Move Reported in State Senate on Tax Reform

LANSING (AP) — The Senate moved today toward action on tax reform with Gov. George Romney indicating he was willing to compromise in the long and heated dispute.

The Senate was reported ready to take up a package which its Taxation Committee has put together in a series of secret negotiations.

At the same time, Romney said today he was willing to go along with the package, declaring "It comes within my definition of a tax reform program."

"I would go along with it," he said. "I'm hopeful that they can get something that will be acceptable."

The new package, obviously designed to attract Democrats whose lack of support has spelled death for two tax plans earlier this year, is known to include these main features:

—Income taxes of 5½ per cent on corporations and 2½ per cent on individuals, with a $600 exemption on the personal tax.

—Property tax relief totaling $90 million a year and computed on a sliding scale that benefits small property owners more than larger ones.

—A popular vote on whether to amend the constitution to permit a graduated income tax.

—A $15-per-person cut in the sales tax.

—Credit against the state income levy for individuals of half of any city income they pay.

—A 50-cent per $1,000 increase in the inheritance tax on financial institutions.

Car Collision Hospitalizes 7 Other Persons

An Oxford Township man and his 15-year-old son were killed and seven other persons were injured in a two-car accident in Oxford Township about 10 p.m. yesterday.

Killed were Herman Deaton, 44, of 2901 N. Oxford and his son, James.

Three other Deaton children—Doris, 13; Joyce, 11; and Billy, 8 — and 2-year-old Patricia Fox, daughter of Doris, are in Pontiac General Hospital.

Billy is listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit, while the others are reported in satisfactory condition.

Both passengers of the other car, driven by 16-year-old Shari Lynn Kessler of 75 W. Burdick, Oxford, were injured seriously.

Joan Allridge, 17, of 58 Pleasant, Oxford, is reported in critical condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Jerry Rockett, 15, of 10 W. Burdick, Oxford, is listed as serious in Pontiac General.

SATISFACTORY CONDITION

Authorities at St. Joseph Hospital said the Kessler girl's condition is satisfactory.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Deaton's car entered Lapeer Road from Brabb and was hit broadside by the Kessler car, traveling south on Lapeer.

The impact rolled the Deaton vehicle onto its side, throwing all the passengers out, according to deputies.

The Kessler girl reportedly told investigators Deaton's car pulled onto the road in front of her and she was unable to stop in time to avoid the collision.

Children Units Quarantined

Oakland County's juvenile court facilities were placed under a 48-hour quarantine yesterday when it was discovered that a 14-year-old boy in the Children's Village had meningitis.

The boy, not identified, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for treatment after a staff physician clinically diagnosed the disease.

"We've taken every precautionary measure," said James Hunt, director of county children's services.

Sisters' Plight Brings Appeal for Housing

By DAVID J. COOK

Discovery in Pontiac of two elderly sisters living on $80 a month in a house with no inside plumbing has triggered an urgent plea from a city official.

James L. Jackson, relocation officer for Pontiac's department of planning and urban renewal, appealed for public help in finding "a clean standard living unit" for the two women.

The sisters — Mrs. Frank Gordon, 82, and Miss Blanche Armstrong, 65 — live at 418 Howland in a house built in 1928 by Mrs. Gordon's late husband.

The house has a single cold-water tap on a rear porch.

The kitchen as well as the other three rooms in the building are lined with rags stuffed in cracks to keep out the cold.

"SOCIAL PROBLEM"

The two sisters have lived together since Mrs. Gordon's husband died in 1949. Their closest living relatives are cousins and nephews — whom Mrs. Gordon says she rarely sees.

Jackson, in an open letter, termed the sisters' situation "a social problem that must be corrected."

"Relocation of families is not an uncommon problem," he said, "but this particular condition is urgent."

Attempts to find housing for the two women, Jackson said, have been made difficult by the city's present housing shortage as well as the sisters' limited income.

"SHOULD BE CONDEMNED"

Although Mrs. Gordon's home is neither in a designated code enforcement area nor an urban renewal area, the sisters' plight was called to city attention in March by District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr.

Thugs Enter Home, Terrorize Area Pair

By JEAN SAILE

Three masked thugs last night invaded a rural Washington Township home, northeast of Rochester, and terrorized its two elderly occupants at gunpoint for an estimated two hours.

Dan Gruich, 54, and his 77-year-old mother, Smilya, a native of Yugoslavia, this morning looked about their 100-year-old octagonal home at 3603 28 Mile Road in disbelief.

Papers were strewn on the floor, beds were torn apart, overstuffed cushions were ripped into shreds. The door of an empty safe in Gruich's room hung open.

The two told Romeo State Police they had retired last night and were awakened at about 10:30 p.m. by a loud noise which turned out to be the breaking of the slide latch on the front door.

Accosted by three masked men, whose ages Gruich estimated at between 19 and 22, the Gruichs proceeded to endure their hours of terror.

here," Gruich reported once as saying. Upon his denial, the invaders forced him at gunpoint to open a small safe containing $140.

A small amount of change was also taken from his mother's room, Gruich said.

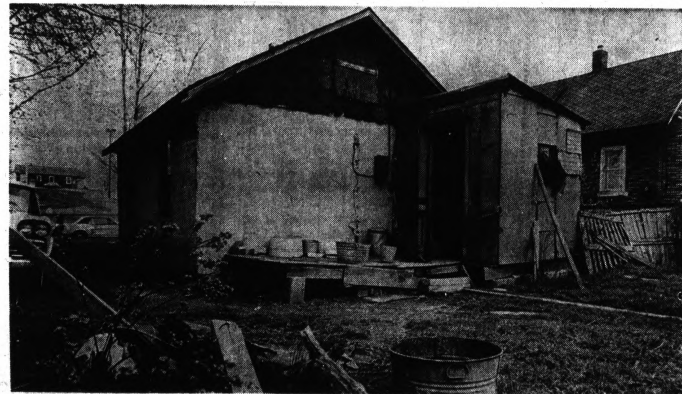

Both of the Gruichs were bound and tied together before the thugs left in a car, according to Mrs. Gruich.

Mrs. Gruich said she managed to free her hands, helping to unloose her son, so that he was able to call police by 12:50 a.m.

The front screen door to the home, located on the northerly edge of Stony Creek Metropolitan Park, was ripped.

Gruich said, "I think they knew a lot about us. They used the front door (unlocked by the family) because we keep our dog in the garage at the rear."

The $140 was part of a sum intended for use today to pay hospital bills for Gruich's father who has been a patient at Pontiac State Hospital for three months since suffering a stroke, Gruich said.

Newest U.S. City a Dream No Longer

(First of a Series)
By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (NEA) — A murder committed, a baby born and a lemon meringue pie baking class in session, and suddenly Lake Havasu City isn't a dream any more. America's newest city — and perhaps the only city ever carved out of nothing — is on the way to becoming a reality.

Four years ago, there was nothing here. Where today bulldozers roam, in 1963 there was only a brown and barren peninsula jutting out into the blue waters of Lake Havasu. The lake itself is reasonably new, too; it was created in 1938 when Parker Dam was built across the Colorado River.

But now there are the beginnings of a city. Already 3,000 people live here permanently and the schedule is for 60,000 men, women and children to call Lake Havasu City home in 20 years. Some think that estimate is conservative.

Today, Lake Havasu City is a place for pioneers, although every day brings more signs of civilization. At the moment, though, it is a place for the hardy — dusty, hot, no high school, no hospital, the dentist comes to town only twice a week.

While it may not have all the comforts of home, it has an air of adventure, of excitement, of being in on the ground floor of greatness, that you can't find anywhere else. The Lake Havasu Cityans seem to be enthusiastic about their town and its prospects — stop anyone on the street and you get a sales talk. Lake Havasu City had its beginnings when industrialist Robert McCulloch flew over it, searching for a place to test the outboard motors his company makes. He saw this peninsula by the lake and he knew he had found what he wanted.

On the ground, he realized that the area offered more than just an outboard test site. He thought it would make an ideal city — the climate was good — hot but dry — and the scenery magnificent, and the terrain ideal, sloping gently up from the beautiful lake.

He decided to move part of his factory here from Los Angeles, and the McCulloch Corp. plant is the industrial hub of the city. But McCulloch didn't want this to be a company town. He hired C. V. Wood Jr.

The resultant plan is extensive, encompassing everything from a civic center and college campus to sites for estates and a golf course. The city is 26 square miles in area, and the lake shoreline — 22 miles of it — has been held back for the exclusive use of the public.

At the moment, there is a big transient population, too — construction workers living in trailer camps — and you drive for miles along the graded and curving streets and see perhaps one or two houses built on the lots.

But each week new homes are started. The water company and the power company are hard-pressed to bring service to the widely scattered homes, but they're doing it.

Wood's problem is what he calls "the balance." By that, he means keeping a balance between people and services — having the right number and kind of stores for the population.

With nothing to guide him in this effort, he studied telephone books — the Yellow Pages of books in towns of various sizes — to see what each size city could support. When he feels the city has reached the position where it needs, say, a department store, he goes out to encourage one to come in. That is what is happening at the moment.

BOWLING ALLEY

But if someone comes in and wants to start some business, even if Wood feels the time isn't ripe, there is nothing to stop him. That happened with the bowling alley. It opened for business when Lake Havasu City's population was 1,500.

Wood knew it was too soon. The bowling alley went broke, but Wood took it over and held on to it until the population reached 3,000, then gave it back to the owner. Now it is a profit-maker.

There are many things Lake Havasu City needs, and they'll get them all when the population warrants it.

GROWING WITH CITY — The Nautical Inn, as seen from a passing plane, is one of three hotels in Lake Havasu City, Ariz. Expansion of the hotel is under way as more and more people come into the growing city.

Three thousand people live in Lake Havasu City permanently and the schedule is for 60,000 to reside there within 20 years. Four years ago there was nothing but a barren peninsula on this site.

Job for an Expert

Self-Rule Too Complicated

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor-Suburban

This business of "for the people, by the people" appears to be getting too complicated for ordinary folk. The latter are fondly known as the public.

Two area villages of late have decided a professional-type manager is necessary to lead local government down the right path.

Wolverine Lake, located adjacent to Walled Lake in the West, and Lake Orion, situated north of Pontiac, have sought managerial talent.

A local man was designated Wolverine Lake village manager after a political controversy of sorts that witnessed a change on that village's council.

Meantime, Lake Orion council members are currently interviewing likely candidates to head up the daily operation of that municipality. A manager is expected to be named Monday.

GROWN COMPLEX

Local government, following the route trod by its state and federal cousins, has grown more and more complex. A textbook knowledge of the rules and regulations is almost a necessity. At the very least, it has become a full-time job.

This is a happening! Of course, it readily can be debated whether this steady trend is desirable.

Government to the layman is as perplexing as the workings of a computer that can answer mathematic questions. Intellectually equipped to only handle the weekly grocery list prepared by his wife, the elected official often needs a translator.

Thus, the role for the professional. However, it must be admitted that this gives government more "for" than "by" the people.

It's all sort of like a new car — the machine itself is more complicated, but it is easier to drive.

Troy Rezones 2 Areas for New Moose Lodge

TROY — The City Com-improvement project on Big mission has made two rezoning moves, east and west of Coalinga, at a cost of $138,000 to Lodge to be built on Big Beaver by 100 per cent assessed at between Rochester and John R. $34.88 per front foot.

The commissioner altered the city code to allow clubs and recreation in office-area zoning and also rezoned that land parcel on which the Moose hall is located from residential to 27.

A $153,930 sewer project in the Maple, Wisconsin, Iowa, Dequindre area was approved with payments to be made over a 20-year period.

Also approved was a street

Teachers, Pupils Will Entertain

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Teachers and pupils at Scotch School will present the entertainment for the final meeting of the Parent-Teacher Organization at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Participating in the program will be pupils from the vocal music classes, who will provide the musical portion of the program and pupils from the French classes who will stage a short play in French.

Art students will display their work in the halls of the school.

Pontiac Twp. Sets Drainage Session

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — A special meeting to find a solution to the Richmond Street drainage problem has been called for 7:30 tonight at the township hall.

Supervisor Roy Wahl said he would have McAlpine Engineering Co. representatives on hand to answer questions.

A plan to build a drain, 40 feet of which would be open, has bogged down with failure to get necessary rights-of-way.

Water currently stands as deep as five feet off the street and covers the street itself to a depth of about nine inches.

Walled Lake OKs Budget

Employe Pay Hiked,
Tax Rate Decreased

WALLED LAKE — A $244,897 budget, based on a tax rate of 10½ mills and providing raises for all employees, has been approved by the City Council.

The tax rate ($10.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation) represents a drop of seven mills from last year, according to city manager Royce Downey, but because of new assessing practices, property owners will still pay about the same in taxes as last year.

He said it was possible to drop the rate from 17½ mills to 10½ mills because of the increase in new construction which has added 16½ per cent to the tax rolls.

The raises for employees range from 12 per cent to 20 per cent.

Starting police salaries and fire department salaries were increased $300, bringing the salaries up to $6,000 to start and $6,500 after three years. The police chief's new salary will be $9,250, an increase of $1,250.

OTHER SALARIES

The city manager's salary was increased from $7,500 to $9,100 and the clerk's from $6,500 to $7,500.

The budget, which is up about $21,000 over last year's, includes $6,250 per year for payment on the new city hall, $2,000 for new books in the library, $4,500 for a new park and $4,000 for a new Department of Public Works building to be built on the civic center site sometime this year.

In the budget, $192,287 was allotted to the general fund, $36,750 to the road fund, $11,310 to the library, $3,725 to the water fund and $625 to the cemetery.

Interviews Set

Auburn Heights Elementary School PTA members will have a chance to interview Avondale Board of Education members at the final meeting of the year at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the school.

A baby-sitter service will be provided and refreshments will be served.

Board Trustee, Supervisor Switch Posts in Commerce

By JANICE KLOUSER

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—Township Board Trustee Robert H. Long was named supervisor last night to replace Thomas Tiley.

Tiley, who resigned for health reasons, was appointed to the board in Long's place.

A lifelong resident of the township, Long has been a member of the Township Board since 1962. The 46-year-old supervisor, of 5866 Bogle Lake, owns an orchard on Commerce Road.

He was a member of the zoning board from 1952 and 1963 and is currently on the planning commission and the board of appeals. He was also on the Oakland County Stabilization Committee for 10 years.

Tiley, who was supervisor for 10 years resigned on the advice of his doctor. He said he was able to accept the appointment to the board because the job would be less demanding than that of supervisor.

ELECTION SOUGHT

A petition drive was started two weeks ago by a township resident seeking to have the new supervisor chosen at a special election rather than by appointment by the board.

Tiley said he has been advised that board appointment of a supervisor is set up by law and that there is no necessity for an election.

He said he understands that the only way to void the appointment is through an injunction prior to the appointment or through a recall move.

Arthur W. Lange, who is heading the petition drive, said he feels "this is an excellent opportunity to get a young and enthusiastic person into government here."

Butter Molds to Be Shown at Kingsbury

AVON TOWNSHIP — The collection of butter molds which is a whole new line of fabric design for a major auto maker will be on display Sunday at Kingsbury School, 2990 Hosner, Addison Township.

The property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scholz, 647 Charlesina, they will be the highlight of the school's annual Old-time Country Fair slated from noon to 5 p.m.

The collection, numbering 200 separate hand-carved pieces, will be transported to the fair in three giant cardboard boxes.

Once the prized possession of Pennsylvania farmers, the molds were the unique trademark which identified a family's home-churned butter.

Sizes and shapes vary from the traditional pound mold to bell-shaped pounds and individual butter pats. Most of them are carved from wood with designs such as eagles, swans, wheat, acorns, fruit and flowers which marked the top of the butter, but the Scholz's have a hand-blown glass bell as well.

The molds date from 50 to 150 years ago. Begun as a collection by Mrs. Scholz's father, Dr. John G. McConahy in Pennsylvania, the molds have been added to by the Avon couple.

Next in line of ownership is young Cliff Scholz, a seventh-grader at Kingsbury School.

The butter molds will be joined by a display of cat statuettes and a 100-year-old cider press in the special exhibit section of the fair.

Other highlights will include helicopter rides, a monster tent, a flea market, callopie music, the singing of a barbershop quartet, and a story hour for small children.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

The fair will offer an auction, a country store, an art gallery, an Aunt Polly's pantry, an ice cream parlor, a "tavern on the green," a boutique, books and cookbooks and a fresh flower stall.

Reorganization Creates 2 New Posts

WALLED LAKE — The board of education has approved the reorganization of its administrative staff and added two new positions.

The reorganization amounts principally to a realignment of duties within the administrative structure.

A director of auxiliary services and a coordinator of secondary education were created under the reorganization.

Duties of the director of auxiliary services would include general supervision of the transportation department, general supervision of the food service program, supervision of buildings and grounds, development of an in-service program for custodial personnel, supervision of the maintenance program, and responsibility for recruitment, screening and hiring of custodial and maintenance personnel.

The director of secondary education will be responsible for the development, coordination and maintenance of quality education programs throughout the district in grades seven through 12.

APPLICATIONS TAKEN

Applications will now be taken for the two positions, according to Schools Supt. George Garver.

Applications are also being taken for an administrative assistant in charge of business to replace John Williams who has been on a sabbatical leave for a year and has decided not to return.

The board also adopted a policy prohibiting the use of go-carts on school property.

Garver said residents whose homes adjoin school properties have been complaining about the noise.

Unfair Labor Charge Filed

Employee Dismissal

ROCHESTER — An unfair labor charge regarding the dismissal of an employee by the city has been filed with the State Labor Mediation Board, according to Joseph A. Valenti, president of Detroit Teamsters Local No. 214.

A hearing with regard to an election for union representation for city employees has also been asked.

The union contends Glen A. Breakie, sewage disposal plant superintendent for nine years, was dismissed because of union organization activities.

The dismissal, as confirmed by city administrators, is said to be the result of alleged poor workmanship.

Breakie was reportedly asked to resign May 8 at an executive council session, one workday following his identification by a Teamsters official as the contact man for further union information, according to Valenti.

IMMEDIATE DISCHARGE

When he refused, he was given an immediate discharge, Valenti said.

The union president said he expected to hear by the end of the week in regard to hearing dates on both the discharge and the election.

Shelby Water Battle Averted

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — A court fight by the township against the Detroit Water Board over the latter's 96-inch pipeline going through the area has been averted — for a time — according to Supervisor Kirby Holmes.

Township officials met with water officials in Detroit yesterday and tried to iron out points of difference.

The Detroiters agreed to review their decision on a tap-in at 24 Mile. The township wants tap-ins at 23 and 25 Miles. With only one tap-in, the township would face increased pipeline construction costs.

Other problems to be hashed out in further meetings are the 30-foot-deep ditch at Jungle Road which cuts into ground water and has dried some area wells and the pipeline at 24 Mile near Dequindre which is apparently not deep enough for future sewer lines to cross it.

