Weekend to Be This Kind of Weather

FIRE-FIGHTING MEASURES — Water from fire hydrants is swell for fighting fire, whether the blaze is in a building, or sizzling down from the hot summer sun. This youngster is enjoying a cool shower in New York. Weather in Pontiac over the weekend will call for similiar measures.

U. S. Will Pull 30,000 Troops Out of Japan

Ground Troops to Begin Leaving Next Month After Ike-Kishi Accord

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 30,000 U.S. ground combat troops will start pulling out of Japan next month in accordance with a decision reached by President Eisenhower and Japanese Prime Minister Kishi.

A joint communique issued last night at the end of three days of consultations between the two leaders announced the "prompt withdrawal of all U.S. ground combat forces from Japan."

Later, spokesmen said the withdrawal would begin in July.

The statement also said that within the next year there would be a substantial reduction in the total U.S. forces in Japan.

"The United States plans still further reductions as the Japanese defense forces grow," the communique added.

100,000 THERE NOW

Secretary of State Dulles told newsmen that about 100,000 U.S. servicemen now are stationed in Japan—about half of that total are Air Force personnel, 20,009 are in the Navy and the remaining 30,000 are ground combat troops.

The ground troops consist of the understrength First Cavalry Division and one regiment of the Third Marine Division.

The statement said the two men "discussed the early cessation of both the testing and manufacture of nuclear weapons as part of a first step in a safeguarded disarmament program."

Japan's strong views against further nuclear tests, the communique added, are being taken into account in formulating the U.S. position at the current London disarmament talks with Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

The Kishi-Eisenhower statement also contained a significant provision opening the way for revision of the mutual security treaty between the two countries.

By agreement, an inter-governmental committee was established to "consider future adjustments in the relationships between the United States and Japan adequate to meet the needs and aspirations of the peoples of both countries."

LIFTED LID ON PACT

In diplomatic terms this lifted the lid on the 1951 security pact between the two countries. It was concluded at the time the Japanese Peace Treaty was signed at San Francisco and provided for U.S. defense of Japan pending development of Japan's own defense forces.

Kishi failed to regain administrative control over the Ryukyu and Bonin Island groups, one of his major objectives.

The communique said Eisenhower pointed out that so long as conditions of "threat and tension" exist in the Far East, the United States will be required to maintain the islands, which include Okinawa, as outposts of free world defense.

LAWRENCE R. TURNER

De Caussin Neighbor Admits Slashing Child

Slayer Claims Girl Fell in Store, Says He Didn't Attack Her Sexually

DETROIT (AP)—A convicted rapist who lived near 6-year-old Mary de Caussin told police last night he killed the child.

In a written statement to Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, 50-year-old Lawrence Richard Turner, a clerk in a produce market, said the child slipped and fell in the store where he worked and was knocked unconscious.

He said he mutilated the child's body "so it would look like a sex killing" and then dumped the body in a wooded lover's lane near her home in Ecorse Township.

Inspector Thomas Cochill said that from the discrepancies in Turner's account it was "obvious he didn't tell the whole story."

"Now that we have the man's confession, we can proceed to get the details out of him," Cochill said. "He has equipped himself with an alibi avoiding the sex issue but the full story is yet to come."

Cochill said police would continue to question Turner.

O'Brien said he would seek a first-degree murder warrant Monday.

The de Caussin girl disappeared from her home the evening of June 12. Her slashed and battered body, partially disrobed, was found the next day. Her wrists were bound together behind her. She had been raped.

O'Brien quoted Turner as saying: "I'm terribly ashamed of what I've done. I don't know what got into me. I need help."

He begged not to be returned to Southern Michigan Prison from where he was released last December after serving 15 years for the rape of a Detroit woman.

"I'm scared to death of what the young prisoners there will do to me for killing this little girl," O'Brien quoted him as saying.

Police refused to disclose where Turner was being held. They said they feared mob violence.

STIRS STORM

The sadistic slaying of the young girl, the daughter of a Ford Motor Co. technical writer, has stirred a storm of indignation among residents of the modest new suburban area where the family lived.

Cochill said Turner, who had maintained his innocence since he was picked up for questioning Wednesday, told his story when presented with the findings of the Detroit police department's scientific laboratory.

Cochill said fibers found in the

Bridge Projects in Utica Start of M59 Relocation

The relocation of M59 in Macomb County will proceed July 2 with the opening of bids by the State Highway Department in Lansing on two bridge projects.

The bridges would carry the new highway over relocated Utica road and the New York Central railroad. Both projects are in Utica.

The bridge construction would be the first of the proposed relocation of the main east-west highway (Auburn Avenue Road), east of Pontiac.

The relocation would be from the Pontiac city limits to Utica. The highway department said that engineering studies are still in progress in the Oakland County portion of the project.

★ ★ ★

Although the bridge construction is slated for completion in the fall of next year, no date has been given for the completion of the whole project.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The divided highway, to the south of the present road, would be capable of carrying most of the traffic entering and leaving Pontiac to the east, the department reports.

★ ★ ★

The project ties in with the proposed widening of M218 to the west of Pontiac and the Telegraph-Orchard Lake road underpass, now under construction to eliminate traffic bottlenecks at the western Pontiac city limits.

Court to Hear Appeals on GI

Hearing Slated July 8 After Brownell Pleads for Fast Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has postponed vacation plans to hear arguments July 8 on whether Army Specialist 3. C. William S. Girard should be turned over to the Japanese to face trial for manslaughter.

The high court acted late yesterday on a plea by Atty. Gen. Brownell that fast action was needed because "further delay will seriously aggravate an already unfortunate strain on United States-Japanese relations."

Girard, of Ottawa, Ill., is accused in the firing range death last January of a Japanese woman who was scavenging for scrap metal. She was fatally wounded by an empty cartridge case fired from a grenade launcher. Girard has said the death was an accident.

U. S. authorities stirred up a storm of controversy in Congress and elsewhere when they agreed to turn Girard over to the Japanese for trial. Lawyers for Girard took the matter to the U. S. District Court which ruled Girard's constitutional rights would be violated if he were handed over to the Japanese.

★ ★ ★

Brownell then appealed to the Supreme Court.

★ ★ ★

The Supreme Court allotted four hours for arguments by both sides. Members of the high court originally had planned to start the summer vacation after sitting next Monday.

Hell's Canyon Dam Approved by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversial Hells Canyon Dam bill, passed by the Senate yesterday, was headed today for the house and an uncertain fate.

The Senate voted 45-38 to authorize a high federal dam which would flood the sites of three proposed private utility dams in the Hells Canyon area of the Snake River, bordering Idaho and Oregon.

It was a dramatic victory for public power advocates and a smarting defeat for the Eisenhower Administration, which favors the three-dam plan of the Idaho Power Co.

If the bill should pass the House, it is considered likely President Eisenhower would veto it. His administration consistently has encouraged private construction of dams which are not too big for private industry to handle.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), a leading opponent of the measure, said he would make no prediction but he had a "strong belief" Hells Canyon "would never become law." He said the President in the past had taken a "strong stand" against the Hells Canyon bills.

White House pressure and the desertion of some Southern Democrats were blamed for Senate rejection of similar legislation last year, 51-41.

Yesterday, five Southern Democrats and two Republicans who had voted against last year's bill switched over to vote for legislation co-sponsored by 28 senators.

CLAIMS 'SELL OUT'

Soon after the announcement of the vote, which evoked cheers and applause from crowded Senate galleries, Sen. Potter (R-Mich) accused four Northern and Western Democrats of having "sold out" the civil rights bill to win Southern Democratic votes for Hells Canyon.

"As far as I'm concerned," Potter told a newsman, "civil rights was just traded for Hells Canyon."

He said four Democratic sponsors of Hells Canyon voted with Southerners Thursday in an unsuccessful attempt to send the House-approved civil rights measure to the Senate judiciary committee: Morse (Ore), Murray (Mont), Kennedy (Mass) and Magnuson (Wash).

Southfield Asks Incorporation

Township to Seek Split Into City-Village Status at Supervisors' Meeting

The Board of Supervisors will be asked Monday to act on petitions for the incorporation of Southfield Township.

★ ★ ★

The southern part of the township wants to become Southfield City. The northern part is asking to be designated as Westwood Village.

The supervisors' Boundaries Committee reviewed the petitions yesterday and is expected to recommend Sept. 16 as the date for special elections in both areas.

Supervisors also are expected to hear a proposal that Oakland County come under the new state law providing for county departments of public works with powers over sewage disposal and water supply projects.

It is expected that the Ways and Means Committee will seek approval of a $58,000 expenditure from appropriated funds for a survey of a proposed water pipeline from Lake Huron to the North Oakland and North Macomb County areas.

A public hearing will be held on the proposed annexation to Holly Village of about 200 acres in Holly and Rose Townships east of the village and south of M37.

Liquor Sales Up as Buyers Rush to Beat New Tax

LANSING (AP)—The state Liquor Control Commission yesterday ordered 150,000 cases of liquor to try to keep up with the demand of consumers seeking to beat a new state tax.

★ ★ ★

The tax, a four per cent excise levy, goes into effect about July 1, depending on when Gov. G. Mennen Williams signs the 1957-58 school aid bill. The tax is one of the provisions of the bill.

"We are having Christmas business in June," said Chairman Frank Blackford, describing the flurry of whisky buying. "All over the state, licensees are tripling their regular purchases," he said.

The chairman told of an order for 250 cases by one licensee who usually buys 10 to 15 cases a week.

Turner in Prison When Barbara Died

Attempts to link confessed killer Lawrence R. Turner to the sex-slaying of 7-year-old Barbara Gaca have failed. Barbara's body was found in a West Bloomfield Township dump March 31, 1955. Turner was then in Jackson Prison serving a 15 to 20 year sentence for rape. He was not released until Dec. 24, 1956.

Teen Left Out of Bill

★ ★ ★

For Bruce it marked the culmination of a determined 15 year fight to acquire an education in the face of overwhelming odds that would have discouraged many youths.

Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Powell, 282 N. Johnson Ave., met his first obstacle when he was 6.

In between these visits, Bruce continued his studies and schooling. He completed his junior high school education at Eastern and in January, 1953, at the age of 15, entered Pontiac High School.

But unable to stop him in one way, disease struck again when in April, 1953, he contracted tuberculosis. He was forced to leave school and enter the sanitorium.

Still Bruce fought on. With the aid of John Macomb, a special education teacher from Waterford Township High School, the youth continued his school work in the sanitorium for 22 months until he was discharged.

He re-entered Pontiac High on Jan. 31, 1955 and events finally seemed to go well. He excelled in vocal music and made the choir.

Then less than one year later, the disease flared up again, and Bruce retraced his steps to the TB sanitorium.

Again Macomb assisted him and he continued earning credits toward his high school diploma.

★ ★ ★

With his diploma in hand, Bruce has another ambition—becoming a doctor.

★ ★ ★

He plans to continue earning credits toward medical school through a correspondence course until he is discharged as cured and can enter the Carnegie Institute in Boston.

★ ★ ★

There are none who know him who doubt he will succeed.

MOUNT CLEMENS (INS) — Police say the brother-in-law of Floyd and Anna Thorpe has confessed getting at least $5,750 of the estimated $75,000 the couple is accused of stealing from the state.

Richard Radwill, 28, also has confessed, police said, he helped carry the stolen money to Mexico by taping $37,500 to his chest.

The Thorpes are charged with embezzling the money from the St. Clair Shores branch of the Secretary of State's office, which Mrs. Thorpe managed when they fled in March, 1956.

The couple was arrested recently in Corpus Christi, Tex., and returned to Michigan.

Diplomat's Girl to Return Home

Senate Page Boy Makes New Attempt to Elope With Swede's Daughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blonde Christina Wennerstrom, 16-year-old daughter of a Swedish diplomat, apparently was preparing to leave for Sweden today—without the Senate page she tried to marry.

★ ★ ★

The girl returned here Thursday from an 18-day trip with her young boy friend, Huw Williams, 18, who lost his job as a Senate page because of his long absence.

The two had planned to marry, but were unable to get a license because of their youth.

There were reports the girl and her mother, Mrs. Stig Wennerstrom, had booked passage today aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane leaving New York. But an airline spokesman said later the reservations were canceled when the news got out.

★ ★ ★

Early yesterday, police chased young Huw away from the house where Mrs. Wennerstrom and Christina have been staying.

Huw said in an interview:

"Over the phone, I arranged with Christina to run away again at 4 in the morning (Friday morning).

★ ★ ★

"I was there in front of her house with a friend of mine. Then all the lights went on."

Huw said he left after the police came out of the house.

Col. Wennerstrom was recalled home earlier this month for reassignment. He had been attached to the Swedish embassy here.

Dairy Cows Produce

Can an airline passenger tell if he is suffering from a lack of oxygen—if the aircraft's pressurized cabin fails to function properly?

★ ★ ★

Yes, there are several tests which will reveal anoxia. The best one is to look at the color of your fingernails. Normally the nails will have a pinkish hue when your body has a plentiful supply of oxygen. But if the supply is inadequate they will turn a bluish color.

★ ★ ★

If you ever notice they are turning purple, you are in for trouble, and should do something about it without delay. Ordinarily, you are not aware of a lack of oxygen unless you make some foolproof check. You cannot rely on your sense of well being, for often persons suffering from anoxia feel fine, and think they possess their full faculties.

★ ★ ★

Try writing you name on a piece of paper if you are in doubt. If the signature is weak or scratchy, and your letters not smooth, you are in need of oxygen. Flying in private planes above 10,000 feet should be done only when necessary and not for a long period and not at an altitude very much higher than 10,000.

Waterford's Police Chief Bows Out After 4 Years

When Police Chief Frank Van Atta walked out of the Waterford Township police station at 5 p.m. yesterday, he closed the door on four years of service in Waterford.

Van Atta, along with four patrolmen, was dismissed by the township board to reduce expenses.

In a statement to The Pontiac Press, Van Atta said, "I tried to serve the people of Waterford Township to the best of my ability and establish a well-respected police department."

Each officer was required to complete an extensive training course at the police chief's school, Royal Oak, in order to qualify as a member of the local department, Van Atta said.

NOT POSSIBLE

He continued, "Due to the amount of work required of the recently reduced force, it has been impossible to do the kind of police work which should be done here."

Records in the police station show that Van Atta and his force worked day and night in an effort to keep law and order in the township.

Accidents were reduced, delinquency and vandalism were at a minimum.

WORKED WITH YOUTH

Van Atta rarely missed a football or basketball game and liked being with the teenagers, he said in pointing out that his force had tried to win the respect and cooperation of the youth.

He said, "I have especially enjoyed working with the youth of the township, and I will regret losing personal contact with them."

Three of the four patrolmen dismissed with the chief, Merrille Finkle, Elmer Rodgers and Creighton Kerr, are seeking jobs with other township police departments.

Ernest Mann, the fourth, starts with the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. tonight.

Asked what his plans were, "Van" said, "You know—I haven't had a decent vacation in 10 years and that is the first thing I am going to do now."

Build a Special Steel Fairyland

30 Steelworkers Give 20,000 Man Hours to Serve Mentally Ill

NEW YORK—The world's finest fairyland playground and park with facilities for those who will never grow up — mentally—will be ready for full-scale use this summer at the entrance to the Utah State Training School at American Fork, 25 miles from Salt Lake City.

The six and one-half acre playground and park, dotted with familiar nursery book characters and a real train with 2,500 feet of track, is the brainchild of Dr. Vernon F. Houston, superintendent of the training school, who believed "his kids" had a "right to happiness" even though "they may be an economic loss to society."

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, said Dr. Houston's hope was translated into reality by 30 volunteer workers from a nearby steel mill who donated 20,000 man hours and talent to the construction of the unique playground aided by plant equipment loaned by the steel company.

The publication said that the state allocated $20,000 for supplies and additional funds were contributed by parents and civic groups. In fact, last Christmas the workers in various steel plant departments collected over $800 for the cause.

Dr. Houston and his construction crew cherish a hope that others will come to see the park, let their children use it and thus grasp more fully the problems of the mentally retarded, only part of whom carry the burden of family heredity.

