Rites Tonight, Tomorrow to Mark Birth of Christ

Kierdorf Going to High Court

Plans Another Appeal After Judge Denies Him New Trial

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor, Pontiac Press

It was nearly 2,000 years ago that Joseph and Mary of Nazareth trudged along the road to Bethlehem to pay the taxes decreed by Caesar Augustus.

And so it was while they were there Mary gave birth to her son, Jesus, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him on the hay in a manger because there was no room for them in the inn.

Shepherds tending their sheep that night saw a bright and wondrous star and heard a voice from heaven saying:

"For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour which is Christ the Lord."

Wise Men from the East and shepherds from the hillside saw and followed the star, and when they had found the Christ child, fell down and worshipped Him and presented gifts.

TO SHOW THE WAY

And now, centuries later, Christians around the world continue to celebrate His birth because they believe God revealed Himself in the birth at Bethlehem and that Jesus Christ is His son sent to earth to show people of every race and nation how to live.

Churches and Sunday schools in the Pontiac area began festive and worshipful observances of Christ's birth last week.

The celebration will continue tonight and Christmas Day with pageants depicting the Nativity, plays and caroling, and worship services in Protestant churches.

Catholic churches in the Pontiac area are expecting record attendance at midnight Masses and regular Masses Christmas morning.

The midnight hour will find many members in a service of Holy Communion.

A midnight festival choral communion service will begin at 10:30 tonight in St. Andrew Episcopal Church, Drayton Plains, with the Rev. Waldo R. Hunt, vicar, leading the service. A family communion service is scheduled for 10 a.m. Christmas Day.

The congregation will sing carols at the 7:30 service tonight in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, following a brief devotion.

Herman Kierdorf will appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court in a continued attempt to escape a 1- to 5-year prison term which the former Teamsters official said would "be like a life sentence to me."

Kierdorf's attorney, William F. Dohany of Pontiac, disclosed the plan to appeal minutes after Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams yesterday denied Kierdorf a second trial following conviction of possessing a pistol silencer.

Judge Adams last month imposed the prison sentence upon the 68-year-old Madison Heights man after a Circuit Court jury found him guilty of owning what Dohany argued was a power lawn mower muffler.

Dohany yesterday introduced somewhat of a new twist in the case when he based his motion for a new trial on the claim that the prosecution failed to disprove that Kierdorf might have been within his legal rights in owning the homemade pipe contraption as a licensed manufacturer of silencers.

Jerome K. Barry Jr., assistant prosecutor, countered by saying that Dohany had never introduced evidence to support this fact.

And Judge Adams, referring to

World Readies Self for Yule Celebration

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

Christmas Eve found Americans on the move, heading for family get-togethers to celebrate the most joyous, and most dangerous, holiday of the year.

Tempering the holiday celebration was a warning by the National Safety Council that as many as 620 persons will be killed in traffic during the 102-hour period from 6 p.m. local time, tonight to midnight Sunday.

If the council's estimate is borne out, it means Christmas weekend traffic will claim 140 more lives than the normal figure of 480 deaths for a similar non-holiday period at this time of year.

In cities across the country bright Christmas displays lighted the way of holiday travelers. Merchants filled last-minute gift orders and closed the books on what may have been a record Christmas shopping spree.

Religious services in Christian communities throughout the world today commemorated the eve of the day almost two thousand years ago when the Prince of Peace was born in Bethlehem.

Thousands of pilgrims gathered in Bethlehem to offer prayers for peace in a world which lives in the shadow of war.

Many millions more made the short pilgrimage to their community centers of worship for Christmas Eve services.

Christmas brought no relaxation of tension in Germany, where the Christmas tree originated and 17 million were expected to be lighted this year.

Residents of West Berlin prepared to celebrate the holiday but wondered if this would be their last free Christmas because of Soviet efforts to force the Western allies out of the city 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

The people of Russia's European satellites went to church as the West did, but in the Soviet Union Dec. 24 was just another day.

Those whose faith has survived the Communist government's long campaign against religion schedule their holidays by the old Russian calendar and Christmas for them comes Jan. 7.

QUEMOY SILENT

The guns were silent around the Quemoy Islands off the coast of Red China, one of the world's few sites of a shooting war.

But the silence was in accordance with the Communist policy of not shelling the Quemoy islands on even days of the month.

The Chinese Nationalist commander in chief ordered his troops not to fire back on Christmas Day, but there was no indication that the Reds also would observe a truce on an odd-numbered day.

Three in Running for Postmaster Position Here

Prospective candidates for the postmastership of Pontiac have been cut from 10 to three Pontiac area residents.

The Civil Service Commission in Washington, D. C. announced yesterday that William W. Donaldson, Robert C. Miller and Clarence H. Smith Jr. are now eligible since they passed an oral examination.

Donaldson, who resigned as mayor of Pontiac in October, is a city commissioner and had been mayor pro tem for four years and mayor for 4½ years. He is in the insurance business.

Miller, acting postmaster since February, has been chief investigator for the Oakland County Prosecutors office, and is a former Pontiac police officer. Prior to his February appointment, he was Cadillac sales manager of Jerome Motor Sales Co.

The third candidate, Smith, is now superintendent of main office window service at the Post Office. He has been employed by the post office here since 1936.

President Eisenhower now may nominate any one of the three, subject to Senate confirmation. Ten area residents had applied for the job this fall.

Warn Motorists of Road Dangers

Airlines Strikes Increase Load on Highways

Holiday Jam Adds to Road Peril; Truce Plan Studied by Pilots

By United Press International

Continued strikes at two of the nation's largest airlines forced holiday travelers to seek other forms of transportation today.

As many who otherwise would have flown turned to their automobiles, the danger of tragedy on the highways was increased.

In Chicago, pilots' representatives were expected to give their answer today to a truce proposal aimed at getting strike-bound American Airlines off the ground to help handle the holiday travel load.

Acceptance of the proposal made yesterday by Leverett Edwards, chairman of the National Mediation Board, would ease considerably the air traffic jam created by the strike at American and twin walkouts at Eastern airlines.

The president of American, C. R. Smith, wired the company's "full and complete acceptance" of the seven-point truce package, but spokesmen for the Airlines Pilots Association had no immediate comment.

The ALPA, which represents the 1,500 pilots at American, indicated its answer would come today.

The strike at American, now in its fifth day, and a month-long "double walkout" by flight engineers and machinists at Eastern, has crippled two of the nation's four largest air carriers at the busiest travel period of the year.

