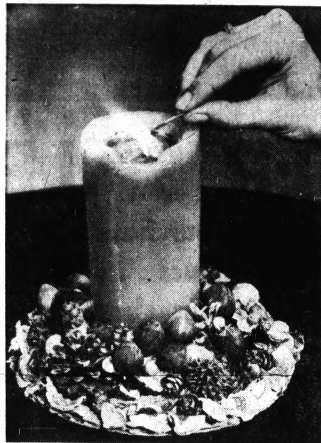

HOUSEHOLD GUARDIAN
This gnome-like figure is a Swedish Jultomten. They were carved during long winter nights and acted as household guardians.

Museum of Modern Art in New York, lace and paper angels made by a group of women in Schenectady to support the local art museum.

In Skoglund's native Sweden, ornaments are made as therapy by patients in hospitals for the disabled and distributed for sale here by an organization formed to revive folk art in that country.

Carving of Jultomten — gnome-like figures popular as Swedish household guardians — was once a national pastime to fill the long cold winters. More recently it has fallen into disfavor with the younger population who seek more lucrative enterprises, Skoglund said.

FOLK ORNAMENTS
The folk ornaments can be as delicate as the Swiss blown glass balls through which glass threads have been drawn, as natural as Mexican burlap and rope angels, as ornate as the embroidered peacocks from Taiwan, as simple as Scandinavian straw birds, as ingenious as reindeer molded of excelsior. Some are musical, others have movable parts.

SYMBOLIC — The meaning of the Christmas candle is derived from medieval times. It symbolizes Christ as the light of the world. The homemade candle base, which is made from materials gathered in woods and meadows, is a thoughtful way to wish someone a happy Christmas.

Make One Yourself

Candle Part of Yule

Candles are as much a part of Christmas as trees and wreaths. You can make this lovely forest candle yourself; all it needs is a little patience.

OVERLAP
First, collect small and medium-sized cones, small dried pods, filberts, acorns, burrs, straw flowers, or any dried woody material.

Second, buy a tall candle, 2½ inches in diameter. (Pistachio nuts look beautiful with a red candle.)

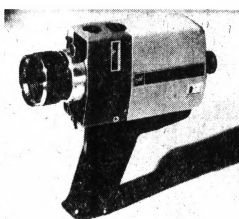

Third, cut a 7-inch circle of heavy corrugated cardboard. Center the candle on the circle and pencil a line around it. This shows where to stop when mounding the dried material.

Fourth, put the candle aside.

In 1965, the U.S. tourists spent $1.8 billion more overseas than foreign tourists spent while visiting in the United States.

Plants Need Loving Care

Poinsettia Is Favorite in Many Countries

Christmas decorations seem incomplete without a pot or two of colorful poinsettias. But what do you do with them and other Christmas-flowering plants during and after the holidays?

POINSETTIA: Discovered by Dr. Joel Roberts Poinsett in Mexico during the early 1800s, the plant the Mexicans call Flor de Noche Buena (Flower of the Blessed Night) has become one of our most popular and well-known plants.

A poinsettia is not the easiest plant to grow, but it will respond to good care. Fill a shallow container with pebbles and add enough water to be level with the pebbles. Puncture the florist's foil at the pot drainage hole and set the plant on the pebbles. Keep the plant moist but not soggy, watering both pebbles and plant with lukewarm water.

The poinsettia is extremely sensitive to temperature change so keep it out of drafts and in a room whose temperature range is 60 degrees to 75 degrees. Set it back from the window at night.

After blooming is over, put the plant in a cool basement, watering lightly once a week. When all danger of frost is past, cut dormant canes back to about six inches. Repot in soil rich in organic matter and sink the pot in a sunny spot in your garden.

ROCKS UNDER POT

Put rocks under the pot so that roots don't grow from the drainage hole. Water and feed regularly. In July or August prune it into shape. (You can root the cut pieces to start new plants.)

In early fall, bring the poinsettia indoors and put it in a sunny window. Poinsettias need long nights to flower properly. If it is in a room used in the evening, put a paper bag over the plant at dusk and remove it in the early morning.

CHRISTMAS CACTUS: This plant, if well grown, will live for years. In fact, it can become a family heirloom, passed on from generation to generation. With its delicate rose flowers drooping from jointed stems, Christmas cactus requires a minimum of conscientious care.

Make sure the plant is potted in rich well-drained, slightly acid soil. Place it in a cool, airy room of 55 degrees, light but shaded from midday sun, and most important, keep it away from drafts.

LET PLANT DRY

Water when the soil is dry to the touch, just enough to run out of the drainage hole. When blooming stops, gradually withhold water until plant is dry. In late spring, place it in a cool, shady spot in your garden, moistening the soil occasionally.

In early fall, long before frost, the plant should be brought indoors. When buds begin forming again, start watering it regularly, applying a soluble fertilizer bi-weekly.

Like the poinsettia, Christmas cactus needs long nights to flower properly.

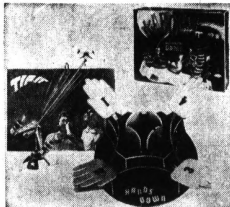

JERUSALEM CHERRY; this and other fruit-bearing miniature plants such as dwarf lemons and oranges, like sun and a cool temperature, approximately 45 degrees. Keep the soil uniformly moist. During the summer, sink plants to rim of pot in your garden and feed them regularly. Bring them indoors before first frost in the fall.

OLD FRIENDS — MODERN DRESS — Cheerful tearful (left) is the first doll with a changeable facial expression. Raise her left arm and she smiles. Lower it and she pouts. She is 13 inches tall and dressed in a pink water-repellent flannel robe. She cries real tears and wets her diaper, too. Christopher Robin (right) is out of the Walt Disney movie version of Winnie-the-Pooh. With him comes a vinyl Winnie-the-Pooh perched on a tree limb and a record of songs from the film.

THE THINGMAKER — Make-and-play toys are enjoying popularity since last year. Newest is the thingmaker featuring Creepie People. This electric heating unit heats a plastic liquid called plastigoo that is poured into a mold. After the mold forms the plastic into a head, feet and arms, the object is coiled, decorated and then attached to a pencil or stick. This is by Mattel. Enamee chocolate factory (right) produces lip-smacking chocolate bars and holiday bonbons. Tasty favors are added to a chocolate base which is heated over an electric light bulb-heated cooker.

'66 Invasion

Toys Become Automated

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise
Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — When spacemen invade your home on Christmas, toy battlemens throw hand grenades across the breakfast table, a Molotov cocktail lands on the roast turkey and Susie's new doll wets the living room couch, just take an aspirin and resign yourself to Toyland '66.

There's no point in looking back with nostalgia to your own doll that didn't do anything or dad's electric trains. Toys, like fashions, bear the stamp of the era in which we live.

Space suits are simply up-to-date "dress-up" toys. Dad had his cowboy outfit. Greenades and Molotov cocktails are more in keeping with the times than a musket would be. And you wouldn't want an inadequately equipped toy soldier around.

How can a cap gun compare in efficiency with a ray gun? And as for dolls — why have one that just lies around like a lump when you can get one that cries, wets, pouts, teethes or frigs? You can even find one that asks questions in case you don't get enough trouble of that kind from the kids.

The doll crop this season boasts the "realer-than-real" doll. Claimed most realistic is a teething baby with a miserable expression, showing her first tooth.

SMILES, POUTS, CRIES

Cheerful Tearful, another new comer, has changeable facial expressions. She smiles, pouts and cries real tears.

There's a whole new group of Mary Poppins-inspired character dolls and literature is represented by a Winnie-the-Pooh series and a Little Women group.

Even our old friend, Raggedy Ann, has been treated to new printed flannel pajamas and matching cap.

Among the stuffed toys is Dursley Turtle, designed for a child to sit astride or use as a pillow. There's a stuffed frog that frugs and he has a stuffed pig friend that polkas. A puppet version of Soupy Sales does the mouse.

TOYS REALLY WORK

Most of the homemaking toys for this season really work. Vacuum cleaners clean up, laundry equipment washes and dries and an "easy bake" oven produces its own honey cakes.

Municipal services are on an upswing in popularity in the truck sector of toyland. A new fire rescue truck of heavy gauge steel has a turbine cab and a round attachment which, without batteries, simulates the purr of a giant motor.

Laughter takes the spotlight in the game sector of Santa's workshop this year, based on the theory that kids need relaxation from the rigors of homework just as dad does from his job.

In another era if Johnny was tired from doing homework his mother would have felt he was also too tired to play games. But we live today. A card game, just for laughs is played in a saucer-shaped playing area flanked by 3D birds.

MOST STRENUOUS

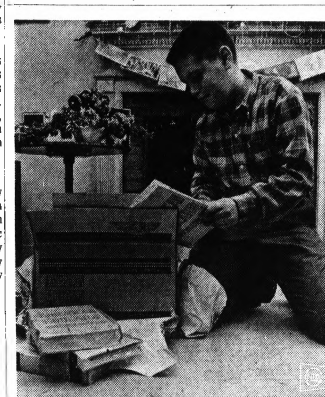

Most strenuous of the new laugh provokers is Twister, a frenetic action game played in stacking feet on a large plastic mat where the players literally tie themselves into knots as they follow spinner directions on how to place their arms and legs.

New, too, on the game scene is Goldfinger, played on a base that is a replica of Fort Knox, and Chicken Out, a competitive game keyed to tweaking the tail of a plastic chicken.

Two additions to the "make-and-play" toy category are Creeper People with its own Thingmaker in which imaginative boys and girls can make all sorts of weird-looking fluorescent creatures and a Chocolate Factory that makes real chocolate.

PADDY WAGON — Municipal services are in big favor in toyland's truck parade this Christmas. Here a young policeman directs a new police emergency truck. A bell rings as the truck is moved. Side and back doors open. A side ladder attaches to the extension ladder for rescue work. There is a simulated dome light as well as a hose and reel.

A FOURTH 'R' — Today's students and their parents have added a fourth "R" — research — to the traditional reading, riting and rithmetic. And the best single source for research is the encyclopedia. Experts at Tangley Oaks Educational Center in Lake Bluff, Ill., recommend the encyclopedia as an ideal Christmas gift for all youngsters from fourth grade up.

CALIENTE PARTY — This little girl is one of thousands of Tijuana's poor who celebrate Christmas gifts at Caliente Race Track's annual party.

