U.S. Takes On Building Job of Northern Radar Fence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has assumed the job of building the "distant early warning" radar stations along the Canadian-Alaskan rim of the continent.

An announcement made simultaneously today in Washington and Ottawa said the two governments have agreed:

1. "To proceed with the construction" of the perimeter warning net for enemy bombers, whose cost is unofficially estimated at about one billion dollars.

2. That "although both Canada and the United States will participate in the project, responsibility for the work of construction and installation should be vested in the United States."

Defense Department officials said sufficient money is available in the current budget to go ahead with the project and that additional money will be requested in the next budget.

Some circumstances of the announcement were unexplained.

First questions about details were directed to official Air Force spokesmen, who said they had not seen the announcement until it was handed reporters although Defense Department officials said the Air Force was the "executive agent" of the government for handling the project.

Today's announcement said:

"Four main elements of a warning and control system now appear to be practicable, namely: The main control and warning radar installations in the populated part of Canada, the jointly operated Pinetree network and in the United States, which are now in operation;

"A warning line north of the settled areas of Canada the mid-Canada line, being built by Canada; a warning line across the most northerly practicable part of North America the distant early warning or Dew line; and portions of the complete warning and control system in Canada to be extended to seaward on both flanks of the continent by the United States."

Pan-Am's First Lap Won by Californian

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Cal., won the 1st lap of the Pan American road race today on the basis of unofficial timing. Hill's Ferrari covered the 210 miles in an unofficial 3 hours 25 minutes, three minutes faster than the record.

Umberto Maglioli of Italy, in another Ferrari, was four minutes behind Hill. His unofficial time was given as 3:29.

Husband Finds Ad Pays Off; Wife Leaves

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Mrs. Dorothy Walters, 40, was granted a divorce yesterday when she testified that her husband ran the following ad in a newspaper immediately after she left for a vacation.

"Man, 33, no car, no looks, no job, no qualities, no money, no hero, no nothing, seeks congenial companion to go places and do things in pursuit of happiness."

Robert Walters, who did not contest the divorce, said he received a great many interesting replies.

Agree on Plan to Obtain Architect for Hospital

A three-step plan to determine where the city stands in obtaining an architect for the new $3,000,000 wing at Pontiac General Hospital was agreed upon last night at a joint meeting of the City Commission and the hospital trustees.

But the conferees went away hazy as to what the addition will be when completed: (1) a fully equipped wing, or, (2) a section of equipped and unequipped rooms, to be equipped by funds raised through public subscription.

The latter plan, according to Mayor William W. Donaldson, would enable the $3,000,000 voted by property owners to purchase "more hospital" than if the funds were spent to construct the building and completely equip it.

But the equipping would hinge on how the public would take to a voluntary subscription campaign after having been taxed, opponents of the plan pointed out.

Eastern Fog Slows Ships and Airplanes

NEW YORK (AP)—A heavy fog today shrouded the Eastern Coast from Maine to Washington, D. C., slowing sea and air traffic.

The weather bureau here predicted the fog would remain through the day and tonight.

Ships coming into New York edged along carefully through the haze. One big passenger liner, the Holland-American company's Maasdam, had been scheduled to dock at 8 a. m. but was delayed several hours.

La Guardia Airport was forced to turn most incoming flights away to other places because of poor visibility.

Carver School to Open Monday

Teachers to Get Paid Today as Board Elects New Secretary

Regular classes are expected to be resumed Monday at the George Washington Carver School in Royal Oak Township, George F. Taylor, chief assistant Oakland County prosecutor, said today.

Taylor made the statement at a meeting of the independent school district's board. State Education Supt. Clair L. Taylor, Carver school teachers and parents in the Oakland County office building.

Clair Taylor said he would have Walter Buffington, school district superintendent, and Mrs. Loretta Baker, newly elected secretary, sign the teachers' checks, which would end the school close-down.

The school was closed Tuesday by Prosecutor Taylor after some 100 parents, claiming they were not represented properly at school board meetings, refused to let either teachers or students enter the building.

One flare-up occurred at today's otherwise reasonably quiet meeting when a Carver School teacher, Mrs. Magnolia Sims, stood up to "set (Prosecutor) Taylor right about his statements concerning the teachers."

Mrs. Sims asserted that Taylor was in error in earlier statements when he said his office had "certain facts" indicating teachers were involved in a "conspiracy" resulting in the shut-down.

Taylor told Mrs. Sims his office had the facts and he wanted no rehearsing of the past at the meeting, "but only to look toward orderly procedures in the future."

When Mrs. Sims continued her remarks, Taylor had her escorted from the room saying she might be charged with a misdemeanor for disturbing a legally constituted meeting.

find an architect was assigned to City Attorney William A. Ewart, who was ordered to determine if a nine-year-old contract with architect Leo J. Heenan is still in effect.

Heenan, who designed the new City Hall, drew up plans in 1945 for a hospital addition under a contract with the city.

An estimate made last year showed that it would cost at least $4,400,000 to build the addition according to Heenan's plans.

City officials said Heenan re-

Knowland Sees Senate Censure Vote Despite Fears of McCarthy Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) insisted today that the McCarthy censure fight will go to a vote despite some predictions that the Senate's 10-day recess will be used as a springboard to filibuster the issue to death.

After seven days of debate, the upper chamber voted 76 to 22 late yesterday to adjourn until Nov. 29 to give Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy time to recover from an elbow injury.

The decision plunged the whole controversy into considerable uncertainty. McCarthy's friends predicted a boost for their compromise drive and his foes feared a filibuster.

Some senators said the recess will postpone a showdown until next year while others claimed it will have no effect at all.

West Presses for A-Pool Vote

Diplomats Predicting Unanimous U.N. OK for Peace Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—With Russian approval virtually certain, the United States and its atomic allies pressed for a vote today on their compromise plan to promote President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace program.

Diplomats predicted unanimous assent.

The U.N.'s 60-nation "Political Committee, in recess until late today to let members consult their governments, hoped to reach a ballot tonight on the seven-power resolution to set up an international atomic agency.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. presented the revised proposal yesterday with a plea for unanimous support.

Virtual agreement between Russia and the West was reached after a week of closed-door bargaining between Lodge and Soviet Chief Delegate Andrei Vishinsky. Vishinsky told the Western sponsors yesterday he approved of the revised plan on all but one point. Informed sources said this difference would not stand in the way of final Soviet approval.

Vishinsky opposed a Western proposal inviting only the U.N. and its specialized agencies to the proposed scientific conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy. Apparently seeking a bid for Red China, Vishinsky argued that there should be no restrictions on the invitation list.

The resolution:

1. Provides that the scientific conference be held next summer.

2. Suggests that as soon as the international atomic agency is set up, it negotiate an appropriate agreement with the U.N. The original resolution called for making it a specialized U.N. agency, but the Russians objected and called for it to be placed under the Security Council.

3. Suggests that negotiations on the agency continue, as recommended by Russia.

privately he is convinced anti-censure forces will launch a filibuster in an attempt to prevent a vote before the Senate's deadline for final adjournment Christmas Eve. The recess had made this a lot easier, he said.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.) claimed "There is every indication we may have a filibuster." And Sen. Wayne L. Morse (Ind-Ore) said it is "perfectly obvious" the McCarthy camp will try to prevent a vote.

But Knowland, the Senate's burly Republican leader, insisted there is "no doubt" the issue will be settled one way or the other before the Dec. 24 deadline.

"The Senate will reconvene and take up the motion and proceed with it until we get a vote," he said.

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) chairman of the Senate censure committee, also asserted his complete confidence "that the Senate is going to resolve the issue at this session." He doubted a filibuster would be attempted since "McCarthy said he would not and I think he meant it."

The vote to halt the debate came dramatically near the close of yesterday's session after Congress' official physician, Dr. George W. Calver, said McCarthy would have to stay in the hospital for 10 days.

Calver, who examined McCarthy at the request of Senate leaders, said the senator is suffering from "traumatic bursts" and would have to remain under treatment until Nov. 29.

If McCarthy returned to action in the Senate any sooner, the doctor said, there might be a permanent injury. McCarthy hurt his elbow shaking hands with admirers in Milwaukee last weekend.

The recess will allow the Senate four full weeks of debate before the Dec. 24 adjournment deadline. The shortened debate time makes a filibuster somewhat easier, but still difficult if opposed by Senate leaders. Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) said today there are enough votes to crack any talkathon.

Them Thar Hills No Longer Noted for Gold Mining

DENVER (AP)—Gold doesn't seem to get people excited out here in the West the way it used to.

Take the news that William Zeckendorf, the big real estate man from New York, expects to find some of the yellow stuff when he digs the foundation hole for his new downtown hotel here next month.

It caused hardly a ripple among Colorado mining engineers. They said nowadays it frequently costs more to produce gold than what you get for it. The price is $35 an ounce, not a dime more or less, and the U.S. mint is the only legal buyer.

Judge Declares Cop Used Force

Doty Orders Policeman to Pay Hospital Expense for Motorist

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty Thursday handed down a judgment against a Pontiac Police detective accused of beating and illegally arresting a motorist Aug. 16, 1952.

Although the charge of illegal arrest was denied by Judge Doty, he said evidence indicated "that unnecessary and excessive force was used in making the arrest. This is evidenced by the nature of plaintiff's injuries."

The judgment names Detective Richard Evans (a patrolman at the time) who has been ordered to pay bills covering hospitalization, dental and other medical expenses in the amount of $365 and an additional $200 "for pain and suffering."

The plaintiff, Jerry Sanders, 31, of 220 Rockwell Ave., testified that he suffered a compound fracture of the lower jaw and a broken tooth during the forcible arrest.

That Radar Stuff Really Slows the Girls Down

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Radar enforcement of the state's speed laws has confused at least two west Texas women motorists, the Texas Department of Public Safety says.

The car of one of the women stalled a short distance down the highway after she passed a radar warning sign. When the mechanic arrived, she complained: "I was just driving 65 miles an hour when they turned that darned radar on me."

The other woman telephoned to the Abilene, Tex., office of the highway patrol for help.

"I have a sick granddaughter in Amarillo and have to drive up there in a hurry," she explained. "Will you please turn that radar off so I can get there real fast?"

Doctor Faces Accuser Today

First Officer to Suggest Sheppard Was Slayer to Take Stand

CLEVELAND (UP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard faces in court today the man who first pointed an accusing finger at him and hurled the charge "wife-slayer."

The witness is Robert Schotke, a lean, methodical veteran of the Cleveland homicide squad who in the last 12 years has worked on hundreds of murder investigations.

Only a few hours after Mrs. Marilyn Sheppard, wife of the Bay Village osteopath-surgeon, was bludgeoned to death in her bed, Schotke stood at the hospital bedside of her husband, who was nursing the wounds he said he got from Marilyn's killer.

According to Bay Village Police Chief John P. Eaton, the man from the homicide squad said quietly to the man in the bed: "Doctor, the evidence points very strongly toward you."

Schotke was a strong witness for the state in its attempt to send the brawny, six-foot brain surgeon to the electric chair. Chief Prosecutor John J. Mahon said that "he's the first real investigating officer we've had to testify."

He was scheduled to take the stand when county Coroner Samuel R. Gerber finishes his testimony. Dr. Gerber's surprising hint that a surgical instrument was the murder weapon and his expert opinion that Mrs. Sheppard's wristwatch was not removed for at least 30 minutes after the attack on her has been damaging to the defense.

Sheppard's attorneys barked at him throughout yesterday's session in common pleas court. One of them, scholarly William J. Corrigan, white-haired dean of Ohio criminal lawyers, even accused him of testifying falsely about the story Dr. Sheppard told of the weird adventures he had in the pre-dawn dark of the murder morning, last July 4.

Schotke, too, was expected to get a thorough going-over by the defense legal staff. But he, like the coroner, is a veteran of scores of witness stand appearances.

In This Town It Pays to Drive Through Light

PALMETTO, Fla. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Sullivan were arrested yesterday for driving through a red light.

The Gary, Ind., couple was amazed when Judge Robert Marshall sentenced them to lunch and dinner at local restaurants, flowers from a florist shop, a box of candy, car wash, night's lodging and a conducted tour of the town—all at the city's expense.

It was the first of the season's "hospitality arrests" for which Palmetto is noted.

Reported Gifts at All-Time High of $522,614 Total

Lyndall Lauds Area's Generosity; Says Goal Is Special Challenge

The Pontiac Area United Fund today reached 99.4 per cent of its $525,823 goal with donations totaling $522,614.

The figure is an all-time record, nearly $14,000 higher than raised in 1953.

Dwight S. Adams, fund executive director, said some returns are still out and expressed hope that when they are brought in the $3,200 needed to put the drive over will be added.

The campaign had been extended two weeks past its original Nov. 4 closing date to permit solicitors to complete calls.

"We are proud to have raised more than ever before because this year's goal represented a special challenge," said Campaign Manager Frank S. Lyndall.

"The fact that so much more has been pledged this year shows a real spirit of generosity on the part of Pontiac area citizens plus representing a supreme effort by some 4,000 volunteer workers."

"Each major fund division exceeded its total of any previous year," Lyndall stated.

The Industrial Division bettered its quota early and the Geographical Division is close to its $17,500 goal, with more expected.

Only four of the 64 units in the commercial division fell short of expectations, he stated.

"Had these four units come anywhere near their quotas the drive would be over the top now. They will continue their efforts."

Audited returns through Nov. 18 show the Industrial Division collecting $347,258, compared with $338,734 last year.

The group composed of firms in the Pontiac Manufacturers' Assn. gave $342,579 and the General Manufacturers group, $4,680.

The Commercial Division's total is $132,613, contrasted with $127,633 last year. Its Pontiac section donated $128,779 and Waterford Township, $3,834.

The Geographical Division has $16,746, against $16,046 in 1953. Of this, the Pontiac residential group gave $7,376 and small businesses, $769. Some $3,823 (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Truck Driver Killed in Mishap Near Flint

Clyde W. Taylor, 33, of 1333 Locke St., Pontiac Twp., died early today a few minutes after a truck-car collision north of Flint which also claimed the lives of two Flint men.

Killed immediately were: Charles Warholm, 21, believed to be the car's driver; and Edward G. Hughes, 22.

Taylor was driving to Saginaw with an empty semi-trailer when Warholm's southbound car spun out of control three miles north of the Genesee-Saginaw County line on U.S.10 and hit Taylor's truck head on, according to Michigan State Troopers of the Flint Post.

Witnesses said Taylor dropped dead at the scene just a few minutes after the accident. He was an employee of the U.S. Truck Co. Inc. of Pontiac.

Ryan said that in his opinion the Soviet Union fears war at present, and that when things get too hot in any area, it probably will continue to pull in its horns, as it has been doing.

The Day in Birmingham

Artificial Ice Skating Rink Now Under Consideration

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Preliminary steps for what would be Birmingham's first artificial ice skating rink were taken at last night's recreation board meeting with the appointment of board member, Roland W. Reese, to work out details with City Manager Donald C. Egbert.

Discussion of the winter sports activities was included on the board's agenda at Egbert's request with the thought that the city's steady growth will require increased recreational facilities.

Speaking in generalities, the board discussed with Egbert a rink such as those put into operation last winter in Detroit. Investigations made by Reese last January disclosed that the plastic piped, chemically operated rink met with instant public approval.

Putting a $75,000 bond issue to a vote, possibly in time for the April election, was also mentioned, although it was pointed out that the $75,000 figure was purely guesswork and closer cost figures are yet to be determined by Reese and Egbert.

The board will first have to submit a plan for city commission approval.

A slight charge to cover maintenance cost of any such operation is also likely, it was brought out.

At the time Reese reported his findings on the rinks, the idea was considered by the board as part of a long-term plan. In June, City Recreation Director Frank Whitney was asked to study the current recreation program and came up with recommendations for future facilities.

His report is expected to be completed within the month and will include the development of capital improvements for recreational needs of the city.

In authorizing condemnation proceedings for two school sites at the southwest Lahser-14 Mile road corner, Board of Education members were told by Supt. of Schools Dwight B. Ireland this week that too few developers use foresight in considering future needs.

Instead, an area is built up with no provisions made for schools, he said. In that respect, he commended the Garling Construction Co., developers of the former Mercer Farms, property

Shigley Will Get 6-Month Leave

City Commission Says Pension Error May Be Corrected Then

Police Capt. Edward H. Shigley will be allowed to take a six-month leave of absence from his post, thus by-passing the embarrassing possibility of having to return to duty after criticizing the department and tendering his resignation.

The City Commission last night informally approved the leave of absence proposal presented by City Manager Walter K. Willman.

By the end of the six months, a pension proposal error will have been submitted to voters for correction.

After the election early this month in which the city charter was changed to permit earlier retirement for city employees, Shigley handed in his resignation and asked the Pontiac Police Dept. for its low pay and pension scales.

Soon after, it was learned he could not start receiving his pension at 55, as he believed, but at 65. Although 52, Shigley planned to retire now and start collecting his pension in three years.

Willman said under the leave of absence plan, Shigley's "rights would be protected and he could go ahead and do as he pleases, without our penalizing him," he added.

"I think it's a lesson for anyone not to be too free on the trigger until he knows he is free of the system."

Report Adams Justice Choice

May Take Bushnell's Place on Court Next Year

LANSING (AP)—Two names took precedence today in speculation for appointment to the Michigan Supreme Court, following Justice George E. Bushnell's announcement he would retire Dec. 31.

The capital guessed that former Justice Clark J. Adams of Pontiac or Talbot Smith of Ann Arbor were the most likely choices.

Gov. Williams, who will fill the vacancy, was out of the state and most of his staff was out of the city. There was no confirmation of the rumors.

Politicians put Adams' name at the head of the list because he had previously held the post by the governor's appointment and had been defeated when he was an election candidate to fill the unexpired term.

Williams has usually shown his gratitude to those Democrats who went down to defeat at the polls carrying the party's banner.

Smith, a member of the State Corrections Commission and a prominent in Williams' previous recent battles, reportedly has

A-Active Ducks Not Hot Enough to Scare Envoys

TOKYO, (U)—The imperial household will hold its traditional duck hunts for the foreign diplomatic corps as usual this year despite reports that the wild birds—fresh in from Siberia—are radioactive as hot atoms.

You-know-who is running those atomic tests up in Siberia.

The imperial household board, sensitive to the pitfalls of stuffing diplomats with atomic duck, ran its own Geiger counter checks Nov.

10 and 13. The score in radioactivity: Head, 21 counts; liver, 17; entrails, 18; meat, 24; feathers (of one duck), 25.

Deducting for natural radioactivity, the board decided the ducks were all right-wingers.

Sea Gulls Clean Up

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—James Coogan, park director, complained about sea gulls messing up the city golf course. The birds got mixed up in a large oil slick left by tankers in Long Island Sound. It prevented them from fishing, so they went to the golf course for worms. They wiped the oil on the carpet-like greens.

She died Feb. 12 at 87.

America's Classic Murder Trials.

'King of Bootleggers' Earned Acquittal by Playing Dual Roles in Court Drama

Editor's note: In this final article telling the story of American murder trials, James L. Kilgallen relives the fantastic trial of "The King of the Bootleggers."

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
Int. News Service Staff Writer

No man ever tried for murder seemed as casual, untroubled and confident of freeing himself as George Remus, former millionaire "King of the Bootleggers."

Remus shot and killed his wife, Imogene, in Eden Park, Cincinnati, on Oct. 6, 1927, because he thought she double-crossed him for the love of a prohibition agent.

"I did a duty I owed to society," Remus declared. "The unwritten law will free me."

The colorful Remus, a wily man who had made millions in the bootlegging racket during the prohibition era, went to trial before Judge Chester R. Shook and a jury in Cincinnati's Criminal Court on Nov. 14, 1927.

Probably never before in the history of American jurisprudence was there such a strange and spectacular courtroom drama.

Remus, an ex-lawyer who had turned bootlegger on a gigantic scale, acted as his own co-counsel.

He helped pick the jury. He raved and ranted in the courtroom. He hurled charges at Franklin L. Dodge, the dry agent whom he had cast in the role of villain for allegedly stealing his wife's love.

He made many motions before the court. Time and again he turned on his "personality" for the benefit of the jury of 10 men and 2 women.

