$5.5 Million Offer Takes Tigers

Paint on Ceiling Did It

Arsenic Poisoning Caused Sicknesses of Mrs. Luce

NEW YORK (AP)—Deadly arsenic dust sifting down from the paint on her bedroom ceiling in Rome reportedly caused the long series of illnesses that have plagued Clare Boothe Luce, U.S. ambassador to Italy.

The reason for the strange sickness was kept secret for more than a year.

Last night Time magazine disclosed the whole bizarre tale after friends told Mrs. Luce they had heard snatches of the story. The envoy's husband, Henry R. Luce, is editor in chief of the magazine.

Mrs. Luce, former playwright and Republican congresswoman from Connecticut, was named ambassador to Rome in 1953. On her arrival she moved into the 17th century Villa Taverna, official residence of U.S. ambassadors.

CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

Then for 20 months tiny specks of the poisonous arsenic fell unsuspected from the paint on the ornate bedroom ceiling.

The arsenic powdered her breakfast coffee. In summer the paint gave off arsenous fumes, which she inhaled.

After a year's residence Mrs. Luce began feeling tired and ill. Nervousness and nausea followed. She found one night she could hardly manage to waltz at an art festival because her right foot turned numb.

In the summer of 1954 she came home for a thorough medical checkup in a New York hospital. Doctors said she was suffering from serious anemia and nervous fatigue.

CONFINED TO BED

After two months she felt better and returned to Rome.

The symptoms soon returned, however, and became ever more distressing. She began to lose hair by the brushful. Her fingernails became brittle. Her teeth loosened.

She was confined to her bed more and more.

Late in 1954 she went to a U.S. Navy hospital in Naples. The diagnosis: arsenic poisoning.

Mrs. Luce realized at once she was in a ticklish situation. Delicate diplomatic relations might be jeopardized if the news were made public.

Within a week the poison was traced to the arsenate of lead in the bedroom ceiling. The room was quickly repainted with nonleaded paint, eliminating the danger.

House Approves GI Construction

Drops Two Provisions Which Brought Earlier Veto by President

WASHINGTON (AP)—With unprecedented speed, the House today passed a $2,138,886,000 military construction bill stripped of provisions which drew a presidential veto yesterday.

The bill now goes to the Senate. The House action was taken by unanimous consent with only about 100 members on the floor.

It came shortly after the Armed Services Committee had approved a measure lacking two provisions objected to by the President.

These would have required the Defense Department to get approval of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees before going ahead with contracts for Talos missile sites and for construction of government-insured housing for servicemen's families.

BUILDS BASE PROJECTS

Except for eliminating these two provisions, the new bill was identical to the one vetoed. It authorizes construction of hundreds of projects at military bases in the United States and abroad.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the Armed Services Committee told the House the committee promptly would draft a bill giving Congress "some supervision" over the program.

Traffic Deaths Within Pontiac Halved in 1956

With 1956 more than half over, Pontiac has recorded half as many traffic fatalities as last year.

Three persons have died, compared with six deaths at this time in 1955.

One death occurred when a motor-scooter struck an auto, a second when two autos collided and the third when a car hit a train.

There have been 574 accidents this year, a summary from the police Traffic and Safety Bureau shows.

Only 523 accidents were recorded by July 1 last year, with 268 persons injured.

A slightly lower number, 262, have been injured this year. No fatalities, and 28 injuries occured in June, the report shows.

Two of the injured were pedestrians.

Hurricane Type of Storm Rips Jackson Area

Rain and Hail Spread Injury and Damage to Buildings, Crops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Savage winds of hurricane force, accompanied by rain and hail, traced a path of damage and destruction across southern Michigan Monday night.

At least five persons were hurt, dozens of barns and homes unroofed, power and telephone lines snapped and hundreds of trees uprooted. Widespread crop damage was reported, with losses estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

The storm apparently struck first at Butternut, a Montcalm County community 15 miles northeast of Ionia, then headed southeast through Jackson and Adrian.

An inch and a half of rain fell in both Jackson and Adrian within 15 minutes. Many streets in the two cities were blocked off by fallen trees and limbs.

National Guardsmen and volunteer citizens aided city crews in cleaning away the debris in Adrian.

* * *

The communities of Napoleon, Onstead and Brooklyn, southeast of Jackson, and Rives Junction, northwest of town, were left without telephone service for several hours when winds snapped communication lines.

'TROUBLE' CALLS

Consumers Power Co. at Jackson reported about 1,000 "trouble" calls in 1½ hours.

* * *

Winds, registered at 70 miles per hour at Reynolds Airfield in Jackson, bowled over a house trailer 10 miles south of town injuring the four occupants and demolishing the trailer. Richard Kurtz, his wife, Martha, and their two children, Jimmy, 4, and Karen, 2, suffered cuts and bruises.

Six-month-old Barbara Goodale was cut by flying window glass as she lay in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Robert Goodale, at a supermarket parking lot on the south edge of Jackson.

State Police at Ionia, investigating storm damage east of town, estimated between 6,000 and 7,000 acres of crops were "seriously damaged or totally lost" as windblown hailstones piled up to a depth of 6 inches in spots.

Stuffed Mascot Given to New Detroit Tiger Owners

Sale Topples Briggs Diamond Dynasty; Family Guided Team, Ballpark Since 1920

DETROIT (AP)—The Briggs baseball regime is ended.

In almost the same placidity that characterized the Briggs entrance into major league baseball in 1920, the family's official exit took place yesterday.

The official parting is months away, but the arrangements that bring to an end the Briggs dynasty are already pieced together.

Walter O. Briggs Sr., who liked to think of himself as the "ordinary fan" while building what they call "baseball's most beautiful playfield," started the family in baseball in 1920 by purchasing one-quarter interest in the Detroit Tigers.

He took over full control after the death of Frank Navin in November 1935. From that moment on, the determined, aggressive Tiger president put his baseball earnings back into baseball. He loved the game for what it was, and he tried to make it into nothing else.

In the words of H. G. Salsinger, the veteran sports editor of the Detroit News who knew Briggs intimately, he gave baseball "dignity, sincerity, enthusiasm and affection."

56 YEARS, 7 FLAGS

The fact that the club has produced only seven pennant-winners since its first major league season in 1900 has not dimmed the zeal of its owners, both before and after the late Briggs.

His only son, Walter O. Briggs Jr. — he prefers to be called Spike—has been a spirited president, too. He had been with the club for more than 10 years, with time out for World War II, when he took over the presidency in 1952. Still the club has lingered in the second division since a second-place finish in 1950, and has not won a title since 1945.

Spike made no effort to conceal his desire to keep the club. He tried to purchase it a couple of times, but his offer was not enough for his four sisters who inherited the club with him. Then last year the Tigers came under the control of trustees of the estate of the late Briggs. And the 44-year-old Spike could not legally purchase the club, since he is one of the trustees.

* * *

A few weeks ago, before the sale reached the final stages, Briggs sat in his third-floor office at Briggs Stadium and talked Detroit baseball, past, present and future.

He had just publicly apologized for "popping off" at Manager Bucky Harris, General Manager Muddy Ruel and the club's coaches. It was all his fault, he said, and he had said many things for which he was sorry. The club was in its worst losing streak since 1953. The Tigers were being sold. Spike Briggs had many feelings about things, and none of them good.

"I want to stay in baseball more than anything in the world," he had said. "And most of all, I want to stay with the Tigers. I'd be lying if I said I wouldn't like to own them."

But he could not own the club.

'UNHAPPIEST DAY'

Then a few days later there was the press conference when Briggs announced the names of the eight syndicates that bid for the club and the stadium. The young president hung around his office after most had gone. He remarked that it had been "one of the unhappiest days of my life."

"The photographers kept asking me to smile, but I couldn't," he told an interviewer.

Several days later, it was all over. The man who spends more time alone in a seat high up in the right-field stands than he does in the president's box seats near the Tiger dugout, had seen what he never wanted to see. It was the end of an era.

Ex-Marines Everywhere Asked to Tell of Training

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (INS)—Emile Zola Berman, counsel for S/Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, on trial for the death of six recruits in a disciplinary "death march," today made a dramatic appeal to former marines to step forward and tell what they know about training techniques at Parris Island.

McKeon, 31-year-old former drill instructor, marched his 74-man platoon into the swamplands of Ribbon Creek April 8 where six of them were drowned.

In his appeal — made through news media, Berman declared he believes such marches were "not an unusual practice."

He urged former Marines who have had such experience and want "to see justice done" to come forward and assist McKeon.

Minutes after the government had agreed at the court martial to furnish the defense with a list of men who have been separated from Parris Island training depot since Jan. 1, Berman strode out on a nearby lawn during a recess.

He read to newsmen a letter he will send to the former Parris Island Marines, and then read it again before an array of television cameramen.

In the letter, he pointed out charges against McKeon allege "maltreatment" of troops and said it is "criminal to train recruits by marching them into doondocks, marshes, swamps and creeks at Parris Island."

"We believe it was not an unusual practice to train troops in discipline and to improve morale by such occasional night exercises," Berman went on.

"If you have ever had such an experience, or have seen it occur at Parris Island, and you want to see justice done and assist in the defense of Sergeant McKeon, please phone or wire me, collect if necessary."

When court reconvened, Navy Capt. I. N. Klein, the law officer, denied a defense motion to strike out counts one and four of the court-count indictment against McKeon.

Syndicate of 11 Is New Owner; Briggs to Stay

2 Radio Men Leaders of Group Which Includes Bing Crosby

DETROIT (AP)—A pair of baseball "unknowns" who parlayed a record price and a promise had control today of the Detroit Tigers.

An 11-man syndicate headed by Michigan radio men Fred Knorr and John Fetzer swung the biggest money deal in baseball history yesterday in the $5,500,000 purchase of the American League's sixth-place club.

* * *

Although the bid was a quarter of a million dollars higher than any of the other seven submitted, the fact that the new owners promised to continue the "sincere and dignified" policies that have characterized Tiger management for more than 20 years was regarded as an influencing factor.

Additional Tiger pictures, stories page 2, 16.

Those were the type of policies employed by Walter O. Briggs Sr., who died in 1952 and left the club and Briggs Stadium to his son, Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., and four daughters.

Spike Briggs, president since 1952, will stay on, as was his wish, with the new organization as executive vice president in charge of operations. Knorr and Fetzer say this means Briggs will "run the club."

Insiders say that although the Knorr-Fetzer syndicate, which includes crooner Bing Crosby, will

Contractors Sue City of Oak Park

Builders Ask Court to Lift Construction Ban on 'Valuable' Property

A suit filed yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court by 10 Oak Park builders and contractors asks the court to lift Oak Park's ban on building and demands $1.8 million in damages.

The suit was filed for the builders by Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, who explained he is acting as attorney for a private client.

Oak Park's city council passed the ban last week after heavy rains flooded cellars and streets in the city.

The builders claim they own $1.5 million worth of property in Oak Park, which is made "worthless" by the ordinance. They ask $1.5 million for the property, and $300,000 for "loss of business profits."

Judge Frank L. Doty yesterday set a hearing this Friday for the city to show why a temporary injunction lifting the ban should not be issued.

Ringling Folds Big Top to Move Indoors

PITTSBURGH (INS) — "The greatest show on earth" folded its big top for the last time early today.

An overflow crowd was on hand to watch the death of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus as millions of children of all ages have enjoyed it—under canvas.

Small boys no longer will watch awestruck as big roustabouts and massive elephants smoothly raise the towering acres of canvas.

The big top, announced Barnum & Bailey President and Chairman John Ringling North in effect Monday, has given way to the hard top.

He said the 1957 edition would play only at Madison Square Garden in New York and "in other air-conditioned arenas all over United States."

North said without elaboration: "The tented circus as it now exists is in my opinion a thing of the past. We are considering plans for the future which may involve an almost completely mechanically controlled exhibition."

The circus chief then went incommunicado.

The end of the show's 86th campaign came four months early. Television, labor trouble, bad weather and mounting costs were blamed for the demise of the tinseled, tented fairyland.

It was the third outdoor circus to pull down its canvas for good in the past two months.

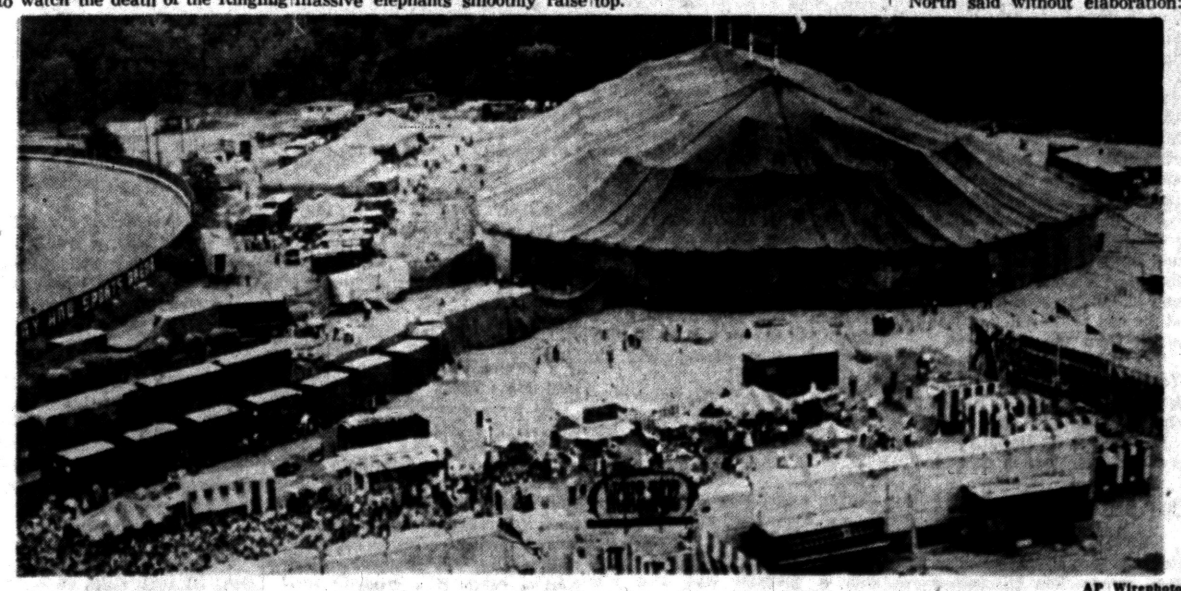

All the 9,856 seats were filled for the first time this season at the final performance. Hundreds of other circus lovers stood in the exit gates.

An air of tragedy hung over the proceedings. Just before the show began the cast received its first official notice of North's decision to move back to winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

Missing, however, from the saddened scene was the saddest clown of the show, Emmett Kelly, who had been forced to withdraw at the start of the season because of a labor dispute.

That dispute, growing out of an

24-Year Separation Ends for Brothers on the 13th

Friday the 13th, a day usually associated with bad luck, proved to be the happiest day in the lives of two area brothers when they met for the first time in Detroit.

The reunion of John McFarlane, 26, of Clarkston, and 25-year-old Fred Hoffman, of Detroit, was the culmination of a seven-year search by McFarlane.

It came as a complete surprise for Hoffman who never even knew he had a brother.

The pair were separated as infants when their family split over 24 years ago while living in the Allen Park area. John stayed with his mother but Fred was adopted by a couple named Hoffman, who never told him he was an adopted child.

The first real break in McFarlane's determined search for the younger brother came early last week when an [illegible] and mother in Detroit was finally able to recall the last name of the people who had adopted Fred.

McFarlane, a Pontiac insurance man, then took his problem to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department where Undersheriff Elmer J. McQueron promptly started the wheels turning towards seeking out the long lost brother.

Following a check with police and Allen Park residents, Hoffman's first name was finally learned from work records of the Ford Motor Company. The name was then teletyped to Lansing by the Sheriff's Department and state officials soon were replying with Hoffman's address.

McFarlane took over from there.

Thugs Hold Up 2 Gas Stations

Half-Hour Spree Nets $167; Victim Slugged on Head With Gun

Gunmen stole an estimated $167 in two early morning robberies of gas stations, Pontiac Police said today. The holdups took place between midnight and 12:30.

Detectives said "there was a strong possibility the crimes were committed by the same men. Descriptions given by victims at both stations matched pretty well, according to Sgt. John DePauw. He said there were no suspects.

Looted were the Pure Oil Gas Station at 494 Orchard Lake Ave. and the Progressive Gas & Oil Station at 477 S. Saginaw St. An estimated $102 was taken from the Pure station. The other robbery was believed to have netted about $65.

There were no shots fired in either incident but one of the victims required hispital treatment for a bump after being struck on the head with a revolver. He is Arthur Sofian, 43, of 4887 Ross Dr., Waterford Township, who was released after being treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

ROBBED AT CLOSING TIME

The first robbery occurred at the Pure station just as employes Robert LaForge of 197 Chandler St., and Fred Foss were starting to close up.

They told police two men entered the station and forced them into the men's room. All the money was taken from the cash register and the robbers fled on foot, the attendants said.

The Progressive station was entered by three men who allegedly forced Sofian into the washroom and struck him over the head. The $65 taken there was from a money changer and attendants' pockets.

Illinois Auditor Will Pay Up

Official Makes Offer After Resigning Post Under Fire

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An offer of restitution by Orville E. Hodge who quit under fire yesterday as Illinois state auditor in a half-million dollar scandal was reported today by Atty. Gen. Latham Castle.

Castle said Hodge made the offer yesterday during an executive mansion conference at which he resigned.

"Hodge said he would try to make restitution," the attorney general said. "I presume he would have to attempt to liquidate some of his properties."

Castle was present at the meeting of Gov. William G. Stratton, head of the state's Republican administration, and the 52-year-old Hodge.

Castle was asked whether Hodge made any admission of law violation during the meeting.

He said that Hodge and the governor "did not go into the criminal aspects of the case. We felt the criminal end of it is entirely in the hands of the state's attorney."

Attributed to Castle by the Chicago American was the statement by Hodge to the governor, "I haven't been able to sleep for weeks."

The News said Hodge added, "I know I have hurt you quite a bit. I don't want to hurt you any more."

The resignation climaxed a scandal in the auditor's office which jolted the GOP administration of Gov. William G. Stratton and which could have an effect on the November presidential and state elections in Illinois.

Airmen Still Imprisoned by Russians, U. S. Claims

MOSCOW (INS)—The U. S. has accused Russia of holding at least 10 American airmen whose planes crashed on or near Soviet territory in the past six years.

* * *

In a note made public last night, the U. S. said it was "compelled to believe" that Russia has imprisoned crew members of a Navy plane that disappeared in the Baltic Sea area on April 8, 1950, and of an Air Force B-29 that fell in the Sea of Japan on June 13, 1952.

The note, delivered to the Soviet foreign ministry, added "it may well be" that Russia has imprisoned other American airmen who crashed during the Korean War.

The U. S. said its charges were based on reports from "persons of various nationalities freed from Soviet government imprisonment during the last several years" who have talked with or seen American military personnel in Russian prison camps.

The reports, the note declared, "have now become so persistent and detailed, and so credible" that the U. S. is requesting the names of unknown American military personnel detained in Russia since Jan. 1, 1949.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Hopes brightened today for the families of two Michigan men who may be among the 10 American fliers the United States charges are held in Russian prisons.

The two were aboard a Navy Privateer lost over the Baltic April 8, 1950. The government charges it has heard persistent reports that the men are imprisoned in Russia and demanded their immediate release.

The Michigan men are Lt. (j.g.) Robert D. Reynolds of Ann Arbor and Joseph J. Bourassa of Linwood near Bay City, a radioman.

Vaccinate Now, Doctor Urges County Parents

Dr. Robert J. Mason, chairman of the Medical Advisory committee of the Oakland County Chapter, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is urging Oakland County parents to "vaccinate now."

"Vaccination of children will prevent polio cases and even deaths in August and September, months of high polio incidence, Dr. Mason said. "Since May 7, 1955 over 30 million children alone have been inoculated without mishap. Experience in 1955 shows the vaccine is 75 per cent effective in preventing paralytic poliomyelitis."

In Oakland County, children from one through 14 years and pregnant women are eligible for the vaccine which can be obtained through physicians or the Health Department clinics.

Crosby Won't Yield Stock in Pittsburgh

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Bing Crosby, one of the members of the syndicate that purchased the Detroit Tigers, says if he is forced to choose between holding onto his share of the Pittsburgh Pirates or the Detroit club, he would "certainly never give up the Pirates."

Crosby, who is on a fishing trip, heading for Alaska, was reached yesterday by telephone and told about the $5,500,000 purchase.

When told that according to baseball law he could not be interested in two major league teams at the same time, Crosby said:

"I'd gone into that before, and understood I could buy a little of the Detroit club. I'm pretty sure I can have part of the Tigers and still keep my piece of the Pirates."

Detroit Murder Trial Goes to Jury Today

DETROIT (INS) — The murder trial of Mrs. Victoria Hermiz and Maurice Hamilton was expected to go to the jury today after more than five weeks of testimony relating the knife-killing of her husband, Aziz.

Today, Asst. Prosecutor Joseph G. Rashid was to finish his closing argument in which he charged the pair plotted to kill Aziz as late as last Christmas.

