De Gaulle Snubs Test Pact

Harriman Questioned on Ban

Congressmen Quiz Envoy

'Withdrawal Clause' Scrutinized Closely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman today quoted Soviet Premier Khrushchev as voicing belief it will be "a long, long time" before Red China develops "a nuclear capability of any importance."

From Our News Wires
WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders today closely questioned Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman about the so-called "withdrawal clause" of the three-nation nuclear test ban treaty.

The clause provides that any of the nations signing the treaty — the United States, Britain and Russia — may resume nuclear testing on three months notice if they believe their national security is at stake.

The clause might come into play, for example, if France or Italy developed a "significant nuclear capability."

Harriman, who initiated the pact in Moscow for the United States, met behind closed doors with members of three of the most powerful committees of Congress to discuss the treaty and answer questions.

JURISDICTION

The Senate Foreign Relations committee has jurisdiction over the treaty but invited members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee to attend.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Harriman was asked about reported opposition to the treaty by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but referred the question to the military leaders themselves.

He said Harriman explained that nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes — such as excavations for dams or canals — were prohibited if there was any danger that fallout would contaminate the atmosphere of another nation.

DISASTER REFUGEES—A resident of the earthquake-stricken city of Skopje, Yugoslavia, pulls a cart bearing his six children and followed by his wife and other relatives as they leave the city. All residents of the city except men able to help in rescue operations were ordered out by the government.

Living Flee Skopje as Typhus Threatens

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Ten more survivors were plucked from death tombs of Skopje's earthquake ruins today. The count of the dead mounted toward 1,000.

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Survivors by the thousands fled quake-shattered Skopje and the threat of a typhus epidemic today.

As authorities announced the search for more survivors would end after today, the government radio reported a Yugoslav girl was pulled out of the rubble, still alive 80 hours after she was entombed in Friday's killer earthquake.

Premier Alexander Grigov of the Macedonian Republic said the number of bodies recovered headed toward the 900 mark and an estimated 700 dead were still buried under rubble.

But Grigov said it would be assumed that no one else now could be found alive and the government would go ahead on the conviction to raze all the buildings in this ancient Macedonian capital.

Possible epidemics and renewed earthquakes posed a constant problem, he said. There were a few new tremors yesterday, but they were slight.

On the fourth day after the cataclysmic quake demolished the city, the stench of cracked sewers, human waste and refuse mingling with the smell of decomposing bodies lay like a stifling blanket over the sun-scorched area. Temperatures were in the 90s.

"Each passing hour brought the danger of possible typhus outbreak ever closer."

Now, Grigov said, the main concern was finishing the evacuation of all people not engaged in clearing work or other essential jobs and putting heavy demolition crews to work razing the city.

A new city for the 270,000 population will be built from the ground up on a safer site to be determined after seismological studies are completed, Grigov said.

70,000 EVACUATED

More than 70,000 women, children and old people had cleared out of the city by early morning and still they poured out, on foot and in cars, trains and planes.

Some pushed carts filled with few salvaged belongings. Others pedaled bicycles slowly through the debris.

Says Relations With U. S. Embedded in Historical Friendship

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today snubbed the Moscow agreement for a limited nuclear test ban and coldly rejected the idea of a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact nations.

At the same time, he declared that French-U.S. relations are too tightly embedded in historical friendship and alliances to be deeply disturbed by present differences in policy.

De Gaulle spoke to a jam-packed news conference in an ornate reception room at the Elysee Palace. About 800 reporters, cabinet members, deputies and government officials sat on gilded chairs while the president held forth in the manner of a history professor for an hour and a quarter.

This was his first news conference since January when he vetoed Britain's entry into the Common Market and spurned an American offer of Polaris missiles as the price of joining a NATO atomic force.

De Gaulle said that the Moscow agreement initiated by the United States, Great Britain and Russia to halt testing of nuclear weapons above ground and in the sea had really changed nothing. Under these conditions, he said, France could not be expected to halt its own tests aimed at making it a full-fledged member of the atomic club.

But, he added, France is still interested in disarmament. He said that he has some ideas for ways of controlling cosmic, aerial and sea-borne delivery systems and planned to invite "interested countries" to a disarmament conference before the end of the year.

He did not spell out who would be invited, but implied that the atomic powers — Great Britain, the United States, Russia and France — should attend.

He said the disarmament conference should consider the destruction of stockpiles and the destruction of vehicles — such as missiles and rockets — for delivering nuclear bombs.

This is in line with long-standing French policy—that France would resign from the nuclear club only if the club itself is disbanded.

Is America on Edge of Racial Disaster?

(Editor's Note—Will racial strife in America be limited to sporadic outbreaks or are we on the verge of major domestic violence? This first installment of an AP series on the deepening integration crisis outlines an on-the-spot survey of major friction spots.)

By BERNARD GAVZER
Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today that "a time bomb ticks" in America's streets this turbulent summer of 1963.

The bomb is the explosive crisis which has flared in sporadic violence in Danville, Va., Cambridge, Md., and New York as Negroes and whites have clashed on the issue of full racial equality now.

Overhanging these and other outbreaks are the haunting questions: Will the bomb go off? How?

Interviews with and reports from top-level white and Negro officials in federal, state and municipal governments, with civic, social and religious leaders, and with citizens in the street, point to one conclusion:

There is grave danger of major racial violence as America looks for a solution to the deepening integration crisis.

If chaos comes, the consensus

GIs Hunt Red Snipers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expressed outrage today at what it called the "latest murders" of two American soldiers in South Korea and charged that North Korea and the Chinese Communists are deterred only by continued U.N. strength.

CHUNYANG-DONG, Korea (AP)—Angry young U.S. soldiers took up patrol positions along the Korean armistice line tonight hoping to find the North Koreans who ambushed three of their buddies, killing two and wounding the third.

Their commander, Brig. Gen. Charles Pershing Brown of the 1st Cavalry Division, denounced the attack, made in the fog early Monday, as "a violent and deliberate violation of the armistice agreement."

He said it was "the first time the North Koreans have come clear across the (demilitarized) zone into South Korea."

Brown said there is hope the third soldier will survive his wounds. Identities were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

"I talked to the boy just before ago last Saturday. It has grown he went into the operating room and I told duty along it is known as showed a lot of courage. I told 'stakeout' him I hope he makes it and I sure hope he does."

Pontiac's Drive for Industry Surges Forward

Victory is possible!

Pontiac's Greater Industrial Development Corp. has pledged today from 51 firms and individuals totaling $84,700. Only $15,300 more is needed to start Pontiac on the trail of light manufacturing and kindred activities. This means more employment. It means more payrolls.

Max Adams, Chamber of Commerce manager, said today: "Our deadline is Thursday of this week, and we must have the full $100,000 to secure the land on South Boulevard. That will mean a constructive step toward a bigger, busier and more active Pontiac. The competition for these new small businesses which are springing up all over America is tremendous. Some cities are ahead of us, but we have a good start."

"Every businessman and all other public-spirited citizens are urged to step forward immediately and put their shoulders to the wheel. We need action and we need it now."

"Next week is too late."

"The Pontiac Press is running another coupon to close this gap and boost our area underfoot up the ladder of industrial activity. Your mail brings you shares of stock at $100 apiece. More than half a hundred of your fellow citizens have leaped forward and answered the call."

"Will YOU do YOUR part?"

Summer Camp Hit by Typhoid

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—On a sloping green hillside in Southern Franklin County lies the rustic Rhodes Grove Bible Camp, a century-old summer playground for children.

The camp is silent today. Rhodes Grove has been closed by typhoid fever.

Twenty-one youngsters who attended the camp in June still lie in area hospitals with the disease.

State health officials are working around the clock in an effort to find the typhoid carrier—the person who brought the epidemic to Rhodes Grove.

Carriers can pass typhoid to others, but are immune themselves. There are 250 known carriers in Pennsylvania, perhaps many others unknown.

"It's a manhunt," said Dr. William D. Schrack Jr., director of the health department's division of communicable disease control. The sooner the carrier is located, the better the chances of halting further outbreaks.

The epidemic was uncovered earlier this month when a pathologist at Chambersburg (Pa.) Hospital reported laboratory findings in four youngsters.

Within days, the incidence of typhoid mounted, first to 12, then 15, and finally 28.

All the victims had been at the camp between June 16 and June 29. Health officials began at once compiling a list of all children present during that period.

Nurses visited as many as possible with a long list of questions designed to uncover more patterns. Authorities in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, and Florida, were alerted to watch for typhoid symptoms among out-of-state youngsters who attended the camp.

Saboteurs Dynamite Italian Rail System

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Saboteurs interrupted rail service on two main lines between Milan and Switzerland Sunday by dynamiting pylons that support lines for Italy electrified railway system.

The first explosion, near Camerata, delayed traffic for three hours.

The second blast, near Varzo, blocked traffic for nearly four hours.

Police declined to speculate on the authors of the sabotage.

Church Camp Near Romeo

99th Session Will Begin

ROMEO — Simpson Park will "come alive" Thursday when families from all over the Midwest and Canada converge there for the opening session of Michigan's oldest interdenominational camp meeting.

The 99th session will feature three preaching services daily, 10:30 a.m. and 2 and 7:30 p.m. through Aug. 11.

Located on 19 wooded acres, a mile west and a half mile north of here, the park has facilities to house about 600 campers, including family groups.

Campers are housed in large hotel and annex, boys' and girls' dormitories, trailers and cabins.

A new 2-story cement block building has been constructed this year. It contains a kitchen and dining room on the main floor and 27 sleeping rooms on the floor above.

In addition to the preaching services, Bible classes and planned recreation will be available for adults and young people alike.

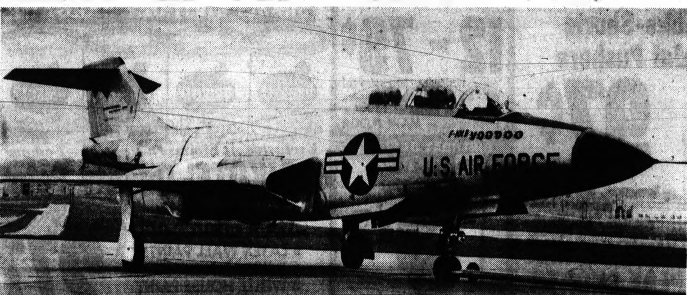

CAMP SPEAKERS

Preachers this year will be Dr. H. M. Couchenour, general evangelist; Rev. Maurice W. Slevens, approved evangelist; and Rev. David A. Seamands, a church pastor. All are members of the Methodist Church from Wilmore, Ky.

In charge of the music will be Rev. and Mrs. Dale A. Sherry of the United Methodist Church, Elkhart, Ind. They will be assisted by Dan Greer of Port Huron at the piano and organ.

Gertrude Cooper will direct the children's work.

Sunday afternoon and evening sessions traditionally attract well over a thousand worshippers to the open-air tabernacle on the camp grounds. The Sunday afternoon services are at 2:30.

FOR PUBLIC VIEWING — This Air Force F-101B "Voodoo" tactical fighter will be on display at the 4-H Fairgrounds, North Perry at Walton, Pontiac, during the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair Aug. 6-10. Designed to meet Air Force requirements

Parks to Issue Free Area Map

New Guide Locates Recreation Facilities

The new Metropolitan Guide for 1963-64 is now available for distribution. Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, director of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, announced today.

Supplimenting the Metropolitan Guide is a map in color illustrating Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parklands, state recreation areas and highway routes throughout the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne — the area served by the authority.

With its turquoise cover, this map shows the locations and lists the facilities of the authority's loop of seven parks from Lake St. Clair to Lake Erie.

Present and proposed "free-way" routes and the location of Stony Creek Metropolitan Park, a 3,500-acre recreational site, under development, three miles northeast of Rochester and four miles southwest of Romeo, are included.

It is available for free distribution by contacting the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

It also may be obtained at the office of the following parks: Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens; Marshbank Metropolitan Park, southeast of Pontiac; Kensington Metropolitan Park, southeast of Brighton; Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park, northwest of Ann Arbor; and Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville.

Lyon School Board Plans Space-Shortage Discussion

SOUTH LYON — The Lyon Township Board of Education will continue consideration of possible solutions to its classroom space problem at a special meeting tonight.

Board members will meet with the school architect at 7:30 p.m. in the high school library.

At its meeting last week, the board died at 3-3 on the question of whether another building program should be tackled on the heels of the June 10 defeat of a proposed $1.5-million high school.

District voters turned down the high school proposition by a vote of 592-396.

They also elected three new board members, two of whom stated their opposition to the building proposal.

The new board must now make a policy decision on space needs.

One of the facilities to be considered is the 48-year-old annex which has been used on a supplementary basis since 1948.

With seven or eight of the rooms used for third, fourth and fifth grade classes next year, some pressure will be taken off the elementary school, according to Supt. Frank Bartlett.

Three rooms in the elementary building will — while being used for high school classes.

Bartlett said students are now "overcrowding" the four-year high school built in 1952.

"We'll be using everything we have," he commented.

The anticipated enrollment for 1963-64 is 2,250. It is expected to reach 2,722 five years later.

If the school board decides to use the annex as more than a stopgap, it will not need to plan another elementary school for seven or eight years, Bartlett said.

The previous board had decided to convert the annex into an administration building if the bond issue passed.

Also to be discussed is the junior high or continue in its present capacity?

Either way, an addition might be needed.

"We hope to arrive at a plan tonight," Board President Wilford W. Heidt said. "If not, at least something we can work with."

2 Badly Hurt in Collision of Car, Wrecker

LAPEER TOWNSHIP — Two men were seriously injured early today in a car-wrecker collision on M24. Both were admitted to Lapeer County General Hospital.

Police said 21-year-old Leroy Provost of 1128 Oregon, LaPeere, was turning his south-bound wrecker left into a driveway between Turf and Newark roads when the accident happened.

A car driven by Donald P. Miller, 27, of Vassar, crashed into the rear of the wrecker and pushed it 250 feet, Lapeer County Sheriff's deputies said.

Provost suffered a concussion. Miller is being treated for multiple cuts, with deep cuts about the throat, as well as a concussion. Both are listed in serious condition.

Police said possible prosecution is pending investigation of the mishap.

Joan M. Ostrander

Daily Mail Delivery Pushed for Rural Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., wants daily mail delivery for families who now either must drive to a local post office for their letters or who get deliveries every other day.

Mundt said in a radio and television interview yesterday that he had introduced legislation to eliminate the post office formula which requires a specified number of farms per mile before mail is delivered.

The engagement of Joan Mary Ostrander to Terry Van Orman has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Ostrander of 9414 Elizabeth Lake, White Lake Township. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy-Dutcher of Jackson and the late Burdette Van Orman. No date has been set for the wedding.

Farm Payroll Cut Over Half

Technology Advances Slash Labor Wages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Agriculture Department report indicated today that machines and other technological developments have cut the farm labor payroll nearly 60 per cent during the last 15 years.

The figure is based on the assumption that the same number of hours of farm labor are used now as in 1948, and takes into account the increase in farm wage rates that has occurred between that year and the present.

As things stand, farmers pay $3 billion a year in wages. But total employment is 72 per cent smaller than in 1948 and present-day farm wages are about 40 per cent higher.

Thus if farm employment were at the same level now, as 15 years ago and workers were paid at today's rates, the annual farm labor bill would be in excess of $7 billion instead of the actual $3 billion.

Yet, with this greatly reduced use of labor, agriculture is producing nearly 25 per cent more than it did in 1948.

Contributing to this greatly reduced need of hand labor and the increased farm output are tractors, mechanical harvesters, other labor-saving machines and equipment; improved crop varieties, greater use of fertilizers, and more effective soil and water conservation practices.

Another factor is increased efficiency in converting grains, grass and forage crops into milk, meat, eggs and poultry.

The end in reducing the use of hand labor is not in sight. The use of labor has been declining at the rate of about 5 per cent a year since the mid 1940s.

Agricultural scientists say there is no reason to believe there will be any material change in the rate of reduction in the years immediately ahead.

Recover Body of Man Drowned in Michigan

HASTINGS (UPI) — The body of a 39-year-old Kalamazoo man was recovered Saturday from a small lake in the southwest corner of Barry County after a two-day search.

Barry County authorities said Jackie and Nick Danhausen of Flint, were flower girl and ring bearer.

The newlyweds are honeymooning at Tahquamenon Falls.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Gerald L. Newman Marries Jane Gray

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Jane Lee Gray became the bride of Gerald L. Newman in a ceremony at the Gallien Baptist Church Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartwell Gray of 4111 Jackson Road are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Newman, 515 Benson, Milford.

The bride's gown of nylon organza over tulle was styled with a lavalier neckline and cap sleeves trimmed with Venice lace. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train.

A forehead cluster of lilies, crystal and pearlized buds secured her bouffant veil of pure silk illusion.

Roberta McAlpine of Royal Oak was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Leona Helene of Berkeley, Alice Cummings of White Lake Township and Dennis Hart of Milford.

Steve Newman of Highland assisted his brother as best man. The guests were seated by Tim Gray of White Lake Township, brother of the bride; William Mitchell of Milford; and Lawrence Hewitt of Milford.

Two cousins of the bride, Jackie and Nick Danhausen of Flint, were flower girl and ring bearer.

The newlyweds are honeymooning at Tahquamenon Falls.

MRS. GERALD L. NEWMAN

Lance Corporal, Bride Exchange Wedding Vows

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — Bonnie C. Schmidt and Lance Cpl. David C. Vorce exchanged their nuptial vows before Rev. Roy F. Bottruff recently in Orionville Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schmidt, 2221 Granger, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vorce, 549 E. Glass.

Wanda Reynolds was maid of honor with William Vorce serving his brother as best man.

The bride wore a walk-length dress of sheer nylon over white tulle featuring a red fitted bodice. She will reside at her parents' home until her husband returns from service.

Other who received the feelers were New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller; Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater; Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton; Kentucky Sen. Thurston B. Morton; Colorado Sen. Gordon L. Allott, and former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Oakland Farms Take Honors

Three Blue Ribbons Won in Cattle Meet

Three Oakland County farms were represented in the winner's circle at the State Black and White Show in Corona Friday — two earning blue ribbons with their Holstein entries.

John Middleton, 13, of Oakland Township, groomed and paraded his cow expertly enough to win top honors in the junior boys' showmanship competition.

The Middleton farm is at 2610 Stony Creek.

A senior heifer calf belonging to Hutch Farms, 1062 E. Hamlin, Avon Township, was judged best in the category, and won the other first.

Hutch Farms also earned fourth place in the aged cow class, as well as the junior-get-of-sire competition. The farm's junior yearling bull was awarded fifth place in the yearling bull competition.

The other Oakland County winner was a senior heifer calf belonging to 18-year-old Claudia Long, of 9382 Sleeth, Commerce Township. Claudia's cow won sixth place in the senior calf class.

Breeders from throughout the state brought their best cattle to the show for judging.

Romney, 7 Others Invited for Primary

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Howard V. Corcoran, West Virginia Republican chairman, has invited Michigan Gov. George Romney and seven other party members to enter the 1964 GOP presidential primary.

Corcoran said the invitations to Romney and the others were sent out to insure a "stimulating primary."

Others who received the feelers were New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller; Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater; Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton; Kentucky Sen. Thurston B. Morton; Colorado Sen. Gordon L. Allott, and former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Deafness Results From Artery Damage

Q—My doctor tells me I have something called CVA. I have become deaf in one ear. What is CVA? Can I get better?

A—CVA refers to a cerebral vascular accident or stroke. There are several different arteries in the brain that may be involved. The symptoms differ depending on the areas supplied by the arteries. The extent of the involvement varies, and may be BRANDSTADT so slight as to go unnoticed or may cause severe paralysis.

