Goldfine Wants Court to Rule on Questions

Probe Chief Is Cool to Plea on Refusal to Give Answers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine's lawyers asked a House subcommittee today to halt hearings, and take to a judge the fight over Goldfine's refusal to answer some questions.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) tossed cold water on the idea.

The move marked the start of Goldfine's sixth day of testimony on charges that he got favored treatment from federal regulatory agencies through his friendship with presidential aide Sherman Adams. He and Adams deny this.

The subcommittee has threatened to cite Goldfine for contempt for not answering 23 questions about his financial affairs.

Goldfine says the questions involve his private business and have nothing to do with the House inquiry into how regulatory agencies carry out the law.

Lawyer Samuel Sears restated Goldfine's refusal to answer once again today. Then Sears made the surprise move.

The Boston millionaire, returning yesterday from a weekend at home, said he wasn't mad at anybody despite the subcommittee's threat to cite him for contempt for refusing to answer 23 specific questions last week.

But he declined to say what reply he would give to new questions.

Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.), a member of the subcommittee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), said he now thinks the group will finish with Goldfine by tomorrow.

Goldfine, who on Saturday had accused the congressmen of "sneak, pry and spy," said he was not disappointed at the progress of the hearings.

Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) took note of the hearings' main theme — that Goldfine got federal favors in return for expensive hospitality to presidential aide Sherman Adams. Both Goldfine and Adams hotly dispute this.

Williams said it is "very significant" that Goldfine so far has not shown that he paid any hotel bills for Adams before the former New Hampshire governor came to Washington with Eisenhower in 1953, whereas the investigators have found more than $3,000 worth.

Bit Cooler Tonight With Low of 62

The weatherman promises slightly cooler temperatures tonight and tomorrow. Tonight's low will be near 62 degrees.

Partly cloudy and cooler is the forecast for Wednesday with the high reaching about 78 and the low tomorrow night around 60.

Thursday and Friday will be warm again, but "a little cooler" is the prediction for weekend. Light showers are possible Thursday and Friday night.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 68 degrees. The reading was 82 at 1 p.m.

41 Tickets, 350 Warnings So Far

Lake Patrols Keep Busy

Oakland County's force of 25 special deputies for lake patrol have been busy for half the summer now, handing out violation tickets, warning over-enthusiastic boaters and aiding many persons in distress on area lakes.

Thus far a total of 41 violation tickets have been issued to careless boaters and at least 350 warnings have been handed out to would-be violators.

Most tickets have been either for reckless operation of a motor boat or for not having the boat properly registered.

Of the 350 persons warned, at least half could have been ticketed legally.

Records show 16 reckless operation tickets, 15 tickets for having no registration number, and

Wants to Plead Guilty to Escape County Jail Food

The cuisine at the Oakland County Jail prompted a 21-year-old Pontiac Township man yesterday to plead guilty to burglary so that he "could get up to Jackson Prison and get some good food."

But Norman K. Smith, of 1698 Taylor Rd., will have to wait it out at the jail — food and all — until next Monday.

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams ordered him back there to reconsider his request to change a plea of innocent to guilty for breaking into the Union Lake Lumber Co., 7234 Cooley Lake Rd., last month.

Smith, who stood mute July 7, said the only reason he wanted to plead guilty was that he was "starving to death" at the County Jail.

"I realize the food is not comparable to that in our better restaurants," replied the judge, "but before I'll accept any change of plea it must have no relationship with the condition of the food at the jail."

Town Battles Its Worst Flood

Streator, Ill., Stricken; Fire, Explosion Leave 4 Dead, 10 Injured

STREATOR, Ill. (UPI) — This community of 17,000 battled its worst flood in history today in the wake of fire and explosion that destroyed a four-story hardware building, killing at least four persons and injuring 10.

Residents braced for even greater flood damage as authorities warned a giant crest was surging down the Vermillion River toward the city.

Torrential rains ranging up to six inches yesterday triggered the floodwaters which threatened to knock out the city's water and sewage disposal plants. About 500 persons were evacuated from their flooded homes last night.

The floods also were blamed for a sewer gas explosion and fire yesterday that ripped apart the Williams Hardware Co. building in the business district.

Firemen poured water on the smoldering building throughout the night and planned to enter the burned-out shell today to recover at least three bodies believed pinned in the debris.

The double-barrelled flood and fire disasters attracted thousands of persons, first to watch the spectacular blaze and then to watch and lend a hand to flood victims.