Tijuana Holds Party for Poor

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Streaming from cardboard, tin and mud shacks, thousands of Tijuana's poorest gather each year to celebrate Christmas. Shoeless children, mothers with babies, the blind, the crippled, the elderly start arriving at Caliente Race Track even before dawn.

From noon until after dark the impoverished Mexicans receive a shopping bag of food per family, and each child receives a toy. Some families get no further than a few hundred yards from the exit before they sit to eat from the bag.

In order to get one of the almost 20,000 tickets a family has to be among the most destitute of Tijuana's poor. It is not unusual to see very large families at the party, for everyone knows that parents who get no ticket send their children along with those who do.

But no one asks questions. When the families with tickets have gone through the line, the food and gifts are passed out until there are no more. Even so, thousands more wait outside hoping.

"We simply never can take care of them all," John Alessio, director of the track, said last year. But each year for the past 19 years he has been trying. Why does he do it? The party cost him more than $50,000 last year.

Dolls Have Relatives Hundreds of Years Old

By ELIZABETH BASSETT
Some of the newest dolls under the Christmas tree this year have relatives hundreds of years old.

Greek and Roman girls played with their clay dolls until shortly before marriage. Then, to show they were no longer interested in childish things, the dolls were given to the goddess of unmarried girls. Girls in ancient Crete played with dolls beautifully dressed in the fashion of the day.

Fashion dolls were first used in France about 600 years ago. These large "fashion babies" (the word "doll" came into being around 1750) were sent abroad to show the latest French styles.

Only the rich could afford these dolls, and kings and queens sent them to one another. Later on, the arrival of fashion dolls in the American colonies caused a great stir. Newspapers would announce their arrival and how much it would cost to see them.

Most early Americans could not afford imported dolls, so they were too expensive to be played with. So the early settlers whittled dolls from wood or cut them from cloth and dressed them like their owners.

A more recent cloth doll, or rag doll, is the now classic Raggedy Ann. She and her brother, Raggedy Andy, haven't changed much since their introduction in 1914. They still have stringy red hair, but their candy hearts have been replaced by music boxes.

Until about 1870 most dolls looked like serious adults. Because it was the fashion for women to have small feet, doll feet were too small for their bodies.

Only a few dolls were made to look like children. Their heads were made of earthenware and papier mache which broke, or wax which cracked in cold weather and melted in hot.

Baby dolls became more and more popular at the beginning of this century. Much of the credit goes to a German designer named Kathie Kruse. Her husband did not want their children to play with the unattractive, somber-faced dolls of the time so she designed new ones.

CRIED "MA-MA"
German manufacturers began using a built-in device that cried "ma-ma." Others made dolls that opened and shut their eyes or played music or walked.

Because World War I stopped the flow of German dolls, American factories began producing dolls made of unbreakable materials.

Many favorite dolls go back to the early 1900s. Teddy bears, named after Teddy Roosevelt, have been favorites since 1903. One of the original teddy bears is in the Smithsonian Institution. The impish Kewpie dolls, based on a favorite children's book of the day, have been around since 1912.

Alice in Wonderland came out as a rag doll in 1923. Today she is back, a life-like vinyl and plastic doll based on the original 1912.

Alice. Other new dolls based on children's books are Mary Poppins with Michael and Jane, Christopher Robin, Winnie-the-Pooh and friends; Lizzie, and to stretch a point, Batman.

Occupy Children by Cookie Hunt

When old friends drop by, you can keep their children happily occupied with a Christmas cookie hunt.

Just before they arrive, write each child's name in frosting on a home made cookie — perhaps angels for girls and Santas for boys. Hide them among the ornaments on your tree and let each child search for his or her own cookie.

Including drivers and related workers, the New York taxi industry provides full-time jobs for 22,500 persons.

OLD AND NEW — Dolls have always charmed children. Shown at left are an 18th century ragdoll and an 1870 bisque head doll. At right are Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy who have been favorites for more than 50 years. The little girl is holding a go-go doll and sitting next to her is Poppie, a totally flexible doll.

New Sports Type-Games Realistic, Fun for All

Millions of Americans are joining the ranks of sports enthusiasts who are knowledgeable about big league strategy.

Catering to their interests are an ingenious new crop of sports oriented games which devise highly realistic ways to reproduce the most intricate plays of football, baseball, basketball and hockey at home.

The celebrated NFL league sponsors an electric Big Play Football game that will be a special delight to Monday morning quarterbacks.

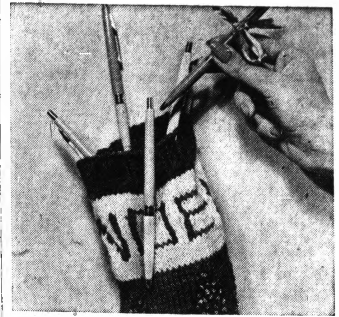

A new selectomatic quarterback device triggers pro action in an exceptionally realistic way. A series of levers make it possible to operate both the defensive and offensive plays.

One of the significant advances in big-game realism this year is provided by Pass 'N' Shoot Basketball, developed by Eddie Gluck, president of the Gotham Pressed Steel Corporation, who is himself a former booster pro leaguer.

This novel competition is designed to enable players to twist and turn as they dart all over the court in a most realistic manner. Players can set up plays for shots from any angle of the field.

Pool is gaining in popularity as a home recreation focus with a variety of folding table models adapted to small room dimensions.

There's a new baseball game called Hit 'N' Run. The notable feature in this new development is a magnetized ball bearing baseball. The pitcher delivers this down the ramp and across the plate in surprisingly real looking emulation of a big league pitcher's delivery.

SOMETHING FOR HER STOCKING — Colorful stocking stuffers in the form of Pussy-cat Pens from Scripto provide an inexpensive answer to the small gift problem. They come in five bright colors and for someone special can be made up into a complete pen wardrobe. The tops and barrels can be interchanged to make over 25 combinations to go with stationery, fashions, telephones — everything!

MEMLING - NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART
NEW POSTAGE STAMP—A painting by Hans Memling, Flemish master of the Renaissance, is the basis for the 1966 Christmas postage stamp. The original hangs in Washington's National Gallery of Art.

New Stamp Depicts Early Masterpiece

By ELIZABETH BASSETT
The biggest art sale in history will be held this Christmas. More than one billion pieces will be sold. Where? All over America in every post office in the land.

The 1966 Christmas postage stamp is based on a painting by Hans Memling, a Flemish master of the Renaissance period. It is the fifth in a series of holiday stamps issued by the post office, which has ordered 1.2 billion stamps.

The central portion of Memling's oil, "Madonna and Child with Angels," which hangs in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., is shown in the 5-cent stamp.

The German-born Memling painted the lavishly-detailed scene on wood around 1480. It is only about 18 by 23 inches in size.

"The Virgin, in a blue-green robe and red mantle, is seated on a red canopied throne," according to a National Gallery description of the portion to be reproduced. "She holds in her lap the Infant Christ who with one hand touches the pages of a missal."

The stamp will be printed in five colors and the inscriptions will be in red-gold.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien says, "This stamp design, which was unanimously recommended to me by the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, is entirely appropriate to the spirit of Christmas and at the same time will be a miniature reproduction of an outstanding work of art."

Christmas Gifts for Man Remain Fairly Traditional

By ROBERT COCHRAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Other than the annual spate of hand-some and useless gimmicks (normally pushed for "the man who has everything"), the usual run of Christmas gifts for men is fairly traditional.

The traditional gift, however, is bound to please any man — even those "who have everything" — if it's selected thoughtfully with the recipient's likes and dislikes in mind.

Unfortunately, the female gift-buyer more often than not wrings her hands in anguish when the shopping-for-him day finally arrives.

"How can I buy something he likes?" goes the usual refrain, "when he doesn't know what he likes?"

Hence, the traditional gift which any man likes and appreciates. It's wise, unless you know your man well, not to move too far afield from these suggestions which have been broken into price ranges:

• UNDER $10: Silk pocket squares, plain black or brown leather harness belts with big brass buckles, over-the-calf socks in subdued colors, permanent-press dress shirts with French cuffs, fine linen handkerchiefs, plain leather billfolds or pocket secretaries, bowtie and cummerbund sets for formal wear, cigars (check his brand), butane lighters, tennis or golf balls (if he plays), plain gold cufflinks, pure bristle hair-brushes, books (if you know his reading taste), colognes (check his favorite scent).

NOTE: Ties are fine gifts, especially the new four-inch widths, but be sure you know what your man will wear. A tie bought in haste often winds up in the back of the closet.

• $10-$20: Long-sleeved, light-weight turtle and mock-turtle neck sweaters will be popular gifts this year as will the nifty portable trousers presser made by Westinghouse.

If your man appreciates fine wine, he'll be happy with a bottle of old Madeira (perhaps bottled in the year he was born) or some good sherry and port.

Several firms are marketing an assortment of a half-dozen quality sauternes, burgundies and Bordeaux.

Other possibilities in this category include travel alarm clocks, leather toilet kits, underbras, leather desk accessories, terry cloth bathrobes, golf jackets, tins of good beluga caviar.

• $20 AND UP: It must be assumed you know the man for whom you are buying (why else would you spend more than $20?).

Quality sweaters are always appreciated, as are lounging robes, watches in the new oval design, gift certificates for suits or topcoats.

If he is a camera bug, why not a new lens for his expensive camera? Or golf clubs, fishing poles and reels, additions to his collection of coins, stamps, first-edition books, autographs, antiques.

If you're really in a bind, why not a gift certificate for a head-to-toe treatment at one of the fancy barbering parlors springing up all over the country? Or, if he needs one, a wig?

Mistletoe Legends Are Many

By ELIZABETH BASSETT

Many plants have a part in the Christmas story.

Centuries ago, long before Christ's birth, evergreens were important in winter celebrations and ceremonies. Today, though the significance has changed, greens are an inherent part of the Christmas season.

Holly was sacred to the Druids because its eternal green proved the sun never deserted the earth. It also protected them from witches and severe weather. And if a sprig of holly were placed on the bedpost, one would have only pleasant dreams.

Mistletoe symbolized peace and hope in Roman times. The northern European Druids made it an important part of their religious rites because of the plant's powers.

They believed mistletoe was a sacred spirit which ward off evil, promoted fertility, cured ailments (American Indians chewed mistletoe for toothaches) and, if brewed and drunk, gave the gift of prophecy.

