Coordinator Urged

Coroner System Viewed

An experienced administrator should be hired to coordinate Oakland County's coroner program, according to a group of local authorities.

The "coordinator" recommendation came out of a meeting today called by State Sen. Sander M. Levin, D-Berkley, and Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors.

Purpose of the meeting was to try to determine how the present coroner's system could be strengthened.

Weaknesses of the present system came to light in the tragic deaths last month at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Attending today's meeting in addition to Levin and Hamlin were Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the County Board of Auditors; Dr. Richard Olsen, pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital; David Levinson, chairman of the county's Ways and Means Committee; Cyril Miller, chairman of the county's health committee; and Dr. Bernard D. Berman, county health director.

The group's main recommendation, which will go to the county salaries committee Monday, was to hire an administrator to work as a coordinator of the total coroner program under Dr. Berman.

Cong Tighten Noose of Terror

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Viet Cong ranging from youthful saboteurs in Saigon to battlehardened battalions in the countryside are tightening a noose of terror around Saigon.

The threat at present is mostly psychological. But a massive terror campaign may be near for the capital, which has escaped much of the brutality of the war despite repeated terrorist acts.

No Viet Cong military attempt to seize the city is expected.

Government troops have been able to do little to clear the surrounding countryside.

WITHIN RIFLE SHOT

One such military area is almost within rifle shot of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division headquarters just north of Saigon.

Adding to the problem, rumblings of military discontent with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government have touched off a flurry of coup rumors.

At such times anti-Communist operations often are disregarded in favor of political jockeying.

INFILTRATION

Police sources say informers often fear being exposed by Viet.

Cong agents who have infiltrated into the government's version of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

High officials in Washington and Saigon have focused sharply on the recent campaign of terror in Saigon which began with the bombing Dec. 4 of the Metropole Hotel, a U.S. and allied hotel.

A series of incidents since led to a dusk-to-dawn curfew for U.S. servicemen in Saigon.

Concern is high now because the current terror campaign obviously is geared to the fifth anniversary today of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

FOUR KNOWN UNITS

Inside the city are four known Viet Cong commando units, the 66th, 67th, 158th and 159th. They probably total less than 300 persons.

Five Break-Ins Over Weekend

Arson Is Charged in Doctor's Office Fire

Pontiac police detectives are investigating a weekend rash of five break-ins, one of which resulted in a $17,000 fire at a doctor's office at 962 Joslyn.

Fire Marshal Charles Metz this afternoon filed an official charge of arson against person or persons unknown in connection with the fire, which Metz said was set with paper and matches.

Damage to the building occupied by Dr. Donald E. Fraser was put at $12,000 and loss of contents at $5,000.

KICKED IN

Pontiac police said the front door of the office had been kicked in.

Police said a truck may have been used in the theft of a score of radios and hi-fi's valued at $1,600 from Grubel Brothers at 27 S. Saginaw.

Entry to the store was gained when a rear window was smashed and the door unlocked.

Police said the goods were removed through the rear of the building, where radios were found stacked against the wall near a window.

LOSSES LARGE

Officials at the Thomas Jewelry Co. at 29 Lawrence, termed the store's losses as "considerable" after theft of watches, rings, jewelry and cash taken.

The store was entered when a hall entrance door and an inner door were forced open.

Torval Brandt of 314 N. Saginaw told Pontiac police his wallet containing personal papers and $15 was taken from his room as he slept.

One Inch of Snow Predicted

Light snow forecast for today is expected to accumulate to 1 inch by tonight causing slippery driving conditions.

Temperatures will fall to 16 to 24 through the night and rise to highs of 30 to 35 tomorrow. Wednesday's outlook is partly cloudy and warmer.

Morning winds southeasterly at 8 to 16 miles per hour will become northwest at 8 to 15 miles tonight.

A chilly 20 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the mercury registered 26.

Early Pages of Jesus' Life Unfilled

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press
Religion Writer

Out of the night, he came. Out of the shadows and the uncertainties, his life emerged. It was unknown, except in its consequences. He was reared and lived mostly in obscurity. But he gripped the world.

"If I glorify myself," he said, "my glory is nothing."

A certain of silence surrounds the time of Jesus on earth. Of his 33 years, there accounts only three. Nine-tenths of his biography is untold. Yet no other figure towers so great in the world's history.

It is a strange contrast. "The last shall be first," he said, "and the first last."

He dwelt as the least of men, in a dim corner of the unmentioned and unnoticed. Yet his name excels every name in the annals of mankind.

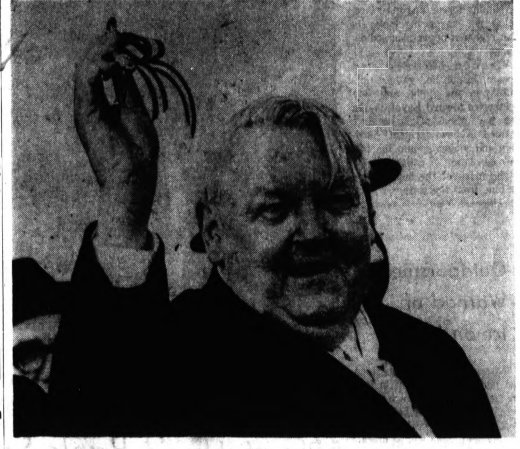

The long, formative stage before then is unrecorded, except in fragmentary intimations.

CONCEALED YEARS

The concealed years began at his birth in a hillside cave on the edge of Bethlehem—a dark and draughty limestone cavern used for animals—smelly, littered with official, crawling with insects.

There, in desperation, a transient peasant couple from Galilee, Joseph and Mary, had taken refuge for the delivery of her son.

KEYED UP FOR VISIT — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany waves the key to Washington, D.C. yesterday on his arrival at nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

The key was presented in special ceremonies as Erhard arrived in the United States for conferences with President Johnson and high government officials.

DeGaulle to Rule Seven More Years

PARIS (AP) — France settled back for more years of Gaullism today following President Charles de Gaulle's reelection to another seven-year term.

Although de Gaulle's failure to win on the first ballot two weeks ago gave clear notice that his popularity had slipped, almost no one expected the autocratic old man to alter his policy goals, however.

In the runoff election yesterday complete returns from European France and all overseas territories except Guinea and Polynesia gave the 75-year-old president 13,063,134 votes, or 55.18 per cent. Leftist Francois Mitterrand got 10,609,744.

About 84 per cent of the registered voters balloted, a near record turnout.

Mitterrand termed de Gaulle's victory "mediocre" and said he would turn his attention to the National Assembly elections in November 1967.

De Gaulle, who begins his new term Jan. 8, issued no victory statement from the seclusion of his estate in eastern France.

His supporters were overjoyed that he had pulled out from a humiliating first-round setback, in which he won only 43.9 per cent of the vote.

FACES 2 ITEMS

On the international scene, de Gaulle faces two items of unfinished business.

One is the negotiations in the six-nation European Common Market, which de Gaulle brought to an abrupt halt last June to block attempts to give the economic community's executive more power.

De Gaulle opposes any move toward supranationality by the Common Market administration. The five other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, De Gaulle has called for an end to military integration in the 15-nation alliance and has warned that if a basic change is not made, France will bow out by 1980.

Concrete proposals by de Gaulle for changes in NATO are expected early in 1966.

2 Long Weekends Due

Three-day holidays are in store for the majority of Pontiac area residents the next two weekends in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Most big plants and local governmental offices will shut down Friday, Saturday and Sunday the next two weekends.

However, most stores and banks and the post office will maintain hours the following two Fridays, closing for the weekends only.

City Hall offices will close on Thursday this week and next, employees returning to work the following Monday.

Waterford Township and Oakland County offices will be closed the next two Fridays, as will Fisher Body Division, Pontiac Motor Division and GMC Truck and Coach Division.

At GMC Truck and Coach Division, offices not related to the manufacturing operation also will be closed the next two Thursdays.

The Pontiac Post Office at 725 W. Huron will operate its normal 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

Postmaster William Donaldson said that, except for closing on Christmas and New Year's Day, the post office will maintain its regular hours.

The three major financial institutions have announced slightly altered schedules the next two weeks in observance of the holidays.

Bonn Expected to Offer Plan on N-Controls

Say Broad Outlines Follow Britain's Idea for Atlantic Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Johnson opened two days of talks today with the emphasis on Germany's efforts to gain a larger role in Europe's nuclear defenses.

The Germans have no nuclear weapons and rely on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as a deterrent against what Erhard has said are 1,000 middle-range Soviet missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Erhard was expected to present a plan for expanded control of those nuclear weapons now in Western Europe.

Administration officials knew in advance the broad outlines of his proposal, but declined public comment until after Erhard fills in the details.

As understood prior to the German's arrival, this would involve general support for the British idea of an Atlantic Nuclear Force — ANF.

JOINTLY OWNED

The Erhard-envisaged force, as understood in Washington, would be a fleet of American and British submarines equipped with Polaris missiles and jointly owned by interested nations.

At the outset, this probably would include the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands.

Thus, three nations — Germany, Italy and the Netherlands — would have a bigger say in the use of nuclear weapons.

Among those with Erhard in Washington are Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel.

LATE YESTERDAY

They arrived late yesterday afternoon and were greeted by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Humphrey said: "We rejoice in the friendly relations which exist between our two countries. I am confident our meetings will be productive."

Erhard responded: "We will do our best to strengthen our cooperation and to find fair solutions for our problems."

Sports Equipment Makes Excellent Christmas Gift

By JEANNE NELSON

Surprise the sport enthusiast with one of the numerous equipment gifts available in area stores.

A pair of beginners skis and poles will entice the kids to the slopes at the first snowfall. The set will run about $10.

Bowling bags will range in price from about $4 to $8. You'll be able to pick up a pair of women's bowling shoes for under $7. A tote bag to carry them is about $2.

A fisherman might like a hooded poncho of treated canvas measuring 52 by 80 inches. The cost is about $3.

FOR THE GOLFER

An attractive gift for the golfer would be a colorful umbrella for about $10. For the rare golfer who drops one in the water hole there is a long-handled ball retriever. This runs about $7.

Plaid covers of canvas that protect tennis rackets also hold the balls and can be purchased for $1.29.

solids in their own plastic carrying-cases. Each is about $10.

GUN RACK

For the hunter, a maple finished gun rack to hold six rifles or shotguns is available for about $75.

Women's and girls' figure skates are as popular as ever. They range in price from $8 to $15.

Men's and boys' racer skates can be purchased for under $15. For hockey playing, gloves are available for about $7.50 and shin guards for under $6.

Life Story Is Still Unfilled

perer Tiberius, also would put his birth in 7 B.C.

Coincidentally, in that year, as determined centuries afterward by astronomical calculations, an extraordinary conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn formed a brilliant sphere low in the evening sky.

A "star," says Matthew's gospel, beckoned the eastern sages, presumably from Persia, on their 1,200-mile journey of perhaps a year or more—in wonder and awe at what had transpired.

MONTHS BEFORE

Months before they could arrive, however, the elderly woodworker Joseph, and his young wife, Mary, obviously had decided to remain in Bethlehem rather than return at once to Nazareth.

Deemings insinuations had arisen there about her pregnancy, according to ancient noncanonical accounts, and the couple—almost alone in trusting the holy inception—chose to stay away from that strained hometown atmosphere.

Joseph could work in Bethlehem at his carpentry trade, and manage some sort of shelter, either of hand-made clay bricks, or by preparing one of the grottoes along the town plateau, where dwelt many of the common laborers and herdsmen.

Old writings, traced far back into the desert, describe Joseph as an aged, hard-working man, a widower when he wed Mary, and her at about 16. The traditions indicate her sister, Salome, came to help them.

COMMON NAME

The child, crucimenced at the age of 8 days by the village mohel, was called "Yeshua," or Jesus, a common name meaning the "Salvation of Jehovah." By usage, he would be known as Yashua Ben Joseph, Jesus Son of Joseph.

As a male child, and Mary's first-born, he would take on all the obligations and rights as the future head of the family.

At the end of her 40-day period of purification, as fixed in Mosaic law, the couple took the boy to the temple in Jerusalem for his dedication to God.

Although a lamb and turtle-dove were the prescribed offering for a new son, the poor were permitted to offer only two birds instead, as Joseph, a poor man, did.

IN BETHLEHEM

For more than a year, the couple apparently resided in Bethlehem, with the child almost entirely in his mother's care.

But sometime before the child reached the age of 2, the foreign astrologers arrived, with their mystic interpretations and their gifts.

The visit aroused suspicions of the depraved King Herod, whose fear of plots already had drenched his own household in blood.

He sent troops to destroy all Bethlehem nurslings up to the age of 2, a furious onslaught of screaming terror and massacre, yet a not surprising tactic in that region of oppression and defiance.

Warned beforehand in a dream, Joseph had gathered his family in the night, and fled southward toward Egypt, taking the boy, whose origins were framed in bewilderment, hardship and violence, into the further desolation of exile.

The mark of the outcast was on him, from the start.

Outdoorsmen Warned of Ice on Lakes

Skaters and winter fishermen met with encouragement in falling temperatures which freeze over many of the lakes in the Pontiac area this weekend.

Outdoors people will be literally on thin ice for at least another week, however, is the warning from L. Donald K. Kraft, head of the state safety division, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

"Two people on ice need a thickness of at least three inches," Kraft said, "and more than that need five inches."

Kraft urged extreme caution on apparently frozen county lakes, where at least seven persons drowned last year after breaking through the ice.

$200,000 Quarterback Goes to Boston Club

BOSTON (AP)—John Huarte, the $200,000 bonus quarterback who spent his first American Football League season as a nonplaying reserve, was acquired by the Boston Patriots from the New York Jets today for a veteran end and a high draft choice.

The Patriots sent 23-year-old Jim Conclough to the Jets. New York already had gotten Boston's fourth-round pick in last month's player draft as part of the deal.

5 Bloomfield Homes Robbed

Jewels, Furs Worth Thousands Taken

Thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and furs were stolen from five Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township homes Saturday night.

The break-ins apparently happened within minutes of each other early in the evening while the families were away from home.

In Bloomfield Hills, two diamond rings and a wristwatch were stolen from the Robert E. Schultz residence at 110 Denbar between 3 and 5 p.m.

Thieves netted a mink stole, fox cape and assorted jewelry from the Morton Von Eberstein home at 1421 Pembroke between 5:30 and 6 p.m.

Bloomfield Hills Police Chief Walter Sluiter wouldn't reveal the value of the items taken but said the thieves entered both homes by breaking windows.

DOORS PRIED

Shortly after midnight Saturday, three houses on Brookdale in Bloomfield Township were entered by prying open doors.

The break-ins occurred at the homes of David Pence, 5305 Brookdale; Harry Lipson, 5335 Brookdale; and C. B. Cary, 5383 Brookdale.

Pence has not yet estimated the value of items taken from his home, although furs and jewelry taken from the other two were estimated at $4,000 each.

Bloomfield Township police noted that not all of the jewelry taken was genuine. They said they received reports of several other burglary attempts in which the thieves apparently were frightened away.

Long Holidays Due in Next Two Weeks

Association of Oakland will maintain hours of 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. this Friday and next, staying open until 6 p.m. Thursday and closing at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Pontiac State Bank's schedule is the same except it will open at 10 a.m. each day.

Most Pontiac Mall stores will close at 5 p.m. Christmas Eve and at 5:30 p.m. New Year's Eve, compared with the regular closing time of 9 p.m.

The majority of stores at the Tel-Huron Shopping Center and downtown will shut down at 5:30 p.m. the next two Fridays, while Bloomfield Miracle Mile Shopping Center businesses, for the most part, will stay open until 6 p.m.

2 Bank Suspects Face Hearing

Two men charged with robbing a Bloomfield Township bank of $21,258 Friday were to be arraigned in Federal District Court in Detroit at 3 p.m. today.

They are Rentz Nicholson Jr., 31, of 175 Victory and Darnell L. Colbert, 28, of 460 Nevada.

The pair came to Pontiac from Alliance, Ohio, three months ago, according to the FBI, which is conducting the investigation.

Nicholson was arrested four minutes after the branch office of Pontiac State Bank, 970 W. Long Lake, was held up by a lone gunman.

His alleged accomplice was taken into custody about an hour and a half later at a gas station in Pontiac.

STOLEN CAR
According to police, Nicholson was driving a stolen car when he was apprehended. The car had been taken from the parking lot at the Fisher Body Plant.

He was stopped by Bloomfield Hills patrolman Leroy Jans and Bloomfield Township patrolman Gilbert Fowler at Woodward and Long Lake, less than two miles from the scene of the crime.

Two zippered pillow cases containing $21,258 were found in the car. Nicholson had an automatic pistol in his pocket.

Police theorize that Nicholson was to have met Colbert at a predetermined location to transfer the loot to another car, but that the plan went awry when he was captured so quickly.

Nicholson had been seen parked along Woodward near Square Lake Road by a Sheriff's deputy on his way to intercept the bandit's car.

The members are parts of Communist cells, and subcells and most are unknown to each other.

Over-all plans are known only by a top handful. If one cell or group is compromised, the sabotage network does not collapse.

Fanning out of Saigon into Gia Dinh Province, also part of the capital military district, are perhaps five Viet Cong district organizations, some with military companies attached.

Finance Director for Osteopathic College Named

William S. Woodman, 61, has been appointed director of finance for the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine slated for Auburn and Odyke.

Woodman of 2355 W. Waukegan, Troy, will work on a part-time basis, according to Dr. Alan M. Potts, chairman of the MCOM Board of Trustees.

The new finance director will be responsible for accounting and financial matters.

For many years a partner in the Detroit office of Touche, Ross, Bailey & Smart, Woodman retired in 1964. He is married and has two daughters.

tracer round fired into the fuel tanks or a mortar round into one of the many ammunition ships waiting to unload could set the entire area ablaze.

If the fire ignited and spilled into the Saigon River during an incoming tide, a wall of fire might sweep upriver to Saigon.

Police activity in Saigon is the best in the country, but it still is not effective enough to prevent repeated bombings of American billets and installations.

It seems unlikely that the Viet Cong would try to take physical possession of the city since they do not have the military organization to back up such a move.

Their hit-and-run tactics are expected to remain unchanged.

By putting pressure on Saigon, the Viet Cong also are causing themselves difficulties since they depend to large measure on fairly free movement in and out of the city for intelligence, extortion of money, medical supplies, material for uniforms and the like.

Big jobs, such as the bombing of the U.S. Embassy, are assigned to special terrorist organizations from outside of Saigon.

Designers to Offer Plan for Car Shopping Center

BIRMINGHAM — A proposal by urban designers to prepare a plan for an automotive shopping center will be considered by the City Commission tonight.

Crane and Gorwic proposed a study which would result in three alternative recommendations. The firm would prepare an automotive mart philosophy to cover the Woodward frontage and extend westward to the present residential area.

Submitting a proposed work schedule is Crane and Gorwic Associates, Inc., a Detroit planning, urban design and architecture firm.

Automobile dealers last April presented a plan to the commission to create an automotive shopping center on South Woodward.

The commission last month decided to hire a planning firm to study the entire area bounded by Daines, Hunter, Lincoln, Floyd and Purdy.

Nativity Scene Is Pride of Yanks, Viets

By HUGH MULLIGAN
CAN THO, South Viet Nam (AP) — A life-size mannequin in GI fatigues stands guard behind a sandbag bunker over the largest Nativity scene in the entire Mekong River delta.

The Christmas creche in the 4th Corps Military Compound was put together with clothing store dummies, procured from a Saigon department store supplier. Then there were hours of labor, contributed by American soldiers and by church workers from surrounding Vietnamese Christian churches.

"We worried about the propriety of having the security guard on duty at the bunker," said Lt. Col. Frank C. Riley, the corps chaplain from Augusta, Ga. "But after all, the compound was under mortar fire within the past five months and peace on earth is obtained only with eternal vigilance."

Riley, the Protestant chaplain, made numerous scouting trips to Saigon with Maj. Alvin L. Campbell of Springfield, Ill., the Roman Catholic chaplain, to find the life-size mannequins. Between them, they had only a little more than $100, most of it raised by passing the hat in the vicinity of the post exchange, officers club, enlisted men's bar and other sections of the high-ground district.

"When we finally located a man who could provide the dummies, he wanted $380," said Chaplain Riley.

At that point we decided to buy half figures at less than half the price.

For weeks Father Campbell worried that perhaps the Saigon supplier might send the wrong half. But the convoy managed to make the 70-mile trip down the delta without being intercepted by the Viet Cong, and the correct half, the upper half, of all 18 figures arrived on time.

Vietnamese church workers with the local Christian Missionary Alliance sewed beautiful garments for the mannequins. GIs went to work building a huge stable out of bamboo mats and fashioning wooden stilt legs for St. Joseph.

Men and the other traditional figures in the Nativity scene.

TRUE SPIRIT
"That angel up there is a true embodiment of spirit," said Chaplain Riley. "It's just a head and a pair of wings."

Similarly, the three oxen poking their heads into the stable are lacking in substance from the neck down. Enterprising military planners filled out the pinhole sections with rolled up ponchos, and provided rope tails.

Vietnamese girls from a church choir in Can Tho painted all the figures and, where proper, provided them in cotton bears. Vo Hiep, a petite and charming secretary, had planned to take three days off during Christmas to be with her family. Instead she took the time off to work on the crib in the compound.

Father Campbell found some gold — an ammunition box wrapped in gold gift paper, and first," said the chaplain. "No frankincense — regular church incense — for the traditionality guard."

WORK PROGRESSES—Construction of Crittenton General Hospital, Rochester, is moving along rapidly thanks to good weather. The project was originally expected to take about two years but if conditions prevail, it may be completed sooner. A fund-raising campaign is being reactivated to make up a $200,000 deficit in the building fund for the 207-bed hospital on Walton Boulevard.

Avon Will Air Rezoning Plan

AVON TOWNSHIP — The 46.6 acres in question is located near the Clinton River and Grand Trunk Railroad will be given an opportunity tomorrow night to seek answers to questions regarding a proposed rezoning.

Members of the Township Board, the Regional Planning Commission, the Township Zoning Board and the zoning board of appeals will be on hand to explain the proposed change from residential to light industrial zoning.

Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said a public hearing on the matter will be held Jan. 19. He said tomorrow night's meeting is just to give residents a chance to ask questions.

The rezoning request was made by R. & C. Robertson, Inc., developers of Tienken Manor Subdivision.

14 Area Men Pass Bar Examinations

Fourteen area men are among those who passed their Michigan State Bar examinations in August, the organization announced yesterday.

Birmingham residents who passed the examination are Donald L. Wood, Leon D. Stein, Thomas V. Giles, Ronald J. Santo, William R. Ralls, James P. Melican Jr., Michael R. Dinnin and Walter C. Brown.

Others are Arthur J. Tarnow of Farmington, William D. MacMachan of Milford, Jerry D. Hancum and Kenneth G. Hance Jr. of Troy and Alan D. Bortman and Michael E. Bortman of Utica.

Require Lots of Care

Yule Trees 'Cultured' Now

EAST LANSING (AP) — Chances are your Christmas tree this year didn't come from out in the forest, but from down on the farm.

And chances are it received almost as much special care as, for example, the Michigan apples you might have eaten this fall.

University forestry professor says those nicely shaped trees on Christmas tree lots didn't just grow that way naturally.

"The $3 to $4 tree may have had five shearings, plus spraying, planting and protection against fire," he said. "Really, it's a bargain."

SPECIAL PRUNING
Bell estimated that 90 percent of the trees dressing up Michigan living rooms this holiday season required special pruning and shearing to come out in the shape they did.

Department says if cut-and-waiting trees can be shipped in time to meet booming demands, a record 4.5 million Michigan Christmas trees may be sold this holiday season.

Some of those trees, Bell said, go as far as California, where a tree that wholesales for $2 in Michigan brings as much as $15. Last year, the department reported, Michigan growers sold 3.3 million trees, worth $20 million.

12,000 IN BUSINESS
Bell estimated about 12,000 persons are involved in Michigan's Christmas tree business. And, he said, it is a 9½-year process to put a Christmas tree on the market.

Nurseries plant the seeds and sell the seedlings for two years, then sell them to growers who tend them for 7½ more years.

Shearing and shaping takes off top and side branches, Bell said, so that growth is retarded slightly—probably by about two years.

AS HOBBY
Michigan's Christmas tree growers include, besides regular farmers, some retirees, city persons who raise the trees as a hobby and some persons who bought land for hunting and are raising trees as a sideline, Bell said.

But, just like regular farmers, these part-time growers have to learn about spraying, cultivating and other skills connected with farming. They qualify for educational help from the Cooperative Extension Service, he added.

It would be a tremendous advantage, Bell said, if Christmas trees naturally grew into a perfect shape. MSU's Jonathan Wright is working on developing such trees.

He is finding that seeds from Scotch pine varieties in northern Spain and Southern France produce better shapes, but the perfect shape still is a dream," Bell added.

LARGEST STUDY
With 257 seed sources under test, Wright's project is the largest Scotch pine study ever made, Bell said.

Scotch pines are by far the most popular type of Christmas tree, he said. He estimated this year's Michigan crop would include 90 per cent Scotch pine, 7 per cent Spruce and 3 per cent Balsam and Douglas Fir.

Traffic Claims 26 Lives in State Over Weekend

By The Associated Press
A two-car accident which took the lives of three members of one family and three double-fatals brought Michigan's traffic death count to 26 on the last weekend before Christmas.

Kenneth Frenzel, 26, his wife, Donna, 27, and daughter, Kimberly, 2, were killed in the two-car accident in Dayton Township of Tuscola County Sunday. The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

James Balentine, 36, of Benton Harbor, died of injuries Sunday after he was found at the side of the road earlier in the day, an apparent hit-and-run victim.

Frederick Padgett, 12, of Montrose was killed near his home

Sunday when he rode his bicycle in front of a car on M57.

Stuart Stowell, 30, of Montponery and Rose Myers, 28, of Colon were killed Sunday when their car collided with a train at a railroad crossing in Colon.

Clyde P. Sander, 55, of River Rouge was killed Sunday when his car struck a tree in Ecorse. Audrey Bentz, 38, of Ludington, wife of Mason County Sheriff Wallace Bentz, was killed Sunday when her car failed to make a curve at U.S. 10 and U.S. 31 in Mason County.

STRUCK BY CAR

Judith Hartigh, 13, of Grand Rapids was killed Sunday when she was struck by a car near her home.

Grace Ann Doyle, 28, of Flint was killed Sunday in a two-car crash in Vienna Township, Genesee County.

Norman Crawford, 62, of rural Imlay City was killed Sunday in a two-car crash near Lapeer. Thomas Adkins, 27, of Port Huron was killed Sunday when his car struck a highway divider in Port Huron Township.

