Committee Pulls Hoffa's Wife Into Rackets Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa was confronted today with evidence his wife and a friend — the wife of another union official — ran a $4,000 stake into $125,000 dealing with a firm for which Hoffa helped settle a strike.

Hoffa, in the witness chair of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, did not dispute the figures presented by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy but said Kennedy apparently speaking of profits "before taxes."

"Oh, did they pay taxes," Kennedy asked.

The profitable business dealings of the two women, dating back to 1949, were developed as Kennedy dug into the background years of the Midwest Teamsters chief, now risen to the point where he seems heir apparent to national leadership of this country's biggest union.

Kennedy went too into Hoffa's police record, and brought from the witness an acknowledgment that he once returned more than $7,500 to some grocers after he had been charged with extortion.

On this, Hoffa protested that the charge had been reduced to a misdemeanor and contended the matter was being put in an unfair light in its presentation at the committee's hearings.

Mrs. Bert Brennan, wife of the president of Teamsters Local No. 337 in Michigan, was named as Mrs. Hoffa's partner.

Under Kennedy's questions, Hoffa said the two women used their maiden names—Mrs. Hoffa's was Josephine Poszywak and Mrs. Brennan's was Alice Johnson—to set up a firm in 1949 known as Test Fleet.

Hoffa said he thinks they incorporated it in Tennessee.

The firm engaged in leasing trucks to an automobile hauling company named Commercial Carriers.

HELPED SETTLE STRIKE

Hoffa said he had helped to settle what he called an illegal strike against Commercial Carriers in 1949.

The first president of Test Fleet, Hoffa said, was James Wrape, a St. Louis lawyer who had represented Commercial Carriers in the strike negotiations.

Kennedy reeled off figures-asserting that $4,000 in cash had been converted into a six-year profit of $125,000 for Test Fleet. Hoffa said he wasn't sure about the profits but did not challenge Kennedy's computations.

Hoffa said the firm was committed to a $50,000 loan that would

Big Expansion Planned for UP

Over $420 Million to Be Spent in New Building Next Four Years

LANSING (AP)—A survey showed today that more than 420 million dollars will be spent for new construction in the Upper Peninsula in the next four years.

The survey was conducted by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and released by the State Economic Development Department.

The expenditures will include big outlays for federal government projects, industry and utility expansion, housing, mining and dock works and schools.

Projects at the K. I. Sawyer Air Base at Marquette will account for spending of 300 million dollars the department said.

Outlays will be for airfield and related facilities and more than 500 units of housing.

POWER EXPANSION

The Upper Peninsula Power Company has programmed 17 million dollars in New York, including a six million dollar municipal power plant at Escanaba, now under construction. The Edison Sault Electric Co. also plans a major expansion.

Other projects under way or planned through 1960, the survey showed, included:

Fibre-Board Plant of Celotex Corp. at L'Anse, under construction, $13,000,000.

Container Plant of Huss-Ontonagon Corp. at Ontonagon, $2,500,000.

Iron Ore Benefication Plant of M. A. Hanna Co. at Randville, $11,345,000.

$612,000 Goal Given for Area United Fund

Board of Trustees Sets Figure for Nov. 4-25 Community Campaign

A goal of $612,000—the same as last year — has been set for this fall's campaign by the Pontiac Area United Fund.

The figure was decided upon yesterday in a meeting of the Board of Trustees. The campaign, which includes Waterford and Pontiac Township, will begin Nov. 4 and run to Nov. 25.

The Pontiac figure was arrived at after a review of the 1958 budget requests of 55 participating agencies.

Each budget was submitted for review this spring to one of eight panels, made up of 50 citizens from all phases of community life.

These panels then recommended final budget requests to the Budget Committee of UF which in turn passed them on to the Administrative Committee, and then the Board of Trustees.

The Pontiac Area drive will be part of a statewide UF drive which seeks $3 million for 15 state and 17 national health and welfare agencies. Funds raised locally are divided between local needs and the state and national UF. Local needs get 90 per cent.

AFFILIATION NEW FEATURE

A new feature of this fall's campaign will be the affiliation of three townships which formerly were part of the Oakland County Townships United Fund: Brandon, Orion and Independence will conduct separate drives.

Heading this year's campaign is Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac Superintentent of Schools. He has announced tentative plans for increased coverage to reach all possible contributors and for a more efficient organization of solicitors.

He also hopes to introduce this year a "fair share" plan for contributions, which would relate them to income.

★ ★ ★

"The figure of $612,000 as set by the Pontiac Area United Fund Board of Trustees is, in my opinion, an absolute minimum goal," said Dr. Whitmer. He further stated:

"I feel sure the people of

GLITTERING BEAUTY—The sparkling float of the Downtown Pontiac Assn., sponsors of the gala parade last night, was a highlight of the event. Bedecked with pretty girls, the float expressed the association's salute to Pontiac Motor Division on its golden anniversary.

More Cool Weather Forecast for Tonight

Cooler weather is in the offing for this area tonight.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts fair tonight but turning cooler and becoming partly cloudy late tonight. The low will be 52-56 degrees.

Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and somewhat cooler with a high of 72-76. The evening low will be from 50-54 degrees.

Partly cloudy and generally cool with scattered showers likely is the outlook for Thursday.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 57. At 2 p.m. the mercury read 81.

Driving Habits in Japan Blamed for Collision

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP)— Mrs. Dorothy Sparks of Detroit told police she had just returned from Japan, was accustomed to driving on the left side of the road and that's the reason she had a head-on collision yesterday with another car on U.S. 65.

Neither Mrs. Sparks nor the other driver, William Andrew Horgan, 42, Slater, Mo., was injured.

Mrs. Sparks, 37, was en route to join her husband, an Army officer now stationed in Detroit. A highway patrolman charged her with careless driving and said she was on the wrong side of the road.

Sparks 9-Day Pontiac Motor Festivities Here

Variety Show Aug. 27 to Climax Celebration of Local Industry

A crowd estimated at 10,000 lined Saginaw street yesterday to witness a three-quarter hour parade which kicked off the public festivities in honor of Pontiac Motor Division's 50th anniversary.

The tribute to the city's major industry was emphasized by 10 elaborate floats contributed by business, industry and civic organizations.

Drawn by 1957 Pontiac cars, the floats, each bearing pretty girls, expressed the congratulations of the community on the golden anniversary.

The parade, staged by the Downtown Pontiac Assn., was a prelude to over a week of festivities which will be climaxed by a giant variety show, featuring a host of famous stars, on Tuesday, Aug. 27, at Wisner Stadium.

Tickets to this show are now being given away by many downtown merchants.

The parade had dozens of outstanding participants, including four bands, horses, drill teams, antique cars, baton twirlers and a calliope.

★ ★ ★

Particularly pleasing to the crowd were Detroit's Thomas A. Edison American Legion Post Band; the Dreyer Sisters of Orchard Lake, National baton champions; the St. Andrew Society Junior Pipe Band, from Detroit; the John F. Ivory ponies; and the antique Oakland and Pontiac cars.

Other stellar units were the Milford High School Band, the Ravenettes, the Sheriff's Mounted Posse, the Land-O-Lakes Majorettes and the Crystal Temple, BPOE Lodge Drill Team.

Senate Passes Money Measure

$1,824,000,000 Bill Cuts 150 Million From Ike's Requests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed a $1,824,000,000 supplemental appropriations bill. It was cut nearly 150 million dollars below President Eisenhower's requests.

The measure, passed by voice vote last night, now goes to conference with the House for adjustment. The House approved a bill carrying $1,581,590,000.

Most of the funds would go for military public works here and abroad.

The Senate added 3½ million dollars for a federal poultry inspection program, and tacked on $150,000 for farm housing research.

★ ★ ★

The Senate bill also would provide $800,000 for the Public Health Service to combat Asiatic flu; 100 million in loan funds and $2,570,000 in administrative money for the Small Business Administration; and $13,317,000 for the Tennessee Valley Authority, the same amount approved by the House but $1,465,000 below the budget estimates.

The Senate voted one million dollars for furniture and furnishings for its new office building now under construction.

The senators rejected by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to limit the furnishings cost to half a million dollars.

"We will be exposing ourselves to grave criticism if we vote ourselves a million dollars for new furniture when the furniture we already have is adequate," Douglas said.

But Sens. Chavez (D-NM), Stennis (D-Miss) and others said the cost estimates did not apply solely to office furniture, but included funds for equipping a cafeteria, furnishing committee rooms, and even a classroom for pages.

Release Parents of Boy Found Chained to Bed

CEREDO, W. Va. (AP)—The parents of a 13-year-old boy found chained to his bed were released in $500 bail today.

Robert Adkins, 36, and his wife, Dorothy, about 32, were arrested last night by policemen waiting for them when they returned home. They were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The boy, Charles Adkins, was found yesterday manacled to a bed by a chain and padlock.

The youth told police his father put him in chains before he went to work in nearby Huntington because "I ran off yesterday and stayed a long time."

The mother was away from the house when the police investigated after getting complaints from neighbors. A 15-year-old brother was caring for five other children, the youngest about 9 months old.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) urged today that Michigan be given priority in distribution of Asiatic flu vaccine because the state is an industrial center.

Strike Hearings Hit Court Snag

Mailers Claim State Lacks Authority in Newspaper Tieup

DETROIT (AP)—Legal maneuvers to resume publication of Detroit's three daily newspapers were stymied, at least temporarily today, by Union contentions that state courts have no jurisdiction in the case.

Circuit Court Judge Horace W. Gilmore said he would rule before the day was out whether his court has jurisdiction.

The morning arguments between counsel for the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Assn. and the Independent International Mailers Union and the Teamsters Union centered around union claims that the case is a federal matter.

The union claims that the National Labor Relations Board has an interest in the case and that therefore a federal statute, rather than state, should apply.

Good Neighbors Worth $700 to This Woman

A former Farmington Township woman now living in Florida can thank her old neighbors for the return of $700 in government bonds.

Mrs. Dorothy C. S. Mallick lost the bonds and some personal papers in a suitcase near Miami early this month.

From the papers, police discovered her name but found no Florida address. They found her former Michigan address, however, and sent a telegram to Farmington police.

Farmington called the township, which sent a man out to Mrs. Mallick's former home, discovered her new address from neighbors, and passed it on to Florida.

That's how Mrs. Mallick got her $700 back.

Balloon Begins to Descend

View 'Indescribable' 19 Miles Up

CROSBY, Minn. (AP) — "I have a ringside view of the heavens—it is indescribable."

This was the terse message early today from an Air Force major riding a huge plastic balloon toward a possible new altitude mark for such craft after setting 100,000-foot record, about 19 miles, yesterday in his first 15 hours aloft.

Dr. David G. Simons said by radio the night heavens ranged from deep violet to jet black and that he had an excellent view of the aurora borealis.

COMING DOWN

The giant polyethylene bag, 280 feet long and 200 in diameter, was launched from a 450-foot-deep mine pit here at 9:30 a.m. yesterday.

He began his descent today from the stratosphere after his balloon reportedly reached more than 100,000 feet for the second time in two days.

Col. J. W. McCurdy, Air Force spokesman in Minneapolis, said descent of the balloon is taking place somewhere along the North Dakota border about 40 or 50 miles west of Breckenridge, Minn.

At 8:30 a.m. the balloon drifted at 96,000 feet above Breckenridge, Minn., about 150 miles west of the Crosby, Minn., launching point. Indications were the balloon would continue to rise as the sun's warmth increased.

Maj. Simons reported the balloon dropped several thousand feet early today in turbulence created by a heavy thunder and lightning storm at 50,000 feet above Sisseton, S. D.

The balloon dropped to about 68,000 feet. Maj. Simons regained altitude by dumping ballast.

Simons described the storm to ground trackers as "a whale of a one" and spectacular to watch from above.

The pilot said he cat napped a total of about an hour. He spent most of his time observing the spectacle of night heavens ranging from deep violet to jet black interrupted by a vivid display of the aurora borealis.

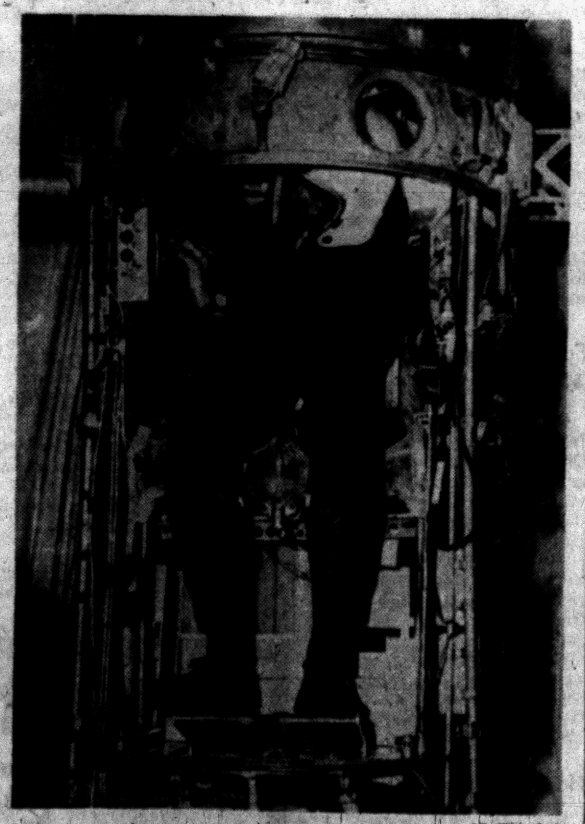

Aside from condition reports, ground crews tracking the balloon said Simons' radio is used mostly for data to be used in evaluating man's chances for survival in outer space. He also is taking hundreds of pictures.

Col. J. W. McCurdy of the Air Force evaluation team on the ground said Simons had reached the estimated 100,000 feet over Detroit Lakes—Fergus Falls, Minn. last night. The previous mark for manned balloons, 96,000 feet, was set in June by Air Force Capt. Joseph Kittinger in a test run for the current project.

McCurdy said there was every reason to hope that Simons today might exceed the projected 102,000-foot goal set for the big bag on its programed 24 hours aloft.

How long he stays up depends on Simons. McCurdy said determination of the time of descent would depend upon weather conditions and how sleepy Simons gets. To check on the latter, he said the pilot is required to send in hourly efficiency reports—readings from certain of the balloon's instruments — at a stated time.

Capitalistic-Style Comfort

Plush Service Offered by Soviet Jet

MOSCOW (AP)—The most luxurious thing in the Soviet Union is the Russian jetliner TU104.

Three stewardesses serve vodka, caviar on toast and fresh oranges. They fuss over you just like stewardesses do between Paris and London or between Denver and Los Angeles—but there is a difference.

You get fussed over so little in the Soviet Union that when it does happen you glow.

Seats do not recline far enough but they are soft and comfortable. The interior color pattern is red and pink and there are two capitalistic looking front lounges where the fortunates in this workers' paradise relax in flight and appear for all the world like corporation vice presidents on the way to a sales conference in Chicago.

The blast from two big jet power plants is bothersome toward the back of the plane but up front it is a kittenish purr and after two or three of those vodkas you can't hear the noise at all.

Each of the 70 seats is without a safety belt. Russians don't believe in them.

The TU104 is so fast you don't have long to enjoy the comforts. The medium jet flies from Moscow to Prague every day in 2½ hours. That's the same as flying from New York to Kansas City in about the time it takes to see a movie. Other TU104 routes go out of Moscow daily to Tashkent in the Uzbek Republic, to southern Russia and all the way across Siberia to Peiping.

It is the only jetliner in the world on regularly scheduled flights. Britain's original Comets were failures and the first American jets from Boeing and Douglas will not take on paying passengers for another couple of years.

This is a propaganda plum for the Russians. The pitch is skillfully done and no mention is made that the 104 is redesigned from a bomber and that it drinks jet fuel at such a prodigious rate no commercial airline in the world could afford to operate it.

Election Details Due on Aug. 28

City to Set Date of Vote on Bond Issue Proposal to Equip Hospital

Details of the special fall election to equip the Pontiac General Hospital addition will be disclosed Aug. 28, City Manager Walter K. Willman said yesterday.

At this time, the manager said, Pontiac's bond attorney Claude Stevens will present a proposed ordinance outlining the financial structure of the vote. City commissioners are expected to set the date of the election following Stevens' report.

The commission last week approved a $950,000 general obligation bond vote at the request of the Board of Trustees of the city hospital.

Trustees have endeavored since the defeat of the first hospital vote in May to find a means to equip the four million dollar addition and permit its opening at an expected completion date of next year.

Willman asked that information on what possible tax increase might ensue from the vote be withheld until Stevens' report is received.

Commissioners scheduled their weekly session a day ahead next week so as to not conflict with the huge Pontiac Motor Division anniversary show slated for Aug. 27.

The proposed $950,000 bond issue will pay for $433,000 in outstanding equipment orders and other "bare necessities for the operation of the enlarged hospital," according to Willis M. Brewer, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

What is the cricket rule? Do the chirps of the black cricket really give the correct temperature outside?

The cricket rule is widely recognized and thought to be infallible. It is simple and will give you the actual outside temperature to within one degree!

Here is the rule, long known by oldtime farmers nd weather observers: Count the black cricket's chirps for fourteen seconds. Add the number of chirps to the number 40.

The sum of the chirps heard in fourteen seconds, plus the number forty, will give you a temperature reading that will accurately reflect the reading on your thermometer. Check this natural formula next time you hear crickets, and prove it to yourself.

Quebec Anti-Union Mob Sacks USWA Offices

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (AP) — A raging mob last night ripped apart the offices of the United Steelworkers of America in this strike-torn mining community, then overturned and battered seven automobiles and a truck.

About 100 men, shrieking and leaping about wildly, tore into the union's second-floor offices on the main street of Murdochville, an isolated Gaspe Peninsula town.

The sacking of the offices came shortly after 450 labor delegates from all parts of the province departed after a demonstration that ended when police broke up a stone-throwing clash between the visitors and 200 nonstrikers.

TOSS OUT FURNITURE

All the office furniture and equipment was heaved out of windows, and cars carrying pro-union stickers were overturned. Tires were slashed and upholstery torn out.

★ ★ ★

The attackers, many carrying blackjacks and knives, were finally halted by a 30-man provincial police squad, rounded up and ordered to company bunkhouses. There were no arrests and no injuries. Property damage was confined to the offices and vehicles.

6 INJURED

Six men were injured earlier in the day when the stone-throwing incident threatened to erupt into a pitched battle between nonstriking employes of Gaspe Copper Mines, Ltd., and the visiting labor delegation.

The delegation was headed by top labor officials, including Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, and Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor. They arrived here early yesterday from Quebec City and set up picket lines. Some carried placards with the slogan "The union is here to stay." One of the principal purposes of the demonstration was to get permission for the USWA to picket.

Police gave special permission for the demonstrators to picket during a 24-hour period. When the lines were set up a group of nonstriking workers, standing on a high elevation overlooking the mine gate, began exchanging insults with the union members. Stones were thrown and six union members were injured.

POLICE MOVE IN

The provincial police detachment ordered the nonstriking company staff back to their quarters and pushed picketers back to the company gate.

The union pulled 1,000 men off the job more than five months ago, mainly to back demands for certification.

★ ★ ★

Last summer the company obtained a writ of prohibition restraining the Quebec Labor Relations Board from acting on a USWA application for certification. The matter is still before the courts. Since the union is not certified the company maintains the strike is illegal and refuses to negotiate.

STORM IN MIDDLE EAST — Map locates Middle East countries affected in various degrees by seizure of power in Syria by a group of pro-Soviet officers.

Syria Tells U.N. Delegates to Point Up Peace Threat

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syria today instructed its United Nations delegation to call the attention of the Security Council to a "serious threat to Middle East peace" stemming from an alleged American plot against the Syrian regime.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Syria did not demand any specific action by the Security Council.

Relations between Syria and the United States have been sagging steadily and reached a new low with Syria's announcement that the United States was behind a plot to oust President Shukri Kuwatly.

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar blames the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine for the poor relations between the two countries, contending the doctrine aims at destroying the independence of the Arab world and delivering it "into Zionism and imperialism."

Bitar told a news conference yesterday the U.S. program is to blame for Syria's current troubles with the United States.

Bitar declared that countries which accepted the Eisenhower Doctrine had become "nests of intrigue and plots against Syria and Egypt."

U.S. Embassy officials have labelled the Syrian charges a "complete fabrication."