He even delivered his own closing address to the jury. It was his greatest trial as a lawyer—and, incidentally, as a defendant.

And he won! On Dec. 20, 1927, the "Christmas jury" returned a verdict of "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity," and six months later Remus was a free man.

Remus never showed the slightest tinge of regret for having slain Imogene. He killed her like any gunman might shoot his moll. It was a coldly premeditated act.

He emerged from Atlanta Penitentiary, where he had finished a short term for violation of the Volstead Act, and hastened to Cincinnati with the express intention of mowing her down.

In jail he had heard through the "grapevine" that she had been two-timing him with the dry agent. He was enraged. His woman was quitting him.

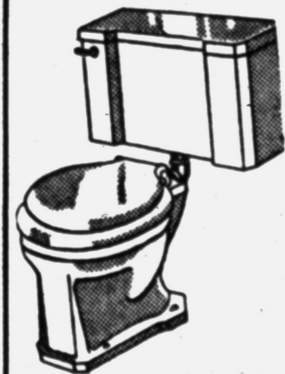

She was on her way in a taxicab to the Domestic Relations Court in Cincinnati the sunny October day when Remus caught up with her.

In the taxi with Mrs. Remus was one of her two daughters, Ruth.

Remus trailed them in an automobile. As they passed through beautiful Eden Park, Remus ordered his driver to crowd the taxi to a stop.

Swearing violently, Remus grabbed his startled wife by the wrist, hit her a blow on the head with his fist and then pressed a gun to her body. As he was shooting her down, Mrs. Remus cried: "Oh, Daddy, you know I love you; don't do it!"

After the crime Remus went to a police station and gave himself up. He calmly admitted the murder. He was incarcerated in the Hamilton County Jail to await trial.

I was assigned by International News Service to cover the trial. Arriving in Cincinnati, I went to the jail on the chance I might be able to see Remus. It was no trouble at all.

"Come right up," said Remus, through a speaking tube.

He had private quarters on the top floor. Unlike the other prisoners, he was not confined to a cell. He greeted me warmly, and showed me his books and his wardrobe of about 20 suits of clothes.

He had liquor available although he never drank. Whenever he wanted he could go up on the roof and exercise to keep himself fit. Remus was a man of power.

He was a short, pudgy man with a bald head and cheery manner. He had a certain standing in the underworld which knew him as the business genius who successfully handled a $100,000,000 organization for the distribution of illicit booze.

He had been a good lawyer in his earlier days in Chicago. He married a beautiful woman, Mrs. Imogene Holmes, an Evanston, Ill., divorcee.

Prohibition, however, turned him into a racketeer. He devised a way of making easy money through obtaining alcohol without drawing permits from government warehouses. He moved to Cincinnati, hard by the distillery area, and formed a $20,000,000 syndicate.

The illicit booze business boomed. Soon he had 3,000 men working for him. He bribed officials right and left.

His trucks, loaded with liquor, moved in caravans on the highways and into various states. The trucks were manned by armed guards as a precaution against hijacking, then a common practice.

He bought a $100,000 home in Cincinnati, at which bacchanalian orgies took place, attended by officials and society persons of a sort. He was reputed to be a multimillionaire. For long periods he made as much as $15,000 a day.

Then, in 1927, came the jail "rap"—and his subsequent murder of Imogene.

Remus assumed the role of lawyer in defending himself at his trial. His co-counsel was Charles H. Elston, a noted Cincinnati lawyer. The defense included the admission that Remus was guilty of "temporary maniacal insanity" at the time of the crime.

"In the courtroom I'm a dual personality," Remus explained. "In defending myself, I forget there is a physical George Remus. I feel detached from him. I am the lawyer pleading his case."

The prosecution was headed by Charles P. Taft, son of former President William Howard Taft.

Taft claimed the state would prove Remus killed his wife to silence her because she planned to testify at her divorce suit that Remus had killed an Indiana sheriff four years earlier in a whiskey-running episode.

Remus and Taft clashed frequently over the testimony of state witnesses. Three alienists, appointed by the court, made public a report that Remus "is now sane" and was sane at the time of the slaying.

Defense witness included Remus' wealthy friends. One of them, John S. Berger of Los Angeles, an exposition promoter, testified he told Remus his wife was "madly in love" with Dodge and had made trips with the dry agent.

Willie Haar, an ex-bootlegger of Savannah, Ga., once an inmate of "Millionaire's Row" in the Atlanta prison, told the jury how crazy Remus was about his wife.

Toward the end of his trial, another reporter and I visited Remus in the Hamilton County Jail. He was more serious than usual and confided he personally was going to address the jury in his own behalf the next morning. He asked for a "good lead" to start his speech.

We suggested he wear a gray suit, instead of a dark one, and that he have a sprig of holly in his lapel because he would be facing a "Christmas jury." He said he would. We then suggested that he open up his address thus:

"Ladies and gentlemen: Before you stands Remus the lawyer," and then—flinging his right arm out dramatically—point to the chair he had left and add: "And there, in that empty chair sits Remus, the defendant."

Thus the jury could picture Remus the lawyer and Remus the prisoner whom he was defending.

"Great!" said Remus. He followed this routine to the letter, giving me a bit of a scoop because I had the scene written up in advance.

"It was alright," laughed Remus later, "only that when I flung my right arm dramatically, per instructions, I found that 250-pound deputy sheriff has planted himself in the empty chair!"

Remus told the jury he did not want any sympathy or compassion, that he had "defended the sanctity of his home." He said if they felt he should go to the electric chair, they should do their duty and "not flinch."

When the jury, on Dec. 20, returned a verdict of "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity," Remus thanked them. And then, turning to the press, said:

"American justice!"

Remus was sent to the Lima, Ohio State Hospital for the insane. A fight for his release was begun and, six months later, on June 20, 1928, he was given his freedom.

The one-time deluxe bootlegger dropped out of the headlines. He began haunting courtrooms, watching various trials. He died on Jan. 20, 1932, a forgotten man.

Lionel Barrymore

Much that was admired and beloved by millions was lost to the world of make believe when death called LIONEL BARRYMORE.

Though he himself said he had no stomach for the stage, he left behind a prodigious list of successes before the footlights, on the silver screen and in radio.

Among movies in which he starred were such outstanding hits as A Free Soul, Grand Hotel, Ah, Wilderness, The Return of Peter Grimm and many more. Though confined to a wheel chair for the past 17 years by two hip fractures and arthritis, the brother of JOHN and ETHEL BARRYMORE refused to let that stop his work in the entertainment world.

Many shows were written especially for him and he won a large audience as narrator in the Hall of Fame, as Dr. Gillespie in the Doctor Kildare series and with his annual portrayal of DICKENS' pennypinching Scrooge.

Exceedingly versatile, LIONEL BARRYMORE was far more than an accomplished actor. Besides his unusual gift as etcher and artist, he was a successful composer of music.

Perhaps the finest tribute that can be paid him would be to say that his place in the hearts of the people was won not only by talent but by the warmth of his personality.

Hanoi's Bamboo Curtain

A correspondent who wanted to know what happens when the Reds peacefully take over a city, found out in Hanoi, northern Viet Nam capital.

QUENTIN POPE of the Chicago Tribune Press Service stayed on after the Reds assumed control of northern Viet Nam. His brief description of events after the bamboo curtain descended on Hanoi was "seeing a city die."

One day Hanoi's broad tree lined boulevards were busy with traffic. The next they were almost empty. Most of the stores had put up their shutters. On long lines of buildings there were notices that their owners had gone to Hal-phong, 60 miles south.

Bicycles, rickshaws and handcarts replaced trucks, jeeps and cars. French names on shops were painted over and replaced with Vietnamese names.

At the movie houses managers soon found that the Vietminh government was their boss and that Communist films would be all they would have to show. Not only that, the managers were told how long each film must run and how many shows they could offer daily and at what hours. Far more serious they learned the bad news that henceforth 50 per cent of their gross revenue would go to the government.

Within four days it was apparent that the Reds would be unable to maintain uninterrupted water, phone and power service. About the same time traders found themselves hit by a 40 per cent import tax. Merchants stood idly by their counters while a nearby government store undersold them and prices of imported goods went sky high.

To fill Hanoi's cup of gloom to overflowing, the Reds imposed their own depreciated paper money on traders and no one could afford the greatly inflated prices.

Hanoi, overnight, had become a city whose middle class had fled from Red rule.

To an unsuperstitious person, having a $2 bill is twice as lucky as having a $1 bill.

Warning to Investors

From New York City have come timely warnings against purchase of stock in Canadian enterprises without getting prior expert advice.

KEITH FUNSTON, president of the New York Stock Exchange, is one of those who urged care in the purchase of Canadian securities. Mr. FUNSTON was moved by the fact that recent successful mining operations in both Canada and the United States have spurred the sale of promotional mining stock by brokers in both countries.

Another pertinent fact is that while Ontario has a securities commission for the protection of investors, no such agency exists in the Province of Quebec. Premier DUPLESSIS only recently stated that the Province's securities law will be overhauled at the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

Officials on both sides of the border confirm that a considerable amount of worthless stock has been entering the United States from brokerage houses in Montreal.

New York Attorney General Goldstein joined in warning investors to seek advice before buying. At the same time he reminded the public that in the last 10 years Americans have lost an estimated billion dollars on worthless securities.

In Canada, which is experiencing its greatest development boom, there is no dearth of sound and attractive dividend paying stocks. But before you invest, investigate.

Newsstand and Bus Stop Not the Cause of Littered Sidewalk, Says Jimmy Boyce

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical to its nature.)

To City Manager, Walter K. Willman. The Pontiac Press published a picture of the litter of paper and trash on the sidewalk at Huron and Saginaw. In your statement to the Press, you said that most of the cause of this was the fault of the newsstand and the bus stop.

In order to prove this charge false we have taken a periodical check for three days of two hours each day. It showed that over 300 people neither bought anything at the newsstand or took a bus, yet they managed to throw something in the way of paper wrappers etc. on that particular corner.

In order to prove my point, Mr. Willman, I will ask the Pontiac Press for their cooperation and myself to take pictures at random, at your say so, whether apologies are in order to the gentleman who operates the newsstand or not.

I have known Mr. John Sphear for ten years and his newsstand is an institution to the city of Pontiac. That man's pride is hurt, Mr. Willman, so let's prove to the city of Pontiac that the blame is on the people and not the newsstand or the bus stop.

Says Few Bright Spots in Election Anyway

Well the election is over, and everything seems to be quiet on the Potomac except the McCarthy fuss, and President Eisenhower has said he will cooperate with the Democrats for the good of the country. In this our President has shown true Americanism.

In the big landslide to the Democrats, there are a few bright spots. One of these is the retaining of our good old George Dondero as Congressman. George Dondero who does things and does them right. Good old George, we greet you "again and again and again", twelve times in all.

Another bright spot was the defeat of Amendment 4, which would have thrown down the bars for the gamblers. To this we give God the glory.

Alertness of Doctor and Police Is Praised

I think credit should be given the doctors and police force for the wonderful way they handled a delicate situation in Walled Lake recently.

A nine-month-old baby was brought to the doctor's office with convulsions and an obstruction of the throat. The doctor performed an emergency operation so the baby could breathe but really had no equipment for such a delicate operation.

So the baby was taken to St. Joseph Hospital to finish the operation. A police escort was called so as to have no delay en route to the hospital. They cooperated 100 per cent at every intersection and the road was clear all the way.

The hospital had been alerted and was ready and waiting to finish the operation. Next morning the baby was doing nicely.

Recent Press Editorial Draws Comments

Having noticed the ease you have always shown in defending the GOP and its businessman administration in its lopsided and ruthless survival of the unfittest policy, I was surprised that you would step out of character and actually expose this Summerfield "give away" in your Nov. 5 editorial.

Further, to increase the work of the already overworked and underpaid postal employees and not to have the common decency to give (or allow to go into effect) an equally inadequate 5 per cent raise is, in my humble opinion, heaping insult onto injury.

Says City Loses Employees Over Wages

It seems the City of Pontiac lost another valuable employee when Capt. Edward Shigley of the Pontiac Police Dept. resigned. It will be hard to replace one with his experience and ability.

Capt. Shigley has stated he was not resigning because of low wages and a poor retirement plan, although he called attention to these two things.

However, the city in the past has lost many experienced employees in the Departments of Public Works, Police Dept. and Fire Dept., because of poor wages.

In past years the City Commission has failed to bring the wage scale up in line with other cities in the Detroit-Pontiac area. The city's Capital Improvement Plan has gone along well at the expense of low-paid city employees.

Survey shows that City employees' pay continues to drop behind others in industry. Yet these employees are the ones who are depended upon to provide efficient services.

I trust the City Commission will realize these factors in making up the 1955 budget.

Weather Records Reveal Some Interesting Facts

Going back to 1925 in my weather records, I find that since that time our earliest snow squalls were on October 2, 1938. The latest real winter snowstorm of 1949 did not arrive until January 26, 1949. First snowflakes came Nov. 10, 1948.

First frost of 1953 was October 3, temperature at 32. Going back to 1948, first hard frost on nights of Oct. 16-17, temperature 26, lowest of that date in 76 years. First frost of 1951 was Sept. 29 with first snow Nov. 2.

In 1952 ground was covered with 3 inches of snow Dec. 2, Nov. 4, 1953 first snowflakes, with ground covered Nov. 5.

Forget All About Your Blood Pressure, Brady Advises People Trying Cures

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Since Dr. Osler published the first edition of his "Practice" sometimes called "The Doctors' Bible" sixty-two years ago, medicine, making those vast strides we hear so much about, has been marking time in regard to hardening of the arteries.

No 20th-century authority has illuminated the question more than Osler did sixty years ago when he described arteriosclerosis as "the natural wear and tear to which the tubes" (arteries) "are subjected. Longevity is a vascular question, which has been well-expressed in the axiom that 'a man is as old as his arteries'."

Oh, yes, if you're a trusting soul, you can take various "shots" and follow fad diets which purport to reduce blood pressure. The trick specialists and kil-nick racketeers have to carry a heavy overhead and keep up an imposing front, complete with a smart receptionist and busy-looking near-nurses.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
 (International News Service)

We've examined this political setup like it was mushrooms out of season. We see no reason why the Senate and the House should both chug in line with the White House.

The Senate and the House are halls of legislation and not box-cars.

The three branches of government are the executive, the legislative and the compromise. Sometimes it is primed with the investigative and barked with the filibustive.

The original name of the capital is Conococheague, which is Indian for smoke signals from other people's tobacco.

Philadelphia and Baltimore were first suggested for the capital. You can still buy the franchises.

Along about 1814 President Madison grabbed Paul Revere's horse and galloped away. He didn't broadcast the British were coming. He wanted the world to know he was leaving.

General Ross wasn't welcome at the White House even though the doormats spoke the same language. He found the tables set for forty guests or eight horses.

Dolly Madison pointed her little foot toward the west and lit out with her husband. Congress also took a recess.

The Constitution states Congress shall make the laws and the President shall veto them. It also says a senator must be five years older than a representative and a President five years older than a senator. The cabinet is no Cub den either.

We don't know how the Constitution arrived at those ages. We all eventually do. But nowhere in the text or on the sealage does it say the Senate, the House and the executive mansion should be on one string like a triple yo-yo.

We were puzzled by President Eisenhower's shilling in the campaign. We know Democrats are also Americans even if they are a trifle confused.

And we know the government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the irks. Washington will always be D.C. or A.C.

Other mothers in such a situation may compensate by an excessive worry about the baby's health. Thus, they get out of bed a dozen times at night to lay their hand on the baby's chest to make sure it is breathing. Their excessive solicitude is an indication of the reverse swing of the pendulum.

an older youngster to the arrival of the second born.

"But my husband actually seems jealous of the baby. At times, he gets so irritated that he rushes out of the house and takes a long drive in the car before he will return. Is it normal for a father to be so jealous of his own son?"

All parents get irritated at their children occasionally, so don't think you are abnormal if this happens. Children bring you a lot of advantages, but you must also pay for them by curtailing much of your previous freedom and carefree existence.

Some mothers, too, develop what we call psychoses of pregnancy.

And even go to a sanitarium after childbirth.

Underlying some of this is their secret jealousy of the baby. For example, a wife who has been an only child and who has received special spotlighting as a new bride gets a severe emotional shock after her baby is born.

Prior to that date, her devoted husband calls and inquires anxiously about his wife's health, etc. So she is still the center of his interest even till the last day of her pregnancy.

Then notice what happens! When her husband calls thereafter, he may perfunctorily inquire about her health but usually his query is: "How's the baby? Is she gaining in weight? Did she take all of her bottle?"

And the wife's doting parents now shift their interest to the new grandchild. They also begin to inquire about the baby.

So the young mother, formerly accustomed to all the adult attention, is now like a prima donna who has suddenly been demoted to the chorus.

Mamma feels resentful. She dislikes her secondary role. So she may vaguely think: "It was so much pleasanter before the baby came. If she should accidentally die of pneumonia, things would go back to normal again."

That thought percolates in her subconscious mind. Then it may momentarily flash across the main focus of her conscious attention.

Mamma then is horrified at herself. She thinks she must be a monster to contemplate such a thought.

"Oh, I must be abnormal," she thinks.

And this word "abnormal" brings to mind its synonym which is "insane." So mamma now believes she should be sent to a mental sanitarium.

Other mothers in such a situation may compensate by an excessive worry about the baby's health. Thus, they get out of bed a dozen times at night to lay their hand on the baby's chest to make sure it is breathing.

Their excessive solicitude is an indication of the reverse swing of the pendulum.

Ike, Mamie Plan for Thanksgiving

Will Observe Holiday in Atlanta With British Field Marshal as Guest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has announced that President Eisenhower will spend Thanksgiving Day in Augusta, Ga., with Sir Bernard Montgomery, British field marshal, as his guest. The President, Mrs. Eisenhower and Sir Bernard will fly to Augusta next Wednesday afternoon. Eisenhower said the first lady will remain in Augusta for the Thanksgiving weekend, returning to Washington either Nov. 28 or 29.

Montgomery, Eisenhower's comrade in arms during World War II, will be at Augusta Thanksgiving Day and the following day and then will return to Washington for a series of engagements.

The President plans to get in some golf during the weekend vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club. As usual, the Eisenhowers will stay in "Mamie's Cabin," located at the 10th tee of the golf course.

Absent from this year's Thanksgiving dinner in Augusta will be the President's three grandchildren—David G. Barbara Anne 5, and Susan 2—and their parents, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower. The major is stationed now at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and will be unable to get to Augusta for the holiday. He and his family spent

Two Youths Sentenced for Stealing Car Parts

Two 17-year-old boys, arrested by Pontiac Police while stealing auto accessories in the yard of the East Side Auto Parts at 181 E. Pike St. Tuesday, both were sentenced to 30 days in the Oakland County Jail Wednesday when they pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan. Sentence against William R.

Poehlman of 141 Auburn Ave. was suspended by Finnegan who said the youth has no previous record. His companion, Edgar Allen Lacy, also of 141 Auburn, was given a straight 30-day sentence without alternative fine.

Detective Sgt. John A. DePauw said he and other patrolmen seized the youths in the act of stealing after receiving an anonymous telephone call saying the youths were tampering with the cars.

Court Challenges Right of Drafting Expectant Father

LOS ANGELES (U)—A selective service directive advising draft boards that pregnancy is a status over which prospective draftees have control has been challenged by the U. S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appeal court's challenge is contained in a decision involving Warren E. Talcott Jr., 29, of Los Angeles, a commercial artist now with the Army at the Presidio in San Francisco. He asked the U. S. court in Los Angeles to grant him a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from the Army, but this was denied.

The appellate court cited an operations bulletin issued by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey to local draft boards, saying in part:

"Pregnancy is a status over which the registrant does have control, and it is therefore not a claim which can be classified under 'hardship' such as sickness, death or an extreme emergency beyond the registrant's control."

Cheery Advice Given Motorists by Doctor

IOWA CITY, Iowa (U)—Because broken bones occur so frequently in auto accidents, Dr. Robert S. McClintock, an orthopedic surgeon at the State University of Iowa hospital, gives this advice:

Every motorist should carry something in his car—such as a 2-inch by 3-foot piece of plywood—which could be used as a splint.