Thus the outlook for recovery depends on whether the initial damage was superficial or great. Your doctor can help you to prevent a recurrence. Deafness is one of the symptoms of stroke in some areas.

Q—What causes lichen planus? I have taken about 20 treatments for it and it is beyond my means to continue. Is there some salve that will cure it?

A—Lichen planus is a skin disease characterized by flattened red or purplish spots that itch severely. The cause is not known but in some people the disease follows scratching or bruising of the skin.

In others it may follow taking quinine for malaria, vitamin deficiency, nervous exhaustion, and chronic low grade infections in the teeth, tonsils or gall bladder. When the cause is not known here is no specific treatment and such treatment as is used is often unsuccessful.

The disease often lasts for months and even though it clears up it may come back.

Treatments that have been used with success on some patients include injections of bismuth subsalicylate, X rays and chemicals. These must all be used with caution.

In any case you should have a frank talk with your doctor about costs and what you are able to pay. Most doctors will welcome such a discussion and will tailor their bills to fit your circumstances.

Q—If the life expectancy for that he will live only one year. blue babies is 45 years, as you have said, does that mean that my husband who is now 44 and who was a blue baby has only one year to live? He appears to be in good health but he tires easily.

A—It certainly does not mean that he will live only one year. All life expectancy figures are averages, so some live more and some less than 45 years. Furthermore life expectancy estimates must be revised upward for every year survived so that, while the average blue baby at the time of birth might be expected to live 45 years, one who has already lived 44 years would have a life expectancy approaching 65 or 70 years and, if he was still in good health at age 65, his life expectancy would be extended even further.

It Seems to Me....

United States Needs Stronger Representative in Argentina

With Argentina pointing toward a constructive path ahead, the U.S. faces a duty that we shouldn't duck.

Our ambassador, one ROBERT MCCLINTOCK, doesn't measure up and observers are wondering how we can leave an incompetent servant in so strategic a position. If Argentina were committed to a democracy and the end of communism, we might stagger along with a weak representative.

But those aren't the facts. And McClintock isn't the man.

Jules Dubois told me that McClintock is the least respected of any ambassador that ever served us in the Argentine and Mr. Dubois is our greatest single authority on Latin American affairs. The U.S. courtier looks upon himself with smug approval but the sentiment is strictly a one-man opinion. Further, he's always ready — even eager — to thrust his ineffectual North American proboscis into local governmental affairs where he isn't wanted. And worst of all his attitude toward Russia is not consonant with U.S. traditions.

Dr. ILIA is struggling to consolidate and hold Argentina on an even keel. He faces a monumental task and it will require tact, finesse and the patience of a Latin American. It seems unfair for our nation to complicate the situation by supplying a representative that isn't a true reflection of his homeland. Our stake in the Argentine is enormous. We must play a helpful, gracious and constructive part and evince the great friendliness we feel for these fine South American people.

Makes You Think....
Daily Press secretaries were intrigued with the following quotation from The Bureau of Better Business Practices:

"We've been hearing a lot lately about 'catching up with the Russians.' Well if we really want to match Soviet progress, here's what we'll have to do: destroy 19 of every 20 cars and trucks in this country, rip up 14 of every 15 miles of paved highways, throw out 40 million TV sets, rip out 9 of every 10 telephones, tear down 7 of every 10 houses, cut all pay checks by three fourths, and send 60 million Americans back to the farm to produce enough food for the rest of us."

"Anyone interested?"
If you were trying to peddle communism in this country, wouldn't you hate to be faced with the above? Who can say more in less words?

Quite Expensive....
Really, I don't begrudge the President his $8 million blue, white and gold jetliner. And I don't exactly begrudge him the three (3) Boeing 707s for "special duty."

And, somehow, after considerable soul searching I become reconciled to the ten (10) White House helicopters holding ten passengers each. These have a market value of $15 million and they cost half a million dollars a year to maintain. JFK motions for a helicopter with the same ease you'd wave for a veloped. A helicopter port in under consideration at a cost of another $5 million.

The total maintenance plus salaries, plus incidentals and plus plus plus aggregates a startling total. Maybe I can talk myself into forgiving everything up to now — I don't think too hard — but I'll begrudge the living daylight out of another thin dime for a March wind kite.

So there now

As a taxpayer I gag at paying these charges for one of the wealthiest families in the world. And those millions come from his last name — not the one in the middle.

New Organization....

LESTER T. McDONNELL is incorporating the NAAWP. This is the National Association for the Advancement of White People. I agree with the NAAWP. I agree with the NAACP, also.

And now I want another society: the NAAFP. This stands for the National Association for the Advancement of Pontiac Newspaper People. This organization will be incorporated, mass meetings held, freedom marches instituted and children of newspaper people given buses and taxicabs for the schools of their choice.

Donations will be accepted here on West Huron Street and to keep the jokers and the timid at bay, no contributions will be considered under $10.00.

And in Conclusion....

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Undercover Capitol Hill talk suggests Congress may suddenly adjourn before the "freedom march" starts.

..... The United States News says last October we were tops in Latin America, but now Bolivia, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Haiti, Mexico and Peru are slowly turning their backs.

..... Overheard: "Doctors claim neither whisky nor brandy can cure a common cold. Well, neither can the doctors."

I heard that word went out from the White House for the faithful to skip "Cleopatra."

I can't prove it but I'll bet a sugar cookie that within two years Al Downing will be the most effective pitcher in baseball.

..... Trusted scouts advise me Barbara Batchelor is one of the area's especially attractive girls.

..... Charles Gehring qualified for the championship flight at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club with a 77. One of the greatest left-hand batters of all time, Charley plays golf right-handed. Incidentally he's one of the finest and most cultured gentlemen baseball ever produced.

..... "Call Me Bwana" (featuring Bob Hope) is one of the wackiest and funniest films in years.

A recent resident of Mt. Vernon who died at the age of 58, had written more than 7,000 letters to newspapers. (Hobby).

The London Express gives half a page to the Pontiac car which it properly describes in the most flattering and glowing terms. It asserts there's nothing left to be desired.

..... Father to five-year-old son: "Your mother and I are starting a trip around the world." Young son: "How many times?"

Licenses glimpsed over the weekend: Kansas, Florida (2), South Carolina, Texas, Missouri and Arizona.

..... Dept. of Criers and Jeers: the CS—real progress with Russia on nuclear tests; the JS—our U.S. feminine track squad in Russia.

We Want To Believe

Churches Pressure Government

WASHINGTON — There's supposed to be a "wall of separation between church and state" erected under the Constitution. At least so the Supreme Court of the United States has said, but something happened in Washington last Thursday which indicates that the wall apparently bars entry from only one side. For while the government cannot direct what prayers, if any, shall be used in the public schools or institutions, the government presumably can be directed by the churches as to what laws shall be passed on any subject.

Whether it is in the field of "conscience" or "commerce," the principal religious organizations of the nation now assert the right to interpret these words for themselves and to take part in the pressures being exerted in the lobbies of the Capitol to secure the enactment of certain laws barring racial discrimination.

Spokesmen for the three big national organizations of churches—Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—have just told Congress that all forms of racial discrimination should be abolished by law.

COMMITTEES LISTEN

Three committees of Congress heard the arguments presented by the churches dealing with proposed legislation on "civil rights" in respect to retail stores, restaurants, hotels and motels as well as discrimination in employment in various businesses, whether governmental or private.

The declaration read to the committee said in part:

"The religious conscience of America condemns racism as blasphemy against God."

"Major religious bodies hold simply that God created all men, regardless of color, race or national origin, with equal rights and dignity. They affirm that differences among individuals stemming from such factors as heredity, education, cultural background and opportunities do not in any way affect basic human rights."

"Thus they have specifically condemned racial discrimination, segregation and prejudice as incompatible with the principles of faith in God."

But which church, if any, is to determine authoritatively for Congress what are the "principles of faith in God?"

Although the three major church groups can send clergymen to the committees of Congress to tell them, in effect, that unless they pass certain laws, they will be violating the "principles of faith in God," two atheists from Maryland recently persuaded the Supreme Court of the United States to rule that children in the public schools should not be allowed to pray or to express even in the vaguest terms their support for the "principles of faith in God."

Spokesmen for various Christian and Jewish church groups welcomed the ruling.

So there appears to be a one-sided wall of separation between church and state.

There has been as yet no referendum taken among the members of these churches throughout the country — approximately 115 million according to the 1961 figures — to determine how a majority feel about the asserted right of the church organizations to speak for them on matters of legislation. Will some individuals risk "excommunication" if they take a dissenting view?

A commission of the National Council of Churches, a leading Protestant organization, has just issued a public appeal for 40,000 members to take part in person in the "March of Washington" Aug. 28.

The expressed position of the churches today on racial discrimination could lead logically to a legal sanction of intermarriage or at least a declaration that for a state to forbid it is "a blasphemy against God."

Goldwater Sees Danger of Ultra-Right 'Captivity'

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — GOP presidential front-runner Barry Goldwater has privately expressed "concern" at the danger of becoming a "captive" of ultra right-wingers.

The senator's more moderate backers are becoming downright alarmed that the power plays by Goldwater extremists may alienate the "regular conservatives" who are the backbone of the Republican party.

This drama is nowhere more apparent than in New Hampshire, which holds power far beyond its 14 delegate strength, because it has the nation's earliest primary.

The nightmare faced by Goldwater admirers is the possibility that these three rep-MONTGOMERY arise Goldwater slates may be run in the primary, against one for Rockefeller. If this would occur, Rocky would almost certainly emerge the victor.

A group of extreme right-wingers led by John F. H. Chandler, grandson of two prominent Civil War New Hampshire senators, is now galloping around New Hampshire circulating petitions for a Goldwater slate.

Another threatening to head a rival Goldwater-for-President slate is former GOP Governor Wesley Powell, regarded as a traitor by regular Republicans, because after his defeat for reelection in the '62 primary, he plugged for the election of the Democratic governor.

For this reason, New Hampshire's Republican Senator Norris Cotton is being besieged by party regulars to come out publicly for Goldwater, take charge of the presidential drive in his state, and head his own slate of delegates.

Cotton, a moderate conservative widely respected on both sides of the senatorial political aisle, is expected at the strategic time to declare for Goldwater, and announce his own candidacy as a delegate to next year's convention.

He feels, however, that July is too early to get into battles over a primary that is eight months away.

Barring a disastrous misstep by Goldwater, though, it is apparent that Cotton will back him, and run as a Goldwater-delegate along with Dennis Bridges, the late senator's widow.

If rival Goldwater slates are entered, however, it will probably spell suicide for the senator's cause in New Hampshire.

State Visits

The Manchester (England) Guardian

For the first time in living memory, a British sovereign has been booted in London. The Greek royal visit will be remembered for that — unjust and unrepresentative though the incident was.

A reappraisal of royal visits, of the Monarchy in a changing society, might be timely. State visits lately have been too many and too formal. They are a costly embarrassment. President Kennedy can be sure of a spontaneous welcome whether he comes ceremoniously or to work. But the exchange of visits with lesser royalty has no political value.

Most of the countries whose friendship we want to cultivate—Germany, for one — are republics, anyway. State visits like that of the Greeks waste the time of ministers, divert the police from their proper job and aggravate London's intolerable traffic problem.

Agrees Rails, Not Airports, Need Aid

I read Art Weber's letter about your editorial urging public support for a $5-million airport improvement and I agree with him. Only a privileged few receive benefit from the airport. I never got any and never expect to.

If Grand Trunk stops passenger service, 1,500 people will take to overcrowded roads and then the taxpayers will be urged to support an expressway which will cost $2 million a mile. Grand Trunk can tear down its passenger depots and we lose taxes at Pontiac, Birmingham, Royal Oak and Ferndale. Some day there won't be any more room for expensive expressways. Why not support mass transportation while we still have it. Maybe a tax incentive will do the trick.

vin E. Gross has served notice that he will invoke the Condon-Wadlin law if leaders go through with the threat to strike in September.

The teachers thus have a clear warning that a walkout will subject them to the penalties of the law banning strikes by public employees — automatic dismissal and rehiring under restrictions on salary in increases and promotions. The time has now come when some way MUST be found to avert the need for such extreme measures.

We understand the position in which the board of education has been placed by the city's failure to appropriate adequate funds. We have always maintained that our teachers should be the highest paid in the nation.

It is the duty of Mayor Wagner and Gov. Rockefeller to take decisive action to avert this tragic strike. And the time for action is NOW, not under the eleventh hour pressure of a strike deadline on Sept. 9.

All Votes Count

The Richmond (Ind.) Palladium-Item

How often we hear someone say he has no intention of voting because his vote would not count anyway.

If a person is so disinterested in government that he looks around for an excuse not to vote the polls, he is going to find one. But it does not always hold true that his vote would not have counted.

Clare B. Williams, assistant national Republican chairman, has come up with some interesting statistics along that line:

..... In 1960 the White House was decided by a hairline margin of 112,253 votes. Since there were 168,253 precincts, an increase of one voter per precinct could have changed the result.

In 1962, the governor of Minnesota lost his bid for election by 91 votes from a total of more than a million and a quarter. This comes to about one vote per county.

"In 1962, seven governorships were decided by five votes a precinct or less, while three seats in the United States Senate were won by two votes or less, per precinct."

New Revival Method

Half Drowning Victims Can Be Saved

DETROIT (UPI) — At least half the victims of drownings in Michigan die from heart stoppage and could be saved by a new and improved revival method.

That statement was made yesterday by two physician experts in Closed Chest Cardiac Resuscitation (CCCR), a new method of revival based on forced breathing and heart massage.

The statement accompanied an urgent plea to all persons involved in water safety to learn the technique.

"Quick application of CCCR and the later use of electrical defibrillators that are now in many hospitals can save many of the victims of drownings," as well as of electrocution, they said.

The two physicians are Dr.

Larry H. Birch, director, physiology department, Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids, and Dr. Robert A. Gerlach, a cardiologist at Harper Hospital, Detroit, and assistant professor of medicine at Wayne State University.

Both agreed that CCCR must be learned and said the Michigan Heart Association would supply teachers and sponsor classes anywhere in the state.

Birch said summer is already half over and CCCR has been taught to only 209 persons, whereas every lifeguard, swimming instructor and camp director in Michigan should have learned it.

EXPLAINS PROCESS
Gerlach explained the blood chemistry of fresh water drowning.

"When fresh water gets into a person's lungs, it is absorbed through the air sacs into the blood, usually in no more than a minute," he said. "This process is osmotic and is caused by the salt content of blood."

Gerlach said that when fresh water mixes with blood, it causes the red corpuscles to burst.

The broken corpuscles spill their contents, liquid hemoglobin and potassium chloride. Enough potassium in the blood will stop the heart completely or shock it into fibrillation.

In fibrillation, the four chambers of the heart lose their coordination and contract at random.

Actually, he said, the heart "just quivers."

No blood is pumped and death follows unless coordination is restored. There is only one way to do this, he said, and it rarely fails: An electric shock, properly applied, internally or preferably externally.

CCCR combines mouth-to-mouth breathing and heart massage.

"Putting the proper pressure on the center of the chest, we have learned, will squeeze the heart so that its chambers and valves will push enough blood through the body to sustain life, and sometimes by itself will start a stopped heart," he said.

He emphasized that speed was all important because "the brain can suffer irreversible damage after four to six minutes without oxygenated blood."

Victims of ocean water do not die in the same manner. The saltier sea water takes water from the blood and the lungs tend to fill with liquid while the victim's blood thickens.

But for them too, CCCR offers the best chance of survival.

Blast Is Fatal to Saboteurs

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (U) — A bomb exploded prematurely at an American-owned oil pipeline last night, killing two saboteurs who were planting it.

It was the fourth bombing at the Creole Petroleum Co. pipeline here. The company is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Porpoises Cause Panic Along Atlantic Beach

NEW YORK (UPI) — A school of porpoises caused a shark scare on the Atlantic Ocean at Rockaway Beach yesterday and prompted more than half a million swimmers to scurry out of the water.

The porpoises were correctly identified from a helicopter by police, who said some 7 1/2 miles of beach had been cleared after the alert.

Census figures show there are 106 males born each year in the United States for every 100 females.

Taxi Driver Choked, Robbed by 2 Fares

A young taxi cab driver was robbed of $27 last night after he was choked unconscious by his two passengers.

Richard Berry, 22, of 47 Loraine, told Pontiac police that he had driven the pair to freese and Hess from Kennett and Glenwood when a rope was wrapped around his neck. A driver for the Yellow Cab Co., Berry said he blacked out after that and doesn't remember anything until he awoke shortly before 11 p.m., about an hour after the robbery took place.

How Many Teen-Agers Fit in One Compact?

PHOENIX (U) — Customers at a local drive-in got some entertainment along with their snacks. A very compact car pulled up and 11 lanky teen-agers piled out. The 12th, the driver, parked and joined his companions — who filled three booths.

Shootings Draw Probe in Detroit

DETROIT (U) — Police Commissioner George Edwards, home from England, planned today to look into the Cynthia Scott and Kenneth Evans police shootings.

Edwards said he had been kept informed of the incidents while abroad and that he approved the actions since taken as reported to him. He said he might have a statement after his return.

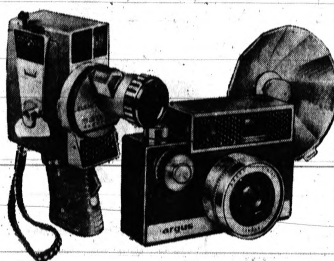

Miss Scott, 24, a Negro prostitute, and Kenneth Evans, 18, white, were shot to death by policemen earlier this month. The policeman who shot Miss Scott said she slashed him with a knife in resisting arrest. Evans was shot in fleeing from an abandoned stolen car, police said.

A Negro group picketed police headquarters and city hall in protest of the handling of the Scott case. A crowd of demonstrators, mostly white, made trouble at a police precinct station in the Evans case.

The policemen who killed Miss Scott and Evans were held by superiors to have acted properly.

JFK Has Chance to Place Negro in Cabinet

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
The resignation of Postmaster General J. Edward Day offers President Kennedy another opportunity to indulge his anxiety for a Negro in the cabinet. Kennedy's first choice for that cabinet post may have been a Negro.

During the 1960 presidential campaign, the Republicans played politics in a double-barreled fashion with the idea of a Negro cabinet member.

There was no need for candidate Kennedy to match that maneuver precisely during his presidential campaign. The Democratic platform and his own shrewd plays for Negro votes were ample to offset Republican maneuvers.

Once elected, however, President Kennedy had Negro problems. He and his platform had promised — guaranteed — some instant civil rights. It immediately became obvious that the entire Kennedy legislative program probably would be scuttled if the new president proposed broad-gauge civil rights legislation to the newly elected Congress. The decision was to put off the issue.

NEGROES PLEASED
Negroes were pleased by Kennedy's selection of Negroes for well-paid federal jobs. They were

Westinghouse Exec Expires in Philadelphia

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Mark W. Cresap Jr., 53, former president and chief executive officer of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., died yesterday in Presbyterian University Hospital.

Cresap, who resigned from the firm only last July 15, was credited with streamlining the company's products divisions to give each more autonomy and closer access to markets.

The Roman emperor Diocletian gave lavish parties at which a thousand persons took steam baths at one time.

Ford Believes JFK Can Lose

'Romney in Good Spot for GOP Nomination'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., said today President Kennedy is not unbeatable next year and the Republicans must come up with the best possible candidate to oppose him.

Ford, chairman of the House Republican Conference, said he believes recent political developments indicate the Gov. George Romney of Michigan was sound when he stated earlier this year he was not a candidate for the nomination.