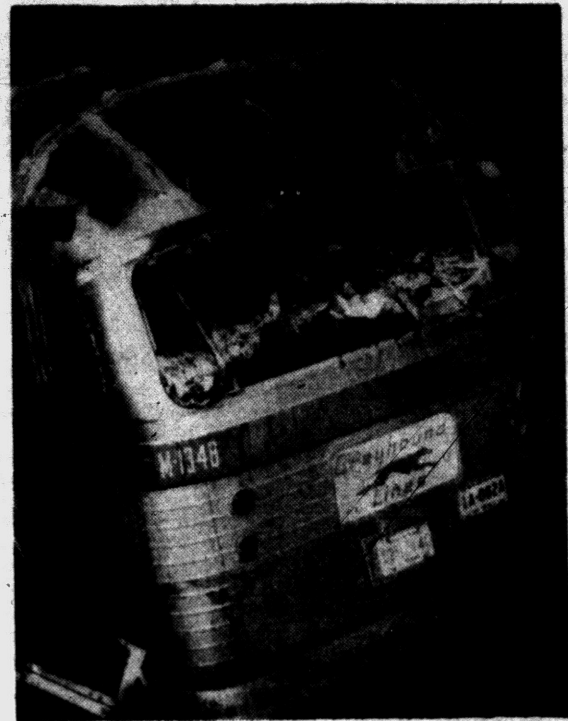

Thousands of Christmas holiday travelers had to find different means of transportation.

Although details of the compromise proposal were not disclosed, it was believed they included salary increases for top pilots from $22,000 to $30,000 a year, related increases for co-pilots, an 18-month contract, reduction in flying time, pay for extended periods away from home, pay while dead-heading, and clarification of sick leave policies.

Holiday Tragedy

END OF TRIP — Charred remains of a Cincinnati-bound Greyhound bus which sideswiped one truck then collided with another and burned near Pulaski, Tenn. last night. Seven persons were killed.

7 Die in Fiery Bus Crash in Tennessee, 13 Injured

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

PULASKI, Tenn.—A Greyhound bus carrying holiday travelers caromed off one truck near here last night, slammed into another truck and burst into flames, killing seven persons.

Bodies of the victims, some headed home for Christmas, were so badly burned that the job of identifying the dead was slow. At least 12 bus passengers and the driver of one truck were injured.

Flames burst out in the bus minutes after it crashed to a halt in a gully seven miles south of here. A majority of the estimated 23 passengers scrambled out before the fire got to them.

Three of the dead were badly burned. The others apparently were thrown from the bus.

The bus driver, who last summer received an award for 15 years of safe driving, was among the dead. He was Samuel Youree, 50, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

One bus passenger was sent to a Nashville hospital in critical condition.

The 40-passenger bus, bound from Birmingham to Cincinnati, was passing a coal truck in the fog when a southbound semi-trailer truck loomed ahead.

The bus whipped back toward the right lane, hooked bumpers with the coal truck and then crashed almost head-on into the tractor-trailer.

The impact broke the bus loose from the coal truck. The bus careened 75 yards further on and crashed to a stop upright in the gully, catching fire.

Witnesses said bodies were "lying all over" the highway near here after the crash with flames from the burning bus casting an eerie light over the scene.

Christmas Story in Reverse

Children Visit Ailing Santa Claus

By HAL McCLURE

MONROVIA, Calif. (U)—It was Christmas time, but none of the yuletide bustle filtered into the quiet room where the man lay, pale and gaunt.

His only companions were memories.

Memories of other Christmases when big-eyed children told him their dreams.

Memories of happy days when he was the most popular, round, bewhiskered Santa Claus in Monrovia, a foothill town 20 miles from Los Angeles.

SADNESS WELLS INSIDE

Now he was alone in a hospital room, forgotten. A sadness welled inside him.

Suddenly, the door opened and two small children tiptoed in.

"Merry Christmas, Mr. Santa Claus," they chorused. His eyes opened. Tears rolled down his emaciated cheeks.

The spirit of Christmas had returned to 81-year-old Tom Davies.

Cars Crowding State Highways for Christmas

Trains, Buses Filled; Airlines Strike Forces Many to Drive

A late morning change in the Weather Bureau's Michigan forecast made the long holiday weekend appear more hazardous than previously expected by Automobile Club of Michigan and law enforcement officials.

With an estimated 2½ million cars expected to jam Michigan highways during the Christmas holiday due to airline strikes, the Weather Bureau changed an earlier "little or no snow" outlook to "scattered snow flurries and colder weather for the entire state today and tomorrow."

This change has alerted authorities to the probability of slippery roads throughout the state by nightfall.

The only roads reported as slippery early this morning were in the northwest sector of the lower Peninsula and the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts a White Christmas for the Pontiac area. Mostly cloudy and a little colder is the prediction for tonight with the low between 16 and 24.

Cloudy with occasional light snow and little temperature change is the forecast for Christmas Day, the high about 24-30 degrees.

Friday and Saturday will be somewhat colder but Monday will be a little warmer. Light snow is predicted again for Sunday or Monday.

Twenty-two was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 1 p.m. was 24.

Said Mrs. Frances Borst, Pontiac Auto Club office supervisor.

Road conditions, however, were reported as becoming increasingly hazardous in the Pontiac area by noon due to an unexpected early morning snowfall.

"The heaviest traffic of the long weekend is expected to come between 3 and 8 p.m. today," she said.

"The airline strike will alter the usual holiday traffic pattern. Many travelers will be forced to drive since most buses and trains are already booked to near capacity," she added.

Grounded planes of American and Eastern airlines normally would carry an estimated 4,000 persons a day in the 10-day holiday period. Other airlines not on strike are scheduling extra flights to try to handle the overflow.

Greyhound bus stations in Detroit and Pontiac reported brisk business, and trains were loaded. The Grand Trunk Western Railway reported a heavy accumulation of standees on the main Chicago-Detroit trains Tuesday.

With a high of 32 forecast for today, most snow was expected to come in scattered flurries, melting as it hits highways. But the State Police Posts at Pontiac and Redford both said a considerable amount of snow as of noon today had not melted on county and southeastern Michigan highways.

Police said roads were not snow-covered or icy in the Detroit and Pontiac areas but wet and slushy, making for dangerous driving conditions.

State troopers began a holiday schedule today at noon. They will work in 10-hour shifts rather than the usual 8-hour shifts, with National Guardsmen adding to the force.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department will have every available car in use for road patrol from noon today through midnight Sunday. In many instances plainclothesmen will handle desk jobs, freeing uniformed officers for road duty.

Don't Allow Preoccupation to Shut Out Christ This Year

(Editor's Note: In keeping with our policy of publishing guest editorials from time to time, today's Christmas message has been written by the director of the Pontiac Men's Social Service Center of the Salvation Army.)

