Volcanic Cracks Appear

AP Wirephoto

THIS WAS A ROAD—Roy Essoyan, Associated Press correspondent, leaps across a crack that a volcanic outburst opened up in a sugar plantation road near the Hawaii Island village of Kapoho. Another outburst opened still another crater and sent additional lava toward the village where a number of houses were destroyed. Kapoho, a village of 75 homes, was destroyed by an earthquake in 1924.

Wife Tells Press of Lava Flow

Former Pontiac Resident Charts Hawaiian Quakes

By HARRY REED

A former Pontiac resident was the first to learn of the earthquakes which preceded the volcanic eruptions which have torn the island of Hawaii since Monday.

On continuous duty since the lava began to flow is Burton J. Loucks, instrument repairman and former Pontiac Motor die maker. He is employed at the Volcano Observatory in the Hawaii National Park, the government's alarm clock for warnings of such fiery eruptions.

The Pontiac Press contacted his wife, Mrs. Ruth Loucks today by telephone in Hawaii as further eruptions threatened to engulf the entire tip of the island, largest in the Hawaiian archipelago.

"I'm safe, and so are our children, Burton John Jr., 11, and Carol Sue, 9," she stated. "We're about 35 miles from the scene of the eruptions, the village of Pahoa," but we can see the smoke quite plainly," she added.

LOUCKS

"I flew over the eruptions twice last night," Mrs. Loucks said "and the lava fountains seem to be forming one giant crater now, with one particular fountain spraying hot lava very high."

Loucks, who maintains the seismograph equipment at the Volcano observatory, recorded more than 100 quakes Monday shortly before the lava began to pour from the earth.

"About an hour after the quakes, the eruptions began pouring out the molten stone, and its been that way ever since," Mrs. Loucks stated.

Tornado Rips Into Tennessee

Damage Heavy; Three Injured as Storm Hits Rural District

MITCHELLVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A tornado struck along the Kentucky-Tennessee border here late last night, injured three persons and destroyed or damaged about 15 buildings.

The storm first struck a rural area just west of here, then swept down the main street of this town of 300 persons. The City Hall was destroyed and every other building along the street was damaged.

Most seriously injured was Bobby Hinton ,25, of Mitchellville. He was hospitalized for treatment of a possible broken foot. He was hit by a brick from a disintegrating garage.

Two unidentified persons were hurt slightly when the storm damaged their home at State Line, a rural community 2½ miles to the west.

A garage was blown across U.S. highway 31W at State Line and set down on the other side.

Jack Cejnar of Cincinnati, a Florida-bound motorist, said he and his wife saw the storm strike during a heavy rain.

"It was a very dark cloud," he said. "I heard a whine above the terrific beat of rain on the roof top and the air was full of corn stalks, and roofs, telephone poles, tree limbs and a tangle of wire."

Anti-Fluoridation Statement Untrue

NEW ORLEANS — "No court, attorney general of the State of Louisiana or city attorney of New Orleans has ruled that fluoridation of city water is against the law," declares James H. Gillis here.

This is in direct answer to a letter appearing in the Voice of the People in the Pontiac Press which levied half a dozen false charges against fluoridation. One of them asserted that "in New Orleans, fluoridation is against the law."

Lava Streams Toward Ocean; Damage Soars

$2 Million Loss Seen as Hawaiian Homes Are Engulfed

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP)—Two rivers of lava, fed by two half-mile-long fissures and lava fountains belching 500 feet in the air, moved closer to the sea today, leaving in their wake an estimated two million dollars damage.

Canefield, timber and at least nine homes were buried in steaming lava. A village of 70 homes was a ghost town, virtually isolated by the molten rivers.

The lava flows may reach the sea today.

This sparsely settled Puna district of eastern Hawaii is about half the size of Manhattan. For five days it has rocked and cracked under the strains of volcanic eruptions and earthquakes. Four hundred of its residents are homeless.

The steaming lava streams cut a two-mile-wide swath across the rich cane land for four miles.

Twenty square miles of the district, on the gentle slopes of Kilauea, is forbidden to all except civil defense officials and a few property owners. The area is studded with large earth cracks.

Kapoho, evacuated Monday, will be cut off once the lava streams pouring around it plunge into the sea, about a mile away.

The tiny village lost at least five houses Thursday midnight to the lava flow. Most homes were not damaged but, isolated by lava fields, they will be worthless.

Lava flows take months and sometimes years to cool. One property owner said "you could not bulldoze your way through it in 50 years."

Much of the cane acreage which provided a living for the residents was under 10 feet of smoking lava.

A few property owners worked their way back along the crackling lava flows to Kapoho yesterday morning. They said they found three dogs fast asleep on porches.

In the center of the town the only damage noted was three cracks in the main road.

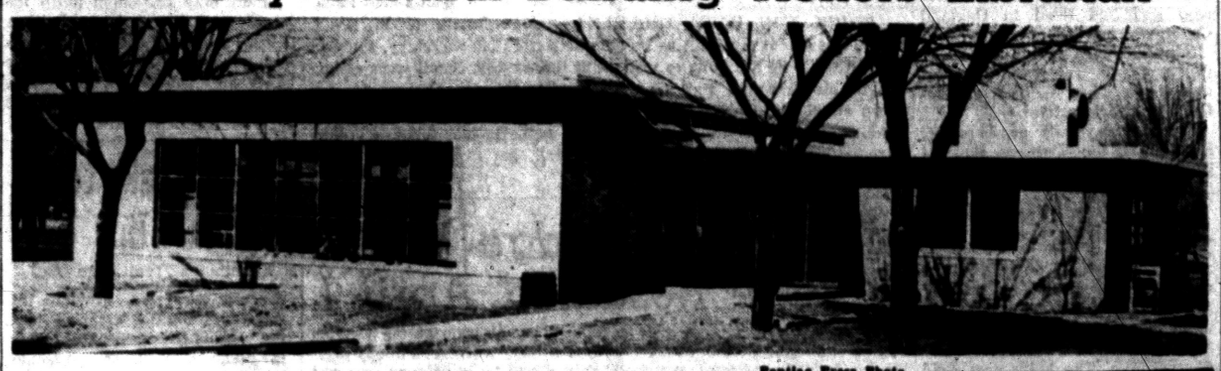

Colder Weather Returns to City

Cold weather has returned to the Pontiac area, bringing promise of light snow tonight and tomorrow.

Following a drop in temperatures yesterday, the mercury hit a high of 34 yesterday and continued dropping to a low of 27. In downtown Pontiac at 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer reading stood at 26 degrees, rising only slightly to 31 by 2 p.m.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says tonight will bring a low of 22 to 28 with a high tomorrow of 32 to 36 degrees. Monday will continue cloudy and colder with a few snow flurries.

New City Cultural Building Honors Librarian

NEW ADAH SHELLY LIBRARY—To be dedicated Sunday at 4 p. m. is the new Adah Shelly Library at Rundell and Glenwood Sts. An open house for the public, sponsored by the Pontiac Federation of Women's Clubs, from 2 to 6 p. m. will introduce this new combination library and community facility for the north side. It is named for Miss Adah Shelly who has served this city for nearly 30 years as library director. It is located in a park area owned by the city. Besides the floor which includes the large reading and book rooms, the lower story features a spacious community room with its own outside entrance.

Dedication Ceremony Slated Sunday for Pontiac's New Adah Shelly Library

Pontiac will pay tribute Sunday afternoon to its head librarian when a 4 o'clock dedication ceremony will officially open the new Ada Shelly Library at Glenwood and Rundell Sts.

Located on a wooded site planned as a future park for the City of Pontiac, the new two-story Norman brick building will serve the north side of Pontiac as both a library and a community facility.

An open house program, sponsored by Pontiac Federation of Women's Clubs, has been planned for Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m.

The building, which cost more than $75,000, has a glass front with floor plan including glass-enclosed entrance hall, large reading room lined with birch bookshelves, glass partitioned work rooms and a librarian's office. Featured on the basement floor are rest rooms, supply closets, storage rooms and a large community room with a separate entrance. In the future, the spacious storage room may become a community workshop area.

A cinder block faced-brick building, the interior walls are in soft pastels reflecting an abundance of natural light. Peach has been selected for the library walls with accessories in birch woods and the colors of brown, green and orange. Asphalt tile is used on all the floors.

Containing 4,756 square feet of floor space, the building was designed by the L. J. Heenan architectural firm of Pontiac. J. A. Fredman Construction Co. was the contractor.

Pontiac's library history goes back nearly 75 years. In 1882 the Ladies Library Association was founded as a subscription program and was housed in the Press-Gazette Building.

In 1899 it moved into its own library building at the corner of Williams and Lawrence Sts. This was built from bequests from Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Stout. Miss Ella M. Green, a resident of 217 N. Saginaw St., was a member of the original group.

It was not until 1924 that the library was adopted by the city as one of its regular departments under the supervision of the city manager.

Miss Shelly, who has served this community for nearly 30 years, said that library service for the north side has long been one of the aims of the City Library.

"In 1934 we established the first library station for the area in the McCarroll School. This was moved to Oakland Park fire station in 1939 and remained there until 1944. Later a store building on N. Perry St. was rented and occupied for 17 months. Janice Antona and Laura Cobb performed the librarian roles at this branch," said Miss Shelly.

When the rented building was sold in 1946, the north side branch service was discontinued and the bookmobile was the only means of contact.

How Congress Earns Its Keep

Eager Solons Introduce 6,377 Bills in Two Months

WASHINGTON (INS)—If you've been wondering what the 84th Congress did to earn its $7,500-a-year pay raise, you might like to know that members of the House and Senate introduced 6,377 bills during their first two months in session and enacted eight of them into law.

The Senate, meeting a total of 87 hours and 21 minutes from Jan. 5 through Feb. 28, confirmed 18,350 of President Eisenhower's nominations, leaving 1,037 still to work on.

The House met 74 hours and 50 minutes, but representatives easily beat out senators in measures introduced: 4,993 to 1,384.

These figures, reported in the Congressional Record, prove that in some ways the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress got off to a faster start than the Republican 83rd Congress did.

At the same time two years ago, only 5,306 bills had been introduced, and only four of them had become law. The Senate had confirmed only 367 nominations by then, out of the 8,678 submitted by the President in his first weeks at the White House.

The 1954 session of the 83th Congress was something else. Since so many bills were left over from the previous year, members could think up only 1,981 new pieces of legislation by Feb. 28.

Sharpen Your Wits for New Puzzle Game

Can you take a hint?

If you can, you may be able to turn it into a $100 prize when Bonanzagrah, the exciting new puzzle contest, starts Monday in the Pontiac Press.

Bonanzagram offers clues to a message that has certain key letters missing. Your job is sifting the clues and filling in the correct letters to complete the message.

Each puzzle is a real challenges to your wits. Often it will seem that more than one letter could be correct in a given space, but it won't be. That's where the fun comes in.

So don't miss the first of these exciting new puzzles, appearing Monday.

Chevrolet, Ford Claim Top Spot

Both Companies Use Polk Figures in Bid for Sales Title

DETROIT (UP) — Ford and Chevrolet, whose all-out competitive struggle has driven the small auto companies to the wall in a fight for survival, both claimed the title as "America's No. 1" car today on the basis of the same registration figures for 1954.

Both companies used the figures compiled by R. L. Polk Co. from official registration figures in the 48 states and the District of Columbia to claim the title.

Chevrolet said the figures showed it was the champion for the 19th year in a row because Polk had counted 1,417,453 new Chevrolets registered in 1954 compared to 1,400,440 new Fords.

But Ford said those figures had to be broken down further to show the preference of the public. It said the total registration figures included new cars registered to Chevrolet dealers and the company as well as new cars registered to Ford dealers and the company.

Ford said until these figures were subtracted from the total registrations, the figures didn't show how many new Fords and how many new Chevrolets had been registered in the names of retail customers.

So Ford released figures, also compiled by Polk, which showed the total registrations included more than 56,000 new Chevrolets which had been registered in December to Chevrolet dealers and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Downtown Stores Open Monday Night

Pontiac's shoppers were reminded today that, starting next week, they will have two nights each week to visit downtown stores.

The majority of merchants in the downtown area are cooperating in a plan to keep their stores open until 9 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays.

Retail Merchants Assn. officials say that the additional night opening is in answer to requests by numerous shoppers.

Group Studying Jump in Sales After Rumors

Winchell's Name Comes Up as Committee Eyes Legality Angles

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate Banking Committee said today a study is under way to find out whether stock prices are being illegally influenced by "tips and rumors" in the market.

Committee spokesmen disclosed that 20 "unusual" cases involving stocks which suddenly came to life following tips in the market are being probed as part of the general investigation of Wall Street.

The committee said two of the stocks—Pantepec and Amurex Oil—were mentioned by Walter Winchell in a radio-television broadcast but they declined to identify the other securities being probed.

Winchell's name came up during the committee's hearings when American Stock Exchange President Edward T. McCormick testified that emergency action was taken to keep Pantepec from skyrocketing after a broadcast by the columnist.

McCormick said prompt action by the Exchange in suspending trading in the stock for two hours and other measures taken saved some persons from suffering a possible loss of $8 a share on Pantepec.

Winchell said in New York that "no one has ever challenged the accuracy of my report on the company in question." He emphasized that he himself has not "directly or indirectly, now or at any time, any interest in any stock."

Moreover, Winchell declared: "No one has ever suggested that newspapers limit the use of the information they give to the public. Any American citizen has a right to invest his money as he sees fit."

To Reactivate Third Armored

Famed Tank Division to Be Rebuilt at Once in Army Adjustment

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Army announced today that it will increase its armored strength from three to four divisions in the belief that the hard-slugging battle outfits are still vital to success in modern war.

The change is to be accomplished, beginning this month, by rebuilding the Third Armored Division, now only a training unit with 3,000 to 4,000 men at Fort Knox, Ky., into a full-fledged fighting unit of 14,500 men.

A new organization, to be called the "Armored Replacement Training Center," will be established at Fort Knox to take over the training duties handled up to now by remnants of the Third Armored which was deactivated in Europe in 1945.

The increase in armored strength is to be effective despite a belt-tightening program that will reduce the Army from 1,336,000 to 1,025,000 men and trim its total combat divisions from 19 to 15 in the next few months.

Five infantry divisions will be abolished, changing the ground forces setup from 16 infantry divisions and three armored to 11 infantry and four armored.

Atom Sub Nautilus Exceeds Hopes in Test

GROTON, Conn. (INS) — The atomic-powered submarine Nautilus returned to her berth at the Electric Boat Co. plant yesterday, but Navy officials withheld comment on the vessel's overnight cruise in Long Island Sound.

Officials declined to say what tests were conducted during the cruise, or what time the submarine returned to its berth.

In response to questions about the future schedule of tests for the Nautilus, officers said:

"It is hard to say at any one time what will happen next."

They said, however, that other tests will be held in the near future.

Six weeks of exhaustive tests of the submarine have convinced high Navy officials in Washington that the revolution of nuclear propulsion is greater than had been anticipated.

Naval desks are now piled with reports detailing the amazing performance of the atom-driven vessel. The reports have been boiled down into a terse official statement that the Nautilus has "exceeded expectations," but the full story remains to be told.

Whereas the tests started in mid-January with the expectation that the Nautilus would need to replace its atomic fuel about once a year, reliable information now shows that the refueling period can easily be stretched to two or three years.

Naval experts studying the reports are convinced that in the future it will be possible to build atomic ships that will never refuel. In that case, the original fuel built into the engine will outlast the hull.

The Nautilus proved in a deep dive lasting 16 hours off the New England cost last weekend that the day has arrived when man can live and travel in perfect comfort and convenience, for indefinite periods, in the ocean depths.

Naval officials said this crowning achievement of the test series was accomplished without discovering even the usual, and expected, "bugs" in the new submarine.

No flaws in the hull were discovered as the pressure of water increased, and the submarine's atomic power plant performed as silently as an electric motor.

The sustained underwater plunge was made during a 57 hour test cruise from which the 55 million dollar vessel returned Tuesday.

Navy experts who were aboard said the Nautilus' powerful atomic engine operated more perfectly in the depths than it had previously in surface cruises and shallow dives. They commented: "This is a ship built to live in the depths."

Actually, the experts said, the Nautilus has a slight tendency to dive when it is being operated on the surface, because its hull is designed for underwater travel and gets greater speeds from the same amount of power when submerged.

Asked how the Nautilus differs from a conventional sub when submerged, the experts listed these points:

1. It is quieter. The noise in the engine room of a conventional submarine is deafening, whereas in the Nautilus there is only a faint whine of spinning gears.

2. A conventional sub always operates cautiously beneath the surface, because it can operate at full power on its batteries for only a half hour, whereas the Nautilus can proceed boldly at full power indefinitely.

3. The Nautilus is roomier and more comfortable. Equipment that removes carbon dioxide keeps the air purified. If the oxygen supply runs low, oxygen can be extracted from seawater. With no fuel load, there is more space for recreation—movies were shown on the trip just completed.

A total of 148 persons, including more than 50 technical experts and guests in addition to the crew, made the weekend test cruise. Only two dives, the 16-hour submergence and a shorter subsurface test, were executed during the maneuvers. Several surface tests were made.

Navy spokesman said the depths at which the Nautilus can travel are secret, but that it is safe to assume that a depth greater than 400 feet would be possible without crushing the vessel's sturdy hull.

City Man Dies of Suffocation

Victim Found on Floor by Firemen Answering Call

Ottaway Porter, 47, of 109½ W. South Blvd., was dead on arrival to Pontiac General Hospital late last night, after Pontiac firemen found him lying on the floor near the front door of his 3-room home which had been filled with smoke from a minor fire.

Dr. Harry L. Riggs, Oakland County deputy coroner, said the death was due to suffocation.

Fire Lt. Joseph Beach, said two fire trucks were dispatched after an unidentified woman reported the blaze, apparently started by an overheated electric range in the kitchen. An estimated $250 damage was caused by the fire, said Beach.

"We were unable to say whether the man died during the fire of suffocation or before the fire, maybe of a heart-attack," said Beach.

Last night authorities said they would seek an autopsy to determine the cause of death. Today, Capt. Clark M. Wheaten, chief of detectives, said he was satisfied with the coroner's report.

Firemen last night said they had found Porter's small home "slightly messed up." A chair had been overturned, they added.

that most of them were still out to see what they can of the spectacular outbursts of nature.

Residents of the Pahoa village have been evacuated, complete with household furnishings and the stock of stores there, she related. The area is now closed, with lava flows cutting the road in several places.

Loucks, at the scene of the eruptions with Observatory director Dr. Gordon McDonald, is helping plot the speed and direction of lava flows, for warning purposes.

The city of Kapoho is not completely covered, according to reports from Dr. MacDonald, but parts of it lie in pools of lava 12-15 feet deep. The streams of lava flowing for miles from volcano Kilauea's slopes were expected to reach the Pacific some time today.

His brother William, who lives with his family at 81 W. Rundell St. is a grinder operator at Pontiac Motor, and he also has a brother Avery G. Loucks living in Fenton, a sister Mrs. Wilmer (Florence) Squires of Bayport, near Saginaw, and a sister Mrs. Hazel M. Ford of Lapeer.

Mrs. Squires, who contacted her brother briefly yesterday between his visits to the scene of the eruptions, said he was uninjured, but tired. He has been working since Monday with only a few cat-naps of sleep.

William Loucks said last night, "He's been in some tight, hot places, with hitches in both the Navy and Air Force, and a witness to the Pearl Harbor attack, but this is the hottest yet for him, I'll bet."

Joe Haas Predicted Eruptions in Hawaii

Joe Haas, Pontiac Press staff writer and dean of Oakland County newsmen, called the shot on Hawaii's current volcanic eruptions.

During a trip to the islands last month, Joe wrote: "Steam and sulphuric smoke issues from the ground . . . Geologists tell us that it is these vents that postpone another eruption . . . another soon is due."

Pontiac Deaths

Mrs. C. W. Beardslee

Mrs. Chester W. (Mae Elizabeth) Beardslee, 78, of 7600 Pine Knob Rd. died this morning after a four years illness.

Born in Orion Township May 2, 1876, she was the daughter of Jacob and Sarah Sheldon Allen and was married in Lake Orion Nov. 18, 1896.

Mrs. Beardslee attended the Oxford Schools and had lived in Oakland County all her life. She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star.

One daughter survives, Mrs. Mildred B. Webster of Pontiac.

Service will be held Monday at 3 p.m. from the Brace - Smith Funeral Home. The Rev. C. George Widdifield, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church will officiate with burial in Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Nettie L. German

Mrs. Nettie L. German, 74, died at the Square Lake Convalescent Home this morning. She was born Jan. 3, 1881 in Southfield Township and had lived in Oakland County all her life.

Surviving is a son, Fremont D. German of S. Telegraph Rd. and one sister, Mrs. William J. McKinney of Birmingham.

Friends may call at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Pursley Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Juan Ramirez

Prayer service was held at 10 a.m. today from the Pursley Funeral Home for Juan Ramirez, infant daughter of Bernaba and Manuela Molina Ramirez, of 375 Central Ave. The baby was dead at birth Thursday at Pontiac General Hospital.

Surviving besides her parents are three brothers and four sisters, Guadalupe, Felicitas, Filiberto, Xavier, Eliazar, Yolanda and Francisca, all at home.

Burial will be in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Mrs. Martha H. Turnbull

Mrs. Martha H. Turnbull, 71, of 244 Going St. died yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital after an illness of eight days.

Mrs. Turnbull was born in England Feb. 11, 1884, and the daughter of Edwin Hatt. She has lived in Pontiac 37 years, coming here from Canada.

Surviving are eight children, George of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., John of Drayton Plains, Harry, Stanley, Mrs. Einer Loftness, and Mrs. Gerald Zubalik, all of Waterford Township, Herbert and Kathleen, both at home, 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. from the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with Dr. Tom Malone of the Emmanuel Baptist Church officiating. Burial will follow in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Denver Ad Club Makes 'Killing' on 3-Cent Shares

DENVER (AP)—Denver's Advertising Club thinks it has made a good buy on souvenirs for guest speakers.

A few weeks ago the club bought shares at 3 cents each in a Colorado uranium firm (United Uranium Co.) with plans to give a few to each guest speaker.

By the time the first presentation rolled around, Charles Collier of San Francisco, executive vice president of the Advertising Assn. of the West, got a handful of shares selling for 10 cents each.

Texan Held Here for Postal Breakin

A 22-year-old Texas man was being held for federal authorities today in Oakland County Jail on charges of breaking into a San Antonio branch Post Office.

Gilbert D. Perkins, of San Antonio, was arrested Friday by Sheriff Frank W. Irons at 7265 Pontiac Lake Rd. on a tip from Texas authorities.

Perkins said he and two others took $1,400 in bills from the post office last Jan. 21 after breaking open a safe. He said he used his share of the loot to have a good time and finance his trip to Michigan. He has been living here several weeks.

Mackinac Bridge Work May Be Resumed April 1

ST. IGNACE (UP) Construction of the $100,000,000 Mackinac Straits Bridge may be resumed two weeks ahead of schedule this spring, engineers said yesterday.

Charles E. Haltenhoff, project engineer for Merritt, Chapman and Scott, general bridge contractor, said work on the bridge may be resumed as early as April 1.

"There is less ice in the Straits of Mackinac than anyone anticipated," Haltenhoff said. "It is only 10 inches deep at its thickest point and 6 inches or less in other spots.

"And, most important, there have been no ice pileups because it has been a rather mild winter. The way it looks now, we should be able to resume construction about April 1 and no later than April 10."

Haltenhoff said engineers were told by straits-area natives that "we'd be lucky if we were able to resume construction by April 15 and that's the date we have been figuring on all along."

"The actual date construction will be resumed will depend on how much ice is out of here," he said. "But the fact there are no big ice pileups means the ice should disappear without too much of a delay as soon as the weather gets a little warmer. Pileups probably would have delayed any general thaw by a week or two."

Haltenhoff said his firm will employ about 450 men this year while American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel will hire 200 men for a total of about 650 men working on the project.

Employment may near the 1,000 mark later if the two firms decide to put on three eight-hour shifts, he said. Engineers also are considering working two 10-hour or two 12-hour shifts using only 650 men. Employment will be increased only if it is decided to use three eight-hour shifts.

The first season of construction on the bridge, scheduled to be completed in November 1957, was halted Jan. 15 when the straits froze over.

Haltenhoff said engineers feel they got an extra month of construction completed because it was generally believed work would have to be halted about Dec. 15 or Dec. 31 at the latest.

Meanwhile, first major shipments of structural steel are expected to start arriving at the straits soon after March 15, Haltenhoff said.

Steel will be shipped here from U. S. Steel plants in Gary, Ind., and Ambridge, Pa., where it is now being fabricated. Some of it will arrive by rail while other shipments will be made by boat.

enacted into law during those two months and 7,046 nominations were confirmed, which shows what Congress can do when it means business. During that period, the Senate sat 183 hours and 12 minutes, the House 66 hours and 50 minutes.

In all three years, senators far surpassed House members in the all-important art of talking — quantity-wise anyway. It took 1,036 pages of the Congressional Record to set down Senate proceedings for the first two months of this year, but only 868 pages for the House.

Last year at this time, the figures were 1,600 for the Senate and 656 for the House; the year before, they were 966 and 588.

Neither House seemed as interested in finding out how many members were on hand this year as they were in 1953 and 1954. Thus far, in the 84th Congress, there have been only 13 quorum calls, compared with 22 by this time in 1953 and 49 in 1954.

Incidentally, if vetoes are any indication of how the President is getting along with Congress, he hasn't found it necessary yet this year to turn thumbs down on any legislation.

The same thing was true for the first two months of the 83rd Congress, but, during January and February of last year, Eisenhower vetoed five bills. None of his vetoes was overridden.

Library Dedication Is Scheduled Sunday

physician at the Pontiac State Hospital, became available. The sum of $6,700 was set aside as the beginning of a building fund.

In 1948 the city earmarked $30,000 toward a building and plans were drawn for it at this time. By 1953 additional funds were established from the city capital improvement funds and plans were drawn for the actual construction, begun in 1954.

The main library is the parent institution for the activities of both the Adah Shelly branch on Rundell and the small branch on South Sanford St. The bookmobile and the school stations are administrated from here, too. Book buying and processing is carried on at the main branch with its total inventory standing at 53,747 books.

From 1927 to 1932 a library bookmobile service was instituted but discontinued temporarily during the depression in 1932.

In 1947 this library on wheels once more went into operation with a larger bookmobile which can handle 4,000 volumes purchased in 1952.

Miss Shelly says she likes the modern concept of library service which designs libraries to provide not only books, but to offer many services that can be given to citizens through dissemination of information.

Texas School Board Fires 200 Teachers

IRVING, Tex. (INS)—An independent school board in Dallas County has fired more than 200 teachers and administrative employes who stayed away from their jobs for the third straight day in protest against the dismissal of former Supt. John L. Beard of Irving.

The mass dismissal, after two days warning, was ordered by Irving School Board President Charles S. Young who said he had plenty of applications from "all over the country" to fill the vacancies.

Young said teachers who did not show up today or obtain permission to remain away because of illness, had terminated their contracts.

About 700,000 homes in the U.S. are broken each year by the death of the husband or the wife.

Atom Sub Exceeds All Hopes in Test

Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, who directed the construction of the Nautilus, was not aboard for the deep-diving tests, but only because he was back in Washington dealing with problems that go still further into the era of atomic power and propulsion.

Rickover is directing the planning, design or construction of six more atomic submarines, and is also in charge of the nation's first full-scale peace-time atomic power plant, which is to begin generating electricity at Shippingport, Pa., in 1958.

The rear admiral, who has been the Navy's driving force for nuclear power for the last seven years, refused today to join in appraising the Nautilus.

In his only statement since the Nautilus put to sea, he said: "I'm never satisfied, because things aren't moving fast enough. We've built the submarine, but now we've got a lot of other things to do."

Senators Take Look at Market Tips

concern over the problem of "tipsters" but he asserted that the committee was "not trying to make a goat or persecute Winchell."

The committee said it wanted to know specifically whether there was any organized attempt by some speculators to plant tips on the market in the hope of turning a quick profit during the current stock boom. They said this was a violation of federal law.

Spokesmen emphasized that nothing illegal has yet been developed but that the committee wanted to check this phase of market operations to find out whether any legislation was necessary.

McCormick testified that the Pantepec case was under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission but the committee said it had no information yet on the Amurex case.

The stock exchange president said that speculators lost $2,125,000 within an hour and a half on Amurex which was mentioned twice by Winchell in 1953 broadcasts.

Senators studying the market got caught in the lingo of Wall Street and had to fall back on an amateur investor to explain the Dow-Jones index on industrial earnings.

Morton M. Adler of Rye, N.Y. stepped out of the audience to rescue the Senate Banking Committee from a moment of confusion when all the experts said they couldn't explain the index.

Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Stock Exchange, said he couldn't answer the question because the index comprised 30 industrials listed on the New York Stock Exchange which is not under his supervision.

When Fulbright and Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind) pleaded for someone in the hearing room to answer the question, Adler, slightly nervous, stepped forward and said he thought he could help.

The confusion stemmed from a remark by McCormick that the 30 companies in the Dow-Jones index earned $28 per share last year, as against $19.94 for the equivalent share values in 1929. He brought out this point to fortify his belief in the prospertiy of American business.

But Fulbright claimed the $29 figure was "misleading" and said he couldn't believe that each share of stock in the index had an average earning of $28 last year.

Adler explained that the figure is so high because some of the stocks have been "split" over and over again, and the current equivalent of a 1929 share of stock in the index is now netting bigger earnings. Adler said: "I have one share which became 16 shares.

Ford and Chevrolet Claim Top Spots

the company. Ford said Polk's figures showed it had only some 14,000 in this category.

Ford said after these registrations were subtracted from total registrations, the net registrations for retail sales showed 1,387,344 new Fords being registered to retail customers in 1954, compared to 1,362,087 for Chevrolet.

It said this showed it outsold Chevrolet by 25,000 cars in 1954 to win the sales leadership.

The figures both sides quoted came from Polk, the only firm in the nation which compiles the figures. It sells them to automobile companies and other interested agencies.

Conservationists Meet

The Day in Birmingham

To Seek Final Decision on Evergreen Interceptor

An open meeting at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Bloomfield Hills city offices may be the deciding factor over whether the proposed $2,740,000 Evergreen interceptor sewer will be constructed or, for the time being, abandoned.

Representatives from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, the City of Lathrup Village, and Bloomfield, Troy and Southfield Townships will hear further financial studies made by Ralph Main, Oakland County drain commissioner, and Al Roth, of the engineering firm of Hubbell, Roth and Clark.

A dispute developed over allocation of costs when Lathrup and Southfield protested that their shares were unfair. The advisory board of the project then asked for independent studies.

All but Troy Township were last week declared in default of a State Water Resources Commission order to end contamination of the Upper Rouge Valley.

If the project is not approved in time for the April election, serious consideration will be given to formation of a new authority comprising Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, and Troy and Bloomfield Townships.

While the four municipalities would perfer the Evergreen sewer construction, they may band together in enlarging and improving Birmingham's sewage treatment plant enough to take care of immediate needs. This would be less costly than individual plants and could be abandoned whenever advisable.

A jury was selected yesterday in the condemnation suit brought by the Board of Education to acquire about 80 acres of Southfield Township property. Construction of an elementary and a junior high school is anticipated.

Oakland County Cirucit Judge George B. Hartrick set next Wednesday for the start of court proceedings. The property involved is at Lahser and 14 Mile Rds. and is in Birmingham's school district.

Bishop Henry D. Donnelly will administer the sacrament of confirmation to 200 Holy Name children at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

As the result of games played this week in the YMCA Church Basketball League, First Methodist, Congregational, First Baptist and Christ Church Cranbrook are undefeated in the second half of play.