Three U.S. Embassy officials were withdrawn at Syria's request and the United States pulled out its ambassador and ousted the Syrian envoy in Washington.

Military Men Censoring Stories on Syria News

BEIRUT (AP)—Military officers are censoring every story on the Syrian crisis filed by correspondents from Damascus.

Legally, however, there is no censorship. It was lifted along with martial law a few weeks ago. It has not been reimposed formally. When newsmen turn in their dispatches at the cable office, the radiograms are given to a military officer. Newsmen have no idea what, if anything, is being deleted from their copy.

Foreign Aid Bill Tested Today

Ike Group May Learn if Plea for Restoration of Cuts Was Successful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration may learn today whether it was successful in its plea for restoration of much of the $809,650,000 cut by the House from new foreign aid funds.

The big test was due in the Senate Appropriations Committee which arranged a closed-door meeting to consider the aid bill.

It appeared the group was closely divided on the question of increasing the House figure of 2½ billion dollars in new foreign aid money.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said he was hopeful a substantial amount could be restored. Sen. Pastore (D-RI) said that where the national security was involved he was prepared to resolve any doubts "in favor of the experts who have the responsibility for defending this nation."

Similar views were voiced by Senators Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Holland (D-Fla).

Secretary of State Dulles told the committee yesterday that if the House cuts stand, it would pose "a serious crisis of confidence in the United States and the dependability of its policies."

If Congress no longer is willing to follow the leadership of the President, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the State Department and its own foreign policy committees, Dulles said, "then the free world in turn may not be prepared to follow the leadership of the United States and the whole foundation of our security structure is endangered."

Identify Body of Man Found Tied in Lake Erie

EAST LANSING (AP)—The trussed body of a man found in Lake Erie Saturday was identified today by state police as that of Leo Difatto, 39, of Detroit, a parolee from Southern Michigan Prison.

State police said identity was established through fingerprints.

The body was found off Luna Pier, near Monroe. The man's feet had been wired together and a weight tied to them. In addition, his body was tied with wire and a plastic clothes line.

State police said they now were investigating to determine if the death were chargeable to gangland vengeance. An autopsy, however, failed to establish the cause of death.

Hoffa's Wife Pulled Into Rackets Probe

have been due if the firm's business failed.

Hoffa said Bert Beverage, president of Commercial Carriers, guaranteed the loan.

STRIKE IN FLINT

Hoffa also said that a "man named Beidler" audited the books for Test Fleet, and that Beidler was Commercial Carriers' accountant.

Hoffa said a group of employes had called a strike against Commercial Carriers at Flint, Mich., in 1949 in a dispute because the company had decided to use company-owned trucks instead of leasing them.

Hoffa said he entered the negotiations because he considered the strike was illegal, and feared a "very serious law suit." He said he finally settled it.

But within 90 days, he said "somebody generated a strike," threw a picket line around the plant, and again this had to be settled.

It was after this, he said, that the Test Fleet firm was created.

The 44-year-old Hoffa was brought to the stand as the culmination of three weeks of hearings into charges that he placed racketeers in key New York Teamsters unions posts to capture union political control of the area for Hoffa.

POLICE RECORD

But Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, opening the questioning, swung first into Hoffa's background and police record.

Kennedy asked how many times Hoffa had been arrested.

"I don't know, Bob," Hoffa said. "I think it was about 17 times I was picked up. In many instances the charges were dismissed but in three of these cases there were convictions."

Kennedy said in one case the grand jury charged Hoffa with extortion in the collection of money from some grocers.

Flaring up Hoffa said this charge was later reduced to a misdemeanor.

"I'm not saying you were guilty of extortion," Kennedy told him.

"You're implying it, sir," Hoffa retorted. "You're implying that I am guilty of extortion and it isn't true."

RETURNED $7,500

Kennedy said that anyway, as a result of the case, Hoffa returned some $7,500.

"I think really it was something more than that," Hoffa said.

Hoffa told the senators when he took the witness chair that he was reserving the right to refuse to answer any questions he regarded as outside the scope of their investigation.

In giving his background, Hoffa said that in addition to being a union vice president, in charge of its Midwest area, he is president of Teamsters Joint Council 43 in Detroit and president of Teamsters Local 299 in Detroit. He said he had been in the Teamsters since about 1932.

Hoffa was natty in a chocolate brown suit and brown tie.

He greeted friends or acquaintances in the crowd and reached out to shake hands.

Drain Bid Accepted for Whitfield Estates

A low bid of $11,487.79 was accepted yesterday by the Oakland County Road Commission for storm sewer construction to relieve flooding in Waterford Township's Whitfield Estates subdivision.

The bid, submitted by a Southfield Township firm, Carlesimo and LaMarra Construction Corp., was approved by Waterford Township, which is paying half the cost.

Flooding in the subdivision, which suffered heavy damage during July rainstorms, is expected to be relieved when the sewer is completed this fall.

As a result of a clerical error, the low bid was announced Friday as being $100 higher than the actual figure, said commission chairman Sol Lomerson.

Caro Woman Injured in Four-Car Collision

A Caro woman was injured yesterday after being involved in a four-vehicle rear end collision on Opdyke Rd. about one-fourth mile north of Featherstone Rd., in Pontiac Township, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

Marjorie Johnson, 30, was treated and released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. The other drivers, none of whom were injured, were Martin A. Walzer, Jr., 28, of 977 Miller Rd., Lake Orion; Lloyd D. Horner, 55, of 1399 Seymour Lake Rd., Oxford; and Olin Jay Shephard, 38, of Mayville.

DR. LELAND L. MARION

Dr. L. L. Marion Dies at Age 62

Was Pastor of Christian Temple Which He Had Organized in 1938

Dr. Leland L. Marion, 62, pastor of the Christian Temple, died yesterday afternoon in his home, 1105 James K Blvd. He had been in ill health for about six years.

Trained as an architect and builder before entry into the religious field, Dr. Marion came to Pontiac as pastor of the First Christian Church in 1932 from Hammond, Ind.

He was born on a farm near Brown City on March 6, 1895. His parents were John L. and Rebecca Hillis Marion.

He attended school in Brown City and Phillip Bible Institute at Canton, Ohio, and was graduated from Bethany College in West Virginia.

In January 1935, the National Bible College and Seminary of Kansas conferred the doctor of divinity degree upon him.

In April 1938, Dr. Marion resigned as pastor of First Christian and on May 1 of the same year organized a new congregation known as Christian Temple. Until the building was erected on Auburn avenue in 1939, members met for services in a store at 56 Wayne St.

Founder and only pastor of the temple, Dr. Marion has been assisted in the organization by his wife, the Rev. Mrs. Lola Marion, who also preaches.

Dr. Marion had also started a mission in Birmingham and Flint.

In 1945, the pastor was a candidate on the America First ticket for governor.

Besides his wife, whom he married in Crown Point, Ind., in 1925, Dr. Marion leaves four children, Mrs. Robert Dufresne of Walled Lake, Mrs. Harold Rouse of Pontiac, Robert D. Marion of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Donald C. Marion of Pontiac, and two brothers.

Dr. Marion's body will be at the Farmer-Snover Funeral Home until 10 a.m. Thursday.

It will then be taken to the Christian Temple, where it will lie in state until the service at 1 p.m. Burial will be in the Evergreen Cemetery at Brown City.

Serving as pallbearers will be Arthur VanZandt, Ralph Johnson, Robert Laird, Ernest Owen, Carl Newmann and James Marshall.

5 County 4-H Members in State Judging Contest

Five of the 41 Oakland County 4-H members who entered the district eliminations judging contest last week have won the right to compete in the State 4-H show to be held at Michigan State University Aug. 27-30.

The quintet of girls will be included in the 112 entries from Oakland County. Many of the other entries became eligible for the state show following county fair competition.

★ ★ ★

The winners include: Margaret Braid, 16, East Orion 4-H Club, Lake Orion, clothing judging; Kathleen Abbey, 17, East Orion 4-H Club, food preparation judging; and three Milford 4-H members: Donneate Finch, 14, food preservation judging; Betty Jane Short, 15, home improvement judging, and Janet Long, 16, dairy judging.

★ ★ ★

Sue Sturgis, county 4-H agent who announced the judging winners yesterday said the purpose of the contest was to teach boys and girls to make a decision and then explain their reasons for that decision.

Leaves Hospital Post

CADILLAC (AP) — Sister Maureen, RSM, superintendent of Mercy Hospital at Cadillac the past two years, left Monday to assume the administration of the 300-bed Mercy hospital at Bay City. She will be succeeded at Cadillac by Sister Mary Grace, RSM, of Mercy Hospital at Manistee.

News Flash

MANILA (INS) — Two U. S. jet fighters collided between 5,000 and 8,000 feet today and smashed into the ground. One pilot was killed but a second made a safe parachute landing. Air Force spokesmen at Clark Field withheld the identity of the dead pilot pending notification of next of kin.

Thief Knew His Furs, Took Best at Statler

DETROIT (INS) — Police reported today that a thief with good taste in furs walked out of the Hotel Statler last night with 17 mink jackets, stoles and coats with a retail value of $30,000.

New York fur salesman William Lewis, 63, told police he discovered the theft at 8 p.m. when he returned to 1405, a security room at the Statler.

Lewis, employed by Abe Patrox, Inc., said, "The thug knew his furs and took only the best."

A hotel elevator operator said she took a man down from the 14th floor just as Lewis returned from dinner. She said the man was carrying two bags.

Fund for New Giraffes Aided by 2 Youngsters

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A fund to buy two new giraffes for Oklahoma City's zoo was $60 richer today after two youngsters telephoned for a police escort for their contributions. The zoo's two giraffes died last month.

The boys—Grand Lord, 10, and Kurt Austin, 7—were picked up yesterday by a police cruiser, along with a small safe and a gallon jug, loaded with pennies.

With red light blinking and siren wailing, the officers delivered the boys and their pennies to the Park Department. The boys promised: "We'll collect some more."

How to Get Attention

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Elsa Schenkel, a city tax clerk, dropped her pencil and got fast action from 10 males. The 10, all policemen, showed up when Mrs. Schenkel, in picking up the pencil, accidentally triggered the holdup alarm.

The Day in Birmingham

Commissioners Approve Project for Maple-Bates

BIRMINGHAM — The necessity of the Maple-Bates alley was approved by commissioners last night.

Three new owners of abutting property objected to the alley on the grounds that they have just purchased these properties and are desirous of making arrangements for tenants and construction.

They were told that there was no need of granting their 60-day delay request, since the project would not be included in this year's construction.

The approval of necessity was given merely as a token agreement that the alley should be constructed.

Commissioners said they are hopeful that before the actual construction starts some other arrangement may be made.

The current plans call for a deadend alley, which is not considered satisfactory but is the best of several plans presented.

Additional study will be made during the coming months in an attempt to get a safer, more easily acceptable type of construction.

The current estimate which includes construction and acquisition of land, is set at $61,000. Commissioners pointed out that, with the dedication of land by property owners, this could be reduced considerably.

Safety equipment including, flares, reflectors, red flags and fire extinguishers were stolen over the weekend from seven tractor trucks parked at the Associated Trucking Lines, Franklin Road, according Bloomfield Township Police Chief Clark Green.

Five of the trucks were owned by the association and two by the Kramer Trucking Co.

Green also reported the weekend theft of two 24-inch boy's Schwinn bikes from the garage of the Lewis Saba home, 7369 East Greenwich Dr.

Charles C. Currie, who requested paving on Southfield road in front of Baldwin Manor Apartment house, is being advised that the work is scheduled in a regular city program.

City Manager L. R. Gare said that the paving program is established on a basis of need and the Southfield Road section will be taken care of in the order of necessity.

U.S. Boiler Welders Firm with a low bid of $960, has been awarded the contract for the repair and retubing of the boiler used to heat Baldwin Public Library.

Walton Zoning Issue Debated

Waterford Board Fails to Decide on Proposal to Allow Gas Station

A proposed rezoning on Walton boulevard from residential to commercial, to permit building of a gas station, produced an hour-and-a-half discussion at Monday night's Waterford Township Board meeting, but with no results.

The request for rezoning dealt with 1.22 acres on Walton near Indianwood Manor Subdivision. The rezoning had been approved by the township zoning board but disapproved by the Oakland County Zoning Coordinating Committee.

The latter group felt the rezoning constituted "spot" zoning and was needless in that there were other commercial lots available in the area.

Some residents of the area were present to protest the rezoning while other residents defended the move as beneficial to the area.

★ ★ ★

The lot in question is primarily swamp land and is being filled in and landscaped by the prospective gas station builders, eliminating an eyesore, some residents said.

The problem finally was tabled for further consideration next week.

ACCEPTS SEWER BID

The board also accepted a low bid of $11,547 of the Carlesimo & LaMarra Construction Co. for construction of a storm sewer for the Whitfield Estates Subdivision.

Other board action included the approval of the pole right-of-way for the Detroit Edison Co. for servicing the new township junior high school; approval, pending Liquor Commission action, of an SDD license for the Elizabeth Lake Pharmacy, Inc., 3891 Elizabeth Lake Rd.; and approval of a used car lot application for James deRose at 3140 W. Huron St.

Two other zoning applications were tabled, as was a discussion of the dump agreement on Lochaven road, at the spot now used by the Baldwin Rubber Co.

Scrap rubber collection during World War II averaged 6.8 pounds per capita.

Profit 'Earned' by GM on Jets

AF Man Says Speed on Contract Accounts for Excess Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Air Force spokesman says General Motors earned its almost $18 million excess profit on a contract for jet fighter planes.

Lt. Col. George W. Thompson, chief of the pricing staff division, said GM's performance on the controversial 1952-55 contract for 599 planes was phenomenal.

The $344 million contract is under study by a House armed services subcommittee.

The comptroller general has said an audit has shown General Motors realized a profit of $16,459,200 in excess of the profit contemplated on the contracts for F84F Thunderstreaks.

The specific point in yesterday's hearing was March 1955 negotiations for the last 300 planes in the contract.

Richard Saxton, chief Air Force negotiator for the last segment, said the last plane was delivered more than a month ahead of anticipated delivery.

"That's where they made their profit—they finished a lot quicker than we had figured in our price," Saxton said.

Reps. Herbert (D-La), subcommittee chairman, and Hardy (D-Va) asked why General Motors couldn't anticipate the speedup and reflect it in the price negotiations.

Hardy said undoubtedly there was good production, but added it was almost unbelievable that GM couldn't predict what it was going to do.

Saxton said General Motors "surpassed normal experience—that's all there is to it."

Straits Bridge Cost Less Than Expected

CEDARVILLE (AP) — Resourcefulness in design and construction of the 100 million dollar Mackinac Straits Bridge held the cost 30 million under what it might otherwise have been.

The estimate was made by Dr. David B. Steinman, designer and chief engineer on the bridge project. Steinman discussed the bridge, now nearing completion, at a Chamber of Commerce meeting.

He cited these statistics:

Engineering work on the structure required two million manhours. A total of 85,000 blueprints had to be prepared, and 4,000 large engineering drawings.

Six million rivets and high tension bolts were used on the bridge, with the necessity of an engineering calculation and check on each.

Over one million tons of concrete and steel went into the structure, and the labors of more than 10,000 men—about 2,500 employed in construction on the site and the rest in quarries, mines, mills and shops.

How Aging Affects Heart and Blood

(Ray Henry has asked a group of specialists of the Public Health Service, the government's chief health agency, to tell some of the things being done to keep people healthy and happy when they get old. This is the third of a series.)

By DR. MILTON LANDOWNE
Gerontology Branch,
National Heart Institute

People used to be more fatalistic about old age, but past fatalism isn't the whole reason for our lagging knowledge of aging. Until recently it hasn't been possible to measure many of the subtle changes of age in the body.

We in the Heart Institute would like to know: What happens to the heart and blood vessels with age? How do these changes relate to those in other parts of the body?

For a long time blood pressure has been seen to rise, pulse to slow and tissues to shrink with age. Scientists have wondered, among other things, if this means that the aging heart tends to pump less blood.

Now we have methods that can measure changes in the heart's blood pumping that accompany age. Recently in the Heart Institute we conducted a study of this problem.

Dr. Martin Brandfonbrender, Dr. Nathan Shock and I measured the output of the heart under resting conditions in a group of men aged 19 to 86 who showed no evidence of heart disease.

OLDER PUMPED LESS

We learned the hearts of the older people generally pumped less blood than the younger. The decrease, we found, avarages about one per cent a year after age thirty. Although slower pulse plays a part, the decline is mostly the result of less blood being pumped at each beat.

Then, we set out to find what this decline in output means in terms of the aging heart and circulation. For this we had to consider accurate measurements of blood pressure.

Since most of the work of the heart is to pump blood under pressure through the arteries and tiny blood vessels of the body, the job done by the heart is measured by its pumping work, in terms of pressure and flow. The condition of the blood vessels may be measured by the resistance which they offer.

Thus with these two categories of measurement—volume of blood pumped and blood pressures—we could learn something about age changes, not only in the work performed by the heart, but in the condition of the blood vessels of the body.

We found that the resistance to flow against which the heart must pump increases significantly with age, mounting from year to year a little more than the output of the heart falls off. We found, too, that the actual work the heart performs tends to fall off with age.

What do these findings mean? Should we be distressed to learn that our hearts, while we are at rest, do less and less work as we grow older?

Not if this is because our bodies are demanding of our hearts less and less work. This seems to be the case.

We know that as we grow older many of the "working" tissues of the body tend to actually decrease in volume, thus demanding less from the heart.

But our studies show too that the older heart, though less is demanded of it, is not really as effective as the younger one. With the increase that we found in resistance to flow, more of the energy available to the heart must be spent overcoming friction and balancing pressure, and less is available for actually propelling blood.

CLEAR & PREVENT CLOGGED SEWERS
FOR ONLY $3.95 2-lb. Treatment

IT'S EASY WITH NEW R-D!
AN AMAZING DEVELOPMENT FROM THE HERCULES CHEMICAL COMPANY.
Exclusive new formula contains no lye, caustics or acids — absolutely safe in septic tank, cesspool or city systems.
New Hercules R-D chemical formula is the most economical and effective method ever found for preventing and clearing root stoppages. With Hercules R-D, there's no need for expensive labor, the unsightliness and trouble of digging up lawn and pavement. All you do is pour R-D crystals directly from the box into the toilet bowl. The exclusive R-D chemical compound does the rest.
One 2 lb. application of Hercules R-D will not only remove these roots permanently, but will prevent them from forming in your sewage system again! Semi-annual treatment with Hercules R-D will assure you root-free sewer and drain lines.
SO EFFECTIVE . . . YET SO SAFE! Hercules R-D is an exclusive formula of crystals and fine powders developed solely for root removal. It kills only the dangerous root . . . it cannot harm trees, lawns or shrubs . . . in fact, it can't even discolor a single leaf. AND R-D IS HARMLESS TO HANDS OR CLOTHING!

Simply pour R-D into toilet bowl or directly into sewer line. R-D crystals dissolve and are absorbed by the root. Fast-acting chemical kills the root — but does not harm the tree or shrub.
In most cases, R-D travels through the root and destroys it even beyond the sewer line. And that root cannot grow back into the sewer line to cause stoppage again!
GUARANTEE: R-D MUST WORK OR YOUR MONEY BACK
Use R-D as directed. If it doesn't clear your clogged sewerline of roots and prevent these roots from growing back for 6 months, Hercules will refund the full price.

Horse, Youthful Riders Are Rescued From Well

DAVISBURG — Although the children of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ewald of 11610 Davisburg Rd. rode the family horse into a well yesterday, they're no worse for wear today.

Preschoolers Linda and Danny, with Linda at the reins, rode up to an apple tree near their home to pick some of the fruit. An old wooden covering on the well upon which the horse stood gave way and horse and riders began going down.

Mrs. Ewald snatched Linda, but Danny, still riding, went down with his mount. As the animal sunk lower, the mother reached down in and hoisted Danny out.

As for the horse — she went to the bottom of the well.

Mrs. Ewald called the Springfield Fire Department, which, with neighbors, responded. They were unable to lift out the horse, so the Oakland County Road Commission was called.

After an hour and a half of work with truck and hoist, workers retrieved the animal.

Today, Danny, after a visit to the doctor, is pronounced "okay." The horse, with colt, though bruised, cut and suffering some from shock, will be all right, according to the local vet.