2-CAR CRASH

Fred Shepherd, 32, of Hillman was killed Sunday in a two-car crash on U.S. 23 in Bay County.

Stanley Maroskey, 71, of Ontonagon was killed Sunday when he was struck by a car while crossing a road four miles south of Ontonagon.

Ronnie Robinson of Plymouth was killed when his car crashed in Northville Saturday.

David Soden, 25, of Monroe was killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding was struck from behind by a truck on the Detroit-Toledo expressway in Monroe.

LOST HIS LIFE

Andrew Mazzoni, 29, of Dearborn lost his life Friday when his car crashed in Allen Park.

Charles Brown, 35, of Trenton was killed Friday when his car struck a parked truck in Southgate.

Lee O. Creech, 25, of Madison Heights was killed Friday when his car ran off a Detroit street and struck a tree.

Shirley Marie Crall, 28, of Jonesville was killed Friday when the car in which she was a passenger left M99 and struck a utility pole near Hilldale.

John Emil Pelkie, 58, of Princeton was killed Saturday when he was struck by a car while walking on M35 in Marquette County.

Walter D. Mooney Jr., 21, of Battle Creek and Barbara Mortenson, 22, of Watervliet were killed Saturday when their car rammed the rear of a truck on I-96 in Lansing.

Mrs. Eloise Meyers, 54, and her daughter, Edith Ann, 19, both of Kendall, were killed Friday in a two-car crash near Kalamazoo.

Subdivision Decorating for Contest

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Residents of North Kimberley Subdivision are being encouraged to deck the walls — and roofs and yards — of their homes for Christmas.

A Christmas house decorating contest is being sponsored by the subdivision's improvement association, with judging scheduled for tonight.

Thompson-Brown Co., developer of the two-year-old subdivision, is offering the incentive.

An AM-FM portable radio will be awarded as first prize, a portable two-station intercom system for second and an automatic coffee maker for third. There are some 150 homes in the subdivision at 14 Mile and Orchard Lake roads.

Yule Dramatization Scheduled Wednesday

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A Christmas dramatization entitled "Unto Us a King" will be presented by the Mandon Lake Community Church Sunday school at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

A special Christmas Communion hour is planned for 11 p.m. to midnight Christmas Eve at the church, 915 Round Lake.

Honda Leads Way

Japan Now Tops in Motorcycle Exports

TOKYO (AP) — Japan struck it rich in world trade with inexpensive, good quality cameras and radios. Now there's another entry — motorcycles.

These aren't the powerful beasts the boys in black leather roar around on. These are light one- or two-cylinder jobs, inexpensive to buy, inexpensive to operate. America is the big market, and Japan leads the world in exports, with growing competition from France, Italy, Germany and Britain.

For Japan, the story began 50 years ago when the first automobile chugged into the sleepy village of Kinyo in central Japan. When the dust settled, a boy named Soichiro Honda noticed several drops of gasoline on the ground. He sniffed the strange aroma and was, he said later, "intoxicated." His fascination with the gasoline engine has never dimmed.

Today at 60, Honda, the son of the village blacksmith, is Japan's largest manufacturer of motorcycles. Japan this year will turn out 2.4 million motorcycles, half the world's total. Of this, Honda will account for 65 per cent. Some 900,000 Hondas will be exported this year, mostly to the United States.

SUCCESS STORY

Honda's success story is in many ways the story of the postwar Japanese motorcycle industry.

In the early 1950s, there were some 60 manufacturers of motorcycles. Honda Motors was one of these, starting with 35 employees and a capital of one million yen or $2,777.

Automobiles were still beyond the reach of the average Japanese, but as the postwar economic recovery progressed, people began to want something more than a bicycle, the chief mode of private transportation. The answer was a bicycle with an engine.

IDEA CAUGHT ON

The idea caught on so fast makers couldn't turn out machines quick enough. As prosperity continued, the demand was for better and better models — and the competition became tougher. Today only six motorcycle makers remain in business in Japan.

Honda has expanded to four air-conditioned factories employing 8,000 workers, plus a research laboratory where 700 specialists spend $833,333 a month tinkering with new ideas. Last August Honda turned out 135,394 motorcycles, its highest monthly output.

Second largest maker is the Suzuki Co. which switched from weaving machinery to motorcycles and now has an output of 30,000 two-stroke motorcycles a month. Suzuki employs 4,000 workers and a research staff of 350.

Honda and Suzuki, together with the No. 3 maker, Yamaha, have their plants at Hamamatsu, a central Japan city just 12 miles from Honda's home town of Komyo.

BIG BREAK

The big break for Japanese motorcycles came in 1958 when Honda developed a highly efficient four-cycle engine for a 50cc motorbike that could go 45 m.p.h., looked like a lady's bicycle and was fueled with straight gasoline instead of a gas-oil mixture.

This type of bike, which was promptly imitated by other Japanese makers but with two-stroke engines, changed the lives of millions of Japanese and almost immediately won acceptance abroad.

By Kreigh Collins

"I don't believe in just meeting a demand," Honda says. "A manufacturer should create a market. We are strictly boom makers."

His publicity concentrated on changing the image of the motorcycle as a leather-jacketed ruffian on an ugly, noisy machine.

He tried to remake the motorcycle image into something intimate, clean, attractive, that can be easily handled by anyone. "You meet the nicest people on a Honda," the advertisements say.

The 7.5 million motorcycle users in Japan today include almost everyone.

NO IMITATION

To prove Japan's motorbikes were no imitation of the West, Honda entered the British Grand Prix race in 1963. Since 1961, Honda, Suzuki and Yamaha bikes have monopolized the world championships in the four light classes.

Southeast Asia is Japan's closest motorcycle market. But the United States is the best customer. Because, as a Japanese motorcycle industry association official said, "There is no local rival industry and no restrictions on imports."

Although Honda has built an assembly plant in Brussels, the European market is still difficult for Japanese bikes as France, Italy, West Germany, Spain, Britain, Austria, and Belgium are concentrating on under 50cc type "mopeds" that require no driver's license.

France is next to Japan in motorcycle production, according to official statistics, but its 1,132,741 production in 1964 included only 8,000 bikes with more than 50cc engine capacity. Industry experts here expect Japanese production to reach 3 million annually to meet an estimated annual domestic demand of 2 million and an export demand of 1 million.

It Seems to Me . . .

Small Nations Consistently Out-Vote United States in UN

We still live in the throes of reapportionment. State legislatures struggle to conform to the "one man, one vote" as proclaimed by our Supreme Court. And yet, let's consider the "one man, one vote" in the United Nations. This year we have admitted three new members and you will be interested in their size.

Gambia has 316,000 people. This is considerably less than half the population of Oakland County and yet Gambia has one vote — the same as the whole United States.

We have nearly 195 million.

Another newcomer, Singapore, has a population of less than two million. That's about the size of Wayne County; and Wayne County with all the rest of the United States added in, possesses one vote. So does Singapore.

Maldiv Islands were also admitted this year and if you've ever heard of Maldiv Islands, I'll try and turn a triple somersault. The natives of this "influential" agency live on 200 islands in the middle of an ocean and you'll need three guesses to identify the ocean. It's the Indian. The total population there is about 100,000. In other words they're slightly bigger than Pontiac and they have one whole, complete, full-fledged vote in the United Nations. So does Pontiac — when you add in the rest of the entire United States.

The Maldivian share of the cost of the United Nations probably totals about 87 cents a century.

Gabon (no, you never heard of this either), has 450,000 people and one full vote and so does Kuwait with 322,000.

Today delegates that represent about one-tenth of the total United Nations population have 67% of the voting power. And their total financial contributions are around 5%. Instead of a case of the tail wagging the dog, here is a case of the last hair at the end of the tail wagging the dog and the tail.

Does Justice Warren's Supreme Court plan to "do something" about this fearful inequality?

Does anyone? The people in the United States are cheated out of everything — except the exclusive "right" to pay the bills for these international midgeets and pygmies. And they oppose us whenever they please and are happy to scream:

"Yank, go home." But they want us to make out our certified check before we depart.

Just One Question . . .

This newspaper has supported Senator PHILIP HART for office twice. During each campaign he declared to us that he was an "independent Democrat."

Senator, your current record as chaired by the ADA suggests a complete denial. This organization lists your voting record as 100% — for them. Only two other Senators out of the entire 100 are equally stigmatized. In our estimation this ranks you far out to the left as a full-fledged Socialist-Democrat.

As a matter of fact, only nineteen among the entire 435 members of the House of Representatives are similarly characterized.

Sir, what has happened to your vaunted "independence?"

Varied Opinions . . .

The argument rages anew. Supporters of Unidentified Flying Objects are positive that the orange fire ball that startled us ten days ago was a manifestation from the outer world.

Scientists say "no."

Quite a few people named specific places where it "landed." They varied by hundreds of miles and not a single one uncovered a thing. The Air Force says more UFO's have been reported this year than in any time since 1957 when there were over a thousand.

The Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America states positively they're "from outer space." The head of the California group even claims he talked to an occupant in 1960 who told him to run for President. (He campaigned briefly).

Me? I think "no."
What do YOU think?

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Balloting at this year's Chamber of Commerce election was the heaviest in history. Five good men were elected — and five good men were defeated. . . . Here's one you may want to enjoy: Voisin, one of New York's top restaurants, has a very special "Holiday Dinner for Four." And it's a bargain: $145. . . . Signs are appearing in Santo Domingo: "Yanks Go Home — and Take Us With You."

Trusted accounts advise me Pam Davidson deserves mention as one of the area's very attractive young ladies. . . . One out of every two teen-age marriages ends in divorce. Those marrying in the twenties are 300% better off. . . . Michigan State is a 14 point favorite in the Rose Bowl. . . . If you're an average reader, you do 300 words a minute. . . . Ratings show Walter Cronkite continues to edge out Huntley-Brinkley.

PAM

The safest day to drive is Tuesday, and Saturday is the most dangerous, according to the latest 12-month statistics. . . . Overheard: "Is waterworks one word or is there a hydrant between?" . . . Shoplifting in big metropolitan centers reached an all-time peak this Christmas season. Prosecutions are vigorous in self-defense. . . . New York State race-track fans bet an unbelievable $1.2 billion in 1965. The State's share was a cool $130 million. . . . David Lawrence Says:

Cost for Debt Interest Ignored

WASHINGTON — What might be done with $12 billion if the United States government could save what it pays out now in annual interest on the public debt?

This expenditure is next to the highest item in the entire budget, ranking second only to a national defense.

The annual interest obligation in that five-year period from June 30, 1961, to June 30, 1966, will have risen by $3 billion because the federal debt itself will show an increase of approximately $36 billion.

During this same five years, too, the federal government has had a cumulative deficit of $32 billion in the budget.

"Deficit spending" is popular nowadays, and the country has been urged by administration officials, as well as by many leading economists, to accept the doctrine that deficits are constructive and a boon to the national economy.

The prevailing idea today is that deficits and the public debt do not matter, irrespective of how high they continue to go. Much of the so-called "Great Society" program has been undertaken in the belief that the country isn't going to worry about deficits any longer.

But the bigger and bigger interest payments point up what is really happening as the deficits accumulate.

Nobody in the government seems to be much concerned about what it means to pay out $12 billion a year in interest on borrowed money.

Nor does there seem to be much criticism because the government has to borrow the money with which to pay almost all of the interest.

Indeed, indications are that the interest will go up to $13 billion in the next fiscal year.

If frugality and a balanced budget had been a national policy under this and preceding administrations, the interest cost would be far lower today.

But the spending of over $13 billion annually for interest charges alone appears to be the prospect now, and this might even be substantially increased in the next five years, because so many citizens have been "brainwashed" into thinking that "deficit spending" is the key to economic progress.

Indeed, as long as the American people are indifferent, the prospect is for continued deficits, a rising national debt, and increases in the interest payment of billions.

The danger is that the amount of money the government has to borrow to pay its bills could create an inflationary psychology and generate fears that the dollar might come to be worth only a few pennies in purchasing power.

The moral is that interest on debt is an expense that should be paid out of a balanced budget and should not be constantly tacked on.

Bob Considine Says:

Death of Space Official Mars Gemini Jubilation

CAPE KENNEDY — Astronauts Borman, Lovell, Schirra and Stafford, an unprecedented population explosion in space — could almost see the ugly mountain-side where Randy Lovelace, who did so much to make their space flights possible, lay dead in the ruins of his little plane.

Dr. Lovelace was the world's foremost man of space medicine, the Pasture, the Later, even the Schweitzer of the cosmos.

He, more than any other medical man in the world, proceeded with his work, satisfied that the human frame and its wiggly contents could "take" whatever space had to offer. And overcome it. We've bet billions of dollars on that.

His death at almost precisely the moment when his disciples were proving out his theories — that man can weather long periods of weightlessness and function well, even rendezvous in space — cast a sorry smog over what should have been the happiest news conference the national space agency ever held.

TIME AND AGAIN

Time and again, members of the panel came back to Randy Lovelace, though their primary reason for being there was to shed light on the astonishing events of that day: perfect lift-off of Gemini 6's suspect Titan II, the enchanting 1,200 mile "chase," and the triumphant dawn flight into a symbolic tandem.

Everybody wanted to say something about Randy, and for good reason.

Men will go off to greater achievements in space, to the moon and beyond, because of that fine man who, with his eyes on the stars, was crushed to death against a lousy little earthly mountain.

Capt. Walter Schirra, USN, 43, has probably served his time in space. He will not be used again in Project Gemini, will presumably be too old to go to the moon — when the road to it is built at the end of the decade.

Too bad, if true. He's one Helluva man.

'Democrats Talk of Peacetime Prosperity

A Democratic Congressman from Texas stated, after the Federal Reserve Bank raised the interest rate, that we had never had a peacetime prosperity such as we have enjoyed in the past four years. What peacetime prosperity? Thousands not directly involved in Viet Nam can make the statement we are not in war but to those young men in Viet Nam I think the story would be different.

May God help our young men, for the Democrats will not, but will use them as they are in Viet Nam. All mothers and dads who voted for this give-away administration and see their sons go 10,000 miles away to fight communism and let it grow stronger in this country, don't pray, because you asked for it.

'Americans Want Others to Fight for Them'

We proud Americans are a fine lot, always wanting the next fellow to do the fighting and dying for us. My husband was proud. He saw war, death and all the dirt that goes with it. Now our son is in a war that we have no business in and if the slaughter is not over next year they will take our other son. Our flag, heritage, and soul are not in Viet Nam. And since when is Viet Nam our freedom symbol, as some put it.

While we deplete our youth, the Asians grow in number. One day, when we have no fighting men, they could swarm on us like ants. Our boys are fighting communism while our Supreme Court swings the door wide open to them. Mothers, let's be heard. If you don't have a son in today, you may have one in tomorrow.

Comments on Appointment of Murphy

There's a lot of protest against Seeterlin's placing the Murphy boy in a big job. The big laugh in all of it comes from that Mr. Swem. It would take some of the end of the line like he must be to compare a private business to a public one. A private business can place a ten-year-old child in charge if it wants to, and no one loses but the owner who made the mistake. But when inexperience is placed in a big job that belongs to the taxpayers, it is a very different matter. Even the Swems should understand that, without having someone to tell them.

MURPHY BUT A DIFFERENT FAMILY

I think it is time to tell the facts about Shane Murphy, First. He did what the paper, television and radio said to do — get a high school education. He then went to the army and was left with an honorable discharge. He then got a job in a factory, did some people try to degrade a man who is trying to better himself? Do they believe in our two-party system? That old motto "live and let live" is good to live by. If you can't help, don't knock.

'Important to Consider Proper Education'

George Shackelford, recently resigned superintendent of Avondale schools, represents that fine group of educators who always place the needs of students first. Under his careful financial guidance a large operating deficit was eliminated, classrooms, libraries and multipurpose rooms were built, and teachers of special training and talent were added for elementary vocal music, art and remedial reading.

Citizens of Avondale, another chapter of the school's rugged history closes. You may or may not like the past events but the important thing to consider is the proper education of our sons and daughters. The future is still what we make it. Let's make it great.

General Assembly Faces New Peace-Keeping Fund Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A new fight over the U.N. General Assembly's peace-keeping powers is slowing its drive to adjourn by midnight Tuesday.

The dispute in the budgetary committee is over a resolution drafted by Canada to have the assembly finance the U.N. Emergency Force—UNEF—in the Middle East through 1965 and 1966.

The Soviet Union is campaigning against the proposal with its familiar argument that the Security Council—not the assembly—has sole authority to originate and finance peace-keeping forces.

The assembly was unable to finance UNEF or do much of anything else last session because of the quarrel over whether the Soviet Union, France and others should lose their votes for refusing to pay assembly peace-keeping assessments. The United States eventually dropped its threat to invoke the no-vote penalty, the assembly buried the quarrel and members agreed to make voluntary contributions to cover a $100-million peace-keeping deficit.

WOULD APPORTION COST

Under the pending resolution, the assembly would appropriate $33.9 million to run the force this year and next and would apportion the cost among all 117 U.N. members. The richer ones would pay more.

Even before the proposal was introduced Saturday, Hungarian delegate Jozsef Tardos called for withdrawal of the force and said he would vote against any mandatory assessments.

After the resolution was introduced, Soviet delegate Viktor F. Ulanchev said only the Security Council had peace-keeping powers and the assembly had violated the charter in setting up UNEF. He said the resolution violated the charter, too, and he would vote against it.

Raul Quijano of Argentina told the committee the force should be financed through voluntary contributions.

In introducing the resolution, Stuart Hemley of Canada said it was the best that could be worked out in consultation with the widest possible group of countries.

Indications were that the United States might abstain in the voting. Congress has said the United States should pay no more than a third of assessed U.N. expenses. The resolution would have it pay nearly two-fifths.

The resolution appropriates $18.9 million for 1965 and $15 million for 1966, when UNEF is to be reduced from 4,579 to 3,959 troops.

For 1965, $3.9 million would come from more than $20 million in voluntary contributions that 23 countries have pledged to help pay off the peace-keeping deficit. The balance of the $15 million would be apportioned among all members—but 26

"economically developed countries" would put up $14.2 million and the other 91 U.N. members would put up $800,000.

The developed countries also would be asked to pay 25 per cent more than their apportionment "to meet reserve requirements."

Calendars in Portrait

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Camera fans might solve some of their Christmas gift-giving problems with some of the photographic books which have made their appearance in time for the holiday season.

For cat lovers, there's the annual treat of the 1966 "Cat Calendar."

Here we have an appealing cat picture for every week in the new year plus a color cover, by Walter Chandra, tabby's best-known photographer.

This spiral-bound, engagement book by Berkshire Publishing Co., Cambridge, Mass., has a practical purpose: to keep track of appointments and things to do daily.

In order not to be accused of animal discrimination, editor Ruth V. Noble publishes dog, horse and bird calendars as well. Though inexpensive, a little better printing quality might enhance the pictures' pin-up value.

TOP QUALITY

For superb printing quality, take a look at "Washington: Magnificent Capital" with photography by Fred J. Maroon and text by A. Robert Smith and Eric Severeid.

Maroon's 200 photographs—40 in color—comprise an artistic but revealing composite portrait of our nation's capital.

It is supplemented by 15 chapters of informative, historical and human sidelights of Washington's activities and personalities by two perceptive observers.

For a trip to the Orient along paths seldom taken by tourists, we have an unusually talented guide in Morton W. Huber, a professor at Morgan State College, Md.

ORIENTAL TOUR

In "Vanishing Japan," he takes us through the fishing villages and rural byways in words, photographs, watercolors and pen and pencil sketches.

Huber used a Japanese 2½x-2½ twin-lens reflex camera in capturing the 88 photographs (one-third of them in color) reproduced in the book.

Though originally trained as a chemist and a member of the chemistry faculty, Huber has also taught painting, illustration, etching and photography.

It's interesting to note that in addition to his teaching career, he maintains an active photo studio.

Finally, to experience the warm glow that comes with off-beat baby pictures, study the human touch revealed in so many of the photographs in "Baby Animals and Their Mothers."

Originating in Munich, Germany, this is the latest in a "family" of Terra Magica books. Its predecessor was "Children and Their Mothers."

Report on Baker by Grand Jury Due in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury is expected to deliver its long-awaited report on Bobby Baker within a month, it was learned yesterday.

The jury has spent the last 15 months investigating dealings by Baker, the former Senate Democratic secretary.

Possible income tax violations, conflict of interest, false statements to government officials and lobbyist activities are among the items under consideration.

It was understood that the jury, which is working in high secrecy, plans to wrap up its report in January after a holiday break.

Yule Project Aids Needy Children

PIPPA' PASSES, Ky. (AP) — A Christmas custom, planted in this tiny community nearly 50 years ago, will bloom again this year in the smiles of 20,000 poverty-stricken children.

Since last summer, students at Alice Lloyd College have been preparing small Christmas gifts for elementary school children in one-room schools of the eastern Kentucky mountains.

For many of the children, this is all there is to Christmas.

"For eight years—all through grade school—I received gifts from the project," a mountain girl, now a student at the school here, said.

HARD TIMES
"Some of those years, my daddy had no work. He's a miner. They were hard times. Christmas parties were about all we got."

Alice Lloyd started a Christmas giving program three years after she arrived in 1916 from Boston. She also founded the school that was to become a junior college bearing her name.

Mrs. Lloyd, who came to the hill country for a quiet place to write and stayed to become an angel to the needy, started her project with Christmas parties for local residents on the school's green.

"We took flour sacks and put presents in them for the whole family—maybe a coat for the man of the house, an apron or a dress for the mother and toys for the children," Miss June Buchanan recalls.

CAME TO HELP

Miss Buchanan, who came here to help Mrs. Lloyd during a week's vacation and never left, said Dan Martin became the program's first Santa Claus in 1923.

"But the program got so big that a few years later we stopped having a yearly party and started giving gifts at the schools."

"Why, people had started coming from miles away—on foot and on horseback—and there were nearly 1,500 of them at one time," she said.

Mrs. Lloyd continued personal supervision of the Christmas project until her death several years ago. Now, Mrs. William Hays, wife of the school's president, is in charge.

ONE-ROOM SCHOOLS

Mrs. Lloyd sent presents to all mountain schools, but now they go only to one-room schools in the eastern Kentucky area.

"That way, we are pretty sure all of the children who receive the gifts need them," Mrs. Hays said.

Washington Scene

'Guns vs. Butter' Viewed

By Esther Van Wagon Tufty
WASHINGTON — The dilemma of the Johnson administration in striking a balance between the needs of the military and the Great Society programs is gradually coming into focus.

Congressman Gerald R. Ford, A-Grand Rapids, the minority leader of the House and a top military expert in Congress from his experience on the defense appropriations subcommittee, has this to say in an interview:

"In view of the President's stepped-up program in Viet Nam he must take the lead in cutting back new and expanded domestic programs to marshal the nation's strength for the military effort. He can not afford bureaucracy as usual."

Then the Michigan Republican added: "If federal expenditures continue to soar for both . . . guns and butter . . . we can expect only one of two results: the restoration of many old taxes and perhaps even some new ones or a 'badly unbalanced budget with run away inflation.'"

The secretaries of agriculture and interior, Freeman and Udall, have indicated that there will be adjustments downward in the fiscal year 1967 programs of their respective departments. But the departments responsible for the principal Great Society program have not been heard from as yet.

SERIOUS WEAKNESSES

The War on Poverty has developed some serious weaknesses, and requirements of the war effort may provide the President with an opportunity to modify the activity downward without too much criticism.

Another difficulty will be providing federal assistance to combat the serious air and water pollution control programs.

Congressional committees and the General Accounting Office are finding that the savings claimed by the administration, principally Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, are not very real.

Lag in Medicare 'Yes' Replies

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Less than half the 18.5 million eligible old people in the United States have signed up for the part of the Medicare program that covers doctors' bills — and time is far less than for comparable private insurance. It can be offered at such a cheap rate because the government is financing half the cost.

But, despite the attractive rates and the liberality of the plan — known as "Part B" — of the 18.5 million who support the Social Security Administration has received were definitely affirmative.

And, like most bargain offers, this one is good for a limited time only — specifically, until next March 31.

If those eligible do not sign up by then, they will have to wait two years for another chance. They will also have to pay a higher premium for coming in late.

BASIC INSURANCE
"Part A" of the Medicare program is the basic hospitalization insurance automatically extended free of charge to all Americans over 65.

"Part B" is a voluntary supplemental program providing partial payment of cost doctors' bills and certain other expenses not covered by the basic program.

Part B provides coverage of home or office visits by physicians; surgeons' fees; hospital services of anesthesiologists and other specialists; X-rays; lab tests; radiation therapy; artificial limbs and eyes; home visits by nurses and therapists.

The patient pays the first $50 of such expenses in each calendar year. Thereafter, the insurance covers 80 per cent of the "reasonable cost" of such services.

The Social Security Administration is making a massive effort to see that the Part B option is clearly presented to every eligible person.

Information kits and enrollment cards were mailed out last fall to all men and women on the Social Security and railroad retirement benefit rolls.

The sign-up card is simple — all it requires is a "yes" or "no" answer and can be mailed back in a postpaid, preaddressed envelope.

Then why the rejection? A random sampling of the negative replies received by social security indicates that about a third of them come from persons who feel they cannot even afford to pay $3 a month. Another third comes from persons who say they already have private insurance.

But most of the remainder display misunderstanding of the program. A small percentage are against the whole idea.

The Social Security Administration is now conducting a more scientific survey — involving interviews with 1,500 persons across the country — to determine whether misinformation about Part B is widespread, and what needs to be done to clear it up.

On the basis of this survey, another mass mailing of enrollment cards and information kits is scheduled for early next year.

The second mailing will go to all those who have not yet responded, and possibly to those who said no in response to the first offer, just in case they want to change their mind after hearing a fuller explanation.

CHANGE OF MIND
Anyone who has already said no and has a change of mind can go to the nearest Social Security office and sign up, without taking a chance on getting a second invitation by mail.

Social Security officials are walking a chalk line of propriety in the situation. They feel that it would be improper for them to engage in "merchandising" Medicare.

But they would be remiss in their duty if they let old people pass up the opportunity out of ignorance or misinformation.

In addition to direct mail, Social Security is using a variety of other methods to spread the word to elderly citizens — and especially to the estimated 600,000 "hard-to-reach" men and women not listed on Social Security, railroad retirement or public assistance rolls.

IN SECLUSION
Many of these people are in their 80s and 90s, and about 13,000 of them are over 100.

They live in seclusion on back streets or in remote rural areas, rarely if ever read newspapers, and have little contact with community agencies.

