Ike Threatens Special Session if Foreign Aid Cut

Pontiac Yacht Club Typifies 'Summer Paradise'

SAILS IN THE WIND — Several Lightning class sailboats skim over the water with barely a ripple in this panoramic aerial view of the Pontiac Yacht Club on Cass Lake. With summer here, the crystal-clear waters will become the scene of numerous regattas and races with more and more yachts and sailboats making their appearance weekly. Jutting out from the shoreline is the club's docking area. The clubhouse is hidden from view by the thick foliage, which provides a serene setting for the sailing of the graceful crafts. In the upper right corner is the West Bloomfield Township High School.

Union Rejects Ike on Steel Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — The Steelworkers Union today rejected President Eisenhower's renewed request for an indefinite extension of steel contracts beyond their scheduled expiration at midnight July 14.

Earlier, the Steelworkers Union had appealed to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for help in getting a wage boost and other contract benefits from the industry.

Union President David P. McDonald presented the plea personally to Nixon, an avowed foe of inflation.

McDonald said he went to Pittsburgh and sought out Nixon to complain that the steel companies were "provoking a shutdown" by balking at offering any contract gains.

The union chief declined to tell newsmen what Nixon's reaction was. He said on that he supposed Nixon reported to President Eisenhower on the conference.

Then later, Eisenhower called on management and workers in the steel wage talks to act for the good of the country and try hard to avoid a strike.

Eisenhower told a news conference that both sides should keep on negotiating just as long as necessary for agreement on a new contract.

In Washington an aide to Nixon said the vice president also discussed the steel negotiations in Pittsburgh Monday and Tuesday with Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the American Iron & Steel Institute and former chairman of U. S. Steel Corp.

The aide said there was no formally arranged meeting with Fairless but that during Nixon's visit in Pittsburgh the vice president and Fairless met several times at social functions and the steel talks came up in their conversation.

In New York, there was no comment from either labor or company officials. They were in what was called "detailed discussions" and for the first time in the negotiations, decided not to break for lunch. Food was brought into the meeting.

McDonald's announcement Tuesday that he had been in Pittsburgh conferring with Nixon dispelled a two-day mystery about his absence from the stalemated contract talks here.

The union chief said he told Nixon the steel bargaining has gotten nowhere and that, as things stood, there was no chance of a new contract extension.

Insists Figure Recommended Bare Minimum

Critical of Blustering Remarks of Red Boss to Averell Harriman

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today raised the threat of a special session of Congress as a last resort if the legislators should make what he regards as disastrous cuts in his foreign aid program.

He suggested this possibility as one of the alternatives open to him, in reply to a question at his news conference about yesterday's Senate cuts in the Foreign Aid bill.

The questioner pointed out that the President had spoken of disastrous results if Congress chopped the foreign aid program.

Eisenhower recalled that he had described his recommendation for $1,600,000,000 in military aid as a minimum and that his commission studying the foreign aid program had urged an additional 400 million dollars for this purpose. The Senate voted yesterday to cut 383 million dollars from his recommendation.

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower said he could use all his persuasive power in an effort to get congressional approval of his recommendation. Secondly, he said, if the follow-up foreign aid appropriation bill should be cut too deeply he could ask for a deficiency appropriation next year.

The final alternative he mentioned as a special session of Congress.

★ ★ ★

He said he never would stop fighting for this nation's security. He personally believed that the senators voting for foreign aid cuts were not taking into account the tremendous U.S. responsibility to protect its own interest.

Charge Driver in Fatal Crash

Waterford Man Faces Hearing on Negligent Homicide Count

A Waterford Township motorist yesterday was arrested on a charge of negligent homicide in the death of his friend in an auto accident on June 28.

Isidro Aguilers, 32, of 2901 Peerless St., demanded examination at his arraignment yesterday before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Judge McCallum set the examination for July 22.

Aguilers is free under $150 bond pending the examination.

Officers said Aguilers was driving the car in which Raymundo Vasquez, 23, of 2897 Peerless St., Waterford Township, was killed in an accident on June 28.

The car ran off Kennett road west of Cherrylawn avenue and rolled over twice. Aguilers at the scene first admitted, then denied he was driving.

He was admitted with injuries to Pontiac General Hospital and released Monday.

A third person in the car, Margaret M. Willis, 29, of 2651 Elizabeth Lake Road, Waterford Township, was treated and released.

Pontiac Police said that Aguilers allegedly was speeding and when a car in front of him slowed down he swerved off the road to avoid a collision.

Williams May Travel

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams said today he is considering a trip to Germany and Poland in late September or October if his official duties in Michigan will permit.

Sewer Decision Appears Near

State Board Requests Week More to Study Eight Mile Project

Oakland County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry will have to wait at least another week before he learns whether the county can issue more than $4,000,000 in bonds to finance a storm sewer along Eight Mile road.

Another week's delay appeared yesterday when the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission decided it would like at least a week to study a 10-page report from the Attorney General's office.

Receipt of the report is the first tangible progress shown since Barry asked the Commission's approval last November.

While this indicates that a decision is finally near, less encouraging is a report that Auditor General Frank S. Szymanski, a member of the Commission, will not approve the bond issue in its present form.

★ ★ ★

Szymanski reportedly is siding with a protest group of Southfield residents — the sewer will serve Southfield and Oak Park — who traveled to Lansing in January to oppose assessments.

They said they would never be able to pay them.

Szymanski's deputy, William R. Hart, said there was "patent injustice" in the proposal as it now stands. He did not elaborate.

The protest group, the Eight-Mile Road Drain Taxpayers Assn., says assessments—at the rate of $2,006 an acre—are "confiscatory" and would result in many families having to sell their property.

Barry explained that Southfield taxpayers would be paying more

City Acts to Aid Downtown With Better Streets, Parking

As city commissioners took steps last night to improve traffic arteries and add to downtown municipal parking, a big question was asked of downtown businessmen:

"What have you done to revitalize downtown?"

For want of an answer from businessmen, City Manager Walter K. Willman observed, "There doesn't seem to have been much revitalizing."

Commissioners acted to provide a new link with the upcoming Oakland County Expressway and better traffic flow on Pontiac's near west side.

★ ★ ★

Approved was a construction bid of $171,218 for paving of Joslyn avenue from Walton boulevard to Collier road at the northern city limits and widening of Cass avenue to four lanes between Oakland avenue and Wisner Stadium.

The low bid was submitted by Denton Construction Co. of Detroit, the firm that last summer widened Perry street.

When construction is completed this summer, Pontiac will have a paved route leading to the proposed Joslyn road interchange with the expressway north of Pontiac, City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn said.

★ ★ ★

The Cass avenue project will complete widening of that street from Oakland to Orchard Lake avenue in the downtown district.

Both projects were recommended by the Barton Traffic Study.

Commissioners gave Willman the signal to proceed with engineering and cost estimates to provide about 50 more parking spaces downtown.

Willman said the administration proposes to level the former Standard Electric Co. building on E. Lawrence street and add three rows of parking meters, 17 meters in a row. There now is one row of 17 meters next to the building.

The city purchased the building three years ago but held off demolishing it until the Army ceased using it as a reserve training center last month.

In the audience last night were George Richman, president of the Downtown Merchants Assn., and John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

After a lengthy discussion about the future of downtown Pontiac, it appeared that neither city government nor private enterprise has any definite plans for redevelopment.

Of primary interest was the future use of the Huron-Saginaw street site of the Oakland County Courthouse and Prosecutor's Office.

The county plans to sell the land in connection with construction of a new courthouse in the county service center.

Willman and several commissioners indicated they would "cooperate" in bringing new business to downtown Pontiac, especially to the highly-valuable courthouse site.

But city officials appeared to feel it is up to the businessmen themselves to take the initiative.

"We have no plans for the courthouse site," said Willman.

Hirlinger said the Chamber of Law Authorities Hunting for 'Joe'

He's Mystery Link in Alleged Shakedown of Restaurant Owner

Police from Oakland and Wayne counties and FBI agents today were searching for a man named "Joe" as the third man in the alleged shakedown of an Oak Park restaurant owner by a Detroit union business agent.

So far, however, only Morrie Sherman, 50, agent with Local 750 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders Union, AFL-CIO, has been arrested.

The boxing referee, licensed by the State Athletic Board of Control, and former state welterweight champion, is being held in Oak Park Jail while the Oakland County prosecutor's office is contemplating what charge — extortion or bribery — to level against him.

"Probably we have enough to go on against Sherman for his part in this," said Assistant Prosecutor William E. Lang. "But we still want the whole picture before we issue a warrant." He said this might be done today.

PICTURE CLOUDED

The picture of the alleged extortion plot remains clouded because of an unidentified man named "Joe" who reportedly went after the $50 payoff several hours before Sherman got it in two $20 and one $10 marked bills at 5 p.m. Monday.

Lang said police want to know what "Joe's" part in the scheme was.

The alleged plot was revealed yesterday when Lang took a statement from Daniel Lambard, 36, owner of Danie's Restaurant, 8410 W. Nine Mile Rd.

Lambard said Sherman first demanded $300 because "the boys downtown think I'm being paid off not to organize you, and they want their cut."

Later, however, after a series of stalls urged by Oak Park police, "Joe" called Lambard and said the demand had been lowered to $50.

Sherman was picked up Monday evening with the money after "Joe" visited Danie's only to find Lambard not there.

Area to Sizzle as Mercury Soars to 92 Tomorrow

The Pontiac area will continue to bask in warm, mid-summer weather, with no rain in sight before Friday, the U.S. Weather Bureau reports.

The prediction calls for fair and warmer today and tonight with the low tonight 70 degrees.

Tomorrow will be partly cloudy, and the mercury is expected to soar to a sizzling 92.

Friday will be partly cloudy and cooler with a chance of scattered showers or thundershowers.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 64. At 2 p.m. the reading was 87.

Festival Days Slated for Downtown Area

Downtown Festival Days are scheduled for Sept. 17, 18 and 19.

George Richman, president of the Downtown Merchants Assn., said Festival Days last fall seemed to bring "a new spirit" to downtown and won City Commission approval last night to stage a similar three-day festival a second time.

Richman outlined plans for a carnival at the E. Pike street municipal parking lot and sidewalk booths and displays in the downtown shopping area.

The merchants' group promised to reimburse the city for parking meter revenues during the three-day period.

Governor Says He's a Tough Customer

Williams, Kozlov in Fiery Exchange

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams says the Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov is shrewd and tough and it will take a Yankee trader to beat him.

Williams made the appraisal last night after what he called a "knock-down and drag-out fight" with Kozlov.

The six-term governor who has the backing of Michigan Democrats for the party's presidential nomination in 1960 appeared to feel he had the better of his verbal sparring with Kozlov as he described it to a news conference.

Kozlov ended his Detroit visit today with critical words for Williams.

The Governor talked with Kozlov in a private meeting for an hour last night.

Kozlov, at an informal news conference just before his plane left for Chicago, the next stop on his United States tour, said through an interpreter:

"The Governor is not too well acquainted with international politics and he is not too correct in giving his account to the press."

The Russian deputy premier said, "Those who wrote the questions for Williams were not very well acquainted with the problems. When I replied to some of his questions, the Governor showed some surprise and it was evident he did not understand the problem."

Asked if Williams' account to the press was accurate, Kozlov replied, "It was not a very true account."

Kozlov added:

"The governor violated one rule on such conversations — a conversation which he had requested and which we thought was private. He violated the rules of such conferences by then holding a news conference to air his views without asking or informing the one with whom he had met."

Kozlov's face became flushed as he spoke rather heatedly in Russian about the Governor's report. The interpreter had difficulty keeping up.

Kozlov's plane took off at 9:22 a.m. for a three-day visit in Chicago. Just before boarding the plane, Kozlov said, "I wish the very best to Detroit and to its citizens who were so hospitable to us. I wish them the best of success. We want peace."

For an hour Williams and Kozlov had a private conference in a Detroit hotel room following Kozlov's tour of industrial Detroit. Williams said he fired a series of written questions at the deputy premier.

Then he said they argued through their own interpreters and at one point Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov got worried and intervened.

The governor said he told Kozlov that Russian tanks "ruthlessly" put down a revolt in East Germany six years ago.

"I pointed out that Poland, one of the most Catholic countries in the world, had been deprived of freedom of religion," Williams said.

"I told him that in Hungary the Soviets agreed to withdraw and did, but came back with Soviet tanks and troops and imposed their will on the people. I told him the Romanian people certainly did not feel the regime represented them.

"He told me that all I heard was a lot of propaganda. I told him the American people would not believe a single word he said."

The governor said that after Kozlov described the East Germany uprising as a counter-revolution, Ambassador Menshikov put in that "we were all wrong."

The Governor quoted Kozlov as saying he and British Prime Minister Harold McMillan had discussed the possibility of inspections to be carried out on both sides by foreigners and that the two were just about at the point of agreeing to inspections on this basis.

★ ★ ★

"We both pointed the finger at each other and the thing he liked the least was East Germany. I tried to stick him up on a tank

To Be Based in Britain, Germany

U. S. Jets Leave France

PARIS (AP)—Three fighter-bomber wings of the U.S. Air Force (involving 200 F100 Super Sabre Jets) will soon be moved from French bases to fields in Britain and West Germany, the United States announced today.

U. S. Ambassador to NATO W. Randolph Burgess made the decision known at a meeting of the North Atlantic Council.

The move had been generally expected because President Charles de Gaulle will not agree to storing U.S. atomic arms on French soil.

De Gaulle has refused to admit U.S. atomic stockpiles unless France is given control of their use.

U.S. law requires that American officers retain control of the nuclear warheads for weapons, although foreign governments control the weapons themselves.

DEMANDS VETO

France's allies have accused De Gaulle of demanding a veto over the use of any atomic weapons stockpiled in France as a bargaining lever in his campaign to get France an equal voice with the United States and Britain in Allied councils.

City Captain Made Waterford Fire Chief

ELMER E. FANGBONER

A Pontiac Fire Captain, Elmer E. Fangboner, 50, was appointed Waterford Township's first full-time fire chief at a special meeting of the Township Board last night.

★ ★ ★

One of two applicants for the $6,500 position, Fangboner was selected by the Board over Lewis (Bud) Goff, a regular Waterford fireman who served nine years with the department.

Fangboner, of 3327 Meinrad St., Drayton Plains, was the organizer of Waterford Township's volunteer and full-time fire departments in 1942.

He also organized the Goodfellows Association, of which he is president. Fangboner has been with the Pontiac department for the past 30 years, having advanced through the ranks from fireman to engineer, lieutenant to captain.

★ ★ ★

He is eligible for immediate retirement without pay due to his more than 25 years with the Pontiac Fire Department. Retirement pay would begin when he reaches the age of 55, according to Pontiac Fire Chief James R. White.

As president of the joint Council of Municipal Employees, and president oof the Pontiac Fire Fighters Associations, Fangboner was believed to be one of the best qualified men in the township, for the post, according to township officials.

He was responsible for getting legislation passed that has benefited city and township departments, and served as secretary of the Michigan State Rural Fire Protection Committee and as legislative representative in Lansing.

★ ★ ★

The new chief has served for six years on the Waterford Township Board of Education and was one of the organizers of the Community Activities, Inc. He also is chairman of the City of Pontiac Retirement Study Committee, and was instrumental in establishing the first Civil Defense unit in Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

Fangboner, who has lived in Waterford Township for the last 33 years, is married and has four married children.

while I was throwing cobblestones at him."

Asked to give his estimate of Kozlov, the governor replied:

"He is a very urbane, gracious person whom I am sure you could have a pleasant and happy time with. But he is shrewd, he is tough, in full control of himself at all times and I think it will take a Yankee trader to beat him."

2 AIDES ON HAND

Gov. Williams was flanked at his parley with Kozlov by two aides, Horace Dewey, University of Michigan language professor, and Alfred G. Meyer, Michigan State University professor of political science.

The governor said Kozlov did not appear to be offended at the questions but he thought the Soviet ambassador was offended. The questions seemed "to have touched base" with Kozlov, Williams said.

Commenting on Detroit Louis C. Miriani's refusal to greet the Russian visitor, Williams said he thought Miriani was entitled to his opinion. The governor said he thought all the facts about the arrangement with the State Department for the visit were not on the table, but he declined to amplify this.

For the most part, Kozlov was warmly greeted on his tour of Detroit industrial plants. Only a few scattered boos were heard on the streets as a 20-car caravan sped through the city.

But pickets appeared outside the hotel Fort Shelby last night as Kozlov was honored at a civic dinner sponsored by a committee headed by Walker Cisler, president of Detroit Edison Co.

Police said the 25 pickets cooperated peacefully by carrying their placards on the sidewalk across the street on the Lafayette avenue side of the hotel.

The pickets said the demonstration was sponsored by the Hungarian Freedom Fighters Federation and the World Federation of Hungarian Political Prisoners.

The placards called Kozlov a "Red Dog" and said "Kozlov Go Home."

Fair in East; South, Midwest Due for Storm

By The Associated Press

Fair weather prevailed today in most areas east of the Mississippi River to New England but wet and stormy weather appeared likely in many sections of the South and Midwest.

A hurricane watch and gale warnings were in effect south of Cape Hatteras, N.C., to north of Charleston, S.C., as squally weather and heavy rains were indicated from tropical storm Cindy, located about 180 miles east of Charleston.

Thunderstorms broke out during the night and earlier Tuesday in sections from Kansas northward and into southwestern Minnesota. Gusty winds, ranging from 30 to 55 m.p.h. lashed the area.

Ninety-degree heat reached into Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Kentucky and southern Virginia Tuesday. Hot southerly winds sent the mercury above 100 degrees in parts of Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. It was 100 at Pueblo, Colo., while in the Southwest desert region, Imperial, Calif., was one of the hottest spots with a reading of 114. The 100-degree heat spread to the Rio Grande Valley.

City to Improve Roads, Add Parking

Commerce has "a small committee" assigned to study future use of the site.

In a few years, the city will have to attract new business to Pontiac to locate in the blighted S. Saginaw street areas to be cleared in the upcoming urban renewal project, Assistant City Manager Robert A. Stierer pointed out.

"Although the city will have control over which businesses buy the land, some other agency should tackle the job of attracting the best possible businesses here," he commented.

Willman referred to a three-point program agreed upon by the city and downtown businessmen three years ago.

★ ★ ★

"The city agreed to improve traffic conditions and clear the blighted areas. We are in the process of doing this through the downtown loop highway, which is part of the Barton study, and the urban renewal project.

★ ★ ★

"Businessmen agreed to revitalize downtown through private capital.

"Three years have gone by and there doesn't seem to have been too much revitalizing.

"Perhaps this points up the need for a little closer co-ordination among the downtown groups."

Ferndale Officer Dies in Car Crash

MAYVILLE (AP) — An off-duty Ferndale patrolman was killed today and a second officer injured when their car hit a tree on M24 three miles north of Mayville.

Dead was Patrolman Harold Cain, 35. His companion, Patrolman William Soltman Jr., 33, also of Ferndale, suffered a broken arm and back injuries.

Tuscola County sheriff's men said Cain may have fallen asleep. He and Soltman left after work last night to visit friends in the north.

St. Michael School Building Condemned as Fire Hazard

A one-story wooden building now housing classrooms of St. Michael elementary school has been condemned by City Fire Marshal Charles E. Metz.

Metz has declared the structure a fire hazard and ordered that it be razed.

The building has housed up to 120 students, mostly first and second graders.

The edict will create a shortage of classroom space in the fall if enrollment equals that of last year, said the Rev. Leon Kennedy, new pastor at St. Michael.

★ ★ ★

However, Father Kennedy added, the church's Board of Trustees and parishioners will meet soon in an effort to solve the shortage of classroom space.

Metz said the condemnation was the result of investigations stemming from the disastrous parochial school fire in Chicago last December in which scores of students died.

"There was nothing else that could be done," Metz said. "In case of fire, the building would burn like tinder."

★ ★ ★

The fire marshal said the furnace in the building's basement was not in a fireproof boiler room or outside the building as required by state law.

The walls of the building were lined with combustible materials and wiring was faulty, he stated.

Metz said that the wooden floors were highly waxed and flammable.

A high ceiling would promote the spread of flames, he added.

The building stands near the St. Michael convent and would peril that building's residents if fire broke out, he said.

Donaldson Gives $1,000 to Launch Drive for Park

City Commissioner William W. Donaldson last night made a personal donation of $1,000 to get a "dollars for parks" drive rolling.

★ ★ ★

"If everyone in Pontiac donated just $1, we might be able to raise enough money to purchase a new park site by centennial time in 1961," said the District 3 commissioner.

Donaldson has already collected more than a dozen $1 donations since he suggested the drive a week ago.

It is expected that a collection center for public donations will be announced soon.

Donaldson gained City Commission support of his contention that Pontiac suffers from lack of park space.

"It's too bad no public benefactor ever gave us any land for parks, but perhaps some will come up with some money now," he said.

City Manager Walter K. Willman has been asked to negotiate with the state for part of the Pontiac State Hospital grounds for a park site.

Donaldson has made contributions to public causes in the past. He has donated $2,000 to furnish hospital rooms at Pontiac General Hospital and $2,000 for a civic auditorium.

Urban Renewal Budget Boosted to $90,112 Here

Pontiac's budget for urban renewal planning has been boosted to the $90,112 originally set aside for it in Washington.

In adopting a budget early this year, the city agreed to try to spend $29,230 less than originally approved.

"But increased estimates on the cost of land surveys and appraisals have forced us to ask for more funds," said Robert A. Steirer, assistant city manager.

The regional office of the Housing & Home Finance Agency notified the city yesterday that its planning budget has been increased from $60,882 to $90,112.

State Officials Laud Area's Water Safety

State Safety Commission officials, alarmed by 13 deaths through drowning and boating accidents over the July 4 weekend, today cited the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. and Pontiac Motor Division for promoting water safety.

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs pointed to the Sheriff's Department's Water Patrol as an example that should be followed by other counties.

"The county sheriff (Frank W. Irons)," he said, "deputizes boaters to patrol the county's many lakes and check on water safety violations."

On the heels of this statement came a commendation to Pontiac Motor Division for its part in aiding water safety from George Clay, chairman of the Michigan Water Safety Commission.

'TREMENDOUS ASSISTANCE'

In a wire to S. E. Knudsen, division manager, Clay said:

"The Commission wishes to give you the heartiest congratulations on your tremendous assistance to the water safety patrol under Deputy Don Kratt."

The division presented a specially equipped rescue wagon to the sheriff's patrol a month ago.

"This program has gained national attention and we believe it should be widely copied."

While state drowning figures mount, the Oakland toll is about half of what it was last year at this time. On July 8 last year, the county had 11 drownings. Six have occurred thus far in 1959.

Sales by Pontiac Rise 93 Per Cent Over June of '58

Pontiac dealers in June sold 37,387 new cars, representing a 93 per cent increase over the same period last year when retail sales amounted to 19,367, it was announced Tuesday by S. E. Knudsen, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Retail sales of Pontiac division's new wide-track models from January through June of this year total 212,147 units, a 74 per cent gain over the 122,200 units sold during the first six months of 1958, Knudsen said.

Experiencing one of the best sales years in the history of the division, Pontiac has risen from No. 6 position in the automotive industry to No. 1 nationally in the medium price field, Knudsen said.

Hart, McNamara Votes Conflict on Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's two Democratic Senators, Patrick McNamara and Philip Hart, voted on opposite sides yesterday on two Senate measures.

Hart voted in favor of a measure to cut 300 million dollars of military aid out of the foreign aid bill. The measure passed 52-41. He also voted for a measure the Senate adopted 49-43 to reduce foreign aid defense support authorization by 10 per cent.

McNamara voted against both measures.

Elizabeth II of England and Prince Philip, the most prominent tourists in North America this summer, were scheduled to spend about four hours here en route to Port Arthur, Ont.

It was their first stop after a rousing welcome Monday at Chicago.

The visit brought them to another point of close United States-Canadian ties. Sault Ste. Marie's twin-named U.S. city lies across the St. Mary's River in Michigan.

The busy river is a highway for Great Lakes vessels carried by locks between Lake Superior and Lake Huron.

To Mayor Walter Harry this was a "red letter day."

It was not a business holiday in this city of about 41,000 persons, but the city requested all businesses to allow employes at least three or four hours off to see the royal couple.

Robertson expected at least double the area's population on hand to see the visitors.

From the American side a rainbow of license plates denoted tourists from numerous states.

The royal schedule covered an eight-mile route. First was a stop at Bellevue Park for an assembly of schoolchildren, then luncheon at the Windsor Hotel, and finally a visit to Algoma steel mills.

The closest Queen Elizabeth and her party came to American soil was the docking of the royal yacht Britannia at MacArthur lock pier in the U.S. roadstead of the St. Mary's River. The yacht is too wide to traverse the Canadian locks.

than those in Oak Park—"but at the same rate"—because only 80 acres of the 2,122-acre drainage district are within Oak Park. Because of this Southfield residents would be paying for more than 78 per cent of the project while Oak Park residents carried just over 3 per cent.

The proposed drain will stretch 3.7 miles along Eight Mile road beginning just east of Evergreen road and going to the River Rouge.

Oakland County wants it to stop seasonal flooded basements in Southfield and Oak Park, while Detroit is anxious to see it constructed so that heavy rains will not overflow into its northwest area.

Recently a Detroit official threatened to stop taking any more sanitary sewage from Oakland until the Eight Mile drain is started.

Prominent Churchman To Preach Here Sunday

BIRMINGHAM — Dr. Robert M. Frehse will be the guest minister Sunday at the Congregational Church of Birmingham. Dr. Frehse is the first vice moderator of the Congregational Assn. of Detroit and director of the Detroit Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He is well known to Birmingham and Detroit residents for his work with young people, and was director of a summer camp for many years prior to taking on the directorship of the round table.

Dr. Frehse met with the original group that formed the Congregational Church of Birmingham in 1953, and was its first supply minister until a permanent minister was called. His topic will be "Spiritual Health."

Mrs. Clyde C. Bennett Jr., 889 Suffield Rd., Birmingham, has again been named Torch Drive chairman for the Birmingham-Bloomfield-Franklin Region.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Bennett, in addition to serving as regional chairman last year, was chairman of the recent Inforama held June 3 for Torch Drive workers at St. John Episcopal Church in Royal Oak.

At their regular 10 a.m. meeting Friday at the Community House, the Birmingham Senior Men's Club will hear a talk by the Rev. Robert Dobbs who heads public relations and promotion for the Goodwill Industries.

T. A. Henshaw, secretary of the Senior Men's Club, announces that shuffleboard play takes place at 2 p.m. daily.

Bridge and other card games begin at 10 a.m. Tuesdays and Fridays at the Community House. Those of retirement age are welcome, said Henshaw.

The Franklin Cemetery Auxiliary will meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. H. R. Grogg, 2291 Rosewood Dr., off of Silver Lake road, west of Pontiac.

A potluck luncheon and social get-together will follow the business meeting.

Four area women are planning to attend the national convention of the Lambda Tau Delta sorority in Chicago July 12-17.

Attending the convention will be Mrs. John Hern, 324 N. Glengarry Ct. and Mrs. Elmer Mellebrand, 840 N. Pemberton Rd., both of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Elmer Mellebrand, 840 N. Pemberton Rd., both of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Manuel Barriss, 2613 Yorkshire Rd. and Mrs. Bernard Dodd, 2829 Buckingham Rd., both of Birmingham.

Ike May Call Session of Congress on Aid

war to former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Eisenhower said he did not believe responsible people should indulge in anything remotely resembling ultimatum or threats.

Eisenhower gave his reply when a newsman noted that Harriman said Khrushchev told him in Moscow June 23: "If you want war, you can have it, but remember our war rockets will fly automatically."

What did Eisenhower think of such talks? the newsman asked.

Eisenhower snapped back that he did not think much of such language.

In reply to other questions Eisenhower pledged that the United States would never stop trying to settle differences with Russia on Berlin or any other issue.

He reaffirmed his readiness to go anywhere at any time if any good would be served for the cause of international peace.

VISIT POSSIBLE

Eisenhower at one point said it was not beyond the realm of possibility that he might ask Khrushchev to visit this country to get rid of what a newsman called the Soviet leader's misconceptions about the United States.

But Eisenhower stressed any such visit would be a ceremonial one and not aimed at negotiations.

As for the U.S. announcement today that this country is pulling three fighter-bomber wings out of France, Eisenhower said he and French President Charles de Gaulle have long agreed that when they can get together they will talk over all differences between the two countries.

Eisenhower also said that when he vetoes legislation he is thinking of the good of the United States.

He made that remark when a reporter asked about the possibility his vetoes may boomerang and place him in a negative light so far as the public is concerned.

Eisenhower commented Secretary of State Christian A. Herter will be taking no new formula back to Geneva when the foreign ministers conference resumes there Monday.

The U.S. position still is, Eisenhower said, that the Soviet Union must respect the Allies' responsibilities with regard to West Berlin, and the Allies must make sure that their rights are preserved.

Pontiac Savings and Loan Leaps Ahead in 25 Years

Twenty-five years ago a small group of Pontiac men put up $5,000 of their own money and borrowed $15,000 from the federal government to establish the Pontiac Federal Savings & Loan association.

This new financial institution was designed to provide two services for the community: a safe place for people to keep their savings, and financial help in the form of mortgage loans for people who wished to buy or build their own homes.

This year Pontiac Federal Savings is observing its twenty-fifth anniversary. In its first quarter of a century it has paid off its original $15,000 loan from the government and its total assets have grown from that first five thousand dollars to twenty millions.

Today Pontiac Federal is Pontiac's largest mortgage lending institution. During the past two months it has lent more than two million dollars in mortgages and it plans to average a million dollars a month in home mortgages during the coming year.

★ ★ ★

By the end of 1952 Pontiac Federal Savings' assets topped three million dollars. Since that time, in less than seven years, its assets have increased from three million to more than twenty million dollars.

GROWING FAST

Its accelerating growth—it has gained almost three million dollars in the first half of the current year—has stamped it as one of the fastest growing Federal Savings institutions in the United States.

As the area has grown in population, new branches have been established and in 1955 its new home office building was opened at 761 West Huron street.

At the main office in Pontiac and at the Drayton Plains branch, drive-in windows are available to shareholders who care to use them, and ample free parking areas have been provided.

Another facility at the main office building which has attracted widespread public use is the community room, with an adjoining kitchen. This room accommodates several hundred people and it is used for countless community gatherings. It is maintained by the association as a community service, with only a nominal charge for its use.

★ ★ ★

Another service provided at the main office is a room in which anyone interested in home building, alterations or furnishings may find a wide variety of reading material. Pictures, suggestions and plans are made available without charge here to the prospective home builder or buyer.

NEW RECORDS

Pontiac Federal's 25th anniversary year is being marked by new records in every department of its activity. As of June 30, savings have increased to $18,342,817, the highest in its history. This total represents an increase of $1,951,753 in the last six months, or $3,723,083 in the last year.

The mortgage total rose during the first six months of 1959 to $16,755,169. This, again, was the biggest total ever recorded in the association's history, and more than 90 per cent of these mortgages were on individual, privately owned homes. The new mortgage total is an increase of $2,625,729, or 18.5 per cent.

President R. C. Cummings, in commenting on the association's 25th anniversary, said: "One of the most pleasant features of this anniversary year is the increase in our annual dividend rate from three to three and one-half per cent. Our dividends are paid semi-annually and this higher rate will mean a substantial increase in the sums our shareholders will receive next December 31."

The institution is regulated by the federal government through the Federal Home Loan Bank System and it maintains reserves well in excess of those required to protect its shareholders.

During the first six months of 1959 the association added $163,410 to its reserves, bringing its total reserves to $1,188,095.

In addition to its mortgage portfolio, Pontiac Federal's assets included on June 30 of this year $1,585,646 in cash on hand and in banks; $486,152 in land and office buildings; $49,649 in office furnishings and equipment; $360,000 in stock in the Federal Home Loan Bank, and $153,352 in U. S. government securities.

SAVINGS INSURED

In addition to its reserves every savings account is insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance corporation.

Pontiac Federal shareholders, being also federal taxpayers, will be glad to know that the federal government does not have to pay for this insurance. It is paid for by the associations themselves, in the form of premiums paid annually on the basis of the amounts insured.

Not only has no shareholder ever lost a single penny through the failure of an insured federal savings association, but in practically every case there was not an instant's delay in the payment of insured claims.

Pontiac Federal Savings' officers are: R. C. Cummings, president; M. A. Benson, vice president; James Clarkson, executive vice president and secretary; E. W. Johnston, treasurer; Vern McMaster, assistant vice president; William Deike, assistant treasurer and branch manager; Thoralf Ulseth, assistant treasurer and branch manager; C. Bryan Kinney, attorney.