Holmes said the talks were "a meeting of minds" and that less trouble is anticipated in the future due to the understanding reached between officials.

Missouri River Sewer Plan Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A high-ranking federal official says a suggestion to turn the Missouri River into an open sewer is the stupidest idea he ever heard of.

Frank Dilluzio, assistant secretary of interior, commented in an interview on an idea advanced by the Missouri Water Pollution Control Association. Furthermore, Dilluzio said, it's not going to happen.

"It would be an absolute invasion of other people's rights," the government's top official concerned with clean water, said. "It's just plain stupid, the stupidest thing I ever heard of."

The association presented a paper to the Missouri water pollution control board earlier this year, which favored use of the river to carry away wastes.

"Use of the Missouri River for removal and ultimate disposal of the sewered wastes of cities and industries has economic value far greater than does use of the river as a source of municipal and industrial water supply," it said.

The report said that cities along the river could get plenty of good water from other sources and that other means of transportation could replace the navigational use of the river.

Furthermore, the association report continued, use of the river, known in the area it drains as "big muddy," as a sewer was "at least" as economically important as all other uses put together, including recreation and fish and wildlife propagation.

Dilluzio conceded this last assertion might be true with an important qualification: If the used water that was discharged in the river was at least 85 per cent pure.

"No stream should be used solely as a waste carrier," Dilluzio said.

By June 30 the state of Missouri, and all other states, will be required to submit acceptable standards for cleaning up and keeping interstate streams and lakes clean. If they don't, the federal government will set standards for them.

COOPERATION NECESSARY

Dilluzio says he fervently hope it doesn't come to that, because cooperation is the key to cleaning up the streams. There are three major pollutants of the Big Muddy, as there are in most streams that pass through varied country, city and industrial regions: household sewage, industrial waste and natural pollution.

'Chinese-U.S. War Is Seen'

CHICAGO (AP) — Leaders of Red China view the United States as traveling a path which will lead inevitably to war with their country, reporter Simon Malley says in the Chicago Daily News.

Malley, U.N. correspondent for the French language Jeune Afrique and other African newspapers, based his observations on exclusive interviews he said he had with Premier Chou En-lai in Peking.

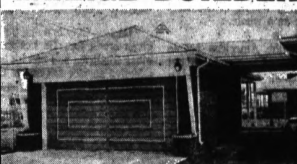

Tuesday's story in the News was one of a series resulting from Malley's 19-day stay in China during March and April.

China has denied that Malley interviewed Chou, and has called the journalist's report a "fabrication."

Malley stuck by his assertion, and the News said it is "satisfied that Malley's report is authentic and accurate."

Guns Don't Kill-But People Do

Millions of Americans face restrictive and bureaucratic regulation covering acquisition and possession of defense, sports or collector firearms if the Dodd-Celler bills (S. 1, H.R. 5384) become law.

The laws would repeal the federal Firearms Act and, under the guise of "Crime Control," in effect make criminal actions safer and easier by disarming law-abiding citizens.

In the hullabaloo now going on over the controversial firearms bills, the National Rifle Association (NRA) has been made the villain of the piece by erroneous charges that the organization is interested primarily in protecting the indiscriminate sales of firearms regardless of threat to national safety.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Although the organization does indeed oppose the sweeping Federal authority over interstate sale of firearms inherent in Dodd-Celler proposals, it has since 1963 strongly advocated realistic national legislation controlling the traffic. As evidence of the Association's sound position on the issue, it adopted at its 96th Annual Meeting in Washington last month this four-point gun control program, reflecting the essence of Congressional bills introduced by Sen. ROMAN HRUSKA, R-Neb., and Rep. CECIL R. KING, D-Calif.:

- Amend the National Firearms Act by banning so-called "destructive devices" such as antitank guns, bazookas and rockets.

- Strengthen state firearms regulation by providing Federal cooperation at the interstate level.

- Increase penalties for crimes in which firearms are used.

- Ban all handgun sales to minors and require sworn statements of eligibility to buy and own pistols from buyers seeking handguns by mail order.

So much for the enlightened position of the National Rifle Association and its essential interest in sound legislation that would insure legal possession and use of firearms by 50 million Americans while denying guns, as nearly as laws can, to the 100,000 or so criminals who use them.

A second editorial will appear tomorrow dealing with testimony in support of NRA's program at recent hearings conducted by a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

NY Stock Exchange Looks Back on 175 Years

Today marks a significant anniversary for the world of finance, commemorating as it does the founding of the New York Stock Exchange 175 years ago.

Established by 21 brokers and three partnerships dealing in U.S. Treasury Certificates, the Big Board initially held forth as an open-air market beneath a buttonwood tree on an obscure lane that later became known as Wall Street.

For decades, the image of the Exchange was identified with exclusiveness and opulence. Today it serves some 22 million investors in all levels of society and financial status as more than 500,000 miles of telephone and telegraph wires link its tumultuous trading floor to approximately 3,800 offices of member firms in the U.S. and overseas. It is estimated that since its founding, 25 billion shares of stock have been traded in the Exchange.

Next to the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty, the Exchange is New York's most popular tourist attraction as visitors ebb and flow into the balcony overlooking the floor.

The trading hours are from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., during which a ton of paper representing half a billion dollars of stock transactions litter the floor. Anticlimactically, at the end of the day the paper is baled and sold for $12.

Such is the New York Stock Exchange, the barometer that registers the shifting hopes, fears and state of the Union.

One of War's Tools Seen Used on Civilian Front

One important sword seeing daily action on the battlefield is being considered for use as a plowshare.

The deputy director of the California Department of Motor Vehicles believes there is a lesson to be learned from the use of helicopters in emergency medical service in Vietnam.

Some time this year, the state plans to test the dispatching of "copters to the scenes of traffic accidents in remote areas, either for rendering medical assistance or for evacuating casualties.

There is little good related to war, but if it can come up with a life-saving fringe benefit we'll accept it gratefully.

China Again Hints at Intervention

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—As the U.S. forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur got ready to drive the North Korean invaders back into their own country and follow them, there was some fear the Red Chinese might leap in to the war on the side of North Korea.

But Dean Acheson, secretary of state under President Harry S. Truman, minimized the chance of the Chinese doing that. "They'd be mad to try it and besides, he said, there was a lot of trouble going on inside Red China."

But the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, said his people would not stand by if the "Western imperialists" invaded the North. But the U.S. and South Korean forces did invade.

The Chinese plunged into the war — they called their troops volunteers — and the result was an American disaster.

Now the U.S. forces are fighting in South Vietnam. At the moment, there is no talk here of American troops invading North Vietnam but American planes have been bombing it steadily and once again Chou En-lai had something to say.

MIGHT MOVE

In an interview obtained by Simon Malley and published by the Chicago Daily News, Chou warned Red China might decide it is necessary to intervene in this war, too, with a horde of so-called volunteers.

Chou said the North Vietnamese could get this help from Red China any time they asked for it. But in his talk with Malley, a U.S. citizen who is a correspondent for some African newspapers, Chou said China might barge in on its own under some other circumstances.

He said the Chinese would intervene if the Americans invaded North Vietnam and the Chinese considered this a threat to their own security or if the Soviets tried to force North Vietnam into what he called a sell-out peace.

No U.S. official so far this time has attempted to minimize the danger implicit in Chou's words even though China, as in the Korean days, is having a lot of internal trouble.

UNCERTAINTY

Who on this side at this point could possibly feel sure any kind of peace terms would be acceptable to Red China? The very uncertainty of this, and the overhanging threat, may by itself toughen the American mood.

Chou didn't simplify anything. He complicated it, which is probably what he wanted to do since at this moment he may feel uncertainty is the best weapon to use against the United States by dividing American thinking.

David Lawrence Says:

War Is a Fuzzy Political Issue

WASHINGTON — The Vietnam war issue is deeply imbedded in American politics today. But this doesn't mean that at present there is any clear definition as to how a majority of the voters will record themselves when members of Congress are up for reelection in November 1968.

Many senators and representatives have been trying to guess what is "popular" with the voters. For a while speeches of criticism in Congress seemed to be predominant as compared with those which supported a continuation of the war.

There are signs, however, that citizens who have not hitherto taken sides on the issues that surround the war itself are beginning to be resentful of some of the criticism and are looking upon it as a variance with a spirit of patriotism.

Perhaps this has happened because vehement dissent, along with "demonstrations," has gotten so much publicity. But the fact is that the electorate is not too well informed about the complex issues that brought on the Vietnam war, nor about the real meaning in the long run of American involvement in the Asian conflict.

When people do become aware of the true story of the aggression and the amount of assistance that has been given North Vietnam by the Communists of Red China and the Soviet Union, they realize that a serious challenge presented by communism in any part of the world cannot be brushed aside without dangerous consequences.

ALMOST UNIVERSAL

Wars are never popular but, when it comes to the method of conducting them, there is an almost universal belief that the military officers and strategists should not be impeded by any supercautious civilians.

Some critics of the administration, in fact, want the war fought more intensively, just as others feel that the bombings should be suspended.

It goes against the grain of many Americans to accept the doctrine that the United States should forget all about the sacrifices its young men have made, stop the bombing and beg the enemy for peace.

The Vietnam war issue may look today like a big burden for the Johnson administration to carry, but by November 1968 it could turn out to be a political asset. The responsibility for building this up would belong primarily to those critics who have misunderstood or misinterpreted the basic feeling of the electorate as a whole.

Once the American people are engaged in a war to repel aggression, they support a policy of effective military action, as they feel it is the only way to prevent the start of more conflicts by aggressor governments.

Bob Considine Says:

Visit to Warfare Center a Reassuring Experience

FT. BRAGG, N.C. — A trip to the JFK Center for Special Warfare swiftly dispels any lingering doubts as to our capability to fight anywhere in the world.

Special warfare (airborne) is just that. Its men, who wear the Green Beret, are perhaps the finest warriors in the world.

They are superbly trained specialists in operations and intelligence, communications, weapons, construction, demolitions and medical aid.

They are accomplished saboteurs, linguists, and do-gooders.

They are honed and polished by a training period which would have given pause to a Spartan.

BRUISING PROGRAM

They are tossed into jungle or arctic wasteland and must live off the land.

They go through a most bruising physical fitness program, much of it based on hand-to-hand combat.

At the end of their training they become part of a new breed of American soldier — one skilled in the techniques of unconventional warfare.

VISITOR BRIEFED

At a dozen points along the meandering path, the visitor is briefed on what goes into the making of these unique warriors.

"First off, you are confronted with a special Forces 'A' team made up of a dozen of the readiest-looking soldiers you ever saw."

Other Green Berets showed us through a model village, and how it could be built with local labor and protected by local troops.

From an atmosphere of peace-on-earth we were led to the gateway of a typical Vietcong village.

LECTURE ON VC

We stood there, listening to a dissertation on how the Vietcong control such hamlets and use them as training and communication centers.

We read translations of fiercely brainwashing anti-American slogans, captured from similar villages in Vietnam, and marveled at such symbols of resourcefulness as an antenna woven into the straw roof of an animal shed, and a Buddhist shrine which also served as a ventilator for the tunnel system below the village.

It was not calculated to send a visitor along to the next exhibit filled with optimism about an early end to the war. But before the trip was over, all of us were convinced that the Green Berets who are shipped to Vietnam, or anywhere else in the world, go to work supremely prepared.

Illogics of War

The San Diego Union

Events of the week underline the illogical aspects of the war in Vietnam.

In Stockholm, for example, Col. He Van Lau, Hanoi's chief representative to the International Control Commission, charged the United States of America was violating the 1954 Geneva accords on Vietnam.

It is an obvious fact that there would be no war in Vietnam today if Hanoi had not violated the 1954 agreement. It is doing with its aggression against the South.

Even more ironic was the fact that even as Lau spoke Hanoi was cautiously parading American fliers on the streets and subjecting them to indignities categorically prohibited by Geneva conventions.

Unfortunately, while courageous American troops are writing bright military chapters in our history, political debaters rage in Washington.

Asks Questions of Present Administration

I have a couple of questions that could be directed toward the present administration. Why do civilian intellectuals guide U.S. policy of national defense and our decisions in Vietnam involvement? Are not our military leaders trained and better equipped to make military decisions than men who are politicians and administrators in civilian duties? Anyone else with similar questions?

REPLY

The Poultry and Egg National Board in Chicago sends us this answer: "In the basic four food groups, eggs are classified in the high protein meat group. Eggs are classified as dairy foods only in supermarkets. This is because the type of handling eggs receive (physical placement, refrigeration, etc.) is more similar to that of other dairy foods than that in the meat department."

City Affairs

Joint Lighting Proposal OK'd

Commission Approval Follows Waterford's

A joint Pontiac-Waterford Township proposal to install mercury vapor lights on Telegraph Road from Orchard Lake Road to the north end of the Pontiac Mall received formal approval of the City Commission last night.

Action by the city followed by little over a week similar approval of the proposal by the Township Board.

Related Story, Page A-10

City Manager Joseph A. Warren told Commissioners Consumers Power Co. and Detroit Edison Co., had agreed to work jointly on the project.

Pontiac's expenditure for use of 60 lights on the city side of Telegraph, Warren said, would be $5,322 a year.

The lights would be installed and owned by the utility companies.

2ND MUTUAL CONTRACT

Agreement on the joint project, first proposed by the city in September 1964, marks the second mutual contract entered into by Pontiac and Waterford this year.

Pontiac previously extended the use of the city's land-fill site to township residents on a fee basis.

Commissioners also authorized the Pontiac General Hospital board of trustees to acquire five parcels of land near the hospital as sites of a proposed intern housing project.

The lots, to be purchased for not more than $62,000, are in the block bounded by South Johnson, Seminole and Menominee.

TRUSTEE APPOINTMENT

Funds for the land would come from the hospital's building depreciation fund.

In a second hospital development, commissioners appointed John W. Emerson of 208 W. Chicago to the board of trustees.

Emerson, former electrical superintendent for the city, fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Rev. Philip Somers. Emerson's term expires June 30, 1969.

In other appointments, commissioners designated Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and service, as acting city manager; and also named a representative to a county-wide traffic safety committee.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Need for appointment of Neippling was created with the leave of absence granted earlier this month to Asst. City Manager John F. Reineck.

Reineck cited ill health in asking for an extended leave. Neippling thus becomes, in the absence of City Manager Joseph A. Warren, the city's ranking administrative official.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin was named by commissioners as Pontiac representative on the Traffic Improvement Association.

The association, a newly formed group, is dedicated to traffic safety in Oakland County and is in the process of forming a board of trustees composed of municipal representatives from throughout the county.

State March Gets Backing

LANSING (AP)—The Senate Tuesday approved a resolution creating a committee to promote a Flag Day march to back American soldiers in Vietnam.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, asked for a modest $500 for his seven-member committee.

But he said he hoped for a turnout in the tens of thousands for a march in Detroit on June 14, Flag Day.

Property Owners Protest

Fuller Paving Stalled

City attempts to pave portions of Fuller Street in north Pontiac were waylaid last night—apparently indefinitely—by property owners protesting the cost of asphalt surfacing.

A petition signed by nearly 80 per cent of property owners on Fuller between Mansfield and Columbia was presented to city commissioners during public hearing on proposed paving of the seven-block stretch.

Walter Pointer, of 714 E. Tennyson, spokesman for the group, said assessments of $7.30 per front foot would be a burden on retirees and owners of newly purchased homes in the area.

"We also question whether paving of Fuller is, in fact, a necessity," Pointer said.

District 5 Commissioner John A. Dugan, in whose district the street lies, then moved to defer the proposal from the city's projected special assessments for 1967.

"I'm sorry to do that," Dugan said, "because the cost of paving will certainly go up."

A previous city proposal to pave a one-block stretch of Fuller between First and Second was defeated earlier this year.

Later in the meeting, a resident-initiated proposal to pave a portion of East Russell drew charges from Dugan that concern over the street was promoted by "misleading press reports."

The charges were in apparent reference to predictions made in The Pontiac Press in March by Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and service.

AFFIRMS ACCURACY

Neippling at that time indicated several streets throughout the city might be returned to gravel roads as an alternative to permitting further debilitation of existing blacktop surfaces.

Following the meeting, Neippling affirmed the accuracy of his reference to Russell, noting that natural processes "are already turning the street into gravel."

Walter Blakeley of 154 E. Russell, spokesman for the group, presented a petition signed by a majority of property owners on East Russell between Edison and Glenwood.

Commissioners referred the project to Neippling for preparation of a cost estimate.

Neippling was also authorized by commissioners to accept bids on a project to seal joints and cracks on seven city streets.

Joint-sealing was proposed on an expanded scale by city engineers following a pilot project in 1966. Proposals for the work are scheduled to be received 2 p.m., June 5.

Commissioners also accepted special assessment rolls for paving of nine city streets which were curbed last year.

Proposals for the nine call for construction of two-inch asphaltic concrete.

Preparation of special paving assessments for residents of Baltimore Avenue between Kenilworth and Emerson was ordered after a brief public hearing.

A single resident who spoke advocated the paving project and further urged installation of sidewalks in the area.

Commissioners approved additional costs of some $2,473 for construction of the Galloway Creek sewage pumping station.

Neippling told the commission the expenditure was needed to provide changes in electrical equipment, preventing the possibility of voltage drops in residential electric service adjacent to the station.

Commission Votes to Alter Minors' Code

City commissioners voted 5-1 last night to amend a city ordinance which presently forbids minors between 18 and 21 to work in restaurants and taverns serving alcoholic beverages.

Resolution to accept the amendment for first reading came on the heels of an opinion from the state attorney general's office that the city statute was in conflict with state law.

District 6 Commissioner Wesley J. Wood opposed the amendment, declaring he "couldn't go along" with regulations permitting minors to work in bars.

MARSHALL WOOD

District 7 Commissioner James H. Marshall abstained from voting, asserting the state was "asinine in forbidding patronization of bars (by minors) but permitting them to work there."

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., and District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr., while supporting the amendment, each voiced opposition to the state regulation.

CHALLENGED

Commissioners, who voted 4-3 in February to uphold the restrictive ordinance, were challenged at that time by a group of local tavern owners, many of whom cited a shortage of bus boys and waitresses.

In another resolution, commissioners expressed intent of changing to University Drive what is now Mount Clemens Street.

Public hearing on the proposal, first advanced by Oakland University Chancellor Durward B. Varner, was set for June 13.

Present city plans, pending formal enactment, call for a two-year transition of Mount Clemens to University Drive, with dual street-sign posts during that period.

AID VISITORS

Varner had suggested the change as an aid to visitors and other motorists in reaching the university from Pontiac and from Interstate 75.

Designation of a new University Drive would apparently necessitate name-changing of University Street on the city's north side.

A proposed amendment to the city's litter ordinance was received from the Civic Improvement Advisory Committee (CIAC) and referred to the city's legal department.

The amendment would impose restrictions on persons who allow litter or refuse to be blown or otherwise carried from their property to adjoining homes and businesses.