SUSAN A. TOBIN

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip G. Tobin of Novi are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Susan Adelle, to Stuart James Hutchins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart P. Hutchins of Rochester. The couple, both of whom have attended Michigan State University, plan an October 5 wedding.

New Camp Units to Be Dedicated

Tamarack at Ortonville Being Developed on 'Village' Basis

Five new units at Camp Tamarack, the Detroit Jewish community's camping facility at Ortonville, will be dedicated on Wednesday.

Units to be dedicated include: the Julius Berman Lodge, donated by the family of the veteran Detroit business leader; the Camp Tamarack Waterfront facilities, endowed by a bequest from the late Maurice H. Sobell; the Montefiore Lodge Cabin; the Mina and Theodore Bargman Arts and Crafts Building; and the Kadimah Club Tennis Courts.

The Camp Tamarack site, acquired by the Jewish Welfare Federation in 1950, is being developed on a unique "village" basis. Each village is a self-contained unit of six cabins and a dining and recreation lodge for 48 campers and a small staff.

The first unit at the camp was opened for use in 1953. Additional facilities and units are added as funds are made available. At the present time, the camp can accommodate 675 children for three week periods.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the summer camp, Camp Tamarack is used on a year 'round basis as an older adult camp under auspices of the Jewish Community Center, for overnight campouts of the Jewish Community Center day camps, for a teen boys' service camp, and for excursions and seminars by community groups.

Another 600 children are served at the Fresh Air Camp at Brighton. Both camps are operated by the Fresh Air Society, a Torch Drive Agency.

Church Women Slate Festival on Sunday

LAKE ORION—A public festival, being sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Alfred Episcopal Church Sunday, will open following the 11 a.m. service and last until 5 p.m.

Activity, to take place on the church lawn, will include pony rides and games for children. Refreshments will be served.

The new church, to be open for inspection by guests, is located at M24 and Indian Lake road.

Parents Club Carnival Today

Evening Event to Be at Auburn School, to Benefit Boys Club

The Parents Club of the Auburn Heights Boys Club is sponsoring a public carnival, to be held from 5 to 10 tonight, at the Auburn Heights Grade School grounds on Squirrel Road.

The carnival will feature baked goods, candies and a snack bar. There will be a merry-go-round, horse and tractor rides to appeal to the small fry, while games of skill are planned for the elders.

A handcraft bazaar will offer merchandise of all sorts and the elephant booth will be well stocked, according to publicity chairman Virginia Burt.

Merchants and others in the Pontiac Avon area have contributed generously to make the carnival a success. All profits will be turned over to the Boys Club Building fund.

In case of wet weather, the event will take place at the same time Thursday night, at the school.

To Reside on Campus After Honeymoon

AUBURN HEIGHTS—To reside on the campus of Eastern Michigan College in Ypsilanti after a Lewiston honeymoon, are the new Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin E. Forbush who were united in marriage at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

★ ★ ★

About 200 guests witnessed the ceremony performed in the United Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Harry J. McCann. The bride, former Carol Ann Wahl, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Wahl of 3136 Margaret St., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Forbush of 106 Cherryland.

MRS. BENJAMIN FORBUSH

The bride wore a white satin covered with Chantilly lace appliqued with pink roses. She carried a white lily on a Bible. A flat caplet held the fingertip veil.

Mrs. Barbara Dixon, sister of the bride of Waterford Township, attended as matron of honor with Wanda Holland of Auburn Heights and Nancy Harlyvitch of Rochester as bridesmaids.

Brother of the bridegroom, Robert Forbush Jr. serves as best man with Harold Reddaway of Auburn Heights and Ronald Dixon of Rochester seating the guests.

Diane Reddaway and Judy Herr of Auburn Heights served as flower girls and Roger Dickson of Waterford Township was the ringbearer.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors.

Reuther's Offer to Industry One-sided

Unless important details have been withheld, the current suggestion of WALTER REUTHER'S is one of the flattest utterances of a waning summer.

He must have been "tetched" by the heat.

★ ★ ★

"Cut the price of all cars about a hundred dollars," says REUTHER, "and when we make our new demands, we'll take it into consideration."

What a statement!

★ ★ ★

Cutting the price of the major cars $100 a piece means the automobile industry would sacrifice about six hundred million dollars in income. For this monumental contribution, they would receive back "some kind of consideration," at the hands of Mr. Reuther.

Isn't that something?

The three automotive manufacturers should logically reply:

"Cut the hourly rate ten cents an hour, and we'll take it into consideration when we price the 1958 models."

Russia Supplies Arms to Anti-West Mid-East

Since President NASSER of Egypt made his arms deal with Czechoslovakia two years ago, Russia has built up considerable strength in the Middle East.

Last June the Soviets sent a naval force of six ships through the Dardanelles and delivered three submarines to Egypt. Arms lost to Israel are being replaced by the Russians and Cairo continues to pour out vitriolic propaganda against the United States.

Syria is receiving heavy shipments of Soviet weapons and now Yemen, a small country in the southwestern part of the Arabian Peninsula and bordering on British held Aden, is becoming a major center of USSR arms. Seven shipments have been reported so far, including planes and tanks. Communist technicians and advisers, including pilots, go along.

★ ★ ★

Any country which shows signs of being anti-Western can get arms from Russia. Yemen is strategically situated at the crossroads between Asia, Africa and Europe. Great quantities of oil are in this area and any interference by Russia would work hardship on Western Europe. The present trouble between Saudi Arabia and the Sultanate of Muscat plays right into Soviet hands.

★ ★ ★

This buildup by Russia is dangerous. The United States, in or out of the United Nations, soon may have to take some decisive step to combat the threat.

Treason Appeals to Rich as Well as Poor

BORIS MORROS' report on the present status of the Russian Communist infiltration into the United States has some interesting facts. This sixty-two year old film and stage producer recently completed twelve years of undercover work in which he served the F.B.I. as a counter spy while the Soviet espionage heads believed he was spying for them.

★ ★ ★

"Many of the Soviet's most active workers in this country don't come from the rank and file nor the underprivileged," he says. "They are important people, financially independent and often held in high esteem. They have the kind of contacts which will be useful to the Soviets, and they are being paid for their job of treason to the United States."

★ ★ ★

MORROS warned that the Russian plot against the free world is "far more strongly organized than is generally known."

★ ★ ★

This man knows the facts. He has won high praise from the F.B.I. for his long and dangerous service. His work ended when his testimony was needed to convict Jack and Myra Soble and George and Jane Foster Zlatovski as spies for the Soviet Union.

Despite the way Russian troops slaughtered the people of Hungary, there still are Americans who will sell out their country for money.

Got Lumber Here

First Pontiac Made Auto Bodies Home Grown Wood

Fishing: An art about which you can learn more in a barber shop than on a lake.

In connection with this golden anniversary, it is interesting to note that the first automobile bodies made in Pontiac were largely composed of a material that grew in Oakland County. It was the wood from our oak, hickory and ash trees.

Before changing to auto bodies, local factories like the

and others had manufactured wooden buggies, carriages, wagons and sleighs in such large numbers that our city became one of the nation's leaders in that capacity.

Through a large part of their activity they were able to get their raw material in Oakland County. But the local supply of wood was about exhausted soon after the change to auto bodies was made, and they were obliged to go to new fields, where the primeval forest had not been lumbered off.

Such trees now exist here only in rare cases. But in the intervening years a new second growth has come to a size that is renewing to some extent the supply of raw wood material. However, wood has largely been supplanted by steel in auto making.

A New Border

David Lawrence Says:

Naive Americans Aiding Red Spies

WASHINGTON — The arrest of a high officer of the Soviet secret police who has been gathering and transmitting secret defense data from this country to the Communists, and the revelations of an American businessman who has for 12 years been an undercover agent of the FBI, participating in Communist espionage operations in America from the inside, ought to open up the eyes of many well-intentioned but incredibly naive Americans who have been pooh-poohing the Communist menace.

LAWRENCE

Boris Morros—a counterspy for the FBI—issued a few days ago, with the permission of the U.S. attorney in New York, the most significant statement about Communist activity in this country that has yet come to light. He said:

"I know from personal information and experience that Soviet espionage has made considerable infiltration in this country. Many of the agents working for Russia are important people, financially independent and often held in high esteem.

"Many of the Soviet's most active workers in this country don't come from the rank and file, nor the under-privileged. They are people who have the kind of contacts which will be useful to the Soviets, and they are being paid to do their jobs of treason in the United States."

Those Supreme Court justices who live in a vacuum might well ponder what this undercover man now tells.

Likewise, those so-called "liberals" who have been unwittingly lending their prestige to a kind of blanket protection of Communists and sympathizers—as being merely addicts of some kind of "philosophy" or "political" belief—might prepare for a sad disillusionment as they read what Boris Morros has learned about the work of Soviet spies in America.

DON'T CALL DIRECTLY

For no Communist spy calls directly on a newspaper editor or on a member of Congress or on a political leader to exercise influence. Somewhere in between the espionage apparatus and the official or institution sought to be reached is a "contact"—with no foreign accent or identification—who attempts to use Americans as tools of Moscow. This is the most baffling kind of screen that faces the detective arm of the government, the FBI.

Sometimes there is another type of "contact" who himself is unaware that anything has been "planted" on him. Also there may be other intermediaries beyond him who help to relay a suggested course of action which ultimately would be favorable to the Communist cause, particularly in the field of propaganda.

Then there is the "cover" technique by which, according to Morros, 55 business firms in the United States were "covers" for Soviet espionage. Morros told the House Committee on Un-American Activities how the Communists had proposed to expand his own small recording company in Hollywood.

"This firm," said Morros, "was to serve as an espionage cover and provide an opportunity to legitimize Soviet agents as representatives of the firm."

POOR SUPREME COURT

Yet a majority of the Supreme Court say they don't know what an "Un-American activity" is and why the committee wants to expose "Un-American activities."

"I want to emphasize," says Morros, "that the Russian plot is far more strongly organized in this country and throughout the world than is generally understood by our people. . . .

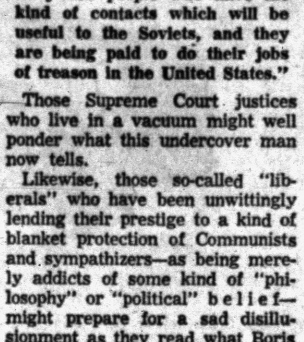

"Another Russian agent, a prominent American woman . . . not only said the same thing (suspicion about Morros) but she reported her suspicions to the second secretary of the Russian embassy in Washington. I had a number of close shaves but none closer than when this woman's 'report' on me was received in Moscow while I was there, 'conferring' with the heads of the Russian secret police."

Yet there are many persons who want to throw monkey wrenches into the machinery of exposure which Congressional committees have been using effectively.

The Country Parson

8-20

"Having the right friends is important to a fellow—but having the right enemies may be better proof of his character."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Dad's Role in Childbirth: Monkey in a Cage

Irrespective of hospital rules or regulations, alleged health board orders or risks of infection, there is no scientific reason why man and wife should be put asunder at the supreme moment of their wedded life—the birth of a child.

DR. BRADY

When anyone complains that the doctor or the hospital will not "allow" a man to remain with his wife in any and all stages of labor, I yearn to kick somebody in the circumstances.

This weakness of prospective fathers is attributable to their education, or rather lack of education, in parenthood. Instead of studying everything the expectant mother studies and accompanying her when she goes to the doctor for instructions, the untutored husband prefers to run out and play, leaving his wife to carry on alone.

PLAYS 'MONKEY ROLE'

After all, that's the way the snooty hospitals and the conniving doctors like it. So the poor boob enters the cage to play the monkey role while his wife is carted off to some secret inner chamber to have her baby—or maybe to be prevented from having it until the doctor arrives.

It is ridiculous to exclude the husband from the room where his baby is being born on the ground that he might bring infection into the room, and then crowd all newborn infants together in one little room, where, too often, fatal infection is transferred from one infant to the next.

Now it is far beyond my capacity to maintain a directory service of doctors or institutions.

All I can do is to let you know what's going on. If you really want to know, ask your doctor or any doctor whether he or she attends confinement at home, or if not whether he or she will refer you to one who does. If the doctor gives you the brush-off, the heck with him. Canvass the entire list of doctors in the community until you find one who is using 20th century methods.

Do likewise with lying-in institutions, public or private. Inquire whether you may be at your wife's side in the delivery room. If the answer is not entirely cordial, the heck with the place.

If you can't find an institution that respects the dignity of patients and their families, remember what I have said here many, many times.

Home is the best place to have a baby.

To begin with, prospective parents will find the primer Preparing for Maternity instructive to read together. For a copy send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

C. of C. Deserves Praise for Beautifying Grounds

I recently observed in The Pontiac Press an article regarding the Chamber of Commerce's efforts relative to the beautification of the Oakland County Court House lawn. This was certainly a kind gesture on the part of this organization, and I think they should be commended for such a deed.

In recent days I have noticed the appearance of the grounds around the city and county offices in the downtown area. Has anyone stopped to notice the decided difference in the appearance of the Oakland County Jail? I think the Sheriff of Oakland County should be commended for the beautification and cleanliness of this institution.

Workers Whistle as Drivers Pass

Why do men who work at Baldwin Rubber Plant stand around and whistle at us motorists as we go by? It annoys us while driving. Agrees With Adult About Girls in Camp

I read in Voice of the People the item of 14-year-old girls need chaperones. I would like to show my appreciation to this adult who had the courage to put his conviction into print. As a member of a working crew in one such camp, I know what goes on. Girls of that age are too young to cope with those fellows who believe they are God's gift to women.

I'm not saying that chaperones are the answer, because I've seen parents who are just as bad as these fellows.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Discusses Merits of Reading Lips

Mary raises a very interesting problem. Until mankind learned how to carry on conversation, he made little progress. But when we lose our hearing, how can we keep up with the remarks of our companions? Scrapbook this practical case. Use the paired words below as a party game and invite a speech therapist to address your men's club or women's organization.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-362: Lola J., aged 42, is hard of hearing.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, in one of your columns a few months ago you mentioned the educational problems of the deaf," she began.

DR. CRANE

"And you told about the manual alphabet, plus the sign language, as well as lip reading.

"But we folks who have gradually lost our hearing can profit a great deal by lip reading, too, don't you think?

"So would you please write a column on that subject?"

LIP READING

Yes, and I am very happy to do so.

For I spent five years as Research Psychologist with the National Research Council and the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C.

And the problems of the deaf formed the basis for those five years of special investigation.

Children who lose their hearing before they have ever learned to speak, seldom can talk clearly, despite the best work of our talented teachers of the deaf.

But if a child did not lose his hearing till he was in the second or third grade, even though he may no longer be able to hear a single word, he may still speak very well. In fact, he may even sing.

For the "feel" of speech is still with him and thus helps regulate his voice.

Lip reading, however, is a great boon to everybody, whether we are deaf or possessed of good hearing.

And all of us have subconsciously learned some of the basic laws of lip reading, even if we never have enrolled in such a special course.

READING TEST

Alas, many words resemble each other when viewed by the totally deaf person, so he is thus handicapped in his lip reading.

Examine the five pairs shown below and see if you can match the words in the left hand column which are visual "twins" of those at the right.

(a) Veal	(v) Goat
(b) Mamma	(w) Tag
(c) Coal	(x) Palm
(d) Balm	(y) Papa
(e) Lag	(z) Feel

Inspect your own face in front of a mirror, as you say the words shown above, and you will realize why lip readers often get confused.

For the letters "m", "b" and "p", thus look alike on the lips. So do "v" and "f", as well as "c" and "g", etc.

★ ★ ★

If we have normal hearing, we can easily detect the nasal vibration when "m" is being sounded. Just close your lips and utter the letter "m".

The letter "p", however, is purely a breath sound. Deaf toddlers are asked to blow out a candle in little puffs, as they are taught "p".

But "b" involves the vocal cords just before the lips are parted. Utter these three letters and you will get the difference at once.

Such vital data are a great value even to us hearing folks and are doubly essential to people who are growing progressively deaf.

In some of our large cities, special low-cost speech clinics offer courses in lip reading. I am told that the Indianapolis clinic is subsidized by the Community Chest so weekly lessons are priced at only $5 per semester.

It would be well worth the cost if normally hearing people would all take such a semester of training in the mechanics of speech. And certainly those with hearing loss should enroll.

★ ★ ★

A skilful deaf lip reader learns the art of steering the conversation by asking questions first, and thus limiting the field of conversation.

Singapore Phone Strike Halted After 44 Days

SINGAPORE (AP) — A 44-day-old strike of nearly 1,000 employes of Singapore's telephone board has been called off after intervention by Chief Lim Yew Hock.

Agreement to end the strike was reached last night by representatives of the telephone board and the employes' union. Under the agreement the board will give employes one month's pay as a loan repayable in six monthly installments.

A meeting on wage demands—over which employes and employers reached a deadlock resulting in the strike—was to start today. The wage demand covers 20 points.

Free Seaway Fight Goes On

Group Seeking Tolls on St. Lawrence Travel Asks Congressmen's Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — A committee formed to fight a toll-free St. Lawrence Seaway move has appealed to 60 congressmen from New York and New Jersey for their aid.

Officials of the bistate group, known officially as the New York-New Jersey Committee for a Self-Supporting Seaway, said at a news conference yesterday they are trying to head off efforts by prospective midwestern users to operate the seaway with "low tolls or no tolls."

Public conferences on seaway tolls are scheduled for next month in Washington, D. C., and Chicago.

The committee, which plans to expand into a nationwide organization, has contacted similar groups in other cities seeking a united front against proposals to have taxpayers foot the bill for the seaway and its operation.

The seaway is to open the Great Lakes in 1959 to ocean-going ships that draw as much as 25 feet of water.

SELF-LIQUIDATING

When Congress voted in 1954 to allow the U. S. to participate with Canada in construction of the 500 million dollar waterway, the measure provided that the work was to be paid for in 50 years under a self-liquidating toll structure.

James W. Danahy, committee chairman, said there is "no question here of opposition to seaway as such."

The committee said it was seeking a toll rate "that will be low enough to attract the traffic, yet adequate to provide revenues sufficient to pay for the cost of the seaway."

If these efforts fail, Danahy said, "the taxpayer will be the fall guy—and midwestern business and foreign shipping lines will be the principal beneficiaries."

Heads Air Defenses

DETROIT (AP) — Brig. Gen. Clarence T. Edwinson, former division commander of the Strategic Air Command, is the new director of Detroit's air defenses. He succeeds Maj. Gen. Benjamin J. Webster, who was assigned to the Pentagon in Washington.

Bob Considine Says:

Navy Secretary Gates Now Punching Bag

NEW YORK (INS)—"This is the first time I've ever been operated on without an anesthetic," Secretary of the Navy Tom Gates said to a friend in the wake of a recent snafu over the announced closing of a naval hospital.

Gates, one of the smartest, best-natured and courteous men on the Eisenhower team, was widely accused lately of being "rude" and "arrogant" to a delegation of Californians who converged on San Diego to discuss with him the scheduled closing December 31 of the 750 bed Corona (Calif.) Naval Hospital. It was charged that he brushed them off with a handshake or two and disappeared

Actually, Gates was never told he was expected to meet with the group. Congressman Dalip Saund, who later joined in roasting Gates for snubbing the group, was a guest aboard Gates' plane. Not once during the 3,000-mile flight from Washington did Saund mention that he had alerted his people about a meeting with the secretary.

Gates had just undergone a press conference in which he explained why the hospital and many other drains on the Navy's appropriation dollar had to be lopped off, when—upon leaving for his next appointment—Saund asked him to say hello to a group.

There was still no mention of a meeting. Gates shook hands all around, posed for several pictures, bid them a cordial farewell, and went on about his business.

He was not aware until the next day that after a talk with Saund, the group had become embittered enough to issue blasts at the secretary and threats of repercussions at the polls.

When it was time for the Gates' plane to start its flight back to Washington, Saund and Mrs. Saund stepped aboard as if nothing had happened. Saund has said there will be an "investigation" of the closing of the hospital.

Teapot tempest? Perhaps, but it is a sample of the pain and ruffled political feelings that attend any shrinkage in federal spending. The secretaries of the several branches of the Armed Forces, for example, are the likeliest targets of any vote-conscious congressman whose district has been affected by a cut-back.