About 2,500 volunteers sandbagged a levee around the sewage disposal plant, barely keeping ahead of the fast-rising water.

The river climbed to about four feet above the 49.4-foot flood stage early today and Mayor Ray Eutsey predicted it would rise another three or four feet before receding. The stage was more than a foot over the high point of 1951, the worst previous flood here.

one for using a false registration number.

The remaining tickets are for violations such as illegal or dangerous water skiing and excessive exhaust noise.

Pontiac Lake has contributed the largest number of violators with eight. Cass Lake is next with six.

Union Lake four, and the remaining tickets have been issued to violators on Pine, Middle Straits, Commerce, Lakeville, Meceday, Lotus, and Oxbow Lakes.

Records also show many warnings to swimmers who have strayed from protected swimming areas.

This includes warnings to skin divers who have failed to properly mark their presence on a lake by the use of anchored flags or buoys.

At least 15 incidents have been recorded where deputies came to the aid of accident victims.

All these accidents were in real trouble, most of them floundering.

News From Mideast Tinderbox

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union today sought unsuccessfully to oust the representatives of the overthrown Iraqi government in the U.N. Security Council.

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—Headquarters of the Baghdad Pact will be changed from revolt-torn Baghdad to Tehran, and the remaining members will try to keep the anti-Communist alliance alive, informed sources reported today.

CAIRO (UPI)—The United Arab Republic granted diplomatic recognition today to the new Iraqi government. The official announcement less than 24 hours after the Baghdad coup d'etat came shortly after President Gamal Abdel Nasser cabled his good wishes to the Iraqi revolutionary leaders.

LONDON (UPI)—Baghdad Radio today broadcast a communique by rebel leaders offering a reward of 10,000 dinars ($28,000) for the capture of Premier Nuri Said. The communique said the premier "escaped and absconded from the wrath of the people." Yesterday insurgent broadcasts reported Said had been lynched but later denied this.

LONDON (AP)—Pan American World Airways said today it had received a radio report from its Tehran office that the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad was surrounded by Iraqi rebels and that no one was allowed to leave.

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—Israel appealed today for "quick and firm action" by the United States to prevent the rest of the Arab world from falling to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Charles de Gaulle summoned his top military and diplomatic aides into emergency session today to study a Lebanese request for French, British and American troops.

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—The U.S. aircraft carrier Wasp, two cruisers and a transport left Naples harbor suddenly today. Destination of the ships was not known but they presumably were reinforcing other units of the Sixth Fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean.

HONOLULU (AP)—Defense Secretary Neil McElroy, at Eniwetok to observe U.S. nuclear tests, is flying back at once to Washington. McElroy, who arrived in the test area yesterday, had planned to stay until Friday. He cut short the visit because of the Middle East crisis.

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI)—The pilot of an American airliner said today Iraqi revolutionary troops set up machineguns around the aircraft to prevent it from taking off yesterday from the Basra Airport.

CAPE PORPOISE, Maine (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Henry Cabot Lodge interrupted a yachting vacation off the Maine coast today to return to his post and help deal with the crisis in Iraq. The Coast Guard appealed to radio stations in Boston and along the Maine coast to broadcast messages that Lodge was wanted for a top-level conference in Washington.

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy selling again hit international oil shares on the New York stock market today, reflecting the crisis in the Middle East. The Iraqi coup gave the stock market its widest break of the year — a decline of nearly 6 points in the industrial average, at yesterday's close.

Ike Answers Appeal of Chamoun for Aid

Action Follows on Heels of Pro-Nasser Coup in Strife-Torn Iraq

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The U.S. Marines have landed in Lebanon.

The vanguard of 5,000 U.S. Leathernecks ordered here by President Eisenhower landed today from the 6th Fleet, little more than 24 hours after a pro-Nasser revolt had overthrown the government of Iraq.

The action came as the United Nations Security Council gathered in New York to deal with threats to peace in this area. President Eisenhower said U.S. use of the troops will end when the Security Council "has itself taken the measures necessary to maintain international peace and security."

President Eisenhower was understood to be anxious to avoid any independent military action outside the United Nations framework.

But he was reported ready to face up to a decision that such action might be necessary if the U. N. did not act effectively or if new coups threatened to overturn neighboring pro-Western nations.

President Eisenhower said Marines were sent at the request of Lebanese President Camille Chamoun to guard American lives and protect Lebanon against indirect aggression.

The first Marines landed from 12 landing craft at Khaleh Beach just south of this revolt-torn capital. They came ashore from seven small warships which appeared offshore.