IGNORED MISTLETOE

A Norse legend relates that the sun god Balder told his mother he had dreamed of his coming death. She called upon all the powers of nature and pleaded with every living thing not to harm her son. But she ignored the mistletoe, and shortly thereafter Balder was killed by an arrow of mistletoe wood.

The land began to darken and there was great mourning. After three days, because of his mother's love, Balder returned from the dead, his light shone, and his mother's tears became mistletoe berries.

Overjoyed, she kissed every person beneath the plant's branches and decreed that henceforward all who walked under mistletoe should be kissed.

Early churches objected to the use of decorative greenery because of its pagan symbolism. But they eventually relented and many wonderful legends sprang up. Medieval Christians thought greens represented Christ "who would spring up like a tender plant, always green and flourishing, and live for evermore."

ORIGIN OF WREATHS

The Christmas wreath originated, it is said, from Christ's crown of thorns. Another story is that the crown of thorns was made of white-berried holly, but that when the pointed leaves were pressed into Christ's brow, His blood turned the berries red.

In England a piece of holly used to be placed in each bee-hive at Christmas time, for it was said that when Jesus was born, the bees sang a song for him which they have been humming ever since.

Mistletoe, because of its close association with pagan rites, has seldom been sanctioned for church use.

Early Christians thought the plant evil. They believed it was the "forbidden fruit" of the Garden of Eden. Others thought Christ's cross had been made of mistletoe wood.

MISTLETOE ONCE TREE

Mistletoe had been a tree at one time, they said, but when it realized the part it had played, it shriveled in shame.

In parts of central Europe it was customary at Advent to break a branch from a cherry tree and force its growth indoors.

Around Christmas time the branch would burst into blossom. This was considered a good luck omen, especially for the girl whose branch flowered on Christmas eve, for she would be married within the year.

In a 500-year-old legend, Joseph is an old man walking in a cherry garden with his young bride, Mary. She tells him of the angel's visit, and he is troubled with doubts about the message.

ASKS FORGIVENESS

When she asks him to pick some cherries for her, he refuses. But upon her request, the branches bend to her. Joseph, full of remorse, asks forgiveness, as an angel appears announcing the coming birth.

Story of Birth

"Joseph lodged in a certain cave near the village; and then, while they were yet there, Mary gave birth to the Christ and placed Him in a manger." St. Justin the Martyr (180 A.D.).

FOR DO-IT-YOURSELF TEENS — Mad Mexican jewelry in way-out colors, gay wall plaques and jewelry boxes are just a few of the many Christmas gifts that the teen with a limited allowance can turn out from a clay made of baking soda, corn starch and water.

Clay, Imagination

Gifts by Teens Can Be Thrifty

If your teen's allowance won't stretch enough to cover the gifts she wants to give for Christmas, suggest she make some.

Out of a clay concocted of baking soda, corn starch and water, plus a little imagination, she can turn out mad Mexican jewelry, wall plaques, jewelry boxes or what not appropriate for all the family and friends.

Her monetary outlay will be less than a dollar... the cost of a clear shellac, a good strong glue, both available in the hardware store; earring and pin backers, which are carried by most Five and Tens. The rest of the makings are right in the house.

First thing to do is make the clay. Mix together well, in a saucepan, 2 cups baking soda and 1 cup corn starch. Stir in 1 1/4 cups water. Mixture will be very stiff. Cook over medium heat stirring constantly.

Mixture thins with cooking, and then in about 4 minutes suddenly thickens. Remove from heat immediately. Transfer hot clay to a plate, cover with a damp cloth and let cool. Knead as you would dough and start modeling.

MOLD BEADS

To make beads, model them into any shape, insert them on large-size, straightened-out paper clips... one clip for every three or four beads. The clips tunnel the holes for threading and make it easier to paint and shellac the beads later.

Placed on a wire rack in a warm 350-degree (turned-off) oven, beads dry and harden in a half hour at which time they can be painted in wild colors with water color paints.

One or two coats of shellac, administered by dunking skewered beads directly into shellac bottle, gives them a glossy professional look.

When beads are dry thread on a double strand of dental floss or good stout thread.

EASIER TO MAKE

Bracelets and rings are even easier to make. Clay is rolled into a long cylinder, flattened, and the two ends pinched together. Fingers dipped in water help smooth out the connections. The same painting and shellacking procedures apply.

For pins and earrings, the only thing to remember is that the backside be kept smooth for the sake of a firm bond when backers are glued on.

For plaques you'll need panels of wood picked up at the lumber yard or wooden plates available at hobby stores.

For jewelry boxes, old wooden cigar boxes are perfect. These get painted before you add your modeled, painted and shellacked motifs which can be flowers, birds, fruit or whatnot. Be generous with the glue when you mount them.

GLOW, MAN, GLOW! — The fashionable man not only knows how to use prints during the daytime, but also he is now learning how to use prints at night. This dinner jacket of imported cotton batik just glows with color and lets the male be something of the peacock he yearns to be. The colors are in midnight blue and black and the jacket, about sixty dollars, is by After Six Formal.

College Men, Businessmen, Need Hats

It looks as though hats, from floppy fun caps to stylish casuals in bold fabrics and colors, are fast becoming the newest campus fad. They therefore make snazzy Christmas gifts for the college man.

First indications that the craze was gaining steam were spotted last summer when straw cowboy hats, Dutch-boy caps and surfer-styled "bucket" hats found places atop coeds and fraternity men at beaches and pools across the country.

Ben Parrill of Miller Bros. Hat Co. points out that young men are beginning to wear more formal dress hats for the first time in years.

"We've noticed a marked connection between a higher sale of fun hats and a higher sale of the dress and casual hats," he says.

"The 'hat habit' is a hard one to break and young people seem to be more used to having a hat on their head throughout the day."

Don't look for fancy Hom-burgs or bowlers just yet. The guiding word around campus is definitely casual.

TREE TOPPERS — Here's an interesting tree topping featuring a selection of "fun" casuals designed by Adam. The top topper is a corduroy "Good Gus" hat ($3.95). Top right is a "Campobello" hat inspired by the floppy job made famous by FDR, and available in four colors ($3.95).

Below FDR is a simulated Persian Astrakhan with quilted lining and ear flaps ($5). Another Astrakhan with turn-up cuffs is to the left ($5). The glen plaid beret is $3.95. The trimmer wears an authentic 10-gallon hat ($12.95).

GAS INCINERATOR

Sounds like magic doesn't it? But it's a "sleight of hand trick" that more and more modern housewives are performing. You just drop burnable garbage and papers into a Gas incinerator — NO SMOKE, NO ODOR, NO MESS — trash and refuse disappear! All that's left is a small mound of fine white ash that's ideal for fertilizing flower beds. For an encore you can make the garbage can disappear too — you won't need it!

'Big Red One' Brings Santa to Viet Kids

EDITOR'S NOTE What is Christmas like at the front? For an answer we have turned to an Associated Press war correspondent who tells what it was like last year at one time and place.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
LAI KHE, South Viet Nam — "Ong gia Noel den," the geant who was killed in action swarms of almond-eyed kids while preparing for the Christmas party that he boasted would be "the best ever held in any war zone."

What they were shouting was, "Santa Claus is coming!" And sure enough the jolly old elf in the white beard and red suit appeared magically under the rubber trees enthroned on the back of an Army jeep. With a wave of his hand, dolls and kites and water pistols materialized from the laundry bag slung over his back and a big brass band, a little heavy in the trombone and tuba section, struck up with:

"O little town of Bethlehem How still we see thee lie Above thy deep and dreamless sleep The silent stars go by . . .

It was Christmas on a battlefield in Viet Nam, on an abandoned rubber plantation at Lai Khe, 45 miles north of Saigon, where the U.S. First Infantry Division — "The Big Red One" — had silenced its guns for 72 hours in an uncertain truce celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

As it turned out, there would be hundreds of violations of the Christmas truce by the Viet Cong, but now the war had suddenly stopped so hundreds of war orphans from the bombed out town of Bau Bang, just a few miles up the road, could enjoy the lavish hospitality of the American GIs, who war or no war, had been planning this party for many months.

FIRST CONVOY IN WEEKS
Only yesterday the first convoy from Saigon in many weeks had gotten through without incident. Along with ammunition, food and fuel, it brought boxes from home containing Christmas decorations, artificial snow, imitation Christmas trees and real plants, made of china, for the holiday celebrants to dine from.

Was there ever such a Christmas in all of Viet Nam? Capt. Cosmo Barone of Oxford, Pa., the CO of Charlie Company, 701st Maintenance Battalion, had planned on about 200 kids, but 600 showed up.

Luckily the men of the Third Brigade had chipped in enough money to buy out the entire stock of a Saigon toy store, so the gifts that filled two helicopters were sufficient to go around. The menu was a mas-Vietnamese voices, the boys' terpiece of seasonal goodies: shrimp salad, turkey and all the trimmings, pumpkin pie, five kinds of ice cream, mixed nuts, potato chips, all sorts of candies, cookies and cakes.

LAST MENU BY SERGEANT
It was the last menu prepared by S-Sgt. Arthur McMeillon of Hamlin, W. Va., Charlie Company's resourceful mess sergeant who was killed in action while preparing for the Christmas party that he boasted would be "the best ever held in any war zone."

Sgt. Mac's jeep rolled over a mine, as he was on the way into the nearby town of Ben Cat to see about fattening up a suckling pig for the big party. He would have been happy to know that the pig, done to a crispy turn by his well trained assistant cooks, was the hit of the party.

Santa Claus was Captain Robert Keup of Fairfield, Maine, the assistant advisor to Vietnamese forces in the Ben Cat area. He spoke excellent Vietnamese but otherwise was a little light for the role and had to pad out his costume with a flak jacket.

Santa's throne was a camp chair set up on two ammunition boxes inside the company headquarters tent, which, as he had silenced its guns for 72 hours in an uncertain truce celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

OLD FAMILIAR CAROLS
A long line of children waited outside the tent to see Santa, while the division band in its best Salvation Army style pumped away at the old familiar carols.

Each child was given a toy suited to his or her age group, but it didn't take the little ones long to find out that the big ones were getting better toys, so Santa was faced with several five-year-olds who claimed they were 12, and his eyes caught at least a half dozen tots getting in line for seconds.

The real thrill of the party was a $60 set of electric trains that Capt. Barone had ordered from a mail order house in the states way back in August. They arrived on Christmas Eve, with the last convoy, just in time to snake around the base of the huge rubber tree in the middle of the company street that had been decorated as a Christmas tree.