The prosecution charges that Hamilton committed the murder in February for money and Mrs. Hermiz took part in it because of her love affair with the 19-year-old Baghdad student and her dissatisfaction with her husband.

Defense attorneys for Hamilton argued throughout the trial that he is innocent and confessed to the crime because of police brutality while Mrs. Hermiz's lawyers have contended she is hopelessly insane and has been for some time.

Recorder's Judge Frank Schemanske said he will give the jury its instructions immediately after the prosecution concludes its arguments. It is expected they will be allowed to deliberate late into the night if necessary.

Debate Begins on Hell's Canyon

Federal, Private Control War Imminent as Bill Reaches Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans and Democrats alike jumped the gun and opened Senate debate today on Hells Canyon dam.

Debate was supposed to open later this week on legislation to authorize a federal dam in the Hells Canyon stretch of the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon.

Republican opponents of the proposal started getting in their licks this morning. Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) was prepared to deliver a 5,000-word speech supporting the federal dam proposal.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) accused Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler of "pressuring" party leaders in Congress into using a "six-gun technique" to get the bill out of committee.

'HANKY-PANKY?'

He said Hells Canyon bills were "bartered against" another bill. He didn't say which one but apparently referred to legislation to authorize the Colorado Frying Pan-Arkansas project.

There were reports some days ago that supporters of the Colorado project had agreed to support moves to get the Hells Canyon bill out of committee if the Democratic leadership would help spring the Colorado Bill from committee.

This, Goldwater said, "smacks of six-gun technique."

A close fight is expected over whether Congress should authorize the 484 - million - dollar proposal which apparently would nullify the FPC license for a three-dam plan which Idaho power estimates would cost 133 million.

Dope Suspect Bond Increased

City Judge McCallum Raises It to $25,000 After Threat Report

Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum today raised the bond of alleged-dope conspirator Roy White, 22, of 173 Bagley St., to $25,000 after Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor told the judge White had threatened a prosecution witness.

The reported intimidation occurred during a recess in this morning's continued pre-trial examination of 15 alleged dope conspirators.

Earlier, White was out on bond of $1,000.

Taylor told Judge McCallum he heard White tell witness Sunny Samples that he faced a rough future if he testified against the defendants.

Taylor also told the judge that Samples has been beaten "several times" since the defendants were released on bond.

During the examination of the defendants, Det. Herbert Cooley testified that defendant Miss Eddie May Yates, 28, told him that a can containing heroin found behind her 426½ S. Saginaw St. apartment belonged to Paul Baity, who was living in the same apartment.

Cooley added that Miss Yates had used it (contents of the can) that day. Cooley said Miss Yates told him Baity bought the contents of the can in Detroit, and was selling it from the apartment.

The detective added that Miss Yates named all the other defendants in the trial as having purchased dope from Baity.

Following a luncheon recess, the pre-trial examination continued.

Jet Base Downed

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the items in the two-billion-dollar military construction bill vetoed yesterday by President Eisenhower was authority for the Air Force to build a jet fighter base near Manistee, Mich.

Ringling Trades In Big Top for Hard Top

attempt to organize some of the workers, resulted in picketing at the entrances at every stop this year.

Wind shredded the "big top" at Geneva, N. Y., two weeks ago.

In Alliance, Ohio, the circus had played up to its hubs in mud. Mud earlier this week balked attempts at Meadville, Pa., to raise the heavy portable bleachers forcing the show to play to an all-standing audience for the first time in its long history.

En route to Pittsburgh from Ohio, the circus—which travels aboard 80 silver railroad cars—was halted twice by railroad difficulties and some units were four hours late reaching the Steel City.

But the big top has survived worse troubles since it started as a tiny wagon show in 1884.

What time they had was reserved mostly for the abrupt end of the season, and its consequent unemployment for some 1,500 of them.

Animal trainer Trevor Bale, who is performing this year in a cage full of tigers, knows his cats will be fed in the long off-season, but wonders what he will do to support his wife and three children the rest of the year.

300 YEARS OF CIRCUS

He recalls, however, his family has been "circus" for three centuries and he can probably get a quick job as a trick cyclist or in some other act if necessary.

His 14 - year - old daughter, Claire, who is a part-time performer, is happy to go back south. Her colt, "Kismet," has been reported ailing and she wants to find out what is wrong with him.

Three-foot, ten-inch Frankie Saluto, who has been with the show as a clown ever since it combined with the Barnum & Bailey circus in 1919, said he was almost as stunned by Ringling's announcement as he was by the tragic fire which struck the show at Hartford, Conn., in 1944.

Saluto quipped that he and his fellow midgets might consider appearances in a "smallest show on earth."

But he became serious long enough to remark that the next job in sight for many of his small co-workers might be as Santa Claus helpers next Christmas.

Many performers heard the news of closing for the first time when interviewed. Dancer Marton Kroos, in his first season with the show, remarked: "Oh well, it's not permanent. They're only closing for a few days, aren't they?"

MAY NOT GO BACK

Paul Rice, another clown and former vaudevillian, said he might not return to Sarasota but would try to take up one of the offers he received earlier in the year. Rice, 82, has been with the circus on and off since before the turn of the century.

Dick Anderson, a "catcher" in the Sabre Jets trapeze team, thought immediately of many "foreign" acts involving 90 cast members. He said:

"A lot of them will be disillusioned over the show closing. Many of the acts have just come over from Europe and won't have enough money yet to go back."

Pinita Del Oro, who specializes in standing on her head on a swinging bar high above the ground, has been with the big top since leaving Spain—about seven years ago—and she too sympathized with fellow Europeans who might be stranded by the show's sudden closing.

However, like most of their fellow performers, Anderson and Pinita thought there would be little difference between working under canvas and in North's "air-conditioned arenas."

The consensus was that the circus—with its 600 elephants, lions, tigers, horses and other animals—will be bigger and better than ever, even if converted into a "hard top" operation.

STILL SNEAK IN

Sam Elterman, the "front door superintendent," predicts even the age-old practice of small boys slipping into the show will be practically unchanged.

Glancing at the circus crowd, which he estimated contained 150 boys who worked their way in through the traditional "carrying water for the elephants" and other odd jobs, he said:

"Mr. North has always had a soft spot for the small boys. I've seen him spot a dozen or so kids and say 'Let those kids in.' That won't change."

Youth Out on Bond in Breakin Charge

A Berkley youth was bound over to the Oakland County Circuit Court on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time Monday following an arraignment in Justice Court.

Denns W. Myers, 17, was lodged in the county jail under $2000 bond and will appear in circuit court July 30.

He allegedly stole a car and $3 from a cash register in a break-in last Friday at a Berkley service station. Myers was arrested Saturday by State Police along with a juvenile who also was believed to have taken part in the breakin.

Berkley Justice Ralph Finley conducted the arraignment.

The Day in Birmingham

Maple-Bates Alley Plan Brings Cost Objections

BIRMINGHAM—Property owners of a downtown business block discussed at length the pros and cons of a city-proposed alley last night.

The alley is the city's suggestion to solve unloading problems for stores in the block, bounded by Maple, Bates, Martin and Henrietta.

Cost, estimated by City Engineer G. R. Sereubetz at $7,850, would be excessive, according to several property owners. Another objection raised would be cutting through of lots. lots.

The alley would be an L-shaped form through the block from Bates to Maple, and would run along the back lot lines of lots fronting on Martin and Maple.

Objections and support balanced about evenly in the discussion at the preliminary hearing on the alley.

The route would facilitate rubbish pickup, provide delivery service, fuel truck delivery, and police and fire protection and minimize service drive needs, according to William H. Burgum, planning board chairman.

Ownership of the properties was questioned in case of several lots, especially those that the Siegel company had optioned to buy. The study began when Max Broock, Inc., last Feb. 20 asked for a loading zone for the property west of the Kresge building. Broock's request was denied.

Shain Park's Christmas tree will be replaced and space will be reserved for the Nativity scene in the new landscaping plan for the park that edges the downtown district.

Other plans approved last night are for removal of smaller plants, replacing the old walk with new concrete, using trees in a new design, creating a mall possibly with a fountain and seats leading to the Christmas tree and Nativity scene, and reserving an area for flower arrangements and displays by the garden club and other civic groups.

A demand for a city decision on routing of the widening of Park street at Hamilton was submitted last night by George Cram, on behalf of property owners, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gafill.

Part of the plan for Parking Lot 3-A, the widening has taken too long Cram said. Leasing of the home on the corner is impossible without a decision, and billing for assessments for the lot's construction has been inconsistent on what property will be left on the Gafill lot, he charges.

"We anticipated a bit more than actually materialized," said J. L. Ward Jr., of the Suburban Shopper, Inc., bus firm as he announced the firm's stopping of operations.

A bid for the automobile parking system bonds, at slightly under four per cent interest for the $305,000 was accepted by commissioners last night.

Agreements with property owners to retain parts of their properties along the Rouge River as flood plain are being recorded today with the register of deeds.

The handbill ordinance, proposed for adoption at last night's meeting, was tabled until next week because the matter did not come up for discussion until midnight.

Unemployment Row Continues

Williams Chides GOP for 'Inactivity' While UAW Workers Rally

LANSING (AP) — Republicans renewed the attack on Gov. Williams' unemployment compensation proposal as legislators drifted into the capitol today to resume study on the subject.

In the meantime, several hundred jobless auto workers prepared to rally a few blocks away.

Gov. Williams, who greeted the reassembled lawmakers with a sharp verbal spur to action, planned to address the gathering in the Civic Center sponsored by the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

His Republican rivals for the governor's chair, Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit and Donald S. Leonard, were campaigning elsewhere and, although invited, were not expected to put in an appearance at the rally.

FEIKENS ATTACK

Before leaving for the Civic Center, Williams sent to the Senate and House a message chiding the legislators for inactivity and saying it was time "to cut through the statistical fog that has been raised around" the jobless pay issue.

Judy Garland Wows Vegas at Record Pay

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Judy Garland started a new phase in her long and sometimes stormy career last night with a triumphant night club debut at a salary that may set a record.

* * *

The paycheck for the former Frances Gumm of vaudeville has been reported at $55,000 weekly for the four-week date at the New Frontier. Hotel officials were tight-lipped as British diplomats. But first nighters seemed to agree that whatever the bill it was worth it.

Judy was smash. She had the hep audience enthralled from the moment she walked on stage to sing, "Let's Have a Party," until the curtain closed on her amid 12 floral displays.

"For the first time in my life I wasn't nervous before the show," Judy said afterward at a champagne reception. "I decided to heck with getting the shakes this time."

* * *

Judy sang 15 songs in her lusty, tremulous voice. She kidded with the 700 diners—at $25 a couple. And at one point she paused to have the conductor fix a clip in her hair.

"I loved it," she enthused afterward. "It's so much nicer to see people around tables enjoying themselves rather than sitting stiffly in theater seats."

She said she plans to take the show, which was produced by her husband Sid Luft, to the Palace in New York and to London, possibly at the Colisseum.

Senate Finally OKs Judge's Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff at last can serve on the court to which he was appointed a year ago.

Overriding strong Southern opposition, the Senate last night voted 64-19 to confirm President Eisenhower's nomination of Sobeloff to be a judge of the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

* * *

Sobeloff's nomination was the most hotly disputed of any submitted by Eisenhower this session. Southern senators had blocked the appointment for more than a year, contending Sobeloff is "prejudiced" against the South on the school segregation issue.

Sobeloff, a Baltimore resident, is a former chief judge of Maryland State Court of Appeals.

Fiesta a la Hart

HART (AP) — The downtown section of Hart will look like a miniature Mexico City July 20-21. That's when Rotarians sponsor their ninth annual Mexican Fiesta, complete with serapes and sombreros. The colorful event is a goodwill gesture to the Mexicans and Latin-Americans who come to Western Michigan to work on farms during the harvest season.

British Students Storm Marilyn's Retreat—to Sing

LONDON (INS) — Sixty students invaded the grounds of Marilyn Monroe's honeymoon retreat early today to serenade the delectable blonde.

The high-spirited 60 from Shoreditch Training College lifted the big, padlocked gates from their hinges, then swarmed up the long drive of Englefield Green, formed below Marilyn's bedroom window and burst into song.

They opened the unscheduled program with the Twenty-third Psalm, switched to a ribald ballad called "The Vicar" and then launched a college yell.

Even the yell failed to bring Marilyn or husband Arthur Miller to the window.

With the entire house remaining dark, the students sang softly "Goodnight Lady, Sleep Tight," concluding with "Why Was She Born So Beautiful" as they returned along the drive.

Ike Asks Congress To Revive School Aid

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower sounded a new plea today for passage of a school aid bill before Congress adjourns, but got little encouragement from his legislative lieutenants.

* * *

The chief executive went over the list of legislation still awaiting action by Congress at a White House meeting with GOP Congressional leaders.

House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin, of Mass., said after the meeting that the chances of reviving the school construction bill are "pretty slim," if Congress is to adjourn next week.

The still-convalescing Chief Executive put in nearly five hours at his desk Monday, his first day back on the job in Washington since his operation 38 days ago.

Busy Schedule for Commission

Hassle Looms Over Railroad Yard

Protests from GMC Truck and Coach Local 594 UAW and the Wever - Owen - Hawthorne Community Club against a proposed industrial railroad support yard on the north side of Pontiac, are expected to highlight a 26-point slate waiting City Commissioners tonight.

* * *

The Grand Trunk Western Railway is seeking permission to build a $700,000 yard in an area south of Walton boulevard, north of the railroad's belt line and between Stanley and Baldwin Avenues. The yard, the Railway says, is necessary to carry freight for both Fisher Body and Pontiac Motor plants.

City Manager W. K. Willman is expected to give a progress report on current city projects.

Also sharing a place on the agenda is the introduction and first reading of an ordinance to rezone 21 lots in the proposed park-library site opposite Pontiac High School.

UNDER DISCUSSION

Willman will report on the following projects: Public improvement work in the city; public safety building; new fire station; airport and Pontiac General Hospital expansion programs; $600,000 municipal parking lot project; water supply situation for Pontiac, and numerous minor projects.

City Attorney William A. Ewart was instructed last week to proceed on rezoning the lot opposite the high school after the commission learned that O. L. Beaudette offered to deed eight acres he owns in the block if it eventually be converted into a park-library site.

There will be a public hearing on rezoning to Residential 3 of lots 89-99 in the Washington Park Subdivision with possible adoption of the rezoning ordinance.

* * *

The proposed rezoning to Commercial 2 of lots 1-9 on the northeast side of Norton between Florence and Johnson will be discussed in the introduction and first reading of an ordinance.

ASSESSMENT HEARINGS

A public hearing will be continued on the planned construction of a sanitary sewer on Durant Street from Pershing to Inglewood. Grand Trunk Railroad is expected to submit a request that their property in the area be excluded from the assessment district.

* * *

Public hearings will also be held on special assessment rolls to cover the following projects:

Curb, gutter, grade, graveling and related work for Riverside Drive from Maines to Tasmania and for Maines Avenue from Roselawn to Tasmania.

Grade, graveling and related work on Bond Drive from East Boulevard north to the west line of the Green and Sarko Subdivision No. 1.

Sanitary sewer in Riverside Drive from the trunk sewer to 70 feet west.

Re-construction of a sidewalk, change of grade and related work on the south side of East Pike Street from Mariva to Jessie.

The city attorney will report on a deed received from the Detroit Edison Co. for a land parcel needed to straighten a boundary of Murphy Park.

OTHER BUSINESS

Reports from the attorney and the City Plan Commission regarding a deed and possible rezoning of four lots in Joslyn Gardens Subdivision are slated to be acted on by the city commissioners.

Two additional reports from the Planning Commission concerning its approval of the Sallee Woods and Featherstone plats are listed on the agenda.

Confirmation of three blacktop pavement projects in the city is expected.

Received bids on the sale of lot 64 in the Homestead Park Subdivision No. 1 will be announced; and approval of a contract between the city of Lewis Kevorkian for construction of water mains is slated.

* * *

A communication from the attorney for Charles Hooks asking food license approval for the Quality Bar BQ at 178 S. Saginaw St. will be aired by the city clerk.

Karelo-Finn Republic Is Voted Out of Being

MOSCOW (AP)—The Supreme Soviet today voted the Karelo-Finnish Republic out of existence.

* * *

Otto Kuusinen, until today president of that far north area, told delegates the territory should be absorbed as an autonomous republic within the Russian Republic—the biggest of the U.S.S.R.'s 16. There will now be 15. Kuusinen said population of the Karelo-Finnish republic had become 75 per cent Russian and only 25 per cent Finnish over the years. Moreover, he said, the republic has not fulfilled state plans for many years and its agriculture h as lagged badly.It would be an economical step, cutting down and simplifying governmental structure, Kuusinen added.

* * *

It was decided the new state would be known as the Karelian Autonomous Republic instead of Karelo-Finnish.

Treaty Ratified

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Senate has ratified the 1951 San Francisco peace treaty with Japan, ending the 11-year technical state of war between the two World War II enemies. The vote was 18-0, with 3 abstaining and 3 absent.

Bob Considine Says:

Philosophies Collide Over Social Security

NEW YORK (INS) — Two basic philosophies of government have collided in the case of HR7225, the congressional bill that has to do with an extension of social security to provide slightly earlier payoffs to women and benefits to all who have reached 50 and successfully claim disability.

We had a talk about this with Sen. Walter F. George, the Georgia Democrat, over the weekend.

He said he has plugged hard for this legislation because he feels the "weakest spot" in the social security system has been the rigid rule that a contributor to this pot gets no return until he-she is 65.

Sen. George, who is approaching 80, is soon to embark on a wholly new and active career, that of ambassador to the NATO nations. The durable veteran said that if he had his way he would provide for social security payoffs to persons much younger than 50. "But 50 will do for a beginning," he added.

He doesn't think HR7225 will add "substantially" to the employe rolls of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, nor that it is a step toward socialized medicine.

He feels it will cost $350,000,000 the first year, said he couldn't estimate what it might cost in the future, and believes that the disability-at-50 payments could be made out of a special fund created by an extra social security bite of one-half of 1 per cent.

"I think the bill, with its various amendments, will pass the Senate but I don't really know," the Georgian concluded.

Health Secretary Marion Folsom, representing President Eisenhower's views, told us:

"If this bill passes it will cost social security taxpayers nearly a billion dollars a year by 1980. But the thing that is important to the administration, in addition, is that the whole endeavor for the country should be directed toward keeping people productive longer.

"Medical science has added years and years to the life expectancy. This bill is a step in the opposite direction.

"Women who accept $80 a month at 62, instead of waiting three years and collecting $100 a month, will have to settle for $80 the rest of their time, according to this bill.

"A man of 50, which is not an old man today, will be tempted to surrender to such ailments as he might have—if he feels the federal government will take care of him—instead of having the incentive to rehabilitate himself as countless people have.

"The federal government is already aiding the states in caring for about a quarter of a million disabled people. But this bill would put the government in the insurance business.

"There would be countless claims of disability, tax increases, and a great burden on doctors and federal boards called upon to ascertain the authenticity of the claims.

"The Senate Finance Committee voted 11-3 against the disability clause, after the remarks of Sen. Byrd. Quite a few Democrats will vote against it on the floor, and most Republicans will support the administration.

Dr. Elmer Hess, past president of the AMA, declares that the bill "could break the social security bank." All incentive to fight back against the failures of the flesh will dissolve, he declares.

The bill, he adds, "is a political gimmick to catch the votes of those who for sentimental reasons feel that politicians may be doing a humanitarian service for our people."

Started 20 Years Ago Today

Spanish Civil War Still Causing Trouble in West

MADRID, Spain (AP)—The Spanish Civil War started 20 years ago today. The seeds of desunity sown then in the world of Western democracy are still bearing fruit.

The international dictators—Nazi and Fascist on the one hand and Communist on the other—first came to grips here. Both profited from the lessons learned.

But the bitterness of the conflict set off 20 years of impassioned debate and soul-searching and brought the Western democracies to the brink of disaster.

* * *

Inflamed by the debate, many liberals and conservatives joined organizations to help one side or the other, only to discover later that they were directed by hidden Communist or Fascist masters. Many paid for it in degradation and dishonor.

Appeasement, hesitation and doubt, set in train in the Western democracies by the divided sympathies in the Spanish Civil war, led to the mockery of "nonintervention" and grew to full flower in the spirit of Munich.

* * *

The Spanish Civil War began at 4:10 the hot afternoon of July 17, 1936, at Melilla, a town of 50,000 in Spanish Morocco, when the Spanish army revolted against the Spanish Republic. Next day the rebellion spread to the Spanish mainland and became the three-year civil war that was to claim a million lives.

* * *

It also became a preview of World War II. Fascist and Communist dictators used Spain as a proving ground. Men and women from nearly every country fought and died here. Spain and the Spanish people were more or less incidental, but when it was over Spain had joined a growing list of totalitarian countries.

On the republic's side, Soviet Russia was represented by political commissars and officers, tank corps and flyers. International leftism, or antifascism as it was then called, sent the famed "International Brigades" from Canada, France and the United States. There also were brigades of German and Italian exiles.

