Describe Night Construction

Cuban Rebels Tell of Rocket Pads

MIAMI (UPI)—Russian troops saw rocket installation in Cuba are "steadily growing," particularly along the northern coast, closest to the United States, newly arrived Cuban underground members said today.

Members of the Cuban freedom fighters organization gave details on Russian activity in the area around Calbarien, a key port on the northern Las Villas coast.

They were among a group of 21 persons, including eight women and seven children, who escaped the island in a 33-foot sailboat last week and reached the Florida Keys after a four-day journey.

There are approximately 10,000 Soviet troops in the Calbarien zone alone, the freedom fighters—who declined to permit use of their names—said.

They said Russians command troops in tracking down rebel forces and there also are "foreign troops" used. "Some of them look like Mongolians," one of the arrivals said.

"The Russians use Cuban militia uniforms and also Cuban army uniforms," he added.

"There is tremendous construction activity in the Calbarien area and even on the three keys off Calbarien," said another. "Most of it is done at night and the construction areas are for the most part off limits to Cubans."

The three keys are Fraguero, Frances and Santa Maria. They are from 12 to 20 miles offshore.

"On Fraguero Key, which was virtually uninhabited, intense construction work has been going on for the past nine months on some kind of fortification or installation," said the freedom fighter.

"Only the Russians are allowed in there."

On Frances Key similar construction is in progress, and on Santa Maria Key "a gigantic excavation is being dug in the exact center of the island," the Cuban said. "Work is done only at night."

The anti-Castro rebels said similar night construction also was going on at Vinas, near Remedios, about five miles in from the coast.

Russians, Chinese Fail to Show Up for Debates

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet and Chinese negotiators failed to appear today at the hilltop villa Communist party would make where they have been debating their ideological differences.

Normally the two delegations arrive in black limousines shortly before 10 a.m. but today they were not seen and no immediate explanation of their failure to appear.

Western observers speculated that the talks, which have been in progress at the villa much of the time since the Chinese arrived last Friday, may have been recessed again.

There was a recess on Tuesday, reportedly because the Chinese were awaiting instructions from Peking following an attack from the Chinese by the Soviet Communist party central committee. Some Soviets appeared at the villa Tuesday, but the Chinese did not. Today, neither the Soviets nor the Chinese came.

Neither the Chinese embassy in Moscow nor the Soviet embassy in Peking had any comment about what might be happening today.

But the Soviet news agency Tass announced that Premier Khrushchev and Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar had a conference in the Kremlin this morning. Details were not released.

Peking kept up a drumfire of implied criticism of Khrushchev's arrival last Friday, may have been recessed again.

Peking's New China news agency reprinted an editorial from the controlled Kwangming Daily attacking President Kennedy's "peaceful strategy," articles from Peking following an attack from the Chinese by the Soviet Communist party central committee. Some Soviets appeared at the villa Tuesday, but the Chinese did not. Today, neither the Soviets nor the Chinese came.

Booing British Harass Queen

LONDON (AP)—British officials were stunned today that Queen Elizabeth II was booed by demonstrators protesting the state visit of King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece.

Communist, anarchist and bomb-demonstrators shouted invectives at the royal party as it entered and left a gala theatrical performance last night.

Elizabeth, visibly shaken, drove off alone and unaccompanied to Buckingham Palace instead of attending a government reception with the royal visitors and her husband, Prince Philip.

Home Secretary Henry Brooke, the man in charge of Britain's police, declared in a statement:

"The Queen of England was booed tonight, and I am furious."

"I never thought such a thing would happen in Britain. I don't know when it last happened that a reigning monarch was given such treatment."

The demonstration was organized by the "Committee of 100 Against Tyranny" to demand freedom for what they call Greek political prisoners. The Greek government calls them murderers and traitors convicted of crimes in the civil war that broke out at the end of World War II.

HEARS APPEAL

Premier Panayotis Pipiliotis of Greece saw one of the chief instigators of the demonstrations, Betty Ambatielos, today. He promised to give King Paul her appeal for release of her husband, Tony, from prison. Mrs. Ambatielos immediately said she would take no further part in the demonstrations.

Mrs. Ambatielos, 45, is a British Communist, a school teacher, and wife of a Greek Communist who has spent 18 years in prison.

Aviatrix Nosed Out by a Chimp

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Aviatrix Jerrie Cobb of Oklahoma says she once tried to swap places with a chimpanzee named Glenda so she could become the first woman astronaut.

But, said the pilot, female chimps get better treatment from National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials than female humans do. NASA rejected her offer.

Miss Cobb, 31, replied to "remarks made yesterday in San Diego by Lt. Col. John A. Powers, NASA public affairs officer."

Powers said "the so-called qualified women are qualified by their own standards... We haven't found a woman in the country who is totally qualified."

Miss Cobb said there are more reasons for putting women in space than men. She said tests have proved women—physiologically—are more adaptable to space environment than men are.

"This is not a battle of the sexes—we're talking about human beings, not just men and women," she said.

(See Jerrie Cobb series, "Women in Space," on Page C4).

by their chief negotiator, J. E. Wolfe, and his top aides.

The principal staff-up business was making staff arrangements for the study and preparation of the report.

The key point in obtaining the delay for the board's work was agreement by the railroads to hold off on application of the new manpower-cutting work rules. The unions had said they would strike at once if the changes were made.

Today's meeting began up after an hour and a half. Asst. Secretary James J. Reynolds, the Labor Department's labor-management relations specialist, said carriers and rail unions agreed to begin preliminary assembling of material.

Only the board members—not the railroad and union representatives—are expected to go on hand when work is resumed Friday morning.

Reynolds said the committee will try for completion of its report to the President by July 20, two days before the date when Kennedy plans to submit the findings and his own recommendations to Congress.

Kennedy's appointment of the special study committee, the climax of a day of intense activity in the White House, was his second surprise announcement in the rail dispute in two days.

U Thant Visits Pontiff

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI received U.N. Secretary-General U Thant today in a 30-minute private audience.

Their discussion was not disclosed. Thant is winding up a two-week European tour.

case is the inclusion of Livingston County with Pontiac and most of Oakland County in the new 19th District.

Livingston's county setup would be smaller than the 19th District organization shared with Oakland. But an informal county-wide organization in Oakland would be more populace than the district because it also would cover the 18th.

The redistricting reduced the 18th from its former county-wide size to the county's southeast corner south of 20-Mile Road (South Boulevard) and east of Inkster Road. Though much smaller in area than the 19th, the 18th leads in population—382,526 to 346,226.

Livingston's population of some 41,000 is about one-eighth of the district's.

PROBLEM SOLUTION

How Democrats will resolve the problems of reorganization while setting up congressional district organizations will depend largely on the study committee's recommendations, Levin said.

Some County Republicans, including Lyle, are talking about seeking new legislation to establish formal county organizations.

Also appointed were State Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac; UAW International representative William Jenkins and County Board of Supervisors member John Dewar, both of Madison Heights; and Gene Kathy of Royal Oak, business administration college coordinator for the University of Michigan's Dearborn campus.

College Told to Admit Negro

Order Coed Enrolled in S. Carolina U.

From Our News Wires

COLUMBIA, S.C.—Separate orders ending segregation at the University of South Carolina and in public parks operated by the state of South Carolina were issued Wednesday by U.S. District Judge J. Robert Martin of Greenville.

Martin ordered the all-white university to admit Negro coed Henri Monteith of Columbia enrolled at the beginning of the next semester.

In an accompanying order, Martin ordered the state to admit Negroes to all of its 28 state-operated parks by mid-September.

In other racial developments:

In Savannah, Ga., Negroes fought policemen with rocks and sticks, slashed auto tires and broke store windows today in a two-hour melee following a mid-night march by nearly 2,000 demonstrators who were dispersed with tear gas.

HOUSES BURN

In Cambridge, Md., two empty Negro houses went up in flames and white men drove through a Negro section hurling bricks at pedestrians. State and local police were hard put to break up an angry crowd of Negroes who threatened to march into the white neighborhood.

In Washington, it was learned that three Southern governors have accepted invitations to testify before the Senate Commerce Committee on President Kennedy's public accommodations proposal.

Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, George C. Wallace of Alabama and Donald S. Russell of South Carolina are tentatively scheduled to appear late this week or early next week.

'DEEP CRISIS'

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the committee yesterday that continued civil rights protests would bring a deep internal crisis in United States and would affect foreign relations.

In Omaha, a "kneel-in" by a hundred Negroes and a few whites at Omaha's city hall appeared today only to have widened the split with Mayor James Dwork over civil rights.

The demonstrators stood and knelt yesterday while many among them read silently from Bibles.

Birmingham Area News

Award for Finding Girl Slated for Irish Setter

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Rusty, the Gaylord Irish setter dog which found 3-year-old Kari Benjamin in the dense woods of northern Michigan Tuesday, will receive a medal of honor from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA).

A spokesman of ASPCA said today the organization has sent a wire to Rusty's master, gas station attendant Ray Loshaw, saying that the dog will receive the medal and a certificate of merit.

The honor is awarded only four or five times a year.

Rusty led Loshaw to Kari after she had spent a night in the woods near Vanderbilt, about 18 miles north of Gaylord. The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Benjamin, 3623 Darcy.

Rusty's discovery concluded a 25-hour search by more than 500 National Guardsmen, deputy sheriffs, state police troopers, volunteers and six state police dogs.

The ASPCA spokesman said officials of the organization were "thrilled" by reports of Rusty's achievement.

Harris Machus, Birmingham restaurateur for several years, has announced plans for a $500,000 restaurant and cocktail lounge in Bloomfield Township.

The township board has approved a Class C liquor license for the establishment, which Machus expects to be completed within six months.

The luxury-type restaurant will be housed in an extension of the Bloomfield Plaza shopping center on the southwest corner of Telegraph and West Maple.

There are still openings for the last two weeks of Birmingham's day camp program at Springdale Park, according to Recreation Director Donald Martin.

Registrations are now being accepted in the recreation office at the municipal building for Monday through July 25.

Children attend from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays. Activities include outdoor games, crafts, nature lore, quiet games, outdoor cooking and special events.

Drying Kansas Hit by Flood

United Press International

Drought-parched Kansas and Oklahoma farmlands were drenched by downpours that measured as much as 12 inches today and national agencies were ordered out to aid flood refugees.

The Kansas rains sent creeks leaping from their banks. The guardsmen were ordered to aid the tiny community of Gypsum after Spring Creek waters surged to car-top level. City officials moved fire fighting equipment to higher ground.

Most Gypsum homes were on high ground, but four families were forced to flee. Highways in the Gypsum area, located in central Kansas, were cut off by floodwaters.

There was more flooding along the Lower Cottonwood and Smoky Hill rivers.

The heaviest rain, measured at 12 inches, drummed down on Potwin, Kan., south of the flood area.

There was 10 inches of rain in Kansas, Butler County and seven inches at Enid, Okla., where high winds overturned a house trailer and firemen had to rescue 10 families from their swamped homes.

The demonstrators stood and knelt yesterday while many among them read silently from Bibles.

Dies as Car Hits Tree

DETROIT (AP)—James Burke, 26, of Detroit was killed today when his car veered off a Detroit street and struck a tree.

Asked to Drop Districting Suit

DETROIT (AP)—Att. Gen. Frank Kelley asked the United States District Court in Detroit today to dismiss a suit challenging the legislative apportionment provisions of Michigan's new constitution.

"It is my view that this suit is premature and should be dismissed by the court," Kelley said, explaining that the new document does not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1969.

Kelley made his dismissal request in reply to a suit filed by five labor leaders last month.

The original complaint was filed by Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle, AFL-CIO vice president William Marshall and three other officials.

It contended that the new constitution's provisions are illegal under the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, providing for equal protection under the law.

Advises Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mayor racial discrimination by stores, Frank H. Morris of Salisbury, hotels, restaurants and other public, a community where segregation is going forward peacefully under the guidance of a bipartisan commission, counseled senators today against federal compulsion.

The President invited to a late afternoon session at the White House the full active membership of the Business Council, which made up of the heads of scores of the country's larger industrial and financial corporations.

Progress in racial problems must come from the hearts and heads of people," he told the Senate Commerce Committee at a hearing on the administration's bill to prohibit racial discrimination in restaurants, hotels and other private establishments serving the public.

Morris testified he did not question need for such legislation in some communities, but he said that "under this proposed law, there is no inducement to a community to solve its own problems, or to compel its leadership to take up its lead."

"There is no inducement for the blacks and whites of a community to start the talks that are the real hope of future solutions," he added.

Morris was one of two mayors who had been scheduled to testify. However, because of lack of time, the appearance of Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., was postponed to a later date, not yet set.

NEAR VIOLENCE

Salisbury is only 30 miles from Cambridge, Md., scene of racial disorders that recently reached so high a pitch that the governor sent National Guardsmen to maintain order. Atlanta's experience is regarded as a contrast with the violent demonstrations that rocked Birmingham, Ala., in May.

Hospital Fund Drive Drags

MILFORD — Huron Valley Community Hospital fund raisers are still looking for the first of the big spenders.

"What we need is an incentive gift, something to shoot at, something to spearhead our drive," coordinator John Ripplinger said today.

Ripplinger, who said the campaign still has not reached a quotable percentage of its goal, described an incentive gift as one which others might try to equal.

AREA NEWS

He cited another area drive in which a benefactor duplicated funds collected by the solicitors.

"We've gotten a couple $1,000 pledges and one for $1,500, but the rest has been just trickling in," Ripplinger commented.

The solicitors are at the mid-point of their campaign among merchants in Milford. They hoped the drive there would tend impetus to other communities in the area to be served by the 100-bed unit.

Ripplinger said Milford was expected to lead the way because the $1.8 million hospital would be located on a 14-acre site at the corner of Atlantic and Mount Eagle streets in the village.

The general hospital would serve Milford, Rose, Highland, White Lake, Commerce, Novi and Lyon Townships in Oakland County and Green Oak, Brighton and Hartland in Livingston.

"The trouble is that we have no constituency," Ripplinger noted. "When they raise money for churches, they go to members of the congregation. When they raise money for clinics, they go to the patients of the doctors involved."

"But we have to just go out at large and get workers and money where we can."

Ripplinger praised the Milford Jaycees for the work they've been doing in the campaign there, but he noted that most of the other workers are "not making this an all-out effort."

"We trained about 75 or 80 people originally, but if I had to count noses this morning it would be a sad number," he said.

Ripplinger emphasized the hospital association is a nonprofit organization. Neither its solicitors nor its board of directors are being paid for calling on their neighbors.

"We had the advice of professional money raisers at the beginning, but we've been on our own since the end of November," he said.

Hoffa Testifies at Perjury Trial

Says Defendant Did Teamster PR Work

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa testified in federal court yesterday at the trial of a former Beverly Hills publicist accused of inducing a witness to testify falsely before a Senate Rackets Committee hearing.

The defendant, Nate Stein, 50, was alleged to have induced Joel Benton, an advertising man, into giving the committee a false affidavit in 1958 explaining why a Detroit Teamsters local was paid $4,000 in 1955 and 1956.

Hoffa said Stein had done public relations work for the union. He called Stein "a friend of mine" and said he had never met Benton.

The Teamster boss said he had authorized the four Teamster checks to Benton. But Hoffa said he did not know what work Benton had done. Hoffa said he was at the Benton affidavit at the McClellan committee hearing that Benton made a truck count.

Hoffa testified he may have discussed a truck count with Stein. "But I wouldn't try to sit there with all the things I have to do and detail things that happened in 1955."

Stein was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on charges of perjury, intimidating a witness, obstructing the McClellan committee and failing to file a federal income tax return.

PATRICIA SHANNON

Area Couple Un-Skunked by Scents

WALLED LAKE — With mixed emotions, the Leo Wessingers of 2086 Newport are watching the baby skunks they "adopted" grow up and return to their natural habitat.

Back in the woods, the little ones may become aware of their potential in the repelling department.

So far, the Wessingers have been fortunate. They made a home for seven hungry baby skunks after the mother skunk was killed by a car while out foraging for food. Two have already left the confines of the Wessinger home.

Without their mother to instruct them, they seem not to have discovered their unique scents.

Mrs. Wessinger started out by feeding the baby skunks milk. Then, when they got stronger, she switched to Pabulum, and they now have made it all the way up to Spam, roast beef and potatoes.

The skunks live under cardboard boxes turned upside down in a bigger carton filled with sawdust.

Wessinger said the animals he is keeping are "good-grade skunks." He said a good-grade skunk becomes nervous only when provoked.

Mrs. Wessinger said she has no plans to keep the skunks. As they prove able to fend for themselves, she intends to wave them off into the woods, one by one.

Holly, Oxford Allowed to Borrow School Funds

Holly and Oxford area school districts have been authorized to borrow operating funds against their anticipated 1963-64 state school aid, the State Office of Public Instruction announced yesterday.

A $150,000 request was approved for Holly while Oxford educators can borrow $80,000.

To Pick Peach Queen on Aug. 9

ROMEIO — Climax of pre-Peach Festival activities will be reached Aug. 9 when a queen is picked to reign over the annual Labor Day weekend celebration.

Vying for the coveted crown will be about a dozen area girls who already hold titles in their own communities.

The contest will be staged at 8 p.m. in the Romeo Youth Center. Chairman is Mrs. Margaret A. Kaiser who also had charge of the Miss Romeo competition July 2.

Candidates for the queen title have already been chosen in Oxford and Utica as well as Romeo and several other Macomb County communities.

CONTEST JULY 28 The first formal Miss Ortonville competition is set for July 28 at Brandon High School.

To be eligible to compete for Peach Queen, girls must be between 17½ and 21 years of age, be single and be named by the town they will officially represent.

Mrs. Kaiser said this year's contest will follow the format of previous years which calls for the title-aspirants to appear on stage twice, once in street wear, then returning in formal attire.

They will be interviewed by a master of ceremonies and later be asked to answer questions extemporaneously.

A panel of out-of-town judges will rate them on poise, personality, beauty, appearance and public speaking ability.

The girls' sole identification in the contest will be by the names of peaches which will be on cards they will carry. Only after the winner and two maids of honor have been picked will all the contestants be introduced by their proper names to the audience.

In charge of the stage setting this year will be Sharon Poljan and Dolores Browaraki, who performed in the same capacity for the Miss Romeo contest.

The 1963 Romeo Peach queen will reign over the 31st annual festival Aug. 31-Sept. 2. During that three-day period she and her-her-tal can be arranged.

court—all the other girls who competed for the crown—will be guests in Romeo homes and participate in all weekend festivities.

Prior to the festival the top three will make numerous public, radio and TV appearances in the Detroit Metropolitan area and perhaps even present peaches to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson if a flight to the nation's capital three-day period she and her-her-tal can be arranged.

Bivouacked Units at Grayling Head Back to Camp Today

CAMP GRAYLING (UPI) — Life becomes simpler for about 4,800 Michigan National Guardsmen today when they climb out of their fox holes, wrap up their pup tents and head back to camp after five days in the field.

Maj. Gen. Cecil L. Simmons, Grand Rapids, commander of the 46th Infantry Division, said the men are slated to be back in camp by 7:30 p.m. and will go into tactical training.

The crash of high explosive shells also started today when the artillery started firing high power ammunition. A National Guard spokesman said the firing is expected to greatly increase the danger of forest fire because of the tinder-dry conditions and the forecast of continuing warm weather.

One unit has been set aside each day to be on standby alert. Ready to fight a fire within minutes, Fire Marshal Col. Gerald Peter Sullivan of St. Clair Shores said.

Army officials predict the 46th Michigan will return from Camp Grayling in five more days with far fewer superior and excellent ratings than the group has won in past years.

Col. Loren E. Bishop, head of the evaluating team charged with scoring division performance, said the fewer top ratings will be due to a revamped system of rating national guard units and not because any change has occurred in the quality of 46th Division training.

Col. Bishop, a 28-year military veteran and senior army advisor to the South Dakota National Guard said, "the standards are the same, but the ground rules for awarding points have been changed."

"This year each unit starts with a rating of 75 points, which the Army considers to be the level the bulk of regular Army National Guard and reserve units can be expected to achieve," he said.

