Weekend of Tragedies

Planes, Trains Roads and Water Take Big Toll

SOMERSET, Ky. (U-P)—A day of pleasure riding in a rattletrap car ended in death on a railroad crossing for eight youngsters yesterday.

The youths had been riding around in the 1941 model car all day. Only minutes before the Southern Railway freight hit them, one boy, scared by what he called "some reckless driving," had left the auto.

Dead were Charles Allen, 13; his two sisters, Frances, 14, and Josephine, 15; Betty Bray, 15; James Richards, 16; James Calhoun, 12; Charles Simmons, 16; and Ronald Davis, 17. All were from Somerset.

Sheriff Gilmore Phelps said witnesses told him the car approached the crossing at about 35 to 40 miles an hour with a flat tire and a broken tie rod.

The car, dragged nearly half a mile by the train, burst into flames.

Five of the youths were pinned inside. Three were thrown clear.

The three girls had been picked up after a church meeting just minutes before the accident.

Car Falls on Track

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (U-P)—Three men and a 15-year-old girl, headed for a moonlight swim were killed last night when their automobile hurtled over an embankment, crashed onto railroad tracks and overturned.

Two other teenage girls were injured. Police said another group in another car were also on their way to a swim but had stopped for gas when the accident occurred.

Elias Polovchak, 21, Robert Liherack, 24, Harry Kostic, 32, and Constance Abbot, 15, were killed.

Katherine Abbott, 17, sister of the dead girl, and Shirley Hinds, 19, were in a hospital here, where their condition was reported as serious.

All were from Binghamton.

Ocean Surf Claims 5

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (U-P)—The deadly Pacific Ocean surf off Point Ano Nuevo took five more lives yesterday.

Four men and a woman drowned when their 26-foot skiff dragged anchor and capsized in the same area where two couples perished four days earlier.

A Coast Guardsman patrolling the beach for the two bodies still missing from the 26-foot Pen Jay, which swamped last Tuesday, found instead two bodies from yesterday's tragedy.

Washed ashore were the bodies of Odell Wyatt, 28, Santa Clara, and his brother, L. D. Wyatt, 35, San Jose.

Still missing were Odell's wife Velma, 25, a third brother, Arlie Wyatt, 42, Corcoran; and Fred Bobo, 39, Mountain View.

Trapped 36 Hours With Parents' Bodies

ALLIANCE, Neb. (INS)—A 17-year-old Cozad, Neb., girl was reported in fair condition today after spending 36 hours pinned in the wreckage of a small plane which crashed Friday night, taking the lives of her parents and the pilot.

Judy Dehl was rescued yesterday after a search plane spotted the wreckage in the lonely sandhill country of the Nebraska Panhandle, southeast of Alliance.

The girl, who was pinned beside the body of her mother, was said to have been in surprisingly good condition considering her ordeal. She had fractured legs and was suffering from shock.

Killed in the crash were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Dehl, and the pilot, Milo German, 35, president of Nebraska Plastics, Inc., of Cozad.

The girl said the plane crashed into a hill Friday night when they ran into a storm and were unable to locate the Alliance Airport.

9 American Airmen Killed in Italy

TREVISO, Italy (U-P)—Nine American airmen were killed and a tenth lay critically burned today after their Navy Neptune bomber crashed in flames while searching for a missing sister ship.

The P2V patrol bomber slipped in gusty winds and crashed yesterday 5,200 feet up on Mt. Pra near the Alpine resort of Sestriere close to the French frontier.

The plane was one of 20 U.S. and Italian aircraft hunting for another Navy P2V which disappeared Friday with 11 aboard.

A party of Italian mountain climbers saw the search plane fall. They pulled two living airmen from the flames that had burned away most of their clothes. The eight others already were dead.

One of the survivors died soon afterward. The other, described as about 19, was taken to a local hospital.

His condition was pronounced critical from burns of the face, chest and arms.

The plane crashed at noon, three hours after taking off from the U. S. air base at Aviano, near Udine.

American officials said the search plane was from Naval Patrol Squadron 23. They declined to make public the names of those aboard.

Expect to Join Sections at Straits Bridge Today

ST. IGNACE (U-P)—Weather permitting, the huge steel sections connecting the longest total suspension bridge in the world are to be locked into place today on the 100-million dollar Mackinac Straits Bridge.

Except for two 240-foot gaps from the main towers toward shore, the straits then will have been bridged for the first time in history. The gaps are expected to be bridged quickly once the final suspension section is in place.

The giant bridge, its 2,800-foot center span second only in length to the Golden Gate Bridge at San Francisco, is to be completed Nov. 1. The bridge's total length including approaches is just under five miles.

The job of lifting the 100-ton steel sections that will support a suspended four-lane roadway for 8,614 feet requires split-second timing and teamwork.

Each section, box-like in design, is lifted from a barge and locked to steel suspension ropes hanging down from the main cables.

The main cables, 24½ inches in diameter, provide the only support for the hoisting device that lifts the steel sections. Each section is 70 feet wide, 120 feet long and 40 feet deep.

The sections were assembled at St. Ignace and brought to the bridge on the barge. The barge anchored directly beneath the hoist for lines to be dropped and fastened to the steel.

Calm water and ideal weather conditions are important for the delicate maneuvering.

Cooler Temperatures Arrive With Rain After City Swelters in 95 Degree Heat

Cooler temperatures arrived today to help pull Pontiac area residents out of the giant-sized oven which has baked this area along with the rest of the eastern half of the nation over the weekend.

Thundershowers were forecast for today. They were expected to lower the mercury to around the 60 degree mark tonight. Tomorrow's prediction is for pleasant and fair weather with the temperature near 80.

A mid-morning rain provided some relief for this area.

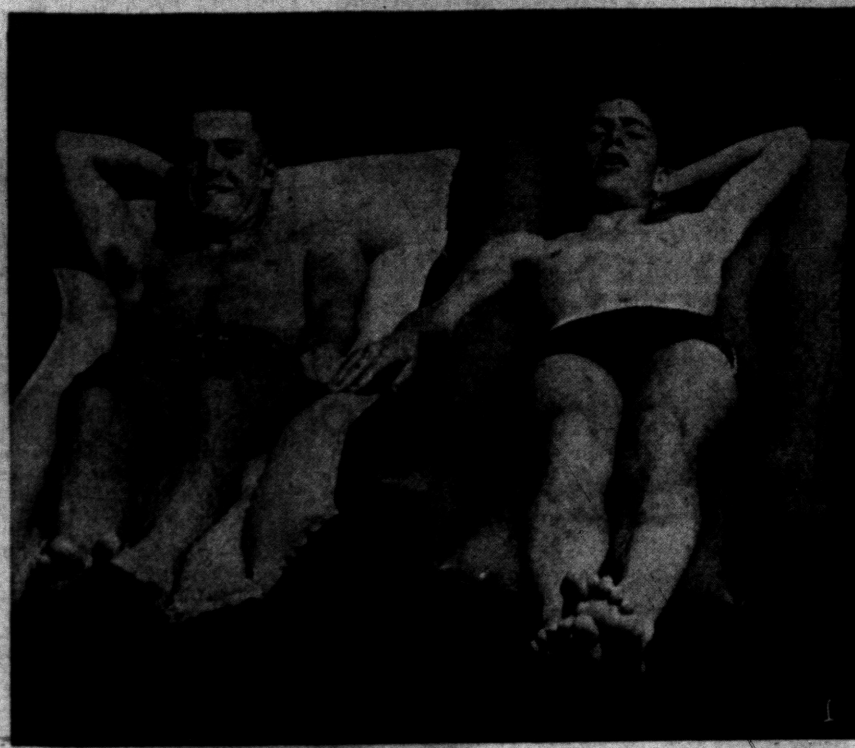

Yesterday's blistering 95 degree heat in Pontiac drove thousands of area residents to beaches and lakes. The same was true for Saturday, when the mercury reached 94.

Oakland County sheriff deputies reported county roads thronged with motorists seeking some relief from the hottest weekend so far this summer.

A 65-year-old Dearborn man, who drowned in Pontiac Lake, was among 21 drowning victims in the state.

Some eastern cities recorded sizzling temperatures in the 100's yesterday. Baltimore had 103, while Washington, D. C. roared in 101 temperatures, the highest reading in the nation's capital in three years.

Dodge Park No. 4 here reported it was "bursting at the seams" as 70,000 flocked there over the weekend.