The Corona Naval Hospital is a peace casualty, and the area can no longer count on income from the hospital's doctors, nurses and patients. The Navy says there will be no hardships, medically speaking. There are still hospitals at San Diego and Pendleton, as well as hospital ships at Long Beach.

The irony of the attacks on Gates and men like him is that Congress itself ordered the cuts which individuals in the Congress decry when the orders are carried out.

A further irony is that quite frequently a congressman who has beat his breast in righteous indignation over the shutdowns of some profitable installation in his district will — having made his show in front of his constituents—call up the secretary and say, "I know you had to do what you did."

Gates tried to explain on the coast that he will effect savings in the Navy's investment in his home state, Pennsylvania, just as readily as anywhere else. To protect the Navy's shrinking funds, and keep its hardware ahead of the enemy's, Gates recently lopped 18,000 civilians off the payroll and mothballed 60 more outmoded ships. For port merchants, the retirement of those ships were as if 60 full payrolls were lost.

So Gates gets rapped.

Shortly after a nationally syndicated columnist rapped him last week, Gates' Pantagon phone rang. Sherman Adams was on the phone.

"Welcome to the club," said the greatest punching bag of them all.

Nurses' Club Has Reunion

Pontiac Press Photos

Pontiac State Hospital Nurses' Club held a reunion for employes on the hospital's picnic grounds Saturday. Dr. Ivan A. LaCore (right) superintendent of the hospital greeted the former employes. Mrs. Davy Gilpin (left) was general chairman. Mrs. E. J. Gass (center) of Detroit was graduated from the hospital's training school in 1901.

It was a real reunion for Archie Gillies (center) of Holly and Dr. S. A. Butler. Mr. Gillies was graduated from the training school in 1895. Dr. Butler joined the hospital's staff in 1908, and was retired in 1953. Discussing earlier days with the former employes is Mrs. Oswald See, a dietitian at the hospital, and vice president of the club.

Capital Hub for Library Card Plan

Local Branches Buy Book Descriptions Printed There

BY ANNETTE DAVIS
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — Anyone who has used the card catalog to find a book in a local library has shared in a gigantic project masterminded at the Library of Congress.

In the fiscal year just ended, the Library of Congress sold over 26 million cards to libraries throughout the country. All types of libraries use the service: the public library for the general reader, school and university libraries, and special libraries maintained by research and business organizations.

★ ★ ★

For a few cents a piece, any library can get cards which describe a book by author, title or subject. The cards are essential to keep track of the books and to know where to find them.

STARTED IN 1901

Before the Library of Congress started its card catalog service in 1901, each librarian decided the best way to describe a book.

★ ★ ★

"It's not as easy as one might think," said the deputy chief assistant librarian at the Library of Congress, Miss Lucile M. Morsch. "Many times there is the question of divided authorship and, especially in the case of women authors, someone has to decide which form of the name to use."

By using cards printed at the Library of Congress, libraries everywhere benefit from the services of experts in the specialized field of descriptive cataloging, she noted. "Also," she said, "this establishes a uniformity in libraries all over the country."

WINS AWARD

Miss Morsch was largely responsible for the book, "Rules for Descriptive Cataloging in the Library of Congress," which has been adopted by the American Library Assn. For her outstanding achievements in the field she received the first Margaret Mann Award of the A.L.A. in 1951.

★ ★ ★

In June Miss Morsch became the 12th woman president of the American Library Assn. since the group was organized in 1876. The male predominance is partly due, she believes, to the fact that, with some exceptions, men have held the top jobs in library work although women far outnumber men in the field.

As president of the association for the 1957-58 year she hopes to encourage both men and women to enter library work. There are 10,000 vacancies, she says, and new libraries are opening up all the time.

Kay L. Bell Is Married on Saturday

Reception Held for 75 Guests at Bride's Home

President of the State Hospital Nurses' Club is Mrs. Cora Harrington (left) of Wisner street. She is shown greeting Arthur Ballard of Elizabeth Lake road, who was employed by the hospital in 1902. He was graduated from the two-year training school in 1904.

At 3 p.m. Saturday Kay Louise Bell of Edwards street became the bride of John E. Englund Jr. The Rev. Carl W. Nelson officiated at the ceremony in St. John Lutheran Church.

The bride's parents are Mrs. Margaret Pankey of West Hopkins street and H. B. Bell of Cass Lake road. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Englund of Motorway drive are the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding, the bride chose a powder blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses and stephanotis.

Ruth Warrener, as bridesmaid, wore an orchid dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

★ ★ ★

Joel A. Englund served as his brother's best man.

Mrs. Pankey wore light blue with white accessories while Mrs. Englund chose a navy lace dress with pink accessories.

A garden reception for 75 guests was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

For traveling to northern Michigan, the new Mrs. Englund changed to a dark brown linen two piece dress with matching accessories. The newly weds will live on Murphy street.

Attending the wedding from out-of-town were guests from Chicago, Ill. Neenah and Commonwealth, Wis.

★ ★ ★

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored at showers hostessed by Mrs. Jack Malmquist, Mrs. Carl Gustavson, Mrs. Joel Englund and Mrs. Robert Bell.

Don't Put Camera in Dusty Place

When traveling by car with your camera, keep it on the seat beside you. The two best places for it, from the point of convenience, are actually the worst. The glove compartment is hot and dusty. So is the back window ledge.

A dusty camera will give you blurry pictures and it's hard to tell just what will happen to your snapshots if you let the film get too hot. But you won't like it.

Look Before You Leap!

Clothing Tips for College-Bound Girl

By GRETTA PORTER

Take it from one who has just finished a college career, planning a wardrobe that is both utilitarian and collegiate is more difficult than the fashion magazines would have us believe.

★ ★ ★

Before you jump into a buying spree, sit down and do some planning. First, how much money do you have to spend? DON'T spend more than you can afford. If you plan wisely, you should have no trouble following your budget. Of course, wise planning does not keep you from longing for that "beautiful cashmere coat or pair of alligator shoes" BUT you will shoot your budget if you succumb to such luxuries.

After you have determined how much money you will have, go through your wardrobe and start weeding! Sort out all the things that you know you can't use at college. If you have been planning on college, you probably already have some things. Don't throw out everything you own just because you wore it in high school. The teenager today often dresses more collegiately than the collegian!

DO COORDINATE

Do coordinate things but don't buy something to match just one skirt or sweater. Matched outfits are smart but make sure that each separate goes with other things as well.

Don't stock up on a lot of things. Wait till you get to your campus so you won't make the mistake of buying slicker instead of a trenchcoat or vice versa. There is nothing more discouraging to a freshman than to get on campus and find herself wearing the "wrong thing."

★ ★ ★

Do talk to other students who have been on campus at least two years. Upperclassmen will be more practical in their approach and most likely will not steer you wrong. If it's possible, it is a wise idea to visit the campus of your college or university in your senior year of high school—in this way you can get some first hand knowledge about what the girls are wearing.

Start planning your wardrobe early because no matter what anyone says, clothes are important, especially to a freshman girl who is trying to make a good impression.

★ ★ ★

Nothing makes a good impression better, however, than keeping your clothes clean and neat. Don't neglect to sew on buttons, mend tears and keep your clothes clean. Even if you can't buy a lot of new clothes, your old ones need not look as if they are ready for the "rag bag", if you keep them well pressed, clean or dry-cleaned.

★ ★ ★

We can't emphasize too much that you needn't go "gung ho" on your college wardrobe. A freshman makes herself extremely obvious when she lugs all her new clothes to campus!

Fitted Pattern Best for Synthetic Fabric

URBANA, Ill. (INS) — A University of Illinois textiles and clothing specialist says there are several points to keep in mind when selecting patterns for the synthetic crease-resistant fabrics.

Helen Zwolanek offers these tips for the selection of material:

The pattern should fit well because this rather crisp-feeling material doesn't drape well. For this reason, kimono-type sleeves are better than set-in sleeves that have to be eased.

A pattern with darts rather than gathers is better to form the contour in the bodice.

Remember that any gathered skirt you make from these materials will be stiff rather than soft.

Groups Slate Picnic

Mrs. William Vandruska was named publicity chairman of Women of the Moose Pontiac Chapter 360 when that group met Monday evening at Moose Hall. Plans were made and committees appointed for the Pennsylvania Club and Moose lodge picnic to be held on Labor Day.

Drill Team Feted at Williams Home

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace R. Williams of Voorheis road entertained the Elks Drill team at a cook-out and party Saturday afternoon and evening. Mrs. Jack Pote assisted Mrs. Williams.

Among those attending the event were Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Doolin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pote, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Berden, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fields, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bego, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zumbrunnen, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Fields and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ross.

Dayton Thomason Wins Scholarship

Dayton Thomason of Calvert street assisted Celia Merrill Turner director of Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater, during final performances of summer students. The students presented scenes from plays which include classics and modern Broadway shows.

Thomason won a special scholarship to the Apprentice Theater. The 17-year-old attends Waterford Township High School.

They're There, but You May Have to Dig

List Interests to Discover Talents

By ANNE HEYWOOD

One thing I have learned, reluctantly, but which I'm pretty sure is true, is that we never find gratitude where we expect it. It always comes from a different source.

I'm sure that we get back the same amount of good we give out, but we almost never get it back from the people we gave it to.

★ ★ ★

This is important for parents to realize, and especially for us mothers.

LOVE IS ENOUGH

We love our children, do our best for them and get a great deal of pleasure out of it. That pleasure ought, realistically, to be all we expect. To think that grown children will go on being grateful to us for the rest of their days is downright folly.

Yet I always sympathize with the woman who has only recently discovered this fact.

★ ★ ★

For example, a woman in Pennsylvania writes:

FEELS FORLORN

"My children are grown and I am alone. Of course, I know better than to expect gratitude, but I didn't know I'd feel so forlorn.

"I have no training for a job and please don't tell me to get a hobby. I have absolutely no talents to develop.

★ ★ ★

"Everyone tells you to get a hobby, but when you have no gift or talent, what can you do? Is there any answer?"

DIG FOR TALENT

First of all, as I've often said, everybody has some kind of talent. You may not think of it as such, but it'll be there if you dig.

Here are some pointers for the digging:

Sit down quietly and make a list of all the things you've ever done in your life that were fun.

★ ★ ★

It may be making a pair of rompers, or having the boss and his wife over for dinner, or shopping for a second-hand lamp, or wrapping Christmas presents, or refinishing furniture, or telling stories to a sick child. At any rate, put all the things down, even if they seem insignificant to you.

CHECK COMPLIMENTS

Second, make a list of the kind of compliments your relatives and friends give you, the kind of things they think you do well. Some of these will overlap with the items on the first list.

Third, make a list of the kind of books, magazine articles and newspaper stories that you like the best.

Are they mostly about people, or food, or slipcovers or fashion or perfume? List as many topics as you can think of. Some of these will overlap with items on the first list, too.

FIND CATEGORIES

Fourth, take all the categories that are on all three lists. Maybe just food or fashion or people will be the answer. Maybe you'll have several general categories.

★ ★ ★

Then get to your public library and get a lot of books on these subjects. Read them thoughtfully and you're bound to find one all-engrossing interest which you want to pursue and which will be your hobby—or your job! But most of all, it will be your talent!

At Brunch Sunday

Attendants Are Named

Jane Elizabeth Webster, whose marriage to Robert Kuklinski will be an event of Oct. 5, announced her attendants at a brunch and shower given Sunday by Mrs. William J. Ryan and Mrs. Edwin C. Sage Jr. at Rotunda Inn.

★ ★ ★

The bride-elect has asked her sister, Mrs. Andrew Lindsey, to be her matron of honor. Charlotte Wyss of St. Clair Shores and Mrs. Gerald Bauer will be the attendants. Mary Webster, a niece of the bride, will serve as a junior bridesmaid, and the prospective bridegroom's niece Debbie Newcomb, will act as flower maid.

Miss Webster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clergue Webster of Silverside drive, and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kuklinski of Woodbine drive.

★ ★ ★

Among the out-of-town guests for the Sunday event were Mrs. Allen Wright and Ann Wright of Eaton Rapids, Mrs. Francis Willis, Mrs. Dan Becker and Mrs. William St. Martin from Detroit and Mrs. Earl Becker of Royal Oak.

Friday evening Shirley Geyer and Gerald A. Frederiksen exchanged wedding vows in Baldwin Avenue EUB Church. The bride's parents are the Harry Geyers and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frederiksen.

MR. AND MRS. G. A. FREDERIKSEN

Shirley Ann Geyer Wed

Shirley Ann Geyer became the bride of Gerald Aden Frederiksen Friday evening in the Baldwin Avenue E. U. B. Church. The Rev. Myron Everett and Rev. Richard Lobb performed the ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geyer of Bennett street, and the Walter Frederiksens of Baldwin avenue are parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor length gown of nylon tulle and schiffli embroidery, featuring a fitted bodice with high collar and long sleeves tapering to points over the wrist. She wore a tiara of sequins and pearls securing a fingertip veil of silk illusion.

The bride carried a modified cascade bouquet of stephanotis and Demure roses centered with a white orchid.

Delores DePauw, as maid of honor, wore a pink nylon net over taffeta gown with a matching jacket of lace. She wore a tiara and carried a cascade arrangement of yellow carnations.

BOUQUETS MATCH

Bridesmaids Phyllis Verstrate and Diane Russell of Waterford, wore mint green and yellow nylon net over taffeta with matching jackets. They wore tiaras and carried bouquets to match their gowns. Nancy Connelly, the flower girl, wore a white nylon net dress over pink taffeta.

Serving as best man was Norbert Capistrant, while Raymond Bell of Drayton Plains and Grant Kitchen seated the guests.

For a reception in the church parlors Mrs. Geyer wore a blue dress with white accessories and a rubrum lily corsage while the bridegroom's mother wore an imported pink linen dress with white accessories and an album lily corsage.

★ ★ ★

When the couple left for a trip to northern Michigan the new Mrs. Frederiksen had changed to an orchid print sheer cotton dress with white accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on Mark avenue.

Blue Ribbon Pie Winner Is Senior

Joan Fodrea Dots Blueberry Filling With Bits of Butter

By JANET ODELL

At the 4-H Fair Joan Fodrea of Rochester won a blue ribbon for her blueberry pie. She is happy to share her recipe with Press readers.

Joan who is 17 will be a senior at Rochester High School this fall. She entered the cherry pie contest last spring, so by now is pretty experienced in making pie. Most of her hobbies are activities she enjoys in 4-H work. She loves to sew, makes many of her own clothes.

BLUEBERRY PIE
By Joan Fodrea

4 cups fresh blueberries
⅞ to 1 cup sugar, depending on sweetness of berries
4 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons quick tapioca
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter
Double crust for 9-inch pie

Mix all ingredients except butter. Fill crust and dot butter over filling. Cover with top crust and bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake another 30 minutes.

Wives, Beware Heart Disease

Help Your Husband Stay Healthy

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Heart disease is taking an increasingly greater toll. Circulatory troubles are striking more and more people. Today in the United States more than 5,000,000 people have heart disease and more than 800,000 persons died of heart and blood vessel troubles in 1955.

Yesterday in this column I called attention to the fact that women are outliving men and suggested some ways in which a woman can help keep her husband alive. Today let us consider some of the qualities which make a woman a husband-saver.

★ ★ ★

I recently read an extremely interesting and unusual book. It is titled "Straight To The Heart," by Doctor George Lawton, distinguished psychologist, marriage counselor, author and teacher.

This is the personal story of the author's emotions and thoughts as he approached certain death because of heart disease, and then his journey though dangerous surgery and on to vibrant health. There was no surgery available for the type heart trouble Doctor Lawton had when he became desperately ill in 1953. One year later a new technique had been perfected.

The book emphasizes the part the wife plays in saving a husband with heart trouble. To quote from "Straight To The Heart:" "Wanted —A Mate Who DOES Frighten Easily" — and who is alert, informed, energetic and devoted. Anyone with a heart ailment will need a partner who has not one of these qualities but all of them. Possessing such a mate often means the difference between life and death; and nearly always means the difference between comfort and discomfort, a short convalescence and a long one."

Women should have a certain amount of knowledge in order to handle their husbands' and families' health. A woman should be alert to unusual symptoms and she should have some idea of what sort of medical help to seek and how to find it.

PREVENTION BEST

Prevention is always better than cure. Wives can do a lot to take care of their husbands physically and psychologically.

Women should have a certain amount of knowledge in order to handle their husbands' and their families' health. A woman should be alert to unusual symptoms and she should have some idea of what sort of medical help to seek and how to find it.

In his book Doctor Lawton mentions the woman whose husband died in the night because she did not take a severe pain in his left arm seriously.

Then, too, there is no doubt that many men with heart trouble or some other serious illness literally have scared themselves to death and have been aided by wives who were just as frightened.

★ ★ ★

Today thousands of people are living normal lives after heart attacks, and heart surgery is now possible which was undreamed of not many years ago. Slow down. Have any unusual symptoms checked. Do not overlook regular, periodic physical examinations.

Frame Should Complement Picture

Match Frame to Picture in Size, Colors and Depth

Study the picture you are planning to frame; only by knowing its size, color and character can you choose a frame to suit its personality.

Generally a large picture needs a large frame, and a small picture a small frame. But no frame should be so large, ornate or colorful that it is more important than the picture. And, conversely, the frame should be large enough to seem to "support" the picture and form a definite separation between the picture and its surroundings.

Consider the colors in your picture. Be sure not to select a frame that is much darker, much lighter or much brighter than the painting. Whether the frame is of natural wood, painted or stained, be sure that it harmonizes with the colors in the picture. Generally the bolder and more colorful your picture, the wider and heavier the frame can be. Delicate watercolors usually require lighter, less heavy frames.

The style of character of the painting is important to consider in choosing a frame. A bold, flat modern painting, for example, will probably look its best in a very simple bold frame. But, a landscape which has a great deal of depth—that is one into which you seem to be able to see for a great distance—would look dull and uninteresting in a flat frame. A very deep frame would emphasize the depth and make it far more interesting.

Remember that a suitable frame complements the picture, never competes for attention.

"Drip-dry" indicates that clothes may be washed by hand or machine, then hung carefully to prevent dried-in wrinkles and creases.

'Living Rosary' Is Planned

The First Saturday League, sponsored by the Daughters of Isabella of Our Lady of the Lakes Circle and the Knights of Columbus of Pontiac, will present the seventh annual "Living Rosary" Thursday evening.

The presentation will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the grotto of the Immaculate Heart of Mary on the grounds of St. Joseph Church on West South boulevard.

Preceding the program, in honor of the feast of the Immaculate Heart of Mary for world peace, Leo B. Hogan of Royal Oak will give a 45 minute organ recital.

A cross will be formed by the Knights of Columbus. Following the crowning of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, roses will be presented by the Daughters of Isabella.

Men from Bishop Gallagher's council, Knights of Columbus of Royal Oak, will form the choir.

In the procession will be Mrs. Margaret King of Flint, state regent, state officers; Our Lady of the Lake Circle and Legion; and 12 flower girls and eight altar boys.

Members will participate from the parishes of St. Vincent de Paul, St. Benedict, St. Michael and St. Joseph of Pontiac; St. Peter of Mt. Clemens; St. Joseph of Lake Orion; Sacred Heart of Auburn Heights; Our Lady of the Lake, Drayton Plains and St. Patrick of Union Lake Village.

The Consecration of the Blessed Mother will be read by the Rev. Dr. B. F. Jarzembowski, pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

The "Living Rosary" begins with all women holding the cross in their hands while they say the Apostle's Creed. This is followed by the Lord's Prayer.

There are 15 mysteries, five joyful, five sorrowful and five glorious, all depicting some part of our Lord's life.

Between each joyful mystery, a tableau will be presented as well as a short meditation and a Marian song.

They include, "The Annunciation" when the archangel Gabriel appears to Mary; "The Visitation" showing Mary on a visit to Elizabeth; "The Birth of Christ," "The Presentation of Christ in the Temple;" and "Finding of the Boy, Jesus in the Temple."

Following the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, everyone will participate in an outdoor candlelight procession around the stations of the cross. Each will carry a lighted candle.

Sharon O'Neil of Lewis street will represent the archangel, Gabriel, (left) in the Annunciation scene of the tableau to be presented Thursday evening at St. Joseph Church on West South boulevard. Mary Pruente of Gingell court portrays the part of Mary.

