JFK Might Enter Rail Rift

Deadline Near for Settling of Work Dispute

July 10 Date Set by Government for End of Featherbed Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz reports to President Kennedy today that it may take emergency action by Congress and the President to avert a nationwide railroad strike.

Kennedy had warned both labor and management that if they could not settle their "featherbedding" dispute by a July 10 deadline he would ask Congress for "new legislation which will protect the public against a loss of its rail transport."

The President, who has exhausted all strike-delaying provisions under railway labor laws, has said a strike would be "intolerable."

The crisis signals began flashing red again yesterday as a railroad spokesman said negotiations with the five operating union had broken down completely.

J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, said all the unions had been notified that new work rules which eventually would eliminate thousands of jobs will go into effect July 11—the day after the bargaining deadline.

The unions—representing some 200,000 engineers, switchmen, firemen, brakemen and conductors—warned previously they would strike immediately if the rules were put into effect.

Wirtz all but conceded yesterday that only action by Kennedy and Congress could head off the strike at this stage.

Appearing before a news conference, Wirtz said it is exceedingly doubtful that collective bargaining can solve the issue. "We will exhaust every possibility still of finding some basis for settlement," he added, "but that possibility is remote."

Just what legislative action Kennedy may ask has never been spelled out by Wirtz or the White House.

PREVIOUS WRITING
Back on June 15, when Kennedy on another postponement of a rail-rail showdown, he told both sides that if he were forced to take the dispute to Congress "it is going to mean, necessarily, the disposition of the disputed issue or issues through some agency other than the parties."

Tomorrow Wirtz is scheduled to meet with both management and labor representatives. He said he doubted that legislative measures would be discussed.

Wirtz noted that speculation on legislative possibilities have centered around compulsory arbitration and government seizure and operations of the railroads or some combination of the two.

He said present law does not provide for seizure, since previous legislation providing for such action expired after the Korean war emergency.

Obituary in Advance

Will You Become Statistic?

This is a premeditated obituary notice. Somewhere in Michigan today between 2 and 7 p.m. some young person under the age of 20 is going to drown.

It will happen because of a boat collision or boat capsizing. The chance of it happening right here in the Pontiac area is very likely.

The person who will die will be one of the statistics for the insurance company and for the state police. These statistics show that this type of accident is most common on the Fourth of July holiday, and most prevalent during the July weekends.

GRIM STATISTICS

There were 457 water accidents last year, and 209 were fatal statistics. July was the peak month. Fourth of July the peak period and 75 per cent were persons under 20 years of age.

On the Fourth of July last year in Michigan, 11 drowned topping the high-way death toll of nine.

The person who drowns today will most likely be a victim of negligence or recklessness on the part of the boat operator. It will happen between these times because state police statistics show it always does.

It may happen here because the county has the second largest number of boats and most number of lakes in Michigan.

The name of that statistic will regrettably be printed in tomorrow's news columns.

Residents Get the Works With Erratic June Weather

From colossal thunderstorms to a record heat wave area residents really got the works weatherwise for the month of June.

Not to be outdone by a violently wet spring, summer abruptly shut off the water and turned up the heat after June 21. It hasn't rained since.

From a chilly 44 degrees in the beginning of the month, the mercury climbed suddenly to a record high of 96 degrees by June 27.

Overcast skies were replaced by a hot sun that seems determined to stay.

Hardly a daylight hour has passed since summer's arrival June 21 that the sun didn't shine here.

Just 12 hours later, temperatures soared from 58 degrees into the 80's.

And still it got hotter.

For the final nine days of the month, the average daily high was an even 90 degrees.

It got so hot and dry that the city was forced to institute a lawn-sprinkling ban to conserve water.

On June 27, the heat wave reached its peak for the month, with a recorded high of 96 degrees, the hottest day in seven years.

Before the heat wave started, June weather was peculiar in another respect.

For five consecutive days, thunderstorms dominated the weather scene.

On the night of June 3, a vicious thunderstorm left some 1,130 Pontiac area residents without electricity and kept county firemen hopping to put out blazes caused by lightning.

Within 24 hours, a second, severe electrical storm struck. Several buildings were damaged and numerous trees and electrical wires knocked down.

One Eye Is Destroyed; Use Plastic Surgery on Injured Youngster

A 13-year-old boy lost an eye and his 14-year-old companion's face was burned so badly that plastic surgery was required when a "tube-like object" they and a third boy found exploded in their faces yesterday.

Jerry LaMar, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaMar, 62 Putnam, lost the use of his right eye and suffered second-degree burns of face and hands.

Charles Bright, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Bright, 64 Putnam, had third-degree burns on face and hands. Plastic surgery was performed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Both were seriously injured, according to the hospital, and were listed in fair condition this morning.

Also injured in the mishap was Robert Hubbler, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heimer Olson, 71 Putnam.

Robert was treated for four hours in the hospital's emergency room before he was released.

The three boys were found with blood streaming down their faces near Lincoln Junior High School by Barbara Hill, 15, of Gage, as she was driving by with her mother, Mrs. Ermina St. Amant, of the same address, about 2:30 p.m.

Miss Hill took the boys to the hospital.

"I heard a terrific boom," she said. "I saw the boys running from the ball field at the school. Then I saw they were hurt and I backed up my car."

It was a terrible sight. Their hands were up to their faces and blood was running down their arms.

"They were not very rational, but they were said something about a 'bubble' they had opened and lit."

Pontiac police pieced together a story of the boys' coming upon a "tube-like object" at the rear of 131 Hillside as they walked across the ball field.

They picked it up, opened it and lit a match to the powder inside, police said. It then exploded, they said.

'Women Into Space' to Be Press Series

Fire have been lit under Congress and the U.S. Space Agency to bring women into space.

Planning the flames is Jerrie Cobb, air speed, distance and altitude record seeker, who has passed tests given Project Mercury astronauts and spent the past three years recruiting willing astronauts.

An account of her battles across mountains and oceans, with Capitol Hill red tape, against people who said "women can't do that"—has been endorsed for publication in The Pontiac Press.

Watch for 10 installments of Jerrie Cobb's book, "Women Into Space," starting Monday.

President Ponders Stand

K's Offer Considered

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan said today the Soviet Union believes all conditions have been met for an East-West agreement on a partial nuclear test ban. He said it was now up to the West.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officially said today President Kennedy was still considering what stand to adopt toward the Soviet offer of a partial test ban and a NATO-Warsaw alliance nonaggression pact.

The word Wednesday night, following a series of high level meetings, was that a package deal was probably unacceptable.

But officials said it was unclear from Soviet Premier Khrushchev's vaguely worded proposal whether he was insurmountably holding the two issues as a package.

They made these further points to newsmen:

1. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman will have a ready-made opportunity to probe the Soviet position when he arrives in Moscow for nuclear test ban negotiations starting July 15.

2. The United States and Britain prefer a comprehensive ban against atomic testing in the air, in space, underwater and underground. But they have also proposed a partial ban exempting underground shots and the United States believes this would be a worthwhile forward step. Khrushchev appears to have proposed a ban exempting underground tests.

INVOLVES ALLIES

A 30-year-old Farmington mother of two was found innocent of murder yesterday in the death of a 45-year-old man whose body was found on 12 Mile Road in Novi May 11.

Mrs. Virginia A. Martin, of 34792 Fenwick, was acquitted by a jury of 11 women and one man who deliberated three hours before reaching their verdict.

The decision came at the end of a week-long trial before Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

Assistant Prosecutor Daniel C. Dene called 18 witnesses during the trial, including the defendant's 16-year-old son, Arthur.

Mrs. Martin was accused of faintly stabbing Walter Flory, of 33842 Grand River, Farmington, and hiding the victim's body in her garage for two days before dumping it from her car on 12 Mile Road. It was found by a passing motorist.

Mrs. Martin, who took the stand in her own defense, said Flory felt of his own knife during a scuffle after Flory threatened to kill her son. She said the threat was made as they were returning home from an evening of drinking.

She said she didn't remember whether she hid the body for two days, but though she had taken it out immediately after the death.

Defense Counsel Richard P. Condit called two other witnesses, one who overheard Mrs. Martin and Flory arguing about the boy and a matron from the county jail who told of bruises on Mrs. Martin.

Among the prosecution witnesses was Flory's estranged wife, who testified her husband had a bad temper when he was drinking.

Pontiac Sets 55,189-Unit Sales Record

Pontiac Motor Division dealers established a new car sales record for June with the retail delivery of 55,189 units. E. M. Estes, a General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac, announced today.

The previous June record of 49,310 cars was set in 1953. Estes also said first half sales for 1963 totaled 318,700 a new high for any six-month period in the division's history.

Sales of Pontiacs and Tempests in the final 10-day sales period of June totaled more than 18,000.

Freedom Rings Across America

By The Associated Press

The United States celebrates its 187th Independence Day today with fireworks, parades and family outings. The original cry "let freedom ring" echoes strongly in this year in demonstrations for equal rights for Negroes.

This year's celebration inaugurates an effort to ring all the bells in every city, town and hamlet. President Kennedy has endorsed the movement — "let freedom ring" — which calls for all bells to toll at 1 p.m. (Pontiac time) and continue for four minutes.

The Liberty Bell in Philadelphia's Independence Hall must remain mute, but visitors can get the bell, or run a finger over its famous crack.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson heads the list of speakers at the hall, where the American colonists declared their independence from Britain on July 4, 1776.

President Kennedy, after spending morning business hours at the White House, flies in late afternoon to Squaw Island near Hyannis Port, Mass., where the First Lady and their two children await him.

The annual fireworks display takes place tonight on the Washington Monument grounds in the national capital.

At Mount Vernon, Va., George Washington's home, there will be a military presentation of "The Flag Story"—a panoramic look at various versions of Old Glory.

May Draw 100,000 for NAACP Parade

CHICAGO (AP) — An Independence Day parade and rally, billed as the biggest event of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was expected to draw up to 100,000 persons to the downtown district today.

The massed "freedom marchers" were to move through the Loop area to Grant Park on the city's lakefront.

Formal sessions of the six-day convention, which began Monday, were suspended until Friday.

The Rev. L. Shuttlesworth, president of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, NAACP affiliate, was the main speaker scheduled for the rally. Others include Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill.

TO MAP DRIVE

Later today, Robert Carter, general counsel for the NAACP, is to meet with NAACP state council presidents to map the proposed drive to end segregation in northern schools.

Two Negro leaders of the Jackson, Miss., integration battle confronted Wednesday the FBI agents, who were not doing an adequate job of dealing with civil rights and other violations involving Negroes.

One of the critics was Charles Evers, brother of Medgar Evers, slain NAACP field secretary at Jackson. Referring to the local FBI agents, he told a news conference, "We just don't trust them."

Mrs. Ruby Hurley, the other critic, said that in the Delta region of Mississippi the FBI had employed as agents former deputy sheriffs who had been in the forefront of segregationists.

Mrs. Hurley is southeast conference director of the NAACP.

DECLINE COMMENT

In Washington, the FBI declined comment today on the NAACP report during a round table discussion with The Associated Press that the pace of integration cannot be slowed even if it results in violence.

Nine of the 14 secretaries, co-workers of the slain Evers, said they do not want violence but are not afraid to face it. The secretaries are directly responsible for directing and coordinating local efforts in the NAACP civil rights drive.

The consensus showed:

1. There will be no letup in Negro pressure for equality.
2. Violence and martyrdom are not means but civil strife will intensify.
3. Complete desegregation will come sooner than anyone has predicted.
4. The ultimate aim of school desegregation is racial balance in schools, South as well as North.

COMMON GOOD

Irwin Miller, president of the National Council of Churches, issued a statement urging all citizens to "band together to take concerted action to achieve common goals" and show "a willingness to put the common good ahead of private gain."

The roll of drums sounds in Vicksburg, Miss., where 100 years ago today — a Confederate army surrendered to Union forces after a 47-day siege.

In New York City — in addition to fireworks, ceremonies at Rockefeller Center, and a wreath-laying at the Benjamin Franklin statue — the main event is a display of naval power. Twelve Navy ships are docked at Hudson River piers and open for public inspection. Among the warships is the attack aircraft carrier Shangri-La.

In Boston, where the Sons of Liberty whipped up early revolutionary fervor, festivities began yesterday, but the big parade goes on today and the Declaration of Independence gets a reading from the balcony of the old State House.

City Got the Works From June Weather

Storm occurred June 9, when two inches of rain in less than three hours quickly submerged many stretches of streets and highways, and hundreds of fallen trees littered county roads.

Thousands of homeowners went without electricity, including some 1,400 in Oak Park.

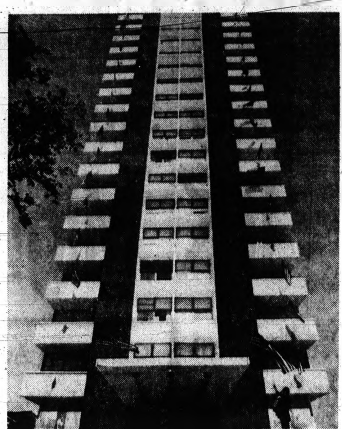

During this period, three inches of rain fell. Precipitation for the entire month was only 3.15 inches.

The high temperature reading was 92 degrees, while the low for the month was 42. A total of 4.09 inches of rain fell. Precipitation was recorded on 12 days during June 1962, while only on five days last month.

Russ Hit China in Policy Battle

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union accused Chinese Communists today of slandering, meddling and aggravating relations on the eve of their "peace" talks in Moscow.

This, the Soviets said, "grossly violated the regulations in force in the U.S.S.R."

Moscow expelled three Chinese diplomats and two Chinese civilians for distributing the letter.

The New China news agency reported from Peking today that Premier Chou En-lai met the ousted Chinese and "commended their active attitude of responsibility and indomitable spirit."

The Soviet central committee decided to reply publicly "in the interests of shedding the right light on the points of difference."

The committee statement, published in the party newspaper Pravda, was the bluntest Moscow has issued against the Chinese.

While the Chinese have been punching directly, the Soviets have been sparing and claiming to be abiding by an agreement to avoid open polemics.

Talks with the Chinese would begin Friday as scheduled, said the Soviet party. But the Soviets hinted that the international Communist conference demanded by the Chinese is not in sight.

The Soviet party pledged it would strive at the talks for "the creation of a propitious atmosphere."

Ward Gets Out of Jail on Bail

Awaits Vice Charges in Old Bailey Court

LONDON (UPI) — Stephen Ward, free on bail after 25 days in jail, looked forward today to a trial on vice charges including living off the earnings of call girls Christine Keeler and Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies.

"Sleep, sleep, sleep — that's what I want," the suave, 50-year-old society osteopath and artist said last night after a magistrate at his pre-trial hearing ordered him to stand trial in Old Bailey Court. He was released on $8,400 bail.

No date has been set for the trial. Ward's defense attorneys said they would ask for a postponement until September to give them time to prepare the case.

Ward said he hoped to go "off to the country for a complete rest."

He pleaded innocent to the seven vice charges at the final day of the pre-trial hearing. "I deny all the charges completely," he told the magistrate.

Ward had admitted introducing Miss Keeler to War Minister John Profumo, who resigned after conceding he lied to Parliament about his relations with the 21-year-old redhead. She also was intimate with a Soviet assistant naval attaché, Eugene Ivanov, who has been recalled to Moscow.

The charges against Ward alleged that:

—Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, he knowingly lived wholly or partly on the earnings of Miss Keeler and other women.

—Between Sept. 1, 1962, and Dec. 31, 1962, he knowingly lived wholly or partly on the earnings of Miss Rice-Davies and other women.

—On or about June, 1961, he persuaded Miss Keeler to procure a girl under 21, identified as "Miss R," for himself.

—On or about Jan. 5, 1963, he attempted to procure a "Miss X" to have relations with a third person.

—On or about June, 1962, he counseled and procured an abortion for a "Miss X."

—Between Jan. 1, 1963, and June, 1963, he lived wholly or partly on the earnings of prostitution.

—He volunteered when a friend organized a company of federal troops.

Authorities said the fire was ignited by workmen who were removing salvagable metal with acetylene torches.

The workmen failed to safely just before the roof collapsed. The fire was brought under control within 15 minutes.

The plant, consisting of two adjoining buildings now under demolition, has been unused for nearly five years. It belongs to Wayne State University.

National Group Plans Bloomfield Twp. Poll

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The opinions of Bloomfield Township residents on the world situation will be incorporated into a national survey of approximately 2,000 Americans.

The survey, for which residents will be interviewed during the next few weeks, is being conducted by the National Opinion Research Center (NORC), located at the University of Chicago.

"The results of the survey will be helpful to social scientists who are trying to understand better the nature of American society and its relation to other countries," Glen Gockel, NORC field director, said.

"Results are always presented in percentages and statistics, and individual responses are kept completely confidential," he noted.

All NORC interviewers carry identification cards signed by the director of the center, Dr. Peter H. Rossi. They are trained to keep all conversations completely confidential.

The center, a nonprofit research organization, has been conducting surveys of many kinds since 1941. Its sponsors have included private foundations, universities and individual researchers.

State Students Find Traces of Hopewell Indians

River Monster a 'Squatina'

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Excavations over the past two weeks at the Indian Mounds area in southwest Grand Rapids have struck pay dirt.

A 16-man crew of University of Michigan anthropology students have found traces of the Hopewell Indians who built the mounds.

Among artifacts disclosed thus far are pottery vessels, spear-points and sea shells believed to have been obtained in trades with Gulf Coast tribes.

Dr. James B. Griffin, director of the university's museum of anthropology, says the students also have found human skulls of four individuals believed to be part of a family of two adults and two juveniles.

The excavations are scheduled to continue through Aug. 17.

98 N. Saginaw—Main Floor

DETROIT (AP)—A fish mystery now is at rest. Another might still exist, though. Take your choice.

The mystery fish, a once reported "sea monster," turns out to have been a squatina.

The squatina, a form of angelfish about three feet long and weighing 35 pounds, was taken from the St. Clair River by Harold Kiss, Algonac fisherman. There had been much talk of the fish.

Dr. Karl F. Lagler, University of Michigan piscatorial expert, took a long, hard look at the fish and also at the contents of its stomach.

A fish skeleton, which Dr. Lagler identified as a sea robin, was found in the stomach.

The sea robin is common only to salt water. So is the squatina. So there remains a mystery how the squatina ever got to the St. Clair River. It's obvious how the sea robin arrived.

Attorney's Income Lags

Lawyers Rate Low in Public Poll

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (NEA)—While the rest of us have been slipping cholesterol and driving electric toothbrushes and generally living off the continuing prosperity of the land, the legal profession has not been keeping pace.

According to the results of a just-released, in-depth survey of the lawyer situation in the United States today, the legal profession lags considerably behind the other professions in terms of its take-home percentage of the national income.

Why? Because, finds a motivational study of public attitudes and law office management in Missouri:

SERVICES NOT HIRED
Legal services are not hired frequently enough—some 40 per cent of the people have never even been to a lawyer once.

The legal profession is not as highly regarded in the community frequently as, say, teaching or dentistry, even though 88 per cent of the people who have used lawyers are quite satisfied.

And while television series about lawyers have done a bit of good for the profession's public image, there is still a widespread and deep-seated suspicion about legal ethics, fees and, in fact, the whole system of law and trial by jury.

Now, there is nothing really new in all of this. Humanity has been at odds with the law since long before Moses came down from Mt. Sinai, and at swords' points with lawyers long before Jonathan Swift or Charles Dickens roasted them on a lit crary spit.

But not until now has any inside group like a state Bar Association made a public attempt to find out why, in an attempt to change the picture.

And from the looks of the survey, the job is not going to be easy, for what the Missouri Bar and the Prentice-Hall Foundation have uncovered is paradox within paradox, wrapped up in enigma.

More than 30 per cent of those surveyed feel that they have less than an even chance of getting a fair trial, although those who have never been in a court as either a litigant or a witness have a slightly higher opinion of court justice than those who have been involved with the law and its advocates.

About three-quarters of those surveyed feel that their personal economic status and social position have a direct effect on the standard of justice available to them.

On the other hand, representatives of the Missouri Bar survey team say there is strong evidence that a significant number of the lay public deepdown questions the whole basis of United States law.

Interviews in depth, the surveyors say, would show that a startling number of people hold that a man is guilty until proved innocent and that the Bill of Rights—especially freedom of the press—is a dangerous code.

Deep, dark public attitudes to ward the law bubble up in the services rates the reputation of his own lawyer far above the reputation of lawyers in general.

TV ATTORNEYS—Activities of television lawyers Robert Reed (right) and E. G. Marshall in a scene from "The Defenders," has helped the lawyers' image. However, the public remains skeptical over such real-life consideration as legal ethics and high fees.

UNCERTAIN
Upwards of 30 per cent of those answering are uncertain or opposed to the use of legal technicalities in the defense of criminals. But when, hypothetically, survey respondents go to court, the use of a loophole in their own defense is another matter. As a defense in income tax litigation it is regarded as above reproach.

In the relationship of the layman to his lawyer, the survey hits what is probably the biggest reef that bars today's lawyer from his just share of the national income.

While half of the people who go to court at any given time lose, almost everybody who has used a lawyer is satisfied with the legal advice he got.

However, the user of lawyers is having lunch or being seen with an opposing counsel does, despite the obvious fact that such friendships—often started in law school—can gain information beneficial to a lawyer's client.

To be added is the layman's distrust of trial by jury and the legal theatricalities he fears to be crucial in swaying jury opinion.

What we want in a lawyer, it would appear from this survey, is an honest, scrupulous, courageous, aloof advocate—sworn to the law but absolutely partisan on our behalf.

It's going to be a hard job to alter that image.

Oily Matter Fouling Great Lakes Beach

LANSING (AP)—An oily, tar-like material, believed to have come from a Great Lakes tanker, is fouling some nine miles of beach above Port Huron, reports the State Water Resources Commission.

Large oil patches of various sizes were found along the Lake Huron shoreline starting some 16½ miles north of Port Huron. Several milk cartons, bearing non-Michigan labels, also washed up on the beaches along with the oil.

Commission experts identified the oil as a type used by ships traveling the Great Lakes. There was no evidence that the oil deposit came from a land-based operation, the commission said.

Bite's On—but on Wrong Arm of Law

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A police dog which evidently could not tell the good guys from the bad bit an officer here yesterday climaxing a 45-minute chase in which the quarry turned out to be a young woman.

She went to jail while Patrolman Dave Courtney, 38, went to a hospital for treatment of an arm wound inflicted by Shadow, a German Shepherd dog employed by the North Kansas City, Mo., police department.

Courtney did not blame the dog, a veteran of several years police work. "I just walked too close to that patrol car," he said.

On-Job Togetherness

Advantage for Kitchens

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—There's on-the-job togetherness in the Loren Kitchen family—Kitchen operates an automobile repair shop and his wife Lois, attractive mother of two, handles tune-ups, brake relinings and transmission jobs. Among other advantages, Mrs. Kitchen says her presence is helpful in explaining mechanical problems to women customers.

Ten vice presidents of the United States have gone on to become President.

Let's talk about the advantages of shopping

...at Osmun's

We've been taking a poll.

Nothing scientific, mind you. Just some questions we asked to find out why Osmun's customers keep coming back after the first sale. The answers, we think, speak for themselves.