Under this system each unit will be rewarded points for better than average performances and have points subtracted for a poor showing, he said. For an excellent rating each unit must score 10 more points than it loses.

and a few rattlesnakes, in the county park in nearby Richfield Township.

The recovery of the missing loot by FBI agent Fred Wickland ended a search that involved 20 FBI agents, assisted by Genesee County sheriff's detectives.

They had gone to the park after being told by Donald L. Uptegraff, 23, that he stashed his share of the bank loot here before his arrest for the robbery of the Otisville Branch of the Citizens Commercial Savings Bank of Flint.

Some $9,400 of the money taken in the holdup was recovered Tuesday night in the apartment of Robert Warner, 20-year-old Flint bakery worker, police said.

Both men were arraigned in U.S. District Court at Bay City yesterday. They were bound over for examination July 24 on federal bank robbery charges.

Judge Stephen J. Roth ordered them returned to jail at Bay City when they failed to make bond of $15,000 each.

Uptegraff's wife, Marjorie, 18, was released on $1,000 personal bond, pending examination July 24 on a charge of aiding and abetting.

Name Adviser for Elementary School Grades

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The Board of Education has appointed its first full-time elementary counselor, who is also one of the first in the county.

John Whaley, who has been teaching junior high mathematics in the school system for two years, next year will work with kindergarten to eighth grade students referred to him by teachers.

There are 750 elementary students in the district which has no secondary school.

Whaley of 6140 Northrup, Warterford Township, is now working on a masters degree in counseling from Eastern Michigan University.

MSU Coed Hopes to Be Miss Universe

LUDINGTON (UPI) — Pamela Lee Sands left home yesterday to compete as the Michigan entrant in the Miss Universe contest next week at Miami Beach.

The 19-year-old Michigan State University sophomore was given an official sendoff before flying to Florida to begin rehearsing for the world beauty contest July 17-20.

Miss Sands was crowned Miss Michigan-Univers in Detroit last month, winning a $500 wardrobe and other prizes. She also owns 1962 beauty titles of Miss Ludington, Miss Michigan State Fair and Midwest Photo Queen.

She has brown eyes and sun-burn hair, weighs 130 pounds, stands 5 feet, 8 inches tall. Other vital statistics are 34-25-36.

Pamela was born in Grand Rapids but graduated from Ludington high school in 1963. She worked as a dental assistant here in the summer.

Abuse Political Terms at Party Conventions

Before too many months it will be time to have a fresh look at the glossary of much-abused political terms.

In 1960 both Democrats and Republicans were kicking around the term "deadlock." It was about as superficial a term as one could come by.

Looking back on presidential nominating history back to post-Civil War days discloses that the convention deadlock is a fairly rare occurrence. Yet the idea turned up in 1960 more often than the Yanks won a ball game.

Both major party nominees were, of course, chosen in one ballot. Replacing "deadlock" now is "king making." And what a phony.

This covers the man who, by exerting forceful influence, can either determine or affect a convention's choice. The same holds true for the supposedly top brass on the state level.

HARRY TRUMAN tried it in 1956 on behalf of AVERELL HARRIMAN and again in 1960 in aid of Sen. STUART SYMINGTON. He failed because he had no power over delegates.

Now they're saying Dwight Eisenhower and Dick Nixon want to be king makers. When 1964 rolls around, the key question still will be: "Just how many delegates do they control?"

Just who were the "king makers" behind Gov. GEORGE ROMNEY? ROMNEY himself, of course.

Travelers, Investigate Bargain Plane Trips

The recent predicament of a group of 100 anguished Californians marooned in New York en route to Europe on an aerial vacation, points up the risk for vacationers in dealing with irresponsible airlines specializing in charter business.

Experienced hands in the travel business say that the shocking experience of those stranded will be shared by thousands of other charter-plane travelers before fall.

The appeal of such mode of travel lies, of course, in the promise of economy—often half the cost of comparable service by major, scheduled airlines—resulting from group-booking of planes with costs prorated among the excursionists.

Although the Civil Aeronautics Board regulations cover charter flights by all carriers, the fast-back boys seem able to skirt flight specifications, leading in many instances to grief for the pleasure-bound tourists.

Most applicable is the time-tested admonition of the Country's consumer-protection agencies: Before you invest—investigate.

South Pacific Nations Unite Against Reds

The spread of communism around the globe, once the nightmare of democratic and peace-loving countries, has definitely shifted into reverse.

Nations once enamored of Red philosophy and others committed to neutralist positions are asserting policies sympathetic with the West and forming alliances with anti-Communist emphasis.

The latest such alignment links hitherto neutralist Indonesia with strongly pro-Western Malaysia and the Philippines in a consultative confederation aimed to preserve peace and security in the South Pacific.

Communist China was seen as the menace against which the three made common cause. At home, they all have problems with Chinese minorities, and are concerned with threat of Red infiltration of these nuclei.

Moreover, the confederation bids fair to resolve an antecedent union that had disruptive effect among the three countries.

That grouping was the recent action of Malaysia, Singapore and British North Borneo to form the Federation of Malaysia. Malaysia had, of course, led the movement toward such federation, while Indonesia and the Philippines, not members of it, had opposed it.

The accord nearing on Malaysia differences and the decision to form consultative machinery embracing Southeast Asia seem to go far to stabilize a region of 440 million people continuously threatened by the prospect of war.

Railroad Change Is Cause of Battle

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — A few figures and a third pair of eyes give an insight into the change in the railroad industry and into the railroad-union dispute which stems directly from that change.

The railroads argue that in bygone days, when they depended mostly on steam locomotives with their coal-stoked furnaces, they needed firemen far more than now when almost all trains are hauled by oil-burning diesel engines.

In 1940 there were about 40,000 steam locomotives but only about 600 diesel engines. Now there are 20,000 diesel engine units but only 112 steam locomotives.

Therefore, the railroads say, being forced to keep about 40,000 firemen on their payrolls to ride the diesels is strictly featherbedding. They say they would have $500 million a year by dropping the 40,000 firemen. Union says the jobs are needed for safe operations of the trains.

There's a distinction between the 40,000 firemen in diesels hauling freight cars and another 6,000 firemen riding diesels which haul passenger cars. The difference is a third pair of eyes.

On the freight diesel two men ride up front with the engineer: the brakeman and the fireman. The engineer, riding on the right, looks out for everything ahead on his side.

2 PAIRS WATCHING
One of the other two men can watch on the left side. That's two pairs of eyes watching. The railroads say there is no need for a third pair — meaning a fireman's — because the brakeman can watch on the left side.

But on a diesel hauling passenger cars, only the engineer and fireman ride up front.

A 15-man commission appointed by President Eisenhower to dig into this whole railroad-union dispute — for the problem involved much more than firemen — reported to President Kennedy in 1962.

It agreed firemen on freight diesels aren't needed but said firemen on the passenger diesels should be kept. The railroads accepted that. But the commission said far more than this.

It said: The rules and agreements on jobs and working conditions set up long ago by the unions and the railroads are out of date because of modern technology which means, among other things, increased mechanization like diesels.

So the commission recommended the unions and railroads get together and through bargaining bring the whole business of rules, jobs and working conditions up to date. It hasn't happened.

UNIONS BALKED

The five big unions involved — Firemen, Teamsters, Engineers, Conductors and Switchmen — balked at the commission's proposals because all of them, not just the firemen, would be affected, perhaps with the loss of other thousands of jobs.

Yet, this dilemma of increased mechanization — sometimes called automation — has cost unions jobs in other industries, and has had to be faced, perhaps most notably in the case of John L. Lewis' coal miners.

Figures tell that story, too. Just 15 years ago 450,000 men worked in the mines. Today only 125,000 do. In those 15 years the most heavily mechanized and, at the same time, coal production went down because less coal is being used.

Still, thanks to mechanization, the average productivity of the individual miner has gone up. It's 14 tons a day, highest in the world.

Heading For The Last Roundhouse

David Lawrence Says:

Political Plums Can't Be Justified

WASHINGTON — These are sad days — human conflicts and controversies fill the headlines. There's plenty to write about — including labor troubles, problems of foreign policy and emotional "demonstrations" on the home front for "civil rights."

But what is more important than the integrity of our government itself? And what is more distressing than the tendency nowadays to gloss over the immorality of politics as a "custom" that has come to stay — as an end that justifies the means? How can this be expected to maintain confidence in American institutions?

Tucked away every now and then in the news dispatches read by the American people are evidences of what is fundamentally wrong with our government, but these arouse no "demonstrations" or demands that governmental power should be used only for the good of the people instead of the self-interest of officeholders.

Here is an example from a United Press International dispatch this week:

"President Kennedy yesterday nominated Representative Homer Thornberry, Democrat, of Texas as a Federal judge for the Western District of Texas. In so doing, he rewarded Thornberry for past support but at the same time created a further problem for himself in the closely divided House rules group."

"Speaker McCormack let it be known he had picked another Texan to fill Thornberry's crucial rural seat, and word was passed among members that (Rep. John) Young was the man. In selecting Young, McCormack obviously acted in the belief Young could be counted on in a pinch to support the leadership even in the face of adverse local interest."

DEFER ACTION
It is reported on Capitol Hill, moreover, that the administration plans to defer action in the Senate on the Thornberry nomination until sometime toward the end of the present session in order to assure his vote for administration policies in the closely divided rules committee of the House while important legislation is being considered by the committee in the next few months.

The House Rules Committee has a majority of Democrats but they do not all think the administration wants them to think.

The American people have been told again and again that theirs is a government by the people and for the people and that no selfish interest should prevail against the national interest.

The flaw, if any, is in the constitutional system, in America which separates the legislative body from the executive and ignores the principle of party responsibility — such as is applied under the British or Canadian parliamentary system.

The answer certainly doesn't lie in using federal judgeships as a "reward" to individual members of Congress elected by the people to deal with public questions on their merits and not as a president may dictate that they shall vote.

Time and again the American Bar Association has cried out that federal judges should be named on the basis of their qualifications and not for political reasons.

Does the system of using judgeships as a "reward" for past political favors mean that judges already on the bench can expect promotions to the U. S. Court of Appeals if they "play ball" with the administration in power?

Bob Considine Says:

Editor Fails to Sign Will, Millions Go to Employees

NEW YORK — The late Alicia Patterson Guggenheim, daughter of "Captain Joe" and editor in her own right of Long Island's Newsday, died a very rich woman. But for a curious argument between two of her relatives her fortune would have been $10 million greater.

In the last weeks of her life, the mercurial Eleanor Patterson, then owner and publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, changed her mind about leaving the paper to eight or nine of her employees in the editorial and business end of the paper.

In a new will, Mrs. Patterson named her niece as sole heir to the Times-Herald. Having completed the single handwritten page she then mailed it to "Cousin Bertie." Col. Robert R. McCormick, owner of the Chicago Tribune.

She and Bertie had their share of arguments through the years; but they were curiously speaking, and Mrs. Patterson, who was called "Cissie" even by the copy boys, wanted him to look over the new will. She was sure he would agree that Alicia was the best choice.

Bertie returned the new will with a sharp note. It had nothing to do with Alicia. It was critical of Cissie's syntax.

HITS CEILING
Cissie hit the ceiling. She got off a sharp note to her cousin demanding to know who he thought he was, daring to edit her will.

Bertie wrote back a sizzler — and the ultimatums were still flying between Washington and Chicago when death took Cissie Patterson. She had not gotten around to signing the document and having it notarized.

The newspaper went to the "loyal employees," all of whom became millionaires on the spot, with taxes paid, too.

They said the Times-Herald is in Colonel McCormick's hands, who said he wanted to use it to restore constitutional government in Washington. The sale made each of the eight or nine men millionaires, with all taxes paid.

All promptly quit the newspaper design. Most of them kept the money; one or two blew their wads, or stacks. As for Col. McCormick, he tied of the paper after buying it and sold it to Eugene Meyer, of the Post, for a song.

His once-pride man was used in fairly large type in the masthead of the combined paper, then in smaller and smaller type until today it is mainly just "The Post."

Specialized Programs Improved

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In spite of all its difficulties, the United Nations is now said to be beginning to find its way around. In the opinion of Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international affairs, this is particularly true of the U. N. specialized agency programs that need help the most.

The popular impression of the U. N. is that it is as clumsy as an elephant, as unsure of itself as most teenagers. It is badly financed. It is not as well staffed as it should be because the principle of a completely impartial, international civil service has not yet been established. Also, the split between Communist and free nations makes complete cooperation impossible.

It may take the rest of this century for all these flaws of organization to be worked out by meaningful charter revision and the slow evolution of what U. N. can and can't do.

One of the encouraging signs, Cleveland believes, is found in the appointment of U. N. "Resident Representatives" to coordinate programs in countries being given the world organization's specialized agency technical assistance.

There are now 81 of these U. N. resident representatives serving in the developing countries. They act as top advisers to government officials in the countries to which they are assigned and oversee the work of two or more aid programs.

In some countries the resident representative is an official of the U. N. In others, he is a specialist in the field of the aid program.

First step towards co-ordinating the work of the U. N. specialized agencies has just been made in a recommendation to the State Department from its Advisory Committee on International Organization, headed by Sol M. Litowitz of the Xerox Corp., Rochester, N. Y.

His plan is to put U. N. Tech-

Sleeping Bear Dunes Issue Creates Reader Debate

I enjoy many Press editorials, but you are way off base on the Sleeping Bear Dunes. Sen. Hart can do no wrong in your eyes. You compared the confiscating of property for the development of railroads with the big land grab of personal property for a national park. Railroads were vital but I see no basis for comparing this with recreation.

The people who live in the controversial area are common, ordinary people who the Harb and Odells would evict with no more conscience than trampling over an ant hill.

The Sleeping Bear Dunes is protected by the State of Michigan and if the Federal Government can get away with this blatant land grab, then no home in America is safe.

Nations May Exchange Ambassadors

Israel, Germany Consider Relations

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel has cast aside bitter memories of Nazi concentration camps and is ready to establish diplomatic relations with West Germany.

"It's up to Germany now," says an Israeli official.

Why has this country decided to exchange ambassadors with Germany, which under the Nazis killed six million Jews?

"We must be realistic," says one Israeli diplomat. "We need one Israeli diplomat. We need West Germany now. We need her arms, what she can give us."

There is still opposition to the move in the Knesset (parliament) and from many of Israel's 4.5 million citizens. But this opposition is not nearly so strong as it once was.

Anti-German demonstrations protesting the recent visit here of Franz-Joseph Strauss, former West German defense minister, fizzled.

When Strauss was ready to return home, he said:

"The time has come to normalize relations. And by normal relations I mean establish diplomatic relations with an exchange of ambassadors."

Eugen Gerstenmaier, president of the West German Bundestag (parliament) agreed. In New York last month he told the U.N. Correspondents Association he favored establishment of full diplomatic relations with Israel.

He told newsmen he spoke for a great majority of the Bundestag when he said such recognition could not be considered an "act of unfriendliness or aggression" against Arab countries.

ARABS DELAY

But it is the Arab states which have delayed West German recognition, some foreign office officials here believe. If West Germany makes the move, Arab countries may recognize East Germany.

And if this happens West Germany probably will break off diplomatic relations with the Arabs. Gerstenmaier has said:

"We are not ready to accept tacitly the recognition of the so-called zone of Germany, because this would recognize and make official the division of Germany under international law."

Anti-German elements in Israel have been capitalizing on reports about German scientists working in Egypt on President Nasser's armament program. Officially, too, Israel has urged they be recalled by Bonn. Thus, when the Bundestag recently adopted a resolution supporting such recall legislation, Israeli-German relations got another boost.

Eagle Boy Joins Ex-Wharfie Pal on Nest Raids

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A schoolboy and an ex-war laborer have teamed in Sydney in a very odd job — raiding eagles' nests.

John Rhodes, 61, wharfie-turned-ornithologist, taught Alf Rhodes, 15, how to climb up trees, some 150 feet high, in the Hawkesbury River area north of Sydney, where sea eagles nest.

When he reaches a nest, sometimes 10 feet high and six feet wide, Alf the Eagle Boy grabs any young eagles there, plops them in a bag and lowers the bag to Rhodes. They then attach metal rings to the legs of the eaglets and release them.

The information thus gleaned helps the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization check the birds' movements, habits and life cycle.

'Pro' Burglar Band Hits Four West State Firms

WYOMING (UPI) — A band of burglars broke into safes at four firms in this Grand Rapids suburb early yesterday and made off with nearly $4,000 in cash and checks.

Wyoming police said the safecrackers, apparently "professional," also caused between $5,000 and $7,000 damage. The firms hit were all within the same block.

Strike Averted in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) —Public buses rolled in greater Kansas City today following a last-minute "tentative agreement" between transit officials and the bus drivers union.

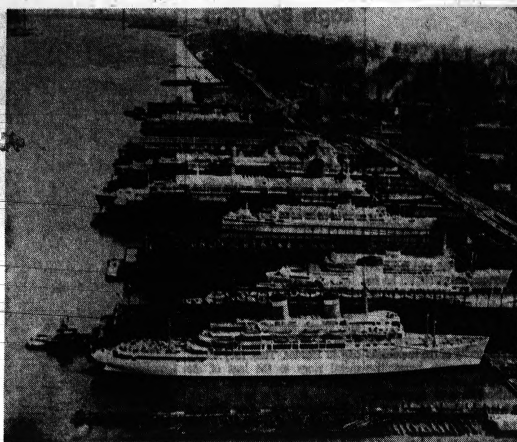

Negotiator for the union and Kansas City Transit, Inc., announced the agreement at 1 a.m. (Pontiac time) last night — the time set by the union as an "absolute deadline" for a settlement of the 21-month-old dispute.

Union President Loren Hargus said he would urge acceptance by union membership of the 11½-hour offer by management. Transit president Donald Eyer termed the offer "fair to both sides," and said he would recommend that the firm's board of directors accept it.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

A 24-hour extension of a midnight strike deadline Tuesday night permitted the two sides additional negotiation time.

Federal mediator Harry O'Connell and Mayor Ima W. Davis won the 24-hour reprieve after bus drivers actually had struck for 15 minutes.

Renew Tax Bill Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the grip on the House Rules Committee, Thornberry has been nominated to be a federal judge in Texas. If confirmed by the Senate, he probably will quit Congress at the end of this year's session or sooner. His confirmation is taken for granted.

TAXES: The House Ways and Means Committee is going back to work on President Kennedy's tax cut bill, dampening speculation that it might be sidetracked by the growing fight over civil rights legislation.

Committee sources said the tax writers will begin Monday reviewing, section by section, portions of the legislation already drafted. The key issue, how deep a rate reduction to recommend, remains open. So does the question of dividend taxation.

There are indications the committee may agree to eliminate the present 4 per cent tax credit on dividends, but double the $50 dividend exemption from taxation.

Although leaders say they have no idea when the bill will be brought to the floor, the renewal of work would make a mid-August House vote appear possible.

CHANGE UNLIKELY: The expected resignation of Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., from Congress is not likely to affect the administration's already unsteady and Young have identical voting records in favor of the administration.

Young's assignment to the committee would leave the membership at ten Democrats and five Republicans and give the administration a theoretical edge of 8-7.

JFK PAPERS: President Kennedy says future historians may view 1962 as the year "when the tide of international politics began at last to flow strongly toward the world of diversity and freedom."

The President made this assessment in a foreword to the 1962 volume of "Public Papers of the President of the United States," published Wednesday by the National Archives and Records Services of the General Services Administration.

Starting in 1957 when the Soviet Union launched its Sputnik "people in many countries began to accept the notion that communism was mankind's inevitable destiny," Kennedy said. "1962 stopped this process—and nothing was more important in deflating the notion of Communist invincibility than the American response to Soviet provocations in Cuba."

Is Worry Bad for Teeth?

CHICAGO (AP) — Worry and overwork may be bad for your teeth, an Australian dentist reports.

In an article Dental Abstracts Dr. Philip R. M. Sutton, M.S.E., of Melbourne, said a survey of 100 patients with rampant dental decay showed 96 per cent had suffered recent severe mental stress over illness in the family, business, financial or housing problems, or worry about their jobs.