Directors are Judge Clark J. Adams, Benson, Conrad N. Church, Clarkson, Louis H. Cole, Cummings and John Q. Waddell. Chauncey H. Hutchins is an honorary member of the board.

Gov. Long Rests Up for Trip

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long rested in the executive mansion today on the eve of a projected trip to recuperate from physical exhaustion.

The ailing 63-year-old governor has had little relaxation since he engineered his release from a state mental institution on June 26.

★ ★ ★

There was speculation Long might tell of his vacation plans at a news conference reset for afternoon. The governor had been scheduled to meet newsmen Tuesday but the conference was canceled to conserve his strength.

Long finally left the mansion late Tuesday for an hour-long auto drive with State Rep. W. Spencer Myrick of Oak Grove.

The governor has indicated he would start an extended western trip Thursday. State Sen. B. B. Rayburn said he had accepted an invitation to accompany him.

★ ★ ★

Long's income taxes were discussed in New Orleans where Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot of East Baton Rouge Parish met with Chester Usry, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, and U.S. Atty. M. Hepburn Many.

Neither Usry nor Many would comment on the talks. Favrot said they concerned Long's announcement to a joint legislative session last May that the government was looking into his income. Favrot added they discussed a $5,000 reported payment to Long by the New Orleans Steamship Assn. before he vetoed a bill to provide pay raises to Mississippi River pilots.

Son of Oxford Village Manager Learns Lesson

OXFORD—Four-year-old Randy Precious, son of Village Manager and Mrs. Ralph Precious, got an object lesson about playing with matches early last night.

He had been sent to his room as punishment for the offense when suddenly he rushed downstairs pointing to smoke in the upstairs hall.

His father brought water from the bathroom and had the blaze out before the local fire department arrived on the scene.

Clothes valued at about $70 were burned, and the bedroom was damaged by a sooty smoke film, Precious said.

Where little Randy got more matches no one knows, but maybe the scare will be all he needs to make him leave them alone in the future.

The Precious house is located at 129 East St.

Admiral Yarnell Dies in Newport

Had Hand in Far East Policy; Was Commander of Asiatic Fleet in 1937

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Adm. Harry E. Yarnell, U.S.N. (ret), 83, who helped form the United States' firm policy in the Far East immediately before World War II, died Tuesday at the Newport Naval Hospital.

He had been hospitalized for two weeks. The cause of death was not announced.

Adm. Yarnell was commander of the Asiatic fleet when the Japanese sank the U.S. gunboat Panay on the Yangtze River in China in 1937. He was instrumental in bringing about the Japanese payment of $2,200,000 indemnity for the incident.

He served for many years in the Far East and was given a free hand in meeting diplomatic problems on the spot. He said "no" to the Japanese for three years prior to Pearl Harbor and the United States' stand during the turbulent years of the undeclared Sino-Japanese war came to be known as the "Yarnell policy."

Yarnell served in every shooting war involving the United States from the time of his graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1897 until his retirement in 1937.

He was recalled from retire during World War II to serve in a special capacity for the Navy in Washington. He retired as a rear admiral, but was elevated to a full admiral in 1942.

He was head of the Navy summer school at Culver Military Academy from 1944 until 1949. Since then he had lived quietly in retirement at Newport.

Kozlov Also Displays Russians' Pettiness

Once a Russian, always a Russian. Apparently you can't recover.

★ ★ ★

This four-flushing Kozlov, who has been galavanting around the United States and sounding off any place he found an audience, told the President that the United States had demanded payment in gold for the wonderful work Herbert Hoover did during their famine some 35 years ago.

This is a lie.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State CHRISTIAN HERTER and Vice President RICHARD M. NIXON threw the whole thing right back in the Red faker's teeth, and he had to agree finally that "he was somewhat in error."

★ ★ ★

Nothing good this country does is ever applauded or even recognized by the U. S. S. R. Anything it can twist into unfavorable circumstances, it hastens to do. The Russians are a cheap pack of international brigands and the idea that anyone over here could want to substitute their form of government for this is too astounding to dignify by discussion.

★ ★ ★

A Russian is a Russian is a Russian.

Kozlov is one of the cheaper variety.

FHA Has Done Well in 25 Years of Service

Just 25 years ago the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) opened its doors to help the depression wrecked housing industry. Although greeted by some as "socialism" and by others as an incentive for people to go into debt and another way of spending public money, the agency has more than justified its existence.

FHA started with an appropriation of $65.5 million in working capital. By 1941 this had all been paid back plus $20.4 million in interest. From a one-half of one percent fee on mortgage loans and fees for processing applications, it pays expenses and provides mortgage insurance.

To date FHA has supervised an $80 billion investment in American homes. About $26 billion in mortgage loans is still outstanding. Losses over the years have amounted to only one-third of one percent, all covered by insurance.

Credit must be given the agency for the great increase in home ownership. Back in 1934 over 60 percent of Americans lived in rented homes. By 1956 the same percentage of Americans owned their own homes.

Among other things it has created a national market for mortgages and has cut the cost of home buying. It established standard mortgages protected by insurance, sound appraisals and upgraded housing requirements. Mass produciton of homes has enabled contractors to cut costs by using industrial methods.

★ ★ ★

Begun as a pump priming agency, FHA has worked surprisingly well and for the benefit of all.

Reds Lose Strength in Iceland's Election

The recent election in Iceland shows the population more aware of the nature of Communism.

Communists who campaigned for the ousting of American troops from the island and withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) lost 25 per cent of the popular vote and seven seats in the 52 member Parliament. Socialists also dropped two of their eight seats.

A "Yankee Go Home" group of nationalists didn't get any.

The government now will be a coalition of Progressives and Nationalists if that can be arranged. However, observers feel that there is little chance for agreement and that there will be new elections this fall.

One factor working in favor of the Communists, however, is the current fishing dispute with Britain. Iceland's unilateral edict extending its fishing waters to 12 miles has been protested by other nations also. But Britain, more directly concerned and more dependent on fish, is protecting its trawlers and patrolling the disputed waters. Feelings on both sides are bitter and this attitude is having its repercussions in NATO.

★ ★ ★

It is to be hoped that before another election some compromise can be reached with this important member of our Western defense.

"Don't Worry — He's in the Tub Now"

David Lawrence Says:

Housing Bill Gets Inflationary Tag

WASHINGTON — The Democrats who are warring with each other in Congress over the course that should be taken toward presidential vetoes will have a chance to count noses on the issue presented by President Eisenhower's rejection of the housing bill passed by both houses.

LAWRENCE

Shall the measure be treated as a political football or be considered on its merits? If, as Chairman Butler of the Democratic National Committee advocates, the President's vetoes should be overridden irrespective of the weight of his arguments, then the Democrats in Congress who vote to override the veto in this case particularly run the risk of being characterized as "spenders."

For the veto message squarely makes this the central issue. The President says the measure, if enacted, would spend $2.2 billion as compared with the $810 million he recommended. This would mean a big increase in the treasury's deficit.

But there are other and more serious defects in the proposed legislation. Not only are there 100,000 housing units already authorized that haven't been built as yet but the bill would authorize 190,000 more. It is the effect on the financial situation in the country which disturbs the President most as he says:

"The bill is inflationary. The spending authorizations of Senate Bill No. 57, taken together with other seriously objectionable provisions would be inflationary and, therefore, an obstacle to constructive progress toward better housing for Americans.

"One of the most damaging effects of inflation is that it dries up the sources of long term credit. There is perhaps no industry in the nation more heavily dependent for its operations on long-term funds borrowed at reasonable rates of interest than the housing industry.

"We have made good progress in the fight against inflation but we cannot win that fight if we add one spending program to another, without thought of how they are going to be paid for, and invite deficits in times of general prosperity. No one can gain from a fiscal policy of this inflationary type—least of all the housing industry."

HARD ON CREDIT

The President clinches that point with the comment that the proposed legislation would "substitute federal spending for private investment" and that, instead of stimulating private investment, it "would drive private credit from the areas where it is urgently needed."

Eisenhower argues that the artificial requirement that the Federal National Mortgage Assn. "must buy mortgages at par under its special assistance program, regardless of the price that mortgages command in the open market," would be inflationary.

But there are also other damaging provisions. The President speaks of the "needless limitations" on the Federal Housing Administration's program that "would impair the FHA's soundness."

He predicts that the bill would continue the FHA programs on "an uncertain, hand-to-mouth basis" and that, through lower down payments and longer maturities, the bill "would introduce underwriting provisions of questionable soundness into a number of FHA's loan insurance programs."

★ ★ ★

The President asks that the bill be rewritten in line with specific recommendations he makes that would carry out the general objectives of urban renewal, provide additional mortgage insurance authority and make other desirable changes in existing laws.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Illness, Shock May Cause Child's Bladder Problem

A good doctor consulted about the bed-wetting habit invariably examines a specimen of the child's urine, which the parent should take along, in a clean two-ounce or four-ounce bottle, when he takes the child to the doctor. Usually the urine examination will show nothing out of the ordinary, but in exceptional instances it may prove vitally significant.

DR. BRADY

Many bed-wetting children have "white lines around the mouth," bite their nails and-or have worms.

Many have large tonsils and perhaps large adenoids, at least in the spring. Many may require circumcision. But none of these circumstances accounts for the bed-wetting, and therefore the child should be treated only if the condition, whatever it may be, calls for treatment, regardless of the bed-wetting.

The bed-wetting habit is not a "weakness" and not "kidney trouble."

In four out of five cases of bed-wetting in children up to the age of twelve years the children have never acquired control of the bladder. In one case out of five the child has acquired control of the bladder before or at the age of three years, and then lost control again, perhaps when ill of scarlet fever, St. Vitus' dance (chorea) or whooping-cough or as a consequence of shock by some injury.

In some cases one grain of quinine in coated tablet twice a day for six weeks will tone the inhibitory center in the spinal cord and restore normal control of the bladder.

Milk, whole milk, skim milk, buttermilk, evaporated milk, dried milk powder or, instead of pop, chocolate, cocoa, tea or coffee, for a treat a delicious, highly nutritious super-hydramin milk shake—that's what's good for the youngsters.

Many youths inducted into the Army and Navy had to be cured of the bed-wetting habit before they could be assigned to active duty.

Some persons who usually sleep the night through can wake at 3 or 5 a.m. to catch a train or keep an appointment. So may the bed-wetting child keep dry if he so desires, not immediately but after weeks, sometimes months of perseverance, with constant encouragement by parents and sympathy and patience when wetting happens after one or more dry nights.

Anyone who scolds, ridicules, shames, humiliates or punishes a child for wetting the bed deserves punishment for cruelty.

Bed-wetters must be abed by seven p.m. in the winter, 8 p.m. in summer. They should be awakened to empty the bladder at 10 p.m. and not again until 6 a.m.

Never give a bed-wetting child any excuse for wetting. Never suggest that "he comes by it naturally."

When you regain your composure please remember, I recommend for every bed-wetting child (a) high calcium diet and-or (b) a good daily ration of calcium and vitamin D to supplement the diet. Remember also that the most important part of a high calcium diet is milk.

Defends Voters' Position on Sewage Bond Proposal

In reply to Yes Votor on our sewage system, most voters turned it down because of the way it was put to them. Vote yes or the State will make you do it anyway. If this is your constitutional right of thinking or voting, what use is there in going to vote?

★ ★ ★

Remember, we voters had a rough year. We didn't think we had enough cash for the sewage system and didn't want to go in the red for it. Our State isn't ready to put up cash for its own bills, so how can it tell us what to do on money matters?

★ ★ ★

Now that the state is in dire need of financial help, I see the contractors and suppliers are putting pressure on the state to pay cash or five per cent interest.

★ ★ ★

They should remember that the interest they're charging is only being charged against themselves. Every extra bit of interest just means that much more we'll have to pay in taxes. Let's give the state a break. We have enough trouble as it is.

Readers Urge Control of Dogs

These loose dogs burn me up. A two-year-old boy in Missouri was attacked by a pack of those murderers and killed. All loose dogs should be shot and carted away by civic authorities for why should little children be bitten to death by these savage beasts? Fellow citizens, it is time to demand action by Pontiac authorities.

Lover of Little Children

A professor from the University of Vermont studied a thousand cases of dogs biting people and he found half are children under ten who probably cannot protect themselves very well. Female dogs bit the most and young dogs are worse than older ones. This is a good time to put muzzles on all dogs that run around wild and that are not looked after by their owners.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

'Complex Problem' Very Simple

Loraine's case is so common, it is now a classic in psychiatry, yet she thinks herself so unique that she says she couldn't explain her dilemma in a full length book. Wives, face the music. Read Loraine's case and then quit passing the buck by thinking these daily true office cases apply to OTHERS but not to yourself. Loraine also tried to evade the truth, but it catches you ultimately.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE B-481: Loraine B., aged 37, is a cultured New Yorker.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," she pleaded via long distance telephone recently, "I simply MUST see you in person.

DR. CRANE

"I have followed your educational column in our New York Herald Tribune, so I know you can help me.

"Could I fly out tomorrow for an interview?"

But I told Loraine I was swamped with writing and could not see her in person. "Just write out your problem in detail," I added, "and send it to me via the Herald Tribune, for all newspapers forward such mail unopened.

"You readers thus enjoy complete privacy and I'll be glad to try to offer any advice I can via letter."

But Loraine demurred.

★ ★ ★

"Why, Dr. Crane, I couldn't even begin to put my problem into a letter: It is far too complicated. In fact, it would take an entire book!"

Then she began to sob audibly into the telephone, so I gently asked:

"Aren't you and your husband getting along very well?"

And that caused her to blurt out her entire difficulty, interspersed with sobs:

"Oh, Dr. Crane, we have been happily married for 16 years and have two adorable children in high school, but now I have just learned that my husband has developed an affair with a secretary at his place of business."

WHY WE EVADE FACTS

Please notice that Loraine gave her entire problem in one single sentence, although she had just informed me a few seconds earlier that it was so complicated and unique that she could never possibly reduce it to even a long letter.

In fact, she had claimed it would require an entire book to tell it!

"Dr. Crane," you may logically inquire, "why do patients get the bizarre idea that their problems are so complex that they can't be solved via mail but require a personal, lengthy interview."

Well, most people refuse to face facts, especially ugly or painful facts.

Loraine's problem is all too common. And it hurts her, so she tries to run around emotionally and evoke sympathy as she sheds tears and wrings her hands and claims she doesn't know what to do.

If she has followed this column regularly in her Herald Tribune, then she knows that the odds usually favor the wife who plays her cards seductively, even at this late stage.

Most erring husbands in my wide consulting practice have admitted they would much rather have an affair with their own wife, than with any other woman.

"But she acts indifferent to my amative advances," is the way they explain their domestic crisis.

"She devotes practically her entire time and energy to being a good mother and an excellent housekeeper. "She spends a lot of time in wholesome civic or church work and is a mainstay of the PTA.

"Which is wonderful, IF—she'd realize men don't marry the PTA or the civic clubs, or even a good cook and housekeeper.

"And when we husbands try to revive a little of the dying embers of our former flaming youth, she dashes ice water on them!"

His Home Built From the Roots

Do-It-Yourselfer Turns Tree Farm's Products Into Dwelling

TROUT LAKE, Wash. (UPI) — Tree farmer John Madison takes the do-it-yourself idea very, very seriously. In fact, he's taken it about as far as it can go.

Maidson is building a new frame home for his family in the shadow of snow-topped Mt. Adams, the 12,307 foot peak about 40 miles north of the Columbia River.

To which you might very well say, so what? Lots of people build their own frame homes. That's true, but do they also raise their own timber for the house, harvest the trees and saw them into lumber in a one-man sawmill?

Madison does.

He goes even farther than that. Bolts from cedar trees he is growing will be split and used as shingles for the roof.

★ ★ ★

Even some of the furniture for the new house will be fresh from the tree farm — via Madison's carpenter's bench.

A barn already built on the property was constructed with timber from adjacent trees, ponderosa pine, fir, larch and cedar.

Madison has a thrifty bent too. Wood shavings from his planer go into the cow barn for use as bedding material and other leftovers are used for firewood.

★ ★ ★

Madison has 240 acres of trees. He hasn't used them all up for the house by any means and, in fact, has the operation at a point where it is on a sustained yield basis.

The Western Pine Assn., which sponsors the forest industry's Tree Farm program to recognize outstanding forestry practices on privately-owned, taxpaying timberlands in pine areas of Western states, has certified his property as a Western Pine Tree Farm.

What's it like to have your house in the middle of a tree farm?

★ ★ ★

Madison, his wife Veronica and their daughter Sheila, 12, are sold on it. They have more shade and fresh air than they will ever need.

Solve Mystery of Four Mayflower Children

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Next to self-made millionaires and beautiful pampered women, the proudest people in America are those whose ancestors arrived on the Mayflower.

The fact is that if you cannot be young and rich, the next best thing is to be of old family and proud. Honest and phony historians have for generations dwelt on easy street as a result of tracing back and unearthing Mayflower heritages that American families can boast about.

But there is one story—a spicy, romantic tale—that remained a mystery until last week. It concerns four Mayflower children, three brothers and a sister, whose pre-America heritage has baffled historians for three centuries.

The curious truth was finally pieced together in England, proving there'll always be a Sherlock Holmes.

The four children were unrelated to any of the grown-up passengers aboard the Mayflower in the famous voyage of 1620.

The ship's log listed them only as the charges of three different Pilgrim leaders. A child called Jasper More was with John Carver, his brother Richard and another (nameless) brother was with William Brewster, and their sister Ellen with Edward Winslow.

★ ★ ★

Research later indicated the oldest, Ellen, was eight when the Mayflower sailed. Jasper was seven, Richard not quite six, and the unnamed child was, also, unaged.

Experts on New England origins at first presumed that the children were paupers whose parents couldn't afford to keep them in England.

But this theory was wrong. The parish register of Shipton, Shropshire, showed that the children's father, Samuel More, was a wealthy landowner.

The mother of the children was his third cousin, and an heiress to another landed fortune.

Why, then, should a whole quartet of children be cast off to a new country? How could a man be so deranged, or a mother so unfeeling, as to abandon an eldest son?

Anthony R. Wagner, a curious Englishman, has just revealed the tragic reasons. Obsessed with the unsolved mystery for years, he finally forced a descendant of Samuel More to spend a winter searching the family archives for clues. Pieced together, the clues told a tale that should make Kathleen Winsor itchy to get back to the typewriter. . . .

Samuel More was 16 years old when his wealthy parents decided he should marry his cousin, Catherine More. She was 23. Reason for the match: To keep her future property inheritance in the More family.

There were two unhappy aspects of the nuptials. Catherine was in love, and had promised to marry another man. And Samuel was too young to comprehend the score.

In quick succession, Catherine More bore four children. The first three were registered by name in the parish register at Shipton. But by the birth of the fourth, Samuel had grown wise to "the common fame of the adulterous life of the said Catherine More with one Jacob Blakeway, a fellow of mean parentage and condition . . . and after it was known to the said Samuel the apparent likeness and resemblance of most of the said children in their visages and lineaments of their bodies to the said Blakeway" made him wish to disclaim them.

He could not be sure that all the children were the illegitimate offspring of his wife's lover for (and she claimed "marriage before God") Blakeway. But he was taking no chances.

He sent the young quartet to London with a servant, and paid the Pilgrim leaders to transport them to Virginia and see they were sufficiently kept and maintained "with meat, drink, apparel, lodging and other necessaries and that at the end of seven years they should have 50 acres of land apiece in Virginia."

Samuel More then divorced his errant wife, remarried and had seven more children. The bereaved Catherine was never heard of, historically, again.

The Mayflower landed in Plymouth, instead of Virginia. Records show "the little girl," Ellen, died soon after the ship's arrival. "The little boy Jasper" died the same winter of "the common infection." So did the unnamed brother.

This left only Richard. He settled in Salem, married and left several children — among them a daughter Susanna, the wife of Capt. Samuel Dutch, from whom many New England families descend.

And the gravestone of Richard More, the discarded son of misery, is the only one of a Mayflower passenger which still exists.

War Hero's Son Enters West Point Class of '63

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Awkward young men with short haircuts arrived at the U.S. Military Academy Tuesday to form the class of 1963. They included Colin P. Kelly III, son of America's first air hero of World War II.

Colin P Kelly Jr. was killed three days after Pearl Harbor returning from a bombing raid on a Japanese cruiser. He told his crew to bail out when enemy fighters riddled his plane. He did not. He was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor.

His 19-year-old son Corky entered West Point the hard way, qualifying through the competitive examination rather than accepting the presidential appointment tacitly waiting for him nearly 20 years.

A week after his father died, President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote a letter asking the man who sat in the White House when young Corky came of age to consider him for appointment to the academy.

★ ★ ★

Corky officially entered West Point late yesterday when he and the 700 other new classmen marched to Trophy Point and took the oath of allegiance to the United States.

He and the others will spend the summer in basic tactical training and in the fall begin their four-year course in academic and military instruction.

Corky and his mother and stepfather, J. Watson Pedlow, slipped quietly out of their home near Philadelphia Monday to come here. They said, "Colin wants to be like any other cadet. Please hold down the publicity."

Senate Defeats Industry Bill

Williams Wants Credit for High Risks to Aid New Businesses

LANSING (AP)—A key recommendation of Gov. Williams for encouragement of new industry in Michigan was defeated last night in the Senate but backers promised a new passage try.

★ ★ ★

A bill to put the Development Credit Corporation Act of 1956 into workable form attracted 15 favorable votes, three short of the pass-age requirement. Sixteen senators opposed it.

★ ★ ★

The 1956 act, never used, was intended to permit banks and insurance companies to join in formation of a new type of lending agency empowered to extend comparatively high risk credit to struggling industries.

Last night's unfavorable action came without debate at a session marked by approval of 15 bills, most of them minor, and defeat of one other.

★ ★ ★

The proposed changes in the Development Credit Corporation Act would expand powers of such agencies, most notably to hold real property, and remove objections of banks and insurance companies that have kept the program from getting off the ground.

Prepare for 1960 Models

Predicts Wild, 'Cleanup,' Selling of 1959 Autos

DETROIT (UPI)—A leading automotive industry magazine predicts a wild selling scramble of 1959 model cars before a short, "hectic" introduction of 1960 models — including the new "small" cars of the Big Three—in early October.

Automotive News, speaking of the million new 1959 models on hand now, said:

"It has been a long time since dealers faced such a monumental cleanup task as they do this year . . . with nobody certain of the impact the Big Three (General Motors, Ford and Chrysler) small cars will have on the auto market this fall, dealers agree on only one thing: they must clean out new '59s to the bare walls and at the same time keep their used - car stocks to the minimum."

The publication said "it now looks like the first '60 models (including at least two of the Big Three small cars) will go on sale Oct. 1 and all of the new models will be introduced to the public by the middle of the month."

Automotive News reported that the "little two" manufacturers, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard, made the biggest gains in first-half 1959 production by marketing s m a l l e r "compact" cars.

American Motors had 6.60 per cent of U.S. production in 1959, compared with 4.14 last year; Studebaker-Packard 2.71, compared with 0.89; General Motors 48.42, compared with 54.51; Ford 28.87, compared with 26.36; and Chrysler 13.40 compared with 14.10.

Commenting on high auto production to hedge against a steel strike, Automotive News said "observers" feel the extension of the steel labor contracts have taken some of the "urgency" out of auto building and perhaps left the industry overstocked.

X15 Will Get Face Lift for Space Flight

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—When the X15 rocket plane blasts off toward the fringes of space it will have a pug, not a needle nose.

A round ball that replaces the lance-like nose of the swept-wing experimental ship was turned over to this test facility Tuesday.

The new nose is instrumented so the pilot can determined immediately any pitching or sideslipping that could create intense friction and burn up the ship as it tries to enter the earth's atmosphere.

The X15 will retain its needle nose throughout the lower atmosphere tests. The ball nose will be installed when the plane is turned over to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for high altitude flights later this year.

Fang, a Police Dog, Friendly After All

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fang, a police dog, proved in court he is a perfect gentleman — but the judge himself had to conduct the test.

The issue was raised at the trial of a man fined $35 for peace disturbance and resisting arrest. Fang had bitten him when the man scuffled with the arresting officer.

Fang's handler said the dog normally was gentle and would even shake hands with total strangers. Police Judge Morris Rosenthal suggested that Nathan B. Young, assistant city counselor might want to try.

Young looked warily at the dog and declined the invitation. It was at that point that Judge Rosenthal shook hands with the dog.

Hebrew Language Adapts to Demands of Modern Use for Its Survival

By ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Hebrew, a dormant language since Biblical times, is coming back to full flower as the common language of Israel and its two million population. An estimated 800,000 other Jews in other countries also now regard it as their mother tongue.

★ ★ ★

Almost until the beginning of this century, Hebrew was reserved almost exclusively for scholarly writings and exchanges between learned Jews. A few poets write in Hebrew. In 1853 the first novel was written in Hebrew but it remained little more than a curiosity.

A major difficulty in its revival was that the language was stiff with disuse. Its vocabulary was limited to that of the Bible and Mishna, or Rabbinical law. For 1,500 years scarcely a word had been added.

How to speak Hebrew and say "telephone?" Or automobile. Or, for that matter, order a simple meal?

BANS IMMIGRATION

Hebrew's renaissance really began in 1882.

On July 25, 1882, the Sultan of the Turkish Empire issued an edict banning the immigration of Jews into what is now Israel.

Six days later, in defiance, the first Jewish settlement in the Holy Lane in 1,750 years was established. The village, Rishon le Zion—the First in Zion— is now a prosperous wine-producing center.

A few days later, a boy was born in Jerusalem who became the first in the modern world to speak Hebrew from infancy.

His father, a school teacher from Lithuania named Eliezer Ben-Yehuda, refused to engage a nurse or housemaid, although he could afford one, so that his son's care should not be confused by other languages. He and his wife spoke Hebrew at home.

The three events—the ban, the settlement and the language—were bound up together.

The ban on immigration served only to intensify the efforts to overcome it. Eliezer Ben-Yehuda and a small band of fellow devotees preached that the national revival had to be accomplished by the revival of its Hebrew language.

The difficulties spurred on the work—including that of adapting the old language to new things.

If, at the turn of the century, a lawyer wanted to plead his case in Hebrew, he would do so in the phraseology used by Abraham when he argued with God.

A physicist writing up the results of his research would have to recall the natural phenomena as described by Job.

DEVISE NEW WORDS

Ben - Yehuda and his fellow Hebraists set about the task of devising new Hebrew words and phrases for modern articles and concepts.

One way was to translate directly by substituting the Hebrew roots for the foreign ones. But this system often produced an unnatural result.

For example, he split the word "telephone" to its roots and produced the Hebrew word "Sahrahek"—long distance conversation.

This is found now only in the dictionaries—nobody uses it. Ever body uses the Greek word as they do all over the world, but it is declined as though it were Hebrew.

To phone is "letalpen," and "I phoned" is "tilpanti."

Far happier, and more permanent, was the adaptation of ancient Hebrew words to modern uses.

The word for "telegram," for example, is now "mivrak," which is derived from the Biblical word "barak"—lightning.

The Hebrew language has its grace of roundness and simplicity—once you know it.

Almost every word consists of three root letters which are declined by changing the vowels or adding prefixes and suffixes in a variety of ways, each yielding a different nuance or even a completely contrasting word.

The chief difficulty of Ben-Yehuda and his fellow-Hebraists was not the technical one of broadening the language. Far more difficult was getting people to use it.

In the early days there was con- Orthodox sections who thought of Ordhodox sections who thought of Hebrew as the Holy Tongue, to be used only in discussing sacred matters.

How could one order steak and chips, or discuss the merits of music hall works, in the language of Moses and Isaiah?

There was, too, the natural resistance of the population, settled and immigrant, who found it difficult to learn a language so different in vocabulary and syntax from their own.

Even today there are in Israel many persons who came from Germany during the 1930s and still have not mastered Hebrew except for the few words essential for basic shopping needs.

The assault on this lassitude was led by Ben-Yehuda's first pupils and the succeeding generations.

Youngsters used to go about the streets eavesdropping on conversations. If Hebrew was not being used, they would tell the culprits that "in Jerusalem speak Hebrew."

Occasionally performances of the Yiddish theater were broken up by Hebraic zealots.

Despite ridicule and natural obstacles, the language took root, widened and deepened long before Israel became a state. The British Mandatory authorities were compelled to add Hebrew as the third official language after English and Arabic.

Great was the delight of visitors to hear customs officials at Haifa address them in Herbrew, and their pleasure was deep at seeing manhole covers inscribed in Hebrew with the legend "Municipality of Jerusalem."

The propagation of the language has always had to keep pace with the successive waves of immigration.

To deal with this, a new system of teaching now has been devised in which groups of students live together and study eight hours a day for three or five months in an all-Hebrew atmosphere.

Only Hebrew is used in lessons, at mealtimes and in evening singsongs, entertainment and discussion groups.

When the class consists of Rumanians, Frenchmen, Americans, Bulgarians, Hungarians, Iraqis, Moroccans, Argentinians and Yugoslavs, the students have no alternative but to converse with one another in the only language they have in common—the Hebrew they are learning together.

Hebrew is now the only official language of the State (although Arabic may be used in the Knesset —parliament).

Israel's law, sport, theater, press are conducted in Hebrew and when the first nuclear reactor is installed, it will have a Hebrew name —Kur Garini, literally, oven for kernels.

Will Reveal Earth's Interior

Scientists Begin 'Expedition Fanfare'

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists set out to sea yesterday in search of a site for drilling the world's deepest man-made hole in a project aimed at answering age-old questions about the earth's interior.

Nearly a score of scientists were aboard three ships assigned to the three-week survey called "Expedition Fanfare."

The Hugh M. Smith of Scripps Institute of Oceanography and the Saluda of the Naval Electronics Laboratory left yesterday. A third vessel, the Spence F. Baird of Scripps, leaves today.

The experts will make seismic soundings to determine the thickness of the earth's crust, take bottom cores, measure gravity, record depths and note weather.

Somewhere — perhaps off Guadalupe Islands, about 300 miles to the south — the scientists hope to find a spot for drilling from sea level 30,000 feet into the earth's mantle.

Recently, four ships conducted a similar survey in the Atlantic in a 200-by-150-mile area north of Puerto Rica.

The two-ocean survey work is part of tentative planning for drilling the "Mohole," a name given to the National Academy of Sciences' project for getting a piece of the earth's mantle.

Scientists think more than 80 per cent of the earth is composed of the mantle material which contains the planet's molten interior and in turn is covered by the crust.

What causes the earth's gravity? What causes its heat? How radioactive is the deep earth? Are the earth and moon made mostly of the same material.

These are some of the questions Mohole project scientists hope to study, and they say just getting a piece of the mantle is enough reason to spend 10 to 20 million dollars on the program.

★ ★ ★

The idea for penetration of the mohorovicic discontinuity — the boundary between the crust and the mantle — was reported to have been born in jest two years ago at the home of Dr. Walter H. Munk here.

A group of scientists formed the American Miscellaneous Society (AMSOC) to informally pursue the project which later was taken up seriously by the National Academy of Sciences.

Willard Bascom, executive secretary of the AMSOC-Mohole committee, said several test holes probably would be drilled to develop drilling equipment and techniques before the Mohole was attempted.

The deep hole would be drilled at sea rather than on land because the earth's crust is thinner under the ocean. On land the crust is 15 to 20 miles thick.

Scientists hope to adapt oil drilling equipment for the test holes which would give them an idea of the type of vessel and drill they would need for sinking the Mohole.

★ ★ ★

Bascom said the deepest hole ever drilled by man was a 25,340-foot oil well in Texas.

Egyptians, Syrians Join in UAR Voting

CAIRO (AP) — Nine million Egyptians and Syrians voted for the first time today as citizens of the 18-month-old United Arab Republic, but the election raised no challenge to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime.

Throughout the U.A.R. people balloted for 39,364 seats on local councils. They will serve as local administrative bodies and will form the base for the National Union, only political group allowed to function in the U.A.R.

The local councils will choose provincial councils which in turn will elect a general congress of the National Union. From the congress Nasser will pick a provisional parliament.

Since political parties are not allowed to function in the U.A.R., there was no question of voting for or against Nasser's regime.

Cubans Face Death for Land Plan Ideas

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime was armed with the death penalty today for a major onslaught against opposition to his land reform program.

★ ★ ★

Revolutionary tribunals, which have condemned hundreds of Cubans to firing squads since Jan. 1, were reported ready to resume their work in Pinar del Rio Province.

