Missile Malfunction Gets Blame in Fourth Misfire in Five Tries

From Our News Wires
The United States failed last night for the fourth time in five tries to detonate a nuclear device at high-altitude above Johnston Island — and again a missile was to blame.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the failure was due to a malfunction in the Thor booster carrying the submunition device to its firing altitude of 30 to 40 miles.

The range safety officer deliberately destroyed the missile eight minutes after it was launched.

Some of the debris fell on Johnston Island, the AEC said in Washington, but no injuries were reported and no hazard to test personnel is expected from possible radiation.

First reports based on radar tracking indicated all debris had missed Johnston and adjacent Sand Islands, the AEC said, but "subsequently a search of Johnston Island disclosed that a number of small fragments, the largest two by eight inches, did fall on Johnston Island."

WILL BE RESCHEDULED
An AEC spokesman said the tests would be rescheduled. He said other missiles would be used to launch two other devices in other tests.

The Soviet Union, aware of President Kennedy's challenge to a race to the moon, today began a six-week period of test firing new space rockets into the Pacific Ocean.

The rockets were to be fired from Soviet soil to two target areas about 7,000 miles away in the Pacific. One of the designated targets was in the Johnston Island vicinity.

Detroit Gets to Bid for '68 Olympic Games

CHICAGO (U) — Detroit, which has long desired to host the Olympic Games, was certified today by the U.S. Olympic Committee Board of Directors as the American city to bid for the 1968 summer games.

Lake Placid, N.Y., was selected to bid for the 1968 winter games. Detroit has unsuccessfully been the U.S. selection three times previously. It won out over Los Angeles, San Francisco, Philadelphia and Portland.

Lake Placid was selected over Salt Lake City.

Detroit and Lake Placid will now be the formal U.S. bidders at the International Olympic Committee meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, Oct. 13, 1963.

HAS GOOD CHANCE

Among international cities expected to make presentations in Nairobi will be Mexico City, Vienna, Lausanne and Buenos Aires.

The U.S. feels it has an excellent chance of landing the summer games since the last U.S. city to host the summer games was Los Angeles in 1932.

Squaw Valley, Calif., was the host for the 1960 winter games and Lake Placid's chances of being the 1968 site appear dim.

One of the big factors in Detroit's selection was that the State of Michigan is giving the city a grant of 146 acres with an additional 44 acres to be acquired seven miles from downtown Detroit and within the city limits.

On this site a 110,000 seat stadium will be built for football, baseball and track as well as being devoted into state fairground possibilities.

In addition, Wayne University is in the midst of a huge building program, including several dormitories, and three housing projects on the banks, which could accommodate athletes.

Doug Roby of Detroit, vice president of the U.S. Olympic Committee and one of three Americans who are members of the international olympic body, said:

"Although I am from Detroit, I want it strictly understood that at no time was any influence of mine extended in the face of magnificent presentations by Los Angeles, San Francisco, Philadelphia and Portland."

Pontiac Drive to Be Launched by Band, Choir

Rally at Oakland Ave.,
Saginaw Set Tonight;
Goal is $706,125

A band will play, a choir will sing and a 7-year-old girl will touch an electric button to set a giant torch ablaze.

It will be the kick-off of the 1962 Pontiac Area United Fund Drive.

The time is 8 p.m. tonight. The place is the corner of Oakland Avenue and Saginaw Street.

To the community, the occasion will bring the hope of raising $706,125 to stimulate its people's health, their recreation and their unity.

Doing the torch-lighting honors will be Diane Lynn Ballis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Ballis of 6648 Hatchery Road, Waterford Township.

She'll be accompanied by selections by the band of the Pontiac Salvation Army and by songs from the choir of the Pontiac Camp Fire Girls.

Also taking part in the ceremony will be representative troops from the North Oakland Girl Scout Council, the Boy Scouts, and representatives from the Pontiac Boys' Club, the YMCA and YMCA.

Fred V. Haggard, UP general chairman and president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, will be the speaker.

VERY ENCOURAGED
"I am very encouraged by early campaign returns," Haggard said today. "Already on the job are

Cuba Gives Ben Bella Enthusiastic Reception

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

HAVANA—Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella arrived today on a 24-hour state visit that began with the most enthusiastic welcome Cuba has given a foreign visitor since Fidel Castro seized power in 1959.

Ben Bella came to Havana from Washington, via New York, where he was President Kennedy's guest at the White House yesterday. No reference to the Algerian leader's visit with Kennedy was carried in the Cuban press or radio.

Castro and his entire cabinet were at Jose Marti Airport as Ben Bella's transport landed.

Soviet-built tanks ringing the airport fired a 21-gun salvo. Castro, with President Osvaldo Dorticos at his side, was first to greet the Algerian nationalist.

Ben Bella left New York shortly after the disclosure in well-informed diplomatic circles that he would not play the role of mediator in the U.S.-Cuban conflict.

Ben Bella, while anxious to thank Castro for having supported the Algerian revolt against the French, is equally anxious not to let his trip appear as an anti-American gesture, diplomatic sources said.

Ben Bella took off without fanfare. He will return to New York tomorrow evening aboard the same plane. His departure for Algiers has been set for Friday.

Not So Warm Tomorrow in Pontiac

Warm, hazy summery days, such as those enjoyed by Pontiac residents for the past week, will be modified tomorrow.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts a low of 50 tonight and partly cloudy with a high of 60 Wednesday.

Fair and not much change in temperature is the outlook for Thursday.

Sixty-six was the low recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading was 73 at 2 p.m.

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN — That's what Gail Iland, of 500 Ford Road thinks as she gazes across her dad's big riding stable farm in White Lake Township. Indian corn, deep red oak leaves, the golden yellows and reds of the maples — all these are being enjoyed by Oakland County people as Indian Summer gently enjoys the area.

Kennedy, Gromyko to Meet on Berlin

WASHINGTON (U) — President Kennedy will meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko here Thursday in an apparent personal move to try to convince Moscow that a new Berlin crisis could set off nuclear war.

The White House announced today that the Chief Executive and Premier Khrushchev's top diplomat will confer here at 4 p.m. (Pontiac time). It is expected that Gromyko will return to Moscow and report to Khrushchev shortly afterward.

One question which may come up is whether a Kennedy-Khrushchev conference in the next month or so would be desirable. There has been persistent speculation to various comments made by Khrushchev that the Soviet leaders would like a meeting with the President.

Gromyko took the initiative for the meeting with Kennedy; the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk decided it would be a good thing from the U.S. point of view for the two men to talk.

They see evidence, officials said, that Khrushchev persists in misunderstanding the United States position on Berlin.

MAKES NO DIFFERENCE
Kennedy, it is understood, wants to emphasize to Gromyko that the United States congressional elections Nov. 6 will make no difference in the President's Berlin stand.

Khrushchev said weeks ago that he saw no prospect for useful talks on Berlin until after the U.S. elections. He implied that he thought Kennedy might then be more willing to reach a compromise settlement.

Kennedy has ruled out any compromise whatever on the Western military position in Berlin.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer does not fully share the U.S. view that Russia will create a new Berlin crisis before the end of the year, Gerhard Schroeder, Bonn's foreign minister, has told Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In reporting this, diplomatic observers said Bonn is somewhat baffled by the virtually unanimous prediction of Kennedy administration officials that Soviet Premier Khrushchev means it this time when he says that Western occupation of West Berlin must be liquidated after the U.S. congressional elections next month.

'63 Pontiac Sets Sales Record

Other Auto Makers
Reach Highs

Pontiac Motor Division today announced an all-time sales record for a model announcement period with the sale of 25,109 Pontiacs and Tempests during Oct. 1-16.

E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and Pontiac general manager, said sales of the new 1963 models were 22.5 per cent ahead of the announcement period a year ago.

Sales for the first 10 days of October were the second best for any 10-day period in the division's history, Estes said. Only better period was April 20-30, 1962, when 26,369 units were sold.

The announcement came as other GM divisions and competing automobile firms also were disclosing record sales figures of 1963 models.

Chevrolet, heading for an all-time record year of two million in car sales, reported a total of 68,000 passenger cars delivered by dealers from Oct. 1-16, a 42 per cent increase over a year ago.

Chrysler Corp said it had sales of 31,438 — including 13,773 Plymouths and 12,323 Dodges — for the same period, highest for any similar period since 1959, surpassing even the record years of 1955 and 1957.

American Motors Corp. announced sales totaling 12,043 Ramblers, compared with 10,069 sold in the same period last year, the previous record.

Estes said retail deliveries of new Pontiacs and Tempests on Oct. 4 set an announcement day record. Dealers delivered 7,653 cars that day, a 55.5 per cent gain over last year.

The wafer-thin container, measuring 8x10 inches, was found inside the old courthouse cornerstone last week.

As Castro Apologist

State Dept. Aide Is Hit

WASHINGTON (U) — A Senate Internal Security Subcommittee report says a State Department official "became an active apologist for Fidel Castro" despite adverse intelligence reports available to him.

The official, William Wieland, told friends as early as 1958 that Castro was a Communist, was surrounded by Communists and was subject to their influence, the report said. It added that he failed to report this to his superiors.

Wieland was a Foreign Service officer who was a Latin American and Caribbean specialist during Castro's rise to power in Cuba. He now is in the State Department's Bureau of Administration.

President Kennedy defended Wieland and another State Department employee at a Jan. 24 news conference, after a reporter referred to them as "well known security risks."

Kennedy said he knew their records and felt they could do their job "without detriment to the interest of the United States and I hope without detriment to their character by your question."

The subcommittee report, issued yesterday, noted that Deputy Undersecretary of State Roger Jones told newsmen afterward that Wieland had been cleared of security allegations involving integrity and suitability.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said in a supplementary statement that "the plain truth is that the U.S. Department of State was the principal collaborator in creating the state claimed the appeals court no longer had jurisdiction in the case.

Both Barnett and L. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. have been found guilty of contempt by the court for their part in attempting to block the enrollment of Meredith, a Negro, at the University of Mississippi. But no sanctions have been put into effect against the two officials.

When the officials were convicted, the court set possible penalties at a $10,000 daily fine and imprisonment for Barnett and a $5,000 daily fine for Johnson.

The Justice Department's latest request made no mention of Johnson.

Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told the court both the governor and lieutenant governor should be imprisoned until they promise to obey the court's orders.

ACTION AT SCHOOL

At the university, the student cabinet issued a statement urging an end to student demonstrations against Meredith, first Negro admitted knowingly to the university in its 114-year history.

Fifteen days after the arrival of Meredith on campus provoked riots that killed two and injured scores, the powerful student group said: "We abhor the violence that has taken place."

Last Friday, university officials ordered an end to student demonstrations.

CALLED 'UNQUALIFIED'

The statement adopted by the cabinet of nine students demanded also "the forced admission of an unqualified student."

But it said any continuing protest should be "by exercising protest through the use of petition for redress of grievances, in such way that the intelligence and dignity of the overwhelming number of Ole Miss students not be belittled."

The statement did not explain why the cabinet considers Meredith an unqualified student.

Schirras Visit With President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut Walter M. Schirras Jr. talked over details of his six-hour ride around the earth with President Kennedy today. The Schirras family watched with beaming smiles.

The conference in the President's White House office had a homey touch, with family small talk as well as discussions of Schirras's space achievements. The four Schirras sat on a white sofa, the President in his rocking chair.

RECEIVE GIFTS—

Schirras's son, Walter III, who is 12, left with the President's tieclip as a gift, and his sister had a new chain bracelet.

Suzanne, 5, looked shyly at the President and said, "I know who you are."

At one point Kennedy asked Suzanne if she had seen the poster at the White House for the Kennedy children. She shook her head up and the President took her and the family out to see the ponies.

TO MAKE REPORT

Later, talking to newsmen, Schirras said he expected to return to Houston, Tex., tonight and to fly to Cape Canaveral, Fla., Wednesday. There he will complete a written report on his nine-hour space flight and turn his attention to design problems of the new two-man spacecraft, Gemini.

Asked if he needed a vacation, Schirras said, "I don't think I need any now. I had mine while I was flying."

Schirras's wife watched quietly while her husband talked with the President. The two red-haired children beamed with pride and excitement.

The President asked Schirras's son where he went to school, and was obviously taken with the charms of little Suzanne. He asked her she watched her father's space flight and she nodded yes. He asked her age and she showed him five fingers of her left hand.

The brief White House visit followed by a luncheon for the well-known Monday in Schirras's native New Jersey.

Ike Slaps Kennedy on Foreign Policy

BOSTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sharply criticized President Kennedy Monday night for conducting what he termed "a dreary foreign policy."

Eisenhower talked to Kennedy's recent critics of Republican foreign policy in the 1950s with a slashing attack of his own.

The former Republican president treated a partisan throng gathered at Commonwealth Armory for a $100-a-plate GOP dinner to his strongest attack to date on the Democratic administration's foreign policy.

Eisenhower is scheduled to continue his New England campaign swing in support of local GOP candidates today.

FAMOUS GRIN

The former president displayed his famous grin and his equally famous temper Monday night in Boston.

Eisenhower appeared visibly angry when he told some 5,000 Republican party faithful of recent criticism of his foreign policy.

"Personally I have been careful in all my speeches to keep current foreign policy out of partisan debate. But when a charge is made for purely political purposes—a charge that indeed should be stated in reverse—I must seriously question it."

Ben Bella Gets Cuban Welcome

PLAN GREETING

Cuban students, workers and others were told to line the route between Havana's airport and the capital. The Communist newspaper Hoy published detailed instructions to citizens of various quarters of greater Havana on how to take positions along the highway.

There was no official indication of the purpose of Ben Bella's visit beyond the fact that the Algerian nationalists have been close to the Cubans since the Castro government recognized their provisional regime in 1960.

President Kennedy toasted Ben Bella at a White House luncheon Monday night, "who has borne heavy burdens and bears them now with distinction."

In reply, Ben Bella paid tribute to "political courage which has more meaning than physical courage, because it is easier sometimes to display physical courage than the political kind."

This was a reference to Kennedy's support, while a U.S. senator, of Algerian independence.

Atlantic Storm Heads for Land

Near-Hurricane Ella Carolina Bound

MIAMI, Fla. (U) — Tropical storm Ella, after a leisurely start, whipped her top winds up to 65 miles an hour today and was expected to reach hurricane force by sundown.

Winds of 40 miles an hour struck Nassau, Bahamas, before noon, and seas began to ruffle along the Georgia and Florida coast. The Weather Bureau warned small boats to stick close to port.

At Midway, Ella swirled along at 65 m.p.h. pointed toward the Carolina coast. The center was about 400 miles due east of Miami.

Her forward speed and northwesterly course were expected to remain constant for the next 12 to 24 hours. The circulation was to intensify.

At one time more than 300 miles in diameter, Ella was so loose that the Weather Bureau expected her to blow herself to death.

But overnight the tightened up. Her noon winds blew in a northern semicircle of 300 miles with top winds 55 to 65 miles an hour.

A U.S. embassy spokesman declining to comment on the decision of the cornerstone laying in 1905.

This isn't too surprising because the contents of the official cornerstone were never revealed either.

Austin said he has been told that the large container, a tin box measuring 18x18 inches and 10 inches high, does contain a box of cigars made in Pontiac.

If so, they probably were inserted by then-City Commissioner Robert Thuermer, who was proprietor of the Mascot Cigar Co. on E. Lawrence Street, Austin noted.

He gave the box a playful shake to see if it might emit a gurgle. None was noted, however.

Commission Sets Hearing on Width of Maple Road

BIRMINGHAM — How wide will Maple Road be when the Oakland County Road Commission completes repaving it?

A public hearing will be conducted Nov. 11 to answer this question, the City Commission decided at its regular meeting last night.

The commission has been waiting for the answer to the query since it submitted written recommendations to the Oakland County Road Commission last June.

The recommendation requested that Maple Road be 40 feet wide in the stretch from Adams Road to Columbia Street, 42 feet wide between Columbia Street and Grand Trunk Street, and 44 feet wide between Grand Trunk Street and Coolidge Highway.

The county did not agree with the widths proposed last June, according to city engineer William Colleen, but did not give the city commission a definite answer.

Brookside School, that the city enact the state school bus law in Birmingham.

No action was taken on the recommendation. The commission last month rejected adoption of the state law, which requires motorists to stop while children are alighting from a school bus.

The law is applicable only in unincorporated areas of the state and in cities which enact legislation to permit it.

After receiving complaints from Birmingham residents on their rejection of the law, commissioners ordered officials here to study the issue.

Commissioners had rejected the issue last month primarily because some Birmingham schools do not use properly marked school buses.

Offers Advice on Civil War Results

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A never-ending subject of fascination is speculation about what might have happened if the South had won the war, and thereby permanently divided the union.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, beset by the annual school integration meets in Dixie, might well view that one-time possibility with something akin to nostalgia.