In an effort to reach them, Social Security district offices are setting up community meetings in churches, schools, union halls, and other meeting places. They also are working through the agriculture department's county farm agents and home demonstration agents; public health nurses; administrators of homes for the aged, and physicians.

They are asking churches and civic groups to enlist in the drive to see that every old person in America gets a chance to sign up before March 31.

U.S. Education Head Named

Effective in January;
LBJ Tells Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Howe II, a man who shuns the label of academician, has been named the new U.S. commissioner of education.

He will take over in January from Francis Keppel who then will be able to devote full time to his other job of assistant secretary of health, education and welfare.

President Johnson announced his selection of Howe Saturday, and also said he intends to appoint:

• Paul Kaplowitz, 53, as chairman of the Federal Tariff Commission. He would succeed Ben D. Dorfman, who resigned in July.

• Matthew E. Welsh, 53, as chairman of the U.S. section of the International Joint Commission which handles all water cases involving the United States and Canada. Welsh is a former Indiana governor and currently is a Democratic national committeeman.

All three appointments are subject to Senate confirmation. Howe will start work under a recess appointment. Kaplowitz and Welsh will await Senate action before taking their posts.

Anyway, the time when computers only performed in highly technical fields is long past. They are now well established in common everyday activities familiar to us all.

For instance, a large food service company, Automatic Restaurants of America, is preparing to use computers to plan menus for the dining halls it operates in schools, hospitals, industrial plants and similar institutions.

A company representative who sent me a report on the program added a bit of speculation as to what it portends for the future.

"If today's computers are being readied to provide menus on an institutional level, perhaps tomorrow they will provide the menus in the average American home," he wrote.

Presumably, each member of the family would inscribe on a punch card his or her likes and dislikes as to meats, vegetables, casseroles, salads, etc.

MATCH NUTRITION

When programmed into a computer, the data would be correlated with caloric, vitamin and mineral content and other dietary information. From this, the machine would devise a balanced menu that everyone would relish.

I suppose such a thing is theoretically possible, but if my home can be considered "average," it would work out something like this:

Operator: "Okay, Computer, what's for supper tonight?"

Computer: "Frog Legs, pickled hearts of palm and hot tamales."

Operator: "That's what we had last night."

Computer: "Cheeseburgers, fried okra, artichokes and watermelon."

Operator: "Watermelon is out of season."

The machine begins making strange clicking noises. Its discs spin wildly for a moment, then stop.

Brigitte Bardot, who has probably caught the eyes of as many men as any woman, is suffering from an eye inflammation.

Her right eye was injured when a photographer's flashbulb flashed close to her at the premiere of her new movie, "Viva Maria," Saturday night in New York.

She visited an eye specialist yesterday and he advised her to wear dark glasses. There apparently was no permanent injury.

Phyllis Diller, Second Husband Separate

Comedienne Phyllis Diller has separated from her husband of less than three months, a spokesman announced in Hollywood.

The spokesman said entertainer Ward Donovan moved out of the couple's West Los Angeles home last week. Miss Diller and her four children by a previous marriage will continue to live there.

No reason was given for the separation. Miss Diller divorced Sherwood Diller in St. Louis last September, ending their 25-year marriage. She married Donovan Oct. 7.

'To Aid Police Pay Hike Push'

Increased Salaries Needed, Says Kelley

DETROIT (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley has offered to testify in favor of salary increases for policemen in any Michigan community.

Kelley told a Senate Study Committee on Police Pay, Saturday, that police in some smaller communities in Michigan should have raises up to 20 per cent while cities should provide boosts of 5 to 5 per cent.

"In order to get fine, decent young men to consider police work, we must recognize the increase in salaries is merely the first step in giving more prestige to police work and that training and education and the development of a career concept are just as vital."

The attorney general also proposed a program of state aid for police salaries related to the extent of local contributions, said policemen should be relieved of "housekeeping duties" like bicycle registration and finding lost animals. He called for more local money.

Kelley said Michigan residents should "match their concern about crime with dramatic evidence by giving an immediate, across-the-board, salary increase to policemen in most areas of the state."

About 40 police chiefs from around Michigan were attending the hearings, and most of them were in favor of the state subvention program.

Kelley said he would make more concrete proposals in an upcoming white paper on crime.

BURGER CHEF HAMBURGERS

North Perry St. in Pontiac

Do your Christmas driving early.

In the hustle and bustle of getting ready for the holidays, give yourself time to get ready for your holiday travel. The drivers at the General Motors Proving Grounds suggest you set out early enough to avoid the rush, both going and coming home.

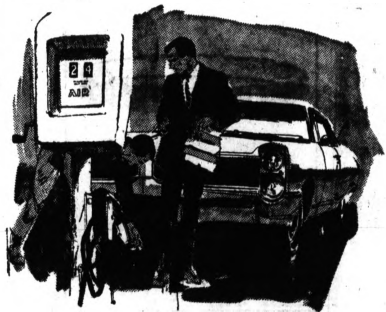

Here are some of their tips to help make your trip safer and more enjoyable.

Some things to check before you leave

If you've missed your regular inspection, ask an expert to make these pre-trip checks.

- ☐ Examine the battery, oil, cooling system and exhaust system.
- ☐ Test the steering, brakes and headlight aim.
- ☐ Inspect the tires for proper pressure, cuts and signs of excessive wear.
- ☐ Test the defroster, windshield washers and wipers.

How to plan ahead

Look over your maps before you leave. When your route is outlined and reviewed ahead of time, it's easier to spot areas that call for extra alertness. Try to anticipate detours, rush hours, and meals. Remember also to check the weather situation ahead.

Winter changes the rules

One of the things our test drivers watch out for is moisture. Highways can be extremely treacherous with a thin coating of water, ice or snow over them.

Test your steering and braking. Increase the distance between yourself and the car in front—and let "tailgaters" pass. At the first sign of bad weather, slow down.

Watch the shady side of the street

Ice and snow last longer in the shadows, under and on overpasses and bridges. If you're likely to encounter ice or snow, remember snow tires or chains. Carrying an ice scraper is a good idea, too.

Give yourself a break

1. Stop at the first sign of fatigue or at least every two hours.
2. Get out of the car at rest areas and walk around.
3. On the road, listen to the radio and change stations frequently. It can help you stay alert.

4. Fresh air also helps. Keep it circulating throughout the car.

Travel the freeways whenever you can. They're designed to handle traffic more safely and quickly.

As the sun goes down, new problems come up

GM drivers know that twilight and darkness create some unique driving problems. Here are some of their reminders:

- ☐ Driving with parking lights alone is dangerous. Other drivers may be deceived—they think you are farther away than you actually are.
- ☐ Keep your headlights clean.

- ☐ Turn them on at the very first sign of darkness or poor visibility.
- ☐ Use bright lights prudently, dimming quickly for oncoming cars or cars you're overtaking.
- ☐ Bright lights are less effective in fog or falling snow. They reflect more glare, causing distortion and even poorer visibility.

A parting thought

That old reminder to buckle up your seat belts is still very important. Be comfortable, but be sure they're good and snug. And, of course, stay buckled up for the whole trip.

After 335 million miles, the drivers at the General Motors Proving Grounds have found these guidelines to be helpful, effective. We hope you'll keep them in mind over the holidays.

And have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

Gemini 7 Pair Gets Check-Up

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr., who sailed far enough during their two weeks in space to make 10 round trips to the moon, begin three days of medical checks here to determine what physical rigors space travel has on man. People who talked with the astronauts said their main complaint of the 14-day flight was the confinement — they couldn't stretch out. They asserted they dreamed a lot during the mission, sources said. And Borman was quoted as saying that Lovell was "dreaming" all the time.

Food on board the spacecraft — some of it dehydrated — got tedious and somewhat objectionable toward the end of the flight, the sources noted.

Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell, as well as Gemini 7 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford, praised the Titan 2 booster and Gemini spacecraft.

EASY TO SEE

All four also remarked how easy it was to see through each other's spacecraft windows while they were rendezvous high above the earth Wednesday.

Schirra was quoted as saying, that the Gemini 7 capsule appeared twice as bright as the brightest star, Sirius, when he was approaching it and Schirra and Stafford indicated that rendezvous was easier than they thought.

Stafford and Schirra copiloted two small airplanes on Thursday from the prime recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, to Bermuda.

On the way, sources said, they tried to fly their two aircraft in formation and noted that it was much easier to pilot two Gemini spacecraft in formation, even though the spaceships were speeding at 17,500 miles an hour.

RENDEZVOUS ON EARTH—America's four astronauts, who chalked up the first space rendezvous with the meeting of Gemini 6 and 7, meet again for the first time since they landed. Shaking hands are Walter

Persons who talked with the astronauts quoted Borman as saying he thought future space men should not have to fly in bulky space suits on long-duration flights. And if a "back-up" pressure system is needed, Borman suggested it be built into the spacecraft rather than the space suit, sources noted.

The two Gemini 7 pilots flew much of their mission in their underwear, and would have done it even more if mission control permitted them.

Borman and Lovell are scheduled to stay at Cape Kennedy until Wednesday, concentrating on medical examinations. They then plan to fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., to begin eight days of tellings and retelling the story of their marathon flight to project officials.

Navy Capt. Schirra and Air Force Maj. Stafford flew from Patrick Air Force Base to Houston Sunday afternoon, after a playful reunion with Borman and Lovell.

NOT ON HAND

Schirra and Stafford were not on hand to meet two Navy planes that flew the Gemini 7 crew from the Wasp to Cape Kennedy.

Instead, Schirra was crouched in a doorway at astronaut crew headquarters on neighboring Merritt Island. When Borman and Lovell walked down the hall, he jumped out and began beating the air with his arms as if the Gemini 7 crew needed landing instructions.

Borman and Schirra had a well-publicized bet over which spacecraft would land closest to its target, the Wasp. Officials said Schirra acknowledged that Borman got slightly closer, but blamed it on an instrument in the Gemini 6 capsule which was slightly off.

Astronaut Donald K. Slayton, director of the Gemini 7 crew, said the bet was called off.

Project Mohole - 1

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Late in 1968, scientists will begin digging, in the floor of the Pacific Ocean, the deepest hole man has ever dug. This is the first of three dispatches on Project Mohole.)

By JOHN HALL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In one of Arthur Conan Doyle's novels, a scientist dug a hole eight miles through the crust of the earth, and found a gray, pulsating material resembling a living sea urchin.

The "Rover Boys" explored the interior of the earth with a mechanical mole.

Jules Verne's heroes descended down a volcano into the "Central Sea."

Now, the United States is preparing to drill a six-mile hole through the crust of the earth under the Pacific Ocean. This is not fiction. It is Project Mohole, geology's answer to the effort to put a man on the moon.

Conceived half in jest eight years ago, Mohole is a deadly serious effort to unlock the earth's secrets.

SCIENCE FOUNDATION

It is controlled and financed by the National Science Foundation, a federal agency which promotes pure research. Operation of the project has been entrusted to a prime contractor, Brown & Root Inc., of Houston, Tex., which hopes to begin drilling operations 125 miles north of Honolulu late in 1968.

No one knows for sure what the probe will yield.

By observing shock waves from earthquakes and explosions, seismologists have constructed a fairly reasonable cross-section of earth — something like a soft-boiled egg. The shell is the earth's crust; the white, its mantle — a dense, hard substance comprising 70 per cent of the earth's material; and in the center is the yolk, the earth's liquid core.

The mantle is Mohole's prime objective, although samples of the crust will be obtained first from half a dozen sites.

BARELY SCRATCHED

So far, mankind has barely scratched the shell. But on the basis of flimsy, indirect information, hundreds of theories have been evoked about the origin and development of the earth. One of Mohole's objectives is to help substantiate or disprove these hypotheses.

Some scientists have claimed that the continents are drifting

Teen Mental Hospital Asked

By Science Service

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Teen-agers, with their own movies, dances, music, language and cars, may soon have their own mental hospitals.

Special facilities for disturbed teen-agers have been recommended to the National Institute of Mental Health by a team of "architectural psychologists" at the University of Utah.

Teen-agers are now housed together with adults in mental hospitals. Because of the adolescent's excess energy and disruptive capacity, the rate of teen-agers to adults should not exceed one to ten.

Prof. Roger Bailey, a codirector of the Utah research team, recommended that today's facilities cannot adequately handle the rapid increase in mentally disturbed teen-agers.

Centers should resemble residential schools rather than mental institutions. They should be within easy travel distance of population centers, so that families can participate in their teen-agers' therapy.

Ideally, the homelike hospital would be surrounded by 35 to 40 acres of land. Wards would contain no more than 15 or 16 patients and bedrooms no more than four. The residents of each ward would share a living room and bath.

Prof. Bailey's group consulted with people at 20 mental health centers last summer to collect information for the recommendations.

U.S. Hopes to Dig Into Earth's Secrets on the mantle like icebergs on the sea.

The continents, they say, fit together like a giant jigsaw puzzle — Australia can be squeezed quite nicely into the northwestern corner of North America; South America and Africa look as though they once were part of the same land mass.

Other theories account for the existence of the entire Pacific basin by plucking out crustal material which now presumably constitutes the moon.

Was there once a continent — an Atlantis — that disappeared? "Many geologically old sediments on the continent seem to have been derived from the erosion of off-shore land masses not now known to exist," Geologists Hollis D. Hedberg and Creighton A. Burk wrote last year.

The Mohole scientists also would be disappointed if some treasure of practical use to humanity were not found on the way down.

Dr. William H. Tunking, a Brown & Root geologist, said in 1963 the types of rock to be found in deeper crustal areas and the upper mantle are the habitat of chrome, platinum, gold, nickel and diamonds.

Steam from upper crustal layers of the earth already is being harnessed in Japan and Italy to generate electricity. The deeper, hotter portions of the earth may produce even more efficient energy.

Oil has been found in off-shore areas, and there is no reason to believe it does not exist under the deep sea. The drilling equipment being used for Mohole is the most sophisticated ever devised and may make it practical someday to take oil, perhaps even to mine the valuable minerals that lie in the ocean sediments.

CHIEF EXPERIMENTS

One of the project's chief experiments will be to test how fast sound waves travel through the earth. This will be done by dropping a hydrophone into the hole and setting off an explosion miles away.

The results could be of great value in predicting earthquakes and seismic sea waves.

In the words of Gordon Lill, the Mohole Project's director, "Scientists have pushed postulate and theory to the limits and 'we find ourselves back once again with the rocks.'"

In the rocks of the earth, Lill believes there may well be answers vital to the nation's effort to find out what is on the moon.

URGENTLY NECESSARY

"It is not only timely but urgently necessary that we know enough about the interior of the earth to enable us to interpret effectively the returns expected from the nation's planetary and lunar programs," he says.

Lill points to the discovery, in the Mariner Space flight, that Mars' magnetic field is less than 1.1000th that of Earth's. "If we had known there was a magnetic field on Earth, we hardly could have discovered its virtual absence on Mars," he says.

The idea that there is a definite, clear distinction between the top and second layers of the earth was first broached by a Yugoslav seismologist, Andrija Mohorovicic.

He observed that seismic waves generated by the 1909 Croatian earthquake traveled through the earth at two speeds. His conclusion: The faster waves had traveled through a layer of dense, more elastic rock underlying the crust.

The existence of the line, now known as the "Mohorovicic Discontinuity" (Moho for short), since has been confirmed by hundreds of seismic observations.

But, at best, it is an uneven thing. It is doubtful whistles will begin blowing when the Mohole drill finally penetrates the mantle in 1971 or 1972.

Some scientists even doubt whether it is possible, with today's technology, to reach the mantle. At best, they say, is a costly gamble.

The growing expense of the project, and uncertainty about its usefulness have public controversy between two scientific factions and several heated congressional hearings.

Object of the dispute: A Gargantuan drilling platform being constructed by the National Steel and Shipbuilding Corp. for NSF to the tune of $30.5 million. (TUESDAY: The Big Earth.)

Deadline Near on Reshaping School Districts

COOPED-UP FEELING—Goldie (right), the London Zoo eagle who dislikes being cooped up, is back on a limb again with his mate, Regina, following his capture yesterday after four days of freedom. Goldie, who was trapped with a white rat as bait, managed to stay out longer earlier this year when he left its aviary for a 13-day outing.

Back in Zoo Cage

'Oh, Rats!' Says Goldie

LONDON (UPI)—Goldie the eagle was back in a maximum security cage at London Zoo today, back with his mate, Regina, at the end of his latest flight for freedom.

Goldie, an eight-pound Finnish eagle, was recaptured yesterday when he swooped down on a dead rat placed as bait in Regent's Park and was pinned by a zoo keeper.

It ended five days of freedom and the same international publicity which accompanied a previous escape last March.

The Times of London commented today Goldie's capture was "a sad little story" and suggested the eagle should be set free in the Finnish wilds where he was first trapped in 1959.

British bookmakers also were saddened, but for different reasons. Most gave 3 to 2 odds the elusive eagle would not be caught before Christmas Day.

'COST US'

"That eagle has cost us about 1,000 pounds ($2,000)," said a spokesman for Ladbrokes. Bookie William Hill said he lost $2,100 by betting Goldie would still be free by Dec. 27.

All indications were that Goldie will remain at the zoo in north-central London. That is until he escapes again.

Physical Education a Must for Students

HAVANA, Cuba (U)—The Ed of physical education a weak. Ministry has decreed Physical education has been re- that university students at all quired of all preuniversity stu- levels take at least two hours den- dents for some time.

LANING (AP)—The deadline is near for planners who have the tough job of redesigning school district changes that would have a strong impact on the emotions—and pocketbooks—of many Michigan citizens.

Groups of from 13 to 18 persons in each of Michigan's 55 intermediate school districts seek a solution to the changes before Dec. 31.

They are working under the so-called K-12 law, which requires that plans be made for rearranging school districts so that each district offers all 12 grades plus kindergarten.

That does not necessarily mean, though, that districts now offering only six grades, for example, all will be eliminated.

VOTE OF PEOPLE

The law requires only that plans be made for merging such districts into districts which offer grades 7-12, and that the plans be submitted to a vote of the people.

If the plans are voted down, the matter is ended and the districts stay as they are.

And, if at least one group is successful in its campaigning, not many districts would end up being consolidated under the law.

The group is the Friends of Michigan Schools, headed by Harmon Cropsey, a Caspottville farmer. Cropsey says membership consists of about 125 school boards throughout the state.

LOCAL CONTROL

His purpose, he said, "is to retain local control of education."

As districts become larger, "people are losing their voice in the schools," Cropsey said.

"A good share of community activities center around the school," he added, "and if a school is closed, people lose one of the major things that holds a community together."

Cropsey also argued that administrative costs in large districts are excessive.

John Travis, superintendent of schools at Northport, feels Cropsey and his organization played a role in the recent defeat of the proposed consolidation of three small high schools in Leelanau County.

EFFECTIVE JOB

"We've never had anybody like this come into our area before," Travis said. "He stayed two weeks, met with little groups of people and did an effective job."

Travis said voters decided about 2-1 against a plan to merge the Suttons Bay, Leland and Northport districts into one unit with about 1,000 students in grade.

All three school boards favored the move, Travis said.

Consolidation would have cut duplication of efforts and allowed broader course offerings, he said. "The kids just aren't getting what they should get."

Consolidation, Travis said, "would not be cheaper, but one district would spend the money more effectively and offer more."

He said the Friends of Michigan Schools argument was that citizens were paying too much already, and quality goes down with bigness.

"But we couldn't pin him (Cropsey) down on his statements," Travis said.

INVITED BY RESIDENTS

Cropsey said local residents had invited him to Leelanau County to help campaign against the merger plan.

"We feel people should be informed about what is going on," he said. "If people want me to come in and help them, I have time, I'm going to do it."

Answering opponents of consolidation, he said, "The real basis for their argument is that they want their kids to go to high school but they don't want to pay for it."

It is cheaper for a grade school district to send its students to another district on a tuition basis to complete higher education than to bear the cost of bond issues, he said.

But Alexander Kloster, acting superintendent of public instruction, said he felt Cropsey's group "is not doing anybody very much good moving into an area which it is not familiar and in which it has no real interest. It (consolidation) is a decision to be made by people in the area."

Kloster concedes that the task of coming up with district changes acceptable to local residents is a difficult one.

"They affect so many things—taxes, which school a child will attend, and so on," he said. "In some respects they disrupt the social fabric."

He added, "We can't go out and campaign for or against the plans in an election."

IN FAVOR

The Michigan Education Association has been campaigning in favor of consolidations, though.

Dick Adams, an aide for government relations, said when graduates of smaller schools are competing for jobs against graduates of larger schools, it means "girls with just typing 1 and 2 are competing with the commercial course girls."

Under the present system, if a majority of the combined voters of all districts involved favor the plan, it goes into effect.

Cropsey contends this system has "caused great dislocation in planning because boards don't know what to do."

Boards are hesitating on such things as building plans, he said, because they don't know whether they will continue in existence or not.

Besides Leelanau County, the only other area where a K-12 vote already has been held is Iron County.

ALL OR NOTHING

Iron County used a balloting procedure in which the total reorganization plan for the whole intermediate district is decided on by voters in all affected local districts on an all-or-nothing basis.

Districts which use this method, though, are required to hold another election under an alternate method—the method used by Leelanau County.

Under the second procedure, local districts which would be joining each other vote only on their individual consolidation plans. Some local plans may fail and others succeed within one intermediate district.

Roger Boline, a consultant in the department of education, said plans have been received from Allegan, Branch, Gladwin, Lapeer, Lenawee, Manistee, Tuscola and Macomb counties, as well as township and cups.

With plans rolling in faster now, Boline said, "the state committee has some busy days ahead of it."

Bride-Elect Graduates, Honored at Parties

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
Mrs. Donald Whitfield of Harsdale Road gave a luncheon for 16 on Saturday, honoring Mary Catherine Marzelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Marzelli of Fairmont Court Hill.

This was the last of a series of entertainment for the bride-elect who on Sunday received her bachelor of arts degree in political science from the University of Michigan.

On Dec. 27 she will be wed to Lt. James R. Fleming, son of the John Flemings of Dumont, N. J. The ceremony will be at St. Hugo of the Hills at 6:00 p.m.

Her parents will give the rehearsal dinner at the New Pontchartrain Hotel in Detroit. Many dinner parties took place during the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Geib entertained in their home for cocktails and dinner on Friday. The LeRoy Dahlbergs also chose that evening to entertain in their home.

On Saturday, the Charles Hilltons of Westwood Road gave a large dinner party. That same evening, Mrs. John G. Wood gave a dinner party in her home on Lone Pine Road.

Returning from their homes in Florida to be with their families for the holidays are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker who have an apartment in the Burlington Arms. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart A. Cogsdill, also from Florida, are staying at Kingsley Inn and who will be dividing their time between daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fife and Mr. and Mrs. Gene A. White.

Chapter Has Yule Party

Beta Theta chapter, Lambda Chi Omega sorority held its annual Christmas party recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Holway of Canterbury Drive.

Cohostesses were Mrs. James Davis, Mrs. Lloyd Throver and Mrs. Larry Kent.

County Children Feted by VFW Post

Oakland County Children's Home youngsters attended a Christmas party recently, given by City of Pontiac Post 1370, Veterans of Foreign Wars and its women's auxiliary.

Auxiliary committee members were Mrs. Morse, chairman; Mrs. Chauncy Birdsall and Mrs. George Pappas, co-chairmen; and Mrs. Dixie White, auxiliary president.

Gail Glover Will Wed

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Glover of Bloomfield Village, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gail Lynne, to Robert Edward Vince, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Vince, of Detroit and New Kensington, Pa.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Kingswood School for Girls, and the University of Michigan. She earned her master's degree at the University of California.

Christ Church Cranbrook has been reserved for the Feb. 12 wedding.

Alumnae Set Party Dates at Yuletide

The North Suburban Alumnae of Alpha Phi sorority will gather for the annual Christmas brunch, Dec. 28, in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Sherwood in Bloomfield Hills.

All area alumnae and collegiate members who plan to attend the affair scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon should make reservations with Mrs. J. D. Lower or Mrs. Franz Neubrecht by Friday.

DELTA ZETA

Group II, Oakland County Alumnae of Delta Zeta sorority is sponsoring the group's annual Christmas tea for all Oakland County members and their mothers and daughters.

The event will take place from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 29 in the Lakeside Avenue home of Mrs. Russell Costello.

Chairman for the tea is Mrs. Charles Fleckenstein Jr. Mrs. Claude Rumble Jr. is in charge of invitations.

GM Girls Dress Dolls

Once again the General Motors Girls Club has dressed dolls for needy little girls. From 300 to 500 of them are on display on a revolving wheel at the Pontiac Retail Store.

Sometime after today they will be distributed to youngsters at the Oakland County Children's Home; crippled and muscular dystrophy children, Mark and Willis Schools; Leukemia Clinic at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, children of patients at the Veterans' Hospital, Dearborn; and little patients at the Oakland County Sanatorium.

First lady of the organ is Mrs. Sam during the holiday season, sharing the Dudley, Augusta Street. For 20 years she program with various school choral has provided music at Pontiac State Bank groups.

News of Interest to Area Folk

Home from Wells College, Aurora, N.Y. for the holidays with her family is Kristine Knudsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Semon E. Knudsen, Bingham Road, Bingham Farms.

Two other Wells College students home for Christmas are Melinda and Julie McCain, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. French H. McCain, Puritan Street, Birmingham.

Sally from Lake Forest College and "Pike" from Colgate University will be home at the Colin H. John home in Birmingham to spend Christmas with their parents.

Also seated around the Johns' dinner table Christmas Day will be their guests, the Jeremy Johns with children, Christopher, Janet and Jimmy.

Mrs. Asa Kelley of Davisburg was hostess at the traditional Saturday-before Christmas family dinner this year.

Pontiac area guests were the Lee Kelleys, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones and the junior Joneses, the Arthur Kelleys, the the Lyle Lanes and the Gerald Lanes.

From Clarkston were the Joseph Perrys, the Ronald Joneses, the Arthur Kelleys, the R. D. Kelleys, the Terry Kelleys, the Joseph Perrys and the Gordon A. Kelleys, also Mrs. Donald Wells of Davisburg.

The D. B. Eameses of Cherokee Road will have their son and daughter William (U. of M.) and Judy (Kingswood) home for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Eames has planned Christmas day dinner for their children along with the W. Ross Thompsons, Frank H. Thompson and Mrs. W. R. Eames.

Earlier in the day Mrs. W. R. Eames of Ottawa Drive will have the whole group over for Christmas brunch.

Before sons, Bob and Jerry leave for the Rosebowl game, the Howard O. Powers family of Cherokee Road will spend Christmas day in Grosse Pointe Shores.

VFW Groups Meet

VFW No. 1008 and its auxiliary met for a Christmas dinner and party recently in the Legion Hall on Auburn Road.