Dr. Sutton's study covered 661 patients. Only 2 per cent of those free of acute tooth decay reported worry over personal problems.

Blame for 1960 Revolt Denied

Vietnamese Still Accuse U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Saigon, U.S. officials reacted sharply in public and bitterly in private to charges by a South Vietnamese public prosecutor that the United States had encouraged a 1960 attempt to overthrow the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

NEWSOM

The U.S. embassy denied the charge "flatly, officially and unequivocally."

The State Department in Washington issued a similar denial. Actually the charge was not new.

It stemmed from a short-lived revolt which began on Nov. 10, 1960, by 500 or so South Vietnamese paratroopers and marines.

The rebels seized most of Saigon's principal buildings, including Saigon Radio, and surrounded the presidential palace. Over the radio they announced that Diem's regime had been overthrown because of its autocratic rule and nepotism and has "shown itself incapable of saving the country."

REBELS FAILED

But the rebels failed to capture the president and two days later the rebellion collapsed with the arrival of loyalist troops.

The day after the collapse, Vietnamese officials accused the U.S. embassy of encouraging the revolt and of spreading rumors in Viet Nam and abroad that the Diem government was corrupt, anti-democratic and inefficient in fighting Communism.

Despite U.S. assurances that it was satisfied with failure of the coup and continued all-out aid to the regime, the charges frequently have been repeated, notably by the president's brother and a chief adviser, Ngo Dinh Nhu.

In 1961, as fears of another revolt against Diem's one-man rule mounted, the United States sent Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to Saigon once more to assure Diem of its support and even more aid.

But, while the U.S. publicly supported Diem and privately urged him to institute democratic reforms, there was increasing evidence of government resentment against what it regarded as American interference.

DIRTY WAR

United States newsmen attempting to report the "dirty, untidy, disagreeable" little war encountered government harassment and occasional refusal to renew their visas.

On the government level relations declined to a new low because of U.S. dissatisfaction with the Roman Catholic Diem's handling of his relations with South Viet Nam's Buddhist majority.

A roughing up of newsmen by Vietnamese secret police also expressed the government's displeasure with them.

There seemed little doubt that Diem was out of touch with and had lost the sympathy of the people.

On Diem's side was the fact that he had put down the private armies which plunged his country into chaos after the Geneva armistice agreement of 1954, that he had instituted land reform and had made economic progress through American aid.

It was also true that it was at the insistence of his much-criticized but tough sister-in-law, Mme. Nhu, that Saigon had been cleaned up and lost its luster as one of the world's outstanding sin cities.

The question for the U.S. now to decide was whether Diem still was its best bet for a democratic South Viet Nam or whether he and his family simply were holding on to power for power's sake.

Suit by Scholle to Be Opposed

Senators File Notice of Districting Defense

DETROIT (U) — Three Republican state senators filed notice in U.S. District Court here yesterday that they will intervene in Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle's suit aimed at blocking legislative apportionment under the formula prescribed in the new state constitution.

Sens. Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, Paul C. Younger of Lansing and John W. Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge opposed Scholle earlier when he challenged the setup of the State Senate in a suit filed in the Michigan Supreme Court.

Scholle won the suit, but the Michigan high court's decision was blocked from taking effect by a U.S. Supreme Court order obtained by the three senators.

The new constitution's approval by the voters last spring made Scholle's first suit a moot question.

The union chief's latest court action seeks to prevent apportionment because, Scholle charges, the formula in the new constitution is discriminatory.

Secretary of State James M. Hare is named as defendant in Scholle's suit because of his status as chief elections officer for the state.

MURDER-SUICIDE — Albert R. Berry, 63, shot to death Mrs. Mary Jane Logan, 43, at Massena, N.Y., and later took his own life. New York State Police reported. Berry was a retired business executive, and Mrs. Logan, a mother of four and a former beauty queen, had been his stenographer.

Meat Production Rises Over 60 Million Tons

ROME (AP) — Sixty-one million tons of meat were produced throughout the world in 1962, the Food and Agriculture Organization reported.

This was 13 million tons more than in 1961. Gains were recorded in almost every category except poultry. World trade in beef rose above one million tons for the first time.

2nd Spy Trial Is Resumed

U. S. Sailor Charged in Russ Conspiracy

NEW YORK (U) — The second federal court trial of a sailor charged with conspiring to sell defense secrets to Russian nationals resumes today.

In testimony Tuesday, before the trial was recessed briefly, two FBI agents said they watched Navy Yeoman I.C. Nelson C. Drummond remove papers from a security file at the Newport, R. I., Naval Base on Sept. 28, 1962.

On the night of that date, Drummond, 34, was arrested outside a Larchmont, N.Y., diner in the company of two members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

Eight classified documents allegedly were found in his possession.

FBI agent Thomas P. Selleck told the U.S. District Court jury that he concealed himself behind a tall metal bookcase at the Newport Mobile Electronic Unit 8 and watched Drummond unlock a security cabinet, remove some papers and then leave.

Another FBI operative, Arthur K. Dowd, said he saw the events over a closed-circuit television hookup.

If convicted, Drummond could be sentenced to death. His first trial on the same charges ended in a hung jury.

Man Dies in Accident

JACKSON (U) — Andrew Bordash, 37, of Jackson, was killed today when his car struck a tree in Jackson County.

British Guiana Stays Tense

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — The situation remained tense in this British colony today, four days after a tentative agreement was reached to end the disastrous eight-week general strike.

British Colonial Secretary Duncan Sandys flew here from Britain yesterday for a first-hand look at the South American colony, which has internal self-government under Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan.

Jagan did not invite Sandys but appealed instead for a United Nations investigating commission. Britain flatly rejected this request yesterday.

Violence such as that which took seven lives during the strike continued in sporadic fashion. Police reported two explosions early yesterday, injuring one worker at a bakery and damaging a sluiceway on the Demerara River.

Synod Alters Government Statement

DENVER (U) — The general synod of the United Church of Christ modified a recommended policy statement saying that U. S. citizens have a right to advocate "alternative political and economic systems" and then drove for final adjournment today of its week-long meeting.

As revised, the 1,500-word statement on "the relation of government to freedom and welfare" urges the church's two million members "to work through their governments at all levels . . . to safeguard the right of freedom of expression as guaranteed in the 1st Amendment, including the constitutional right to express opposition to our government or to advocate alternative political and economic systems without being intimidated or harassed by legislative or other instrumentalities of government."

The revision was made, at the direction of the synod, by the committee on pronouncements and was presented by Keith Dickson, Ames, Iowa.

It was adopted late yesterday by the 700 delegates by standing vote.

Utah and Washington led the country in 1962 with only 4.7 per cent of selective service registrants failing the mental test. They were followed by Wyoming with 5 per cent, Montana, 5.1, and Oregon, 5.5.

Traverse City Starts Annual Cherry Fete

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI) — The 1963 National Cherry Festival opened here today with Mary Kardes of Williamsburg reigning as queen of the two-day celebration.

Miss Kardes, 18, was chosen national cherry queen here last month over 15 other contestants from Michigan.

Highlight of the festival, which annually draws about a quarter million spectators to the heart of the nation's cherry-land, will be a torchlight parade of boats tomorrow night.

Search Being Held for Ionia Hospital Man

But Not Pink

State to Tint Bridges

LANSING (U) — The State Highway Department is experimenting with the idea of painting bridges any color of the rainbow.

A research and test project is being carried out on a seven-mile section of I-94, now under construction in St. Clair County.

Six freeway overpasses will be painted in six different colors — maroon, foliage green, ivory, beige, rose-cinnamon and light green.

The department has traditionally used a varnish-based aluminum paint as the finish coat on the structural steel of all highway bridges, overpasses and interchanges.

ANY COLOR

The paint being tested is an alkyl-resin enamel that comes in any color, in contrast to the silver aluminum paint.

The highway department thinks the pastel colors will be more durable and reduce maintenance costs. The colors will also break up the monotony of shiny silver bridges, it is figured.

Highway Department Commissioner John Mackie told his engineers they could pick any color they wanted for the test — except one.

"I don't want any pink bridges," Mackie said.

The public is invited to write the department what they think of the new color scheme.

"If this test is successful, then we'll eventually paint all our bridges with a variety of colors," Mackie said.

French Opposition Slackens

Lower Block to Britain-Mart Talks

BRUSSELS (UPI)—France today was reported easing its opposition to contacts between Britain and the European Common Market.

The Common Market's future relations with Britain, whose bid for membership was vetoed last January, topped the agenda of a foreign ministers meeting here today.

Rocky's Office Scene of Sit-In

Also Protest Against NY's Mayor Wagner

NEW YORK (AP)—Demonstrators staged sit-ins at the Manhattan offices of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor Robert A. Wagner today as the date intervened in the racial conflict that has touched off violence in a Bronx neighborhood.

Police said five white persons were wounded by shots fired from a group of Negroes in north Brooklyn Wednesday night. A detective said the shooting apparently developed from a long-time feud between two teen-age gangs.

The victims, including four teenagers and a 22-year-old male bystander, were not seriously hurt, a hospital reported. Four Negroes were arrested.

TALK TO LAWYER

Members of the State Commission on Human Rights confer today with a lawyer for the White Castle diner chain on picketing at a diner in the Bronx where violence has flared four nights.

Pickets sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) are demanding improved conditions for the chain here. Officials of the chain have called the demonstrators' demands unreasonable.

Hundreds of whites—mostly teen-agers—have heckled the pickets. Shots have been fired and rocks have been thrown. There have been fist fights and numerous arrests.

CORE pickets extended their activity to two more of the four White Castle diners in the Bronx in their fifth day and night of demonstrating.

The sit-in at Rockefeller's office started Wednesday. The one outside Wagner's office the day before.

Rockefeller is vacationing at Seal Harbor, Maine. Wagner met with the demonstrators Tuesday before he flew to Paris to be with a son who had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Police did not attempt to eject any of the sit-in groups.

The demonstrators at both offices want more than $2.5-billion worth of state and city construction projects held up until there is assurance of more jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

Both Rockefeller, a Republican, and Wagner, a Democrat, have been active in moves for civil rights and equal job opportunities for minority groups.

Informed sources said, however, that the French government was easing its opposition to the contacts as a result of recent diplomatic feelers.

One suggested compromise is periodic meetings at ambassadorial level with members of the Common Market executive commission in European capitals other than Brussels.

Belgian Monument Hit by Plastic Bomb

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—A plastic bomb exploded early today at Belgium's tomb of the unknown soldier several hundred yards from the Royal Palace and Parliament.

Police said they had no clue to the motive. But tensions have been high in a continuing language dispute between Flemish-speaking Belgians of the north and French-speaking Walloons of the south.

French and Flemish are official languages in Brussels, in the Flemish area.

The 190-foot monument was built to commemorate Belgian soldiers killed in two world wars.

Wed Guard Keep Rings

CAMP GRAYLING (UPI)—For the preservation of domestic tranquility, officials of the Michigan National Guard have ruled married men can continue to wear their wedding bands while attending summer camp.

The rings were ordered off last Saturday by commanding Gen. Cecil Simmons, who was worried there might be a repetition of an incident last summer when one of the guardsmen lost a finger when his ring became caught on a tailgate as he jumped off a truck.

The art of fancy rope-spinning was developed in Mexico and not adopted by United States cowboys until late in the 19th century.

to set up a permanent mission in Brussels for regular consultations with the market. France rejected this idea.

Involved in the whole question is France's desire for concessions from Germany to open up German markets to French farm products. It was believed Germany might concede some agricultural points if France agrees to other concessions, such as the British issue.

Any decision on American poultry was unlikely until at least the end of the month when the ministers meet again.

Two American proposals and an executive council plan to solve the problem must be examined.

The United States wants Common Market tariffs reduced so that American poultry exports can be maintained at a higher level.

Recent increases in European tariffs on poultry cut American exports of this item from its regular $60 million-a-year level, and brought U. S. threats of retaliation in the tariff field.

Laws Aiding Mental Health

By GARY THORNE

The prevention and treatment of mental illness, mental retardation, and other psychiatric disabilities received considerable exposure during the past session of the State Legislature.

The attention of the lawmakers, including that of Oakland County's Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, resulted in creation of a proposed Community Mental Health Program.

State efforts to combat mental illness may receive a further boost from the federal government before the current session of Congress is over.

The House has completed hearings on a Senate-approved bill to spend $64.5 million over the next 10 years to help the states build and operate centers to treat the mentally ill and retarded.

The federal mental health measure, which passed the Senate 73-1 and is generally expected to clear the House, would supplement the state legislation.

A spokesman for the Michigan Society for Mental Health said the exact connection still needed to be decided, but the Society was confident it would aid state measures.

The new state law becomes effective Sept. 6, some 90 days after adjournment of the legislature, but it may be a year or more before detailed procedures and guidelines are set up by the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

Under the state mental health program, counties or large cities can establish local mental health clinics.

MATCHING GRANTS

The program calls for state matching grants in the creation and operation of local mental health programs and services.

The legislation authorized the county Board of Supervisors to set up a community mental health program. This can be financed with monies from its general fund or a special tax can be levied.

State aid is available through the state Department of Mental Health. The local mental health board, however, must have its program and budget approved by the state department.

Existing mental health clinics can receive state aid for current programs. After a local program is set up, local monies to expand or continue present services can be used to match state funds.

The local mental health board is appointed by the chairman of the county Board of Supervisors. The board should be representative of professional, civic, and citizen groups, according to the state law.

The state department of mental health will regulate such community programs as setting standards for personnel, fees, eligibility for state aid, and the like.

A review and evaluation of local programs is also a duty of the state department. In addition, the state will provide consulting services for planning and establishing mental health programs.

The question of federal funds is still pending, at least until Congress decides on the final version of President Kennedy's mental health proposals.

Won't OK Court in Auditorium

A recommendation to hold court regularly in the new courthouse auditorium failed to win the support of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors' Ways and Means and Buildings and Grounds committees yesterday.

He said the study should be completed within the next 30 days.

The committees' jointly approved recommendations by the board of auditors that will make a sixth courtroom available in the court tower by moving the jury assembly space into the basement of the courthouse wing.

A sixth and seventh judge are to be appointed by Gov. George Romney in September. This is when the $60,000 auditorium is scheduled for completion.

The judges' recommendation, which had the support of the County Board of Auditors, also included converting two offices and a large cloakroom in the auditorium into temporary judge's chambers and offices.

The committees tabled the recommendation rather than submit it to a vote of the board of supervisors.

At one time, the same two committees said the auditorium would be available for purposes other than the meetings of the board.

The purposes they mentioned then were for the holding of court when necessary and for other meetings in the public interest.

In tabling the recommendation, committee members said they might be surrendering the supervisors' use of the auditorium altogether.

The judges had said the auditorium would still be available for board meetings.

The auditorium would remain unused over 300 days of the year, the judges said, because the board meets an average of 20 times a year.

Ways and means chairman David Levinson said a seventh courtroom and judge's quarters might be found in a current study of the county's space utilization by the United Community Services.

The basement space can be made available by moving the county's engineering staff into the offices of the Cooperative Extension Service in another building at the County Service Center.

This building in downtown Pontiac is being reoccupied by the county pending its sale. So far there have been no offers to buy it.

ASSEMBLY JURIES

Juries currently are being assembled in the sixth courtroom which is yet to be finished.

The grand jury charged that Harrelson entered the use of the funds in the union's records as payment for catering services.

According to testimony by Cro-teau, the checks were to be applied against the cost of advertising in opposition to a proposed ordinance that would have given the city manager power to dismiss the police chief.

Croteau was treasurer of an organization called Citizens for Honest Government which was a fighting passage of the ordinance.

The Teamster leader's new attorney is Ronald Prebenda of Dearborn Heights.

Harrelson, 44, was indicted by a federal grand jury last September on two counts of embezzling and two counts of falsifying union records.

He was charged with giving Maurice Croteau, owner of Man-of-the-Pontiac Police Office's Catering Service, 179 Edin-brook, two checks totaling $500 for political purposes and then making false entries to cover their actual use.

Croteau indicated during the

Will Be Arraigned in Municipal Court

An ex-convict from Oak Park was arrested by Pontiac police this morning and charged with taking part in the $1,200 robbery of a bar June 30.

Felix Stelmio, 32, of 5428 Kenosha, was to be arraigned in Municipal Court today for the unnamed robbery of the Trojan Bar, 72 Auburn.

A part-time bartender at the Trojan, Thomas J. Fairbanks, 32, of 330 W. Princeton, already is in the Oakland County Jail awaiting examination for his alleged role in the robbery.

Stelmio was taken into custody shortly after midnight as he came out of a downtown bar.

Stelmio was paroled from Jackson Prison in April after being sentenced in 1956 for a series of safe robberies in downtown Detroit, according to detective Sgt. John A. DePaw.

DePaw said the two men entered the bar after closing hours with a key Fairbanks had and threatened a cleaning man while they opened the safe.

Two Injured in Accident

Two young men were injured early this morning when their truck went out of control and hit a tree in Commerce Township.

In satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital are Manuel Garcia, 23, of 399 Ferry, and Rennie Anderson, 24, of 3875 Bathurst, Avon Township.

Garcia suffered multiple bruises and a possible fractured nose in the 2:30 a.m. accident. Anderson's right ankle was injured.

Garcia, the driver, told sheriff's deputies that his steering wheel locked while maneuvering a curve on West Maple near Laura.

Pick Chief of Candidate Committee

A Birmingham Republican who has for some time been advocating an organized GOP effort to seek out good candidates for public office was named today to head a committee to do just that.

He is attorney Dale A. Winnie, who was appointed chairman of a candidates development committee in Oakland County's 3rd Legislative District Republican party organization.

The appointment was made by District GOP Director Robert Lowry, who established the committee as part of a drive by himself, Winnie and other Birmingham-Bloomfield area Republicans to put Gov. George Romney's citizen participation philosophy of politics into year-round practice.

"This committee's function," Winnie said, "will be to interview, encourage and seek out candidates for elective positions on the Republican ticket."

It also will conduct training programs and offer classes in speech, appearance and campaign management, Winnie said.

Winnie, who had proposed formation of such a committee, is currently legal adviser to the State Senate Judiciary Committee chaired by Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County. Winnie was campaign manager for Roberts and State Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Hills, last fall.

Appointed vice chairman of the committee was Mrs. James Carey, 1814 Withersoe, Troy.

Others named were Joseph Farnham, 497 Golvie, Birmingham; Robert Phil, 1877 Island Lake Lane, Bloomfield Hills; Mrs. Frederick P. Plakman, 5461 Deberry, Orchard Lake; and Wayne Holman, 355 Rockdale, Rochester.

Also appointed were Albert Kruse, 642 Decker, Walled Lake and William McMahon, 738 N. Main, Milford. Mrs. John Pfister, 2849 Buckingham, Birmingham, and Mrs. John Crisman, 280 Applewood Lane, Bloomfield and West Bloomfield.

Castro Says Havana Full of Parasites

MIAMI (UPI)—Fidel Castro, after taking a long look at Havana the other day, said the capital city of his island was full of government parasites and chow hounds.

The breaded premier, in an informal "chat" with students at Havana University Tuesday night, singled out chicken farmers for censure, according to a Havana radio broadcast monitored here yesterday.

Castro said some farmers were privately selling chicken for three pesos a pound, then buying meat at government butcher shops for 45 cents a pound.

Castro called the chicken farmers "government parasites" and said that private property is "antisocial."

The premier—himself a country boy—said Havana was in a "parasitic condition—full of demanding consumers and chow hounds."

Havana Radio said one student complained that a sewing machine purchased by his mother in Havana broke down within a few days.

Castro admonished the student to make "a tremendous stink" about the machine to the store and the interior commerce ministry.

Lake Orion Driver Still Has License

Gerald T. Knotts, 1949 Orion Terr., Lake Orion, did not have his drivers' license suspended as stated in the Michigan Department of State listings published Tuesday in the Pontiac Press.

The department has reported that an error had been made in placing Knotts name on the list and has now removed it.

Junior Editors Quiz on SEA WATER

QUESTION: How did the salt get into the sea water?

ANSWER: Salts are chemical compounds. We think of sea water as containing common table salt, which is sodium chloride. This salt makes up 77.8 per cent of all the salts in sea water.