Car License Act to Be Enforced

Law Bans Anything Hiding or Obscuring Plates, Straley Says

Pontiac Police have undertaken to enforce a state motor vehicle code which bans the obscuring of auto license plates, according to an order issued by Chief Herbert W. Straley.

"It is becoming noticeably evident that there are many vehicles, mostly passenger autos, which have the license plate on rear of car partially obscured by some accessory, thereby making it difficult to read all letters and numbers on the license," said Straley.

He explained that the most common fault "is of motorists who have some type of trailer hitch fastened to the rear part of the car's frame, with the ball connection in such position that it obscures several of the numbers of the license."

Straley also referred to a recent trend, believed to have started among high school students, to cover the license plate with colored plastic material.

"This material not only changes the color of the license plate, but makes it difficult to read," he explained.

Straley added:

"There are also many vehicles being driven on our streets with license plate wired to the rear bumper and without the required light to illuminate the plate at night."

The license plate has evidently been changed from its regular place as provided by the automobile manufacturing firm, and placed low on the rear bumper as if to give the car a more "sporty" appearance.

The Michigan law also notes that it's unlawful to attach any name plate, insignia or advertising device to the plate, he further explained.

No Hard Feelings?

BOWLING GREEN, Va. (U)—The Army has issued invitations for a reunion here. It will be for some 400 persons displaced when the 80,000-acre A. P. Hill Military Reservation was created in 1940.

Beauchamp to Speak at Journalist Parley

Robert F. Beauchamp, president of the University of Michigan sponsored Michigan Interscholastic Press Assn., will deliver the welcome address at the annual National Association of Journalism Directors' luncheon on Nov. 26.

To be held in conjunction with the National Council of Teachers of English convention at the Hotel Statler, Detroit, the MIPA will be host to members of the national association.

Professor John V. Field, University of Michigan, will preside with Dr. Joseph Murphy of Columbia University giving the major address.

Getting to Be a Habit

DETROIT — Wade Holmes is doing his 69th jail term — for the same old failing. Holmes' little swindle is a trumped-up tale to housewives that their husbands have "but the numbers." But Holmes tells the wives they'll have to pay up past losses before the husband can collect. As always, one of the wives didn't fall for the yarn.

Bob Considine Says:

Sheppard Trial Attracts Fanatics and Do-Gooders

CLEVELAND (INS) — A brutal and generally over-publicized murder trial such as that of Dr. Sam Sheppard attracts crackpots, religious fanatics and earnest do-gooders by the scores. Or more.

The weeks of trying to get a jury in the case were marked by questions concerning a jury-talk letter sent to every member of the venire by some poor addled soul who felt the whole business was being directed by the Vatican.

Last week there was a fellow outside the criminal courts building with an uplifted sandwich sign indicating he knew the name of Marilyn's slaughterer. He had a deck of pink-colored handouts in one of his paws, which was covered with a white glove with the ends of the glove fingers cut off. He did a lively business until arrested and jailed on the highly disputable charge of contempt of court.

The man kept saying "My story has been read by Cecil B. DeMille and Republic Steel." He didn't seem to know just what the story was. The handouts had nothing to do with Dr. Sam.

A badly scrambled lady stormed into the corridors outside Judge Blythin's courtroom not long ago, shouting passages from the Bible and throwing illegal football blocks at Eddie Lavelle, cherubie bull in charge of those limits. Another lady also overcame first by strange forces within her and later by the cops, showed up to hurl confetti.

Judge, jury, defendant, relatives and the working press are besieged each day by mail containing complete solutions to the tricky case. Dr. Richard Sheppard, eldest of the brother-osteopaths, tapped me on the shoulder during a recess today to deliver to me a letter from a Chicago lady. It had been enclosed in an envelope addressed to Dr. Richard and Stephen Sheppard. I quote:

Dear Mr. Considine:
"It was July. The weather was warm. Dr. Sheppard took off his jacket and laid it neatly on the couch. He also took off his T-shirt and laid it on the couch beside the jacket."

"As you know, T-shirts come in three sizes: Small, medium and large. They stretch like hell. I wear them most of the time around the house."

"There were two bandits. Both men were experienced law breakers. They were too clever to leave fingerprints. After Dr. Sheppard was unconscious, they had plenty of time to remove fingerprints. While one bandit was killing Marilyn, another bandit was trying to kill Dr. Sheppard."

"When he was attacked he became aroused and instinctively realized he was in serious danger. It was a hot night. (Ed. note: It was one of the chilliest nights of the summer.)"

"Dr. Sheppard battled with the stranger and batted him to the beach. He gave the bandit a broken jaw, a broken rib, and a smashed nose. While they were rolling on the beach and fighting for supremacy, Dr. Sheppard's pants became spattered with blood from a smashed nose."

"He was then knocked unconscious and the waves from the beach water-soaked his pants. While he was lying on the beach, the bandits erased all fingerprints. Then took Dr. Sheppard's T-shirt and helped themselves to whatever clothing they needed to get away."

"The dog (Ed. note: It didn't bark during the murder) could have been kicked in the head or given a sleeping potion on raw meat and kicked into a closet. They may have wiped up some blood spots on the floor in order not to get blood on their shoes. See?"

Turkey Shoot Targets Given Prize at Fair

DUNN, N. C. — Dunn Jaycees operating a turkey shoot at the county fair, moved a coop of turkeys to the exhibit tent for safe-keeping overnight.

The next morning the judges arrived before the turkey shoot opened. They looked the turkeys over and pinned a blue ribbon on the coop as the best on exhibit. A five dollar check went along with the ribbon.

Ousted Teacher Seeks Payment

U-M Professor Denied Severance Allowance Asks Colleagues' Aid

ANN ARBOR (U-P) — H. Chandler Davis, ousted University of Michigan mathematics instructor, said yesterday he has asked the American Assn. of University Professors (AAUP) to investigate his dismissal and the refusal of the Board of Regents to grant him severance pay.

Davis, along with professor Mark Nickerson, professor of pharmacology, was suspended from the school faculty last August for refusing to answer the questions of a house un-American activities subcommittee. They were later dismissed.

The Board of Regents voted last Friday to refuse severance pay to both Davis and Nickerson.

Professor Gardner Ackley, president of the local chapter of the AAUP said he was "disappointed" at the regents' refusal to grant severance pay to Davis.

"I think that the university's action was a serious mistake which threatens to undermine faculty confidence and other aspects of the tenure system," he said.

Mountain Nudist Mislays Clothes, Cash, Car Keys

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (U-P) — Riley Jason Stram, 67, of Redondo Beach, Calif., went for a drive and a walk in the mountains. Police said he told them this happened: He undressed to take a sunbath on a mountainside. An interesting rock formation led him to walk an apparently short distance away. Then he couldn't find the spot where he had left his clothes. He searched vainly until the sun went down. The air became chilly.

Giving up the search, he walked down the mountains, approached a house and shouted for help. His shouts brought police — with blankets. Stram slept in the police station.

Yesterday morning he set out in borrowed clothes to look again for his clothing, which contains his money and car keys. At sundown his car was still parked at the foot of the mountains.

Pontiac Residents Planning to Organize Pigeon Club

There are a number of men in the Pontiac area who would rather stay home with a dozen or more pigeons than play a round of golf, according to Charles Jacobs, of 904 Coghlan Dr., Auburn Heights.

Jacobs, 27, and David Cox, 16, of 229 Mechanic St., Pontiac, are forming a Pontiac-Oakland County Pigeon Club.

The breeding, racing and showing of pigeons is engaged in by thousands of "fanciers" all over the country, said Jacobs.

Pigeons, he said, are invaluable in wartime for messenger carrying purposes and helpful in civil defense organizations.

Owners may compete for prizes in shows or enter their birds in "homings" races held annually.

Jacobs has been keeping pigeons since he was seven years old and now has 75 of the birds.

"I already know of about 30 other fanciers in the county," he stated.

The planned club would meet monthly, with members displaying their prize birds, discussing strain-improvement methods plus planning shows and races.

Activities could be held with clubs in Detroit and entries made in programs sponsored by the American Racing Union, a national pigeon-keepers group.

"We'll welcome persons of any age into our group and help beginners to get started," Jacobs explained. "We'll show newcomers how to care for their birds plus teaching them to race and breed for show."

A good show bird must have excellent feathers, the proper stance and respond well to its owner's directions. Shows are held each year at the Michigan State Fair. The national group will hold its 1955 convention in Detroit, Jacobs said.

"Homings" pigeons are raced by taking them to a central point, "liberating" them and keeping track of the time it takes for the pigeons to reach their individual lofts.

Interested persons are asked to contact Jacobs at his home or Cox by phone at FE 4-3152.

Field's Family Awaits His Arrival

WASHINGTON — Five Michigan witnesses—three of them from Flint—refused yesterday to answer questions before a congressional committee investigating alleged Communist activity in Michigan and Ohio industry.

Max Trachtenberg, of Detroit, the first to be questioned by the House Un-American Activities Committee, declined to tell committee members about his associates and activities in the Detroit and Flint area.

He also refused to state whether he is or ever was a member of the Communist Party of the United States or a member of the Communist youth movement in Michigan.

Trachtenberg is a member of the Detroit local 227 of the CIO United Auto Workers (UAW). Sgt. Sum-

Saturday Feature Is Third in Nationwide Competition

Competing with newspapers of all sizes in the United States the Pontiac Press has won Honorable mention in a national home section contest. The Press award places our Background for Living section third in competition across the country. Only two newspapers ranked higher. The Milwaukee Journal (circulation 339,532) won first prize; Atlanta Journal and Constitution (423,035) was second.

The newspaper Home Section contest was sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Editors to select the best Home Sections in America.

Judges for the contest were Editor N. R. Howard, of the Cleveland News; Louis B. Seltzer, Editor of the Cleveland Press, and Jack Wyse of Properties Magazine of Cleveland.

The judges' comments on the Pontiac Press section follow:

"These sections each give personal, close-to-the-reader handling of home stories informative and of value to everyone. They were well-written and well-edited and well-presented."

Hazel A. Trumble is editor of the section assisted by Abbie K. Kucera, and the Pontiac Press photographic department.

12 Birmingham Girls Under Court Orders

A teenage shoplifting ring of 12 Birmingham girls arrested Oct. 22 were placed under Oakland County Probate Court supervision when they appeared individually for hearings yesterday, according to James Hunt, director of children's service.

The girls, including another previously waived to Wayne County jurisdiction because of residence there, were charged by Birmingham police with taking between $200 and $300 in merchandise from four stores.

All between 12 and 15 years old, the girls were ordered to make full restitution in 30 days and are not to be in the downtown shopping area for 60 days unless with their parents, said Hunt.

Defense Rescue Truck Is Assigned to County

A fully-equipped civil defense rescue truck has been assigned to the Oakland County Road Commission for training its employees in disaster relief work. County Civil Defense Director Lewis C. Jarrendt said today.

The truck has 319 pieces of equipment including chain saws, jacks, blow torches, a generator, ladders, litters and flood lights. It is available to other county civil defense groups for training use, Jarrendt added.

Flying Farmers Meet

BATTLE CREEK — Some 200 Flying Farmers and their wives from Michigan and five other mid-western states opened their annual two-day regional flying clinic here Thursday.

HARMONY BOYS—Shown working themselves into a minor lather, the "Air-Tonics" (above) will be one of the half-dozen quartets appearing at the Holiday of Harmony in the Pontiac High School auditorium Dec. 4. The melodious meeting is being sponsored by the Pontiac Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. Tickets may be purchased at Hallman's Drugs, 457 Elizabeth Lake Rd., and from chapter members. The "Air-Tonics" are Bill Wickstrom, Gerry Guilmond, Clarence Bristol and Tam Damm.

ATTEND INSTITUTE—Taking part in an institute this week for supervisors of University of Michigan students doing field work in social work agencies throughout the state are (left to right): Marguerite the reporters rushed away — apparently to telephone their offices — the staircase was brought back, we opened the door again, and Dr. Field got out and climbed into a waiting BEA truck, which carried her off. I don't know where she went from there."

In Hungary, meanwhile, newsmen seeking to contact Noel Field and his wife Herta got no help from either the U.S. legation in Budapest or the Hungarian government.

Legation officials who saw the former U.S. State Department employee and his wife at their secret hideaway in Budapest yesterday said the couple "asked us not to give out their address."

Noel and his wife were released by the Hungarian government earlier this week with the announcement that spy charges against them have been dropped after an examination showed them "not substantiated." Noel had disappeared in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in May 1949. His wife vanished shortly afterward in the same city.

By her Hermann, a Cleveland architect, was released by the Polish government last month. He also had disappeared behind the Iron Curtain in 1949 while hunting for clues to the whereabouts of Noel and Herta.

A Washington report said Hermann was expected to leave the Warsaw sanitarium where he has been recuperating since his release either today or tomorrow for Switzerland.

Noel Field and his wife apparently planned to remain in Hungary, at least for a while.

After interviewing the couple, U.S. Minister Christian M. Ravnald told newsmen that they planned to enter a Budapest hospital for examination and treatment. The American envoy said both appeared to be well except that Noel "apparently is suffering from a stomach ailment."

Probe Dynamiting in Strike-Torn Area
WEBSTER SPRINGS, W. Va. — FBI agents have begun to probe the dynamiting of a coal train and the attempted dynamiting of another in this strike-troubled mining area.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI's Pittsburgh office, said yesterday: "We are investigating the dynamiting of a train operated by the Cherry River Boom and Lumber Co. on Oct. 20 and the attempted dynamiting of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train over the Stroud's Creek and Muddy Run Railroad near Tioga on Oct. 31."

One trainman was killed by the Oct. 20 blast.

Youth Curfew Proposed
PHILADELPHIA — Councilman Paul D'Onton has submitted to City Council a curfew bill banning juveniles up to 18 from public places after 10 p.m. on weekends and 11 p.m. on week nights. Parents of violators would be fined $25 to $300. No action has been taken on the bill.

Approximately 1345 pounds of stainless steel are used in the manufacture of a modern jet fighter bomber.

Repentant Sharpers Filling Novel 'Conscience Fund'

WASHINGTON (INS)—The woman with the twice-used two-cent stamp, the GI with the stolen nickel can of milk and the repentant bootlegger are paid-up members of the nation's most heartwarming group of volunteers.

They all successfully defrauded the government and they all are fellow contributors to the government's "conscience fund."

The Treasury Department, which takes care of the odd aspects of government activity, estimates that about two million dollars has been paid into the fund since it was established in 1811.

Since that time, guilt-stricken individuals have been sending in sums ranging from two cents to $50,000, most of them accompanied by contrite confessions that they owe it to Uncle Sam.

Deposits in the "conscience fund" are tabulated at the end of each fiscal year, and last June 30, the amount was $1,921,772.88. The treasury believes the normal flow of contributions since then has brought the total to two million dollars by now.

Many of the cover letters carry a religious theme such as the one sounded by this veteran when he wrote:

"Since becoming a Christian, I am trying to straighten up my past life. While in service I was in on a few gallons of misused gas. Enclosed is a dollar to pay for it."

Most letter writers, however, pin down more specifically the misappropriated item. Recently a World War I veteran confessed he took a five-cent can of condensed milk from a mess hall in France in 1919 and sent along a dollar as payment plus interest.

But not all contributors to the "conscience fund" are veterans.

The treasury recently received $1,000 from a man who said he failed to pay $500 in income taxes 30 years ago and wanted to give the other $500 to make up for being a bootlegger at one time.

Money is the usual offering to quiet a guilty conscience, but a defense plant worker who had stolen a micrometer in 1944 returned it in 1951 to help fight "our present day enemies."

Smallest amount ever received for the conscience fund was two cents from the woman who had used a two-cent stamp twice.

Largest contribution was a man who sent a total of $50,000 back in 1916. He reported he was paying four times the value of the government item stolen because the Bible said fourfold payment is the way to atone for theft.

The "conscience fund" was started during President James Madison's administration when an unknown person sent in five dollars and said he had defrauded the government. A total of $250 was received that year.

There were no more contributions until six dollars came in during 1827, but with the exception of one year—1848—the annual listing is unbroken for 127 years.

Yearly totals vary widely with a recent range from $19,500.62 in 1952 to $135,614.18 for the 12-month period which ended June 30. Heaviest contributions usually come in during years of national crisis and the all-time high of $370,285.47 was reached in 1950.

Deaths Last Night

NEW YORK (AP)—Frederick C. Calkins, 81, chairman of the Columbia University Board of Trustees, since 1913 and a top officer of publishing, banking and shipping enterprises. Born in Kingston, N.Y.

WASHINGTON—Robert James Mawhinney, 95, solicitor of the Treasury under Presidents Harding and Coolidge. Born in Philadelphia.

WINSTED Conn.—James T. Grady, 78, former director of public information for Columbia University, sometime newspaperman and a pioneer in scientific and industrial public relations. Born in Winsted.

BALTIMORE—Sister Louise Fey, 85, a sister of charity and the mother of eight sons and daughters who entered religious orders. Born Mary Anne Uris in Lewis County, N.Y. she became a sister after the death of her husband Louis A. Fey, in 1922.

ALPHA BOYS—The Alpha boys would probably make most any fraternity proud. They are: Tau, 15; Kappa, 13, and Sigma, 10. The names probably make school-teachers around Denver, Colo., do double takes.

Mountain Gals Avoid Glamor to Reach Top

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sex and glamor are strictly taboo for the gal who wants to get ahead in hillbilly music.

That's the opinion of successful women who have invaded a field once reserved for men. This verdict was reached as disc jockeys from the United States and Canada met here for the National Disc Jockey Festival.

Ann Jones, of Vancouver, Wash., and Mozelle Phillips, of Raleigh, N.C., who both spin records and sing country music were free with advice.

To be successful in country music, particularly as an artist, a woman should stick to gingham and steer clear of fancy hairdoes and figure-revealing clothes, they agreed. If you've got glamor, play it down.

"It pays to be yourself. I'm a plain old country girl and I sing from the heart. There's nothing a fan catches quicker than put-on and insincerity," said Miss Phillips.

Miss Jones said she strived for informality, friendliness and warmth of personality while bringing to her programs a genuine love for country music.

They Start 'Em Young Up in New Hampshire

ROCHESTER, N. H. (AP)—Even a governor can pull a boner.

Gov. Hugh Gregg, presiding at a recent toll road hearing, gave the floor to Mrs. Noreen Winkley. Holding her infant in her arms, the woman asked if she could talk from her seat.

Richard F. Cooper, former GOP state chairman, came to the rescue, offered to hold the baby.

"He will probably grow up to be a good Republican now," quipped Gregg.

Mrs. Winkley's retort: "She will grow up to be a good Democrat like her mother."

Electrical storms, common in mid-summer, kill 400 persons a year in the United States.

The Indian's canoe carried him over the swift rivers he traveled. Made from the bark of a paper birch tree, it was fast and light. This type of craft is still popular with trappers and hunters. Here is one you can make of paper.

1. Color the designs on canoe and Indian boy's feather and headband red. The canoe, paddles and boy's suit are brown.
2. Paste entire picture on brown wrapping paper. When dry, cut out all objects carefully, leaving boy attached at feather.
3. Fold canoe as marked, A to A, B to B. Paste together evenly. Do not paste bottom tabs or hands. Fold tabs outward so boy will kneel in bottom of canoe. Place boy in canoe and paste down.
5. Paste paddles together. Put dab of paste on handle and press paddle between boy's hands. Let paddle hang outside the canoe.

Box Office TV Spells End of Trips to Conventions

By MARGARET LATROBE

Have fun at that convention, boys. Your days of frolic are numbered. Gone will be that expense account trip across the nation, dozing through sales talks by day, staying up nights with the fellows.

Soon the convention, which heretofore has amounted to a deductible vacation, will come to you instead of you going to it. Or at least, you won't be able to go so far to the sales meetings, class reunions or lodge pow-wows.

Something called Box Office Television Inc. is now piping everything from executives' advice to gall bladder operations to giant TV screens not too far from your hometown. One of these days, to hear the latest business techniques advocated by the head office all you will have to do is look up.

Nasty break, eh?

According to the news from this agency of spoilsports, "a recent Box Office Television production was beamed privately to more than 35,000 Ford Motor Company dealers and personnel assembled in small groups all over the country. Only those persons authorized by Ford executives were permitted to attend."