* * *

In the opposing nationalist camp were the German Condor Legion of aviators, the Italian Expeditionary Corps and the Portuguese Viriatos Legion. There is no official estimate of the total non-Spanish forces. But Portugal is believed to have sent 15,000 "volunteers," Germany about the same number, all technicians, Italy nearly 100,000.

Republican estimates say there were about 25,000 men in the International Brigades, though some were Spaniards. All told it is believed there were about 5,000 Russians.

* * *

It was a war of "firsts": the "Molotov cocktail," the bottle of gasoline to knock out tanks; the "fifth column" of underground subversives; the attack of three parallel columns later used by the Russians against the Germans in World War II.

On April 26 and 27, 1937, another first horrified the civilized world. The German Condor Legion unleashed its Stukas against the village of Guernica, sacred center to Basques. For two days the waves of divebombers dropped cargoes of death and destruction on the village of 3,000, leaving it in rubble.

* * *

What caused the army to revolt against a Republican government that had started so bravely in 1931?

For hundreds of years the army, meaning the officers from colonel up, has been Spain's fundamental political force. Normally it permitted the civilian regime to run the country with a minimum of interference as long as it maintained order, accorded sufficient respect and privileges to the military, and refrained from radical political experiments.

The Republican government violated all three conditions, and in the bargain tried to break the army's power by persuading officers to retire.

* * *

The brain of the army revolt was Lt. Gen. Emilio Mola, a tall soldier, born in Cuba of Spanish parents. Gen. Francisco Franco, third in line for the high command at the start, was appointed commander in chief by the nationalist military junta Sept. 29, and two days later was proclaimed chief of state—the job he holds today.

The nationalists, with a handful of men, captured Sevilla, Cadiz, Algeciras and Huelva with surprising speed. They were assured a bridgehead in the South for troops which won Spanish Morocco in a single day. German planes began ferrying them to the mainland in probably the world's first airlift.

* * *

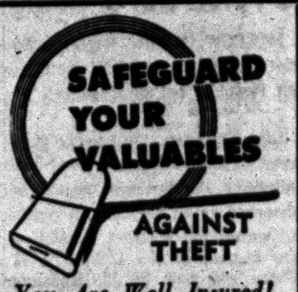

The nationalists won a five-day battle for the mountain passes north and west of Madrid on July 27 and hemmed the capital in from that side for the rest of the conflict.

Madrid did not surrender until March 28, 1939, two days after the old government had fled to France.

Plastics-industry experts expect the country's total production of plastics, which amounted to 3.6 billion pounds in 1955, to top six billion by 1960 and rocket to 22 billion by 1975.

Sound Advice for Baldies

Relax, Relax and Relax — and Restore Falling Hair

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Dr. S. J. Van Pelt advises bald-headed men that relaxation is the best way to keep a head of hair.

* * *

"Relaxing is probably the best restorer of hair," he said. "relaxation will dispel tension and give the hair a chance."

Van Pelt is president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists.

"Raising hope," he said in an interview, "may even raise hair. So, avoid depressing remarks about baldness being inevitable or hereditary. Hope yourself into a head of hair."

* * *

It was suggested that the doctor take a look at the reporter's bald dome.

"Well," said Van Pelt, hedging a little, "you can always hope, but, er, frankly, you perhaps should have started hoping some years ago. However, don't give up. Just keep thinking you have lots of hair."

Van Pelt said not many facts are known about baldness, "but one thing is certain — there are more bald-headed men than bald-headed women."

He said men tend to bottle up their emotions, whereas women are more likely to let go and obtain relief in a flood of tears.

"Men use their brains more than women," he said. "No doubt increased brain activity drains blood from the scalp and starves the hair."

The doctor said that men who can let themselves go and express their innermost feelings in various ways are inclined to have more hair than other men.

* * *

"I refer," he said, "to musicians, actors and artists. They are usually well endowed with flowing locks."

Dr. Van Pelt has a full head of hair himself.

WHAT'S IN A SIGNATURE?

If it's an autograph secured at a stage door . . . or the signature on a run-of-mine letter . . . it's not very important.

BUT, if it's the signature on your insurance policy and on the covering letters that accompany it, it's ALL IMPORTANT. Those are the names of the companies and the men who stand behind you as your protection against crippling loss.

The signature of your insurance agent is particularly important. He is the man who stakes his professional reputation on the insurance coverage he has written for you. He is the man who intercedes for and represents YOU when you suffer loss.

Ask yourself now, "Whose signature is protecting me?" If it is the name of a reputable, ethical agent, breathe easy. Your insurance is in the hands of an expert — a professional man who will be there when you need him. IF NOT, think now before it is too late — have you bought a "bargain" when you really meant to buy complete, thorough protection?

Maybe Grandmother Had the Best Answer

Now Only Glamor Eludes, Puzzles Women

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Now that medicine has removed most dangers of childbirth, and Kinsey has divulged most secrets of sex, there is only one great stumbling block facing the chic sex.

* * *

It is: "What is glamor—honest, now—and how do I get it?"

The whole picture is most confusing in this age of exploitation, when there are dozens of types of feminine exhibitionism being flaunted and none is particularly consistent with another.

For example, the fashion dress houses and the reducing salons, two powerful commercial forces with a lot of money to throw away on trend-setting, want a woman to be slim unto gaunt. They hint, in their ads for malnutrition, that a lady is somewhat of a sow if she allows herself to outgrow a size 10 sheath.

* * *

They differ, however, on how she should carry her underweight . . . with the reducing people suggesting an upright, shoulderblades-back sort of posture, and the fashion folks urging a hipbones-out slouch (or "the sophisticate sag.")

The movie glamor is, in many ways, more broad. Particularly above the waist.

* * *

Hollywood is plumping for the hour-glass figure as opposed to fashion's fencepost look. And they release (from the confinement of girdles, among other things) such personalities as Marilyn, Jane and Diana to prove how allegedly alluring this wavy torso can be.

Television has yet another approach to glamor. They go for either the "extraordinary ordinary" girl, like the girl next door with neuroses; or for the slick homespun type (the Betty Furness bubbly) who wears cute aprons while giving formal dinner parties.

On the fringe of this glamor-whatsit picture are outfits like the "Miss America" contestmeisters who say that talent is a girl's real source of loveliness, and the "Mrs. America" people who hint that the true secret of charm lies in a fast, lighthearted darning of socks.

* * *

And through it all, men continue to marry women like Barbara Hutton who neither waves nor slouches, recites Shakespeare or darns.

What precedent is a girl who is seeking a place in the sun, or even better the moonlight, to follow?

MANY OFFER ADVICE

There are many who would give advice. Lilly Dache says that glamor is simple self-assurance or lack of self-consciousness—the ability to make others feel at home around you.

Elsa Schiaparelli says it is a flair. Marlene Dietrich knows it as daring. Most men probably would say glamor in a woman is her ability to make a man feel he is the only he in the world.

But maybe the best advice is a tidbit of philosophy my grandmother used to dole out to her female descendents at the least provocation. It wasn't a prescription for the attainment of glamor, but somehow it fits.

"Know yourself, good and bad," she would say. "Then forget the bad, and make the good better than anybody else."

White House Aides to Join Ike in Panama

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today a seven-member delegation will accompany President Eisenhower to Panama. It includes the President's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and the White House physician, Dr. Howard Snyder.

* * *

Eisenhower leaves Friday for the meeting of American presidents in Panama. He will start home next Monday night, a day later than originally planned.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the extra day was arranged so that the President "can visit informally with some of the other presidents."

* * *

Other members of the official party will include Secretary of State Dulles, Sherman Adams, the President's chief assistant; Henry F. Holland, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs; Cmdr. Edward L. Beach, the President's naval aide, and Hagerty.

CD Drill Slated for 76 Cities in U.S., Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seven-day nationwide Civil Defense drill will begin Friday, testing the nation's ability to recover from simulated atomic attack on 76 industrial and military centers.

* * *

President Eisenhower, his Cabinet, other top officials and hundreds of lesser federal workers will "evacuate" their Washington offices in advance of the mock attack. They will go to secret relocation centers in a dozen states.

From these hideaways they will go through the motions of restoring a shattered economy and preparing for a major war effort.

State and local Civil Defense units will be called on to cope with vast destruction and as many as 20 million first-day casualties.

* * *

Eisenhower's participation in the exercise, which will also cover some Canadian cities, will be interrupted Friday night when he flies to Panama for a conference of Western Hemisphere presidents.

The Woods Are Green

What is so beautiful as a fern?

One of these woodsy plants, by itself, is a marvelous thing to see and to study. Each leaf seems perfect, and its green is infinitely restful, darker near the center of the leaf, lighter near its edge.

★ ★ ★

Each leaf of the fern is sword-shaped, yet there is nothing warlike about this forest plant. Its whole life seems dedicated to bringing additional beauty into our lives.

There is much that is old and worn out in the woods. You can see some of the dead branches hanging from the trees, if the woods are not well kept.

And if you dig down among the ferns you will find old, rotten and rotting logs and limbs, ants eating away at their remains; and millions of leaves. All about you are young trees raising their heads as they start their long climb toward the sky. And down here underneath is all that remains of an older tree generation.

And that is where the ferns come in. They not only provide their own form of beauty in the woods. They also cover the dead leaves and branches, so that to our eyes new life is everywhere and we see a whole world of green.

I hate to mention it, but if you poke around among the ferns long enough you may even come across a discarded tin can, mute evidence that some members of a so-called civilized race shed their veneer of civilization as soon as home is out of sight. Thoughtlessly they forget that there are trash cans, and toss their refuse out with never a care as to who may pass that way, perhaps not even cognizant of the beauty they despoil.

But the ferns rise up to hide the cans, even as they do the logs, and they keep the forest green throughout the long months of Summer until finally they feel Winter's icy touch and lie down, their task completed.

★ ★ ★

So, the next time you are out among the ferns, admiring their beauty of form and color, you may remember also what consummate artists they are at camouflage. Beautiful themselves, they strive to make all about them beautiful.

Cowboys in Jeeps

It's a steadily changing world. For years the automobile has been eliminating the horse. Now the trend has hit the western cattle ranges. The cowboys are riding in jeeps.

Good thing the cowboys have picked out jeeps for their mounts. If they used some of these new hardtop models, that beautiful leather upholstery would take an awful beating as the hard riding lads dug in their spurs after leaping into their saddles.

★ ★ ★

But one other detail contained in a report from Texas says that the modern day cowboy uses dictating machines for making counts of cattle. Imagine that!

Probably some of those beautiful Texas stenographers are waiting in air conditioned ranch offices to take the dictation from those machines. Chances are the stenogs would prefer to do their work in the jeeps, even though the latter are not yet equipped with posture chairs.

★ ★ ★

What a contrast this news dispatch from Texas presents when placed beside one of those typical Hollywood Westerns.

Do you suppose the movies will ever bring out one with the 1956 equipment? Here's a nickel says it never will happen.

It's Better to Wait

One of the Press' most popular columnists, Earl Wilson, includes a comment in each of his columns which he modestly lists under the heading of "Earl's Pearls." Some of them contain a lot of meat.

★ ★ ★

A recent Pearl ran as follows: "Safety note: It takes a train an average of fourteen seconds to pass a crossing — whether your car is on the crossing or not."

★ ★ ★

There is a thought which every reader may well take to heart.

The railroad train runs on a track. It isn't supposed to leave the track. To manage to get hit by a train a motorist has to drive onto or across the track. This is usually accomplished at a grade crossing.

★ ★ ★

All too often the accident occurs out in the country with a clear view for everybody. It is simply a case of the driver of the car believing he had time to beat the train across. That was the situation Mr. Wilson was thinking about when he penned his Pearl.

★ ★ ★

His interestingly worded warning suggests that the train may be going faster than you think. If you are ever tempted to enter such a contest, think of Earl's Pearl. It's wiser to wait.

The Man About Town

Remember This?

A Bit of History That Should Make You Cooler

Vacation: Often an occasion when you get convinced that you should have known better than go there.

Several readers have reminded me that we have just passed the anniversary of something they wish they could forget. 'Twas 20 years ago that the Pontiac area experienced the hottest week in its history. In fact, we since have had only one or two individual days when the mercury made such a threat to boil out the tube.

There were seven days, July 8 to 14, 1936, that the temperature went above the 100 mark every day, reaching 109 twice during that week. The humidity also went for tops There were several prostrations in the city and a few deaths were attributable to the heat. Corn and all other growing crops wilted in the fields.

So, when Old Man Fahrenheit now shoves it into the upper 80s or low 90s, just reflect on what he did 20 years ago —and keep cool.

David Lawrence Says:

Who Killed the School Aid Bill?

WASHINGTON—Who killed the school bill with its billions of federal money for education? That's still an unanswered question on Capitol Hill, where it may become known as the "mess of 1956."

* * *

It's too bad the "right to know" doctrine—espoused by the House committee which is seeking to rid official Washington of its tendency to suppress news—doesn't extend to the behind-the-scenes maneuvers of party leaders in Congress who pull the strings.

For the full story of what happened ought to be told. Four explanations are being offered. One is that the segregationists of the South killed the bill. The other is that the integrationists of the North did it. Another is that those who didn't want any federal interference in the financing of the schools were influential in the result and that they were alarmed because of recent Supreme Court decisions whittling down states' rights and increasing federal authority.

Eisenhower had already gone a long way in trying to get the bill passed. He had said once before that anything like the Powell amendment, denying federal aid to schools in Southern states which do not adopt integration, shouldn't be tacked on to the bill. This was a daring expression on his part—a concession to expediency over and above principle.

POWELL'S PROPOSAL

But what did happen? Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Democrat and one of the Negro leaders of the country, offered his amendment anyhow. It presented an issue which Republican congressmen from districts where there are many Negro voters couldn't dodge. No amount of persuasion from Eisenhower could keep them from voting for the Powell amendment.

As for the Southern congressmen, they abstained from voting so as to make sure the Powell amendment supporters would have a majority. They wanted the final measure to be unpalatable on every side.

But there are northern Republicans—about 65 of them—who don't believe in federal control of education and they, too, voted for the Powell amendment because they knew it would help kill the bill. On final passage, they joined with the Southern Democrats to make a majority against the entire bill.

PLAN REPUDIATED

Also important was the action of Northern Democrats who helped to defeat amendments, proposed by Republicans, allocating the funds on the basis of the needs of the states. This principle had previously been endorsed, but the Democrats repudiated it. The final bill, therefore, was unsatisfactory to Northern Republicans who favored federal aid and Southern Democrats who didn't, and thus was readily defeated.

The truth is there are four parties in Congress today. There hasn't been a two-party system for two decades, and recent decisions of the Supreme Court curtailing states' rights mean that the four-party bloc system will remain for many more years to come.

A significant aftermath of the school bill controversy is the discovery by Southern Democrats of how near they came to being tricked by the argument that, if the measure were passed without the Powell amendment, they should have no objection to it. For the fact is that federal funds could be withheld even without the Powell amendment or its counterpart. The administration has a legal opinion from the Department of Justice which is being used every day by the President's interracial commission. It claims the right of the federal government at any time to cancel any contract with any agency, public or private, which permits discrimination in employment on the basis of "race or creed or color or national origin."

TEXT KEPT SECRET

The text of this important opinion has never been disclosed, though presumably the public has a right to know the exact contents of such an important document that supports an executive order.

It's the knowledge that a threat exists to use federal authority—even in the absence of a Powell amendment — to withhold funds from schools in the South which may prevent any school bill from ever being passed.

* * *

One wonders who is responsible for what the Southern Democrats did and for the votes of those Democrats who don't want federal interference in schools on any score. The theory that the presidency is a sort of benevolent dictatorship and that the Congress must become a "rubber stamp" has lately become popular doctrine with many of the so-called "liberals."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Complete Tonsil Removal Impossible, Avers Doctor

"In the hands of an expert, electro-coagulation (diathermy) offers a safe, simple, and satisfactory method of removing tonsils—a method definitely (sic) indicated in some instances and offering decided advantages in many adult cases."

This statement appeared in an advertisement of an instrument or apparatus for such treatment published in the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Now, as I have for years maintained and do still maintain, the method of choice for the treatment of infected tonsils is electro-coagulation (diathermy). But to my mind the statement quoted indicates that neither the vendors of the instrument or apparatus nor the omniscient authorities of the medical association knew what they were talking about when they caused the ad to appear in print.

It is plain stupid to think of electro-coagulation (diathermy) treatment as a method of "removing" tonsils. That the self-constituted master minds of the medical profession approved such a statement explains a great deal of the malpractice perpetrated by the ever-ready operators.

The attempt or pretense to "remove" the entire tonsil, of which the trick specialists prate, is based on ignorance of pathology and the medical merchant who sells it presumes upon the ignorance of the customer.

So I say "tonsillectomy" (total extirpation of the tonsil) is a misnomer. It is actually just a crude and dangerous tonsillotomy (clipping, removal of a portion of tonsil).

From their arguments it is evident that doctors who still perpetrate "tonsillectomy" on children with enlarged tonsils think round-cell tissue, lymphoid tossue, the tissue composing the tonsils is in itself somehow harmful. The truth is that round-cell or lymphoid tissue is normally present in many parts of the body and contributes to natural immunity.

If a school child with simple enlargement of the tonsils is not subject to ear aches or middle ear infection (ottis media), difficulty of breathing or perhaps of swallowing, or obvious thickness or muffling of speaking and singing voice, give the child a break—a summer in the open air, with a minimum of clothing. This generally shrinks the tonsils by the time the child returns to school in the fall.

If the child develops any of the conditions attributed to obstruction of breathing or drainage, the minor operation, tonsillotomy, instantaneous removal of the obstruction portion of tonsil with the guillotine can be done as safely and as quickly as the extraction of a tooth, without anesthesia, with local anesthesia or with general anesthesia, as circumstances may require.

The mortality from tonsillectomy is not as high as that from some other major operations, but even though the operator assures you that in his hands no such outcome need be feared, I repeat; tonsillectomy is always a major operation, with all the hazards of major surgery.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

'Press Reader' Explains Regulations of Cemetery

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Regarding the letter about the destruction of a grave, I wonder if the writer knows that cemeteries have regulations that are meant to keep the cemetery looking its best at every season.

I found this out the hard way. No artificial wreaths are allowed after spring. They are winter decorations. The wreaths were taken from my soldier son's grave, too.

Hal Boyle Says:

Science Sends Out SOS for More Girl Workers

NEW YORK (AP)—Women make up nearly a third of the nation's working force, but only 1 out of 20 scientific workers is a woman.

* * *

One of America's top industrial scientists said today the field of research is wide open for women —and that thousands are urgently needed. The pay range is from $4,000 a year to $12,000 or more, depending on ability.

MORE TECHNICIANS

"If we want to continue to be the scientific leader of the world, we are going to have to increase the size of our technological force," explained Dr. A. B. Kinzel. "Women are a factor and we can't overlook them.

"Industrial research right now could use 5,000 to 10,000 women a year — and more in the future."

* * *

Dr. Kinzel, at 56 the holder of more than 40 patents, is vice president in charge of research for the giant Union Carbide & Carbon Corp. He supervises 23 laboratories.

* * *

"We have 630 ranking scientists engaged in basic research, of whom only 23 are women," he continued. "But we'd like more. If we could find them, our firm alone could make room within a year or two for 500 young women with B. S. or Ph.D. degrees."

JUST AS BRAINY

Dr. Kinzel is a stout believer that women are just as brainy as men, and says the reason America has produced so few outstanding women scientists is simply because so few entered the field.

* * *

But more are now. Only 183 women were engaged in chemical research in 1941. Now there are about 1,000.

"When it comes to science," said Dr. Kinzel, "women may seem a bit more emotional and less objective than men. But they are also more intuitive and less inhibited in their thinking.

* * *

"In invention this is a great help. Inhibition of thought is a real block to inventiveness.

"Intelligent women are less likely than men to take it for granted that a thing can't be done. They are more likely, therefore, to come up with a fresh approach to a problem."

$600 A MONTH

A girl with a Ph.D. degree today can get $600 a month in research, twice the salary of a secretary. But Dr. Kinzel pointed out she also works in surroundings more pleasant than those in an average business office — and has more opportunity to meet and marry a man of her own professional and cultural class. A lot of her male coworkers in the test tube and bunsen burner set are bachelors.

* * *

"Scientific work is no deterrent to romance," said Dr. Kinzel emphatically. "And marriages between two people interested in science seem to work out better on the average than between people who don't share a similar interest.

"Nor does marriage need to terminate a woman's career. She can return to her job. If she's a good scientist, she can also at the same time be a good housewife and mother.

* * *

"There is no basic conflict. In fact there is less conflict, because in true science you don't work under a time pressure. No boss is standing over you demanding an immediate result."

FEELING OF SERVICE

Dr. Kinzel feels that in addition to the high pay, scientific work is attractive to women because it is peculiarly rewarding in terms of a feeling of service and personal achievement.

What about it, girls? Science helped free modern women from drudgery. How about the ladies pitching in now and helping free science?

