WASHINGTON — A special inter-American mission may be sent back to Haiti from the Dominican Republic to check on new restrictions imposed by President Francois Duvalier, it was reported today.

2 Pinch-Hitting Judges Connect for Court Aides

Using pinch hitters paid off yesterday for Oakland County Circuit Court reporters in their bid for more money.

Circuit Judges William J. Beer and Arthur E. Moore battled in immediate $500 pay raises for each of the five court reporters.

The judges convinced the county's supervisors' Salaries Committee that it had erred earlier in turning down any increases this year.

The reporters had asked the committee to approve $1,200 an annual increase. They were told last month that they would have to wait at least until next year for any pay hikes.

In approving the increases yesterday the committee agreed to appropriate the money from the salaries reserve fund.

Since the amount falls within the county budget, no further board action is necessary.

The reporters' annual salaries were raised from $7,500 to $8,000, with assurances that an additional increase next year will be considered in preparing the 1964 budget.

The committee was favorably impressed with the judges' explanation of what is required of reporters in accurately recording courtroom proceedings. Chairman Curt Hall said.

agency commission to "decide whether a return trip to Port-au-Prince appeared to be warranted in view of martial law and a strict curfew ordered by Duvalier."

The commission was sent to the island of Hispaniola Monday to try to avert open conflict between Haiti and the Dominican Republic, which share the island.

The group spent most of the week in Port-au-Prince, but now is in Santo Domingo.

OAS Council Chairman Gonzalo Facio contacted the mission after learning of the new edicts.

Facio reportedly is trying to establish whether the new measures might prevent Haitian authorities from granting safe conduct to the approximately 100 political refugees now in foreign missions in Port-au-Prince.

OAS sources said that a return trip by the truce mission to Port-au-Prince was a "distinct possibility." They would not elaborate further.

The OAS investigating committee has expressed deep concern over the internal situation in Haiti in two messages to Facio. Originally, the team was expected to return to Washington today or tomorrow to prepare a report to the OAS council on its findings.

Duvalier declared martial law shortly after the mission left Port-au-Prince last night.

The peace mission was assured by the Duvalier government that Haiti would protect foreign embassies and the rights of Haitians who had taken asylum in them.

Seeks Support on State Lottery

Plans to Request Aid From Gov. Romney

LANING — The legislature's staunchest supporter of a state lottery has put out the welcome mat for any allies — including Gov. George Romney — who care to join his cause.

Rep. Edwin Fitzpatrick, D-Detroit, said he will ask Romney to include an enabling resolution for a state-operated lottery in his call to the special legislative session of the legislature this fall.

"I have never been more earnest in anything I have proposed," Fitzpatrick said.

The veteran Detroit lawmaker was moved to comment after Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, suggested that an interim study committee be named to examine the question of a state lottery along lines of that enacted this week in New Hampshire.

Fitzpatrick hastened to point out that such a resolution was introduced by himself this year — for the fifth year in a row — and is tied up in House committee.

He also recalled that he has sponsored a resolution every year for seven years to permit voters to decide on a constitutional amendment for a state-operated sweepstakes.

Both the present and the new state constitution specifically permit the legislature from enacting legislation for a state lottery.

On three occasions Fitzpatrick's resolution has gotten out of committee but always has been rejected on the floor. It came closest to passage in 1962, missing by only seven votes.

Derby Day Crowd May Be Biggest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — A Kentucky Derby crowd expected to be the largest in history poured into Churchill Downs today where the historic classic came up for its 88th running under a bright, hot sun with a lightning fast track.

No Robbery, another unbeaten colt, and Never Bend, the champion 2-year-old of 1962.

Bonjour, Chateaugay, Gray Pet, On My Honor, Royal Tower and Invictor were the other spirited young horses set to prance to the post at 4:30 p.m. (Pontiac time).

Some fans already were lined up at the entrances when the gates swung open at 8 o'clock in the morning. They crowded into Churchill Downs all morning long.

The early birds rushed to the infield to stake out positions along the rail. They were treated to the sight of the "big three" of the 1963 Kentucky Derby getting their final limbering up for the most coveted prize in horse racing.

Mesh Tenney, who trains Candy Spots for Rex Ellsworth, had his colt out for a gallop then he led Candy Spots along the rail to get him used to the crowd there.

Never Bend and No Robbery also galloped but, since they lack the distinctive marking which makes Candy Spots easy to recognize, they were just two horses on the race track to the crowd.

At 9 o'clock in the morning, a thermometer in the sun climbed to 97 and the sale of straw hats, at $2 each, was brisk.

In the grandstand and clubhouse sections, the crowd was slow to arrive because all seats are reserved and have been sold out for months.

Betting on the Kentucky Derby opened at 9 a.m. and the lines were long at the windows near the grandstand entrance. They were more people lined up at the $5 windows than "any other."

Some of them will not make another bet all day for they immediately turned from the sellers' wickets to stream through the tunnel leading to the infield.

For them, Derby Day was an outing.

Connor spotted the marchers and yelled, "There they are... go get them!"

The demonstration marked the third consecutive day in which Negroes have staged anti-segregation marches. More than 1,000 have been arrested.

Patrolmen stopped the young marchers — the oldest appeared about 17 — about 150 feet from city hall. There was no evidence of firemen who helped break up marchers yesterday with high-pressure hoses.

The marchers were diverted to a runway leading into another section of the building where they were arrested. There were

32 Passengers Killed in Brazilian Air Crash

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Officials counted 32 dead today in the crash of a Brazilian airliner that plowed into a heavily built up area but miraculously hit only an unoccupied apartment building.

At least 20,000 persons rushed to the scene, seriously hampering rescue efforts. Several were reported killed when a fire truck slammed into part of the crowd.

Despite the throng, 17 persons were snatched alive from the blazing wreckage and rushed to local hospitals where one later died. One person was missing from the 44 passengers and five crewmen aboard the two-engined Convair.

The plane plunged to earth shortly after take-off last night. Witnesses said the plane, belonging to Cruzeiro do Sul Airlines, caught fire, exploded in the air and plunged to earth.

It broke up in the air and part of it rammed an apartment building under construction. It sheared off a large section of the structure and reduced it to rubble.

There were no Americans listed in the first reports of casualties.

One of those who died was James G. Hughes, a Uruguayan citizen, who was director of General Electric in Brazil.

Other passengers were Brazilian Deputy Miguel Bahury and television comic Renna K. Consorte.

Of those hospitalized, 13 were reported to be in critical condition.

The plane was in trouble from the time it took off for Rio, 300 miles to the northeast.

The right engine was burning," said a witness, Emilion Batista, an airline employee. "I said, 'God, it's going to explode. Then it did.'"

Auto Makers Aim at Record

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — The automotive industry, with the best April sales record in history under its belt, aimed in today on the 1963 record sales mark.

Ward's Automotive Reports said that new car sales last month totaled 702,632 in the preliminary count, surpassing the previous high for the month of 702,400 established in 1955.

Ward's said that final totals will bring the April sales mark this year closer to 704,000.

General Motors Corp. led the sales parade, selling a total of 425,399 cars and trucks, eclipsing the 1955 April mark of 388,183.

Chevrolet said yesterday its car and truck sales last month set records for any April, and that total sales volume was the division's third best in history.

In the first four months of 1963, Chevrolet reported all-time record sales of 755,323 cars and 144,100 trucks.

Volume is running 11.2 per cent ahead of the company's previous record pace in 1962.

Ward's said model year production at the end of the week will total 5,201,000, 500,000 ahead of the same time last year.

The statistical agency reported a total of 222,000 economy-sized cars were sold last month, tying the record for any month of 222,000 set last May.

Last month's sales spurge raised to 31.5 per cent the economy-size car's share of the market. In the same month last year, small cars accounted for 33.2 per cent of all cars sold.

Area Man Among War Heroes

DR. HAROLD FURLONG

Among some 234 men who talked and shook hands with President Kennedy on the White House lawn yesterday was Dr. Harold A. Furlong of Bloomfield Township.

"The 234 men all had one thing in common. They were America's great heroes. Each man held the Congressional Medal of Honor."

Dr. Furlong of 2260 E. Hammond Lake won the medal for his heroic actions under fire in France during the final weeks of World War I.

It was believed to be the largest number of Medal of Honor winners ever assembled. There are 250 living winners of the medal.

Kennedy paid tribute to Dr. Furlong and the others as "our most distinguished American citizens." The lawn party was part of a traditional reception for 1,600 military men and their wives.

Dr. Furlong won his congressional medal, the highest award the United States can give for military valor — for going behind enemy lines Nov. 1, 1918, and knocking out four machine gun installations blocking advance of his company.

During this action, he drove 20 prisoners into the American lines.

Dr. Furlong served with the 353 Infantry, 89th Division.

Medal of Honor winners honored yesterday were veterans of the Spanish-American War, the fighting at Vera Cruz, Mexico, the Philippine Insurrection, Boxer Rebellion, two world wars and Korea.

Catholics Jam Public Schools

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A movement by Roman Catholic parents to take their children out of parochial schools and enroll them in public schools is snowballing in Missouri.

The parents are rebelling because the state won't transport their children to the parochial schools.

The move started without notice when 75 parochial students moved into the seven-room, 150-pupil public school at Centerville Thursday. The next day 100 descended on the two-room Osage Bend School, and 85 on the school at Vienna.

The little Osage Bend School may get another 150 pupils Monday. In Jefferson City, Catholic parents are aiming at transferring 1,500.

In the St. Louis area, Catholic parents say they will close parochial schools next fall and turn thousands of children into the public school system.

Money is at the root of the movement.

"We can't afford to keep on voting bond issues for public schools and paying parochial tuition, too," said Garland Noonan of Pacific, Mo., a leader in the drive.

The Catholics had sought relief through the Missouri legislature, pushing a bill that would allow parochial and private school children to ride on public school buses.

But a House committee killed the bill Tuesday, citing Missouri's constitution.

"No money shall ever be taken from the public treasury, directly or indirectly, in aid of any church, sect or denomination of any religion, or in aid of any priest, preacher, minister or teacher thereof," the constitution says.

So far, the Catholic clergy has taken no part publicly.

The Very Rev. Monsignor James T. Curtin, superintendent of St. Louis Archdiocesan schools, said, "We must regard this as a private action of individuals."

Dr. Stanley I. Stuber, executive director of the Missouri Council of Churches, embracing 14 Protestant denominations with 700,000 members, said, "This emotional pressure action is something very dangerous. If Catholic parents want to create better relations between their church and the rest of the community, let them accept fully and gladly the school laws of the state on a creative, honest basis."

Public school officials are setting up makeshift classrooms in school basements, cafeterias, auditoriums and churches—and officials are looking for buildings they can lease.

He declined to identify the SCLC member.

"I explained this to Martin Luther King April 8 and got him to agree to negotiate," Father Foley said. "But he would not come to the negotiations. He sent (Rev. F. L.) Shuttlesworth and his brother (Rev. A. D. King) but they wouldn't make any settlement."

Foley said the city was working toward better race relations before the demonstrations began April 3.

He said "A group of young lawyers engineered the ouster of Bull Connor" through a change in the form of government from city commission to mayor-council.

Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor, for more than 20 years a symbol of ardent segregationists, was beaten by former Lt. Gov. Albert Boutwell for mayor April 2.

Father Foley said of the nine new City Council members, five were moderates and three were segregationists.

Foley said he had assurances from the new government racial progress would be made.

Now, he said, "everybody they had no more to offer in the city. I think Bull Connor look more in dispensable. And there won't be any progress."

Those arrested were Bob Zellner, 24, Mobile, Ala.; William Hansen, 23, Cincinnati, Ohio; Sam Shira, 20, Montgomery, Ala.; Eric Weinberger, 31, New York City; Zev Aelony, 25, of Minnesota; all white; and Robert Goe, 31, New York City; Richard Healey, 46, former teacher at Florida A.M. Univ., Lockett, 21, of New Haven, Conn.; Jesse Harris, 21, Jackson, Miss.; and Carver Meblett, 20, of Carbondale, Ill.

No Evidence Discovered of Reds Topping Everest

From Our News Wires

KATMANDU, Nepal — The American Everest expedition reported today that the two men who reached the peak of the world's highest mountain Wednesday found no evidence that a Communist Chinese team had scaled it before them.

Red China claimed it placed a team on the summit in 1960 from the north side and that it left a Chinese flag and a bust of Mao Tse-tung there to prove it.

However, Peking never has displayed any photographic evidence and international mountaineering circles have given little credence to the story.

The report from the American expedition today — that there was no sign of Red China's flag or Mao bust — further weakened the claim.

The spokesman said four men were aboard the missing bomber, which was stationed at this southwestern Idaho base.

The Fremont County Sheriff's Office in St. Anthony, Idaho, about 60 miles southwest of West Yellowstone, reported the bomber was believed down near the Idaho-Wyoming border, about 30 miles east of St. Anthony.

"The rugged terrain and up to 40 inches of snow at higher elevations, plus low-hanging thunderclouds, hampered early efforts to locate the plane."

"We're sure the plane is down," said Sheriff's Deputy Mike Nielson. He said about 20 men from the sheriff's office and state police started a search in the heavily forested area.

Yellowstone Park ranger Stewart Orgill said the National Park Service had also sent out search parties.

Nielson said there are few roads or residents in the area, and all roads at higher elevations were blocked by up to 6 inches of snow.

Secret Talks Abandoned

Claims King Did About-Face

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—The chairman of the Alabama Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission claimed yesterday Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. agreed to seek secret negotiations with Birmingham business and professional leaders and then did an about-face.

The Rev. Albert S. Foley, S.J., sociology professor at Spring Hill College here, said he personally pleaded with King to call off the demonstrations to permit the secret negotiations to iron out race problems.

Father Foley said King "at first agreed," then changed his mind without notice.

Father Foley denounced the massive anti-segregation demonstration in the South's steel city as impeding any racial progress that could be made there.

He said he had assurances from the newly elected city council that it would agree to the Negroes' major demands — rescind segregation ordinances, create a human relations commission to try to better race relations, hire Negro policemen and open city parks closed due to threatened integration.

The priest said a member of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), which King heads, told him the group's treasury was nearly depleted and the demonstrations were needed to spark sagging contributions.

He said "A group of young lawyers engineered the ouster of Bull Connor" through a change in the form of government from city commission to mayor-council.

MOUNTAIN HOME AIR FORCE BASE, Idaho (AP) — Two Air Force planes collided while refueling in midair near West Yellowstone, Mont., Friday night. One landed safely, but the other was presumed to have crashed.

A search for the missing plane, a B47 bomber, began this morning in the snow-covered mountain country near the Idaho-Wyoming border.

The other plane, a KC135 tanker, landed safely here. All five crewmen aboard were unhurt. An Air Force spokesman said the plane suffered only wing damage.

FOUR MEN MISSING

The spokesman said four men were aboard the missing bomber, which was stationed at this southwestern Idaho base.

The Fremont County Sheriff's Office in St. Anthony, Idaho, about 60 miles southwest of West Yellowstone, reported the bomber was believed down near the Idaho-Wyoming border, about 30 miles east of St. Anthony.

"The rugged terrain and up to 40 inches of snow at higher elevations, plus low-hanging thunderclouds, hampered early efforts to locate the plane."

"We're sure the plane is down," said Sheriff's Deputy Mike Nielson. He said about 20 men from the sheriff's office and state police started a search in the heavily forested area.

Yellowstone Park ranger Stewart Orgill said the National Park Service had also sent out search parties.

Nielson said there are few roads or residents in the area, and all roads at higher elevations were blocked by up to 6 inches of snow.

King said that the Justice Department official wanted to talk first with Mayor Albert Boutwell.

King said more massive demonstrations were planned and police officials vowed to stop them.

King warned "that today's activities would be twice as large as yesterday's, when hundreds of Negroes attempted to march."

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, made the statement at a mass meeting of more than 1,000 persons at a Negro church.

The massed marchers yesterday included hundreds of praying, chanting teenagers. Five Negroes said they either were bitten by the leashed police dogs or were injured by the high-pressure streams of water from fire hoses.

