countries of Colombia and Venezuela. The Kennedys are seated in a car which will take them to Palm Beach where they will see their children.

Kennedy plans to leave Palm Beach at 9 a.m. Tuesday for Washington, the Salinger reported. He said the cold would alter the President's plan to meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Bermuda on Thursday. Kennedy originally had intended to come to Palm Beach from Bermuda on Friday for a Christmas vacation and still expects to do so, Salinger said.

Start Out With New Table

Why Not a House Gift?

By JANET ODELL.
Giving the house a present is one way of getting something special that you have wanted for a long time.

JANET

A tile set in the center. On the tile is the eagle so often associated with this period in furniture.

An inexpensive gift but a needed item in many homes is a new kind of ashtray called as "smokeless." Made of plastic in a number of colors, this ashtray has a removable top over a deep bowl that catches the ashes.

Do you remember your mother's using a table crumbler between courses at dinner? We hadn't seen one for years until last week. The set consists of a small metal tray with a miniature dustpan that would be pieced for homes furnished in Early American style. This square table has paper napkin holder in the center.

A more expensive gift—this one also hooden—is a walnut coffee pot. It has high with gray Christmastree balls when you present it.

If you entertain a lot, get the house a 12-to-30 cup automatic percolator. You won't run out of coffee when the gang assembles at your house.

Need a small seat for the front hall? You might consider a brass bench with a quilted plastic cushion on it.

Should you be looking for a small remembrance gift that the recipient can use during the holidays, you have several choices.

You can get sets of place mats, napkins and coasters in designs suitable for Christmas or New Years. Or you might prefer a box of tiny paper fingertip towels with two bars of soap—one red, the other green.

India Seizes 2 Enclaves; Goa Suffers Blows

Nehru, Spurning U.N., Sends Troops, Tanks Against Portuguese

BOMBAY, India (AP)—India today claimed capture of two Portuguese enclaves—Damao and Diu—and gains on all sectors in a lightning campaign against Goa, the third and largest of Portugal's possessions on the subcontinent.

Spurning a U.N. appeal for negotiations, Prime Minister Nehru sent troops, tanks, warships and bombers of this second most populous of the world's nations against the tiny territories under Portugal's flag since the 16th century.

The Indian government announced in New Delhi that Damao and Diu, north of Bombay, were "liberated" in this first day of what Nehru termed a police action.

STOP WARSHIP

A spokesman for Nehru's regime, leader of the Asian-African Indian navy put a Portuguese warship out of action in a sea battle off Goa, 200 miles south of Bombay.

Portugal, a charter member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, said it had only one warship in the area, the 30-year-old ship Alfonso de Albuquerque.

The Portuguese, who had agreed to negotiations, said their forces were outnumbered more than 2:1, but were putting up gallant resistance in Goa. Men from the Diu and Damao garrisons were reported to have been withdrawn to strengthen the defenses of Goa, a territory of 1,337 square miles and a population of 600,000.

Kennedy had "a desire to stay under the sun," Salinger said. Washington endures wintry weather.

Reports Sharp Quake

HOLTVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A sharp disturbance, possibly an earthquake, was felt here shortly before Sunday midnight. A police man said it was so violent he "thought the jail was going to fall down." But no heavy damage was reported.

By Indian account, the three-pronged strike into Goa— with tanks helping to batter the way— was going according to schedule. Several towns were reported seized. Authoritative reports from Belgium, near the Goa frontier, said the invaders were within a few miles of Nova Goa, the capital.

John LeRoy (left) won $275 and a trophy. The best score in the Actual's division belonged to 20-year old Bob Richards who shot a 704 actual. He added $50 to his trophy and a $15 check in the handicap tourney. (See page 31).

Nehru Expected to Be Denounced for Army Move

Rusk Calls Conference With Ambassadors of India, Portugal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council was summoned for an urgent meeting this afternoon to deal with the Indian attack of Portuguese Goa. The meeting was set for 3 p.m. after a request had been received from the Portuguese delegation for quick action.

India was expected to come under sharp criticism for the military action which began Sunday.

In Washington Secretary of State Dean Rusk called India's Ambassador B. K. Nehru to the State Department for a discussion of the situation in Goa.

The secretary also was to see Portuguese Ambassador Pedro Theotónio Pereira later in the day. The ambassador asked for the appointment.

U.S. DISAPPROVES
Officials have made clear the United States strongly disapproves of the Indian move to force a settlement of its long-standing effort to gain sovereignty over the three Portuguese enclaves on the west coast of India.

The Portuguese appeal to the United Nations read:

"We appeal to the Security Council in order that it may, as it should, within the terms of the charter and on Portugal's request, denounce the Indian Union for an unprovoked military aggression of which the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu are being the victims. Portugal expects the Security Council to order the Indian Union to cease fire and withdraw its forces from those territories.

"The Portuguese government believes that it would be its duty, to the nation and to history, to exploit all possible sources to defend national territory and safeguard the supremacy of law and morality."

The invasion of Goa, Damao and Diu came after U.N. acting Secretary-General U. Thant failed to get Indian Prime Minister Nehru to negotiate with Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar over the enclaves.

The United Nations released Thant's messages to Nehru and Salazar about an hour before the invasion news came and their replies to him a few hours afterward.

300 Feared Killed as Blaze Destroys Brazilian Big Top

NITEROI, Brazil (AP)—Fire roared through a nylon circus tent Sunday as 2,000 persons watched a performance, and Gov. Celso Pechenba said the death toll may reach 300 and the injured 1,000.

Officials early today said 130 bodies had been recovered, many of children, but it has been impossible to compile a complete casualty list.

Many of the injured were so badly burned they were not expected to live.

Orders went out to carpenters to make 300 coffins.

It was Brazil's worst disaster and the worst circus fire in history, worse than the Ringling Bros. fire in Hartford, Conn., in 1944 in which 168 died.

ARSON SUSPECTED

The governor said arson was suspected. Niteroi is across Guanabara Bay from Rio de Janeiro.

The fire flashed up the tent as the circus performers began their aerial act. Within five minutes the flames had enveloped the mammoth tent and scared the ropes. The blazing mass fell on the spectators.

Some were trapped in their seats. Others could not get near the exits. Some were trampled to death.

Fear-crazed women and children rushed for the exits, fell atop each other and caught fire.

"I've seen some horrible things, but I never thought I would ever see anything so horrible," said a policeman.

Trucks transferred the bodies to the city morgue. When it was filled, they were taken to the city's soccer stadium. Hundreds of persons searching for missing relatives added to the confusion.

Treatment of the hundreds of injured was hampered by shortages of medicine, blood plasma, hospital beds, doctors and nurses.

Air force helicopters flew medicine and plasma from Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo. Radio appeals brought doctors and nurses from Rio.

U.S. Envoy Flies to Meet Tshombe

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Edmund A. Gullion flew today to meet Moise Tshombe and hoped to bring the Katanga president back for unity talks with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Gullion took off at daybreak in an U.S. Air Force Constellation for Ndola, just across the border in Northern Rhodesia.

The U.S. consul in Elisabethville, Louis Hoffacker, reportedly met Tshombe early today and urged him to go to Ndola to meet Gullion.

It was not known whether Tshombe had complied.

Reports of the fighting in Elisabethville varied.

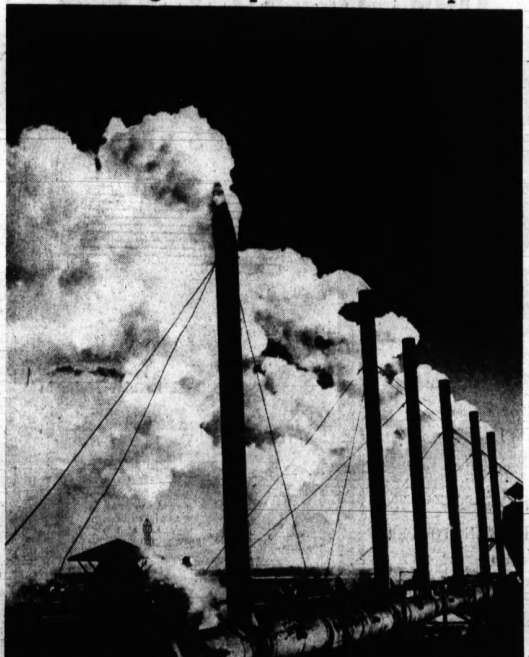

REPORT FURIOUS BATTLE
A press dispatch said a furious battle raged in the streets of Elisabethville when the first U.N. armored patrol pushed into the center of the city. The patrol drew withering fire and hand grenade bursts from shops and private houses.

The U.N. force was making a steady advance and it seemed the fall of the capital was near, the dispatch added.

Earlier reports from the United Nations indicated that the fighting was less intense than in the previous few days.

A U.N. announcement in Leopoldville indicated it had subsided considerably. It said an armed column moved slowly through central Elisabethville this morning, distributing pamphlets expressing U.N. good will toward the civilian population.

Getting Ready for New Day

GETTING UP STEAM—This is one of the many faces of Pontiac. Tall stacks puffing steam and smoke in the cool, frosty air of a winter morning at Baldwin Rubber Co. By the time many Pontiac residents get to work, industry has begun humming. Like trees that have shed their leaves, these pillars of industry stand stark against the sunrise: a stunning picture of a city waking to another day.

Refuses to Stay Trial of Riders

Supreme Court Act on NAACP Protest of Delays in Proceedings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court unanimously refused today to order a stay of proceedings against Freedom Riders arrested in Jackson, Miss. The court acted on a request by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People which protested asserted delays in trials and burdens inflicted on the arrested persons. The court's action was announced in an order which said that the persons asking that the Jackson proceedings be stayed were apparently not those being prosecuted in Mississippi courts. Today's action by the high tribunal came one week after it struck down "breach of the peace" convictions of 16 Negro sit-in demonstrators who tried to desegregate lunch counters in Baton Rouge, La. COULD ACT LATER "That decision last Monday did not decide broad constitutional questions raised in the case. It was based on the comparatively narrow ground that there was no evidence the defendants breached the peace."

Today's refusal to stay the Jackson proceedings does not necessarily mean the Supreme Court might not act on the cases later, after the state courts act.

The Supreme Court's order today commented that "a federal injunction to stay state criminal proceedings is an extraordinary remedy."

Self-Adhesive Plastic for Door Decorations

A front door decoration of self-adhesive plastic stands up dauntlessly to snow and rain and requires no nails to hold it in place. If the door is colored, a snowman, made of pure white plastic, will show up boldly.

Charming Origin

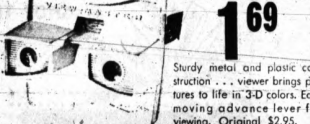

The legend of the Christmas ornament dates back to the Tenth Century when an Arabian geographer, Georg Jacob, brought to the people of Europe the tale that on the night of the Lord's nativity, all the trees burst forth with ripened fruits and blossoming flowers... This thousand year old legend has given us one of our most inspiring and lively Christmas symbols—the Christmas tree ornament.

Soundings From the Foreign News Cables

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

Notes from the foreign news cables.

SOUNDINGS

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson is reported to have canceled his plans for a Christmas vacation away from Moscow under instructions from Washington to resume his probe of Soviet government attitudes toward negotiations over Berlin.

Britain's ambassador received similar orders.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is scheduled to attend the Ukraine agricultural conference in Kiev and then to leave for several weeks in Byelorussia.

Also on tap is a probable meeting with Gomulka on the Soviet-Polish border. Despite opposition from French President Charles de Gaulle, foreign observers in Moscow believe that within the next few weeks the British and Americans may agree to an East-West meeting with the Soviets on the Berlin question.

ELECTRONIC WALL

Sources in Frankfurt look for the East German Communists soon to erect another "wall" against the West — this one composed of numerous jamming stations close to the East-West zonal border to prevent Western radio and television stations from reaching inhabitants of the Soviet zone. Communist troops in East Berlin in recent months destroyed TV antennas aimed at West Berlin but apparently without entirely successful results.

SHOTGUN WEDDING

Observers in Geneva believe that sooner or later the West must come around to Khrushchev's insistence upon a merger of nuclear armaments.

It could be sooner, now that East-West negotiations are expected early next year in the newly agreed upon 15-nation disarmament "forum."

Washington and London will not agree to another "paper" test ban that lacks effective international controls. Khrushchev, on the other hand, has made it clear he will agree to controls only within a general disarmament agreement, a complex and far-distant prospect.

The Geneva conference on Laos is expected to finish all that it can this week and then to mark time until neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma at the Communist and pro-Western princes 16 plans to stay "in being" through the holidays and then to reconvene about Jan. 8. If there still is no word from the Laotian princes at that time, a new hurry-up call for agreement will be issued.

One is the "protective umbrella" maintained over Laos by U.S.-dominated SEATO forces. The other is integration of the three warring factions' armies. Neither can be solved without a declaration by the Laotian coalition government.

Groups to Play Santa at Children's Center

Old St. Nick will pay a visit to the 180 youngsters at the Oakland County Children's Center on 2050 North Telegraph Road Tuesday for their annual Christmas party.

Donated toys for the younger children will be distributed, as well as personal articles given the teens who range in age up to 17 years old.

As in past years General Motors Truck and Coach Division, in addition to various service clubs, women's groups, Boy Scouts and area churches have contributed much to make Christmas brighter for the children.

This famous South American city has a new rival now in Sao Paulo which has grown so rapidly in recent years it has become a major center of population.

Offer to Hubby Gets Rival Conk With Wrench

NOTTINGHAM, England (U)—When Albert Grestier, 300 pounds ($50) for Mrs. Bartlett, Frank hauled off and hit him with a wrench.

Nottingham magistrates were told that 31-year-old Frank, father of three children, had been happily married for 19 years. Then his 31-year-old wife Veronica left him to live with Grestier.

The magistrates ruled that when Bartlett hit his rival, he was acting "under great and extreme provocation" and dismissed charges against him on condition that he behaves himself in future.

Best Long-Range Investment Is Contributing to Education

Never before in history has education received as much attention and thought as it does now. Even the Russians compelled us to focus new study on greater scientific pursuits.

The number of young men and women attending universities is increasing so rapidly it claims national study. The educational world is engaged in a desperate struggle to provide the facilities that are in demand today; and tomorrow promises to be an even greater problem.

Really, it's unthinkable to deny a college education to eager young people who are ready, but who find an unending succession of academic doors closing in their faces with the terse announcement: "We're filled."

It's incredible in this advanced day and age to think "this can happen here"—but it has—and it occurred in Michigan when higher education was denied sufficient funds by the Michigan legislature.

And then, we face a second and unfortunate situation when we encounter splendid young men and women who are just as anxious to continue but who lack the money. Here is a gross injustice that defies a ready solution.

This calamitous situation has been assuaged to some extent by an increasing generosity on the part of business and individuals who have impulsively provided millions and millions for young men and women they never saw. This has eased some of the worst of the complication, but the main problem still confronts society in a big way.

Currently Benjamin H. Anibal is giving MSUO more than $50,000 which will be used to furnish dormitories to house students at Oakland County's own institution. Mr. Anibal has done this now and will enjoy the fruits of his beneficence while he still can see. He is a splendid, public spirited citizen.

C. ALLEN HARLAN has just given additionally to MSUO and adds $25,000 to the approximate $10,000 he has already provided. Mr. HARLAN earmarks $10,000 specifically for scholarships. Mr. HARLAN is one of the institution's most loyal supporters and has been from its earliest inception.

Heartened by the Scholarship Committee and MSUO in general are appealing to citizens to give some thought to a bequest for MSUO in their wills. This money is deductible before inheritance taxes are levied so the heirs only lose a portion. The University emphasizes the fact that a bequest to MSUO is actually an "investment for all time." As President JOHN A. HANNAH of MSU said when the Oakland branch was opened: "Universities live forever."

Similar European institutions are centuries old. The need for higher education has steadily increased since the schools were started. Wills are increasingly filled that leave bequests to education. Wayne University just profited by an unexpected half million dollars from a donor who had never given any indication of such generosity.

There is no finer way to remember your own community than to help build our own MSUO. It's difficult to think of a nobler way to assist humanity than to contribute to the education of young men and women. Money put to this purpose works unceasingly and without cessation. Truly, it's an "investment for all time."

And beyond this, it's an investment in a perfectly marvelous cause and project. Adding a codicil to a will isn't a big task and it can mean a greater step forward in behalf of your own Nation, your own State, your own community and your own neighborhood.

And the donor profits inordinately himself.

The Man About Town

Some Odd Facts When Put Together Are Interesting Reading

Circulation: A matter of concern to newspapers and doctors.

Pontiac's suburban historian and genealogist.

Wilbur James Seger, of 620 Hemingway Road, Lake Orion, thrives on digging up coincidences not heretofore historically connected. He finds that Abraham Lincoln's son Robert was to attend that fatal theater party, but arrived late, just in time to see his father carried out.

Years later, when Secretary of War, Robert Lincoln was requested by President Garfield to meet him at the depot, but was late, and arrived just after Garfield had been shot.

Twenty years later President McKinley invited Robert Lincoln to attend the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo with him, but Lincoln again was late, and arrived just after McKinley was felled by an assassin's bullet.

Seger finds a remarkable series of similarities in the lives of Theodore Roosevelt and his fifth cousin, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Both were born in the State of New York; both graduated from both Harvard and Columbia; both were editors of their college papers; both served in the New York Legislature; both were Assistant Secretaries of the Navy; both resigned from that office.

Both were Governor of New York; both were candidates for Vice President; both were shot at by a would-be assassin; and both became Presidents.

Bringing his work down to a local status, Mr. Seger, now is working on the genealogy of some old Oakland County families; to mention a few: Farner, Eddy, Holdridge and Cranston.

