Goldwater Is Blasted by Teddy Kennedy

By JIM DYGERT

One of the Kennedy brothers last night opened the door for a peek inside the Democratic arsenal for 1964 and let out a few blasts at the current front runner for the Republican presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

U.S. Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., told some 800 party faithful in Pontiac that a Goldwater proposal would be the surest step "toward military dictatorship" and the best way "to trigger a war."

Barry Says Race Is Going All Right

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater thinks "things are going all right" in the presidential race he hasn't formally entered.

While Goldwater gave that assessment of the 1964 Republican ticket, leaders of the drive to put him at the top of the GOP ticket gathered in Washington to size up their operations.

"Why rush? Why be in a hurry? Things are going all right," Goldwater said last night when newsmen asked him when he will announce whether he is a candidate for the nomination.

"Later, he answered questions at a Harvard Business School Association dinner."

WHY DELAY? "Why delay your announcement, we're all for you," was the first one.

Aid Cuts Cloud Program's Fate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's $827,250,000 cut in President Kennedy's foreign aid bill flashed a warning to the administration that the whole overseas assistance program, unless sharply curtailed and revised, may be on its way out.

The amendment-riddled $3,792,385,000 authorization measure—more sharply reduced than any since the foreign aid program started after World War II—cleared the Senate Friday by a 63-17 vote.

But the temper in Congress—and presumably around the country, judging from what senators say about their mail—is such that further cuts seem certain next week.

Senate and House conferees meet then to adjust differences between the Senate bill and the $3,592,075,000 measure previously voted by the House.

And further reductions appear likely when Congress acts on the foreign aid appropriations measure which will provide the actual money for which the authorization bill simply sets ceilings.

PROGRAM IN DANGER

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who had the task of steering the bill to passage, said in an interview that the future of the whole program is in danger unless the Agency for International Development can make it more palatable to Congress next year.

The revolt against the program drew support from both parties and was led by Democrats who turned a deaf ear to Kennedy's pleadings.

In an effort to turn the tide a week ago, the President chided "those who find it politically convenient to denounce foreign aid with one breath and the Communist menace with the other."

A record crowd, including almost all top Michigan Democrats, came to the Oakland County Democratic Congressional Dinner at the Elks Temple to hear a rousing political oration spiced with the Kennedy personality and Boston accent. And that's what they got.

Squeals of delight came as Kennedy, in a boyish, bushy haired cut and navy-blue suit, strode to the speaker's table.

"Isn't he a doll?" was one remark.

FIRST ATTACK

As the first speech by a Kennedy attacking one of the President's possible 1964 opponents, it appeared to be a preview of Democratic campaign strategy for what the senator said "is going to be a hard fight."

As he held up a small bottle of what he called "Goldwater cologne," Kennedy said, "It's for people who want to smell conservative."

Making one of his rare speaking appearances outside his home state, President John F. Kennedy's 31-year-old brother predicted even more Democratic progress before the campaign.

With greater optimism than most Democrats have these days, he extended confidence that Congress would pass the Administration's civil rights, Medicare and tax cut bills.

Romney Faces Another Test

Legislature Must Act on New Constitution

By RICHARD PYLE

LANSING (AP) — The next big political issue in Michigan is arising even before the last one—Gov. Romney's tax reform program—turns cold in its grave.

Another special legislative session, slated to begin on Dec. 3, will deal with bills needed to implement the new Constitution which becomes effective the first of next year.

It will give the Democratic party, whose leaders hope they scored a propaganda victory when Romney's tax reform program was defeated, another chance to shoot at Romney.

Democrats—who fought bitterly and expensively against the constitution's acceptance by the people last April—can be expected to revive all the same old arguments.

FOREWARNING

An indication of what's to come was contained in a speech prepared by Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Ferency, M.D., delivered today to the Allen Park Democratic Club.

Assailing Romney for failure to get his own Republican party solidly behind fiscal reform, Ferency said:

"... The present Republican governor once and for all exposed the real cancer gnawing at the Michigan body politic—the backward, Republican-dominated legislature which is totally dedicated to only one ideal—stagnant self-perpetuation."

"And the real tragic-comic irony... is that George Romney, the victim, almost single-handedly shackled progress in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

BALDWIN CONFAB — U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart (from left); William Morrissey, 2800 Pontiac Lake, Union Lake; Leonard Yocum, union local president; Leo George, international representative; and Dolphus Farmer, recording secretary, met late last night to discuss the recent sale of the Baldwin Rubber Division Plant. Sen. Hart and the union officials met with Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Hart Urges Search for Baldwin Buyer

U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart last night agreed with local union representatives that all efforts should be made to find a buyer for the Baldwin Rubber Division plant.

But Hart suggested talk of an investigation of the plant closing should be put aside as of secondary importance now.

"There is no law to prevent the closing of the plant," Hart advised representatives of United Rubber Workers Local 125.

He added he would give what support he could to getting full cooperation from the plant's former owner, Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co., in obtaining a true picture of its financial status.

This was in reply to a statement by Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, that corporate officials would not release the information.

Adams said not even Industrial Plant Corp., the New York liquidating firm which purchased Baldwin division's buildings and machinery last week, had full access to the corporation's records.

LENGTHY REPORT

Adams then gave Hart a lengthy report on Baldwin's acquisition by the corporation composed of Montrose Chemical and a brewing firm, in 1959.

The hour-long meeting ended at 11:30 p.m. as Hart wearily ended a day that started in Washington and finished in Pontiac at the annual Democratic congressional dinner.

Leonard Yocum, president of Local 125, was chief spokesman of several union officials at the meeting. He said he agreed fully that finding a buyer for the plant was of key importance.

COORDINATE EFFORTS

In letters to Mayor Robert A. Landry and Fred W. Haggard, AFL-CIO Oakland County Council president, he said the department would coordinate state and local efforts to prevent loss of the plant.

The Pontiac plant, at 366 E. South Blvd., and two smaller ones in Cass City, Mich., and Norwalk, O., are set for closing by Dec. 1.

Baldwin-Montrose officials say the manufacturing operations have shown no profits the past three years.

Yale Professor Lands in West

Released by Russia at JFK's Prompting

LONDON (AP) — An airliner carrying Prof. Frederick C. Barghorn from Moscow landed at London airport tonight—The Yale professor, an expert on the Soviet Union, was expelled by the Russians earlier in the day after being held in jail on espionage charges.

The British European Airways plane flew nonstop from the Soviet capital.

The 51-year-old Yale University faculty member had been freed by the Russians only a few hours before. The Russians said they were releasing him because of President Kennedy's "personal concern."

THE DECEES AUTHORIZED

The President, at a news conference Thursday, declared: "Professor Barghorn was not on an intelligence mission of any kind."

The President, at a news conference Thursday, declared: "Professor Barghorn was not on an intelligence mission of any kind."

Barghorn's arrest brought the sharpest kind of reactions from the United States and the Russians: apparently were startled.

But the Russians stuck by their claim that Barghorn was a spy and that they had enough evidence to bring him to trial in a Soviet court.

Barghorn was reported placed aboard the British plane barely four hours after Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko informed the U.S. Embassy's minister-counselor, Walter Stoessel, that he was being released and expelled because of Kennedy's concern in the case.

JUST SETTLEMENT

Mansfield said aid to Argentina should be "suspended pending a just settlement." If there is no such settlement, he said American assistance should be cut off completely.

Dirksen said that the United States recognizes the right of any country to expropriate foreign-held property—but he said that there must be just compensation to the foreign owners.

Dirksen said that the Alliance for Progress goal had been to stimulate capital investment of $300 million a year in Latin American countries.

Warning Is Ignored by President Illia; 12 Companies Taken

WASHINGTON (AP)—

Congressional leaders said today that Argentina's seizure of American oil properties is almost certain to result in cutting off U.S. aid to that country.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois agreed in separate interviews that Argentina's action is a serious blow to the Alliance for Progress.

State Department officials did not comment immediately but there were indications the United States was watching the situation with deep concern.

Argentina ignored last night a U.S. warning of possible serious consequences and annulled its multimillion-dollar oil contracts with eight American and four other foreign companies.

THE DECEES AUTHORIZED

President Arturo Illia carried through a campaign pledge and issued decrees placing foreign petroleum production and development under the control of the government-run oil agency, Yacimientos Petroliferos Fiscales.

The decrees authorized the agency to use force if necessary to take over the operations.

It was not immediately known whether the companies would be fully compensated since the issue of compensation will be drawn up by Argentina's procurator general. There was no indication when he would deliver his decision.

THE U.S. COMPANIES who have estimated that they invested $397 million for drilling and exploration operations, have already indicated they will take legal action to gain compensation.

JUST SETTLEMENT

Mansfield said aid to Argentina should be "suspended pending a just settlement." If there is no such settlement, he said American assistance should be cut off completely.

Dirksen said that the United States recognizes the right of any country to expropriate foreign-held property—but he said that there must be just compensation to the foreign owners.

Dirksen said that the Alliance for Progress goal had been to stimulate capital investment of $300 million a year in Latin American countries.

Cambodia Next Target of Red China

By CONRAD FINK
TOKYO (AP) — Red China seems confident of making a major penetration in Southeast Asia despite costly U.S. attempts to defend that strategic area from communism.

The target is Cambodia, a jungle nation next door to Laos, Thailand and South Viet Nam, where the United States has invested heavily in blood and money.

Peking broadcasts boast that Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has pledged close friendship and cooperation with Communist Chi-

News Analysis

Sihanouk has explained he is grateful for "disinterested" Chinese help at a time when so-called imperialist nations are threatening him. Peking broadcasts say, "Almost daily, the radio describes 'friendly and cordial' talks between Chinese and Cambodian officials."

If the Chinese are able to establish a base of operations in Cambodia, all of Southeast Asia will be more seriously threatened.

Cambodia's long, ill-defined borders with its three neighbors are almost impossible to close to infiltrators. South Viet Nam claims Viet Cong guerrillas now use Cambodia as a base for raids across the border.

Prince Sihanouk has broken diplomatic relations with South Viet Nam and Thailand, charging both with border violations and plots against what he calls Cambodia's neutrality.

Sihanouk has expressed feeling that communism already has triumphed in Viet Nam and the rest of what once was known as French Indochina.

FATE SEALED

"The fate of Viet Nam appears to me to be sealed," he wrote in a Phnom Penh newspaper in September. "That of my own country certainly will be also some time later."

The prince appeared worried that Cambodia — about six million persons, 88,780 square miles — would be unable to stay afloat in the sea of crisis surrounding it. He complained that American policies were a key reason for the supposed Communist triumph.

Split Feared at African Parley

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The African foreign ministers conference to settle the Moroccan-Algerian frontier dispute reconvened today amid fears it may develop into a bitter verbal battle between the two Arab neighbors and their backers.

Morocco took a possible conciliatory step today by proposing that a small arbitration committee — not to exceed seven members — be appointed immediately to study its dispute with Algeria over a mineral-rich tract of the Sahara and report to a meeting of the foreign ministers in February.

However, there were indications that the Moroccans were also preparing dramatic arguments, accusing the Algerians of massing foreign troops and weapons with intentions of renewing their war. Morocco previously accused the United Arab Republic and Cuba of helping Algeria.

The Algerians have not disclosed what action they are planning, but there were indications they want to turn the meeting of the foreign ministers of the 22-nation Organization of African Unity into a general discussion of African frontier problems.

FOCUS ISSUE

The Moroccans want to limit the debate to their dispute with Algeria and not expand the meeting to include all the other frontier problems. There are at least seven other simmering frontier disputes.

"If the committee consists of impartial nations who have not been involved in the dispute in any way, we are ready to accept its recommendations," a member of the Moroccan delegation said.

Some delegates took this to mean that the U.A.R. should be excluded from the committee.

The conference, which opened Friday and is expected to conclude Tuesday, could test the prestige of Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie, the principal peacemaker in the Moroccan-Algerian dispute.

FAMILY QUARREL

The 71-year-old emperor opened the conference Friday by describing the border dispute as a family quarrel that must be settled within Africa without any meddling from outside the continent.

He did not mention any foreign countries, but Algeria has countered the Moroccan charge of Cuba aid by saying that the Moroccans were using U.S. equipment.

Oliver Motor Sales

"Bob" Oliver, Sr., President of Oliver Motor Sales, Inc., located at 210 Orchard Lake Avenue was recently awarded the twenty-five year plaque for selling Buicks. His firm has the distinction of being the oldest new car dealer in Pontiac. His father, Dwight I. Oliver started when business was at its lowest ebb in 1929 and established Oliver Motors in 1932. Since that time Bob has seen many car dealers come and go but hopes that Oliver Buick will go on forever. Bob II is Vice President and the third generation in the business.

Mr. Oliver feels that the 7,000,000 car sales plateau this year will be equaled again in 1964, and he feels that the same number of older cars that are a menace to everyone should be destroyed annually. This would not only make it safer driving but would help in the sale of good used cars. He also feels General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor could afford to pay fifty dollars apiece for the older cars that are not only an eye sore but a menace to safety. He said the fifty dollars paid per car could be tax deductible for the Corporation.

Rip's Barestaurant

Rapidly gaining fame as a club of distinction is Rip's Barestaurant located at 998 W. Huron in Pontiac. John Humphries, who manages this well-known spot, has spared no pains in giving his many patrons the best in foods and drinks.

It was in 1905 that John's father, C. I. "Rip" Humphries, a boy of twelve came to Pontiac, with his parents and three brothers. Because he spent most of his nights in his father's pool room, he tended to drowse in his classes at Baldwin School next day. His teacher hung the name "Rip Van Winkle" on him a name that stuck throughout his lifetime. Aside from fourteen years outwest, Rip lived and was in business in Pontiac all his life. Many remember "Tower Beach" on Sylvan Lake with nostalgic fondness and later on Elizabeth Lake Road. The original building in this location was built in 1941.

Dr. B. T. Brett, Optometrist

Dr. B. T. Brett, Optometrist located at 17 N. Saginaw has been in practice since 1935 and at this location for the past four years. Dr. Brett features the latest fashions in eyewear and is a dispenser of contact-less lenses, "the better way to see without glasses."

Contact lenses are a modern miracle... they circlets of plastic custom ground to your prescription which are worn under the eyelids... so light and practically undetectable that one rarely knows you are wearing them. Because the modern plastic contact lenses can be worn directly on the layer of tears of the eye, visual clarity is often improved, together with a naturally wide field of view.