So might also the Republicans, whose single Senate seat and seven House seats make only a minuscule dent in the congressional representation from the eleven Confederate states, which together boast 22 senators and 106 representatives.

President Kennedy, out-maneuvered on numerous pet legislative projects by a coalition of Dixie congressmen and Republicans, could also be excused for dreaming about what-might-have-been, if the country over which he presides consisted only of the 30 states above the Mason-Dixon line.

OTHER PROBLEMS

It is reasonable to assume that long before now, Southerners would have abolished slavery, but it is equally unlikely that Negroes would yet have acquired the vote, or any other form of integration in the confederacy.

Greater opportunities for equality would undoubtedly have lured most of the sixteen million Negroes to the United States of the North, thus creating a desperate labor shortage on Dixie plantations.

The confederacy, with its largely agrarian economy, would have formed strong trading ties with Britain, and a brisk rivalry would doubtless have developed between mother England and the U.S. over selling finished goods to the South, and acquiring its cotton and tobacco.

The South, having won the civil war, would presumably have freed itself of much of the resentment against the Yankees, which continues to rankle there after four or five generations.

And rankle it does! The current strife over the enrollment of a Negro student in the University of Mississippi is but the latest and most violent outcropping of a deep resentment which the average citizen of that Deep South state harbors against any interference from the North.

More than a decade ago this correspondent, preparing to go to Jackson, Miss., to cover a senatorial investigation of the notorious Senator Theodore (The Man) Bilbo, made the mistake of mentioning that fact in telephoning a Jackson hotel for reservations.

DIFFERENT STORY

There was no room at the inn. Omitting that information in a subsequent call, we were immediately given space.

On the train South, a lady from

Jackson was charmingly hospitable on learning that we were en route to her hometown, until she discovered the reason.

Then she angrily snapped: "Why don't you Yankees let us alone, and mind your own business? We don't want your interference."

Few of the more educated citizens of Mississippi would have defended the thieving, conniving Bilbo to each other, but they formed a solid barrier against our Washington group throughout the duration of the hearings.

No one wants to fight the civil war over again, and certainly it is too late to undo the original damage, or to rescind Sherman's devastating march to the sea.

Surely in an age which is preparing to explore the moon, however, some way could be found for Northerners and Southerners of all races to live more amicably together.

AF Recording Variations in Gravity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force reports it has completed a nationwide network of 71 stations for the precise measurement of gravity.

The stations for the most part are at Air Force bases and commercial airports.

The Office of Aerospace Research said yesterday that the precise value for the force of gravity, as established at each station, would simplify gravity surveys for other military and civilian groups in the surrounding area.

Since the operation of highly sensitive accelerometers in missile guidance systems is affected by relatively minute variations in the force of gravity, more precise knowledge of gravity forces will contribute to missile accuracy, the Air Force said.

The locations in the network include Selfridge Air Force Base in Michigan.

Waterford Youth Killed in Accident

A 13-year-old Waterford Township boy died in Pontiac General Hospital yesterday from injuries suffered when his bicycle collided with a car Friday.

Fatally injured was Paul R. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Young of 101 Ascot Road. State police said the accident occurred shortly after noon on Elizabeth Lake Road near Dover St. when the youngster rode his bike in front of a car driven by Roy Barnes, 71, of 501 Burgess St., Union Lake.

New Remington Roll-A-Matic 25

Power. Whisker-cutting power. More than was ever before packed into a shaver head. That's the secret of the radically new shaver motor in the Roll-A-Matic 25.

High-speed Roll-A-Matic cutters get right to the root of your beard (don't skim the surface like ordinary shavers), clean whiskers off fast. Trim straight sideburns, mustaches, long hairs as no rotary blade ever can. No pinch. No burn. No drag. No whiskers.

Comfort. How can the Roll-A-Matic 25 shaver

get in so close and still be comfortable? Roller Combs! 4 of them. An exclusive Remington feature, Roller Combs let you stop shaving, start rolling your whiskers off. Roll skin down, roll whiskers up to leave your face smooth as your palm. (Roller Combs give your skin a pleasant massage in the bargain.)

Stop shaving. Start rolling your whiskers off with Remington Roller Combs. The new 1962 Roll-A-Matic 25 is at your Remington dealer's. Get one, and more power to you. More comfort, too.

Calls Swainson Deliberate Liar

School Aid Statement
Rapped by Republican

LANSING (AP) — A Republican legislator yesterday charged that Gov. Swainson had deliberately lied about Michigan's school aid program in debates with his Republican opponent, George Romney.

"Truth has not become just a casualty of Swainson's desperation campaign," said Rep. Raymond Wurzel, R-Port Huron, "It is being deliberately distorted. His statements on what he did for the school aid program are outright lies."

Wurzel, chairman of the House Education Committee, said the new school aid amendment which increased aid from $295 to $324 per pupil resulted in 7 1/2 per cent more money going to local school districts.

Wurzel accused the governor of doing everything in his power during the past legislative session to block the program. The GOP legislator declared:

"He has the gall to take public credit for this program when he not only pressured and intimidated Republican legislators, but went so far as to publicly tongue-lash his own Democratic legislators into withdrawing their support of the program . . .

"When he realized he had done, then he tried to sweet-talk his boys back onto the bill."

Lift Censure of Critical State Teacher

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A Dexter teacher, suspended last year for criticizing the school board, was "completely vindicated" yesterday when the board signed a consent decree lifting its censure.

The decree, which also was to be signed by Circuit Judge Richard G. Smith of Bay County, awarded Richard T. Waring $4,600 of the $5,500 he would have received under his 1961-62 contract. He had signed the contract before his suspension in May 1961.

Speaking at a PTA meeting as the father of three children attending district schools, Waring criticized the board for appointing two "totally inadequate" persons to administrative posts. He was suspended eight days later.

Nothing in the contracts prohibited his speaking at the meeting, the decree said. "Indeed, his contracts as a teacher required such participation."

"His speech was fair comment as a parent and citizen, though it might properly be considered indiscreet from the standpoint of his employment," it went on.

Waring now lives in Dearborn, where he worked as a substitute teacher while the case was in court. He is "looking for a good teaching job in the Detroit suburbs," he said.

Judge Smith was called in to hear the case in Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

Pontiac Press Has Complete Faith in Pontiac's Future

As positive evidence of our faith in Pontiac, in Michigan and in the United States, The Press announced Monday an expansion that will cost in excess of a million and a half dollars.

More than a dozen years ago when we purchased the last of our current printing units, management believed the problem was solved indefinitely. We felt that we were simply prepared to care for the needs of this expanding community for 25 years. However, a circulation increase that is pressing 40 per cent outstrips current equipment. Hence, we have mapped out a scientific program that anticipates everything that can be foreseen far, far beyond 1962.

Our current press units have a production speed of 22,000 an hour and a top approximating 30,000. These new units will have an average around 45,000 an hour with a top speed of 60,000.

Further, they will provide the very latest in color equipment. The Pontiac Press was one of the first newspapers in the world to use four colors. Our pioneer news picture ran a quarter of a century ago and it was a precious little photograph of seven year old PHYLLIS KLINGLER in a bright, pert, perky, yellow dress (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. HARRY KLINGLER). Also, we ran a multi-colored advertisement for Waiter's which was another pioneer step.

We believe in Pontiac. We believe in Michigan. And finally, we believe nothing on earth can check the prosperity, culture and scientific advancements that loom ahead for our nation.

France Bearing Down on Tax-Free Neighbor

Is Lady Luck running out on Monaco as France makes threatening moves in her direction?

This tiny principality of 368 acres and 30,000 inhabitants borders the Mediterranean in southeast France. Since the thirteenth century, it has been under the rule of two royal families, though a protectorate at different times of Spain, France and Sardinia.

Monaco, supported by revenue from its main industry—gambling—has long been a tax-free utopia for its own Monégasques. But more recently, it also has become a tax haven for outside business and industry as offices and headquarters were established in Monaco to evade taxes in France. Moreover, there are no customs barriers between the two countries, thus affording principality trade a great competitive advantage over tax-paying French commerce.

The present contretemps involving the neighboring states arises from a 1918 working agreement subject to termination on six months notice. Under the agreement, guaranteeing Monacan independence, France earlier this year asked the principality to inaugurate a taxing program.

This it refused to do—and it appears that the chips are down in Monte Carlo.

But since France supplies the Monégasques with all public utilities—even the railroad is French—she has at least one ace up her sleeve in gaining the end sought. She can always shut off their water.

The number of daily newspapers in the United States has been shrinking for many years because of rising costs. The death toll is something alarming. Right here in Michigan we witnessed the demise of the Detroit Times with 480,000 circulation and of the Grand Rapids Herald, the only morning paper in the State outside of Detroit.

The Press has always followed the most modern trends in procedures and equipment. We study the advances in the newspaper industry at all times and keep abreast or a step ahead of the field. We are both happy and proud to make this announcement and add to the future betterment of one of the finest areas in the Country.

The Man About Town

Run Dead Heat Contest Entries Locked in Home-Stretch Finish

BY HOWARD HELDENBRAND

Gez Whiz! The MAT hasn't been so excited since, back in his salad days, his spinster Aunt Clarissa brought home her first beau. The Indomitable Four are still alive and kicking.

Before game-time Saturday, they were the only ones left in our Football Contest. And they all won! It was the greatest no-decision event since Don Quixote skirmished with the windmill.

But if it was a zero event for the contestants, it was a similar experience for U. of M., who watched Sherman Lewis and his Spartan friends roll up 25 points. Incidentally, Sherman must be a devotee of numerology as well as football, since his point total of 20 matched the number on his jersey.

So now, a preview of next week—Slippery Rock vs. Westminster. (Incidentally, for the geographical-minded, both schools are in Pennsylvania towns of the same name in the Pittsburgh area.) Each team is picked by two diarchs.

Last Saturday, Slippery Rock slipped by its opponent 27 to 26, while Westminster administered (yep, that was a little corny) a 14 to 0 shellacking to the shellacker.

Barring a tie in the game ahead, there will be two left in for the set-to next day between Detroit Lions and New York Giants. . . . And, believe it or not, the four voted 50-50 on this one.

There are suspenseful days ahead for the male quartet. Maybe, as they go for the 500 dollar points of the U.S. Savings Bond, they'd better take a numerical look out of the State star's book and begin piling up four-leaf clovers.

EXCLUSIVE TO THE MAT:

Sidney Barnett of 240 Cherokee Road, member of long-time local mercantile family, disclaims any and all relationship with Ross R. Barnett of Jackson, Miss., short-time game governor. . . . We wonder whether, by this time, the Guv wouldn't like to disclaim the hoop-dee do at Oxford.

Don Bachler of the Tulsa World, received a dividend check for 1 cent. "Why don't you frame it?" the business editor asked. "Can't," said Don. "I need the money."

GOING UP! Two recent promotions in GMC Truck & Coach Division which gave the MAT a lot of pleasure were those of Wallace W. Edwards of 2825 Osage, to staff engineer—engineers will be head up an expanded engine program covering engine design, development, cooling and exhaust systems, while Norman F. Frost was advanced to succeed him as truck service manager.

The Hard Sell

David Lawrence Believes:

Dems Say Let's Eat Cake NOW

WASHINGTON—Never in American history has there been revealed such a clear case of irresponsibility in government as has just been exhibited by the Congress and the President.

The fiasco cannot be blamed entirely on either political party, nor altogether on the President.

It's the fault primarily of a system which provides no way by which the people can hold both the executive and the legislature responsible. In LAWRENCE the midst of the presidential term.

Yet there is a congressional election a few weeks away, and President Kennedy is urging the people to vote Democratic instead of Republican.

The reasons for this are not clear, for his own party is split. In fact, Congress itself is divided into four blocks. In addition, the delays and confusion of the last weeks of the session of Congress that has just adjourned were to a large extent the result of quarrels and disputes among the leaders of the President's own party.

MAKES CHARGES

Today, President Kennedy is campaigning around the country charging the Republican party is at fault for failure to enact all his proposals, when in reality this fundamental schism in his own party has brought constant dissension and division.

Mr. Kennedy is saying on the stump that the Republican party has been "in a against progress." But his opponents will reply that the Republican party is really opposed to "progress toward national bankruptcy."

The indicated deficit, for example, for the fiscal year that ends next June 30 is between $6 and $8 billion, although last January the President in his budget message to Congress predicted a surplus.

All this is happening even without any substantial tax cut.

The House of Representatives has wound up with the usual hypocritical speeches, wherein members of both parties praise each other.

The past session, of course, deserves a modicum of applause only in the sense that public spending was not allowed to go any higher than it did.

For the truth is that Congress has sought to appropriate funds for all kinds of social-welfare and public-works projects. All of these doubtless can be defended as worthwhile at some time or other but can the nation today afford unlimited spending irrespective of consequences?

But can any political party be called responsible if it insists on cutting taxes substantially when deficits are growing bigger and bigger?

A private citizen or business must forego luxuries or even worthwhile projects and see that the budget is balanced lest bankruptcy be induced.

Apparently it is reasoned that it's all right for the government to disregard budgets, run a big deficit year after year, and risk a loss of confidence in the monetary unit.

The nation has been experiencing a business recession that isn't over yet. Mr. Kennedy expected the government's receipts to be $93 billion in the current fiscal year so that there would be a half-billion-dollar surplus. But it turns out now that the receipts are to be $85.5 billion.

But spending is being increased just the same. As for authorizations — not actual expenditures — Congress has just pushed the annual appropriations past the $100-billion mark for the first time in peacetime history.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Ridiculous to Assume Alcohol Is Stimulant

In the 10th edition of the famous textbook, "Practical Therapeutics," Hare stated as boldly as you please:

"The chief uses of alcohol are as a rapidly acting stimulant in all forms of cardiac failure (cardiac is a $5 word for heart) due to shock or to poisons."

Some additional conditions in which alcohol is indicated are fainting, snake-bite, surgical shock. . . .

I waded through about it — if a tyro in practice can do so — not so much for the principle of the matter but for the $3.75 I had paid for the book.

Of course, Dr. Hare got only 37½ cents of it, or thereabouts, but nevertheless the $3.75 was more than I took in some weeks and I wrote to Hare giving him what I felt.

The gentle courtesy of Prof. Hare's reply turned my face red from the glabella right down to the seventh vertebra. He acknowledged with thanks my courteous letter (I squirmed at this) and said he hadn't a copy of the 10th edition at hand, but if I would look in the eleventh edition, the apparent contradiction, he thought, would seem clear.

DOCTOR ANGERED

That tore it. I was pretty sure to discover that the blankety-blank publisher had sold me the 10th edition when the 11th was already available.

I pasted Dr. Hare's letter in my copy of the 10th edition, as an illuminating specimen of the numbe-jumbo which fills medical books and medical journals nowadays. One sentence in the letter will show what I mean:

"It is quite conceivable that alcohol acts as a stimulant upon other functions (other than the circulation) of which, as yet, we know very little, as, for example, the ability of the body to resist infection."

To the best of my knowledge, this same conception would be as valid today as it was years ago. Certainly we know no more about "other functions, for example, the ability of the body to resist infection" than we knew back in those days.

People who need a couple of cocktails to be sociable, affable or cordial for an hour, or a highball or two after a hard day at the store or office, to "relax" before dinner, or a "quick one" our three times a day as a tranquilizer, are far from being cultivating a narcotic habit, if they aren't already addicted. For alcohol, however you take it, is a narcotic.

Signed letters, not more than one page or two words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, sent direct to Dr. William Brady, if answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright 1962)

Leon Dennen Says:

Time for U.S. to Accept Facts

BY LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — At what point will President Kennedy consider Russia's military build-up in Cuba a threat to the security not only of the United States but of the whole Western Hemisphere?

This question, in one form or another, is persistently asked by Latin Americans who refuse to accept Fidel Castro's revolution as the wave of the future.

President Kennedy recently cautioned against "loose talk" about the explosive Cuban situation. But in the view of specialists on Red strategy it is equally dangerous for the United States to ignore facts and indulge in wishful thinking. In their view, there are five points crucial to any realistic appraisal of Russia's infiltration of Cuba:

Premier Khrushchev is not likely to challenge openly the principles of the Monroe Doctrine in the near future. He is again resorting to the "saintly tactics" that he has been employing on West Berlin. He will nibble away at the Monroe Doctrine slice by slice until it has been reduced to a dead letter.

The Russians have already succeeded in clipping the wings of an erratic Fidel Castro. Latin American diplomats recently stationed in Havana told this writer that Castro, although still useful as a "front," is no longer the key man

Voice of the People:

'Fringe Benefits to Blame for Unemployment Rate'

To "Old and Tired" who wants to know why he must work overtime while others are still unemployed, this phenomenon is the result of the high cost of fringe benefits which have been raised to such a high level that it is more economical for an employer to pay overtime than to hire new workers.

