

Off for Jackson Prison

END OF THE LEGAL TRAIL — Shackled together by handcuffs and chains, former Teamsters agent Herman Kierdorf (right) and one-time attorney for the village of Fenton, Clifford B. Dye, leave Oakland County Jail yesterday for their trip to Jackson Prison. For Kierdorf, of Madison Heights, it meant the end of almost a year of legal delays since being convicted of possessing a pistol silencer. He was sentenced to a 1-5 year term. Dye had succeeded in postponing his 2-10 year term for assault for three years.

Steel Strike Hits Defense Work

Atlas Launching Site Construction Stalled as Negotiations Slated

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The four-day-old steel strike, currently pinching the nation's economy, is beginning to put a dent in national defense work.

The strike has already snarled plans for the completion of three Atlas missile launching sites near Cheyenne, Wyo., according to construction officials.

The first site, scheduled for completion on Sept. 20, will be finished in time. But high pressure tanks for the other sites are not expected to be delivered in time for the November completion date because of the strike, the officials said.

As for the economic situation, the nation's steel production losses continue to mount. Production losses are estimated at 300 million dollars a week. Wage losses are running close to 70 million dollars a week.

The strike, which began at Tuesday midnight, has idled some 500,000 members of the United Steelworkers and some 35,000 workers in allied industries, such as railroads, coal mines and transportation.

TALKS STALEMATED

Negotiations are stalemated. Federal mediation commissioners have slated separate talks with both sides for Monday in New York.

President Eisenhower and James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor, conferred on the situation in Washington Friday. Details of the conference were not released. In Indianapolis, Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) charged that President Eisenhower should have tried harder to avert the steel strike.

Prison Walls Enclose Dye, Kierdorf

Former Teamsters Union organizer Herman Kierdorf and ex-Fenton village attorney Clifford B. Dye, whose paths have been paralleled by long legal battles for freedom, started "doing time" in Jackson Prison yesterday with a 30-day quarantine.

For cigar-puffing Kierdorf it was the beginning of a 1 to 5 year sentence for possession of a pistol silencer last year during the time his nephew, Frank Kierdorf, died from burns received in setting fire to a Flint area dry cleaners.

Fifty-seven-year-old Dye faces a 2 to 10 year term for assault in the shooting of a farmer who managed land leased from the attorney's sister.

Both men, nattily dressed, surrendered themselves to the Circuit Court of Judge Clark J. Adams at 1 p.m. yesterday.

Adams told them: "I must deny you your freedom on continuance of your bond and remand you to the sheriff for the execution of your sentence."

White-haired Dye and Herman, Teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa's one-time aide, were grim as they were manacled together for the trip by sheriff's road patrol car to Jackson.

Maximum security precautions were taken at the Oakland County Jail in preparation for the trip. Dye was visibly shaken as he gave deputies his tie and belt. He was allowed to keep a Bible and some personal affects.

As additional chains were secured to the two men the 68-year-old Kierdorf mopped his brow and moaned, "More? O, my God."

But when Dye complained that the manacles were too tight on his arthritic left wrist, Kierdorf chided him, "Just behave yourself."

CONTRADICTION — Berding said the American delegation here feels this contradicts Soviet insistence that it is seeking unification of Germany.

Turning to reports of a division on policy among the Western powers, Berding claimed the meeting of the Western ministers this morning had "demonstrated there is no substantive division."

The next meeting of Big Four ministers is scheduled for Monday at a luncheon to be given by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

While Western authorities played down the extent of disagreement, the Western foreign ministers are known to be trying to "unify ranks against heavy Soviet pressure to exact a stiff price from the West for calling off the Berlin crisis.

MSUO Will Get Sufficient Funds to Open Term

Board of Trustees at MSU OKs $670,000 Initial Budget

Michigan State University Oakland will have money to open.

A budget of $670,000 for the new institution was approved yesterday by the MSU Board of Trustees.

A freshman class of some 600 will begin studies in September.

Meeting in East Lansing, the Board approved a $28,444,854 budget for MSU operating expenses, $1,674,068 more than last year. Funds for MSUO are in the MSU budget.

Emphasis was on salary increases as the MSU operating budget for the 1959-60 fiscal year was set up.