U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock urged the 2,500 Americans in Lebanon to leave the country.

Ten U. S. Embassy families left today, including the wife and son of the ambassador.

Pan American World Airways in London had a report that the U. S. Embassy in Baghdad was surrounded by rebels. The British Embassy there was sacked and burned by the rebels yesterday.

The Baghdad radio reported again today that 70-year-old Premier Nuri Said had been beaten to death by a mob. Earlier the radio had admitted its claims of his death yesterday were not true and that he had escaped. These broadcasts had offered a price for his capture.

"The dog of imperialism was killed by the people and his body taken to the Palace of Justice in Baghdad," the one broadcast declared.

Baghdad said yesterday that Crown Prince Abdul Ilah had BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The leathernecks who landed here today are from the 2nd Battalion of the 2nd Marines.

Workers at construction sites along the beach road leading to the landing area, dropped their tools and rushed to get a closer look.

An entire battalion was landed. By 3:15 p.m., Lebanon time, the landing was completed. Noncommissioned officers reported that the airport had been occupied. The commander of the operation was Lt. Col. Harry Hadd of St. Paul, Minn.

Asked where his unit had come from, he grinned and pointed to the ships in the harbor.

"From out there," he said. He said he had no instructions regarding liaison with the Lebanese army.

A Lebanese civil aviation authority representative walked across the sands to Hadd and explained that all traffic had been stopped at the Beirut airport.

He asked when the airlines could resume operations. Hadd replied he would have to seek instructions from higher authority.

Around 2 p.m., three carrier-based aircraft were seen flying toward the airfield. Two reconnaissance planes flew high overhead.

After all these troops were ashore and deployed in the direction of the airport, landing craft continued to bring equipment ashore.

The Lebanese on the beach mingled freely with the Marines.

Iraq's Pro-Western Strong Man Reported Alive

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT (AP)—Nuri Said, pro-Western strong man of Iraq, escaped from rebel forces which overthrew Iraq's government and was hunted today with a price on his head.

The rebel-controlled Baghdad radio announced Nuri's escape. It was the first indication that the military leaders who wrested Iraq from the Western camp into President Nasser's Soviet-approved bloc yesterday might still have obstacles in their path.

The West hoped fervently that Iraqi resistance to the rebels would rally around the 70-year-old soldier-statesman, the dominant force in his country for years and one of the West's best friends in the Middle East.

In New York, the United States called the U.N. Security Council into emergency session today to seek a check to the new turbulence in the Middle East. Both the U.S. and British governments alerted forces for possible intervention in the area, but the Eisenhower administration was hoping the U.N. could successfully bolster the forces opposed to the spread of Nasserism.

However, the threat of the Soviet veto made any decisive U.N. action unlikely. Pro-Western sources in Beirut said failure of the West to intervene to protect Jordan and Lebanon would mean the end of Western influence in the Middle East.

The rebel-held Baghdad radio claimed that the situation in Iraq has finally been stabilized and the British-trained Iraqi army of 60,000 had rallied to the new republic headed by Brig. Gen. Abdel Karim Kassam as premier.

Hours later came the announcement of Nuri's escape, with no word on how he did it. But it appeared unlikely a man of his age could have gotten away without help, and this roused hope in London that resistance forces were gathering. The commander of the rebel forces offered a reward of 10,000 dinars—$28,000—for his capture.

Some diplomats experienced in the Middle East cautioned that the escape announcement might be a ruse. They said the rebels might be trying to absolve themselves of any responsibility for his death by laying the groundwork for an announcement that Nuri had been shot during the manhunt.

Nuri was first reported killed by mobs which hanged Crown Prince Abdul Ilah, the uncle and chief palace adviser of young King Faisal II and a leading British ally. The Baghdad mob also sacked and burned the British Embassy, symbol of Britain's long dominance of the country.

There still was no word on King Faisal's fate. But his cousin in the Hashemite family, 23-year-old King Hussein of Jordan, proclaimed himself chief of state of the Iraqi-Jordan federation the two neighbors had organized in opposition to President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Baghdad radio's broadcasts remained the chief source of information on the situation in Iraq. Commercial communication channels were shut down. Airports were closed to traffic, and the frontiers closed to foreigners.

Nasser sent his greetings to the Iraqi rebels, which had announced they would follow his "liberated Arab policy." The U.A.R. chief cut short his visit to Yugoslav President Tito and sailed for home one day early. Cairo radio said the U.A.R. would recognize the republic of Iraq, jubilant crowds in Cairo and Damascus hailed Nasser's triumph.