More than 250 Negroes were arrested yesterday. Officers said 132 teenagers were placed in the juvenile detention home, and more than 100 Negro adults were lodged in the city jail.

Three Frenchmen and an Indian major were wounded in the attack Friday after the helicopters landed near the Plaine des Jarrés to assist a truck convoy ambushed while evacuating Frenchmen from the plain. One Frenchman was killed and two others wounded in that attack.

A Western diplomat, calling the attack unprovoked, said: "We had clearance and authorization of (Pathet Lao chief) Prince Souphanouvong for the mercy mission."

Souvan's party returned to the Vietnamese from the plain, bringing with them the wounded.

10 Freedom Marchers Jailed

FORT PAYNE, Ala. (AP) — Ten freedom marchers, carrying on a pilgrimage by a train to Baltimore integrationists, were jailed today, arrested immediately after they crossed the state line into Alabama.

The marchers, five white men and five Negroes, were arrested by Alabama highway patrolmen Friday. The group had been picked up when they stopped for lunch on the Georgia roadside, about a mile before reaching Alabama.

Shortly before the marchers reached the state line, one was knocked to the ground by a white man and another was hit on the Soviet Union Confirms Illness of Frol Kozlov

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin today announced that Frol Kozlov — regarded as the heir apparent to Premier Khrushchev — was ill. Well-informed sources said he had suffered a thrombosis.

A thrombosis is a clot of blood lodged somewhere in the circulatory system.

King said that the Justice Department official wanted to talk first with Mayor Albert Boutwell.

King said more massive demonstrations were planned and police officials vowed to stop them.

Russians Realize They Could Lose a War

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, the Soviet Union has been forced to face up to the possibility it could be defeated in a nuclear war, an Air Force analyst concludes after a study of Russian military writings.

Further, he finds that the Soviet high command is not of one mind on nuclear age strategy.

Russian military conservatives, he says, "regard the nuclear rocket only as a new and important addition to the armament."

"The radicals call it 'decisive' in the sense that it reduces, or eliminates, the need for other weapons."

search and analysis, reached these conclusions in an analysis of the first comprehensive discourse on military doctrine to appear in the Soviet Union since 1926.

The book, entitled "Military Strategy," is a compilation of military writings of 15 high-ranking officials, including Soviet Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, who also was the study's editor.

It was issued last year in a first edition of 20,000 copies, all of which were sold almost immediately.

In his analysis, made available to the Associated Press, Green points out the book is packed with doctrinal contradictions due to the authors' diverse military theories.

But, he says, the book must be taken seriously as a reflection of Soviet military thinking "despite its shortcomings."

"Military Strategy" has done more than any other book "to encourage realism in the Soviet Union."

Green figures this means "the Soviets expect to fight to win. They have not succumbed to the defeatism which argues that destruction will be so great as to make pointless a need to prosecute the war in the most vigorous way possible."

Yet apparently, the Russian officials have no blind belief in the invincibility of "Mother Russia."

"For the first time," writes Green, "the Sokolovsky study openly discusses the theoretical possibility of defeat. The Soviet Union is now strong enough militarily, and conscious enough of her strength, to discuss chances of defeat dispassionately."

Green singles out the line "The laws of strategy are objective and apply impartially to both sides."

"There is no more frank or significant statement in the study than this one for it reflects the Soviet Union's return to 'fallibility,' he says.

Meredith Asks Equal Rights at Ole Miss

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Negro James H. Meredith appealed to students yesterday for equal opportunities for the Negro and harmonious relations.

"What is everybody so mad about," Meredith said in a letter to "fellow students" published in "The Mississippian," the University of Mississippi campus newspaper.

Meredith, 29, has been center of controversy at the school since last fall when he was forcibly enrolled at the university with the aid of federal troops and marshals.

Rioting broke out on the campus after his arrival and two persons were killed.

"I know of nothing I have done to offend anyone," he said. "A matter of fact, I have always made an effort not to antagonize anyone."

The Air Force veteran said white students in Mississippi "can aspire with reasonable hope to become proficient in almost any field of study" and Negro students "can expect at best to get a teaching certificate."

Blue Shield Still Unsettled

Hit No Accord With Colburn on Rate Hike

DETROIT (AP) — A dispute between Michigan Hospital Service (Blue Shield) and State Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn over a proposed rate increase will be returned to Circuit Court Monday.

Attorneys said yesterday that efforts to reach an out-of-court agreement had failed. They said no further meetings would be held this weekend.

The lawyers told Circuit Judge Theodore Bohn that their talks had not resulted in any agreement on the proposed Blue Shield rate hike. The medical plan has scheduled a 19.3 per cent increase June 1.

Blue Shield contends state laws do not give Colburn the power to set the rates. He disagrees.

In another move yesterday, the Detroit Common Council agreed informally to seek court permission to intervene in the case on the side of Commissioner Colburn.

The council acted after being told that the proposed increase would cost the city government $155,000 in the next year. The city matches the hospitalization insurance costs of its employees.

The council directed city attorneys to draw up the necessary legal papers so they can be judged on Monday and sent on to Judge Bohn.

Shortages of Potatoes Concerns Russ Reds

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party and government yesterday displayed concern over potato production.

A letter to farm workers from the party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers complained that the country still does not produce enough potatoes and said it's "a matter of great nationwide importance."

Guerrillas Claim Victories

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist Chinese guerrillas have staged five successful sabotage raids in south China since last January, the English-language China News reported today.

The paper, quoting "intelligence sources in Taipei," said some of the raids were carried out with the help of mainland residents. The paper gave this account of the raids:

● March 19: An ammunition depot in Tangchiawan on the southern coast of Kwantung opposite Hong Kong was blown up. Ten Communist soldiers were killed or wounded by the blast.

● Jan. 24: A railroad bridge and warehouse in Shihchi, near Tangchiawan, was blown up. One Nationalist guerrilla was killed in the raid.

● Jan. 29: Several inhabitants of a commune in Hsiehchisu on the Kwantung-Kwangsi border fled into the hills with Nationalist guerrillas who set fire to dwellings and warehouses in the commune.

● March 1: A radar antenna at a coastal radar station near Chongyung, Kwantung, was blown up. Several mainlanders took part in the raid.

● March 24: A section of railway track near Changping road station on the Canton-Kowloon line was blown up, derailing five freight cars.

Bird Lets Cat Know It's a Rat

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Flossy, a 7-year-old cat, dined on a nestful of baby mockingbirds last summer and has suffered ever since.

Rose Vitale, owner of Flossy, said Thursday the mother mockingbird hasn't forgotten the death of her children.

"Every time Flossy goes in the yard," Mrs. Vitale said, "the mockingbird dives and picks at her."

To prove her point, Mrs. Vitale called Flossy. As soon as the cat appeared, the mockingbird began to scream.

"Now watch," said Mrs. Vitale. "She never attacks until Flossy is busy."

Mrs. Vitale put out a bowl of milk. Flossy stuck her whiskers in the bowl. The mockingbird dived, then zoomed upward with a hank of hair.

Studies Made on Space Trip to Planet Mars

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Maxime Faget, an assistant director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, said today studies are being conducted on the prospects of sending men to Mars in the first half of the 1970s.

The flight would take more than a year and probably would be made by three to 12 astronauts in a three-section spaceship, Faget said.

He said one section, or module, would house the spacemen most of their journey, another would protect them from the heat on re-entering the earth's atmosphere at speeds up to 35,000 miles an hour, and the third would be used to land some of the crew on Mars.

Faget said $150,000 has been budgeted to study the re-entry module and $100,000 has been allocated for study of the mission module to house the crew. He said the center also plans a study of the landing module.

It will be at least a year or two before scientists are able to determine if the mission is feasible, he said.

Faget said the flight would have to be made when the earth and Mars were close to each other on their orbits around the sun.

Anti-Nasserites Seizing Syria

Oust Egypt's Officers in Struggle for Control

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — The powerful Ba'athist party was reported seizing power through out Syria today and ousting pro-Egyptian army officers.

The action, following the resignation of six cabinet ministers, was the latest development in the party's struggle with supporters of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser for control of Syria.

Western diplomats feared the latest Ba'athist move might trigger antigovernment rioting throughout Syria.

Although the government has not officially announced the resignations, informed sources said the ministers would not return unless the Ba'athist party agrees to keep its promise to grant the Nasserites equality in the government.

Despite the mounting tension, the capital was quiet today, and no troops were seen patrolling the streets. But the peaceful atmosphere in Damascus was largely due to the Moslem Bairam Festival, which runs through Tuesday.

It was reported that at least 120 pro-Nasser army officers were ousted.

This was expected to bring a sharp reaction from the Cairo government, which is trying to weld Egypt, Syria and Iraq into a new Arab federation guided by Egypt.

Political observers said the Ba'athist party is in control of Iraq as well as Syria. Thus, the party could overshadow Nasser in a new United Arab Republic, even though the Egyptian leader would, almost certainly be the titular head of such a federation.

6 Children, Rusk States All Retarded, Yugoslav Hope Die in Fire

ROCKFILLE, Ind. (AP) — Six of eleven youngsters in a home for retarded children suffered fatal burns Friday night as flames from burning clothes in an electric dryer spread through the 75-year-old building.

Five died in the fire, and a sixth died of burns early today. Five others suffered burns as volunteers and firemen carried them out of the Johnson Home for the Retarded. One escaped unharmed.

"Those children didn't have a chance," one fireman said.

The youngsters were so severely handicapped, both physically and mentally, that they were unable to act independently. One dead child had only one arm and one leg.

COULD HAVE ESCAPED

Fireman Bill Early said the real pity was that had they been normal children most, probably all, could have escaped alive.

The dead, all from Indiana, were identified as Muriel Johnson, 3; Gary, Pamela Taylor, 10; Indianapolis; Bryant Smith, 8; South Bend; George Spurgeon, 6; Columbus; Linda Landrigan, 5; Greenwood; and Tamera Wallace, 5, Indianapolis.

The Wallace girl died early today in Vermillion County Hospital at Clinton.

Reported in fairly good condition in the hospital were Clarence Foley, 7; Columbus; Patsy Jones, 4; Gary; David McCassey, 5, from Illinois; and Jerry Roy Day, 6, from Vanderburgh County, Ind.

Two to Take Exams for Fire Chief Job

Captains Lewis Goff and Clayton Sconraite of the Waterford Township Fire Department will take written examinations May 16 and oral exams the following day for the vacant fire chief job.

Goff has been serving as acting chief since the resignation of Elmer Fangbner a month ago when Fangbner was elected township clerk.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressed hope today for an expansion of contacts and exchanges between the United States and Yugoslavia in many fields.

President Tito's government gave Rusk a red-carpet welcome on his arrival for a 20-hour visit on his way back to Washington from a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization's ministerial council in Karachi, Pakistan, and talks in New Delhi with Prime Minister Nehru.

"I am looking forward very much to my visit here," Rusk told a Yugoslav delegation headed by Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic at Belgrade's airport.

The secretary was accompanied by his wife and 28 aides.

Before leaving New Delhi, he said, "I think we have reached a good understanding" on many of the problems between the U.S. and Indian governments.

He declined to specify what the problems are. One, however, is India's continuing feud with Western - allied Pakistan over the future of Kashmir.

Canvasser to Ouit State Board Post

LANSING (UPI) — Former State Rep. Carl G. Lindquist of Iron River yesterday submitted to Gov. George Romney his resignation from the Board of State Canvassers.

Romney was out of town, but an aide confirmed the 66-year-old Republican's request to step down from the post he has occupied only since last Feb. 1.

This four-year term was scheduled to run until Feb. 1, 1967. Lindquist's resignation leaves two Democrats and one Republican on the four-member bipartisan board.

Soviets Set to Try Couple Called Spies

MOSCOW (UPI) — British businessman Grevel Wynne and Russian ex-official Oleg Penkovsky go on trial Tuesday on "spy" charges which could carry the death penalty if they are found guilty.

Informed sources said the two men were conferring with their prospective defense attorneys today.

The date of the trial was announced last night by the British Embassy, which got its information from the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

The two will be tried by a military panel of the Soviet Supreme Court.

Suspect Sabotage Aboard British Ship

CHATHAM, England (AP) — Admiralty security men are investigating suspected sabotage aboard one of Britain's latest guided missile ships.

The main engine gearing of the 2,800-ton destroyer Diamond was wrecked by pieces of metal thrust through an inspection cover.

Diamond, equipped with the new Sea-Scout anti-aircraft missile, has been refitting at Chatham near London, before sailing on service in the Mediterranean.

like looking for someone who doesn't read newspapers

Very hard to find. 99 million people in almost 9 out of every 10 homes read newspapers. It's the most sought after, often bought, eagerly consumed, intensely depended upon product in the world. The reason is obvious. We can't do without it. The need to know about the news and events that touch and shape our lives is deep, intense, unending. And the need to know is now. Today. So it's not very hard to figure out why more advertising dollars are spent in daily newspapers than in TV, magazines, radio, and outdoor combined.

1st Unit to Seat 334 Persons

Congregation Begins Building Program

Construction began this week on a new $78,000 building, the first unit of the building program of Waterford Township Church of Christ located at 491 Williams Lake Road.

Plans call for an auditorium that will seat 334 persons. The educational wing will include 18 classrooms, a nursery, minister's study, library and fellowship facilities.

The front of the auditorium will be highlighted with solar screen blocks. The roof line will be heightened by the erection of a 24-foot high steeple.

The exterior of the building will be brick veneer. The one-story building is designed with four laminated arches supporting the auditorium roof. Wood paneling will be used in the auditorium with harmonizing pews. The baptistry will be elevated behind the pulpit and Communion table.

Facilities will be provided for audio visual projection in classrooms. The new church will have hot water heat and air conditioning with temperature control in each classroom.

The 5,800-square foot structure is the first unit of a building program that will include an auditorium with seating for 300 persons and 28 more classrooms.

The building committee consists of Robert Cross, minister; Kenneth W. Conley, Herman Mosier, Fred Furr, Edward M. Man, and Donald Niver.

Finances are obtained by selling investment bonds that pay six per cent. The total issue is for $85,000. The congregation organized five years ago is presently worshipping at 5800 Andersonville Road in a rented building.

Mr. Cunningham will bring a series of sermons on "The Bible Speaks" at Sunday services. Tomorrow he will preach on "The Christ of Today" at 11 a.m. and on "The Second Coming of Christ" at 7:30 p.m.

A member of the faculty of Great Lakes Bible College in Lansing, he served five years on the faculty of Christian College as head of church history and missions department. He also taught in the Old Testament department.

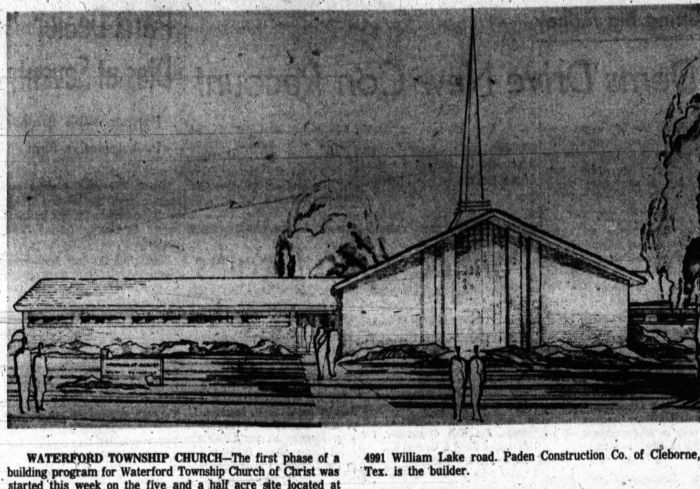

Prior to coming to Michigan he held ministries in Indiana, Minnesota and West Virginia. The Junior choir will sing at 9:45 a.m. and the Adult choir under the direction of Slat Lloyd will present "Wonderful Grace of Jesus" at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Rev. Myron R. Everett will preach on "Our Home Life" at 11 a.m. and on "He Provides" at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Ronald Ball will lead the junior youth group in the discussion on "Who Really Lives Here" at 5:45 p.m. tomorrow. Phyllis Hardy will be the senior high group leader with the subject, "Colliding Points of View."