MONTH NAMED

The CIAC recommendations asked adoption of the amendment in conjunction with "Make Pontiac Beautiful Month," designated by the commission last night as May 20-June 20.

Commissioners were notified by City Manager Joseph A. Warren of a pending Public Service Commission hearing next Monday on proposed improvements to the Grand Trunk Western Railroad crossing on Rapid.

The intersection is presently signaled only by lights and bells.

Warren, citing figures which showed a daily traffic volume of some 4,000 vehicles, said Grand Trunk officials had agreed to consideration of the project.

Crossing gates, Warren said, should be installed at the double-track intersection.

Strike Is Settled

DETROIT (AP) — A two-week strike by Detroit area carpet and tile layers ended Tuesday when members of Resilient Floor Layers Local 2265 ratified a new three-year contract. The new pact provides for a $1.42 per hour pay raise over the three years, plus fringe benefits. The old pact, which expired May 1 when the strike began, provided a $4.28 per hour wage.

DOT Chief Faces Quiz on Rail Union Offer Rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman demanded today that Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd explain why the government rejected a rail union offer to move essential goods if a nationwide railroad strike occurs.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald,

D-Mass., a ranking member of the House Commerce Committee, said in an interview he would ask his committee chairman, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., to recall Boyd. The committee is considering President Johnson's plan to avoid a strike.

MacDonald had strongly urged government consideration of the offer by the shopcraft unions.

Boyd and other government officials met at the Pentagon Monday night with the union officials. Afterward, he said the union offer was "not practical, feasible or economical."

CONCLUSION

Boyd added the government representatives had concluded "the suggested operation would create a situation which could only be described as chaos."

with no movement of essential defense or public health goods on any schedule.

"He must have gone into the meeting with a closed mind," MacDonald said today, "because he used about the same words after it that he used in answers to my questions last week."

Romney Acts to Delay School Spending

LANSING (AP) — Saying "I'm going to tighten down the hatches until the Legislature gives us tax reform," Gov. George Romney has acted to delay educational spending.

"This is notice to the school people that we have a problem and are going to face it," Romney said Tuesday after delaying the taking of bids for nearly $10 million in construction at four state colleges.

But the governor was rebuffed in his attempt to control advance school aid funds.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley settled an issue over advance aid funds by ruling that Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, has power to advance the funds.

'SURPLUS DWINDLING'

Romney said he sidetracked the construction plans for the state colleges and wanted power over the advance funds because the treasury surplus is dwindling and the Legislature has not adopted his tax reform proposals.

Romney warned that more delays in proposed college construction could come.

In the tug of war with Polley over advance funds, Romney quoted the State Constitution's section which says, "No appropriation shall be a mandate to spend."

State Treasurer Allison Green asked for a formal ruling from the attorney general, but said that if Polley decided to approve the advances his office would have to pay them.

CONSEQUENCES

"The money's there," Green said. "We'll have to give it out." Romney asked what the consequences would be if the treasurer refused to honor the advance vouchers.

"The school district could get a court order to force him to produce the money," Kelley said.

Green said school aid advance last year totaled some $70 million.

Polley said he would discuss the matter with members of the State Board of Education at a meeting next Tuesday.

"I haven't made an irrevocable decision," he said. "I will look at this matter from the point of view of the schools as well as the best interests of the state."

'IRRESPONSIBLE'

Romney contends that advances from the general fund of $130 million of school aid fund, already $80 million in the red, would be financially irresponsible unless the Legislature takes affirmative action on fiscal reform.

"I am absolutely opposed to it advances," Romney said. "We can't meet the needs of the people on the basis of financial irresponsibility."

He accused Polley of adopting "grasshopper economics."

"The grasshopper looks around and sees the sun shining and eats all he can find," Romney said. "He doesn't think of the winter when he'll have troubles finding anything at all to eat."

Flaming Propane Traps Six at Ford Rouge Plant; 1 Dies

DEARBORN (AP) — A pile driver ruptured a propane gas line leading to an underground storage cavern inside the Ford Motor Co.'s giant Rouge complex Tuesday, trapping six men in a flaming pit.

One man was killed, five others were burned, four critically. A seventh man escaped unharmed.

Wilbur LaRue, 25, of Horton, Ala., died of burns shortly after the blaze broke out. He was trapped in the cab of the seized pile driver.

Listed in critical condition at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital "with extremely extensive burns" were Hugh McGovern, 57, Skokie, Ill.; Harold Franklin, 43, Inkster, Mich.; Estelle Perry, 42, Melvindale, Mich., and Robert Runge, 38, Taylor, Mich.

'NOT SERIOUS'

A hospital spokesman said Charles Sites, 49, of Cahokia, Ill., was less badly burned. His condition was described as "not serious."

"I heard a pop and felt heat on my back so I started to run," said Curtis Roberson, 47, of Detroit, a construction worker. "When I turned around, the flames were 30 feet in the air."

The five men who survived managed to scramble to safety, up the 20-foot embankment of the excavation, future site of a Ford steel mill.

"I looked up and the whole pit was burning," said Gottfried Pulfer, 27, a construction engineer for Raymond Concrete Pile Co. of Chicago.

80,000 BARRELS

The ruptured gas line led to a cavern with a capacity equal to 80,000 barrels of liquid propane. The gas was stored in an underground cavern, once a salt mine.

Marathon Oil Co. leased the land from Ford and used this and several other nearby caverns to store the highly flammable gas, used chiefly for fuel and the manufacture of chemicals.

2 City Youths Arrested at Break-In Site

Two Pontiac youths were arrested for investigation of breaking and entering early today at the scene of a break-in at a city bowling alley.

Police said Lawrence McCauley, 19, and James Whittaker Jr., 19, both of 19 Exchange, were found in a room at Westside Lanes, 199 Orchard Lake, during a search of the establishment about 4:45 a.m.

Police received a report that a burglary was in progress about 3 a.m. and found a rear door to the building open when they arrived.

Investigators said McCauley and Whittaker were found in a liquor locker.

Some $70 in change was reported stolen from coin-operated machines and damage to property was estimated at about $175.

Constitutional Revision OK'd

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — better finance a $500 million building program, had been opposed by Negro civil rights groups on grounds that it would continue the present neighborhood segregation pattern.

In Philadelphia's primary, Democrats revolted against the party leadership, renominating Mayor James H. J. Tate for a second four-year term by an almost 2-to-1 majority.

The organization had dumped Tate on grounds he was a "sure loser," and endorsed former City Controller Alexander Hemphill who was trounced 152,402 to 80,217. A third candidate, Lenerte Roberts, a Negro real estate broker, trailed with 5,593.

Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, in office four months, gambled the prestige of his administration on constitutional revision.

'GREAT VICTORY'

"It is a great victory," said Shafer. "Constitutional revision is vitally needed."

The convention, with delegates elected in November, will convene in the state's capitol at Harrisburg on Dec. 1. It will have three months to complete the job, but is limited by law from making any change that would allow a graduated income tax. It was this fear — and opponents hammered at this theme — that defeated the convention proposal previously.

The convention, plus eight immediate amendments to the constitution, were the only statewide issues on the primary ballot.

Hemphill, puzzled by his shelacking, said of the party wounds: "I don't think they can be healed easily, but they can be healed."

MONEY MATTERS

Philadelphians voted "yes" on two important money questions: one for a $13 million additional loan to build a $38 million baseball-football stadium — which means work will begin this year, and the other increasing the borrowing power by the school board.

The school issue, designed to

Monopoly Panel Airs Credit Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee's Monopoly Subcommittee has produced claims that consumers are paying $175 million too much each year for compulsory credit insurance, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D. Mich., said Tuesday.

Hart made the statement during a subcommittee hearing to investigate competition in the credit industry.

In testimony before the committee, James E. Hunt, Vermont commissioner of banking and insurance, said that in most states the borrower is paying excessive premiums and that someone should protect him.

from government but state governments have been slow to act," he said.

Requests for federal aid for sewer and water projects exceed $2 billion, according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Only $200 million has been allocated by congress for the purpose.

Goodbye, high auto loan rates. Hello, credit union!

Did you know that you may pay up to several hundred dollars in interest on a typical auto loan? It's a fact—and it's one reason why more and more people are turning to their credit union when they buy a new car.

You see, credit union rates are clear cut. Credit union rates didn't soar out of sight in last year's tight money market like a lot of others. There's a reason.

A credit union is in business to help its members. It is owned by its members. There's no point in charging yourself high interest rates. And that's why a credit union offers advantages you find nowhere else.

Go ahead. Buy that car you've set your heart on. And for low cost financing, see your credit union. You'll probably get the best deal in town.

Mother Asks What to Do in Situation

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: We have just redecorated our living room and I keep the furniture covered with plastic, primarily because we have four lively youngsters.

Naturally the covers are removed when I am expecting guests, but occasionally someone just drops in. I wonder whether it is proper to use the furniture with the plastic or to remove them before seating my unexpected guests.—Mrs. Sparasino.

Dear Mrs. Sparasino: You're really stuck if someone drops in when the plastic covers are on. If you start rushing around and removing them, the guest will feel terribly uncomfortable, and you'll feel the same way if you leave them on and suspect she's thinking they look awful.

Could you remove some covers when the children are at school or out, so that should the doorbell ring, you could delay a moment while you snatch off the others? Otherwise, don't take them off; just explain the reason for them to your guests.

Mamie Sees Tribute to 'Ike'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower has reviewed a spectacular lifetime of memories as more than 800 celebrated well-wishers honored her husband.

Society, at least a large Republican segment of it, put on its best starched bibs and ties, chiffon, furs and jewels Tuesday night for a charity benefiting Eisenhower College, to be opened in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was unable to attend because of illness.

"He's still very weak," Mrs. Eisenhower said, "and I'd rather he'd stay where he is. At least he'll take orders there."

Eisenhower is in Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington where he is reported progressing satisfactorily from his bout with a gastro-intestinal ailment.

IN CHIFFON

"Oh, my goodness, this does bring back memories," said Mamie, in glittering yellow chiffon.

Ike's vice president, Richard M. Nixon now a New York lawyer, returned from a Latin-American tour just in time for the occasion.

Nixon's wife, Pat, shivered in a sheer blue gown and shoulder

boa of mink along with the benefit's chairman, Mrs. Edwin I. Hilton, without a wrap, as they awaited the arrival of a limousine with honored guests.

As the Eisenhower family got out of the first limousine, the band struck up the National Anthem. Preceding Mamie were her son, John, Barbara, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the general's brother, and the latter's son, Milton Jr.

After the welcome ceremonies and applause from the crowd Mamie gleefully hugged Mrs. Nixon, kissed and shook hands with friends as she made her way into the gallery.

The next limousine brought the Duke of Windsor and his duchess, bejeweled in diamonds and emeralds.

She Didn't 'Fit' the Role

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My daughter went to New York to try out for a part in a Broadway musical. She is a very beautiful and talented girl. She is a little on the heavy side right now, but the part called for a girl who weighed at least 200 pounds and could dance. Well, my daughter weighed 220 pounds and she is a wonderful dancer.

When she got there she was told she was too THIN? She spent her own money for the trip and was terribly disappointed. Inasmuch as she met the qualifications, can't she sue for the cost of the trip?

HER MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Any one can sue for anything he wishes. But whether he can collect is something else. Too bad she didn't get the job, but I'm sure it was worth a lot to a 220 pound girl to be told she was "too thin" for something.

DEAR ABBY: I am fast losing my faith in my friends. I have just gone through an operation that has altered my facial expression. Part of my face is permanently paralyzed.

The operation was easy to the pain I have suffered from the remarks of some of my friends.

One woman said "Now you will know how the rest of us plain Janes feel. Welcome to the club."

Another said, "It will be harder for you than the average woman to adjust to being home-ly. That's one of the penalties of having had good looks and suddenly losing them."

Abby, I have never been vain about my looks, knowing that real beauty comes from within.

I am horrified at these so-called condolences in the name of friendship.

HURT
DEAR HURT: If those who have made the remarks you quoted are your "friends," I would say that you would be much happier without their friendship.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HATES TO HURT HIM" IN HOUSTON: You don't have to be a doctor to know that a little iodine now is preferable to an amputation later. Say "good-bye," and don't look back.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Birmingham Residents Are on the Move Again

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Mrs. Charles H. Bay, who has been the house guest of her brother and sister-in-law, the Donald Bays of Lone Pine Road, left this weekend, motoring to San Francisco to join her son and daughter-in-law, the George H. Bays.

Traveling with her was Mrs. Lyle Torrey (formerly of Detroit) who resides in Phoenix, Ariz. where Mrs. Bay will spend a few weeks before going to California.

While here, Mrs. Bay spent a weekend in Oscoda with the Donald Bays at their home there.

Friends are awaiting the arrival this week of the Edward S. Wellocks who have been at their winter home in Hawaii.

First on their active agenda is the dinner the John D. Richards Jr. are giving in their honor or Friday evening.

The J. Robert F. Swansons had a busy weekend with international friends as their house guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Rocha of Cordova, Argentina, had many interesting things planned for them while they were here. Rocha is studying architecture at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jaime Rocha with whom the Swansons spent some happy days while visiting Argentina last year.

Why Grow Old? JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

How's your willpower? Willing but weak? I have happy news for you if you are one of those very human humans, who have a willing but weak willpower.

All of you probably know about the liquid diets on the market which have 225 calories per can. However, you may not know that you can now buy canned figure controlling meals.

Every meal has three items, an appetizer (juice or soup), the main dish, and a dessert, each in its individual can, packaged in a tote-case. All of this for 300 calories a meal.

The main dish provides you with high quality proteins but with reduced fat. The fruits and juices are rich vitamin sources. No sugar is used, only an artificial sweetener when needed. Many of the sauces and desserts have a high content of non-fat milk solids.

Therefore, the meals are nutritious as well as good. There are different menus to choose from.

I like to call your attention to such items because I think lots of dieters need help to get started on a reducing program. Therefore, it seems wise to take advantage of the many low calorie foods now on the market.

They are too numerous to list here, but these are a few: low calorie substitute mayonnaise, salad dressings which have very low calorie counts, low calorie breads, soft drinks, ice-cream, chocolate sauce, sour cream, soups, canned fruits, jellies, jams and syrups — on and on it goes.

Azteca Women Serve Mexican Dinner Friday

Azteca Auxiliary, a newly founded club composed of wives of members of the Azteca Athletic Club, is planning a Mexican dinner, served cafeteria style, from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday at Eastern Junior High School.

Better understanding between all members of the community and a willingness to share in the work of building a better world for those about us are the primary goals of the club.

Membership is open to any woman who shares these ideals.

An educational fund will soon be initiated to help a worthy individual gain an education and become a contributing member of society.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Ruben Flores, president; Mrs. Manuel Paramo, vice-president; Mrs. Guadalupe Sanchez, secretary; Mrs. Raul Ochoa, treasurer, and Mrs. Jose Trivino, sergeant-at-arms and parliamentarian.

Announcing a Son

Mr. and Mrs. Sean Skinger of Ann Arbor (nee Patricia Corpron) announce the birth of a son, Kevin Francis on May 14. Grandparents are the Frank Skingers of Interlaken, West Bloomfield Township and the William M. Corprons of Keithdale Lane.

Must Find Courage to Admit This Hatred

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I know that my resentment of my 16-year-old stepdaughter is why she has left our home to live with her grandmother. I can see how depressed my husband is over this. Why is it so hard for me to share his affection with her? Please help me.

I tell myself I hate her because she's so sloppy but that's a lie. I hate her because I'm jealous of her. Am I really so selfish as to maybe wreck an otherwise happy marriage to a man I love?

ANSWER: Sure you're selfish. You're stupid, too. But you're so honest and brave that we don't have to wring our hands over you. All that's needed to end this tension between you and your stepdaughter is that little extra honesty, that little extra courage that would empower you to say to her in effect:

"Look, at this moment I dislike you. And this dislike keeps me so unhappy that I can't stand it any more. This is awfully hard for me to tell you. It's terribly hard for me to tell you how much I want to love you.

"Yet I know I can do it if you'll just give me a little time. Will you?"

"We have so much in common, both loving your father as we do. Will you give me a little time to get past this nutty dislike? If you will, I tell you what. I won't really mind it if you blow me through the roof when I am unfairly critical of you. Truly, I won't mind it because I know that all this tension between you and me is crazy. It's crazy because we both love the same person and want him to be happy."

That's the God-help-you truth, isn't it?

Asian Women Dominated

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Except for Japan, most countries of Asia have not yet emancipated their women, the International Union of Family Organizations was told at its convention here.

Mrs. Yamamoto Sugi, of the Japan Family Life Problems Research Association, told the group women in her country enjoy equal rights with men.

She said this achievement resulted from elimination of the feudalistic system of society and from the upsurge of Japan's economy.

Mrs. Peggy Lee, secretary of the family planning association of Hong Kong, said the Chinese revolution and World War II had radically changed the status of women in Hong Kong. She said that with increased education, Hong Kong has succeeded in giving a fair deal to its women.

INDIA

On the other hand, Mrs. Dhanvanthi Rama Rau said that India's ingrained caste system, the economic necessity for joint families and illiteracy have combined to hamper emancipation of women on the subcontinent.

Mrs. Rau, president of the International Planned Parenthood Federation, said laws for abolition of the dowry system and child marriage have not been as effective as they should be because of deep-rooted customs in the Indian society.

Mrs. E. C. Fernando, president of the all-Ceylon women's conference, said the dowry system plaguing Ceylonese women had been gradually dying with stepped up educational opportunities for women.

Examination to Continue in Auto Death

The preliminary examination of a Commerce Township youth charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the April 22 traffic death of a 17-year-old Pontiac girl will be continued Friday.

The defendant, David G. Smaltz, 17, of 8804 Palomino is charged in the death of Mrs. David Sonnenberg of 23 W. Kennett.

The crash, involving three automobiles, happened on Dixie Highway near Watkins Lake Road in Waterford Township.

Smaltz' car allegedly crossed the center line and collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Sonnenberg.

The hearing began yesterday in the court of Waterford Township Justice Kenneth Hempstead. More witnesses will testify Friday.

Total Victory Now Favored

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time more people want "total victory" in Vietnam than want a supervised withdrawal by both sides, according to a sampling of public opinion by the Louis Harris Poll.

The public opinion poll published yesterday also showed continued widespread support for the administration's conduct of the war and a growing conviction it will last a long time.

These asking for a military victory totaled 45 per cent while 41 per cent of those polled asked for withdrawals under United Nations supervision.

In February total victory was favored by 43 per cent and last November by 31 per cent.

The poll found 72 per cent of those queried supported President Johnson's war policies.

The number who feel the bombing of North Vietnam will help end the war dropped from 61 per cent in February to 55 per cent now. Twelve per cent said they thought the bombing was delaying an end to the war, up 4 points since February.

Man Steals $170 From Store in City

A man posing as a customer stole $170 in cash from a cash register at Dunseith Drugs, 552 N. Perry, Pontiac police were told yesterday.

