More for OCC, OU

College Aid Past Senate

An over-all appropriation of nearly $7 million for Oakland University and nearly $1 million for Oakland Community College were included in Senate approval yesterday of half the state's 1966-67 budget.

The grants to OU include $4.15-million in operating funds for the next fiscal year in addition to a $2.8-million capital outlay for building funds.

The OCC appropriation of more than $927,000 came under a general capital outlay spending bill for junior and community colleges.

Of the funds for OCC, $750,000 is earmarked for a classroom complex at Orchard Ridge; $118,190 for renovation at Highland Lakes; and $59,350 for renovation at Auburn Hills.

The monies allocated OU represent a $2.64-million increase over last year's appropriation, when Chancellor Durward B. Varner was denied funds for what he termed "pressing needs" at the school.

"It will be much easier to cope with the great growth we're experiencing here," Varner said, citing a 36 per cent increase in enrollment in 1965-66.

★ ★ ★

PROJECT LIST

OU's building project list includes $2 million for construction of an engineering building; $750,000 for plans and beginning construction of an office facility; and $108,000 towards cost of hooking into the Detroit water system.

The House has until Friday to approve the higher education spending measures.

The joint version of the two bodies then goes under study for more than a month, with final decision on the measures required by June 10.

PRESIDENTIAL GIFT—President Johnson shakes hands with James M. Roche, president of General Motors, and gives him a pen at a White House ceremony yesterday. Before handing out pens, Johnson made a speech strongly endorsing auto safety legislation. The occasion was the President's proclamation of the week of May 15 as National Transportation Week and May 20 as National Defense Transportation Day.

LBJ Concedes Viet Woes but Predicts Future Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, conceding some supply problems and political splits in South Viet Nam, predicts that in due course the people there will achieve unity and a constitutional government.

Johnson also told a surprise news conference yesterday that he does not expect Republican leaders to try to capitalize on the administration's Viet Nam policies as a political issue in the November congressional elections.

He added that Democrats never had "a more comprehensive record or a better record to campaign on" and said his party will go into the election with a strong edge.

The President said the administration is not yet approaching the time for decision on possible anti-inflation moves such as a tax increase or wage-price controls.

Johnson, talking informally from the rocking chair in his oval office, also replied to a claim by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., that the administration's economy efforts have hit hardest at the poor.

The chief executive said appropriations for health, education and antipoverty programs have been increased by $10 billion to $12 billion "since I succeeded President Kennedy."

TO BALTIMORE

Johnson flew to Baltimore by helicopter last night for a speech at a Methodist Church anniversary celebration. He cited the same domestic spending increases and promised further social welfare efforts, but said "we shall not be stampeded into unwise programs."

Some critics of the Viet Nam war paraded outside—Johnson apparently did not see them—and the President made an off-the-cuff reference to suggestions that a new pause in bombings of North Viet Nam might promote peace.

As if addressing the Communists, he said:

"Don't ask us to stop everything you're doing while you pound us. Don't ask us to stop everything you're doing while you're marching on women and children."

★ ★ ★

President Criticizes Car Makers

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Johnson, taking the lead as an auto industry critic, says that an aroused nation will no longer stand for "inexcusable indifference" to traffic slaughter.

★ ★ ★

"We can no longer tolerate such anarchy on wheels . . . unsafe automobiles . . . poorly planned and badly lighted highways . . . inadequate licensing procedures," Johnson said in a podium - thumping speech to transportation leaders yesterday.

Among his listeners were auto industry officials who were targets of stiff criticism in Senate hearings earlier this month.

★ ★ ★

The President's remarks were the sternest thus far, including those made by congressional critics of the auto makers in hearings on bills to require federal safety standards in several areas.

DEATH TOLL

"Since 1961, we have lost four times as many American servicemen in motor vehicle accidents as our enemies have been able to kill in all the fighting in Viet Nam," Johnson said.

Calling traffic deaths "our biggest problem, next to Viet Nam," Johnson said 50,000 Americans would die in auto accidents this year, 100,000 will be permanently disabled and 4 million will be injured.

The official occasion for the President's remarks was signing proclamations making the week of May 15 National Transportation Week and May 20 National Defense Transportation Day.

But he used the ceremony to call for congressional passage of two administration bills.

One would create a cabinet-level department of transportation and the other set up federal auto safety standards.

Huge Outlay Is Approved

State Budget May Be Over $1 Billion

LANSING (UPI) — With barely a ripple of debate, the State Senate yesterday approved its portion of what may become the first $1-billion budget in state history.

Senators okayed and sent to the House five spending bills, totaling $466.4 million, to finance public health, higher education, mental health, corrections and some state building projects during the 1966-67 fiscal year.

The bills, all passed with heavy bipartisan support, represent less than half of the proposed Democratic budget that now rises about $12 million over the one billion dollar mark. The Senate was able to shave only $10 million from its spending package before passage.

The House Ways and Means Committee reported budget bills worth $546.5 million to the floor in the House of Representatives last night. The package included $262.5 million for school aid, by far the largest single item in the general revenue fund budget.

★ ★ ★

Midnight yesterday was the deadline for passing all Senate-originated bills and sending them to the House of Representatives.

DEADLINE EXTENDED

But as the deadline neared the House, wrestling with its larger share of spending bills, asked for and got a one week extension of the deadline for action on budget proposals.

The Senate has about $18-million in miscellaneous appropriation bills still to be acted on.

The Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Appropriations Committee, the two bodies that fashion the budget, reportedly have agreed to put the majority party spending plan at the $1 billion mark.

★ ★ ★

The $1-billion budget would wipe out all but about $10 million of the current $135 million state surplus, a spending pace which Democrats feel they can live with.

JUDGES PAY

Action on the Senate bills followed a 14-hour session in which senators also approved a pay raise and broader pension benefits for circuit court judges.

The Senate, which earlier this week approved a $5,000 pay raise for legislators, upped the minimum pay for 55 circuit judges from $15,000 to $29,500.

SCENE OF DESTRUCTION — Searchers examine the wreckage of an American Flyers Airline plane that crashed on ranchland near Ardmore, Okla., last night, 92 servicemen and six crewmen aboard. The men were en route from Ft. Ord, Calif., to Ft. Benning, Ga., for advanced training. The death toll was 81 today with 17 others seriously hurt.

17 Survivors Hospitalized, Most Critical

Airliner Cracks Up in Mountain Foothills of Southern Oklahoma

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — A chartered airliner crashed in the foothills of the rugged Arbuckle Mountains in southern Oklahoma last night, killing 81 of its 98 passengers, most of them Army recruits preparing for advanced basic training.

Seventeen survivors of the crash, which occurred when the huge turboprop overshot a converted World War II airbase runway, were hospitalized, most of them in critical condition.

The dead were taken to a temporary morgue set up in Ardmore's Civic Auditorium.

There, 81 bodies were counted within a few hours after scores of rescuers began the grim task of moving victims from heavily timbered hillside.

OFFICIAL COUNT

There were 92 Army recruits and six civilian crew members aboard the plane.

The plane was an American Flyers airliner, preparing for a fuel stop here while on a cross-country flight from Ft. Ord, Calif., where the recruits had just completed basic training, en route to Ft. Benning, Ga., where they were to start airborne and other types of advanced training.

★ ★ ★

'LIKE SLAVES'

"We worked like slaves, but it just didn't do any good," said Dr. James Schuller at Ardmore General Hospital when the 18th survivor died.

"It looked like an oil well blowing up," an eyewitness, Richardo Herera, 23, an American Flyers student said.

"The plane wobbled all over the place as we were coming down," said Pvt. James Gorman of Bellerose, N.Y., one of the survivors. "Then the plane hit."

Pvt. Joseph Deeny, 20, Lindenwold, N.J., said he "had to crawl to get away from the flames — they were licking at my legs."

IN REAR OF PLANE

"A couple of my friends were near me, and they were hurt awful bad," Deeny said. He had been sleeping in the rear of the plane and was thrown out when it slammed into the sandstone and granite slopes.

Gorman said he was still fastened by his seat belt when the plane slammed to earth.

"There was fire all around me and I undid my seat belt and got out . . . But I didn't have to climb out. There wasn't any more plane."

★ ★ ★

ON RANCH

Mrs. W. A. Broughton, a caretaker on the ranch, went to the scene and described it

Former GOP Leader Named to State Post

Former Oakland County Republican chairman Dale A. Feet has been appointed state insurance commissioner by Gov. George Romney.

Feet of 4260 South Shore, Waterford Township, was named to succeed acting director John W. Wickstrom.

Reports speculate Feet might have difficulty getting confirmation from the Senate for the $16,000-a-year post.

Feet said today, "I am anxious to get to work on the job. There is much to be done now, especially, with Medicare coming in. My qualifications speak for themselves."

The 33-year-old GOP leader served as the county party head two years, from 1964 to 1966.

PCH GRAD

Feet graduated from Pontiac Central High School, attended Michigan State University, and received his bachelor degree in business administration from the University of Florida.

Heart Patient Gains Slightly

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Methodist Hospital authorities said today that although Marcel DeRudder remains unconscious after a partial artificial heart was implanted in his chest, his electroencephlograph "would suggest slight improvement."

Blood pressure and pulse appear within the normal range and the heart pump continues to function satisfactorily, performing approximately 75 per cent of the left ventricle's work, the advisory said.

Physicians said DeRudder suffered possible brain damage during Thursday's six-hour operation when an artificial pump took over part of the work load

'Head West, Driver'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo taxicab is on the road to San Francisco today, with two drivers chauffeuring a woman who produced $1,250 to get to the Golden Gate in style.

Nobody asked why the well-dressed woman, about 35, wanted to hire a taxi for a trip that will take about three days by cab.

"The person just wanted to rent a cab to go, she had the money and so she went," said Malvin Farrell, dispatcher for the Black and White Cab Co. who dispatched two drivers to the trip.

The woman came into the cab office Thursday night and ordered a cab to drive her to San Francisco. She produced the fare—50 cents a mile—without hesitation.

Drivers Paul Mertz and Chester Reanue then set out to alternate driving straight through to San Francisco and back.

OTHER EXPENSES

The woman will have to pay for meals or any other expenses along the way.

