Kidnap Crank Call Sent From Pontiac

For Future Park Site

O. L. Beaudette Proposes to Deed Property to City

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

An offer by O. L. Beaudette to deed his home and land on West Huron street to the city has spurred long-range planning for a 15-acre park and library site on the property across from Pontiac High School.

The property included in the proposed gift is estimated to have a value of several hundred thousand dollars.

Beaudette emphasized in his offer that no building other than a library may be erected on the land.

Beaudette, son of O. J. Beaudette, pioneer automobile body industrialist in Pontiac, offered to deed approximately eight acres in the block bounded by West Huron, Williams, West Pike, and Franklin Boulevard if the entire block be eventually converted to a city park.

With this in mind, the city commissioners last night passed a resolution instructing the city attorney to prepare an ordinance to rezone 21 lots in the block, directly across from Pontiac High School, to Residential 1.

FOR LIBRARY USE

Mayor William W. Donaldson explained the rezoning proposal was to prevent any commercial establishments initiating new business in the block.

Beaudette, 65, and Mrs. Beaudette, also have agreed to deed their six-bedroom home at 269 W. Huron, upon their deaths along with the adjacent property. The remaining acreage would be deeded to Pontiac over a three-year period, possibly beginning in January.

The city commissioners have announced intention of converting the home, which has been occupied by the Beaudettes since 1918, into a city library to bolster much-needed library facilities in the city.

The Beaudette offer is considered by city officials the largest in city history deeded for civic purposes.

PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing will be held Aug. 1 before the City Plan Commission on the proposed rezoning of the block. Last week, the plan group considered the change and recommended the rezoning to the commission.

As originally zoned in 1938, there are eight lots presently zoned Residential 3, 13 Commercial 1, and the remaining lots in the block already zoned Residential 1.

Donaldson cited two examples of potential commercial firms establishing in the block which have agreed, according to the mayor, to "hold their plans in abeyance pending action by the city."

ANOTHER OFFER

He read a letter to the commission from Harold L. Ward, whose three daughters own a home at 223 W. Huron in the block, voicing support of the project.

"It is too early in our lives for us to anticipate how long we shall be using the old home, but we would like to make an immediate contribution either in money or other property in the area toward the initial effort of getting this project under way," the letter read.

The Ward home was originally occupied in 1860 by Mrs. Beaudette's grandfather, Charles Henry Palmer.

'PALMER PARK'

Because the Palmer family were early residents of the city and owned an undisclosed portion of surrounding property on West Huron, Mayor Donaldson has suggested the future park be called "Palmer Park."

The city presently operates six city parks. Beaudette Park, off Orchard Lake avenue, was purchased by the city in 1919 and named after the elder Beaudette.

Because Beaudette has stipulated that no new civic buildings be erected on the site, the City Commission has ruled out building any part of the Civic Center on the block. It is the intention of the commission to group all such buildings around on the planned site surrounding the City Hall.

What is considered to be the first offer to the city of property occurred and died in 1890. Owners of the Hodges Addition offered a 375 square foot plot to the city if it appropriated $100 a year for three years to maintain the site. The city aldermen refused and the land reverted back to the owners.

HE DIDN'T COME HOME—Diane and John Matas stare sadly at a dish marked "DOG." But the dog—a black German Shepherd named "Paisan"—hasn't been home since July 2, and Johnny has lost three pounds worrying about him.

Have You Seen 'Paisan'? Missing Dog Worries Lad

Little Johnny Matas just doesn't understand why "Paisan" won't come home.

Four-year-old Johnny has lost three pounds this week, and cries out in his sleep for the 100-pound black German Shepherd dog that disappeared July 2.

Johnny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Matas of 1175 Jay Rd., Waterford Township. His sister, Diane, is 5.

"We don't know what happened to Paisan—whether he was killed, lost, or picked up by somebody," Mrs. Matas said today. "I let him out for a run early in the morning, and he just didn't come back."

Paisan has never left home before, Mrs. Matas said.

The family has owned Paisan—who will be three years old Aug. 15—since his brother, Blackie, died last January.

"He's a big dog, nearly all black, with a massive head," Mrs. Matas said. "We've looked for him everywhere and called the pound, but he just hasn't been seen.

"We've driven all over the county answering phone calls from people who had seen stray dogs. But it was never Paisan.

"Paisan," Mrs. Matas said, is the Italian word for "My countryman."

"Johnny is worrying himself sick," Mrs. Matas said. "He just doesn't understand why Paisan won't come home, or why anybody would pick him up."

If anybody's seen Paisan, Johnny's phone number is FEderal 4-8911.

2 Killed, 1 Hurt in Road Wreck Near Flat Rock

Former Pontiac Man, Oakland Twp. Resident Die as Car Rams Truck

Two area men were killed and a third critically injured when their car went out of control and crashed a parked cattle truck near Flat Rock early this morning.

The dead include Joseph Balinski, 36, formerly of 16 School St., Pontiac; and Lester Arnold, 31, of 2351 Silver Bell Rd., Oakland Township.

Another victim, Jack Womack, 23, of 45 W. New York Ave., is reported in serious condition at Wyandotte General Hospital.

The auto, believed to have been traveling at a high rate of speed, apparently missed a curve near the intersection of U.S. 25 and U.S. 24, crossed four lanes of highway and crashed into the truck which was parked 30 feet off the pavement.

State police state that the accident occurred at about 3:24 a.m. The intersection is located about three miles north of the southern Michigan city.

The truck's driver, Wilbur Laubis, 31, of Kenton, Ohio, was reportedly asleep in the cab when the car rammed into the vehicle's front. He and his cargo of cattle both escaped injury.

Although Arnold has been identified as the car's owner, troopers have not yet determined which of the three was driving at the time of the fatal collision.

Arnold was found on the passenger side of the front seat with his body jammed part way through the windshield. Balinski and Womack were both thrown out of the auto by the impact.

Womack, who suffered a concussion, lacerations and bruises, will be questioned about the details after his condition improves, police said.

Scattered Showers Expected Tonight

Partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow is the prediction for the Pontiac area with a chance of widely scattered showers or thunderstorms this evening.

The low temperature tonight will be around 65. The mercury will rise to a high of 85 degrees tomorrow.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 61 degrees. The thermometer registered 78 at 1 p.m.

Decision Made, Ike Takes Desk

Conference Slated With Budget Director and Mobilization Chief

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — With the big political decision—if there ever was a decision to make — behind him, President Eisenhower turned his attention today to White House problems.

He scheduled a meeting with Budget Director Percival F. Brundage and Defense Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming.

Eisenhower's intention to stay in the running for a second term regardless of his recent operation was disclosed here yesterday by Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California after he and other GOP legislative leaders had met with Eisenhower.

But presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said later he believed it had been Eisenhower's intention all along to stay in the race.

A formal Eisenhower announcement that he was still running could have given the impression that there had been some doubt about the matter.

A reporter asked Hagerty if it also could be assumed "there is no need to rethink" the candidacy of Vice President Nixon as Eisenhower's running mate.

"I think that is correct," Hagerty replied.

Eisenhower got in some golf practice yesterday, walked about seven tenths of a mile and spent most of the afternoon watching the All-Star baseball game on television. The 7-3 victory of the National Leaguers apparently wasn't the outcome he had been hoping for.

GOODBYE TO ROUNDUP—Judy Anderson and Karen Darre, both of Chicago, wave a reluctant farewell as they climb the hill for the last time. The last of the campers leave today and now begins the task of removing all special equipment to prepare the park once again for public use.

Steel Mediators Push for Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal mediators confer today with a management team to pave the way for a face-to-face meeting tomorrow with union spokesmen in the hope of ending the national steel strike.

Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service officials arranged a "preliminary" meeting here with a team headed by John A. Stephens, vice president of U.S. Steel and the industry's chief negotiator.

The mediators met yesterday with officials of the striking United Steelworkers. They plan to call management and labor together at Pittsburgh tomorrow for resumption of negotiations.

The talks collapsed July 1, precipitating a strike which has idled 730,000 workers and cut national steel production by 90 per cent.

Chief mediator Joseph F. Finnegan said after a one-hour discussion with union officials the situation was "grave" but he was confident that both sides would cooperate in new bargaining efforts.

He told newsmen he had assured the union men a solution would be worked out "only by bargaining" and it would "not be imposed by the government." He said he would not term the strike a national emergency at this time.

United Steelworkers called out 650,000 members on strike after the failure of negotiations for a new contract to replace one expiring July 1. In dispute were the duration of the contract and the immediate "package" pay raise.

The union rejected the last company offer of a 52-month contract. Management said it provided a raise of 17 2-3 cents an hour the first year. The union, representing workers who averaged $2.46 an hour before the strike began, said the proposed first-year increase actually amounted to only 14 cents and the contract offer was "too little and too long."

The union hasn't disclosed what wages or contract length it seeks.

Extra Farm Goods Sold and Donated

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reported today that $2,953,000,000 of government owned surplus farm products have been disposed of—mostly abroad— under the Agricultural Trade Development Act of 1954.

He said in a semiannual report to Congress that nearly one half—or $1,264,800,000—was contracted for sale or donation during the first half of this year.

The commodities were acquired under farm price support programs and the government still holds commodities valued at more than eight billion dollars.

Dulles Predicts Freer Russia

Forces Within Country 'Irresistible,' Secretary Tells Newsmen

WASHINGTON (INS) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles predicted today liberal forces will take over the Soviet Union within 10 years.

Dulles told a news conference he believes the forces which have imposed the "new look" on Russian policy will be irresistible.

He said he does not expect great transformation in Soviet policy today, tomorrow, this year or next year, but he believes in this decade the free world can hopefully look forward to a change in the international scene.

At the same time, Dulles ruled out the idea that the U. S. can help the trend toward liberalization behind the Iron Curtain by direct interference.

SHOW BY EXAMPLE

Dulles said he believes the most the U. S. can do is show by conduct and example how good are

Dulles challenged Moscow to restore independence to the East European satellites.

He expressed belief that the trend behind the Iron Curtain toward liberalization may be reversed but these forces from the people demanding freedom and higher living standards will, in the end, prove irreversible.

Reds Surprise U.N., Ask Disarmament Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) — Russia, in a surprise move, today requested a meeting of the U. N. disarmament Commission for 11 a.m. (EDT) Thursday to hear a statement by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Gromyko is expected to reply to a Western offer to curb tests of nuclear weapons once East-West agreement has been reached on a four-power safeguaraded disarmament program.

'Monumental Job' of Cow Palace Wiring Finished

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Cow Palace was wired for politics today, and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. called it "the most monumental job" it ever did for a news event.

The event is the Republican National Convention starting Aug. 20. The job of setting up communications for it began a year ago and ended yesterday.

The number of television channels out of the Cow Palace was increased from 2 to 40.

Nearly 1,000 telephones were installed with a new exchange just for the convention.

There are accommodations for 200 radio circuits, 335 Teletype machines and 20 wirephoto circuits.

Applications from press, radio, television, newsreel and other communications agencies for seats are three times as heavy as at any other convention. The requested seats total 4,321.

Straley Calls It Cruel; FBI Opens Investigation on Long Island Scene

A telephone call from Pontiac was listed as one of 17 crank calls received yesterday by the parents of kidnaped Peter Weinberger. The Federal Bureau of Investigation officially moved into the case as it entered its second week today.

Context of the call was not disclosed. Area telephone officials said today no efforts have been made as yet by law enforcement officers to trace the call made to the grief-stricken Westbury, N. Y. home.

The 39-day-old baby has been missing since he was spirited from an unattended baby carriage on the patio of the Weinberger residence a week ago.

According to Pontiac Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Manager Ray Storm, state and federal laws forbids release of information on the call, unless subpoenaed by court order.

"Even if we could release the information, it would take days of checking to find out who placed the call, since all toll calls are filed by telephone number, not destination of call," Storm said.

He added that neither Detroit nor Pontiac Bell officials had been contacted regarding the call.

NO INSTRUCTIONS

A spokesman at the Detroit Regional FBI office said no federal investigation into the kidnaping has been made in the Pontiac area as yet.