While the girls gathered around the pump organ, borrowed from the chaplain, to sing the "Silent Night" and "O Holy Night" in their high pitched voices, the boys' terpiece of seasonal goodies: shrimp salad, turkey and all the

"I'D LIKE A . . ." — A wide-eyed South Vietnamese youngster talks with Santa, Capt. Robert Keup of Fairfield, Maine, during a Christmas party given by the U.S. First Infantry Division's Third Brigade.

Planning Does It

Happiness Is...a Clean Home

Happiness to the homemaker hold disasters, from gum under mop up the mess. Blot, don't in December is children with foot to pet problems.

Do — remember that staying keep from spreading the stain. calm is important. Your own Continue the blot-spot treatment action is the best spot until the mark disappears. prevention of all. Don't let a Afterward brush up the carpet friendly guest take a rag and nap.

But the household that achieves this kind of happiness is likely to be without fun and warmth. So, be of good cheer, and prepare for what will be the inevitable holiday haunts of grubby hands and spills.

These suggestions for dealing with the trauma of open houses, big dinners, dirty feet, and eager hands come from the country's largest professional cleaning organization, ServiceMaster:

Do — plan to have carpets and upholstered furniture cleaned prior to the holidays. It's much easier to clean for clean home furnishings than to try and remove spots from soiled pieces.

Don't — cover your chairs with plastic unless you expect to have a particularly unruly group of youngsters in the house, armed with catsup, and coke.

MARS FABRIC
Plastic covers are not only uncomfortable, but hold the moisture and have a tendency to mar certain fabrics if left on for extended periods of time.

Unusual accidents such as candle drippings may be loosened from sofa or carpet by holding a warm iron near the spot. Follow up by sprinkling a solvent-type cleaner on the area, blot and dry.

Do — try the tactic of a broad hint in a husbandly ear to eliminate all of your holiday housekeeping problems, and perhaps a generous Santa will slip a special present into your stocking — in the form of a professional cleaning for rugs, furniture and walls.

Do investigate the new professional process which "check-stains" upholstered pieces. Applied right in the home, this process puts an invisible coating on duplicate fabrics and protects them against any waterborne spots and spills.

PROTECT SURFACES
Do — protect all wooden surfaces by treating them to a fine, natural furniture polish. Remember, a furniture polish that requires no rubbing is probably not worth its salt in creating a luster or in protecting fine wood finishes.

Don't — panic if a guest or a member of the family spills something or tracks in dirt. But do have on hand the proper equipment to care for the spot immediately. Many spots, if left alone for 12 or 24 hours are almost impossible to remove.

Do — study up on what kind of action to take for various kinds of accidents. For instance, gravy spots call for an entirely different approach than fruit stains. You'll probably want to investigate the "first aid kit" for spots that contain solutions to take care of 55 minor house-

Useful Gift Is Recharger for Batteries

The fact that men love to receive mechanical presents and that gift-givers like to give them is evidenced every Christmas by the countless number of battery-operated shoe shiners, lint removers, pencil sharpeners and toothbrushes that appear gayly wrapped under the tree.

The trouble has been, however, that the batteries in these items are usually exhausted even before the holiday decorations are taken down.

The man on your shopping list will be happy to know that batteries don't have to be thrown away any more. And he'll remember you all year long if your gift to him this year is mechanical and practical at the same time.

An automatic home battery charger, called "Plug 'N Charge," is an item that will eliminate those post-Christmas frustrations when Junior's toys as well as Dad's gifts no longer operate.

The home battery charger is designed to recharge all types of dry cell batteries in all common sizes. It will bring life back to transistor radios, flashlights, carving knives, portable tape recorders and a score of other items that will be given and received as gifts this year.

HANDY GADGET

By giving this handy gadget at Christmas, you'll have the fun of knowing that your gift will help someone enjoy his other gifts as well. One he'll certainly get a charge out of.

For Little Miss

A Goody-Box chock full of beauty items for the little miss on your Christmas list will be very welcome. You can fill it with a styrofoam tree decorated with colorful bows for the hair... one to match every outfit.

Also add emery boards, clear nail polish, a decorative purse-size hand mirror, monogrammed hair clip, travel toothbrush and other little treats to make her smile.

The total investment in American agriculture exceeds $500 billion, Vice President Humphrey disclosed in a recent speech.

GIFT FOR HIS GIFTS — The man who receives an automatic home battery charger for Christmas will be sure that his annual array of battery-operated gadgets, appliances and equipment will be kept in fresh running order all year long. Instead of throwing away dry cell batteries, as in the past, he will be able to recharge them for renewed life and use.

Mistletoe Is Reminder of Pleasant Custom

Mistletoe, one of America's favorite holiday decorations, brings to mind an especially pleasant custom: that of catching an unsuspecting (or so it may seem) sweetheart "under the mistletoe" for a kiss.

The green-leaved, white-berried plant really does have quite a romantic history. References to it appear as far back in history as the days of the gladiators.

The Romans made first recorded use of the plant as a symbol of peace. Enemies meeting under it were required to discard their weapons and declare a truce.

Parallels in later history occur in Norse mythology which records the mistletoe plant as a symbol of love. The custom of kissing beneath the bright leaves comes from the Norse marriage rite in which it was used as a major decoration.

Another Christmas custom popular through the ages is gift giving. A great gift idea this Christmas and a sure way for a gal to ensure a smoothcheeked kiss under the mistletoe is Remington's newest electric shaver, the 500 Selektone.

It features an exclusive dial which adjusts to four different shaving positions. The first position permits shaving the skin and neck areas without irritation.

Second through fourth positions raise the shaving heads above the guard combs to allow progressively closer shaves for any combination of skin and beard. The shaver comes with recharging console in a black vinyl case with built-in shaving mirror.

By the way, mistletoe can be used for things other than a romantic excuse. The mantel of the fireplace or center of a Christmas wreath are ideal spots for this colorful decoration.

Mistletoe berries and leaves would make a fine garland for an unusual twist in tree ornaments as well.

Updated Gift Choice

Flowers Bring Good Wishes

In the merry-making that goes on with the Christmas season, the giving of gifts is an age-old tradition, updated for today's happy holiday festivities.

The original Christmas gifts were gold, frankincense and myrrh, brought to the Christ Child by the Three Wise Men, who also received gifts in return.

In many countries, presents are exchanged on Epiphany, Spanish youngsters leave straw outside their homes for the horses of the Wise Men. By morning the straw is replaced by gifts for the children.

Today, fresh flowers in color are popular Christmas gifts. A special boon to last-minute shoppers, flowers can be delivered anywhere in the country by Florists' Transworld Delivery experts.

Wreaths of dark greenery and miniature artificial fruit are special heralds of holiday joy as decorations for doors and mantels or as unusual centerpiece for Christmas dining. According to Roman lore, greenery on the bough means that good wishes are entwined in the wreath.

FLORAL CENTERPIECE

arrangement of holly or pine combined with roses for the hostess on your gift list.

In the days of the druids, holly was believed to ward against evil spirits in the home. A Swedish legend of the Christmas rose tells of trees and flowers bursting into bloom on Christmas Eve to create a Magic Garden.

When a doubting monk said the garden was Satan's work, the blossoms faded. Only the Christmas rose remained as the symbol of the season.

The most famous gift-giver, known to American children as Santa Claus, was introduced to this country as St. Nicholas by early Dutch settlers.

ARCHBISHOP OF MYRA

St. Nick was the Archbishop of Myra and, according to legend, he learned of a poor man who had no dowries for his three daughters.

A generous man who wished to remain anonymous in his good deeds, St. Nicholas dropped gold pieces for the girls' dowries down the chimney of their home. Some of the gold fell into stockings hung on the fireplace to dry. Ever since, children have hung their stockings each Christmas Eve "in hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there."

NAPOLEONIC ERA — Strategy, a unique game of skill and maneuver, has highly decorative playing pieces depicting Napoleon's marshals, generals, colonels and other officers in uniform, along with spies, scouts and miners. Competition is based on skillful planning, clever deception, memory and suspense. Players' rank is hidden to spice competition. Players move around the board seeking a hidden flag. Object of play is to outwit opponents and capture the flag.

3D Plastic Is Basis for Zany New Games

Look to games this Christmas for surprise action and laughter unlimited. The most exhilarating new formats, many of them in 3D plastic, appeal to the whole family. Focused on imaginative concepts, these novel competitions set a record for ingenuity ranging from zany to wildly bizarre.

Consider Twister, a hilarious new game, that has nothing to do with that discotheque dance. Twister is a frenetic game of skill and action, played on big plastic mat marked off with colored circles.

Barfoot players stand on the dots and put hands and feet on the colors called out by the person spinning the dial. The idea is to twist their bodies in as many knots as possible, with the goal to keep one's balance as long as possible.

Blop is another bizarre new addition to merry making that's keyed to uninhibited hilarity. Each player gives this amiable monster a tongue and a knock and up shoots plastic ball from a hole in his head. To score, the player must catch a plastic ball in his assigned color.

Secret agents add spice to a variety of new game formats, ranging from the Fort Knox milieu of a Goldfinger game to the Ipcress File and a John Drake Spy game.

BATMAN GAME
Another unusual approach to competition is the Batman game, which is a combination jigsaw and game.

The thrill of manipulating large sums of play money has eternal appeal.

The competition with the mostest in thousand dollar bills is Games of Life, where players try to get the lion's share of an assortment of $8 million and be first to win the title of millionaire. The 3D board provides a road through life full of realistic ups and downs.

Among the bizarre fun makers that maintain high popularity is Time Bomb, a contemporary version of the old favorite, hot potato. The bomb is tossed frantically back and forth. The player holding it when it goes "boom" loses.

FAR OUT FUN
Operation is another example of far out fun concepts. In this game, every player is a doctor performing comical operations on a 3D patient such as removing a charley horse and writer's cramp.

Then there are classic favorites like Uccle Wiggly, the rabbit game, Candy Land and Go To The Head Of Class, which has a quiz question book geared to three age levels.

A world favorite in the strategy game category is Stratego, based on Napoleonic maneuvers.

Word games are always favorite focus for family fun. Password, for example, which sparks skill with words, as does Match Game, are both modeled after TV game shows. New in this area is Supermarket Sweep. RELAXATION FOR ALL

"Children need to relax as much as tired business men," said James J. Shea, president of Milton Bradley, oldest game specialist and a prime innovator. "The development of high impact plastic has made possible the creation of highly imaginative action games that are fun for all the family and keyed to laughter that encourages complete relaxation from the tensions of contemporary life."