A clerk told officers the thief, described as a Negro in his middle 30s, asked to see a box of candy behind the counter, then reached into the cash register when she turned to get the box.

He fled through a rear door, police were told.

War on Poverty Gives Poor a Sense of Direction

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR., Executive Director National Urban League

The war on poverty is the name given to the broad range of programs operated by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). These programs have been under way since 1964, and while they never got enough money to live up to being called a "war" against poverty, they do constitute a broad frontal attack on the problems of the poor.

In its first two years, the war on poverty has served more than 9 million Americans, including 1.3 million disadvantaged children in Head Start.

The importance of the war on poverty lies in the fact that its programs are geared to helping the poor help themselves by becoming independent producers in the economy, rather than consumers of tax dollars.

Money spent on the war on poverty is not spent, it is invested in people who will eventually pay it back in the taxes they will pay on earnings from jobs they never would have had a chance to hold without the program.

The Job Corps is a good example of this. The average expense for each graduate of the Job Corps is $5,850. But since these young people are being trained to hold better jobs, the government will get back twice the cost of their training through the higher taxes they will pay in the course of their working lives. And that doesn't include the savings on welfare costs which might have to be paid because many of the youths couldn't hold a job if it were not for this training.

YOUNG

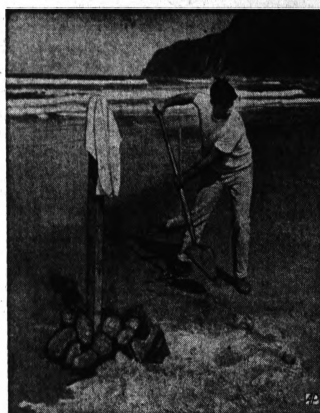

SENSE OF CONTROL

Perhaps the most important aspect of the war on poverty are the community action programs which give the poor, perhaps for the first time in their lives, a sense of control over their own destinies.

If the cycle of failure and poverty is to be broken, it is programs like these which will do the job. By including the poor on the governing boards of local anti-poverty agencies, OEO gives them the opportunity to remake their own neighborhoods and deal with the local problems which only they can know.

By including the poor in the planning and execution of their programs, the 1,100 community action agencies performed the service of waking up some of the established social agencies who just weren't doing their job. Many of them suddenly realized that they were neglecting their responsibilities and started their own programs. But this would never happen if it weren't for the local anti-poverty groups and their articulate and dynamic poor representatives.

Fortunately, it is this very inexperience of the poor which has caused the most contro-

Big Lift Eyed for Copters

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — In Vietnam recently, a U.S. Army helicopter pilot lifted off from a tiny jungle clearing, his "chopper" filled with an overload of troops.

He succeeded in getting just high enough so that the down draft from his rotor blades could not push on the ground to provide extra lift. Then trouble hit.

Overburdened by extra weight, the craft settled into the treetops.

Investigators later found that the helicopter was overloaded by only 250 pounds.

Similar incidents have taken place repeatedly in the field, when the pilot could not take time to be sure of the overall weight he was trying to lift or the density of the air.

A possible solution may now have been found in the use of a tiny auxiliary engine, perhaps as little as one-twentieth as strong as the main power plant, which could add hundreds of pounds to the available payload, or make the difference in an emergency between a crash landing and a gentle touchdown.

Colombian Irked at Reform Lag

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Carlos Lleras Restrepo has let it be known he is losing patience with those in his government coalition who oppose his efforts to speed up Colombia's agrarian reform program.

The program aims at redistributing land to peasants, many of whom are supporting Communist guerrillas operating in the countryside because little has been done to give them land since the program was launched six years ago.

Lleras also wants to speed up the government's program to regulate private education and to facilitate the education of hundreds of thousands of illiterate children.

Opposing the agrarian program are right-wing members of the Conservative and Liberal parties in the national front government. As in other Latin American countries, they represent the landowner class.

LANDOWNERS' POSTURE

They argue that breaking up large estates and farms into small holdings would be an economic blow to the country, and particularly to the cattle industry, which they say now has prospects of providing an important source of foreign exchange through exports.

About 3 per cent of the Colombian population owns 60 per cent of the arable land. Sixty per cent of the peasantry lives on those lands.

About 15 per cent of the rural labor force is unemployed, and the government says this creates acute problems in farm areas. It also contends that the children of hundreds of thousands of landless peasants can have little future while rural unemployment rises.

High army officers and government officials say the rural situation has resulted in greater support for Communist guerrillas.

"CHANGE NEEDED"

"We need to change the current status of the Colombian peasant who right now is fertile material for subversion," Lleras says. "This subversion must be fought not only with military measures but also with deep social changes, and if we do not do this the battle will be lost."

Lleras' solution is to accelerate the existing land program. Up to now 40,000 families have received land but Lleras says this pace is too slow. He also wants to give more credit to the small farmers and encourage start of agricultural cooperatives.

Lleras also wants more government control of private schools, most of them run by the Roman Catholic Church. Education bills have been blocked in Congress by members of his own coalition. Lleras' chief support is coming from the opposition, including the ultra-left Liberal Revolutionary Movement.

He has warned Congress that should his efforts fail, he will hold Congress to blame and that he will tour Colombia "to tell the people the truth about this."

CHEAPER HOMES — A 33-ton concrete and steel balloon-type igloo is built on the campus of Columbia University in New York City yesterday. Italian architect Dr. Dante Bini introduced the technique here in hopes of finding a way for cheaper home construction. Attack on Mao Foe in Press Signals Purge Victory Effort

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's official press for the first time has attacked one — and only one — man by name as an opponent of Mao Tse-tung. The timing suggests a careful step in a campaign to bring the cultural revolution — purge — to an end through the final defeat of Mao's opponent.

Mao's ruling group still appears to be timid in its attempts to flush out its enemies, as if fearing even more turmoil and possibly even a bloodbath.

The attack was leveled against Peng Chen, once a power in the ruling party Politburo and a contender for Mao's mantle. It was published by Peking radio exactly a year from the time it was written, in secret, by the dominant group in the Communist party Central Committee.

The attack indicated that the group supporting Chairman Mao is strong enough at least to break a rule laid down last August in a Central Committee decree which touched off a new stage of the cultural revolution and turned millions of late-age Red Guards loose for a campaign of reckless violence in the cities.

RULE OBSERVED

The rule was that no party leader could be attacked by opponents never seemed to find ways of striking back at him, at least through propaganda outlets or rival "revolutionary" groups.

The rule had been rigidly observed. Mao's opponents were attacked by name only in wall posters plastered about the cities by the rampaging Red Guards, who apparently got the word from on high.

According to the wall posters, Peng Chen and other high Communists accused of opposing Mao were humiliated in kangaroo courts and dragged through the streets. But the official press still referred to them obliquely, and not by name, as "poisonous weeds" and vile followers of the Soviet line of "revisionism."

Publication of the year-old decree implies that a rival cultural-revolution committee headed by Peng Chen had to be neutralized. He had been accused of being part of a plot of military and political figures to overthrow Mao and seize power over China.

LACKED STRENGTH

Although Peng Chen was brought down and his committee overturned, the Mao-Lin Piao faction still lacked strength to achieve a final clear-cut victory. At times the Maoists seemed in the minority, and the mystery was why his

State Police Invite Public to Tour Post

Sgt. Raymond Hoopengartner, commander of the Pontiac State Police post, today issued a reminder that an open house will be held at the post from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. next Wednesday.

The open house is held annually in conjunction with Michigan Week.

This year, the event is of special significance since the State Police is observing its 50th anniversary.

"We hope there will be a good turnout," Hoopengartner said. "This is a special opportunity to see how a post operates and services performed. Officers will act as guides."

In addition to the reception, there will be an exhibit, according to Hoopengartner.

The post is located at 1295 N. Telegraph, Waterford Township, Lawrence.

Royal Oak Golf Course Eyed for OCC Campus

After an extensive 1½-year search, Oakland Community College officials have located a potential site for a fourth campus but have found they will face some opposition in acquiring it.

College officials acknowledged yesterday that they are interested in Royal Oak's Red Run Golf Course, one of Detroit area's oldest country club.

Russell E. Knister, Red Run president, said yesterday that the 550-member club does not want to sell its 128 acres to make way for a south Oakland County campus for OCC.

He added, however, that he just notified the membership of OCC's interest and that they would decide whether to sell the land.

OCC President Dr. John E. Tirrell, Vice President James W. Hobson and Attorney Richard E. Condit had an initial meeting with Knister last week.

VALUE HIGH

It has been reported that OCC hopes to buy a site for $300,000 to $500,000, while the value of Red Run is estimated at anywhere from $2- to $4-million.

Community Council to Meet

A community council meeting, citizens to work together to will be held at 8 tonight for make a better community, according to Michael Killian, community school director for Four Towns, Lambert and Haviland

The meeting will be held at 6370 Cooley Lake, Waterford Township. Subject for the meeting is: "Pet peeves of the community."

Purpose of the meeting is for What we can do about them."

The college does have the legal power to condemn the golf course, but an OCC spokesman said that would only be a last resort.

"We are not close at all in acquiring any property," Mitchell Tendler, OCC director of community relations, reported.

"Red Run is one of our more favorable sites, but we are continuing to look elsewhere in south Oakland."

House Unit Eyes Draft Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Armed Services Committee was set to blackball President Johnson's proposed draft lottery today in approving a bill extending the nation's selective service laws another four years.

The House panel also planned to safeguard college deferments by making it difficult to draft undergraduates until they get a bachelor's degree or reach age 24.

The committee was scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. EDT to act on the bill.

The Senate last week approved a four-year extension of the draft which would generally leave in the hands of the President the wide discretionary powers he now enjoys.

But Chairman L. Mendel Rivers and other key members of the House panel agreed at a secret session Monday to curb some of the President's powers.

The so-called "policy committee," made up of the 10 senior members of the 31-man armed services committee, drafted a bill at Monday's meeting which would:

• Allow the President to draft undergraduates only by finding "that the needs of the armed forces require substantial restriction or termination of student deferments."

• Allow the President to institute a draft lottery only by informing Congress 60 days in advance that such a system would be "in the national interest." This would give Congress two months to decide whether to amend the draft laws with-drawing Johnson's authority to set up a draft lottery.

Accident Victim Dies in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—A Hamilton man died Tuesday in Hines Veterans Hospital where he was being treated for injuries he suffered in a truck-train collision four months ago in Grand Rapids.

Theodore J. Kostele, 30, suffered multiple fractures and a brain concussion in the accident Jan. 16. He was transferred from a hospital in Grand Rapids April 16.

Lions once roamed Asia and the Middle East.

Greek Junta Purges Top Military Ranks

ATHENS (AP) — Greece's holding "major items" of military aid that had been designated for shipment to the Greek armed forces.

The purge was revealed by Brig. Stylianos Patacos, the interior minister and one of the three members of the ruling junta. He said "many changes and promotions" are taking place.

The items were not specified but the officials indicated they were being withheld because the new regime had not given satisfactory assurance it intended to return the country to constitutional government soon.

Since Greece is still a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, minor military hardware will still be shipped to Athens to prevent a breakdown in the U.S. government is with-

One top officer known to have been retired is Air Vice Marshal Michael Kontoleas, commander of the 28th Tactical Air Force, headquarters at the NATO base at Larissa in central Greece.

Elliott Roosevelt in Runoff for Mayor

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U.P.) — Mayor Elliott Roosevelt — who bills himself as "one of the most politically conscious men of our times" — began a runoff campaign for reelection today against a 37-year-old lawyer.

Roosevelt was forced into the runoff election Tuesday by Jay Demer, who began his own campaign by calling Roosevelt "a wild man."

Roosevelt, second son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, replied that Demer was a "disgrace."

The runoff election will be June 6 and winners will be sworn in the next day.

KEEPS HOPES ALIVE

Roosevelt kept his hopes for a second term alive by defeating former Mayor Melvin Rochard, who had charged among other things in a bitter campaign that Roosevelt was soft on Arabs, a serious charge in the Jewish communities of Miami Beach.

Roosevelt explained that he had entertained in his home a Moroccan delegation at the request of the State Department but would not have done the same for King Saud.

Roosevelt, 56, a writer and Colorado rancher before coming to Miami Beach, ran an old-fashioned campaign with sound trucks and hand shaking in the supermarkets.

Many of the shoppers there are retired people, very conscious that Elliott is the son of the man who brought the Social Security that is their sole support.

Demer said, "The Roosevelt name is no longer magic. A new breed of politician is coming to Miami Beach."

Roosevelt got 7,422 votes, about 40.7 per cent of the ballots cast. Demer got 5,596. The third man, Richard, got 4,891.

Tuesday also was the day that excerpts of the new book, "I Love a Roosevelt," were released. The author is Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, the former Patricia Peabody Whitehead and Elliott's fifth wife.

In an article taken from the book the last days of Eleanor Roosevelt are described. The book said Eleanor realized she had a fatal illness and tried to die rather than linger as an invalid.

The book tells briefly how Elliott stood by his mother's bed as she awakened on one occasion after repeated blood transfusions and whispered: "Let me die. Let me die."

Mrs. Roosevelt died in 1962 of tuberculosis and anemia.

Cubans Reported Buying Military-Surplus in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban delegates to the United Nations have been buying military equipment from surplus stores in this country, J. Edgar Hoover says.

The FBI director told a congressional committee that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro might use such items as holsters for 45 caliber pistols, combat boots and jungle hammocks to equip pro-Castro guerrilla groups in other Latin-American countries. He said the Cuban mission at the United Nations is trying to recruit Cuban allies in the United States "to satisfy intelligence requirements of the Castro regime."

Hoover testified before a House Appropriations subcommittee last Feb. 16 and his testimony was released Tuesday. The subcommittee is reviewing a proposed fiscal 1968 budget for the FBI totaling $187 million.

WORK FOR STABILITY — King Savang Vatthana and his queen recite prayers in their Luang Prabang palace in Laos. The king, a devout Buddhist and enthusiastic farmer, has been working quietly behind the scenes for political stability in Laos, a country with a history of coups and attempted coups.

Stability in Laos?

Land of the Coup on Straighter Course

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Has political stability been achieved in Laos, the land of the coup and the ambitious general? An American diplomat pondered this question and finally said: "I would say so, yes, if you consider all that has gone on before."

That may sound like a cautious reply but it is almost wildly optimistic in view of Laos' long-time penchant for switching government.

Another diplomatic source observed: "I'm not saying there aren't people who wouldn't try to overthrow Souvanna-Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma — if they thought they had a sound alternative. But the feeling right now is that there simply is no one else of his stature to offer."

A NEUTRALIST

Souvanna heads a coalition nationalist - neutralist government. He is a neutralist and his

The third faction in Laotian politics, the Pathet Lao, represents Communist interests. It is trying by force to overthrow Laos' constitutional parliamentary monarchy, and is not in the present government at Cabinet level.

Establishment of a tripartite government came about in 1962 when 14 nations signed a pact at Geneva.

Laos would seem to be living proof that such combinations don't work if one of the parties is Communist.

HARD AT WORK

A few months after the Geneva accords, the Pathet Lao, assisted by the North Vietnamese, began trying to render impotent the neutralist forces who composed most of Souvanna's military strength.

Skirmishing and assassinations forced the neutralists into a firmer alliance with the conservatives or nationalists.

By May 1963, all the Pathet Lao ministers had left Vientiane. They haven't been back since.

The three factions held one more meeting — in Communist territory — but without agreement. Open fighting broke out and has been going on ever since.

COUP ATTEMPTS

Vientiane and other Laotian cities were the scenes of several coups or attempted coups. A rightist coup failed in 1965.

Souvanna, first prime minister under the coalition government, was toppled once and again quit in disgust. He kept popping back.

Under Souvanna's leadership and through his efforts to achieve unity, the moderate rightists and neutralists have subdued their difference.

Waterford Twp. Library Sets Summer Schedule

The summer schedule at the Waterford Township Public Library will go into effect June 5 and continue through Sept. 4. Librarian Jean Andrews made the announcement today, listing hours for the main library at 5168 Tubbs and the branch at 5640 Williams Lake.

Miss Andrews also listed the names of 41 new books available at the library.

Summer hours for the main library will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday. The library will be closed Saturday and Sunday.

The branch library will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and closed Saturday and Sunday.

JOINT EFFORT

Working together, the conservatives and neutralists have managed to win control of about two-thirds of Laotian territory and maintain influence over about 75 per cent of the people.

Two major combined military operations have had a measure of success:

Working quietly behind the scenes for stability is King Sawang Vatthana—a devout Buddhist and enthusiastic farmer.

Block Cancer With a Baby?

By Science Service
MONTREAL — Having a baby may protect women from later developing cancer.

This theory of Dr. Samuel Freedman, chief of immunology at Montreal General Hospital and a McGill University professor, is now being tested on 2,000 women.

By September Dr. Freedman hopes to have learned "whether there is a statistically significant correlation between pregnancy and failure to develop cancer."

The women are matched equally as to age and race. However, 1,000 of them have cancer of the gastrointestinal tract. The other 1,000—all pregnant—do not.

Dr. Freedman is looking for a correlation between the number of pregnancies, including miscarriages, and the "type of malignancy, degree of malignancy, gross rate of malignancy and response in treatment"

His theory, and the search for clinical evidence, are based on the "striking similarity" Dr. Freedman spotted in the structure of a substance found in cancer of the gastrointestinal tract and in the gastrointestinal tract of an unborn fetus. He calls the substance carcinoembryonic antigen.

Dr. Freedman then looked for antibodies that would counteract the antigen's harmful effect on the body. He found them in two categories of patients—those with small cancerous lesions and pregnant women.

This finding, he believes, "shows that a pregnant woman has an immune reaction to a substance in her own fetus."

FRESH BROCCOLI SICILIAN—Fresh broccoli speaks Italian, especially when flavored with olive oil, garlic and provolone cheese. It's delicious.

Cook Broccoli Right to Keep It Green

Why broccoli should have been so long reaching the American dinner table is a mystery. It's been known and loved around the Mediterranean for at least 20 centuries.

Though it was grown to a very limited extent in Colonial gardens in this country, it remained for immigrants from Italy to call attention to this delectable vegetable after World War I.

Perhaps broccoli looked just too beautiful to be eaten. Most vegetables are pods, roots, ears or clusters of leaves. Broccoli, a cluster of green buds, looks more like an all-green Colonial bouquet, a "tussy, mussy," a living art object.

It's possible, too, that the occasional non-Italian home-maker who came upon broccoli didn't cook it correctly.

It should be cooked only until just crisp-tender, "al dente" as the Italians say, meaning that flavor has been developed, but that a food requires some chewing. It should also look as richly green after cooking as when still raw.

Cooking the broccoli should be one of those last-minute kitchen chores. It has been said that it's much better that family and guests wait for the broccoli than that the broccoli wait over heat for belated diners.