1. "I don't feel like a 'Customer' here. Everybody is very helpful,—but they're not pushy."
2. "High quality of the clothing . . . so many famous brands that I know whenever I buy a suit it's going to fit right."
3. "It's very convenient having more than one change plan to choose from."

4. "You feel very flattered when somebody offers to sew on a button or touch up the press on your trousers just to help out."

5. . . . I mean it helps to get advance notice of important sales before they're announced in the newspaper. Those extra few days give me the best selection."

These (and other) comments make us feel very happy because they reflect the kind of thinking that has made Osmun's your store.

Is our poll accurate?

It ought to be. It's been going on for over 30 years.

FIFTY YEARS A COMMUTER—A half-century out a regular passenger on trains between his home Riverdale, Ill., to Chicago, earned Arthur E. Higgs the recognition of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. Rail officials recently staged a small ceremony for Higgs before his 6:05 left for the city. On hand to give Higgs a big kiss was great-grandson Ronald Strom, 3, held by his mom Mrs. Ronald Strom, of Aurora, while great-granddaughter Delia, 4, waits her turn. At left is Higgs' daughter Mrs. Arthur Thiede, of Forest River, and railroad passenger traffic manager W. F. Burke.

Owe Forefathers Great Debt

(In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Fourth of July message has been written by Robert A. Stierer, city manager.)

Last year I was in Philadelphia with members of the City Commission attending the American Municipal Association convention, and we saw at firsthand a restored Independence Hall and other historic places identified with the founding of our country.

In Independence Hall, the Second Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. Later, in the same building, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution of the United States were written and adopted.

The famous Liberty Bell stands in the lobby of Independence Hall, and in nearby Congress Hall, our national legislature met from 1790 to 1800, when Philadelphia was the capital of our young nation.

Other buildings and sites in old Philadelphia are also of historical importance—Christ Church, Betsy Ross House, Carpenter's Hall and the First and Second Banks of the United States. Nearby is Valley Forge, today a beautiful park, where Washington's small and tattered army suffered through the bitter winter of 1777-78.

It was both humbling and inspiring to stand in these historic places and think of the great debt we still owe to those brave men and women who rose to meet the challenges of their day, and in so doing gave Americans their independence.

Each generation of Americans must meet and solve its problems if our country is to survive as a free nation and remain true to its traditions and prepared for the future.

Today in Philadelphia, and in hundreds of cities across the U.S., including Pontiac, new challenges to cities have arisen. Urban blight and decay in both residential and commercial areas has come to be recognized as a major threat to the very existence of cities.

In recent months, problems in human relations have come to the fore, and citizens are demanding solutions in the context of our American heritage of freedom, justice and human dignity.

Pontiac stands proudly in the ranks of American cities which are meeting and solving their problems. City commissions, present and past, and administrative staff members are dedicated to major improvement programs.

Two urban renewal projects are transforming downtown and adjacent residential areas. Associated downtown projects include a magnificent new perimeter road, a Clinton River tunnel, plans for a shopping mall, additional parking and new and remodeled stores.

A new water system nears completion—not too soon in this hot, dry summer. Other projects for progress include a new sewage treatment plant, plans for sewers for the east and north sections, additions to our fine park system, a north side fire station, Water Works Park community center, many neighborhood improvements including streets, sidewalks and drains—all to better serve our citizens.

The Civic Improvement Advisory Committee, appointed by the City Commission and representing all sections, is conducting an inventory of assets and weak points in neighborhoods throughout the City.

The Human Relations Committee met this week with civic, business and government leaders to outline its program and to review progress and problems in this area of community life.

I think our founding fathers would be proud of Pontiac if they could visit us today in this period of rebirth and transformation. We have not yet achieved our goals in rebuilding and renewing our city, but we are meeting the challenges and making progress toward these goals.

See Rights Fight by Dixie Dems

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy stopped short in his civil rights program of asking Congress to give the attorney general all the authority some integrationist leaders want him to have.

But, if Congress granted all the President did ask, the attorney general would have far more muscle in civil rights cases.

Southern Democrats will fight this just as they will Kennedy's request for a law to make private business places stop discrimination against Negroes. Both are sore points.

It was in 1957 that Congress passed the first civil rights bill in this century after strenuous opposition by the South, particularly in this issue.

A provision in the bill that year to give the attorney general power to seek a court injunction against anyone depriving anyone of his civil rights in any field. That covered the whole show.

In the end the Southerners won this provision was knocked out but they had a concession. They didn't win a full victory. The bill which passed Congress did strengthen the attorney general's hand in the voting field.

The 1957 law said he could seek injunctions when an individual was deprived of his voting rights.

Then in 1960 Congress passed a second civil rights bill. This added a bit to the attorney general's authority by giving him the right to demand voting records for 22 months back in federal elections.

And federal courts, in districts where the records were questioned, could compel voting officials to comply with the attorney general's demand.

All this could be considered progress but it was slow. And the results were not dazzling. Just last month Bert I. Bernhard, staff director of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, told Congress:

Since 1957 the attorney general's office had instituted 38 lawsuits in voting rights cases but a substantial number of Negroes were being denied the right to vote in about 100 counties in eight Southern states.

In his civil rights proposals last week Kennedy asked Congress to give the attorney general a much broader sphere of action by authorizing him to step in directly.

To seek a court injunction against a segregated public school which refused to admit a Negro child if the parent couldn't afford a legal fight or was afraid to start it. Even this wouldn't be as simple, direct or fast as it sounds in trying to get a business place to stop discriminating against Negroes.

Under Kennedy's plan there would be room for a lot of delay before the attorney general went to court to put an end to the discrimination. The court action would be the last resort.

First the effort would have to be made through talk and attempted persuasion—to get the proprietor of a business place to stop discriminating. If that failed, the attorney general would go to court.

There is one way, however, in which the attorney general could skip the talk and go directly to court for an injunction. If he felt any effort to get voluntary compliance was useless.

All of this has been an explanation of Kennedy's proposal as he laid it before Congress. But what Congress does with it, in view of Southern opposition, is something else.

OUR COUNTRY'S 187th BIRTHDAY

Ruth Montgomery Says:

Southern Solons Planning to Stall

WASHINGTON—The Senate's Southern Conference has secretly instructed all of its members who head a Senate committee or subcommittee to "stall" on every administration bill, including appropriations.

The intent is obvious. By stalemating the legislative process, the southerners hope to bring such pressure on President Kennedy that he will abandon, or gut, the civil rights bill that he is urging Congress to enact this session.

The head of RUTH the Southern MONTGOMERY Conference is Sen. Richard Russell, a bachelor from Windsor, Georgia, who is by all odds the shrewdest strategist in the so-called upper chamber.

The gradual cracking-up of the once Democratic "Solid South" is nowhere more dramatically demonstrated than within the Southern Conference itself.

Although all senators from the eleven "Confederate states" are eligible for membership, Sen. Estes Kefauver and Sen. Russell Gore of Tennessee, and Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas have declined to join.

Paradoxically, a Republican is now a member of the once sacred Democratic body. He is 37-year-old Sen. John Tower, who occupies Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's former Texas seat.

Tower's sensational election from the Lone Star State two years ago broke two long-standing records. He was the first Republican senator to be elected from the South since Reconstruction days, and the first ever elected by popular vote.

The "baby" of the Senate until 39-year-old Teddy Kennedy won election last year, Tower has moved upward so fast that he is now ranking Republican both on the housing subcommittee of Banking and Currency, and on the migration labor subcommittee of Labor and Public Welfare.

In the first capacity, Tower led the opposition floor fight against the administration's mass transportation bill, which narrowly passed. In the latter capacity, he will direct the opposition strategy against the domestic peace corps legislation which is now before his labor subcommittee.

The ominous trend to Kennedy's legislative program, posed by the drag-your-feet directive, becomes apparent at a perusal of the strategically placed southerners on important committees.

The Judiciary Committee to which part of the civil rights legislation has been assigned is headed by Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi, a dyed-in-the-wool segregationist.

Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama heads the Labor and Public Welfare Committee; Sen. Olin Johnson of South Carolina, the Post Office and Civil Service Committee; Sen. Everett Jordan of North Carolina, Rules and Administration; Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana, Agriculture; Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Finance; Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Foreign Relations; Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, Government Operations; and Dick Russell, the Armed Services Committee.

To make matters even more perilous for the administration, Russell is also subcommittee chairman on appropriations for the armed forces; and other southerners heading appropriate-

JFK Likely to Ignore Bid for Vatican Representative

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy appears likely to quietly ignore a hint that he send a representative to the Vatican.

An indication in a Vatican newspaper editorial that the Roman Catholic Church would like to have a U.S. representative at its headquarters has brought mixed reaction from senators.

Most members of Congress seem to feel that Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, will stick by his 1960 campaign declaration that he was "flatly opposed to appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican."

FDR SPOKESMAN
Although President Franklin D. Roosevelt set a precedent in appointing Myron Taylor as his representative to the Vatican, few think Kennedy will follow it.

Roosevelt named Taylor as his spokesman, but gave him no diplomatic appointment that would have required Senate confirmation.

That's $1,000 billion or $1,000,000,000, an amount to ponder on.

This accounting for the calendar year 1962 and for business fiscal years ending in 1962 was made from income tax returns filed by nearly 114 million business concerns.

The returns came from 9.2 million sole proprietorships, 93,000 partnerships and 1.2 million corporations. Corporate returns were over a million for the third year in a row. Every figure is up over the previous income tax year except the number of partnerships—down about 1,000—and their volume of business, down $720 million.

Business profits rose 4.3 per cent during the year to $27.4 billion. Profits of corporations were up 3.4 per cent to over $22 billion. Profits of sole proprietorships were up 6 per cent to $27.7 billion and profits of partnerships up 4 per cent to $2.7 billion, in spite of the drop in concerns.

This statistical rundown hardly indicates that U.S. business is terrible or that private enterprise is about to disappear.

But with these figures in mind, it is interesting to take a look at Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon's pretty, realistic roundup

'Control of Lake Levels Is Important to County'

The Press editorial regarding the lake level situation in Oakland County was appreciated to the greatest extent. Here is a problem that is squarely in the lap of locally elected county officials who have done nothing but pass the buck!

The State Legislature clearly states that the county supervisors have the power to institute lake level controls and these supervisors have done nothing while our heritage of the beautiful water wonderland disappears. It is no wonder citizens turn to more federal controls and depend less on the irresponsible, local officials.

Our own supervisors in Waterford have extended their efforts to have this problem resolved but each has been shuffled off by the majority whose short-term interests lie elsewhere. The present county drain commissioner, overcoming lethargy within his own province, is also actively and personally investigating the situation with a view toward resolving the difficulty. He will need all the help he can get and your timely editorial should encourage his efforts.

Many thanks to The Press for recognizing the long-term benefits that will accrue from adequate lake level control and the resultant preservation of our natural resources and for reminding county officials they have a responsibility.

Parent Approves of City Day Camp

Why don't more parents in the Pontiac School District send their children to Frog Hollow Day Camp?

For the sum of $3 my son had five days of fun from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Transportation provided from the municipal parking lot on Huron. Noon meals for the five days were provided and the children were given "Frog Hollow" T-shirts.

This program is open to boys and girls, ages 7 through 13. It is operated by Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. and it is doing a wonderful job.

I'm told there are still openings for the remaining five weeks.

Explains Law About Strikes

Many people do not understand that until Gov. Romney signed the House Bill No. 253, that there were no laws regarding strikes and unemployment compensation, causing disputes and court action.

The new law clearly states that unless you are participating in the strike, or paying additional strike payments (amounts paid in union dues prior to labor dispute) will not disqualify even though operated by the same employing unit.

An offer of employment to a person must be substantially equivalent in remuneration and occupation to wages earned in his base period.

The unemployment taxes on companies has been raised 20 per cent and companies with negative balances will continue to pay higher taxes for some time.

Says Community Helping Retarded

The Association for Handicapped Children, Inc., would like to express appreciation for the recent article concerning our organization and mentally retarded children.

It must be remembered, first and foremost, that retarded children are children. They are individuals with individual differences as we all are. But they are also human, warm, God-created individuals with the right and need to be accepted and loved.

The fulfillment of these needs, to a large degree, can be shouldered by the community.

American Businesses Doing Well

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Internal Revenue Service has just reported that for the third year in a row American business receipts were in excess of one trillion dollars.

State City Planning 26-Mile Pipeline

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The city commission of suburban

Wyoming, aiming at Sept. 17 vote on a bond issue, has retained an engineering firm to plan for a $12.5 million Lake Michigan water line.

The city commission met yesterday. The pipeline would cross 26 miles of Ottawa County. Tentative financing of the water line calls for issuance of $9.5-million general obligation bonds that require a three-fifths majority vote.

Wyoming officials also met yesterday with Henrik Stafseth, Ottawa County road commission engineer-manager, and said they would not seek water from Grand Rapids.

They assured Stafseth that Wyoming plans the pipeline project alone but will sell water to Ottawa County communities along the route.

Replace CD Radio System

Entire AM Band
to Carry Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Those two little markers at 640 and 1240 on your radio dial will go the way of "Ma Perkins" and the crystal set this summer. CONELRAD, age 11½, will be extinct as a means of wartime communication among the civilian population.

Its eulogy: It never was put to the supreme test.

Its successor: The new Emergency Broadcast System which will open the entire AM broadcast band—instead of only 640 and 1240—to broadcasters authorized to stay on the air during any enemy attack.

ENDS IN AUGUST

CONELRAD officially was to have expired June 30, but the new system wasn't quite ready to go. It now is expected the changeover will occur Aug. 5.

The new warning system is the foster child jointly of the Federal Communications Commission, Office of Civil Defense, Office of Emergency Planning and the radio industry.

CONELRAD—Standing for Control of Electromagnetic Radiation—was established by executive order Dec. 10, 1951. It was designed to stymie enemy planes and missiles attempting to pinpoint their own locations by using commercial radio beams.

SYSTEM OBSOLETE

The Defense Department decided last year that ultramodern navigational methods had made CONELRAD obsolete.

Under the new plan all stations authorized to operate will stay on the air—at their own frequencies—during an attack.

They will be permitted to identify themselves geographically. But they may not use call letters, because all stations in a specified locale—a city, or in some cases, several communities or an entire state—will be broadcasting the same material from a single source.

Television stations and FM stations, under present planning, will go off the air during an alert.

Town to Change 'Tragedy' Inn Into Play Area

INLET, N.Y. (AP)—The citizens of the town of Inlet have taken over the Arrowhead Inn, where Grace Brown spent the last night of her life 57 years ago this month.

Grace, 26, unmarried and pregnant, was murdered the next day on nearby Big Moose Lake by her boyfriend, Chester E. Gillette. The slaying and the events leading to it formed the basis of Theodore Dreiser's literary classic, "An American Tragedy."

This Adirondack town of 300 bought the inn with proceeds from a $128,500 bond issue. The site will be turned into a public recreation area.

The inn, built in 1890, was largely destroyed by fire in 1912 and rebuilt in 1915 by Charles A. O'Hara.

The property consists of a five-story main building, six cottages, a boathouse and considerable frontage on two lakes.

Complete Routing of U.S. 127

LANSING (AP) — A proposed route for the last segment of the U.S. 127 freeway has been selected over several alternative routes, one of which would have taken the edge off a farm owned by State Highway Commissioner John Mackie.

The Highway Department yesterday announced a proposed route for the last seven-mile stretch of the freeway between Lansing and Jackson, a project scheduled to begin in two years and be completed by 1968.

Mackie said the proposed route will be less expensive than the alternatives, one of which would have taken six to eight acres of land from the edge of his 80-acre farm near Heit, just south of Lansing.

He said the route was rejected because it would have cost $250,000 more than the one finally selected and would have cut through two subdivisions.

$5.4 MILLION
Total cost of the seven-mile link between Mason and the south edge of Lansing will be $5.6 million, including $550,000 for right-of-way, $2.5 million for roadway and $1.8 million for interchanges and grade separations.

The Freeway will tie into I-96 south of Lansing.

A Highway Department spokesman said a press release containing information about the Mackie farm was issued because the Commissioner was concerned about possible criticism of the route selection and its relationship to his own property.

DeGaulle Plans News Confab

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle will hold one of his rare news conferences toward the end of this month to discuss domestic and foreign affairs, a spokesman has announced. No firm date was fixed.

It will be De Gaulle's first news conference since Jan. 14, when he announced his refusal to permit Britain to join the Common Market and to reject a U.S. offer of Polaris missiles for a NATO nuclear force.

The coming news conference will give De Gaulle an opportunity to respond to President John F. Kennedy's criticisms on June 25 of De Gaulle's European and western alliance views.

Kennedy, in a speech in Frankfurt, argued against De Gaulle's nationalistic attitudes and doubts that the United States will come to the defense of Europe in any future nuclear war.

100-Year-Old Farmer Stays Home for a Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 100-millionth motorist to call the American Automobile Association (AAA) for help will probably do so today, the AAA has predicted. AAA statisticians figure that mathematical odds favor the 100-millionth emergency call coming from the Dallas, Albuquerque or Phoenix areas.

Georgia Prisons Have Come a Long Way in Reforms

By O. P. HANES
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—"It is not right to shut a man like a mad dog in a cage, whip him with a rubber hose and work him as a brutal drayman might work a sick horse."

Georgia has come a long way along the road to reforms since former Gov. Ellis Arnall, then 35, in September 1943 gave a special session of the legislature that description of conditions in the state prison system.

The chains, the caging in sweat-boxes, the whipping and sadistic brutality by guards officially are no more.

"The function of a prison system," Arnall said, "is to rehabilitate and provide useful training for the inmates."

A nationally known penologist, pressed into service by Gov. Carl E. Sanders, again has reported that there virtually is no rehabilitation or education for the 10,000 convicts in Georgia.

Sanders, 38, moved quickly after receiving the report from Joseph E. Ragen, director of the Illinois penal system and for many years warden of Joliet, Ill., penitentiary.

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS SPECIAL REPORT

A shakeup in the State Department of Corrections shunted the $17,600-a-year director to a minor job in state government. His chief assistant plans to retire.

DUG INTO SURPLUS
Sanders dug into the state surplus to make $2.5 million available for prison reform. He will ask the 1964 legislature to appropriate millions more. He hired Fred Harford, a retired Federal Bureau of Investigation official with 23 years' service, as prison chief.

The prison situation has raged off and on as a controversy for more than 30 years.

In 1931 Robert Elliott Burns wrote a book, "I Am a Fugitive From a Georgia Chain Gang" which was made into a movie the following year. Burns told of inhumanities in the prison system from which he escaped twice. Burns said in his book that he accompanied a flophouse acquaintance to the robbery of a grocery store in 1922 which netted $5. He described himself as a jobless and hungry World War I veteran.

Burns was captured, sentenced and placed in a chain gang working on the roads. He escaped two months after receiving the 6-to-10-year sentence and fled to Chicago where, seven years later, he was a $20,000-a-year magazine editor. His first wife told authorities in 1929 of his whereabouts and he was returned to the chain gang.

Burns escaped again the following year, went to New York and wrote the book. Three New Jersey governors refused to extradite him to Georgia after Burns became a respected tax consultant in Newark.

Official Georgia, including then Gov. Eugene Talmadge, called Burns' story untrue. But in 1937 Gov. E. D. Rivers ordered chain gangs eliminated.

Arnall went further shortly after becoming governor in January 1943. The legislature at his behest passed laws to abolish the use of iron, chains and manacles. Other legislation abolished striped uniforms and established the Board of Corrections. Guards were told that use of the whip would mean immediate dismissal. Arnall kept thinking of Burns and the black eye his book had given Georgia. The governor interviewed the former convict but the State Pardon and Parole Board refused to free him as long as Burns remained a fugitive.

In 1946, Burns returned to Georgia, telling his anxious second wife, Clara, "in all people's lives there comes a time when one must show courage."

With Arnall as his counsel, Burns faced the board. It erased the prison sentence and restored full civil rights. He died in a Veterans Hospital at the age of 85 in 1962.

Since Arnall's day, various legislative committees have reported on the prisons. Some were critical and reported a lack of rehabilitation. A group of legislators said last year that some units of the system were too nice for the convicts.

LITTLE THOUGHT
Georgians generally went their way with little thought of the rules. There were no changes in the rules. Five years later Buford was in the headlines again. Forty-one convicts in two days smashed their legs with 20-pound sledges. They said, brutality and curing by guards drove them to the act.

A legislative investigating committee said the charges of cruelty and brutality at the state's "Little Alcatraz" were not substantiated.

The committee did find that profanity and abusive language were used by the guards and supervisors and that some "have on occasion slapped and cuffed prisoners." This, the committee said, should be stopped.

Eye Room Rate Hike

The Pontiac General Hospital, by a change in the Blue Cross reimbursement formula for emergency room treatment to outpatients.

However, action on a rate increase has been postponed 90 days to see if there are any other measures that can be taken to solve the fiscal problem.

At a special meeting Monday night, administrators reported to the board that it will take a $28,000-hike in gross charges to produce an actual cash increase of $56,000 annually in the hospital's income.

The money is needed to make up for a loss which will be created by the new formula.

7 Astronauts Invited to Kalamazoo Air Show

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The nation's seven astronauts have been invited as guests at the Kalamazoo Air Show, Aug. 17-18, according to Chamber of Commerce show sponsors.

A reply is awaited from the National Aviation and Space Administration (NASA). Chamber spokesmen say the schedule includes performances both days by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, jet plane aerobatics team.

He said that of the remaining 35 per cent, about 15 per cent don't pay their bills or are on welfare and 20 per cent are cash customers.

Euler also noted that a cut in operating costs would have little effect because it would create a lower reimbursement on Blue Cross patients.

As for the new formula for emergency outpatients, Euler said, it was overdue. "It will save Blue Cross about $1.5 million per year in Michigan. They've needed this formula change for a long time."

Directory for County Now Is Available

A new Oakland County directory for 1963-64 is now available to the public in the county clerk's register of deeds office in the courthouse at the County Service Center.

The directory, bearing a fountain scene at Cranbrook on the cover, lists national, state and local government officers.

An organizational chart on the centerfold portrays the set-up of county government.

A major improvement to the directory this year is a map of the county attached to the inside of the back cover.

Mental or Emotional Illness

20,000 Americans Take Own Lives Every Year

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — To die or not to die... That is the tragic question for 20,000 Americans who kill themselves every year.

Not exactly a question, because the will to die is strong during a suicidal crisis. But buried deeply under desperation the desire to live is just as strong.

Suicide is a form of mental or emotional illness, and is one of the first 10 causes of death in the United States.

In some states it is sixth on the list. In the 15-25 age group, among college students and peacetime soldiers, suicide is the third cause of death.

Many of these wasted lives could be saved. Any man who wants to be saved.

"Ambivalence" is the word psychologists use for the tug of mind of the person who has arrived at the brink. "He will plead, 'Let me die!' on Monday—and thank you on Wednesday for saving his life," Dr. Edward Schneidman, and added: "Provided his cry for help is recognized and heeded..."

Dr. Schneidman and Dr. Norman F. Farberow, clinical psychologists, are codirectors of the Suicide Prevention Center in Los Angeles. Dr. Robert E. Litman is chief psychiatrist.

Any man may make a will or put his affairs in order before going on a trip. If he suddenly decides to do so during a phase of acute depression, it may be a "coded" cry for help.