Romney stated repeatedly that he is not and will not be a candidate for the party's nomination next year and he intends to concentrate on Michigan problems as governor.

"I believe Gov. Romney has made considerable headway in solving Michigan problems," Ford said. "By doing this, he has stayed out of the byplay between Gov. (Nelson) Rockefeller and others in the party. This keeps him in the position of not being labeled by anyone as an extremist."

Ford is one of the party leaders in the state who has been urging the Michigan delegation to the convention to back Romney as a favorite-son candidate for the presidential nomination.

Ford said he agreed with Romney's decision not to be an active candidate for the nomination. As a result, Ford said, the Michigan governor would be in a good position at the convention if the delegates get snarled in arriving at a candidate.

equally pleased by constant evidence of the President's concern for Negro problems.

Thus it was that the president-elect appeared on the porch of his Georgetown home in December, 1960, with Rep. William Dawson, a Chicago Democrat and a Negro. The president-elect told

Here was another evidence of Kennedy's interest and confidence in Negroes — but was it? The question arose: Was the offer to Dawson for real? The Chicago Daily News printed an editorial under the caption:

"We can't believe it. Dawson's record should keep him out of the cabinet."

The News pictured Dawson as the absolute political boss of an empire of corruption, fraud and crime in Chicago. If so, the nomination of Dawson would have invited severe scrutiny and, probably, rejection by the U. S. Senate.

Kennedy scarcely could have been ignorant of Dawson's background nor insensitive to the attitude the Senate might take.

There was suspicion, therefore, that the announcement that Dawson had been tendered and had rejected the job was a political device and that no real proposal had been made to Dawson.

Thereafter Kennedy proposed that Congress establish a new cabinet department of urban affairs. He said he would name a Negro to head the department.

The Republicans almost unanimously cried "fool." They were joined by some Democrats from the South.

This was a political play, these dissenters maintained, to make it impossible for a non-Southern member of Congress to vote against setting up the new department lest he be accused of anti-Negro bias; of voting against a Negro in the cabinet.

However that may have been, Congress did not authorize the new department. But President Kennedy undoubtedly took a substantial political profit among Negro voters.

Now comes a vacancy in the Kennedy cabinet, a cabinet job said to have once been offered to and rejected by a Negro.

If the President's anxiety for a Negro in the cabinet has been for real all along, here is a can't miss opportunity. Or, maybe, the other refusal to Chicago's Rep. President will decide to give an Dawson.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observation. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months. In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthesia or sedation of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynex) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dynex is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in proprietary or over-the-counter form called Preparation 22. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation 22 Suppositories or Preparation 22 Ointment with special applicator. Preparation 22 is sold at all drug counters.

Cyprus Sits on Powder Keg

By HAL MCCLURE
NICOSIA, Cyprus (U) — Blundering docilely now under summer's blazing sun, this island republic appears to be just another tourist stopover in the Eastern Mediterranean.

But this is only a mask hiding festering that could erupt into bloody fighting between the island's squabbling Greek and Turkish communities.

"We hope for the best but fear the worst unless this issue is resolved," was the way one Cypriot put it.

The trouble was sparked nearly seven months ago when the Greek-dominated Council of Ministers failed to agree on how the island's five largest towns should be governed.

The Turks favor separate Greek and Turkish councils for each of the towns — as provided under the constitution. But the Greeks claim this is unequitable and costly. They want mixed Greek-Turkish boards to administer municipal affairs.

"The Greeks seem to have logic on their side," said one Western diplomat. "But the Turks have the law."

NO SOLUTION FOUND

The island's highest court has failed to find a solution and tension between the two communities is increasing. Isolated violence has broken out, but cool heads on both sides have prevented it from spreading.

Terror is no stranger to Cyprus. The islanders — estimated now to number about 880,000, of whom 80 per cent are Greek — in 1960 threw off British colonial rule that had lasted 82 years. But it took four long years of bloodshed which claimed 600 lives.

At the end, Greek and Turk were battling each other. The Greek Cypriot battle cry of "enosis" — union with Greece — embittered the island Turks, who still claim the Greeks want to join the ancestral homeland.

But enosis hopes were cooled, if not killed, when in 1963 Archbishop Makarios, now president of Cyprus, signed the London-Zurich agreements. Greece, Turkey and Britain also signed as interested parties.

The agreements ruled that Cyprus could never join another state. Minority rights of Turks were guaranteed, including seats in the Council of Ministers, the House of Representatives and in the Civil Service. The separate Turk and Greek municipal administrations also were outlined. Makarios, severely criticized by some of his own people for signing the accords, says he has no regrets and would do it again.

"I tried to get the agreements changed in London, but I failed," the bearded prelate — politician told an interviewer recently. "I knew we would have trouble carrying them out."

"The Turks get more than their share," said one Greek Cypriot. "Have you ever heard of a vice president being able to veto a president?"

Under the constitution the president (Greek) and the vice president (Turkish) have certain veto rights.

Makarios was asked if he still wanted enosis. His dark eyes widened in a characteristic gesture, then he smiled. "There's a big difference in what is desirable and what is achievable."

Makarios, in contrast to Turkish leaders here, is optimistic about Cyprus' future. He sees the island progressing economically along a three-pronged path: tourism, agriculture and light industry.

The toddler republic has been the recipient of much foreign assistance, considering its size. In all, the island has received nearly 800 million in grants, technical assistance and loans from friendly countries, the United Nations and the World Bank and Council of Europe. The United States has offered more than $12 million in aid.

While Cyprus' main exports are minerals and agricultural products, the islanders still import more than they send out. The imbalance of trade amounted to about $24 million last year. They hope to manufacture more of their own goods to offset this.

HEARD NO MORE

Also propping the Cypriot economy are the big British army and air force bases on the island. The cry once heard throughout the island, "Tommy, go home," is sounded no more.

If things look so rosy why the anxiety?

"We're a minority on the island," said Dr. Paul Kuchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president. "We are in danger . . . there could be a bloodbath."

Kuchuk, a former physician who still holds a free clinic once a week, claims Greek boycott Turkish merchants and

Boy Scouts Turn 'Injun' on Vandals

BESANCON, France (U) — A group of boy scout campers from Strasbourg ambushed a band of hoodlums, tied their captives to a post and "scalped" them, village officials reported today.

For several nights the scouts' tents and baggage had been damaged by vandals.

Saturday night the scouts leaped out of hiding places and captured two of the fleeing band. The youths, both well known in a nearby village, admitted their mischief.

The scouts painted them liberally with mercurchrome and clipped their ducktailed locks—the badge of their gang—to the scalp.

Instruct Envoy on Embassy

HAVANA (UPI) — Swiss Ambassador Emil Stadelhofer flew in from home yesterday with undisclosed instructions from his government regarding the Castro regime's expropriation of the U.S. embassy office building here.

Stadelhofer declined comment when he was questioned by newsmen at the airport, but it was reported he would seek to arrange discussions with the revolutionary regime at the earliest possible moment.

The embassy building has been in Swiss care since the United States severed relations with Cuba early in 1961. The Swiss have protested the proposed seizure of the building.

Premier Fidel Castro said Friday that his government will insist that the Swiss surrender the building. He said they may have any help they request in moving documents stored there to some other place.

Chamber of Commerce to Open Foreign Office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Chamber of Commerce today announced it was opening its first overseas office Aug. 1 in Paris. The chamber said the office would provide American businessmen with information about Western Europe trade developments and act as a headquarters for American chamber units in Europe.

Spain Miners Still Striking; Defy Firings

OVIEDO, Spain (UPI) — An estimated 6,000 mine workers remained on strike today despite dismissal notices sent by mine management to all strikers.

The miners walked out July 19 to protest a fine assessed a miner and to demand bonus pay they said was withheld. Workers in nearby metal industries joined them, raising the number of strikers to 11,000.

The dismissal notices said the strikers would be rehired if they returned to work but would lose their seniority.

Informed sources expect negotiations to take place through the office of the civil governor for this area.

Widespread strikes in the mining and metal working industries last year, the first ever staged since Gen. Francisco Franco took power, won wage increases and fringe benefits.

East Germany May Renew Threat to Berlin Corridors

By WILLIAM J. FOX
United Press International
Notes from the foreign news cables:

BERLIN THREATS:

Despite Nikita Khrushchev's warning-up tactics toward the West, there is speculation that new threats to Berlin's access routes may crop up at a meeting of the puppet East German Parliament this Wednesday at which Communist leader Walter Ulbricht will speak.

The speculation ranges from imposition of transit visas on West Germans when they travel to West Berlin or enter East Germany, up to new air traffic regulations which could pose a threat to the three air corridors into the city.

Also rumored is the possible incorporation of East Berlin formally into East Germany, ending the four-power status of the city and cutting of the right of Western garrison members to enter East Berlin.

Any of these steps would be taken as signifying that the Russians do not plan to extend the new thaw in international relations to Berlin.

JAPANESE COMMUNISTS:

Japan's Communists are embarrassed by Red China's renunciation of the Moscow nuclear test-ban agreement.

Over-all, the agreement is popular in Japan, the only nation ever to experience the effects of a nuclear bombing. The Japanese Communists, who lean toward the Peking line, went along with Red China's position on the test ban.

This stand was stated first last Friday by Kuo Mo-lo, vice chairman of Red China's standing committee of the National People's Congress.

He told a Peking rally then that the attempt by "a small number of countries" to control the world's destiny by monopolizing nuclear weapons would be smashed in the near future — a reference that Red China hopes to have an atom-bomb weapon of its own regardless of the test-ban agreement.

DE GAULLE VISIT:

It is still far from official, but French President Charles de Gaulle's aides privately are planning next January as a likely target date for him to make a trip to Washington. He has said it is his turn to go there, but has set no date for the trip.

However, the aides expect a round of lower level talks to pave the way first. Then, by January 1964, they hint, things should be ripe for de Gaulle to call on President Kennedy.

MALAYSIAN FORMATION:

Despite the blusterings of Indonesian President Sukarno, insiders look for the British-backed Federation of Malaysia to be formed on schedule Aug. 31.

The biggest hurdle to the new nation was cleared in London earlier in July with the settling of financial problems among Malaysia and its Borneo.

laysia, big brother of the foundation, and its new partners—Singapore, Sarawak and North Informal observers do not believe Sukarno would risk the displeasure of the United States by using force to stop the birth of the federation.

VATICAN SHAKEUP:

Several insiders are beginning to expect a reshuffle in the Vatican's administration before the end of the year. There is nothing definite yet, but an air of nervousness imperceptible to the inexperienced eye indicates many share the belief.

When Pope Paul VI was elected in June, he immediately confirmed all Vatican dignitaries in their offices. But it seems unlikely that a man with his long experience in the curia wouldn't have some idea of who is best for what job.

It now remains to be seen when and how he will act.

Elephants are the hydraulic engineers of the African wilds. In times of drought, they gouge wells in dry river beds, providing essential water for other animals in the vicinity.

Researcher Studies Problems in State

Fight Jobless Rate With Training Plan

KALAMAZOO (P) — The heated dispute over Michigan's chronic unemployment problem may cool off a bit soon.

A researcher for the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research has just concluded a year-long study of Michigan's unemployment problem and has come up with a list of recommendations that may eliminate it.

Dr. Harold T. Smith has found that the only permanent way to stem unemployment is through a statewide vocational training program. He calls for establishing — by law — an extensive training program "as a deliberate goal of the Michigan public education system."

"As important as education is for the development of the individual . . . it is not enough for the majority of people who operate our machines, shops, and provide our services," Smith states in his book, "Education and Training for the World of Work."

"More and more occupations require skills and specialized training for which there must be prior training. The development of an adequate vocational training system is prerequisite to a successful program of training and retraining," he says.

Smith says three types of institutions are needed in Michigan to stem unemployment: "A comprehensive area post-secondary and adult education schools is the hub of the whole vocational training system of tomorrow," he says.

Smith points out that most high schools cannot offer the variety of programs needed in a vocational training, and post-secondary and adult education school is the hub of the whole vocational training system of tomorrow," he says.

Smith points out that most high schools cannot offer the variety of programs needed in vocational training, and post-secondary and adult education schools have better facilities and more specialized staffs.

LIKE CLIMATE

Smith has also found that most adults favor post-secondary schools for their retraining because they like the professional climate and teaching methods.

A second institution needed in fighting unemployment is a comprehensive high school, says Smith. "It should provide elementary and preparatory vocational programs . . . and afternoon and evening training programs for adults and out-of-school youths as are needed."

Smith objects to the tendency of many parents who look down on vocational training and are blinded by "the prestige of going to college."

He also feels many students drop out of high school because teachers fail to show them the practical applications of the "college prep" courses.

FIRST STEP

For areas not able to afford post-secondary centers or comprehensive high school programs, Smith recommends a cooperative vocational center. He says such centers are the first step in organizing community colleges, and should be organized with that goal in mind.

From his year of study, Smith has come up with a list of recommendations for making vocational training institutions a reality.

"The present formula for state support of public schools should be revised," he says. "It should be a formula, such as now used by a number of other states, that provides a larger amount of state aid for the costlier vocational courses than it does for the other less costly courses."

FEDERAL AID

Federal aid to Michigan school programs has been helpful, says Smith, but it also needs revision, because it is not flexible to changing needs.

"Any school district not part of a community college district should be responsible for contributing to the support of each community college where any of its residents are enrolled," says Smith.

Other changes recommended by Smith include doing more study on what makes a good vocational teacher; changing unemployment relief rules so an adult can get retraining without endangering his financial security; and giving the State Board of Education control over vocational training programs.

"We all have to learn to work, just as we have to learn everything else that we come to know," says Smith.

China to Risk War? 'Absurd,' Says Prof

LONDON (UPI) — Prof. Owen Lattimore, an American expert on the Far East, who was attacked as a security risk by the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, said today it was "an absurdity" to think Communist China would gamble on a nuclear war.

Writing in the Daily Herald, Lattimore said Mao Tse-tung's tactics resemble those employed by a chess player and not those of a poker player.

"I think therefore the charge that the Chinese are willing to gamble on a nuclear Armageddon because more Chinese would survive than anybody else is an absurdity," Lattimore said.

Railways of Finland are linked to those of Sweden and Soviet Russia.

To Try Paper Uniforms to Save Hospital Money

ACTON, England (UPI) — Nurses at Acton Hospital are to wear experimental paper uniforms for one year as part of an economy drive starting this fall.

The experiment, sponsored by the King Edward Hospital Fund for London, involves the use of paper caps, jackets and aprons.

Man Dies in Chocolate

LOS ANGELES, (UPI) — The body of Thomas Rodriguez, 62, was found yesterday under two feet of chocolate in a vat at the candy company where he worked as a maintenance engineer.

Sheep ranching in Alaska's Aleutian Islands is regaining the foothold lost in World War II.

Boat Cruise Winds Up in Wild Brawling

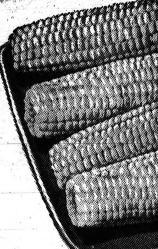

BOSTON (P) — The charges of "participating in an affray" against 22 men don't begin to tell the story of the excursion cruise billed as "a night to be enjoyed by everyone."

The Nantasket boat Dayline I sailed Saturday night with 275 persons aboard. The vessel had been chartered by the Hull Knight Vallant Club, a Boston north end group.

But before long, a fight erupted on the dance floor, officials said, apparently over a girl. First Mate Harry Rogers of Melrose estimated there were 20 fights going on at one time.

When the boat returned prematurely to its berth, it was greeted by scores of officers, half a dozen police dogs and a fire engine company.

The spokesman for the vessel's owners estimated damage at $2,000.

Mint Exec Sees Lack of Coins

By ADREN COOPER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The government doesn't have enough hard money to go around, and, oddly enough, this may be a good sign.

Eva B. Adams, director of the U.S. Mint, says "There has been a shortage of coins for months, and it appears to be growing worse." But she pointed out that a recent study ordered by the mint indicated the demand for coins goes hand in hand with the ups and downs of the economy.

For the past 12 months, the call for coins has climbed right along with the gross national product—the total of goods and services produced—generally considered a reliable measure of the country's economic health.

The government's mints, at Philadelphia and Denver, produced 3.6 billion pieces of money in the fiscal year which ended June 30. The mints have been on virtually a 24-hour, seven-day week basis for months.

Reports of coin shortages have come from Albuquerque, Philadelphia, Boston and other areas.

"In a way, it's rather puzzling, since coins don't wear out," said Miss Adams. "There is no way to tell for certain just how many coins are in circulation and we don't know precisely what is causing the shortage."

"The demand may be due to more vending machines, more sales taxes or other factors. And then there are the coin collectors; it seems like everyone I meet is a collector."

Man Builds Special Bike for Blind Boy

RAMSEY, N.J. (AP)—A man who loves children and bicycles has built a bike that will enable a blind 8-year-old boy and his mother to ride side by side.

It all began with this ad in The Record of Hackensack:

"Wanted, two 24-inch bikes, so my daddy can have them welded together for mommy and me to ride together. 1/200¢ and blind. Kenneth Jones, 40 High Ramsey."

Mrs. Paul Jones, Kenny's mother, said, "A woman from Englewood was kind enough to donate two bikes and Mr. (Wallington) Simpson volunteered to build the bike."

Simpson, almost blinded in a freak accident 15 months ago, has built bicycles free for 10 children in his neighborhood at Waldwick.

"When I was a kid, I didn't have a bike of my own. Every kid should have a bike," he said.

Kenny's bicycle consists of two bikes, connected by three metal bars.

Loses Hand in Mock War

WEST POINT, Ohio (AP)—Richard J. Lacher, Jr., 16, lost his left hand and suffered severe powder burns while firing a cannon Sunday during a mock Civil War battle. His condition was reported as serious.

The accident occurred as Lacher shoved a ramrod down the barrel of a 16-pound brass cannon.

More than 10,000 persons viewed the mock battle commemorating the 100th anniversary of the capture of Confederate Gen. John Hunt Morgan.

Iranians Killed as Patrol Sinks Smuggler Boat

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Tehran newspaper Koyhan claimed 21 Iranians were killed and 24 injured when a Kuwait patrol boat fired on a launch trying to smuggle job-seekers into Kuwait.

The paper reported Sunday that the incident occurred near Sitt Island just off Kuwait in the Persian Gulf. It quoted survivors as saying the patrol vessel fired on the launch, then rammed it, causing it to sink.

A Kuwait Interior Ministry spokesman claimed at least 13 persons drowned July 19 when the Kuwaiti patrol boat fired in the air, causing the Iranians to panic and overturn their craft.

System 'Needs Prod'

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK — The head of the country's second largest steel company says the nation's economy is "a little sticky" and could use a little prod.

"People are waiting to see what action will be taken in legislation, what attitude will be taken toward encouraging investment and building confidence," said Arthur B. Homer, board chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Homer's remarks to newsmen Thursday came when many corporations were reporting banner earnings and several economic indicators stood at record highs. But the stock market — a prophet of business prospects — was staggering uncertainly.

Homer said the steel industry, slumping after a springtime surge, probably will level out this fall and turn slightly upward as cold weather sets in.

That's when big customers are expected to run out of steel stockpiled last spring during a strike threat.

Production for the year will top the $8.3 million tons of 1962 by about 5 per cent, he estimated.

REPORTED GAIN
Bethlehem had just reported April-June earnings of $29,361,691, a gain of about one-third from the corresponding quarter of last year, but up roughly one-half after adjustments for federal tax rules first applied at the end of last year. The 1962 second quarter was slow for steel.

Bethlehem's gain was far short of dazzling performances by some other major steel producers.

Homer explained this in terms of heavy start up and break in expenditures under Bethlehem's $750-million three-year capital spending program, and a less favorable product mix.