U.A.W. members must realize that the constant demand for higher wages and benefits has forced many of their fellow workers out of jobs.

'Why Didn't Press Mention YWCA?'

When a woman wrote in for information concerning "Y" activities for women, I considered it most unfair for The Press to refer her solely to the YWCA. Your referral should have at least included the Young Women's Christian Association, which offers classes for women of all ages and nursery service. Classes are under way and a schedule is available. Replies to Letter on Israel Bonds

In reference to Norman Buckner's letter, there is no tendency to distort the high holy days by the sale of Israel bonds. The meaning of Yom Kippur is repentance, prayer and humility. It is our duty to help our unfortunate brothers and sisters.

The State of Israel has opened doors to all displaced persons, not only as Jews for Jews, but as human beings. If he would like to recapture the full meaning of Yom Kippur it would be to his advantage to attend our services. Mr. Buckner quotes Isaiah. How much does he give to "give bread to the hungry; shelter the poor and cover the naked?" to help members of his own faith?

(Editor's Note — "Also Disputed": The Press can't solve your dilemma. This is a matter between you and the court.

Mr. Green: Your letter is about a purely personal matter and should be taken up accordingly.

"Worried Mother": This is a pretty personal matter.)

'Don't Judge Band by Uniforms'

As a Waterford band student I feel that criticism of us is in bad taste and an insult to the hard-working band members and our entire school.

Some of the bands have flashy uniforms and some don't. A band is not judged by its uniforms, but by the quality of its music. Compared to Waterford High most of the overdrilled bands sounded as though they couldn't play "Home, Sweet Home."

Michigan needs real help from the top of our Upper Peninsula to its southern border. Let's get a leader in Lansing, not a follower or a "yes" man.

There's a big job ahead. It's the duty of every citizen to help select good leaders. It's time the people got off the sidelines and onto the field into action.

Romney Volunteer

Williams and Swanson spent fourteen years dragging Michigan into a financial mess that even Romney can't clean up in two years. But I'll bet he can in four. Accountant

The Republican candidate for governor says he is the man to get more jobs for Michigan, but when he was president of American Motors he moved jobs connected with that firm out of the state.

Why did his wife refuse to ride in a parade in a Michigan bill car?

A bill that would require employers to give equal pay to women who do the same work as men was apparently killed in the House by a Republican from Ohio, so I thank God I am a Democrat. The Republicans tried to pass a bill that would deny Ford workers unemployment benefits because of a strike at a Ford Motor Company in Ohio.

Red Defeats Ease Load for Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Communist defeats in Viet Nam's guerrilla war have made life a little easier for the 2 million residents of Saigon, who have been paying high food prices for many months because the rebels blocked the capital's supply lines.

The price of rice, basic item in the Vietnamese diet, has fallen from about four cents to about three and one-half cents a pound. Part of the reason is a good harvest expected in a month. But the government also attributes the price cut to the fact that the war against the Communists is going well and speculators have stopped betting on a collapse.

Despite the cheaper rice, other prices remain high and some are climbing. The over-all cost of living increased 8 per cent for three and one-half cents a pound. workers and their families from July to August alone. Wages, however, have not been raised for laborers since 1955.

The minimum wage for unskilled labor is 40 cents a day. President Ngo Dinh Diem promised that wage rates will be re-examined "in the light of the slight but tragic rise in the cost of living — the price of Viet Cong aggression."

Saigon had no food shortages before the Communist infiltration of the surrounding countryside began. It lies in the fertile Mekong River delta. But the war has largely cut the city off from its traditional suppliers.

SUPPLY LIMITED

Normally, the capital consumes about 2,000 hogs daily. But it is getting little more than half this number.

The official price of live hogs has been raised from about 15 cents a pound to 17 cents. But this had done little to increase the supply.

"The new hog price is still unrealistic," a government official said. "We should take into account the fact that hog dealers are running many risks in the countryside."

"There is plenty of pork in the suburbs of Saigon," he added. "Prices there aren't controlled."

In the city, consumers have the choice of lining up for hours at the official butcher shops on the chance of getting pork there, or paying far higher prices on the black market.

Other basic needs also are in short supply because of the Communists. The Vietnamese cook with charcoal, and the city normally uses about 90,000 132-pound sacks of it every month.

But despite a price rise from $2.15 to $2.50 a bag, only about 60,000 sacks have come in the past two months.

Nearly all Saigon's charcoal comes from the Ca Mau peninsula on the southern tip of Viet Nam, which is virtually controlled by the Communists.

They see to it that some charcoal gets sold, but they extort a heavy "tax" from the producers for "securing" the shipments through their territory.

Buses Subdue Nightingales

LONDON (U) — Nightingales may still be singing in Berkeley Square, but as of today you couldn't hear them.

For the first time, London's towering double-decker buses roared through the once placid green spot.

It was part of a new traffic plan that made Bond Street one way from Oxford Street to Piccadilly and routed heavy traffic through the aristocratic byways around Berkeley Square.

Of the total of 5,382,000 farms reported in the United States by the census, about 94 per cent are receiving electrical service, according to present estimates.

Too Good—Lead to Riot

BONN, Germany (U) — A West German manufacturer discovered yesterday that advertising does pay — with a vengeance.

When he offered 500 free watches in local newspaper advertisements to celebrate the opening of a new branch in the West German capital, he hoped for an enthusiastic reception. He got a riot.

More than an hour before the great give-away, a howling, struggling, fighting mob had gathered before the shop, in one of the capital's busiest and narrowest streets. Police in riot gear and trucks fought desperately but in vain to clear away the hundreds blocking the street.

Only when it was announced that disposal of the free watches — and all other business — had been suspended by the manager, did the mob finally disperse.

Cheboygan Man Dies

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—Funeral service will be held here tomorrow for Carl A. Leonall, 57, a former Cheboygan mayor who died of a heart attack Sunday. Leonall, a druggist for 43 years, was a former president of the Northern Michigan Association of County Boards of Education.

Sinatra Snubs Europe Filming... Likes Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Those hoping for a Hollywood renaissance get some encouraging words from survive. And Hollywood is going to come back.

Frank Sinatra: "This town is far from dead."

THOMAS

"I have no plans to shoot abroad. I want to stay here, where the money is. And I think producers are coming to that same conclusion. You don't save money in the long run by shooting overseas. The know-how of Hollywood crews makes filming more sensible here."

Sinatra has a mania for moving things along. Long rehearsals and multiple takes are for the birds. Hence he could never tolerate the leisurely pace of continental film-

"Those three-hour lunches they take over there are ridiculous," he said.

Sinatra had dabbled in co-production, but last year he set up his own company, Essex, on a full-time basis. The company made "X15," a moderate success, then "Sergeants Three," panned by the critics but loved by the public.

Sinatra has "The Manchurian Candidate" coming into release and is now making "Come Blow Your Horn" in partnership with Paramount. He has other properties in preparation, and all look as if they will be Hollywood-based.

Sinatra is no dabbler in production. When he isn't filming, he spends a full work day at his luxurious suite of offices in a bank building at the western edge of the Sunset Strip.

"This is something I have been aiming at for a long time," he said. "I intend to be decreasing my work as a performer. I am a special kind of actor. When I get older, I would have to go into character acting, and that's not my cup of tea."

"After a few years I expect to be a director or producer, or head of a production company. There is room for new companies with an aggressive policy. Lately I have been looking for new talent in a quiet sort of way—so mothers and fathers won't be dragging their kids to see me. I think Hollywood has neglected the need for new personalities too long."

So far the Sinatra empire includes Essex Productions, Reprise Records, music publishing firms, four radio stations, Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe, plus large parcels of land along the Pacific Coast.

He has come a long way from the Hoboken kid who made girls swoon from his crooning.

An estimated total of 17 million Americans depend on tobacco for all or some part of their livelihood.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: Why can't a giraffe make any sound?

ANSWER: Actually, giraffes are not completely voiceless. Zoo keepers and hunters have heard them make mooring sounds at certain times. But it is true that the giraffe rarely uses his voice, and the reason is that his voice box, or "larynx," where sound is produced in animals and men, is poorly developed.

But then the giraffe does not need such an ability. As our artist suggests, he is talented in other ways. His eyesight, hearing and sense of smell are all very keen and from the lofty position where he holds his head, he can look far away (A) and see danger before it comes too close.

Then, too, his checkered body pattern makes him difficult to see under certain conditions (B).

He can outgallop most horses, making up to 35 miles an hour. Giraffes also run by "pacing," moving the legs of the same side forward and back at the same time (C). Lastly, (D), a giraffe can fight.

He has dynamite in all four feet and he can swing that long neck as if it were a huge club. His head can deliver a blow of tremendous force.

FOR YOU TO DO: Backbones in men and higher animals are formed of small bones, the "vertebrae," which also go up the neck. Make a guess as to how many vertebrae there might be in a giraffe's neck. 18, 20, 25? You've guessed wrong. There are 7, exactly the same number you will find in a mouse's neck.

Lana Turner Split From 5th Husband

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—Actress Lana Turner was granted a Mexican divorce yesterday from her fifth husband, businessman Fred May.

Judge Miguel Gomez Guerra of the first civil court in Juarez granted Miss Turner the divorce following a brief hearing.

Incompatibility was listed by Miss Turner as the grounds for the divorce, but both parties agreed to the action.

The actress and May were married in November 1950, and separated a few weeks ago. Miss Turner was represented in court by attorneys Jose Amador Trias and Manuel Ruiz.

Dying Driver Saves Pupils

AMBLER, Pa. (AP)—David H. Pinkett, 59, fell ill as he turned his loaded school bus off the expressway and headed for nearby Oreland.

He swerved to the shoulder of the road, put on the brake, turned off the ignition and slumped over the wheel—dead of a heart attack.

Police said his action Monday halted the bus, with 28 pupils aboard, a few feet from an embankment from which it could have plunged 30 feet to railroad tracks.

Will Consider Bus Contract

City Commission to Be Asked for Approval

City commissioners tonight will be asked to approve a new agreement for city bus service without major changes from last year.

The agreement will be proposed in the form of an annual contract with the Pontiac Transit Corp.

While commissioners have been assured of greater consultation between the firm and the city on future fare hikes, no major contract changes are expected.

The fare hike issue was raised recently, after complaints by some city commissioners that they were not given enough notice of fare increases.

In other business, city commissioners will be asked to act on a number of zoning changes. No other major items are scheduled in the agenda for this week.

Germans Ask NBC to Censor Escape Film

BERLIN (AP)—Sen. Heinrich Albertz, in charge of interior affairs in West Berlin, said yesterday he will ask the National Broadcasting Co. not to televise a film the company made about East Germans escaping through a tunnel to West Berlin.

Albertz said he feared the film might disclose details which Communist police could use to find persons helping in the escape or relatives of refugees.

Two days ago, 17 of the 20 West Berlin students who built the 350-foot tunnel through which 29 persons escaped said they would ask NBC, through the German embassy in Washington, to cut those portions of the film which show their faces.

In a statement, the students said the film was taken by a cameraman without their permission. NBC said earlier it had paid three students for permission to film the tunnel operation.

There Are Few Things World Can Do Without

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In a world getting more crowded all the time, here are a few things we could do without:

Mink jackets for dogs who have almost everything. Those gummy cocktail tidbits that stick to your dentures.

Professional wrestling bouts in which one contestant looks like a Greek or Nordic god — and the other looks like the offspring of Mrs. Dracula and the Hunchback of Notre Dame.

Best-seller books that tell you how to do something you never really wanted to do anyway. Telephones in bathrooms. Shoeless-free men's slip-on shoes. The only sure exercise flabby middle-aged men have left today is tying their shoelaces.

Mauve-colored lipsticks. No girl should have purple lips unless she has been out ice skating in the cold too long.

Transparent plastic wastebaskets. Who wants to look into a wastebasket anyway except a private detective?

DOUBLE STANDARD

Restaurant menus printed in any language except American. Restaurants that charge twice as much for food tea as they do for hot tea.

Business tycoons whose wristwatches buzz to warn you that they are busy people and you have taken up quite enough of their time.

Women who take off their shoes in the movies and then when they rise to go, need the services of three ushers with flash lights to find their lost footgear.

New churches so weirdly designed the innocent bystander mistakes them for hamburger stands—and new hamburger stands designed to look like cathedrals.

SMALL PRINT

Medicine bottles on which the instructions are printed so small you need a microscope to read them.

Doctors who tell a patient he's run down and needs a good long rest with absolute quiet—and then send him to a hospital where the nurses wake him up every morning at 5 a.m.

Strangers who want something from you and address you, "hey, fellow."

Culture addicts who sneer at you if you like a melody by Stephen Foster or Irving Berlin, but themselves enjoy a Beethoven symphony just as much if it is played backward as forward.

Cranky columnists who write articles like this—instead of looking at the bright side of life.

Hoffa Loses Plea to Delay U.S. Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union lost his plea yesterday for a postponement of his Oct. 28 conspiracy trial in U.S. District Court.

Judge William E. Miller told attorneys he had pushed everything else aside for the Hoffa case and that it would be tried next Monday as scheduled.

Attorneys for the Teamsters Union chief argued they needed more time to prepare their case. Hoffa is charged with receiving more than $1 million in conspiracy with an automobile trucking firm in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Kennedys to Quit Glen Ora Estate When Lease Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Kennedy plan to give up the lease on Glen Ora, their hunt country estate at Middleburg, Va., on Jan. 15, the White House said yesterday.

The decision was announced by the First Lady's press secretary, Pamela Turnure.

Mrs. Kennedy, who is a devotee of riding and hunting, has taken on the chore of finding a new weekend spot in the heart of the hunt country. There are reports that the first family may possibly build a country home.

Mrs. Raymond Tartiere of Washington is preparing to reoccupy Glen Ora when the President's lease expires.

Among all the flags of the United Nations, only that of Cyprus bears a map of the country.

Building to Start in Avondale

Construction of additional rooms and renovation of four Avondale district elementary schools will begin next month and is scheduled for completion before the beginning of the next school year.

The first step in the building program was taken by the board of education when it approved the architectural plans at its regular meeting last night.

O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates of Birmingham were selected to do the work.

Auburn Heights Elementary School will have two class rooms added plus a new kitchen, library, and principal's office.

Three classrooms each will be added at Elmwood, Stiles and Stone schools. Also included in the plans are a new kitchen, multipurpose room and storage room for each school.

Miscellaneous renovation also will be undertaken at all four schools in addition to the new rooms.

CLOSE TO PROPOSAL

This work comes as the first step in a building program made possible by the passage of the $129 million bond issue and a millage increase passed last June.

School Supt. George E. Shackelford said this first stage of construction is very similar to that proposed in a report submitted to the board by the citizen's study committee prior to the election.

He said construction should begin on the schools soon. "We hope to get it under way by the latter part of November," he said, "and have it completed by next September."

In other business the school board sold $850,000 worth of bonds to Goodbody & Son, an investment company. Shackelford said this is the total amount of class A bonds which are to be sold.

The company's bid was accepted in September, but the actual sale was not completed until last night.

Community Drive Opens in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Sixty-six volunteer workers last night attended a dinner kicking off the 1963 Community Fund campaign in Avon Township at the American Legion Hall here.

A goal of $45,000 has been set, according to Sydney Q. Ennis, campaign chairman. This is the same goal as last year which was exceeded when all Detroit pledges were in.

The workers expect to canvass every home in the village and township during the month-long drive, Ennis said today.

Says Romney Favored at MSU

'Partiality' Riles Swainson

LANSING (UPI)—Aides of Gov. John B. Swainson still were mad today about Saturday's Michigan State-Michigan football game but their anger had nothing to do with the athletic contest.

Rather, their rancor stemmed from the partiality they alleged MSU officials showed Republican gubernatorial nominee George Romney.

The Swainson aides alleged that after telling Swainson he could not cross the field at halftime to change his seat, the MSU officials did nothing to interfere with Romney's parade around the stadium infield.

Shortly after the halftime gun sounded — and while the University of Michigan Marching Band was putting on its show — Romney entered the field from the stands. As one of his assistants put it, "there was no authorization. He just walked out there, walked around the full 360 degrees and then walked out."

At this time Swainson was in a car being transported from his first half seat on the Michigan side of the field to his second half seat on the MSU side.

Mrs. Sue Martin, Swainson's appointment secretary who made his arrangements for attending the game, alleged the ride outside the stadium was necessary because James H. Denison refused to let the governor walk either across the field or around the end zone.

DENISE ORDER — Denison, assistant to MSU President John A. Hannah, denied he had given such an order. "It is not true," he said. "It wasn't forbidden."

"Nobody forbids the governor to do anything. When the question of walking across the field came up I reminded this young

Two Held in Fake Robbery When Bruise Found Missing

LAPEER — A misplaced pain and a missing bruise led to the arrest of Edward Fleming, 22, but not Rice.