And someone who talks about "ending it all" or "wanting out" may not be crying wolf. It is a common fallacy that people who talk about suicide don't do it.

GIVE WARNING
Eight out of 10 suicides give warning of their intentions.

Most of them suffer from profound depression which is often a symptom of an emotional or mental disorder. Though there are those—usually old people in physical pain—who make the decision to kill themselves logically, rationally, quietly.

Among the more than half a million attempted suicides every year, many are "they'll-be-very" gestures, efforts to change some unhappy aspect of environment or relationship. Gestures that can be fatal! The gun goes off, or unforeseen circumstances prevent the anticipated rescuer from appearing in time to do something about that overdose of sleeping pills.

Saving lives is the primary objective of the Suicide Prevention Center. But many facts and figures have emerged from the center's years of research, sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service and administered by the University of Southern California.

Statistics about suicide are conservative. Attempts go unrecorded and self-inflicted deaths may be cloaked by that ubiquitous "accidental death."

But here is a revealing comparison. The rate for suicides is proportionately highest among men in their 40s or 50s, native-born whites, married and in unskilled jobs.

The rate for attempted suicides gives first place to women in the 20s and 30s, native-born and white, single or housewives. Through the ages suicide has been viewed as a sin or a virtue, with changing cultures, religions and laws. Apart from ethical questions, realists sometimes ask, "Why try to save someone who wants to die?"

Dr. Schneidman answers: "I am profoundly convinced that a suicide is the worst of all deaths—for the survivors. Not even murder causes such a backward of human suffering."

Practically every suicide leaves survivors to be tormented by what they might have done or failed to do, by guilt, remorse and shame. You think about an old man suffering from cancer who has three or four months at best and you say with compassion, "Why not let him find peace?"

"The answer is his grandchildren. If he kills himself he puts a skeleton in their closet. They have to live with it."

But most suicides are in the prime of life and should be treated and saved to live out their lives. Drs. Schneidman and Farberow discuss suicidal behavior and what to do about it, in their books "Clues to Suicide" and "The Cry for Help," both published by McGraw-Hill.

"The Cry for Help" is also the striking title of an educational film jointly produced by the government's national Institute for Mental Health and the Louisiana Mental Health Assn., a division of the National Association for Mental Health.

RESEARCH MATERIAL
The content of the documentary was planned by Dr. Lloyd W. Roland, executive director of the Louisiana group, with the Chicago Police-Department cooperating in the production. Most of the material came from research at the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center.

Here the telephone is serviced 24 hours a day by skilled personnel. A list of questions is used to determine the degree of "lethality" of the case. For example a man who calls from a hotel room, who sounds intoxicated and says he has a gun, is considered highly lethal. What are they doing in other parts of the country—to prevent suicide?

In New York City there is a Save-a-Life League which also has representatives in several other cities. In Dade County, Fla., all you have to do is spell out "FRIENDS" on the telephone dial. Two churches in Chicago have a telephone service. In Boston and Worcester, Mass., you can call Rescue Incorporated. And Philadelphia has a new "dial-a-psychiatrist" plan.

On critical occasions the calls come from the police who need expert advice when they arrive on the scene of a potential suicide—perhaps in time to save a life.

But what about all the cities, towns and rural districts where there is no number to call for help or advice?

This is an important area of police training, and the "Cry for Help" documentary was produced just for that purpose. The National Association for Mental Health has added the film to an educational project which has effectively instructed the police about mental illness for the past decade.

HELP IN TIME — A desk sergeant explains that a couple's daughter attempted suicide indicates need of psychiatric help. Scene is from film "The Cry for Help."

The association's manual, "How to Recognize and Handle Abnormal People," and the first film produced by the Louisiana mental health group and the NIMH, "Booked for Safekeeping," have been widely used in police training.

Local mental health associations are making this material, and "The Cry for Help" available to police departments in all parts of the country, and to clergymen, doctors, social workers, all those whose job it is to help people.

Mentally disturbed people want to live even as they seek death.

Ernest T. Nash of Woodland, Calif., an "old China hand," is cochairman of a group called "The Committee for a Review of Our China Policy."

FIRST MEETING
Nash said today the meetings in Hong Kong would be the first between citizens of the United States and Communist China to be recognized by the State Department since the two governments met in 1958 at the Warsaw Conference to discuss Formosa.

Nash said his group has received an encouraging letter from McGeorge Bundy, foreign affairs advisor to President Kennedy.

He quoted from the Bundy letter: "Discussion and review by private individuals of any aspect of our foreign policy, and particularly our policy toward the Peking regime, is most desirable."

Macao Reports Decline in Red China Refugees

MACAO (UPI) — The number of refugees from Communist China reaching this Portuguese colony during the first six months of 1963 declined sharply in comparison with the same period last year, it has been reported.

The minimal refugee association said only 1,388 refugees registered with the organization between Jan. 1 and June 30 of this year. The figure for the same period in 1962 was 6,351.

Industrial Power Output Gives Edison a Record

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Edison Co.'s service area provided industries with more electric power last week than any in the firm's 60-year history, the company said yesterday.

The record 158,164,000 kilowatt hours for the week which ended June 29, topped the previous week's industrial power use by 3.1 per cent and was 18.7 per cent higher than the same week of 1962.

Anti-Semitism at New High in U.S. Mails

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The amount of anti-Semitic mail flowing through the nation's post offices is at an all-time high, according to J. Harold Saks of the Anti-Defamation League.

Saks, of Washington, D.C., is administrative director of the league. He told a B'nai B'rith meeting here that the volume of hate mail is growing even though the number of overtly anti-Jewish organizations is low.

He said he had just learned of a typical case in which mail was sent from Amarillo, Tex., to northern California motel operators.

"The motel owners were told that since American wars were fought by white Christians, all Jewish males should be recruited and forcibly sent to the Middle East to fight the Arabs in event an Israeli-UAR war."

Saks commented that hate mail, regardless of whom directed, cannot be stemmed because no laws exist against group libel. He suggested that passage of such laws would inhibit free expression and in the long run be very dangerous.

Beer Cans Bug NASA Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unpatriotic beer can litterbugs are frustrating the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's NASA efforts to rid an instrument test site of metallic objects.

So far, they have dropped dozens of beer cans, two auto engines and an old kitchen stove along a road near the test area in nearby Prince Georges County, Md.

NASA says the debris is "magnetizing an area that shouldn't be magnetized," thus interfering with sensitive devices for spacecraft.

The space agency picked the area because it had no mineral-bearing rocks. It even cleared away the smallest nails.

Now, NASA is having to organize a security detail—to try to keep the area debris-free.

How Many 'Wee Drops' in a Bottle of Scotch?

ETAL, England (UPI) — The Northeast Temperance League attacked Lord Joicey, organizer of a local fishing contest, for giving a bottle of Scotch to the winner, 15-year-old Jimmy Cockburn.

Jimmy, defending Lord Joicey, said he did not drink any of the whisky, "but my father has had a wee drop."

Paraguay Embassy's Peronist Refuge

By ISAAC A. LEVI
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Deep in the basement of the Paraguayan Embassy in Buenos Aires, two bored Argentines while away their time.

They are the brothers Juan Carlos Emilio and Luis Amadeo Cardoso, notorious "third-degree" cops of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron's regime.

They have been in there for seven years, nine months and 43 days, setting a world record of sorts in the time-honored Latin American tradition of asylum. Nobody in memory has been in refuge in an embassy that long.

Peruvian leader Raul Haya De La Torre—who spent five years, three months and four days in the Colombian Embassy in Lima ducking dictator Manuel Odría's wrath—held the record for a long time in the 1930s.

"We have little hope of seeing the outside world in the near future," says Juan Cardoso. "We consider ourselves innocent, but everybody is so militantly anti-Peronist these days we wouldn't stand a chance in court."

"If necessary, we plan to stay here until 1957, when the statute of limitations expires."

Jun. 44, and Luis Amadeo, 41, stand charged before an Argentine federal court of abuse of authority, submitting prisoners to the "third degree" and associating for illicit purposes.

Their case has given prolonged cause for bickering between Argentina and Paraguay. Argentina claims the Cardosos are common criminals, refuses to acknowledge asylum, and demands their surrender.

On guard against being pushed around by big neighbor Argentina, Paraguay says—maybe. But first the asylum extended by the Paraguayan Embassy must be recognized, and safe conduct passes extended them.

Once the Cardosos are taken under guard to Asuncion, then the matter can be discussed, says Paraguay.

APRIL BOMBING

The Cardoso story began on the afternoon of April 15, 1953. More

They patiently bided their time, until the day in September, 1955 that Peron was ousted by bloody revolution.

SEEK TORMENTORS

With the tables turned, the Cardoso victims sought out their tormentors—without success. Juan, commanding a police patrol guarding against street demonstrations, was suddenly joined by Luis, riding a motor-scooter.

Luis was breathless: "They're after us—I've just been tipped off. They know where we are. Let's beat it to the Paraguayan Embassy. It's safe there."

Juan hopped on and they drove off to safety. The day was Sept. 21, 1955.

"Since then, we haven't been out of here," says Luis. "The front gate is our limit. Time hangs heavily on us, but what can we do. We have to wait and hope."

The Cardosos were confined to the embassy basement—a 20-foot-long room, dank and mildewed, used to store old tires and decrepit furniture.

They slept on a pile of old blankets and cobwebbed jute bags. Food consisted of a couple of sandwiches brought in by an office boy. Gradually, Juan and Luis made themselves at home. They cleaned the place, painted it, set up a kitchenette, with gas range and refrigerator, bought a television set and built themselves a couple of radios. Relatives brought them books and furniture.

Their wives occasionally even took to spending the night.

To supplement the $20 monthly stipend provided by the embassy, Luis began keeping books for a cobbler on the next block. Juan took to copy-typing on a battered typewriter the odd jobs his wife managed to rustle up for him.

Juan paints—mostly he copies classics—studies law, and reads. Luis tinkers with radios and makes lampshades from American cigarette wrappers.

Once a week—sometimes often—the parish priest from the Roman Catholic church around the corner comes to hear their confession and comfort them.

Outside the embassy gate, a policeman is permanently on guard—just in case the brothers might want to escape.

Jackson School Chief Has Proposal

Plan Offers Relief on Property Taxes

JACKSON (AP)—Dr. Ralph D. McLeary, superintendent of Jackson public schools has proposed a plan to relieve the burden of local property taxes and at the same time provide funds for city, county, township and school operation.

McLeary's plan would permit these local governmental units throughout the nation to retain a portion of the money they withhold from their employees' salaries for federal income tax purposes.

The local unit could use the money for operation or capital outlay, reducing the amount required from local property taxes to balance a given budget.

As an example, McLeary said such a plan would result in a reduction of about 5.3 mills for Jackson city residents and the lowering of tax requirements up to 3.5 mills in individual property tax supported governmental units in Jackson County.

His proposal could result nationally in a nationwide $2.6 billion reduction in the property tax burden. He said.

McLeary, who has been an educator for 40 years and a school superintendent for the past 21 years, is a nationally recognized authority on school design.

SEES NEED
He sees a need for tax revision to lessen the burden on property owners and to aid the state and other governmental units in meeting increasing needs for revenues.

Court Rules Radio Can't Rob Papers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has ruled unanimously that radio stations and other competitors cannot use local news from a newspaper without the paper's permission.

"If the news company can establish by proof that the broadcasting company has, without authority, used the local news item gathered through specialized methods and by the trained personnel of the news company, such unauthorized use constitutes a violation of a property right, the court ruled yesterday.

The case concerned a suit by the Pottstown Daily Publishing Co., which prints the Pottstown Mercury, against the Pottstown Broadcasting Co., operator of radio station WPAZ.

The Supreme Court upheld a county court's denial of the station's motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the newspaper should have filed the action in federal court, under copyright laws.

The station also argued the newspaper had no property right in the news. The Supreme Court agreed that copyright cases should be pursued in federal courts, but said state courts have jurisdiction over "a violation of a property right and a claim of unfair competition" and stated that a property right is a subject of an unfair competition action.

The reasoning behind McLeary's proposal is this: The tax requirements at all governmental levels have risen steadily and will continue to do so.

Assumption by the federal government of tax sources over which there is no local control meanwhile has led to the establishment of a heavy burden upon the local property tax, which, its critics say, is subject to many inequities and is not well related either to benefits received or ability to pay.

State-collected taxes already are burdened heavily by mounting costs of essential state government and are approaching a practical limit of available subsidy to local governmental units as a partial relief of the load upon the property tax.

McLeary said the result has been a continuous effort to influence the federal government to provide subsidies to states and their constituent units.

Included in the controversy created by talk of federal support is the argument that cost of collecting and allocating federal funds for redistribution in support of state and local function is excessively high.

HIT EXCESSIVE CONTROL
Critics also say that federal subsidies under congressional grants will lead to excessive and undesirable federal control and that some states with high income levels will be sending money to Washington, D. C., which will be parceled out to other less able states, thus penalizing the able and industrious states.

McLeary suggests that the federal government allow local property tax supported units to retain a portion of the total payroll—say 12 per cent. The actual percentage adopted could be lower or higher, or could vary among states, he said.

The employer would make out its withholding statements as before, but instead of sending the entire withholdings, it would send a certificate of retention stating that the authorized amount had been retained for local use, and remitting whatever withheld income tax money may be due to government after the authorized percentage is deducted.

TEARFUL REUNION — Antonio Lopez kisses and hugs his tearful mother, Mrs. Maria Lopez, after her arrival at Miami aboard a chartered plane with Cuban refugees.

'Arthritis?' It's Just Old Rheumatism

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
The medical profession, as the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association finally got around to admitting, has "not kept abreast of the tremendous advances in nutrition knowledge."

The general profession's ignorance of nutrition explains, I think, why doctors who call chronic joint disability "arthritis" have bamboozled the public all these years.

The merchants of medicine conceived the notion of calling chronic joint disability "arthritis" after Dr. Osier left the country, and it pleased their customers no end, because it sounded exclusive and expensive and Dr. Osier had taught that chronic rheumatism was "common among the poor, particularly washer-women and day-laborers."

The fancy name for rheumatism was invented before any body knew anything about nutrition. The science of nutrition is barely 50 years old, and it was in 1906 that Dr. Osier moved to Oxford.

It doesn't seem to bother the poor souls who believe their chronic joint disability is "arthritis" that no one can will describe or define "arthritis" clearly enough to distinguish it from plebeian chronic rheumatism. The charlatans who exploit popular credulity are content to let it lie.

For instance The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation distributes huge quantities of propaganda or educational material about "arthritis" but nary a word about crude, old fashioned rheumatism.

A doctor or maybe a specialist down east, wrought with my teachings, jumped into print in his home newspaper to say "we recognize now over forty different types of arthritis. While it is true that we do not know the cause and cure of the more common types, rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis," the doctor adds, "we know that much can be done to alleviate suffering, prevent crippling and allow the person relative enjoyment of life."

But not a bit more, if I may say so, than could be done 50 years ago when we called all "types" of chronic joint disability rheumatism.

NEW NAME
Another doctor who is head of a real clinic (place connected with hospital or medical school, where physicians diagnose and treat patients before classes of medical students) begged me not to introduce a new name (to wit, rheumatiz), for he said it was difficult to teach students and even evidently what I proposed to call rheumatiz or chronic rheumatism is the degenerative type of arthritis.

Had the doctor said degenerative type of chronic joint disability . . . but he didn't. He brushed my teaching aside by saying "arthritis." This was exasperating in the circumstances, but I replied courteously.

What I propose to call rheumatiz or chronic rheumatism is not arthritis at all, that is, not joint inflammation, I told him. It is just degeneration of joint tissues.

But I never heard from the doctor again. I suppose he considered my view of chronic joint disability as wrong as I think his view, the view of the great majority of old-timers in medicine, is.

From 50 years of pseudo-scientific hokum about "arthritis," most doctors, like the teacher in the clinic, have come to believe "arthritis" is an entity distinct from chronic rheumatism, though no one can or will define it.

People who seem to think the purpose of this column is to give medical advice sometimes tell me they are tired of my harping on rheumatiz and they wish I'd tell 'em what to do about . . .

Since one in every 12 persons in the country has or will have chronic joint disability, it seems to me important to teach as many people as possible that chronic joint disability is degeneration of joint tissues due to nutritional deficiency from childhood to the present, chiefly deficiency of calcium and vitamin D, vitamin B complex and iodine. For most total advice on prevention, relief and, if taken in time and followed faithfully, the arrest or cure of the rheu-matiz send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for Little Lesson No. 12, "Chronic Joint Disability."

In it you'll find the regimen for rheumatism, which is a good nutritional program to follow, whether you have any joint trouble or not, because it is essentially designed to prevent or correct the nutritional deficiencies from which most Americans suffer.

That is the reason why I harp so much on the rheumatiz. And hundreds of grateful readers whose testimonials are in my files do not call my teachings about this "harping."

Signed letters, not more than one page, with words and pictures pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to: The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. Fight Beetle, Senator Urges

Wants Eradication of Cereal Leaf Pest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch E. Bayh, D-Ind., yesterday appealed to the Senate agriculture appropriations subcommittee for help in eradicating the cereal leaf beetle in Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

In a letter to Chairman Spear and D. Fla., Bayh urged that $200,000 be added for the agricultural research service budget.

"The present magnitude of the infestation was not apparent until after your subcommittee concluded hearings on the agriculture appropriations bill," Bayh wrote, explaining why the request was not made sooner.

"If we are to wait for fiscal 1965 for a full-scale research effort, then valuable time will be of Greek workers there."

lost in arresting the spread of this harmful beetle." The Agriculture Department's release of $250,000 and money appropriated by the affected states apparently is enough to "control and quarantine our unwanted guest," Bayh said. But the department and Purdue University scientists report extensive research is needed for a permanent solution of the problem, he said, and estimate $200,000 is required for this.

His Two Front Teeth

Police Dog Gets Dental Work

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Rocky, a hard-charging German Shepherd dog in the city police K-9 corps, is sporting two chrome front teeth. It's all because he likes rocks.

The shiny teeth glisten in the light of the street lamps, presenting a fearful appearance as he and his handler patrol their beat.

The 85-pound black and white dog, likes to play with rocks. Eventually, rocks wore his teeth down to stumps. The city veterinarian and a local dentist did to Rocky what happens to many humans—he got new teeth. Rocky's are actually caps atop the stumps.

Sgt. H. M. Schwartz, chief of the K-9 corps, says the toothless Rocky was "like a policeman without a gun."

Don't View Eclipse Without Eye Filter

By The Associated Press

One of nature's rare phenomena, a total solar eclipse will take place on July 20 this year. It's a fascinating sight but it brings hidden, grave danger to camera fans photographing it, as well as the spectacular beauty of a rare occurrence.

The danger lies in the severe damage to the eye which can be caused on a person's retina of the eye by the invisible ultraviolet and infrared radiation rays of the sun when looking at the eclipse without proper protection.

The warning comes from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and Eastman Kodak Co. along with suggestions for safe viewing and photographing of the phenomenon.

INVISIBLE RAYS

"Normally, we don't look directly at the sun because it's too bright to view comfortably," John W. Ferree, M. D., executive director of the National Society explained. "But during an eclipse, enough light is blocked out to permit observation."

This is when the invisible rays can burn the retina because the eye focuses those rays, just like a magnifying glass which can burn a hole in a piece of paper with the sun's rays.

Unfortunately the retina is not sensitive to pain, so people are not aware of the damage being done when it is taking place."

"It is equally dangerous to look through a camera viewfinder or through any lens system such as telescope, binocular or opera glass," according to George T. Keene, photographic engineer at Kodak and author of a recently published book, "Star Gazing with Telescope and Camera."

"Adequate protection is assured only with a filter that blocks out the invisible—ultraviolet and infrared rays as well as the visible light rays of which we are aware."

Medical authorities suggest a neutral density filter of metallic silver of from 5.0 to 6.0 density to be placed in front of the eyes or in front of the camera lens when viewing the stages of the eclipse.

Such a filter can be made easily. Take a roll of Vividama Pan black and white film. Unroll it so as to expose the film to daylight. Process the film completely. Cut the film into convenient pieces for looking through. Two thicknesses together make adequate protection as recommended by medical authorities.

CAMERA TIPS

However, this viewing filter should not be used over the camera lens for taking pictures.

The metallic silver grain pattern will diffuse the image. For photographic exposures, non-diffusing Wratten neutral density filters are recommended. Two such filters may be combined to get the 5.0 to 6.0 density suggested.

They should replace the viewing filter after the sun has been framed properly in the viewfinder or groundglass. But remember: Do not look at the sun through these Wratten filters!

Almost any camera can be used to photograph the eclipse but a tripod is a virtual necessity. Cameras with zoom or telephoto lenses should use the longest telephoto lens or zoom position. Short bursts of six or eight frames should be shot periodically, every two or three minutes, on a movie camera.

If you can arrange it, make multiple exposures on a still camera on the same film frame.

Most cameras no longer permit double exposures, but you can set the camera for "time" exposure and use a lens cap or cover to make the separate exposures.

When photographing the eclipse, the neutral density filter material must be used during the early or partial stages, must then be removed to permit sufficient exposure during the total eclipse for the corona effect and then must be replaced in front of the lens for the final reappearance stages.

For further information, a free copy of "Solar Eclipse Photography for the Amateur" is available from: Sales Service Division, Eastman Kodak, Rochester 4, N. Y.

BIG LINK—A Pan-American Highway linking North, Central and South America was first proposed in 1923. Now, in 1963, the first half of this highway from Panama City to Laredo, Tex.—the Inter-American Highway—is open to traffic. Most of the road's 3,200-mile length is paved. The U.S. has spent $138.7 million on the highway. Mexico and the Central American republics in addition $82 million. About $48 million is needed to complete the unpaved portions.

U.S. Studying Cut in N-Arms

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—High U.S. officials believe the United States is far ahead of the Soviet Union in numbers of nuclear weapons, despite strong Soviet efforts to catch up.

This is one important factor figuring in secret-shrouded studies of whether to trim production of force this country mounts today "can survive a Soviet attack with sufficient power to destroy the Soviet Union." He said he meant destroy its industrial capacity, military power and a high percentage of its population.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric predicted more than a year ago that the United States will double its nuclear striking power by 1965.

LOOKING AHEAD

materials that go to make nuclear weapons.

Another controlling consideration is the enormous size of both the nuclear arsenal and the stockpile of fissionable material used in weapons production.

Both have been growing for about 17 years, with a sharp surge in the past decade.

Precise details of this country's nuclear armament are a closely guarded military secret. But these gleanings from the public record give an inkling of its scope and destructive power.

An analysis prepared for the U. S. Disarmament Agency last year estimated that this country has some 40,000 nuclear warheads and bombs.

Five months ago, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress he believes the Officials noted that a cutback in production of nuclear weapons materials, chiefly plutonium, would not necessarily mean a cutback in weapons manufacture at the same time. Weapons makers could draw on the stockpile for a substantial period.

COULD BE REWORKED

Also, it is likely that some of the atomic components in warheads of early model missiles could be pulled out as those weapons approach obsolescence and be reworked into warheads for advanced weapons.

There has been top-level talk of shutting down some of the nation's nuclear materials plants at a possible saving of $1 billion a year.

This saving would be reflected in the AEC budget, not that of the Defense Department, since the cost of atomic warheads is not charged to the Pentagon on the government books.