Youngsters Enter Burning Home to Save Brothers

Two Rose Township youngsters discovered a fire in their home on School Lot Lake yesterday afternoon and rushed into the burning house to save their two younger brothers.

A fire broke out shortly after 1 p.m. in the utility room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shinn, 9980 School Lot Lake Rd., while they were away. Two of their children, David, 13, and Arlene, 11, were playing nearby when they saw flames coming from the rear of the home.

They ran into the burning structure, carrying their younger brothers, Gary, 7, and Kevin, 4, to safety.

The Holly Fire Department answered the call and put out the blaze, but not before extensive damage to the interior, according to Oakland County sheriff reports.

Mary's Neighbor Confesses Slaying

Cochill said Turner was picked up originally because of his record and because he lived only four doors from the de Caussin residence.

In his statement to O'Brien, Turner said Mary came into the market not far from her home in the late afternoon of the day she disappeared. He said she fell, struck her head, and knocked herself unconscious.

★ ★ ★

Frightened that he would be accused of murder because of his record, he said, he tied her hands, put her in a potato sack and later that night took the body to the secluded area where it was found. He said he removed part of the girl's clothing and slashed her before leaving. Turner denied raping or attempting to rape the little girl, O'Brien said. A post mortem showed she had been raped.

TIED VICTIM

Cochill said Turner had tied the hands and feet of the mother of five he raped in Detroit in 1941.

Relay teams of police have been working on the case since the child's body was found.

★ ★ ★

De Caussin and his wife, Gerry, 30, have three other children, all younger than Mary.

Police said Turner had a record dating to when he was 14 years old. It shows he was once married but was divorced in 1943.

The girl's father, who last week in a letter to the Detroit Free Press appealed to the slayer to turn himself in and get the medical and spiritual aid "you so desperately need," said yesterday: "There is no change in my attitude from the first statement I made. I can't hate him even now."

Shunned $2 Bills Are Still Around

Desirability for Racing, Payrolls Has Brought Increasing Use

NEW YORK — Although they are often refused as payment, sometimes ripped at the corners on purpose, and even shunned occasionally as bad - luck omens, $2 dollar bills are perfectly legal money. At the end of 1956, 39,000,000 were in circulation — an increase of 3,500,000 since 1953.

According to an article in "The Better Way" section in a recent issue of a national magazine, the first $2 bills were issued in 1862. The Treasury Department reasoned that $2 was a better bridge between the 50-cent piece and the $5 bill than the $1 bill.

There are more twos in the Boston area than in any other region. The Federal Reserve Bank there has obtained more $2 bills than the other 11 Federal Reserve districts combined.

Some Boston bankers feel this is due chiefly to Boston payroll clerks who sometimes use them to simplify payrolls. The $2 note is traditionally popular among race track fans, who find it handy for the $2 minimum bet.

One Federal Reserve bank reported an increase of $150,000 in demand for twos during the first month of the 1957 racing season and expects a further increase as the season continues.

While counterfeit two's themselves are rare, sometimes, overseas, the $2 bill turns up as a bogus $100 bill, bearing the wrong portrait. In order to retain the special paper used in U.S. currency, some counterfeiters take a good $2 bill and raise it to a higher denomination by changing almost everything on it except its portrait of Jefferson.

They hope that since neither the $2 nor the $100 note is widely circulated aboard, most foreigners will not recognize that the false $100 bill pictures Jefferson instead of Benjamin Franklin, as do the authentic ones.

Knowland's Daughter Married in California

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Sen. William F. Knowland's daughter, 19-year-old Helen Estelle, married Robert Sickle McKeen, late today in a ceremony at the Piedmont home of the bride's grandfather, publisher Joseph R. Knowland of the Oakland Tribune.

McKeen is the son of Edwin Everett McKeen, a U. S. Steel executive. The bridal party consists of six bridesmaids, two train bearers, a flower girl and nine ushers.

GM TO SELL ENGLISH CAR HERE — General Motors' new Vauxhill Victor, manufactured in England, will go on sale for the first time in the United States in September along with GM's Opel Rekord, manufactured in Germany. The four-passenger Victor pictured here includes such American style features as panoramic windshield and new-type rear window, but retains basic European styling. It is powered by an economical four-cylinder engine. The Victor will be available for distribution by Pontiac dealers and the Rekord by Buick dealers.

The Day in Birmingham

Parents Asked to Assist Railroad Officials, Police

BIRMINGHAM—Det. Sgt. Robert Schaule, juvenile officer of the Birmingham Police Dept., today asked parents to assist police and Grand Trunk officials to restrict children from playing on or by the railroad tracks.

Schaule said the department has received a number of such reports within the past few days.

"It's hard for us to catch the youngsters at it," he said, "so in most cases, parents are not informed of individual incidents.

"Earlier this week a railroad executive informed our department of a near tragedy. He told us a small boy was crossing in front of an approaching diesel engine when he fell. The boy managed to scramble out of the way but it was close."

Schaule said parents are being asked to meet with him and young offenders whenever children are identified.

"We want to point out in particular the small clearance for trains on the overhead crossing and by the station," Schaule concluded.

"A child caught there would have a very slim chance of escaping death or a crippling accident."

Traffic engineer T. M. Vanderstemple has reported he sees no need for the installation of a traffic light at the Brown-Pierce streets intersection.

★ ★ ★

He told commissioners that Brown street passes minimum warrants for a light for only two hours a day. He predicted, however, that traffic will probably reach stop light volume within two years.

Traffic control measures are slated for the Adams Village subdivision, Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley has reported.

Residents of the area, once known as the "Perritt Property," asked that measures be taken for some control. Moxley said Bowers street would remain as a through non-stop street with yield right-of-way signs being placed at the Haynes and Hazel street crossings.

An additional traffic aid will be the ban placed on commercial vehicles cutting through the area bounded on the east and west by Adams and Eton roads.

Officers have been elected for the Bloomfield Hills Camera Club at the Institute of Science at Cranbrook. They are: James MacDonald, president; William McNeil, Berkley, vice president; Mrs. Eugene Newton, Oak Park, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Kent MacIntyre, Bloomfield Hills, treasurer, and Mrs. Mary Hixon, Rochester, recording secretary and publicity.

Plane Crashes in Yard, 3 Die

CLARKSBURG, Md. (AP)—A Capital Airlines plane on a training flight crashed today into the back yard of a rural bungalow here. The three men aboard were killed but the homeowner dodged the falling craft by running "in crazy circles."

★ ★ ★

The twin-engine DC3 fell in the yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Anderson, coming to rest only 15 feet from the back porch of their home.

★ ★ ★

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Norwood, a next door neighbor of the Anderson's, also saw the plane roaring downward and ran into the house screaming: "Mother, a plane is after me."

The child was still hysterical two hours after the crash.

Anderson was in the back yard at the time of the crash and said he went "in crazy circles" in an effort to dodge the plummeting plane.

His wife and three children—Wayne, 9; Larry, 5, and Sharon 2 — were in the house when the plane hit and were not hurt.

Some oil from the plane splattered on the house but the home was not damaged. Eyewitnesses said there was no fire.

The wreckage smashed squarely on one of Anderson's cars and also damaged another car. Anderson said he finally dodged behind the second car when the plane hit.

Anderson said he first noticed the plane diving quite steeply toward his back yard with its motors "at what seemed to be an idle."

"When it got close," he said, "and I thought it was going to hit, the pilot pushed on the power, the motors roared up, and the plane did a complete loop.

"At the top of the loop it started to stagger again and then came down in spirals."

★ ★ ★

Capital Airlines said the three employes killed in the crash were Capt. C. R. Burke of 318 Spring Lake Ter., Fairfax, Va.; R. K. Thomas, Chicago, and H. A. Podgurski, Pittsburgh (local addresses not available).

Sick Man Spends 78th Anniversary With His Wife

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — No hospital bed could keep John D. Adams, 99, blind and incurably ill with cancer, from spending his wedding anniversary at home with his wife. It was their 78th.

When an ambulance brought Adams home Thursday Mrs. Adams was awaiting for him on the porch, wearing her prettiest dress.

"Bless your year, mama, bless you heart," Adams said tearfully as he reached up from the stretcher and embraced his wife, also 99.

She said nothing. But she covered his face with kisses and for several minutes they clung together.

Though blind for several years, Adams was active until recent weeks. He was in the hospital about two weeks.

French Premier Gambles on Taxes

PARIS (AP) — Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury today placed the fate of his fledgling cabinet on parliamentary approval of an austerity taxation program.

The 42-year-old premier, whose government took office only 10 days ago, demanded the adoption of a slightly amended version of his original tax economy bill as an issue of confidence. His move automatically shut off debate except for pre-vote statements.

The vote was set for Monday afternoon. Defeat would throw Bourges-Maunoury out of office and plunge France back into a grave political crisis. Indications were that the decision will be a close one.

No Bill for Benny, Rules Doctors' Group

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP)—The mediation committee of the Suffolk County Medical Society decided today — and Dr. Joseph H. Kris agreed — that no bill is to be paid by the parents of 7-year-old Benny Hooper Jr. for his rescue from a well at Manorville.

After a three-hour hearing the committee handed down a statement which upheld the right of "any doctor to render a bill" but said that Dr. Kris, who had first presented a $1,500 bill to the Hoopers, had "determined the amount of his charge while under the mistaken impression that a considerable sum of money earmarked for medical purposes had been received by the Hooper family."

Whooping Crane Family Reunited After Squabble

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The world's most widely celebrated whooping crane family was back together in Audubon Peak Zoo today after a brief squabble.

Baby No. 1, hatched three days before baby No. 2 last month, was put in a separate cage last week to keep it away from attacks by the larger and more fully developed chick.

But it apparently became homesick. So it was reunited with its brother, or sister — which hasn't been determined as yet — and its parents, Jo and Cripp.

Zoo officials said rough play is natural among baby whoopers, but the more aggressive No. 2 was threatening the safety of the smaller bird with rushes and pecking and they didn't want to take any unnecessary chances.

Baby No. 2 settled down and accepted the return of the other shortly after one slight encounter which sent the smaller chick sprawling.

Shirley Temple's Movies Coming to TV in Package

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Shirley Temple's old Fox films are headed for TV in one packet with a toy company sponsor. . .

Joan Caulfield's husband, Frank Ross, owns Joan's TV series "Sally"—due on NBC-TV opposite Jack Benny's Sunday punches starting Sept. 22—100 per cent. . . Ross wrote the original, financed its pilot film himself, then lugged it to Radio City and sold it personally. . .

MOSTLY MARTHA

Martha Raye's "Baby Snooks" will be 20 per cent Snooks, 80 per cent Martha. . .

Greer Garson signed to guest star in a "Father Knows Best" chapter.

Carla Albreghetti, sister of Anna Maria, will use another last name when she tries TV on her own. . .

Odd, for years it was accepted that quizzes and panels and interviews would disappear when enough TV stations and sets were in use to justify expensive comedy shows—and now that TV can afford the best comedians, the public rejects them, and remains loyal to panels, etc. . .

Dream of Fire Sends Sleeper Through Window

Sleep may enhance one's health and alertness, but Leo Stubbelfield, 37, who has been living in a trailer at 8820 Davisburg Rd., Springfield Township, today reflects on certain hazards incident to dreams.

Stubbelfield, a contractor, is in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today with severe cuts and multiple abrasions of the arms after jumping through one of the trailer's windows shortly after 3 a.m. this morning.

He told Oakland County deputies and state troopers that he had been dreaming that someone locked the doors to the trailer and set it on fire. He evidently got up in his sleep and hurled his body out through a window.

Stubbelfield ran to the house of a neighbor, who drove him to the hospital. He is listed by the hospital as being in "fair" condition.

Storm on the Lakes

Nature's fury is awe inspiring and unpredictable.

Those who live on the seashore, or on the shores of the Great Lakes, frequently have this fact impressed upon them. A large body of water quickly reflects nature's power.

The sun may be shining ever so serenely, with only a few thunderheads up there in the northwest. Then distant thunder is heard. It draws closer. The clouds race across the sky. They blot out the sun with startling swiftness.

The wind rises within a few moments until tall trees are bent before it. Out on the water serenity has given way to action. White caps dot the rising waves. In roars the surf, breaking over sandbars and rolling up onto the beach until even the fury of the biggest waves is spent.

Down comes the rain. The thunder roars and the lightning cracks. The wind whistles through the trees. The clouds by this time have blotted out the sun until it is almost dark as night.

After a time, as swiftly as it came, the storm subsides. Away to the northeast the sky begins to lighten. The whitecaps disappear. The waves grow smaller. The wind dies to a whisper.

Over in the eastern sky a rainbow appears briefly, making a huge and brilliant arch which comes back down to the water again far away to the southeast. The rainbow is the sign of God's promise that though storms may come, water never again shall cover the earth.

The storm is over. Nature is at peace again. But all who have witnessed its fury remember it. No man can face the fully unleashed power of the elements without gaining increased respect for the Creator of the universe.

St. Lawrence Power

Development of electric power on the St. Lawrence Seaway near Massena, N.Y. already has brought vast changes to that area.

Last week ground was broken for an $88 million plant for the Reynolds Metal Co. to produce aluminum. Nearby the Chevrolet Division of General Motors is building a $15 million foundry to cast the aluminum into parts for automobiles.

Availability of hydroelectric power attracts industry and thereby develops the surrounding area and provides employment. This has resulted in the building of new homes, shopping centers, motels, service stations and many other enterprises since construction started in 1954 in that sparsely settled section of northern New York.

Power from the Massena installation will be available by 1958. Some of it will be sent to Vermont. Eventually it will be hooked up with lines from the proposed Niagara development to serve an area as far away as Pennsylvania.

★ ★ ★

The vast Seaway development stirs the imagination. Whole towns have been moved on the Ontario side and their sites are now under water. With redirection of the flow of the St. Lawrence, scenic Longue Saulte Rapids have disappeared forever.

Man's ingenuity is transforming the seaway construction and power projects into enduring prosperity and benefits for all.

Tigers Are Living Up to Advance Predictions

During the long, cold months of the winter stove league, there was a lot of conversation about the Detroit Tigers and what they would do in the 1957 season.

Many times predictions made in the winter months look silly indeed when they are recalled in the light of mid-June facts and standings. But this year the Tigers are living up to expectations.

Needless to say, some of the details have to be juggled a bit. Some of the young pitchers who were standouts in the latter portion of the 1956 season have had difficulty in getting started down the winning trail this spring.

Some of the hitters who were carrying the brunt of the offense last year have someway not quite hit their stride.

But others have stepped into the breech. Added experience, and perhaps a better and more aggressive spirit too, have provided a spark which has carried the Tigers up into third place in these late June days.

★ ★ ★

Injuries were one of the bugaboos much feared by the forecasters, in view of the Tigers' seemingly weak bench. Yet the club has had its share of injuries and somehow has managed to come back each time with substitutes who have done an acceptable job.

★ ★ ★

Few fans would be so rash as to expect Detroit to win the American League pennant this year. But the Tigers' showing this season is sufficient to instill the hope that a little more experience, and perhaps one or two new faces, may be all that is needed to put them at the top of the heap by 1958.

The People's Business

Salary Situation

Pay Inequities Make State Posts Difficult to Fill

By ROGER LANE

LANSING — The case of J. E. Griffin, until this week acting director of civil defense, points up once more a topsy-turvy situation in state salaries.

★ ★ ★

After a 16-month search, Gov. Williams filled the position Griffin had been occupying on a temporary basis by appointing a man who could afford to take the job because he is receiving a State Police pension.

The new director, Ralph M. Sheehan of Marquette, retired from the police force last year after 25 years of service. His civil defense salary will be $8,000.

Griffin as a civil service employe is receiving $11,275 a year, and on July 7 when a general pay increase goes into effect for classified employes, his pay will jump to $12,235.

★ ★ ★

He wanted no part of the appointment, which would have entailed so sharp a pay cut. In fact, Griffin feels that he can do better than his immediate prospects, and for months has been negotiating for a more attractive position in private life.

STATE OF PARALYSIS

The confusion that has all but reduced the state public service commission to a state of paralysis—with important cases pending—is in large part an outgrowth of low salaries.

★ ★ ★

James H. Lee, now holding the fort virtually alone, accepted his $8,500 appointment in the first place, because he, too, could supplement his state salary from a pension.