"They were informed later that Rice had left for Minden City, and radioed the sheriff there, who arrested him."

Fleming was apprehended at his home, 2217 Davis Lake Road, early Saturday morning, brought in for questioning and released.

Police said he admitted driving Rice to Minden City but denied knowing that Rice was sought for robbery.

Swain lives at 3129 Imlay City Road, Attica. Rice lives at 2391 King Road and works in Minden City.

Dougherty said the Lapeer County sheriff's Department is investigating the pair's connection with a series of larcenies which occurred the past year at places where Swain had been employed.

The alleged robbery took place in the gas station at 10 S. Genesee St., at 7:30 p.m. Friday, according to police.

Police Chief Matthew Dougherty said the department received a call from Swain at 7:40 p.m. Friday saying he had been beaten, tied up and robbed of $250 in cash, checks and credit slips.

'IMPROBABLE ACCOUNT'

Officers questioned Swain and he gave them an "illogical and highly improbable" account of the crime, according to Dougherty.

Swain told police his alleged assailant was standing at his left, while they were both facing south, when he was struck on the head.

Dougherty said Swain was rubbing the right side of his head, where there was no apparent bruise.

When police pointed out the improbability of a man standing on his left and hitting him on the right, Swain told them the entire plan, Dougherty said.

Swain said he planned to meet Rice at an undisclosed place in the city. Police investigated and two planned.

One is Providence Hospital on Providence Drive and the other, Brent Hospital, on Nine Mile Road, east of Southfield Road.

The MOA purchased the 20-acre site for the proposed osteopathic hospital two years ago with a view to future construction.

These knocking on doors will include Mrs. Gary Gray of 292 W. Lincoln Ave., Birmingham; Mrs. Raymond Heck of 8056 Birchwood Drive, Franklin; and Mrs. Burnell Clark of 2993 Ortonville Road, Clarkston.

In addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment the October survey will cover the area of education.

Southfield Vetoes Plan for Osteopathic Hospital

SOUTHFIELD — The City Council last night turned thumbs down on the recommendation from its planning commission to allow construction of a $3-million osteopathic hospital at 12-Mile and Evergreen roads here.

In a 5-2 vote the council denied the application of the Michigan Osteopathic Association to build the hospital on the grounds that it would create a safety problem.

Two public hearings have been held on the matter at which angry residents expressed concern about traffic congestion which they said would interfere with school buses.

They also complained about the noise that ambulance sirens would make.

The protesters said they also felt another hospital was not needed in Southfield "because plans are now under way for construction of two hospitals."

LAPEER — The Lapeer City Commission voted to hire planning consultants at its meeting last night in preparation for applying for a federal grant under the government's 701 Plan for urban development.

Vilcan-Lerman & Associates of Southfield, were chosen by the commission to make the survey.

Harold C. Rose, deputy city clerk, said the firm can take two years to decide the specific requests it will make of the federal government.

He said the request for aid would be centered around renovation of the commercial zones, as the residential areas are in good condition.

Carpenter Falls, Dies

SOUTHFIELD — Lloyd Stillwell, 54, of Royal Oak, was killed when he fell off a scaffold at a construction project here yesterday.

Stillwell was a carpenter for Bryant & Detweiler Construction Co.

Drive On Today for Oxford UF

Residential Collections Follow Kick-Off Class

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — This township's United Fund residential solicitation begins today following a kick-off training session last evening at the Veterans Memorial Building, Oxford.

The residential solicitation follows an advance gift drive in progress since Oct. 8, according to Edward Bossardet, Oxford Township UF campaign chairman.

New to Oxford's campaign this year, the advance gifts division includes commercial, industrial, professional and school sales.

Through this combined effort, a goal of $6,232 is expected to be raised by Oct. 31.

"United Fund agency services directly benefit our community," said Bossardet. "I urge the wholehearted support of the entire community for this once-a-year drive."

"Oxford Community Projects is a major recipient of these funds," he said. Other UF services available to Oxford supported by the drive include Michigan Cancer Foundation, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Clinton Valley Council, Girl Scouts, Northern Oakland County Council and Big Brothers.

Others are Michigan Children's Aid Society, Oakland Child Guidance Clinic, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Clinic, Salvation Army, Catholic Social Services and 22 state and national agencies service through Michigan United Fund.

Heading the residential solicitation are captains Rev. Anthony Nelson, Emmanuel Congregational Church, Area I; Rev. Fred Clark, Oxford Methodist Church, Area II; Rev. Harlow Hoyt, Oxford Free Methodist Church, Area III; and Rev. Hubert May, Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Area IV.

Last night's program included a talk by Karl Bradley, executive director, Pontiac Area United Fund, a slide film presentation, "The Town and the Story," and a solicitor training by Virginia Loveland, township secretary of the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Announce Engagement

Avondale Band to Play for Booster Members

AVON TOWNSHIP — Members of the Avondale Band Boosters will be entertained by the Junior High School Band at their a.p.m. meeting today in the Junior high school. The club will hear a report on the community birthday calendar project and discuss plans for the Halloween parade in Auburn Heights, which will be led by the Senior High School Band.

Right vs. wrong

when you choose stocks and bonds

Maybe you're considering whether or not investing in securities would fit your situation. You might have in mind owning stock to increase your income through dividends or perhaps to give your capital a chance to grow as the years go by. Or you might be thinking of the greater stability of bonds.

Now for the big question: how to go about it?

Wrong: Jump in when the first hot tip comes along. Right: What's the hurry? Buy securities the way you'd buy anything important — with care. When a company interests you, get all the facts you can — growth pattern, profit record, factors that might affect its future. Most of America's best known companies are among the 1,200 listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This group earns more than 60% of the net profits reported by U. S. corporations. They pay stockholders about 60% of all dividends. Roughly 90% of them have paid cash dividends in the last 12 months.

Wrong: Don't worry about risks. You're bound to win. Right: There's no such thing as investment without risk. Many things cause stock prices to go up — and down. What's more, a company may not continue to pay dividends on stock or interest on bonds. It's just common sense to keep the risks in mind. But if your company prospers, you may too.

Wrong: Invest every cent you can lay your hands on. Right: Provide for living expenses and those inevitable emergencies first. Then decide what might be invested. Start in a small way, if you like. One convenient system is the Monthly Investment Plan which requires as little as $40 every three months.

Wrong: Try for a quick killing. Right: The stock market is no place for get-rich-quick schemes. Set your goals and make them practical.

Wrong: Any broker will do. Right: Choose your broker with care. They're not all alike. Registered Representatives in Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange have satisfied Exchange requirements for knowledge of investing. Don't expect them to know all the answers. But they can help you evaluate the facts in a sensible way.

Investing may offer you a new interest in life — a way to meet growing expenses or realize some of your family's ambitions in the years ahead. It's well worth the care of starting right.

Mrs. Philip Gentile, official observer at the United Nations, spoke Monday before the Pontiac Women's Club at the City Library.

Mrs. Gentile holds her position through a grant from the Ford Foundation. She is also an official delegate to the U.S. Commission for UNESCO Conference and a member of the speakers' research committee for the U.N.

The club voted to send a contribution to Girlstown in Bellville, a state federation project. An ingathering of canned goods is planned for Nov. 3 when local clubs will visit the home.

Card Fete Launches Season

The Sylvan Shore Women's Club social season opened Monday evening with a card party at the home of Mrs. Bruce Annett on Sylvan Shores Drive.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Harold Boyer, Mrs. John Paddock, Mrs. John Gottschalk and Mrs. Hugh Hales.

Mrs. Byron Cole, president of the group, announced her chairman for the year. They are:

Mrs. Clyde Haskill and Mrs. Roy Linn, program; Mrs. Hales and Mrs. Paddock, hospitality; Mrs. Sam Hoffman, telephone; Mrs. Duane Leaux, project; Mrs. C. I. Humphries, publicity; Mrs. George Newton, historian; and Mrs. W. O. Moll, ways and means.

To Attend Meeting
Announcements were made about the southeastern district federation meeting Oct. 16-17 in East Lansing. Mrs. Henry Simpson, president of the group, and Mrs. Clarence Myers will attend.

Mrs. Earle Hoskins is chairman of the special projects party to be held Oct. 30 at the First Federal Savings and Loan of Oakland building. Mrs. William McLean was a guest.

The committee for the day included Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Edgar Learned, Mrs. Charles Topham, Mrs. Oro Brown, Mrs. Ira Alvin, Mrs. E. O. MacLean, Mrs. Percy Hunt and Mrs. Ralph Gix.

Benefit Sale Set by Group

Hold Reception for Warczaks

Daughters of Isabella Circle 474 will sponsor a mission-benefit sale Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon in the Knights of Columbus Hall on South Saginaw Street.

Cochairmen are Mrs. Nora Ashton, Mrs. Louis Koprince and Mrs. Frank Schmidt. The circle will hold installation of officers Monday in the K. of C. Hall at 8 p.m. A luncheon will follow.

A breakfast-reception in the Elks Temple followed the vows of Margaret Josephine Kubiak to Floyd F. Warczak of Warren Tuesday morning in St. Michael's Church. Rev. Charles E. Cushing offered the nuptial Mass.

The Norbert B. Kubiaks of Joslyn Avenue are parents of the bride. Rochelle lace accented her gown of white silk pea taffeta, styled with full bustle and chapel train. A jeweled lace tiara caught her bouffant veil of imported illusion.

Sylvia Meloche of Berkley attended her sorority sister as maid of honor, wearing ballerina-length Limoges blue velvet. She held a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Clifford Warczak stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Vincent Warczaks of Warren. Joseph Zarek, Royal Oak, and Edwin Davis, Warren, ushered.

The bride holds a degree in vocal music education from Wayne State University where her husband received his master's degree in industrial arts education. She is affiliated with Mu Phi Epsilon Music Sorority and Mortar Board Honorary.

After a honeymoon in the Great Smoky Mountains area, the couple will reside in Pontiac.

Convention Scheduled

Eight Michigan chapters of Lambda Chi Omega, national philanthropic sorority, will meet Sunday in the Coral Reef Room at Airway Lanes. Beta Omega Chapter of Pontiac will be hostess to the out-of-town visitors.

In line with the general theme of the convention, "Way Back When," one of the main events will be a fashion show of old-time gowns. Commentator will be Mrs. C. Sanborn Hutchins of Orchard Lake.

Mrs. Wayne Magnan is general chairman of the convention. Assisting her are Mrs. James Hudson and Mrs. Richard De Shetter.

Penny Crocker of Broadway Boulevard and Larry Glefke of Northover Drive head for the tackroom at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club following Saturday's first formal hunt of the season. Some 30 riders turned out in their hunting pinks (for the men) and derbies for one of the season's most colorful hunts.

Church Class Discusses Fish Dinner Oct. 26

Twenty-two members of the Fellowship Class, Evangelical United Brethren Church, met Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Love for a buffet dinner.

Fund-raising plans, which include a fish dinner Oct. 26, were discussed. The Jack Wilmonts showed slides and movies of their recent trip to Hawaii. Mr. and Mrs. George Reuter assisted the hostesses.

Next month's meeting is at the Walbridge Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Johnson, Rochester.

Church Group Holds Luncheon

Members of the April-May Group, First Presbyterian Church, held their luncheon meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Gil Rodewig of North Woodward Avenue.

Mrs. Floyd Salow led discussion on a study of Romans. Plans were made for next month's meeting and a visit to Presbyterian Village.

Wig Woes Hair-rass Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain's ministry of health reports that the worldwide craze for glamour wigs among women has caused a shortage of human hair.

Several big companies which furnish wigs to Britain's national health service are canceling their contracts because their costs have gone up.

If an approved consultant advises that a wig is necessary—for medical or emotional reasons—the national health service produces the wig.

The customer pays about $17 for a $60 wig. The taxpayer—via the government—pays for the difference.

Last year the health service furnished about 10,000 wigs.

Most of the people who receive them are victims of accidents, such as young women factory workers whose hair gets caught in machinery.

Said Jean Emile, a specialist who sells wigs outside the national health service:

"In five years I've seen the price of hair double. It now costs me anything between three pounds ($4.40) and five pounds ($14) an ounce.

"Shortage of hair is making our women clients wait as long as four months for a wig."

Under the National Health Act, natural baldness—unless the person is emotionally disturbed—does not qualify for a government wig.

Take One Wedding at a Time —Abby's Advice to Mother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, 22, is planning a large church wedding. She wants her sister (36) to be her maid of honor.

The older daughter has been going with a divorced man for a year and a half. He has never mentioned anything to us about his intentions of marrying her, and as far as we know he hasn't mentioned them to her, either. He appears to be making a fool of her.

My daughter says unless we include her friend in the wedding party and let him sit at the bridal table with her, she will not be in the wedding party. My husband says we should include him and avoid the fuss. I am . . .

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Whether the man intends to marry your daughter is beside the point. She has made it plain that he is her choice and if he agrees to escort her to the wedding, perhaps they have an "understanding." Include him or risk alienating your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17, my little sister is 12, and my mother is going to have a baby around Christmas.

Mother is 41 and she has never had a baby shower given for her. I know she would like one. I would like to surprise her with a baby shower but am not sure whether it would be proper because of her age.

Mother has lots of friends, and one real close one who could help me with the plans. I have my own money saved up for refreshments. Do you think it would be all right if I went through with my plans?
A DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: The thought is very sweet, Honey, but it is not proper for a close relative to give a shower. Why don't you discuss it with your mother's closest lady friend? You could be the "inspiration" and let her be the sponsor.

DEAR ABBY: I can tell you why ONE woman went through her neighbors' trash. Years ago, when two of my mother's plump hens were missing, she went through the neighbors' trash until she found the feathers from one Rhode Island Red and one black and white Dominique—exactly what she'd lost.

Mother went to the door and knocked. She could smell her chickens cooking, but nobody answered! She never did confess the two-legged stunk who stole them, but she knew who the thief was.

WCTU Unit Plans Luncheon to Church

A box luncheon is planned by the Anna Gordon branch, Women's Christian Temperance Union, Thursday at noon. Members will gather at the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m. for the meeting. The unit asks members to bring items for the gift booth at the state convention in Ypsilanti, Oct. 24-26.

Rushees Hear Story of Sorority

Mrs. Jean B. Safford delivered a talk on the history of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority before members and guests of Beta Chi Chapter, during the annual rush tea.

The tea was held Sunday at the Cooley Lake Road home of Mrs. Ralph O. Allen. Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Holter, Mrs. Fred Mueller and Mrs. Harvey Schroeder. Presiding at the silver service were sponsors Mrs. Luella Ervin and Mrs. Ralph E. Allen. Guests were Mrs. William Jacobson, Mrs. Joseph Ray and Mrs. Bart Vanciel.

The word, "foolscap," is derived from a fool's cap-and-bells watermark on a certain size and kind of paper.

Whitlow-Crivea Vows Exchanged

Wedding vows of Patricia May Cravas and Robert E. Whitlow Jr. were exchanged before Rev. Lee LaSalle Saturday evening in the Denelson Baptist Church.

The newlyweds and their parents, the Levi Criveas of Myrtle Drive and the senior Whitlows of LaSalle Street, greeted some 300 guests in the church parlors.

A cascade of white roses and carnations with trailing ivy complemented the bride's gown of white Rochelle lace over satin, styled with chapel train. Her veil of French illusion fell from a pearl tiara.

Wearing royal blue satin were Mrs. Orton Armstrong, Ann Arbor, her sister's matron of honor; Mrs. Levi J. Crivea, Clarkston, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Leon Polley and the bridegroom's sister Sharon. They carried blue-tipped white carnations.

MRS. ROBERT E. WHITLOW JR.

Dawne Crivea and Bryan Armstrong attended their aunt as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

On the esquire side were Floyd Powers, best man, and ushers Jeffrey Lorenz, Michael Dick and Leon Polley.

The couple will make their home on Winding Drive.

MRS. LEE W. PETERS

Stella Marie Stacer of Murphy Avenue, daughter of the Anthony Stacers, Harbor Beach, and Lee W. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peters, Fieldview Drive, were married Saturday in St. Anthony's Church, Harbor Beach.

Couple Says Vows at Calvary

White and yellow gladioli banked the altar in the Calvary Missionary Church for the Saturday evening vows of Linda Fae Stout and John F. Peet, repeated before Rev. Rose Davis.

The newlyweds received with their parents, the Francis Stouts and the Moses Peets, all of Irwin Avenue, in the church parlors following the ceremony.

White gardenias rested on a small white Bible held by the bride, who appeared in a floor-length colonial gown of white Chantilly lace and satin.

A diamond-solitaire pendant, gift of the bridegroom, was her only jewelry. Her silk illusion veil fell from a lace tiara.

Wanda Stout, her sister's maid of honor, appeared in blue lace over satin. Linda Townsend, bridesmaid, also wore blue.