Other companies are more closely attuned to the demands

Syncom-2 Nearing Its 'Hanging Orbit'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The space agency expects the Syncom-2 satellite to be in its proper position of a "hanging orbit" within a few days.

The communications satellite, designed to handle telephone, telegraph and still picture transmissions, will remain in roughly the same spot—55 degrees west longitude and moving 30 degrees north and south of the equator in a figure eight, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday.

As such, the satellite will provide a 24-hour communication link between a ground station at Lakehurst, N.J., and the communications ship Kingpost anchored at half after adjustments for federal of the booming auto industry, steel's second biggest customer. Bethlehem is closely tied to the depressed shipbuilding industry and to heavy construction.

The second quarter showing compared with profits of $22,639,294 reported for April-June of 1962 and $19,339,380 cleared in the first quarter this year.

On a per-share basis, the company earned 61 cents in the second quarter of 1963, 46 cents in the like 1962 period, and 39 cents in the 1963 first quarter.

U. S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 steelmaker, discloses tomorrow how it made out.

Homer said a disagreement with Baltimore area civil rights groups that led to a demonstration against hiring and promotion policies at Bethlehem's giant Sparrows Point plant had been worked out.

He said it resulted in no significant change in company procedures for filling managerial-level positions.

"We are a very important employer of Negroes and other minority groups," Homer said. "We treat Negroes like we treat anybody else."

U.S. Plan for Africans Is Opposed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A U.S. proposal negotiated independence for Portuguese Africa encountered opposition from both Portugal and the Africans today.

U.S. and British rejection of a resolution backed by all the African countries—except, boycotted South Africa—brought resentment among the African leaders, but moves were under way to seek a compromise that would meet Western approval.

The United States and Britain both held that the resolution, sponsored by Ghana, Morocco and the Philippines, was couched in terms of orders the council is empowered to issue against threats to the peace or aggression.

Foreign Minister Joao Karefa-Smart of Sierra Leone planned to deal with that contention when he addresses the council today.

Karefa-Smart told the council Friday he would present "irrefutable evidence of present and continuing acts of war which are being perpetrated in the Portuguese colonies, including wholesale bombings of defenseless villages with planes which, since Portugal does not make planes, we can only assume are gifts of her NATO friends."

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson suggested that instead of demanding immediate independence for Portugal's African territories, the Security Council should appoint a diplomat to conduct negotiations for freeing the areas. "We are not here to endanger the peace but to guard it," he said.

Junior Editors Quiz on BATS

HE'S TAKING A NICE NAP

QUESTION: Are bats really blind?

ANSWER: As our top pictures, taken from photographs, show, bats do have eyes, but they are small. Although bats are fairly well they do not depend on their eyes alone, because they are night animals flying when there is often very little light. Its hearing prevents the bat from smashing into trees or other obstacles when the light is dim.

Experts agree that bats can hear sounds too high pitched for human ears to detect. A flying bat makes a high pitched squeaking.

From the echoes it senses the obstacles in its path.

FOR YOU TO DO: There is nothing like a bat and a moon to make a spooky looking picture. Make one of your own, using the big bat our artist has drawn and color it with silvery moonlight colors.

Court Gives Mother Custody

Wants to Live With Dad

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Just before school was out my dad asked me if I wanted to live with him. Mom didn't want one, but they got divorced anyway.

Now my brother gets to live with my dad and I have to live with mom. All my friends got to choose which parent they wanted to live with when their parents broke up, but nobody even asked me.

ABBY: I think a 13-year-old girl should know what is best for her, but mom says she knows better what is best for me. How can I get to live with my dad? My mother is always yelling at me for something and we don't get along. Don't you think it should be MY choice?

STUCK WITH MOM
DEAR STUCK: When some adults don't know what is best for themselves, how are children expected to know? Young ladies are usually better off living with their mothers.

Take my word for it, honey, and don't complicate your mother's life by complaining. She has enough on her mind right now.

DEAR ABBY: If you don't answer this right away I am going to have a nervous breakdown. I have been married for nine years and have three children.

Out of the clear blue sky my sister, who is four years older than I am, said to me, "I wish you'd tell 'Buddy' (that's what she calls my husband) to keep his eyes off me." I told her she must be imagining things.

When I mentioned this to my husband he said to forget it—that she was a trouble maker. My sister has never been married and claims she hates men. I can't get this out of my mind. How can I be sure?

NERVOUS
DEAR NERVOUS: Believe your husband. And tell your sister the next time she catches your husband.

hand ogling her to direct her complaints to "Buddy" himself.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a guy who tells you that he loves you, and in the next breath he says he doesn't care if you go out with other guys?

THE GIRL
DEAR GIRL: I think he is angling for the same privilege. (Other GIRLS—not "GUYS.")

DEAR ABBY: Arthur's idiot (who broke out in uncontrollable laughter every time he kissed her) brought back memories of myself.

My husband and I eloped many years ago. We were young and didn't have much money. In fact, I had to dig into my purse to help pay for the blood tests.

When the justice of the peace asked my husband if he would "show her all his worldly goods on me," I broke up in laughter and became so hysterical they had to hold me up.

ANOTHER IDIOT

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. Z.: I wouldn't let that poor excuse for a man on my front porch. And if you sign for your daughter to marry him, knowing that he lied about having a wife and family, you, Madame, should have your head examined.

Budget Food Shopping Challenges Skill

By MARY FEELEY

There are few things in life more challenging to a woman's common sense, skill, and courage than managing her weekly food shopping. Usually, she's faced with appetites and tastes that vary — but with a sum of money that doesn't!

The uphill going is not only tough, it's endless. At least, until the family income takes a turn Bratchard Williams, followed the ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of the Stanley Stewarts of Mott Avenue.

Sequined Rochelle lace over taffeta for the bride was styled with Basque bodice and chapel sweep. She donned a seed pearl tiara and bouffant illusion veil. A white orchid centered her bouquet of feathered carnations and miniature chrysanthemums.

Kathy Louise McIntyre, maid of honor, wore cerulean blue nylon over taffeta with jacket and held a colonial bouquet of pink roses and feathered carnations.

Teresa Marie Samson, bridesmaid, appeared in a shell-pink dress of identical styling. She carried American Beauty roses and variegated carnations. Kevin Williams carried the rings.

On the esquire side were Perry Lane, best man, with ushers Ronald Frizzle and Darrell Stewart.

for the better. The determined souls who pick up the challenge and refuse to admit defeat have my sincere admiration.

If your own food budget is giving you the blues, maybe some of the spirit and philosophy expressed in these letters will rub off on you:

Dear Miss Feeley:

In a recent column, a reader protested your suggesting that $35.50 to $47.50 a week is inadequate to feed a family of six. But as you said, what one must do, one can.

Nine years ago I was feeding a family of four on $36 a week. Today I am feeding a family of seven on a weekly budget of $30.

Nine years ago I resented anyone telling me I could eat more cheaply and eat well. But slowly, as necessity dictated, I found more and more ways to save until today I will readily admit that even now I could do better.

I shop where lowest prices are found. I walk. I buy exactly what everyone will eat and no more. I plan very simple meals and avoid like poison the little extras. I learned the art of making powdered milk taste good. Bit by bit we gave up family favorites we didn't really need.

I do not recommend $30 a week for a family of seven. I only support, by actual experience, your claim that $35.50 is adequate for six. Those who don't need to limit the budget to that shouldn't feel they ought to.

It involves changing your whole concept of what is satisfactory for yourself and your family. Since change in the family's eating pattern involves the whole family, all must cooperate. I found I could not change my family's preferences overnight.

I just gave up little luxuries one at a time. And not a single step was an easy one.

On the strength of what knowledge I acquired through the reading of your column plus the encouragement I found there, I tackled our entire financial problem, and with God's help — for we had turned to Him as well — came out with a workable budget. By workable, I mean it works!

Mrs. W. A. S., Libertyville, Ill.

Dear Miss Feeley:

Mrs. W. L. was amused at the thought of spending $35.50 to $47.50 to feed! I am amazed that anyone would consider that too little.

All our children are exceptionally tall and healthy — no one in the family is over or under weight. So I must have done pretty well through the years. Our circumstances are well above average but our food bills are moderate (I think).

My supermarket bill is usually well under $30 a week, and includes paper products and a few sundries. Milk is home delivered for $25 a month. This does not include school lunches, or my husband's lunch, but provides ample meals. When I want to economize, I can do on less.

How? I figure carefully cost versus time saved on processed foods before purchasing, but few "junk foods." Every week we have the supermarket meat special twice—last week it was pork and chicken.

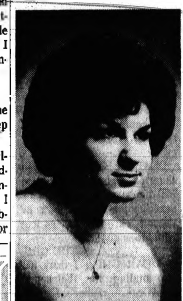

Oatmeal is much loved and is so economical for breakfasts. Sixty cents worth of chicken giblets on rice, plus a can of cream of celery soup, is a fine dish. So are noodles and tuna, beef liver, stew, Home-made vegetable soup is a favorite.

I'm raising children who adore shrimp and lobster — but relish casseroles. It can be done!

Mrs. E. J. L., Cincinnati

Dear Miss Feeley:

We have four children, ages one

Newlyweds Plan to Visit Atlantic City

Honeymoon plans for the Richard Perry Tisons (Barbara Sue Stone), who were wed Saturday in the First Baptist Church, include visits to Atlantic City, Ashbury Park and New York City.

Buffet dinner and a church reception followed the double-ring candlelight ceremony performed by Rev. Robert Shelton.

The daughter of the Reuben L. Stones of Robinwood Avenue appeared in Chantilly lace and white silk organza over tulle, styled with bouffant skirt and chapel sweep.

A rose headpiece secured her illusion veil and she carried white roses, Stephanotis and feathered carnations.

Mrs. Bill Hopkins, St.
Louis, Mo., her sister's honorary matron and bridesmaid Sandra Stone, June Tison and Janice Starkey appeared in full-length aquamarine nylon organza.

They held turquoise-tipped carnations.

Donna Hopkins was flower girl and Stacey Lloyd were ringbearers.

Larry Tison assisted his brother as best man. They are the sons of the Pearly
R. Tisons of Pontiac Road.
Completing the esquire side were Darryl Tison, Roger Halst and James Kitchen, who ushered.

Polly's Pointers

Handy Way to Dust

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am a gal who likes to refinish furniture. Often, after sanding, I find some dust almost impossible to reach with any type brush.

I utilize an EMPTY squeeze bottle which I keep in my cleaning gear. With a few quick squeezes, the dust disappears. There are several places around the keyboard of my organ which cannot be reached in any way except with the vacuum, and this was where I first used the empty squeeze bottle.

It is also grand to clean dust and lint from the bobbin section on a sewing machine when you have no time to take it apart for a thorough cleaning.

— D. S. L.

DEAR POLLY — Quite by accident last summer, I discovered something that my help other girls on vacation.

When you are at a motel and discover you have no shower cap, use the plastic rain cap that most of us always carry in our purses. It will work well in an emergency.

— MRS. J. O. S.

DEAR POLLY — We changed the double beds in our house for single beds, but those double-width blankets really caused trouble.

If they were put on the beds one-inch off-center, they were dragging on the floor on one side or the other. One day I cut a strip off one side and added it to the foot of each blanket, bound the cut edges with blanket binding and, presto, a blanket exactly wide enough, with a wonderful addition to the tuck-in end. They never came out at the foot any more.

— MRS. A. E. H.

DEAR POLLY — To keep a portable dishwasher water from splashing when it empties into the sink, tie a dish rag over the connection and let it hang down. The water will flow in the usual manner, but without splashing. Dish rag is easily removed.

— MRS. V. E.

DEAR POLLY — Clamp two small spoons, lengthwise, into an old mop handle and you have as good a floor waxer as anyone could want.

— MRS. A. R.

Negro Tosses Note to JFK

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—Secret Service agents yesterday detained a well-dressed Negro when he tried to toss a message to President Kennedy.

The man, who appeared to be in his late 30s, approached Kennedy's automobile as the President was leaving St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church following the 9 a.m. (Pontiac time) mass.

He was released after questioning, and walked away smiling with a duffle bag slung over his shoulder.

BRAND HATCH, England (UPI)—Sixty competitors failed to arrive yesterday in time for the start of the annual "Motorcyclist of the Year" contest. They were delayed by traffic jams.

Officials to Discuss Job, Race Practices

DETROIT (U)—A federal official will hold a special meeting with Wayne County officials Friday to discuss alleged discriminatory employment practices by some firms holding contracts in which federal funds are involved.

Road Commissioner Al Barbour said all county departments and agencies are involved with contracts that include some federal funds.

The purpose of the meeting, he said, is to "determine how we can all best cooperate in effecting the President's directive as it pertains to contracts in which the federal government participates."

Minuteman OK in 11 Launches Conducted by AF

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (U)—Eleven of thirteen Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile launches have proved successful for the Air Force.

A Strategic Air Command crew from Montana fired successfully the latest Minuteman (ICBM from this decade installation Saturday.

The launching was described as a routine training exercise.

Two previous firings failed to achieve planned results.

In charge of Saturday's firing was a crew from Malmstrom Air Force Base headed by Capt. Julius H. Kershaw Jr. of Ogden, Utah, and his deputy, 2nd Lt. Joseph R. Zaleski of Makanda, Ill.

Annual Oats Harvest Recalls Earlier Era

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderworp

Before The Threshing Machine Can Do Its Work, Wagons Must Be Loaded

By JOE MULLEN
There's nothing quite like an old-fashioned oat harvest. And one needn't travel to the hinterlands to view such a spectacle.

The end-of-July ritual, utilizing methods of a generation or more ago, take place annually at the Dale Glynn farm in White Lake Township.

Watching the harvest process at Glynn's farm at 5901 Grass Lake Road recalls the era of the 30's.

First, there is a gathering on Glynn's 31 acres of men and boys by a group of pitchfork wielding men and boys. Some are very old, others barely big enough to handle a pitchfork.

The harvest activities begin as an old binder pulled by a tractor (the only modern implement used) starts out through the fields of golden oats. As it meanders up and back the binder cuts, bundles and ties with string.

An accident wagon drawn by an equally dated team of horses then picks up the bundles heaped up by a group of pitchfork wielding men and boys. The bundles are then fed into a 35-year-old grain separator and a large cylinder inside knocks the oats loose from the straw.

Grain then falls to the bottom of the machine and the straw remains on top on straw racks. A blower shoots the straw out the back and augers punch the grain out a smaller trough at the side into a truck.

Meanwhile, everyone keeps busy. The old, belt-driven machine bears constant watching from several stations. Straw must be piled and the oats must be guided into the truck.

HARD WORK

It's hard work for all concerned, especially on a hot day. But, the annual harvest is always a thrilling event, especially for the old timers.

The women also had work to do. They provided a hearty meal for the men folks and had cool liquid refreshments available when the field workers had completed their chores.

Glynn operates his small farm on a part time basis. He lives in the country mainly to have some space to move around in. He sells most of the grain and some straw but keeps most of it for hay.

While neighbor Carl Brenda was participating in the threshing bee at the Glynn farm, his brother, Bill, was harvesting his crop in a one-operation, air conditioned combine.

City School Census Lists Student Increase of 553

Pontiac school district has 553 more children of school age to expect in the classrooms this year, next year, but then predicts that enrollments will remain constant for about three years.

In 1962, the census showed 25,858 school-age (5-19) children. The most recent tally raises this figure to 26,411.

The census, which is conducted in May every year, shows a decrease this year in the number of preschool-age children.

The 1963 nosecount disclosed 10,490 in the four-and-under age group, while last year this group was listed at 11,007.

School officials use the census data to project future enrollments.

INFANTS DECREASE

William J. Lacy, assistant superintendent for instruction and pupil personnel, said the number of children under a year old has declined steadily each year since 1968 with the exception of 1961.

In 1957, some 2,524 children under one were counted by the census takers. This dropped to 2,366 in 1958, but jumped back up to 2,214 by 1961.

The census shows 2,010 children under one this year.

Lacy expects elementary school enrollments to increase slightly in 1964, but then forecasts a slight decrease for several years. The same is nearly true for Senior high school enrollments will increase by 600-700 pupils each year for the next four years.

Lacy anticipates a peak enrollment of 4,000 in 1967. He said high school enrollments should remain relatively constant after the peak year for six or seven years.

Lacy expressed some caution in the census results. He said changes in employment or the development of new housing units could change the picture, particularly at the elementary level.

GOP After Seat Left as Dem Dies

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania Republicans, winners of two special elections to the U.S. House of Representatives this year, try tomorrow to capture the seat held more than 30 years by Democrat Francis E. Walter.

Walter, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, died May 30 of leukemia.

Seeking the remaining year and a half of Walter's term are Democratic State Sen. Fred R. Rooney, 37, and Robert G. Bartlett, 31, a Republican on leave from Bethlehem Steel Co. to make his first race for public office. Both are from Bethlehem.

Observers rate the contest a close one despite a Democratic registration lead of 83,505 to 56,005 in the 15th District.

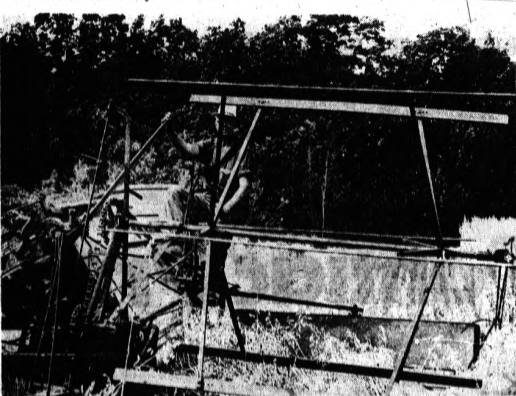

Bartlett, a personnel executive, two years ago planned the strategy that ousted Democrats from control of Bethlehem's city government for the first time in 40 years.

He has urged reform of federal tax policies, reduction of foreign aid and elimination of waste in the defense program.

Rooney, a real estate man serving his second term in the state senate, has campaigned for federal aid to education, more help for economically depressed communities and stiffer restrictions on imports.

There are several dozen bridge writers in the United States today.

Half a dozen stand out.
And one's supreme.

Oswald Jacoby

As you know, Jacoby writes for The Pontiac Press. In addition to standing as the champion player, Jacoby is the champion writer. And this is important, for some of the top rated authorities aren't particularly articulate.

Our man is.

He's terse, explicit and easy to understand.

The only actual mathematical evaluation of bridge champions today is the number of Master Points They have accumulated.

Jacoby's first.

The rest trail by varying degrees and amounts. This isn't opinion. It's factual.

Nasser Gets Syrian Setback

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—

The resignation of Syrian Revolutionary Council President Louai Atlassi was seen today as a loss for the moderate wing of the ruling Ba'athist party and a new setback for supporters of U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Damascus Radio reported Saturday that Atlassi quit and was replaced by Ba'athist strongman Maj. Gen. Amin al

Haliz, who also assumed the post of Syrian armed forces commander-in-chief.

Observers in Lebanon noted that Atlassi and Syrian Premier Salah Bilar were regarded as moderate members of the Ba'athist party, at least in regard to the nation's relations with the U.A.R.

Youths Vie in Auto-Styling Contest

By JAMES STICKFORD
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — The car of tomorrow may have retractable wings, cruise on water and be powered by an atomic reactor.

At least that's the way many of the youthful stylists in the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild annual design contest see the shape of cars in years to come.

About 2,000 boys, 11 to 20, have entered this year's all-male contest, which for the first time has a special open qualification.

The requirements for the new classification are "a wheeled-transportation vehicle for the land transportation of two to six people."

The two standard classifications are one for regular cars and the second for compacts and sports models.