The position of state banking commissioner, vitally important to proper supervision of the state's financial institutions, and the job of state insurance commissioner increasingly in recent years have tended to be filled from the ranks of the retired.

Sheehan's two permanent predecessors were men on pensions.

Gov. Williams says he has been more and more obliged to pick key appointees from three talent pools: 1) The very capable young people "who are on their way up; 2) the retired, or retiring; and 3) those who can afford financial sacrifice because of their personal income."

These categories rule out a lot of territory in the selection of talent to run a government that fast is becoming a one billion dollar a year operation.

Days of All Faiths:

Honor John the Baptist on Monday

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday is the birthday of John the Baptist, one of the three birthdays in the Christian calendar. (The other two are Christmas and the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Sept. 8).

John's birth was a great event in the history of the world, for it announced to mankind that redemption was near. He was sent "before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways" (Luke, chapter 1, verse 76). Moreover, it was a miraculous event. St. Luke tells how the angel appeared to Zacharias the priest and told him Elizabeth, his wife, who was well past the age of childbearing, would present him with a son.

Although John is known as the "Baptist," his baptism was not the Christian sacrament now practiced by the Church. Indeed it could not have been, for John was never a Christian and the Church was not in existence until after his death.

It was simply a "baptism of repentance," designed not as a ceremony of admission into any group or sect but only as a symbol of renunciation of sin. It was not always so understood, however. In the city of Ephesus St. Paul found people who thought they were Christians because John had baptized them. (See Acts, chapter 19, verses 1 to 6).

John was the last of the great Jewish prophets and, as Jesus said of him, "much more than a prophet." He is, of course, the patron saint of missionaries, because he went out to prepare the way of the Lord.

PONTIUS PILATE

There are many legends about Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor who ordered the execution of Jesus of Nazareth. One story, cherished by the Abyssinian church, is that Pilate and his wife, Procla, became Christians and died peaceably in the faith. In the Abyssinian calendar he is St. Pontius Pilate and as such is honored Tuesday.

This is not entirely out of line with the spirit of the New Testament writers. None of them goes so far as to suggest that Pilate was a saint, but they are all remarkably lenient with him, treating him with dignity and no ill-feeling. They seem to say he was a man in a difficult position, acting honestly according to his best judgment.

Pilate became Procurator (governor) of Judea in 26 A.D. and continued there for ten years. The Crucifixion took place about the middle of his tenure. He was called back to Rome to appear before the Emperor Tiberius Caesar in answer to some sort of charges, but the Emperor died before he arrived. No one really knows what happened to Pilate after that.

Here is an old English legend about St. Peter, whose memory Christians honor Saturday, June 29. Westminister Abbey in London is dedicated to St. Peter, though not many people are aware of it. The story is that about dusk on the day before the dedication a fisherman on the Thames heard a man's voice from the shore opposite the new church. The stranger promised the fisherman, if he would row him across to the church, he would receive a rich reward.

The poor man, whose luck had been bad for some days, was much in need of any reward he could get, so he accepted the job. Reaching the shore, he was commanded to wait, while his passenger went into the church.

Suddenly the church was brilliantly lighted and the terrified fisherman saw a ladder of light extending from heaven to the abbey, with angels descending, accompanied by celestial music. Finally the lights went out, ladder and angels disappeared, and the stranger returned, now with a halo about his head.

The fisherman, of course, fell to his knees. His passenger said, "Fear not, I am Peter and I am come to consecrate this church." Thus did the saint himself hallow the great abbey men had built to honor his name.

The reward was typical of St. Peter. He told the man to cast his net in the water, and when it was withdrawn, it brought up a tremendous haul of salmon.

Country Parson

"I'm vain enough to enjoy compliments—but I'd rather you'd understand me than admire me."

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Peaked Teenager Secretly on Diet?

"Fourteen - year - old daughter's shoulders slant, her face is peaked, and she stoops and is always tired. She drinks a quart of milk a day and eats no dessert. I can't understand it!" (Mrs. N. W.)

DR. BRADY

Answer — I can't either. You mean she declines to eat dessert? She wouldn't be nutty about keeping slender as the holy frights in the movies, would she? . .

"This makes the fifth copy of the CVD book I have sent for. I loan them out and never see them again. But that's all right. Just reading the book has seemed to work miracles on angina and mild coronary cases . . .(C. T.)

Answer — Clip this and send it to me next time you need a new copy — I'll send you three copies with my good wishes. The CVD booklet deals with heart and artery troubles. For the latest edition, send 35c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"My sister gives her 5-year-old son paregoric whenever he has a pain or ache. I tell her the pain might be appendicitis, and she says I'm old-fashioned. She has had college training and I have not" . . . (A.M.C.)

Answer — Evidently your sister's education didn't take. Paregoric is camphorated tincture of opium. Maybe it will satisfy the child's craving for a while, but later he'll demand straight tincture of opium (laudanum) and eventually heroin or morphine.

"Please find inclosed 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Last Brady Symphony to try on my metabolism. My husband will be forever grateful to you for introducing him to calcium. No more migraine." (Mrs. L. R.)

Answer — The "symphony," as this composer blushingly calls it, is a record of the words and music of setting-up exercises designed to keep sedentary folk from going flabby. One subject to periodic sick headaches (migraine) or frequent "nervous" headache would do well to send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Calcium Shortage, and at the same time ask for the pamphlet, Why Have Headache?

"Please don't discontinue your column in our paper. I would be lost, believe me. I imagine you have no idea how much we poor geeks love you . . ." (Mrs. DeJ. E.)

Answer — I never quit, ma'am. They have to fire me — and plenty of 'em do.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Equal Pay Hinders Clergymen

Dr. Goff shows the evils of communism among clerics. Why do our American churches thrive so well? Why is Uncle Sam so wealthy that he has become the Santa Claus of the world? It isn't primarily our greater supply of natural resources but our "Free Enterprise" philosophy! And Jesus believed in it, too!

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-318: Dr. Charles Ray Goff, aged about 58, is the famous pastor of Chicago's skyscraper church in the heart of the LOOP.

After I had finished teaching my Bible class there, following his sermon, he and I went downstairs to the church dining hall where we had Sunday dinner.

CRANE

Three cattlemen from Australia were present that day and we had a very pleasant visit with them.

Since Dr. Goff had recently toured their country, he commented on the very hospitable nature of Australians and the fine churches over there.

"But I have one objection to Australian churches," he added. "Your clergymen are hampered in being held to a common salary.

"This discourages good men, for they do not receive any greater pay than the inferior clergy.

★ ★ ★

"In America, however, we have a varying salary scale. So our clergy are stimulated to make more interesting sermons."

COMMUNISM IN PULPITS

This idea of leveling off the more talented by tying them to the mediocre, is a communistic doctrine.

It certainly doesn't belong in a "Free Enterprise" system like ours, though I have previously mentioned that many of our public schools have been seduced by this communistic doctrine in the past 25 years and thus refuse to give superior pupils any higher grades than the sluggish.

Even in the pulpits, too, you can likewise see the disastrous effects of such communism. Clergymen select their profession primarily because they wish to elevate the idealism of people.

Yet they are indirectly hamstrung in Australia when they find that they must all receive the same salary.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNISM

In the early days of the Christian church, communism was tried. And you may recall that Peter found it failed to work when Ananias and Sapphira refused to cooperate.

★ ★ ★

Despite the early Christians' personal contact with Jesus and even under the leadership of Peter, communism still could not succeed.

So it obviously cannot be a success in any less Christian environment, and especially in Russia with its atheistic outlook.

And the present Australian system of communizing the salary of the clergy is fettering their effectiveness.

Despite the pantywaists who abhor rivalry and American competition, there is no gainsaying that our competitive society gives more incentive to farmers and manufacturers, doctors and clergymen.

Progress is stifled and people grow indolent under a system that deprives the better worker of a greater reward than the sluggard.

Even athletics would lose its zest if two rival teams always had to settle for a tie score, though one outplayed the other in a ratio of 3 to 1.

In Russia, if it operated on the true communistic system, all their ball teams should add their combined scores and then divide equally.

"FREE ENTERPRISE"

The people who praise communism and abhor our competitive society should read their Bible more closely, as Luke 19: 16-19.

Then they'd see that Christ believed in specific numerical school marks and varying rates of pay.

For Jesus says the servant who ran a one-pound investment up to 10 pounds thus was given 10 cities to rule. But the man who raises his one-pound grubstake to 5 pounds, was made chief over only five cities.

Please notice that these men weren't given the same numerical reward. They were paid off on the basis of their different degrees of success, which is our American "Free Enterprise" philosophy.

It isn't our greater natural resources but that fertile philosophy which has made us run circles around Russia, as well as England and France.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

President of Camp Oakland Explains Financial Position

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

We appreciate the splendid pictures and article about Camp Oakland in Monday's Press. Your newspaper has always shown a highly commendable attitude toward humanitarian projects and the social problems of the community.

One reason Camp Oakland is about "$13,000 short" for the operation of the Summer Camp is that many of the organizations and clubs in the county have this year given substantial donations toward the building of a girls' home similar to Boys' Ranch, whereas in prior years they made their gifts to Summer Camps.

Another is this year the program will be longer by several weeks, will take care of more children and will have a more adequate and well-trained staff under the supervision of Michigan State University. It was necessary to increase the budget from $15,000 to about $20,000, but the increased good to the poor children of Oakland County will more than justify the extra cost.

Two Disagree About Smoking

I'm a young teenager who thinks smoking hinders the testimony of a Christian worker. What would worldly people think of a person who professes to be a Christian and has a cigarette hanging out of his mouth all of the time?

It is not easy to turn away the things of the world, especially for tennagers, but with the help of God we'll be able to overcome these evils.

One of God's Youths

Smoking is not a sin and neither is an alcoholic beverage, game of cards, dance, movie, bet on a horse. But there is a matter of abuse which turns legitimate entertainment into sin or the occasion of sin. As for desecrating the body with smoke or drink, then Christ did the same by changing water into wine and we have the Chief Steward's assurance it was the real McCoy.

How can we assume these things are sinful and yet tolerate the foul stench of moral decay that surrounds us. Are we telling God that immoral movies and literature, sex perversion, adultery, rape, murder and desecration of the Sabbath are just the by-product of an enlightened generation? To perfect the body by abstaining from cigarettes, drink and other forms of amusement is a highly commendable Christian attitude, if done for the glory of God, but let us keep His Commandments first.

City Hall Parking Disgusts Reader

I never had occasion to go to the new City Hall until last week. I hope I don't have to go again very soon. Rain was pouring down in torrents. At first approach I thought I was in luck as there seemed to be ample parking space. There was blocks of it, in fact, but it was all reserved for someone else. Many, many people weren't using it apparently, as the entire lot was almost empty.

Each space was carefully marked off with signs in front of each one and way back as far as possible from the entrance, there were a few, very few spaces where "15 minutes only" parking was allowed. I watched one disgusted citizen attempt to use an empty space, but was told to move on. He could not park in the sacred space.

So in order to pay a $3 dog tax, which took all of five minutes, I walked a block in a downpour so that all conveniences could be held for the people whose salaries we pay. But no thought for anyone else.

Teachers Reply to Other Letter

Dear Dumpy: At the risk of stooping to your level of ignorance by answering your question without knowing what prompts it, I'd like to ask how many married teachers you know who don't have to scrounge work in gas stations, factories, drug stores, etc., during the summer in order to support the wife and kids? And how many single teachers do you know who aren't laying out several hundred carefully saved dollars to take additional courses in summer school? I know of one teacher who's going to Europe this summer, and two others are taking the summer off. All are single and 60.

Teacher

★ ★ ★

How many teachers does Dumpy know that have enough money to loaf three months? I'd like to see how long Dumpy would last in a room of 35 to 40 youngsters. That three months away from the classroom is a necessary relief to keep each teacher's sanity. It's too bad it's necessary to work at another job all summer in order to provide food for the family table.

MRS. FRANCIS LOWELL ZELLERS

Nuptial Rite Solemnized at All Saints

Eileen Harmer and Francis L. Zellers Exchange Vows

All Saints Episcopal Church was the setting for the wedding of Eileen Lenore Harmer and Francis Lowell Zellers at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. C. George Widdifield performed the ceremony.

★ ★ ★

The former Miss Harmer is the daughter of the Harry Harmers of Monterey boulevard, and Francis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Zellers of Tobinsport, Ind.

The bride chose a ballerina-length gown of blush pink peau de soie. The gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline bordered with Alencon lace. She wore a hat and elbow-length veil to match and carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses centered by two phalaenopsis orchids.

Doris Oliver was maid of honor. She wore a gown of shaded green chiffon with a matching headpiece. Miss Oliver carried a basket of Johanna Hill roses and daisies. Mrs. Earl Foster, a cousin of the bride, was gowned like the honor attendant.

★ ★ ★

Francis asked his twin brother, Frank Lovell Zellers of Tell City, Ind., to serve as his best man. Ushers were Duane Rupp of Saginaw, Harry and Arthur Zellers of Tobinsport, Ind.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Shirley Ann Schoenfeld and Robert Edward Holcomb were married today. She is the daughter of Mrs. John B. Schoenfeld of Birmingham and the late Dr. Schoenfeld. Robert's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Holcomb of Birmingham.

Wings Are OK for Angels, but Not for You!

Fashions Spotlight the Back View

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For some time now the feminine back has been exposed to view in all sorts of clothes besides swimsuits. Many dresses for morning, afternoon and evening, outfits for all occasions are backless or practically so. It seems that clothes have gone as far down in front as possible and now are taking it out on the back.

These styles call for a flat back, without "wings." If you have allowed yourself to slump it will take constant thought and exercise on your part to improve the condition. If you are middle-aged or near it, more time will be required for your improvement than with much younger women.

The following is an effective exercise: Bend your elbows and raise your arms up in front of you, shoulder height. Fingers of the hands point toward one another but do not touch. Keep the arms in this position as you circle backward with the elbows. Pull as far back as you can. Do not let the head protrude forward.

Here is another one: Lie on the floor on your back with your arms extending straight out from the shoulder pits, palms toward the ceiling. The legs are straight. Lift the shoulders from the floor as you roll your head backward. Hands, hips and legs remain on the floor. Hold while you count to six or eight slowly. Return shoulders to the floor and head to normal position. Continue.

It really pays to correct defects in posture. The simplest, least expensive gown takes on an important air when your carriage is gallant, while the most expensive one loses its punch if your posture is poor.

If you have plenty of money it is a shame to waste good clothes on slumping posture. If your income is modest, you can't afford anything but the best in physical alignment.

If you would like to have my excises for round shoulders send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse!" No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of the Pontiac Press.

If you have allowed yourself to slump it will take constant thought and exercise on your part to improve your condition. This is effective: Lift the shoulders from the floor as you roll your head backward. Hold while you count to six or eight slowly.

Rule on 'Asking'

If a friend invites you to a large party and you have a houseguest you might ask if it would be all right to bring the guest. But if you are invited to a small party or to a sit-down meal, better decline the invitation. In such cases, an extra person might not fit into the group or might make one guest too many at the hostess' table.

A complicated coiffure can look hot and messy. Simple hairdos are recommended during summer.

When good looks are reinforced by brains, a woman chooses great simplicity in makeup and hairdo to look cool on the hottest day. Brushing to bring out the natural lustre of your hair is most important during hot weather.

Girl Dreads Visit With Boy's Folks

Asks How to Greet Her Fiance's Dad and Mother

BY EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to visit my fiance's family for the first time next week and I don't mind telling you that I am very nervous over this meeting and do so much want to make a good impression,

"They are socially prominent people and I am, so to speak, 'from the other side of the car tracks.' Will you please tell me what to say upon meeting my fiance's mother and father; also would it be proper for me to kiss his mother? Please, please, help me Mrs. Post."

Answer: You let them take the initiative and you adapt yourself to whatever they say and do. If his mother comes forward to kiss you, you be ready to be kissed, and if she holds out her hand you take it. But the first gesteure must come from them and you respond accordingly, and don't be hurt if they are formal.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My employer left on an extended trip recently and before he went away he came to my desk to say goodbye. There was an awkward moment of not knowing what to do about shaking hands. I thought he should have offered his hand, but he didn't.