"We have no alternative but to put as many of our dollars as possible into salaries," said John A. Hannah, MSU president. "That's the only way to keep our people."

Salaries took up $19,179,126 of the total, a $1,595,087 increase over last year.

Hannah said salaries would be increased an average of 7 per cent on a merit basis rather than across-the-board.

ALLOWS NO INCREASES

He added the tight budget allowed no staff increases and neglected needed expansion in such areas as scientific development and library.

Members of the extension and agricultural field staff will not get the same increases as faculty members, he said. These employees were able to get a raise last year because they are partly paid from federal funds, he explained.

The Legislature appropriated a lump sum of $27,889,768 for MSU operations this year. Income from other sources made up the difference.

The budget for total operations under Board of Trustees control, including the cooperative extension service and agricultural experiment station, was set at $37,031,777. These services receive support from federal funds.

The budget item for the athletic and intramural program was $1,065,100. The program is self-supporting with the football gate paying most of the bill.

The budget was $196,195 in the red, but Hannah said it wouldn't remain that way.

"We've never ended up the year in the red in the 18 years I've been president," he said. Hannah said MSU hoped to make up the deficit from student fees over the anticipated $5,437,626 and by not filling positions that become vacant.

Bender Denies Ever Using U.S. Library for Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Sen. George H. Bender, the Teamsters Union's controversial $125 a day anti-corruption sleuth, confirmed today he still has free office space in the Library of Congress. He denied using it on Teamsters business.

Bender has been at bitter loggerheads with the Senate rackets probers. The committee contends the Teamsters Union hasn't turned a hand to remove alleged gangsters and racketeers from positions of trust as aides to the union's president, James R. Hoffa.

Bender went before the committee recently as a volunteer witness. He denied as a "damnable lie" allegations that as chairman of a House investigating committee in 1954 he had dropped charges against Teamsters officials, and received Teamsters support in his senatorial election campaign the same year.

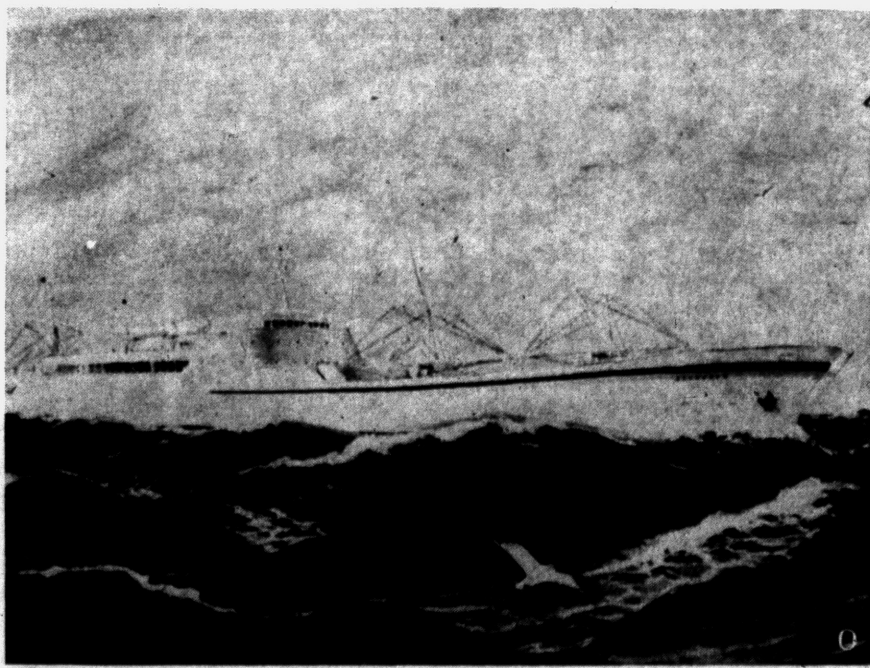

A reporter asked Bender whether it is true that he is allowed free office space in the taxpayer-supported Library of Congress, and whether he uses it as a base for research for the Teamsters.