There are indeed many fields of endeavor—from airline pilot and stewardess to typesetter or printer—where the freedom of natural vision with contact lenses is more and more appreciated. Since the prescribing of contact lenses carries with it a professional responsibility to the patient, it is wise to have these lenses provided and fitted by a responsible contact lens fitter. Dr. Brett has fitted hundreds of patients in this area and a great amount of his practice is devoted to this work. His knowledge of where to obtain contact lenses with the proper scientific curves and measurements and how to prescribe the proper curves for you, is invaluable in getting the most advanced kind of eye care available today.

U.S.-Soviets Mark 30 Years

WASHINGTON 17P — The United States and the Soviet Union mark 30 years of uneasy diplomatic relations today, but the occasion officially will go unnoticed here.

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt recognized the Communist government led by Josef Stalin on Nov. 16, 1933, and expressed hope the two countries would "grow closer, and more intimate with each passing year."

Stalin's foreign minister, Maxim M. Litvinov, called the development "a creative factor in international affairs which will be beneficial to mankind."

cooperation within the newly created United Nations.

After Stalin's death in 1953, there was some hope in the West that the state of armed and uneasy suspicion on both sides might be lessened.

However, it soon was evident that in Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, who came to power in 1956, the United States faced a sometimes amiable but more sophisticated and dangerous adversary.

BERLIN CRISES

Recurrent crises over Berlin, where the allies still cling to a Red-encircled enclave left over from the war; the savage Soviet repression of the Hungarian rebellion; the Cuban missile crisis — these have provided some of the high points of terror in the postwar relationship between the two countries.

The limited nuclear test ban treaty and the "thaw" after the Geneva summit conference of 1955, and the Camp David meeting between former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Khrushchev — these have been the periods of lower tension which sparked some hope for progress in blunting the peril of nuclear war.

The split between Russia and Red China, which impelled some to believe the Kremlin might draw closer to the West, now appears more and more to be a factor that may force Khrushchev to even nastier ventures against the United States and its allies in his effort to retain control of the international Communist movement.

Against this background, American officials noted as a historical fact the 30th anniversary of the establishment of relations. But they found it no occasion for undue celebration or comment.

The cordiality of that occasion has disappeared to be replaced by continual tension between the two nuclear giants. The world nervously studies the ebb and flow of cold war relations between Moscow and Washington, wondering if the two will drag other nations into an atomic holocaust.

TENSE HISTORY

Except for the era of World War II cooperation — caused by circumstances after Hitler attacked his former ally Stalin and Japan bombed Pearl Harbor — the relationship has been tense at best.

At worst, it has been punctuated with crises which threatened another war of far worst dimensions than any previous.

At the moment the relationship is particularly icy, chilled by the arrest of an American professor on what President Kennedy says are trumped-up spy charges.

This critical incident may pass but the global struggle for the allegiance of nations is bound to continue indefinitely.

Most Americans believed after World War II that more than $11 billion worth of lend-lease aid to embattled Russia and the major U. S. role in the defeat of Germany and Japan had secured lasting Soviet friendship.

Early disillusionment came when Stalin clamped an iron grip on Central Europe, inaugurated a campaign to subvert nations throughout the world, and blasted hopes of

U.S. Supersonic Plane Now Making Headway

The long-delayed, controversial supersonic airliner program now appears to be getting off the ground.

Pushed by the Federal Aviation Authority, which is collaborating in the underwriting of the huge introductory cost of the venture, the new plane will compete with the French-British plane Concorde expected to enter passenger service early in 1970.

Trans World Airlines in ordering six was the first airline to purchase the American plane still on the drawing board. Pan American soon followed with an order for 15, and has also ordered a number of Concorde.

The foreign plane got a head start toward supersonic passenger aircraft and will take to the air a year earlier than the U.S. entry. It is expected to cost $10 million against $15 million for the American counterpart.

Present specifications, however, give the latter an operational advantage. It will cruise economically at 2,000 miles per hour — more than twice the speed of sound — while that is the Concorde's maximum performance.

A TWA spokesman said that the company chose the domestic plane for three reasons: consideration for American prestige; the favorable effect on the country's balance of payments problem; and the necessity of keeping this nation's aeronautical engineering skills at a high level.

Log Cabin No Longer a Political Asset

Deeply imbedded in the folklore of American politics is the conviction that a politician to have effective empathy with the electorate should be able to point to humble beginnings.

Birth in a log cabin was once considered a sine qua non for a would-be servant of the people, and many a historical figure pointed with great pride to having seen his first light of day through an oiled-paper window. (They couldn't afford glass.)

But alas — times change. Today, with the most likely presidential candidates each burdened with an inherited fortune approximately the size of a once self-respecting national debt, getting himself born in a desolate dwelling will take quite a bit of ingenuity. Besides, no one gets born at home anymore.

There is still a glimmer of hope, however, for keeping rapport with the voters in the time-tested area of lowly nativity. A candidate can with engaging humility bear witness to birth in a hospital that wasn't air conditioned.

Equal Pay for Women Not Realized by Bill

The report of the Kennedy Commission on the Status of Women comes four months after the President signed an "equal pay for women" bill, which had been before Congress in one form or another for almost two decades. But the measure has few teeth. The payoff for women will come only when Congress starts extending coverage of the Federal minimum wage act to which the equal pay law is tied.

By 1970, the Labor Department predicts, one out of every three women in the United States will be working outside the home. Rising income has not affected the prodigious growth of the army of women workers in recent years. More rather than fewer women at the upper end of the income scale are entering gainful employment.

At the end of the last century not a single nation had granted women political rights. In 1902, however, the women of Australia were given the right to vote in national elections. American women did not receive that right until 1920. Today more than 100 nations extend equal or limited rights to women.

Giving women the vote has not brought the cleansing influence into politics that was expected. But it has immeasurably improved the political, social, and economic status of women in this and other countries. The ladies, bless 'em, are going great guns in their race to equality.

But they still expect you to take off your hat in an elevator.

Congressmen Set as JFK Stews

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—There is a certain genteel and gentlemanly attitude in and about Congress which may do much to explain why it has done so little in 1963.

President Kennedy has been one of the gentlest.

For several days after Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., attacked this year's performance of Democrats and Republicans, and particularly blamed Senate leaders, senators have been getting up to defend themselves.

One of them, the mild-mannered Sen. George D. Aiken, gave a novel explanation for the congressional lassitude while frankly admitting it existed. The Vermont Republican said: "The record of this Congress up to now appears to be unenviable. Our accomplishments have hardly been discernible to the public. We have, however, done little damage, unless to ourselves."

"The general public seems quite content to have us stay here in the year around, so long as we do not upset the economic applecart with a lot of new laws."

Kennedy, who got along fine when he was in the Senate, was asked at his news conference Thursday if he felt disturbed that Congress was unlikely to act on his tax and civil rights programs this year.

"I think that the longer the delay, I think, yes, I think it is unfortunate," he responded. "The fact of the matter is that both these bills should be passed. The tax bill has been before Congress nearly a year."

"The longer it is delayed, he indicated, the more the economy will suffer. But when he was asked another question—what's wrong in Congress?—he didn't answer directly but said things should be brighter by next summer."

Thus while legislation stagnates, the President and the Senate avoid any harshness—except for Dodd, who later repented—and Congress isn't under any more pressure now to get on with its work than before Dodd spoke up.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

San Blas Island Saga—Part 3

This year Peter Miller, a San Blas Indian educated in the United States, thanks to the good work and faith of an American missionary and a gospel singer, was honored by his alma mater, Vennard College, for the work he has done since returning to his home island of Aligandi off the coast of Panama. He still lives there and, with his son, runs a Southern Baptist mission. There are 1,500 Indians on the tiny island.

At first Peter taught in a mission school, but soon he felt this was not enough. Since the San Blas dialect had no written language, Peter, using a simplified alphabet of only 17 English letters, wrote the words of God in the Indian dialect.

Since 1956, Peter has devoted his full time to translating the New Testament, working both from Spanish and English texts. He has translated the Gospel of St. Mark and John, the Book of Acts and Romans, and 170 hymns. He is also working on translating seven other books, thus keeping alive the faith of the devout woman who first believed in him.

Days of All Faiths:

Should Easter Have Fixed Date?

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

In bringing up the subject of a fixed date for Easter the present Vatican Council turns the clock back sixteen centuries to a time when the date of Easter was a matter of hot dispute. Some wanted it always to fall in the same relation to Passover as it had originally, probably the third day of Passover.

This would have meant that it could come on any day of the week, and there were many who opposed this because the first Easter had been a Sunday and Sunday had therefore become the Christian weekly holy day, replacing the Jewish Sabbath.

A compromise was reached by placing Easter in the same relation to the spring full moon (the Passover moon) each year. Easter is always the first Sunday after the first full moon after the spring equinox of March 21.

An awkwardness developed after 1582, when the Western countries began to use our present Gregorian calendar while the East continued with the old Julian calendar. The two calendars are now nearly two weeks apart, and even though East and West use the same formula for calculating Easter, they seldom come out the same date.

This is just one of the differences between Christians that the Vatican Council is trying to resolve. The suggestion has been made that everyone celebrate Easter on the second Sunday in April, no matter what that Sunday's relation to the equinox might be.

'LORD OF MISRULE'

We are coming on now to the winter solstice, which has always been a time of great rejoicing and revelry. In the days of the Roman Empire this change of the sun's progress from South back to North was celebrated with the Saturnalia, the wildest and happiest of all pagan festivals.

But there was always one man for whom the Saturnalia was no fun at all, and that was the leader. In the midst of the merriment he knew it would all end up with him being sacrificed to Kronos, the father of the gods. It must be a little hard to eat, drink, and be merry when you know the end of the feast means the end of you, too.

In this unhappy position in the year 303 was a Christian soldier named Darius. Stationed with an army garrison in Bulgaria, Darius found himself elected "Lord of Misrule," that is, leader of the Saturnalia for the troops on duty in this foreign country. The election always took place thirty days before the feast.

There was only one thing about Darius' situation that might be called good, and that was that he had nothing to lose. Either he was going to be killed as a sacrifice at the close of the festival, or he was going to be put to death as a Christian when he refused the election and gave his reason for doing so.

It was not much of a choice, but Darius made the right one. As a Christian he declined to have anything to do with the pagan celebration, and was beheaded for his faith.

MARY IN THE TEMPLE

Only a legend supports Thursday's commemoration, the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The event is described in an unreliable writing credited to St. James.

It is told that on this day when Mary was 3 years old, her parents took her to the Temple at Jerusalem and left her to be brought up there. "And all the house of Israel loved her. And Mary was in the Temple of the Lord as if she were a dove that dwelt there."

On such a flimsy basis the observance rests. It began in the East, where it is called "The Entrance of the All-holy Mother of God into the Temple." It was probably first celebrated about the middle of the 9th Century, when a new church dedicated to St. Mary was built in Jerusalem.

Washington Notebook:

Automation's Pretty Fast, Huh?

By WASHINGTON STAFF

WASHINGTON (NEA)—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, talking about the threat of automation to job security, talked to the Industrial Union convention in Washington about a new machine for the Ford engine plant at Cleveland. He said it will re-design and place a 1950 installation which turned out finished engine blocks in 14.6 minutes without being touched by human hands.

"That old machine is now as obsolete as a Model T," said Reuther. "It could respond to impulses in only three tenths of one-millionth of a second."

"But the new machine will be 1,000 times faster. It will respond to impulses in only three tenths of one-billionth of a second."

"If you kid yourselves that you understand that," said Reuther, "you don't. But this illustration gives me an explanation it a little."

"If a man stood on the equator and took one step every three tenths of one-billionth of a second, he would be able to walk around the world in less than one second."

One southern theater owner saw a chance to promote the movie "PT-109" and at the same time get in a couple of licks at a President unpopular for his civil rights views. The marquee read:

"PT-109. SEE HOW THE

Believes Teen-Age Girls Are Improperly Dressed

I wonder what women will be wearing ten years from now, if anything at all. It's frightening to go to a nightclub or dance and see these girls dancing in flimsy tights and pants. Do they think they impress men? I can't help but believe men would respect girls more if they dressed like girls used to. Now it's pants every time they go out.

I wonder if mothers ever notice how their daughters look when they go on dates? It's time someone took the bull by the horns so we can see women dressed properly again.

Mrs. Walker of Lake Orion asks if we can prevent Communist takeover in Viet Nam. I would bet my last dollar it is already a Communist takeover. But like in the case of Cuba, any people will not know it until they are firmly entrenched. Any time they start to murder and plunder, you can bet it's a Communist takeover.

'Don't Expect Shiny New License Plates'

Don't anticipate a bright, shiny new color on those long-awaited license plates. They don't exist. This year it's dull olive drab plates and I'm sure they'll go well with the rusty plates you now have. If you're saying "I'll just get some replacement plates" don't look too hard on the tables for a form to request those new 1962 plates. They're not around. You must get in line and wait your turn to request a form. Oh yes, if you're seeking '62 plates and '64 tabs, you must have your old '62 plates with you.

Thoughts

"Then Jesus answered her, O woman, great is your faith! Be and her daughter was healed instantly." —Matthew 15:28

All I have seen teaches me to trust the Creator for all I have not seen. —Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Although congressmen are inclined to fret and blame each other for the lack of legislative results, State Department brass isn't worrying too much about U.S. inactivity.

"In the past, representatives have gone off to the U.N. like knights on white chargers, ready to solve all the world's problems in a few days," one State Department official notes.

"Now, when a diplomat says, 'This is the dulllest session since 1957,' it just means he has acquired a little maturity."

Former President Eisenhower's new article, "An Epidemic of Friendship," on the People's Movement was not enthusiastically unveiled by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, retiring president of American Red Cross and a trustee of People to People.

Gruenther, who wrote the introduction to Eisenhower's article in the November issue of Reader's Digest, noted:

"I thought that I was going to be the main attraction of the ceremony today. After all, my article and picture are on the inside cover of the magazine. But now I find that I'm just here to plug a fellow whose article is on page 168."

City Urban League in Program

Pontiac Area Urban League is expected to take part in a nationwide program being developed to classify and upgrade Negro employment opportunities.

Hampshire McKinney, Urban League field worker from Chicago visiting Pontiac to explain the program, termed it a "skills bank" based on a three-stage program.

This will involve a "talent search and recruitment on the local level to locate job seekers and their interests," a job survey to determine the Negro labor market, and finally, placement he said.

Clarence E. Barnes, executive director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, said the program will tie in with efforts already begun here.

GRADUATES CHECKS
Negro graduates of Pontiac high schools since 1957 are being contacted to learn their employment experiences, Barnes explained.

At the same time, major area businesses will be surveyed to learn their attitudes toward hiring Negroes he added.