But there are other salts; the most important being magnesium chloride, magnesium sulphate, calcium sulphate and potassium sulphate. The land is where most of the ocean's salts come from.

For millions of years rains have worn away rocks and carried dissolved minerals down through streams and rivers to the sea. Every year about 600 cubic miles of river water moves into the sea containing several billion tons of salts.

Are these ocean salts of any value to us? Indeed they are. Microscopic plants, such as the diatom, and minute animals, such as the porozoans, could not live without them.

These tiny creatures and plants build mineral shells about themselves of amazing variety and beauty. Such tiny sea life is the main food supply of fish.

We eat a great deal of fish and some day may use sea food even more. So you can see that the ocean salts play a very important part in life.

FOR YOU TO DO: What's the old salt doing a jig about? He's dancing a sailor's hornpipe because he feels so good. Try dancing the sailor's hornpipe. It's something like the Irish jig. Change the hand up in the air from right to left and back again.

PINCONNING 490—Zip code
... who needs it?

Zip Code, the nation's new speedy mail delivery system, was completely by-passed as well as any ordinary address means, observed the Pinconning Post Office, when a letter showed up for delivery with no town; no state; no route or street address.

But the mail went through.
Stanley Plachta of Pinconning received a letter with this address:

"Grocery Store, 3 Miles South of Standish; Corner of the Worth Road, and U.S. 23
South, next to Schulz Garage."
The letter came from Herron, near Alpena.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Husband Resents Bus Query

By the Emily Post Institute

Q. One day while riding on the bus, I was seated next to a man who looked very familiar to me. He looked exactly like a man from my home town whom I hadn't seen in years.

I couldn't contain my curiosity so I finally turned to him and asked him if he was John Jones of such and such a town. It turned out that he wasn't, but he could have passed for his twin. I apologized and that was that.

However, my husband who was seated across the aisle from me took exception to this and said that I had no business talking to a stranger. I don't see that there was anything wrong in what I did. Will you please give me your opinion?

A. As long as you did not continue conversing with this stranger after finding out he was not who you thought he was, I see nothing wrong in what you did.

Q. Recently my two daughters were invited to a bridal shower for a relative's daughter who is soon to be married. Both took very nice presents.

When the wedding invitations were sent out my two daughters were excluded from the reception. Both were disappointed and hurt. Shouldn't they have been invited to the wedding after having attended the shower and bringing presents for the bride-to-be?

A. If the wedding was of any size, they definitely should have been invited: if it was a very small wedding, they have no cause to feel hurt because they were not invited.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have the booklet entitled, "The Bride's Trouseau," send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute in care of The Pontiac Press.

Hospitality chairmen for the Wednesday event were Mrs. Arnold Brown, Wards Pointe Drive, and Mrs. Aleck Capulis, Ottawa Drive. Guests enjoyed the beautiful grounds of the Vandenberg home which is located on the shore of Cass Lake.

Juanita Christie

To Fete Bride-to-Be

Juanita Martin Christie will be honored by friends and relatives for her forthcoming marriage to William Gustave Berghoff.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Edward A. Christie, West Maple Road, and Norbert G. Berghoff, Fort Wayne, Ind., and the late Mrs. Berghoff.

Carol Koester and Susan Weed will host a kitchen shower today at the former's Birmingham home.

An electrical appliance shower will be given July 18 by Mrs. Frederick Darden, Mrs. Frederick Darden Jr. and Mrs. John Reid. It will be held in the Lake Orion home of the senior Mrs. Darden.

Mrs. Edward H. Perkins Jr. will have a luncheon and Chairman of the pouring committee, refreshment chairman, and Mrs. Kenneth Vandenberg who was hostess to the group in her Erie Drive home.

Mrs. William H. Bedard, Crescent Lake Road (rear), was chairman of the guest book committee. Mrs. Maxwell Doerr, Ottawa Drive, watches Mrs. Robert Waffle, Draper Street, sign her name.

Should Woman Nag Man About Shaving Twice Daily?

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Aren't there men in this world who shave twice a day? My husband shaves at 7 a. m. and by 6 p. m. he needs another shave. If we are going out in the evening I have to beg him to shave again. It's always a battle. He says he'd rather stay home. In all our nine years of marriage, this is the only thing we've ever fought about.

He says if I loved him I wouldn't nag him about shaving. I DO love him, but I don't want to be seen with a man who looks like he's on his way to hold up a bank! Can you suggest something?

MARCIE: Many men shave twice a day and don't mind it a bit. If your man is one of those unfortunate fellows with a heavy beard and a tender face, lay off. If he's just lazy, promise him anything, but give him persuasion.

DEAR ABBY: Did you ever see a grown man cry? Well, I just did and it's enough to break your heart.

I'm stationed in Germany and one of my buddies here just got a "Dear John" from his girl back home. They'd been engaged two years. He was nuts about her and talked about her day and night.

He used to "dance" with her picture and sleep with it under his pillow. He never looked at any other girl, and he had plenty of chances. His girl just wrote and said she was giving his engagement ring to his mother because she was marrying another guy.

Please, Abby, tell girls back home not to write guys news like that, but to wait until they get home to break the news. My buddy says he doesn't want to live most.

A BUDDY'S BUDDY

DEAR BUDDY: I've said it many times, but I'll say it again. When a girl promises to "wait" for the man who's gone in the service, she should keep that promise. Frequently, that's the only thing that keeps a guy going.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ED-DIE AND PAUL: Get the lettuce together, boys, and you'll have no trouble finding the tomatoes.

JANETTA MAE ROBERTSON

The forthcoming marriage of Janetta Mae Robertson to Richard Sherman is announced by her parents, the Leo Robertsons of Annette Street. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are the Benjamin Shermons, Melrose Avenue. A July 27 wedding is planned.

linen shower at Orchard Lake Country Club July 25, and the following day the bride-elect will be honored at a dinner party by Mr. and Mrs. Mentor Kraus of Fort Wayne, Ind.

July 27, the bridegroom's father will hold a formal dinner at the Fort Wayne Country Club to honor the couple.

The bridegroom's uncle, John H. Noll also of Fort Wayne, Ind., will host an informal afternoon party at his summer cottage on Lake Wauwassee, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Broening, the bride-elect's sister and brother-in-law, will have the rehearsal dinner on Aug. 1 at their Clarkson home.

Aug. 3 vows are planned by the couple.

Don't Overlook Nutrition

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is often a puzzle when we see adults and children who look so very healthy when we know that they have little money spend on food. We wonder how they do it and what they eat. Here are a few of the answers. Many people shun food items which should be a part of their everyday diet for more expensive, exotic and more highly seasoned foods. The lowly dried bean is one of these. It is a splendid source of calcium, phosphorus, iron, manganese and copper. It also gives you vitamins.

Whole wheat is high in phosphorus, copper, iron, manganese and also has some calcium and iodine content.

Oatmeal gives you iron, man-

IRON WARDS OFF ANEMIA

Molasses gives you phosphorus, calcium, manganese and it is a rich source of iron. Carrots, lettuce, cabbage and all of the greens are very valuable but inexpensive foods. Brown rice, liver, eggs and milk rate tops, but are a bit more expensive than some of the foods above. Powdered milk may be the answer if your family drinks a lot of it. Phosphorus affects the bones, teeth, glands and muscles and is thought to be especially happy in its effect on the nervous system. It has also been thought by some that this mineral is beautifying to the hair.

We all know that anemia will result unless we have enough iron. Here are a few of the richest sources: egg yolk, dried lima beans, liver, beef, oysters, molasses, whole wheat, oatmeal, dates, raisins, prunes, spinach, green peas, brown rice, beets, mushrooms, lettuce, strawberries and grain flour.

Don't pass up these foods which are so vital to your health and good looks.

Playhouse to Present 'Crucible'

Arthur Miller's drama about the Salem witch trials, "The Crucible," will be presented at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre at 8:40 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The production is the third in a new summer program of student repertory presentations before paid audiences at the apprentice theatre, West Long Lake Road.

Major roles in "The Crucible" are portrayed by advanced students, most of whom hold regular jobs and follow their theatrical avocations evenings and weekends at the apprentice theatre.

-MAIN CHARACTER-

A main character role portrayed originally by the famous Walter Hampton will be played at Will-O-Way by the Rev. Henry C. Dequin. An assistant minister at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, Detroit, and staff member at Lutheran High School West, Mr. Dequin lives in Detroit.

A daytime mechanic plays the lead role of John Proctor. He is Jim Bennett, 20, who lives in Berkley.

Connie Desautels, 17, works as secretary-receptionist at Will-O-Way, besides studying drama there at night. She plays the lead role of Elizabeth Proctor in "The Crucible" and lives on Shore Drive, Orchard Lake.

The play is directed by Celia Merrill Turner, director of the apprentice theatre. Reservations may be made by phoning Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre.

Stocking Container

Handy container for children's clean socks is an empty egg carton placed in a dresser drawer.

Blue chambray of "Dacron" polyester and cotton makes this tiny play dress with the low-waisted, flared go-go skirt. Red and white seersucker side pleat inserts, tie belt and bloomers add contrasting touches to the playsuit. About $4.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice: I just finished a shift dress and it is too loose around the waist even though I cut it to my exact measurements. May I put darts in the front and back?

Dear Mrs. M. A.: Yes, you may add all the darts you need to obtain the necessary fitting. After all, darts are usually not decorative, but merely to aid to proper fit.

Dear Eunice: I am just a beginner and I love your column but don't understand too much of it. Please have a heart and put in a few easy-to-understand tips. If the pattern doesn't call for interfacing at the neckline, should I still use it, and how should it be cut.

Dear Mrs. B. C.: Everyone has to start at the beginning and pretty soon you will have all the know-how if you continue to read all you can about sewing.

I personally like an interfacing in all necklines, but this is a matter of opinion. The interfacing is cut out of a firm, light weight, woven fabric and should be cut the same shape as the facing.

Baste it to the wrong side of your garment and then proceed with the facing.

NIGHTGOWN

Make a darling shortie night gown out of big brother's outgrown shirts. Remove the collar and add ruffled edging to the neck and down the center front on each side of the front closing.

Cut the sleeves just above the placket and run elastic through the hem. Your decorative edging may be used on the lower edge of the shirt and sleeves.

Mrs. J. Millenaar, San Diego, Calif., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trux pressing board for this suggestion.

Thanks to all of you who sent in suggestions to the many requests I have had on what to do with sweaters that have become stiff and hard from improper care and laundering.

Most of the suggestions were to soak the sweater in cool water which has been mixed with a cup of table salt. Many also suggested a water softener. It seems both of these suggestions will work if your sweater has not become too matted.

You really can't lose by trying since the sweaters were of no value to you as they were.

Mrs. Z. S. says: If you have lost just enough weight that the waist drops just a little below the waistline, but not enough to bother taking up, sew a four-inch piece of plastic in each side of the front and back at the waistline.

Stretch as you sew. Incidentally, the secret of sewing elastic seems to be using a fairly large stitch or a zig-zag stitch to allow the elastic to give.

No Need to Account for All Your Spending

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management
Dear Mary Feeley: Why is it a woman always has to account for every little expense, while her husband feels free to spend what he likes?

My husband doesn't think he needs to account for what he spends on cigarettes and lunches with men friends. But if I take a trip to the beauty shop, I have to apologize for it! Is this fair?

Mrs. W. E. S., San Francisco

Dear Mrs. S.: No. Just normal.

If assume you've expressed your self on this subject to your husband long ago. But have another go at it.

Tell him you've decided your bickering is silly. That you think it's only right he should have some money to spend every week without having to explain it. Suggest, in the interests of harmony, that you each get a certain amount in your pocket every pay day, and no questions asked or answered.

No matter how small your income may be, you're both entitled to something to spend without having to bare your souls to anybody. It's normal expression of the desire for independence. Don't ask him how much he usually spends on his necessities. Try naming a sum for each of you which you know won't rock the boat. Even if he ends up with more than you do, at least you'll have more than you did when you wrote this letter.

One way of untangling your budget is to put only food in your cart on the first go-round. Check that out, then make the tour again for other types of merchandise. Maybe things will look brighter.

Mrs. Ella E., St. Paul, Minn.

Dear Mrs. E.: What are you putting into that cart? Maybe it's not food alone that's running up the cost. Stop to think just what you buy at the supermarket.

Light bulbs, maybe, along with the chops? Or both rugs, tooth paste, hand lotion, garden tools, a kitchen sink, cigarettes, toys for the children? The variety of merchandise in the supermarkets these days exerts a pleasantly hypnotic effect.

Then when we check over our food bills, we're jolted wide awake. We forget we didn't actually eat all that stuff we came home with. Some of the cost of your marketing probably should be listed under operating supplies or personal care items.

Operating supplies — for running your house — can reasonably be set at 5 to 15 per cent of your monthly spendable income. A normal allotment for personal care items would be 2 to 4 per cent.

One way of untangling your budget is to put only food in your cart on the first go-round. Check that out, then make the tour again for other types of merchandise. Maybe things will look brighter.

Dear Miss Feeley: There's either a hole in my pocket, or a hole in my head. Other guys in my office who are making exactly what I am, or less, manage to own their homes, even buy new cars.

But Linda and I barely make it from one pay day to the next. I take home $121 a week. Our children, ages 4 years and three months, certainly aren't eating that much spinach. What's wrong?

Dear John: Try plugging that hole with a down-to-earth spending plan. You know the old office directive: put it in writing. Put down your major fixed expenses a week — rent, food, clothing, insurance, car cost.

Start with those items because you undoubtedly don't know where most of the rest of your money really is going. On your $121 a week, here's a fair estimate of what those items mentioned might be:

Housing, $30; food, $30; clothing, $10; savings, $10; insurance, $5; car, $7. That's $93. Such figures of course, may easily vary a dollar or two, but they'll give you something to compare your actual current expenditures with. See where you're off base.

You and Linda might also keep a sharp eye on what you're probably calling "necessities." It's a tricky word. What we tend to call necessities can grow to equal our incomes unless we're rugged enough to admit that maybe they're just nice, rather than necessary, after all.

True, there isn't a lot left of $121 to play marbles with. But direct what you can toward what you want most. Stop comparing your own situation with that of your business associates.

For all you know, that nice home or that new car may be at the expense of solid savings or insurance for family protection.

You can write Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press; she will answer in her column questions of widest interest.

Polly's Pointers

Darning Needle Tip

By POLLY CRAMER
Dear Polly — I have just learned how to thread a darning needle easily, and it is just great. Take a piece of sewing thread, fold it and put the loop through the eye of the needle.

Then put the yarn through the loop and gently pull the sewing thread and yarn back through the eye of the needle.

—Mrs. D. H.

Dear Polly — If you have a washer and dryer but still like to hang clothes outside, this is a help. Throw your clothes in the dryer for about 10 or 15 seconds, let them tumble, and then take out.

This does away with shaking when ready to hang them, and is especially good for baby's diapers and sheets. It saves a lot of time. —R. D.

Dear Polly — Since the good old fishing days are here again, I would like to share this little pointer with all others who like to fish. Never leave home without a lemon in your fishing box. In a jiffy it will clean your hands of that fishy smell. —Mrs. J. L. S.

Dear Polly — I use a small, strong chain hooked over a hanger in my clothes closet and insert metal shower curtain hooks every few links to have a place to hang purses. Then I cover the whole thing with a long-plastic dress or coat cover — Mrs. C. H.

Dear Polly — When you want your dress shirts or blouses to look starched, but not to feel stiff, try this: dissolve one package of unflavored gelatin as directed on the box.

Pour into one gallon of hot water. Dip garments, wring and dry as usual. They'll have just enough "body" to look nice, and will iron like a dream. —Mrs. B. S.

Dear Polly — I have a tip for knitters who find it difficult to cast-off loosely as most patterns say to do. I cast-off onto a needle at least two sizes larger than the ones used in knitting the article. —Mrs. V. E. K.

Share your favorite home-making ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

One Ideology Must Go

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Some time ago one of our surveys showed the cold war to be the nation's teenagers who will one day inherit the challenge of living with this continuing threat.

How do they now view the chances of ending the cold war?

In the absence of an agreement on disarmament, the young people answering our most recent survey foresee a stalemate between democracy and communism.

As Judith Sheffield, 18, of New Britain, Conn., says: "Let's face it, communism is here to stay."

Many teenagers conclude the only quick solution would be an atomic war.

While few of them want to risk resorting to war, they're convinced an end to the cold war will come only when either democracy or communism is destroyed.

Gary S. Lawrence, 16, of Portland, Ore., explains: "The cold war is a conflict between two ideologies and cannot be compromised."

And William Schmidt, 18, of Detroit, adds: "The cold war will end only when communism is removed from the face of the earth. The West must use every means available to destroy communism."

"Disarmament talks are the first step towards settling the cold war," declares Steven Gross, 15, of Philadelphia.

His view is backed by Caroline Kennedy, 17, of Cleveland, who says: "Right now, there is always the threat of nuclear war whether intentional or accidental."

Another strong current in the teenagers' opinions is that solution to the cold war lies in a change of spirit.

As Dick Hill, 18, of Westport, Conn., declares: "A spirit of trust must develop between East and West before negotiations can succeed."

And an Oregon girl says "Countries will have to become less self-interested and learn to work for the good of the world."

But she adds her hopes are probably unrealistic.

Dick Ahlers, 17, of Salt Lake City suggests relations could be improved if the U.S.S.R. and the U.S. got together on putting men into space and stopped the space race.

KEEP ON PROMOTING

Most of the youngsters think strong enough to be in a bargaining position.

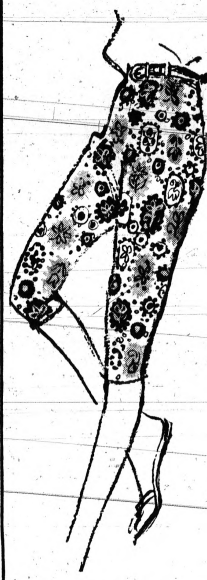

And they're especially anxious to see the U. S. to resist communism's spread and to offset Communist propaganda in undeveloped nations.

They know there is no simple answer to such a complex problem.

But don't mistake their peaceful intentions as weakness. They insist the U. S. must remain strong enough to carry it for a long, long time.

Algeria Fast Becoming Base for African Nationalists

ALGIERS (AP) — Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's quest to become Africa's leading revolutionary is turning Algeria into a main base of nationalists seeking independence.

Political exiles and nationalists from Portugal's colonies and from South Africa are flocking to Algeria in search of support.

Despite Algeria's internal difficulties, Ben Bella has promised arms, money, training facilities and volunteers to free Africa of the remnants of colonial rule.

"I myself will fight if necessary," he emotionally told a recent rally.

MAINTAIN SECRECY

The government maintains secrecy on what has actually been

Representatives of the "National Liberation Front of Angola" conduct an active press campaign with the government's help. Algerian newspapers denounce Portugal's conduct in Angola and threaten intervention.

At the recent Addis Ababa summit conference, Ben Bella pledged 10,000 volunteers to help Angola's fight against Portuguese rule.

Last week, Ben Bella personally inaugurated the headquarters of the South African "National Congress," an organization pledged to the elimination of white rule in South Africa. The headquarters, headed by Robert Rescha, is to serve as the main coordinating and propaganda center for French-speaking Africa.

'DYNAMITE CONTACT'

"We are convinced that our struggle in South Africa will take the same form as in Algeria," Rescha said in an interview. "It is essential for us to keep in dynamic contact with our brothers in Algeria to benefit from their experience."

Rescha said the Algerian government "is one of the most practical governments we have dealt with in Africa. It has given us more material assistance than any other."

Ben Bella has announced he has earmarked the equivalent of $200,000 to help the struggling nationalists.

In helping nationalists from Angola, Mozambique and South Africa, Ben Bella apparently would like to build a debt of gratitude toward Algeria which would help foster his leadership in Africa.

Another factor is Ben Bella's conviction of the importance of his role as a liberator and revolutionary.

"Ben Bella is convinced that he is the most prominent, most successful revolutionary in Africa," a Western diplomat said.

"His help for the nationalists is largely tied to this belief."