He said that the office has received no instructions to investigate the telephone call.

Pontiac police Chief Herbert W. Straley labeled the call as the "cruel work of a crank." If requested, he stated, local police will bend every effort to find the mysterious caller, who Straley says has seriously interfered in the course of justice.

County Builders Expecting Boom

"This is the second highest year in the history of the office," Oakland County Register of Deeds Daniel T. Murphy Jr., said today, "despite a 15 per cent dip from last year's business."

* * *

The drop in business does not mean the building boom is over, according to Murphy. "Most builders I talk to feel this is only the start of the boom," he said.

An indication of builders' optimism, he said, is the number of new subdivision plats recorded —a startling 95 from January to June.

In the same six months last year, only 88 new subdivisions were under development.

Business in the Register of Deeds office is an accurate measure of building and development in the county, Murphy explained, since all deeds, mortgages and plats for new subdivisions throughout the county are filed here.

Murphy said he believes the recent decline is mainly due to tightened mortgage money.

"We first felt the decline in mortgages filed here last fall, when mortgage money started tightening," Murphy said. "In December, the effects of a hard winter reinforced the slump.

"Last year, we had a comparatively easy winter. But this year the frost went into the ground and stayed until late March, and builders couldn't work the ground.

"Then, about the time the frost was coming out, unemployment also held back building.

"As a result, one contractor who had 12 houses under construction by this time last year told me last week he didn't have one house going."

Dr. Sibley Practiced Here 48 Years Before Retirement in 1953

Dr. Harry A. Sibley died July 10 at his home on Matthews Street following a long illness. The oldest son of Judson L. and Lucia Banks Sibley, he was born March 23, 1882, at Wixom.

He attended Wixom Public School, later graduating from Detroit Central High. He received his medical degree in 1907 from the University of Michigan, where he was a member of Phi Rho Sigma medical fraternity.

After practicing one year at Dollar Bay in the copper country of Upper Michigan, he returned to Pontiac, where he continued in general practice for 46 years.

At the time of his retirement in 1953, Dr. Sibley had been in active practice in Pontiac longer than any other living physician.

In 1911 he was married to Alice Wixom of Wixom.

Dr. Sibley was a life member of the American Medical Association, the Michigan State Medical Society, and the Oakland County Medical Society, of which he was a past president. He served on the Board of Education of the City of Pontiac; was at one time school physician and was a member of Knights of Pythias Lodge No. 19.

Many older Pontiac residents will remember him also for his ability as a pitcher on the Pontiac City and other baseball teams of this area over forty years ago.

Dr. Sibley is survived by his wife, two sons, Dr. Wixom Sibley of Redwood City, California, and Forbes Sibley of Birmingham; two brothers, Wesley, of Los Gatos, California, and Standish, of Pontiac, and six grandchildren.

Service will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday from the Huntoon Funeral Home. The Rev. James H. Luther of the Silvercrest Baptist Church will officiate with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Feikens, O'Sullivan at Capital

Ike's Plans 'No Surprise,' Say State's GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Announcement that President Eisenhower is going to run for a second term came as no surprise to any of Michigan's Republican leaders.

John Feikens, state Republican chairman, and Clifford O'Sullivan, Michigan's GOP national committeeman, told newsmen they had never doubted what the President's decision would be despite his recent operation for ileitis.

O'Sullivan added, "If President Eisenhower himself had entertained any doubts he would have let the people know in keeping with frankness he was evidenced throughout this picture."

The party leaders voiced their opinions after talking with members of Michigan's Republican delegation in Congress.

COBO 'DELIGHTED'

In Detroit, Mayor Albert E. Cobo, who has entered the race for the Republican nomination for governor, said he was "delighted, but not surprised" at Eisenhower's decision.

"I believe that this will strengthen considerably the Republican position here at home," Cobo said, "and it would follow that it certainly will help me."

Feikens said Eisenhower's "unquestioned popularity" will have a profound influence" on Michigan congressional races next fall.

One factor expected to help Republican candidates, he said, is that people again will be able to vote a straight ticket from the President on down the ballot. Presidential candidates in recent years have been listed on a separate ballot.

Feikens predicted Republicans will retain control of their 11 congressional seats and may unseat Democratic incumbent Reps. Hayworth and Griffiths in the 6th and 17th districts respectively.

Feikens said Michigan Republicans are "going all out" to attract a large labor vote, adding: There are indications, too, that in Negro communities there will be some interest in the Republican Party. He expressed doubt that auto industry unemployment will be a political factor this year.

WORRIED ABOUT JOBLESS

"We are very genuinely concerned with unemployment," O'Sullivan said. "No political purpose could be served by failing to do everything we can to improve the situation."

Hal Short, Michigan GOP campaign manager, said the unemployment situation is "not as serious as it appeared to be from the pronouncements" of Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams and President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers.

Williams and Reuther estimated there were 207,000 jobless workers in the state but only 129,000 were on the unemployment compensation rolls, Short said.

Short later conceded there are more persons jobless than are receiving compensation and made his onw estimate of 170,000, to 180,000 unemployed.

Kidnap Crank Call Traced to Pontiac

with callers who alleged they kidnaped the infant.

The Rev. Thomas Code, pastor of St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church, told reporters of the two new fruitless attempts to keep a rendezvous after visiting Mrs. Weinberger at her home for 20 minutes this afternoon.

One of the calls came from a man and other other from a woman, but neither showed up at the appointed meeting places.

One of the rash of unfounded calls sent police and clergy on a fruitless search through a Long Island church yesterday at just about the time two men were being held without bail in Queens for sending the anguished mother on a false chase to recover the infant early Monday.

SEEKS LAW CHANGE

WASHINGTON (INS) — Rep. Francis E. Dorn (R-NY) announced today he will introduce legislation which would grant the FBI authority to step into kidnap cases immediately after an abduction.

The bill is an outgrowth of the kidnaping in New York of four-week-old Peter Weinberger.

Under current law, the FBI must wait seven days before stepping into a kidnap case.

Dorn said: "I am trying to amend the law so that in cases such as this the FBI can go to work immediately. The mails and telephone service are considered to be interstate commerce generally, and it seems to be that this would be the best way to enable victims, such as the parents of the Weinberger child, to call on the investigative powers of the FBI without undergoing the seven-day waiting period."

The Dorn bill would broaden the Lindbergh Law, which empowers the FBI to enter kidnap cases.

The foundation named the 51-year-old educator to the post yesterday. He will succeed H. Rowan Gaither Jr., foundation president since March 1953 and chairman of the Board of Trustees since last May.

Gaither will continue as chairman.

The foundation was established in 1936 as a nonprofit organization to receive and administer funds for scientific, educational and charitable purposes for the public welfare.

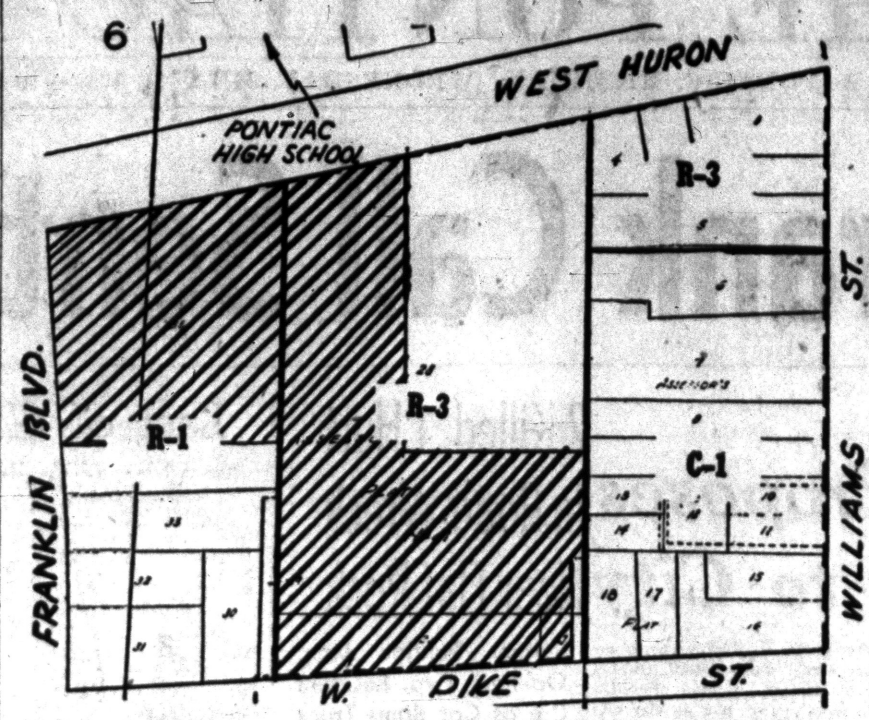
The foundation's assets, estimated at 2½ billion dollars, have come chiefly from the Ford family and Ford Motor Co. stock.

150 Pontiac Youths to Visit Detroit Zoo

Some 150 children from the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. playgrounds will board buses Thursday noon for an afternoon at the Detroit Zoo.

The annual trip, sponsored by the city department, is the only out-of-town trip taken during the summer playground program, said Leonard T. Buzz, recreation supervisor.

The kids will ride the train through the park and visit the exhibits, returning to Pontiac by 5 p.m., Buzz said.



PROPOSED PARK SITE—This map shows the proposed future site of 15-acre park-library site made possible by the offer of O. L. Beaudette of approximately eight acres (in the shaded portion) to the city if the entire block is eventually converted to a park. Due to the Residential 3 and Commercial 1 zones in the block, the City Commission last night moved to rezone the entire block to Residential 1 to prevent any new commercial establishments from beginning in the area. A public hearing will be held before the City Plan Commission Aug. 1 on the proposal. The shaded portion (lot 35) to the extreme left of the picture, along with Beaudette's home, will be deeded to Pontiac upon their deaths. The remaining portion will be granted over a three-year period.

Hard-Drinking Khrushchev on Skids? Red Army Boss Irked at Party Capers

LONDON (INS) — Growing reports that Nikita S. Khrushchev's liking for vodka and drunken antics at public functions are displeasing other top Soviet leaders intensified speculation today that his days as Russia's boss may be numbered.

For a short while today, observers thought there might have been significance in Khrushchev's absence from the opening sessions of the two houses of the Soviet Parliament. But he was on hand later in the afternoon when the bodies met in joint session in the Kremlin.

Some observers said it is possible the first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party may be ousted or at least demoted and that former Premier Georgi Malenkov may climb back to the No. 1 spot.

There is no question but that Khrushchev's conduct at the Moscow Aviation Day party for foreign visitors was highly embarrassing to other Soviet leaders.

DRUNK AND INSULTING

He and Premier Nikolai Bulganin were said to have been drunk and Khrushchev reportedly insulted the Western visitors, including British Air Secretary Nigel Birch and, perhaps, U. S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining at the June 24 party.

The British Foreign Office even went out of its way to say it had "no reason to believe" Khrushchev insulted anyone.

Regarded as significant was the fact that the nominal host of the affair, Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov, was so embarrassed by Khrushchev's conduct that he personally apologized to the Western guests. Observers pointed out that Zhukov heads the Red Army which ended the career — and life — of Secret Police Chief Lavrenti P. Beria.

Khrushchev is suffering unexpected consequences of his speech which opened the campaign to debunk Stalin. He reportedly sowed seeds of doubt among leaders of Communist parties in non-satellite countries.

For example, fellow-traveling left-wing Italian Socialist Pietro Nenni was reported by the London Daily Mail to be telling people Khrushchev is about through.

The anti-Stalin drive, it was said, has virtually destroyed the Communist regime in Poland, scene of last month's bloody workers' uprising.

BULGANIN TOO?

Khrushchev's fall also mightmean the end of Bulganin, observers said, as premier. They said this may lead to the reascendancy of Malenkov, whose stress on consumer goods production was popular with the Russian people, though not with Bulganin and Khrushchev.

The Daily Mail said today the clique opposing Khrushchev is headed by old Stalinists Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich. The last two are first deputy premiers.