Gifts were exchanged and baskets for the needy filled.

Informals For Notes And Such

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: I would like some information concerning "informals," namely, when they may be used and how they should be engraved?

A: Informals are engraved exactly as visiting cards—Mrs. Jones. Or, if you prefer, you may simply have your monogram in the upper left corner.

They may be used for writing brief notes and are also correct and practical for invitations.

A MAN'S HAT

Q: When a man meets a woman friend on the street and he slips to speak to her, must he remain hatless for as long as he talks to her, or may he put his hat back on his head after greeting her?

A: If they walk on together, he puts his hat back on his head but while he is standing in the street talking to her, he should remain hatless no matter how cold the wind or how torrid the sun, unless, of course, she thoughtfully says, "Please put your hat on—you'll catch pneumonia in this freezing wind."

INVITING DOCTOR

Q: I would like to know if it would be proper to invite our family doctor and his wife to our daughter's wedding. We do not know the doctor or his wife socially, but he has always been exceptionally kind to us and has taken care of our daughter since she was a baby.

My husband thinks it would be presumptuous for us to invite him. May I have your opinion, please?

A: As you do not know the doctor or his wife socially, I agree with your husband that it would be presumptuous to invite them to your daughter's wedding.

Eleanor Pearson, Salmer Street, of GMC Truck and Coach and Mrs. Edward Wynne, Sylton Lake, Pontiac Motor Division.

Couple Repeats Vows at Saturday Ceremony

All Saints Episcopal Church was the setting for the marriage on Saturday of Kathleen Louise Horne to Ronald Eric Henke of Matthews Street.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Dudley A. Hornes of Swoope, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Ewald E. Henke of Muskegon.

VELVET GOWN

White chiffon velvet with Alencon lace motifs fashioned the bride's Empire sheath gown and detachable chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a petal headpiece.

She carried cascading white roses, Stephanotis, feathered carnations and lily for the evening ceremony.

Jill Marie Sevin was maid of honor. Beth Ogg, along with Sue and Linda Henke, the bridegroom's sisters, were bridesmaids.

The new Mrs. Henke attends Central Michigan University.

The junior Richard Essers of Illinois Avenue announce the marriage of his sister, Carol Ann Esser, to Michael Edward Hearons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hearons of Long Beach, Calif., Sunday, in the Grace Lutheran Church.

MRS. MICHAEL E. HEARONS

Carol Ann Esser Wed to California Man

Motoring to Las Vegas for a honeymoon, en route to their future home in Mammoth Lakes, Calif., are the newlywed Michael Edward Hearons (Carol Ann Esser).

The junior Richard Essers of Illinois Avenue were hosts at a supper-reception for his sister following the ceremony, Sunday, in the Grace Lutheran Church.

EMPIRE GOWN

With her Empire gown and chapel train of white satin brocade, the bride wore a silk illusion veil with organza rose headpiece.

She carried white roses and carnations for the rite performed by Rev. Richard Stuckmeyer.

Mrs. Richard Esser Jr. was matron of honor, along with bridesmaids Marcia Wilson, Patsy Healey and Cathy Esser.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hearons of Long Beach, Calif., had Richard Esser Jr. for best man. Seating guests were Wayne Wilson, Thomas Shepard and Charles Hudson.

Mr. Hearons is an alumnus of Long Beach City College and his bride has senior status at Michigan State University.

Puffs to Muffs

Here's a pleasing stocking-stuffer for a young schoolgirl. Make colorful cotton earmuffs by covering large cotton powder puffs with red corduroy fabric. Sew on one-inch cotton twill tape for head band and ties. Decorate earmuffs with comic facial features cut from cotton iron-on tape.

Dapper Dan Dilemma

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Why do most men prefer to buy their own clothes, no matter how poor their taste is, rather than let their wives go shopping with them? I know very few men whose wives couldn't dress them better than they dress themselves.

ABBY

Most men know nothing about style. They come out of the store with something just like what they went in with. You have to look close to see if they're wearing their new blue suit or their old one. You should write a whole column on how the well-dressed man should dress.

SICK OF SLOBS
DEAR SICK: I don't have to write a column on how men should dress. Any man who wants to be well-dressed needs only to walk into a first-class men's clothing store and ask one of the salesmen for guidance.

Men who sell men's clothing are among the best-dressed men in the country. They make an honest effort to sell the customer what is right for him.

And only if they fail, will they let him buy what he wants, regardless.

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who is seven years old and, Abby, she is about the slowest eater I have ever seen. It took her 45 minutes to eat a bowl of cereal this morning. She has always been a slow eater, and nothing can make her eat faster.

I don't know if we should try to get her to eat faster or not. Can you advise me?

DEAR MRS. C.: Forty-five minutes is far too long to sit over a bowl of cereal. She's not "eating" — she's dawdling. These are the years children form their habits, so give her a certain amount of time (like 15 minutes) in which to eat her cereal, and then remove the bowl. Full or empty.

She has trained YOU to accept her fiddling around. Change her tune, and train HER to get on with the business of eating at mealtime.

Many Showers Fete Jane Ensign

Holiday festivities include many showers and parties for bride-elect Jane Ensign, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dwight C. Ensign of Franklin. She will wed Lt. Robert Bednas of McConnell AFB, Kansas, Dec. 29, in Christ Church Cranbrook. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bednas of Lowell, Mass.

Howard Duncan honored Miss Ensign at a recent linen shower and tea in the Birmingham Country Club.

Mrs. Winthrop B. Conrad entertained at a mother-daughter luncheon and kitchen shower in the Village Woman's Club, Bloomfield Hills.

Gifts of bedroom and bathroom accessories were opened at a luncheon-shower in the Birmingham home of Mrs. Thomas Snelman.

Mrs. Ensign's cousin, Mrs. William H. Granse of Grosse Pointe, will entertain Jane, her family and her fiancé at dinner on Christmas Day.

Mary Wilson and Margaret Jeffs, college friends of the couple and former roommates of Jane in New York City, will host a party for the bride party, Sunday evening in the Wilson home on Grosse Ile.

IN GROSSE POINTE

On Dec. 27, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Joy III of Grosse Pointe, will honor the couple at a cocktail party. The guest list will include friends of the bride-elect's parents who have entertained for her, also personal friends of the Joys.

The John D. Rumseys will give the rehearsal dinner Dec. 28, in their Wing Lake home.

On the day following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Carman Adams of Birmingham will give a luncheon for parents of the bride couple and out-of-town relatives.

Cosmetic Balls Trim Yule Tree

You can turn ordinary cotton cosmetic balls into an attractive Christmas cone tree, the National Cotton Council reports.

For the tree base, use a plastic-foam cone. Attach the fluffy white cosmetic balls to the cone with pins, stuck through glittering red and green sequins.

Make a multi-colored cotton tree by using cosmetic balls that come in colors. They're available in a variety of soft pastel shades. Trim this tree with velveteen bows in coordinated colors.

Ideal Gift—
on a Condition

ALEXANDRIA, La. (U.S.) — A Baptist pastor has received a gift that his wife is certain to enjoy!

As a climax to the Young Woman's Auxiliary Focus Week at Pine View Baptist church, the young ladies presented their pastor, Rev. Grover C. Lee Jr., with a gift certificate entitling him to "one WYCA baby sitter once a month."

There was one condition to the gift. The six potential baby sitters who signed the certificate stipulated that he take his wife out to dinner on the money he would otherwise spend for a baby sitter.

Take Vows

An evening ceremony, Saturday, in the Grace Lutheran Church marked the vows of Penny Lyn Lankey of Sylvan Lake and Joseph Frederick Brendel Jr.

Parents of the couple are the Harold V. Lankeys of Port Austin, formerly of Pontiac, and the senior Brendels of Utica.

SILK BROCADE

Ivory silk brocade fashioned the bride's A-line sheath gown and cathedral-length court train. A matching headpiece with silk illusion veil and an heirloom diamond and pearl necklace completed her ensemble.

White roses and Stephanotis encircled the white orchid in her bouquet.

With Suzanne Lankey, maid of honor, were bridesmaids Mrs. Philip Majestic and Louise Brendel.

The bridegroom asked Kenneth Vetter of Lakewood, Ohio, to be his best man. Philip Majestic and Thomas Hunt ushered.

After a week's honeymoon in Niagara and New York the couple will reside in Ann Arbor where he attends the University of Michigan.

Display Jewelry
on Velvet Mat

To help a teen-age miss keep up with bangles and beads, the National Cotton Council suggests you give her a pretty jewelry display panel.

The panel is an easy-to-make item for Christmas gifts or holiday bazaars.

Cover a piece of heavy cardboard or plywood with plush red cotton velveteen. For jewelry hangers, sew small curtain hooks on the velveteen mat. Insert the mat in a dime store picture frame, painted gold.

Slip a pretty new bracelet on one of the hooks and your present is ready to wrap.

Polly's Pointers

The Clothes Tree

DEAR POLLY — Most brands of margarine come in nice white cartons. Instead of throwing them away, I cut them into conventional - size recipe cards. Each carton will make two cards. My Pointer is on one of them.—VIOLET.

I would never have guessed if she had not told me. — POLLY.

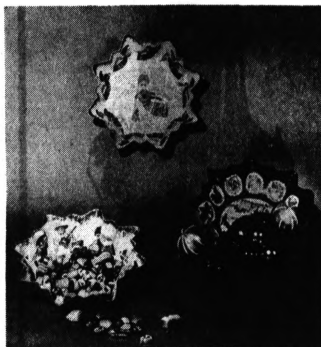

DEAR POLLY — Whenever we wanted to sit near our pool, there seemed to be a wet towel or swim suit draped over every chair.

One day while pruning a rather branchy tree, I took an eight-foot branch and "planted" it in a container with plaster of paris around it. I painted the planter and the branch Chinese blue to match the trim on our house.

The first tree looked so nice I made a second one for the other end of the pool. No one seems to mind "hanging their clothes on a hickory limb" and you would be surprised at the compliments we receive on our "trees." —PHYLLIS.

Homemakers across the country are using the practical Pointers in Polly Cramer's 32-page booklet. Put these Pointers to work for you. Order your copy! Send your name, address with zip code and $6 to: Polly's Pointers, care of The Pontiac Press.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas... send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a dollar if Polly uses your idea in Polly's Pointers.

Decorative Christmas paper plates are examples of the ever-increasing number of holiday materials that save time, money, and work for modern homemakers. These plastic-coated designs from Hallmark may be used for foods, decorations, as greeting card holders, even wall decorations.

Charlet, Ann Intense About Music Program

INTERLOCHEN, Mich. — Two Pontiac girls are taking part in a unique, highly intensified musical training program at the Interlochen Arts Academy and the National Music Camp.

They are Charlet Allhouse, 16-year-old violinist and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allhouse, of Blaine Street; and Ann Strait, 17, also a violinist and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Strait of West Iroquois Road.

The one-year project, financed by $220,000 from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will develop methods and materials for instructing potential composers, conductors, performers and music educators.

The project, the only kind of the kind ever attempted, brings together 46 selected young musicians from 18 states, Finland and Japan.

Published material, recordings, films and pictures resulting from the program will be available to schools eventually.

THROUGH TRAINING
Project students are being trained on all symphonic instruments while receiving thorough instruction in music library operation, instrument repair, music theory, dance techniques, opera production, choral techniques and stage design.

Many composers and conductors have a limited knowledge of orchestral instruments and the project and the results it will produce are expected to help remedy this shortcoming.

Both Pontiac girls, former students at Pontiac Central High School, are fine musicians. A requirement for the project students who also are members of the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra which performs a different symphony program each week.

Besides playing viola, Ann Strait also plays the piano and harp, has a choral background and for the past three summers has attended the summer-time National Music Camp sessions.

Charlet Allhouse, who also plays harp and piano, has been at Interlochen two summers and has won the Pontiac Salute to Youth award.

While in the project the girls have nearly 10 hours a day of scheduled activity, as do the other 44 students involved. The program ends next August with the first conference in the United States of the International Society for Music Education at Interlochen.

Monday Party

Members of the Sylvan Shores Women's Club will meet at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Winfred Holt, Sylvan Shores Drive. This will be the group's annual Christmas party.

'Everything's Comin' Up Roses' as MSU's Holiday Vacation Begins

By JANE BIGLER

Fall term at Michigan State University ended Saturday. A 'rosy' atmosphere has prevailed in East Lansing for the past month, as the Spartans have eagerly planned and looked forward to a New Year's celebration in sunny Pasadena.

CROWD GOING

Over 3,000 students have signed up for the official Michigan State tour while many others have registered for other tours or are planning to drive to California.

Arthur VanDyke, Angelus Drive; Julie Cobb, Eason Road; and Susan Jackson of Birmingham are among the Spartans who will be traveling with the official MSU Rose Bowl Tour. Transportation includes jet, prop plane, train and bus.

Students will stay at one of three hotel complexes located in Long Beach, downtown Los Angeles and the Los Angeles airport where the MSU planes will be landing.

A dinner-dance with name entertainment will be given at each complex. Cindy Leitman, Birmingham senior, is handling the entertainment at the dinner-dance and on the way out and back from California.

WINS WINGS

Edwin L. Hoffman, Miller Street, was one of eight Air Force ROTC cadets to win his solo flight wings this term. The initial solo flights were completed at Lansing's Capital City Airport.

A Utica sophomore, Judith

Heins, reigned as Michigan State's 1965 Homecoming queen this fall. Judith, an art major, was sponsored by Sigma Chi fraternity.

Runner-up in the contest was Lynne Brockman, a sophomore from Orchard Lake. Lynne, an elementary education major, was sponsored by Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

A group of MSU students helped keep accidents at a minimum during the fall term by directing traffic before and after football games. Bruce Porritt, Chippewa Road, is one of these student traffic directors.

LIBRARY AIDE

Michigan State is enlarging its library and revamping its book check-out program. Mary Jane Doerr of Ottawa Drive is working on the student committee for this new program. Gilchrist Hall took second place in the women's dormitory division of the fall term blood drive.

Some of the Gilchrist residents encouraging their dorm were Virginia Norvell of Wenhatch Drive, Denise Patton of Tilden Street and Jill Dearing of Ottawa Drive.

MRS. D. R. DISMUKE

Newlyweds Take Trip to Texas

The Dalton Ray Dismukes Rosalee Ann Huggill left for a honeymoon at Houston, Texas, after their marriage Saturday in the Lake Orion Methodist Church.

Rev. Robert J. Hudgins officiated at the evening rite, followed by a reception in the Veteran's Hall in Oxford.

Parents of the couple are the Francis Huggills of Lake Orion and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dismuke of McGregor Road, Orion Township.

With her sheath gown and chapel train of white tulle trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace, the bride wore a short bouffant veil of illusion. She held a cascade of white carnations.

Constance Caples attended as bridesmaid and Joseph Gillman was best man.

Pretty for Tree

(UPI) — An easy and fun way to make Christmas tree decorations involves no more equipment than scissors, styrofoam, spray paint and paper clips. Cut the styrofoam into yuletide shapes, spray paint, then use the paper clips to attach to the tree.

'Moon Landing in This Decade'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the U.S. man-in-space program thinks Americans may land on the moon before the decade ends.

Said Dr. George E. Mueller: "We should be able to carry out the lunar landing before the end of 1969 — if all goes well."

Mueller, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, made his prediction in a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report.

He said the chances of a successful voyage and return are "quite high."

MAY LOSE MEN

At the same time, he said "people must brace themselves and be willing to accept the fact that some day, some way we may lose one of our astronauts, or even a crew of astronauts."

"It's clear," he said, "that any program which is as pioneering as our space program involves risk."

AF Booster Rocket Set to Orbit 4 Separate Satellites

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A triple-barreled Air Force Titan 3 is scheduled to kick four separate satellites into an orbit more than 20,000 miles above the equator Tuesday to climax one of the most complex unmanned space missions ever planned.

Riding on the nose of the three-legged booster, the nation's most powerful rocket now in use, will be two experimental communications satellites, a satellite which will study activities of the sun and a fourth satellite for ham radio operators. Liftoff is scheduled for 9 a.m. (EST).

The amateur radio satellite, called Oscar 4, is part of a poor man's Telstar. Like three other Oscar satellites which preceded it, Oscar 4 was built by the American Radio Relay League, a group of space engineers whose hobby is ham radio.

quency transmitter capable of simultaneously receiving voice and telegraph signals at 144 megacycles and retransmitting them at 432 megacycles.

LES 3, LES 4

The two communications satellites, developed by the Lincoln Laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and named Les 3 and Les 4, are designed to test devices for future military defense communications satellite systems.

The sun-studying satellite, called OV-3, will carry 15 experiments, the Air Force said, including various tests of the effect of natural radiation on living tissue.

The mission will be one of the most complicated ever undertaken, lasting some six hours and involving over 150 events.

The four satellites — which make the entire payload weigh 931 pounds — will be placed in space so they hover above the equator more than 20,000 miles over Galapagos Island, west of Peru.

It will mark the first test of by a car near her home.

Titan 3 since Oct. 15, when a test flight was marred because the last stage broke up in orbit. The accident was blamed on an explosion caused by a frozen valve.

An electric blanket has been wrapped around the valve on this Titan 3, sources said.

Pumps Ease Threat to Dam in Tijuana

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Engineers say seven portable water pumps have drained off enough water from behind an earth-fill dam here to ease threats the dam might break.

The dam, on the Baja California side of the international border, began to show signs of seepage last Thursday. U.S. officials assumed command of pumping operations because its water, if released would imperil farms and the Ream Naval Air Station on the U.S. side.

San Diego's City Engineer Robert Esterbrooks said the pumps, siphoning off 2,000 gallons a minute, had lowered the water level behind the dam six feet from Friday through Sunday.

Oil Airlift to Zambia Begun by Britain

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) —

Britain began an oil airlift to Zambia Sunday as leaders of Kenya, Ethiopia and Uganda called for another African summit meeting to agree on action toward Rhodesia.

The airlift began with the landing of a Royal Air Force Britannia bringing 2,370 gallons of diesel fuel from Dar es Salaam in neighboring Tanzania.

On hand at the airport at Lusaka was President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia and British Commonwealth Minister Cledwyn Hughes.

The plane tore a 12-inch deep furrow through the airport tarmac after following the white line but the craft was not harmed. RAF men quickly unloaded the 54 drums of fuel.

SHUT OFF FLOW

The airlift began after the white minority government of Rhodesia cut off the flow of oil to landlocked Zambia.

The Rhodesian action was in retaliation for the oil embargo Britain imposed against Rhodesia last Friday to tighten economic vise on the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith. He declared Rhodesia independent Nov. 11 after refusing to yield to British demands for steps toward eventual African majority rule.

A joint British-Zambian communiqué said Britain is paying for the airlift as an emergency measure until the improvement of surface routes from black-ruled neighboring states to the north.

The communiqué said Britain was rushing equipment to improve the existing 1,000-mile dirt road from Dar es Salaam to Zambia.

RATIONING

In New York, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations,

Arthur J. Goldberg, said in a television interview that American oil companies have agreed to cooperate with the embargo against Rhodesia.

President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia and Prime Minister Milton Obote of Uganda called for an immediate conference of all 36 African heads of state.

Diallo Telli, secretary general of the Organization of African Unity, was expected to poll- or OAU members concerning a meeting.

EARLIER VOTE

African foreign and defense ministers voted at an OAU meeting earlier this month to break diplomatic relations with Britain by Dec. 15 unless the British had crushed the Smith regime by then.

So far, nine OAU members have done so or announced they would soon: Algeria, Congo (Brazzaville), Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Mauritania, Sudan, Tanzania and the United Arab Republic.

Although Tanzania has broken relations with London, it has agreed to cooperate with the British in keeping oil flowing to Zambia.

A number of African states insist that Britain use military force to stop Smith, but Britain has limited its actions to economic and diplomatic pressure.

INTERVENTION

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson told newsmen in Ottawa, Canada, that every day heightens the risk of intervention by other African states in Rhodesia. During a stopover after his visit to President Johnson in Washington, Wilson repeated that he would not be pushed into using military force.

He left Ottawa Sunday night for London after meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson. Wilson supported a Zambian request for an unspecified number of Canadian transport planes to help in the oil airlift.

In another Rhodesian move against Zambia, Prime Minister Smith announced that the tax on coal shipped to Rhodesia's northern neighbor was raised to $14 per short ton from the previous rate of about 14 cents. Coal is vital for the operation of Zambia's copper mines.

Smith said the increase, plus an export levy of $22.40 per ton on coke, would bring in nearly $28 million a year.

"I hope this will meet our present requirements," he said. "If not, we will have to consider a further increase in the royalty."

There are an estimated 750 closed circuit television installations in U.S. schools and colleges. At least half of these are at the higher educational level.

OIL FOR ZAMBIA—Drums of oil stand at a storage depot at Mikumi, Tanzania, as trucks from Zambia are loaded for the overland journey to provide oil for landlocked Zambia.

The Rhodesian government of Premier Ian Smith has cut off oil supplies to Zambia to counter Britain's oil embargo.

Food Minister Subramaniam

He's Provider for Hungry India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The issue before Parliament was whether, as a Communist charged, India was mortgaging its interests to America to get food for its hungry millions.

Some members demanded an immediate end to the flow of American wheat that has come into India for years. "Self-sufficiency" was their cry.

Then, a stocky man rose from the government benches. He would be "dangerous and foolhardy," he said, for anyone to say India can manage in the critical months ahead without imported food.

OFFERS POST

And, he added, if any man has the courage to say India can manage alone: "I shall gladly request the prime minister to hand my portfolio to him."

It was Food Minister Chidambaram Subramaniam, employing the perfect scotch he has for critics who attack his handling of India's food problem.

He offers them his job. No one accepts because no task in this nation is more thankless than trying to fill 400 million Indian stomachs.

JOB FEELING

There is, in fact, some feeling that taking the job constitutes political suicide.

An interviewer asked Subramaniam about this. A smile flitted across his normally in-tent face.

Yes, he had heard that talk of political suicide — but he doesn't believe it.

With luck and rapid delivery of American wheat, major famine can be warded off in 1966, some experts say, and with hard work and more luck, India can become self-sufficient in food in five years or so.

BENEFICIAL?

If this happens, Subramaniam's seeming political predicament might be highly beneficial. People might think, for example, that a man who can handle the food portfolio could be an eventual candidate for prime minister.

At 55, Subramaniam can claim to be as well trained for the job as any man in India. His career mirrors India's struggle for independence and its 18 years of self-rule.

Pioneer 6 Heads Toward the Sun, Returning Data

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Pioneer 6, the solar research spacecraft launched Thursday from Cape Kennedy, was reported streaking toward the sun at 63,387 miles an hour today.

The 146-pound spacecraft was returning data on solar particles and magnetism, said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames research center.

A report late Sunday night placed the spacecraft more than 500,000 miles from earth. Its six-month, 50-million-mile journey will carry it on an orbit around the sun between earth and Venus.

Latin America's birth rate, at 2.6 per cent a year, is the highest of any region in the world.

Subramaniam was born into what his official biography calls an "agriculturalist" family in South India. He took a law degree in 1932 but like many young Indians of that era, he didn't head for a law office. He marched out to do battle with India's British rulers.

In the next 11 years, Subramaniam was thrice a guest of British jollies.

ROSE RAPIDLY

When free, Subramaniam rose rapidly in Congress party work in his home state of Madras and moved onto the national stage with independence in 1947. In 1952, he joined the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Cabinet.

He quickly earned an international reputation as one man in New Delhi who possessed a coldly analytical mind free of ideological prejudices often found in Democratic-Socialist India.

When U.S. officials expressed reservations about India being serious with plans to wean itself from American food, Subramaniam came up with a detailed "package plan" designed to achieve self-sufficiency by 1970-71.

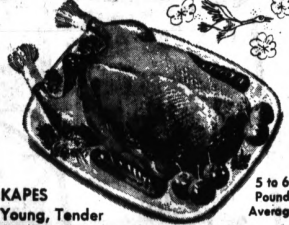

President Johnson responded by releasing $50 million to help India buy fertilizer, and ordered 1.5 million tons of wheat expedited to Indian ports.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The Princess says the Voodoo man has no power over real life people. When the Voodoo man comes to Zabbazara Mr. D suggests he and the boy save the others by pretending to be Santa and the Princess.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

On Newfangled

Santa and the Princess rushed back to the palace with Mr. D and the little boy.

Mr. D put on Santa's long red coat and his red britches and his black boots. He stuffed two bat pillows in the front of his trousers and one behind.

Santa got out the Princess's paint box and painted Mr. D's cheeks bright red. He put an extra bright dab on the tip of Mr. D's nose.

The little boy dug in his pockets and handed Mr. D two balls of bubble gum. Mr. D put one ball in each cheek and his face was as plump and rosy as Santa's.

The Princess got out her best white feather hat and snipped away at the feathers until they were shaped just right.

FASTENED THE HAT

Mr. D fastened the hat under his chin with an elastic band. When he was done not even Santa could tell which one was who or who was which one.

Then it was the little boy's turn. The Princess gave her most elegant gown—white and gold with red velvet train.

He put it on backwards and sideways and even upside down before he got it on right. Every step he took he tripped over the velvet train until the Princess showed him how he could carry it over his arm if he absolutely must.

Finally she put a wig of gold curls on his head.

LOOK BEAUTIFUL

"You look beautiful!" exclaimed the Princess. "I only wish I looked so!" She looked down at herself in dismay, for she was wearing the little boy's discarded clothing.

"You're still the Princess," said the boy shyly. "You're still—"

He was interrupted by Mr. D, who was standing guard at the window. "Here he comes! He is just walking through the gates!"

Santa and the Princess fled from the room. The little boy climbed on the Princess's throne. He arranged the velvet train around his feet.

Mr. D sat on a stool at the

'I Have You In My Power'

side of the throne. Quaking inside, they waited for the Voodoo man to appear.

A feather from his whiskers tickled Mr. D's nose. He tried to blow it away. It only tickled more. Finally he just had to sneeze and he did — an enormous "Kerchoo!" — so enormous that both balls of bubble gum shot out of his mouth and clear across the room.

At this very moment the Voodoo man appeared in the door and was struck twice in the eye by the flying gum.

LOOKED SO FUNNY

He looked so funny and so surprised the little boy couldn't help laughing, though he was shaking with fright. The Voodoo man was furious. He scowled.

"Laugh now. But you won't laugh long, for I have you in my power."

Mr. D cleared his throat and said in a quivering squeal, "You aren't so big! Your spell didn't work on me in Santa Land!"

"It worked on all your workers. Now I'll take care of you and the Princess together, and Santa Land will be no more."