Pinar del Rio, at the extreme western end of the island, is a hotbed of opposition to Castro's campaign to slice up large farms and dole out acreage to the peasants.

Armed bands have been reported building up strength in the Organ mountains of the province to overthrow Castro.

The Castro regime yesterday decreed the death penalty for "crimes which damage the national economy or the public treasury," and for treason, subversion and wartime espionage.

Young gentlemen who fight against bathtime might consider that one of Beau Brummel's claims to fame was his daily bath. If young boys haven't reached the age where impressing young girls is important, then there's little to do with them except toss them into a tub.

Camp Fire Girls at Oweki

Mrs. William Hewitt, a Red Cross water safety instructor, is in charge of the waterfront program, both swimming and boating. Every girl takes swimming each day for 45 minutes, receiving both instruction and free swimming.

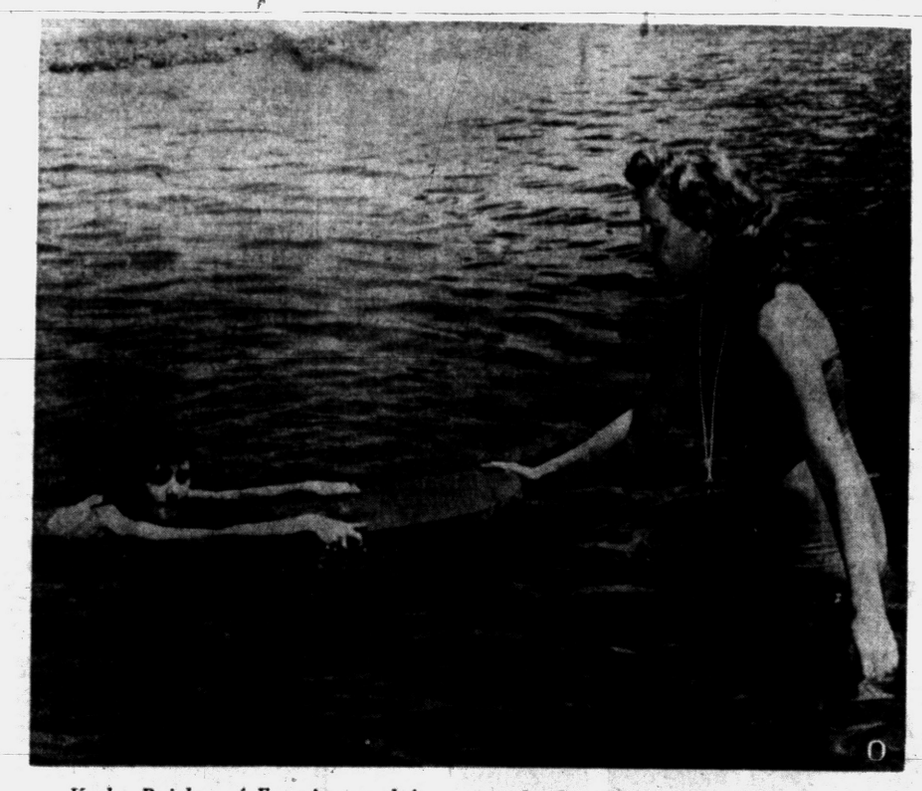

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hewitt stated, "I feel that this is one of the finest day camp waterfront programs in the area from the standpoint of both facilities and safety." Mrs. Hewitt has three Red Cross trained assistants on the waterfront.

Quit Excuses and Get to Work—Abby

'God's Will' Plea Is Cover-Up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me, if you can (or maybe someone else can if you dare to print this) what is "God's will?" My husband and I have been married for 16 years and have had nothing but trouble. Our son was taken to Juvenile Court when he was 14 because he never had a father's training or guidance.

ABBY

My husband says, "It's God's will." We are about to lose our land because my husband doesn't want to work. He never watched his money when times were good. He says, "It's God's will." Frankly, I am confused although I have been to church every Sunday since I was five.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: "God's will" is that which is beyond the power of man to control. It's all right to get down on your knees and pray for something, but there is a time when man must get off his knees and work for it.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a housewife and the mother of four children. My problem is a friend who calls me four and five times a day and holds the conversation for 15 and 20 minutes at a time. I want to keep her friendship but I can't stay on the phone that long. I have used the following excuses and wonder if you can add any? 1. Baby into something. 2. Water running. 3. Taking a bath. 4. Expecting an important call. 5. Have company. 6. Something on stove. 7. Doorbell ringing. Thanks, Abby, for any suggestions.

BUSY HOUSEWIFE

DEAR BUSY: Honesty is the best policy—and by far the most effective. Tell her you are sorry but you have work to do and cannot visit on the phone.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for three years and are very happy. Our problem is that my husband's mother and father will not talk to me or even look at our two adorable children. They are holding against me a mistake we made before we were married. I think that after three years they should forget about the past, don't you? I have no parents and it would be so nice for my children to have grandparents.

ONE MISTAKE

DEAR ONE: Your husband's parents are being very foolish. Of course they should forget the past. Give them every opportunity to be with you and if they refuse—believe me, they are the losers.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MISTAKEN:" Nature, in her infinite wisdom designed us so that we cannot kick ourselves, but I am sure your sister-in-law would be glad to accomodate you. Apologize and forget it.

Aquarama Captain, Wife Love 'Em

Children Swarm Home

By RHEA E. VIETOR
Women's Editor
The Pontiac Press

If you see a white ship's anchor on a lawn in Bloomfield Village, you're at the home of Captain Morgan L. Howell, who commands the luxury liner S.S. Aquarama.

Locally, Howell is one of few seagoing men to own a master's certificate, authorizing him to captain practically any vessel in any ocean or inland waterway.

★ ★ ★

The captain and his wife, who is "chief executive officer," have lived on Wadsworth Lane for almost two years and during that time the house has become headquarters for all the children in the neighborhood.

It is filled wjth nautical treasures, including an authentic ship's bell.

'NEIGHBORS WONDERFUL'

"We love the children, and the neghbors are wonderful," said the captain. "The kids practically live at our house, and I don't know what we'd do without them."

Morgan L. Howell was born in St. George, Canada and his wife, the former Grace White, was born in St. George, England.

★ ★ ★

Neither of them knew of the coincidence until they applied for a wedding license in Detroit back in 1930.

The captain, incidentally, met his future bride when he was a deckhand on the S.S. Corona, sailing out of Hamilton, Ont.

INTRODUCED BY SISTER

She came aboard as a passenger, and after one look, the future skipper asked his sister to introduce them.

The captain's adventure-studded career has taken him from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, the Caribbean Sea, the Gulf of Mexico and all the Great Lakes.

★ ★ ★

As well as commanding other companies' ships, he has owned and operated his own — from tugs to tankers. He bought his first ship, the tug Dearborn, in 1946.

Internationally, he has either commanded or served as executive officer aboard North and South American passenger vessels.

DELIVERY SPECIALIST

He took command of the Aquarama when it was commissioned in 1957.

He is considered a specialist in delivering new ships from builders to owners when top-notch navigation is especially required.

★ ★ ★

During World War II he delivered cargo ships from Chicago through the inland waterways and across the North Atlantic to England.

The captain says he "knew from the beginning" that he was going to be a sailor.

St. George is some 200 miles inland, but Howell says just reading seafaring books was enough to decide him on his career when he was a very small boy.

STUDIED JAPANESE

A grauate of Tri-State College in Angola, Ind., he studied the Japanese language at Columbia University during the war.

Shortly after his graduation from Tri-State he went to Hawaii where he lived "native style" for two years.

"Of all the places in the world I have seen," he said, "Hawaii is the best."

★ ★ ★

Both the captain and his lady are staunch supporters of the Pontiac YWCA and he has been guest speaker at two of their annual banquets.

During the busy summer season, the Howells don't get to see much of each other.

After the Aquarama ends its sailing schedule for the year, the skipper is kept busy delivering navy ships or yachts.

SHE STAYS HOME

Mrs. Howell, who handles the business end of these adventures, stays home to keep things shipshape.

When Morgan Howell retires, he is determined to buy a Gloucester fishing boat and live on it for the rest of his life.

"There will be seven bunks," he declared, "but never more than six will be occupied." He explained that it is a superstition to leave one bunk vacant for a survivor.

CAPTAIN MORGAN L. HOWELL

Here's an aerial view of the SS Aquarama heading up the Detroit River with the Detroit skyline in the distance. The huge luxury liner cost $8,500,000, has 10,000 horsepower and nine decks. During the regular summer season it runs between Cleveland and Detroit.

Life Can Begin at Age 50 for Alive Salesmen

CHICAGO — Life can begin for a salesman at 50, according to S. Max Becker Jr., president of a hand dryer company.

Becker announced a policy of hiring salesmen past the half-century mark. He said salesmen between the ages of 50 and 70 are far from "dead."

The manufacturer has tested the use of older salesmen on a limited scale for several years. Becker said the men have produced an exceptional sales volume.

Older men are more persistent, less easily discouraged and possess a calm maturity of manner that inspires confidence in customers, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pease of Emerson avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Elaine Koop, to Pvt. Ronald J. Klobnock. He is the son of the John Klobnocks of Emerson avenue. An Oct. 17 wedding is planned.

Mrs. John Brewer, president, conducted the meeting, and appointed Mrs. Maude Place, Mrs. Frank Emery and Mrs. Lillian Collins to the nominating committee.

Mrs. Carl Malkim rejoined the group.

★ ★ ★

Arrangemnts for the Silver Tea to be held July 21 at the Adah Shelly Library will be handled by Mrs. E. K. Vanderlind.

Mrs. Place, Mrs. Carl Cox, and Mrs. Alice Sibley will serve as cohostesses for the affair.

The event is open to the public. All donations will be used for hospital work and for veterans' aid.

★ ★ ★

LEG CRAMPS?

One of the most common causes of painful muscle cramps is a prolonged deficiency of calcium.*

So says a famous doctor and widely-read newspaper columnist, formerly with the Mayo Clinic, and other well-known health authorities

Can't Ask Guests to Give Money

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's parents will be celebrating their golden wedding anniversary in two months. My husband and I would like to give a reception for them and invite their closest relatives and dearest friends.

"The only real enjoyment they have is their television set which is old and not working too well. They could really use a new one.

"Would it be permissible to enclose a note in with the invitations asking the guests (whom I am sure will all send presents) to put the money they might spend on a gift, in an envelope so they could later use it to buy a new television set? My father-in-law is retired and they are living on his pension, which is not very large, and it would be a hardship for them to buy a new set themselves."

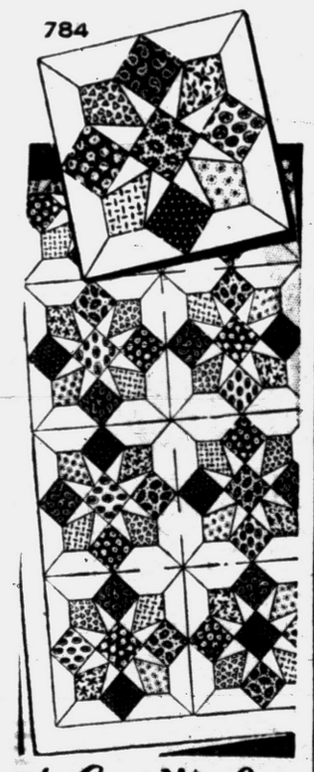

Answer: I am very sorry, but it will not be proper to ask your guests to give money instead of presents of their choice.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a man is divorced and has remarried someone else, is it proper to invite his ex-wife to a social gathering at which they will be present?"

Answer: To any large party or reception where the ex-wife will not have to speak to her former husband or his new wife, it is proper to invite all three of them. To a small gathering or sit-down dinner they must not be invited together unless it is known that they are on friendly terms and often go to the same parties.

"Dear Mrs. Post: For years I have answered the telephone in my house by saying "Yes?" instead of the usual "Hello." The other day I was told that this was a very rude way of answering. I cannot see why, but will stop if you say it is wrong."

Answer: "Hello" is preferred to a simple "yes" because the latter can be abrupt and even a little rude. If, however, your "yes?" is said in a friendly tone of voice and as a question, there is no reason why you should change to "hello."

RED, WHITE and BLUE

Utilize the three favorite colors for summer in your makeup.

RED, your lipstick, of course. But not just one shade . . . have three, at least. One with a touch of copper, especially good with a suntan. One clear red to wear with black and white and one with a tinge of blue for blue-tone colors.

WHITE. Get acquainted with the new white luster lipstick for blending color, and white magic eye shadow.

BLUE for the more popular than ever mascara or eye shadow. From frosty shades to midnight blue its flattering effect is devastating for mid-summer nights.

More Than Sneakers

Need Sturdy Shoes at Camp

One of the most important parts of equipment your child will take to camp is his or her footwear. Select this with care.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is the season when thousands of boys and girls are in camp or soon will be. There is probably no experience more rewarding for the young person and also for his or her parents.

The outdoor life builds a backlog of health. Also it is the child's first experience in living in close quarters with a group of new people. He is a part of a community and is expected to share the responsibility. It is usually the first time he has been away from his parents for any length of time and cannot turn to them for aid or sympathy.

Camps develop a love of the outdoors and sports and also provide the youngster with his first preparation for standing on his own feet later on. Absence from home gives a boy or girl a new appreciation of parents and home.

In this way the parents are warmed. They may note a new understanding in their child of some of the values they had been promoting. On the humorous side, I remember the return of my son after his first camp experience.

When he showed me the medal he had won for the best table manners I almost fainted. I wondered how in the world the other children had eaten and could only surmise that the things he had been taught became important to him when the outside world or someone besides his mother thought they were of value.

But to get back to my main theme today. Your child's camp equipment is most important, especially the footwear he or she takes along. Your youngster's camping days should be fancy free but not altogether footloose. Any experienced camp counselor will tell you that footwear and foot care are among the chief concerns of boy's and girl's camps. Just consider athlete's foot, bruised heels, sprains and cuts from hiking and sports.

CHECK SHOE SIZE

First check the size of his or her present shoes. There should be room for growth at the front and sides of the shoes, especially if he or she is going to be gone for two months or more. Children have a way of sprouting like weeds in the summer particularly when they go to camp.

Sneakers are usually a part of camp outfitting but they should not be worn all the time. They are good for sports, a few hours a day. Even at camp, foot specialists recommend the all-leather laced oxford. Firm but pliant leather uppers give the feet the solid support they need when sprinting across fields or clambering up obstacle-strewn forest trails.

Porous leather soles give the feet a chance to breathe, thus avoiding soreness which can come from an accumulation of perspiration.

Children love Indian moccasins and camp is their natural habitat. Here again the leather sole is important since it goves protection against nails, sharp stones and other hazards in an active young camper's life. All-leather moccasins are now available.

Give your children this opportunity if possible. If you have no children, why not send an underprivileged child to camp for a few weeks, or even one week?

Showers, Tubs in New Homes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newly installed bathrooms today are likely to have both a tub and a shower. Five or six years ago, there was likely to be only one tub in a two-bathroom house; the second bathroom generally had only a stall shower.

But stall showers continue in popularity, and are used often in the master bathroom, supplementing a large tub. In luxury homes, shower stalls sometimes are classified as "spray rooms."

Don't Be Lazy About Face Care

Whenever you apply fresh make-up, be sure that your face is absolutely clean. This seems a basic rule of beauty but it's one that many girls flaunt.

When you apply new make-up over stale make-up, you're asking for skin trouble. You'll collect bumps, clogged pores, blackheads and pimples. Your skin can take lots of soap and water provided the water is not too hot and the soap is mild.

So don't be lazy about washing your face. It's essential to good looks.

Serve a plate of watercress, robers on the picnic spot to perk maine, lettuce and sliced cucum- up those hearty sandwiches.

Cannot Maintain Constant Good Will

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

As a child Mrs. R. was often reproved for "sulking."

If she was silent and withdrawn after punishment, her mother would say, "In the sulks again?" If she didn't laugh at her big brother's teasing, she was asked, "Sulking again?" If a visiting relative commandeered her bed, her mother, preparing her lumpy cot, would whisper, "Dont let Aunt Myrtle see you sulking like that or I don't know what she'll think of you."

Inevitably Mrs. R. — as a child—became frightened of this "sulkiness" in herself that was so strongly disapproved. She was made so apprehensive of it she could never consider the possibility it was good. So she tried hard to feel no ill will at punishment or her brother's teasing. She learned to pretend she didn't mind the uncomfortable nights on the lumpy cot.

Now her old fear of "sulkiness" is quite a problem to her.

When her 11-year-old Betty flings up to her room in anger because she can't stay overnight with a friend, Mrs. R. panics. She stops what she's doing to listen for the kind of sound Betty makes when she closes her door.

If it's a slam, Mrs. R. at once starts thinking, "Oh, well, we're young only once. What if it is a school night?" And she goes upstairs to reverse her "No" — not because she's really changed her mind but because she's terrified of any lapse of good will between herself and other people.

It's a very foolish fear to entertain.

Ill will occurs between us and other people because no human being can maintain perpetual good will. If you think you can, you're a freak in your own universe. Like the seas and their tides, the seasons with their changes, our feelings toward even our nearest and dearest possess a rhythm of ebb and flow that deserves not our fear but our profoundest respect.

Parents trained to believe that their childhood ebbs of good will were bad need to revise their inherited opinion so they can stand a little ill will without going to pieces.

If we can't stand a child's ill will, we can't stand the child. What is worse, we can't stand ourselves.

No Shortening Needed in Quick Date Bread

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

There's nothing like an attractive fruit salad served with sliced quick bread sandwiches for a light summer meal. Mrs. Henry Mehlberg makes a date nut bread that is just right for such a meal. There is no shortening in this recipe.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Mehlberg is active in several types of church work. She is a member of the Gideon Auxiliary. The Waterford Book Review Club has her name on its rolls. Eight grandchildren are nearby to gladden their grandmother's heart.

DATE NUT BREAD
By Mrs. Henry Mehlberg

1 small package pitted dates, cut
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sugar
2 cups sifted flour
1 egg
Dash of salt
Broken nut meats

Mix cut dates, boiling water and soda. Let stand until cool. Add sugar, flour, salt and egg. Stir to mix. Pour into greased bread pan and sprinkle broken nut meats over top of batter.

Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Cool before slicing. This is delicious served just as it is, buttered or made into cream cheese sandwiches.

Men are taking to brilliant colors too this summer. This sailor is about to get under way in a pair of polished cotton extra-slim tailored "spikes." The slacks come in orange, yellow and green. The narrow cuffs and flap over each back pocket add the finishing touches.

Voltmanns Plan Long Awaited Trip to Europe

A wish to visit Europe that Mrs. Robert Voltmann of Adams road has had since girlhood will come true this summer. She and her husband will leave New York by jet Saturday to visit 11 countries in Europe.

Vocal music instructor at Pontiac Central High School and secretary of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Voltmann says that her study and love of music fostered her desire to see Europe. They will attend music festivals and visit with the Michigan Chorale and Mrs. Voltmann's student, Marilyn Vernon of West Rundell street.

Mr. Voltmann, an engineer, shares his wife's love of music. An Elder and High Priest in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, he also is anxious to see the missionary movement of the church in these countries. The couple will be met in London, England, by Apostle Arthur A. Oakman who is in charge of the entire Foreign Mission.

Sounding Boards

NEW YORK — When rehearsing an aria, Jan Peerce, Metropolitan Opera tenor, treads on bare floors in his living room, entrance hall, dining-room and practice room.

The reason is two-fold: Mrs. Peerce thinks bare floors are the most elegant of all when properly maintained; second, they give her husband's voice the true tonal quality he requires.

Dinah Will End Europe Vacation Buying Clothes

NEW YORK (AP)—Dinah Shore now on a leisurely two months European holiday with her family, will wind up her vacation buying clothes from top couturiers in Paris, Rome and maybe Madrid.

★ ★ ★

The gowns — originals from the great dressmakers like Balenciaga, Givenchy, Balmain, Crahay, Chanel and the Fontana sisters — will be feature attractions on Dinah's Sunday night color shows.

During the shopping tour, she will be accompanied by a fashion consultant flown from Hollywood for the delightful chore.

Actually, Dinah Shore's clothes have consistently been among the big attractions of the musical show. She is one of the few women TV stars who has reflected current fashion trends.

Most of her clothes have been designed for her by Bob Carlton, on NBC's staff. His is a big job, because last season alone, Dinah had more than 100 changes in the course of 27 shows.

★ ★ ★

Fashion may be spinach to a lot of male TV viewers, but Dinah's clothes and her smart way of wearing them has attracted an especially large feminine viewing audience.

It's a grateful audience too, after long exposure to the early Victorian styles of the ladies in the Westerns and the broad-shouldered Adrian suits of the late, late movies.

Exercises for All You Sitters

As a population of sitters, we often discover that excess weight settles around the tummy and hips. Keep in shape with a simple stomach exercise.

Flat on your back, inhale slowly and pull the lower abdominal muscles down toward the backbone. Release slowly. Speed isn't required in the exercise; just the deliberate pull and release of the abdominal muscles.

Check Before Blaming Wax

CHICAGO — Wonder why your freshly-waxed floors don't gleam? Don't blame the floor wax until you check on your own cleaning procedures before the wax is applied.

A wax company expert warns that a thorough rinsing is necessary — especially if you use cleaning compounds recommended for tile floors.

He explained that special chemicals, added to most tile cleaners to get out dirt, don't mix with wax. If they are not washed off before wax is applied, the floor will have a dull sheen instead of a shiny finish.

While getting your summer clothes ready to wear, take a look at the waistband. If you are like most of us, this band wrinkles no matter what we try. Stop this by applying an adhesive-backed washband. Once ironed out, the stiffener helps keep things trim.

Was Grabbing Spree Good Lesson to Girl

RUTH MILLETT

A Seattle couple recently gave their 12-year-old daughter her birthday wish. They turned her loose for one hour in a department store, free to charge anything she saw and wanted.

As she rushed through the store grabbing first this and then that she probably had an exciting hour. But I can't help but think her indulgent parents have a lot to learn about child psychology.

Any kid, I'm sure, would have gotten a far bigger thrill out of being told she could take her time —take all day if she wished — to choose one present for herself — the one thing in the store she most wanted.

Then instead of running through the store to latch onto as many possessions as possible before her hour time limit ran out — she would have begun a real search.

As she compared one thing with another, yearned over first this and then that, thought of the advantages and disadvantages to each purchase, she would have had a memorable day.

And she would have learned a worthwhile lesson — that we can't have everything and so it is important to know what we want most.

But maybe the little girl's parents taught her a lesson in reverse. Maybe that one hectic grabbing spree taught her that being able to have "anything" isn't quite as satisfyling as she thought.

Satchmo Won't Appear

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong canceled a special appearance Tuesday at the Lambertville Music Circus on doctor's orders. Armstrong, who fell ill with pneumonia in Spoleto, Italy, last month, had been scheduled to attend a testimonial concert for him by band leader Duke Ellington.

U. of M. Law Students Get $145,000 in Aid

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—University of Michigan law students received more than $145,000 in scholarships, grants-in-aid and loans in the past year, assistant dean Roy F. Proffitt, chairman of the scholarship committee said.

The total includes more than $37,500 in scholarships, $47,000 in grants-in-aid and loans of approximately $57,000.

Williams Enters Dem Squabble

Asks Seven Economists for Views on Nation's Financial Problems

LANSING (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams today edged into a squabble that has divided Democratic national leadership, calling on seven high-ranking economists for expressions on national economic problems.

★ ★ ★

Williams said the group, five of them university professors, had accepted an invitation to a three-day conference at his summer residence on Mackinac Island.

Governors of four neighboring states, all Democrats like Williams, also were invited to the July 17-19 parley at the island retreat in Lake Huron, but indicated they probably would not attend.

"I am disturbed by the fact that the administration in Washington appears to be doing nothing to foster the rate of economic growth which the country needs to realize its full potential and meet growing competition from the Soviet empire," the governor said.

★ ★ ★

"I want to get a first-hand briefing from these economists on what they think should be done about it."

Williams thus stepped indirectly into a hassle between the party's liberal and conservative elements over national spending policies, an issue looming increasingly important in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Beauty Queen Jailed in Drug Store Theft

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — A former beauty queen who admitted she held up a drug store must serve an indefinite term in the Denver County jail.

She is Dixie Ann Gottfried, 19. Both the defense and prosecuting attorneys had asked that Mrs. Gottfried, Miss Colorado Jaycee last summer, be given probation.

But Dist. Judge H. H. Harrison denied probation, saying Mrs. Gottfried had "chosen to associate with police characters and partake in a serious crime."

There are 45.6 grains of copper mixed with 2.4 grains of zinc and tin in each Lincoln penny, 145 of which weigh exactly a pound.

Borrows Car for Emergency Run to Hospital

AVOCA, N.Y. (AP) — Mother and daughter are doing fine, but father has some explaining to do.

James H. Young, 33, a migrant worker, "borrowed" a police car Tuesday when he couldn't find anyone to take his expectant wife to a hospital.

He turned on the siren and the blinking red light and started for the hospital in Bath, five miles away. Police in another car caught up and stopped him.

They let him continue to the hospital, but charged him with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Check Reasons Why Bread Isn't Perfect

Due to today's fine standardized yeast and other products, making yeast-raised breads is a far easier task than in grandmother's day. But perfect results still take a little practice.

Here are a few of the faults that may occur when you bake with yeast and their causes. Keeping your problems in mind and checking with a sound recipe, you can be assured of perfection.

Poorly shaped baked products can be caused by:

1. dough that is too soft or too stiff
2. dough rising too long before baking
3. oven of too low or uneven temperature
4. too much or too little dough for the size of the pan

Coarse grain can be caused by:

1. oven of too low temperature
2. dough rising too long before baking

Streaks can be caused by:

1. dough drying out on top while rising
2. uneven mixing or kneading
3. extra flour folded into loaves during shaping
4. dough being too heavily greased on top while rising

Crust splitting on top or sides can be caused by:

1. oven of too high or uneven temperature
2. too much flour in dough

Soggy or heavy breads can be caused by:

1. insufficient rising or baking
2. failure to remove bread from pans to racks right after baking

Off flavor can be caused by:

2. dough rising too long before baking
3. too high temperature during rising
4. too slow or incomplete baking
5. not scalding the milk

Dough falling in pan can be caused by:

1. dough rising too long

No One Will Detect Bread Crumbs in This

A new pudding that's a cross between a cake and a torte!

Cottage Crumb Pudding

3 eggs (separated)
2 tablespoons plus ⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup corn oil
½ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ squares (1½ ounces) semi-sweet chocolate (coarsely grated)

Line bottom of loaf pan (8½ by 4½ by 2½ inches) with waxed paper. Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually beat in the 2 tablespoons sugar; continue beating until soft peaks form.

Without washing beater, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored, gradually beat in the ⅓ cup sugar, then corn oil and vanilla. Stir together the crumbs, baking powder, salt and grated chocolate; stir into beaten egg yolk mixture. Fold into beaten egg whites.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until pudding springs back when lightly touched with finger. Invert pan on cake rack to cool for ½ hour. Cut around edges and ends to loosen pudding, turn out and remove paper.

Slice and serve with Chocolate Sauce and whipped cream. Makes 10 to 12 servings. Leftover pudding may be served cold if desired.

Be sure to add cumin (ground or in seed form) to chili con carne for a real Mexican flavor.

Try Fruit Juices in Whipped Topping

For a delicious new whipped dessert topping that dieters can enjoy, too, try this one made with instant nonfat dry milk crystals. These magic milk crystals dissolve instantly even in cold water and, when mixed with an equal amount of ice water, whip into a fluffy dessert topping that's two-thirds lighter in calories than whipped cream.

For something really new, home economists suggest whipping instant crystals with chilled fruit juices instead of water. The tang of oranges and strawberries flavors the toppings in these desserts to lend added enjoyment.

Double Orange Pie

1 package (3⅜-ounce) vanilla pudding mix
1½ cups orange juice
9-inch single crust graham cracker shell
2½ cups orange whipped instant nonfat dry milk crystals*

Combine pudding mix and orange juice; mix well. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool slightly. Turn into pie shell. Chill. Top with orange whipped instant crystals.

To whip orange instant nonfat dry milk crystals: Mix ½ cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals with ½ cup well-chilled orange juice. Whip until soft peaks form (3-4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer). Makes about 2½ cups.

Pineapple Strawberry Pie

3½ cups thawed frozen whole strawberries (2 1-pound packages)
½ cup sugar
¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups canned crushed pineapple (1 pound 4-ounce can drained)
1 recipe plain pastry
1 tablespoon butter
2½ cups strawberry whipped instant nonfat dry milk crystals*

Drain strawberries and reserve ½ cup strawberry syrup. Chill syrup for topping. Combine sugar, tapioca, salt, lemon juice, pineapple and strawberries. Mix well. Roll half of pastry out on lightly floured surface to ⅛-inch thickness. Place in 9-inch pie plate.

Fill with fruit mixture; dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry; place over fruit mixture. Trim and flute edges. Prick top. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 40 minutes. Serve pie with strawberry whipped instant crystals. Makes a 9" pie.

To whip strawberry instant nonfat dry milk crystals: Mix ½ cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals with ½ cup well-chilled strawberry syrup. Whip until soft peaks form (3-4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer). Makes about 2½ cups.

To serve Edam cheese, cut a slice from the top and insert a small cheese knife so guests can dig out portions themselves.

Keep Sardines Chilled

Leftover Norway sardines retain their delicious flavor and are easily stored by placing them and the pure olive oil in which they are packed into a vacuum-type jar. Cover tightly and refrigerate until ready to serve again. No aroma. Unopened canned Norway sardines should be kept in cool dry place, not in the refrigerator.

For an extra special lamb stew, use shoulder chops cut in large pieces.

Best Kind of Vacation? Ya Can't Beat Freeloading

(Summer is here and in this dispatch one of America's top humorists suggests some ways to get through it without overly straining the pocketbook.)

By SAM LEVENSON

NEW YORK (UPI) — This summer I will take my vacation by staying home. Weekends I'll visit less fortunate friends who have taken summer cottages—displaced persons of means. Some indelicate people call it sponging. Let them.

For years my friends did it to me. So I've saved up all the visits and will return them this summer. After about four or five practice forays I've become a pro at this cottage-visiting business. In which role I'll offer a few tips:

1. Only a hopeless amateur calls in advance. It's best to arrive in mid-afternoon when the unsuspecting family is at the lake. Sneak into the kitchen through a screened window, (there's always one that doesn't quite fit, as any mosquito will tell you), and let them find you napping—only a barbarian would eject a sleeping person. Make sure you bring a cake from the city. It takes from three to four days to finish off a good-size cheese cake.

2. The open sesame for men spongers is the business deal. Instead of "Hello" just mumble "Ben, I'm gonna let you in on something hot." It takes from Friday to Sunday to give all the details. Just in case Ben thinks the deal is crazy, pack a cheese cake in your brief-case.

RED CROSS TECHNIQUE

3. The Red Cross approach: "We heard you weren't feeling well so we came running."

4. If you come with your children, the best technique is to let your youngest, preferably about age two, toddle into the bungalow. While they are smothering the little doll with kisses you join the admiring throng and you're in. By this time your wife has her bathing suit on.

5. L'amour for sure: "I met a young fellow who is just perfect for your daughter Harriet," is good for a two-week stay. No cake necessary.

6. Confidential: "I'd rather come to you than to my daughter." This is a good door opener because it implies a family quarrel which the hostess is anxious to hear about.

1. Rotation of Crops: Concentrate on a different family each week. In this way you can go on for years. Be sure to tell each family that renting a cottage is the "only way to live." This will insure you your vacation this summer. If you should run into a cunning renter who has put up a sign: "Quarantine. Rubemia Morbis epidemic," merely inform him that you and your family have taken Probasca Vaccine shots and are immune.

In previous years I've rented my own cottages, selected from the enticing ads in the newspapers.

REALISTIC LISTING

I'd like to suggest to the advertisers (for the sake of those cottage-renting friends I'll be weekending with) a somewhat more realistic (honest) listing of cottages, somewhat as follows:

LARGE BUNGALOW: Private bath in adjoining bungalow. River view. Telescope provided. Private dock, easily transported to river of your own choice.

ESTATE: Five large bedrooms expanded into one little one. Cool breeze comes in through refrigerator door. Modernistic prison windows. Sunken living room which may also serve as indoor swimming pool on rainy days. All buses stop at door of house (to avoid going over cliff).

COUNTRY HOME: Peaceful setting, stone's throw from cemetery. Bathroom is out of this world (a bit inconvenient). Screened porch to keep flies in for the summer. Ideal for young couple desirous of complete social life. Adjoins socialist colony.