Several London newspapers, acting as if in concert, raised the question of whether Bulganin and Khrushchev still will be around next May when Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden visits Moscow.

The Daily Mail published two articles today on the Khrushchev affair. They amounted to a flat "Yes" to this question. Is Nikita Khrushchev on his way out?

Dope Suspects Pre-trial Opens

County Narcotics Ring Faces Charges Before Circuit Court Bench

Fifteen persons, including three women, are scheduled for pre-trial examination today on charges of conspiring to violate state narcotic laws in an alleged dope ring in the southwest City area.

Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor was to begin presentation of evidence in the conspiracy between Sept. 1, last year and the arrests in mid-May.

The hearing is scheduled before Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum. If the suspects are bound over to Circuit Court for trial, it will be the first such conspiracy case ever tried in Pontiac.

The examination today comes after a series of postponements. All suspects arrested have demanded examination in the conspiracy.

Seven other persons named in warrants issued in May are still at large, police said. Det. Herbert Cooley, a member of the Pontiac Vice Squad which made the arrests, is the complainant in the case.

City Burglaries Solved by Police

Arrest of Detroit Man Provides Answer to Recent Breakins

With the arrest of a Detroit man here yesterday, Pontiac police say they have cracked several more recent home burglaries.

Det. Insp. Clark M. Wheaton attributes five cases of daytime larcenies to James Proffitt, 23, who was apprehended in the basement of an apartment building at 111 N. Telegraph Rd.

Detectives John DePauw, Orville Johnston and Robert Emery, who made the arrest, say that Proffitt was staying there temporarily.

Wheaton said Proffitt admitted only one of the larcenies, at 22 a purse and $28 were taken. The pattern of the other larcenies was similar, however, Wheaton explained.

Proffitt was turned over to Detroit police who have a warrant charging him with breaking and entering, Wheaton added.

Meanwhile, a former Utica ma whose confession Monday reportedly cleared up 38 home burglaries at night time, this morning waived examination on a charge of breaking and entering.

Gerald Lenz, 21 was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Monday. Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum remanded Lenz to jail under $2,000 bond.

Police say that the crimes Lenz admitted had earned him the nickname of the "Bedroom Burglar".

Shriners Install New Potentate

Deadwood, S. D. Man to Assume Leadership of 775,000 Members

DETROIT (AP)—Gerald Crary, 63, a lumberman from Deadwood, S. D., takes the oath of office today as Imperial Potentate of the Shriners.

He succeeds Walter Guy of Little Rock, Ark.

As Imperial Potentate, Crary will be leader of 775,000 Shriners in North America. He will command 166 temples and 17 Shrine hospitals for crippled children.

Deadwood's Naja Temple planned a 40-minute show to precede the swearing-in ceremonies at Detroit's Masonic Temple.

50,000 ATTENDING

More than 50,000 Shriners are attending the group's annual convention.

A second madcap parade tomorrow night will wind up the official program before the convention breaks up Friday.

Some 10,000 took part in a 3½ hour spectacle that spread over a mile and a half of city streets yesterday.

In convention business yesterday outgoing Imperial Potentate Guy suggested public relations departments in each temple with a central office for the dissemination of Shrine business and accomplishments.

Oakland Road Bids Approved by Ziegler

Low bidders on four Oakland County state highway construction projects were announced today by State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

The four county projects were among 24 in the state, with low bids totaling $1,425,359.

H. J. Brighton and Max R. Frisinger were joint low bidders for intermittent concrete pavement patching on M24 from Walton boulevard southerly, and on Orchard Lake road from Commerce road south to Pontiac trail.

Detroit Concrete Products Corp. of Detroit was awarded the contract for 7.2 miles of surfacing on M150 from Rochester north to Romeo road.

Lewis & Frisinger Co. of Ann Arbor submitted the low bid for intermittent concrete pavement patching on U.S.16 from the county line east to Farmington.

Has to Move 100 Tons of Coal, Rebuild Tracks

Commission Delays Sidewalk Project, Gives Lumber Yard Time to Rearrange

Construction of 170-feet of sidewalk along Virginia avenue on the city's north side, was deferred for 90 days by the City Commission Tuesday night.

Harold E. Howlett, attorney for the M. A. Benson Lumber Co., asked that the previously approved project be delayed to let the firm change its yard to permit construction of the walk.

He said the company will have to move 100 tons of coal and rebuild 500 feet of railroad siding within the yard.

Other action taken at the session included acceptance of final plans for the new fire station to be built at Genesee and West Huron.

BIDS DUE JULY 30

Bids on the station, estimated from $75,000 to $80,000, will be taken at 2 p.m. July 30.

Commissioners also passed a resolution by City Manager W. K. Willman to ask the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission to transfer $34,868 from the 1952 $700,000 sewage plant bond issue toward planning and construction of the city's auxiliary sewage plant.

The resignation of T. L. Harsen from the Police and Fire Trial Board was accepted with "regrets" by the commission. Harsen, a board member for 11 years, resigned because he is moving to Detroit.

His replacement and the expired term of James Flanary on the board will be discussed at the commission's next informal meeting, July 23.

A request from the Sunnyvale Chapel to hold street meetings in Pontiac was approved with the restriction that the chief of police determine locations of the meetings.

Willman was authorized to waive permit fees for all demolishing projects in the city for the razing of recently sold homes on city-purchased property.

DEEDS ACCEPTED

Warranty deeds from Thedosia Fortune and John Athanas and his wife for parcels of land needed for the Glenwood avenue extension, were accepted by the commission.

Another deed was instructed to be executed for the purchase of seven lots in Robert Herndon's Pontiac Apartment Subdivision by Anthony Tassi.

A public hearing will be held July 18 on proposed rezoning of 11 lots on the east side of Golf drive between Canterbury and the alley. The rezoning is to allow for construction of a motel on the site.

City Attorney William A. Ewart was instructed to prepare an ordinance to amend the city's building zone code to allow for the rezoning to Commercial 2 of the northeast side of Norton avenue from Florence to Johnson avenues.

At a joint meeting of the City Commission and City Plan Commission set for July 23, further discussion on a proposed change to the building ordinance as pertains to schools and hospitals will be held.

Public hearings will be held Tuesday on the following special assessment rolls to finance:

PAVING PROJECTS

Sidewalk reconstruction and change of grade on the south side of East Pike from Mariva to Jessie; sanitary sewer on Riverside drive from the trunk sewer to 70 feet west; and curb, gutter and related work on Riverside drive from Maines to Tasmania, Maines from Roselawn to Tasmania, and Bond drive from North East boulevard to the west line of the Green and Sarko Subdivision No. 1.

Confirmations and payments were established for five public improvement projects in the city.

A $5,000 bid from Anthony Tassi for nine lots in the Marquette Subdivision located on Baldwin avenue was rejected by the commission.

In final action, the group approved the Aug. 7-11 4-H Fair.

A piece of land needed to straighten out Kenilworth was instructed to be purchased from the capital improvement fund.

The Day in Birmingham

Nine-Hole Golf Course Sketched in Sports Areas

BIRMINGHAM—A nine-hole golf course may be included in the extensive sports areas being planned by city organizations.

The city planning commission last night endorsed a layout by City Planner Herbert Herzberg that outlined tentative areas for use of the 66-acre property near the Sewage Treatment Plant and catty-corner from the high school.

"It is basically the same as the plan originally submitted to the school board and city commission," Herzberg told the board. The plan had been referred back to the planners for further study.

The first plan had included a pitch-and-putt course, but Herzberg's sketch included the nine-hole area in the southern portion of the 66 acres. Further planning depends on how much land the proposed expansion of the sewage treatment plant will require in the southern sector.

In the northeast and northwest corners of the land, flatness permits land use for ball courts and parking.

Four softball and two hardball diamonds, two football fields, parking lots, 12 tennis courts, five horseshoe areas, three shuffleboard courts, two basketball courts, four badminton courts, and two volleyball areas are planned.

A building to house recreation equipment, rest rooms, and a center for the driver training, will be placed in close proximity to the parking and recreation area, the plan shows.

Herzberg specified that the plan is in tentative form only. The board directed him to continue with the development of plans.

The caterpillar story from Alice in Wonderland will be presented by junior high schoolers in the recreation department's drama unit over WCAR Thursday at 10:30 a.m.

Stars are Roger and Tom Fogarty, Christine DeRosier, Mary Ann Stone and Judy Apitz.

Mrs. M. L. Butzel, of Birmingham, a member of the Detroit Metropolitan Committee on Aging, has been named to a committee to form a Michigan Gerontological Society.

The society will study problems of the aged. Dr. Gordon Aldridge, Michigan State University Sociologist, will be chairman.

Registrations have been extended for Our Shepherd Lutheran school in hopes of reaching an enrollment of 100. About 60 pupils are promised now, for the parish's first Christian Day School.

Tuition is $120 per parish family, regardless of the number of pupils. For other congregations, a graded tuition scale is enforced.

Church voters this week approved a budget of nearly $10,000 to build school partitions, buy furniture and cover operation expenses for four months. It includes $900 for playground equipment.

Principal Carl Christian will be assisted by two women teachers.

Friendly Chat Separates, Unites Father and Son

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two cars stopped alongside each other for a traffic light Monday in Lebanon, Mo., to begin a chain of events which separated and eventually reunited a father and son.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wilhite and their three children, of Monroeville, Pa., struck up a conversation with the other driver, George Baker of Hobbs, N. M., who was traveling to Johnstown, Pa., with his 7-month-old son, Larry. Baker said that driving and keeping the baby under control was quite a job.

A few miles farther east, the two cars stopped at a signal light again. Mrs. Wilhite offered to take Larry into her car and care for him until the travelers reached Pennsylvania. Baker agreed.

The cars stayed together all the way to Columbus, Ohio, where heavy traffic separated them. The Wilhites continued home, but Baker lagged behind, searching for his road companions.

When they reached Monroeville, Mrs. Wilhite phoned police and asked them to find Larry's father.

Shortly before midnight, Baker was halted by police in Washington, Pa. They gave him the news and a few hours later, the father and son were reunited in Monroeville.

Avon Woman Injured After Car Strikes Tree

An Avon Township woman was in "good" condition at the Avon Center Hospital today after being injured yesterday when the car in which she was riding went off the road and struck a tree in that township.

Lillian Brush, 35, of 360 Gunn Rd., reportedly suffered a dislocated right shoulder and lacerations of the face and right arm in the accident at Sheldon Road near Rochester Road.

Bernadine Beltry, 32, of the same address, the driver, was not hurt. Investigating Oakland County Sheriff Department deputy Steve Navarre said the woman apparently struck a soft shoulder causing her car to go out of control.

Salvation Army Worker Held for Ring Theft

A Detroit man was charged here Tuesday with the grand larceny of two rings worth $175 from a house at 137 Wall St. Friday, Pontiac Police said.

James E. Hicks, 43, was arrested at the Detroit headquarters of the Salvation Army, where he works, Det. Insp. Clark M. Wheaton said. Hicks allegedly took the rings while at the house to pick up clothing for the organization, Wheaton added. One ring was recovered.

Recklessness Costs Dearborn Driver $100

Pleading guilty to reckless driving, Algird Grybas of Dearborn, paid a $75 fine and $25 costs in Justice Court Tuesday.

He was arraigned before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle. Earlier Grybas pleaded not guilty to a drunk driving charge.

Up to about 1876, pencil leads were square instead of round.

Detroiter Gets 60 Days on Shoplifting Charge

A Detroit man was sentenced to 60 days in the Oakland County Jail Tuesday after pleading guilty to a reduced charge of simple larceny in Justice Court.

Raymond Arnold, 22, was jailed after paying court costs of $50 after an arraignment before Justice Allen C. Ingle, of Farmington Township.

He was arrested by State Police June 16 on a charge of stealing a radio and a pair of pajamas, valued at $36.20, from the J. L. Hudson Co. at the Northland Shopping Center, Southfield Township. Arnold demanded examination at an earlier arraignment for larceny from a building.