The United States held off a decision on direct military intervention to protect shaky, pro-Western Jordan and Lebanon from the threats of similar coups. Washington banked heavily on swift U.N. action but did not rule out acting with Britain outside the world organization.

The possibility of landing the 3,600 Marines with the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean was under consideration, one senator reported after President Eisenhower met with congressional leaders. The 6th Fleet commander Rear Adm. Charles E. Brown, cut short a Bastille Day visit to the French Riviera and sailed to the eastern Mediterranean with the 85,000-ton aircraft carrier Saratoga and three other ships.

Huge Air Force transport planes at Charleston, S.C., took off for Europe, where they would be available to fly U.S. troops from Germany to the Middle East if necessary.

After the longest meeting of the British Cabinet since World War II, Prime Minister Macmillan alerted 6,000 British troops for possible speedy movement to the Middle East. Another 650 men were already standing by. One possibility was the immediate reinforcement of British garrisons at the Red Sea base of Aden and in the Persian Gulf Sheikdom of Kuwait both within striking distance of Iraq.

Britain has about 6,000 citizens in Iraq, many of them engaged in producing a large part of the oil which Britain vitally needs. The controller of the British Embassy was killed by a stray bullet during the attack in Baghdad but the rest of the Britons were reported safe. There were no reports of the smaller number of Americans there being endangered.

The French sent two aircraft carriers, six destroyers and other ships speeding east, reportedly to join a French flotilla now in the eastern Mediterranean.

The other three Asian members of the Baghdad Pact—Turkey, Iran and Pakistan—met in Ankara without Iraq. There was no official word that Iraq would pull out of the anti-Soviet alliance but that appeared only a matter of time because of Nasser's violent opposition to it.

Authoritative sources said leaders of the other three countries considered that Iraq's withdrawal would not mean an end to the pact. One source pointed out that the three nations still form a solid geographic link along the southern borders of the Soviet Union.

President Gives Reasons for Dispatching Marines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The text of President Eisenhower's statement on sending U. S. Marines into Lebanon follows:

Yesterday morning, I received from President Chamoun of Lebanon an urgent plea that some United States forces be stationed in Lebanon to help maintain security and to evidence the concern of the United States for the integrity and independence of Lebanon. President Chamoun's appeal was made with the concurrence of all of the members of the Lebanese Cabinet.

President Chamoun made clear that he considered an immediate

United States response imperative if Lebanon's independence, already menaced from without, were to be preserved in the face of the grave developments which occurred yesterday in Baghdad whereby the lawful government was violently overthrown and many of its members martyred.

In response to this appeal from the government of Lebanon, the United States has dispatched a contingent of United States forces to Lebanon to protect American lives and by their presence there to encourage the Lebanese government in defense of Lebanese sovereignty and integrity.

These forces have not been sent as any act of war. They will demonstrate the concern of the United States for the independence and integrity of Lebanon, which we deem vital to the national interest and world peace. Our concern will also be shown by economic assistance. We shall act in accordance with these legitimate concerns.

The United States, this morning, will report its action to an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council. As the United Nations Charter recognizes, there is an inherent right of collective self-defense. In conformity with the spirit of the Charter, the United States is reporting the measures taken by it to the Security Council of the United Nations, making clear that these measures will be terminated as soon as the Security Council has itself taken the measures necessary to maintain international peace and security.

The United States believes that the United Nations can and should take measures which are adequate to preserve the independence and integrity of Lebanon.

It is apparent, however, that in the face of the tragic and shocking events that are occurring nearby, more will be required than the team of United Nations observers now in Lebanon.

Therefore, the United States will support in the United Nations measures which seem to be adequate to meet the new situation and which will enable the United States forces promptly to be withdrawn.

Lebanon is a small peace-loving state with which the United States has traditionally had the most friendly relations. There are in Lebanon about 2500 Americans and we cannot, consistent with our historic relations and with the principles of the United Nations, stand idly by when Lebanon appeals itself for evidence of our concern and when Lebanon may not be able to preserve internal order and to defend itself against indirect aggression.

Rainy Weather Persists in Wide Sections of East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rainy weather persisted in wide sections in the Eastern third of the country today in the wake of violent storms and heavy rain in the past 24 hours.

Tornadoes skipped across areas in Iowa and New Jersey yesterday. Tornado winds lashed sections of Wisconsin, Missouri and Illinois. No injuries were reported in the storm belt.