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP CHURCH—The first phase of a building program for Waterford Township Church of Christ was started this week on the five and a half acre site located at 491 Williams Lake road. Paden Construction Co. of Cleburne, Tex. is the builder.

He is always polite to strange ladies, helping them off the bus, etc. We've been married many years and I should be used to it by now, but I'm not.

background for LIVING

SOUTHERN COLONIAL — More than 400 new homes have been built by the Robertson Brothers Construction Co. in a new subdivision, Hickory Heights on Adams south of Long Lake Road. This "Fox Chase" model sells for $33,400 and features four bedrooms, 2½ bathrooms, a three-quarter basement, large family room and center entrance hall. The kitchen is fully equipped with built-ins, and there is a dramatic sunken living room. Only 40 lots remain in the subdivision.

UNUSUAL TRILEVEL — This "Van Avery" furnished model in the Franklin Corners subdivision sells for $31,900 including lot, according to the Herman Frankel Construction Co. From the center hall to the right and up five steps is the living room. There is a family dining kitchen with a large fireplace on the first floor. The subdivision is on Middle Belt just south of Maple. This and four other models are completely furnished for public inspection daily.

NEAT, ROOMY — This ranch house by Landmark Homes, at 9133 Steep Hollow in White Lake Township is deceiving from the roadside. Priced at $19,850 excluding the lot, the lower level opens onto a lakeside terrace through sliding glass doors.

There is also window-wall in the living room to another level terrace. One of the unusual features of this house is that the basement is completely finished and includes an extra fireplace.

Shopping for House?

By Reba Heintzelman

Home Editor

Every weekend people are swarming in and out of beautiful new model homes in Oakland County. Pictured today are only a few in every price bracket that are on display, or ready to be sold. Periodically, The Pontiac Press will print just such a page as this where pictures speak louder than words.

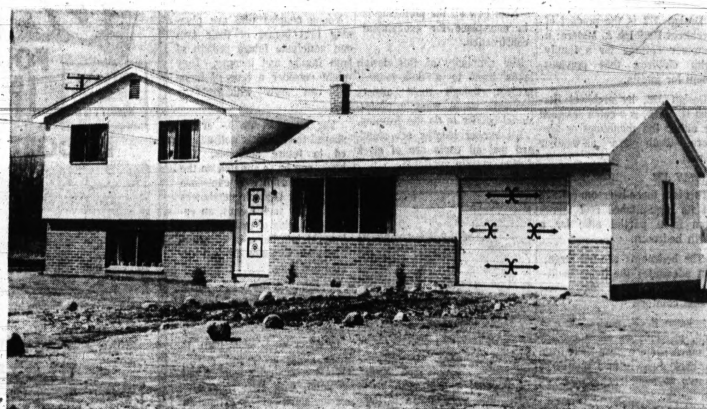

CIRCULAR BAY — This new model on Shawnee in the Jayno Heights subdivision in Waterford Township costs $30,100 with lot included. It features a seven-foot sunken U-shaped kitchen with built-ins. More than 1,635 square feet are in the house that has a full tiled floor, basement, and fireplace. A unique balcony overlooks Schoolhouse Lake.

CLEAN-CUT LINES — There are more than 2,200 square feet in this Dartmouth model in the Kimberly North subdivision on 14-Mile Road between Middle Belt and James Couzens. The four-bedroom trilevel house has 2½ bathrooms and costs $25,900. A suite of rooms is featured in the master bedroom. The builder is Samuel Brody & Sons.

UNDER $10,000 — This is one of many new models being constructed in the Econ-O-Tri subdivision located just south of M59 on Teggedine, in White Lake Township. Payments on the $9,995 house are about $83 a month including insurance and taxes. The model has three bedrooms and bath upstairs with a second bathroom roughed in for future completion on the main floor. Besides a large living room, the house has a 12' by 20-foot family room, a dining area and tiled floors. Developers are J. C. Hayden and R. W. Lilley.

HAS MANY BUILT-INS — One of the features of this furnished model in the Kirkwood subdivision is a large bay window in the front living room. There are four bedrooms, one of which could be used as a den. The house costs $20,850 including the lot, and was built by the Thompson-Brown Co. Located between Franklin Road and Inkster Road, south of Quanton, the model has two-zoned baseboard hot water heat. The two-car garage is 28 feet deep, and maple paneling is featured in the large family room. The model is open every day except Thursday.

DRAMATIC ENTRANCE HALL — This four-bedroom Montclair model, located in the Huntley subdivision in Beverly Hills, sells for $33,950 on a 100' by 125-foot lot. Located just off 13-Mile Road between Southfield Road and Evergreen, the house features a circular stairway that reaches a full two stories high in the entrance hall. The house also has a full basement and large two-car garage. The model, by Robinson Brothers, Inc., is furnished and open daily.

DESIGN J73 — Simplicity of this design lends itself to a do-it-yourself project. There are two large-sun decks plus a covered screened porch which is larger than the living room.

J73 FLOOR PLAN — The bedrooms can be added after this cabin is occupied, expanding the size to 24 feet by 28 feet with a total of 672 square feet of interior living area.

Family Vacation Retreat Can Serve for Retirement

By JULES LOH

According to one estimate, Americans are building vacation houses at the rate of about 85,000 a year, and it's easy to see why.

First of all, a family retreat in some watery or wooded recess, at your disposal whenever you want to use it, is ideal either for planned vacations or sporadic-of-the-moment weekend trips.

Secondly, if the house is more than just a rustic fishing shack it can serve as a retirement home.

House of the Week readers get their choice of two such homes today, designs J72 and J73. A study plan of both homes comes with an order for either.

Design J72 is the product of architect Rudolph A. Matern, a summer cottage for a family with children that provides room for guests.

Design J73, by architect Herman H. York, is a cabin designed for either the mountains or seashore. Both are all-weather homes.

ROOMY J72

This is a three-bedroom cottage but its high-pitched roof allows room in a partial attic for a fourth bedroom.

The bedrooms are not large, but adequate; the living facilities are designed for year-round comfort.

A large deck, part of it covered, provides excellent outdoor living. A service door leads from the deck directly to a showerhouse there's no sand-tracking through the house.

A door separates the shower from the rest of the bathroom.

The cottage contains 980 square feet on the first floor and an extra 210 square feet is available for the attic expansion.

Architect Matern will send a 35 mm color slide of the cottage free to all who write him. His address is on the study plan.

The basic living, kitchen and bath unit of this house can be built first and the two bedrooms added later, expanding the dimensions to 24 feet by 28 feet for a total living area of 672 square feet.

This doesn't include the dining deck, lounge deck or screened porch — all areas of as much summertime living as the interior of the house.

The screened porch, with three exposures, actually is larger than the living room and probably will be used more.

York's cottage has an outdoor shower plus an outdoor entry to the bathroom.

Note how all the plumbing is in one place for economical construction.

The simplicity of this design lends itself to a do-it-yourself project, though most owners probably would want a professional builder to do the framing.

All lumber lengths are standard and all parts are of stock design, readily available.

Building a pool is a project that adds charm to the garden and leads to interest in aquatic plants and species of fish — all fascinating hobbies. If you would like to make concrete paving stones and other home improvements also order Pattern Packet No. 29 for $1. Write The Pontiac Press.

Sun Still Does Clothes Drying

Despite many changes in home laundry equipment and methods in recent years, the majority of housewives use the sun as their "clothes dryer."

Even in the coldest sections of the country, most homemakers habitually use outdoor drying yards for at least nine months out of the year and many of them use indoor drying facilities only when snowy or icy conditions make it difficult to reach the clothes lines.

Many surveys have established that most women cite the "bleaching" and "sterilizing" effects of sun-drying as the main reasons why they use outdoor lines.

Those who are most enthusiastic about outdoor drying usually are able to carry their wet laundry from the washing machine to the drying yard with a minimum of steps and a minimum of risk that water will drip onto their floors.

When the clothes washer is located in the basement, the most convenient way to reach the yard is generally through the basement exit to the outdoors.

Steps to the grade can be covered with a steel hatchway. This covering can prevent the entry of snow and help keep the steps free of ice all winter.

Plan a Home That Can Grow

While many factors control the size of the home you're having built, none is more compelling than the size of your budget and your family.

Young couples who are planning first homes of their own can anticipate future growth of both family and income. They might consider a type of home that can "grow" with the family.

For example, an L- or U-shaped floor plan is well adapted to future additions. The house can be so situated on the lot as to permit easy enclosure of the L or U as circumstances permit. By such means, an entire new wing of rooms can be brought into being in complete harmony with the original design and plan.

According to the Southern Pine Association, designs of this nature are generally associated with "patio-planning."

In either an L- or U plan, the main living areas are grouped around a centrally located yard or patio, with each room sharing the same outdoor extension. The medium is efficient for space utilization on a small lot, and usually makes the yard area larger than would otherwise be possible. Ultimate addition of wings at open segments of the L- or U brings a completely enclosed and completely private "patio-plan" home into being.

Do-it-yourself remodeling has become a $3-billion industry and about 60 per cent of the do-it-yourself projects are undertaken by owners of single-family homes. One of the most popular projects is installation of sound-muffling acoustical ceiling tile.

Move Is to Suburbs

Where will your next home be? City, suburbia or the farm?

Many American families would like to move farther outside of central cities with a strong desire for larger homes in less urbanized or congested areas, according to a national survey conducted by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center.

The survey showed that at least 55 per cent of the country's families have some tentative plans to move.

Thirty-nine per cent will stay in their present house or apartment for the rest of their lives. Nine per cent are uncertain whether they will stay or move.

Families who move today to rural or suburban areas suffer no loss of city conveniences as they did prior to World War II. In fact, the electric light has become so common throughout the rural countryside that it has been dropped by the Agriculture Department as a criteria of the way farm people live.

Even city gas users can enjoy this clean-burning fuel no matter where they move outside of the city. Beyond the gas mains it is delivered in steel cylinders or pumped from delivery trucks into backyard storage tanks.

Suburban and rural users of this gas know it as "liquefied petroleum" or "LP-gas." Some people call it "bottled gas."

It's like having a private gas plant in the backyard. It continues to serve when storms knock out other services.

Outside Decor Important Also

The exterior decoration of a home is just as important as the interior design.

It is the frame, the garish, the fluff that puts the finishing touch to a house.

If a mistake is made in planting a tree or bush, it can't be moved easily as an out-of-place chair or sofa indoors.

It is important to spend at least as much time plotting plants as home furnishings.

The same things apply — form, color and texture.

Good landscaping can increase the value of your house.

One can begin by photographing a home, placing the picture on a large background, and then filling it in with sketches of trees, bushes, vines or pictures cut from nurserymen's folders.

If these are in scale, one should find a suitable arrangement.

Most nurserymen are willing to volunteer assistance in this respect.

If cords on traverse rods are coated with a thin layer of petroleum jelly, they will work more smoothly. The jelly reduces the friction where cords travel over pulleys and cuts wear.

Try Steel Hatchway to Cover Your Stairway

If you find yourself forced to make extensive repairs on the wood hatchway covering the steps from the basement to the yard, you should be interested in a product which does not require such constant maintenance. It is a double-leaf steel hatchway. You can probably remove the old wood hatchway and replace it with a hatchway, available at building supply stores.

If you wish to make a room look spacious, choose a curtain color similar to that of the wall.

Grade Yard Properly To Have Dry Basement

One of the main causes of wet basements is that the yard is not graded properly so that water drains away from the foundation walls. Now is the time to remedy this condition.

Bank a few cubic yards of top soil to a height of four or five inches all around and against the foundation, sloping the new earth away to a distance of five or six feet and planting it with grass.

Beating the bugs is the primary purpose of screening materials. But don't overlook secondary uses such as providing privacy, shade and an inexpensive means of enclosing porch or patio.

For most of us though, screens are something put up every spring, taken down every fall and patched, painted or cleaned somewhere along the line.

Maintenance has been simplified in recent years with the introduction of new materials. Aluminum is increasingly popular because it needs little care.

It lasts indefinitely in the right climate, but if you live where there is salt spray in the air you will find the tiny openings becoming smaller as corrosion builds up.

For more money, you can purchase anodized or specially coated aluminum which has greater resistance to corrosion.

Aluminum screening is rather stiff, so be careful about bending it or denting it. It is difficult to repair once bent.

FIBER SCREEN

Screening of glass fiber is also relatively new. It doesn't corrode, even in salt air and, like aluminum, is nearly maintenance free.

It is light, extremely flexible and easy to handle. Fastening can be accomplished with staples or acetate-base adhesive.

The screening picks up airborne dirt easily but can be cleaned by hosing or wiping with a damp sponge.

The old standards — galvanized, bronze and copper screening are still around, too.

Galvanized screen is a good deal less expensive than either aluminum or glass fiber, and if you are renting or planning to use the screening only temporarily, this may be the type for you.

QUITE DURABLE

If you live in a dry climate, you will find galvanized screening quite durable. Wherever you live, paint galvanized screening every year or two.

Copper and bronze screening are quite expensive, even more expensive than most grades of aluminum or glass fiber.

While they are nonrusting, they should be coated periodically with spar varnish because of oxidation.

Stains from oxidation wash down on painted surfaces below.

If you varnish, thin the finish with equal amounts of linseed oil and turpentine. Wash the screening first with benzene or other solvent.

Varnish can also be used on galvanized screening instead of paint.

Brushing clogs the openings in screens. Special applicators are available or make your own by tacking a piece of carpet to a block of wood.

Double Household Area by Using Space in Attic

By converting the attic into sleeping or recreation quarters, the living area of your home may be doubled.

Some families are creating attic "dormitories" for school age children. Simple shelf dividers make a separate sleeping and study area for each child.

Touches Off Controversy

Churchill Warns Britain Not to Drop Nuclear Shield

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's warning that Britain must not abandon its nuclear shield touched off a controversy today in Britain's press.

Papers with Conservative sympathies hailed the statement as a message that should be heeded, but the Liberal Manchester Guardian brushed it off as a piece of ammunition for the hard-pressed Tories.

The Independent, but emboldened Daily Express said the 88-year-old statesman's message for the Prime Minister was the most solemn warning he has ever delivered.

"In the thirties his warnings against weakness went unheeded. The consequence was an unnecessary war," the Express said.

"By the gift of providence the wisdom of Sir Winston Churchill is still at the nation's service. This time that gift must not be disregarded."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph commented that "a flash of the old force and fire illuminates the latest utterance of the greatest living Englishman."

Churchill's statement to his Prime Minister, an organization dedicated to Conservative party ideas and a strong Britain, came one day after he had announced he planned to retire from active politics.

The former prime minister urged that Britain should hold on to her independent nuclear deterrent rather than shelter behind the atomic strength of the Soviet Union.

The Conservatives contend that Britain must retain its nuclear deterrent. The Labor and Liberal parties contend that the country is wasting its resources by trying to stay in the nuclear race with the United States and the Soviet Union.

"It can be no insult to America to have it suggested by a house of lords that the ultimate decision must not be left to present will. The lesson of history is only too clear—Sir Winston reminds us of it; that those who in the last resort rely on anyone but themselves are relying on nothing at all," the Daily Telegraph said.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Jewans looked forward to Independence Day today with the hope it would bring a return of "gracious living" and an end to 47 long, dry years of no liquor by-the-drink.

The Iowa House, in a surprising 68-40 vote yesterday, approved a Senate-passed measure which would make it legal to openly buy a drink over a bar.

"I've been waiting 72 years for this," shouted "freshman" Rep. Bruce Mahan, a 75-year-old Democrat from Iowa City.

Teetotaling Gov. Harold E. Hughes, whose victory last fall was largely credited to his forthright stand in favor of liquor-by-the-drink, toasted the house action as a step toward ending years of "hypocrisy, double standards of law enforcement, dry laws and a wet state."