The Lenten preaching program at First Baptist Church will be highlighted by guest ministers, with the series to be inaugurated tomorrow. Meetings are open to the public.

Rev. Dr. Warner R. Cole will be the first speaker at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. He is president of the Detroit Council of Churches and pastor of the Covenant Baptist Church in Detroit. Assisting will be the Rev. Emil Kontz, pastor of the local church, and the Rev. F. Robert Wilkie, mininster of Christian education.

Ejected Priest Now in Finland

American Father Flies to Helsinki; Awaiting Further Instructions

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Rev. Georges Bissonette, the American priest expelled from the Soviet Union, arrived in Helsinki today.

He was smiling and in apparent good spirits. He declined to talk with newsmen until after he confers with U.S. Ambassador Jack K. McFall and Finland's Archbishop William Cobben.

Father Bissonnette planned to remain in the Finnish capital for two or three weeks pending additional instructions from Roman Catholic authorities.

The Americans are hopeful of getting a successor to Father Bissonnete into Moscow. He had been the only American clergyman in the Soviet capital.

Soviet police canceled Father Bissnnette's visa Wednesday without giving any reason. They ordered him to be gone by midnight tonight. He did not have time to get a visa for Finland but he had no trouble getting his passport stamped at Helsinki airport. Taneli Kekkonen, son of Finnish Premier Urho Kekkonen, was present to help him.

Youth Arrested in Auto Thefts

A 15-year-old boy, who had been held in the Oakland County Children's home for stabbing a fellow student two weeks ago at Lincoln Junior High School, was seized by Pontiac Police last night after stealing three autos.

The boy who was reported missing from the home Thursday, told police he stole cars in Oscoda, Saginaw and Flint during the brief period. Police last night arrested the youth at Edison and Chamberlain Sts. in an auto stolen from Flint.

Police said the knifing in the school followed an argument by the two boys over an apple.

Nixon Winds Up Tour

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (INS) —Vice President Richard M. Nixon, ending his four - week 7,500-mile tour of Caribbean and Latin American countries, prepared today to conduct a vigorous campaign for liberal trade policies with Latin America as "the most important single factor" in their economic development.

Believe Israel at Fault in Gaza Border Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)— The U. N. Security Council has left Israel know she faces strong condemnation unless she can produce a better defense of her role in the bloody Gaza incident.

The 11-nation council made this clear yesterday as it held an urgent session to consider Monday's armed clash near Gaza, Egypt, that killed 39 Egyptians and 8 Israelis.

The council agreed to a U. S. proposal to hold up further debate on the explosive issue until Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, U. N. truce chief in Palestine, gets here to make a personal report on his investigation of the incident.

Iowa's Invitation to Soviets Certain to Run Into Snags

WASHINGTON (INS)—The proposal to invite a group of Russian farmers to visit Iowa is certain to run into snags despite its general endorsement by President Eisenhower and other top level officials.

The President says, "I couldn't imagine anything better than to have some of their agricultural people visit our agricultural people," but added that there are a number of problems, including legal ones.

The legal questions are under the 1952 McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, which bars Communist Party members or those affiliated with the party from entering the U. S., unless they get a special waiver from the attorney general on recommendation of the secretary of state.

Those who favor admission of the farmers believe it would answer the Soviet propaganda charge that the U. S., and not the Communist world, has an Iron Curtain.

They also argue that exchange visits between citizens of Russia and the United States would lead to better understanding of America, more friendliness, and impress visitors on advantages of a free economy.

Under the immigration act, a waiver can be granted only on the basis of whether the visit of Soviet representatives would be in the national interest of the U. S.

There are some in the government who feel that a tour by Soviet farmers would not aid us in the cold war.

They point out that in the past when Soviet travelers have returned to their country from the U. S., they almost invariably came out with a series of lies about American conditions, giving them the authority of eyewitnesses.

This happened, for example, when Soviet writer Ilya Eherburg visited the U. S. several years ago.

The conclusion of those arguing against visas is: "All we do is lose in allowing them to come here."

The idea for a visit of Soviet farmers to Iowa was proposed by the Des Moines Register which noted the recent speech by Russian Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev calling upon Russians to adopt U. S. methods of raising corn for better livestock feeding.

The Des Moines paper said editorially: "We have no diplomatic authority of any kind, but we hereby extend an invitation to any delegation Khrushchev wants to select to come to Iowa to get the lowdown on raising high-quality cattle, hogs, sheep and chickens."

The magazine article was promptly reprinted in the Communist Party newspaper, Pravda, which also invited American farmers to come to the Soviet Union in return.

Reds Exonerate American Writer of Spy Charges

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government has exonerated American writer Anna Louise Strong of spy charges filed against her in 1949. The official Tass News Agency says she was framed by Lavrenty P. Beria, the Russian police boss who was executed in 1953 as a traitor.

A Tass announcement last night said an investigation had proved that the charges against Miss Strong—who defended the Red cause in more than 25 years of writing—were "without grounds."

Miss Strong was arrested and deported from the Soviet Union. The action caused a sensation at the time and was never fully explained. Even she never detailed what her difficulties were about.

In Los Angeles, Miss Strong said she was delighted at the Russian announcement.

"I am very glad they found out there was nothing against me," she said. "I always thought that some time they would get this cleared up."

Composer's Work Played First Time

The work was the highly technical and rather difficult "Folk Dance Rhythms," played by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

Dr. Thor Johnson, director of the Cincinnati Symphony, commissioned Dr. Riegger last year to write "Folk Dance Rhythms," which will be the feature of the Peninsula Music Festival at Fish Creek, Wis., in August.

Judge Not Impressed, Fines Driver Anyway

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Orlando Froio, 42, offered to give his 1947 car away to anyone who can make it go 40 miles an hour.

District Court Judge Charles Alberti, however, was not impressed with Froio's argument and fined him $25 yesterday on a charge of speeding at 55 miles an hour.

Jolliest Jewish Holiday Begins at Sunset, Monday

The holiday commemorates a grim episode from Biblical history, but its observance has always been marked by a July Fourth-like gaiety. Basis of the holiday is the overthrow of the Persian tyrant, Haman, who sought to have all men bow down to him. When Mordecai refused because his Jewishness forbade him to worship any but God, Haman sought to destroy the Jewish people. The Scriptural Book of Esther recounts how the Jews were saved through the intervention of beauteous Queen Esther.

Synagogal commemoration of the holiday includes the offering of special prayers on behalf of human freedom plus music and sermons devoted to the same theme.

Although the festival lasts but one day, preparations for the holiday begin months in advance. In religious schools, plays, pageants, mock beauty contests, and masquerades mark the occasion. One Purim requirement, stated in Scriptures, is the giving of gifts to the poor so that the spirit of gladness may be widespread.

The word, Purim, pronounced Poor-im means Lots, and refers to the casting of lots through which Haman sought to determine the date of his intended massacre.

A holiday of mirth and joy, Purim has come to occupy a most exalted position in the Jewish calendar, as the symbol of right triumphant over might.

Congregation B'nai Israel, 143 Oneida Rd. will celebrate the holiday with the traditional reading of the Megillah, the scroll of Esther Monday evening. A special holiday program consisting of a Holiday Masquerade and an Amateur Show is scheduled to be followed by the serving of seasonal refreshments by the Sisterhood.

On Sunday March 13, a carnival consisting of numerous booths with Purim motif will be held in the social hall. A Purim Puppet Show will be put on by the Religious School.

Mrs. Jerome Weiss, arts and crafts instructor at B'nai Israel, is chairman of the carnival, assisted by the Men's Club.

Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein announces the following Purim events to be held at Temple Beth Jacob.

Monday evening at 7:30, there will be the family service with a reading of the Scroll of Esther in the form of a Dramalog.

Friday evening at 8:15, the service will be musical with a special Purim Cantata sung, entitled "Esther, Queen of Persia."

The festivities will close on Sunday, March 13, when a Purim Carnival and dramatic presentation will be given by the children of the Religious School.

DR. EVERETT K. SEYMOUR

Central Methodist to Show Pictures

Dr. Everett K. Seymour, minister of St. Mark's Methodist Church in Detroit, will speak and show colored motion pictures of "The Church in Latin America" at the dinner program to be held at the Central Methodist Church, Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

This will be the third in the series of six family fellowship meetings being held during the Lenten Season and known as "The School of Christian Living."

Ordained in 1935, Dr. Seymour has been pastor of several Methodist churches. He was associate pastor of Metropolitan Methodist, Detroit, before going to St. Mark's. He is chairman of the board of ministerial training of the Detroit Conference, a member of the Endowment Fund Commission and of the Methodist Foundation of Michigan.

Dr. Seymour spoke at the First Congregational Church here Jan. 9 at the first Inter-Church Fellowship Meeting.

Catholics Stress Marriage Bonds

Priests and Physicians Will Conduct Classes in Philadelphia Church

By Religious News Service

PHILADELPHIA—Spiritual enrichment of the marriage bond and family life has been made a Lenten goal in the Philadelphia Roman Catholic archdiocese.

An estimated 5,000 young men and women will be enrolled in pre-marriage classes to be conducted during Lent by the Catholic Family Life Bureau in 25 parish centers. The classes will be conducted by 45 priests and 22 physicians one night a week in each center.

Retreats for married couples will be held at the Lucy Eaton Smith Dominican Residence. The retreats, beginning with Mass at 11 a.m. and concluding at 4:30 with a renewal of marriage vows, are presently scheduled for the first Sundays of the month.

A series of six Sunday night lectures on "You and Marriage" for young adults and couples will be held at LaSalle College, under the auspices of its family life committee.

The subjects, with different speakers, will be courtship, happiness and health, money matters, children, morality, and Christianity in the home.

Peale Program Will Be Featured Week Days

NEW YORK—Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's new ten-minute question-and-answer radio program over the National Broadcasting Co. will be commercially sponsored starting April 4.

Doeskin Products, Inc., makers of facial tissues and other household paper products, will sponsor the 10:05 to 10:15 a.m. (EST) program which is aired Mondays through Fridays. This is the first time that Dr. Peale has had a commercial sponsor in his more than 20 years of radio broadcasting.

The program features Dr. Peale, pastor of Marble Collegiate church here and author of the best seller "The Power of Positive Thinking," answering questions concerning typical human relations problems confronting large population segments. The questions are sent in by listeners.

Two Churches Meet in Rite of Holy Baptism

The congregation of the New Hope Baptist Church will meet with the Trinity Baptist Church for a service of Holy Baptism Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

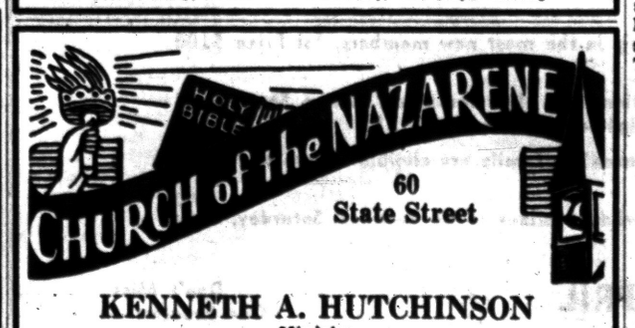

At 1:30 Sunday afternoon, at the New Hope Baptist Church, Emma Long daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Long of 503 Highland Ave., will marry David C. Shelton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Shelton Sr. of 406 Bloomfield Ave. The Rev. Ford B. Reed, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony.

The Teachers' Bible Class will meet at 5 p.m. and the Baptist Training Union from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

According to a recent issue of "Sports Illustrated," "to raise a 400-pound barbell over your head, it is necessary to think it up there. It helps to have . . . muscle . . . but the muscle becomes superfluous if the thought is missing."

The article then goes on to describe the weight lifting success of Norbert Schemansky, world's champion lifter, who says that, if you think right, you scarcely feel the weight. And Tommy Koyo, a Japanese-American with a record almost as spectacular, describes his success: "I try to have a positive attitude. I try to think of myself as lifting it."

In tennis, too, positive thinking wins championships. Billy Talbert, captain of the team which this year brought back the Davis Cup to the United States for the first time in five years, credits a positive approach as the main factor in the American victory.

And a famous track star, Dr. Roger Bannister, applied these lessons from sports to real life in a recent radio talk when he said: "Sooner or later in sport we run up against decisions which are too big for us to manage. In real life we dodge them. We can play hide-and-seek with reality . . . In sport we cannot. It shakes our roots with its confusing pattern of success and failure . . . Quick decisions are needed. As a result, sport leads to the most remarkable self-discovery of our limitations as well as our abilities. It was sport that . . . made it easier for me to think about the parallel stress that faces us in real life."

These men became champions because they applied the power of positive thinking to the problems they faced in sports. And, as Roger Bannister points out, they have also learned that the same qualities that bring success in sports can be applied to any life situation to bring a successful result.

For many years, I have been teaching the techniques of positive thinking. These techniques may be summarized briefly so that you can use them to become a champion of sport or, more important for most of use, to become a champion in real life:

1. Formulate and stamp your mind indelibly with a picture of yourself as succeeding. You can do it and you will do it.

2. When a negative thought about what you are trying to do comes to you, cancel it out with a positive thought.

3. Minimize your obstacles. Take a positive approach to them so that they will melt away Don't try to dodge them.

4. Believe in yourself and try to be yourself. Don't envy or imitate other people. You've got what it takes.

5. Learn to understand yourself so that you may improve yourself. Outside counseling may help you if you find this difficult.

6. Practice positive affirmation. The Bible says: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Affirm this every day of your life.

7. When you have done all these things, put yourself in God's hands. Pray that you may receive from Him all the power you need.

Do these things, make them your way of life, and you too can become a champion of positive thinking.

Campbell Chapel Honors Atchison County Couples

By Religious News Service

ATCHISON, Kan.—The Campbell Chapel of the A.M.E. Church here, a Negro group, concluded its observance of Brotherhood Week with a dinner honoring all Atchison county couples, regardless of color or creed, who have been married 50 years or more or who will celebrate golden anniversaries in 1955. The American Legion post here donated the use of its hall for the event.

Each couple was presented with a Bible.

Annual Founders' Week Marks Anniversary

Christian leaders and laymen from across the nation and a number of foreign countries met in Chicago recently for the 49th annual Founder's Week conference of Moody Bible Institute.

The conference marked the 118th anniversary of the birth of the Institute's founder, Dwight L. Moody. Since it was established 68 years ago, Moody Bible Institute has trained 56,000 men and women for Christian service.

Among the registered guests at the conference was Joyce Garrett of Pontiac. She is now attending Appalachian Bible Institute, Whitesville, W. Virginia.

REV. C. GEORGE WIDDIFIELD

Lenten Services, Studies Slated

Class Planned to Help Inquirers Learn More About Christian Faith

The Rev. C. George Widdifield, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, announces the following schedule of Lenten services and study groups. During the last week (Passion Week) the Rev. Canon Douglas Paterson will come here from Toronto to conduct a preaching mission.

Wednesdays — 7 and 10 a.m. — Holy Communion. The early service will conclude promptly at 7:30. After the 10 o'clock service the women will sew in the Rose Kneale Room. Luncheon will be served at 12 noon after which the Rev. Mr. Widdifield will give a series of addresses on the New Testament.

Thursdays — All Saints' will join St. James' Birmingham and Christ Church Cranbrook in sponsoring dinner lectures to be given by Bishop Richard S. Emrich at Christ Church, Lone Pine Road. Last Thursday his subject was "Lonesomeness." Supper is served at 7:00 p.m. and Bishop Emrich speaks at 8 p.m. in the church.

An inquirers' class for those who would like to know more about the Christian Faith and the Episcopal Church is being held Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. This class is planned for anyone looking forward to Confirmation this Spring and for those who want to review. The class will be a combination of both lecture and discussion and will be held in the Rose Kneale Room.

Almost all the uranium, natural rubber, manganese, industrial diamonds, chrome, cobalt, tin and nickel used in the United States are imported, some of them in considerable quantities.

Young People to Sing Anthem

Deacons and Deaconess Assist Pastor in Lenten Communion Service

The music for the 9 a.m. service at Bethany Baptist Church will be given Sunday by the Junior High School Choir. The 34 voice choir will sing the anthem "Glory to God." This is the family hour and includes a story for children at the chancel steps, dedication of children and a special message is given by the pastor for family unity.

The seven adult classes of the College of Christian Living meets at 9:45 a.m. Faculty members include: The Rev. Fred R. Tiffany, Mrs. Basil Hartt, Mrs. Grace Stevens, Mrs. Lois Tiffany, Calvin R. Hobart, Maynard Johnson and Judge H. Russell Holland.

At 11 a.m. the Lenten Service of Communion will be observed. The 17 deacons and 24 deaconesses will assist the pastor. The service is open to all believers.

The Community Youth Center with an enrollment of 150 will be open at 5 p.m. Study programs will follow at 7 o'clock with a four age level grouping. The planned programs are guided by 19 adults.

The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Tiffany will preach identical sermons at the morning worship hours. His topic will be "Tools You Can Use for Psychological Growth." The pastor will instruct the membership class which meets in the conference room at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Revival Will Be Held

Evangelistic Meetings will be held at the Bethel Tabernacle, 1348 Baldwin Ave. March 8 through 13. The Rev. C. F. Swoffer will be in charge of the services each evening at 7:30.

Church to Be Honored

By Religious News Service

HELSINKI — Plans for a nationwide observance of the 800th anniversary of the founding of the (State Lutheran) Church of Finland on May 19 (Ascension Day) are being made here.

President Juho K. Passikivi, high officials of the Finnish Church and other Scandinavian Churches and of the Lutheran World Federation will attend the principal ceremony on that day at the historic cathedral in Turku, which is more than 700 years old.

Chaplaincy Is Rotated

By Religious News Service

HONOLULU — Clergymen of various faiths are giving the invocation at sessions of the Hawaiian House of Representatives.

For the first time in territorial history, the House chaplaincy is being rotated. Previously one chaplain was named, his appointment being considered a political plum.

Native Chilean Speaks Sunday

Family Fellowship Supper to Be Sunday March 6

The Rev. Raymond A. Valenzuela, a native of Temuco, Chile, who was educated in the United States and returns to his homeland as a Methodist missionary, will be a guest speaker at Family Fellowship Pot Luck Supper to be held at Central Methodist Church at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Pastor of the First Methodist church in Concepcion nine years, Mr. Valenzuela has been a missionary since 1943. He came to the United States this fall on a furlough of a year.

Besides his pastoral work, Mr. Valenzuela, who holds a doctor of philosophy degree from Drew University, Madison, N. J., has been active in youth work, both Methodist and interdenominational, in Chile.

From 1943-1945, he was director of Methodist student work. Since 1945 he has been general secretary of the Student Christian Movement in Chile and in 1945 and 1949 attended conferences of the World Student Christian Federation.

A third generation Methodist, Mr. Valenzuela is a grandson of Dr. Goodsell F. Arms, who went to Chile as a missionary in 1888, and a son of the Rev. J. Samuel Valenzuela, a Chilean Methodist pastor who came to this country as a minister to Spanish-speaking persons.

Having been graduated in 1936 from the College of Emporia at Emporia, Kan., Mr. Valenzuela entered Drew as a ministerial student.

He received a bachelor of divinity degree in 1940 and completed residence work for a Ph.D. degree in 1942. While taking the post-graduate work, he was pastor of the Warren Street Methodist church in Brooklyn.

Mr. Valenzuela is married and is the father of four children. His wife, Mrs. Dorothy Bowie Valenzuela, is a native of Rochester, N. Y., and a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., and of Drew (master of arts).

Kansas Legislature Gets Clean Literature Bill

TOPEKA, Kan. — Comic books and other publications containing obscene material or portraying crime would be banned in Kansas under a bill introduced in the state legislature here.

Rep. Clyde N. Wilson, an Emporia lawyer, is the sponsor.

The measure would make illegal not only the sale, but the possession of such indecent literature. Violation of the proposed statute would be punishable by a fine of up to $100 and three months in jail.

Everyday Religion

A Blown Fuse

By DON D. TULLIS

Time Magazine tells of a man who suffered an attack of polio that left him paralyzed from the neck down. He was put into an iron lung where he lived for five years, with the promise of future years. One day the nurse left the room. A fuse "blew" and the electricity responsible for the flow of oxygen into the iron lung failed. When she returned the patient was dead.

A fuse is a very small thing—a bit of thin metal through which the electric current flows, yet, a human life may depend upon it. For lack of a fuse a life went out; because of a lie a home was wrecked; for want of a smile a soul was lost. The smallest things are sometimes the most important.

Now, the difference between a religious and an irreligious man is largely a matter of contact with the Upper Power House. One has light; the other has not. One sheds light upon other lives; the other does not. The truly religious person is a "lamp lighter, making the world a little brighter wherever he may go." Jesus names him "Light of the world." This is the highest degree given by the University of Heaven, L.L.D., LIGHTER OF LAMPS IN DARKNESS.

But not many lamps are lighted. Something has happened. Many millions are living, not in an iron lung, but behind an iron curtain where the light has become darkness. The current is not getting through. The power is cut off. The flow of the winds of faith has ceased. Religion is dead. No one killed it. Someone simply left the room and let it die.

But the real cause of death was fuse failure. God has no other way of lighting the world or insuring the flow of life-giving winds to a dying people than through those who bear His sign and seal.

Is the present gross darkness largely our fault? Have we allowed the light to go out? Someone has lost contact. Lord, is it I? Am I a fuse that has failed? Am I partly responsible for the present world condition? Is the failure of my religion to meet the problems of this day, my faliure?

"Light of the world—Am I indeed, or am I a shadow, shutting out the light? As is the line, so is the light. As is the fuse, so is the fire.

Methodists Stage House Campaign

By Religious News Service

COLUMBUS, O. — More than 1,000 young Methodists teamed up here to stage a house-to-house evangelism campaign. It was a pilot project for a nation-wide drive aimed at adding 500,000 members to the Methodist Youth Fellowship by the end of 1955.

The canvass took place during the sixth annual Christian Witness Mission, a national conference for Methodist youth and their adult supervisors.

More than 500 delegates from almost every state joined an equal number of young people from this area in the four-day drive.

United Church Women Welcomed in Australia

By Religious News Service

SYDNEY, Australia — A delegation of American church women touring the world to "create greater unity in fellowship and prayer among Christian women" was honored by Sydney's mayor, Mrs. P. Hall, and local church and civic leaders at a reception in Bible House here.

The delegation included Mrs. James D. Wyker of Columbia, Mo., president of United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches; Mrs. David D. Baker of New York, editor of the official U.C.W. publication The Church Woman, and Felicia Suderlal of Dehra Dun, India, director of women's work for the United Church of North India.

While in Sydney members of the group also toured church institutions in the city, attended a beach picnic and addressed an interdenominational rally at Pitt Street Congregational church.

What About Highway Construction in County

Toll roads may become a controversial issue in Oakland county.

Opponents are organizing to open a full fledged offensive if they threaten "anywhere in Michigan."

We are a wee bit skeptical over the Oakland County enthusiasm that could be engendered over a toll road connecting Kalamazoo and Muskegon. However, a group in Bloomfield Hills and Franklin are preparing to unleash an all-out protest if a toll road casts its shadow across their domains.

We wonder whether current anxiety may not be a trifle premature.

Oakland County's Senator William Broomfield advises the Pontiac Press that he feels nothing should be done about a toll road from Toledo to Bay City until the plans and intentions of the State program are revealed.

The State of Michigan may plan to widen Woodward. It may contemplate a companion highway east or west to handle the volume of traffic that emanates south and passes through Oakland County. Perhaps a sister road to Telegraph should be constructed ten miles east or west. Possibly Telegraph itself should be doubled or tripled.

All authorities agree on one thing: traffic will increase tremendously in the year ahead. Certainly everyone in this area devoutly hopes that this will be true for only the automobile can bring it about and the automobile is the bread and butter of southeastern Michigan.

Perhaps the most economical solution lies in underpasses which abolish the red lights. Perhaps modern clover-leaf intersections are the answer.

This is a matter for Michigan road authorities to study. Representatives of the Oakland County anti-toll group which organized Tuesday should be given a full hearing and allowed to present their case.

Nothing but a traffic survey can provide a final and scientific answer. However, one fact stands out boldly. Something must be done. The traffic in Oakland County is seriously congested. All surveys indicate this will increase appreciably in the years ahead.

The Press welcomes any practical solution to this problem. We certainly are not committed to a toll road. Nor are we inextricably tied up in a State highway. But we are vitally concerned to see that the situation doesn't go by default with nothing done or nothing planned as the traffic gets heavier and heavier and closes in around us.

Perhaps the Bloomfield - Franklin group should suggest a practical alternate to the toll road. The Press stands ready to assist in any and all forward looking traffic solutions.

Atomic Power for Britain

From Britain comes news of what will be an historic development: the decision to build a chain of atomic powered electric generating plants.

The decision is viewed in some quarters as potentially the most important United Kingdom step forward in a generation. Reasons for this are that the country is approaching the limit of its power generating capacity while the demand for more electricity continues to increase.

By 1975 it is expected that electric power requirements will be three and a half times what they are now. The big problem arises from the greatly increased need for coal. To produce enough of that for additional generating plants, British sources say, would impose too heavy a burden on the national economy.

Present plans call for construction of 12 atomic powered generating stations at an estimated cost of $840,000,000. Their total capacity will approximate the amount of electricity that could be produced from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons of coal.

Government experts believe that from 1965 onward all new British power stations may depend on nuclear energy. It also is expected that by 1975 the capacity of such plants will be 15,000,000 kilowatts, equivalent to the amount produced by 40,000,000 tons of coal.

Dire necessity is forcing Britain to take the lead in this field. So far in the United States only one atomic powered electric plant is in prospect, that planned by Consolidated Edison of New York.

Another argument against the increasing use of automatic machines in manufacturing and industry is that people already have so much spare time they can get into far more devilment than they can afford.

GOP in Trouble

Given Only 50-50 Chance of Winning Spring Election

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—Contrary to tradition, Michigan Republicans are given only a 50-50 chance of winning this year's spring election on April 4.

In past years, Republican stock might raise and fall in the fall elections for governor or President, but come springtime the GOP would swamp the opposition. The only breaks in this pattern were in the hey-dey of the Roosevelt leadership.

But in 1955 things look to be different.

In the first place, the Democrats still are riding the enthusiasm and strength of their victory last November—while the Republicans have been torn by dissension and defeat.

The Democrats are coming up to April 4 under their November momentum with the same team of leaders, the same strong labor support, the same basic campaign techniques and philosophies that helped them win in November.

The Republicans have their same chieftain, but he only recently escaped from an intra-party lynching bee and has had to call in a new face, John B. Martin of Grand Rapids, to have a campaign manager who could cross easily from one wing of the party to the other without catching a shower of eggs.

Secondly, and probably most important, the Democrats expect a heavy vote in their usual stronghold, Wayne County. This county normally contributes little strength to the Democrats in the spring elections, but this year there are at least two new factors.

These are the election campaigns of two men whom Gov. Williams appointed to the Wayne County Circuit Court—Wade H. McCree Jr. and Theodore R. Bohn. McCree is a Negro and the primary election has already shown that he can draw a heavy, normally-Democratic Negro vote out to cinch this honor for the Negro race.

Bohn is an attorney affiliated with a firm handling much of the CIO business and it is to the interest of labor leaders to roll up a big vote to have one of their brothers on the circuit bench.

You can add to this two other influential candidacies. One is that of Orville E. Hubbard, Dearborn's stormy mayor, and the other is that of Edgar M. Branigan, Wayne County clerk, for the same two court posts.

Hubbard has always been a heavy vote-getter and Branigan reportedly is getting the support of the Wayne County building machine because his elevation from the clerkship would open a whole chain of advancements for other county officials.

Statewide, the Democrats expect to reap public interest from the Supreme Court campaign, even though it is on a nonpartisan ballot.

The Republicans have a decided general advantage in nominating a much better known ticket, studded with incumbents who always have a certain edge.

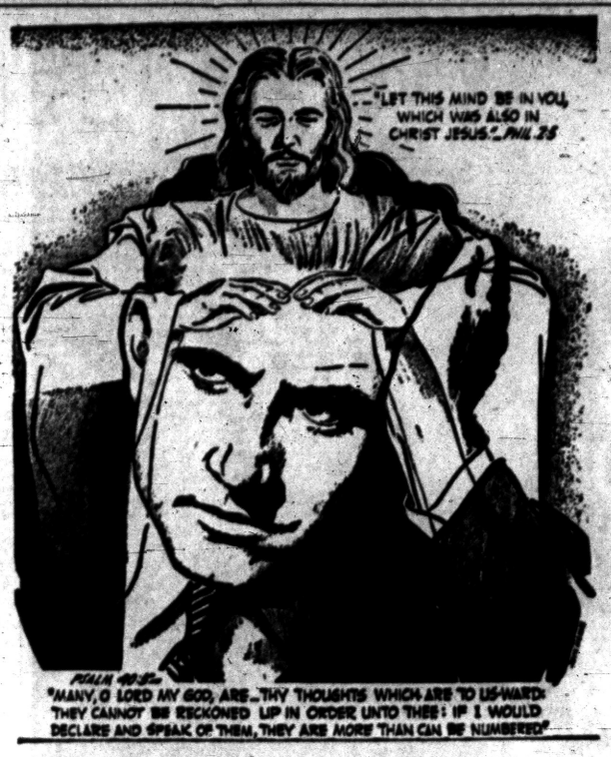

For the Supreme Court, they have the Chief Justice Leland W. Carr, a man of massive legal repute, and former state treasurer D. Hale Brake, who has a statewide reputation for integrity and is a hard-hitting campaigner, too.

John Martin is getting the Republican campaign machinery into gear better and quicker, it would appear, than many of his predecessors and he is being helped by a sudden realization at the Republican grass roots that if the party doesn't get off its back and fight it soon will die.

Even the Democrats seem to concede that the Republicans have a good campaign issue this year—a psychologically-sound campaign theme that the CIO's Political Action Committee, hiding behind the Democratic Party, is trying to control the schools and the courts and change their basic philosophies.

This is the kind of argument, observers believe which might shove the independent voter back into the Republican ranks this year.

But all signs indicate it will be a close election.

That We Might Think With Him

Days of All Faiths

St. Thomas Was Pious as Well as Scholarly

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Saints are not usually saints because of their intellectual attainments. It is ordinarily because of their godliness. The fame of St. Thomas of Aquin, however, rests mainly on his reputation as a theologian and thinker, and in a way this is too bad, for along with his giant mentality St. Thomas had a piety and a devotion that would have made him a saint under any circumstances.

It is no wonder that the world remembers Thomas for his scholarship. Even as a precocious five-year-old he was confounding his teachers with his constant question, "What is God?"

Throughout his school days, which went on until he was 27, the silent deliberate ways of this great hulking youth may have deceived his fellow-students into nicknaming him "the big dumb ox," but his professors knew they were dealing with one of the great minds of all time.

One of them said one day to the students, "Someday this 'ox' will let out such a bellow of instruction that it will sound to the four corners of the world."

And indeed he did. The tremendous volume of his writings, particularly his Summa Theologica, has furnished the standard basis of Roman Catholic thought down through the centuries.

Thomas was well-born. His father was a count — the Count of Aquin. But, after the manner of saints, the boy cared nothing for wealth and position. At the age of 19 he horrified his aristocratic family by joining the Dominican Order of mendicants (beggars).

His sister at that time found out what it was to match wits with him. Trying to reason him out of the religious Order, she found that instead she reasoned herself into one. She finished her days as a nun.

Throughout Thomas' short life—he died in 1274 at the age of 49—he taught and wrote and made himself generally indispensable in the intellectual life of the Church.