The ultimate in politeness is claimed by this writer—but it's done unbecomingly. When I get a recorded reply on a phone call, I always say "Thank you."

"In your items about pioneer days," writes

Mrs. Arthur Danroyal of Rochester, "why don't you tell your readers about someones, flat iron, ordinary rocks and jugs of hot water as winter transportation necessities?" Thanks for the suggestion, Mrs. Danroyal, but all were heated in the family oven, and used as foot warmers in the horse and buggy days. Father's grindstone also was occasionally pressed into service, as were bricks from the fireplace. The same custom continued through the early auto days.

A Familiar Ring?

David Lawrence Says:

Catholics Stress New Ideas on Aid

WASHINGTON—An important document has just been issued by the Roman Catholic Church in America which can have a significant impact on the legislative program of the next session of Congress. It can affect also the battles of the politicians in the congressional elections next November. It can have a far-reaching influence, moreover, on the size and nature of the financial aid given to education by the federal government in the years to come.

It is a rebuttal of the legal analysis by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare submitted to Congress earlier this year.

The new memorandum, which is more than 16,000 words long, was issued by the legal department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference here after it had received the "independent critical analysis of a number of constitutional scholars and lawyers."

BROAD NEEDS

What is treated is something the group has not stressed so much heretofore, namely, that the argument for federal aid to education as a public policy is based on a "nationally felt need" in the "Cold War," and on the attainment of important objectives at home—the conquering of disease and poverty, the improvement of cities, the advance of industry, the increase of useful invention, all of which "supply additional imperatives to America's new effort to educate its youth."

The idea is emphatically rebutted by that nondepartmental "somehow do not perform a public service." A warning is given that this type of argument "points the way to a totalitarian society," which could begin by forcing church-related education out of the American scene and "the end could be a totally Sovietized State."

The point is made that Catholic parochial schools today "are performing the public service of educating 18.6 per cent of all children in elementary and secondary schools" and that taxpayers generally have been spared in the last 10 years the added burden of approximately $13.9 billion for education.

FREE EXERCISE

Decision after decision of the Supreme Court of the United States is cited and quotations given to support the view that the First Amendment affirms the right of "free exercise" of religion and that Congress cannot put obstacles in the way by using the "separation" doctrine.

The Country Parson

Inded, the famous desegregation case of 1954 is cited to show that the high court took into account psychological and cultural factors in ruling against "separate but equal" school facilities for whites and Negroes. While the brief insists that parents shall not be impeded in their efforts to give their children religious training and it agrees that public schools should not teach sectarian religion, the thought is advanced that, broadly speaking, the public schools do teach religious through "the development of moral and spiritual values."

Emphasis is laid on the fact that church-related schools meet all the requirements of the states for general education, and that religious teaching is supplementary.

The contention is that the Supreme Court itself encouraged supplementary religious instruction outside of public-school buildings by holding that a "released time" schedule is constitutional. In short, the Catholic memorandum says citizens must not be discriminated against and that, if federal money is made available—as has been done with the support of the courts—for certain kinds of education in church-related colleges, then it is equally valid to appropriate federal funds to the elementary-school level.

It is further pointed out that "massive spending solely for public schools would in time result in a critical weakening of church-related schools, presaging the ultimate closing of many of them." (Copyright, 1961)

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Can your courage endure, or can your hands be strong, in the days that I shall deal with you? I the Lord have spoken, and I will do it. Ezekiel 22:14.

And having thus chosen our course, let us renew our trust in God and in His promises here and with many hearts. — Abraham Lincoln.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

On Salt-Restricted Diet? Try Using Other Spices

If you're on a salt-restricted diet and have learned the hard way that "there are six flavors and of them all, salt is the chief," here are some suggestions for flavoring your food from Dr. Milton Plotz, clinical professor of medicine at New York State University:

Mashed potato. Add freshly grated onion and nutmeg.

Poach. Boil in sweetened water, drain and add butter with chopped or powdered milk.

Green or lima beans. Add nutmeg and butter.

Corn. Add sugar and freshly ground pepper.

Tomato. Stew with bay leaf, onion and oregano.

String beans. Add marjoram. Onions. Boil with clove and thyme.

Stew of goulash. Cook with onion, bayleaf, sweet paprika, pepper, rosemary leaves or oregano.

Veal stew. Cook with onion, bay leaf, powdered mace, celery leaves and bitters.

Chops. Rub with pepper and ginger before broiling.

Roasts. Rub meat with pepper and ground ginger before cooking. Add one large bay leaf to pan and baste every 15 minutes.

IN MOST SITUATIONS

All of the mentioned flavorings, alone and in combinations, can be purchased in most grocery stores and markets and by mail order.

Considering the minute amounts used in food preparation, they are not expensive. Indeed, they may cost less per serving than salt substitutes.

To those suggested by Dr. Plotz, a favorite in our household is a mixture of horse radish and orange marmalade, to be used with meats.

And then, of course, there's apple sauce for pork, cranberry sauce for poultry and drops of bitters that sharpen the taste of most otherwise flat foods and fluids.

Voice of the People:

'Be Careful With Purses While Doing Shopping'

The true spirit of Christmas cannot mean much to some people. While shopping in a department store in Pontiac a girl of 15 or 16 was crying uncontrollably. Someone had stolen her purse with her allowance and baby sitting money she'd saved to buy Christmas gifts.

Within five minutes an older woman came running down the aisle and told the clerk someone had stolen her purse.

Don't lay your purse down for a second. It's hard to believe that anyone could be that cruel and heartless; but some people are watching for an opportunity to steal.

'Get Car License of Dog Thieves'

There have been articles in The Press about people picking up dogs. I have wondered if the kind people couldn't keep their eyes open and take license numbers of cars when they see someone picking up a dog. My dog was just a plain mongrel, but evidently someone wanted her.

Today is Monday, Dec. 18, the 32nd day of the year with 13 to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:
In 1787, New Jersey ratified the proposed constitution of the United States.

In 1865, slavery was abolished in the United States by adoption of the 13th amendment.

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed a committee to investigate the military disaster at Pearl Harbor.

In 1956, Indian Prime Minister Nehru assured the United States in a radio broadcast from President Dwight Eisenhower's Pennsylvania farm that India was "firmly wedded to the democratic way of life."

A thought for the day: It is written in the New Testament according to the gospel of St. Mark: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath."

My wife about this time of year will send a warning out to me. "That for our modest living, I should not buy too big a tree. . . . And I shall be reminded that the ceiling there is rather low. . . . And that she does not want advice—easy to give and hard to take."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Train Child for Happy Adulthood

Well, teach them to do the usual things of their group, such as skating, riding a bicycle, swimming, standing on their heads.

Take them to a restaurant. Let them order their own meal. Enable them to earn their own money. Let them spend it as they wish.

Better that 8-year-old Jerry waste his 25 cents on a foolish purchase now, and profit from the lesson, than that he be shielded until the age of 21, and then foolishly waste his entire inheritance.

BUILD CONFIDENCE

Confidence, comrades with success. The more things your child can perform successfully, the greater his self-confidence!

Jerry has been shielded. He has a governess, and wears slay clothes. His mother dresses him like a Little Lord Fauntleroy. Jerry realizes his conspicuous appearance, even if he thinks he is a "cute."

So he shies away from social contacts with other boys, for he is afraid of ridicule. He can play the piano, but not baseball. So he feels like an alien when with normal children. It is largely his mother's fault.

He should be sent to a public school, and equipped with the conventional habits of adjustment to a boy's world. Give him a dog and some boxing lessons, just for his own self-defense.

SOCIALLY DEFORMED

Let him learn to play the games of average third graders. At present he is socially deformed. His mind is keenly trained in French and music, reading, etc.

But his social life has been abnormal. He feels this weak spot in his development, which is why he has his social-inferiority complex.

Jerry can't very well remedy the condition, for he is too young. It is his mother's responsibility.

What children can do anything well, they enjoy that type of work. And they have confidence in their ability. This holds for adults, too.

However, many a bold, athletic star gets stage fright before a radio microphone, for that's a new realm.

But a big business executive will blurt and perspire when he must deliver a speech at the Rotary Club.

We can thus be confident in one realm, but have a severe inferiority complex in another.

Part of the job of parenthood consists in developing all-around confidence in our children. But how?

Holiday Traffic May Claim 500, Says Safety Unit

CHICAGO UP — Five hundred persons may die in traffic accidents during the coming Christmas holiday period.

This was the estimate by the National Safety Council.

The council estimated that 23,000 persons may suffer injury in accidents within the 75-day period from 4 p.m. Friday to midnight, Monday, Dec. 25.

During a similar period last year, 488 persons died in traffic accidents, 77 in fires and 82 deaths were recorded in miscellaneous categories.

The council also estimated that nearly all of the nation's 78 million motor vehicles will be on the roads at some time during the holiday. It estimated 6.2 billion miles would be traveled by these vehicles.

Man Shingles Woodshed With One Hand at 84

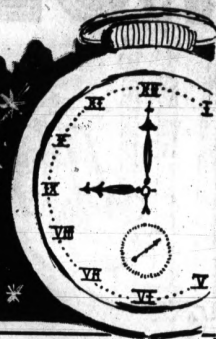

WHITEFIELD, Maine (AP)—In spite of two handicaps—age and loss of a hand—84-year-old Arthur Merrigold has shingled the side of his woodshed.

With his 75-year-old wife helping—she posed him the shingles—Merrigold nailed with his good hand. The Spanish-American War veteran lost his hand in a sawmill accident in 1908.

Winter Blast Does Damage on Riviera

MARSEILLE, France (AP)—A sudden blast of winter weather stirred up the Mediterranean Sea Sunday, caused damage along the Riviera and sent snow swirling over parts of Southern France. High winds pounded waves against Riviera seawalls. Traffic on the waterfront boulevard of fashionable Nice and on the seashore highway to Monaco was held up. In Monte Carlo's harbor, a number of yachts—including Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis' luxury ship the Christina—were damaged by the waves.

Three-Penny Opera Closes With Tears

NEW YORK (AP)—The Three-penny Opera is over.

Off-Broadway's long-run champ rang down the final curtain Sunday night after 2,612 performances. It closed with a sigh, a few tears and the pop of champagne corks.

The play, which made "Mack the Knife," a latter-day hit, had more performances than Broadway's current long-run champ, "My Fair Lady." The Lerner-Loew musical, which opened in 1956 and is still running, had the benefit, however, of a much larger house.

Official Says S. Africa Could Produce N-Bombs

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Dr. Abraham J. A. Roux, director of South Africa's Atomic Energy Board, said Sunday South Africa has the scientific knowledge, the ability and the industrial potential to produce atom bombs. In a radio talk, Roux said he sincerely hoped this country would never be called upon to engage in such activity. He said the whole program of the Atomic Energy Board was concerned with the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Plot New Campaigns After Texas Primary

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Democrat Graham B. Purcell, top vote-getter in Saturday's special election to fill the 13th District post in the U.S. House, begins campaigning anew today.

So does Republican Joe Bailey Meisner, who will face Purcell in a runoff election to be held sometime between Jan. 22 and Feb. 6. Gov. Price Daniel will set the date.

Tabulation of all but about 120 votes showed Purcell with 5,835 votes to Meisner's 5,704. Other totals include: Jack Higginson, R., Wilbarger County district attorney and Democrat who resigned to make the race, 6,030; Vernon Stewart, D., Democratic state legislator from Wichita Falls, 2,866; and Jimmy Horan, 44, Archer City attorney who ran as a Democratic liberal, 2,637.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as:

"Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H® Suppositories or Preparation H® Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H® is sold at all drug counters.

They're Costly Collectors' Items Now Those Marchers Are for Daddy

PARIS (NEA)—Toy soldiers are marching out of the nurseries and setting up camp in grownups' dens. Most children today are too "advanced" to want to find such old-fashioned things as toy soldiers under the tree on Christmas morning.

They're looking forward to space-age gifts—rockets, missiles, space suits, etc. These days the toy soldiers are mostly the playthings of adults.

The toy soldier first made its appearance during the Seven Years War (1756-1763) and fascinated such figures of the past as King Frederic of Prussia, Louis XV of France, Czar Paul I of Russia. Even Napoleon collected them.

Recently, no less a person than Gen. Paul Blum, director of the French National Museum of the Army, inspected an army of 4,022 toy soldiers. They were spread out on a stand covering 150 square feet.

The occasion was the exhibition of soldiers owned by the French "Society of Collectors of Historical Figurines." The society's 501 members, who range from ambassadors to simple working men, can muster an "army" of four million.

One member has 700,000, which altogether weigh about 10 tons. Another collector, who

Bronx Pianist Wins International Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Four years after applying himself seriously to the piano, Augustin Anlevas, 27, of the Bronx is the United States' newest goodwill ambassador of the arts.

He achieved that position by winning the first Dimitri Mitropoulos International Music Competition Sunday night, an event the United States hopes will endure and promote cultural exchange among nations.

"I first played the piano when I was 3½," he told a reporter backstage at the Metropolitan Opera House. "But I didn't begin serious study until 1957."

Anlevas has not wasted any time. He studied at the Juillard School of Music and made his Town Hall debut two years ago. He has just finished a tour of Latin America for the State Department.

Mexico City's population has reached 5 million.

He said unless agreement is reached a strike deadline would be set sometime early in January.

George Burt, UAW regional director, said Oakville workers will vote on strike action Monday. He added that parts depot employees at North York voted 54 to 1 in favor of striking at a meeting last Thursday.

Burt informed the workers no offer has yet been made by the company.

Both parties began bargaining in early October. The conciliation board was called in during the latter part of November but little progress has been made.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials of normal regularity

As you grow older, the internal muscle of your colon wall also ages, loses the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrink that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulk and moisture may grate on the gut, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs frequently cramp and grip. Of all leading laxatives, only new COLONAD gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

But Public Sentiment Has Wavered

Capital Punishment Unpopular in Michigan

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANDING in — Michigan's 1846 legislature struck eight words from the penal code, and the action has stood the test of time for 115 years.

"To be hanged from the neck until dead."

By deleting the phrase, Michigan became the first state to abolish the death penalty for first degree murder.

Although the constitutional convention has the power to restore capital punishment, there appears to be little sentiment in favor of such a move.

One rare crime—treason—still calls for the death penalty. But even in the case of a convicted traitor, the execution of the sentence may be suspended by the governor and commuted by the legislature.

Recent years have brought little agitation for allowing capital punishment. Most modern correctional authorities do not feel that the threat of death by hanging or in the electric chair or by gas acts as a deterrent to criminals.

PUBLIC WAVERS

Public sentiment has wavered on the subject from time to time, however. The death penalty was eliminated originally largely as the result of the 1830 hanging of Stephen G. Simmons for murdering his wife while drunk.

As he stood on the gallows, Simmons sang a hymn and the large crowd joined in. A military band played before he mounted the platform. Many of the spectators attended the hanging to be entertained, many were revolted.

When a man in Sandwich, Ont., was hanged eight years later — only to be exonerated by another man's deathbed confession — public opinion against the death penalty continued to rise.

But from time to time the legislature has come close to reimposing capital punishment, often with powerful support from political leaders.

In 1923, Atty. Gen. Merlino Wiley spoke strongly: "It is time we stopped being swayed by the sickening sentimentalism that has been perverted by the professional nob squads and look the facts squarely in the face."

"The very vitals of our civilization are pierced if human life is not safe and property secure."

GOVERNOR'S SUPPORT

Wiley's views were supported by Gov. Alexander J. Groesbeck. But the attorney general went even further. He recommended a whipping post for wife beaters, declaring:

"Capital punishment and the whipping post are said to be debasing in their tendency, savage in their nature, and a retrograde step along the pathway of civilization. I do not admit the truth of the statement. But, if they are, what about murder, and rape and highway robbery?"

"Michigan needs some modern methods in dealing with crime. Capital punishment bills in the 20s came very close to passing the legislature, but the whipping post idea failed to gain much support."

Some authorities believe it would be unconstitutional under section 15 of Article I which says "Cruel or unusual punishment shall not be inflicted."

This prohibition has been interpreted by the State Supreme Court to mean that "inhuman and barbarous" punishments should not be inflicted.

One such punishment, the court has held, would be to order a convicted criminal to leave the state.

Use Hardboard to Mount Cards

Enjoy your nicest Christmas cards throughout the holiday season by attaching them to decorative pieces of hardboard paneling. Either leave the panels or attach an easel and use them as displays on a table or the mantel.

A variety of interesting backgrounds can be used since hardboard is available at lumber dealers in plain colors, high-fidelity woodgrains and patterns.

Attach the cards to the paneling with rubber cement. The cards can be removed easily, and the cement rubs right off the card and the hardboard.

Soapsuds Snow

Blazing red candles set into a Yule log lend cheery warmth to a Christmas mantel or table — particularly if the log is drifted with "snow." Soap or detergent, whipped up with a little water, will produce real-as-life suds-snow that won't ever melt!

Visitors Wide-Eyed at Utica's Nike

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Businessmen, photographers and newspaper people watched an alerted five-man crew of soldiers race to a covered underground stairway, saw two mammoth cement and steel doors snap open and the mighty Hercules missile raised horizontally to a sliding ramp.

At the end of the ramp, the missile was automatically turned upward to a sky-pointing position and the crew raced back to their underground enclosure for "protection."

All this took place within a few minutes at a Nike base near Utica where the visitors were touring.

From the outside, the white corrugated steel buildings that house trained men and equipment, look cold and uninteresting. There is no fancy landscaping — only narrow sidewalks from one door to another.

Inside the warm barracks are "top-drawer" clean beds, made to perfection, and shoes and clothing arranged in Army-precision order. From the stainless steel kitchen in the mess hall, mouth-watering odors were wafted through the building.