Ever since national prohibition went into effect in 1916, thirsty Iowans have bought their highballs from "under the bar" or joined exclusive clubs where they pay stiffly to have their own liquor — purchased at state-owned stores—poured into glasses.

Under present laws, Hawkeye bars can sell only 3.2 per cent beer.

Although the house tacked a long series of amendments onto the "open bar" measure and sent it back to the Senate, it was the consensus that difference

To Review Ban on Road Stands

A proposed amendment to the Waterford Township food establishment ordinance and a previously rejected disorderly persons ordinance will both be considered Monday by the Township Board.

Board members received a request from Kevin Ritter two weeks ago asking that the food ordinance section banning the operation of open road stands be amended.

A decision was made to table the matter pending receipt of further information.

Board members agreed to take a second look at a disorderly persons ordinance rejected last year when it was brought to their attention that the present law is difficult to enforce.

Enactment of a township disorderly persons ordinance would enable police to secure warrants from the local justices of the peace rather than through the prosecutor's office.

In other business the board will review previous action on selecting an elevated water tower site and will consider new site possibilities.

Flights, Staff-Reduced by Economizing Airline

LONDON (UPI) — The British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) has announced it will cut its fleet of jet airliners and reduce its staff.

Sir Basil Smallpiece, managing director, said the reduction was due to shrinking business on Commonwealth routes as newly independent nations set up their own airlines.

His earnings for 1962 totaled 440 million yen ($1.2 million) of which the tax office will collect between 70 and 75 per cent.

For this woman...

nothing was too beautiful, too magnificent...nothing was beyond her reach. She had cars, island villas, yachts, clothes, jewels...Ships carried her name. Phaedra had right to everything...Phaedra was given everything...Admiration, luxury, celebrity, tenderness, power. She was flattered, esteemed...she was respected and loved. Friends, servants, family, husband, admirers...And she loved them in return. Her wishes were anticipated, she was served with devotion. In her world, Phaedra was queen.

But one day...Alexis crossed her path. From that moment, destiny uprooted her world...For this man she sacrificed everything...religion, honor, home, friendship, affection, respect, even her child. Nothing else mattered. A love unforgettable, and unforgotten...timeless. The passion of Phaedra...who in the same moment embraced her love and her destruction.

Standards for Seat Belts Get Complex, as Popularity Increases

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — Like motherhood and the flag, safety belts in automobiles are rapidly becoming something nobody is against.

But this doesn't mean they are either universally accepted or used.

Two new developments in the field merit attention.

The first is that nine additional states, including Michigan, have passed laws this year requiring two belts in the front seats of all new cars sold.

The second is that the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE) has revised completely and upgraded its standards for safety belts and for the first time has issued specifications for shoulder or chest restraining harnesses popular in Europe.

The SAE action is significant because a majority of the 20-or-so states which have laws regulating the quality of belts sold follow the SAE standards and testing procedures.

It is especially significant for advocates of the safety harnesses, which usually consist of the familiar lap strap combined with one or two shoulder straps.

None of the states has standards for such harnesses, and in the case of California, lack of such standards has prohibited their use.

This was particularly distressing to Volvo, the Swedish import, since it installs harnesses, as standard equipment, but had to eliminate them from cars sold in California. Volkswagen also offers a harness.

The Volvo harness, which has a diagonal strap across the shoulder, plus a lap belt, was rated highest of all restraining devices by a popular consumer's testing organization (Consumer's Union) which predicted additional such devices would be on the market once standards became available.

The first SAE seat belt standards were published in 1954. This is the sixth revision.

Minimum strength requirements for the belt webbing are being increased from 4,000 pounds to 5,000 pounds and more stringent buckle standards are included which will prevent false latching.

Additionally, standards have been revised on retraction devices for the belts.

These are intended to keep belts neatly stored inside the car when not in use.

Had Hopes of Reprieve From Death

IAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—Convicted rapist-murderer Charles J. Golston, spared from the gas chamber at the last moment by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, says he lived on prayers and "hidden hope" during the 15 months he waited to die.

The 21-year-old ex-convict, sentenced to death for the August 1961 slaying of an elderly Los Angeles woman, had been one of four persons scheduled to die yesterday in the largest mass execution in the state's history.

In an interview yesterday, he recalled how guards had told him of his reprieve the night before.

"I just stood there staring," Golston said "and then let out a big yell."

"I told the other inmates on the row and they gave me a big cheer," he said.

While Golston talked, three other condemned men waiting to face the gas chamber received stays of execution from Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

"Thank God!" exclaimed Donald G. Franklin, 34, who received the good news while downing what he thought was his last meal.

"You wouldn't kill me, would you, warden?" asked John P. Vlahovich, 31, when told his life had been spared temporarily.

Joseph Hosto, 29, gripped the bars of his cell until his knuckles went white, saying nothing.

The southwestern lower Michigan strike was started by some 2,300 carpenters, members of seven different locals, represented by the Southwest Michigan District Carpenters Council (AFL-CIO).

Brick Masons, Terrazzo and Tile Workers Local 1, AFL-CIO, joined the carpenters in the strike Wednesday when their contract with the Grand Rapids Contractors Association expired. The local has some 300 members in Kent and Montcalm counties and parts of Ottawa and Barry counties.

The Detroit-area work stoppage came at midnight Tuesday when some 1,700 members of Iron Workers Local 25, AFL-CIO, walked off their jobs upon expiration of their contracts.

Get $12-Million Pact
WASHINGTON, (UPI)—Sens. Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., yesterday announced that the Army is awarding a $12,778,464 contract to the White Motor Co., of Lansing, Mich., for 4,001 military cargo trucks.

Dies in Tunnel Crash
DETROIT (UPI)—Daniel Marasch, 24, St. Clair Shores, died early today of injuries he suffered last night when his motorcycle went off of control in the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel and slammed into a pillar, state police reported.

Prospects Dim for Space Probe by U.S., Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Prospects of U.S.-Soviet cooperation in exploring outer space dimmed today.

A 28-nation U.N. subcommittee failed to agree on a legal code governing peaceful uses of outer space. The group ended three weeks of discussion Friday by issuing only a summary of its work.

The United States and the Soviet Union had agreed to cooperate in space experiments involving weather satellites and communications.

But the Russians have hinted scientific cooperation may be affected if there is no agreement on a legal code.

THREE COLORS

It's here once again! That informative guide published by The Pontiac Press once a year to help people build better homes, get new decorating ideas and live better for less. Within these pages are pictures of local people working on fun-projects. Attractive advertisements announcing new and used houses for sale, and plenty of home improvement tips for the handyman are included. If it's remodeling you're interested in, there are a multitude of short-cuts. A dull wall could become a cheery sliding glass door area onto a tile patio. A bare entrance could gain individuality through a free-standing divider, and there's even suggestions on how to raise a roof for additional space. The information collected for you by Reba Heintzelman, Pontiac Press Home and Garden Editor, has been acquired through expert professional sources and should benefit everyone desiring a good background for living.

Background for Living

IT'S A SWEETHEART — Last weekend, more than 1,500 people visited "The Cupid" at the grand opening of Sweetheart Homes located four miles north of Walton on Baldwin Road. This three-bedroom ranch with a 20-foot family kitchen sells for $10,390 with monthly payments of $75. There are 430 lots in this new $5-million community in Orion Township, with three Sweetheart models open for daily public inspection.

How to Dispose of Atomic Ash? Experts Stumped

Heating with atomic energy probably won't become a practical reality for several generations, because ways to success fully dispose of atomic ash have yet to be found.

It's true scientists know how to drop a uranium capsule into a domestic-size reactor and can design the reactor to shield bystanders against radiation. But what to do with the atomic ashes remains a puzzle.

Experts say that if atomic energy were used generally for heating, and if ashes were dumped at sea, 10 per cent of all the seas of the world would be radioactive before the year 2000.

DECORATIVE DIVIDER — A simple wood frame forms a decorative divider and provides a perfect setting for indoor plants. The plants receive plenty of natural daylight for full, abundant growth through the panel of Shade Aqua color-in-the-glass block foyer and adds a modern touch to the exterior of the house.

INTRIGUING DESIGN — Resembling natural brook pebbles, small chips of translucent vinyl provide an intriguing design effect for this new vinyl flooring. True wall-to-wall beauty can be obtained with durable vinyl flooring that is manufactured in sheet form 6 feet wide. Custom designs of contrasting colors in the same flooring material add an attractive decorating extra.

Needn't Clear Old Finishes

It is not always necessary to remove the old finish from furniture when you are enameling. saturated with odorless paint thinner and sand the surface lightly to make it smooth.

If the old paint or varnish is in good condition, just clean away dirt and wax with a cloth. You'll get a better job if you apply an enamel undercoat before brushing on the final color.

Exotic Pair Go Together

Garden huckleberries and ground cherries make an unusual combination for preserves.

The fruit of garden huckleberries looks like its namesake and may be used in salads as well.

Ground cherries also are called yellow husk tomatoes and, in Hawaii, po-ha.

Their shiny yellow fruit can be eaten like a tomato.

Many house plants grow crooked in reaching for light. A small screen of aluminum foil behind the plant will reflect light and help keep the stalk in a straight line.

Colors Splash Carpets

Color has a strong story to tell in 1963 carpets and rugs. The undistinguished, washed-out "neutrals" are on their way out.

Gold is the leading color family in new carpets. There are golds in all shades from creamy shades to deep, burnished bronzes.

Gold tinges the green family, too, in such shades as avocado, moss and bronze-green.

Colors prominent in the neutral range include offwhites, golden-beige and "weathered" shades of browns and taupe. Their opposites are strong shades of red and rich russet or copper tones.

Traditional patterns — spaced florals, small bouquets of flowers scattered on light background, medallion and block patterns — are available.

Equally interesting this year are the texture patterns — striated textures, highlighted by color combinations; long shaggy loops with a hand-crafted look, thick plush pile combined with loops.

Embossed and sculptured textures also are seen in wide variety, in carpets with rich colorings to underscore a traditional look in decorating.

Fringes and border treatments have established themselves in the room-size rug field.

More and more carpets and rugs are available in coordinated groups, so that it's now easy to use carpet in one room with a rug in a blending or matching color and texture in the room next to it.

Warn Home Is Dangerous

2 of 3 Serious Mishaps Occur in Residences

"Home Sweet Home" is not as sweet and safe as it used to be. Two out of three serious accidents in the United States last year occurred in the home, the National Safety Council reports.

And these 4.2 million home accidents cost Americans some $1.15 billion in lost wages and medical expenses—or, a national average of $273.80 per mishap.

Here are some valuable tips to help you avoid home accidents:

Since the greatest causes of these accidents are falls on stairs, in bathrooms and on slippery floors, these should be starting points for building safety into your home.

WELL-LIGHTED STAIRS

All staircases with more than two steps should have firm handrails, be well lighted and covered with anti-slip material.

Stair treads should not be narrower than 9½ inches and the ceiling at any point should not be less than 6 feet, 8 inches above any tread.

Bathrooms should be equipped with secure grab-bars above the tub and in the shower stall. L-shaped grab-bars which help a person out of the tub and then along a wall are advisable.

Floors of materials such as Kentile vinyl asbestos tile which provides skid-resistant underfooting are highly recommended.

Doors should swing back against the wall and not project into a room when open. Sliding-door closets are excellent accident preventers.

Swinging door closets should have inside handles and a one-inch air space at the bottom in case a child shuts himself in.

Pollination Important

A good crop of roasting ears depends on good pollination. Other things being equal, the distance between the tassels of one corn plant, which are the male flowers and the silks of another (which lead to the female flowers), may be the deciding factor of your crop. That's why corn should be planted in several short rows instead of one long row.

DIME STORE SHUTTERS — If you want something different, take a hint from Mrs. Paul Erickson, of 2660 Middleberry, and hinge dime-store pictures together to form shutters. She chose prints enclosed in glass, but pointed out that any framed picture can be used. These were hung in the Erickson den.

Washing House Saves Doing a Big Paint Job

Just because your house looks a little dingy is no reason to think that it needs a complete repainting.

First of all, it's better to paint near the end of summer or in the fall. By then plenty of warm weather will have thoroughly dried out the siding.

A good paint job should last about five years, three at least. If you've painted in the last year or two it's too soon to paint again.

Ordinary house paint is designed so that it gradually chalks—that is, the surface slowly washes away leaving the paint looking clean and fresh. Dirt is carried away with the chalking.

Sometimes the weather doesn't do a thorough job on all sides of the house. You can aid nature with a stiff stream of water from the garden hose.

START LOW

Start low and work your way up with the water. Don't have dirty water running down over dirty, dry surfaces. You'll get streaks that no amount of washing will remove. Get the stream into corners.

If hosing down isn't enough, use a cleaning solution as well. Trisodium phosphate and warm water will form a good cleaning solution.

Or the addition of a brush to the hose may loosen the dirt before rinsing.

A brush on the end of a length of pipe with fittings to go on a hose is generally sold for cleaning the car.

Use this for the house as well. If you get the type that will dispense a cleaning solution as well you can save yourself a good deal of time.

But remember, wash from the bottom up.

Painting of porch floors and steps — unlike the siding — should be done every year. Use regular porch and floor enamel.

Paint the trim—window sills, shutters, doors, gutters—to give the house a fresh look. Use trim paints if you want to avoid chalking which could cause streaks over siding of a different color.

When painting over old trim paint remember to sand the old surface first.

Trim paint is fairly glossy and without roughening the old coat the new coat will not adhere well.

Decorate Sun Refuge With Cooling Colors

If you have an area specifically dedicated to escaping from the heat, you can add to its comfort by using cool colors. Soft greens, blues and pinks, plus white, can give a terrace, patio or sun porch an illusion of coolness.

Floors in these areas can add to the illusion if they are surfaced with materials such as ceramic or quarry tile. Real tiles, with their variety of colors and designs, can blend into the coolest of decorative schemes.

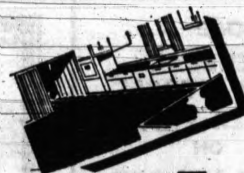

Try Mud Room for Rainy Day

Children coming into the house with wet and muddy clothes can be a real problem if care isn't taken to provide for them.

Many homemakers have found that a mud room in the basement or near the back door is the answer to the problem. The mud room can be simply a small area to change clothes, or it can include a toilet and shower.

To reduce maintenance to the minimum, panel the mud room with a washable material.

Hard to Identify Wily Termite

Suspect Insect? See Reliable Inspector

If you see tiny winged insects around the house this spring or summer you're probably being "termited."

Every year swarming termites leave their ground nests to start new colonies. They fly a short distance, drop their wings, select a mate and set up housekeeping.

The home owner furnishes the groceries — namely the wood in this home.

Not all flying insects, of course, are termites. The little black ant, the carpenter ant and the Argentine ant buzz about the house during the spring and fall. While annoying, they're not nearly so damaging as termites.

It's difficult to tell the difference, however. Hence, there's only one sensible thing to do — call a reliable termite inspector. It's cheaper in the long run.

Actually, the home owner who sees swarming termites is in a sense lucky. They're a sure warning that colonies are at work nearby. Immediate attention can forestall inevitable damage to timbers, woodwork and carpeting within the house.

BUILD 'SHELTER TUBES'

To reach wood parts of a house from their underground nests, termites build "shelter tubes" of mud and wood — up foundation walls and concrete piers. Even concrete slab subfloors, once thought impregnable to termite attack, fail to stop them.

Cracks, openings around plumbing fixtures, hollow masonry units and expansion joints all afford easy access to these damage-bent insects.

Because termites attack from the inside out, the use of sprays, powders, fumigants and other common methods of insect control scarcely ever slow them down.

But since termites cannot survive more than a few days without moisture, the most effective method of protection is to block off all approaches with an under-house chemical barrier.

This system of control also calls for impregnating certain wood parts of the house with chemicals. Expensive equipment and professional know-how are required.

Being "termited" can be disastrous. But it isn't nearly so bad if you beat the insidious little creatures to the punch.