McKinney said the program, financed by a $100,000 grant from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, will for the first time give an accurate picture of Negro employment in the nation.

He predicted it will encourage Negro workers, and especially students, by showing what occupations offer equal opportunities and where such employers are.

DATA ON FILE
Statistical data will be centralized in New York for access by Urban League branches, and employers seeking qualified Negro workers.

Barnes said a formal decision on local participation is expected to be made shortly by the Pontiac Urban League's board of directors.

University of Michigan Students Are Active in Campus Life

By BARBARA GRIFFIN

Many area students have participated in student song-fests, a musical satire and symphony orchestra concerts which have dominated activities at the University of Michigan this past week.

Both the Greeks and the independents have been rehearsing for many weeks for Interquadrangle Sing which was presented Monday evening in Hill Auditorium. In both of these events, the women's and men's houses team up for the judging.

THIRD WIN

Winner of IQC Sing was Martha Cook Building and Cooley House. This marks the third straight year that Martha Cook has won the first place trophy. Supporting their house effort were Sylvia Rothschild of Dwight Avenue, Candy Windeler of Hatchery Road and Carol Wargelin of Voorhees Road.

IFC Sing will feature nine teams of fraternities and sororities who will be rated by judges from the School of Music. Among the groups singing will be Delta Tau Delta fraternity, supported by Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Directing the Gamma Phi Beta will be their song leader, Diana Owen of Auburn Road. Mary Ann Affleck of Woodward Avenue will also sing with the Gamma Phi Beta.

Rehearsing extensively to regain the first place trophy from Delta Upsilon is Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. Among the Alpha Phi supporting them will be Linda Underhill of Joy Road and Judy Hinkley of Illinois Avenue. Linda has been busy at the sewing machines all week as she is head of the costume committee for the Alpha Phi.

The team of Alpha Chi Omega and Theta Xi fraternity will carry out the theme of "Annie Get Your Gun" for their performance Friday night. Singing with the Alpha Chi will be Dottie Duckwitz of Sweetbriar Road and Phyllis Benicke of Lakeview Court, Jim Ransford of Cedar Hill Drive will sing with the Theta Xi.

Several Pontiac students had stage roles or worked on back stage committees for this year's MUSKET show which was given last weekend in Lydia Mendelsohn theater. MUSKET, which means "Michigan Union Show-Ko-Eds Too" has presented student musicals recently, but chose Sandy Wilson's well-known satire on the 1920's, "The Boy Friend" for this year's production.

Playing a leading role in "The Boy Friend" was Betty Verman of Lake Front Drive. Betty is a senior speech major and has had major roles in many other university dramatic productions.

Mark Lightfoot of McClintock Road was active backstage as a member of the stage crew during the five MUSKET performances. He also worked on the production committee for the show.

Working on the administrative end of the show was Barbara Harling of Birchwood Drive. A member of the Central Committee, she was co-chairman of ticket sales and ushers.

MUSICIANS

Playing in the MUSKET orchestra was sophomore Jean Hittula of Roseland Street. Jean is also a member of the University Symphony Orchestra which presented their first concert of the season Thursday evening under the direction of Josef Blatt.

Among the many Michigan students who went to Illinois last weekend to support the Wolverines as they pulled an upset victory over the Illini were members of the Michigan Men's Glee Club. After

New Chairman for Alpha Nu

Alpha Nu chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa sorority appointed Mrs. Richard McCall as philanthropic chairman, Thursday in the home of Mrs. Ronald Voorhees on Ormond Road.

A donation will be made to a Pontiac school in need of supplementary educational material. Last season, the group assisted Joyce Hoffman, a Peace Corps representative teaching in Malaysia.

WOMEN'S WEEK

If Washington Had His Pick, He'd 'Chews' Modern Teeth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that dentistry required years of training and practice.

Well, I don't know anything about dentistry, but I am a student of American history, and it is a fact that Paul Revere made George Washington's false teeth.

ABBY

And Paul Revere was not a dentist. He was a blacksmith! So, who needs dentistry?

HISTORY STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT: And if you examine a picture of George Washington, you'll see that his lower jaw protrudes a full inch beyond his upper.

Back in 1790, when blacksmiths doubled for dentists, there was an excuse for it, but not today.

So leave dentistry to the dentists, and don't bite the hand that makes it possible.

DEAR ABBY: I've been sitting back watching a thrice-married widow wreck the home of two of our best friends. This couple has grandchildren and was ideally happy.

Then two years ago this widow came along. She manages to be everywhere. This man is, even following him out of town on his business trips.

The wife is a trusting soul who knows from nothing about what's going on. She is forever telling me how hard her husband works and how much time he has to spend out of town on "business."

The pay-off is this: The widow has given him a deadline. Either leave the wife and marry her—or lose her.

And he is going around like an idiot trying to hang onto both of them. What should he do?

WATCHING A MESS

DEAR ABBY: A friend of both should get the man aside and try to bring him to his senses. (Judging from your knowledge of what's going on, you sound like an eligible mediator.)

Unless you are sure of your facts, stay out of it. This looks mighty like to learn the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: The bride who wanted "WHAT KIND OF POOL AM I?" sang at her wedding showed what kind of fool she was.

And, Abby, you showed your ignorance when you suggested "Because" or "I Love You Truly." "Because" is poor.

And "I Love You Truly" is worse.

A wedding ceremony is part of a church service, and love songs are out of place.

Any qualified organist or soloist can assist the bride in selecting appropriate wedding music, and there is no excuse for all the trash that is being played at weddings these days.

ORGANIST

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Have to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press, for Abby's new booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Yule Visit to Fiance Is Proper

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I am 19 years old and just recently became engaged to a boy in the service. I will have two weeks off from college during the Christmas holiday and my fiance would like me to come down to where he is stationed for a few days during that time.

He said that I could stay with an officer friend and his wife who have a house near the base. This couple are unknown to me but are good friends of my fiance.

My mother doesn't think it would be proper for me to go. What do you think about it?

A: It will be entirely proper for you to stay with this officer and his wife, but your fiance should ask her to write to you and invite you personally to stay with them.

Q: We have two young children, a boy and a girl, and we are trying to teach them good manners. I always insist that they ask permission to leave the table after they have finished eating.

My husband thinks I am carrying manners a little too far by demanding this, and says it is not at all necessary. I would very much like to know what you have to say about this.

A: Your husband is wrong in thinking that you are carrying manners too far.

Every well brought up child is taught not to leave the table until he (or she) has asked, "Please may I be excused?" and receives permission to do so.

Q: We have just received a printed announcement of the opening of a dental office by the son of friends of ours. Will you please tell me if this requires any acknowledgment?

A: No acknowledgment is necessary. It was sent to let you know where his office is located should you wish to go to him. When you see the young dentist you wish him success in his new office.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette.

If you would like the booklet entitled, "The Bride's Trouseau," send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

After the church reception, the couple left for a brief honeymoon and will reside on Chandler Street.

Seed pearls edged the scalloped neckline and accented a lace crown atop the short illusion veil. The bridal cascade bouquet included pink sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

Catholics Collecting Clothing

In proclaiming the first Thanksgiving Day in 1621, the Pilgrims gave thanks to Almighty God for His goodness, mercy and bounty.

After 342 years, the basic and hallowed purpose of Thanksgiving Day is still to honor and thank God for the blessings we as a nation have received.

On that first celebration the Pilgrims invited the Indians living in the surrounding wilderness to join them and partake of the fruits of the first year's harvest.

Consistent with the religious sharing-with-others tradition of Thanksgiving Day, Catholic Bishops of the United States, each year during November conduct a nationwide appeal for used clothing, bedding, blankets and shoes.

The collection is for the benefit of millions of destitute persons in underdeveloped areas of the world.

Now in its 15th consecutive year, this appeal is known as the Bishop's Thanksgiving Clothing Collection.

In the Pontiac area clothing may be taken to a Catholic school, church or rectory.

Pontiac churches include St. Vincent de Paul, St. Michael's, St. Benedict's, and St. Joseph's. City schools are St. Frederick's, St. Michael's and St. Benedict's.

AREA CHURCHES

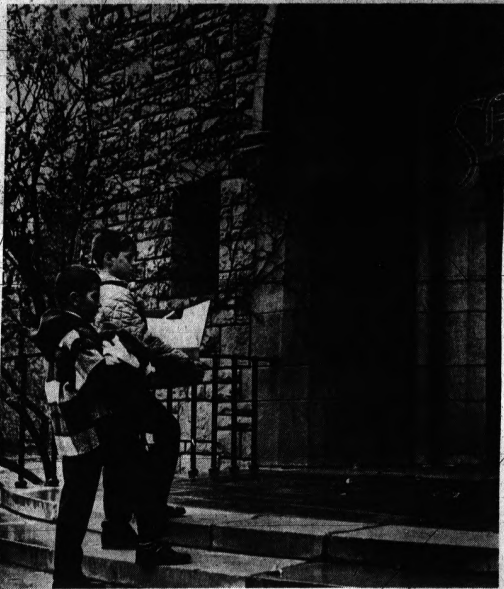

Other nearby churches are St. Hugo, the Hills, Bloomfield Hills; Our Lady of the Lakes, Waterford Township; Sacred Heart, Auburn Heights; and Our Lady of Refuge, Orchard Lake.

All clothing and other materials donated in this collection will be shipped and distributed by Catholic Relief Services — the overseas aid agency of American Catholics. Distribution is made under American supervision solely on the basis of need without distinction or regard to race, creed or color.

This month the nearest Catholic church or rectory will gladly accept a contribution of serving.

usable, used clothing or bedding from anyone wishing to give. Those sponsoring the Thanksgiving Clothing Collection urge that we "give thanks by giving."

Rabbi Richard L. Rubenstein, Hillel director at the University of Pittsburgh, will be the speaker.

The first meeting of the Commission on World Mission and Evangelism of the World Council of Churches will be held in Mexico City, Dec. 8-20, to study "God's Mission and Our Task."

About 200 churchmen from six continents are expected to attend. Delegates appointed by the national Christian councils affiliated with the Commission will confer at Union Theological Seminary and the Sarah Alarcon Methodist Girls School.

Advisors, observers from other world church bodies, young delegates and staff will also take part.

Bishop Leslie Newbigin, director of the WCC Division, has observed that the image evoked by the word "missions" is still shaped by the experience of the colonial era.

There are more than 200 missionaries of the Asian churches going from their own countries to work in other parts of Asia and Africa, he pointed out.

The Orthodox churches will participate for the first time in such discussions, the WCC reports, and the meeting "will not only represent six continents but will face six continents" among them several where Christianity is still a minority religion.

Take Tour of Convent

The St. Paul Guild of St. Michael's Catholic Church will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the church prior to making a tour of the St. Michael's Convent.

Meetings to Close

REV. FRED C. RENICH

Services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. The church choir under the direction of Rick Hartsoe will sing at both services. Pastor Harold W. Gieseke said the public is invited.

Leading mission boards send their accepted candidates to Missionary Internship where they spend seven months interning in various churches under the guidance of the local pastor.

The movement is gaining nationwide attention for its success in preparing missionaries for foreign service, Pastor Gieseke said.

Group Sponsors Tea

The Tennessee Group of Bray Temple C.M.E. is sponsoring a green leaf tea from 3 to 5 p.m. on Nov. 24 at the church located at 320 Rockwell. Mrs. Cornelia Cobb, chairman, said the proceeds will benefit the building fund. Rev. R. H. McEwen is pastor.

Churchmen Promoting Fair Housing

In special action, the board of directors of the Berkeley Area (Calif.) Council of Churches recently commended "those church organizations, churches, churchmen, citizens and realtors who have promoted fair housing."

The present state law, the Rumford Fair Housing Law, said the board, should be implemented and protected from any attempts to repeal or amend it.

Underlining that the Council's statement was not biased, the directors urged, however, that all citizens encourage members of the housing and real estate industry to support the Rumford law.

Direct action by churchmen and others, said the statement, should include confrontation and conversations with the industry representatives and "the promotion of suitable legislation and housing policies" to ensure "equality of opportunity in housing for all people despite differences in race, religion, ancestry or national origin."

Dr. Bruce K. Wood is executive director of the Berkeley Area Council of Churches.

God hath not promised skies always blue, flower-strewn pathways all our lives through. God hath not promised sin without rain, joy without sorrow, peace without pain. But God hath promised strength for the day, rest for the laborer, light on the way, grace for the trial, help from above, unfailing sympathy — undying love. — Author unknown, Guideposts.

FOR MISSIONS—Mrs. A. Q. Hashman, superintendent of the senior and youth department of the Sunday School at First Assembly of God Church, receives money collected for missions by young people of her department. The youths will use the money to provide Christmas for a family in the Orient they adopted for the holiday.

Adopt Missionary Plan Christmas for Family

The First Assembly of God, 210 N. Perry is expanding its missionary program through the Sunday School. Currently the congregation contributes toward the support of 11 missionary families in foreign lands.

Every department of the church is being made aware of the importance and responsibility of the churches to mission fields.

The boys and girls have a program called "Boys and Girls' Crusade" which provides printed literature to aid missionaries.

One such project furnished

Mrs. Arnold Q. Hashman, wife of the pastor, works with the youth of the church in mission work. The recent offering for missions will be used to provide Christmas gifts for the Beckdahls.

According to the story when times were hard Jabez had become discouraged and, in a fit of temper, said he would sell his soul to the Devil.

Mr. Scratch, the Devil, appeared and when Jabez made a deal with him, he immediately began to prosper. Ten years later Jabez' wedding day Mr. Scratch came to collect.

According to the story when times were hard Jabez had become discouraged and, in a fit of temper, said he would sell his soul to the Devil.

Mr. Scratch, the Devil, appeared and when Jabez made a deal with him, he immediately began to prosper. Ten years later Jabez' wedding day Mr. Scratch came to collect.

For Exceptional Children

Council Provides Christian Training

The Pontiac Area Council of Churches organized earlier this year is providing for the Christian education of exceptional persons.

Mrs. Maynard Johnson of Bethany Baptist Church with the assistance of Rev. Chalmers Mastin, Christian education director at Bethany, organized the first group.

It is a class for retarded children held each Sunday from 10:30 a.m. to noon at Central Methodist Church, 3883 Highland Road.

Mrs. Johnson, the counseling teacher, is aided by Mrs. Jack Newman of All Saints Episcopal Church, Mrs. James Van Cleave of First Methodist Church and Mrs. John Miller of Central Methodist.

The present enrollment is five. The youngsters are studying the life and teachings of Jesus with particular emphasis on their applicability to the lives of these children.