Marina Gregg Escapes Poisoned Beverage for a Second Time

STORY SO FAR — Marina Gregg, beautiful screen and stage star, was yesterday in Connecticut when she learned that her husband, John, had been killed in a car crash. She was on her way to a party in New York City when she learned of the crash. She was on her way to a party in New York City when she learned of the crash.

"There are three possibilities," Miss Marple said. "I'm assuming that at least one person would have seen something. One out of 20. I think it's only reasonable to assume that."

"I think you're begging the question," said Haydock, "and I can see looking ahead one of these terrible exercises in probability where six men have black hats and six men have white hats and you have to work it out by mathematics how likely it is that the hats will get mixed up and in what proportion."

"If you start thinking about things like that you go round the head. Let me assure you of that!"

"I wasn't thinking of anything like that," said Miss Marple. "I was just thinking of what is likely."

"Yes," said Haydock thoughtfully, "you're very good at that. You always have been."

"It is likely, you know," said Miss Marple, "that out of 20 people one at least should be an observant one."

"I give in," said Haydock. "Let's have the three possibilities."

"I'm afraid I'll have to put them rather sketchily," said Miss Marple. "Inspector Craddock, and probably Frank Cornish before him will have questioned everybody who would be there so the natural thing would be that whoever saw anything of the kind would have said so at once."

"Is that one of the possibilities?"

"No, of course it isn't," said Miss Marple, "because it hasn't happened. What you have to account for is if one person did see something why didn't that person say so?"

"I'm listening."

"Possibility one," said Miss Marple, "her cheeks going pink with animation."

"The person who saw it didn't realize what they had seen. That would mean, of course, that it would have to be rather a stupid person. Someone, let us say, who can use their eyes but not their brain."

"The sort of person who, if you asked them 'Did you see anyone put anything in Marina Gregg's glass?' would answer, 'Oh no, but if you said 'Did you see anyone put their hand over the top of Marina Gregg's glass?' would say 'Oh yes, of course I did!'"

Haydock laughed. "I admit," he said, "that one never quite allows for the moron in our midst. All right, I grant you Possibility One. The moron saw it, the moron didn't grasp what the action meant. And the second possibility?"

"This one's very far-fetched," but I do think it is just a possibility. It might have been a person whose action in putting something in a glass was natural."

"Wait, wait, explain that a little more clearly."

"It seems to me nowadays," said Miss Marple, "that people are always adding things to what they eat and drink."

"In my young days it was considered to be very bad manners to take medicines with one's meals."

"It was on a par with blowing your nose at the dinner table. It just wasn't done."

"If you had to take pills or capsules, or a spoonful of something, see, people wouldn't think twice."

"That's not the case now. When I was with my nephew, Ray, he said, 'that one never quite allows for the moron in our midst. All right, I grant you Possibility One. The moron saw it, the moron didn't grasp what the action meant. And the second possibility?"

"This one's very far-fetched,"

"They keep aspirins and such things in their handbags and take them the whole time, with cups of tea or with their after dinner coffee. You understand what I mean?"

"Oh yes," said Dr. Haydock. "I've got your meaning now and it's interesting. Let's have it in your own words."

"I mean," said Miss Marple, "that it would be quite possible, as soon as it was in his hand or her hand, of course, would be assumed to be his or her own drink and to add whatever was added quite openly. In that case, you, people wouldn't think twice."

"He or she couldn't be sure of that, though," Haydock pointed out.

"No," agreed Miss Marple, "it would be a gamble, a risk, but it could happen. And then, she went on, 'there's the third possibility."

"That's the sad and frightening thing. It so often happens."

ELLA'S CALL

Ella put down the telephone receiver, smiled to herself and came out of the public telephone box. She was pleased with herself.

"Chief Inspector God Almighty Craddock!" she said to herself.

"Possibility One, a moron," said the doctor. "Possibility Two, a gambler, what's Possibility Three?"

"Somebody saw what happened, and has held their tongue deliberately."

Haydock frowned. "For what reason?" he asked. "Are you suggesting blackmail? If so—"

"If so," said Miss Marple, "it's a very dangerous thing to do. Yes, indeed." He looked sharply at the placid old lady with the white fleecy garment in her lap. "Is the third possibility the one you consider the most probable one?"

"No," said Miss Marple, "I wouldn't go so far as that. I have, at the moment, insufficient grounds unless," she added carefully, "someone else gets killed."

"Do you think someone else is going to get killed?"

"I hope not," said Miss Marple. "I trust and pray not. But it so often happens. Dr. Haydock. That's the sad and frightening thing. It so often happens."

ELLA'S CALL

Ella put down the telephone receiver, smiled to herself and came out of the public telephone box. She was pleased with herself.

"Chief Inspector God Almighty Craddock!" she said to herself.

"I'm twice as good as he is at the job. Variations on the theme of 'Fly, all is discovered!'"

She pictured to herself with a good deal of pleasure the reactions recently suffered by the person at the other end of the line. That faint menacing whisper coming through the receiver. "I saw you."

She laughed silently, the corners of her mouth curving up in a feline cruel line.

A student of psychology might have watched her with some interest.

Never until the last few days had she had this feeling of power. She was hardly aware herself of how much the heady intoxication of it affected her.

She passed the East Lodge and Mrs. Bantry, busy as usual in the garden, waved a hand to her. "Damn that old woman," thought Ella. She could feel Mrs. Bantry's eyes following her as she walked up the drive.

A phrase came into her head for no particular reason.

"The pitcher goes to the well once too often."

Nonsense. Nobody could suspect that it was she who had whispered those menacing words. She sneezed.

"Damn this hay fever," said Ella Zielsky.

When she came into her office.

Jason Rudd was standing by the window.

"I couldn't think where you were."

"I had to go and speak to the gardener. There were—"

She asked sharply: "What is it?"

His eyes seemed set deeper in his face than ever. All the gaiety of the clown was gone. This was a man under strain. She had seen him under strain before but never looking like this.

She said again, "What is it?"

He held a sheet of paper out to her. "It's the analysis of that coffee. The coffee that Marina complained about and wouldn't drink."

"You sent it to be analyzed?"

She was startled. "But you poured it away down the sink. I saw you."

His wide mouth curled up in a smile. "I'm pretty good at a slight of hand," Ella said. "You didn't know that, did you? Yes, I poured most of it away but I kept a little and I took it along to be analyzed."

She looked down at the paper in her hand.

"Arsenic," she sounded incredulous.

Polynesian Islands Undergoing Change

WASHINGTON — It's becoming harder and harder to find an old-fashioned island "paradise" in the South Seas.

Two global wars and spreading airlines have brought the world and its ways to most of the palm-fringed volcanic isles and coral atolls scattered over the South Pacific.

The urge to modernize has even reached the remote and little-known French dependency of Wallis and Futuna. There, some 10,000 easygoing Polynesians, long content to fish a little and to gather the fruits of tropical abundance, are beginning to face the challenge of political and economic change.

Wallis and Futuna are two small island groups separated from each other by 120 miles of water, says the National Geographic Society.

Their position, northeast of the Fiji and west of Samoa, places them about as far from France as it is possible to be.

They are, in fact, 10,500 air miles from the European continent on the earth's opposite side.

Yet the islanders voted overwhelmingly, in a 1959 referendum, to join the French Community then being organized under the new constitution of the Fifth Republic.

They also elected to give up protectorate status — held since 1887 — for that of a French Overseas Territory. The protectorate agreement had left local affairs largely to the chiefs.

By voting for closer ties with France, Wallis and Futuna opened the way to economic development.

With territorial rank, the inhabitants of Wallis and Futuna gained full rights as French citizens. Already they receive financial aid from the state — sponsored investment fund set up to promote overseas works.

OLD CUSTOMS PROTECTED

Administrators of the program, however, do not expect any sudden transformation in the islanders' everyday lives. In fact, the territorial agreement specifically provides that customs be protected.

These customs form a curious mixture of practices inherited from pagan Polynesian ancestors and the Christian faith introduced by Marist missionaries in the 1820's.

The people of Wallis and Futuna are devout church-goers. Group activities are geared to the Roman Catholic calendar.

At the same time, many villagers cling to the old ceremonies repeat the legends, and abide by the taboos of the Polynesian past. Like their fathers and grand fathers, they live in thatched huts, sleep on mats, and prepare their food in primitive earth ovens.

A handsome, black-haired people, with copper-tinted skins, the Wallisians and Futunians have remained pure-blooded Polynesians.

They dress in vivid wrap-arounds and deck themselves with fragrant flowers. They dance and sing at festivals in the best traditions of the romance and abandon expected of a South Sea island paradise.

Not so long ago, when France still held a vast colonial empire, the director of its Pacific possessions visited the Wallis and Futuna protectorate.

He was so impressed by the natural beauty and simple way of life — and so disheartened by the economic prospects — that he suggested the islands be made into a French national park.

Jerrie Has Trouble in Transcontinental Race

By JERRIE COBB
with Jane Ricker
Installation IV

A fascinating, sometimes hair-raising way to learn the care and feeding of airplanes outside the classroom is racing.

Today's races aren't the hell-for-leather affairs of the Thirties. In those days you could scarcely tell the sex of the goggled, leather-capped, booted and bristled, and grease-covered pilot. Today's participants are chicly dressed, from latest couture to high heels. The competition, though, is just as fierce.

I was all for starting at the top, flying the "TAR," the All Women's Transcontinental Air Race, from Santa Ana, Calif., to Teterboro, N.J. The race is handicapped so that the smallest, slowest plane has as good a chance to win as the fastest.

I decided to be initiated to racing in a Skydive Derby from Dallas to Skylark. I placed third and won $125, which included $75 for being the youngest pilot in the 500-mile derby.

I arrived in Santa Ana a week later with my winnings, with high hopes and with a Cessna 140A, a two-place, single-engine airplane with about 105 miles per hour cruising speed and long range fuel tanks.

I did some last but careful figuring. The first "must" step in the race was Abilene, Tex. By taking a route across the high Mogollon Mountains, I could make the leg from Phoenix to Abilene in one hop.

This was a short route but delicate. Checkpoints on the chart were remote ranch houses. These were a little difficult to see from 12,000 feet, and to let down would result in flight termination by reason of abrupt meeting with a mountainside.

A WHIFF AND A PRAYER
On the day of the race, my Cessna arrived at Phoenix on schedule. The 140A was certified to hold 40 gallons of fuel. I would need nearly every bit of it. About 20 minutes away from my destination I heard a cough-spitter.

On approach I literally wiggled, dropping first one wing and then the other to pour the last dribbles of gas into the tank. When I refueled, the tanks took 33.4 gallons.

Weather delayed my takeoff from Dayton on the last leg to Future Ships May 'Bubble' Above Water

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Naval and commercial ships of the future may "bubble" above the water at jet-propelled speeds of 100 knots if a principle being tested here is successful.

A 9-ton, 52-foot research test vehicle resembling an elongated speed boat has been built here, it rides on a "captured" air principle developed by Allen Ford, a physicist at the Naval Air Development Center (NADC) at nearby Johnsville, Pa.

Developers said the day may come when the same theory can be applied to many types of larger vessels, including the largest troop transports, ocean liners and aircraft carriers.

The theory of the Captured Air Bubble (CAB) Vessel involves air trapped beneath the hull of the vessel which is powered by a jet engine on the stern.

The current research test vehicle has sideboards and movable back and front flippers extending into the water which permits the hull to ride 2 or 3 feet above the water—pushed up by the "captured" air.

The jet engine is located above deck on the stern between two fins. Auxiliary power for docking and maneuvering in basin areas is provided by a conventional 110 horsepower marine engine.

Teterboro. I went fireballing toward the Teterboro terminals.

I had a half-hour of fuel left when a vast metropolitan spread emerged ahead.

"Teterboro tower, this is TAR three-six, estimating your field in one-five minutes."

Acknowledged immediately, I was given landing instructions.

At the end of 15 minutes, when I should have been over the airport, I still could see nothing that resembled one, so I called again.

LANDMARKS
"TAR three-six, Teterboro tower. Look for several tall buildings to the north, also double rail road tracks, converging rivers and a six-lane highway. Report when you have them in sight."

I looked. "Teterboro Tower, TAR three six. There are buildings, railroad tracks, rivers and highways everywhere I look. I'm letting down to 600 feet and will try to find something identifiable. I have 20 minutes' fuel remaining."

I was kicking myself. What a waste of precious minutes that would count against my total race time. Here I was flown coast to the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, said he is returning.

The $1 payments he receives with the explanation that the first ride is a seilout.

George B. Hartzog Jr., National Park Service superintendent at the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, said he is returning.

I could fairly hear the fuel gurgling away, but at 600 feet I suddenly spotted the Statue of Liberty. I could have kissed her.

"Teterboro tower, TAR three-six. I have the Statue of Liberty in sight, due north of me."

A relieved voice replied, "You're all set now. Fly straight from the Statue, up the river. You'll see the airport straight ahead left of the river."

I headed upriver in a hurry, as more minutes vanished. And then I saw the airport, in the misting afternoon I poured on power, but stop a hangar, bright yellow letters read, "U.S. Air Force."

FAST PULL-UP
My pull-up was faster than you could say "License suspended for buzzing military installations."

Plainly, "Teterboro tower, this is TAR three-six and I've just passed over an Air Force base. Can you give me a heading to Teterboro?"

Acidly, "TAR three-six, Teterboro. You followed the wrong river. That's the Passaic. You want the Hackensack. Take an easterly heading."

Within perhaps five minutes I had "Teterboro in welcome sight. TAR 36 hiccupped her last drop as I cut the engine at the timer's station."

My glorious sweep of first place in the Transcontinental Air Race came out fourth, thanks to my last half hour. But I was consoled by the place prize of $100. Later I was given a Grimes Navigator for being the first into the Dayton overnight stop.

Of the seven transcontinental, international, and regional air races I've flown—always solo—I've won only one.

But I learned valuable lessons in fuel-saving, course plotting and weather watching that have come in handy throughout my flying. The TAR and the International especially separate the women from the girls.

Flemish, Walloon Languages Split Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Last week, the painstaking art of fabricating beautiful, intricate designs with a piece of thread, has been for centuries an admired Belgian specialty.

But this patience for small, infinite details seems at times to extend to political lacemaking, with consequences which threaten the very structure of this tiny country.

One of the problems at present is language, a problem dating from Belgium's independence 132 years ago.

Belgians then revolted against the Dutch, who controlled the area, and won independence with the help of the French and British governments and troops. The country was ruled by a succession of governments made up of upper middle class French-speaking personalities. Ministers spoke French, public officials spoke French, schoolmasters spoke French, judges spoke French.

But in almost half the country lived farmers, laborers, workers who spoke various forms of a dialect called Flemish (similar to Dutch) and who did not understand a word of French.

OPPRESSED MAJORITY
The language situation has evolved considerably since then.

Pony Express Rides Again —by Water

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Pony Express is many years gone, but in Oklahoma its spirit is still alive.

A modern, mostly waterborne version of the Pony Express passed through here recently carrying letters from Catoosa, Okla., a small town northeast of Tulsa, to Washington, inviting President Kennedy, other administration officials and Oklahoma, Kansas delegations to attend the dedication of Ooalagah Dam on July 20.

Ooalagah Dam is the first completed unit in a $1.2 billion river, dam and locks complex that will make the Arkansas River navigable to the Mississippi and to the sea.

Two Oklahoma rivers, the Arkansas and Verdigris, are now dry, nearly shallow streams. By 1970, they'll be deep waterways to busy seaports.

There will be a port at Catoosa on the Verdigris, and that was the launching site for the letters.

Two Tulsans, John O. Whitney, head of an advertising agency, and L. W. Grant, president of a savings and loan company, began the modern "express." They took a 91-mile river trip from Catoosa to Muskogee in a small boat, powered by a 3-horsepower motor.

The river was so shallow they had to leave the boat and push and pull more than a dozen times.

In 1970, huge barges will float the stretches their boat couldn't manage.

From Muskogee, the letters went down the Arkansas to the Mississippi to New Orleans, up the Atlantic coast to New York and then to Washington.

Probes Data of Mystery Flying Objects

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Robert J. Gribble of Seattle is a one-man data processing center. He analyzes material on "unidentified flying objects," more commonly called "flying saucers."

Gribble has collected reports on these mysterious objects since 1947. There are 1,200 persons in the Seattle area on his mailing list.

He is one of nine national directors of the National Investigations Commission on Aerial Phenomena.

Some of them are professional scientists, says Gribble, but they are reluctant to be identified.

"That is one of our largest problems," he asserts. "Hundreds of top scientists are concerned about UFOs, but they stay far in the background. Conversely, the crackpots are quick to speak up and they get the headlines."

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS SPECIAL REPORT

It means that all signs—official posters, road signs, railroad announcements, street names—are printed solely in Flemish north of the line. It means that official schools—the majority—teach only in Flemish. South of the line the same rules apply—in French.

Few Flemings live in the French-speaking area. Numerous French-speaking Belgians live in the Flemish area, mainly in such large cities as Antwerp and Ghent.

At one time Flemings were satisfied to be able to operate in Flemish and let others do as they please. Now an aggressive Flemish movement has developed which aims at eradicating any trace of French in the Flemish area. Riots flared in and around a decaying coal industry, unemployment and a lower birth rate. But Flemings still feel oppressed. Why? Because French is still spoken in the Flemish area, because in Brussels French is still used in preference to Flemish. Because in many Flemish areas, popular movement has created a nucleus of important French-speaking minorities.

A new slogan has now appeared: "No more theft of (Flemish) territory." On this ground, Flemings oppose any facilities for French-speaking minorities living in Flemish areas.

But Brussels, where French and Flemish are the official languages, is right in the Flemish area. Brussels has been spreading Flemish-only suburbs have, sometimes more than 40 per cent French-speaking population clamoring for French schools, and official language spoken in public offices, but public officers will have to speak French to the increasing number of French-speaking Belgians moving to the neighborhoods.

Scientist Makes Key Find

Baldness Is Linked to Glands

NEW YORK (UPI) — For 54 years the man was not only bald — he had no beard and was hairless all over.

Then a curious medical scientist began dosing him daily with adrenal gland hormone. In less than a month the man was sprouting hair.

In two months he had a full beard, a luxurious moustache and eyebrows.

There was a thing covering of hair all over his head.

The daily hormone does was reduced. His newly acquired hair began thinning in step. The daily dosing was stopped altogether. Within three months 90 per cent of his hair was gone.

The daily dosing was resumed but in much smaller amounts than before. Hair growth resumed but at a lesser rate. The daily doses were increased, a little bit at a time. Hair growth became thicker and faster by steps.

FINAL PROOF

Dr. Fred T. Darvill Jr. of the University of Washington School of Medicine, Seattle, thus proved with scientific finality that hormonal secretions of the adrenal glands are somehow involved in baldness.

He hastened to add, however, that other things are also involved. Many glistering male domes are connected physiologically with adrenal glands which secrete adequate hormones, and some people with abundant foliage have deficient adrenals.

Nevertheless, Darvill's scientific contribution was important. It demonstrated that dermatologists who have tried to arrest balding with the adrenal hormone, hydrocortisone, are on the right track.

Medical science can now concentrate on finding those other factors.

His demonstration case was a very special person — a man who is "a severely deteriorated schizophrenic" who has been a patient in a Washington State mental hospital for 43 years. But one must keep in mind that baldness and adrenal gland function have never been associated with this mental disorder, schizophrenia.

You must assume his hairlessness had nothing to do with his disease, or his disease with his hairlessness.

HAIR LOSS AT 18

When admitted to the hospital at the age of 20 he was already far advanced toward the totally hairless state called "alopecia universalis." It had set in at the age of 8 with the loss of head hair — "alopecia areata." The man was 62 when Darvill began experimenting with him.

At no point did the dosage of adrenal hormone exceed the amounts which are secreted normally by these glands.

The man's own adrenals were under-active but only mildly so.

Microscopic examination of the skin of his scalp, his beard area, and his forearms revealed normality, including the presence of sacs to follicles from which hair usually grows.

Darvill reported to a technical organ of the American Medical Association. In medical science, he reminded, baldness generally is considered unchangeable if it has persisted for longer than five years. In his case not mere baldness of head but "alopecia universalis" was changed after it had persisted 54 years.