Smiles

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Small College Must Support Itself

Smart college presidents like Charles are realizing that colleges must now help themselves in order to stay solvent. Confiscatory taxation has drained off much of the heavy gifts that formerly came to colleges via endowments. Small colleges are vital to the welfare of America, so scrapbook this case for future reference.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-314: Charles L., aged 42, is a dynamic college president.

"Dr. Crane, our North Central Association would like to have you address our meeting," he said.

"We know you are vitally interested in the preservation of the American small colleges.

* * *

"So could you please be with us all morning to talk to the college presidents on 'Better Public Relations Methods' and then be available for questions afterwards?"

COLLEGE INSURANCE

For many years American insurance salesmen have been selling college insurance policies to parents, so they can provide in advance for their child's university education after he leaves high school.

But all alert Americans should be vitally interested in the matter of insuring the integrity of our colleges.

State universities are supported by taxes. That is a coercive type of upkeep.

Most of our colleges depend upon tuition and private generosity of far-sighted Americans who realize the importance of educating leadership at the college level.

The confiscatory nature of taxes has now undermined much of the funds that used to be available for endowment. So we are forced to rely on smaller donations and more efficient operating strategy within the colleges themselves.

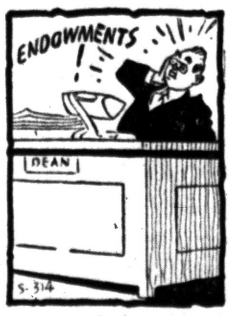

SMALL COLLEGE

One way by which we can help save the smaller colleges and meanwhile actually raise faculty salaries, is to increase the number of students per faculty member.

* * *

For example, I was asked a few years ago to try to rescue an Indiana college that was going bankrupt. It had one teacher per 4.5 students, which was obviously the reason it was insolvent.

The average college nowadays has a student faculty ratio of 12:1, but that is likewise inefficient economically.

For instance, the average high school in Chicago has a ratio of 24:1, and in our Chicago elementary schools the ratio of pupils to teacher is 32.1.

Colleges should strive to maintain at least the high school ratio of 24:1, for at $500 per pupil tuition rates, those extra 12 students would bring in an additional $6,000 per teacher in annual revenues.

Even if the professors got only part of that, it would materially boost their salaries and still leave a balance for upkeep and even new buildings.

At present, therefore, the ratio of 12:1, means the teachers attract only $6,000 worth of tuition money per faculty member. And that's not enough.

* * *

The average college pays its faculty members $5,000, so there isn't enough left of that $6,000 in tuition to cover much overhead.

But a student-teacher ratio of 24:1, would bring in $12,000 in tuitional revenues per faculty member.

Even if the teachers were then paid $8,000, the remaining $4,000 would be 400 per cent as much as the teacher now delivers for overhead.

GOD HELPS THOSE

"God helps those who help themselves," runs an old proverb which is being realized vividly by astute college presidents nowadays.

Since high school teachers handle 24 pupils apiece, certainly college profs could do likewise, and most of them would be glad at the opportunity if they knew it meant a big salary boost, as well as saving their college from bankruptcy.

With zooming university enrollments in the next decade, we must also schedule a second educational "shift", to begin at maybe 3 p.m. and run through till 10 p.m. This would really be the "profit" shift.

For the basic expenses of heat and equipment are already demanded by the present 8 a.m. shift. Except for teacher salaries, the other costs would be much less on that afternoon shift.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Stevenson Chalks Up 2nd Ballot Strength

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — An Associated Press poll indicated today that Indiana's 26-vote delegation would make a strong shift from Sen. Estes Kefauver to Adlai E. Stevenson if the Democratic National Conventon requires more than a single ballot to name the presidential nominee.

With 33 of 52 delegates replying to the poll, 17 said they would switch to Stevenson. Only two indicated they would stay with Kefauver in later balloting. Each delegate has half a vote.

The Indiana delegation is pledged to Kefauver for the first ballot only as a result of the Tennesseean's unopposed victory in the May 8 presidential preference primary.

Six delegates said they would vote for Gov. Averell Harriman of New York on the second ballot, five were for Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and four said they were undecided.

Suzie Soaks Suds on Sneak Sojourn

DETROIT (INS)—Suzie made her way to a Detroit tavern, hopped on a stool and rapped the bar for a drink.

Everyone in the place was flabergasted, excepting the bartender who remembered the pet spider monkey from a previous visit several weeks ago.

The first time, however, Suzie was accompanied by her owner who treated her to a soft drink.

Suzie escaped today while her cage was being cleaned, but instead of heading for a tree she went down to the tavern for "one on the house."

Officials said it may be a week or more before the line is repaired and open all the way.

Service was normal on the BMT line.

Looks Like Boss Mao Tse-tung

Reds Use Santa Claus as Trade Gimmick

By MARVIN STONE

BANGKOK (INS)—Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. But you would never recognize this one.

You wouldn't know him because he has distinctive Asian features and coloring. He looks like Chinese Communist party boss Mao Tse-tung behind a white beard.

But the face, the merry red costume and the brand name "Santa Claus" is on the wrapper of thousands of boxes of rolled oats all over Thailand, a country that is the home base of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

These are rolled oats that are made, distributed and sold by Communist China. They sell for 21 cents in Bangkok against 50 cents for rolled oats imported from the U.S.

TRADE GIMMICK

Santa is being used for merchandising purposes, along with other Western gimmicks, in a tremendous Chinese Communist trade drive in this part of Asia.

To give you an idea, here are some other Chinese items that you can find in just about every city and village in the country:

Men's belts for 40 cents; standard size toothpaste for 25 cents; a really dandy-looking thermos jug for $1 (but said to explode easily), and fountain pens for 20 cents.

No other country in the world not even free Japan, can start to compete against this new invasion of the rich southeast Asian market for prices.

U.S. GOODS TOPS

By comparison, Japanese goods are much superior. But even they are out of range for most people of southeast Asia. American goods, noted for quality, are usually but dreams for people who earn $10 a week at a good job.

The Communist goods are brought into Thailand by Chinese overseas trading firms, usually through Hong Kong. They are sold so cheaply to dealers and the profit is so high that these Chinese goods are the first to be merchandised. Dealers push them hard.

Along with the slippers and steel sewing needles and automatic pencils are plenty of propaganda items that are practically given away; Chinese picture books, magazines loaded with anti-American themes, children's games like "Monopoly" —only you know who gets the beating.

RESISTANCE SHOWN

There is certain consumer resistance to shabby goods everywhere, and Thailand is no exception. But the 3,000,000 overseas Chinese who live here—or one-sixth of the population—seeing Chinese mainland goods is a prestige thing, and they snap them up.

Most of the goods have English lettering on them as well as Chinese, possibly to entice Thai shoppers.

One of the fanciest Chinese products is a stimulant that some people in southeast Asia like very much.

It is made in the "Dragon Mountain Distilleries" in China and it is read spotted lizzard wine. It is simply a bottle of wine with a whole small lizard pickled in it.

It isn't very appetizing to look at, but, after all, it is merely a matter of tastes, and it appears that in Thailand the taste is swinging toward products made in Communist China."

Costly Donelson Park Sewer Project Runs Into Snag

Board Hears Residents' Pleas

Home Owners Object to $1,000 Fee Per Lot; Expected $500 Rate

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Sewer installation in Donelson Park Subdivision, for which 117 residents have indicated disapproval and only 25 approcal, has been stalled by the Waterford Township Board.

* * *

The board members unanimously agreed Monday night not to set up a special assessment district in the subdivision for sewers.

At a hearing June 18, the board had heard numerous objections to the sewer plan and had decided to send a registered letter to each Donelson Park resident which they were to return with a yes or no answer regarding the sewer.

The board received 117 no's, and 25 yes's. Those who didn't return the letter were recorded as yes, making a total of 70 in favor of the project.

COST TOO HIGH

When a petition was circulated earlier this year, residents said they signed it under the impression that the sewer would cost half as much as the final estimate of about $1,000 per lot.

Opinions stated last night by residents indicated they realize the need but find it economically impossible to support the sewer plan.

The hope was expressed by several that if the entire township participated in a sewer plan the Donelson Park cost might be lower.

Multi-Million Dollar Project Takes 4,000 Acres

Ford's Michigan Test Tracks Nearing Completion

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

ROMEO—The garage and office building which will be the center of operations for the Ford Motor Co. Michigan Proving Grounds is scheduled for completion next month, according to facilities superintendent James H. Hough.

* * *

The structure will contain the general administrative offices for the multi-million dollar testing project which covers some 4,000 acres northwest of Romeo. In addition to the offices, a two-bed first aid department, cafeteria and kitchen will be included in the new building located on Fisher road.

Robert W. Gaines, manager of the Proving Grounds, will direct daily operations from the new offices with Hough and other staff personnel. Until the completion of the new structure, the former Fisher farm office is serving as the center of activities.

Current employe personnel totals about 40. The remainder of the anticipated total complement of 400 will begin to arrive with the completion of the office building and test facilities, Hough said. The maximum strength of permanent employes and engineers will be reached by 1957, according to the facilities superintendent.

* * *

The task of moving over four million cubic yards of dirt for a network of roads originated in June, 1955. A little over one-third of the road system will be asphalt, eight inches thick. The high-speed track, east-west straightaway, test grades and building aprons will be concrete. The balance of the 30-mile road system will be gravel test loops.

The roads to the test facilities from the office building are the only two-way roads in the whole system, except for test grades, Hough said.

The basic durablity road—eight miles long—runs around the edge of the property along Dequindre and Dewey roads, inside the Hipp road boundary and returns parallel to the old Schooley road. This stretch is all asphalt and is open to one-way traffic only.

It has a built-in undulating surface designed for an average speed of 55 miles per hour.

MAN MADE BUMPS

"Man-made bumps have been applied to four 3,000 foot sections to test shake characteristics in test vehicles," Hough said. "We will run all our current products, prototypes of future products of the company as well as competitive cars and trucks on the test roads," he added.

Two major grades, one being a combined 17 per cent and 29 per cent hill, will be steel reinforced concrete nine inches thick.

Paving operations on the high speed track and east-west straightaway will be completed this summer, Hough reported. He added that the underpass under the high speed track and access ramps to the straightaway and high speed track have been completed.

Officials List School Needs

Cite Reasons for Voting 'Yes' on Two-Mill Levy Monday

WALLED LAKE — Officials say $1,377,000 needed for school operation this coming year is the reason voters should approve a two-mill levy in Monday's election.

* * *

Unless the two mills are approved, the school budget will be $45,395 short, they estimate. In addition, the deficit from the past year, $16,522, must be paid, they say.

School funds come from three sources — with the largest amount, $1,029,794, coming from the state. Local taxes are expected to supply $265,606.

A total of $36,248 is expected by the board from special and adult education fees, tuition, cafeteria and book store profits and other miscellaneous sources.

MORE STATE AID

These figures total $1,331,648. The needed balance of $61,917 will not be met completely by the two-mill levy, the school figures show, but board members point out that passage of the levy will make the district eligible for another $31,000 in state aid.

The charge by opponents of the levy that more money is available for operating purposes, is denied by Superintendent Clifford H. Smart, who says he endorses the board's figures.

Other money which the board has invested was voted for building purposes and the retirement of bonded indebtedness, he says, and can only be used for those purposes.

Use of Water Banned for 30 Hours

Pontiac Lake Weed-Spraying to Start

PONTIAC LAKE — Weed spraying, aimed to kill weeds that form a motor-boat-entangling, mosquito-breeding mass across parts of this lake, will begin tomorrow.

"This will again be one of the prettiest lakes in Oakland County when the weeds are gone," says D. E. Minchin, who with Henry Branecki is directing the $4,000 spray job.

The two men, residents of English Villa Subdivision on an island in the lake, have gathered funds from the subdivision's residents and residents along Gale road, Tackles drive and Court, and Ledue street on the lake shore.

A warning for all residents of areas whose shorelines are to be sprayed has been issued by Mechin.

When spraying begins tomorrow noon, he says, there should be no swimming in the sprayed area, no pets in the water, and no use of water for sprinkling lawns or shrubs until 30 hours after spraying.

The sprayer will be an expert who had done a similar task in Lake Orion last year and will do it again later this summer. From Butler, Wis., he has taken his equipment as far as Bogota, Colombia, to spray weeds in watergardens there.

Lasting effect of the weed-killing may be for several years, or for only one year, depending on what types of weeds are present, according to Minchin. Three sprayings are recommended, he says.

State participation later is hoped for by Pontiac Lake residents, Minchin says. He added that no harm to fish is possible with the chemicals to be used.

2 Attempted Assaults Add to GI Crime List

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Two more attacks on German women were reported today as the Bavarian government mapped action "to protect the life and safety of German citizens" from violence by American troops.

The new reports from Nuernberg added fuel to the growing resentment among many Germans over a series of crimes charged to U.S. servicemen stationed in Germany.

Nuernberg police said a soldier in civilian clothes tried to assault a 19-year-old nursemaid near an army post but fled when the girl's screams attracted attention.

The police said another American soldier in uniform attempted to assault a 63-year-old woman in the same vicinity a few hours later. He also ran when the woman screamed.

A meeting of U. S. troop commanders and German mayors, police chiefs and newspaper editors was called at Fuerth to take up the problem.

"As Long as There Are Sovereign Nations . . .

In spite of the testimony of such experts, there are on this earth many men of good faith urgently striving for lasting peace. Many of us believe that the world is growing better, and that through faith, practical peace may be attained.

Two Men Replacing Boy Too Young to Work

JAMESTOWN, R. I. (AP)—Last week the town fired Douglas F. Cunha as a parking fee collector at the town beach. The Beach Committee found that he was only 13, too young to obtain working papers.

Now the town has hired two men — Steven Morgan, 18, and Douglas' father Manuel—to replace the youngster.

Committee Chairman Edward B. Brooks said the elder Cunha will help Morgan collect fees on weekends when the traffic is too heavy for one man to handle.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

IN THE WOODS — 2

Baby Birds

If you stand very still for awhile in the woods, you will hear all sorts of small noises made by creatures who are at home there. Even in a small grove there are more wild things than you think.

In the open glades and at the edges of the forest more birds usually live than deeper in the woods. Here are some young robins anxiously awaiting the return of their mother. A mother bird is constantly on the wing, hunting for food for her hungry family.

Use your crayons to color this picture. All the openings behind the leaves are the bright clear blue of the sky.

Paste it down on cardboard and then cut out the parts. Cut holes in the top corners, as indicated, and put string through to hang up the panel.

Put one end of a strong thread about two feet long through the little hole in the mother bird's beak, and knot it behind. Then put the other end through the hole at the top edge of the nest. Take the end hanging down from below the back of the panel and make a loop for your fingers, so that by pulling it you can draw the mother bird through the air, right up to her nest and waiting family.

Heart Surgery Fund Started

Set for Grand Haven Boy Who Died in May After Operation

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—An "Eddie Bekins Research Fund" has been started at University of Minnesota clinic, in Minneapolis, in memory of the little Grand Haven Township boy who died nine weeks ago after delicate heart surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bekins, parents of the three-year-old patient, said they are turning over to the new research fund $1,140, contributed to an Eddie Bekins Fund started earlier in Grand Haven.

They previously sent the clinic $211, donated for funeral flowers by relatives and friends.

Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, chief surgeon at the clinic, wrote the parents:

"I was very deeply touched by your generous gesture in sending to our research fund $211.50 that was collected in lieu of flowers for Eddie. My delay in acknowledging this contribution was due to arrangements for setting up a special Eddie Bekins Research Fund to which this money has been deposited.

"Likewise it is my intention to deposit other moneys coming to us which are not specifically marked which we shall utilize to carry on research and development of better methods for treating children born with defects of the heart."

* * *

Dr. Lillehei also advised there would be no bill for himself or his associates for surgical services performed in the boy's case.

Personal Income Sets New Record in May

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Commerce Department reported today that personal income in the U.S. in May was at an annual rate of 323 billion dollars. This is 1½ billion dollars more than in April and about 19 billions higher than a year ago.

The department said wages and salaries increased slightly during May, proprietors' income was up sharply, and interest and dividends continued upward trends.

Two Big Headaches

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph E. Fleming, 50, driver of a U.S. mail truck, stopped by his Bronx home last night for a headache tablet. He had a bigger headache when he came out—the truck and two sacks of mail were gone. They haven't been found.

The Leaves of Brown —All Over the State

EAST LANSING (INS)—If you're worried because the leaves on your trees are turning brown, then stop—because you're not alone. The condition is general over Michigan.

* * *

Harold Schick, extension municipal forestry specialist at Michigan State University, says the reason is lack of moisture.

Schick points out the rainfall for June was two inches below normal on the average in the state.

To help the condition, Schick advises you to water the trees thoroughly with a lawn soaker or sprinkler set close to the trunk. The water should run for at least an hour for most trees.

Oscar Leaves No Mark on Kim Hunter's Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—We've heard about stars who have been helped or jinxed by Academy Awards. Here's a girl Oscar did nothing for.

• • •

Absolutely nothing. Or so says Kim Hunter, who won the supporting award four years ago for her role as Marlon Brando's long-suffering wife in "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"I must honestly say that winning the Oscar had no real effect on my career," she said. "It didn't raise my salary to any degree. There was no great increase in the number of scripts I was offered. No studio made a move to sign me to a term contract.

"Certainly the Oscar was a great satisfaction personally to me. But career-wise it did nothing."

• • •

This is in direct contrast to tradition, which has dictated that the Oscar buoys up an actor's career or puts it on the skids. Historians point out that such winners as Katina Paxinou, James Dunn, Mercedes McCambridge, Celeste Holm and others did little in films after copping the big prize.

On the other hand, others like Frank Sinatra, Anne Baxter and Eva Marie Saint have prospered after being awarded the Oscar. You just can't figure it.

• • •

Perhaps the reason for Miss Hunter's lack of reaction from the Oscar is her own independence of Hollywood. She prefers to live in New York with her husband, writer Robert Emmett, and two children. Occasionally she comes out here for a picture—she's now doing "The Young Stranger" at RKO. But she devotes just as much of her energies to the stage and TV.

"I learned my lesson," she said Her lesson came during her first stab at a Hollywood career. She came here as a David Selznick player—and never appeared in a Selznick picture. During five years in Hollywood, she made four pictures and an Army shot!

• • •

Her next experience with films was even less fruitful. She played opposite David Niven in "Stairway to Heaven" and signed a contract with J. Arthur Rank. The result: A year and a half of complete inactivity.

No wonder she's weary of contracts!

LONDON (AP) The arrival of actress Marilyn Monroe has made an almost incredible impression on this old town; it even got mentioned at the opening of the International Whaling Commission's meeting.

• • •

"A distinguished visitor, Miss Marilyn Monroe, obviously has come to England to dispute a saying of our great literary figure, Dr. Samuel Johnson," G. R. H. Nugent, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, said in a welcoming address.

"Dr. Johnson adjured us never to believe in round figures. One has only to look at her to realize that round figures do exist and without the assistance of a by-product of your industry (meaning whalebone), which has helped ladies' figures."

• • •

The Russian delegation listened intently as a lady translator interpreted. They laughed, too.

Designs Suit Any Climate

Weather or not . . . Mr. Mort presents his newest trans-season designs to suit any climate, any event! His newest collection runs the gamut of wonderfully textured fabrics—the slubbed, nubbed cottons, the soft-as-cloud cotton cashmeres, the heavenly pure silks, the plushy velveteens.

★ ★ ★

Lines are shaped to a new figure-flattering high headlining the empire silhouette with all its feminine wiles. Variety is the spice of stripes, checks, plaids and glorious solids!

The entire esprit of the collection reflects again Mr. Mort's fresh, young approach — how other men want to see the girls in their lives look.

It's basically simple yet so very important from a fashion point of view!