In areas of high competition it is important that the salesman stay right on the job, and equally as vital that they be in close contact with the big boss. Up until now there has been a kind of gentleman's agreement between competitive firms.

"Go ahead, pals, and have a great convention. We'll look out for your interests while you're gone. Our meeting is next month, and you can do the same for us . . ." And while the cat was away, the mouse picked up some new business. At least, the head office thinks so.

This respite from toil, while delighting the toilers, wasn't very easy on the company's pocketbook. Away from home a man is inclined to pamper himself with good food and maybe a drink or two. Also he's gotta have a hotel suite for entertaining—not an inside single room. You can hardly blame big companies for dancing in the corridors over BOTV.

Box Office Television, Inc. is not a threat to commercial TV. Its purpose is "to teach a select number of authorized viewers assembled for specific reasons in specific places." And for a consideration, I assume.

Eventually, they intend to provide television package floor shows in restaurants, ballet and concert music as well as football games and movies for "closed-circuit" reception in private homes.

Well, the minute they can bring Clark Gable into my living room I'll put a quarter in the machine or sign any IOU they send.

It's progress, that's what it is, even if convention-minded business men look down in the mouth at receding annual picnics.

Junior Dances Highlight Week at PHS, St. Fred's

Junior dances, report cards and student government activities are keeping correspondents, Vicky, Marlene and Marcee on their toes.

Pontiac High

PHS students are looking ahead to the Thanksgiving holiday they will soon enjoy. Besides the week-end off, students get off an extra day on Monday. It's Professional Growth Day for teachers.

Student Union members attended a special assembly Wednesday, in which Cecil Houghton took the students on a trip through Greenland.

VICKY

Tuesday English and social science classes were supposed to see an intercollegiate debate with University of Michigan scheduled to debate against Ohio State, who, say the Michigan debaters, failed to appear because of Rosebowl Fever. PHSers were able to hear the Michigan debaters and ask questions.

Vera Mae Adams, speech instructor, announced that Charlotte Stark, junior, has placed first in the local Voice of Democracy contest and went to WCAR Thursday to record her speech so it may be sent on to the state contest in Lansing.

Pontiac High girls are getting the chance to receive a 10-hour course in Christmas sales training under the supervision of Grace McLaughlin.

St. Michael

The halls of St. Michael weren't exactly the happiest this week, as report cards were issued on Monday. Father Michael J. O'Reilly did the honors. The honor roll listed names of high school students.

Open-house for parents was held Monday and Wednesday evenings, giving the sisters and parents a chance to get acquainted.

Student council meeting was in the parish hall Wednesday morning. John O'Dea, president, gave a resume of the state-wide student-council convention at Ann Arbor. John Keller, junior representative, enlightened Shamrock fans on the coming basketball season.

Fred West told the assembly of the forthcoming Christmas play, "And the Virgin's Name Was Mary," by Father O'Reilly.

Fred also told of the new student suggestion box for constructive suggestions about school improvement.

Joanne Helander, new prefect of the Children of Mary Society, reminded the girls that Sunday is Communion Sunday for all members and urged perfect attendance.

Elaine Nussendorfer explained the aims and platform of the Sodality and of the intentions of Pope Pious X for this organization.

Senior Bob Anderson reminded students of the rules of the school for car owners, and Pat Lane explained the parking situation and suggested means to improve it.

Gwen Herald brought up the controversial issue of courtesy in the halls, and said that "Everytime I go upstairs, I get hit by a flying freshman."

Mother M. Dolores sternly reminded the students of the no-smoking rules of the school and of the qualities of good students.

Michaelites became "peeping Toms" this week as they were anxious to get a preview of the newly refurnished hall floor.

Vocations month, November, brought pleasant smiles to Michaelites, as they viewed the bulletin board adorned with pictures and titles of some of their old friends who have entered the religious life. Most recent additions from St. Mike's are Annabell Vaverek, June Ashton and Donna Singles. Everyone is duly proud of the girls.

St. Mike's girl basketball players are looking forward to their season, as practice starts Monday. Returning letter winners are Lucy Roback, Marge Hensel, Marcee Hill, Jo Ann Rohrbach, Georgianna Gunnerson, Catherine Schneider, Barbara Cooper, Peggy Nye and Joan Dark.

St. Frederick

Some mighty joyous and proud juniors strutted down the halls Tuesday, stopped in the senior room long enough to pick up their hard earned "Brown Jug" from its shelf, blew the dust off, placed it carefully under their arm and marched on to place it on the shelf especially erected for it in the junior room.

The reason for all this rejoicing is that the juniors literally walked over the seniors in their annual battle, 25-2.

The seniors rubbed their bruises and tried to soothe their hurt with the thoughts that next year St. Fred's will sure have a team, at least the start of one. In the meantime, they were digging deep into their almost empty pockets to pay off all those bets taken last week.

The freshmen and sophomores tell us their parents were so nervous Monday night on having to step forth and receive the report cards that many of them forgot to take a really good look at them. None of them were really bad, anyway, say the underclassmen.

Seniors are bubbling over with pride as they discovered some unknown talent Thursday night, Dave Dumas and Jim Williams did the announcing for the game Thursday, as the official announcers failed to show up. It was really a good job. The only regret is that the referees showed up, for the boys tell us they are pretty good at that, too.

Two-minute speeches on anything that popped into their heads were assignments given to English students this week. One boy was telling how our modern day was taking a change. In ending, he stated, "In a few years the world is going to have new men."

"Oh, goodie," squealed one of the girls.

Captain Jerry Bradley was seen leading his crew of cagers in the first bit of ball bouncing in the hall Wednesday night. Jerry says practice will take place every night after school with hopes of being all set for their first basketball game Dec. 10.

Juniors hold their Fall Frolic tonight.

Senior girls took time out from classes Wednesday to vote on a girl to crown Our Blessed Mother on the night of Dec. 8, when seniors march in caps and gowns. The honor was given to Joan McMahon.

When Co-captains Don Cox and Mark Peck announced the new football co-captains for the next year are to be Dick Doyan and Jim Duren and Ross Moody as the year's most valuable player, slaps on the back and congratulations showed the approval of the student body.

St. Frederick's List 43 Honor Students

Forty-three students obtained 11 honor points or more on their report cards at St. Fred's Monday, placing them on the Honor Roll.

Students with honors are seniors Mary Jane Leahy, Michael Wells, Sharon Wolf, Marlene Green, Alice Rivera, Donald Cox, Lawrence Decker and Jane Hoffman.

Judith Maddock, Jean McHugh, Carolyn Robichaud and Donna Scholtz are other seniors.

Included among the sophomores are Eleanor Arno, Ardith Green, Patricia Jenkinson, Karen Kergan, Beverly Malinowski, Margaret Ann Reilly, William Price, Carol Shell, James Mayworm and Mary Elizabeth Wuest.

Concluding the list are freshmen Julia Ann Slowik, Donna Needle, Maureen Drake, Ellen Schachern, Sharon Selby, Theresa Landry, Frederick Metz, Carl Erznosnik, Nicholas Pavlinac, Paul Saghy, Martin Koenig and Brian Dirker.

Stumped Student Stumps Teacher in Spelling Quiz

In St. Fred's shorthand class this week, Sister Jane Patricia was quizzing her charges on the spelling of words in their lesson.

After being stumped on several words, one of the girls said, "Sister, I have a word I bet you can't spell."

"What's that?" asked the sister.

"Super-fag-a-lis-tic-ex-pl-dall-l-osis," replied the student.

"Just tell me what it means and I'll be satisfied," sister answered.

"I will," replied the student, "if you don't find it by next week."

When this column went to press sister was still thumbing through dictionaries. If you don't know and promise not to tell, it means big or large, but don't try using it in friendly conversation—someone might take it as an insult.

Township Laws Suffer Setback

Motor Boats Are Under State Regulation, Says Frank G. Millard

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard held today that townships have no authority to adopt ordinances regulating the use of motor boats on inland lakes within a township.

The opinion was requested by Harry J. Merritt, Oakland County corporation counsel.

Millard's opinion said he, his predecessors and the State Supreme Court have held that the state has adopted laws for the regulation of motor boat traffic and that lesser units of government may not supersede those laws.

A 1952 law giving townships some control over motor boats, Millard said, refers only to those operated on "navigational facilities" owned and operated by a township, such as a harbor.

The legislature did not intend to give townships blanket authority over motor boat use, the opinion said.

Muskegon Officials Claim 4 Held Here

Four persons from Muskegon, who had been held here for questioning in connection with a house break-in Wednesday night at 541 Cameron St., were turned over to Muskegon authorities today on charges of several larcenies, Pontiac Police said.

Two men, Phillip R. Stenberg, 18, and Roland Eugene Wynne, 21, are still on probation to Muskegon authorities for larceny from autos, according to Det. Sgt. John A. DePauw.

Muskegon police also told local authorities that Mrs. Dorothy Louise Wiseman, 18, arrested with the men, abandoned her infant daughter at the home of her sister Monday.

Another woman, Joyce LaPorte, 19, also was seized by Lincoln Park Police yesterday when a hitchhiker, the quartette picked up, telephoned police.

DePauw said the four admitted breaking into the home, owned by Joseph Fritz, who is Stenberg's stepfather. DePauw also quoted the four as saying they were on their way to Florida after stealing numerous articles from autos.

DePauw and Detective Olin Hoffman found stolen clothing, radio, cameras and other equipment in their auto which is impounded in Lincoln Park.

Gessas of Keego Harbor, listen in a medical technology laboratory session to an explanation of the skull structure by Prof. Lois Calhoun. Hospital Board Opposed to New Blue Cross Plan Pontiac General Hospital trustees last night voiced objection to a new "cooperative" plan by Blue Cross.

It instructed hospital Director Lauretta Paul to carry its feelings on the plan to the Michigan Hospital Service, under whose auspices Blue Cross operates.

The motion was made although the hospital board has received no official word of the new plan's being offered. Blue cross members, however, have received pamphlets explaining the alternate plan.

In part, the motion reads: "The board has heard rumors of an alternate plan having been offered to the public and it is contemplated that such plan (would) become general."

"It is the feeling of this board that the director of this hospital should carry to Michigan Hospital Service the feeling that this board is opposed to this action."

Miss Paul, who serves on the Michigan Hospital Service board, told the trustees the cooperative plan had not been passed upon by that board. She said she was surprised at the offer being made.

Being offered in addition to the hospital service's long-time comprehensive plan, according to the explanatory pamphlet sent members the new plan will go into effect Feb. 1.

Under the plan, members would pay all regular hospital charges for the first two days of each hospital stay. All extras would be covered by the contract.

From the third through the 60th day of each continuous stay, the member would pay two dollars per day "as his share of the total cost for contract benefits for the two days of care."

He would also be required to pay the difference in rates if the room he occupied was more costly than that called for in the contract.

If the member required hospital care after 60 days, he would be entitled to "as many more days of care out of 365 as may remain unused and to his credit without further cooperative sharing on his part."

The cooperative plan rate will be below that of the comprehensive plan. Comprehensive rates go up Feb. 1.

Under the cooperative plan, the family rate per month for a semi-private room would be $6.20. The comprehensive schedule for the same service will be $7.40 after Feb. 1. It is now $6.35.

The board of trustees gave no official reason for their objection to the new plan but in discussion members said it would add much bookkeeping expense and place the burden of collecting the member's share on the hospital.

Mendes, Dulles Ponder Issues

Take Up Problems of Divided, Red-Menaced Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP)—French Premier Mendes-France and Secretary of State Dulles take up again today the problems of divided and Communist-menaced Indochina.

Diplomatic informants said that at a State Department session which lasted most of yesterday afternoon Mendes-France tried unsuccessfully to get a quick estimate of the amount of American aid France could expect next year for its forces in the non-Communist part of Indochina.

He was reported also to have told Dulles that Gen. J. Lawton Collins' remarks about plans for American training of free Indochinese soldiers seemed to imply that French cooperation in this work was wanting.

Collins, former U.S. Army chief of staff now temporarily serving as special ambassador in Indochina, said in a Saigon news conference that the United States would train troops who would pledge loyalty to Viet Nam Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

U.S. sources said they were sure Collins meant no criticism of what they termed good cooperation on the part of the French.

They said also Mendes-France was told no aid estimate can be made until Collins completes a survey.

Rt. Rev. A. H. Crowley to Officiate at Episcopal Confirmations Sunday

DRAYTON PLAINS — The Rt. Rev. Archie H. Crowley, recently consecrated suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan will make his first visitation to this area and to Pontiac next Sunday.

Bishop Crowley will officiate at two confirmation services—at All Saints Church, Pontiac, in the morning, and at St. Andrew Episcopal Church, Drayton Plains, at 7:30 p.m.

At 5 p.m. members of the chapel committee of St. Andrew's and their wives will meet Bishop and Mrs. Crowley at the vicarage of the Rev. and Mrs. Waldo R. Hunt at an informal tea.

Following the service, the members of the 1953 confirmation class will sponsor a reception honoring the bishop and his wife, and also the members of the 1954 confirmation classes.

Pontiac Driver Appeals Drunk Motor Conviction

Charles C. Lasswell, 48, of 198 Chandler Ave., who was found guilty of drunk driving by a six-man jury yesterday, was freed on $100 appeal bond.

Lasswell, according to Waterford Township Justice Willis De Lefurgy who heard the case, was arrested Oct. 4 by Waterford Township Police. No date has been set for Lasswell's arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court, Lefurgy said.

The Pontiac motorist was fined $100 and $25 costs or 60 days in Oakland County Jail before he made his appeal, Lefurgy added.

Outline Plan to Get Hospital Architect

ceived $24,000 for the plans. If Ewart finds the contract, which had no time limit stipulated, still in force, City Manager Walter K. Willman was instructed to confer with Heenan to arrange for either a hospital-building consultant on Heenan's staff or one selected by the trustees and appointed to work with Heenan.

Thirdly, the board will wait for the results of the conference between Willman and Heenan.

"No board member is against Heenan," said Trustee Willis M. Brewer. "It's just that we feel he should have a hospital consultant."

Chief opponent to Donaldson's plan for more building and less equipment was William F. Maybury, trustee board chairman. "Unless somebody guarantees to raise the money, in this case I think we should just give as much hospital to the people of Pontiac as we can for $3,000,000," he declared.

Maybury previously had polled the trustees and received support for this stand.

Donaldson said the reason for his plan was two-fold. "This will undoubtedly be the last time in our generation that money will be raised for a hospital," he said.

"Secondly, in seeking funds for a civic auditorium through the Pontiac Foundation I have found that many people would be more inclined to give funds for a hospital."

Donaldson has suggested that the voluntary contribution drive could be carried out through the Pontiac Foundation, with contributions specifically earmarked for hospital equipment.

"I have talked to a number of hospital staff members and they are for the foundation idea," he said.

Dr. N. F. Gehring, hospital chief of staff, warned that St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is planning a public subscription drive in the near future, and expressed fear that a drive by Pontiac General would be doomed to failure.

Dr. Roy V. Cooley, a PGH staff member as well as a city commissioner, declared that if contributions were sought for specific equipment, "no people can see where their money is going," they would give to the drive.

Commissioner Harry W. Lutz suggested a survey be made of the people and companies "who say they will contribute."

"I would like to see something concrete—not guess what we can do, but be sure what we can do," Maybury left the participants with this thought:

"Within 30 to 60 days you have got to decide on which path we are going to follow. And within six months we must have a definite goal."

It is expected to be at least a year before construction starts because of the necessary legal work before the bond issue can be sold.

Cites Oakland Role in Attack

Care of Evacuees Would Be Biggest Problem to Meet

An enemy air attack requiring evacuation of Detroit "would affect Oakland County tremendously," County Director of Civil Defense Lewis C. Jarrendt said today.

With over 150 other officials from Oakland, Macomb and Wayne Counties, Jarrendt attended a meeting Wednesday in Detroit at which mass-evacuation problems were discussed.

"We have the greatest border line on Wayne County and would have to care for the most people," he explained.

Actual development of the plan is just beginning, he said, but "the Detroit meeting allowed us to co-ordinate our program."

The county is now surveying which would be available to house evacuees.

"We would have a tremendous traffic problem and every man possible would be needed to assist in traffic control," Jarrendt stated.

Many of the approximately 2,500,000 persons would have to pass through Oakland County to areas farther north and west.

Milford Couple Injured When Car Hits Tree
A Milford couple were injured yesterday when their car skidded on a curve and hit a tree at Cooley Lake road and Hunt road in Waterford Township, according to Township Police.

Clarence Kuttikuhn, 30, of 132 Bob-Link, the driver, was treated for knee and forehead bruises, and his wife was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital with face cuts and severe leg cuts. Her condition today is listed as good.

Kuttikuhn told police that he did not see the curve until too late. He was traveling west on Cooley Lake road.

Hal Boyle Says:

Bastogne, Belgium, Known to Everyone as 'Nuts City'

BASTOGNE, Belgium (AP) — If there is any place abroad where an American can be sure of a warmly sentimental welcome, it is here in this small Belgian town made world famous by a word—"Nuts!"

"Nuts," is the reply an American general is supposed to have made to surrender demands of Germans besieging Bastogne during the Battle of the Bulge.

Whether that is the word the general really used—or, as some claim, it was the Army censor's translation of an even more forthright barnyard term—it summed up the determination of the men who fought here. It helped immortalize Bastogne.

Today this is still known as "The Nuts City." There is a "Nuts Museum" that preserves wartime mementoes. Visitors find a dish of nuts on their table at mealtimes.

Other engagements in the Battle of the Bulge were perhaps as important as the heroic stand made here, but Bastogne remains as the great symbol of Allied victory in Adolf Hitler's last massive offensive against the West in 1944.

Here the 10th Armored and 101st Airborne divisions held the key Bastogne area for vital days at the start of the offensive, a stand that caught the admiration of the world. Less well known, but even more bloody, was the fight that followed soon after when Hitler, the real purpose of his drive defeated, massed his troops and again assaulted Bastogne, a prize he hoped would restore morale on the German home front.

Shelled by ground fire, bombarded nightly by Nazi planes, the civilians of Bastogne suffered side by side with their American defenders.

Casualties were heavy. Of some 10,500 homes in the Bastogne area, nearly 9,000 were destroyed or heavily damaged, and this takes no account of the public buildings reduced to rubble.

Bastogne has made a great comeback. Today between 80 and 85 per cent of the buildings have been reconstructed, and one has to look to discover signs of the war. But there are still many empty cleared spaces where dwellings once stood.

The wartime camaraderie has endured. It is hard, when you have lost members of your family and your home in a war, to feel grateful to your "victorious defenders." But the people of Bastogne do still like and welcome Americans wholeheartedly.

"We were together," is the way a townsman expressed it to a group of visiting U. S. newsmen.

The entrances to Bastogne are still guarded by American tanks that saw combat here. Some 400 yards from the point where the Germans thrust closest to the town stands a great star-shaped memorial raised by the Belgians in tribute to the 76,890 American killed, wounded or missing in the entire Battle of the Ardennes.

The memorial lists the names of all the units of the men who fought in this vast wintry action. Beneath it is a chapel where memorial services are held for the different faiths of these men—Protestant, Catholic, Jewish.

In a series of high tablets the entire story of the Battle of the Bulge is told in letters of gold. After 10 years, these few sentences capsule the triumph and the tragedy.

"The folk of the Ardennes opened their hearts and hearths to the defenders. They shared with them their food, their blankets and their fuel. They tore up their bedsheets for use in concealing men and weapons. They nursed the wounded and helped to comfort the sick."

"Seldom has more American blood been spilt in the course of a single battle. . . . The number of Belgians who died or suffered wounds or suffered great privation in the common defence cannot be known. Of those dead and of all who fought here, the now living may attest the greatness of the deed only by increased devotion to the freedom for which they braved the fire."

Judge Demands U.S. Retraction

Youngdahl Says Claim of Bias in Lattimore Case Untrue

By KARL R. BAUMAN

WASHINGTON, (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Luther W. Youngdahl has demanded that government officials responsible for accusing him of bias in favor of Owen Lattimore acknowledge the charge against Youngdahl "was without substance and was improvidently filed."