Not only the delicate buds, but the tiny leaves and stems are good eating. If the ends of some of the larger stems are a bit tough, trim as needed. Split thicker stems half way up to cut cooking time.

Stand the stalks, stem-end down, in the bottom of a double boiler in a 4-inch depth of boiling salted water. Let broccoli cook briskly, without a lid, for 5 minutes. This drives off steam which is formed during the cooking of green vegetables. While this acid steam is entirely harmless it does dull the attractive green of broccoli.

After this idleness cooking period cover and let broccoli cook about 12 minutes longer. Ideally, it should be served just the minute it comes from the heat.

Fresh Broccoli Sicilian
1 bunch (2 lb.) fresh broccoli
4 tablespoons olive oil
1 large fresh onion, sliced into rings

1/4 cup pitted and sliced black olives
4 anchovy fillets, cut into pieces
1/2 lb. provolone cheese, finely sliced
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 clove garlic, finely minced
1 cup beef stock

Wash and trim broccoli; cut into thin lengthwise slices. Pour 1 tablespoon of the oil into 2 quart casserole. Arrange broccoli in layers alternating with onion rings, olives, anchovies and cheese.

Season layers with salt, pepper and garlic and sprinkle remaining 3 tablespoons oil between layers. Pour stock over broccoli.

Cover casserole; bake in preheated moderate oven (325 F.) about 50 to 60 minutes or until broccoli is tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Lemon Perks Your Shrimp

To chill canned shrimp quickly, rinse shrimp and cover with ice-filled water. Add 1 tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar to the water and let them stand 15 to 20 minutes or more. Use plenty of ice.

Canned shrimp shape up after standing an hour or two in a sharp marinade such as a salad dressing or simple oil and vinegar dressing. Acid, like cold, firms the texture. To combine both benefits, marinate in the refrigerator.

To dice or cut marshmallows easily, dip dry scissors into powdered sugar before cutting.

Shrimp, Lobster, Crabmeat

Pimiento Colorful Accent for Seafood

Shrimp. Lobster. Crab. When you think of mouth-watering seafood, do these three head your list?

Not so many years ago you had to live near the shore, or visit there, in order to enjoy these delicacies, but now that is all changed. Food fresh from the sea has come inland, and is as near as your supermarket or grocer's.

And since seafood, like so many other good things, is available canned or frozen, most of the preparation work necessary to enjoy it has been removed. This leaves you free to put your imagination to work.

PIMIENTO SEAFOOD SPECIALTIES

1 pound cooked shrimp (allow 6 per serving)
1 jar or can (4 oz.) whole pimientos, drained
1/4 cup finely diced celery
1/4 teaspoon instant chives
1 cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons French dressing

1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon horseradish
Dash Tabasco

Clean and chill shrimp, cut or tear pimientos into chunky pieces.

Combine remaining ingredients and chill until ready to serve. (This will make approximately 1 1/2 cups of sauce.)

Spoon sauce into bottom of cocktail dish; hang shrimp over side of dish with heavy end immersed in sauce; alternate shrimp with pimiento pieces. 3 or 4 servings, depending on size of shrimp.

Lobster

2 cans lobster (approx. 7 1/2 oz. each)
1 jar or can (7 oz.) whole pimientos, drained
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup minced cucumber
1/4 teaspoon celery seeds
Dash Tabasco

Salt and pepper to taste

1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire

Break lobster and pimiento into pieces, combine and chill.

Mix remaining ingredients to make a savory sauce.

Place small amount of pimiento and lobster in each dish, add sauce; add additional pieces of lobster and pimiento and top with small amount of sauce.

Serves 6.

Crabmeat

1 pound frozen crab, or 2 (7 1/2 oz.) cans
1 jar or can (7 oz.) pimiento, drained and cut in pieces
1/4 cup French dressing
1/4 cup white wine
Dash Tabasco
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Salt and pepper to taste

Thaw and drain frozen crab, or drain canned crab. Cut in bite-size pieces. Combine crabmeat, pimiento, French dressing, wine and Tabasco. Let mixture marinate for 2 to 3 hours in refrigerator. Mix remaining ingredients to make sauce, and chill until ready to use.

To serve, spoon marinated crabmeat and pimiento into serving dish. Add generous portion of sauce and garnish with pimiento strips and celery half-rounds. Serves 6.

Serve Two Fruits in Grapefruit Shell

It's a refreshing fruit dessert, and so nutritious!

Stuffed Grapefruit
1 medium seedless grapefruit
1 small red apple
2 tablespoons thin strips syrup-preserved ginger

Halve grapefruit; cut a very thin sliver from bottom if necessary to have grapefruit stand straight. With a small sharp knife, cut around grapefruit sections and flip into a small bowl.

Pare apple or leave unpeeled; quarter and core; slice quarters crosswise and mix with grapefruit sections and ginger. With kitchen scissors, snip membranes from grapefruit halves and discard; spoon fruit mixture into grapefruit shells.

Chill until serving time. Makes 2 servings.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB DUMPLINGS—Thick rich cream on tender baked dumplings with a strawberry rhubarb filling is a delightful dessert for spring and summer.

Rich Pastry Squares Hold Two Fruits

Most everyone looks forward to spring's first strawberry dessert with mingled pleasure and anticipation. Perhaps this first will be your favorite version of strawberry shortcake or a wonderful tenderly rich baked dumpling made with both strawberries and rhubarb.

This recipe calls for a rich biscuit dough wrapped around the tart-sweet filling of strawberries and rhubarb. Gild the baked dumplings with caramelized sugar if you're so inclined, and serve this glorious dessert with a pitcher of rich cream.

Strawberry Rhubarb Dumplings
1½ pints fresh strawberries, quartered
1 cup dried fresh rhubarb (about ¼ pound)
¼ cup sugar

1½ tablespoons flour
Dash nutmeg
Dash salt
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons double-acting baking powder
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup solid all vegetable shortening

1½ cups milk
Caramelized sugar* (optional)
Light Cream
Combine strawberries, rhubarb, ¼ cup sugar, 1½ tablespoons flour, nutmeg and dash salt. Mix together with light tossing motion; set aside.

Mix 4 cups flour with ¼ cup sugar, the baking powder and 2 teaspoons salt in mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture looks like coarse meal. Stir in milk.
Knead about 10 times on floured board. Divide dough in half. Roll out each half into 12-inch square; cut each into 4 squares.

Spoon some of strawberry mixture in center of each square. Seal corners over top; prick with fork.

Bake in lightly greased oblong pan or on ungreased baking sheet in 425 degree (hot) oven 18 to 20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Spoon caramelized sugar over dumplings, if desired.

Serve warm with pouring cream. Makes 8 dumplings.
To Caramelize Sugar: Stir 1 cup sugar with wooden spoon in heavy skillet over medium heat until sugar melts and a rich brown syrup is formed. Do not allow to boil.

Lettuce Trim
Use the kitchen shears to cut one-inch off around the edges of large leaves of lettuce. The cut-off part may be used as a frill to decorate platters.

Can of Okra Is Pickled

If you like okra, make it into a pickle.

Quick Okra Pickle
1 can (about 1 pound) cut okra
½ cup distilled white vinegar
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon white or yellow mustard seed

Turn okra into a colander to drain thoroughly. In a small saucepan over low heat stir together the vinegar, sugar and mustard seed until sugar dissolves; bring to a boil; boil for 5 minutes.

Pour the hot mixture over the drained okra; cool and chill for an hour or so. Drain okra and serve, if you like, on crisp romaine leaves with a dollop of salt to taste may be added to the marinade.

New Roll Has Mocha Filling

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
How chocolate rolls have caught on! When cooks want to serve a glamorous dessert, they are likely to offer one of these confections.

This newest chocolate roll has an extra fillip — toasted filberts go into the batter and the filling is a coffee flavored butter-cream.

The roll may be made well ahead of a party and kept in the refrigerator. Or if a party isn't in the books, it will make a great gift for a friend.

CHOCOLATE MOCHA FILBERT ROLL

1/2 cup sifted regular flour
1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup (about 3 ounces) finely chopped toasted filberts
6 eggs
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Confectioners sugar
Grease bottom of jellyroll pan (about 15 by 10 by 1 inch); line bottom with wax paper; grease paper.

On a piece of waxpaper; sift together the flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt; mix in filberts. In a large mixing bowl beat the eggs with the granulated sugar and vanilla until very thick and lemon color; gradually fold in flour mixture.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake springs back when lightly touched with finger — about 30 minutes. With a small spatula, loosen edges; turn out onto tea towel. Roll up cake in towel starting with one of the short (10 inch) sides; place roll in towel heat in a hot oven (400 degrees) a minute or two, or until butter melts. Serve hot.

spread top and sides with Chocolate Glaze. Refrigerate; after Chocolate Glaze hardens, wrap roll in clean plastic film and refrigerate again.

Before serving, allow the roll to stand at room temperature to soften the chocolate glaze somewhat so it can be cut without breaking.

Mocha Filling
1/4 cup sweet (unsalted) butter
1 1/2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg yolks
3/4 cup sifted confectioners sugar

In a small mixing bowl, cream butter with coffee powder and vanilla. Beat in the egg yolks and confectioners sugar until thoroughly blended and smooth. Use as directed in recipe for Chocolate Mocha Filbert Roll.

Chocolate Glaze
2 squares (2 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon honey

In a small saucepan over low heat, melt the chocolate with the butter and honey, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat and use as directed in recipe for Chocolate Mocha Filbert Roll.

FOR A SPRING BREAKFAST — Measure into a bowl 2 1/2 cups prepared pancake mix; one cup raw rolled oats; 4 eggs; one-half cup melted shortening or oil; and 2 cups milk. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour batter into heated waffle iron; cook until brown and done. Serve topped with sweetened, sliced fresh strawberries. Makes 3 large waffles.

Dip Frosted Cooky Logs

Rolls out — the quick kind — go into the dough to give Cooky Logs a delicious nut-like flavor and interesting texture. A brief thirty-minute chill makes the dough easy to press into small log shapes.

After the cookies are baked and cooled, chocolate frosting is piped onto them with a pastry tube. The moist frosting surface is then dipped into finely-chopped nuts.

Don't despair if a pastry tube is not part of your kitchen equipment. The frosting can be spread on carefully with a knife just as well.

The final opinion on these delightful Cooky Logs is sure to be summed up in one word — "more!"

Cooky Logs
3/4 cup butter or margarine, soft
3/4 cup sifted confectioners' sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
Chocolate butter cream frosting
Finely-chopped pecans

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Beat butter until creamy. Gradually beat in confectioners' sugar. Blend in vanilla. Sift together flour and salt. Add to creamed mixture, blending well. Stir in oats.

For ease in handling, chill dough about 30 minutes.

Shape to form 42 logs. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in preheated oven 20 to 25 minutes. Cool. With pastry tube, pipe frosting lengthwise across top of each log. Dip into chopped pecans.

CHOCOLATE MOCHA ROLL — Toasted filberts add delightful flavor to that glamorous dessert—chocolate roll with a mocha-flavored filling.

Birds, Flowers Thrive in Springtime Food

Children love attention. Mothers can satisfy this need for attention at mealtime very easily. Serve them the food the rest of the family will eat but give the young fry's plate a special touch.

Most children want their food plain — no spices or heavy seasonings — just a little salt and pepper with a bit of butter. However, they do want their food to look attractive.

Creamy, skillet-cooked macaroni and cheese is a dish enjoyed by all ages. To please the small ones, macaroni and cheese can be served on toast shaped like a birdhouse. A stick of celery becomes the perch for a small radish bird.

Simple, quick and the young ones love it.

Macaroni and Cheese Birdhouse
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup diced green pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard
8-ounce package elbow macaroni
2 1/4 cups water
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
2 cups grated American or Cheddar Cheese

Set electric skillet on warm and melt butter. Add onion and green pepper. Turn heat to 340 degrees; saute the vegetables until tender. Add salt, pepper, mustard, macaroni and water.

Turn the dial to 300 degrees until the water boils. Cover and simmer at 220 degrees for about 20 minutes, or until macaroni is tender.

Sprinkle flour over macaroni. Add milk; stir. Add pimento and cheese.

Continue cooking, covered, on 220 degrees until cheese is melted. Makes 4-6 servings.

Birdhouse: Toast two slices of bread. Cut one slice in half diagonally for the roof. Cut the crust off the other to make it square for the house.

Put the macaroni and cheese on the house slice. Cut a circle from a radish for the bird hole. A stick of celery for the perch.

Use a small radish for the bird by slitting the root end for the beak; use a silver candy or cut out a circle so the white will show through for the eye.

This same design can be used with scrambled eggs.

Flower Pot Salad

Choose the children's favorite flavor of gelatin. Make as directed on package. Use a small amount of salad oil and brush the inside of a small paper cup to mold a flower pot. Refrigerate until gelatin is very stiff. Flowers are made with: small radishes cut into roses, thin slices of carrot notched to look like a flower, and cherry tomatoes. Use a wooden pick for stem. The flowers should be very small.

Tantalize Them With Aroma

The "make it now — bake it later" convenience of the Cool-Rise method means that you can welcome guests with the aroma of fresh baked bread, coffee cake or rolls.

Prepared in advance, Cool-Rise breads rise in the refrigerator for two hours or up to 24 hours when covered with saran food wrap. Bake them just before your guests arrive.

Gingery Top for Bread

The use of ginger in making a gingerbread is said to have been discovered in Greece at most 5,000 years ago. The use of ginger in Gingerbread Sticks is brand new. Here it is combined with the sesame seed which like ginger, is listed among the world's oldest spice and oil-seed crops.

To make 16 gingerbread sticks take 4 slices of toasted enriched bread; trim off crusts, cut each slice into 4 equal-sized sticks. Cream together 1/4 cup soft butter, 1 tablespoon finely chopped crystallized ginger, and 1 teaspoon toasted sesame seeds. Spread a scant teaspoon of mixture on each bread stick. Place on a cookie sheet and heat in a hot oven (400 degrees) a minute or two, or until butter melts. Serve hot.

DISTAFF SOLDIERS CAPTURED — Vietnamese women, captured while fighting alongside men in a Vietcong battalion, huddle behind a barbed wire compound last weekend in Nui Loc Son Valley, southwest of Da Nang. They were taken by Marines on Operation Union.

Uninsured Drivers Increase if Outlawed, Says 'M' Prof

ANN ARBOR — Compulsory auto insurance laws generally have increased — not decreased — the number of insured drivers on the road, a University of Michigan business economist warns.

Associate Prof. Ross J. Wilhelm suggests that legislators would do well to study the experience of New York, Massachusetts, and North Carolina before passing such laws in their own states.

In New York, before the compulsory auto insurance law was passed in the early 1960s, 2 per cent of the drivers were uninsured. In 1963 a survey indicated that 6 per cent of the drivers were uninsured. The New York law carries a penalty of a year in prison, a $1,000 fine, or both.

Wilhelm, who discussed the subject on his radio program "Business Review," produced by the University Broadcasting Service (WUOM, WVGR), offers this explanation:

"The primary reason why the percentage of uninsured drivers on the road rises in compulsory insurance states is because insurance rates are higher. The rates in Manhattan and Boston are about three times higher for basic auto insurance than they are in Detroit, about 80 per cent higher than in Miami, and about 60 per cent higher than in San Francisco. Yet the deaths from motor vehicles per license in force are significantly higher in Michigan, California, and Florida than they are in the compulsory states of New York and Massachusetts.

"The reason the insurance rates are higher in the compulsory states than in the non-compulsory ones appears to be that the drivers involved in accidents know that most people have insurance and the claims for damages are pushed out to the maximum. The people seem to be more conscious of the existence of insurance and are ready to stick to the insurance companies for as much as they can."

New York and Massachusetts, Wilhelm adds, lead the nation in auto injury claims paid per 1,000 cars insured.

"The number of claims reported jumps as soon as a compulsory insurance law is passed," the economist says. "The New York police claim, and it seems reasonable, that they do not have the manpower to seek out the uninsured driver. Further, when they do find such drivers the most that usually happens is that their license plates are taken away for 30 days."

Another reason for more uninsured drivers being on the road in New York is that the law is not enforced, the economist says. "The New York police claim, and it seems reasonable, that they do not have the manpower and the state motor vehicle departments are run by politicians who feel they cannot take harsh action."

The situation is comparable to the experience in all states with unlicensed drivers, the economist points out. "Stiff laws requiring a driver to be licensed have not kept unlicensed drivers off the road, and surveys have indicated that up to 90 per cent of the drivers whose licenses have been suspended drive during the suspension period."

To circumvent New York's proof of insurance requirement in obtaining a car license, uninsured drivers may pay a small amount down on a policy then let it lapse after licensing, use a phony insurance certificate, or register their car in a non-compulsory state.

Obscene Callers Pose Little Physical Danger

DETROIT — Men who make obscene telephone calls are not likely to follow-up with physical assault. The obscene caller is related psychologically to the exhibitionist, said Dr. Raoul N. Nadler of New York University School of Medicine, but he is more frightened of direct action.

Dr. Nadler told the annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association here that "annoyance calls" in New York increased 10 per cent in 1966 over 1965. Some 18,000 obscene calls were reported to the New York business office of the Bell Telephone Co. in the nine months from April to December 1966.

There is evidence, said Dr. Nadler, that the obscene caller is both more aggressive and more scared than other men with sexual perversions. "He acts out his perversion at a greater distance, but more actively."

Dr. Nadler said the telephone calls is aimed at inspiring a woman's awe or fright for the purpose of bolstering a sense of potency. The caller usually resorts to telephoning when his self-esteem is particularly low and he is intolerably anxious. He needs a rapid infusion of assurance from women.

The best course of action of a woman receiving such calls is to hang up and give no response whatsoever. But she need not be afraid of the unusual amount of rage characteristic of lewd phone calls since the caller is frightened by his own anger and potential for destructiveness.

Cléte Boyer Aids Atlanta

By the Associated Press

The Atlanta Braves are running short on strong arms, but their best glove is helping make up the difference—with his bat.

Cléte Boyer, the Braves' slick-fielding third baseman, belted a two-run double and bases-empty homer in Tuesday night's 6-3 victory over the New York Mets.

The home run was the fourth this season for Boyer, who was acquired in a winter trade with the New York Yankees, and the 100th of his career. He has driven in 13 runs for the Braves, helping sluggers Hank Aaron, Joe Torre & Co. compensate for the loss of two injured pitching standouts.

SIDELINED

Tony Cloninger, the club's right-handed ace, was placed on the disabled list Tuesday because of blurred vision in his left eye. Ken Johnson, a veteran right-hander, has been sidelined with a virus ailment.

Catcher Torre, tied with Aaron for the National League home run lead at eight apiece, joined the casualty list with a banged-up right index finger.

Torre, however, was pressed into service in the fourth inning Tuesday night when his replacement, Gene Oliver, got thrown out of the game for protesting a call.