What the world forgets is that his theological writings meant little to him compared to the hymns and devotional material he wrote, and none of it meant anything at all compared to the visions he had from time to time.

In fact, the great Summa itself was left unfinished, because it became, he said, worthless in comparison with what had been revealed to him in his visions.

It is not amiss to point out that the pursuit of truth can by itself alone make a great spiritual contribution to life. In a time like our own, when one man's fact may be taught another man's falsehood, a Thomas Aquinas might by his insistence on absolute truth do much to save us from our mental and spiritual chaos.

The great and happy Jewish festival of Purim, or "lots," which is celebrated March 8 and 9, has little to do with the Jewish religion as such. Its origin, which is explained in the Old Testament book of Esther, is in a historical incident that occurred centuries ago, when many Jews were in captivity in Persia.

What happened was that the wicked Persian prime minister, Haman, jealous because the king had married the beautiful Jewish girl, Esther, plotted to exterminate all the Jews in the kingdom.

Esther, with the help of her kinsman Mordecai, managed to turn the tables, and the threat ended with Haman and his ten sons swinging from the gallows he had prepared for the Jews.

Baering Down

(International News Service)

They claim like all municipal improvements it works better when it's greased.

The fusionists have started a coalition spread to hook Univac up with a one-arm bandit.

It will handle the Manhattan payroll with lightning speed. Nobody's going to object to being struck twice.

If it blows a fuse everybody gets paid off in the dark. Same as the days of big Tim.

If it works everybody moves into the engine room. Full dress for state receptions will be overalls and paper hats. Anybody getting the key to the city will fly it on a kite like Ben Franklin.

Univac totals to the last dot, figures out kick-backs, counts the city's fire-plugs, milks the parking meters and beats time for the police and firemen's glee club.

'Institute of Life Insurance' Executive Refutes Charges Made Here by 'J. Pra'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Just to set the record straight on a number of points raised in Mr. Pra's letter on life insurance rates, published in your issue of Tuesday, February 8:

The American Experience Table of Mortality has not been used in calculating premium rates or reserves on policies issued since 1947. Beginning in 1948, the Commissioners Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, based on the experience of 1930-1940, has been used.

Actually, the "extra charge" on participating policies to which Mr. Pra objects is a means of adjusting the cost to the buyer on the basis of actual experience—and that, of course, includes actual mortality experience. This is done through the payment of policy dividends which are a refund of the unused part of the premium.

Mr. Pra shares a misconception that was prevalent some years ago, that in borrowing on his policy, a policyholder is being charged interest on his own money.

He can obtain that money by giving up his insurance, but so long as the policy remains in force the company must earn interest on these funds to meet its policy obligations.

'World Is Same, Only People Changed'

The world is the same, it's the people who have changed. If the people have turned bad, they're going to pay for it.

Each individual who has any education at all knows he has to pay in one way or another. If parents are bad they pay dearly to take care of their own making.

Children would have a bright future if people would let them see how wonderful things really are. Grandmother must thank God to see the young daughters push a button in this modern age.

But crime is paid for by lazy people who could never see how beautiful things really are.

Milk Price Reduction Fails to Aid 'Big User'

The reduction in milk price has just raised my milk bill an average of $1 a month. Using more than 90 quarts a month, I formerly got a three cent discount, paying 19 cents a quart.

Now, if I use over 60 quarts, I will get only one cent discount, paying 20 cents a quart. That is a clever way to raise prices on those of us who use the most and still get credit for a price cut.

I would be curious to know how the milk company explains it.

Big User

Editor's note—Milk company officials report that prices were reduced, but that the discount system was changed at the same time. As a result in some cases customers may pay more, but the vast majority will get the benefit of the reduced price.

Believes Star of the East Was Space Ship's Beam

There have been numerous sightings and reports concerning "Unidentified flying objects." Unfortunately they have been labeled flying saucers.

There are flying saucer societies in several countries. Our own commercial and fighter pilots attest to these objects and declare no power on earth has developed such planes.

I have been active in church work for 30 years. Many writers have tried to explain the Star of the East and where it went.

I believe a beam of light from a controlled space ship was the Star of the East and that the angels appeared to the shepherds from a space craft from another sphere.

That these same "angels" opened the tomb and raised Christ from the dead. Further that Saul was overtaken by a heavenly space ship and the voice of Jesus spoke to Him by electronics via a speaker.

The blinding light which outshone the desert sun was a beam from the craft also. That the baptism of fire came from the same source. Did not Elijah go to Heaven in a chariot of fire?

Wants Michigan to Have Capital Punishment

We read and hear about the many murders by juveniles and others. Some put the blame on one thing and some on others. But I blame the lawmakers for not passing a law making murder capital punishment.

A few years ago I sent you an article from my hometown paper, The Jackson Times, Jackson, Ken., in which there was a story of the hanging of Bad Tom Smith and asked you to print it as a news item, thinking it might in some way reduce the murders here in Michigan.

You printed just a little of this story. I witnessed that hanging 60 years ago and it's just as plain to me as if it were yesterday. I will never forget it.

What Michigan needs is just a few public hangings on the public square. If young Diamond is convicted and should pay with his life on the gallows in the Court House yard in Pontiac in the presence of everybody it would put a quietus on the teenagers and they might think a little before attempting murder.

I hope to live to see capital punishment in Michigan.

Appreciated Help Given by Police Patrolmen

Recently at about 7:30 p.m., we were trying to rush our son to the hospital after he had fallen off the side of the basement steps, injuring his head and face.

On Mt. Clemens Street a Pontiac Police cruiser heard our car horn and pulled over. We stopped beside them, motioned to them and they sped off with us following. They led us through town and to the hospital much faster than we could have gotten there without their cooperation.

Even though we don't know their names, we want to express our sincere appreciation to the two patrolmen and to the Pontiac Police Department for their full cooperation.

Best Formula for Speaking in Public Is Narrative Method Used by Jesus

It's easy to be a topnotch public speaker. In fact, hundreds of clergymen work harder on their dull sermons that put audiences to sleep, than do the smart speakers who follow the simple, yet surefire formula which Jesus gave us.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case N. 366: Harry R., aged 31, is a clergyman with a college diploma and three years of seminary training.

"Yet I am an abject failure in the pulpit," he spoke sadly, "and I am considering quitting the ministry.

"I thought I had a call to preach and all my life I have struggled to prepare myself for this responsibility, but why keep on?

"Parishioners fall asleep if they do show up, and the pews keep getting emptier and emptier. Yet I try my hardest. But it doesn't seem to do any good.

"My wife cried last night when I suggested I better call it quits, for she insists I can be a fine minister, so out of deference to her wishes, I promised I'd have an interview with you."

"If at first you don't succeed," paraphrased Sir William Lever, "try another method."

Every normally intelligent person can learn how to make an interesting speech, sermon or oration. But it requires the right recipe.

Jesus gave us the best formula for public speaking that anybody has ever evolved, and it is the narrative or anecdotal method.

Start out with your main point or text. Then document it with concrete cases told in narrative style, which bear out that text. Christ thus used parables, which were simply relevant stories.

Harry's professor, however, had urged his divinity students to make sermons that were almost wholly expositional or "essay" type of addresses.

Those are very boring to audiences. Even erudite college professors grow sleepy or their minds wander when listening to a recital of ethical statements that aren't dramatized with interesting cases and narration.

Go to the Bible, for instance, and read chapter after chapter from Leviticus or Proverbs and you'll find your audience asleep in 5 to 10 minutes.

Or, read the Declaration of Independence aloud and then shift over to the Constitution, with its 22 Amendments.

Can you imagine any modern audience listening to that kind of oratory for 20 to 30 minutes without being sleepy?

And I say this with no thought of being sacrilegious or unpatriotic, but such expositional material just is not interesting to audiences of average people.

So I told Harry to pick his text for the following week and I'd help him map out his sermon outline.

I urged him to name at least three parishioners in his address so he would thus tie them into his sermon (as well as waken them if they were nodding).

He was also to use stories and try to employ the modern baseball pitcher's change of pace by walking out from behind the podium and growing confidential when he narrated one or two of the stories.

I've heard our topnotch American bishops tell as many as 12 to 15 illustrative stories in a 20-minute sermon, so you young clergymen should imitate their successful formula.

For further specific advice, send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

Its advice is for musicians, as well as speakers, and changed Harry into a popular sermonizer inside of 90 days, for all he lacked was the proper recipe.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.

Phony Evidence Used to Discredit Boric Acid

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The Mail Box

Boric Acid

Did you not once state that boric acid can be very dangerous if it is allowed to get in a cut or into the eyes? (R. B. F.)

Answer — No. A few cases of boric acid poisoning have been reported, but the use of the familiar S.S.B.A. (saturated soultion of boric acid, that is all the boiled water will dissolve) is still commendable, in my judgment—and I do not defer to the attempt of subsidized research workers to damn boric acid with phony evidence.

Yankee Stomach

I suffer from nervous intestines and sour stomach almost every day . . . (Mrs. L. D.)

Answer — Heaven knows what "nervous intestines" or "nervous indigestion" may be. You may get some help from the pamphlet "Yankee Stomach," mailed on written request (no clipping please) if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Eye Color

No doubt it is true, as you say, that all babies are blue-eyed at birth and permanent pigmentation of the irises appears after four to six weeks. But my son's eyes appeared definitely dark brown an hour after birth and are the same color at his present age, four years. The hospital attendants thought this was unusual. I think you should have been less positive, perhaps saying instead that MOST babies appear blue-eyed at first. (B. N. G.)

Answer — Posey's HYGIENE OF THE EYE says: "All eyes are blue at birth, the commencement of permanent coloration taking place about the sixth week." On the other hand the doctor who wrote the article on the eye in the ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA says: "The pigment in the substance of the iris is . . . often deposited after birth, so that, in newly born European children, the colour" (God save the King) "of the eyes is often slateblue . . . while brownish pigment is deposited later . . . "

Boils

In the last two months I have had six boils on one arm . . . (E. R.)

Answer — In Little Lesson 9, SAVE YOUR SKIN (for which send 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope) there are three chapters on boils. Your notion of impure blood is an idle one.

It Is Funny

Does an alcohol rub down after a bath before going to bed do a tired person any good? A says No. B. says Yes. What do you say? (E. M.)

Answer — My lip is cracked, so I'd rather not talk about it. A five-minute rubdown after a hard physical contest helps an athlete but for ordinary fatigue rest is best.

Examination Jitters

Is it harmful to take any other medicine while one is using your quinine and B1 tablets for examination jitters? It is wonderful how it calms you down. (C. K. H.)

Answer — No. For the pamphlet STAGE FRIGHT AND EXAMINATION JITTERS send stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you do not name the pamphlet I will not know what you want.

Noises, Sounds and Ringing

I think you mentioned that you have a pamphlet on head noises, sounds, ringing—extremely annoying, especially when reading or trying to get to sleep . . . (T. B.)

Answer — Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on TINNITUS AND DEAFNESS.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Girl Scouts Planning Birthday Celebration March 12

Pontiac Press Photos

It's fun to work on the "Games" badge. Here Becky Bryce of Neome drive shows the doll which she has fashioned of bright crepe paper. Barbara Griffin of Ogemaw road, Colleen Springer of Neome drive, and Judy Proffitt of Spokane drive, (left to right) work puppets made of felt and old stockings.

Scoutarama to Be Held March 12

Northern Oakland County Girl Scouts will celebrate their 43rd birthday March 12 with Scoutarama, the organization's biggest single undertaking of the year. Webster School will be the setting for the event from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Brownie Scouts will exhibit craftwork and Intermediate Scouts plan to display badge work in all fields. Senior Scouts will take over the checkroom, first aid and hostess duties in demonstrating their service project work.

Intermediate Scouts have also planned to provide a nursery for children and will serve at the coffee hour. Water Safety and nautical skills will show the Mariners' activities.

Mrs. Paul Gorman is general chairman for Scoutarama. She is aided by thirty-one committee members in addition to leaders of the 106 participating troops.

Camping, dancing, roller skating and singing will be featured along with the Girl Scout ceremonies for the stage show scheduled for 3 and 7:30 p. m. Each phase of the Girl Scout program will be explained.

Setting up the camp screen on stage for their skit in Scoutarama are Janice Rabout of Locklin street who is struggling with the ropes, and Kay Bendall of Malcolm street who prepares to move her bed roll inside. Patricia Cardinal of Scotch Lake drive moves right in and makes herself comfortable.

Fogarty's Femininity Takes Over in French Cuff Sleeves, Flared Skirt

2 New Colors in Lipstick Seen for Spring Wear

Very dark, very sophisticated lipstick is something that only a few women can carry off well.

The rest of us must seek becoming colors in the lighter range. But even the purple lipstick devotee gets to feeling tied down and hunts out a new color.

They might suit a teen-ager who knows what best compliments her young skin; or they might be just right for a night-blooming flower who wants a change.

The first new color is a youthful pink. It's a glamorous blush on a teen-ager's lips, a switch to the natural for others. It has pastel pinks, blues and creams, plus the spring grays, eating right out of its hand.

This golden tone blends easily with another set of popular spring colors, the oranges, yellows, beiges, blues and greens.

Shirtwaist Dress Fad Takes Over

Tailored Collar Set on Neckband, Yoke Releases Pleat

Anne Fogarty has taken the shirtwaist dress fad literally by making the bodice of this model an almost exact replica of a man's shirt.

It has the authentic touch of the haberdasher in the way the tailored collar is set on a neck band, the shoulder yoke releases a back pleat, and the buttonhole panel is open stitched.

Fogarty's feminity takes over however, when it comes to the sleeves which are properly French-cuffed and linked but which end a couple of inches above the wrist bone. The cinched waist serves to emphasize the pretty fullness of the shirred and flared skirt with a front pleat on the center seam.

First shown in taffeta, it is just as devastating in chambray, gingham, prints, (lawn, silk or novelty cotton) shantung and, for later on, brocades.

This pattern is cut to DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, not Standard Pattern Measurements.

Bust	Waist	Hips	Sizes
32½	22½	34½ inches	9
34½	24½	35½ inches	11
36	26	37 inches	13
37½	27½	38½ inches	15
39	29	40 inches	17

Size 13 requires 5⅝ yards of 36 inch material for dress and ¼ yard of 35 inch material for interfacing. To order pattern No. 1212, address SPADEA SYNDICATE, INC., Box 535, G. P. O., Dept. P-6 New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1.00. Airmail handling 25 cents extra. American Designer Pattern Booklet No. 11 is available for 25 cents. Make check or money order payable to SPADEA SYNDICATE, INC. and add 4 cents for handling.

Red orlon is first choice for spring toppers. This swing style is outline stitched on the collar, cuffs and slit pockets. And—it's washable.

Girl Wants to Be Told She's Liked

Desires Affection, Boy's Bracelet, but He's Noncommital

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Seems as if some girls are just natural-born hoarders. Peek into their strongboxes and you'll find a motley collectiton of items that belonged to one or another of the boys they've liked.

An identification bracelet, a button off a uniform, an argyle sock, a very tired wallet, a merit badge (his merit, not hers). Any little old thing that belonged to him becomes permanently precious to her.

She starts looking around for possible souvenirs as soon as they start going together. Her eye lights on his class ring and immediately she wants to wear it.

His scarf, his fountain pen, his insignia—she wants anything that's his, to cherish and touch when he's not around.

She never gives much thought to the day when he may be gone for good, and she's left with something that belongs to him. She doesn't even dream that possessing something of his might turn out to be complication. So here are a couple of stitches in time.

This gal is miles ahead of her boy friend. Instead of waiting patiently for him to catch up, she feels like turning around and calling him "slowpoke." But here's what she writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm 14 and go with a boy about my age whom I love very much. He has never told me he even liked me! And we've been going together for a year now.

"When I go with a boy I like, I like to be told I'm liked. He has never asked me to go steady, but my girl friend said she thought we were, anyway. He has a beautiful silver identification bracelet that I would love to wear!

"He has never kissed me—but I wish he would. I don't know whether he thinks it would make me mad, if he doesn't want to, or if he isn't sure enough of himself.

"How can I prove to him that I love him, want to go steady with him and want him to kiss me? I don't want anyone else to tell him for me. And how do I go about getting his bracelet?"

Can you imagine yourself walking up to girl friend of yours and saying, "Why, that's a pretty pin you're wearing. I'd love to wear it. Could I have it, please?"

No? I guess not. Well, it's just as out of the question to ask your boy friend for his bracelet. Bracelets are given to girls when the boys in question want all and sundry to see that they're taken.

And so far, this boy friend of yours has made no moves to stake you out as his personal claim. He's been taking you out and keeping things nice and friendly that's all.

You're going to get all out of breath if you keep racing ahead of him as you are. Hold steady. Protesting your devotion might scare him to death. When he wants to take more responsibility for you, he'll ask you to go steady. (You have to wait to be invited.) And when the mood strikes him he'll kiss you. Your impatience in all these departments might frighten him away. You have so much time, too.

Dislike What They Say? Think of Excuse to Leave

By EMILY POST

An awkward situation is described in the following letter: "Last night while at a party at a friend's house the conversation took on an extremely vulgar note.

I found it very unpleasant but not knowing just how to handle the situation tactfully, I sat there and 'squirmed' inwardly. Will you please tell me what I could have done under the circumstances without being thought a prude?"

If there was someone else in the room that you could have joined, you could have slipped away quietly and gone over to talk to the other person or persons.

If not, you could have looked at your watch and exclaimed, "Oh is it that late already. I'll have to run" and then left.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to give a tea for a British exchange student who will be visiting with me for a few days.

In making up my list of guests I find that the number totals 50 persons, which is much too many for my small apartment and the only way I could manage this number would be if each guest remained only a short time.

Is there any way I can get them to leave after they have met the guest of honor and had a cup of tea?

Answer: You cannot possibly ask your guests to leave. However, when the room becomes uncomfortably crowded they will of themselves leave and I don't think you need worry about it.

Dear Mrs. Post: My oldest brother is named John Brown Jr., after my father. He has a son who is also John Brown. He is the third. Is that correct?

My youngest brother's wife is expecting a baby in the near future and if it is a boy, he would also like to name him for my father. Would he be the fourth?

Answer: Your brother's son is the third. If in spite of the inevitable confusion it will cause, your younger brother insists on naming his son John Brown, then he will be the fourth.

Formula Service Pays Former Nurse

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I HAVE worked out a part-time job which pays," a reader writes me, "and thought it might be helpful to some other women who are stymied as I was.

"I was a nurse before marriage, and after my marriage I had two adorable babies. I must say I had an easy life, because I was so used to babies from my nursing days, and even the formula was no problem. I just breezed through making it, and really enjoyed it.

"But after the youngest went to kindergarten, I felt rather restless, and my husband and I decided that maybe a part-time job for me was the perfect answer.

"I looked and looked, but there was nothing I wanted or could get. You see, I didn't want to return to nursing, because I had enough of it, and, also, the business field has always been of great interest to me. But there was nothing available.

"Finally, my husband suggested that I start a project of my own, right in my own home. I investigated that possibility, but I'm not really an expert cook, and I don't sew any better than average, and I am not particulary inventive.

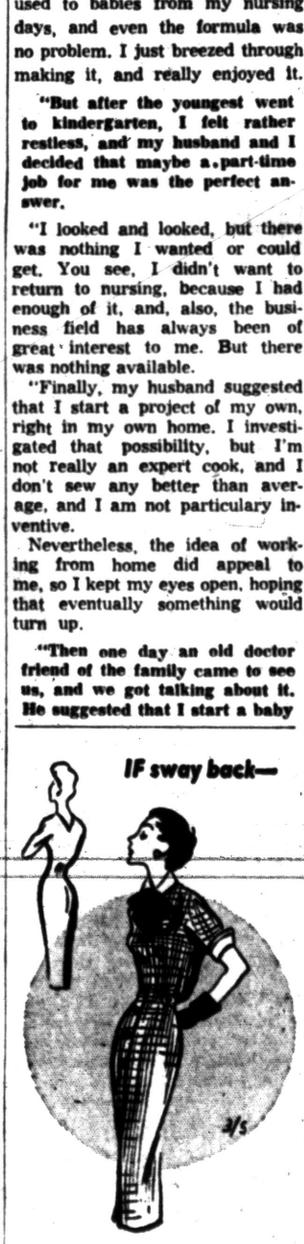

Nevertheless, the idea of working from home did appeal to me, so I kept my eyes open, hoping that eventually something would turn up.

"Then one day an old doctor friend of the family came to see us, and we got talking about it. He suggested that I start a baby formula service, for the young mothers to whom making the formula is a terrible chore.

He started me out with some customers, and it worked beautifully.

"Now I set aside a few hours every day when my children are at school, during which I make up the individual formulas for the seven mothers I have as customers. I have just the right kettles and equipment, and I love doing it. It pays well, too. I deliver the formulas every day in the car, and on the way back I pick up my children at school."

If you are looking for a service to perform for money, mention your ideas to everybody you know. Someone who knows you might come up with a better idea for you than you could dream up yourself.

Fill in with back belt and blouse. This is also kinder to a large rear view than the beltless sheath.

Miss B.—The unbelted molded sheath is for the girl with a perfect figure and who wants to show it. The step-in dress shaped by back belt, eases the top and fills that hollow below. Remember coming and going views are equally important.

At almost every large cocktail party there is one "party pig" who tries to make a full meal out of the canapes the hostess has provided. He doesn't mingle with the guests or do anything else to make himself sociable. How can he when he heads for the food the moment he arrives?

And he always stays there until it is all gone.

Spring Handbag Gay, Flowery

What do purse-peerers predict for spring? Pale pink and olive green, if you like. Pastel shorty gloves launch the lovely look at hand.

A silk chiffon square carries the note to the neckline. Utility? Oh, yes. A beaded change purse and a companion specs case for those pastel glasses.

Flowery and crispest of all, a linen handkerchief that unfolds into a lily-light wisp of spring. It's in pale pink and olive, too, with an idea of a leaf motif wending around the edge.

To keep such a delight perfect and smooth for its blooming.

PETUNIA!

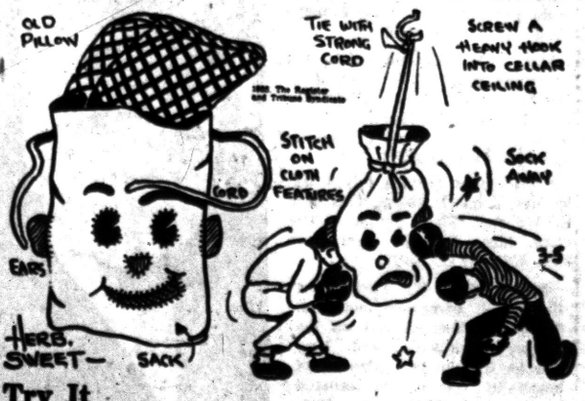

Apple sauce
Is good, I think,
And MUCH more festive
When it's pink!

And it has a delicious new tang too, Petunia, when you add ½ cup of melted Cranberry sauce to each 2 cups of apple sauce. Fine with meat!

Plan Some Indoor Fun

How would you like to have your own punching bag? This is not to make a fighter out of you, but to improve your balance.

To make this punching bag you will need an old pillow or sack. To make it more fun put a face on it. This can be done by stitching or gluing some funny features to the front. The bag will be fun to punch and will improve your foot balance. Put a soft bed pillow or large sofa pillow inside the case.

Tie the case at the top with strong cord, leaving enough of the sack so that the cord will not slip off. Tie the other end of the cord to a heavy hook in the cellar ceiling. Make it the right height for you. Have fun!

This would make a good gift for a boy. Notice the felt ears on the sides.

New Drug Is Now Available for Arthritis Sufferers

NEW YORK (INS)—The first of two new, potent drugs for the treatment of America's more than eight million victims of rheumatoid arthritis has been placed on the market.

The new compound is "Meticorten," brand name for metacortandracin. It's developers claimed that tests over the past eight months showed it gave dramatic relief to more than 1,000 patients afflicted with the disease—man's oldest known chronic affliction.

The drug was not claimed to be a cure.

In announcing that Meticorten is being made available for general prescriptive use, Francis C. Brown, president of Schering Corp.—developers of the drug—said that the tests by 103 leading U.S. doctors proved it to be virtually free of damaging side effects.

Brown said Meticorten proved effective in nearly every case, even where treatment by cortisone or hydrocortisone had been ineffective.

The new medicine does have some mild side effects, Brown pointed out, such as occasional insomnia or slight gastric distress, but no case of the salt and water retention qualities—with resultant painful swelling and weight gain—which marked the older drugs.

The tests also disclosed, Brown said, that Meticorten was three to five times more effective than cortisone or hydrocortisone.

The Schering executive said Meticorten and a companion drug, Mticortelone—not yet released for general use—also have shown beneficial effects on intractable asthma, rheumatic fever, nephrosis and intractable allergies.

Brown stressed that the new drugs are not a cure for rheumatic diseases, which strike more people than cancer, heart disease, diabetes and tuberculosis combined.

In many of the cases where patients had been on cortisone or hydrocortisone treatment, there had been the frequent painful and dangerous swelling and weight gain from salt and water retention. When treatment was changed to Meticorten, the patients dropped to normal weight and the swelling and pain subsided.

Brown said the first supplies of Meticorten now are in pharmicies in every major city.

New York Central Tests New Tickets

DETROIT (AP)—The New York Central has begun testing in Detroit a radically new type ticket for passenger traveling over more than one railroad.

Instead of the long paper tickets in vogue for years, passengers now get a series of clamped together cards measuring 7⅝ by 3¼ inches, with center perforations that permit folding for convenience.

After Detroit tests, the New York Central said it expected to adopt the new tickets throughout its 11-state system. The cards show destination, route and class of travel.

The new tickets actually are preprinted and punched cards designed for use in high speed accounting machines, but New York Central said that a form convenient for passengers, easy for conductors to read and detach, and easy for agents to issue was developed through research.

The accounting machine process, the railroad said, will replace a laborious process now in use generally in figuring ticket splits.

Dog Officer Dogged by Surplus of Canines

WESTERLY, R. I. (AP) — Things have gone completely to the dogs says dog officer Joseph Zanella.

"I always have a pound full of them," he reports, "and nobody seems to want them—not even some owners whose license tags appear on the canine."

The thing that hurts him most, though, is that he has to pay for feeding them out of his own pocket under a city ordinance.

Increased Emphasis on Modern Armaments

Soviets Continue Juggling Leaders Under Bulganin

By TOM WHITNEY
AP Foreign Staff

The Soviet government is in the middle of a major shakeup. It's all taking place, according to official Soviet announcement, "at the recommendation of" the new Premier, Nikolai Bulganin.

This week there have been 11 big changes:

1. Three members of the Kremlin's Bib Nine — Deputy Premiers A. I. Mikoyan, M. Z. Saburov and M. G. Pervukhin—were promoted to first deputy premiers, the next rank below Bulganin.

2. Four men were leap-frogged into the high rank of deputy premier past officials senior to them in their own special fields. These promotions went to A. P. Zavenyagin, M. V. Khrunichev, V. A. Kucherenko and P. T. Lobanov. Kucherenko and Lobanov are little known outside Soviet political circles.

3. Zavenyagin also was named to replace Deputy Premier V. A. Malyshev as minister of medium machine building, the post believed to control Russia's atomic weapons program. Malyshev apparently retained his deputy premiership though and was named to supervise a group of "machinery ministries."

4. Two ministers—coal industry chief A. S. Zasyadko and state farms boss A. I. Kozlov — were fired in disgrace for unsatisfactory work. Zasyadko's deputy minister, A. N. Zademidko, was stepped up to replace his former boss.

5. Agriculture Minister I. A. Benediktov was demoted to the state farms post, but no successor was named to him.

The changes reflect the realignment of Kremlin political factions which resulted in the resignation Feb. 8 of Georgi Malenkov as premier and Bulganin's appointment to succeed him. Apparently they are—at least in part—really Bulganin's work, but the hand of Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev is also to be seen.

The implications are complex, with economic, military and political facets.

The new setup apparently revitalizes an important organ of the Soviet government which may have been moribund for sure time—the Presidium of the Council of Ministers (Cabinet) of the Soviet Union.

The Council is huge, more than 50 members. The Presidium now has six members—Bulganin, the three new first deputies, and the two holdovers of that rank, L. M. Kaganovich and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Diplomats in Moscow reportedly think the Presidium may function from now on as a leading policy planning group. On the other hand, Mikoyan, Saburov and Pervukhin all were believed to have shared ex-Premier Malenkov's views on a number of major issues. Instead of getting real promotions, they may have been kicked upstairs from direct control of the ministries they previously supervised.

The promotion of new men to deputy premierships and the naming of a new coal minister appear to reflect political jockeying among Kremlin factions trying to recruit support for themselves. It is still too early, though, to judge how the factional lines are shaping up.

The changes probably mean increased emphasis on production of modern armaments. One of the new deputy premiers, Khrunichev, is a specialist on the aviation industry. Another, Zavenyagin, is almost certainly an atomic industry specialist. The representation of war industries in the Soviet government's inner circle appears to have increased greatly.

'Land Given to God' Finances Church

SARDINA, S. C. (UP) — "Land Given to God" is bringing in thousands of dollars annually to the Presbyterian Church here. At an annual ceremony labeled "The Ingathering," members of the congregation who have set aside a "Lord's Acre" of their farmlands bring in the produce from it for an auction.

The event this year produced $4,223, plus $1,000 more in cash gifts from outright contributions and from farmers who felt the produce from their dedicated acre had fallen short of expectations.

Last year the event raised $5,200. Poultry, eggs, hogs, cattle, baled hay and bailed cotton are among items auctioned. In addition, farm wives bring in baked goods and needlework and serve a supper.

A new brick church has been financed by the program.

Bowling Along at 80

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Mrs. Emma Schmitt, 80, believes age is no deterrent to fun. Mrs. Schmitt, who has been an enthusiastic bowler for 45 years, still bowls six games a week and said she plans to keep on "as long as I can roll that ball down the alley."

Silent Auto Motor Is Goal for Future

CHICAGO (UP) Some day you may drive an automobile with an engine so quiet you won't know it's running.

Such things as under - hood acoustical blankets and firewall treatment can render engines virtually noiseless, David C. Apps, a General Motors official, told a National Noise Abatement Symposium.

Frequently, major noise problems are caused by an unbelievably small amount of energy expended," Apps said. Engine noise abatement would require acoustic blocking of all paths transmitting the noise energy, he added.

Apps said a new vehicle noise standard prohibits trucks to exceed more than 125 sones (units of loudness) at 50 feet. This, he said, has caused manufacturers to develop better mufflers and "should provide a powerful inducement" for improvement of replacement mufflers on older vehicles.

Good Accident Spot

Helicopter Brings Out Stranded Plane

FORT RILEY, Kan. (UP) — They called it "routine" for the 71st Helicopter Battalion when a Piasecki H-21 Helicopter "rescued" a whole but battered L-19 airplane from a river sandbar recently.

The L-19 crashed on the sandbar one day and was back in flying commission a little more than 24 hours later, despite the fact it was out of reach of trucks.

Carl Hanson, a test pilot, and other Piasecki experts attacked the problem. They rigged up a sling. A salvage crew was set down on the sandbar by the helicopter.

The damaged plane was stripped of some of its loose parts and loaded into the sling. The Piasecki, a twin "beater" type, did the rest.

At Fort Riley's Marshall Field, Army men said the job was one of several different types of work that men and machines of a helicopter unit are prepared to do as part of their daily routine.

Silo Is Called Good Insurance on Soil Losses

Frank Bieberly, the expert, explained:

If farmers have good feed supplies, they are not forced to overgraze the vegetative cover that protects their soil from blowing.