Pontiac Press Photos

In the "Visitation," the second scene of the tableau being given as part of the "Living Rosary" Program at St. Joseph Church Mary Pruente (left) is shown with Mary Catherine Donohue of Williams Lake road who represents Elizabeth.

"The Presentation of Christ in the Temple" will be the fourth scene of the tableau of the "Living Rosary" to be presented Thursday evening at St. Joseph Church by members of the Saturday League. Shown are John Claver of Chamberlain street, the high priest (left to right); Janice Paquette of Gingell court, Mary Pruente of Gingell court and John Scharfinkamp of Omar street.

Rhinestone Bibs Accent for Evening

Looking like iced lace are varishaped rhinestones woven into elaborate bibs. Often studded with pearls, they are a brilliant fill-in for the decolletage of evening.

Wide rhinestone bracelets band the wrist with glitter. New again—the long chandelier earrings that streak a blaze of white fire almost to the shoulder.

Bride-Elect Honored

Eighteen guests honored Elizabeth Taylor, bride-elect of Edward Sornig, at a recent miscellaneous shower given by her sister, Mrs. William Hockenberry of East New York avenue.

Phone Call Will Verify Dinner Bid

Best Way to Settle Problem of Whether Invitation Stands

BY EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Two weeks ago friends of ours came to visit us. As they were leaving, the wife asked me if we would dine with them two weeks from that night. I said "yes" and then she added, "I'll call you before then." A week and a half has gone by and she hasn't called, and I don't know whether we should go or not.

"Would it be proper for me to call her? I rather hesitate to do this because if she has changed her mind about having us, it would be very embarrassing to all concerned. Since she hasn't called, do we take it for granted that the dinner engagement is off? Will you please tell me what to do in this situation?"

Answer: I think you must telephone and ask your friend if she expects you for dinner.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance is serving as an usher at a wedding. I'm not taking part as I am in fact a stranger. But I'm at least invited to everything.

"I feel that he sould see that I get from the church to the reception and also spend most of the time at the reception with me. He thinks he is obliged to stay close to the wedding group from beginning to end.

Answer: He's right; or at any rate must stay with them as long as all the ushers stay together. It would not do at all for him to desert the bridal party. As you're a stranger he will surely arrange if he can, to have one of his friends sit with you in church and remain with you at the reception. And he will join you himself at whatever times he can. But as you should know, his duties will be many.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am about to address my wedding invitations and have been told that when addressing a social envelope to a husband and wife, it was wrong to use the "and" sign (&) and that it should be written in full. Will you please tell me if this is right?"

Answer: Correctly you write "Mr. and Mrs."

Fall Jewelry Has Startling Innovations

Leopard is newest in jewel interpretatinon. Set in polished gold is real fur—for wide bangles, outsize pendants swinging from golden chains, huge circle pins, large button earrings and handsome cuff links to tempt even clothes-conscious males.

Heraldics—the jewel classic of the back-to-school crowd—also appear in the fall picture. Domed plaques take to color in bright enamel studded with baroque pearls. Keys, compasses, clocks, swing from large link chains. Heraldic orders are suspended from colorful pin-backed ribbons in the true "court tradition."

Real leather—in all of the fashion colors for fall—is fashioned into gold trimmed bangles, earrings, pins and pendants.

Experts Advise Plenty of Ligt on Cooking Area

EAST LANSING (INS)—Check to see whether you have the adequate lighting in the right places in your kitchen.

According to Michigan State University home economists, a long line of fluorescent light is best over the range to help you see what's cooking.

★ ★ ★

It's not enough, said the home economists, to rely on light built into your range because this is meant mainly to make controls more visible.

When it comes to such jobs as browning meats or checking into pots to see how foods are cooking, you need plenty of light right down to the bottom of the pan.

★ ★ ★

The home economists recommend a shielded fluorescent fixture with a 25-watt tube, hung on the wall above the range so the lower edge of the light unit is 58 inches above the floor.

Conversational Starters No Woman Can Resist

Try Out Any One of These Openers and Watch for Sparkling Reaction

By RUTH MILLETT

There are some words no woman can resist:

"Did anyone ever tell you that you look like so-and-so (so-and-so being a glamorous movie star)?

"This is delicious; will you give me the recipe?"

"You've lost weight, haven't you? I noticed it the minute I saw you."

"My, what a pretty daughter. And she looks so much like you."

"Now tell me all about your grandchildren. Do you happen to have any snapshots of them in your handbag?"

"I love the way you've decorated this room."

"What are you talking about dieting for—a little thing like you?"

"You don't mean to tell me this is your daughter. You look more like sisters."

"It can't be 10 years since we saw each other last. You haven't changed a bit."

★ ★ ★

"An old beau of yours was asking all about you."

HOW DO YOU DO IT?

"I don't see how you accomplish everything that you do."

"I didn't know you had been in the hospital. Tell me about your operation."

"That dress is exactly the color of your eyes."

"You simply have to head that committee. There's no one else who can do it half so well."

"Now I want to hear all the latest gossip. First, tell me . . ."

"You don't look a day over . . ."

The blank may be filled in with any age, just so that it is at least 10 years younger than the woman actually is.

Bracelets Glitter

The "dress-up" bracelet has its own air of elegance. Vari-shaped stones in multi-colors are set dramatically in brushed golden cuffs. Tiny stones tip delicate golden scrolls in flexible link bracelets. Iridescent cabochons in ruby, emerald, sapphire and topaz are imbedded in textured gold to swirl a dazzling ribbon of color up the arm.

Pontiac Turns Out for Anniversary Parade

BEAUTY AFLOAT — Bearing a huge gold medallion of the Pontiac Motor symbol, the head of Chief Pontiac, is the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce float. Adding a touch of beauty and charm are four Miss Front Pages from The Pontiac Press — Miss April, Genevieve Dovre; Miss January, Judy Bradley; Miss June, Karen A. Denham; and Miss August, Eugenia L. Thompson.

COLOR GUARD — Officially heading the parade up S. Saginaw St. was the color guard composed of crack members of Pontiac's own 703rd Reserve Tank Battalion.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER — The Ravenettes, a 32-girl drill team proved a big hit as they executed precision marches and formations in the parade. They were costumed in identical black skirts and sweaters with white plumes in their black hats. A car preceding the girls played their marching music through a loudspeaker.

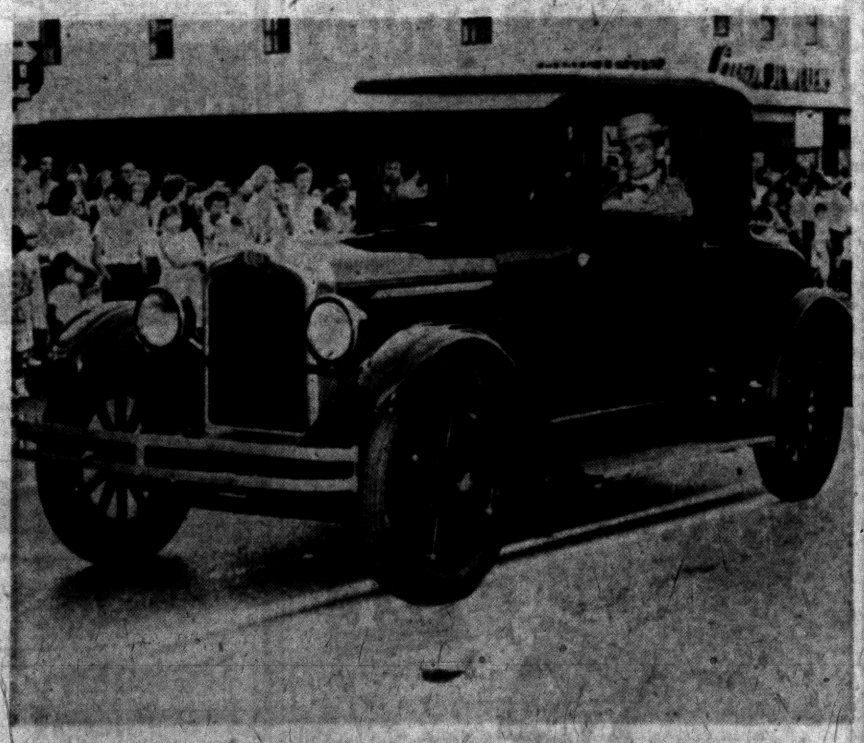

YOUNG PIONEERS — Two sweet misses from Clarkston, Nadine Blackett, 5, and her sister Corinne, 11, rode on a replica of a covered wagon drawn by two ponies. The prairie schooner was covered with transparent plastic instead of canvas to show its construction and interior.

THE CAMPBELLS ARE COMING — Scottish hearts beat faster as that happy and stirring sight, a pipe band, marched into view to the skirl of bagpipes. Non-Scottish hearts thrilled too as Detroit's St. Andrew Society Junior Pipe Band, led by a sergeant-major complete with shako, came by.

FIRST PONTIAC — With the nostalgic sound of its horn, "a-uga," the first Pontiac model ever built, a 1926 coupe, smoothly glides along. A number of historic cars, including an early Oakland model, paraded to recall the city's association with Pontiac Motor Division.

CURB-SIDE SEATS — A crowd estimated at 10,000 lined Saginaw street to watch the three-quarter hour parade. Youngsters had first choice on the seats provided by the curbs, and many a child had trouble remaining seated as the ponies and colorful floats went by.

Red-Haired Coeds Get Special College Room

HUNTINGDON, Pa. (AP)—A room at Juniata College is being exclusively reserved for red-haired coeds.

When a new dormitory opens here in November the room will be ready—decorated in pale gold. It was given to the college by Capt. Will Judy, a Chicago publisher.

On the wall will be a plaque reading: "In honor of Ruth Judy, titian-tressed wife of Will Judy, Class of '11."

DETROIT (AP) — Construction will begin soon on Greyhound Lines' four-million-dollar downtown terminal and garage at Randolph and Congress it was announced by R. W. Budd, president of Great Lakes Greyhound. The building will occupy an entire block. Parking decks accommodating 600 cars will be on the second story and on the roof.

Remarque to Act in Film

Famed German Novelist Writes First Screen Play

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I no longer have a lifetime to look forward to and take care of. At the most, it is 20 or 25 years. So now I can afford to take chances."

This, Erich Maria Remarque reasons, is why he agreed to write the screen play for his book, "A Time To Love and a Time To Die" and act in it, too. At latest report, the film is being called "There's a Time To Love"—don't ask why.

I came across the famed novelist, handsome at 59, as he had finished the last pages of the screen play and was cleaning out his desk.

He proved to be an excellent talker. It is easy to see how his charm has fascinated such famous women as Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo and Paulette Goddard.

About his screen writing—"This is another departure for me. The first was last year when I went to Berlin to open my first play, 'The Last Station.'

"Before we opened, the cast came and asked me what they should do if the audience started throwing stones. We just didn't know what they would do. Here was a story of the last days of Berlin before the fall of Hitler. There were scenes of the rape of women and we knew there would be women in the audience who had been through such things. How would they react?

"The play had 35 curtain calls. It was a great hit and encouraged me to attempt this screen play.

Why hasn't he adapted his novels before? Six of the eight have been bought for the screen.

"Because I reach the point in the writing of a novel when I could become violently ill if I had to look at it again," he sighed. "Although I have lived in this country over 20 years, I still write in German and have someone else translate. I couldn't stand to look at the novel myself."

Another reason for the film project: To escape the humid New York summer. Universal-International came up with the deal at just the right time.

It's the first time in 30 years he has worked in an office, he remarked. The last was when he edited a sports car magazine in Germany. He took time out from his work to write a novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front." Writing time: Five weeks.

Remarque writes the hard way — pencil on paper. "I never learned to type," he explained. "When I was an editor in Germany, inflation had wiped out everyone's earnings and labor was cheap. I swore I would never have a job in which I had to do my own typing."

Elizabeth Taylor Home From Hospital

Plan to Stall U.N. Debate on Oman

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — British diplomats expressed confidence today they would be able to turn aside a Soviet-supported Arab move for a U.N. airing of the Oman dispute.

The 11-nation Security Council was scheduled to meet on the issue today. But a British spokesman said the Arabs could not get the seven votes needed to place it on the agenda.

British Delegate Sir Pierson Dixon was ready to oppose any U.N. debate on the recent military clashes in which British forces went to the aid of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman in putting down the rebellion.

★ ★ ★

The council meeting was called at the request of the 11 Arab members of the United States. They charged Britain with armed aggression against the sovereignty of Oman.

Special Session of Congress This Fall Would Be 27th in Our Nation's History

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has been talking about calling Congress back into special session this fall if foreign aid funds prove inadequate to cope with the world situation.

Some House Republicans, including minority leader Martin (R-Mass), have also recommended that Congress be recalled in November to work on civil rights legislation if the Senate and House are unable to agree on a bill before adjournment.

Both the foreign and and civil rights bills are still under consideration in Congress and it remains to be seen whether a special session will be necessary.

But if the President decides to call one it will be the 27th special session in the history of Congress. President Truman called the last one in 1948 to deal with foreign aid and inflation problems.

★ ★ ★

Special sessions have varied from 10 days in 1856 to 269 in 1841. There is no limitation of the legislative subjects Congress may consider in a special session.

FIRST IN 1797

The first one was called by President Adams in 1797 to suspend diplomatic relations with France. The others:

1803—By Jefferson, on Spain's cession of Louisiana to France.

1807—By Jefferson, to consider relations with Great Britain.

1811—By Madison, preparatory to declaring war on Great Britain.

1814—By Madison, preparatory to declaring war on Great Britain.

1814—By Madison, on matters concerning the war with Britain.

1837—By Van Buren, to suspend specie payments.

1841—By William Henry Harrison, to consider fiances and revenue.

1856—By Pierce, to pass an Army appropriation bill.

1861—By Lincoln, because of "insurrection in certain southern states."

1877—By Hayes, to pass an Army appropriation bill.

1879—By Hayes, for legislative, executive, judicial and Army appropriations.

1893—By Cleveland, to repeal the Silver Purchase Act.

1897—By McKinley, to pass the Dingley Tariff Act.

1903—By Theodore Roosevelt, to consider a commercial treaty with Cuba.

1909—By Taft, to revise the Dingley Tariff Act.

1911—By Taft, to consider a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada.

1913—By Wilson, to change tariffs.

1917—By Wilson, to declare war on Germany.

1919—By Wilson, to appropriate funds for government operation.

1921—By Harding, to consider war-caused economic problems.

1922—By Harding, to consider a bigger Merchant Marine.

1929—By Hoover, to consider farm relief and tariff changes.

1933—By Franklin D. Roosevelt, to take steps to relieve the depression.

1937—By Roosevelt, to fight the industrial recession.

1939—By Roosevelt, to repeal the Neutrality Act on the outbreak of World War II.

U.N. to Meet Sept. 10 on Hungarian Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. today called a special meeting of the General Assembly for Sept. 10 to debate the Hungarian problem.

Widower Not Sure He'll Attend

Girard Trial Set to Open

SOMA VILLAGE, Japan (INS)—The widower of Mrs. Naka Sakai claims he doesn't know whether he'll attend the manslaughter trial of William S. Girard, the soldier charged with killing Sakai's wife.

But 47-year-old Akiyoshi Sakai told International News Service:

"My children say they're eager to attend every session."

His 18-year-old daughter Kayoko, said "yes" she would attend the trial, slated to open next Monday in Maebashi district court.

Kayoko had a factory job in Tokyo but she was called back to the family farm to do the housework when her mother was fatally shot by Girard last Jan. 30. She is the third of the Sakais' six children.

Kayoko said "I have closely followed the Girard case through the newspapers." She has a special book of clippings on the case.

Pointing to one particular story from the U. S., Kayoko said:

"I wish people wouldn't consider we Japanese as being no better than dogs . . . or that Girard is like a 'Christian being fed to the lions' because a Japanese court is going to try him."

Kayoko's father, a Soma Village assemblyman as well as a farmer, said he had often tried to stop his wife from visiting nearby Somagahara firing range to collect spent U. S. Army shells, but she would not listen.

"I often told her it was unbecoming for the wife of an assemblyman to engage in that kind of work," he said.

"But she always tried to assure me that it was quite sae—that she never was involved in anything dangerous."

Sakai said his wife went shell-picking "very seldom" and that she did it "only to give the children some extra pocket money."

When the Detroit Lions retire number 76 it will be either because the guy that wears that jersey figures his pro days are over or because lady luck has run out on him.

If you've watched the Lions at any time in the last seven years you would hardly need a program to know who wears the jersey when you see him at work on the gridiron.

Since the day he started with the Lions 131 games ago, in league and exhibition games, Lou Creekmur has yet to miss an appearance in the lineup.

He came to the Lions as a rookie tackle in 1950 from William and Mary where he had a string of 41 games in which he had played. This included two bowl games, pro-bowl, Blue-Grey and the All-Star game.

LOU CREEKMUR

Put these together and you'll get 172 straight games of football without a miss for the 250-pound star of the Lions.

"I guess I've been pretty lucky, and I hope 'lady luck' stays with me," he said.

He has been hurt only twice in his pro career, once when big George Connors of the Bears clobbered him in the knee with a block and another time in the 1956 Pro Bowl game when he dislocated a shoulder.

He suffered the knee injury against the Bears on a Sunday late in November of 1954, and four days later he was back in the lineup playing the entire game Thanksgiving Day against the Packers.

★ ★ ★

Creekmur can't remember missing an offensive play while with the Lions and before 1955 everyone just took it for granted Lou was the one-platoon work-horse of the team.

"That's when I really earned my money," he laughed, "when I was going both ways."

PLAYS HIS BEST

Creekmur has his philosophy about football. "When I was in college I figured I owed it to the free education I was getting to play the best football I knew. As a pro I figure likewise. I'm getting paid and I owe it to the club to give my best. I don't think I ever backed into a pay check."

Lou is no stranger to the Pontiac area. A member of Elks Lodge 810 in the city, he has been the Lions' good will ambassador during the winter banquet season for high school and service organizations.

Lou isn't ready to retire yet. Instead he is now looking for his 132nd straight game with the Lions Friday night against the Eagles.

Maybe when he does retire the Lions will use him strictly for the banquet circuit. This should be a cinch for big Lou Creekmur.

Familiar Names in Philly Roster

Lions Await Eagles Friday

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Several familiar names heard around the Detroit Lions' training camp a year ago in Ypsilanti will be heard again when the Detroit Lions meet the Philadelphia Eagles Friday night in Toledo's Glass Bowl.

It will be the second pre-season game for both teams, with Detroit waltzing passed the Browns, 20-10, and the Eagles dropping a 17-10 decision to the Packers in openers last week.

The pro gridders from the city of "Brotherly Love" have been singing the praises of 21 rookies on the squad, including a few who stayed in Lions' camp last year just long enough to unpack and repack.

It seems the leader of Philadelphia's make-shift backfield is 212-pounder Pete Retzlaff, who in Lions' training camp a year ago took the honors as "Mr. Adonis" of the squad.

★ ★ ★

Retzlaff, who hails from South Dakota State, came to the Lions as an end after two years in the Army. He was purchased by the Eagles at the start of the 1956 season, and it was not until the past few weeks in the Philly training camp at Hershey that the name popped up again to any degree.

Against the Packers in the opener Retzlaff was the team's leading ball carrier from the left halfback position and he is listed a sure-starter Friday night.

Other names on the Eagle roster who had short visits to Ypsi last year are tackle Bob Nunnery, a 260-pounder from LSU, Richard Lee Booker an end, and Bob Lusk a 225-pound center.

While the Lions are enjoying the services of a pair of quarterbacks, Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote, with 17 years between them, the Eagles have been employing Christian Jurgensen, a signal caller from Duke who has yet to make the seniority list.

Jurgensen went the distance against the Packers and almost pulled the Eagles into a tie in the final seconds with his passing.

He fired a bullet pass to end Bill Stribling with only 50 seconds left, but after going 73 yards Stribling was hit with a flying tackle on the five yard line by halfback Andy Nelson.

Two more plays got to the one yard line as the game ended in favor of Green Bay.

Coach George Wilson, with the taste of his first victory since taking the post after Buddy Parker, will mix several rookies into the lineup for Friday.

John Gordy at offensive guard, Terry Barr in the defensive backfield and Dave Liddick at defensive tackle are certain to see early action, along with Ken Russell who was impressive as a tackle starter against the Browns.