"The hour and a half goes far too quickly to incorporate all the music, activities, lessons and devotional material planned. We spend a great deal of time just getting acquainted," said Mrs. Johnson.

"Each child deserves and wants the kind of education provided by a Christian Church School class. This one is interdenominational. The teachings we want to share with these children are basic to all Christian religion," she added.

We know from history what happens when men and civilizations stray from the path of God. Their immediate endeavors may be successful, but eventually they are doomed to decay. Communism contains within itself the seeds of its own destruction.—J. Edgar Hoover.

Mrs. Johnson went on to say "the exceptional child can find the fulfillment, the self expression, the joy in living the way of Jesus Christ. We hope to provide the channel."

Other classes for exceptional children will be made available through the council of churches when needed.

Anyone knowing of a child that might like to attend the class may contact Mrs. Johnson.

The Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society at Columbia Avenue Baptist Church entertained the Junior Girls' Auxiliary at a spaghetti dinner this week.

Preparing and serving the food were Shirley Perkins and Millie Edwards who are earning awards.

There are six steps to the auxiliary awards. The girls in cooking the dinner earned part of the fifth step or Queen Scepter. They will have to cook two more dinners with menus of foreign food.

Requirements other than

Council to Hear Views From Exchange Students

A vivid picture of the exchange student program will be presented by students themselves at Tuesday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Greater Waterford Community Council at Pierce Junior High School.

Speaking will be seven area high school youngsters who traveled abroad last summer and four foreign students attending high school in Waterford Township.

A mounting interest in the exchange student program across the nation prompted the GWCC to schedule a special meeting on the topic, council president Mildred James said.

James pointed out that one of the first projects of the then newly formed GWCC was to secure sponsoring groups three years ago for foreign students to come here for a year.

STUDENT SPEAKERS

Speaking at the meeting will be foreign students Ben Van Leemven of Denmark and Stefan Moreh of Sweden, both Kettering students, and Waterford Township High students Per Ahlstrom from Sweden and Uruguay's Christina Villar.

Local students who will relate last summer's travel experiences are Kettering's Jack Dikeman, Ginny Fry, Jane Davis and Carl Howarth and Pamela Morgan, Dick Miller and Pat French of WTHS.

Ginny, Pat and Jack spent the summer in Germany, Janie and Dick in Sweden, Carol in England and Pamela in Finland.

Clifford Bentley in chairman of the GWCC exchange student program. He has his sights on expanded support by various groups to enable more youngsters to participate.

The meeting, which will serve as the combined November-December GWCC meeting, is open to the public.

Pneumonia Takes Life of Conductor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fritz Reiner, 74, who fulfilled a boyhood dream by becoming one of the world's leading symphony orchestra conductors, died in a hospital yesterday of pneumonia.

Among Reiner's great accomplishments was his success in raising the once-mediocre Chicago Symphony to a position of eminence in the classical music world.

Reiner joined the orchestra as director in 1938. Within a few years, it was regarded as the second best in the nation, just behind the Philadelphia Symphony.

A heart attack in 1960 curtailed his work with the orchestra, and he resigned his post two years later. He had planned to celebrate his 75th birthday next month with a four-week engagement with the Chicago Symphony.

—Rev. Billy Graham but I believe if our parents would have in their homes family prayer and Bible reading, they would by precept and example instill in their offspring, at an early age an abiding respect for God's laws and man's laws.—Talbot Ellis, Judge at Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court of Birmingham, Ala.

background for LIVING

FROM THIS — Once, live reindeer and other animals that marched down Woodward in the annual Thanksgiving Day parade lived in this old barn. The former owner, the Newcomb family, used live animals so that city youngsters could see the real thing. Then, for years until the Coppins took over, the barn stood empty and neglected at the back of the Newcomb estate — a lonely reminder of happier days.

Artist Creates a Home From Lonely Old Barn

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Every once in a while you run across someone who has taken an old run-down building that nobody else wants, and made it into a wonderful thing of beauty.

This is the story of Oakland County's own internationally acclaimed artist, John Coppin, and his wife Sidni, who could foresee a completely functional as well as beautiful home in an old barn on Echo Road, Bloomfield Township.

It took just a year to tear out the interior and install new windows and doors before the barn was livable. In order to have two mammoth fireplaces, (one in the upstairs studio and another in the living room), Coppin had the lower floor torn up and some 15 inches of concrete poured in for a new floor.

But that's not the most exciting story. You get into the big building by rapping on the door with an old knocker, identical with one used at 10 Downing Street.

Inside, there's an overwhelming sound of stereo music flooding like giant waves through all the rooms. "Bach and Beethoven set the theme for the entire Coppin living."

The sunken living room is big, colors are blended — some muted, others brilliantly alive. Lovely oil paintings of Sidni and their 13-year-old son, Torrey, are placed artistically at proud focal points in the lower level. Warm-toned woods in walls and furniture match the informal atmosphere.

In the huge upstairs studio, walls are sprinkled with oversized still-life oil paintings, portraits of world-famous personages and macabre sketches created from sheer imagination.

Pontiac Press Photos by Edward R. Webb

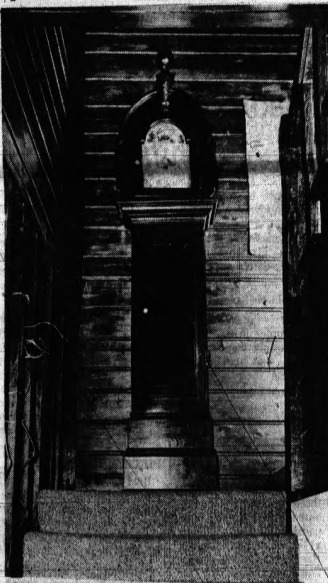

TO THIS — Today, the old barn is a real thing of beauty, built into the side of a hill on Echo Road. Because it was structurally sound, and a plate glass picture window now covers the Coppins could foresee this ivy-strewn studio-home as a permanent residence. Big windows replaced the hay loft door in the upper part, and the former main door opening.

DRAMATIC LIVING ROOM — There's plenty of space for easy, graceful living in this 30-by-24-foot room on the main floor. Massive furniture for solid comfort is mixed with soft and vivid colors. A lovely oil painting of the Coppins' 13-year-old son Torrey, looks down over a coral-seated, built-in unit that runs nearly the length of the room.

GREAT GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK — This old clock was shipped over from England when Coppin's great-grandfather came to America. It's had very little repair and quietly ticks off the minutes and booms out the hours. The big clock is right at home on the landing leading to the upstairs studio.

STUDIO'S ON TOP — The spacious, L-shaped studio upstairs holds every type of oil painting, from colorful still life to macabre desert scenes. Portraits of famous men and women peer down from artistically arranged vantage points as the genial Coppin goes about creating new oil paintings.

ARTIST RELAXES — This is a rare pose for internationally known artist John Coppin. Hundreds of worldwide celebrities have sat for the genial gentleman in that well-worn chair in the vast studio. The portrait of world traveler George Pierrot in back of Coppin was recently unveiled at the Detroit Scrub Club, of which Coppin was one of the first organizers.

CHARMING PORTRAYAL — The quiet charm of Sidni Coppin was captured by her husband in this almost life-sized painting created four years ago. A feeling of informal warmth floods the room, creating a "so glad you're here" atmosphere.

INFORMAL CHARM — There have been many informal conversations around this sturdy trestle table as fine foods were passed. Brilliant blues, oranges, yellows and browns dominate the big still-life picture on this wall. Fall, in all its glory, could not be portrayed more vividly than in this painting.

The increase in the number of seals in the Baltic Sea is worrying fishermen who estimate that seals eat 50,000 tons of fish a year there.

Moisture Cause of Paint Peel

QUESTION: The paint on some parts of the outside of our house has started to blister.

We had a paint job done a little over a year ago. We keep everything in good condition. The house is insulated, weather-stripped, etc.

Can you tell us what is causing this blistering?

ANSWER: Exterior paint blistering usually results from excessive moisture within the house which can not escape except through the walls. It goes through the walls, condensing into water as it hits the cooler inside surface of the siding and then pushing through the outer paint coating.

It rarely happens years after houses were not so tight construction. The moisture then could escape easily without forcing its way through the walls.

However, the same openings that permitted the moisture to leave also afforded passageways for heat, causing fuel bills to mount and making houses much harder to keep comfortable.

Another modern-day factor in this entire picture is the moisture-exuding appliance, of which there are many.

Exhaust fans, especially in the kitchen and bathroom and wherever the clothes dryer is located, often solve the problem.

More severe conditions call for other measures, among them the installation of breather tubes just above the foundation.

Uses of a Divider Many and Varied

In most homes, it's best to let the entrance hall connect visually with the living room so that each can borrow space from the other. Yet, some separation is needed to preserve the entrance hall's individuality.

Attractive wooden screens, simple and open in pattern, could do the trick, or use of a head-height storage divider. Such a divider could also be designed to act as a guest closet if one is not already built into the entrance hall. Otherwise, it can be a shallow freestanding unit designed as an entertainment wall, or for general storage.

When Finishing Attic, Insulate It Adequately

If finishing the attic to add living space is on your do-it-yourself schedule this year, don't waste time and money creating a room that's going to be too hot for comfort in summer and unbearably cold in winter.

Invest a little extra time and money to insulate it adequately now and you'll reap dividends in comfort and fuel savings far into the future.

Better Walnut Wood Sought in Program

Seed nut collection in the walnut industry's continuing program to assure an adequate supply of quality walnut timber reached a record 11,400 bushels in 1963, according to Donald H. Gott, secretary-manager of the American Walnut Manufacturers' Association.

This was an increase of 235 bushels or approximately 153,000 seed nuts over the previous peak, recorded last year, he said.

Figures are compiled from records submitted by the 14 states presently cooperating in the industry's planting program, now in its 34th year.

In addition to its program of encouraging annual fall seed-nut collecting, followed by annual spring distribution of the nuts and seedlings to growers, the industry continues to sponsor controlled growing experiments aimed at maintaining and increasing the quality of walnut timber.

FARM PURCHASES

The association is negotiating for the purchase of several substantial central states farms for conservation purposes, on which is contemplated the planting of a minimum of 250,000 walnut seedlings per farm.

Plantings will be under supervision of a trained forester who will protect against weeds and overgrowth as well as grazing and other hazards, and do the necessary pruning required.

In this manner, direct control can be exercised over all growth conditions and periodic checks made on survival results.

To growers interested in further information, the booklet "Growing Walnut for Profit" is available in a 1963 edition, without charge in limited quantities, from the American Walnut Manufacturers' Association, 666 N. Lake Shore Drive, Chicago 11, Ill.

Before Pipes Suffer

Under the category of "little things that annoy a lot" is the banging sound of "water hammer" in a piping system. Fortunately, it can be remedied.

The cause and effect of water hammer, says the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, can be compared to a car driven into a brick wall. Because the wall does not absorb any of the impact, a destructive crash is inevitable.

The most usual, but not the best, way of preventing water hammer is the installation of air chambers at all points where the faucets or valves are connected to pipes.

An air chamber is a vertical length of pipe with a natural air pocket that cushions the force of the water.

PLUMBING SUFFERS

Eventually, however, the air in the piping chamber is sorbed by the water and you hear the constant sound of water hammer while your plumbing suffers. The entire plumbing system must then be drained to recharge the air chambers.

A far better protection is the installation of special shock absorber devices by your plumbing contractor.

Larger than a pipe chamber, it absorbs water shock with a rubber-type tube that expands inside a rigid shell containing a pliable insulation material.

Because it does not depend on an air pocket to cushion the water, it never needs any kind of recharging to continue its vital work of protecting the plumbing system from damage and your ears from needless noise.

Full Mirrors Now Are on Folding Doors

Any woman faced with the problem of checking her appearance in a small glass appreciates the convenience of full-length mirrors. Now such mirrors have become part of another problem-solver, the folding closet door.

Folding wood doors with factory-assembled mirrors and hardware are now available to do-it-yourselfers for as little as $67 for a 4-door, 4-foot-wide, 6-foot 8-inch high unit.

Angling the mirror doors slightly gives a "dressing room" view, front and back, head-to-toe.

Fully opened, doors stack tightly to either side to allow easy selection from any part of the closet, close quickly, quietly and effortlessly.

SEEM LARGE

In addition to their practical purpose in dressing and over-all good grooming, mirror doors make small rooms seem large, large rooms larger.

Available in woods and styles to match any period, decor or color scheme, mirror doors may also be had in a full selection of fine finishes or in ready-to-paint hardboard.

Use Different Lighting When Selecting Paint

When you select paint colors, be sure to look at color chips under the same type of lighting that will exist in the room you're redecorating.

Identical colors appear to be different when viewed under daylight, incandescent or fluorescent light.

'Can't Expect Miracles From Latin Aid Program'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Alliance for Progress is benefiting the United States' Latin neighbors, but overnight miracles must not be expected, a panel of experts told members of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Pedro Beltran, publisher of La Prensa in Lima, Peru, said, "You can't change people and countries overnight."

He told editors from across the nation that it was not until after World War I that England had universal suffrage.

"Latin America can't do overnight what it took the English many generations to accomplish."

AFTER ELECTION

The discussion of Latin-American affairs followed the election of Sam Ragan, executive editor of the Raleigh (N.C.) News & Observer and Times as president of the APME.

George Beebe, managing editor of the Miami Herald, was chosen vice-president. William B. Dickinson, Philadelphia Bulletin, was named secretary, and Howard Clavinger, Spokane (Wash.) Chronicle, treasurer.

Beltran, former Peruvian prime minister, said Latin America's political problems are greatly different from that of the United States and often are not understood by Americans.

Romulo O'Fairrill, publisher of Novedades in Mexico City, and president of the Inter-American Press Association, said, "I think the alliance is a great program. It is the greatest answer to fight infiltrations of communism there has been. We must coordinate all the things we are doing under the alliance."

INCONSISTENT POLICY

A charge that U.S. State Department policy has been inconsistent in granting recognition to the military coup in Viet Nam while denying it to the Dominican Republic was voiced by German Cruss, publisher of El Caribe, in Santo Domingo.

"We are ruled by a civilian triumvirate," Ornes said, "Six political parties formed a coalition and were given government control 48 hours after the coup. But we have gone nearly two months without recognition."

Ornes claimed, "The hard policy of the United States means we are bound to have either a military dictatorship or a civil war. Even with a military dictatorship, we will still likely have a civil war. And if we do, communism will come out on top. By withholding recognition, the United States is setting this up."