Noting "with regret" the announcement that the government will not appeal Youngdahl's refusal to disqualify himself from the Lattimore case, the judge said: "The alternative still available is a frank and forthright acknowledgment by the government of officers responsible for the affidavit that it was without substance and was improvidently filed."

Youngdahl, who struck the government's affidavit from the record as "scandalous," made his latest observations in a memorandum filed late yesterday.

The Justice Department, which two days ago announced its decision not to appeal from a Youngdahl order striking the affidavit, declined to comment.

Youngdahl said the failure to appeal would leave his order in effect, but that "it would not erase what this court has already characterized, in substance, as an attempt to intimidate any judge of the United States who dares to assert the judicial independence which the Constitution contemplates."

Youngdahl's memorandum was the latest development in the lengthy perjury proceedings touched off by Lattimore's testimony in early 1952 before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. Lattimore has not yet gone on trial.

Vote Confirms Strength of British Conservatives

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative party sat more firmly in the governmental saddle today after winning a sharply contested House of Commons by-election in Liverpool's West Derby district.

Conservative J. V. Wooliam defeated Laborite C. R. Fenton 21,158-18,630 in yesterday's polling. Held to fill the vacancy caused by Sir David Maxwell Fyfe's elevation to the peerage, the election had been widely interpreted as a test of the Churchill government's popularity.

The fire burned out an entire block of homes and business places injured 10 firemen and left 100 homeless. His grandmother's house was destroyed.

Sgt. Thomas Bryan said Partlow was convicted five years ago of setting fire to the same lumber yard where the Tuesday night conflagration broke out. Sentenced as a juvenile offender, he was released about a year ago.

Estranged Wife Lures Husband to Traffic Court

DETROIT (U) — Traffic Judge John D. Watts acquitted Elio Mucciantie, 32, of Detroit, on a charge of driving without a license yesterday after ruling Mucciantie was trapped into the charge by his estranged wife.

Mucciantie told Watts his wife had telephoned him to meet her in a drugstore Tuesday night saying it was urgent.

When he got to the drugstore Mrs. Mucciantie called police and told them her husband was driving with a revoked driver's license. They arrested Mucciantie.

Judge Watts ruled the act constituted entrapment, the wife couldn't testify against her husband and the officers did not actually see Mucciantie drive the car.

Birmingham Brides-Elect Reveal Plans

Mary Carter Sets Nov. 27 for Rite in St. James

By RUTH SAUNDERS
BIRMINGHAM —Mary Caroline Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harland G. Walter of Puritan road, has chosen Nov. 27 for her marriage to Edward A. Proctor Jr., whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Proctor of Wing Lake road.

The ceremony will be a family affair in St. James Episcopal Church in Birmingham and a small reception will be given in the Walter home.

Quite a contingent will go down to Columbus, Ohio next Saturday to attend the wedding of Nancy Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derrol Reah Johnson of Columbus, and William Snyder Gilbreath III of Birmingham.

Besides his parents and several groomsmen, his sisters Mrs. Robert T. Skinner of Whittier, Calif. and Mrs. James M. Chandler with Mr. Chandler will attend. Mrs. Skinner arrives Sunday.

Others will be Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray Muzzy, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Paterson of Bloomfield Hills and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Earle of Grosse Pointe.

All the Gilbreaths will go down Wednesday in time to attend a dinner dance being given that evening by Mr. and Mrs. William G. Pace and their son, Charles, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vorys and their daughter, Elinor.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbreath Jr. will give the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Columbus Club, and on the day after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Joel Poorman and Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Hanna will give a brunch for the out-of-town guests.

The wedding itself will take place at four in the afternoon at St. Alban Church in suburban Bexley, and a reception will be given at the Rocky Fork Hunt and Country Club.

The bride-elect has asked her sister, Sarah Johnson to be her maid of honor, and bridesmaids will include Audrey Lee Carroll of Montclair, N. J., Mrs. James Dana of Lawton, Okla., Mrs. Lewis Folk of Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. Gerald O'Koon of Drexel Hill, Pa., Kybil Rex, Elinor Vorys, Joanne Greenwald and Elizabeth Reynolds of Columbus.

Richard Merton Adams of Ann Arbor will be best man.

Wisner, Malkim PTAs Hold Meetings Thursday

A panel discussion on Responsible Living in the Home was the highlight of the Thursday afternoon meeting of Wisner PTA when it met in the school gymnasium.

Mrs. Donald North, president of Pontiac High School PTA and Gerald White, co-ordinator of elementary education, served on the panel with Mrs. George Cox acting as moderator.

Mrs. North pointed out that there must be love and respect for one another in the home. Parents should set standards for their children to follow and lead the kind of life that sets a good example. Parents should see that their children love their fellow man and have an understanding of the Bible, believing in God.

Mr. White's theory is to give the child some work to keep him busy and his mind occupied. Plan projects together and do not lean too heavily on so called experts to bring up your child.

What makes a good home life is the question Mrs. Perrin asked. A good home for children may be an apartment, trailer or a 15-room house, but it is a good home for a child only if he is loved and wanted and he knows it.

Proceeds from a money making project which was planned will be donated to Lincoln Junior High School for band uniforms. The group also voted to buy a popcorn machine.

Mrs. Irving Cocking, Mrs. Ralph

Gardner and Mrs. Russel C. Bell were elected to serve on the nominating committee. Mrs. John Jess and Mrs. North presided at the tea table during the social hour.

MALKIM

Mrs. Kenneth Healy discussed proposed amendments to the constitution when Malkim PTA met Thursday in the kindergarten room. A panel discussion took place with Lillian Davidson speaking on the PTA on a national level; Mrs. William Mihalek speaking on the Pontiac PTA Council and Mrs. Lyle Cox speaking on the local level.

The panel brought out that the national PTA was founded in 1857 with over 6,000,000 members. It teaches love and respect for the democratic principles. One PTA cannot solve all problems so the council was formed and is supported by the locals. The PTA is for all ages and types of communities.

Community singing was led by Rosamond Haeblerle and a Thanksgiving prayer was read by Mrs. Kenneth Healy.

Serving on committees from the home rooms of Mrs. Carl Vedane and Mrs. David Walls were Mrs. Edgar Dewey, Mrs. William Morgan, Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. Walter Lamphere and Mrs. Sylvan Lemanski.

Coming Events

Mrs. John Veneman of Dwight avenue will be hostess for the meeting of the executive board of 18th District WCTU Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Family Unity Discussed by Study Club

Sharing Projects, Fun and Affection Ideal Relationship

"Strength of Family Unity" was the topic of discussion when Child Culture Club met Thursday evening. Mrs. Irving Humbaugh was hostess in her home on Elizabeth Lake road.

Members answered roll call with suggestions on "what is a favorite activity shared by your family?"

Mrs. Jorma Sarto led the discussion on the evening's topic. She said that an ideal is a pattern we set up in our mind of some standard of perfection. The ideals of the family are merely the situations we strive for as a family unit, she continued.

"Good family ideals don't just happen," said Mrs. Sarto. "Family loyalty and enduring values of this loyalty are the results of actual demonstration of high ideals and beliefs," she pointed out.

The speaker said that families can share in projects of making and creating. This activity can include household tasks, recreation, fun and worship. She further pointed out that a strong religious faith contributes to stability and high ideals within the family.

The club announced that its annual bazaar will be held on Dec. 2 in the Nelson street home of Mrs. Owen Rindfusz.

Opti-Mrs. Hear Talk on 'Voice'

Speaking Faults Illustrated for Club Members

Mary Eddy of Michigan Bell Telephone told about "Your Voice and You" at the Thursday evening meeting of Opti-Mrs. Club. Mrs. Fred Coleman was hostess for the meeting in her West Iroquois road home. Mrs. H. Guy Moats was co-hostess.

In her talk, Miss Eddy described the human voice as a person's most outstanding business and social asset. She pointed out that a person can change his appearance and hair-style, and by the same token, a voice can be changed to what it should be.

Using records, she illustrated some common speaking faults. She said that a person's voice sometimes creates an erroneous impression. She illustrated this point by showing posters of a cartoonist's conception of the owners of the recorded voices.

Members were invited to make a tape-recording of their speaking voices to be played back immediately for constructive criticism. The speaker described simple breathing exercises to insure better speech habits.

During the business meeting members voted to appropriate more funds to purchase clothing for the Children's Aid Society. Mrs. Silas Wattles presided at the tea service for the social hour.

Girl Thinks Her Friend Was Wrong

She Must Confess Error and Perhaps He'll Forgive Her

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Some people are never wrong. No matter what happens it's always someone else's fault. They dig up alibis to excuse themselves. They blame it on accident—they say they couldn't help it. They never mention their blind spots.

They can't see that they are out of order. Their motives are always so reasonable—to them. They're stubbornly sure their way of doing things is the right and only way. They can't imagine why anyone should find them anything short of perfect.

Yet those same people commit colossal blunders. It is usually afterward that the people they offended prove them wrong. And admitting it humbly and sincerely is the only way to make things right.

This girl sums up the story of a real ruckus with her boy friend with a blithe "I know I am right." I wonder if the rest of you will say along with me "how wrong can you be?"

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm 17 and my steady is 19, handsome, kind and patient. Last week he came over with some of his records which we listened to all afternoon.

"We got to talking about a girl I know who is very spoiled. My boy friend looked at me and said I was pretty spoiled too—I was selfish and had lots to learn about obedience. This made me furious so I threw his records on the floor, breaking them all. When he started to grab me I threw my soda glass at him. (It hit the wall.) Then he put me across his knee and spanked me good! I was so mortified I could have died.

"After what seemed like ages he put me down and stalked out of the house. I know I am right, but I miss his companionship. How can I make him apologize?"

You're right to feel upset. Right to feel mortified. But the rest of the scene is against you. You were wrong to show your anger over your boy friend's criticism.

Maybe all you want from him is honey talk. The fur flies when he picks flaws. But your behavior shows there is truth in his gibes. You lost your head, destroyed his property, aimed to maim, launched a childish free-for-all. And he quietly went about punishing you in his own fashion.

An undignified performance at your age, surely. And the whole thing could have been avoided had you quivered a tad little "do you really think that of me? I don't mean to be. I'll try not to be." Once over lightly would have avoided the whole mess.

Now, since the black marks are heavier on your side of the ledger than on his, it's up to you to apologize—and to replace his broken records—and to admit that maybe he was right after all. Ruefully confess that you deserved that spanking—then maybe he'll apologize for having administered it.

Keep Winter Easy

For the budget, as well as sanity, get your children's winter clothes in washable fabrics. No cleaning bills, no sweater missing for a week when it's dirty. Miracle fabrics can be warm as well as light.

Take Off Varnish

Those do-it-yourself fans often get paint or varnish on their work clothes. While the stains are still fresh, soften them with turpentine, lard of oil, then wash in warm soapy water.

Like any other fashionable lady, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower will be wearing new hats for the fall and winter seasons. This chic quartet is among the group made for her by designer Sally Victor.

A Good Weekend Hobby Can Be History Hunting

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

A friend sends me a picture of myself—in the stocks. Says he's just back from a trip to Williamsburg, Va., where, looking through some literature about the place, he was rather shocked to find me with my head and arms fast in an ancient specimen of an early American punishment-machine for wrongdoers.

I hasten to explain that the photograph was taken just for fun during one of my history-hunting expeditions. In this airplane age you can make a round-trip excursion to almost any part of America in three days and history-hunting is a nice weekend hobby. Virginia is my favorite locale, full as it is of forests, plantations and magnificent, turbulent history.

You don't even have to use imagination to make the past come alive in Williamsburg. Your guide wears a wide farthingale. In the Governor's Palace fresh flowers and fruit fill vases and bowls, canaries chirp in gilded cages, a chess board is mute evidence of a game that has just been halted for a few moments. There is even a reconstructed building romping in the box garden and a small boy in knee breeches and three-cornered hat to exercise him.

The Apollo Room at Raleigh Tavern looks exactly as it did when a gentleman risked his plantation on the turn of a card; when Thomas Jefferson danced with his fair Belinda; when toasts were drunk to that popular young surveyor and soldier, George Washington, who had just departed on his homeward-bound.

Others Give Child Idea to Dominate

Deal With Problem Without the Help of Others

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last Sunday, Mrs. G. had her daughter's family to dinner. Afterwards, her four-year-old grandchild was discovered scribbling with crayon on the living room wallpaper. Mrs. G. told her to stop. When Janine ignored her, Mrs. G. told her daughter to make her stop.

She is still upset by what happened. After pleading with Janine to give up the crayon, her daughter was slapped by the child. Appalled by her weakness toward Janine, Mrs. G. writes me: "My daughter will listen to you. Tell her that she must stop allowing this child to boss her."

I will tell her nothing of the kind. I reject Mrs. G.'s attempt to direct my action toward her daughter. I hope her daughter will also one day learn to reject her domination.

For until she can claim her right to self-direction, she will not be able to direct her child.

We do not reject a child's domination because someone tells us to. We do not reject it because we are promised rewards of a better relationship, or because someone threatens us with disaster if we don't do what we're told. We reject it when domination itself is seen as destructive and our submission to it becomes unbearable.

Mrs. G.'s daughter has not yet reached this point in her development.

She still trusts domination. For it is expressed through a human being whom she trusts. This human being has taken care of her all her life. To her, Mrs. G. has been the comforter in times of discouragement; the defender against hurt, the champion.

Always, Mrs. G.'s daughter has been told, her mother has her best interests at heart.

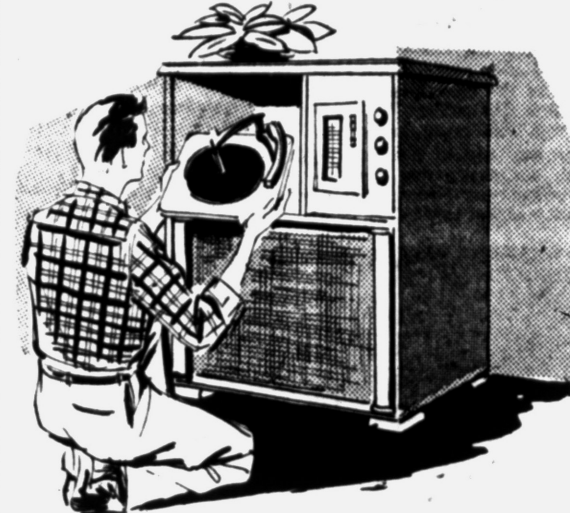

So she cannot separate her mother's affection from her domination. It is still the same thing to her. For both the affection and domination are expressed through the same trusted personality.

As she has not learned to discriminate between her mother's affection and her domination, accepting one as good and refusing the other as bad, she gives to Janine's domination the same trust that she gives her mother's.

Mrs. G.'s daughter will have to realize that feeding the domineering element in human personality is an unproductive way of life.

Only when she is herself ready to claim her inheritance as a free person will she be able to reclaim her new power to remove Janine's crayon as she says to her mother, "Kindly permit me to deal with my problems myself."

Many a woman goes to the beauty shop for a face full of mud and an earful of dirt.

Change Old Phonograph to Play 3 Record Speeds

By ELIZABETH HILLIER

If the old phonograph is a good one with a powerful amplifier and speaker, conversion from a one-speed turntable to a three-speed automatic record changer may be well worthwhile. A new kit makes the installation of a new three-speed changer a do-it-yourself project that requires no special skill. The kit includes the new changer which plays 7, 10, and 12 inch records at 33 1/3, 45, and 78 rpm; a mounting board; and instruction for removing the old equipment and replacing it with the new.

The changer, of course, must fit the space in the old cabinet, and it may be necessary to cut the outer rim of the new mounting board, but otherwise the installation is largely a matter of disconnecting and reconnecting lead lines and removing and inserting screws and bolts. The changer itself is a well-known kind that is used in many high fidelity systems.

Take Time in Choosing a Career

Study Field First to Test Possibility of Doubt

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I am in my late thirties," a business woman wrote recently, "and have always worked as executive secretary. I have a fine salary, and the job is not too bad. But I have a terrible secret yearning to be a teacher. I love kids, and really think I could teach them, but it involves such a risk that I hesitate even to consider it."

"I graduated from college, but that was a long time ago, and I didn't take teacher training, just a general B.A. in English. I haven't taken any more courses through the years, except one in French and one in accounting, needed for my job."

"I have no way of knowing whether I really do want to teach. If I could only try it for a while, before I make such a staggering decision!"

"Have you any suggestions?" First, you might read "The Art of Teaching," by Gilbert Highet. It is the most enchanting book, and I don't want you to study it, just browse through it in a leisurely way.

If at the end, you still have any doubt about the field, then I'd say forget it. My experience has been that the really serious potential teacher cannot resist this book. It describes the whole teaching profession so delightfully, that no real "born" teacher can resist it.

But if, after reading "The Art of Teaching," you feel that you must have teaching for a lifetime, your next step is to go to your nearest university and have a heart-to-heart talk with some one there. With the teaching shortage so severe, you may find that a brush-up course, which you might take nights while continuing your present job, will be all you need for a starter. Stick with your present job another year—or two.

Finally, when the time comes, talk to your present employer. Since you have been his executive secretary all these years, you have a right, and an obligation, to discuss your problem freely with him.

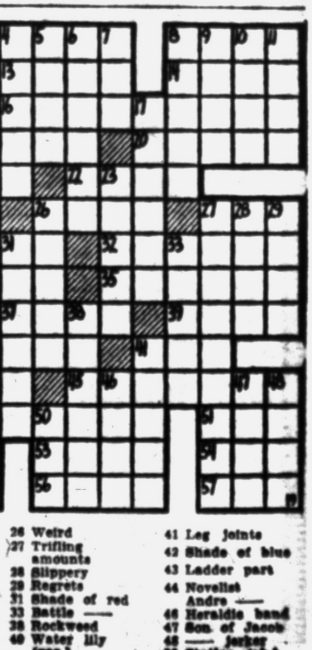

Tell him that, while you like your job, you have a strong desire to try teaching. See if he would let you take a year's leave of absence in order to do this. Offer to get a good replacement for him, on a year's basis, with the understanding that, at the end of that time, you will either know that teaching is for you forever, or you will find that you don't like it and will want to come back to him.

IF short, buxom type—

Don't try to be a siren. The short Chateau look gives you a curvaceous figure, suits your type and is high fashion now.

Miss B. T.—You know your type should avoid slinky, over-fitted gowns. Your healthy, rounded figure carries off the Chateau fashions with great aplomb. The printed taffeta and pamine skirt are particularly lovely on you.

125,000,000 Bing Crosby Records a Lot of Wax for America's Ears

By EDDIE CANTOR

While at this writing Bing Crosby has no radio program, his voice is heard on the air every day more than that of any other human being. Bing's records have sold more than 125,000,000 copies. That's a lot of wax for the ears of America.

The guy has parlayed a baritone voice, a nonchalance, into a personal Fort Knox. Bing has an interest in television films—ranching—is part owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates—active in a frozen orange juice concern—has an invention business called "Bing's Things."

Of course most of Bing's things are in cash. But that's only natural—being a good Irishman, he is not only a wearer of the green, but a collector of it. When Bing failed to show up at the Academy Awards dinner a few years ago, Bob Hope cracked, "Crosby is not here tonight because he couldn't find a sitter for the Bank of America."

He's not a great benefit man, certainly not like his buddy, Hope. Bob is the kind of a guy who plays a benefit first, and then asks, "What was it for?" Yet Bing has raised a sizeable fortune with a series of golf tournaments at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Underprivileged children have been the beneficiaries of these tournaments, so have various service clubs. All the expenses are paid out of Bing's own pocket.

By now you should know that Gary's father is a gay dresser. When Danny Kaye said to him, "How do I look, Pops? Maybe I shouldn't have worn such a flashy tie." Bing drawled, "Think nothing of it. I have a suit made of the same stuff."

He has a deep love for his four sons, but is very strict. He insists that each one of the boys get a complete education. Gosh, I can't get over it—imagine four boys! I wish I had one. I've always figured a boy is a calling-card you leave when you have gone on.

New Birdhouse Becomes Home for Stray Feline

NEW YORK — Maybe next time Thomas Tindall, 15, of Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, will build a birdhouse with a smaller hole.

Tommy built his birdhouse, nailed it up in an apple tree in his back yard 14 feet from the ground, then hopefully waited.