"Will you please tell me if this was an error on my part? Ordinarily I know that a woman extends her hand to a man, but as this man is my business superior I hesitated to offer my hand."

Answer: You were quite right even though he may have expected you to offer your hand. It is better in a case of this kind to be over-reserved than assuming.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it considered bad manners for a man to sit at a lunch counter with his hat on? Would it make a difference if he were alone or with a woman companion?"

Answer: At a lunch counter where there is no convenient hat rack, a man wears his hat even when he is with a woman companion.

Confident Living

Gives Up Hate, Fear, Sin, and Disease Disappears

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Dr. Charles Mayo, of the famous Mayo Clinic, is reported to have said, "I have never known a man to die of overwork, but I have known many to die of doubt."

I know of one man who did indeed almost die of doubt. By the time he was 30, his doubts had nourished within him a mass of hate, fear and frustration. It was about then that he had developed pains in his joints. He went to a doctor. The doctor was brutally frank, perhaps to jolt his patient.

DR. PEALE

"Your pains," he said, "are now in the small joints. Soon they will be in the big joints, and presently you will get into a wheel chair and stay there."

The man thought of his wife, of his two children, and of the fact that he was only 30 years old. And here he was condemned to a wheel chair perhaps for life! He went from one doctor to another. They corroborated the diagnosis.

Finally, he accepted the grim verdict. He thought about his plight. He turned to prayer and prayed as though his life depended upon it, which actually it did. Insight came, as it always does from this manner of prayer. He asked his wife to sit down with him for a talk.

TALKED IT OVER

"Let us evaluate our situation," he said. "Let us add up our assets. What have we with which to resist this tragedy? First, basically I am a man of courage, and that will help me to attack my condition. Second, medicine is learning more and more about my disease, and thus we have the advantage of ever-increasing scientific knowledge.

"And, third, we have God. They say that God can and does heal. Now, the question is, can and will God heal me?"

He prayed. His wife prayed. But healing did not come. However, he kept thinking about this greatest of assets — God — for he knew it was an asset, even if he did not quite know why or how.

"What has God got with which to heal?" he asked himself again and again. An answer come to him and he said: "God has spiritual force, the most powerful force in all the world. This spiritual force can overcome anything; it can overthrow disease.

"Therefore, I must find and receive this spiritual force. I must do everything the Bible says I must do in order to get it. I must quit hating; I must quit fearing; I must quit my many sins. I will practice the Bible's teachings 100 per cent. I will get this spiritual force God has to give me."

It was a tough disciplinary program this sick man set for himself, but it was worth it. He worked at it, and never gave up, no matter what the discouragement.

Recently he wrote me: "I have just now been retired from my company after 40 years of hard work. And I have not been retired by reason of sickness, but because I have reached the retirement age. I have no pains in my joints. I have never had to use a wheel chair." Such was his succinct and factual report of a dramatic spiritual victory.

No doubt there are strictly scientific reasons for this healing and others like it. But it is also a fact that spiritual healing is not unscientific and it usually comes about in harmony with medical treatment.

But, whatever reason science finds, I think these three factors will loom large in spiritual healing: first, a strong and courageous personality; second, the assets of modern medical science; and third, but absolutely essential to any successful healing, spiritual force — the healing force of faith.

Sees Abdication of Church Roles

NEW YORK — "In succumbing to the hustle-bustle and professionalism of America's religious boom, the church and its clergy are abdicating their spiritual roles."

This is the view of the Very Reverend James A. Pike, Dean of the Cathedral of St. John in New York writing in a recent issue of a national magazine.

Lashing out at what he calls a "perversion of religion," Dean Pike claims that today a minister is expected to be a hydra-headed figure performing the roles of public relations director, educator, psychoanalyst and a general Mr. Fix-it. "He is not given the time to be a man of God — a scholar — or a saint."

The purpose of preaching, Dean Pike avows, "to comfort the afflicted, develop inner peace and nourish the spirit is being sorrily neglected."

RESULTS NOT COMMENSURATE

The Reverend points out that although the religious resurgence that has taken place in the past 15 years is admirable, the church unfortunately is not seeing results commensurate with such a growth — divorce rates continue to be high, juvenile delinquency is on the increase and aberrations such as homosexuality and dope addiction are alarmingly evident.

★ ★ ★

"Church membership is now so strong," states Dean Pike in the magazine article, "that if pitted against the evils of society it could be a destroying force. Unfortunately, the pressures and complex machinery of today's church have become far too much for most clergy."

Pontiac Student to Occupy Pulpit in Clarkston

The Rev. James Braid, a student at the Boston University School of graduate theology and an active member of Central Methodist Church, will be an assistant pastor of First Methodist Church, Clarkston, for the summer.

He will participate at both the 9:30 and 11 o'clock services tomorrow morning. Following the later service, a coffee hour and reception will be given in his honor.

First Methodist, under the leadership of the pastor, the Rev. William R. Richards, will begin a visitation which will include all of Independence Township.

During the month of July, the Rev. Mr. Braid will occupy the pulpit. In the fall when he returns to Boston, he will serve as assistant minister in a church near Boston.

Baldwin Ave. Methodist Given American Flag

Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls acted as honor guards. Present from the auxiliary were Mrs. Archie Tryon, Mrs. Lucie Wright and Mrs. Paul Boelter.

THE LAST BLOCK — The Rev. J. Allen Parker, (left to right) pastor, Leon Headley and Kenneth Schon, both of Oxford, placed the last cement block in the new Newman A. M. E. Church this week. Headley and Schon were employed to complete the masonry work of the building which was started in 1950.

Prospects Said Good for Uniting Lutheran Church

OMAHA (AP)—Prospects for merger of four Lutheran Church bodies into a church of approximately 3,000,000 members were described this week as "excellent" by officials attending the 98th annual synod of the Augustana Lutheran Church.

The joint commission on Lutheran unity reported "we have among us sufficient ground of agreement in the common confession of our faith, as witnessed by the Lutheran confessions, to justify further procedure in seeking for a basis for organic union of our churches."

Attending the meeting were representatives of the United Lutheran Church in America with a membership of 2,270,000; the Augustana Lutheran Church with 557,000 members, the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church of America or Suomi Synod, 35,000 members, and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church, 20,000 members.

Final action on the merger is not scheduled at the current Augustana Lutheran Church convention, but the convention will be asked to act on the joint commission report calling for continuation of efforts to bring about the merger.

Cement Block Completes Wall

Church Constructed on Pay as You Go Basis; Boys, Men Assist

★ ★ ★

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, pastor, assisted the two masons who were hired to complete the masonry.

The building, started in 1950, has been operated on a pay-as-you-go basis. Much of the work has been done by members.

Without the labor of the church men and boys, it is estimated that the cost of the church would have been $230,000 instead of $180,000, the Rev. Mr. Parker said.

The front windows will be installed immediately between the nine towering pillars.

★ ★ ★

The church plant will include a combination dining room and gymnasium, 108 x 52 feet, with locker rooms and showers; a kitchen, ladies' club room, men's club room, church office, pastor's study, nursery, offices and class rooms and the auditorium.

Polio Immunity Tested by Blood

Single Drop All That Is Needed in New Method Developed in New York

CARMEL, Calif. (AP)—A group of New York scientists have developed a simple test—requiring only one drop of blood—to show whether a child is immune to polio.

The blood sampling, described yesterday to the Society for Pediatric Research, is aimed at making it possible to find not only those children immune to polio but those whose polio immunity is wearing off.

Preliminary results were reported by Drs. Horace Hodes, Helen Zepp, Walter Henley and Ruther Berger of New York's Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Their method is based on the tendency of polio virus particles to crawl up a strip of moist filter paper and on the ability of immune blood serum to block that migration.

A strip of paper is marked off into 12 spaces and dipped into a solution containing polio virus. The blood serum to be tested is placed on spaces 3 and 4.

If the child is immune, the serum will completely block the migration of the virus particles beyond spaces 4 and 5.

But if the child is susceptible, the virus particles will continue to climb.

Security for You

Will or Not, His Widow Gets Payment

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

From O. P. C. of San Pedro, Calif.: "My father put instructions in his will that his children were to pay for his funeral expenses. His widow received the Social Security lump sum of $255 because she was living with him when he died. But, she didn't pay his burial costs. It was my understanding that the lump sum was to be paid to the person who paid the funeral expenses. Am I wrong?"

Yes. The lump sum goes to the person who pays the funeral expenses only in those cases in which there is no widow living with her husband at the time of death.

From Mrs. F. S. of Orlando, Fla.: "My 16-year-old daughter does a good deal of baby sitting for a number of neighbors. Are her employers supposed to be paying Social Security tax on the money they pay her?"

It depends. If an employer pays your daughter $50 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter, tax should be paid on the money. The Social Security offices have a special form (OASI-21) which aid employers in working out the details of paying tax for this kind of employment.

★ ★ ★

From G. N. of Lewiston, Maine: "I'm 54 years old and have serious heart trouble and high blood pressure. I worked under the Social Security system from 1937 until 1954 when I got sick. Do you think I'm eligible for Social Security payments now?"

★ ★ ★

From the details about your disability, it sounds as if you are. I suggest you immediately get in touch with the nearest Social Security office to find out how you apply.

From Mrs. T. A. of Columbia, Mo.: "My husband died six months ago after working for the railroad for 36 years. Why didn't I get a lump sum burial payment from Railroad Retirement?"

★ ★ ★

A lump sum burial payment isn't paid under the Railroad Retirement Act unless there are no survivors eligible to monthly annuities. You were eligible to get a widow's annuity on the first day of the month in which your husband died. Thus, you didn't get a lump sum payment.

Ice Cream Man Fast

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Phoenix Gazette printed this letter from 10-year-old Barbara Blake: "I think the ice cream man goes too fast. By the time I go get my money, he has passed my house. What I would do is have the ice cream man go slower, so we can have more time to get our money."

Small Craft Flounder

DETROIT (AP) — Small craft in the St. Clair River were washed onto shore yesterday as the luxurious cruise ship Aquarama whipped through the river at high speed in order to reach Detroit in time to pick up passengers for its first trip of the summer to Cleveland.

Coast Guard officials said they radioed the big ship to slow down after getting complaints from boat owners in Marysville and Port Huron that the Aquarama's wake was washing their small boats ashore.

The Aquarama made it to Detroit on time and left on the gala cruise to Cleveland with some 2,500 passengers aboard.

WEARY LITTLE LEAGUER — Decked out in baseball cap and holding all of her son's equipment, everything but home plate, Mrs. Mary O'Connell shows interest in a Miami, Fla., baseball clinic. Her son Danny (right) an 8-year-old Little Leaguer, who was used as a subject in the clinic, was left stranded on second base and he fell asleep there. So, Mom collected his catching paraphernalia and he sat down in the stands to continue his nap. Brother Tom (left) listens with interest at the clinic.

Card Rookie Blanks Brooks, 2-0; Chisox Can't Stop Yankee Surge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That's a pip of a four-game series the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox are having in the American League, but who needs 'em? Even Casey Stengel probably took time out today to read about Von McDaniel, the St. Louis Cardinals' whiz kid who leaves 'em blanked and blinking.

The 18-year-old righthander is just four weeks out of high school but hasn't given up a run yet in the majors. He stretched his shutout string to 17 innings last night, hanging the Dodgers up to dry with a two-hitter for a 2-0 victory in his first start as the Cards padded their National League lead to 1½ games.

To top it off, the 6-3 bonus kid, lured to the Cards from Hollis, Okla., by a $50,000 pact as was his brother, Lindy, in 1955, hasn't faced anyone but contenders in that hot NL race. He debuted in a one-hit, four-inning relief bit for no decision against Philadelphia last week. Then he won with a repeat four-inning, one-hit relief job at Brooklyn last Sunday.

Now he has a 2-0 record, giving up just four hits.

While the Cardinals were winning their fourth in a row last night, the second-place Milwaukee Braves were dumped to their fifth defeat in six games, losing to Philadelphia 6-1. The Phils moved into third place, two games back, as Cincinnati slipped to fourth with a 3-2, 11-inning loss to Pittsburgh. The Redlegs are 2½ behind. Fifth-place Brooklyn is 3½ back.

The New York Giants out-walloped the Chicago Cubs 12-10 in 10 innings for their eighth victory in 10 games in the other NL game.

In the AL, the Yankees made it eight in a row and whittled the White Sox' lead to a half game with a 4-2 victory. Chuck Stobbs, who had lost 16 in a row, beat Cleveland 6-3 as Washington backed him up with hitting and good luck charms. Boston beat Kansas City 4-3. Detroit lost its fourth in a row, 6-5, at Baltimore.

★ ★ ★

The Yankees took their opener of the showdown set with the White Sox as Johnny Kucks won his fourth with the help of a neat three-inning mopup job by Bob Grim, who gave one hit and struck out five. Enos Slaughter, Bobby Richardson and Mickey Mantle each had two hits in an eight-hit attack against righthander Jim Wilson, who lost his fourth, third to the Yanks. Kucks squeezed home one and Richardson singled in another as New Yor broke a 1-all tie with two runs in the fourth.

★ ★ ★

The Senators handed out rabbits' feet and lucky coins to the fans in the mass assault on Stobbs' slump, which stretched back through five 1956 decisions. The veteran lefty, who had lost to every club but Cleveland this season, struck out seven while giving the Indians eight hits. Art Schult chipped in with his first major league home run as the Nats scored three in the third to bag it and hand Don Mossi his first defeat.

Pa McDaniel Quite Happy

HOLLIS, Okla. (AP) — While St. Louis Cardinal bonus pitcher Von McDaniel was shutting out the Brooklyn Dodgers with two hits last night in his first major league start, his younger brother was knocked from the box in a Little League game.

Thirteen-year-old Jerry Don McDaniel, a southpaw, explained with a grin: "Guess I was just too excited."

After he was shelled for several hits, Jerry spent the rest of the time listening to the Dodgers-Cardinal game on the radio.

It was Jerry's first defeat of the season. But he took it casually. So did Newell McDaniel, farmer father of Lindy, Von and Jerry.

The father said he wasn't surprised that Von won his first start as a big-leaguer.

"Kinda was surprised he did that good," he confided.

The 42-year-old McDaniel said the family "works all the Cardinal games pretty hard. We do a lot of hollering."

McDaniel said he hopes the youngest son also signs with St. Louis. "He'll do as good as either one of the boys," the father said. "I'm happy about the way the Cardinals are treating my boys."

AP Wirephoto

HAPPY ROOKIE — Von McDaniel, only one month out of school, was a happy rookie in the Cardinal dressing room after he shutout the Brooklyn Dodgers on two hits yesterday in his first Major League start, 2-0. He won recently in relief and now has 2-0 record.

Baltimore Gets Three Runs in 9th to Win, 6-5

Lee Gives Up Single to Gardner to Score Winning Tally

The Detroit Tigers were doing just that, and looking like a pennant contender, until they hit the road for a tour of east coast American League cities this week.

Now they've dropped four in a row—three of them close games—and sagged into a tie for third place, 6½ games out of first place and five games behind the second-place New York Yankees.

The verdict here last night was 6-5 in favor of the Baltimore Orioles, who came up with three runs in the 9th inning to overtake the Tigers.

The Tigers and the Orioles will meet here tonight in the second game of their four-game series. Paul Foytack (7-4), coming back after a week's layoff due to a pulled muscle in his left side, will start for the Tigers. Bill O'Dell (1-1) will be on the mound for the sixth-place Orioles.

★ ★ ★

The disastrous three-run ninth-inning last night was built on four hits, three of them off righthander Jim Bunning, who dropped his first decision since April 22. The lanky Bunning, now 7-2 in the won-lost column, had captured his last six games.

Jim Busby led off the ninth with a single to left field. Joe Durham bounced a double over Reno Bertoia at third base, advancing Busby and Durham, and tying the score at 5-5.

That was the end for Bunning. Rookie Don Lee, recently recalled from Birmingham of the Southern Assn., went in to pitch for Detroit.

Heading into the two-week road trip the Tigers had won five in a row and were breathing hot on the necks of the Yankees. Then they lost three straight to the Yanks—2-1, 10-2 and 3-1—before moving to Baltimore.