Doctor-Technician

'Phyllis, Baby' Advises Kildare

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—When the mother of Dr. Phyllis Wright learned her daughter was to be technical adviser for "Dr. Kildare," she asked in dismay:

"What will they call you on the set—'Phyllis, baby'?"
The doctor reported this to the movie workers and now many everyone calls her "Phyllis, baby."

"Except the THOMAS crew," she said. "They are more reticent and call me, 'doctor, baby.'"

The attractive pediatrician spends her mornings teaching medical students, then goes to MGM in the afternoon to advise on medical matters for the Kildare show. She keeps an eye on procedures by Richard Chamberlain, Raymond Massey and the other television medics and also helps on scripts.

"Our biggest problem is finding dramatic diseases," said Dr. Wright. "The ideal disease is something that is not disfiguring, not below the waist—for sensitivity reasons—and something that allows the patient to be lucid to the end. Leukemia fits perfectly, but we have used it too often."

Mrs. Wright, wife of a professor of pediatrics and mother of two children, consults with writers via phone at night. "They call me and want to know if a certain disease would work in a certain situation," she said. "I straighten them out and they go back to work."

Her job takes constant vigilance—"If I don't keep an eye on things, they'll get an X-ray upside down or do something else that would make us all look silly."

She also has had to resist writers' attempts to shove Dr. Kildare into the operating room. That was all right when he was an intern and could swing through various departments at Blair General. But as a resident this season he can't be as free-wheeling.

Mrs. Wright said she takes a lot of ribbing and some complaints from her fellow doctors. "Doctors hear about the show through their patients," she said. "But I think most of them are like my husband. After spending the day in and around medicine, he has no desire to see more of it on television."

Negro Demonstrators Added to Jail Total

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. (AP)—Police arrested Golden Frinks, field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and 20 other Negroes demonstrating against racial segregation Friday night after protest leaders had spent most of the day trying to recruit marchers.

It was the second consecutive day of demonstrations. Police jailed 54, including 15 Northern white ministers and seminary students Thursday after they had staged a silent three-block march from a Negro church near the Martin County courthouse.

Frinks also was charged with organizing and leading the demonstration. The Edenton Negro said he did not join in Thursday's march because he faced a six-month jail sentence if arrested. He is under suspended sentence on a bad check charge.

Officers set Frinks' bond at $1,000. The integration leader told newsmen he would remain in jail. Frinks said he decided to join Friday's march "if I had to go by myself."

Five of the Northern clergymen were transferred Friday night from the Martin County Jail to neighboring Beaufort County Jail in Washington, N.C., because of crowded cell conditions.

Once they were jailed, some of the clergymen began a hunger strike protesting segregated jail facilities. Sheriff Raymond Rawls agreed to desegregate the jail and the ministers called off their fast after two meals were refused.

Dr. King in Danville Rallies Marchers

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Weak-crowd of about 375 but each time the Rev. L. W. Chase chairman of the Danville unit of King's organization, urged the gathering to be quiet so the speaker could finish.

When Allen finally sat down and King started to speak he was greeted with an ovation. He said he was "glad you let him (Allen) say what he had to say."

King looked peaked and rather sick. He said he had had a temperature of 101 degrees and a doctor told him he shouldn't come. But "I came here to let you know that we in the SCLC are with you all the way."

Regarding the racial struggle in Danville, he said, "There will be a new day, a day not of the white man or of the black man but a day of man as man."

"I am here in Danville because the city of Danville and its officials have arrogantly denied Negroes basic human and constitutional rights. I want it known there will be no tranquility and peace here until the Negro has all his rights."

Show Knees; It's OK

ANCONA, Italy (AP)—A court in this central Italian city on the Adriatic Sea has ruled that a short skirt is not sufficient evidence that a woman is trying to entice someone.

A private complaint was filed against three young women alleging that their skirts were so short that their knees were exposed when they sat on a park bench. The complaint charged, the exposure of knees violated a section of the Italian penal code forbidding any act of enticement.

Yesterday, the Ancona court acquitted the three women on grounds of insufficient evidence. The women were identified in court only by initials.

Traffic Code Being Eyed

Waterford Township Board members Monday night are expected to act on a police department proposal calling for adoption of the Uniform Traffic Code.

Presently, the township is governed by its own traffic ordinance patterned after state law.

Police contend that the Uniform Traffic Code is broader in scope than the existing ordinance. They also claim that uniformity of traffic regulations is advantageous.

150 COMMUNITIES

The Uniform Traffic Code is now in effect in more than 150 state townships, villages and cities.

In other business, the board will consider recalling 1943 water bonds.

This will eliminate all outstanding obligations and enable Oakland County to issue new bonds.

The county recently was designated agent for the township's water system.

Headwaiter in Kettle of Fish

Why Stew Over Congress?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Now about this business of a head waiter accompanying members of the U.S. delegation to the NATO parliamentarians meeting in Paris.

I don't understand why that should cause so much controversy.

After all, here is nothing novel about it.

Some waiters go off on long trips every time you give them your order.

Frequently, the temperature of the food they bring back leads me to believe they have been to Iceland.

In my opinion, taking the head waiter of the House dining room to the NATO meeting was like good thinking. Paris, as you know, is the fountainhead of fine cuisine. And headwaiters are nothing if not parliamentarians.

By including the waiter, Ernest Petinaud, in the party, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, who headed the delegation, killed two birds with one stone.

Chances are they will turn up on the menu next week. Under glass.

EXPOSED SKILLS

What I mean is, the trip exposed Petinaud to the culinary skills of France, and it exposed members of the delegation to the parliamentary talents of Petinaud.

Thus, both stand to gain something from the experience. Which is more than can be said for most congressional junkies.

I frequently have lunch in the House restaurant, and I can say this about it—the food may not be much to brag about, but the service leaves a lot to be desired.

Actually, the quality of the food is of little concern to me. Man does not live by bread alone. Not as long as Metrecal is available.

FOR SCENERY

I go to the restaurant mainly for the scenery. I sit at a table overlooking a waiter who overlooks me.

But in suggesting that the service is sometimes less than impeccable, I should in all fairness add that the meals are cheap. And so is the clientele.

You might think from the size of the appropriation bills they pass the members of Congress are lavish tipsters. Well, I hate to disillusion anyone but candor prompts me to report that certain law-givers are known to the waiters as "the last of the big mizers."

As for the press table, the tips that we newsmen leave our waiter every day would feed a

Pittsburgh Archbishop Dies of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—Archbishop Benjamin of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh and West Virginia, died of a heart attack Friday. Archbishop Benjamin, 76, was the first American-born priest of any Orthodox jurisdiction elevated to the rank of bishop. He was born in Basil Basalyga in Old Forge, Pa., and became a bishop in 1933 and an archbishop in 1950.

The two were arrested Oct. 30 on their arrival at Havana Airport in their small, private airplane.

Customs officers said they found hand grenades and other explosives concealed in fruit cans the Canadians were carrying.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro accused the Canadians of being agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Of Two Canadians

Cuba Plans Public Trial

HAVANA (AP)—A foreign ministry official said yesterday that two Canadians accused of trying to smuggle explosives into Cuba will be tried in public, and foreign correspondents will be allowed to report the proceeding.

This would be the first public trial of its kind since the mass trials of supporters of former dictator Fulgencio Batista in 1959.

The official said the trial of Ronald Patrick Lippert, 32, of Kitchener, Ont., and William David Milne, 31, of Montreal probably would start Tuesday or Wednesday.

However, Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin said in Ottawa yesterday he had been advised that the trial was set for Nov. 23.

HAD BEEN CANCELED

The Cuban official said that a news conference scheduled for the Canadians today had been canceled "due to the nearness of the trial."

The two were arrested Oct. 30 on their arrival at Havana Airport in their small, private airplane.

No Negroes Will Select Rose Queen

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Selection of the Tournament of Roses queen won't be made by an integrated committee, officials say.

Reacting to a request by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Tournament President Hilles Bedell said yesterday:

"The tournament is a private organization and final selection of the queen is made the responsibility of the regular committee established for that purpose, as it always has been."

The NAACP had asked that an integrated panel of students from Pasadena City College choose the queen. The Pasadena chapter said that the all-white judging panel has never selected a Negro girl as queen or princess.

'Danger Spot' South Africa

LONDON (AP)—A Labor member of Parliament told the House of Commons Friday that white-ruled, segregated South Africa is in danger of "a Spanish-type civil war that might be a prelude to world war."

He demanded that the United Nations intervene. "I do not think it is possible to exaggerate the situation there," Laborite Fenner Brockway declared during debate on African af-

Huskies Dominate 4th Game in Series

PNH Ends Grid Frustration Against Pontiac Central, 21-0

Early Blocked Punt Sets Up First TD

Pontiac Northern ended four years of frustration Friday evening with a well-earned 21-0 triumph over Pontiac Central at Wisner Stadium before an estimated 5,500 fans, largest of the series.

The win was the first against three setbacks for the Huskies in their annual series with Central, and the victory upped their season record to 6-3, equalling a high team mark set by the 1961 Northern eleven.

A touchdown at the 2:46 mark of the opening stanza gave the Huskies all the points needed and they added six points in the second and fourth periods.

A blocked punt on the fourth play of the game set up the first Northern score.

The Chiefs took the opening kickoff and Northern forced the sophomore-studded Central line into a punt situation at the 28-yard line.

Central's kicker Jan Anderson fielded a bad snap from center but Northern's Tom Nichols raced in from his defensive end position to block the punt.

The ball bounced toward Central's goal line and Nichols and tackle Larry Dean smothered the pigskin at the 12-yard mark.

FOUR PLAYS

Northern picked up the touchdown four plays later when senior quarterback Jim Kimmel filtered through a hole over left guard from one yard out. Dean Souden added his first of three PATs for a 7-0 Huskie lead.

Kimmel masterminded the second scoring drive at the start of the second quarter after the Huskies had halted a budding Central drive on the PNH 37-yard line.

The Huskies used 12 plays and most of the second stanza in covering the 73 yards which ended with fullback Steve Daniels bursting over from the one-yard line.

The big play in the series was a 30-yard pass from Kimmel, his first of the evening, to Souden which moved the ball to Central's 33-yard stripe.

Kimmel applied the clincher with only 1:15 remaining in the game when he rifled a shot to Jim DeFlorio on a 55-yard pass-and-run play.

The Huskies were in their own five-yard marker when Kimmel tossed the ball loose. DeFlorio snared the toss near his own 30, broke away from a Central defender at the 50 and raced in for the six pointer.

The Chiefs, who closed the season with a 0-4-1 record, had numerous scoring opportunities but they couldn't come up with that 'big play,' their trademark in winning the first three games of the series.

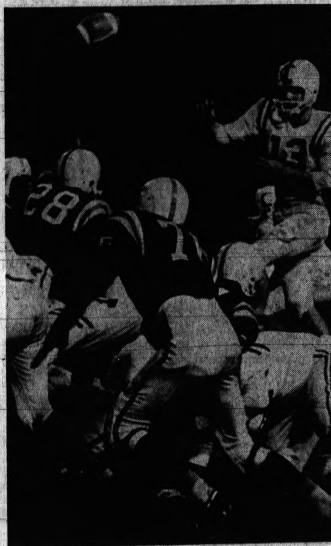

After Northern had bounced into a 7-0 lead, the Chiefs stormed back and moved from their own 30 to Northern's 37 with sophomore quarterback Jerry Murphy at the helm.

Murphy found a lot of room on the left side of the Northern line in the drive and sent fullback Jim Crump and halfback James Mitchell around end for sizable gains.

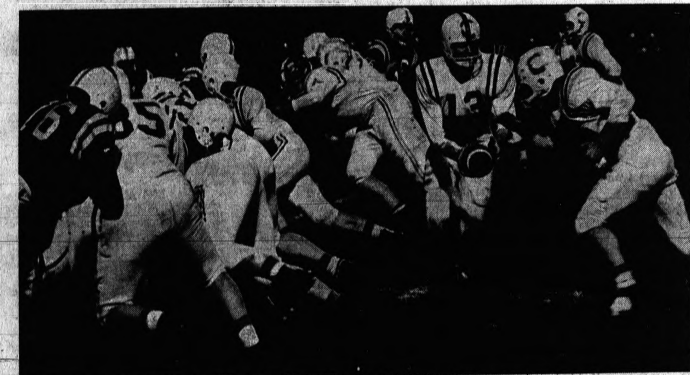

Northern halted Crump inches short of a first down to halt the drive at the 37.

A 28-yard pass from Murphy to end Frank Collins late in the first half put the Chiefs in scoring position at Northern's 25, but Murphy was spilled for a seven-yard loss on second down and Anderson booted the ball into the end zone two plays later.

The Huskies almost made it 21-0 with seconds left in the AIRBORNE MANEUVER — PNH passer Jim Kimmel (13) leaps into the air to toss short pass to end Dean Souden who is being pursued by Pontiac Central's Dave Edwards (76). The Kimmel-to-Souden combination proved very effective for the Huskies four times keeping drives moving. No. 36 for PNH is defender Esjay White.

Lions Will Find Rams Better

NFL Plans Test With Theater TV

DETROIT (AP)—The National Football League will experiment with theater televising of its games next season, commissioner Pete Rozelle said Friday.

But he said this won't affect the NFL home television programs. "I seriously doubt that the NFL will ever abandon free home television," Rozelle said. "The NFL boss, a visitor in Detroit on his way to Chicago for Sunday's Chicago Bears-Green Bay Packers battle for the NFL's Western division lead, spoke at the Adercraft Club."

He ranged over many topics including the suspensions of tackle Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions and Paul Hornung of the Packers and overtures from the American Football League for competition with the NFL.

Rozelle also met privately with president William Clay Ford and general manager Edwin J. Anderson of the Lions, presumably over Ford's offer to buy the Lions for $6 million.

Rozelle indicated he thought well of Ford's offer. He said that at one time the NFL approved group ownership of a club but that now one owner or an owner with controlling interest is preferable. The Lions are owned by 14 stockholders and operated by a board of directors.

The board has recommended approval of Ford's offer by the stockholders.

REVIEW CASES
Rozelle repeated he would review the Karras and Hornung cases in January. The two stars were suspended indefinitely on charges of gambling on games.

The commissioner appeared at an Adercraft Club luncheon and answered questions from a panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

One question was about a post-season game between the NFL and AFL champions.

Rozelle was cool to it. Rozelle said he recalled a contact from coach Sid Gillman of the San Diego AFL club.

"I remember receiving a telegram from Sid Gillman," Rozelle said, "in which he said 'Pope John was a great man. He recognized the other league.' Well, I answered him, 'True, but it took 2,000 years.'"