The trip will wind up costing a good bit more than the $141.12 it would have cost for a first class airplane ticket or the $130.49 for a two-day train trip on a sleeper car.

The company has had other requests for out of town taxi trips, but this is the longest one, Farrell said, adding, "You can't go much farther than that."

Soviet Aide Boasts of New Antiaircraft, Antimissile Systems

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky said yesterday Russia has developed an antiaircraft system capable of "capturing" whole formations of fighter planes.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, Malinovsky said the Soviet Union has a new system to combat long-range rockets. The antimissile system has been introduced in Russia, the defense chief told officers and men of the Budapest Garrison in a speech carried by the official Hungarian news agency, MTI.

"We have introduced a new type of long-range rocket-combatting antiaircraft system and created a system of capturing fighter plane battalions," Malinovsky said.

He gave no details of the systems, but said "our antiaircraft units are prepared to make short work of any hostile plane and rocket."

★ ★ ★

(In London, Western defense experts said they were intrigued by Malinovsky's claim that the Soviet Union has developed a system for "capturing" enemy aircraft.

HOW EXTENSIVELY

(They also speculated on how extensively Rusia might have introduced the new antimissile system to which he referred. They noted that Russia paraded a new weapon in Moscow in 1964. A commentator described it as an antiballistic missile missile, and NATO chiefs codenamed it "Galosh."

(The defense experts said it was not clear whether Malinovsky was referring to a new antimissile system or whether numbers of "Galosh" has been deployed throughout the Soviet Union, possibly in an improved form from the one guardedly displayed in 1964.

(Very little is known in the West about the "Galosh.")

Malinovsky also said Russia has improved its conventional weapons — armored, motorized and artillery forces.

"In many respects, our military machinery is superior to that of the United States and to the most modern tank units of the other NATO states," he said.

REAFFIRMED

As he did in another speech yesterday in Hungary, the Soviet defense minister reaffirmed Russia's support for the Viet Nam Communists and said the United States "shall never be able to bring the Vietnamese patriots to their knees."

★ ★ ★

In the other speech, Malinovsky told Hungarian military units that Communist China has hampered Russian attempts to give more efficient aid to the Communists in Viet Nam."

Crash Victim Listed Serious

A 46-year-old Troy woman is in serious condition at Pontiac General Hospital after a two-car collision last night on I-75 in Pontiac Township.

Mrs. Edsel Peacock of 6355 Rochester was injured when the car she was riding in was struck broadside while making a U-turn on I-75 near the Mt. Clemens exit.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said the car, driven by John R. Churchill, 39, of 1196 Beta, Walled Lake, made an illegal turn into the southbound lane of the freeway in front of a second car.

Mrs. Glendora M. Wynn, 41, of Turner, driver of the other car, said she was unable to avoid the collision, which hurled Churchill's car 135 feet back across the median.

Mrs. Wynn and two of her children riding in the automobile were treated for injuries at Pontiac General and released, as was Churchill.

City Woman Hurt in Two-Car Crash

Lucille E. Ryan, 63, of 358 N. Johnson is listed in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today after a two-car collision yesterday.

Pontiac police said a car she was driving collided with another vehicle driven by Nellie K. Taylor, 57, of 974 Argule.

★ ★ ★

SHOOTING THE BULL—Packing house workers kill a bull with rifle fire on the streets of Hialeah, Fla., yesterday after a herd of 60 cattle escaped from a stockyard and roamed the streets of the Miami suburb. By Noted Surgeon

Research Center Project Is Praised

Plans to establish a Pontiac Medical Research Center received a boost yesterday from a noted researcher and surgeon.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Edwin Ellison, instrumental in the creation of research facilities at the Marquette University School of Medicine in Milwaukee, offered praise for Pontiac's effort toward a research center.

Dr. Ellison toured the projected local research center to be housed at Pontiac State Hospital.

"This looks like a nice development," said the noted ulcer researcher. "It will answer the needs of area hospitals."

★ ★ ★

Conceived by doctors on the staffs of Pontiac State and Pontiac General Hospitals, the research center is planned to involve the entire medical community.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Donald Dawson, also on the staff at Pontiac State, is director of the research center, which has begun limited operations with Dawson's own experiments.

Dr. Ellison said research experience for future surgeons now is anticipated, and even expected. He said such experience was an important part of training the man who is going to become a surgeon.

For example, he noted that the future surgeon must learn electronic instrumentation that is so important in today's modern operating room.

★ ★ ★

"You have to see such equipment used and learn how to use it," he said.

BEST PLACE

Dr. Ellison indicated the best place to learn how to use the various monitoring equipment now used in the treatment of patients was in the laboratory, not the classroom.

The teaching function of a research center can also benefit the practicing physician, acording to the Pontiac visitor.

He said the research center can provide continuing education for the established physician.

Dr. Dawson, who rated Ellison's Marquette center as "probably the best surgical training area in the country," said the Milwaukee facility was begun in very much the same surroundings as those planned here.

BARN, KITCHEN

Among the hospital areas being renovated at Pontiac State for research purposes are an old cow barn and a kitchen.

The Milwaukee research program began five years ago with two old buildings. One had been the county morgue.

Lodge Says Viet Turmoil Hurts War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge says the political turmoil in South Viet Nam has affected the military effort against the Communists and has set back the drive for economic reconstruction.

"But I believe the lost time can be regained," Lodge said in a taped television interview Friday.

★ ★ ★

He also voiced some uneasiness about South Viet Nam's national elections scheduled for Aug. 15 by the military government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

★ ★ ★

"This (election) is an untrod path. They have never before had elections on a national basis and for national questions. It's never happened in their whole history."

UNDER PRESSURE

Ky called the election for a National Assembly under pressure from South Viet Nam's Buddhist leaders who have been agitating for a return to civilian rule. Over the past few weeks, thousands of demonstrators have been called out in Saigon, Hue, Da Nang and other cities to back the Buddhist demands.

★ ★ ★

Asked to what degree the political crisis has hampered the war, Lodge said: "It certainly has hampered it somewhat. One Vietnamese division in the 1st Corps was taken out effectively, really, of the action against the Viet Cong aggression.

"We should remember though that a good deal of military success was achieved during the last month and I believe the lost time can be made up."

★ ★ ★

The 1st Corps area is in the northernmost part of the country and includes Hue and Da Nang which recently rose in open revolt against Ky's government.

★ ★ ★

Lodge said the work of "revolutionary development, pacification, rural construction, grass roots uplift" will continue but it "has had a real setback" in the 1st Corps area.

Heart Patient Said Slightly Improved

LATE ADVISORY

An advisory late yesterday said it was hoped "any possible brain damage" would be temporary.

"This condition has been encountered previously in open heart cases,' the bulletin said.

The former coal miner's lack of response, the advisory continued, was not due to the plastic pump, "which is working satisfactorily."

★ ★ ★

After assuming about 67 per cent of the work normally done by DeRudder's left ventricle, the pump began carrying 75 per cent of the work load, an earlier advisory said.

MAKES TRIP

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, heart surgeon who performed the operation with a team of specialists, briefed Mrs. DeRudder on her husband's condition before she saw him in a special three-room intensive care suite.

Retrial Fight Lost by Estes

May Face Perjury Charge After Hearing

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Instead of the retrial Billie Sol Estes sought in his multimillion-dollar fraud case, the imprisoned promoter faced a prospect today of prosecution on a charge of lying under oath.

U. S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster said Friday that Estes "got caught redhanded in as brazen an exhibition of perjury as I have ever seen in the 40 years I have been going to the courtroom."

The judge read a 14-page statement in refusing to set aside Estes' 15-year sentence for peddling worthless anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) tank mortgages to nearly a dozen finance companies.

He held that defense lawyers failed to prove that a Chicago official of one lending firm gave false testimony at Estes' trial here in 1963 or that there was new evidence to justify another jury hearing the case.

NOT REASONABLE

"My opinion is that there is no reasonable probability that the defendant would be acquitted or would get a hung jury on a new trial," Judge Brewster said.

Jaw muscles of the bespectacled Estes, a former lay preacher of the Church of Christ, tightened visubly as he heard the decision.

U. S. marshals led Estes back to spend another night in the El Paso County jail before his return to the Leavenworth, Kan., Federal Prison. He has served 15 months of his term and possibly could go free under parole after five years.

★ ★ ★

Judge Brewster's comments raised the possibility of fresh charges, however. The court directed that U. S. attorneys call Estes' testimony to the attention of a federal grand jury.

Contradictory statements by Estes and Hilbert Kreeger Jr. of Chicago, formerly with the Walter E. Heller Co., were reviewed in detail by the jurist.

Part of Pig's Heart Transplanted to a Man

OXFORD, Englan d(UPI) — A British surgeon used a valve from a pig's heart this month to correct a normally fatal condition in a human patient's circulatory system, it was announced today.

A hospital spokesman said it was the first time such an animal-to-man transplant had been performed in Britain. The patient, an unidentified 56-year-old man, was discharged from the Radcliffe firmary here last night.

New Building Dedication Sunday at Baptist Church

BIRMINGHAM — The congregation of Grace Baptist Church will dedicate its new sanctuary and educational facilities at the corner of Lincoln and Edgewood Sunday at 3 p.m.

The original building adjoins the new facilities and will continue to be used for several classrooms, junior church and nursery, according to Rev. Charles Whitfield, pastor.

The new building sanctuary has a seating capacity of 330. Pews and furnishings are of natural oak to contrast with the fruitwood beamed ceiling.

Twelve classrooms, choir room, fellowship hall, kitchen and study also have been added. The additions total 8,500 square feet, added at a cost of $80,000 by Kimmich Builders of Birmingham.

ORGANIZED IN 1956

The congregation was organized in 1956, and held its first meetings in a Birmingham home. Rev. Mr. Whitfield led the group in organizing a Sunday school and church.

The congregation later moved to a store building downtown. Three months later the present site was acquired.

When additional facilities were needed in 1964, the church brought more property on Lincoln. Plans were laid for an auditorium and educational unit. Ground was broken in April 1965.

Regular Sunday services are Sunday school at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m., youth groups at 5:30 p.m. and evening service at 7. Midweek prayer service is held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Whitfield is married and the father of two children.