BY MAJOR ERNEST ALDER

Once again we return to the Manger in Bethlehem to pay homage to Him of whom the angels said: "Unto you is born this day in the City of David, a Saviour which is Christ the Lord." But e'er we hear the last echo of the angels' song, we hear the sad pronouncement: "There was no room for Him in the inn."

The Son of Man came from heaven to earth to accomplish the work of redemption. He sought a place of birth, but none was available to Him; so because there was no room in the inn, He was born in a stable and the Manger was his first crib.

In the light of subsequent events in the life of our Lord, it is pathetic to think that He was turned away on that first Christmas Night when He came and knocked at the world's door.

Why, we ask? What was the cause of this injustice? Why was there no room for Him, except such as was found in a stable? Were the people hostile toward Him? Did they purposely bring this indignity upon Him? Was it a calculated rejection of His claim upon them?

I think not. Rather it was preoccupation. This was a busy time at the inn, a time when every available accommodation was spoken for, and the people of the inn did not recognize that here, at least, was a claim upon their human sympathy which in their less occupied moments they never would have denied. Christ was merely crowded out and it is literally a fact that there was no room for Him.

This nuclear and modern age in which we live presents an altogether different world socially, politically, and even geographically than the world into which Christ was introduced, but without doubt the very same conditions exist today as far as our making room for the Babe of Bethlehem is concerned.

Amidst all the preparation for Christmas, the remembering of loved ones and friends, the season's greetings that are exchanged, the placing of decorations and trimming of the trees; yes, even the sharing of our substance with those less fortunate than ourselves, there is always the possibility that our preoccupation with these things might overshadow the true meaning of Christmas.

Let us not make the mistake of the innkeeper and those around him who lost the miracle of Christmas, but let us experience the true meaning of this Holy event by making room in our lives for Him who alone is the true Spirit of Christmas.

Let us reflect upon this scene of the Nativity. The Manger with all its undesirable and unlovely characteristics became a sanctuary because Christ was there, and just so can His presence transform our lives this Holy Season so we may share in the true Spirit of Christmas which not only warms our hearts, and motivates our actions, but which gives to us a more satisfying way of life, and the promise of a better tomorrow.

A truly joyous and happy Christmas will include a serious contemplation of the Divine purpose in our Saviour's advent and the tremendous impact this Life has made on all mankind.

Maggie Doesn't Deserve Traubel's Kick in Teeth

TRAUBEL, pipe down!
Leave our MARGARET alone.

Margaret Truman is soundly and roundly panned in a current magazine by Helen Traubel, one time metropolitan diva who seems to be grasping at straws these days to keep in the limelight. No one ever said Margaret was a triple crowned star. No one ever said she was operatic. But she was — and is — a whale of a fine girl and she sings plenty well enough to earn her spurs on stage, screen and television.

There's no need for a fading feminine critic to jump on her when she's strictly minding her own business. MARGARET's a Class-A American girl in anyone's book and personally we'd rather have MARGARET's face, figure, future and voice than we would HELEN TRAUBEL'S.

Traubel, for shame.
Go hide your aging head.

Where There Is Light, There Is Hope

David Lawrence Says:

Federal Budget Can Be Balanced

WASHINGTON — Naturally the "radical" Democrats are disturbed at the administration's drive to cut expenses, and are pooh-poohing the idea of a balanced budget. So they call President Eisenhower's proposal "dishonest" and "political."

Statesmen would comment differently — praising the objective and pledging themselves to carry it out. But the political game is one of taking opposite positions — for opposition's sake — no matter how worthy the objective.

Senator Byrd of Virginia, conservative Democrat, reacted as a statesman. He is all in favor of the idea of a balanced budget and will do his utmost to keep expenditures down.

The big question today is whether the administration has overestimated the amount of money that will be taken in during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1959. The government must overcome the deficit of 12 billion dollars in receipts which it has been running during the present fiscal year.

First of all the expenses have been cut by $2,000,000,000. This means that somewhere between nine and ten billions has to be collected in taxes which isn't being collected now.

From authoritative sources this correspondent has obtained information on how the receipts were estimated and there is every indication that the treasury has been conservative in its figures.

In fact, it looks like a possible cash surplus, provided Congress cooperates in holding expenses down and in voting the postal rate increases and gasoline taxes requested by the President.

The basis for estimating the future receipts is a realistic one. It takes into account that in 1954, when there was a dip in the economy, the recovery movement in the nation brought in far more revenue than is sought now. It is necessary to collect about 10 billions above the 67 billions being collected at present to reach the 77 billions needed for the balanced budget.

The gross national output has gone up 27 billions in the last twelve months. This indicates that the recovery movement is comparable to what it was in 1954 and 1955.

Already Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee that handles taxes is predicting receipts of between 75 and 78 billions from existing tax rates. The administration is counting, however, on only 76.5 billions from previous tax rates and also is expecting about $400,000,000 from the new taxes on special kinds of income such as insurance companies and cooperatives, as well as about $100,000,000 from the so-called user's tax on government services.

Thus, the goal of 77 billions seems to be in reach. All this estimating is predicated on a continuance of the mood of business that has prevailed in the last three months, but there is a psychological stimulus likely in the next few months which can give business an even bigger lift. This is related primarily to the stabilization of prices.

Many plans for capital goods expenditures by private business have been shelved heretofore because of the fear of a higher price level. If, however, the budget is to be balanced, money will be more plentiful for borrowers. Like wise, if the administration can make some move to check the irresponsible strikes and exorbitant demands for higher wages, it would hearten businessmen on every side.

Dr. William Brady Says:

In Need of Tranquilizer? Just Take a Brisk Walk

What the business or professional man, the teacher, student or white collar worker needs when he or she feels not just weary but tense, "nervous" or irritable at the end of a hard day, is not a highball or other alcoholic drink, not a barbiturate or other nerve sedative, not a tranquilizer pill, but just sufficient general exercise to use up some of the energy generated by the emotional situations that one must face every day in business, professional or social life. Such emotions as irritation, annoyance, indignation, anger, anxiety, worry and fear, not to mention envy or jealousy or intolerance.

Naturally or primitively, man, like the lower animals, reacted to these emotions by fighting or running away. In either case the physical activity or exercise used up the excess of blood sugar mobilized by the emotion. Just as a stint of useful work, enjoyable play or formal calisthenic or gymnastic exercise does for civilized persons.

Thus there is no better way for anyone to let off steam, no more healthful, tranquilizer than taking a brisk walk of two or three miles twice daily. Six miles of oxygen on the hoof is the ideal daily requirement — say about an hour in the morning and an hour in the evening — if you can afford it.