Fifty-seven of every 100 non-rural homeowner properties in the United States were mortgaged and a total mortgage debt of $117.2 billion was reported in the 1960 census of housing.

By BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

Wonderful for amusement and family rooms, lake homes and maintenance of early Colonial decorating decor. Fireplace benefits, appeal and comfort at a fraction of fireplace costs.

Benjamin Franklin himself is credited with originating the Franklin stove far back in 1745. Ever since, and continuing to today, its unique performance properties are being recognized and put to use. Far more efficient than a fireplace, but imparts true fireplace coziness and appearance with its wide open front. Holds fire for long periods. The flat top area provides for the coffee pot and cooking utensils; the open fireplace area for barbecuing and open fire broiling.

Hot Coffee Is Picnic 'Must'

The first thing a cookout calls for is coffee — a big camper's potful brewed over an open fire. Then, with the aroma of the coffee to spur you on, prepare the rest of the trappings.

Instead of the familiar hot dogs and hamburgers, why not try these tangy Cheddar-Walnut Sandwiches for a delicious change? They're filled with a blend of sharp cheddar and chopped walnuts. Go-withs include cole slaw, deviled eggs, assorted relishes — and, of course, the big, fragrant potful of coffee.

Just in case you've never brewed coffee in the open, here are the easy directions. Allowing a quart-and-a-half of water for eight servings, measure the water into a large, clean pot.

Now, add eight Approved Coffee Measures (or one level measuring cup) of regular grind coffee. Stir the brew for half a minute and then let it steep over very low heat for ten minutes more.

Grilled Cheddar-Walnut Sandwiches
3 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese
1 cup chopped walnuts

GRILLED SANDWICHES — The chef doesn't have to call twice. Everyone's ready and waiting for a steaming cup of picnic coffee and a tangy Cheddar-Walnut Sandwich, hot off the grill.

1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup sharp cooked salad dressing
Sandwich bread
Combine all ingredients except butter. Grill over hot coals.

Sour Cream Cukes Please Gourmets

Cucumbers have a natural affinity for sour cream, and make a pleasant change from the customary tossed salad.

Slice 2 unpeeled cucumbers very thin, sprinkle with salt and let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile, combine 1 cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon sugar and 1/4 teaspoon dried tarragon, 1/2 teaspoon onion salt and 1 tablespoon minced fresh dill.

Pour liquid off cucumbers and pat dry with paper towels. Mix cucumbers into dressing; chill well. Makes 6 servings.

New Potatoes Love Butter

Tiny new potatoes need not be scraped. Wash them well. Cook until tender in boiling water. Drain. Then serve with melted butter and a generous sprinkling of chopped chives or parsley.

Another sauce: Pour mixture of lemon juice and butter over the potatoes, then roll in minced parsley.

Argentine Election Points Up Peronist Split

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The Peronists in Argentina are very much divided. Results of the general election Sunday emphasized the split in their once powerful ranks.

Many believe the chasm stretches to the main dissident in Madrid—Juan Domingo Peron. The exiled former dictator is acting less like a leader and more like a figurehead.

Peron's latest thoughts came Wednesday via his private secretary, Juan Manuel Algarbe.

Voicing Peron's reaction to the election results, he said:

"Neither peace nor tranquility can be expected at this time in Argentina, but a new period of fighting and violence. With all the legal roads closed to the Argentine people, only the road to an insurrection remains."

Strong words from a man who fled from military rebels in 1955 and would not fight for his 18-year old empire.

OTHER THREATS

Similar threats came just the other day from a tough textile union boss, Andres Framini:

"Every day in every place, there will be one order: To cause the most damage to the enemy."

To Framini, the enemy is the government.

Peron also attacked the election as "a farce destined to perpetuate the power of the forces that have governed the country for the past eight years."

Known Peronists were banned for the Peronists, was knocked out. Popular Front also were eliminated as candidates for executive offices. Of the 1963 race by presidential election by Dr. Raul Mateta, the brain surgeon-decree. Other candidates backing the government.

And the Peronists—Justicialista

movement kicked out Dr. Mateta, calling him "a traitor to the cause." This was but one of many unexplained maneuvers in the political world Peron left behind.

The order from Madrid and Peronist chieftains in Argentina for last Sunday's election was "vote blank." About 15 per cent of the voters obeyed. In 1961, there were about 25 per cent who took the Peronist line under similar orders.

Antonio Cafiero, a Peronist economic strategist, said that many workers—the labor force is predominantly Peronist—felt the "blank vote" was a negative vote.

The high man in the presidential race, Dr. Arturo Illia, would not talk specifically about the Peronists but in effect promised them a free role in elections if the electoral college chooses him president. He said outlawing of parties would be halted.

Opening the polls to the Peronists was Frondizi's crime in the eyes of the military. They are not likely to let Illia do the same thing.

Sukarno Fights Asia Federation

Renews Opposition to Malaysia Union

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno renewed his opposition last night to the creation of Malaysia out of Malaysia, Singapore and the British Borneo territories of Sarawak and North Borneo.

Sukarno accused Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, architect of the federation, of breaking a pledge to let the people of the Borneo territories decide whether they wanted to join the federation.

Regrets Buying Waterless Park in Puget Sound

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—The Washington State Parks Department, which wants to unload a 137-acre park site on a Puget Sound island that has everything but water, is thinking of pleading ignorance and trying to foist the whole thing back on the government.

Parks director Clayton Anderson said Tuesday geologists told him it would be impossible to drill a well on the site of the old Army fort, bought from the government for $158,653.

The Army, geologists explained gently, brought its water in by barge.

Said Anderson: "We might appeal—plead ignorance on the lack of water and try to trade it."

Eats Pins for Nerves

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet doctors reported yesterday they removed 130 nails and 346 needles from an Armenian woman who swallowed them in an apparent effort to cure her nervousness.

The official news agency, Tass, identified her as Antanram Khachatryan, 40. She was quoted as saying that "evil spirits" told her to swallow the nails and needles.

Tass said the needles penetrated her liver and other vital organs, but that she is now recovering.

Poodle Walks on Hind Legs; Docs Baffled

ODENSE, Denmark (AP)—Puck, a year-old poodle, has baffled Danish medical men. He walks only on his hind legs.

"The dog started walking upright when he was three months old," his owner, Carl W. Soelling, told a reporter. "We never trained him to do it."

"When Puck goes walking it's nearly always on his hind legs. Sometimes he stands upright for more than five minutes, staring at something interesting."

One Danish surgeon has asked permission to take X-rays of Puck's pelvic region in an attempt to find out why he apes the human stance. Soelling gave his okay, saying, "I am anxiously waiting for the result of this scientific examination."

French to Repay $200 Million of Debt

PARIS (AP)—The French government has decided to repay more than $200 million of its foreign debt before it is due. Most of the money probably will go to the United States.

Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte announced the decision Wednesday after the weekly Cabinet meeting. No details were given.

The payments will trim France's foreign debt to about $600 million.

LONDON (AP)—Allied diplomats say West Germany wants permission for a fleet of hunter-killer submarines of up to about 1,000 tons as the next step in rearmament.

Bonn's defense chiefs also are reported making plans to eventually build a fleet of ocean-going attack submarines of up to 1,700 tons for the first time since World War II. Informants said U.S. construction facilities are being prepared at Kiel.

The Germans are allowed submarines of a maximum 450 tons. The West Germans are believed to have persuaded North Atlantic Treaty Organization they should play a more active antiairborne role in the Baltic in case of a war.

One Man Guards U.S. From Atomic Accidents

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI)—When radioactive materials are shipped from place to place in the nation, a lone duty officer in the Atomic Energy Commission's Albuquerque operations office is the American public's guardian angel.

If an accident happens in handling or storage of radioactive material, police, fire and transportation officials call by telephone — Albuquerque, 256-4411, ext. 3-8267.

Donald P. Dickason, director of the AEC's storage division at Albuquerque, has transportation responsibility for all the nation's classified radioactive material and all "hazardous material."

He directs and coordinates all classified shipments in the United States.

Either Dickason or one of his duty officers is available at the Albuquerque telephone number 24 hours a day. Because of advance route planning, the man on duty can locate every bit of moving radioactive material geographically at any given time.

According to Dickason, there never has been an accidental nuclear explosion. He said the Atomic Energy Commission has never had an accident of any sort which resulted in danger to the public.

When a vehicle carrying radioactive material is involved in an accident, a team of experts is rushed to the scene. When the storage division is notified there has been an accident, it is decided which emergency team will take charge to protect the public from contamination. They always have controlled the situation successfully.

Four Youths Held in Druggist's Death

DETROIT (AP)—Four of five Negro youths accused in the holdup slaying of a white druggist June 25 were ordered held for trial on a charge of first-degree murder yesterday by Recorder's Court Judge Elvin L. Davenport.

A fifth youth, Bernard Dinges, 17, was freed and admonished by the court. An assistant prosecutor said there was insufficient evidence to hold him for trial, although he supplied the murder weapon.

Testimony at a court examination showed Dinges gave a gun to Jerry Hughes, 20, not knowing Hughes allegedly wanted to use it in a robbery. Hughes is accused of being the triggerman in the slaying of Raymond Nolan, 71, in his drugstore.

Seeking New Probe of Union-Ship Rift

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board filed a motion in federal court yesterday in an effort to reopen its investigation into the refusal of a group of union members to load a Canadian vessel.

The NLRB asked the U.S. District Court to reverse an order handed down July 1 by Judge Julius J. Hoffman which ordered quashed 40 subpoenas issued to members of Local 418, grain elevator operators union.

Union members have refused to load the vessel, the Howard L. Shaw, a grain freighter, which has been docked since April 22.

Seek Acquittal of Accused Spy

Italian Physicist On Trial in Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Lawyers for Italian physicist Giuseppe Marielli went into court today to ask for his acquittal on charges of having been a "spy-in-waiting" for the Russian espionage service.

Marielli, 40, was arrested while working at the British atomic research center at Culham under the aegis of the European Atomic Energy Community.

He was accused of accepting radio equipment, coding apparatus and other espionage paraphernalia from the Communists although there was no specific charge he actually gave secrets to the Russians.

Marielli pleaded innocent. It was considered possible his case might come up today at a meeting on British security between Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and opposition Labor party leader Harold Wilson. Britain has been rocked by a series of security cases in recent years.

Yesterday Marielli testified he did not go to British authorities because he had been informed there was a "leak" in Scotland Yard.

The nuclear physicist has claimed the Russians tried to blackmail him into spying by threatening to give his estranged wife permission to take their children behind the Iron Curtain.

Marielli said he stalled the Russians in order to get time to collect evidence that would do "real damage" to the Soviet Secret Service.

Storm Skirts Guam, Aims at Philippines

HONOLULU (UPI) — Typhoon Wendy, with winds of more than 100 miles an hour near its center, appeared today to have bypassed the island of Guam.

The Philippines could catch the full brunt of the storm.

The Honolulu Weather Bureau said the typhoon center was about 90 miles southwest of Guam at 7 a.m. (Pon-tiac time) and was expected to be about 170 miles due west of the island early tomorrow.

The Weather Bureau said winds at the center were expected to increase to nearly 100 M.P.H. as the typhoon headed toward the Philippines.

Go to the Racetrack

Want to Be a Movie Discovery?

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Want to get discovered for the movies? Forget the Little Theater, a soda stool at Schwab's Drugstore posing for cheesecake.

Go to the racetrack.

And it helps if you look like 20-year-old Evelyn Carson, a Swiss beauty with more curves than an Alpine pass.

Evelyn is a dancer with the Folies Bergere in Las Vegas. Before that she danced with the Folies in Paris.

She met many producers and directors but none ever asked her about a movie career.

"I think," she says, "it was because we wear so little in the Folies. Men are so distracted."

ATTENDS RACE

But the other day, she came down from Las Vegas to attend her first horse race.

She wore a chic suit which she made herself and sat down in the Turf Club. I was with her.

Within five minutes, the maire D called me aside. One of Hollywood's biggest producer-directors wanted to know the girl's name and address.

Before the racing card was finished, I had five other messages from similarly important movie people.

Usually, horse players, whether they be movie tycoons or two dollar bettors, look at nothing but a racing form.

Not so with Evelyn.

Several callers last night told them she is married to one of the Carson brothers, a strong man balancing act.

But most of the callers were

Italy Chief After Vote of Confidence

ROME (UPI) — Premier Giovanni Leone went to the Chamber of Deputies today for a vote of confidence that will enable his Christian Democratic government to stay in power through October.

Approval would give the country a government long enough to get a budget through Parliament. Leone has promised to resign after Oct. 31. The Senate approved his cabinet last week.

The Communists and Socialists permitted Leone's stopgap government to get Senate approval by not voting against it, although they did not actively support it either.

Political experts predicted a similar course of action in the lower house.

Even with parliamentary approval, Leone faces a difficult reign. Italy's Communists, the country's second largest party, have hinted they plan to instigate a series of strikes during the summer months just to keep things hot for the government.

The Socialists have called a party congress next October. Unless they and the Christian Democrats can agree on another coalition government, the prospects for a stable government in this NATO and Common Market country are dim.

Both the Socialists and the Christian Democrats want to renew their old "center-left" arrangement, but each has insisted on certain conditions.

The Socialists demand backing for their legislative proposals. The Christian Democrats want the Socialists to break their remaining ties with the Communists.

But Communist sympathizers within the Socialist party appear to be getting stronger. They have upset one proposed renewal of the center-left, and have become more militant about their demands.

The first president to receive a queen officially was Andrew Johnson. He welcomed Queen Emma of the Sandwich Islands of Hawaii Aug. 14, 1880.

STUDIED ACTING

Evelyn has studied acting, along with ballet, since she was a child. Her ballet training is probably what got her noticed more than anything. No one walks quite like a ballerina.

Ballerinas have a good track record in the movies. Audrey Hepburn, Brigitte Bardot, Cyd Charisse, Shirley Maclaine are some dancers who have made it big.

Evelyn, naturally, is excited about the interest but she says, "I wait until I see it in writing and dollar signs."

At Real Estate Sale

Tycoon Beats Auctioneer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The best salesman at William Zeckendorf's mammoth real estate auction yesterday was Zeckendorf himself.

Going into action after veteran auctioneer Stephen McDonald had failed to get a single bid on the largest parcel of the 33 properties under the hammer, Zeckendorf completed the sale personally by phone.

Zeckendorf would not name the purchaser of the huge Baychester tract in the Bronx but said the property went for "more than the upset price."

The upset price is the minimum knock-down price established before the auction begins.

Operating behind a battery of telephones from a box in the mezzanine of the Astor Hotel, the real estate tycoon completed the transaction just minutes after the auction officially ended about 4 p.m.

The upset price for the Baychester property, on which Zeckendorf's Webb & Knapp, Inc., had expended $1.3 for a motel project since abandoned, was $2 million.

McDonald, vice president of Joseph P. Day, Inc., and a 40-year-veteran in the business, was only able to get rid of 10 properties for $2.82 million after two hours on the auctioneer's stand.

The figure was a scant $4,000 above the upset prices set of $7.5 million in established prices asked. All of the properties went for the upset price except several small parcels in Flushing, N.Y.

Zeckendorf saved the day with his telephone coup in the mezzanine.

The two largest tracts auctioned off, both located on the west side of Manhattan, were picked up by D. E. Wallace, a Dallas real estate operator. One went for $1.3 million and the other for $520,000.

Ballering have a good track record in the movies. Audrey Hepburn, Brigitte Bardot, Cyd Charisse, Shirley Maclaine are some dancers who have made it big.

Evelyn, naturally, is excited about the interest but she says, "I wait until I see it in writing and dollar signs."

Acid Stomach Cause Usually Fast Eating

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY
"My brother," says a Virginia reader, "is subject to hay fever. At the beginning of the hay fever season last summer, he had pain in his left shoulder, diagnosed as bursitis, which it wasn't. Just an acid condition. The M.D. gave him 'shots' for it and he developed asthma and has been miserable ever since. Thanking you..."

(Signed) ... I was a thousand miles away from Virginia all last winter, spring and summer.

Besides, I haven't the faintest idea what "acid condition" means. If it is related to "acid ash" and "alkali ash" foods in the diet or perhaps exclusion or restriction in the quantity of certain beneficial foods because they are "too acid," that is pretty silly, in view of the fact that eggs, fish and meat (beef, pork, veal, chicken, rabbit) have the highest acidity or acid-forming quality, yet the late Vilhjalmur Stefansson and Karsten Anderson followed an exclusive meat diet (nothing else but meat) for a year, under constant observation and study of physicians, physiologists, clinical pathologists, biological chemists, nutritionists and other experts, and finished the year in as good or better health as they had at the beginning.

At no time did either man have more than the normal limit of uric acid or other acids. Their diet included beef, lamb, veal, pork or chicken, both lean and fat portions, and also, at times liver, kidney, brain, bacon and bone marrow. Stefansson at times took eggs when traveling, if meat was not available, and also some butter and fish.

FOIL FANCIES

Stefansson's "The Friendly Arctic" is a great classic of Canadian literature (The Macmillan Co., Toronto, New York, Bombay, Melbourne, London), and his reprint, "Adventures in Diet" (Institute of American Meat Packers, Chicago), a highly instructive summary of observations and reports should dispose of a lot of bewildered fancies of both physicians and laymen — those with 19th century ideas, that is.

Hyperacidity, hyperchlorhydria, sour stomach, heartburn, hunger pain, acid eructations, waterbrash — these are familiar complaints of persons with what I call "Yankee Stomach." In a few instances the trouble may be peptic ulcer. In others it is just smokers' duodenal ulcer complex — symptoms suggesting ulcer but no x-ray evidence of ulcer. In most instances the trouble is due to overeating.

If you're in a great hurry it is far better to carry a handful of peanuts or nuts in your pocket and chew one at a time on the way than it is to wolf down anything you haven't time to masticate.

Even in Yankeland, where we are all in such haste, the digestion of starch still takes place, or should take place, largely in the mouth while the food is being chewed.

So much of the starch in food goes almost directly to the duodenum unchewed, on account of the national hurry and ignorance of physiology, is in my opinion a contributing cause of diabetes.

Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet, "Yankee Stomach."

Signed letter, not more than one page on the words the perfect personal health and hygiene, diet, disease, diagnosis, and treatment, will be answered. Dr. William Brady, a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Newspaper Enterprise Association)

I have often stressed the importance of the key word, "Arch." I am indebted to George Gooden, President of the American Bridge Teachers' Association for the first three letters of that word. I added the "H" which asks "How can I make or set the contract?"

The ABTA will be holding its annual meeting in Los Angeles the 25th and 26th of this month and anyone interested in learning the latest things in teaching will do well to attend.

The "C" stands for "Count your winners and losers."

George points out that South can count nine sure winners at his three no-trump contract if he wins the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and knocks out the ace of clubs immediately.

George points out further that if South tries a spade finesse and East holds the king a heart shift will beat the hand in the event that the heart finesse is wrong. Of course, it is tough luck to lose two finesses, but George says that a winning player should not depend on luck when he doesn't have it. South's correct play is to take the ace of spades and go right after clubs.

East will take his ace and shift to a heart and now South can try the heart finesse. It will lose, but South won't be hurt. He will still gather in four diamonds, three clubs and the two major suit aces for his nine tricks.

Dodger Pitchers Compared With Benny

By the Associated Press
About those Los Angeles Dodger pitchers.

Man, they give up runs the way Jack Benny parts with a buck.

Johnny Podres pulled the Scrabble act Wednesday night, doing out three miserly singles and striking out 11 as the Dodgers eased in another victory by handling New York's poverty-stricken Mets their 11th successive loss, 1-0.

The Dodgers now have won eight of their last nine in climbing from fourth place to a rich fourth game lead in the National League. In five of those eight victories, Los Angeles pitchers have posted shutouts and in two others they've held the opposition to a single run.

Podres has been particularly close-fisted of late. The 30-year-old left-hander has banked three victories in the Dodgers' latest surge, allowing a grand total of one run and 10 hits. His squaker over the Mets, decided on John Roseboro's eighth-inning homer, was his second straight by a 1-0 score and his fourth shutout.