Children confronted with challenges at school, as well as their parents enjoy participating in a variety of games appealing to different moods. The varied game library is becoming a staple focus for home recreation in thousands of homes; playing together seems to promote comradeship and understanding between parents and children to a significant degree.

Flag Owner Sends Banner Everywhere

APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — John Wahler is a flag shipper rather than a flag waver.

Wahler owns a flag which he ships to points in the U.S. and to foreign countries to fly on anniversaries of historical dates.

The flag, 3 feet by 5 feet, has just been returned from two Jima where it flew on Mount Suribachi on the anniversary of the famous U. S. World War II battle.

His flag has flown at Fort McHenry in Baltimore on the 151st anniversary of the writing of the Star Spangled Banner by Francis Scott Key, at Pearl Harbor, and at McCoy Air Force Base during the remembrance of the late Col. Mike McCoy.

Wahler's flag was first flown over the nation's Capitol.

WITH 1ST INFANTRY
A veteran, Wahler was stationed with the First Infantry Division in Germany during the Korean crisis. He is now employed at the American Optical Co. in Apopka.

In order for his flag to be flown anywhere, Wahler must write in advance for permission. When the permission is granted, he ships his flag.

Trees Make Live Firebreak

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Tamarix, a tree with a high mineral content, which excretes salt, may be used successfully as a living firebreak, according to research done at Tel Aviv University.

Twigs and litter under Tamarix trees are almost incombustible, and other vegetation does not grow because of the salt that drips from the trees at night.

Tamarix is easy and inexpensive to propagate and has a high growth rate. It has been widely naturalized in southwestern United States where it is called "salt cedar."

Here's a New Twist: Sick Go to Flowers

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Instead of sending flowers to the sick, they're sending the sick to flowers at Central Alabama Rehabilitation Center here.

The Air Force Chaplains, the for a crippling disease or in-muscles, trains them Quota Club and local florists juries, recently donated a large green. Not only does working with florist's helper, and helps house to the facility, which flowers help pass the long hours therapists evaluate physical and serves those who need therapy needed for recuperation, but it mental improvement.

Holiday Music

George Frederick Handel (1685-1797) is well known for his stirring Christmas music, "The Messiah." Handel also wrote the melody to one of our most beloved Christmas carols, "Joy to the World."

Treat Visitors to Hot Snack

The Season . . . and what could be jollier than a good hearty snack to greet visitors on a frost-bitten night during the holidays . . . or to perk up the tree-trimmers on Christmas Eve!

Boston baked beans in a pot garnished with tasty franks . . . sharp cheddar cheese and Boston brown bread warmed from the oven and drizzling with melted butter . . . steaming hot coffee — all say "Welcome!" and "Relax!" in a very heartening way.

New England character is exemplified in the gleaming stainless steel plates, platter and percolator. The flatware, too, is stainless steel; for all its utilitarian virtues, it is adapted from the craft of a great Boston patriot.

Our forefathers would have marveled at the care-free qualities of this stainless steel . . . easy to clean, yet with an "otherworldly" look. A boon to hostesses all year long!

If you're hosting a big Christmas dinner, inspect your company-best linen in plenty of time for the holiday. Tablecloths and napkins may need freshening up — just dunk them in hot, soapy water, spiked with a few tablespoons of lemon cleaner. Rinse the linens, iron them, wrap them up.

Don't Forget Fido

When buying toys for Fido, be sure they have been made for pets and not infants.

New puppies, while teething, will chew their way through soft rubber and can swallow the noisemakers inside.

Leather toys are a good bet. Also avoid wooden toys that splinter.

Name Changes

Christmas goes by many names. The Dutch call it Kerstmis, in France they celebrate Noel, in Italy it's Il Natale, Weihnachten in Germany, and El Natal in Spain.

HEARTY NEW ENGLAND FARE — Boston baked beans in a pot, garnished with tasty franks . . . sharp cheddar cheese and Boston brown bread. And for a party warmer-upper, steaming hot coffee!

Legend of Christ, Wise Men Bearing Gifts Is Still Told

"We three kings of Orient are" bearing gifts to honor the Magi lost their guiding star in Jerusalem.

Some historians believe the Magi were Melchior, ruler of Nubia and Arabia, Balthasar of Ethiopia, and Caspar of Persia.

They are usually depicted as representing the three ages of man: Melchior as an old, long-bearded man, Balthasar as middle-aged and swarthy, and Caspar as a tall, beardless youth.

The word "Magi" means "august" and was given to the priest-teacher-astrologers of ancient Media and Persia.

It is said they started in Babylon and the provisions they carried with them never diminished in amount.

According to legend, the three Magi lost their guiding star in Jerusalem.

King Herod sent for them. He told the wise men to search diligently for the infant and bring word back of His whereabouts.

They continued on their way and stopped at a well to refresh themselves and their camels.

When they looked into the well they saw their lost guiding star reflecting in the water. Looking into the heavens, they saw the star shining more brightly than ever before.

It led them to the Christ child to whom they presented gifts. The gold they gave symbolized acceptance of Him as their King, the frankincense symbolized His deity, and the myrrh prophesied His death. In return, it is said that Mary gave them the infant's swaddling cloths.

Pictures Fit All Decors, Tastes, Sizes

Picture the home of a friend or relative on your Christmas list and chances are you can picture an empty wall space with room for a picture.

Pictures are that kind of gift that comes in enough sizes, and colors to fit anyone's taste and any home's decor. And they come in prices to fit any holiday budget.

In choosing pictures for others, the Picture and Frame Institute suggests that you let the recipient's taste and interests be your guide.

You can find pictures of ships for boating enthusiasts, horses for equestrians, pictures of far-away places for travelers and dreamers, even clowns for children's rooms. You'll find them realistic or abstract, small or large, bright or subtle.

Pictures may be reproductions of favorite paintings by famous artists or reproductions of works by lesser-known artists, as well as original art.

NEED NOT BE PAINTING

Keep in mind, too, that a picture need not be a painting. Framed needlepoint samplers, shell or button collections, photographs of family members or special events are also favorite gifts.

Reproductions of paintings are available in department and variety stores, chain stores, book and gift stores, and picture framing stores, as well as museums.

Prices start under one dollar for reproductions, and sometimes go high in price as original art. The reproduction method determines cost. Original art by local or famous artists is also available at a variety of prices.

You will find that choosing gift-pictures can be as much fun as giving them, and the recipient will have an addition for their home that will be enjoyed for years to come.

New Handel's 'Messiah' Disc

Recording Is More Faithful to Original

This Christmas, record buyers will be able to hear Handel's "Messiah" just about the way Handel composed it. Modern audiences are used to full orchestras and a chorus of 150 or more singers. But Handel didn't write it that way.

Musicologist Watkins Shaw has found that Handel conducted a comparatively small orchestra and chorus, and that the number of performers varied. For example, if there were three good high sopranos available, he used three. If he could find only two he used two.

Robert Shaw (no relation) conducted the new recording during one summer week in New York City. He is assistant conductor of the Cleveland Symphony and Chorus, but, surprisingly, had never conducted a "big" "Messiah."

For this new RCA release, he used a 35-piece orchestra, his 31-member chorus and four soloists — Judith Raskin, Florence Kopleff, Richard Lewis and Thomas Paul.

When the recording was finished, Robert Shaw sat down to talk about it. He said that the "Hallelujah Chorus," as the most familiar part of the work, undoubtedly will be most talked about.

BEAUTIFUL SOUND
At first, he said, the small sound will shock listeners. But he likes the "lean, clear, beautiful" sound that layers of harmonies covered before. He believes this is the fastest tempo "Messiah" on record — for the same reason a squad walks faster than an army.

Shaw said he noticed Handel used the concerto grosso style, alternating the use of a few instruments with the entire orchestra. His theory about this is that Handel was motivated less by aesthetics than by practicality.

Radio City Pageant Elaborate

(EDITOR'S NOTE — One of the Christmas season spectacles of New York is the crowd that lines up several blocks long and waits for hours to gain admission to Radio City Music Hall show. In 33 years, more people probably have attended shows there than now live in the United States. The story behind the attractions is told here by the senior producer.)

By LEON LEONIDOFF

Preparations begin months in advance for the traditional pageant of the Nativity and for the Christmas revue at the Music Hall.

When I first did a Christmas show there in 1933, I wanted to do something representative of the religious spirit of the season.

The pageant is, in spirit, much the same as that done in countless schools and churches throughout the country each year. The difference is in scope.

Behind the Music Hall's 100-foot proscenium opening, a cast of more than 100 beautifully costumed performers can move with ease in scenery that would dwarf a smaller area.

Beginning with a procession that follows the Star of Bethlehem as it travels across the sky, the Nativity is climaxed by the adoration at a manger that measures more than 25 feet in height and 45 feet in width.

VARIED PROCESSION
Included in the procession are three Magi wearing richly brocaded robes with trains more than 8 feet long, 40 shepherds, 25 Roman soldiers, and an entourage of live animals including a camel, horse, donkeys, and a flock of sheep.

Occasionally, an unforeseen problem arises, sometimes amusing. I remember one year when Sadie, the camel, discovered that the gold fringe on her blanket was delicious and so proceeded to romp on it right in the middle of a performance. Only after extensive testing did our costume department come up with a plastic fringe which Sadie found not to her taste.

Accutron® is not a watch

All the parts that make a watch fast or slow have been left out. In fact all the mechanical parts that make a watch tick. Anything can upset them; a speck of dust; congealed oil; ordinary normal wear.

Then what makes Accutron tick? It doesn't. It hums. Instead of the usual watch parts that run down, there's a tiny battery powered tuning fork that keeps time through vibrations. No grinding of part against part.

Accutron time is so precise that we guarantee average monthly accuracy within 60 seconds, which averages out to about 2 seconds a day.

With Accutron you can forget about checking your time to see if it's right.

In fact you may find you'll become smug being this sure of anything these days.

In the second part of the stage show we try each year to create an accompanying revue which is new and different. Unique to the Music Hall is the fact that we must cover more than 7,500 square feet of stage.

The size of the sets must be exaggerated, extra layers of make-up must be applied so that performers' faces won't be "washed out" by the thousands of stage lights, and such things as wigs must be made of rope instead of hair to assure their being visible to the vast audience.