It is true, Bender said, that he still has a study room reserved for him at the library. "But it (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Pondering Role of Mysterious 'Repairman'

Police Lab Will Check Evidence Gathered at Teamster's Home

By DICK SAUNDERS

State Police detectives and arson squad investigators waited for two major developments today, any one of which could answer the question: Who set fire Thursday night to the Bloomfield Township home of Detroit Teamster official Charles O'Brien?

Detectives based their investigation on these points:

1. What will be disclosed in reports from the State Police laboratory in East Lansing.

2. The identity of a mysterious telephone repairman.

They also planned to question O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Sylvia Paris, who was the last person in the house before the fire.

A valuable wrist watch reported missing was found in the rubble by Mrs. Paris late yesterday, prompting police to doubt any burglary as a motive.

Sgt. Oramel O'Farrell, head of the arson squad at the Redford Post, said this morning:

"The several other valuables reported stolen might well be among the charred ruins, and could well have been destroyed by the intense heat."

Police also questioned the "mystery car" theory and the method of entrance into the home.

Four gas cans were sent to Lansing yesterday. Carpet samples from the floors of the home, 205 Harrow Circle, will be sent today.

Police hope to gain an analysis of the liquid which was spilled throughout the house from tests on the inside of the gas cans and the saturated carpet samples.

"We think it is kerosene or fuel oil, but the lab men will really give us an accurate breakdown," O'Farrell explained.

The cans will also be thoroughly tested for any fingerprints. Price tags still on the cans may give (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Linteau Granted Airline Service

Ex-Teamster Official Gets Franchise Share Despite Convictions

The Michigan Public Service Commission in Lansing yesterday granted Louis C. Linteau and T. N. Bancker permission to operate a limousine bus service between Pontiac, Birmingham, Pontiac Municipal Airport, Detroit Metro Airport and Willow Run Airport.

The service is scheduled to begin next month, the two men announced.

A new company called Airport Service Lines is scheduled to operate 12-passenger airport limousines, stopping in Pontiac in front of the Hotel Waldron, they said.

Linteau, a car dealer, is former secretary-treasurer of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614. He operates Auto Europe, a car lot at 467 Auburn Ave. which specializes in sale of new foreign cars.

Bancker is general manager of Fleet Carrier Corp., 586 E. South Blvd.

The state issued approval of the limousine service despite Linteau's record of two convictions for illegal business operations.

"Linteau's criminal past was not a matter of record on his application and the Commission is legally bound only to consider the application itself," explained William L. King, head of the Commission's transportation division.

In 1954, Linteau was sentenced to five months in the Detroit House of Correction for his part in what authorities described as a $100,000 Teamster shakedown of Detroit area contractors.

Last year, Linteau was placed on six months probation for taking part in a GI home fraud in Waterford Township.

Teamster Gives an 'A' to Arsonist

By MAX E. SIMON

"The guy who did this deserves an 'A' on his report card."

Charles O'Brien spoke these words in anger as he poked about the charred ruins of what had once been his home.

Last night as O'Brien went through the debris, there was only a shell.

An arsonist had put the torch to the beautiful Bloomfield Township dwelling of the 33-year-old Teamster business agent Thursday night.

O'Brien was in Jackson Hole, Wyo., on business when he learned of the blaze.

He had planned to be home Thursday but bad weather delayed the takeoff.

GOES STRAIGHT HOME — Upon landing in Detroit, he went straight to his home.

He was driven by a husky, unidentified man who wore a cowboy-style hat.

O'Brien and his friend appeared at the home at 7:25 p.m. As he left the car, O'Brien appeared annoyed by the parents and children wandering around the house and trampling the lawn.

"We ought to charge admission," he snapped.

Two minutes later O'Brien left. "I'll be back," he said to State Police Fire Marshal Oramel O'Farrell.

The young Teamster returned an hour later in a station wagon driven by Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wing hockey star.

Accompanied by O'Farrell, O'Brien went through the home, hurling curses at whoever set the blaze.

"I hope the so-and-so sleeps well tonight," he muttered.

City Reserve Artillery Unit to Train at Fort Carson

Pontiac area men of the 579th Field Artillery Battalion will undergo two weeks of annual field training exercises at Ft. Carson, Colo., beginning late Sunday afternoon.

The bulk of the men from the Pontiac Army reserve unit will leave tomorrow at 10 a.m. from Willow Run Airport where the 208 reservists will board four chartered planes and utilize one baggage plane for the 1,400-mile jaunt.