The Kansas agricultural experiment station reports that ensilage will keep indefinitely and still be nutritious and palatable to livestock.

The information is important now because of the ravages of drought in the nation's "breadbasket." Kansas and some nearby states had the driest November in recorded weather history—and this after two years of intermittent drought.

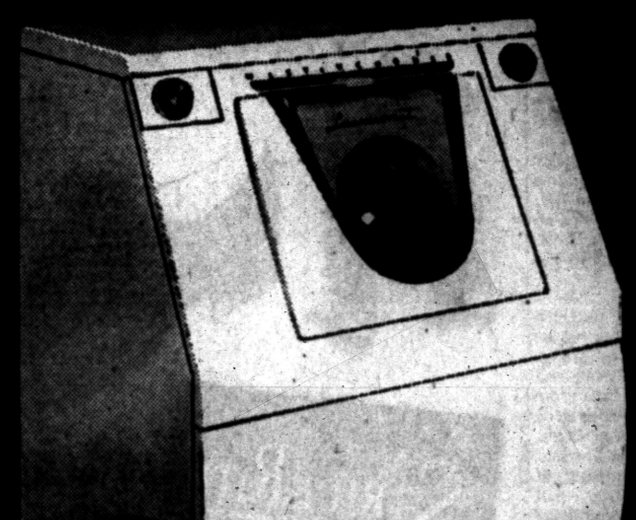

Bieberly believes that soil-blowing will be greatly reduced when all Midwest farmers learn how well ensilage will keep and start storing feed from the good years to be used during slim crop years.

Just 3 States Ago

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Decorators re-doing the chapel in the city jail decided it was about time the place had a new national flag. No one remembered how long the old flag had been in its place, but it had only 45 stars.

Whitman Diary Reported Stolen

Notebook of Famous American Poet Taken From Detroit Library

DETROIT (AP)—A treasured diary containing the personal notes of the 19th century American poet Walt Whitman has been stolen from an exhibit case in the Detroit Public Library.

Ralph A. Ulveling, library director, reported the theft yesterday. He said the volume was worth more $25,000 and was the most valuable single item in the library.

It belonged to Charles E. Feinberg, Detroit oil company executive. Feinberg loaned it to the library for a Whitman exhibit.

The book was in a locked glass case on the second floor of the spacious main library in the city's Art Center, not far from downtown Detroit.

Police said the theft apparently unbolted one end of the glass case, took the book, then rebolted the case.

Feinberg said the book was in its case last Friday when it was checked by Miss Sophie Pajas, a library employe.

The book is covered with dark green cloth and is labeled "Day Book or Memorandum."

It contains personal memoranda of the poet between the years 1876-1889. Most of the notations concern Whitman's day-to-day life and have few references to his poetry.

Ulveling said the exhibit is insured for $200,000.

He said the thief would have a difficult time disposing of the volume. When the exhibit opened Feb. 9 a catalog describing the exhibit was sent to libraries across the country.

Feinberg has been a collector of Whitman's works and personal belongs since boyhood. He is said to have amassed one of the world's great Whitman collections.

The exhibition was the first at which the Whitman notebook was displayed publicly.

Library officials said the Whitman exhibit would end immediately.

About 60 percent of America's motor vehicle traffic is presently concentrated on only about seven percent of the nation's highways.

PHS Glee Club Appears at Cleveland Conference

One hundred and eighteen Pontiac High School male glee club members are in Cleveland today as special guests of the North Central Division of the Music Educators National Conference.

Under the direction of George Putnam, vocal director for the high school, the group will present a concert for the national convention.

The special program prepared by the Boys' Glee Club includes:

"The God Who Gave Us Life Gave Us Liberty."
"Lo, A Voice From Heaven Sounding."
"Adoramus Te."
"Ride the Chariot" (Spiritual).
"Three Philosophical Poems."
"I Must Go Down to the Sea."
"Changuane's Burning."
"Hi-Ho Nobody Home."
"Friendship."
"Heavenbound Soldiers."

Accompanists from Pontiac for the Cleveland program are Judy Dickstein and Greta Phipps.

Two other Michigan groups, the Michigan Singers from the University of Michigan, directed by Maynard Klein, and a mixed vocal group from Flint are the only other state groups participating.

The General Motors Truck and Coach Company provided three buses for transporting the Glee Club, while the Pontiac Rotary Club and the Pontiac Board of Education assisted in making the appearance possible.

Pontiac Man Guilty of Dope Charge

A Circuit Court jury yesterday deliberated only five minutes before finding Robert Seay, 28, of 372 Ditmar St., guilty of possessing narcotics.

Judge George B. Hartrick set sentencing for March 14, according to Assistant Prosecutor William E. Lang.

Seay was caught with 18 capsules of heroin last Oct. 6, Pontiac Police said.

The convicted man put up $1,500 bond Feb. 5, and went free to await trial on the narcotics charge. That night he was arrested for illegal sale of liquor. He was convicted and fined $100 plus getting ten days in Oakland County Jail.

In 1951 Seay was convicted for selling marijuana, said Lang.

Ex-Head of Food & Drug Administration Expires

WASHINGTON (UP) — Dr. Lyman Frederic Kebler, former chief of the Food and Drug Administration, died yesterday at the age of 92.

A native of Lodi, Mich., he was educated at the University of Michigan, Iowa Agriculture College, Jefferson Medical School, Temple University and George Washington University medical school.

He resigned from the Food and Drug Administration in 1929 after 25 years of government service. He authored a number of books on food and drug adulteration, including a best seller, "Eat and Keep Fit."

Detroit Judge Unearths Forgotten $1,260 Check

DETROIT (UP) — Recorder's Judge George Murphy was rummaging around in one of his old trunks yesterday and found a $1,260 check made out in his name.

Murphy said the check, a refund from the Internal Revenue Service, was mailed to his home while he was serving as a Navy officer in 1945.

Diamond Sanity Hearing Asked

Psychiatric Examination Could Prevent Trial of Youth Slayer

An attorney for Floyd Diamond yesterday asked a psychiatric examination which could prevent trial of the youth for the Feb. 17 slaying of Kathleen McLaughlin, 9.

Diamond, 16, stood mute when arraigned on a first degree murder charge and Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick entered an innocent plea for him.

The judge said he would consider a petition from Diamond's attorney, Morris Lipshy, of Detroit, that the confessed slayer be examined for insanity.

If the hearing is allowed and Diamond is found insane he could be sent immediately to Ionia State Prison for the criminally unbalanced without undergoing trial, said Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem.

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore Wednesday waived jurisdiction over the youth allowing prosecution under the adult charge.

Diamond, of 32545 Nottingham Knoll, Farmington Township, told police he repeatedly stabbed Kathleen and then hit her with a large rock at a pond near her home at 29430 Gilchrist. He was returned to Oakland County Jail.

Almost all of the commercially important rice produced in the United States is grown in four states—Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and California.

Where There's Smoke, There's Firewater

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police became curious when they noticed smoke curling up from the chimney of a supposedly vacant house yesterday.

The local gendarmes investigated and found:

One 400-gallon liquor still in operation.

Three men.

The still was confiscated. The men were arrested. The smoke stopped curling up from the chimney of the now vacant house.

Fighting 1st Marines Head for Strange Port — Home

The division's last contingents assigned to Korea are en route to San Diego. The 5,500 officers and men left last weekend aboard five transports. The Army's 24th Division, redeployed from Japan, is replacing them.

The Fighting 1st came into existence in the 1942 staging preparations for Guadalcanal. The Leathernecks were known as the Pacific war's island hoppers. They weren't supposed to stick around long enough to fight a land war. But they did in Korea—three years storming up and down Korean hills. They suffered 28,205 killed, wounded and missing.

Then the division stayed through the postarmistice period to help the Koreans rebuild homes, churches, schools and lives.

Tied down in the battle for the Naktong bulge of southeast Korea in the early months of the war, they got back to their element—amphibious warfare — Sept. 16, 1950. They spearheaded a 40,000-man invasion force in the daring Inchon landing.

But from then on, it was slow and bloody—an indication of what the next three years were to be like.

There was never too much love lost between the Leathernecks and the rest of the 8th Army. But the Marines fought as an integral part of the Army through the war—except for one bitter phase.

That was in December 1950. The Halls of Montezuma never looked farther away. A few hundred yards ahead lay the Changjin Reservoir. Ringing the hills were 10 divisions of the Chinese Communist army waiting to crush the Leathernecks in a gigantic vise. The Marines contended they were sold short—forced to go it alone as temperatures dropped to 40 below zero. Their trusty M1 rifles, which under normal circumstances might have stopped the Chinese, failed to fire. The division suffered 3,500 casualties, more than half from frostbite, before it pulled back to the sea.

The Changjin Reservoir taught a lesson: their island-hopping equipment was to no avail in Korea. They tried innovations. While the Army scoffed at the lumbering thermal boots, the Marines ordered them in bunches from the States. In the winter of 1951, the Marines reported a minimum number of frostbite cases. The Army, still using the old shoe-pacs, continued to suffer.

The Marines put the helicopter to landing within enemy rifle range to airlift wounded to rear area hospitals. The Army followed suit later. And in November 1951, an entire Marine battalion was airlifted by helicopter from a reserve position to the front lines—only a few hundred yards from North Korean troops!

Other "firsts" followed for the division. The most prominent experiment was with the armored vest—and it now seems here to stay as standard military equipment. It saved many Marine lives.

Forty-two Marines won the Medal of Honor in Korea.

Flying Saucer Film Scheduled Tonight

A movie, "We've Seen the Saucers," will be shown at 8:15 p.m. tonight at Pontiac High School Auditorium by the Flying Saucer Council of America.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

DONNA GOES TO SCHOOL

With a hat on her head and books in her hands, Donna starts to school. Her pet kitten Fluffy is at her side, but Donna sends Fluffy home just before they reach the schoolhouse.

1. Choose your own colors for Donna's outfit, Fluffy, the school and for the scenery. Paste this picture on stiff paper and cut out the large drawing of the girl with base attached. Also the hat and the separate arm.

3. Cut along the dark line in the middle of Donna's hat and slip the hat on her head. Attach the separate arm behind her shoulder by placing a small brass fastener through the two dots. Now Donna can swing her arm and wave.

Supreme Court Justice Gives Marriage Rules

MADISON, Wis. (INS)—Justice Roland Steinle of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, who believes there is no such thing as a completely frictionless marriage, gave these seven rules for happier married life:

1. Be as nice to your spouse as you are to yourself.
2. Maintain a sense of humor.
3. Don't take your problems to outsiders.
4. Don't forget small attentions.
5. Advice of parents should be sought only on infrequent and really important occasions.
6. Keep financial matters on a business plane, with the idea that marriage is a partnership financially as well as in other ways.
7. Marry with the feeling that divorce is illegal and marriage is permanent.

Newspaper Suffers Mistaken Identity

FORT MILL, S. C. (AP)—The Fort Mill Times, a weekly, says newspapers aren't alone in mistaken identities.

"Over the years," and editorial column recalls, people have mistaken the newspaper's office "for a doctor's office and demanded treatment, wanted me to fill out their income tax forms for them . . . bawled me out because I was slow repairing a radio, wanted a telephone or electric bill, inquired where the pool tables were . . . and wanted tires recapped."

The climax, the paper says, came recently when a woman stepped in and inquired "if this is a beauty parlor."

Parking From Habit

SPOKANE, Wash. (UP)—Police said a man who posted $5 bond after being ticketed for parking in a bus zone may have acted through force of habit. He was a bus driver.

Dartmouth Stressing Composition, Grammar

HANOVER, N. H. (UP) — Students in many courses at Dartmouth must do more than write the correct answers to examination questions to get high marks.

The college has declared that grades will be lowered if answers are marred "grossly by faulty composition and grammar."

"All this," said a Darmouth announcement, "is partly in response to grumbling from the business world that students today are leaving educational institutions without a proper command of their own language."

Villagers Know Better Than to Try Any Crime

HUDSON, N. H. (AP)—Crime doesn't pay. And in this town of 4,183 the saying has special meaning.

Police Chief Andrew J. Polak has completed the fourth straight year in which every case he has brought to court resulted in a conviction.

He has been re-elected to his 61st term as director of the Farmers National Bank. He has been chairman of the board since 1948, served as president of the bank for 12 years before retiring in 1949 from the post.

Requests Renewal of War Contracts Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has asked Congress to renew a law under which the government can recover excessive prices paid under defense contracts.

He asked in a special message that the contract renegotiation act be renewed at least until Dec. 31, 1956 "to assure that the United States gets what it needs for defense at fair prices."

The law originally was enacted during World War II, when contracts had to be let for production of war items before the fair cost of making them could be determined. It has since expired.

Drug Firm Planning TV on Salk Vaccine

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Eli Lilly & Co., one of the firms manufacturing the new Salk antipolio vaccine, announced yesterday it will sponsor a closed-circuit television broadcast to physicians in about 60 cities of the United States and Canada when the official report of the vaccine's effectiveness is made.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. of the polio evaluation center, University of Michigan, is expected to release the report on effects of the vaccine on 440,000 second grade children, early in April.

Synthetics Gain in Rubber Field

Nation Becoming Less and Less Dependent on Natural Product

DETROIT (AP)—The development of synthetic rubber to an extent which makes the nation less dependent than ever upon natural rubber was traced this week before a sectional meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Rubber experts and auto engineers described the increasing uses of synthetic rubber in papers prepared for the passenger car, body and materials meeting of the society.

J. J. Allen, of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., described numerous varieties of synthetic rubbers now available and proposed methods of standardizing them by qualities and characteristics. He predicted others would be developed.

Among the latest synthetics to be developed, Allen said, were the so-called silicone rubbers, having resistance to both high and low temperatures, and compounds having outstanding resistance to dry heat and oils.

W. J. Simpson, of Chrysler Corp., told of a rubber-like plastic, recently developed, which can be produced in color, and of a solid rubber with great tensile strength and resistance to abrasive wear.

The engineers visiting the Detroit Arsenal learned the U.S. Army has an atomic-powered tank in the experimental stage. Col. George P. Petersen, in charge of research and development work at the arsenal, told the engineers the army already is able to build a 70-ton tank with an atomic engine.

But, he said, such weight would be impractical for combat use, so development work is under way on a lighter model.

The engineers also were told that electronic computers are making it possible to ascertain and evaluate the performance of military vehicles in advance of construction.

The average American consumed 352 pounds of fluid milk in 1954 compared to 399 pounds in 1945.

SGT. ANNELOUISE KOKE

WAC Recruiter Here Wednesday

U.S. Army Sgt. Annelouise Koke, now assigned to the recruiting service in Detroit, will visit the local offices at 53½ W. Huron St., on Wednesday. She will interview from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. all women interested in joining the WAC.

Women between the ages of 18 and 34 are eligible. They must be single, or divorced with no dependents. A high school diploma or its equivalent is required.

High School Counseling Aids Students

Efforts are being made, through high school counseling, to enable all students to attend college, even though they have begun general rather than college preparatory courses.

This was emphasized at a panel discussion at Thursday's Urban League Guild meeting.

It was brought out that opportunities for girls vocational training are at present much more limited than those offered boys.

Tax Chief Asks for New Agents

Calls for Another 1,000 Men to Help Enforce Revenue Laws

WASHINGTON (INS) — Tax Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews has asked Congress for another 1,000 agents to help in a drive to enforce the nation's tax laws and bring in more revenue for the government.

The chief of the Internal Revenue Service also told the House Appropriations Committee that the 1954 tax revision bill has caused a 100 per cent increase in requests to help taxpayers in filing their returns.

In testimony released today, Andrews said he is not certain how much additional money the government will have to spend in administering the new law.

Before the same committee, Chief Tax Court Judge John W. Kern said he expects a substantial increase in cases before the court as a result of the revision. Andrews said that 1,000 additional agents he is requesting are in line with a program under which that numeb will be added to the force each year "until we have reached the point where we will be able to examine most of the more productive returns."

The tax chief pointed out that the Internal Revenue Service will have 11,114 agents on its rolls on July 1, 1955, compared with 7,617 on July 1, 1953.

Turkey Is Key to Middle East Defense Picture

By FRED ZUSY
Associated Press
Foreign Correspondent

ISTANBUL (AP) — Egypt's young Prime Minster, Gamal Abdel Nasser, dispatched an envoy to Jordan recently to present that country's King Hussein with two gold plated pistols.

About the same time, Turkey's Parliament voted a gift of three light military planes — assembled in a Turkish plant — to Jordan's small air force. Delivery will be made this month.

The two gifts symbolize the intense diplomatic maneuvers now going on in the oil-rich Middle East.

Will it be pistols or planes? Stripped to bare essentials, that's the choice facing Arab states like Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. These three nations are now on the fence.

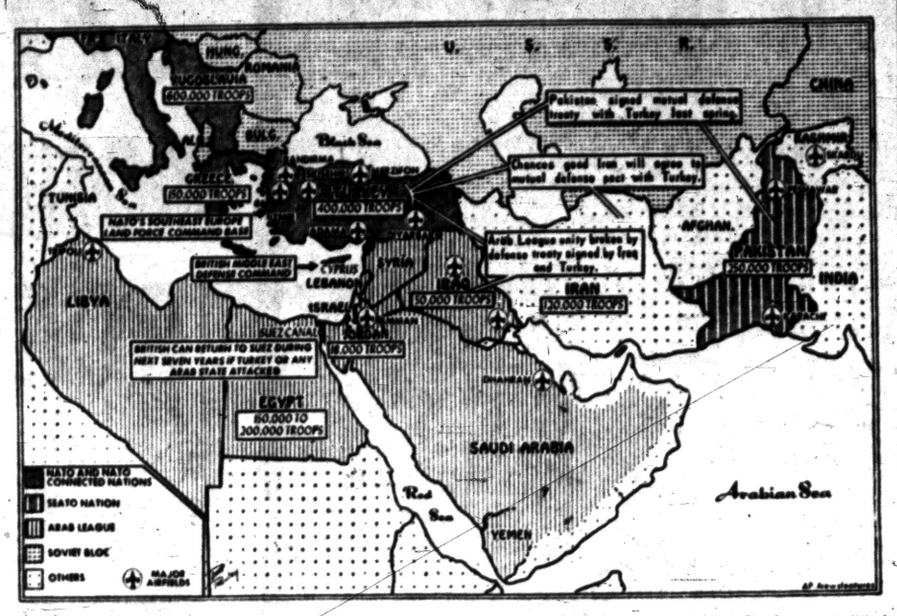

They are wavering between joining a Western-backed defense pact proposed by Turkey and Iraq, which would mean modern equipment for their armies, or continuing to line up with Egypt in an Arab League neutrality block, which would mean no help in building up their military might.

Involved are bigger stakes for the Western world: The formation of a real Middle East defense system, tied to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization through Turkey and to Manila Pact SEATO defenses through Pakistan. The new military pact will fall into shape as rapidly as the red tape of diplomacy will permit. If negotiations develop the way the West hopes, the outcome will be agreements tying together armed forces totaling more than 55 divisions and 850,000 men.

Military experts say the result won't be anything like the well-knitted NATO force. In equipment and training, Middle East divisions will rank well below NATO standards. But a major result will be a big psychological boost—the transformation of an area of vacuum into one of positive planning.

Up to the present, this type of organization has been blocked by Arab League intransigence.

However, Arab unity was smashed last week when Iraq, led by veteran Prime Minister Nuri Said Pasha, signed a mutual defense pact with the Turks. It was the first time an Arab state entered an agreement with another country for defense against any Communist agression in the Middle East.

Egypt had attempted by all the diplomatic means at her disposal to shake Iraq's intentions of joining with the West. But at a heated 16-day Arab League session in Cairo, she could not even gain a public condemnation of Iraq from other league members. As the accompanying map shows, these are —besides Jordan, Syria and Lebanon—the states of Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Libya.

Iraq's pact with Turkey now is threatening the very existence of the league, which was set up 10 years ago.

The basis for the realignment under way in the Middle East was laid a year ago when Turkey signed a mutual defense agreement with Pakistan. Like the neighboring Arab countries, both are predominantly Moslem. The U.S. is giving Turkey 200 million dollars in military assistance this year, and an estimated 50 million to Pakistan.

Turkey, with 400,000 men under arms, has the most impressive military force in this part of the world: 22 infantry divisions, three divisions of cavalry, six motorized brigades, nearly 500 jet planes, sizable tank and truck transport units, and a navy with 12 destroyers, 11 submarines, six mine layers and 30 mine sweepers.

Pakistan has an armed force of 250,000 men, including three squadrons of British Fury jets, a transport and bomber squadron and a small coastal navy.

The next step toward a Middle East defense organization came with Iraq's decision to join forces with Turkey. Initially this will be separate from the Turk-Pakistan pact. The broad plan, however, is to unify defense efforts of all three.

American military aid in limited quantities began arriving at Iraq's Persian Gulf port of Basrah late last year. Iraq claims a four-division army totaling 50,000 men, but only two divisions are fully activated. Equipment is mostly obsolete, and mostly British. American assistance is likely to come chiefly through offshore purchases of British material.

Working on the theory of one step at a time, Iran is expected to join the new defense system next. Initially this may be another bilateral agreement with Turkey alone, but more probably the over-all grouping may be taking shape at this time. Iran has been receiving American military and economic aid, too.

The northern tier of defense, below the Soviet flank, may fill in later by inclusion of Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. Depending on circumstances, one or more of this trio may sign up earlier in the game. Of the three only Jordan has a real army. That's the British-trained Arab Legion of 18,000 men, headed by the fabulous Glubb Pasha, a British general.

Egypt, faced with a fait accompli, may change her mind about relations to the West. But it's extremely unlikely she can change the present organization plans of other Arab League states.

Marilyn Monroe May Play Role of Mary Pickford

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When the Mary Pickford life story hits the screen, it could well have Marilyn Monroe playing America's sweetheart.

Miss Pickford herself hinted yesterday that Miss Monroe would be more than acceptable in the role.

The famed star of silent pictures hosted a press conference at the fabulous Pickfair Estate to give her side of her long feud with producer Sam Goldwyn, much of which has been thrashed out in court.

She said she will bid the limit for the studio which goes on the auction block April 2. The court has ordered this step to end long litigation.

Miss Pickford and the late Douglas Fairbanks bought it together in 1921. Goldwyn later bought out Fairbanks' heirs, although Mary still owns 51.75 per cent of the studio real estate.

Miss Pickford claims Goldwyn won't even give her a key to the studio.

"Since 1929," she said, "the lot has been one of the busiest television and movie studios in town, yet I have never even received an accounting of the profits, much less any profits themselves.

"But Sam always makes sure that I pay 51.75 per cent of all tax and insurance bills."

Ike Urges Support for Relief Programs

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower has urged support of church overseas relief programs to help preserve world peace and "keep faith with the finest tradition and heritage of America."

In a letter to Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, president of the National Council of Churches, Eisenhower yesterday endorsed the 1955 interdenominational united appeal for 9½ million dollars to support overseas relief and reconstruction work.

AEC Security Guard Hit by Hot Radiation

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A security guard drove by error into a dangerous area and sustained the heaviest radiation ever received by an employe at its atomic proving ground, the Atomic Energy Commission has disclosed.

The AEC said yesterday that Eugene D. Haynes, 36, of Cotati, Calif., ventured into an area of higher radioactivity after the March 1 shot while patrolling a zone not considered dangerous.

He received an exposure of 39 roentgens. The AEC said that Haynes was not hospitalized and said that the dosage was not expected to cause any serious or permanent injury.

Uranium Boom Wakes Up Depression-Struck Town

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill. (INS)—Uranium fever has hit Elizabethtown, turning the tiny depression-struck community on the banks of the Ohio River into a roaring boomtown.

A week ago word leaked out that the precious metal which makes atomic bombs and paupers into millionaires had been discovered at Hicks Dome, a remote area of hilly, unproductive farmland 10 miles north of Elizabethtown.

Carloads of prospectors and speculators from as far away as Texas and Virginia descended on the town and today the Geiger counter packing breed has taken over.

Hardin County Clerk J. W. Henry, an 83-year-old native, said he has never seen anything like it.

His office has been swamped with requests to register lease agreements between prospectors and farmers. Henry declared:

"I'm about ready to go back into the hills and see if I can't find some of that uranium stuff myself."

The man responsible for bringing the town its first excitement since the river packets stopped calling a half-century ago is William Chenault, a 32-year-old university-trained prospector from Louisville, Ky., who made the Hicks Dome discovery.

Chenault flew to Sacremento, Calif., two weeks ago and outbid two Marion, Ky., rivals to win the right to mine the ore.

So far preliminary tests have been run on the first samples. It may be several weeks before the stuff that is making Geiger counters and suntillators" go crazy" is actually found to be uranium and not a relatively worthless radioactive material.

Meanwhile, the town's lone hotel — the 152-year-old Rose Hotel, said to be the oldest in Illinois—is booked to capacity with uranium hunters.

And the town's three restaurants, accustomed to serving moderate-priced meals, have begun serving "really good steaks" for the first time in years.

Elizabethtown has been in the midst of a business depression almost equal to the one in the 1930's.

Some 1,250 persons of the county's 7,000 population are on relief. They exist on government surplus beans, butter, milk and cheese.

Now, with a ray of hope in their eyes, the town's unemployed men talk excitedly of going to work for the uranium miners. The townsmen have been told there will be plenty of work for everybody once production starts.

Elizabethtown's only previous claim to fame was its fluorspar deposits, a metal that goes into steelmaking. It was once known as "The Nation's Fluorspar Capital," but in recent years steel companies have turned to lower priced Mexican ore and most of the local mines have shut down.

Dredge Put in Drydock

Thieves Strip Stripper of Her $1,000 Wardrobe

TOLEDO, Ohio (INS) — Burlesque stripper Jilly Huntley may do her "peeling" act in street clothes when she opens in Toledo tonight.

Miss Huntley, who was born Rose McCraken of Maple Shade, N. J., was robbed of all her burly-Q costumes, valued at $1,000, Thursday night after she wound up a week's run at the Youngstown Park Theater.

CD Advisory Committee Maps Five-Point Program

A five-point activity program was mapped for the newly formed advisory committee of the Pontiac civil defense organization's welfare division yesterday.

The advisory committee will act as the sparkplug for the welfare branch, which is directed by John A. Streit, of the Parks and Recreation Dept. The division's responsibility in wartime emergency is providing mass feeding, housing and clothing.

Here is the program to be followed by the committee, composed of seven key Pontiac figures and headed by Streit and Mrs. Mildred E. Bennett, executive secretary of the Oakland County American Red Cross Chapter:

1. Study and understand problems of emergency welfare service in Pontiac and for people who might seek shelter here in time of disaster.

2. set up an overall plan of welfare service.

3. Establish a sequence of action in putting the plan to use.

4. Appoint sub-committees.

5. Organize a program of education for the public so they will know what to do and where to go in emergency.

The Red Cross is an integral part of the program, Streit said, and much of the division's activities will be patterned on that organization's past experience.

The committee will meet again soon to formulate definite operational plans, Streit said.

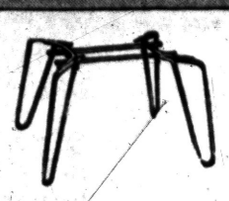

"It is hoped that before this year is very old we'll have some good action taken on getting subcommittees formed and on being prepared for emergencies, either wartime or natural," he said.

Serving on th committee are Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac school superintendent; James F. Spence, secretary-manager, Pontiac Manufacturers Assn.; John W. Hirlinger, assistant manager, chamber of commerce; the Rev. Milton H. Bank, Central Methodist Church; Howard V. Heldenbrand, manager, Hotel Waldron; Miss Ora L. Hinckley, Ookland County Bureau of Social Aid, and Sidney J. Winstanley, supermarket manager.

So Say Educators

That F Does Not Belong on Junior's Report Card

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Buck up, Junior! If you got an F on your school report card last month, perhaps it shouldn't be there.

But, the group admitted in an interview, it will take time to convince your teacher, your father, and even your school board.

"We don't have to have failures in our classrooms," said Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, of Providence, R. I., president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. J. C. Wrshrdlucmfwypscmfwypcm With her in the discussion were of public instruction; Dr. Francis G. Cornell, professor of education at the University of Illinois; Darrell Blodgett, superintendent of schools at Wheaton, Ill.; and Mrs. Irma Detjen, of Webster Groves, head of the Missouri Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Wright said grading children by arbitrary standards, whether the grades are good or bad, is unfair.

Chief objection to the present day report, said Dr. Cornell, is that it tells only what happened the past semester and gives no indication of what the child can or will do in the future.

Some communities, the educators said, have replaced grade report cards with the following:

A parent - teacher conference about each child at the end of each semester (more often if necessary.)

A narrative-type report card, on which the teacher discusses each of the child's subjects.

For greater benefits, the educators said, the child should have the same teacher two or three consecutive years rather than change each semester or year.

Where parent - teacher conferences have been started, they have been successful, they said.

Wright said 98 per cent of the parents cooperated with such a program at Keokuk, Iowa.

Asked what about the child who couldn't learn, without calling either the child or the teacher a failure, the panel proposed a special class.

Age of H-Bomb Beats Cave Life

Two British Students Find No Happiness in Turning Primitive

LONDON (AP)—Two British students emerged from self exile in a cave today, convinced that life in the H-bomb age is better than a caveman's existence.

The students are Tearlach MacLean, 22, and Arthur Shepherd, 23, of Reading University.

The whole thing started when their debating society advanced a motion:

Resolved:—That man should return to his original state to find happiness and escape from the frustrations of modern life."

The students were not so sure about that.

Reasoning that the only way to prove their point was to retreat to a cave, they found one near Reading and burrowed inside. They stuck it out for 3 days, eating 8 pigeons and 2 loaves of bread and drinking several pints of water.

When Shepherd's weight dropped from 144 pounds to 136, they abandoned the experiment, convinced that they had proven their point—that precious little happiness lurks inside a cold cave.

"If man went back to the primitive state," they said, "only harm would result."

Detailing their experiences in the cave, for the benefit of the debating society, they recorded:

"It was extremely unpleasant at times due to the cold. Unless a person is in good health his chances of survival would be small.

"Any lack of firewood would be a catastrophe. Man under these conditions would not be better, but would be far worse off than under modern civilized conditions."

Concerning the possibilities of happiness and escape from frustration they reported:

"Man certainly has no time to contemplate.

"All his time is taken up by the struggle to exist.

"The advance of man under these conditions must have been very slow, but as the store of knowledge grew it would gain momentum."

Proposing Changes in Security Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department plans to announce late today a number of proposed changes in the federal employe security program. The basic principles of the program are expected to remain unchanged.

Officials yesterday gave newsmen advance word of the pending announcement, but they declined to give any details.

Acting under White House orders, the Justice Department has been at work on the proposed revisions for several weeks.

Asst. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins dropped a hint of what was to come when he spoke Feb. 15 at Glendirge, N.J. Tompkins, head of the Justice Department's internal security division, said then the changes would be designed "to improve the administration of the program" and to protect further the rights of individuals.

Dies of Auto Injuries

DETROIT (AP)—John Zagorski, 72, of Detroit died Friday of injuries suffered Wednesday when he was struck by a car while crossing a Detroit street.

Number of Workers in Government Dips

WASHINGTON (AP)—Civilian employes of federal executive agencies totaled 2,353,573 in January, a decrease of 14,499 from the previous month.

A Senate - House expenditures committee, headed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va), said the decrease was accounted for largely by the dropping of temporary employes of the Census Bureau.

The report said employment in civilian agencies was 1,170,191, off 17,975 from December, while civilian employment in military agencies in January totaled 1,183,382, an increase of 3,476 from the previous month.

Plane Loses Parts, Comes Down Safely

CHICAGO (AP) — The pilot of a shuttle service plane landed safely at O'Hare Field yesterday after losing a cylinder and part of the cowling of one engine in flight.