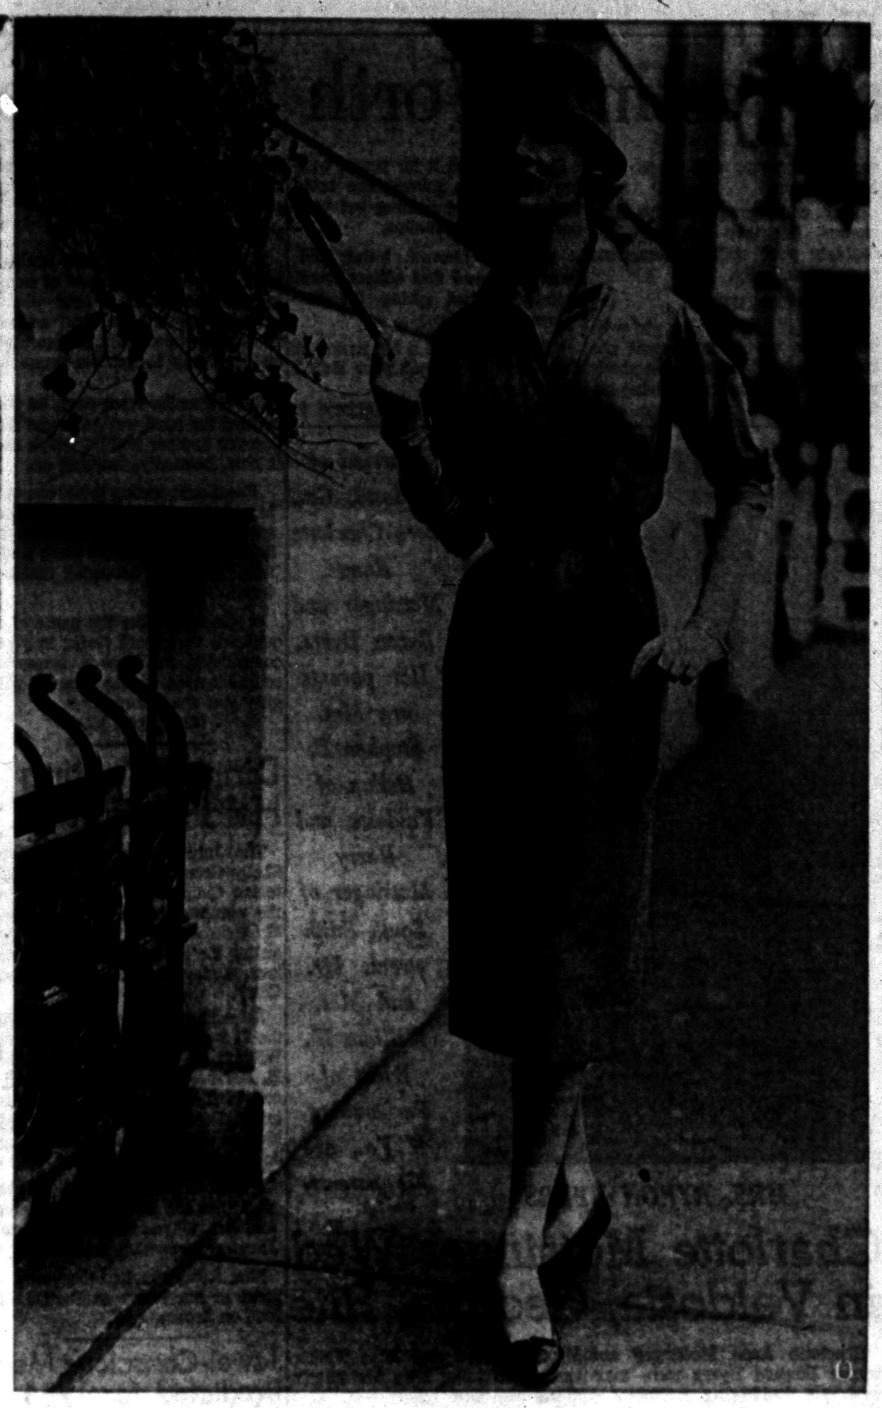

The trend set by "My Fair Lady" stars throughout the line with emphasis on the whittled waistlines beneath the rib-empire effect.

★ ★ ★

Costuming plays a major role with little jackets that have a custom-made look, dresses so shaped and understated that they are hits alone.

The collection is versatile enough for housewife and executive alike. The colors are geared to steal the scene on any urban or suburban level.

All in all, weather or no . . . Mr. Mort's newest wear withal adjusts itself (and the wearer) to the busy temper and temperatures of our time!

A beautiful example of Mr. Mort's understated elegance is this sheath of pure silk broadcloth with button-trimmed midsleeves, a casual collar and a soft sashing of silk print. Colors are beige with red and black with royal blue. These dresses may be purchased locally.

Mr. Mort "sheers" a plaid and makes it one of the most wearable dresses during high mercury days! It's frosted with a white collar, buttoned from neck to hem and skirted full and fancy free.

Cotton cashmere curves to the most feminine shaping of the season. Costuming significance is in Mr. Mort's reed slenderness of a knit-top sheath teamed with its own short-cut jacket trimmed with braid and collared in white. Soft and flattering to the youthful figure.

In two parts—a costume that's as new as the season. And how the gal with the youthful figure will love this whittle-waist jumper quilted in brown and navy plaid. The crisp white blouse is cuffed and collared for a young, smart look.

Southwest Grows Big Stylewise

Dallas Now Claims to Rank Fourth as Fashion Center

DALLAS (AP)—A war baby—the Southwest's fashion and clothing industry—has grown large enough today to start playing with the big boys.

* * *

Dallas claims to rank fourth in the nation now as a garment manufacturing center, after New York, California and Chicago. It concentrates on the medium price range and goes in heavily for sportwear and casual clothes.

The growth of the California apparel industry has been as rapid. Largely in Los Angeles and San Francisco, the industry counts 1,700 firms with annual sales topping 600 million dollars, according to the National Cotton Council.

* * *

In between, such Southwestern cities as Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Phoenix and Tucson have blossomed with regional designs, fabrics and garments.

The Dallas garment industry, starting at around zero when World War II broke out, now numbers 183 manufacturers with an annual payroll of 22½ million dollars. It claims retail outlets in 25,000 stores in all 48 states.

* * *

Stanley Marcus, president of Nieman-Marcus store, says the garment industry started here because "during the war people got clothing wherever they could find it and because transportation of Eastern made clothes was uncertain."

After the war, he adds, the industry here had a choice: Try to make cheaper clothing in competition with Eastern manufacturers or try to develop as a fashion center and sell in the medium to high priced range. Dallas chose the latter and now competes freely in both Eastern and California markets.

* * *

"We stock Dallas clothing, not out of regional loyalty, but because we make money on it," he says frankly. "The designs are good, so is the workmanship and the garments are reasonably priced. There is no freight to pay."

Perhaps the biggest assist to the industry that has grown up here and in California, and to lesser degree in Arizona and New Mexico, has been the shift in American living habits.

* * *

The growing trend toward outdoor and generally casual living has weaned away the American people everywhere — from more formal clothes. The regional industries have thrived on it.

"Dandy Blade" — a very dashing, cotton cropped jacket in Mr. Mort's stripes of black, red and rust tops a slim, square-necked jumper sheath in the most urban of colors—black.

Hair Accessories Stress Gimmicks

Hair accessories are taking on important airs now that the chignon is with us again. From the islands come delightful native hair gimmicks.

Long Japanese hairpins with jeweled tops that are worn crisscrossed are very popular. Hawaiian tourists bring back hair accessories that resemble oversized chop sticks. These are made of wood as well as other materials.

Norell Gets Top Award in Fashion

Becomes the First 3-Time Winner of Coty Citation

NEW YORK (INS)—A veteran New York dress designer, Norman Norell, has achieved a new place in fashion fame by becoming the first three-time winner of the Coty American Fashion Critics Award.

* * *

Norell's name tops the list of 1956 winners.

Other winners of the award, considered the top fashion honor in America, include California designer James Galanos and New York designer Luis Estevez.

An award also went to milliner Sally Victor, famed for making Mrs. Eisenhower's hats, and to the mother-and-son knitwear fashion team of Gertrude and Robert Goldworm.

* * *

Norell's new award makes him the only three-time winner to date. The 40-ish, slender creator of $500-and-up Traina-Norell dresses first received a "Winnie" in 1943, and was honored the second time in 1951.

PREVIOUS WINNERS

Both Galanos and Mrs. Victor also have won the "Winnie" before.

* * *

Galanos, who works out of Beverly Hills, first won the fashion award in 1954. Mrs. Victor took it previously in 1944.

First time winner Estevez, only 27, has been in business just two years and has shown only seven collections. The youthful designer for Grenelle, however, achieved spectacular fame with his very first designs.

Mrs. Goldworm and her son Robert, credited with the revival of the knitted dress, will receive a special award.

* * *

The exact category for each winner, and details of each citation, will be kept secret until Oct. 9, when the official presentations of the "Winnie" statuettes are made.

* * *

The American Fashion Critics Award jury, composed of more than 70 fashion editors, explained that the honors this year include a special category in fashion which cannot be disclosed at present.

Vocational Testing Worth Expense

By ANNA HEYWOOD

Every boy who is in love with a girl thinks she ought to be in pictures. To him she is divinely beautiful.

But the chances are that a professional talent scout would find her nothing of the kind.

The same thing is true, all too often, in the estimate our friends and relatives make of our talents.

"You write such divine letters," a fond aunt will murmur, "you really ought to be a writer." But a professional editor may think nothing of the kind.

* * *

A devoted friend may say, "Your color sense is just wonderful and your living room is so attractive. You ought to be a decorator."

NOT THE SAME

Being able to do a good job on one's own house is a far cry from being able to decorate all kinds of places for all kinds of tastes.

* * *

Yet, repeat this fact though I will,women still persist in thinking that there's no trick at all in moving from the status of a more or less gifted amateur, to that of a real professional.

How can you find out if you really have what it takes?

Vocational tests, given by a qualified person, can go a long way to help.

They can't give you the final answer, but they can help you evaluate your abilities somewhat more realistically.

WANTED TO WRITE

I think of Marjorie, a girl who wanted to write, or thought she did, largely because everybody said she wrote the most divine letters.

She worked at it for years, writing every free minute she could find and getting nothing but well-deserved rejection slips.

Marjorie became bitter and was convinced that editors were totally against giving the beginner a break.

"You have to be a big name, or they don't even read your stuff," she insisted.

I finally persuaded Marjorie to take some vocational tests. There was not a glimmer of writing ability.

PRESTIGE DRIVE

Marjorie had a perfectly healthy prestige drive, but instead of earning recognition in a field where her abilities lay, she had settled on writing, because it represented an easy way to get her name in print.

But it was far from easy, as she learned the hard way. And she did uncover another ability, which she is now, belatedly, working on.

Vocational testing is not cheap, but it is often well worth the cost. It can save you hours and hours of unproductive work and keep you from becoming embittered.

If you would like the name of a qualified vocational tester in your community, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will give you the information.

Dior Invades Male Styling in Sweaters

Even Dior, who usually dictates fashions for females only, has joined the campaign toward more masculine styles.

* * *

In his Paris boutique is a special department offering neckties and dressing gowns with paisley patterns, stripes or dots as the limit in masculine fanciness. Most of the styles for men are subdued, plain and rather casual.

Dior . designed sweaters for men are boldly hand-knitted and in such "tough guy" colors as burgundy red, bottle green or cigar brown.

The new sports shirts for French men have masculine patterns such as red and black checks, navy-blue and white stripes or brown and beige plaids.

* * *

French shirtmakers propose a new way of giving these garments a personal touch. Plain dress shirts are now trimmed with embroidered initials or a personal badge on the left shirt - collar point.

Jewel-Conscious Men Predicted for 1956

CHICAGO (INS)—Men are going to be as jewel-conscious as their wives this year.

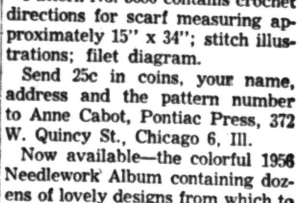

The latest cuff links exhibited at the 38th annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in Chicago were studded with cultured pearls or semi-precious stones.

Some of the stones used in cuff links are hematite, tigereye, chryso, marquisite, onyx and agates.

The stones, once strictly feminine, are set in both gold and silver-finish metals.

Cuff-links, which have been the size of a quarter of late, now are getting smaller, relying on the jewels for a decorative touch instead of size.

Sit Straight While You're Driving

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Legs are no longer thought of as a means of transportation. It is a wonder that they have not completely disappeared from the human race! If we could count up the number of hours we spend each year in our car I believe that we would be amazed.

* * *

This would be especially true of the mother of children. How many miles do you drive each month taking your son or daughter, or both, to music lessons, dancing lessons, art lessons, shopping, taking them to swim, to play tennis, delivering them at the houses of friends and picking them up later, or maybe taking their friends home?

The point I am making is that we spend much of our life behind the wheel of our car. Therefore, the way we sit while driving is of great importance to us.

Modern car seats being what they are and human nature being what it is, the tendency is to slump. However, this is very tiring, really, and will lead to underchin lines, a Dowager's Hump and round shoulders.

* * *

You might just as well take the time you are in your car as an opportunity to improve your appearance. Sit with your hips well back against the back of the seat. Straighten your spine and keep the vertebra stretched throughout the region of the upper back and the neck.

Do not "cave in" at the back of the neck. Hold your abdomen in and keep your chin level. This in itself is a splendid exercise.

If you would use the hours which you lose each week waiting for Junior at school, for Aunt Susie while she shops, for your husband at the train, for different members of the family while they do errands of all sorts, you would have enough time to make yourself into a real glamor girl.

* * *

Actually you can go through the following motions while waiting, with only a leer or so from the passing throng.

Cross your left leg over your right. Make large circles with your left foot. After circling a while, cross your right leg over your left and make circles with your right foot. This is ankle slimming.

Turn your head slowly to the left. Turn it slowly forward. Turn it slowly to the right and then slowly forward. Continue.

If you will do this very slowly it will not be noticeable and you will feel the pull of the muscles. Drop your head backward. Raise it. Continue, slowly.

* * *

If you would like my leaflet "Spinal Exercise or Back Talk," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 16. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

You might just as well take the time you are in your car as an opportunity to improve your appearance. Sitting correctly is in itself a splendid exercise.

1-2-3-4 Cake Easily Made So Delicious

County Cook Says Ideal Icing for Loaf Is a Caramel One

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Cake mixes are a wonderful convenience. However, there are still choice recipes for making cakes that have been in the family for years and that can never be duplicated with a mix. Such a recipe is Mrs. Mable E. McKenzie's "1-2-3-4 Cake."

Mrs. McKenzie is a working homemaker. She has one son in school, another in service. As recipe is Mrs. Mabel E. McKenzie have a number of hobbies, the chief of which is photography. Mrs. McKenzie is a member of the Fashion Your Figure Club.

GRANDMOTHER'S 1-2-3-4 CAKE

2 cups sugar
3 cups sifted flour
4 eggs
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon almond extract

Young Dads Should Read Article by Joseph Welch

Lawyer Emphasizes the Importance of Deeds Rather Than Words

By RUTH MILLETT

When a young father sits down after dinner at night he is much more likely to be reading the sports page of the evening paper than thumbing through a woman's magazine . . . looking for articles on how to be a better father.

* * *

That's why I'm using this space today to tell him about an article in the July McCall's which he really ought to read.

Let him not be misled by the title, "You Can't Teach Children Anything," into thinking this is a cynical little piece.

It is anything but that, as he will readily surmise when he finds out that the man who shares his ideas on being a father is that wise and witty Boston lawyer, Joseph N. Welch.

* * *

It is Mr. Welch's notion that you can't teach a child anything by lecturing him or trying to mold him in your own image.

LEARNS BY ACTIONS

What your child learns from you, he learns at odd moments by your example—not by what you tell him he ought to do.

* * *

But to get the full flavor of the wisdom, gentleness, and respect for individuality that is evident in every paragraph of this father's reflections on the delights and the dilemmas of fatherhood, each father will have to read the article for himself.

And if he takes it to heart, he is bound to be a kinder, more gentle, more understanding parent.

He is sure to be a better person, too. For it is a much more challenging concept of parenthood to recognize that your children are much more likely to be influenced by what you do and what you are than by what you say.

* * *

So take a few minutes, you fathers, to read Mr. Welch's article. It will probably do more to make you a better parent than half a dozen books on child psychology.

A Screening Hint

If you have trouble with screens staining your window sills, scrub sills with washing soda or trisodium phosphate. Screens that have been varnished will not stain window sills.

KATHLEEN ANN EMMONS

The engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Ann, to Thomas V. Course Jr., is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Emmons of Big Rapids. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Course of Opdyke road. The couple attends the University of Michigan. A Sept. 8 wedding is planned.

The George Andersons of St. Louis announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Darlene, to James Frederick Wagar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wagar of Crittenden street. Both were graduated from Alma College where she was a member of Kappa Iota sorority and he was affiliated with Phi Phi Alpha and Phi Sigma Pi fraternities.

Firm Cites Expenses of Dockers

Sir Bernard, Wife Continue Row With British Company

LONDON (INS) — Round two opened today in the battle between Sir Bernard and Lady Docker and the Birmingham Small Arms Company.

John Young Sangster, the company's new chief, issued a lengthy statement outlining Sir Bernard's expense account which he claimed 'rocked the board of directors."

The statement listed $22,248 for dresses and furs bought for Lady Docker. It also declared that Sir Bernard ordered five expensive Daimler cars with special bodywork and wrote a $140,000 check on Small Arms in payment.

It charged further that Docker, the former chairman, put down $5,600 as expenses for attending the Grace Kelly-Prince Rainier wedding in Monte Carlo.

* * *

The battle is expected to be fought to a finish at a special meeting in August when Sir Bernard will move for a vote of no confidence in the firm's present directors.

Sir Bernard and Lady Docker left their West End Mayfair apartment last night for a fortnight's stay at a nature cure resort.

Before they left, Sir Bernard was informed of Sangster's statement. He said he will examine it closely and reply soon.

'Elmer' Does the Work

Grocers Launching Era of Push-Button Shopping

NEW YORK (INS)—Women may do their grocery shopping by push-button next year.

* * *

The first electronic grocery store in the world is being displayed at the current convention of the Independent Grocers' Alliance in New York. It promises women push-button shopping without any carts to wheel or any handling of groceries.

Instead of a shopping cart, you'll get an "Elmer" when you enter the store. "Elmer" is the pet name for an electronic merchandise selector that looks like a round, midget-size flatiron.

"Elmer" will fit into a slot in front of closed, lighted grocery displays. Each product will have a number.

* * *

After inserting "Elmer" in the slot, the shopper merely will punch buttons with letters and figures, exactly as on a jukebox, and her groceries will be delivered electronically at the wrapping counter.

HALF A MINUTE

The shopper then carries "Elmer" to the cashier, the cashier inserts "Elmer" in another slot, and as the bill pops up the groceries arrive wrapped — in something under half a minute.

* * *

The inventor of this electronic grocery, Bruno Stiller of Prairie View, Ill., explained that thousands of tiny wires in concealed cabinets control each package and its delivery.

Stiller said grocers in the electronic future won't have to stack up packages or stamp on prices. All that will be done merely by changing wires, he explained.

For women shoppers, Stiller added, the "Elmer" system eliminates stooping, lifting and the long wait on lines to get items checked out.

He said the first consumer store using electronics will be opened in Chicago, probably in 1957. IGA officials, however, believe they can put the electronic grocery system into operation in several major cities this year.

GADGET TRIED OUT

A reporter tried "Elmer" and discovered that the 6-inch electronic gadget weighs about half a pound.

It clicks into its slot easily, but you have to punch once for each item, so that if you need six of anything, you punch the same number and letter combination, for instance "K-12," six times.

Errors can be corrected by repunching, and the cashier has an electronic machine at hand to produce any forgotten item.

It took only about a minute from the time "Elmer" was handed to the cashier to the time the buyer got her change and wrapped purchases.

Inventor Stiller hopes that improved electronic groceries of the future will even deliver your push-button purchases right to your car.

Sans Cosmetics, Bottle Glamor

Europe's Women Live to Please the Male Sex

This is the last of a series of six articles by Joe Hyams, Hollywood correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, who has interviewed Europe's top feminine movie stars to find out the secret of the charm of the European woman.

By JOE HYAMS

The most glamorous women in Europe would pass un-noticed in an American beauty contest, but in a room the Europeans would steal the show. The reason: Europeans have a certain something called "glamour." The European woman's glamour secret lies, I believe, in her attitude toward herself—and toward men. She does more than make herself look feminine; she also acts feminine and as a result forces a man to treat her as a female.

An American girl wearing a low cut dress, mink stole and dryer-fresh hairdo will destroy the illusion she creates of glamorous femininity by opening her car door, lighting her own cigarette, and ordering for herself in a restaurant. The bridge of equality she builds between the male and herself destroys his image of her as a dainty creature.

A European woman would never open her own door, light her own cigarette or order for herself. She is a woman and she uses every feminine wile to make a man think he is a giant and she is a waif needing manly assistance.

For the most part I found European women far easier to talk with than Americans. This is because the European woman wants to be interesting in opposition to the American, who wants to be interested. The European's emphasis is on being entertaining.

All the European film stars I talked with had one common denominator. Not one of them had a psychiatrist. They were happy in their jobs and lives and seemed unaware of the mental and moral complexities which plague American film stars.

European glamor girls seemed uncluttered with neuroses and were happy to discuss things other than themselves, in contradiction to Americans who are happiest when a sympathetic ear is tuned to their personal problems.

What are some of the physical differences between the glamorous women of Europe and America?

* * *

Most European women let their hair grow long and invariably their hair is its natural color. You seldom see a European with a permanent wave. Europeans are proud of their hair and consider it a crowning glory.

Regardless of the heat—or her job—a European girl would never consider a boyish haircut which has become the rage in America. In Europe the emphasis is on femininity rather than on comfort or fashion.

FEW COSMETICS

European women use very few cosmetics. They attempt to look as natural as possible. The only place they use extensive makeup is on the eyes. Eyebrows are rarely plucked. Instead they are acented — and because a European uses her eyes as an exclamation point for almost everything she does or says she spends much time choosing the proper eye makeup.

In makeup and in dressing European women make the most of their imperfections. Americans strive for a uniform perfection.