An advance party of five men left early Wednesday morning for the southwestern military reservation to help prepare the facilities for the main body which is expected to arrive Sunday afternoon.

Maj. Alvin A. Brower, 2213 E. Long Lake Rd., Troy, the battalion commander, who left early Thursday morning for the camp, said the first week of training will consist of receiving primary training and familiarization to prepare for the second week of attack of artillery targets under fire.

The 579th Field Artillery Battalion, specialist with the 105 mm Howitzer split-trail cannon, will devote its training to familiarization, maintenance, and firing of the cannon and to communications, the key to an artillery battalion.

While attending its first summer encampment at Ft. Carson, Brower expressed confidence that his battalion will receive excellent training because of the excellent training areas and the newest training equipment which will be available to his unit during this year's training.

Heat, Humidity Steaming Many Areas of Nation

By The Associated Press

Vast areas of the nation were cast under a hot, humid spell today.

A weekend buildup of warm, moist air, triggered by southerly winds from the Gulf of Mexico, fastened a humid blanket over the eastern two-thirds of the country.

Fair skies with seasonable temperatures reigned west of the Rockies.

The weather map was dotted with scattered thunderstorm activity during the morning hours in the plains states, mid-Mississippi Valley, the Rockies and the south-east.

The weather bureau forecast little relief from the hot, sultry grip. Slight cooling was expected in the upper Mississippi Valley and upper Great Lakes sector. Scattered rainfall was also predicted for most areas.

Louisiana Dem Favors Big Cut

Appropriations Chief Calls Ike's Measure Wishful Thinking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise $3,556,200,000 foreign aid authorization bill drew a verbal brickbat today from the man who will have a lot to say about how much money is provided to make it work.

Only $353,200,000 short of the $3,909,400,000 requested by President Eisenhower, the bill was hammered out Friday by Senate-House conferees and will be considered by the House next Wednesday.

The measure merely provides authority for continuation of the program to help friendly nations stem the tide of Communism through economic and military build-up.

Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.), chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee which will draft the financing measure, took a dim view of the authorization bill. He called it "entirely too high and unrealistic" and said that "as useful it is in keeping with the wishful thinking of the President."

Passman wouldn't say how much he believed the appropriations should be cut, but House leaders have tossed around the figure of half a billion dollars or more. The foreign aid bill offers them their biggest opportunity to make a sizeable cut in the President's over-all appropriation request for 1960.

Passman also looked with disfavor on a provision of the compromise measure shifting military aid next year to the regular Defense Department budget for a two-year trial period. The obvious effect of that provision would be to remove jurisdiction over foreign aid defense appropriations from Passman's subcommittee.

Passman predicted that Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) of the full committee would sidestep that provision. Cannon has power to delegate almost any subject he desires to any of his many subcommittees.

Mr. Cannon is too smart to buy that provision," Passman said. "He knows the purpose of it."

The biggest cut was in authorization for military arms aid. The President wanted $1,600,000,000 for this purpose. The conferees settled for $1,400,000,000 with a limit of 67 million dollars on military assistance to Latin America. Stricken from the compromise was a Senate provision earmarking $893,670,000 for NATO countries.

Fund to Help Fire Survivors Reaches $7,149

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — Sponsors of a fund-raising drive for the Robert Langlois family who lost five children in a home fire said today the fund totaled $7,149.92.

Largest single contribution to the fund, according to Charles Park, of radio station WBBR, co-sponsor of the fund with the Mount Clemens Junior Chamber of Commerce, was $2,938.37 from employees of the GMC Truck and Coach Division in Pontiac, where Langlois works. A country sale netted about $400 and a 12-hour all-proceeds donation from a local car wash totaled $326. One man paid $100 to have his car washed.

Park said the major fund drive, expected to go over the $10,000 mark, would be climaxed Monday night with a neighborhood canvass.

All money has been placed in a trust fund.

Tour Waterford Schools

Turkish Educators in County

A group of educators from Turkey spent all day yesterday getting a first-hand look at the Waterford Township school system.