★ ★ ★

Injuries to Bob Long, Yale Lary and Stan Campbell make them doubtful starters, but there is a chance that Gene Gedman may see limited action. He sat out the opener with a back injury.

Game time Friday night is 8:30 p.m.

NFL NOTES:

The football camp of the Los Angeles Rams drew the ire of the Washington Redskins before their game on the coast recently. The Rams called the Skins "Rabble Rousers" because of being the lowest paid team in the league . . . Paul Hornung played left half for the Packers against the Eagles but still got into the passing attack by firing a 41 yarder to Billy Howton . . . Gary Lowe is playing the defensive halfback post for the Redskins in place of Roy Barni who was killed a couple months ago.

Shaw's Squares Class A Series

Jewelers Beat Griff's, 7-4, to Even Playoffs at One Game Each

Shaw's Jewelers, regular season champion in the City Baseball League, evened the Class A final playoff series at one game apiece last night with a 7-4 victory over Griff's Grill at Wisner Field.

Although outhit, 11 to 8, the Jewelers made their blows count, bunching five of them in the 2nd inning when they tallied five runs to wrap up the decision.

Jerry Taylor pitched the distance for Shaw's and was stingy with base hits when they meant the most. Don Bren hurled the route for Griff's.

The same two teams continue their best-of-five series today on the Wisner diamond at 5:30. The playoff winner represents Pontiac in the state tournament at Battle Creek.

Dodgers Extended to Beat IL Stars

MONTREAL (INS) — The Brooklyn Dodgers had to battle from behind to do it but they finally proved superior to the International League All-Stars last night.

The defending National League champs won the second annual International League All-Star game, 2-1, although it took 11 innings for the Brooks to put the minor leaguers down.

A's Blank Tribe in Loner

KANSAS CITY (INS) — In yesterday's only major league activity, the Kansas City A's blanked Cleveland, 1-0, on Tom Gorman's four-hit pitching.

Gorman, generally a bullpen dweller, outpitched Ray Narleski who allowed five hits. The only run of the game came in the sixth inning when Bob Cerv singled, stole second and scored from there on Tim Thompson's single.

The confident New York Yankees and the worried Milwaukee Braves face their last big pennant obstacle today when they start on their final road trips of the 1957 season.

★ ★ ★

The Yanks, sporting a 7½ game American League lead over the sagging Chicago White Sox, open a 10-game swing through the west in Kansas City tonight.

The situation isn't quite as cosy for Milwaukee pilot Fred Haney.

His Braves open an eight-game eastern invasion at Pittsburgh tonight carrying a seemingly comfortable 6½ game bulge with them.

But Haney remembers all too vividly that this same team blew a 5½ game lead last year as Brooklyn won the pennant on the final day of the season.

The Yankees will use Bob Turley against their Kansas City "cousins." The Yanks have won 16 out of 17 with the A's this season. In other games, Washington plays a twi-night affair at Chicago, while Boston is at Cleveland and Baltimore at Detroit for single games.

The next few weeks also will give a good indication of whether Mickey Mantle and Hank Aaron will repeat as batting champs of their respective leagues. Aaron currently is trailing Stan Musial by six points while Mantle is seven points behind Ted Williams.

H-V Lions Plan Barbecue, Corn Roast and Golf

Fifth annual stag day for Huron-Valley Lions club will take place Wednesday at Duck Lake golf club, with all proceeds from the day's events going to purchase spectacles for underprivileged children and for leader dog work.

More than 800 are expected to take part in the many activities, including a beef barbecue, corn roast and a full day of golf and other entertainment. More than 100 prizes will be awarded.

Any one interested is welcome and tickets may be obtained from members of the Lions club.

Mrs. Wilde Jr. New Champ at Pine Lake

Conclusion of the three-day Pine Lake CC'c women's golf tournament left Mrs. George Wilde Jr., of Birmingham the new champion. Mrs. Wilde edged Mrs. Ralph B. Lee of Pontiac by a single stroke, 272-273 for the 54 holes of medal play.

Mrs. C. P. Mehas of Bloomfield Hills was third in the top flight.

First flight winner was Mrs. Charles Vanderkerck of Birmingham, and Mrs. Glen S. MacKellar won the third flight title.

Low net for the three days went to Mrs. John Morrow, Royal Oak.

Frick Suggests Realignment in Organized Ball

MONTREAL (AP)—Organized baseball needs to be realigned from the major league level down, Commissioner Ford C. Frick said today.

"Baseball has stood still for 50 years," he said. "There are Class B cities in organized ball today which are capable of supporting Double A or Triple A teams."

He said there is a need for more major league cities and eventually a third major league.

Challenger Still at Work

Champ Tapers Off for Title Battle

SEATTLE (AP)—This is tapering-off day in the champion's camp as Floyd Patterson winds up training for a Thursday bout that manager Cus D'Amato calls the "most heavily publicized fight in 30 years."

"Not even the Dempsey-Tunney fights captured the interest of press and public as this one has," D'Amato said yesterday while Patterson was winding up his strenuous training program in Kent, Wash.

Some 20 miles away, at Issaquah, challenger Pete Rademacher planned one more session of heavy work today before breaking camp. The Olympic champion from Grandview, Wash., and Columbus, Ga., retains his air of quiet confidence as fight time nears.

Although the majority of his bouts as an amateur—he had 79 and won all but seven — were booked for three two-minute rounds, 210-pound Pete says he has no qualms over the prospect of going 15 three-minute rounds against the champion.

★ ★ ★

"I'm actually calmer now than I was before the Olympics," said the challenger last night. "Then I didn't know what fighting styles I would be up against.

"But now we've watched Patterson five times on television. I know his style. I feel I'm ready to meet any type of attack the champion may select and I plan to let him set the pattern.

Patterson, refusing to consider Rademacher anything but a dangerous opponent, has stuck faithfully to a stiff training program. The champion will go into the bout weighing about 184 and, D'Amato says, "in peak condition, physically and mentally."

Promoter Jack Hurly, biting back acidly at the detractors as "tools of the International Boxing Club", is stacking up a pile of shekels from advance ticket sales. These had reached some $200,000 yesterday and most local observers were expecting a $400,000 sell-out.

★ ★ ★

That would be the total income from this fight, which will not be televised nor broadcast. Hurley will take 40 per cent and Rademacher's Georgia backers 60 per cent, which leaves them at least $10,000 short of meeting their guarantee to Patterson. Should Rademacher win, they feel they will be in position to recoup.

Saginaw Golfer Wins District Junior Title

YPSILANTI (AP)—Chuck Mitchell, 16, of Saginaw, won the 1957 Detroit Junior District Golf Championship at Washtenaw Country Club here yesterday by defeating Chuck Newton, 16, of Ann Arbor, 4 and 3.

★ ★ ★

Judy Andreen of Grosse Ile won the girls division with a match play score of 95-86—181.

Mitchell defeated Ed Stevens of Birmingham in a 21-hole semi-final match. Newton turned back Jim Hogan of Detroit 3 and 2 to gain the finals.

Police 9, Tigers Bow Out

Pontiac's two remaining entries in the state junior baseball tournament, the Pontiac Police in Class D and the Tigers in the Midget division, made their bids for state crowns Monday at Jackson and failed — but only after a game try.

★ ★ ★

The Policemen advanced to the finals before dropping a 3-1 decision to Plymouth. The Tigers bowed to Saginaw in the semi-finals, 4-3, after an 11-inning struggle.

Pontiac's Police team reached the finals with a 5-1 victory over Roseville behind the three-hit pitching of Bob Garrett. Garrett received six-hit support.

Tom Estes was the victimized hurler in the championship final. The Policemen scored once in the top of the 4th to even the count at 1-1, only to see Plymouth tally twice in the same inning to sew up the Class D title.

A single, stolen base and error provided Saginaw with its winning margin over the Tigers in their extra-inning battle. The Tigers had the tying run on 2nd in their half of the 11th but couldn't bring him home and dropped from the race for Midget honors.

Younger Set Rates High in Women's Tournament

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The younger set, their golf as hot as the weather, made it clear today the veterans won't be walking off with the National Women's Amateur title without a stiff fight.

★ ★ ★

Grace Lenczyk, 1948 national champ from Newington, Conn., found that out yesterday when she lost a one-sided first round 6 and 4 decision to Judy Eller, 16, the nation's junior champion from Old Hickory, Tenn.

Judy draws Mary Patton Janssen, last year's runner-up in the British Amateur, in a second round match.

Anne Quast, 19, from Marysville, Wash., draws Mrs. Donald Weiss of Flint, Mich. after staying three under par in defeating Gail De Pietro of Pleasanton, Calif., 7 and 6. Another sub-par shooter, Jo Anne Gunderson, 18, of Seattle, plays Florench Minch, whose dad, Frank, is club pro at the 38-37—74 Del Paso Country Club, where she is competing.

★ ★ ★

The two Washington girls were the lone under-par shooters on the 6,368-yard rolling layout lined with oak trees.

Defending champion Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ontario, Canada, was two over in clobbering Elizabeth Brand of the home club 7 and 5.

Port Huron Pro Is Only Golfer to Conquer It

Netter Has 1-Under-70 at Edgewood CC Links; 53 of 193 Qualify

By BILL CORNWELL

Conquering par turned out to be a mighty difficult task for Monday's giant field in the Michigan Open golf qualifiers at Edgewood Country Club.

It was so difficult, in fact, that only one of the 193-man delegation could equal or better Edgewood's regulation 35-36—71 during the 18-hole trials.

Yesterday's hero was Bill Netter, assistant pro at Port Huron's Black River Country Club.

Touring Edgewood's plush layout for the 1st time, Netter fired a one-under-par 70 on rounds of 32-38 to take medalist honors. It marked Netter's 1st attempt to qualify for the state Open tournament.

Just 53 golfers were able to make the grade for the Michigan Open tourney, which runs Friday through Sunday over the Edgewood course. They will be joined at that time by 109 other players who were exempt from qualifying.

Netter's best competition came from John Lock, a Dearborn amateur, and Ed Niziolek, an unattached Detroit pro. Lock and Niziolek each shot a 72 to tie for 2nd place.

Eight shotmakers were deadlocker at 73, including Pine Lake's assistant pro, Paul Van Loozen. Tex Ellison of Birmingham was among eight others shooting 74.

Three other Pontiac area golfers also managed to qualify.

Wally Smith ambled home with a 75 while Pete Jackson, Birmingham High player, and Dick DeWitt each carded a 76. Gerald Prieskorn of Pine Lake posted a 77.

A few other city hopefuls were doomed to disappointment. Failing to meet the requirements were Chet Reynolds 79, Jack Reynolds 80, Chuck Barker and Butler Cooper 81, Tom Thum 84, and Glenn Harding 87. Bob Gaines had a front-nine 41, then withdrew, and Lake Orion's Carl Rubelman Jr. was out with 84.

Wednesday's pre-tournament activity will feature an 18-hole 60-team pro-am event. Each pro entered will have three amateur partners. A new car to the winning pro is part of the prize list.

Demonstrations by trick-shot artist Paul Hahn and a driving contest are among the activities planned for Thursday.

MacKay and Giammalva Win Doubles Opener

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, former University of Michigan net ace, teamed with Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., to win an opening round victory in the 77th National Doubles Tennis Championships at Longwood.

They defeated John Cranston, San Marino, Calif., and Norman Perry, Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Edward Atkinson and Robert Delgado, both of Los Angeles, defeated Richard Leslie, Battle Creek, Mich., and Richard Heath, Providence, R.I., 6-4, 6-4, 7-9, 4-6, 6-3.

City Horseshoe Tournament Set

3-Day Meet Begins August 26; Thursday Last Day to Enter

Thursday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for entries in the annual Pontiac Horseshoe Tournament to be held Aug. 26, 27 and 28 at Oakland Park.

The sponsoring Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department has set up competition in both singles and doubles for the event. All registrations and trophy fees of $1 per person must be turned in to the Parks and Recreation office by deadline time.

Play begins each day at 7 p.m. with all residents of Oakland County eligible to participate. All contests will be on regulation 40-foot, blue clay courts and will be the best two out of three games except for the semifinal and final rounds which will be the best out of five. Games will be to 25 points.

Pairings and starting times for all contestants will be printed in Saturday's Pontiac Press.

Bell, Perez Battle to 10-Round Draw

NEW YORK (AP)—A bustling 10-round draw today earned Lulu Perez and Bobby Bell a return bout at St. Nicholas Arena, Sept. 9.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner signed the two little men to a 132-pound contract as a reward for their good show in the telecast fight at St. Nicks last night.

Bell, who was outweighed 135½ to 128½, finished strong in the last two rounds to gain the even split.

END OF AN ERA — Horace Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, announces to newsmen in Giant Midtown New York offices yesterday the decision of the team's board of directors to relocate their baseball franchise in San Francisco. The Giants have been a part of the New York scene for 74 years.

Giants to Move in October

Stoneham Says Club Couldn't Shun Frisco Bid

Ex-Dodger Durocher Says Brooks Will Be Next to Head West

NEW YORK (AP)—The Giants, after three quarters of a century in New York, have decided to relocate their baseball franchise in San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

The official move will come sometime between Oct. 1 and Oct. 31, the specified time for any such action.

★ ★ ★

The Giants are not expected to make the 3,000-mile trek across the country alone. In all likelihood their long-time rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, will move to Los Angeles.

President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers was not available for comment but an announcement regarding the Dodgers' intentions is expected sometime next week when the board of directors meets to consider a move to California.

★ ★ ★

Horace Stoneham, Giant president, declined to discuss the possibility of the Dodgers' moving, but another Giant official, who declined use of his name, said emphatically: "You can bet all the money you've got the Dodgers will be in Los Angeles next year."

A Los Angeles resident who expressed certainty of the coming of the Dodgers was Leo Durocher, onetime manager of both the Dodgers and Giants.

"I thought the Dodgers were almost a cinch to come first but it looks like the Giants have simply beaten them to the punch," Durocher said.

Stoneham's reason for recommending the transfer was poor attendance.

"We had to go now," he said, "because if we had waited until our lease at the Polo Grounds expired in 1962, there probably wouldn't be a good place left to move. Another thing, if we hadn't acted as fast as we did, some other club would have beaten us to San Francisco. They made us such an attractive offer, we just couldn't turn it down."

★ ★ ★

The "attractive offer" included a 45,000-seat stadium to be built by San Francisco, at a rental of 5 per cent of the attendance, plus ownership of the concessions.

Groth Revitalizes Tigers

Peps 'Em for Orioles

DETROIT (AP) — The purchase of Johnny Groth from the Kansas City Athletics three weeks ago wasn't expected to stir unduly either the Detroit Tiger ball club or its outfield.

But all that's changed now with the recent sensational performance of the erstwhile Tiger castoff.

Groth's production at the plate —especially over last weekend— had been a major factor in revitalizing the Tigers for the opening of an important three-game series with the Baltimore Orioles tonight.

It was largely on the output of Groth and Jim Finigan that Detroit won three out of four weekend games from Chicago, pulled one game ahead of fifth-place Baltimore and moved within 3½ games of third-place Boston. Finigan hit safely 10 out of 17 times at bat.

"The way Groth and Finigan have picked us up, it's entirely possible that we can have another finish like last year's," said manager Jack Tighe. "Maybe they can shame some of the others into hitting like we know they can." He mentioned no names.

Groth hit safely seven times out of his 13 trips to the plate against the White Sox before he was knocked out of Sunday's nightcap by a pitched ball.

His performance included five doubles and a perfect five-for-five Saturday capped by a dramatic two-out 10-th-inning single that drove in Detroit's winning run.

In his three weeks as a Tiger, Johnny has a .382 average. He was batting .254 when he joined the club Aug. 1. But as Tighe remarked at the time: "Even that looks good on our club."

It was planned to use the one-time Tiger sensation only as a late-inning replacement for Al Kaline — if needed. Kaline had just returned to action after injuring a heel.

But another unexpected injury to Centerfielder Bill Tuttle forced Tighe to turn to Groth. His "hot bat," as Tight phrased it, kept him in the lineup.

Groth's return to the Tigers came after five years of bouncing around the league with St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and Kansas City.

Tighe had difficulty in naming a starting pitcher against the Orioles tonight.

He had planned to use Jim Bunning but the ace righthander had a bruised hand as a result of a line drvie in the Chicago series. It is uncertain when he will be ready.

So Billy Hoeft who has won five and lost seven was standing by to start a day earlier than planned with Paul Foytack down for Thursday's game if his stiff neck is better by then.

Ray Moore or Hector (Skinny) Brown was to start for Baltimore.

First Baptist Church League Champ Again

Floyd Hicks pitched three-hit ball and struck out 10 as First Baptist wrapped up its 3rd straight league and playoff championship by beating Christian Missionary Alliance 10-1 in the Church League softball final last night.

Loser Dale Badder had stopped the champs twice during the season in low-hit performances but was hit hard last night. Dave Stubbs started the scoring parade with a three-run homer in the 3rd. A bases-loaded single by Perry Vaughn accounted for two more two innings later. Hicks just coasted along the rest of the way.

First for Novotney

Playing in the Elks' Golf League, Monday night, Ernie Novotney carded his first ace in 10 years at the game. Ernie holed his tee shot on the Pontiac Country club's No. 8 green with a 7-iron shot. His hole-in-one gave him a 41 for the round he played with Stan Furton, Frank Polasek and Wally Bowers.

Ace was the 4th on this hole during the current season.

Catfish Will Play Also

BEDFORD, Ky. (AP) — A. G. Spillman caught three cat fish with one hook.

Fish No. 1 was snagged by Spillman's hook, then got tangled up in a piece of line being dragged about by Fish No. 2.

Both fish then got tangled in a line similarly dragged by Fish No. 3.

Spillman pulled out his catch — each catfish weighed about 6 pounds.

Metamora Club Holds Informal Horse Show

An informal "young entry" horse show has been arranged for Saturday Aug. 31, the Labor Day weekend, at the Metamora Hunt club. It will include classes for mares, foals, yearlings and two and three year olds. Several fun classes also will be offered.

A formal hunt ball will be held at night with Metamora Hunt and North Country Beagles combining for the event. Fox hunters will wear the formal pins and the beaglers will wear the green. A dinner preceded the ball.

Detroiter Net Winner

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Bob Sassone of Detroit defeated Bob Donnan of Boise, Idaho, 8-6, 6-1, 6-3 Monday in the first round of the men's singles division of the National Public Parks tennis championships.

The 1957 Keeneland, Ky., summer sales resulted in 235 yearlings being purchased for $2,770,500, an average of $11,789 per head.

Jewelers, Drayton 9 Keep Area Softball Hopes Alive

There were only two Pontiac area teams destined for further action in the Michigan Recreation Association softball tournaments after last night's turn of events at Drayton Plains.

★ ★ ★

Roseville came from behind to nose out Lakeland Pharmacy, 2-1, in the Class C district final as Dominic Citrone continued his "iron-man" stints on the mound.

Lakeland's demise left Shaw's Jewelers and Drayton Drug as this area's only contenders for state MRA honors.

The Jewelers enter the Class AA state major tourney Friday through Saturday at Midland while the Druggists pursue additional laurels in Class D starting Thursday at Owosso. Drayton defeated Howell in a best-of-three series last weekend at Howell for the 'D' district title.

Citrone plus some timely hitting were poison for Lakeland yesterday on the Drayton diamond.

Hurling his 3rd straight game, Citrone limited the Pharmacy club to five hits. One of them was a 1st-inning triple by Art Ruelle, who scored Lakeland's lone run when the relay throw got away from the shortstop.

Dick Gellash tied the score for Roseville in the 5th with one swift stroke by homering over the fence. Bard Stout's single in the 7th, a sacrifice and a run-scoring single by Earl Wilke won the 'C' district title for Roseville.

Norm Jennings started on the hill for Lakeland, but gave way to Don Herr in the 5th. Herr was tagged with the loss.

Four Boys Tied for Jaycee Lead

Michigan Golfers Fare Poorly; Bill Stacey Is State's Best With 76

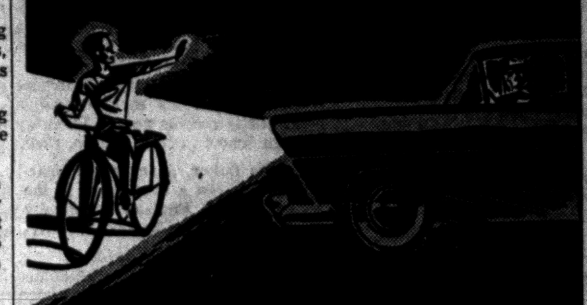

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four sharp-shooting golfers went into the second 18 of a 36-hole qualifier today determined to take medalist honors in the 12th annual International Jaycee Junior golf tournament.