"Oxygen on the hoof" is no mere play on words. Exercise increases the absorption of oxygen. After all, oxygen supports life.

Various other kinds of exercise are equivalent to walking, for better metabolism, better circulation, better nutrition, some of well-being and peace of mind. For instance spading the garden, shoveling snow, punching the bag, attending gymnasium class, swimming, chopping wood, mowing the lawn, doing the family laundry, bowling, tennis or polishing the car.

For anyone who can afford it, a brisk walk of three to six miles — which takes two hours, more or less — is the only general exercise which is really enjoyable day by day the year around.

It must be brisk walking. Lolling or dragging along is as bad as long standing. A job which requires one to stand for long hours should entitle the worker to premium pay or at least time out, say five minutes in each hour, to relieve his or her veins of the overload.

The worker should spend the five minutes lying on his back, belly breathing, riding an imaginary bicycle upside down and just sitting back in chair with legs resting on desk or table to help drain the blood out of the overdistended veins. On request, with stamped, self-addressed envelope, I'll send a FREE pamphlet on Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer.

(Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.)

"But Polly would be heart broken if we even suggested there is no Santa. So what should we do?"

Christmas Spirit Inspires Letters of Many Readers

Another year has burned out and once again we pause in homage to the Prince of Peace. Still we find our world torn with suspicions and violence. Where is the Peace within? Despite America's greatness as a world leader, we still haven't learned that promise, "Peace on earth, good will toward all men."

We should deck our hearts with those garlands of warmth or cheer, with glitter and fellowship, with joys and sweetness we use to decorate our windows and doorways. Then we would find that love will make our hearts so happy we'd want to keep Christmas all year 'round.

So pause and turn to the stranger next to you, visit the new neighbor, phone the fellows you had words with last week. Spread the word. Renew the Faith. Make this Christmas spirit stay on and warm men's hearts and inspire their souls long after the season is past. Let's greet the future shaking hands instead of fists.

I'd like to express appreciation to your paper for the wonderful coverage of world news as well as local. It helps us realize the kind of world we live in.

Many are asking the answer to the many problems facing the human race in a world so full of hate and disorder. I don't have the answer, but someone does. It's on the best seller list every year. I'm speaking of the Bible. In this book God tells us how to solve every kind of our problems.

When God's Kingdom comes, and this book tells us we must seek His guidance as individuals, then we will truly have "Peace on earth for men of good will."

Churches do use the cross, but not as a sign of religious worship. It represents the cross of Christ and is not in the shape of the letter 'x.' In algebra we use that letter to denote the unknown quantity. To the Christian Christ isn't an unknown quantity, therefore we don't replace Him with the letter 'x.' Put Christ in Christmas this year and be happier.

Eva M. Wright, R. N.

4410 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

On my prayer book there's a symbol that may explain why Christmas is sometimes abbreviated with an "X." It's a large "X" with a long slender "p" centered over it. These are the Greek letters which stand for "CHR," the first three letters of Christ. In each side angle of the "X" are characters of an alpha and an omega sign. These are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. This symbol, as used in Catholic literature, means "Christ is the beginning and end of all things."

Pontiac Press Is Soundly Spanked

Your newspaper makes me sick because our city doesn't have a newspaper with facts on both sides of questions. You back up established organizations instead of printing the whole truth on both sides. People of Pontiac have no other paper and thus we must put up with all the slanted political news, or use the radio or other papers. The editorials omit truths on both sides, such as the fluoride issue, or else presents the other side in the most inconspicuous places in the paper, so fewer readers will read them, while the side your paper favors rides front page.

Your paper makes no attempt to crusade against malpractice and illegal practice by city department heads of city government, even though every reporter you have must know of these practices. Laws of the land should be followed by our city department heads as well as by the individuals. The right kind of paper would crusade against department heads and policies until such administration was replaced by personnel and policies which are in the best interest of the home owner individual.

You've gone along with the city manager who publicly announces he bases the city budget on the maximum amount which can be extracted in taxes by law, instead of the financial needs of the city. Your business would be on thin ice if it based its budget on the maximum amount you can expect to receive. We certainly don't want our city run this way, yet you go along with him 100 per cent.

When people voted against money to finish the hospital (city taxpayers furnishing the outlying districts with hospital facilities) and the city government then transferred funds to the hospital which robbed us of improvements such as streets, curbs and gutters, etc., your paper remained neutral.

Your paper has remained silent while a huge and expensive modernization program is being plotted in the Auburn-Perry-Saginaw triangle without voted approval by citizens. In the meantime we've gotten used to the funnies of your paper and it's the only source of strictly local news, so we're stuck with it. However, I've been seriously considering switching to an out-of-town paper as your paper continues to offer less and less. Unless you have drastic policy changes, I hope you go out of business so we can have a paper which may come nearer to (Continued on Page 7, Col. 1) tendency to ask Santa to "gimme" this and "gimme" that!

For a lot of adults in their prayers to the Almighty are equally selfish, for they also ask God to "gimme" health or "gimme" an "A" grade on a crucial school examination, or "gimme" a wage increase, etc.

Actually, we should teach children that they too, can be Santa Claus whenever they offer gifts to others.

Children like visual aids to their religion, so Santa Claus is a colorful and quite true symbol of the original Santa Claus at Bethlehem.

But department store Santas would do well to ask children, "What do you want me to bring your brothers and sisters and Mommy and Daddy?" instead of focussing attention solely on "What do you want me to bring YOU?"

"Our convictions must be firm if they're to survive the beating they must take from the pressures to be practical."

Bob Considine Says:

Corum Had Champaign Taste, Beer Budget

It was inevitable that Bill Corum, with his champagne tastes and beer income, a fact that never bothered him greatly, would cross paths eventually with the fun-loving freewheeler who became his best friend — Toots Shor.

They met at the end of the 1920s when Toots — now a top New York restaurant man — was a combination manager-bouncer at the old Five O'Clock Club, which Bill frequented. Hardly a day passed thereafter when they did not either get together or speak over the phone.

"I never met a guy like Uncle Will," Toots remarked to me once in his intimate roar. "He's the least excitable fellow about money I ever saw. And about people: I mean their color and religion and dough. Everybody's an American with him."

"He gets less tired of saying 'Yes' than anybody. Holy crimony, what a soft touch. He even went on a note for me. When I was trying to build my joint, he was about the only guy thought I could do it. The guy even reads books, too."

Corum announced that he was closing the book on his betting career when he became head of the Kentucky Derby. It was a weighty tome, filled with almost as many ups as downs.