Among the group there was a feeling of pride for having a Nike base of the United States Air Defense Command stationed so close by in case of an emergency.

Guests were shown how the Nike Hercules could track down and destroy with deadly accuracy a target more than 75 miles away. The 5-ton, 40-foot long missile is fully mobile and could be airlifted to any designated site in the country with fast installation facilities.

HUGE CONTROL BOARDS

Missilemen — expertly trained officers — are able to control the flight of the $70,000 Hercules as they sit calmly in front of huge electronic scope-boards and watch the beam-guided missile attack.

Unlike her little sister, the Ajax, that can track down and destroy only one plane at a time, Hercules can wipe out an entire enemy squadron in one fell swoop.

To see exactly what would happen in case of an attack, the civilian group was taken to a building where two mobile steel trailers had been connected to each end of the steel building. In cramped, but well-ventilated quarters, trained men had their eyes literally "glued" to scopes, instrument panels and other intricate equipment.

A "plane" and a missile "rocket" were "recreated" to show how Hercules goes into action. One large scope told the story.

Faster than sound, the missile rocketed toward its target — a target already doomed in spite of any maneuvers it might try. Swiftly, the two moved nearer until the fatal meeting. In a flash, the "enemy invader" was reduced to rubble.

The Hercules capability ranges from very low altitudes to altitudes far in excess of any known drone-type or ram-jet missiles, or manned aircraft, officers explained.

Commanding Officer of the Utica Nike Base, Capt. William Miller Jr., pointed out that communications with other Nike bases and Selfridge Field are set up so meticulously that within seconds, each knows which unit has fired the destroying missile. This eliminates the firing of more than one at the same time.

Should an enemy ever attempt a surprise attack on the United States or Canada, the thousands of trained Nike Air Defense Command technicians who are on 24-hour duty every day in the week, will be alert.

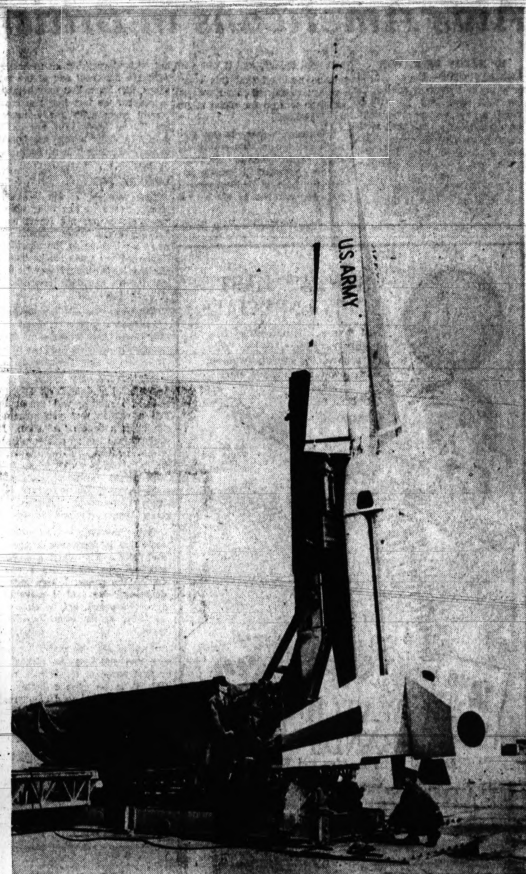

BEDDED DOWN — After the Air Defense Command's newest surface-to-air guided missile Nike Hercules has been lowered, two mammoth steel and concrete doors snap shut, concealing the mighty missile. Many such missiles have been installed in Nike bases in the Pontiac area, replacing and supplementing its smaller sister missile, Nike Ajax.

commanding officer of the Utica Nike Base; Lt. Col. Raphael Flynn, missile battalion commander and Charles F. Coffey, commander of the 28th Artillery group.

SET TO "GO" — Every day a five-man crew in Nike bases throughout Michigan have practice routines bringing out one of the Army's newest and most devastating missiles, Nike Hercules.

The missile (above) is raised, automatically moved to the end of a ramp and raised skyward. It is then lowered and put to rest in its berth, 5-feet below the cement runway.

Coach on Display in Division Lobby

Famous Fisher Symbol Reproduced

By DICK SAUNDERS
Once upon a time (a few months ago) three expert toolmakers and a senior production engineer set about to make, of all things, a coach.

A horse-and-buggy type coach in this day and age of Pontiac and Tempests isn't a very wise investment. You're bound to run into market troubles.

But these men didn't care about a market. Their's was a very special coach. They knew it would sell because it was already famous the world over.

What they ended up with was a coach out of a fairy tale. It was fit for a king—or a Cinderella.

MADE BY EMPLOYEES
It's a replica of the famous Fisher Body Division symbol. You know, the one that has "Body by Fisher—A Tradition of Craftsmanship" written on it.

sketches, dimensions and specifications for the coach is William W. Weaver of 1282 Orchard Ave., a senior production engineer.

Although the finished product looks like it was created by the

Bulldozer Digs Trying to Rescue Trapped Hound

GILBERT, W.Va. (AP)—Brownie the hound began his 50th day in underground confinement today as a bulldozer chugged closer to his rescue.

The earth-moving equipment was brought here from Bluefield Saturday in an effort to free 3-year-old Brownie from an abandoned and caved-in mine shaft in which he became entrapped while chasing a rabbit seven weeks ago. Brownie's plight has brought offers of help from persons in West Virginia and other states.

It looks just like the Napoleonic Coach selected by the Fisher brothers in 1906 as their symbol of superior craftsmanship. So much, in fact, you almost expect Bonaparte himself to step out.

But one thing it's not much good for is riding—unless you happen to be less than 24 inches tall and very, very thin.

The coach was made as a plaque and is proudly displayed in the new Fisher Body administration office lobby on Baldwin Avenue.

"It pays tribute to the men who build it as well as the thousands of Fisher Body 'craftsmen' in the last 53 years," says Thomas F. Wiethorn, plant manager.

Hunter Kicks Up Chunk of Gold

But Date Was 1828 in State of Georgia Which Saw First Stampede

ATLANTA (UPI) — A chunk of gold accidentally kicked up by a backwoods deer hunter 133 years ago in the North Georgia Mountains touched off the first major gold rush in the United States.

Men on foot, horseback and in wagons poured into the Cherokee Indian country near Dahlonega, Ga., soon after the hunter, Benjamin Parks, noticed the bright yellow metal.

And for some 30 years after 1828, Georgia was the nation's foremost gold mining territory.

Roughly built log cabins were thrown up, trails were cut through the area and crude sluice boxes constructed.

Federal troops were sent into the area to protect the Cherokees against the gold-seeking invaders.

But in 1830 the Army found it impossible to protect the Indians and the State of Georgia established a reservation, the Cherokee Country.

As more adventurers and explorers rushed into the area, new deposits were discovered and camps, villages and towns sprung up. Several miles south of Dahlonega, a name derived from the Cherokee word for "yellow," was the village of Auraria, from the Latin word for "gold."

GHOST TOWN TODAY
In 1832 Auraria had a population of 500 and was larger than Dahlonega. Today Auraria is a ghost town.

The government established the United States Branch Mint at Dahlonega in 1837 and it remained in operation until the outbreak of the Civil War 24 years later.

The mint coined some $6 million in gold coins ranging from $1 to $5 pieces.

The spot where Parks uncovered the first piece of gold now is a large hole in the side of a mountain and is known as the Calhoun Mine.

John C. Calhoun, a South Carolina senator, bought the land shortly after Parks made his discovery and, according to Prof. T. C. Bryan of North Georgia College, took nearly $1,000 worth of gold a day from the mine.

Tips on Dress, Conversation

Aids Americans in British Society

By HARRY FERGUSON
LONDON (UPI)—Every American living in Britain nourishes the hope that some day he will be invited to the home of a duke, marquis or earl. It happens fairly frequently because some noblemen make a study of Americans just as they collect exotic butterflies.

How to conduct yourself in the home of a duke, that is the question. Nothing is so slippery and treacherous as the first rung in the social ladder, and it was with genuine relief that this correspondent confirmed that a manual has been written for social climbing Americans.

The author's name is Guy Regmont and his manual covers almost every possible situation. Let us plunge into it quickly before the Duke of Bedford phones with an invitation to Woburn Abbey.

Long gloves—Never wear a bowler hat without carrying an umbrella. Afford a hat from one of the top shops, like Lock. You may be able to conceal the fact that you have bought your gills ready made, but if you leave your hat on a peg or a chair people are bound to know whether it is a cheap one or not.

Long gloves—Your wife—"If she is at all plump, never let her wear white. Short gloves are not smart with evening dress. They should go more or less up to the shoulder. Never let her wear slacks unless she has boyish hips. Never let her gossip with the staff (servants)."

Flattery—"Do not compliment your hostess in general terms on her food. But if there is one particular dish you like, say that it is one of your favorites. You can be very lavish in the praise of her daughter's appearance. No mother will resent it. Tell a woman that you presume she takes a double 'A' shoe. It suggests she has an aristocratically narrow foot.

On period furniture, you will need to know the difference between Chippendale, Adams, Regency, Heppewhite and Sheraton."

Name dropping—"The author says this is dangerous business and tells a joke about a social climber who said: 'As I was telling the queen, I hate name dropping.' He said it probably never happened, but he cites it as being in the worst possible taste.

"First of all," he writes, "make sure that you have the nickname or first name of a celebrity correct. It is no good referring to 'my great friend Somerset Maugham.' If he is truly your great friend, you call him Willy."

CONVERSATION KISSES
Conversation—"Try to acquire a certain amount of anecdotes of items of polite dinner table conversation such as the fact that Haut Brion is a Graves and not a Medoc, that V.S.O.P. stands for Very Special Old Pale (brandy).

spoiled, and the author helps us over some of the highest hurdles: Viscount Brough and St. John is "Baintbrook and St. John"; Lord Chyd is "Cio-ide"; Duke of Merborough is "Mawbro"; Lady Zia Werner is "Seea Verner."

At this point there is a temptation to compliment the author by saying his advice is fabulous. We must resist it, however, because "fabulous" is out of date and vulgar. So are "out of this world," "ripping" and "top hole."

Okay, then, jolly good show, Egmont.

Business firms in the U. S. have increased in proportion to the population so that today there are about 38 for each 1,000 population compared to 21 back in 1900.

Love Sparks Friendship Plan

Book by Aides Widow Begins Youth Exchange Between U.S., Japan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A pre-war romance between a small-town Tennessee girl and a Japanese diplomat has sparked a 1961 friendship campaign between American and Japanese children.

It all started with Gwen Harold's — Mrs. Hidenari Terasaki — book, "Bridge to the Sun," her autobiographical story of an American girl and her Japanese husband in Japan during the war years.

Gwen Harold met handsome Hidenari Terasaki in 1939 at a Japanese Embassy party in Washington. They married over embassy opposition and survived the war together in Japan — despite his overt opposition to the war.

Mrs. Terasaki, now a widow, tells how he arranged for President Roosevelt to send a secret cable to Emperor Hirohito shortly before Pearl Harbor, warning the Emperor of impending disaster. The cable never reached Hirohito.

The book now is an MGM movie. When it was first published in 1957, school children of Kyoto, Japan, sent Mrs. Terasaki 67 of their paintings as a tribute to her "bridgebuilding" efforts in Japan.

Now there's another project under way for American schoolchildren to send their paintings in return to Japan, as a continuing friendship bridge between the nations.

Deferred Fall Grazing Will Help Save Pastures
COLLEGE STATION, TEX. (UPI)—Deferred grazing during the late summer and early fall months can help save pastures for the rest of the year, says Texas A&M College range specialist G. O. Hoffman.

Hoffman recommends keeping livestock off pastures that have just received rain, so the native grasses can grow rapidly and make seed.

Crossing Crash Kills Two Men

Train Hits Small Truck on M139 in West Part of State

BENTON HARBOR — A Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train and a pickup truck collided at a crossing in the town of Riverside northeast of here Sunday night. The two men in the truck were injured fatally.

Only the firemen, Ben Lucht, 44, of Sparta, saw the truck and not until the train was right on top of it.

Lucht said he shouted to engineer Ray Keenan, 65, of Grand Rapids, but the crash came in virtually the same instant.

William Steinke, 50, the truck driver and operator of a Riverside grocery store and 11111a N. Rhodes, 42, Riverside farm worker, his passenger, were the victims.

Steinke died of injuries at Mercy Hospital here. Rhodes was dead at the scene.

The train's diesel carried the half-ton truck nearly 900 feet down the track.

Keenan said his train, en route from Grand Rapids to Chicago, was going about 30 miles an hour at the time. He said his horn was blowing and his bell was ringing.

The crossing is protected only by a marker.

Berrien County deputies said other traffic on M139 obliterated the tracks of the truck and it was impossible to tell whether Steinke had tried to stop. The weather was reported clear at the time.

Sweetest Second Was One After Brush With Death

By HAI BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—Sometimes, years and years from now, as time comes on, my daughter will ask me around Christmas what I appreciate most.

If I am honest, I am sure I will have to tell her that the sweetest second of my existence was the one after I was sure that a man didn't shoot me through the head.

At the close of the second World War, another correspondent and I were poised at Pilsen, Czechoslovakia. It was about 55 miles from Prague, and the Czechs sent men through the lines pleading for the Americans to come and free their capital.

This could not be done. A political line had been drawn.

I asked the commander of our area whether we correspondents might move. He implied he had more important concerns at the moment, and shrugged us free to seek our own dismay.

The Germans had, we hoped, been given an order not to fire toward the West that day.

PAST ARMED GERMANS Cy Peterman of the Philadelphia Inquirer and I took a jeep and drove through 55 miles of fully armed Germans retreating to the West to reach Prague.

It was the very end of the war and the area was in tumult. The citizens of Prague greeted us as if we were the vanguard of the American army sent to free them, as their emissaries had asked. We were not. We were only two U.S. correspondents in a jeep.

Shortly after Cy and I entered Prague, a Russian motorcycle came from the West. Then, Russian after Russian came in and the individuals became a series of waves.

Peterman speaks broken German and spoke it. I am afraid that I looked like a German sergeant in search of command. The brave Czech people knew we were Americans, but the incoming Russians didn't.

Twice the Russians started to shoot us. The Czechs intervened. I figured we might run out of local help and said, "Cy, I think we'd better get out of here—our Allies don't seem to know us too well."

We agreed and we left—with the help of the exhilarated Czech patriots.

We caught up with the retreating fully armed German SS columns and drove through and past them back to the area of Pilsen again.

As we neared Pilsen the patrols of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division were disarming the arriving Germans. They pointed at the roadside ditch, and the Nazis threw down their arms.

NEAR FATAL STOP Cy wanted a souvenir and slowed our jeep as a German truck loaded with Nazi troops paused at a throwaway point. We got down into the ditch to pick up some souvenir guns.

I looked up and there was a German with a pistol pointed at the middle of my forehead. I thought, "Well, this is just my luck. After all these years, at the last moment I have to meet a surrendering German who has enough sense of humor to pull a final trigger."

There was only one thing to do. I gestured imperatively at the man.

He hesitated and then his gun tumbled down into the ditch. I reached down and seized it, and got out of there.

But after all these years I am grateful at Christmas—and other times—to that unknown German soldier who could have pulled that trigger, considered it—and didn't.

Asks Yule Hospitality for Foreign Students

A former U.S. diplomat thinks drumstick and cranberry sauce diplomacy—practiced by thousands of ordinary Americans in their own homes—can spare foreign students in this country many lonely hours and, at the same time, brighten the image of America overseas.

Robert C. Hill, former U.S. ambassador to Mexico, was disturbed at the prospect of thousands of college students being marooned on near-deserted college campuses at Christmas while their American counterparts went home to their families and friends.

"We should not allow these students to spend their holidays from school in a lonely room in New York or Boston," Hill told a meeting of the United Press International Broadcasters' Association of New Hampshire.

He proposed that New Hampshire residents invite at least 2,000 foreign students into their homes at Christmas to show them "where the real strength of America lies—in the family."

Hill's proposal received the immediate endorsement of New Hampshire Gov. Wesley Powell. The governor appointed Hill to prepare plans for a statewide Operation Hospitality and suggested other states might like to join in the program.

Many of Powell's fellow governors indicated, in response to a survey, that they favored his proposal and a few announced plans to launch similar programs in their own states immediately.

The New Hampshire program also was given enthusiastic approval by the U.S. State Department. It said Americans everywhere share the responsibility with government for the welfare of the 50,000 foreign students in this country.

"The more Americans who receive and assist these students, the better," a State Department spokesman said.

As a government official charged with winning friends for America overseas, R. Sargent Shriver, director of President Kennedy's Peace Corps, said he thought the New Hampshire project was an excellent one.

"It would be happy if it were done in a number of states," Shriver said.

To Bring Settlers Home

TOKYO (U)—The Japanese Government decided today to spend about $137,000 to help 278 Japanese settlers return home from the Dominican Republic. The settlers reportedly want repatriation because of harsh living conditions caused by worsening economic situation. The Japanese Government will pay for the settlers' expenses.

About 100,000 American children suffer eye accidents every year, some of them resulting in permanent vision impairment or blindness.

Eichmann Attorney Files for Appeal

JERUSALEM (U)—One of Adolf Eichmann's attorneys filed notice of appeal Sunday against the death sentence given the former Gestapo official.

The Israeli Supreme Court is expected to start hearings in January on the appeal.

Eichmann's attorneys, Dr. Robert Servatius and Dieter Wechtenbruch, are expected to challenge the conviction with the claims that their client was unlawfully returned to Israel, that Israel had no right to try Eichmann for crimes committed before Israel was a state and that the death sentence was not justified.