The model cars from all over the country make an impressive display in a special exhibit room at Fisher Body headquarters in Warren. Some of the models are beautifully designed, crafted and finished while others are crude jobs of beginners.

2 CATEGORIES

To give everyone a fair chance, judging for the contest is broken down into senior and junior categories. Juniors range from 11 through 15 and seniors from 16 through 20.

At stake are prizes worth $117,000. The national winners in each group get scholarships: $5,000 for first place, $4,000 for second, $3,000 for third and $2,000 for fourth.

National winners will be announced tomorrow at an awards banquet.

A total of 1,078 prizes are given the youths. Each state has winners and then the top designers from the states go into regional contests with the country broken into 20 regions. Allowing for duplicate awards, about 45 boys reach the finals.

If the parent of a winner works for General Motors, including its dealers, duplicate awards are given.

Since the contest started in 1958, a Fisher Body spokesman said, a total of 279 university scholarships have been given as prizes totaling $711,500, and the total value of all awards has exceeded $2 million.

The models are subjected to rigid inspection and are judged on six qualities: scale fidelity, workmanship, painting, originality of design, artistic merit and practicality.

1 TO 12 SCALE
Specifications call for rigid adherence to a 1 to 12 scale specification with one inch equaling a foot. The judges go to great lengths with specially made tools, including templates with scaled down human figures, to make sure the scale is true.

"In blowing them up to size, the place the boys generally lose the scale is on trim and aerials and the like," Dick Herdegen, a Fisher employee who sets up the judging, said.

Many of the youths can't quite get their models to come out like they want them he added, so they include explanatory notes to account for the difference.

One youth had trouble with his passenger area and told the engineers that the "car was designed for the 21st century and people will be thinner then."

"The youths include their cars' 'dope sheets' that tell how the models function. One called for an atomic-powered vehicle and another had wings that extended from the dome when the car became airborne.

"It's for the busy executive," the designer explained. "No time lost waiting at airports."

Joe Hainline, public relations director at Fisher Body and general chairman of the guild's annual convention, said a total of 650,000 youths are registered in the guild this year.

He said past surveys indicated about 4,000 youths began cars this year and about half finished them.

Herdegen said boys often enter the contest annually. "You can see their work as being crude in the beginning and then after a few years they start turning out good finished products."

He said the contest has proven a steppingstone to a career in the automotive engineering and design field for many of the youths.

SUCCESS STORY

Probably the most spectacular success story of the guild is that of Charles M. Jordan, who won the top prize in the contest in 1947 and now is executive in charge of automotive design at the General Motors styling staff.

Although many of the youths show advanced thinking in their designs, they seldom come up with an idea that hasn't been tried by the professionals. One spokesman said in the early 1950's a youth designed a window that was similar to one engineers were working on but that was the only case he knew of where such a thing happened.

If any designer should come up with what developed into a production car in the GM line, the idea would belong to the company, however.

Waivers are signed giving the company the right to the ideas in the models. But such an event is highly unlikely because of the competitive nature of automotive design.

With each model, the entrants sign a slip indicating they did all the work on the car. The parents also must sign the statement.

Fisher spokesman said about 40 per cent of the winners in the contest's history have gone into some type of design work. Questionnaires have shown 15 per cent of the entries want to become auto designers and 10 per cent hope for engineering careers.

In 1958, the youthful designers made models of the famous coach that is the trade mark of the in the 1948 cars became the standard body company. In 1937 the com- for the designers.

Killer Strikes Again Inside Prison Walls

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A fight broke out yesterday during church services at the Wynne Prison Farm Chapel, and before guards could break it up, convicted murderer Willie Howard had plunged a homemade knife five times into the body of another convict.

Dead was Freddie L. Morris, 39, of Houston. He had been stabbed twice in the chest, once in the side and twice in the back with a knife made of scrap metal.

It was the second time the 53-year-old Howard had killed inside a prison wall. He is serving a life sentence for the stabbing death of another inmate — at the Revere Prison Farm in Brainerd County in 1952.

'State GOP Delegation Should Support Romney'

LANSING (AP) — Republican National Committeeman John Martin said yesterday that Michigan's delegation to the 1964 GOP convention should work with Gov. George Romney in selecting the party's presidential nominee.

"By committing our support to Gov. Romney," Martin said in a statement issued in Lansing, "we will be in a position to influence the election of a candidate who best meets our standards of measurement."

"Martin explained to the Associated Press that his statement was not intended to make Romney a 'favored son' candidate at the convention but rather 'to make Romney our favorite unit."

The GOP committeeman added: "This doesn't rule Romney out... but it doesn't rule him in, either."

WELCOME MAT

Meanwhile, Martin said, to prepare for 1964, Michigan Republicans must provide a welcome mat for every Republican presidential candidate who cares to visit our state.

"This is our traditional practice, and it has been a good one," he said.

Martin denied that his statement was a move to block plans by conservatives to get delegates committed to Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater included in the Michigan group.

"BEST FOR MICHIGAN"

"I'm just saying that it is not possible now to determine which one of the candidates would be best for the nation and best for Michigan. It's not aimed at any Goldwater movement any more than at supporters for (New York Gov. Nelson) Rockefeller or any other candidate that might come along," Martin declared.

The choice of a presidential nominee is a heavy responsibility on delegates, Martin said.

"It cannot be taken lightly and requires careful evaluation of both the capabilities of the nominee and his ability to help us elect a full slate of candidates," he added.

Martin said that after a good look has been taken at all possible candidates, "we will be in the best position to decide the course of action we should pursue."

"Judgments made prior to that time will be premature and based on an inadequate evaluation of all the facts."

Remove Bodies
in Cairo Rubble

CAIRO — Rescue workers, tired by a night-long search, said today they had pulled out all bodies from three crowded tenement buildings which collapsed. They set the toll at 12 dead.

Nineteen people were found alive in the wreckage. Eight were hospitalized from near suffocation.

Officially said more than 100 persons lived in the three buildings in an old section of Cairo, but only 31 were inside when the collapse occurred yesterday afternoon. Children were outside playing, and many residents were strolling to get fresh air on a stifling day.

Some children lost both parents. Two little boys lost their mother, father and uncle — their entire family.

HOLLYWOOD — Faded happy Hollywood's latest craze is a hypnotist who likes like a blonde Sophia Loren.

Pat Collins not only attracts the Hollywood crowd to the Interlude on the Sunset Strip. She's getting them onstage in droves, often to make perfect fools of themselves.

The other night, Tuesday, she was a stripper. The young actress, uninhibited normally, came up with bumps and grinds that would have made Tempest Storm blush.

Stars Applaud
Applauding in the audience were such as Jackie Gleason, Arthur Godfrey and the usual stay-at-home Jimmy Stewart.

One night Linda Christian was hypnotized into thinking that an unknown customer next to her was Glenn Ford.

"He's a rat," said Linda eloquently. That wasn't long after Ford had announced he was only kidding the night he proposed to Linda after three helpings of her weinerschnitzel.

Lloyd Bridges, television's famed skin diver, was told he was back in "Sea Hunt." He promptly swam through the club.

FLIES OFF
Jill St. John's pretty torso was stretched rigidly between two chairs onstage during much of one performance. Susan Oliver had a fear of flying. A session with Miss Collins and the blonde actress took off by jet for the Moscow Film Festival.

The most frequent subject is Pamela Mason, who comes about once a week. One night last week, she brought her 13-year-old daughter, Portland, and Princess Yasmin, the 14-year-old daughter of Rita Hayworth and the late Aly Khan.

A friend of Rita's at the club telephoned her that her daughter was in a nightclub. Rita quickly asked that Yasmin be put on the phone.

"She can't come to the phone," said Shelley Davis, club owner. "She's onstage, hypnotized."

"Then get me Pamela Mason," demanded Rita.

"Can't," answered Davis. "She's onstage, hypnotized, too."

It was Davis, then a press agent, who discovered Miss Collins playing for $300 a week at a club in nearby Riverside.

PERSONAL CONTACT
Davis signed her to a personal contract. She makes $3,000 a week and Davis is owner of the club where he formerly worked.

Davis says one of the highlights of Miss Collins' stand was the night she convinced Pamela Mason she was Dinah Shore.

"If Pamela had had any kind of a voice at all," says Davis, "I would have signed her on the spot as a featured singer because she had Dinah's style down perfectly."

Poles Plagued by Pox, 40 Cases in Weekend

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Small-pox continued to spread in Poland this weekend. The Health Ministry reported 40 cases, four of them fatal.

The ministry said more than 300,000 persons have been vaccinated since the first case of small-pox appeared two weeks ago in the Breslau region.

After more than a year of silence, the Air Force yesterday released sketchy details on the secret launches of the satellites into polar orbits and the "routine" recovery by a Hawaii-based squadron of capsules ejected from them.

The meager details were made public in connection with the presentation of the "Outstanding Unit Award" to the 44th Test Squadron at Hickam Air Force Base, Honolulu, in recognition of "its record in the development and application of aerial techniques for the recovery of space capsules returned from orbiting satellites."

The first U.S. recovery of a man-made object from space was accomplished on Aug. 11, 1960, when the Air Force's Discoverer 13 satellite ejected a capsule.

It floated down through the atmosphere and into the Pacific Ocean where it was fished out by Navy divers.

A C119 airplane of the Hickam-based squadron made the first aerial recovery of a space capsule on Aug. 19, 1960, grabbing it and its parachute out of the air over the Pacific.

However, early last year, the Defense Department, in a paid Discoverer and other military satellites under a secrecy curtain.

Ever since, there have been announcements on launches from Vandenberg Air Force Base and adjacent Point Arguello, Calif., but nothing has been said of what was launched.

Rainmaker Bats 1,000; Decides He'll Turn Pro

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The mysterious rainmaker of Tulsa is going to turn pro. He says the almost nine inches of rain which flooded parts of Tulsa Saturday convinced him he can make it rain anywhere.

He said he'll produce rain anywhere on a "no rain, no money" basis, meaning he won't take pay unless his efforts are fruitful.

"I feel reasonably sure I have it down pat," he said. But he still prefers to remain anonymous.

He is battling four-for-four in his rain predictions and even claims credit for stopping the deluge Saturday. He called a Tulsa newspaper columnist and said he'd make the downpour stop. Within the hour it slackened off to a mere drizzle.

Trout Get Tougher in South

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Tennessee Game and Fish Commission is putting its hatchery trout through a physical education course before releasing the fish in streams and rivers.

Time was when fishermen turned up their noses at pallid, liver-faded weak-muscled hatchery trout. Twenty years' research into the genetics of fish culture and diet has changed that.

"No troutster worthy of the name could enjoy landing a fish that couldn't whip its way out of a wet paper bag," said Bob Burch, an official of the Game and Fish Commission. "They're being fed a new type of food that gives them the pink, trout-lusting meat and the trout fighting quality."

Burch said trout grown to the proper size in the hatcheries are put into long "races" before being freed. A fast-moving current in the raceways makes the fish keep up a constant battle and tones their muscles for future combat against fisherman.

"Unlike the hatchery-fed fish of a few years ago," Burch said, "today's put-and-take fish are in many respects better than some produced under natural conditions."

Says Rails Can Settle With Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate committee "watchdogging" railroad union talks says it certainly is possible for them to settle their dispute by negotiations.

"I don't think those parties are as far apart as is assumed," said Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., acting chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, which has been hearing testimony on President Kennedy's proposals for averting a nationwide rail strike. Pastore commented in an interview after two weekend negotiating sessions, conducted by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, failed to bring any signs of progress. Pastore, indicating strong congressional reluctance to act in the strike, cut short hearings Saturday so the talks could be resumed.

The Senate and House Commerce Committees scheduled sessions today.

Rail union leaders were scheduled to testify on Kennedy's proposal to let the Interstate Commerce Commission deal with the key work rules dispute. The union have been critical of the President's plan.

Tourist Flees Reds Using Bus as Cover

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Using a slow moving Austrian tourist bus as cover, a 33-year-old Hungarian dashed to the West across 160 yards of no man's land Sunday.

Communist border guards were unable to fire at him for fear of hitting the bus.

The name of the refugee, who asked for asylum, was not disclosed.

Stows Away, Lands in Italy

LA SPEZIA, Italy (AP) — A Cuban student who stowed away on a sugar boat in Havana and wound up in Italy instead of the United States has asked for political asylum in Italy.

Authorities said Jorge Ramon Burzalta, 20, arrived July 20 on the Greek vessel Elcharis, which he had thought was sailing for the United States. He said his parents had fled there from Cuba. Police declined to give their address.

U.S. Girls Lose Again in Polish Track Meet

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—What's wrong with American women's track and field? Why can't the U.S. girls' team win meets?

The question is asked repeatedly by European sportswriters about the winless U.S. girls' team touring Europe with the undefeated men.

Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, replies that a big problem is lack of tradition in U.S. women's track and field, something that is being overcome.

"Some old-fashioned people," he said, "consider it both unfeminine and indecent for girls to compete in track suits but such ideas are changing. They should have seen the Russians in hardly anything but bikinis. And the Polish girls, as attractive and feminine as you please."

Animal strength rather than athletic skill is still too often the yardstick in U.S. women's track and field, said the American men's coach, Payton Jordan of Stanford University. "There are too few girls to pick from," Jordan added. "The solution is more and earlier training of more girls by age groups, as in women's swimming."

AU president Louis J. Fisher said parents must be interested and convinced that women's track and field is beneficial rather than harmful. "When you get the parents interested, women's track and field could flourish like little league baseball does," he said.

The American women's coach, Margaret Ellison of Abilene, Tex., acknowledges that in America there is an unfavorable stereotype of girl track and field athletes as tom-boys with hobbled hair and mannish looks.

"But there's no reason women hurdlers, runners, jumpers and throwers can't be feminine if you popularize the sport among all the teen-age girls, said coach Ellison, an attractive redhead. "I've got some real dream girls on my track back home in Texas," she said.

The U.S. women rebounded from their worst-ever defeat by the Russians a week ago to turn in their best performance against Poland last weekend, losing only 14-47. Francis Javonport of Yonkers, N.Y., won the javelin with the best throw of her life—166 feet 10 1/4 inches.

The American men beat Poland 125-83 in the two-day Warsaw meet, taking first in all but four events. The smashing triumph followed a paper thin victory over Russia.

The teams flew into Copenhagen for a day of sight-seeing to day before moving on to Mexico City and Gale Ensminger of Pontiac won first place in intermediate Pairs free skating as the North American Roller Skating Championships got underway last night.

Pontiac Rolladun picked up additional points in its attempt to win the team trophy for the ninth time in 10 years when Dennis Horall and Diane Grassi placed second in the intermediate Pairs free skating.

Other opening night winners were Louis Norton of Gardena, Calif., five-mile speed; and Keith Runnels and Linda Mace of Akron, Ohio, novice dance.

Melanie Muey of Pontiac was third in Juvenile B Girls singles.

The U.S. women's team of Linda White, Holland, and Fred Brode 2nd and Dave Green 3rd clinched the double class for the spring races.

Kaline's Heroics Praised by Manager Dressen

Singles Has Top Quarter-Finalists

Net Tournament Moves Along

Except for a couple minor upsets, play continues this week in the Oakland County Open tennis tournament with rain-delayed matches scheduled during the week.

The main schedule resumes Friday evening when the quarter-finals of the men's singles will be played at Oakland Park. All remaining matches through the finals will be played Saturday and Sunday.

Mixed doubles still has openings and they will be played next Saturday and Sunday.

A first class field remains in the men's singles quarter-finals. Defending champion Leon Hibbs will go against Tom Hunt; Bill Harrison, three-set winner of Frank Russell meets Gerry Bunce; Dick Minewasser faces Sam Walker; Dick Scrippler faces Ralph Aleo.

The Scrippler-Aleo match could be the best event, with Aleo two-time champion facing Scrippler, a strong threat in Sam Walker and Jim Brandt yesterday, 6-1 and 6-1.

Rain stopped the late Sunday matches and they were tentatively rescheduled. Tonight at 4:00 p. m. the Goff-Kearns and Venus-Craft match is set. An event of rain it will be played Tuesday and on Wednesday the winner will meet the Minton-Hoffman duo.

The Gilbert-Lazarow match is set for 9:00 a. m. Wednesday morning with the winners to meet Andrews-Bunce at 6:00 p. m. Thursday.

The doubles quarter-finals are slated for Saturday at 2:00 p. m.

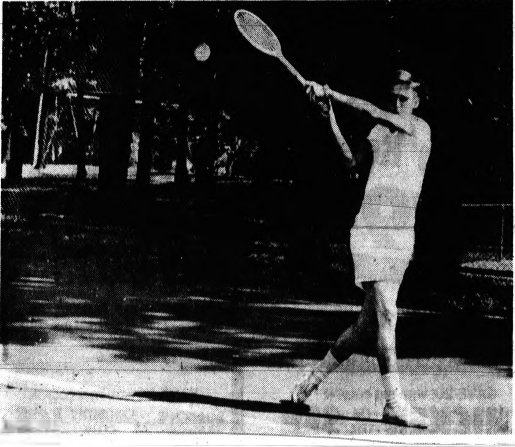

The Novice division has gone to the semi-finals with Bill Rice defeating Rick Johnson, 6-4; Ben Petar defeating Mike Dawson, 6-1; Paul Morang defeating Lee Stader, 6-2 and Bruce Bigler edging Jim Shreman, 8-6.

These were the early results:

SENIOR SINGLES
 Second Round—Bunce def. Morang, 6-4, 6-2; Stader def. Shreman, 6-4, 6-2; Bigler def. Dawson, 6-4, 6-2; Scrippler def. Walker, 6-4, 6-2; Hibbs def. Hunt, 6-4, 6-2; Harrison def. Bunce, 6-4, 6-2; Minewasser def. Aleo, 6-4, 6-2.

JUNIOR SINGLES
 Second Round—Rice def. Johnson, 6-4, 6-2; Petar def. Dawson, 6-4, 6-2; Morang def. Stader, 6-4, 6-2; Bigler def. Shreman, 6-4, 6-2.

NOVICE
 Third Round—Rice def. Johnson, 6-4, 6-2; Petar def. Dawson, 6-4, 6-2; Morang def. Stader, 6-4, 6-2; Bigler def. Shreman, 6-4, 6-2.

Hurt in Bridge Accident

Local Fan Hillcrest Victim

Mrs. Phil Sauer, 59 Monroe, is and bruises and was not hospitalized today with a fracture of the spine as result of Saturday's bridge accident during the Hillcrest Country Club Saturday.

Mrs. Sauer, who was attending the golf tournament with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nichol of Pontiac, was walking behind golfer Jo Ann Prentice when the 200-foot-long suspension footbridge fell into the Clinton River, sending 80 people and a 600-pound golf cart 18 feet downward into five feet of water.

Mrs. Nichol suffered scratches and bruises and was not hospitalized. Mrs. Sauer reported that several people had fallen on her spine as result of Saturday's bridge accident during the Hillcrest Country Club Saturday.

"I saw I wasn't bleeding so I told the officers and ambulance men to remove some of those who were," she said.

Nichol, who was several yards behind the women, had just stepped onto the bridge. When it collapsed he grabbed the wire fence at the bridge entrance and pulled himself up to the bank. He then went down into the water to assist his wife, Mrs. Sauer and others.

Another area man, Murray Jacobs, 50, of Birmingham, was in Detroit Henry Ford Hospital with a fractured spine. His condition was considered serious but not critical.

A snapped mooring for one of the four steel cables supporting the bridge was blamed for its collapse.

Miss Prentice, 30, Birmingham, Ala. professional, suffered a sprain and was shaken up, had to leave the tournament, in which she had been a leader.