Their gold heart necklaces were gifts from the bride. White lace gloves and bouquets of blue carnations completed their ensembles.

The new Mrs. Peters is a graduate of the McAuley School of Practical Nursing and her husband attended Highland Park Junior College.

The couple will live on Mark Avenue on their return from a trip to Vermont and Cape Cod.

Willis-Justus Vows Told

Candlelight vows of Mary Lynne Justus to Gordon Willis were repeated before Rev. W. K. Burgess

Leaving for a honeymoon in northern Michigan and Canada, the new Mrs. Willis was wearing a beige Italian knit dress. The couple will make their home in Pontiac.

MRS. GORDON WILLIS

Saturday evening in the First United Missionary Church.

The bride couple joined their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Velmor L. Justus of Second Avenue and the Robert N. Willis of East Tennyson Avenue, and some 150 guests at the church reception.

Preceding her sister to the altar banked with red and white gladioli was Sonja Justus, maid of honor. She wore bouffant powder blue chiffon and carried pink carnations.

The bride's ballerina-length dress of white silk chiffon was styled with bell skirt and Watteau back. Her short veil of illusion fell from a rose headpiece encircled with miniature daisies. Red roses accented her bouquet of white carnations.

UF Campaign Molds Area Into United Family

LITTLE MISS TORCHY — Seven-year-old Diane Lynn Balis clearly was picked for her winning personality to be headliner at torch-lighting ceremonies of the Pontiac Area United Fund. Though she has never needed UF agency help herself, she represents the happy goal which agency workers seek in helping thousands of children less fortunate. She's a second grader at Waterford's Williams Lake Elementary School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Balis, 6684 Hatchery Road, Waterford.

Helping the Unfortunates Makes Community Better

By FRED HAGGARD
General Chairman

The United Fund is people. It is people like you. And it is people who need your help.

Once a year, each citizen in our community is asked to contribute to this united family. By doing so, each citizen pumps new life-blood into 54 agencies which make his community a better place to live in.

You—as a contributing citizen—are lending a hand to the sick and to the aging. You are giving purpose to life for the handicapped. You are bringing peace of mind to those sick of heart.

And so, in giving, think of what your voluntary contributions in dollars and cents are buying—not how much you are spending.

The amount needed this year is $706,125. This is 5 per cent higher than the goal of $672,000 at which we aimed last year. Through the generosity of our citizens this goal was achieved and exceeded with pledges totaling $676,000.

This year, our agencies asked us for considerably more money. The minimum they need is that goal of $706,125.

When weighing this total against the value of its humanitarian purposes, I know no better way to make a contribution to lives of our neighbors and the strength of our community.

Your voluntary contributions work many wonders.

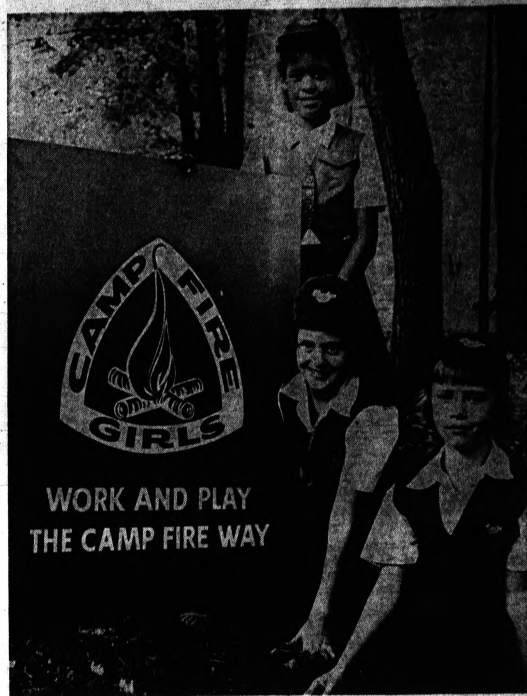

And when your solicitor calls, give serious consideration to the 54 agencies you help.

Without these agencies, we would have to give this same type of service through a tax-supported program. And we are all sure, we don't want any further taxation.

The Pontiac Area United Fund Drive embraces six townships and Pontiac. This includes Brandon, Oxford, Independence, Orion, Pontiac and Waterford townships.

We in the community, as a matter of pride, treat others as we wish to be treated.

And so I ask each of you to rally to the aid of those unable to help themselves.

UF TRIO — Contributions raised through the Pontiac Area United Fund Drive also help make possible recreation programs such as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and the Camp Fire Girls' (above). From top to bottom are Chequita Faith Chastain, 435 Central Ave.; Kellie A. Kelly, 788 E. Tampon Ave.; and Betty Jane Rebolzo, 1270 N. Adams Road, Avon Township.

Payroll Plan Eases Donation

Pledge at Work Boosts UF Helps Contributor

Industry, during the past few years, has offered an unenviable service to the United Fund, to make it easier for you to give: the payroll plan.

Through your place of employment you make your pledge, based on what you feel you can afford to give.

No longer do you balance expenses of living and wonder how you can get around a "sizeable bank of money" right now.

You sign your card, turn it over to your factory representative, and payroll clerks do the rest.

Each check has your pledged amount deducted.

At the end of the year it mounts up, but since you are giving on a monthly, semi-monthly or weekly basis, your budget for everyday living is not shattered.

Remember the payroll deduction plan when you make your pledge.

Visiting Nurses Lend Hand to Bedridden

The Visiting Nurse Association aims to provide skilled nursing care for the sick confined to their homes.

Nursing care is given under medical direction of the patient's physician. There were over a thousand families served by the Association last year in Pontiac alone.

The nurse stays in the home long enough to do the required care and treatments prescribed by the physician.

Figures Tell Story of Aid

Physical Health Alone Has Assisted 11,000

Since its inception in 1949, the United Fund has helped nearly every person in the Pontiac area.

Last year's figures show that the Salvation Army offered aid to 4,000 families as well as additional individuals; Child Guidance Clinic helped 500 youngsters; Michigan Children's Aid, 400; Family Service, 900; Community Activities, Inc., 7,000 families; YMCA and YWCA, 6,000; Campfire Girls, Boy and Girl Scouts, 22,000, with another 2,000 in Boys' Club.

The various agencies involved with physical health gave direct assistance to more than 11,000 in the area.

This figure does not include those who benefit through state agencies nor the vast research programs which the United Fund aids in their work.

Figures make dull reading, but there is nothing dull about the tremendous impact these services have on the community.

Without many programs devoted to young people our juvenile problems would skyrocket beyond our imagination.

Tax cost to support courts and correctional institutions would be more than equal the monies given to the United Fund.

ONLY IN AMERICA Almost since time began, men have been helping each other, but only in this country has it reached such proportions.

Only a few years ago there were dozens of small groups struggling for survival that they might help the unfortunate.

Public resentment against so many appeals began to make their jobs even harder until the United Fund plan came into existence.

That simplified the job by making one donation do the work for more than a hundred local, county, state and national groups.

It assured a proper allocation of funds, based on the need and importance of the agency.

Business places and industrial plants liked the idea. They got behind it with their own gifts and, through the payroll deduction plan, made it possible for their employees to give more by measured payments over many months.

Money Contributed by You Serves to Better Community

If someone handed you a check for $706,125 and said: Here, spend it, but for others, not yourself. What would you do?

Well, your brother still owes about $10,000 on his house — paying that off would be nice.

Your wife has, for years, wanted a mink coat, and now would be a good time to get that convertible for her, too.

The kids want new cars, and a trip to Europe next summer would make a wonderful graduation present.

Then, there's the lodge. They've needed a new building for some time.

As a matter of fact, the church could use a new kitchen and Sunday school wing, too.

All these things would be nice. They would make people happy, would help them, and being able to do this would make you feel pretty good, too.

But how many have you helped — really HELPED?

True, every cent you paid out has gone into payroll circulation and so has broadened its benefits. But what about the places you spent it? Did your wife need that mink?

Wouldn't the family car have served her just as well as the convertible?

SAME AMOUNT

That same amount of money, given by you and your neighbors, will spread its benefits throughout the entire area through the United Fund.

Like your spending, it will find its way back into pay checks, but it will do much more.

Some of it will come back to you in salary, but the biggest slice will come through community betterment.

The boy or girl who might become a public charge because of a broken home, or, worse, through delinquency, may well be saved through UF dollars.

Your own family will receive benefits through scouting, the YM and YW, through UF supported research and science that will develop programs against disease, such as the preventive medicines against polio.

Again, your own family will reap its share of benefit should disaster strike your home town.

No matter how hard you try, you cannot do as much, alone, with a dollar as you can through your support of the Pontiac Area United Fund. To paraphrase a traffic slogan: The dollar you give might be spent on you. GIVE!

'Army Citadel' Helps Troubled

Alcoholic, Wanderer Always Welcome

Everyone is familiar with the Salvation Army bands and Christmas kettles, but many have little knowledge of what goes on behind the doors of their Citadel on West Lawrence Street.

Here there are no bars against creed, race, color, nor social status.

Here the doors are always open to those in need of help — the alcoholic, the wanderer in need of shelter, the lonely.

The Salvation Army's services, however, are not wholly confined to the troubled. They provide recreation facilities for young and old alike.

They provide fellowship and spiritual help.

The army goes beyond local affairs. It works on the battlefield beside the fighting man and in the hospitals with the wounded.

It enters the prisons, the immigration centers, helping these people in their struggle toward a new and better life.

It seeks out missing persons and helps them to adjust their problems so families become whole again.

It helps the idle to find employment.

Your gifts to the United Fund are, in part, the support of one of the oldest and biggest assistance groups in the world.

Agencies Aid Selves

United Fund dollars do not provide all the monies needed by the agencies operating within its plan.

Some, such as family service and the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Clinic, serve many who can and do pay at least a part of the expense.

These receipts are taken into consideration in UF budget plans and release funds for other fields.

Moreover, were these fees lost

UF Torch Symbolizes Man's Humanity to Man

In a world where "Man's inhumanity to man" seems to be the keynote, the United Fund stands out as brightly as the torch that is its symbol.

It is our chance to help our fellowman, not because a part of our lives are ear-marked for aid, but because we want to do this thing.

The 1962 slogan, "One Gift Works Many Wonders" is true. Nowhere, in today's soaring costs, can you buy as much for a dollar as you can through your United Fund campaign.

22 UF Agencies Here, 32 in State

Needy Aided by People Like You

Somewhere a fellow human being needs your help! When he asks for it he'll turn to one of 22 local and 32 Michigan United Fund agencies. Your contribution helps them and him.

Boys' Club Builds Constructive Lives

One of the agencies helped by UF contributions is the Pontiac Boys' Club, which aims at offering a wholesome and constructive after-school program with other boys.

The club tries to develop social, physical and hand skills; the opportunity to learn how to work and get along with others — by taking part in many activities as individuals and in groups or teams.

The entire program is guided by a staff of competent, trained adult leaders.

Services offered include gym activities, health service, library books, individual counseling, arts and crafts, woodshop, printshop, play ground and supervised games and recreation.

United Fund Operation Covers All Phases of Life

There is no phase of human life that the United Fund does not touch.

Operating on four general themes: health, recreation and character building, family and child care, and planning, coordination and research, it ranges from aid to the very young to community, state and national benefits.

A very important group is that covering the health service, with 18 groups.

Largest among them are the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Clinic and the Visiting Nurse Association.

Daily, each of these organizations operates to ease the pain and suffering of the ill. At the clinic medical and therapeutic help is given directly to the patient.

PERSONS TRAINED

Visiting nurses extend this help, too, but add to their service by training persons to care for the ill and aged in their own homes. Recreation and character building, among the greatest aids to juvenile delinquent programs, work with groups as well as individuals to promote good citizenship.

These include scouting, YMCA, YWCA, Boys' Club, and Community Activities, Inc., on the local level.

National scope, is given to the Pontiac efforts by gifts to several organizations, and through the USO, the benefit travels around the world.

Family and child care services are aimed at solving problems through consultation with adults and children.

Whenever possible the family is kept as a whole, but when necessary children are helped through foster homes and adoption.

Special attention is given to children with emotional problems.

PLAN DEVELOPED

The source is sought out and a program of correction developed to enable the child to live at peace and harmony with himself, his family and others of his own age.

Disturbances and problems which touch his school life are smoothed out so he can get the most out of the educational opportunities offered him.

In the last group only two are on a strictly local level, the Urban League of Pontiac and Community Chest of Pontiac.

Urban League operates to better the lives of minority groups, both socially and economically. Others in this group are on a state and national level.

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Very few people may have noticed that Sunday at Tiger Stadium, George Wilson made a call with 2:38 left to play that was very similar to the tragic call in Green Bay.

With third and eight yards to go on their own 38, Milt Plum threw down the middle 12 yards and made it a first down on the 50. The Lions had only a 13-10 lead at this point and again an interception may have been tragic.

But, after the game, Wilson was quick to comment. "Well, today we completed a pass to keep control of the ball and it worked. Where are the second guessers?"

As it happened the Lions controlled the ball for two more first downs until the final gun.

Would you have run, missed the first down, punted and given the ball to the Rams with at least two minutes to play?

Anyway, we would like to go back to the Green Bay game at this time and note that this writer received numerous letters in regards to our "Open Letter to George Wilson."

It would be impossible to print them in their entirety or as many as were received but here are a few:

"It was a pleasure to see your open letter to George Wilson. You expressed my feelings very well and I am sure those of many others. I appreciated seeing someone write something nice about a man and a team in such a situation rather than the needling which might have been easier to write."

Francis Lond
Birmingham

"First of all I would like to say that everything you had written has been fair to both sides and your open letter to George Wilson was great and well deserved. The game between the Packers and Lions was a good one considering the playing conditions. Detroit had the game, gambled and lost. I have always been a Packer fan and I consider the Lions a great team, but the Packers we have to admit are the stronger team."

Steve Rysen
Pontiac

"I say Amen to your letter to George Wilson. I have followed the Lions since they came to Detroit and I live and die with each game. I was distressed in those closing moments at Green Bay, and I am good at second guessing too. But anyone who deserts a coach or team for a 'tactical error' is not a real fan. I may have a cold Thanksgiving dinner, but 'so be it.'"

J. Frank Coad
Pontiac

"Congratulations on the nicest piece of writing you ever have done. The Open Letter to Wilson represents all of us who feel the same about the Lions."

Dave
Clarkston

"Your letter to George Wilson after the heartbreaking loss was the most timely and finest bits of journalism I have ever read. I didn't agree with the call, but it's easier to criticize and your letter certainly is most representative of all of the Lions fans."

Buddie
Pontiac

"I was probably one of the first to look for a rope for George Wilson after that Green Bay call. Then I read your Open Letter and your stories about how the coach and team felt and I have my head in shame. Now I tell myself what a lousy Lion fan I turned out to be. I'm ready to do penance and I hope I freeze in Tiger Stadium Thanksgiving Day."

Ferndale Jumps Six Places in Poll

Ferndale made the longest jump in this week's Associated Press Class A prep football ratings.

The unbeaten Eagles whipped Birmingham Seaholm 27-7 in the place after losing 12-7 to Class A Troy. Romeo (5-0), moved into ninth to move the fifth win for Ferndale and the first loss for the Maples after four victories.

The setback sent Seaholm crashing all the way from fourth to 18th place.

Pierce Led Giants Keep Acting Like Bad Checks

'Tough Luck' Against Yanks Ends for Billy

Picks Playoff Win Over Los Angeles as Top Thrill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Throughout a long and distinguished major league career, Billy Pierce has been known as "the fellow who loses 2-1 to the Yankees."

The stylish left-hander, now a baseball ancient at 35, pitched many great games against the New Yorkers, and more often than not had a great game pitched against him.

Today, Pierce is the fellow who evaded the World Series at three games each, with a three-hit for a 5-2 victory for the San Francisco Giants.

It was his first World Series win—he lost the third game to the Yankees in New York, 3-2, his accustomed margin.

"It was a great thrill," said Pierce, in his high-pitched, happy voice. "But I think my game in the playoffs against the Dodgers was an even bigger thrill."

"After all, this game didn't decide anything."

Reminded that if the Giants had lost, Monday's game would have ended the World Series in favor of the Yankees, Pierce smiled:

"Gosh, I never thought of that." Pierce sat on a little wooden stool in the happy—but not hysterical—Giants dressing room, looking even smaller than his 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds, and bantered with reporters.

"No, I don't think I surprised the Yankees," he grinned. "They've seen me for more than 10 years, and being in the other league for only one year doesn't make any difference."

WITH TIGERS

Pierce, born in Detroit, came to the majors with the Tigers, and then labored 13 years with the Chicago White Sox. He compiled a 24-37 career mark against the Yankees in that span.

Out of favor in Chicago, Pierce was traded to the Giants last winter.

The deal could well have brought the pennant to the Golden State, as the left-hander found new life in the National League, won his first eight games, and finished with a 16-6 mark although he missed five weeks with a spike wound.