Plutonium is produced at eight huge reactors at Hanford, Wash., and five at Savannah River, S.C. Another reactor is being prepared for use at Hanford.

Speculation has centered around the possible closing down of half of these 14 reactors.

Allen, Rossi Find a Cause

Two Sick Comedians Lobby for Health

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I stuck my head into the office of House Clerk Ralph Roberts and asked "do you have a couple of comedians in here?"

"The place is full of them," the receptionist said. "Which two are you looking for?"

I was looking for "Marty Allen and Steve Rossi, who showed up a couple of minutes later and requested information on how to register as lobbyists.

It gets a bit complicated trying to explain why a nightclub and television comedy team was interested in lobbying. But I'll do the best I can.

to provide federal assistance for improving methods of educating students with epilepsy.

But first they took the precaution of obtaining lobbying registration forms. All clear?

I asked Allen if there was anything else he planned to do while he was in the capitol.

"Yes," he said, "I want to see Senator Goldwater. I want to return some cuff links I bought at his store."

On the way out we passed one of the marble staircases in the Senate office building.

"I saw this in an old movie on television the other night," Allen said. "Richard Widmark pushed his mother down them in a wheel chair."

Allen and Rossi are booked this week in Las Vegas. They told me how to keep from gambling while in the Nevada resort.

"You get off the plane and walk into the propeller," they explained.

Maybe they should stick to lobbying.

MADRAS, Ore. (UPI) — The execution of Jeannette June Freeman, 22, convicted child killer, has been set for Aug. 1 in Oregon's gas chamber.

She was convicted of first-degree murder of 8-year-old Larry Jean Jackson.

Her execution, ordered today in Jefferson County Court by Circuit Judge Robert Foley, will be the first in Oregon for a woman.

According to trial testimony, the condemned woman hurled the Jackson boy into a deep canyon in central Oregon because he interfered with Miss Freeman's abnormal relationship with the boy's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Jackson.

Cat Killer's Penalty Is to Help Vet

WABASH, Ind. (AP)—A teenager who said he beat two cats to death "as an act of kindness" because he thought their eyes were infected will spend the rest of the summer helping a veterinarian care for stray animals.

Roscoe Woodard Jr., 18, who pleaded guilty to malicious trespass, also was fined $1 and costs by Judge Pro Tem Robert Gonderman of Wabash City Court.

In ordering the youth to help Dr. N. A. Turner for the rest of the summer, Gonderman said: "The boy is what I'm concerned about. The idea is not to hand out a brutal punishment, but to try to help him. I think a couple of months working with these animals will be good for him."

There has been top-level talk of shutting down some of the nation's nuclear materials plants at a possible saving of $1 billion a year.

This saving would be reflected in the AEC budget, not that of the Defense Department, since the cost of atomic warheads is not charged to the Pentagon on the government books.

Military Radio Serving Europe for 2 Decades

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The American Forces Network voice of Uncle Sam to millions of Americans and Europeans, yesterday observed 20 years of unbroken broadcasting in Europe.

It was on July 4, 1943, that AFN began broadcasting from a cellar in Hitler-bombed London.

Although it has never been heard in the United States, it has become a way of life here.

Many young Europeans have learned English by listening to AFN disc jockeys and other programs.

President Kennedy, the Army and Air Force and millions of Europeans who claim it as their favorite station have joined in sending plaudits.

Kennedy said in a letter that AFN "has informed and entertained our men and women overseas . . . has presented a kind and accurate picture of the American way of life to countless millions of Europeans."

Drug Executive Chosen as New U.S. Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP)—William True Davis Jr., St. Joseph Mo., pharmaceutical executive, has been chosen by the Kennedy administration as U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland, it was learned yesterday.

He will replace Robert M. McNamara, U.S. Ambassador in Bern since June, 1961.

During Berlin Visit

JFK Impresses German Girl

Annegret Gross of Göttingen, Germany, spent the 1961-62 school year at West Bloomfield High School. An American Field Service student, she lived with Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Stanker of Green Lake.

Annegret watched President Kennedy's appearance in Berlin on a neighbor's TV set. After his speech she wrote her impression to her American family.

Mrs. Stanker shares the letter with Pontiac Press readers.

"Couldn't miss your President visiting Berlin! The first time I saw him again since his panel discussions before the elections and his inauguration. His way of speaking hasn't changed much—it's strange, though, to have him stop every other sentence to translate his message.

"The broadcast was quite good. I wonder whether there was a lot of it relayed to you? Kennedy just inspected the Wall; the Soviets had converted the Area of the Brandenburg Tor (gate) with red cloths. Kennedy seemed to shorten his visit at that part of Berlin.

"Boy, did the Berlin population—I might well say the German population—ever give him cheers! Every possible space was jammed with people. Some of the Berliners were so excited about his coming that they spent the night on the square before the Suneburger Town Hall lest they should miss his speech. . . .

"I wonder what the American people think of his words there. To the Germans, and especially the people of Berlin, it was honey!

"In one way, he seemed quite relaxed (you surely can be proud of your President!) But when people did stop clapping, cheering and applauding, he looked somewhat uneasy.

"To me, his face expressed much doubt of the German people. I don't think he can picture the crowd's behavior as spontaneous, hearty action. I must admit, though, if we'd been told to organize a political demonstration it could not have been displayed in a better way.

"And in some way it was a political action: surely the Germans want to show that they are not content with their divided status and they are very proud of having the American representative officially affirming them in their belief.

"People really do like Kennedy and what he stands for. I wish Kennedy would really feel that he is heartily welcome and that the cheers are just an outburst of the feelings most Germans have for the Americans.

"For you are the closest to our heart of all foreigners and not merely because we couldn't resist the Soviet bloc without your backing us up. But you've given us such a fair treatment, for you've shown so much tact, in giving us a chance to re-enter a place in human society, and have not constantly rubbed in the failures of our past."

Annegret closed her letter with these words:

"Don't take me too seriously, it's just a queer love I have for America, and I am very touchy about either side misinterpreting the other people."

Recent Vows

Spoken by Area Couple

Attendants at the recent marriage of Joyce Reynolds

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Reynolds of Goring Street and the Roy C. Lewises, Elizabeth Lake Road.

A diamond-shaped veil and satin bodicepiece complemented the bride's gown of white satin brocade with court train. Pink rosebuds accented her bouquet of white orchids and Stephanotis.

With honor matron Mrs. Sidney Colyer, were bridesmaids, Mrs. Frank Schlereth of Vassar; Mrs. Robert Carlson, Mrs. Michael Hudson and Sharon Mow.

Kimberly Reynolds and Mark Schlereth were flower-girl and ringbearer. Best man was Douglas C. Dodge, Lansing; Robert Hunt, Christopher Lewis, John Longman, and Jack Pierce, LaGrange, Ind., ushers.

Away With Mildew

Here are some suggestions for removing mildew from fabrics. First wash the garment. For cottons and linens, use household bleach. If silk, wool, rayon or other man-made fabrics are mildewed, use mild powder bleach.

MRS. JAMES F. BORING

Newlyweds Honored at Reception

The Ralph R. Smiths of Riviera Street were hosts at a home reception following the recent nuptials of their daughter Meloyde Anne to James F. Boring.

All Saints Episcopal Church was the setting for the ceremony performed by Rev. C. George Widdfield.

Bouffant white nylon tulle combined with Alencon lace fashioned the bride's colonial gown and chapel train. She wore an illusion veil and carried white carnations.

Attending their sister as bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Choler and Sandra Smith, wearing lavender taffeta sheaths with overskirts. They held bouquets of matching carnations. Honor matron Mrs. Dale Fulcher, appeared in pale yellow taffeta of identical styling.

Dale Fulcher was best man for the bridegroom, son of Joseph Boring of Goldner Street and the late Mrs. Boring. Jerry Choler ushered with the bridegroom's brother Joseph.

Traveling Tips

Pack Well to Enjoy Your Vacation

The which, what kind and how many of summer vacation clothes packing is determined by three factors: where you plan to spend your leisure time, activities in which you intend to participate and transportation.

Here are some tips for packing and planning with a minimum of effort.

Train and plane transportation

call for approximately the same travel outfits.

Select a lightweight casual suit or dress that easily sheds wrinkles and will look as neat after a five- or six-hour trip as it did when you put it on.

Wear comfortable walking heels. No matter how nicely you are dressed, uncomfortable heels will give you a strained appearance.

Trains and planes are often air conditioned. If you chill easily, take along a sweater.

Carry a large handbag for all the little cosmetic extras. It also comes in handy for a number of small items you can't fit in your suitcases.

For train travel, take along as much as you please. For air travel, check with the airline. You will probably be limited to 40 pounds of luggage. Pack 30 pounds. You are bound to find souvenirs or bargains you just can't pass up. Save some space for packing them for the return trip.

MOTOR TRIP?

If you decide to motor to your destination, dress casually. A lightweight dress or Bermudas with a sweater for cooler hours make good car companions.

You will make a much better impression if you arrive wearing a good-looking outfit with coordinated accessories, hat and gloves. The accessories may be done just before arrival.

Savvy vacationers should board their ship wearing a casual suit or sport outfit. Be sure to include a hat or scarf so sea breezes will not ruin a newly acquired hairdo.

Take as much as you please since there are no weight restrictions on personal luggage.

Take a liberal supply of sportswear and swimwear (the ship will probably have a swimming pool). You probably will need a formal or cocktail dress for the ship's gales, too.

There may be times when you will have to "play it by ear." Information is not always available on what the latest fashions are for a trip via camel or kayak.

HOW, WHAT TO PACK

Where are you going? Your travel wardrobe will vary with the destination, so check the local customs. Some basic rules, however will apply.

The first rule brought forth by Women's Editor Janet Odell is: "Take half the clothes and twice the money."

For those of you who are determined to take most of your wardrobe, we do have a few suggestions.

Don't pack so much as a toothbrush until you have decided on EVERYTHING you are going to take.

Lay out the basics, including dresses, skirts, sweaters, blouses, a light coat and sportswear.

Select clothing which can be matched with the rest of the wardrobe easily and accessories which will match your basic wardrobe. After a careful survey, eliminate anything unnecessary.

Plastic bottles and bags are essential, so use them liberally. Glass bottles may break and ruin your good clothing and luggage.

A portable iron is a must and will save you from many hours of self-consciousness as you worry about wrinkles. Vacation time is fun and rest time. Pack well and enjoy yourself.

Need Special Care for Spring

Don't wait to have your fortune told to realize you may not be taking proper care of your hands and fingernails. Do your hands look as beautiful and smooth as they can and should?

Try massaging with hand cream from the fingertips to the wrists and on up to your elbow as though you were pulling on a long kid glove. A help for weathered skin is to wear a pair of the new lightweight, throw-away plastic gloves to bed after your hand cream treatment to hold an extra application of cream close to your skin all night long.

How do your fingernails look to you lately? Perhaps you have the erroneous idea that massaging hand cream around them will damage your manicure. Try massaging your fingernails and cuticles this way just once and the beauty you discover will prove how false this old wife's tale is.

You should certainly make periodic appointments with a professional manicurist and, while she gives your nails her expert attention, make mental notes of every step she takes. Then, when you do your own nails, you will see how much improvement a few new ideas will bring to show off your new, fashionable jeweled colors.

Other elements play a role in how your hands look. Be sure to wear plastic gloves when you put hands in water.

Continued Binge of Buying Due to Emotional Disorder

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a woman past 50 who can't resist buying clothes? I am that woman. I buy dresses, hats, shoes, underwear and costume jewelry I don't need and have no place to wear.

I'm an ordinary woman and lead a very ordinary life. I am married to an average man and we aren't wealthy, but I keep right on buying.

I buy things I'd like to wear, but never will — like big hair, shorty pajamas, brightly colored dresses, neckties, Bermuda shorts, and spike-heeled shoes. I have closets full of clothes — some still in their original boxes — but the next week I'm out shopping again. Is there something the matter with me?

LOVES TO BUY

DEAR LOVES: Offhand I would say yes. Your spending spree are probably symptomatic of a deep-rooted emotional disturbance, and only a psychiatrist can uproot it. (Either that, or you hate your husband and are trying to keep him broke.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old divorcee with a child. My problem is Bert. I have been going steady with him for almost a year. I am very much in love with him.

In all the time I've gone with Bert I haven't even looked at another man. He calls me up at work at least twice a day, he sees me every night and on the weekends, too.

He knows where I am every minute. Right? Well, so why is it that when he comes over he goes through all my garbage pails and ash trays to make sure nobody else has been there?

I don't mind his being a little jealous. In fact, it's flattering, but this is ridiculous. He has no reason to act like this.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You are fine — Bert is confused. Obviously he is not sure of himself. If you want to suffer, go ahead and marry him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's father adores our little girl, and he loves to take her places. This worries us a great deal because grandpa is a terrible driver.

No one in the family wants his children to ride with him, but sometimes we can't find an excuse.

What can we say without hurting grandpa's feelings? He is not old and feeble the is 57, but he is a terrible driver.

NEEDS AN EXCUSE
DEAR NEEDS: Why look for an "excuse" when you have a good reason? Tell grandpa that you love him dearly, but his driving terrifies you. Better to risk hurting Grandpa's feelings than your child's life.

It's Quiet in Birmingham, Ala., Today

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Some of the most violent clashes between the police and the demonstrators in the South occurred in Birmingham this past spring. A desegregation agreement between business and Negro leaders ended the demonstrations. Six weeks after the truce, here is the situation in Birmingham today.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—The bark is growing back on the trees at Kelly-Ingram park where firehoses cut men down like tenpins.

For six weeks, Birmingham firemen have had to use their hoses only on fires, and the police dogs who chased Negroes through the nearby alleys are back on routine burglaries.

The more than 2,500 Negroes who marched through the streets, sat at lunch counters and knelt at churches, are back at their jobs on bonds totaling more than $250,000.

And the peace brought by businessmen who risked their bank accounts to meet with Negro leaders to negotiate a treaty for partial desegregation has held. The initial step in the truce has been taken.

The merchants did not get off without scars at the hands of segregationists.

Militant forces have used economic reprisals, intimidation and some tactics borrowed from integration forces in efforts to bend the merchants.

"It's been hell for a while," said one downtown store owner. "We have been threatened, there is an organized campaign to stop whites from buying at the store, and some charge accounts have been canceled."

CAME BACK

"But the whites haven't been as successful in keeping people away from the stores as the Negroes were, and the Negro customers came back," said the store owner, who did not want his name used.

The Negro community, which successfully kept many shoppers away from white stores, has returned to downtown to shop.

They have found in the past week that the merchants have kept their word on the initial steps toward desegregation. The major downtown stores have removed "white" and "colored" signs from water fountains and restrooms, and Negroes can now try on clothing in fitting rooms.

The bargain, considered a limited victory in light of the size of the protest movement that lasted a month here, calls for upgrading of employment opportunities for Negroes by the middle of July, and the hiring of at least one Negro clerk by one downtown store.

By mid-August, the agreement calls for a permanent biracial committee to be set up and lunch counters at major stores to drop color barriers.

Local Negro leader Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth said with a smile: "Negroes are shopping more and enjoying it more. When your wife goes to the store to buy a dress she knows whether it will fit or not because she can try it on."

Arms Pact Upset Canadian Quakers

OTTAWA (AP)—The Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) urged the Canadian government yesterday to renegotiate its military agreements.

The Society, in a brief presented to foreign minister Paul Martin and opposition leader John Diefenbaker, said it considers any commitment to accept nuclear weapons for Canada anywhere in the world is an erroneous commitment.

The brief says that new agreements "should lead toward disarmament and away from the naked confrontations of power which now exist."

Electric Unit Gets Loan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rural Electrification Administration announced yesterday a $250,000 loan to Cherryland Rural Electric Cooperative Association, Traverse City, Mich.

Custom Cabinets D&J CABINET SHOP

1055 W. Huron 334-0926

"I know they'll come through on the rest," he said. The first step was not announced by the white businessmen, but simply carried through. Sidney Snyder, spokesman for the white businessmen who negotiated the truce, said there would be no announcement when the other parts of the agreement are fulfilled.

"But they will be," he said.

MASS MOVE

April 3 Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. arrived here and announced the start of a mass demonstration some of the city's most prominent businessmen on May 10 and the demonstration campaign stopped short.

The movement swelled, firemen used hoses to halt marches and more than 2,500 arrests were made. Some of the protests were the largest in the history of the Southern civil rights movement. One newspaper ran the headline: "Birmingham's Race Bomb Bursts."

The agreement was signed by some of the city's most prominent businessmen on May 10 and the demonstration campaign stopped short.

But within two days, bombs shattered a Negro motel and the home of King's brother, Rev. A. D. King, and touched off four hours of bloody rioting.

The agreement—though shaken—was not shattered.

Both Negro and white leaders realize that a militant Negro faction which does not believe in King's nonviolent tactics would win growing support if the peaceful protests failed.

"We know if something doesn't come from our nonviolent campaign, then the Muslims or those who are bitter and promote hate will win the Negro," Shuttlesworth said.

Sixty days after Birmingham stepped back from the brink, the air is still tense, but both Negro and white communities have hope.

Building Cost Up in June

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department has estimated that $5.9 billion for new construction was spent during June—about 8 per cent more than the May estimate.

The increase was about 2 per cent higher than the normal seasonal rise for June, the department said.

It reported that total new construction for the first six months of this year reached an estiimated $38.8 billion—4 per cent higher than for the same period in 1962.

State Aerial Firm Plans

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Abrams Aerial Survey Corp. of Lansing, Mich., yesterday was granted a $35,000 contract by the U.S. Forest Service for aerial photography of all timber in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

George S. James, regional forester, said the survey is part of federal efforts to intensify the Upper Peninsula forest inventory on a county-by-county basis.

Resists unsightly mildew discoloration

1 coat covers, protects like 2 coats

Why sacrifice the time, trouble and expense involved in painting twice, when you can do the job better with just one coat of Wards Style House One-Coat Super? Wards adds more high-hiding titanium to its formula to assure one-coat coverage over any color—even black! Spray or brush it on—One-Coat Super spreads smoothly, evenly and easily over wood or metal, dries to a lustrous, uniform finish that stays bright and clean year after year. It keeps its new, "just-painted" appearance because special additives help prevent discoloration eyesores caused by mildew, smoke and chemicals. And except for two colors*, it's non-toxic when dry. That means it's harmless to children and pets. Style House One-Coat Super is another typical example of the outstanding quality and value you'll find only at Wards.

Arabs, Germans

Others Color Israel's Thinking

By PHIL NEWBOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the state of Israel has struggled toward self-sufficiency and a place in the world family of nations, two conditions peculiar to Israel alone have colored its actions and its thinking.

One is the memory of six million Jewish victims of Hitlerism which has prevented normal relations with West Germany despite vast infusions of West German money into the new state.

The other is the continuing suspicion between Israel and its Arab neighbors, which occasionally erupts into violence despite peace-keeping efforts of the United Nations.

It was then with special bitterness that the Israelis reacted to news that German scientists were at work in the United Arab Republic helping President Gamal Abdel Nasser to build up his armaments in aircraft and rocketry.

The argument which boiled up in the Knesset (parliament) had its offshoot in a trial in Basle, Switzerland, of two men convicted of attempting to "coerce" German scientists in the U.A.R. through threats and an attempted kidnaping.

The defense charged that the German scientists were attempting to help complete "what Hitler failed to do" and that deadly cobalt 60 ostensibly imported for medical use actually was intended for Egyptian rocket warheads.

Between the Israelis and the Arabs, it was an old story of espionage and counter-espionage, of charges and counter-charges.

ROUSE CONCERN

In December 1960 the Israelis had aroused U. S. concern and Arab suspicions when the word leaked out that Israel secretly was constructing a power nuclear reactor in the Negev.

It was a nervous of the nightmare having to do with expansion of the "atomic club."

And it led Nasser to declare that if he became convinced Israel was building atomic weapons, then Egypt would have them no matter what the cost.

France was helping Israel to build the new reactor, and it is France's new close relationship with West Germany that may lead to a change in the latter's relationship with Israel.

Over the heated opposition of the militantly anti-German Herut party, Israeli leaders recently have been impressing upon the people West Germany's importance to Israel.

In May, Deputy Defense Minister Shimon Peres declared in an address to the Knesset, the strongest political party in Israel, that importance to be "not less than that of France."

Before leaving office, one of Premier David Ben-Gurion's last official acts was to entertain former West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss. Not so long ago, such a move would have touched off Jewish riots.

And in Bonn, it was disclosed that for years West Germany has been giving military training to Israeli soldiers.

Now the lower house of the West German Parliament has asked the government to introduce legislation prohibiting Germans from helping foreign countries.

Gemini Astronauts to Use State-Developed Food, Razor

BENTON HARBOR (AP)—When the United States sails two astronauts together into space in Project Gemini, they'll dine on Michigan-developed food and shave with a Michigan-developed razor.

A company that builds washing machines and stoves and such is doing the developing under contract with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It is Whirlpool Corp., of Benton Harbor.

Whirlpool's $300,000-plus contract is for development of the food supply, personal hygiene items and the waste disposal system for Gemini.

Separately and collectively they present problems—since there is no gravity and no water out in space. Nor will cramped capsule quarters have room for a stove or refrigerator.

Since the twin astronauts won't have room to stand up straight, for lie out flat, for that matter, space is of the essence in more ways than one.

So Whirlpool is called upon to come up with a 14-day food supply for two men that can be fitted into a space little bigger than a rural route mailbox, prepackaged, easy-to-use containers off to the side.

Weight also is a problem. Everything must be as light as possible, else the capsule-bearing missile might fall short of orbit. Since their water supply will be matter of pints, how will the Gemini astronauts shave, brush their teeth and bathe?

Whirlpool has come up with a shaver operated by a spring motor, like a windup toy train's. It has a built-in vacuum cleaner that collects the cut whiskers—which otherwise might float around getting into eyes, up noses or fouling instruments.

For teeth brushing, they'll use a chewing gum something like one which now advertises it's tooth cleaning as well as pleasant tasting. For "washing up," they'll use a chemically impregnated near-lintless cleaning tissue.

BREAKS MONOTONY

NASA figures mealtime will be a monotony-breaker for the astronauts, and Whirlpool is whipping up a whole series of sumptuous meals. Chicken, turkey, beef, lamb, ham and eggs, shrimp jambalaya and the like, with trimmings.

But every last bite will be precooked and preseasoned, and there can't be any crumbling cookies for the same reason there can't be floating whiskers.

Everything must keep at room temperature. There's no refrigerator, remember? And there can be no tin cans. How would an

Sheriff, Deputies Cry Over Testing of Valve

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—

"It's the first good cry I've had in years," Sheriff George L. Huscroft said. Deputies Matt Galich and Austin Sanders agreed.

The trio burst into tears when Galich tested a valve on a tear gas bomb to see if it worked. It didn't.

So everything is dehydrated and vacuum-packed in a three-layer laminated plastic bag. The outer bag is heat-sealable, the next layer puncture-proof, the inner one leak-proof.

While the food is dehydrated, the astronauts won't eat it dry. For instance, to get a chicken-and-curry meal, they'll put five ounces of room-temperature water into one of the bags containing this dehydrated meal and let it sit six minutes.

And for those who remember the powdered eggs of World War II, this is to report there has been a world of improvement in food dehydration since then.