Thirteen teachers, principals and superintendents of schools throughout Turkey toured the 22 school areas in the district. They were shown school operations, and met residents at an afternoon luncheon at Supt. William Shunk's home on Lotus Lake.

With headquarters at Wayne State University, the group chose to visit Waterford Township because of its "exploding population," to see how residents coped with school problems.

For four months after their arrival in Washington, D. C., last February, the group studied and taught at the University of Texas. Before arriving in Detroit the group had toured all of the major cities in United States in hopes of improving and enriching their educational programs.

A physics teacher from the romantic city of Izmir was completely baffled by the number of cars, houses and people in the United States.

In his country, communities are crowded because of transportation problems. There is no television, and although there are 150 outdoor movies, everyone sits on chairs, not in cars, he said.

The tour was sponsored by the United States government through the International Co-operation Administration.

After leaving Detroit, the foreign visitors will head for New York City and leave the United States Aug. 1.

VISITORS FROM TURKEY — Thirteen educators from Turkey made a one-day tour of the Waterford Township school system yesterday. Their host was Waterford Supt. of Schools William Shunk, seated in the front. Headquartered at Wayne State University during their stay in this area, the group is touring cities throughout the country to learn how to improve their schools in Turkey.

Push Castro Return After Urrutia Quits

26th of July Movement, said that Dorticos will confer with the prime minister at 10 a.m. and a special cabinet meeting has been called for 2 p.m.

The newspaper said that public pressure for Castro to stay as prime minister was so heavy that it is certain the President will make a new appeal for him to remain in the government.

The undercover feud between the prime minister and Urrutia, Castro's hand-picked President, came to a head in a fight over communism.

Feeling ran high against the deposed president and he appealed to Raul Castro, commander in chief of the armed forces, for protection.

Urrutia remained in the presidential palace for more than three hours after resigning and then slipped out by using a ruse to throw off the angry crowd waiting outside.

While two cars sped out of opposite palace gates to draw away the crowd Urrutia and his family slipped into a limousine and raced through the main entrance. With him were his wife and three children, including one-year-old Libertad (Liberty) who is Castro's goddaughter.

Shouting that he is no Communist, Castro told a TV audience that Urrutia tried to betray the revolutionary regime by posing as "the champion of anti-communism."

His voice quivering, Castro said: "I have often said I am not a Communist and neither is the revolutionary movement Communist, but we do not have to say we are anti-Communists just to fawn on foreign powers."

Urrutia quit while watching Castro denounce him before a nationwide (TV) audience after dramatically announcing his own resignation as prime minister to force a showdown.

The cabinet immediately elected Osvaldo Dorticos, a bookish-looking lawyer in his early 40s, and asked Castro to withdraw his resignation as premier. Dorticos in a short acceptance speech appealed to the Cuban people to continue their "clamor for the return of Castro."

Dorticos is a political unknown in Cuba. He was brought into the government as minister of revolutionary laws in a cabinet shake-up last month. In a speech last February he came out against legalizing the Communist party.

Castro made plain he intends to guide the revolution—whether as prime minister or outside the government.

In announcing his resignation as premier, he emphasized: "Now understand me, I am not resigning the fight. I am resigning the job, but I am not resigning the struggle for the revolution."

Order Appealed by Mrs. Vernor

Asks Court to Let Her Buy Controlling Interest in Detroit Firm

Shirley C. Vernor, Bloomfield Township widow of the late James Vernor III, has appealed an Oakland County Probate Court order that controlling interest in the 92-year-old Detroit firm be sold for the first time to persons other than members of the Vernor family.

In her appeal, Mrs. Vernor asks the Circuit Court to let her buy the stock herself.

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore ordered the sale of the stock May 27 at a purchase price of $2,350,000. The stock was to be bought by a Detroit investment firm and another from Cleveland.

The 945 shares of common stock represent 63 per cent of the company. This is the bulk of the estate left by Vernor, who died in April 1957.

Mrs. Vernor said she should be allowed to keep controlling interest of the company "within the family."

Sale of the stock to outsiders, she said, deprives her son, James Vernor IV, "of his right ultimately to inherit a substantial portion of the stock."

She said she was willing to pay $2,350,000.

Minority stockholders — distant relatives by marriage of Mrs. Vernor — backed the sale to the investment firms.