LET IT BOIL.—With the mercury soaring to the (left), of 166 Cherokee Rd., and Bill Harrington, blistering point yesterday, these two Pontiac boys of 170 Cherokee Rd., floated undisturbed by the 90-plus heat in Elizabeth Lake.

Refuse Lie Test for Sheppard Man Drowns Until Sure 'Confession' Is True in County Lake

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U-P)—Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill said today Dr. Sam Sheppard would not receive a lie detector test until the "confession" of a Florida prisoner that he killed the doctor's wife is determined to be true.

The governor announced his position after a telegram from the unofficial "Court of Last Resort" headed by mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner, cast doubt upon the validity of a confession by Donald Wedler.

Wedler said he bludgeoned a woman during a burglary on the same night that Dr. Sam's wife, Marilyn, was killed in her Cleveland suburban home. Sheppard, who protested his innocence, is serving a life sentence for her slaying.

O'Neill, who last week gave permission for a lie detector test to Sheppard, changed his position after receiving this telegram from the Court of Last Resort, an unofficial body created to prove innocent those who may have been wrongly convicted.

"We are still not prepared to take as true the confession of Donald Wedler. But following our examination of him in Florida we admit to a growing conviction that he may well have committed the murder of Marilyn Sheppard. However, no one should for any final opinion on this man until there has been a lot more investigative work done and until there has been a psychiatric investigation.

"There are some important major conflicts between his story and existing fact. These conflicts may have been the result of drug reactions and attempts to rationalize his acts or just plain deception."

Washington (INS)—AFL-CIO President George Meany tells Senate rackets probes today what he knows about the use of union funds by two high AFL United Textile Workers officials to purchase homes.

Meany was summoned before the Rackets Committee by Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) to testify specifically about the use of $7,000 in union funds by UTW President Anthony Valente and d-Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Klenert to buy swank suburban Washington homes in 1952.

However, his debut before the committee is expected to develop into a broad look at organized labor's house cleaning efforts under the Ethical Practices Code adopted by the AFL-CIO in January.

The issues of Communism, corruption and hoodlumism in labor's hierarchy were expected to be raised by two Republican committee members—Sens. Karl Mundt (SD) and Barry Goldwater (Ariz.).

Both said they want to know whether the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Code actually is being utilized to cleanse unions of til-robbing strong-armed methods and pro-Red bosses.

The AFL United Textile Workers Union executive council last night adopted what it called a "wide-spread and constructive ethical practices code" on the eve of Meany's appearance to tell of his efforts to halt alleged misuse of union funds by the UTW's two top officers.

Man Drowns in County Lake

Hazel Park Woman Escapes Similar Death in Shallow Water

Two incidents in relatively shallow water resulted in the drowning of a Detroit man and the near drowning of a Hazel Park woman, as thousands jammed Oakland County swimming areas over the weekend.

Joseph Szabo, 68, of 4129 Tulane St., Detroit, was found Saturday afternoon floating face down in from three to five feet of water at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, in White Lake Township.

Township firemen were unable to revive him with a respirator, and he was pronounced dead from drowning by Dr. Leon Cobb at Pontiac General Hospital.

At Bob's Picnic Park, on Cranberry Lake, White Lake Township, Gertrude M. Hickey, 51, of 23336 Melville St., Hazel Park, escaped death.

Witnesses said she was wading when evidently she fainted, falling face down in the water. They rushed to her aid, pulling her body to the shore. The White Lake Township Fire Department revived her.

She was taken to Pontiac General Hospital and later released.

Dulles Speech Tonight to Cover Disarmament

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Secretary of State Dulles will deliver a 30-minute speech to the nation tonight detailing the U. S. position on world disarmament.

The talk will be broadcast nationwide on the ABC radio and television networks beginning at 8 p.m. (EST).

Summing up before the court martial board, the Air Force prosecutor traced U. S. military history from Valley Forge to Bataan and declared: "If we were to allow every airman to decide whether he should reject or obey an order, we would have a sorry group of people dedicated to our country."

Pot-O-Gold Still Without Taker at $1,800

Pot-O-Gold judges are really expecting big things this week, after nearly 12,000 entries for puzzle No. 53 came within just an answer or two of having the right solution.

A winner is almost certain to turn up in the entries for puzzle No. 60, so you'd better get started now—that winner might just as well be your entry.

Turn to page 19 for this week's puzzle. It's worth $1,800 if no winner is found in last week's entries.

SYDNEY, Australia (U-P)—Sydney had its coldest morning in two years with a temperature of 40.2 today. Other spots were even colder. The federal capital, Canberra, registered 25 degrees.

Prize Tab Up for August in Press Weather Contest

If our 90-plus temperatures have left you wilted, wait until the month of August arrives on the weather scene. During that traditionally torrid month the Press staff again will be eyeing the mercury's rise and fall in another Hottest Moment of the Month Contest.

And this time, instead of a $100 bond, the lucky winner in August's guessing bout will walk off with $200 in U.S. Savings bonds. The Press judges have decided that the stifling temperatures expected warrant higher contest stakes.

So there you are! Two hundred smackers just for the guessing.

Why not put your prognosticating power to the test and join the crew of amateur weather experts enjoying these suspenseful contests?

The same rules issued for the June and July contests will apply. Just address a post card with your own forecast as to the date, hour (a.m. or p.m.) and minute of August's hottest moment to:

Remember, you don't need to name the temperature.

Only one entry per person will be accepted, and all entries must be in the Pontiac Press Building, mailed or delivered in person, by the deadline at 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 31.

The decision of the Press judges will be final and in case of a tie, the prize will be split.

The contest is not open to Press employees and their immediate families; but otherwise all Press subscribers and carriers may participate.

Don't forget, the prize this time is double the amount offered the last two months.

weekend. Cars were strung out a mile-and-a-half from the park.

The Pontiac Lake Recreation Area reported 36,000 persons packed the beaches and waters there. Kensington Park near Brighton was invaded with a record 22,900 Saturday attendance, and 32,000 yesterday.

Area hospitals reported only a few heat prostration cases, but a rash of minor injuries from swimming mishaps.

Water pumpage in Pontiac for the two-day period was about 2.7 million gallons, Joseph W. Gable, water department superintendent, said. There was 18,510,600 gallons pumped from about 10 city wells.

The Eastern Seaboard, from Virginia to New York, sweltered also in the summer's hottest weather.

The Weather Bureau said there was some possibility of a little relief in northern Midwest areas but none in the sun-baked sections in the Middle Atlantic states southward through Georgia.

Some 40 persons in the nation were known to have drowned attempting to escape the oppressive heat wave.

A golfer collapsed and died on a course near Chicago, and in New York a man collapsed and died after a tennis match.

Back in Pontiac, the lowest temperature recorded in downtown preceding 8 a.m. was 73. At 1 p.m. the mercury registered 80.

High Drowning Toll Claims 21; 11 Die on Roads

Miscellaneous Causes Result in Death of Four Other People

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan paid a grim toll in human life in the flight to find relief from the heat over the weekend.

At least 21 persons drowned. The full toll of dead for the weekend was 36, including 11 in motor traffic and four from miscellaneous causes.

The drownings were among the greatest numbers in years for any weekend.

Loreno Turner, 12, of Inkster, drowned Sunday while bathing in Ford Lake in Ypsilanti Township.

Jack Dempsey, 35, Livonia, and Danny Buckingham, 5, Wayne, drowned in Belleville Lake in Van Buren Township Sunday when the boat in which they were riding capsized. Three other persons in the boat swam to safety.

Irwin Dellabough, 66, Ann Arbor, drowned in Huron River near Ann Arbor Sunday. The boat from which he was fishing overturned.

Albert Martin, 38, Wyandotte, drowned in Detroit River Sunday while bathing off Belle Isle.

Mrs. Vina Hahn, 53, Detroit, drowned in Detroit River Sunday when a boat in which she was riding with seven others capsized. The other persons in the boat were rescued.

Carlton Bennett, 57, Zeeland, was killed Sunday in a two-car collision three miles west of Holland.

Hugo J. Palo, 64, Virginia, Minn., was killed Friday night when his car hit a bridge abutment in Wakefield.

Catherine Skibo, 23, of Rural Crystal Falls, was killed Saturday night when a car overturned on an Iron County road.

Ferris Bryant, 31, an itinerant Mississippi cherry picker, was killed Sunday on Indian Hill Road in Benzie County. Deputies said he was the victim of a hit-and-run car.