The 10 passengers and two crewmen escaped injury.

The pilot of the two-engine Lockheed Electra, George Herbert, 35, said he made a "normal one-engine landing" and that his only trouble was in getting taxicabs for the passengers afterwards.

En route from Chicago's Midway Airport to an airport at suburban Park Ridge, the plane blew the cylinder over the city's heavily populated Northwest Side. The cylinder and the cowling piece crashed through the roof of an auto agency, but no one was hurt.

19 Nations to Take Part in Peaceful Atom Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists and engineers from 19 foreign nations will start this month a seven-month study of peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The Atomic Energy Commission is conducting the school at its Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago in cooperation with the State Department and the Foreign Operations Administration. The course will involve highly technical but nonsecret study of atomic reactors for both research and power generation.

MORE PEOPLE BOUGHT FORD CARS IN 1954 than any other make!

*Ford passenger-car sales to customers outnumbered those of any other make by thousands

AND IT'S EASY TO SEE WHY!

Ford is the leader in ride

Ford was first in its field to introduce Ball-Joint Front Suspension—the greatest advance in chassis design in 20 years. And for '55, it's even better. Springs are set at an angle to smooth out even the tiniest bumps. It's the new Ford Angle-Poised Ride.

Ford is the leader in styling

Motorists know that Ford has set the style trend in the industry for years. And now, with styling inspired by the fabulous Thunderbird, Ford is farther out front than ever!

Ford is the leader in V-8 power

Ford was first in its field (by 23 years) to provide the advantages of V-8 power. Since that time, Ford has built over 14,000,000 V-8 engines—more than all other makers combined! For 1955, Ford offers two new and mighty V-8's, as well as a most modern Six—all with the split-second response of Trigger-Torque power!

New Type of Blimp Will Hunt for Subs

AKRON, O. (UP) — A new-type blimp, to be used by the U.S. Navy for hunting submarines, is being built here.

The Goodyear Aircraft Corp., is not very talkative about the slimmer-than-conventional lighter-than-air craft that has been seen floating around here, but it does admit that it contains a lot of unique equipment.

One feature that can't be hidden is its three tails, instead of the conventional four.

The firm, which built that World War II sub-hunting stalwart, the K-ship, did say the new 2G-1, as it's designated, is "equipped with latest developments adaptable to such aircraft to enable it to detect, locate and attack enemy submarines in the event of war . . . (and to) refuel in flight from surface craft and can reballast by a water pickup system."

U.S. to Attempt to Free Fliers

America Giving Up on U.N. Efforts to Get 15 Men Out of China

WASHINGTON (INS)—The U.S. government is getting ready to give up on United Nations efforts to free 15 American airmen imprisoned in Red China unless there are some results soon.

This has been disclosed by a well-informed official who said the U.S. would then take over the job to get the fliers out.

The problem of the airmen has received the personal study of the highest members of the government, this official added, including President Eisenhower.

The State Department declined to put any deadline on when the U. S. would take over the campaign to get the fliers released.

An official did say, however, "The way things are going, it won't be long."

Negotiations to get the men freed has been in the hands of the U.N. since last December when the General Assembly condemned Communist China for holding them and asked Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to work for their release.

Hammarskjold then undertook his "mission to Peiping" where he conferred with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. He came back without the fliers and without any assurances that they would be freed.

The top U.N. official has been back in the U.S. for two months and, although he has frequently communicated with Chou, there is no evidence he is any closer to getting the men out than when he first returned.

Possible steps the U.S. government might take if it did decide to take over the job of trying to get the men free include:

1. Direct negotiations with the Reds at Geneva. This channel was set up following the Far Eastern conference last summer and has been used 11 times so far by the U.S. in talks to free civilians held by the Communist Chinese.

These conversations have had some success in that 18 civilians have been released since last June. There are still 41 in prison behind the Bamboo Curtain.

2. Asking a third party outside the U.N. to negotiate for the men. This agent could be Britain, India or Burma, all of whom maintain diplomatic relations with Red China, and all of whom have indicated their willingness to act as mediators.

The British in the past have often spoken for the U.S. in Peiping and would do so again, but Burma or India might have more success since they are on better terms with the Reds.

Eleven of the airmen have been sentenced to prison terms of from 4 to 10 years as spies although they were shot down over Korean territory during the war.

The four others are F86 Sabre Jet pilots also shot down in the Korean conflict, who have not been sentenced so far.

DRAMATIC DUO—Cornel Wilde looks over the script of "The Blond Dog" with his wife, Jean Wallace, with whom he stars Sunday in his TV debut. It is a psychological drama of a struggling photographer who runs over what he believes to be a blond dog and is later accused of killing its owner, a beautiful screen star.

Walking Dangerous

Fish Wins by Spank

SANDPOINT, Ida. (UP)—Harold Stokke tells of the big fish that spanked him before it got away. He says he hooked a big Kamloop trout in Pend Oreille Lake and reeled it in. The fish jumped into the boat, slapped Stokke where spankings are administered, and then flopped back into the lake and swam away.

Lodging for Night Furnished Gladly

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP) — Policeman M. J. Byrd, Jr., searched all day for a stolen car driven by a man also wanted for passing bad checks.

He went off duty at midnight without finding a trace of the car or its driver. As he stepped from his auto at home a man stepped from the bushes brandishing a knife. Byrd drew his service revolver and disarmed the man.

He took a closer look. It was the man he had hunted all day, and the car for which he had been searching was nearby.

"I was just driving around looking for a room for the night," the man protested.

"I think I can find you one," Byrd said as he snapped on the handcuffs.

Inquisitive Officer Finds Meter Reversed

FARMER CITY, Ill. (UP)—Police Chief O. W. Reinke did a double-take when he got around to reading his light meter here.

The chief, whose various duties include reading city light and water meters, couldn't understand his low kilowatt hours, and a check revealed the reason—the mechanism was running backward.

A new meter was installed and proceeded to run in reverse. Investigation disclosed that the line was shorted at a nearby used car lot.

Monday Final Day to Register for Voting in April 4 Election

Romeo Local Plans Circuit Court Appeal

ROMEO — A spokesman for the Romeo Local of the Michigan Milk Producers Assn. said today the group will appeal to circuit court in its move for reorganization of the MMPA.

Local President Harold Fritz said the group will seek a ruling on the rights of association members.

The Romeo local is seeking the ouster of the MMPA directors and a change in election procedures. The parent organization branded the Romeo local's proposals as "illegal and irresponsible."

Increasing population of the U. S. will require available farm acreage to produce at least 25 per cent more food by 1975 to maintian present American standards of living and eating.

Rochester Rotary to Be Guest of Romeo Club

ROMEO — Rochester Rotarians will be guests of the Romeo Rotary Club at the Veterans' Hall here next Tuesday evening at a special showing of "The Great Adventure."

The movie features veteran stage and screen actor Edward Arnold, supported by a cast of 30 actors from Australia, Brazil, India, Japan, Scotland, Sweden and the USA. It was produced in observance of the golden anniversary of the founding of the first Rotary Club.

Talent Show Set at Romeo High

Contestants From Wide Area to Vie for Prizes Tuesday Night

ROMEO—Students from Rochester, Utica, Warren, Imlay City and other areas are expected to compete with Romeo youths Tuesday when the third annual Pop Concert and Talent Show, starts at 7:30 p.m. in Romeo High School.

Current hit parade selections and musical comedy show numbers will be featured at the pop concert, which will comprise the first part of the program. Music will be by the Romeo High School concert band, under the direction of E. C. Ojala.

The talent show will occupy the last half of the program. There will be prizes awarded in two divisions—junior division for youngsters under 14 years of age, and the senior division for contestants over 14.

A committee of nine music students has been responsible for planning the program, Mary Jane Dupont, president of the Romeo High School Band Council, reported.

Proceeds from the annual event will be turned over to the school band fund, which is used to finance band members' trips to music festivals and to provide additional opportunities for Romeo band students.

Youths Admit Thefts in Five Counties

FLINT (AP) —Police today said two Ann Arbor youths have admitted a crime spree which carried them through 17 burglaries and safe robberies in five southern Michigan counties.

Held on suspicion of burglary were Roland E. Marsh, 22, and David Lovely, 18. Police said burglary tools were found in their car upon a routine investigation yesterday.

Officers said the pair admitted burglaries at Holly, Flint, Ann Arbor, Mt. Morris, Dexter, Midland, Saline, Brighton, Maybee and Pinckney.

Southfield High Band Wins Class A Rating

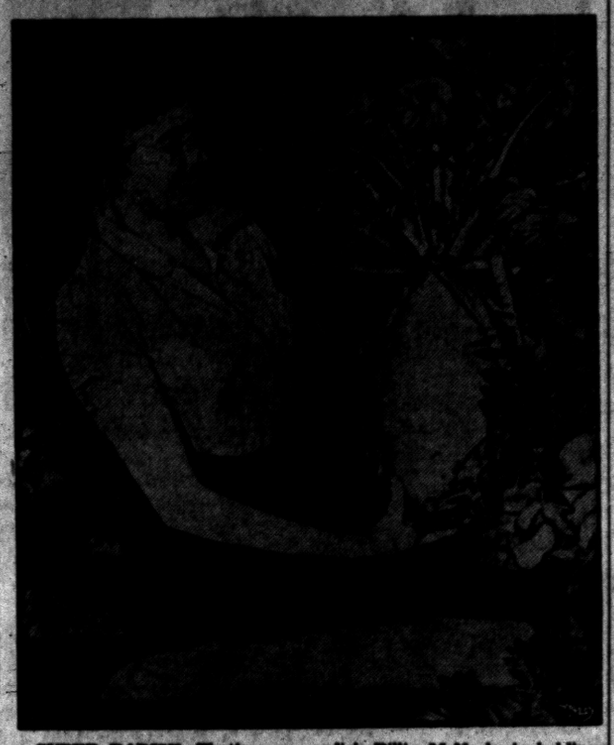

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — The high school band was awarded a number one rating at the 22nd annual band and orchestra festival sponsored by the Southeastern Michigan District Band and Orchestra Assn.

Southfield High School band members will take part in the April 16 state band contest for class A high schools at the University of Michigan.

Arthur Witham Dies at Romeo Farm Home

ROMEO — Arthur Witham, retired president of the Phillips & McCreedy Machine Tool Co. of Mt. Clemens and a past president of the Michigan Aberdeen Angus Breeders Assn., died at his Romeo farm home yesterday. He was 82.

Funeral services will be held Monday in Romeo.

SUPER RADISH—That's some radish Billie McNeely is holding, and as you might expect, it was grown in Texas—Sulphur Springs, that is. But the Lone Star State can't take all the credit, because the giant radish is a Japanese variety grown from South African seed. Weighing 15 pounds and up, they're grown to feed dairy cattle, because the cows love 'em, top and all, and they don't flavor the milk.

MRS. ROBERT HENK

LAKE ORION — Virginia Lee Marlin became the bride of Robert Richard Henk at a Nuptial High Mass Saturday morning in St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Virginia is the daughter of the Lawrence Marlins of Bellevue road. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Henk of Mt. Clemens are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was dressed in a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin, with a lace peplum cascading from the waist over the floor-length skirt of tulle, and a fitted bodice.

A demi-cap of sequins and seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and rosebuds.

Nancy Henk, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Mary Weber of Royal Oak was bridesmaid. Sherryl Rogers, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Best man was August Eckhart of Mt. Clemens and Gerald Donovan of Imlay City served as attendant. Richard Kenderick and Lawrence Marlin seated the guests. Ann Eckhart Kenderick was the soloist.

Romeo Students Picked to Attend State Conclaves

ROMEO — Three Romeo High School junior class girls were chosen this week to attend Wolverine Girls' State to be held at the University of Michigan. This is the first time that Romeo has been represented at the annual spring conclave for high school girls.

The three students, who were sponsored by the student council and selected by the teachers, are Mary Jane Dupont, Delores Edwards and Nancy Martell. They will attend the Girls' State activities in Ann Arbor the week of March 12.

Four Romeo High School boys and two alternates, all members of the junior class, were named to attend Wolverine Boys' State in June. This conclave is scheduled to be held at Michigan State College.

The Romeo representatives will be Fred Farr Jr., James Schmalzreidt, Carl Reimann, and Todd Kaiser. The alternates are William Redman and William Holmes. One boy will be named to go to Boys' State from the two alternates.

The four boys and alternates were chosen by the local high school faculty from ten names submitted by the junior class. Sponsoring the Romeo delegates to the East Lansing conference are the American Legion, the Rotary and Lions Clubs, and the high school Varsity "R" Club.

The qualifications determining the selection of the delegates to both of the Wolverine conferences include physical cleanliness, mental alertness, vigorousness, enthusiasm, personality, honesty, thriftiness and sportsmanship.

About one-third of all Americans —48 million persons, live in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Schedule Caucuses in Rose Township

ROSE TOWNSHIP—A March 11 date has been set for caucuses in Rose Township. The meetings are slated for the town hall.

The Republican meeting to select the candidates for the April 4 election will be held at 1 p.m., and the Democratic meeting at 3 p.m.

Nominations will be made for the offices of supervisor, clerk, treasurer, two trustees, justice of the peace, board of review, and constables.

Imlay Board of Review Sets Hearing Dates

IMLAY TOWNSHIP—The Imlay Township board of review will meet in the library building March 8, 9, 14 and 15.

Residents dissatisfied with their tax assessments are invited to confer with the board.

Registrants Urged to Come in Early, Avoid Last-Minute Lineup

Unregistered voters who wish to cast ballots in the April 4 spring biennial election have until 8 p.m. Monday to make the preparations.

Monday is the final day for registration throughout the townships, cities and villages of the county.

Clerks' offices are scheduled to remain open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. to insure everyone a chance to register.

Unregistered residents will not be able to cast ballots for their township officials or vote on the school loan fund and a minor change in the election law which also will be on the ballot.

People who have not voted in the last four years and fail to get their names on the books Monday will not have a chance to cast ballots for the two justices of the state supreme court, two regents of agriculture, the superintendent of public instruction and a member of the state board of education.

Most clerks offices will register anyone in line at 8 p.m., but officials urge that registration be done as early in the day as possible to avoid long waiting.

Area Debate Teams in Quarter-Finals

Lake Orion and Hazel Park High School debate teams will be among nine teams to compete in the Michigan High School Forensic Association quarter-finals.

Winners of the quarter-finals will compete for the state championship at the University of Michigan on April 30. Quarterfinals will be conducted on or before March 12.

Lake Orion will be matched against Albion, Hazel Park will oppose Battle Creek, and Melvindale will vie against Lansing Eastern in the A division.

In the B division, Hesperia will meet Mecosta, with the winner of that match meeting the champions from Detroit Country Day contest.

Helen Tamm Wed to Edward Lasich in Farmington

FARMINGTON — The Salem Evangelical Church was the setting recently for the candlelight wedding ceremony of Helen Lucille Tamm and Edward N. Lasich.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tamm of 38396 13 Mile Rd. Parents of the bridegroom are George Lasich of Farmington and Mrs. Beatrice Marsh of Munising.

A gown designed with lace over satin forming a short train was worn by the bride. The skirt was inset with side panels of pleated net and her fingertip veil was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls.

Mrs. Jack Lasich, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Viola and Wilma Tamm, also the bride's sisters, were bridesmaids.

OES Will Meet Monday

CLARKSTON — A social hour will follow Monday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Joseph C. Bird chapter No. 294, Order of the Eastern Star. Members will gather at the Masonic Temple.

Dairymen in the U. S. have an annual income estimated to be somewhat in excess of $4.5 billion each year.

RED CROSS IS CALLING

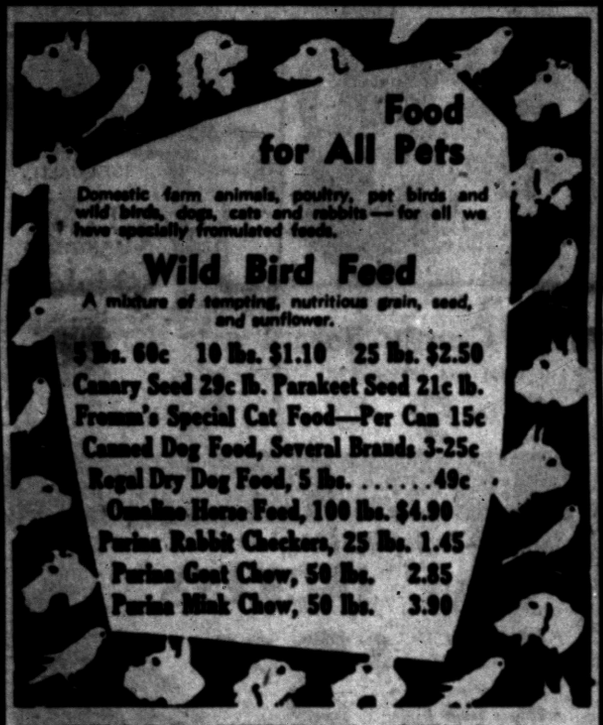

The smash of cannon ball, whistle, swish, spunk of bullets did not deter Clara Barton. She was told there were soldiers out in the field of battle who needed surgical dressings, clothing and food. She climbed aboard a mule, fearlessly shrugged aside warnings, "You'll be killed. Worse, taken prisoner." A stubborn nosed, tough, swaggering Army sergeant, never known to utter a kind word left this expression: "I thought that night if heaven ever sent out a holy angel, she must be the one, her assistance was so timely." Clara Barton is the mother of Red Cross.

Since 1882 many women, and men, have climbed aboard a mule to carry the mercy of Red Cross to wounded, to homeless, to desolated persons in hurricane, flood and fire. That mule is waiting at your door; put your check in the pouch on the saddle bags that someone who needs assistance may have it. Red Cross is you. Ride for the relief of him who needs you.

HICKORY GROVE MODERN — Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Henderson chose a red brick modern home at 130 Hickory Grove Rd. when they were looking for a comfortable and compact house for two. The double garage door at the right is electronically controlled and the front porch is faced with vertical white clapboard for a trim note. One strip of wrought iron grill work provides a support post for the recessed porch and also adds decorative interest. The fireplace chimney which centers the house is actually the central wall of the home where a peninsular facility faces living room, dining room and its wall extends into the kitchen. Floor plan of the home includes a bedroom wing with two bedrooms and a master bathroom, an open-plan living and dining room, kitchen and second bathroom. The full basement has a recreation room and a laundry and furnace unit.

Your Neighbor's House

Home on Hickory Grove Built for Two

"A house for two" with plenty of room for guests is what the Stuart Hendersons have achieved in their red brick contemporary at 130 Hickory Grove Rd.

A house that was easy to care for and a house that was easy to live in were the two things the Hendersons kept uppermost in their minds when they started to house-shop a year ago.

They chose a home with a floor plan that offers two bedrooms, two bathrooms, a large, free-wall living and dining room combination and a kitchen plus a full basement with recreation room. There is also a spacious outdoor porch (to be screened for warm weather living) and a two-car garage with electronically controlled doors.

They also selected such permanent features for their home as:

1. All marble window sills.
2. Aluminum framed windows with attached screens with the glass in two panes eliminating the steaming problems.
3. A peninsular fireplace which forms the central wall of the house and extends into the kitchen as a partial wall.
4. Ceramic tile for both bathroom walls and floors.

The exterior of the Henderson house has a white clapboard section framing the front entrance. The front of the house measures 70 feet with a depth of 24 feet.

The fireplace wall, done in Roman brick, has a two-way opening making it possible to have the one fire serve both the living room and the dining room. Folding brass screens cover the openings.

Beige twist carpeting was chosen for the floors with the walls of these central rooms done in Spanish brown. The ceiling is a soft white.

Furnishings, too, the Hendersons selected with ease of care in mind. A sectional is covered in white leather. The several occasional tables have black lacquered legs with the wood grained plastic tops. Lamps are of the pull-down type with parchment shades.

One chair is in persimmon with black, white and gold threads and another is done in lime and chartreuse tapestry.

Another separating unit divides the kitchen and the dining area. The bottom of this facility has birch drawers and cupboards. Formica is used for the counter top and pass-through with a folding bamboo curtain making it possible to shut off the kitchen.

For kitchen coloring, Mrs. Henderson chose yellow paper for one wall with bright green pine and cones. The other walls pick up the same yellow in paint and although all of the cupboard drawers and doors are finished in natural birch, the framework is painted the same yellow.

The hardware is copper.

A green plastic material covers the counters and a chopping block has been inserted in one working counter. Making it easy to keep clean is a fine steel moulding framing the wood section. This same plastic has been used for the walls back of the work counters.

In the bedroom wing of the house, all of the floors are made of hardwood. Spacious closets have sliding doors and windows are placed to provide cross ventilation. Coloring for these rooms has a pink and gray bathroom matching the master bedroom.

The bathroom, with its fixtures and its tiled walls in gray has the upper sections painted a soft pink. This same pink is picked up in accessories for curtains and towels. A built-in vanity with gray plastic top is also provided.

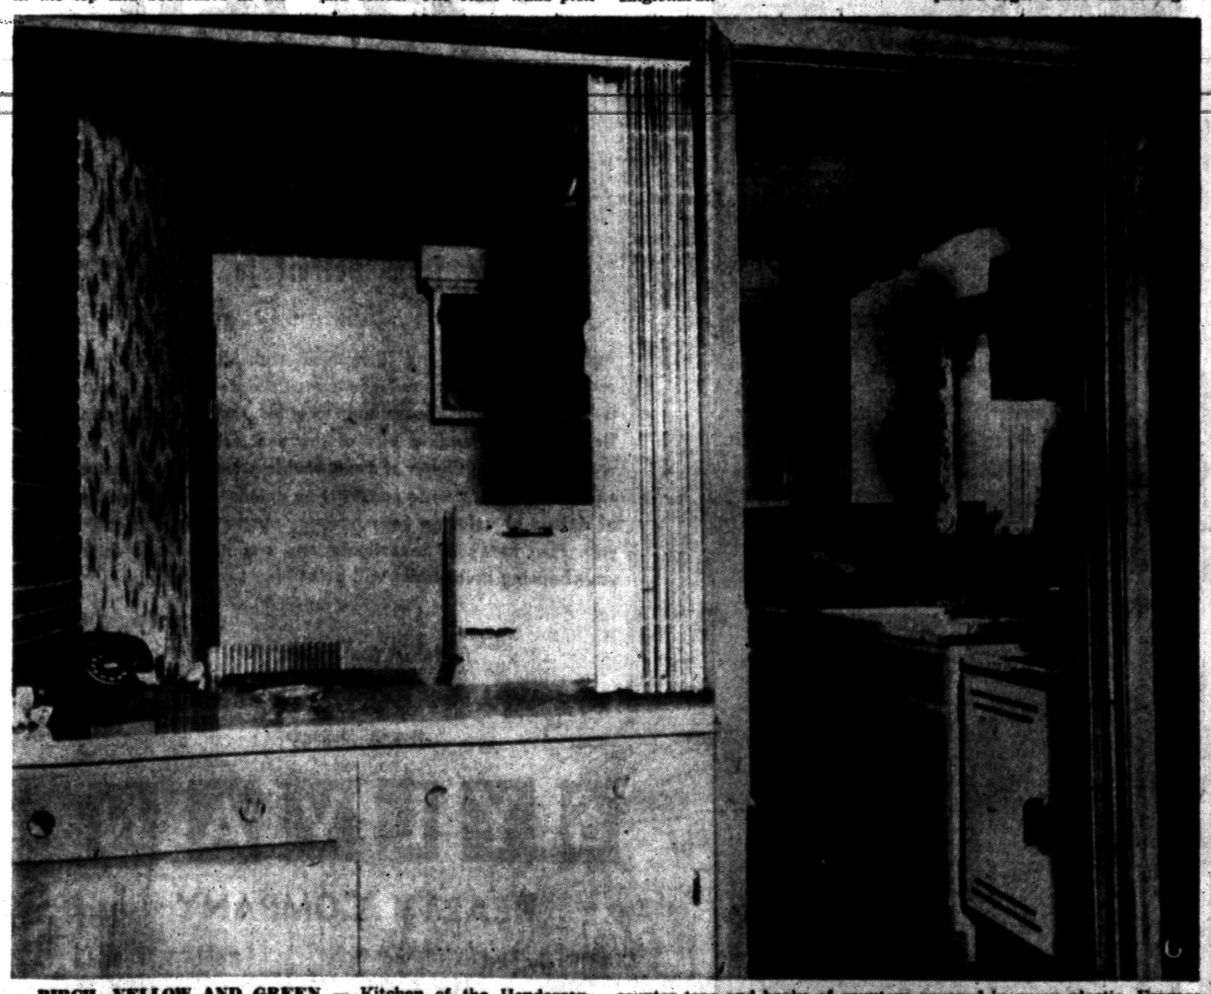

Future plans for the Hendersons include finishing the recreation room which now has a pine bar.

PLAN FOR COMFORT — One room appears to blend in with the other in the Henderson home. The living room with its beige twist carpeting has Spanish brown walls and a soft white ceiling. For furnishings, Mrs. Henderson selected easy-to-care-for leather for a two-piece sectional and plastic-topped occasional tables with black lacquered legs. Other furnishings are in persimmon with black, white and gold tweed. Another chair is in a lime and chartreuse combination. All doors and woodwork in the house are birch with aluminum window frames and marble sills. The upper right hand photo shows the peninsular fireplace which is the central wall of the house. With a two-way opening, the Hendersons can have fire for both the dining and living room side of the area. A pull-down lamp is placed on the fireplace end for reading adjustment.

BIRCH, YELLOW AND GREEN — Kitchen of the Henderson home has one wall partially done in the Roman brick of the fireplace wall with the remainder papered in yellow printed with green pine boughs. The other walls are painted in the same yellow tone with counter tops and backs of counters covered in green plastic. Frames of the cupboards are painted white with all of the doors done in natural birch. A sliding in-the-wall door allows complete closing of the kitchen.

KITCHEN PASS-THROUGH — The counter with cupboard base pass-through unit permits easy serving from kitchen to dining room in the Henderson home. A folding bamboo screen can be closed for kitchen privacy. Using warm earth tones, Mrs. Henderson chose browns, greens, oranges and yellows for her basic color scheme. Note the bookcase and planter unit near the front door entrance. This serves as a room divider.

The population of the United States increased by 2 per cent in 1954.

Screw Driving Made Easy

Start Hard Wood by Drilling a Pilot Hole to Prevent Splitting

There are easy and hard, right and wrong ways to drive a screw. The right way makes for a better job, and it is almost always the easiest way.

To start a screw in soft wood, make a shallow indentation with a nail set, an awl or a gimlet. Drill a pilot hole when driving a screw into hard wood. This will lessen the chance of splitting the wood, and you won't be so likely to break down the edges of the slot in the screw head.

Depth of the pilot hole should be about two-thirds the length of the screw. The diameter should be a little smaller than the diameter of the screw's smooth shank. A screw will go into any wood more easily if you rub soap on the threads.

To conceal a screw, drill a shallow hole slightly larger than the head. Set the screw in the hole; then fill in over the head with Plastic Wood, built up a bit higher than the surface of the board. Sand down after filler has hardeneed.

Screws that will be exposed to the weather can be protected against rust by coating them with a thick paste made by mixing powdered graphite with linseed oil; or, if no great strain is involved you can use non-rusting brass or aluminum screws.

A screw that has worked loose in its hole can be given a firm grip by filling the hole with plastic wood. Reset the screw after the filler has hardened over night. If you want to remove the screw that has "frozen" in place, heat it by holding the tip of a soldering iron to its head. This will break the bond with the wood.

Plan Decoration Ahead of Time

The time to decorate your house is before you buy or build it.

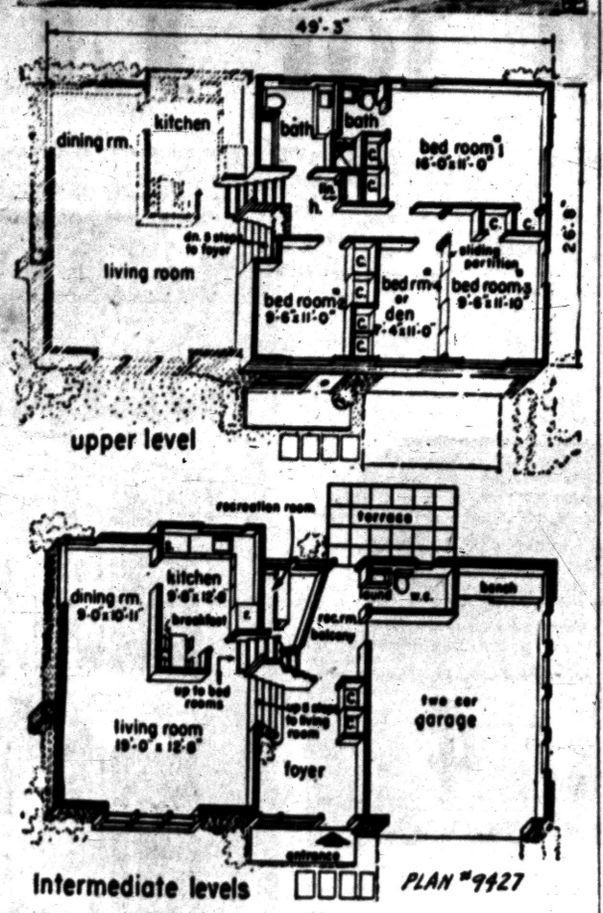

Color schemes, room shape and arrangement, furnishings, materials for floor, walls and countertops must all be decided upon well in advance of drawing up the building plans.

Discuss the problem thoroughly with your architect. You'll be surprised to learn of the wonderful versatility of most quality building materials.

Ceramic tile, for instance, now comes in 200 different colors and is used not only in bathrooms and kitchens but in other rooms as well. Only personal investigation will reveal the rich variety possible with economical standard materials and furnishings.

A MODERN SPLIT-LEVEL—A house with four bedrooms, 2½ baths and a two-car garage. A recreation room 11 by 30 feet and a heater room are located under the living-dining-kitchen part of the house. In spite of the amount of room space, het house covers only 1,291 square feet. This is plan 9427 by Rudolph A. Matern, architect, 90-04 161st St. Jamaica 2, N. Y. The design was selected by the Coleman Co., Wichita, Kan. for its 1955 Trend house to demonstrate practical heating and air conditioning for split-level dwellings.

When House Plants Need Lift, Borrow Worklight

There's something about an herb garden that brings out the cook in the little woman. Give her a vista (and a wiff) from the kitchen window of growing chives, thyme, sage or sweet basil—and she'll rummage through the cook books for some savory way to use them.

Setting up an herb garden is a

out of an otherwise just plain eating meal. Herbs at the kitchen door challenge the cook to bigger simple proposition. It's economical and pleasing, too. Did you ever get the shock, on a quiet Sunday morning, of hearing the lady of the house, in the midst of her dinner preparation, exclaim:

"I need chives for salad. Will you take the car an drive somewhere and see if a store is open where you can get some, dear?"

This happens in some of the best regulated families. Now is the time to plan for thyme . . . or chives . . . or what you like.

First, the herb garden does not have to be large. A little bit of this, and a little bit of that, goes a long way to make a tasty dish and better epicurian delights.

Once started, some of your herbs are perennial, such as sage. There's nothing like a border or row of parsley or chives along with the herb garden.

Parsley is used in many ways, from garnish for roast or chops, to flavor for soups. If you haven't had chives in salads, or chopped in the morning scrambled eggs, try it.

Some herbs are aromatic rather than edible, such as lavender for milady's use in scenting around the house linen department. The blossoms can be hung and dried in the attic, crushed, and placed in airtight jars.