It was expected that they hoped to gain controlling interest of the company through the move.

Minority stockholders have as their leader James Vernor Davis, grandson of the company's founder and present president of the firm.

He also was authorized to borrow money in anticipation of student fees to meet the payroll if the state doesn't come through.

The Day in Birmingham Paving Bids Top Agenda of Commission Monday

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham City Commission will consider bids for the paving of Purdy, Landon, Frank, Lincoln and Eton streets at its regular meeting Monday night.

Also on the agenda is the presentation of the Michigan State Police analysis traffic safety report.

The Commission will open bids for 100 stop signs and 90 speed limit signs.

Action will be taken on the application for an SDM liquor license by the A&P store, 555 Adams Rd. In other business, store owners will be urged to co-operate in the proposed street cleaning program on weekends. The street cleaning has been planned for the weekends due to the minimum of parked cars in the business area.

Two area women will be Republican participants July 19 to 31 in an institute in practical partisan politics at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

They are Mrs. Dan O'Madigan, 340 Chesterfield Dr., Bloomfield Hills, and Mrs. James P. Dickerson, 720 Westwood Dr., Birmingham.

Mrs. O'Madigan this week was elected fourth vice president of the Republican Women's Federation of Oakland County.

The institute is sponsored by the university's department of political science in cooperation with the Republican and Democratic state central committees and with the assistance of the Ford Foundation.

Twenty Republicans and 20 Democrats were named to attend the sessions.

Among political leaders to speak at the institute will be Gov. Williams, Congressman Alvin M. Bentley of Owosso and 1958 Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul E. Bagwell.

Dr. Robert M. Frehse will be guest minister for the second week tomorrow at the Congregational Church of Birmingham during the vacation of the Rev. Raymond Fennell.

Dr. Frehse is director of the Detroit Roundtable of Christians and Jews. He was first supply minister of the Birmingham Congregational Church when it was founded in 1953, serving until a permanent minister was called.

His topic will be "Where Do You Live?" Dr. Frehse's wife, Lydia, will be soloist at the service.

Bender Denies Using Library for Teamsters

has no relationship whatsoever to the Teamsters Union," he added. He said he uses the study room as a base for research for two books he is writing.

Bender said one of them will be "a book on legislation, legislative experience, and information on how things are done," based on his career of 14 years as a House member from Ohio and two years in the Senate.

The other, he said, will be a work on "The Munich Conference."

"What year was that conference?" a reporter asked.

"I'm not sure," Bender replied. "It was just before World War II. I'm doing considerable research on it when I have the time."

(It was in September 1938 that Britain and France yielded to a conference in Munich, Bavaria, to Nazi demands for cession of the Sudetenland to Germany by Czechoslovakia.)

Bender said he does his own research and writing. An aide at the library said he rarely sees Bender there but often sees "one of his aides. I don't know the aide's name."

Bender expressed indignation at being asked about it.

"It's peanuts to talk about such things," he protested.

Congress members have the privilege of reserving study rooms rent free in the Library of Congress for themselves and their aides. Many former Congress members have been allowed to retain the privilege after leaving office, if they had reason to request such facilities. The space usually is made available to others when not in use by those who have reserved it.

Bender also seemed annoyed when asked whether he is writing his books himself, or employing a writer.

"I can write," he retorted. "I was a newspaperman myself."

Crack Agent of FBI Transferred to Detroit

WASHINGTON (UPI) The veteran special FBI agent who directed the federal income tax investigation of former Teamster President Dave Beck is being transferred from Seattle to Detroit, headquarters of James R. Hoffa.

The bureau yesterday confirmed a published report on the transfer of Donald S. Hostetter, special agent in charge of the FBI's Seattle office for more than three years. It insisted the move was "routine."

An FBI spokesman declined comment as to whether it was related to tax inquiries involving current Teamster President Hoffa.

Hoffa, in appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee, has acknowledged that the internal revenue service has been checking into his tax returns for several years.

CHECKS PHONE REPAIRMEN

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. is still checking on phone repairmen in the vicinity last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Paris, who owned the house, said a man driving an unmarked truck came to the door that afternoon.