'COMING WAY'

Dr. Norman Roth, chief of Whirlpool's life support department, believes it is "a coming way of food processing," and W. D. Fowler, general manager of Whirlpool's systems division, adds:

"If this type of food is coming, we want to know about it." What he didn't say is that Whirlpool makes refrigerators, and that modern-day dehydrated foods, either vacuum-packed or in an inert gas such as hydrogen, will keep on a kitchen shelf for longer than a year.

"We've kept it at room temperature for more than a year without deterioration," Dr. Roth said. "There's no way of telling just now how long it really will last if kept air-tight. If oxygen reaches it, of course, there is deterioration."

Whirlpool got its contract in June, 1962, and has been testing since. The Army Quartermaster Corps supplied food for the Mercury astronauts.

Most of the foods being tested for the Gemini fliers are freeze-dried (taken out) by a vacuum drier at low temperature. When the moisture is all gone, the food's ready for packing.

"It is," said Dr. Roth. "Like hanging wet clothes on a line during a sharp winter freeze, ice crystals form, but the wind takes most anything but eggs. Dr. Roth says that today's freeze-dried foods remain close to the original texture and taste when re-hydrated.

While the heat-dehydrated eggs of World War II tasted like al-rehydrated.

Middle Age Image

Kennedy's Hatless

LONDON (AP)—An expert on male fashion says that President Kennedy doesn't wear a hat because he instinctively refuses to identify himself with middle age.

"Men in the 45-50 age group—like the President—just won't wear hats," said John Taylor, impeccably dressed editor of Tailor and Cutter, an authoritative voice in the world of British tailoring. Kennedy is 46.

Referring to the President and men his age, Taylor added in an interview:

"When they were children, all adults wore hats. They saw their middle-aged fathers wearing them. They saw their middle-aged uncles wearing them and the middle-aged fathers of their friends wearing them."

"So, it's only a natural reaction for them to reject headgear themselves. They instinctively shrink from hats because of some throwback to childhood that looked upon headgear as something worn by older persons."

When President Kennedy arrived in Britain last weekend, and was seen by millions on television, he was bareheaded, but he carried a hat in his right hand.

Never once in Britain did he put it on. Kennedy attended Mass Sunday and wore no hat.

He appeared before television cameras on his departure for Italy and still wore no hat.

Commenting on the fact that the President sometimes carries one in his hand, Taylor said:

"For occasions of protocol—and Mr. Kennedy is involved in hundreds of them—carrying a hat is the very least he can get away with."

Taylor is in the same age group as the President. Like the President, he wears no hat.

"Unlike the President," he explained, "I get involved in very few occasions of protocol. When I do, I carry a hat."

'Should Back Package Bill'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Truth-in-packaging legislation should have the support of not only consumers but all responsible and honest businessmen. Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., said yesterday.

"The merchant who gives fair value for money does not have to hide behind gimmicks and come-ons," Kastenmeier said.

He said that four of five small businessmen, replying to a poll conducted in his congressional district by the National Federation of Independent Business, support the truth-in-packaging bill now before Congress.

Kastenmeier said he received 149 ballots from members of the organization in his district, and of this number 123 said they favored the bill.

The bill, first introduced in the Senate by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., would set standards of package sizes and contents to make it easier for shoppers to compare prices on competing items.

Kastenmeier, one of the sponsors in the House side, is a member of the House Judiciary Committee which expects to consider the bill.

Eying Forest Fires for Finicky Warbler

WASHINGTON — Kirtland's warbler, a song bird that thrives on forest fires, has something to warble about. Conservation agencies are trying to accommodate its finicky nesting habits.

Conservationists may go so far as to set forest fires—small and carefully controlled—to create ideal nesting sites for the rare bird, the National Geographic Society says.

The Michigan Department of Conservation and the United States Forest Service have reserved 11,690 acres in four areas for the thousand surviving Kirtland's warblers.

The land is in the north central part of Michigan's lower peninsula, the only place in the country where the warblers spend their summers.

The little bird, smaller than an English sparrow, builds its nest on the ground beneath the sheltering branches of jack pine and red pine five to 15 feet tall. Bottom branches of smaller or taller trees are too thin for shelter.

A solitary tree will not do.

There must be a thicket with a small clearing nearby. Plantations of the evergreen are planted either too far apart or without adequate clearings between thickets.

Before man took over the land, forest fires helped fill the warbler's housing demands by clearing unneeded foliage and discouraging most predators. Jack pine seeds are released only when intense heat opens the cones. The tree is one of the first to appear in burned areas.

Man accidentally aided the warbler's survival at the turn of the century by harvesting lumber in northern Michigan. Fires roared unchecked over vast slashlands, helping create future nesting sites.

In 1927, Michigan started intensive fire-control efforts. Today, the average fire in the state destroys less than 15 acres, a 12th of the average area lost before controls.

The campaign helped everyone but little Kirtland's warbler, which is fast running out of its favorite nesting places. Now, with effective management practices, the bird may have a chance.

Michigan's management areas, the first ever set aside for a song bird, are designed to give the warbler the kind of home it likes. Properly placed thickets, planted and harvested in rotation, will provide a constant source of the right size of jack pine. Some land may be carefully burned over to start the nesting sites.

And naturalists hope to acquire the home-hunting warblers with the virtues of other evergreens as homesteads.

County Officials Set to Attend Meeting

Many Oakland County officials are planning to attend the National Association of County Officers (NACO) annual conference in Denver, Colo., July 28-31.

About 2,500 delegates from counties throughout the nation are expected to participate.

Of particular interest to Oakland County delegates will be a discussion of county home rule. Other topics to be discussed include welfare planning, high-level planning, community facilities planning and how education should be tuned to the current worldwide economic struggle known as the Cold War.

Britons Earning More, but Gambling Less

LONDON (AP)—Britain's average white-collar worker earns more and gambles less than he did a year ago, the labor minister says.

The ministry said average white-collar weekly wages are $59.17. Of this, it said, the worker spending more on food, rent, taxes, tobacco and liquor—but a shilling (14 cents) less per week on betting.

Save 36 Children in Brazil Blaze

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Quick arrival of firemen was credited yesterday with saving the lives of 36 second-grade children trapped in a classroom by flames in a public school in the suburb of Inhauma.

After an explosion in the school kitchen, flames spread across a hall and blocked the only exit from the classroom. Firemen reached the scene less than five minutes after the explosion, extinguished the flames and brought the children and their teacher to safety unharmed.

Teachers Eye Communism

Say Instruction Easier in U. S. Classrooms

By GARY THORNE

Teaching about communism in public schools is not the fearful business it once was, according to a report this week by American Legion and education leaders at the annual National Education Association (NEA) convention in Detroit.

A joint committee of the NEA and the American Legion reported Tuesday on the progress of the objective treatment of communism in U. S. classrooms.

The committee issued a pamphlet "Guidelines for Teaching About Communism" last year. The pamphlet outlined, for junior and senior high school teachers, how to teach about the controversial subject.

The booklet explains how to select content, materials, and procedures to follow in the classroom to give an objective treatment of communism.

57,000 DISTRIBUTED

J. Edward Welland, of the American Legion from Indianapolis, Ind., said that more than 57,000 copies of the guidelines had been distributed by the end of May this year.

Another committee member, Early Funderburk, county school superintendent from Fairfax, Va., said the biggest problem in teaching about communism was to find qualified teachers. He said retired soldiers had been pressed into service in his area.

Funderburk, who called his area of the nation a "sociological nightmare," said there is a need for people who know of what they speak. He said the retired soldiers, in many instances, had a first-hand knowledge of Russia.

Explaining the philosophy behind a course in communism, Funderburk said in order to teach a boy how to kill a rattlesnake you have to show him what it looks like.

Dr. Joseph Gavenonis, of the Pontiac state department of public instruction, pointed out that not too long ago teachers were fearful of mentioning communism in classrooms. He said it now is incorporated into the regular social studies curriculum.

A check with Pontiac school officials revealed that the same is true here. Communism is touched on in senior high school civics classes.

Victor M. Lindquist, director of the Division of Instruction, said department heads from Pontiac's two high schools are presently drawing up a unit to incorporate into existing courses.

OBJECTIVITY STRESSED
Lindquist pointed out that one of the biggest problems is finding suitable materials. He said objectivity is stressed.

Pontiac will be ready in another year to include teaching about communism in junior high. Lindquist said it would be opened to ninth graders only.

NEA and American Legion leaders said it was important that students have a thorough background of American history before tackling a study of communism.

"I don't worry what side they'll choose," Funderburk added, "if you just give them the true facts."

Judge Delays Sentencing of Plane Thief

Sentencing of LaVern A. Anderson, who stole a plane from Pontiac Municipal Airport March 7, was postponed until Sept. 5 to permit psychiatric diagnosis.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore granted a defense motion this week for the delay in sentencing Anderson, who spent several hours over the country in the plane, trying to "impress" his estranged bride.

Anderson pleaded guilty May 15 to a charge of unlawful possession of a $65,000 twin-engine private plane.

During his flight, Anderson buzzed the Birmingham insurance office where his wife worked, nearly hit two men while leaving Troy's Berz Airport and landed briefly on Northwestern Highway.

The Reserve Forces Act of 1955 requires every young American male by law to fulfill a minimum six-year military obligation. This is divided into three parts: active service, ready reserve and standby reserve.

Branches of the Armed Forces are so highly technical that in many instances it is much to the advantage of the high school student to receive his diploma rather than drop out. All local recruiting officers have said they urge the dropout to return to school.

Programs are available which offer six months of active service with three years ready reserve and four and a half years standby reserve, or six months of active service and five and one half years of ready reserve.

ARMY

Once drafted, the inductee has no choice of training. However, local recruiting officer Sgt. 1. C. Robert Froemke states that the Army's three-year enlistment program guarantees in writing choice of job or travel before enlistment and is now reserving

Street Has Plenty of Law Advice

It's name is Vinsetta Boulevard, but it should be Judges' Row.

Of the seven circuit judges the county will have in September, no less than three live on the same Royal Oak street.

Two of the present five judges are Vinsetta Boulevard neighbors—Stanton G. Dondero of 1504 and Arthur E. Moore of 1407.

As if that weren't enough judicial atmosphere for one avenue, one of the two attorneys who will become a new county judge Sept. 6 has an address down the road.

He's James S. Thorburn of 2600, whom Gov. George Romney named along with Pontiac's Philip Pratt as the men he will appoint to the new posts when they become effective.

The three account for south Oakland's entire representation on the county's circuit bench. Judges Clark J. Adams and Frederick C. Ziem live in Pontiac and William J. Beer in Lake Orion.

All three Vinsetta Boulevard jurists also were active Republicans before the call to service in the nonpartisan judicial posts.

Fire Calls Up for Waterford

Waterford Township's fire department responded to 466 alarms during the first six months of this year, two more than in the comparable 1962 period.

Property damage resulting from fires from January through June amounted to $218,275. Damage during the first six months of 1962 totaled $118,925.

No deaths due to fires were recorded in either of the six-month periods. However, four persons were injured this year to date and two suffered injuries during the January-June period last year.

There were 304 actual fire calls during the first half of this year and 100 emergency rescue runs. Other alarms during the six-month period included 14 false alarms, 14 investigations and 22 miscellaneous calls.

Fills Vacancy on Trial Board

Isadore L. Goode of 203 Cherokee has been appointed to the Pontiac Police Trial Board to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of H. Malcolm Kahn.

Goode, a Pontiac attorney, has served as a member of the local draft board for many years.

His appointment was confirmed by the City Commission Tuesday. Goode was nominated for the post by Commissioner Charles H. Harmon.

space in classes for high school graduates.

Vocational training is available in the medical, dental, mechanical, clerical, cooking, communications, truck driving and many other fields.

Off-duty high school and college level courses are also available for those wishing to complete their education.

Qualified applicants may apply for admission to West Point. A four-year college program will give the enlistee his degree plus a commission as second lieutenant and a three-year tour of duty.

College graduates may enlist in the Army for a two-year period and upon completion of basic training go immediately into a six-month officers candidate school.

NAVY

A number of seaman recruit programs are open for Navy personnel who wish instruction and on-job training. These programs include hospital, dental, airman, seaman, electronics and nuclear fields of training.

Correspondence course are also available for those who wish to receive high school or college diplomas on their own time.

A four-year scientific program in engineering offers a combination of college and shipboard duty which leads to a bachelor of science degree in nuclear engineering.

The Navy offers a naval reserve officer training program which pays tuition, books, uniforms and $50 a month for college. In return, the applicant must take a six-week training course for two summers and serve a minimum of four years upon graduation.

Qualified persons may apply for Annapolis. Preferred studies on the high school level for admission include one year of physics, one of chemistry, two of foreign language, three of engineering and three of math, including geometry, trigonometry and calculus.

AIR FORCE

A number of educational programs are offered the Air Force recruit. Among those are the extension course institute, officer training school, institute of technology and Air Force Academy.

The extension course institute offers correspondence courses for specific training in Air Force duties and is free to all qualified personnel.

The officer training school for college graduates is a four-year program in which the recruit receives his second lieutenant commission upon completion of a three-month training program.

For officers only, the institute of technology prerequisites include completion of at least 20 semester hours of college credit with grades of C or higher. For graduate study, an officer must possess a baccalaureate or masters degree in an appropriate field.

Only career officers, or those who have indicated they will become career officers, in the grades of lieutenant through lieutenant colonel, are eligible for any of this program.

The Air Force Academy offers young men who qualify a four-year course that leads to a bachelor of science degree and a commission in the regular Air Force. Appointments are generally secured through United States congressmen.

MARINES

Normal tour of enlistment in the Marines is four years. Adult education programs are available for the off-duty Marine with the corps assisting financially.

College students may enroll in the platoon leaders class which requires two six-week summer training periods at Quantico, Va. Upon graduation, the student is commissioned a second lieutenant with a three-year tour of duty awaiting him.

Upon completion of a competitive exam, a Marine may attend the college of his choice for four years and receive an engineering degree at the expense of the corps. He is then obligated to serve a minimum of four years in the corps.

The Marine officers training course for college graduates begins with a ten week training program at Quantico, Va. Upon completion of the course a Marine is commissioned as a second lieutenant with a three-year obligation.

COAST GUARD

The Coast Guard is strictly a volunteer organization. Upon completion of boot camp, the regular enlistment program offers special training in one of the many schools the Coast Guard maintains for training petty officers, or the regular recruit may sign up for correspondence courses through the Coast Guard Institute.

Enlisted men are eligible for admission to the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. Competitive scholastic and physical examinations determine entrants to this four-year officers training college.

Graduates receive a bachelor of science degree and commissions as ensigns with a three-year obligation.

Officers candidate school provides an opportunity for graduates of accredited colleges and universities to fulfill their military obligation as commissioned officers.

Upon successful completion of officer candidate school, candidates are awarded commissions as ensigns and are required to serve for a period of three years.

WOMEN

Without exception, the character requirements for women entering the service are more stringent than those for men. Women must be high school graduates and a number of letters of recommendation must be obtained.

The fields of occupation for women are limited in comparison with men, but there is a large obtained from local recruiting from which more than 100 ICBMs have been fired.

Library Report Indicates Co-op

Waterford Planners See $31,000 Budget

Waterford Township as an affiliate of the North Oakland Library Cooperative could operate a public library on an annual budget of $31,000, according to a report issued yesterday by the township planning department.

The report requested by the library study committee of the township board was received by the planning commission and will be presented to the study committee.

Township Planning Director Robert Diehl said the $31,000 budget would include membership in the cooperative, monthly payments on a proposed library building, wages for a librarian and two assistants, maintenance of the building and grounds and funds for acquisition of new books.

The report also elaborated on three alternatives for a township library: affiliation with the Oakland County Cooperative, affiliation with the Wayne County Library System and starting a public library on its own.

In other business the planning board approved a proposed 1964 budget of $26,400 which will be subject to approval of the township board.

The commission also re-elected chairman James Clarkson, and vice chairman William Shurtz to new terms and named James Seeler as secretary of the commission.

LOW-CALORIE — Spanish Olives Fruit Salad combines the freshest of strawberries, peaches, pineapple wedges, watermelon and honeydew melon balls with pimiento-stuffed olives and cottage cheese. The combination, set into split melon halves and topped with a tasty sour cream dressing, is an ideal salad to serve right now.

Perk Up Salads

Olives Good With Fruit

Delicious for dieters, this fruit salad in melon shells features cottage cheese and pimiento-stuffed olives. The dressing of dairy sour cream, subtly flavored with honey, ginger and lemon rind, is also low calorie since sour cream has only 30 calories per tablespoon, compared to 110 for mayonnaise.

And pimiento-stuffed olives are only 9 calories apiece, yet their piquant flavor is a most happy contrast to the sweetness of fresh fruits.

This fine cooking secret has long been known to good Spanish cooks, who count fruits, seafood and olives among nature's greatest gifts to their country. In fact, citrus fruits, olive oil and olives — in that order — are Spain's three largest food export items. The saltiness of olives is just as good with cream cheese as with cottage cheese, and with canned as fresh pineapple. As you'll see when you try the second recipe — Spanish Olive Pineapple Salad — also low calorie.

Spanish Olive Fruit Salad
1 large honeydew melon
1 cup hulled strawberries
1 cup sliced peaches
1 cup fresh pineapple wedges
1 cup watermelon balls
1-3 cup whole pimiento-stuffed olives
1 cup cream - style cottage cheese
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon honey
¼ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
Sliced pimiento-stuffed olives for garnish
Split melon in half lengthwise. Remove seeds and scoop out melon with small ice cream scoop or melon baller. Reserve melon shells.

Combine honeydew balls, strawberries, peaches, pineapple wedges, watermelon balls and 1-2 cup whole olives. Fill melon shells with fruit mixture. Mound cottage cheese on top of fruit.

Combine sour cream, honey, ginger and lemon rind. Spoon dressing over cottage cheese. Garnish with sliced olives. Makes 4 servings.

Spanish Olive Pineapple Salad
1 can (1½ ounces) sliced pineapple, drained
Crisp western iceberg lettuce 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1-3 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon pepper

Arrange pineapple slices on lettuce. Combine cheese, olives, parsley and pepper; mix well. Shape balls. Place in centers of pineapple. Chill. Makes 4 servings.

Baby Heroes?
Slice hard rolls and butter; fill with slices of Swiss cheese, anchovies, Italian-type salami and paper-thin rings of sweet onion.

Chocolate Dessert

Here's a very special dessert. Mix some chocolate syrup, crunchy peanut butter and sour cream until smooth. Flavor with vanilla. Cut canned chocolate nut roll into slices and heat in top of double boiler. Put a slice in serving dishes, top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and spoon sauce over it.

Food Won't Stick

Mulling over a camping trip? You'll welcome the convenience of an aluminum fry pan with new non-stick Teflon coating. Foods won't stick, even without cooking oil, and the pan is easily sponged clean in the cold water of a lake or stream.

Grating potatoes for pancakes? If milk is used in the recipe, grate the potatoes directly into it to help keep the spuds white.

Carry Sandwich Rolls to Grill at Picnic

It's outdoor eating time all over the country and what's more fun than a picnic in the park or in your own backyard? Start the relaxing fun with a cool glass of iced tea and some dry toasted peanuts for munching. Since you're not greasy, you won't have to remember to bring extra napkins for these peanut eaters.

While the group sips and nibbles, put the sandwiches, which are prepared ahead and wrapped in foil, on the grill to heat. Then with the addition of a plate of zesty deviled eggs, crisp relishes and some fresh fruits, you'll have a picnic menu right for everyone.

Zesty Deviled Eggs
6 hard cooked eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon spicy brown mustard
3 tablespoons mayonnaise

Shell eggs. Cut in half lengthwise. Carefully remove yolks. Mash with fork until very fine. Add salt, mustard to egg yolks and mix well. Add mayonnaise and stir until mixture is smooth. Fill egg white halves. Makes 12 halves.

Pepcy Ground Meat Rolls
1 pound ground beef
1 pkg. complete spaghetti sauce mix
1 cup water
8 frankfurter rolls
Brown meat in skillet. Sprinkle with dry sauce mix over meat and stir to blend well. Stir in water. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, for about 3 minutes until sauce thickens. Spoon mixture onto rolls. Wrap in aluminum foil.

Heat over coals on outdoor grill for about 10 minutes or in a preheated 400 degree oven. Makes 8 stuffed sandwiches.

Toasted Ham and Cheese
1 cup chopped cooked ham
1 cup chopped American cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon spicy brown mustard
6 frankfurter rolls

Mix the ham and cheese together. Stir in mayonnaise and mustard. Spread each roll with about 3 tablespoons of mixture. Wrap in aluminum foil. Heat on grill over coals, about 10 minutes or in a preheated 400 degree oven. Makes 6 stuffed sandwiches.

PICNIC GOODIES — Sandwiches made at home and carried to the picnic spot in aluminum foil take only 10 minutes of heating on the grill. Zesty deviled eggs are good finger foods too.

GARDEN BOUQUET SKILLET—This dish is easy, happy alliance of versatile vegetables and extra seasonings with handy canned tomato sauce for combining the flavors.

Let Vegetable Medley Simmer in Sauce

This variable recipe is worth shutting from the roof tops about, but if you're a good cook instead of a roof top shouter you'll want to make it again and again, using whatever is at hand.

Of course the best thing to have on hand is convenient canned tomato sauce, always on friendly terms with vegetables, as in this dish where it combines with pineapple to give a tantalizing new flavor, different from both barbecue and sweet-sour sauces.

It is ideal to serve with a barbecue meal—the flavor is a perfect complement to grilled meats and you cook all the vegetables in a single skillet.

Though it looks colorful and handsome when made with round, orange carrot slices and long green string beans, you can substitute lima beans, corn, and summer squash in the same succulent sauce; or celery with kidney beans and onions. Possibilities are endless—look in the refrigerator to see what leftovers are waiting.

Try this new sauce with all different most any vegetable combination

Garden Bouquet Skillet Dish
1 tablespoon butter
1 medium onion, chopped
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
1 cup thinly sliced fresh carrots
1 (12-ounce) package frozen green beans, french cut
1 (8½-ounce) can crushed pineapple and juice
1 teaspoon salt

In a skillet, sauté onion in butter until golden brown. Add remaining ingredients; cover and simmer 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Serves 4 to 6.

Bake a ribbon meat loaf with a layer of whole cranberry sauce mixed with chopped celery between two layers of meat loaf. Delicious surprise.

Peach Pies Have That Continental Air

There's a poetical French couplet that's just perfect for these pies. But . . . ooh, la la, Madame. . . the French would never make them as effortlessly as you. Though you might—only might—get their equal in the Eiffel's shadow on the banks of the Seine.

Like le week-end and le hot dog, les mixes have hit Paris. So do not think yourself less gourmet when you start these FRESH peach pies with convenient pie crust mix. Madame, you are avant garde!

But, the fruit! Ah, cheri, there

THE difference. FRESH fruit on the continent is THE thing. Mais oui, no flavor can compare with FRESH.

Often FRESH peaches are pared and sliced right at your table. Or a bowl of beauties is brought to table for your inspection, then whisked to the kitchen for gentle slicing.

The National Peach Council suggests this is quick, wasteful way to peel fresh peaches for these French-style pies. Cover fresh peaches with boiling water for about 1 minute. Chill quickly under running water. The skins will peel off thin as paper with no waste of juices or the melting golden pulp.