Roses Popular Flower

Roses are the most popular of the garden flowers . . . and one of the most ancient. Today, the abundant number of varieties, the beauty of the blooms, the improvement in insect and disease control . . . are all a tribute to modern research.

Like the automobile, the public is beginning to like the suburban tractors with more power, so now manufacturers offer them in sizes ranging from six horsepower up to beefier units of 9½ horsepower.

House Paint Is Durable as Auto's Finish

A vastly improved, blister-resistant outside house paint, based on the same plastics used in modern automobile finishes and promising greater durability than conventional oil-base paints, now is available for use over previously painted surfaces in sound condition.

Developed by Du Pont chemists after nearly 10 years of research and introduced three years ago on a limited test basis for use over new or bare wood only, the improved "Lucite" acrylic house paint is now also recommended for use on new or carefully cleaned masonry, brick, cement block and asbestos shingle siding.

It's a water-emulsion type product which dries in minutes instead of hours.

Unlike oil-base paints, "Lucite" can be applied even over damp surfaces, which means that painting can be started earlier in the day or even shortly after a light rain.

Its fast-drying characteristics permit recoating within two hours after the first application and reduce the pickup of insects or dust on the fresh paint during drying.

For the do-it-yourself home painter, one of the biggest advantages of "Lucite" is its creamy nature and extreme ease of application. It has much less tendency than oil-base paints to drip, and tools can be washed clean in running water.

Artificial Light Brings Your Garden Inside

While winter's firm hand might prevent you from cultivating your favorite flowers in the great outdoors, you might consider indoor growing under artificial light as a cold-weather change of pace.

Indoor growing during the winter months is an interesting and rewarding pastime. Most plants respond swiftly to the stimulation of artificial light, and the close heat and humidity control made possible by indoor growing methods enhances plant growth to a surprising degree.

For many years, indoor growers used standard fluorescent lamps as an energy source for their plants. Now, there is a new type of fluorescent tube which is designed specifically to enhance plant growth. Called Gro-Lux, this light source is strong in the red and blue areas of the light spectrum and encourages sturdy plant growth. It is produced by Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.

Flowers raised under this lamp are more fragrant because of greater chemical assimilation made possible by the extensive root system encouraged by the light source. Leaves are fleshier and healthier, and stems and stalks are sturdier.

Growers of African violets, gloxinias, carnations, gardenias and other flowers have reported success in raising their plants under the new fluorescent light.

Each type of flower, short day, long day or indeterminate varieties, require a definite number of hours under the light to insure their best growth.

SHORT-DAY PLANTS

Short day plants, such as chrysanthemums, gardenias, Christmas begonias and poinsettias, require 10 to 13 hours of light daily. Long day plants, such as China asters, calceolarias, coreopsis, dahlias, nasturtiums and many annuals grown for spring flowers require 14 to 18 hours of daily light to flower.

Indeterminate plants, which will produce flowers all year, blossom in abundance whether exposed to 12, 14 or 18 hours of light daily. These include roses, carnations, African violets, gloxinias, begonias, geraniums and coleus.

Indoor growing is an interesting and challenging activity for the serious gardener, while for the casual indoor gardener, the Gro-Lux is a boon simply because decorative blooms become a year-round possibility.

But to insure success of your flowers under any artificial light, be certain to feed and cultivate them as usual. Light is no substitute for food or water.

Try These Tips for Penetrators

Penetrating sealers, as the name implies, sink into the wood and thus are more than surface coverings, as is the case with other types of floor finishes.

After the sealer has been allowed to penetrate for 15 minutes or so (the instructions on the container will give you the correct time for the particular brand you are using), it is necessary to go over the floor a second time with a dry mop to remove any excess.

When this has dried for a certain period of time (again: see the directions), the floor should be buffed lightly with fine steel wool.

Second and sometimes third coats are necessary, for extra good results, repeating the drying and buffing processes each time.

Some sealers require waxing; some do not.

One very important point: when you talk about refinishing the floor, it is assumed that you mean removing the old finish completely, either with a chemical remover or with a sanding machine.

If this isn't done, the entire penetrating action of the sealer will be lost.

Those seeking a friendly bathroom in durable woods like western red cedar now find that, by giving the panel boards an application of priming paint on the back, they can prevent moisture absorption.

CLOTH SHUTTERS — All kinds of ideas have been incorporated in window shutters. Mrs. Vere Hodges of Ottawa Drive wanted something that would match the cafe curtains and wall paper on other walls. She had frames made, then hung material on the inside with tiny springs. They're simple, unusual and a delight to behold.

Women Are Experts at Home Projects

More than half America's married homemakers are more skillful than their husbands when it comes to do-it-yourself projects to improve their homes, according to a nationwide study of more than 22,000 families.

While the men actually do most of the work, the women can do it better! This declaration of feminine superiority was made in 53 per cent of the joint husband-wife responses in the study.

WOMEN ARE 'BRAINS'

Most of the families interviewed also credited women with being the "brains" behind their husbands' "brawn" — prompting the undertaking of most do-it-yourself projects in 74 per cent of the households and deciding on decorating schemes, project design and materials for the majority of projects in 54 per cent of the homes.

The nationwide survey aimed at learning the extent of husband-wife participation in several surprising and interesting facts about the male of the species.

For example, although only minority choices, the husbands were declared better skilled in handicrafts in 17 per cent of the homes, better in flower arranging in 12 per cent, sewing in 4 per cent and knitting in 1 per cent.

WIVES BEST, 12 TO 7

In the over-all ratings, the researchers found wives in the majority of the homes were hailed as superior in 12 of 19 basic do-it-yourself operations.

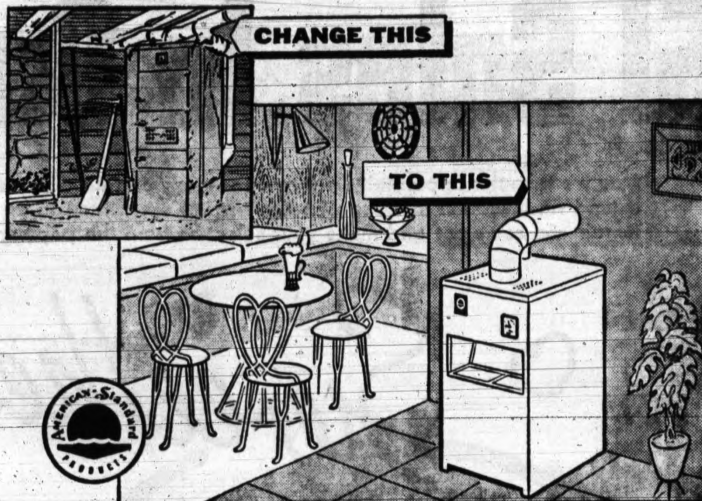

These, surprising as it may seem, included such traditionally "men-only" tasks as wood finishing, plastering, wallpapering and repairing mechanical devices.

In addition, the women were rated better skilled in painting, furniture arranging, gardening and lawn care, gift making and the customary feminine arts of flower arranging, sewing, knitting and handicrafts.

Their male counterparts were picked best skilled by wide margins in plumbing, electrical work and metalworking, but won only minor victories over the women in carpentry, assembly of kits, furniture repairs and refinishing, and pest control.

Air Pollution Major Problem

Serious Indoor Effect
as Well as Outside

Air pollution is becoming an increasingly serious problem in thousands of American cities.

As metropolitan areas grow larger and larger, more and more automobiles are pouring tons of waste materials into the air; so are industrial plants, commercial buildings, and households.

Further complicating things are the pollens and irritants thrown off by weeds, flowers and trees.

And this is the air millions of people are breathing at the rate of some 15,000 quarts a day, 10 times as much by weight as their intake of food and water combined.

Although the problem can be magnified outdoors, it also reaches into the home.

Every time a door or window is opened, polluted air can rush inside.

Thus, it becomes a factor in health and cleanliness 24 hours a day.

LITTLE THOUGHT

"And yet, as careful as they are about the food they eat and the water they drink, many people give little thought to the air they breathe, even in their own homes," says Charles H. Franke, an authority on home comfort systems.

It takes a "killer fog," such as those which struck London twice in the 1950's and again late last year, to dramatize the potential effect of air pollution, he points out.

National, state, and municipal agencies are attacking the problem vigorously through research and information programs, restrictions, and local ordinances.

But what can Mr. Average Citizen do about air pollution?

He can start by supporting local programs for pollution abatement, by observing local regulations, and by reporting violations of such regulations.

ELECTRONIC FILTERING

He also can protect his own family and home.

Electronic air filtering systems which will remove more than 90 per cent of the airborne dirt particles, pollen, irritants and waste materials circulating in the home now are available for almost any forced air heating and/or air conditioning system, Franke said.

Electronic filters will remove wastes as minute as particles of tobacco smoke.

Yet they require less electric current to operate than a 10 watt light bulb.

These units, which become part of the furnace's air distribution system, provide the additional advantage of keeping the home cleaner, which cuts down housework and redecorating bills.

Electric Heat Units Good

New electric heat pumps provide year-around air conditioning at a cost comparable with other methods and offer the additional advantage of being the lowest-cost way to heat electrically.

Kill Crabgrass Before Too Late

Back-breaking efforts to dig crabgrass does more harm than good to your lawn . . . not discounting your muscles and temperament!

Not only will your lawn look like a shell-pocked battlefield after you've completed the frustrating task, but you will also scatter millions of crabgrass and other weed seeds far and wide in the process.

Quite possibly, you will also harm the healthy, desirable grasses not yet choked out. Weeks after your exhausting job has been completed, prepare to start over, for the crabgrass will once again be thriving.

Crabgrass is an annual, and the important thing is to prevent its growth NOW.

This can be easily accomplished with one of the innumerable brands of pre-emergence herbicide formulations containing the killer ingredient, Dacthal.

These products are formulated to give seasonal crabgrass control with only one early - spring application. Dacthal will destroy the crabgrass seeds as they germinate.

Dacthal has been exhaustively tested for several years at federal, state and private research facilities.

Voices Objections to Bills on Housing

W. Evans Buchanan, president of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB), today voiced strong opposition to bills introduced in both houses of Congress which, he said, would increase housing costs and curtail the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) market.

Buchanan struck at legislation which would ban the use of foreign lumber or other foreign wood products in the of any home covered by FHA-insured mortgages.

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., sponsored the Senate measure and Rep. Albert M. Rains, D-Ala., the House bill.

The bills were introduced after the U.S. Tariff Commission refused to recommend higher tariff and restrictive import quotas on Canadian softwood lumber.

Buchanan pointed out that the NAHB opposed these restrictions in a statement filed with the Tariff Commission and warned that they would increase "all housing costs."

He said the bills introduced in Congress seek to do by legislation what the Tariff Commission declined to do. He said the NAHB was as opposed to the legislation as it was to the restrictions originally proposed before the Tariff Commission and for the same reasons.

Ceramic tile floors are ideal from the standpoints of walking safety, ease of maintenance and sanitation. With real tile, there is no need for waxes, plastic finishes, polishes, special emulsions and nonslip coatings. These floor-treating compounds usually detract from a ceramic tile floor's best performance.

Towel Rings Gain Popularity

Have Utility Value and Easily Installed

Towel rings, up to, now considered almost exclusively a bathroom accessory, are now being used more and more in other rooms of the home.

In the kitchen, for example, they are convenient when installed at the side of the sink area where a second-best towel can be draped through them for quick swipes of wet or soiled hands during meal preparation chores, or dishwashing.

They're also convenient for installation in the garage for hanging towels for father's use after gardening or wiping off the family car.

The children's playroom; the dry room are also popular locations for the new rings.

In the closet, they may be used for ties, mufflers and belts.

SOME EXPENSIVE

When they are used for "show" as well as practicality, towel rings are sometimes quite expensive.

But for the "extra" uses in other rooms, some of the inexpensive new plastic rings are more than acceptable.

Of these newer types, Selfix rings of molded plastic are, perhaps, the best known.

They come in solid colors of white, yellow, sandalwood, black, pink, and turquoise and three authentic marble patterns.

These accessories are unique because of a wood insert on the back which has a special adhesive which, when moistened with water, permits them to be put up without the use of nails or tools.

Individuality is something most homemakers seek and all too few find. There are many things you can do to inject your own personality into the decor of your home, especially as concerns color and decorative schemes. Individuality can be expressed in selection of ceramic tile in the home, because more than 250 sizes, shapes and colors now are available.

MIRRORED BUILT-IN — The lovely old mirror reflects the floor-to-ceiling built-in hutch, constructed by Robert Powrie of 8673 Hibbing St., Union Lake Village. The off-white hutch has a small blue and white print. The clock is over 100 years old and other heirloom treasures are tastefully arranged on the shelves.

Pick Out Decor That You Like

Please yourself, before you try to please others, with your home decorating scheme.

That is not an unselfish dictum, and it makes common sense. Many experts say that the best guide for a decorative scheme is the personal taste of the home-maker, since she will spend most of the time in the decor she chooses.

One recent decorative trend, for example, is the use of a large wall area in pastel shades of ceramic tile, with color contrasts supplied by furniture, fabrics and draperies.

In developing a home decorating scheme, that feeling of luxury can be the most economical in the long run, say the experts.

A kitchen, for example, can be tastefully decorated with materials such as ceramic tile on the walls, splashbacks and countertops and still present a practical, easy to clean surface.

Ceramic tile is available in more than 250 different colors and an infinite number of designs so it places no limit on the homemaker's decorative imagination.

Rooms Need Plenty of Electrical Outlets

If you're building or buying a new home, heed the advice of architects and builders who recommend plenty of electrical outlets in each room. Electrical appliances fill the home these days and lack of outlets may be dangerous as well as annoying.

Kitchens carry an especially heavy electrical load, and this makes fireproof surfacing materials such as ceramic tile a practical item for use on floors, walls and countertops. Check for adequate wiring as early as possible in your home planning and avoid annoyance and hazards later.

A huge home decoration budget is no "open sesame" to the feeling of luxurious living. It can be gained through a combination of common sense and the use of materials readily at hand.

Block Tots From Books With Section of Board

Lower shelves of an open bookcase can easily be made inaccessible to crawling tots who seem to delight at the chaos they can cause.

Simply cut out a piece of Masonite hardboard to fit the width of the bookcase and attach two friction catches to the inside to hold it in place. Finger holes cut in the panel next to the catches allow an adult to remove it quickly.

Landscaping a Boon

Planning the landscaping around a house—whether you're building a new house or modernizing an older one—will pay off with summer-long enjoyment.

Architects have found that the best way to control a view on a small lot is to place the outlook from the living room at the rear of the house instead of toward the street. This makes it possible to use fences, hedges and gardens to create whatever view is desired.

Trees are important, and anyone should think twice before cutting down a shade tree to expedite construction of a new house or an addition. Very often a patio or terrace can be built around a tree, and adequate moisture and ventilation can still be provided for its roots.

Play space for children also deserves consideration. A terrace or a blacktop paved turn-around area can afford them excellent recreation facilities for roller skating, tricycling, hopskotch or shuffleboard. This can eliminate the hazards of street play.

Lot planning generally can be even more flexible than house planning. You can transport shrubs and hedges, if you change your mind, but it is wise to plan paved areas, such as patios and terraces, because they become more or less permanent adjuncts to a home.

Architect's Services Can Help You Save

Employing an architect to plan and supervise the construction of your home usually involves a fee of from 7 to 10 per cent of the initial cost.

But the measurable savings, in terms of increased pleasure and comfort, often make an architect worth many times his fee.

Selecting materials for your home presents a similar proposition.

Ceramic tile, for instance, can actually pay for itself many times over in the lifetime of a house because it costs practically nothing to maintain and won't have to be replaced.

Convert Existing Furniture With Antique-Paint Effect

Painted furniture was featured by many of the companies exhibiting at the recent Chicago furniture market.

Decorators showed rooms in which all the pieces were painted or in which painted pieces had been combined with furniture that had been finished to highlight the beauty of natural wood grains.

An antique painted effect was used on many different kinds of pieces — chairs, tables, large dining room cupboards, chests.