D. B. Varner, chancellor of Oakland University, will be the speaker at the 18th annual meeting of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce May 3 at the Kingsley Inn ballroom.

A social hour is scheduled for 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:30.

BIRMINGHAM — The Annual Birmingham Student Art Show will display more than 3,000 art creations of elementary and secondary students. Planned for the auxiliary gym at Groves High School, the show will open Tuesday and continue through Friday of next week. Hours are from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily.

Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m., the students will give demonstrations including puppet shows, figure drawing and work in other media.

The Detroit Institute of Arts Artmobile will be a feature of this year's show from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday only.

New Officers for Children's Aid Society

Retired Editor Scoops Up OU Diploma

To anyone else, it might sound as though 62-year-old John MacLellan had put the cart before the horse.

MacLellan will graduate with honors from Oakland University tonight, having earned a degree after completing a distinguished 40-year career as a newspaperman.

The gray-haired undergraduate sees nothing incongruous about the event. He was brought up to believe in education for its own sake, not simply for its economic value.

As a result, he never came to regard the success he achieved without the aid of a college degree as any reason for not continuing his education.

John MacLellan

MacLellan, who lives with his wife Jean at 1920 S. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township, began pursuing a college diploma more than four decades ago at Antioch College in Ohio.

In 1924, after less then two semesters there, a student review board turned down his request for a loan.

So MacLellan went to work.

After leaving Antioch, he returned to Windsor where he had gotten his first job as a reporter two years earlier. He worked in Windsor a year and then landed a job on the Detroit Times as a night police reporter.

ON TIMES STAFF

MacLellan stayed at the Times until it was purchased by the Detroit News in 1960.

MacLellan worked in public relations for awhile but then decided to retire.

"At that point, I took a good look at myself," he said, "I was healthy, tired of working and figured that I had saved enough to be financially secure.

"I wasn't equipped to plant roses . . . I planted two last year and they both died . . . so I finally decided to go back to school."

"Mac," as he is known by fellow students, quickly found that the passage of time had not dulled his wits — nor had it sharpened his learning ability in those areas which had given him problems in high school and at Antioch.

"I was lousy in French and math then, and I'm lousy in them now," he said.

★ ★ ★

He strongly recommends college to other mature citizens, even though it may have little bearing on their occupations.

ENLARGEMENT

"It doesn't really matter if you are a bricklayer or a mechanic," he said. "A college education can do a great deal to enlarge your experience."

After graduating cum laude from OU, MacLellen plans to work toward a master's degree in history at the University of Michigan.

He has successfully met the challenge of competing with young scholars.

★ ★ ★

"In some ways, being older is an advantage," he siad. "I'm free from parental conflicts, anxiety about my future and problems of romance—I can study on Saturday nights."

Senator Wants More Yanks in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., said today more American fighting men should be sent to South Viet Nam to win the war faster "at less cost."

McGee, who recently returned from a trip to South Viet Nam, said the Americans could release more South Vietnamese for pacification duty — to follow up, clean up and secure an area after the Viet Cong are swept out.

With the United States now increasing its manpower and supply bases in Viet Nam, the senator said, "We are going to move much faster over greater areas.

★ ★ ★

"This is going to put us face to face with the problem of filling the vacuum behind those sweeps. It's a tremendous problem. I don't know how you can exaggerate it," he said.

McGee, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said, "The military successes are somewhat meaningless when you can't stabilize and hold the areas you've cleared."

"When you clear, say, a rubber plantation, and then the Viet Cong move back in there and you have to go in all over again," the cost in manpower is high, he said.

★ ★ ★

But if Americans were to take over the duties of securing newly cleared areas, he added, "we would have to have a lot more troops there than we have now."

Meanwhile, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said "the confusion of official tongues over Viet Nam is causing skepticism, doubt and concern in the minds of the American people."

MANY EXPLANATIONS

"There aren't enough fingers on both hands to count the number of ways our role in Viet Nam has been explained and justified by government officials," he said in a speech prepared for a conference on communications at the University of Hartford, Conn.

Red Troops Slip Out of Allied Trap

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A regiment of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops slipped through an allied trap today and, though badly mauled, escaped into the jungles.

The insurgents, almost surrounded by U. S. Marines and South Vietnamese government troops six miles northwest of Quang Ngai, apparently found a hole in the perimeter and faded off to the west.

A U. S. military spokesman said allied forces who had gone in on tips from a Viet Cong defector to get at the 1st Viet Cong Regiment and the 21st North Vietnamese Regiment. The two units were forced together after they were battered by U. S. Marines in Operations Utah and Texas in March.

What was left took a new mauling but not as much as the allied officers had expected. The original figure of 257 Communists killed over a 24-hour fire fight was scaled down to 220. Allied casualties were described as light.

BOMB ATTACKS

Most of the 220 dead Communists were victims of air and artillery attacks, spokesmen said.

The operation named Hot Springs also resulted in more than 100 weapons captured from the Communists, including a score of 50-caliber machine guns and 57mm recoilless rifles.

Air attacks over North Viet Nam Friday cost the U. S. Air Force two planes. A Voodoo on a special photo reconnaissance was shot down by ground fire northeast of Hanoi and the pilot was listed as missing. An F105 Thunderchief fighter bomber was hit by automatic weapons fire about 40 miles northwest of Hanoi and the pilot was also recorded as missing.

Soviet Nuclear Test Is Detected by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission reports it has received indications the Soviet Union detonated a low yield nuclear test Wednesday.

The AEC announcement Friday said seismic signals "equivalent to those of a nuclear test in the low yield range" originated from the Soviet testing area in the Semipalatinsk region.

★ ★ ★

Low yield tests are those with a blast equal to less than 20,000 tons of TNT. The AEC announced the receipt of similar signals from the same region on March 20.

Detroit Area School Lunch Cost May Rise

DETROIT (AP)—The price of lunches in Detroit area schools may go up next year.

School administrators say increases are being considered. They blame reductions in federal surplus commodities and funds, along with increased costs of food and labor.

U.S. Reqcquired 18,000 Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has bought back or otherwise reacquired 18,000 bombs from allies so far this year for use in Southeast Asia, it was learned today.

A Defense Department spokesman said the bombs came from six countries that are recipients of U.S. military aid. The countries were not identified.

Some of the 18,000 bombs, the spokesman said, were merely reclaimed under existing aid agreements, others were bought back "for no more than we sold them."

The Defense Department provided this information in response to questions without saying that the ordnance is being sent to Viet Nam. But other sources said the armaments are going to Viet Nam to boost what are described as bomb inventories now near minimum levels.

A source acknowledged that the Air Force is having problems with its bomb supplies although he insisted that no air operations over Viet Nam have been canceled for lack of bombs.

Air ordnance inventories must not be allowed to decrease further, it was said.

The Pentagon issued this statement in response to queries about the reacquisition of bombs:

"We have reacquired under our military assistance program . . . this year approxiamtely 18,000 bombs of various types, less than 3 per cent of the number used to date in Viet Nam. They were obtained from several countries under the terms of our . . . agreement by which we may reacquire military materiel provided by us when it is excess to the requirements of the country concerned. There are no plans to reacquire more bombs under this program."

W. GERMAN FIRM

One week ago the Defense Department disclosed it had repurchased for $21 each some 5,500 bombs sold for $1.70 each to a West German firm in 1964.

This repurchase, the Pentagon stated, indicated no shortage of bombs in Viet Nam.

Helicopter Rescues 4 Adrift in Boat

MONROE (AP)—Three young men and a woman drifted 40 miles in a disabled motorboat, reaching safety Friday with the help of a Navy helicopter.

The four were Richard Sicher, 23; John Wiggens, 21; David Labon, 22, and his wife, Kathryn, 21, all Detroiters, who set out in a 15-foot fiber glass boat Thursday afternoon. Labon said that the 35-horsepower engine quit after a few hours, and the boat drifted about 40 miles to the opening of Lake Erie.

Kidnap Victim OKs Lie Test

MONROE (UPI) — Robert B. Rosenberg, 32, agreed yesterday to take a lie detector test about his claims that he was kidnaped, held for 12 days, shot and dumped on a rural roadside.

Doctors meantime said Rosenberg could not have inflicted the bullet wound himself. He staggered into a motel at Temperance Wednesday with a bullet in his back and said he had been bound, blindfolded, shot and dumped from a car.

★ ★ ★

State Police said a revolver, found with two bloody ropes and a cotton-tape blindfold where Rosenberg apparently was dumped, had been tested and proven to be the one which fired the shot.

Hospital Campaign Goes Over Top

The community may well take pride in the triumphal outcome of the fund raising project on behalf of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. The goal of $3.25 million, representing half the cost of the institution's expansion program, was oversubscribed by nearly $150,000.

Under chairmanship of E. M. ESTES, general manager of General Motors' Chevrolet Division, 1,000 volunteer workers were engaged in a year-long effort in attaining the campaign goal.

That it was so gratifyingly reached is a tribute to the enduring zeal of campaign leaders, the army of solicitors and the heartening generosity of contributors.

This was reflected by the impressive number and wide range of contributors whose pledges ran the scale from General Motors' $1 million to the 25 cent offering of a needy widow who freely gave her mite.

* * *

Equal interest and contributory participation was shown by the area UAW-CIO organization and collectively by the employes of the three local GM plants.

* * *

The Press warmly applauds the humanitarianism exemplified by the fine response to area need and congratulates those whose vision and labor gave it effect.

Ulbricht Penned by Reply to Annual Letter

You've got to hand it to East Germany's Red boss, 72-year-old WALTER ULRRICHT, for being one of the world's most persistent letter writers.

For years, as a propaganda pitch, he has written an annual letter to West Germany's reigning Social Democrat Party beseeching it to join with his own Socialist Unity Party in bringing about German reunification.

* * *

Each year the letter had been ignored — until this year. But, no doubt reflecting West Germany's new and more flexible attitude toward the Communist bloc, the Social Democrats last month became more sociable and fired back a reply.

* * *

Their proposals for the unity sought by Ulbricht were:

- Unrestricted travel between the two Germanys.
- Increased cultural contact.
- Debates between Eastern and Western politicians to explore possibilities of reunification.