A European is not afraid to stand out because on the Continent the accent is on individuality.

The European is proud of her distinguishing features and plastic surgery, nose bobs, remodeled faces are uncommon. There is no set pattern for beauty. Oddity, rather than uniformity is the order of the day. European women will go to almost any extreme to avoid looking alike. American women cherish the herd appearance.

DRESS FOR MEN

European women dress for men. American women dress up to make other women envious.

Usually when I asked a European film star why she thought she was attractive to men the answer was, "Because I am a woman and men know it."

An American film star asked the same question usually says "Because I am beautiful."

This brings us to what I consider the principal difference between the glamorous women of Europe and America. It lies in an attitude toward men. Unlike American women, who pride themselves on their independence, the object of every European woman is to get married and stay married. Everything she does or says is designed to seem pleasing to masculine eyes and ears.

Married or not, the European woman thinks only of pleasing men. The man is king in Europe and European women let him know it. They live for love, and conversely, love to live

Babysitting Mushrooms Into an Industry

By JANICE HAYHOW

Babysitting, a job handled within the family years ago, has grown into a full time, good paying position for those who have the time and talent.

Babysitting has mushroomed to include millions of sitters—from teenagers to grandmothers.

One reason for this increase is the changing times. Mothers now leave home more often — for careers, club work, and more evenings out with hubby. When this happens, the call goes out for "babysitter."

And, problems come up — come up prominently. And, Pontiac is no exception to these problems.

In an attempt to find out babysitter problems in the Pontiac area, many interesting observations were made.

First, on the babysitter side, a few real "pros" gave information on the subject — sister sitters Carolyn and Marlene Beyer of 435 Mt. Clemens and Mrs. Nadine Blacquiere of Nursery Mothers in Birmingham.

* * *

The Beyer girls had a few pet peeves about parents in general but said they love their work and the people for whom they work.

* * *

"When the children won't go to bed, it bothers me," said 17-year-old Carolyn, now a senior in Pontiac High School. "Parents give their children late naps on sitter days. Then when bedtime comes, the children are wide-awake."

MAJOR COMPLAINTS

The girls listed these major complaints: Parents who fail to leave a telephone number where they can be reached if needed; parents who fail to leave a snack for the sitter; and, parents who are "slow" in meeting their bill.

Another thing which should be avoided by parents, the Beyer girls said, is an assignment where the children have a contagious disease — and the sitter isn't told beforehand.

Mrs. Arthur Beyer, the girls' mother, pitch-hits for them when other plans or too many jobs come up.

* * *

"What I appreciate most, she said, "is the way parents take care of the girls. They're always considerate and watch out for their welfare. That's important to me when my girls are out sitting."

OLD SWITCH GAME

Mrs. Blacquiere of Nursery says most of the complaints registered with her are relatively minor —but still important.

* * *

Many times sitters go out on a job and find that instead of the one or two children they had expected, the house is full of other children brought over by "friendly neighbors" who heard about the sitter's coming. And this, naturally, at no extra pay.

* * *

Another complaint of sitters are parents who leave extra work — dishes and ironing. Then, the sitters claim, they don't even provide a snack.

* * *

"Cancellations gripe the girls also," Mrs. Blacquiere adds. "Other requests may come in and if a job cancels, it leaves the sitter unemployed for the evening."

THE PARENTS SIDE

The other side of the sitter problem comes from parents. How do parents feel about the people to whom they entrust their children?

Mrs. James Briney of 62 Iroquois says she's always been very satisfied with her sitters. She employs older women most often and says the important consideration is her three children's reaction to the sitter.

* * *

Mrs. Carl Bird of 2945 Otsego says her main complaint is the sitter who keeps a careful eye on TV — not on her children. The Bird's two children (aged 10 and 5½) have a say about which sitter they want. The "cross" ones and the TV peerers are ruled out.

* * *

Other parental complaints include sitters using the phone for hours on end. If parents try to call home with instructions or in an emergency — the phone is busy.

* * *

But problems in general really aren't too bad, both sides report. Differences arise and differences always will. Both sitters and parents agree they're sharing a joint venture—that of helping to rear a good solid citizen of the future.

AND FRIGHTENED MISS MUFFET AWAY — Sitter Marlene Beyer reads aloud to two of her charges — Julia and Richard Lynn Kieft. Of course the main question of the day from both youngsters was "What's a tuffet, Marlene, and what's whey?"

NECESSARY TASK — There's no getting around it: Baby Bryan Alan Kieft has to be fed. Sitter Carolyn Beyer does a pretty good job and confesses it's lots of fun. Besides he's such a cute baby, Carolyn says. And baby doesn't miss Mama too much.

Solon Defends Power Firms

State Representative Attacks Investigation of Private Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich) said today the Rocky Mountain Power Companies "have the right to do just what they did" in making their view known to the Interior Department.

Hoffman, a senior Republican member of a House Government Operations subcommittee, defended the private power firms and attacked a subcommittee investigation begun this morning by the subcommittee majority, headed by Rep. Chudoff (D-Pa).

Today's hearing was featured from the outset by classhes between the Democrats and Republicans over whether the private firms had "influenced" the Eisenhower administration and whether the Truman administration had sponsored "socialism" in the power field.

A spokesman for the Montana power company did get a chance to testify under oath that the Rocky Mountain Companies had sponsored what he called a "factual" booklet presented to the undersecretary of Interior in 1953.

Hoffman told the House afterwards that "the Republic Power Companies frankly admit that they made investigations, employed and obtained experts and put out literature and arguments and presented them to the Department of the Interior."

Ike to Keep Public in Know on Health, 3 Senators Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Republican senators said today President Eisenhower can be trusted to keep the American people fully informed about his health.

Senators Bricker (Ohio), Watkins (Utah) and Schoeppel (Kan) said they saw no need for renewed public questioning of Eisenhower's doctors, as the Democratic National Committee urged in its official publication The Democratic Digest.

* * *

The magazine said a new interrogation of Eisenhower's doctors was needed to offset what it characterized as a "snow job" by the President's White House associates. It implied that the aides had tried to cover up the seriousness of Eisenhower's June 9 ileitis operation and its possible after-effects.

* * *

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined comment on the article. But he said in answer to questions that no news conference with the doctors was planned and he didn't think any was called for. He has previously noted that the doctors spent an hour talking with newsmen on the day of the operation.

* * *

Eisenhower, meantime, spent a total of five hours at his White House desk yesterday, returning for a 1½-hour late afternoon session after 3½ hours of work in the morning — his longest stint since the operation.

Bricker said the Democrats' use of the health issue may hurt rather than help them.

* * *

"The more the Democrats do this sort of thing, the more votes they are going to make for Eisenhower in November," Bricker said. "The President will be entirely frank about his health and no new questioning of his doctors is needed to convince the people of that fact."

Boy, 4, Spending Last Day of Sight, Then . . . Darkness

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—This is the last full day of sight for 4-year-old Mike Sibole.

Tomorrow he must have an operation for removal of his left eye. His right one was taken out two years ago and the cancerous disease that caused its removal spread to the left one.

* * *

X-ray treatments in New York prolonged the days Mike has been able to see flowers, birds, woods, seashore, his mother and dad, his baby brother, his puppy.

But doctors say now the operation must come; Mike must lose his sight or his life.

"There is no choice," says his father, the Rev. James M. Sibole, pastor of the Forrest Park Baptist Church.

* * *

Mike has seen a lot in his last days of seeing. He had a trip to Miami and many trips around the rolling citrus and lake lands of central Florida.

Today it will be a picnic, his father said.

The boy doesn't know yet that his eye must come out in less than 24 hours.

OFF VISITING—Mrs. Richard L. Kieft (right), of 42 Wenonah, gives young Lynn a hug goodbye as she heads for an afternoon with friends. Sitters Marlene and Carolyn Beyer, along with young Julia Kieft and baby Bryan, tell Mama goodbye and "we'll see you later."

Store Jammed Opening Day

F. W. Woolworth Invades Mexico With the 5-and-10

MEXICO CITY (AP) — F. W. Woolworth has invaded Mexico and is going over with a bang. But the old 5-and-10 founder would have been shocked at the price tags — $157.90, $82.55, $164.95.

* * *

That's in pesos, of course (12½ for the dollar), which brings the price down considerably. And some of the items sell for well under the American nickel, a boast few U. S. stores can make.

The first Mexican Woolworth store opened in Paril on Insurgentes Avenue, one of Mexico's busiest. A second is on Paseo de la Reforma, another top thoroughfare. Both are luxury jobs by any standards.

Opening day at the Insurgentes store found it jammed so tight that lines formed on the sidewalk.

Many a person looked, turned away, resolved to come again another day. Business boomed and it's still booming.

LIKE AMERICAN STORES

The store is much like its American counterparts, except there are more clerks and less of the help-yourself atmosphere. To cut down shoplifting, not so many items are left exposed.

T. L. Crump, the general manager for Mexico, has been with Woolworth for 36 years. A native of Oakland, Calif., he joined the company in 1920. He came here from New York.

However, virtually all employes are Mexicans. Over 200 were hired and trained for the first store. Twelve were specially trained for the major executive positions.

Crump says that 97 per cent of all items on sale are made in Mexico by 1,286 Mexican manufacturers. Only 3 per cent are imported.

Here are some of the advertised opening-day bargains:

* * *

Dinnerware, 34 pieces (made in Mexico), $157.90 ($12.64 U. S. A.).
Electric iron, $164.95 ($13.20).
Paint, four liters (about a gallon), $82.55. ($6.64).
Six diapers, $29.95 ($2.40).
Baseball gloves, $49.95 ($4).
Towels, 40x61 cc, $1.25 (10 cents).
Nylon hose, $29.95 ($2.40).

* * *

Many of the Mexican-made products are real bargains, such as crystalware. Some glasses sell for as little as 60 centavos, or about five cents.

Britain to Have H-Bomb Base

Report Christmas Island in South Pacific to Be Testing Ground Area

HONOLULU (AP) — Britain is spending millions to turn tiny Christmas Island into its own version of the United States' H-bomb testing ground base at Eniwetok, a technician recently returned from Christmas said today.

"In the last six weeks hundreds of British soldiers and thousands of tons of equipment" have been poured into the small and low-lying coral atoll, the technician said. He did not want his identity disclosed.

* * *

Christmas Island is about 2,500 miles east and south of the U.S. Pacific nuclear base center at Eniwetok. It is about 1,200 miles south of Honolulu.

The technician said Christmas Island officials estimated that England is spending "about 150 million pounds (about 420 million dollars) in preparing its nuclear test base there.

He said "at least four big ships" have brought in troops, building materials and supplies from Singapore and elsewhere.

* * *

"The base is being set up by the army. Early next year the Royal Air Force is due to move in for the tests," he said.

Ex-Revenue Official Blasts Income Taxes

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Former Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews claims federal income tax is "vicious and evil."

"The income tax is such an evil thing," he said, "that I doubt whether anyone can patch it up in such a way that we can live with it."

One of his chief objections, he told the Beverly Hills Rotary Club, is that the income tax deprives Americans of rights guaranteed by Article IV of the Bill of rights, which states that citizens shall be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Therapeutic Tourists Upset Brazil Doctors

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Brazilian doctors are up in arms about therapeutic tourists.

* * *

That, doctors explain, is a Brazilian who heads for the United States or Europe to get a medical checkup or treatment he could get at home. Or as the leading afternoon newspaper O Globo put it, one "who takes a vacation voyage under the pretext of seeking medical treatment."

O Globo published a series of articles by Brazilian doctors whose theme was: Take your ailments to home-grown specialists.

"Generally speaking, it can be said there is no reason for ailing Brazilians to go to the United States for treatment," said Prof. Magalhaes Gomes, a cardiologist and member of the National Faculty of Medicine.

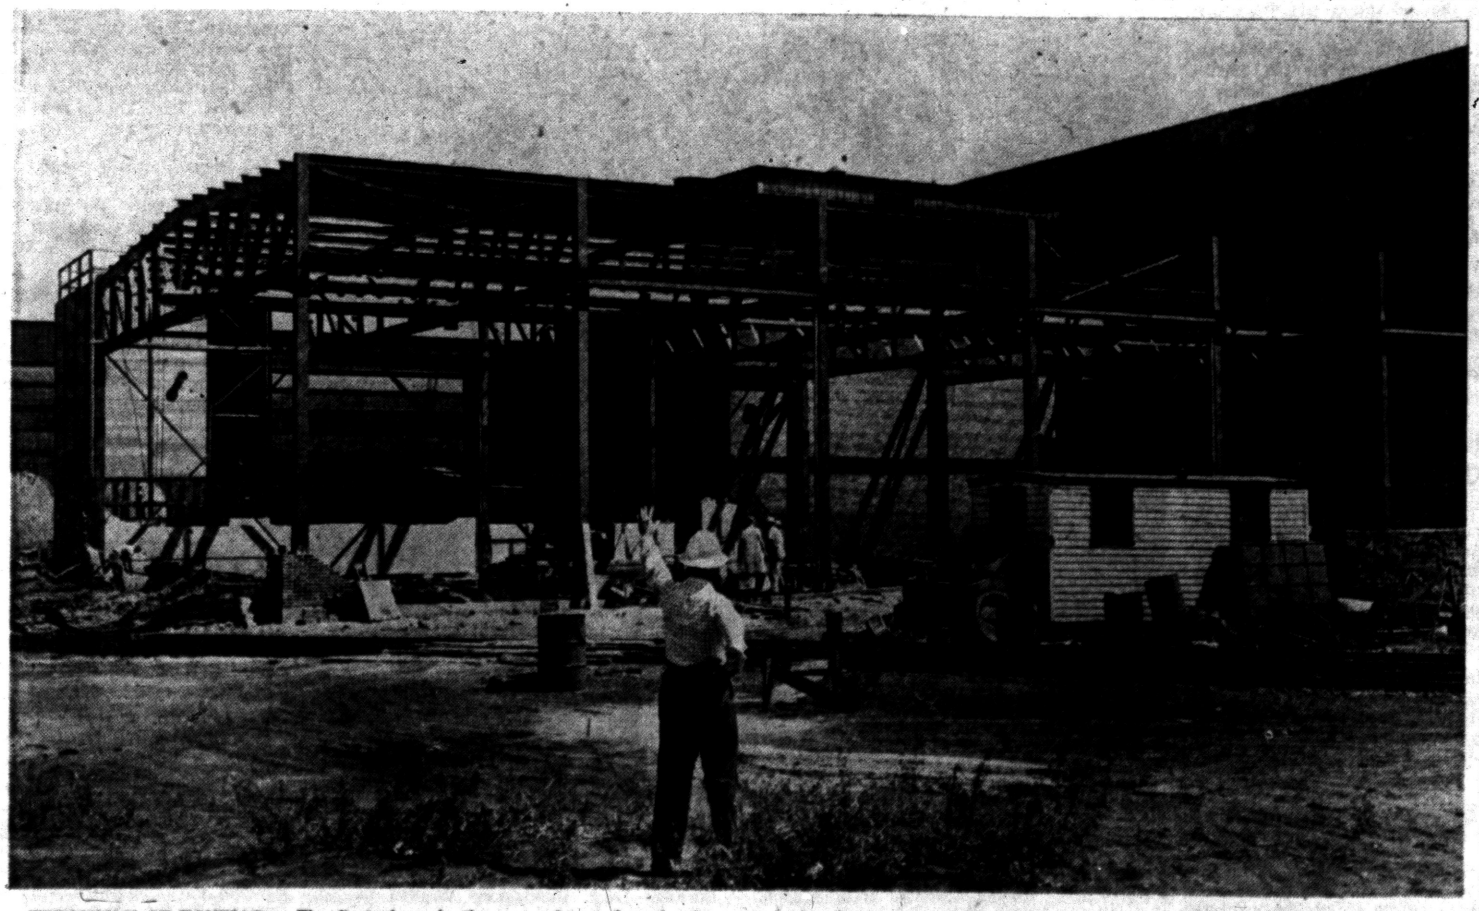

* * *

Gomes admitted certain ailments definitely need the attention of highly specialized medical men abroad.

But in most cases, he said, Brazilians can tour down the street for the same treatment they'll get several thousand miles away.

Louis B. Mayer Ill

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie producer Louis B. Mayer is under treatment in a hospital for pneumonia, his wife has announced. The couple returned last Friday from a tour of France, England and Italy.

EXPANSION AT PONTIAC — The first phase in the expansion and modernization of the gray iron foundry at the Pontiac Motor Division is represented in the framework of this new building. The structure will house modern air compression needed to purify the air inside the foundry. The tower at the far left will be used to wash dust and other foreign particles from the air. When completed, the foundry will include two electric furnaces with a capacity of 30 tons of molten iron each, new molding lines, sand handling and core making facilities.

THE POWERHOUSE
By JIMMY POWERS

Proprietors of the Toronto baseball club got themselves into quite a dither with proprietors of innumerable cats when they first suggested that a black cat—dead or preferably alive—would be okayed if presented for admission Friday the 13th.

★ ★ ★

I don't care to thrust a nose, made exceptionally tender by exposure to the sun that hangs over Tappan Zee's yachting waters and Sleepy Hollow's bosky hills, into any acrimonious debate.

I particularly don't care to discuss merits of house pets, dead or alive. I can take cats in stride or leave them alone.

On the other hand I don't care either to join the chorus of wiseacres who promptly got off cheap jokes at the expense of the Maple Leaf management, who later withdrew their offer.

★ ★ ★

One must credit the club with an "E" for effort. In these days of the doldrums and of do-nothing boards of directors it is refreshing to find a ball club that at least is trying to merchandise and promote its product.

The affair of the cat, to my simple mind, merely points up what is wrong with baseball.

My long-time friend and once steady World Series roomie, Westbrook Pegler, opined several summers back, after a cross-country trip, that baseball was a dying sport.

Unquestionably the number of minor leagues is dwindling and major leagues are so restless that at least four franchises are openly flirting with new locations.

But I don't go along with Bud Pegler that the sport is dying. It's ill all right. But the black cats are not going to help its convalescence.

Baseball needs qualified promotion and merchandising experts, men who know how to survey a market and cater to its needs. Ford Frick meant well when he spent a few dollars—very few, I might add, when compared with the total dollar volume of admissions—for a rather inept survey that did not mean a thing.

It discussed length of games, possible rule changes and other trivia. It wound up by asking us sports writers—who are certainly not qualified promotors or merchandisers — how best to promote or merchandise baseball.

I doubt whether the old guard in baseball would scrape off the barnacles of tradition and accept the advice of a qualified professional expert.

He would be listened to politely in some quarters but given a quick brushoff in others as a "foreigner." I have seen owners whose franchises were losing money, whose turnstiles were rusting and whose clients were staying away in awesome numbers, snarl at the well intended suggestion of a Madison Ave. advertising buff, "What do you know about baseball?"

Today there is terrific competition for the entertainment dollar. This is not confined to sports, either. Variety recently reported a tour of concert artists, singers, musicians and the like, was a flop. something went wrong. The highly cultured ladies and gents of certain areas who previously had supported the trouve remained home. But Variety posed the question—did they remain home?

It is possible they were enjoying satisfactory entertainment elsewhere. If so they were lured by better advertisements. They were sold on a substitute.

★ ★ ★

Veeck makes the hard core of do-nothing owners uncomfortable. In this day of box tops and giveaways, of contests to stimulate circulation, or lucky number deals on dollar bills, baseball owners prefer to go along with customs that prevailed in the McKinley administration. Those very men with the lowest turnstile counts were first to sizzle Veeck with "freak," "publicity-mad," "circus-master."

VEECK'S STUNTS SHOCKED CLUB OWNERS

Others huffed and puffed and piously intoned: "If we can't sell baseball strictly on its merits as a game without all this garbage we'd better shut up shop."

★ ★ ★

They didn't say what would become of stockholders' cash or what would become of the infielders, outfielders, pitchers, catchers, scouts, ushers and groundkeepers who would be thrown out of work.

Most owners were horrified. I prefer to believe they were horrified not at the stunts, as such, but at the money they cost.

Any time a professional promoter and merchandiser comes along from one of those despised advertising snake pits and politely intimates one must sometimes spend money to make money he is lucky to get out of the park without being tarred, feathered and ridden out on a rail.

★ ★ ★

Say, Horace, that's an idea isn't it? A tar-and-feather party . . . No? . . . Well, it's better than dead cats cluttering up your cashier's cage. As a matter of fact it's better than a dead franchise.

Knorr Group Gets Tigers for $5½ Million

not officially take over until Oct. 1, the first action may take place next week. They say Manager Bucky Harris, who has been openly criticized by Briggs, and General Manager Muddy Ruel, will be dismissed shortly.

* * *

The new owners refused to comment on the move. They said there would be a meeting next week of the new board of directors "to discuss several things."

Four trustees who control the estate of the late Briggs are certain to approve of the new owners and Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick announced immediately after the decision by the Tigers' board of directors that all members of the syndicate "are perfectly acceptable."