Hal Boyle Says:

Hildegarde Has Brains, Talent, Rare Charm

NEW YORK (AP) — "I always wanted to make money while I slept," said Hildegarde.

"I did it with my phonograph records—and now I hope to do it with oil wells."

In 1956 Hildy disposed of 85 per cent of her prize collection of modern art and started out to collect oil wells. She now owns an interest in 10 producing wells in Oklahoma.

But "the dear that made Milwaukee famous" is too energetic to sit idly by and let oil wells support her.

After more than 30 years of song belting before kings and butter-and-egg men, she is still a reigning queen of the supper club circuit.

She has long been called "The Incomparable," and she still deserves the title. None of the newer lady songbirds has quite her timeless feminine charm, her gay authority over a crowded room. Like Marlene Dietrich, she seems destined to roll along forever.

"I don't want to retire until I get fat—and I never intend to get fat," she says.

★ ★ ★

Hildegarde will do a one-woman show in Chicago in August. Next year she plans a tour of Europe and Australia.

Success didn't come easy for the hazel-eyed, blond singer. She dreamed, as a chubby young girl in Milwaukee, of becoming a concert pianist. She performed in vaudeville and played as an accompanist before she became a solo artist.

In Paris she sang for as little as $1 a night in small cabarets. Later, as a famous radio, recording and supper club star she earned up to $20,000 a week.

"I still practice on the piano and take singing lessons," she said. "You never reach the point where you can't improve yourself or learn something new."

Hildegarde journeyed more than a million miles by car, train and ship before she got over her fear of the airplane. Now she uses the sky lanes.

Hildegarde has a fabulous collection of gowns costing $400 up each, 10 times as many pairs of gloves—she plays the piano with her gloves on—and hundreds of the lacy handkerchiefs she uses in her act. They cost from $25 to $75 apiece.

But, deeply religious, she is proudest of her collection of over 200 statues of the Madonna. Friends send them to her from all over the world.

★ ★ ★

"You have to live for others as well as yourself if you are to find any happiness. You should try to make this world a better place, not only by religion but by your own behavior," is her philosophy.

"We hear so much about evil. I think we should stress good more—and not be ashamed of good."

Hildegarde has never married.

"I've been on the verge many times," she said, "but I'm still a bachelorette—trying to find Mr. right.

"I wonder if I ever will. Everybody seems married lately."

These Are Thinking Birds

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A pair of cardinals came up with a new use for filter cigarettes.

The two birds used the soft, cellulose fillings to build nests. University of Arizona ornithologists said the birds didn't touch butts of non-filter cigarettes in the area.

Actress Claims Army Husband Not Enterprising

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Sharon Lee says her third husband, rock 'n' roll singer Forrest (Bud) Albright, isn't showing enough enterprise.

Accusing him of extreme cruelty, the platinum blonde actress sued Albright for separate maintenance Tuesday, saying he failed to provide proper support. Albright is now in the Army. They were married last December.

Miss Lee asked $535 a month expenses and said community property was unknown.

She previously was married to multimillionaire Frederick Tillinghast III and singer David Street.

Driving Teachers' School at MSU Best in Nation

(This article deals with the four-point legislative program of the Traffic Safety Committee of the Michigan Press Association and what various state agencies are doing to reduce the toll of accidental injuries and fatalities on Michigan highways and streets.)

By AL HAUGNER
Editorial Writer
Port Huron Times Herald

When the average teenager begins driving an automobile, he might have his first contact with government through the red traffic light and the traffic policeman.

Through the spreading driver education program in Michigan schools, the average young man or woman is educated to this new adult phase. He knows how to react.

The use of a car is an important symbol of "growing up" and acquiring highly prized independence. As Dr. William A. Mann, MSU professor of the teacher education department and a staff member of the Highway Traffic Safety Center points out, the youngsters are exhilarated by the feeling of new power at their command.

If the average youngsters have attended a driver education course, they handle this newly found power judiciously. Fortunately, many of them, because of their home training and concern for the possible loss of driving privilege, control reasonably well the impulses to speed and show off. Others, having stronger urges and more unstable personalities, accept little or no responsibility.

Probably no school program is so little understood as to its far-reaching proclivities as is the driver education program.

The driver education program in high school, besides teaching the knowledge of good driving technique and developing the physical skills in the operation of the auto, seeks to help youngsters understand their attitudes toward life—and driving.

★ ★ ★

This phase, understandably, is the most difficult for the driver education teacher to achieve, according to Gordon Sheehe, director of the Highway Traffic Safety Center at Michigan State University.

The driver education teacher, accordingly, must be one of exemplary behavior, a broad-gauge man who welds citizenship while he imparts the skills connected with safe operation of a motor vehicle. He has additional responsibilities because his training is given to highly impressionable students with whom he has close personal relations.

COURSE NOT SOFT

As Dr. Mann pointed out, an English teacher may feel concerned about the student who "hates" English, but his failure to win the student's approval does not return to haunt him in an obituary or casualty item in the newspaper.

The driver education course is not, as some youngsters regard it, a "soft" subject, said Norbert A. Hildebrand, director of information services of the MSU Highway Traffic Safety Center.

During his lifetime, the youth in training will drive three-quarters of a million miles.

The growth of the Michigan driver education program has attained great stature in the United States. Some of the state's practice driving ranges are the best in the Nation.

Financing it has been something of a problem since it was instituted three years ago. A portion of each driving license fee is allocated to the program.

During the school year ending in June, 1958, the allocation from state drivers' licenses amounted to only $12.13 for each of the approximately 100,000 young men and women in the program.

During the current school year, there are about 108,000 high school students in the program. The expectation is that the allocation for the present school year will be about $18 per student.

When the program went into effect, the expectation was that the schools would receive about $25 per student from the state "kitty." That did not materialize, probably due to the decline in economic conditions.

IN ALL HIGH SCHOOLS

In 1958, approved driver education courses were conducted in 537 of the 542 public high schools in the state, and the other five schools made arrangements for their students to take these courses.

Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, of the State Police, credits the legislation that came out of the October, 1955 safety conference with the brighter safety record the state has achieved.

One of Commissioner Childs' highlights in his 1958 annual report is the driver education law whereby youths between 16 and 18 years must pass a driver education course to qualify for a driver's license. He points, too, to the 1,200 qualified driver education teachers in Michigan and says that this can play an integral part in the new driving record.

In this connection, Michigan State University has won the No. 1 ranking in the United States in the training of driver education teachers for high schools.

Only New York University ranks close to MSU in this regard.

During the fiscal year 1957-1958, the Michigan State University Highway Traffic Safety Center furnished training for 539 persons in basic and advanced driver education preparation courses, to help meet the need for more and better qualified teachers.

★ ★ ★

The safety center also has built up one of the largest traffic safety libraries and reference centers in the nation, according to Leslie R. Silvernale, assistant director in charge of liaison. High school students come to the center's training halls to be subjects for the driver education teachers in training.

Mock-up cars are used by high school students under the supervision of driver educator trainees who observe their practices.

Audio-visual films flashed on a screen in front of the students present the typical hypothetical driving problems.

Chessman to Hear of 7th Death Date

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Caryl Chessman returns soon to Los Angeles to hear his new date with death.

The appointment for his seventh execution date was set up Tuesday when the California Supreme Court upheld two death sentences imposed on the convict-author 11 years ago.

The court unanimously rejected the 32-year-old San Quentin Prisoner's contention the transcript of his Los Angeles trial in May 1948 was faulty.

Chessman, author of two well-publicized books while in death row, was convicted of kidnaping and assaulting two young women in Los Angeles. He has been fending off execution in legal actions, prepared for the most part by himself.

Urban Renewal Petition Drive Starts in Keego

KEEGO HARBOR — Zone captains who will present the case for urban renewal in Keego Harbor to residents of this city were appointed at a special joint-meeting of the local Businessmen's Assn. and the Citizens Committee last night.

Resolutions in favor of urban renewal will be circulated by the zone captains for signatures which will be presented to the Village Council for their action as soon as possible. The deadline on the petitions has been set for July 23. They also will be available for signing at various business places in Keego Harbor until that date.

The Businessmen's Assn., joined by the Citizens Committee, is seeking approval of urban renewal plans by the Village Council which they hope will in turn request such a program from the federal government, with federal assistance amounting to $1,000,000 or two-thirds of renewal costs.

"We want to see Keego Harbor continue to grow, but in an orderly fashion," explained W. D. Hollibaugh, who is publicity chairman for the association.

He added that it is the intention of the businessmen to attract new residents to the area by making it "a more pleasant place to live."

★ ★ ★

A second public hearing on urban renewal is scheduled for 8 p.m. July 23 in the Roosevelt School, announced Kenneth Treacy, chairman of the Businessmen's Assn. Steering Committee for the project.

★ ★ ★

He said Farrell Roberts, local attorney and state representative of the district, will act as moderator for the meeting which will present a panel of renewal experts to answer questions posed then by residents.

★ ★ ★

The panel will include a representative of the federal Urban Renewal Administration, Bernard Schroll, regional director of Urban Renewal; Oakland County DPW Director Harold K. Schone; and members of the Keego Harbor Planning and Study Committee.

"With financial assistance from the Businessmen's Assn., it is expected that Keego Harbor will be ready to hire urban renewal planning consultants to prepare the program before September when it must be tendered to the federal agency for consideration," Hollibaugh said.

The drive for urban renewal grew out of the Farmington Interceptor Sewer presently under construction.

Keego Harbor will tie in with this main line, ridding the city of the far inferior cesspool system now in existence, and providing a central water system.

Cost of the laterals to Keego Harbor has been set at $500,000. By tying this project in with an urban renewal plan, the city will qualify to seek financial assistance from the federal government in the over-all city improvement plan.

★ ★ ★

The Businessmen's Assn. has formed a Sewage Committee with Peter Quinlan as chairman.

It is working with the Johnson and Anderson Engineering Co. of Pontiac to plan, lay out and pay for a lateral sewers network which already has been approved by the City Council.

They have a target completion date of sometime in September.

★ ★ ★

If Keego Harbor is to have urban renewal, plans must be completed and approved before September.

Oxford Council Takes Option on Cooke Land Along West Burdick

OXFORD — The Oxford Village Council has taken an option to buy the Cooke property located at 22 W. Burdick St. with a view to constructing a new civic center on the site.

The Council will decide whether to take up the option at its regular meeting Tuesday night, Ralph Precious, village manager announced today.

The 100 by 373-foot lot has a large two-story frame house standing on it now. What will be done with the building if the village buys the property will be determined at a later date, Precious said.

According to present plans, the proposed center will house the township and village offices, the police and fire departments and later a library and community hall.

The local Community Chest has given $500 to the village to be used toward payment of architect's fees for sketches and plans for the proposed center, Precious said.

Also at Tuesday's meeting the Council will tell residents living on Cottage Court how they may proceed to have their street dedicated so village improvements may be installed.

Prior to the regular meeting of the Council has scheduled a public hearing at 7 p.m. on two proposed zoning amendments.

One places a distance limitation of 500 feet between filling stations and public buildings and 750 feet between stations.

The other sets the minimum depth of a front yard in Commercial I District at 15 feet.

PRIZE-WINNING FLOAT — The Romeo Peach Festival publicity float, which placed first in the service club division in the Utica Lions Fourth of July parade Saturday, will appear again Sunday in Roseville and on July 19 in Fraser. Riding on the float are, from left: Sheila Dahn as "Miss Romeo" and her two maids of honor, Margaret Devine and Mary Martell. The float is entered in area parades throughout the summer to publicize the Romeo Peach Festival to be held over Labor Day weekend. "Miss Romeo" will be the village's candidate for Peach Queen in the contest set for Aug. 7 in Romeo.

Residents Jam Meeting to Learn of Stop Edict

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP — Residents who filled the township hall in Romeo to overflowing last night learned that the township zoning administrator had issued a stop-order against a gravel pit operator for alleged violation of the zoning ordinance.

This action is in accordance with the understanding reached in Macomb County Circuit Court June 29. It provided that the township proceed with issuance of a stop-order against one or more gravel pit operators before the currently pending court case resumes July 27.

Two township property owners are seeking a writ of mandamus ordering enforcement of provisions the ordinance adopted last Oct. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Fettig of 64707 Mound Rd. charge that "lack of enforcement has resulted in chaotic conditions throughout the western portion of the township endangering the public health, safety and welfare of all inhabitants of this section."

Township Attorney Percy G. Horler told the crowd that Zoning Administrator Ralph Sheldon had issued the stop-order against a gravel pit operator for conducting his business beyond the hours set forth in the ordinance.

Horler said the operator was given 10 days' notice to follow zoning ordinance directives or the township will institute action of its own in Circuit Court.

Several other residents in the audience were far from appeased by this move.

They said, "After all, the ordinance has supposedly been in effect since October, and we know of at least nine or 11 other specific violations."

Horler said that the question of enforceability of two provisions of the ordinance had been raised.

BOTH 'UNENFORCEABLE'

They concern the annual fee of $100 to be exacted from each mining operation and the regulation of hours of operation. He said they were both "unenforceable."

Horler explained that is why the township wanted a "test case" to get a judicial opinion on the legality of at least the one provision.

Again residents rose to their feet to protest. They said they could not understand why the ordinance was adopted after months of preparation if it could not be enforced.

Attorney J. Gerald McLean, representing the Fettigs, said the township should stand behind the validity of its ordinance.

The Board promised it will take proper steps to enforce the ordinance and if violations are occurring, it will take steps to correct them.

At a previous meeting, residents living on 28 Mile Road, between Campground and Dequindre roads, asked that their road be closed to through gravel truck traffic.

ASK TOP CONSIDERATION

They further requested that their petition be presented to the Macomb County Road Commission for consideration.

Township Supervisor R. Eugene Inwood read a letter from the Commission last night in which a county engineer said the situation had been checked and the request denied.

The engineer did say, however, that the rood commission weigh master will patrol the road "as often as possible."

This also did not satisfy the residents living on the road in question.

They cited the fact that there had already been a fatal accident at the bottom of the hill along that stretch of road and that there were posts down now which had been struck by motorists at the bridge.

One resident, Lawrence W. Rickett, said he did not accept the signature on the letter as being officially from the Road Commission nor the contents of the letter itself.

SEEKS MEETING

Inwood promised that he would try and arrange a meeting between these property owners and the commission as soon as possible so that they can present their complaints in person.

They charge that the road is too narrow and hilly to allow gravel trucks to travel safely on it, that the trucks go too fast and many have no mufflers.

Another discussion centered around fire runs in the township. Sheldon, who is also Washington fire chief, wants a service charge levied against persons who are guilty of causing grass fires which get out of control.

The matter was tabled until the next regular meeting.

Oxford Board Will Continue $50 Gravel Fee

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — At its public hearing last night the Oxford Township Zoning Board decided, upon advice of Attorney Robert V. Parenti, to continue its present system of levying a $50 original fee for gravel and sand mining operations.

The Board had proposed that the fee be increased from $50 to $2,000 and that a yearly renewal rate of $50 be established.

Parenti recommended that the Board stay with its original set-up—that in his opinion the renewal fee was illegal because it takes the form of a license.

In other action the Board okayed the rezoning of a 37-acre plot on Thomas road east of M24 from agricultural to residential.

The second proposal to rezone two lots in the Berns and Olive subdivision from residential to commercial was tabled until a public hearing can be scheduled on rezoning a total of eight lots in that section, Zoning Board Chairman Roger D. Oberg said today.

Water Antics Almost Fatal

Milford Youth Falls Unconscious to Bottom of Backyard Pool

MILFORD — A game of "who can stay under water the longest" proved almost fatal to a 14-year-old Milford boy yesterday.

If it hadn't been for the quick action of three of his playmates, Eric Kingsbury, 14, of 824 Canal St. would have drowned in a neighbor's backyard pool.

After swimming the length of the 40-foot pool three times under water, Eric was blue with exhaustion when he popped to the surface midway in the pool, gasped and sank to the bottom unconscious.

Two of his companions, Monty Shettler, 15, of 116 Franklin St., and Rickie Smith, 11, of 134 Houghton St., dived in to bring Eric's limp body out of the pool. Another playmate, Gregory Swift, 11, of 718 Atlantic St., applied artificial respiration, until members of the Milford Fire Department arrived to give him oxygen from a mask.

Eric was rushed semiconscious to a physician's office for further treatment and released. It was a close shave and a bitter lesson, Eric agreed. He vowed that water is no place to show off. "Never again," he said.

Romeo Will Choose Peach Queen Aug. 7

ROMEO — The Romeo Peach Festival Assn. has set Aug. 7 as the date for the annual Peach Queen competition. Eleven girls, already titleholders in their own communities, will be vying for the crown.

The contest will be held at 8 p.m. in the Romeo Junior High School (the old high school), according to Mrs. J. Gerald McLean, contest chairman.

The girls must not only officially represent their own towns but also must be single and between 17 and 21 years of age.

Four out-of-town judges will pick the queen and her two maids of honor. The winner will reign over the 27th annual Peach Festival to be held here over Labor Day weekend.

Immediately following her selection her majesty and her two attendants will begin their busy round of public appearances.

The trio will appear on radio and television, be presented to Detroit's Mayor Miriani, tour Selfridge Air Force Base, attend a Tiger baseball game in Detroit and a horse race plus other activities.

The 1959 queen's first official appearance during the festival will be at the Queen's Ball on Friday night, Sept. 4. She and her escort will lead the grand march followed by the 10 members of her court and their dates.

Two other high points of the festival for her majesty will be her coronation by Gov. Williams in impressive ceremonies on Sunday, Sept. 6, and her appearance on the queen's float in the colorful floral parade at 2 p.m. on Labor Day.

★ ★ ★

The titleholders competing for the crown are expected to come from Lake Orion, Rochester, Armada, Utica, Dryden, Waterford Township, Mount Clemens, Washington Township, Oxford, Warren and Romeo.

Mother, 4 Tots Hurt in White Lake Crash

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A White Lake Township mother and her four children were injured yesterday when their auto smashed into a tree on Hutchins road near Union Lake road here.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies said Mrs. Barbara J. Setterington, 27, of 9462 Beechcrest St., told them she looked down for a moment to see what was wrong with a turn signal and when she looked up the tree was directly in front of her.

Most seriously injured was her 3-month-old son Brian who suffered head injuries and is in fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Also hurt were a daughter Jane, 1, and two sons by a former marriage, James McBroom, 7, and Bradley, 4. The children and their mother, all taken to the same hospital, were treated and released.

Report Nixon Plans Bigger Soviet Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reported planning to extend his tour of the Soviet Union to cover nine cities, including areas rarely opened to foreigners. His visit, starting July 23, may last two weeks.

He is understood to be willing to stay longer than the single week originally arranged — provided Kremlin authorities allow him to see more than the usual tourist attractions.

This became known today after more than a month of U.S. negotiations between the State Department and the Soviet foreign office. But details still are vague. Neither side wants to talk about them.

Soviet authorities are reported cooperating cautiously in meeting most of Nixon's requests. This Soviet attitude is due mainly to the all-out hospitality shown by the Eisenhower administration to visiting Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov.

Nixon's trip at present shapes up as a three-day stay in Moscow, ostensibly to open the American Exhibition, and follow-up visits in a Soviet airliner to Leningrad, Kiev and six other cities now being talked about as additional stopping points.

KATHRYN R. BEAUDOIN

Announcing the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn Rita, to Frederick James Davis, are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Beaudoin of 46370 Vineyard, Utica. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Davis of 4005 Waldon Rd., Gingellville.

Benita Elna Cole Married in Double-Ring Ceremony

WALLED LAKE — On a honeymoon trip through northern Michigan, Ontario, Wisconsin and Indiana, are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Switter following their marriage at First Baptist Church.

The double-ring ceremony was performed June 27 by the Rev. Carl J. Carpentine.

The bride, formerly Benita Elna Cole who has taught the third grade at Walled Lake Elementary School for the past three years, is the daughter of Mrs. Nellie V. Cole of Hanover, Ind. Richards parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Switter of Taylor.

A sleeveless, ballerina length gown featuring a full circular skirt was accented by a high neckline, and lace fitted jacket with stand-up collar and long pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil was secured by a crown trimmed in pearls and her white carnation bouquet was accented with blue.

Laura Kuttkuhn and Pearl Kauska, both of Walled Lake, served as maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively.

Best man was Robert Kauska and ushers included Clarence Kuttkuhn of Walled Lake and Robert Stephenson of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Cole chose a lavender dress and Mrs. Switter was dressed in blue for the wedding. Both mothers had white accessories and white carnation corsages.

Following a reception at the home of the bridegroom's parents, the bride changed into a short-sleeved dress of light blue for traveling on a two week honeymoon. Upon returning, the couple will reside in Taylor.

Underground Room Mystery to Army

FT. MYER, Va. (AP) — Water from a broken main kept running into a hole on the old horse artillery ground of this historic fort. The hole didn't fill up. With the aid of Army engineers workmen found a framed doorway 13 feet underground. It opened into a 20 by 8 foot D-shaped room and underneath this were two other similar rooms, one on top of the other, connected by steel ladders. The mystery of the rooms hasn't been solved. One thing is sure. The rooms don't date back to the Civil War unless someone beat Edison to the invention of the electric light bulb.

About one-third of the sky visible from the United States has been photographed and recorded out to a distance of approximately 350 million light years, it is now estimated.

Journey To Love

CHAPTER XXXVI

Sam was shaking, "You can't, Grandfather! You've gone far enough. You promised there would be no more violence—"

His grandfather turned on him with bitter contempt. "Everything I've done has been for you," he cried.

"I've lived my life. I'm ready to pass on my legacy to you — not only the fortune I've made, but my name. They're both in serious jeopardy now. Are you going to turn squeamish when quick action will save them both for you?"

As Sam stood in gray-faced indecision, the telephone on his grandfather's desk rang. The old man picked it up and barked, "Yes?"

As he listened, a terrible change came over him. His eyes lost their brooding eagle fierceness and were haunted.

"It's too late," he said. "The police are on their way up."

It was Sam, too, who opened the door when the knock came.

"Alex!" Kathie said, with a sob of thanksgiving. He came straight to her, and for the first time she could remember there was no humor in his lean, expressive face. Instead, it shone with undiluted relief.

"Kathie!" He caught her close and held her in the tight circle of one arm, as though he could not bear to have her farther away from him.

★ ★ ★

"Mr. Ward, you're wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Phineas Redd," the police officer said. He spoke with reluctance, respect still tinged his manner.

The officer went on, "There's the matter of Mrs. Beatrice Powers' death on the Pali road, also. Testimony made tonight by the driver of the car that crashed into hers indicates that he was acting deliberately and under your orders."

"Absurd!" scoffed Sam's grandfather.

"There are also counts of forgery and fraud involving a certain property deed—"

'DIGGING DEEP'

Ward straightened in his chair. "You're digging deep for something to investigate. Do you have a warrant for my arrest? If not, get off my property. At once!" He almost shouted.

★ ★ ★

For answer, the officer pulled a warrant out of his inner pocket. "We have the original deed," he said. "The one giving title to this property to Job Hammer and witnessed by you."

The flare of spirit died out of the old man's figure. He made a wide gesture with his hands. "Pau," he said. "Finished."

"Do you want to tell us what happened that night you and Phineas Redd and Job Hammer played poker?" Alex asked him.

"So you've got that far," Ebenezer Ward said. "Why not? Redd was a heavy loser that night. I took all his cash, then he put up his beach property and Job Hammer won it. There was a fourth player. He witnessed the deed, but he'd gone home before the quarrel began. He lost his life in a sailing accident not long after that.

'I KILLED HIM'

"Redd sobered up a little and realized he'd been cleaned out, he began arguing that we'd cheated him. I was the hotheaded one. We fought and — I killed him.

"Job Hammer became frightened and wanted to go to the police. I told him if he did, I'd kill him. He ran away. That pointed a finger at him.

★ ★ ★

"And from that I made my fortune. I made it legitimately, too, and thought I had lived down that tragic mistake."

"Bea Powers?" Alex asked softly.

The old man nodded. "She had not known the truth, but she arrived at it, unfortunately, by some feminine, intuitive process of thought."

Sam shook his head in a stunned way. "The whole thing began to smell after Bea died and Kathie put her cards on the table over at Hilo.

"When I came back here this afternoon, I looked up the newspaper reports on that old murder and I began to suspect why Grandfather was so desperate about getting hold of that deed.

"He admitted everything when I threw it up to him, and I felt so sorry for him I promised to help him try to cover up as long as possible — if it could be done without involving us in another crime." He wiped his forehead again.

Kathie turned to Sam. "I believe you," she said gently. "I hope for Leilani's sake the police believe you, too."

'ARE YOU PROPOSING?'

The others went into the living room of the penthouse, and when Alex turned back from Mr. Ward's desk, he and Kathie were alone.

"Where to?" he said softly. "The Wikiwiki?"

She nodded. "If your offer of room and board is still good."

"Shall we make it your legal residence?"

"Alex, are you proposing to me?" Kathie breathed.

"I guess that's what you'd call it," he said, and his voice was unsteady. "Shall I be more formal? I adore you, Kathie! Do you love me a little?"

"Oh, Alex, darling, I love you so much!"

"Will you marry me?"

"Yes." The syllable was a faint breath against his lips before he kissed her.

★ ★ ★

A long ecstatic moment later, Alex said softly, "You know I've always dreamed about a honeymoon cruise to Tahiti on the Wikiwiki. I guess I'll have to make a sailor out of you darling."

"Oh, Alex!" she laughed happily, against his cheek. "What's wrong with a honeymoon in Hawaii?"

Car, Truck Production Passes 4 Million Mark

DETROIT (UPI) — Automobile and truck production passed the four million mark for 1959 in the first days of July, according to the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

AMA said cumulative output this year through July 4 totaled 4,019,738 motor vehicles, including 3,347,832 passenger cars, 670,426 trucks and 1,525 motor coaches. Total production during the same period last year, said AMA, was only 2,724,632 vehicles.

Truck production for June was put at 120,482, the highest monthly figure since 1955.

Now Bathers Can Smoke

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) — Nature took the grease out of surf bathing along the Jersey shore. The Coast Guard reported that currents have carried almost all the oily patches out to sea. The thick bunker oil is part of 2½ million gallons spilled when two ships collided last month off Sandy Hook.

Killed by Fallen Motor

ROSCOE, N.Y. (AP)—A motor fell from a truck on Route 17 here Tuesday. It was hit by a car, and a piece of it smashed through the windshield of another car, killing the driver, Alfred Hauber, 62, of New Canaan, Conn.

Walled Lake Drowning Victim Still Not Found

Officers from three police departments plus civilian volunteers and National Guardsmen, have been trying for a week to recover the body of a drowning victim in Walled Lake.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons said this morning he believed "the boy's body will eventually be brought to the surface by the same tricky currents that have hampered us so far."

Norman Payne, 19, of Detroit, drowned last Wednesday when he dived from a boat and tired while attempting to swim back to the boat. He sank despite attempts of a companion to rescue him.

Sheriff's Deputy William Jackson, a skin diver, began diving a half-hour after the accident. Since then, divers from private clubs, Walled Lake police, Pontiac State Police and guardsmen in a helicopter have aided in the search.

Authorities believe water currents may have swept the body to a point far removed from the scene of the accident.

Current Boom in Air Freight Industry Regarded as Just the Beginning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The next revolution in commercial aviation will take place in the field of air cargo.

★ ★ ★

Air cargo has been increasing steadily both in tonnage carried and in revenue, but even the gains of recent years will be dwarfed by what lies ahead. What this means can be gathered from the fact that since 1949, air freight and express tonnage carried by U. S. scheduled airlines has climbed 410 per cent.

These airlines collected 191 million dollars from air cargo business in 1956 and upped that figure to nearly 210 million dollars in 1957, the last year for which complete data are available.

★ ★ ★

But Vice President Willis G. Lipscomb of Pan American World Airways predicts that within the next 10 years, revenue from air cargo will equal and may even surpass passenger revenues.

INTERMEDIATE STEPS

Other industry leaders say air cargo will be at least a billion-dollar-a-year business in another decade.

Before this comes about, however, aviation officials said the following must be achieved.

—Development of planes specifically designed for cargo-carrying; presently the airlines are using converted airliners which are relatively inefficient.

—Improved methods of packaging, loading and unloading, such as a recently developed system called "unitized shipments"; under this highly mechanized system, an airline shipping furniture for example, moves it direct from house to house, via truck, plane and then truck, without a human hand touching the shipment enroute.

—Rates must come down, as they undoubtedly will if shipping efficiency is improved.

Robert W. Johnson, president of a leading air cargo consulting firm and an adviser to the Air Force on airlift problems, says the air cargo industry actually is in its infancy.

"Right now," Johnson points out, "when you ship something from New York to Chicago, it spends 85 per cent of the time on the ground and only 15 per cent of the time en route in the air.

"Because of inefficient packaging and handling methods, and the use of planes that weren't designed to haul cargo, it takes at least two hours to unload a plane and then load it again for the 'turn-around' trip. This time can and must be cut to 15 or 20 minutes."

Johnson believes a specially-designed all-cargo plane could do the work of three conventional airliners.

ALL AROUND REDUCTION

Such an aircraft, combined with new handling methods, also would reduce the number of trucks and ground personnel needed at air cargo centers.

These innovations, Johnson adds, "would enable the carriers to reduce their rates from the present 39 cents per ton-mile to as low as 10 cents."

The airlines currently are devoting only a small part of their aircraft to purely cargo duties.

Of the scheduled carriers' 1,800-plane fleet, only 159 aircraft are employed in all-cargo flights and many of these are designed for rapid conversion to passenger configurations.

Such planes are inefficient mainly because they are hard to load and unload.

Doors are too narrow and their low wing design (wings are underneath the fuselage) makes it necessary to lift all cargo into the aircraft.

Air cargo enthusiasts would like to see manufacturers come up with high-wing cargo planes that could be loaded from the front or rear of the fuselage or even both — literally driving trucks right into the cabin for loading and unloading.

Britain already is producing such a plane — the Armstrong-Whitworth Argosy, which has cargo doors at both ends of the fuselage.

4 ORDERED IN U. S.

One American all-cargo carrier, Riddle, has ordered four of them on a provisional basis.

Another futuristic gimmick would be a plane with removable floor sections, so cargo could be loaded and unloaded with shipments already attached securely to the floors.

★ ★ ★

Pan-Am, which frankly admits it is seriously considering buying all-cargo jetliners, is interested in a proposed cargo version of the Boeing 707 which would have the rear half of the fuselage on hinges, so it could swing open to permit easy and fast loading.

Even with the lack of real cargo planes, the airlines have made vast strides in the field.

Surprisingly, furniture-moving is one of their booming revenue sources.

The airlines say they can fly house furnishings overseas cheaper than it can be transported by boat, and more and more companies are moving employe goods by air.

The advent of the jet age is no small boon to air cargo. A single passenger jetliner can carry up to five tons of cargo in a hold that is bigger than the entire cabin of a DC4.

And there seems to be no limit to what cargoliners can carry. Pan-Am last year hauled a 65-ton cotton gin from New Orleans to Costa Rica. It was flown in eight separate shipments.

An estimated 53 per cent of all office workers have defective eyesight.

Defense Jobs Influential?

Probe Military Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee has begun an inquiry into employment of retired military officers by defense industries. It wants to know whether this influences weapons buying by the armed services.

"The American people are alarmed and aroused," chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La) said, "about the alleged conduct of some military men who depart the ranks of defense for lush places on the payrolls of defense contractors."

He indicated one aim will be to get the Army, Navy and Air Force to adopt uniform regulations as to what retired officers may do for industry. It is inexcusable, Hebert said, that after 12 years of unification the regulations dealing with retired personnel are not the same in the three services.

Hebert said some of the hundreds of retired high-ranking officers and former civilian officials now on industry payrolls would be called before the armed services subcommittee, but this would not indicate preconceived opinions.

"The innocent will not be harmed but the venal will be sought out," Hebert said.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. told the subcommittee "We see no reason why this form of employment of retired officers should be forbidden to them."

He said the services have tried hard to see that retired officers know and understand the laws limiting their business relations with their old services.

"It is my firm conviction," Gates added, "that our retired officers carry on into retirement the fine character which carried them successfully through their honorable career and in many instances through the hazards of combat . . . "

But Hebert said, "public confidence must be restored."

Gates said that if the subcommittee decides new laws or regulations are necessary, "It is earnestly requested that careful considerations be given to protecting the interests of these retired officers."