While the Dodgers were edging the Mets, the Philadelphia Phillies dropped second-place San Francisco four games behind, capitulating on Giant misplays in a 10-2 romp.

RELIEF HELP

Also in the NL-Joe Jay became a winner for the first time in over a month, with strong relief help in the final inning, as the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Chicago Cubs 3-1; and Houston's Ken Johnson and Hal Woodeshick combined for a five-hit 2-0 shutout of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dick Stuart's slugging powered the Boston Red Sox over Minnesota 7-4 in 10 innings in the only American League game played. The hard-hitting first baseman exploded out of a home run slump.

Podres, 24, extended his scoreless string to 24 innings in a duel with the Mets' Carl Willey, who checked the Dodgers on four singles until Roseboro rifled one into the seats with one out in the eighth.

Podres had his closest call in the last of the ninth. With one on and one out, Frank Thomas rapped one deep to left—but Tommy Davis got it against the wall, and his throw in was relayed to first for a game-ending double play.

The Phils got three runs in the fifth inning for a 4-2 lead over the Giants with the help of Chuck Hillier's error, then added three unearned runs in the sixth when Willie McCovey dropped a fly for a rout with another three-run flurry against reliever Billy Hoefi in the seventh, winding up with the fifth victory in their last six games.

McCovey banged his 23rd homer in the first and Orlando Cepeda hit his 17th in the fourth, giving San Francisco a brief 2-0 lead. Cal McLish, 34, won it but had to leave in the sixth when he injured his ankle running the bases. Johnny Klipstein finished for the Phils. Lefty Bill O'Dell, 30-5, started and lost for the Giants.

NOW 4-12

Al Worthington and Bill Henry stifled a bases-loaded Cuba drive in the ninth, saving Jay's first victory since June 4. The big right-hander, a 21-game winner in each of the last two seasons, now has a 4-12 mark.

The Reds netted all three of their runs in the first off Glenn Hobbie, with Marty Keough knocking in two with a triple and scoring on a single by John Edwards.

Woodeshick relieved Johnson with the bases full in the eighth inning at Pittsburgh, retired the side by striking out Smokey Burgess, then held off the Pirates in the ninth. The Cubs managed only six hits off Bob Friend, but bunched three of them in the first for both their runs on Ernie Fazio's double, singles by Al Spangler and Pete Runnels, and a fielder's choice grounder by Carl Warwick.

Stuart, who hadn't homered in 21 games and hadn't driven in a run in 11, tagged his 18th of the season with one on in the fourth inning as the Red Sox built up a 4-0 lead against southpaw Jim

Kagat of the Twins. Then, facing Minnesota reliever star Bill Dailey in the 10th after Dick Williams' pinch double and a walk, Stuart hit No. 19. The blow ended Dailey's scoreless streak at 24 innings and dealt the Twins their seventh setback in the last eight games.

Boston's bullpen ace, Dick Radatz, raised his record to 9-1 with three innings of one-hit relief.

La Clinton also homered for Boston, while Bob Allison collected his 22nd for the Twins.

Maris Joins Mantle on Shelf

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris, the other half of New York's famed M-and-M slugging combination, has joined Mickey Mantle on the Yankee list of the missing.

Maris, who assumed the Yankee team leadership when Mantle was sidelined with a broken foot June 5, will undergo surgery at New York's Lenox Hill Hospital Friday for a rectal fissure.

"From what I hear from New York," Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said in Los Angeles, "I expect him to be out a week to 10 days."

Mantle, who won the American League's Most Valuable Player award for the third time last season, rejoined the Yankees in Los Angeles today, but is not expected to be ready to play for another week or two.

"I'll play him as soon as he's ready," Houk said. "I don't know when that will be."

Maris, the Yanks' right fielder, was scheduled for surgery after an examination by the Yankee team physician, Dr. Sidney Gaynor, and a specialist, Dr. John Donaldson, who will perform the operation.

The big ball of Spencer Floor Coverings' Ed McNamara and Jerry Thomas' strong hurling clinched a tie for the Waterford Township Class B softball title last night.

Thomas tossed a two-bitter and McNamara singled, doubled and tripled in the 5-0 conquest of runner-up Lakeland Pharmacy.

McNamara and Dean Parmenter bombed successive three-baggers in the second inning as the winners wrapped up the decision with a four-run rally.

It was Spencer's sixth straight win and gives it a three-game bulge over the losers with three games left to play. Thomas had excellent support as he fanned home, walked none and permitted only the two base runners.

Tonight in Class C action at the Drayton Plains diamond, Haskins Chevrolet will play Lakeland Pharmacy at 7 o'clock and the 8:30 nightcap will pair Dixie Bar and Dinky's Hideaway.

Syracuse Maintains Comfortable Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Syracuse Chiefs maintained their comfortable five-game margin as leaders of the International League's Northern Division today, while Atlanta held first place in the Southern Division after halting a six-game losing streak.

The Chiefs split a doubleheader with second place Buffalo Wednesday night, winning the first game 5-5 but falling in the second 8-5. Atlanta handed the Jacksonville Suns their sixth straight defeat, 7-2.

A wild throw by Buffalo's Ello Chicon allowed Reno Bortola to race home with the winning run for the Chiefs as Bob Dostal posted his eighth victory against two losses. Joe Christopher's two-run homer in the seventh inning clinched the victory for the Bisons in the nightcap.

McNamara and Dean Parmenter bombed successive three-baggers in the second inning as the winners wrapped up the decision with a four-run rally.

It was Spencer's sixth straight win and gives it a three-game bulge over the losers with three games left to play. Thomas had excellent support as he fanned home, walked none and permitted only the two base runners.

Tonight in Class C action at the Drayton Plains diamond, Haskins Chevrolet will play Lakeland Pharmacy at 7 o'clock and the 8:30 nightcap will pair Dixie Bar and Dinky's Hideaway.

The only men ever to win the PGA Championship and the Masters Tournament the same year were Sam Snead in 1949 and Jack Burke Jr. in 1956.

The Syracuse Chiefs maintained their comfortable five-game margin as leaders of the International League's Northern Division today, while Atlanta held first place in the Southern Division after halting a six-game losing streak.

The Chiefs split a doubleheader with second place Buffalo Wednesday night, winning the first game 5-5 but falling in the second 8-5. Atlanta handed the Jacksonville Suns their sixth straight defeat, 7-2.

A wild throw by Buffalo's Ello Chicon allowed Reno Bortola to race home with the winning run for the Chiefs as Bob Dostal posted his eighth victory against two losses. Joe Christopher's two-run homer in the seventh inning clinched the victory for the Bisons in the nightcap.

The big ball of Spencer Floor Coverings' Ed McNamara and Jerry Thomas' strong hurling clinched a tie for the Waterford Township Class B softball title last night.

Local 594 kept alive its chances for a berth in the city Class A baseball playoffs with a win last night, but M. G. Collison's hopes suffered a set back.

The union team topped the Barbers, 5-2, in the nightcap of a Jaycee No. 2 diamond twin bill that saw M. G. tied by last place Oxford, 7-7, in the opener. A time limit stopped the game.

The same field will be the scene of another doubleheader tonight when the league's top four teams will collide.

At 6 p.m. Talbot Lumber, in fourth place, will risk its first place ambitions against defending city champion Huron-Airway. The nightcap will have Cranbrook playing host to the league-leading Clippers.

Huron-Airway and Cranbrook are tied for second place. Only a game and a half separate the top four teams.

BUILDS LEAD
Last night's action saw Local 594 snap a 2-2 tie on a third-inning single by Ed Lovell and double by Mel Taylor plus an error by the Barbers for two runs and a lead it never lost.

Jim Gerhardt held the losers to five hits and only Bob Tuck's two-run double in the second caused the trouble. any trouble. He whiffed seven and walked only one.

The win put the fifth place underdog in a game and a half out of the final playoff spot.

M. G. failed to keep pace with the unionmen by blowing 5-2 and 7-4 lead against Oxford. Gary Hunter and Dave McDonald had run-producing singles as the Merchants punched across three tying runs in the sixth inning.

Terry Lilly's two-run triple was the big blow in M. G.'s five-run upset in the third. It was Oxford's second tie this season and the loop's fourth.

'Mistake' Costs Race Track Plenty

NEW YORK (AP)—They say you can't beat the horses. But this was the day they did it. To the tune of $20,845.40.

"Human error," an embarrassed Louis M. Walger said after mutual clerks at Aqueduct Race Track had shoved more than $20,000 in over-payment through the windows.

"This is the first time in my 28 years of experience as a mutual manager that an error of this particular type has happened," explained Walger, who is director of the mutual department of the New York Racing Association.

The cause of his discomfort came about in the first race at the Big A Wednesday.

BIG SCRATCH
The electronic calculator which automatically figures the prices on the ponies had broken down in a dry run before the first race. Mutual department clerks, who normally check the calculator's figures, were pressed into duty figuring the prices manually.

Somewhat, they failed to take into consideration that one horse, Parma, had been scratched.

The error showed in the place prices. Brenda's Hope, who won the race, was listed at $18.30 for a $2 place ticket and Brown's Rags, who finished second, was listed at $5.50.

That's the price that was declared official and that's the price the track paid.

But clerks later discovered

Patio Meals Should Be Simple

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

With the help of portable electric appliances and a carefully planned menu, patio meals can be prepared with a minimum of effort.

Two home economists, Mrs. Mary Hardy and Jean Hardy, showed a group of women earlier this week how to manage such means.

program is a series in the Pontiac Mail Community Room. Sponsored by the Mail, the programs are to be varied and will touch on many aspects of a woman's world.

Held every two weeks, through Aug. 20, the programs include one on travel (July 23); one on summer emergencies (Aug. 6); and one on back to school clothes (Aug. 20). Coffee time is 9:30 with the programs from 10-11 and discussion periods following.

One of the foods prepared by Jean Hardy was a cottage cheese dip in the blender. It had the consistency of a dip made with sour cream, but contained fewer calories.

After blending a cup of cottage cheese, Miss Hardy added half the contents of a package of onion soup mix. She served the finished product with raw vegetables.

Mary Hardy showed a simple way to cook potatoes on the grill. Prepare one bundle for each guest.

Bundle of Potatoes
Place thick slices of potato on a 10-inch square of well greased aluminum foil. Use double thickness of regular foil or use heavy duty foil. Season with salt and pepper, add 1 tablespoon of butter and a few slices of onion.

Wrap tightly, twisting ends. Bake on hot coals or on grill for 45 minutes.

The Oakland County Extension office has an excellent book on charcoal cookery. This is available for a small fee.

Outdoor cooking and eating has become so much a part of the American scene in good weather that it behooves us to do an efficiency job. Efficiency is usually the simplest way.

Food Picture Is Good for July

July brings the joy of summer with its bountiful supply of fresh vegetables, fruits, poultry and red meats.

Retail beef prices have been slow to adjust to changes in market prices of cattle. Some of the reasons for this lag between a change at the retail level are: it takes time to move beef from the farm to the retailer, retailers prefer to maintain stable "regular prices," and retailers are uncertain that short term changes in cattle will persist.

Instead of general lowering of prices at the retail level, we have seen increasing amounts of beef moving at "special" prices.

Retail pork prices have been a bit lower this summer, partially due to more specials. This will probably continue through July.

Broiler production is expected to reach the peak supply period in midsummer. Shoppers can expect declining retail prices throughout the rest of the year.

The general fruit outlook is for a smaller supply of deciduous fruits in 1963, and a reduction in citrus supplies for the next three years. There was some loss in all fruits due to weather this winter and spring, but the southern peach crop is larger than a year ago and the nation's apple crop is expected to be as large.

Sweet and tart cherries, grapes and pears received considerable damage. However, you'll find plenty of melons and Michigan raspberries and blueberries during the balance of this month.

RASPBERRIES
This is the week for the largest supplies of red raspberries from Southwestern Michigan. Remember, these fragile berries quickly lose both flavor and firmness, so try to use them the day of purchase. And keep raspberries refrigerated until ready for use.

There is plenty of fish sticks and portions for those who like their fish good 'n quick. Production of frozen fish sticks to date is 15 per cent larger than for the same time last year and production of fish portions is 31 per cent ahead of last year.

Coat Popcorn to Make Favors

Wild animals, plastic and docile, performing in popcorn circus rings are really gay party favors. The rings, made from corn, ready for popping in its own hot frypan, are chocolate flavored. Quickly mixed and easily shaped, they are ready for a party in a jiffy.

While some rings will be eaten during the party, every child will be delighted to know that he can take his popcorn circus ring and animal home. Tag each ring with a name so everyone will be sure to know his own favor. It avoids argument and makes for a more peaceful party.

Popcorn Rings
1 package popcorn
1 cup light corn sirup
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 squares baking semi-sweet chocolate

Pop corn according to directions on frypan lid. Put popped corn in large kettle.

In small saucepan, mix corn sirup, sugar, salt, chocolate. Heat slowly, stirring constantly for 5 minutes or until sugar dissolves. Pour cooked mixture over popped corn in kettle. Toss with wooden spoon until corn is coated.

Place kettle over medium heat. Cook, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes or until popcorn kernels begin to stick together.

Divide into 8 rounds on waxed paper. Grease hands and shape rounds into rings. Makes 8 rings.

Yellow Perch in Good Supply

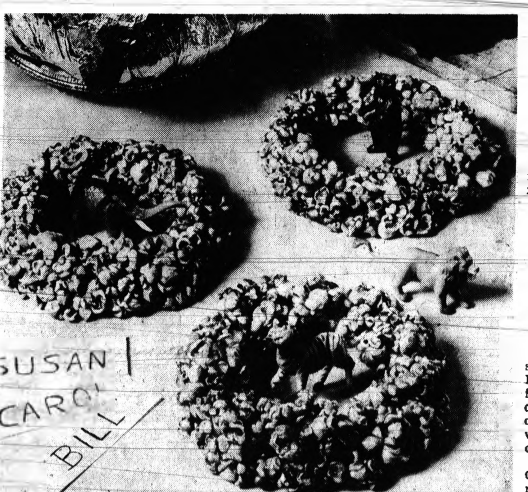

Are you angling for compliments from your family at dinnertime? Are you searching for ideas to serve your family something different . . . tasty . . . easily and quickly prepared . . . nutritious and satisfying . . . yet, easy on the budget?

From the cool waters of Lake Michigan and Lake Erie come meaty yellow perch to the rescue. Whatever your dinner plans, yellow perch will fill the bill.

Available in both fresh and frozen form, perch are easy to fix in a number of ways. If the family wants sandwiches, serve a Yellow Perchburger on a sandwich bun, advice U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists. Or, make a club-style sandwich with yellow perch salad, sliced hard-cooked eggs, and tomatoes.

For the family's evening dinner after a busy day, serve Oven Fried Yellow Perch quickly and simply. If you're eating outdoors, have an old-fashioned fish fry—try breaded and seasoned perch fillets over charcoal or grill them in a basket until the fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Delicious, protein-rich yellow perch is one of the most popular and economical foods from the lakes. Have a shore dinner at home, often, with yellow perch—they're in bountiful supply during the summer months, according to USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

POPCORN RINGS — Rings of chocolate coated popcorn provide a performing place to tiny toy animals. Use these confections as place card favors for the small fry. Adults may snitch some too.

Boyle's Law of Tummyweight: Diets Are Nonsense

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—What is the most repulsive sentence in the English language?

There is no doubt about the answer. It is, as every person who ever went on a diet knows, 'this one':

"All you need to do is to push yourself away from the table."

Not long ago, Boyle said:

"Getting bigger, ain't it?"

Well, you expect insulting remarks like that from needling friends. But since four of these tummy-patters were total strangers, I decided maybe it was time to go on one of my four-times-a-year diets again. So I did. But not with much hope.

It's an odd thing about this world. If you openly confess you have a secret love nest, nobody will tell you how to run it. But if you admit you're trying to lose weight, everybody gets into the act.

Your private problem immediately becomes their public business. A man may have flunked out of high school, seen his wife run away with the mailman, failed twice in business himself and been badly defeated when he ran for sheriff, but there's one thing in life he's sure of—a way to make the pounds melt off you as if they were butter.

Yes sir, in this field he's an absolute authority. If he has a magic diet, and you tell him patiently that you've already tried it and it doesn't work for you, he invariably wins the day with the lush observation:

"All you need to do is to push yourself away from the table."

What utter, utter nonsense! At many a dinner, I've pushed myself away from the table 20 or 30 times until my arms were so weak I barely had strength to pull my chair back and finish the meal. All this exercise did was to build up my appetite.

NONSENSE

So-called magic diets are mostly nonsense, too. I have tried fat-free diets, fat-full diets, salt-free diets, cinnamon-free diets, nutmeg-and-grapefruit diets.

I am a veteran of the starvation diet, the boiled-egg-and-steak diet, the cold-champagne-and-hot avocado-pear diet, the baked-squid-and-sauerkraut diet. It seems to me I have survived every diet known to man—animal, mineral and vegetable.

RUSH FOLLOWS

What happens? For a time they work. Then, suddenly, there ensues a rush of warm blubber to the stomach—and you're right back where you started.

My theory is that it isn't just what you eat that makes you fat. My theory is that the air is full of lonely, invisible, floating fat molecules seeking a home.

When these molecules see a mean-natured, selfish person, they flee from him in terror, and he remains skinny.

But when the molecules encounter a kind-hearted, good-natured, generous person, they happily attach themselves to him like barnacles to a ship, layer by layer, until he becomes fat.

NOBLE SOUL

Thus fat on a man is molecular proof of fine character, born hospitality, and natural nobility of soul. In fact, the more he waddles the more of a target he becomes for these wandering, home-seeking fat molecules.

So, if you're this kind of a person, the only way to keep from gaining weight is to close the window, and lie in bed all day with the sheet pulled over your head—so the fat molecules can't find you.

Scientists may argue with this theory, but they have yet to prove it wrong. Certainly it makes as much sense as most diets.

Says Castroites

'Forced Teens to See Executions

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A newly arrived Cuban refugee youth says teenagers are forced to witness executions of anti-Castroites in his homeland.

He said Wednesday that young Communists relish the spectacle but that others like himself found it repugnant.

"Before the firing squads go to work, some young people taunt the victims with statements like 'Take a last look at the caskets in which they are going to put you,'" said Luis Torres Perez, 17, who escaped his homeland by small boat.

Torres said that in Santa Clara, where he lived, "this macabre spectacle is set up two or three times a week."

Married or Unmarried? Couples Await Word

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U)—Hundreds of Arkansas couples who learned in April that they may not be legally married under state law may be legally married after all.

The quandary over what the law says, what the Arkansas Supreme Court says it says and what the Social Security Administration says it says was slightly clarified by a statement yesterday from the Arkansas attorney general.

And James C. Hale, former state representative who authorized the now-controversial law, disclaimed any designs to stir controversy when he wrote the bill.

Many Arkansas have remarried in private ceremonies.

Two mass weddings are planned for this weekend, and many other couples have simply waited—some angrily.

The law, Act 32, of 1941, reads in part:

"Every male who shall have arrived at the full age of 18 years, and every female who shall have arrived at the full age of 16 years, shall be capable in law of contracting marriage; if under those ages, their marriages shall be absolutely void."

The administration said it would not pay benefits to wives or widows who were not legally married. It cited the 1941 law and said many Arkansas who thought they were married really weren't.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said yesterday that a marriage in which one or both parties were under the legal age would not be absolutely void, as the law states, but could be annulled upon petition by one of the parents in court.

Jerry Patterson, Bennett's assistant, said the marriage is legal until one of the marriage partners goes into court and gets it declared void.

Both Bennett and Patterson cited a 1944 ruling by the Arkansas Supreme Court in which the court ruled that such a marriage is not a nullity, but is void only from the time it is so declared by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Patrick Hebert, regional attorney for the administration, said in Dallas, Tex., that he had conferred with Bennett and was reviewing the question to determine what the administration's policy will be.

"Our position is bound by what the state law says and our ruling was based on a 1941 amendment to the state law that declared such marriages void," Hebert said. "At the moment I could not say if our position will change."

His review probably will be mailed late this week or early next week, he said.