$64,000 Winner Proves to Be Real Champion

In all this mad welter of television giveaways, panel games and adult guessing contests, the home viewers have been treated to a weird and challenging assortment of human beings.

Some appeal to everyone.

Some engender antagonism.

Some are fifty-fifty. You can take 'em or "leave 'em be."

Yet, through all this curious cross section of humanity, we offer the Number One Hero, male or female, as Mr. Peter Freuchen.

He's our boy.

He's Number One.

After him — just relax.

You can rank the breath-taking girls, the handsome boys, the appealing youngsters and the ring tailed chimpanzees in any order you please. Let your conscience be your guide.

Peter Freuchen is first.

The Danish newspaper correspondent tore through the seven seas at a faster clip than any craft since the beginning of time. He was the absolute master of all the questions they could conjure. At times Peter created the impression that he felt just a wee mite sorry that the Encyclopedia Britannica didn't delve more deeply into abstruse and baffling matters of the deep.

Always he was kindly.

Always he was shy.

And always he was warm, human and a tremendously fascinating personality.

Personally, we believe Peter has sailed over every individual wave in the entire seven seas. We suspect he has caught every fish that exists. We are certain he's the only man in recorded history that calls Davy Jones by his first name; and lastly we believe he's a direct descendant of Father Neptune.

Peter, we're proud of you.

If there's such a thing as "the Champions' Champion," you're it.

Plenty of Iron Remains

Michigan has had a big stake in the iron industry for many years because of the quantities of ore which have been mined in our Northern Peninsula. Then came the fabulous Mesabi Range in nearby Minnesota, with its vastly lessened costs due to open pit mining.

By the time these sources had been pretty well used up, huge new supplies were opened up in Labrador and the northern coast of South America. Also new methods have made possible the utilization of taconite ore, less rich in iron, from Michigan's mines.

Now with these later sources hardly more than touched by industry, a rich new deposit has been discovered near Dillon, Mont. There mining engineers have established the presence of a vein of ore twelve thousand feet long and nine hundred feet wide with reserves estimated at forty-two million tons of iron. In fact engineers say that this deposit might develop into several hundred million tons.

It seems fair to believe that there still are huge deposits of iron lying undiscovered beneath the earth's surface. Meanwhile, other metals and substitutes for metal are coming into increasing use. So, despite the tremendous amounts of iron being used, some as iron and some in the manufacture of steel, any threat of shortage in supply lies far in the future.

Manistee Gets Air Base

What apparently is the final action places Michigan's new Air Force Base in Manistee County, instead of Kalkaska. That was the action taken recently by House and Senate conferences after the site of the proposed base had been shifted back and forth several times.

Politics, pure and simple, was behind the conflict over the base's location. Congress still has to pass the bill, but it is not now anticipated that the decision of the conferees will be upset.

The House had favored Manistee, while the Senate had backed Kalkaska.

This new base will provide added protection against possible future attacks on Detroit and Chicago from across the Arctic Circle.

It is high time that the disagreement over the site was ended, so that construction can begin. It is comparatively unimportant whether it is to be located in Manistee or Kalkaska Counties. The important thing is to get it built and in operation.

The Man About Town

We Beat Europe

Our Own County Has Great Variety of Tree Species

Settle down: What some people seem unable to do even when they are forced to settle up.

According to the findings of

Harlowe O. Whittemore,

Professor of Landscape Architecture at the University of Michigan, Oakland County has more native species of trees than all of Europe. Our county, with 900 square miles of area, has 90 such species, while the entire continent of Europe, with 3,000,000 square miles, has 85. The species in each case include only those which will reach a diameter of eight inches when full grown.

But Oakland County's trees are disappearing in the face of our residential growth, and need replenishing. According to

Lyle Abel,

County Agricultural Agent, it is quite easy to get the seedlings to start a new growth. The Michigan Department of Conservation has them for you, and you can get full particulars by writing them at Lansing. Quick action is necessary if you wish to get them for fall planting.

The other day I made mention in here of

C. George Widdifield,

Rector of All Saints Episcopal Church here in Pontiac. One of my colleagues at The Press tells me that George is a really fine golfer and would be a top notcher if he put more time on the game. Sometimes he doesn't play for a couple of weeks.

Last week he got in a big schedule for him and played three times, twice at Orchard Lake and once at Bloomfield. His three rounds were 80—79—82 which is tolerably stout shooting for an amateur who doesn't take the whole thing too seriously.

Thanks are extended for that letter with a Pontiac postmark and from

"A Real Baseball Fan,"

who very clearly points out the

"Real Trouble with the Tigers."

He says they have too many players who can go through a whole season without an error, who always bat 1,000, never strike out, and also are the best umpires —but won't give up their hot dogs and come out of the grandstand.

'Twas the pleasure of old MAT to enjoy the ride from Detroit to Greenfield village Monday in a 94 year old train, pulled by a wood burning 1860 engine. The occasion was the presentation of a 600-ton coal burning locomotive, largest ever built, which was accepted by president of the village, and will stand besides the 1860 and other early models.

William Clay Ford,

Our sincerest appreciation goes to

Can't Say Much for His Form

David Lawrence Says:

Big Giveaway Sponsors Defeated

WASHINGTON — The so-called "liberals" are having no difficulty nowadays fixing the blame for the refusal of Congress to continue its "giveaways" to foreign countries in as large a quantity as before. They are saying that President Eisenhower is culpable. The line taken is that somehow the President did not browbeat Congress, that he did not exercise his leadership, or that he was sick or indifferent or something.

But the truth is that sponsors of bigger programs of foreign aid are themselves largely responsible for the failure of Congress to appropriate as much or even more money than the President requested.

For the palpable propaganda to get Congress to spend more money abroad was started a few months ago by the so-called "liberals" and was carried on vigorously by their auxiliaries here and abroad, particularly by certain sections of the press and even by many members of the New York City clique who have access to the President. They overplayed their hand. Members of Congress became suspicious and resentful.

ARGUMENTS APLENTY

The argument was widely made that America was too much concerned with "military alliances," that this was a time to "win men's minds," that what was needed was something "imaginative" in the way of foreign policy, that the United States must not insist on extending aid to foreign countries "with strings attached," and that the Russians were being successful in their policies of "competitive coexistence." Also a lot of dispatches were coincidentally sent from abroad designed to prove that America was "losing prestige."

The Congress, however, didn't fall for any of this, though there were a few speeches planted here in Congress by the so-called "liberals" to emphasize their arguments. Such speeches were difficult for some of the Democrats to make because their own brethren simultaneously were engaged in cutting down the President's program in an effort to put him on the spot.

As a matter of fact, if political theory were realistically applied, the finger of criticism would be pointed today not at President Eisenhower but at the Democratic party which controls both Houses of Congress. The Democratic leaders told the nation in the 1954 campaign that they would cooperate with the Republican President. The rank and file of the Democrats, however, have not followed their own leadership.

DIFFERENT TUNE TODAY

So today the song is different. Now it's the President who is said to be at fault "for not leading vigorously enough," and it's the Republicans in his own party who are being held responsible by these critics. Indeed, the President is being openly urged to split with his own party, to call his own leaders names, to "purge" them.

All this overlooks the plain fact that for nearly 20 years now no party in Congress has been sure of a majority on important issues and no President has been able to "lead" his party in that sense. The reason is that there are four major blocs in Congress. Both parties are divided.

Eisenhower's "leadership," for example, isn't a bit more effective than was Truman's or Roosevelt's on legislative issues. Thus, Truman faced continuously a split Democratic party on civil rights and on labor legislation. The Taft-Hartley Act was passed over his veto by a coalition of Democrats and Republicans.

Roosevelt again and again had the same experience with such a coalition. It beat his Supreme Court bill. He tried the "purge" system—butting into party primaries—and lost in almost every instance. Yet Eisenhower is being urged today to intervene in the Wisconsin Republican primary and thus assure victory for a Democratic nominee.

BLOCS STYMIE IKE

As leadership goes, Eisenhower is doing about as well as can be expected in dealing with a Southern Democratic bloc that is against federal aid for education, a Northern Democratic bloc that wants it, a Republican bloc of independents who vote against "giveaways" of all kinds and a Republican bloc of administration stalwarts who go along with him on almost everything.

The Internationally-minded spenders ought, however, to be happy with the results. They should consider themselves lucky to get $4,000,000,000 out of Congress. The other $900,000,000 which has been cut out of the program will go for armament.

The Air Force enthusiasts will see to that, and, incidentally, isn't it a Democratic senator who is leading the fight for more and more money for air power and an unbalanced budget? One wonders how a Republican president can exercise "leadership" over Democrats in Congress who are aspirants for the presidency.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Doctor Cautions Readers on Fictitious Miracle Drug

Some readers may remember that about two years ago I, too, hailed a miracle. I lost my head and described here some effects of a new medicine, effects which, I'm ashamed to admit, I mistook for evidence of improvement surpassing understanding. A few days later it became all too evident that there was no real improvement in the patient's condition, but just more prolonged relief of pain than ordinary analgesics such as aspirin give. Still worse, a month or two later reports appeared in the medical journals, telling of grave and even fatal toxic effects of the "miracle medicine" in some instances. I passed many sleepless nights worrying about it, but I guess God heard my prayer.

What I have to say now is that there's a reason why, except that one mistake, for which I apologized here two or three times, I have avoided mention or discussion of miracle or wonder drugs, particularly derivatives of exotic plants introduced under various trade names and natural or synthetic hormone products.

I have searched assiduously and at first hopefully for clinical evidence of actual cure or even lasting improvement of chronic joint disability by one of these new drugs. When I referred to this here, one reader protested that she had experienced tremendous relief from arthritis, thanks to (she named the wonder drug). But when I tried to get in communication with her physician she demurred. Also she mentioned casually that she still took injections of the remedy from time to time, just in case.

To the best of my knowledge nothing has happened since May 11, '54, to nullify the franx statement in the Bulletin of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, released for that date:

"It should now be recognized that treatment with various drugs available today has not been shown to alter the natural course of the disease in a significant manner."

Yet thousands of persons with chronic joint disability are "trying" such treatment today.

Even though it seems to some doctors that I "take the attitude that everyone is out of step but Brady," I repeat that what doctors call "arthritis" they cannot define in terms of pathology, but the name "arthritis" sounds as scientific as all get out.

Forget just who happens to be out of step, and send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz. The difference between "arthritis" and rheumatiz is that I define rheumatiz so clearly that any intelligent reader will understand precisely what I'm talking about.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Case Records of Psychologist

Don't Judge Man by Car He Drives

Floyd's warning is much needed in America. Many fathers spend more time polishing their new automobile than in setting a shining example of moral behavior before their youngsters. A lot of men even devote more training to their coon dogs than to their kids. So read Floyd's terse warning and quit trying to fourflush the neighborhood.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-309: Floyd G., aged 37, is an automobile salesman in Ohio.

"Dr. Crane, I make a pretty good income," he informed me when I had addressed the Rotary Club of his city recently.

"But I marvel at the stupidity of the average person in money matters.

"For example, most of the working people to whom I sell automobiles want to buy a new car, instead of a modestly priced but very serviceable auto within their budget.

"Why, I don't drive a new car myself, and I am in the automobile business! I figure I can't afford that extra dough.

"Why should I spend $2,600 in cold cash for auto transportation when I can pick up bargains at $1,000 that look like new and give me just as many miles to the gallon? Thus, I save the extra $1,600 for other things.

"But I don't dare talk like this to my prospects, for they seem hell bent on nothing but new cars.

"And if I don't make the sale, they'll go right across the street to a competitor and buy a new car from him.

"So I sell them new cars when I know they can't afford them. They don't look ahead and their wives will be nervous wrecks quarreling with their mates when the next payments come due.

"Why will people with the least money strive so hard to squander it on the most showy type of merchandise?"

EGO HUNGER

"Ego hunger" is one of the simplest answers.

People want to feel important. That is a universal desire of mankind.

The average person feels somewhat inferior in both education and social standing. So he wants to move into a higher social stratum.