Sox-Yankee Rematch Fistic Flop

What . . . No Brawls?

NEW YORK (AP)—The celebrated White Sox-Yankee rematch was a fistic flop. It couldn't have made the grade on TV. No punches, no fines. Not even a split decision.

Although Larry Napp, a New York State Athletic Commission referee, was the polite umpire, there was no new outbreak of hostilies. In Chicago, Napp was the man-in-the-middle June 13 when Larry Dony dropped Art Ditmar with a left hook.

Doby wasn't even in the line-up, sidelined by a groin injury. Ditmar was waiting for today's game as his regular starting turn. Walt Dropo, who went 10 fast rounds with Enos Slaughter to win a newspaper decision last week, wasn't even in the line-up. Earl Torgeson, who reported too late to get in last week's bout replaced Dropo at first.

★ ★ ★

The closest thing to a fight was a barrage of three towels tossed out of the Chicago dugout in the ninth after Napp called a strike on Earl Battey.

Minnie Minoso kicked up a brief storm when he was called out, trying to steal second in the sixth and Jim Rivera beefed with violent gestures when he was called out on a third strike by relief pitcher Bob Grim.

The White Sox clunhouse was quiet after it was all over. The players showered quickly and left. Manager Al Lopez sat in his office, mapping some line-up changes to pull the Sox out of their slump, during which they have lost three of their last four games, including a 4-2 setback last night.

Thus for the first time since May 16, the Yanks were only a half game behind and the champs were rolling along on an eight-game winning streak.

Manager Casey Stengel held court briefly in the Yankee club house, raving about the fine relief work of Grim, who struck out five, including the side in the ninth, and allowed only one hit in three innings to nail down Johnny Kucks' fourth victory.

Doby, the man who threw the first big punch at Chicago a week ago, said he was retiring—as a boxer, Mrs. Doby didn't think much of his first bout.

"I'm not going to be pushed around by anybody," he said. "But I'm not going to start anything either".

★ ★ ★

Unless new fireworks erupt today and Sunday, the fight managers might as well go back to Stillman's Gym.

Tennis Clinics Start Monday for Children

An eight-week tennis clinic for boys and girls 8 through 16 years old will begin here Monday at Murphy Park, sponsored by the Pontiac Parks & Recreation Department. Courts at Oakland and Beaudette Parks will also be in use during the clinic.

May Meet Giammalva

MacKay Nears Net Finals

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Third-seeded Art Andrews of Iowa meets top-seeded Sam Giammalva of Texas this afternoon as the National Collegiate (NCAA) tennis championships reached its semifinal showdown stage.

★ ★ ★

Andrews advanced into the singles semifinals yesterday with a 6-4, 6-4, 11-9 victory over Crawford Henry of Tulane. And Andrews turned the trick despite a painful blister which developed on the little toe of his right foot.

Giammalva, seventh ranked player in the nation and a member of last year's U. S. Davis Cup team, sailed into the semifinals by whipping John Powless of Murray State yesterday by scores of 6-3, 8-6, 6-1. Powless was ranked No. 8.

Barry MacKay, who will meet Giammalva in tomorrow's final if the rankings hold up, had too many guns yesterday for fifth-seeded David Harum of Miami. MacKay, who also was on last year's Davis Cup squad and is second-seeded in this tournament, won by scores of 6-2, 6-3, 8-6.

MacKay meets Ron Holmberg of Tulane today. Holmberg provided the first upset—a mild one—by beating C. Maxwell Brown of Notre Dame yesterday on scores of 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Brown was seeded No. 4 and Holmberg No. 6.

Michigan and Tulane were tied in the tight race for the team title, each with seven points. Texas, with six, and Iowa, with five, remain in contention. Each victory, whether in singles or doubles, counts one point.

★ ★ ★

Trailing in the team standings are Houston, three; Maryland, Notre Dame, Murray State and Miami, two, and Los Angeles State, Stanford, Oklahoma and Yale, one.

Young Visiting Golfer Gets Ace at Stoneycroft

Playing a round of golf at Stoneycroft the other day, John Ward, 17, of Columbus, Ind., bagged his first ace. Ward, visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schlichter, 238 Rutherford, Pontiaic, holed out his iron tee shot on the No. 5 hole, a par-3-165-yard shot. He had 40 for the round.

11-Ounce 'Gill Top Entry

Although bluegill fishing in area waters has produced some hefty specimens this spring, the first Pontiac Press "big fish derby" entry has only just been reported. Contest opened June 15.

Perry and his buddy, Kirk Fletcher, were fishing at night Wednesday from a boat, and took their limit of bluegills, plus several nice bass, one of which was 14 inches long and weighed an estimated 2 to 3 pounds. Both anglers used flyrods and bobbers.

★ ★ ★

Two 4-pound-10-ounce bass lead that division. There is no official leader as yet in the northern pike division. Winners in each division will receive $50 U.S. Savings Bonds after the contest ends Labor Day, Sept. 2.

He will replace Lloyd Eaton who resigned to become an assistant at the University of Wyoming. Paul White was named to Eaton's post in February but he recently withdrew his application.

Ferzacca, since leaving Marquette at the close of the 1955 season, has been director of ticket sales in Milwaukee for the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League. He coached at Marquette for two years.

No-Hitter Backfires on Dostal Pitcher

A five-inning no-hit, no-run game was turned into a 7-3 defeat for an International League softball pitcher last night in one of the most unusual finishes of the season here.

Dostal Foundry hurler Pete Manning was the victim of a 6th inning blast by loop-leading Deni's Corner. He gave up two doubles, four singles, a walk and two wild pitches and saw his mates commit three errors.

The UAW - CIO 653 contingent took over 3rd place in the National League by downing Eddie's Bar, 5-3 despite being outhit 10-6. The union team was behind 3-1 when it came up with three in the 5th with Tom McMahon's triple and single by Carl Beaubien the key blows.

In other league contest, Weldon-Thrifty came from behind three times to eke out a 7-6 triumph over Drayton Drug. The cellar-dwellers clinched the verdict with two in the 7th as Dick Ryan tripled home the final marker. Winning hurler Bob Fargher also had a hand in the big rally.

Stobbs Chuck Voodoos Indians

Anti-Hexers Aid Stobbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball players are a pretty superstitious lot anyway, so it won't come as a shock if Chuck Stobbs wears No. 13 on his Washington uniform from now on.

If that doesn't make sense, hear this:

Stobbs, a likable 28-year-old southpaw, had dropped 16 straight games, starting last September. So the Senators' front office decided nothing further would be lost to Stobbs — or at the gate — by putting on a stunt night at Griffith Stadium.

The first 3,200 fans through the turnstiles last night received a rabbit's foot or four-leaf clover charms. A delegation from Virginia, Stobbs' home state, brought along a whole rabbit.

and change Stobbs' luck. Maybe restore him to 1956 form, when he

All these hex-removers, it was said, would banish the hobgoblins led Washington hurlers with a 15-15 record.

Stobbs left his own No. 13 shirt on the hanger and came out wearing No. 13. Also fingering a silver dollar pressed into his glove by old buddy Nick Altrock, the one-time pitcher and baseball clown. Then, with all those rabbit paws waggling in the stands, he voodooed the Cleveland Indians, 6-3, fanning eight and allowing only seven hits as his slow curve worked to perfection.

There may have been a bit of mass psychology involved, at that. Stobbs conceded before the game "it gets to be mental" after losing every time out. Afterward, gay as a sprite, he said he "wasn't throwing darts any more, but pitching baseball."

It was a fine affair all around. Anti-hex night drew 9,462 customers, one of the largest Griffith Stadium assemblages this year.

CIO, Griff's Pick Up Ground in City League

The CIO 594 nine took over 2nd place and Griff's Grill gained sole posession of the 4th slot in the City Baseball League by virtue of important victories in a Wisner Field doubleheader last night.

★ ★ ★

Making the most of five hits and four enemy errors, the CIO dropped the Pontiac Jets into 3rd place by beating them 6-3. Griff's dumped Thomas Die & Stamping behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Johnston.

★ ★ ★

Jim Wagner allowed only four hits and fanned six in the CIO's 5th victory against two setbacks. His mates overcame an early 2-1 deficit paced by the hitting of Walt Bohner and John Wagner with two singles apiece.

Griff's put together a 3rd inning double by Bill Graham, a ground out and a balk by losing hurler Rocky Forton to score the only run it needed to win its 3rd game in six starts.

Johnston, who fanned seven and retired 10 straight batters in one stretch, was in trouble only once. He allowed two singles after two were out in the 6th but got out of it.

Rosburg Holds Lead at Flint

By BILL CORNWELL

FLINT — Determined Bob Rosburg is proving that he's no "flash in the pan."

The San Francisco professional with the unorthodox grip, whose six-under-par 65 led the field by two strokes in Thursday's opening round of the Carling Open golf tournament, served notice again Friday that he's no "fly by night" when it comes to the art of smacking the ball.

Warding off the pressure which usually accompanies an early lead, the chunky 30-year-old Rosburg boosted his advantage to four strokes by firing 69 over the Flint Golf Club acreage for a 36-hole total of 134.

He had a few anxious moments yesterday, bogeying three holes on the front nine, but the course par was never deserted. He rallied for a par 36 going out, then came home in 33, two under regulation.

Duden and Weaver are virtually unknown on the professional circuit. Duden, who hails from Portland, Ore., stormed into contention with a 68. Weaver, a 25-year-old Beaumont, Tex. player who turned pro less than a year ago, raised eyebrows by posting his 2nd straight 69.

Three other golfers, headed by young Ken Venturi, were tied with 139's as the 72-hole tourney swung into its 3rd day with the field slashed to the low 80 player.

Six strokes off the pace at 140 were Gene Littler, Jimmy Demaret, Mike Fetchick and Canadian Al Balding, along with three others.

Eight pros were bracketed at 14 including Arnold Palmer, rotund Ed (Porky) Oliver and "Terrible Tommy" Bolt.

Pontiac's youthful Gene Bone added a blistering 68 to his 1st round 74 for a 36-hole score of 142, which put him even with names like Doug Ford and Dow Finsterwald.

Ex-National Open champion Jack Fleck of Rochester and Bill Nary from Wayne were in the 143 bracket, along with Billy Casper, Jerry Barber and big Mike Souchak. Ed Furgol and Julius Boros were together at 144.

Bob Keller of Royal Oak, who skidded to a 77 yesterday, but managed to stay in the field with 145. Indianwood's Mike Dietz carded 73, giving him 145 at midpoint. Jimmy Johnson of Farmington owned a scorecard of 146 and Meadowbrook's Chick Harbert was still alive with 148.

Wally Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Max Evans from Rochester and Orchard Lake's Tom Shannon were Oakland County's leading casualties in the "head-chopping" procedure.

The dividing line was 149. Burkemo and Evans each tallied 150 while Shannon took 154. John Dalrymple, former Keego Harbor athlete, was another casualty at 150 while nationally-known pros Bob Toski and Bo Wininger also bowed out.

★ ★ ★

A 9:00 a.m. tee-off time is in effect for the final two days of the tourney.

Oldtimers Banquet Helps Midget Loop

Pontiac Oldtimers Baseball Association will hold its annual spring banquet today at 7:30 p.m. at VFW hall, 398 South Saginaw street. The event, designed to raise funds to help operate the 16-team Midget league, will present a large company of area sports celebrities. Paul (Diz) Trout heads a group that includes Terry Sawchuk (hockey star), ex-major leaguer Mike Tresh, Lloyd Brazil from U. of D. and other sports figures.

Anyone interested in baseball is invited to attend, says Paul Parks, Oldtimers official. "The funds from tickets will go towards the operation of the Oldtimers' Midget league." Tickets for the banquet may be obtained at the door.

OCSC Sets Up 'School Loop for Skeeters'

OCSC skeet committee invites anyone interested in shooting skeet and trap to join the league and learn under experienced shooters.

The new league will be set up in five-man teams which will shoot once a week for eight weeks. At the end of league shooting, a banquet will be held to award trophies and prizes.

For further information interested persons should contact the OCSC public relations department, or members of skeet committee.

Badger Defends Crown

The 16-year-old Bloomfield Hills star beat out two older golfers for the 1956 crown by winning a sudden-death playoff on Tam O'Shanter's 2nd hole. He then finished 2nd in the state Jaycee tourney at Kalamazoo and was a member of Michigan's four-man team which took the national title at Fargo, N. D.

Badger and many other contestant in Monday's event will be competing for national honors as well as college scholarships. Any boy in the Oakland County area is eligible to enter the tournament if he does not turn 18 by Aug. 15.

The Birmingham chapter will send the two best scorers to the state tournament July 8-9 at Grand Rapids with the chance to move on to the national event Aug. 19-24 in Columbus, Ohio.

Monday's tourney is the 3rd and last Jaycee-sponsored affair in the Pontiac area this year. Waterford named five boys for a trip to Grand Rapids and Pontiac four in their outings earlier in the week.

End of Club

GRRrrrr! — Angry Tommy Bolt broke another golf club yesterday and received $100 fine by the PGA after his front nine score of 38. Here he walks off the 9th green after breaking his 4-wood in the Flint Open.

End of Drive

OHHhhhh! — Tommy Shannon was unhappy after getting away this drive in the Flint Open yesterday. Shannon, Orchard Lake pro, failed to make the qualifying list as he shot 75-78-154.

Bolt Helped Make Rules, Now He Pays

Yesterday, after firing a two-over-par 38 for the front nine in the Flint Open, Bolt angrily broke his 4-wood over his knee and immediately he was hit with a $100 fine by the PGA.

He simmered off after a back nine 32 for a 141 total, however he was warned that another outbreak would cost him $500.

Bolt was chairman of the committee which helped set the rules of sportsmanship. This was his second club-breaking stunt this year.

Bloomfield Horse Show Named to Assist USET

By H. GUY MOATS

Arrival of Walter G. Staley Jr. and two of his mounts, "Hunting Field" and "Girady" points up the role the June 25-30 Detroit Horse Show at Bloomfield Open Hunt club is playing in the USET program.

Staley, with his brother, Allen, of Mexico Mo., were members of the American Olympic team in the three-day team event in Stockholm in 1956. Both will compete in the Bloomfield events along with Hugh Wiley and Charles Dennehy Jr. and all members of the Pan American Three-Day team.

The Pan-Am team includes Walter Staley, J.E.B. Wofford, Frank Duffy (son of Irving A. Duffy, show's general chairman) who's appearance is uncertain at this time. Bill Haggard, another Olympic rider, will be here. The Pan-Am team is now training for the National Open Three-Day tests at Colorado Springs Colo., early in September.

U.S. Equestrian Team Inc., the body that develops international teams for the Olympic and other events will have observers at Bloomfield Hunt with an eye to scanning possible horses and riders for the 1960 Olympics.

All Olympic trainees compete on the same basis as other contenders.

The six-day and 5-night Detroit Horse Show, opens next Tuesday with junior equestrian teams holding the spotlight. On Wednesday morning, events open at 8:30 with Class A Open Hunt open elementary dressage class; Class B USET equitation medal class and Class C Prix Caprilli.

Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to Class D open three-day dressage event, Prix St. George (Class E) and a possible Grand Prix de Dressage (if entries warrant) provide the first night activities. Show concludes with the evening competition on Sunday, June 30.

Site for the show is on East Long Lake road, east of the Grand Trunk underpass. Public is invited to see some of the finest amateur horsemen and many of the nation's best show horses.

Damaged Shoe in Finals

Jones 5th in AAU Afte Prelim Win

(SPECIAL TO THE PONTIAC PRESS)

DAYTON — After stealing the show in the preliminary heats by beating all contestants easily in a time of 13.7 seconds, Hayes Jones of Pontiac and Eastern Michigan College knocked over the 1st hurdle and badly damaged a shoe causing him to finish 5th in the 120-yard high hurdle finals at the National AAU track and field championships here last night.

Five American and meet records were set in the opening events of a two-day meet. Establishing both American and meet records were Davis with a 50.9 time in the 440-yard hurdles and Douglas Kile of Hamilton, Ont., in the 6-mile run. Kile's time was 29:22.8.