Three weeks went by and nothing happened. Then he found the birdhouse had a tenant—a cat!

Tabby now wanders off but always comes back. "It seems very contented," said Tommy's mother, Mrs. Frank C. Tindall, ruefully. "I guess it will make its home up there."

Geologists estimate that polar ice caps are disappearing at the rate of about 500 feet a year, with North America glaciers disappearing fastest of all.

Fertile Soil Expected

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. — If any greenbacks come up in Otto Kraushaar's wheat field next spring or fall, his son-in-law, Robert Dunham, will know why.

Dunham plowed $180 of his own cash into the field when his purse worked its way out of his pants pocket from the jolting of the tractor during fall plowing. Employed in a defense industry, the money represented a pay check. He also lost his driver's license and the title to his car.

List Weapons Against A-Dust

Soap, Water, Cornmeal Suggested for Removal of Radioactive Ashes

TOKYO — If you ever get dusted by radioactive ashes from an atomic or hydrogen bomb explosion, wash yourself down with plenty of soap, water and cornmeal.

That was one of the simple methods of decontamination presented at the United States-Japan Radiobiological Conference today.

The soap and water remove ordinary contamination and the cornmeal acts as a soft abrasive to loosen any sticky material that might cling to the skin, Merrill Eisenbud of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission explained. The American and Japanese delegations spent the fourth day of their five-day gathering discussing various methods of decontaminating people, laboratory instruments, water and food.

Dr. Walter D. Claus, also of the AEC, said washing would also remove most of the surface contamination on vegetables. Peeling is an extra safeguard.

The radioactive rain that has been dropping on Japan for the past six to seven months — apparently stemming from the U. S. H-bomb explosion at Bikini Atoll March 1 and from Russian atomic tests in Siberia—came in for some attention.

Japanese scientists said it had not created any dangerous contamination in any city water supply.

Catholic Bishops Deplore Actions of Red Vietnam

WASHINGTON — The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States have ordered a special report on what they term "trickery, pressure and the most brutal violence" used by the Vietnamese Communists to keep Vietnamese from going to the non-Communist zone of their country.

The nearly 200 cardinals, archbishops and bishops gathered in annual meeting said in a press statement last night that alleged Communist violations of the Geneva agreement on Viet Nam are "an international disgrace." Hundreds of men, women and children, they said, have lost their lives trying to exercise their right under the Geneva accord to move to the non-Communist zone if they want to.

The Roman Catholic prelates called on a committee headed by Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, to issue within a fortnight a "white book" detailing Geneva agreement violations "in regard to the hundreds of thousands of Catholics in North Viet Nam."

The Great Rift valley extends from northern Syria almost to the southern tip of Africa, enclosing the Red sea and the lakes of East Africa.

Man With 19 Children Gets Lots of Attention

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Thomas J. Dolan, chemist for the Monsanto Co., had people at Lambert-St. Louis airport guessing as he boarded a plane recently.

Gathered around the loading entrance were 19 youngsters, all less than 8 years old and all shouting, "Goodbye daddy!" Only six were his, however. The rest were nephews and nieces brought along for a visit to the airport.

MANAGEMENT PIONEER—Philip H. Beauvais, Allegan city manager, looks at a map of the area in his jurisdiction. Beauvais will receive international honors at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 8 as the only active city manager with 25 years service.

Nursed Infant Royal Oak

City Managers Will Fete Pioneer Michigan Official

ALLEGAN, Mich. — They said Philip H. Beauvais, Allegan city manager, "wouldn't last two months" at the job.

That was seven years ago. The skeptics have long since become admirers. "He may be a rugged individualist, but he gets things done," they say.

Beauvais, city manager of Royal Oak for four years in the 1920s, will receive international honors at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 8 as the only active city manager with 25 years service. Before Allegan, he held similar posts at Manistee, Manistique and Alma.

Between times, from 1931 to 1936, he headed an engineering firm which designed and constructed roads through the western Michigan dunes, built the resort parking oval and beach at Saugatuck and the waterworks at Northport and Bear Lake.

Beauvais was born in Muskegon. His father, who began in Michigan as a timber cruiser, turned to deep sea diving and undertook the construction of Muskegon's first piers.

Beauvais became a diver tender at 15 and three years later was taking a regular turn with his father and two older brothers. He says two five-hour dives a day were commonplace.

The Allegan city manager graduated from Muskegon High School in 1904. He joined the Army Corps of Engineers three years after as a diver on harbor projects at Michigan City, St. Joseph and South Haven.

He was promoted to engineer in time to head construction on the first sections of the Manistee breakwater. In 1916, he left the corps and took a partnership with a construction firm which built the final sections.

Beauvais stayed on when the job was completed and was appointed Manistee city manager in 1918. At that time, he says, there were only 27 city managers in the United States and Canada. None of the others are living today.

He accepted the Royal Oak managership in 1921.

The village had just become a city with a population of 3,200. During his tenure he supervised a multi-million dollar public works program and was instrumental in bringing Detroit water to the Royal Oak area.

The improved facilities attracted 32,000 residents to Royal Oak's environs before Beauvais left the post after four years and five months of service.

He accepted the dual position of manager and city engineer at Manistique in February 1936 and stayed for six years and three months. Beauvais then moved to the city managership of Alma for a period of nearly four years.

His Allegan post beckoned in September 1947.

In retrospect on his career as a pioneering city manager, Beauvais feels it was a "toss-up between Allegan and Royal Oak" as the greatest challenge.

"At Royal Oak we started from scratch, everything needed doing," he says.

Beauvais says he found Allegan an older city with utilities and public works that had "just grown, like Topsy." He says most municipal facilities were inadequate.

During the past seven years he has supervised the rebuilding of Allegan's waterworks, added to electric power facilities and modernized all city departments.

The City Council last year publicized a 12-page tabloid newspaper to report the city's accomplishments for six years under Beauvais' management.

A plaque, denoting his accomplishments, will be presented to him at the Dec. 8 conference of the International City Manager's Assn. Beauvais is the association's only surviving city manager whose appointment dates back to 1918.

Rooster Teaches Backward Hens How to Lay Eggs

SALMON, Idaho — A rooster teaching pullets how to lay? Mrs.

Doris Hicks of Salmon says she saw it happen with her own eyes. Mrs. Hicks reports her flock was doing very poorly in the egg line. But one day her prize Brahma rooster boosted a pullet bodily into the nest.

The bird laid an egg, Mrs. Hicks said, and the rooster summoned the other pullets to the side of the nest to look at it.

For about a week, every time a pullet got near the nest the rooster would push her in, Mrs. Hicks said, repeating his summons if the pullet produced results.

Apparently the pullets got the point. Mrs. Hicks reports the flock is now laying regularly.

Stanton Knows Figures Even Better Than Petty

By EARL WILSON

COLUMBUS, Ohio—I don't mix with network tycoons. Maybe I'd better be honest. They don't mix with me. But I had young Dr. Frank Stanton, the president of CBS, at a disadvantage, I rode out here on the same plane with him. I introduced him at a dinner, where he sat beside me. He sort of had to talk to me.

"More people are listening to the radio," is one of the things the handsome 46-year-old boy wonder told me.

"We know because of the increasing number of sets sold. Television has given people an increased appetite to know what's going on. They probably don't have television in the kitchen or bedroom or bathroom—so they listen to the radio there."

I listened sharply because Stanton would know. He's a bearcat on figures. He's done better following around with figures even than Petty and Varga.

Back around 1935, Stanton was teaching psychology at Ohio State. He was being paid "$750 a year and all the laboratory pigeons I could eat."

"Things were rough," Stanton remembers, "but my wife and I"—she's the only girl he ever had a date with—"didn't have to take advantage of the pigeon offer."

Stanton was getting his Ph.D. degree, too—and in his spare time fooled around with figures by ringing doorbells.

Going to a house, he'd ask the housewife if he could install a dingus on the radio that would measure the current used.

"I didn't tell her that it also kept a record of the programs listened to," confesses Stanton.

When he got his figures together, he sent off a letter to two networks in N. Y., telling of his findings and hinting that they'd do well to hire him. One network sent him a brushoff answer.

"But Columbia said it was interested in the problems I'd worked out, and gave me some more to work on," he says.

Stanton went to New York, took over a research department of 3, and built it into a department of more than 100. The man who'd answered his letter was eventually working for him. In something like 10 years, Stanton was president of the whole shooting match at CBS.

In only ten years. Why, he'd become the boss in the time that it takes some people to meet the boss.

And the network that gave him the brushoff answer often tried to hire him afterward.

Fool around with figures, little boy.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL in N. Y. . . It had to happen: Marlon Brando turned down an offer to endorse T-shirts . . . Does Herb Shriner know Victor signed a hillbilly crooner named Herb Shriner? . . . Comedian Jackie Kannon's foil in his Las Vegas act is his pretty wife, Lynn.

Bob Smith, a heart victim, hopes to return to "Howdy Doodie" in January . . . Pat Ward (of the Jelks mess) is riding the Times Sq. area with the motorcycle bunch . . .

Betty Furness, the expert refrigerator-opener, goes dramatic on the Colgate Comedy Hour Sunday . . . Sec'y Dulles is seeing a doctor daily . . . Halle Selassie's son is at Johns Hopkins. (For surgery?) . . . Michael Wilding, in Hollywood, asked Montgomery Clift to escort Elizabeth Taylor to the "Last Time I Saw Paris" premiere here.

PEARL BAILEY RECALLED the lean days when she and Liberace worked club dates for very little dough. "In those days," she says, "even Liberace wasn't smiling." That's earl, brother.

Persistent Cop Nabs Electric Iron Thief

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — William Beck, caught with too many irons in the fire, blamed his trouble on a persistent cop.

"I think that policeman followed me from court just to try to catch me," he said after getting six months in jail.

Beck was referring to Frank Long, who arrested him Wednesday when the officer found him downtown with a new electric iron in his possession.

In court, however, the case was dismissed because Long couldn't establish where the iron came from.

A few hours later, the patrolman saw Beck saunter into a store and decided to wait across the street.

After Beck came out, the officer followed him into an alley where something fluttered to the ground—the price tag on an electric iron.

They went back to court with Beck still holding the iron under his coat.

"I caught them napping in the store," the prisoner explained, following his plea of guilty to petty larceny.

Ex-Britons Take Oath of Citizenship After 5 Happy Years in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY — Five years ago an Englishman wearing spectacles and a bowler herded 11 sleepy youngsters out of the back of a truck.

His name was Clifford Hartley. He had just arrived from England in Tridell, a small Utah town tucked away in the hills. He was broke and in debt. He intended to become a farmer.

Today he no longer wears his derby. Not an "H" is dropped from his speech. And he and his family are well fed and prosperous.

For yesterday his dream became less of a dream. He, his wife and daughter Doris stood before Dist. Judge A. H. Ellett and took the oath of allegiance to the United States.

Seven of the younger children automatically became citizens with their parents. Doris took the oath because she is over 18.

A son, Gordon, became a citizen last year. He's now with the Army in Germany. Two daughters, Betty and Marian, now are married. They will be naturalized later.

They came to America because one of the children struck up a pen-pal correspondence with a girl from Tridell.

"The best thing I ever did," Hartley said.

He didn't take to the land and moved to Salt Lake City. "Just wasn't suited to be a farmer," he explained.

Now he is manager of a sewing machine sales and service department. He's buying a duplex. His house is well furnished, complete with television, and the family drives a station wagon.

Marie Curie's Daughter to Marry in New York

NEW YORK — Eve Curie, daughter of the French scientists who discovered radium, and Henry R. Labouisse, of Wilton, Conn., plan to be married here today.

"Miss Curie, 49, is the author of 'Madame Curie,' a biography of her mother Marie. Until recently she was a special assistant to the secretary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Auto Blows Own Horn to Tell of Garage Fire

SAYRE, Pa. — Tom Kenrick, borough secretary of Sayre, didn't realize automobiles come equipped with fire alarms until his garage went up in flames.

Most of the garage was saved when the heat melted wires in the horn, causing it to blast loudly.

The noise brought the fire company and saved Kenrick several hundred dollars.

Unfinished Novel by Hemingway Sold for Movie

By LUELLA O. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD (INS) — The type-writer ink on Ernest Hemingway's new novel wasn't dry (he hasn't even titled it yet) when Frank McCarthy and William Lowe optioned it for a picture.

McCarthy told me, "Hemingway hasn't yet finished the book at his home in Havana." He said he had spent two days with the Nobel prize winner and all he actually knows about the story he's bought is that it has an East African background and that Hemingway, himself, will lead the safari during the filming.

Look for 30th Century-Fox to release the picture. McCarthy was formerly affiliated with the company. Lowe, his partner, is the former editor of Look magazine.

I could hardly maintain my even disposition (?) when I learned that Anne Baxter is already signed to play Cherry Malotte in the remake of "The Spoilers" at Universal-International.

When I first printed that Clark Gable had been at this studio to talk about making Jack London's old hit, the denials came thick and fast. Not only was it denied that Clark would be in it, it was denied that "The Spoilers" was on the agenda. Ho, hum.

Anne finishes "Tacey" at U-I, then goes immediately into "The Spoilers" in January before reporting to C. B. De Mille for "The Ten Commandments."

Busy, what?

From the way the Hecht-Lancaster people are jumping over their new discovery, Karen Steele, in "Marty" you'd think they'd found a combination of Marilyn Monroe and Grace Kelly. Maybe they have.

Anyway, the flaxen-haired, blue-eyed beauty has an interesting background. She is the daughter of the former deputy governor of the Marshall Islands and she was born in Hawaii.

Before she started appearing in local TV shows (where Harold Hecht spotted her) she was a ranking woman tennis player. I'm going to keep the eye out for Karen in "Marty."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Unless they are being very cagey, the romance between Howard Duff and Gussie Moran is cold. She's been dining at the Madri Gras Room of the Park Wilshire with Hugh O'Brian, and Howard's still seen everywhere in Palm Springs with Mary Jane Hicks.

Shirley Jones, the doll of "Olderama," prefers Johnny Anderson, young executive of Columbia. They stopped all the proceedings.

U. of M., Buckeye Clash Rouses Fans to High Pitch

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Ohio (U)—This foot-ball-crazy capital, which can go slightly "nuts" over most any kind of team, is soaring toward the heights of hysteria today.

The reasons, all wrapped up in a game starting at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, are four-fold. No. 1 team, Ohio State, nation's No. 1 team, has won eight in a row.

Another victory would give the Bucks their 9th Big Ten title.

A victory or tie would send Ohio to the Rose Bowl for the 2nd time in five years.

And the opponent is mighty Michigan, most feared and respected foe in Ohio's long gridiron history.

Only twice before has Ohio State gone through a season unbeaten and untied. Three times, in 1926, 1932 and 1933, Michigan wrecked unbeaten campaigns for the Bucks.

Michigan also has a huge incentive in this one. The Wolves, with a 5-1 conference record and a 6-2 overall mark, could move on the Western Conference throne alongside the Bucks by posting a victory.

A Michigan win also would give the northerners an even chance at the Rose Bowl. And the Wolves would like nothing better than to wreck Ohio's hopes for its 1st all-winning campaign since 1944.

Since 1918, when the pair of Go-laths met for the 1st time after Ohio entered the Big Ten, Michigan has won 21, Ohio 13 and 2 were tied.

Over that stretch Wolverines have a 48 to 32 scoring edge, despite four straight shutouts piled up by Francis Schmidt's Ohio teams from 1934 through 1937 when the Bucks scored 114 to 0 for Michigan.

Of the last 16 games, Michigan has won 11, lost 3 and tied 2. So, although Ohio State, blessed with fine personnel, a great running and passing attack and a stalwart defense, is favored by 13 points, no one around here is viewing it as anything but a tossup.

Too many times, just as last year when the favored Bucks lost 20-0, the fans have seen Michigan come from nowhere to triumph.

A crowd of more than 82,000 is assured, although the game will be televised nationally. Despite the chance to view the game on television screens, fans were offering $30 each for tickets—but the scalpers who had any on hand were planning to go to the game themselves.

Not a hotel or motel room was available as the crowd moved in from everywhere.

Bucks held their last rugged workout yesterday afternoon. A light run-through of signals is on tap today.

Michigan, after workout out on its own field today, was due to fly into Columbus late in the afternoon. The weatherman hints that some rain may fall during the game, but the field is covered by a huge tarpaulin to assure secure footing.

Seldom has a game been offered here with so much at stake. And just to make sure it gets in its share of the cheering, the town is doing plenty of it before the game—just in case Michigan surprises again.

MICHIGAN STARS RELAX—Ron Kramer (left), Michigan's sophomore end who was picked Nov. 17 as Associated Press Lineman of the Week, and Wolverines star quarterback, Lou Baldacchi, join co-ed Linda Landsnals of Birmingham, Mich., in a music session before taking to the practice field at Ann Arbor. The University of Michigan team underwent a strenuous workout in preparation for Saturday's game with Ohio State at Columbus.

Martinez Nixed $20,000 Bribe to Lose to Fiore

NEW YORK (U)—Two days before he stopped Carmine Fiore in the 7th round in Madison Square Garden on Oct. 29, Vince Martinez rejected $20,000 to throw the fight.

The 25-year-old Paterson, N. J. youth, 7th-ranked welterweight contender, confirmed the bribe attempt Thursday after the story was published in Sports Illustrated, a weekly sports magazine.

Vince had been told to keep the attempt "quiet" by District Attorney Frank Hogan who said "an investigation is continuing."

The attempt followed by five months the June 4 arrest of Clarence Henry, former heavyweight contender, on a charge of having offered middleweight Bobby Jones $15,000 to lose his June 11 Garden fight with Joey Giardello. Giardello outpointed Jones. Henry is out on $2,000 bail.

Martinez said he was approached by two men near his Paterson home at noon, Wednesday, Oct. 27. This is what Vince said:

"They called to me and I went out to their car—it had a New York license—and they said: 'We'll give you plenty of cash, $20,000, if you lose the fight.'

"I told them 'no dice. I'm in line for a title fight and I don't need that kind of money,' when they kept on talking, I said 'you guys better get out of here' and they left."

On Thursday Vince told his brother Phil.

"I remembered the Henry Case," said Phil, "and I know there's a penalty if you don't tell of bribe offers. So we called the commission—New York State Athletic Commission—and they told the district attorney's office. We were told to go to the D. A.'s office that night. We did and told the story. Vince never saw the men before but he would recognize them if he saw them again."

Failure to report a bribe in New York is punishable by a fine and other disciplinary action that the commission decrees.

USC, UCLA Tilt Rated One of Top Encounters

'Bruins Oughta Win It Good' Man in Street, Experts Agree

LOS ANGELES (U)—The West's two powerhouses, Southern California and UCLA, meet tomorrow in one of the nation's biggest football games, and the man driving the taxi summed up the situation very well.

"The Bruins oughta win it good—but I ain't so sure they'll even win," he observed.

The experts to a man feel much the same way about the affair, a contest that means the Pacific Coast Conference championship and countrywide acclaim to the winner.

The "Bruins" are the Bruins of UCLA, an outfit unbeaten in eight games and bidding with Ohio State for the mythical national collegiate championship.

The Trojans of Southern Cal are in an enviable spot to upset the favored Uclans. They already have the Rose Bowl assignment won, and having dropped one game, to Texas Christian here Oct. 9, are not under severe pressure for so-called national titles.

Hosts, UCLA, say there'll be a sellout crowd of 102,000 in Memorial Coliseum.

Canuck Horse Wins Honor, Little Money

BALTIMORE (U)—The might of the American dollar in horse racing is brought out starkly by King Maple, Canada's representative in Saturday's Pimlico Special.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McMackin's colt has won 12 races, more than any of the five American 3-year-olds entered in the race. But King Maple has earned only $60,805 in Canadian money.

A victory tomorrow will be worth more than half of King Maple's total, $35,000.

Two of the other entries, C. V. Whitney's Fisherman and Hasty House Farm's Hasty Road, have won 11 times. They helped Hasty House collect $436,557 and Whitney $325,600.

Maine Chance Farm's Jet Action has been in the winner's circle only five times and second once, but has taken in $96,800.

4-Time NCAA Champ
Michigan State gymnastics coach George Szypula was the National AAU tumbling champion for four straight years—1940 through 1943.