* * *

Other members of the syndicate are Kenyon Brown of New York and Hollywood, R. F. Woolworth of New York, George L. Coleman of Miami, Okla., Joseph A. Thomas of New York, Harvey R. Hansen and William H. McCoy of Detroit, Paul A. O'Bryan of Washington and Carl Lee of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Knorr is president of the Knorr Broadcasting Co. and Fetzer heads the broadcasting company that bears his name.

* * *

Their group beat down a spirited bid by Bill Veeck, who had owned the St. Louis Browns and the Cleveland Indians and wanted the Tigers "more than anything else in the world."

* * *

Veeck's combine offered $5,250,000. Although the directors, who voted 4-0 in favor of the Knorr-Fetzer group, said they did not discuss the other bids, it is known they frowned on Veeck's unconventional methods of promoting the sport.

* * *

Spike Briggs did not cast a ballot in the final decision since he is a stockholder in Knorr's radio company, and another director was out of the city on business.

The new owners will pay out a million dollars by Aug. 1 and another $3,600,000 by Oct. 1. The remaining $900,000 will be paid over a 5-year period.

* * *

Knorr and Fetzer, who posed for pictures for nearly an hour and spent another hour accepting congratulatory calls from coast to coast, called the Tiger purchase "quite a bargain."

* * *

"We feel very happy about the purchase," they said. "We are going to do everything we can to make Detroit prouder than ever of its baseball."

* * *

No other financial dealing in the sport approaches the Tiger transaction. August Busch paid about $4,500,000 for the St. Louis Cardinals and old Sportsman's Park; Dan Topping, Del Webb and Larry MacPhail shelled out $3,400,000 for the New York Yankees in 1945 and a group of Chicago industrialists led by Arnold Johnson paid an estimated $3,500,000 for the Philadelphia Athletics, which they transferred to Kansas City.

* * *

In the purchase, the Knorr-Fetzer syndicate gets what is regarded as one of baseball's best franchises and one of its finest parks.

Veeck today was still trying to upset the decision. He said he was making another offer to the Briggs trustees which he said would give the estate $6,750,000. Chances of his success were considered highly improbable.

He said he was offering $1,750,000 on Oct. 1, another $2,250,000 on Jan. 2, another $1,000,0 in five years at 5 per cent interest and another $1,000,000 in 10 years at 5 per cent interest. He also had another delayed pay plan of $4,000,000 on Oct. 1 and two other equal installments of a million dollars each plus interest.

Veeck said he was peeved at the Knorr-Fetzer bid with its "escalator" clause because his interpretation of the bidding rules was that only one firm bid could be offered by each syndicate. He claimed, and Knorr denied, that the winning bid actually had been two bids—one all cash and one with delayed payments.

Detroit Faces Yanks 4 Times

Tigers Open Series in N.Y. Tonight With the Leading Bombers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, floundering in the American League's No. 6 spot, moved into town today to take on the unpleasant assignment of a four-game series against the onrushing New York Yankees.

The Tigers, reportedly suffering from morale troubles stemming from the sale of the club and its properties, fared well the last time they met the Yankees in New York.

With the Yanks trying to stretch a six-game winning streak, the Bengals won three games in a row at Yankee Stadium, dropping the New Yorkers' hold on 1st place from 4½ to 1½ games.

* * *

This time Casey Stengel's boys are riding the crest of a 10-game win streak and are threatening to make a runaway of the American League race.

Milwaukee Sloop Takes Top Honors in Sail Race

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Gypsy, a 54-foot sloop out of the South Shore Yacht Club, Milwaukee, today won the 32nd annual Port Huron-to-Mackinac Island sailing race.

Joseph Schoendorf Jr.'s sleek yacht led the 62 entries across the finish line at 5:47 p.m. (EST) yesterday to take the Class A and overall honors. Gypsy finished the 235-mile run in 51 hours, 17 minutes and 5 seconds. Its corrected time was 49:51.08.

Forty-one boats had crossed the finish line this morning when it became evident no other boat could catch the Milwaukee attorney's craft. It was the 1st time Gypsy entered the Port Huron-Mackinac race. Last year Gypsy won the Class A division of Chicago-to-Mackinac Island race.

As the slowest rated entry among the eight in the Cruising Class A division, Gypsy automatically picked up 1st place in that division, only a few of the fleet had reached their destinations by midnight, all in the higher classes, and race officials said it was highly unlikely that any would beat out Gypsy for the overall title.

Several hours after the first yacht had finished, most of the fleet was all but becalmed between Presque Isle and the finish line. Others were still in Lake Huron.

Second boat to finish, almost three hours behind Gypsy, was the Hilaria, owned by Hugh Schaddeles of Grand Rapids.

Canadian Sorry He Missed Bid

Kent Cooke Reports Briggs 'Has Greatest Faith in Buyers'

TORONTO (AP)—Jack Kent Cooke, Toronto millionaire, says he was "very disappointed" that a group led by him was not successful in bidding for the Detroit Tigers baseball franchise.

* * *

Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League, said his group made an offer of $5,180,000.

The Tigers and Briggs Stadium were sold yesterday to an 11-man syndicate headed by Michigan radio executives Fred Knorr and John Fetzer for 5½ million dollars.

"I feel that if I had been born in Detroit, or was a U. S. citizen, it would have been nip and tuck and we might have got the franchise," Cooke said. "I know the people who got it. They are very fine people.

"I talked to Briggs today and he has the greatest faith in the new setup. He believes it will be a good thing for baseball in Detroit."

Loses Hawk, Gets Trout

A Tacoma, Wash., angler, Henry Hickok, comes up with this story, which he maintains is true.

Hickok hooked a 14-inch rainbow trout in nearby Clear Lake and was busily engaged fighting the fish when a hawk swooped to the water and grabbed the trout.

As the hawk, its talons firmly implanted in the trout, tried to gain altitude Hickok gave his line a jerk and the trout fell back into the water, where it took up fighting right where it left off when the hawk intervened.

The hawk flew off, somewhat perplexed by the whole episode. Hickok brought the trout to net, the winner in a three-sided battle.

Watrous, 2 Partners Win WDGA Event

By H. GUY MOATS

Combining his own individual card of 68 with the cards of two of his three "metro" partners for a pair of 64s, veteran Al Watrous of Oakland Hills CC yesterday won the No. 1 and No. 2 spots in the 1956 Women's District Golf Association Pro-Lady tourney. With a 3rd partner, Al compiled a good 67, to share the 4th place.

Winning total, for the best-ball test, was seven under par. Al's individual card, 68, was three under Tam O'Shanter CC's par of 71.

Watrous and Mrs. D. R. Jones (33-31—64) and Mrs. F. L. Thompson (32-32—64) were one-two. The 67 was with Mrs. J. P. Stapinskas.

At 66 were Wally Burkemo and his Franklin Hills partners, Mrs. M. D. Stein (33-33) and Mrs. Joseph Swartz (34-32). Burkemo's own ball was 68. With Burkemo at 66 were Knollwood's Michigan Open champion, Pete Cooper, and his two partners, Mrs. Sam Cohen (33-33) and Mrs. Sherwin Ross (32-34) and a 3rd 66 was made by Mac McElmurry and Mrs. George Wetlaufer of Plum Hollow (33-33).

Cooper's ball of 67 was the day's best individual total.

Among a large group at 67 were Cooper and Mrs. J. G. Israel (33-34); Bob Gajda and Forest Lake partner Mrs. F. Broock (34-33); Burkemo and Mrs. Beverly Straus (34-33) and Jack Hoffman and Marion Bertrand of Edgewood (32-35).

Playing with St. Clair Shores' pro Don Perne, Wiffi Smith fired an individual card of 79, two over women's par of 77 for the Tam O'Shanter layout. She and Perna had a best ball of 68.

There was also a large group at 69 and 70.

The feminine portion of the field included 88 women.

First two pros to finish were Burkemo, last year's champion, and Warren Orlick, Tam's pro and Michigan PGA prexy. They left immediately for a Detroit airport to catch a plane for Canton, Mass., to take part in the National PGA tourney. Burkemo is a former national champion.

The Other Side

Alston Explains 'Meeting'

CHICAGO (AP)—Brooklyn Manager Walt Alston says his "little meeting" with his players at Milwaukee last week was "greatly exaggerated" and he'd like to have his side of the feud story told.

* * *

Before departing for Cincinnati yesterday, Alston, a quiet, easy-mannered man, said, "It's something that has happened before, will happen again and probably happens with every major league team."

* * *

Alston has been dissatisfied with the way his world champions have been fumbling around and told them so after losing a game to the league-leading Braves. Some of the players later were anonymously quoted as being dissatisfied with Alston.

"I don't deny having told them off," said Alston, "but it's all greatly exaggerated and out of proportion. As far as the team is concerned nothing has been said about it since. But the papers have been making a big thing out of it."

Players' Wallets Stolen

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A thief walked into the locker room of the Greensboro Patriots baseball team Monday night during the fourth inning of play with the Wilson Tobacconists and walked off with wallets containing an estimated $2,000. He also got several watches and rings.

The Patriots and the Wilson team are in the Carolina League.

115 Teams Set Off on Dad-Son Tourney

One of the largest fields to take part in the Detroit District Golf Association's annual father and son tourney, was off the tees today at Pine Lake Country Club.

Pro Elmer Prieskorn said this morning his list totalled 115 pairs, "with more still coming in."

All defending champions were among the pairings, including the Bud Badgers, playing out of Red Run, Faust Bianco and son from Dearborn, Hermie Miller and son, and others.

Tourney is an alternate shot, selective drive best-ball affair over a 18-hole route.

Tribe 'Tightens' AL Race; Haddix Blanks Cards 2-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was the St. Louis Cardinals who tagged Harvey Haddix "The Kitten," but since trading him to Philadelphia, the stubby southpaw hasn't done much pussy - footin' around against his old mates. He's whipped them in three of four tries.

* * *

Haddix, who picked up the nickname because his mound motions resembled those of former Redbird lefty Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, made it three straight over the Cards last night 2-0 as the Phillies continued to make things rough for the National League's first-division clubs.

* * *

The defeat again put St. Louis at .500 and left them nine games short of the first-place Milwaukee Braves, who won their seventh in a row with a 2-1 decision over Piftsburgh on Hank Aaron's home run.

* * *

Cleveland "tightened" the American League race by defeating Boston 7-3 while rain idled the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox in the only other game scheduled. The Yankees now lead by a mere 10 games.

* * *

Gil Hodges' 19th home run followed two walks in the first inning for Manager Walt Alston's Dodgers as Craig, called up just a year ago to the day by the world champions, won his ninth.

* * *

Bob Lemon won his 11th of the season and No. 192 of his career with the Indians, sailing along on a two-hit shutout for seven innings. Jim Busby, who hammered his 10th home run in a three-run fourth inning, and Hal Naragon each had three hits in the Indians' total of 17. Frank Sullivan was the loser for an 8-4 record. Jackie Jensen hit his 11th homer for the Red Sox.

Bears All-Star Victors

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Bears unleashed a 13-hit attack including two homers by centerfielder Bob Martyn, to defeat the American Assn. All-Stars 10-8 in the 14th renewal of the league's All-Star game before a record throng of 19,769 fan here tonight.

Reviews Penalties

PCC Hears Plea for Holding Up Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A special meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference Presidents' Council goes into session today to review penalties assessed on four member schools for illegal payments to football players by alumni and booster organizations.

Dr. Fred C. Fagg, president of the University of Southern California, asked for the meeting and suggested the presidents agree to suspend all pending bans against athletes.

Hit hard by conference action, taken by the faculty representatives for athletics at the nine PCC member schools, were USC, UCLA, Washington and California. The faculty group has been asked to sit in at today's meeting.

Dr. Fagg proposed that a new code governing athletic scholarships be drawn and that punishment for past violations be patterned from the new code. Reaction to the special meeting call was mixed. Some presidents said they did not feel it necessary.

UCLA was placed on probation by the conference for three years, USC and Washington for two and California for one. Except in the case of Cal, football teams from those institutions will not be able to play in the Rose Bowl game or share in its receipts during the time of probation.

This amounts to a fine of about $26,000 per year. California was slapped with a direct fine of $25,000 and UCLA an additional $10,000 direct fine.

Raising the most controversy, however, were one-year ineligibilities placed against 42 football players and two track men at USC and the football players at UCLA.

163 Boys and Girls in Big Net Tourney

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Probably the biggest combined junior tennis tournament in the United States starts today at the Louisville Boat Club.

* * *

The Kentucky State Juniors, Boys and Girls Invitation, with a field of 163 from 20 states and Canada, has attracted some of the nation's finest young players. Six division champions will be crowned Sunday afternoon.

While there are tournaments that out-rank the Kentucky show, none combines the boys and girls into one big tournament.

"TOO EAGER" — Dave Sime, the 19-year-old Duke University sophomore whose muscle injury cost him a trip to Melbourne as one of the U. S. team's brightest track hopes, rehearses his starting stance on the lawn of his home at Fairlawn, N. J. Ricky, 6, an elementary school runner himself, copies his big brother's style. Sime, philosophical about his misfortune, says: "I can't blame anybody but myself — I was too eager and worked too hard."

Big Year for Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty victories, the season's mark most coveted by baseball's pitchers, probably will be reached by more major leaguers this season than in any year since 1951.

* * *

Johnny Kucks of the New York Yankees and Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox head the parade of the likely 20-game winners while 11 others also stand a good chance of making the grade.

* * *

This showing is in direct contrast with the 1955 campaign when only Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies and Don Newcombe of Brooklyn reached the prized goal. The American League, for the first time in its history, failed to produce a single 20-game winner.

Kucks, a sophomore, and Pierce, in his ninth American League season, each has won 13 games and dropped only four. Pierce can become the third White Sox pitcher in 15 years to win 20. Virgil Trucks did it in 1953 and Thorton Lee in 1941.

* * *

Other American League hurlers who have passed the halfway mark are Tom Brewer of Boston, Billy Hoeft of Detroit, Jim Wilson of Chicago, Whitey Ford of the Yanks and Bob Lemon of Cleveland, all with 11 triumphs and Early Wynn of the Indians with 10.

In the National League, Brooks Lawrence of Cincinnati and Newcombe head the pack with 12 victories, Bob Buhl of Milwaukee and Bob Friend of Pittsburgh have 11 and the Braves' Lew Burdette has 10.

Of this group, only Lemon, Wynn and Newcombe are prior 20-game winners. Lemon attained the prized total six times, Wynn three times and Newcombe twice.

Lawrence, one of baseball's big surprises, has compiled a unique record. He has yet to be defeated although he has had only five complete games in 17 starts. He is in position to become the first 20-victory man for the Redlegs since Ewell Blackwell in 1947.

The 1951 season was the last big one for 20-game winners. Thirteen pitchers bagged that many led by Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie of the Giants, who produced 23 apiece.

* * *

The combined record for both leagues is 17 pitchers with 20 or more triumphs set in 1903 and equalled in 1905 and 1920.

Long Expects Court Fight on Interracial Sports Ban

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Gov. Earl Long predicts a court fight against Louisiana's new law banning interracial athletic contests after Oct. 15.

Long signed the bill into law yesterday, throwing a question-mark over the future of the Sugar Bowl, the Texas League and other sports events.

* * *

The new law will prohibit "dancing, social functions, entertainments, athletic training, games, sports or contests and other activities involving personal and social contacts in which the participants or contests are members of the white and Negro races."

It also requires segregated seating and "separate sanitary, drinking water and other facilities for members of the white and Negro races."

* * *

Long said he signed the measure after weighing public reaction.

"The comment I've had over the state has run about four to one in favor of the bill," he said. "I'm going along with the majority.

"However, there are some features about it that I wasn't too pleased with and I hope it won't work any hardship. In my opinion, it will wind up in court."

Long gave no hint about who he expected to fight the new law.

* * *

Paul DeBlanc, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Assn., said in New Orleans the Sugar Bowl had no plans to file suit. Asked if the Sugar Bowl would continue inviting teams with Negro players, he said the organization was "a law abiding group."

He told newsmen: "We don't know what the future holds. This is new. We have no plans, but we are not canceling anything."

Fish Grabs Pole, but Is Caught on Line Tangle

A big, hungry bass that grabbed a night-crawler baited rig right out of a boat occupied by three fishermen, Saturday got himself all wound up in a combination of circumstances—and finally—in Charley Adams' freezer.

* * *

Adams, of Clarkston, fishing on Whipple Lake with Norbert Beckwith of Commerce and Stan Regier of 112 Cottage, Pontiac, had just put down his spinning rod to pick up a flyrod. The spin rig jumped out of the boat when the bass hit, and Adams thought it was gone, for sure.

* * *

Regier put on a "redeye" on his casting rod, tossed it out and was amazed when a big bass broke water. He brought in the line, found that he had hooked Adams missing gear, with a five-pound bass on the hook. Fish was a largemouth, 20½ inches long.

Associates and Tenuta Win Waterford Tilts

Associates Discount defeated Drayton Drug, 5-1, in a Waterford Junior League softball game Monday night at Drayton Plains. Dick Shell hurled a three-hitter for the winners.

Tenuta's Super Market, aided by eight walks, scored eight runs in the 1st inning and went on to trounce Rogers Electric, 16-4, in a Little League contest at Williams Lake School.

Stadium Shows Signs of Life

Resurgent Softball Team Rallies to Defeat Bicmar in City League Tilt

Stadium Inn, last year's Class B city softball champion, is reviving after a dismal start in the 1956 season.

The resurgent Stadium club, which upended Shaw's last week, continued its upward climb Monday night by rallying for three runs in the 7th inning to defeat Bicmar Inn, 3-1, in an American League game at North Side Park.

Don Wilson's single, a triple by Clark Baich, an infield out, and a four-base error by outfielder Bill Reed on Walter Wittkopf's drive brought Stadium its last-ditch triumph.

Verle Sheldon hurled the distance for Stadium while Hank Dudzinki was the ill-fated pitcher for Bicmar. Each hurler allowed only three hits.

All other City Softball League games last night were National division scraps. Richard's Tavern downed Lunsford Market, 8-5, and Oxbow Pavilion walloped Drive-In Cleaners, 14-3, at Beaudette, while Walled Lake Market rolled to a 12-1 decision over Franklin Products at North Side.

PCC Pro Bags Ace

Frank (Red) Wilson, Pontiac Country Club pro, last of the week bagged his first hole-in-one and contributed the 2nd ace of the season on PCC's 135 yard No. 2 hole. Wilson, former PHS all-around sports star, had a fine 67 for the 18-hole round.

Playing with Pete Peterson, Larry Foster, Charley Hadden and Bill Stoiloff, Frank played a 7-iron high and back of the pin. The ball took back-spin and rolled back into the cup from four feet up the slight rise. Hole is a par 3.

Michigan State has won the national intercollegiate billiards title the last two years.

Sime Not Ready to Quit

FAIR LAWN, N.J. (AP) — Dave Sime, his Olympic running hopes dashed by a groin injury, refused today to take his hard luck sitting down, he promised he'd come back.

* * *

"Obviously I'm not going to get a chance in the Olympics," the 6-3 speedster from Duke University said as he relaxed at home here with his parents and 6-year-old brother, Ricky. "But I'm not giving up track—not until I have a chance to prove myself."

The rangy, red-haired sprinter electrified the track world this spring by bettering three and equalling three world records.

After running a record 220-yard dash in 20 seconds flat at Sanger, Calif., he pulled a muscle in his upper left leg in the National Collegiate championships and failed to qualify for an Olympic berth.

Although his injury may be fully healed in the next two weeks, the U.S. Olympic Committee has a rigid rule that an athlete must win his place on the team in competitive trials. So Sime, who less than two months ago was acclaimed the greatest Olympic prospect since Jesse Owens, is out.

* * *

"I had intended to make this my last year of serious track and concentrate on baseball," young Sime said. "But I'm determined now to take another shot at Bobby Morrow, Ira Murchison and the others."

The Policemen collected six hits off the slants of Waterford's Chuck Gillis, who hurled the distance. They scored twice in the 4th and three times in the 5th.

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: cramped backswing

DIAGNOSIS: Turn too abrupt

TREATMENT: So much stress is put on "hitting from the inside out," or outward at a 40 degree angle to the right, that, trying to do it, players soon find themselves feeling pretty much like a human pretzel — all tied up, cramped, with a short, powerless swing.

To develop a full, grooved arc, the first and all-important thing is a one-piece backswing with a low sweep, straight back from the ball. Don't make the mistake of turning the shoulders and hips too quickly to the right. Being quick on the pivot ties you up.

* * *

Try this, as sketch shows: In the address, keep the arms close together, elbows tucked in, left arm straight. That's important—that straight left arm. It's got to be straight at address, and it's got to remain straight—a straight line from the clubhead to the left shoulder. No break of the wrists whatever at the start. They'll break naturally when the left arm has been fully extended.

* * *

It is when the swing reaches a point approximately opposite the right hip, as sketch shows, that the left side is admitted. That's where it begins to follow the backswing freely into a windup for power without effort.

FBI's Confidential Informants Pay Off in Capture of Criminals and Suspects

WASHINGTON (INS)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has disclosed that almost 2,000 criminal and subversive suspects were arrested last fiscal year through tips furnished by so-called "confidential informants."