Glen Eugene Andrews, 16, of Hessel, was killed Saturday night when his car overturned while he was attempting to pass another vehicle in Chippewa County.

Graham Taking Day Off to Rest

Crusade Will Return to Garden Tomorrow After Going to Stadium

NEW YORK (U) — Evangelist Billy Graham resumes his New York crusade in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Graham took yesterday and today off for rest.

The crusade, which had been extended through Aug. due to end last Saturday night, 10, The campaign started May 15.

On Saturday night the evangelist drew a crowd of 100,000 to an outdoor meeting at Yankee Stadium. The rally was the largest ever held by Graham in the United States.

The crowd was also the biggest ever to attend an event in the stadium.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was Graham's guest of honor. Nixon spoke briefly in a portion of the meeting telecast over a local station.

The vice president said the progress and strength of the United States have come about because the nation has always had "a deep and abiding faith in God."

Graham told the throng that the nation is in danger of destruction and that only prayer and faith can pull it through.

He listed communism and a push-button, hydrogen-bomb war as two great external dangers. Racial tension is a great internal source of trouble, he said.

He put most emphasis, however, on a fourth danger—"moral deterioration."

Blame Defective Brakes for Intersection Crash

Defective brakes caused an auto collision at Telegraph road and Orchard Lake avenue about 7 p.m. yesterday.

Alfred J. DuPont, 56, of 37 Edna Ave., told Pontiac police his brakes failed as he approached the intersection and tried to stop for a red light.

Norman A. Englesman, 30, of Lapeer was released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after treatment for possible head injuries.

Englesman was a passenger in an auto driven by Lillian E. Vinson, 48, of 105 N. Shirley St. The auto struck in the rear by DuPont's auto, according to police.

What is heat lightning? Why does one hear about it only in summer?

There is really no such thing as heat lightning, although this term is very old in the field of weather lore. Heat lightning, or what is called heat lightning, is merely lightning at a great distance.

Interestingly, the very name heat lightning indicates oldtimers thought it was a product of heat, because it occurred in summer. But it is only summer lightning at a distance. With windows up—as used to be the case in the summer in most homes—one tends to hear noises at a greater distance. So distant thunder in summer is often heard.

Moreover, lightning seldom occurs in winter, at which time windows are usually closed anyhow, so "heat lightning" is merely normal hot weather lightning at a great distance. It's flashes in the sky are visible on summer nights at great distance because the sky is often clear except for isolated thunderheads, producing the lightning far away.

Oakland Public Works Director Will Push Two Sewer Projects

Newly-appointed chairman of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, Harold K. Schone, promised today that top priority will be assigned to the proposed Evergreen and Farmington Interceptor sewer systems.

Schone resigned as Birmingham's city manager Friday night to become acting director of the new county department. He is scheduled to take over the $17,500-a-year county post Aug. 1, and has asked the Birmingham City Commission to relieve him of his present job as soon as possible.

Schone, a acting DPW director, will be in charge of planning and coordinating inter-community sewer and water projects.

The new department of public works is empowered to acquire, construct and operate sewers, storm drains and water supply systems.

Both the $3,000,000 Evergreen interceptor sewer and the $2,500,000 Farmington interceptor have been stalled for several years by the inability of townships to provide their share of the cost.

Another problem facing the DPW, Schone said, is the possible construction of a sewage treatment plant at the eastern end of the county to service Waterford, Avon township, Pontiac Township, and the city of Troy.

Oakland's water supply problem is a third area that may be explored by the department, Schone said.

If the Lake Huron water pipeline is approved and built, Schone pointed out, local governments will face the problem of linking up

Storm Drainage Waterford Topic

Estimates on Solution to Whitfield Estates Flooding Anticipated

A report by Johnson and Anderson Engineering Co. regarding the drainage problem in the Whitfield Estates subdivision will be discussed at tonight's regular Waterford Township Board meeting.

The subdivision was one of those most deeply flooded damaged in the township during the recent heavy rains, and it is expected that surveys and estimated costs for a drain will be presented for discussion.

Two new police cars have been lettered for identification on both sides and across the back, according to James Seeterlin, clerk. Estimated costs for signal domes will be presented to the board.

Estimated costs for a fence around the Waterford Cemetery on Dixie Highway will also be up for discussion, Seeterlin said.

The present wire fence is fall apart and consideration will be given to replacing it to preserve the century-old landmark for its historical value, he said.

Demand Examination on Entering Charges

Charles K. Markham, 26, of 22041 Colgate St., Farmington, and Roger J. Goers, 21, of 22141 Springbrook Dr., Farmington, demanded examination on charges of breaking and entering, Saturday, before Farmington Municipal Court Judge John J. Schulte.

Both were released after furnishing bond of $1,000 each, and the date of their examinations has been set at July 26.

Episcopal Church Closed Over Communist Issue

NEW YORK (U) — An Episcopal bishop ordered the closing of a feud-ridden Brooklyn church yesterday to prevent its "being used as a battleground."

Bishop James P. DeWolfe called for the closing of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity until the courts settle a bitter struggle within the congregation.

For nearly a decade the church has been divided over the alleged pro-Communist activities of the Rev. William Howard Melish, its former rector.

He has denied any Communist link.

The closing of the 110-year-old church "until further notice" was announced at the 11 a.m. service by the present rector, the Rev. Dr. Herman S. Sidener. The 107 persons at the service were stunned by the news.

A dozen Brooklyn police detectives were at the church. There were no untoward incidents, however.

A court order recently removed the Rev. Mr. Melish from the pulpit and upheld Dr. Sidener as rector. The ousted cleric is appealing the decision.

During Dr. Sidener's first service July 7 pro- and anti-Melish church members contested over collection plates. And at a "coffee hour" in the parish house that followed the July 14 service, Dr. Sidener was reported knocked to the floor by a pro-Melish member.

The recent history of Holy Trinity has been marked by the long service of Melishes. The Rev.

privilege of acting as a "court of last resort" in Ohio.

In a strongly worded statement, Judge Edward Blythin termed the test "nothing" short of fantastic and questioned the "ethics and propriety" of such a test by a non-official agency.

When shown a photograph of Wedler, Sheppard remarked: "I have a vague feeling this is the man who attacked me."

The osteopath, who has claimed his innocence all along, said he was twice knocked out by a "bushy-haired" intruder whom he blamed for his wife's death. But Wedler said he encountered a man at the murder scene whom he struck only once.

Judge Blythin, a former Cleveland mayor, was on the bench during the 10-week trial in which a jury convicted Sheppard Dec. 21, 1954, of killing his pregnant wife Marilyn. She was beaten to death July 4, 1954, in their home in Bay Village, a Cleveland suburb. Dr. Sheppard is serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary here.

Early School Change

ST. LOUIS — The kindergarten was made an integral part of the public school system here in 1872 and it is claimed this was the first city to take that step.

Dr. John Howard Melish, father of William, became rector in 1904.

In 1949 the elder Melish was ousted for supporting the alleged left-wing activities of his son, who had become his assistant rector at the church 10 years earlier. These activities included writing for the Daily Worker, the Communist newspaper.

The younger Melish from 1946 to 1948 was chairman of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. The organization was cited as subversive and Communist by the attorney general in 1947.

He has said he is trying to build bridges of understanding.

When the elder Melish was ousted, the congregation called his son to the pulpit. Bishop DeWolfe refused to confirm him as rector. But the younger Melish resisted repeated attempts at his ouster.

Airman Is Sentenced in Haircut Hassle

Prigden of Kingstree, S. C., told the court-martial Wheeler had disobeyed a lawful order in refusing to get the short trim.

Murray Sprung of New York, Wheeler's civilian attorney, argued that "under our system, he (Wheeler) has a right to question an order...including the type of haircut he wanted to get."

After the verdict, Sprung said the sentence was more severe than he had expected.

Maximum penalty could have included forfeiture of two-thirds pay for six months, six months' imprisonment and a bad conduct discharge from the Air Force.

The conviction and sentence will be reviewed automatically by higher Air Force authorities. The review could reduce the sentence or order a new trial.

Sprung said Wheeler had been scheduled to be reassigned to the United States in 20 days.

The Air Force also disclosed Wheeler had been convicted by a court-martial last February of failure to report to his place of duty. On that count he was reduced from airman second class to airman third class and forfeited $50 in pay.