French Crumb Peach Pie
2-crust package Pie Crust Mix
4 cups peeled, sliced fresh peaches (6 to 8 medium size)
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter

Follow package directions for 1 pastry crust. Fit into 9-inch pie pan. Chill.

*Mix fresh peaches, ½ cup sugar and tapioca. Blend rest of pie crust mix, ¼ cup sugar and nutmeg. Cut in butter with pastry blender, or 2 knives, to make coarse crumbs.

Pour fresh peach mixture into chilled pastry crust. Sprinkle with crumbs. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes, or until fruit begins to bubble and crumbs are light brown. Cool 2 hours before serving. Makes 8-inch pie.

Very Easiest Peach Pie
9-inch unbaked Pastry Crust
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
6 medium-size fresh peaches, peeled and quartered

PEACH PIE—A specialty from sidewalk cafes of Paris, French Crumb Pie uses fresh peaches in the true French manner. Here the continental treatment of fresh peaches combines with the American way using convenience mixes.

2 tablespoons butter rest of sugar mixture over top.
Mix sugar, flour and cinnamon. Dot with butter.
Sprinkle half of mixture over. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes. Top with minutes to 1 hour, or until juices fresh peaches, arranged in sin-thicken and crust is light brown. Sprinkle. Serve warm or cold.

Bunche Lauds U.S. Effort to Achieve Race Equality

REBILD NATIONAL PARK, Denmark (UPI) — Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. undersecretary, said today that the United States is waging "an epic battle of conscience" on the race question from which it will emerge "stronger politically and economically with its people more fully united."

Bunche was U.S. guest speaker at Denmark's 51st celebration of the American Independence Day. Grandson of a slave, he referred to "West Africa, whence certain of my ancestors came to the shores of America, somewhat reluctantly, according to history."

He said the late U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, referred to him as an "honorary Scandinavian."

"Those in my ethnic group in the American population melange — the Americans of Negro descent — are second to none in staunchly supporting and defending American democracy, with its emphasis on freedom, on the rights of man and on the worth and dignity of each person," he said.

"The heroic struggle of the American segment of the American population — now numbering over 20 million, or more than 10 per cent of the total population — is in its climactic phase.

"With the active encouragement and support of very many white Americans, the American Negro has in recent years and months intensified his determined effort to realize the full promise of the American ideal by becoming a full-fledged American moving in the main-stream of American life.

"This has created in the country what President Kennedy has rightly described as a 'moral crisis,' the most intensive, certainly, in contemporary times.

"A true social revolution is in progress in the United States — it may be said particularly in the South — but in fact the Negro American all over the country is demanding fully equal status with a new determination and insistence, and he is winning also much wider sympathy and support for his cause than heretofore.

"My country, I am sure, will emerge from its newest revolution stronger politically and economically, with its people more fully united, and its life on a higher moral plane."

Judge Rules Tattoos Are Basic Right

NEW YORK (AP)—It's an inalienable right of man to have his body tattooed. A State Supreme Court justice has ruled.

And if you do, he added, you're in good company. For example, Justice Jacob Markowitz said Monday, "Lady Randolph Churchill, the American-born mother of Sir Winston Churchill, was tattooed for ornamental purposes, as were King Frederick IX of Denmark, King George V, Edward VII, Alfonso XII of Spain, Viscount Montgomery, as well as countless other distinguished members of society."

He ruled that a city health department ban on tattooing as a possible carrier of hepatitis, a filthy ailment, was unconstitutional. He also said there was no evidence that tattooing is dangerous. A Coney Island tattoo emporium challenged the ban.

School Superintendent Has Big Job Ahead

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (UPI) — Fred Burger is a superintendent without a school.

He took office this week as St. Charles County superintendent of schools. But St. Charles County controls no schools — all have been consolidated with the town of St. Charles.

Use Tomato Sauce as Base for Soups

SALMON SALAD MOLD: — Cool perfection in gay party form, salmon salad mold makes a colorful entrée for warm weather entertaining. It's a crunchy blend of flaked salmon and vegetables in delightful flavor contrast to the creamy caper dressing.

Fish-Shaped Mold Is Ideal for Salmon

Cooking up a party? You'll find summertime entertaining is lots more fun when you take the heat out of preparations with a shimmering salmon salad mold topped with tangy caper dressing.

The salad is a cool and creamy combination of finely flaked salmon mixed with just the right amount of crisp vegetables for pleasant eating. Plain gelatin, with the added creaminess and extra nutrition of evaporated milk, makes the salad base. Each tiny piece of vegetable and fish adds its own superb flavor with a bit of lemon juice and mayonnaise stirred in for extra zip.

What's sauce for the salmon is sauce for the salad and capers have a special affinity for both. A flick of the blended switch whisks evaporated milk, oil and vinegar to a creamy emulsion with tiny pickles added just to give the caper salad dressings its special flavor.

Salmon Salad Mold
1-1/2 cup lemon juice
2-3 cup water
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 can salmon (1 lb.)
1 cup finely chopped cucumber
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
1 jar (4 oz.) pimiento drained and chopped
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tall can evaporated milk (12-3 cups)

Combine lemon juice and water in measuring cup. Sprinkle gelatin over top and let soften for 5 minutes. Place in pan of boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from water and pour into a medium size mixing bowl to cool.

Meanwhile remove skin and bones from salmon and discard. Flake salmon in the salmon liquid. When gelatin mixture is cool, add salmon, cucumber, green pepper, pimiento, onion, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Mix thoroughly. Stir in mayonnaise, then evaporated milk.

Turn into a well oiled 1 1/2 quart mold and chill until set.

Abundant Carrots May Be Served in Creamy Soup

Choose from the abundance of carrots coming to market, as reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and add glamour to your meals by using this crisp, colorful vegetable.

When choosing carrots, keep in mind that good carrots are firm, clean, fresh, smooth, well-shaped and generally well-colored. Wilted, flabby, soft, or shriveled carrots are usually undesirable. Tough or cracked carrots will cause considerable waste in preparing them for use, advises the Agricultural Marketing Service.

One pound of carrots provides 5 half-cup servings, cooked. If shredded raw, the same amount about 2 to 3 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Caper Salad Dressing
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup salad oil
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon capers
Place all ingredients except capers in container of electric blender. Cover and blend for a few seconds until smooth and thickened. Stir in capers. Chill. Makes approximately 1 cup dressing.

Butcher Can Help Cut Meat Bills

ANN ARBOR — With imagination, a great variety of meats may be planned within a small budget if homemakers have their butchers prepare meats to fit their needs, say food specialists at The University of Michigan Medical Center.

In recommending "more meals from meat" to cut family food costs, the dietitians report that several meals for a family of four may be obtained from one cut of meat.

Here's how:
— A generous beef arm pot roast will provide two meals for a family of four. It may be rolled into an ample boneless pot roast with enough left for hearty Swiss steaks.

— Three different meals may be obtained from a pork Boston butt. An easy to carve boneless roast and braised boneless steaks contribute to two delicious meals. Boneless cooked meat from the blade piece makes an economical third meal.

— A leg of lamb may provide a tasty center-cut roast, broiled sirloin chops and tender stew meat.

The secret is in having your retailer cut your meat to fit your needs, the U-M dietitians say.

Unless you like your salad greens wilted, don't add the dressing until just before serving.

Quick Carrot Soup
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 quart hot milk
1 cup grated raw carrots
Salt and pepper to taste
Cook the onion in the fat until lightly browned. Blend in the flour. Add milk, carrots, and salt and pepper. Cook, stirring frequently, until the carrots are tender, about 10 minutes. Four servings.

rather than the kind grandma used to make, here are basic tomato soups without the sweetness of the standard canned variety. These recipes belong in everybody's files, not just because they're so simple to prepare, but because you can personalize them by adding your family's favorite seasonings after the milk and tomato sauce are combined. Vary the garnishes too — try popcorn, chives, or croutons for a change.

Tomato soup makes a hot and hearty prologue to luncheon, stretches a light supper into a meal for unexpected guests, or goes into the thermos of a lunch box with equal ease. Whole family traditions can be built on superlatively simple recipes such as these!

Tomato Curry Soup
1/2 tablespoon butter
1/4 tablespoon flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 cups milk
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
1/4 teaspoon soda

In top of a double boiler, melt butter. Stir in flour and salt. Cook about 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, slowly stir in curry powder and milk.

Combine Tomato Sauce and Soda, stir well. Slowly add to milk-flour mixture. Place over bottom of double boiler and heat until thickened. Garnish with a dollop of sour cream. Makes 5-6 servings.

Cream of Tomato Soup
2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce
1 can water
1 onion stuck with 6 cloves
Sprig parsley
2 tablespoons poly-unsaturated oil
2 tablespoons flour

Potato-Tomato Soup
1/4 cup diced salt pork
2 cups diced potatoes
1 cup diced carrots
1 medium onion, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
1/2 green pepper, chopped
2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce
3 cups water
1 tablespoon poly-unsaturated oil
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Crust for Fruit Pies
Take special care to roll pie pastry (for the bottom crust of a fruit pie) evenly and not overly thin when the filling is to be fruit. It's usually a good idea, too, to bake a fruit pie on a low shelf of the oven.

Cabbage Is Digestible
You are less likely than you once were to hear somebody say "Cooked cabbage always gives me indigestion!" That's because nowadays the vegetable is usually cooked briefly and in this state it is mild in flavor.

Add Last Bit of Cheese to Salad Just Before Serving

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

"Different" salad recipes are hard to come by. But here's one you may never have tried.

And here's how this particular rule was developed. Several years ago a friend gave us one of her favorite salad combinations—fresh bean sprouts cooked only until tender-crisp and dressed with oil, vinegar, seasonings and grated Parmesan cheese plus a topping of sliced radishes.

To have this salad at its best, choose a fine-flavored Parmesan cheese and do exactly as the recipe directs—add half of it just before serving.

Another caution. Don't over-cook the asparagus. It should be slightly crisp. Just remember that in 16th century England, when the vegetable was called "sparage," it was said to be "delicious eaten raw with oil and vinegar."

Snowflake Asparagus Salad
2 pounds asparagus
Boiling water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
¼ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
¼ teaspoon white pepper
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
Salad greens
Break off tough ends of asparagus; with swivel-blade vegetable peeler, remove outer covering from stalks up to buds. Wash thoroughly.
Cut into diagonal slices between ¼ and ½ inch thick, leaving 1½ to 2 inch tips. Place in a medium saucepan with 1½ inch boiling water; ¼ teaspoon of the salt and the sugar. (and cook about 5 minutes or until asparagus is just tender-crisp. Drain if necessary; cool. With a fork beat together the oil, vinegar, remaining ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper and 1 table-spoon of the cheese; add asparagus; cover and chill. / At serving time, arrange as-sprinkle with remaining 2 table-paragus on salad greens and spoon cheese. Makes 6 servings.

The Mirror Cracked

Inspector Craddock Questions Ardwyck Fenn

STORY SO FAR — Marina Gregg, beautiful actress and stage star, had been married for five years to Inspector Craddock, who was a detective in the London Police Department. Marina was a very popular actress and had been in the limelight for many years. She was a very beautiful woman and had a very successful career. She was a very popular actress and had been in the limelight for many years. She was a very beautiful woman and had a very successful career.

"People say that actually you were terribly upset," Inspector Craddock looked meaningfully at Lola Brewster. He had heard of Lola's outburst several years ago when Marina Gregg set her cap for Lola's husband.

"Oh, people always say things," said Lola vaguely.

"You said quite a lot, didn't you Miss Brewster? You went about threatening to shoot Marina Gregg, or so I understand."

"I've told you one says things. One's supposed to say things like that. Of course I really wouldn't shoot anyone."

"In spite of taking a pot shot at Eddie Groves some few years later?"

"Oh, that was because we'd had an argument," said Lola. "I lost my temper."

YOU SAID IT

"I have it on my good authority, Miss Brewster, that you said, and there are your exact words, or so I'm told," (he reads from a notebook) — "that bitch needs to think she'll get away with it. If I don't shoot her now I'll wait and get her in some other way. I don't care how long I wait, years if need be, but I'll get even with her in the end."

"Oh, I'm sure I never said anything of the kind," Lola laughed.

"I'm sure, Miss Brewster, that you did."

"People exaggerate so." A charming smile broke over her face. "I was just mad at the moment, you know," she murmured confidentially.

"One says all sorts of things when one's mad with people. But you don't really think I'd wait fourteen years and come across England and locked up Marina and drop some deadly poison into her cocktail glass within three minutes of seeing her again?"

Dermot Craddock didn't really think so. It seemed to him wildly improbable.

"I'm only pointing out to you, Miss Brewster," Craddock said, "that there had been threats in the past and that Marina Gregg was certainly startled and frightened to see someone who came up the stairs that day. Naturally one feels that that someone must have been you."

"But darling Marina was delighted to see me! She kissed me and exclaimed how wonderful it was. Oh really, Inspector, I do think that you're being very, very silly."

"In fact, you were all one big happy family?"

"Well, that's really much more true than all the things you've been thinking."

"And you've no ideas that could help us in any way? No ideas who might have killed her?"

"I tell you nobody would have wanted to kill Marina. She's a very silly woman anyway."

"Always making terrible fusses about her health, and changing her mind and wanting this, that and the other, and when she's got it being dissatisfied with it! I can't think why people are as fond of her as they are."

"Jason's always been absolutely mad about her. What that man has to put up with! But there it is."

"Everybody puts up with Marina, puts themselves out for her."

"Then she gives them a sad, sweet smile and thanks them! And apparently that makes them feel that all the trouble is worth while."

CLINGS TO IDEA

"I really don't know how she does it. You'd better put the idea that somebody wanted to kill her right out of your head."

"I should like to," said Dermot Craddock. "Unfortunately I can't put it out of my head because, you see, it happened."

"What do you mean, it happened, nobody has killed Marina, have they?"

"No. But the attempt was made."

"I don't believe it for a moment. I expect whoever it was meant to kill the other woman all the time, the one who was killed. I expect someone comes into money when she dies."

"She hadn't any money, Miss Brewster."

"Oh well, there was some other person, any way. I don't really doubt Marina if I were you. Marina is always all right."

"Is she? She doesn't look a very happy woman to me."

"Oh that's because she makes such a song and dance about everything. Unhappy love affairs. Not being able to have any children."

"She adopted some children, didn't she?" said Dermot with a lively remembrance of Miss Marple's urgent voice.

"I believe she did once. It wasn't a great success I believe. She does these impulsive things and then wishes she hadn't."

"What happened to the children she adopted?"

"I've no idea. They sort of vanished after a bit. She should tell of them, I suppose, like everything else."

"I see," said Dermot Craddock.

VISITS ARDWYCK FENN

Next, the Dorchester. Suite 192.

"Well, Chief Inspector — Ardwyck Fenn looked down at the card in his hand.

"Craddock."

"What can I do for you?"

"I hope you won't mind if I ask you a few questions."

"Not at all. It's this business at Much Benham. No, what's your actual name, St. Mary Mead?"

"Yes, that's right. Goslington Hall."

"Can't think what Jason Rudd wanted to buy a place like that for. Plenty of good Georgian houses in England, or even Queen Anne. Goslington Hall is a purely Victorian mansion. What's the attraction in that, I wonder?"

"Oh, there's some attraction for some people that is, in Victorian stability."

"Stability? Well, perhaps you've got something there. Marina, I suppose, had a feeling for stability."

"It's a thing she never had herself, poor girl, so I suppose that's why she always covets it. Perhaps this place will satisfy her for a bit."

"You know her well, Mr. Fenn?"

Ardwyck Fenn shrugged his shoulders.

"Well? I don't know that I'd say that. I've known her over a long period of years. Known her off and on, and that is to say."

Craddock looked at him appraisingly. A dark man, heavily built, shrewd eyes behind thick glasses, heavy jaw and chin. Ardwyck Fenn went on:

"The idea is, I gather, from what I read in the newspapers, that this Mrs. Whatever-her-name was, was poisoned by mistake. That the dose was intended for Marina. Is that right?"

"Yes. That's it. The dose was in Marina Gregg's cocktail. Mrs. Bedcock spilled her and Marina handed over her drink to her."

"Well, that seems pretty conclusive. I really can't think, though, who would want to poison Marina, especially as Lynette Brown wasn't there."

"Lynette Brown?" Craddock looked slightly at sea.

Ardwyck Fenn smiled. "If Marina breaks this contract throws up this party, Lynette will get it and it would mean a good deal to Lynette to get it."

"But for all that, I don't imagine she'd send some emissary along with poison. Much too melodramatic an idea."

"It seems a little farfetched," said Dermot dryly.

"Ah, you'd be surprised what women will do when they're ambitious," said Ardwyck Fenn. "Mind you, death mayn't have been intended. It may have been just meant to give her a fright. Enough to knock her out but not to finish her."

"BORDERLINE DOSE"

Craddock shook his head. "It wasn't a borderline dose," he said.

"People make mistakes in doses quite big ones."

"Is this really your theory?"

"Oh no, it isn't. It was only a suggestion. I've no theory. There was only an innocent bystander."

"Was Marina Gregg very surprised to see you?"

"Yes, it was a complete surprise to her." He laughed amusedly. "Just couldn't believe her eyes when she saw me coming up the stairs. She gave me a very nice welcome, I must say."

"You hadn't seen her for a long time?"

"Not for four or five years, I should say."

"And some years before that there was a time when you and she were very close friends, believe?"

"Are you insinuating anything in particular by that remark, Inspector Craddock?"

There was very little change in the voice but there was something that had not been there before. A hint of steel, of menace. Dermot felt suddenly that this man would be a very ruthless opponent.

"It would be as well, I think," said Ardwyck Fenn, "that you should exactly what you do mean."

"I'm quite prepared to do so, Mr. Fenn. I have to inquire into the past relations of everyone who was there on that day with Marina Gregg."

"It seems to have been a matter of common gossip that at the time I have just referred to, you were wildly in love with Marina Gregg."

Ardwyck Fenn shrugged his shoulders.

"One has these infatuations, Inspector. Fortunately they pass."

"It is said that she encouraged you and that later she turned you down and that you resented the fact."

"It is said—it is said I suppose you read all that in the gossip columns."

"It has been told me by quite well informed and sensible people."

Ardwyck Fenn threw his head back, showing the bull-line of his neck.

"I had a yen for her at one time, yes," he admitted. "She was a beautiful woman and still is. To say that I threatened her is going a little far."

"I'm never pleased to be thwarted, Chief Inspector, and most people who thwart me tend to be sorry that they have done so. But that applies mainly to my business life."

BEFRIENDED — Nine-year-old Beverly Beville of Savannah dries out a thoroughly soaked mocking bird, a victim of recent steady rains. The bird was so wet it couldn't fly away.

Scratches Around for Flea Troupe

LONDON (AP) — Miss Pauline Testo—who runs a flea circus—was scratching around today looking for performers.

"Fleas," she said, "are hard to get these days."

Miss Testo blamed Britain's health authorities for her predicament.

"Health authorities all over the country are carrying on an increasingly active campaign against fleas. There's a risk of them being wiped out," she said.

Miss Testo needs performers because she has several engagements coming up.

"I'm down to four stars," she explained, "and that's not enough to put on a good show."

She said fleas are not difficult to train—once you get the right material.

She said there are plenty of dog fleas, but they don't live long enough.

"I need the sort of fleas that get on human beings," she went on. "They live for months and can be trained for the various acts."

Miss Testo said she is willing to pay well for potential stars.

The going rate is $1.58 a dozen. "I'll pay more than that," she said.

enough talented performers she will return to the old routine—fleas, dancers, flea tight rope walkers, flea fencers and flea charioters.

She said her next engagement was at Newcastle-On-Tyne. But unless she gets some performers soon, she might have to cancel the show.

"I have some hopes of borrowing a few from a friend," she explained, "a friend who has fleas. Not on him, mind you."

Solons Get Old-Time Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — In this age of soaring rockets and prices, Congress members are enjoying some remarkably old-fashioned fringe benefits.

To name a few, cuspidors, 75-cent hair cuts, meals at cost, a free comb and hairbrush every two years and a trunk or footlocker every year.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., compiled this list because, he said, the taxpayers should know what incidents they make available to each legislator in addition to the $22,500 a year in salary and various expenses.

In a tongue-in-cheek letter to constituents, Pike said the cuspidors make nice flowerpots "for an office, youngsters who don't chew."

Of the comb and hairbrushes distributed at the start of each Congress, Pike said:

"Such are the glorious traditions of our republic that this presentation is made without regard to the question of whether the member possesses any hair."

No Need to Watch Oven Fried Fowl

Most recipes for this dish give a moderate temperature, but for really crisp chicken, use higher oven heat.

Oven-Fried Chicken

1 broiler - fryer (about 2½ pounds ready-to-cook weight)
6 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 teaspoon paprika
¾ cup fine cornflake crumbs

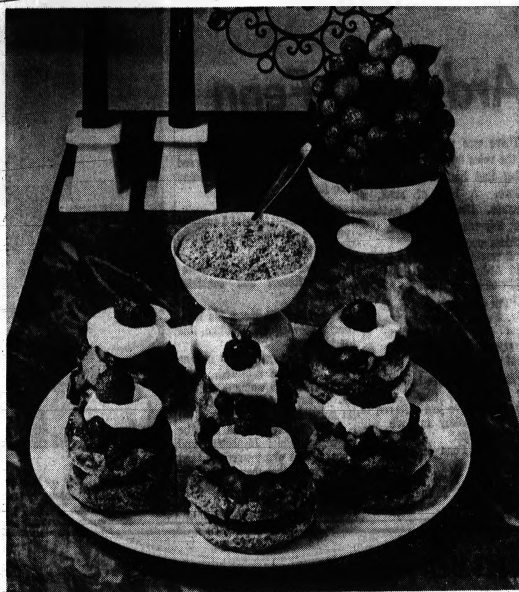

Have chicken cut in 10 pieces; reserve giblets, neck and wing tips for broth or some other dish. Wash chicken and drain.

Melt butter AND stir in salt, pepper, poultry seasoning and paprika. Dip chicken pieces, one at a time, in seasoned butter and then in cornflake crumbs, coating well.

Place chicken in oven-glass baking dish (13½ by 8½ by 1½ inches). Bake, uncovered, in a hot (425 degrees) oven until tender when fork-tested - 45 minutes to 1 hour. Makes 4 servings.

Candy Stick Stirrers

Feed tea drinks become candy coolers when you use flavored candy sticks as swirl sticks. They lend color, flavor and a slight sweetness. Rock candy also can be used as a sweetener. So can a lemon drop or a mint-flavored gum drop.

DIFFERENT FLAVOR - Wheat germ-strawberry shortcake have nut-like flavor and pleasing crunchiness. They are high in nutrition, too.

Heart-Shaped Cake

Nice for a bride's shower: using a heart-shaped cookie cutter or individual mold, cut out hearts from sheet cake. Sandwich the hearts together and then flatten out hamburgers with a spatula when cooking - a skillet is not recommended; it squeezes out the meat juice.

Wheat Germ Is New Ingredient

Strawberry shortcake is now a year-around treat, what with frozen berries always available, but this queen of American desserts always tastes best when the luscious, plump and sweet berries flood the market.

Wheat germ added to the dough (which in this instance can be made from your favorite packaged biscuit mix) adds a pleasing nutlike flavor and crunchiness to the biscuits, beside bolstering them with lots of essential nutrients.