L.A.'s Hermit Hauled Away as Mental Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Hermit of Griffith Park, shorn of his six-year-growth of hair and beard, was in a Veterans Administration hospital today undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Dennis Farrell, 33, was taken kicking and screaming to the hospital Tuesday after doctors testified that the Purple Heart combat veteran is a schizophrenic and needs hospitalization.

★ ★ ★

Farrell roamed the 4,200-acre park for six years, living on berries and picnic scraps. Tattered and bearded, he came out of hiding last week.

He was calm during the brief Superior Court hearing. But when attendants tried to lead him to an ambulance he became violent.

Big Manhunt Seeks Girl's Rape-Slayer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A vast manhunt spread across two states today for a man whose bloody fingerprints were found beside the raped and knife-slashed body of 6-year-old Dolores Stafford.

Her nude body was found Tuesday in the attic of Robert K. Ervin's Las Vegas home. She had been stabbed in the stomach and her throat had been cut.

Ervin, 20, a fry cook, disappeared while police were searching for the girl.

Investigators said she apparently died Monday night. Cause of death was listed as shock due to loss of blood.

An all-points bulletin for Ervin's arrest was issued after police found that bloody fingerprints in the attic were his.

Squads of police in plain clothes scoured the city. Sheriff's officers ranged over desert roads by air.

In Kingman, Ariz., police and sheriff's officers guarded the home where Ervin's estranged wie was hiding, in fear for her life.

"Last Thursday he flew at me in a rage and tried to strangle me," said Kathy Ervin, 18.

Arizona's domain is divided into only 14 counties.

Talking to Her Husband Costs Driving Wife $50

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Delores Pride, 26, pleading guilty to a reckless driving charge, told the court she was just trying to talk to her husband when her automobile struck another car from the rear.

Police said the car ahead was driven by the husband, Robert Pride, 27.

Mrs. Pride said she chased the other car for six blocks "because the driver was my husband." Pride told the court he thought a holdup man was pursuing him.

Mrs. Pride was fined $50.

Fashions at Soviet Exhibit Drab for Men, Better for Girls

(On the theory that clothing fashions are only as good as a man's opinion of them—since he pays the bills — Hugh Mulligan was sent to observe the Russian version of haute couture on display at the Soviet exhibition in New York. Here's his report.)

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The fashions on display at the Soviet exhibition in the Coliseum here prove that in Moscow as anywhere else the male dresses like the beneficiary of a Salvation Army drive.

Only three men's ensembles were included in the group of fashions sent over by the Moscow model house. All are strictly from square-in-grad.

★ ★ ★

The first shown was a black and white, prison-striped sports shirt over nondescript slacks that might give Ivan the Ivy League look if he happened to be guest referee at the Harvard-Yale game.

Next came a business suit for businessmen in a country where nobody has any business being in business. It was single-breasted and had tightly pegged pants like the zoot suiters.

"Cuffs are optional," cooed the announcer. Socks seemed to be, too, judging by the way those trousers engulfed the shoe tops.

★ ★ ★

Finally there was a tuxedo, natty enough in a capitalistic way, but no different from the kind that American men have been grumbling about wearing since the heyday of Rudy Vallee.

When the revolution comes, it won't be in men's clothes as far as Soviet designers are concerned.

But the girls, bless 'em, saved the day for the fashion end of the Soviet Exhibition of Science, Technology and Culture, the official name for the commodity caravan.

★ ★ ★

There were six of them. All pretty and all from Moscow. None was a professional model, a fact that was delightfully apparent. They didn't have the bored smirk of American models, and they didn't walk as if the runway was carpeted with broken beer bottles.

They just strode out naturally, if a bit athletically, and even broke into shy smiles when the packed audience applauded, which was often.

One in a tight-fitting silk cocktail dress broke up the house by executing a Marilyn Monroe wiggle on her way up the ramp. Another seemed to be unconsciously aping American models by dragging the people's mink coat across the floor with devil-may-care disdain for the price tag.

"There's certainly nothing new here," carped a veteran fashion reporter as the girls showed a varied collection of sports and evening wear, some of which were cut all the way to Vladivostok in front and rear.

Maybe there wasn't anything new in the collection, but what they showed sure looked good to these sack-dress-dulled old orbs. Either the sack hasn't reached Moscow yet or it's already been relegated to Siberia.

There were a few sheath dresses, a couple of flouncy ball gowns like the type high school girls wear to proms and graduations, a strapless bathing suit that would cause a Volga boatman to miss an oarstroke, and a brushed wool sweater over hip hugging slacks that might have come from Russia by way of San Francisco.

About the only innovation on the fashion scene, as far as this untutored observer could determine, was a pair of long shorts or short slacks, depending on your viewpoint. They were somewhat longer than Bermuda shorts and a trifle shorter than the trunks old-time fist-fighters wore.

Muscovite misses interested in keeping up with the commissar's wife will find the fashions on sale at GUM and CUM, the Soviet equivalent of Macy's and Gimbels, except that both are required by law to tell each other what they're up to.

Steams to Rescue Actor's Sinking Yacht

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — An Australian navy tug today steamed toward Hollywood actor-magician John Calvert's yacht Sea Fox, which has been sending out distress calls from off Australia's north coast.

An Australian air force bomber reported it had spotted the missing yacht 90 miles northwest of Cape Wessel.

The bomber pilot, Flight Lt. Laurie Hampson, said the Sea Fox appeared to be a little lower in the water than usual but that she seemed in no immediate danger.

The tug Emu was expected to reach the scene early Thursday.

Calvert radioed Sunday his main engine had broken down, his mainsail was ripped, the bilge pumps broken and that the ship was taking water fast.

Tuesday came a more urgent appeal: "We need help immediately, taking 2,000 gallons an hour and sinking. Send more planes."

Calvert is scheduled to open a show in Sydney Aug. 1.

Stock Swindle Alarm Sounded

Attorney Missing Since 1957 Faces 69 Counts in Larceny Indictment

NEW YORK (AP) — An international alarm is out for a will-o'-the-wisp financial figure, accused of a multimillion - dollar stock swindle.

The man sought is Lowell M. Birrell, 52, an attorney.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Tuesday that Birrell reportedly has been seen in Havana, Montreal, Paris, Caracas, Guatemala and elsewhere abroad since he disappeared late in 1957.

★ ★ ★

Just before his disappearance, said Hogan, a federal court bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Tuesday he was indicted on 69 counts of grand larceny.

The stockholders lost 14 million dollars, Hogan said, but he said Birrell got only 3 million for himself.

Hogan said Birrell was a "night club habitue and a heavy spender," and that he left his third wife and three children in Switzerland.

Birrell is a former president of Swan-Finch Oil Corp., a former director of the Swan-Finch Gas Development Corp. and a former board chairman of Doeskin Products, Inc.

Hogan said Birrell's operations caused Doeskin's stock to plummet from $10 a share to $1 a share.

I didn't see that other boat until it was too late. Both its occupants were thrown into the water — one of them badly hurt! Since I was negligent, my Hartford "Damage Suit" Insurance paid out $5000 damages to the injured man — $278 for his boat — plus $10 medical expense for my son who was injured slightly.

Owning a boat can be expensive if you run into someone and don't have the protection this man did. See us for Hartford "Damage Suit" Insurance before it's too late.

ROBOTESQUE RUSS — Children look on as robot moves on stage at Soviet economic achievements fair in Moscow. Communist newspaper Pravda is in hand.

City of Hope's Founder, S. H. Golter, to Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Never take away a patient's hope. Never tell him he's going to die."

Last night, the author of those words Samuel H. Golter — words that made Duarte, Calif., the site of one of the world's great medical centers—retired.

★ ★ ★

Reflecting on more than a quarter of a century as an executive of the City of Hope, Golter said:

"Our hospital represents a new strand of humanitarianism sorely needed by 20th century man. The big thing in life is having a sense of active participation in good works. This is the principle we have pursued."

★ ★ ★

The nondenominational City of Hope once served exclusively as a tubercular center. Now, doctors from around the world have come to Duarte to help treat those stricken with heart ailments, cancer and leukemia. Medical care is free. The hospital is supported by philanthropic contributions and national fund-raising campaigns.

Golter pioneered by opening a children's wing at the center. Parents were allowed to live alongside youngsters who were incurably ill.

★ ★ ★

"It was the time," explained Golter in an interview, "when a child needed a mother and father most and when the parents needed to be near their children as well.

"Despite the inevitable outcome they could leave knowing that everything possible had been done to save the life of their loved one."

Golter was of the conviction that hope should be offered, even to the incurably sick.

"Today, no one need die of tuberculosis," he said. "Many are completely cured of heart diseases, too. Tomorrow, we may find a cure for cancer and leukemia."

In 1951, Golter was stricken with cancer.

"I had lived closely with death for many years and had often heard others, young and old, jest about its inevitability as long as the event was a vague probability of the future," he said.

"But I couldn't believe, at first, that I had fallen victim to the very disease we had chosen to attack. I was in no mood to appreciate the irony of the situation."

Golter was lucky. He survived and now lives quietly here with his wife and daughter.

Golter, 69, came to the United States as an immigrant boy from Russia. After World War I, he became a philanthropic worker and in 1926 was asked by the Jewish Consumptive Relief Assn. of Southern California to work for its hospital in Duarte.

★ ★ ★

Though he had never had any medical experience, Golter came West and eventually took over direction of the Duarte hospital—a few tents on a 10-acre desert tract.

Today, the City of Hope rests on a 90-acre site a few miles east of Los Angeles. "No patient could possibly get better care anywhere in the world if he were paying a million dollars a day," Golter says.

Noodle Lovers, Harken

CHICAGO (AP)—A new do-it-yourself noodle maker will enable Americans, who eat about 630,000 tons of noodles annually, to cut the cost of the Italian favorite.

By using the gadget, anyone can turn out home-made noodles. A twist of a dial and an additional trip through it produces square, rectangular or diamond shaped noodles.

Vegetables Mix Very Well With Other Foods

Potatoes combine deliciously with several foods. So do onions and squash and other vegetables.

Here are some combination suggestions from Avanelle Day, home economist and expert in vegetable cookery.

Potatoes, Swiss Syle: Cook potatoes about half done. Slice thin and fill a casserole with alternating layers of potatoes and sliced cheese, having potatoes as bottom and top layers. Pour sour cream over the top. Dot with butter and bake.

Potato and Egg Scramble: Cook diced potatoes in fat over low heat until tender. Beat eggs seasoned with chopped parsley, onion or chives, salt and black pepper. Pour over top of potatoes and cook until eggs are set.

Potatoes Western Style: Slice potatoes thin and cook with sliced onions in bacon drippings until brown on the bottom. Season with salt and black pepper.

Onion, Carrot and Peanut Saute: Cook sliced onions and carrots slowly in butter or margarine until almost tender. Add chopped peanuts, salt and black pepper and cook to brown butter.

Cauliflower and Tomato Casserole: Arrange cooked cauliflower flowerettes, sliced tomatoes, chopped onion, grated cheese and bread crumbs in layers in a casserole, having cauliflower as bottom layer and sliced tomatoes topped with bread crumbs as top layer. Bake.

Old-fashioned Sweet Potato Pone: Mix grated raw sweet potatoes with flour, egg, sugar, corn syrup, salt, spices, butter or margarine and milk. Bake.

POTATO PUFF HORS D'OEUVRES — For a party snack, try quick-frozen potato puffs served pin-cushion fashion on a big head of cabbage. Try this one for your next patio party.

Thimble Size Holes Ventilate Cookies

Roll cooky dough — a mix or a recipe of sugar cooky — and cut in three-inch circles. In the center of half the circles place a spoonful of mince meat. Moisten the edges lightly and cover with the other circles, each pierced with three little holes made with a tiny cutter — a thimble, your grandmother's used.

Press edges together with the fingers or a floured fork. Brush tops lightly with egg yolk mixed with a tablespoon of water, and bake according to package or recipe directions.

A nine-ounce condensed package of mince meat gives enough for a whole batch of cookies. Break the condensed mince meat into small pieces, add two tablespoons of sugar and 1½ cups water, and stir over heat to break down lumps. Boil for one minute. Cool.

Preserved ginger may be added to Spanish or Bavarian Cream to make a delicious and interesting dessert.

Tropical Flavor Comes to Party in Sandwich

New sandwich spreads either for sandwiches or appetizers are always welcome. You will find this is a good spread to serve on date nut bread in the patio with cool beverages or tea.

Soften each 3-oz. package of cream cheese with about 2 tablespoons of crushed pineapple and 1 tablespoons finely minced ginger. If you'd like to use a dip, add enough pineapple syrup or juice to make it a better consistency for dipping.

Pin Potato Puffs on Cabbage

In the thirty years that frozen foods have been available to the general public, all kinds of interesting new prepared foods have been added to the original line of twenty-six meats, fish, fruits and vegetables. Among the newer items are potato puffs — little bite-sized balls of fluffy whipped potatoes blended with eggs and hint of onion powder.

If you're looking for a new party snack try these tender, crisp potato puffs, served piping hot and rolled in grated cheese. Though they look as though you'd spent hours in the kitchen, they are surprisingly simple to prepare. Just heat the puffs in the oven for about ten minutes before party time, roll them in grated cheese and serve on toothpicks.

That's all there is to it, unless you'd like to serve them as pictured — on a big head of cabbage, pin-cushion fashion. The cabbage head is hollowed out to hold a little container of canned heat. Guests can then re-heat the puffs by twirling them over the flame. Fun for all and the potato puffs taste all the better for being really hot.

Potato Puff Cheese Hors d'Oeuvres

Potato Puff Cheese Hors d'Oeuvres
1 package (8 ounces) quick-frozen Potato puffs
Grated sharp Cheddar cheese

Heat potato puffs as directed on package. Roll hot puffs in grated cheese and serve on tooth-picks. Makes 36 to 42 hors d'oeuvres.

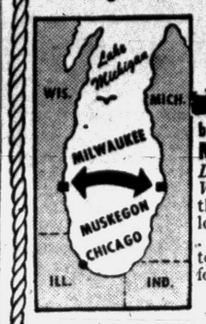

Lake Erie and Lake Ontario are almost exactly divided in half by the border between the U. S. and Canada, about one-half of each lake lying equally in the two countries.

Grandma Would Eat Less

Are you adding an addition to the family? Take in your mother-in-law, it could be cheaper. Pound-for-pound, babies eat more than adults. Based on size and weight, their food needs are 3 to 4 times greater than grown-ups. So move over, Dad . . . the little man who is worth his weight in applesauce and strained carrots is taking over.

Simmer Rice in Onion Soup

Rice is the basic staple of Chinese cookery. And they use it in many different ways. Here is a popular dish made with typical American ingenuity: Chinese Fried Rice using packaged onion soup mix.

The golden brown toasted onions and the delicious beef-flavored stock of the soup mix combines temptingly with the raw rice to make a very tasty dish. Because the soup mix is conveniently added right from the package, this is a quick and easy recipe to prepare.

★ ★ ★

Chinese Fried Rice makes a wonderful accompaniment to a platter of hot shrimp. And served with tea and strawberry chiffon cake, you have a memorable meal to set before the family.

Chinese Fried Rice

1 cup raw rice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons onion soup mix
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water

In skillet lightly brown rice in butter or margarine. Stir in remaining ingredients, cover tightly and simmer over low heat 30 minutes.

Note: For a beefier flavor use 1 package onion soup mix and omit salt.

If you like baked potatoes, you can vary the fare by serving baked potato slices. The large, round-type Maine potato is ideal for this. You don't have to bother about peeling.

Just cut in half-inch slices and bake in a moderate oven, say 375 degrees, until the potatoes are done. With butter, salt and pepper, they're delicious.

Misadventures in Cooking

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Anybody—but anybody knows that to keep crackers fresh you store them in a metal can or keep them tightly closed in their little waxed pakages. But years ago when we were at a houseparty, we put the crackers in the bread box to keep them fresh!

Just recently a number of homemakers were discussing some of the boners they had pulled in cooking. One story led to another and gave us the idea for this article. We shall welcome any additional stories from our readers and shall print them from time to time.

Children learning to cook can really mess things up. Two little girls decided to make a cake, using a mix. They poured the batter into two layer can pans but thought it didn't look like enough. No one ever told them it would rise during the baking! So they made up a second cake and added more batter.

You know the result. There was cake all over the oven. When one of the mothers came home, the moppets were frantically trying to clean up. P.S. No cake baking since.

Another girl put four cups of shortening in a cake, mis-reading the measurement "one fourth."

Ever hear of making yeast rolls without the yeast? We did that—never found the dissolved yeast on the sink until the rolls were in the oven. Yes, we threw them out.

One inexperienced cook took home some pastry her mother had made and a can of pumpkin. "All you need to do is put them together," the older woman advised. What she forgot to say and what the daughter didn't know is that pumpkin pie filling has to have other ingredients. That sticky, shriveled pie was tossed out also.

When a family commented on how mild the lemon pie was, the cook was a little puzzled. She had made it from a mix that contained a plastic capsule of lemon flavoring. The capsule was supposed to dissolve. Finally the man of the house bit into it. He DIDN'T think the pie was mildly flavored.

HIT THE CEILING

You can boil a can of sweetened evaporated milk in water for several hours and get a heavenly caramel sauce. But you must keep the can completely covered with water. Mother let it go dry and the can exploded. Have you ever tried to wash caramel sauce off the ceiling?

One of our co-workers told about the time she poured vanilla on pancakes instead of syrup. And there are countless tales of using soda instead of baking powder, salt instead of sugar.

We've had two tales about macaroni. One inexperienced cook put the raw macaroni in the tomato sauce just before serving. No one thought to tell her it had to be cooked. The other misguided cook soaked the macaroni all morning so that it would be ready to eat at noon.

Our last tale doesn't concern spoiled food, but a spoiled radio. When one woman took her cake out of the oven, she found the portable radio that was sitting on top of the stove had melted down from the heat. Yes, it still played, but the case was ruined.

Now, what's your story?

Easy to Pick a Pineapple That's Good

Fresh pineapple is a rich man's treat in Europe, but you can enjoy it for very little cost, reports the MSU Marketing Agent.

How do you choose fresh pineapple? Pick one that is ripe or nearly ripe. If too immature, it may not ripen.

Look for pineapple that is fresh, clean and heavy for its size. Flat, hollow eyes assure sweet pineapple flavor. Pineapple color varies from yellow to yellow-orange depending upon the variety or kind you choose.

Look at the base of the pineapple, for decay signs usually show up there first. Look for soft watery areas. When pineapple is fully ripe, the spikes pull out with only the slightest tug.

You don't have to be a rich man to enjoy fresh pineapple this month, but you need to select carefully if you are to be happy with your purchase.

Land is scarce in the Vale of Kashmir, so many farmers use floating gardens — tangled masses of plants and soil which are built up on quiet canal banks, then towed to lakes. With the gardens moored to stakes, Kashmiris work them from boats.

Supreme Court Sharpens Views on Rights in Contempt Cases

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nine Supreme Court justices provided a mixed picture this year in the one field where left-right tags are most glibly applied: individual rights against government rights.

At times they split, at times they voted solidly. In two of the major contempt cases the justices split 5-4, in three others the vote was 9-0. In still another it was 4-4, with one justice not voting.

★ ★ ★

The major cases involved Willard Uphaus and Lloyd Barenblatt. To understand what happened in both, two previous cases must be considered.

In 1956 the court threw out the conviction of Steve Nelson, an admitted Communist, who was found guilty in a Pennsylvania state court of violating the state's sedition law.

The court said that, since sedition against the United States is a national problem, federal sedition laws supersede state sedition laws.

But the court said a state could prosecute for sedition against the state.

This year the court tackled the case of Uphaus, director of the New Hampshire World Fellowship Center which described itself as a pacifist organization.

He refused to answer certain questions of the New Hampshire attorney general who, under authority of his Legislature, was investigating communism. For refusing to answer, Uphaus was convicted of contempt.

NARROWS DECISION

Justice Clark, one of those voting for Nelson in 1956, this year wrote the opinion turning down the appeal of Uphaus. He cited the Nelson decision as not forbidding a state to prosecute for sedition against itself.

So, he reasoned, since a state can prosecute for sedition, it has the right to investigate sedition. Thus the court was not reversing the Nelson decision but narrowing it.

In 1957 the court upheld John T. Watkins, convicted of contempt for refusing to answer certain questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which was investigating communism in labor.

He raised the objection of pertinency, asking how the questions asked him had anything to do with the subject of the investigation. The court backed him, saying he never got a clear answer and the questions were not pertinent.

Then this year the court ruled against Barenblatt, a college teacher convicted of contempt for refusing to answer some questions of the same committee, which was investigating communism in education.

Barenblatt, in his appeal, recalled the Watkins pertinency angle by complaining the questions asked him were not pertinent to the committee's investigation.

But the court said whereas Watkins directly raised the question of pertinency in his case, Barenblatt didn't and, if he wanted to use nonpertinency as his excuse for not answering, he should have done so directly.

The court went further, saying the committee investigation was legitimate, and its purposes were well understood. It added that in this case the interests of the country were involved and thus subordinated an individual's interest.

Justice Harlan, who had voted for Watkins but against Barenblatt, wrote the majority opinion. It left open many questions of interpretation. No doubt the court will be confronted with similar cases, looking for loopholes and clarifications.

In the Nelson case the vote was 6-3 for him; it was 6-1 for Watkins. In the Uphaus case the vote was 5-4 against, and 5-4 against Barenblatt.

UNANIMOUS CASES

In three other contempt conviction cases the nine justices stood solidly together, 9-0, for the defendants.

One involved a labor leader who refused to give a Senate committee investigating communism a list of union members. This decision had no special meaning. The court ruled in his favor on a technicality.

★ ★ ★

Another was the case of a Virginia Quaker who wouldn't answer a state legislative committee's questions about his connection with inter-racial groups. The court upheld him on the ground the purpose of the committee's investigation was not clear. This was an echo of the Watkins' case.

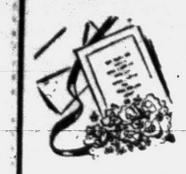

In the third the court freed three Ohioans who, the justices said, had been misled—into refusing to answer—by a state committee which was investigating communism and asking the questions.

On a technicality the court split 4-4 in upholding the conviction of a fourth Ohioan—sentenced for refusing to answer questions from the same Ohio committee.

And finally, the court split 5-4 in turning down the appeal of a New York garment maker who refused to answer, although promised immunity, the questions of a grand jury investigating racketeering.

Youth Wants Court Hearing

Arraigned on Charge of Burglary, He Can't Furnish Bond

An 18-year-old youth accused of burglary demanded examination yesterday at his arraignment before Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Jerry Lee Lemmert of 2040 Richwood St., Pontiac Township, was held at the Oakland County Jail, unable to furnish bond of $1,000 set by Judge McCallum.

Examination has been set for July 15.

Lemmert and a 16-year-old juvenile were arrested July 5 after three firms had been broken into. The juvenile, who was in custody at the Oakland County Children's Home, was nabbed by police in the Friendly Market, 1220 N. Ferry St.

The juvenile also admitted breaking into George's Sandwich Shop, 1018 Joslyn Rd., and the Dairy Queen establishment at 105 Joslyn Rd. earlier in the evening.

★ ★ ★

Arrested shortly after the juvenile was caught, Lemmert denied any knowledge of the burglaries but said he'd been with the juvenile all evening.

Officers said Lemmert had been drinking when he was arrested.

Pays City $5 Fine for Gambling Items

A Detroit man came out of Pontiac Municipal Court yesterday $5 poorer after he pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing gambling equipment.

★ ★ ★

Samuel Burd, age unknown, was selling punch-board chances Sunday when spotted by Pontiac police Det. John Felts in Oakland Park.

The man told Felts the proceeds went to a benefit fund for show people, and only people in show business could buy them.

★ ★ ★

The officer was unimpressed and arrested Burd.

Pontiac City Affairs

East Blvd. to Cost Less

Widening of East boulevard next year could proceed without expensive reconstruction of the Clinton River bridge, City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn told the City Commission last night.

Widening to four lanes between Mt. Clemens and Michigan was put off this year because it was believed the bridge was too narrow to handle four-lane traffic.

"This was an error on our part," said Wrenn.

"We have determined that the bridge could safely handle 46 feet of pavement plus another 10 feet of sidewalk."

★ ★ ★

Wrenn said this capacity would fit into the city administration's proposal to widen East boulevard to 46 feet and construct five-foot wide sidewalks on either side.

The $100,000 job was dropped last month when it appeared there were no funds available to widen both the street and the bridge this year.

Commissioners took action to install one sidewalk this summer. They declared a walk on the west side of East boulevard from the bridge at East boulevard to north of Michigan avenue a public necessity and schedule a hearing next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Hearings next week were set for seven other sidewalk projects, including Arlene avenue, Madison to Columbia; 300 feet on the south side of Perry street, Joslyn eastward; the east side of Parkwood avenue, Perry to Manhattan; 1,000 feet on the north side of Perry street, Madison southward; both sides of Robinwood avenue, Baltimore to Manhattan; south side of Rundell street, Saginaw to Hamilton; and the west side of N. Saginaw street, Rundell to north of Virginia.

Despite one objection, an assessment roll was approved for grading and graveling of the alley north of Walton boulevard, University to east of Baldwin.

One residential property owner objected to the special assessment formula adopted by the city after commercial properties asked for the alley and residential properties opposed it.

The formula calls for commercial interest to pay $2.50 a front foot, while the residential rate is only 75 cents.

★ ★ ★

There were no objections raised at hearings on assessment rolls covering five sidewalk projects, including both sides of California avenue, Howland to Franklin; west side of Sanford street, Irwin to Central; west side of Drexel avenue, South boulevard to Paddock; both sides of Highland avenue, California to Ditmar; and both sides of Harvey street, South boulevard to Ditmar.

Three assessment rolls were confirmed, covering a sidewalk on Orchard Lake avenue west of Telegraph road; curbs, gutters, grading and graveling on Dellwood avenue, Earlmoor to Howland; and a sidewalk on the north side of Columbia avenue, Carlisle to Walton Boulevard Park subdivision.

Commissioner Wesley J. Wood said he would ask residents of Michigan avenue west of Jessie street to sign a petition if they want a $1,891 storm drain which Wrenn said would cure flooding problems there. The assessed cost would be $1,512, Wrenn said.

★ ★ ★

A 1959-60 license for the Pontiac Skate Club, 35 Elizabeth St., was approved, but only provisionally at the request of Commissioner Milton R. Henry.

Henry said he would ask that the license be lifted if liquor laws are violated.

18 Men Plead Innocent to City Gambling Charges

Eighteen men accused of violating city gambling ordinances pleaded innocent before Municipal Court Judge Cecil McCallum yesterday and were released under bond pending trial July 16.

★ ★ ★

They were arrested in raids by Pontiac Police vice officers and uniformed patrolmen early Sunday.

Ellis R. Bradley, 56, of 142 S. Johnson St., and Melvin O. Springer, 41, of 447 E. Montcalm St., both accused of maintaining and operating illegal gambling establishments, furnished bonds of $200.

Springer, also accused of aiding and abetting an illegal gambling establishment, posted another $100 bond for the second charge. He was arrested at 157 Howard St.

OTHER RAIDS

Other raids were at 26 W. Kennett Rd. and 447 E. Montcalm St.

John Springer, 43, of the Howard street address was free under $100 bond.

Accused of loitering in an illegal gambling place, eight men arrested at 26 W. Kennett Rd. were released under $50 bond.

They are John H. Joness, 56, of Warren; Alex MacLeod, 55, of Roseville; Charles Goolsby, 48, of 117 Lafayette St.; John Touleyrou, 44, of 2053 Willow Beach, Keego Harbor; James H. Cook, 35, of 309 N. Saginaw St.; Charles W. Rash, 43, of 55 Clark St.; James F. Conahan, 30, of 362 Oakland Ave.; and George J. Souter, 47, of 249 W. Walton Blvd.

Joness posted another $100 as he was named in two separate warrants accusing him of loitering.

Henry F. Duvall, 35, of 429 E. Tennyson St., was released under $100 bond. He was arrested at the Howard street address on a warrant charging him with loitering, and for loitering there at the time of the raid.

FURNISH $50 BOND

Others arrested at the Howard street address for loitering, who furnished bond of $50, were John C. Wallace, 26, of 106 Glenwood Ave.; John S. Breeze, 42, of 29 Douglas St.; Elijah O. Childers, 26, of 217 N. Saginaw St.; Casey L. Herrod, 31, of 16 Whittemore St.; and Donald J. Ogles, 35, of Waterford Township.

Herbert L. Bailey, 38, of 58 Omar St., was also free under $50 bond. He was arrested at the Public Safety Building on a loitering charge.

Convicts May Face Kidnaping Charge

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — Four young inmates who held 39 hostages for 13½ tense hours during an attempted escape from the Washington State Reformatory face the possibility of kidnaping charges.

Ernest Timpani, superintendent, said three of the four were in the reformatory hospital for treatment of the effects of tear gas, fired at them Tuesday when reformatory guards stormed the small room in which the four held their hostages.

The fourth man, David K. Owens of Skagit County, Wash., was in solitary confinement.

Hospitalized were Robert E. Jasmin, 22, San Diego, Calif.; Richard E. Murray, 20, Red Oak, Okla., and Donald DeCourcey, 22, Everett, Wash.

The rebellious inmates seized a guard Monday afternoon while they worked in the kitchen. With a knife at his throat, they forced the guard upstairs to the visiting room where they seized two other guards, 11 inmates and 26 visitors, including 12 women and 8 children.

Garrett Heyns, state director of institutions, said formal charges would be made against the four after a full report was received.

Youth Demands Examination on Knifing Charge

A 17-year-old youth accused of stabbing a night watchman demanded examination before Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Judge McCallum set the examination of James Rosser, 650 North View Ct., for July 15. Rosser is free pending the examination under $200 bond.

He is charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

The watchman, Hosie Conley, 28, was stabbed the night of July 3 in the left arm. He was treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Conley told Pontiac police he had accused Rosser of stealing gas from a service station that the accused was fired from. Police said Rosser apparently sought revenge.

Conley was stabbed at the Bedford Moving Co. building, 660 Oakland Ave. The watchman lives there.

Court Hearing on Baby Sitter Beating Delayed

Examination of a Pontiac butcher accused in the brutal beating of an 18-year-old baby sitter June 22 has been postponed until next Wednesday.

The hearing to determine whether Bruce M. Taylor, 32, of 596 Mt. Clemens St. should be bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for trial was originally scheduled today.

He is accused of assault with intent to commit murder.

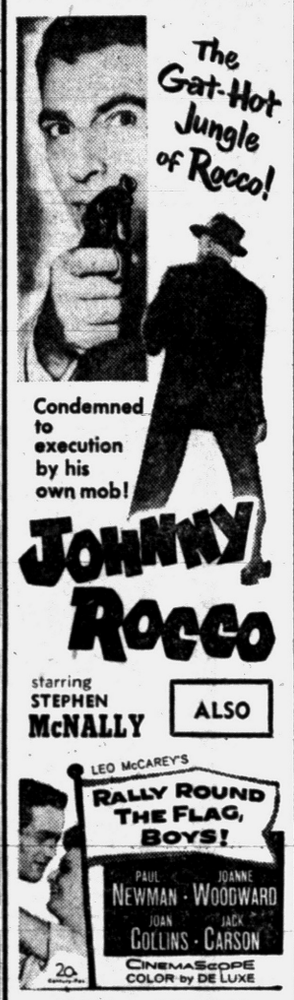

Taylor admitted the beating to police. He said he thought the baby sitter was his wife, from whom he is separated.

The baby sitter, Phyllis Jean Keel of 58 Wall St., was released from Pontiac General Hospital Monday. Following the attack, she was in critical condition more than a week.

The beating occurred at the home of Mrs. Taylor, 223 W. Rutgers St. Mrs. Taylor was working at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital when the girl was beaten.

Picture of a Promise

Sure, she's a grand old flag!
That's why we salute her.
That's why we pledge allegiance to her.

That pledge, in its simplest terms, is another way of saying, "Count me in. You're my country and I love you and need you. Your problems are my problems, and I'm with you all the way."

Your country's biggest single problem is the perpetual responsibility for keeping the peace its people want. You can help with this problem by remembering this:

Peace costs money. Money for military and industrial strength. Money for science and education. And money saved by individuals — by you — to help keep the economy strong. Bonds provide this money.