The "white sidewall" haircut order challenged by Wheeler was given him while he was a member of the now disbanded Far East Command honor guard in Tokyo. The guard served at flag-raising ceremonies and other military functions, Air Force officers testified the shaving of the hair above the ears of honor guard members was intended to give them a uniform appearance.

Wheeler was taken to an Air Force stockade pending the review of the conviction and sentence. The $200 fine was ordered subtracted from his pay at the rate of $50 a month for four months.

Members of the court-martial board were Lt. Col. Thad S. Strange, Union, S. C., the president; Maj. Frank E. Mitchell, Tecumseh, Neb.; Maj. Phillip Benzell, New York City; and Capt. Shubert Dingus, Kingsport, Tenn.

Kerry Richardson, 5, Detroit, drowned Sunday when he fell into Newburg Lake near Livonia while on a picnic with his parents.

John Janis, 17, of Port Huron, drowned Sunday in Lake Huron while fishing from a sandbar off Port Huron. The Coast Guard recovered the body in six feet of water. Janis apparently had stepped into a hole.

Frederick Wallace Burr, 27, of Grand Blanc, drowned Saturday in Baseline Lake, Livingston County, on a swimming party. The body was recovered Sunday.

Four-year-old Regan Reynolds fell into the Coldwater River near his Alto home Sunday and drowned. The body was recovered.

Daniel Kern, 17, Yale, drowned while bathing in a gravel pit about five miles east of Mount Morris Sunday night.

Loses Control of Car, Strikes Tree, Pole

A Farmington man, Loyal James Barber, 28, of 33679 Colfax St., was injured Saturday night when the car in which he was riding went out of control, hitting a tree and utility pole.

Harold L. Williams, 30, 3558 Alida St., Rochester, the driver, told Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car.

Barber was treated for minor head and arm injuries, and released from Pontiac General Hospital. The accident occurred at Crooks and Avon roads, in Avon Township.

Commission to Discuss Resignation of Manager

BIRMINGHAM—Formal discussion of the resignation of City Manager Harold K. Schone will be among agenda topics at tonight's city commission meeting.

Schone announced his resignation last week to assume the post as acting head of the Oakland County Department of Public Works. In extending his thanks to the city and expressing his regrets at leaving the local post, Schone said he felt the change would be beneficial to Birmingham as well as other area communities in that his new office would include considerable work on proposed inter-community sewer systems.

He asked commissioners to hasten the appointment of his successor so he may take over his new duties the first of next month.

Other items to come before the commission will be a street vacation hearing concerning Buckingham road and vacation of an alley running west from Edgewood between Bird street and 14 Mile road. Commissioners also will consider a complaint of a flooded area two blocks north of 14 Mile road and immediately east of Woodward ave.

Samuel Jess

Private services were held this morning from the Manley Bailey Funeral Home for Samuel Jess, 88, of 1613 Buckingham Blvd., who died yesterday.

A native of Scotland, Mr. Jess would have been 89 tomorrow. He was a retired mining superintendent, and a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Calumet, Masonic Lodge Royal Arch Masons of Calumet, the Commandery Knights Templar and Shrine of Marquette.

He is survived by his wife Catherine, three daughters Mrs. E. Palmer Shelton of Oklahoma, Mrs. W. F. Thomas of Birmingham and Mrs. Floyd J. Barkman of Texas, a sister and a brother, both of Scotland.

Robert E. Doyle

Robert E. Doyle, 55, of 1076 Pierce St., died suddenly at his residence yesterday. A member of the Holy Name parish, he was district sales manager for the steel and tubes division of the Republic Steel of Ferndale. He was a member of the Birmingham Golf Club.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia, three children, Catherine, Nancy and Michael at home, a sister and two brothers.

Rosary Services will be at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Manley Bailey Funeral Home with funeral services in Holy Name Church at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Interment will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Local Elks Lodge Given Top Honor for Programs

The Pontiac Elks Lodge has received top honors for its Flag Day and Americanism programs from the annual Elks convention in San Francisco, according to County Clerk Lynn D. Allen, who heads up committee.

The exalted ruler of the local lodge, Robert Morris, is attending the convention on the West Coast.

This year the lodge sponsored a Flag Day dinner, with J. Addison Wagner, last year's national commander of the American Legion, as guest speaker.

Other events included a patriotic presentation by Oakland County 4-H club, honoring of newly-naturalized American citizens of the Pontiac area; and presentation of a U. S. savings bond to the winner of the flag-flying contest.

Allen explained that every year the lodge selects the outstanding flag flown from a Pontiac home.

Mr. Gordon, 71, died at his home 1308 Davis Saturday. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was an accountant and office manager for Stainless Wares of America of Walled Lake. He was a member of Birmingham Lodge No. 44 F & A.M., Knights of Pythias, Zenith Lodge, Royal Arch Masons 152 and OES at Ishpeming. He is survived by his wife Meriam and two sisters.

Partially Close Lake After Finding Bomb

MOUNT CLEMENS (U) — Because a 100-pound aerial bomb of World War II was found in the water, a part of Anchor Bay in Lake St. Clair was closed off to the public today.

Selfridge Air Base, while saying there apparently was no danger, ordered part of the waters "restricted," and a search of the waters was undertaken.

Three boys, sons of airmen at the base, found the bomb in shallow water about 100 feet from shore yesterday.

An air base spokesman said the bomb, 30 inches long, apparently had been dropped from a plane in practice maneuvers. The bomb was described as "inert."

With the report of the boys' discovery, an additional small mystery developed.

A base boat put out to search the waters and came upon an old fuse from another bomb of the same type. The fuse was found a half mile away from the place where the bomb was found.

Find DDT Killing Fish in Union Lake

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies, headed by Sheriff Frank W. Irons, discovered why fish have been dying in large quantities during the past few days in Union Lake.

Irons investigated the situation Saturday and today reported the fish died from a DDT compound used to spray trees in the area, compound had settled into the shallow waters, making them temporarily unsafe for small fish.

Hundreds of small fish were found floating on the surface Friday by Dr. S. A. Heyner, of 7056 Willow Rd., and his neighbor Pat McIntosh, of 7030 Willow Rd.

Dr. Heyner reported taking a wheelbarrow full of fish from the water in front of his home.

Valley Forge Is an Ideal Location

Returning from the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, the Boy Scouts of our own Clinton Valley Council not only experienced an outing they never will forget, but got it in intimate touch with one of our nation's most hallowed historical shrines.

Their locale was one of the best on the grounds. They were camped almost within a stone's throw of some of the cabins where the heroes who won our independence spent a gruesome winter, and where GEORGE WASHINGTON later designated as the one spot in the Revolution where he almost lost heart.

No Michigan delegation had a better location than Clinton Valley. Its unique, original and truly representative entrance dominated anything in the Region Seven area, composed of over 6,000 Scouts from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. It was the only entrance to tell the local story in detail, both in word and illustration.

Inquiry as to the location of any council in the region generally brought a response as to their direction from Clinton Valley.

Our tents were in perfect order, the chow accommodations were tops, a general spirit of good will prevailed, and the men in charge quickly ferreted out a homesick boy and put him at ease. They made him one of the gang.

The natural amphitheater for the opening pageant at the Jamboree very comfortably accommodated the 55,000 Scouts and the thousands of special guests, and everybody had a good seat — on the ground — with an unobstructed view of the enormous stage. The world never before had such a gathering.

The ground was covered with grass, and was not a dust bowl, as was the case at the last Jamboree which was held near Los Angeles.

Held every three or four years, this was the second time that Valley Forge has been the site for the Jamboree. On both occasions the entire Philadelphia area went all out. Nothing was overlooked.

While its geographical location is not conducive to the fostering of a large attendance from the western states, it would seem that Valley Forge should be the site for at least one-half of the future get togethers of the largest youth and manhood building organization in our nation.

Regardless of where it may be held, it is assured that our own Clinton Valley Council will be there in the full numbers of our quota, which this time was filled several months in advance. And we know of Cub Scouts who already are saving their pennies, in order to be ready to grab this great opportunity as soon as it is offered.

Manpower Report

A final report of the National Security Training Commission headed by Brig. Gen. SARNOFF, gives a hopeful picture of the military manpower setup.

The Commission says the military reserve training program is a success. Before World War II the U.S. had 400,000 men in the reserves. Now there are about 2.5 million ready reservists, of whom one million are in active pay status, plus 700,000 standby reservists.