Eichmann is being held in the prison at Ramleh, 10 miles east of Tel Aviv. He has no contact with any other prisoners and is shackled and handcuffed when he walks in the prison yard.

The Israeli government, it was learned, will allow Eichmann to complete or change the memoirs he wrote during the four months between his trial testimony and the judgment last week.

APPEAL TO SERVATIUS
Tovia Friedmann, head of the Israeli documentation center at Haifa, has appealed to Servatius against use of the memoirs for commercial purposes.

Servatius in reply offered the document to the Israeli government with all rights but said he hoped to return the government would pay expenses of Eichmann's defense and appeal not covered by a grant from the West German government.

Eichmann developed a uncontrollable shaking of the hands and fluttering of the eyelids soon after the death sentence was passed on him. He was given a light sedative Saturday night and is under the care of one of the doctors at Ramleh Prison.

GUARD EICHMANN
Officials at the prison said they were constantly on guard to prevent an attempt on Eichmann's life by other prisoners.

"We can't keep his presence a secret from the prisoners," one official said. "All we can do is to be on the alert in case of attempts on his life."

Mordechai Nir, director of the Israeli prison services, said Eichmann so far had made no special request of any sort but could forward any such through the chief warden to the prison directorate.

Nir said Eichmann is now dressed in the red prison garb customary for men sentenced to death.

MOSCOW (U)—The animals in the Moscow Zoo are roaring and howling louder than usual and the newspaper Moscow Pravda says it is because they are hungry.

The paper, organ of the Moscow Region Communist party, charged the zoo director took money budgeted for food for the animals and bought 3,000 copies of a pamphlet entitled "Among Animals and Birds" for distribution to zoo visitors.

Author of the pamphlet? The zoo director, said Moscow Pravda.

Unable to find a smoke-signaler on several Arizona reservations, the amazed publicist asked one Indian, "Well, what do you do when you want to send a message to somebody on the next mesa?" "Why," the Indian replied, "I use the telephone. What do you do?"

have never known anything to the bottom of it," said the King dolefully. "And by next Christmas I won't even be King."
"Nonsense," said Santa. "I have a brand new plan. We will dig a ditch and the next time the Ipswitch comes around it will fall into it and that will be that."
"Awfully big," said the King. "It will have to be an awfully big ditch." "We couldn't dig it," said Santa. "But we will have your people dig it," said Santa. "But they no longer do anything I command!"
"But if a magician commands it?"
"Magician?"
Santa was busily pulling costumes from his inexhaustible bag. "We will disguise ourselves as magicians. Then we will promise the people to get rid of the Ipswitch if they will dig a hole."
Before he knew it, the King found himself no longer a wood-chopper but a magician dressed in black talls and tall silk hat and carrying a magic wand. Santa dressed in the same disguise and they headed back to the town. In no time at all they were surrounded by townsmen. These poor people had often heard of but never seen a magician and when they found themselves visited by two they were overcome with awe.

The townspeople were overcome with awe at the two magicians.

Mysterious Gas Ruins Program

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A sickening sweet gas broke up a Christmas program at a Houston church Sunday night. Hospitals said at least eight persons, mostly youngsters, were treated with oxygen. A spokesman said the victims complained of nausea, headaches, vomiting and sweating.

It was not known how many of the 100 people in the Brookhaven Baptist church were overcome but most recovered as soon as they reached fresh air.

Allie Tollinger, 41, said, "It didn't smell like natural gas. It was sweet."

Fire department maintenance couldn't find a gas leak in the church.

Police Help Tot Who Lost Purse With Gift List

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're the little girl who lost a beige change purse in a midtown Manhattan five-and-ten cent store, here's your Christmas list:

Pappa, shaving cream. Daddy, shaving cream. Mamma, hankie. Grandma, hankie. Brother, lead pencil. Mommy, another.

The purse also contained three $1 bills, a nickel and three pennies.

Police of the West 30th Street station are holding the purse, hoping the little girl will come and claim it. They don't want pappa, daddy, mamma, grandma, brother and mommy to have to do without their Christmas gifts.

(Next: Shoe Shine Boys)

When Santa explained to them what he wanted they agreed willingly. There was nothing they wouldn't do to rid themselves of the cursed Ipswitch.

STARTED TO DIG
They rushed to their homes for shovels and pickaxes and then marched, one thousand strong to the narrow plain between the hills. There was already a deep depression made by the Ipswitch's last trip and the two magicians stood at the edge of this hole and directed the laborers to enlarge and deepen it.

The eager workers dug and dug without stopping and the hole got deeper and deeper and wider and wider. Santa and the King stood at the side and from time to time waved their wands, pretending that magic was being invoked.

When at last the ditch was large enough they ordered the workers to stop and then the two magicians climbed into the hole.

"It's huge!" cried Santa. "It's bound to work."

"Oh, my!" said the King, waving his wand excitedly. "I just wish the Ipswitch would come this very minute! I'd like to see it's face when it falls in here."

"Which that wand!" cautioned Santa. "You never can tell."

But it was too late. Somehow magic had been invoked or maybe it was a coincidence but anyway the Ipswitch was on its way again.

Hearing the distant thuds, the two magicians struggled wildly out of the ditch just in time to see an enormous left foot descending on them from above.

Panic stricken, Santa and the King tumbled again to the bottom of the ditch. They picked each other up and raced forward hand in hand. Then Santa stumbled and both of them crashed headlong. An instant later, the foot landed not two yards in front of them.

Open mouthed, they stared. It was a shoe. But there was no leg. No body. No head. Only a left-footed shoe that already was rising in front of them to land again miles away.

Wedding Held in Lutheran Church

Linda Jane Freet exchanged rings and vows with Fred A. McCulloch Saturday evening in Ascension Lutheran Church. Red poinsettias marked the altar rail and white ones decked the altar where Rev. William LaFontaine performed the candlelight ceremony.

The Misses A. Freet of North Anderson Streets were hosts at their daughter's church reception where a four-foot cloverleaf-shaped wedding cake was cut.

Alencon lace trimmed the molded Empire bodice and formed a small bustle for the bride's gown of white silk tulle. Fingerless illusion veiling was fitted to a jeweled tiara. White roses centered her cascade of white carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

Maid of honor, Karen Kessler of Waterford Township and bridesmaids Pamela Noren and Mrs. James Freet, the bride's sister-in-law, wore street-length royal blue tulle with matching shoes and flower hats. They carried white and red peppermint stripe carnations.

Gerald McCulloch stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Fred McCullochs of Lancaster Street. Seating some 175 guests were Nicholas Klayo of Bloomfield Hills and James Freet, brother of the bride.

Returning from their honeymoon, the couple will live on Klingensmith Road.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Freet chose royal blue sheer wood and matching feather hat. Her flowers were lavender cymbidium orchids. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in light blue wood to which were pinned beige cymbidium orchids.

Say Vows in Pontiac Ceremony

Grace Lutheran Church was the setting for the Saturday evening nuptials of Susanne Mary Looney to William H. Landis, solemnized by Rev. Richard C. Stuckmeyer.

The bride is the daughter of Howard M. Looney of South Johnson Avenue and the late Mrs. Looney.

Her gown of white rosepoint pattern French lace and tulle over satin, featured a basque bodice and chapel train. A cup of fluted tulle and lace secured her silk illusion veiling. White carnations with carnations cascaded from her white miasal.

Jeanne Looney, her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaid Edith Julleriet of Detroit, Sandra Hutton and Mrs. Jack Nicholas, wore ming blue silk organza with matching shoes and hats. They held all-pink colonial bouquets of roses and carnations.

The new Mrs. Landis is a graduate of Highland Park General Hospital School of Nursing and her husband attends Wayne State University. His fraternity is Alpha Sigma Phi. After a motor trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will be at home on Dwight Avenue. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Bryan Worman, came from Buffalo, N.Y. for the wedding.

Reader Bares Teeth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just read something in your column that made me grit my store-bought teeth.

YOU say that dentures are every bit as good as one's own natural teeth.

All I can say, Dear Abby, is that I have never felt this way before. Should I talk to him about it? He isn't married.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl in the ninth grade with a serious problem. I have tried to talk to my mother about it, but she just laughs at me. I am in love with one of my teachers.

He is 27 and I am only 14. When he looks at me I feel like I was hit on the head with a million stars. This is no joke, Abby. I have never felt this way before. Should I talk to him about it? He isn't married.

DEAR HIT: Don't talk to him about it. What you feel is not "love" — it is a crush on an older man.

It happens to many girls your age, but they outgrow it. You've daydreamed yourself into a hopeless situation. Now, face reality.

Settle down and have fun with kids your own age, concentrate on your school work, and think of your teacher only as a good friend.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Steve Zondik and I am 12. I wrote a poem. If you like it, you may keep it.

GOD'S SHEPHERD Let's send it out for all to share

Our plea, against nuclear despair. Let's ask the leaders from all lands For peace, And then Let's all shake hands!

DEAR ABBY: Please advise me as to the proper conduct in this situation. My former husband, to whom I was married for ten years (over 20 years ago), is dying of a lingering illness.

We never had children. I have since remarried and so has he. He has children by his present wife.

We have met on occasions since our divorce, and have been friendly. All former grievances have been long forgotten.

When he passes away, would it be improper for me to attend his funeral? I would not want to embarrass his family, or become the subject of gossip.

AN EX-WIFE DEAR EX-WIFE: See "all grievances" have been forgotten. I see no reason why you would embarrass his family, or become the subject of gossip. Go, if you wish.

2,000 Attend Reception for Dr. and Mrs. Savage

By MARY ANGLEMIER

More than 2,000 friends and members of the congregation greeted Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Savage at the farewell reception in their honor in the social hall of First Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

City officials, pastors of area churches, missionaries home on furlough and former residents came to say goodbye.

Whole families, mother, boys and girls, with father carrying the baby, stood in the steady stream of those shaking hands with their beloved pastor.

Varied were their thoughts. Some remembered the happy time when Pastor Savage officiated at their wedding; others, how he sat by the side of a sick member of the family; while still others remembered he spoke at a funeral and then accompanied the family half way across the state to offer prayer at the grave service.

Many parents recalled how he had inspired their sons and daughters to become nurses, teachers and medical missionaries in foreign lands.

Among out of town guests was Rev. W. Howard Schoof, former assistant pastor of First Baptist, who is currently dean of students of Detroit-Bible College.

Coming from Grand Rapids to speak to Dr. and Mrs. Savage were Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Ely, former members of First Baptist.

Chattering with friends were Dr. and Mrs. Harry Ziemer of Lapeer, former missionaries to the Congo, from First Baptist.

GRANDSON ATTENDS Also present were Rev. Orval Dunkled, home on furlough from Rhodesia, South Africa, and Steve Savage, of Quito, Ecuador, a senior at Wheaton College. Steve is a grandson of the honored couple.

Arrangements of red and white carnations, pine cones and evergreens centered the white linen cutwork cloths and the refreshment tables. P. 11 tapers in silver candelabra were white.

Serving at the coffee and punch tables were Mrs. George Cook, Mrs. John Crow, Mrs. H. L. Stout, Mrs. Edward A. Stepleton, Mrs. Alice Thomas, Mrs. Lois Payne, Mrs. Irwin Collins, Helen Barnett, Mrs. Margaret Putnam, and Mrs. Edward M. Mc Lario.

Mrs. Frank Rudloff and Mrs. Stuart Davis served as co-chairmen of the reception.

Sunday morning some 1,100 members of the congregation braved slippery streets and highways to hear their pastor's parting message.

LAUDS CHURCH WORKERS Dr. Savage paid tribute to members of the working staff at First Baptist. He said he couldn't have carried out the work alone.

He then spoke of his wife. "Mrs. Savage has been more than a helpmate. Quietly and humbly she has given power and encouragement to me down through the 48 years of our married life."

Speaking of his ministry, Dr. Savage stressed, "I have preached 2,200 sermons in this church from this precious old Book and I haven't run out yet. The Bible is like a gold mine, the more you dig, the more will be found."

Floyd Miles then introduced Dr. Tom Malone of Emmanuel Church who spoke of his association with Dr. Savage and presented him with the keys to a new automobile, a gift from the church and friends in the community.

A hi fi console was presented to the couple at the evening service when the choir offered a Christmas cantata under the direction of Kyle Wilson. Dr. Savage pronounced the benediction.

The Savages will spend Christmas with Mrs. Savage's family in Tucson, Ariz. During the month of January they will be on the West Coast for meetings arranged by World Radio Missionary Fellowship in the interest of the stations in Quito, Ecuador.

Some of the speaking engagements they will return to their home on the Maranatha Bible Conference Grounds near Muskegon.

Decorations will feature formal table arrangements and the family tree brought from the Martins' lodge at Mullet Lake.

Students of PS 149 Give Fellows a Hand

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At PS 149, a junior high school in Brooklyn, N. Y., a fine thing goes on. Children are getting together to correct the results, not only of their parents' incapacity, but of our cities' deteriorating public school systems.

These are not the words used by Parents' magazine in its presentation of one of its annual Youth Achievement Awards to PS 149. They are my words.

Every day, even in Brooklyn the children of PS 149 who can read the English language open a book like "Jane Eyre" or "Huckleberry Finn" — and from its pages read to other children in whose printed words are meaningless marks on paper.

For 70 per cent of their school's population is Puerto Rican or Negro, offspring of Spanish-speaking or illiterate Americans whose own reading disability qualifies them from making a parent's basic contribution to a child's education: an appetite for books.

So, every day on time that your child claims for his own studies, the illiterate students of PS 149 serve their illiterate fellows as proxy parents.

The reading they do has stimulated such delight in books among the nonreaders that English teachers can scarcely cope with the learning hunger that has replaced the old boredom and apathy.

This column is not written to compliment the creativeness of Melvin Deichman, the young social studies teacher who originated PS 149's educational experiment. He needs nobody's compliments, results being what they are. Nor is it written because I get mad at the demagoguery that shoves unprepared children through our antiquated big-city educational machinery in the name of "justice to all."

It is not written because I deplore modern methods for the teaching of reading as sentimentally evasive of the fact that learning to read is work. It is written to hail PS 149 for proving that you can't teach a child to read unless he has tasted books, any more than you can lead a horse to water and make him drink unless he is thirsty.

If our schools have been driven to sentimentalize the teaching of reading to children, it is because parents of the children have failed to read to them before they were sent to school.

We have failed to give little boys and girls that appetite for reading that would enable them to work, to drill, to memorize dull phonetics as we are all willing to work and struggle for what has been made inviting, worth-while and meaningful to us.

Are you reading a story to your preschool youngster tonight?

Talented Older Workers Face Problem

Forced Retirement a Waste

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
I had the great pleasure of being present at the annual meeting of The National Council on the Aging which met in New York City recently. The National Council on the Aging was formerly The National Committee on the Aging of the National Social Welfare Assembly.

I long have known of their great, forward-looking work. As a matter of fact, I interviewed Otto A. Randall, a vice president, some 10 years ago. At the meeting, many interesting papers were presented which showed tremendous concern about the problems of the growing number of older people in our modern world.

Many of the talks highlighted the problems faced by the older worker because of age discrimination, of automation and retirement. More and more companies are pushing for earlier retirement.

MORE JOBS

Asst. Secretary of Labor Jerry P. Holloman feels technological changes or automation creates many more jobs in the long run than it wipes out at any one period of time.

He also said the outlook for employment of the older worker is theoretically splendid. To quote: "Our potential labor force through 1970 has a squeeze in the so-called 'pedestal' age bracket, 35 to 44. Our workers must come, therefore, from the tremendously expanding youth group up to 25, and the veteran worker group 45 and older." However, Mr. Holloman warns this will not happen overnight. It will take time.

He continued, "It is ironic that a so-called progressive nation like the United States has been relying on actuarial statistics of the Victorian Age as a measure of a worker's potential today. Since 1900, nearly 10 years have been added to our working years—almost 20 to our life expectancy. BUT, more than half a century later, we still clutch at our bosom the yardstick of working years attributed to a shorter life span."

Doesn't that seem downright silly? The general feeling at this meeting seemed to be that compulsory retirement is a terrific waste of talent and a blow to the individual financially and emotionally.

Chances are looking up for employment of women beyond 45—and quite a ways beyond—if we follow the experts' advice to stop forcing early retirement.

OES Women Meet for Holiday Fete

Twenty-four members of Group 4, Order of the Eastern Star, exchanged gifts at a Christmas luncheon Thursday at Greenfield's Birmingham Restaurant. Cards and presents were prepared for shut-in members.

Mrs. Bruce Rockwell presented a gift from the group to Mrs. Cecil Diehl, president. Mrs. Arthur Buckler and Mrs. Vernon Haire were honored with individual birthday cakes. A dessert-luncheon in Mrs. Haire's home on North Sanford Street is set for Jan. 18.

Yule Lunch Held

November Group of the First Presbyterian Church attended the annual Christmas luncheon meeting this week in the home of Mrs. John Abel on Motorway Drive, Waterford Township. Mrs. Robert Davis, who was co-hostess, gave the Bible study from the Book of St. John.

Mrs. Galen E. Hershey installed officers for the coming year: Mrs. Reginald Wharton, chairman; Mrs. Abel, vice chairman; Mrs. Robert Newell, secretary and Mrs. Victor Brown, treasurer.

The Wednesday afternoon gathering closed with carol singing and a gift exchange.

Joint Program on Foreign Yule Attended by 150

Some 150 members and guests attended the annual "Christmas Around the World" program sponsored jointly by the New Citizens' League of Pontiac and Janice Antona's citizenship class Friday evening at the Pontiac Central High School cafeteria.