These finishes were in a variety of colors — light blue, pale aqua, russet red, barn red, pale green, medium blue, and the traditional ivory gold and pale yellow gold.

The painted effect was also used on Early American pieces as well as on the traditional French and Italian, Mediterranean and Spanish influenced furniture.

CONVERT PIECES

If you're not in the market right now for brand-new painted furniture, here's how you can convert existing pieces into smart, fashionable furniture to enhance your rooms.

You'll get a more elegant, store-bought effect if you use an alkyd flat wall paint instead of the enamel usually suggested for furniture.

This applies to both the main color and the accent color you'll be using for the antique effect.

You'll also want as flat a varnish as you can buy to use as a protective final coat.

If you're planning to use gold highlights, you'll also want some gold paint or brushing lacquer.

If the existing finish on the furniture is in good condition, all you'll have to do before painting is to be sure that the surface is clean and that all wax or polish is removed with odorless paint thinner.

If the old surface is very glossy, sand it down to dull it or brush on one of the so-called liquid sandpapers.

If the article has a stain and varnish finish, give it a coat of shellac or enamel undercoater to keep the stain from bleeding into the new finish.

READY FOR PAINT

Now brush on the color you want or use a self-spraying paint if you can find a flat one in the shade you like.

After the first coat is thoroughly dry, use a small brush to apply your second color to the legs, arms and horizontal surfaces, but working on only a small area at a time — one leg, for instance.

Let the piece stand for ten or fifteen minutes, then lightly rub toward the center of the area with a pad of cheesecloth. Create light and dark areas as you go.

This will leave the edges with a deeper coat of the second color which lightens as you approach the center, which should not have any of the second color on it.

Even on the edges, the base color should be permitted to show through in random places.

For an even smarter effect, highlight carvings and raised areas with gold paint, using a very fine brush and rubbing slightly before it dries to subdue the sheen.

Another method is to apply the gold to these areas and let dry completely before the second color is brushed on.

When you rub the latter, you'll expose the gold on the raised portions but will leave a translucent film that dulls the gold somewhat.

Manufactured homes are gaining such a strong position in the home building industry that approximately one of every eight homes built this year will be at least partially prefabricated. Only one in 20 was in 1950.

INDOOR POOL — The William Hoopers of 4350 Sandy Creek Drive, Lake Orion, have enjoyed their big indoor swimming pool since long before Easter and will continue to splash around until past Thanksgiving. The 16- by 34-foot heated swimming pool holds more than 22,000 gallons of water. A special heating plant has been installed to insure the right amount of humidity in the rest of the house.

Look at World in Child's Eyes

Looking at the world through a child's eyes is fun . . . and should be part of the rules and regulations set down before decorating a child's room.

Basically, all any little one wants in a room is a place that's fun to look at . . . and fun to be in.

Since a child's room is invariably small, and frequently must become the children's room, housing two or even more, plus the array of paraphernalia that goes along with them, it's essential to make the most of every inch of space.

In planning for storage and activity space, you will want to be as objective as possible, slanting the arrangement of the room to your child's particular interests.

Try to leave a maximum of floor space free, yet still have facilities for storing belongings easily and efficiently.

Simple low-cost arrangements of wall shelves, oversized pull-out trays or drawers that exploit space under the beds are wonder-workers in helping to maintain order.

Plastic clothes-baskets or straw hampers make ideal, inexpensive containers for the mountains of blocks and miscellaneous gadgets.

COLOR SCHEME

A unified color scheme contributes to the much needed spacious look. Sometimes the colors can be selected from a special interest, hobby or taste of the young one.

If your tot's art output is prolific, this might be a starting point for not only your color scheme, but as a 'theme,' which again helps to hold the room together.

Just as important, if not more so, to the harried mother, is a room that will withstand the wear and tear of finger-painting, pillow-fights, and other boisterous games that are indulged in by the juvenile set.

Floors that can take it . . . vinyl tile or linoleum . . . save many an anguished hour of lamenting and work.

Walls or wallpaper must be scrubbable, especially when one has a budding young artist who runs out of drawing paper.

Though tight for space and possibly pinched for wherewithal, there is undoubtedly no room in a homemaker's house or apartment which responds more happily or easily to color, enthusiastic planning and arrangements, and imaginative touches, than a room for a child.

Make your own lantern to light the way to your front door. It may be of sheet brass, copper or galvanized iron. You will need tinsnips and a soldering iron but no other special tools. Pattern 343, which gives cutting guides and shows every step is 35 cents. This pattern also is one of four full-size patterns in Packet No. 74—Worthwhile Yard and Garden Features—all for $1.

The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept. Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Use Hardboard Piece to Salvage Containers

If the bottom of a wastebasket, garbage can or other household container for dry materials is broken, you can salvage the item by inserting a tightly fitting piece of Masonite Tempered Presdwood.

First trace the outline of the bottom on the hardboard and then, allowing for a snug fit, cut it with a jig saw, saber saw or similar tool.

Curved Awnings Introduced

Aluminum awnings and patio covers in a new curved design, which can also be folded down for protection during storms, have been introduced today by a home improvement firm.

Although vented to prevent heat build-up, the new awning design is described as completely watertight. It is available in a choice of high or low gloss colors.

Originally developed to meet Florida weather conditions, the new awning adjustable to four "up" positions for maximum sun protection and a locked-in "down" position to protect windows and furnishings during severe storms. Use of the awnings in Northern areas is predicted, especially to protect summer homes against windstorms and off-season vandalism. The finish carries a five-year guarantee.

Be Sure Home Furnace Is the Correct Size

Be sure the furnace you buy for your home is the right size. If an undersized unit is installed to cut costs, you risk discomfort and equipment breakdowns. If the furnace is too big, it could waste fuel.

The use of ceramic tile for decorative panels, both inside and outside the home, is enjoying a constantly widening vogue with leading architects. Real tile is an ideal material for either abstract or realistic designs because of the wide choice of colors, shapes, sizes and textures.

Home Builders Make Scholarship Awards

The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) has announced that it is awarding $29,000 in scholarships to assist promising college students who seek to prepare themselves for careers in home building or related fields.

The 1963 awards, largest annual program since the scholarships were begun in 1957, will go to 29 colleges and universities. Each of the schools will receive $1,000.

Winning students will be chosen by faculty members of the schools.

The NAHB Scholarship Foundation, Inc., in selecting schools at which the awards will be made, approved the applications for scholarships from four universities which have not previously received grants.

The four which will receive NAHB scholarships for the first time are the University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio; the University of Colorado, Boulder, Col.; the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.; and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

Institutions at which the scholarship program has been successfully carried out in the past and which will receive 1963 awards are:

American University, Washington, D.C.; Bradley University,

Peoria, Ill.; Colorado State University, Ft. Collins, Colo.; Cornell University's New York State College of Home Economics; Fresno State College, Fresno, Calif.; Howard University, Washington, D.C.; Oregon State University at Corvallis; Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.; Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y.; St. Mary's University and Trinity University, both San Antonio, Texas; State University of New York, Delhi; Texas Christian University, Ft. Worth; the University of California at Los Angeles; University of Denver; University of Florida at Gainesville; University of Houston, Texas; University of Illinois, Urbana; University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla.; University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; University of Wisconsin, Madison; Utica College of Syracuse University, Utica, N.Y.; and Washington State University, Pullman, Wash.

In approving the awards, the NAHB Scholarship Foundation, Inc., said that "from the early days of its founding, the NAHB has been aware of the need for stimulating education in the home building field and aiding in assuring a supply of qualified and well-trained persons who would enter the home building industry. One of the ways of doing so is through the scholarship program."

Booklet Supplies Facts on Aluminum Siding

The facts about one of the country's fastest growing home improvement products — aluminum siding — are available to home owners in the 1963 edition of the booklet "26 Straight Answers on Aluminum Siding."

The booklet gives the latest information on aluminum siding thicknesses, types of finishes, colors and styles.

It also discusses the extent to which savings on periodic repainting are possible, insulation qualities of aluminum siding, maintenance requirements, etc.

NEW HOOKS — Storm coats, ice skates, ski jackets, and other extra clothing and wintertime sporting equipment usually place an extra burden on "hanging" space.

One way to solve the problem is to use self-adhering plastic hooks which can be put up quickly wherever additional hanging space is needed. Selfix hooks, for example, have a patented wood insert on the back, (inset) with a special adhesive which, when moistened, permits them to be put in place quickly and firmly. No nails or screws are needed for mounting.

Available at leading hardware stores in a variety of colors and authentic marble patterns, Selfix hooks are available in single or double-hook styles, and adhere firmly to wood, tile, plaster and glass.

Create Suite Just for Teens

If you want to give your teenagers something "way out" that's decidedly "in," arrange their bedrooms in a wing of the house separate from the master bedroom. Then attach a rumpus room for their special use.

Kids in their teen years crave privacy and need it as much as any adult does. Yet, parents know that a watchful eye and a guiding hand are often in order.

A happy solution is the teenagers' suite which offers the youngsters plenty of privacy and freedom while keeping them safely at home.

One excellent design for the teen-age haven combines bedrooms with activity space. Here, bedrooms are placed on either side of a central rumpus room, which is small in size.

For the common wall between bedrooms and rumpus room, a series of sliding doors are used. When the teenagers hold a party and more space is needed than the rumpus room alone offers, these doors are pushed back and all rooms combine into a single, open unit.

In this type of arrangement, it's best to use studio design for the bedrooms, and nothing will please the average teen-ager more. Clothing storage can be built in and desk arrangements also can be built onto walls for a sleek and grown-up architectural look.

LIGHT WOOD

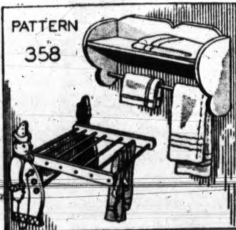

Walls paneled in a light-hued, handsomely textured wood such as West Coast hemlock will be chic for a young girl who likes soft, feminine decor, yet plenty rugged enough for the household's boys.

And wood paneling will delight the mother of the family, too, who wisely thinks in terms of low maintenance and durability.

Built-ins should be tailored of the same wood chosen for wall paneling to give continuity to the area, and color can be introduced through curtains, throw rugs, and bedspreads.

Tile or linoleum for the floors will prove best since they'll probably serve as a dance floor from time to time.

If studio couches are used for beds, they will seem less bed-like, a desirable feature when the rooms are opened up for parties.

Bathroom racks keep a supply of towels on hand and solve the stocking-drying problem. The amusing clowns hold the dryer rack in several different positions or folded flat — a good novelty item to make and sell. Pattern 358, which gives actual-size cutting and painting guides and directions, is 35 cents. It is also in the Useful Novelty Packet No. 68 for $1. The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Bedford Hills, N.Y.

Three-Panel Screen Makes Excellent Divider

A vanity nook made from a three-panel folding screen makes an excellent divider and conversation piece for a room shared by two girls.

Panels for the screen should be 5 feet high and 18 or 20 inches wide. They are made by covering 1-by-2-inch lumber framework with woodgrain panels.

These panels come with either a cherry or walnut woodgrain. There are five color shades to match any decor.

Keep the factory-finished panels clean by an occasional wiping with a damp cloth.

Shelves made of the same hardboard material should be fastened on each side of the screen. Stools and mirrors complete the ensemble.

WHEN MAKING GARDEN WALK--

EXCAVATE AREA TO ALLOW FOR THICKNESS OF MATERIAL AND 3-INCH SAND BASE

PLACE FORMS OF WOOD AROUND AREA

BE SURE LAWN MOWER WILL PASS OVER IT

Extend Living Area With Some Paving

Whether it's a patio or a garden path, paving in one form or another can extend living space, make getting around your property easier or simply improve looks with a little variety.

If you are thinking of adding paved areas, it does not necessarily follow that concrete is the only material you can use.

There are bricks, blocks, stone, broken paving, wood or gravel, to name just a few.

For patios and other large areas concrete and other stone surfaces are all-weather forms of paving. Concrete in ready mix or do-it-yourself mix can be used, but outline your area with a wood or metal form first.

If drainage is good, the concrete can be laid directly on the earth. Excavate to the desired level first.

If drainage is poor, provide a base of 4 to 6 inches of gravel. In either case the base should be well packed.

You may want to save costs in constructing a walk through your lawn by doing it in pieces rather than one continuous length.

You can use broken paving or you can precast slabs of concrete. Excavate for each slab and make it a little lower than surrounding grass areas so that you can run the lawn mower over it.

Grass is a weed in the dandelion bed and dandelions are weeds in your lawn. With modern chemical herbicides you can solve weed problems with a squirt of the proper selective spray.

Paint Affects Radiator Heat

If your radiators are painted silver or gold, they will not give off as much heat as they would had a flat wall paint been used.

If your rooms are chilly, don't wait until your next painting job to remedy the situation. Your paint dealer will be able to match the wall color closely and you can increase the heat output by painting the radiators.

Pick a day when you can turn the heat off for a time, because radiators should be cold when painted.

To keep the waiting time to a minimum, use a latex paint which will dry in an hour or less.

System Makes Quiet House

Walls, Ceilings Being Specially Constructed

Today's knowledgeable home buyers are demanding greater attention to quality details by builders than ever before. And a quiet house, one that is designed to suppress noise by including acoustical materials, ranks high on their shopping lists.

Acoustical suspended ceiling systems with noise absorbing ceiling boards, draperies, carpeting, upholstered furniture, and Fiberglas duct systems are dampening room and furnace noises to a great degree.

A major manufacturer of home building products, has evolved a system for effectively reducing room-to-room transmission of sound in homes, motels, apartments, and offices.

This new system, engineered and installed during construction, requires only a noise barrier application of a single layer of Fiberglas economy insulation in interior stud walls and prevents substantial amounts of irritating noise—especially in the voice range—from passing to adjacent rooms.

The lightweight Fiberglas system, used with treated wall framing members, is said to reduce the sound level approximately 80 per cent compared to a conventional wall built with 2" x 4" inch framing members.

Wall construction treatment to reduce transmission of noise is achieved by either vertically slitting each stud to within six inches of the top and bottom or using a "staggered stud" construction so that every other stud is in contact with the same wall instead of each stud touching both walls as is usually the case.

Slitting studs is especially desirable where space is a premium and effectively reduces sound transmission through framing members.

Modern homes with lower ceilings, larger glass areas, smoother floors, lightweight wall materials, smaller rooms and the use of more sound-producing mechanical equipment have magnified the sound irritation problem in homes, apartments, motels and other buildings.

To help turn that new house you're building into a truly quiet house, be sure to consider the comfort advantages of reduced room-to-room sound transmission between the sleep, work, and play areas of the house.

Get Most From Living in Outdoors

You can get most out of outdoor living by planning a backyard that's designed with your family's interests exclusively in mind.

The first step is to set aside a good-sized paved area for relaxation and outdoor entertaining.

It should be easily accessible from the house and is the dominant element of the over-all garden design.

You don't have to be a landscape designer to make a backyard plan.

First, take the measurements of your property and make a sketch to scale. Take stock of the features that should be retained.

Then, make a list of features you'd like to have and note such factors as the direction of the sun, shade from trees and buildings, and so on.

Using tracing paper, you can start with a rough plan and simple outlines of the main features you want.

After putting the plan in more finished form, your nurseryman and building supply man can help you decide what plants and materials are best suited to carry it out.

Pick Correct Soil Type for Growing Your Roses

Roses prefer slightly acid soil. It should test about 6.0 to 6.5 on the pH scale (pH 7.0 is neutral). Your county agricultural agent can analyze a soil sample and determine its suitability. In general, any good garden soil should produce good roses, as long as it is well drained.

Poor drainage can be corrected by building a raised bed. Poor soil can be improved by adding organic matter such as peat moss, leafmold, or well-rotted manure.

One of the least expense of all wall surfaces is wood paneling, which is easily obtained in wood boards, generally tongue and groove fashioned. Once finished, it will last for many years without further care.

Society Neglects Middle Incomeers

It has been said that the most neglected segment of our society is the middle-income group.