"If I drive as swanky an auto as the banker does or if my wife wears as ritzy a fur coat as does my employer's wife, then people may think I am a big shot," he subconsciously thinks to himself.

That craving to lift ourselves to a higher social plane is one of the surefire rules that advertisers rely upon when they stampede people into smoking cigarettes or drinking liquor.

They simply run testimonials in their ads from so-called pacesetters. Famous baseball stars or other athletes are employed to coerce the thoughtless teenage boys.

Cosmetic firms employ aristocratic women belonging to the Social Register, who acclaim their cold creams, lipstick, rouge and other beauty aids.

And for the uncritical thinkers who have a yen to be scientific, the advertisers depict physicians in white coats, sucking on a certain brand of cigarette or holding a cocktail.

Doctors endorse my cigarette (or liquor)," is the subconscious thought which the advertisers realize will then be retained in the mind of the average person.

DOUBLECROSSED CHILDREN

Parents, don't doublecross your children by creating the false notion that fur coats and new cars make you big shots.

The important test of character is what you are doing in life to make this world a better place in which to live.

Gangsters chronically sport big cars and mink coats! Clergymen and teachers do not.

Yet the latter are planting roses in life, whereas the gangsters and similar nitwits are planting thistles.

So be sure you don't confuse your children's sense of values by an abnormal craving to ritz the neighbors and show off.

Culture and morality have no price tags. A modest income that permits only a jalopy, is preferred to the swagger behavior of those who are frenzied in their desire to "keep up with the Joneses."

A lot of Dads spend more time polishing their car than polishing their children's personality.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'More Opportunity Means Decrease in Delinquency'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I am somewhat perplexed by the big question of juvenile delinquency and what's to be done.

Recently a 17-year-old Negro girl pleaded for a chance to work and pay her way through college. She's not alone . . . many more are confronted with the same situation. They beg for a decent chance to an honest job to further their ambitions.

Something should be done to provide work for these aggressive youngsters. If college were in reach of more, we would have less need for juvenile courts. A college student isn't exposed to crime. Idle hands and minds are easy to be led astray.

So merchants, factories, any employment concern . . . take down your "not hiring" sign and open the door of opportunity to our future worthwhile citizens of tomorrow. Their futures lie in your hands, the future of our country in theirs.

'Why Blame Us All for Small Group?'

I have a word to say about teenagers, I'm one of them. About ten per cent of our number, or even less, are on the loose a lot of the time. They have no restraint and no one at home steers them. They do what they please and it isn't always nice.

They're the ones that get in trouble. They're the ones that defy the police, smash property, insult the public, drink too much and cause all of us to suffer from a bad name. I think the top 90 per cent are about the same as teenagers have always been, like our fathers and mothers and grandfathers and grandmothers. The bottom ten per cent of our group is lower morally, physically and mentally than the bottom ten per cent of the other generations.

But why do the other generations blame all of us for the sins of the bottom ten per cent? And furthermore, the ten per cent at the bottom probably got that way because their fathers and grandfathers did a lousy job in bringing them up.

Soviets Woo West Berlin With Gift of Radio Center

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

The huge Radio House in Berlin has been turned over to the West Berlin city government unconditionally.

The return of this building, which once housed the Reichsrundfunk and which formed a Soviet-occupied islet in the British sector since the war, is an important gesture of Russian goodwill.

It has been done in a city which was the focal point of the cold war and which thus far has felt few effects of the new wind blowing from the East.

Gen. A. S. Chamov, Soviet commandant in Berlin, and West Berlin's Dr. Otto Suhr signed a protocol on the return of the block-long communications center in a ceremony at Soviet headquarters in Karlshorst, East Berlin.

How big a gesture this is can be gauged by recalling that for the past four years a Soviet military guard has occupied the otherwise abandoned building solely for the purpose of denying its use to the West.

HARDLY DAMAGED

The building was hardly damaged during the war. The Soviet-controlled Berlin Radio, which took it over by agreement among the four powers, continued to operate it even during the famous days of the Soviet blockade. It was a very vituperative organ of anti-Western propaganda.

* * *

In July 1952, when Soviet "pinprick" measures angered Berliners and the Western allies, British troops put barbed wire around the building one night, posted guards and ruled that henceforth only Germans having a special pass could enter it.

The Communist staff members withdrew and did not return, leaving Soviet military guards to uphold their claim. British military police continued to guard the building.

This is the first time that the Soviets have dealt with the West Berlin city government, which they do not presume to recognize legally, any more than the Western allies recognize the East Berlin Communist regime.

* * *

The move is attributed to the Soviet wish to have East and West Germans negotiate directly on the question of German reunification, and part of a Soviet "softening up" policy toward the West Berlin city government.

FOUR-POWER BASIS

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has insisted that the German reunification question be settled on a four-power basis. But the Reds refuse this, knowing that the East Berlin government would be defeated in free all-German elections.

* * *

Adenauer, in arguing for approval of an armed forces draft law in Bonn, said, "There is no change in Soviet policy; they still want to grab Europe."

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

THE STORY: A frightened woman has asked Mike Shayne to investigate the disappearance of the body of a murdered man from room 316 at the Hibiscus Hotel. The woman says the victim is her brother. A knock comes on Mike's door and the woman believes it is the murderer, who pursued her. A man enters, introducing himself as Bert Paulson and says he is looking for his sister. He admits pursuing the woman, whom he calls Nellie.

XI

Shayne told him dryly: "She claims she doesn't know who you are. That she never saw you before in her life. She suspects that you murdered her brother, and—"

Paulson's look of astonishment was ludicrous. "I'm her brother. Didn't she tell you that?"

"No," he said, slowly. "She didn't tell me that, Paulson. She assured me she had seen the body of her murdered brother in room 316 at the Hibiscus Hotel no less than 10 minutes before you jumped at her in the corridor as she came out of the room."

Paulson's body went slack in his chair. He closed his eyes tightly and put his left hand over them as though he had to shut the glaring overhead light.

"I'm Nellie's brother," he told Shayne slowly. "I'm not dead, as you can well see. Now do you realize the condition she's in? Why I'm so worried? Why I have to find her and take care of her?"

Shayne said, "I can see that all right. If you are her brother and are telling the truth. But you see, I got a completely different story from her. She hired me to protect her from you—describing you perfectly, including the scar. And she also wants me to find out who cut her brother's throat tonight and how they got rid of the body. Until I find out which one of you is telling the truth—"

I CAN PROVE IT

"But I can prove it," said Paulson vehemently. He reached into his hip pocket for a wallet, opened it and began pulling out cards. "I've got identification. I can prove I'm Bert Paulson. You look. I don't see too well without my glasses."

Shayne didn't glance at the cards. "And I can easily prove I'm Mike Shayne. But if I told you I had a sister named Nellie who had suddenly gone crazy and thought I was going to kill her, that wouldn't prove I was her brother."

"Nellie and I lived in Jacksonville until I got pulled into the Korean war. Mother died while I was overseas, and when I came back I found Nellie living alone. She had a good job in Jax and seemed to be enjoying being on her own.

"I thought maybe it was just what she needed. Mother was always—sort of over-possessive. And Nellie never had been able to call her soul her own. She had a nervous breakdown when she was 16," he went on fiercely, "and spent several months in a sanitarium. I always felt it was entirely mother's fault. So when I came back and thought I'd settle down in Jax and Nellie could sort of keep house for me, I saw she resented it. She blew up all over the place when I suggested it, and accused me of being as bad as mother about wanting to hold her down.

JOB IN DETROIT

"Well, she was 20 and earning her own living." He spread out his hand and looked at Shayne helplessly. "So I got a job in Detroit, and from her letters I thought everything was fine. Two weeks ago I got a wire saying she was in trouble."

"What sort of trouble?"

"She didn't say. So I wired her to hold the fort and drove down—straight through in 26 hours. And when I got to Jax she'd vanished. I hired this private detective in Jacksonville, and this afternoon he reported he'd located her in Miami—at the Hibiscus Hotel, Room 316. Always before when we came to Miami we stayed at the Tropical Arms—where they knew us."

"What time did you leave Jacksonville?"

"A little before 4 o'clock."

"You weren't in much of a hurry to reach her," said Shayne dryly. "Anybody can do it in four hours."

"I had an accident the other side of Fort Lauderdale. Crazy driver smashed into my rear-end when I slowed for a light."

Paulson rubbed his forehead vaguely. "Slammed me against the windshield. Broke my glasses and half knocked me out. I had to drive slow coming on in. That delayed me a couple of hours, so it was about 9:30 when I got to the Hibiscus."

"And?" prompted Shayne when Paulson stopped again.

"Well, I went to the elevator and up to the third floor. As I walked down the corridor toward 316, I saw the door stood open and light was coming out. And when I was about eight feet away, Nellie stepped out and turned toward me. She gave one scream and started running in the other direction. I've thought and thought about it," he ended wearily, "and I admit the hall light was dim and she'd just stepped out of a brightly-lit room, so maybe she didn't recognize me in one glance."

"It wouldn't explain," said Shayne sharply, "her story about being registered at the Roney Plaza Hotel with her brother, and going to the Hibiscus at 9:30 in response to a call from him and finding him lying on the bed in 316 with his throat slit wide open."

"But there wasn't anybody in the room—dead or alive," protested Paulson.

Dream Realized for New Yorkers —Underground

NEW YORK (INS) — New York City has unveiled its first air-conditioned subway train—a sleek, six-car affair, complete with germ-killers, dust removers, de-humidifiers and soothing music, but no dancing.

New York Transit Authority Chairman Charles E. Patterson, after a special exhibition run on the new underground marvel, said "definitely no dancing allowed," as lively waltz strains floated through the car and set feet tapping among the special passengers.

The air-conditioned train goes into regular service today.

It will be shifted from time to time on various New York subway lines to give as many passengers as possible a chance to ride in it.

N.Y. Central Asks Halt of Toledo-Elkhart Run

ADRIAN (AP) — The New York Central railroad says pay for crewmen on the Toledo, Ohio-Elkhart, Ind., run exceeded passenger revenues "six or seven times."

The railroad testified at opening of a state Public Service Commission hearing on a NYC petition for discontinuing passenger service on the 140-mile route.

Since 1955, the railroad said, the train between the two cities has averaged only eight passengers a day.

Ceil Chapman Creates 'Camise' Bodices for Fall

MAKE OVER PAGES

Combines Chemise, Camisole

Flapper - Type Top Accents Gown With 1912 Styling

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—It's sort of a camisole and kind of a chemise, so glamor designer Ceil Chapman calls it a "camise."

* * *

It's the loose-bloused top with camisole straps, usually jeweled or beaded, which distinguished the newest silhouette in the Chapman collection of festive fashions for fall evenings, previewed today.

FLAPPER FASHION

Though it has somewhat a look of the flapper era, Ceil uses the camise top on a full-length satin gown done in the 1912 manner—heavily beaded lace bodice and hemline border. There also are

There are five pages in today's Women's Section versions for cocktail and dinner wear, in various lengths from mid-calf to instep.

* * *

This designer, noted for fashions which glorify the best features of the female form, goes all out for glitter this fall, using bushels of beads, sequins, jewels and paillettes in after-5 fashions as elegant as Lillian Russell at her most flamboyant.

1912 LOOK AGAIN

Equally elegant is the collection of Jo Copeland, the all-American designer who invented the cocktail suit, and who always has had a weakness for sexy styles. She also uses the 1912 look in a series of slender evening dresses of ankle length, such as one in champagne satin encrusted with pounds of beads, and a gold lace confection with a band of black velvet around the above-the-ankle hemline.

* * *

An apricot silk brocade dinner dress is short in front, longer in back, with fan-shaped folds adding back interest and ostrich feathers adding the popular prewar touch to the bodice.

Collared and cuffed with black cape seal, this George Carmel natural-colored coat is of wool and fur mixture. A back belt is placed high between panel-like folds and accents the lower-placed front pockets.

Your Hairdo Will Glitter in Autumn

NEW YORK (INS)—You'll need rhinestones in your hairdo for evening glamor this fall.