Shorter, former U. of D. back, was praised during pre-season games for his defensive play. He suffered a leg injury just before the season opener and the Browns placed him on the injured reserved list.

Cassidy makes his home in Birmingham.

ON WAY TO VICTORY — Billy Pierce of the Giants is shown in action as he worked his way toward a three-hit 5-2 victory over the Yankees yesterday in the sixth game of the World Series. Pierce has yet to be defeated in San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

Shorter Back With Browns Cassidy Out

When Jim Shorter was playing football at Pontiac Central, Howard 'Hopalong' Cassidy was the star of collegiate football at Ohio State.

Winner of all the college awards, Cassidy was the envy of all prep gridders in the early '50s including Shorter.

Yesterday Cassidy received the letter news that he was released by the Cleveland Browns while Shorter, who had been on the injured reserve list, was placed on the Browns' roster.

Cassidy, 28, is in his seventh year of pro ball, starting with the Detroit Lions in 1955. He went to Cleveland in the trade with Jim Ninoski and Bill Glass bringing Milt Plum, Dave Lloyd and Tom Watkins to Detroit.

For many years while with the Lions there had been rumors that Cassidy would be traded to the Browns, coached by his friend Paul Brown.

Brown said he had been pleased with Cassidy's running on kickoff and punt returns but the team needed a defensive back because Don Fleming suffered an ankle injury and Bobby Franklin is under call of the National Guard.

Shorter, former U. of D. back, was praised during pre-season games for his defensive play. He suffered a leg injury just before the season opener and the Browns placed him on the injured reserved list.

Pontiac Central's upset victory over Flint Northern Friday proved once again that forcing the officials to keep their red penalty markers pocketed pays off.

The Chiefs had only one penalty walked off against them. It came at a crucial point, on the first conversion, and it looked for a while the missed point might decide the game in Northern's favor.

But Northern was busy drawing infractions and fumbling victory into the Chiefs' hands. Two of the 17 infractions kept the Chiefs moving toward their first TD.

The Vikings had one drive stalled by a pair of five-yard penalties and lost a touchdown because of a clipping penalty. They got the TD five plays later but used up much needed time.

Jim Moore, PCH's place-kicker, saw his record snapped at seven straight because of Central's lone penalty. He made the kick, but a holding infraction nullified the effort and he had to try again from the 45. His boot was just short.

He split the uprisings after the next two TDs and now has nine out of 10.

Spartan Scoring Machine Rolling

EAST LANSING — After a slow start, it looks as if Michigan State has a football scoring machine rolling this season.

Coach Duffy Daugherty talked of the meeting with Michigan as a "make or break" game for the Spartans. The 28-0 score broke Michigan's 33-and-a-half punt return.

Ken Adamaki picked up two Capac markers on 42 and 63-yard passes from Ken Kobashi.

Capac carried a 14-4 lead into the second half but was quickly subdued by two quick Murnan TDs.

New Haven is now the lone unbeaten in the Southern Thumb. Berkley quarterback Dick Karkuri should have little trouble drawing a college scholarship.

He is an A-minus pupil in the classroom, according to coach Irv Waterford coach Stu Thorell is singing a different tune.

Before the season opened he moaned: "It doesn't look too good for us this year. We'll have trouble beating Farmington out of last place."

After the Skippers upped their Inter-Lakes leading record to 3-0 with the easy conquest of Southfield last Friday, Thorell commented:

"We felt this would be the season we were going to do something in the league."

The Skippers' league with Walled Lake this Friday and another victory would give Waterford the championship.

Arkansas Worries Texas' Coach

No. 1 Rating Means Little

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The coach of the University of Texas Longhorns, named today as the No. 1 college football team in the nation, said ratings mean very little to him.

"I'd feel slighted if we weren't in the top ten," Coach Darrell Royal said, "but being No. 1 doesn't make one iota of difference to me."

The Longhorns were No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll and moved into the top spot after defeating traditional rival Oklahoma last Saturday 9-6.

TIDE RUNS OUT The Longhorns replaced Alabama, the defending national champion, which defeated Houston, 14-3. The Crimson Tide fell to second place. Texas finished with 458 points and 21 first-place votes, compared to 437 points for Alabama. Bear Bryant's club collected 24 first-place votes, however.

The voting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports-casters was on the usual basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second and so on.

Following Alabama, in order, were Southern California, Louisiana State, Mississippi, Ohio State, Arkansas, Northwestern, Washington and Wisconsin.

"I'll tell you one thing, though," said Royal, "Arkansas has reason to be slighted that they aren't ranked any higher."

Undefeated Arkansas, Texas' next opponent, advanced from No. 8 to No. 7 after defeating Baylor, 28-21, in a Southwest Conference game.

Royal said the Longhorns have no hopes of stopping Arkansas' offered Oklahoma 13-7 but then lost 24-6 to Purdue and 17-8 to Wisconsin.

RUSH INJURED Two injuries resulted from the all-out effort against Michigan.

Ed Lothermer, 6-5, 229 pound junior end from Detroit, will require surgery on a compound dislocation of his thumb and will be missing for about three weeks.

Jerry Rush, 6-3, 238-pound sophomore tackle from Pontiac, picked up an ankle sprain and his status is doubtful for the meeting with Notre Dame.

IN THE MIND ANN ARBOR — Much of Bump Elliott's job this week is in the mind as he prepares the Michigan Wolverines to meet Purdue in Lafayette, Ind., next Saturday.

The Wolverines face a real test down danger after their annual big game with Michigan State, Elliott said, adding:

"We'll have to fight that let down and get them mentally ready for this one."

Purdue, on the other hand, might be "on fire," he said. "They looked as if they were about to explode" in their frustrating upset loss to Miami of Ohio, 10-7, last Saturday.

The Boilermakers, who field three teams, have fine speed, good passing and running, he said, and have improved their backfield since last year when the Wolverines edged past them 16-14.

The Michigan players, still stiff and sore from Saturday's loss to MSU, worked out lightly yesterday after hearing a scouting report on Purdue.

HONOLULU (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, although out 10 to 9, wallowed Hawaii's All-Stars, 9-3, Monday night in an exhibition game before 2,047 spectators.

The victory gave Detroit a clean sweep of the two-game series here.

Norm Cash hit one home run and drove in four runs for the Tigers. His homer came in the third with Bubba Morton on base.

He singled Jake Wood and Dick McAuliffe home in the sixth. Hank Aguirre, who started and pitched three innings of perfect ball, was credited with the victory.

Cliff Hughes, a Detroit airman stationed in Honolulu, homered for the All-Stars.

GOP's Romney Debates UAW Official

BACK TO NORMAL — William Bennett Jr. (right), 11, of Flint, plays football as though he had never had an accident. Three months ago about 80 per cent of his right foot was cut away in a power mower accident. Skillful surgery restored the injured member to normal and Bill demonstrates by playing football with a neighbor, Alan Bentoski, 12.

Thanks to Surgery

Youth Plays Ball Again

FLINT — Three months ago William Bennett Jr. (right), 11, suffered a mangled right foot.

A blade flew off a power motor while William was mowing his aunt's lawn and almost slashed off the foot. It hung to the leg only by a flap of skin.

Today he runs about like any boy. He even plays football.

William, son of William Bennett, an auto factory electrician, was hurt June 22. The rotary blade sliced through his tennis shoe, bones, muscles and tendons.

Broomfield Turns Down UAW Debate Proposal

A proposed debate between Oakland County's congressional candidates before a meeting of Pontiac area UAW-CIO members has failed to get past the idea stage.

Incumbent William S. Broomfield has declined an invitation from Ken Morris, codirector of UAW Region One, which includes the Pontiac area, to debate campaign issues with his Democratic challenger, George J. Fulkerson.

In a letter sent to Morris yesterday, Broomfield blamed "a stumbling, bumbling lack of leadership in Washington" that "prevented Congress from adjourning until last Saturday" for his not being able to accept.

"I now have three weeks to try to present a rather compact, abbreviated campaign," his letter continued. "This takes careful planning and an adherence to schedules which have been in preparation for some time."

"I find I have all I can do to meet previous engagements without taking on new ones."

Fulkerson said today he had advised Morris that he would adjust his schedule to meet Broomfield at any time.

Broomfield said the invitation was "politically inspired."

His letter said, "This is the first time any labor organization has asked me to appear to speak in my 14 years in public office."

He continued, "I most certainly welcome this first step toward an understanding... that there are at least two sides to every story..."

"I am looking forward to a meeting with you and your members following the election, and I will be most happy to give your suggestions every consideration in my legislative program."

Pontiac Woman, 30 Sentenced to Jail

Myrtle Rogers, 30, of 384 S. Edith St., pleaded guilty to charge of simple larceny after her arraignment yesterday before Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Daly.

Accused of shoplifting, she was sentenced to five days in jail and ordered to pay a $15 fine plus $10 costs.

She was arrested Saturday outside the Spartan Discount Store, 2045 Dixie Highway with merchandise valued at about $25 allegedly taken from the store.

By The Associated Press
Republican George Romney penetrated "the political curtain" he said was keeping him out of union halls and engaged in a verbal slugfest with a United Auto Workers staff member Monday night.

The Republican gubernatorial nominee debated with E. S. (Pat) Patterson, UAW regional director for eastern Michigan, before 250 noisy members of Terrestrial Local 326 at Flint. It was Romney's first appearance of the campaign before a formal union meeting.

Gov. Swainson, the Democratic nominee, took the day off from campaigning Monday to help his daughter Kristina celebrate her fourth birthday.

Romney, who has two more speeches before union groups this week, commended the Terrestrial workers for their "thoughtfulness and courage" in inviting him to speak.

He said it indicated "the political curtain or wall which a few of your state and international union political leaders have created in the past several years is beginning to crack."

The GOP candidate declared himself for "sound, strong unions" and against right-to-work laws. He said he believed in equalizing bargaining and cited his record as president of American Motors Corp. in gaining a profit-sharing contract for union workers.

Romney criticized Patterson's appearance at the debate, saying he was exposed to union and corporate officials taking active parts in politics as union men or business men. He said union and business persons should participate in politics "only as individual voters."

Patterson referred to Romney throughout the debate as "Mr. Romney," a move which left Romney obviously nettled. The UAW official attacked

Romney's campaign claim that he could bring leadership to the state. "Just because your name is Mr. Romney, what in the world makes you think you can change the record of the Republican legislature in Lansing," he said.

He also challenged Romney's claim to fostering the compact car, saying, "Romney took a good idea and pushed it when the market was ready for it. The idea and the car were developed by others."

Patterson charged that Romney, as executive director of the Automobile Manufacturers Association at the end of World War II, "played a vigorous role in attacking the UAW's war-time record."

He said that in each attack Romney listed recommendations for regulating and curbing unions and that many of these turned up in the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947.

CHARGE DISTORTION

"Romney plays distortion but he also is guilty of distortion," Patterson said.

Romney countered by accusing Patterson of "distorting facts. He has done what any kid can do—taken a whole lot of misstatements and thrown them at you and because there are so many of them, you don't have time to answer them."

Patterson blasted Romney for his alleged reference to former President Harry S. Truman as a "socialist heavy traveler."

The UAW executive also accused Romney of "a notorious compromise" with the Republican conservative bloc in the constitutional convention, and said he failed to show leadership in the fight for control of the 14th Congressional District Republican organization.

Awaiting Word on Library Fund

Waterford Twp. Unit to Hear Board Verdict

A delegation of Waterford Township Friends of the Library were told last night that within a week they would know whether any funds would be appropriated for library expansion by the Township Board.

The 1963 proposed township budget must be filed with the township clerk next Monday and a public hearing is slated for Oct. 29.

The Library Friends, who have been campaigning for a public library to replace the existing privately operated library in the township, had asked for a token grant of $1,000 from the township.

Whether a grant can be allowed will be determined by board members this week as they establish the proposed budget.

Township Clerk James Seibert presented information pertinent to the mechanics of establishing a public library. His suggestion that the Friends establish a committee to work with the township board library committee was accepted.

Trustee Loren Anderson asked about the handling of penal fine funds.

He wondered how the more than $5,000 received by the school district last year would be divided if a public library were established.

OKS RECOMMENDATION

In other business, the board accepted the recommendation of the township's consulting engineer that the low bid of $9,247.50 for the blacktopping of Midland Street be approved.

Trustee John Coleman, who also serves on the zoning board of appeals, called for a motion instructing the building department to survey five specific subdivisions and report the number of attached garage violations to the zoning board of appeals.

The motion was carried after Coleman explained he had reason to believe that numerous violations of the minimum 15-foot from-lot-line provision existed. Anderson expressed concern over the steadily mounting number of traffic accidents in the township and was supported by other board members in suggesting that a meeting be scheduled with the police chief to determine what action might be taken to cut the toll.

Coleman said the answer is simply more personnel.

Truck Driver Coated in Tar

ELLIJAY, Ga. (AP) — Truck driver Clarence Hardin, 34, of nearby Chattanooga, Tenn., was covered from head to foot with a thick layer of tar after his tractor-trailer, loaded with tar, ran off a highway about 12 miles west of here Monday. He was rushed to a hospital.

The quick-thinking ambulance crew then purchased five gallons of diesel fuel and sped it to the hospital where it was used as a solvent to remove the tar. Hardin also suffered a fractured hip.

School Girl Run Over, Killed in Bus Mishap

FRUITPORT — Nora Pfeffer, 14, of rural Fruitport, was killed yesterday when she was run over by a school bus from which she had alighted minutes before.

Witnesses said the girl dropped her books as she walked in front of the parked vehicle. The driver apparently did not see her as she stooped to pick them up, they said.

O'Hara Seeks Hike in Overtime Wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Utica, said yesterday he is working on a bill for the next Congress which would raise overtime work from time-and-a-half to double time pay.

O'Hara said the purpose of the bill was to encourage employers to hire unemployed persons rather than keep those already working on overtime.

"The wage hour law is obviously not doing the job," O'Hara said in a statement. He referred to a Labor Department report that overtime work had reached record heights while unemployment continued at high levels.

DOWNTOWN DINING — Modernized Victorian-style decor characterizes the new Antos Dining Room opening at 20 E. Pike St. The restaurant will specialize in steaks, chops, ribs and fried chicken.

NY Times Backs Rockefeller Again

NEW YORK — The New York Times today endorsed Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for re-election.

The Times, which lists itself as politically independent, criticized some aspects of Rockefeller's administration but said in an editorial supporting him for another term.

"Mr. Rockefeller has the experience, he has the record, he has the philosophy and he has the ability that warrant his election."

The Times also had endorsed Rockefeller in his first race for governor.

Shopper Lifts Lots of Lettuce Tossed in Bag

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — That $4.65 a customer found in his grocery bag was an unintentional bonus and should be returned, says food mart owner Maury Guy.

He reported to police Monday that he had put the amount in a paper bag for depositing in a bank when some customers came in. Guy said he put the bag by the check stand and waited on the shoppers.

When he had checked out their bags, he found his also missing.

Gunning for Prince Philip Over Pheasants, Partridges

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Poor Prince Philip is getting lambasted in London again for his huntism.

A few seasons ago he was beaten over the head by the British press for posing with his heel on a tiger's neck.

Then last June he delivered an eloquent speech at the Wild Life dinner here in N.Y. denouncing shooting of wild life "just for fun."

That satisfied the animal-lovers for a while but . . .

Now he's gone off partridge and pheasant hunting and the Express has pointed out that "last year he and his friend's bagged 4,000 partridges and 14,000 pheasants." Is he still against hunting wild life for fun they're asking. "Maybe," suggested the Express' John Gordon, "semi-tame birds bred for shooting don't come into the wild life category."

Fire Is Extinguished in Windsor Castle

WINDSOR, England (UPI) — A fire broke out yesterday in the basement of the Norman Tower at Windsor Castle. Firemen quickly brought it under control.

Queen Elizabeth was not at the royal residence. She is in Scotland.

U.S. Planes Downed by Viet Cong Rebels

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas shot down a U.S. spotter plane and a U.S. Air Force fighter in South Viet Nam's central highlands Monday and today.

Three Americans aboard the spotter plane were killed.

The pilot of the F-4 fighter rode his plane down and was thrown out when it hit and exploded. He was injured only slightly.

The identities of the Americans were not announced.

An earlier report said the fighter plane belonged to the Vietnamese air force, but later it was learned it was American and that the U.S. Air Force has one squadron of single-engine F-4s in Viet Nam.

Set Up Plan for Resources

Swainson Announces $1.12-Million Program

LANSING — Establishment of a $1.12-million resources development planning program for Michigan was announced yesterday by Gov. Swainson.

The program will develop a master plan for the state in the fields of population studies, including the labor force; economic development; land use; transportation, and recreation, the governor said.