"It could have been a disaster," said J. Frank Colucci of the Macomb County Sheriff's Department. "There were just too many people on the bridge. That's why it went down."

Woodrow W. Woody, founder of the Hillcrest club, said club officials were "appalled." He said they were thankful the incident was no worse.

The club was host to the same tournament in 1960 and had looked forward to making this year's event a success. The tournament attracted 6,000 fans Saturday.

As authorities investigated, club representatives planned for repairs to the bridge. It lay in the water, a tangle of wire mesh and wood planking.

Irv Jaffe, a tournament official, said the four cables did not break and the planking was intact. He said the bridge would be repaired within a few days.

The last two rounds of the original 54 hole tournament were tied to 18 holes because of the Clinton River footbridge collapse Saturday in which 46 persons were injured, among them Jo Ann Prentice, a contender.

The 17th and 18th holes, to which the bridge gave access, were eliminated from play. All of Saturday's scores were wiped out.

Jo Anne hospitalized with leg injury and shaken up gave up the tournament. Her condition continued good, however.

Tigers Win Twice From Lowly Senators

DETROIT (AP)—Even playing below form, Al Kaline did enough in the last six weeks to bring the ultimate in praise from Charlie Dressen.

"He ranks with Jackie Robinson as the greatest player I ever managed and he's the best outfielder," said the Tigers new manager after Kaline was twice a hero in a doubleheader victory yesterday.

Kaline won the first game with a two-run homer for a 3-2 victory over the last-place Washington Senators. His single started the three-run winning rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap and his speed produced the go-ahead run in a 7-4 triumph.

The Tigers responded to Dressen's loss in finally slapping down the upstart Senators, who'd beaten them six times in eight games. The Senators had rolled within 6 1/2 games of the Tigers' ninth-place position by winning the first two games of the series.

Dressen said he told the Tigers before Sunday's game they ought to be ashamed of themselves losing to Washington. It's a club whose players are "making crabs out of me," he said. "I've been here since 1947 and I've never seen him yet when he didn't run as hard as he could—like that he had to score to put us ahead in the second game."

Finally after judging second baseman Robinson, leader of his star-laden Brooklyn club, and Kaline on all-around value, Dressen decided they belong on the same level.

"Robinson was more exciting, he was stealing bases," he said. "Kaline has been tired ever since took over the club. But I've never seen him yet when he didn't run as hard as he could—like that he had to score to put us ahead in the second game."

Until yesterday, Kaline had a hard time getting going at his standard clip since Dressen took over 39 games ago on June 18. Kaline's fatigue and a sore leg were responsible for his slump.

"He's going to see me a lot better," said Kaline when Dressen's praise was relayed to him. "I've been struggling, I've been in a drought since a few days before he became manager."

"I fell I'm just starting to go again. I'm swinging better."

Kaline is batting .281 under Dressen with just five homers and 26 runs batted in. He hit 349 with 15 homers and 46 RBI in the first two months when Bob Scheffing was manager.

SECOND BEST
 Over-all, Kaline's .323 batting average in second best in the American League. His 20 homers make him fourth behind the leader. He's first in RBI with Kaline's homer in the fifth inning of yesterday's opener enabled the Tigers to beat a left hander—Pete Burnside—by the only fifth time against 22 losers. Jim Bunning was the winner, his first victory in three weeks.

Kaline started the Tigers off with a run-producing single in the first inning of the nightcap as Detroit settled to a 3-0 lead.

PTA Heads to Attend Workshop

A number of Oakland County PTA officers are expected to attend this week's three-day leadership training institute at the Woodward resort in Hartland.

A 10 a.m. session Thursday begins the statewide workshop, which will last until 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Following a theme of "Come and Learn by Doing," the agenda includes discussion of raising PTA funds, parliamentary procedure, and proper grooming.

The atmosphere is to be formal, and delegates are urged to bring slacks and a sweater.

Waldenwood is located on old U.S. 25, north of the M-59 intersection.

Further information concerning the workshop can be obtained by contacting Mrs. J. E. Frank, president of the Oakland County Council of PTAs, at 6340 Pine Knob, Independence Township.

Sleeping and dining facilities will be available at the resort area.

Fire Destroys Diving Tower

DETROIT (AP) — A fire destroyed the 50-foot unused diving tower of the Scott Memorial Fountain on Belle Isle yesterday.

The pre-dawn blaze, leaping high in the air, attracted hundreds of spectators. Its cause was not determined.

The tower had been built six years ago for water shows in the fountain's reflecting pool.

N.Y. Police Honor Chief

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Chief William Lombard and six citizens being honored for services to the Police Department were given the awards banquet—locked in the back of a patrol wagon.

There was no other transportation available.

Magazine Calls Texas 'a State on Wheels'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas is a state on wheels, the Texas Parade Magazine proclaims, looking over road statistics for the big state.

Of the 10 million Texans, 4.4 million are licensed drivers, operating 4.6 million automobiles, trucks and buses over 220,000 miles of roads and streets.

Navy Asks More Trieste Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

DEEP DIVERS: The Navy says that by 1970 it needs at least four vessels capable of plunging four miles to explore the ocean bottom.

THE bathyscaphe Trieste, which has made four dives in a vain search for the nuclear submarine Thresher, can dive six miles. But it is unable to stay on the bottom more than four hours and can explore only one square mile in any one dive.

The Navy's hopes for the slither Trieste were revealed in a report issued over the weekend by the Office of Science and Technology. It called for federal expenditures of $2.3 billion during the next decade on oceanic research for both peaceful and military uses.

AIRLIFT: Lack of funds threatens to sidetrack a Defense Department plan to test military mobility by airlifting an entire division—about 15,000 men—in Europe later this year.

The airlift would be the largest ever for training purposes.

The House cut $114 million from the fund used to pay for armed forces field exercises. The De-

Advices No Rules for Money Control

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A South African university professor says there can be no firm rule about whether husband or wife should control the domestic purse.

Prof. I. van Rooyen, head of the department of social work at the University of South Africa, told a finance forum for women here:

"The crux of the matter is trust. Each couple must work out a system of its own and keep to it."

The professor said in America use of five couples never come to an agreement about money—even after they have married 20 years.

He advised young couples: "If budget can bring joy to couples who know the satisfaction of planning and waiting for things they want."

Buddhists Call Viet Struggle Beyond Politics

SAIGON (UPI)—A spokesman for South Viet Nam's Buddhists denied today that their differences with President Ngo Dinh Diem's administration are merely political.

Buddhist leader Thich Tam Chau sent a letter to U.S. Ambassador Frederick Nolting challenging a UPI story which quoted U.S. officials as saying anti-government agitation by members of his sect was just politics.

"We... sincerely deplore the poor quality of information that has reached the concerned Defense Department officials and respectfully request your excellency to convey to those officials our hope that such a light, groundless statement will not be shared by the sensible freemoving people of the United States of America," Tam's letter said.

Powell 'Disillusioned'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, saying he is disillusioned with "white liberal" civil rights leaders, plans an all-Negro meeting today to map strategy for pushing fair employment legislation through Congress.

The Harlem Democrat, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said he will confer with leading Negro spokesmen and "I will do... what they tell me to do."

Child Is Injured by 'Big Doggie'

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP)—Little Lynn Seeley, aged 3, saw what she thought was a "big doggie" and climbed under a three-foot barricade to pet the animal.

Today, doctors maintained a vigil at her hospital bed after performing a two-hour operation to save her badly mangled hand. Lynn was reported to be in fair condition.

The "doggie" turned out to be a 5-year-old Himalayan bear, Lynn of Simi, Calif., strayed away from her mother while they were visiting the Dewdney Brothers Circus at a Rotary Club benefit at nearby Santa Susana yesterday.

Her mother, Mrs. Earl Seeley, was buying cold drinks when the tot saw the bear's cage and climbed through the barricade.

"It was the most badly mangled hand I have ever seen," said one of the doctors at Canoga Park Hospital.

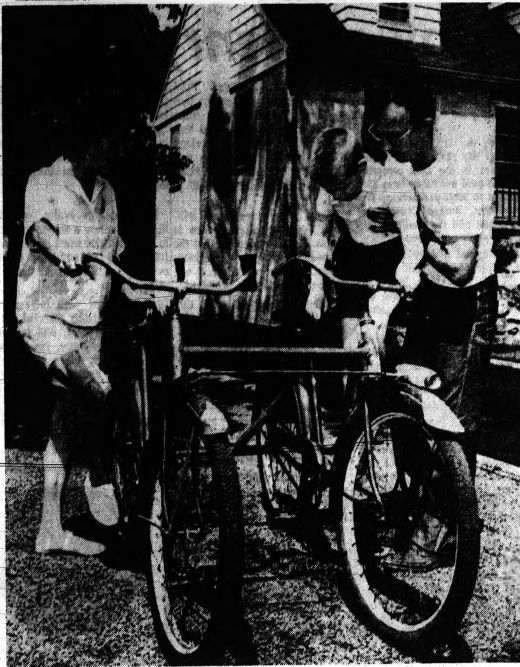

Tom Hamill, the bear's keeper, said he generally was a friendly, animal but "because of the hot day and it was just before feeding time — and after all he is a wild animal."

Gets Bonus From Ford, Fired Earlier in Year

DAGENHAM, England (UPI)—John Cross received $208 this weekend from the Ford Motor Co. as a bonus for an idea which helped eliminate four screws used on auto glove compartments.

He was fired by the firm earlier this year.

A mother ostrich accompanied by chicks will sometimes turn herself to the ground to appear wounded and divert a hunter's attention from her young. However ostriches never bury their heads in sand.

BUILT FOR TWO—Kenny Jones, a blind 8-year-old from Ramsey, N.J., advertised in the newspaper for two bikes "for Mommy and me to ride together." An Englewood, N.J., woman donated two bicycles, and Wallington Simpson of Waldwick, N.J., offered to do the welding. On Saturday, Simpson put Kenny on the bike and he and his mother took their first ride.

'Miss Sweden' Did Lose—but Won Contest Judge

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—British star Peter Sellers—a judge at the Miss Universe Pageant—evidently didn't spend all his time judging at Miami Beach. For "Petah" is around now with "Miss Sweden" beautiful blonde Kerstin Jonsson. He took her to "Tovarich," then to El Morocco. He signed her for his film, "The World of Henry Orient." "I'm going to help her meet all the important producers," he announced. The consensus is that Miss Sweden didn't walk away with any prizes—but walked away with the most famous of the judges.

Michigan Bar Calls for Plan to End Bias

DETROIT (AP)—The State Bar of Michigan has undertaken what it calls a "concrete program" to aid in the relief of racial problems in Michigan.

The bar announced it is going to name a committee of its members to carry out the program and called upon all its 9,300 lawyer members to join with it.

Michigan's bar is the first in the nation to take this sort of formal action in the race situation, the announcement said.

A part of the committee's work besides giving aid to public groups, will be to "implement" a plan by which Michigan lawyers will be inspired to furnish their professional services in the defense of clients wherever, by reason of intimidation, harassment or threat of disbarment of their brother lawyers, adequate legal representation is unavailable.

Defense Rests in Ward Trial

Remember Charges, Lawyer Urges Jury

LONDON (AP)—The defense in the vice trial of Dr. Stephen Ward rested its case today and his lawyer urged the jury to remember the 50-year-old society osteopath was not charged with leading an immoral life.

Attorney James Burge, in a closing address after he had called the sixth and last defense witness, told the Old Bailey jury of 11 men and one woman:

"You are here to give a verdict upon five specific charges and not to deal with muck-raking."

He said the notoriety caused by the airing of three charges of living off the earnings of prostitution and of procuring girls under 21 had cost Ward his clientele of highly placed Britons.

"PRACTICE GONE"
"His practice is gone," said Burge. "He has had punishment already."

Despite some of the filthiest testimony heard in recent years in an open British court, the trial produced few revelations.

Only six men of note or notoriety were mentioned as having had relations with the young prostitutes whose career Ward was accused of sponsoring. They were Ward himself, Viscount Astor, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., former War Minister John D. Profumo, Soviet naval Capt. Eugene Ivanov, and the late Peter Rachman, a real estate racketeer.

All had been mentioned in pre-trial newspaper accounts or at Ward's preliminary hearing. Fairbanks and Astor, neither called to testify in the trial, denied Marjorie (Mandy) Rice-Davies' testimony that she had relations with them.

Fall, Winter TV Shows Previewed in Hollywood

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD—This is the season when television columnists visit this busy film community for a preview of fall and winter programs.

This activity involves visiting a lot of film studios and talking with producers, stars, writers and press agents. Each will inform the reporter that the series with which he is connected is going to be fresh, new, imaginative, off-beat, creative, just marvelous—undoubtedly the hit of the fall season.

Four programs of CBS' "Judy Garland Show" have been made, and the way it is moving along makes predictions from wisecracks that CBS would have a problem creating an hour-long variety show around the singing star every week.

The biggest mystery in town involves NBC's sudden cancellation of "The Robert Taylor Show," based on cases by investigators of the U.S. department of Health, Education and Welfare. Several shows had been completed and some $750,000 spent on it.

NBC gives no reason for the cancellation. It plans to replace it with "Temple Houston," an hour-long series about Sam Houston's son, a series about a lawyer, but with an old west flavor.

Meanwhile, the small crop of summer replacement shows dropped into network spots have held little excitement or interest. Biggest disappointment, perhaps, was "The Keefe Braselton Show" on CBS, which was smartly produced and rather attractive, but woefully lacking in material—particularly comedy.

CBS' "Celebrity Talent Scouts" was long on celebrities but very short on talent. And poor Jerry Van Dyke had a thin time trying to be the jolly host on an incredibly dull and puerile game show called "Picture This." George Fenneman's "Your Funny, Funny Films," on ABC, merely proved that amateur home movies are only funny to people who make them—and maybe their closest friends.

Peru President Asks U. S. Aid

LIMA, Peru (AP)—American-educated Fernando Belaunde Terry was sworn in as president of Peru yesterday and called for a speed-up in aid from the U. S. sponsored Alliance for Progress.

The 51-year-old architect, whose inauguration ended more than a year of military rule, told a joint session of Congress he was grateful for the Alliance for Progress, but that it must overcome certain faults.

"Otherwise, there will continue to hang over Latin America the threats of discord and violence which must be banished from the continent," he said.

Belaunde criticized the requirement of detailed studies before projects are approved for alliance aid. There might not always be time for such studies, he said. Belaunde said prices for raw materials in Latin America are "ridiculously low" and must be raised to stamp out poverty.

Desegregation Set in Louisiana Parish

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Desegregation of four Roman Catholic high schools in East Baton Rouge Parish will begin in 1964.

Bishop Robert Emmett Tracy of Baton Rouge Diocese made the announcement yesterday in a pastoral letter. He said the 11th and 12th grades will be integrated.

Public schools began accepting Negro 12th grade students this fall in the parish under a Federal Court order.

The church will consider only a student's educational status in effecting integration. Public schools will consider classroom space, psychological factors, ages and scholastic standing.

Squaw Takes Position as Leader of Tribe

ONEIDA, Wis. (UPI)—A squaw ruled the 3,500-member Oneida Indian tribe today for the first time in history.

Mrs. Irene Moore, Seymour, Wis., defeated Norbert Hill of Oneida during the weekend for chairman of the tribe's executive council, a post which is equivalent to chief.

More than half of the passenger cars on the road today are five or more years old. One out of every six is ten or more years old.

On 100th Birthday of Henry Ford -- Portrait of a Genius

By CHARLES C. CAINE
Associated Press Automotive Writer

DETROIT — A simple ceremony on the farmstead where he was born will highlight Michigan's observance this week of the centennial of its most famous son — the late Henry Ford.

People from all walks of life ranging from Gov. George Romney to Dearborn school children whose pennies paid for a $1,500 plaque at the farm, will commemorate Ford's birth July 30, 1863, in a farmhouse near Dearborn.

Ford's three grandsons — Henry II, Benson and William Clay — all key executives with the motor company their grandfather founded, will participate.

Top event will be the dedication tomorrow of the plaque marking the site where formerly stood the farmhouse from whence Ford went forth to international fame.

"Ford, son of a farmer, took a turning out a car a minute short of being at the druggery before relaying at the druggery of the work and setting out on a leader of the world and profits career that was to make him the piled up. From 1903 to 1927, the world's best known automotive company piled up $800 million in profits.

His most fantastic success was in the building of the Model T Ford which he once said "put wheels under the world." More than 15½ million of these four-cylinder, plain-looking cars were turned out and were found in every nook and corner of the world.

Many of Ford's actions were controversial, but few would doubt that he deserved recognition as one of the greatest mechanical geniuses of all time.

Money came to him easily within months after he founded the Ford Motor Co. in 1903 with just $28,000 in cash — none of it his.

His ideas for speedy, mass production of autos on a moving assembly line soon made Ford the No. 1 auto maker of the world.

Up to the time that Ford put the assembly-line principle into operation, it had taken an average of 12½ hours to turn out a car.

Ford was impatient with that slow pace for he wanted to build a lot of cars at a price the average wage earner could afford.

The assembly line idea crude served without titles and never were sure of their standing. The Ford company was strictly a Ford and by 1920, he was Henry-dominated organization.

An official in favor one day said the Ford Motor Co. soon might find himself in Henry's belfry house the next.

Biographers of Henry Ford were in general agreement that one of his major strokes came in 1914 when he announced that all Ford production workers would get $3 a day. Up to that time, they had averaged $2.60. Ford raised that figure to $7 in 1921.

Many fellow employees criticized Ford for extravagance in wages, but he contended that the $5 made for more loyal workers, a more stable work force and improved production standards.

Labor praised him at the time, but in later years he came in for criticism from unions when he opposed the United Auto Workers union's successful attempt to organize his company.

He always contended he "could do more for his workers and was more interested in them than some union boss in some far-away office."

Ford, an ardent pacifist, got some of his most adverse publicity with his actions before the United States got into World Wars I and II.

In World War I, he spent over half a million dollars in organizing a peace ship which was to take a group of leading world figures to Europe to "get the boys out of the trenches before Christmas" of 1916.

Ford sailed to Europe on the expedition, which was criticized by many newspapers and magazines at the time which felt it was a foolish errand.

The auto magnate said later that he never thought the peace ship would in itself bring peace, but that he thought it would hasten it. Ford, who devoted 14 months to the idea, was disappointed when it failed.

When the United States got into the First World War, Ford put the full facilities of his company at government disposal and built a wide variety of government ordered items, ranging from ambulances to eagle boats — predecessors of the PT boats of World War II.

In the postwar years, at the urging of then Democratic President Woodrow Wilson, Ford (a Republican) made a try for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator from Michigan and lost by a narrow margin.

In 1922, many newspapers and magazines mentioned Ford as a possible presidential candidate. He did not veto the idea, until the then President Harding died in office and was succeeded by Vice President Calvin Coolidge. Ford then pledged his support for Coolidge.

Historians generally concede that Ford made a major mistake in the late 1920s when he retained full control of company policy even though Edsel held the title of president.

Ford, faced with increasing competition from General Motors and Chrysler, still turned out his old standby, the Model T, until 1927, when customer and dealer demand forced the company to bring out the Model A.

Ford's standpoint position during the years hurt it, however, as in Michigan which used auto production line methods to turn out both Chevrolet and Plymouth got considerable attention from car buyers. Ford relied heavily on two aides—Harry Bennett and Charles Sorensen—in the 1930s and the chain of command, in the Ford company was an uncertain one, particularly affecting Edsel, who made many decisions only to have them reversed by his father.

When war clouds threatened again, Ford who accepted a controversial decoration from the Nazi Germany government in 1938 — was again strongly opposed to U.S. entry into war.