Jones was awarded a medal for finishing in the top six and drew wide acclaim from AAU officials for continuing despite his accident.

The 18-year-old freshman will be in action again today against some of the best in the nation in the low hurdles over the 220-yard distance. The outstanding performers in the meet will be selected to take part in a European track tour.

Lee Calhoun, North Carolina Olympic star who finished far behind Jones in thep reliminaries, won the hurdle title in 14.2 defeating fellow southerner Art Stevens. Jones was just over 14.5 despite his bad start.

Another Olympic champion, Milt Campbell, failed to finish in the finals when he hit a hurdle and was injured. Campbell had also ranked far behind Jones in the trial heats in which Hayes' nearest competitor came in four yards behind.

Dr. Lloyd Olds, Chairman of the National AAU Track & Field Committee and Physical Education Director at Eastern Michigan, had nothing but praise in reporting the fine Jones' effort today.

"Hayes looked very good. His preliminary time was his best yet. Everyone was talking about him at the meet. Hitting that hurdle in the finals really threw him off but he kept coming where many fellows would have quit," said the official.

He explained that the swift Jones struck the hurdle so hard that he ripped the sole half off of his right shoe. Dr. Olds was confident Pontiac's Olympic hope would bounce back today pointing out that "he is in top condition and never quits."

One of the big features on tonight's program will be a battle between a pair of milers who have broken the 4-minute barrier. Don Bowden of San Francisco and Merv Lincoln of Australia square off in this battle along with Olympic 800 meter king Tom Courtney. Bowden, the NCAA champ, has run the mile in 3:58.7. Lincoln in 3:58.9.

★ ★ ★

Other meet marks set last night were by Boston's Olympic champion Harold Connolly in the hammer throw, Bill Neider of Kansas in the shot put and Olympic winner Charley Dumas in the high jump.

★ ★ ★

Soldier Leamon King took the 100-yard dash in an upset of speedy Dave Sime of Duke winning by an inch. Ernie Shelby of Los Angeles took broad jump honors.

2 From County State Troopers

Among 62 Graduating From Recruit School; 3 Assigned to City Post

Of the 62 new state troopers graduated from the State Police Recruit School in Lansing yesterday, two were Oakland County residents, while three others have been assigned to bolster the staff of the Pontiac State Police Post.

★ ★ ★

The two county men are Noel A. Rowe, 70 Hamilton St., assigned to the Bad Axe post; and Frederick Prysby, of Madison Heights, who will be assigned to the Manistee post.

William E. Sunday, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Stowell, of Ortonville, and now living in Berrien Springs, was assigned to the Jonesville post.

According to a spokesman at the Pontiac post, these men will serve a probationary period of six months, assigned to an older officer who will supervise their actions while on duty.

The spokesman said the post has had a steady increase of work in criminal investigations during the past months which has hampered the highway patrol. The three men will be used to bolster the highway force. They will bring the total post force to 27 men.

U. of M. Sends 3 to Mexican Village

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan is sending three representatives to work in a small Mexican village during the summer.

The three volunteered to spend their summer vacations in San Simon Atzitzintla in Puebla state. They are Kathryn Nylander of Dearborn, a graduate nurse; Sylvia Frank of Ann Arbor, a literature student; and Donald Nagler of Ann Arbor, a medical student.

CHAPTER 24

Nela and I were married in the pleasant, friendly front room of Ben got out the champagne, good supper afterward, and for his hospitality I was forever indebted to Ben Sawhill.

Ben got out the hampagne, filled three glasses, and gave one to Nela and one to me. He held his up, his face very grave, as he said: "This happy occasion calls for a toast. Not just one that you think of off the cuff, but one you'll remember as long as you live. Do you want to hear it?"

★ ★ ★

"Of course we do," Nela said.

"Not a legal one, Ben," I said.

He laughed. "This one didn't come from Blackstone. It's from the heart of Ben Sawhill." He cleared his throat. "To love and marriage, to happiness that only love and marriage can bring to us, and to a long and happy life for Mr. and Mrs. William Beeson."

We touched glasses, and once more I thought of him and Sarah Pardee, and I couldn't help wondering if he would have been any happier if he had married her. We drank, Nela close to crying; and when Ben left, a little later, she kissed him on the cheek, while he swallowed as if something was wrong with his throat, and looked past her at me.

"Lucky man, Will," he said. "You're a lucky man."

He went out and closed the door. There was no sound in the room but the ticking of the clock on the mantel. We looked at each other, both of us suddenly taken with shyness. Then Nela came to me and hugged me.

"I know we're going to have a good life together," she said. She stepped back. "Give me a few minutes, Will. I'll call when I'm ready."

★ ★ ★

She took the lamp and disappeared into the bedroom. I stood there waiting, hearing her moving about in the other room. Presently she called, "All right, Will."

When I went into the bedroom, I saw that she was in bed, her hair a dark mass against the pillow. I stood there awkwardly.

"Blow out the lamp, Will," Nela said.

When I turned to look at her, I saw that she was laughing at me. Then the full impact of the step we had taken that day struck me. She was my wife. No one could stop us now. Not Sarah. Not John Mathers. And for a while, as I held Nela, the world held only Nela and me.

In the morning I built a fire and Nela cooked breakfast. After we finished eating, I sat at the table smoking while she did the dishes; then she sat down across from me. There was much about Sarah I had not told Nela, but I told her now because we had to come to a decision sometime between now and tomorrow when we returned to the valley. I told my wife that Sarah had stood upright beside her chair, that she had walked a little, and that she had told me not to get too fond of Nela. I put out my hands in a gesture of futility. "Nela, what can I do?"

Nela listened closely, her forehead furrowed in thought. As I looked at her, I was so stirred by my feeling for her that I could not say a single word. It was first love, but it was real love such as I had never known existed. There would never be anything else like it, like last night and this morning and the few hours we still had together.

Suddenly I found words. "We just can't be separated! If Sarah and your dad won't take us together, we'll leave."

"Oh, darling." She reached out and took my hands. "That's what I want too, but we can't. We've got to do the right thing now or we'll be plagued by our mistake the rest of our lives. No matter what happens, you can't forget your debt to Sarah, and I can't forget that John Mathers is my father."

★ ★ ★

"Then what can we do?"

"We've got to go along for a while just as we were," she said. "I guess I'm a coward, but I just can't quite bring myself to tell Dad yet. After all, we did act pretty fast."

I was a coward too, as far as Sarah was concerned. "All right, perhaps there'll be a better time," I said.

"Will," She squeezed my hands. "I don't want you to get mad at me, but I'd like to tell you something I think about Sarah. It's not anything I can prove; but because I'm a woman and Sarah is a woman I think I know something about her that you would never think of."

★ ★ ★

"Go ahead," I said.

"I think she's been able to walk for a long time." Absolute disbelief must have come into my eyes, for Nela added quickly: "Will, let me finish. I've watched her when she was in her chair and when she didn't think anyone was looking. The way she moves her legs makes me think they're not paralyzed. And the bottoms of her soles are worn. I know you've said she's been taking a few steps, but I noticed her shoes almost immediately."

"Slim evidence," I said.

"But remember, Sawhill told you the doctor said there was nothing physically wrong with her. He said she could walk if she had to."

I pulled my hands from Nela's and walked to the back door. I stood there trembling, thinking that if what Nela said was true, Sarah was a different woman than I had thought for eight years, a woman who had hidden herself from all of us.

"It's crazy!" I said. "She wouldn't exile herself to a wheel chair for four years."

"She might," Nela said. "We don't know she told you the truth about her accident. Will, she's a terribly possessive woman; she must have a person's love completely centered on her. Like Dogbone's. And Maria's. She wants yours. That's why she doesn't want you to love me. I'm her rival, and she's known it for a long time. But she doesn't love you the way I do. Maybe her love is like a mother's. Or a sister's. I don't know. All I know is that she doesn't want to share your love with anyone else."

I turned, hot words on my tongue, but I didn't say them. Nela was hurrying on. "Joe Pardee must have been a very strong character. So is Sarah. What happened when they got married was bound to happen. Each of them tried to remake the other, or at least prove to be the stronger. Perhaps, because Joe won, Sarah had this accident on purpose."

"Nela, of all the wild—"

★ ★ ★

"Wait, Will. I'm still not done. What you haven't thought about is that a crippled person in a wheel chair has everyone's sympathy. Like Sawhill's. And Dad's. When Dad came home last fall that's all he could talk about. How, though Sara was an invalid, she was still a beautiful woman who had not let her condition break her spirit."

★ ★ ★

I didn't say that what Nela thought was crazy now. I'd had the same feeling many times: A broken body but not a broken spirit. It could be true. Maybe Sarah had driven Joe away; but all the time she was punishing him, and had never let him forget it. But if she was that possessive, she was cruel, and evil, and somehow I couldn't believe it of her.

"I don't know," I said. "Even if what you think is true, I can't just walk off and leave her. Anyhow, half the ranch is mine."

"I know you can't leave her." She rose and came to me. "Darling, you don't hate me for what I've said? It's something we've got to face just as we have to face my father's weakness."

★ ★ ★

"I couldn't hate you," I said. "I love you." I kissed her and held her in my arms, and never wanted to let her go.

There'll be an unexpected delay to Will's and Nela's wedding announcement. Continue "Gunlock" here Monday.

REFLECTION EDITORIAL
"GOOD MORNING"

J. L. VOORHEES

The greeting "Good Morning" has friendliness sticking out of it like the feathers on a bird.

Two men, competitors, were bitter enemies. Their children carried the feud to school. Their wives carried it to social functions. The little town was divided into two groups—one for each man. If it hadn't been so serious it would have been funny. A salesman for a wholesale firm knew both men, decided to stop this silly war. As opportunities presented themselves, he slipped in a word of kindness for the adversary. After several months of this propaganda he noticed a cooling of the turbulence. One morning both men went to the Post Office. The air seemed charged. Customers hurriedly left for home or office. These men met face to face. One smiled, said "Good Morning." The feud was over.

LOOKS REAL! — This scene painted on the rear wall of the garage looks so real that the Babcocks' daughter nearly drove her car through it one day. The rest of the garage is painted aqua. There is a work bench out here and all the tools are hung up in perfect order.

THE OLD AND THE NEW — Side by side in the Babcock basement living room is an old piano player and a modern television set. Both have their place in entertaining guests. The wall around the piano has been built in. Those cupboards above it are wall papered, not paneled. Light plywood walls and white curtains at the high windows help make this area light. There are plenty of lamps, both hanging and table variety to take over the job on gloomy days. The floor down here is tile and the ceiling acoustical material.

Your Neighbor's House

Babcocks Find Space in Small House

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's house is a little different from the ones we usually have in our Home Section. It is a little house, similar to the thousands that dot the landscape around the Pontiac area. It has been built since World War II.

In the past two years it has been remodeled and fixed up to give a maximum amount of living space. We think it may encourage others to look at their homes with a different eye and to do some of the simple things the Frank Babcocks have done.

Take, for instance, the Babcock living room. By the wildest stretch of one's imagaination, that room can't be called large. In fact, it's a very small living room.

But it looks large because it has a 70x30-inch mirror mounted on the west wall, opposite the front windows. This gives a spacious feeling and a depth to the room it does not have otherwise. Furthermore, it adds more light.

Mrs. Babcock—who does all the painting around the house herself—is fond of black. She experimented with flat black paint on three of the living room walls and liked it. The fourth wall is white, as is the ceiling. With the exception of one red arm chair, all the furniture and lamps are black and white. Curtains are a figured material, predominantly green.

Until the closet in the front vestibule was removed, the living room seemed closed in and the dining room was just a little box. Now the two rooms flow together, tied in with green carpeting and a common color scheme.

In place of the torn-out closet, there is now a handsome black chest of drawers. The grain of the wood shows through in the places were the finish is a lighter gray shade.

Flamingo pink is used as a third color in the dining room. The chair seats have flamingo, gray and silver stripes on them. Draperies are the same, over white cafe curtains.

There is another important mirror in the dining room. Mounted above the table, it reflects the living room and the kitchen. It is flanked on either side by colorful floral decorations.

Half of the doorway between the dining room and kitchen has been filled in. There are black sliding door cupboards at floor level. Above them are shelves. At waist height there's a planter with all the plants climbing up flamingo poles and and bars. Between this section and the black chest there is a brass pole with three brass spot lights fastened on it.

Mrs. Babcock put color into her kitchen by painting two walls aqua and two flamingo. She divided the ceiling diagonally and repeated the wall colors on it. All cupboards and appliances are white. Around the door frame is white brick wallpaper.

Purple is a color not often seen in home decorating. It has been used in one of the two bedrooms, the one occupied by the Babcock's daughter, Miriam, until her recent marriage.

The green carpeting runs throughout the house, into the bedrooms as well. Three walls in this bedroom are lavender, one is covered with brick wallpaper. The headboard and the night tables are white. Draperies and the flowered spread are purple.

The Babcocks' bedroom is yellow and sandalwood. On the wall with a window in one corner Mrs. Babcock mounted scenic wallpaper on the upper part, with brick paper below. She covered the window with pale yellow curtains and treated the corner at the other end of the "scene" as another window. This treatment adds depth to the room.

The other walls are sandalwood. Furniture is white. Yellow taffeta covers the valance boards and makes the bedspread. The latter is flocked with yellow daisies in a deeper shade.

The Babcocks have also made full use of their basement to enlarge the size of their living quarters. All the walls are paneled in plywood, some of it in a squared pattern. The floor is corktone tile. A ping pong table takes up one section. Here the Babcocks entertain at holiday dinners, with plenty of room for all the relatives and friends.

The section running from front to back of the house is the living room area. A black sofa with white fringe sets off the room. There is a plaid sofa on one wall and several pieces of bamboo furniture.