The Chrysalaires of Pontiac Northern High School sang carols with Mrs. Joseph Bennett, accompanied and Mrs. Theodore Wiersma showed Christmas movies.

FOREIGN CUSTOMS

Christmas customs from other lands were told by Anny van Bergen, Holland; Antoinette Antilla, France; Cecilia de Franco, Colombia; Horacio Peinado, Bolivia; Eva Cerny, Czechoslovakia; Maria Smith, Italy; and Christa Davis and Maria Hayes of Germany.

German and Italian members and guests sang Yule songs and Miss Antona read a holiday greeting from Congressman William S. Broomfield, Santa Claus, who was guest of honor, arrived with gifts for the youngsters.

Cakes and cookies from old-world recipes were served from a long table centered with an exquisite German wood-carving of celestial figures playing harps. Mrs. Herbert Langton was chairman of the house committee.

Florida Escapee Nabbed by State Police, FBI

PAW PAW UP — An escapee from a Florida prison farm was captured by state police and federal agents Sunday night after he had driven from Cincinnati, Ohio, to a suburb of Grand Rapids, to report that his wife, Rita, 36, was in the company of a fugitive.

Held on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid detention was Eugene Napier, 36, an escapee from a prison farm in Duval County, Fla.

State police and federal agents said Napier was wanted for a series of offenses, including murder.

The story was exploded late Sunday night when Guy Holmes called the Rockledge State Police post from his home in Wyoming, a suburb of Grand Rapids, to report that his wife, Rita, 36, was in the company of a fugitive.

He told newspaper she had no idea that Napier was wanted by police. She said he had volunteered to drive her because he said he was going to look for work in Michigan.

"He was a perfect gentleman," Mrs. Holmes said. "He drove very carefully over all the bumps," the expectant mother said, and he was nice to me than a brother."

Holmes, a press operator at a metals firm, said his wife received her doctor's permission to travel to Cincinnati Saturday because he had to work Friday night and they were unable to get a baby sitter.

"My brother-in-law was supposed to drive her back," Holmes said. He could not explain why his relatives in Cincinnati permitted his wife to accompany Napier on the auto trip.

CHEER PRESIDENT — Venezuelans, some waving U.S. flags, shout greetings to President Kennedy as his motorcade passed through the heart of Caracas. One of the many Venezuelan soldiers who guarded the presidential route keeps an eye on the procession.

JFK's Welcome Vitamins for U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Kennedy's reception in his bold venture into Latin America—particularly the wildly happy outpouring in Bogota—can prove an important shot in the arm for U.S. policy.

Here Kennedy put this challenge to the wealthy class of Latin America: Reform yourselves or face violent revolution and destruction.

This is a challenge to peaceful revolution and destruction.

This is a challenge to peaceful revolution and destruction. This is a challenge to peaceful revolution and destruction. This is a challenge to peaceful revolution and destruction.

The Kennedy journey, despite some gloomy advance prophecies of disaster, took on a look of success likely to go a long way in persuading Congress to foot bills for the alliance program.

The results of the trip must be painful to Communists and followers of Cuba's Fidel Castro. The trip could have resulted in a broadcast for Washington if there had been any show of violence or hostility. There were plenty of possibilities. In Venezuela, the Communists, though small in number, are tightly organized and disciplined.

chance to round up Red leaders. In the second place, there is a real affection for the Kennedys among Venezuelans. Communists stood to lose, locally at least, more than they might gain by trying to kick up a fuss. Many of the Castro extremists were rounded up in advance of the visit and held in jail.

There were many rumors that der state of siege powers, the Castroists and Communists would try and sabotage the Kennedy trip. Communists boasted in Caracas they would stage some important shot in the arm for U.S. policy.

This indicates the Communists and Castroists do not have it so easy as might be suspected from the noise they make. It also suggests that room exists for bold action in Latin America such as the President undertook with his journey.

Extremists faced a dilemma. To act was dangerous. Not to act was to give the Yankees an opportunity to dramatize their alliance program to Latin Americans and score a propaganda victory.

Communists apparently decided on the side of caution.

In Bogota's case there seems little doubt the Communists themselves issued orders against demonstrations, probably certain in advance that acts would fall in the face of President Alberto Lleras Camargo's security precautions.

Had the Communists persisted in an attempt, it would have given Lleras Camargo, who rules unsalutarily in content than the oceans.

His and Hers

Holly and ivy have been identified with Christmas from a very early date. Holly really is supposed to represent the master of will, live the longer.

And Julanders light two long candles to represent the heads of the family. The candle that outburns early date. Holly really is supposed to represent the master of will, live the longer.

FRACTURED 'EM — Wrist-to-elbow casts on both arms are not going to hinder this tot in his anxiety to play with toys, especially with Christmas just around the corner. Kill Arab Infiltrators

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Three Arab infiltrators were killed in the central Negev Desert Sunday in a clash with an Israeli military patrol, an Israeli army spokesman announced. A fourth infiltrator was wounded and captured, the spokesman added.

The mothers of young children undoubtedly will appreciate a gift such as a set of gaily decorated glasses to coax the tots to drink their milk.

West Berliners Decorate Wall With Yule Lights

BERLIN (AP)—Thousands of Christmas tree lights went on at dusk Sunday along Berlin's Red wall, carrying the greetings of West Berliners to countrymen in the Communist East. The Communists replied over their loudspeakers with propaganda and jazz music.

Mayor Willy Brandt symbolically switched on the lights in a month ceremony as a Communist loudspeaker blared in the background.

More than 3,000 West Berliners braved near-zero cold to hear Brandt say, "We need make no demonstrations. The light of these trees will speak our greetings to our countrymen." More than 800 evergreens placed along the 25-mile barrier of concrete and barbed wire through the city were lighted at twilight. Almost no part of the border was out of sight of at least one.

All It Takes for Wreath Is Foundation and Pine

It's easy to make your own wreath for the door or for the window. Use a strong wire frame for the foundation. Cover this with tape, then wire pine cones and berries on separately. Use the soft ends of the evergreen tips for your wreath because they are pliable and adjust nicely to the foundation. A spray of holly may be added here and there and a large colorful bow of bright ribbon will add the finishing touch.

Grows Flowers on Large Scale for Railroad

VICTORIA, British Columbia (UPI) — It just might be a hard job tending that flower garden on your one-acre suburban plot, consider the case of A. C. Christie, chief horticulturist for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In his seven greenhouses at Lake Island near here, Christie raises the flowers that eventually are shipped to 13 Canadian Pacific's western hotels, stations, railway dining cars and ships.

Among recent shipments were 45,000 forced bulbs such as tulips, gladioli, daffodils, ranunculus, hyacinths and iris; 5,000 tropical and flowering plants, 15,000 lilies, 6,000 nemas and 5,000 geraniums, and 15,000 flowers such as snap and mums.

Pontiac Hearing Set by Con-Con

To Air Civil Service Provisions of Present State Constitution

A special subcommittee of constitutional convention delegates will be in Pontiac tomorrow to hold a public hearing on the civil service provisions of Michigan's present constitution.

Delegate Raymond L. King, R-Pontiac, chairman of the civil service subcommittee, said the hearing will be held here because Oakland County has some 1,600 state employees, more than any other county except Wayne and Ingham.

"We're hoping that all Oakland County groups and individuals who have a particular interest in the state's civil service setup will attend the hearing and make their views known," King said today. The Pontiac delegate said his subcommittee is particularly concerned with finding out the public's views on civil service exemptions.

Other members of the subcommittee, which is part of the constitutional convention, include William O. Green, D-Detroit; H. W. Hatch, R-Detroit; Clyde W. Dursi, Jr., R-Ann Arbor; and William C. Marshall, D-Troy, executive vice president of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

"The general pattern of thinking in the executive committee appears to be toward a reduction in state agencies from the present 122 to about 20," King said.

"This, of course, will call for a review of the present constitutional provision on civil service exemptions," he added.

King also said a major problem confronting his group is whether or not Michigan should retain the existing constitution, or make amendments earmarking one percent of the state's payroll for civil service administrative costs.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. tomorrow in the supervisors' room of the old Oakland County Office Building, 1 Lafayette St.

Army Sergeant Slain in Bedroom Gun Duel

LAWTON, Okla. (AP)—A bedroom slant duel witnessed from a closet by the wife of one victim, took the life of an Army sergeant and critically wounded a police detective Sunday.

M. Sgt. Dow Farrar, 35, home on emergency leave from Germany, found his estranged wife, who was police Lt. R. A. Davis, 37, said Detective Capt. Cleo Stout.

Capt. Stout said Farrar was granted leave two weeks ago after his wife filed for divorce.

Stout said the soldier invaded the home of Mrs. Leatha Chiles, a friend of his wife, in search of Davis and Mrs. Farrar. He found them hiding in a closet.

"Come out or I'll shoot," he said. Farrar counted to three before firing several shots. Davis was hit twice. He returned the fire and Farrar fell with three wounds in the abdomen.

Report No Hike in Radioactive Fallout in Snow

One of winter's pastimes for though the practice is not recommended, anyway, authorities note there is no increase in radioactive fallout in snowfall this year.

In answer to questions from parents about the effect of recent nuclear tests on snowfall, Dr. John D. Monroe, director of the Oakland County Health Department, said there is no reason for concern.

"Whenever there is any marked degree of change in radioactive fallout in Michigan, we are immediately notified by the State Health Department."

"So far, there has been no such report. Indications have been that remaining fallout from the recent Russian tests will come in rainfall next spring," Dr. Monroe explained.

"However, we do not recommend eating snow in any case," he added.

Report No Hike in Radioactive Fallout in Snow

One of winter's pastimes for though the practice is not recommended, anyway, authorities note there is no increase in radioactive fallout in snowfall this year.

In answer to questions from parents about the effect of recent nuclear tests on snowfall, Dr. John D. Monroe, director of the Oakland County Health Department, said there is no reason for concern.

"Whenever there is any marked degree of change in radioactive fallout in Michigan, we are immediately notified by the State Health Department."

"So far, there has been no such report. Indications have been that remaining fallout from the recent Russian tests will come in rainfall next spring," Dr. Monroe explained.

"However, we do not recommend eating snow in any case," he added.

Avon Unit Initiates Plan on Voters' Qualifications

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has initiated a method for insuring that only qualified voters vote at annual township meetings.

Those at the meeting who intend to vote now must sign an affidavit stating that they are qualified electors. If their suffrage is questioned, township officials will check the voting rolls against their affidavit.

A nonqualified voter at the meeting could be charged and prosecuted for perjury if his signed affidavit was false.

There has been no registration system for those attending the meetings and, presumably, under the old method, nonvoters or even nonresidents could have voted.

In addition, the board has passed a resolution that the township supervisor, who acts as moderator, will accept any written motion prior to the meeting and will read it at the meeting, providing the author is present and will formally make the motion.

This new procedure does not preclude, however, that other motions may be made from the floor. It is designed primarily for the convenience of the voters.

Voting, as in the past, will be by voice, unless a voter requests a show of hands to decide an issue. Township Clerk Thelma Spencer said nonvoting guests at the meeting will probably be seated in a special section of the hall to allow for identification of qualified electors.

The new opportunity for voters to submit written resolutions is an effort to speed presentation of motions to the meeting.

The annual meeting will be 1 p.m. March 31.

4,000 People View Parade in Milford

This was the first major parade in the village, according to Threlford, and because of the response it will probably become an annual event.

Walled Lake Plant on Maple

Plan New Vehicle Output

By JIM LONG
WALLED LAKE — A strictly functional on and off the road vehicle that can deliver up to 40 miles per gallon and cost less than $1,400 will be manufactured by a new firm here next month.

The 1,600-pound vehicle, as yet unnamed, was designed by Ingo M. Deters, a mechanical engineer from Walled Lake, and will be put into restricted production in mid-January by Bob Southern Vehicle, Inc.

Planning of the vehicle has taken two years, according to Deters, 198 Delta St., and its development from the drawing board to a handmade prototype dates back to September.

Powered by a Kohler air-cooled, L-head, two-cylinder opposed engine, the two-wheeled drive vehicle will, said Deters, offer ideal transportation as a second family vehicle or a rugged sportsman's car.

"Extensive research revealed that there was a basic need for this type of vehicle, at low cost, as opposed to creating a luxury, living-room type automobile," added Deters.

"This multipurpose vehicle will provide basic transportation. There is no fancy trim, only the components that make a car operate. There is no need for a second car to be a luxury automobile."

"The appearance of the vehicle was a subsequent result of functional design," said Deters.

He stressed that the vehicle can be utilized for suburban shopping and gardening, school transportation since it has a capacity to seat six, and for fishing and hunting expeditions into areas that a standard sedan would not be able to travel.

Small businesses could use the vehicle for pickup and delivery, Deters added, and farms could use it as a utility vehicle.

During the first year of operation, the firm, headed by Walled Lake automobile dealer Bob Southern, anticipates production of some 50,000 units.

The Walled Lake assembly plant on Maple Road would serve the entire area of Michigan, Ohio and Indiana. Plans already are being made to let national franchises.

Another optional item will be a power winch, mounted under the hood and in front of the 27-horsepower modified engine, that can be used for heavy duties.

Other members of the firm are Donald Ehemann, chief draftsman, 8024 Barnyard Road, and Robert Gohl, production engineer, 1531 Thorndale St., both of Union Lake.

Jack Frushour's 704 Wins 1961 Press Bowlerama Championship

Actual's Honor to Bob Richards
With 704 Total

LeRoy, Stoddard Take Runnerup Positions in Respective Divisions

The names of Jack Frushour and Bob Richards were added to the list of Pontiac Press Bowlerama champions yesterday at 300 Bowl.

Frushour took the 5th annual handicap tournament crown to win $500 and a handsome trophy. He will also have his name inscribed on an award to carry on through each meet.

Previous handicap titles have been won by Dick Cork, Joe Myers and Ken Leese.

Richards joined Bob Gormong and Paul George as actual victors to take home $50 and a trophy with 704.

Frushour put together games of 219-233-189 for a 641 actual and 704 handicap total to beat out 156 finalists. It was the highest score ever posted in the finals.

John LeRoy ranked close behind with 697 to earn a check for $275 and a trophy. He rolled his big game first, a 336, and followed with 187-192 for 609 to go with his 88 handicap.

Ken Buckley put a big 123 "spot" to good use for a 3rd place finish. He rolled 172-221-180 for a 586 total and was rewarded with $150 and a trophy.

Gilbert Luebke was right on his heels in No. 4 position, at 602. He hit 225-202-209 for 636 actual and win $125.

Paul Miller edged A. C. Smith by one pin for 4th place at 610. Miller, who had clinched $10 in addition previously by firing the actual series at Huron, led the way in that department again Sunday with 464 on 195-202-255 and totaled 631. Smith scored 193-233-189 and had a 65 handicap for a 575 prize.

Car salesman Bill Pollitte is $60 richer today. He combined a 569 actual with a 102 handicap for 671, beating out Mike Reamer for 7th by a single pin. Pollitte bowled 202-187-189. Reamer, with a 73 handicap, had 182-166-246-381 actual. He won $50.

Pat Treacy gained himself $40 with 699, 629 of it actual. The veteran had games of 203-225-200.

Don Demmer, whose wife Pat was champion one year and runnerup the other when the women were in the tourney, got a $35 check for 664. He hit 191-192-289 actual.

Electrical contractor Bill Jarrett had already won $10 a trophy for being top qualifier at Collier's Lanes and added $30 to that with a 637 in the finals. He had singles of 195-199-214. The same was true of Huron top qualifier Joe Monti. He earned another $25 with 654 featuring games of 178-188-211.

Eight others were presented awards of $20 for top performance. Tom Somers and A. J. Menn matched 651s with Menn rolling the higher actual of 582. Bill Bland, with a 113 handicap, had 630. Ralph Puentes 648, Orville Thompson, Bill Greenfield, Mike Baker and Gary Thompson 648. Gary had a 598 actual.

Richards got a big boost of steam from an opening 287 and went on to 721 and 716.

Vic Stoddard, 4th in the handicap tourney a year ago, was a distant 2nd in the actual this time with 647 with 207-264-176 for $25 and a trophy.

Frank Spadeford and Vin Spencer each hit .645 to win $12.50 apiece. Spadeford dropped to 150 after a 255 and then came back with 238. Spencer won 195-259-191.

George Chiovolky, Jay Carroll and Jim Walker each in that order for $10. Chiovolky rolled 211-233-191-435. Jay 245-228-157-431 and Walker 206-244-238-428.

Bernie Greenwood and Gene Connolly won money in the finals besides $10 and a trophy for being high qualifiers at Lakewood and Wonderland, respectively.

Co-proprietor Bob Kulland accepted the handsome team trophy for 1st annual "house" champion Lakewood. He, Bill Bull, Gary Thompson, Carl Buehler and Bob Leary won an additional $10 as team members.

Afley Sheffer, Lloyd Hoover, Jerry Harnack and Gormong all won $10 for high actual games in qualifying rounds. Les Rabinovich, Paul Edwards, Paul Miller and Chiovolky received the same for top series.

Bowling League Drops 2 Teams Over Finances

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The National Bowling League resumes its schedule Tuesday night minus two of its original members—Omaha and San Antonio.

Commissioner Dick Charles said it was costing $40,000 per month to carry Omaha, which ran into attendance trouble, and San Antonio, which has been a road club operated by the league since the start of the season in October.

Dallas, Fort Worth, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit, New York, Los Angeles, Fresno and Kansas City now make up the circuit. Players on the two clubs were made free agents.

Eight others were presented awards of $20 for top performance. Tom Somers and A. J. Menn matched 651s with Menn rolling the higher actual of 582. Bill Bland, with a 113 handicap, had 630. Ralph Puentes 648, Orville Thompson, Bill Greenfield, Mike Baker and Gary Thompson 648. Gary had a 598 actual.