ULBRICHT was so delighted and stunned to get an answer that he disregarded his advisers and ordered Neues Duetschland, the official daily paper, to print it. Though an East German rejection ran alongside, East Germans did not seem to notice.

* * *

They were seized with excitement at the sudden start of a dialogue between East and West. The newsstands issue of the paper was snatched up minutes after it landed, and soon was selling on the black market at 40 to 50 times the established price.

All over East Germany, Communist functionaries were being bombarded with questions about why the Western proposals should not be accepted.

So far, the questions have been as unanswered as theretofore had been ULBRICHT's letters.

U. S. Economy Wallows in Sea of Paperwork

You haven't by any chance had a recent experience, have you, that has left you a little shell-shocked from paperwork and form-filling-out?

Well, what good old Form 1040 did to you was practically a love pat. You ought to see what thousands, maybe millions, of folks are putting up with every day in the year!

For the frightening fact is that it is taking more and more red tape to wind up the mainspring of the Great Society.

Item: It takes a radio station about 80 hours, a congressional committee was told the other day, to fill out the necessary forms to renew its license.

Item: It is estimated that at this very moment there are 1.5 quadrillion—yes, QUADRILLION — pieces of paper stored in the Nation's offices and storerooms.

* * *

Item: The paperwork cost of running the U. S. economy is estimated at $100 billion a year—one-seventh of the Nation's annual output of goods and services.

Item: Furthermore — but you now know that the little paperwork you did for the Internal Revenue Service was just a warmup.

Taxes: Johnson's Sensitive Area

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — This year taxes are going to hang over President Johnson like an umbrella or a club.

Taxes may go up.

If they don't, then in the congressional elections Johnson can say, "We got along without them." If they do, Republicans will blame them on him.

MARLOW

When Congress cut taxes in 1964 and 1965, that was supposed to settle things for quite a while. But the costs of the Vietnamese war came along.

Then living costs began inching up.

In February they went up one-half of 1 per cent. Thursday came the news that in March they had bumped their way up a bit again, this time four-tenths of 1 per cent.

This was just a modest increase compared with February. But it was still a continued rise. And it was in March that Johnson indicated he might have to ask Congress to boost taxes.

As a politician he knew this was sheer poison. But as a politician he knew this had an antidote.

COSTS HOLD STEADY

If, after fussing about the possibility of a tax increase, there was no great increase in living costs and therefore no tax increase, he could claim credit for a great achievement by his Democratic administration.

Meanwhile, he worked at it, pressuring labor to keep down its wage demands and business to keep down prices and new construction.

He said at the time about new taxes: "We don't want to act prematurely. We don't want to put the brakes on too fast."

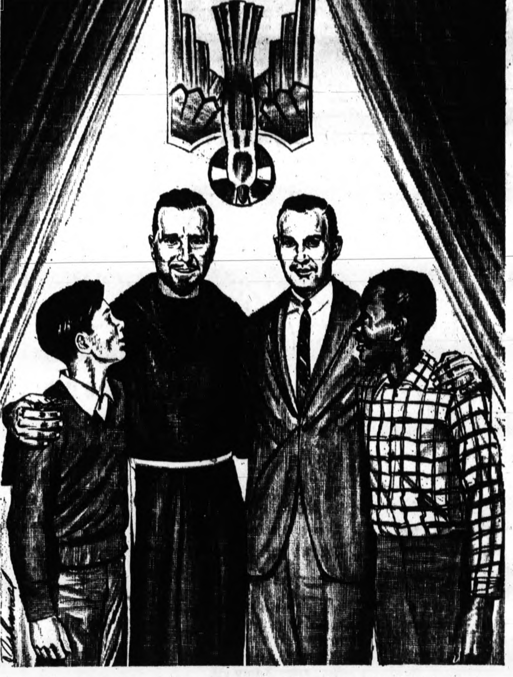
* * *

This was a great big nudge to practically everybody about throwing money around. In case they didn't feel his elbow, he tried a few more pokes.

THREE ALTERNATIVES

He said most of his advisers were talking of three alternatives: government controls, a federal spending cut of $5 billion to $10 billion or a tax increase of roughly $5 billion.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL



The two Chaplains of Childrens Village at Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., have developed a truly ecumenical concept. The Rev. Benedict J. Groeschel of the Capuchin Order is the Catholic chaplain and the Rev. James Edward Tallman, a Methodist, the Protestant chaplain. They not only serve the spiritual needs of the residential treatment center for the 300 emotionally disturbed boys but are integrated into the whole program of the village. One chapel serves them both.

Childrens Village is a 115-year-old non-sectarian, interracial private agency whose program is designed to prepare boys for return to society. Their ages at admission are from 8 to 14. Seventy per cent are from New York area and the other 30 per cent come from as far away as Cleveland. They are referred to the center by the courts and social agencies. Chaplain Groeschel, who has been at the village for five years, says that they have an 80 per cent rehabilitation rate. In 1965 he won the Award for Brotherhood from the Westchester County branch of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Chaplain Tallman has only been at the Village since September 1, 1965 but his background and dedication also have set the ecumenical tone of the whole program at Childrens Village. Chaplain Groeschel says "What we are doing here will have to come to pass with all religions throughout the world in the name of brotherhood."

Confident Living:

Grip of Weakness Can Be Broken

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A Montana housewife who did a major weight - reducing job on herself writes that she wants to share her way of doing it.

Dr. PEALE

As a teen - ager she had let herself go deeper and deeper into overindulging in good food. Result: she got grossly fat. And in this deplorable state she stayed for years. She just could not make herself stick to even a reasonably low caloric diet.

To compound her misery she developed a chronic sense of guilt about overeating. "I used to feel guilty," she says, "with the first bite in the day, even though my logic told me that the first 1,000 calories weren't damaging."

Eventually she slimmed down by using two creative ideas. First, she mentally pictured a lovely figure, holding in imagination the exact measurements and weight she desired. Second, she held in mind the idea that "God who created the body will also recreate it along the lines of the perfection He wants for His children."

* * *

By implementing this two-point concept and adhering to it, the lady got control of her overeating and shed the excess weight. To prove it, she sent me a picture of a slender, attractive woman. "You should have seen me a year ago. I positively waddled," she says.

* * *

The ideas mentioned above contain important pointers on how to quit bad habits generally. First, you've got to develop control. And control is essentially a problem of character and character is spiritually and psychologically conditioned. Lots of people have found that when they become actively aware of God's help and seriously draw upon it, they finally come to the place where they no longer want to indulge a weakness. Instead comes a growing desire to get on top of it.

Strength to do so increases in proportion to sincerity of desire. While this is part of the method of getting free from a tenacious habit, another factor is the realization that you must do your share, helping yourself by psychological self-conditioning. One of the most powerful phychological self-help devices is the technique used by the lady in Montana of picturing the figure and weight she wanted to have.

So hold in imagination a picture of your goal as achieved, remembering that any objective persistently and expectantly imaged strongly tends to get actualized. Picture yourself as in full control of yourself always moving toward your goal. The more you "see" yourself as a victorious individual, the more actual inner strength you will have.

* * *

Another helpful rule is one stressed by famed Professor William James in his epoch-making "Principles of Psychology." Remember that to indulge just once again a weakness which you have just renounced is to risk defeating yourself altogether. Each lapse," says James, "is like letting fall a ball of string which one is carefully winding; a single slip undoes more than a great many turns will wind again."

Herbert Brean, author of a widely read book on how to stop smoking, echoes this truth. He warns: "If you occasionally let yourself have one cigarette or pipe, on the grounds that 'just one won't hurt,' you will keep alive far longer the desire to smoke . . . As a matter of fact, if you give in at all, you will probably give in completely and begin smoking as heavily as ever."

The same writer observes, "The tough moments come only one at a time, and they get easier as you defeat them one at a time. All you have to do is win the battle of the moment and forget about an hour from now, or a day from now, or a week from now. Defeat one temptatation and the next one won't be quite so tempting."

* * *

William James recommends fortifying the capacity to resist temptation by what he calls "a little gratuitous exercise every day." He says, "Be systematically ascetic or heroic in little unnecessary points; do everyday or two something for no other reason than that you would rather not do it." Believe me that is very good advice. I like to call this "will power conditioning."

* * *

You may not find in any one self-help procedure the whole answer to your particular problem of how to quit something. But if you employ the fullest possible use of your capacity for creative imagination and use clear thinking, will power and common sense — plus some good solid spiritual work — you can break the grip of any weakness and quit anything you desire to stop doing.

Voice of the People:

Reader Does Not Agree With Policy in Viet Nam

Responsible opinion suggests we have trapped ourselves in Viet Nam, starting with a John Foster Dulles maneuver and then through changing administrations, sinking ourselves deeper in the quicksand in our struggles to correct each successive boner.

The argument for sticking to our guns in Viet Nam is that if we back out we encourage communism everywhere and discourage our allies. I propose something different. We are losing the loyalty of our allies rapidly. For each Asian we maim or kill, we do not create a supporter but provide an exhibit which our unfriends can point to with telling effect.

Our present policy in Viet Nam is encouraged by our Marxist-Lennist adversaries and the increasing violence is a most precise fulfilling of their prophecy. On a global strategy basis, we are performing like communism's trained seals.

Let's be big enough to acknowledge our mistakes and withdraw from Viet Nam while there is still time to do it with some grace.

Our stock market would take a worse beating than it is presently. There would be a sudden unemployment. We'd have to put the competitive system to work in earnest just to ward off a depression. We'd have to exploit every foreign market instead of being exploited by our enemies of World War II.

Wouldn't this be healthy?

* * *

Wouldn't we knock in the head the growing fear and belief of the rest of the world that my country, with its nuclear weaponry, is determined to force the rest to do its bidding? Wouldn't the world applaud the one regime that voluntarily rejected the application of force to achieve world domination? It's our economic system we want to save, not our military complex.

* * *

The Communists will use force wherever necessary to oppose force, and they have been doing an effective job. But, the very type of "world domination" they seek makes force its enemy. Every bomb is that much less effort into creating "a worker's paradise." This is the real base of our policies: to force the Communists to make guns and bombs instead of their "paradise." Aren't we then playing with murder and suicide? How can loyal Americans support such a program? If the Communists "take over" they must demonstrate the superiority of their way of life. If we are to "take over," doesn't the same thing hold true?