The 1912 trend in fashions, which has brought back both longer hair and longer dresses, demands glitter in the hair as well. So for the first time in 10 years, the big jewelry makers are turning out hair ornaments.

There are rhinestone stars, hearts, crescents and comets, all firmly attached to platinum-colored bobbie pins, for the girl who still wears her hair short.

For the girl who has let her hair grow to bun-length, there are rhinestone chignon pins. These are designed to stick up out of the bun thanks to heavy horseshoe-shaped hairpins.

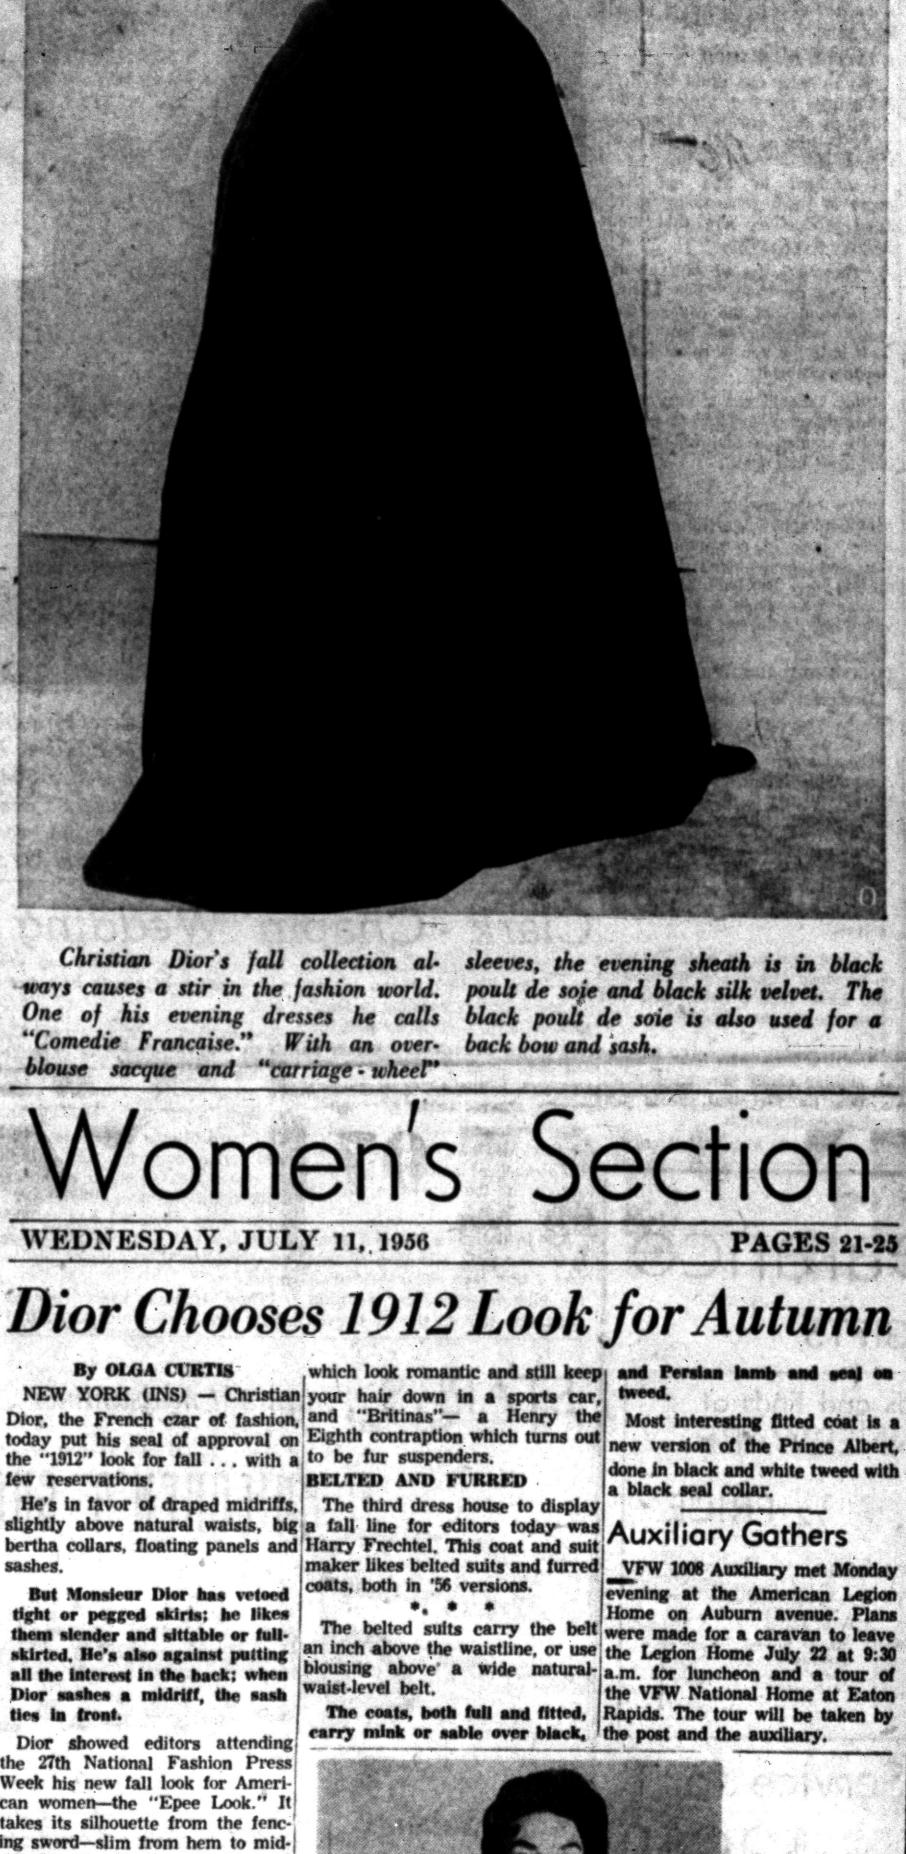
The hair ornaments, which will sell from two to five dollars apiece in fancier versions, can also double as dress clips or as clips on necklaces.

A rhinestone bobbie pin, for instance, could be used to hook several strands of pearls together.

The jewelry firm of Trifari, which displayed the hair ornaments for visiting fashion editors, said the pins could be used singly. Chignon pins, however, look best in pairs—sticking out of your hair at different levels in geisha girl fashion.

Slim and straight to the ankle, this evening dress is of antique gold silk satin. From the collection of Pattulo-Jo Copeland, it is embroidered with gold.



Christian Dior's fall collection always causes a stir in the fashion world. One of his evening dresses he calls "Comedie Francaise." With an overblouse sacque and "carriage-wheel" sleeves, the evening sheath is in black poult de soie and black silk velvet. The black poult de soie is also used for a back bow and sash.

This black and royal blue jacquard sheath from the fall collection of Ceil Chapman has a deep collar extending to the band and bow at the empire waist.

Dior Chooses 1912 Look for Autumn

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK (INS) — Christian Dior, the French czar of fashion, today put his seal of approval on the "1912" look for fall . . . with a few reservations.

He's in favor of draped midriffs, slightly above natural waists, big bertha collars, floating panels and sashes.

But Monsieur Dior has vetoed tight or pegged skirts; he likes them slender and sittable or full-skirted. He's also against putting all the interest in the back; when Dior sashes a midriff, the sash ties in front.

Dior showed editors attending the 27th National Fashion Press Week his new fall look for American women—the "Epee Look." It takes its silhouette from the fencing sword—slim from hem to midriff, like the blade, and wide and curved on top, like the hilt.

The "hilt" part of collars make the "hilt" in the Dior-New York collection. There are all sorts of interesting collars: Split petal collars, caped collars, back-bow collars and big berthas. Some of the collars accent deep-cut necklines.

SOME OLD IDEAS

Dior retains for fall, 1956, some of the ideas he launched in Paris last year. There are big draped stoles and little cropped Caraco jackets, as well as coats with slit sides in the caftan fashion.

* * *

The Dior-New York line features brown for suits and black for coats and dresses, with a liberal sprinkling of red outfits.

Designer Tina Leser, who also showed her fall styles to editors today, has gone back in fashion way past 1912—right to the court of England's Henry the Eighth.

If you've seen portraits of any of Henry's six wives, you've seen the wide square neckline, the slashed sleeve and high bustline that Miss Leser is using in her new designs.

Miss Leser, however, is being quite modern with skirts—all the Henry the Eighth tops are put on simple 1956 skirts.

The jolly Miss Leser, a designer with a sense of humor, has contributed a whole variety of other ideas for fall.

There are "surcoats" which are jackets shaped like cutaways that reach to the hipbone, hooded capes which look romantic and still keep your hair down in a sports car, and "Britinas"— a Henry the Eighth contraption which turns out to be fur suspenders.

BELTED AND FURRED

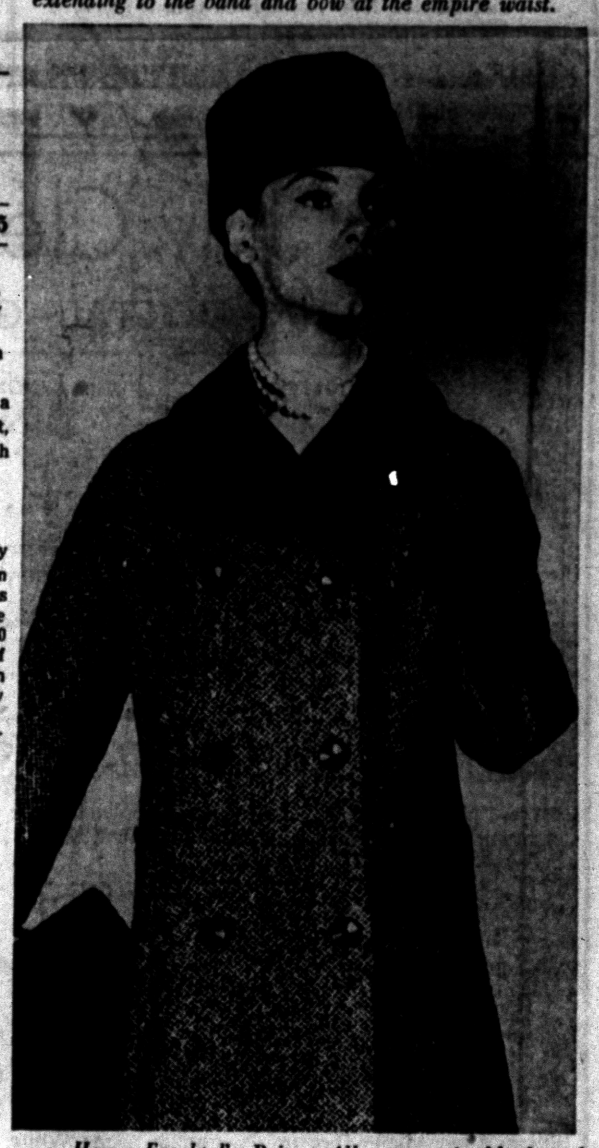
The third dress house to display a fall line for editors today was Harry Frechtel. This coat and suit maker likes belted suits and furred coats, both in '56 versions.

* * *

The belted suits carry the belt an inch above the waistline, or use blousing above a wide natural-waist-level belt.

The coats, both full and fitted, carry mink or sable over black, and Persian lamb and seal on tweed.

Most interesting fitted coat is a new version of the Prince Albert, done in black and white tweed with a black seal collar.



Harry Frechtel's Prince Albert coat in black and white tweed is designed for fall. The notched, flat collar and lapels of black seal emphasize the double-breasted closing with black bone buttons.

This apricot silk brocade dinner dress is short in front, longer in back, with fan-shaped folds adding back interest and ostrich feathers lending the popular prewar touch to the bodice. It was designed by Jo Copeland who invented the cocktail suit.

Auxiliary Gathers

VFW 1008 Auxiliary met Monday evening at the American Legion Home on Auburn avenue. Plans were made for a caravan to leave the Legion Home July 22 at 9:30 a.m. for luncheon and a tour of the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids. The tour will be taken by the post and the auxiliary.