He told her he was a telephone company repairman and was looking for an address on Big Beaver road, less than a half-mile north of the O'Brien home.

She said she didn't think anything of it at the time and let the man into the house where he checked his map and she gave him directions in the living room.

Police suspect he may have been posing as a repairman in order to get a look at the layout of the interior of the home.

Investigators said today they were going to try and "iron out" several statements by neighbors that they described as "unusual."

Mrs. Paris went to a township meeting Thursday night with her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Schjorlin of 127 Stoney Brook Lane.

"The Schjorlins described her as being nervous when she got to their home at 7:30, an hour before the meeting," said O'Farrell.

"They said she kept looking at her watch and saying they had better get going, although it was before 8 and the township hall was a 10-minute drive," he continued.

The detectives also wanted to find out why Mrs. Paris drove her car from the garage of the O'Brien home to the Schjorlin house less than 100 yards away and left it there.

"We are merely hoping to get answers to these questions," O'Farrell said, and added, "this isn't the only thing that is strange."

"The mystery car was on a road not directly connected to the O'Brien home. The road ran along the rear of the house about 100 yards from the back yard."

O'Brien, business agent for Detroit Teamster Local 229, Hoffa's home local, arrived by plane from Wyoming last night.

He was visibly rattled by the sight of his home, its interior blackened and completely demolished.

"They were real pros," he mumbled. "Whoever did it really knew the job well."

O'Farrell and other investigators said today that a burglary motive didn't amount to much. Several of the items Mrs. Paris believed were missing she later found in the rubble.

NO EVIDENCE OF TIMING

"We don't know what was used to start the blaze," O'Farrell said. "There was no evidence in the ruins of any timing device."

He explained, "This leads us to believe that either kerosene or fuel oil was used."

"With these fuels a man could light some paper, toss it on the carpet and walk leisurely away before the fire really blazed up."

"But with gasoline, the stuff would go up so fast that a long fuse or timing device would be necessary."

Chairs were pushed up against a front door and upstairs door leading to a porch by the man or men who set the fire.

Mrs. Paris said the chairs had been in the dining room when she left. The arsonists then had plenty of time to do their work without chance of being surprised in the act.

When told he should have the charred house boarded up, O'Brien replied, "I don't see any sense in that. There's nothing left."

prankster," he said. "Whoever it was knows the business. He's had plenty of practice because this sure wasn't his first job."

O'Brien opened some bureau drawers, but found only ashes. "A very good job," he fumed.

He shook his head in disgust as he went from place to place.

O'Brien, a business agent for Detroit Teamsters Local 299, said he'd received many threatening phone calls but never worried about them.

"They bothered my wife and mother," he said, "but you know how women are."

"I've been getting threats ever since I became a Teamster agent. When you're in this business, you got to expect things like that."

O'Brien said that he never looked the back door of his home, but his wife and mother always did.

"I figured that if anyone wanted to get in, they could always break the glass in the back door," he said.

As his plane winged its way to ward Detroit, O'Brien thought about the burning.

"For eight hours I kept thinking. I asked myself who could have done it and I'm no nearer the answer now than when I started."

He said he had no enemies in his home local, and scoffed at the idea that the arson had any connection with his efforts to organize Dearborn city employees.

"Hubbard likes publicity," he said, "but he's not that crazy."

The Teamster was wearing a red T-shirt and blue jeans. "That's all the clothing I have," O'Brien told reporters.

He said he'd stay with Howe, a close friend, temporarily before deciding what to do next.

The hockey great, waiting for O'Brien to finish his interview with the fire marshal, looked at the house in astonishment.

"These guys really play rough," the shocked athlete said softly. "I thought hockey was rough but we're a bunch of pansies compared to something like this."

Missing After Visit to Waterford Township Relatives

A California man, visiting relatives in Waterford Township, was reported missing today by township police.

Police throughout the state have been notified to be on the lookout for Francis I. Hunt, 39, the father of four children.

He is 5-feet-10, weighs about 160, has blue eyes and brown hair, and was wearing light blue cotton slacks and a blue long-sleeved shirt, police said.

His wife said he left the home of William Willis, 5839 Cambrook Lane, at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. He said he was going out to look for a steady job.