A federal grant of $752,800 will be matched with a $376,816 contribution from the state in the form of funds already allocated to state agencies for planning, Swainson added.

The state's contribution, Swainson explained, will not require any legislative appropriation because it will consist of salaries, time and equipment already authorized for a number of state agencies.

Swainson made the announcement at a news conference attended by William L. Slayton, commissioner of the U.S. Urban Renewal Administration.

Slayton said Michigan was one of about 30 states which have received grants for planning and development.

Swainson said the program will be coordinated through an interdepartmental committee which will set up a comprehensive analysis of departmental responsibilities, objectives and policies.

Heads of 10 major state agencies will serve on the committee, he said.

New Pontiac Restaurant Shows Victorian Flair

A medium-priced restaurant, The Antos Dining Room, will open Wednesday in downtown Pontiac among the splendor of modified Victorian decor and piped-in FM music.

The dining room at 20 E. Pike St. will specialize in steaks, chops, ribs and fried chicken. Free parking will be provided nearby. The restaurant itself is to accommodate a maximum of 160 people.

Weekday hours will be 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., and 8 a.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday. Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The restaurant is being opened downtown to answer a frequently voiced need for it, say the owners. They add that their investment indicated "there is reason to have confidence in the downtown area."

Partners in the new enterprise are George Antos, veteran of 40 years in the Pontiac restaurant business, and his son, Steve Antos, who has acted as manager and host at other area establishments.

The senior Antos reside at 289 Bay St., and the younger couple at 2473 Empire St., Bloomfield Hills.

To the white, red and gold trim of the restaurant, Steve adds a sparkle of glamour with his background in the Four Joes singing quartet which rated as manager and host at other area establishments.

Steve left the quartet two years ago and worked as host and entertainer at the "300" Lounge, Waterford Township, and later as manager of the Huron Lounge, also in Waterford.

"We'll roll out our red carpet (which covers the entire floor area) also for small banquets, parties, weddings and graduations," Steve said. A separate party room can be created by closing a folding door between the main entrance and the side portion of the restaurant.

The kitchen will be equipped with the most modern equipment, Antos said. And businessmen will find telephone jacks convenient for important calls.

Didn't Rayburn Tell How to Adjourn?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON 679 — All sorts of explanations have been offered as to why Congress had so much trouble adjourning this year.

One widely circulated theory is that former Speaker Sam Rayburn who died last fall, forgot to tell the leaders who are now running the House how to adjourn it.

Not being able to turn it off, so to speak, there was nothing they could do but keep going until it ran out of gas.

I recall that something similar happened when my wife was learning how to drive an automobile.

In my opinion, however, the adjournment problem is more complex than that. It has its roots in the Constitution itself and in the prevailing belief among the founding fathers that the federal government would have three branches.

4 NOT 3

As this year's congressional session clearly demonstrated, there are actually four branches, which can be identified, reading from left to right, as the executive, the judiciary, the Senate and the House.

It has become almost totally unrealistic to regard Congress as a single legislative branch, as the founding fathers envisioned.

During the first part of a session, the two chambers get along well together, mainly because they can ignore each other.

The House passes its bills and the Senate passes its bills, and if both want to investigate Billie Sol Estes, what's the harm in a little duplication?

It is when the time comes for the meeting of the twin that difficulties begin to arise. The hitch is in getting the Senate to pass the House bills and the House to pass the Senate bills.

That, it seems to me, is the chief weakness of the legislative system. Oftand, I can't see any good reason why they should have to come to terms.

Why not let each legislative branch enact its own legislation and be done with it?

The Senate could pass bills to please the liberals and the House bills to please the conservatives, or viceversa. That would make everybody happy and put an end to time-consuming compromises.

ject would cause confusion, but that could be easily resolved. The President could veto one and the Supreme Court could declare the other one unconstitutional.

City Crime Up From '61 Rate

Robberies, Burglaries Rise, Police Reveal

Robberies and burglaries in Pontiac during the first nine months of 1962 showed an increase over the same period a year ago, the Pontiac Police Department reported today.

Through September there were 127 robberies and 627 burglaries compared with 82 robberies and 540 breakins in the first nine months of 1961.

Criminal homicide was down five from the eight deaths through September of last year. Rape also showed a decrease, from seven to six.

Aggravated assaults were identical during the two periods, 197. Larcenies, both over and under $50, showed decreases as well as auto theft.

There was one more major crime during the first nine months than there was during the same period last year, 2,520 to 2,519.

U.S. N-Test Over Pacific Again Fails

Missile Malfunction Gets Blame in Fourth Misfire in Five Tries

From Our News Wires
The United States failed last night for the fourth time in five tries to detonate a nuclear device at high-altitude above Johnston Island — and again a missile was to blame.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the failure was due to a malfunction in the Thor booster during the submergence device in its firing altitude of 30 to 40 miles.

The range safety officer deliberately destroyed the missile eight minutes after it was launched.

Debris from the rocket and no clear without fell harmlessly into the ocean within a predesignated safety zone away from Johnston and adjacent Sand Island, the AEC said.

NO DANGER

An announcement said there was no nuclear detonation and no danger to persons on the islands.

An AEC spokesman said the tests would be rescheduled. He said other missiles would be used to launch two other devices in other tests.

The Soviet Union, aware of President Kennedy's challenge to a race to the moon, today began a six-week period of test firing new space rockets into the Pacific Ocean.

The rockets were to be fired from Soviet soil to two target areas about 7,000 miles away in the Pacific. One of the designated targets was in the Johnston Island vicinity.

The official Soviet news agency Tass announced the shots yesterday as including "new variations of multistage carrier rockets for cosmic objectives."

Day of Decision Here in 1962 World Series

From Our News Wires
SAN FRANCISCO—Rival managers Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants and Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees each insists his team will win the World Series, and today one of them has to be wrong.

They called on their ace right-handers, Jack Sanford and Ralph Terry, to fight it out in the deciding game of this long series which began 13 days ago.

Ideal weather and a capacity crowd were predicted for the 2 p.m. (Pontiac time) encounter.

After the Giants, who have been coming off the floor all season despite being counted out, won yesterday's game, 5-2, to tie the series at three games all, Dark said:

Ben Bella Leaves U.S. for Talks With Castro

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES
NEW YORK — Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella flew to Havana today for talks with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro amid indications he would play down the political significance of his controversial trip.

Ben Bella and a group of aides left New York's Idlewild Airport shortly after 7 a.m. (Pontiac time) aboard a private plane. The nonstop flight was expected to take 4½ hours.

Ben Bella left shortly after the disclosure in well-informed diplomatic circles that he would not play the role of mediator in the U.S. Cuban conflict.

Ben Bella, while anxious to thank Castro for having supported the Algerian revolt against the French, is equally anxious not to let his trip appear as an anti-American gesture, diplomatic sources said.

Ben Bella took off without fanfare. He will return to New York tomorrow evening about the same plane. His departure for Algeria has been set for Friday.

The 45-year-old Algerian leader reviewed world problems, including Cuba with President Kennedy in Washington yesterday.

Rally at Oakland Ave., Saginaw Set Tonight; Goal Is $706,125

Arband will play, a choir will sing and a 7-year-old girl will touch an electric button to set a giant torch ablaze.

It will be the kick-off of the 1962 Pontiac Area United Fund Drive.

The time is 8 p.m. tonight. The place is the corner of Oakland Avenue and Saginaw Street.

To the community, the occasion will bring the hope of raising $706,125 to stimulate its people's health, their recreation and their unity.

Doing the torch-lighting honors will be Diane Lynn Bails, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Bails of 6648 Hatcher Road, Waterford Township.

She'll be accompanied by selections by the band of the Pontiac Salvation Army and by songs from the choir of the Pontiac Camp Fire Girls.

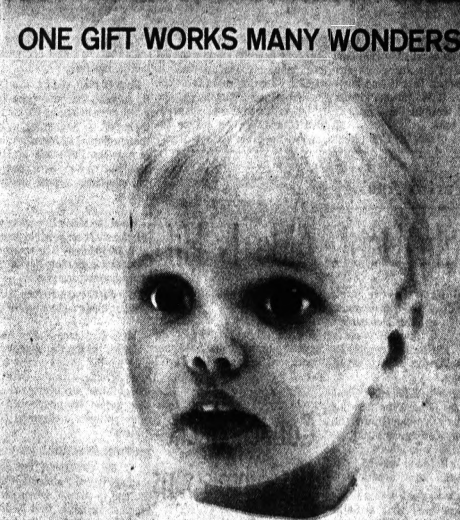

Also taking part in the ceremony will be representative troops from the North Oakland Girl Scout Council, the Boy Scouts, and representatives from the Pontiac Boys' Club, the YMCA and YWCA.

Fred V. Haggard, UF general chairman and president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, will be the speaker.

Bonn, U.S. Disagree on Impending Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer does not fully share the U.S. view that Russia will create a new Berlin crisis before the end of the year, Gerhard Schroeder, Bonn's foreign minister, has told Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In reporting this, diplomatic observers said Bonn is somewhat baffled by the virtually unanimous prediction of Kennedy administration officials that Soviet Premier Khrushchev means it this time when he says that Western occupation of West Berlin must be liquidated after the U.S. congressional elections next month.

Red Meeting Covers Berlin

Schroeder's spokesman, Hans Hille, told newsmen after the German foreign minister met with Rusk for more than two hours Monday that Bonn believes the Russians "did not determine yet what course to take," that they are still "groping around," and they are the speaker.

WASHINGTON (AP)—

President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet at the White House Thursday.

That Khrushchev's threats are part of the psychological warfare being fought over the Berlin issue.

There was no indication that Schroeder's report changed Washington thinking in this respect.

On the day of his conference with Rusk a high-ranking administration official restated the view so often repeated in the course of the last weeks that the West likely will face a first-class crisis between now and Christmas.

One authoritative U.S. source said last night that if the Berlin crisis is intensified after the November elections, there is the possibility of a U.S. military buildup.

Last summer, when Berlin tensions reached a high pitch, the United States mustered about 150,000 reservists.

President Kennedy has a go-ahead from Congress to take similar steps again if he deems necessary.

Khrushchev has been demanding for four years that the Western Allies accept a new status for West Berlin and abandon their occupation role. In recent months he has stepped up his threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and turn over full control of Western access routes to Berlin to the East Germans.

'63 Pontiac Sets Sales Record

Other Auto Makers Reach High

Pontiac Motor Division today announced an all-time sales record for a model announcement period with the sale of 25,099 Pontiacs and Tempests during Oct. 1-10.

E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and Pontiac general manager, said sales of the new 1963 models were 22.5 per cent ahead of the announcement period a year ago.

Sales for the first 10 days of October were the second best for any 10-day period in the division's history, Estes said. Only better period was April 20-30, 1962, when 26,369 units were sold.

The announcement came as other GM divisions and competing automobile firms also were disclosing record sales figures of 1963 models.

Chevrolet, heading for an all-time record year of two million in car sales, reported a total of 68,000 passenger cars delivered by dealers from Oct. 1-10, a 43 per cent increase over a year ago.

Chrysler Corp said it had sales of 31,438 — including 12,773 Plymouths and 12,329 Dodges — for any similar period since 1950, surpassing even the record years of 1955 and 1957.

American Motors Corp. announced sales totaling 12,043 Ramblers, compared with 10,669 sold in the same period last year, the previous record.

Estes said retail deliveries of new Pontiacs and Tempests on Oct. 4 set an announcement day record. Dealers delivered 7,855 cars that day, a 55.5 per cent gain over last year.

What's the Secret of the Little Tin Box?

By DICK HANSON
A mysterious tin packet has county officials scratching their heads in mild perplexity. To be more exact, they are wondering what is sealed inside.

The wafer-thin container, measuring 8x10 inches, was found inside the old courthouse cornerstone last week.

THE WORD IS . . . SERVICE!

As a newspaper we want to serve you with our editorial page. We are pledged always to remain a voice raised in the interest of the public at large, speaking for justice.

"Maybe there's a deed for the property with a reverter clause in it," County Auditor John Austin said of the mysterious tin envelope.

His remark was made lightly. The county already has been assured of its legal title to the old courthouse site at Saginaw and Horton streets, according to County Corporation Counsel Norman J. Barnard.

BELONGS TO COUNTY

Barnard said the property belongs to the county free and clear, although the original deed did stipulate that the property, if no longer used for county purposes, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Court Ruling Expected This Week on Barnett

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court may rule later this week on the Justice Department's request that it fine Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett $100,000 for his actions in the James H. Meredith case.

Attaches of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said it was unlikely any decision would come before Wednesday. Two panels of the court are hearing cases this week in Atlanta and Montgomery, Ala. They will receive copies of briefs filed Monday by the Justice Department and the state of Mississippi.

As Castro Apologist

State Dept. Aide is Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Internal Security subcommittee report says a State Department official "became an active apologist for Fidel Castro" despite adverse intelligence reports available to him.

The official, William Wieland, told friends as early as 1958 that Castro was a Communist, was surrounded by Communists and was subject to their influence, the report said. It added that he failed to report this to his superiors.

Wieland was a Foreign Service officer who was a Latin American and Caribbean specialist during Castro's rise to power in Cuba. He now is in the State Department's Bureau of Administration.

President Kennedy defended Wieland and another State Department employee at a Jan. 24 news conference, after a reporter referred to them as "well known security risks."

Kennedy said he knew their records and felt they could do their jobs "without detriment to the interest of the United States and I hope without detriment to their character by your question."

The subcommittee report, issued yesterday, noted that Deputy Undersecretary of State Roger Jones told newsmen afterward that Wieland had been cleared of security allegations involving integrity and suitability.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said in a supplementary statement that "the plain truth is that the U.S. Department of State was the principal collaborator in creating the vacuum into which Fidel Castro stepped."

The state department had no immediate comment on the Senate report, and Wieland was not available.

When the officials were convicted, the court set possible penalties at a $10,000 daily fine and imprisonment for Barnett and a $5,000 daily fine for Johnson.

The Justice Department's latest request made no mention of Johnson.

Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told the court both the governor and lieutenant governor should be imprisoned until they promise to obey the court's orders.

At the university, the student cabinet issued a statement urging an end to student demonstrations against Meredith. First Negro admitted knowingly to the university in its 114-year history.

Fifteen days after the arrival of Meredith on campus provoked riots that killed two and injured scores, the powerful student group said: "We abhor the violence that has taken place."

Last Friday, university officials ordered an end to student demonstrations.

CALLED 'UNQUALIFIED'

The statement adopted by the cabinet of nine students condemned also "the forced admission of an unqualified student."

But it said any exercising constitutional right to petition for redress of grievances, in such way that the intelligence and dignity of the overwhelming number of Ole Miss students not be belittled.

The statement did not explain why the cabinet consists of nine students in an unqualified student.

Eisenhower appeared visibly angry when he told some 5,000 Republican party faithful of recent criticism of his foreign policy.

"Personally I have been careful in all my speeches to keep current foreign policy out of partisan debate. But when a charge is made for purely political purposes—a charge that indeed should be stated in reverse—I must seriously question the

The champion republican vote-getter of all time, he pocketed the money. One party official estimated the gross receipts at nearly $500,000.

Shortly before Eisenhower's speech, police revealed that $70,000 in cash and checks collected for the dinner had been stolen from Republican state headquarters over the weekend. All but $10,000 in cash was later recovered.

Five others died in the ordeal that developed on the voyage from Tonga to Ala Island.

The captain and one other man made their way Monday to Nacomen, Kadavu Island, by raft from Minerva Reef, 400 miles south of Suva, and set off relief operations for those they had left behind on that reef.

PARTY LOCATED

A New Zealand air force flying boat, headed for the reef in the early morning darkness and, by the light of flares, located the main party of 10 on the bulk of an abandoned Japanese fishing vessel wrecked there more than a year ago.

Landing in the water near the wreck, the craft took off the 10 men and flew them to Suva for hospitalization. Three of them were stretcher cases. The others were described as in good condition.

In fragmentary accounts of their ordeal, the survivors said they lived on fish and shellfish caught on the reef which destroyed their yacht.

They landed with only one match, so they lit a fire and kept it burning for almost three months by keeping a 24-hour-a-day watch over it.

There was every likelihood, too, that the United States would observe the results of the Russian rocket firings.

Billboards greeting Ben Bella in Spanish and Arabic were erected along the four-lane highway. They carried large likenesses of Ben Bella and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, plus the flags of the two nations.

There was no official indication of the purpose of Ben Bella's visit beyond the fact that the Algerian nationalists have been close to the Cubans since the Castro government recognized their provisional regime in 1960.

During his visit to the United Nations earlier this month, Ben Bella had a 40-minute meeting with Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, the first statesman he called on after his arrival in New York.

President Kennedy toasted Ben Bella at a White House luncheon Monday as a man "who has borne heavy burdens and bears them now with distinction."