Jack Vardaman, Anniston, Ala.; David Leon, Tucson, Ariz.; Jimmy Gabrielson, Athens, Ga., and W. Ross Teter, Dallas, Tex., led a field of 196 teen-age golfers with one over par 73s. The leading scores were carded over Ohio State University's tricky 6,810-yard, par 36-36 layout.

For the most part, Michigan's four-man contingent fared poorly. Bill Stacey of Grand Rapids was the nearest to the leaders with 36-40—76. Joe Brisson of Grosse Pte. came next with 42-38—80, Tom Grace of Lathrop Twp. shot 41-40—81, and Pete Green of Birmingham had 39-45—84.

The field will be cut to the low 100 scores and ties and all international entries after today's competition. Tournament officials predicted a two-day total of 165 or better would be needed to qualify for 72-hole medal play which opens Wednesday and runs through Saturday.

Confidential's Defense Attorney

Lawyer Keeps Cool Head

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

As defense attorney for Confidential Magazine, Arthur J. Crowley brings to one of Hollywood's most sensational trials the calm perspective of a New England upbringing.

Despite posing questions whose answers rock filmland to the depths, his manner remains unperturbed.

He leaves histrionics to the movies and concentrates instead on the solid aspects of the law. He rarely raises his well-modulated voice and the blush of frustration seldom corsses his face.

Of modest appearance, Crowley is the original young man in a hurry. He is of average height and his waistline is trim.

His receding, graying-brown hair indicates he is older than his 32 years. So do his smartly-tailored "lawyer's" gray and blue. He usually wears a striped tie of the same color as his socks. He does not wear glasses.

DOES COURTROOM HOMEWORK

Unlike many attorneys, Crowley does not enter his courtroom burdened with an armload of law books. He refers to copious investigatory notes, but much of the information he carries mentally, a fact which indicates much after-courtroom "homework."

Crowley was born in Los Angeles but received his early education at public schools and at Buckeley High School in New London, Conn.

His father, a registered pharmacist, ran a drug store in the small New England community for many years before his retirement.

Young Crowley was graduated from secondary school at 15 and attended the University of Southern California for two years before enlisting in the Navy, during World War II.

After more college, he became a Navy pilot and then transferred to the Air Force, from which he was discharged in 1945 as a first lieutenant.

BACHELOR

He received his law degree at USC under the GI Bill of Rights and hung out his shingle at 22.

Crowley, a bachelor, lives in the fashionable Toluca Lake section of Los Angeles.

He refuses to discuss his personal life, but he is a well-known figure in Los Angeles and Hollywood cafe circles, and often turns up with an attractive starlet or model on his arm.

The first tax-supported free circulating public library in the U.S. was established in 1833 — only 124 years ago — in Peterborough, N.H.

$29,000 Needed by County GOP

Two Money-Raising Drives Planned to Get Operational Funds

The Oakland County Republican party needs about $29,000 a year for a year-round organization with headquarters and staff, Richard C. Van Dusen, of Birmingham said today.

Van Dusen, a former state representative and unsuccessful candidate for attorney general last year, is the party's newly-appointed finance director.

He is planning two money-raising drives, one of them for small, but regular contributions from a large number of party supporters to maintain a county organization.

Van Dusen expects about $2,500 a month will be needed, and hopes to raise this through regular monthly contributions of from $1 to $5 per person.

"This kind of drive will broaden the party base and provide us with funds for a permanent headquarters with a full-time staff," he said.

Van Dusen wants to get this membership drive rolling within a few months.

The second drive, to raise campaign funds for the next year's elections, will start after the first of the year, said Van Dusen.

He expects to appoint chairmen to head each drive.

2 Teenage Girls Injured When Auto Hits Tree

Injured when their car glanced off another auto and hit a tree Monday afternoon, were two teenage girls, according to Oakland County Sheriff's reports.

Gail J. Wooly, 18, of 7407 Sweetbriar Rd., Westacres, and Joan C. Bland, 17, of Ann Arbor, were treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital, and released.

The driver of the car in which they were riding, Lauretta M. Hawkins, 17, of Detroit, and the driver of the other auto, Richard K. Trongo, 36, of 520 Walnut St., Royal Oak, were uninjured.

John Clark Named to Ad Agency Post

John E. Clark, former resident of Pontiac, has been named to the executive staff of John Donnelly & Sons, East coast outdoor advertising firm. He will serve as manager of national sales, making his headquarters at 44 Madison Ave. New York City.

CLARK

Clark was with Young & Rubicam advertising agency where he served for 14 years as an account executive and as manager of the outdoor department. For ten years prior, he was employed by Walker and Company.

Clark is married to the former Dorothea Christian, daughter of the late Dr. E. A. Christian and Mrs. Christian. They have two sons. Dr. Christian was head of Pontiac State Hospital here for many years.

News in Brief

Louis Robertson, 345 Branch St., told Pontiac Police yesterday that someone had stolen from the trunk of his car parked at his home, approximately $70 worth of fishing tackle.

Market Shows Rally Tendency

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed rallying tendencies early today, although there were plenty of losers.

It was an irregular price pattern, but the headlong retreat of yesterday was stopped for the time being, at least.

★ ★ ★

The recovery movement was apparent among steels, motors and coppers as well as selected issues elsewhere. Even among the oils which were hard-hit yesterday by news of the Communist coup in Syria there were some small gainers.

Gains among pivotal stocks ran from fractions to around a point. Most losses among the key issues were held to fractions.

The steels were steady as the industry's operating rate topped 80 per cent of rated capacity for the first time since June.

Chrysler bounced back from yesterday's loss with a gain of a point or better. General Motors was up a fraction.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Amerada scored small gains. But Texas Co. dropped a good fraction.

Losses also were taken by Dow Chemical, Union Carbide and U.S. Gypsum, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Republic Steel were easy.

VA Hospital Volunteers for Asiatic Flu Testing

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP)—A big hospital building internally bathed in "black light" is the setting for an unusual experiment designed to show whether the new Asiatic flu can be transmitted from one person to another through the air.

Inside this building, part of the Veterans Administration hospital here, are about 140 long-term patients. So long as they are patients they will not be allowed to leave the structure, which has been equipped with a barber shop, a chapel and other features to make it virtually a fortress.

★ ★ ★

The building and its occupants, as well as other units of the VA institution, await the onset of the expected flu epidemic — which some health authorities say could affect as much as a third of the U.S. population.

The Veterans Administration disclosed the project today in announcing that the patients in the building plus the 520 employes of the entire VA unit had volunteered to play parts in the test.

The experiment is important because medical science does not know how the influenza virus moves from one human being to another. Some authorities say it travels through the air. Others say it can infect a person only by direct contact with another who harbors the disease organism.

Evidence on exactly how it is spread could be of help. It might show whether the flu organism could be stopped by a radiation barrier, or whether some degree of isolation is effective.

Black light, or ultraviolet, as it is called, is a form of radiation. It makes certain substances glow brilliantly in the dark. It can kill some kinds of germs. It can cause sunburn. Long exposure could produce injury to the eyes.

The walls of the test structure, known as Building 62, are studded with ultraviolet lamps, so aimed that their rays do not strike patients or employes directly but irradiate the air volume.

Samples of blood serum have been taken from every patient in Building 62 and in all employes of the Livermore hospital installation.

These samples are being checked for the presence of Asiatic flu at the government's communicable disease center in Atlanta. From this the Public health Service will know just which ones, if any, have had the Asiatic flu and which have not.

After the expected epidemic sweeps through, blood samples will be taken from these same patients and employes and checked again for signs of flu infection.

★ ★ ★

The employes generally will not have the benefit of ultraviolet radiated air. If the percentage of infection among them turns out to be higher than among the patients of Building 62 it will be a pretty good indication that ultraviolet has some deterrent effect on the disease organism, said Dr. Harrison S. Collisi, manager of the Livermore installation.

Confidential Plans Hit Snag

Limit Defense Testimony in Libel Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense plans to send a long procession of movie stars across the witness stand in the criminal libel trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines have been wiped out.

Judge Herbert V. Walker ruled yesterday that testimony could be introduced only concerning magazine stories already read into the record of the trial.

★ ★ ★

Judge Walker said this means that defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley cannot carryout his intention of calling upwards of 150 celebrities as witnesses. Crowley had said he planned to ask them if stories about them in the magazines are true.

The ruling came on a day which produced these other developments:

1. Former theater employe James Craig reiterated his testimony that actress Maureen O'Hara and a Latin American made ardent love in the back row of a Hollywood theater.

★ ★ ★

2. Miss O'Hara produced her passport at a news conference to prove that she was in Europe when the theater incident was alleged to have occurred. And she increased her damage suit against Confidential over the story from one to five million dollars.

3. Daniel Ross, New York attorney who passes on stories for Confidential and Whisper, testified he did not consider the O'Hara and Dorothy Dandridge stories obscene.

4. Judge Walker refused to permit the defense to introduce testimony about lie detector tests taken by Mrs. Marjorie Meade, one of the defendants, and Craig during the weekend.

The ruling limiting defense testimony to the articles already read to the jury came when Las Vegas, Nev., singer Mylee Andreason was called to the stand. She was asked about a Confidential story entitled "That 'Rug Party' in Mark Stevens' Office." Her testimony was stopped after she said she was the girl in the story about the actor.

The Mark Stevens story was not one of those introduced in evidence by the prosecution.

The articles about which the defense remains free to call witnesses involve:

Miss O'Hara, Miss Dandridge, Alan Dale, John Carroll, Frank Sinatra, Eddie Fisher, Anita Ekberg and Anthony Steele, Billy Daniels, Jayne Mansfield and Mickey Hargitay, Dick Powell and June Allyson, Corinne Calvet, Robert Mitchum, and Mae West.

In her attorney's office in Hollywood, Miss O'Hara showed reporters her passport with notations that she arrived at Shannon Airport, Ireland, Oct. 8, 1953, from the United States and returned to New York Jan. 11, 1954.

Three-Way Split in House Bogs Down Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republicans and Northern Democrats sat tight today, trying to force each other to back down on the civil rights bill.

House GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the only way the Democrats can get a bill passed is to make some concessions to the Republican drive for a stronger measure than the Senate's.

★ ★ ★

But Northern Democrats weren't budging from their proposal to accept the Senate bill with the Senate's broad jury trail amendment limited to voting rights cases.

There was some talk that Congress would go home without passing the bill this year.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) still spoke hopefully of getting the measure before the House this week. But plans for adjournment by Saturday were slipping.

Four pro-civil rights Democrats on the House Rules Committee yesterday set a tentative Thursday deadline for a committee decision on whether to take up the stalemated bill.

NO BILL AT ALL

But these Democrats needed votes from at least three of the four Republicans on the 12-man committee to force a decision. Rep. Howard W. Smith D-Va., chairman of the committee that has three other Southern Democrats, said he was for any course that would result in no civil rights bill.

The three-way split has stymied the measure ever since the Senate passed an amended version Aug.

At that time, the bill went back to the House, which earlier had passed the measure in a form generally in line with President Eisenhower's proposals. The Rules Committee has had the bill since last week.

3 Treated, Released After 2-Car Collision

Three persons were injured in a two-car collision on 14 Mile Rd. at Orchard Lake Rd., in Farmington Township, Monday afternoon, said Oakland County Sheriff's reports today.

Both drivers, Dolores K. Bratt, 37, of 30551 Franklin Rd., Franklin, and Thomas D. Sawyer, 56, of 1825 Woodland Dr., Pontiac, were injured, along with Mrs. Bratt's daughter, Donna, 11.

All were treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

City Commission to Hear Bids on Storm, Sanitary Relief Sewers

City commissioners tonight will hear the tabulation of bids for the large Perry Park Subdivision storm sewer and West Huron sanitary relief sewer projects.

Walter K. Willman, city manager, yesterday said the work could be done despite low bids of $9,365 over engineer estimates. Total estimate for the three-section project was $425,000. Low bids received reached $434,365.

Prior to the reading of the bids by the city clerk at tonight's weekly commission meeting, the public will have an opportunity to ask questions of officials dur- a public hearing on the sewer project.

Immediately following this hearing will be another on the city's plans to construct curb, gutter, and related work on Tregent street from Baldwin to Saginaw.

Other public hearings will be on proposals to reconstruct a five-foot sidewalk and change of grade on the east side of Seneca street from Perry street to 17 feet north of the south line of lot 14 of Pithers Addition, and to grade and gravel Ypsilanti avenue from Baldwin to Carlisle.

Commissioners will offer for first reading this evening an ordinance proposing to rezone to Commercial 1, three lots on West Huron at Thorpe street.

The proposal edged by the Planning Commission this month as some 70 residents appeared to block the move. By a 5 to 4 vote, the rezoning was recommended for referral to the City Commission.

A report will be aired from Russell H. Coltson, director for sanitation for Oakland County, on the alleged pollution of Sylvan Lake.

The possible extension of sewers on Emerson and Cameron avenues will be discussed during action on a 15-point slate.

Also included on the agenda is an offer from James W. Harrison to sell his property to the city at 60 S. Parke St.

Several other routine public improvement items will round out the docket when commissioners convene at 8 p.m.

Waterford Debates Water Rate Hike

Water rates for some Waterford Township residents may go up in the near future, according to township officials. A study currently is being made to determine the feasibility of such a rate hike on the township's water system number one.

★ ★ ★

The water system has lost money for several years and the old rates, established in 1939, just will not pay the bills, Township Clerk James Seeterlin says.

Money has had to come from the general fund to support the system, thus taxing non-users for the water.

★ ★ ★

Seeterlin said it may be several weeks before a final decision is made, but pointed out that it is imperative that something be done to hold down the monetary losses on the system.

Legion Auxiliary Installs Officers

New officers of Chief Pontiac Post 377 Auxiliary of the American Legion were sworn in at a joint installation with post members.

Installed in the major offices were: Mary Charter, president; Cleofe Chandler, vice president; Ruth West, second vice president; Kathleen Macom, secretary; and Charlotte Charter, treasurer.

Mrs. Pauline Phillips presented Gertrude Garrison her past president's pin, as the latter retired from office. Mrs. Phillips also installed Mrs. Charter as the new president.

Members and their guests included other 18th district post representatives from Royal Oak, Milford, Berkley, Clawson, and Ferndale.

New Commission Garage Bids Opened

Plans to expand the Oakland County Road Commission's plant in the Telegraph road service center will continue today, with the opening of bids for construction of a new garage.

The new facility will help house the commission's large fleet of rolling equipment. It will be a mate to the present garage.

There will be additional storage space included in the project, said commission chairman Sol Lomerson.

Bridge on Schedule

ST. IGNACE (AP) — Construction of the Straits of Mackinac Bridge linking Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas is on schedule, says David B. Steinman, designer and chief engineer. In a talk here he said two million man hours of engineering work went into the five-mile bridge. It is scheduled to open to traffic in November.

About three-fourths of the 4,000-mile long boundary between the United States and Canada is water.

Strike Cuts Off New York Milk

Teamster Tank Truck Drivers Halt Delivery of Raw Product

NEW YORK (AP) — Teamsters Union tank truck drivers went on strike last night, crippling delivery of the bulk of the metropolitan area's raw milk supply.

Employers estimated that the 1,150 striking truck drivers haul 95 per cent of the raw milk later processed for the area's 12 million customers. Union sources estimated it at 75 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The strikers haul milk in tank trucks and box trucks from upstate New York dairy farms to distribution and processing plants in the Hudson Valley area and New York City.

★ ★ ★

The strike's full effect may not be felt for two or three days since some milk already is in processing plants and many households have a supply.

Spokesmen for two dairymen's groups said milk farmers were "innocent victims" of the strike and it would cost them a million dollars daily.

Negotiations broke up after union and management representatives reached an impasse.

The Teamsters are seeking a reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours plus an 8½-cent hourly wage-welfare boost over a year period. The Dairy Transport Assn. has offered 50 cents over a four-year period. Pay scales now range from $1.87 to $2.07 per hour.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, acting city health commissioner, said he had assurances from both union and employer representatives that the supply for hospitals and institutions would be maintained.

North Dakota's lignite mines produce about three million tons per year.

Od's Odd Whistle Puts Him at Odds With Neighbors

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — An abatement has been slapped on a jolly fellow who says he has been whistling ever since he was a boy in Cornwallis, Ore.

That's just the trouble, claim some of Od Bachelor's neighbors, who, seeking a modicum of peace and quiet, lodged a disturbance of the peace complaint. A policeman called and told Od he'd have to knock off the whistling.

★ ★ ★

The officer said, privately, that it all seemed silly to him, and he never thought he'd have to tell a man to stop being happy.

★ ★ ★

"I guess I whistle because I have a wonderful family and a job I like," said Bachelor, "but if I'm disturbing someone I'm going to do my best to cut it out."

Bachelor has a plan. "Since the policeman came to see me, my wife has arranged to have a bowl of gumdrops always beside me. You can't eat gumdrops and whistle at the same time, you know."

Junior Editors Quiz on DINOSAURS

QUESTION: How big were dinosaurs?

ANSWER: Although most people think of dinosaurs as gigantic monsters, as indeed many of them were, some were less than a foot in length and quite harmless.

The largest of all dinosaurs was the Brontosaurus, or thunder lizard, which reached a length of 80 feet or more. The Brontosaurus had a long neck and tail and walked on all four feet. It fed on plants.

Another huge dinosaur was the Tyrannosaurus, or terrifying lizard. This meat-eating animal walked on its hind legs and reached a length of 45 feet. Its head was very large and its mouth was filled with large, sharp teeth.

Dinosaurs dominated life on the earth 60 million to 190 million years ago, during what is called the Mesozoic period. Their remains have been found on every continent and are especially abundant in certain rocks in the western United States.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Most museums of natural history have skeletons of many types of dinosaurs. You can learn more about these huge creatures by visiting a museum.

Says Prisoner Admits Crimes

Holland Police Officer Claims Man Tells of Nine Misdeeds

HOLLAND (AP) — Police Lt. Ernie Bear said a man held at Holland police station has signed a statement admitting seven Chicago holdups, car theft in Ottawa County and a Michigan City, Ind., auto theft attempt.

Bear identified the man as John Verne Smith, 22, of Holland, and said he surrendered voluntarily early yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Smith also has been identified as the bandit who terrorized a Michigan City minister for an hour at gunpoint Aug. 11 and fled with the clergyman's car.

Bear said Rev. Christian Kocher, pastor of the Michigan City First Methodist Church, identified a picture of the gunman.

Rev. Kocher was held prisoner in his own study while the gunman tried unsuccessfully to have the minister drive him across the state line at New Buffalo, 10 miles away.

★ ★ ★

Rev. Kocher said the gunman left, taking the keys to his car and promising to leave it at a Chicago intersection. A police dragnet failed to locate the man.

Bear said Indiana and Chicago authorities have been notified of Smith's statement. He is held at the jail for investigation of the Ottawa County car theft.

Ottawa County Prosecutor James W. Bussard said Smith would not be extradited until the Michigan case against him has been closed.

Both Seek Governorship

Knight-Knowland Battle Shaping Up in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Goodwin J. Knight quickly followed up his formal entry into California's 1958 political race with word today he would run on both his own Republican and the Democratic tickets in the gubernatorial primary next June 3.

Knight announced his candidacy for re-election yesterday, nearly 10 months ahead of the election, in an apparent move to get the jump on his prospective Republican rival, Sen. William F. Knowland.

★ ★ ★

He made it clear that if the Senate minority leader decides to run against him, he would raise the question whether Knowland sought the governorship as a stepping stone to the presidency in 1960.

His statement came amidst Democratic charges of a "deal" between Knowland and Vice President Nixon. As the Democrats tell it, Nixon would back Knowland for governor; Knowland would support Nixon for president, with Nixon swinging to Knowland if he can't make it himself.

Knight, in disclosing his plans to cross-file, called himself a staunch Republican.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Friends say Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) is all set to accept the challenge of Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to fight it out in next year's primary for the Republican nomination for governor of California.