SHAKING ALL OVER

The little boy was shaking all over but he thought he ought to say something so he said, "Phooey!" in a very loud voice.

The Voodoo man's face turned white with rage. He rubbed his brows and muttered to himself. He brushed one foot hard against the other and turned around three times in one spot.

Judge Plays Jack Frost for Youngsters

ENFIELD, N.H. (AP) — With a bar of soap and a rich blade, a municipal court judge plays Jack Frost each year to brighten Christmas for needy youngsters.

"I'm on the road from Thanksgiving to Christmas Day," said Joseph F. Vinciguerra, 59, who soaps thousands of windows in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. He estimates that he travels about 6,000 miles each week.

Vinciguerra decorates windows in Old English lettering with soap. He uses a razor blade to sharpen the soap bars to a fine point.

Governors' offices, taverns, barber shops and stores are among the places which display Vinciguerra's handiwork.

"All I want is to have the compensation for my work sent to charitable organizations," he said.

The U. S. consumes some $2 billion pounds of paper a year, or roughly 479 pounds per person.

Holiday Meal

Merry Menu for Military

CHICAGO (AP) — Marion Bolman's Christmas menu includes 400,000 pounds of turkey, the meal she dreamed up 18 months ago will feed half a million persons. But it will cost only about $680,000.

U.S. soldiers and airmen in Saigon, South Viet Nam, and other duty spots should enjoy it. The meal she dreamed up 18 months ago will feed half a million persons. But it will cost only about $680,000.

That's because it includes what Miss Bolman, 47, the U.S. Army Subsistence Center's dietitian in charge of menu planning, calls:

"The usual things — shrimp cocktail, turkey with giblet gravy, corn bread dressing, mashed potatoes, candied sweet potatoes, hot rolls, green beans, mince meat and pumpkin pies, relish, mixed nuts, assorted fruits, assorted candies and fruit cake."

Miss Bolman, who has been making up Army and Air Force menus for six years, said in an interview that the most important thing is to give the troops the holiday meal they are accustomed to.

"We try to keep it pretty traditional," she said. She says that it costs only about $1.35 a meal to get the estimated three million pounds of Christmas food into Army and Air Force mess halls around the world.

MASTER MENU

Miss Bolman said that the master menu, which she begins preparing 18 months in advance, is now being used by the Army everywhere except in Europe and by all Air Force installations in the United States. She estimates her Christmas meals will fill half a million GIs.

It wasn't always that way. But, she said, every year more and more overseas commands adopted the master menu until now, every Army installation in the Pacific is using it — including those in Viet Nam.

How does she decide what the troops want?

"Feedback," she says. She explains that every department that uses the menu sends back their criticisms of it. That's why this year's Christmas menu will have one new item — corn bread dressing — and an increase in the fresh fruit allotment.

The troops say they want it.

Christmas Not Complete Without These Sayings

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It wouldn't be Christmas unless someone said:

"If she doesn't like it, she can always bring it back anytime before the first of the year."

"You'd better start behaving this very minute—or there'll be no Santa Claus coming down the chimney for you."

"I don't care what kind of toy it is—just so it doesn't make a noise."

SAD TIME
"I hate Christmas—it always makes me sad."

"Who put the raisins in the eggnog?"

"I hate to buy him a present until I am sure he is going to give me one."

"Every Christmas Eve it's the same thing, year after year. You come reeling home from your office party at midnight reeking of liquor and with lipstick marks all over both cheeks."

SELF-CARVING TURKEY
"I wouldn't mind Christmas so much if someone would just invent a self-carving turkey."

"What color necktie would you suggest for my husband? He's short, fat, middle-aged and has a mole on his forehead."

SAW SANTA
"But Mama, I saw Santa Claus at the other department store. How could he be at this store, too? Did he run ahead of us?"

"Well, they say Christmas comes but once a year—and sometimes I think that's twice too often."

"Will you please quit humming 'Jingle Bells'? You're driving me out of my mind."

"It doesn't have to be too expensive. After all, it's the spirit behind it that counts."

DOUBLE SIZE
"Yeah, it's for my wife. What size is she? Gee, I never asked her. But if you know what size Elizabeth Taylor is, just double it. That should fit her okay."

"Whatever we get 'tween they'll break it by nightfall."

"Why don't you turn the tree that way? Then its bad side will be to the wall, and you can hardly notice it."

"Hey, bartender, can you help settle an argument? This guy here says Santa Claus has six reindeer, and I say he has seven. Who's right?"

"There'll be nothing else brought in this house before Easter—at the earliest."

"Mama, is it all right to send a card to a boy in your class even if he always pretends he doesn't even notice you?"

"I hate to take down the tree. The room looks so empty without it. I do believe it's the prettiest tree we ever had."

An average person loses from 50 to 100 hairs a day without becoming bald.

JOY OF CHRISTMAS — The never-changing spirit of Christmas is caught in the facial expression of 2-year-old Brennan Hussey of

Anti-U.S. Flare-Ups Likely in Manila

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

There is a strong likelihood that the anti-U.S. demonstrations which took place earlier this year in Manila will be repeated.

Reason: The Philippines has finally agreed to a U.S. proposal that the country be turned into a rest and recreation center for American fighting men in Viet Nam.

This move is expected to stir up new outbursts from the same left-leaning student and labor groups that have agitated against the presence of U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

and American involvement in Viet Nam.

PICKING UP THE PIECES: The chill in Soviet-Algerian relations that developed after former President Ahmed Ben Bella's ouster may be expected to wear off as result of Col. Houari Boumedienne's visit to Moscow.

The Russians have not shown for Boumedienne anything like their former enthusiasm for Ben Bella. But the Soviet press has ceased complaining about Algeria's drift to the right and persecution of "progressive" elements, especially Communists.

Unlike the Chinese who hastened to butter up the new regime, the Russians did not conceal their initial displeasure with the arrest of the first non-Communist to be made a "hero of the Soviet Union."

Members of Boumedienne's

delegation indicated they had received a better reception in Moscow than they had expected. They said they did not come to Moscow for more economic aid but to make sure Moscow remained friendly.

The Kremlin apparently has resigned itself to the new status quo and now is expected to pick up what's left from the Ben Bella wreckage.

TIME TO RE-ASSESS: U.S. officials believe that the United States' NATO partners were impressed by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's grim warning of growing Red Chinese nuclear power.

There was no immediate reaction when McNamara addressed the NATO council of ministers, but council members will spend coming weeks mulling quietly over the speech and the intelligence estimates included in it.

Dispute Follows Latest Viet Peace Feeler Report

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration found itself caught up today in a stormy dispute over its publication of a conditional peace offer from Communist North Viet Nam.

The storm overshadowed the central question whether Hanoi had in fact made an authentic approach for a settlement on its own terms and might yet respond to a U.S. request for clarification of conditions in it.

President Johnson could try to restore the roundabout peace exchange with President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam by sending some kind of new message in Ho's direction, but administration officials said today that there had been no decision on any new U.S. action. The secretary covers were torn from the incident last Friday afternoon after the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported that a new peace offer from Hanoi had been rejected by the United States.

Amid denials from Hanoi that any peace feeler had been sent, Dr. Giorgio La Pira, former mayor of Florence and a left-wing Christian Democrat, one of the principal intermediaries in the affair, insisted that the offer had been made.

RUSK ACCUSED

His traveling colleague, Prof. Mario Primicerio, accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of sabotaging the bid. "Secretary of State Dean Rusk is to be blamed," he said, "because he obviously wanted this mission to fail by disclosing in advance what had been done." Later, the 24-year-old linguist denied having said this, but the journalist who interviewed him said the quote was correct.

State Department officials, calling the charge outrageous, said the publication was forced by concern for what they contended was a partially erroneous account which had already become public. Rusk was reportedly angered and upset by the criticism.

Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and another who played the role of go-between, said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" the administration would have "preferred to carry on this discussion in privacy" but was faced with a "crisis of confidence with the public over the credibility of its peace policy. Goldberg argued the administration acted correctly in re-releasing the correspondence.

Goldberg said he did not think disclosure of the exchange over peace negotiations would hurt such talks.

NOT DISCOURAGED

"I think we would continue to hope that this matter will be transferred from the battlefield to the conference table. So I do not feel discouraged," he said. "If there is a genuine desire on both sides to negotiate, that desire will surmount whatever the difficulties are of disclosure."

But Dr. Benjamin Spock and H. Stuart Hughes, cochairmen of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, attacked the administration on the ground that it was "avoiding negotiations" by publication of the correspondence in order to keep the National Liberation Front (the political arm of the Communist guerrilla forces in South Viet Nam) out of any future government in Saigon.

North Viet Nam itself denounced the whole thing Saturday as a hoax and in effect denied that a peace probe had been made.

RED CHINA HEARD

The Communist Chinese chimed in Sunday, calling the report of peace feelers a "U.S.-made hoax" which "fools nobody."

U.S. officials here were impressed by the degree of continuation in the Hanoi broadcast, however, of the main mechanical fact of the reported peace offer — the meeting Nov. 11 between La Pira and Italian Professor Mario Primicerio, with Ho and Premier Pham Van Dong.

The North Vietnamese announcement differed in its emphasis from the account which La Pira passed on to Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, the U.N. General Assembly president, and which Fanfani reported to Washington in a Nov. 20 letter to President Johnson.

The La Pira-Fanfani account said the Vietnamese were prepared for peace negotiations on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreements creating Viet Nam, provided the United States would accept the Communists' four-point program, which it not called its definition of the Geneva treaty, as a basis for the talks.

HANOI ACCOUNT

The Hanoi account which denounced the State Department disclosure said flatly that "the United States must recognize these four points and show this with practical deeds so as to find a political solution to the Viet Nam problem."

That is in line with North Viet Nam's standard public position but it is harder as a statement of policy than the La Pira version reported by Fanfani and released in the Fanfani letter to Johnson.

LETTER ANSWERED

Fanfani's letter to Johnson was answered by Rusk Dec. 17, and Fanfani sent the essence of the reply along to North Viet Nam. Rusk asked for clarification on several points of La Pira's version of Ho's statement.

Diplomatically, therefore, the next move would appear to be up to Hanoi. "No answer has reached me as of today," Fanfani said Friday.

When the sequence of events became public, U.S. officials went to great efforts to emphasize that the apparent peace feeler had not been rejected as reported by the Post-Dispatch.

But the next day, the Post-Dispatch quoted "well-placed diplomats" at the United Nations as saying U.S. bombing last Wednesday of an electrical power plant in the vicinity of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong constituted a clear answer to the peace offer.

TOLD IN ADVANCE

In a story by U.N. correspondent Donald Grant, the paper said Johnson had been informed in advance of the air strikes that any such action would "close the door to negotiations." Goldberg, however, said Sunday that this is "completely untrue."

There were these other week-end developments:

—President Johnson received a report Sunday from Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield on a 3,000-mile fact-finding trip dealing mainly with Viet Nam. Mansfield and four colleagues who accompanied him said upon their arrival in Washington Saturday night that "the longer a solution is delayed, the more extended the destructiveness of the conflict will become and the more difficult will be the restoration of a rational and durable peace."

—Pope Paul VI, speaking to 20,000 persons in St. Peter's Square, appealed to "responsible leaders" to head at the least a Viet Cong proposal for a 15-hour Christmas Eve cease-fire from the cease-fire there would follow reflections and negotiations, then finally the equilibrium of concord and peace.

—Goldberg, commenting on the Pope's appeal, said that the United States seeks peace "not only for Christmas but for all time." As for the Viet Cong proposal, Goldberg said "our local commanders have been authorized to work that out provided it can be done without themselves being fired on."

2 Black Groups at Odds on Rhodesia

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Two groups sworn to establish black rule in Rhodesia are still feuding between themselves, or, Percy Ntine, shrugs off Chikema's comment and says ZANU had 30,000 members declared its independence of when it was banned.

The groups, with the announced aim of making Rhodesia into a black-ruled country named Zimbabwe, are the Zimbabwe African National Union — ZANU — and the Zimbabwe African People's Union ZAPU.

Nelher seems a threat to Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime in Salisbury. ZAPU was formed in Rhodesia in 1961 and claimed a membership of half a million when its records were confiscated the following year.

SPLINTER GROUP
ZANU splintered from ZAPU in August 1963 and was banned by the Salisbury government one year later.

ZAPU President Joshua Nkomo and the ZANU leader, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, as well as top aides, are being held in Rhodesian detention camps.

ZAPU Vice President James Chikema, who wears a skull-and-crossbones ring as well as his party's symbolic jackal fan cap, criticized ZANU as an "old-garlic movement run by intellectuals" and lacking grass-roots support in Rhodesia. ZANU's Lusaka office manager, Percy Ntine, shrugs off Chikema's comment and says ZANU had 30,000 members declared its independence of when it was banned.

SEVERAL ATTEMPTS
The Organization of African Unity has made several attempts to heal the breach between the two movements.

Both operate shabby storefront offices in Lusaka decorated with yellowing newspaper clippings describing their activities. Both issue weekly mimeographed news sheets and claim to have offices in London, Cairo, Dar es Salaam and other cities.

ZAPU publicity director George Silundika said: "Our emphasis is on complete non-cooperation with the enemy. First we want to bring Rhodesia's rural areas to a standstill and then convince the Africans to withdraw from the Rhodesian police force."

He estimated Rhodesia's working population at 700,000 and said the revolutionaries' major problem was that only 50,000 of these are indigenous Rhodesian Africans.

FROM MALAWI
"Another 250,000 of these come from Malawi, whose president, Dr. Banda, has ordered garb movement run by intelget about strikes and civil disobedience," he added. Others come from the Portuguese territory of Mozambique, from South Africa and other nations.

"Our strike weapon is therefore very limited," Silundika said. "Guerrilla warfare is the next phase in the revolution. It might come tomorrow or it might come next year. We must be able to meet force with force and this is the direction in which we are working."

INFILTRATION
There are hints that Ian Smith's security operatives have infiltrated both revolutionary movements and have eliminated their capability to accomplish anything except minor harassment.

ZAPU's publication, the Zimbabwe Review, describes underground tactics in Rhodesia which seem little more serious than Halloween vandalism.

One report said: "The brave freedom fighters also uprooted all the vegetables and flowers in the half-acre garden of settler Schlachter's wife."

"This great piece of work caused the family $112 worth of financial loss."

LUKEWARM WELCOME

Zambia's welcome for Rhodesia's "freedom fighters" is lukewarm at best. President Kenneth Kaunda was disappointed when they did not march into Rhodesia after it declared independence, and begin guerrilla activities.

He urged them to "fill Smith's jails" instead of relaxing in Zambia "eating chicken in a basket."

Both ZANU and ZAPU refuse to comment on this. Zambia's government radio station broadcasts two programs daily of ZAPU propaganda into Rhodesia in that country's two main vernacular languages — Shona and Sisdebele.

Gun-running from Tanzania to Rhodesia is usually winked at in Zambia, although several Africans have been arrested by this country's police.

West Germany's superhighway system, which now extends 2,000 miles, will be lengthened to 3,125 miles by 1975. About 625 miles have been added in the last four years. The system is Europe's longest. Italy is second.

STEAMED SMYRNA PUDDING

Modernized Version

It's Milk-Wine Punch

If you're looking for a new punch recipe to serve at this year's holiday festivities, you'll have to look elsewhere. Frothy Syllabub, a delectable egg, milk and wine punch, is definitely not new. In fact, you can find syllabubs in some of the earliest cookbooks published in this country.

In Richard Briggs' "New Art of Cookery," published in Philadelphia in 1792, is the following recipe for "Syllabub under the Cow":

"Put a bottle of either red or white wine, ale or cyder, into a China bowl, sweeten it with sugar and grate in some nutmeg, then hold it under the cow, and milk into it till it has a fine froth at the top; strew over it a handful of currants, clean washed and picked, and plumped before the fire. You may make this syllabub at home, only have new milk. Make it as hot as milk from the cow, and out of a teapot, or any such thing, pour it in, holding your hand very high."

Syllabub is a first-cousin to eggnog and makes a marvelous party drink.

The recipe which follows does not make use of Briggs' direct milking method, but achieves its characteristic frothy top by the addition of beaten egg whites.

This recipe has been further modernized by the use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than sugar. For the benefit of would-be weight-watchers, nearly 100 calories have been

Candy Garnish for Yule Pie

Peppermint candy canes are an essential factor in the Christmas tradition. Or peppermint rounds, striped pink and white.

A very popular holiday dessert is peppermint stick ice cream served with hot fudge sauce.

But that dessert may seem a little heavy after a festive dinner, particularly for children and grandma and grandpa.

So perhaps you'd prefer this lighter peppermint candy pie with chocolate wafer crumb crust.

Peppermint Candy Pie
1 package strawberry, vanilla or chocolate flavor whipped dessert mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup cold milk
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup crushed peppermint candy

1 baked 8-inch chocolate wafer crumb crust, cooled
Peppermint rounds
For a fluffier pie filling, use all cold water.
In small, deep, narrow bowl, thoroughly blend dessert mix and sugar with milk. Whip at highest speed of electric mixer 1 minute—mixture will be very thick. Blend in water. Whip at high speed about 2 minutes.

Chill until mixture will mound — about 14 minutes. Spread in candy. Open into crumb crust. Chill 2 hours or more.

Garnish with peppermint rounds and whipped mix.
To use a rotary hand beater, add all liquid at once. Mix slowly until completely blended. Then beat rapidly 3 to 5 minutes.

Steamed Pudding True Holiday Dessert

By JANET ODELL
Pentac Press Food Editor

Just as pumpkin pie spells Thanksgiving, so does steamed pudding indicate Christmas. It is a heritage we have from our English ancestors.

There aren't any plums in plum pudding and the term has come to mean a rich holiday steamed pudding full of spices, nuts, and fruit.

Like fruitcake, plum pudding keeps well and may improve with age. You can store it in the refrigerator or the freezer. One of its advantages is that it can be made far ahead of the time to serve it.

In fact, if you make an extra pudding this week, use it as a gift. Wrap it in plastic wrap so that its good looks show through. A jar of hard sauce and/or a bottle of fine Sherry for drinking with the pudding completes your thoughtful gift.

Sherry is an ingredient in this first pudding. If using wine bothers you, remember that all the alcohol cooks out, leaving only the flavor.

SHERRED CARROT PUDDING

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup finely shredded raw carrot
1 cup fine gingersnap crumbs
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon each salt, baking powder and cinnamon
1/2 cup milk

Makes 1 1/2 quarts, or 12 1/2-cup servings. Each serving contains 76 calories; 4.5 grams protein; no fat; 7 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 172 calories.

Combine egg whites and remaining 1 tablespoon sucaryl; beat until stiff peaks form. Pour punch into bowl. Top with mounds of beaten egg whites. Sprinkle mounds with nutmeg.

Combine 1 1/2 quarts, or 12 1/2-cup servings. Each serving contains 76 calories; 4.5 grams protein; no fat; 7 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 172 calories.

Raw Relish Can Be Frozen

Serve some of this relish now; freeze the rest.

Cranberry Relish

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries
1 red apple (unpeeled, quartered and cored)
1 medium orange (unpeeled, quartered and seeds removed)
1 cup sugar

Using fine, medium or coarse blade, put the fruit through a food chopper. Stir in the sugar. Turn into four 1/2-pint wide-mouth preserving jars; seal.

Refrigerate any of the relish that is to be served soon and allow to mellow for several days before serving; freeze the remainder — it will keep for a few months.

Pack stuffing loosely in bird. Packing too tightly makes it heavy and soggy.

OREGON CHRISTMAS TART — The fine flavor of filberts and cranberries get together in this lattice-topped Christmas tart. Serve it warm or cool topped with sour cream, ice cream or whipped cream.

1/2 cup Sherry
1 cup diced mixed candied fruits
1/2 cup each raisins and chopped nuts
Cream shortening, sugar and eggs together. Add carrot and gingersnap crumbs. Resift flour with soda, salt, baking powder and cinnamon. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk and Sherry. Stir in fruits and nuts.

Turn into greased and floured molds, filling about 3/4 full. Cover closely with foil, if molds do not have tight-fitting lids. Place in large kettle

Three Birds Equal Six Drumsticks

For juiciness and delicacy of flavor, you can't beat chicken. This year, roast three at once for the holiday table, suggests the National Broiler Council.

To insure plenty of dressing, prepare separately this easy way: Sauté chopped onion, celery and parsley when you are melting the butter and follow the directions on the prepared mix. Add raisins, almonds, or stuffings if desired. Heat the stuffing in a skillet on top of the range the last 10 minutes of roasting time.

Temperature and roasting time for three is the same as for one—30 minutes per pound at 375 degrees 1 1/2 hours for a three-pound broiler-fryer.

with boiling water to come to half the depth of the molds.
Steam for 1 to 2 1/2 hours, depending on size of molds (about 1 hour for individual molds, and 2 1/2 hours for 1-quart molds).
Serve warm. This amount will fill 2 (1-quart) molds, or any assortment of sizes with that total capacity. Serves 10-12.

Note: Puddings may be steamed ahead, and reheated either by steaming, or in a slow oven (about 300 degrees), well covered to prevent drying.

Dried figs make this second pudding something to remember. Steam it in a cone-shaped sieve lined with foil if you want your pudding in tree form. Decorate with hard sauce.

STEAMED SMYRNA PUDDING

2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ginger
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 egg
1 cup light molasses
1/2 cup melted shortening
2 teaspoons shredded lemon peel
1/2 cup warm water
1/2 lb. figs, very finely cut

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat egg well, then stir in molasses, melted shortening and lemon peel. Add alternately, dry ingredients and water. Stir in figs, mixing well.

Make "twins" quilted molds by fitting separately, 2 squares of 14-inch quilted heavyweight foil

CHRISTMAS TREES—Green jellied salad is molded in cone-shaped paper cups, then turned out to be decorated as miniature Christmas trees. These attractive and appetizing salads will make your holiday table even more festive looking.

3 cups membrane-free fresh orange sections
2 tablespoons confectioners sugar
1/2 cup grated fresh or canned flaked coconut.

In a glass serving bowl, or in individual glass cups or dessert dishes, layer the orange sections, confectioners sugar and coconut; begin with the oranges and end with the coconut. Make 4 servings.

Note: To prepare the oranges — with a sharp knife remove the rind from the fruit so that no white membrane remains. Insert the knife along each dividing membrane and cut the pulp away from it to free the sections; do this over a bowl to catch the juice.

Stuff pitted fresh California dates with cocktail onions as a curried dish condiment.

Pickle packers imbued with the holiday spirit, suggest a gleaming green gelatin salad in the form of Christmas trees.

Children, especially, will be delighted with this creation, whether served at a regal or family meal or at a party.

Christmas Tree Salads

2 packages (3 ounces each) mixed vegetable flavor gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 cups cold water
1/2 cup sweet pickle liquid
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup chopped apple
1/2 cup chopped sweet gherkins
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Softened cream cheese
Sweet gherkin slices

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in cold water and pickle liquid. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into 6 cone-shaped molds. Chill until firm.

Unmold: using a pastry tube, fashion cream cheese around trees. Decorate tops with pickle slices cut into stars.
*Molds may be made from 12-inch squares of aluminum foil folded into triangles and shaped into cones. If available, 6-ounce cone-shaped paper cups may be used.

over a 1-quart mixing bowl or gelatin mold.
Divide batter between molds, then secure foil across the tops, leaving enough "head" space for pudding to expand.

Place in covered pan or casserole containing 1-inch of hot water. Steam in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 2 hours. This pudding may be stored in the refrigerator after cooling and reheated later. Serve hot with lemon sauce and hard sauce garnish. Makes 8 servings.

While the first two puddings were dark, this one is bright as a holly berry.

CHERRY STEAMED PUDDING

2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup firmly-packed brown sugar
4 eggs, separated
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries (about 15 cherries)
1/2 cup mixed candied fruits
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Beat butter or margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Add flour mixture and egg yolks alternately to butter or margarine mixture, beating well after each addition. Blend in milk.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites, cherries, candied fruits, walnuts and vanilla into creamed mixture. Turn into greased 2-quart bell-shaped mold or 2-quart mold.

Cover and steam for 2 hours. Unmold and serve garnished with hard sauce. Makes 6-8 servings.

HARD SAUCE:

Cream together 1/2 cup butter and 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Add 1 tablespoon undiluted evaporated milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until light and fluffy. Chill until firm.

SHERRED HARD SAUCE

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

2 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar
1/2 cup Sherry
Beat butter until creamy. Mix cinnamon with powdered sugar and add to butter alternately with Sherry. Beat until mixture forms stiff, creamy peaks. Serve on steamed pudding. Makes about 2 cups.

Upside Down Test

Test for Egg White

To test the stiffness of egg whites for angel food cakes or meringues, turn the bowl upside down. This suggestion is not as risky as you may think. First, test by tilting the bowl on its side. If the egg whites start to slip and do not cling to the bowl, they need further whipping.

When you can turn the bowl completely upside down, the egg whites are perfect for your confections.

Been Favorite for Long Time

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Ambrosia, a 19th century dessert, has remained popular all these years. A simple combination of fresh oranges, graded coconut and sugar, its appeal may be due in part to the fact that it is so refreshing after a substantial winter meal.

As far as we can trace the recipe, it first appeared in an American cook book in the 1850s.

Interestingly enough, the difference between that old-time version and the classic modern one is small.

Originally the oranges were cut in "rather thick" slices. Now, as in the following recipe, the fruit may be sliced into membrane-free sections. The sections make for easy eating.

And there's a change, too, in the coconut. Originally fresh coconut was always used; now more often than not the prepared variety is called for. But you can make the choice and suit yourself.

1965 AMBROSIA

3 cups membrane-free fresh orange sections
2 tablespoons confectioners sugar
1/2 cup grated fresh or canned flaked coconut.

In a glass serving bowl, or in individual glass cups or dessert dishes, layer the orange sections, confectioners sugar and coconut; begin with the oranges and end with the coconut. Make 4 servings.

Note: To prepare the oranges — with a sharp knife remove the rind from the fruit so that no white membrane remains. Insert the knife along each dividing membrane and cut the pulp away from it to free the sections; do this over a bowl to catch the juice.

Stuff pitted fresh California dates with cocktail onions as a curried dish condiment.

LEMON-WINE JELLY — Wine jelly is one of those gourmet foods that you always find in specialty shops. But it is simple to make at home and lovely to use for a gift. Put it in a pretty glass and wrap in clear plastic wrap.

CHERRY STEAMED PUDDING

Hide Kosher Dills in Cheese Pastry

The holiday season is here. Invitations to seasonal celebrations, Christmas and New Year's parties are beginning to arrive. And you, too, will be extending invitations to friends and relatives to join you for festive fare.