Sprinkle wheat germ flakes on the whipped cream, too. This can be optional with those around the festive board if a bowl of wheat germ is placed on the table.

Wheat Germ-Strawberry Shortcake

2 cups biscuit mix
½ cup wheat germ
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
¼ cup milk (about)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 quart strawberries, sliced and sweetened to taste

Combine biscuit mix, wheat germ and sugar. Beat egg; add milk; stir into dry ingredients. If necessary, add more milk to make a soft dough. Roll out ½-inch thick on lightly floured board.

Cut with 3-inch round cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet; dot with butter. Bake at 450 degrees for about 15 minutes or until golden brown.

Split biscuits; spread cut surfaces with additional butter or margarine; put together with strawberries between and on top. Garnish with whipped cream. Pass wheat germ flakes to sprinkle ad lib on whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cream Onions for Smooth Easy Eating

Herbs added to cream sauce for onions give flavor-lift.

Creamed Onions

1½ pounds small white onions
2½ cups boiling water
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon white pepper
½ teaspoon thyme leaves, crumbled

Mixed parsley
Cover onions with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes; peel. Place in 2-quart saucepan with 2½ cups boiling water and 1 teaspoon of the salt.

Bring to boiling point, uncovered, and boil 5 minutes; cover and cook 15 minutes or until onions are tender; drain. (Cooking time will depend on size of onions).

Melt butter in a saucepan over low heat; stir in flour; add milk; cook and stir constantly until thickened. Stir in remaining ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, and thyme. Add onions and reheat. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Frozen Broccoli Is Time-Saver Here

You can use a canned cheddar cheese soup for the sauce if you want to save time.

Broccoli Souffle

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
3 large eggs (separated)
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup finely-chopped well-drained cooked broccoli

In a saucepan over low heat melt the butter; stir in the flour. Add the milk; cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat; heat until thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat; gradually and vigorously stir into slightly beaten egg yolks. Mix in salt, pepper and broccoli. Beat egg whites until they hold slightly tipping peaks; fold in broccoli mixture. Turn into an ungreased 1-quart souffle dish; bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 45 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Cheese Flavors Crust

Want a flavorful crust for a deep-dish meat pie? Add half a cup of grated cheddar cheese to half a package of pastry mix and knead up according to package directions. Roll out and fit over top of dish.

Kennedy Goes GOP to Fill Controversial Political Posts

(EDITOR'S NOTE—In naming Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. to be ambassador to South Viet Nam, President Kennedy has again demonstrated a tendency to fill politically hot jobs with Republicans. The roll call includes such administration stalwarts as Robert S. McNamara and C. Douglas Dillon. But does it inhibit GOP criticism? Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer, discusses the situation.)

International trade negotiator runs the Central Intelligence Agency. In the past when the President needed an old hand for a particularly difficult task, he has called in John J. McCloy, another Republican.

These key appointments lend a Kennedy was keeping pace with the shade of bipartisanship to areas where Kennedy would like a little less criticism and a little more cooperation from the Republicans. With his selection of Lodge,

Roosevelt also picked up his 1940 opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, as an unofficial one-world ambassador.

Kennedy once offered former Vice President Richard M. Nixon a choice of appointments, but the 1960 presidential loser wanted none.

There always is griping among Republicans when one of their number goes over to a Democratic administration. Dillon, for one, was looked upon as a political turncoat.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy can expect early and overwhelming Senate approval of his nomination of Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

But there will be no accompanying guarantee that Republicans will soft pedal their criticism of administration Asian policies as a result.

In picking Lodge, the 1960 GOP vice presidential nominee, for the tough Saigon post, Kennedy demonstrated anew a tendency to dip into Republican ranks when there is a politically controversial job to fill.

Republicans Robert S. McNamara in defense and C. Douglas Dillon at the Treasury plug two Cabinet hot spots, former GOP Secretary of State Christian A. Herter serves as the President's

GOOD QUALIFICATIONS
But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he doesn't expect much in this Lodge's case. He called Lodge's qualifications for his new job exceptional.

"The President's action confirms again that when there is a real trouble-shooting job to do, he turns to Republicans," Javits said. "Republicans can be proud of the fact that they produce men of such caliber that a Democratic president calls on them when the going gets tough."

Threat of Forest Fires
Exists on Isle Royal
ISLE ROYAL (AP) — A forest fire danger exists on Lake Superior's famed Isle Royale. The National Park Service, warning of a "great danger," has restricted camping to lakeside areas.

Smoking on island trails is forbidden. Fire watchers are on extra duty, and all park employees are on standby notice.

Calls Flint Tax 'Undemocratic'

FLINT (AP) — Municipal Judge Donald Freeman yesterday labeled "completely undemocratic" a decision by the City Commission to go ahead with an income tax even though voters turned down the idea last month.

Freeman, who led the successful fight against the tax referendum June 4, said he would continue the battle in the face of the City Commission action.

The commission decided to go ahead with a one-half percent tax on residents and non-residents who work in the city. It would yield about $3 million annually.

Officials said the tax, expected to be ready in about two weeks, would also be imposed on the city's businesses and industries.

Freeman said he would lead a committee gathering signatures for another vote on the City Commission action.

Volunteer Firemen Drop a Hot One on the Chief

ESTELLINE, S. D. (AP) — The faces of this town's volunteer firemen are red.

The garage of Fire Chief Dean Einsnach burned to the ground. The volunteers showed up with their truck; only to discover the pumping equipment wasn't adequate. Besides, nobody knew how to operate it.

Hal Boyle Turns Nostalgic

Oh, Those Grand Summers of the Past

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's greatest pleasures is recalling the past. Nostalgia begins very early. "Tell me about when I was a baby," demands the child, and sighs and smiles and chuckles as he listens to tales of his lost infancy.

Little Finland was America's favorite foreign country, because it was the only one that was meeting its World War I debt to us. At least 100 persons a year were killed in Fourth of July fireworks explosions — and uncounted kids lost fingers.

Women spent more time braiding their hair than fixing their faces. Only hoboes or people on picnics cooked meals outdoors in summer. A family man went to the grocery store only once a week. That was on Saturday night, when he settled his bills — and plunked down hard cash.

Only a poor man wore coats and pants that didn't match. A girl who could make good fudge never lacked a beau. Remember?

BOYLE

And as he grows older and has more to recall, nostalgia will play a larger and larger role in his life. You're probably pretty much of a yore-fancier yourself. If you can turn back the clock of thought and remember when — More people drank cream soda pop than any other flavor. Lon Chaney scared more film fans than Boris Karloff and "King Kong" put together. Remember Chaney in "Phantom of the Opera" and "Hunchback of Notre Dame"?

INDIAN PENNIES
When you changed a nickel, two of the five pennies you got back would have Indian heads on them. Every boy knew how to make a whistle out of an old cotton spool or a hollow swamp reed. All girls played tennis in skirts. Those bold enough to show up in shorts were ruled off the courts. The most widespread forms of gambling in America were pitching coins at a crack in the pavement — and playing marbles for keeps.

Families weren't afraid to sleep in public parks at night during heat waves, because mugging had not yet become the criminals' leading outdoor sport. The only places that were really air-cooled were the movies.

GRANT'S TOMB
Nobody's trip to New York City was complete without a visit to Grant's Tomb and the top of the Woodworth Building. Anybody who couldn't repair a punctured inner tube in a jiffy had no business going motorcycling. The League of Nations was having trouble paying its bills.

TV Program a Smash Hit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — James W. Wilson, 41, said the television program he was watching was a smash hit.

As Wilson watched, there was an explosion and bits of glass sprayed over the living room. The blast came from the TV set, but the show went on, uninterrupted.

The front safety glass had mysteriously shattered. A repairman said a ball bearing passing overhead might have been to blame.

Only You Can Decide Fate of New Products

Consumers have the final say about new foods says the Consumer Marketing Agent Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Several hundred new food products reach the grocery store each year, and those consumers buy remain on the shelves. The others are removed.

Most new food products are really new forms or new methods of packaging the basic food commodities. Only about 10 per cent of the new products offered annually are really new. How each shopper evaluates a new food product will vary with individual family situations. Money available, time needed for cooking, the product, family preferences or tastes, knowledge of cooking and nutrition influence whether you select a new product instead of one you usually buy. Convenience and time-saving features may outweigh economy in favor of a new food item.

How can you compare a new food product with one you usually buy? Check the cost per serving, time of preparation, convenience of preparation, quality and flavor, nutritive value, and whether it pleases the family.

Be open-minded. Buy and try new food products; give them a fair trial. Otherwise, new food products will be removed from the store and you will never know whether they would have been accepted by your family.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef Arm Steak.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the chuck steak and is similar to an arm pot-roast, except that it is cut thinner. The meat has a round bone and possibly the cross sections of 3 to 5 ribs.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By braising. The meat is first browned in lard or drippings. The drippings are poured off, a small amount of liquid added and the pan covered tightly. The meat cooks slowly until tender . . . 1½ to 2 hours depending on the thickness.

Dope Traffic Infests Thailand

CHIANGMAI, Thailand (UPI)—The narcotics traffic is reported in full swing along the Thai-Burma border, and intelligence sources believe it is part of a Communist plot to overthrow the Thai government.

Border police north of here said mules, trucks and planes are moving the opiates from Yunnan Province in China through the Shan state of Burma for world-wide distribution. An estimated 150 tons has been brought down through the mountainous jungles in recent months.

Thai police said some of it was consigned to Singapore, some to India, but most of it was being smuggled to the United States via Hong Kong. Heroin manufacturing plants are now in full production in the Shan state north of the border town of Mae Sai which has no ban on narcotics.

NATIONALIST REMNANTS

Thai authorities said much of the heroin-smuggling into Thailand was being done by remnants of the defeated Nationalist Chinese armies still eking out an existence in the forests and mountains that form the border between Burma and Thailand.

The intelligence sources said most of these soldiers have gone over to the Chinese Communists.

The deluge of heroin has created some 10,000 teen-age addicts in this northern Thai city and an estimated 100,000 throughout the country, most of them young people.

"The heroin invasion," said one Thai official, "is a two-edged weapon of the Reds. It demoralizes our young people and pays the expenses of the Communist agents and subversives plotting to overthrow the government. And by bribes they are attempting to weaken the effectiveness of the border police and undermine our northern defenses."

The biggest single shipment reported by border sources was a mule train or more than 100 animals which crossed from Yunnan to Mae Sai a few weeks ago.

The Burmese tried unsuccessfully to wipe out the narcotics traffic in the Shan states across the border from northern Thailand but said they had inadequate forces to control the situation.

OPENED TERRITORY

The result was the opening of the Union of Burma territory east of the Salween river to the use, transportation and manufacture of narcotics.

It has been through this area that the ton of raw opium have been transported to the border refineries.

Thailand's prohibition of narcotics has increased the heroin production as the white crystals are easier to smuggle and bring a much higher price on the black market.

Nearly 85 per cent of the raw opium is used to produce heroin.

Border informants said the Mae Sai plant is located atop a ridge just inside the Burma border and is protected by a high fence and guards.

CHINESE SYNDICATE

"The entire operation is run by a Chinese syndicate," one reliable source said. "They arrange the supply, refining and smuggling of the drugs which they call 'our black gold'."

When it is ready for shipment out of the Burma sanctuary, the syndicate uses an underground railway of smugglers to move the heroin across Thailand.

One of the airplanes used by the smugglers was intercepted by Thai fighters and forced to land near Mukdang, a narcotics drop to a ship in the Gulf of Cambodia a few weeks ago.

The Thai officials said the smugglers were actively spreading Communist propaganda among the hill tribes as they crossed into Thailand. Detection and interception is almost impossible, border police said, because of the dense jungle and mountainous terrain.

Sister, Brother Jaywalk Right Into Accidents

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP)—Jaywalking troubles for small fry in the Robert Smith family here have piled up.

A daughter, 5-year-old Sue Ann, was reported recovering in a hospital today from injuries suffered this week when struck by a car.

City juvenile officer Martin Carlson said that as soon as Sue Ann is able, the parents will have to bring her in for a lecture about jaywalking.

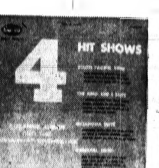

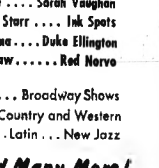

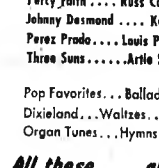

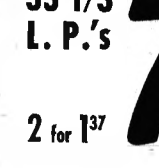

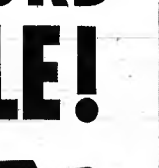

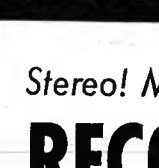

Last March, her brother, Stephen, 7, was brought before authorities for jaywalking after being hit by a car.

Police said the accidents to both children occurred at about the same place.

Fateful Characteristic

World Gets Clue to Mysteries of Cancer

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Nobel prize winner in medicine, Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, and his scientific associates have turned up a very hot clue to the biochemical mysteries of cancer.

The clue Szent-Gyorgyi has turned over to the whole world of scientific research in order to speed its development—either into the dead-end which has been the fate of many previous hot cancer clues or into practical applications against one of the more deadly scourges of mankind.

The biochemical mysteries center around cancer's most fateful characteristic, its ability for uncontrolled growth. The hot clue is this: body tissues contain two mutually antagonistic substances, one which speeds growth and one which retards it.

Szent-Gyorgyi and his associates discovered their first in that poorly understood organ of mammals, the thymus gland. Later, they found them also in the big artery from the heart, the aorta, and in muscle and tendon.

To the growth-promoting substance they gave the name "Promine;" the growth retarder they call "Retine."

When in precise balance in body tissue, normal cellular growth is controlled. One substance seems to counteract the other.

When there is more Promine than Retine, growth is greatly speeded, but when Retine outweighs Promine, growth is as dramatically slowed and even stopped.

EXPERIMENTS VERIFY

All this Szent-Gyorgyi and his associates have verified in experiments with a number of transplantable, experimental cancers of mice, including solid tumors.

By injecting either Promine or Retine into mice, they've manipulated mouse cancers almost at will, either toward stepped-up malignancy or toward complete growth control and cancer regression.

Szent-Gyorgyi and his associates, Drs. Andrew Hegyeli and Jane A. McLaughlin, made a full technical report to an organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

This meant they were turning their information over to the whole of world science which is bound to work on anything so promising with energy and enthusiasm.

But there is much scientific work to be done. Promine and Retine chemically are very closely related. They respond to the same solvents, which has prevented them from being separated except in crude forms.

Szent-Gyorgyi himself outlined the first thing which must be done; they have to be obtained in pure forms, their chemical natures have to be established and then they must be synthesized in the laboratory.

In their animal experiments, the scientists encountered no harmful side effects which limit the usefulness of the anti-metabolite substances now used in cancer treatments. Szent-Gyorgyi called attention to this remarkable property.

"Retine and Promine, being natural substances produced by nature, might perhaps specifically influence cell division," he said. "One might have here substances which will stop cancer growth and even produce regression without toxicity. Possibly even the growth-promoting substance may acquire a medical application, in analogy to weed killers which kill by promoting growth.

"One could, perhaps, introduce in the body some antimetabolite and then make the cancer grow fast and kill itself. The growth promoter seems not to induce malignancy by itself.

"It might also find application in accelerating the healing of wounds."

The work has been in progress for 10 years at the Institute for Muscle research, Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., where Szent-Gyorgyi is scientific director.

More than 2,000 Boy Scouts from across the country will work as aides to handicapped and aged visitors at the New York 1964-65 World's Fair.

ALWAYS ROOM — The crowded Lake Michigan shore, jammed with Chicagoans trying to beat this week's heat didn't discourage one loner who takes to water by nature.

Family Fun
Costs $380

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Families who take a vacation and go traveling usually spend about $380.

This was indicated in a study by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.

SRG's study of consumer finances for 1962 revealed that 27 per cent of all spending units used $100 or more for vacation travel during the previous year. The mean expenditure of these units on vacation trips was about $380, the survey showed.

Must Write Out Write-In

TUCSON, Ariz. (U) — A write-in vote must be just that in Tucson. Officials canvassing a city election threw out 213 votes for a council candidate because his name was hand printed, instead of hand written, on the ballots.

PRECIOUS STONES

QUESTION: What is Jade and where is it found?

ANSWER: Jade is a hard, smooth stone found in two forms: jadeite and nephrite. It is often translucent and is very beautiful in appearance and color, which ranges from white to yellow and through many shades of soft "jade" green.

The late Stone Age man made objects of jade and the Chinese prized it very highly, regarding it as a product of heaven having mysterious powers of healing.

The Chinese cut jade by tools which spun when worked by a foot treadle (see picture) and whose tips were covered with sand and water. This method is still used today and has produced masterpieces of carving.

Nephrite comes chiefly from New Zealand but has been found in Alaska and Wyoming, while the rare but valuable jadeite comes from Burma, Japan and California. Some pieces of transparent emerald green jadeite rank as precious stones.

It's a very good idea to get acquainted with the precious and semiprecious stones which might be found in your area. We suggest you get together the "rockhound" tools shown in (A), check in a book on rocks for what to look for and do a bit of prospecting. It's fun!

FOR YOU TO DO: Use tools as follows: (A) is for cracking off specimens. The chisel (B) will also help. The softest minerals can be scratched with the fingernail. Then comes those which can be scratched with the edge of the penny (C), those scratched by a knife (D), and those that can scratch glass (E). These tests will help to identify minerals in a rock book.

Viet Nam's Valuable Lab for Testing U.S. Military Might

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — South Viet Nam is proving to be a valuable laboratory for combat-testing new U.S. ideas in special military equipment.
It also is giving the Army, Marines and Air Force a chance to work out—under shooting-war conditions—new tactics and techniques for using helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft in guerrilla-type wars.
The thousands of U.S. military men advising and training the South Vietnamese forces in their war against Communist insurgents form a growing corps of seasoned veterans returning to impart what they have learned.
It adds up to a body of experience that may pay dividends in possible future operations elsewhere in the world if, as U.S. officials believe, the Communists concentrate in years to come on subversion in efforts to bring down pro-Western governments.
The Pentagon's program to develop a new gear for special purposes is carried on by the Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA) under the name "Project Agile." ARPA has two research and development teams in South Asia.

EMPHASIZE SIMPLICITY
The emphasis is on simplicity, durability, ease of maintenance and adaptability to the terrain.
One development—called swimmer support boat—is credited with opening up areas of the watery Mekong River delta that formerly were virtually inaccessible to Vietnamese government forces, except by helicopter.
The boat is a rugged craft built locally from plastic styrofoam and fiberglass. ARPA officials describe it as a high speed, unsinkable, shallow draft assault craft.
"The great increase in mobility afforded by the swimmer support boats now permits military operations in the delta which were hitherto not feasible," ARPA director Jack Ruina told Congress recently.

Another project in this same field is called the marsh screw vehicle.
Ruina said it represents "a neat technological compromise between the principles of a propeller, the principles of a wheeled vehicle and the principles of a boat."
HAMLET PROGRAM
ARPA has been brought into the vital strategic hamlet program, under which the South Vietnamese government is resettling hundreds of thousands of peasants in fortified villages to give them security against the Communists who have preyed on them.
For this purpose, ARPA scientists studied the experience of the Israelis with their "kibbutz" communities, the Burmese, and the British in their 11-year campaign which ended in suppression of Malayan Communist insurgents.
In Viet Nam, the ARPA effort has been directed, among other things, at improving detection of attacks and substitution of locally produced materials for barbed wire.
ARPA specialists have experimented in South Viet Nam with use of chemicals to strip foliage from trees.
The relatively lightweight AR15 rifle was subjected to comprehensive field evaluation under combat conditions in Viet Nam.

The United States has been operating helicopters and propeller-driven aircraft in support of the South Vietnamese for about 18 months. Discussions of tactics, as applied in action. The authors are mostly in action.

Wife of Telephone Inventor Lost Hearing When a Child

WASHINGTON — Mabel Hubbard, wife and inspiration to Alexander Graham Bell, early in life learned the meaning of the 23rd Psalm.
Four-year-old "May" Hubbard walked through the valley of the shadow of death when she suffered a virulent attack of scarlet fever. The disease destroyed her hearing.
Coaxed by her mother, the bewildered little girl identified objects and even volunteered a few words. But she could not hear.
May tore at her parents' hearts when she said perplexedly, "Why don't the birds sing? Why don't you talk to me?"
The Hubbards never were sure that May understood them. They feared that the illness had affected her brain. Then one day as Mrs. Hubbard was reading the 23rd Psalm to May, the winsome girl joined in as her mother read. "And goodness and mercy shall follow me..." May did understand.

screech of a steam locomotive.
Unsatisfied, Mr. Hubbard would be dumb in three months because she cannot hear. And it by some chance she did learn to produce words, her voice would be worse than the turned to Samuel Howe, director of the Perkins Institution for the Blind. Dr. Howe, with Horace Mann, had written a classic report about the German schools where deaf children spoke and understood others by reading lips.
Dr. Howe said May could do the same. "Talk-talk-talk to her, just as you do to your other children," he advised. "Make sure she is watching your lips. And teach her by vibration. Have her feel your throat—the cat's purr—the piano. And make her talk."

The task was not easy. Neither of May's parents cared later to speak of those difficult months. Mr. Hubbard once said, "At first our little girl was very unwilling to talk," and Mrs. Hubbard wrote to a friend, "What an easy life you lead! How free from care compared to mine."
"But then, gradually, the tide had turned," Miss Waite writes. "Miraculously, May understood more and more of what was being said to her. She used words and even sentences more freely and voluntarily, even adding to her vocabulary words she hadn't known before her illness..." She was a happy and responsive member of the family once more.

Car Owner Cent Wise, Pound Rich

DETROIT (UPI) — Some people just save and save and save for a new car.
Ford Division reported that a prospective new car buyer recently walked into a car dealership in Butler, Pa., carrying several one and two-pound coffee cans.
The customer, E. P. Pickett, walked out the owner of a new Thunderbird.
The coffee cans contained 78 pounds of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars.
Salesman Paul Bachman said that if anyone would like to know how much Pickett paid for the car, "They'll just have to start dropping their change into coffee cans and when they get 76 pounds—they still won't know. He traded in another car."

Kenya to Hit S. Africa
NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—Kenya Home Affairs Minister Oginga Odhiga said that South African Airways will be denied landing rights and the South African consulate in Nairobi will be closed down when Kenya becomes independent Dec. 12.

Desperate Tigers Call Lary

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, desperate for pitching help, are sending out a call for savior Frank Lary, the former 20-game winner they banished to the minors to work himself back into condition.

The Tigers hope to have Lary back in time to start one game of Sunday's doubleheader with the Kansas City Athletics.

A technically first must be cleared up by the front office, however.

"There's the technicality of getting someone off the club before we can put Lary back on the roster," General Manager Jim Campbell explained today.

It was understood the Tigers are waiting for waivers to clear before they can make room for Lary by lopping a player off the 25-man roster.

Charlie Dressen, the ninth-place Tigers' new manager, is anxiously awaiting Lary's return. Only one Tiger pitcher has turned in a satisfying performance in the last 22 games.

Lary, a 23-game winner in 1961, had an ailing shoulder all last season and won only two games. After three lackluster appearances this year, the Tigers sent their famed "Yankee-killer" to Knoxville of the Sally League two months ago.