Fox Wasn't So Dumb

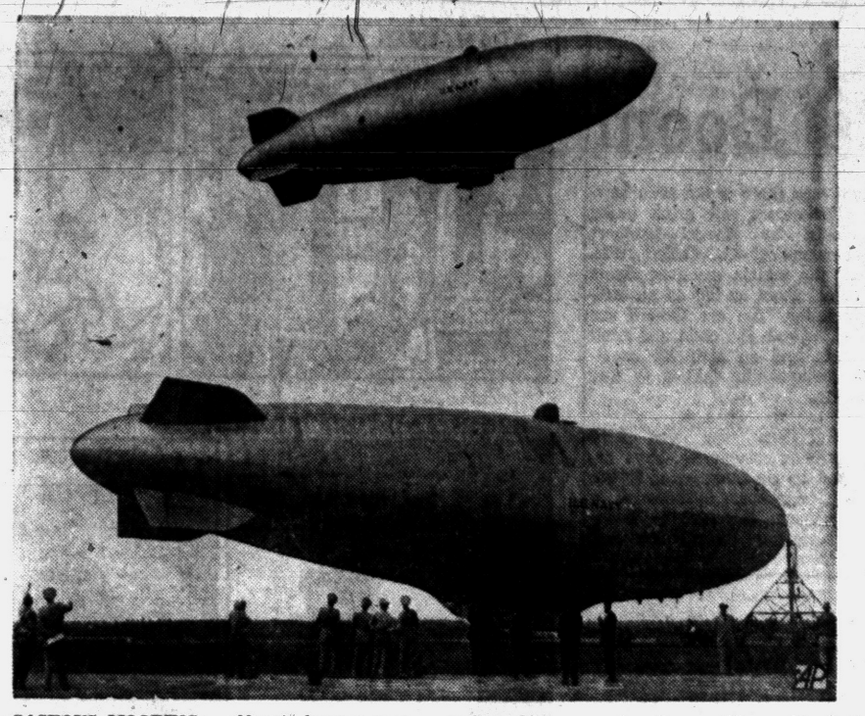

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Patrolman Joseph Hovey received a call to report to the William Alderman residence. In the back yard he found the family pet, a beagle hound, and snuggled up to the dog to keep warm was a baby fox.

The fox was turned over to the Madison Zoo.

Triplets Help Father to Get Far Better Job

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — Things are looking up for tenant farmer Nathan Miller and his family. They'll be on the way to greener pastures next week.

Miller, 55, said recently after his 35-year-old wife gave birth to triplet girls that they might have to offer the babies for adoption because of money problems. Miller made only $25 a week. That was in good times. He often made less.

Monday, the Millers—who have three other children—decided they would keep the babies. Tuesday, Miller accepted a $200-a-month job on an egg farm near Charlotte, N.C. The family will have a house rent free.

The offer was made by Paul Jones, who has 17,000 hens on a 58-acre farm. He stipulated that the Millers must keep the triplets.

Library Book Returned by Very Slow Reader

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — About five months before Admiral Peary reached the North Pole in 1909, someone checked the book "Castle Blair" out of the Carnegie Public Library.

It was returned Tuesday, more than 50 years overdue. It was placed in a collection chute at a branch library.

Library officials said the book, overdue since Jan. 4, 1909, would have carried a $472.50 fine.

Tests of Diving Device at 4,000 Feet Opens Road to New Frontier

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Navy officials said today that preliminary dives of the bathyscaph Trieste have convinced them that it is the forerunner of undersea devices that will carry explorers to the earth's last great unknown frontier.

Eight preliminary dives by the Trieste in this area, the deepest 4,000 feet, have started a program that is aimed at giving man direct information about the three-fourths of the earth's surface covered by the oceans.

★ ★ ★

Capt. John M. Phelps, commanding officer and director of the Naval Electronics Laboratory, said the program was so vast that it would take much time and money to carry it through.

But he and Dr. Andreas B. Rechnitzer, oceanographer in charge of the Trieste operations, expressed confidence that a good start had been made.

★ ★ ★

Their views were supported by two internationally famous pioneers in the field, Prof. Auguste Piccard, Swiss scientist, and his son, Jacques.

The younger Piccard is under contract to the Navy to pilot the Trieste in its preliminary dives. His father arrived this week from Europe to assist in some modifications to the craft, which the Piccards sold to the Navy last year.

The Trieste is capable of dives down to 20,000 feet. The Piccards are planning a device that would be propelled downward into the depths by a rotor blade, similar to that on a helicopter, and would have twin propellors for cruising and turning. They call it a mesoscaph.

Boris Pasternak Has Sold His 'The Last Summer'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — Author Boris Pasternak, who has kept very silent since the Soviet government frowned on his best selling novel, "Dr. Zhivago," has sold "The Last Summer," which he wrote before "Zhivago," for motion pictures.

Its a very interesting story how Christopher Sergel, with the help of the William Morris office, was able to obtain the rights. Sergel has already written the screen treatment and he said he would never have been able to get "The Last Summer" if George Reavy, a friend of Pasternaks since 1929, hadn't obtained permission from Pasternak to translate it and do with it whatever he saw fit.

"Last Summer" is a love story which takes place during the last summer before the Revolution and in a sense it was the last chance people had to be individuals.

"The Young Philadelphians" brought that deft comedienne Billie Burke back into the limelight again, and reminded producers who may have forgotten that she hasn't lost a bit of her endearing charm.

John Ford has signed Billie for "Captain Buffalo" which she is making on the Warner lot, with Pat Ford (John's son) and Willis Goldbeck as co-producers. The juvenile leads are, of course, Connie Towers and Jeff Hunter. The movie is based on a story by Goldbeck and James Warner Bella.

Billie's second book, "Powder on My Nose," comes out in September.

"Oslo, Norway, Calling," was of course Sonja Henie on the transatlantic telephone. She was in a state because someone had printed that she and Niels Onstad were skating on thin ice.

"It's not true. Our marriage is happy. He's right here beside me," Sonja said with such indignation the telephone sizzled.

She also said that the report that Khrushchev would be her houseguest is completely untrue. "I was asked to let him use my house when he came to Oslo,' said Sonja, "but I refused."

"Very wise of you," I told her. Her home, where I had luncheon when I was in Oslo 10 years ago, is one of the showplaces of Norway.

Terry Moore, who paused for one day in Hollywood with her bridegroom, Stuart Cramer III, on their way from Toyan Bay Boat Club to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to continue their honeymoon, said: "I am not going to do 'The Sea Nymph' for 20th Century-Fox. It was one of the best parts ever offered me, but I would have to be in Spain six weeks and I am not going to leave Stuart."

Petoskey Fire Razes Old Grain Elevator

PETOSKEY (UPI)—A fire on the south edge of the downtown business district yesterday destroyed a three-story grain elevator and store with a loss of $110,000.

The fire threatened to spread to Hookers Laundry, which lies in an L-shape around the destroyed grain store. But firemen from four departments put up a wall of water over the laundry and saved the building.

The wooden sheet-metal-covered grain elevator and store was considered a Northern Michigan landmark and was built before the turn of the century. It was called Frank Gruler & Sons Feeds and was being operated by Frank and Albert Gruler, third-generation sons of the owning family.

Albert Gruler said the building was valued at $80,000 and contained $30,000 in feeds, grains, seeds, farming and gardening equipment and other merchandise.

Weather, Business Recovery Help

Soft Drink Industry Expects Boom

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The weather — no matter what you think of it — is just dandy for the soft drink industry. So is the general recovery in business.

More thirsts are being quenched this year — and oftener. The industry expects to get well above last year's 2¼ billion-dollar sales.

★ ★ ★

"Everyone's excited about the first six month results," says one spokesman, "and the summer looks like a record for us."

★ ★ ★

But the competition is getting terrific. Whether you drink your favorite carbonated beverage out of a bottle or a can, or get it from a counterman's pump, or make your own from powders or a tablet, you're going to be wooed as never before.

Sales volume fell off in 1958 from the year before, breaking a long line of annual growth. Blamed were last summer's cool and wet weather in many parts of the nation, and the recession which closed many industrial plants, cutting into vending sales that depend so much on impulse selling.

★ ★ ★

This year factories are humming again. And the weather in most places has been hot and humid — making that impulse for a soft and cooling drink almost compulsive.

★ ★ ★

Consumption per person slipped to 187 bottles in 1958 from 189¼ the previous year. Booming sales so far this year make the bottlers confident that both per capita consumption and dollar value will rise notably.

Competing soft drink producers have been widening their bottle size selections. Coca-Cola now has 12- and 26-ounce bottles as well as the traditional 6-ounce. Pepsi-Cola has added 6- and 26-ounce bottles to its older 8- and 12-ounce ones. Some bottlers, like Royal Crown and Double Cola, now have 16-ounce bottles in the food stores.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Pepper and Royal Crown are among those aggressively expanding their territories and franchise operations. All the companies are pepping up sales promotions.

The Can Manufacturers Institute estimates that 400 million cans of soft drinks were sold in 1958, a five per cent gain over 1957. It says that the first four months of this year found soft drink sales in cans up 43 per cent over the like period of 1958.

Bottlers and canners battle hard for shelf space in supermarkets. Bottlers have big investments in bottles and equipment and have been loath to turn to cans. But the can makers stress to the supermarkets the chance to rid themselves of deposits, bottle returns, breakage and storage of empties.

Saving even more shelf space are the soft drink powders. Kool-Aid is stepping up promotion to make it a year-round drink.

And now there is the even newer effervescent soft drink tablet developed by Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Co. Called "Fizzies," the tablets come in sheets of eight, about as big as an ordinary letter. The six flavors are aimed at both the child and adult markets and an artificial sweetener reduces the tablets to four calories.

★ ★ ★

No-Cal Corp. says sales of its nonfattening beverages have increased by an average of 10 per cent a year since introduction in 1952. Canada Dry also is among those aiming at the diet-conscious American.

Urges More Tests of Live Polio Serum

NEW YORK (AP)—Mass vaccination with live virus polio vaccine is unwise at the present time, a group of experts has reported.

The vaccine advisory committee of the National Foundation recommended Tuesday that the Salk vaccine, which uses viruses already killed, be continued as the major weapon against polio.

The committee reported that although the live virus vaccine — developed by Dr. Albert B. Sabin of the University of Cincinnati — shows promise for the future, it requires further field trials.

The committee said the specific ability of the new vaccine to prevent paralytic polio, while presumed, has yet to be tested and added that there must be assurances that the new vaccine will remain harmless to humans.

The Best Is Yet to Be for This Elderly Student

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP)—Like a lot of college seniors, Ernest Freibel, a member of the June whether to continue in graduate graduating class at Oshkosh State College, can't make up his mind school or get a job.

"I have several positions under consideration," said Friebel, who will be 70 in August.

No one knows which country first used homing pigeons to carry messages but it probably was either China or Persia.

Haney Happy Victor Over Stengel Again

Mays' Triple Produces 5-4 Win in Eighth

NL Will Keep Same Lineup for August Tilt; Kaline Early Hero

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Manager Fred Haney plans to use the same starting lineup in next month's All-Star game in Los Angeles as the one which defeated the American League 5-4 for the National League's first victory in three years yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Casey Stengel didn't single out any player for the blame in the defeat but he made no bones about that fact that he wasn't satisfied with the pitching of Whitey Ford, his own star left-hander on the Yankees.

Ford was on the mound when the Nationals roared back with two runs in the bottom half of the eighth to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Stengel also might have felt that if Mickey Mantle, his limping slugger, had been playing in center field, he might have caught up with Willie Mays' booming triple in the eighth that drove in the payoff run.

When asked whether he thought Mantle would have caught the ball, Stengel growled:

"You want me to put the rap on my players but I won't do it. I don't want to take anything away from Mays. It was no soft fly ball he hit, you know."

★ ★ ★

"Those guys were lucky we didn't score more runs in the eighth, or else they were just playing with us when they let us fill the bases twice. It took a great catch to beat us," he said.

Casey probably was referring to Hank Aaron's fine catch off Gus Triandos with two mates on base. But that occurred in the fourth inning when the Americans scored their first run, on Kaline's homer. Two hits followed but Aaron prevented further scoring with his running catch in right center.

Haney declined to take any credit even though it was his strategy that set up the tying run in the eighth inning when the Nationals scored twice to overcome a 4-3 deficit. Kenny Boyer of St. Louis, batting for winning pitcher Johnny Antonelli, singled to open it. Haney sent up Pittsburgh's Dick Groat to hit for Eddie Mathews although the National League's home run leader had socked a four-bagger in the opening inning. Groat laid down a neat sacrifice and Aaron came through with a sharp single to score Boyer with the tying run.

Mays then unloaded his triple, scoring Aaron with the payoff run.

★ ★ ★

Haney, who said before the game that he planned to keep his starting lineup, except for the pitcher, in action as long as possible, made just two changes, at second and third base. Six players — Mays, Aaron, Banks, Orlando Cepeda, Wally Moon and Del Crandall — went all the way.

Stengel used 22 players, one short of the record. He had six different men batting in the seventh spot.

★ ★ ★

Anmonelli, who threw six pitches in putting out the fire in the eighth, was credited with the victory. But the best pitching was done by Don Drysdale. The Los Angeles right-hander, honored with the starting assignment, retired all nine batters he faced, striking out four. Lew Burdette gave up one run in the middle three innings.

Elroy Face, Pittsburgh's unbeaten relief pitcher, was the victim of the Americans' eighth-inning outburst. After retiring the first five batters he faced, Elroy suddenly lost his stuff, yielding three hits and two walks with two out in the eighth. The most damaging blow was Triandos' bases-loaded double that put the Americans in front.

Ted Williams drew a walk as a pinch hitter in the midst of the rally. Stan Musial popped out in a pinch hit role earlier in the game.

Antonelli came in with runners on second and third, walked pinch hitter Roy Sievers to load the bases, then got Sherman Lollar, another pinch hitter, to hit into an inning-ending force play to Mathews. Chicago's Don Elston pitched a scoreless ninth that was marred by Nellie Fox' two out single and Elston's wild pitch. The Cub right-hander ended the game by getting Kuenn on a foul to Mathews.

★ ★ ★

Banks, with two doubles, and Aaron, with a pair of singles, led the National's nine-hit attack against five pitchers. Early Wynn allowed only Mathews' homer in his three inning stint. Ryne Duren was overpowering in his scoreless three-inning choice, striking out four. Jim Bunning was stung for two runs in the seventh on hits by Banks, Crandall and Bill Mazeroski. Bud Daley did a fine job fanning Banks and getting Cepeda to foul out with Mays on third in the eighth.

For Second Meeting

Casey Plans Some Changes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Take it from the old professor Casey Stengel There'll be some changes made for the next All-Star baseball game at Los Angeles Aug. 3.

"Just say I've got my eye on four or five guys," grunted the New York Yankees Manager after his American League All-Stars dropped a 5-4 decision to the National League yesterday at Forbes Field.

"I was satisfied with the team and it was a good game," said Casey, "but when you lose you gotta make some changes. I'll let you know later.

★ ★ ★

"There's nothing to regret. They (the Nationals) played worse than we did. But they won and that's what counts. If Willie Mays doesn't hit that triple, well, there's a lot of things we could have done."

★ ★ ★

"He (Mays) hit a fast ball," said Whitey Ford of the Yankees, the losing pitcher. "I wasn't tired, I just didn't pitch well."

"It was a team victory all the way. It's difficult to single out any one player, although there was some fine pitching and defensive work," said Fred Haney.

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles threw three perfect innings; Eddie Mathews slammed a home run; Ernie Banks of Chicago hit two doubles, and Hank Aaron came through with a fielding gem in the fourth when he gathered in Gus Triandos line drive bid for extra bases with two on and two out.

★ ★ ★

Mathews' home run — his first in four All-Star games—came off American League starter Early Wynn of Cleveland in the first inning.

"He hit the best damn knuckleball I ever threw," said Wynn.

The homer by Mathews was the only thing a capacity crowd of 34,763 had to cheer about until Al Kaline of Detroit tied it up in the fourth with a blast off Milwaukee's Lew Burdette.

★ ★ ★

The biggest disappointment was the performance of Elroy Face of the Pittsburgh Pirates, winner of 12 straight and 17 games over a 2-year span.

Face retired the side in the seventh and racked up two easy outs in the eighth before the Americans jumped on the pint-sized righthander for three runs.

"I was throwing just a little bit wide and lower than I wanted, he said. But you can't win 'em all. At least, I didn't lose as the boys came through."

★ ★ ★

It was Haney's first All-Star victory and Stengel's sixth defeat in nine games. Somehow Casey does better in October.

★ ★ ★

Someone asked Casey why he didn't use Yogi Berra as a pinch-hitter in the ninth with the tying run on base.

"What if Berra wudda popped up," he snorted. "Then what would you do if you were me—come in here and die?"

He posed another question.

★ ★ ★

"If we're gonna use pinch-hitters, tell me who in the hell I can use with all those stars?

★ ★ ★

"I took out Colavito and used another good player (Williams) to pinch hit. Sure, you say, take out one player and stick in another—they're all good. I was satisfied with the pinch-hitters, I was satisfied with the whole team."

GUESS WHO WON — It's not hard to figure out the winner of Tuesday's All-Star game if you know these gentlemen. Fred Haney, right, of the National League was all smiles and happy with the team's performance. Fellow banker Casey Stengel, whose American League team lost 5-4, says there will be some changes before next month's 2nd game in Los Angeles.

WINNING BELT — Here is Willie Mays belting the big triple that decided the 26th All-Star contest in the 8th Tuesday. It scored Hank Aaron from 1st.

Free-for-All Flag Chase Resumes

By The Associated Press

With the first leg of the All-Star series out of the way, major league baseball now gets back to the pennant races, jumping into a swift schedule that could change the scrambles almost overnight.

The free-for-all gets started again tomorrow night, although Boston's last-place Red Sox play at New York tonight in a make-up game on the American League schedule.

The National League, a 5-4 winner over the AL in the first All-Star game of the season yesterday (the second is at Los Angeles, Aug. 3), picks up the pennant race with Milwaukee's Braves in first place by .003 percentage points over San Francisco and a half-game over third place Los Angeles.

The Braves, who had a one-game lead (over the Giants) at this stage while winning their second straight flag last season, resume play with a three-game series at Milwaukee against the Dodgers, then play two against the Giants.

★ ★ ★

San Francisco plays three at Cincinnati before moving into Milwaukee. And the Dodgers have two with the Reds, straggling in seventh with Manager Mayo Smith rumored on the way out, after leaving the Braves.

Fourth place Pittsburgh, 3½ games out of first, is at home for three games with fifth place Chicago and two with sixth place St. Louis.

The immediate American League schedule is just as hot. First place Cleveland, ahead by two games, is at Chicago for two games with the second place White Sox tomorrow and Friday. The Indians then are at home for a three-game series with Detroit—then play four games at New York.

The Yankees, five games behind in fourth place, compared to an 11-game lead at this time a year ago, play six games with the Red Sox in six days, five at Boston. The Red Sox put an end to their skid at seven games by sweeping a pair at Baltimore Sunday, giving new Manager Bill Jurges a 2-1 record.

That sweep dropped third place Baltimore 4½ games behind. The Orioles play five games at Washington before returning home for four games with Kansas City and four with the Tigers.

Kaline Shines, Bunning Bumped

Good, Bad for Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers had both good and bad fortune in the 26th annual All-Star Game at Pittsburgh.

Al Kaline, coming back after his injury layoff, smashed a 406-foot home run over the left field wall in the Pittsburgh Pirates park to tie the score at 1-1 in the fourth inning.

Kaline's appearance was his first since surgery on his cheek June 29.

Harvey Kuenn walked in the Americans' three-run rally in the eighth inning and in the ninth he missed a homer by inches. The blow went foul. He popped out on the next pitch, ending the game.

★ ★ ★

For pitcher Jim Bunning the story wasn't so good. He allowed three hits and two runs in the seventh inning, the only frame he worked.

With all hands back home, including some who vacationed in northern Michigan, the Tigers were set today for travel and a resumption of their American League schedule.

Detroit, in fifth place six games out of first, opens a three-game series at Kansas City with a doubleheader tomorrow night. The games begin an 11-game tour.

The Tigers return home July 21.

Jordan Says He Will Beat Moyer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Champion Don Jordan says he's certain of victory in his 15-round welterweight title fight with young Denny Moyer here Friday night.

"I'm not underestimating Moyer at all," the 25-year-old champion said. "But I positively believe that I can whip him.

"I realize he's the home town boy and will be favored by the crowd. That's nothing new for me. I was a lone wolf at St. Louis in the return match with Virgil Akins and I won that one."

Marshall Stays On as Royals' Mentor

CINCINNATI (AP)—Tom Marshall was renamed coach of the Cincinnati Royals professional basketball team Tuesday for the 1959-60 season.

Johansson Plays Part in Swedish Picture

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson will play a bit part in the film "The Man in the Middle," a spokesman for the Swedish film company Freja said Tuesday.

The film stars Anthony Steele, and Johansson's scene will be shot Thursday. Ingemar makes an unexpected entry while Steele, as an American newspaper man visiting Stockholm, is conversing with a Swede who has seen the championship fight and is bragging about it.

Halimi Risks 'Bantam' Crown Against Becerra

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tale of the tape for the Alphonse Halimi—Jose Becerra world bantamweight title fight Wednesday:

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Broad-shouldered Alphonse Halimi of France risks his world bantamweight crown in a 15-round fight tonight with the No. 1 contender, Jose Becerra of Mexico.

The 27-year-old French-Algerian remained an 8-5 favorite at this morning's weigh-time.

The scrap goes on at 7 o'clock, (PDT) and will be nationally televised (ABC), with southern California blacked out.

There will be no radio broadcast.

Promoter Cal Easton predicted a crowd of 15,000 or more would pay upward of $150,000 to see the match, which serves as a kickoff sports event for Los Angeles' new 6 million dollar Memorial Sports Arena.

"I am ready to fight one to 15 rounds. I fully expect to win," said Halimi, who speaks enough English to make himself understood.

"I promised my people and the president of Mexico I would win the championship," said the 23-year-old contender with the aid of an interpreter.

Halimi, in the second defense of the title he won April 1, 1957, in a 15-round fight with Marion D'Agata of Italy, will pick up a guarantee of $65,000.

If he loses, he has a guarantee for a rematch within 90 days.

Becerra settled for $20,000 for a shot at the championship.

The fight will be scored on a 10-point per round basis—10 to the winner, nine or less to the loser.

The referee and two judges will be announced at ringside.

Both can hit with either hand. The champion likes to belt away with both hands to the head, and suddenly switch to the midsection.

Becerra's most explosive weapon is his left hook, usually to the head.

The consensus is that to win, Becerra must bomb Alphonse into submission within seven or eight rounds.

Halimi, in the fashion of the distance-boxing European fighters, usually improves the longer a fight lasts.

Becerra has won his last 11 fights by knockouts. The one that gained him the title shot was a 10-round knockout over D'Agata here last Feb. 5.

Shea Says 3rd Loop Due in '61

NEW YORK (AP) — William Shea, chairman of the mayor's baseball committee, told Mayor Robert Wagner Tuesday that a third major baseball league would be formed and ready to play by 1961.

Shea visited the mayor to bring him up to date on the progress of the committee in its efforts to bring a third league team to New York.

Shea expressed "optimism" and said that his committee would be ready to sit with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick any time between July 15 and Aug. 3 to discuss the new league.

He added that Minneapolis would publicly announce its willingness to be a member of the third league.

MSU's Ferguson Wins in Turkey

ISTANBUL (AP)—The touring U. S. wrestling team drew 3-3 with a picked Istanbul team Tuesday night.

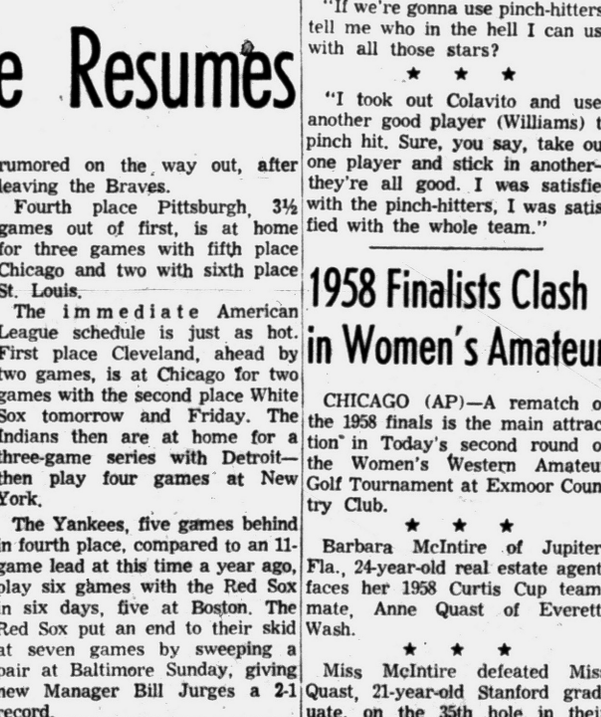

Turkey's Mehmet Kartal scored the only fall victory in the six events when he pinned Terry McCann of Tulsa, Okla., in the bantamweight class in 5:30.

American winners were featherweight Jerry Hoke of the Marines, middleweight Jim Ferguson of Michigan State and light heavyweight Frank Rosenmayr of the San Francisco Olympic Club, who won by default.

Temple Victorious Twice Behind Allen's Pitching

Evangel Temple owns two victories this week in the Inter-City Church Softball League, thanks to the strong arm of pitcher Duane Allen. Allen hurled a two-hitter last night as Temple defeated First Christian, 7-3, and he gave up only one hit Monday while stopping First Nazarene, 4-1.

Parkdale Nazarene outscored First Nazarene, 20-10, in a free-hitting contest yesterday with Hibbs and Sutton whacking homers for the winners. In Monday's other scheduled game, Pontiac United Missionary lost on a forfeit to Zion Nazarene.

HAPPY — SAD TIGERS — Detroit players had opportunities to be both happy and sad during the American League loss yesterday. At left, Al Kaline had a mighty happy moment when he crossed the plate after his long home run in the 4th tied the game at 1-1. He is greeted by Moose Skowron. Right, Harvey Kuenn was the most disgusted guy in the world when, he fouled out in the ninth with the tying run at 2nd to end the game.

Knights Down Pirates, 6-3

Lumbermen Shut Out Nicholie Outfit on Warner's 3-Hitter

The Knights of Columbus are rapidly making a runaway of the Class A City League baseball race. They pulled a little further ahead of the pack yesterday with a 6-3 victory over the Pirates at Wisner Field.

After spotting the Pirates a 2-0 lead in the 1st inning, the Knights erupted with three runs in the 2nd inning and tacked on two more in the 5th to wrap it up.

The Knights nicked two Pirate hurlers for eight hits, two by Ernie Zubalik. John York was the starting and losing pitcher with Larry Demrick relieving in the 4th stanza.

Jerry Taylor was the starting and winning pitcher with relief help from Terry Hoy in the 7th. Together, they limited the Pirates to four hits.

In Class B activity yesterday at Jaycee Park, Talbott Lumber shut out Don Nicholie behind the three-hit pitching of John Warner.

Talbott scored three times in the 3rd and added three in the 6th with the first uprising beginning after Nicholie centerfielder Chuck Wilson muffed an easy fly ball. The winners made seven hits off Ray Newton.

Cow Palace Is Site for NCAA Cage Test

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The Cow Palace in San Francisco will be the scene March 18 and 19 of the 1960 NCAA basketball championships.

The NCAA University Basketball Tournament Committee selected the Cow Palace last night. The association's executive committee must approve the action, but approval is expected to be a formality.

The title tournament has not been held on the West Coast since 1952.

A. C. Lonborg, athletic director at the University of Kansas and chairman of the Basketball Tournament Committee, said the University of California would be host to the event.

★ ★ ★

Lonborg also announced the selection of the sites of the four regional NCAA tournaments March 11 and 12. They will be held at Charlotte, N.C.; Louisville, Ky.; Manhattan, Kan., and Seattle, Wash.

Swatting .400 in 6 Games

Hardest Hit Ball This Season Claims Willie

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Willie Mays is hitting a cool .400 in All-Star competition. The San Francisco center fielder seems to be able to rise to the occasion.

Willie's tremendous triple to the ivy-covered wall in right center field in the eighth inning drove home the winning run in the National League's 5-4 victory over the American League yesterday at Forbes Field.

"Was that the hardest hit ball by you this season?" a fellow asked Mays. He was all dressed up and ready to leave the clubhouse but he paused to answer with a smile.

"Man, I don't remember hitting any harder," he answered.

★ ★ ★

Mays has hit 14 home runs in regular National League play and has knocked in 56 runs while batting .311. None of his hits were as important as the blow off Whitey Ford that broke a two-game National League losing streak.

It was the sixth All-Star game for the 28-year-old speedster who captured the hearts of New York fans at the Polo Grounds before the Giants moved West.

"How about that Ryne Duren?" somebody asked Mays who was getting his first look at the New York Yankee's flame throwing right-hander.

"Man, didn't you see me wearing the helmet?" he replied. "That's the first time I wore one all year."

Mays explained that he conforms with the rule about wearing protective head gear by using a cap with an inner lining most of the time. He didn't wear the helmet before or after Duren left the game.

He practically swung out from under his helmet as he became the first of Duren's four strike out victims. Willie was the first to face Duren in the fourth inning.

Until Mays unloaded the triple in the eighth he had been held hitless. He lined out in the first, when Early Wynn was pitching, struck out and hit into a force play against Duren.

★ ★ ★

The ball he hit off Ford won't go down for any distance records of course. Dick Stuart of the Pirates keeps hitting long home runs around here day after day. They still talk about the ball he hit about 30 feet over the center field fence at the 457-foot mark the other day.

Just to make it a perfect day for Mays, the man who managed him in his early, tender years in the majors — Leo Durocher — was sitting upstairs, describing the blow to the nation's television fans.

43 Runs Are Scored in Waterford Loop

A total of 43 runs crossed the plate in two Waterford League softball games last night at Drayton Plains.

Despite making only four safeties, the Arrows walloped Lotus Lake, 13-6. Hoot Gibson smashed a three-run homer for the Arrows in the 6th inning and Mickey George socked a two-run triple in the 1st. Lotus pitchers issued nine bases on balls.

The Eagles trounced Hubert Walls Service, 17-7, in a game halted after six innings by the 10-run rule. Dick Hobson had three of the winner's 14 hits.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Missing those important short putts.

DIAGNOSIS: Inviting trouble.

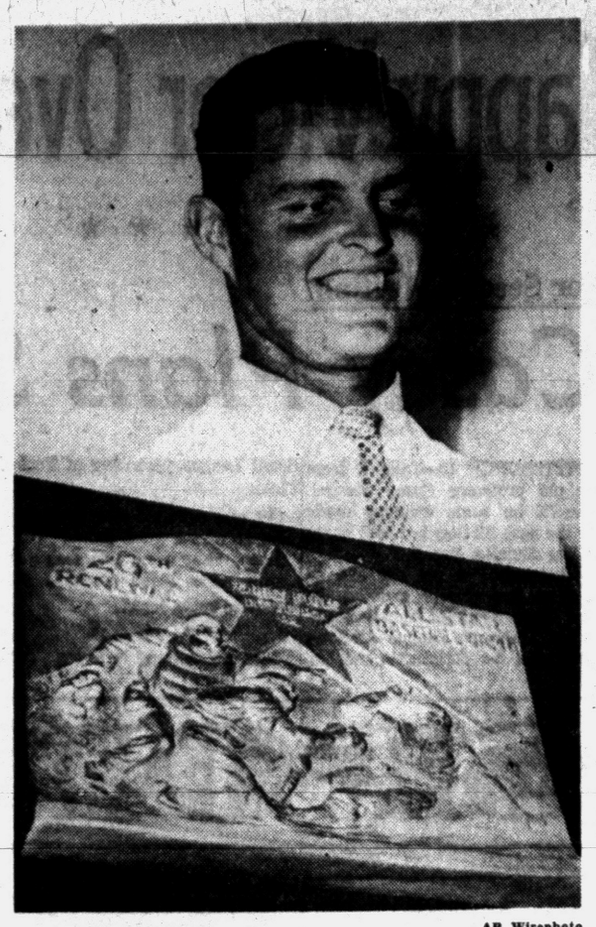

TREATMENT: I have seen many a golfer go along putting well enough until he was faced with an important short putt at a crucial stage of the match. Then presumably because he was so anxious to make good on this test of his skill, he departed radically from his normal putting procedure and set out to make a production out of the thing.

He surveyed the line two or three times as long and carefully as on earlier putts. He sought more advice from his partner or caddy. He stayed over the putt much longer than was his normal custom. And he missed the putt badly!

What he needed was a calm and resolute approach to what was basically a simple problem. Just when he needed to be free of tension, he deliberately acted in such a way as to increase his tension.