The Army Reserve and the National Guard total 678,000, an all time high. A year ago enlistments for six months' active duty with a long period in the reserves, were only 1,000 a month. Last April they had grown to 4,000 a week.

Now that recruitment is adequate, leadership and training must keep pace with military developments. This is where our greatest weakness appears. Some of the best officers and enlisted men return to civilian life because pay is not geared to talent but to seniority. Thus the cost of their training and their services are lost to the country.

In the CONGRESSIONAL study of this loss, it was pointed out that offering incentive pay to specialists would allow savings of up to $5 billion by 1962 or before. The necessity for training new men in critical technical skills to take the place of those who leave the service, would be eliminated.

The report also stressed the fact that 500,000 men had to be kept constantly in training to maintain a flow of skilled men for effective combat and support force of 2.3 million. This, of course, is due to the loss of skilled personnel on completion of the service period—only 10 per cent of the "expensive-to-train-skills" re-enlist.

Defense Secretary WILSON said legislative proposals to implement changes had been worked out carefully after discussions with President EISENHOWER and had the unanimous approval of service secretaries and the Chiefs of Staff.

Why, then, is Congress ignoring this essential step in improving the balance of personnel skills and experience in the armed forces?

David Lawrence Says:

Civil Rights: History Repeats Itself

WASHINGTON — Three words—"Let Us Forget"—might well be included conspicuously among the millions of words being recorded in the Senate debate on the so-called "civil rights" bill.

Will history repeat itself, and will Congress again tamper with the machinery of local elections under the guise of protecting the right to vote? Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, Democrat, in his speech in the Senate the other day, referred to comprehensive reports to the House of Representatives by its own committees in 1933 which tell the shocking story of what Federal intervention in local elections means and why Congress repealed them the very same type of statutes now being proposed for passage.

There is a significant analogy to present-day events. The Federal intervention took place not alone in the South, but in other regions, under laws known as "force bills"—passed in the emotional days that followed the war between the states.

Federal agents and deputy marshals and supervisors were appointed to guard local elections—to insure "purity of the ballot." Scandals ensued. The House of Representatives chose the New York City area to examine how these laws were being applied. Here in part is what the investigating committee formally reported to the House on January 27, 1933:

DID NO GOOD—IN 1933

"Your committee, after a very careful study of the operations of the Federal election laws before election and on election day in the City of New York, are of the opinion that all of these laws have entirely failed to produce any good results in the direction of the purity of elections or the protection of the ballot box, and have been productive of such serious and dangerous results that they ought at once to be repealed."

Later in the year, a report was submitted to the House by the committee to which the various bills for the repeal of the statutes had been referred. It said:

"How then can the United States, marshals... scrutinize the registration—a condition of suffrage in many of the states—when the right of suffrage emanates from the state itself and the state alone can determine it?"

"Finally, these statutes should be speedily repealed because they mix state and Federal authority and power in the control and regulation of popular elections, thereby causing jealousy and friction between the two governments; because they have been used and will be used in the future as a part of the machinery of a political party to reward friends and destroy enemies; because under the practical operations of them the personal rights of citizens have been taken from them and justice and freedom denied them; because their enactment shows a distrust of the states, and their inability or indisposition to properly guard the elections, which, if ever true, has now happily passed away."

This report emphasized that the wording of the Constitution gives only the state legislatures the right to prescribe the qualications of voters. Congress was impressed and repealed the laws.

Today a majority in Congress are proposing to set up a civil rights commission with the power of subpoena, and also a civil rights division in the Department of Justice which is to have the use of tens of thousands of FBI agents in getting evidence for prosecution.

If the Federal government goes into the business of inquisition or supervision, one political party or the other will find it advantageous to demand that the machinery of inspection be used to its own advantage. The end result will be the same as it was 65 years ago. (Copyright, 1957, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Dr. William Brady Says:

Need Water, Vitamins During Heat, Humidity

June 17 was a warm day. There were rumors of temperatures as high as 95 to 100 here and there, and these rumors demoralized most of the country so much that many citizens remained in the shade while some hardy souls exercised as usual — no casualties.

But it is only fair to say that a temperature of 87 or 90 is harder to endure in the Northeast than a temperature of 95 or 100 in the Southwest, because "it isn't the heat, it's the humidity."

DR. BRADY

One, and perhaps the main reason why very hot weather is harder to endure in the Northeast than in the Southwest is that sweat evaporates rapidly in dry air, slowly in humid air. Evaporation of water from the skin surface of a porous water bag cools water in the bag.

One who is at all active in hot weather naturally sweats profusely. This excessive sweating is obvious if the atmosphere is humid and scarcely noticeable if the atmosphere is dry.

Walking, working, playing in very hot weather, one may lose pounds of weight in an hour or two—the weight of the water lost in sweat. The weight is restored in an equally short time by drinking water to satisfy thirst.

DON'T RESTRICT INTAKE

It is practically impossible and certainly unwise to attempt to maintain such weight reduction by restricting water intake.

When sweating is profuse, whether from hot weather or from vigorous exertion or both, it is well to remember that not only water but also salt and some vitamins—particularly the B vitamins—are lost in sweat.

Therefore one should take some salt, say five grains, with every pint of water or other liquid taken for refreshment. Also some B vitamins, in addition to the B vitamins (usually inadequate) one gets in food.

At my favorite bowling green, there is a refrigerator and a supply of ice water. Out on the walk between the greens there is a drinking font. In very hot weather a drink from the font is, in my judgment, intolerable, when I know ice water is on tap just a few steps away.

But my preference for ice water is not shared by many—I'm not quite sure whether they fear ice water might cause some dreadful stroke or interfere with digestion or maybe close the pores.

Oddly enough, some of the men who will not take ice water do not hesitate to drop coins into the dispenser for ice cold pop! They seem to think that doctoring up ice water makes it healthful.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Shift of Scene Shatters Illusion

Praises Girls for Kindness

A fine group of girls from Bell Telephone brought great joy to the heart of Mrs. Emaline Leonard, 124 Henry Clay, who celebrated her 98th birthday yesterday.

These girls, who have been assisting Mrs. Leonard for many years in making her telephone calls, telling her the time of day and so forth, planned a beautiful birthday party at her home. They knew her on the phone, but wanted to see and know this remarkable lady who has retained so much alertness of mind and fire of spirit. She demonstrated her ability to sing and to tell stories that provoked hearty laughs.

I wish to pay the highest compliments to the telephone company in staffing its organization with young girls and men who have not only efficiency, but who are so highly endowed with those qualities that brought happiness to Mrs. Leonard that will remain with her as long as she lives and that make everyday life a thing of beauty.

Horror Lingers On in Louisiana

Still Counting Hurricane's Casualties

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 20 (AP)—In the still lingering horror of Hurricane Audrey the cold accounting takes place. The dead and missing: over 500. The dollar loss: over 40 million.

Sheriff Henry Reid, in his latest report on the ravaged Cameron area, said 328 bodies had been recovered and 190 persons reported missing. The missing total probably is larger. Whole families may have drowned. Transient workers may have drowned. Unless their bodies turn up, they will not be reported.

There were other deaths outside of Cameron Parish. At least five died elsewhere in Louisiana. Texas reported 11 deaths, including nine who drowned when a boat sank offshore.

The biggest money loss involved Louisiana crops. Sidney J. McCrory, Louisiana agriculture commissioner, estimated the state crop loss at 26 million dollars.

The General Adjustment Bureau, Inc., which handles insurance claims, said the June 27 hurricane brought 50,000 claims. This meant a total loss of 11 million dollars in insured property.

In the Cameron area, 600 buildings were destroyed. Also heavily damaged were the oil well rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. Some estimates place these damages between three and five million dollars.

McCrory also placed the state livestock loss at 35,000, valued at more than two million dollars.

In Texas, hurricane Audrey did little harm to livestock and crops. The rice crop was not far enough advanced to be hurt.

But the Texas Department of Public Safety estimated property damage at six million dollars, with Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange receiving about one million dollars damage each. The General Adjustment Bureau said the insured property that was lost totalled $1,500,000.

Happiness Eludes the Queen of Iran

In June 1956, dark-eyed and lovely Soraya Esfandiary-Bakhtiari was a carefree schoolgirl in London. Nine months later, she was Queen of Iran, the wife of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. The tale of how these two met and fell in love is straight out of a story book. But despite their love, happiness eludes them. Here, in the first of three articles, begins their story.