Questions Inability to Control Vandalism

Why is it evidently impossible to control vandalism and apprehend those responsible for same? Why should taxes be increased to repair willful damage that should be stopped? Why are citizens to be further terrorized by the lawless by being denied the right to guns for their protection? Why should citizens pay taxes on property where dozens of kids parade across lawns, etc., and we're told it would be best not to say anything to them? Are those in authority putting the country in charge of these youths who have no respect for law, order, property or older people?

I WANT TO KNOW

Compares Pay of Lawmakers, Supervisors

It's a shame our lawmakers in Lansing have the power to vote a $5,000 raise without the vote of the people who pay the bill. Our township supervisors who work full-time get about half as much salary as the men in Lansing who work about half-time. Why not get our supervisors a raise?

FAIR PLAY

'Americans Must Learn Art of Self-Defense'

Self-defense against moral and spiritual deterioration and physical attack—is necessary knowledge for peace-loving people, or what kind of populace would remain? Communists long ago set out to bankrupt our economy and demoralize our populace.

* * *

Graft, vandalism, dishonesty in business, prejudice, unsafe streets, loose moral standards, etc., play right into Communist hands by creating an atmosphere of distrust, fear and selfish materialism. Continued localized open wars drain our economy. But if we pull out of Viet Nam we still play right into Communists' hands.

All Americans desiring to remain free need to learn the art of self-defense. A corrupt home front is as deadly in the long run as an ill-equipped battlefront.

High School Group Will Gather at OU

Some 550 high school students from throughout southern Michigan will attend the fourth annual conference on student leadership Monday at Oakland University.

The largest group ever to attend one of the conferences will hear a keynote address by Harold E. Sponberg, president of Eastern Michigan University.

The conferences are designed for students who have headed or are going to head school organizations.

An area nearly the size of Africa would be added to man's domain if he could work freely on the continental shelves. The shelves hold known reserves of oil, tin and diamonds. To exploit these riches, however, divers whould have to conquer the ocean to a depth of 600 feet.

Waterford Will Weigh Retirement Plan

★ ★ ★

Resident Walter W. Lagerquist of Wyatt Co., consulting actuaries, has conducted a study at no charge to aid township officials in finding a desirable pension plan for employes.

Lagerquist reportedly made a comparison study of a recent plan, proposed by A. J. Gabriel and Co. of Detroit, with a former plan rejected last year.

In other business, the board will consider the township recreation department budget for 1966-67.

★ ★ ★

Proposed is an appropriation of $21,826. The board of education has already allocated this amount to the budget.

The share for each board in the current 1965-66 budget is $21,153.

Also Monday night, the board will consider a land plan for the proposed Crestbrook Estates on Crescent Lake Road, just north of M59.

The township planning commission previously granted preliminary approval of the land plan for the proposed 47-lot subdivision.

First notice will be read for a proposed zoning change from single family residential (R1-A) to multiple dwelling residential (R-2) of a parcel of land in Acres Heights Subdivision.

French Provincial Theme Enhanced By Colorful Velvet, Damask And Antique Satin Fabrics

Home Is a Childhood Memory

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

When the Don Steinbrechers moved into their present home on Benstein Road, Commerce Township, it was like turning back the clock for Mrs. Steinbrecher.

As a child, she and her parents had been frequent visitors in the spacious two-story home.

Though Mr. Steinbrecher has initiated many small remodeling projects, with the exception of the kitchen, the house remains essentially the same as when it was built.

"The living room fireplace proved annoying for awhile," said Mrs. Steinbrecher.

* * *

"I like to change my furniture around and with the fireplace taking up most of one wall, my rearranging bouts were somewhat hampered.

PROBLEM SOLVED

"That is, until my husband solved the problem. We didn't want to remove the fireplace, for we might decide to use it someday, so he enclosed it with a covered frame that can be easily pulled away."

The antique French porcelain pieces on the frame's top ledge and on the buffet in the adjoining dining room were given to Mrs. Steinbrecher by Mrs. Louise Benstein, the home's former owner.

"Everyone helped work the needlepoint on the chair seats," said Mrs. Steinbrecher, "my friends, my mother, even my husband tackled one."

* * *

In the bright, white kitchen, a knickknack shelf made by Mr. Steinbrecher displays heirloom sherry and water glasses of cut crystal.

Repeating the blue, green and gold of the soffit wallpaper is the braided rug centering the work area.

EARLY AMERICAN: There's a world of old-fashioned charm in the traditional design of this three-bedroom house, which can be converted into a five-bedroom dwelling with an extra bath by utilizing the attic space over the right-hand portion of the structure.

Expandable House in Early American

The need of some families for more than three bedrooms in a house of moderate size led architect Herman H. York in the direction of this week's design.

★ ★ ★

Basically a three-bedroom house enclosed in a traditional Early American style, it provides ample space for two extra bedrooms in an expansion attic placed over only the right-hand part of the structure.

From the front, the attic adds interest to the roof line in a kind of studio-like elevation.

The L-shaped main floor plan makes it possible to cover a larger area on a lot of medium width than if the design were rectangular.

★ ★ ★

It also provides a most interesting but practical traffic pattern.

FRONT DOOR

But instead of the usual arrangement, with some rooms to the right and some to the left, the living area is to the rear, the bedroom wing at the front.

Note, however, the way in which the foyer serves as the hub of the entire layout, avoiding cross-traffic.

The placement of the living room and the dining room gives the owner a choice. He can place a partial partition between the two.

Or he can keep the entire area open, giving the family a very large section for formal entertaining.

PANTRY CLOSET

Housewives will like the pantry closet next to the refrigerator.

There is a fireplace in the family room, which adjoins the kitchen, laundry room and a lavatory-toilet.

From the laundry room one can go into the garage without going outside. Another door leads to the rear terrace.

★ ★ ★

All three bedrooms have plenty of wall space. A large split bathroom makes multiple use a possibility.

In addition, a door from the main bedroom leads directly to the "wash-up area of the bathroom. An oversized bedroom hall, paneled in prefinished plywood or hardboard, can be pleasing to the eye as well as a practical hub of the bedroom wing.

★ ★ ★

The attic space is divided into two bedrooms, a bath, a telephone corner and four closets, with additional storage available under the eaves.

ATTIC BATH

★ ★ ★

Very heavy hand split shingles on a small or medium-sized house can overpower the exterior, destroying whatever character has been designed into it.

The garage door is simple and tasteful without accents, since attention should be drawn away from this large mass and directed toward the front entrance.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The 1,614 square feet on the main floor level of this house can be augmented by 564 square feet of living area on the second floor, but the upper level need not be finished until needed, if at all.

G-33 STATISTICS

Design G-33 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, laundry, foyer, three bedrooms, a large split bath, a lavatory and a one-car garage on the first floor, with a habitable area of 1614 square feet. If the attic is finished, 564 square feet are added in the form of two bedrooms, a bath and four closets. The over-all dimensions are 59' 8" by 44' 8".

Mobile Home Sales Still in High Tide

Mobile homes account for one out of every three dwellings designed to sell for less than $10,000 and may well be the major factor in the low-cost housing market by 1970, according to one of the country's leading producers of relocatable residences.

In addition, one-sixth of all new, nonfarm, single-family home purchases last year were mobile units, says F. L. Cappaert, president of Magnolia Homes Manufacturing Corp.

And, he adds, 85 per cent of those structures are used as permanent homes.

Cappaert says the low cost of mobile homes—a result of technological advances and mass production techniques—is a significant factor in the growing popularity of the units.

"The average mobile home costs $5,600 — about $8 per square foot, completely furnished, as compared with $14 per square foot for conventional housing, unfurnished," he said.

Sliding Panel Door Ideal for Covering

A sliding door wall of tough hardboard panels, prefinished or painted in contrasting colors, is an attractive way to hide pipes, furnace, basement storage and equipment.

Possessions Underinsured

Nearly one-third of American families still carry no insurance at all on their household possessions, despite the tremendous growth of this form of insurance protection in recent years.

And many others who once had adequate insurance have not kept it up to date with recent acquisitions.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

"Families are accumulating valuable personal property at an astonishing rate, filling 53 million homes and apartments with billions of dollars worth of insurable goods ranging from food freezers, color TV sets and hi-fi systems to pool tables, hobby collections, antique furnishings and jewelry.

"This cornucopia of household possessions has increased the typical family's vulnerability to loss from home fires, windstorms, buglaries and other mishaps," states the Journal, publication of the American Mutural Insurance Alliance.

The chief adjuster of one large property insurance company is quoted as saying his adjusters "seldom see a large fire loss today in which the dwelling's contents are adequately insured."

The fundamental reason for this situation, he adds, probably is the owner's lack of information as to the real value of his increasing possessions.

Insurance companies have tried to offset the public's tendency to underinsure by offering homeowners package policies in which the minimum household contents coverage is pegged at 40 per cent of the value of the house (it's 50 per cent in some policies).

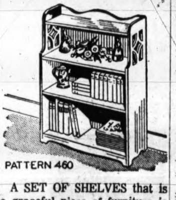
But even this provision does not do the job for all families, and those who have possessions worth more than that can easily get their insurance company to increase the coverage.

Many insurers provide policyholders with guidebooks for making inventories of household contents, as an aid in obtaining adequate coverages and in filing a proper claim following a loss.

Spring Painting Tip

A one-inch gauze bandage wrapped around the middle of a paint brush and anchored with a rubber band will help to prevent paint from running down the brush.

Lightly oil an old dish mop and use it for easy cleaning of coiled bedsprings.



A SET OF SHELVES that is a graceful piece of furniture is a good project for any home-craftsman. Dad or Young Son who is taking shop at school will like this design. Pattern 460, which gives full-size cutting guides, and illustrated steps, is 35c. It also is one of four patterns good for school work in the Small Stands and Shelves Packet No. 49 for $1.

FLOOR PLANS: Large foyer serves as the hub of a good traffic circulation arrangement, permitting quick entry into the kitchen, living room or bedroom wing without crossing other rooms; fireplaced family room has immediate access to the optional rear terrace.