Here to make merrymaking even merrier are Pick Pockets. These delectable tidbits are tiny kosher dill pickles wrapped in pastry.

They can be prepared ahead of time and refrigerated before baking. What an appetizing and unusual way to herald this most gay and joyous season.

Pick Pockets

2 cups finely grated American cheese
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup all-purpose flour
Dash cayenne pepper
2 jars (1 1/2 ounces each) kosher baby dills, well-drained
Paprika

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Thoroughly mix cheese and butter; add flour and cayenne. Use ing pastry blender, cut cheese mixture into flour until pastry can be easily shaped into a ball. Divide in half; roll out on floured pastry cloth to 1/8-inch thickness.

Place 1 whole well-drained pickle on narrow end and roll jelly-roll fashion, sealing seam. Place on ungreased baking sheet, seam side down; sprinkle with paprika.

Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool slightly on cake rack before serving. Makes approximately 3 dozen.

Note: Pastry-wrapped pickles may be prepared and refrigerated before baking.

Wine Jelly Is Gourmet Food

Lemon-Wine Jelly! It's perfect as a festive gift, or to serve at some during the holidays. Either way, this gourmet blend of port wine and fresh lemon juice in a shimmering jelly is certain to bring you praise and applause. Be ready to share the recipe!

Put the jelly in especially pretty glasses to be in keeping with its special quality. Give Lemon-Wine Jelly as a gift of a single glass, or as a set of four or more. Your friends will consider it a unique and personal gift.

If you're serving this pretty jelly for a Christmas brunch or dinner, garnish it with a fresh lemon carwheel to make it even more colorful, and to identify it as well. You'll discover that California lemon wedges and carthwheels make ideal garnishes for many holiday dishes. "Lemon yellow" is a pretty contrast to the Christmas reds and greens.

Lemon-Wine Jelly

1 cup port wine
1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
3 cups sugar
1/2 bottle (3 ounces) liquid fruit pectin

Place wine, lemon juice and sugar in large saucepan; bring to boil. Add pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to a rolling boil, about 1/2 minute. Remove from heat; quickly pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses. "Lemon yellow" is a pretty contrast to the Christmas reds and greens.

DESSERT DUNK — Prepare 1 envelope whipped topping mix with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold milk and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla as directed on package, adding 2 tablespoons sugar before whipping. Into half of the prepared topping, fold $\frac{1}{4}$ cup strawberry jam. Into remaining whipped topping, fold 2 tablespoons crushed peppermint candy, or 2/3 cup flaked coconut and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped salted peanuts or leave remainder plain. Serve with apple slices, dried apricots, dates, chocolate wafers, or graham crackers.

Flaming Pineapple Climax of Meal

Here's a delightful dessert that does double duty during the gay holiday season. At dinner, the pineapple is the heart of a stunning centerpiece that symbolizes hospitality, while inside the shell, the cut-up fruit secretly marinates in a heady sauce.

Then, after dinner, the dessert is ignited with burning liquor, and served in a dramatic blaze of flame.

Beauty is as beauty tastes, in cookery, and flaming is far more than mere fireworks. It works miracles that must be believed, because the flavor-makers that are left behind when the alcohol burns off have magical properties, making the fruit sweeter and more intensely fruit-like.

The pineapple serves beautifully as the focal point of a fruit arrangement on the dinner table, or on the sideboard for an afternoon or evening party. At serving time, it becomes a spectacular finale for your holiday entertaining.

Blithe Spirited Pineapple
1 handsomely formed, large, ripe pineapple
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar, or more to taste
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup creme de menthe or a fruit liqueur
2 jiggers brandy, rum, or whisky

Cut a thick slice, including the top, from a ripe, shapely pineapple. Discard any blemished leaves from the frond and reserve the top to use as a lid. Cut around the fruit, between meat and shell, with a curved, long, serrated knife, to release the meat from the sides and bottom.

Make a deep cross-cut down through the bottom of the fruit and lift out the four quarters. Discard the tough center core. Cut fruit into fingers, collecting the juices as you cut.

Sweeten the pineapple with sugar to taste, beginning with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup. Add creme de menthe or other liqueur. Pile the fruit in the pineapple shell. Chill several hours, until time to set the table. Adjust the cover so that the fruit shows.

At serving time, heat $\frac{1}{4}$ cup any liquor, set it afire, and pour it blazing over the fruit. The pineapple may be served as soon as the flames die down,

Candied Fruit Adds a Holiday Touch

For a holiday dessert that's different but delicious, try molasses parfaits. Combine 1 (8-ounce) jar of candied fruits with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of light molasses. Mix well.

Alternate layers of molasses mixture with ice cream in 6 parfait glasses, using a total of 1 pint each of vanilla and coffee ice creams.

BLAZING PINEAPPLE — Fresh pineapple, handsome symbol of hospitality, is extra-glamorous when finger-sticks of fruit are marinated in liqueur and served in an aromatic blaze of flame, as dessert or evening snack.

Barbecue Riblets for a Delicious Dish

Barbecuing is not confined to the great outdoors but is definitely a way of cooking that can continue all year-round inside the house. Usually the only requirements are a range, a favorite cut of meat such as lamb and a basting sauce.

Many cuts of lamb are suitable for barbecuing, but if you haven't tried lamb riblets, then you should have an introduction to them via the Dutch oven, kettle or roasting pan.

Lamb riblets are cut from the breast and are extremely tender and succulent when browned and simmered in a zesty sauce. They are also an economical cut of lamb which will fit into even the most restricted food budget.

And, as with all lamb, they are nutritious... providing protein, minerals and vitamins. Try this recipe soon.

Barbecued Riblets
2 pounds lamb riblets
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup each: dark seedless raisins and chopped parsley
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground oregano
1 clove garlic, chopped

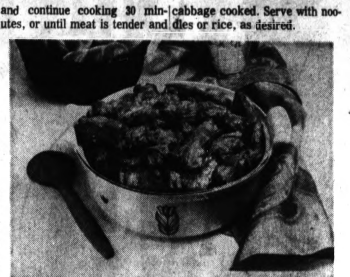

In Dutch oven or large skillet brown lamb well; drain off drippings. Meanwhile, combine remaining ingredients. Pour sauce over browned lamb and simmer covered one hour or until lamb is tender. Makes 4 servings.

Lamb Shanks with Cabbage
4 lamb shanks, about 1-pound each

2 tablespoons salad oil
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce, or until meat is tender and dishes or rice, as desired.
1 cup beef bouillon
1 large onion, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon oregano
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon each of pepper and basil
1 bay leaf
1 can (1 pound) whole potatoes, drained
1 quart shredded cabbage

Brown shanks in oil in large skillet or Dutch oven 25 to 30 minutes; drain off drippings. Place shanks in large baking dish. Mix together tomato sauce, bouillon, onion and seasonings; pour over shanks.

Cover and bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours. Add potatoes and cabbage; cover

LAMB RIBLETS — This Dutch oven is piled high with browned and barbecued lamb riblets. Enjoy these succulent riblets with poppy seed or plain braided rolls.

Girl Scouts' Yule Charity Stays at Home

Twelve Pontiac Girl Scout troops, this year, decided to do their Christmas "spending" at home rather than aiming their project at needy children abroad.

As a result, the annual "Toys for Tots" drive sponsored by the Pontiac Firefighters' Association (PFA) has been boosted by some 150 Christmas gifts.

The presents — some handmade and others purchased at area stores — were turned over to the fire fighters after the Friday night Christmas party of the Glen Oaks Neighborhood Girl Scouts.

Lt. Jack Douglas, president of the PFA, said his group would assist the Pontiac Metropolitan Club in distribution of the gifts to needy children throughout the area in time for Christmas.

Mrs. James M. Hayes, 16 Oak Hill, head of the scouts' neighborhood council, said the project was the idea of the girls.

NEGLECTED HERE
"We were making plans for our Christmas project," she said, "when one of the girls said she thought needy children in the Pontiac area were being neglected."

"The others took to the idea right away and from then on the project was all theirs," she said.

Property on Telegraph

County to Consider Land Purchase

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors tomorrow will consider the purchase of a 6.7 acre parcel of state property fronting on Telegraph for $83,750.

Located adjacent to the southern boundary of the present county service center, the parcel will be used for future development and as a buffer area.

It contains approximately 600 feet of frontage on the east side of Telegraph.

The appraisal price of $83,750 was established last month by the State Tax Commission after the county had requested and received permission from the state legislature to buy the land.

In other business, the board will consider adopting a boating control ordinance recommended by the State Boating Control Committee.

LIMITS SPEED
The ordinance would prohibit operation of a motorboat at high speed or towing a water skier between the hours of 6:30 p.m. and 10 a.m. the next day.

A public hearing on the proposed boating ordinance is slated for 10 a.m.

Also to be considered by the board is a recommendation from its equalization committee that Herman Stephens, acting director of the equalization department, be named director.

Ted C. Sage, who is on sick leave as director of the department, will retire Jan. 1.

The county's civil defense committee will present an annual report on the operation of the civil defense department and show a brief film portraying the function of civil defense.

A cutback of this department's operation or its merger with another county department had been recommended by the County Board of Auditors.

Explosion of Terrorist Grenade Ends Brief Lull in Viet Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong gave Saigon a day of rest from terrorism on the fifth anniversary of their National Liberation Front today but renewed their violence at nightfall.

A terrorist hurled a grenade at a truckload of U.S. soldiers after dark as the vehicle passed over a bridge on the northern outskirts of the city en route to a U.S. base.

The grenade bounced off the rear of the truck and exploded in the street, slightly injuring two Americans and five or six Vietnamese, U.S. officials said.

The incident occurred despite the tightest security in years in the city of more than 1.4 million to guard against any major anniversary incident. Officials said the wave of terrorism could continue until the new year.

The Communists took no holiday in the field either. Two Viet Cong companies attacked two outposts of the Tuyen Nhon Special Forces camp in the Plain of Reeds 40 miles west of Saigon. The U.S.-advised government forces threw back the Communists with tactical air support and claimed 29 Viet Cong killed.

FARTHER WEST

Twelve miles farther west, battalions of South Vietnamese regional troops slammed into a Viet Cong hideout, killing 26 Communists and destroying 30 sampans and 53 buildings, spokesmen reported. The attack force also captured 12 sampans and found more than 100 grenades and a dozen weapons.

With an improvement in the weather, U.S. warplanes ended a two-day lull in the raids on North Viet Nam. Air Force F105

Thunderchiefs dropped 49 tons of bombs and rockets on the Bac Can highway bridge 75 miles north of Hanoi, spokesmen said. Pilots reported two spans down, a third damaged and damage to six antiaircraft positions nearby that protect the strategic supply route from Red China.

One F105 went down after being hit by ground fire. The pilot ejected 45 miles south of Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port, and was picked up by an amphibious rescue plane.

A small U.S. Army observation plane collided with a South Vietnamese single-engine aircraft on a support mission 27 miles south of Da Nang, killing both two-man crews.

OVER WEEKEND

Over the weekend, U.S. Marines and Army men marked the Viet Cong birthday by killing nearly 200 Communists in three clashes with sizable Viet Cong forces.

TRAFFIC FLOWS

A Viet Cong call on Saigonese to observe 15 minutes of silence Sunday to protest the war passed unheeded as traffic flowed and business continued uninterrupted.

"It was a flop, a fiasco," commented a U.S. official.

The only terrorist action took place on the outskirts when a Viet Cong cyclist hurled a grenade at a police station, wounding six policemen. Police gunfire killed the terrorist.

At sunset, U.S. military police emptied Saigon's bustling cafes and bars of GIs.

FLARE-UP OF ACTION

In a flare-up of action at the start of Christmas week, the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division fought a Communist battalion 12 miles northwest of the coastal town of Qui Nhon, about 265 miles northeast of Saigon.

The flying horsemen came the two U.S. units split the Viet encounter in the 20-mile-long rice valley 350 miles northeast of Saigon.

Moving into the Communist camp, Operation Smash claimed an early count of 16 Viet Cong dead, 4 captured and 20 suspects detained. The Aussies destroyed a large store of Viet Cong rice.

400 TROOPS

In Death Valley south of Da Nang, U.S. Marines collided with 400 Communist troops Saturday, breaking a lull in Operation Harvest Moon, which began Dec. 8 to trap a large Viet Cong unit in a brief revolt, while others were killed in the latest capture. Ring leaders will be punished, the officials said.

Their Job: Get Mail to GIs in Field

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—In the mass of mail pouring in from the states to the U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam was this three-gallon glass jar of pickled pigs feet.

To the two men who shoulder the daily responsibility of getting the mail through to the soldiers, this ordinarily would be no problem.

But let one of them, M. Sgt. James V. Adams of Penfield, Ill., tell what happened.

"The glass jar broke and there was a real mess. It took us some time to pick out the broken glass and sort out the maddening letters from the big metal container we use for the mail."

The other man responsible for the mail getting through is Capt. Gerald C. Aker of Bellevue, Wash., a former Air Force navigator and onetime teacher.

DIRECT HANDLING

The Aker-Adams team directs the handling of about 270,000 pounds of mail daily at the airmail terminal at Saigon's airport. About 30,000 pounds make up the letters and packages being sent back home.

The other 12 tons is mail addressed to U.S. troops on duty in South Viet Nam.

Three months ago the daily volume of service mail handled here was about 50,000 pounds, says Adams, the noncommissioned officer in charge of the airmail terminal.

Aker, 32, is a veteran who served in the Military Air Transport Service. He took time out for schooling and teaching, but the Cuban crisis in October 1962, called him back into service.

SERVICE CAREER

He now plans to make the service his career. The leopard tattooed on his right arm tells of a hitch in the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Problems? To keep the soldiers' mail moving so there will be no undue delay.

"We never allow the mail to pile up here," Aker says. "Now with the Christmas rush on, we have to make an extra effort to get the mail on its way."

"Every now and then a military situation will have priority on all military aircraft, but the minute planes are available, we start the mails moving. Our aim is to let no letter or parcel remain on our hands for more than 24 hours."

MOVES OUT

In almost all normal cases, Aker says, the mail moves out the day it comes in.

Other problems? "I turn them over to Sgt. Adams," Aker says. "That man is tops in getting the soldier mail moving."

"Too many men over here are sending fresh fruit and vegetables home by mail," Adams said. "They get crushed and they spoil. They are rough on the mail. Most of it just can't get through."

Few letters and parcels are not delivered—less than about one-half of 1 per cent, Adams estimates. Insufficient address is the main reason; troop movements are the next.

Working under Aker and Adams is a staff of 17 U.S. military personnel and 25 Vietnamese.

CANADIAN WHISKY. A BLEND. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED BY McMASTER IMPORT COMPANY, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

A $6.50 Canadian for only $4.80?
What's the gimmick?
Big tax savings on every bottle!
Instead of bottling McMaster's in Canada, where most Canadian Whiskies are bottled, we import it direct and bottle it here. By doing it this way, we save handsomely on taxes and other charges.
You would expect to pay $6.50 for this smooth, mellow Canadian Whisky. McMaster's is distilled, aged in the barrel, and blended in Canada.
You can't buy a finer Canadian Whisky than McMaster's. Why pay more than $4.80 a fifth (tax included)
(P.S. McMaster's also comes in a big 1/2 gallon or handy pint. Just $11.95 and $3.06.)

A $7.00 Scotch for only $4.97?
Sure. McMaster's gives you the same big tax savings on its mellow, imported-in-the-barrel Scotch, too.

Blind Choir Faces Bleak Christmas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eighteen blind young singers from Hong Kong face a bleak Christmas. Their leader — who had rescued them from orphanages and refugee camps — was critically injured.

And a member of their chorus, plucked nameless as a boy from a Hong Kong street, lay near death.

The leader, Stephen Shao, 47, and the blind chorister, John Chan, now 34, were struck by a car Friday night as the group emerged from a Chinese-American church.

Shao suffered a broken hip and internal injuries. Chan had fractures of the skull and limbs. They were hospitalized.

BLIND SINGERS
"The blind singers just don't know what's going to happen to them," says Rev. Calvin Chao, head of the local Chinese For Christ, Inc., a Protestant group which helps Chinese students in the United States.

"We're taking care of the boys and girls the best we can," he said. "But they feel lost without their leader and very worried about John. They can speak only Chinese so there are few people whom they can confide in."

The minister said Shao, a musician, decided eight years ago to try to do something for the blind, hopelessly poor children of Hong Kong.

Shao taught the youngsters he gathered from alleys, orphanages and refugee camps to sing and to play Western and Chinese musical instruments. Their repertoire ranges from classical music to popular Western and Chinese folk songs. Some compose their own music.

New Star Stresses Hard Work

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To all those girls out there who dream of becoming a movie star, Elizabeth Hartman has a message: you can do it. Elizabeth did it. Without even getting out of breath. So new to the professional world is she that she still considers Youngstown, Ohio, her home. There are several things you should know about Elizabeth Hartman.

THOMAS

She is pretty, though it is sometimes hard to detect the fact because of the way she pulls her hair back in severe style and wears no makeup.

"Yes, I've had people suggest I should look more glamorous. But I can't be what I'm not." She is talented, as evidenced by her work in "A Patch of Blue" with Sidney Poitier. The story of a blind girl who is befriended by a Negro who mirrored here to general huzzahs. Elizabeth was hailed as a brilliant new star.

She is strong-minded. "I know what I want, and I aim to get it."

Elizabeth Hartman knew what she wanted at the age of 13 in Youngstown. She started working at the local playhouse and continued through high school. After studying drama for a year at Carnegie Tech, she decided to tackle New York.

ter since I was 13, and I mean hard. I was in jeans from June to September working in summer stock from 8:30 in the morning to 11 at night — at $5 a week. And I did everything from painting scenery to playing ingenues."

Armed with letters of recommendation from the Warren theater, she assaulted New York once more. Things happened fast: a test for Warner Brothers ("they tried to glamorize me, and I fought them all the way"); a role in a play which closed out of town; then "A Patch of Blue," followed by "The Group."

Plane Causes State Blackout

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Thousands of West Michigan homes underwent a power blackout Sunday because of a plane pilot's slight miscalculation.

The light plane's tail section sliced a high voltage line in half as the craft was about to land at South Kent airport, a small landing strip south of Grand Rapids.

Power was cut off for nearly an hour to homes in a tri-county area, according to the Consumers Power Co. and the Kent County Sheriff's Office.

The plane, described by witnesses as red and white and believed a Cessna, was not identified.

It landed without mishap. A sheriff's office spokesman said the plane was not to be found afterwards. Witnesses said they saw the pilot leave the craft.

Grand Rapids itself was not affected by the power blackout. However, towns in Kent County and southern Ottawa and northern Allegan Counties were without power from 4:24 p.m. (EST) to 5:10 p.m.

READY FOR ACTION — Conventional 750-pound bombs lay ready to be loaded on huge B52 jet bombers at Andersen Air Force Base on Guam. The multimillion-dollar planes fly the 5,200-mile trip to South Viet Nam day or night, dropping their loads from high altitude.

AP Photos

Guam Base Has Big Viet Role

ANDERSEN AIR FORCE BASE, Guam (AP) — Airman I.C. Melvin Newsome, 22, rolled a live 500-pound bomb along a rack and into position.

The U.S. Air Force enlisted man from Logan, W.Va., paused as he pushed another bomb up to the loader, readying it to join a growing cluster of 12 beneath the dropping, swept-wing of a Strategic Air Command B52.

"You know, the main thing now that we're here on Guam is we're loading these bombs on the B52s and dropping them off where they'll do some good. Before (at this mainland station), we'd put the bombs on and then take 'em off again a week later. There didn't seem to be much point to that."

Newsome, one of several thousand Americans in the SAC team at Andersen, was helping load 24 500-pound, khaki-colored, nonnuclear bombs on the plane's wing racks. Another 27 750-pounders were being tucked into the bomb bay in the aircraft's belly.

THREE WAVES

Within 15 hours, those same bombs would be exploding on targets in South Viet Nam. On a previous night, three waves of B52s launched from Andersen's 10,000-foot runway dropped 300,000 pounds of high explosives in a jungle area which Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of all U.S. military forces in Viet Nam, suspected was infested with Communist Viet Cong.

The almost daily raids launched from Guam, as strategic air island now as it was to both Japanese and Americans in World War II, will be boosted soon, if not in numbers of sorties, certainly by the bomb loads they carry.

The multimillion-dollar planes fly the 5,200-mile round trip to South Viet Nam day or night, dropping their loads from high altitude, aiming by radar and getting better precision by using computers.

Performing the missions to day are several hundred young men in their midtwenties and early thirties from SAC bases at Columbus, Miss., and Mather, Calif. — the 454th and 320th bomb wings. They took over Dec. 1 from the 7th Bomb Wing which returned to Carswell, Tex., after several months on the island.

The 7th reached a milestone before leaving — 1,000 combat sorties over South Viet Nam.

B52s have not yet gone north of the 17th Parallel which separates North and South Viet Nam.

Sgt. Larry Heath, a ground crew chief from Fort Worth, Tex., and one of the few remaining Carswell AFB personnel still at Andersen, recalled when bombing raids began on June 18.

"We never expected anything," said Heath. "Then one night all hell broke loose around here."

That Andersen is a "wartime status" station is apparent. Armed guards, some with M16 rifles slung across their shoulders, are everywhere. Mention a mission, ask a question, people talk guardedly — if they talk at all. Watch dogs roam the 20,000-acre station fences at night.

BUNK TOGETHER

Aviators and crews bunk together, three to a room, in special quarters. Their families aren't permitted to join them, but their duty here is comparatively short.

Their immediate boss, Col. William T. Cumiskey, a blue-eyed, weathered veteran of 22 years' Air Force service, is admired and feared by his men.

"When you've been chewed out by the colonel, you know you've been chewed," grinned a young captain. "But he's a great guy."

The Brooklyn-born commander of the 454th-320th bombardment wings, 50 next July, came to Andersen the last week in November and, by the end of the first week of December, he'd already flown five missions over South Viet Nam.

MISSION TIME

And a mission is a 22-hour affair — 12 hours actual flying to hours preparing for the flights and debriefing and critiques.

Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, a career officer with 24 years' service and head of the 3rd Air Division at Andersen, led a successful bombing mission of 18 B52s which took off in three waves Dec. 2.

Crumm, 46, flew B29 bombers during World War II as did Cumiskey and the two are back doing "for real" bombing again for the first time in more than 20 years. The colonel said his first mission last month "brought back some memories."

Cumiskey's deputy is Col. Van Parker, who previously commanded the 320th Bomb Wing at Mather.

GROUND CREWS

Ground crews, Crumm said, work 12 hours a day, six days a week. An average B52 crew-week is 74 hours. Few — except some civilians — observe the 40-hour week.

Crumm and Cumiskey both talk of the "esprit" on the base.

Sgt. Charles Hammer, 30, Lake Charles, La., said he offered to quit as a B47 crew chief on the U.S. mainland to become an armorer at Andersen.

"I'd just as soon feel I'm doing something worthwhile," the sergeant said, complaining only that no quarters are available here for his wife, Joan, and their four children.

RAIDS INCREASE

And the raids have stepped up from the one in June, to four in July, to the present 21 or more a month. Crumm said their effectiveness has "increased tremendously" as intelligence — information on targets — improves.

The general said many people thought of the Strategic Air Command as a nuclear deterrent force, but he hopes they will now recognize SAC's value in limited warfare, too.

Crumm emphasized, however, that his 30 or so planes at Andersen can quickly be converted to carry nuclear weapons. The weapons are here, and little modification is required to exchange them for conventional bomb loads.

The general feels that continued bombing of suspected Communist jungle hideouts, ammunition and medical supply dumps, is having a definite psychological effect on the Viet Cong.

SHARE VIEW

Crumm's view is shared by his men.

"I'd sure hate to be swinging in a hammock in that jungle when we come over," commented Maj. Max L. Mihura, Ripley, Okla., boss of the six-man crew which won SAC's Fairchild Trophy this year. Winning the award makes Mihura's group the best air crew in SAC.

Chatting after a raid, the aircraft commander said, "Sure, we like to feel that the effort we're putting out is accomplishing something, and we really believe it is."

Policeman a Buddy to Circling Skunk

ROME, N.Y. (AP) — When Madison Avenue residents called police to report a skunk was running around in circles with its head in a tin can, Patrolman Orlando Gulla was dispatched to handle the assignment. With the help of a passing high school pupil, Gulla removed the can. The skunk scampered away — without a parting salute.

City Business Shows Gains

The November business picture in Pontiac showed gains in key areas over October and nearly an across-the-board improvement over November 1964.

Bank debits to customer accounts rose $6 million over October and about $30.5 million over last November.

Industrial payrolls were 2.5 million higher than last November, despite the fact that one less plant reported its payroll figures in 1965. November also showed a $50,000 gain over October.

Postal receipts stayed about the same as October's, but were up $30,000 over November 1964.

Electrical consumption showed the same upward trend.

Water consumption was down slightly from October, but still higher than last November.

There were a few more patrons riding the buses than in either October or last November.

Ford Cites Statistics on Executive Branch

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Sunday his party will push, early next year, for a new Hoover-type commission to go over the executive branch with a fine-tooth comb.

The Michigan Representative said two earlier Hoover commissions produced substantial reforms.

The latest such report was 10 years ago, Ford said in a statement, and since then federal employment has risen by more than 100,000, federal expenditures by $57 billion and "vast new agencies and functions have come into being."

Ford said a recent survey indicates that in 1964 eight federal departments and agencies had paper work totaling 2.25 billion pieces at a cost of $10 million. He said there are at least 252 welfare programs in existence now.

"Such statistics make one wonder how many of these programs overlap," Ford said. "Is there coordination within each field? Are worthy projects being neglected at the expense of less important programs? Are these programs overlap?" Ford said. "Is there coordination within each field? Are worthy projects being neglected at the expense of less important programs? Are these programs being coordinated with state and local agencies, not to mention private organizations?"

"The executive branch of the federal government has become the dark continent of American politics. There is a need for an exploration of its organization and workings, looking toward thorough reorganization."

Congress Leaders Agree Viet War Will Be Dominant Issue Next Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders are in general agreement that the dominant issue in the session convening Jan. 10 will be the Viet Nam war.

Sharing the spotlight in what may be a long and bitter session will be labor legislation, the administration's "Great Society" programs and perhaps taxes.

Many members took advantage of the fall recess to visit Viet Nam. They returned with conflicting opinions on how the war is being conducted and their differing views should touch off sharp debate.

There is little that Congress can do about how the war is being fought, except to appropriate money to foot the bill.

But the fact that it is being waged and is costing a lot of money will be reflected in consideration of nonmilitary legislation.

BASIC ISSUE

"One of the basic issues," said Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House Republican leader, "will be the need to curtail nondefense programs. We are face to face with the decision between guns and butter. The war is real and we must pay for it."