7,000 YARDS MATERIAL

At times numbers are staggering. When we did a version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" one year, we used more than 400 costumes made up of more than 7,000 running yards of material. In a single production we have used 250 pair of shoes.

In a Rockette number in which each costume had eight pounds of rhinestones, we had to order more than 300 pounds of the stones. A typical Christmas show calls for 11,000 safety pins and more than five pounds of straight pins.

Of course we always incorporate many spectacular stage effects into the second half of the show.

Among the "tricks" we have available are a traveling band car which, with the help of four stage elevators, can cause our symphony orchestra to disappear in back of a curtain and reappear later coming rising in front of the same curtain. We "Star Bright" was decided upon.

The copying of more than 1,800 sheets of music for the orchestra was almost finished. The engineers assured me that the stage could take all the scenery that I wanted, and more. A title, "The Star Bright" was decided upon.

Also we were ready to prepare my space show for the countdown. Work began in earnest with rehearsals, costume fittings, the painting and building of sets, and more rehearsals. The inevitable problems arose and were ironed out.

SPACE ROCKETTES
Space helmets for our Rockettes had to be altered so that the girls could see out of the corners of their eyes, enabling them to maintain their straight line and famed precision.

A curtain had to be moved backstage a bit so that it would not knock over a set as it closed. I suppose the activity during the last few days would have seemed totally frenzied and incomprehensible to a casual backstage visitor, and I will admit that there were moments when it seemed so even to me.

Eventually, the hundreds of apparently unrelated pieces of the show were brought together to form a smooth finished production.

'Leaflet' Given to Candidate
ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP)—Marshall Parker, one of South Carolina's two Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate, stepped from his car here recently to hand a policeman at the curb a campaign pamphlet.

Instead, the policeman handed Parker a ticket because his automobile carried expired license plates.

Parker paid a $15 fine.

Santa Claus Banned by Church Group

SHELburne FALLS, Mass. — Santa Claus no longer visits the children's Christmas party at the Methodist church in this western Massachusetts community.

The membership of the William Butler Memorial Methodist Church decided Santa should be returned to the home and shops.

Mrs. Gele E. Washer introduced the resolution banning Santa Claus last year to "change the basic concept of what we should teach the children about Christmas."

Mrs. Washer, a member of the church's governing board, said the board felt that "Santa Claus just didn't show what the Christian faith is all about."

The Christmas service had fallen into the category of "throwing crumbs to God," she said. "The children sat during the service with their heads turned to the rear of the church where the Christmas tree and the gifts were set up. They paid no attention to the service."

Mrs. Washer said she and her husband drafted the resolution while recalling how in previous years "we watched our own little kids going greedily to church to get a gift."

She said the party failed to teach them anything about Christ's life.

The ban against Santa resulted in a controversy which the church would like to forget.

"We found it difficult to explain our move," Mrs. Washer said. "We weren't trying to remove Santa from society or even from the homes. We felt that it is all right to maintain little myths in the home—that's the prerogative of the parents—but it isn't the function of the church."

Holy City of Jerusalem Still Scourged, Divided

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

JERUSALEM (AP) — The rocky hillside field where "shepherds watched their flocks by night" as angels announced the birth of Jesus on the first Christmas is now barred to shepherds by a six-foot wire fence.

Above the rock-hewn stable where Jesus lay in a manger, the neon lights of a church flash "In Excelsis Deo," and coffee cups clink in the "Merry Christmas Cafe."

The road which Joseph and Mary trudged wearily from Nazareth to Bethlehem 19 centuries ago is blocked by the machine guns and barbed wire of a United Nations armistice line.

The holy land of Christ — scourged and divided by violence through the ages — is again divided by the aftermath of war. Christmas is big business, and the neon tube has replaced the oil lamps of old Palestine.

Yet through the crowds of jostling tourists — where donkeys rub against taxis — and among the gaudy chapels that cover the holy places from view, the devout Christian pilgrim in Jordan still gets the awesome feeling that this is where it all began. STREETS SEEM UNCHANGED

A few steps from the parked rows of shiny tourist buses in Bethlehem, Bedouin tribesmen in sheepskin robes stroll through winding streets that seem unchanged since the time of Christ.

And many of the street scenes in the holy city of Jerusalem must be virtually the same as those Christ saw through the blood from His crown of thorns:

Tattooed women in bright robes balancing baskets on their heads, farmers in desert dresses driving flocks of goats through the eternal twilight of the vaulted bazaars, stalls filled with glistening fruit from the Jordan valley and slithering fish from the Red Sea, and armed soldiers still strutting along the "Street of Sorrows" that led Christ to the cross.

The soldiers of today, however, are not sandal-clad ceremonial troops, but tough, slit-eyed legionnaires from Jordan's desert army who carry their submachine guns at the ready, for modern war could break out any time across the holy city's ancient walls.

STILL A DIVIDED LAND

The holy land and the city of Jerusalem, the cradle of Christendom, are divided like Berlin. Since the savage war of 1948 has been cut in two by the sandhogs and shell-wrecks of no-man's land, with Jordan jealously holding the old walled city and Israel living in the new suburbs.

As in Berlin, families are divided, but border restrictions here are even stiffer than those of Communist East Germany.

Carefully-selected Arab Christians — but no Jordanians or Jewish Israelis — can cross the barbed wire at Christmas or Easter, tourists can cross one way but cannot return, and only U.S. personnel or diplomatics can travel freely back and forth. Even in the time of Jesus, Palestine was united from "Dan to Beersheba" only briefly under Herod the Great. Today, the land is broken up into Jordan, Israel and the Egyptian-ruled Gaza Strip, and U.S. truce forces keep peace on the frontiers.

Strife and division are an old story in the holy land, and even despite the threat of war, the atmosphere for visitors is peaceful. Perhaps the most visible change over the centuries is the proliferation of churches.

The simple stable where Jesus was born is now sheathed in marble, and hung with lanterns and icons. The rough stone tomb where tradition says He was buried is now a Byzantine vault in pink marble, as fancy as a wedding cake. The hillside where His cross stood is hidden by rich golden mosaics and decorations.

The bleak Judean hills are still Biblical-looking, with olive groves and grazing sheep, but virtually every spot associated with Christ is now hung with lavish trappings. Even the shepherds' field belongs to the YMCA and is reserved for worshippers and carol singers.

Some of the sacred structures — particularly the Church of the Holy Sepulchre above Christ's tomb — are in a state of crumbling neglect, because until recently the various Christian sects that own them were so embittered by religious feuds that they refused to cooperate in repairing them.

The religious feuds continue, resulting in occasional fist fights in the churches, and one recent Christmas Eve priests were throwing bottles at each other on the roof of Bethlehem's Church of the Nativity.

Western visitors often deplore the animosity among the religious leaders, and condemn what they think is disgraceful vulgarity by Eastern worshippers, who sometimes brawl, perform sword dances or fire guns in the church courtyards.

But other observers maintain this emotional exuberance merely means that religion to the Middle Easterner is a living thing, and that their approach is more realistic and natural than the sedate worship of Westerners. Some Westerners also criticize the commercialism of the religious tourist trade, the presence of souvenir shops near the churches, or the existence of such eyesores as the "Hinky Dink Bar" on the way of the Cross.

Officials retort, effectively, that Jerusalem is a living city, not a dead monument, that even in Christ's day there were money lenders right in the temple, and that with thousands of tourists converging on the holy land, commercial organization is both unavoidable and necessary.

The streets of Jerusalem today do not date back to Biblical times — the city was reduced to rubble by the Romans in 70 and by the A.D. — but they do go back to the Crusades.

AP Photo

DIVIDED CITY—Since the savage war in 1948 between the Arabs and the Israelis, the holy city of Jerusalem has been divided. At Christmas time Israeli Arabs are allowed to rejoin their relatives in Jordan. Here they cross no-man's land at the Mandelbaum Gate.

AP Photo

SOUVENIR DISPLAY—In a covered, stepped alleyway in the walled city of Jerusalem, religious souvenirs are put on display. Some Westerners are critical of the commercialism in the religious tourist trade.

Latest Books Are Fine Gifts

Each year publishers go all out to produce lavish, beautiful books for Christmas giving. This year the emphasis is on non-fiction.

Memoirs and biographies provide a wide choice. Randolph Churchill has produced the first volume of his famous father's Pierre Salinger's "With Kennedy" is on the Doubleday list. Holt has "Robert Frost, The Early Years," and composer Virgil Thomson has written his memoirs for Knopf.

Frank Lloyd Wright's widow has written the life story of the famous architect (Horizon). And Cornelia Otis Skinner has prepared a biography of actress Sarah Bernhardt (Houghton).

Art books always are plentiful. Abrams' list includes books about Duer, Giacometti and Modigliani, as well as an avant-garde piece, Allan Kaprow's "Assemblage Environments and Happenings."

BLUE, ROSE PERIODS

New York Graphic's subjects include books on Bonnard, Turner, Whistler, and Picasso's blue and rose periods. Crown has a book on sculptor Lipchitz and Pantheon has one on Calder.

The books about places include a volume "This America," in which President Johnson's restatement of Great Society objectives are coupled with 160 pages of photos by Ken Heyman.

Santa's Travel Tips:

Baby Goes Holiday-Visiting

News item: North Pole Christmas, 1966 — S. Claus, the world's most experienced Christmas packer, has some words of advice for the mothers of the youngest tykes on his list.

In an exclusive interview, Santa, as he is affectionately known here, said: "Getting to Grandma's is a great deal easier today than it was in the days when everyone used a sleigh. In those days, Mama had to pack just as much for her baby as she did for the rest of the family combined."

A large supply of baby clothing, diapers and all that formula making and bottling equipment added up to almost a sleigh-full in itself.

But, Santa added, modern disposable products and up-to-date equipment have greatly reduced the packing-for-baby problem.

Santa's first suggestion is to eliminate everything you really don't need, and to take only a few day's supply of any items that can be purchased when you arrive.

LEAVE STROLLER BEHIND

For example, you may find that a car bed will serve nicely for both bed and playpen for baby en route. And unless you plan many trips out-of-doors in the blustery weather, the stroller is best left behind.

Other equipment that you can certainly do without is all the paraphernalia needed for mixing and sterilizing baby's formula. With such a mother's helper as Nursette, the disposable glass bottle pre-filled with Enfamil formula, all you have to do at feeding time is twist off the cap and add a standard nipple and nipple collar.