Iron Piping Considered Permanent

Everything seems to become obsolete rather fast these days—jet planes, factory equipment, electronic gadgets, and even the family car. In fact, much industrial machinery is almost obsolete even before it has reached the end of its useful life.

For this reason many businessmen like to depreciate or "write off" the cost of a new piece of equipment over as short a time as possible, perhaps just one or two years.

★ ★ ★

However, when it comes to the cast iron soil pipe plumbing drainage system in an industrial or commercial building, the IRS considers it so permanent that it suggests the useful life of cast iron in waste lines in a building be spread over the entire life of the building. It rates underground cast iron sewers at 33 years for depreciation.

And evidence indicates even much longer life can be expected. Recently a four-inch sewer was removed and replaced with a larger size to serve a new building in Roanoke, Virginia.

This four-inch sewer had given 66 years of service and was in excellent condition.

For the homeowner having a cast iron soil pipe plumbing and drainage system means that he will probably never have to worry about excessive maintenance or replacement for the entire life of the house.

Cast iron soil pipe is the only piping material permitted underground beneath a building by all the plumbing codes in the United States.

Record High Levels Predicted in Home Betterment Outlay

This fact, combined with the are of prewar houses, adds up to record high levels of spending on home improvements and remodeling in 1966 and the years ahead, according to a leading spokesman for the industry.

Harold J. Sugarman, publisher of Building Supply News, says annual expenditures for home improvement and remodeling will reach $14-billion in 1966 and will total at least $18 billion by 1975.

Expenditures for do-it-yourself home maintenance and improvement projects alone will pass $4 billion.

* * *

Sugarman noted that there is considerable evidence to support the belief that the home improvement boom will grow rather than diminish.

The interest in kitchen and bathroom remodeling is one of the biggest reasons for the heavy spending on home improvements.

Many kitchens in homes built right after World War II are already out of date. There are at least 45 million kitchens that are more than ten years old.

Conservatively there are 16.5 million outdated bathrooms, plus many more homes in need of additional bathroom facilities. Especially shocking is the fact that there are more homes in the United States with television than with bathrooms.

* * *

Despite all the building in recent years, two out of five homes are at least 35 years old, meaning they were built before the Depression.

AFFECTS INDUSTRY

Sugarman said the interest in home improvement, remodeling and do-it-yourself projects had had a great effect on the $10-billion-a-year-building supply industry.

* * *

Building materials manufacturers have developed thousands of new products for the home, many of them specially designed for installation by home handymen.

* * *

Building supply centers themselves have changed with the times, evolving from old-fashioned lumber yards to modern one-stop supermarkets that carry thousands of do-it-yourself and home improvement items.

Best Well Is Usually Drilled

Homeowners moving beyond municipal water mains for the first time are always pleased to discover the many advantages of a private system. They find that a private well gives a pure, cold supply that is unrestricted in use even during the hottest dry spells of summer — and it's more economical, too.

But while they are happy to learn the benefits, many homeowners are confused about the matter of wells and pumps. At first glance this is understandable, since there are several types of wells and several kinds of pumps to serve them.

Wells are classified according to the way they are constructed — dug, driven, bored or drilled. The first three types are usually shallow, not more than 50 feet deep.

The best well in most instances is the drilled variety. Since it can be carried to almost any depth, it can tap the deepest and purest water source.

* * *

To bring water from the well to the user, three basic types of pumps are used today—reciprocating, jet and submersible.

The first two types can be used with either shallow or deep wells and serve to "suck water up from the well.

The third type, the subersible, is a relatively new development in deep well pumping. It is installed right down into the well below the water level to "push" the water to the surface. There are several advantages involved—no priming, no noise and no need for above-ground pump housing.

* * *

A reputable water systems dealer is best qualified to install and service water systems that will provide plentiful water reliably and economically.

Bevel Siding Proves Traditional Favorite

Bevel siding is the favorite style for homes of traditional architecture, but it's equally appropriate for contemporary houses.

Beware of 'Junk'

Good Housekeeping Habits Deter Fire

Safety experts agree that good housekeeping is the best deterrent against fire and accidents in the home.

Unfortunately though, with many people, good housekeeping practices stop at the kitchen door. They don't extend to the basement, attic or garage — major breeding grounds for fires and accidents in the home.

In all of these out-of-the-way areas, safety experts point out, the most serious threat to home safety is the accumulation of articles of little or no value. More speciffically, junk.

Home owners regularly should make a scavenger hunt of their own — discarding all articles that have outlived their usefulness or pose a threat to the safety of the home.

* * *

Proper fire-resistant metal trash containers should be placed in the garage and basement to encourage and remind members of the family to get rid of accumulated junk.

STEEL CONTAINER

Wood scraps and other flammable materials that collect in the workshop area should be placed in a galvanized steel trash container until hauled out for removal by local refuse collectors.

Be sure that the container has a cover made of the same fireproof material. Keep the cover in place on the container to guard against the start of a fire from a lighted match or other heat source.

Covered metal containers also are ideally suited for the safe and dry storage of household articles in the basement and attic.

* * *

In the garage or back yard area, metal containers are recommended for the storage of grass clippings, leaves, broken branches, scraps of paper and other backyard debris.

DANGEROUS STUFF

Because these items are subject to spontaneous combustion under some conditions, keep the containers covered when unattended.

Storing flammable materials in bushel baskets, wooden crates, cardboard boxes and other combustible containers represents a very definite fire hazard.

These combustible containers and their contents can easily be ignited by a carelessly discarded cigarette, a lighted match, or even a spark from the exhaust of an automobile. Anything short of a metal receptacle is unable to contain a fire should it happen to start.

* * *

Use of bushel baskets and cardboard boxes as storage containers in the garage contributes to a cluttered and untidy garage as well. Articles easily spill out over the top of a cover-less container or even blow into the neighbor's property.

Home safety experts suggest that the same basic rules of housekeeping which apply in the regular living areas of the house should be applied to the garage, basement, attic, utility rooms and other areas not normally regarded as show-places.

A fire which starts in one of these areas or an accident that occurs there can be just as serious as if it occurred in the living room.

Offer Styles on Awnings

Home owners considering the installation of aluminum window awnings or patio covers to enhance the appearance of their home can now get a better idea of how their home will appear after the awnings are installed.

A new series of architectural-type drawings of basic home styles showing how each home will look when awnings or patio covers are installed, is now available.

* * *

A free copy of the drawings may be obtained by writing to "Home Drawings," Alcan Aluminum Corp., 111 W. 50th Street, New York, N.Y. 10030.

Potted Plants Give Yard Finished Look

Bedding plants professionally grown in clay pots are becoming increasingly popular among gardeners who want that finished look earlier than is possible in other ways.

Plants available at garden stores in 3 or 4-inch clay pots include such favorites as begonias, lantanas, marigolds, petunias, lobelias and impatiens.

Plan Now or You'll Pay Later

Some people think a good way to save some money in building a house is to spend as little as possible on vital piping. This way, they can save a little now and spend a lot later correcting it. Make sense? Of course not.

Many people planning construction of a new house do this very thing, seldom realizing the costly and inconvenient consequences. Take the service line from the city main to the house as an example.

A ¾" line might meet household needs today, but later, when a washing machine, automatic dishwasher, extra bathroom and garage outlet are added, the supply will not be adequate.

A one inch or larger line would provide for such expansion, costing little more in initial construction.

People who truly economize wisely in home building often include "stubbing in." Very simply, this means that piping is installed and capped in locations where future fixture additions are planned.

With this method, the cost of eventual installation is greatly reduced since all that is needed is to "hook in" to piping already there.

Also recommended are sufficient shut-off valves and clean-out plugs.

Often the victim of economy cut-backs, these devices quickly demonstrate their value in homes that don't have them.

For sinks that don't have separate shut-off valves, all water in the house must be turned off just to replace a faucet washer.

Clean-out plugs enable the plumbing contractor to locate and remove piping obstructions without dismantling parts of the system.

Savings that come from skimping on your home's piping system are no savings at all.

Be sure your plans call for piping that will give full-flow pressure today — and tomorow.

Sugar Pines Top Other American Pines

Largest of all the pines in America is the sugar pine which grows as tall as 250 feet and nearly 12 feet through at the base.

Cabinet Usage Rates a Place in Modernizing

Cabinets of plastic-coated hardboard are ideal for kitchens, bathrooms, bedrooms and other uses.

* * *

Plastic-coated hardboard is resistant to moisture, marring and stains and can be kept clean by damp-wiping.

* * *

It comes in natural or toned wood-grain finishes suitable for the popular "wood look" of modern kitchens, as well as in tile and marble designs and in attractive colors.

PRINCE RIDES HIGH — Swedish Crown Prince Carl Gustaf is tossed into the air by fellow students after he passed his final examinations yesterday at a private school in Sigtuna, Sweden. Gustaf plans to enter the navy.

County 'Sniper' Case Delayed to Check Testimony Legality

The trial of Oakland County's alleged "phantom sniper," Gary Addison Taylor, was adjourned yesterday until Tuesday when attorneys will argue the admissibility of a psychiatrist's testimony.

The hearing was set over by Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore so defense attorney Gilbert Davis and Asst. Prosecutor Ronald Covault can research the law involving doctor-patient relationships.

Gilbert said that there is a relationship that should be honored since Gordon had been retained by Taylor's parents when he examined Taylor in April 1957 at Ionia Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

* * *

Moore said perhaps in a case like this a patient in a state institution waives the relationship doctrine.

Taylor, now 29, was committed to the institution shortly after being arrested and charged with assault with intent to murder in the shooting of a Bloomfield Hills woman nine years ago.

He was released from the hospital last January and ordered to stand trial on the charge.

Though it was determined that Taylor was unable to stand trial nine years ago because of his mental condition, it has yet to be decided if he was insane at the time of the shooting.

* * *

Gilbert claims that his client was insane when he was arrested.

DEFENSE SUPORT

His defense was supported yesterday by two psychiatrists, Dr. Abraham Tauber of Pontiac and Dr. Clinton Mumby of Huntington Woods.

Both were on the panel of psychiatrists who testified nine years ago at a sanity hearing that Taylor was unable to assist counsel at his trial.