Elsewhere, a league-leading Cincinnati double Pittsburgh 6-3, St. Louis nipped Philadelphia 3-2, San Francisco beat Chicago 5-1 and Los Angeles whipped Houston 6-1.

The Reds scored three runs without a hit in the second inning on the way to their fourth straight victory. Mel Queen struck out nine and blanked the Pirates until the ninth, while boosting his pitching mark to 5-1.

Mike Shannon's run-scoring single in the ninth lifted the Cardinals past Philadelphia. A walk and Orlando Cepeda's single set up Shannon's deciding hit.

PCH, Brother Rice NABL Player Gets Tryout

Dave McNeely's 38 paced Pontiac Central golfers to a 158-164 victory over Kettering at Pontiac Country Club yesterday. Gary Quitiquit also had 38 for the losers.

Brother Rice won the second division Catholic League golf championship by defeating Salisburg, 153-177 and Tom Fortuno edged a 35.

Austin, tied with Rice, was upset by U. of D. High to be eliminated from the title race.

Through the WJGA, the young golfers will be permitted to use facilities at the courses named on days designated by the WJGA.

The program contains five divisions, two for girls and three for boys. Girls in the 9-13 age group may enroll in a par-3 group and those in the 14-18 bracket may enroll in the single round (9 holes) group.

DIVISIONS DIFFER

The par-3 group will participate in nine instruction clinics and play five rounds of golf. Those in the single round (9 holes) will participate in six clinics and play six rounds of golf; and the members in the 14-18 group will have three clinics and engage in six rounds (18 holes) of golf.

There is a registration fee of $4 for each applicant, plus each member will pay the reduced fee for each round of golf (50 cents for par-3, $1 for 9 holes and $2 for 18 holes — all payable at the course).

Along with the clinics and play, the WJGA will have competition within each group. Weekly awards will be given and the organization will wind up the program with a match-play tournament.

An application form printed here may be used to enroll in the program.

Chinooks Are Coming

Anglers Eye Heavy Salmon

LANSING (AP) — Looking to the future, Michigan fishermen had better start thinking of buying some heavy gear.

The chinook salmon are coming.

The recent plantings of coho salmon in streams leading to the Great Lakes already is called a success by the State Conservation Department.

Commercial fishermen from Indiana have been hauling in the coho by the ton. Now the Indiana Conservation Department has acted to cut down the taking of fish planted as a sports species.

Fishermen are expected to start taking the coho this summer.

SALMON PLANTED

During the past year, some 850,000 chinook salmon were planted in three northern streams. Tow of the streams lead to Lake Michigan and one to Lake Superior.

The chinook salmon are a big brother species of the coho. Some one million eggs were obtained from the West Coast and the Michigan department had a high ratio of success in raising the fish to three inches. About nine of 10 survived.

The chinook might come back to their streams of origin next year. But the major spawning runs are expected in 1969 and 1970 when the chinooks reach maturity.

A few were planted in Lake Ontario in the late 1800's and some survived to grow to 20 pounds or more. But very small fry were planted in the dead of winter and the planting didn't take.

The chinook salmon can grow from 20 to 50 pounds at maturity and to up to three feet long.

HEAVY GEAR

"Fishermen will have to use heavy gear to get them when they reach maturity," said Dave Borgeson of the Conservation Department's Fish Division.

"A 20 to 30 pound test line is needed, heavy rods and a big reel."

Fishermen trying for muskies from Lake St. Clair would be able to use the same equipment. But light lines and tackle won't be able to handle the chinook at maturity.

Out west, fishermen use herring for bait. Here an alewife or smelt would be recommended. Fishermen also could use an imitation minnow or a spoon as a lure.

"They are an excellent fighting fish," said Borgeson. "On the West Coast they are considered the king of the sporting fish."

It will take a knowing fisherman to tell the difference between a coho and a chinook, Borgeson reported.

Main difference is in the mouth. Coho have white gums and the chinook salmon have dark gums. Another name for the species on the west coast is "Blackmouth."

Also, if the salmon weighs more than 20 pounds, you can figure it is a chinook.

Wildcat Thincleds Add Kettering to List

Oxford's Track team continued its winning ways by chalking up its 29th straight dual win over three years in whipping Kettering, 79½ to 38½.

Tim Kelley was a triple winner and also ran a relay leg for Oxford.

In a triangular meet, Country Day outpointed Brandon and Michigan School for the Deaf, 60-45½ and 39½.

Only double winner was John Meyer in both hurdles for Country Day.

Both Captains Confident in U.S.-British Tourney

SANDWICH, England (UPI) — Rival captains Jesse Sweetser of the United States and Joe Carr of Britain were pictures of confidence today as their teams prepared for Friday's opening of the Walker Cup matches between the leading amateur golfers on both sides of the Atlantic.

"I'm happy, said Sweetser after Tuesday's wind-blown practice. "Our boys found the greens a little puzzling because they are drying out in this wind and sunshine. But once they're cut and provided the weather remains good, we'll be happy."

OPTIMISTIC

Carr, the Irish veteran who also is a competitor in the matches, was even more excited about his team's prospects.

"I'm delighted with their form," he said. "I've got a better team than I thought I had. My hopes are rising and I'll be very disappointed if we don't have a good chance by Saturday afternoon."

In Tuesday's practice, the twosomes of Ed Tutweiler of Indianapolis and Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla., and Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, Calif., and Bob Murphy of Gainesville, Fla., both shot two-over-par 72s for top honors.

RECORD, TRAGEDY — For five years, tourists and natives of the Blue Ridge Mountains have helped Mark Woodruff, 13, feed his beautiful pet German brown trout at his father's Chattahoochee Forest National Fish Hatchery near Suwanee, Ga. "Old Samantha" got too big for the hatchery so Mark put him in restricted water just below the hatchery. A dry spell hit the area recently and "Samantha" wandered off to deep water that was open to public fishing 500 feet downstream. An innocent angler caught the 17-pound 2-ounce trout, breaking Georgia's record and Mark's heart.

Unveil National Plan to Fight Forest Fires

LANSING — A national program designed to give states greater strikepower against potential forest fire disasters has been proposed by officials of the Michigan Department of Conservation and the U.S. Forest Service.

As outlined recently at the annual meeting of the National Association of State Foresters in Williamsburg, Virginia, the plan would mobilize all of the states into fire-fighting units. They would be on call to send their men and equipment any place in the nation where fire emergencies develop.

"Basically, the idea is to give every state strength in numbers against large-scale fires," explains Milton M. Bergman, Forest Fire Chief for the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Bergman, one of the plan's originators, adds that the national emergency program would pick up where each state's fire control system leaves off. Many states, he reports, are geared to deal only with smaller forest fires.

As envisioned by Bergman and Eliot W. Zimmerman of the U.S. Forest Service, the nationwide program would cost an estimated $1.5 million annually. It would be completely financed by the federal Clark-McNary Program which currently provides about $12 million each year to help keep the states' fire-fighting forces combat ready.

The action phase of the program, which calls for about $1.2 million annually, would cover purchase of equipment and supplies and transporting key fire men and mobile equipment to the scene of trouble.

As planned, a national coordinator would be appointed to direct the deployment of manpower and machinery for emergency fire-fighting.

TIRE TALK

Got a moment to think thru one sad example of tire talk that is confusing some unwary tire buyers?

A major tire company is making a big pitch about how simple it is to select from their many grades and qualities of tires using a "slide rule calculator." They equate tire buying in terms of how many miles you drive, how fast, and where, etc. The basic error, however, is that this reasoning assumes all tires good or bad, high quality or junk, will stop you from 40 mph on a dark, rain-swept street in exactly the same distance.

We tiremen know, and you probably do, too, that this just isn't so — for some high quality tires, because of a special tread design or compound can stop you many feet quicker than other less efficient, cheapie designs.

Wouldn't it be a sad thing if you bought a tire that needed 68 feet to stop when only 65 feet remained? Try that one on your "slide rule!"

At our store we have no slide rules. Our people are highly competent tiremen, fully prepared with tire know-how and facts — ready to thoughtfully recommend the tire you need.

And finally, most importantly, we don't even handle second, third or fourth line tires. We won't drive them ourselves and won't recommend them for you.

That's no "slide rule" idea — that's the Golden Rule.

Rhonda F. King
HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP—Service for Rhonda F. King, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John King of 3175 Central, will be 3 p.m. Friday at the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home, Milford. Burial will follow in Highland Cemetery, Highland Township.

Mrs. Paul H. Kroesing
WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Service for Mrs. Paul H. Kroesing, 48, will be 7 p.m. tomorrow at the funeral home.

She was a member of the Greater Waterford Community Council (GWCC) to give presentations and answer questions.

The GWCC also awarded certificates of merit to about 50 individuals, organizations and businesses which aided the group's beautification campaign this spring.

The meeting was held at Pierce Junior High School. School board candidates on hand for the occasion were incumbents Michael G. Patterson, 62, of 6329 Grace K and Donald W. Porter, 49, of 3736 Mariner; and William D. Motzky, 36, of 3078 Grace W; Lewis S. Long, 40, of 5657 Brunswick; and Charles W. Meyka, 37, of 3068 Grace View.

The GWCC, however, did not single out any of the candidates for endorsement.

MERIT AWARDS
Among recipients of merit certificates were the A and P food store at 3400 Floradale and Forbes Printing and Office Supply, 4500 Dixie.

The A and P store was honored as the cleanest super market in the township. The Forbes firm was honored for upgrading its property.

In other business, the GWCC voted to withdraw as a sponsor for the foreign exchange student program in the township.

Hebrew author Samuel Joseph Agnon, who received last year's Nobel Prize for literature, sharing it with author Nelly Sachs of Sweden, will leave tomorrow on a month's visit to the United States.

He will come at the invitation of the group known as American Friends of Hebrew University, a spokesman of that Jerusalem institution said today.

Tito Names New Secretary General

Two Win Top Prize in International Music

The Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation for the first time has named two first-prize winners in its international musician competition.

The two, among four finalists in this 25th annual contest, are violinists Kyung Hua Chung, a 19-year-old Korean-born girl, and 18-year-old Pinchas Zukerman of Israel.

They were chosen yesterday in New York by 14 judges — all leading conductors and violinists — after about 2½ hours of listening and another 2½ hours of decision-making.

Miss Chung and Zukerman each will receive full first-prize money of $1,000. But a competition spokesman said it has not been decided how to handle in this case the solo appearances a single winner normally is guaranteed with nine major symphony orchestras across the country.

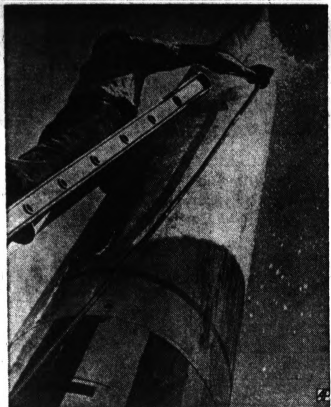

The Leventritt contest, held either for pianists or violinists, also saw awards of $500 each go to the other two finalists, Sergiu Luca, a Romanian-born Israeli, 24, and Nejm Succari, 27, of Syria. They also will be given recital and symphony appearances.

Fix Up Mailboxes, Post Office Urges

The Post Office Department has designated this week as mailbox improvement week. Residents on rural, city motorized and box delivery star routes are asked to examine and improve where necessary the appearance of their mailboxes.

Mailboxes must be designed to protect the mail from the weather, be neat in appearance and conveniently located and safe to use to contribute to a more efficient delivery organization, postal authorities say.

A model mailbox is currently on display in front of the Post Office at 735 W. Huron.

WEA Group Backs Two in Waterford

The legislative body of the Waterford Education Association has endorsed school board candidates Michael G. Patterson and Lewis S. Long. Patterson, 29, of 6329 Grace K and Long, 40, of 5657 Brunswick are two of 11 candidates for board positions in the Waterford Township School District's June 12 election.

Patterson is seeking a three-year term, while Long is vying for a four-year post. The legislative body, which consists of 65 district school-teachers, did not endorse anyone for the other four-year post at stake in the election. Five candidates spoke and the legislative body's monthly meeting at Pierce Junior High School Monday night.

Antiaggression Pill Is Next, Says Prof

By Science Service
MONTREAL — Just as there are now drugs to kill pain, cut down anxiety or cure depression, within 20 years there will be a pill to reduce aggression. This prediction was made at a seminar for science writers here by Dr. Heinz Lehmann, psychiatry professor at McGill University. The forecast is based on the orderly procession that has been made in chemically altering human reactions. Pain was the first to be conquered by drugs.

Casualty Evacuation Teams Fast and Efficient

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Air Force casualty evacuation teams trained specially to rush the wounded from large-scale battles to rear medical facilities have made their South Vietnam debut.

The first 13-man team was in action for the bloody battles between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese regulars for three key peaks in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam. The team had been positioned in Da Nang and was ordered to Khe Sanh, about 100 miles away at 1 p.m. on April 26 as Marine casualties poured in from the fighting for Hill 861. The airman — nine medics, two officers, a radio operator and an administrator — pitched their two tents beside the Marines' casualty staging area and went to work.

BACK AND FORTH

Throughout the fighting for Hill 861, helicopters shuttled from the battle to Khe Sanh with wounded and dying Marines. In one pitched battle 50 Marines died, and 150 were wounded. The Air Force team had originally expected to maintain a 25-patient facility, but as casualties mounted on April 30 four more medics came in, then a second administrator and three male nurses. "We really worked that day," Cox said, "and we had our last casualty out en route to hospitals in Phu Bai or Da Nang by 11 p.m."

The first casualties arrived at 7:30 a.m., Cox said, "and then there was no pause. We worked right through and had our first food when a Marine mess sergeant brought over some wieners and bread about 8 p.m."

The evacuation team at Khe Sanh is one of three that came to Vietnam last March.

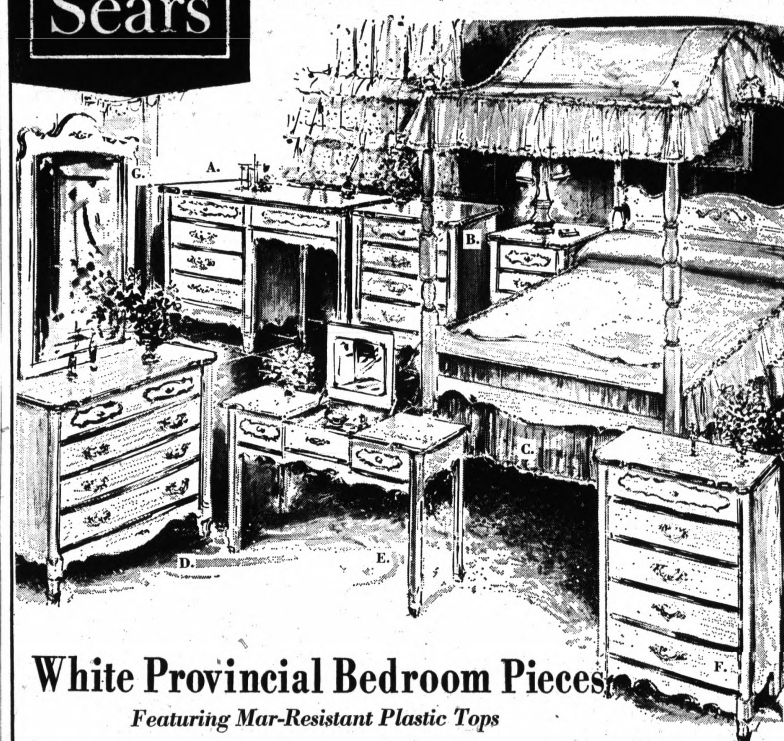

Cox's team was the first to go into the field. The second one is on alert at Cam Ranh Bay and the third is stationed at the headquarters in Phu Cat on the central coast.

Europe Space Unit to Launch Satellite

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A scientific satellite (representing 10 European nations) is set to ride an American rocket into orbit May 31 to examine radiation and strengthen the ties of international space cooperation.

The little, drum-shaped moonlet will be inaugurating an ambitious orbital exploration program by the European Space Research Organization (ESRO) leading to the launch of a large star-gazing satellite.

ESRO was created in 1962 to give European nations a foothold in the burgeoning field of space exploration and do what most of the group's individual members could not afford alone.

The combine's first orbital product, a 163-pound spacecraft called ESRO 2, is now at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., awaiting launch by a U.S. space agency scout rocket.

If all goes well, it will be the third scout launching of a European spacecraft within a five-week period. A British moonlet, Ariel 3, was orbited from Vandenberg May 5 and the Italian space agency used a scout to launch its San Marco B satellite from a sea platform off Africa April 26.

ESRO MEMBERS

Britain and Italy are members of ESRO along with Belgium, Denmark, France, Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and West Germany. France has orbited its own satellites with home-built boosters.

ESRO 2 is expected to soar into a polar orbit ranging from 215 to 680 miles high where its seven experiments will study solar and cosmic radiation and radio its findings back to a network of ESRO tracking stations scheduled to begin operation later this year.

The 12-sided satellite is expected to contribute to man's understanding of the radiation that occasionally steams out in great bursts from the sun and of the radiation that originates from beyond the solar system.

ESRO's second satellite, named ESRO 1, is a twin of its predecessor and is scheduled for launch by another space scout later this year to examine the upper fringes of earth's atmosphere.

AGREEMENT

Under an agreement signed by ESRO and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1964, the European space organization provides the satellite and a space for each mission along with supporting test gear and personnel. The United

Alcoholism Up in E. Germany

By Science Service
DETROIT — The Berlin Wall has increased the problem of alcoholism in East Germany, especially among women, a leading East German psychiatrist said.

Dr. Dietfried Muller-Hege-mann, medical director of the City Hospital for Psychiatry and Neurology in East Berlin, said alcoholism is a serious problem in his country and he thinks the wall has enlarged it.

Alcoholics often come from split families. This is especially the case with women.

A majority of women treated for alcoholism are alone, either because their families are split between East and West or because their husbands and finances are dead. They have little chance of marrying, since East Germany has nearly twice as many women as men between the ages of 20 and 45.

The alcoholic psychosis is three times as prevalent among single women as other groups, Dr. Muller-Hege-mann said.

NEEDS FILLED

Their basic need for food and survival are filled, and they want more out of life than is possible for many single women, he said.

The East German had his comments during an interview at the American Psychiatric Association meeting in Detroit.

The symposium here was a continuation of the first East-West conference held last September in Madrid when psychiatrists met for their international convention.

New Mixture Treats Cancer

By Science Service

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — A new cancer-fighting compound containing a phosphate that acts as if it were radioactive is showing promise in treatment of breast cancer in Turin, Italy.

About 50 patients have been treated in the past four years. Dr. Brunetto Chiarelli reports.

The new substance injected into the bloodstream of patients at Molinette Hospital in Turin is radiomimetic, which means that it mimics ionizing radiation in its effect on the cell.

After injection into an artery near the cancer site, the compound is carried by lesser blood vessels to the cancerous areas, where it is assimilated by the rapidly dividing cancer cells.