Knowland was outwardly unperturbed by Knight's announcement in Sacramento yesterday that he is a candidate for renomination. Knowland also registered no public reaction to Knight's blast at those who Knight said would use the state office as a "pawn in the presidential contest." This remark was interpreted as aimed mainly at Knowland.

★ ★ ★

"I have no comment beyond the fact that I always have assumed the governor would be a candidate for renomination," Knowland said. "There are no changes in my plans which have been previously announced."

Knight said he was making his declaration early "to resolve any doubts concerning my intentions."

Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader, has announced he will not seek re-election. He has left open the possibility of a bid for the governorship with the statement he will announce his intentions during a speaking tour in California next month.

★ ★ ★

There remains no doubt among Knowland's associates here that he will seek to oust Knight as the party nominee. If Knowland succeeds and if he then is elected governor, he could be expected to make a strong bid for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Spanish Soldiers Clash With Ifni Civilians

PARIS (AP) — Reports reaching Paris today said fighting broke out between Spanish soldiers and Moroccan civilians Friday in the Spanish enclave of Ifni on the southwest coast of Morocco.

There was no indication of the number of casualties.

The reports — which were not confirmed — said that after the incidents, Spanish planes and ships made a show of force along the coast of the enclave.

Ifni, a tiny pocket of land in southern Morocco, has been repeatedly claimed by the Moroccans.

Lightning Hits Steeple

DALLAS (AP)—Lightning blasted the 18-foot steeple from the John Knox Presbyterian Church in Pleasant Grove yesterday. It also knocked the electric organ out of commission. Sunday School and church services were held on schedule, however.

Antarctic Operation Under Way Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of U. S. specialists will head for the South Pole soon in this year's "Operation Deep Freeze," the third and largest expedition to the antarctic in three years.

★ ★ ★

The 4,147 Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force men taking part will be moved south aboard 31 airplanes and 10 ships. Some of the surface vessels, including four ice breakers, will begin leaving U. S. ports late this month. Others will not sail until November.

Transport planes will start departing from Quonset Point, R. I., and Greenville, S. C., in September.

★ ★ ★

When the new group arrives, most of the 319 men who have spent the winter at the South Pole will be brought back home. Another winter party will remain when the ships and planes start back to the United States next February.

Mrs. Zane Grey Leaves at Least $500,000 in Will

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The widow of novelist Zane Grey bequesthed property believed to exceed $500,000 in value to her children and grandchildren.

Under a will filed for probate yesterday in Superior Court, Mrs. Lina Elise Grey left the famous Grey estate in Altadena, Calif., to a son, Romer Grey, and his wife. Property owned by the Western writer and Mrs. Grey at Catalina Island, offshore from Los Angeles, was left to other children, Loren Grey and Mrs. Betty Zane Grosso. Stock in Zane Grey, Inc., was left to the grandchildren.

Mrs. Grey, 74, died July 26. Her husband died in 1939.

Population of Michigan increased 600,000 from April 1, 1950, to July 1, 1954, according to unofficial figures.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO THANK FRIENDS and neighbors, the Pursley Funeral Home, Dr. Arthur R. Young and the American Cancer Society for their many kindnesses during the illness and death of our mother, Jerry Welch, William Welch, Merle Miller, Elizabeth Bailey, Mary Patenaude, Ethel Evans.

WE WISH TO THANK ALL OF our friends and neighbors, the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home, Local 668, the Paint Department at Fisher Body both day and night shifts for the flowers sent by them to our beloved son and brother, David Sustaita.
The kindness shown and the words of Sympathy by all of you eased the pain tremendously during our recent bereavement.
Sincerely, Conception Sustaita, Barbara Sustaita and family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son and brother, Wilfred Bowen, who passed away two years ago, August 20.
Two years have passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well,
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But the love of him who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.
Sadly missed by Dad, Sondra, and Mary Bowen.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HOWard C. Harroun, who passed away August 19, 1955.
God knows how much we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade;
Loving thoughts shall ever wander,
To the spot where he is laid.
Sadly missed by Rose and Stepchildren.

IN MEMORY OF WALTER SOBAK, who passed away 3 yrs. ago this month. Sadly missed by wife, children and parents. Mrs. Walter Sobak, Mr. & Mrs. Walter Sobczak.

SHOW DOUBTFUL — Fans pleased by the news of Imogene Coca's reunion with Sid Caesar are probably doomed to disappointment this fall. For, it is doubtful if the comedy team can solve sponsor and time problems fast enough to find a spot on NBC-TV's autumn schedule.

Sponsor, Time Must Be Found

NBC Might Fit Team Into Schedule Later in the Season

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca reportedly will return to television as a comedy team this fall. But the truth is that the possibility is so remote it's scarcely worth considering.

It seems certain that a large and enthusiastic home audience would greet the return of Caesar and his first TV wife from whom he parted three years ago.

It's equally certain that Caesar and Miss Coca are eager to return as a team. Certain, too, is the fact that their old video landlord, NBC-TV, is interested in providing a home for them again.

You may wonder what is to prevent the return of the comedy team in the fall. The answer lies in the complex nature of TV programming.

First, Caesar and Miss Coca neither have a sponsor nor a well-defined plan of what sort of program they want to do. Secondly, there does not appear to be a time spot on the NBC-TV fall schedule that would appeal to them and a sponsor.

The answer of Caesar fans would be: "Then make a place for them." That's not easy. At the moment it looks impossible.

In many respects a TV program schedule is about as flexible as a brick wall. If you chisel out one brick with an eye to placing it somewhere else, you have to chisel out another — and on and on, until the first thing you know you have only a heap of rubble.

Television competition has become so keen that a network, agency, sponsor and performer not only are concerned about the hour of a program. They worry over what program precedes it and what follows it and what programs are appearing at the same time on opposition networks.

After the 13 weeks of the fall TV season, there possibly will be a spot on NBC-TV which Caesar and Miss Coca and a sponsor would find acceptable. For, as inevitably as autumn changes to winter, there will be program changes as the year comes to an end.

Free-Handed Brazilians Refuse Earl's Money

By EARL WILSON

RIO DE JANEIRO—A few years ago there was a popular song called, "They've Got An Awful Lot of Coffee in Brazil."

Our son Slugger, who was little then, used to get confused about the title and would sometimes say, "They Got a Lot of Awful Coffee in Brazil."

And now here he is drinking the wonderful coffee of Brazil. They serve it generally in the "Cafezinho" or demitasse—size . . . and many, many places give you the cafezinho free. One very pleasant thing about Brazil is that the people are not greedy and do not try to rob the tourists.

I had a difficult time spending money here one day.

★ ★ ★

I wanted to take a trolley ride around the city but had nothing smaller than a 500-cruzeiro bill (about $6) so I stopped off at a little lunch stand to buy some coffee and break the bill.

"Cafezinho," I said, expertly—and the counterman pointed to a little cubicle off to one side.

There was a man inside brewing coffee and when I tried to pay for it, the better to break the bill, he said, "No, gratis!"

Frustrated, my bill unbroken, I returned to the counter and ordered a soft drink. When it was served, I offered the counterman my bill.

BARBARA

It was too big for him to break and so he shrugged off the cost of the soft drink.

"De nada," he said—"Don't mention it."

I finally got on a trolley and offered the bill, and got the same smile and shrug from the conductor.

A free ride on the street car!

It was a taxi driver who finally broke my bill. And, when I told him where I wanted to go, he took out some pocket money and counted out what my fare would be in advance, so I wouldn't have reason to think I'd been cheated afterward.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Dancer Gene Nelson fell from a horse while movie-making, fractured his pelvis . . . Wealthy Brazilian Jorge Guinle is introducing Mary Hilem, N.Y. model, as his fiance to Rio friends Zsa Zsa Gabor has an offer from Dot Records—to make kiddie albums . . . Danny Scholl and Marti Stevens (of the Rye Music Tent's "Pajama Game") are romantic offstage, too.

Tony Bennett's a hot possibility for Jule Styne's B'way musical, "Say Darling" . . . Comic Buddy Hackett says he'd rather play Havana than Vegas: "The dough's the same and I save three hours flying time" . . . Edward G. Robinson Sr., like his son, will pen an autobiography . . . Barbara Hamilton, featured in U-I's "White Orchid"—filmed in Guatemala—is back to do TV.

EARL'S PEARLS . . . The Peter Kuntz Co.'s amusing "Sideliner" notes that "You're a real oldtimer if you remember when you could buy an acre of land for what a bottle of good likker would cost today."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "The best way to be a social flop is always to look up to people who look down on you."

Chain of Radios to Aid Shipping

Vessels in North Atlantic Can Plot Courses by Using Beamed Signals

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP)—A new chain of radio navigation aids to North Atlantic shipping went into operation today.

Its sponsors said it could help avert such disasters as the Andrea Doria-Stockholm collision.

The system, embracing ground transmitter stations in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, covers approaches to the United States including the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The system first was used in 1944 to guide Allied forces to Normandy beaches. It has since been used extensively in Britain and Europe.

The system involves a low frequency, position-finding device that can automatically and continuously provide a chart of a ship's course. An American invention developed in Britain, it is called the Bendix-Decca Navigator.

★ ★ ★

From radio signals, a ship equipped with receiving devices can chart its position quickly. The device provides a continuous map of the ship's course and heading.

Bendix Aviation Corp., which holds the U.S. and Canadian rights said the system also provides a ship with its distance from underwater obstacles such as shoals and the point of nearest landfall.

The Record Shop — New Kostelanetz Album His 50th

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Andre Kostelanetz may be one of the better conductors presently operating, but he's no good as an album counter. They had to tell him that his next release is the 50th of his career.

"I never kept track of them," he says. "I was completely surprised when Columbia told me this Rodgers thing was the 50th."

Dean Jones

"This Rodgers thing" is important for another reason. It's the first two-record album he's made. It's a beautiful album—inside and out—contains typical Kostelanetz treatments of many of Richard Rodgers' greatest compositions.

Kostelanetz

Even while the 50th is released, the 51st, 52nd and 53rd are already in the works. (Next will be a Rachmaninoff album; then some French music, then a musical suite based on Harold Arlen's forthcoming "Blues Opera.")

"You see," says Kostelanetz, "I'm always planning ahead — that's why I never bothered to count the ones behind. I have all my records, but I very seldom play any of them. Of course, I hear them on the radio and my friends quite often play them when I visit them."

The 50 albums, incidentally, are almost all still available, attesting to their durable popularity. It all began for Kostelanetz back in 1940, with the first one being a Victor Herbert collection. Second was Strauss waltzes, and that one continues to be a year-in, year-out best-seller.

Looking back at the previous 49, Kostelanetz says — "and I don't mean to sound conceited when I say this" — that they still sound pretty good to him. He admits that, if he were to record them again, he might make some minor changes, "because nobody ever stands still."

★ ★ ★

Ella Fitzgerald's popular Songbooks on Verve (Cole Porter, Rodgers and Hart) were dreamed up, she says, by the head man of the record company, Norman Granz.

"It was part of his plan to broaden my audience," she says. "He didn't want me just billed as a jazz singer. He wanted to let a larger audience hear my voice.

"At first, the idea worried me. I felt it was a big investment for him to make — if people didn't buy them, he'd lose a lot. But I'm very glad I did them and I like them, although I wish I'd had time to learn some of the verses on the Porter album a little better."

MGM'S Dean Jones has a deal to do eight major TV shows for NBC starting with a few with Steve Allen. You get an idea of the complicated TV business when Dean mentions that this arrangement took four separate contracts: MGM signed one with NBC, lending his services; NBS and Bellemeadows Productions (Allen's outfit), lending him to Steve; NBC with Jones MGM with Jones.

Stars may come, stars may go —but lawyers keep getting richer.

DICK PICK'S: Helen Merrill, a singer, may finally click with the record public with "Blue Guitar" (Mercury). Others: "Pamela Throws A Party" (The Hi-Los, Columbia); "Mister Fire Eyes" (Bonnie Guitar, Dot); "Half Of My Heart" (Jeff Chandler, Liberty); "Hey, You Face" (The Crew-Cuts, Mercury); "Try to Understand" (Les Stevens, Tiara); "By My Side" (David Hill, RCA); "Klinga-ling" (Guy Lombardo, Capitol).

Use of TV names to help sell albums continues to be a profitable gimmick for the record companies. Here are a few new ones —on Columbia, an album of Nelson Riddle's arrangements of Swinging Brass;" on RCA, a jazz album has Jack Webb's picture on the cover and the title "Pete Kelly At Home," using the Kelly name that Webb featured in a movie; on RCA, Perry Como's latest album features the name and title of his TV request stunt, "We Get Letters."

It's been a long time between recordings of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf," but the new Columbia release was worth waiting for. Musically, it is superb, with Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra playing the intriguing themes. But it is the narration by Cryil Ritchard that sets this one apart; he is ideal. The reverse side has the Philadelphia group playing Britten's "The Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra.

U.N. Sets Special Meeting on Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. has set Sept. 10 for a special assembly session on Hungary. The United States immediately called for full approval of a U.N. investigating committee report assailing the Soviet Union for stamping out last fall's revolt with brutal military might.

Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, assembly president, notified all 81 member nations of the decision to call the special session a week in advance of the regular 1957 session.

The special assembly will deal chiefly with the 150,000-word report of the Special Committee on Hungary issued last June.

The United States, which has taken the lead in seeking assembly debate on the report, hailed with satisfaction the announcement by Prince Wan.

On Tenth Anniversary

India's Problems Critical

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

India, which has just celebrated its tenth anniversary of independence, finds itself facing critical economic problems which could bring additional political headaches.

The decade of independence has been the Nehru age in India. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and his ruling Congress party, although a big factor in making for stability, are combatting: a very low standard of living; alarming unemployment among the educated; and a balance of payments crisis.

Large orders for equipment were placed with foreign funds in the ambitious second five-year plan in belief that India's reserves and the intake from exports would be sufficient to tide over the first critical years of the plan.

There also was belief that development loans from the United States and Britain would cover the foreign exchange gap.

But an unexpectedly bad crop increased the need for food imports and cut down on the exportable surplus of cotton and oil seeds.

On the success of the five-year plan, 1956-1961, depends India's ability to compete with China in prestige and stability.

★ ★ ★

Nehru and his rulers were aware that in embarking on the ambitious industrial plan before being certain of foreign aid was a risk. But their agreement was that there was no alternative.

The population, which numbered 377 million in 1954, has been rising by five million persons yearly and the working population is growing by two millions annually.

Unless the government can boost the national income to keep up with the population growth and make a good showing in relation to the achievements of Red China, its neighbors, the lure of communism will be more attractive.

★ ★ ★

Communism already is a danger. The Red party now is evolving in Kerala state where it has been able to form a ministry. If Nehru's Congress party should break up on the economic issues an eventual Red victory would be possible.

FEAR OF EDUCATED

The Delhi regime has reason to fear the feelings of the unemployed among the educated middle class because even before it attained independence the nation was producing an educated class in excess of the number of jobs available.

★ ★ ★

But the response in London has been anything but enthusiastic. Britain has its own heavy economic problems and also thinks Nehru's plans are too ambitious.

Germans Release U.S. Self-Styled Citizen of World

HANNOVER, Germany (AP) — Garry Davis, America's self-styled world citizen, was released from a West German jail today after refusing to pay a 100-mark ($23.80) fine for violating German passport regulations.

Davis, son of band leader Meyer Davis, was convicted of entering West Germany illegally from France July 27 with his world citizen passport as his only identification. German regulations require a valid passport.

West German authorities authorized the 36-year-old American to remain in the country until Nov. 15.

Fire Ravages Home of Pontiac Policeman

A Pontiac policeman's house was ravaged by fire yesterday, causing an estimated $2,000 damages to the frame building and unestimated loss to contents.

The fire was at the home of William Young, 410 E. Beverly Ave. in a second story which had been finished off as living quarters, but was unoccupied.

The Pontiac Fire Dept. believes the fire was caused by children playing with matches, but there has been no verification of this. Officer Young has no insurance on the destroyed contents, mostly clothing, but the building is insured.

"Why did daddy have to die?"

How can you explain it to a heartbroken child? Most traffic accidents don't have to happen. Yet last year, 40,000 died on our highways. This tragic killing can be stopped—if you help.

BACK THE ATTACK ON TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Here's how you can help:

1. Drive safely, courteously yourself. Observe speed limits, warning signs. Where traffic laws are obeyed, deaths go DOWN!
2. Insist on strict enforcement of all traffic laws. They work for you, not against you. Where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go DOWN!

One of America's most remarkable men, Bernard M. Baruch, celebrated his 87th birthday Monday. This is the second of five articles recounting dramatic moments in Baruch's life, presenting an intimate close-up of him and recounting his formulas for success.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

If you want to be a success in life, you have to make up your mind what you want to do.

So says Bernard M. Baruch, who certainly has made a success of his own life. He started at the bottom, acquired his first million dollars before he was 35, and in the years that followed gave great service to his country and to his fellow men.

One of Baruch's characteristics is a level head. He always knew his limitations and his potentialities; what he could do and what he couldn't do.

Baruch came to New York in 1881 as a boy of eleven when his family moved north from South Carolina. As he grew up he thought of becoming a doctor like his father, Dr. Simon Baruch, a hard-working surgeon.

But his mother was influenced by a talk she had with a phrenologist who thought that, while young Bernard would make a good doctor, he might do better in finance or politics.

BEGAN AT $3 A WEEK

So when, at 19, Baruch was graduated from City College of New York, he landed a job in Wall Street as a $3 a week clerk in a brokerage firm.

Baruch had the qualities to make good in "The Street" — keen insight, logic, and a brilliant mind. (In later years Baruch never tried to evade the fact that in those days he was a speculator).

He moved into the realm of speculation and finance as a duck takes to water and rose steadily in prestige and earning power.

When he was 27, he married Anne Griffen of New York, tall, slim and attractive daughter of a glass importer. Many of his "dates" were on a bench in Central Park.

By the time he got married, he was making his mark in Wall street. Not many years after they were married—before he was 35—he was rated a millionaire.

Baruch knew what he wanted in life.

He became a highly successful financier, a philanthropist, a humanitarian and a world personality who commanded the respect of people in all walks of life.

Today his views on world affairs and on success—and how to achieve it—are worth listening to. He says:

"When I was a young man I wanted to be a 100-yard dasher. Well, I could run it under 13 seconds, and that's pretty slow. Charlie Paddock came along and ran 100 yards in 10 and Jesse Owens ran it, I think, in 9½ or 9 3-5 or 9 2-5. Well, I had to give that up.

"It was suggested I go in the prize ring but I gave boxing up very soon. You must realize your limitations. Everybody can do certain things.

"Money-making, for example, is a specialty. I can't paint. I couldn't draw. I couldn't run. Some men are good at mathematics. Some are good at drawing, painting or accounting.

"If you want to make money, you've got to go into the money-making business. That's what I did as a young man."

Baruch said that he has found that the greatest satisfaction of men and women, whom he knew over a long life, comes from trying to function and "do the things they want to do."

"You can't make money and do something else," he went on. "None of the great artists, none of the great political figures have been money makers.

Baruch's personal life has been a happy one. He and his wife lived together for forty years until she died in January 1938. They had two daughters and a son—Miss Belle W. Baruch, Mrs. H. Robert Samstag, and Bernard M. Baruch Jr., who is a captain in the U.S. Navy.

(Tomorrow: How Baruch derived inspiration from the advice of his father).

Order Scottish Regiments Settle Dress Conflict

LONDON (INS) — Highland or lowland, the question is whether it will be kilts or tartan trousers from now on as the official dress for two merging Scottish regiments.

The Highland Light Infantry and the Lowland Royal Scots Fusiliers fought a hard last ditch battle to prevent the merger, but when that failed the feud began over what they should wear.

Told that there must be a common uniform for the new organization, the Highlanders wanted to adapt the famous Mackenzie tartan kilts, but the Lowlanders wouldn't think of giving up their traditional Campbell tartan "trews."

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan—himself a Scotsman—jumped into the fray and advised both groups to decide "in all earnestness" what it's going to be.

Macmillan warned if the groups cannot agree on the sartorial problem then there is "no alternative but to disband both."

Some officers doubted the merger would work regardless of what the men wore. One officer said dourly, "It goes deeper than kilts and trews."

Another officer said "Highlanders and Lowlanders are like oil and water and that's that—they just won't mix."

American contractors got the bulk of $84,000,000 in contracts awarded by Iraq in 1955.