This tabulation was Hoover's blunt answer to critics who have maintained that the federal government should scrap its use of informants and permit suspects to "face their accusers."

Hoover "emphasized the value of confidential informants to effective police work" in a report which said FBI activities reached all-time highs in many categories in the year ended June 30.

TIPS PAY OFF

He said G-men arrested more than 1,200 persons in FBI cases as a result of confidential information and that similar material gathered by the FBI and passed on to other law enforcement agencies brought an additional 750 arrests.

While reporting new records in many fields the FBI chief stated that "the investigative efforts of the FBI directed toward preserving the internal security of our nation cannot be measured by statistics alone."

Hoover said in summarizing the bureau activities: "In comparing the 1955 fiscal year with the 1956 fiscal year just completed, our records indicate convictions in FBI cases increased from 10,615 to 10,957."

SENTENCES INCREASED

He continued: "Sentences resulting from these convictions increased from 29,296 years, 3 months and 26 days to 29,992 years, 6 months and 14 days; fines, savings, and recoveries in FBI cases exceeded $123,000,000, an all-time high and more than double the 1955 figure.

"Additionally, eight life sentences and three death sentences were imposed. Apprehensions of fugitives in FBI cases totaled 8,755 for the fiscal year 1956."

The FBI's remarkable conviction record continued during the year. Convictions resulted against 96.4 per cent of the persons brought to trial in FBI cases as compared with 96 per cent the previous year.

Of the 10,957 convictions, 93.7 per cent were on pleas of guilty, while 6.3 per cent were the result of trials.

The fiscal year witnessed the first decline in more than a decade in the number of violations of the federal bank robbery statutes, with 470 reported as compared with 568 the previous year.

Wheat Sets Up Erratic Market

CHICAGO (AP) — A little profit taking came into wheat on the Board of Trade today after the very upturn in the previous session. Prices receded a cent or more at times but selling never became heavy.

Easiness in wheat produced an erratic market in other grains. Small losses were reported in most sections early but old crop corn managed to recover its lost ground as trading progressed. Corn supplies at Chicago declined again last week.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ to 1¼ lower, July $2.14; corn unchanged to higher, July $1.51½; oats ¼ lower to ¼ higher, July 72⅞; rye one cent to 1½ lower, July $1.36¾; soybeans unchanged to one cent lower, July $2.66; lard five to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $10.95.

Edison Profits Rise; Adds Two to Board

DETROIT (AP) Detroit Edison Co. reports its net profits climbed to $27,713,918 for the year ended last June 30, compared with $24,602,495 for the previous 12-month period.

President Walker L. Cisler announced election of H. G. Bixby, head of Ex-Cell-O Corp., Detroit, and Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, University of Michigan president, as board members.

The board also elected Edwin O. George of Detroit a vice president, effective Sept. 1.

In other action, the board began plans for an offering of convertible debentures up to $59,778,900. The move is subject to approval by the Michigan Public Service commission.

Aluminums Up on Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Aluminums were higher and heavily traded and oils made wide gains in highly selective stock market trading early this afternoon.

The list as a whole was irregular with many losses stretching to around a point or so and gains racing ahead to about five points for the leaders.

Alcoa stepped ahead four points and Gulf Oil five points as they continued yesterday's gains.

The Aluminum issues were resuming a trend brought to the fore by the steel strike, now in its 17th day, as steel-shy manufacturers turned to Aluminum to solve inventory shortages.

Aluminum Ltd. and Kaiser Aluminum were ahead around two points or so. Reynolds Metals advanced well beyond a point.

Meanwhile, steels were mixed as Youngstown dipped around a point, Bethlehem and Republic Steel edged upward and U. S. Steel shaded off.

As investors favored the oil division, Amerada advanced about two points, Royal Dutch and Getty around a point, Standard Oil (California) and Texas Co. good fractions.

But chemicals and aircrafts were step-sisters. Despite almost continuous announcement of aircraft contracts, this division slipped. Boeing dropped close to two points, United over a point, Douglas a fraction.

GM Executive Gives Warning

Goad Says Technical Methods Must Improve to Keep Living Scale

DETROIT (AP) — A General Motors executive says engineering and manufacturing techniques must be improved if the nation is to keep its high standards of living.

Louis C. Goad, GM executive vice president, told the Fifth Annual GM Conference for Engineering Educators yesterday that productivity per worker has had to increase to keep pace with non-worker population increases.

The non-worker population is increasing about twice as fast as the labor force, he said.

"Sience and engineering are at the roof of men's ability to translate nature's forces and materials to human benefit," Goad declared. "In the United States the growing benefits are shared in greater or less measure by some 167,400,000 people, a number which is increasing by one each 12 seconds.

"Of this total about one in each 160 is engaged in science and engineering, just a little over a half per cent. Their success in prying upward the moving curve of technical progress both in engineering and manufacturing makes the life of the average American largely what it is — at least from the material viewpoint."

Hudson Investors Ask Court Order

DETROIT (AP)—A group of stockholders in the former Hudson Motor Car Co. has asked for a court order requiring American Motors, Inc., to set up a $1,225,000 escrow fund to protect them.

The stockholders, representing 125,000 shares of Hudson stock, yesterday asked Circuit Judge Miles N. Culehan of Wayne County for an order establishing the fund while appraisers determined the value of their stock.

The fund would be set up on a basis of $9.80 a share, the price originally offered when Hudson merged with Nash Kelvinator to form American Motors.

The dissident stockholders refused the original offer, contending Hudson Motors' book value was $38 a share. They asked for an appraisal of the company to determine the stock value at the time of the merger.

In asking for the hearing, which will begin July 27, the stockholders group said the escrow fund is necessary because American Motors "has been losing money since its inception and has been negligent in its automobile manufacturing decisions."

1.2 Industrial Wastes — The term industrial wastes shall mean the liquid waste products from industrial processes as distinct from sanitary sewage.

1.3 Tile Disposal Field — The term tile disposal field shall mean a means of distributing septic tank overflow or effluent below the ground surface by means of a line of drain tile or a series of branch lines of drain tile laid with covered open joints so as to allow the overflow or effluent to be absorbed by the surrounding soil.

1.4 Premise—The term premise shall mean any dwelling, building or other place where human beings reside, are employed or congregate.

1.5 Sewer — The term sewer shall mean any enclosed watertight conduit for transporting sewage.

Section 3 Industrial Wastes

3.1 It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to dispose of industrial wastes in a manner which tends to create a dangerous or obnoxious condition, or creates a menace to health or safety, or impares the use by any person of any lake, stream, or other body of water.

Section 4 Construction Permits Required

4.1 It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation to construct, install or cause to be installed any septic tank, tile disposal field, cesspool, or other device for the disposal of sewage without first obtaining a permit from the Oakland County Department of Health. Application for such permits shall be made in writing in a manner and on forms furnished by the Oakland County Department of Health.

Section 5 Soil Suitability

5.1 All proposed plats and subdivisions shall have the approval of the Oakland County Department of Health prior to the acceptance of the plat or subdivision by the township, city or village when so prescribed. 5.2 In the case of subdivisions, percolation tests shall be performed by a Registered Engineer or qualified Sanitarian.

5.3 On subdivisions, the number and location of soil borings and percolation tests shall be determined by the Oakland County Department of Health.

Over four bedrooms there will be minimum liquid capacity of 200 gallons per bedroom without the addition of a garbage disposal unit and 300 gallons per bedroom with a garbage disposal unit.

7.2 Tile Disposal Field

The size of the tile disposal field shall be based on the percolation test rate in accordance with the following schedule:

Rowdy Teenagers Face Justice Court Today

JONESVILLE (AP) — Eight Detroit teenagers were scheduled for Justice Court arraignment today on charges of malicious destruction of property stemming from what State Police called a "wild party" at nearby Goose Lake.

The eight youths, who have been held in the Hillsdale County Jail since their arrest Saturday, are among 19 teenagers State Police said ransacked a lakeside cottage at a Memorial Day party. The other 11, all 16 and under, have been ordered to appear before a Probate Court Judge in Hillsdale today.

Michigan Public Service Commissioner Resigns

LANSING (AP) — John H. McCarthy's resignation as chairman of the Michigan Public Service Commission is on Gov. Williams desk, awaiting the governor's acceptance.

McCarthy reportedly is dissatisfied with his salary, which the Legislature repeatedly has refused to raise, and with the uncertainty of his tenure.

Fight Brewing on Civil Rights

South to Argue Directly Against Bill Today, Use Delaying Actions Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern House members prepared to argue directly today against the civil rights bill, and withhold their major delaying maneuvers until later in the week.

* * *

More than 20 members, some for but most against the bill, had asked for time to speak as the House started its second day of debate.

A 151-103 test vote yesterday on a procedural motion displayed what looked like a comfortable House majority for the bill, when and if it does come up for final passage.

* * *

Southern House members, confident that their Senate colleagues can kill the measure with a filibuster, nevertheless are fighting to delay it long enough in the House so it may not even get to the Senate floor before adjournment.

The Supreme Court's decision barring racial segregation of schools came into the debate at one point. Southerners asked whether the bill would enable the attorney general to file suits on behalf of Negro children denied admission to white public schools, even if the action were asked by an organization rather than the children or their families.

* * *

The bill would authorize suits on behalf of those whose civil rights are violated or threatened.

Girl Struck by Car, at Street Intersection

A seven-year-old Pontiac girl suffered a bruised shoulder when she was struck by a car at the intersection of Whitfield and Edison streets yesterday afternoon.

Jacqueline Robinette, of 51 Whitfield St., was treated and released at Pontiac General Hospital following the incident.

James A. Langford, 35, of 474 E. Mansfield Ave., told Pontiac police the child ran into the path of his car from behind a parked car. He said he had stopped to let three girls go across the street, and then just as he started up again, the Robinette girl ran back into the road.

St. Johns to Mark Centennial This Week

ST. JOHNS (AP)—There'll be an old-fashioned balloon ascent here this week.

It's part of July 18-22 centennial celebration plans for St. Johns, one of the first cities of its size in the nation to adopt the commission-manager form of government.

The 5,000-population community will put on a display of pre-1880 railway equipment and a $10,000 pageant with a cast of 500.

Actor Fractures Skull

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor James Anderson is in UCLA Medical Center Hospital with a skull fracture. Police said Anderson, who has been playing the role of a gun fighter in a movie, suffered the injury under unknown circumstances. They have been unable to question him because of his condition.

Portable Sets Getting Common

Video Invades Havens Such as Beaches and Automobiles

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Without much fanfare we have entered the era of the portable television receiver. I draw attention to it regretfully, but we must keep abreast of trends.

* * *

At least two companies now have a portable on the market. Others are on the way. Now it's reported that an official of one of these companies has been driving around with a model plugged to his car battery. Back seat riders in his car had a pretty good view of a program—so long as the car kept a straight course and hills didn't cut off the beam and so forth.

Thanks to the thoughtfulness of the New York State Legislature, it's illegal for a driver to have a TV set on the dashboard. Too distracting, the Legislature rightfully concluded. But it's okay for back seat riders to watch television. It's okay by the New York Legislature, that is. But it's not okay by me.

* * *

As an oldback seat driver of many years standing, I don't want a television program cluttering up my view of the road ahead. To say nothing of the view on both sides of the road. If I'm going to take a quiet ride in the country, I want to take a quiet ride in the country. If I want to watch television, I'll stay home.

The manner in which television has insinuated itself into our lives is truly amazing. Once the home was inviolate, one's privacy within it assured. Then came television, enabling any member of the family to ask in anyone he wished merely by twisting a knob. Well, that's progress, they say.

* * *

Granting the right of television to pursue us into the home, it seems right to draw the line somwhere. For now, with the advent of efficient portables, we are pursued out of the home as well as into it.

The other weekend we were invited to the shore. It was my firm understanding that these good friends did not have a TV set in their summer home. But before I could pull on swimming trunks, our host proudly unveiled a new portable TV.

* * *

"So you can watch TV," he said. "I've got a long extension cord so we can carry it down to the beach."

All this sounds as if I'm opposed to television per se and in toto. Not at all. I merely object to television pushing into every nook and cranny of my life, intruding on any spare moment and any random daydream.

* * *

I insist that television has no place on a beach. A beach is a place of wind and sand and sun and water, of mewing gulls and drowsiness. It has no place in a car. A car is a moving object affording a constantly changing panorama of hills and fields and woods.

The place for a TV set is in the home—from which one can escape to country or shore.

Suit Mushrooms as Phone Book Spurns Pizzeria

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Luigi's Pizza Carry Outs wants $31,600 because its phone number was omitted from the "yellow pages" section of the current telephone directory.

Louis H. Zachella, operator of Luigi's, filed suit in Fayette circuit court, seeking that amount from General Telephone Co. of America.

He said a telephone company salesman solicited the Pizza firm and obtained a contract to print the firm's name in bold type under a "restaurants" listing in the yellow, or classified, section.

But Luigi's was listed only in the white section, Zachella said.

The directory came out in May and Zachella seeks $1,800 in damages each month until the next directory is published—next May.

He asks an additional $10,000 in punitive damages for "gross negligence" by the telephone company.

TV Actor Dies on Street

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television actor William Stanley Blystone collapsed on a street corner and was dead on arrival yesterday at Hollywood Receiving Hospital. He was 61. Blystone had appeared in a recent Wyatt Earp series of films.

Snitches Britches

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Patrolman Leroy Greene reported that someone swiped his spare pair of trousers and a shirt from his control box while he directed traffic at an intersection.

Final Act of Clowns: Give Rabbit to North II

PITTSBURGH (AP)—John Ringling North II, young scion of the famous circus family, has a start today on a menagerie of his own.

John was on hand yesterday when his dad announced the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus will be seen in tents no more and is through for this season.

Clowns Frank Saluto and Billy Rice, who have used Bozo the Rabbit in their act, presented the animal to young John, urging the boy to "take good care of him."

'Sanitoria Society' Is Russian Upper Crust

By EARL WILSON

On The Russian Riviera—It's vacation time in Russia!

There are no ads shouting "Go to Siberia for the summer." The Russians go south—to the Caucasus Mountains — and I've been living it up with some of the Upper Clawsses who are members of "Sanitoria Society," down in Yalta and Sochi on the Black Sea.

"Sanitoria Society" is made up of those who go to the union-supported sanitoria to take the baths and treatments on their vacations.

This is indeed a high-rent district they come to and there are many well-heeled Commies hereabouts.

A woman bank manager about to retire on half pay told me she has a car, private home, and money in the bank.

"Why, you're a capitalist," I said.

"Yes, I suppose I am," she laughed.

On the beaches the men in shockingly skimpy loin cloths tell the Yalta bathing beauties, "Yalta be in pictures," and other jokes.

By our standards it's pretty dull, even though with the palms and the hills it looks like Hollywood.

In a local store a second hand suit was priced at $450. The men's gaudily-striped pajamas which they wear in the daytime on the street or beach came at $55.

★ ★ ★

"What do they do?" I asked.

Well, the men play dominoes instead of gin rummy (and there's no gambling) or tennis or "American billiards"—with billiard balls the size of baseballs.

And after supper some of them gladly go over to the luxurious Seaside Hotel where the cream soda pops just like champagne.

They dance to "St. Louis Blues," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Big Bad Wolf," "You're My Everything," "Sentimental Journey" and other numbers astonishingly jazzed up.

That's what they do, and then we saw some young fellows lingering in hallways making pretty speeches to young ladies outside their doors even as in the Catskills.

TV Blackout Called for Friday at 3:10

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be a 15-minute "blackout" of many radio and TV stations Friday as part of Operation Alert 1956.

* * *

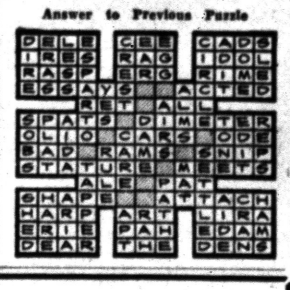

The Federal Communications Commission announced today that the first daytime "Conelrad" drill affecting all broadcast stations will be held on Friday, beginning at 3:10 p.m. (EST) and will continue for 15 minutes.

All broadcast stations, FCC said, have been requested to make announcements of explanation at convenient times during the four days preceding the drill.

* * *

In addition to calling attention to the local time at which the alert will begin, the announcements will explain that Conelrad is a system of broadcasting "devised to minimize the navigational information that can be obtained from our broadcast stations to prevent their being used to guide enemy aircraft and guided missles to their targets, which might be your city."

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

THE STORY: A dead man's body was reported in room 316 at the 10:30 o'clock Bert Paulson appears at Hisbiscus Hotel, but no body was found there. The room had been occupied by Miss Nellie Paulson. After at the hotel. He had unsuccesfully tried to corner Nellie at Private Detective Mike Shayne's place, but she escaped by the fire escape. Paulson wants to wait for his sister, but when the hotel detective offers to wait with him, Paulson makes an excuse and leaves.

XVI

Starting to turn back to his office, Patton saw Bill signal to him from where he stood beside the open elevator. He plodded across to him and Bill said eagerly:

* * *

"Joe, here, swears he's seen that guy in here before. Some time this evening; he thinks, but he's not sure."

"That's right, Chief." Joe scratched his head dubiously. "I know I've seen him. In the elevator, I reckon. Seems like I noticed him special because I thought he was trying to hold the scarred side of his face away from me. Like maybe he didn't want to be recognized."

"This evening?" demanded Patton tautly.

"I just don't disremember for sure," groaned Joe. "You know how it is, Mr. Oliver. Up and down. Down and up. You don't really notice. But that man with the scar on his face—he's been in this here elevator last day or so, and that's a fact."

Patton said, "Let me know if he shows up again." He went to the desk and gave the same instructions to Dick. "And have Evvie give me an open wire if he calls, or if anybody calls for Miss Paulson."

Then, remindful of Mike Shayne's previous interest in the girl, he lumbered back to his office to telephone the red-headed detective. Unfoturnately, Shayne's telephone was not answered.

10:34 P. M.

Before starting out to look for answers, Michael Shayne telephoned Lucy.

Her voice was acidly sweet as she replied in mock surprise, "Not finished with the blonde so soon, Michael?"

"All finished," he told her cheerfully, "so I decided to sick her onto you. She's not there yet."

There was a tiny pause, during which he knew Lucy was trying to decide whether he was kidding or serious. Then she said, "Not yet."

"She should be showing shortly. Be nice to her, angel. She's really in a state."

THIS IS SERIOUS

"Because you got rid of her so fast?"

Shayne growled, "This is serious, Lucy. Her name is Nellie Paulson—at least, I guess maybe it is. I don't know whether she's actually nuts or not, but she's on the fringe. Scared out of her wits. There's a guy out on the town hunting her with a gun who claims he's her brother and wants to take care of her. But she claims this guy murdered her brother and is after her now."

Lucy said pleasantly, "What interesting people you do meet, Mr. Shayne. Just what am I supposed to do with this damsel who doesn't know whether her brother is a murderer or murderee?"

AND, MICHAEL?

"Just keep her quiet there and take care of her," growled Shayne. "Put her to bed if you can. And don't let anyone get to her. Call me as soon as she gets there," he added hastily, "I'll be at police headquarters."

Lucy said, "Yes, Michael," in a subdued tone. Then, "And—Michael?"

"Yes?"

"Your glass of brandy is still sitting here and it's—still an hour and 25 minutes until midnight."

He hung up and got his hat, went down to drive directly to Miami police headquarters.

Will Gentry was still in his private office. He was closeted there with Timothy Rourke, a reporter and one of Shayne's oldest friends in the city.

Will Gentry was a big, square man, with a florid, open countenance.

"Just in time to spoil the point of my story. Thought you had a date with Lucy tonight?" Rourke said.

NO CORPSES

"I did. A blonde came between us." Shayne grinned at him and pulled a chair close to Gentry's desk. "Had any unexplained corpses tonight, Will?"

"No corpses of any sort. You?"

"Had any sort of trouble at the Hibiscus Hotel?"

"I don't think so." Gentry looked at the reporter. "You had anything, Tim?"

"Not a thing all evening." Rourke tilted his chair forward so all four legs were on the floor, leaned his cadaverous body forward eagerly "Got something, Mike?"

Shayne went on to tell about his first brief encounter with the young woman in the lobby who was so eager for him to take on an immediate tailing job, and his interview with the other girl upstairs. He omitted only the fact that he had given the girl a note to Lucy and told her to go there, ending the first part of his story with her locking herself in the kitchen while he admitted the man with the scar on his face.

"So, what do you make of it thus far?" he demanded.

Chief Gentry took the cigar butt from his mouth. With the easy accuracy of a major league shortstop throwing to first, he tossed it aside into a brass spittoon in one corner.

Woman Pushes Wrong Button, Sets Off Alarm

DETROIT (INS) — Entrances were blocked, civilians herded out of gunfire range and officers rushed to their posts when the jailbreak alarm sounded in the women's detention section of Detroit police headquarters.

Inspector Peter Soncrant rushed to the source of the alarm and found a young policewoman seated rigidly at her desk.

"I was going to use the telephone," she whispered, "and I pushed the wrong button."