By CHARLES WIGHTON
(International News Service)
Doctors in a half-dozen countries have tried to find the answer to a question upon which depends the success or failure of one of the greatest royal love matches of the century. The 36-year-old Shah of Iran has told them he must know why he and Soraya, his lovely 25-year-old wife, have had no children.

For a crisis is boiling up in Iran over the absence of a royal heir.

Rumors of a divorce have been rife for some time. Soraya has told her friends: "They are just nonsense. The Shah loves me just as much as I love him."

Now the Shah's family and the Moslem priesthood are urging him to take another wife. As a Moslem, he can legally have four wives. But he knows that that would break Soraya's heart. And so great is their love that he cannot bear to do that.

Soraya, determined to save her marriage, has seen many specialists. Last year one, a Russian, said he could find no reason why she could not have children. He suggested that perhaps the Shah—although he is the father of a 16-year-old daughter by his first marriage to Farouk's sister—was to blame.

So now they have both volunteered to undergo clinical tests and Kinsey-like probing into their intimate life in a desperate attempt to save their marriage.

The story behind this royal romance began in London in June, 1950. Dark and rather plump, 18-year-old Soraya Esfandiary-Bakhtiari—daughter of a beautiful German diplomat—was at a finishing school.

One morning she received a letter from her mother saying that the Shah's eldest sister, Princess Schams, was arriving in London and that it was likely Soraya would be invited to call on her.

Soon another letter came. It was an invitation to have tea, with Princess Schams in her suite at the Savoy Hotel.

Soon after four the following afternoon Soraya presented herself at the reception desk of the Savoy and asked for Princess Schams.

As she was shown into the princess' sitting-room, she curtsied and started to say: "Your Royal Highness. This is a great honor."

The princess, dark, good-looking and in her late twenties, quickly cut Soraya short, saying:

"We are both strangers here in London, and we are both Persians. Don't let us stand on ceremony. I am going to call you Soraya, and you will call me Schams."

Soraya was entranced and soon the two girls were chatting spiritedly about London.

Soraya was hardly out of the hotel when Princess Schams booked a call to the Royal Palace in Tehran. There the Shah was waiting.

"Well, Schams," he said, "What is she like? Is she as beautiful as her picture?" "She is far more beautiful," answered the princess. "And she is clever too. She is definitely the most attractive girl I have ever met."

The Princess told of their chat and finally the Shah said, "So you are going out with her tomorrow. All right, I'll call you tomorrow night for a report. But be careful, Schams—go slow and don't on any account alarm her."

As Soraya talked excitedly with school chums that evening about her new friend she did not know that their meeting had been planned with the purpose of bringing her and the Shah together.

The Shah told Princess Schams to get Soraya a complete outfit from Dior in Paris. He would foot the bill, but Soraya must be told that everything was a gift from the Princess.

So over lunch the Princess suggested to Soraya that they should go to Paris.

Two days later the two girls were installed in a suite in Paris' Hotel Crillon. Each morning the Shah phoned his sister to hear more about Soraya.

One day early in July the two girls were at breakfast when his call came unexpectedly early.

The Princess answered, and looking at Soraya, said: "Yes, Machmed, she's here... we're having breakfast together."

"What does she look like, Schams?" asked the Shah in Tehran. The Princess looked at Soraya who by this time had realized that Schams was talking to her brother about her. "She's blushing Machmed—like a rose," laughed Schams, "and she looks prettier than ever."

The modest Soraya turned scarlet with embarrassment and rushed from the room in confusion.

After the call the Princess led the half-angry, half-curious Soraya back to the breakfast table.

"There's no use pretending any more, Raya," she said. "My brother saw your photograph and he was fascinated. He sent me all the way to Europe to see you... and Raya... I think he wants to marry you."

Soraya, weeping, angry and half-hysterical, fled back to her room. As she flopped on to her bed the thoughts must have raced through her mind... she... an 18-year-old girl... to marry a man she had never seen... He was king of Iran... And she was to be Queen. Half-sobbing, she eventually fell asleep.

(Tomorrow: Soraya and the Shah meet)

MRS. DONN R. SHELTON

To reside in Pontiac are Mr. and Mrs. Donn Raymel Shelton who were married Saturday. The bride, the former Barbara Ann Zuege, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David O. Zuege. Mr. and Mrs. Carol Shelton are Donn's parents.

Couple to Live in Pontiac Following Milwaukee Rite

A chapel-length gown fashioned with a chiffon taffeta bodice and tulle skirt was worn by Barbara Ann Zuege for her marriage Saturday to Donn Raymel Shelton. A taffeta apron outlined with Chantilly lace accented the skirt.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was secured by a lace shell hat embroidered with seed pearls, and she carried a cluster of orchids, stephanotis and carnations.

The Rev. Thomas B. Lyter of Washington Park Presbyterian Church in Milwaukee, Wis., performed the 7 o'clock ceremony in Bethel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Milwaukee.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

Barbra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Zuege of Wauwatosa, Wis., asked her sister, Mrs. Jack Kole, to serve as matron of honor. May Nelligan of Lansing and Kim McIver of Brimley were bridesmaids.

The attendants were gowned alike in waltz-length dresses of white eyelet over powder blue taffeta. Cumberbunds of blue taffeta accented the waistlines of the gowns.

Blue and white carnations and Eucharist lilies arranged on white lace fans were carried by the attendants.

Donn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Shelton of Detroit, was attended by Larry Kobylarz as best man. Seating the guests were Mario Contreras of Detroit, David Zuege of Wauwatosa, Wis., brother of the bride, Jack Kole of Wauwatosa and 2nd Lt. Edward C. Pardon of Ann Arbor.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

A reception was held at the Wauwatosa Women's Club following the ceremony.

The newlyweds will reside in Pontiac following a wedding trip through northern Wisconsin and Michigan.

Both are graduates of Michigan State University School of Journalism. The bride is affiliated with Mortar Board, Theta Sigma Phi, Kappa Tau Alpha and Alpha Xi Delta societies. Donn is a member of Sigma Delta Chi and Excelsior.

Keep Supply of Canned Food Handy

CHICAGO (INS) — Dress up a pickup meal and it will hit the spot on a hot, sticky day. For example, a lazy Susan can make an assortment of iced fruit, cold cuts and garden relishes look pretty instead of haphazard.

From the revolving tray, the family can choose individual fixings to make a base of crisp salad greens more rib-sticking. Round out the meal with soup and dessert.

Look ahead to days that will be sizzlers when spur-of-the-moment meals are the only spur left to appetites. Keep a supply of foods like canned ham, luncheon meat, beans, spaghetti, anything which can be eaten either cold or quickly heated to fit the taste buds.

Also, keep canned fruits as well as fresh fruits in the refrigerator for summertime meals. Fruits can serve as the focal point of a light meal with soup and a sandwich or start off a heartier meal.

The latest trick of home economists is to slice an assortment of fresh fruit—for example bananas, pineapple and apples—into a dish and cover with a carbonated beverage. The soda water helps keep the fruit crisp, helps to slow down discoloration and adds a tangy flavor.

Your favorite casseroles will come in handy for summertime meals, too, if they can be prepared in advance, stored in the refrigerator and then popped into the oven for supertime. That way your family will have a hot meal and you can avoid feeling as if you were cooked along with it.

She's Glad to Be Going Back Home

But Stay in Capital Was Interesting for Mrs. Humphrey

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Mrs. George Humphrey, wife of the retiring secretary of the Treasury, isn't concerned about the problems of moving their Washington household belongings back to their home near Cleveland, Ohio.

"It's not too difficult when you're moving back to a place you've lived in some 25 or 30 years," she explained. "I haven't even started packing."

VERY REWARDING
Gentle-voiced, friendly and unassuming Pam Humphrey, one of the most popular of the Cabinet wives, says their stay here has been a "very rewarding experience."

"But I can't honestly say I'm sorry to be going back to my family," she admitted, "and it certainly will be easier than living half in one place and half in another."

Mrs. Humphrey says they will remain in Washington until Congress adjourns, making only occasional weekend visits to Holiday Hill, their farm near Cleveland. Their three children and eight grandchildren all live nearby.

"It's lovely in Cleveland in the summer," she said wistfully, "but, except for brief visits, we've spent most of our summers here. As you know my husband has been kept very busy."