The family had been here for about three weeks, during which time Hunt had searched for a steady position. He is a machinist and tool maker.

Hunt was a Fisher Body employee in Pontiac about 10 years ago before moving to Homestead, Calif. He was described as being a "good family man, responsible and well liked."

Hunt was carrying eight silver dollars with him and had complained recently of "being tired," his wife said.

Batista Asking Permission to Enter the U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department is considering the application of ousted Cuban President Fulgencio Batista for a visa to enter the United States from his refuge in the Dominican Republic.

A police spokesman in Ciudad Trujillo, the Dominican capital, said law officers stopped Batista when he tried to fly to the United States without a visa Thursday. The spokesman said the former dictator's departure was barred because his flight "would be an unfriendly act to a great nation having cordial and close relations with our country."

Dominican sources said Batista would not be permitted to leave for the United States until American officials agreed to let him enter the country. Batista flew to the Dominican Republic Jan. 1 when Fidel Castro's rebels overthrew his regime.

Establish Par Value for Spanish Peseta

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International Monetary Fund (IMF) today announced that it is establishing an initial par value of 60 to the dollar for the Spanish peseta. The action apparently is a step in efforts to boost the Spanish economy.

A fund spokesman, in announcing the decision, also said that another announcement is expected Monday on a Spanish economic stabilization program, to be supported by the fund and other financial agencies. It has been reported that a 310 million dollar program is under consideration to stabilize Spain's economy.

Spain has been using a complicated multiple rate exchange system. The peseta is quoted on the free market at about 56 to the dollar.

Canada Lifts Color Ban on Oranges in Sales Drop

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The lifted restriction on color-added oranges in Canada has been termed a shot in the arm for the state industry by John T. Lesley, head of the Florida Citrus Exchange, who said the action opened a new outlet for several million boxes of Florida oranges.

The ban was imposed early in 1955 and caused about a 25 per cent drop in sales of Florida citrus in Canada.

Charge Concealed Weapon

$6,000 Frees Bill Collector

A self-employed West Bloomfield Township investment broker and collection agent was freed upon furnishing $6,000 in bonds yesterday after demanding examination on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and felonious assault.

Robert A. Germer, 50, of 3730 Green Lake Rd., appeared before West Bloomfield Township Justice of the Peace Elmer C. Dieterle on both charges.

His bond was set at $3,000 on each charge and examination set for July 28.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Richard Hubble arrested Germer Thursday. Two Commerce Township housewives complained that he threatened them.

Mrs. Albert E. Pilson, of 5604 Tuscola St., signed the felonious assault complaint against Germer. She said Germer and Royal Oak Township constable James D. McCree came to her home.

ARGUMENT FLARES

Germer, she told deputies, was there to seek payment of a bill past due and told her he was going to take an article of comparable value if she didn't pay.

An argument erupted in which, the woman said, "he swore at me." Deputies said she slapped his face.

"He pulled out a gun and pointed it at my stomach," she said.

"You hit me again and I'll kill you," the woman quoted Germer as saying. She explained she was holding her baby in her arms at the time.

Mrs. Robert Szrann of 1639 S. Commerce Rd. called police later and complained that the men were at her home trying to collect on a bill which already she had paid.

Deputy Hubble met the men there. He had been warned that the suspect was armed.

He took McCree's gun away, thinking the complainants were referring to the officer's service revolver.

En route to the department, Hubble was radioed that Germer was armed. He stopped the car immediately and turned to the rear seat where the two men were sitting.

"I saw Germer reach in his pocket for something," Hubble said. "I pulled my gun and shoved it in his face, grabbing his arm with my other hand."

"I told him to let go of the gun or I'd shoot," Germer surrendered a .25 caliber Browning automatic pistol. It was loaded. A check disclosed the gun was not registered. McCree, described as not taking any part in Germer's alleged actions, was released. Germer denied the statements of both women.

Our Rose Colored Glasses

With glowing words a young lady tries to tell her parents about "the" boy; she sees him through rose colored glasses and will attempt to describe a rainbow. The parents are wise, slip on their glasses and agree with her. A young mother with her first baby sees him through rose colored glasses; all the hues of the soft light of sunrise are in her eyes and all the chords of angels are in her voice.