The rich can afford to buy what they want. And the poor are usually taken care of by various government, state and municipal agencies.

But the family which has a good income, without being affluent, sometimes finds the going a little rough because it gets very few, if any, concessions along the way.

In much the same way, middleagers (not middle-incomeers) are sometimes neglected in the housing market.

Everybody talks about the necessity for providing sufficient, reasonably-priced homes for those who are retired.

And all sorts of structural and financial inducements are offered to the young couple starting out to raise a family.

With few exceptions, how often do you hear of a housing program aimed at persons around the 50-year mark?

The middle-aged prospective home buyer usually is a second or third-time purchaser. Because his family has shrunk, as his children move out on their own, he wants a smaller home with less maintenance.

Yet he does not want to move down in quality.

He's making more money than he did when he was younger and he wants to live better.

Thus, he is willing to pay more for a smaller home than he did for the one he now owns — and, in many cases, even more than he expects to get for the old one.

Entirely aside from this matter of size and price, the middle-aged wants quality. This is a subject which he knows something about from experience.

RELY ON READING

The newly-married couple or those moving from apartments to one-family homes must rely on what they have read and what they have heard.

The middle-aged who is selling one house and buying another knows what he wants because he has gone through the mill.

For one thing, the middle-aged buyer is aware that it will pay him to shop around for the best mortgage.

He knows the value of insulation.

He knows which part of a house may be gimmicks and which are value.

In short, he knows quality and won't buy anything else but quality.

Different parts of a garden can be separated by simple wooden screens made of a good outdoor wood like western red cedar. The childrens' play area with its usual clutter can be separated from the adult entertaining patio or deck.

Change Back Seat Into Car Playroom

Transforming the rear seat of your car into a playroom is an excellent way for families with youngsters to get more enjoyment out of traveling.

Floor of the playroom is a Masonite panel cut to fit between the back of the front seat and the back of the rear seat and as wide as the space between the doors. If there are armrests in the back, it may be necessary to cut out the edges of the panels to fit.

Suitcases or boxes placed on the floor of the car support the front edge. Use a blanket to provide padding.

SPRING CHANGE — Would you like something different in a door entrance? This dramatic project shown is not as hard to install as one might think. If you're sprucing up for

Home Builders Oppose Lumber Cost Increases

WASHINGTON — The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) has voiced objection to any action which would raise the cost of lumber and create pressure for an increase in housing costs for American families.

This position was taken in a statement filed with the U.S. Tariff Commission in its study of proposed restrictions on the import of softwood lumber from Canada.

Proponents of the restrictions have admitted that such a move by the U.S. would result in increases in the price of lumber.

"We strongly object to any action of the United States which will cause an increase in the price of lumber and raise the new housing costs of American families," the NAHB said.

Home building accounts for about one-third of the country's total lumber consumption. About one-third of materials going into a new home consists of lumber and wood products, NAHB said.

COST HIKE RESULT

"Therefore," the statement continued, "a rise in cost of softwood lumber, which clearly will result from limitation imposed upon the existing supply, will have serious and depressing effect upon sale markets for new housing, upon production plans of home builders and upon the costs of new housing to home buyers."

"All of these run counter to the stated and desired objectives of the private home building industry and the declared national housing policy."

The Association said that construction costs have risen steadily in recent years and that any further increase would wipe out benefits achieved through the industry's efforts to find more efficient housing production methods.

It could quickly lead to pressure for less costly substitute materials, a result which would pose grave problems for the lumber industry itself, the NAHB said.

It added: "We recognize that the recent decline in single-family home production has had a major, direct and adverse impact upon domestic lumber production and profits in some areas."

"But we expect an upsurge in single-family home construction of major proportions before the end of this decade. If the use of lumber has not been cut drastically through higher costs and subsequent substitution of materials, we would anticipate that this rise in housing construction will more than compensate for the current market situation."

New single-family house starts dropped last year to the lowest level since 1946. Production of multifamily housing rose to about 26 per cent of the total volume and this year is running at about 31 per cent of the total.

Use of Ceramic Tile Increasing in Homes

In their desire to add more color and design to the exterior of homes, architects, builders and homeowners alike are making increasing use of ceramic tile as an "outside" surfacing material.

Tile can be completely weather-safe in all climates and offers an infinite variety of color schemes

Seven out of ten new homes built in the nation have wood frame construction, according to a recent Forest Service survey. In the South Atlantic and Lake States regions, 10 out of 10 houses were wood framed.

Capture Color With Flowers

Petunias, if you keep plucking the dead blooms, will put on a long, flashy show. Zinnias and marigolds are free-flowering and phlox provides long color.

The first sign of flowers in the springtime gives you a new lease on life. Sleeping beauties suddenly come to life and add color to the entire countryside.

Capture that beauty for your home—with flowering treats that you can make yourself. Flowers brighten any room and can be a dramatic accent for your decorating scheme.

Are you an amateur with flowers — the type who hurriedly sticks a bunch of flowers into a tall vase to fall where they may? Amateur or professional, anyone can be a flower arranging artist with a few basic ideas and the right materials.

There was a time when it was difficult to make flowers stay where they were placed. But now foam rubber flower holders, used by florists for years and now available for home flower arranging, hold stems at any desired angle. This patented green floral foam is easy to use.

Soak a cylinder in a pan of water until the foam is saturated. Then place it in any type container and insert in the top and sides, at any angle. With these holders, you can make containers out of items not intended to hold flowers or water.

There's no limit to the unusual effects you can now achieve with flowers. Just stop at your florist shop or at a garden supply department and ask for the flower arranging aids you want.

New epoxy resin materials for setting and filling joints between tiles is waterproof, heatproof and stainproof.

ERECTING JIFFY WALL — "Honeycomb grid" fills the hollow panel of new wood paneling, eliminating an age-old source of noise. Sandwich panel is being positioned here so that bottom edges fit snugly over a 1- by 2-inch base.

Here's Low-Cost Way to Block Out Noise

Now that air-conditioning in new apartment and office buildings has eliminated street noises through open windows, another age-old source of noise — the neighbors — becomes more intrusive.

A promise of a solution at low cost is held forth by a new application of two comparatively recent discoveries: the "honeycomb grid" and the "stressed skin" hollow panel.

"Jiffy Wall" is a panel system based on a skin of tempered hardboard on each side of a cellulose honeycomb.

Taking the natural hexagon pattern found in the beehive honeycomb as the most economical utilization of walls for strength, the cellulose core has a high strength-to-weight ratio.

Two eight-foot-long sections of two inch "Jiffy Wall" panel, cut one foot wide, can support a 5,000 pound block of concrete without any racking and has a greater load-bearing capacity than 2 by 4 studded walls.

The panel system can be erected at the rate of a lineal foot per minute by an untrained man without special tools. Standard thickness is 2 inches; width is 4 feet; lengths are 8, 10 and 12 feet.

To erect a wall, a standard 1- by 2-inch furring strip is nailed to the floor to serve as the base. A panel is simply held upright and pressed down over the base strip, which fits snugly between the two faces of the panel, and against the compressed edge of the core.

Next a length of spiral tubing is pressed half-way into the vertical side of the erect panel. Then the next panel is pressed down on the base strip and slid over tight against the first unit.

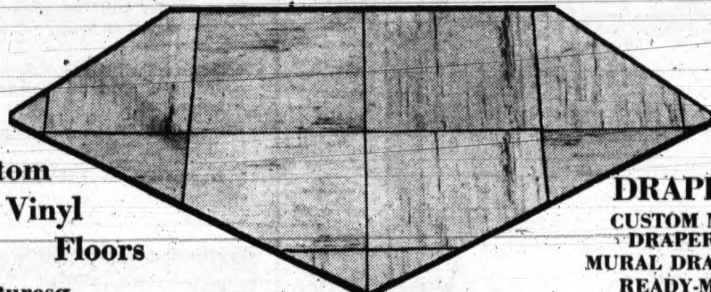

The tube prevents any sway or shear, and the clean-cut edges form a hairline butt. The process is continued for the length of the wall.

Variety Sparks Room's Decor

Variety is the spice of many things — including the furnishings and decor of a room.

Although some rooms are furnished effectively in a single style — a collector of Early American, for example, might want to keep everything in this vein — it's more usual to start with a variety of styles which must be co-ordinated.

There are no hard-and-fast rules for mixing furniture styles within a room, but some general principles should be observed.

Sturdy, heavy pieces are best combined with pieces of similar, conservative design. Lighter, more delicate styles are best when used with pieces of their type.

To avoid a jumbled look in the room, give careful attention to a unified look in large areas of color and texture.

Patterns in draperies or upholstery should be consistent with the most predominant style; a single color theme should be emphasized.

CARPETING UNIFIES

Carpeting is always a unifying factor in a room, and never more so than when it is used in a room furnished with varied furniture styles.

The carpet can have a plain textured surface and provide the basic color scheme which helps to co-ordinate the room.

Or it can be in a pattern which under scores the most dominant furniture style — a traditional floral, for example, if the most important furniture pieces are in a traditional period style.

Woods and wood finishes also give a key to combinations that work well. Most decorators avoid mixing oak with mahogany.

Walnut and mahogany, or walnut and oak in lighter tones, can be successfully mingled, however.

Painted finishes in bright colors might provide a single note of contrast in the room.

COMMON CHARACTERISTICS

It also helps to remember that many common characteristics are shared by various furniture types.

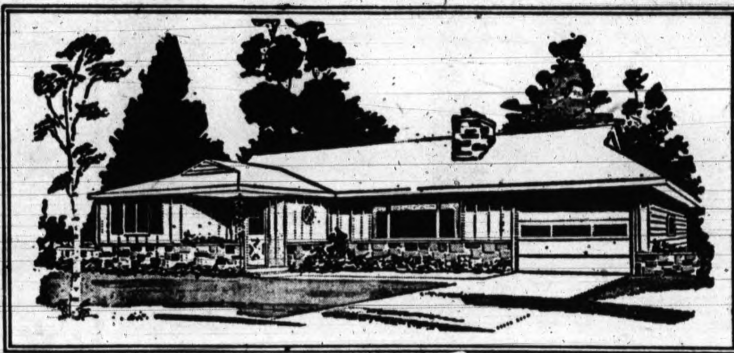

As design progressed through the years, the transition was often very gradual and much of the old was retained in the new.

At the same time design trends ran parallel in various countries. Thus, Early American Colonial styles mix well with French Provincial.

Pennsylvania Dutch and Shaker styles, because of their simplicity, are harmonious with many contemporary pieces.

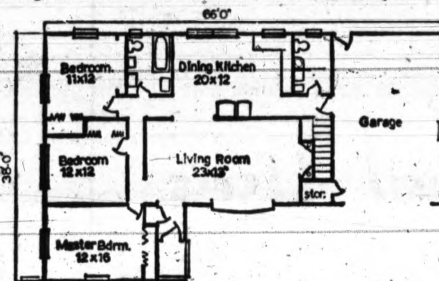

Whether you use only one different piece of furniture, or combine several, the matching is easy if you consider basic rules of proportion and remember to keep a unifying theme in color and background.

FROM THE SOUTH — What could be a useful winter project is this "handy hut." It's easy to put together and not too much trouble to haul around, whether used as a dressing room or storage shed. NBC's actress Lois

Lawson uses it near her swimming pool. To obtain the easy-to-follow pattern (number 250), send $1 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Wall Framing Grew 2 Ways

In framing the walls of 19th-century homes, two distinct methods developed.

They were distinguished by builders as "braced" and "balloon."

The braced was the only kind in common use before the Civil War.

Sills, posts, girts, and plates were made of heavy timbers mortised and pinned together, and then braced with 4 by 4s or 4 by 6s and common studding.

To frame a building thus, it was necessary to cut all the pieces and make all the mortises right on the job, and then fit them together and raise a whole side at a time; or at least one story of a side.

Studs were only one story high in those days.

Construction has taken big strides since then.

Today's steel-framed buildings, reinforced concrete structures, and the wide use of power equipment both in preparing basic materials and during erection of buildings are only three examples of the far-reaching progress in building techniques made during recent decades.

By the same token, there is little doubt that our constantly improving methods of building, with ever more accurate assessment and computation of the strength and permanence of building materials, will in the future have just as far-reaching effects on all branches of the construction industry.

The bathtub is a natural playground for children, and the antics of the small fry often transfer much of the bath water to the floor. The result can be a slippery surface ideal for falls unless the floor is surfaced with slipproof tile.

Several Uses for Handy Hut

This, dear friends, is what is "handy hut" pattern, (number 250) known as a "handy hut." As you see here, it lives more than one life.

It is a shelter for tools of all kinds. It's lined with pegboard into which pegboard hangers have been installed. This makes it possible to neatly hang every kind of tool made.

It also has shelves for potting plants and mixing sprays. It's large enough to accommodate wood-working tools as well as those used in the garden. In rainy weather, it makes a good shelter for one or more bicycles.

* * *

It's also a cabana to be used beside a swimming pool as demonstrated by NBC's actress Lois Lawson. It's just the right size for storing pool equipment as well as providing a place to change clothes.

In this case you will perhaps paint it with gay and bright colors to make the swimming area more cheerful.

The one shown is on casters which make it easy to move from one place to another.

OR A PLAYHOUSE

Windows and a dutch door may be installed to convert the hut into a playhouse for youngsters. Or — if you live in a trailer park and are short of storage space, you couldn't find a more inexpensive answer to your problem.

Some folks use it for an out-of-the-way laundry room. The hut shown is 4 by 6 feet, however, the easy-to-follow pattern shows how to make it larger or smaller depending upon your needs.

This is a project that may be made in sections in your basement or garage. After the sections are completed, you take them outside for quick assembly.

Spring Thoughts Include Work on Wood Paneling

Assuming this record cold weather can't go on forever, we optimistic souls are trying to un-thaw our energies and imagination with thoughts of spring.

Traditionally, spring has been a pleasant season when we brighten and freshen our homes. Some of us will undertake ambitious home improvements.

But whether the project is major or minor, few remodeling media offer a wider range of opportunities than modern patterns of wood paneling.

If we should take the occasion to visit Williamsburg, Va., or other historic sites on the Atlantic seaboard, we would be aware of a remarkable evolution in the purpose and use of wood paneling.

PRESERVED PANELING

In many ancient manors, wood paneled walls are beautifully embellished and preserved. But in the long gone days when those homes were built, the panels were regarded purely as decorative devices.

During recent years, the material has acquired a larger purpose.

Whether it is applied by a professional or by a competent handy-man, wood paneling can be a constructive instrumental of architectural styling.

It can make small rooms look larger and brighter. It can make rooms seem less austere and more hospitable. It can convert little-used, dingy space into attractive living area.

Here are some suggestions for the wood paneling:

The contours and purpose of the area, should be evaluated prior to determining choice of application and color. For example, if the room is low ceilinged, a vertical placement of panels will give an impression of greater ceiling height.

Plan Garden Carefully

No two people will plan their landscaping in the same way, since gardening is an art, not a science. But the best gardens, big or little, are the result of a plan. So it pays to work out your plan, with paper and pencil, beforehand.

CHOICE OF RAILBIRDS? — Candy Spots is one of the favorites to win the tradition-filled Kentucky Derby today at Churchill Downs, but experts also are giving a lot of attention to two other colts, Never Bend and No Robbery. Declare Martial Law

Haiti's Boiling Anew

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Neighboring night, Haitians feared swift new reprisals from Duvalier, tightening his hold on the impoverished Negro republic to head off a threatened revolt May 15.

Reprisals reaching Santo Domingo through the Duvalier censorship said informed circles in Haiti spoke of more killings and reprisals than was commonly believed.

They coincide with reports from U.S. sources in Washington that Duvalier has mounted a reign of terror, including murder, torture, arrests and purges of military officers.

RUMORED BOMB ATTACK

Unconfirmed reports from Port au Prince, the Haitian capital, said Duvalier's underground opponents hurled a bomb that failed to explode at a water installation Thursday night. But travelers from Port au Prince said they had no evidence to support rumors of a large-scale clash inside Haiti.