Charlie Company Men Keep on Move

CHU LAI, Vietnam (AP)—It was another day of "the walk in the sun," a day where nobody shoots at you, nothing much happens, and Charlie Company got what it considers a break: rain.

The thunderheads masked the searing sun. A cool breeze fanned the dry paddies. Rain came down in sheets. No one covered up. They just soaked it up.

Charlie Company of the 1st Battalion, 14th Infantry, is a unit of the 3rd Brigade, U.S. 25th Division, an outfit that has put together a full year of continuous combat operations.

The brigade keeps moving. Except for its clerks and supply personnel, who take up a corner of the 4th Division's base camp four times since then," says the company commander, Capt. Robert G. Eklund of Osceola, Neb. "Streams are a big favorite with us."

Charlie Company's idea of a good time is guarding some remote landing zone while the other companies sweep the surrounding jungle.

Charlie got two days for Christmas at the 4th Division camp, then back to the field and the highland jungles where it had been for nearly eight months. It was two days for New Year's at the same camp.

Then the battalion was trucked to coastal Binh Dinh in central Vietnam for Operation Thayer II—fighting and more walking — and Operation Pershing.

"We've been to a shower point in a hospital in Japan is asked by the sergeant: "Hey, did you get my china?"

"No, they didn't have your pattern." The sergeant, a veteran of 18 years, laments, "my wife will kill me."

Poetry Meeting

Prisoners Get Jaycee Unit

By JACQUELINE KORONA
Associated Press Writer

JACKSON (AP) — Michigan's newest chapter of the Jaycees meets in Cell Block 11, State Prison of Southern Michigan. Surrounded by tiers of cells, 21 inmates of the world's largest walled prison plan ways to carry out the Jaycee purpose: improve their community.

Chapter president Nick Lazin Jr. smiles easily as he outlines chapter work.

"We plan to have the best chapter there is," says the slight, soft-spoken Lazin. "Now 24, was sentenced to life in prison in 1962 for second degree murder."

GOALS

"We want to give the men something to think about besides going out and doing something to get tickets (bad conduct reports)," he said. "We want to do something to help ourselves and the institution."

Although the chapter has not yet received its national charter—that's expected in mid-June—the inmates began work two months ago.

They elected officers, wrote by-laws and a constitution, afraid to talk in front of the thought up projects that, pending approval of prison officials, will get under way soon after the charter comes through.

"We'd like to build a nine-hole miniature golf course in the psychiatric block exercise yard," Lazin says, "and a track with high hurdles and broad-jumping."

PLANNING CAMPAIGN

"We're planning a book collecting campaign to get something for patients in the prison hospital to read."

"We'll need some money for our projects, so we thought about getting a camera to take pictures of inmates with their families on visiting days. We could sell the pictures to the men to help pay for whatever we do."

Lazin talks enthusiastically about already accomplished deeds.

One chapter member, he said, feared being with other people because he was embarrassed by a speech impediment.

INDIVIDUAL HELPED

"We talked him into joining the Jaycees and little by little he's getting over the fear and the speech impediment. He's not group now, because he sees everyone else doing it."

Another member—a man who hopes to be paroled within the next few months—worked for two weeks with three other members and came up with a 25-page condensed version of Robert's Parliamentary Rules of Order.

All chapter members have a copy to study so the meetings will be conducted properly.

"He worked hard, even though he may be gone soon, so that he will have a good record here and able to get right into another Jaycee chapter wherever he goes," Lazin explains.

ROUGH SPOTS

All has not been rosy in the group's brief history.

For a short time prison cliques attempted to take over leadership of the chapter, Lazin says.

"But I've appointed members of each clique to committee positions," he says, "and the group is operating as one now."

The chapter is the brainchild of Lansing Jaycee members who have worked for about a year on its organization.

MAIN AIM

"The main reason for thinking of a chapter at the prison," says Lansing Jaycee project chairman Jack Routsong, "is to give the men something to come out of prison to."

"A man can get in touch with the Jaycee chapter where he's going and they will more or less give him a home. If he has a problem he will have someone to turn to."

Routsong and both Lansing and Jackson Jaycee members have met with prisoners and prison officials since receiving approval from Director Gus Harrison of the State Department of Corrections and Warden George Kropp.

"When we held the first meeting at the prison, we were a little disappointed by the turnout—only 11 men who met the 21-36 age requirement," Routsong says.

ENTHUSIASM

"But they seemed enthusiastic and they got others interested. After the second meeting we came back on a cloud."

Lazin drummed up much of that interest through articles in the prison newspaper, "The Spectator."

The rest came through word of mouth, the prison grapevine. Potential membership shot up to 35—then dropped to 21 when it came to shelling out the $8.30 per man annual dues.

HIGH DUES

"That's more than a month's salary for some of the men," Lazin says.

About two-thirds of the current membership didn't have a month's salary to pay, reports Paul Mendosohn, assistant prison counselor and Jaycee coordinator.

"We lent them money, but they had to sign contracts saying that one-half of all the money they receive will go toward repaying the loans until the entire sum is back in the fund."

Now there is a waiting list for the chapter. New members probably will be screened by prison officials after the charter has been granted.

NOT UNANIMOUS

But not all of the prison's more than 2,100 inmates are behind the Jaycees.

"There are some guys in here who have a negative attitude," Lazin admits. "They think it's a goody-goody type of group. But they will know differently when they hear about the things we do for them."

Jaycee units already are working successfully in 26 penal institutions in the country, two in Michigan.

Chapters at the Michigan Training Unit at Ionia and the Federal Correctional Institution at Milan both received charters last summer.

'FINE IDEA'

"It's a fine idea," said Warden Paul P. Sartwell of the Milan prison. "The 75 to 80 inmates in the chapter are using some of the proceeds from their fund-raising projects to support a poor 11-year-old girl in Arizona."

The 30 members of the Michigan Training Unit Jaycee chapter have helped improve morale among the 17 to 23-year-old inmates at that institution said Richard Hanlon.

2 Die, 7 Hurt in Oxford Twp. Crash

An Oxford Township man and his 15-year-old son were killed and seven other persons were injured in a two-car accident in Oxford Township about 10 p.m. yesterday.

Killed were Herman Deaton, 44, of 2901 N. Oxford and his son, James.

Three other Deaton children — Doris, 18; Joyce, 11; and Billy, 8 — and 2-year-old Patricia Fox, daughter of Doris, are in Pontiac General Hospital.

Billy is listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit, while the others are reported in satisfactory condition.

Both passengers of the other car, driven by 16-year-old Shari Lynn Kessler of 75 W. Burdick, Oxford, were injured seriously.

Joan Allridge, 17, of 58 Pleasant, Oxford, is reported in critical condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Jerry Rockett, 15, of 10 W. Burdick, Oxford, is listed as serious in Pontiac General.

SATISFACTORY CONDITION

Authorities at St. Joseph Hospital said the Kessler girl's condition is satisfactory.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Deaton's car entered Lapeer Road from Brabb and was hit broadside by the Kessler car, traveling south on Lapeer.

The impact rolled the Deaton vehicle

onto its side, throwing all the passengers out, according to deputies.

Thugs Enter Home, Terrorize Area Pair

By JEAN SAILLE

Three masked thugs last night invaded a rural Washington Township home, northeast of Rochester, and terrorized its two elderly occupants at gunpoint for an estimated two hours.

Dan Gruich, 54, and his 77-year-old mother, Smilya, a native of Yugoslavia, this morning looked about their 100-year-old octagonal home at 3603 28 Mile Road in disbelief.

Papers were strewn on the floor, beds were torn apart, overstuffed cushions were ripped into shreds. The door of an empty safe in Gruich's room hung open.

The two told Romeo State Police they had retired last night and were awakened at about 10:30 p.m. by a loud noise which turned out to be the breaking of the slide latch on the front door.

22, the Gruichs proceeded to endure their hours of terror.

FORCED TO OPEN SAFE

"We know you've got $40,000 to $50,000 here," Gruich reported one as saying. Upon his denial, the invaders forced him at gunpoint to open a small safe containing $140.

A small amount of change was also taken from his mother's room, Gruich said.

Both of the Gruichs were bound and tied together before the thugs left in a car, according to Mrs. Gruich.

Mrs. Gruich said she managed to free her hands, helping to unloose her son, so that he was able to call police by 12:50 a.m.

Dorm Is Stormed; Policeman Killed; 488 Are Arrested

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — White-helmeted police, firing as they ran, stormed a men's dormitory at Texas Southern University today and halted student snipers who created a no-man's land on campus. A rookie patrolman was killed and two officers and a student wounded.

Police took 488 men students to jail and worked to discover which had fired the shot which killed Lewis R. Kuba, 25, who graduated from the Police Academy a month ago. Kuba was shot between the eyes in the first assault wave against the dormitory which sheltered the snipers' nest.

Kuba died about 7½ hours after he was shot.

Four hours and 3,000 police bullets after the first peppering of gunfire and the explosion of four crudely-made fire bombs, officers secured the dormitory. They smashed down doors in their search for weapons and suspects, found one pistol, one shotgun and one rifle.

The incident began late last night when police entered the campus to watch students recruiting others for a candlelight demonstration at a city dump which Negroes living in the area want closed.

Tax Move Seen in State Senate

LANSING (AP) — The Senate was set to take a second stab today at trying to agree on a tax reform package — Gov. George Romney's main objective for the 1967 legislative session.

Separate caucuses of Democrats and Republicans were scheduled to huddle at 10:30 a.m.

The tax package, built around a personal income tax, has been reshaped in the Senate Taxation Committee headed by Sen. Harry Demaso, R-Battle Creek.

"I don't know what will happen but I'm optimistic," Demaso said. "It could be it will be reported out today."

"But I won't report it out until I'm sure I have 20 votes or more," he said.

NUMBER NEEDED

The 20 votes is the number needed for passage in the Senate.

On the first try, the Romney tax reform package failed by a 23-14 vote.

Senators have been busy trying to compromise and horse trade on a tax bundle that could receive a majority vote this time.

Rep. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, majority leader in the Senate, delayed the caucus until some members returned from a visit to Expo '67 at Montreal.

Lockwood met privately yesterday with Romney but refused to say what the session was about.

He claimed they were talking about plans for attending the Holland Tulip Festival. Best educated guess was the two were getting together on last minute tax strategy.

Reaction from the membership will decide whether the bill, kept secret by Demaso, is reported out and explained in detail.

Demaso said his timing probably was too early in the first try.

A House attempt at passing tax reform also failed, but members still have kept a tax package alive.

Warming to Continue

The warming trend bringing temperatures into the 60s today will continue with the low tonight in the 40s.

The weatherman predicts partly sunny and warmer with the high 64 to 68 tomorrow.

There's a chance of showers Friday through the weekend with precipitation totaling about one-half inch.

The low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 48. The mercury registered 69 at 1 p.m.

FOR THEIR GALLANT SON — Mr. and Mrs. Peter Orlando of 2488 Yorkshire, Birmingham, accept the Navy Cross from Adm. Alfred G. Ward in ceremonies at Shain

By ED BLUNDEN

"His body was found next to the wounded Marine he was aiding . . . conduct in the highest tradition of his country . . ."

The admiral's words were spoken in Shain Park downtown Birmingham yesterday as the parents of the dead man stood with bowed heads.

Flags on either side fluttered in the spring breeze as color guards and a Navy contingent stood at attention.

They were there to honor Samuel Orlando of 2488 Yorkshire, killed March 4, 1966, by a mortar explosion on a Vietnamese battlefield at the age of 21.

Adm. Alfred G. Ward presented the parents with the Navy Cross, the service's second highest award.

In addition, the Birmingham pair were given three medals from the nation their son was defending — the Vietnamese Medal for Gallantry, Gallantry Cross with Palm and Military Merit Medal.

City officials also read tributes to the heroism of the resident of their community.

He was the family's second youngest son, the others being Peter, 34, Carlo, 29, and Tom, 21. He also has twin sisters, Susan and Angela, 17.

His citation said that while serving as a medical aide, he brought up machine gun ammunition for the embattled Marine unit and was tending a wounded comrade when death struck.

Sisters' Plight Brings Appeal for Housing

By DAVID J. COOK

Discovery in Pontiac of two elderly sisters living on $80 a month in a house with no inside plumbing has triggered an urgent plea from a city official.

James L. Jackson, relocation officer for Pontiac's department of planning and urban renewal, appealed for public help in finding "a clean standard living unit" for the two women.

The sisters — Mrs. Frank Gordon,

82, and Miss Blanche Armstrong, 65 — live at 418 Howland in a house built in 1928 by Mrs. Gordon's late husband.

The house has a single cold-water tap on a rear porch.

The kitchen as well as the other three rooms in the building are lined with rags stuffed in cracks to keep out the cold.

'SOCIAL PROBLEM'

The two sisters have lived together since Mrs. Gordon's husband died in 1949. Their closest living relatives are cousins and nephews — whom Mrs. Gordon says she rarely sees.

Jackson, in an open letter, termed the sisters' situation "a social problem that must be corrected."

"Relocation of families is not an uncommon problem," he said, "but this particular condition is urgent."

Attempts to find housing for the two women, Jackson said, have been made difficult by the city's present housing shortage as well as the sisters' limited income.

'SHOULD BE CONDEMNED'

Although Mrs. Gordon's home is neither in a designated code enforcement area nor an urban renewal area, the sisters' plight was called to city attention in March by District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr.

WHERE THE MONEY WAS — Dan Gruich, 54, of 3608 28 Mile Road, Washington Township, surveys the small safe from which three masked thugs took $140 last night. "We know you've got $40,000 to $50,000 here," they reportedly told Gruich who lives with his 77-year-old mother.

City Commissioners Accept Land Offer

Faced with the threat of a lawsuit and city officials as well court fight, city commissioners as the State Highway Department voted 6-1 last night to accept a $140,000 offer from a development firm purchasing city-owned property in Avon Township.

Affirmative action by the commission overrode objections by District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson that the city was "selling out its principles" by settling the contract with Star-Batt Corp.

The vote ended nearly a year of wrangling between the city engineering and legal staffs and developer Steve Stolaruk over a 71-acre parcel of land in the Crooks-proposed M59 area.

Stolaruk had bid $190,000 — $25,000 above the next highest bidder — in obtaining the land last June.

Since that time, disagreements have erupted among Stolaruk and city officials as well as the State Highway Department over land-grading done on the property.

Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and service, and Sherwin M. Birnkrant, director of law, each recommended that commissioners close Stolaruk's contract by accepting an offer from him to pay outright the purchase balance of $140,000.

Hudson opposed the settlement, declaring, "Even though it may cost the city money, somewhere along the line we've got to fight for what we believe in."

Noting that disagreements existed in areas where the contract was admittedly vague, however, District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin urged that commissioners "act as reasonable men."

"We can spend a lot of money," he said, "trying to force our interpretation of the contract."

on three controversial programs — rent subsidies, a model cities project and participation sales certificates — but are reserving some potshots for such other projects as urban renewal and mass transportation grants.

The house ended general debate on the bill Tuesday but put off voting on amendments until today because many members were absent.

The Appropriations Committee last week cut the rent subsidy program 75 per cent and lopped off more than 60 per cent of the funds the administration requested for the model cities program. Its members hoped to hold the line there.

SUBSIDY PROGRAM

The rent subsidy program approved in 1965 calls for the government to supplement rents paid to owners of private housing by eligible low-income families. In two years the program has been financed with $2 million.

President Johnson asked for $40 million to keep the program moving next year but the Appropriations Committee cut this to $10 million. Rep. Glenn R. Davis, R-Wis., said he expected strong GOP backing for an amendment to knock out all the money.

For the model cities program, devised to help selected cities develop and carry out plans to rebuild slums and blighted areas, the President requested a total of $682 million. The committee approved $237 million, including $12 million for planning grants.

Rep. Paul Fino, R-N.Y., said he would seek to eliminate all but the $12 million for planning. He told the House the program was designed to "promote social change and upheaval."

Dick Gregory Offers Advice To Jovial West Bloomfield Audience

Be Honest, Gregory Urges U.S.

America is on the verge of collapse if it does not wake up and be honest with itself, entertainer Dick Gregory warned 1,800 people in Bloomfield Hills last night.

"The basic problem in this country is not being honest," Gregory told a jovial crowd at an Oakland Community College lecture series at Bloomfield Hills High School.

"The struggle is between right and wrong and not white and blacks," Gregory, a Chicago nightclub comedian and active civil rights advocate, advised "white folk and silly colored people" to wake up and tell the truth.

Among those who accused of hiding or distorting the truth were the press, the Johnson administration and Negroes themselves.

He condemned weekly news magazines with sparkling riots with annual pre-summer predictions where trouble will strike.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE

Gregory, who plans to be a write-in candidate in the 1968 presidential election, is an outspoken critic of United States intervention abroad.

He said if he was elected president it would be a "hip thing," Gregory would cut off all foreign aid and concentrate on domestic problems in "the No. 1 racist country on earth."

"No one in their right mind would want this country with her record in Vietnam to guard their freedom," he remarked. "We can't give instant freedom."

He had satirical jokes about Vietnam too: "I told Muhammad Ali to put 'murder' as his occupation on his draft papers. We don't send murderers to Vietnam. You have to be nonviolent to go there to kill."

The comedian, who recently ran on a write-in ticket for mayor of Chicago, is most famous for his cracks on civil rights.

"I asked my daughter why she didn't believe in Santa Claus. She said 'No white man would come into our neighborhood after midnight.'"

Gregory had this to say on other topics:

"Stokely Carmichael (black power advocate) is the best thing that ever happened to this country whether you like it or not."

"If my five daughters grow up with half as much dignity as Muhammad Ali, I will feel I have been successful as his father."

"There is a complete lack of relations between police and the community."

"I will never kill for America, but I will die for it."

Parking Ban for Maple Goes Into Effect Friday

BIRMINGHAM — A 30-day ban on parking along Maple in the central business district during the afternoon traffic rush will go into effect Friday. The ban, which is intended as a test toward relieving traffic congestion on the city's major east-west road, was ordered by city commissioners Monday.

During the trial period, parking will be prohibited Monday through Saturday between the hours of 4 and 6:30 p.m. from Chester to Hunter.

The action was taken on the suggestion of Mayor William E. Roberts, who said, "I hear over and over again that things are so bad that people are avoiding the town."

Roberts' position was contrary to the view he had taken regarding parking in the past.

"The peak load has not increased over the past three years, but only because the street cannot handle it," Robert said.

The only commissioner opposing the ban was Robert Page. Page argued that the test should be conducted this fall if the city is to get a true evaluation.

A test at this time runs into the summer vacation period when traffic is at a low point, according to Page.

Knowles Smith, manager of the Birmingham - Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce agreed with Page, and added that the removal of parking now will only add to the confusion of motorists when several downtown construction projects get underway.

City Manager Robert L. Kenning said today that cardboard placards will be installed on the parking meters alerting motorists of the new parking regulations. Violators will have their cars towed away.