One day at Hialeah, Bill was introduced to two elderly ladies and with his unswerving gallantry, and boundless optimism, marked their programs for them. It was their first appearance at a track and he wanted them to understand thoroughly the Republic of France's mocking gift to the world — the Pari-Mutuel system.

"Now, I'll tell you two ladies what to do," Bill said. "One of you go to the seller's window, buy a ticket on the horses I've marked, and hand it to the other."

"Then you, my dear lady," he said to the other one, "You go to the cashier's window, wait till it opens, give the man the ticket, and collect. That way, you'll be sure of being in line before the man runs out of money."

With increasing wonder they did as he instructed them. Bill had picked the first seven winners, all at good prices. In the cool of the evening, after the eighth and final race, in which the horse he had given the ladies was beaten by a whisker, Bill was dragging his battle-scarred portable out of the horse park, nonchalant in the face of what — for him — had been a losing day.

He saw the two old ladies, and they were quite agitated. "Mr. Corum," one of them said, with some indignation, "the man refuses to pay us for the last race."

So far as his derby-picking record is concerned, Bill will always be known as the Gene Tunney of handicapping. He's retiring at the top. In the early hours of the morning of May 6, 1949, the day before the final Derby of his legendary predecessor, Corum sat down to write a column which, had you followed it, would have made you a very rich person. He subtitled it "Against Advice of Counsel," which meant that he was cutting away from the consensus of the other experts and ignoring, for once, the pessimistic moans of his trainer-friend, Ben Jones. The column concluded:

"I'm going to bet on Ponder, if only because I don't believe a trainer Ben Jones entry should be held at 15 to 1, if Ben was running an old brown billy goat off a dump heap."

"And Ponder's a heap better than that. Better off his past performance sheet than the owners Wright or the trainer Jones seem to think."

"He was a running horse at the finish of the Derby trial. He comes from the winningest strain there is, from a Derby stable trained by a Derby trainer, and he strikes me as having had just about enough racing this winter and spring to take it all."

"So, here we go, good friends, and it's strictly against the book: '1. Ponder. 2. Capot. 3. Palestinian. 4. Old Rockport.'"

P.S. Ponder won and paid $34, $11.60 and $6.20 across the board. Capot placed, at pay-offs of $9.60 and $5.80. Palestinian was third, paying $4.80. And Old Rockport came where Bill said he would come, fourth.

Thief Returns Goods

GLENDIVE, Mont. (AP) — The unidentified man said his conscience bothered him. He appeared at two Glendive stores just before Christmas to pay them for goods he shoplifted two years ago. One store got $33, the other $10.

Owner Doesn't Turn Up

LEBANON, Mo. (AP) — You might say James F. Kuhs, 15, got $1,359 worth of watches, jewelry and electric shavers for Christmas.

He found the articles in two travel kits partially buried in a ditch alongside U.S. 66 west of here last March and turned them over to the Highway Patrol. The patrol and FBI couldn't find the owner, and the valuables were returned to the boy Tuesday.

City Postmaster Praises Press

During the 10 months just passed, I've had the very finest of relations with your staff. There's never been any doubt among Pontiac's citizens that The Pontiac Press is a most outstanding newspaper. I know such a reputation is not only local but also nationwide.

The post office department must depend heavily upon co-operation of the nation's newspapers to keep the public informed. Postmaster Summerfield has been so impressed with the cooperation and "backing" of your newspaper that he has personally made public recognition of this.

Pontiac has realized a beautiful new post office building of modern functional design. We've needed it badly for a long time. Again, this building is proof of your interest and support, for without it we would still be housed in the "era of Benjamin Franklin." It is the wish of Pontiac's 280 postal employees that you and yours will have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Bob Miller
Acting Postmaster

Mother Protests Lack of Parade

As a mother of children, I protest Pontiac's not having a Christmas parade. The cost of a parade exceeds new street decoration, but show me one child who remembers the decorations and I'll show you 10 who remember the parade. Very few children forget it.

I'm sure other parents agree with me. Discomforts we suffer in the cold so our children can see the parade are eased when we see those happy little faces lighted up with happiness. Have the merchants ask their own children which they would rather have. Come on, parents of Pontiac, let them know we want a parade next year.

Old-Fashioned Spirit Begins to Show

Christmas in Hungary Merry Once Again

By KURT NEUBAUER
BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — For the first time since the Communists took power, Christmas in Hungary has regained some of its former Christian character.

After years of obstinate Communist attempts to turn this traditional festival of "Love and Charity" into just any kind of "Holiday," the Hungarian regime has had to realize the complete failure of its policy and become more tolerant.

For the first time since the Communists took over, Hungarians may celebrate Christmas this year almost without any limitations set by the regime.

This is in line with Communist party boss Janos Kadar's policy of making concessions which do not endanger the political aims of his regime, but meanwhile tightening the grip on the nation in every other respect.

During the era of Premier Matyas Rakosi several years ago, the Communists systematically tried to deprive Christmas of its character as a Christian festival.

All Christmas bonuses were abolished, an Dec. 26, the second holiday, was decreed a normal working day.

The word "Christmas," was replaced by the phrase "Festival of the Fir-Tree." "Father Christmas" was referred to as "Father Winter" and it was risky not to use these new expressions in public.

It was also a part of this policy to avoid anything which would have indicated that Christmas was approaching.

Cinemas, clubs, theatres and restaurants all over Hungary had to keep open on Christmas eve, and this decree was abolished only several years later.

However, despite all Communist attempts, most Hungarians defiantly kept celebrating the festival of the birth of Jesus Christ in private and even midnight Masses in Churches were filled to overflowing.

The Christmas festival which followed the abortive 1956 October revolution was marked by hunger, cold, strikes and Soviet tanks, and even in 1957 the after-effects of the revolution were still to be seen at Christmas time.

However, never since Hungary came under Communist rule has the Christmas festival regained so much of its former Christian character as it has this year.

Both Christmas days will be holidays, and the following Saturday also has been decreed a non-working day. The phrases "Father Winter" and "Fir Tree Festival" can hardly be heard any more, and even Communist newspapers carried Christmas advertisements and used the word Christmas.

More than 200,000 Christmas trees were delivered to Budapest but this did not meet the demand.

The Hungarian radio was permitted to broadcast Christmas greetings to refugees abroad and vice versa, something which would have been out of the question one year ago.

Not since before World War II has there been such a rich selection of goods available at Christmas time.

All shops in Budapest had Christmas decorations giving the city a typical pre-Christmas look.

However, although there are plenty of goods, the Hungarian worker, whose average monthly wage is 1,470 forints ($64) can hardly buy them.