Harry Matthews Makes Ring Retirement Official

Matthews announced he has hung up his gloves, once and for all.

AA Officials to Meet on Western Territory

CHICAGO (U)—Directors of the Triple-A American Assn. were to convene in Chicago today to decide specifically what Western League territory they want—Denver, Omaha, or both.

The Western League, Class A, at a meeting Thursday in Lincoln, Neb., refused for the present to set a price on any part of its territory until the association pinpoints what territory it desires.

Miami, 'Bama Clash Tonight

South's Biggest Grid Crowd Is Expected to See Contest

MIAMI, Fla. (U)—Miami's potent Hurricanes and Alabama's slumbering Red Elephants meet Friday night in the Orange Bowl before what is expected to be the South's biggest football crowd of the season—close to 60,000 fans.

The Hurricanes, who won six straight before Auburn upset them, 14-13, in Birmingham two weeks ago, are 13½ point favorites over the inept Alabama squad which hasn't scored in 14 quarters and lost to Georgia Tech last Saturday, 20-0.

Alabama went through scoreless ties with Georgia and Tulane before the Tech game, and the Hurricane coaching staff hopes the Hurri-Crimson Tide doesn't get hot for this one.

Baltimore Fans Heap Honors on Bob Turley

BALTIMORE (U)—Bob Turley, strikeout king of the American League last season, was the hero of the Baltimore baseball public while he was winning 14 games for the lowly Orioles.

He received, among other gifts, a new automobile and $1,000 in popular player contests sponsored by local firms.

Today, at least to one Oriole fan, Turley is just a member of the opposition.

When the young fireballer came out of his home Thursday, he saw lettered in the dust on his automobile trunk two distinct words: "Dam Yankee!"

Sports Briefs
IRON RIVER—Iron River High School football team, winner of the Upper Peninsula championship Barbour trophy for 1954, has no playing field of its own. Redskins practiced on the Iron County fairgrounds and played their games on Nelson field of neighboring Stambaugh High School. Nevertheless the Redskins have posted a three-year unbeaten string of 20 games.

Cheboygan—Tom McGinn, who blazed to football fame at Cheboygan High School last year by breaking the state scoring record, was to be inducted into the armed forces today.

McGinn, an all-state player in the 1953 season when he scored 148 points, volunteered for service for induction at Fort Wayne in Detroit.

Detroit—Final preparations have been completed for Wayne University's annual varsity old-timer basketball game Saturday night at Detroit's Pershing High School. While the Tartars don't open their regular basketball season until Dec. 1, the Saturday night contest will serve as a preview of what Wayne basketball fans can expect of the 1954-55 squad.

New U. S. decathlon champion is Rev. Robert Richards of Long Beach.

Loaded With Quarterbacks Dartmouth Boasts Trio of Famous Grid Sons

HANOVER, N. H. (U)—If anybody says football doesn't run in the family, refer him to the Dartmouth quarterback. Three of the five men who run Tuss McLaughry's T-formation, are sons of famous football fathers.

Strangely enough the sons are Nos. 3, 4 and 5 on the list, behind legends Bill Beagle and Doug McKenna.

Tom Hamilton Jr. son of the athletic director and acting coach at Pittsburgh, is a senior, playing his last game Saturday at Princeton. So is Johnny Dell Isola, son of the Dartmouth line coach, Mike Brown, son of Paul Brown, the Cleveland Browns' coach, is a sophomore with two more years to go.

This is the first year the three have played together for Hamilton transferred from Navy after his sophomore year and had to sit out the '53 season due to eligibility reasons. Dell Isola had been on the squad for three seasons but Brown was playing with the freshmen last year.

McLaughry has high words of praise for all three of the boys. "Hamilton has really improved this fall," he said. "He was only a punting specialist at Navy but he has passed, run and directed plays for us as well as punting." He rates Isola, "the best ball handler and play caller on the team" whose inability to throw long passes cost him the first-string job.

As for Brown, the coach thinks he has a sure fire starter for the future. "Mike has learned an awful lot from his dad and by studying Cleveland's great quarterback, Otto Graham," he said. "All he needs is further seasoning."

Beliveau's Goal Saves 1st Place

Canadiens Snap Leaf String on 5-4 Win, Gain 3 Point Edge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Montreal Canadiens still were in 1st place in the National Hockey League today—thanks to a clutch goal by Jean Beliveau and a brilliant net-minding performance by 21-year-old Charlie Hodge.

Canadiens edged runner-up Toronto 5-4 last night to boost their lead to three points and also snap the Leafs' unbeaten string at nine games. In the only other game played, Boston Bruins whipped the Chicago Black Hawks 5-1 and took over 5th place.

Canadiens' victory, achieved at Montreal before 14,692, had all the elements of a story-book setting. Leafs had throttled Montreal 5-2 at Toronto Wednesday night for their 7th straight triumph and would have moved into 1st place by one point had they defeated the Canadiens last night.

Beliveau's tie-breaking goal came with 14 seconds to play in the game after the flying Frenchmen had come from behind only to blow a two-goal advantage.

West Virginia Track Prospects Are Bright

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (U)—Art Smith, West Virginia University track and cross country coach, is all smiles. Five of six boys from last season's Southern Conference championship team are back in action.

The fleet Mountaineers are Charles Cascio, Harry Diehl, Dick Hashinger, Bob Hurrah and captain Dick Thornburn.

Virgil Trucks Running Junior Baseball School

AUBURNDALE, Fla. (U)—Virgil Trucks, ace right-hander for the Chicago White Sox, runs a baseball school here. The school, designed to prepare youngsters for a professional baseball career, starts Jan. 5.

Assisting Trucks in this venture is Zack Taylor, former big league player and manager who now is a White Sox scout.

Deal Puts Orioles 'in Business'

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
BALTIMORE (U)—"I think we can now be automatically considered first-division challengers."

That's confident Paul Richards' appraisal of the million dollar, three-for-nine trade he pulled with the New York Yankees Thursday.

"As far as I'm concerned, this puts us in business," the Oriole manager-general manager said before he left for Chicago where he hopes to do some more swapping.

But Richards, who admitted it was "tough . . . to trade off a guy like Turley, who could be a great pitcher," said there was no way of improving the Orioles without putting the 24-year-old speedball pitcher in the deal.

"Frankly, you're not going to win the pennant with one ball player like Turley."

He said acquisition of the Yankee players "might put us two years ahead on our farm system." He thinks the trade already gives the Birds a team he could field if he had to that would be better than the one that closed the past season, in seventh place, with 100 defeats.

Richards would like to pick up a third baseman in Chicago, a possibility being Cass Michaels. The Orioles had probably would be scrappy little Clint Courtney, a good catcher but rated behind Smith in Paul's book.

Richards says the trade "could turn out to be the best one I ever made—if the players come through."

Aims for 10th Flip
EUGENE, Ore. (U)—Capt. Ron Pfeister, center of the Oregon football team, has won nine straight times on the coin-flipping that starts each game.

He will try to make it 10 straight in the season's final game against Oregon State at Corvallis Saturday.

Mathematicians here say the odds are 1,024 to 1 against winning 10 straight coin flips.

Fairgrounds Urged as Site for Olympics

DETROIT (U)—Michigan State fair board wants the state fair grounds considered as a site for the 1960 Olympic games—if the international sports event is held in Detroit that year.

The board yesterday praised Frederick C. Matthaei, Detroit industrialist, for his work in promoting Detroit before a U.S. olympic screening committee in Chicago this week. The committee picked Detroit to represent the United States in the international bidding for the site this summer at Paris.

Matthaei headed the five-man committee which made Detroit's presentation.

The fair board asked Matthaei to inspect the fair grounds as a possible site.

In other action the board set Dec. 16 for the selection of a new fair manager to succeed James M. Hare, newly elected secretary of state.

Young Michigan Eleven Rated 2-TD Underdog

Big 10 Title and Trip to Rose Bowl Hinge on 'M' Showing

ANN ARBOR (U)—Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan, his mind on the miracles of youth, packed his sophomore-heavy football team aboard a plane today and dreamed of Christmas holidays in sunny California.

The plane is expected to set the team down in Columbus, Ohio, about dinner time. There, the Wolverines will wait out about 20 hours until game time.

Wolverines, rising from obscurity on the legs of eight surprising sophomores, are two-touchdown underdogs to Ohio State tomorrow in the nationally televised photo finish of the Big Ten season.

Besides those three definite losses, Michigan probably will have limited service from limping full-back Fred Baer.

Despite these handicaps, Michigan is the best defensive unit in the Big Ten, Ohio State is the best offensive unit.

But the difference is Ohio's 3rd ranked defense and Michigan's 6th ranked offense.

Buckeyes would gain considerably more from a victory. It would clinch an unopposed Big Ten title, the right to play in the Rose Bowl, and their first undefeated, untied season since 1944.

It also would cement relations between coach Woody Hayes and an alumni aggravated by continual Michigan victories. Michigan, on the other hand, would only share the Big Ten title with a victory, although it would probably get the Rose Bowl trip.

Tomorrow's game will do more than pit the best defensive and offensive units against each other. It will prove once and for all whether this Ohio team, which has been three years in building, has made its record this season on a strong offense or on the inability of its opponents to control the ball.

This same Ohio team, given or take a few members, has been trying to beat similar Michigan teams for two years without success. This Michigan team is rated even stronger than the one which beat Ohio 20-0 last season.

The Buckeyes will not have a chance to see the Wolverines in action until just before game time in the warm-ups, Oosterbaan said. "As usual we have scheduled no practices in Columbus."

MSC, Warriors Collision of Hard-Luck 11s

Both Seek to Boost Meager Win Totals in Season's Finale

EAST LANSING (U)—Michigan State and Marquette, a pair of hungry hard luck teams, will try to add one more to their meager win columns in the final game of the season for both schools on Saturday.

Marquette could wind up with a fairly respectable 4-4-1 won, lost and tied record by upsetting the Spartans. An MSC victory would mean a 3-6 lost and won total.

Like Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty, Frosty Ferrazza is new as head coach at Marquette this season. Like the Spartans, the Warriors, with 24 lettermen returning, were expected to show a lot more than they have this season.

Fifteen seniors, led by co-captains LeRoy Bolden and Don Kauth, will be making their last appearance in Spartan uniform. Daugherty is expected to start a mostly senior outfit with Johnny Matsock at quarterback, Bolden and Bert Zagers at the halves and Vic Postula at fullback.

Jere Carmody, a sophomore T quarterback, is slated to direct the Marquette starting outfit. Marquette switched from a split T to the straight T in mid-season after losing the 1st three games and started winning with the new offense.

Big task for MSC coaches will be to rally the down-hearted Spartans after their 33-7 defeat by Michigan. A crowd of about 35,000 is expected.

Buckeyes Have Everything at Stake Tomorrow

CHICAGO (U)—Ohio State will have everything at stake tomorrow in its nationally-televised football showdown with bitter rival Michigan, loser to the Buckeyes only once in the last 10 years.

A victory would give Ohio State the 1st unbeaten-untied season in the Big Ten since Michigan accomplished the feat in 1948; the undisputed conference title; the Rose Bowl trip, and possibly the mythical national championship.

Michigan can share the title by upsetting the Buckeyes. In this case, conference athletic directors would have a hot potato on their hands trying to vote for the Rose Bowl representative.

Their vote, to be announced by commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson Sunday afternoon, would be a mere formality if Ohio State wins. Oddsmakers favor Ohio State by 12 or 13 points in the game at Columbus, but some observers aren't so sure.

Kansas City to Buy Blues' Lot

KANSAS CITY (U)—The city council Thursday night put its formal O. K. on a stadium for the new Kansas City Athletics.

It adopted a resolution expressing the city's intent to buy and enlarge the old Blues stadium. Chicago businessman Arnold Johnson, who acquired the American League Athletics from Philadelphia last week, owns the stadium.

The city agreed to buy it from him and then lease it to the Athletics. Johnson will get $650,000. The city expects to spend $2,110,000 more enlarging the seating capacity from 16,000 to 36,000.

Johnson said the council's action freed him to complete other formalities in the purchase of the Athletics and to start buying and trading players.

Parke Carroll, the Athletics' vice president and business manager, left Thursday night on an eastern tour. Carroll, who was general manager of the old Kansas City Blues in the American Assn., planned to attend the association meeting in Chicago Friday.

Ball Park Then Will Be Leased to Johnson's Athletics

Patterson 7-5 Favorite Over Slade Tonight

Winner of Eight-Round Match May Get Shot at Archie Moore

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (U)—Floyd Patterson, the precocious, 19-year-old light heavyweight contender, is a 7-5 choice to beat ringwise Jimmy Slade in an important eight rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The winner of this short test might wind up as the next title opponent for 175-pound champion Archie Moore, if you want to call that a reward.

The fight is limited to eight rounds because you have to be 20 to go a longer route in New York. Starting at 10 p.m., EST, the scrap will be broadcast and telecast coast to coast by NBC.

Patterson, winner of 17 of 18 pro bouts since he won the Olympic middleweight crown, is facing a toughie along the lines of Joey Maxim, the ex-light heavyweight king who outpointed him in June. Like Maxim, Slade relies on his shifty style and cleverness.

"Floyd will be too fast for him," said Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager. "I know that Slade's cute but Floyd has learned to fight cuties. The kid's better than ever now and should hit too hard and fast for Slade."

"I should beat him on maneuverability (no kidding, that's what the man said) and my experience," said Slade. "I'll move in and out on him. I understand he's a good puncher but I've met them before."

That he has. The 29-year-old New York Negro, ranked as the No. 3 175-pound contender by the World Boxing Committee, knocked out Don Cockell, currently the British Empire heavyweight champion, and beat such heavyweights as Hurricane Jackson.

This time Slade will have a weight advantage of about five pounds—175 to 170. Slade's record is 20-10-4 with five kayos. Patterson has stopped 10 opponents.

Deal Puts Orioles 'in Business'

BALTIMORE (U)—"I think we can now be automatically considered first-division challengers."

That's confident Paul Richards' appraisal of the million dollar, three-for-nine trade he pulled with the New York Yankees Thursday.

"As far as I'm concerned, this puts us in business," the Oriole manager-general manager said before he left for Chicago where he hopes to do some more swapping.

BALTIMORE (U)—"I think we can now be automatically considered first-division challengers."

That's confident Paul Richards' appraisal of the million dollar, three-for-nine trade he pulled with the New York Yankees Thursday.

"As far as I'm concerned, this puts us in business," the Oriole manager-general manager said before he left for Chicago where he hopes to do some more swapping.

But Richards, who admitted it was "tough . . . to trade off a guy like Turley, who could be a great pitcher," said there was no way of improving the Orioles without putting the 24-year-old speedball pitcher in the deal.

"Frankly, you're not going to win the pennant with one ball player like Turley."

He said acquisition of the Yankee players "might put us two years ahead on our farm system." He thinks the trade already gives the Birds a team he could field if he had to that would be better than the one that closed the past season, in seventh place, with 100 defeats.

Richards would like to pick up a third baseman in Chicago, a possibility being Cass Michaels. The Orioles had probably would be scrappy little Clint Courtney, a good catcher but rated behind Smith in Paul's book.

Richards says the trade "could turn out to be the best one I ever made—if the players come through."

Aims for 10th Flip
EUGENE, Ore. (U)—Capt. Ron Pfeister, center of the Oregon football team, has won nine straight times on the coin-flipping that starts each game.

He will try to make it 10 straight in the season's final game against Oregon State at Corvallis Saturday.

Mathematicians here say the odds are 1,024 to 1 against winning 10 straight coin flips.

Two County High Schools Advanced in Classification

Two Oakland County high schools have moved up in classification. It is revealed in the November issue of the Michigan High School Athletic Association bulletin.

Clarkston High has advanced from Class C into Class B, and Bloomfield Hills has jumped from Class D into Class C. The change for Clarkston will become apparent at basketball tournament time when the Wolves compete in the higher classification.

Two other area schools also had changes. North Branch dropped back into Class C following a year in "B" enrollment. Brighton, like Clarkston, jumped from C to B.

The "promotion" of Brighton and Clarkston leaves Keego Harbor the only Class C school in the Wayne-Oakland League. Keego's high school enrollment of 316 is only 9 students shy of Class B and without a doubt the West Bloomfield school will be "B" next year.

Advancement of Bloomfield Hills to Class C leaves heavily-populated Oakland County without a Class D team. In fact the only school in the area still left in Class D (enrollment under 150) is Dryden.

Seven county schools remain in Class C, while the addition of Clarkston raises the "B" total to 17. Eight schools in the county are of Class A status.

Bowl Bids at Stake in Crucial College Games

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

The Associated Press

The collegiate football spotlight shifts through the nation Saturday in an attempt to illuminate the bazy bowl picture as the season heads into its windup stage.

Several crucial tests, with possible Rose, Orange and Cotton Bowl bids hanging on their outcomes, and a batch of tradition-studded games are on Saturday's outstanding grid card.

The Big Ten representative to the Rose Bowl will be determined when undefeated Ohio State, the nation's top-ranked team, clashes with Michigan at Columbus before a sellout crowd of 82,000. The game also will be viewed by a national television audience (ABC).

In the Far West, UCLA, also unbeaten and No. 2 in the rankings, faces Southern California with a sellout crowd of 102,000 slated to jam the Los Angeles Coliseum.

UCLA competed in the Rose Bowl last season and isn't eligible to return. Regardless of the outcome of Saturday's game, USC gets the nod as the Pacific Coast entrant in the Rose Bowl.

Other top-flight games which will have a direct bearing on other Jan. 1 pairings include Baylor and Southern Methodist at Dallas, Nebraska and Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., Kansas State and Colorado at Boulder, Colo., South Carolina and Duke at Durham, N.C., and George Washington and Maryland at College Park, Md.

Notre Dame, No. 4, visits Iowa in a game that should produce a great share of interest. Neither club is bowl-bound, but Iowa still is incensed over last season's 14-14 tie. Two Notre Dame injury-feigning incidents developed into a first-class rhabarb that still has Iowa seething.

Army, No. 5 in the country, and Navy, tied for seventh with Southern California, both get a rest this Saturday before their national TV spectacle next week in Philadelphia.

Ninth-ranked Arkansas, still in line for a Cotton Bowl offer if SMU falls by the wayside, opposes Louisiana State in a non-conference tilt. Minnesota, No. 10, visits Wisconsin in another Big Ten encounter.

Harvard entertains Yale in the 71st renewal of their Ivy League rivalry, the East's top game of the day. A Yale victory will give the Bulldogs their first league title since 1946.

Friday night's schedule is rather meager with Alabama facing Miami in the major attraction.

Unsolved Riddle

Answer to PHS Grid Doldrums Elusive; Outlook Brighter Than in Past Years

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of three articles dealing with Pontiac High's athletic past, present and future in the Saginaw Valley Conference.)

By BILL MARTIN

Many observers have tried, and failed, to solve the riddle of Pontiac High School's lack of success on the gridiron since entering the Saginaw Valley Conference in 1933.

Actually, there can be only three factors determining whether a team wins or loses—coaching, material, and the intangible aspects.

Pontiac's doldrums apparently can't be blamed on coaching. Chiefs have had capable coaching for years—coaching that probably would, and in some cases, has, paid dividends elsewhere. No less than six coaches have served at PHS during the 22 years of SVC play. Harold Smead, with a 24-31-5 mark over 10 years had the best mark.

Lack of material is a possible factor, although it shouldn't be in a school of 2,337 students. However, the number of ex-Chiefs that have gone on to play major college football are far too scarce.

There was much hope, for a few years, that Pontiac's junior high school football program would prove beneficial to PHS grid teams. That hope has apparently fallen short of realization.

The juniors' program, which started in 1944, has not materially altered Pontiac's success on the gridiron, and there are some who think the program may have been detrimental.

A few outspoken critics claim that junior high competition, on an inter-school basis, tends to produce misplaced loyalties and values. They suggest, instead, a city-wide program similar to Flint's Mott Foundation setup, where more boys get a chance to learn fundamentals in their own weight and age class.

The biggest single contributing factor, it is believed, and the one that is the hardest to put one's finger on, is the intangible side—school spirit, tradition and support. These elements go hand-in-hand with a winning effort. Winning teams, however, must come first—spirit and support are regarded as natural after-effects.