Try to set up a suitable place for the herb garden near the culinary department of your home. Some folks use window box arrangements outside the kitchen windows. In the herb garden area you could add some garden scallions.

Take stock of your favorite eating department. Decide what delicate morsels you and the family would like. Remember, herbs are a small item in the garden, requiring little care and giving much eating satisfaction.

Open Plans Now Popular

Informal Living Mode Can Be Designed With Creative Ideas

In home design, sound common sense will often lead you to the unconventional.

It all depends on the kind of atmosphere you want in your home—the sort of life your family enjoys living. One thing most families agree on is informality. But provision for informal living has to be carefully — and creatively — planned if your family is to reap the fullest from its life at home.

If your family is actively informal, as most American families are, the so-called "open plan" of interior design is probably the most suitable. It makes for more varied physical activities.

In such homes, architects have allotted as much as one-half of the entire floor space to the main "open plan" living area. It's unconventional, but it makes sense.

Why hamstring your interests, curtail you family's enjoyment of life?

Standard proven materials are being used in unconventional and creative new ways, too. In the case of the extra-large living room area, where a variety of family activities go on, durable tile is being used for flooring and wall segments.

Penetrating Sealer Sinks

A good penetrating sealer will actually sink into the pores of the tight-grained hardwoods used for residence floors. It leaves no surface film to be scratched or marred. Worn spots may be removed without going over the entire floor.

Holland has 200 miles of sand dunes which serve well as natural dikes.

Scientific Wash Methods Result in Real Beauty

Homemakers today are taking a more thoughtful approach to their housekeeping methods.

If there's a really scientific way to do a job, the average woman wants to find out about it. She's learning that proper care increases the life and beauty of her furnishings to such a significant degree the subject is worth some study.

Take the laundering of slipcovers, for example. There's a right way even of doing that. It doesn't consist of just dumping them into the suds.

The first part of the job, of course, is to see that you buy only color-fast, pre-shrunk fabrics and color-fast bindings, fasteners and thread. Never let your slipcovers become too badly soiled before you launder them, that's what wears them out, the soil that's allowed to remain in the fabric.

First vacuum-clean your covers thoroughly, using the crevice attachment on seams and bindings. Then remove any bad spots, and proceed to wash the slipcovers according to the right method for each particular fabric.

HOUSE OF TOMORROW—Your house of tomorrow may include many of the features of this home, designed by Thorshov and Cerny, Minneapolis architects, to show how smartly styled asbestos-cement siding shingles add interest and charm to a modern home. The living elements are linked around a court, which is roofed in glass and has glass sliding doors. In summer, the court is an extension of the outdoors; in winter it is a garden under glass. A shingle-backing system accents the horizontal shadows cast by the asbestos siding. Some of the interior walls are similarly treated "to further accent the beauty and design flexibility of asbestos siding. Deep colored asbestos singles cover the low pitched roof and tie the house closely into its surroundings. Asbestos products were chosen for the exterior, the designers reported, because of their excellent wearing qualities and strength to withstand temperature extremes.

Garage Offers Extra Room

A Little Conversion Makes Space for Den, Guest Room, Study

If your house just won't stretch any farther you can gain needed space by converting the garage into an extra room.

Because most homes built in the last few years have attached garages, this remodeling job is a "natural" for expanding the house. The new room can be used for a recreation den, guest room, study or an extension of the living room area. In any case, be sure to provide for a lot of built-in shelf and storage space. You'll never regret it.

It's usually best to take out the entire wall between house and garage. This will be the biggest structural change to undertake, but it's actually not difficult to do. Cover walls and ceiling with wallboard and install tile right over the concrete slab. This will make a floor that's ideal for a heavy activity center.

Put in folding doors between the house and the new room and use lightweight partitioning if you want to include a bathroom or shower stall. In the garage door framework you might consider installing a large bay or picture window.

Now that more room has been provided for family life, a carport with roof and supports can be constructed for the family auto. This space can also be used as a rainy day playroom for the children. And as a last touch to perfect your project, a tiled terrace may be extended across the rear of the new room and carport, thus affording an outdoor room and integrating the whole area.

Economical Siding

Asbestos-cement siding shingles, now made in a wide range of new styles and colors, remain among the most economical of siding materials.

Chaise Longues Streamlined for Comfort

The ruffle-skirted, chaise longue once standard equipment for the bedroom, isn't disappearing — it's just moving elsewhere in the home, and in new streamlined "attire."

Of particular interest at the recent Homefurnishings Market in Chicago were new chaises, designed for living room or den relaxation during television-viewing.

Typcial was a collection introduced by Selig of Leominster, scientifically contoured for anyone's anatomy, in fabrics to harmonize with any decor, and in sizes to seat one or two as need demands.

One, wider and longer, was named "King-size" by the concern.

Modern Designs Give Economy

Basic Materials Offer Beauty of Simplicity for Homes

Economy is an important factor in modern home design.

When a new home or remodeling of an older home is planned, homemakers insist on modern design because they get more quality for less money than in any other way. Other factors influence home design, but economy in these days of high costs is one of the most powerful.

Modern architecture owes its origin to men who recognized the esthetics of honest function and the beauty of basic materials such as wood, steel, stone and glass. But the movement never would have gained wide popularity if these innovations did not prove practical and money-saving.

Today, wise homemakers shopping for up-to-date and economical homes look for these features:

1. Simple basic plan. The home is either basement-less or without an attic. Building costs, upkeep and heating bills are greatly reduced when the house has only one or one and one-half floors.

2. Real economy, not a fictitious one. Cheap, shoddy materials only cause expensive repairs later on. Wanted are proven quality materials like tile in bathrooms and kitchens.

3. Open floor plan. It's modern because it's practical for active families. As children grow up, or interests change, room changes are possible quickly and without costly remodeling.

4. Extra space and convenience in bathrooms, kitchen and family room. Modern design stresses two bathrooms per family, larger automatic kitchens and a versatile family room.

5. Outdoor living. A quarry terrace adds an extra room for at least three-quarters of the year. It's modern—and it makes sense!

Plywood Defined

The U. S. Department of Commerce defines hardwood plywood as "wod engineered for beauty, strength and economical application." Because plywood is made of thin layers of wood bonded together at right angles to one another, builders refer to it as "engineered wood" and lumbermen call it "wood alloy" meaning that it is an improvement on the raw natural log.

This pattern is complete ready for tracing, sawing and assembling everything shown in the sketch except the train and track. Painting directions are given on the pattern to get realistic effects for the depot at Littleburg, the crossing tender's shanty and the gateman himself. Pattern 350 is 25c. It is included in the Right O' Way Packet which contains patterns for freight yard structures; overpass and culverts; tunnels through mountains made from newspaper clay, a mixture of shredded newspapers and paperhangers' paste. Also church and factory buildings. There are eighteen hundred square inches of tracing designs in this packet. Everything in correct proportion. Price of packet is $1 postpaid.

Asbestos Shingle Marks 50th Anniversary

The first asbestos-cement roofing shingle manufactured in the United States was produced in 1905, just 50 years ago, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce. That event, the department's construction division reports, marked the birth of one of the nation's major building materials industries.

The introduction of shingles made by combining two noncombustible ingredients, fibers of the mineral asbestos and portland cement, was a milestone in the history of fire-safe construction.

Since then hundreds of thousands of homes and other buildings have gained fire and weather protection through their use. Companion products now include siding shingles, flat board and corrugated sheets.

Asbestos shingles proved to have such durability and resistance to the elements that the earliest installations are still in serviceable condition. There is no reason to believe, in the opinion of experts who have examined them, that they will not be good for another fifty years.

The U. S. Bureau of Reclamation built 110 storage dams and 63 diversion dams from 1902 to 1952 and developed a water supply for 6,713,015 acres in the western states area.

Do-It-Yourself Sometimes Best Kind of Job to Duck

By. STEVE ELLINGSON

An old time farmer from back home in Havana, N. D., wrote us the other day. His letter reads: "Dear Steve: I'm afraid this do-it-yourself craze that I keep reading about, is going to get a lot of people into trouble. I done it myself for quite a long time, but last week the revenuers raided my still. I haven't done it since."

The following letter comes from a lady in Colorado. She says: "My husband just finished our new add-a-room. The floor at one corner is a foot higher than the other three; we solved that by cutting one of the legs off the bed. The trouble is, the save-a-space door that disappears into the wall is stuck shut and now my husband can't get out and I can't get in. Did he do something wrong?" (I recommended that she patent the mistake. It might be a very popular idea.)

Another man who lives in Ohio writes, he says: "I think the do-it-yourself idea is fine, however, an occasional column on, how-to - get - out - of -doing-it-yourself, might be helpful. It's getting so my wife has me booked up with projects for six weeks ahead of time. I got to have some rest."

Since everyone likes to rest (including us) we thought today's project should be a resting one. Not only that, spring and summer are just ahead and that's when we need outdoor furniture. Now you take the chaise pictured here with only a few tools to work with. It's a sturdy piece of furniture and will last for many years.

NBC's television actress Bobby Briggs. You couldn't find a finer piece of furniture to help you enjoy your yard. When summer comes, here's what you do. Put on a big straw hat, some cool pants, hold a shovel in one hand, a drink in the other, recline on this chaise, and tell the man where to dig.

The chaise is very comfortable and may be used with a pad or without. Since it has wheels, it's easy to move. As you can see, it has a slight curve to fit your curves.

And that isn't all ,it's very easy to build when you use the full size pattern. All you need do is trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and finally put them together.

The pattern lists the required materials along with easy-to-read step-by-step directions. It's designed to be used by the most inexperienced amateurs who have

To obtain the full size outdoor chaise pattern No. 81 send 75 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, the Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, Calif.

Maple Has Reflecting Value

According to recent laboratory tests, the reflectance value of maple flooring used in gymnasiums and classrooms, ranged from 32 per cent to 59 per cent.

The flooring tests included first, second and better and straight second grades — all northern hard maple.

Since the "American Standard Practice for School Lighting" refers to a reflectance value range of 15 per cent to 30 per cent for classroom floors, it can be seen that maple flooring is in a very advantageous position, considering its in-service average reflectance value.

Terry Cloth Covers Folding Chair

The Telescope Folding Furniture Company's famed "director's chair," with wood frame and sturdy canvas or plastic seat and back, is offered with additional seat and back slip cover of ice-cream-colored terry cloth.

The new feature permits the homemaker to alternate the covers for washing, furthers her decorating possibilities and protects the chair for longer wear.

BRUSH-FINISHED FURNITURE—A good brush, and the proper approach to furniture finishing, combine to yield high-quality results.

Brush-Finished Furniture Requires Proper Brushes

If you have always thought of sprayed-on furniture finishes as superior to the brushed-on variety, then you have never known a really high-quality brush, or what one of them will do.

While a good brush costs a lot of money, as compared to a cheap one, it's worth the investment. Wielded properly, and cared for as it should be, a good brush can outperform a spray gun.

The most popular brush for furniture finishing, whether the finish is shellac, varnish or enamel (lacquer), is two to two and a half inches wide. It has a chisel, or beveled, edge and medium-length, soft bristles.

You can recognize a good brush by several characteristics. Hold it up to a light and look for split ends of bristles. If it has them, that's good, because it means the brush will hold more material and spread it smoother. It also means the bristles weren't trimmed short, a characteristic of cheap brushes.

Spread the bristles and look at the wooden strip that separates bristles on one side of the brush from those on the other. If the strip is narrow, that's good, because it means the brush has more bristles.

Good brushes also have fine, flexible bristles.

Enough said of brushes. Now for a brief description of furniture-finishing technique.

First of all, a piece of furniture to be finished should be raised off the floor. Although this is chiefly a comfort factor, the comfort of the brush wielder is important to the end result of his efforts. Painting from awkward positions leads to sloppy work.

For finishing chairs and other small pieces of furniture, a turntable is an excellent idea. You can make one easily from an old, screw-type piano stool.

Chairs and tables should be finished from the bottom up. Paint all the bottom surfaces, including seat, legs and back. Stand chairs upright to paint the top surfaces, finishing the seat last.

Finish the bottom sections and edges of a table first. Then proceed to the legs. Do the inside surfaces of the legs next, then the sides of the table and the outsides of the legs. The top comes last.

If the legs are round, brush around them first, and finish with lengthwise strokes.

Before starting a cabinet or chest, remove all drawers, knobs and hardware. If possible, mount the cabinet on two sawhorses. Begin application of the finishing material on the cabinet panels, doing the panel edges first. Then, cross-brush the panel and finish with light, vertical strokes. The remaining surface can be finished as a table.

Paint the drawers separately, of course. Paint drawer sides about six inches back from the front, then do the edges and finish front panels last. Stack the drawers facing in alternate directions to dry.

Plan Built-In Weather for Home

Awkward heating and air conditioning installations are quickly being replaced by more compact and efficient set-ups that can be tucked away out of sight. Ceramic tile, an ancient yet always popular building material, is giving this trend a strong boost.

Tile flooring, for instance, is excellent for radiant-heated homes because it is an excellent conductor of heat. Heating pipes are concealed under the floor.

This is the season for indoor games. When the gang gets tired of disk-croquet change to ten-men, using the same mallet and disk. Finally there is the kitty-toss-ball game that is something like darts but different. The ball is tossed into the kitty's wide-open mouth and rolls back to the players. Any kind of small ball will do and all that need be made is the box with a kitten's face for the front that is 12 inches high and painted in bright colors. Pattern 411 carries tracing diagrams for everything with rules for the three games and will be mailed for 25 cents. It will be included in the Rumpus Room Games Packet of eleven different family games for $1 postpaid. Write to Pontiac Press, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Development Gets Permits

City Issues Building Licenses for Major Housing Project

Building permits totaling $355,600 were issued by the City Building Dept. in the first four days of this month.

Lion's share of the total was accounted for by a 52-home development in Perry Park Subdivision, valued at $312,000.

To be built by Crestview Homes Inc., of Detroit, the one-floor frame houses will be sprinkled over vacant lots on 10 streets in the subdivision.

Waite's Dept. Store, 70 N. Saginaw, was issued a permit to drill a water well. The project is valued at $7,750.

New house, 514 Third, B.V.C. Christman Corp., $6,000.
New house, 620 Stirling, Kenneth V. Egger, $6,000.
Alter, 90 S. Merrimac, Ellis Builders, $2,000.
Alter, 51 N. Pine, Fred Hoenstine, $800.
Alter, 93 N. Ardmore, Keats Construction Co., $850.
Alter, 343 Judson, Superior Siding & Roofing Co.
Remodel, 30 E. Rutgers, Walter A. Mielke, $800.
Remodel, 238 Rockwell, Titus Taylor, $2,600.

Floor Laying Methods

Tip to amateurs. When laying hardwood flooring and splitting of the tongue occurs, the strip should be removed and relocated over other joist crossings. If splitting still occurs after relocation, the strip should be discarded.

Treat Marble With Care to Preserve

The trend still is to marble when it comes to table tops and chests. Antique shops decry the fact that old pieces are becoming scarcer. Modern manufacturers deplore the fact that homemakers treat marble lightly and then complain about its service. Says Alfred Whellan, manager for a marble importing house,

"Marble must be cared for the same as any other surface. You can't just spill things and let them soak in, particularly alcohol and citrus fruits. These are absorbed quickly by marble and must be wiped up at once with a damp cloth. Left overnight they will surely leave their mark."

White and travertine marbles (the latter a beige with little holes in it) are the least expensive and easiest to care for, according to Whellan. These are best buys because they are the most in demand, he says.

Imported marbles come in more vibrant colors than American marbles, he says, although many of our marbles are similar to the imported varieties, such as the Georgian rose shade which is very much like the Portuguese. From Yugoslavia we get a dark brown marble. Africa supplies us with brownish onyx types. Belgium offers all black and black and white specimens. Whites, beiges and pinks come from Italy. A pinky-orange shade hails from Portugal. The rarest marbles are the onyx types, some from Italy, some Portugal.

But any of the colorful marbles must be kept out of the sunshine, otherwise they will lose their vibrant bloom, says Whellan.

While there is enough marble for the next million years, great quantities of it are cracked when found. Table top marbles should be perfect, one reason unusual types are not cheap. Marble is blasted and scaled out of mountains, then cut like wood in factories. Most manufacturers polish and treat marbles before they are sold.

Curves Are Possible in Working With Plywood

When a curve enters the picture in a home workshop project or a kitchen plan, there is no need to sacrifice a desire for natural wood. Hardwood plywood can be readily curved, and the action serves to increase the strength and rigidity of the material.

War Declared on Elm Disease

In 5 Years, Beetle Has Cost Michigan Thousands of Dollars

By ARNOLD HIRSCH

A shiny brown subversive who slipped across the Canadian border five years ago has cost cities in Southeastern Michigan hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It really wasn't too hard for this prolific fellow and his tribe to hop from Windsor over to Belle Isle. He's less than a quarter-inch long.

He's called the elm bark beetle, and when he brought the wife and kids winging into those two island elm trees in 1950, it meant plenty of trouble for tree experts, in a host of Water Wonderland communities.

Friend beetle is the bearer of the notorious Dutch Elm disease, so named because it was first discovered in the Netherlands.

On his feet and body he carries the fungus which chokes off water-conducting vessels in the elm, the tree's bloodstream.

With no water or nutrients being carried to its branches from the root system in the ground, the infected elm soon starts fading.

A yellow "flag" is the first warning, explains Pontiac City Forester William Aho. The "flag" is actually a branch whose green leaves have turned yellow. Within a week, they turn brown, and soon drop off altogether.

Sawing off the yellowed limb will do no good, Aho counsels. For, by the time it shows up, the disease has taken hold of the entire tree.

Once the fungus penetrates the tree's wood—not just it's bark—the entire tree is doomed. It may take two months or as long as two years, Aho says, but the tree is just living on borrowed time.

The only home the elm beetles know is in the bark of an elm, either dead or alive. They actually prefer dead limbs or logs for the family nursery, Aho says.

So it's important to trim and burn dead wood from elm trees, even if the rest of the tree is healthy. It's important to burn logs lying around the backyard, too, he emphasizes.

It wouldn't be bad for the insect to live in an elm's bark if he didn't carry the killing fungus on him, Oho says.

But when the eggs laid in the bark turn into larvae and begin burrowing into the wood of the tree, the fungus sneaks in right along with them.

From his modest beginning on Belle Isle, the local beetle and his brood have advanced rapidly through Detroit and to the north.

South Oakland County communities, along with Detroit, have spent into the hundreds of thousands of dollars to combat the disease-carrying bug.

The spectacular growth of the disease in Pontiac, the northernmost Michigan city stricken by the tree malady is indicated by these figures:

In 1953, the first year it appeared here, there were two cases. Last year there were 30.

This year, Aho predicts there will be at least 100.

Birmingham's record is even more amazing. In 1953, that city recorded 26 cases. Last year, 186 diseased trees were found.

Aside from trimming and burning dead portions of the trees, the best method of fighting the insects is to spray all elms with a DDT solution twice a year, foresters have learned.

The first spraying is made in April, before the leaves come out on the trees. The second comes in June or July.

This year in Pontiac, 3,500 elms on city and state property will be sprayed by the City Parks and Recreation Dept.'s forestry crew.

In May or June, after the leaves develop fully, a two-man crew will begin patrolling the city looking for yellow "flags." When they spot one, they will stop and cut a sample from the tree.

If the elm is on private property, they will first obtain the owner's permission.

The suspected sample will be sent to Dept. of Agriculture laboratories in Lansing for analysis, and, if found to be diseased, a condemnation order will be issued.

If the tree is privately owned, the order will be delivered to the owner by a state inspector.

Aho says under state law, the owner has 10 days to remove the tree. If he doesn't, the state will take him to court. A city tree, of course, would be chopped down immediately.

Aho strongly urges private tree owners to have their elms sprayed by private firms and to burn dead portions.

"It's the only way to bring the disease under control," he declares.

Frame Buildings Best in A-Blast

Your chance for survival from an atomic explosion is best if you live in a wooden frame house.

Two frame houses exposed to the horror of the "heat of a thousand suns" in the Nevada Atomic Proving Grounds tests proved the amazing ability of wood to withstand heat, shock and flame.

One house, only 3500 feet from the center of the blast, subjected to pressure of 1008 pounds per square foot, 67 times normal horizontal pressure, collapsed, but did not completely disintegrate. The basement shelters of wood were adequate for security from resulting debris. There was no free flaming or burning of the building. There were no signs of thermal radiation within the building. There was no compact pile of rubble.

The second house, 7500 feet from the vast explosion, although damaged, did not collapse. It could be reoccupied under emergency conditions if reinforced.

TOOL TIPS

3/8" BAR STOCK

An easy way to get more leverage from your hammer is to weld a piece of ¾-inch bar stock or a square nut to the hammerhead. This is a carpenter's suggestion for rough work. He says it saves time looking for a wood block and pulls nails fairly strait for re-use, but naturally might damage the surface on fine work. It's a tip from the idea pool of the American Builder, trade publication.

New Polisher Waxes, Scrubs

Double-Duty Machine Will Do Cleaning Job Easily, Efficiently

A new electric floor polisher for the home which also is equipped with a brush for scrubbing has been introduced.

It contains a single flat circular brush similar to the big industrial machines used for floor maintenance yet is so light and manageable that it can be guided by the fingertips. Polishing and scrubbing can be done ten times faster than by hand and with a fraction of the effort.

The scrubbing brush is designed to prevent splashing of water on walls or baseboards. It is also equipped with a fluffy chenille pad which clings to the rotary brush to give an extra high luster to waxed floors.

The machine can be used on all types of floor surfaces, both inside and out, and the scrubber is particularly useful for cleaning linoleum and tile floors and concrete basements and garages.

Among the new engineering features are included a mar-proof housing that won't chip or dent, an exclusive automatic shut off switch that prevents accidental operation by children or others, a simple spring mechanism that permits the exchange of polishing or scrubbing brushes in a matter of seconds.

Farms Worth Billions

There are more than 5,000,000 farmhouses and about 25,000,000 other farm buildings, according to American Builder magazine. The magazine says these buildings are worth more than $20,000,000,000.

Financing Moves Up, Says Loaning Groups

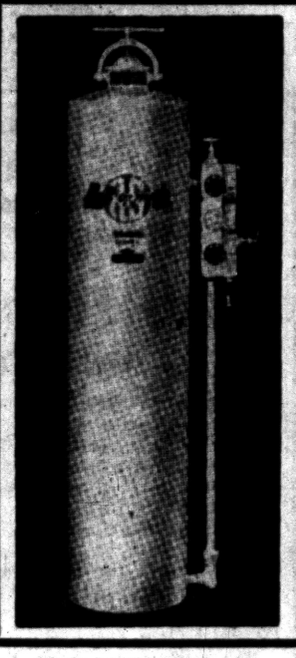

A forecast that the nation's 6,000 savings and loan associations would finance approximately 400,000 new houses in 1955, as compared with 335,000 new units in 1953, has been made by J. Howard Edgerton, president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

Edgerton said that the savings and loan business had stepped up its new construction financing activity substantially in almost every year since World War II.

Window Illuminates

A window's location determines its lighting efficiency. A ponderosa pine window located high in a wall lets more light enter a room than does an equal-size window situated nearer the floor. A group of windows lets in more light than windows placed at intervals along a wall.

Warm-Toned Walls Ideal

Fit Into Practically Every Type Decorating Scheme for Homes

Warm toned walls of wood make an ideal background for beauty. The neutral colorings and quiet texture and grain of wood blend perfectly with almost every decorative scheme.

Furniture selection and arrangement is made easy for carefully finished walls of wood flatter the traditional and seem to soften the simple lines of the contemporary styles. This is graphically demonstrated when walls are built of golden, neutral toned Douglas fir or west coast hemlock.

Clear varnish and wax finishes bring out the lovely colorings of wood, the light golds and sunny shades, the autumn browns and reds. Since these are the shades you can wear, whether brunette, blonde or redhead, they are shades your wall can wear and compliment you. These are natural colors, given quality and patina by tracings of grain designed by nature through centuries of growth.

These walls are interesting, yet uncluttered. They are the focal point of interest yet do not rob furniture, drapes and rugs of their own charm and distinction. An occasional wiping with a soft cloth is the only upkeep required for years.

Home Quiz Man Offers Savings Tips

Question: How can I reduce the cost of my new home without sacrificing quality? Have you any tips?

Answer: You can save several hundred dollars alone by using the right grade of lumber for each use. Studs of No. 3 Douglas fir or west coast hemlock are more than strong enough for one-story homes. It is useless to insist on clear lumber when appearance is not the purpose, only stiffness and strength. Lower grades are adequate for sheathing, roofing and subfloors. For years we have always used better grades of lumber than needed.

Pride of Ownership

Most of the nation's 25,700,000 homeowners who live in their own dwellings take great pride in keeping their premises in tiptop shape. Last year an average of $80 each was spent on these owner-occupied homes in remodeling and modernizing. About 18,000,000 homes got a face lifting or other beauty treatment, with lumber the most popular remodeling material in most instances.

HAMMER KNOW-HOW—Follow these suggestions on hammer use and you should get better results on your next carpentry job.

Know-How With Hammer Opens Way to New Projects

How many householders don't own a hammer? Not many. For ever since prehistoric men fractured communal peace and a few incidental skulls with their invention, the hammer has been a fundamental household tool.

It has a long history, but it hasn't changed much, and neither has man. Visit a do-it-yourself-conscious community some weekend and you'll find the man-and-hammer din is terrific; occasional scoundrels still commit hammer mayhem, too, sadly enough.

Considering the progress we've made in other directions, though, most of us haven't learned much about hammers—about how to use them effectively. Even the D-I-Y chaps who enjoy more than a nodding acquaintance with hammers manage to tap out a blood-blister tattoo on their thumbs once in a while. It shouldn't happen if you handle a hammer correctly.

First of all, don't use a hammer if the handle is loose. Besides being unsafe, it's more than likely to result in bent nails. Tighten the handle on the head by driving steel or hardwood wedges (they are especially made for the purpose) into the head-end of the handle. Never use nails or screws in place of wedges. If the handle is cracked, replace it.

For most work, grasp the hammer handle near the end in a handshake grip. For light work, or when you want to reduce the force of the blow, "choke up" on the handle. Above all, be sure the handle is perpendicular to the nail at the time of impact. If it's more than slightly off perpendicular, the nail will bend, and that is more than slightly aggravating when you've done it several times.

Notice that the face of a good hammer head is lightly dome shaped. This compensates somewhat for an off-perpendicular swing. Don't throw away money on a flat-faced hammer.

On the subject of hammer buying, look for one whose weight is comfortable to hold. Wielding a heavy 20-ounce hammer may tire you quickly. The same is true if a light seven-ounce hammer is used in heavy carpentry, because it requires more strokes to do the work. A good, all-around hammer weighs 13 ounces.

Stars a nail with two or three sharp taps rather than heavy blows. Hold the nail between thumb and forefinger at a point about midway of the nail shank and remove your hand before laying on hot and heavy with the hammer. This simple precaution may save considerable pain and embarrassment—and gauze bandages.

Whenever possible, nail on a slant. The result is greater holding power and stronger joints.

More often than not, hardwood will split if nails are driven near the ends of the boards. To avoid this nasty tendency, dull the tips of the nails first by holding them head down on a hard surface and tapping the points with your hammer. On the other hand, sharpening their points with a file gives nails greater holding power in softwoods.

Never strike finished woodwork with the face of a hammer. Use a scrap block of wood between the work and the hammer, and there'll be no danger of denting it. When driving finishing nails, don't pound the nail heads down flush with the wood surface. Stop short of that and use a tool called a nail set to finish.

Wives Discover Home Offices Handy and Fun

Many housewives are finding out how wonderfully convenient it is to have a tiny office of their own tucked away in some corner of the kitchen.

All one needs is room for a typewriter, desk surface for writing and account keeping, a spot for the telephone, and storage space for checkbook, monthly bills and some filing space.

A small unused corner, a nook which can be converted, or even a drop-down desk top with built-in cupboards for 'phone, typewriter and books will do the job. The main thing is that with such a handy office, Mother can do her 'phoning, bookkeeping and letter writing while watching the youngsters play and while the meals are cooking, yet she can keep an eye on both.

No two of these tiny offices are similar, and most have to be built to the special needs and taste of the homeowner. It is easy to get just what you want if you use versatile wood to build your special office retreat. Douglas fir or west coast hemlock can be cut and shaped to fit any opening with just ordinary tools and when completed, the installation can be painted like the rest of the woodwork, or finished in clear varnish or shellac so the wonderful grain and texture of the wood will show.

Re-Sale Important

Homes paneled with natural wood are more valuable for resale, for decorating scheme can be changed to suit the buyer's taste, without altering the walls.

Rudgate No. 1 Ready to Open

Max Brook, Inc., Plans Expansion of Bloomfield Hills Project

Max Broock, Inc., Birmingham realtors, announce the opening of Rudgate No. 1, a new 39-parcel addition to the original Rudgate development on Lone Pine Rd. in Bloomfield Hills.

Former site of the farming-orchard venture operated by Mrs. Louise Webber O'Brien, it was until two years ago the last large parcel of acreage undeveloped within the corporate limits.

In the first unit there were 105 of the original 160 acres. The remaining 55 acres is being developed now for the Rudgate No. 1

Roads are winding and the natural contour of the land has been taken into consideration in the site development of this project.

In the 15 months since sales began, two-thirds of the original unit has been sold and 14 homes have been started with many completed. Another 10 residences are planned for construction during the summer of 1955.

Way to Estimate Carpet Yardage

To determine how many yards of carpet are needed for a room multiply the width of the room by its length. Thus, if the room is 10 feet wide and 18 feet long there are 180 feet of floor space to be carpeted. To convert square feet into square yards — carpets are sold by the square yard—divide the number of square feet by 9. The answer in the case of the 10x18 room is 20 square yards. To figure the cost, multiply the number of square yards by the price per yard of the carpet.

A common error made in computation of yardage is the division of the total number of square feet in the room by 3 instead of 9. There are 9 square feet in a square yard.

Your Income Tax—6

2 New Credits Provided This Year

HOW TO CORRECT YOUR FORM—Two lines of form 1040 are incorrect. Government tax experts have changed their original interpretation of the new law in these wto instances—too late to change the official forms. If you are one of the many taxpayers who have retirement income credits, correct your form as indicated before figuring your credits.

By FRANK O'BRIEN
of Associated Press

(Note. The internal revenue service has determined that some of the instructions in form 1040 for computing the tax credit on retirement income are not as intended by law. This article locates the incorrect instructions, and tells you the correct procedure, according to the advice of the revenue service.)

You can take a bite right out of your tax liability with two new tax credits provided by Congress in the new tax law.

This is in addition to one big tax credit familiar to almost everyone—the credit you get for taxes already withheld from your salary through the year. And other previously allowed credits—for any estimated tax payments you may have made during the year, any refund coming to you from yast year, and credit for any overpayment of social security tax resulting from working for more than one employer during the year—may also still be taken.

The same kinds of dividends eligible in figuring a tax exclusion, discussed in the previous article, are also eligible for figuring the tax credit for dividend income. But the credit is based only on dividends included in your income. You figure the credit in the same Schedule J, at the top of page 4 of form 1040, where you figured your dividend exclusion.

First, dividend income—husband and wife lump together their dividend income eligible for a tax credit. But they must previously have figured their dividend income separately to get their exclusions, each excluding only his or her own dividend income up to $50. And only dividends not excluded may count toward the tax credit.

On your 1954 income, only dividends received after July 31, 1954, are eligible for a tax credit (Line 4 of column B of Schedule J.)

After you have added up separately dividends received up to July 31, 1954 and those received after July 31, you deduct your exclusion or exclusions (up to $50 each on a joint return), taking all the exclusions out of dividends received up to July 31, if possible, but going over into dividends received after that date if necessary.