Maurice Rentner designed this late-day costume (left) in black velvety wool. The slender dress is topped by a fitted jacket trimmed with ermine collar and cuffs. Larry Aldrich presents a simple shirtwaist dress (center) which takes on dramatic impact when it is embroidered all over in shiny black sequins. Oleg Cassini shows newness in line and conception in this evening gown (right) of clinging chiffon with draped front panel caught beneath a bustline band of rich brocade.

Pearl S. Buck Won't Retire -- Not at 65!

By OLGA CURTIS
INS Women's Editor

NEW YORK (INS) — America's greatest woman novelist, Pearl S. Buck, is "starting a new life" at 65.

"I'm not retiring," smiled the author of "The Good Earth" and some 45 other books. "When you're self-employed, you have to keep on working."

"But I'm starting a new life. I'm writing plays for the first time. And I'm writing different books; I'll always have China in my books, but the new ones will be centered in the United States." Miss Buck, the only American woman ever honored with both the Pulitzer and the Nobel prizes, told International News Service her "after 65" plans for writing and living in a rare exclusive interview.

She's a big woman with long white hair twisted into a bun, green-blue eyes and regal pose, but she talked as shyly as a novice might about her coming debut as a playwright.

"I have one original play with an American background scheduled for Broadway this fall," she said. "Another original play about China is going to be produced off-Broadway in October. And I'm also writing a musical based on a story of India."

With unbelievable energy, Miss Buck is at the same time writing a new novel, running a 400-acre Pennsylvania farm, and an 18-room house, tending her family and continuing her work for retarded children and orphans of mixed blood. For relaxation at her Bucks County home, she prunes roses, plays the piano or the organ and cooks Chinese foods.

"I don't spend any time on anything I don't like," she claims. "That's the secret of my enjoyment of life."

Children rank first on the list of what Miss Buck enjoys in life. She's had 11 of them—two daughters from her first marriage to missionary John L. Buck, three stepchildren from her present marriage to publisher Richard J. Walsh, and six adopted children, the youngest a Chinese girl of 11. "Only the children are allowed to disturb me when I'm working," Miss Buck laughed. "I usually get up early, about 6 a.m. I start working about 8 a.m. and keep working without interruption until 1 p.m. Afternoons usually I answer mail and take care of the farm business."

"I'm a serious worker. I won't even take phone calls until 1 p.m. but the children can come in anytime."

Her love of children also explains her two pet projects. She says simply:

"Children of mixed blood need to be adopted. Any child should be adopted by the persons who most want him and can take best care of him, not by the old tradition of matching up religions and races."

"As for retarded children, my eldest child was retarded. I know how much we need research into the causes, so that we need not have as many retarded children born."

Mrs. Buck hopes "to see a great deal of progress in the next 10 years" not only on behalf of children, but on behalf of women.

"I believe in women," she smiled. "Especially the women of the United States. But they're in a transitional stage; just beginning to think of themselves as citizens and human beings. They're fearful of responsibilities beyond family and home, but they must take on those other responsibilities for themselves and their communities."

The novelist does not believe responsibility means "running in groups or doing ineffectual work." She explained:

"I think instead of working to collect money for charity, for instance, women should put their energy into working for laws and conditions that would eliminate the need for charity."

"Every woman should do what she does best," Miss Buck added.

The best-selling author said "competition is so meaningless" to her that she doesn't even keep a count of her writings.

"I write them and forget them," she laughed, admitting that when her newest book, "Letter to Peking," was snapped up by Warner's for a movie, she didn't even take a morning out from the play she was writing.

The latest novel, like her other works, involves China, where she spent 40 of her 65 years.

Born Pearl Sydenstricker in Hillsboro, W. Va., on June 26th, 1892, the writer was taken to China as a child by her missionary parents. She herself was a missionary for many years, and did not return to the U. S. until she was in her 40s.

Miss Buck has no plans now for visiting China.

"I haven't been in China for 20 years," she said. "What with war, and Communism,

Class of '97 Holds Reunion at Old Mill

Members and guests of the 1897 graduation class of Pontiac High School gathered at Old Mill Tavern on Friday for luncheon. The gathering was the sixtieth reunion of the class.

Following luncheon members spent the afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Whitfield on Williams Lake.

Out of town members of the class present included Mrs. Kate Jewell Orr of East Branch, Mrs. Mabel Thorpe Smith of Flint and Mrs. Kate Hall Blakeley of Detroit.

Bridal Shower Held for Evelyn Skrine

Evelyn Skrine was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower given Thursday evening by Mrs. Jack Van Impe of Gage street. Twenty-four guests were present.

The bride-elect will marry Airman 2nd class Don Shelton in August.

Shower Is Given

Mrs. Raymond Bell of Drayton Plains entertained for bride-elect Shirley Geyer with a linen shower. Seventeen guests were present for the Friday event. Shirley will become the bride of Jerry Fredricksen on Aug. 16.

Personal News of Interest

Mrs. Don L. Bailey of Mary Day avenue left on Friday from Wayne Major Airport to join her husband who is stationed with the U. S. Army in Kaiserslautern, Germany. They will make their home there for the next one and one-half years.

Arriving home on Tuesday is Joel Thome of James K boulevard. Joel spent the past five weeks in Pittsburgh, Pa., as percussionist with the American Wind Ensemble during their engagement there.

Mrs. George Wasserberger entertained 12 friends at luncheon and an afternoon of bridge on Friday in her home on Illinois avenue.

Mrs. J. L. Wells of St. Petersburg, Fla. arrived Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Moreau of East Iroquois road. Mrs. Wells, a former Pontiac resident, will spend several weeks visiting with the Moreaus and other friends.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Ray Meiser and Mrs. Howard Losee will entertain at a bridge luncheon in the Harper street home of Mrs. Meiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Parrott of Drayton Plains announce the birth of a daughter, Brenda Sue, June 29 at Pontiac General Hospital.

Maternal grandparents of the infant are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walters of Grandview boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smith of Irwin avenue are the paternal grandparents.

A daughter, Janice Lynn, was born to Lt. S. William Barnett and Mrs. Barnett of Willmar Air Force Base, Willmar, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie M. Barnett of Onida road are the paternal grandparents. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Klain of Chicago, Ill.

Tap Those Hidden Springs of Talent Before They Dry Up

Use Imagination to Make Life Colorful

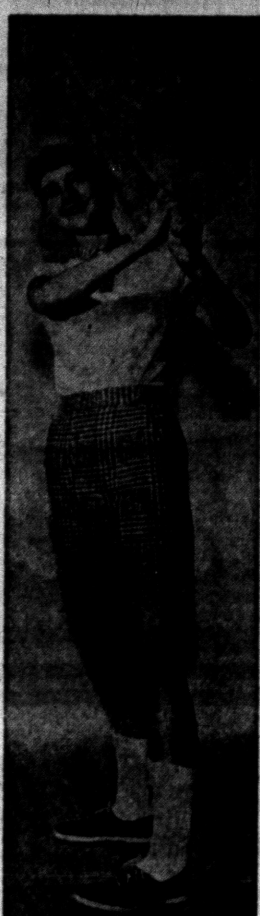

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Lack of imagination and a lowered state of energy limit us and can make life dull and boring. It is our approach to life, our mental outlook, which paints daily existence in vivid colors or reduces it to sameness.

One person will be acutely aware of the mood of each season, will find humor and inspiration in little happenings which occur daily and lift life out of humdrumness, while another in the same spot will fret, completely immune to the drama and humor, the poignancy and whimsy with which we are all surrounded.

We can dream about castles in Spain and still find living dull unless we bring awareness and perception to the picture.

Perhaps you don't have a castle in Spain. Maybe you cannot even afford to take a vacation trip of any sort this summer. You still can dream. The scope of the mind and spirit is limitless.

Why not learn all about that city or country you long to visit while you wait to accumulate the essential cash? This is entirely possible and lots of fun. There are books and reference libraries and courses in art and music and history to explore.

You are NOT too old to take up a new sport. There is something revitalizing about mastering a new medium.

Why not put your dreams into action? Write that story even though you may not sell it. Learn to play a musical instrument even though you never cut a record. Take that course in dancing even though you will never be behind the footlights. There is something revitalizing about expressing oneself in a new medium.

Develop talents which have been put aside because of the pressure of responsibilities. Even if you do not have talent, invest in that flair or interest you always have held.