Argentine King Belts Thornton

NEW YORK (AP) — After whipping Wayne Thornton in a bruising 10-round Friday night Argentine Gregorio Peralta probably will have to beat the Californian again to get a title fight with light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano.

The handsome, 28-year-old heavyweight king of Argentina chopped and poked his way to a split verdict over the light heavyweight contender from Fresno in a television thriller at Madison Square Garden.

Peralta was an 11-5 favorite as he ran his unbeaten streak to 44, including two draws. The dark-haired gaucho has lost only one fight, a knockout to Peruvian Mauro Mina in his first pro start. Since then it's come up roses.

With a big clique of Argentines in the slim crowd of about 2,000 cheering him on, Peralta broke up a tight battle, fought mostly at close range, by sweeping the fifth, sixth, and seventh rounds.

He was cut over the left eye in the eighth round and Thornton won that big to narrow the margin.

Judge Artie Aidala six rounds to four, and judges Tony Rossi, 6-3-1, voted for Peralta. Referee Armand Mouton had Thornton in front 5-4-1. The AP card had Peralta ahead 6-3-1. A poll of boxing writers showed an 11-3 vote for Peralta with one even.

DEFENSE GOOD
The Ram defense has been tough and their front line of Dave Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Grier and Lamar Lundy led the way last week as the club allowed Chicago out of its own territory only three times. The game showed that the Rams have made a remarkable improvement since suffering a 52-14 licking at the hands of the Bears on the west coast.

Ram coach Harold Sware has finally given the quarterback job to Roman Gabriel, who has done a respectable job but still has a long way to go.

Heisman trophy winner Terry Baker, who started for the Rams against Detroit but still needs time to adjust to pro ball, is the No. 2 quarterback.

The Lions actually got through the loss to Baltimore last week without suffering a major injury which was somewhat of a victory in itself.

But the club is still missing middle linebacker Joe Schmidt, defensive halfback Yale Lary and guard Dan La Rose besides the three players who are lost for the season. Pat Studstill, Carl Brettschneider and Gary Lowe.

Buster Does It, Again
VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Buster O'Brien, the greatest passer in Virginia High School football history, closed out his career Friday night with 38 completions in 53 attempts for 338 yards and seven touchdowns as Princess Anne defeated winless Warwick 6-0.

The 6-foot-1 honor student finished this season with 23 scoring aerials a n d a n three-year career total to 61.

Coach Calls It, Then Hopes

Long TD Play Put Icing on Triumph

By JERE CRAIG

"Jimmy, on the next play you go back in on the Transcontinental."

This started the longest play in the city high school football series between Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central.

The speaker was first year PNH coach Bob Dingman and "Jimmy" was second string offensive halfback Jerry Murphy.

When the ball was moved back five yards to the Northern five-yard line for illegal procedure, Dingman hesitated briefly and then sent DeFlorio in with the play.

"It's a touchdown one way or the other," the coach commented before the play started. As soon as quarterback Jim Kimmel began rolling out to the right, the excited Dingman yelled: "for us, for us."

At the same moment Kimmel whirled and hurled a long dangerous crossfield pass to the wide open DeFlorio on the sideline; and he outdistanced two rather chagrined PCH defenders to the distant goal line.

The play put icing on the victory cake being sampled by the Huskies. They had lost some of the spark they bubbled with earlier in the game, but the spectacular, quick strike brought life back into the happy group along the sidelines . . . and a big smile to Dingman's face.

For Central the play was the climax to a season of frustration and gloom. Plagued with inexperience and lack of size, the Chiefs failed to win a game for the first time in 25 seasons.

Although failing to score for the first time against PNH in the four intra-city battles, the Chiefs waged a game battle. Their tackling on defense was the best since they tied Bay City Handy a month ago in what proved to be the only bright spot this season.

But the big Northern defensive wall repeatedly broke through the PCH blockers to smother quarterback Jerry Murphy for key losses.

One of the biggest reactions from the stands during the halftime performances by the PCH and PNH bands was for the latter's routine showing a scale tipping the balance of athletic power in favor of Northern.

Game statistics gave further proof of that fact. In previous city series grid contests, the Chiefs had gained three times as many yards rushing as had Northern.

Last night PNH led in this department, 155-115. The Chiefs had only passed five times for 53 yards previously, but hit six of 14 for 73 last night — only to see the Huskies gain 181 on six of nine.

CREDIT

The game was a credit to both teams for the calibre of play. The two sides bit hard, but cleanly. Not one unsportsmanlike conduct penalty was called, nor were there any warnings for rough play.

Well planned and executed pep rallies at each school in the afternoon helped create a spirited but peaceful attitude among the fans.

The PCH student body heard a talk by Northern's Steve Daniels and the Huskies' pep rally was addressed by Central's Linda Fought.

Both urged fair play at the game and the beneficial results of their talks were evident at the contest.

The victory for the Huskies gave Dingman a 6-3 mark for his first season at PNH and earned him a ride on the shoulders of the team following the game.

For Central's Paul Dellerba there was only the lonely walk to another losing dressing room with the hopes that next year the young PCH squad will profit.

Prep All-State Lineups Start Next Week

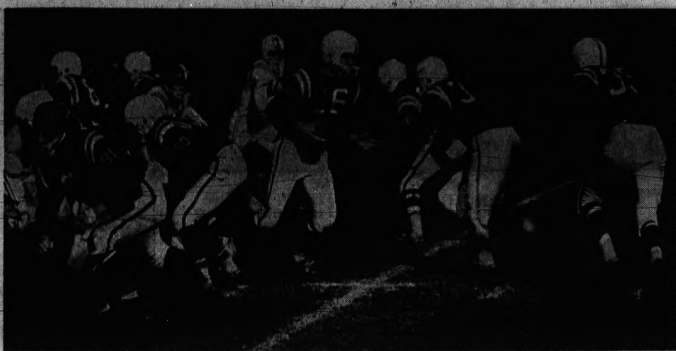

DETROIT (AP) — Collegiate and professional football stars of the future are almost certain to be among the boys named on the state's Associated Press all-state high school football teams.

The 23rd annual AP all-state teams will start appearing in The Pontiac Press Tuesday, Nov. 19, with the announcement of the Class D team.

On the following days, the Class C, B and A teams will be announced on these pages.

Former all-stars who went on to make their mark in collegiate and pro circles include Dick Rifenburg, Don Tomasi, Sonny Grandelius, Leo Sugar, Don DeHoney, Tom Tracy, Tony Bradford, Gary Lowe, Terry Barr, Jim Ninowski and Dean Look.

Be sure to watch for this year's teams on these pages next week.

PASS OR RUN — Pontiac Central quarterback Jerry Murphy (16) is in position to hand the ball off to either trailing halfback Jim Mitchell (35) or keep the ball for a pass attempt. The blocking stances of Ed Collins (81) and George Jackson (49) would indicate Murphy kept the ball this time for a pass attempt. Leading the blocking charge on the right side are Carl Williams (58) and Jim Crump (33).

VOCAL SUPPORT — All eyes weren't always on the grid action at last night's PCH-PNH game. Pontiac Central's enthusiastic leaders kept the large turnout of Chief fans shouting encouragement to its hard working team on the field.

The Central fans and cheer leaders were not so enthused when the game ended, though, with Northern ahead, 21-0. The triumph earned the Huskies 100 points in the All Sports Trophy competition between the two city rivals.

Whitey Is Dazed by Yankee Offer

NEW YORK — Whitey Ford was in a kind of daze when the New York Yankees asked him if he'd like to sign both as a pitcher and a pitching coach.

"I'd just come into the house after speaking at a dinner in New Hampshire for 5,000," he said.

He gulped and added hastily: "Five thousand people, that is."

He "slept on it" and then agreed to his dual role. The fact that an estimated $55,000 salary went with it helped considerably to make up his mind.

Ralph Houk, whose jump to general manager paved the way for Yogi Berra to become manager, still rode the bench at the announcement. He was a bit apologetic.

"We didn't mean to compete with that other fellow having a press conference today," he said, referring to the fact that President Kennedy was speeking at a few blocks away.

Yogi stood around, shifting from one leg to another and nodding grudging agreement to Houk's statements as the iron major explained a number of items.

WORKS WELL. One was that Ford had always worked with younger pitchers this way all hands would feel free to give or ask advice and that Whitey "has been thinking of staying in baseball as a coach when his pitching days are over."

Whitey agreed, asserting that he looked forward to a "couple more years of action."

Houk went on to say that Roger Maris wasn't on the trading block; Rocky Colavito of Detroit wouldn't be in Yankee Stadium because his power is to left center which is the deepest spot in Yankee Stadium; pitching was the Yankees' strong suit; the Yanks were trying to develop and not trade for future talent; and that the big drive was to produce a catcher for the future as well as power-hitting outfielders.

"Now that you are a coach are you still opposed to the spitball?" Whitey was asked.

Ford, often accused of tossing the saliva pitch, wrinkled his nose in amusement.

"How come you didn't ask me during the series?" he demanded.

It was recalled that once, Houk's statements as the iron major explained a number of items.

"I don't complain when we play golf and he carries an extra club."

Interest in Rocky Lags on Market

Tiger Slugger Fails to Lure Top Prospects

Houk Says Yankees Don't Need Colavito; Maris Not Available

DETROIT (UPI) — The Major League teams aren't exactly beating the Tiger Stadium door down at the prospect of Rocky Colavito being on the trading block.

Although Colavito is up on the block for the highest take, the other teams — publicly, at least — haven't shown too much interest.

At a press conference in New York Friday, New York general manager Ralph Houk said the Yankees aren't interested in the temperamental Tiger leftfielder.

"I don't think he would do us much good. Colavito's power is to left center and that's the deepest spot in Yankee when asked if the Yanks were trying to land him.

It just happens that Colavito, the Bronx native who — as the cliché goes — "grew up in the shadows of Yankee Stadium," does some of his best hitting in New York. But the Yanks still don't want him.

SQUELCH REPORTS Houk also squelched reports that Roger Maris is on the trading block. "You don't come by players of his type every day, he's still one of the best you can name," Houk said.

For some strange reason, Maris had been mentioned in trade talk with the Tigers. But Tiger manager Charlie Dressen, who doesn't like Maris' attitude, isn't interested in getting Maris. Dressen, who arrived on the baseball scene not too long after Abner Doubleday tossed out the first bases, has lived through many of baseball's most remembered moments and also doesn't like the idea of Maris getting one more home than Babe Ruth.

The later-league trading season will start this Thursday and runs through Dec. 15. General manager Jim Campbell has been dickering with several National League teams in an attempt to swing a deal and the Tigers may take advantage of the special trading season. The Tigers are also trying to land a second baseman and have been talking about trading Colavito to Kansas City for Jerry Lumpe.

LONG REACH — Will Chamberlain is sure of one thing. The seven foot-one inch center of the San Francisco Warriors knows that Detroit's Ray Scott has very little if no chance of getting the ball which he prepares to pass off in their game in San Francisco last night. The Pistons won, 101-98.

Pistons Rally to Beat Warriors, 101-98

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Detroit Pistons scored 21 points while holding San Francisco to six Friday night as they made up a 15-point deficit in the last period and beat the Warriors 101-98.

Trailing 52-48 after three quarters, it took the Pistons just seven minutes to tie the score at 83-83 on Don Ohl's 16-foot jump shot. Ohl led the comeback with eight points in the final period.

It was the Pistons' fourth National Basketball Association victory in 10 starts. The Warriors now are 6-7.

Wilt Chamberlain and Al Atlees led San Francisco's attack with 22 points each, but the Warriors collected only 15 points in the final period while Detroit tossed in 31.

Ohl, with 15, and Bob Ferry, with 16, were high for the Pistons.

CELTICS 6th The Boston Celtics, aiming for a sixth straight NBA championship scored their 11th victory in 12 starts by walloping the New York Knicks 133-116.

The Celtics are playing at a .847 pace far better than their .750 pace two years ago when they won 60 and lost

20. Setting a record for most victories in a season.

Philadelphia, like Detroit, also had to make up a 15-point deficit to beat the Los Angeles Lakers 99-87 in Friday night's other NBA game. But the 76ers had longer to do it. They started their comeback midway through the third period, when they were trailing 67-52.

County Man in GOP Group

Jack I. Slater Jr., executive director of the Oakland County Republican party, is a member of a new GOP executive directors association formed Thursday in Flint.

Eight Republican executive directors from seven counties established the group for the interchange of information and ideas and promotion of the party in Michigan.

The group was named the Republican Executive Directors Association of Michigan. A former Oakland County GOP staff member, Robert L. Slaughter, now executive director of the Genesee County GOP, was elected temporary secretary of the new group. Charles Laser Jr., of Saginaw County, was named temporary chairman.

Paid staff members of the party's state central committee are to be invited to join. Next meeting of the group is set for Dec. 11 in Saginaw. The executive directors are full-time, paid, professional political organizers.

New Opening Day for I-75 Section

Dec. 16 is the new date for the opening of 18.7 miles of I-75 freeway from Wabash Boulevard at Pontiac's northeast corner to 10 1/2 Mile Road in Madison Heights.

The stretch is to be part of 75 miles of interstate highway to be opened during the next month in Michigan by the State Highway Department.

The new freeways will push the state's freeway mileage past the 1,100-mile mark, according to State Highway Commissioner John Mackin. The I-75 section from Pontiac to Madison Heights previously had been expected to be open to traffic by the end of November.

Scenery Comes 1st in Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—No high-rise apartment project is going to mar the scenic splendor of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's gift home if the Interior Department can help it.

Acting under what it termed "clear instructions" from President Kennedy, the department sent its attorneys into U.S. District Court at Alexandria, Va., yesterday to block construction of the controversial $17-million complex on the 46-acre "Merrywood" estate near McLean, Va.

The department filed an unusual "declaration of taking" of the so-called "scenic easement" of Merrywood, giving Interior the right to Merrywood's scenery but not to the property itself.

In announcing the department's move, T. Sutton Jett, director of the Capitol Park System, cited a November 1962 memorandum from President Kennedy which called "for the greatest possible coordination of planning among federal agencies" in developing plans and making decisions which affect the metropolitan-Washington area.

PRESERVE SCENERY
Kennedy's memo said that "it shall be the policy of the executive branch to seek to preserve for the benefit of the national capital region strategic open spaces, including existing park, woodland and scenic resources."

Jett said that "Under this clear instruction from the President," it was "incumbent" on the Interior Department to institute its scenery-taking action.