"But some other programs," Ford added in an interview, "while perhaps worthy, do not have the same top priority. We must take a hard look at the Great Society measures rammed through during the recent session. They are expensive and will continue to be expensive. We Republicans are going to try to cut down some of this unnecessary spending."

"We are going to solidly oppose any new taxes," Ford said. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, took a somewhat similar stand on taxes.

Said Mills: "If federal government spending is held under reasonable restraint, the growth of the economy will both make possible and require periodic tax reductions."

RESTRAINT

"Inadequate restraint on expenditures, on the other hand, will mean passing up this fiscal dividend. Hopefully, we will so manage our affairs that we can again continue to realize the benefits from easing tax constraints on personal and business initiative and growth."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said in an interview he looked for no division in Congress over foreign policy.

"The people of the country are united behind the President's leadership in foreign policy, particularly in Viet Nam," McCormack said.

McCormack said he believed major domestic issues would center on legislation to increase and broaden minimum wage coverage, improve the unemployment compensation program and "to strengthen America by carrying out important programs enacted last year."

LABOR BILL

Another labor bill, the House-passed measure to ban state laws prohibiting union shop labor contracts, will be a stalling issue in the Senate. It was dropped in that branch this year after a short, but effective, filibuster but is still alive.

Other knotty problems on the legislative agenda involve the foreign aid program and home rule for the District of Columbia.

The aid program expires next June 30 as far as current appropriations are involved. Both the Senate and the House have passed D.C. home rule bills, but in vastly different form.

New Guide for Status

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A railroad freight agent says wholesalers here have already sold out 355 carloads of Christmas trees and gives one reason for the bumper sales: the newest Southern California status symbol is having two Christmas trees.

Richard Givens, Southern Pacific Railroad freight agent in charge of handling tree shipments here, said the trend is toward a natural, green tree, plus a colored or artificial one.

Soviet Leadership 'Past Peak'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Preston Grover has served 25 years as an AP foreign correspondent—in Germany, India, France and the Soviet Union. This analysis depicts the U.S.S.R. of today as he sees it.)

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP) — There is a strong impression in Moscow among foreign observers and many Soviet as well that a high-water mark has been reached in Soviet Communist leadership, especially within the country, and that life there will never be the same again.

Outside Russia, Soviet leadership has taken such a battering in recent years that the old talk of "Moscow first" among party equals has lost meaning.

The pioneering zeal that swept communism from one end of Russia to the other has largely gone. The old Communists still feel it, but are tired, and many top leaders are physically ailing. Many of the younger ones simply don't feel it. Party publications virtually admit that Party officials often concede it in talks with East European colleagues, and even with some Westerners.

If there remains any disposition among Russians to build a new frontier it doesn't show up in that part of Russia where the frontier is, in Siberia.

HARD FACT

The hard fact is that in general many Soviets are fed up with the hard life and are increasingly aware everybody lives better than they do, except in the truly depressed countries.

Disenchantment has set in.

The mystique of communism, which made remarkable advances in the Soviet Union until recently, no longer enthralled. It has suffered too many buffeting.

Looking back on it from the hindsight of three years, it would appear that the great shock to party ascendancy in the U.S.S.R. was administered in 1962. That was the year the big Soviet rockets installed in Cuba had to be taken out under threat of American countermeasures that looked too awesome to face.

Many Soviets accepted them, and some still accept, their government's explanation that the back-out was a noble move that saved the world from a nuclear war.

IRONIC STORIES

To Soviet peoples the setback was driven home even harder the next year when the harvest failed and the country had to buy wheat abroad. Irony stories circulated.

"Khrushchev is a miracle man," went one story. "He plants wheat in Russia and harvests it in Canada."

A discouraging round came again this year when the Communists had to go to capitalist granaries for bread.

A real stock-taking has begun. People, young and old, have begun looking around more closely at what they are getting for their risks and deprivations. There are more goods in the shops but the quality is poor and the Soviet people are aware of it. They have stopped buying the poor stuff in the stores, particularly clothes and household equipment, and are clamoring for a better break.

HASN'T WORKED WELL

The Soviet experiment, 48 years of it, hasn't worked well enough to please either the Russians themselves or sympathizers outside the country. Too many things that go wrong can't be blamed on the weather or on some local official who hasn't done his job.

Although Soviet leaders have long boasted that the country has solved unemployment, every American farmer who visits the big collectives and state farms is staggered by wastage of manpower. Foreign industrialists find it equally true in factories.

Present Soviet leaders are aware of the slippage, as was Khrushchev before them, and have launched another experiment to try to get the economy going better and to improve administration.

Among the limited number of Soviets who meet freely with Westerners these days there is more apologetic talk than in any time in my six years' experience there. They see, and Westerners see, that many things in the Soviet Union appear to reflect failures or weaknesses that are surprising after all these years.

2 WRITERS JAILED

Two Soviet writers have been jailed, accused of exporting critical comments about the government. Genuine political comment simply doesn't exist. Advanced art and much free-thinking literature still exist only underground, although that has improved lately.

The system of selling food across the counter was so ridiculously slow and time consuming when I arrived in Moscow over six years ago that it was impossible to think it might continue. Yet it hasn't improved.

Every year tons of fresh fruit and vegetables rot in the fields or on railroad sidings in the south while Moscow and northern cities go without. I have never seen a refrigerator car in the Soviet Union. Each year wastage is reported, and each year nothing is done about it.

Active political life is almost totally limited to the 12 million members of the Communist party, and they have become caste-ridden. No one in Moscow would dream of running for mayor without approval of the party bosses.

PRESSURE ON PARTY

What is really putting the pressure on the party, and on the government, is the persistent demand for better things to eat, wear and read, to ride in, to live in, to sit in, to sleep in. These things have been in limited supply for years and they still are. People dress better than they did six years ago but they want still more and are exerting pressure to get it.

Even the tightly controlled press has recognized the pressure. It has spoken out against low-quality goods, against shortage of the things a people ought to have. That pressure can't be driven undercover.

People know they haven't made as much progress in better living as have the people in the East European states, which have had communism only 20 years at most. East European states are getting away from old-style party restrictions based on the Soviet model.

The fight between the Chinese party and the Soviet party has largely wiped out the remaining vestiges of Russia-worship that once was the cornerstone supporting East European communism.

INCREASINGLY CLEAR

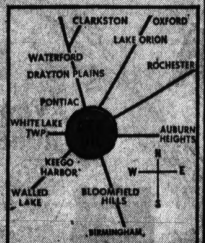

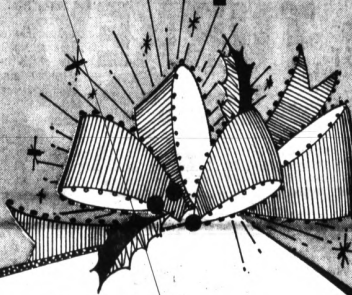

It is increasingly clear to many Western observers, and to a goodly number in the U.S.S.R. itself, that the Soviet Union is being forced to straighten out her relations with the West. This continues true despite Premier Alexei Kosygin's recent bitter outburst against American policy on Germany and action in Viet Nam.

Although highly critical about Viet Nam, the Soviet Union has taken no step that would put her totally at loggerheads with the United States.

One thing continues to impress Americans working in the Soviet Union: In their tastes, often in their private methods of living, these people are very like Americans. A lot of remaining differences could disappear with a generation of car-owning Russians, living better, and perhaps one generation of Americans prepared to think of a man from Moscow first as a Russian, and only second as a Communist.

Public Satisfied With Congress Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The home folks seem to like what Congress did this year. But apparently they don't want much more of it next year.

They think the country can afford, at least for now, both guns and butter. But many of them think it is time to start passing up the seconds on butter.

This consensus emerged from UPI interviews with a cross-section of House and Senate members who have been home to talk to the voters since the first session of the 89th Congress adjourned.

"I would say all the legislative part of the Great Society has been passed," said Sen. Joseph S. Clark Jr., D-Pa., a member of the Democratic liberal bloc. "I think the second session will be one in which we have no major legislation, barring unforeseen emergencies."

Clark's comments typified many from Democratic lawmakers whose votes were instrumental in putting on the books this year a vast array of social and economic reforms, ranging from Medicare for the aged to job training and jobs for the poor.

NO LACK OF SUPPORT

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., the Democrat House whip, said: "I find no lack of support for the President. But I do think the emphasis has changed since the first session from domestic problems to foreign matters. This is bound to have an impact on Congress."

In some cases, of course, these questioned exempted specific items from their forecasts of legislative inaction. Clark listed repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law and passage of a home rule bill for Washington as items still on the list for despatch.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the judiciary committee, said war spending will hamper Great Society bills but that his committee will be as busy as ever with legislation on narcotics, crime, additional judgeships, and civil rights, among other matters.

As might be expected, Republicans reached in the survey tended to report less favorable home front appraisal of this year's legislative accomplishments. But they concurred warmly in the thought that Congress now should rest on its oars for awhile.

GROWING FEELING

Some of the support for such a slowdown will result from the war in Viet Nam, but much of it will come from growing feeling on the part of people generally that the last session of Congress tried to do too much, too fast, with far too great an expenditure of public funds," said Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D.

It is axiomatic that congressmen hear from home what they want to hear. Nobody would have expected Sen. Mundt to discover a groundswell of public support for President Johnson's welfare legislation.

The significance of the current survey lies in the frequency with which pro-Johnson Democrats forecast a slowdown in Great Society legislation and spending increases that themselves helped get under way.

A number of members cited Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield's earlier suggestion that Congress next year concentrate on reviewing how all its new programs are working.

SOME CUTTING

"I don't think the nation is going to be able to afford expansion of social programs in the next term and there may even be some cutting back," said Rep. George Grider, D-Tenn., one of the big freshman Democratic group that generally went down the line for Johnson this year. "We can afford guns and some butter — the question is how much better."

The survey showed there will be wide differences of opinion, even among those who agree with Grider, as to what constitutes better.

Rep. Watkins M. Abitt, D-Va., found his constituents fed to the teeth with the antipoverty war, a featured item in the Great Society legislative layout.

But Rep. W. Pat Jennings, D-Va., said folks in his part of the state see tangible results from the antipoverty war, and are ready to continue fighting this war and the one in Viet Nam, too.

MORE ORDERLY

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., said: "If we cut, we should put the moon race on a more orderly, scientific, planned basis, but not penalize the elderly, the veterans, or the education of future leaders."

Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., was one member who saw no demand at home for a Great Society slowdown.

"I think we can sustain present levels of domestic expenditures," he said. "How much we can enlarge would be related to the cost of the war."

The Johnson administration is looking for home front places to cut, and the $1.5-billion-a-year antipoverty program is one possible target.

EXPECT FIGHT

Its defenders can be expected to fight about this, possibly more than about slowdowns in most other welfare-type programs.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell of the House Education and Labor Committee says he will ask for three times as much poverty money next year.

All members reached in the survey forecast that defense spending will rise. And most agreed that it must do so. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said it is time for Johnson to call on the people for home front sacrifice.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said he would favor a tax increase if existing revenues aren't enough to finance the war.

"I didn't expect much additional reform legislation next year anyway," Findley said.

Other comments in the random sampling of available members:

Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill.: "Most people are content with the record of the first session. The question now is the administration of legislation already passed."

Rep. B. F. Slak, D-Calif.: "I definitely expect a slowdown in the volume of legislation as we take a look-see at administrative procedures. I can anticipate a cutback in appropriations for present social programs in order to offset increased military appropriations."

VERY PRODUCTIVE

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash.: "My constituents agree that this has been a very productive Congress. The basic legislation is now passed. The big job of the next session will be to see that the new laws are administered the way Congress intended them to be."

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan: "I think you will find Congress much more cognizant of the impact domestic programs will have on the fiscal situation."

Rep. Robert F. Ellsworth, R-Kan.: "I think (Congress) is going to have very much of a wartime atmosphere. I got two feelings at home: People are well-to-do and are spending lots of money. They are worried about Viet Nam. As I see it inflation is the big threat now rather than deflation."

Dam Output Slated

Junior Editors Quiz on ENGLISH SAILORS

QUESTION: Why were English sailors called "limeys"?

ANSWER: Old time sailing ships were much slower than the fast vessels of today. Voyages between distant ports would often stretch out for months.

Under these circumstances, the fresh food stored on a ship before sailing would soon be used up.

The crew would have to fall back on the stores of salted meat and hard ship biscuit, foods carried in bulk because they lasted so well.

But the salt beef and hardtack diet lacked important elements—the vitamins, especially present in fresh fruits and vegetables. The result was that scurvy, a dangerous disease which could cause the death of many men before port was reached and fresh food obtained.

To counteract this danger, the British navy in 1795 began to carry crates of limes on their ships and to give each sailor a drink of lime juice every day, limes being especially rich in vitamin C, which prevents scurvy.

Soon many British ships were using limes, and British sailors were called "limeys" because of their daily ration of lime juice.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try some lime juice as a change from lemon or orange juice. It has a very tart taste, but if you put in some sugar it makes a most refreshing drink. These days, of course, you don't need lime juice to counteract scurvy; our well-balanced, modern diets, with plenty of fruits and vegetables, take care of that.

Great Danes Maul Woman

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The district attorney's office considered today whether to file criminal charges against the owner of two huge Great Dane dogs that attacked and mauled a 59-year-old Negro woman.

A 200-pound male and its smaller mate jumped Mrs. Carrie Thornton as she walked in an updown neighborhood Saturday, slashing and biting most exposed portions of her body. Mrs. Thornton was reported in fair condition at Touro Infirmary.

Police tried to corner the animals so they could be captured, but were forced to kill both dogs. The dogs' heads were sent to a state laboratory for rabies tests. Results were expected Tuesday.

Officers said they shot the dogs repeatedly when the animals turned on them.

The owner, William H. Hackett, said after his arrest the dogs hated Negroes. Hackett was booked on charges of allowing the dogs to run free and failing to license them and charges under a city ordinance dealing with injury caused by dogs.

Over $1,800 Taken in Area Break-In Oakland County Sheriff's detectives are investigating a weekend break-in at the Sutherland Oil Co. in Oxford Township in which more than $1,800 was taken from a safe.

Deputies answering the call found the metal siding torn off a rear wall, a tool crib ripped open and the wall of the vault smashed in with a large hammer or sledge.

Lloyd Sutherland, owner of the bulk fuel delivery firm at 533 S. Lapeer, said $1,800 was missing from the safe along with an undetermined amount of tools and equipment from the building.

There are 30,000 communities in the nation without public water supply systems, according to the Farmers Home Administration. All have populations of less than 2,500.

Warn U.S. of Perilous Yule Items

By United Press International. Health officials throughout the nation have issued repeated warnings about potentially hazardous merchandise on sale for the holiday season.

Imported plastic novelties have received the most attention, with many areas banning their sale. Other holiday items also have come under the scrutiny of health inspectors.

One of the items is a cigarette lighter advertised in a mail order catalog and also offered for sale in some stores. The so-called "airflame" lighter looks like a harmless toy of lipstick.

When the lid is removed, methyl alcohol inside the lighter ignites upon contact with the air and can throw a long, nearly invisible flame.

The U.S. Public Health Service, in calling attention to the device, said it may be hazardous because a child even an adult could open the lighter and be burned by the invisible flame or accidentally set fire to clothing, furniture or drapery.

New York City Fire Department inspectors were ordered to check stores and remove cans of a highly inflammable artificial snow used for Christmas decorations. Fire Commissioner Martin Scott said the spray, known as "Snow Quick," was sold in aerosol cans and was explosive under certain conditions.

LIQUIDS HAZARDOUS Iowa's assistant state fire marshal, R. E. Hengeman, warned that some Christmas tree lights imported from Japan and offered for sale in Mason City are a "definite hazard."

Mason City safety inspector H. F. Waychuck said the strings of light strung smoking after being lit for five minutes.

Meanwhile, official concern over imported novelties known as "Hee balls" continued to mount.

The novelties are filled with water in Hong Kong, where they are manufactured, and are frozen and used to cool drinks. Along the same line are teething rings for infants.

Health officials in some states testing the novelties and found them safe. In other states such as Michigan, inspectors found the water to be contaminated with bacteria which could cause typhoid or cholera. In many states, they are banned.

Same Pattern (and His Car) for Jailbreaks

RUPERT, Idaho (AP)—Melvin Madsen, who lives a few blocks from the Missoula County jail, is getting first at jailbreaks. Saturday night he returned from Craig, Colo., where he had collected his car, stolen after prisoners escaped from the jail last Monday.

Two of the same prisoners returned from Craig Wednesday escaped again early yesterday.
Guess where car they took?
Police told Madsen he could pick up his car in nearby Hazelton.

3,000 E. Pakistani Fishermen Missing

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Three thousand fishermen are missing and believed drowned in the cyclone which hit the western part of East Pakistan last Wednesday, the Manohar Lal Fishermen's Cooperative Society said today.
Thousands of others on the shore were drowned in tidal waves which followed the cyclone.

Island Move Is Attempted

APOPKA, Fla. (AP)—It's not a mountain but an island that a group of Central Floridians are trying to move.
Skindivers are hoping to move a 100 by 300 foot floating island in Lake Apopka.

The floating island, the divers report, is about to change its status and become rooted to the lake bottom.

If the island succeeds in becoming rooted, it threatens to block the entrance to a 110-foot spring cavern, a favorite practice and check-out diving spot for Brevard and Orange County divers.

The workers expect to push the island back into the center of the lake.

Ambulance-Car Crash Belies Safety Device

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—City officials here were gathered to dedicate a new $14,000 traffic signal light which was electronically geared in such a way as to change traffic flow patterns and make the intersection "perfectly safe."

During the ceremony, an ambulance and a car collided in the middle of the intersection. No one was hurt but the dedication was delayed for an embarrassing 30 minutes.

Technology's Hold on Man Is Explored

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Thirty of the world's finest thinkers began grappling today with the problem they were warned they may be too late to solve: how to save man from domination by the technology man has created.

Participants in the international symposium on the technological society were greeted by Dr. John Wilkinson, staff member for the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

Wilkinson laid out the week's task:
"Six years ago, when the center moved to Santa Barbara, no one believed to what degree technology would inject itself into human affairs, civil liberties, freedom. Today, there are crises in every cultural direction."

FOUND OPTIMISM

In asking for various thinkers' assessments of the encroachments of technology on human values, Wilkinson remarked that he found "optimism which was among the best the 19th century could have wished."

"Whether such optimism is glandular, emotional or technological, remains to be seen," he said.

Bette Disdains to Hide Her Slight Under Bushel

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Bette Davis thinks she's been mistreated . . . and she thinks things like that, she doesn't go hide in a cave . . . She speaks out . . . While dining at a luxurious new restaurant in the 50s (initial "L"), Bette asked Yogi Berra to autograph a menu to her son Mike.

Yogi signed his name on the menu (no mean feat for Yogi) and Bette was glowing over her trophy when a woman associated with the management snatched it away saying, "You can't have this menu, we're short of menus!" Yogi had to sign his name again on a card. Bette has several words for such conduct which are doubtless still ringing in the lady's ears and they include "Appalling," "monstrous," and "How dare she?"

A lady I know went to buy a silk nightgown as a Christmas gift — and there, with many other women waiting to buy nightwear, was an older man purchasing a sexy nightie which had to be blue and flimsy. He even had the salesgirl hold it up against her own figure. "Why is he so particular?" one woman wondered. "Probably," said another "he plans on wearing it himself."

The Nelson Doubledays' reception at the Waldorf for Author Lena Horne was remarkable because, in the days before civil rights, Lena couldn't even get in the Empire Room as a customer — the other night Lena was the heroine, the star, the doll.

And the belle of the ball, next to Lena, was a Negro beauty named Fleurette Carter, whose tight-fitting purple sequined gown and the contents within led many a male including John Sergeant, Doubleday president, to ask permission of her escort Charles Preston of the Wall Street Journal, to dance with her.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .
MGM's hiring 132 special police for the Dec. 22 "Dr. Zhivago" premiere . . . Paperback rights to Sammy Davis' "Yes I Can" were sold to Pocket Books for $400,000 . . . Zora Mostel's expected to do the West Coast "Fiddler on the Roof" . . . President Johnson'll have a private screening of the Carol Channing TV spec (the rest of us will see it Feb. 18) . . . Myrna Loy, the pride of Chicago in "Barfroot in the Park," gets Christmas week off to shop here — Sybil Christopher and Roddy McDowall turn a party for her at Arthur Wednesday.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Hugh O'Brien went to a party given by Jack Benny and reports: "The wine flowed like NYC's crockston traffic!"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A diner at the Koko Steak House said teen-agers in his neighborhood are so romantic they're mugging people by candlelight.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Any man who says he can see through women is missing a lot." — Anita Halasz.

EARL'S PEARLS: Norma (Lucia Go Go) says her new apartment is so small she walked into the living room and tripped over the chandelier.

Buddy Hackett, a diet expert, claims there are "minus 30 calories" in a stalk of celery: "It has 5 calories, but you burn up 30 calories just chewing it." That's earl, brother.

CHRISTMAS GLITTER — The glitter and gleam of Christmas—bright lights, shiny ornaments and silver tinsel—is for 5-year-olds. Young Sandra Marker, 5, of 441 Melrose, takes a close look Saturday at the tree that got the spotlight at a Christmas Party held by UAW Local 653 of Pontiac Motor Division.

Most Workers Will Enjoy 2 Long Holiday Weekends

Three-day holidays are in store for the majority of Pontiac area residents the next two weekends in observance of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Most big plants and local governmental offices will shut down Friday, Saturday and Sunday the next two weekends.

However, most stores and banks and the post office will maintain hours the following two Fridays, closing for the weekends only.

City Hall offices will close at noon Thursday this week and next two Fridays, as will Fisher Body Division, Pontiac Motor Division and GMC Truck and Coach Division.

OFFICE WORKERS OFF

At GMC Truck and Coach Division, officials not related to the manufacturing operation also will be closed the next two Thursdays.

The Pontiac Post Office at 725 W. Huron will operate its normal 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

Postmaster William Donaldson said that, except for closing on Christmas and New Year's Day, the post office will maintain its regular hours.

The three major financial institutions have announced slightly altered schedules the next two weeks in observance of the holidays.

OPEN UNTIL 6:00

Community National Bank and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland will maintain hours of 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. this Friday and next, stay-

Outdoorsmen Warned of Ice on Lakes

Skaters and winter fishermen can find encouragement in falling temperatures which freeze over many of the lakes in the Pontiac area this weekend.

Outdoors people will be literally on thin ice for at least another week, however, is the warning from Lt. Donald K. Kratt, head of the water safety division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

"Two people on ice need a thickness of at least three inches," Kratt said, "and more than that need five inches."

Kratt urged extreme caution on apparently frozen country lakes, where at least seven persons drowned last year after breaking through the ice.

DeGaulle Wins French Election

PARIS (AP) — France settled back for more years of Gaullism today following President Charles de Gaulle's reelection to another seven-year term.

Although de Gaulle's failure to win on the first ballot two weeks ago gave clear notice that his popularity had slipped, almost no one expected the autocratic old man to alter his policy goals. He may soften his methods, however.

In the run-off election yesterday complete returns from European France and all overseas territories except Guinea and Polynesia gave the 75-year-old president 13,063,134 votes, or 55.18 per cent. Leftist Francois Mitterrand got 10,609,744.

About 84 per cent of the registered voters balloted, a near record turnout.

Mitterrand termed De Gaulle's victory "mediocre" and said he would turn his attention to the National Assembly elections in November 1967.

De Gaulle, who begins his new term Jan. 8, issued no victory statement from the seclusion of his estate in eastern France. His supporters were overjoyed that he had pulled out a comfortable margin after his humiliating first-round setback, in which he won only 43.9 per cent of the vote.

FACES 2 ITEMS

On the international scene, De Gaulle faces two items of unfinished business.

One is the negotiations in the six-nation European Common Market, which De Gaulle brought to an abrupt halt last June to block attempts to give the economic community its executive more power.

De Gaulle opposes any move toward supranationality by the Common Market administration. The five other members scheduled a meeting in Brussels today to discuss the impasse. They hoped for some word from De Gaulle that he is ready to talk again.

The second major international item on De Gaulle's agenda is reform of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. De Gaulle has called for an end to military integration in the 15-nation alliance and has warned that if a basic change is not made, France will bow out by 1969.

Concrete proposals by de Gaulle for changes in NATO are expected early in 1966.

Thieves Active Over Weekend

About $1,600 Looted From Homes, Stores

Burglars struck at least four Pontiac homes and stores Saturday night and early yesterday, taking an estimated $1,600 in equipment from a music store and looting the front showcase of a jewelry firm.

In addition, Pontiac police and Fire Marshal Charles Metz are investigating a fire early yesterday which gutted a doctor's office after the front door had apparently been kicked open.

Police said a truck may have been used in the theft of a score of radios and hi-fi's from Grinnell Brothers at 27 S. Saginaw.

Entry to the store was gained when a rear window was smashed and the door unlocked. Police said the goods were removed through the rear of the building, where radios were found stacked against the wall near a window.

LOSSES LARGE

Officials at the Thomas Jewelry Co. at 29 Lawrence, termed the store's losses as "considerable" after theft of watches, rings, jewelry and cash taken.

The store was entered when a hall entrance door and an inner door were forced open.

Tornal Brandt of 314 N. Saginaw told Pontiac police his wallet containing personal papers and $15 was taken from his room as he slept.

Police said entry was apparently gained on the front door which was smashed in.

The fire caused at least $3,000 damage to the office of Dr. Donald E. Fraser at 962 Joslyn.

Capt. David Warrillow, said the fire was of "incendiary origin."

German Role in N-Defenses Is Key Subject

Chancellor Expected to Present Plan for Expansion of Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Johnson open two days of talks today with the emphasis on Germany's efforts to gain a larger role in Europe's nuclear defenses.

The Germans have no nuclear weapons and rely on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as a deterrent against what Erhard has said are 1,000 middle-range Soviet missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Erhard was expected to present a plan for expanded control of those nuclear weapons now in Western Europe.

Administration officials knew in advance the broad outlines of his proposal, but declined public comment until after Erhard fills in the details.

As understood prior to the German's arrival, this would involve general support for the British idea of an Atlantic Nuclear Force — ANF.

JOINTLY OWNED

The Erhard-envisaged force, as understood in Washington, would be a fleet of American and British submarines equipped with Polaris missiles and jointly owned by interested nations.

At the outset, this probably would include the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands.

Thus, three nations — Germany, Italy and the Netherlands — would have a bigger say in the use of nuclear weapons.

Among those with Erhard in Washington are Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder and Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel.