On all short putts—crucial or not—be calm and resolute. Get the line and judge the speed. Then step up and knock the ball in the hole. Never look ahead to what the scoring situation will be if you miss. This is strictly defeatist!

MOST VALUABLE — Don Drysdale of the Dodgers was wearing a broad smile in the NL dressing room after receiving a plaque as the most valuable player in the All-Star game. He retired nine straight batters as the starting pitcher, four of them on strikes.

Harper Hurls No-Hit Game

Pitcher Lloyd Harper of Blue Star Drive-In has enjoyed many moments of stardom on the mound this season, but he had his greatest moment last night at Beaudette Park.

Harper faced only 22 batters and hurled a no-hit, no-run game as Blue Star defeated Big Bear Construction 3-0 to steal the show in Tuesday's City League softball program.

Harper struck out eight men and permitted the Bears their only base runner in the 5th inning when he walked Clark Rouse with one away. Blue Star tallied one run in the 5th inning and two more in the 6th with Earl Bruske and Lou Barribeau delivering the key blows.

Wright's Upholstery made only two hits, but scored an unearned run in the bottom of the 6th inning to nose out the Moose 3-2. The losers had five hits. The Moose held a 2-0 lead until the 4th when Wright's tied the count.

In games at Northside Park, Harrison's Grill collected 13 hits, three each by Ron Geiger and Wes Roberts, for a 10-2 rout of the Autos of Europe, and Arro Realty trimmed Huron Bowl 7-4. Arro pitcher Art Weiss allowed only one hit, but he walked 10 men.

11th Michigan Mile Wide-Open Contest

DETROIT (AP)—Railbirds look for a wide open race in the 11th annual $50,000 Michigan Mile at the Detroit Race Course Saturday — at least at this moment.

Belleau Chief, a winner at Arlington Park Monday in 1:09 4/5, is due in tomorrow. He may be favored. But there are others, including Troubador II, a stakes winner in England, and Plion, a good number in 1958.

A number of expected entries have had to pass up the mile. One was Etonian, a recent runnerup to Round Table but which pulled a leg at Arlington.

Aussie Tankers Will Skip AAU

4 Races Opened Up by Absence of Rose and Henricks

LOS ALTOS, Calif. (AP) — Decisions by Australians Murray Rose and Jon Henricks to skip this week's National AAU swimming championships today opened up four races.

Rose won both the 400 and 1,500-meter events last year while Henricks captured both the 100 and 200-meter sprints.

The two Aussies attended the University of Southern California and last year represented the Los Angeles Athletic Club. This year neither is affiliated with the club. Rose has been training for two meets in Japan while Henricks has been working and is out of training.

Lance Larson, another USC swimmer, gives the LAAC strong representation in the sprints while youthful Gary Heinrich of San Leandro, Calif., could be the top threat in the 400 meters. He placed second to Rose in the indoor 100.

★ ★ ★

Competition opens Friday morning at the Fremont Hills Country Club with a trip to Japan awaiting the winners.

NEW YORK—Longest NFL punt in 1958 was by the Giants' Don Chandler who sailed one a distance of 67 yards.

Sinker Stayed High on Pitch Mays Slammed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "That Mays," muttered southpaw Whitey Ford after yesterday's All-Star Game. "He hits me like he owns me."

The Yankee pitcher referred to Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants who tripled off him in the eighth to drive in the winning run for the Nationals.

"Mays has batted against me four times now in All-Star games and hit me each time," Ford explained. "In the 1955 at Milwaukee he rapped me for two singles. At Washington the next year he walloped a long homer and here there was nothing short about the three-bagger he got.

"About this triple I'm the only one to blame. I tried to throw a low sinker. Instead, I fired a high fast ball. That was my big mistake."

Two No-Hitters in Junior Play

Nine-Inning Scoreless Game Tuesday Feature; B&B Beaten

A pair of no-hitters and a scoreless nine-inning contest featured yesterday's return to city junior baseball play.

Tom Zink fanned 13 and walked only one in one of the big mound efforts in an 11-0 Pontiac Boys Club romp over Lake Orion. Bob Goff and Bill Crawford helped make it easy with homers. Jack Brown of the Wild Dogs no-hit Emerson to win 5-2 in Widget action.

Pontiac Boys Club and Don Nicholie of Class D played the runless duel with Norm Hoffman matching two boys in allowing three hits. The trio whiffed 18. Lytell-Colegrove nipped St. Michael 4-3 in the other "D" tilt. Jim Hoke homered and had a single for the victors.

In Class F, Lynn Thorpe of Auburn Heights Boys Club scattered three hits to hand B & B Sewers its first setback, 2-1. Tom Laverdure three-hit Pontiac Boys Club for Northside Kiwanis in a 10-0 breeze. Jim Daniels socked two home runs for four rbi's. State Farm belted the Yankees 20-8, Uhan's won a forfiet, Westside Kiwanis walloped the Eastside Dodgers 23-8 and the Tigers downed the Little Eagles, 10-4.

J & R Auto Stores edged Tel-Huron 9-8, Weldon's got just three hits in a 14-13 nod over the Junior Jets winning on a wild pitch, and Independence Township blasted the Eagles 12-5 in Class E. Furtney Drugs beat Baldwin Evangelical 8-3 in the other Widget game. Paul Ronquillo hit a grand slam and Herm Ruple homered for the losers.

Majors to Hear Interloop Deal for Second Time

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A proposal to permit trading between National and American League teams without waivers between Nov. 21 and Dec. 15 of each year will be up for reconsideration at the major league meetings in Chicago on Thursday and Friday.

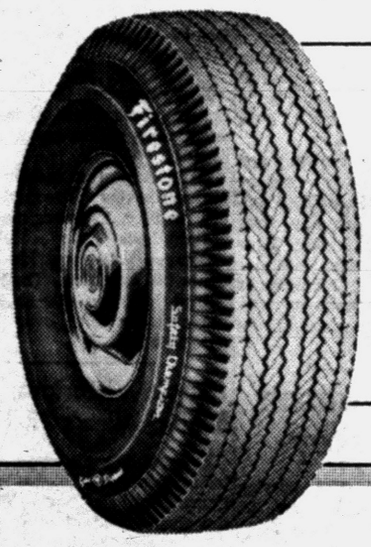

★ ★ ★

The proposal was approved last year but is coming up for a vote again this year at the suggestion of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who is against the plan.

★ ★ ★

Charles Segar, secretary of baseball, said a second item to come up at the major league confab this week will be how a one-million dollar fund approved for aiding the minor leagues is to be distributed.

He said these are the only two items on the agenda and there are no plans to discuss the possible formation of a third major league.

Teeing Off

By BILL CORNWELL

Art Wall Jr., the leading money winner this year on the PGA tour, recently remarked in a joshing manner "I sleep on my money." To which an associate replied "Don't you get nosebleeds at that altitude."

The elevation of Wall's pillow went up a little higher Monday when he stuffed another $9,000 into it after winning the 2nd annual Buick Open golf championship at Warwick Hills Country Club.

Wall had to go overtime to pick up the hefty chunk of 1st place cash, beating Dow Finsterwald by two strokes Monday in an 18-hole playoff after the two touring pros finished in a tie for the top spot at 282.

The way in which the 35-year-old Wall let the championship get away from him at the end of the regulation 72 holes tortured him all through that long Sunday evening and haunted him until he and Dow teed off to start the playoff.

Wall had the title practically in the bag Sunday afternoon when he stepped to the 18th tee. A par would have won all the marbles hands down and as it turned out, a bogey would also have turned the trick.

But the soft-spoken Wall with the apologetic voice and shy smile loused up the 18th but good, taking four blows to get on the green and missing a three-foot putt for a double-bogey six.

When Finsterwald followed Wall with a bogey five, the tie was produced and Art's horrible finish luckily did not prove fatal.

"I couldn't get that double bogey out of my head all night long," Wall confessed Monday after beating Dow in the playoff. "It was on my mind right up to the time when we began the playoff. But I made up for it this time, didn't I?"

Wall certainly did. He laced a 275-yard tee shot down the middle of the fairway and dropped a 5-iron shot 10 feet from the pin to take a regulation par four and take the burden off his tormented mind.

"Sinking that birdie four putt on the 1st green against Dow did a lot for me," Wall said. "It gave me that extra boost of confidence I needed to recover from that finishing six on Sunday."

Wall now has earned more money on the PGA tour by the month of July than any other pro golfer in history. His unofficial earnings are now in the neighborhood of $56,000 — a mighty nice neighborhood.

He has won six tournaments in the last 12 months and four this year in 20 starts. Art will rest for a while now and skip the Western Open this weekend in Pittsburgh. "I think I need a rest," Wall commented.

He will take part in some exhibitions in Pennsylvania, his home state, and Montana before returning to the tour. The way Wall has been playing this year, his return will probably be too soon for the rest of the touring pros.

Amateur Qualifiers Get Under Way

36-Hole Trials Will Cut Field to 63 Players

Glenn Johnson Seeks 5th Michigan Crown at Black River CC

PORT HURON — With defending champion Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile waiting on the sidelines, 285 of Michigan's finest amateur golfers waded into the first leg of 36-hole qualifying rounds today in the State Amateur golf championship.

Eighteen holes were scheduled today and another 18 are on tap tomorrow at Black River Country Club and Port Huron Golf Club as the huge field fights for 63 qualifying berths in match play.

Match play begins Friday and runs through Sunday over the Black River course with Johnson, exempt from the trials, being joined by the low 63 players for head-to-combat.

Johnson, one of the best match play golfers in state amateur history, will be gunning for his 5th Michigan Amateur crown this weekend. Johnson won the title in 1954, 1955, 1956 and 1958.

Pontiac's Lloyd Syron broke through Johnson's domination in 1957 to win the state crown at Charlevoix with a 3-2 triumph over John Kurach of Detroit.

Only peerless Chuck Kocsis, with six titles to his credit, has won the Michigan Amateur diadem more times than Johnson. Oldtimer Jimmy Standish won the crown four times in the first quarter of the century.

★ ★ ★

Eighteen of the 22 living Michigan Amateur champs will be on hand tonight for a special banquet in their honor. Nine of the past champions are entered in this year's tournament.

Besides Johnson, they include Chuck Kocsis, Sam Kocsis, Ben Smith, Fred Turner, Tom Draper, Lou Wendrow, Ed Flowers and Syron.

Non-competing champs who will attend this evening's banquet are Standish, Carleton Wells, John Malloy, Howard Lee, Dave Ward, Jim Barfield, Reggie Myles Jr., Bob Babbish and Ed Ervasti.

Six-time champion Kocsis will play in the 36-hole qualifiers, but he is not expected to remain for match play even if he should pass the trials. After his last State amateur victory in 1951, Kocsis said he would not compete again.

EYES FIFTH TITLE — Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile shoots for his 5th Michigan Amateur golf championship this weekend at Port Huron's Black River Country Club. Thirty-six hole qualifying rounds are scheduled today and tomorrow at Black River and Port Huron Golf Club, then the low 63 shooters will join Johnson in match play running Friday through Sunday. Johnson, as defending champion, is exempt from the qualifiers.

Lions Aim for Better Season

Open Rookie Training July 23 at Cranbrook; New Blood May Help

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions are getting after the job for 1959.

Head coach George Wilson huddled with his staff yesterday in the initial summer planning for the new pro football season in which the Lions will point for an improvement on their fifth place finish of last year.

Training camp opens July 23 at Cranbrook in suburban Bloomfield Hills. Rookies get first call. The veterans come in a week later.

New blood on the squad this year, including Notre Dame's remarkable fullback Nick Pietrosante, is the basis for promise that Detroit's fortunes will improve.

Wilson said the staff has come up with about 20 new running plays and new pass variations. Some of the new running plays are built around the plunging Pietrosante.

Mrs. Marquardt Wins in Playoff

Young Rider Captivates Show Fans

The Power of a Smile

By The Press Outdoor Editor

If one could call a serious young horseman, a "darling", the title of "darling of the show" would be an appropriate description of 12-year-old Robert Browne Schoene.

ROBERT SCHOENE

The handsome grade-school boy from Columbus, Ohio (photograph at left, with his palomino mare Pebbles) was accorded probably the biggest single ovation at the 42nd annual horse show at Bloomfield Open Hunt. His unaffected, engaging personality, reflected in his warm, happy smile, won the crowd's plaudits, although Robert finished 2nd in the green jumper knock-down-and-out event.

Robert has been riding for three years, gives promise of becoming a top-notcher in a few more years.

★ ★ ★

It is difficult to figure winners for the big jumper events in competition as strong as that at BOH . . . as Northville's peerless rider, Johnny Wallace has discovered . . . missed the top jumping honor on the final night, when Fearless Fred finished down the list, after making a strong early bid . . .equine personalities, weather, only two of many factors involved.

Veteran horse show photographer Carl Klein of N.Y. takes a summer vacation for the first time, after "shooting" 38 shows this season . . . "this (BOH) was a fine show, had a lot of young riders. That's good for any show."

WHAT TO DO ABOUT PESTICIDES, FISH, WILDLIFE

A U.S. Government agency (interior department), seeks legislation at Washington to expand the scope and value of current research on effects of pesticides on fish and wildlife. The ID wonders whether some are not too harmful.

Some have such effectiveness, says ID, that in doing away with pests they also kill, at times, woodcock, robins, fish, pheasant, wild turkeys, quail and rabbits, plus other wildlife.

There's a somber note from the big duck nesting areas in Canada and the Dakotas, regarding the duck picture for Michigan this fall. Drought has dried up three-fourths of the pot-holes where millions of ducks hatch and raise their young, annually. Low production, as indicated, certainly will bring restrictions for waterfowl hunting in Michigan.

DON'T STAND UP IN BOATS WHILE CASTING

There's one good way to tell the difference between a (at times dangerous) neophyte and an experienced fisherman. Just watch them casting from a boat. The knowing angler makes his casts while sitting. The other winds up and lets 'er fly from a standing position, because it's more difficult to work the first-mentioned way.

★ ★ ★

Mercury outboard people advise, "sit down and fish," and it's a good admonition, both technically and from a boat safety viewpoint.

★ ★ ★

Notebook jottings . . . Those cross-country motorboaters, John Hogg and John Dahl, are now in the Great Lakes, on their way to a transcontinental outboard journey . . . above normal early season rainfall gave area lakes a good start, but many are already feeling the pinch of hot weather evaporation . . . some good rains are needed, now.

FIGHT FOR LEAD—Two Pontiac neighbors, ardent fishermen both, today hold No. 1 and No. 2 spots in The Press' annual fishing derby's northern pike division. At left above is the leader, Winfred Baker, 1290 Stanley, who landed the 9¼-pounder he displays. Neighbor Harry Beasley, 45 W. Beverly, took the other fish, a 9-pounder while the two were fishing together at Schoolhouse Lake.

'Fish Derby' Speeds Up; New Pike Leader Listed

With only a quarter of a pound separating them, two fine northern pike have moved to the head of that division for the Pontiac Press 1959 "big fish derby."

★ ★ ★

Both leaders were taken within minutes of each other. Their captors are fishing pals, who were enjoying a day's angling on Schoolhouse lake.

The leader, a 9¼-pounder, was "horsed" into the boat by Winfred Baker, 1290 Stanley, an employe at the welfare building. Baker was using a cane pole with a minnow for bait. His prize put up a 10-minute battle. It measured 34½ inches in length.

Harry Beasley, 45 W. Beverly, Baker's companion, landed the 9-pound, 34-inch No. 2 fish.

"We're going back after some bigger ones," Baker promised after making his entry.

★ ★ ★

The contest gains in momentum, now, with some good entries in all divisions. A 6-pound largemouth tops the bass. Bluegill leader is a one-pounder.

Winner of each division at end of the derby, Sept. 7, will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Tecumseh Man Retains His Soaring Lead

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Johnson of Arlington, Tex., landed his sailplane on a beach in Rhode Island Tuesday night and won the distance flight in the National Soaring Contest.

Andy Smith of Tecumseh, Mich. stayed in first place in the overall standings with a 190-mile flight to Westchester, N.Y., Airport.

10-Buck Lodge Razed by Fire

Was Modern Hunting Quarters; Owned by Ten Pontiac Men

Pontiac's Ten-Buck hunting club today has only the dinner-bell left to remind it of its fine, modern lodge in the Mio-Curran area.

Fire from an unknown source completely leveled the 10-room, two-story log structure, erected in 1937. Loss is estimated at about $20,000, says A. G. Nicholie, one of the 10 area residents who comprise this well-known deer hunting group. Loss is covered by ($15,000) insurance.

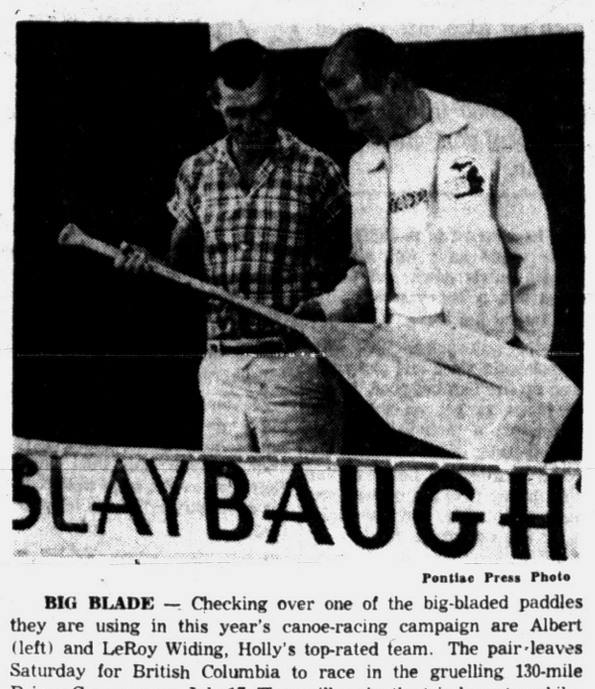

The loss was discovered June 25, when member Art Compton drove in the front yard at night, intending to stay over night. A heap of ashes was all he found.

The club may convene soon to decide whether or not to rebuild.

Goodwill Sets Pace in Race to Honolulu

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 161-foot schooner Goodwill today led an armada of 41 yachts on the fourth day of the 2,225-mile race to Honolulu.

The majestic Goodwill, largest in the race, was making the most of the wind. But on the important handicap ratings, the 50-foot yawl Kialoa, flying the pennants of John B. Kilroy and the Newport Harbor, Calif., Yacht Club, was leading.

Top Speedboats in July 11 Race

Nine of the country's top unlimited hydroplanes are reported ready for competition in Saturday's International Trophy Race on the St. Clair River.

They include winner of last weekend's Gold Cup at Detroit, Miss Supertest III of Canada. Others are Gale V, Such Crust III, Miss Detroit, Miss Buffalo, Yeller Jacket, Gale VI, Thunderbolt and Richochet. Race officials said today there was also a possibility that Nitrogen and the spectacular Maverick may come in.

Drivers, in order for boats already listed above, include Bob Hayward, Wild Bill Cantrell, Bud Saile, Chuck Thompson, Bob Schroeder, Leo Muctza, Fred Alter, J. Zigas and Chuck Doryn. Don Dunnington pilots Nitrogen and Bill Stead handles Maverick.

There will also be many entries for the 280 and 225 classes.

Lack of Ducks Gets Blame

'59 Season May Be Cut

By TOM McNALLY
Chicago Tribune Writer

The nation's waterfowl hunters should be prepared for bad news next month when the United States Fish and wildlife service announces the dates and bag limits for next hunting season.

Conservationists in this country and Canada feel the 1959 ducking season may be sharply curtailed as the result of poor waterfowl nesting on the Canadian prairies so far this summer.

Some waterfowl experts believe it may be necessary to shorten the hunting season or reduce the bag limit, or both. Still others are recommending that the season be closed entirely.

Following a recent ground and aerial survey of waterfowl production areas in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, a National Wildlife federation crew reported that poor nesting conditions "threaten to cut duck production to 1/5 of normal." Usually, those states contribute about 2,500,000 birds to the continent's waterfowl population.

Federally subsidized drainage projects and natural drouth are said to be the causes for below par duck breeding. Drought conditions are equally severe in Canada's prairie provinces, where the majority of the annual duck crop is produced.

A later than usual thaw in parts of Canada is another reason for poor waterfowl production, according to the fish and wildlife service.

"Millions of waterfowl, forced out of their ancestral nesting grounds by prolonged drouth, are being prevented from finding new nesting areas in Canada by an ice line that is breaking up unusually late," the service announced.

A final waterfowl survey—covering more than 2,2500,000 square miles of duck breeding areas—will be conducted early this month. Results of the survey will be weighted by the fish and wildlife service in fixing the shooting day and bag limits for the fall hunting season.

Day's Angling Pays Off ($20) for Ex-Kingfish

A recent day's fishing off Algonac, for Pontiac mailman William J. Brown, 110 Tilden, was doubly rewarding.

Brown and his son's father-in-law, Gomer Doakes, were trolling for pickerel when a big one hit Brown's flatfish-crawler combination. The battle lasted 10 minutes, when Brown boated a 5-pound, 13-ounce pickerel that later brought a $20 cash award as 3rd place in an Algonac tourney.

The lucky angler was the last of the "fish kings" who reigned over the once-colorful, now departed Oakland County Ice-Fishing Expedition.

Area Outboards in Grand Haven Race

At least two Oakland County outboard pilots will take part in the July 11 West Michigan Stock Outboard Marathon on the Grand River, at Grand Haven. Event is a 100-mile test with awards worth $5,000 for five divisions.

Gerald VanConant, 22, of Royal Oak, and Fred Miller, 20-year-old MSU student both seek triple honors for this season. Each has won two events so far. Miller won the Grand Haven A-utility title a year ago, is racing in B-utility this year.

You're the Skipper

Opening of the new Class D 27-megacycle citizens' band offers exciting new possibilities for radio-telephones on the smallest outboard motorboats, and for larger craft it can relieve much of the congestion on regular marine channels. These little sets are extremely compact, light weight and efficient. As the boating public becomes better acquainted with them they will grow in popularity.

An important feature of the Class D band is that it gives greater range and flexibility because it is less limited by line-of-sight characteristics. The older 450 megacycle citizens' band too often is plagued by dead spots.

The new service offers 22 channels available to the general public in the range from 22.96 to 27.23 megacycles, and a set can be bought for around $125, much less than a regular marine phone.

Only other items you need are a suitable ground plate on the bottom of the hull and a whip antenna which will resonate to the proper frequency. Installation is simple since the set comes already tuned.

★ ★ ★

Licensing also is reduced to the simplest terms. Form 505 comes with the equipment. It's only necessary to fill it out and send it to Federal Communications Commission, Washington 25, D.C. Any American citizen 18 years of age or older can obtain a license without examination. Younger persons may operate the equipment under supervision of an older licensee.

★ ★ ★

As soon as you receive your license and station call sign by mail, you can start using your radiophone.

A typical Class D outfit contains the transmitter, receiver and power supply all in one compact case measuring five and a quarter inches high, and six and three quarters in width and depth. Sets for boats or automobiles can be had for operation on 12 or 6-volt storage batteries, or they can be ordered for use with 115 volts alternating current at land stations such as yacht clubs, boat clubs or shore homes.

It should not be assumed that a Class D citizens' radiophone will meet all needs. For offshore cruising especially you will still require a regular marine phone if you wish to have channels available for calling the Coast Guard in an emergency, or for placing telephone calls to your home or office through land line connections.

But idle conversation is not permitted on the marine channels, and that's where the Class D phone comes in. Boat club skippers cruising together can be as gabby as they please, keeping in constant contact without violating FCC rules.

★ ★ ★

Questions and Answers

What is the reliiable range of a 27-megacycle citizens' band phone.

From 10 to 15 miles over water. The higher the antenna, the greater the distance, but the aerial must not be more than 20 feet above deck level.

How can a table-top radiophone be mounted to a bulkhead?

Drill holes in the side of the case and attach brass angle brackets, using self-tapping screws. Be careful to locate the brackets so the projecting screws will not interfere with internal equipment or wiring.

NO LIMIT—Unlimited conversation is being enjoyed by the young woman in the photo, over a new ship-shore radio installation. The compact, lightweight Class D Citizens Band radiotelephone is shown attached to the bulkhead at top.

Conservationists Study Extra-Cost of Licenses

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—The practice of charging non-resident sportsmen more money for a hunting and fishing license than residents of a state is getting some attention from thinking conservationists.

There is even a possibility that the practice may be discontinued in many other states.

For, some fisheries experts say, the practice is impractical when it comes to fishing licenses.

The custom has been based on the assumption that out-of-state fishermen come flocking into a state and catch all the fish that rightfully should belong to the resident angler.

However some surveys in the past few years have disproven this theory.

One reason why a re-evaluation of the non-resident license program might be in order, say the conservationists, is strictly economic.

Times are changing. Nowadays the tourist is a welcome sight rather than someone to scare away.

Morris Wins Honors in AHSC Shootoff

Compiling a 23-25 card for his round in the 10-way shoot-off for top spot in the weekend trapshoot at Auburn Heights Sportsmen's club field, Harold Morris of the Heights emerged the winner. Leon Hardy was runner-up with 22x25.

More than 200 shooters participated in the event. A similar shoot is planned for August.

MAY BE RECORD—A possible world record blue marlin was taken at San Juan, P. R., recently by John Widdowson a six-footer, shown standing beside his catch. Fish was 780½ pounds, compared to the listed record 760-pounder, taken in the same waters in 1956. The latest claimant to the record was taken on a 24-thread, 80-pound test line after a 2-hour fight.

Multi-Lakes Archer Bags 20-Pound Carp

John Burgess, Multi-Lakes Conservation Assn. archery addict, is also a very good shot. During a recent expedition to Kent Lake in Kensington Park, Burgess bagged two big carp.

The biggest was a 20-pounder, the other half that weight. Burgess uses a 48-pound pull bow.

July Deer Season for Coast Bowmen

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's archers will have 10 days starting Saturday to hunt deer with bows and arrows.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Monday signed an urgency bill providing for the special season.

The legislature passed the bill after the Fish and Game Commission decided to abolish the archery season on grounds it was "a special interest."

The bill also insures a 10-day archery season in 1960 regardless of what the commission says.

Coast School Signs Idaho's John Grayson

SEATTLE (AP)—John Grayson, 43, a coaching veteran of 21 years, yesterday was appointed head basketball coach at the University of Washington.

Grayson, Idaho State College coach for the past three years, said he received a "very substantial salary boost" in moving to Washington. He did not reveal terms or length of contract, neither did Washington.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails continued to rally early today as the stock market milled unevenly in active trading.

Gains and losses of key stocks went from fractions to a point or so.

Pennsylvania Railroad rose ⅛ to 19½ on a large opener of 6,000 shares. A string of other carriers posted fractional gains and Illinois Central jumped more than a point.

Waterford Set to Classify Jobs

Board Starts With Assessors, but Tables Rest of Task

At a special Waterford Township board meeting that lasted until near-midnight last night, members discussed township employe classification, and finally tables the project until Monday's regular meeting.

Only one classification was approved, with building department assessors starting salary set at $5,000, and after one year's experience, $5,250, with a top of $5,500.

At present, township employes have no specific wage-scale as far as seniority and experience is concerned.

Most affected will be the township fire department, according to Clerk James E. Seeterlin. In a long range plan, there will be an assistant fire chief, lieutenants and captains, employed as full time fireman, as well as the newly named fire chief.

The Firefighter's Association now elects its line officers, and many are volunteers not working full time.

In the over-all project of classifying township employes, some 50 persons from the administrative, police, fire, building, water, sewer and cemetery departments will be affected.

General Sales Head of Chevrolet Retiring

DETROIT (AP) — A man described by his boss as the nation's top car salesman, W. E. Fish, is retiring as general sales manager of Chevrolet.

Fish, 61, has served in the post for 10 years during which Chevrolet sold more than 16,500,000 cars and trucks.

Edward N. Cole, Chevrolet general manager, said Fish was one of the auto industry's "all time great sales leaders." Under Fish, Chevrolet led all competition in auto sales for 9 out of 10 years, and in 1955 the General Motors Division set a new industry record for total sales with 1,970,472 cars and trucks.

Fish will be succeeded by K. E. Staley, for the past three years Chevrolet's executive assistant general sales manager. Staley has served with Chevrolet for 30 years.

Saginaw Expansion to Create 800 Jobs

SAGINAW (AP)—A total of 800 new jobs will be created here by expanding one of four General Motors Corp. Saginaw Steering Gear Division plants.

William H. Doerfner, division general manager, said yesterday plant 4 on the city's eastern outskirts would be more than doubled with construction of a new addition adding 236,000 square feet of manufacturing space.

The division, which builds steering units for GM, currently employs about 4,200 persons.

Doerfner said the addition "will meet increased business demands and anticipated new business."

'Friendship Key to Peace': Nikita

Seven U.S. Governors Told Two Big Nations Must Be Chums

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev told seven American governors Tuesday that friendship between the United States and the Soviet Union is the key to world peace.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union "wants peace with all nations," but above all with the biggest and strongest — the United States of America.

"If there is friendship between us, there can never be war," the Soviet Premier declared in a 3-hour and 45-minute talk in the Kremlin with the U.S. state executives touring the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev said if another nation started a war, the Soviet Union and the United States together could halt it.

"But if the United States and the Soviet Union are ever in a conflict," he continued, "the result would be terrible calamity, because if we fight, no force on earth could ever halt us."

Asked by Florida Gov. LeRoy Collins, who heads the delegation, for a message for President Eisenhower and the American people, Khrushchev expressed hope for agreements on termination of nuclear weapon tests, a German peace treaty and settlement of the Berlin question.

Later in the talk, Khrushchev stood fast on Soviet demands for Germany and Berlin which the Western Allies have repeatedly rejected. He said both West and East Germany should be recognized and normal relations established, and that West Berlin should be made a free city guaranteed by all countries and the United Nations.

Asked by Gov. Stephen McNichols of Colorado why not allow the German people to decide their future in a free, all-German election, Khrushchev said the East Germans don't want to see an end to their achievements and neither do the West Germans. He added that the East Germans won't give up their constitution.

The West German population outnumbers 2-1 the East German.

Khrushchev said Soviet attempts to catch up with U.S. production "won't be depriving you of anything" — that increased Soviet production won't decrease American output.

"I have heard some complaints about our attempts to catch up with the United States," he continued. "We do want to catch up. You want to eat a lot only for yourselves, and that is a selfish approach.

Truck Runs Over Legs of Boy Who Leaps Off

Robert Willard, 8, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Willard of 3350 Buno Rd., Milford, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital this morning with leg injuries.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said the boy jumped off a garbage truck driven by Jerry Jerry Findlay of 35300 Freedom Rd., Farmington Township, at 13-Mile and Orchard Lake Rds.

The truck was backing up and ran over the child's legs, deputies said. The driver is an employe of the boy's father, who owns the Willard Sanitation Service in Milford.

Most New Stockowners in Past 3 Years Women

By FAYE HENLE

What's your image of the average stockowner?

Is it of a dapper chap, advanced in years, with a twinkle in his eye and a gift for easy money?

Or, is it of a crusty, crafty, tight-lipped old soul unwilling to divulge so much as the time of day?

If either is so, you are far out of focus when it comes to the real shareholder image, especially the new shareholder.

An amazing array of facts was unleashed by The New York Stock Exchange as it reported on their 1959 census of our shareholding population.

What amazed me was not so much the growth of this population—an increase of 45 per cent in three years to 12,490,000 persons—as the profile of the new shareholder.

The new shareholder is apt to be a woman; a woman who humbly lists as her occupation housewife. Of the newcomers to the securities markets in the past three years, 56.3 per cent are women and 32 per cent of them are housewives. Another 20.8 per cent, of the new arrivals, are engaged in sales and clerical jobs, 17 per cent are in professional or semiprofessional work.

The new shareholder is younger in years, yet has an income on a par with the average of all shareowners. Mull this one over. Translated, it points the way to the opportunities that exist for the younger person.

The largest concentration of the new shareowner is in the 35-year-old group, compared with 49 years as the average age of all shareowners. Since 1956, 46.8 per cent of all new shareowners range in age from 21 to 34!

Apparently confident of the future, the new shareowner's annual income is $6,900, fractionally lower than that of all shareowners. While more than 45 per cent of all shareowners have incomes of $7,500 and up, the largest concentration of new shareowners, 32.2 per cent, is in $5,000 to $7,500-a-year group.

While the average new shareholder has had at least one more year of formal education than his predecessor, this does not make him a college graduate but means that he has completed four years of high school. Of shareowners, new since 1956, 26.8 per cent are high school graduates and 25.2 per cent have completed four or more years of college.