First, the payment of Christmas bonuses, which would provide additional purchasing power, has not been re-introduced, and second, prices showed an upward trend before Christmas.

As in other Christian countries, Christmas in Hungary is a family festival. Presents are placed under the Christmas tree, the center of the festivities, and families join in singing carols and eating traditional Christmas dinners.

On Christmas eve, Budapest's streets are empty until shortly before midnight. Then they awake to new life when thousands of people stream to churches to attend midnight Mass.

LATEST PLAYTHING — Don't ask Santa Claus or Daddy for one like this, kids, they're kind of expensive. These children at the Oak Lane elementary school, Northbrook, Ill., examine their new playground equipment, an obsolete Navy F-7U Cutlass jet plane. It is one of 300 such aircraft that have been offered to playgrounds throughout the U.S. by the Navy.

Thieves Throw Reckless Binge, Get Rid of Loot

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Police here are seeking extravagant thieves who squandered their loot in one reckless binge.

The thieves broke into Lyndell Tiner's stand north of Pine Bluff on U.S. 65 Monday night. They blew their loot away Tuesday.

Deputies found the evidence beside a road south of town: A scorched area 15 feet square and various litter—all that remained of $400 worth of firecrackers.

Definite Possibility of Strike

Steel Production Will Rise

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Steel-makers look for production to rise as much as 30 per cent in the U.S. in 1959 reflecting:

—Continued economic recovery;

—A need to replenish inventories;

—The possibility of a strike and a subsequent price increase.

Top steelmen place 1959 output somewhere between 105 million and 115 million tons, against 85 million in recession-pitted 1958.

They told United Press International they have been encouraged by the gains recorded in the last three months of 1958 and look forward to continued operations at about 75 per cent of capacity.

The accumulation of inventories, liquidated drastically during the recession, is expected to add some five million tons to the first-half production total.

This is apart from what will be required to meet immediate demand for products ranging from pins to new cars.

Steelmen say that if a supply pinch develops at all during 1959 it will come during the second quarter.

That's when steel users will be building up inventories as a hedge against a possible strike when the three-year steel labor contracts expire June 30.

Experts figure that the mid-year negotiations will be rough and that a strike will be a distinct possibility.

United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald contends that steel firms can boost wages substantially without hiking prices.

But company officials say any increase in wage costs must be met by higher productivity per worker or covered by price increases.

Where will the 1959 steel demand come from?

The biggest customer is the construction industry and construction officials are looking for their 1959 volume to run about five per cent over 1958.

Another big customer is the auto industry. (About 1.7 tons of steel goes into the average car.) And auto makers look for their production to rise about 30 per cent over the sharply depressed level of 1958.

Analyzing other markets, experts predict:

—A 10 per cent gain in the appliance industry reflecting a rise in personal income, employment and housing starts.

—Normal annual growth in the container industry, one of the few bright spots in the 1958 steel record.

—Farm equipment will hold at the 1958 level with purchases coming early in the year.

—Railroads will increase their use of steel for rails and trackwork by 45 per cent, but continue their drastic curtailment of freight car purchases with output falling to 33,000 cars compared with 99,000 in 1957.

—Steel consumption by the shipbuilding industry to drop 30 per cent with demand for new oil tankers gone completely.

—Small gains to be registered in steel use by oil and gas drillers and the mining industry.

—National defense expenditures to boost the demand for aircraft and ordnance steel.

Calhoun County Gets 1st Producing Oil Well

ALBION — Calhoun county's first producing oil well was brought in yesterday on a farm three miles south of here.

Oil men said the strike, on the W. F. Rosenow farm, may lead to further drilling operations in Calhoun and adjacent counties as a result.

About 100,000 acres is reported under lease for oil explorations.

Arlene Francis Has Gift Buying Blues

By PHYLLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — "It is indeed a problem," said Arlene Francis, leering cheerfully at her Christmas tree, "picking out presents for husbands of long standing."

"Our son will be 12 years old on the 28th of January. That means we will have been married 12 years and nine months."

"In that time, my husband has become elegant. They call him 'Silk.' He has everything."

"To add to the problem, I've been in radio and television so long that I'm used to buying everything wholesale. It burns me even to buy a steak retail. You know how it is. An industry disease."

"Martin (Gabel) does not approve of this anymore. He says, 'If, my dear, you are going to give me a present please do not send for a jewelry merchant from the wholesale district. Why don't just you go down to Cartier's B & G'—we call it Cartier's Bar & Grille—and pick up a little bauble?"

"This hurts me. I like bargains. It's compulsive. Doesn't every woman?"

As Miss Francis, whose line is charm and energy, looked a trifle down in the mouth, we ventured the suggestion that she should encourage "Silk" to collect something. Makes a shopping job easier.

"Oh, he does," she said brightly.

ly. "He collects gold. I can never buy him anything platinum. He says people might think it's just silver."

Arlene and Martin's son, Peter, is another difficult man to buy for. He is the familiar male type who won't offer suggestions—

"His exact quote," his mother quoted, "was: 'Mom, I'd rather hate what you give me and not know what it is, than love it and not be surprised."

"What do you do?"

Well, what she does, Miss Francis went on, is spends weeks shopping, and hours wrapping and last minutes hoping she's done the right thing. And then she says, as she sprawls inert beside the Christmas tree:

"The men in your life take time. They take patience. They deserve the fanciest wrappings, even if they rip 'em off without looking. They are worth the trouble and the luxury tax."

They're bigger than bargains.

When she is not Christmas shopping, Arlene Francis is the busiest actress in New York. She is leading lady in the Broadway hit, "Once More With Feeling"; has a radio show, "Family Living"; panels on "What's My Line"; does frequent guest TV spots, and is active in several charities. She

275 Go Free as Yuletide Prison Gift

LANSING — A group of 275 Michigan prison inmates have received their most treasured gift of all this Christmas week:

They were paroled ahead of schedule to allow them to spend the holidays with their families' men's policy which permits the pre-Christmas release of inmates ordinarily due to be paroled between Dec. 23 and Jan. 6.

The usual parole stipulation applies to those released early: they must have a home and a job. William F. Eardley, the corrections department's parole chief, said the 275 figure set an all-time high for Christmas pa-

Appeal UAW Charge Against Ex-Cell-O

DETROIT — The United Auto Workers union is appealing the rejection of its unfair labor practices charge against the struck Ex-Cell-O Corp.

A regional examiner for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) refused last week to issue a complaint against Ex-Cell-O, rejecting the union's grounds that the company refused to bargain on a national contract.

A weeks-long strike of 3,500 employees in Ex-Cell-O's six Michigan and Ohio plants is basically over the form of contract. The union wants continuance of a national contract. Ex-Cell-O insists on separate plant contracts.