"Don't expect to see the Lary of '61," cautioned Ferrell, a Tiger vice president who's made several trips to Knoxville to watch Lary. "He went down there to see if he could get in shape and now he is."

"He's throwing loose and easy and has pitched 74 innings down there in the kind of hot weather we wanted him to. He's pitched better than some of the pitchers we have here now."

Lary posted a 7-2 record at Knoxville and one of his victories was a one-hitter. But Ferrell has said Lary isn't as fast as he was two years ago and may have to make it back as a knuckleball pitcher.

Campbell said if the Tigers can't clear up the technicality by Sunday they hope to do it during the All-Star break early next week.

"We said when we sent him out, we'd bring him back when he's ready," Campbell said.

Tight Class A Contests Reflect League Balance

The improving balance in the city's class A baseball race was quite evident in the Jaycees No. 2 twin bill last night.

Huron-Airway and Talbott Lumber, first division teams that had posted impressive victories against their foes the first time around, had to scrap for a win and a tie respectively against The Barbers and Oxford's Merchants.

H-A rallied for a last inning unearned run to nip the balbrat nine, 7-4, and solidify its second place position. Talbott was the victim of a last inning unearned run and was tied by Oxford, 7-7.

It was the second deadlock this season for the fourth place lumbermen.

Both first division teams fell behind in a way through their games and then fought back. H-A trailed 4-2 but bounced back on a two-run double by John Fieser.

Talbott was losing 4-3 to Oxford but three runs without the aid of a hit put it back in the game. Oxford first baseman Jim Hoke had the best hitting performance last night.

He singled twice and tripled for two runs batted in and scored a third. Fieser had three runs batted in for H-A while teammate John Marcoux singled and doubled, scoring the winning run after his two-bagger.

The next Class A contests will be a Sunday doubleheader.

Rolladium Skaters Seek More Honors

A trip to Portland, Oregon and a ninth straight national title will be the goal of the Rolladium Skating Club of Pontiac starting today when it plays host to the Great Lakes Regional roller skating championships.

Some 500 contestants, representing first, second and third place finishers in state meets from Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan, will compete in speed, figure, free style and dance.

The meet will continue through Sunday at the Rolladium rink on Highland Road.

The Rolladium will enter a strong team of 53 skaters who qualified in last week's state meet at Mt. Morris.

The local club has six defending regional champions. Three champions will be competing in a higher division this year as a result of winning national championships last year.

Cecilia Darimont, defending regional champ in the senior ladies' figure division, qualified last week for the regional meet by placing second in her specialty at Mt. Morris.

David Schafer will be out to defend his senior men's singles title which he won in the regional last year. Schafer placed third in the state meet behind winner and teammate Paul Mexico.

Schafer will pair up with Sue (Welch) Wahlig to defend their regional title in the senior pairs competition. Dan Reidel and Carol Rye, who finished third in the state meet, will also be participating in this event.

along with teammate Mike Leincke, who placed second in the state meet.

Lund teamed with Robyn White last year to win the national title in the juvenile pairs event. In this year's meet the two skaters will be competing in the junior pairs division.

Another defending regional and national champion participating in a higher division this year is the team of Doug Conklin, Cathy Wilkovich, Ron and Gail Roblitsky. This foursome won the national crown last year in the junior fours competition. This year they are entered in the intermediate fours division, which they won at Mt. Morris.

Scott Harrity is another local skater who will be seeing a great deal of action in the meet. Last year Harrity won the national juvenile speed title, and will move up to the junior speed division this year. He is also entered in the juvenile boys' figure and singles events, both of which he won in the state meet.

A & W Gains Share of First

A&W tied for first place last night in Waterford Class C softball with a 6-1 win over Huron Bowl.

The other contest saw Dinky's Hideaway move into fourth place with a 5-3 victory over Dixie Bar.

Algie Black's fourth-hitter was good enough to gain his 10th win without a loss for A&W. The right-hander whiffed nine batters.

Leo Placencia had a two-run homer for the winners.

Dinky's snapped a 3-1 tie with two runs in the seventh. Newcomer Don Quackenbush socked his first hit, a triple, to drive in the winning marker, and then scored an insurance tally on manager Lou Vody's third single of the game.

Kennedy's Trip Had Human Interest, Too

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: There was so much awe, motion and speed to President Kennedy's European trip that many interesting human touches went unnoticed in the overpowering news treatment of such major events as his talks with government leaders and a visit to the Berlin Wall.

There was the night he spent in Wiesbaden at the General von Stuben Hotel, an ultra-modern establishment operated by the Air Force.

The President was tired when he reached his room and flopped down on a bed. His buddy and personal assistant at the White House, Dave Powers, went to the window and saw several stories below a street crowd of several thousand persons. They were chanting the President's name over and over again, trying to get him to come to the window for a wave.

Wearily, the President told Powers to serve as his stand-in and wave to him, which Powers did. There was a mighty roar of applause from the street below.

"I don't know whether I like that after all," Kennedy said to his pal of many years. "It shows anybody can get a cheer."

Another sidelight: several of the major British newspapers cannot understand the difference between the Secret Service and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Just as it was when former President Dwight D. Eisenhower visited England and Scotland in 1959, the papers in London last week carried cartoons about the Kennedy visit, and his protectors invariably bore the label F.B.I.

One British newspaper last Sunday reported excitedly that half of the Secret Service agents assigned to protect the President's train were left handed. This paper's reasoning was that since agents rode on left and right sides of the train, half of them would have to be left handed.

What this journal did not know was that the Secret Service requires its agents—in fact all agents assigned to White House details—to be able to shoot accurately with either hand.

The biggest love affair of the trip was between the Irish people and their boy Johnnie, the friendly diminutive by which the folks from Dunganstown to County Cork hailed the visiting Chief Executive. Seldom has the President shown the public the emotion he displayed near the end of his three days in the land of his forebears.

At Galway and Limerick on the last day in Ireland he sounded quite sincere when he urged thousands to be sure and drop in at the White House should they visit America.

Another interesting sidelight to the trip was the calm tolerance displayed by the British toward the Ban-the-Bomb demonstrators who juddered day and night in the damp woods across a narrow road from Birch Grove, the country estate of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan where Kennedy spent last Saturday night.

In Washington such demonstrators never would be permitted by police to congregate in this manner. Pickets before the White House are required to keep moving at all times.

Looking at the bearded boys and black-stockinged girls standing in the mist-dampened underbrush beside the road, a red faced constable mused during a chat with a visiting American, "I wonder what those kids would protest against if there were no bombs?"

Washington has never seen pickets like these—most of the young men sported bushy hair do's with bangs down to their eyebrows and thick beards worn over black turtle neck sweaters and tight pants. The girls were dressed much the same except the sweaters fit a bit better.

By OSWALD JACOBY
If bridge players had to pass a life saving test before they were allowed to rescue their partners it would probably improve their game.

Certainly, if South had given himself such a test, he would have let his partner struggle with two spades and not dived into the hopeless two no-trump contract.

West opened the ten of spades. East signalled with eight and West was able to read that as a suit preference because obviously West could not expect ever to run a spade suit. Hence West made a mental note to lead his deuce of hearts whenever he got in.

South cashed a second spade and discarded a heart while West let a club go. Then South led a diamond from dummy and finessed his jack. West won and in accordance with his early note led that deuce of hearts.

East won with the queen and led his four of hearts to his partner's nine. West cashed his ace and promptly led a low club.

West won the club, cashed his king of hearts and led a club to give his partner two more club tricks. Down three!

Not bad when you note that he would have taken perfect defense to beat two spades just one trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Your partner continues with a bid of four hearts. What do you do now?

Affairs of Heart Trouble Pakistanis

KARACHI (UPI) — Though marriages are made in heaven, many Pakistanis are beginning to feel ignored by the celestial plan of things.

The result has promoted a recent phenomena in this Moslem country.

As modest veiled its blushing face, matrimonial ads appeared in newspapers voicing aloud the ancient cry of a male for its nubile mate.

One such recent ad said: "22-year-old bachelor of handsome physique desires match with woman of any physique."

HIGHER AIMS

"Today," she said, we modern, educated girls are selective. We get a scholastic degree. We learn to be more attractively feminine.

"...and then we aim for a prince charming to ride us in a white car to a dream bungalow."

"So we ask ourselves where are the bright, young executives... with their dinky little cars and modern apartments waiting to be decorated by girls who read 'Modena Home' and 'House Beautiful' and other slick American magazines?"

Meanwhile, she claimed, the cream of the male crop appeared to have been whisked away by "those sweet, little women who eye us contemptuously."

"Thus," he said, "my family in Karachi now lives in isolation, and because of varying backgrounds no marriageable girl from another family has been found suitable for me."

Falling in love was out of the question for the writer.

"In our society," he said, "love is a source of heartbreak and misery. To love a girl you cannot marry may cost you a lifetime's beliefs and aspirations."

A modern, educated Pakistani girl, meanwhile, felt a "subtle transformation of values" had brought new problems before the nuptial altar.

"In olden days," she said, "marriages were not fashioned from astral heights but by earth-

HOLDUP — Patrons go about their business as the man walking towards the main door leaves the window directly above his head where he demanded large bills and threatened to blow up this San Francisco bank. The teller said she had none, then triggered an alarm which set a sequence camera in action. The man, a psychiatric patient, was apprehended by a bank personnel officer, who appears between the posts just above the window.

British Auto Official Checks U.S. Market

DETROIT — One of the top men of British motordom invaded Detroit this week for his first look at his No. 1 competitor — the U.S. auto industry.

He is John Beswick, a former British naval officer, who has the impressive title of chief executive of the Society of Motor Manufacturers & Traders, Ltd. of London.

In simpler terms, that means he is top man in an association of 1,400 members, including British auto makers, their parts manufacturers and key suppliers.

Beswick took over the job early this year and has one primary mission: to make certain that Britain's auto industry has a good image in the world market.

ABOUT 100 AIDES

To help him, he has about 100 aides, many of whom are assigned a particular country in which they keep tabs of the automotive business. Few of them live in the countries on a permanent basis, but rather they are based in Britain and make occasional visits to their foreign territories.

Beswick and his aides continually seek the answer to one major question—what do car buyers like (or dislike) about British automotive products?

The car buying public in the United States and Canada is one of Beswick's main targets. His right hand man in stinging up that market is John Dugdale of New York, North American representative for SMMT and the British Auto Manufacturers Association.

Dugdale joined Beswick this week on a visit to the Automobile Manufacturers Association in Detroit and then headed for Toronto for further conferences.

They described their visit to the United States AMA headquarters as a get-acquainted session for Beswick, who met the Detroit executives of AMA for the first time.

Beswick, while keeping a careful eye on the U.S. Canadian market, expressed belief that there was equally great growth potential in the European market and other areas of the world.

EUROPE RISING

"We're all accustomed to the high standard of living in North America and know it is a fine market for autos, but we are not forgetting that Europe—and particularly West Germany—now has a rapidly rising standard of living and is an ever increasing market too," he said.

Beswick said his organization plays the role of troubleshooter for the British auto industry by keeping an eye on local situations where a government's policies might cut down the car market.

He mentioned the recent Canadian tax of 10 per cent on car imports and said it hurt the British auto makers considerably. The tax was taken off the year.

"We do not do any lobbying or anything like that, but we do try to point out to government officials any situations which we feel need correction or change," he said.

Beswick said the British auto industry now has a production capability of 1.6 million cars a year, with about 60 per cent going to the British home market.

Fighter Sonic Boom Starts Woman Talking

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany — The chief surgeon of the Friedrichshafen Hospital credits a West German jet fighter with helping a patient regain her voice.

Dr. H. Schtlok said a 60-year-old woman had been speechless as a result of a shock from an automobile accident. A few days ago, a jet fighter broke the sound barrier near the hospital. The bang shocked the woman so much her voice returned in a few minutes, the doctor said.

Thousandaire Status Fine; Millionaires Are Unhappy

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK For quite a long time, I was going to be a millionaire but I've thought better of it. I'm not going to do it.

Now don't try to cajole me into it. Coxing will get you nowhere. I've made up my mind.

WILSON

You see, I know a few millionaires, and I'm happier than they are. Millionaires are all sore about being millionaires. Because it's no longer chic or exclusive to be a millionaire. There are more than 100,000 millionaires just in America, all of them putting to get richer. To be anybody, to really have "money money," as distinguished from just "money," you have to be a multimillionaire or a billionaire. And THEY aren't happy, either.

You think Aristotle Onassis is happy wondering what he's going to do about Maria Callas?

Take J. Paul Getty. He's got a former G-man, Leon Turrou, as chief of his "security," with a pack of dogs ready to leap at any intruder who tries to get over the moat.

Us thousandaires can do about as we please. J. Paul Getty gets thousands of gimme letters — and Turrou told me he practically never gave anything to any of these gimme guys.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "People can't jump down your throat if you keep your mouth closed."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "There are two kinds of travel: first class, and with children."

EARL'S PEARLS: "He was as happy," said a recent silly simile, "as a golfer who's privileged to spend a sunny Saturday afternoon in a dentist's chair." That's Carl, brother.

Weather Hurts Vegetable Crop

Feed Grains Also Fall Under Averages

LANSING (AP) — Corn was knee-high last week in many areas of the state but hot, dry weather was damaging field and vegetable crops, the Federal-State Crop Reporting service said.

More reports on the June 21-22 frosts showed damage was mostly confined to low spots, with plantings of corn and beans on muck and other low areas being hurt.

Potatoes were set back but were expected to make satisfactory recovery after the frost, and damaged dry bean acreages were replanted.

Pastures continued to supply adequate feed but the general trend was to below average. Two-thirds of the first hay crop was harvested. Nearly three-fourths of the oat crop had headed. Wheat was nearly all headed with two-fifths turning yellow.

The reporting service said the strawberry harvest was ending in the southwestern and west central areas. Sweet cherry harvesting began in the southwestern with supplies limited, and the raspberry harvest was about to begin.

Head lettuce picking had begun, the early cabbage harvest continued and the celery harvest was to begin.

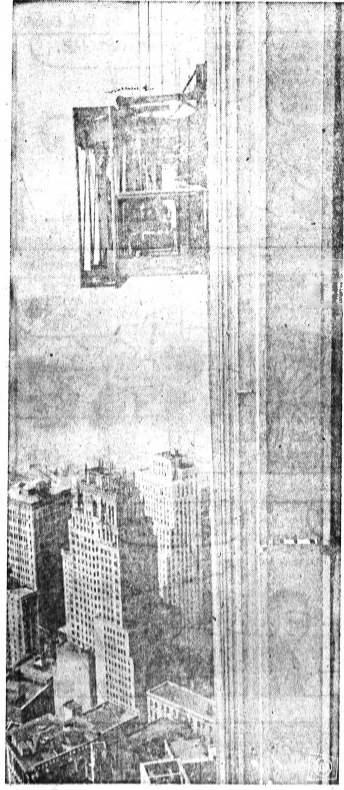

Temperatures around the state averaged from 12 degrees above normal with a warming trend and increasing humidity. The southern third of the Lower Peninsula was short on soil moisture and other areas ranged from adequate to short.

Bandit Robs Store Owner

An armed bandit wearing a nylon stocking over his face walked into the Peris Market at 100 Auburn last night and robbed proprietor Chris Rendeziopis, 70, of 96 Parkhurst, of some $20. Pontiac police reported today.

Rendeziopis described the man as between 25 and 30 years old with a stocky build.

He said the robber walked in the door with a gun in his hand demanding money, then fled on foot after Rendeziopis gave him the contents of the cash register.

SUSPENDED WASHINGTONS — With maximum safety, and still some danger involved, a window-washer stands precariously on this modern elevator-type window-washing device. Above the avenues of New York City in this 65-story building, it will take a month to wash 8,500 windows. The machine is electrically operated and has a building-to-ground two-way radio for communications.

NEW CIRCUS PERFORMERS — Mama Elephant (left) lets out a bellow as her children, Jumbo and Dumbo, stand on their own two feet for the first time. The pair is now ready for debut at the July 14 appearance of the Clyde Bently-Cole Bros. Circus at Elizabeth Lake and Telegraph roads.

Circus Sets 2 Performances for Pontiac

The Clyde Bently-Cole Bros. Circus is coming to Pontiac July 14 for two afternoon performances. The combined circus carries 150 performers, 200 wild animals and three herds of performing elephants.

Heading the list of performers is Clyde Bently, one of the world's famous performing lions and tigers.

Performances will be given at 2 and 4 p.m., with doors open at 1 and 3 p.m.

The circus' Pontiac visit is sponsored by the Pontiac Lions Club.

Traffic Deaths Near Normal

Warn Record Toll Expected for Holiday

By The Associated Press
The nation's traffic deaths in the early hours of the long Independence Day holiday today appeared running near normal. But safety experts warned of a possible record toll for a Fourth of July holiday.

Deaths on the highways since the start of the four-day holiday period at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday totaled 21, including six members of a family from Butler, Pa., out for a ride in their new car.

At the same time, the city sold its civic center parcel for $55,000. The resolution, unanimously adopted Tuesday night, confirmed a price agreement announced at the March 5 City Commission meeting this year.

New York state has 95 percent of the nation's population and 11.8 percent of its personal income. However, the state's savings banks hold 59.2 percent of the nation's savings bank deposits.

Millions of motorists were expected to be on the highways traveling to resorts, vacation spots, parks and beaches. Generally fair weather, with showers in some areas, was in prospect for most of the country.

The six members of a family killed near Butler were Edwin Beckwith, 37, a steelworker, his wife, Betty, about 37, a daughter and three other children ranging in age from 14 to 4 years. Their new small car crashed head-on with a convertible on Pennsylvania Route 38 about 35 miles north of Pittsburgh.

The deaths in Pennsylvania were the first reported in the nation since the holiday count started. Other traffic fatalities included three in New York, two each in Georgia, Indiana and Missouri and one each in Colorado, Iowa, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Ohio and Oklahoma.

If the final death toll reaches the safety council's estimate it would be a record high for a four-day Independence Day week-end which is 509 set in 1961. It also would be much higher than a similar time period not involving a holiday. An Associated Press survey for the Wednesday-Sunday weekend of June 19-23 showed 458 traffic fatalities.

The record low traffic death toll for a four-day Independence Day since World War II is 231, set in 1949.

The nation's traffic deaths in the first five months this year have averaged 100 per day.

Film Catalogue Now Available

Universities Provide 445 Subject Areas

ANN ARBOR—The Audio-Visual Centers of The University of Michigan and Michigan State University have published a new joint catalogue describing more than 4,000 educational films.

The 539-page book is designed to promote an efficient and improved service to schools, churches, professional organizations, and other film users throughout Michigan. The catalogue is being mailed to regular users.

Approximately 22,000 16mm prints are represented in the new publication bearing 445 subject areas. Headings include atomic energy, business, economics, biology, Russia, occupations, politics and government, the arts, mental health, etc.

Bulk of the catalogue contains descriptions of each film, in alphabetical order, and such pertinent information as rental cost, length in minutes, maturity level, and source.

Both centers offer an advance payment "membership plan" which enables Michigan film users to receive certain discounts: a 10 per cent advance on film rental charges, and prepaid postage on all shipments to the users.

Through the membership plan the borrower is relieved of handling and processing individual invoices on each order.

Credit Union Getting Home

Will Purchase Land in City Civic Center

After eight years of planning and saving, the Pontiac Municipal Employees Credit Union is going to get a new home.

The city is selling 33,244 square feet of Civic Center property to the credit union for a new $100,000 office building.

Commissioners agreed this week to sell the land, on East Pike east of the Public Safety Building, for a minimum of $18,000.

Credit union officials have agreed to pay up to $19,000 for the parcel if construction costs are less than they now estimate.

Plans for the structure have been completed by Bennett & Strait, Associates Architects, of Dearborn.

Construction is estimated to run from $100,000 to $105,000, and bids are scheduled to be advertised next week.

"If all goes according to schedule," said Clyde G. Townsend, general manager of the credit union, "we'll open bids, let the contracts and hold ground-breaking ceremonies by Aug. 1."

The credit union is now housed in main-floor office space at City Hall.

"We've been cramped for space for a long time," Townsend noted. "Presently, we operate in about 700 to 800 square feet of office space."

The new site, about three-fourths of an acre, also includes plans for an off-street parking lot for about 40 cars.

Proposed is a one-story building with a basement. It will be of brick, glass and ceramic tile construction, designed to fit in with other buildings in the Civic Center.

Townsend and other credit union officials had been negotiating with city officials for a site in the center for nearly a year.

The specific land use will not conflict with Civic Center zoning since the credit union is a non-profit organization whose membership is made up of city employees.

In Roseville — population 55,000 — 90 per cent of the homes went dry for half an hour Tuesday.

Several Flint suburbs are experiencing a water shortage. They are proposing to organize a water district in three cities, a village and seven townships, to buy water from Flint to head off future shortages.

Grand Rapids' water problem has been aggravated by release of major water mains in the path of the I-96 expressway.

About 2,200 factory workers were idled in Pontiac Monday night when a water tank on Baldwin went dry.

Operations at the Pontiac motor plant and Fisher Body plant were further disrupted Tuesday morning when sediment stirred up by the draining of the tank clogged water lines in the north end.

Further trouble is likely before the city starts getting Detroit water Aug. 2, according to City Administrative Assistant John P. Remick.

Robert B. Douglass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Douglass of 5301 W. Doherty, apparently left the yard where he had been confined between 2:30 and 4 p.m. according to Police Chief Mel Will.

The boy's bicycle was also missing.

Asked Okay to Make Turn Before Crash

ROCHESTER (UPI)—A recorded conversation showed yesterday that a Mohawk Airlines pilot asked to make a sharp turn before his plane crashed, killing him and six other persons.

The plane, a twin-engine Martin 404, plunged into a sea of mud about 50 yards off the runway at Rochester-Monroe county airport on Tuesday after taking off in a violent hail and rain storm.

Killed were Capt. Richard M. Dennis, 29, Elmhurst, N.Y.; his copilot, and five passengers. Thirty-six persons were injured, seven of them critically.

The recorded transcript of the conversation between Dennis and the airport control tower showed that the pilot said "We'd like to make a left turn out as soon as practicable to avoid those thunderstorms coming in from the west."

After indicating the receipt of permission, the transcript contained the following exchange: Pilot: "Okay, will make a left turn 95, ah, right away."

The plane, a "businessman's" from Rochester to Newark, N.J., with a scheduled stop at White Plains, N.Y., rose about 100 feet before plunging to earth.

Surviving are his wife Norma, stepdaughter Mrs. Ted Sarafinski of Washington; stepson Stanley McDowell of Grafton, Wis.; five grandchildren; a sister Mrs. Alfred Reid of Lake Orion; and a brother.

She was also a member of W.C.T.U. and the Golden Age Group of the YWCA.

U.S. Mixed in British Spy Case?

LONDON (AP) — British newspapers reported today that another spy case is about to break in Britain with American secrets involved.

The reports said the arrest of a British air ministry official is imminent. The man reportedly served in Washington during British-American negotiations which saw the end of the Skybolt rocket program.

He was said to have served for a short time with the British defense staff in Washington, a main channel for British-American defense cooperation.

Both the British defense ministry and the British Embassy in Washington said they had no knowledge of the reports.