Attendance Dips

No Move by Grid Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis football Cardinals second season in St. Louis wasn't all that was hoped for—largely because of an injury spree—but the managed men didn't planning to move the club to another city next year.

"Certainly, we'll give it another try next year," said Walter Wolfner, the Cardinals' managing director, after the Cards blanked Pittsburgh 20-0 for a second straight fourth-place finish in the National Football League's Eastern Conference. Wolfner added:

"We have a hard core of loyal, enthusiastic fans and they have really taken this team to heart. Their support has really helped the club. We will simply have to add to this group."

He didn't deny, though, that it was a disappointing season, attendance-wise. Only twice in seven home games did the Cards clear the $90,000 Wolfner said they must have to meet their commitments. Only television income avoided a major red ink bath.

In the last three games, attendance dipped under 20,000, less than half the NFL average. What's more, attendance was down somewhat from last season. The club lost its first four home games, and this hurt.

Wolfner signed Sam Ercheverria, a nine-season starter in the NECKTIE PRESENT — It isn't Christmas yet, but Detroit Lion Gary Lowe made Pete Retzlaff (44) of the Eagles a necktie tackle present yesterday at Tiger Stadium where Philadelphia won a 27-24 decision. Lowe broke up a pass play on the goal line here.

Preview Won by Eagles

Lions Lose 27-24 Thriller to End Regular Season

Detroit and Philadelphia Will Meet Again Jan. 6 in Playoff Bowl

BY BILL CORNWELL

DETROIT — As things developed Sunday afternoon, the Detroit Lions and Philadelphia Eagles staged a preview of their Jan. 6 Playoff Bowl engagement at Miami, Fla.

The Lions can only hope that the rematch has a happier ending.

Riding on the golden arm of quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and the accurate eye of Bobby Walston, the Eagles posted a come-from-behind 27-24 triumph over the Lions yesterday in a National Football League thriller at Tiger Stadium before 44,231 cash customers.

Walston's 10-yard field goal with only 25 seconds of game time remaining won the decision for the Eagles, who still had hopes of earning a tie for the Eastern Division title when the contest began.

Their hopes died when the New York Giants clinched the Eastern crown by playing a 7-7 tie with the Cleveland Browns in Yankee Stadium.

Thanks to an assist from the Baltimore Colts, the Lions already had their Playoff Bowl spot assured at kickoff time.

The Colts defeated the San Francisco 49ers Saturday, 27-24, to guarantee the Lion's trip to Miami.

Jurgensen was nothing short of sensational yesterday, clicking on 27 of 42 passes for 384 yards and pitched scoring touchdowns to Tommy McDonald, Pete Retzlaff and Dick Lucas.

Jim Ninowski went all the way at kickoff, kicking a 36-yard field goal to put on their best offensive show in four weeks. Ninowski completed 16 of 26 aerials for 285 yards, highlighted by an 84-yard touchdown strike to Gail Cogdill.

Most of the fireworks came in the 2nd half. The two teams traded late-quarter field goals and Jurgensen's one-yard TD throw to McDonald in the final 20 seconds of the 2nd period gave the Eagles a 10-3 lead at halftime.

Irv Cross recovered Nick Pietrangola's fumble on the Detroit 49 and 11 plays later Walston booted a 21-yard field goal. Eight plays later Jim Martin kicked a perfect 49-yard field goal to tie the score.

Detroit evened the count at 10-10 on the 2nd play of the 3rd period as Ninowski's long bomb connected with Cogdill.

BUTLEGS FOR TD Jurgensen's 11-yard touchdown pass to Retzlaff enabled the Eagles to regain the lead, 17-10, entering the 4th quarter. Then the Lions rallied twice to go ahead, 24-17.

Detroit tied the count at 17-17 on the first play of the 4th period when Ninowski ramblled 14 yards for a TD on a bootleg.

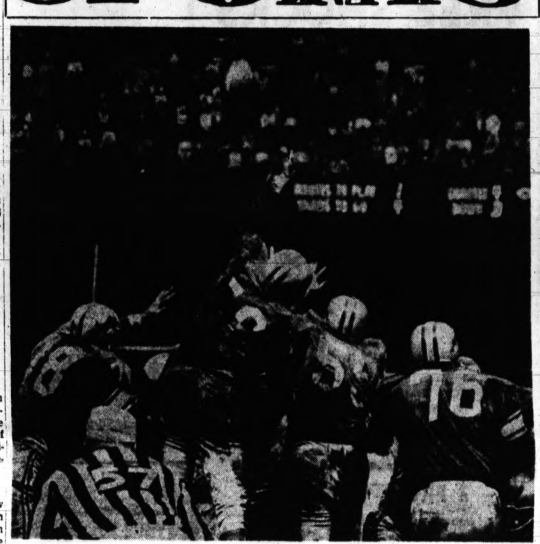

A pass interference penalty against Cross, who accidentally tripped Cogdill in the end zone, gave the Lions the ball on the Eagle one from where Pietrangola scored to put the Lions in front.

A fake field goal attempt furnished the Eagles with the tying TD with 3:47 left to play.

With 4:13 and 13 to go on the Lion 16, Walston dropped back for an apparent three-point try from the 23, but Jurgensen straightened up and rifled the ball to Lucas, who tallied easily as the Lions were caught flat-footed defensively.

Don Burroughs intercepted Nig's 16-yard aerial to set the stage for Walston's winning field goal.

Red Wings Red-Hot; but Adams Is Also

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings were quick in triggering goals last night—and general manager Jack Adams was just quick on the trigger.

The stizzling Wings beat down the first-place Montreal Canadiens 5-1 with Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe sending them ahead 2-0 in the first two minutes.

Adams, meanwhile, launched another blast at National Hockey League officials. The grizzled manager, his face flushed, belted out loud and long at referee Edith Carl Voss. He complained that Detroit's Vic Stasiuk was chopped down at the Montreal goal and referee Eddie Powers didn't call a penalty.

"What kind of thing is that?" Adams screamed. "What are those referees doing to us. That was deliberate holding."

Voss remained silent, but said later he would file a report to NHL president Clarence Campbell's office.

"We work our guts out trying to get people into the building and then they have to watch."

The Rangers were beaten 3-1 last night by the Chicago Black Hawks, who remained three points behind Detroit in fifth.

Toronto defeated Boston 4-1 in the other NHL game last night. Dave Keon scored twice for the Maple Leafs with Frank Mahovlich and Marcel Pronovost tallying an insurance goal for Detroit in the final five minutes.

With four straight victories and an unbeaten string of six, the Red Wings now trail the third-place New York Rangers by just two points.

RANGERS BEATEN The Rangers were beaten 3-1 last night by the Chicago Black Hawks, who remained three points behind Detroit in fifth.

The scheduled Grapman Mt. Ski Jumping tournament was called off yesterday when rain turned the snow to slush. Several jumpers tried the 30-meter jump despite the conditions. Another tournament is scheduled for later in the season.

The Minnesota Gophers were due to fly in to Pasadena, California, today to start working out for their meeting with UCLA in the Rose Bowl, New Year's Day.

The Philadelphia Eagles announced the signing of four more of their draft choices, Boston College tackle, Bill Byrne, Washington guard Jim Skaggs, Tulane center Larry Thomas and Florida tackle Jim Beaver.

Tickets have gone on sale for the annual Motor City Basketball Classic which will have one of its best fights with St. Bonaventure, DePaul, Syracuse and host U. of D. The tourney dates are December 29-30.

Par Takes Beating in Mixed Tourney SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Dave Ragan of Sun City, Fla., and blonde Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., are scotch mixed foursomes champions after a frugal 72 strokes that won them $1,738.

Ragan and Miss Wright skirted close to par only once in the 72 holes of play that topped 16 strokes of regulation figures.

"They put together a 3-under-par 69 in the final round out of the $25,000 tournament seven strokes ahead of their nearest rivals, Sam Snead and Patty Berg of St. Andrews, N.J.

West Denounces India's Action; Reds Happy

Invasion of Goa Draws Boos, Applause

LONDON (AP) — India's invasion of Portuguese Goa was strongly denounced in Western countries today and applauded by commentators in Communist nations.

The neutralist nations, which usually look to India for leadership, mostly remained noncommittal. Indonesia, itself involved in a bitter quarrel with the Netherlands over Dutch New Guinea, gave strong support to India's invasion of Goa and the other enclaves of Damão and Diu.

In the West, Prime Minister Nehru was accused of betraying his role as peacemaker.

In London, the British Commonwealth Relations Office said Britain's high commissioner in New Delhi, Sir Paul Gore-Boult, had protested to Nehru against the military action.

PREPARES STATEMENT

Commonwealth Relations Minister Duncan Sandys prepared a statement to the House of Commons on the invasion of Goa.

The clash puts Britain on the spot. India is the largest member of the Commonwealth. Portugal is one of Britain's oldest allies.

It is also a partner of Britain as one of the 12 charter members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. That 1949 pact, however, was formed to meet Communist aggression and does not apply to ousting holdings.

In Washington, State Department officials said the United States has decided against immediate steps in the United Nations to oppose India's invasion. But these officials did state that the United States strongly disapproves India's action.

In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry received the news of the attack with "astonishment and regret."

ASKS 'PEACEFUL MEANS'

A statement said "France believes all differences among nations should be resolved by peaceful means."

In The Hague, Netherlands government officials feared attack on Goa might influence Indonesia in the dispute over Dutch New Guinea.

"It might very well set a precedent for President Sukarno in Indonesia to follow this example in Netherlands West New Guinea," a government source said.

A Dutch Foreign Ministry spokesman said: "The Dutch government deplores the fact that India, always a champion for the principles of the charter of the United Nations and opposing the use of force to realize national purposes, now has taken the law into its own hands."

SPAIN SLAMS ATTACK

Spanish officials expressed sympathy with India's action. One official said India's attack is "unjustified and a violation of all that India has long stood for."

Spain and Portugal are bound by a mutual defense pact. But Spanish officials said they did not expect Portugal to call on Spain for aid in the defense of Goa.

In Oslo, the Norwegian afternoon paper "Verdens Gang" declared: "After this, the Indian premier will have grave difficulties in acting as the guardian of morals where and when there is a threat of forceful solution to a problem."

In Communist countries, the invaders were hailed as liberators.

'COLONIZERS GET OUT'

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said in a recent speech the Portuguese should give up the enclaves and the Communist party paper Pravda today featured an article saying "Colonizers get out of India."

The Russian people were told about the attacks in a news bulletin on Moscow radio which said: "Indian troops crossed the frontier of the Portuguese colonies of Goa, Damão and Diu in order to liberate their population from Portuguese colonial domination. The attack of the Indian troops is proceeding successfully."

Moscow news bulletins quoted New Delhi's official position that India is not committing aggression but liberating parts of its own territory "illegally seized by the Portuguese, contrary to the U.N. charter."

In Communist East Germany, the party paper Neues Deutschland carried the news under a banner headline. Its report said the attack was against "a cruel colonial mastery" of part of India's territory.

PAKISTAN ANGRY

Pakistan, long at odds with India over Kashmir, sharply criticized the invasion. A Foreign Office spokesman said: "This is yet more demonstration of the fact that India remains violent and aggressive at heart whatever may be the pious statements made from time to time by Indian leaders."

One Japanese paper supported the invasion and another expressed regret.

An editorial of mass circulation Tokyo Daily Yomiuri Shinbun viewed the situation as "an inevitable consequence of a liberation movement backed by the global tide of anticolonialism."

"Though an armed action is regrettable, we can not recognize the presence of 'Angola' in Asia," it said.

HITS NEHRU TACTIC

Asahi Shinbun, another leading paper, in its editorial expressed regret that the armed action conflicted with the "Nehru diplomacy which had pacified as its basis."

In Canberra, Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said he regretted India's use of force.

He said he recognized Indian public opinion felt strongly about the dispute, but added it was the responsibility of nations to seek their objectives through legal processes or by peaceful negotiations in accordance with the U.N. charter.

'Anibal House' Name Used in Appreciation

Rain and mist dampened the campus yesterday, but inside Anibal House spirits glowed as Michigan State University Oakland coeds accepted their new $300,000 residence.

A sophomore coed from Warren, Norma Brock, made the acceptance speech and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Anibal for their $30,000 gift, part of which provided furniture for the dorm. Miss Brock is student president of the women's residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Anibal, who live at 1455 Cranbrook Road Bloomfield Township, were present to inspect the two-story, two-wing dorm. When the next term starts, Jan. 2, about 90 girls will call it their home.

The coeds now live in one wing of the men's dorm.

The ceremonies were topped off by the unveiling of a plaque in the dorm vestibule. It reads: "In appreciation of the contributions of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Anibal to the academic and student life of the University, this residence is named Anibal House."

Attending the ceremonies were Chancellor D. B. Varner, Dean of Students, Duncan Sells, and an estimated 100 students.

The Anibal gift was in the form of 1,000 shares of General Motors Corp. stock.

Minuteman Notches Second Silo Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Minuteman intercontinental range missile blasted out of an underground silo today and raced to a target 3,500 miles away.

The Air Force announced the success, second in a row for Minuteman from the 55-foot-deep pit. The good shot kept the push-button missile on schedule toward an operational goal of next summer.

A mushroom of fire and smoke burst from the tube as the 85-foot rocket ignited. Seconds later, the missile shot through the smoke cloud, pitched to the southeast and sped swiftly from sight. All three solid-propellant engines fired as planned at approximately one-minute intervals.

Supervisors to Get Proposals on 1962 Legislative Program

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors will get its first look at proposed goals for the 1962 state legislature when the board meets in Pontiac tomorrow.

A six-point program is being recommended by the board's legislative committee.

Among major items is a proposal to seek legislation that would allow a tax exemption for private home fallout shelters.

The committee, headed by Berkeley Supervisor John G. Semman, recommends a $50 tax exemption for families having completed a fallout shelter for their use.

The $500 limit is suggested as representing an adequate expenditure. It would prevent any further exemption for lavish trimmings that might be included in a shelter, corporation counsel Norman E. Barnard stated.

Seeking to pave the way for a future major airport in Oakland County, the committee also is suggesting an amendment to the Airport Act "to permit the public works department to establish, operate and maintain a county airport."

While no site has been named yet, twenty-officials-fortress-the need of a major airport here at least half the size of Detroit Metropolitan Airport by 1975.

PROPOSE AMENDMENT

The committee also recommends a proposed amendment to the state constitution which would raise the county's debt limit from the present 3 per cent of state equalized valuation to a maximum 5 per cent.

This would enable the county to complete major projects, such as sewer and water facilities needed by an expanding population, at a faster clip by raising the limit of indebtedness on bond issues.

The board of supervisors will face a relatively light agenda tomorrow.

A planning commission proposal to apply for a federal grant for an economic survey of Oakland County will be reviewed by the board.

As explained by Planning Commission Director George N. Skrubbs, the purpose of using the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency 701 Planning Grant would be threefold.

It would bring the county's complete economic file up to date, complete the remaining portion of the county land use inventory and develop better understanding of the county's economic potential, Skrubbs said.

In effect the grant would provide more money towards the job already being done by county planners, thus enabling faster completion of the survey, according to Skrubbs.

The county's share of 25 per cent of the total $102,163 cost for the survey would be covered by the money to be spent in planners' salaries here anyways, he said.

The federal grant, which would not have to be repaid, is for a 2-year program, said Skrubbs.

"This program would accelerate our effort already under way, and also would give us a better starting point to continue keeping the data up to date ourselves," he said.

The program would include surveys of county population, labor force and employment, industrial composition, industrial land use, retail land use and market structure and wholesale markets.

Nehru's Demands Go Back Before 1950

Invasion of Goa Has Been Building Up

BY PHIL NEWSOM United Press International

India's invasion of Goa, Damão and Diu today has been building up a long time.

Even before India became an independent republic in 1950, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had been demanding that Portugal give up the territories.

Portugal considers Goa a province of metropolitan Portugal. India simply considered it a colony on Indian soil.

Whatever it may be, the 1,535-square-mile area hardly was worth a war except as a matter of national prestige.

Nehru, whose motto has been peace at almost any price, has not been shy recently about saying what India would do if the Chinese Communists should try to take over territory claimed by India in the north. He said Indians would "repel and resist aggression."

Today he carried through on another recent warning:

"We have always been reluctant to solve problems by force. But there can be only one solution of the Goa problem. The Portuguese must get out."

PROMISES FIGHT

Portugal, last of the great European colonial powers, cites a treaty with Britain in 1661 as proof of its right of sovereignty over Goa and served notice it would fight with all its resources to hold it.

Goa, once a principal embarkation point for the Moslem faithful on their way to Mecca, fell in 1510 to the Portuguese explorer and conqueror Alfonso Albuquerque.

It lies a little more than 200 miles on the coast below Bombay and was Portugal's first territorial possession in Asia.

It has been the administrative center for Portuguese holdings as far to the east as Macao off the Red Chinese coast below Hong Kong.

The shrine to St. Francis Xavier is located in Goa.

As a port, Goa ships cotton and manganese in addition to the area's principal exports of coconuts, fish, spices and cashew nuts.

DENIES ASSIMILATION

It is Nehru's claim that under ritorical disputes in which Nehru is involved. The charges are his arguments with Pakistan over Kashmir, and, of course, his quarrel with Red China.

India, while markedly neutral in India's dispute with Red China, offered its full support of Indian claims on Goa.

He also denounced the Portuguese claim that the Goans have been assimilated. Latest census figures, he said, showed only 517 Europeans in Goa as opposed to nearly 500,000 Indians, most of whom neither speak nor understand Portuguese.