Don't let life settle into the rut of sameness because of inertia, or thinking you are too old, or because of self-consciousness. Tap those hidden springs before they dry up.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Today much is required for vibrant living. I have written before about my five C's which are so emphasized today. They are Courage, Color, Calisthenics, Clothes and Cooking. If a woman is proficient in these she is almost certain to be attractive and to enjoy life.

It is always hard to weave one's way between old and trusted standards and new ideas, to tell the truth from the faddish, to hold to familiar values and yet discard those which are outmoded and never had much meaning anyway.

Courage always will be an essential ingredient of vibrant living. Clothing is no longer thought of just as a covering but as an adjunct of personality and physical attractiveness. Exercise is a proven health promoter and figure beautifier.

Cooking is a highly developed art, not only from the gourmet's viewpoint but from that of fine nutrition. We now know that color can make a great difference in the way we look and also in the way we feel.

There is so much information today about adequate nourishment, beauty care, the art of clothes styling and makeup, and figure molding exercises, and there are so many avenues of accomplishment open to women today. We should take advantage of all of these.

CONSIDER COURAGE

Today let us consider courage. It takes courage to create a good figure, to lose weight, to grasp opportunity when it arrives, to build happiness or success. There is no such thing as a magnetic and sparkling personality without this characteristic.

If the mind and spirit are tied down with myriad petty fears, this results in shyness and a lack of humor and keen interest. Courage lifts the corners of the mouth, brightens the eyes, improves posture and makes life exciting.

We always salute courage when we meet it, whether it be a man or woman sticking with a hard day-by-day job, or an act of heroism as shown in war.

Women naturally are courageous as evidenced by their ability to stand pain and to stick by those they love through thick and thin. Their crusades for better living conditions and for justice also refect their courage. Yet many women who rise to heights in a crisis are not brave in their daily lives.

Their wish for security may make them marry the wrong man or fail to take advantage of their opportunities for new activities and interests. They would rush into a blazing house to save a child and yet worry about what Mrs. So and So says about them.

VITALLY ALIVE

The more courage we can bring to our daily living the more vitally alive we will be.

If you would like to have my leaflet "How to Overcome Loneliness and Self-Consciousness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 59 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "More About the Other Important C's."

Dye Job Easy With Automatic

Do you have a tedious dye job which means keeping the cloth immersed in the boiling solution while you stand by to stir it? Why not put your material to be dyed into your automatic washer?

The solution can be kept at high temperature and the spinning action of the machine will distribute the color evenly.

And there's no need to worry about cleaning out the washer if it is finished in porcelain enamel. No dye can penetrate the pores of the glass-hard surface. A thorough rinsing is all that's needed.

Press the breast bone if you want to determine the age of a chicken before buying it. The bone of a young bird will be soft and pliable; it becomes firm and hard as the bird ages.

Frets About Relative's Late Hours

Is She Responsible for the Behavior of Cousin's Daughter?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My cousin's daughter recently came to this city to work. When she could not find a place to live within her means, I asked her to come and stay with us, as we had an extra room. My daughter, who is this girl's age, was delighted.

"Everything went well for awhile but she has suddenly taken to staying out very late. I do not approve of this at all as she is still rather young and I certainly wouldn't allow my own daughter to do this. I feel that since she is living with us I am more or less responsible for her and I think she should conform to the rules of the house.

"My daughter thinks it would be very wrong for me to say anything to her as I have no right to tell her when to come and go. I am sure her own mother would not approve of the hours she keeps. As she is living under my roof, don't you think I have a right to say something?"

Answer: As long as she is living in your house you not only have the right to see that she comes in at a reasonable hour, but it is your duty. If her mother tells you she does not object, that would be a different story.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper, at a second wedding reception, to have a white-iced wedding cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom on the top of it, or is this for a first wedding only?"

Answer: While such a cake is unusual at a second wedding there will be no impropriety if you wish to have one.

May Have Used Glasses in 1275, Records Claim

A simple epitaph appears on a tomb in Florence, Italy: "Here lies Salvino d'Armatti of Florence, the inventor of spectacles. God forgive him his sins. Died in the Year of our Lord 1317." The inscription may be misleading. Marco Polo is recorded to have seen eyeglasses used in 1275 in China, according to researchers.

Mrs. John Cowe Entertains Club

Thirty-eight members of the Better Home and Garden Club met at the Hammond Lake home of Mrs. John Cowe for a cooperative luncheon. Mrs. Cowe was assisted by Mrs. W. H. Powell, Mrs. Emery Kald, Mrs. Roy Annett and Mrs. Glen Hendricks. Eleven guests were present at the Thursday meeting.

Pontiac High Paper Gets Safety Award

The Pontiac High School Student newspaper, The Tomahawk, took sixth place in the 1957 High School Auto Safety Contest sponsored by the American Motorists Insurance Co.

George Stewart, Pontiac High driver training instructor, announced the award yesterday before the Traffic and Safety Committee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, of which he is a member.

The committee voted to send a letter of commendation to the Tomahawk staff.

The student publication won its award for an edition in May devoted to traffic safety.

Form 4 State Companies

DETROIT (AP)—Some 170 Eastern Michigan youths have been sent to Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., to join 65 western Michigan naval recruits and form four all-Michigan companies. The Eastern Michigan recruits were sworn in Friday at Detroit by Rear Adm. L. J. Jacob.

Basements Not Always Safe Tornado Refuge

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Not every one who ducked into storm cellars this year to dodge tornadoes escaped injury, a study made by an Oklahoma State University safety expert shows. Dr. Dewitt Hunt said three persons were killed and a dozen injured in storm cellars.

Bob Considine Says:

Millie Gets Job Instead of Present

NEW YORK (INS) — Got a bit of pan mail recently from a priest who serves St. Mary Parish in Annapolis, Md. He pointed out, and quite correctly, that I had used "inferred" when I should have used "implied."

It stirred a lot of good memories, not in semantics but in a field that can be even more enduring than words. Girl I know named Millie was married in that church 26 years ago today. I was there. In fact, I was the other half of the ceremony. You may safely infer that I am implying that it took.

Couldn't think of anything to give her for an anniversary present, now that San Francisco has bought the Giants, so I got her a job.

In addition to her column in Diplomat magazine, and in the Morning Telegraph, and her job of raising four children and handling a house the size of Toots Shor, she is now on Walter O'Keefe's radio show, "Nightline."

Am looking around for something for her to do on the side, but only because I love her very much.

U.S. SUPERMARKET
Jack Logan of Washington, D.C., president of the National Association of Food Chains, announces that in cooperation with the Department of Commerce the Association will build a typical U.S. supermarket in the U.S. exhibit at the Zagreb Grand Fair later this summer in Yugoslavia.

Expect it to build international goodwill, as did the "Supermercato, U.S.A." which has been a big thing in Italy.

The "Super-Tronica" in Zagreb will carry such rarities (for that land) as fresh fruits, frozen foods, and 4,000 other items familiar and dear to the heart of the American shopper.

A single item by one columnist has caused the U.S. Air Force to withdraw its wonderful show at the Radio City Music Hall after a few performances. It was part of the stage show which is an adjunct to the picture being shown there — "Silk Stockings."

The crabby columnist complained that the airmen shouldn't be used in that capacity. Yet the drill, music and tableaux they presented would have thrilled a million Americans expected to see the Music Hall show in the next six weeks.

HAIR STATISTICS
Some unerring statistics on hair have reached us from some lady named Helene Curtis: Two out of every 10 men cut their own hair. Twenty-two per cent of all men dye their hair—mostly from grey to dark brown.

Seven out of every 10 women patronize beauty parlors. They spend six hours a month having hair.

Most men would rather just have their hair shampooed, cut, dyed, tinted, set, and so forth.

Seventy-five per cent of them dye their hair. Most women, the survey shows, would rather have blonde hair than any other color. Most men would rather just have Certainly will be surprised if Dr. Sam Sheppard flunks his lie detector test. He was the coolest I ever saw in a murder trial.

We wondered at the time why he had balked at taking the test, when it was offered by the Cleveland

Police. He would have fogged the windows on the machine.

The reason the Cleveland Police are not flipping over the "confession" of the fellow being held in Deland, Fla., is that it is one of perhaps two dozen that have come to light since Marilyn Sheppard was found with her head beaten in on the morning of July 4, 1954.

There are always a series of confessions after a well-publicized crime. And, of course, always a chance that one may be telling the truth.