LATE YESTERDAY

They arrived late yesterday afternoon and were greeted by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Humphrey said: "We rejoice in the friendly relations which exist between our two countries. I am confident our meetings will be productive."

Erhard responded: "We will do our best to strengthen our cooperation and to find fair solutions for our problems."

KEYED UP FOR VISIT — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany waves the key to Washington, D. C. yesterday on his arrival at nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

The key was presented in special ceremonies as Erhard arrived in the United States for conferences with President Johnson and high government officials.

Coup Rumors Fly in Saigon

Cong Closing Noose of Terror

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong ranging from youthful saboteurs in Saigon to battle-hardened battalions in the countryside are tightening a noose of terror around Saigon.

The threat at present is most psychological. But a massive terror campaign may be near for the capital, which has escaped much of the brutality of the war despite repeated terror raids.

No Viet Cong military attempt to seize the city is expected.

Government troops have been able to do little to clear the surrounding countryside.

Some vital military installations and tactical areas are considered threatened.

WITHIN RIFLE SHOT

One such military area is all within rifle shot of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division headquarters just north of Saigon.

Adding to the problem, rumblings of military discontent with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government have touched off a flurry of coup rumors.

At such times anti-Communist operations often are disregarded in favor of political jockeying.

INFILTRATION

Police sources say informers often fear being exposed by Viet Cong agents who have infiltrated into the government's version of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

And Saigon have focused sharply on the recent campaign of terror in Saigon which began with the bombing Dec. 4 of the Metropolitan Hotel, a U.S. and Allied billet.

A series of incidents since led to a dusk-to-dawn curfew for U. S. servicemen in Saigon.

Latin Peace Gets Setback

13 Die as Dominican Army, Rebels Battle

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The precarious peace efforts in the Dominican Republic appeared today to have been dealt a shattering setback by a battle between army troops and former rebels.

At least 13 persons were believed killed in two shooting incidents yesterday.

Twelve were reported killed in a six-hour battle that raged around a hotel on the outskirts of Santiago, the country's No. 2 city.

There were conflicting reports on the cause of the battle that pitched army tanks against an estimated 125 former rebels barricaded in the rambling, two-story Hotel Matam.

Shooting ended following the arrival of 150 U. S. paratroopers of the inter-American peace force.

VIOLENCE SPREADS

The violence spread to Santo Domingo, 120 miles to the south, where a policeman was slain and a fatal shot through the head by a member of an angry pro-rebel mob, one of many roaming the littered downtown streets.

The tensions and threats by civilians in Santo Domingo in bringing out hidden weapons prompted the IAPF to reinforce its small garrisons in the former rebel territory downtown.

Shooting could be heard in scattered parts of the capital late into the night.

IAPF sources said none of the shooting involved the hemisphere army that was organized and brought here in early May to help forge a peace in the Dominican revolution.

Snow to Fall; 2 Inches Due

Light snow forecast for today is expected to accumulate to 2 inches by tonight causing slippery driving conditions.

Temperatures will fall to 16 to 24 through the night and rise to highs of 30 to 35 tomorrow. Wednesday's outlook is partly cloudy and warmer.

Morning winds southeasterly at 8 to 15 miles per hour will become northwest at 8 to 15 miles tonight.

A chilly 20 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. At 1 p.m. the mercury registered 28.

Sports Equipment Makes Excellent Christmas Gift

By JEANNE NELSON

Surprise the sport enthusiast with one of the numerous equipment gifts available in area stores.

A pair of beginners skis and poles will entice the kids to the slopes at the first snowfall. The set will run about $10.

Bowling bags will range in price from about $4 to $8. You'll be able to pick up a pair of women's bowling shoes for under $7. A tote bag to carry them is about $2.

A fisherman might like a hooded poncho of treated canvas measuring 52 by 80 inches. The cost is about $3.

FOR THE GOLFER

An attractive gift for the golfer would be a colorful umbrella for about $10. For the rare golfer who drops one in the water hole there is a long-handled ball retriever. This runs about $7.

Plaid covers of canvas that protect tennis rackets also hold the balls and can be purchased for $1.25.

A football fan will cheer the donor of a warm lap robe. These come in wool plaids or solids in their own plastic carrying-cases. Each is about $10.

GUN RACK

For the hunter, a maple finished gun rack that holds six rifles or shotguns is available for about $75.

Women's and girls' figure skates are as popular as ever. They range in price from $8 to $15.

Men's and boys' racer skates can be purchased for under $15. For hockey playing, gloves are available for about $7.50 and shin guards for under $8.

The Hidden Years—1

Pages of Jesus' Life Unfilled

(EDITOR'S NOTE: — The first 30 years of Jesus' life went virtually unrecorded. What happened to him during that time? This is the first of five articles in which AP Religion Writer George Cornell details what may have happened during these hidden years.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer

Out of the night, He came. Out of the shadows and the uncertainties, His life emerged. It was unknown, except in its consequences. He was reared and lived mostly in obscurity. But he gripped the world.

"If I glorify myself," he said, "my glory is nothing."

A curtain of silence surrounds the time of Jesus on earth. Of his 33 years, nine-tenths of his biography is untold. Yet no other figure towers so great in the world's history.

It is a strange contrast. The last shall be first," He said, "and the first last."

He dwelt as the least of men, in a dim corner of the unmentioned and unnoticed. Yet His name excels every name in the annals of mankind.

Questions cloak the story — whose beginning is called Christmas. Much of it is mysterious. Much is hidden. Yet there are ancient hints and clues to many of the missing elements.

From the bits of evidence, along with conditions of the period, it is possible to make out some of the undisclosed background — to glimpse the secret years of Jesus.

LEGENDS OF CHRISTMAS

Honda Leads Way

Japan Now Tops in Motorcycle Exports

TOKYO (AP) — Japan struck it rich in world trade with inexpensive, good quality cameras and radios. Now there's another entry — motorcycles.

These aren't the powerful beasts the boys in black leather roar around on. These are light, one- or two-cylinder jobs, inexpensive to buy, inexpensive to operate. America is the big market, and Japan leads the world in exports, with growing competition from France, Italy, Germany and Britain.

For Japan, the story began 50 years ago when the first automobile chugged into the sleepy village of Kimyo in central Japan. When the dust settled, a boy named Soichiro Honda noticed several drops of gasoline on the ground. He sniffed the strange aroma and was, he said later, "intoxicated." His fascination with the gasoline engine has never dimmed.

Today at 60, Honda, the son of the village blacksmith, is Japan's largest manufacturer of motorcycles. Japan this year will turn out 2.4 million motorcycles, half the world's total. Of this, Honda will account for 65 per cent. Some 900,000 Hondas will be exported this year, mostly to the United States.

SUCCESS STORY

Honda's success story is in many ways the story of the postwar Japanese motorcycle industry.

In the early 1950s, there were some 60 manufacturers of motorcycles. Honda Motors was one of these, starting with 35 employees and a capital of one million yen or $2,777.

Automobiles were still beyond the reach of the average Japanese, but as the postwar economic recovery progressed, people began to want something more than a bicycle, the chief mode of private transportation. The answer was a bicycle with an engine.

IDEA CAUGHT ON

The idea caught on so fast makers couldn't turn out machines quick enough. As prosperity continued, the demand was for better and better models — and the competition became tougher. Today only six motorcycle makers remain in business in Japan.

Honda has expanded to four air-conditioned factories employing 8,000 workers, plus a research laboratory where 700 specialists spend $833,333 a month tinkering with new ideas. Last August Honda turned out 135,394 motorcycles, its highest monthly output.

Second largest maker is the Suzuki Co. which switched from weaving machinery to motorcycles and now has an output of 30,000 two-stroke motorcycles a month. Suzuki employs 4,000 workers and a research staff of 350.

Honda and Suzuki, together with the No. 3 maker, Yamaha, have their plants at Hamamatsu, a central Japan city just 12 miles from Honda's home town of Komo.

The big break for Japanese motorcycles came in 1958 when Honda developed a highly efficient four-cycle engine for a 50cc motorbike that could go 45 m.p.h., looked like a lady's bicycle and was fueled with straight gasoline instead of a gas-oil mixture.

This type of bike, which was promptly imitated by other Japanese makers but with two-stroke engines, changed the lives of millions of Japanese and almost immediately won acceptance abroad.

"I don't believe in just meeting a demand," Honda says. "A manufacturer should create a market. We are strictly boom makers."

His publicity concentrated on changing the image of the motorcyclist as a leather-jacketed ruffian into an ugly, noisy machine.

He tried to remake the motorcycle image into something intimate, clean, attractive, that can be easily handled by anyone. "You meet the nicest people on a Honda," the advertisements say.

The 7.5 million motorcycle users in Japan today include almost everyone.

NO IMITATION

To prove Japan's motorbikes were no imitation of the West, Honda entered the British Grand Prix race in 1959. Since 1961, Honda, Suzuki and Yamaha bikes have monopolized the world championships in the four light classes.

Southeast Asia is Japan's closest motorcycle market. But the United States is the best customer. Because, as a Japanese motorcycle industry association official said, "There is no local rival industry and no restrictions on imports."

Although Honda has built an assembly plant in Brussels, the European market is still difficult for Japanese bikes as France, Italy, West Germany, Spain, Britain, Austria, and Belgium are concentrating on under 50cc type "mopeds" that require no driver's license.

France is next to Japan in motorcycle production, according to official statistics, but its 1,132,741 production in 1964 included only 8,000 bikes with more than 50cc engine capacity. Industry experts here expect Japanese production to reach 3 million annually to meet an estimated annual domestic demand of 2 million and an export demand of 1 million.

Steamed Pudding True Holiday Dessert

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Just as pumpkin pie spells Thanksgiving, so does steamed pudding indicate Christmas. It is a heritage we have from our English ancestors.

There aren't any plums in plum pudding and the term has come to mean a rich holiday steamed pudding full of spices, nuts, and fruit.

Like fruitcake, plum pudding keeps well and may improve with age. You can store it in the refrigerator or the freezer. One of its advantages is that it can be made far ahead of the time to serve it.

In fact, if you make an extra pudding this week, use it as a gift. Wrap it in plastic wrap so that its good looks show through. A jar of hard sauce and/or a bottle of fine Sherry for drinking with the pudding completes your thoughtful gift.

Sherry is an ingredient in this first pudding. If you wine bothers you, remember that all the alcohol cooks out, leaving only the flavor.

SHERRIED CARROT PUDDING

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup finely shredded raw carrot
1 cup fine gingersnap crumbs
 $\frac{2}{3}$ cup sifted all-purpose flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon each salt, baking powder and cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk

slashed from each serving. Briggs would have been amazed and delighted with this deliciously sweet, rich-tasting, twentieth century version of his favorite drink.

FROTHY SYLLABUB (Low-Calorie)

3 tablespoons sucaryl solution
3 cups skim milk
2 cups white wine
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup nonfat dry milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup ice water
2 egg whites
Nutmeg

In large mixer bowl, combine 2 tablespoons of the sucaryl with milk. Add wine, beating with electric mixer until frothy. Combine dry milk and ice water; beat on high speed of mixer until stiff peaks form; fold into wine mixture.

Combine egg whites and remaining 1 tablespoon sucaryl; beat until stiff peaks form. Pour punch into bowl. Top with mounds of beaten egg whites. Sprinkle mounds with nutmeg.

Makes $1\frac{1}{2}$ quarts, or 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ -cup servings. Each serving contains 76 calories; 4.5 grams protein; no fat; 7 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 172 calories.

Raw Relish Can Be Frozen

Serve some of this relish now; freeze the rest.

Cranberry Relish

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries
1 red apple (unpeeled, quartered and cored)
1 medium orange (unpeeled, quartered and seeds removed)
1 cup sugar

Using fine, medium or coarse blade, put the fruit through a food chopper. Stir in the sugar. Turn into four $\frac{1}{2}$ -pint wide-mouth preserving jars; seal.

Refrigerate any of the relish that is to be served soon and allow to mellow for several days before serving; freeze the remainder — it will keep for a few months.

Pack stuffing loosely in jars. Packing too tightly makes it heavy and soggy.

OREGON CHRISTMAS TART — The fine flavor of filberts and cranberries get together in this lattice-topped Christmas tart. Serve it warm or cool topped with sour cream, ice cream or whipped cream.

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup Sherry
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup diced mixed candied fruits
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup each raisins and chopped nuts
Cream shortening, sugar and eggs together. Add carrot and gingersnap crumbs. Resift flour with soda, salt, baking powder and cinnamon. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk and Sherry. Stir in fruits and nuts.

Turn into greased and floured molds, filling about $\frac{3}{4}$ full. Cover closely with foil, if molds do not have tight-fitting lids. Place in large kettle

Three Birds Equal Six Drumsticks

For juiciness and delicacy of flavor, you can't beat chicken. This year, roast three at once for the holiday table, suggests the National Broiler Council.

To insure plenty of dressing, prepare separately this easy way: Sauté chopped onion, celery and parsley when you are melting the butter and follow the directions on the prepared mix. Add raisins, almonds, or mushrooms if desired. Heat the stuffing in a skillet on top of the range the last 10 minutes of roasting time.

Temperature and roasting time for three is the same as for one—30 minutes per pound at 375 degrees $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours for a three-pound broiler-fryer.

with boiling water to come to half the depth of the molds.

Steam for 1 to $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours, depending on size of molds (about 1 hour for individual molds, and $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours for 1-quart molds). Serve warm. This amount will fill 2 (1-quart) molds, or any combination of sizes with total capacity. Serves 10-12.

Note: Puddings may be steamed ahead, and reheated either by steaming, or in a slow oven (about 300 degrees), well covered to prevent drying.

Dried figs make this second pudding something to remember. Steam it in a cone-shaped sieve lined with foil if you want your pudding in tree form. Decorate with hard sauce.

STEAMED SMYRNA PUDDING

$\frac{2}{3}$ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ginger
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 egg
1 cup light molasses
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup melted shortening
2 teaspoons shredded lemon peel
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup warm water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. figs, very finely cut

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat egg well, then stir in molasses, melted shortening and lemon peel. Add alternately, dry ingredients and water. Stir in figs, mixing well.

Make "twin" quilted molds by fitting separately, 2 squares of $14\frac{1}{2}$ -inch quilted heavyweight foil over a 1-quart mixing bowl or gelatin mold.

Divide batter between molds, then secure foil across the top, leaving enough "head" space for pudding to expand.

Place in covered pan or casserole containing 1-inch of hot water. Steam in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 2 hours. This pudding may be stored in the refrigerator after cooling and reheated later. Serve hot with lemon sauce and hard sauce garnish. Makes 8 servings.

While the first two puddings were dark, this one is bright as a dolly berry.

CHERRY STEAMED PUDDING

$\frac{2}{3}$ cup sifted all-purpose flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sifted all-purpose flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine, softened
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup firmly-packed brown sugar
4 eggs, separated
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped maraschino cherries (about 15 cherries)
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mixed candied fruits
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped walnuts
2 teaspoons vanilla
Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Beat butter or margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Add flour mixture and egg yolks alternately to butter or margarine mixture, beating well after each addition. Blend in milk.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites, cherries, candied fruits, walnuts and vanilla into creamed mixture. Turn into greased 2 quart bell-shaped mold or 2-quart mold.

Cover and steam for 2 hours. Unmold and serve garnished with hard sauce. Makes 6-8 servings.

HARD SAUCE

Cream together $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter and 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Add 1 tablespoon undiluted evaporated milk, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until light and fluffy. Chill until firm.

SHERRY HARD SAUCE

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon

$\frac{3}{4}$ cups sifted powdered sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup Sherry
Beat butter until creamy. Mix cinnamon with powdered sugar and add to butter alternately with Sherry. Beat until mixture forms stiff, creamy peaks. Serve on a steamed pudding. Makes about 2 cups.

Upside Down Test

Test for Egg White

To test the stiffness of egg whites for angel food cakes or meringues, turn the bowl upside down. This suggestion is not as risky as you may think. First, test by tilting the bowl on its side. If the egg whites start to slip and do not cling to the bowl, they need further whipping.

When you can turn the bowl completely upside down, the egg whites are perfect for your confections.

Modernized Version

It's Milk-Wine Punch

If you're looking for a new punch recipe to serve at this year's holiday festivities, you'll have to look elsewhere. Frothy Syllabub, a delectable egg, milk and wine punch, is definitely not new. In fact, you can find syllabubs in some of the earliest cookbooks published in this country.

In Richard Briggs' "New Art of Cookery," published in Philadelphia in 1792, is the following receipt for "Syllabub under the Cow":

"Put a bottle of either red or white wine, ale or cyder, into a China bowl, sweeten it with sugar and grate in some nutmeg, then hold it under the cow, and milk into it till it has a fine froth at the top; strew over it a handful of currants, clean washed and pickled, and plumped before the fire. You may make this syllabub at home, only have new milk. Make it as hot as milk from the cow, and out of a teapot, or any such thing, pour it in, holding your hand very high."

Syllabub is a first-cousin to eggnog and makes a marvelous party drink.

The recipe which follows does not make use of Briggs' direct milking method, but achieves its characteristic frothy top by the addition of beaten egg whites.

This recipe has been further modernized by the use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than sugar. For the benefit of would-be weight-watchers, nearly 100 calories have been slashed from each serving.

Briggs would have been amazed and delighted with this deliciously sweet, rich-tasting, twentieth century version of his favorite drink.

Combine egg whites and remaining 1 tablespoon sucaryl; beat until stiff peaks form. Pour punch into bowl. Top with mounds of beaten egg whites. Sprinkle mounds with nutmeg.

Makes $1\frac{1}{2}$ quarts, or 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ -cup servings. Each serving contains 76 calories; 4.5 grams protein; no fat; 7 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 172 calories.

Pack stuffing loosely in jars. Packing too tightly makes it heavy and soggy.

Been Favorite for Long Time

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Ambrosia, a 19th century dessert, has remained popular all these years. A simple combination of fresh oranges, grated coconut and sugar, its appeal may be due in part to the fact that it is so refreshing after a substantial winter meal.

As far as we can trace the recipe, it first appeared in an American cook book in the 1850s.

Interestingly enough, the difference between that old-time version and the classic modern one is small.

Originally the oranges were cut in "rather thick" slices. Now, as in the following recipe, the fruit may be sliced into membrane-free sections. The sections make for easy eating.

And there's a change, too, in the coconut. Originally fresh coconut was always used; now more often than not the prepared variety is called for. But you can make the choice and suit yourself.

1965 AMBROSIA

3 cups membrane-free fresh orange sections
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup grated fresh or canned flaked coconut

In a glass serving bowl, or in individual glass cups or dessert dishes, layer the oranges, confectioners' sugar and coconut; begin with the oranges and end with the coconut. Makes 4 servings.

Note: To prepare the oranges — with a sharp knife remove the rind from the fruit so that no white membrane remains. Insert the knife along each dividing membrane and cut the pulp away from it to free the sections; do this over a bowl to catch the juice.

Stuff pitted fresh California dates with cocktail onions as a curried dish condiment.

Hide Kosher Dills in Cheese Pastry

The holiday season is here.

Invitations to seasonal celebrations, Christmas and New Year's parties are beginning to arrive.

And you, too, will be extending invitations to friends and relatives to join you for festive fare. Here to make merrymaking even merrier are Pick Pockets. These delectable tidbits are tiny kosher dill pickles wrapped in pastry.

They can be prepared ahead of time and refrigerated before baking. What an appetizing and unusual way to herald this most gay and joyous season.

Pick Pockets

2 cups finely grated American cheese
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup all-purpose flour
Dash cayenne pepper
2 jars (13½ ounces each) kosher baby dills, well-drained
Paprika

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Thoroughly mix cheese and butter; add flour and cayenne. Use

ing pastry blender, cut cheese mixture into flour until pastry can be easily shaped into a ball. Divide in half; roll out on floured pastry cloth to $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thickness.

Cut into pieces (2" x $\frac{1}{4}$ "); place 1 whole well-drained pickle on narrow end and roll jelly-roll fashion, sealing seam. Place on ungreased baking sheet, seam side down; sprinkle with paprika.

Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool slightly on cake rack before serving. Makes approximately 3 dozen.

Note: Pastry-wrapped pickles may be prepared and refrigerated before baking.

Wine Jelly Is Gourmet Food

Lemon-Wine Jelly! It's perfect as a festive gift, or to serve at home during the holidays. Either way, this gourmet blend of port wine and fresh lemon juice in a shimmering jelly is certain to bring you praise and applause. Be ready to share the recipe!

Put the jelly in especially pretty glasses to be in keeping with its special quality. Give Lemon-Wine Jelly as a gift of a single glass, or as a set of four or more. Your friends will consider it a unique and personal gift.

If you're serving this pretty jelly for a Christmas brunch or dinner, garnish it with a fresh lemon cartwheel to make it even more colorful, and to identify it as well. You'll discover that California lemon wedges and d cartwheels make ideal garnishes for many holiday dishes. "Lemon yellow" is a pretty contrast to the Christmas reds and greens.

Lemon-Wine Jelly
1 cup port wine
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup fresh lemon juice
3 cups sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ bottle (3 ounces) liquid fruit pectin

Place wine, lemon juice and sugar in large saucepan; bring to boil. Add pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to a rolling boil; boil hard $\frac{1}{2}$ minute. Remove from heat; quickly pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses. Makes 5, 6-ounce jelly glasses.

LEMON-WINE JELLY — Wine jelly is one of those gourmet foods that you always find in specialty shops. But it is simple to make at home and lovely to use for a gift. Put it in a pretty glass and wrap in clear plastic wrap.

Candy Garnish for Yule Pie

Peppermint candy canes are an essential factor in the Christmas tradition. Or peppermint rounds, striped pink and white.

A very popular holiday dessert is peppermint stick ice cream served with hot fudge sauce.

But that dessert may seem a little heavy after a festive dinner, particularly for children and grandma and grandpa.

So perhaps you'd prefer this lighter peppermint candy pie with chocolate wafer crumb crust.

Peppermint Candy Pie

1 package strawberry, vanilla or chocolate flavor whipped dessert mix
2 tablespoons sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold water
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup crushed peppermint candy

1 baked 8-inch chocolate wafer crumb crust, cooled
Peppermint rounds
For a fluffier pie filling, use all cold water.

In small, deep, narrow bowl, thoroughly blend dessert mix and sugar with milk. Whip at highest speed of electric mixer 1 minute—mixture will be very thick. Blend in water. Whip at high speed about 2 minutes.

Chill until mixture will mound about 10 minutes.

Blend in candy. Spoon into crumb crust. Chill 2 hours or more.

Garnish with peppermint rounds and whipped mix. To use a rotary hand beater, add all liquid at once. Mix slowly until completely blended. Then beat rapidly 3 to 5 minutes.

Filberts and Cranberries Mix

Why is it, do you suppose, that as the holidays approach, women start to bake?

Even females who don't ordinarily indulge in the mixing bowl-cake batter-pan buttering routine seem all of a sudden possessed with an urge to turn out Christmas cookies by the score, prettily decorated fruit cakes and other assorted goods.

This recipe for Oregon Christmas Tart comes from out in the Northwestern United States and features two of that area's best tasting products . . . filberts and cranberries. Yes, our Northwest grows lots of cranberries and it supplies almost all of the filberts grown in the U.S.

Oregon Christmas Tart
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
3 egg yolks
1 cup toasted, finely chopped filberts
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
3 cups fresh cranberries
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup firmly-packed light brown sugar
3 to 4 teaspoons grated orange peel
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup orange juice
Whole filberts

Cream butter and granulated sugar until light and fluffy. Stir in egg yolks, chopped filberts, flour and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt. Mix well. Chill dough about $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours or until firm enough to handle.

Meanwhile, combine cranberries, brown sugar, orange peel, orange juice and remaining salt in medium saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer uncovered 10 to 15 minutes, until mixture is thick as jam. Cool.

Set aside about $\frac{1}{2}$ cup dough. Press remaining dough against bottom and sides of a $9\frac{1}{2}$ -inch tart pan or 9-inch cake pan. Spread cranberry mixture over dough in bottom of pan.

Roll out reserved dough to $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thickness on floured surface. Cut into strips and arrange in a lattice pattern on top of cranberry mixture. Place a filbert in each square.

Mold Salad in Cone Cups for Trees

The gay holiday season encourages many of us to indulge in whims and whimsey we could not consider any other time of the year. This applies to food, too, when our fancy directs us to shape food in the traditional symbols of candles, bells and trees.

Pickle packers imbued with the holiday spirit, suggest a gleaming green gelatin salad in the form of Christmas trees.

Children, especially, will be delighted with this creation, whether served at a regular family meal or at a party.

Christmas Trees Salads

2 packages (3 ounces each) mixed vegetable flavor gelatin
2 cups boiling water
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cups cold water
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sweet pickle liquid
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup chopped apple
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped sweet gherkins
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped pecans
Softened cream cheese
Sweet gherkin slices

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in cold water and pickle liquid. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into 6 cone-shaped molds*. Chill until firm.

Unmold; using a pastry tube, festoon cream cheese around trees. Decorate tops with pickle slices cut into stars.

*Molds may be made from 12-inch squares of aluminum foil folded into triangles and shaped into cones. If available, 6-ounce cone-shaped paper cups may be used.

Great Danes Maul Woman

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — The district attorney's office considered today whether to file criminal charges against the owner of two Great Dane dogs that attacked and mauled a 59-year-old Negro woman.

A 200-pound male and its smaller mate jumped Mrs. Carrie Thornton as she walked in an uptown neighborhood Saturday, slashing and biting most exposed portions of her body. Mrs. Thornton was reported in fair condition at Touro Infirmary.

Police tried to corner the animals so they could be captured, but were forced to kill both dogs. The dogs' heads were sent to a state laboratory for rabies tests. Results were expected Tuesday.

Officers said they shot the dogs repeatedly when the animals turned on them.

The owner, William H. Hackett, said after his arrest the dogs "barked" and "barked" and was booked on charges of allowing the dogs to run free and failing to license them and charges under a city ordinance dealing with injury caused by dogs.

REST AND RECUPERATION—War has many sides, and one of them is relieving battle fatigue by a change of scenery. Here a group of U.S. soldiers, just in from their camp near Bien Hoa, take in the sights of Saigon by bicycle taxi. Despite the allure of the city, the men carry their combat weapons with them in case of terrorist attack.

Sheriff's Wife Killed as Car Misses Curve

BAY CITY (UPI) — State Police captured a jail escapee early today after a wild cross-state chase in which the wife of Mason County Sheriff Wallace W. Bentz was killed in an auto wreck. Bentz was injured.

The fugitive, Herald DeLong, 28, of Mayville, was stopped last night when pursuing State Police radioed ahead and had the Zillauek drive bridge opened.