But again when Pearl Harbor stunned the nation, Henry Ford put his entire effort into aiding the U.S. military operation.

nearly 400 bombers a month. The senior Ford suffered a mild stroke in 1939 and another early in World War II, but kept in close contact with his company's operations.

He was deeply affected when Edsel died of cancer in May 1943. Henry reassumed the presidency of the company, although he was 80 years old at the time.

His grandson, Henry II, who was on Navy service, was released and joined the company, as did Benson Ford. Some reports said the senior Ford was anxious to transfer both grandsons to a California plant to get them out of his way.

Henry II became a vice president of the company, however, and in 1945, succeeded his grandfather as president. He was aided in this by his grandmother, Mrs. Clara Ford, and his mother Mrs.

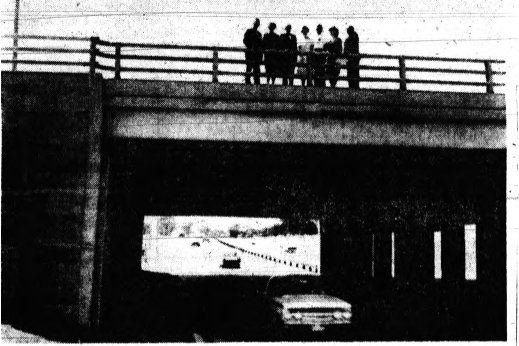

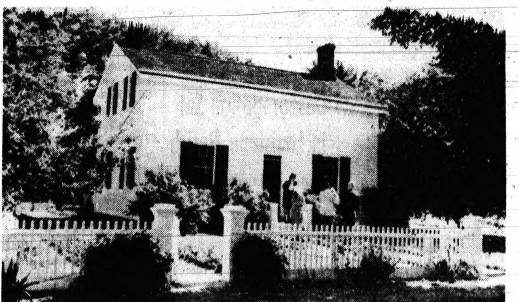

Edsel Ford, both of whom advised Ford senior that it was time for him to step aside and end his one-man rule which had brought Ford to the pinnacle but left it in poor shape to face the challenge of the 1940s.

Henry Ford II began reorganizing the company high command, bringing in such top men as Robert S. McNamara, who later became Ford president and then secretary of defense.

Henry Ford Senior lived in semi-retirement for the remainder of his life.

Ironically, on the night he died April 7, 1945 — in the upstairs of a 12-million home in Dearborn, a flooding river had knocked out the electric power and telephone.

Thus Ford, born in a farm house equipped only with candles, died with only a few candles lighting his bedroom.

BIRTHPLACE — Henry Ford's birthplace (top), a simple farmhouse, stands restored today in Dearborn Village, an historical museum founded by Ford in Dearborn. Original site of the home is now an underpass (bottom), atop which stand members of the Ford Centennial Committee, who will place a marker on the spot this week.

N-Test Treaty

De Gaulle Won't Sign

Envoy Heads Drive to Okay Test-Ban Pact

Negotiator Harriman Offers Testimony for House, Senate Units.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman led off the drive for ratification of the nuclear test-ban treaty today as a witness before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees and the Senate Atomic Energy Committee.

The chairman of all three groups were on hand along with most of the members as they went into closed session to hear from the chief U.S. negotiator of the Moscow agreement with Britain and the Soviet Union to ban all but underground tests.

While Harriman and State Department associates carried the burden of policy arguments in the historic study of the pros and cons of the pact, the views of the joint chiefs of staff were expected to bear heavily on the outcome.

Harriman and Secretary of State Dean Rusk face intensive questioning on the agreement and whether there may be in the offing any collateral pacts with the Soviet Union, such as a nonaggression declaration proposed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

However, the administration's strong support for the treaty—led by President Kennedy's declaration that it is "an important first step" toward peace—seemed likely to need a bolstering endorsement from the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., an administration supporter, brought up the issue in a week-end statement.

He said he was concerned over "the apparent single-mindedness of the military mind in assuming that the nation's security can only be protected through a continuation of nuclear testing and the arms race in general."

Williams said "much may depend on the attitude of the military and the Joint Chiefs of Staff"

DISASTER REFUGEES—A resident of the earthquake-stricken city of Skopje, Yugoslavia, pulls a cart bearing his six children and followed by his wife and other relatives as they leave the city. All residents of the city except men able to help in rescue operations were ordered out by the government.

Living Flee Skopje as Typhus Threatens

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Survivors by the thousands fled quake-shattered Skopje and the threat of a typhus epidemic today.

As authorities announced the search for more survivors would end after today, the government radio reported a Yugoslav girl was pulled out of the rubble still alive 80 hours after she was entombed in Friday's killer earthquake.

Premier Alexander Grlickov of the Macedonian Republic said the number of bodies recovered headed toward the 300 mark and, an estimated 700 dead were still buried under rubble.

But Grlickov said it would be assumed that no one else now could be found alive and the government would go ahead on the conviction to raze all the buildings in this ancient Macedonian capital.

Feasible epidemics and renewed earthquakes posed a constant problem, he said. There were a few new tremors yesterday, but they were slight.

On the fourth day after the cataclysmic quake demolished the city, the stench of cracked sewers, human waste and refuse mingling with the smell of decomposing bodies lay like a stifling blanket over the sun-scorched area. Temperatures were in the 90s.

Each passing car brought the danger of possible typhus outbreak ever closer.

New, Grlickov said, the main concern was finishing the evacuation of all people not engaged in clearing work or other essential jobs and putting heavy demolition crews to work razing the city.

A new city for the 270,000 population will be built from the ground up on a safer site to be determined after Seismological studies are completed, Grlickov said.

70,000 EVACUATED

More than 70,000 women, children and old people had cleared out of the city by early morning and still they poured out, on foot and in cars, trains and planes.

Some pushed carts filled with a few salvaged belongings. Others pedaled bicycles slowly through the debris.

At government order, evacuation of everyone but men able to help in heavy work was being carried out.

The recovery of a Belgian couple from the rubble yesterday after 55 hours of being buried alive raised some hopes that more living might still be found.

To Call for Conference on Disarmament Plan Before End of Year

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle said today France will not sign the Moscow agreement to halt nuclear testing above ground, in space, or under water.

He also rejected any European nonaggression pact as proposed by the Soviet Union at the test ban talks with the United States and Britain. The test ban pact was initiated last week.

Addressing a crowded news conference, de Gaulle said France will call for a general conference on disarmament before the end of this year.

He said France will halt its own nuclear program only if the United States and the Soviet Union agree to destroy their nuclear stockpiles.

De Gaulle said France "will not subscribe to any combinations carried out over her head concerning Europe or notably Germany."

He said France does not see how the Warsaw Pact of Eastern European Communist countries can be compared on a footing of equality with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

De Gaulle said that since France would never strike the first blow, such a nonaggression pact would be needless.

"WITHOUT PURPOSE" De Gaulle commented, "Today, France solemnly declared through the voice of the president of the Republic that there will never be any aggression by France. Our participation in a pact of nonaggression is hence without purpose."

At the outset of this second news conference he had said this year, de Gaulle declared that relations between France and the United States are those of friendship and alliance.

De Gaulle acknowledged that differences exist between Paris and Washington.

But he told a news conference: "Despite the differences which exist, we think that the United States wishes to do wrong to France, or that France wishes harm to the United States, would be a ridiculous absurdity."

Is America on Edge of Racial Disaster?

(Editor's Note—Will racial strife in America be limited to sporadic outbreaks or are we on the verge of major domestic violence? This first installment of a special series on the deepening integration crisis outlines on-the-spot survey of major friction spots.)

By BERNARD GAVZER
Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has warned that "a time

Where?"
Overhanging these and other outbreaks are the haunting questions: Will the bomb go off? How?

Interviews with and reports from top-level white and Negro officials in federal, state and municipal governments, with civic, social and religious leaders, and with citizens in the street, point to one conclusion:

There is grave danger of major racial violence as America looks for a solution to the deepening integration crisis.

If chaos comes, the consensus is it may very likely — but not necessarily — occur in a Northern big city.

It may stem from rigid police action — or from a minor incident blown out of proportion by rumor.

National Urban League trustees report:

"Hundreds of thousands of Northern Negro citizens—struggling beneath the mounting burden of automation, overcrowding and subtle discrimination — are reaching the breaking point."

WORST YEAR

One of the worst years in the history of U.S. race relations was 1918. There were seven major riots that year—the three worst occurring in Chicago—28 killed, 577 wounded and injured, Washington, D.C. 6 killed, scores hurt, Phillips County, Ark., 30 killed, and hundreds hurt.

Can such riots come again?

Says Administration

Won't Ask Debt Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration told Congress today that, despite earlier forecasts, it will not ask to raise the legal limit on the national debt to another record high.

Treasury Secretary and Budget Director Kermit Gordon asked Congress to extend the present debt limit of $309 billion to Nov. 30.

Dillon and Gordon appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Unless new legislation is enacted, the legal limit on the debt will drop to its permanent level of $285 billion on Sept. 1.

Current estimates indicate that the debt will be about $300 billion on Aug. 31, $22 billion above its permanent level," Dillon said. "It is obvious that action must be taken."

The fiscal facts today, however, are much brighter than the administration had anticipated only three months ago.

Treasury officials had predicted that the current debt limit of $309 billion would be pierced dur-

Water, and traffic accidents took the lives of two 12-year-olds over the weekend.

The driver of the truck, Michael L. Flanigan, 18, of 4539 Major, Waterford Township, was being held for investigation of negligent homicide.

Shirley's body was recovered by Sheriff's Department skindiver Guy Kessler two hours after she was reported missing by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Garten.

The youngster, a nonswimmer, was found in eight feet of water. Shirley was playing in the water with her mother and father, said when Mrs. Garten decided to take the baby ashore.

More Funds Needed

Victory is possible! Pontiac's Greater Industrial Development Corp. has pledges today from 31 firms and individuals totaling $84,700.

Only $15,300 more is needed to start Pontiac on the trail of light manufacturing and kindred activities.

This means more employment. It means more payrolls.

Mix Adams, Chamber of Commerce manager, said today: "Our deadline is Thursday of this week, and we must have the full $100,000 to secure the land on South Boulevard. That will be a constructive step toward a bigger, busier and more active Pontiac. The competition for these new small businesses which are springing up all over America is tremendous. Some cities are ahead of us, but we have a grand start."

"Every businessman and all other public-spirited citizens are urged to step forward immediately and put their shoulders to the wheel."

"We need action and we need it now."

"Next week is too late."

"The Pontiac Press is running either coupon to close this gap and boost our area another round up the ladder of industrial activity. Your money brings you shares of stock at $100 apiece. More than half a million of your fellow citizens have leaped forward and answered the call."

Is U.S. on Edge of Racial Disaster?

New York, answers: "If white America refuses to grant rights to Negro citizens and continues to withhold them, I suppose white America will try killing Negroes. If white America is prepared to see Negroes being killed and killed and killed, then this will happen, but it won't stop anything, because you simply cannot kill everyone."

In Chicago, Ralph Heistein, president of the United Packinghouse Workers—a union integrated decades ago—says: "My feeling is that the discontent still is below the boiling point, but our organizers throughout the country are surprised that it hasn't boiled over."

Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of civil rights, says: "The country has to move on this issue in rapid fashion or there will be a great deal of racial unrest that will boil over into violence."

THE LOCATION?

If the time bomb should go off, where is it likely to explode? Some, including Dr. Richard Wade, professor of urban history at the University of Chicago, think it may occur in the South.

Wade cites a long history of defiance on the part of the Negro, who in many Southern regions is unskilled and uneducated and has little organization.

Others believe the explosion is more likely to occur in the North where there is job discrimination, de facto segregation in housing, de facto school segregation and social discrimination.

A Negro public relations man notes: "I sit in my air-conditioned office all day and I see nicely dressed people and I look down on Sixth Avenue and I almost forget about color. Then at 5:30 I get downstairs and it hits me in the face. I can't get a cab because everybody thinks I want to go up to Harlem."

In Chicago, Alvin Prejean, deputy director of the Urban League, insists all the ingredients for explosion are to be found in Chicago, among other Northern cities.

"Negroes are pushing and whites are pushing back," he says. "People here used to talk about those poor people down in Birmingham. Now they are talking about here. We need better teachers, better jobs, better housing, just to catch up with whites."

Earl Brown, Negro, deputy Manhattan borough president and former magazine writer who with Louis E. Martin, now a member of the Democratic National Committee, predicted the 1963 Detroit race riot, 34 dead, 700 injured, is the discovery of obtaining dignity which contributes to the Negro militancy.

"This is the Negro doing something for himself," Brown says. "He's learning something about dignity. He may have to lose some blood, but he's found that that's the road to freedom, not just winning a peace."

CONFUSED MOVEMENT

As in any social movement, there is confusion. Leaders struggle for power positions, goals depend upon who's defining them, control of the masses evaporates.

James H. Meredith gets booked at an NAACP convention in Chicago. At the same convention, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Jackson, president of the National Negro Baptist Convention, is booed for nine minutes, supposedly because he had

"But if Negroes demonstrate while the white population is trying in good faith to meet their demands, if the Negroes' demands are unreasonable, if they ask for special privileges, the Negroes are walking perilously close to losing everything."

Brooke said demonstrations will continue because they serve the useful purpose of dramatizing the discrimination problem.

At the opening session of the five-day conference last night, Brooke called for greater militancy by the league and greater cooperation with other civil rights organizations.

HOPE FOR FUTURE—American Negroes are increasing their efforts to break traditional barriers of discrimination and to gain full equality. Their efforts could make this summer of 1963 a time of major domestic violence as segregationists resist desperately. This mother and child, photographed in New York City, symbolize Negro aspirations for a better tomorrow.

backed President Kennedy's call for a moratorium on demonstrations.

Leaving the speaker's platform, the Rev. Mr. Jackson was pined against it by 50 persons, crying, "Kill him! Kill him!"

The mood for action is all-pervading. Its heat is sounded by Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., president of Howard University.

"We are sick of evasions, weary of excuses, fed up with promises and want action now, liberty now, equality now."

C. Summer Stone Jr., editor of the Washington D.C. Afro-American, says: "For the first time, I'd say, everybody is involved. All Negroes, except for some Uncle Toms, are prepared to be involved."

In Detroit, George W. Calhoun of the Trade Union Leadership Council—a Negro labor power—was told about a professor's comment that "the old people got converted and the young people got religious," and related: "When I was a boy they told me, 'don't fight, get an education.' I tell my boy, 'Fight, and if you get thrown out of school, I'll find you another one.'"

There is concern that the one thing which might lead to trouble would be a march on Washington.

Such a march is set for Aug. 28. It was decided upon in New York recently at a strategy meeting involving the NAACP's Roy Wilkins, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Martin Luther King Jr., the Urban League's Whitney Young, CORE's James Farmer, The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee's John Lewis and A. Philip Randolph, president of the Negro American Labor Council.

The march was scheduled even though the Kennedy administration has voiced vigorous determination to get a strong civil rights bill through Congress.

Negro leaders feel there will be a filibuster and that a march will show lawmakers the degree of Negro unity and determination.

Authorities who must plan for any eventuality have done so many times. The federal government is committed to back decisions of courts and policies of the administration with troops.

Police in many cities have been given and are undergoing special training and indoctrination. Detroit and Chicago have police departments especially alert to any possible racial disturbances.

"If there is runaway rioting, I hope there won't be—then the Negro can't help but lose," says Lee Blackwell, editor of the Chicago Defender.

"We represent only 10 per cent of the population. We couldn't

Indians Find Bodies in Sea

All Hope Abandoned for Jet Crash Victims

From Our News Wires

BOMBAY, India — An Indian air force plane sighted five bodies floating today in the Arabian Sea area where a United Arab Airlines jet disappeared with 52 persons aboard.

Hope was virtually abandoned for any survivors among the crew of eight and the 54 passengers, including 23 Filipino Boy Scouts.

Uncertainty as to the number of passengers aboard arose from a conflict between the passenger list, which mentioned 54, and official radio reports placing the number at 55.

The confusion appeared to arise from reports that Farag Mustafa, the airline's financial adviser, was on the flight. His wife said he was not, but Mustafa himself could not be located immediately.

The plane was on the way from Tokyo to Cairo when it crashed in monsoon weather nine miles west of the Bombay airport as it headed in for a landing before dawn yesterday.

It was raining at the time of the crash and visibility was poor. Radar equipment at the airport reported the plane in when it suddenly vanished from the beam.

Nine hours later, search craft sighted wreckage in the sea.

The Indian frigate Tir, dispatched to the scene yesterday, pushed up three large pieces of metal believed to be parts of the wrecked plane near the scene of the crash.

Shirley was following her. Mr. Gartin said he went out to deep-sea water when he thought Shirley was to the beach with her mother.

LI, Donald Krait, head of the Sheriff Department Water Safety Patrol said that markers designating drop offs in the water had been moved out and that this might have been responsible for Shirley stepping into a deep water.

Stanley was injured fatally shortly after 1 p.m. when he was tossed from the truck as it went around a curve on Sashabaw, 450 feet west of Island Park.

He was hit by a car driven by Paul Farmer, 25, of 4632 Fourth, Waterford Township.

HEARD BRAKES

Flanigan told Waterford Township police that after going around the curve, he heard brakes screeching and when he looked around he saw his passenger in the road.

Farmer said he saw the boy fall from the truck but could not recall hitting him.

A Pontiac man, Monroe Hiltz, 56, was killed Saturday night on 194 near Ypsilanti when his car went out of control and struck a guard rail.

Police said Hiltz, 489 E. Mansfield, was towing another car and lost control when the towing gear broke.

To become effective, the treaty must be ratified by a two-thirds vote in the Senate.

A year ago, a majority of the joint chiefs was reported opposed to the proposal then on the agenda was to be a partial test-ban agreement initiated last Thursday in Moscow.

Neutral sources said their nations—Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic—were pleased by the Moscow agreement.

But they said an obvious step now would be to reach accord on a pact that would end underground testing. The Moscow agreement covers testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under water.

Birmingham Area News

Commission to Study Maple Road Congestion

BIRMINGHAM — Two congestion-cutting proposals for West Maple traffic will be considered by city commissioners tonight.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley has recommended the conventional parking spaces be replaced by tandem stalls.

An alternative is to enlarge the present stalls from 21.5 to 25 feet, Moxley indicated in a report he will present to commissioners.

The commission asked Moxley to study the problem June 10 when it turned down a request by merchants to prohibit Maple parking from Hunter to Chester on weekdays.

The "twin stall" plan would cost $548 and cut spaces from 76 to 66. The pairs of spaces would be separated by 10-foot prohibited parking areas.

Cost to enlarge the stalls to 25 feet would be about $329, with the number reduced to 58, according to Moxley.

Three young athletes are to visit the meeting tonight at the invitation of the Recreation Board.

Birmingham's winners in the recent Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness Meet in Livonia, they are Chris Johnson, 10, of 2643 Lamp-lighter; Sue Hildard, 12, of 640 S. Cranbrook.

Chris placed first in the boys' climbing event with 22 chins, Sue third in the running hop, step and jump and Karen first in the running broad jump with a 11-foot 8½-inch jump.

Mrs. Ernest W. Hunt Service for Mrs. Ernest W. (Audrey F.) Hunt, 89, of 775 Bates, will be 2 p.m. tomorrow at Manley Bailey Funeral Home.

Burial will follow in Acacia Park Cemetery, Southfield.

Mrs. Hunt died Saturday after a lengthy illness.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Birmingham.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Wallace Shaw of Pontiac, Mrs. Earle Cunningham of Birmingham, Mrs. Harry Jones of Lincoln, Maine, and Basil W. of Pleasant Ridge; a sister, four grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and a great-great-grandchild.