Duvalier declared martial law soon after the inter-American peace mission seeking to cool off threats of a Haiti-Dominican clash left Port au Prince last night.

The peace mission from the Organization of American States won assurance from the Duvalier government that Haiti would protect foreign embassies and the rights of Haitians who had taken asylum in them.

Five who took refuge in the Spanish embassy were supposed to be flown out of Haiti yesterday, but arrived at the airport too late to catch their scheduled flight.

Plans now call for the five in asylum at the Spanish embassy and 15 of the 35 in the Brazilian embassy to leave today. There was no word on when the 15 of 22 in asylum at the Dominican embassy will receive safe conduct passes. Seven there are to be transferred to the Colombian embassy.

2 Pinch-Hitting Judges Connect for Court Aides

Using pinch hitters paid off yesterday for Oakland County Circuit Court reporters in their bid for more money.

Circuit Judges William J. Beer and Arthur E. Moore battled in immediate $500 pay raises for each of the five court reporters.

The judges convinced the county's supervisors' Salaries Committee that it had erred earlier in turning down any increases this year.

The reporters had asked the committee to approve $1,200 annual increases. They were told last month that they would have to wait at least until next year for any pay hikes.

In approving the increases yesterday the committee agreed to appropriate the money from the salaries reserve fund.

Since the amount falls within the county budget, no further board action is necessary.

The reporters annual salaries were raised from $7,500 to $8,000, with assurances that an additional increase next year will be considered in preparing the 1964 budget.

The committee was favorably impressed with the judges' explanation of what is required of reporters in accurately recording courtroom proceedings.

Chairman Curt Hall said.

Derby Day Dawns After Double D-Day in Southern City

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky Derby Day dawned bright and fair today for a crowd of 100,000 racing fans more or less, who soon would start streaming towards Churchill Downs for the 89th renewal of America's turf classic.

The throng ran the gamut from rags to royalty, the latter represented authentically by Prince Rainier of Monaco, seen in the throng.

The weather forecast was for a blue sky lightly flecked with white clouds and temperatures reaching into the low 80s by the time the field of nine 3-year-old Thoroughbreds parades to the post at 4:30 p.m. EST. The Churchill Downs racing strip was expected to be lightning fast.

The prospect of a three-way battle among the favored Candy Spots, the Pinto from the California ranch of Rex C. Ellsworth; New York industrialist Harry F. Guggenheim's handsome Never Bend; and Greentree Stable's No Robbery, made it one of the most exciting derbies in recent years.

Not all the excitement was at the race track, as Louisville police reported the liveliest Derby Eve in recent years.

Shortly before midnight, a disturbance marked by flying fists and beer-cups broke out on Fourth Street, the city's "main drag," and threatened to erupt into a genuine riot before police and two fire trucks arrived to break it up.

The police hauled away 20 young men, apparently college youths, in five patrol wagons. Most were clad in Bermuda shorts and shirts. Some wore sweaters identifying their colleges.

Police Major C. J. Hyde said, "it was the worst Derby Eve mob scene in recent years. You might say the kids were high-spirited and carrying on the way they do down at Fort Lauderdale and Daytona Beach."

Some "volunteer firemen," also created an incident by playing a fire hose on the celebrating crowd in the streets from the fifth floor of a hotel. The first Derby-goers, many carrying camp stools and picnic baskets, began trickling into the Downs before 9 a.m., establishing "squatters' rights" on choice spots in the infield.

Dogs and Fire Hoses Used on Hundreds in Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — New massive racial demonstrations were promised by Negro integration leaders today — a vow made in the wake of a day in which surging throngs were repulsed by police dogs and streams of water from fire hoses.

"Yesterday was D-Day in Birmingham," Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of the integration drive in this Deep South industrial center, said last night. "Tomorrow will be Double D-Day."

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, made the statement at a mass meeting of more than 1,000 persons at a Negro church.

"There might be thousands arrested," King said earlier. "Demonstrations will continue on a large scale. We feel they will have to continue until there is some response from the merchants."

The massed marchers yesterday included hundreds of praying, chanting teen-agers. Five Negroes said they were bitten by the loosed police dogs or were injured by the high-pressure streams of water from fire hoses.

Officers said two policemen were admitted to a hospital after being struck by rocks hurled by Negroes.

More than 250 Negroes were arrested yesterday. Officers said 152 teen-agers were placed in the juvenile detention home, and more than 100 Negro adults were lodged in the city jail.

More than seven hundred others were arrested Thursday in the resumption of the massive demonstrations.

The number of demonstrators taken into custody in the month of May is 1,000.

Area Man Among War Heroes

DR. HAROLD FURLONG

Among some 234 men who were citizens. The lawn party was talked and shook hands with President Kennedy on the White House lawn yesterday was Dr. Harold A. Furlong of Bloomfield Township.

The 234 men all had one thing in common. They were America's great heroes. Each man held the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Dr. Furlong of 2260 E. Hammond Lake won the medal for heroic action under fire in France during the final weeks of World War I.

It was believed to be the largest number of Medal of Honor winners ever assembled. There are 230 living winners of the medal.

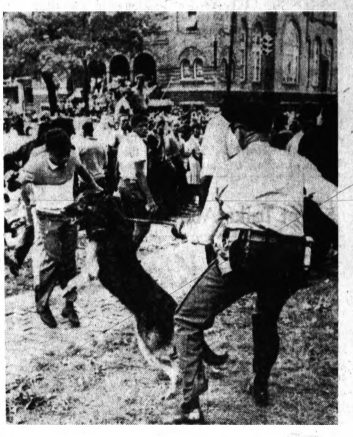

Kennedy paid tribute to Dr. Furlong and the others as "our most distinguished American citizens."

Dr. Furlong won his Congressional medal — highest award the United States can give for military valor — for going behind enemy lines Nov. 1, 1918 and knocking out four machine gun installations blocking advance of his company.

During this action, he drove 29 prisoners into the American lines.

Dr. Furlong served with the 33rd Infantry, 8th Division.

Medal of Honor winners honored yesterday were veterans of the Spanish-American War, the fighting at Vera Cruz, Mexico, the Philippine Insurrection, Boxer Rebellion, two world wars and Korea.

32 Passengers Killed in Brazilian Air Crash

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Officials counted 32 dead today in the crash of a Brazilian airliner that plowed into a heavily built up area but miraculously hit only an unoccupied apartment building.

At least 20,000 persons rushed to the scene, seriously hampering rescue efforts. Several were reported killed when a fire truck slammed into part of the crowd.

Despite the throng, 17 persons were snatched alive from the blazing wreckage and rushed to local hospitals where one later died. One person was missing from the 44 passengers and five crewmen aboard the two-engine Convair.

The plane plunged to earth shortly after take-off last night. Witnesses said the plane, belonging to Cruzeiro do Sul Airlines, caught fire, exploded in the air and plunged to earth.

It broke up in the air and part of it rammed an apartment building under construction. It sheared off a large section of the structure and reduced it to rubble.

There were no Americans listed in the first reports of casualties.

One of those who died was James Gough Hughes, a Uruguayan citizen, who was director of General Electric in Brazil.

Other passengers were Brazilian Deputy Miguel Bahary and television comic Rina C. Consorte.

Of those hospitalized, 13 were reported to be in critical condition.

The plane was in trouble from the time it took off for Rio, 300 miles to the northeast.

The right engine was burning," said a witness, Emilton Batista, an airline employee. "I said, 'God, it's going to explode. Then it did.'"

Ward's said that final totals will bring the April sales mark this year closer to 704,000 cars.

General Motors Corp. led the sales parade selling a total of 425,969 cars and trucks, eclipsing the 1955 April mark of 386,193.

Chevrolet said yesterday its car and truck sales last month set records for any April, and that total sales volume was the division's third best in history.

In the first four months of 1963, Chevrolet reported all-time record sales of 755,523 cars and 144,490 trucks.

Volume is running 11.2 per cent ahead of the company's previous record pace in 1962.

Ward's said model year production at the end of the week will total 5,201,000, 500,000 ahead of the same time last year.

The statistical agency reported a total of 222,000 economy-sized cars were sold last month, tying the record for any month of 222,000 set last May.

Last month's sales spurge raised to 31.5 per cent the economy-size car's share of the market. In the same month last year, small cars accounted for 33.2 per cent of all cars sold.

CLIMB OVER PAGES Public Schools

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A movement by Roman Catholic parents to take their children out of parochial schools and enroll them in public schools is snowballing in Missouri.

The parents are rebelling because the state won't transport their children to the parochial schools.

The move started without notice when 75 parochial students moved into the seven-room, 150-pupil public school at Centerville Thursday. The next day 100 descended on the two-room Osage Bend School, and 85 on the school at Vienna.

The little Osage Bend School may get another 150 pupils Monday. In Jefferson City, Catholic parents are aiming at transferring 1,500.

In the St. Louis area, Catholic parents say they will close parochial schools next fall and turn thousands of children into the public school system.

Money is at the root of the movement.

"We can't afford to keep on voting bond issues for public schools and paying parochial tuition, too," said Garland Noonan of Pacific, Mo., a leader in the drive.

The Catholics had sought relief through the Missouri legislature, pushing a bill that would allow

Secret Talks Abandoned

Claims King Did About-Face

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—The chairman of the Alabama Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission claimed yesterday Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. agreed to seek secret negotiations with Birmingham business and professional leaders and then did an about-face.

The Rev. Albert S. Foley, S.J., sociology professor at Spring Hill College here, said he personally pleaded with King to call off the demonstrations to permit the secret negotiations to iron out race problems.

Father Foley said King "at first agreed," then changed his mind without notice.

Father Foley denounced the massive antirace demonstration in the South's steel city as impeding any racial progress that could be made there.

"HAD ASSURANCES"

He said he had assurances from the newly elected city council that it would agree to the Negroes' major demands—rescind segregation ordinances, create a human relations commission to try to better race relations, hire Negro policemen and open city parks closed due to threatened integration.

The priest said a member of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), which King heads, told him the group's treasury was nearly depleted and the demonstrations were needed to spark sagging contributions.

He declined to identify the SCLC member.

"I explained this to Martin Luther King April 8 and got him to agree to negotiate," Father Foley said. "But he would not come to the negotiations. He sent (Rev. F. L.) Shuttlesworth and his brother (Rev. A. D. King) but they wouldn't make any settlement."

Foley said the city was working toward better race relations before the demonstrations began April 3.

He said "A group of young lawyers engineered the ouster of Bull Connor" through a change in the form of government from city commission to mayor-council.

Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor, for more than 20 years a symbol of ardent segregationists, was beaten by former Lt. Gov. Albert Boutwell for mayor April 2.

Father Foley said of the nine new city council members, six were moderates and three were segregationists.

Foley said he had assurances from the new government racial progress would be made.

Now, he said, "everytime they (the Negroes) demonstrate they make Bull Connor look more indispensable. And there won't be any progress."

10 Freedom Marchers Jailed

FORT PAYNE, Ala. (AP)—Ten freedom marchers, carrying on a pilgrimage by a slain Baltimore integrationist, were in jail today, arrested immediately after they crossed the state line into Alabama.

The marchers, five white men and five Negroes, were arrested by Alabama highway patrolmen Friday. The group had been pelted by eggs when they stopped for lunch on the Georgia roadside, about a mile before reaching Alabama.

Shortly before the marchers reached the state line, one was knocked to the ground by a white man and another was hit on the head with a rock. Neither was injured seriously and both continued the march.

NEWSMEN BARRED

Newsmen accompanying the marchers were barred by Alabama patrolmen from crossing the line. A dozen patrolmen with clubs extended before them barred the way.

The freedom marchers were allowed to pass and were told they were under arrest.

Those arrested were Bob Zellner, 24, Mobile, Ala.; William Hansen, 23, Cincinnati, Ohio; Sam Shirra, 20, Montgomery, Ala.; Eric Weinberger, 31, New York City; Zev Aelony, 25, of Minnesota, all white; and Robert Gore, 31, New York City; Richard Healey, 46, former teacher at Florida A&M; Winston Lockett, 21, of New Haven, Conn.; Jesse Harris, 21, Jackson, Miss.; and Carver Meblett, 20, of Carbondale, Ill.

HUNDREDS FOLLOW

Hundreds followed the marchers along the last few miles of their route between Rising Fawn, Ga., and the Alabama line. The integrated group was carrying on a pilgrimage begun by Baltimore postman William Moore, who was shot to death near Attalla, Ala., April 24.

Kozloy Is Ill, Russ Confirm

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin took the unprecedented step today of announcing that Frol Kozlov—regarded as the heir apparent to Premier Khrushchev—was ill. Well-informed sources said he had suffered a thrombosis.

A thrombosis is a clot blood lodged somewhere in the circulatory system.

The informants said they were unable to learn in which part of the body the clot had formed but were told it would likely keep Kozlov in a hospital for a period of months.

Rumors circulated here that Kozlov had suffered a brain hemorrhage. But the informants reported this was not so.

Negroes Vow New Profests

old drive to desegregate public facilities is now nearly 1,400.

King called a mass meeting of Negro school children this morning to organize further demonstrations.

"Don't worry about your children who are in jail," the Negro leader said at last night's gathering. "They are being treated right because they are political prisoners... the eyes of the world are on Birmingham."

"We're going on in spite of dogs and fire hoses... We've got too far to turn back now."

TURMOIL INEVITABLE

U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy said in Washington that he had been in contact with Negro and white leaders of Birmingham throughout yesterday.

"I believe that everyone understands that their just grievances must be resolved," the attorney general said. "Continued refusal to grant equal rights and opportunities to Negroes makes increasing turmoil inevitable."

"However, the timing of the present demonstrations is open to question. School children participating in street demonstrations is a dangerous business. An injured, maimed or dead child is a price that none of us can afford to pay."

ROUTE OF CONQUEST - Dotted line shows route taken by American climbing team in conquest of Mt. Everest. One American and a Sherpa guide made final assault from the last of the base camps, indicated by triangles along the route. Circle along route indicates supply camp.

Discover No Evidence Reds Climbed Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—The American expedition has postponed its second assault on Mt. Everest for about one week because of bad weather, a spokesman announced today.

It was announced last night that the two-man team which scaled the peak Wednesday was comprised of an American and a Sherpa guide. Their names have not been disclosed.

A second assault team left advance camp No. 4 today to try to reach the peak from the west side. Previous ascents have been made from the south.

Reds claimed it placed a team on the summit in 1960 from the north side and that it left a Chinese flag and a bust of Mao Tse-Tung there to prove it.

However, Peking never has displayed any photographic evidence and international mountaineering circles have given little credence to the story.

The report from the American expedition today—that there was no sign of Red China's flag or Mao bust—further weakened the claim.

'Good Turn' Week

Scouts Help Goodwill

Some 250 Pontiac area boys and girls are participating in "Good Turn" Goodwill bags to residents in this area today to highlight National Goodwill Industries Week, May 5-11.

Local citizens are asked to fill the bags with household discards for pickup by the scouts one week from today. Residents are further urged to place the bags on front porches between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to facilitate the pickup.

The "Goodwill Roundup" is being sponsored by the Clinton Valley Boy Scout Council and the Pontiac Kiwanis Club.

Household discards make it possible for handicapped Pontiac residents to earn a living wage and become self-supporting, self-respecting, tax paying citizens.

In its first year of operation at its new location, 15 E. Pike, the Goodwill Retail Store has brought direct employment to a half-dozen handicapped Pontiac workers.

Because of the flourishing of the retail outlet here, workshops in Clawson and Detroit, staffed by many Oakland County handicapped workers, are also busy. The Goodwill store's merchandise is available at low cost. This enables low-income families to stretch their purchasing power.

CONTRIBUTES SHOES TO GOODWILL—Getting a headstart on the "Goodwill Roundup," Sherman Becker, owner of Becker's Shoes at the Pontiac Mall, turns over several dozen pair of shoes to Goodwill worker Evelyn Herrala. The shoes are trade-ins on new shoes purchased at Becker's store.