Computer Costs Not Necessary, Agency Reports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army incurred "unnecessary costs" of $1.3 million by leasing rather than buying two electronic computers used at White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico, the General Accounting Office (GAO) reported yesterday.

In addition, the GAO said, the Navy recently purchased an identical computer for $648,449. It estimated that savings of $602,000 could have been realized if the Army had bought its computers and then permitted the Navy to use one of them.

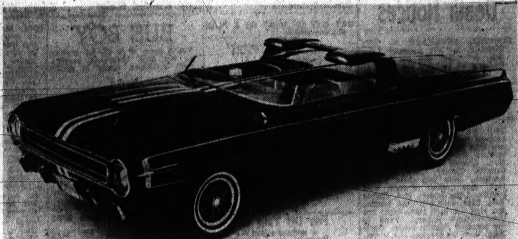

NO PROVOCATION
"The attack was made with out provocation and in spite of the fact that the personnel were unarmed, and your side had received prior notification of their presence in an authorized area in accordance with the true agreements."

Spec. 5 Harold Aldrich, 26, of Montrose, Colo., was shot in the thigh in the attack but managed to escape with the U. N. team.

DETROIT, Unemployment Declines in October

DETROIT (AP)—Unemployment in Detroit declined by 5,000 during October, the Labor Department said yesterday. It said 50,000 persons were unemployed during October, representing 3.6 per cent of the city work force.

Nonfarm employment in Detroit climbed to 1,342,500, an increase of 5,100 over September.

CUSTOMER ROADSTER—Dodge Division has joined the dream car parade with a sleek, customized competition car called the Charger. Although a show car, it is operative with a 426-cubic-inch engine, hood air scoop, special exhaust system and magnesium wheels. The sporty two-seater claims family kinship by use of production Dodge body panels.

Two County River Surveys Included in House Unit OK

Among $4 million approved for Michigan water projects yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee in Washington is $60,000 for surveys of the Huron and Clinton rivers originating in Oakland County.

If passed by Congress, the surveys would determine where the flood plains of rivers are situated, so that these low-lying areas could be preserved for the protection of built-up areas along the rivers.

Otherwise, land developers are apt to back-fill flood plains thus forcing rivers to back up and cause flood damage.

Surveys here and elsewhere in the state would be undertaken by the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

OTHER PROJECTS
Other projects would include the reclamation of navigation, power projects and the prevention of beach erosion.

The 21 survey, planning and construction projects would be under way in the state sometime in the fiscal year.

DETROIT (UPI)—About 40-50 persons staged a protest demonstration outside the Masonic temple here last night as the Moscow Chamber Orchestra performed in the auditorium.

The demonstrators were members of the Americans for Restoration of Freedom to Oppressed Peoples of Captive Nations.

They carried signs saying "Soviets, go home," and "Death to the communists."

In addition, four palbearers carrying a coffin also marched outside with the demonstrators.

COFFIN SIGN
On the coffin, they had a sign saying "Captive nations."

The palbearers had purchased five tickets for the performance but were denied admittance and returned their money.

Two Men Robbed by Pontiac Gangs

Gangs robbed two men early this morning after their cars were halted on city streets.

Herman Dunn, 29, of 754 Cameron, told Pontiac police that a three men jumped into his car at Orchard Lake and Bagley and forced him to killpne to drive to Maple where it dead ends.

There they were met by three other men who took his wallet containing $55. The robbery occurred at 3 a.m.

Fifteen minutes earlier, five men jumped Vernon W. Jones, 21, of 3071 Greenwood, and stole it.

ESCAPED
He escaped and hailed a cab which took him to the police station.

When police investigated, they found a $140 portable radio had been stolen from Jones' car.

Man Crushed by Car
MARQUETTE — Durward Seppanen, 18, of Marquette was crushed to death last night by a car which toppled off a garage hoist as he was working on it.

SMALL BOTTLE — U.S. Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., addressed a record crowd at the Oakland County Democratic Dinner last night. Kennedy held up a small bottle of what he called "Goldwater cologne," which he said was for people who "want to smell conservative."

Goldwater Is Blasted by Teddy Kennedy

By JIM DYGERT

One of the Kennedy brothers last night opened the door for a peek inside the Democratic arsenal for 1964 and let out a few blasts at the current front runner for the Republican presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

U.S. Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., told some 800 party faithful in Pontiac that a Goldwater proposal would be the surest step "toward military dictatorship" and the best way "to trigger a war."

Other Goldwater proposals would "take us back to 1916, move our ideas from 1916 up to 1935," and end equality at the union-management bargaining table, Kennedy said as he took the offensive against his brother's critics.

The President, on the other hand, he said, will go before the people for reelection on his record of progress in four politically sizzling areas—economic recovery, economy and efficiency in government, peace, and successes against communism.

A record crowd, including almost all top Michigan Democrats, came to the Oakland County Democratic Dinner at the Elks Temple on Thursday night to hear a rousing political oration spiced with the Kennedy personality and Boston accent. And that's what they got.

Squeals of delight came from women in the audience as Kennedy, in a boyish, bushy hair-cut and navy-blue suit, strode to the speaker's table. "Isn't he a doll?" was one remark.

FIRST ATTACK — As the first speech by a Kennedy attacking one of the President's possible 1964 opponents, it appeared to be a preview of Democratic campaign strategy for what the senator said "is going to be a hard fight."

As he held up a small bottle of what he called "Goldwater cologne," Kennedy said, "It's for people who want to smell conservative."

Making one of his rare speaking appearances outside his home state, President John F. Kennedy's 35-year-old brother predicted even more Democratic progress before the campaign.

With greater optimism than most Democrats have these days, he exuded confidence that Congress would pass the Administration's civil rights, Medicare and tax cut bills.

Aid Cuts Cloud Program's Fate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's $827,250,000 cut in President Kennedy's foreign aid bill flashed a warning to the administration that the whole overseas assistance program, unless sharply curtailed and revised, may be on its way out.

The amendment-riddled $3,702,365,000 authorization measure—more sharply reduced than any since the foreign aid program started after World War II—cleared the Senate Friday by a 63-17 vote.

But the temper in Congress—and presumably around the country, judging from what senators say about their mail—is such that further cuts seem certain next week.

Senate and House conferees must then to adjust differences between the Senate bill and the $3,502,075,000 measure previously voted by the House.

And further reductions appear likely when Congress acts on the foreign aid appropriations measure which will provide the actual money for the authorization bill simply sets ceilings.

PROGRAM IN DANGER — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who had the task of steering the bill to passage, said in an interview that the future of the whole program is in danger unless the Agency for International Development can make it more palatable to Congress next year.

The revolt against the program drew support from both parties and was led by Democrats who turned a deaf ear to Kennedy's pleadings.

In an effort to turn the tide a week ago, the President chided "those who find it politically convenient to denounce foreign aid with one breath and the Communist menace with the other."

But as the tide rolled on, amending and slicing the aid bill, he told his news conference Thursday in evident exasperation that he had "tried to make it very clear that I cannot fulfill my responsibilities in the field of foreign policy without this program."

Kennedy had no comment yesterday.

FOREWARNING — An indication of what's to come was contained in a speech prepared by Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Ferenczy for delivery today to the Allen Park Democratic Club.

Assailing Romney for failure to get his own Republican party solidly behind fiscal reform, Ferenczy said:

"The present Republican governor once and for all exposed the real cancer gnawing at the Michigan body politic—the backward, Republican-dominated legislature which is totally dedicated to only one ideal—stagnant self-perpetuation."

"And the real tragicomic irony is that George Romney, the victim, almost single-handedly shackled progress (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Hart Urges Search for Baldwin Buyer

U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart last night agreed with local union representatives that all efforts should be made to find a buyer for the Baldwin Rubber Division plant.

But Hart suggested talk of an investigation of the plant closing should be put aside as of secondary importance now.

"There is no law to prevent the closing of the plant," Hart advised representatives of United Rubber Workers Local 125.

He added he would give what support he could to getting full cooperation from the plant's former owner, Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co., in obtaining a true picture of its financial status.

This was in reply to a statement by Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, that corporate officials would not release the information.

Adams said not even Industrial Plant Corp., the New York liquidating firm which purchased Baldwin division's buildings and machinery last week, had full access to the corporation's records.

LENGTHY REPORT — Adams then gave Hart a lengthy report on Baldwin's acquisition by the corporation composed of Montrose Chemical and a brewing firm, in 1959.

The hour-long meeting ended at 11:30 p.m. as Hart warmly ended a day that started in Washington and finished in Pontiac at the annual Democratic congressional dinner.

Leonard Yocum, chief spokesman of several union officials at the meeting, he said he agreed fully that finding a buyer for the plant was of key importance.

On the state level, Gov. Romney has pleaded the full assistance of the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion to promote sale of the plant and help where possible.

COORDINATE EFFORTS — In letters to Mayor Robert A. Landry and Fred V. Haggard, AFL-CIO Oakland County Council president, he said the department would coordinate state and local efforts to prevent loss of the plant.

The Pontiac plant, at 366 E. South Blvd., and two smaller ones in Cass City, Mich., and Newark, O., are set for closing by Dec. 1.

Baldwin - Montrose officials say the manufacturing operations have shown no profits the past three years.

U.S. Warning Is Ignored by President Illia

Possible Cutoffs in Aid, Investment Eyes by Officials in D.C.

BUENOS AIRES — Argentina ignored last night a U.S. warning of possible serious consequences and annulled its multimillion-dollar oil contracts with eight American and four other foreign companies.

President Arturo Illia carried through a campaign pledge and issued decrees placing foreign petroleum production and development under the control of the government-run oil agency, Yacimientos Petroliferos Fiscales.

The decrees authorized the agency to use force if necessary to take over the operations.

It was not immediately known whether the companies would be fully compensated since the final annulment papers will be drawn up by Argentina's procurator general. There was no indication when he would deliver his decision.

The U.S. companies, who have estimated that they invested $387 million for drilling and exploration operations, have already indicated they will take legal action to gain compensation.

KENNEDY SUPPORT — President Kennedy has maintained that the United States could not block the long-threatened annulment but that the United States would press for full compensation for the American firms.

Washington also has indicated to Argentina that the annulment could result in a reduction or cutoff of U.S. aid and private investments.

U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman stressed the U.S. stand to Illia only last week during a stopover in Buenos Aires before attending a conference of Latin-American nations in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

A State Department spokesman said Friday night in Washington there was no immediate U.S. comment on the Argentine action.

The shy, retiring professor, a Soviet affairs specialist at Yale, was arrested sometime around the end of October and charged with espionage.

American officials were not informed of the arrest until last Tuesday.

If Washington Had His Pick, He'd 'Chews' Modern Teeth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that dentistry required years of training and practice.

Well, I don't know anything about dentistry, but I am a student of American history, and it is a fact that Paul Revere made a George Washington's false teeth.

And Paul Revere was not a dentist. He was a blacksmith! So, who needs dentists?

HISTORY STUDENT
DEAR STUDENT: And if you examine a picture of George Washington, you'll see that his lower jaw protrudes a full inch beyond his upper.

Back in 1790, when blacksmiths doubled for dentists, there was an excuse for it, but not today.

So leave dentistry to the dentists, and don't bite the hand that makes it possible.

DEAR ABBY: I've been sitting back watching a thrice-married widow wreck the home of two of our best friends. This couple has grandchildren and was ideally happy.

Then two years ago sitting back watching a thrice-married widow wreck the home of two of our best friends. This couple has grandchildren and was ideally happy.

The wife is a trusting soul who knows from nothing about what's going on. She is forever telling me how hard her husband works and how much time he has to spend out of town on "business."

The pay-off is this: The widow has given him a deadline. Either leave his wife and marry her — or lose her.

And he is going around like an idiot trying to hang onto both of them. What should be done?

WATCHING A MESS

DEAR ABBY: A friend of both should get the man aside and try to bring him to his senses. Judging from your knowledge of what's going on, you sound like an eligible mediator.

Unless you are sure of your facts, stay out of it. This soon might have to learn the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: The bride who wanted "WHAT KIND OF BOY ABY?" sung at her wedding showed what kind of fool she was.

And, Abby, you showed your ignorance when you suggested "Because" or "I Love You" Truly. "Because" is poor. And "I Love You Truly" is worse.

A wedding ceremony is part of a church service, and love songs are out of place. Any qualified organist or soloist can assist the bride in selecting appropriate wedding music, and there is no excuse for all the trash that is being played at weddings these days.

Yule Visit to Fiance Is Proper

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I am 19 years old and just recently became engaged to a boy in the service. I will have two weeks off from college during the Christmas holiday and my fiance would like me to come down to where he is stationed for a few days during that time.

He said that I could stay with an officer friend and his wife who have a house near the base. This couple are unknown to me but are good friends of my fiance.

My mother doesn't think it would be proper for me to go. What do you think about this?

A: It will be entirely proper for you to stay with this officer and his wife, but your fiance should ask her to write to you and invite you personally to stay with them.

Q: We have two young children, a boy and a girl, and we are trying to teach them good manners. I always insist that they ask permission to leave the table after they have finished eating.

My husband and I think I am carrying manners a little too far by demanding this, and says it is not at all necessary. I would very much like to know what you have to say about this.

A: Your husband is wrong in thinking that you are carrying manners too far.

Every well brought up child is taught not to leave the table until he (or she) has asked, "Please may I be excused?" and receives permission to do so.

Q: We have just received a printed announcement of the opening of a dental office by the son of friends of ours. Will you please tell me if this requires any acknowledgment?

A: No acknowledgment is necessary. It was sent to let you know where his office is located should you want to go to him. When you see the young dentist you wish him success in his new office.

White Wool Worsted Highlights Bridal Gown

St. Paul's Methodist Church in Rochester was the setting today for the marriage of Harriet Belle Maltrott to Gerald B. Conley.

For the mid-afternoon ceremony, the bride, daughter of the Charles C. Maltrotts of Rochester chose a gown of white wool worsted.

Seed pearls edged the scalloped neckline and accented a lace crown atop the short illusion veil. The bridal cascade bouquet included pink sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Donald Canfield of San Francisco, Calif., her sister's matron of honor, appeared in an A-line dress of turquoise sheer wool and held a cascade of pink carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Lawrence Dove of Mt. Clemens Street and the late William Conley, had his brother Lawrence Dove Jr. for best man. Another brother, David Dove and the bride's cousin, Richard H. Way of Rochester, were ushers.

After the church reception, the couple left for a brief honeymoon and will reside on Chandler Street.

Many area students have participated in student song-fests, a musical satire and symphony orchestra concerts which have dominated activities at the University of Michigan this past week.