The heaviest rain belt stretched from the southern Great Lakes region westward into southern Iowa and northern Missouri. The storms and showers erupted near the leading edge of a cool air mass moving southeastward from Canada.

A tornado struck rural areas in southwest Iowa, causing extensive damage to at least 10 farms in Adams and Taylor counties. Numerous funnel clouds also were reported in the area as well as in other sections of the state. Heaviest rain was an unofficial 7 inches in southeast Iowa.

The offer of a reward for Nuri Said had raised speculation that he was among friendly tribesmen and was stirring up resistance. His friends in Beirut claimed fighting was still going on in Baghdad.

Strong British and American naval forces were moving into the eastern Mediterranean.

Fifteen ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet, including the 33,100-ton carrier Wasp, had left Naples on sudden orders, and 11 others hailed in their sailors from shore leaved on the French Riviera and sailed. Other units had suddenly turned about from the Greek naval base at Salomon Bay.

British naval units were off Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean and others steamed out of Malta. These included the carrier Eagle.

Britain had alerted 6,000 troops at their bases in Britain for possible movement.

Big U.S. air transports were flown from the United States to a European base.

President Chamoun, who has been fighting off a pro-Nasser rebellion here for 67 days, asked for Western intervention after the revolt in Iraq tossed out the pro-Western monarchy and premier. The Day in Birmingham

Contracts for $95,275 Approved by Commission

BIRMINGHAM — Contracts for paving, street surfacing, traffic signs and police cars in the amount of $95,275.97 were approved by the Birmingham City Commission last night.

They include the Cadillac Asphalt Co. of Detroit whose bid of $69,730.07 was low for the asphaltic concrete surfacing and Edward R. White of Berkeley for the cement concrete paving. His bid was $21,447.11.

Traffic signs will be purchased from Paul H. Callender of Charlotte at a cost of $1,819.90. The new police cars will be purchased from the Shalla Chevrolet Co., Inc., at a total cost of $2,778.26.

The Cole avenue sewer, water main and paving and the Commerce street paving special assessment districts also were approved.

City commissioners violated an unwritten rule of holding only three reasoning hearings a year because they were unable to include them in their July schedule. They have set a hearing Aug. 18 for the Commiskey property, the Chiera property and the property owned by Dr. J. Clark Moloney.

Liquor license transfers received no objections from commissioners. They included the transfer of the license of John and Viola Zia to Robert J. Niemeyer and Carl H. Pubanz and the transfer from Mark B. Bearss to Wabek Pharmacy and Prescription Center, Inc.

Commissioners upheld the suggestion of City Manager L. R. Gare who advised them against the purchase of property in the River Rouge area from Raymond H. Smith, of 1091 N. Woodward Ave.

Gare said he had explained to Smith that since the land is already dedicated for use as a flood plain area along the river, purchase is unnecessary.

One of the "sweetest" houses in Birmingham is that of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Pearson, 951 Mohegan Ave.

Although they did not know it until a few days ago, their home has been turned into a bee hive.

Mrs. Pearson said they had recently noticed a peculiar noise in the hall and on investigation found that a multitude of bees had taken up residence there between the walls.

She said their mailman saw the bees entering the outside wall a year ago but thinking the family was aware of them, he had not mentioned it.

Al Sundell, Birmingham's versatile dog warden, plans to visit the Pearson home tonight after what he hopes is the bees' bedtime and run a line from the exhaust pipe of his car to their place of entry. Mrs. Pearson said she hopes the honey will solidify and become part of the insulation.

Minor damages resulted yesterday from a fire in the Leon Hart home, 1155 Pilgrim Ave.

Firemen said children had turned on an electric heater in the bathroom which set fire to a vanity bench. Damages were estimated at less than $25.

Bloomfield Hills city commissioners have approved eight members of the election board to serve at the Aug. 5 primary.

The Young Adults of the Birmingham YMCA will meet at the "Y" offices, 400 E. Lincoln Ave., at 12:30 p.m. Sunday to attend a group picnic at Metropolitan Beach. There will be swimming, golf, followed by dancing in the evening.

All single men and women between 20 and 40 are invited to join the group. Additional information may be obtained by calling the "Y" office.

Motorist Drowns at Soo

Car Dives Off Ferry Dock

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A motorist hurtled to his death when his car plummeted from a ferryboat dock ramp below the American Soo locks last night.

The motorist, whose body was recovered from the 27 feet of water in the St. Marys River, was identified as Keith Carpenter, 59, of Libertyville, Ill.