Pontiac High's athletic outlook in the Valley appears brighter, particularly in football, now than at any time in the past few lean years.

That is the opinion of those closest to Chiefs' athletic squads. Ed Graybiel, who has suffered through two rocky seasons as head football coach, can look forward to welcoming back a host of talented underclassmen next fall. Pontiac, which this season finished with a 3-6 record, had seven sophomores in its starting line up at one time or another.

In addition, junior varsity coaches Ed Heikinen and Tony Piza fielded a big, rugged crew that swept through seven victories in eight starts. Little Chiefs' only loss was a 14-13 squeaker to Bay City and they held five of their opponents scoreless.

This crop of youngsters should do much to boost Pontiac's football fortunes during the next two seasons.

Gran Hamner Demoted

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The 1955 version of the Phillies will not have a captain, says new manager Mayo Smith. The pilot claims that "a captain doesn't help and sometimes can hurt the team." Granny Hamner, captain of the Phils for several years, thus loses his field job.

Packer Coach Praises Balance of Lion Attack

But Blackburn Says Nobody Has 'Pushed Green Bay Around'

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP)—Coach Liz Blackburn of the Green Bay Packers said today "we've certainly gotta play over our heads" to beat the champion Detroit Lions.

"This Lion outfit is hard to get any optimism over," said Blackburn, who had to prepare for the Lions at Green Bay Sunday and at Detroit Thanksgiving Day as if it were the opening of the season.

"They don't have any weaknesses," Blackburn said. "They have a balance attack and it's been a case of trying to sharpen up (the Packers) all the way down the line."

Coach Buddy Parker, whose Lions are shooting for their 3rd straight world championship, thinks his current team is "better than our past two championship teams."

By winning three of its remaining five games, Detroit can clinch the Western Division title of the National Football League.

Lion advance man Bud Erickson pointed out that rookie fullback Bill Bowman has given Detroit a bigger threat down the middle and allows Bob Hoernschemeyer to alternate at halfback.

Then there's top Lion ground gainer Lew Carpenter, Doak Walker and Bobby Layne, not to mention Layne's understudy, Tom Dubinski.

The Lions, who have lost only to San Francisco, have complicated pass patterns. The passers don't concentrate on any particular receiver, end Dorne Dibble has caught 28 passes, Walker 21, Bowman 17, etc.

But Blackburn was not worried about the 45-7 slaughter the Fortyniners absorbed last Sunday from the Lions.

"Nobody has pushed us around this year," Blackburn said. "We haven't played a game so far we couldn't have won if we would have got a break. That's some consolation."

100 Drivers Start Grueling Pan-Am Test

Tuxtla Gutierrez, Mexico. About 100 drivers from 13 countries took off from this tropical border town early Friday on the first leg of the 1,908-mile, five-day Pan-American automobile road race with its $117,200 in prizes.

The first day's goal is Oaxaca, 297 miles away over winding, climbing, rough and dangerous roads. This leg took six lives last year—two Italian drivers and four pedestrians struck by racing cars.

Entered in the race are drivers from the United States, Spain, Italy, Argentina, England, the Dominican Republic, Germany, Guatemala, Colombia, Cuba, Chile, Canada and Mexico.

Originally 164 drivers registered, but many failed to show up, were disqualified, or had mechanical trouble or accidents. Two from Argentina were killed on test runs this week. Several were injured and forced out. Some cars crashed.

The large stock cars—Lincoln Packards, Cadillacs, Buicks, Chryslers—which would probably soon pass the smaller sports cars were third among the classifications to start. Lincoln won this last year.

Warm Weather Should Help Bear Hunters

Animals Sighted Near Towns in Michigan's Upper Peninsula

LANSING — Michigan's current mild weather, the bane of deer hunters, may prove to be a boon for sportsmen out for bear.

Conservation department officials say Michigan's bear population can be expected to be out in force during the warm weather—getting in a last-minute snack before their long hibernation.

The more of them that go foraging, wildlife experts say, the more chance hunters have of getting a kill.

Unlike deer, who are apt to be very cautious in their movements through dry, noisy woods, bears don't seem to care how much noise they make.

"There is some speculation that this might be an especially good bear season," says Dr. D. W. Douglass, of the department's game division.

We had a lot of reports from the Upper Peninsula that bear have been sighted in or close to towns. They were particularly active this fall because of a shortage of fruit," he said.

Michigan's bear season coincides with the deer season, which opened Nov. 15 and closes Nov. 30. Hunters need only a deer license to kill bear. They can kill any bear, regardless of sex or age, but are limited to one of the animals each year.

Commentator Picks OSU, UCLA to Win 'Big Ones'

By HARRY WISMER

(Copyright, 1954, by INS)

Main interest on the intercollegiate gridirons this weekend centers on the UCLA-Southern California clash at Los Angeles and the Michigan-Ohio State bruiser at Columbus.

Uclans, No. 1 in the INS ratings and undefeated in eight games, should win by seven points over Southern Cal, which has lost only to Texas Christian in nine contests.

Second-ranked Ohio State, on the basis of its consistent performance from week to week and its superior backfield, rates as a 7-point choice over Michigan.

Ivy fans will throw to the exploits of Yale and Harvard in what is known by some as "the game." Edge must go to old Eli by seven, despite injuries.

OKLAHOMA over NEBRASKA by 20

Arkansas to gain further stature with a victory over SMU by 11.

Southern Methodist, holding the balance of power and driving for the national championship, broke and the cotton bowl to edge Baylor by five.

Duke to redeem itself again with a 13-point triumph over South Carolina.

Illinois to earn its first Big 10 victory by beating Northwestern by 17.

Ten Dawson to give Purdue the advantage over Indiana in the annual battle for the Old Oaken Bucket.

Washington by 14 over Minnesota.

Masouli to take a look at down-trodden Kansas and enjoy what it sees by 28.

Colorado to do as it pleases against Kansas State, winning with a 12-point margin.

The pre-departmental San Francisco to rebound against far overrated Pittsburgh by 17.

Los Angeles holds a 14-point advantage over New York.

Chicago Bears, handicapped by the loss of quarterback George Blanda still good for a 4-point win over Baltimore.

World champion Detroit guaranteed a 27-point margin over Green Bay.

Chicago Cardinals better than Washington by three.

Cleveland by 21 over Philadelphia.

Play 4 Against UM

Left halfback LeRoy Bolden and end Ellis Duckett each played for Michigan State in four football games against Michigan, 1951 through 1954. State won three of them.

King Buck Seeks 3rd National Title

WELDON SPRING, Mo. — King Buck, a black Labrador owned by Nilo Kennels of Brighton, Ill., seeking to gain its third consecutive National Retriever Trial Championship, was one of several to run well in opening tests Thursday.

Only one dog has been eliminated from the starting field of 33.

Massie's Sassy Boots, owned by William Cline of Chicago, was one of those with an outstanding opening-day performance which might take it ahead of the 6-year-old King Buck.

Others showing good competitive performances in a steady run at the Busch Memorial wildlife area were Marian's Timothy, a black Labrador owned by Marian McPhail of Tacoma, Wash., and Brant of the Lark, yellow Labrador owned by L. J. Sverdrup of St. Louis.

CASE—Exaggerated Lift.

Perhaps you had to correct the fault of overlifting the ball when you started. Most beginners overdo the upward lift, regardless whether they use three-, four-, or five-step footwork.

In the sketch the lift is being applied in four-step delivery, which means trouble—and needless work. It will soon make the user tired. The upward lift is used only in five-step footwork, and then the lift is very slight. Too much lift, at any time, produces a body "tilt." Pulls the body far down when the ball is dropped into the backswing. Balance just isn't possible.

In four-step stride the ball is put into swing with a straight-forward push-away motion in timing with a short first step with the right foot. The amount of push-away determines length of swing, and that, in turn, produces and regulates speed.

Also, it makes bowling a pleasure instead of work. With it you'll be able to roll many games without tiring.

Frick Dislikes Off-Season Baseball Waiver Ruling

BOSTON (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick is not satisfied with that part of baseball law which allows a deal like the recent one wherein Cleveland's American League pennant winners acquired Ralph Kiner from the National League's Chicago Cubs.

Frick called it a "bad rule" when a team like Cleveland can get a player from another league without the teams lower in the standings getting a crack at the player first.

Frick, speaking informally after delivering a prepared speech at Northeastern University, added that the rule is "in the books and legal" but added he would like the public to understand it.

"When the clubs get waivers on players in September now, they stand until after the first month of the next season. In that way, the club can deal a player to any club in the other league after its own league has waived on him."

Frick said he was in favor of territorial expansion of the major leagues. He indicated that when expansion does reach the Pacific Coast it would probably mean 10 clubs in each league rather than transfers such as those to Kansas City, Baltimore and Milwaukee.

Frick called the switch of the A's to Kansas City a "benefit to baseball just by opening up new territories."

Coast League Prexy Resigns

Rowland Will Become Executive of Chicago
Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Pacific Coast League must pick a new president to succeed Clarence L. (Pants) Rowland.

The 75-year-old official resigned Thursday to become executive vice president of the Chicago Cubs. The resignation was accepted by the club's directors and Rowland agreed to serve as president until after the minor league meeting in Houston, Nov. 28.

While nothing was said about a possible successor, the names of Bill Star, vice president of the San Diego club, Eddie Mulligan of Sacramento and Leslie O'Connor, league counsel, are considered possibilities for the job Rowland has held since 1944.

Gloomy Rams Go East Without Tank Younger

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams fly East Friday for two road games and gloomy are their chances of hanging on to a share of second place in the Western Conference of the National Football League.

Missing from the ranks, and possibly through with football for good, was Paul (Tank) Younger, the club's leading ground gainer and the second best in the NFL. Younger, who wrecked a knee in the Chicago Cardinal game last Sunday, is still in a hospital here.

Podoley Among Top Gainers and Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Engelhardt of Omaha University has virtually clinched the small-college total-offense championship and College of Emporia has an equally firm grip on team honors in rushing and total offense.

Statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau today reveal that other individual and team titles still are undecided as the collegiate football season swings into its final week.

Engelhardt gained 277 yards in his final game against Doane to move well out in front in total offense with 1,645 yards. Ralph Capitani of Iowa Teachers, who also has finished his season, is second with 1,568 yards. Capitani, last season's total offense leader with 1,735 yards, was limited to 64 yards by South Dakota State last week.

Paul James of Swarthmore is Engelhardt's closest pursuer. He is 549 yards behind the leader with one game to go.

Billy Pappas of New Hampshire has displaced Capitani in forward-pass supremacy. Pappas, who trailed Capitani by seven completions last week, connected on 18 of 36 against Springfield to move in front with 84 completions to 81 for the Iowa senior.

Lem Harkey of College of Emporia solidified his position atop the rushing rankings with 113 yards in his final game last week to boost his season's yardage to 1,146. Jim Podoley of Central Michigan closed out his season with 1,079 yards and Walt Livingston of Heidelberg ended with 1,046.

Three players finished the season scoring 100 or more points. Podoley tallied 109, Harkey 103 and Harvey Wylie of Montana State, 100.

R. C. Owens of College of Idaho remained in front for pass-receiving laurels with 44 receptions.

Tennessee State is the defense leader with a 105.6 yard per-game allowance with two games remaining. Geneva, which has concluded its season, is runner-up with a 106.3 yard per game.

Iowa Teachers ended its campaign with a passing offense of 206.1 yards per game. Brandeis, with one game remaining, has averaged 187.1 for second place.

Warriors Have Scoring Punch

Arizin, Johnson and Graboski May Become League's Best

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Philadelphia Warriors, who have played only four games thus far, have in Paul Arizin, Neil Johnston and Joe Graboski, a trio that may develop into the best one-two-three punch in the National Basketball Assn.

Although the Warriors relinquished first place in the Eastern Division to the New York Knickerbockers via a 96-94 loss to the Knicks last night, this threesome has provided more than just a ray of hope for the Philadelphia club. The three sharpshooters have a combined total of 263 points for the four games.

In the only other game, the second of a double header, the Syracuse Nationals handed the Fort Wayne Pistons their second loss of the season, 91-82.

Manager Birdie Tebbets of the Redlegs is also a licensed insurance agent.

Columbia Line Coach Says Linemen Not Dumb, Calls Each One 'Defensive Quarterback'

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. John Bateman, Columbia line coach, takes exception to the term "dumb linemen" and supports his position by saying, "every lineman is a defensive quarterback and must think and react quickly on each play."

"I always say the dumber you are the farther away from the ball you are and the fullback is usually the furthest from the ball," Bateman added.

"A good lineman today must be strong, must have speed, agility and mobility and the great ones have what we call 'Killer Instinct'."

In his ninth year at Columbia, Bateman is senior assistant to Head Coach Lou Little. He is also the Ivy League heir to Herman Hickman's extra-curricular crown. Dr. John is erudite, 220 pounds and an omnivorous eater, reader and after-dinner speaker.

"Ball games are won up front," Bateman said. "You're whole offense is based around one or two plays through the line. Unless you can turn a back through the line you won't win many ball games."

And no back—I don't care if he's Bronko Nagurski—will run without blocking. How do you think they stop a great back, someone like Nagurski? By special defenses so that one line force is greater than the other line force."

Columbia's line coach gave this solution to the line vs. back argument which is perpetual among football men.

"You can't run without backs, but if I had my choice I would take a good line and mediocre backs rather than have great backs and a mediocre line."

Waterford Recreation defeated Pontiac Varnish, 5-1, Thursday to remain in first place in the Pontiac Table Tennis League.

Pontiac Cigarette Service and Furney Drugs are tied for 2nd place with 9 points, 2 back of the Waterford team. Short's Variety and Capitol Barbers are in the 4th place tie with 7 points.

Two outstanding matches marked the Capitol-Short's series as Adolph Magnus of Short's defeated Howard Heckman of Capitol, 13-21, 21-15, 21-16, and Mary Jacober of Capitol defeated Patty Short, 18-21, 21-19, 21-19.

You Be the Quarterback

(Answer)

4. Sleeper pass. Better not! It's illegal!

3. Pitchout. Unwise to play around with a pitchout in this wind and snow.

2. Statue of Liberty. No doubt there have been many 2nd down punts, so this might fool the defense. If it failed, a 10-yard loss wouldn't hurt as much as if on a dry field.

1. Punt. Best call. Punt and play for the breaks is fundamental on a day like this.

Something Wonderful Has Happened At Pfeiffer's!

Here is exciting news about beer!

For the first time in the entire history of brewing, complete, refreshing mildness has been combined with deep satisfying flavor in the finest beer ever brewed!

It was a real challenge to combine two opposite qualities—mildness and deep flavor in one great beer. But patience and hard work have been rewarded. Now, Pfeiffer's has discovered a way to brew a milder beer and still retain that much-wanted, deep, true flavor!

Today's Pfeiffer's proves that beer can be mild yet distinctive in taste—can have true character and deep, satisfying flavor without being heavy or filling! This achievement definitely sets a new standard in the brewing industry. Never before has there been a beer like this!

The moment you taste this clean, sparkling brew you'll know something great has happened to beer. Here is a smoother, more subtle mildness you wouldn't have believed possible—yet it's combined with a mellow and pleasant flavor that can only be described as d-e-e-p!

We at Pfeiffer's are very proud of today's Pfeiffer's Beer, and those who have compared it with other beers share our enthusiasm. People are actually calling us at the brewery to say, this is the finest beer they have ever enjoyed.

We urge you to make a side-by-side comparison of this great brew with any other beer you choose. Note the inviting, clear golden color of today's Pfeiffer's, its sparkling liveliness, its pleasing mildness. And notice the deep flavor character that is so completely satisfying.

Once you've discovered the truly wonderful mildness and the deep flavor of this brew, you'll agree . . . that the big difference in beer is today's Pfeiffer's.

Try it and judge for yourself!

Much-Copied Panel Quiz Rated Tops on TV

What's My Line Is Witty, Alert

Original Cast in 1950 Had Daly, Kilgallen, Francis Joined Next

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—What's My Line? is an anomaly among television programs.

The CBS panel quiz is simple in format and modest in cost yet consistently is high in audience popularity ratings in competition with more lavish shows costing twice as much, or more.

The show, first aired Feb. 2, 1950, has spawned many imitations although it in turn is somewhat reminiscent of the older Twenty Questions.

John Daly, moderator, and Dorothy Kilgallen, panelist, are "charter members" from the first telecast. Panelist Arlene Francis has been on since the second. Comedian Fred Allen and publisher Bennett Cerf round out the current panel.

Producer Gil Fates wisely keeps the visual distractions to a minimum so the viewer can concentrate on the game, in which the panelists by their questions try to guess the occupation of the guest.

It would be difficult to put your finger on just what makes the show click. The alertness and affability of the panel members, the simplicity of the game and the humorous situations all are factors.

On the latest show, for example, the laugh was on Dorothy Kilgallen, who failed to recognize L. J. Harold I. Gold, of the New York Fire Department, who had put out a fire in her apartment on one occasion. Not long ago the guest was a repeater who had been on before, but went unrecognized by the panel.

But the celebrity guests usually are easy pickings for the panelists although they wear blindfolds for that part of the show. They get only one "no" from British actress Elizabeth Taylor before guessing her identity, although she used a hillbilly accent.

TABULATE POPULATION—Hunger map of the world hangs behind them as the Robert Cooks puzzle over population figures.

Missing From Pen

Believe Hunters Clubbed Deer To Death at Refuge

ST. HELEN, Mich. (AP)—Alfalfa the deer is missing and presumed dead—victim of a meat-hungry murderer.

What happened to Alfalfa is as nasty a bit of business as you're likely to find in the annals of crimes against animals.

The big, 200-pound, eight point buck was the prize exhibit at the Ogemaw Game Refuge, north of St. Helen.

The conservation people learned a lot about deer from studying his feeding habits. Alfalfa had been around for four or five years and was one of the main attractions for visitors.

He was a particular favorite with the children. Although it was admitted he could be onery at times, Alfalfa would trot over to the edge of his pen to accept cigarettes and other dainties from his admirers. Many of the deer pictures used in conservation magazines and other publications featured Alfalfa and he became quite a ham as far as photographers were concerned.

The evidence shows that Alfalfa was killed last Saturday night—the 13th.

So the crime was committed while honest hunters were on their way north preparing for the opening of the deer season.

Just before he went to bed that night, Lawrence Ryle, manager of the game refuge, strolled by the pen and noted that the big deer was hale and hearty.

Ryle, who lives only about 250 yards away heard no disturbances or gun shots during the night. In the morning, Alfalfa was gone.

The fence was deer-proof; so the big buck couldn't have jumped it and escaped. Investigators discovered a hole had been dug under the wire that was large enough so his 200-pound carcass could have been dragged out.

Last year, someone tried to cut the wire at the same point in the fence but was scared away before the job could be finished.

There was no blood, so conservation officers and police theorize the deer was killed with a hammer or club and then dragged outside. There is a county highway only about 60 feet from the pen so it would have been easy enough to drag the carcass to a waiting car or truck.

Several years ago, another big exhibition deer, George, was shot and carried away under similar circumstances. It's suspected that the same person might have killed both animals.

Conservation workers have hung a picture of Alfalfa on the fence with a note explaining to his friends and admirers what probably happened. People in the area are pretty riled up about the thing. Police are studying footprints and tire marks found in the vicinity. They'd like to catch whoever killed Alfalfa and throw the book at him.

Meanwhile, they have a message for the person who only admired Alfalfa as a prospective hunk of venison. They hope you choke.

Vera-Ellen to Wed Oilman Rothschild

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Dancer Vera-Ellen and oilman Victor Rothschild plan to be married tonight at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in the San Fernando Valley. They obtained a marriage license here yesterday. Both gave their ages as 31. Rothschild said this will be his first marriage. Vera-Ellen, who used her legal name Vera Ellen Robe, on the license application, was divorced from dancer Robert C. Hightower in 1946.

Mitzi Gaynor, Mate Honeymoon in East

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Film star Mitzi Gaynor, 32, and publicity man Jack Bean, 32, of Los Angeles, flew eastward on a honeymoon last night after their marriage at the home of friends here yesterday.

It was their first marriage for both.

The newlyweds planned to visit New York then Detroit, home of her father Henry Gerber. Later they will visit Bean's family in Minneapolis.