The remainder of your eligible dividends reecived after July 31, 1954 is the part of your dividend income on which you may figure your tax credit.

Your credit is the smallest of these three:

1. Four per cent of the remainder of your dividends, received after July 31, 1954 after taking out any exclusion.
2. Your tax, after taking a credit for any foreign income tax paid).
3. Two per cent of your taxable income.

Whichever of these is the smallest, you can deduct from your tax liability (which you find in the tax table or compute). You deduct your dividend credit from your tax liability at line 8A on page 1 of form 1040.

Second, retirement income credit—(Both husband and wife may claim separately. You need not be a formally retired person to claim retirement income credit.)

Taxpayers who are under 65 may claim as retirement income to be used to get a tax credit only taxable income received under public retirement systems. This eliminates pay from social security, and railroad retirement, because they are tax exempt. And it eliminates commercial retirement pay and annuities, and armed forces retirement pay.

Taxpayers who are 65 or older can claim for a retirement pay tax credit all taxable income in the form of pensions, annuities, interest, rents and dividends.

Eligible for use in getting a credit are taxable state, municipal and U. S. Civil Service retirement plans.

1. You must have earned over $600 income during at least 10 years (not consecutive year, necessarily), previous to 1954.

2. The retirement income you may use in computing your credit will be the smaller of the following two figures:

—Your actual, eligible retirement income, or

1. Social Security.
2. Railroad retirement.
3. Veterans pensions.

In addition, if you are under 75 years old, you must deduct any pay you received during 1954 for personal services (work of any kind) over $900. If you are 75 or over, there is no limit to the amount of pay you may receive in addition to your retirement income, without having to deduct it from the $1,200.

In making these calculations it will be necessary to correct your form 1040. The internal revenue service has determined that the instruction about retirement income are not what the law intended in two instances.

The erroneous instructions in the tax form direct you, on line 2 schedule K, to enter the smaller of:

1. Your eligible retirement income.
2. $1,200.

And line 5 of schedule K directs you to enter the balance you get after subtracting the result on line 4 from what you enter at line 2.

It has now been determined that this is not what the new tax law intended. The other lines in the schedule are not affected.

If you will take a pencil and make the following corrections on your form in schedule K, you will have the correct directions for computing your income tax credit.

Make line 2 read:

"Enter here $1,200 . . ."

Make line 5 read:

"Balance (line 2 minus line 4), or line 1, whichever is smaller."

This allows you to compute your retirement income tax credit on the smaller of:

1. Your total eligible retirement income.
2. $1,200 reduced by what you must deduct in lines 3A and 3B.

If you worked for more than one employer in 1954, it is possible that more than the amount you should have paid as social security tax has been deducted from your income. In no case should the social security deductions total more than $72 for 1954. If they do, you can claim a tax credit for the excess, on line 11 of form 1040A, or in the "Income Tax Withheld" column of item 2, on page 1 of form 1040. Mark the entry "F.I.C.A. tax" in the "where employed" column.

At this point, all the ground necessary to filing form 1040A has been covered. Remember, you may not use form 1040A if you want to claim credit against your tax for dividend income, or for retirement income. If you wish to do so, you must use form 1040. The following articles will deal with deductions that can be made only by using form 1040, and with other income that can be handled only on that form. If you file form 1040A, your district director will figure your tax, giving you your exemptions and the standard 10 per cent deduction for personal expenses, plus credit for any excess social security payment you may have entered on line 11.

Hints Bungling in Deer Control

Williams Predicts That Commission Won't Get Power Renewal

LANSING (UP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams has hinted that he thinks the Conservation Commission bungled its discretionary control over the state's deer herd and has predicted the power will expire.

The Williams-appointed commission has asked the Legislature to renew the controversial power, which is centered on "any-deer" seasons.

Williams refused to take a firm stand on the stormy issue but indicated the commission might have "ruined" a good thing.

"The principle of discretionary power in the hands of the Conservation Commission on game seasons and regulations seems to me to be sound," Williams said.

"But I think the commission should have used a little more discretion in setting the first any-deer season which resulted in so sharp a reduction of the deer herd.

"The opinions of the people have to be given consideration along with scientific findings on fish and game. A sound scientific approach can be ruined by failure to pay attention to public opinion.

"With public opinion what it now is, I suspect the Legislature will not renew discretionary power over the deer season, even though that is the better way to manage the deer herd."

Williams' remarks might well pull the props out from what support the commission has been able to muster—even though executive aides hasten to point out the governor failed to be specific in his stand.

Meanwhile, "Michigan Out-of-Doors," official publication for the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, claimed sentiment is increasing for continuance of commission deer herd management.

There's No Magic in the Word "Guarantee"

Contrary to public belief, the mere fact that something is advertised as "guaranteed" is not particularly important. Here's what is important:

1. WHO IS THE GUARANTOR?
2. WHAT ARE THE TERMS OF THE GUARANTEE?

A guarantee is no stronger than the guarantor. A guarantee, in spite of its name, may not in fact be of any protection whatever. It depends upon its terms.

Chiefs Scalp 'Jacks in Season's Windup

By H. GUY MOATS

Art Van Ryzin, Pontiac High School basketball coach now can stick that figurative feather in his cap.

Van Ryzin's inspired Chiefs last night threw what was probably their best game of the season at the surprised Arthur Hill Lumberjacks. The West Huron tribe scalped the visiting Saginaw Valley Champions 67-54, to close out the regular season's play.

It was the 3rd straight defeat suffered by Coach Chuck Fowler's club, and was accomplished by an aggressive, capable Pontiac quintet.

Prior to Friday's game Van Ryzin remarked that it would be a "real feather in our cap if we could beat Arthur Hill."

After the 1st period there was very little doubt but that the Chiefs were on their way to accomplishing a victory. Hills led up to the final couple minutes of the opener, but a 5-point rally by Dick Blacklaw and Walt Poe put PHS in front 19-15. The Jacks never again caught up. At times in the 3rd and 4th quarters they were trailing by 10 to a dozen points.

While Walt King, forward, was not the top scorer, he certainly was the game's hotshot around the backboards. He contributed 14 points, but his biggest efforts were centered around control of both backboards. King was the hub of Pontiac's highly effective defensive pattern that gave the visitors comparatively few open shots at the twines.

Blacklaw had a rough night on baskets, but came through well from the foul line. He collected only 2 baskets, but had 7 gift conversions, as did Rod Treais. Treais' 17 points shared game scoring honors with Hills' Gary Lee. Saginaw's Bill Feldt collected 16. Bob Johnston had 15 for Pontiac.

Walt Poe provided some of the "spectaculars" for the contest. On three occasions Poe stole the ball from a Lumberjack, sped the length of the floor and dunked an easy layup. Jimmy Taylor made good on the very 1st time he got his hands on the ball for Pontiac, in the last minute. He just got in the game when the ball was passed to him near midcourt. Jimmy let fly and arched a long one neatly through the hoop for the final PHS counter.

Fowler tried many combinations but couldn't stop Pontiac's driving play. He used practically every boy on his bench. Van Ryzin also sent in his reserves in the final period.

Friday's victory leaves the Chiefs' Valley record at 6 wins and 4 defeats (9-6 overall). Hills' season mark is 10-5, overall.

Van Ryzin was very happy over the game's outcome. "Now we can point for the regionals at Birmingham," he said. "We've got the proper spirit and I think we will do all right next Thursday in the opener against Detroit DeLaSalle."

Fred Zittel's PHS reserves defeated Arthur Hill reserves in the preliminary, 58-44. Frank Whitlock's 19 points and Tom Zellhardt's 14 set the scoring pace. Barry Brown had 19 for the Hills and Bob Wells had 15.

Missed free throws—Pontiac 18 in 41; Arthur Hill 9 in 35; personals—Treais 5, King 4, Blacklaw, Poe, Charles Johnson, Bob Johnston 3, Johnny James 3; McMahon 5, Jones 3, Lee 4, Dygert 3, Feldt 3, Leland 2, Alexander, Turner; shots at baskets—Pontiac 80 (22 baskets), Arthur Hill 62 (14 baskets).

Other Valley final games:
Flint Northern 72, Saginaw High 62.
Flint Central 69, Midland 64.

NOT THIS TIME! — Pontiac High's Walt Poe (white No. 10) above, didn't get this 4th-period shot at the basket away. The reason was an overblock by Arthur Hills' clever guard, Gary Lee (39). However, it didn't much matter for Chiefs dumped the SVC champs 67-46 for the Jacks' 3rd straight defeat, in the Valley windup.

2 Titles Decided

Troy, Eaglets and Shrine Gain District Finals; WL, Ortonville, Holly Ousted

Walled Lake, Ortonville and Holly fell by the wayside in district tournament basketball play Friday night as Troy, Orchard Lake St. Mary and Shrine advanced to berths in tonight's championship tests.

Two district titles were settled as Redford Union defeated Livonia Bentley, 63-55, for the Class B crown at Bentley, and Pinckney upset South Lyon, 57-55, in Class C at Brighton.

St. Mary's Eaglets spilled Walled Lake in a 45-43 thriller in the Vikings' gym, after Northville had eliminated Holly, 67-53.

Walled Lake took a 27-21 halftime lead and held the advantage until 2½ minutes were left in the 3rd quarter, when Vince Pernicki's jump shot tied the count at 30-30.

Niles Freeland's club again surged into the lead, but Pat Ryan, ironically a former Walled Lake student, tied the score at 43-all with two straight counters. With 32 seconds left, Ted Kopacki stole the ball and dribbled the length of the court to score the winning marker on a dog shot.

Kopacki led the Eaglets with 12 points. Myrel Taulbee had the same number for Walled Lake.

Northville's rebounding powers were too much for Holly, despite a Bronc offensive surge in the 3rd period that netted them nine consecutive points in 58 seconds.

Holly trailed by but one point, 31-30, in the 3rd period but tired rapidly.

Top scorer was Mustang's Darwin Teshka with 20. Jerry Hunter had 14 for the losers.

Shrine's highly rated Knights turned in a sub-par performance but managed to edge Fitzgerald, 36-30 at Van Dyke. Lutheran of Detroit ousted the host team, 49-43, to join Shrine in tonight's finals.

Troy and Warren gained the final bracket in Class B at Troy. The Colts whipped Mount Clemens St. Mary, 57-37, and Warren downed Fraser, 58-35.

South Lyon felt the "3rd game jinx" in losing the C title at Brighton. The Lions were victors twice in the regular season over Pinckney, but fell behind early last night. Their closing rally fell short by two points. Barney McIlvoy had 20 points in the Lions' losing cause.

A bad start damaged Ortonville's chances as Almont jumped off to a 27-16 halftime lead. Larry Kersten and Tom Spencer each contributed 17 points as the Raiders' won a 57-51 decision.

Cliff Filhart led the Blackhawks with 12. Imlay City joined Almont in the finals on a tremendous 34-point splurge in the 3rd quarter after trailing Goodrich, 34-32, at the half. The Spartans' winning margin was 85-63.

Owen Whitkopf accounted for 16 points in that period and had 24 for the game. He trailed teammate Leon Gibbard by 2. Jerry Holdorf had 20 for Goodrich.

Close Title Battles Seen for B-C Finales

By JACK SAYLOR

With the exception of Clarkston's 1-point victory over Rochester in the opening game, Pontiac's Class B and C district prep tournament games have been largely routine affairs, lacking the pulsating thrills that usually accompany tournament basketball.

This pattern should be changed in tonight's finals as both Class B and C windups figure to be close contests.

West Bloomfield and St. Michael play for the Class C title at 7 p.m. and Clarkston and Oxford clash for the "B" trophy at 8:15. In neither game is a strong favorite established.

Bob Mineweaser is leading a Shamrock team into the district finals for the 7th straight year, but the North Siders haven't taken the district crown since 1951. Their opponents have a string of 10 straight district championships to their credit.

For 6 seasons prior to this one, St. Michael has claimed a tournament victory over its city parochial rivals from St. Freds. In 1949, the Shamrocks lost in the district finals to Oxford.

Mineweaser's teams were champs in both 1950 and 51. In 1952, the Blue and Silver took the Suburban Catholic League crown, but lost in the district windup, once more to Oxford.

Two winters ago, the Shamrocks suffered through a winless season, but beat St. Freds in the tournament before bowing in the district finals to Almont. Last year, St. Mikes was victimized by Keego Harbor in an overtime finale.

Again wearing the SCL title, the Shamrocks will be trying to avenge last year's loss Saturday night.

St. Mikes will give away height to the West Bloomfielders and will attempt to compensate with superior playmaking and shooting. The starters are John Keller and Joe Wilhelm at forwards, Bud Schwartz at center, and Marty Keller and Bob Anderson at guards.

Sam Minard will counter with Frank Rogers and Dennis Singleton at forwards, John Craig at center, and Bill Nicholson and Orland West at guards.

Clarkston's position in the Class B title match is similar to that of St. Michael. Dom Mauti's Wolves will yield backboard strength to Oxford, and with the exception of Bob Yahnke, Clarkston's outside shooting in the tourney has been off.

Meanwhile, Oxford was not pressed to win either of its tourney starts against Romeo and Avondale. Jean Harkness' club hit nearly 40 per cent from the floor against Romeo, and though its mark was only 32 per cent in the Avon game, the Wildcats' accuracy in the 1st half put the game out of Avondale's reach.

In foul shooting, Oxford made 24 of 42 against Romeo, with Larry Spencer accounting for 11 of the misses. The 'Cats sank 22 of 33 against Avondale, including Spencer's 10 of 13 performance.

Containing the driving of Spencer will be a vital job for Clarkston's capable defense. In addition, Dick Johnston and Lanny Leak have the task of rebounding against taller Fred Bergin and Dwight Spiker.

Mike Benedict, a good scorer, and Dave Sweeney complete the Oxford lineup, while Johnston, Leak and Yahnke are joined by a swift set of guards, George Lang and Pat Thompson.

Heavy Spring Schedule Set for Beaglers

With more than a dozen derby events scheduled for this spring, Southern Michigan beaglers get their 1st start this weekend at Hastings, where the West Michigan derby will be run today. The Wolverine will be held at the same place Sunday.

Northern Association of Beagle Clubs is the governing body for these events.

Oakland County Sportsment's Beagle Club is expected to have entries in both events.

March 6 (Sunday)—Ottawa River, Defiance, Ohio.
March 19—Detroit, at Ann Arbor.
March 20—Canadian National at Ann Arbor; Michiana at Bertram and Cherryland at Traverse City.
March 26—Oakland County at Waterford (OCBC) and Central Michigan at Clarksville.

Furgol, Barber Share Lead at Baton Rouge

Marty, Jerry 2 Shots Up on Field With 134s in $12,500 Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Two veteran professionals with differing styles today appeared the best in an unsteady field as the fourth annual $12,500 Baton Rouge Open golf tournament passed the midpoint.

Marty Furgol, 6-1 power-hitter from Lemont, Ill., and Jerry Barber, 5-5 Los Angeles precision artist, held a two-stroke lead after 36 holes, each with 134.

Although opposite in size, the two have one thing in common—consistency. Neither has been a big tourney winner, but both have been regular visitors to the pay window.

Before today's round the 140-plus field was trimmed to 100, the 90 low pros and 10 low amateurs. The cutoff point for pros was 148 with amateurs above 149 dropped.

The biggest blow-up came when Walter Romans of Baltimore, first day leader with a seven-under-par 65, soared to 75 for a 140 total.

The 37-year-old Furgol, who shot a six-under-par 66 in the first round, had a 68 Friday but still contended "I'm shooting better than I ever did."

Although he said he was "not putting too well," Furgol boasted, "I haven't had a bogie in two rounds."

Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kas., fired a 70 after his first round 66 for a 136 total.

Two strokes back of McGuire were Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif. Wall had a 68 while Holscher shot a par-72, six strokes over his opening round.

Nine strokes off the lead at 143 after his 72 yesterday was Mike Souchak of Durham, N.C. Souchak last week roared from behind to win the $30,000 Houston, Tex., Open, richest event of the winter circuit and his second straight tourney victory.

Saxton-DeMarco Title Go a Question-Mark

Conflicting reports indicated such a fight is 1, A strong possibility, 2. Impossible, 3. A certainty.

Sam Silverman, local independent matchmaker, told The Associated Press Friday he was working on the fight but that television was posing a problem. He said no date had been set but that Saxton had been offered a $50,000 guarantee.

Illini Sprinter Features Start of Indoor Meet

Fessenden Twice Lowers Mark in 300-Yard Run in Big 10 Trials

EAST LANSING (AP) — Ralph Fessenden of Illinois was the early sensation in the preliminaries of the Big Ten indoor track meet, going into finals this afternoon at Michigan State College.

Fessenden twice lowered the conference 300-yard run record in preliminaries last night—a feat more remarkable because the runners generally take it easy in the opening session, content merely to qualify.

The lean and wiry big ten 440-yard champ did the 300 in a fast 31.3 seconds in a preliminary heat and then battered his new conference record in a faster 30.8 in the finals.

The former conference mark was 31.5 set jointly last year by Tom Hughes of Purdue, Joe Corley of Illinois and Ed Hampton of Indiana.

Michigan, favored to oust defending champion Illinois in the race for the team title, did the expected by qualifying for 15 positions in the semifinals and finals.

Indiana was second with 10 places, Michigan State grabbed 9, Illinois 7, Iowa, Ohio State and Wisconsin 6 each, Minnesota and Northwestern 3 each and Purdue 1.

Abe Woodson of Illinois tied an MSC fieldhouse record with his 8.6 performacne in the 70-yard high hurdles.

Another Illini, Henry Cryer, the conference 880-yard champ in 1952, led the field of qualifiers in his specialty with a time of 1:58.7.

Fessenden didn't go in the 440-yard dash as had been expected and MSC's Kevin Gosper looked like the title threat with his time of :49.7.

Gophers Hope for Title Share

Must Beat Wisconsin Tonight; UM-Spartans in TV Contest

CHICAGO (AP) Minnesota, still hoping for a share of the Big Ten basketball title, meets Wisconsin tonight while Michigan State and Michigan tangle in a nationally televised game this afternoon.

The Gophers were detoured, 72-70, Monday by Iowa's Hawkeyes in their bid for their 1st undisputed title since 1919.

Minnesota can still win a share of the title. If the Gophers beat Wisconsin tonight and Iowa loses to Michigan Monday, Iowa and Minnesota will finish in a 1st place tie.

Final Standings

Port Huron	6	4	E. Detroit	1	9

The Class A regional basketball tournament is the next order of business for Birmingham High School's basketball team, but any serious tourament thoughts will be delayed until Monday while the Maples celebrate the winning of the Eastern Michigan League championship.

It ended a 5-year title drought for the Maples, who last were champs in 1949, when they shared the EML crown with Port Huron. Birmingham's last outright championship was in 1947.

Friday night's contest was not particularly well played by either team, but it was a thriller all the way and wasn't decided until the final 2 minutes of play.

Birmingham held a 20-19 lead after a first half marked by poor shooting on both sides. The usually sharp-shooting Dick Sheldon missed numerous shots and sank his first field goal with 15 seconds remaining to give Birmingham the halftime edge.

While Petrakis' team maintained the lead throughout the final period, the decision was not iced until Bob Goldsmith caged a free throw and Sheldon drove in for a basket with about 2 minutes left.

Sheldon, with 16 points, and sophomore Bob Isbell, with 14, were tops in scoring, but the real Maple heroes were Peters and Bill Watkinson, whose rebounding and defensive work excelled.

The luck of the draw has matched these same teams in next week's Class A regional in the Birmingham gym. Petrakis, who was carted in victorious fashion into a shower after the game, voiced confidence that his team would beat the Bathers again.

Racing Bill Is Introduced

Would Prevent Detroit Fair Grounds From Use for Turf Meetings

It would restrict the number of tracks in the Detroit area to three. The law now permits four, including the Fair Grounds track. In addition the new bill would repeal the state's right to rent state property for a track.

The bill, touching other racing matters, would make it a crime to administer stimulants or depressants to race horses, to conspire to do so, to allow a horse to race within 24 hours of receiving such injections, to use or possess drugs or devices to stimulate or depress horses at race tracks and to attempt in any way to influence the outcome of races.

The penalties proposed would be fines ranging from $250 to $10,000 and-or a county jail sentence of one year.

Pair of 1,200 Hit Veterans Battle for Job

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Only a dozen American Leaguers have a lifetime total of more than 1,200 base hits, and two of them—Dale Mitchell and Dave Philley are fighting for a spot in the Cleveland Indians' lineup this season.

The odds are against either making the grade as regulars—Mitchell with his 1,218 hits and lifetime .315 average, or Philley with his 1,202 hits and .268 lifetime average. Both came up to the majors to stay in 1946 — Mitchell with the Indians, and Philley with the Chicago White Sox.

Robinson in Critical Spot

Sugar Has to Take Victory to Keep on Comeback Trail

After a 31-month layoff that followed his decision to quit the ring, Sugar Ray knocked out Joe Rindone in the sixth round at Detroit in December. But a month later, a national television audience saw the once-classy Robinson drop a one-sided decision to Ralph (Tiger) Jones.

Linscott to Meet Tryor on March 8

A change has been made in the opposition for Gene Linscott's 2nd comeback ring battle, March 8. Instead of taking on tough Randy Hoff, on the Motor City card, Gene has been scheduled for a four-rounded against Joe Tryor, a puncher who has had 7 fights as a pro. Hoff is ill in a hospital.

Gene won his opening test against Tony Hendrix of London, Ont. He has improved greatly since that bout, co-manager Don Frayer reports. Motor City tickets are available at Frayer's Refrigeration and at Triple-X. Already a good local backing is assured Linscott for the March 8 scrap.

Tribe's Mound Gives Stengel the Shudders

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees put it simply: "A look at Cleveland's pitching scares ya."

The trade with Baltimore that sent Bob Turley to the Yanks was supposed to hand the 1955 pennant to the Bombers, but Stengel says he needs a No. 4 starter—and he'll trade to get one—to match the Tribe.

125 3-Year-Olds Named for '55 Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Nashua, Summer Tan, Boston Doge and most of the other more promising 3-year-olds were among 125 nominees announced today for the 81st Kentucky Derby.

The 1955 renewal, offering more prize money than ever before, will be run May 7 — the traditional first Saturday in May — at Churchill Downs.

It will cover the customary mile and one-quarter, offering again a rugged early-spring test for young horses bidding for greatness.

The added purse this year will be $125,000—up $25,000 from recent years. Given an average field of 10 starters, the gross value will be $252,500 when nomination and starting fees are poured into the pot.

For example, how will Nashua and Boston Doge shape up if both reach the big race?

Belair Stud's Nashua was the 2-year-old champion last year and is off to a winning start as a 3-year-old with Florida's Flamingo crown already tucked away. Paul Andolino's Boston Doge developed late but won eight straight races before a cough sidelined him temporarily.

And what about Rex Ellsworth's Swaps? Can that West Coast campaigner duplicate the feat of last year's Kentucky Derby winner, Determine? Like Determine Swaps has won California's prime test, the Santa Anita Derby.

Also looking to the derby with well founded hopes are Clearwater Stable's Royal Coinage, Murcain Stable's Blue Ruler, Cain Hoy Stable's Flying Fury, Calumet Farm's Trentonian, and Montpeller Farm's Saratoga, second to Nashua in the Flamingo.

All but two of the nominees are colts or geldings in this race that is considered too trying for young fillies. Claiborne Farm nominated Delta and Alberta Ranches of Calgary, Ontario, nominated In Reserve with knowledge that only one filly — Regret in 1915 — has won the Kentucky Derby.

Tigers Sign 3rd Negro

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have signed Wycliffe N. Morton, a Negro outfielder, to a minor league contract.

Morton, who played with Howard University in Washington, D. C., was signed to a Class A Augusta contract.

The 22-year-old Morton will report to Tigertown March 15. He is the 3rd Negro the Tigers have signed.

Entries Invited for Bird Dog Field Test

Genessee Sportsman's Club holds its 6th annual bird dog filed trial March 19-20, beginning both days at 7:30 a.m., at Ortonville recreation area, 3 miles east of Goodrich on Hegel road.

Oakland County bird dog owners are invited to file entries in the 4 stake events, including the Amateur Shooting Dog Stake for the Hubbard trophy.

Drawings are scheduled for March 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the GSC clubhouse.

Gola Honored Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Three-time All-America Tom Gola of La Salle was voted the Gold Star award by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Assn. today as the outstanding visiting collegiate player to appear in New York this season.

It was the second such award for Gola, who also was named in 1953.

Rivera Gets Orders to Reduce His Heft

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Manager Marty Marion of the Chicago White Sox has cracked down on Jim Rivera and ordered the speedy outfielder to shed weight but quick.

"He weighs 204 and I've ordered him down to at least 195," said Marion. "And I don't mean by the opening of the season. I want those nine pounds off in two weeks."

At the same time, Marion, busy making out lineups for an intra-squad game, was pleased with the progress of his squad, especially the hitting of Walt Dropo, George Kell and rookie Jim Marshall.

Only Point Separates UM, Buck Swimmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State was hanging on to its Western Conference swimming championship by its fingernails today at the halfway mark in the 45th annual meet.

Michigan's Wolverines, with four victories in the first seven events — including a world record - shattering performance — were only a point behind, 57-58, as the natators went into today's final seven tests.

No one else was close as the two goliaths battled it out. Iowa had 20 points, Michigan State 17, Purdue 11, Indiana 6, Wisconsin 4 and Illinois 3, with Minnesota and Northwestern shut out.

Jack Wardrop, one of the Wolverines twins from Motherswell, Scotland, and Jim Walters of Kenilworth, Ill., came up with last night's startling performances.

Wardrop wheeled through the 220-yard freestyle in 2:03.4 to shear 1.3 seconds off the world record set a year ago by Ford Konno, Ohio State's Hawaiian star, as Konno finished second in 2:05, or 1.03 seconds under his big 10 record.

Walters, showing superb form, piled up 522.25 points to win the one-meter diving event as Morely Shapiro, Ohio's defending champion, finished third behind teammate Fletcher Gilders. It was the first time since 1944 that Ohio State had lost a Big 10 springboard event, and was only the second such loss since 1937 at either the high or low boards.

Yoshi Oyakawa, Buckeye backstroke star from Hawaii, came up with a new conference record of 2:06.1 in his 200-yard specialty as he retained his title by erasing the 2:07.2 mark set in 1951 by Jack Taylor of Ohio.

Bumpey Jones of Michigan won the new 200 - yard butterfly with a 2:15.1 time. He also swam on the winning 400-free Style Relay team.

Michigan, behind 24 to 14 at the end of three events, won four in a row to almost close the gap. Despite Walters' victory in the low-board diving, and a sixth place by Michigan's Charley Bates, Ohio picked up more points in the event than the Wolverines. The Bucks picked up 14 points by taking second, third, fourth and fifth, while Michigan settled for 8.

Graham Bows to His Years More Than to Vejar Fists

None will admit he is through. It was the years—14 long ones in the ring and 125 fights—more than Chico Vejar which caused Graham's downfall in Madison Square Garden last night.

True, the 32-year-old New Yorker lost only by a split decision and the three officials had it close. But it was the way he lost it more than the tight score that will be remembered by most of the 4,804 fans who paid $15,246 for the 10-rounder.

Judges Jack Gordon, 5-4-1 and Bert Grant, 6-4 voted for Vejar. Referee Al Berl had it 5-4-1 for Graham. The AP card had Vejar ahead 6-3-1.

"I was rusty after that long layoff (He hadn't fought since October) and I missed a lot of chances because of my inactivity," said Graham. "I don't think I lost it, though. I just can't seem to get the close ones. I thought I threw the harder punches.

"I'd like to fight him again," added Billy. It was quiet as a cathedral on a weekday afternoon. You almost expected to hear the bells toll.

The old master, once one of the finest boxers in the game, may get his wish for "another shot." Matchmaker Billy Brown of the International Boxing Club said the two might mix again on either April 1 or 8. Syracuse, Detroit, Cleveland, or Philadelphia may get it because the Garden's dates are filled.

Woodling's Long Clouts Please Orioles' Boss

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Gene Woodling took his first batting practice with the Baltimore Orioles Friday and cheered the heart of General Manager Paul Richards by slamming several long ones clear out of Flamingo Stadium.

The ex-Yankee cleared the 325-foot barrier with such regularity that children were warned not to play around the outside of the rightfield section where Woodling kept dropping the ball.

LPGA Okehs Tourney

Ladies Professional Golf Association will hold a 72-hole medal play tournament at Forest Lake Country Club May 26-29, the club's board of directors announced today.

Miss Betty Hicks, LPGA tournament chairman, was notified of the club's approval after she agreed to open the association's summer tournament tour there.

This will be the 1st time that the feminine pros have played in the Detroit area.

Blaine Eynon, Forest Lake president, said the long Memorial Day weekend offers an excellent time for the tournament. He added that the board has been assured by Dale Weitzel, greens superintendent, and Bob Gajda, professional, that the course will be in top condition by that time.

The 35-37—72 par layout has been vastly improved since the club was reorganized a year ago.

The women will play for a $5,000 purse which should bring many of the top names in women's golf to the Bloomfield Township club.

Among those who will be invited are Babe Zaharias, Louise Suggs, Jackie Pung, Patty Berg, Beverly Hanson, Mickey Wright, Betsey Rawls, Betty Hicks and Marlene Bauer.

Miss Hicks guaranteed that at least 75 per cent of the LPGA members would participate.

Many amateur players, including Michigan's own fine women golfers, will also be invited.

Forest Lake members have shown so much interest in the tournament that they have already underwritten its entire cost, including the $5,000 purse.

Eynon said many members have volunteered to work on arrangements and a special meeting of the full membership has been called for March 8 to set up committee functions. William F. Newbery is general chairman.

RECORD BREAKERS—Jack Wardrop (left) of Michigan set a new world's record in the 220-yard free style event of the Big 10 swimming meet at Columbus, O., last night. Ford Konno (right) of Ohio State broke the Big 10 record in the same event. Wardrop's time was 2 minutes, 3.4 seconds. Konno was 2nd in 2:05.

Tigers Sign Negro for Augusta Farm

LAKELAND, Fla. (INS) — Detroit Tiger minor league director Johnny McHale announced today that Wycliffe N. Morton, Negro outfielder from Howard University in Washington, D. C., has been signed to a contract with the Bengal's Class A Augusta, Ga., farm team.

In his freshman year at Harvard last season, Morton hit at a .340 clip.

Morton was signed by the Detroit club's Washington area scout Pete Haley. He is 22-years-old, 5'11" and weighs 175 lbs. Morton will report at Lakeland March 15 with the Augusta squad.

Rickey Sets Cole Up as Pirate Inspiration

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 5 (AP) — Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is using Dick Cole as an inspiration to other Pirates.

In another of his series of lectures, Rickey said Friday that when he signed Cole, the infielder could not run too well, didn't throw strongly and had a "bad hitch at the plate." But, said Rickey, Cole has constantly tried to improve himself and "is one of our better players and one of the better in the league."

Kell Confident He Can Assist Chisox at Plate

Medical Reports Are Always 1st Topic With Ex-Tiger Star

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The first question they always ask George Kell is, "How's the knee?" Then comes "How's the back?" After the Medical reports are in, you talk baseball.

Despite a series of injuries and chronic ailments that would put a normal player on the retired list, Kell, at 32, has an optimistic outlook for his first full year with the Chicago White Sox.

"I know I can hit .300," he said in the Sox' new clubhouse at Al Lopez Field. He spoke with the authority of a man who owns a lifetime average of .309, third best among active players in the American League. "I know I can help this ball club, and it's a good ball club, capable of being right in there with Cleveland and New York.