The car raced 300 feet down the ramp, collided with a parked panel truck, ramming it off the edge of the dock. The point is just below the MacArthur Dock.

Carpenter's body was recovered by crewmen of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Tamarack. The car and truck also were recovered.

Miss Eva McEvoy, ticket agent at the ferry booth, said Carpenter had driven past the booth and had been called back to get his ticket. He backed up, bumping the front fender of a car behind him, she said.

Suddenly, Mrs. McEvoy said, Carpenter's car "took off like a jet," spinning its wheels, and raced down the slight incline of the ramp toward the water.

The car smashed into the truck and both toppled into the river. Ferryboat traffic was tied up for two hours during recovery of the body and vehicles.

The river ferryboats take passengers and cars from the American side to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Half Million Living in Terror While Death Lurks in Beirut

BEIRUT (AP)—You walk, ride, shop, work and play in the shadow of death every minute in this Lebanese capital of half a million inhabitants.

Shooting and bombing have changed life for happy-go-lucky Lebanon, the Middle East's vacation land.

Here are a few examples of what can happen:

A stray bullet hit a woman in the shoulder while she was walking to church one Sunday morning. There was no fighting in her area.

A child playing on the terrace of his home was hit in the abdomen by a glancing bullet.

A streetcar taking students from school was blown to bits.

Bombs have dealt sudden death and injury to many housewives shopping in vegetable and fruit bazaars.

A shopkeeper daring to open doors despite the rebel-called strike can expect a dynamite bomb any time. He frequently keeps his shutter halfway down.

Dynamite bombs have blasted the butcher shop.

The hardware store has not opened since the rebellion began. The barber gives a quick shave. The shop is closed most of the time.

The grocer opens mornings if there is no fighting.

The laundry and the goldsmith never open.

The dairy proprietor comments, "Normally I take 40 to 50 Lebanese pounds daily. Now, if I make 10 pounds ($3.20) I'm the happiest man in the street."

Thousands of customers have left the city. Movers seem to be the only businessmen cashing in. Pushcart peddlers seem to be doing good business. Housewives prefer to wait for them rather than risk going through the streets.

Beaches along the Mediterranean are still crowded during the day.

The curfew has forced a shutdown of movies, night clubs and restaurants.

Beirut is still brightly lit at night but there is hardly a stir on the streets. Security guards patrol. Shots rattle out periodically. Armored-car searchlights scan rooftops.

Pontiac Man Pleads Guilty in Burglaries

Johnny Rhodes Jr., who Pontiac Police say is responsible for eight burglaries in Pontiac and several in surrounding communities, pleaded guilty yesterday when arraigned before Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

Rhodes, 29, of 66 Gillespie St., heard the judge set sentencing for July 28. Rhodes, a parolee, was remanded to the County Jail after he failed to make a bond lowered by the judge from $5,000 to $3,000.

The confessed burglar is the Michigan AAU light-heavyweight weightlifting champion. He was arrested June 30 after escaping from Bloomfield Township and Keego Harbor Police.

Economic Advisers See Rapid Upturn Likely Before End of Year

LANSING (AP)—The business recession is lifting, Gov. Williams has been told by his council of economic advisers, but how fast is hard to say.

Two of four university economists counseling the Governor foresaw possibilities for a fairly marked upturn before the end of the year. Two others were more cautiously optimistic.

They met in Williams' office yesterday along with about a score of key state officials whose duties touch in one way or another on fluctuations in the economy.

Although they qualified their forecasts, Prof. William Hoagland of Michigan State University and Prof. J. Philip Wernette of the University of Michigan saw a comparatively rapidly brightening picture.

Hoagland cautioned that a steel strike would throw off his projections, and expressed some misgivings over the extent to which June's favorable showing reflected inventory buying of steel in anticipation of price increases.

But making allowances for these, Hoagland said, "the pickup could be more rapid than some people suppose."

Wernette stressed three optimistic indicators—steady strength for several months now in construction contract awards, an upturn in new orders by manufacturers and "undisclosed" second quarter gains.

The latter, he explained, are discernible in some economic indices even though complete statistical returns are not in yet on the first half of the year.

Adlai Stevenson Sightseeing in Moscow Today

MOSCOW (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson came back to Moscow today after 32 years. He noticed that this time there are no homeless children on the streets, he said.

The two-time Democratic presidential candidate arrived by train from Leningrad. He was met at the station by Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov and a small group of government officials and newsmen.