Catholic Protestant Observances Scheduled for Tonight, Tomorrow

Special worship services are planned for tonight and Christmas Day by various churches in the Oakland County area. Midnight Masses will be celebrated at all of the Catholic churches with Masses at Sunday hours on Christmas morning. Services of the other denominations will be as follows:

ROCHESTER

The traditional Children's Christmas Service will be held at Gethsemane Lutheran Church in Brooklands at 7:30 tonight.

A midnight worship service is scheduled to begin at 11 tonight, including the celebration of Holy Communion. It will conclude at 12 midnight.

The Christmas Day service will be in the form of a song service at 10:45 a.m. and will include the celebration of Holy Communion.

There will be two services of worship tonight at St. Paul Methodist Church. The first service is to be at 7 p.m. and is especially for families with young children.

There will be a pageant presented by the third grade church school class, entitled, "Of His Kingdom There Shall Be No End."

The service also will include special music by the Children's Galilean Choir led by Mrs. Alice Trimble. It will conclude with the special "Carrying of the Lights" ceremony by all worshippers.

The traditional Christmas Eve worship will be at 9 p.m. with special music presented by the St. Paul Chancel Choir.

This service also will be concluded by the candlelighting ceremony, "The Carrying of the Lights."

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP

The Commerce Methodist Church will celebrate Christmas Eve with a family service at 7 tonight and a midnight service starting at 11:30 p.m.

The family service will feature the Caroleers Choir singing Christmas carols in a pageant which will end with a candlelighting ceremony.

At the candlelighting, each person will receive a 24-hour candle in a small glass to be lighted during the service.

The midnight service will feature the traditional service of lessons and carols, a service that originated in the English Methodist church. It provides an introduction to the service of Holy Communion which begins at midnight.

WALLED LAKE

The Westminster High School Fellowship will assist in the conducting of a candlelight communion service at 8 this evening in the Crossroads Presbyterian Church. The group will sing under the direction of Mrs. Donald Patterson. The sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered.

The Walled Lake Baptist Church will hold a short candlelight devotion service at 7:30 tonight. The Chapel and Youth choirs will join in singing.

St. Matthew Lutheran Church will conduct a service composed of music, readings and meditations and Communion at 11:30 p.m. The 30-voice choir, will sing "Oh Beautiful Heavenly Light," by Bach, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Both the junior and senior choirs will sing at the 11 a.m. Communion service on Christmas Day.

A Christmas Eve candlelight Communion Service will be held at the Walled Lake Methodist Church at 8 tonight. On the altar will be the reproduction of the Nativity scene and a second table for the elements of Communion.

"The reading of the Christmas story and special music will be featured."

ORCHARD LAKE

A Communion Service will be conducted at the Orchard Lake Community Presbyterian Church at 11 tonight.

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Smith, will sing, "We Adore Thee, Oh Savior," and "Salvation Is Created."

St. Mark Lutheran Church on Commerce road will be the scene of the "Christmas Cantata" at 11:15 Christmas morning, being presented by the senior choir.

The children will sing "Seven Joys of Christmas" at the special service at 1 p.m. tonight.

FOUR TOWNS

Four Towns Marantha Baptist Church members will go caroling in the neighborhood this evening, starting at 7 o'clock.

ROME

Nursery, kindergarten and primary departments will take part in the children's Christmas Eve service at 7:30 tonight in St. John Lutheran Church.

The First Congregational Church will be the scene of a traditional candlelight service at 11 p.m.

A carol sing at 11 p.m. will precede the 11:30 service tonight at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

UTICA

A Midnight Mass is scheduled to start at 11:30 tonight at St. Luke Episcopal Church. A Holy Communion service is planned for 10 Christmas morning at the church. Children's Christmas worship services will be held at 5 and 7 tonight at Trinity Lutheran Church. Regular services on Christmas Day will be at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m.

FARMINGTON

Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in the Wooddale Elementary School

on Peppermill road will hold a special Children's service at 7:30 p.m. At 11:30 p.m. a midnight communion service will begin. There will also be a communion service Christmas Day at 10:30 a.m.

Farmington First Methodist Church, Grand River avenue at Warner Rd., will hold a special family service at 7:30 tonight to be followed by a communion service at 11 p.m. There will be no service on Christmas Day.

Antioch Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold its Christmas Eve service at 8 p.m. in the Dunckel Junior High School on 12-Mile road. The choir will sing special Christmas music. The sermon will be a Christmas message, written by Martin Luther. There will be no service on Christmas Day.

St. John American Lutheran Church, 2325 Gill Rd., will hold Christmas Eve candlelight services at 7 and 11 p.m. with communion at the latter. At 9:30 a.m. tomorrow a special Christmas service will be held.

The Orchard Methodist Church will have a Christmas musical program and candlelight service at 7:30 tonight, featuring the Chancel Choir. No service is planned for Christmas Day. This church meets at the Kenbrook Elementary School on 13-Mile road.

The First Presbyterian Church will hold service at 7 and 8:30 this evening with the Christmas story from Scripture and music by the Junior Choir at 7 p.m.

SOUTHLAND

St. Bartholomew Episcopal Church will hold a Christmas Eve carol service and Holy Communion at 7 p.m.

The Emmanuel Lutheran Church will present a song service at 9 o'clock Christmas morning.

Outdoor Dog Expects Free Ride Upstairs

MEMPHIS, Conn. (UPI)—"Chic" is a big shepherd dog who is used to the outdoors, so when his owners boarded him out with their daughter, Mrs. R. D. Hackman, he didn't think much of the three flights of stairs to her apartment. In fact, "Chic" refused to climb the steps, and Mrs. Hackman had to carry him up several times a day.

Man, 2 Youths Hurt in Crash

Cars Collide Yesterday at Unmarked Crossroad on 34 Mile Road

ADMARA TOWNSHIP — A man and a youth were injured when their cars collided at the intersection of Romeo Plank road and 34-Mile road at 4:35 p.m. yesterday, Romeo State Police reported today.

One driver is listed in "fair" condition today at St. Joseph Hospital, Mount Clemens. He is Calvin G. Smith, 33, of 2252 Capac Rd., Capac, who suffered chest injuries and a possible broken neck in the mishap.

The other driver, William R. Sampson Jr., 16, of 67901 Dequindre Rd., Romeo, was treated at the same hospital for a gash on his head and a bruised left arm. He was later released.

State Police said that both drivers claimed they did not see each other as they approached the unmarked intersection at right angles, and Sampson's car hit Smith's broadside. No tickets were issued.