And because the unit needs no refrigeration, you won't have to warm it up.

Don't bother packing a large supply of diapers and baby clothes, either. Disposable diapers—available anywhere along the route—will solve that problem, and you can always put Grandma's laundry equipment into action to spit up the rest of baby's wear.

BABY THINGS ON TOP

Santa also suggests that if you share a suitcase with baby put his things on top. You'll find you have enough room to bring back all the gifts collected from Santa and Grandma.

"Just one last suggestion," Santa said in closing. "Don't let Grandma leave me any snacks. I'm getting too well packed myself."

Family-Fun Decorations From Scraps

Part of the pleasure of shopping for Christmas gift-wrappings this season will be the opportunity to turn left over scraps of wrapping paper into handsome, original Christmas decorations for the home. Nothing more need be invested than a few minutes of spare time and some inexpensive, easily available materials.

Inspired by the richness and beauty of this year's collection of gift papers and ribbons, one leading manufacturer has designed more than 30 different Christmas decorating projects to be made at home.

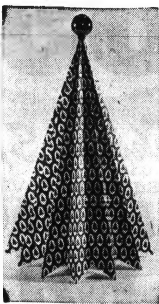

Instructions are contained in a booklet called "Sing a Song of Christmas." The booklet is available free of charge by writing to Mrs. Peggy Gilbert, Dept. S, Norcross Inc., 244 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016.

The "Pleated Tree" is included in a special section which illustrates simple decorations for children to make.

"Pleated Tree"

Materials
1 package "Evergreen" gift wrap white glue
1" red Christmas ball

Instructions
Cut 20" semi-circle of "Evergreen" gift wrap. Make fan pleats, radiating from center. While still folded, cut rounded edge at an angle to form bottom points. Glue the two straight edges together. Top tree with ball.

"PLEATED TREE"—A lovely paper Yule-time decoration is so simple to make, even for children. Materials consist of merely a package of gift wrap paper, glue and a red Christmas ball.

Melodic Touch Adds to Holiday Gift Wrapping

For those of you who like to add a melodic touch to the Yule holidays, try gift wrapping to the tune of Christmas. In fact, there's a whole medley of Christmas gift packages you can "compose" right from the pages of a holiday songbook.

For the theme of Christmas melodies, try making a frosty Christmas tree package with the musical background of "O Christmas Tree" ("O Tannenbaum").

The icy fir needles are made of gift ribbon that's been slit and crisscrossed, then placed in descending layers on the package.

WINTER WONDERLAND—Remote areas are more accessible during winter months with a snowmobile. The 14-h.p. powered Ski-Horse makes snowed-in areas as accessible as in summer. Driven by an endless belt, the unit carries two adults at speeds in excess of 30 m.p.h. For family outings, the units have an accessory "Cutler" sleigh that holds several children.

Story of Nicolette:

A Poodle's Christmas

By DINITIA SMITH

Nicolette was a city dog. A golden, soft-haired, expensive poodle who went to the hair dresser every week. She was very spoiled. From the time she had been given to Johnny for his birthday, she had everything a dog could want — the juiciest steaks, the finest rubber bones, a soft bed, the best corner by the fire and even a jeweled collar.

But Nicolette truly loved Johnny and his family. And in return, they loved her, for she was playful and good-natured.

There was one day, though, when Nicolette almost lost everything.

It was Christmas. In the morning everyone opened their presents. Johnny had shiny new ice skates, his mother had perfume and his father a red-striped tie. But there was nothing for Nicolette.

Everyone was so excited, opening the presents, eating turkey, calling grandma, that they didn't notice Nicolette sitting sadly in her corner. And the longer she sat there the sadder she got. How could they be so mean and inconsiderate, she thought.

WANTED TO SULK

"Nicolette, why don't you take Johnny skating in the park," Johnny's mother said to her. Nicolette, who understood almost everything that was said to her, set out obediently with Johnny. She hadn't really wanted to go; she wanted to sulk. So she lagged and stopped and a smiled everything she could.

"Come on, Nicolette," Johnny said, "Don't be so slow! We'll never get there."

When they reached the skating rink, Johnny ran to get on his skates — and off he went around and around in time with the music, making sure he didn't bump into the other children.

Nicolette sat on the edge of the rink in darkness and thought. She knew she was supposed to wait for Johnny and see that he got home safely. The park was big, and it wasn't safe for little boys alone at night. But after all, she said to herself, why should I sit around and watch Johnny enjoy his Christmas present when no one gave me anything. I think I'll just go take a walk.

EXCITING SMELLS

The park was full of exciting smells and endless things to explore. There were bushes, trees and fences. There might be another dog and if she were lucky, a cat to chase.

She ran up and down, every now and then investigating a garbage can — in private, of course. It would never do for an apricot poodle to be interested in garbage cans!

It was getting darker and colder. Little flakes of snow clung to Nicolette's fur, and she shivered in spite of herself. She should start back, she knew. Johnny might wonder where she was.

When she got back, the skaters were gone. The lights were out. The music had stopped. Johnny wasn't there.

STARTS TO BARK

Nicolette's hair stood on end. Where was he? She sniffed anxiously. There were so many smells, and she couldn't find him. She began to bark.

The wind whistled through the trees. The snow was falling faster now. Nicolette whined softly to herself. How could she have been so careless? How could she have left him?

She could imagine Johnny's parents scolding her. "Oh, Nicolette, you bad, bad dog!" They would never forgive her. They would give her to the dog pound. There would be no more fire — or steaks — or bubble baths. And most important of all, no Johnny.

Nicolette was desperately unhappy.

WAS IT JOHNNY?

What was that? Her ears went out; her nose pointed left, right, everywhere. "Nicolette, Nicolette, where are you?" It couldn't be. Was it Johnny? Was he looking for her?

Wool — wool! W-o-o! barked Nicolette.

She saw a figure running toward her. The figure was carrying ice skates. It was Johnny. She bounded up, almost knocking him over in her eagerness. Stopping on her hind legs, she put her paws on his shoulders and licked his face. Her tail was wagging so fiercely, it seemed it might come off. She whined and barked with glee.

"Oh, Nicolette, girl! It sure is good to see you," said Johnny. "I'm so lost!"

KNOWS WAY HOME

But Nicolette knew the way home. She could smell her way anywhere. Even through falling snow and the winter wind. The snow was deep now, and the park was wide. All around them were dark trees, and way in the distance the huge lighted skyscrapers.

It took them a long time to get home. "Oh, Johnny, Johnny, you don't know how worried we were," cried his mother. "Thank goodness you had Nicolette with you."

After dinner, they climbed the stairs together. Nicolette curled up at the foot of Johnny's bed. Never again, she thought to herself. Never again would she leave Johnny alone. So what if she didn't get a Christmas present. She had her little boy, didn't she?

Mrs. Louse Troy (left) and Mrs. Rose Ryan, employees at Pontiac General Hospital examine entries in a contest for the most original decorations of a Thanksgiving basket.

The turkey took second place with first place going to the log cabin on the table. All departments submit entries.

One Contest Where Each Is Winner

For two weeks now, "Operation Thanksgiving Basket" has been in full force by employees of Pontiac General Hospital. The 27 baskets of turkey and canned goods (for needy families) get the full treatment with holiday decorations adding a note of festivity.

It has now become a contest for employees to compete in unusual decorations.

This year, the first prize went to the laundry department whose basket depicted a log cabin with animals and pilgrims.

Second prize went to the central service department. Theirs was a large turkey made entirely of crepe paper complete with a large fanned tail.

The nursery came in third with its symbolic Indian girl surrounded by gifts of food.

Judges for the event were Mary Guthrie, Margaret So-winski, Andy Donellan, Nellie Martineau and Ferrell Boyce. Baskets were distributed on Wednesday.

News of Interest

Mr. and Mrs. William Seabright of Evanston, Ill. and their children, Caitlin and David, will be spending the Thanksgiving holiday with Mrs. Seabright's mother, Mrs. John Irwin Sr. of Dell Rose Drive.

They will all be dinner guests of the Richard Irwins of Hammond Lake. Mrs. Everett Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Callow and the John Irwins Jr. will also be present for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bigler of West Ingo Road will be celebrating a double occasion over the Thanksgiving holiday, as it is their daughter Jane's 21st birthday. She will be home from University of Michigan with two sorority sisters, Marilyn Mall of Oakwood Park, Ill. and Debbie Holden of Tecumseh.

Also present will be Wilber Rowston, Mrs. Bigler's father, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rowston. Jane's brother, Bruce, will also be home from University of Michigan to share the holiday with his parents and sister Susie.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cramp-ton of Bloomfield Hills and their two sons will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Hoogerhyde of Chippewa Road. Also present will be the Hoogerhyde daughter Judy, home from school for the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Crissman of Applewood Lane, are planning a real family-style holiday dinner for their son, Dr. Richard K. Crissman and his wife and eight children who will be visiting them from Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jenkins of Wenonah Drive will be spending Thanksgiving day at her mother's, Mrs. Blenda Anderson of Middle Straits Lake.

Mike, home from University of Michigan, and Tom, home from Western Michigan University will be bringing a guest, Jean Robinson of Flint to their grandmother's.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Caughill of Middle Belt Road, West Bloomfield Township and their daughter Gail, home from Western Michigan University, will be guests of Mrs. Caughill's mother, Mrs. Oscar H. Lundbeck of Chippewa Road.

Thanksgiving will see two of the Colin H. Johns' children home for the big day. Both Tryna who attends DePauw University and "Pike", a student at Colgate University will be home to celebrate the day in their Birmingham home. Daughter, Sally, who's busy with a career in Chicago, will be unable to make the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Kimmins of Bloomfield Hills will be entertaining at Thanksgiving dinner for their daughter and son-in-law the Harold Hacketts of Tilmor Drive and their children Christine and Christopher.

Another son, Dr. Robert Kimmins, his wife and children Elizabeth and Barbara will be present.

The Lloyd Eatons of Lowell Street will also be guests with their son Frank Lloyd Taton Jr. and his family.

It will be a double celebration for the family group as it is also the birthday of Christine and Mrs. Harry Kimmins.

Adopting Reasons Vary

By BEA SWORDS

Part II of a Series

Everyone who adopts a child has his own special reason. Sometimes an adoption is made because a family has lost a child and wants to replace it. Sometimes there are no children at all. People adopt a child to supply an heir and to carry on a family name.

But they all adopt because they want to love a child. The very idea of adopting is a major decision for any family, just as having a child is a major step. Your whole life is rearranged.