Stevenson planned a day of sightseeing before a reception tonight at the U.S. Embassy in his honor. He leaves Thursday for Tashkent, the first stop on a three-week tour of Soviet Central Asia, Siberia and the Urals.

Stevenson is seeking to arrange Soviet payment for American copyrighted material published here.

His main purpose on the trip, Stevenson said, is to learn about the living and working conditions of the Soviet people.

Liberia's current estimated population is 1,500,000.

Large Army Base Returned to Japan

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Army today returned Camp Whittington, its 204 buildings and its 17½ million square foot reservation to Japan.

The camp 40 miles northwest of Tokyo is the former post of Specialist William S. Girard, Ottawa, Ill., GI whose killing of a Japanese brass scavenger on a firing range caused an international controversy. Girard got off with a suspended sentence.

Whittington was Japan's Kumagaya Air Force Academy from 1935 to 1945. After the war it housed parts of the 43rd Infantry Division, 82nd Field Artillery Battalion and 8th Cavalry Regiment. It was returned to Japan as part of a reduction of U. S. facilities in connection with the continuing outbreak in American forces in Japan.

Pontiac Lions Bringing Circus Here July 24

The Clyde Beatty Circus will come to Pontiac for two shows July 24 under the sponsorship of the Pontiac Lions Club.

The site will be Telegraph and Pontiac Lake Roads in Waterford Township. Advance-sale tickets for the afternoon and evening performances may be purchased from Lions Club members at 90c for children and $1.25 for adults.

All general admission tickets at the door will cost $1.50. Proceeds will go to the various Lions Club projects for Oakland County Children.

Many blocks of tickets already paid for by various local concerns are being distributed by the club to such organizations as the Oakland County Children's Home, Oakland County Society for Crippled Children, and the Pontiac State Hospital Children's Ward.

Building Contracts Drop

DETROIT (AP)—Contracts for future construction in Michigan dropped 12 per cent in May from the same month a year ago, Dodge Reports says. The construction agency said May contracts totaled $126,942,000. Non-residential building was down 12 per cent and residential dropped 18 per cent. Contracts for the first five months this year are down 21 per cent from the like 1957 period.

Along St. Joseph River

Using Former Lifeboat for Pleasure Cruises

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—A doctored-up former lifeboat now is a home away from home for a St. Joseph physician's family.

Dr. Kenneth Cowdery, his wife and their two young sons—Dan, 9, and Harley, 7—board "S'Neither" several times a season for pleasure jaunts along the St. Joseph River.

Their boating adventures started about four years ago with the purchase of a 24-foot, 7-inch lifeboat from the excursion vessel Roosevelt.

A piece of canvas was the first passenger protection they tried. It later was replaced by a truck body which had been given the Cowdery boys for use as a hut in their backyard.

The truck body has been reworked to form the unique houseboat's cabin.

Rubber mats that once stopped balls in a bowling alley have been converted into deck covering for the craft. Windows from an old house trailer and army surplus goods round out the boat's fittings.

Deciding it was neither yacht nor canoe, the Cowderys named their craft "S'Neither." It is propelled by a 30-horsepower outboard motor and draws but eight inches of water.

A small gas stove, ice coolers and a toilet provide comforts of home.

Outings range from one to three days. Other youngsters are invited along to share enjoyment with the Cowdery boys. "We always take kids," says Dr. Cowdery. "They get such a bang out of it."

Aaron, the family airdale dog, also is a regular passenger.

While some water enthusiasts live for the thrill of racing along in speedboats, owners of "S'Neither" mosey along at about six miles an hour stopping on whim for swimming, fishing, a picnic or anything which can be done at leisure.

Claims Men Have No Dining Imagination

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Picture this, overlooking the Hudson River, an over-poised o'er lovely Central Park, and your luncheon guest? Cary Grant today, the Duke of New York City, a dishwasher Windsor tomorrow, the president of this and that (including the United States) on Thursday. You like? You crazy, maybe.

Mrs. Hilda Howard, a grandmother four times over, is crazy too. She presides over this alleged dream kitchen, adjacent to the world-famous "Rainbow Room" in Rockefeller Plaza, and claims she enjoys the job. Except for one aspect:

"Ten years ago, men were imaginative in their love of foods. Now they're color-conscious. They want everything boiled and broiled. For dessert, the 4-to-1 favorite is stewed fruit. It's frustrating."

After 17 years of keeping the most famous male stomachs happy, Mrs. Howard has come to realize what the majority of housewives around America know: That cooking for men is a boring and expensive proposition.