Besides Goa, Portuguese India includes Damão and Diu on either side of the Gulf of Cambay, above Bombay. Together they comprise the third and smallest of three territories.

High Fidelity Fan Will Appreciate a New Tone Arm

For someone who's a hi-fi bug, or even the untutored who just plain like to listen to recorded music, a new magnetic phonograph cartridge or tone arm makes an ideal gift.

Latest improvements in cartridges and tone arms have sharply upgraded the quality of stereo and monophonic record reproduction.

The owner of a high fidelity set can replace his present cartridge, which may be obsolete, with a new one.

If he has a turntable instead of a record changer, he can get one of the new featherweight tone arms.

The cartridge is the component at the end of the tone arm that holds the needle or stylus. As the needle vibrates in the record groove, the cartridge converts these vibrations into electrical impulses which are fed into the amplifier and emerge as sound in the loudspeaker.

LESS WEAR
One of the newest developments in cartridges is the moving-magnet stereo cartridge. The result of this development is that the needle can be much lighter and more flexible than formerly. This means less wear on the record.

It also means that the cartridge needs no stylus. As the needle vibrates in the record groove, producing a finer sound, especially in the higher frequencies.

If your present phonograph is already equipped with a magnetic cartridge, it's a simple matter to replace it with a moving-magnet type.

The screws holding the cartridge in the arm are removed and the lead wires disconnected. Then the new cartridge is installed by slipping the wires on the terminals, and then screwing the cartridge in place.

For hi-fi enthusiasts who play records on professional type turntables, several good tone arms are available.

One of the best is an integrated tone arm and cartridge which plays with a weight of only one gram, lighter than a feather. The arm is so light that you can sweep it across a playing record and not scratch it. Records played with this arm experience practically no wear.

A close cousin of this tone arm is a new counterbalanced arm which accepts any quality cartridge and is easily installed without soldering.

Hope to Grow Plants in High Saline Soils

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Farmers may be able to grow plants in highly saline soils if current agriculture research is successful, according to the Texas A&M College extension service.

The service said scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture have found that some chemicals that retard plant stem growth also were found to prevent salt water damage to plants growing in saline soil.

Soybean plants treated with chemical retardants and grown in salty soil grew to maturity and produced some seeds. Untreated plants wilted and died.

Boy, Early to School, Killed in Explosion

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Ala. (UPI)—An explosion demolished a rural church and killed a 10-year-old boy who had arrived early for Sunday school. The blast injured five others, including the boy's mother, a brother and a sister.

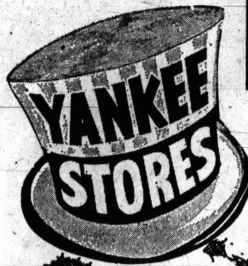

"There'd have been 75 inside if it had been 15 minutes later," said Ursell Morgan, who lives beside the little church in this Northeast Alabama community.

Morgan's nephew, David Morgan, was killed in Sunday's explosion, which occurred when the Sunday school superintendent, John Izemore, tried to light a heater. Three of the four concrete block walls of the church were scratched by blown out.

JFK in Florida Until Tuesday; Has Heavy Cold

Grueling Pace on 3-Day Trip Brings On Head
Congestion; No Fever

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy landed in the United States from a Latin-American tour today with "a heavy cold" and he decided to remain in Palm Beach overnight.

Kennedy and the First Lady drove immediately from the West Palm Beach airport, where the presidential jet had been scheduled to stop only to let off Mrs.

Kennedy for the Christmas holidays.

They had a home which had been opened to them for a three-week period.

Navy Capt. George W. Buckley, assistant White House physician, treated Kennedy once during the night. He drove into the estate where the Kennedys are staying about 15 minutes after the Kennedys arrived.

A GRUELING PACE

Kennedy had originally expected to return to Washington after leaving Mrs. Kennedy here. He put in a grueling pace of travel, speeches and meetings with the chief executives of Puerto Rico, Venezuela and Colombia during the whirlwind trip that started last Friday.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters on the presidential jet that the President had a heavy cold and will remain in Palm Beach.

Salinger added that his present plan is to leave for Washington Tuesday morning.

That indicated Kennedy still expects to meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Bermuda on Thursday for a two-day conference.

It was understood that the President experienced some discomfort during the flight from Bogota and that this led him to remain for a while in Palm Beach.

The climate here is considerably warmer than in Washington. The early morning temperature in Washington today was 36 degrees. In Palm Beach it was 73.

Salinger said the decision to remain in Palm Beach was made only a short time before landing. He said he was called to the President's cabin at 6:45 a.m. and told of the situation.

The Kennedys had taken off from Bogota at 1:07 a.m. and made a scheduled refueling stop at Ramey Air Force Base in Puerto Rico.

The President was laid up for a day or so by a virus infection last June. It struck him just as he was getting back on his feet from a back strain which put him on crutches.

Salinger said that Kennedy had not been affected by Bogota's 8,600-foot altitude.

Start Out With New Table

Why Not a House Gift?

By JANET ODELL

Giving the house a present is one way of getting something special that you have wanted for a long time.

It may be as big as a new freezer or just a little item like a small table for the living room.

We saw one of the latter that would be nice for homes furnished in Early American style. This square table has a tile set in the center. On the tile is the eagle so often associated with this period in furniture.

An inexpensive gift but a needed item in many homes is a new kind of ashtray billed as "smokeless." Made of plastic in a number of colors, this ashtray has a removable top over a deep bowl that catches the ashes.

Do you remember your mother's using a table crumbler between courses at dinner? We hadn't seen one for years until last week. The set consists of a small metal tray with a miniature dustpan and a straight-edge crumb pusher.

Want a gift for a young couple? We made note of a rack holding salt and pepper shakers with a paper napkin holder in the center.

A more expensive gift—this one also wooden—is a walnut computer. Heat it high with gay Christmas tree balls when you present it.

If you entertain a lot, get the house a 15-20 cup automatic percolator. You won't run out of coffee when the gang assembles at your house.

Need a small seat for the front hall? You might consider a brass bench with a quilted plastic cushion on it.

Should you be looking for a small remembrance gift that the recipient can use during the holidays, you have several choices.

You can get sets of place mats, napkins and coasters in designs suitable for Christmas or New Year's. Or you might prefer a box of tiny paper fingertip towels with two bars of soap—one red, the other green.

Both Parties Map Coming Session

LANSING (AP)—Political battle lines for the 1962 legislative session tightened today as Republicans and Democrats alike mapped strategy in separate weekend meetings.

"It will be no love feast, but I'm looking forward to the battle," Gov. Swainson told a Sunday meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee as he disclosed plans to submit a strong program to the Republican-controlled legislature.

Swainson said the program would be even stronger than the one which was blocked by the lawmakers this year.

He said he expected action on his new program because the Democrats have been taking the issues to the people.

The governor's declaration followed by less than 24 hours a caucus of some 50 Republican legislators at GOP state party headquarters here. The meeting was called by State Chairman George Van Puseur to air views on what legislative program should be sought in the next session, which opens Jan. 10.

No specific program was drawn up, a GOP spokesman said, but there was general agreement that larger appropriations would be necessary to cover basic needs in such fields as

Portugal Asks Urgent Meeting of U.N. Council

Demands India Troops Leave Enclaves; U.S. to Avoid Quick Action

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Portugal has asked for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council to consider India's attacks on three Portuguese enclaves on India's west coast. Foreign Minister Francisco Nogueira announced today. The government demanded a cease fire and withdrawal of Indian forces from the enclaves.

"We appeal to the Security Council in order that it may, as it should, within the terms of the charter and on Portugal's request, denounce the Indian Union for an unprovoked military aggression of which the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu are the victims. Portugal expects the Security Council to order the Indian Union to cease fire and withdraw its forces from those territories," a communique said.

"The Portuguese government believes that it would be its duty, to the nation and to history, to exploit all possible sources to defend national territory and safeguard the supremacy of law and morality."

The invasion of Goa, Damao and Diu came after U.N. Secretary-General U Thant failed to get Indian Prime Minister Nehru to negotiate with Portuguese Premier Antonio de Salazar over the enclaves.

The United Nations released Thant's messages to Nehru and Salazar about an hour before the invasion news came and their replies to him a few hours afterward.

300 Feared Killed as Blaze Destroys Brazilian Big Top

NITEROI, Brazil (AP)—Fire roared through a nylon circus tent Sunday as 2,500 persons watched a performance, and Gov. Celso Picanha said the death toll may reach 300 and the injured 1,000.

Officials early today said 180 bodies had been recovered, many of children, but it has been impossible to compile a complete casualty list.

Many of the injured were so badly burned they were not expected to live.

Orders went out to carpenters to make 500 coffins.

It was Brazil's worst disaster in history, worse than the Ringling Bros. fire in Hartford, Conn., in 1944 in which 108 died.

ARSON SUSPECTED

The governor said arson was suspected. Niteroi is across Guanabara Bay from Rio de Janeiro.

The fire flashed up the tent as two trapeze performers began their aerial act. Within five minutes the flames had enveloped the mammoth tent and scared the ropes. The blazing mass fell on the spectators.

Some were trapped in their seats. Others could not get near the exits. Some were trampled to death.

Fear-crazed women and children rushed for the exits, fell atop each other and caught fire.

"I've seen some horrible things, but I never thought I would ever see anything so horrible," said a policeman.

Trucks transferred the bodies to the city morgue. When it was filled, they were taken to the city's soccer stadium. Hundreds of persons searching for missing relatives added to the confusion.

Treatment of the hundreds of injured was hampered by short ages of medicine, blood plasma, hospital beds, doctors and nurses. Air force helicopters flew medical aid and plasma from Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo. Radio appeals brought doctors and nurses from Rio.

Niteroi's five hospitals were filled. Others of the injured were ferried across the bay to Rio hospitals.

All of the circus' 130 animals were rescued. Three elephants broke their chains and escaped.

Among the survivors were the woman, Antoinette Estevanovich, said she was standing on the platform and her partner was swinging through the air when they saw the fire.

"I didn't yell fearing he would fall," she said, "he completed his swing and we both jumped into the net and escaped."

REPORT FURIOUS BATTLE

A press dispatch said a furious battle raged in the streets of Elisabethville when the first U.N. armored patrol pushed into the center of the city. The patrol drew withering fire and hand grenade bursts from shops and private houses.

The U.N. force was making a steady advance and it seemed the fall of the capital was near, the dispatch added.

Earlier reports from the United Nations indicated that the fighting was less intense than in the previous few days.

A U.N. announcement in Leopoldville indicated it had subdued considerably. It said an armed column moved slowly through central Elisabethville this morning, distributing pamphlets expressing U.N. good will toward the civilian population.

A spokesman said snipers fired on the column only once. He added that some sniping continued during the night from civilian residences near the Lido Hotel now held by U.N. Ethiopian troops.

The Katanga delegation in Brussels, Belgium, issued a communique reporting that U.N. planes attacked Elisabethville this morning with guns, bombs and rockets. It claimed that Katanga forces "occupy and maintain their positions."

Nehru Spurs Negotiations; Orders Attack

Portuguese Facing 2-1
Odds in Battle to Halt
Invasion of Territories

BOMBAY, India (AP)—India today claimed capture of two Portuguese enclaves — Damao and Diu — and gains on all sectors in a lightning campaign against Goa, the third and largest of Portugal's possessions on the subcontinent.

Spurring a U.N. appeal for negotiations, Prime Minister Nehru sent troops, tanks, warships and members of this second most populous world's nations against the tiny territories under Portugal's flag since the 16th century.

The Indian government announced in New Delhi that Damao and Diu, north of Bombay, were "liberated" in this first day of what Nehru termed a police action.

STOP WARSHIP

A spokesman for Nehru's regime, leader of the Asian-African Indian navy put a Portuguese warship out of action in a sea battle off Goa, 200 miles south of Bombay.

Portugal, a charter member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, said it had only one warship in the area, the 30-year-old sloop Alfonso de Albuquerque.

The Portuguese, who had agreed to negotiations, said their forces were outnumbered more than 2-1, but were putting up gallant resistance in Goa. Men from the Diu and Damao garrisons were reported to have been withdrawn to strengthen the defenses of Goa, a territory of 1,357 square miles and a population of 600,000.

By Indian account, the three-pronged strike into Goa — with tanks helping to batter the wayward — was going according to schedule. Several towns were reported seized. Authoritative reports from Belgaum, near the Goa frontier, said the invaders were within a few miles of Nova Goa, the capital.

Goa, the main battleground, is on the Arabian Sea. It is about the latitude of Guatemala. Indian air force planes bombed Nova Goa's airport, an Indian spokesman announced. He said the runway and one radio station were hit out of commission.

India adopted bombing tactics because of the impossibility of entering the capital's harbor, which had been heavily mined by the Portuguese, he said.

Otherwise Indian troops had gone between eight and 10 miles inside the border in a wide arc, the spokesman said.

Retail Sales Hit High in Pontiac

Retail business records are hitting the dust throughout the Pontiac area, with many local stores reporting new sales highs over the weekend.

Saturday was the best sales day in the 65-year history of Barne's Clothes Shop, 105 N. Saginaw St.

"There were more buyers downtown than ever before," said Archie M. Barnett, manager and part owner.

"Our dollar sales were 18 per cent over the same Saturday last year. It shows that people will come downtown if you give them the incentive and make it worth their while."

Business was also up at Simms Brothers, Inc., 38 N. Saginaw St. Meyer Simon, owner, reported "considerably more shoppers than for the same weekend last year."

A home furnishings store, W.K.C. Inc., 108 N. Saginaw St., happily joined in reports of the apparent sales boom.

"Saturday was the best day we had this year," said E. J. Cantile. (Continued on Page 2, Col 5)

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 30. At 1 p.m. the reading was 36.

"I've seen some horrible things, but I never thought I would ever see anything so horrible," said a policeman.

Trucks transferred the bodies to the city morgue. When it was filled, they were taken to the city's soccer stadium. Hundreds of persons searching for missing relatives added to the confusion.

Treatment of the hundreds of injured was hampered by shortages of medicine, blood plasma, hospital beds, doctors and nurses. Air force helicopters flew medicine and plasma from Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo. Radio ambulances brought doctors and nurses from Rio.

Niteroi's five hospitals were filled. Others of the injured were ferried across the bay to Rio hospitals.

All of the circus' 150 elephants were rescued. Three elephants broke their chains and escaped.

Among the survivors were the two trapeze artists. The woman, Antonietta Esteves, said she was standing on the platform and her partner was swinging through the air when they saw the fire.

"I didn't yell fearing he would fall," she said. "He completed his swing and we both jumped into the net and escaped."

Retail Sales Hit High in Pontiac

Retail business records are hitting the dust through Pontiac area, with many local stores reporting new sales highs over the weekend.

Saturday was the best sales day in the 65-year history of Barlett's Clothing Shop, 105 N. Saginaw St.

"There were more buyers downtown than ever before," said Archie M. Barnett, manager and part owner.

"Our dollar sales were 18 percent over the same Saturday last year. It shows that people will come downtown if you give them the incentive and make it worth their while."

Business was also up at Simms Brothers, Inc., 38 N. Saginaw St. Meyer Simon, owner, reported considerably more shoppers than for the same weekend last year.

A home furnishings store, W.C. Clark, 108 N. Saginaw St., happily joined in reports of the apparent sales boom.

Sunday was the best day we had this year," said E. J. Cantile. (Continued on Page 2, Col 5)

Nehru Spurs Negotiations; Orders Attack

Portuguese Facing 2-1 Odds in Battle to Halt Invasion of Territories

BOMBAY, India (AP)—India today claimed capture of two Portuguese enclaves—Damão and Diu—and gains on all sectors in a lightning campaign against Goa, the third and largest of Portugal's possessions on the subcontinent.

Spurring a U.N. appeal for negotiations, Prime Minister Nehru sent troops, tanks, warships and numbers of this second most populous of the world's nations against the tiny territories under Portugal's flag since the 15th century.

The Indian government announced in New Delhi that Damão and Diu, north of Bombay, were "liberated" in this first day of what Nehru termed a police action.

STOP WARSHIP

A spokesman for Nehru's regime, leader of the Asian-African Indian navy put a Portuguese warship out of action in a sea battle off Goa, 200 miles south of Bombay.

Portugal, a charter member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, said it had only one warship in the area, the 30-year-old sloop Alfonso de Albuquerque.

The Portuguese, who had agreed to negotiations, said their forces were outnumbered more than 2-1, but were putting up gallant resistance in Goa. Men from the Diu and Damão garrisons were reported to have been withdrawn to strengthen the defenses of Goa, a territory of 1,337 square miles and a population of 600,000.

By Indian account, the three-pronged strike into Goa—with tanks helping to batter the way—was going according to schedule. Several towns were reported seized. Authoritative reports from Belgaum, near the Goa frontier, said the invaders were within a few miles of Nova Goa, the capital.

Goa, the main battleground, is the Arabian Sea and about the latitude of Guatemala. Indian air forces bombed Nova Goa's airport, an Indian spokesman announced. He said the runway and one radio station were put out of commission.

India adopted bombing tactics because of the impossibility of entering the capital's harbor, which had been heavily mined by the Portuguese, he said.

Otherwise Indian troops had gone between eight and 10 miles inside the border in a wide arc, the spokesman said.

Court Hearings Now in Georgia

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—A Negro desegregation drive moves back into the courtroom today following a week of demonstrations that resulted in more than 700 arrests. Hearings for some of those arrested were scheduled in the city hall that has been the focal point of the demonstrations.

Negroes en masse marched on the building five times in protest of segregation and the jailing of "Freedom Riders" and three Albany residents.