ALL CHANGES

Whether you are mother or father, you will have your pre-formed ideas on child-raising scrambled and your way of life rearranged. As a matter of fact, nothing will be the same for probably 20 years.

People who have raised their children tell us, nothing is the same without the children home either.

Adoption is easier than you think. You have probably been the victim from time to time of a dozen false ideas.

At Michigan Children's Aid Society I asked Louis Lovitt some very honest questions and received some very honest answers. Children's Aid Society is primarily interested in finding homes for small children and infants. The older children are handled by Oakland County Probate Court's Adoptive Services.

FAMILY ALREADY

I asked if a family that already had children could adopt. He said "yes," quite simply "yes."

There are of course different circumstances with different people, but if a family with children wants to take on another child and can afford to without hurting themselves or their children — fine.

He also pointed out that a set amount of money in the bank as ready cash was not necessary. Prospective adoptive parents do not have to own their own home.

At Oakland County's Adoptive Services I was told that the only concrete stipulation in adopting children is that the prospective parents want a child and want to care for it.

Mrs. Dorothy Reason of Adoptive Services told me that it is usually not too difficult to know which families are sincere in adopting a child and which are not. People who really mean to adopt are not discouraged.

RED TAPE

Yes, there definitely is red tape to adopting a child. That is because the court must make the adoption legal by giving consent. But it is a good kind of red tape.

Don't let anyone, nor your family doctor, your lawyer or your clergyman "help" you adopt a child from any other source but an agency. Their intentions may be the very best, but the risk is still high. Only in a court approved, legal adoption is there any protection for you.

Celebration for Couple

The Earl F. Kauls of North Opdyke Road, Pontiac Township, observed their golden wedding anniversary Nov. 17. Their children, Vernell E. of Warbler Drive, Independence Township, Joseph F. of Loon Lake Shores and Mrs. Louis Lessard of Clarkston honored them Sunday with an open house.

Some 50 guests attended the occasion which took place in the Kauls home. Out of town guests came from Clare and Ann Arbor.

The couple have nine grandchildren.

News of Interest

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and his wife of Ottawa Drive will travel to Dryden for Thanksgiving dinner. With them will be Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. N. P. Warren.

Two of the Taylor's daughters, Janet, home from Western Michigan University, and Laurie will also go on the family outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Huttenlocher will be at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, the James Huttenlochers, for Thanksgiving dinner.

Present will be the James Huttenlochers' children Richard, Susan and Martha.

The Richard Huttenlochers and their children John and David are also expected. The Huttenlochers reside in Clarkston.

Dinner guests of the B. Jack Habels of Miami Road on Thursday will include her mother, Mrs. Carl Feliks, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Feliks of Woodmont Street, and sons Kevin, Paul and Michael (who attends University of Detroit). The John S. Blacks of Foxcroft and Roger White of Howell complete the list.

The other Jenkins' children, Rick, Bill and Kathy, will also be there as will Mrs. Anderson's brother, Grant Hubenet of Detroit and the Louis Schmidts, also of Detroit.

The Frank Sheridans of Ottawa Drive will have their daughters and their families gathered around the Thanksgiving dinner table.

They are: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Winters of Ottawa Drive and son Michael; the Paul Harworts of Lowell Street and children, Tom, Kathy, Patsy, Carol and Paul.

Also spending the day with the Sheridans will be Mr. Winters' mother and sister, Mrs. George Winters and Katherine Winters of Auburn Avenue.

Huskies Expect to Contend; Rebuilding at PCH

Farmington 5 Highly Rated in Lakes Loop

Rebounding May Hurt
Waterford; Vikings
Hope to Move Up

Defending champion Farmington is favored in the Inter-Lakes basketball race, but Pontiac Northern is expected to make a strong challenge.

The Huskies, who suffered through a lean (4-1) campaign and finished third last season, lost only one veteran. Eight lettermen return to bolster the title bid.

Waterford lost its scoring punch and key rebounders from its second place 1965-66 team. Walled Lake finished last and isn't expected to pull higher than fourth above newcomer Livonia Stevenson.

"This team could win 10 to 15 games this year," said PNH coach, Dick Hall. He lists the strong points as good speed, an adequate bench, improved rebounding and a "good attitude."

"However, we have only average shooters, no real big man and we are inexperienced at guard," he points out.

Don Hayward (6-3) and Dana Coim (6-2 1/2) are juniors who were starters last season. The remaining six lettermen saw considerable action as Hall started pointing toward this season when it was apparent theirs were going to turn out well.

Mike Clancy, Rich Rhoney and Craig Deaton are the leading guard candidates.

Jack Brown, a senior and double letterman, can play either forward or guard. Bob Traynor and Stan Allison, a pair of 6-3 juniors who started last season on the junior varsity, will vie for the remaining front line spot.

Farmington's only serious loss was playmaker, Mike Wilson. The Falcons have at least seven players back who have the potential of making this season's team one of Farmington's finest.

In addition, Farmington had a fine junior varsity team last season.

Among the top varsity returnees are Mike Ames (6-3), Greg Darrow (5-1), George Grimala (5-10), Fritz Simons (6-1) and Mike Thompson (6-2).

Waterford has only Rick Ziemi's scoring records. The sharpshooting forward is now at Albion College.

"We are very small," said coach Bob Taylor, "and rebounding will be the big question. With the type of team that we have it's very difficult to predict the season ahead."

Five lettermen return and the tallest is Karl Arrington (6-1) who showed scoring potential on occasion last season. Guard Cliff Seiber turned in some good performances.

Paul Thomas, Ron Stafford and Bill Hill are the other veterans, but they saw only limited action.

Walled Lake is another team that will have to give away height on the boards and rely on shooting.

Seven players who started at least one game last season return. Steve Fogle, Larry Grinnell, Tom Carl, Russ Herron, Gus Maragos, Dave Baker and Rick Schmalz form the nucleus. Grinnell is the tallest at 6-3.

INTER-LAKES Consensus
1. Farmington
2. Pontiac Northern
3. Waterford
4. Walled Lake
5. Livonia Stevenson

Inter-Lakes

FEEDER — Junior Walter Causey, 6-2 1/2 front court performer, is likely to play a lot of high post for Pontiac Central this season after fine junior varsity efforts last year.

Trojans Given Nod in Saginaw Valley

Although the football team has done well the last couple of years, Pontiac Central still is better known for its strong basketball teams.

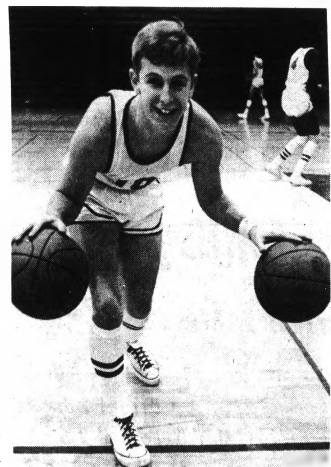

The Chiefs have been one of the dominant forces in the Saginaw Valley Conference over the years and this probably is the reason why three other league coaches pick PCH to win the title this season.

Coach Fred Zittel doesn't agree and the facts seem to be on his side.

Graduation stripped PCH of its top players. Only two lettermen return from last season's team that missed the SVC title by a total of five points and lost in the regional finals to eventual state Class A titlist Ferndale.

Zittel is planning to use two and possibly three juniors as starters, Lettermen Prentice

DOUBLE THREAT — Pontiac Northern senior Rick Rhoney is counted upon by coach Dick Hall to provide both scoring punch and aggressive defense for Huskies who are hoping to dethrone Inter-Lakes League champion Farmington this winter.

Groves, Again, Boasts Championship Material

Birmingham Groves posted soft shooting touch for coach the best record last winter. Tom Carson (last winter's out-coming) led the team to a Class A prep basketball title.

North Farmington could develop into a potent opponent as the season ages since it has a fine crop of junior varsity candidates who should fill in many of the vacancies caused by graduation.

The defending Northwest Suburban Activities Association champion Groves has 64 leading come a factor in the race, Li-senior Mike Rafferty — one of Livonia Franklin and possibly De-two returning All-County play-ers. Groves could emerge as this year-and 6-8 center the top challenger to Groves' Craig Love (who possesses a little hope).

Hill and Alton Wilson are key players.

Probably the big reason other coaches are high on Central — besides the past performances — is the fact that PCH consistently has strong junior varsity teams.

Coach Ralph Grubb turned out another highly successful reserve unit last season and players from that team are making up the bulk of this season's varsity.

Walter Causey (6-2 1/2) and Gordon Hamilton (6-3) are the tallest of the newcomers. Dan Daniels, Ardell Sheldon and a John Childs are others who have a chance of seeing considerable action.

"This is a very young and inexperienced team," said Zittel. "I hope that we might improve as the season goes along."

TOP RATED — Defending champion Saginaw is rated the team to beat again this season.

The Trojans have the tallest and shortest lettermen in the conference. Adrian Prince (6-6) and Charles Kelley (5-4) join with touted newcomer Gene Seals to pose another strong threat.

Arthur Hill, another consistent power, is rated a good chance of overtaking Saginaw.

Seven lettermen return. Top rated are John Decker (5-10), Tom Thon (6-4), Bob Cady (6-2), Chuck Hesse (6-2), the Reims (6-2) and Craig Johnson (6-5).

What graduation didn't take from Flint Northern, cross-town rival Flint Central received in the form of transfer students.

Freels Bacon and Herb Washington are now at Central. Washington, however, won't be eligible until the second semester. Tim Bograkov, who scored 334 points last season, returns to help Stan Gooch start his first season as head coach.

The Indians are expected to get much stronger as the season progresses.

Bay City Central could be a spoiler. The top players from last season's team are gone and the Wolves probably will be hard-pressed to repeat a third place finish.

Tom Meherert (6-2), Keaton Murphy (6-2) and Jack Gruber (5-10) are the top returning lettermen.

Flint Southwestern will be tough, particularly when the Colts come to Pontiac, and so will Midland, but neither is expected to make the first division.

The same holds true for Bay City Handy.

The Eagles rule the nest in Southeastern Michigan Association basketball. If there was any doubt, the Ferndale quintet dispelled that last winter when it captured state championship No. 2 in four years.

The Eagles just nipped Hazel Park for the SEMA crown last season, and weren't given much chance to advance beyond the regionals in the tournament activity.

But coach Roy Burkhardt expertly guided the Eagles to