Covault had two former Royal Oak police officers return to the stand to dispute the testimony of the two psychiatrists.

* * *

Both George Tedder and Richard Oaks testified that when they talked to Taylor shortly after his arrest he was "calm and composed."

Michigan Women Will Tour Defense Bases

LANSING (AP) — Lenore Romney, wife of Gov. George Romney, and Elly Peterson, state Republican chairman, will be among a group of Michigan women taking part next week in "Operation Understanding," an Army-sponsored tour of missile and other air defense bases. They leave Monday for a tour of bases in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Colorado. The group returns Saturday.

Senators Say Funds Not Used for Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four members of the Senate Ethics Committee said in interviews today that fund-raising events were never staged to help them meet the expenses of public office, aside from necessary campaign costs.

The committee is investigating misconduct charges against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., including allegations that he diverted campaign funds to his own use and did not report the money as taxable income.

* * *

A close associate of Dodd has said that funds raised at testimonial dinners for the senator in 1961, 1963 and 1965 represented tax-free gifts to help him meet the extra expenses of public office as well as to pay campaign debts.

* * *

He said the funds, reportedly involving between $100,000 and $200,000, helped the senator to maintain homes here and in Connecticut, entertain constituents and travel back and forth to his state. The associate said the expenses were necessary to Dodd's office.

ASKED QUESTION

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., a member of the ethics committee, was asked if he had ever had any testimonial dinners or similar affairs to raise funds for this purpose.

"The answer is no, a flat no," Cooper replied. He said dinners had been put on to raise campaign funds for him but he had never received any public or private contributions to help him meet the expenses of his office.

Committee vice chairman Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, was asked about the Dodd associate's remark that such testimonial dinners were in line with an old American tradition.

* * *

"Well, my only comment is that I've never been a party to that good old American tradition, and I have found I can live on my income without accepting gifts from my constituents," Bennett said.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., another committee member, said, "I never had a fund-raising event just to meet these particular purposes." He added, however, that he used campaign funds to go back and forth to his state in election years.

A fourth committee member, Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., said "No, I have not" when asked if he had ever staged testimonial dinners or similar affairs to raise funds to meet the expense of public office.

LENON CLARK

Ceremony Set for Institution of VFW Post

A newly formed Veterans of Foreign Wars Post will be instituted at 3 p.m. tomorrow, at the Post home, 430 S. Jessie, according to 5th District Commander Lester Klingler of Holly.

Lenon Clark, 506 Nebraska, will be installed as commander.

Charles Ingram, 416 California, will be installed as service officer; Bishop Greenlee, 360 Ardmore, surgeon, and Charles Jackson, 440 S. Saginaw, quartermaster.

★ ★ ★

Past Department Commander Angus MacLeod, assisted by the James Europe state ritual team of Detroit, will install the charter officers.

Efforts Made to End Boycott

Attendance at the school, which has an enrollment of 2,300, climbed to 964—more than double Thursday's total of 410. But about 1,000 others turned up at a "Freedom School" in nearby St. Joseph's Episcopal Church.

The striking students are protesting what they contend are inferior educational standards at Northern compared to predominantly white schools.

They have demanded the removal of Arthur Carty as principal, but School Supt. Samual Brownell has refused and school officials have been telephoning and sending "friendly" letters to parents asking them to order their children back to school.

HELPING OUT

Thirty-one of Northern's 98 teachers who asked Brownell for permission to help out at the "Freedom School" were told they could teach there on their own time but would be expected to show up at regular class hours at Northern.

Several Wayne State University professors also have volunteered to serve as "Freedom School" instructors.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, a student leader of the revolt, Michael Batchelor, 17, indicated he would like to have a weekend meeting with Brownell to settle the three-day classroom walkout.

"Over the weekend we are going to try to arrange a meeting with Dr. Brownell whereby this entire matter can be settled."

$100,000 in Art Works Stolen

BARBIZON, France (UPI)—French authorities alerted the police of 90 nations today to be on the lookout for paintings and sculpture worth $100,000 stolen yesterday from a private museum here.

★ ★ ★

The theft was France's second major art robbery of the year, and the sixth in five years.

Word of the Barbizon crime was flashed immediately to the 90 member nations of the international police organization.

★ ★ ★

Police said none of the stolen works was larger than 18 inches by 12, making it relatively easy to conceal them. The thieves climbed a wire fence and broke a lock to enter the ground-floor museum.

116 U.S. Cities Now Served by Jet Liners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scheduled jet airliners now serve 116 U. S. cities with a combined population of more than 50 million, the Air Transport Association said today.

★ ★ ★

Thirty-five cities had jet service in 1960, the association said, and in early 1965 this service had been extended to 70 cities. The association credited the introduction of short and medium range jets with bringing jet service to many smaller cities.

JACOBY

In this week's columns we have been trying to bring out the point that when declarer's problem is with one suit and one suit only, he should analyze the possible results by considering the various ways the suit may break against him. None of this has been elementary — in fact, it represents very advanced practice.

* * *

Today, we present the same tired North hand and the same South hand except for another change in the heart spots. Once more you open with three hearts and play that contract against the same deuce of diamonds opening and diamond return.

You lead out your ace of hearts and again drop the four and deuce. Once more you want to find the best play to avoid losing more than two heart tricks.

You start your study by eliminating all cases where your play makes no difference. The opponents still hold the king, jack, ten and seven. If those four cards are divided 2-2 all plays work out all right for you.

* * *

If they divide 4-0 or king-jack-ten opposite singleton seven, all plays lose three heart tricks for you. That leaves three cases to consider. The 3-1 breaks when the singleton is the king, jack or ten.

If you lead your queen and the singleton is the king you will lose to the king, jack and ten and will wish you had led low. However, you will succeed in your objective if the singleton is the jack or ten.

If you lead low you succeed against a singleton king but lose three tricks against a singleton jack or ten.

Hence the queen lead is correct and a low lead inferior.

Answer Monday

To List Defects of Foreign Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Spokesmen for foreign car makers indicated Friday they would comply with a request from the Ribicoff committee for lists of any design defects found in their cars since 1960.

* * *

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., whose subcommitte has been probing auto safety, made a similar request of U.S. auto firms last month. They said they would supply the information by next weekend.

* * *

Typical of the reaction from representatives of foreign auto firms was that of E.E. Andrews of Standard-Triumph, a British auto firm. He said, "We have no intention of abdicating from this market just because we don't like what someone wants to impose. We, therefore, shall cooperate with Sen. Ribicoff."

Lightning bolts may range up to several miles in length, but are only one to six inches in diameter.

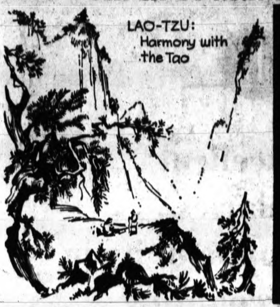
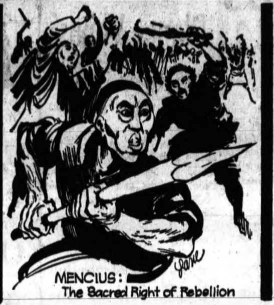
One-Fourth of Mankind

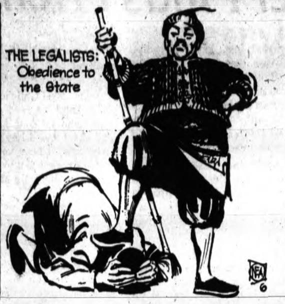
(6) The Contending Schools

by Don Oakley and John Lane





MENCIUS:
The Sacred Right of Rebellion



Do nothing.

—Lao-tzu

After Confucious, the next great name to emerge during the formative period of Chinese philosophy was Lao-tzu.

Whether that name belonged to an actual man, and when that man lived and died, is not known.

However, the school attributed to Lao-tzu—Taoism — has been second only to Confucianism in its influence on the Chinese soul.

In many ways, the two are completely different.

Where the morality of Confucius was rational and practical and concerned with society, Taoism was intuitive and emotional and concerned with the individual.

Lao-tzu taught the doctrine of achievement through inaction.

The sage strives after nothing, accepts everything, and thus finds harmony with nature and the elusive Tao — "the way," the eternal order underlying the universe and pervading reality.

According to Lao-tzu, the ideal society was one in which village's were close enough to hear each other's cocks crow in the morning but had no other contact with one another.

* * *

EXTRACTION

Mencius — who tried to extract the best from Confucianism. He believed that men were good by nature and needed only good rulers to set examples for them.

If a ruler was bad, however, the people, acting in the name of heaven, possessed a sacred rite to overthrow him and replace him.

It was a doctrine that was to be applied to more than one corrupt dynasty.

* * *

Mo Ti — a utilitarian who condemned anything that was not economically productive — both music and war, for example.

RAPS ETIQUETTE

He attacked the elaborate etiquette of Confucianism and attempted to extend its emphasis on family love to embrace all men.

The Legalists — cynics and realists who opposed Confucianism absolutely. To them, all this talk of morality was nonsense.

Government should be based not on love but on power, not on the moral example of rulers but on laws, which were to be ruthlessly applied to high and low alike.

* * *

In the chaotic years of the later Chou dynasty, Legalism had a growing appeal to the war-weary Chinese.

When, two centuries before Christ, it was adopted as the guiding philosophy of the state of Ch'in, it was to result in a transformation of China such as was not to be seen again until our own time.

Cordial Lion in New Home

PIEDMONT, Calif. (AP)—Simba, the friendly neighborhood lion, has a new pad.

The 125-pound cub's owners told officials they had complied with a new city ordinance. The 8-month-old pet, they said, is at the home of a friend and the house is not in this San Francisco Bay area city.

* * *

Councilmen passed a law Monday which banned keeping potentially dangerous house pets within the city.

Arthur Quaife and Peter Clay, each 25 and both University of California students, denied Simba is dangerous and at first threatened to disobey the ordinance.

BRIDGET SCULLY

Teen of Week Active Girl at St. Frederick

Young people must decide early in life where they're going or they may not get there, says Teen of the Week Bridget Scully.

"Students who wait too late to set their goals in life are the ones who flounder after they graduate," Bridget believes.

"I think it is imperative to know where you want to go after you graduate in today's world because of the fast pace being set today."