Both the Greeks and the independents have been rehearsing for many weeks for Interquadrange Sing which was presented Monday evening and Interfraternity Sing which will be given Friday evening in Hill Auditorium. In both of these events, the women's and men's houses team up for the judging.

THIRD WIN

Winner of IQC Sing was Martha Cook Building and Cooley House. This marks the third straight year that Martha Cook has won the first place trophy. Supporting their house effort were Sylvia Rothschild of Dwight Avenue, Candy Windler of Hatchery Road and Carol Wargelin of Voorhees Road.

IPC Sing will feature nine teams of fraternities and sororities who will be rated by judges from the School of Music. Among the groups singing will be Delta Tau Delta fraternity, supported by Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Directing the Gamma Phi Beta will be their song leader Diana Owen of Auburn Road. Mary Ann Affleck of Woodward Avenue will also sing with the Gamma Phi.

Linda has been busy at the sewing machines all week as she is head of the costume committee for the Alpha Phi.

The team of Alpha Chi Omega and Theta Xi fraternity will carry out the theme of "Annie Get Your Gun" for their performance Friday night. Singing with the Alpha Chis will be Dottie Duckwitz of Sweetbriar Road and Phyllis Benelick of Lakeview Court. Jim Ransford of Cedar Hill Drive will sing with the Theta Xi.

Several Pontiac students had stage roles or worked on back stage committees for this year's MUSKET show which was given last weekend. In Lydia Mendelssohn theater, MUSKET, which means "Michigan Union Show-Ko-Eds Too" has presented student musicals recently, but chose Sandra Wilson's well-known satire on the 1920's, "The Boy Friend" for this year's production.

Playing a leading role in "The Boy Friend" was Betty Vernon of Lake Front Drive. Betty is a senior speech major and has had major roles in many other university dramatic productions.

Mark Lightfoot of McClintock Road was active backstage as a member of the stage crew during the five MUSKET performances. He also worked on the productions committee for the show. Working on the administrative end of the show was Barbara Harling of Birwood Drive. A member of the Central Committee, she was co-chairman of ticket sales and ushers.

MUSICIANS

Playing in the MUSKET orchestra was sophomore Jean Huttula of Roselawn Street. Jean is also a member of the University Symphony Orchestra which presented their first concert of the season Thursday evening under the direction of Josef Blati.

Among the many Michigan students who went to Illinois last weekend to support the Wolverines as they pulled an upset victory over the Illinois were members of the Michigan Men's Glee Club. After

The Cleveland Orchestra came to Ann Arbor last Thursday evening and played to a capacity audience. Among those students enjoying the concert was Donna Role of West Iroquois Road.

Carol Wargelin of Voorhees Road has recently pledged Sigma Alpha Iota, a national honorary sorority for women. Carol is a junior majoring in music education.

FATHER'S WEEKEND

This weekend the Delta Gammas will honor their dads at their annual Father's Weekend. Following the Iowa game they will attend a banquet where the Friars will sing. Enjoying the fun at the DG house Saturday was Tom McGrath of Niagara Road.

Not Only N. Y. Women Aware

Designer Teal Traina says it isn't true that women across the country aren't as fashion conscious as those in New York. He based his say-so on a pulse taken while staging a show in Oklahoma City. "A fashion conscious woman to-day isn't a mouse," he said. "She visualizes herself as a tender trap — as glamorous as possible."

Handy Bandy, manager of the Tandy Crafts shop at the Pontiac Mall demonstrated the making of honeycomb candles. Mrs. Oliver Dunstan, Mrs. L. V. Kline and Mrs. Bandy assisted with the workshop and distributed materials to make candles at home.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Frank Benning, Mrs. Jerry Thomas, Velma Britton, Maude McCurry and Mrs. Philip LaBarge.

Churchmen Promoting Fair Housing

In special action, the board of directors of the Berkeley Area (Calif.) Council of Churches recently commended "those church organizations, churches, churchmen, citizens and realtors who have promoted fair housing."

The present state law, the Rumford Fair Housing Law, said the board, should be implemented and protected from any attempts to repeal or amend it.

Underscoring that the Council's statement was not bind the directors urged, however, that all citizens encourage members of the housing and real estate industry to support the Rumford law.

Direct action by churchmen and others, said the statement, should include confrontation and conversations with the industry representatives and "the promotion of suitable legislation and buying policies" to ensure "equality of opportunity in housing for all people despite differences in race, religion, ancestry or national origin."

Dr. Bruce K. Wood is executive director of the Berkeley Area Council of Churches.

Bishop's Company Dramatizes Book

Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster" will be dramatized by the Bishop's Co. in Christ Church Cranbrook at 8 p. m. Sunday.

The production presents the situation of Daniel Webster, American statesman and lawyer, who attends the wedding of Mary and Jabez Stone and finds himself defending Jabez against the Devil.

According to the story when times were hard Jabez had become discouraged and, in a fit of temper, said he would sell his soul to the Devil.

Mr. Scratch, the Devil, appeared and when Jabez made a deal with him, he immediately began to prosper. Ten years later on Jabez' wedding day Mr. Scratch came to collect.

The English theater was born before the altar of the church. Asking the audience to share in the creation of the play is part of the technique of the company which uses no props.

Founded by Phyllis B. Bokar in 1952, the Bishop's Co. is named in honor of Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy of the Methodist Church. The company is interracial and interfaith. There is no admission charge.

Driver Usually at Fault in Automobile Accident

In far too many situations where death or injury occurs in automobile accidents the driver is at fault. His carelessness, neglect or reckless conduct causes the death or injury.

From a legal viewpoint, such conduct is a crime. From a moral and religious viewpoint, these actions are sinful.

Each of us has an obligation to seek an enlightened and educated conscience. It is for this reason we urge, with the utmost seriousness, that every driver reflect upon the moral obligations he assumes.

Early Blocked Punt Sets Up First TD

Pontiac Northern ended four years of frustration Friday evening with a well-earned 21-0 triumph over Pontiac Central at Wisner Stadium before an estimated 5,500 fans, largest of the series.

The win was the first against three setbacks for the Huskies in their annual series with Central, and the victory upped their season record to 6-3, equalling a high team mark set by the 1961 Northern eleven.

A touchdown at the 2:46 mark of the opening stanza gave the Huskies all the points needed and they added six points in the second and fourth periods.

A blocked punt on the fourth play of the game set up the first Northern score.

The Chiefs took the opening kickoff and Northern forced the sophomore-studded Central line up into a punt situation at the 28-yard line.

Central's kicker Jan Anderson fielded a bad snap from center but Northern's Tom Nichols raced in from his defensive end position to block the punt.

The ball bounced toward Central's goal line and Nichols and tackle Larry Dean smothered the pigskin at the 12-yard marker.

Northern picked up the touchdown four plays later when senior quarterback Jim Kimmel filtered through a hole over left guard from one yard out. Dean Souden added his first of three PATs for a 7-0 Huskie lead.

Kimmel masterminded the second scoring drive at the start of the second quarter after the Huskies had halted a budding Central drive on the PNH 37-yard line.

The Huskies used 12 plays and most of the second stanza in covering the 73 yards which ended with fullback Steve Daniels bursting over from the one-yard line.

The big play in the series was a 30-yard pass from Kimmel, his first of the evening, to Souden which moved the ball to Central's 33-yard stripe.

Kimmel applied the clincher with only 1:15 remaining in the game when he rifled a shot to Jim DeFlorio on a 35-yard pass-and-run play.

The Huskies were on their own five-yard marker when Kimmel turned the ball loose, DeFlorio snared the toss near his own 30, broke away from a Central defender at the 50 and raced in for the six pointer.

The Chiefs, who closed the season with a 0-4-1 record, had numerous scoring opportunities but they couldn't come up with that "big play," their trademark in winning the first three games of the series.

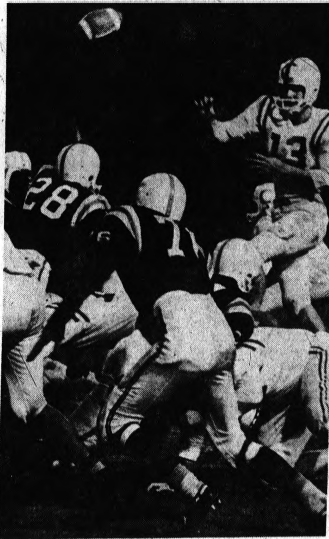

After Northern had bounced into a 7-0 lead, the Chiefs stormed back and moved from their own 33 to Northern's 37 with sophomore quarterback Jerry Murphy at the helm.

Murphy found a lot of room on the left side of the Northern line in the drive and sent fullback Jim Crump and halfback James Mitchell around end for sizable gains.

Northern halted Crump inches short of a first down to halt the drive at the 37.

A 28-yard pass from Murphy to end Frank Collias late in the first half put the Chiefs in scoring position at Northern's 25, but Murphy was spilted for a seven-yard loss on second down and Anderson booted the ball into the end zone two plays later.

Coach Calls It, Then Hopes

By JERE CRAIG

"Jimmy, on the next play you go back in on the Transcontinental."

This started the longest play in the city high school football series between Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central.

The speaker was first year PNH coach Bob Dingman (13) who directed the game from the sidelines.

When the ball was moved back five yards to the Northern five-yard line for illegal procedure, Dingman deflected briefly and then sent DeFlorio in with the play.

"It's a touchdown one way or the other," the coach commented before the play started. As soon as quarterback Jim Kimmel began rolling out to the right, the excited Dingman yelled: "for us, for us."

At the same moment Kimmel whirled and hurried a long dangerous crossfield pass to the wide open DeFlorio or the sideline; and he outdistanced two rather chagrined PCH defenders to the distant goal line.

The play put icing on the victory cake being sampled by the Huskies. They had lost some of the spark they bubbled with earlier in the game, but the spectacular, quick strike brought life back into the happy group along the sidelines... and a big smile to Dingman's face.

For Central the play was the climax to a season of frustration and gloom. Plagued with inexperience and lack of size, the Chiefs failed to win a game for the first time in 25 seasons.

Although failing to score for the first time against PNH in the four intra-city battles, the Chiefs waged a game battle. Their tackling on defense was the best since they tied Bay City Handy a month ago in what proved to be the only bright spot this season.

But the big Northern, defensive wall repeatedly broke through the PCH blockers to smear quarterback Jerry Murphy for key losses.

One of the biggest reactions from the stands during the halftime performance was for the latter's routine showing a scales tipping the balance of athletic power in favor of Northern.

Lions Will Find Rams Better

NFL Plans Test With Theater TV

DETROIT (AP)—The National Football League will experiment with theater television of its games next season, commissioner Pete Rozelle said Friday.

But he said this won't affect the NFL home television programs. "I seriously doubt that a NFL will ever abandon free home television," Rozelle said. The NFL boss, a visitor in Detroit on his way to Chicago for Sunday's Chicago Bears-Green Bay Packers battle for the NFL's Western division lead, spoke at the Adcraft Club.

He ranged over many topics including the suspensions of tackle Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions and Paul Hornung of the American Football League for competition with the NFL.

Rozelle also met privately with president William Clay Ford and general manager Ed win J. Anderson of the Lions, presumably over Ford's offer to buy the Lions for $6 million.

Rozelle indicated he thought well of Ford's offer. He said that at one time the NFL approved group ownership of a club but that now one owner or owner with controlling interest is felt preferable. The Lions are owned by 144 stockholders and operated by a board of directors.

The board has recommended approval of Ford's offer by the stockholders.

Rozelle repeated he would review the Karras and Hornung cases in January. The two stars were suspended indefinitely on charges of gambling on games.

The commissioner appeared at an Adcraft Club luncheon and answered questions from

Many Changes Since Opener

Detroit Now Trying to Salvage Season

A lot of things have changed for the Detroit Lions since they last saw the Los Angeles Rams. The first meeting of the two clubs, who will play Sunday at Tiger Stadium, was in the opening game of the season when the Lions recorded a 23-3 triumph.

The Lions at that time were dreaming of the National Football League title, but now they're just trying to salvage a few moments of respectability from a dismal season.

The Lions were rocked by Green Bay, 31-10, and by Chicago, 37-21, in the next two games after the win over Los Angeles.

Injuries started to pile up and the frustrating 17-14 and 25-21 losses to Dallas and Baltimore killed their final hopes of being a contender in the NFL race.

BIGGER JOLT Last week's 24-21 loss to the Colts even jolted the Lions chances of getting a third place finish and a .500 record out of this season since they still must face Green Bay, Chicago and Cleveland.

But the Rams are one club that Detroit should be able to handle despite its many troubles and the Lions are a solid 10-point favorite.

Los Angeles is in a last place tie with San Francisco with a 2-7 mark, although the Rams did put up a stiff battle against Chicago last week before losing, 6-0.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the contest and that's not much more than just the season ticket holders.

DEFENSE GOOD The Rams defense has been tough and their front line of Dave Jones, Merlin Olsen, Royce Grier and Lamar Lundy led the way last week as the club allowed Chicago out of its own territory only three times. The game showed that the Rams have made a remarkable improvement since suffering a 52-14 licking at the hands of the Bears on the west coast.

Ram coach Harlan Sparre has finally given the quarterback job to Roman Gabriel, who has done a respectable job but still has a long way to go.

Heisman trophy winner Terry Baker, who started for the Rams against Detroit but still needs time to adjust to pro ball, is the No. 2 quarterback.

The Lions actually got through the loss to Baltimore last week without suffering a major injury which was somewhat of a victory in itself.

But the club is still missing middle linebacker Joe Schmidt, defensive halfback Yale Lary and guard Dan La Rose besides the three players who are lost for the season, Pat Studstill, Carl Bretschneider and Gary Lowe.

Buster Does It, Again VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—Buster O'Brien, the greatest passer in Virginia High School football history, closed out his career Friday night with 35 completions in 41 attempts for 538 yards and seven touchdowns as Princess Anne defeated Williams Warrenton 66-0.

The 6-foot-11 senior student finished his season with 23 scoring series a 6-0 run with 33 career career total to 61.

helped create a spirited but peaceful attitude among the fans.

The PCH student body heard a talk by Northern's Steve Daniels and the Huskies' pep rally was addressed by Central's Linda Fought. Both urged fair play at the game and the beneficial results of their talks were evident at the contest.

The victory for the Huskies gave Dingman a 6-3 mark for his first season at PNH and earned him a ride on the shoulders of the team following the game.

For Central's Paul Deller there was only the lonely walk to another losing dressing room with the hopes that next year the young PCH squad will protect