SHIRLEY TIPOLT

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Tipolt of 3447 Seebaldt St., Drayton Plains announce the engagement of their daughter Shirley to Wesley Tindall Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Tindall Sr. of 4642 Walton Blvd., Drayton Plains. The fiancée is stationed in Davisville, R.I., with the Seabees. No date has yet been set for the wedding.

DOLORES BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Brown of 6039 Northrup St., Waterford, announce the engagement of their daughter Dolores to Buddy N. Herbert, son of Stearl Herbert, 1085 Boston St., Pontiac, and Mrs. Lawrence Lewis of 687 Longview St., Lake Orion. A May wedding is planned.

Two Policemen, Driver Injured in Romeo Crash

ROCHESTER — A Rochester patrolman, police dispatcher and the driver of another car were injured in a two-car accident on Main street at Romeo street at about midnight last night, Rochester police reported today.

Patrolman Robert Cannon, 24, of 306 Terry St. and his fellow officer William Woehl, 41, of 511 Harrison St. were bringing dispatcher Hugh Upton, 76, of 319 Drake St. to work.

The police car was stopped for a light when it was hit from behind by a car driven by Mat Stockinger Jr., 32, of 46229 Dequindre Rd.

Upton suffered chest and internal injuries and Woehl, back and neck injuries. Both were taken to Avon Center Hospital and Woehl was transferred to Pontiac General Hospital. They both were released later.

Stockinger, who was treated at Avon Center Hospital for cuts and bruises and then released, was ticketed for reckless driving, police said.

2 Hospitalized as Result of Accident Near Utica

SHELBY TOWNSHIP—Two persons were hospitalized after an accident involving two cars and a truck at 5:08 p.m. yesterday on Van Dyke, 3 miles north of Utica, Shelby Township police reported today.

One driver, Mrs. Jeanette Ball, 30, of 58249 Canyon Rd., Washington, suffered lacerations of the forehead and left knee. Driver of the other car, George P. Schumemann, 62, 118 1/2 Gallup St., Mount Clemens, had lacerations of the chin and knee.

Both were taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Mount Clemens.

The truck driver, Alfons A. Pollett, 57, 11920 31-Mile Rd., Romeo, was unhurt.

Officers said Mrs. Ball's car veered to the wrong side of the road across the yellow line, bounced off the trailer of the oncoming truck and hit Schumemann's car, which was behind the truck, headon.

Mrs. Ball was ticketed for driving to the left of the center line, causing the accident. Her car was a total loss, police said.

May your tree be laden with gifts of health, wealth and happiness.

Bill Kuklinski of Lakewood Lanes is a newcomer among Pontiac area proprietors but he already has supplied a much-needed shot in the arm to the sport locally.

Now in his 2nd year along with his son Bob at 3121 West Huron St., Bill has started what he hopes will be a series of programs featuring big name keg stars.

The popular Steve Nagy will get things rolling Friday with a six-hour appearance—three hours for an instruction period during the afternoon and the same number for a night exhibition session.

He will compete against bowlers who have rolled top scores the same day or during the week in the exhibition which should make it interesting and help draw a large crowd to the 14-alley establishment.

Equally famous Buzz Fazio will follow in January for the 2nd program. World Invitational champion Eddie Lubanski and one other Detroit star are among those being sought for similar showings.

Summer leagues set up at Lakewood during the past summer went over big with enthusiasts who like to knock over the pins all year round. Leagues for youngsters have also been pushed hard there.

Such promotions are not only big boosters to the alleys but also to Pontiac bowling in general.

This sector needs more proprietors like Bill Kuklinski who will do something for the bowlers once in awhile. Too many just go through the same routine year after year.

SKIPPING AROUND

ABC records fail to show it but oldtimer Axel Solwick of Pontiac tells us he rolled a sanctioned 300 game in 1929 at the Orpheum and he has a medal to prove it. The retired Motor Inn worker says he bowled a total of four within 10 days at the time but that the other three were in practice. Axel claims a total of seven perfect games in his keg career and says his 823 series at the Orpheum still stands as the highest ever here.

Add top scores: Dot Aldred of Ferndale 624 including two 221 games; Les Pennell of Walled Lake 302 triplicate at B & M

Recreation there: Nick Rubino 274 and 681 in Northside Community at Montclair; and Virginia Millar 232 and 648 in Imperial Girls loop.

Also, L. Arms 232 and R. Peterson 620 in Lakewood One O'clock; Don Featherstone 233 in Dixie Sunday Mixed League; L. Kelly 217 in Cooleyette; and T. Nelson 266, including 9 straight strikes, in Multi-Lakes loop at Maple Lanes in Walled Lake.

Joe Shimko won 1st bowler of week prize at Farmington Lanes and will be eligible to shoot for $1,000... Violet Stiltner of Fresno, Calif., rolled an unusual series of 127, 162, 299. That's improving fast.

Pontiac's Bud Goldsworthy recently finished 7th in a Detroit tourney. League secretaries are reminded that under a new ruling The Press will no longer print standings unless they are either typed or printed clearly. HERE'S WISHING A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL.

Eastern Cagers Win Flint JC Tourney

FLINT. (AP) — Eastern Michigan won the 5th annual Flint Collegiate Invitational basketball tournament last night, defeating Flint Junior College 76-72.

Hillsdale beat Aquinas 77-62 in the consolation game.

Eastern had no trouble winning after defeating Aquinas Monday night.

The score was 45-35 in favor of Eastern at the intermission and the Hurons held off a last minute Flint rally.

Bill Steple led the Eastern scoring with 24 points. Jim Ivey was high for Flint with 26.

Stomach Ailment Puts MacKay in Care of Doctor

BRISBANE, Australia. (AP)—Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, one of America's hopes in the challenge round of the Davis Cup, was stricken with a stomach disorder Wednesday and placed under a physician's care.

Captain Perry Jones said, however, he had been advised the ailment was minor and that MacKay would be all right Thursday. The doctor said MacKay's troubles apparently resulted from food poisoning.

Soo Wins in Overtime

SAULT STE. MARIE. (AP) — Tom Villemure made good on six free throws in overtime, and led Soo Tech to a 72-70 victory over Northwest Community College in the championship game of the Kiwanis basketball tournament last night.

Dinty's Going to Retire

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Dinty Moore, lacrosse coach at the Naval Academy for 23 years, says he will quit after the 1959 season. Under Moore, Navy won national championships in 1938-43-46-54 and was co-champion in 1945 and 1949. Six Middle squads were unbeaten against college opponents and Moore's over-all record is 164 victories against 47 losses.

Pirate pilot Bobby Bragan was thumbed-out nine times in 1956.