In reply, Ben Bella paid tribute to "political courage which has more meaning than physical courage, because it is easier sometimes to display physical courage than the political kind."

This was a reference to Kennedy's support, while a U.S. senator, of Algerian independence.

The defense Department said the latest report fix put the Soviet ships 440 miles roughly south of Johnston Island, and 360 miles west and a bit north of the rocket target area announced by Moscow.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Engineers and technicians, frustrated for 24 hours by a faulty spacecraft component, made final preparations today to launch the Ranger 5 spacecraft Wednesday toward the moon.

The launching was called off late Monday when checkout could not be completed in time.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said there wasn't enough time to make the calibration check and replace Ranger 5 atop its Atlas-Agena H booster rocket.

NEW PROBLEM

The problem, involving reduction of signal strength in a radio telemetry circuit, cropped up Sunday.

Ranger 5 is intended to streak across a quarter million miles of space, take closeup television pictures of the moon and then land an instrument capsule to record moonquakes and meteor hits.

NASA has a favorable period ending Friday in which to launch the rocket to put Ranger 5 on the desired course. If the launching is not accomplished in that time, the shot will be put off until the next optimum period, starting about Nov. 13.

ADD LAUNCHING

The space agency added five launches to the Ranger program, raising the total planned firings to 14. Estimated cost of each shot is $16 million.

Rangers 6 through 9, scheduled for launch next year, will take television pictures only. The five additional Rangers have not yet received assignments.

Ranger 3 missed the moon by 22,882 miles and Ranger 4 crashed on the lunar backside without producing pictures or data. Both were launched earlier this year.

BIRMINGHAM — How wide will Maple Road be when the Oakland County Road Commission completes repaving it?

A public hearing will be conducted Nov. 11 to answer this question. The City Commission decided at its regular meeting last night.

The commission has been waiting for the answer to the query since it submitted written recommendations to the Oakland County Road Commission last June.

The recommendation requested that Maple Road be 40 feet wide in the stretch from Adams Road to Columbia Street, 42 feet wide between Columbia Street and Grand Trunk Street, and 44 feet wide between Grand Trunk Street and Coolidge Highway.

The county did not agree with the widths proposed last June, according to city engineer William Coleman, but did not give the city commission a definite answer.

Council Elects 10 Commissions

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The more than 2,500 "fathers" of the Ecumenical Council cast ballots today for members of 10 vital commissions that will determine whether the strongly-Italian Vatican administration will dominate the great convocation.

Then they adjourned until Saturday.

The balloting signaled an end to the deadlock in voting procedure that had marked the opening session last Saturday when a liberal group of cardinals urged a postponement then so that the delegates could become more familiar with candidates.

The council cardinals, archbishops, bishops and abbots filed out of St. Peter's Basilica one hour and 20 minutes after they had convened.

One of the bishops told UPI, "the work was achieved."

"The council fathers voted for 10 commissions, filling out 10 separate ballots with 16 names on each," he said.

He said he understood the general congregations of the council will be postponed until Saturday to allow time for vote counting.

The next general congregation originally had been fixed for Thursday.

The Thursday session was canceled and the general congregation will not meet until 9 a.m. Saturday. It has been in working session for scarcely two hours since the council was inaugurated by Pope John on Oct. 11.

Schirras Visit With President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Walter M. Schirras Jr. talked over the earth with President Kennedy today. The Schirras family watched with beaming smiles.

The conference in the President's White House office had a homey touch, with family small talk as well as discussions of Schirras's space achievements.

The four Schirras sat on a white sofa, the President in his rocking chair.

Schirras's son, Walter III, who is 12, left with the President's tieclip as a gift, and his sister had a new checkered bracelet.

Suzanne S., looked shyly at the President and said, "I know you are."

At one point Kennedy asked Suzanne if she had seen the pontoon boat at the White House for the Kennedy children. She shook her head no, and the President took her and the family out to see the pontoon.

Later, talking to newsmen, Schirras said he expected to return to Houston, Tex., tonight and fly to Cape Canaveral, Fla., Wednesday. He will complete a written report on his nine-hour space flight and turn his attention to design problems of the new two-man spacecraft, Gemini.

Asked if he needed a vacation, Schirras said, "I

Offers Advice on Civil War Results

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON: A never-ceasing subject of fascination is speculation about what might have happened if the South had won the war, and thereby permanently divided the union.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, beset by the annual school integration melee in Dixie, might well view that one-life possibility with something akin to nostalgia.

So might also the Republicans, whose single Senate seat and seven House seats make only a minuscule dent in the congressional representation from the eleven Confederate states, which together boast 22 senators and 106 representatives.

President Kennedy, out-manuevered on numerous pet legislative projects by a coalition of Dixie congressmen and Republicans, could also be excused for dreaming about what-might-have-been, if the country over which he presides consisted only of the 39 states above the Mason-Dixon line.

OTHER PROBLEMS

It is reasonable to assume that long before now, Southerners would have abolished slavery, but it is equally unlikely that Negroes would yet have acquired the vote, or any other form of integration in the confederacy.

Greater opportunities for equality would undoubtedly have lured most of the sixteen million Negroes to the United States of the North, thus creating a desperate labor shortage on Dixie plantations.

The confederacy, with its largely agrarian economy, would have formed strong trading ties with Britain, and a brisk rivalry would doubtless have developed between mother England and the U.S. over selling finished goods to the South, and acquiring its cotton and tobacco.

The South, having won the civil war, would presumably have freed itself of much of the resentment against the Yankees, which continues to rankle there after four or five generations.

And rankle it does! The current strife over the enrollment of a Negro student in the University of Mississippi is but the latest and most violent outcropping of a deep resentment which the average citizen of that Deep South state harbors against any interference from the North.

More than a decade ago this correspondent, preparing to go to Jackson, Miss., to cover a senatorial investigation of the notorious Senator Theodore (The Man) Bilbo, made the mistake of mentioning that fact in telephoning a Jackson hotel for reservations.

DIFFERENT STORY

There was no room at the inn. Omitting that information in a subsequent call, we were immediately given space.

On the train South, a lady from

Jackson was charmingly hospitable on learning that we were enroute to her hometown, until she discovered the reason.

Then she angrily snapped: "Why don't you Yankees let us alone, and mind your own business? We don't want your interference."

Few of the more educated citizens of Mississippi would have defended the thieving, conniving Bilbo to each other, but they formed a solid barrier against our Washington group throughout the duration of the hearings.

No one wants to fight the civil war over again, and certainly it is too late to undo the original damage, or to rescind Sherman's devastating march to the sea.

Surely in an age which is preparing to explore the moon, however, some way could be found for Northerners and Southerners of all races to live more amicably together.

AF Recording Variations in Gravity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force reports it has completed a nationwide network of 71 stations for the precise measurement of gravity.

The stations for the most part are at Air Force bases and commercial airports.

The Office of Aerospace Research said yesterday that the precise value for the force of gravity, as established at each station, would simplify gravity surveys for other military and civilian groups in the surrounding area.

Since the operation of highly sensitive accelerometers in missile guidance systems is affected by relatively minute variations in the force of gravity, more precise knowledge of gravity forces will contribute to missile accuracy, the Air Force said.

The locations in the network include Selfridge Air Force Base in Michigan.

New Remington Roll-A-Matic 25

Power. Whisker-cutting power. More than was ever before packed into a shaver head. That's the secret of the radically new shaver motor in the Roll-A-Matic 25.

High-speed Roll-A-Matic cutters get right to the root of your beard (don't skim the surface like ordinary shavers), clean whiskers off fast. Trim straight sideburns, mustaches, long hairs as no rotary blade ever can. No pinch. No burn. No drag. No whiskers.

Comfort. How can the Roll-A-Matic 25 shaver

get in so close and still be comfortable? Roller Combs! 4 of them. An exclusive Remington feature. Roller Combs let you stop shaving, start rolling your whiskers off. Roll skin down, roll whiskers up to leave your face smooth as your palm. (Roller Combs give your skin a pleasant massage in the bargain.)

Stop shaving. Start rolling your whiskers off with Remington Roller Combs. The new 1962 Roll-A-Matic 25 is at your Remington dealer's. Get one, and more power to you. More comfort, too.

Wig Woes Hair-rass Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain's ministry of health reports that the worldwide craze for glamour wigs among women had caused a shortage of human hair.

Several big companies which furnish wigs to Britain's national health service are canceling their contracts because their costs have gone up.

If an approved consultant advises that a wig is necessary—for medical or emotional reasons—the national health service produces the wig.

The customer pays about $17 for a wig. The taxpayer—via the government—pays for the difference.

Last year the health service furnished about 10,000 wigs.

Most of the people who receive them are victims of accidents, such as young women factory workers whose hair gets caught in machinery.

Said Jean Emile, a specialist who sells wigs outside the national health service:

"In five years I've seen the price of hair double. It now costs me anything between three pounds ($8.40) and five pounds ($14) an ounce."

"Shortage of hair is making our women clients wait as long as four months for a wig."

Take One Wedding at a Time —Abbie's Advice to Mother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, 22, is planning a large church wedding. She wants her sister (26) to be her maid of honor.

The older daughter has been going with a divorced man for the past year and a half. He has never mentioned anything to us about his intentions of marrying her, and as far as we know he hasn't mentioned them to her, either. He appears to be making a fool of her.

Our daughter says unless we include her friend in the wedding party and let him sit at the bridal table with her, she will not be in the wedding party. My husband says we should include him and avoid the fuss. I am . . .

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Whether the man intends to marry your daughter is beside the point. She has made it plain that he is her choice and if he agrees to escort her to the wedding, perhaps they have an "understanding." Include him or risk alienating your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17, my little sister is 12, and my mother is going to have a baby around Christmas.

Mother is 41 and she has never had a baby shower given for her. I would like to surprise her with a baby shower but am not sure whether it would be proper because of her age.

Mother has lots of friends, and one real close one who could help me with the plans. I have my own money saved up for refreshments. Do you think it would be all right if I went through with my plans?

A DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: The thought is very sweet. Honey, but it is not proper for a close relative to give a shower. Why don't you discuss it with your mother's closest lady friend? You could be the "inspiration" and let her be the sponsor.

DEAR ABBY: I can tell you why ONE woman went through her neighbors' trash. Years ago, when two of my mother's plump hens were missing, she went through the neighbors' trash until she found the feathers from one Rhode Island Red and one black and white Dominique—exactly what she'd lost.

Mother went to the door and knocked. She could smell her chickens cooking, but nobody answered! She never did confront the two-legged skunk who stole them, but she knew who the thief was.

Whitlow-Crivea Vows Exchanged

Wedding vows of Patricia May Cravas and Robert E. Whitlow Jr. were exchanged before Rev. Lee LaSalle Saturday evening in the Donegan Baptist Church.

The newlyweds and their parents, the Levi Criveas of Myrtle Drive and the senior Whitlows of LaSalle Street, greeted some 300 guests in the church parlors.

A cascade of white roses and carnations with trailing ivy complemented the bride's gown of white Rochelle lace over satin, styled with chapel train. Her veil of French illusion fell from a pearl tiara.

Wearing royal blue satin were Mrs. Orton Armstrong, Ann Arbor, her sister's matron of honor; Mrs. Levi J. Crivea, Clarkston, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Leon Polley and the bridegroom's sister Sharon. They carried clipped white carnations.

MRS. ROBERT E. WHITLOW JR.

Dawne Crivea and Bryan Armstrong attended their aunt as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

On the esquire side were Floyd Powers, best man, and ushers Jeffrey Lorenz, Michael Dick and Leon Polley.

The couple will make their home on Winding Drive.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Very few people may have noticed that Sunday at Tiger Stadium, George Wilson made a call with 2:38 left to play that was very similar to the tragic call in Green Bay.

With third and eight yards to go on their own 38, Milt Luns threw down the middle 12 yards and made it a first down on the 50. The Lions had only a 13-10 lead at this point and again an interception may have been tragic.

But, after the game, Wilson was quick to comment. "Well, today we completed a pass to keep control of the ball and it worked. Where are the second guessers?"

As it happened the Lions controlled the ball for two more first downs until the final gun.

Would you have run, missed the first down, punted and given the ball to the Rams with at least two minutes to play?

Anyway, we would like to go back to the Green Bay game at this time and note that this writer received numerous letters in regard our "Open Letter to George Wilson."

It would be impossible to print them in their entirety or as many as were received but here are a few:

"It was a pleasure to see your open letter to George Wilson. You expressed my feelings very well and I am sure those of many others. I appreciated seeing someone write something like about a man and a team in such a situation rather than the needling which might have been easier to write."

Francis Loud
Birmingham

"First of all I would like to say that everything you had written has been fair to both sides and your open letter to George Wilson was great and well deserved. The game between the Packers and Lions was a good one considering the playing conditions. Detroit had the game, gambled and lost. I have always been a Packers fan and I consider the Lions a great team, but the Packers we have to admit are the stronger team."

Steve Rysen
Pontiac

"I say Amen to your letter to George Wilson. I have followed the Lions since they came to Detroit and I live and die with each game. I was disappointed in those closing moments at Green Bay, and I am glad at second guessing too. But any one who derides a coach or team of a "tactical error" is not a real fan. I may have a cold Thanksgiving dinner, but "so be it."

J. Frank Coed
Pontiac

"Congratulations on the nicest piece of writing you have ever done. The Open Letter to Wilson represents all of us who feel the same about the Lions."

Dave
Clarkston

"Your letter to George Wilson after the heartbreaking loss was the most timely and finest bits of journalism I have ever read. I didn't agree with the call, but it's easier to criticize and your letter certainly is most representative of all of the Lions fans."

Buddie
Pontiac

"I was probably one of the first to look for a rope for George Wilson after that Green Bay call. Then I read your Open Letter and your stories about how the coach and team felt and I hang my head in shame. Now I tell myself what a lousy Lion fan I turned out to be. I'm ready to do penance and I hope I freeze in Tiger Stadium Thanksgiving Day."

Ferndale Jumps Six Places in Poll

Ferndale made the longest jump in this week's Associated Press Class A prep football ratings.

The unbeaten Eagles whipped Birmingham Seaholm 27-7 in their Eastern Michigan League show down last Friday to move from ninth to third. It was the fifth win for Ferndale and the first loss for the Maples after four victories.

The setback sent Seaholm crashing all the way from fourth to 16th place.

Pierce Led Giants Keep Acting Like Bad Checks

'Tough Luck' Against Yanks Ends for Billy

Picks Playoff Win Over Los Angeles as Top Thrill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Throughout a long and distinguished major league career, Billy Pierce has been known as "the fellow who loses 2-1 to the Yankees."

The stylish left-hander, now a baseball ancient at 35, pitched many great games against the New Yorkers, and more often than not had a great game pitched against him.

Today, Pierce is the fellow who evened the World Series at three games each, with a three-hitter for a 5-2 victory for the San Francisco Giants.

It was his first World Series win—he lost the third game to the Yankees in New York, 3-2, his accustomed margin.

"It was a high thrill," said Pierce, in his great-pitched, happy voice. "But I think my game in the playoffs against the Dodgers was an even bigger thrill."

"After all, this game didn't decide anything." Reminded that if the Giants had lost, Monday's game would have ended the World Series in favor of the Yankees, Pierce smiled:

"Goah, I never thought of that." Pierce sat on a little wooden stool in the happy—but not hysterical—Giants dressing room, looking even smaller than his listed 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds, and bantered with reporters.

"No, I don't think I surprised the Yankees," he grinned. "They've seen me for more than 10 years, and being in the other league for only one year doesn't make any difference."

WITH TIGERS Pierce, born in Detroit, came to the majors with the Tigers, and then labored 13 years with the Chicago White Sox. He compiled a 24-37 career mark against the Yankees in that span.

Out of favor in Chicago, Pierce was traded to the Giants last winter.

The deal could well have brought the pennant to the Golden Gate, as the left-hander found new life in the National League, won his first eight games, and finished with a 16-6 mark although he missed five weeks with a spike wound.

ON WAY TO VICTORY — Billy Pierce of the Giants is shown in action as he worked his way toward a three-hit 5-2 victory over the Yankees yesterday in the sixth game of the World Series.

Pierce has yet to be defeated in San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

Shorter Back With Browns Cassidy Out

Winner of all the college trophies, Cassidy was the envy of all prep gridirers in the early '30s including Shorter.

Yesterday Cassidy received the bitter news that he was released by the Cleveland Browns while Shorter, who had been on the injured reserve list, was placed on the Browns' roster.

Cassidy, 28, is in his seventh year of pro ball, starting with the Detroit Lions in 1955. He went to Cleveland in the trade with Jim Ninowski and Bill Ganssinger.

Shorter, former U. of D. back, was praised during pre-season games for his defensive play. He suffered a leg injury just before the season opener and the Browns placed him on the injured reserve list.

Cassidy makes his home in Birmingham.