Mrs. Bickerstaff Opens Home to Church Group

Mrs. David Bickerstaff of Fenmore drive opened her home Tuesday evening to the Women's Society of World Service of the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Highlights from the state WSWS convention were the theme of the meeting, at which Mrs. Phillip Waldie presided.

Mrs. Alford Bell spoke on children's work and Mrs. Waldie presented the program for the coming year.

Mrs. Grant Burlison gave devotions and Mrs. Myron Everett led the group in prayer. Reports were given by Mrs. George Hollis, Mrs. Cecil Leggett, Mrs. Lewis Ball and Mrs. Barbour Williams.

* * *

Mrs. Bell was cohostess with her daughter for the meeting.

MOMS Group Enjoys Picnic

Mrs. E. K. Vanderlind opened her home on South Johnson avenue Tuesday to members of Unit Two, MOMS of America, Inc., for a picnic luncheon and meeting.

Devotions were led by Mrs. David Edwards and the business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harry Luxon, president. Reports were read from the national board meeting.

* * *

Mrs. Bessie Clark will be hostess to the group for the August meeting.

BARBARA ANNE KITZMILLER

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kitzmiller of Elizabeth Lake road announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Anne, to Robert R. Locher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Locher of Marco Island, Fla. A September wedding is planned.

Brand new is this lightweight, waterproof set for women golfers. It's made up of zippered jacket, adjustable skirt and roomy cap in plastic film. Fully cut jacket has handy pockets, the flared skirt is wrap-around style, and the cap is designed to protect the entire hairdo.

Thread count on a sheet should be balanced between warps and filling. Typical counts on good sheets are 72-68 or 94-86. To allow for shrinkage and tuck-in, sheets should be 108 inches long. Seconds or irregulars may have imperfections in weave, size or finish. When buying these, one ought to look closely and unfold the garment all the way.

Shoes Can Be Washed

Washable shoes come in sailcloth, plastic simulated straw, vinyl plastic, rubberized cloth and terrycloth.

Colors are as varied as one could wish in patterns that include stripes, polka dots, two-tones.

Keeping these shoes clean is a matter of moving quickly when they get soiled. It's easier to get out a small smudge than to work on the whole shoe.

Cleaning should be done with suds and a brush. Don't immerse the shoe completely unless it's labeled washable.

A bowl of stiffly beaten suds should be nearby, for dipping the brush. First wipe the insole to remove perspiration.

Stuff the shoe with tissue paper or a clean cloth to keep it in shape. Spot clean the outside. To get out dirt lodged between upper and sole, use the brush.

After entire shoe is washed, rinse the sponge or brush and mop away suds.

Shoes should be dried outside in the shade or indoors at room temperature.

You'll Get Job if You Really Want It

By ANNE HEYWOOD

A 25th anniversary of anything — a marriage, birthday, or graduation from college — is all right until you begin to think of it as a quarter of a century. Then it really does loom large and rather frightening.

* * *

"A quarter of a century ago . . ." you find yourself thinking — and then you clamp down on your mind.

This year my friend, Alma, attended her college reunion — the 25th!

"I had such mixed feelings," she told me.

"Of course, we all look older, and most of us have grown children.

"The pictures that were taken when we were graduated looked so dated and awful — the hairdos and the clothes. I began to think that a quarter of a century is a pretty long time.

A LITTLE RESEARCH

"So to take my mind off it, I did a little research project. I decided to find out just what the 'girls' — silly adjective for us now, I must say — were up to.

I decided to find out how many of them were doing something productive, now that their children were grown.

"There's a lot of talk about it," she went on. "You know, little studies of the college-educated housewife and how difficult it is for her to re-enter the business world.

"But I found out a very interesting thing: Every one of us who really wanted a job, full-time or part-time, had one!

* * *

"You can analyze trends and complain about dearths of opportunity, lack of community services and close-minded employers all you like. The truth of it is the woman who wants a job — even when she is in her 40s — gets it."

COLUMNIST AGREES

That has been my experience, too.

* * *

The woman who swears her community offers no opportunity for her talents is the woman who doesn't want to use her talents.

I know women in one-horse towns who have dug up a job against all possible odds, even if they had to invent it for themselves.

I know women in their 50s with no previous experience in business who have landed jobs, just because they meant business.

* * *

The next time your hear a woman sighing about how hard it all is, face the fact that she is just making conversation.

She wants to look "intellectual," needle her husband into making more money, make her children feel sorry for her or make her friends think she's dynamic.

But if she really wants a job, she gets it!

If you are having trouble getting started at this yourself, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my pamphlet, The Older Woman Goes to Business.

Clark - Chapin Wedding Vows Read

A gown of French lace over satin was worn by Cleo JoAnn Chapin for her Saturday wedding to Thomas Lee Clark. Cleo is the daughter of the Charles D. Chapins of North Roselawn avenue drive and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clark of Ellwood avenue are his parents.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Maynard Oesterle of Bethel Evangelical and Reformed Church in the presence of 150 guests.

The bridal gown was of French lace over satin with long sleeves and a tiny lace collar accenting the high neckline. Her bouffant skirt was tier on tier of French lace over tulle. A Juliet cap of lacea and seed pearls held her veil.

She carried a satin covered Bible with an arrangement of white orchids, shattered carnations and ivy streamers and wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Barbara Chapin wore melon colored nylon over net and taffeta for her duties as maid of honor. Bridesmaid Carolyn White wore green nylon over net and taffeta. A yellow nylon gown was worn by Geraldine Clark, junior bridesmaid.

They carried satin covered fans with arrangements of tinted carnations and headbands of matching colored carnations.

Charles Huttula was best man. Arthur Clark of Birmingham, Roy White and Robert Husband were ushers.

A reception was held in the church parlors followed by an open house at the home of the bride's parents.

Guest Asks What Rules to Follow

Nothing Is Expected of Those Invited to Dinner Party

By EMILY POST

"Several weeks ago I met the wife of my husband's employer at a large tea and cocktail party. She has now invited us to a dinner party at her house, and I would like to know what is the correct procedure.

"Do I take a box of candy, write a thank-you note after the dinner, or invite her to dinner at my house to repay my obligation?"

Answer: You do not take anything and neither do you write a thank-you note. In short, nothing is expected of you — unless she should invite you several times and you become real friends. Then you should return her hospitality in whatever way you can.

"Dear Mrs. Post: A club to which I belong is giving a barbecue shortly. About a month ago I asked a girl, whom I had gone out with two or three times before, to go with me. She accepted.

"Just recently, however, I met another girl at a party. I am very keen about her and would like to have her go with me instead.

"Can I possibly ask this second girl to go with me without hurting the feelings of the first? I would very much appreciate hearing fom you on this matter."

Answer: Having asked the first, you cannot possibly ask a second. But in the future you can ask the second as often as you please.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Next week my mother and I are planning to go to the wedding of my mother's niece. When the usher escorts my mother to her seat, do I follow them alone or do I wait at the back of the church until he comes back for me?"

Answer: If there are plenty of ushers, you wait at the back of the church for one of them to take you. Otherwise you walk on the other side of your mother and go up the aisle three abreast.

Soft pastel felts are new. They're pliable enough to travel in style and so light in weight they go well with silks and cottons.

There are the bright color velvets for pre-fall and the soft pastel felts. Vibrant but not blatant fall colors are softly muted but rich in depth and will go with early black silk and cotton dresses.

Summer Pedicure Is Beauty 'Must'

Summer pedicure is a "must", for open sport shoes, sandales, the beach. In summer, your toes show. Make them show you at your best, neatly pedicured.

Technique is virtually the same as with the manicure, and the same care, not to clip the skin, should be exercised. Treat nicks and bruises immediately by applying cotton squares, soaked in good quality witch hazel.

Westwood Village Prospectus Now Ready

Advocates Plan to Issue Report in Southfield

Ballots Ask Residents to Pick Between Three Courses of Action

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP—After a two-week delay, the petitions to form Westwood Village, a home-rule community, will be circulated this weekend, according to Ted Shurtleff, chairman of the East and West Beverly Hills and Berkshire Hills subdivision incorporation committee.

Distribution of 1,500 copies of a detailed report on the advantages of home-rule village will begin Friday, he said.

A proposed budget with an estimated $7.25 tax per $1,000 of assessed valuation will be among items in the report, he says.

The area proposed for incorporation is in the northern part of the township and covers 14 per cent of the land area which now pays 25 per cent of collected taxes.

The boundaries would be from Greenfield to Evergreen Roads between 13 and 14 Mile Roads and from Evergreen to the eastern boundary of Bingham Farm Village between 12½ and 14 Mile Roads.

Ballots will be issued by the Greenfield-Beverly Improvement Assn. to determine whether they prefer incorporation with Southfield, annexation to Birmingham, or incorporation as a home-rule village, Shurtleff said.

Charles Shull, president of the Berkshire Hills Protective Assn., said a recent poll of Berkshire subdivision showed 95.5 per cent opposed Southfield annexation.

Members of the association voted unanimously to endorse the Westwood Village plan, he added.

Lathrup Judge Refuses Council

Asked to Resume Job; Mayor Endorses Action on Police Strength

LATHRUP VILLAGE — Leonard V. Pylkas, who quit as Justice of the Peace here last week, was asked to withdraw his resignation by City Council in a two hour session before the regular meeting Monday night.

* * *

It was also court night. Hearings were postponed for two weeks because no judge was available.

"The bone of contention is the inadequate volunteer police force," Pylkas said last week. Police Lt. Dave Bourgeois, who also submitted his resignation, said, "I agree with Pylkas."

Mayor John Campbell said he agrees with council which feels the police force is adequate for the one and one-half square mile, 3,000 populated area.

"We had no trouble here until Bourgeois, a professional policeman, wanted to put the Lathrup Police force on a professional basis," he added.

When contacted today, Pylkas said he did not intend to withdraw his resignation.

ROCHESTER—Village Manager Robert A. Slone made several recommendations regarding improving the area around the Sewage Treatment Plant, rezoning problems, and storm sewers this week.

He presented recommendations to regulate operation of a sanitary land fill on village owned land adjacent to the sewage treatment plant. The council forwarded them to the Avon Township Board.

Manager Slone was also authorized to employ earth-moving equipment to rough grade village property north of Woodward street.

The finished grade will be planted along the north and east sides.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mitchell, 520 First St., who requested a zoning change in the Renshaw addition, were instructed to circulate a petition.

Persons signing the petition should be informed that each lot have an area of 6,400 square feet before a permit would be granted for a two family dwelling, the council pointed out.

Stocks Continue Irregular Rise

NEW YORK (AP)—The trend in the stock market continued irregularly higher in early trading today.

After an active opening the pace slowed.

Industrial shares which made a late advance yesterday following news of President Eisenhower's decision to remain as a candidate for re-election faded somewhat today.

Steels and motors were slightly off but rails continued higher in a follow-through from their advance yesterday. The chemical group also showed a solid front of plus signs.

The opening blocks included Radio Corp., yesterday's most active stock, up ⅜ at 44½ on 4,000 shares.

Other opening blocks were Caterpillar off 1 at 93 on 1,000 shares in the wake of its big advance yesterday, General Electric up ¼ at 62 on 1,500, General Motors off ⅛ at 46⅞ on 2,500 shares and U. S. Steel off ⅛ at 60¼ on 2,000.

Aircrafts were fairly steady. Glenn L. Martin picked up nearly a point. Other gainers in the 1-point zone included Union Pacific, Royal Dutch and Allied Chemical.

Anaconda and Kennecott leaned a bit higher despite news of copper price cuts.

SYMBOLIC—Layman's eye view of the pilot of the future is assembled in front of robot-controlled helicopter to symbolize electronic control which replaces a human at the stick. Demonstration of the craft was recently made at Fort Belvoir, Va., by Kaman Aircraft Corp., which is building a model of the camera-carrying ship for testing by Defense Department. Pilot went along for the ride to conform to regulations, but did not handle the controls.