7-Year-Old Rides Bike 45 Miles From Home

HAROLD HILL, England (UPI)—Susan Hart, 7, was returned to her home here last night by police who found her riding her bicycle in Panfield, 45 miles away.

The girl, who disappeared Saturday, explained that she "wanted to go and see the farm where they milk the cows," a spot her father once had taken her on a day's outing.

CLARENCE E. BARNES

Neutrals Out to Ban Tests Under Land

GENEVA (UPI) — The eight neutral nations of the Geneva Disarmament Conference were reported today to be planning a new effort to get the nuclear powers to ban underground testing.

Informed neutral sources said an appeal would be issued when the full 17-nation conference resumes tomorrow after a six-week recess.

But the sources said it was unlikely the United States and the Soviet Union would press at the moment for talks on an underground test ban.

They said, however, it was possible bilateral talks might be held on the conference sidelines on ways to prevent surprise attacks and the reduction of missile stockpiles.

The chief disarmament negotiators of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union returned to Geneva today for the resumption of the conference.

It was understood that the first item on the agenda would be a report by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union on the partial test-ban agreement initiated last Thursday in Moscow.

Neutral sources said their nations—Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic—were pleased by the Moscow agreement.

But they said an obvious step now would be to reach accord on a pact that would end underground testing. The Moscow agreement covers testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under water.

Urban League Names Director

Currently Is Heading Project in Cleveland

Clarence E. Barnes has been named the Pontiac Area Urban League's new executive director, Charles R. Harris, League president, said today.

Barnes currently heads a special research project for Hill Neighborhood Center, in Cleveland, and is working on a doctorate degree in sociology at Western Reserve University. He takes over his new job Aug. 15.

Married, and the father of three, Barnes joined the Urban League at Canton, O., in 1944.

While in Canton, he was also a visiting instructor at Malone College, worked with city urban renewal planners, and served on the county juvenile delinquency council.

He is a native of Fairmont, W. Va., and a graduate of West Virginia State College and West Virginia University. He holds the Bronze Star from World War II.

Barnes fills a vacancy caused when Sam H. Jones resigned as executive director of the League in 1961.

Warns Negroes of Reverse Risk

Believes Extremists Can Ruin Rights Effort

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Edward W. Brooke, attorney general of Massachusetts, yesterday warned Negroes that extreme demonstrations run the risk of reversing the current trend toward greater equality.

Brooke, who holds the highest elective office ever attained by a Negro, said the Negroes' pursuit of equality could backfire if they demonstrated for the sake of demonstrating while efforts were being made to satisfy their demands.

Brooke, here as keynote speaker at the National Urban League Conference, told a news conference he did not believe the Negro had yet gone beyond reason in the struggle for civil rights.

"But if Negroes demonstrate while the white population is trying in good faith to meet their demands, if the Negroes' demands are unreasonable, if they ask for special privileges, the Negroes are walking perilously close to losing everything."

Brooke said demonstrations will continue because they serve the useful purpose of dramatizing the discrimination problem.

At the opening session of the five-day conference last night, Brooke called for greater militancy by the league and greater cooperation with other civil rights organizations.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Deafness Results From Artery Damage

Q—My doctor tells me I have something called CVA. I have become deaf in one ear. What is CVA? Can I get better?

A—CVA refers to a cerebral vascular accident or stroke. There are several different arteries in the brain that may be involved. The symptoms differ depending on the areas supplied by the arteries. The extent of the involvement varies, and may be BRANDSTADT so slight as to go unnoticed or may cause severe paralysis.

Thus the outlook for recovery depends on whether the initial damage was superficial or great. Your doctor can help you to prevent a recurrence. Deafness is one of the symptoms of stroke in some areas.

Q—What causes lichen planus? I have taken about 20 treatments for it and it is beyond my means to continue. Is there some salve that will cure it?

A—Lichen planus is a skin disease characterized by flattened red or purplish spots that itch severely. The cause is not known but in some people the disease follows scratching or bruising of the skin.

In others it may follow taking quinine for malaria, vitamin deficiency, nervous exhaustion, and chronic low grade infections in the teeth, tonsils or gall bladder. When the cause is not known here, is no specific treatment and such treatment as is used is often unsuccessful.

The disease often lasts for months and even though it clears up it may come back.

Treatments that have been used with success on some patients include injections of bi-methyl salicylate, X rays and chemicals. These must all be used with caution.

In any case you should have a frank talk with your doctor about costs and what you are able to pay. Most doctors will welcome such a discussion and will tailor their bills to fit your circumstances.

Q—If the life expectancy for blue babies is 45 years, as you have said, does that mean that my husband who is now 44 and who was a blue baby has only one year to live? He appears to be in good health but he tires easily.

A—It certainly does not mean that he will live only one year. All life expectancy figures are averages, so some live more and some less than 45 years. Furthermore life expectancy estimates must be revised upward for every year survived so that, while the average blue baby at the time of birth might be expected to live 45 years, one who has already lived 44 years would have a life expectancy approaching 65 or 70 years and, if he was still in good health at age 65, his life expectancy would be extended even further.

New Revival Method

Half Drowning Victims Can Be Saved

DETROIT (UPI) — At least half the victims of drownings in Michigan die from heart stoppage and could be saved by a new and improved revival method.

That statement was made yesterday by two physician experts in Closed Chest Cardiac Resuscitation (CCCR), a new method of revival based on forced breathing and heart massage.

The statement accompanied an urgent plea "to all persons involved in water safety to learn the technique."

"Quick application of CCCR and the later use of electrical defibrillators that are now in many hospitals can save many of the victims of drownings—as well as of electrocution," they said.

The two physicians are Dr.

Larry H. Birch, director, physiology department, Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids, and Dr. Robert A. Gerisch, a cardiologist at Harper Hospital, Detroit, and assistant professor of medicine at Wayne State University.

Both agreed that CCCR must be learned and said the Michigan Heart Association would supply teachers and sponsor classes anywhere in the state.

Birch said summer is already half over and CCCR has been taught to only 200 persons, whereas every lifeguard, swimming instructor and camp director in Michigan should have learned it.

EXPLAINS PROCESS

Gerisch explained the blood chemistry of fresh water drowning.

"When fresh water gets into a person's lungs, it is absorbed through the air sacs into the blood, usually in no more than a minute," he said. "This process is osmotic and is caused by the salt content of blood."

Gerisch said that when fresh water mixes with blood, it causes the red corpuscles to burst.

The broken corpuscles spill their contents, liquid hemoglobin and potassium chloride. Enough potassium in the blood will stop the heart completely or shock it into fibrillation.

In fibrillation, the four chambers of the heart lose their coordination and contract at random.

Actually, he said, the heart "just quivers."

No blood is pumped and death follows unless coordination is restored. There is only one way to do this, he said, and it rarely fails: An electric shock, properly applied, internally or externally.

CCCR combines mouth-to-mouth breathing and heart massage.

"Putting the proper pressure on the center of the chest, we have learned, will squeeze the heart so that its chambers and valves will push enough blood through the body to sustain life and sometimes by itself will start a stopped heart," he said.

He emphasized that speed

was all important because "the brain can suffer irreversible damage after four to six minutes without oxygenated blood."

Victims of ocean water do not die in the same manner. The saltier sea water takes water from the blood and the lungs tend to fill with liquid while the victim's blood thickens.

But for them too, CCCR offers the best chance of survival.

Blast Is Fatal to Saboteurs

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) — A bomb exploded prematurely at an American-owned oil pipeline last night, killing two saboteurs who were planting it.

It was the fourth bombing at the Creole Petroleum Co. pipeline here. The company is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Chinese Disclaim Charges From India

TOKYO (AP) — Peking Radio says an Indian report that Red China is again massing troops on India's borders is an "out-and-out lie."

The Peking broadcast yesterday accused Prime Minister Nehru of keeping tension high for political reason. Nehru warned Saturday that the border situation is "full of menace."

The Times of India today said Peking has moved 13 divisions into striking positions along India's northern frontier.

Peking also denounced the new U.S.-Indian air defense agreement as a menace to China and other nearby nations particularly Pakistan.

Shootings Draw Probe in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Police Commissioner George Edwards, home from England, planned today to look into the Cynthia Scott and Kenneth Evans police shootings.

Edwards said he had been kept informed of the incidents while abroad and that he approved the actions since taken as reported to him. He said he might have a statement after his review.

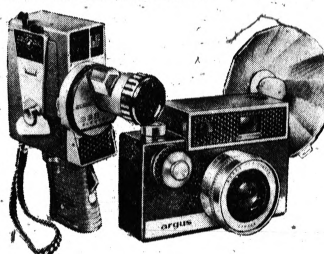

Miss Scott, 24, a Negro prostitute, and Kenneth Evans, 38, white, were shot to death by policemen earlier this month. The policeman who shot Miss Scott said she slashed him with a knife in resisting arrest. Evans was shot in fleeing from an abandoned stolen car, police said.

A Negro group picketed police headquarters and city hall in protest of the handling of the Scott case. A crowd of demonstrators, mostly white, made trouble at a police precinct station in the Evans case.

The policemen who killed Miss Scott and Evans were held by superiors to have acted properly.

Stocks Advance in Quiet Trade

NEW YORK—The stock market staged a small-scale advance early today. Trading was fairly quiet.

Most gains were fractional although a few ran to a point.

A sharp rise in building construction awards in June gave the market some favorable background news.

National and Eastern Airlines were active in the wake of the Northeast Airlines' loss of its Florida routes. National advanced $\frac{1}{2}$ at $\$22$ on a block of 10,000 shares and Eastern gained $\frac{1}{4}$ at $\$24$ on an 18,000-share block.

Steels, Motors, Rubbers Rise

U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin posted fractional gains despite continued slow demand for steel amid indications that the rate of orders may not pick up for two months.

MOTORS GAIN

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler also showed fractional gains.

Corporate and government bonds were mixed.

Friday the Associated Press advanced 60 stocks advanced $\frac{1}{2}$ to 254.8.

Malaysia Federation Creates 'Cold War'

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—The government chiefs of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines gathered today for a summit meeting called to head off South Asia's cold war over the proposed Federation of Malaysia.

President Sukarno of Indonesia arrived for Tuesday's summit after pledging to wreck the Malaysia plan unless his terms are met.

NEW YORK—Those two-cent stamps which grandfathers tucked away in a book or a drawer and forgot not carry as many letters in today's ZIP-code mail as they did on the slower routes of 50 years ago.

But in the stamp collector's world, they may go a long way farther toward helping fill the pocketbook than the mail box.

Postage increases, dollar shrinkage, the hoarding and collection and trading of stamps goes serenely on, nationally and internationally, as it has for nearly a century.

Many items of value as wide as the postage stamps have been collected and traded as regular marketplaces, but there is no one particular center in which the stamp collector and the dealer do business.

NEED SOURCE

In other words, they need some source to explain that an unused 1927 Lindbergh airmail stamp of 10-cent denomination may now be worth $$11.00$. Or that some stamps, even unused, may have grown in value only by fractions of a cent.

There are hundreds of dealers in the stamp world, one old U. S. firm, Scott Stamp & Paper Co., Inc., has achieved a prominent position, not by dealing in stamps, but by keeping available to collectors and dealers the price structure in the field.

It annually issues a "standard catalogue," listing the price of every major variety of mint and cancelled postage stamp issued since 1840. These number about 150,000.

80,000 CHANGES

Gordon Harmer, editor for Scott's, assembles reports on prices from hundreds of key-stamp dealers around the world; about 80,000 price changes are made each year in the catalogue.

A report issued recently on the firm's activities quoted Joseph Armet, senior vice president of Equinox, as saying that Scott performs something of the same sort of function as does the specialist in a securities auction market; it has assumed the responsibility of maintaining an orderly market.

Only the price changes that result from the constant trading of a stamp, and not the wide price swings due to the unusual situations, are entered in the catalogue. Numbers are used as identification for stamps, rather than a description of the stamp, around the world.

The emergence of new nations—with new postage—and the continuing steadiness of stamp collecting as an established hobby led to Equinox's acquisition of Scott in 1960 as an enterprise with growth potential.

Scott does not deal in stamps any longer and has for nearly 15 years; it is the largest of five firms engaged in the so-called stamp ancillary business.

The system of country-to-country payments has proved cumbersome. The Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, and Mongolia lack a convertible currency to use for settling outstanding accounts.

James O. Wright, of Bloomfield Township, former Ford Motor Co. vice president in charge of car and truck divisions, has joined a West Coast electronics firm.

Wright, of 6100 Wing Lake, will be consultant to Litton Industries on forward planning in selected fields.

He left Ford in May.

John Kinzler, 18 Salmer, is now handling homes, new multiple dwelling and business property accounts for Kamps Realty & Building Co., 1071 West Huron.

He has a 20 years' real estate experience in the Pontiac area but recently joined the firm.

Raymond B. Wells, former Pontiac resident, has been named manager of the automotive division of American Oil Company's marketing technical service department.

He started with the firm in 1949 as a salesman in Flint, now lives in La Grange, Ill.

Marlow H. Hopp, 378 Voorhies, has been promoted to assistant supervisor, electric and gas, in Consumers Power's Owosso district.

Hopp formerly was an application engineer in the Owosso plant.

He joined the company in 1951 as an operator at the Coudersport plant in Hoyal Oak.

Recently re-elected vice president of Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Accountants was Leon E. Jackman, 4066 Beach, Birmingham. He is a local questions person in his field.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all questions but will answer as many as possible.

Wheat Futures Up; Others Turn Easy

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures started off with a market rally today, but other commodities turned mostly easier today in rather quiet early dealings on the board of trade.

Wheat moved up a major fraction to more than a cent a bushel, but traders said the strength reflected considerably slackened offerings more than a greatly increased demand. However, there appeared to be a little more confidence in the long side of the market.

Corn and soybeans came under further pressure of liquidation following reports of rainfall over parts of the Midwest during the weekend. The moisture was understood to have been heavy in some areas.

Hopes Slim Mart Duties to Go Lower

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The six foreign ministers of the European Common Market gathered in Brussels today for a two-day meeting with prospects dim that they will decide to lower duties on imports of U.S. frozen poultry.

The United States has warned it will retaliate with higher tariffs if the Common Market does not cut its levy on American chickens. Higher tariffs might hit anything from German industry to French luxury goods.

Foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg are meeting with their ministers of agriculture to discuss the issue.

Earlier this month, the agricultural ministers decided against a cut in duties, but the foreign ministers' council has the last word.

French and West German sources have indicated that no cut in duties—now 15 cents a pound—will be possible. The French argue that the six nations are building up a common farm policy, and that agricultural matters can be discussed only on a reciprocal basis with the United States in the larger framework of the "Kennedy round" of tariff negotiations next year.

The six also are to discuss the procedure for future quarterly meetings between the Common Market and Britain within the framework of the West European Union, which has its secretariat in London.

The six will also seek agreement on a common economic policy to ward off the Soviet bloc.

Outside of our Social Security, we have no other assets except our heritage of general good health from sturdy ancestry. We need more income. We have no dependents, nor is there any one to whom we can look for aid. How can we best add to our income?"

With no dependents, to think of your best bet would be a joint survivorship annuity.

If you left $2,000 in the savings bank for contingencies, you could buy for $14,000 at $1,400 a year in annuity income which would be paid to you both.

And something more or less, depending on age, to the one who survives — for life.

Murder Probe Narrows Down

Police are still searching for the 1961 Pontiac Bonneville convertible which the Birmingham youth says brought Connie to his house and then drove her away. Two men were in it.

The youth described the car as white, but police have learned that two other colors used on Bonnevilles that year look white under certain lighting conditions. These are beige and cream.

On 100th Birthday of Henry Ford -- Portrait of a Genius

(Editor's Note—One of America's most fabulous success stories is that of Henry Ford. A Michigan boy who left his father's farm to become an industrial giant. The 100th anniversary of his birth will be observed July 30 with ceremonies at the farm site.)

DETROIT — A simple ceremony on the farmstead where he was born will highlight Michigan's observance this week of the centennial of its most famous son — the late Henry Ford.

People from all walks of life, ranging from Gov. George Romney to Dearborn school children whose pennies paid for a $1,500 plaque at the farm, will commemorate Ford's birth July 30, 1863, in a farmhouse near Dearborn.

Ford's three grandsons — Henry II, Benson and William Clay — all key executives with the motor company their grandfather founded, will participate.

Top event will be the dedication tomorrow of the plaque marking the site where formerly stood the farmhouse from whence Ford went forth to international fame.

Ford, son of a farmer, took a short fling at farm life himself before rebelling at the drudgery

BIRTHPLACE — Henry Ford's birthplace (top), a simple farmhouse, stands restored today in Greenfield Village, an historical museum founded by Ford in Dearborn. Original site of the home is now an underpass (bottom), atop which stand members of the Ford Centennial Committee, who will place a marker on the spot this week.

Biographers of Henry Ford were in general agreement that one of his master strokes came in 1814 when he announced that all Ford production workers would get $5 a day. Up to that time, they had averaged $2.60. Ford raised that figure to $7 in 1921.

Many fellow employees criticized Ford for extravagance in wages, but he contended that the $5 made for more loyal workers, a more stable work force and improved production standards.

Labor praised him at the time, but in later years he came in for criticism from unions when he opposed the United Auto Workers union's successful attempt to organize his company.

He always contended he "could do more for his workers and was more interested in them than some union boss in some faraway office."

Ford, an ardent pacifist, got some of his most adverse publicity with his actions before the United States got into World Wars I and II.

In World War I, he spent over half a million dollars in organizing a peace ship which was to take a group of leading world figures to Europe to "get the boys out of the trenches before Christmas" of 1916.

Ford sailed to Europe on the expedition, which was criticized by many newspapers and magazines of the day which felt it was a foolish errand.

The auto magnate said later that he never thought the peace ship would in itself bring peace, but that he thought it would hasten it. Ford, who devoted 14 months to the idea, was disappointed when it failed.

When the United States got into the First World War, Ford put the full facilities of his company at government disposal and built a wide variety of government ordered items, ranging from ambulances to eagle boats — predecessors of the PT boats of World War II.

In the postwar years, at the urging of then Democratic President Woodrow Wilson, Ford (a Republican) made it try for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator from Michigan and lost by a narrow margin.

In 1922, many newspapers and magazines mentioned Ford as a possible presidential candidate. He did not veto the idea, until the then President Harding died in office and was succeeded by Vice President Calvin Coolidge. Ford then pledged his support for Coolidge.

Historians generally concede that Ford made a major mistake in the late 1920s when he retained full control of company policy even though Edsel held the title of president.

Ford, faced with increasing competition from General Motors and Chrysler, still turned out its old standby, the Model T, until 1927, when customer and dealer demand forced the company to bring out the Model A.

Ford's standpat position during the years hurt it, however, as the Nazi Germany government in 1935 — was again strongly opposed to U.S. entry into war.

But again when Pearl Harbor stunned the nation, Henry Ford put his entire effort into aiding the U.S. military operation.

One of his notable achievements was the building of the and in 1945, succeeded his grand- father as president. He was aided in this by his grandnephew, Henry II, who later became Ford president and then secretary of defense.

Henry Ford II began reorganizing the company high command, bringing in such top men as Robert S. McNamara, who later became Ford president and then secretary of defense.

Henry Ford Senior lived in semi-retirement for the remainder of his life.

Ironically, on the night he died — April 7, 1947 — in his palatial $2-million home in Dearborn, a flooding river had knocked out the electric power and telephone.

Thus Ford, born in a farm house, equipped only with candles, died with only a few candles lighting his bedroom.