Either they're calorie-counting, which means they want steak. Or they're unimaginative and narrow-minded, which means they want steak.

The difference between Mrs. H. and Mrs. Average is that the former has to plan a daily menu for 1,000 men, members of the Rockefeller Center Luncheon Club. Her guests have included Ike, Truman and Hoover, more than 100 congressmen and diplomats, the Shah of Iran, a great many movie stars, and a few ex-kings including Peter of Yugoslavia.

With all this experience, she suggests a few rules to housewives who must plan daily meals for men.

1. Don't be fancy.
2. Be simple.
3. If your man falls in the category of "most men," stick to lamb and beef steaks, chicken pie, chopped steak, unchopped steak, roast beef and roast beef hash.
4. Don't repeat the same dish within four weeks.
5. Keep a record of menus, to be certain you don't repeat the same dish within four weeks.
6. Make the salads interesting. Try aspics and unusual dressings. Men like salads better than you think.
7. Watch the calories.

Of course, Mrs. Howard has 57

chefs under her direction, which tends to make her job easier. Some call her "boss," and some call her "mama." This leads to suggestion number 8: Encourage the men in the family to call you "boss." It gives the chef a sense of confidence, and confidence is the key to a good meal.

Mrs. Howard's office is unchintzy and businesslike. Only one picture hangs on the wall. It is a photograph of Jimmy Durante, upon which is scrawled, "To Mrs. Howard — the world's greatest chef."

This is perhaps the highest culinary compliment of all time, Mrs. Howard's contribution to the well-being of Mr. Durante: an exquisitely-simmered bowl of farina.

Coup d'Etat Hardly Noticeable

U.S. Airliner Leaves Iraq

CAIRO (AP)—An American airline pilot who was grounded for 15 hours in Iraq during the revolt there said "everything was very quiet" in Basra.

Capt. John Hulburd of Upper Black Eddy, Pa., landed his Trans World Airline Constellation in Cairo early today after revolutionary forces which seized the Basra airport allowed him to continue. The plane was carrying 25 passengers and a crew of 10 from Manila to New York.

Hulburd landed at Basra, Iraq's Persian Gulf oil port 280 miles southeast of Baghdad, picked up two Iraq citizens and was about to take off when told to wait.

"About 40 Iraqi soldiers took over the airport in a very smooth manner," Hulburd said. "They placed three machine guns around our aircraft."

But the soldiers took off their helmets and began chatting with the passengers, who went swimming and generally enjoyed the wait, the pilot said. "There was nothing to fear and nobody got panicky or worried," Hulburd reported.

"The airport was very peaceful and nobody could think there was a coup d'etat in the country," he said. "We heard there were government demonstrations in Basra but so far as I know the demonstrators were cheering the new regime."

Before the plane was given permission to leave, the two Iraqis were ordered off and returned home. "I understand no Iraqi is allowed to leave the country for the time being," the pilot said.

One of the passengers was Moris Rush of Santa Maria, Calif., an oil worker for the Arabian American Oil Co. who boarded the plane at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. Rush said he heard nothing to indicate any trouble in Basra.

They Resemble Flying Saucers

New Space Objects Made of Thin Plastic Unveiled in Films

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP)

— There ARE some things that look like flying saucers.

Shiny, hollow spheres 12 feet in diameter. Smaller ones 2½ feet across. And a saucer-shaped affair 30 feet in diameter is on the drawing boards. Some of various shapes as large as 100 feet in diameter have been proposed.

These are satellites of the very near future. Some of them have been suggested for use as interplanetary craft and for voyages to the moon.

Those already completed belong to the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, a government agency. Motion pictures of the first ones to be tested abroad were shown yesterday for the first time at the triennial inspection of Ames Aeronautical Laboratory, an NACA installation.

Made of thin, tough plastic and covered with aluminum foil, these objects are featherweights. The 12-footer weighs only nine pounds. The 2½-foot sphere weighs 11 ounces.

When they are shot into space by rockets they will be folded into packs no larger than a woman's handbag or a small suitcase.

Once at the desired altitude they will be inflated by a small cartridge containing nitrogen.

As space vehicles these creations will carry instruments for measuring the magnetic and gravitational fields of the earth, giving scientists new information on the shape of the globe and its internal makeup. They will supply new weather information. Some of them may act as reflectors of radar and television waves, greatly increasing the range of those facilities.

Others, the NACA said, will be designed as collectors of solar energy, constituting experimental power plants in the sky to run their own instruments.