The Freedom Rider group was arrested after trying to desegregate railway facilities Dec. 10.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., of Atlanta led the latest march Saturday and was arrested along with 25 others, including Dr. W. G. Anderson, president of the Albany Movement and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. They were charged with parading without a permit, obstructing traffic and blocking sidewalks. Each was jailed under $200 bond.

The Negroes voiced determination Sunday night to continue their campaign. M. S. Page, who took command of the movement in the absence of Anderson, said that an economic boycott of white merchants would be pressed, and Christmas celebrations would be postponed until civil rights goals were achieved.

Abernathy, who posted bond and returned to Atlanta, read a statement prepared by King in which he called for a nationwide pilgrimage to Albany to support the desegregation drive.

The statement reiterated a request to President Kennedy to issue a "second emancipation proclamation freeing all Negroes from their present state of second class citizenship."

JAILING IN AMERICA

The Negroes arrested were taken to jails in the Albany area. King was one of several taken to jail in America.

King said in a jail interview that he expects to spend Christmas behind bars.

"I will not accept bond," King said. "If convicted I will refuse to pay the fine. I hope thousands will join me."

Dave Miller, New York Herald Tribune writer, quoted King as saying he was "being treated like a prisoner. I wish some people could be a little more courteous. The guards in this jail call me 'boy.' I might note that I am the pastor of a church with 4,000 members."

Juvenile Court Judge Hudson Malone released 31 girls and 38 boys who were arrested in Saturday's march. He made them wards of the state, released them without bond to the custody of their parents and warned them not to violate any laws.

Thief Gets Away

A young bandit who stole $20 from the Woodward Market, 520 S. Saginaw St., Saturday afternoon probably will think twice before attempting to rob the store a second time.

The thief fled in a barrage of fresh eggs after losing part of his loot in a fight with a man about 50 years older.

Games Halted in Police Raid

Seize 30 Men in Detroit by Encircling Alleged Gambling House

DETROIT 10—Police vice squad officers seized 30 men at an alleged gambling house on the East Side Sunday.

The raiders, operating systematically, surrounded the house and gained entry by bowing over a doorman who they said tried to keep them out.

A dice game with a pot of $350 and play at several poker tables were interrupted, police said. The raiders said the arrested men had about $6,000 in their possession.

Police described the layout as plush, with paneled walls and covered windows.

Named as operators were John Elias, 35, of East Detroit, and Eugene W. Fiorello, 30, of Warren. Both have previous convictions for gambling.

Three vice squad officers and four precinct station policemen carried out the raid on a search warrant from Recorder's Court.

The owner of the house, Paul B. Harris, 45, who lives on the property, said he had no knowledge of any gambling activities.

Police said they had had the place under surveillance since early November and that it operated on weekends.

Police identified three of the arrested men as professional gamblers. They named them as Peter Trupiano, 51, and Ubaldo Calabrese, 35, both of Detroit, and Robert Saracino, 38, of St. Clair Shores.

store manager. "It is also one of the best years in the 33-year history of the store."

The store which experienced a high in sales last year, according to Cantile, was able to compare last Saturday's sales as being at least even to sales on the comparable day last year.

At Miracle Mile Shopping Center, sales were up 30 per cent from last year, according to Gray Graham, manager.

"We should set an all-time record this month. Over-all retail business should be up from 15 to 30 per cent for the year and the month of December," Graham said.

Saturday was the best sales day in 29 years at Peggy's Women's Apparel Shop, according to Marvin Barnett, owner.

WEATHER HURRY

"It would have been even better if the weather had held up Saturday evening," he said. "We had more people here than I've ever seen."

"Business was up about 20 per cent over the same weekend last year, and I look for it to continue into next year this way," Barnett said.

Ralph Eastridge, manager of the J. C. Penny Store at Miracle Mile, agreed.

"We had a real good day Saturday. Business met or surpassed our best expectations. December has been the best month and this is the biggest Christmas season we've ever had," said Eastridge.

Under discussion will be sewer construction and paving on Harmon, Greenwood and Woodland streets.

A public hearing on both improvements has been scheduled for Jan. 8 by the administration.

Total cost of the relief sewer installation is estimated at $16,000 and the paving project has been estimated at $64,800 or $54,700, depending on the width of the road to be constructed.

Stella D. Edgar has been elected most excellent chief of the Pythian Sisters 84 of Birmingham.

FLORIDA ESCAPEE NABBED by State Police, FBI

PAW PAW UP — An escapee from a Florida prison farm was captured by state police and federal agents Sunday night after he had driven from Cincinnati, Ohio, with an expectant mother in her car.

Held on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid detention was Eugene Napier, 26, an escapee from a prison farm in Duval County, Fla.

State police and federal agents said Napier was wanted for a series of offenses, including murder.

The story was exploded late Sunday night when Guy Holmes called the Rockledge State Police post from his home in Wyoming, a suburb of Grand Rapids, to report that his wife, Rita, 33, unsuspectingly was in the company of a fugitive.

TO BRING CAR BACK
Holmes said his wife, expecting a child within six weeks, had flown to Cincinnati Saturday to get his car when it became disabled while he was attending a funeral.

"She called today and said she was driving the car back but she didn't say who she was with," Holmes added. "A little while later, my mother called from Cincinnati to say that she had learned my first cousin, Eugene Napier — was with my wife and apparently wanted for a whole string of crimes."

Gifts for Blind Available

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everyone likes to receive useful gadgets for Christmas, and blind persons are no exception.

A person who does not see can want to do many things that sighted persons do.

A blind housewife may like to cook and her sightless husband may be adept at do-it-yourself carpentry work. They both like to read and play games such as checkers and chess.

These activities, involving work or recreation, are provided for in a guide to Christmas shopping prepared by the American Foundation for the Blind.

ITEMS AVAILABLE

The foundation emphasizes that persons who cannot see should be encouraged to live as normally as possible. If they want and need the same things for Christmas that sighted persons do, and with special adaptations, many useful items are available for them.

There are gifts to fit most pockets and needs. They range from a set of special anagram tiles costing $1.50 to watches with raised numbers for near-

Holmes' phone call to police touched off a statewide alert. Authorities said a state police cruiser spotted the wanted car and trailed it. At Paw Paw, the vehicle was stopped for a signal light and was swarmed upon by police officers who took the man into custody without resistance.

RETURNED HOME

A state police car took Mrs. Holmes back to her Wyoming home, where her husband and five daughters, ranging in age from 13 down to four years, were waiting anxiously.

She told newsmen she had no idea that Napier was wanted by police. She said he had volunteered to drive her home because he said he was going to look for work in Michigan.

"He was a perfect gentleman," Mrs. Holmes said. "He drove very carefully over all the bumps," the expectant mother said, "and he was nicer to me than a brother."

Holmes, a press operator at a metal firm, said his wife received her doctor's permission to travel to Cincinnati Saturday because he was to work Friday night and they were unable to get a baby sitter.

"My brother-in-law was supposed to drive her back," Holmes said. He could not explain why his relatives in Cincinnati permitted his wife to accompany Napier on the auto trip.

JFK's Welcome Vitamins for U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Kennedy's reception in his bold venture into Latin America—particularly the wildly huggy outpouring in Bogota—can prove an important shot in the arm for U.S. policy.

Here Kennedy put this challenge to the wealthy class of Latin America: Reform yourselves, or face violent revolution and destruction.

This is a challenge to peaceful revolution many young Latin Americans have been waiting to hear, and Kennedy has told them the Alliance for Progress stands ready to lead it.

The Kennedy journey, despite some gloomy advance prophecies of disaster, took on a look of success likely to go a long way in persuading Congress to foot bills for the alliance program.

The results of the trip must be painful to Communists and followers of Cuba's Fidel Castro. The trip could have resulted in headlines for Washington if there had been any show of violence or hostility. There were plenty of possibilities. In Venezuela, the Communists, though small in number, are tightly organized and disciplined.

chance to round up Red leaders. In the second place, there is a real affection for the Kennedy among Venezuelans. Communists stood to lose, locally at least, more than they might gain by trying to kick up a fuss. Many of the Castro extremists were rounded up in advance of the visit and held in jail.

Claims Women Fear Male's Retirement

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—Husbands often look forward to retirement as a time in which they will become closer to their wives. And that, says one researcher, is just what some wives are afraid of.

"A significant proportion of women do not want their husbands to retire because they feel that there will be more housework to do, that their daily routine will be disrupted," says Dr. Wilma Donahue, chairman of the Division of Gerontology of the University of Michigan.

He Should Know Duty

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI)—Marshall traffic policemen are bound to their duty, City Judge George G. Huffman believes. After Huffman completed a recent traffic advance such acts would fall in the face of President Alberto Lleras Camargo's security precautions.

Had the Communists persisted in an attempt, it would have given Lleras Camargo, who rules un-

New Doors Open to Anna Maria

By BOB THOMAS
on Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—A new Anna Maria Albright is back in town for a glance behind the doors that once were closed to her.

Anna hit the big time as the wait Lili in "Carnival" on Broadway. She is showing evidence of what a difference a hit play makes.

KATANGA VICTIM—A nun carries an injured child into the hospital in Elisabethville after the youngster was injured by mortar fragments during the fighting between the U.N. forces and Katanga defenders.

Grows Flowers on Large Scale for Railroad

VICTORIA, British Columbia (UPI) — If you think it's a hard job tending that flower garden on your one-acre suburban plot, consider the case of A.C. Thistle, chief horticulturist for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In his seven greenhouses at Lulu Island near here, Thistle raises the flowers that eventually are shipped to Canadian Pacific's western hotels, stations, railway dining cars and ships.

Nehru's Demands Go Back Before 1950

Invasion of Goa Has Been Building Up

BY PHIL NEWSOM
United Press International

India's invasion of the Portuguese enclaves of Goa, Damão and Diu today has been building up for long time.

Even before India became an independent republic in 1950, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had been demanding that Portugal give up the territories.

Portugal considers Goa a province of metropolitan Portugal. India simply considered it a colony as Indian soil.

Whatever it may be, the 1,338 square-mile area hardly was worth a war except as a matter of national prestige.

Nehru, whose motto has been peace at almost any price, has not been shy recently about saying what India would do if the Chinese Communists should try to take over territory claimed by India in the north. He said Indians would "repel and resist aggression."

Today he carried through another recent warning:

"We have always been reluctant to solve problems by force. But there can be only one solution of the Goa problem. The Portuguese must get out."

PROMISES FIGHT

Portugal, last of the great European colonial powers, cites a treaty with Britain in 1861 as proof of its right of sovereignty over Goa and served notice it would fight with all its resources to hold it.

Goa, once a principal embarkation point for the Moslem faithful on their way to Mecca, fell in 1510 to the Portuguese explorer and conqueror Alfonso Albuquerque.

It has been the administrative center for Portuguese holdings as far to the east as Macao off the Red Chinese coast below Hong Kong.

The shrine to St. Francis Xavier is located in Goa.

As a port, Goa ships cotton and manganese in addition to the area's principal exports of coconuts, fish, spices and cashew nuts.

It is Nehru's claim that under

"Before I left Hollywood, I was earning good money, but many doors were closed to me," she remarked. "I decided that if I was to open those doors, I would have to take a chance. And going to Broadway is a chance because if you don't make it, the doors can be more tightly shut."

RESULTS GRATIFYING
She made it, and the results have been gratifying.

"Before, I was known as a stinger," she said. "Now I am also known as an actress. The whole field of the stage is now open to me. And so are movies."

Anna is here on a two-week pass from the employ of David Merrick, producer of "Carnival." He has been termed the Abominable Showman, and seemed eager to live up to the title when Anna joined his company earlier this year. He proclaimed publicly that her understudy did a better job.

DISPLAYED NO RANCOR
The Italian-born soprano returned to the show after five days in the hospital and five at her apartment. Oddly, she displayed no rancor toward Merrick. She repeated their conversation.

"I had to protect my show," said the producer.

"David, you should let me in on these publicity stunts, so I can go along with them," she said. "I'm certainly not against publicity. But please, let's do something with a little dignity."

"How about the six-month extension?" she said.

ALL A PLOT
"Anna sees the whole thing as Merrick's plot to get her to sign for another half year in the show after her June 30 deadline. She said he was doubly disappointed; that she has made no move to resign; that she failed to flare back when he slurred her performance."

"You're like Callas," he said disappointedly.

Despite the beef, relations between Anna and Merrick are surprisingly good. She said that he came backstage on the last night before her vacation and gave her a hug and kiss.

"Careful, David," she told him. "You'll ruin your publicity."

It was on that last night that she realized she needed a vacation. She was all torn after the show. She was down and sobbed to her replacement, "Take care of my puppets."

Sprinkled 'Magic Salt,' Two Neighbors Claim

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Patrolman T. R. Medellin was called to settle a salty neighborhood squabble.

He said a woman living on South Laredo Street complained another woman had put a curse on her by sprinkling "magic salt" on her sidewalk, making her feel "bad."

He said the other woman made the same complaint about the first. Medellin advised both women to keep their salt in the kitchen.

The crowds in Bogota shouted "Look! Look!" and "What a beauty!" as they caught sight of the 32-year-old First Lady of the United States in a gay yellow wool suit and matching straw hat.

Even though Mrs. Kennedy's schedule ran two hours behind, the crowds waited for her.

She changed her costume four times for her public appearances in Bogota.

She and the President shook hands with some 400 guests at an evening reception in their honor at San Carlos Palace, the historic 16th century residence of Colombia's President Alberto Lleras Camargo.

Mrs. Kennedy, who is fond of nautical, told Latin America she has long admired their culture.

The final black tie dinner on the Kennedy's schedule was held in the palace dining room, a long, stately chamber with massive mahogany beamed ceilings decorated with gold and royal red.

Mrs. Kennedy was a striking figure in a turquoise silk evening gown, ankle length, with beading at the hemline and on a matching stole.

COMFORTS CHILD — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy places a flower on the lap of Olivia Comas, 5-year-old patient in the orthopedic ward in Bogota Children's Hospital. Mrs. Kennedy noticed that the child appeared frightened during Mrs. Kennedy's visit Sunday while touring the Colombian capital. She picked up the flower and gave it to Olivia whose face brightened up with a big smile.

Scores Success in S. America

Jackie Fatigued After Journey

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy settles down for a Christmas holiday rest in Palm Beach today with her children.

After scoring another personal success in Colombia and Venezuela.

The First Lady reportedly was fatigued from the hectic pace of the 6,300-mile trip to Latin America.

She had kept up a steady pace for some 18 hours on the Colombia leg of the presidential trip. The day before in Caracas it was 16 hours.

WARMLY GREETED
She and the President entered Bogota to a tremendous reception from a half million or more cheering, flag-waving, enthusiastic Colombians who showered them with confetti and flower petals.

Mrs. Kennedy gathered crowds of many thousands as she went to visit a charity children's hospital. Men, women and children, some of whom had waited for years, turned out to catch a glimpse of her.

Mrs. Kennedy early this year had won acclaim in Canada, France, Austria and Great Britain on official visits with the President. There was no doubt she had added Colombia and Venezuela to her list of successes.

During the trip that started at San Juan, Puerto Rico, Mrs. Kennedy was entertained by three first ladies of the Americas—Mrs. Luis Munoz Marin, wife of the governor of Puerto Rico; Mrs. Romulo Betancourt in Venezuela; and Mrs. Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia. She tried out her Spanish on all of them.

Twice she used Spanish in public talks and won delighted applause.

There was one special fashion footnote on the trip. Mrs. Kennedy arrived in Colombia wearing a pale yellow-green coat, double-breasted and empire line with a bow in front, by the young California designer Gustave Tassell.

Within five days President Wilson mastered the National Guard and ordered them on Villa's trail. But the Mexican government, itself trying to suppress Villa, protested and finally American forces were withdrawn.

Some historians see Villa's attack as an act of revenge on the United States for permitting Mexican government troops to enter moved across American soil against him. Others view it as bloodthirsty plunder.

By 1920 a new government in Mexico took Villa off the outlaw list and gave him a ranch where he remained until shot to death three years later at age 45, by then pudgy and well entrenched in folklore.

There is still some private grumbling in Santa Fe. The state capital has long wanted funds to erect a statue to Spanish conqueror Don Diego de Vargas. Some citizens were saying a hand leader was being honored while a man of nobility was not.

This village has accepted the park in hopes that Villa's name will attract tourists. A newspaper at nearby Denning editorialized that people remember Villa for the raid, not Gen. John J. (Blackjack) Pershing whose cavalry and even airplanes chased him, for months, always one step behind.

Space to Bring Health Marvels

Hearing Aids, Vocal Chords, Heart Radio Under Research

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A new age of down-on-earth medicine is coming into being with the miniaturization and telemetry developed for space exploration.

"Invisible" hearing aids and tiny devices to duplicate the work of missing vocal chords already are in being.

Much of the medically useful research in progress is still under secrecy wraps. But what can be told is impressive.

The cumbersome electronic devices of an entire medical clinic may soon be reduced to the carrying size of the doctor's bag, experts told a recent meeting of California industrialists here.

At least 50 of the nation's leading industrial firms, they were told, are engaged in research with medical promises.

A Beckman Instruments Co. gadget called an "Ultra-Micro Analytical System" is now able to make a complete blood analysis from a drop just big enough to fill the eye of a needle.

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. has adapted from a lightweight satellite transmitter a "heart listener" the size of a package of cigarettes which can broadcast directly or through a telephone to an electrocardiograph in the doctor's office.

"Some day we won't have to wonder how we are," said a Lockheed official. "We can call our doctor and say, 'Doctor, how am I?' and the doctor will take a look at the information we are broadcasting to him and say, 'I don't like the way your heart looks. Better chase yourself home and go to bed.'"