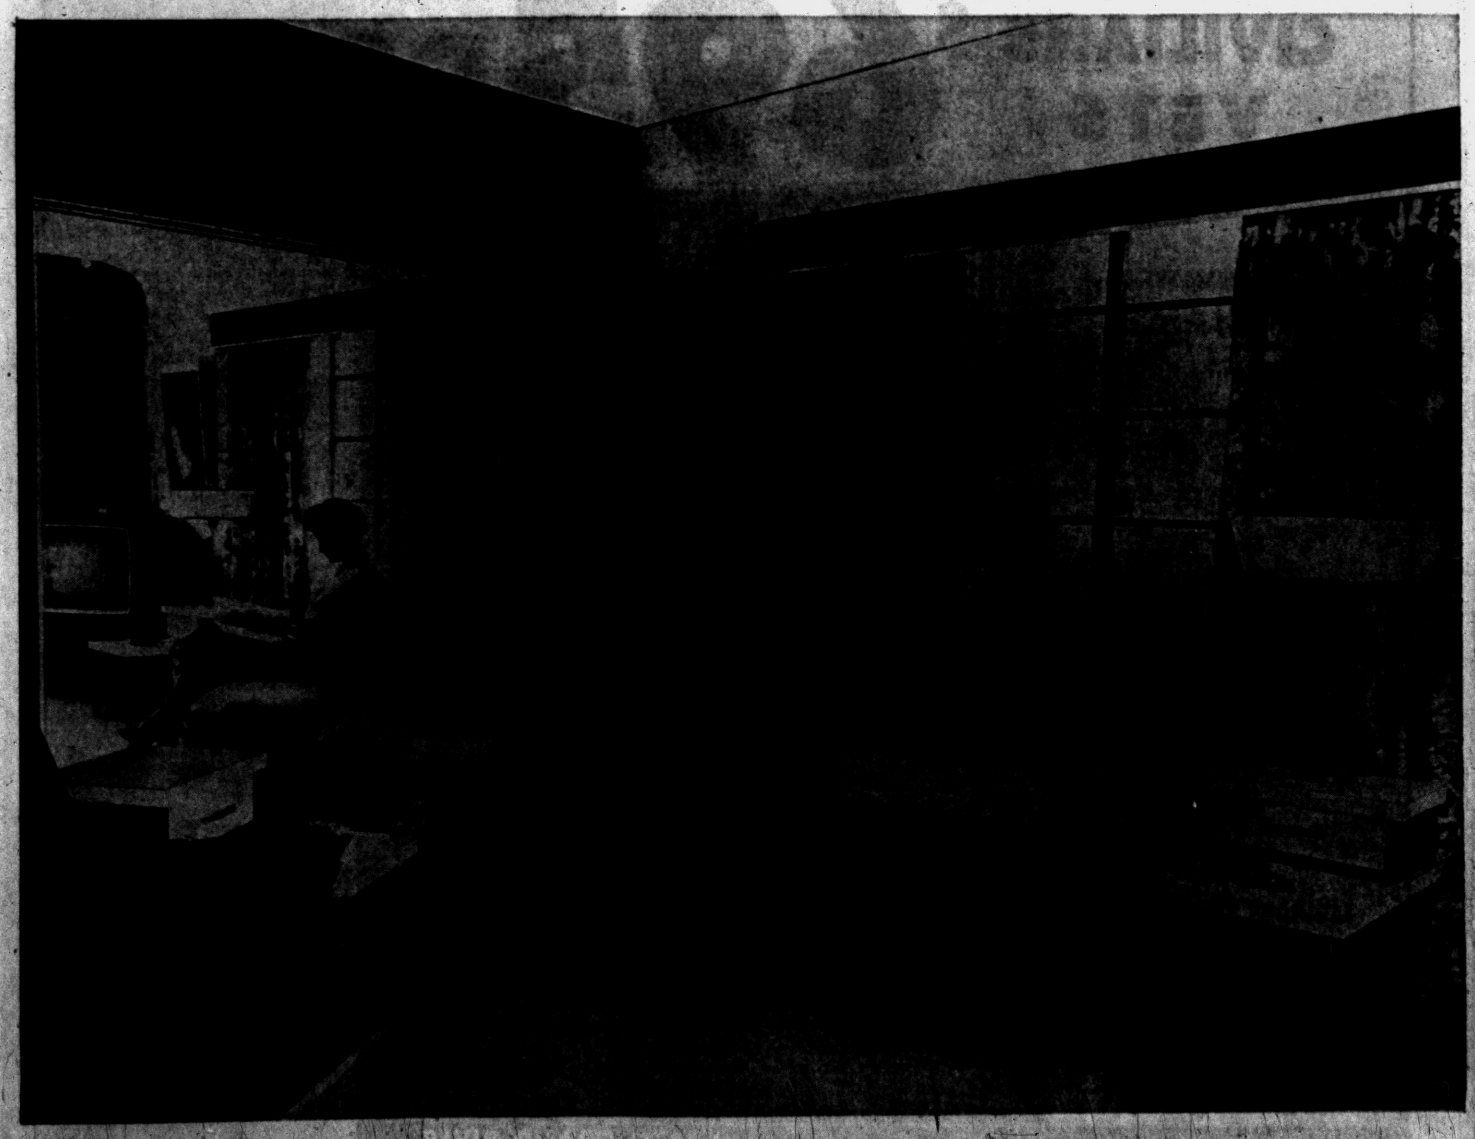

The focal point of interest in this room is the player piano. Shelves and cupboards have been built around it, with a TV set mounted in one shelf and an imitation fireplace in another. The piano has been painted white with aqua trim. It was a tremendous moving job to get this heavy piece of furniture down the stairs.

There is a complete kitchen downstairs with a wall oven

ANOTHER MIRROR—This mirror over the dining room table reflects part of the living room, the chest in the entry way and the kitchen. The planter in the picture tops storage cupboards and shelves, all of which form the half wall between the dining room and kitchen.

THIS MIRROR DOES IT — A mirror measuring 70x30 inches doubles the size of this living room and adds many light to what could be a dark room. Mrs. Babcock [illegible] for this room. She did all the painting herself. The use of a mirror to make a small room look larger is one anyone can copy; such a simple decorating idea involves no remodeling.

SUMMER LIVING—The Babcocks' daughter, Miriam (now Mrs. Ted Hook), comes home on hot summer afternoons to relax in the outdoor living room. Built on the north side of the garage, this screened section is always cool and breezy. Bamboo shades will give [illegible] screens for privacy. The bed is a [illegible] spring mattress mounted on a [illegible]

Retirement House Is Answer to Requests

BY ANDREW C. LANG

Attention, Mr. and Mrs. Senior Citizen!

Here's the Retirement House you requested!

It has four things you have specified in your letters. It's economical to build — has heart-saving features that permit comfortable living — is easy to maintain — and can be converted easily into a larger, easier-to-sell home.

Architect Sam Paul has given extra attention to the details that are so important in a house of this kind, yet has made no sacrifice to appearance. Design HW-54 in The House of the Week series has over-all eye appeal to match its high utilitarian value.

Let's see why this house rates the retirement label. For one thing, it does not require a large plot. Its frontage, exclusive of the carport, is only 37 feet, 3 inches. The front-to-rear dimensions are 33 feet, 9 inches.

The living area is 1015 square feet, exclusive of the porch. But look at the front view and you'll see there's an air of apaciousness about the whole structure.

In the kitchen, everything as been done to make it easy for Mrs. Senior Citizen to do her work there with the least amount of stooping and reaching. Even a woman with a heart condition would find life easy here.

The oven and refrigerator are built-in at 30-inch levels. The lower cabinets are to be installed 18 inches off the floor and the highest shelf of a wall cabinet will be 5 feet, 6 inches from the floor. The washer and dryer will be set 12 inches off the floor.

along with a dishwasher. Of course, the amount of kitchen equipment is optional for the home owner, but for easy living, space see there's an air of spaciousness for the equipment mentioned.

Another kitchen feature is the pass-through from the carport to a countertop, eliminating a considerable amount of bundle carrying after shopping. And note the through ventilation provided by the front window and the rear window and door leading to the porch.

14 CRAWL OR SLAB

Design HW-54 can be used with either a crawl space or a concrete slab for the first-floor foundation.

A crawl space might be a bit easier on the feet, with wood beams on which wood floors can be laid. Plywood can be used as an underlayment if you wish to have resilient tiles installed.

★ ★ ★

Informal dining is convenient on the screened porch or in the dining room, both adjacent to the kitchen. Nearly all elderly couples who asked for a specially-designed Retirement House expressed a desire for a screened porch. It can, of course, be converted for winter use in northern areas.

★ ★ ★

The dining room is separated from the foyer by a decorative panel. The foyer, coming in from a center hall entrance, continues directly on the the living room, giving a full front-to-rear expanse.

There is plenty of wall space in the living room, which opens on one end to the porch and on the other end to an extra room which can be used as a hobby room or den or as a guest bedroom. Large rear windows in the living room permit a full view of the terrace.

Directly to the right of the foyer is the main bedroom, with cross ventilation and two closets. The bathroom next to it has a square tub with seating space as well as grab bars. The floor will be non-skid, and an electric panel heater is applied to the wall for supplementary heating.

The closet-cabinet in the bathroom is large enough to store linens as well as toilet articles. However, there is a separate linen closet outside the bathroom.

Added features include doorways 36 inches wide, minimum hall widths of 3 feet, 6 inches and the elimination of mouldings and all other dirt-catchers. Sliding aluminum windows are equipped with screen and storm sash and stay on all year.

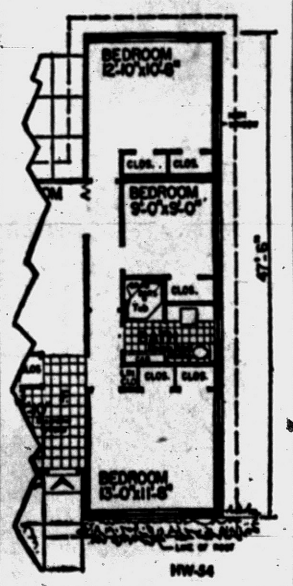

The use of a carport instead of a garage was deliberate, since it eliminates the opening and closing of doors as well as being more economical. There is a large storage area behind the carport with room for a work bench if desired.

See Related Pictures Page 17

Natural plywoods and drywall materials are used inside the house, brick and natural woods outside. Large overhangs protect the windows and there is a covered entry into the main foyer. The location of the heater room makes an inside chimney practical — and engineers will tell you inside chimneys are the most effective.

Like the design of this house even though you're a long way from retirement age?

Architect Paul has this suggestion: add a third bedroom in back of the second one and turn the screened porch into a seven-room, three-bedroom house without losing any of the feature of the Retirement design.

FLOOR PLAN
Expanded to 3 BR & FAM.RM.

EXPANDABLE PLAN — In this plan the house has been expanded to three bedrooms. This may make it easier to sell later on. The screened porch in the original plan can be converted to a family room without adding any more width to the house.

The buying public is becoming increasingly aware of nationally advertised products when it goes to purchase homes, and it is increasingly unanimous in requiring better features such as kitchen appliances, finished basements and ceramic tile bathrooms.

New Furniture's Finish Will Last

A 1957 version of the window seat appears in a demonstration house built at Munster, Ind., to incorporate features which homemaker delegates to the recent Women's Congress on Housing said they want.

Of generous proportions to match a living room picture window, the built-in seat measures 9 feet long, 18 inches high and 18 inches deep. It's ready to serve as extra seating or table space for a party. Or it's a good spot to take in the outdoor view.

★ ★ ★

Finished in a handsome black and gold marble pattern of predecorated hardboard, the window seat makes a striking decorative accent. It will keep its good looks with simple care, because the paneling has a protective baked plastic surface, which is highly resistant to soil and wear. Damp-wiping cleans it.

The northern exposure admits the steadiest and coolest light throughout the day, and interiors should be planned with this in mind.

Choose Light Color Rugs to Give Room a Lift

Someone suggests that in buying a rug choose a dark color which "will not show the soil." The appearance of the floor-covering can make or mar the looks of a room. Nothing could be more dispiriting than a dark, dull rug. Even bright hangings do not help it very much.

A lively floor color, which harmonizes with other furnishings, gives the entire room a "lift" and creates a much more pleasing impression. With the present-day vacuum cleaners no homemaker need feel that she must stick to any color to avoid showing soil.

Don't be too hasty about planing drawer edges which have become too tight because of expansion, since there may be a later contraction of the wood which will make the drawer too loose; it is better to sand the edges lightly, following with a sliding compound.

and plenty of working space. This is just outside the section where the furnace is and the kitchen walls hide the heating unit. Further camouflage is done on some pipes that stand out in the bar. These Mrs. Babcock covered to resemble trees.

In the bar there is the high counter with stools. In addition there is a glass-topped ice cream table with spindle legged ice cream chairs. Mrs. Babcock collects these chairs and would love to find some more.

On the yard side of their garage which sets almost on the lot line the Babcocks built a screened room. Cotton carpeting covers the cement floor. Bamboo shades draw across the screens to insure privacy. If they want to on hot nights, the Babcocks can sleep out here.

An innerspring mattress was cut down to fit the width of the porch and is set in a frame. A large beach towel is made into a bedspread with matching pillow covers. A long low plywood table made from a door mounted on legs holds radio, record player and the telephone.

Outside there is a grill, an umbrella table and comfortable lounging chairs. The Babcocks even bring their portable TV set out in the yard for cool viewing. The chairs for the umbrella table match the exterior of the house. They are black with turquoise seats. The house is charcoal trimmed in turquoise.

Even the garage has received special treatment. It is, first of all, a model of neatness with every garden tool and piece of equipment hung up in perfect order. On the rear wall Mrs. Babcock painted a rural scene, featuring a road that runs down to a lake. So real looking is this scene that Miriam ran into it with the car—she thought the road just kept going!

You readers may not agree with all that the Babcocks have done to make their house suit their way of life. On the other hand, you may get some ideas for your own houses. It should be encouraging to note that even in very small houses there is more living room than appears at first glance.

Everything the Babcocks have done could be do-it-yourself projects. No structural changes were made and no additions to the original house were built. Several local firms did the work for the Babcocks.

Even Alley Oop Knew That Wood Was Best

It didn't take a psychologist to tell Alley Oop that a hut built of wood was more comfortable and relaxing than his damp cave. Now, 50,000 years later, psychologists tell us that wood in the home has a tranquilizing effect on man.

Wood is a product of nature, and it has been associated in the mind of man since the beginning of conscious thought with shelter and protection. The beauty of west coast hemlock or Douglas fir has a soothing and restful effect which breathes confidence and a protective feeling.

Upgrade Value of House With Paneled Walls

New wood paneled walls can make a house look like a million dollars, one of the west's leading home decorators reports. Some older homes have been completely redone just in the walls with a resulting market value far higher than its original cost.

Variety is important if you plan on paneling more than one room. Try such varied woods as western red cedar, Douglas fir or west coast hemlock in different rooms. The effect is striking.

NEWS VIEWS

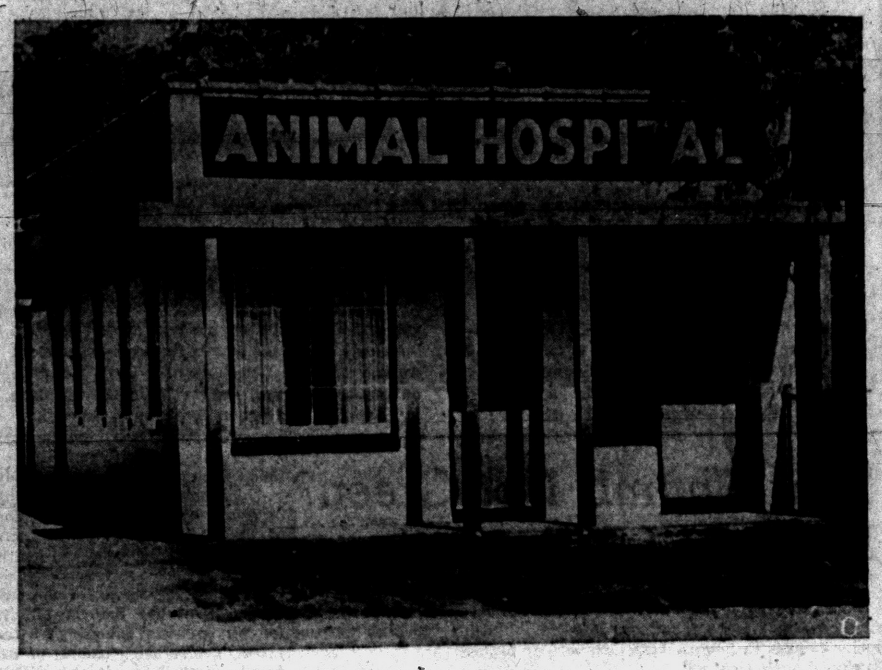

With flare-ups in various places around the world where we have Uncle Sam's boys stationed, a lot of folks have been wondering why we don't just bring our lads home. I don't claim to know the answer . . . but one of our top Generals recently wound up a talk to Congress to the effect, that "America's first line of defense lies in the heart of Europe."

That's a long way to go to get pushed around, but the General's logic seems sound as a prime ripe melon. If you sit around waiting for an enemy to arrive on your doorstep, you're likely to have your hands as full as a new boy at a taffy pull. The time to stop a runaway train is before it gets rolling down hill . . . and if an enemy is stopped over there, he won't have to be stopped over here.

Our local philosopher says that folks who want to live to see 90 had better not look for it on the speedometer of a car. Well, with modern medical progress what it is, it's worthwhile looking out for long retirement years. And it's possible to make them easy, independent years by making the right investments now. ANIMAL HOSPITAL — What was once a three-unit apartment building on Union Lake road, just north of Commerce road, is now the Lakeside Animal Hospital. Dubreville and Bowyer, Union Lake contractors, did the remodeling of the cinder block building and put an addition on the rear. The 30x150 foot structure contains space for examining and treating animals, as well as surgery rooms and protected areas for sick "patients." When completed, the building will house 50 animals. The owner, Dr. Henry Raskin, formerly of Detroit, planned the hospital himself. The grand opening was held June 15.

Opportunity Ripe for Young Men to Be Executives

CHICAGO (INS)—A prominent industrialist believes that opportunity for today's young executive was never so good as in the present booming economy.

* * *

Louis V. Aronson, II, President of the Ronson Cigarette Lighter Corporation of Newark, N. J., defied the idea prevalent in many quarters that grandpappy had a lot better chance of making a million dollars than today's young executive.