Grants Boosting Professors' Pay

Ford Foundation Gifts Set Up to Lure More Money From Others

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—The Ford Foundation regards the 260 million dollars it is giving colleges and universities to raise faculty salaries as a challenge to other donors, a foundation official said Tuesday.

* * *

"The last thing in the world the foundation's trustees or officers would wish is for anyone to conclude that the college faculty salary program is solved by this action," Foundation Secretary Joseph M. McDaniel told a gathering of college public relations officials.

"It is not solved. Indeed, only the slightest inroad has been made into it," he said.

He called the 260 million "no mean sum" but noted it is not as large as it appears. He said it is in the form of endowments to colleges and they can use only interest from the money over the next 10 years as salary increases.

38,000 PAY RAISES

This means, McDaniel added, it will provide pay boosts of about four per cent for 38,000 faculty members at those schools receiving the grants.

It does not cover 212,000 others at state institutions and private schools which failed to qualify for the grants.

"The foundation regards its grants as 'challenge grants'—and the challenge is to any and all who are interested in the same problems which concern the foundation," McDaniel said.

* * *

"In a large sense, this means the general public, and in a specific sense it means the very public with which you have to deal: Your alumni, friends, business, industry and in the case of the public institutions your state legislatures or other governmental bodies that fund your enterprise," he added.

Plenty of Jobs for Blind, Association Official Says

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There are more jobs for blind persons than there are blind to fill them, but so many employers have mental blocks against hiring the blind that only 20,000 of 90,000 blind employables have jobs.

That picture was given to the American Assn. of Workers for the Blind at its annual convention yesterday by President Joseph F. Clunk of Philadelphia.

"In no case is blindness of itself a bar to gainful work, and the big task we face is to overcome prejudices in hiring," Clunk said.

Statistics show that the percentage of American consumer income spent for pork dropped to 1.9 per cent in 1955 from 2.5 per cent in 1949, a decline of 25 per cent.

Priest Convicted, Freed on Road-Building Count

ACQUI, Italy (AP) — Don Lugi Schiavetta, an energetic young priest, has been given a five month suspended sentence for illegally building a road to his isolated village.

Nine other members of his "Committee of the Road" were found guilty of helping him.

Don Schiavetta is the pastor at Giglione, which had no direct road to nearby towns. The priest asked land owners to allow a road to be built across their property. When they refused, he formed his committee and built the road anyway.

The American Dental Assn. says that Americans bought 120 million tooth brushes in 1954, a year when the country had 158 million people over two years old.

Americans Wait, Wait —and Wait for Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Twenty-eight auto trailers in which American families are touring Europe pulled into St. Peter's Square on Monday.

The tourists, mostly from Pennsylvania, Oregon, Ohio, Florida, Michigan, New York, Louisiana and California, waited for some time in hopes Pope Pius XII would appear in his Vatican apartment window as he often does. But the pontiff didn't show up. He was receiving 30 officers and cadets from a Brazilian naval training ship.

Some instances have been reported in which a group of several eagles have attacked and killed small deer, but many observers deny that such attacks are often made.

Atoms Wooing Asia to Freedom

Recent Visitor Praises U.S. Plans to Construct A-Lab in Philippines

EAST LANSING (AP)—A Michigan State University professor, just returned from a tour of Asia, said Tuesday atomic energy has given the free world one of its greatest peacetime victories.

* * *

Dr. Harold B. Tukey, head of the MSU Horticulture Department, was interviewed following a three-month Far Eastern tour with a team of top U. S. scientists.

He told of U. S. plans to start construction next year on a multimillion dollar nuclear center in the Philippines to offer 14 Asiatic nations the peacetime benefits of atomic energy.

The U. S. team visited Japan, India, Indonesia, Pakistan, Thailand, Burma, Nepal, Ceylon, Laos, Siam, Cambodia, Vietnam, Malaya and the Philippines.

TO BLOCK COMMUNISM

Purpose of the trip was to aid these countries and attempt to save them from Communism, Tukey said.

One answer, he said, is a 35 million dollar nuclear center scheduled for construction next year at the University of the Philippines, Manila.

"The center already has given new prominence and prestige to the free world among Far Eastern countries," Tukey said.

* * *

"It represents one of our trump cards in the game of international poker," he added.

The first chief benefits from the project will be to agriculture and medicine, both of vital interest in the Far East, Tukey said.

Program Keyed to Friendliness

Bandleader and Singer Helen O'Connell Exude Smiling Charm

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—The success of ABC-TV's Lawrence Welk Show has inspired all the networks to their busiest artistic endeavor, which is imitation, so now we must undergo a trend we might as well describe as "Welkin ringing."

* * *

Having analyzed the success of this Welkin trend, CBS must have decided what was needed was essentially not so much the best in popular music but the friendliest, and on Saturday evening fielded its first imitation of the season, "The Russ Morgan Show."

On this basis of sheer niceness, CBS had its hired hands dig up one of the friendliest, nicest fellows of the popular music business, the Russ Morgan of the show's title, a large gentle-bear hearty type.

Morgan has been filling the air with a fine grade of cornball jazz for several decades, tooting a highly individual brand of wah-wah trombone and rattling off an enthusiastic ragtime piano.

He has a pleasantly husky singing voice and a smile that is genuine and unforced.

The smile lights up to a level of geniality you sense is pure satisfaction with the owner's place in the entertainment forefront, a suspicion confirmed when Morgan took a two-bar rest to voice his preference for this life as compared with coal mining, an occupation he once practiced.

THE RIGHT TRACK

Starting with such a pure and likeable personality, CBS would seem to be on the right track, and the selection of Helen O'Connell, graduate of Jimmy Dorsey's best broadcasting and recording days, was a pretty wholesome exclamation point indeed.

Miss O'Connell has a smile which illuminates with even more candlepowered sincerity than Russ Morgan's, and though she has a voice which hardly will send Jo Stafford enviously packing, it does have a sort of hip and happy competence backed up always by that wonderful visual warmth and incandescence.

They say a singer's voice seems far better if the owner has extra telegenic attributes, and this we professionally and personally believe.

Miss O'Connell did not especially get to us during her radio-recording Dorsey days—but now that we have seen her and have basked in the clear glow of such dimpled and undoubted TV pleasantness, we have undergone a not in the least reluctant change of mind and ear. The eyes, in TV, have it.

* * *

Now for the negative side of "The Russ Morgan Show." Seems to us the production and direction lagged and dragged where a constantly bright and pleasant pace could have kept things bubbling (ah there, Lawrence Welk).

MEANINGLESS TALK

The dialogue was meaningless small talk for the most part. On the Lawrence Welk Show, CBS please note, the between-numbers talk is limited to the skimpiest introductions and appreciations of the artists, and off they bubble into each succeeding ensemble or solo performance.

* * *

"The Russ Morgan Show" started off with precisely the right pleasant stars and then let them drag their feet when they should have been effervescing.

Bonds Attract Voters

STAMBAUGH (AP) — Two $25 savings bonds offered by merchants to attract voters to the polls may have accounted for the record turnout of 1,562 voters at a special school board election Monday in Stambaugh. Mrs. Arthur Carlson and Dr. Charles A. Cooper won the two vacant posts in a record field of 12 candidates.

Founder of Dairy Dies

SAGINAW (AP) — Richard T. Watson, 64, founder of the Watson Dairy Co. of Saginaw, died Tuesday. Watson retired last year after selling an interest in his company to the McDonald Cooperative Dairy Co. of Flint. Watson's firm was a large ice cream distributor in eastern Michigan.

Red Women Declare Scorn for Sex Appeal

By EARL WILSON

MOSCOW—"We Russian women don't believe in sex appeal," the Russian glamor gal Irina Skobtseva said recently at the Cannes Film Festival.

"The Russian women don't—but the Russian men do!" replied an American friend of mine.

For an especially sexy effect some of the Russian gals wear white bras that show through black transparent blouses.

One pretty Russian doll seemed to have a couple of rhinestones shining through her blouse, gilding the lily.

I went to a fashion show at "Gum" (pronounced Goom), the big department store, to look into this.

I wished to see a Russian model, Tamara.

London fashion models here for an exhibition had become excited over her and invited her to London.

Tamara and a dozen other models minced up and down as at an American fashion show . . . a pianist and fiddler in shirt sleeves played modeling music . . . including "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

Then out came a boy model!

He wore Moscow's newest thing—patch pockets, a belt in the back, and four buttons in front—which Irving Heller and Cy Martin are pushing right now in New York.

I met Tamara in the "director's" office.

Very smart, she wore an Italian hairdo, high heels, and a red-and-white taffeta sheath with fly-away panels which the B. W. said was new in New York last fall.

It'll be new in Moscow this fall—as this was the autumn showing.

The London fashion models are quite disappointed about the Russian men.

"We hoped we'd have to fight our way out of all sorts of compromising positions with them," one English model related. "Instead, we've been reduced to the indignity of going out with British and American newspapermen. The Russians have ignored us.

"The Russian men," she said, "are carrying that don't-mix-with-foreigners idea too far."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . .

Rebels Weakening Grip on Cyprus?

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The man directing British antiterrorist operations on Cyprus believes the backbone of the EOKA extremist campaign is "severely bent" and may soon be broken.

"Once we get Grivas," says Brig. George Baker, "I think the rest will crumble."

He was referring to 58-year-old Greek Col. George Grivas, supposed to be operational leader of the EOKA underground organization which is pressing for immediate union of Cyprus with Greece. The British have offered $28,000 for his capture.

* * *

Baker, chief of staff to Gov. Sir John Harding, predicts that by autumn the EOKA will be a "fairly spent force."

* * *

"We have evidence that they are running short of arms," he said. "I am more optimistic now than I was three months ago."

He added that "there are also definite signs that EOKA is becoming unpopular" among the island's overwhelmingly Greek Cypriot population.

President Sends Birthday Greeting to Granny, 102

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Lawson, whose hair began to gray only a year or so ago, is 102 today — and among her well wishers is the President of the United States.

A birthday card from President Eisenhower is among Mrs. Lawson's proudest possessions, as is a letter from Gov. A. B. Chandler thanking her for her support.

An ardent supporter of the governor, who took office last December, Mrs. Lawson said: "I reckon you could say I campaigned for him from my wheel chair."

Asked how she would vote in November if Gov. Chandler receives the Democratic presidential nomination and runs against Eisenhower, Mrs. Lawson snapped: "I'm a Democrat." She said she believes, though, that Ike is as much a Democrat as he is a Republican.

Grandma Lawson, remarkably agile of mind, keeps up with her reading without glasses. And for women who wish to stay young she offers this advice:

"Live good and be good."

Traffic Fatalities Show July Rise

State Officials Report 49 Deaths for Month; 826 for 1st Part of '56

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's traffic situation took a turn for the worse this month, state officials said today.

Joseph A. Childs, state police commissioner, told the State Safety Commission 49 persons lost their lives in Michigan traffic during the first eight days of July.

This was an increase of 12 over the same period last year, he said.

The record for the period ending June 30 shows 826 persons were killed during the first six months of the year, a six per cent drop from the figure for the same period last year.

June was the month of most improvement over last year, Childs said. Traffic deaths during June, 1956 were down 96 from June, 1955. "We will have to go right through the winter months with our program if we expect to show any appreciable adjustment at the end of the year," Childs said.

Last year, he said, there was no decrease in fatalities after Labor Day as there usually is, he said.

Secy. of State James M. Hare said a ruling of Judge Marvin J. Salmon of Ingham County Circuit Court "dealt a blow" to the state's safety program.

Salmon held last month that the state cannot refuse to renew licenses of drivers because of "bad driving records."

Hare said the state denied 10,000 renewals last year.

Power Company Gives Land to Battle Creek

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Consumers Power Co. has given the city of Battle Creek a piece of downtown property worth $750,000.

Mayor Frank C. Wagner said the 56-acre millpond and millrace would cut $550,000 from the construction costs of the city's highway and railroad relocation project now in progress. The city took over the property yesterday.

The millrace originally provided power for a hydro-electric substation built 65 years ago. The station was taken out of service in 1953.