65 SPACES

Approximately 65 parking spaces are affected by the order but Kenning noted that the city's new parking structure is only a block away, at Woodward and Willis.

In addition to the month-long ban, Kenning said that there may be times when parking will be removed along Maple this summer to ease congestion caused by construction on the ring road, and the installation of several sewer mains.

A-Blast Film Is Still Barred

Taken by Japanese, Confiscated by Yanks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has suppressed for nearly 22 years confiscated Japanese films showing ghastly after-effects of the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima, U.S. officials revealed today.

The Japanese government has asked at least twice that restrictions on the film be lifted, but the U.S. government has refused on grounds it might damage U.S.-Japanese relations, said the informants.

Called in Japan "The Film of Illusion" because it wasn't supposed to exist, the film was taken by Tokyo University scientists rushed to Hiroshima soon after the bombing, the sources said.

The officials, who declined identification, said the Japanese scientists still were at work filming in the devastated city when U.S. officials arrived in Hiroshima and confiscated the film.

Sisters' Plight Stirs Plea

"We made an inspection of the home at that time," City sanitarian Charles Cohen recalled, "and the need was pretty obvious — the house should be condemned and torn down."

"I'd guess the building was substandard when it was built," Cohen said the house is the only one he knows of in Pontiac which lacks inside plumbing required by city ordinance.

"There's no question the building should be condemned," he said, "and I think it's something we would do in a hurry if it would do any good."

SIGN ON THE DOOR

"Without any place for these women to go, though, a condemnation notice would do no more than put a sign on the door."

Code enforcement procedure requires posting of an official condemnation notice prior to any demolition. Persons forced to move by condemnation normally receive relocation assistance from the city.

Rehabilitation of the dwelling, Cohen said, would probably cost more than the home is worth. "The cost of plumbing itself would exceed the value of the house, even if a way was found to pay for the plumbing."

The situation is aggravated by the failing health of both women, according to Jackson.

Mrs. Gordon receives a monthly check of $80 for old-age assistance from the Bureau of Social Services.

A Probate Court hearing yesterday determined that a monthly $40 check due Miss Armstrong had not been received by the sisters since last November.

James R. Stelt, probate registrar, said discovery of the missing checks had resulted in changing of Miss Armstrong's guardianship from a nephew to a court-designated attorney.

In addition, he said the nephew had agreed to make full restitution of $160 which admittedly never was disbursed to the younger sister.

Restoration of the second welfare check will help, according to Mrs. Gordon.

"I don't believe we really require 'so much,' she said. "But sometimes it's hard to see when we can keep going, especially during the winter."

"My husband worked so hard on the house — I hate to see it go."

"Sure I'd like a better place," she said, when asked about moving from the home.

"But I just can't see where we can go."

Oxford Twp. Crash Kills 2, Injures 7

The county road toll was further boosted early today when a 21-year-old man injured in a crash Monday in Highland Township died in St. Joseph Hospital.

Thomas F. Murphy of 327 Livingston died about 5 a.m., according to authorities.

He was a passenger in a car which went out of control on Millford Road and smashed into a utility pole.

That mishap claimed the life of 19-year-old Norwood Caswell of 2224 Davista, driver of the car, who died yesterday.

A second passenger, Jackie E. Lanning, 21, of 5109 Rippleway was reported in satisfactory condition.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Showers are forecast tonight for the northern Plains and parts of the Southwest. It will be warmer in the South and cooler in the northern Plains.

Commission Votes to Alter Minors' Code

City commissioners voted 5-1 last night to amend a city ordinance which presently forbids minors between 18 and 21 to work in restaurants and taverns serving alcoholic beverages.

Resolution to accept the amendment for first reading came on the heels of an opinion from the state attorney general's office that the city statute was in conflict with state law.

District 6 Commissioner Wesley J. Wood opposed the amendment, declaring he "couldn't go along" with regulations permitting minors to work in bars.

MARSHALL WOOD

District 7 Commissioner James H. Marshall obtained from voting, asserting the state was "asinine in forbidding patronization of bars (by minors) but permitting them to work there."

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr., while supporting the amendment, each voiced opposition to the state regulation.

CHALLENGED

Commissioners, who voted 4-3 in February to uphold the restrictive ordinance, were challenged at that time by a group of local tavern owners, many of whom cited a shortage of bus boys and waitresses.

In another resolution, commissioners expressed intent of changing to University Drive what is now Mount Clemens Street.

Public hearing on the proposal, first advanced by Oakland University Chancellor Durward B. Varner, was set for June 13.

Present city plans, pending formal enactment, call for a two-year transition of Mount Clemens to University Drive, with dual street-sign posts during that period.

AID VISITORS

Varner had suggested the change as an aid to visitors and other motorists in reaching the university from Pontiac and from Interstate 75.

Designation of a new University Drive would apparently necessitate name-changing of University Street on the city's north side.

A proposed amendment to the city's litter ordinance was received from the Civic Improvement Advisory Committee (CIAC) and referred to the city's legal department.

The amendment would impose restrictions on persons who allow litter or refuse to be blown or otherwise carried from their property to adjoining homes and businesses.

MONTH NAMED

The CIAC recommendations asked adoption of the amendment in conjunction with "Make Pontiac Beautiful Month," designated by the commission last night as May 20-June 20.

Commissioners were notified by City Manager Joseph A. Warren of a pending Public Service Commission hearing next Monday on proposed improvements to the Grand Trunk Western Railroad crossing on Rapid.

The intersection is presently signaled only by lights and bells.

Warren, citing figures which showed a daily traffic volume of some 4,000 vehicles, said Grand Trunk officials had agreed to consideration of the project.

Crossing gates, Warren said, should be installed at the double-track intersection.

Strike Is Settled

DETROIT (AP) — A two-week strike by Detroit area carpet and tile layers ended Tuesday when members of Resilient Floor Layers Local 2265 ratified a new three-year contract. The new pact provides for a $1.42 per hour pay raise over the three years, plus fringe benefits. The old pact, which expired May 1 when the strike began, provided a $1.28 per hour wage.

DOT Chief Faces Quiz on Rail Union Offer Rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman demanded today that Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd explain why the government rejected a rail union offer to move essential goods if a nationwide railroad strike occurs.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald,

D-Mass., a ranking member of the House Commerce Committee, said in an interview he would ask his committee chairman, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., to recall Boyd. The committee is considering President Johnson's plan to avoid a strike.

MacDonald had strongly urged government consideration of the offer by the shopcraft unions.

Boyd and other government officials met at the Pentagon Monday night with the union officials. Afterward, he said the union offer was "not practical, feasible or economical."

CONCLUSION

Boyd added the government representatives had concluded "the suggested operation would create a situation which could only be described as chaos," with no movement of essential defense or public health goods on any schedule.

"He must have gone into the meeting with a closed mind," MacDonald said today, "because he used about the same words after it that he used in answers to my questions last week."

GAS FIRE ROARS — Black smoke billows from roaring propane gas fire at the Ford Motor Co. River Rouge Complex in Dearborn yesterday. Firemen play hoses into excavation where drilling rig (left) struck

Romney Acts to Delay School Spending

LANSING (AP) — Saying "I'm going to tighten down the batches until the Legislature gives us tax reform," Gov. George Romney has acted to delay educational spending.

"This is notice to the school people that we have a problem and are going to face it," Romney said Tuesday after delaying the taking of bids for nearly $10 million in construction at four state colleges.

But the governor was rebuffed in his attempt to control advance school aid funds.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley settled an issue over advance aid funds by ruling that Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, has power to advance the funds.

'SURPLUS DWINDLING'

Romney said he sidetracked the construction plans for the state colleges and wanted power over the advance funds because the treasury surplus is dwindling and the Legislature has not adopted his tax reform proposals.

Romney warned that more delays in proposed college construction could come.

In the tug of war with Polley over advance funds, Romney quoted the State Constitution's section which says, "No appropriation shall be a mandate to spend."

State Treasurer Allison Green asked for a formal ruling from the attorney general, but said that if Polley decided to approve the advances his office would have to pay them.

CONSEQUENCES

"The money's there," Green said. "We'll have to give it out."

Romney asked what the consequences would be if the treasurer refused to honor the advance vouchers.

"The school district could get a court order to force him to produce the money," Kelley said.

Green said school aid advance last year totaled some $70 million.

Polley said he would discuss the matter with members of the State Board of Education at a meeting next Tuesday.

"I haven't made an irrevocable decision," he said. "I will look at this matter from the

'IRRESPONSIBLE'

Romney contends that advances from the general fund of $130 million of school aid fund, already $80 million in the red, would be financially irresponsible unless the Legislature takes affirmative action on fiscal reform.

"I am absolutely opposed to it advances," Romney said. "We can't meet the needs of the people on the basis of financial irresponsibility."

He accused Polley of adopting "grasshopper economics."

"The grasshopper looks around and sees the sun shining and eats all he can find," Romney said. "He doesn't think of the winter when he'll have troubles finding anything at all to eat."

Flaming Propane Traps Six at Ford Rouge Plant; 1 Dies

DEARBORN (AP) — A pile driver ruptured a propane gas line leading to an underground storage cavern inside the Ford Motor Co.'s giant Rouge complex Tuesday, trapping six men in a flaming pit.

One man was killed, five others were burned, four critically. A seventh man escaped unharmed.

Wilbur LaRue, 25, of Horton, Ala., died of burns shortly after the blaze broke out. He was trapped in the cab of the seared pile driver.

Listed in critical condition at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital "with extremely extensive burns" were Hugh McGovern, 57, Skokie, Ill.; Harold Franklin, 43, Inkster, Mich.; Estelle Perry, 43, Melvindale, Mich., and Robert Runge, 38, Taylor, Mich.

'NOT SERIOUS'

A hospital spokesman said Charles Sites, 49, of Cahokia, Ill., was less badly burned. His condition was described as "not serious."

"I heard a pop and felt heat on my back so I started to run," said Currie Roberson, 47, of Detroit, a construction worker. "When I turned around, the flames were 30 feet in the air."

The five men who survived managed to scramble to safety, up the 20-foot embankment of the excavation, future site of a Ford steel mill.

"I looked up and the whole pit was burning," said Gottfried Puller, 27, a construction engineer for Raymond Concrete Pile Co. of Chicago.

80,000 BARRELS

The ruptured gas line led to a cavern with a capacity equal to 80,000 barrels of liquid propane. The gas was stored in an underground cavern, once a salt mine.

Marathon Oil Co. leased the land from Ford and used this and several other nearby caverns to store the highly flammable gas, used chiefly for fuel and the manufacture of chemicals.

2 City Youths Arrested at Break-In Site

Two Pontiac youths were arrested for investigation of breaking and entering early today at the scene of a break-in at a city bowling alley.

Police said Lawrence McCauley, 19, and James Whittaker Jr., 19, both of 19 Exchange, were found in a room at Westside Lanes, 199 Orchard Lake, during a search of the establishment about 4:45 a.m.

Police received a report that a burglary was in progress about 3 a.m. and found a rear door to the building open when they arrived.

Investigators said McCauley and Whittaker were found in a liquor locker.

Some $70 in change was reported stolen from coin-operated machines and damage to property was estimated at about $175.

Mother Asks What to Do in Situation

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: We have just redecorated our living room and I keep the furniture covered with plastic, primarily because we have four lively youngsters.

Naturally the covers are removed when I am expecting guests, but occasionally someone just drops in. I wonder whether it is proper to use the furniture with the plastic or to remove them before seating my unexpected guests.—Mrs. Sparasino.

Dear Mrs. Sparasino: You're really stuck if someone drops in when the plastic covers are on. If you start rushing around and removing them, the guest will feel terribly uncomfortable, and you'll feel the same way if you leave them on and suspect she's thinking they look awful.

Could you remove some covers when the children are at school or out, so that should the doorbell ring, you could delay a moment while you snatch off the others? Otherwise, don't take them off; just explain the reason for them to your guests.

Mamie Sees Tribute to 'Ike'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower has reviewed a spectacular lifetime of memories as more than 800 celebrated well-wishers honored her husband.

Society, at least a large Republican segment of it, put on its best starched bibs and ties, chiffon, furs and jewels Tuesday night for a charity benefiting Eisenhower College, to be opened in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was unable to attend because of illness.

"He's still very weak," Mrs. Eisenhower said, "and I'd rather he'd stay where he is. At least he'll take orders there."

Eisenhower is in Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington where he is reported progressing satisfactorily from his bout with a gastro-intestinal ailment.

IN CHIFFON

"Oh, my goodness, this does bring back memories," said Mamie, in glittering yellow chiffon.

Ike's vice president, Richard M. Nixon now a New York lawyer, returned from a Latin-American tour just in time for the occasion.

Nixon's wife, Pat, shivered in a sheer blue gown and shoulder

boa of mink along with the benefit's chairman, Mrs. Edwin I. Hilton, without a wrap, as they awaited the arrival of a limousine with honored guests.

As the Eisenhower family got out of the first limousine, the band struck up the National Anthem. Preceding Mamie were her son, John, Barbara, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the general's brother, and the latter's son, Milton Jr.

After the welcome ceremonies and applause from the crowd Mamie gleefully hugged Mrs. Nixon, kissed and shook hands with friends as she made her way into the gallery.

The next limousine brought the Duke of Windsor and his duchess, bejeweled in diamonds and emeralds.

A sure sign of spring is a plant sale. This one was sponsored by the Oakland branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association for members and guests Tuesday in the Troy home of Mrs. Archie Coran. From left is branch education chairman, Mrs. G. F. Ward of Birmingham with the speaker of the day, Mrs. Robert Weeks of Trenton, Michigan division horticultural chairman. Proceeds from the sale-dessert meeting will be given to a Michigan State University student for a full one-year scholarship.

Too Thin at 220 Pounds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, went to New York to try out for a part in a Broadway musical. She is a very beautiful and talented girl. She is a little on the heavy side right now, but the part called for a girl who weighed at least 200 pounds and could dance. Well, my daughter weighed 220 pounds and she is a wonderful dancer.

ABBY

When she got there she was told she was too THIN! She spent her own money for the trip and was terribly disappointed. Inasmuch as she met the qualifications, can't she sue for the cost of the trip?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Any one can sue for anything he wishes. But whether he can collect is something else. Too bad she didn't get the job, but I'm sure it was worth a lot to a 220 pound girl to be told she was "too thin" for something.

DEAR ABBY: I am fast losing my faith in my friends. I have just gone through an operation that has altered my facial expression. Part of my face is permanently paralyzed.

The operation was easy to endure compared to the pain I have suffered from the remarks of some of my friends.

One woman said "Now you will know how the rest of us plain Janes feel. Welcome to the club."

Another said, "It will be harder for you than the average woman to adjust to being homely. That's one of the penalties of having had good looks and suddenly losing them."

Abby, I have never been vain about my looks, knowing that real beauty comes from within.

I am horrified at these so-called condolences in the name of friendship.

HURT

DEAR HURT: If those who have made the remarks you quoted are your "friends," I would say that you would be much happier without their friendship.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HATES TO HURT HIM" IN HOUSTON: You don't have to be a doctor to know that a little iodine now is preferable to an amputation later. Say "good-bye," and don't look back.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Birmingham Residents

Are on the Move Again

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Mrs. Charles H. Bay, who has been the house guest of her brother and sister-in-law, the Donald Bays of Lone Pine Road, left this weekend, motoring to San Francisco to join her son and daughter-in-law, the George H. Bays.

Traveling with her was Mrs. Lyle Torrey (formerly of Detroit) who resides in Phoenix, Ariz. where Mrs. Bay will spend a few weeks before going to California.

While here, Mrs. Bay spent a weekend in Oscoda with the Donald Bays at their home there.

Friends are awaiting the arrival this week of the Edward S. Wellocks who have been at their winter home in Hawaii.

First on their active agenda is the dinner the John D. Richardsons Jr. are giving in their honor Friday evening.

The J. Robert F. Swansons had a busy weekend with international friends as their house guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Rocha of Cordova, Argentina, had many interesting things planned for them while they were here. Rocha is studying architecture at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jaime Rocha with whom the Swansons spent some happy days while visiting Argentina last year.

CONFIRMATION

Elmer Sylvester recently attended the confirmation of his granddaughter, Mary Beth, daughter of the Frank K. Littles in Columbus, Ohio. Accompanying him were two other grandchildren, Bonnie and Chris Beresford, whose parents are the William Beresfords.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Babcock are back in their home after spending two weeks in Biscayne, Fla.

On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Downey and the Alfred Girards will be joint hosts for a dinner dance at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

LOCAL ARTIST

Svea Kline, Birmingham artist who has just completed her commission of outside murals on the new Berkeley library, leaves for Sweden June 25 to visit her sister, Maud Kline in Stockholm.

The two women will be doing some traveling together after Maud meets her sister in Copenhagen.

On May 27 between 2-4 p.m. Svea Kline will have a "backyard artist sale" at the Svea Studio on Brownell Street.

WEA Group Backs Two in Waterford

The legislative body of the Waterford Education Association has endorsed school board candidates Michael G. Patterson and Lewis S. Long. Patterson, 29, of 6329 Grace K and Long, 40, of 5657 Brunswick are two of 11 candidates for board positions in the Waterford Township School District's June 12 election. Patterson is seeking a three-year term, while Long is vying for a four-year post. The legislative body, which consists of 65 district school teachers, did not endorse anyone for the other four-year post at stake in the election. Antiaggression Pill Is Next, Says Prof

By Science Service MONTREAL — Just as there are now drugs to kill pain, cut down anxiety or cure depression, within 20 years there will be a pill to reduce aggression. This prediction was made at a seminar for science writers here by Dr. Heinz Lehmann, psychiatry professor at McGill University. The forecast is based on the orderly procession that has been made in chemically altering human reactions. Pain was the first to be conquered by drugs.

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Air Force casualty evacuation teams trained specially to rush the wounded from large-scale battles to rear medical facilities have made their South Vietnam debut. The first 13-man team was in action for the bloody battles between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese regulars for three key peaks in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam. The team had been positioned in Da Nang and was ordered to Khe Sanh, about 100 miles away at 1 p.m. on April 26 as Marine casualties poured in from the fighting for Hill 681. The airmen — nine medics, two officers, a radio operator and an administrator — pitched their two tents beside the Marines' casualty staging area and went to work. BACK AND FORTH Throughout the fighting for Hill 681, helicopters shuttled from the battle to Khe Sanh with wounded and dying Marines. In one pitched battle 50 Marines died and 150 were wounded. The Air Force team had originally expected to maintain a 25-patient facility, but as casualties mounted on April 30 four

We worked right through and had our first food when a Marine mess sergeant brought over some wieners and bread about 8 p.m." The evacuation team at Khe Sanh is one of three that came to Vietnam last March. Cox's team was the first to go into the field. The second one is on alert at Cam Ranh Bay and the third is stationed at the headquarters in Phu Cat on the central coast.