Speaking at a Chicago meeting of young executives Aronson listed five reasons for his conclusion. They were:

1. Changes in business, bred by technical and marketing research, create new brands and new business.

* * *

2. Steady population growth means "more mouths to feed, more bodies to be clothed, more faces to be shaved and more dollars earned and spent.

3. Steady increase in industrial production in the United States, and the fact that physical production now stands at three times the average of the 1920's and 1930's.

4. Allowing for price inflation and high taxes, per captia purchasing power is 60 per cent higher than pre-world war II.

* * *

5. The new profession of "management" offers countless "internships" for able young men, a condition not existing before world war II.

* * *

Aronson cautioned young executives, however, that they should not err in believing that all there was to getting ahead as an executive was merely to "start imagining, start planning and start doing something."

NEW WRIGLEY STORE — This artist's drawing of the newest Wrigley store to be opened in the area shows the Drayton Plains building. Covering 18,750 square feet, the structure is steel and concrete with face brick trim in front and common brick on the rest of the building. Wrigley's own planning and research department worked with the Detroit firm of Louis Redstone on the architectural design. Building was done by S and L Construction Company of Detroit.

Fit Is Important

At the Chicago spring furniture show the beautiful finishes on the new furniture had such names as allspice, butternut, bisque, umber and sable—subtle shades of brown, from amber to pale beige. Many customers are more interested in the color of furniture than in the kind of wood used. Technical advancement in the art of furniture finishing is responsible for the exquisite coloring and durable quality of today's furniture finishes.

If the doctor orders a sleeping board, get a panel of Masonite ¼" Tempered Presdwood from your lumber dealer. It's strong, splinter-free and easy to keep clean.

Your Thumb Not Green? Build a Wooden Patio

Not everyone is endowed with the proverbial green thumb, or is lucky enough to have a backyard equipped with rich soil.

An absence of talent and good soil provides an excellent excuse for a slothful attitude on the part of Papa, and quite often results in a backyard jungle. Weeds running rampant are not only undecorative, but also downright demoralizing.

The problem can be licked—and to the satisfaction of family and neighbors, too. A decking of stout Douglas fir two-by-eights laid on a firm foundation and about a half inch apart for drainage of rain water will do the trick. Youngsters will love its smooth playing surface, and the man of the family will certainly laud its easy unkeep. All that's needed to keep this patio looking ship-shape is an occasional hosing to clear off leaves and twigs.

This decking does more for your backyard than just cover up mud and weeds. Stir a little imagination into its design and you may well find yourselves the proud owner of the most distinctive backyard in the neighborhood.

Eye interest is easy to get when working with a flexible material like wood. For example, this patio may be terraced in much the same manner as a garden, and just as effectively.

Another way to provide variation is by placing the decking on one level at right angles to the decking on the next highest level. The checkerboard pattern will help to accentuate the terraced levels.

Perhaps your patio backs up to a neighbor's yard, and in this case it may be desirable to close it off for privacy and to keep small fry within hollering distance. Easy to do — a fence of the estate type built of matching fir will seclude your backyard, and put the finishing touches to your outdoor project.

A brave soul may want to leave a space between fence and decking with a view to encouraging a few shrubs to grow. Or, if admittedly a coward, you may want to place potted shrubs along the fence to break the joining line.

If the backyard comes complete with trees, the decking should circle them so that there is a space of several inches for watering purposes. Large trees would look wonderful garnished with low, circular lovers' benches which also add an interesting contrast in line. Other benches placed at convenient locations will make this patio a popular spot for outdoor socializing.

The fir decking can be left unfinished to weather to a lovely grey, or it can be stained a variety of colors or to match the siding of the home. Many homeowners like to stain their decks and fences natural shades so that the wood carries out the theme of the outdoors. Wood has natural affinity for all growing things, and the warm, golden-beige shades of naturally finished fir act as a unifier between trees, shrubs and the home itself.

No further excuse for the red thumb — replace the trowel and spade by a hammer and saw, and you're set for an adventure in backyards.

The average home built in 1956 cost $14,600, had 1,240 square feet of floor area, three bedrooms and at least 1½ bathrooms.

Weave Hall Divider Through Dowels

Basically, such a screen consists of a framework of 2 x 4-inch lumber, perhaps five feet high and four or five feet wide, depending on the setting. Wooden dowels placed about a foot apart, either horizontally or vertically, form a network on which to "weave" four-inch strips of Masonite ⅛" Tempered Presdwood.

This unusual screen-door divider must be anchored to the floor and wall adjacent to the door.

Feuds With Villiers Over Ship's Log

Man Who Started Mayflower Drops Out

PLYMOUTH, Mass., (INS) — The man who originated and promoted the Mayflower II is reported to have dropped out of the project.

The Boston American said Warwick Charlton quit the project following an argument with Commander Alan J. Villiers over the ownership of the Mayflower II log which details the highlights and daily routine of the 54-day Atlantic crossing of the Pilgrim replica.

FLEW BACK

The newspaper said Charlton flew back to London with the ship's log.

Several crew members also were reported to have threatened to quit the chip because of alleged failure to receive certain fees and because of reported poor food and living conditions aboard the vessel in Plymouth Harbor.

Capt. Villiers confirmed that Charlton, the British public relations expert, had dropped out of the project. Villiers admitted he had so informed the crew during a secret meeting.

NO SALT PORK

But Villiers denied the crew was living on salt pork and canned goods while in port as they did during the crossing from England. In essence, this is what Villiers told the crew during the meeting:

"Charlton is no longer connected with the Mayflower project. He has dropped quietly out. This ship and this trip had become too commercial. He had to go.

The plantation group will receive Mayflower II as an outright gift for perpetuity after the square-rigger ends a five-months private enterprise showing for profit in New York harbor.

Witnesses to the argument over possession of the log between Villiers and Charlton said the skipper told the promoter the log was a legal document and could not be separated from the ship.

Charlton refused to surrender it.

Both Charlton and Villiers have contracted to write books on the Atlantic crossing.

Some crew members were reported dissatisfied because they have not received an extra $20 promised them for hand stamping and franking 100,000 pieces of Mayflower mail during the crossing. This mail was delivered at Provincetown, Plymouth and New York for collectors.

So far, each crew member has received $50.

Capt. Villiers admitted dissatisfaction by "some" men aboard. He declared, however, those involved were not hired by him, although they are listed as crew members, although their duties had nothing to do with sailing the ship. He said:

"They're no sailors like me and my crew. My whole crew is magnificent. I never had a better crew."

6-Inch Scallops Found

BRISBANE — The scallop, a shellfish highly prized by gourmets for the delicious flavor of its flesh, has been found in great numbers along some parts of Australia's Queensland coast. The Queensland scallop averages 6 inches in diameter. It moves by a form of jet propulsion by opening its shell, taking in water, and ejecting it under pressure through twin flanges in its hinge.

Storms Sweep Area of Central Kansas

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — A storm front of high winds, heavy rains and damaging hail swept across west central Kansas yesterday and last night causing widespread property havoc and at least one death.

Hardest hit was Hutchinson, a city of 40,000, by a storm which Chief of Police Carl Spriggs described as a small tornado. Wind gusts reached 98 miles per hour.

Dead was Steve Chlentzos, about 35, killed by the roof of a nearby Hutchinson truck terminal which was blown off into his home. His wife and son were injured.

Several other persons were hospitalized here, none believed seriously hurt. Damage ran high, Spriggs said. Trees and branches littered streets, and in some instances blocked them.

Storm Hits Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A midnight thunderstorm with winds up to 100 miles an hour lashed Kansas City last night. There were scattered reports of damage throughout the metropolitan area. Two persons were injured.

Photogs Watch Liz Taylor Fight With Mike Todd

LONDON (AP) — Film director Mike Todd and his actress wife Elizabeth Taylor squabbled yesterday in full view of a bunch of press photographers. But they quickly made up.

★ ★ ★

British newspapers gave this version of the tiff which occurred at the London airport where the couple arrived late and missed a plane for Nice, France:

"It's all your fault," Liz snapped at Mike. "You were late. Now what shall we do?"

"Usually it's you," Todd retorted. "Just for once it's me all right . . . so what? I was busy I was telephoning."

Todd then told Liz to keep quiet. They'd take a plane for Paris, he said.

"But I don't wanna go to Paris," said Liz.

"We go to Paris," Todd declared.

"I'm fed up with Paris," Liz said. "I don't wanna hang around there."

Later Liz cuddled up to Todd. "Now be a good boy," she said. "Do stop fussing."

Todd then chartered a private plane from Blackbushe Airport to Nice.

Junior Editors Quiz on WALLS OF JERICHO

QUESTION: Why did Jericho's walls come tumbling down?

ANSWER: No one knows for sure. But several explanations are available from scholars who have studied the story.

Jericho was an old walled city. It was the first city conquered by the Israelites in the promised land. The walls of the city were made of stone and of mud and clay bricks.

There was a sandy soil under the walls of Jericho. As the walls were built taller and taller, the weight probably forced them to settle and crack.

But Joshua, the Israelite leader, used a method of attack that probably caused their final downfall. Joshua ordered his men to march around the city of Jericho, keeping in step so that their thudding shook the ground. They went around the city once the first day, twice the second day and so on. On the seventh day, they marched seven times around the city, the walls must have shaken. Then Joshua ordered every trumpet in his army blown at the city. The walls came tumbling down.

FOR YOU TO DO: Make a wall of blocks on the playroom floor. Then march around it, thumping your feet down hard. Perhaps you can make your block wall tumble down. You may color the picture above, showing the soldier blowing his trumpet at the crumbling walls of Jericho.

(Pat Hyche, Brookwood, Ala., wins $10 for this idea. Send your idea in to your newspaper. Monday: "Does a bee fly a bee line?" Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures.)

Separate Trips for Husbands?

Magazine Article says Men Should Get Away During Vacations

NEW YORK — Should husbands and wives take separate vacations?

An article in a recent issue of a national magazine says emphatically yes, and presents a strong case to support its view.

The horror of marriage, points out the magazine feature, is its intolerable "dailiness." A separate vacation is a heathy antidote for this dailiness.

And though the idea may sound revolutionary, says the article, some husbands celebrities on tour, traveling salesmen, sailors, soldiers and journalists — already have separate vacations all the time.

But, the average husband is not a mobile worker, he is chained to his office chair and commuter routine. For him, a separate vacation is vital for the good of the marriage.

The American male is fed up with "his and her's" bath towels, matching pillow cases, matching aprons, and matching milk mugs. He has had more than his fill of cooking, diapering babies, washing dishers and community sings.

He cannot seek refuge in his work, declares the piece, if he is a young executive, his wife will be screened along with him when he is interviewed for his job.

He cannot go alone even to a college reunion or professional convention, because the latest invitations all read: "Bring your wife."

Garry Regards Family as His Own Business

By EARL WILSON

"I don't mention my boys very much," he says, "because I think it's difficult being the son of a public person." He was thinking of Mason, 17, and Garry, 14. "People react in two ways—they make things too easy for the boy—or too hard."

★ ★ ★

Crew-cut Garry appreciates the good intentions of well-wishers . . . yet consider the incident in a town where Mason might have entered prep school.

MOORE

"A police official came up to me while I was there with my boy," Garry recalled. "He said, 'Look, now, any time your boy gets in any kind of trouble around here, you come tell me and I'll fix it.'

"That was an invitation to him to get away with anything he could!"

Garry Jr. discovered his father's fame quite young. Leaping to the door when the doorbell rang, he would proudly announce to deliverymen, messengers or anybody, "My daddy is Garry Moore!" Scoldings didn't stop him. But one experience did.

After announcing his exalted ancestry to one boy he met, the other boy quietly said, "My name is Tony Hope and my father is Bob Hope."

"I had a traffic cop stop me," Garry said. "He looked at my real name on the license, 'Morfitt' and wrote out the ticket. Then he looked inside the car and said, 'Hey, I see your show.' He wanted to tear up the ticket. I insisted on taking it. I thought it was a bad example for the kids."

Garry himself never finished high school.

His rubberlegs dancing and his so-called drumming he shrugs off with a smile, but he's not unproud of his record with "I've Got a Secret" — "The money is only $50," he points out.

"At first," he said, "we were pretty impressed with letters from people who had 13 toes. Pretty soon we had so many letters like that we filed them under T. It's surprising that there are so many people who want to reveal the most repulsive facts about themselves and their habits!"

"I left school to finish a play in Baltimore with F. Scott Fitzgerald," Garry relates. "I was so dumb I didn't know he was one of the writers of the age."

"I'm not really an actor," Garry'll maintain. "Like Fred Allen and Henry Morgan and Steve Allen, I'm a writer who learned to talk a little."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A Broadwayite invented a cigaret with a bourbon filter. It doesn't filter out any irritants — but who cares!

Who Could Play Durante for Biography on Screen?

By BOB THOMAS

★ ★ ★

That's the problem Jimmy is pondering now that several studios are hot to buy his life story. Several names have been suggested for it, especially Danny Thomas and Frank Sinatra.

★ ★ ★

But those two present a problem: Both are well-known personalities in their own right. Gene Kelly has been suggested to play manager-partner Lou Clayton to Thomas's Durante.

★ ★ ★

"But that would reverse the situation and make Durante the big guy and Clayton the little guy," Jimmy commented. He offered another candidate to play himself — Dean Martin.

★ ★ ★

The question arises—Who could play Durante but Durante himself?

"Yeah, that's been suggested too," he said. "But how ya goin' to do it? The real story is about how Durante meets his partners, falls in love and gets married and starts up in the business. That story takes place when the guy is 19."

★ ★ ★

The whole question of impersonating him is a problem, he concluded.

"You gotta catch the personality," he said, "but you get in trouble if it's just an impersonation. That was the trouble with the Cantor picture; they were too busy catching Eddie's mannerisms.

"The great thing about the Jolson picture was that the guy (Larry Parks) didn't try to act like Jolson all the time. He had some of his gestures, but most of the illusion was carried by that great Jolson voice."

Durante discussed these and other matters as he sat in the sweltering sun before his Beverly Hills pool, clad in trunks and a hankie over his sparse locks.

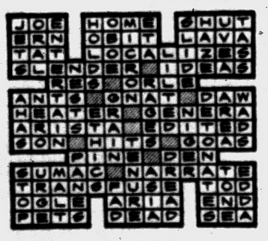

What about the so-called decline of the comics in TV?

"This is just a passing phase," he commented. "Listen — there will always be room for comedy. People want to laugh; they need to laugh. This would be a pretty sorry world if we didn't have laughter."

★ ★ ★

Jimmy said he would return to a regular TV show — "but only in fillum." He quit last season because the sponsor favored live over filmed shows.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Defense Department to Join Road Study

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Defense Department has announced it will join with the American Association of State Highway Officials to test the effect of traffic on different types of road pavement.

Secretary Charles E. Wilson said the two-year, 20 million dollar project would help to provide an "adequate system of highways to serve the national defense and . . . reflect the requirements of the military departments."

The highway research board of the National Academy of Sciences will conduct the tests over specially designed tracks to be constructed near Ottawa, Ill.

The project will be financed by the state and territorial highway departments, the Bureau of Public Roads, the Department of Commerce, the Automobile Manufacturers Association and the American Petroleum Institute.

Long Arm of Law Finally Gives Up

CLEVELAND (AP) — After almost 50 years, the long arm of the law finally tired of reaching for three men who jumped bond and disappeared after being indicted on murder charges.

At the request of the county prosecutor, who admitted the state has quit searching for the trio, Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Wasserman dismissed the indictments.

The three fugitives are: Peter Kiernan, indicted Dec. 8, 1907, for the murder of William Mehner; Tony Annibali, indicted Jan. 6, 1908, for the murder of Isnazio Lupica, and Phillippi Capone, indicted Jan. 6, 1909, for the murder of Joseph Tusso.

ECONOMY and TV SERVICE
Economical TV Service does not mean getting the "cheapest" repair job from a friend who "tinkers" or a neighbor who would like to learn at the your expense on your receiver.
True economy is getting the most service for your money. Oakland Country Electronic Association members have the test equipment and training and the "know how" gained from years of experience to do a professional job on your TV and other electronic equipment. Don't settle for less. Call an O. C. E. A. member for quick, efficient service.