Begonias must be planted in partly shaded areas and sheltered from strong winds.

Block Attempt by Ex-Dictator to Get Bond

MIAMI (UPI)—Marcel Perez Jimenez remained in the county jail today because a federal judge squelched the former Venezuelan strongman's latest bid to be freed on bond.

Federal Judge William A. McRea blocked state court action in the case yesterday, saying only the federal courts have jurisdiction in the case.

Perez' latest bid for freedom was to have been heard today in the Circuit Court of Judge Henry Balaban, but yesterday's ruling apparently blocked that hearing.

Perez had asked the Circuit Court to release him on bond while Secretary of State Dean Rusk makes a final decision on whether to extradite the former strongman to Venezuela, where he is accused of embezzling millions of dollars while he was in power.

McRea said yesterday the state courts "lack jurisdiction" in the matter.

In so ruling, he upheld arguments by government attorneys that the hearing before Balaban "threatened" the government's position in the long, involved legal battle.

Teens Learn of Red Threat at Academy

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI)—Lakers thriving "Freedom Academy" ranks as one of the nation's top cram-courses for high school boys on the threat of communism.

The program will be 3 years old this summer.

It is a project in which military men teach civility about national survival.

The money to carry it out comes from private sources, but the Utah National Guard handles the classes.

Maj. Gen. Maxwell E. Rich, who set up the Freedom Academy program in 1961, believes the first two years have brought "excellent" response with a minimum of criticism.

High school juniors from every school in the state are invited to the Academy at Camp Williams, the National Guard's main training site near Salt Lake City.

The instruction lasts five days. Life at the camp is divided between classes in appreciation of American ideals and traditions, the history of the rise and spread of communism, plus time out for swimming and sports.

"There is no hard-core Prussian-type military training at the Academy," says Rich.

"The students do stand a formation in the morning and evening with the raising and lowering of the flag, but there is no military drill."

Enrollment was about 57 boys the first year and 130 the second. The juniors go back to school in the fall and present reports to other students on what they learned.

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Goose A. Kimura, director of Southern Illinois University's cooperative wildlife management laboratory, will soon be able to answer this question.

As part of a bird behavior study to be conducted in the fall and winter of 1963-64, miniature radio transmitters will be attached to Canadian geese wintering at Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

Kimura and a crew of assistants will monitor the signals from portable receiving stations. The study is being undertaken to learn the effects of weather, food supply, hunting pressure and other factors on the honkers' flight activity.

He was a member of St. Benedict Church, the Loyal Order of Moose, Eagles Lodge and Elks Lodge No. 810.

Surviving are his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius W. Kuklinski of Pontiac; three children, Lisa, John and Laurie, all at home; and as sister, Mrs. Ronald Newcomb of Pontiac.

Japan Soldier Ends Pose as China National

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP)—Police in this southern Japanese city report a 63-year-old man has ended a 16-year pose as a Chinese national.

They say Yoneza Sato registered himself as Chang Wen Chang when he was repatriated from China, where he served as an interpreter with the Japanese Imperial Army.

His reason, police say, was that he feared he would be accused of war crimes.

There was no explanation of the decision to declare himself Japanese again, but he was charged with violation of the foreigners' registration law.

Traffic Death Rate Highest Since 1941

CHICAGO (UPI)—More than 41,000 persons were killed in auto accidents last year, reports the Journal of American Insurance. One and a half million persons were injured.

The death rate was higher than at any time since 1941, when 39,969 persons died in traffic accidents.

"Ultimately, motorists will pay the price for 1962's shameful road record," the Journal predicts. "Inflated jury awards and other auto insurance cost factors combined with high accident rates press auto insurance rates up."

Insurance payments for auto accidents climbed to a record $3.8 billion last year while economic losses from such accidents totaled more than $8 billion, including lost worktime and other costs not fully compensated by insurance payments.

"For insurance companies, rapidly mounting claims mean underwriting losses, since companies must pay each year's claims out of the previous year's premiums," says the Journal.

In Illinois, a majority of auto insurers based in the state expect to show underwriting losses for 1962. Doubts in the past 10 years, and bodily injuries in traffic accidents are up 39 per cent.

The Journal urged adoption of eight key traffic safety measures as the best solution to the nation's mounting traffic toll and the consequent rise in auto insurance costs.

They include: stiffer motor-vehicle laws, improved law enforcement, increased driver edu-

Alabama DAR Asks Book Ban

Raps School Texts by "Pro-Red" Authors

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—The Alabama Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) is conducting a textbook banning campaign aimed at school books it considers "un-American" and "pro-communist."

Among the objectionable authors who, according to the DAR, have been "affiliated with pro-Communist movements or groups" are Nobel Prize winners John Steinbeck and Ernest Hemingway, poet Archibald MacLeish and Eleanor Roosevelt.

State lawmakers are coming under pressure to ban certain books used in state classrooms. The DAR presently is displaying 10 "unsatisfactory textbooks in Alabama" in the capitol rotunda.

Legislators and other interested persons are being asked to read through the books to find the reasons for the group's objections to the texts, ranging from the 1st through the 12th grades.

POSSIBLE REMOVAL.

Mrs. William S. McLaurine of Montgomery, state chairman of the DAR's textbook study committee, who set up the display, said legislators will be asked for their views concerning possible removal of the books from the approved textbook list as well as on a general change in the ways texts are selected.

"We want the lawmakers thinking about possible legislation or other such action which can remedy the situation. We're also interested in getting law representation on the State Board of Education's textbook selection committee."

"We believe parents should be represented on the committee, which now is composed of educators only, she said."

"Our display here is to get the legislature interested in taking action in removing these and similarly unsatisfactory texts from use in Alabama."

The American Museum of Natural History has its own power plant, printing shop, tannery, gift shop and a 175,000-volume library.

Shriners Set Their Second 7-Hour Parade

CHICAGO (UPI)—Members of the ancient Arabic order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine put the finishing touches on their 89th imperial council session today and readied for another hour-long parade down Michigan Avenue.

The parade tonight, a repeat of the seven-hour trek that attracted hundreds of thousands of spectators Tuesday, will conclude the session and will represent the last official function for George M. Klepper, Memphis, imperial potentate.

Harold C. Close, Hartford, Conn., takes over tomorrow as Klepper's successor as head of the 340,000 Shriners in the United States, Mexico, the Canal Zone and Canada.

In the only contested election for national Shrine office, Charles P. MacGregor, Los Angeles, defeated Robert J. Turley, Lexington, Ky., for outer guard, the bottom slot on the escalator through which Shriners rise toward imperial potentate.

Honor 43 Employees at Local Hospital

Forty-three employees of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital were honored Tuesday night at the 11th annual awards dinner.

Sister Mary Xavier, R.S.M., administrator, presented ten-year service pins to 31 employees. Five received 15-year service pins, while another five were awarded 20-year pins.

Two employees, Mrs. Patricia (Retzel), 129 S. Edith, and Mrs. Lorena Thornton, 158 Earlwood, were awarded 25-year service pins.

A total of 134 employees now on the hospital staff have received recognition for 10 or more years of service.

The American Museum of Natural History has its own power plant, printing shop, tannery, gift shop and a 175,000-volume library.

Timely Tips for Traffic

NEW YORK (AP)—Pedestrians should be seen and not hurt.

That's one of half a dozen "Tips for New Drivers" that local employees of the firm that makes the Swedish Volvo car came up with in a recent contest.

The others are:—Drive so that the only time you lose control of your car is when you forget to make payments.

—Remember that people who live near railroad crossings seldom have to buy automobile parts.

—As ounce of prevention should be added to every 10 gallons of gas.

—When driving for recreation, don't change it to wreck-creation.

Bear in mind that a reckless driver is an accident-giver somewhere to happen.

Fairly Active Trading

Market Makes Slim Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a slim recovery in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Postponement of the rail strike deadline helped firm the list, but most gains of key stocks were fractional. The market was spotted with small losses. Trading interest switched to an assortment of speculative issues. Meanwhile, rails, steels, motors, oils, chemicals, and other market wheelwheers maintained a slightly higher trend.

FIRST HOUR VIGOROUS

First-hour trading was vigorous with more than a million shares traded but activity tapered off afterwards.

Analysts saw stocks as "marking time" and Wall Street still in a cautious mood, not only about the railway situation but also about a possible increase in the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up 3 1/2 points with industrials up 4, rails up 3, and utilities up 3.

Chrysler recouped a fraction while other major motors were unchanged to a shade higher. Among the rails, Chicago & North Western moved up about a point. Northern Pacific was about a point lower. Pennsylvania Railroad continued active as it leaned to the upside along with several other carriers.

Prices moved irregularly higher in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Aerosol Techniques was up about 2. Hanson-Van Winkle-Munroe, admitted to trading yesterday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U. S. Government bonds were unchanged to slightly higher in quiet dealings over the counter.

Boat Blazes in Argentina

Some of 421 Aboard Still Listed Missing

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A fire swept a river boat carrying 421 or more persons early today and threatened to send it to the bottom of the River Plate estuary.

Passengers and crewmen dived overboard. Fog complicated rescue operations and, though most have been rescued, officials indicated at least a score were unaccounted for.

The flames burst out in the 33-year-old Ciudad de Asuncion 2:15 a.m. as she was 50 miles from Buenos Aires on an overnight run from Montevideo, Uruguay.

More than nine hours later, officials figures conflicted as to the number of persons among the 358 known passengers and 63 crewmen who were saved by a fleet of tugboats.

The Argentine Coast Guard said 400 may have been picked up by two navy boats, the Maratube and the King. It estimated the Maratube hauled 500 from the water and the King 150.

Without mentioning crewmen, the navy itself said 315 of the 358 passengers were rescued.

A possibility that additional passengers had been on the vessel arose from the fact it is common practice to board without a ticket and pay the fare on deck.

The boat's owners said 310 had been rescued.

Radio communications with the scene were spotty. The Ciudad de Asuncion was first reported to have sunk. Then came word she was still afloat. The navy said in midmorning the vessel was in danger of sinking.

Firmness Mustered in Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market mustered a little firmness in spots today but early dealings on the board of trade were mixed and moderately active.

Soybeans started off with gains running to 2 1/2 cents on the new crop month but backed down somewhat within the first half hour.

Dealers said the opening bulge appeared to reflect buying by speculators who viewed the government's report as slightly bullish or at least offering a bullish potential.

Corn based on scattered liquidation and wheat held mostly about steady on light commercial demand and hedge selling.

Corporations Save

Change in Tax Rules

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—While businessmen and the rest of us sweat out congressional debates on proposed cuts in income tax rates, some corporations have made a neat saving already.

Some $1.3 billion, the Department of Commerce says, will be saved by the new depreciation allowance will be used up. This would increase tax payments in later years. The theory, however, is that this very fact would induce corporations to buy new machinery sooner and scrap what is old and nondeductible. And all of this would add to the nation's much-stressed goal of a faster economic growth rate.

Not all corporations adopted the new depreciation rules. Some stuck to their old ways of figuring gross earnings and tax liability. Smaller companies particularly were laggards.

Half of those sticking to the old guidelines on depreciation told the Department of Commerce they were using their equipment were about the same as the new guidelines. (Many industries and companies already had made new arrangements with the Internal Revenue Service before the general change was announced.)

Some sticking to the old guidelines don't want their taxes to be jumped in later years because of faster writeoffs now. And some noted that the new methods would decrease their reported income along with the gross earnings and make unprofitable comparisons with previous years, to the possible discouragement of their stockholders.

The $2.3 billion saving hopefully was changed into new investments, plants or other business activity. This would help the economy to grow—and even more hopefully, provide more jobs.

A sizable jump in new machinery and tools orders, a slight increase in plans for more spending for plant and equipment, teamed up with general increase in business activity to lift the economy higher and faster than the government experts had expected at the start of this year.

Some of this seems likely to be traceable to the tax savings of the new depreciation allowances. These are of two kinds. First, Congress voted to allow corporations to deduct from final tax bills up to 7 percent of the cost of new equipment. The Commerce Department says corporations have so far saved a total of more than $1 billion in 1962 on their tax bills.

Second, the Internal Revenue Service issued new rules allowing faster writeoffs for tax purposes for depreciation of machinery and other equipment, whenever purchased. This depreciation allowance reduces the gross earnings on which taxes are due. The Commerce Department thinks this increased savings of tax writeoffs by $2.4 billion last year. And corporations have not yet accepted

Well-informed sources said Brig Gen. Van Nghiem, a devout Buddhist, turned in his resignation several days ago because he did not want to become personally involved in the dispute.

Nghiem commanded the First Vietnamese Army Corps which controls the central highlands. It was in this area that the crisis first broke out when government troops killed nine Buddhist demonstrators in Hue early in May.

Other sources said the government has not yet accepted Nghiem's resignation, apparently because it has not yet found a replacement for him.

U. S. Ambassador Frederick Nolting, meanwhile, returned to Saigon today and he believed South Viet Nam could win its war against the Communist guerrillas.

Rate Hikes Okay'd for Western Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western Union was authorized today to increase domestic telegraph rates immediately to provide what the company contends is an urgently needed $16.5 million in additional annual income.

The increases approved by the Federal Communications Commission range from 10 to 20 cents on the full message rate for up to 15 words, from 15 to 25 cents for the day letter rate up to 50 words, and from 10 to 15 cents for night letters up to 30 words.

New rates apply also to messages sent with money orders and public facsimile service and certain quantity services.

Police have a number of questions to ask Birns about the sensational slaying of Gold, who had linked Birns to his twisted financial dealings.

Police want to know: (1) How Birns hurt his right hand, on which he was using game compresses at a Toledo motel last weekend. They quoted Birns as telling a chambermaid: "I was trying to be a kid on the Fourth of July—I lit a cracker and got burned."

(2) Why did he apparently abandon the car he drove to Toledo, where he spent several days at the Tow-House motel, and why he left there Tuesday without taking his luggage or clothing?

Former Rochester resident J. Lynn Crandall has been elected a national director of the National Association of Accountants at the group's annual meeting in San Francisco.

A past president of the Oakland County chapter, Crandall was controller of Ford's Sterling Township prior to his transfer to Cincinnati.

Top Vietnamese General Quits in Buddhist Dispute

SAIGON (AP)—A top-ranking South Vietnamese military commander was reported today to have resigned as a result of President Ngo Dinh Diem's deepening dispute with leaders of the nation's Buddhist majority.

"Substantial progress has been made and this progress continues at this time," the ambassador said in an airport news conference.

Then, in an apparent reference to the dispute between President Ngo Dinh Diem and leaders of the nation's Buddhist majority, he added: "It would be a tragedy if these gains were retarded or wiped out by dissension among Vietnamese citizens who desire to move all independence and freedom of choice for their country."

Well-informed sources said Brig Gen. Van Nghiem, a devout Buddhist, turned in his resignation several days ago because he did not want to become personally involved in the dispute.

Retrial Ordered in Attempted Plane Hijacking

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Leon Bearden, 38, who commandeered a Continental Airlines jetliner in Tregoff sentenced with Dr. Ir. August 1961 and tried to force the Bernard Finch to life imprisonment to fly to Cuba, will get a new trial on charges of kidnapping had decided to return her to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Bearden's conviction on charges of obstructing interstate commerce but reversed convictions for kidnapping and airplane theft.

Bearden and his son, Cody, 16, were captured aboard the 707 jetliner at El Paso International Airport Aug. 3, 1961 after a nationally televised gunbattle.

The court ordered Bearden's conviction on kidnapping and conspiracy in the shoot-plane trial reversed on grounds of the West Coast physician that the trial court judge failed to call the estranged wife, Barbara, to instruct the jury properly. A Jean Finch. The conviction was new trial ordered on those upheld by the California Supreme Court.

Finch Slayer Drops Appeal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Carole a Continental Airlines jetliner in Tregoff sentenced with Dr. Ir. August 1961 and tried to force the Bernard Finch to life imprisonment to fly to Cuba, will get a new trial on charges of kidnapping had decided to return her to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Miss Tregoff's attorney, Harold J. Ackerman, said yesterday his client had instructed him to drop the proceedings. "They were shouting 'Tallyho' the moment I gave the order."

The incident dramatizes the fact that fox hunting is no longer solely the sport of kings and aristocratic country gentlemen, the National Geographic Society says.

England's Hampshire Hunt, for instance, has appointed four ear masters to cope with the increasing numbers of motorists who tag along as best they can.

The spectacle of cars speeding across misty English countryside after hedge-jumping horses causes a few traditionalists to agree with Oscar Wilde — at last — that fox hunting is "the unteachable but pursued by the unteachable."

But many of England's 200 hunt clubs encourage the sport of the nonriding public. Two clubs have more than 5,000 members each, and others more than a thousand.

America's 100 or so traditional-style hunts also are followed by growing numbers of "hilltoppers," as motorized families and friends are called here.

Many clubs introduce boys and girls to the tumultuous sport of riding for miles over rough country.

Order Preliminary Plans for 3 MSU Structures

EAST LANSING (AP)—Architects have been asked to prepare preliminary plans for three new buildings at Michigan State University.

Planning funds for two of them, a $4.5-million food science building and a $4-million food conservation and forestry building, were authorized by the state legislature this spring, while a $600,000 psychology research building will be paid for from a national research grant.

Suffers Fatal Burns in Basement Blaze

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Mary Becker, 34-year-old mother of five children, suffered fatal burns yesterday in a fire which swept the basement of her suburban East Detroit home.

Firemen said flames from gasoline which Mrs. Becker was attempting to pour into a power lawn mower apparently were ignited by a pilot light on a hot water heater.

Safety glass is being made for residence doors and shower bath enclosures.

Celebration in Idaho a Hair Raiser

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — It used to be that Barney Wozniak, a state promotion man here, could be spotted a block away by his pink face and white hair.

But now Barney has an emerald green beard and you can see his coming for miles.

Wozniak took three hours out of life to dye his brush, then insured it for $1,000.

"Keep Idaho Green" is his job with the U.S. Forest Service. His green beard also is a practical joke on the Idaho Territorial Centennial.

"I thought I'd just advertise 'Keep Idaho Green,'" he said. Then, flipping the whiskers with his thumb, he said what's taken the minds of most Idaho women today: "Isn't it crazy?"

A number of patriotic Idaho wives have forsaken their dislike to stubbles so their husbands can turn in a hand to celebrate the centennial.

FUNNY RESULTS Some funny things have happened as a result.

Beauty salon operators are understandably hesitant to admit this — but some of these men hiding behind the centennial brush are falling into beauty salons when dusk has shaded the front windows.

Some of the salons admit to curling, brushing, tinting and cutting the beard.

"If you advertise this," said one operator, "You'll ruin our trade. This is all supposed to be top secret."

The grapevine has the names of the salons where one can go if he finds too much gray or stiffness in his growth.

Another salon admits selling false whiskers for men having troubles sprouting brush or trouble with the Mrs. A group from this salon made a beard for Gov. Robert E. Smylie after watching him for 30 minutes on a television show.

It doesn't fit. And Smylie doesn't wear it, even for fun.

"It falls down and doesn't look very good on me," said Smylie. Grant Morrison, a Boise barber, says he has had a client trimming beards but his clientele is slack. He claims a man with a beard should go to a man for its trimming.

"A man can relax more with his barber than with a beautician," he claimed.

But for all this, a lady in Twin Falls, Idaho, dislikes the bearded parody of the ancestors.

"People are disgusted with beards," she wrote the editor of the Times-News. Complaining that the "beard face" should be left a thing of the past, she commented: "Let our oldtimers rest in peace."

like and Mamie Visiting Her Home Town in Iowa

BOONE, Iowa (UPI)—Former President Dwight Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, were to arrive in Mrs. Eisenhower's hometown today for a short visit with her uncle, Joel Carlson.

Carlson said the Eisenhowers would drive here from Des Moines, stay until this evening and continue east by train. The former President has been in Denver.

British, U.S. Propose Air Exercise With India

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Proposals for joint air exercises in India were formally made Wednesday to the Indian government by the United States and Britain, a reliable source reported.

The proposals are part of American-British plans to sharpen India against a possible air attack by Red China.

The highest payroll in history — nearly $3.9 billion — was recorded by the iron and steel industry last year.