"I don't think Cleveland can win any 111 games again. They all played up to their full potential last year. And they should have more trouble with the bottom five (plus Chicago and New York)."

Shantz Brothers Are Improved; Jim Finigan Signs Contract

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics training camp was marked Friday by these encouraging developments:

1. Little Bobby Shantz, the ace left-handed hurler who has been of little use the past two years because of arm trouble, pitched for 10 minutes at half-speed without experiencing any ill effects.

2. Third baseman Jim Finigan signed his 1955 contract.

3. An examination disclosed Wilmer Shantz, Bobby's brother who will be scrapping for the first string catching berth, is not suffering from a rib growth, as first feared. He'll have two wisdom teeth removed, believed to be the source of a pain in his back.

International Stars Bid for Turf Cash

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—International racing stars, led by Irish-bred Poona II, made a bid for fame and money today in the $100,000 added San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita Park.

Upward of 50,000 fans were expected to watch the running of the last $100,00 extravaganza of the waning Santa Anita meeting, with post time se for around 8 p.m. (Easern Standard Time).

Big Ten Not Satisfied With Television Plan

If NCAA Won't Revise Football Setup, League Ready to Bolt

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The NCAA football televisin pot was still simmering today.

Doug Mills, Illinois Athletic Director and member of the NCAA Television Committee, Friday revealed that he had "objected all the way through" to the program being mapped by the group.

The disclosure brought speculation that this stand by Mills, the Big Ten representative on the committee, may have had some effect in forcing the NCAA to abandon plans to announce its 1955 program this week and schedule another committee meeting in New York Monday and Tuesday.

The Big Ten was understood to have objected to a provision in the NCAA's tentative plan that limited a team to only one television appearance during the 1955 season. The conference insists that a team be able to make two appearances, one at home and once away.

The NCAA's New York session will have to delve into revisions that will make the program; in its final form, palatable to the Big Ten, more workable on the basis of game scheduling, and more saleable to a network.

If the final NCAA plan is not acceptable to the Big Ten, the conference has annouced readiness to televise football next fall independently and face probable expulsion from the organization. The Pacific Coast Conference backs the Big Ten in its regional stand.

The program as finally drawn up will be submitted to the NCAA membership for a mail vote. A two-thirds majority replying in the referendum is required to carry the program. The NCAA membership consists of about 450 schools. Mills saind that some 100 non-football playing schools will be asked to abstain from the voting.

White Signs Bosox Pact, Rookie Injured

Baseball's Here for Sure — Dodgers, Gaints Feud

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Proving that distance is no barrier when old bosom buddies feel like exchanging pleasantries, the Dodgers and Giants have hooked up in a trans-continental lovers quarrel to enliven the spring training air.

Giant Manager Leo Durocher, as you might expect, touched off the spat. It's spring training for The Lip too.

"Brooklyn's in trouble if (Jackie) Robinson, (Pee Wee) Reese or (Roy) Campanella doesn't play," Leo said from the world champion's training site in Mesa, Ariz.

Irked, Dodger vice-presidents Buzzy Bavasi and Fresco Thompson—with a surprising assist from usually silent Walt Alston—hurled a cross-country love note back into Leo's ear from their Vero Beach, Fla. camp.

Summed up, their sentiments read something like this: "The Giant bench is lousy, one of the lousiest in baseball. Dusty Rhodes is all they got. We can pick blind folded among our second-string outfielders and come up with better ones than they have."

Duke Snider and the Dodger batboy also got into the act. Snider, peeved at comparisons between Willie Mays and himself, announced that until Wonderous Willie passes him in the income tax bracket, he'll consider himself the better ballplayer.

The bat boy, Charlie DiGiovanna, added a Durocher jibe as a footnote. "It looks like Skinhead has his mouth in shape for the season already."

The most encouraging news came from West Palm Beach where the Kansas City Athletics enjoyed a double dose. Bobby Shantz, out most of last year with a chronic soreness in his left arm, put his valuable flipper through a 10-minute test run and reported it felt "loose and free."

Jim Finigan, the A's fine sphomore third baseman, signed his contract to end a short-lived holdout.

Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves belted a couple 420-foot drives and said he was hoping to get off to a fast start this year in the home run derby. "The only guy I really have to worry about is big Kloo (Ted Kluszewski) of Cincinnati," Mathews said.

Manager Casey Stengel conceded that Cleveland had a better pitching staff than the Yankees. Stengel said his main problem is to find a No. 4 starter after Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley.

Kuenn Handed Leadoff Spot in Tiger List

Detroit Shortstop Asks Bucky for Place, Says He Hits Better There

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Well, now it turns out that Harvey Kuenn is superstitious after all.

Following his brilliant rookie season, the young shortstop of the Detroit Tigers was asked if he thought baseball's "sophomore jinx" would catch up with him in his second year.

Kuenn laughed.

"How can a jinx hurt me when there's no such thing as a jinx?" was his snappy retort.

That was last spring. It's 'Tis another matter this year.

Kuenn has asked manager Bucky Harris to make him the leadoff batter in Detroit's 1955 lineup.

"Maybe it's purely psychological, but I don't feel right unless I'm the 1st batter," Kuenn explained. "I don't know what it is, but I just seem to hit better when I'm up at the top of the lineup."

Harris consented to Kuenn's request, saying he was confronted with a similar problem when he managed the Washington Senators.

"Eddie Yost felt the same way," Harris said. "Put him in the leadoff spot and he'd get on base for you all the time . . . by walk, hook, crook or base hit.

"But drop him down to where you figure his hits would help you more, and he'd go into a spin. Kuenn tells me it's the same with him. I'm willing to go along."

Harris named his tentative batting order for the coming season. It is: Kuenn, ss; Fred Hatfield, 2B; Ferris Fain, 1b; Ray Boone, 3b; Al Kaline, rf; Bill Tuttle, cf; and Frank House or Bob Wilson, c, plus the pitcher.

Reminded that one player was missing, Harris said:

124-Point Victory State Prep Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit All Saints, old hands at running up astronomical scores, set an all-time state tournament record Friday night by walloping St. Agnes, 124-19.

Although coach Dick Davis said he "tried to hold down the score," his relentless shotmakers dealt inept St. Agnes the worst defeat in the 30-year history of the tournament.

The All Saints' point total topped the previous high set last year by Whittemore, which crushed Winegars, 116-13.

Versatile Newcomer

Harris' Problem: Where to Play Young J. W. Porter in Detroit Tiger Lineup?

LAKELAND, Fla. (INS) — Stanley R. (Bucky) Harris, newly-installed manager of the Detroit Tigers, faces a unique problem—at what position will he play J. W. Porter?

"I figured on being ready for anything," grinned Porter.

Porter, known to his teammates as "Jay," says he wants "a shot at left field, if that's where the club has the best opening." However, he added:

"I just want to play, that's all."

Porter entered the Army at Fort Ord, Calif., in February 1953. Charlie Gehringer, then Tiger general manager, wrote him to concentrate on catching.

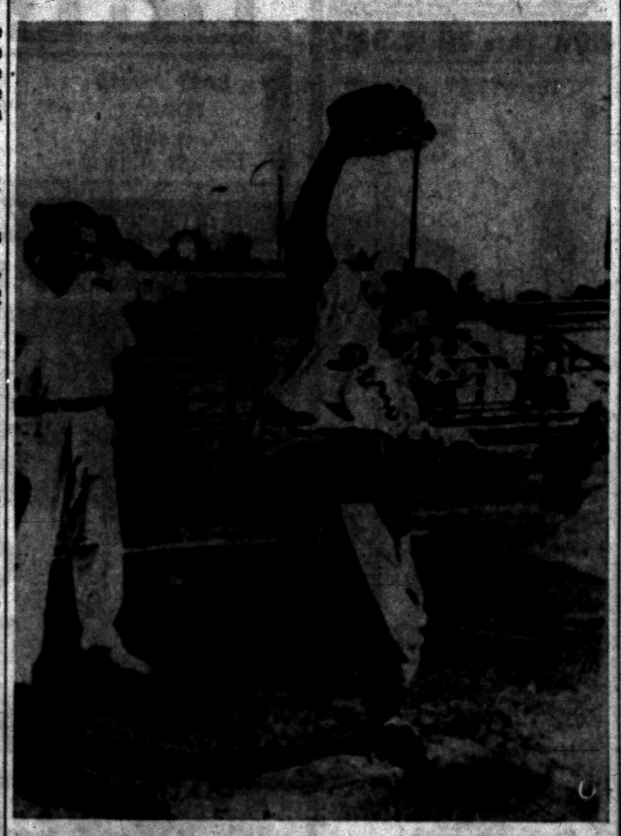

A short time later, Herold (Muddy) Ruel, Gehringers successor, advised him to switch to the outfield. Still later, Ruel told Porter to "try out 1st base."

In his 2nd season at Fort Ord, Porter played 110 games. He related

"I caught about 50 games, played 1st base in about 20 and then moved to the outfield."

Detroit obtained Porter in a six-player deal with the St. Louis club December 4, 1952. Bengal brass knew he was Army-bound, but was willing to wait because of his youth—he was only 19 years old when he entered the Army.

This is Porter's 1st spring in a major league training camp but he probably is further advanced than any other member of the team. He played 10 games with the Fort Ord squad before receiving his discharge Feb. 15.

Buckeye Tackle Ruled Ineligible for Grid Action

EAST LANSING (INS) Loss of All-Big Ten tackle Dick Hilinski from Ohio State's 1955 football team may be just enough to halt the Buckeyes from repeating as conference champions.

The 6-foot, 225-pound lineman was declared ineligible yesterday by a ruling from the Big Ten faculty committee for playing in 1955.

Along with the OSU lineman, two conference trackmen felt the whip of the faculty committee's ruling.

Ohio State's outstanding weight man Joe Morgan and high-jumper Doug Stuart, one of three Michigan State importees from Australia, also were declared ineligible.

Vermonter Wins Title

Santee Will Bid for Mile Record Without Pacesetter

NEW YORK (AP) Cowboy Wes Santee will try to succeed where some of the greatest runners in history have failed in the Knights of Columbus Games tonight when he races the mile against the clock in Madison Square Garden.

Through the years they've all had pacemakers—Nurmi, Cunningham and right down to Gunnar Nielsen who holds the current indoor mile record of 4:03.6. Its tough to break a record running out front all by yourself.

But Santee wants it again. He held it one week only to have Nielsen, a Danish pressman who has returned to Copenhagen shave two-tenths of a second off his proud mark.

The best mechanical rabbit of the age—the fellow who forced both Santee and Nielsen to their records— will be in the meet, but the directors, apparently fearful of the mounting wave of criticism on the question of pacemakers, have him in the 1,000 yard run.

He is Dick Ollen of Northeastern University a fair miler in his own right. His job in the past has been to set a blistering early pace and force Santee, Nielsen and Co., to record performances. He's been contingent have claimed it isn't fair to have a man in the race who isn't there to win.

Duke Sure to Be ACC Representative in NCAA Tourney; Mountaineers, Colonials in SC Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's still a little matter of settling the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship tonight, but beyond that—and whatever the outcome—Duke's Blue Devils are off for their first NCAA title appearance in Madison Square Garden Tuesday.

The Blue Devil's picked up the conference colors last night by outlasting Virginia 90-77 in overtime of a semifinal game in the ACC tournament at Raleigh, N.C.

Duke has to face North Carolina State, the defending champ and 5th ranked in The Associated Press poll, in the finale tonight. A victory would send the Blue Devils against Villanova in the NCAA first round tripleheader next week under their power. But Duke will get the bid even as a runnerup since NCS is ineligible because of probationary action by the NCAA.

In other action, West Virginia and George Washington qualified for tonight's title final to decide the Southern conference NCAA representative, while Oregon State, the northern division champ, gained a leg in the best-of-three Pacific Coast playoff by beating UCLA, the southern division winner, 82-75.

And Texas Tech gained at least a tie for the Border Conference title and NCAA slot by beating New Mexico A & M 87-58. Tech could gain a clear claim to the championship tonight by defeating Texas Western. West Texas State (9-3) already has finished its season and could gain a share of the title should Tech lose.

The Southeastern, Missouri Valley, Big Ten and Ivy League conferences also could pin an official blue ribbon on their NCAA representatives tonight. Kentucky can take the SEC title by beating Tennessee, Penn can sweep the Ivy and avert a possible three-way tie by beating Princeton and St. Louis or Tulsa could win the Mo-Valley if the other loses.

St. Louis plays Oklahoma A&M and Tulsa meets Wichita. A tie would call for a one-game playoff with the runnerup going to the NIT.

Iowa can claim the Big Ten crown if Minnesota loses to Wisconsin. The Hawkeyes are idle until Monday, when they could win regardless by beating Michigan.

Neighbors Halt Addition to Kent Animal Shelter

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Residents near the Kent County Humane Society Shelter have won a weeks-long zoning battle to prevent an expansion of the shelter.

The zoning board Thursday denied a Humane Society petition to expand facilities. Society officials had contended that planned improvements would eliminate noise and odor complaints registered by neighboring residents.

Hitler's Enemies to Head Army

Officers Who Escaped Hanging Seen as Likely West German Leaders

BONN, Germany (AP)—Top commands in West Germany's armed forces will go to officers who narrowly escaped Nazi hanging in the resistance movement against Hitler.

Their prospective appointments are officially secret, since first they must be approved by a special committee of prominent German civilians. But informed sources say the big jobs will go to:

Gen. Hans Speidel, 57, once chief of staff to Rommel in France. Suspected of implication in the 1944 bomb plot against Hitler, he was held eight months by the Gestapo. He taught history at Tuebingen University until appointed to the German delegation to discuss a European army in 1951. He is to be German military representative at NATO.

Lt. Gen. Adolf Heusinger, 57, who was in Hitler's war room when the 1944 bomb exploded. Heusinger was wounded, and afterward arrested as a conspirator. A professional soldier since 1915, he once described Hitler as "a hysterical dilettante." He is expected to be the armed forces' chief of staff.

Gen. Ludwig Cruewell, 62, former chief of staff to Rommel in the western desert. He was captured by the British July 1, 1942. Since the war he has led the veterans of the Afrika Corps in keeping bright a hero's memory of Rommel. He is the leading candidate for inspector general of the armed forces.

Gen. Hasso von Manteuffel, 58, tank expert who led a Panzer army in the 1944 Battle of the Bulge. Now a member of Parliament, he is the prospective army inspector general.

Gen. Hans Wenk, onetime commander of the 12th Army, a likely choice for high military command. His was the bruised and exhausted "Wenk Army" that Hitler kept calling on to save Berlin in his last ravings before suicide.

Gen. Count Gerhard von Schwerin, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's first military adviser, is also in the running for an important command. He was dismissed by Adenauer for being too talkative about conscription plans, but is favorably regarded for being "politically clean."

Gen. Adolf Galland, 42, a fighter ace, is the only prominent figure so far mentioned for command of the new tactical air force. He recently returned to West Germany after five years as adviser to the Argentine air force.

Capt. Otto Kretschmer, 42, credited with sinking 300,000 tons of Allied shipping as a U-boat commander, is to become inspector general of the small naval force.

The armed forces' commander-in-chief will not be a military man. Parliament has yet to decide, but probably the federal President will have this titular command.

Garry Moore's Fans Adore His Crew Cut

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I took my crew cut to call on Garry Moore's crew cut. Garry had a crew cut before the crew had it.

Noticing that he was wearing one of his famous bow ties as he sat with his feet on his desk at CBS, I asked if he had another one around the joint.

"One thing we've got around here is bow ties!" He brought out a whole boxful. I clipped one on.

"Now we do look alike," Garry said. "Anybody ever tell you that you looked like Buster Keaton?"

"All the time. Especially when I was younger. And sadder."

"Me, too," he said. "I suspect we both look more like Buster Keaton than we look like us!"

Compared to Garry, George Gobel's a Johnny-Come-Lately with the crew cut.

"When I was a kid in Baltimore, everybody wore crew cuts," Garry told me. "But I'd always let mine grow in the winter. When I was working in radio in Chicago in the early 1940s, I wore a crew cut in the winter. Everybody fell down laughing.

"I felt it was my personal answer to Cantor's eyes and Durante's nose. Later I got sick of it, got rid of it, and got complaints, so we took a vote.

"The crew cut won. Perry Como, a good friend of mine, gave me a haircut on the show. As for the bow tie, when I get a little fed up, I switch over to a long tie, and THAT gets complaints, too."

Garry's millions of women TV fans — including my mother-in-law—don't want him to change, as that would be a blemish on perfection.

His brilliant success—he has 19 sponsors, and CBS doesn't bother him from one year to the next—is partly explained by the fact that he's been doing the same show, with different titles and different casts, for 20 years—with five out to be on radio with Jimmy Durante.

"I got the feeling that I was being carried by Durante and that if anything ever happened to him, I'd be Abbott without Costello," Garry says.

So Garry, who'd worked in St. Louis, Chicago and Hollywood, went back on his own in N. Y.—and now he works a tight 9-to-5 day, refusing lunches and cocktail parties, and declining to work Saturdays and Sundays. He weekends with his wife and two sons, Mason, 14, and Garry, Jr., 11, and Red Wing, his 35-foot yawl.

"Garry's got an 89 average and Mason an 80—a hell of a lot better than their old man ever had," he says.

Garry's never been able to relocate the Pittsburgh woman who changed his name—his real one is Morfit—in a contest he held, which didn't seem important at the time.

People do still confuse him with actor Gar Moore. Garry's first recollection of the confusion was when he got a letter saying:

"Darling. Find I have two more days in town and would love to spend it with you."

As Garry was already married, this caused comment at home. Later a headline said: "Garry Moore Elopes with Nancy Walker."

"My mother-in-law phoned me about that one," he said, "and also the clipping was on my plate at breakfast. My wife said, 'Shall I set the table for three tonight?"

★ ★ ★ ★

Garry, though he's been doing this type of show all these years, didn't want to do it in the beginning. "I thought it wasn't my cup of tea," he says. "And when I go back and listen to some of the old shows, I'm more convinced than ever!"

Kirk Douglas Turns Producer to Make Money

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Found: An honest actor.

A good number of filmland's top stars are turning up with deals for their own production companies. The reasons given for these are many—"So I can do the kind of picture I've always wanted to do" . . . etc.

Latest to join the producer ranks is Kirk Douglas. His refreshing reason:

"Sure, I want the dough," he admitted. "I'd be a fool to say that I didn't. I want to make pictures that make money.

"But"— here's where the artist comes in, just as I feared— "I think the time has come when pictures of quality can make money too. TV has done that. People can get all of the mediocre entertainment they want on the home screen. They're more discriminating about movies now: they expect something better than run-of-the-mill.

British Begin Reenforcing Gibraltar for H-Bomb Age

By JOHN H. MARTIN
International News Service
Foreign Director

In the new "cave man age" wrought by science Gibraltar will take its part.

The withdrawal of the British from the Suez Canal Zone and the nuclear age have enhanced the strategic importance of "The Rock," famous in British military annals for 250 years.

Gibraltar's inner workings will provide excellent cover against nuclear attack, particularly when compared to the huge open dumps of equipment in the canal zone.

There already are nearly 20 miles of subterranean tunnels in the rock where General Eisenhower directed the North African invasion in World War II.

These tunnels now are being air-conditioned.

New plans are understood to include improvement of harbor facilities and better docks.

The Gibraltar air strip already has been lengthened to 2,000 yards, and the government also has modernized the fortress's conventional armament.

Funds are being earmarked for Gibraltar from the $336,000,000 the London government is making available for colonial development in the next five years.

The government also recently revealed that it was increasing economic aid to Gibraltar because of the economic boycott imposed on the crown colony by Spain, which claims Gibraltar.

Gibraltar assumes added significance in the western defense are at a time when official British spokesmen increasingly are devoting energy and funds to create a vast arsenal of guided missiles.

British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill has announced work has begun on hydrogen bombs which, with the U.S. stockpile, is aimed to insure the western allies an edge in the race over Soviet Russia.

Guided missiles can be fitted with atomic warheads

Cowboy Leaves Range to Herd Dixie Dogies

SPRINGFIELD, S. C. (AP)—Oklahoma cowboy Howard Watson has made the jump from the wide open spaces to Orangeburg County without a hitch, drawn by the South's infant cattle-raising industry.

He came here from tending a big Angus herd on a 7,500-acre ranch to look after 200 Aberdeen Angus cattle on the Longleaf Plantation farm.

Says he feels right at home even if he's no longer on a horse 12 hours a day as was the case on the big spread near Stillwater, Okla.

Self-Portraits Are Revealing

Guests in Pittsburgh Reveal Wishful Hopes With Mirror, Paint

PITTSBURGH (UP) — You accept Douglas Naylor's invitation to drop into his home for food, drink and stimulating talk at your own risk.

Naylor, whose reportorial beat for the Pittsburgh Press covers both city-county business and art galleries, has a hobby—and you do the work.

As a connoisseur of art, Naylor appreciates not only the polished work of professionals but also the efforts of tyros, especially of friends. Those who accept his invitations soon find themselves in a back room, supplied with the materials of art and under orders to paint what they see in the mirror—themselves.

The result of several years of this paint-for-your-supper practice was exhibited in the restaurant-gallery of the Pittsburgh Playhouse.

The exhibition, called "As I See Me," demonstrates what can result from people looking themselves straight in the eye.

This sort of phenomenon naturally leads both artists and observers to utter weighty words like "subconscious" and "wishfulfillment."

Mayor David L. Lawrence, for instance, fashioned a remarkable likeness of himself. The only detail challenged was the hair. Lawrence's is thinning, but his portrait-self sports a nice growth.

"I guess," he said, "unconsciously I long for more hair."

Many of the "artists" dodge analysis by obviously over or under-playing themselves.

Generally, the men acquire funny noses or some other such distortion, and even the most striking women do their best to depict themselves as plain.

It would appear that the Naylors get a lot of laughs at others' expense without incurring any of their own. But one friend estimated that the Naylors have spent $1,000 or more inspiring the visitors with food and drink.

Brimstone deposits of Louisiana and Texas account for 90 per cent of the sulphur production of the United States and one-half of the world's supply.

Year's Big Stock Boom Came as Surprise to Most People

NEW YORK (AP) — Been kicking yourself because you didn't make a killing by buying stocks a year ago?

Well, take heart. Some U. S. senators started wondering out loud Thursday about how come stock prices went up so much faster and higher than they and most people had expected.

The senators may, somewhere along in their study of the stock market, point a finger at "you"—the public. For the public didn't act the way some financial experts figured it would a year ago.

At that time the stock market already had been climbing sharply for several months. And mainly experts thought it was due for a setback, or at least a slowdown in the rate of climb.

Industrial production was slipping at that time, and the experts thought public confidence would be shaken.

But it didn't turn out that way. The public went right on spending its money for what it really wanted, when it thought the price was right. So, many corporations did right well in making profits and handing out dividends.

And the public unpredictably dropped the aloofness to the stock market which it had maintained since the unhappy days of 1929. It has been in the market in recent weeks, trading tips and rumors, and pushing up prices.

The senators may ask some questions about that —about the tips and the rumors and the extent of public's urge to speculate.

Top Medical Men Hunting Cure for Baby's Bleeding

CHICAGO (AP)—The top men of several medical skills have joined in the hope of finding a cure for Peggy Lee Davis, pretty, 15-months-old mystery "bleeder."

Doctors at Presbyterian Hospital have ruled out hemophilia. But they can find no record in medical history of a similar case. After 12 days of tests, they say only that they have found several leads which could turn out to be promising.

Deceptively, Peggy is the picture of health and happiness in her padded crib. The crib is padded to protect her from cuts or scratches that could start the dread bleeding.

But the bleeding also can start from no apparent cause. A nose bleed of one day duration has drained off as much as one-third of the 25-pound girl's total body blood capacity.

Peggy showed no signs of the malady until she was 7 months old.

However, a year and a half ago Peggy's sister died of a massive bowel hemorrhage at the age of 17 months. And Peggy's 6-year-old brother has had 53 transfusions to replace blood that seeped into his bowels, joints and muscles.

Doctors said Peggy's 26-year-old mother, Mrs. Joan Davis of Lisco, Neb., and Mrs. Davis' two sisters suffer in lesser degree from the same blood condition.

Peggy had 20 blood transfusions before Dr. F. V. Vesely, 40, of Lewellen, Neb., brought her and her mother from Lisco to Chicago at his own expense. Her father, Alvin, 31, remained home. Peggy has suffered no additional bleeding since arriving at Presbyterian Hospital Feb. 21. This does not particularly encourage the doctors, however, because of the unpredictability of the malady.

But unless her condition improves or doctors find the cause and cure, she faces a lifetime of blood transfusions with the ever present danger of massive and possibly hidden internal hemorrhage.

V-8 Designers Looking Ahead

Automakers Can Adapt These New Engines to Future Models

DETROIT (AP) — The several new V-8 engines introduced with this year's new model cars have been designed wtih an eye to the future.

With only minor modifications they can be adapted to higher compression ratios and improved fuels expected to appear in the near future.

Reports on the V-8 engine design were among highlights of a group meeting here this week of the Society of Automotive Engineers. The engineers heard also of a steadily increasing use of synthetic rubbers in car construction.

A most recent analysis showed well over 500 applications of rubber, weighing about 100 pounds, in today's passenger automobile. The items range from tail pipe insulators and grommets through fender flaps and flexible couplings to sponge rubber seats as well as tires.

This year's new V-8 engines include designs by Packard, Pontiac, Plymouth and Chevrolet as well as modifications by several other car makers.

How much was invested in bringing the newest of these units into use has not been disclosed. It safely may be said, however, that the dollar investment runs into hundreds of millions.

It is significant that many of these engines probably will remain basically unchanged for several years. That may be one of the reasons the car makers were not reluctant to put huge sums of money into their development.

30-Hour Week Seen Result of Automation

NEW YORK (UP)—Automation can bring the 30-hour week, wider employment and greater prosperity to the average American, New York University's Institue of Economic Affairs predicted today.

Haig Babian, editor of Challenge magazine, published by the institute, said the introduction of automatic devices in industry will be slow, because of the great expense involved.

"It is estimated that an investment of $100,000 per worker in automatic machinery will be required to bring a measure of automatization into our production industries," he stated. This compares with less than $11,000 invested per production worker in 1951.

"The automatic age may well bring with it the fringe benefit of a further decrease in the work week—perhaps down to 30 hours," he said.

Agricultural Planning Session Slated Monday

Agencies of the county are asked to send representatives to a meeting at 10 a.m. Monday when the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee will plan the 1956 Oakland County program.

The planning session will be held at the committee's Hubbard Building offices.

Detroit Senator Speaker at NAACP Meet Sunday

State Sen. Cora M. Brown of Detroit, will be the featured speaker at tomorrow's membership kick-off drive of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The meeting will be held at Trinity Baptist Church at 4 p.m. Other guests will include Mayor William W. Donaldson and Karen Hoff, Miss Pontiac of 1954.

SEN. CORA M. BROWN

Sen. Brown was elected to the Michigan Senate in 1952 to serve a two-year term, and was re-elected in 1954. A practicing attorney, she was the first woman elected to the office in Michigan. She holds degrees from Fisk and Wayne Universities.

Linwood Flack Jr., NAACP president, said the kick-off "is one phase to educate the public to the aims and goals of this organization."

In urging cooperation, he also stressed the group's objectives:

"To uplift colored men and women of this country by serving to them the full enjoyment of their rights as citizens, justice in all courts, and equality of opportunity everywhere."

Aims of the organization locally include wider employment opportunities, an expansion of teaching jobs within the school system, and relief from segregated housing, he said.

Flack said the ultimate goal was to have complete freedom from discrimination and segregation in this country by 1963, the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

'Casablanca' Good on TV but Fell Short of Movie

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Paul Douglas' performance in "Casablanca" seemed a little too chest-heaving which could mean simply that Humphrey Bogart's deeper, more taciturn reading of the role in the film from the same script was so thoroughly memorable . . . Arlene Dahl surprised us; we've been convinced for years her talents are somewhat chilly, not exactly emotionally sincere, but she shattered our firm convictions Thursday evening . . .

And in all deference to Hoagy Carmichael, we still remember with more fondness the performance of the late Dooley Wilson as the piano player; which comparison may not be precisely odious considering there was more time and scope in the movie to build up a warmer, more affectionate character than Hoagy possibly could in his brief time . . . For all our marginal exceptions, it still was good TV fiction . . .

Small talk . . . Red Buttons is on a poetry kick . . . Rin Tin Tin has something to bark about: he bit off ten more Nielsen points to leap from 33.9 to 43.9 . . . If you consider Snooky Lanson's given name unusual, be advised his square first monicker is "Sailer," named after the doc who delivered the little Snookyookums.

One of the funniest clowns alive, Jack Oakie, stars in "Burlesque" St. Patrick's night with Dan Dailey, Joan Blondell, Marilyn Maxwell and James Gleason . . .Teresa Brewer checked with the stork and passed along the news no such obstetrical landing is expected at the moment.

Hoot Gibson makes a comeback at the age of 63 March 16 with Joan Davis, who incidentally recently announced her own retirement.

Uncle Miltie plays four separate roles in his next show . . . Evangelist Billy Graham will "Meet the Press" Sunday.

Rent Case in Topeka Court 46 Years Old

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP) — Slowly move the courts.

Still on file is the forcible entry complaint filed in the court of Topeka by J. N. Thompson against Mrs. E. J. Whitlow. He demanded that she move from a Topeka house on which he claimed she owed $28 rent. She was allowed just three days to vacate, but the case was continued.

It's still listed as "continued" on court records but no one remembers if Mrs. Whitlow moved or paid up.

Says Atom Power Ready by Summer

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Gov. Joseph B. Johnson says he has been notified by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission that small amounts of atomic-generated electric power will be offered for private purchase this summer.

The governor told a local television audience last night that the power will be available at Schenectady, N. Y. He added that no price has been set and that the commission will not guarantee the amount of power.

He's Not Only in It, He Runs the Outfit

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo (AP)—Sgts. Richard Lane and James McCoy of Columbus, Ohio, contacted Mrs. Gene Hauger in their search for a ground observer corps post supervisor at Martinsburg, Ohio.

Mrs. Hauger said she had a brother in the Air Force. To make conversation, they asked who the brother was.

"He's with the Strategic Air command," said Mrs. Hauger. "His name is Curtis LeMay."

Gen. Curtis LeMay heads SAC. Mrs. Hauger will be the post supervisor.

Logger Fined $2,600 for Halloween Prank

Superior Judge Hale McCowen ordered him to serve three months in jail and pay $2,600 for the repair of a bridge he set afire in a prank.

McCormick pleaded guilty to an arson charge.

The United States uses about 700 million pounds of cocoa beans annually and Africa is the principle source, producing two-thirds of the world supply.

You'll never see your dentist hold a "2-for-1" sale on extractions...
AND You'll never see the day when you can take your TV set in for a service "bargain" and be sure you're getting a square deal!

"Bargains" in home electronic service are as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth! Here's why—

The expert service technician, just like other professional people, must undergo years of study and apprenticeship to learn the fundamentals of his skill. And a minimum investment of from $3000 to $6000 per shop technician is required for the necessary equipment to test today's highly complex sets. Finally, through manufacturer's training courses and his own technical journals, he must keep up with changes that are developing as fast as they ever did in medicine, law, or dentistry. Those best equipped to apply modern scientific methods are almost certain to be most economical for you and definitely more satisfactory in the long run.

Unfortunately, as in any business, there will always be a few fly-by-night operators. But patients, clients, and TV set owners who recognize that you get only what you pay for, will never get gypped. "There just ARE no service bargains"...but there is GOOD SERVICE awaiting you at FAIR PRICES!