How does one first become a stockholder? Almost half of all new shareowners walked into a broker's office and bought their shares; 27 per cent of them first acquired their holdings via employe stock purchase plans; only 13.9 per cent got stock via gift or inheritance.

While only one out of 12 shareowners owns mutual funds, the growth here in the past three years has been tremendous. Close to 10 per cent of the shareholding population now own investment company shares against 3.5 per cent in 1956.

Biggest surprise of all, perhaps, in this new data is the geographic location of new shareholders. Yes, they abound in the large metropolitan centers, but they are growing faster in the south central and south Atlantic states than in the traditional centers of finance, the middle Atlantic and New England states.

Science Fair Winner Tours Walter Reed Medical Center

Richard L. Serwin, 18, winner in the National Science Fair and Metropolitan Detroit Science Fair, left yesterday for a four-day tour of Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D. C.

Serwin was awarded the trip by the Army as part of his reward for his "Frostbite" project which won him third place in the overall field and first place in the Army Medical Awards at the national fair in Hartford, Conn., last May.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Serwin, 189 Oneida St., Richard was graduated in June from Pontiac Central High School.

As first prize winner, he had previously been given $50 for the purchase of scientific equipment. His project concerned the use of alcohol as a preventative of frostbite.

Serwin will tour research labs and go through every department at the hospital, guided by Army personnel, before his return to Pontiac Friday.

The youth, who last week, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship to the college of his choice by the Detroit Science Fair, said he plans to enroll as a pre-med student at the University of Michigan this fall.

Ford Set to Expand Highland Park Plant

DETROIT (AP) — A multi-million dollar plant expansion is planned by Ford Motor Co. at its Highland Park plant.

Merritt D. Hill, Ford vice president and general manager of Ford's Tractor and Implement Division, said the expansion would add 153,000 square feet of space to the plant.

Among the current products turned out at the plant are diesel engines, industrial tractors and tractor transmissions. The nature of the new products to be turned out at the plant were not announced.

Hill said the space would be used to develop and manufacture a diesel engine, two new types of tractors and a new tractor transmission.

It will give Ford "greater penetration in the farm and industrial markets," Hill said. He said contracts to construct the new plant space would be let this month.

The plant currently employs 5,073 workers.

Appeals Penalty From Lapeer

Ex-Attorney Asks U.S. Supreme Court Ruling on 1952 Suspension

LAPEER—The acrid legal strife that grew out of Lapeer County disorders in the '40s is rising anew in Lansing.

A former Lapeer County attorney, who drew a one-year suspension in 1952 stemming from assessment troubles in that county, served notice yesterday in Lansing that he is appealing to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The notice was filed in the State Supreme Court by Walter O. Estes, now of Lansing, who was penalized by a special three-judge court for unprofessional conduct.

The state high court upheld the suspension last February. Estes never has applied for reinstatement to the bar.

The case arose with failure of the Lapeer Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Assn. and subsequent assessments made as a result on certain Lapeer County farmers.

In all, 14 cases originating with these events were carried to the State Supreme Court.

Estes represented some of the farmers. In his notice of appeal, he contended proceedings against him violated constitutional guarantees of due process.

Poor Escape Route

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (UPI) —Dr. Arturo Gil Rendon called police to investigate the strange knocking on his wall in the nearby village of Jojutla yesterday. Together they watched as a hole was knocked through the doctor's wall and a man's head poked through it. Behind him were 18 other men, who had picked a poor route to escape from the jail next door.

Testify Hoffa Attempted to Chop Union Demands

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee heard testimony yesterday that Teamster President James R. Hoffa intervened personally to under-cut the bargaining demands of his union's eastern locals.

★ ★ ★

The testimony portrayed Hoffa as a one-man negotiating team who pared down the eastern demands at one point to prevent them from getting "out of line" with wages and conditions in his own central states area. Hoffa headed the central Teamster conference before becoming union president in 1957.

A management spokesman said he declined Hoffa's offer of cheaper terms than the ones the eastern locals eventually obtained because he feared acceptance would mean "underground and mob" control of the trucking industry in the New York area.

In a related development, two Teamsters from Yonkers, N. Y., said they would move for expulsion of international vice president John T. O'Rourke for helping finance an independent local competing for members with an anti-Hoffa Teamster local.

Another instance of alleged Hoffa attempts to undermine the demands of the union's eastern members was related by Joseph Adelizzi, director of the Empire State Highway Trucking Assn.

He said Hoffa offered the truckers a package deal of 17 cents for the first year and 8 cents for the second year. In the hotel room when Hoffa made the offer, Adelizzi said, were underworld figures Johnny Dio and Philip Weiss.

★ ★ ★

He said the truckers refused to "rise to the bait" offered by Hoffa because of fears it would mean underworld control of the New York industry. The truckers were subsequently forced to agree to the eastern locals' demand for a 25 cent wage boost, he said.

"We would have gotten a cheaper settlement," Adelizzi said, "but we didn't like the entry of Hoffa and his people into New York."

Pontiac Woman Injured as Car Rams Truck

A Pontiac woman, Velma Whiters, of 53 Hillsmont St., driving on a learner's permit, was injured when her auto smashed into a truck Tuesday afternoon, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Henry I. Hanson.

She was traveling east on Walton boulevard and attempted a right turn onto Adams road, in Avon Township.

She told Hanson that she intended to put her foot on the brake but instead hit the gas pedal. Her car smashed into a dump truck stopped at the intersection.

She was treated for minor head cuts at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

The truck driver, Samuel G. Fulks, 32, of 11260 Hall Rd., Utica, was uninjured, Hanson said.

Nikita Brutal, Says Harriman

Red Boss Talks Blunt; States Russia to Back Formosa Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—W. Averell Harriman describes his recent talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as "terrifying, shocking, worse than Stalin."

His account is carried in the current issue of Life magazine. The quotation, according to Life, was contained in Harriman's report to Washington.

Harriman is a former New York governor and a former ambassador to Moscow.

In his signed article in the magazine, Harriman says Khrushchev told him, in "blunt and brutal language" that:

"Your generals talk of maintaining your position in Berlin with force. That is bluff. If you send in tanks, they will burn, and make no mistake about it. If you want war, you can have it, but remember it will be your war. Our rockets will fly automatically."

Life also reported that Harriman told Washington that Khrushchev said the Soviet Union has shipped numerous rockets to Red China. These have been planted behind the coastline, according to the report, but have the range to blast the Nationalist fortress of Formosa.

If Red China decides to try to take Formosa, it can count on Soviet help, including direct military intervention — even if it means war—according to this report. Khrushchev also was said to have added that Communist strength is sufficient to destroy the U.S. 7th Fleet, now patrolling the Formosa Strait area.

Harriman said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will be just as stubborn and inflexible when the Geneva talks resume July 13 as he was before the talks adjourned.

Harriman declared he is convinced that there should be a summit conference, and that the West should seize every opportunity to deal directly with Khrushchev, "since he alone determines Soviet foreign policy."

Day-Old Bread? 33-Year-Old Wheat Just as Good

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI)—A research project here has proved that bread made from wheat stored up to 33 years can still make for pretty fair eating.

Tests by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Colorado State University showed that the thiamin and protein content of such bread was comparable to that made from freshly harvested wheat.

Dogs Rupture Discs Just Like Humans

BOSTON (UPI) — Ruptured discs, the uncomfortable complaint of many a human, affects dogs, too — particularly the longer ones such as dachshunds, cocker spaniels and pekingese.

★ ★ ★

About 75 per cent of the dogs that have ruptured discs in the neck region may get relief from a simple 15-minute operation developed by Dr. Eric Olson, a Swedish veterinarian. The operation has been performed successfully at Angell Memorial Animal Hospital in Boston and in several other clinics in the United States.

Five Are From Pontiac

28 Drafted Here in June

Twenty-eight Oakland County men were inducted into the Army in June through Pontiac Draft Boards 65 and 67.

Of the group, five were Pontiac residents:

Gordon R. Futrell, of 20 Stout Pl.; John M. Davis, of 248 W. Yale Ave.; Larry G. Johnson, of 435 Raeburn St.; Leon H. Inglis, of 461 S. Jessie St., and John A. Ihrke, of 389 Prospect St.

The others were Lance R. Nixon of Oxford and Ray A. Craighead of Clarkston, leader of the group.

Among those in the Board 67 induction group were David A. Harrington, group leader, Bobby A. Langdon and Frank Brostrom III, all of Orchard Lake.

★ ★ ★

Others were David G. Cameron of Avon Township; Harold G. Brown, John W. Hines, John G. Ryan Jr., and Robert V. Bailey, all of Milford; Arthur L. Burny of Lakeville; and James R. Jones, Charles J. Bellant, and Willard J. Cook, all of Waterford Township.

Also in the group were Jacob G. Drogosh and Daniel J. Spence, both of Rochester; Nicholas Robards of Pontiac Township; Orval G. Sowels of Lake Orion and Ronald E. Gornowicz of Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

Rounding out the inductees were Richard R. Barrow and Daryl L. O'Neil, both of Drayton Plains; Roger K. Moody of Holly and Donald P. Nelson of Farmington.

State Isn't Paying Bills

Contractor Threatens to Cancel State Pact

LANSING (AP)—A third threatened state contract cancellation, the largest yet, spread new anxiety today among state administrators trying to run Michigan with IOUs instead of cash.

They reported a rising clamor for money from state suppliers and servicemen unpaid since April 28, some of them on goods delivered or work performed several weeks prior to then.

The administrators have been particularly disturbed by uneasiness among suppliers of food and fuel for state institutions and their growing tendency to withdraw from bidding competition.

For example, officials at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson have been finding it difficult to arrange for meat deliveries.

The Henry de Koning Construction Co. served blunt notice yesterday that it planned immediately to pull its men off a $1,900,000 Boys Vocational School project at Whitmore Lake.

★ ★ ★

Later, De Koning telephoned A. N. Languis, state building division director, that he would not cease work right away.

Instead, Languis said, De Koning advised he was serving notice of intention to terminate the contract under a clause requiring seven days' notice in writing.

The Ann Arbor contractor, with an $820,000 contract for general work on the job, has been paid $410,000 so far but currently is owed $194,000 by the state.

"All I've been getting are promises," Languis related De Koning told him. De Koning has been paid for work done through March 31.

First word of the incident came during a State Administrative Board meeting on what to do if the Legislature delays supplying additional revenue to support 1959-60 state appropriations.

The Board ended up by cautioning all state agencies to go slow in spending first quarter allotments.

Controller James W. Miller said that unless new taxes were voted to support the higher spending level a 28 per cent cutback would have to be ordered in sums seemingly granted in appropriation bills.

"This is fantastic, horrible to think about," Miller told the Board.

Will Show Russians Good Furniture, Bowling

CHICAGO (UPI)—Russian visitors to the American National Exhibition in Moscow this summer will have an opportunity to try out the latest classroom furniture while they learn about bowling.

The exhibit is being sent to Moscow by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., which will supply the furniture as well as a film in which champion bowler Don Carter will explain the fine points of the game.

Dems Thought Bill Vetoproof

Housing Strategy Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) said today President Eisenhower's veto of the housing bill showed that Democrats had adopted the wrong strategy in cutting the measure down.

"It was supposed to be veto-proof when we sent it to him, but the proofing didn't work very well," Douglas told a reporter. "We would have done better to send him a stronger bill, to make the issue clear."

The $1,375,000,000 bill Eisenhower rejected Tuesday was cut down from larger programs passed separately by the House and Senate. But most of the cut was accomplished by limiting it to two years, leaving the annual spending rate much higher than Eisenhower asked.

★ ★ ★

Douglas and Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa), both advocates of broad housing legislation, said they hoped the Senate leadership would call for a vote on overriding the veto even if the effort falls short of the necessary two-thirds.

The Senate must act first on overriding because the bill originated there. The vote could come any time in this Congress.

★ ★ ★

As a practical matter, though, the issue probably will be decided soon. If the bill cannot be revived, Democrats made it clear they would get to work and draft some alternative housing legislation.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala), the party's Senate housing expert, emphasized they would not be in any hurry to do so, and that further hearings would be likely.

Eisenhower called the $1,375,000,000 bill extravagant and inflationary. But he also urged Congress to enact a six-point housing bill before quitting.

The President centered heavy criticism on what he called excessive provisions for urban renewal or slum clearance and on the inclusion of new low-rent public housing authorizations. He had proposed no new public housing units.

SUDDENLY THE FUTURE IS HERE

For 400 years men the world over have dreamed of the future of a great area of the North American continent, a future which would come from changing the face of the earth.

They dreamed that by a tremendous feat of engineering the St. Lawrence River would become the St. Lawrence Seaway, that thus the Great Lakes would become the world's eighth sea, and the whole Great Lakes area would become a center and source of world commerce such as you could hardly imagine the heart of a continent to be.

Now the St. Lawrence Seaway is open. The face of the earth has been changed. The dream has come true and suddenly the future is here.

What will it mean to our town? Can we keep pace with the future that has suddenly arrived all around us? We can do it by working together, solidly together on programs for the sound development of our community and the growth of business in our town.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Channing Now Chiding Tragedies in Musicals

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Carol Channing'll satirize Broadway's current "musical tragedies"—musical comedies without comedy—in her new night club act George Burns is staging . . . and in one number she'll become "Switchblade Bess."

★ ★ ★

Carol tipped me off to her spoof of the "West Side Story" type of show recently when I interviewed her.

WILSON

"We're rehearsing here at the Tropicana," Carol said the other day from Las Vegas. "We break it in in the Louisville Amphitheater July 15—gonna make damn fools of ourselves before 5,000 people!"

Tennessee Williams should love it. After the opening song, "This Is a Damn Fine Funeral," comes a ballad, "Love Is a Sickness." Switchblade Bess does a Charleston finally in the happy death house. Just a barrel of laughs.

★ ★ ★

Marlene Dietrich'll be glad to know that Carol will give up her popular satire of Grandma "Legs" Dietrich.

★ ★ ★

A woman phoned "Two For The Seesaw" and asked, "Would it be all right if I came to the theater in shorts?" Box Office Man Jack Pearl lectured her fiercely. "Next," he said, "they'll want to come in bikinis!"

★ ★ ★

From all the hullabaloo about Paulette Goddard going to Hollywood without clothes—due to shipping her wardrobe to Switzerland—you'd think she wore some.

PAULETTE

Paulette made movies in towels before Brigitte Bardot. Directors were always finding new ways for her to take a bath. She had that well-scrubbed look . . . only she had it all over. While making a TV film in Hollywood, she'll borrow clothes from her mother, who lives there, and borrowed them from her. Paulette needs clothes like Khrushchev needs an enemy.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Rita Hayworth's asked for an accounting of the supposedly fabulous Aga Khan estate on behalf of daughter Yasmine—and also warned Aly he'll never see his daughter as long as he uses diplomatic immunity to avoid paying support . . . Zillionaire J. Paul Getty squired Annabella around Paris . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor wants copies of all the tape recordings co-author Gerold Frank makes for her autobiography . . . Bing Crosby's pleased with his son's cafe act, figures the two who can sing can cover the two who don't do as well.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Walter Slezak tells of the hypochondriac who became a lush—but still insists that all his chasers be boiled water . . . That's earl, brother.

TUC Deadline Now Sept. 30

But State Lawmakers Must Change Stands That Killed Measure

LANSING (AP) — A proposal to extend temporary unemployment compensation to 31,000 of Michigan's jobless workers got a new lease on life last night.

U.S. Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich) sent word that Secretary of Labor Mitchell can authorize payment of federal TUC benefits till Sept. 30 if state lawmakers will pass enabling legislation.

Legislators all but wrote off any chance of passing a jobless pay bill last week when they killed the second of two measures authorizing the state to take advantage of a federal loan extending benefits for up to 13 weeks. They thought the deadline was July 1, start of the 1959-60 fiscal year.

McNamara, in a telegram to Gov. Williams, said the federal law requires the Legislature to make benefits retroactive to April 4, the day the extended program went into effect.

Whether lawmakers would take advantage of the new deadline was questionable. Neither Democrats nor Republicans showed any sign of backing down on arguments that tied the proposal in knots for three months.

★ ★ ★

"We probably would be willing to suspend House rules and revive the bill we killed last week if Democrats would agree to our amendments," said Rep. Allison Green (R-Kingston), House GOP floor leader.

The Democrats' answer was a flat "no."

Democrats want simple extension of benefits at a cost of about six million dollars.

Video Still Hasn't Found Way to Present Baseball

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Watching baseball on TV is a lot like watching a strip-tease. In each case, you don't get to see all that you think you're entitled to.

★ ★ ★

This certainly was the case yesterday when NBC-TV carried the 26th annual all-star game from Forbes Field in Pittsburgh, which the National League won, 5 to 4.

The one-dimensional approach of the TV cameras is what bugs me. They can show the pitcher-batter confrontation or the fielder-base runner relationship. Rarely do you see all of it at one time.

They've been televising ball games for a dozen years now and nobody has been able to solve the problem. I guess the answer is to have a camera in a helicopter over the ballpark.

★ ★ ★

Anyhow, Director Harry Coyle's camera crew yesterday showed viewers as much as possible. They used two cameras behind home plate — one almost on the field, the other in the stands.

Another camera was located over the center field wall and it could zoom in on the pitcher-batter-catcher scene.

Announcers Mel Allen and Curt Gowdy seemed to be trying very hard to avoid cliches and malapropisms and, in general, they succeeded.

I caught only one slip: when Gowdy referred to a player as "the ex-great Yankee." Both Allen and Gowdy were stuck on wrists.

★ ★ ★

Allen spoke of shortstop Ernie Banks' "powerful wrists" and a few innings later Gowdy called attention to outfielder Hank Aaron's "tremendous wrists."

Both players looked thin.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: A cigar sponsor has signed Ernie Kovacs as moderator of a new panel show called Take a Good Look, slated for ABC-TV on Thursday nights starting Oct. 15. Originating in Hollywood, this panel show will have present-day celebrities trying to guess identities of latter-day celebs . . . Jaye P. Morgan will be the costar with Tony Bennett on the NBC-TV Perry Presents hour starting Saturday, Aug. 1.

Next Saturday's replacement for Teresa Brewer, who was dropped on Monday, will be Gloria de Haven. Miss Brewer has signed for three appearances on the Ed Sullivan show starting in the fall.

★ ★ ★

Music for a Summer Night will present a one-hour version of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" on ABC-TV Wednesday, July 15. Elaine Malbin and Davis Cunningham will portray Cho-Cho-San and Lt. Pinkerton, respectively.

Public Hearing Set on Xway

Highway Department to Get Views of County Residents Tomorrow

Royal Oak's Dondero High School will be the scene tomorrow of a public hearing to let county residents have their say on what they think of the proposed route of the $50,000,000 Oakland County Expressway.

State Highway Department officials will start the hearing at 2 p.m.

They will present pictorial and verbal descriptions of the general path the long-awaited road is expected to take, and then open the floor to questions.

Expected to conduct the hearing is Irvin J. Rubin, administrative assistant to Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, and Ben Williams, director of public hearings.

Tomorrow's session could turn into a protest meeting because the road as laid out will cut into heavily populated residential and business areas. Hazel Park, Madison Heights and Royal Oak would be especially hard hit.

East of Pontiac, the proposed highway is to run in a north and south direction east of Opdyke road.

Eventually, the 6-lane expressway is to tie in with the Walter P. Chrysler Expressway planned on Detroit's east side.

Order Bob Burns' Son to Support Wife, Baby

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 20-year-old son of the late bazooka-playing comedian Bob Burns must pay $40 a week support for his 17-year-old wife and their infant son.

William Robin Burns testified at a Superior Court hearing Tuesday that he is trying to live on $53 a week he earns as a gasoline station attendant. But he admitted he can dip into an $11,000 trust fund left by his father.

His wife, who expects another child in November, had sued for separate maintenance. They were married two years ago and separated last month.

Mother of Twins in Quandary

How to Tell Them Apart?

ROYAL OAK — When the only difference between identical twins is a quarter of an inch in height, and you don't know the identity of the taller, how the heck do you tell them apart?

Identification beads around the neck?

"We tried that," said the mother, Mrs. Beatrice Stewart of 1318 S. Washington St., Royal Oak, "but Loretta Jean and Josephine Jane always were grabbing at each others beads. We were afraid they would choke, so we removed the beads and ever since then we have no way of knowing which is which."

The twins, born June 8, 1956, further complicated things when they responded to the same call.

★ ★ ★

"We never had any real problems with a lack of names for the twins," Mrs. Stewart said. "We just called them 'sister,' but they both answer so it doesn't make any difference."

★ ★ ★

In desperation Mrs. Stewart took the little girls to the Royal Oak Police and had their fingerprints and footprints taken. She said she would compare these prints with those on file at the hospital where the twins were born.

"As soon as we find out which is which," she said, "we'll be able to tell them apart because of their heights. But as insurance we'll have them vaccinated—one on the right arm and one on the left."

Long Session Hurts Wallets of Our Legislators

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Russell H. Strange Jr., 24 years old and serving his second term in the Legislature, ran a finger over the figures in his checkbook.

★ ★ ★

"I'll tell you frankly," he said after some fast calculation, "I'm not going to be able to pay my car insurance this month. If I can't get a postponement, I'm going to have to borrow from the bank."

Strange, Republican from Clare, is not alone in his financial predicament.

★ ★ ★

Increasingly criticized as they struggle futilely for a solution to state money woes, many of Michigan's 144 lawmakers now are getting hit where it hurts the most—in their own pocketbooks.

★ ★ ★

For those with no independent income, the price of holding public office often comes high.

The 1959 Legislature, now in its 114th day and just three days short of the record set in 1933, is taking a stiff financial toll.

Rep. Gilbert L. Wales (D-Stambaugh), an iron miner in the western Upper Peninsula when he's not writing laws, has cashed in all but one of his U.S. savings bonds bought with his mining pay last year.

★ ★ ★

"It takes almost every cent I earn as a legislator to live down here," he said. "My savings have supported my family. I figure I've already lost between $2,000 and $3,000 I would have earned in the mines if this session hadn't dragged on so long."

Cindy Likely to Be Season's 1st Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical storm Cindy, spawned 200 miles east of the Carolinas, appears likely to grow into the season's first hurriance, the Weather Bureau said today.

★ ★ ★

A hurricane watch was ordered for the area from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Charleston, S.C. Residents were told to ready themselves to move fast if hurricane warnings are issued.

In its 5 a.m. advisory, the Weather Bureau said the storm was apparently drifting erratically. It was located about 140 miles east of Charleston. Highest winds were estimated at 60 to 70 m.p.h.

Taking an apparent northward course, the season's third tropical storm was expected to generate winds today of 75 m.p.h. hurricane force.

★ ★ ★

Beaches in the Wilmington, N.C., area were washed by tides about two feet above normal.

★ ★ ★

Gordon Dunn, chief forecaster of the Miami Weather Bureau, said heavy rains would fall on the North Carolina coast south of Cape Hatteras. Tides, he said, would rise another foot or two by tonight.

The world's largest collection of ancient ruins is at Luxor, Egypt, about 450 miles upstream from Cairo. The ruins are of Thebes, which was the center of civilization from about 1600 to 1200 B.C.

Half the states rate the tourist trade as one of their three largest sources of income. In New Jersey and New Mexico it ranks first.

It is now estimated that one out of every eight tax dollars collected in the United States comes in some way from motor vehicles.

Animals Giving Railroad Plenty of Extra Worries

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—To say the Burlington railway lines are having trouble with animals would be putting it mildly.

On June 24, an armadillo wandered onto the tracks near Waxahachie, 35 miles southeast of here, and derailed a small motor-driven car. A train supervisor, Bill Moore, was bruised severely.

The same day, a rattlesnake slithered out of weeds near Childress, in the Texas Panhandle, and bit a section gang employe, F. A. Mitchell. He recovered.

Monday night, a tiger gnawed its way out of a cage in a baggage car as a passenger train neared Colorado Springs, Colo. Baggage men promptly turned the car over to the big cat until the train reached Colorado Springs, where they managed to shoo the tiger into an empty boxcar.

British Expect Boom in Car Manufacturing

LONDON (UPI) — British auto manufacturers are looking for a boom year. Delays in delivery currently range from three to four months for smaller cars to three to four weeks for larger ones as manufacturers strive to increase output.

Production has expanded steadily since the start of the year despite labor troubles in the industry.

Weapon-Car Sends 2 in Ditch

Driver Faces Dual Charge

A Detroit supermarket clerk was slated for arraignment today on a drunk driving charge and a possible charge of assault and battery.

Redford State Police said Joseph Bray Jr., 24, of 2840 17th, was released from Detroit Receiving Hospital this morning after being held there under a police guard last night.

Police said he played the lead role in a wild drive which began at Kensington State Park early Tuesday evening and ended in a ditch along West 10 Mile road near Beck road, Novi Township, around 7:20.

Bray's wife, Patricia, and a friend, Mrs. Geraldine Shoemaker, also of Detroit, who accompanied the couple with her two children, told troopers Bray had been drinking, and on the way home "was weaving has car all over the road, nearly causing it to roll over."

DROVE AT HER

The women said they asked him to be more careful. Finally, Mrs. Shoemaker got out when he stopped for a stop sign at Beck road. When she wouldn't get into the auto, she told troopers, Bray tried to "run her down."

She said she jumped into a ditch, barely escaping being struck by the car. A passing motorist, Leo Harrawood of Novi, stopped to assist the women.

Harrawood said he attempted to take the cars keys from Bray. After a scuffle, Bray jammed the car in reverse and shot backward. An open car door struck Harrawood, hurling him to the ditch.

Troopers said the car shot across the ditch and into a fence, swinging open Bray's door. He fell from the car and a wheel ran over him.

The others were uninjured. Bray suffered minor bruises. He was expected to appear before Novi Township Justice Robert K. Anderson today.

Flower Buckets Go Over Big With Thief Here

One of Norman Pattison's last acts as president of the Downtown Merchants Assn. was to push through the plan to beautify downtown with the flower buckets that now dot the business district.

Pattison, owner of Connolly's Jewelers, 16 W. Huron St., had two of the geranium-filled cedar buckets in front of his store.

Monday morning, Pattison discovered his flowers had been stolen over the Fourth of July weekend.

Pattison replaced them with two new ones at a cost of $6.50 apiece.

This morning, they too, were missing.

Pattison is not discouraged—he's ordered two more flower boxes.

"But I'm going to bolt them to the sidewalk this time," he said.

Milk Producers Charge Plot by Lansing Dairies

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Milk Producers Assn. (MMPA) today said two independent Lansing dairies are trying to prevent formation of an effective dairy farmers organization in central Michigan.

Glen Lake, MMPA president, said an announcement by Arctic Dairy and Heatherwood Farms Co. of Lansing they would pay 40 cents a hundredweight more for milk after Aug. 1 was meaningless.

Farmers would get the increase automatically with seasonal price rises, Lake said.

★ ★ ★

Even with the increase, Lake claimed, Lansing area farmers will get 40 to 50 cents less a hundredweight than farmers in MMPA-organized markets in Flint, Bay City, Saginaw, Jackson and Detroit.

State Dems Unimpressed

GOP Makes Tax Appeal

LANSING (AP)—Another Republican appeal for quick enactment of the GOP use (sales) tax bill, long stalled in the House, rippled the calm of the legislative stalemate over new taxes today.

But there was no sign it would get anywhere with Democrats.

Confronted by this discouraging outlook, many lawmakers resigned themselves to a session that might stretch into August and conceivably to Labor Day.

GOP leaders, seeing little sign of progress, polished up a resolution calling for the Legislature to adjourn from tomorrow till next Tuesday.

"And I see no reason to continue three day work weeks until there's some break in this deadlock over taxes," said Rep. Allison Green (R-Kingston), GOP House floor leader.

The latest plea for the use tax boost came from House speaker Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan), who said he would lay his cards on the table to Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski (D-Detroit, Democratic floor leader.

"Democrats say the use tax bill is unconstitutional," Pears said. "If they're so sure of this, why don't they let it pass and go to the courts for a test?

"If it's upheld, then we could enact some smaller taxes to bring the new revenue package to 140 million dollars or thereabouts. If it's thrown out, then the way would be clear for another tax program."

Bob Considine Says:

Must Better American-Philippine Relations

NEW YORK — Our relations are worsening with the Philippines, the only democracy and only Christian country in the Asiatic world, and the most loyal of our allies in World War II. If permitted to deteriorate much more, we will have lost not only a bulwark but, more importantly, a trusting friend in a part of the world now in the throes of a vast reaction against the Caucasian and his notions.

The Little Brown Brother is browned off at us. He is hurt. For four centuries under the Spanish and for half a century under us he lived off the fulfilled pledges and promises of the Great White Father. Now, prodded by a sense of independence, a hunger for what he considers just compensation, and the militant nationalistic voice of Sen. Claro Recto, the most articulate of the anti-American voices, the Filipino is asking questions which the U. S. Congress seems in no mood to answer.

He feels we owe him about $800,000,000 and that it isn't accurate for us to complain that we've helped the islands with a couple billions since independence. Double bookkeeping rears its head, he feels. But more than money is involved. There's a question of sovereignty, and pride. The constitution we provided for the Philippine nation requires its government to give Americans in the islands full and equal rights with Philippine citizens.

Foreign Minister Felix Berto Serrano and U. S. Ambassador Chip Bohlen are engaged in a delicate question whether when an American soldier who commits a crime in the Philippines, is on or off duty; how a Filipino can sue an offending American who has returned to the States; why the U. S. finds it easier to pack its bad ones home rather than let them face Philippine justice. The Serrano-Bohlen talks have not always been cordial, and the ambassador's brushes with Recto have been considerably less.

The fiscal rap against the United States boils down to this, earnest and worried Filipino friends tell me:

When Gen. MacArthur made good his historic pledge to return, he approved Executive Order 22, signed by President Quezon, guaranteeing Filipino servicemen pay equal to that of American troops and officers.

Secretary of War Stimson asked MacArthur to try to rescind the order. The general refused. Then Washington wouldn't back up MacArthur's revered "chop," or imprimatur, and the battered Philippine government had to shell out about $350,000,000 to make good the promise of the Great White Father. It wants it back because MacArthur signed as supreme commander of its forces.

Years earlier, a special broadcast by President Roosevelt to the beleagured Filipino freedom fighters had said, "Everything will be restored, down to the lowest nipa hut." It was a rallying cry which succeeded in strengthening the resolve of the Philippine people to resist the Japanese invader.

In time, Congress authorized sums covering 75 per cent of the value of property destroyed in battles between Japanese and Filipino guerrillas, in U. S. air-raids against Japanese-held strong points in the islands, and finally in U. S. and Filipino battles against Japanese positions. But prices had risen, and the appropriated money covered only 52.5 per cent of the placement cost. There followed a promise to make up the difference, and many Filipinos borrowed to rebuild, against the day when Washington would come through. Washington didn't.

Before the war, we exempted the Philippines from processing taxes on the sugar they sent to us. Since then we've been collecting such taxes, even though, by treaty, we said we'd never.

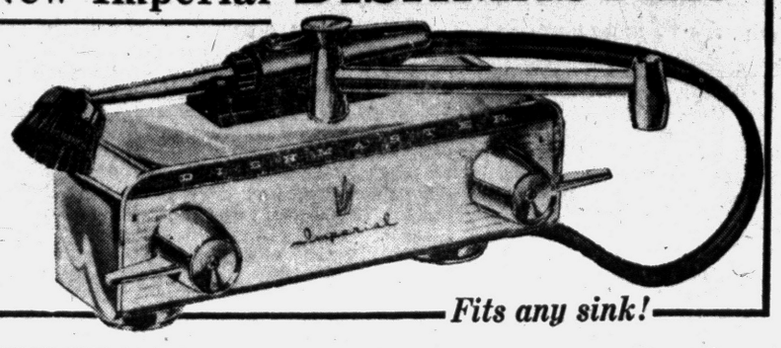

Veterans of Bataan and Corregidor and the hills complain that they were never paid for their years of penal servitude as POWs after capture or the salaries due them as part of the American Army assigned — by radio orders from MacArthur and Wainwright — to continue operations as guerrillas. In settling our account with a people who were terribly racked, we listed as a benefaction the cost of equipping them to fight—and die—for us.

The Philippines hope to expand industrially, rid themselves of the cross of an economy anchored to the whims of sugar and copra. The Import-Export bank, with the job of seeing that would-be debtors present only puncture-proof applications and pay up as soon as possible, has turned down a steel-mill deal which an American company wanted to put in the Philippines. The West Germans and the Japanese—of all people—now offer more liberal terms.

The Russians, naturally, are interested in the Philippines, too. So far they haven't gotten to first base. But they are very patient.