Bridget, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scully, 175 Chippewa, has set a fast pace for herself during four years at St. Frederick High School.

* * *

She has served as president of the Pep Club, Sacristans and Future Nurses Club; secretary of her Junior Achievement company; and captain of the girls' basketball and baseball teams.

YOUTH AWARD

In recognition of her leadership ability, Bridget received a Salute to Youth Award this year. She also has received the league all-star trophy two years straight.

Bridget has her sights set on a career in medicine.

Ill Singer Finds Friends

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Mr. Guthrie. I'm a friend of yours. You don't know me but when we do meet we will be friends. As a friend, I want to thank you for making this world a beautiful place. Your songs make the people think about the good that is within them."

* * *

Two months ago, many people had never heard of Woody Guthrie. They had heard his songs, but never his name.

* * *

Others who did know of him believed he was dead.

Today, hundreds of those people have given their hearts to the slight, 52-year-old folk singer who lies dying in a Brooklyn hospital.

It destroys muscle coordination until, after about 15 years, it runs its fatal course. Guthrie has suffered from the disease just about 15 years.

* * *

Since the Associated Press story told the Oklahoma-born singer's story, more than 300 letters of sympathy have poured into his hospital room.

* * *

All those who write have sung or heard at least one or two of the 1,000 songs Woody Guthrie wrote during his career that began in the Dust Bowl of the Depression and led him from one end of the country to the other.

READS TO HIM

Perhaps the person who knows him best is a woman Guthrie married in the early 1940s and divorced 10 years later. Now Marjorie Guthrie Cooper spends several days a week with Woody, reading to him and keeping up his spirits.

"Mostly, he lives the letters," she said. "And they have been beautiful."

* * *

"Dear Mr. Guthrie. I want you to know we used your song, 'This Land Is Your Land,' in a play about 'Good Laws for Good Americans.' I hope you feel better. I just want you to know how much joy your song has brought to others."

* * *

"Dear Woody. I just read the paper about your illness and I want you to know I thinkyou're tops. I just want you to know we all love you. You will live forever in the songs you've written.'

SERVICE AWARD

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall presented Guthrie with the Interior Department's Conservation Service Award and announced that a substation in the Pacific Northwest would be named the "Woody Guthrie Substation."

And, perhaps the greatest tribute of all, Guthrie's oldest son, Arlo, has followed his father and, at 18, is a successful folk singer.

Teacher Strike Set in Highland Park

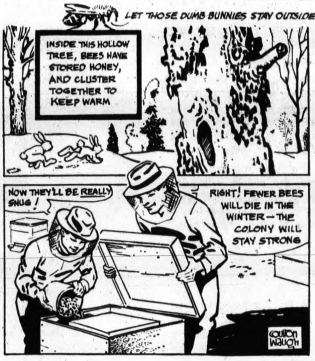
PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — Max Conrad, 63-year-old flying grandfather, plans to retrace the most famous flight of Charles Lindbergh this summer—but not as fast.

Conrad said he'll fly his single-engine plane from New York City to Shannon, Ireland, and hopefully on to Paris. The Prescott pilot hopes to break a straight-line distance record of 2,762 miles in a class category.

* * *

He expects the flight in June or July to take 35 hours. Lindbergh made it in 33½ hours in May 1927.

Junior Editors Quiz on BEES



LET THOSE DUMB BUNNIES STAY OUTSIDE!
INSIDE THIS HOLLOW TREE, BEES HAVE STORED HONEY, AND CLUSTER TOGETHER TO KEEP WARM
NOW THEY'LL BE REALLY SNUG!
Coulton Waugh

* * *

ANSWER: In the upper picture, during the winter, a colony of wild bees has built its hive inside a hollow tree. The bees have stored a good quantity of honey in little six-sided wax cells.

Life inside is much quieter than in the busy summer days, for no new brood is being raised.

The bees cluster together over the honey cells, helping to keep each other warm.

Their wing movements develop heat, and by keeping the temperature in the bee cluster from about 50 to 60 degrees, the colony manages to survive.

Beekeepers, who raise bees to extract honey, find that bee colonies survive better in winter if their hive box is enclosed within a wider box; the opening being filled with sawdust or dead leaves.

With spring, the hive boxes are lifted out.

The queen bee, who lays all the eggs, has a life span of 4 or 5 years.

The busy female worker bees, who make up almost all the colony, only live a short time; in the summer season, perhaps about a month. Workers hatching out in the fall, however, may live over the winter until spring.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: How do bees know what to do and when? We know very little about this, but it is a fascinating subject on which to speculate. Read an article on bees in an encyclopedia.

'Object in Sky Planet Venus'

AF Report Explains Sighting by Deputies

WASHINGTON (AP) — That object in the sky Deputy Sheriff Dale F. Spaur of Ravenna, Ohio, said he and his partner chased for an hour and a half last Sunday probably was the planet Venus, says the Air Force.

* * *

Spaur reported "Somebody had control over" the object. But the Air Force and "Radar indicates that no airborne objects were in the area at the time of the sighting." Venus was rising in the southeast at the time, the Air Force said, and was brighter than any star in the sky.

* * *

The same night, Police Chief Gerald Buchert of nearby Mantua, Ohio, said he took a picture of an object resembling "two table saucers put together." Concerning Buchert's claim, the Air Force said:

* * *

"Photoanalysis of the negative . . . indicates that the 'very bright light' which he tried to photograph does not appear as an image. The two images which appear on the negative are probably the result of processing defects due to old fogged film and poor handling."

ELEANOR KELLOGG

Eleanor Kellogg Marks Anniversary

Church Secretary Serves 20 Years

Business executives come and go but the secretary stays on and manages affairs until a new manager arrives.

* * *

Eleanor Kellogg, financial secretary of Frist Presbyterian Church for the past 20 years, could just about run the operation of the church herself. She knows the people, the customs, the records and is always on hand for worship, banquets or youth activities.

Here are a few of her observations during the two decades of service.

"The Restoration Fund was the first large project initated by First Presbyterian Church after I came to the church as financial secretary in April 1946, said Miss Kellogg.

* * *

"The local allocation for the repair of European churches which had been damaged in World War II was $19,000. The amount was generously over subscribed with more than $23,000 given to the foreign cause.

GAR PARTY

One of the gayest church parties I can remember was celebrating the 125th anniversary of the founding of First Presbyterian Church on Feb. 23, 1949. It started with a dinner.

Everyone who could, rounded up a costume of the era. The dress I wore was said to be about 75 years old. It had belonged to the aunt of Miss L. Mae Anderson," she recalled.

"Men scoured the country side for Prince Albert coats and all wore beards, moustaches or or sideburns. The festive affair closed with a worship service in the sanctuary."

Miss Kellogg went on to speak of the 35th anniversary of Dr. William H. Marbach as pastor in 1955.

The stained glass window in the southwest corner of the sanctuary was given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Marbach. The theme of the window panels is Jesus as Christ the Savior, as Physician and as Teacher.

The Rev. Edward D. Auchard, then associate pastor, and the Session of the church planned the window as a surprise for the Marbachs.

The money was raised and over suscribed while the Marbachs were vacationing in Omena.

LETTER TO BETSY

"In typing letters of acknowledgement to contributors I came upon the name "Betsy" written in a child's handwriting on an envelope for the project," Miss Kellogg continued. The address and a surname were given so the letter was typed and mailed.

"Later I learned that Betsy was the children's dog and the youngsters had pooled their money to contribute in her name.

"It may have been Betsy's only piece of mail."

CHANGES MADE

Many changes and improvements have been made during the 20 years beginning with the complete renovation and redecoration of the sanctuary and modernizing the kitchen.

* * *

Three floors of Sunday School rooms, five offices, nursery, a lounge and chapel are included in the new educational unit planned by Pastor Galen E. Hershey and committee in 1963.

A new organ was installed in the sanctuary since Rev. Mr. Hershey became pastor.

UNEXPECTED

Miss Kellogg told of a man arriving one day in winter who said he had served time in San Quentin prison for the murder of two railroad detectives. He said he was unable to obtain work because of his record; that he was discouraged and about to return to a life of crime.

"Dr. Marbach made arrangements for food and lodging and told the man he would find work for him, and did. But after giving the former prisoner money for cab fare to an employment office, Dr. Marbach learned he never arrived at the office," said the secretary.

* * *

"In checking records with San Quentin Prison the information given proved to be true. Prison authorities said the man was evidently touring the country in his own fashion," she added.

In speaking of her 20 years Miss Kellogg said, "It has been a priviledge to serve the congregation of First Presbyterian Church all these years.

* * *

"I cherish the memory of my 15 years' association with Dr. and Mrs. Marbach whose character, devotion and interest in the church were an inspiration as well as my work with the Rev. Mr. Auchard, and Pastor Hershey."

"the spiritual revolution"
Erwin D. Canham
editor in chief of The Christian Science Monitor

A searching look at the spiritual concepts and forces that are reshaping our world . . . an hour of deep probing with a journalist-statesman who is one of the world's respected thinkers . . . explores these questions:

- What's behind the explosive breakthroughs taking place in mankind's material knowledge? . . . What is their effect on the life and purpose of the individual?
- Are science and religion really in conflict? . . . Can the scientific approach help to affirm the existence and deeper meaning of God?

ABOUT MR. CANHAM . . . Rhodes Scholar, former president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and vice president for religious leaders of the American Safety Council.

He has served in the American delegation to the United Nations Assembly and was vice chairman of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations Conference on Freedom of Information at Geneva.

Your Role Should Be the Hostess

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My parents both died recently. My younger sister is to be married and she has asked me to be her matron of honor. I think it would be nicer if my husband and I take the place of our parents and act as host and hostess for the reception.

Which would be correct? Who should give her away, my husband or our younger brother, who is 17?

A: The very nicest thing would be for you and your husband to give her a wedding such as your parents would have done had they been here.

You have had the honor of being asked to be her matron of honor, but the role of hostess for the wedding is really more important. Your husband should give her away as the head of the family.

Q: I would like to know if it is correct to use silver water goblets all year round. I was told that they are used only during the winter months and at other times crystal was correct.

I have some lovely silver goblets and would like to use them as much as possible.

A: There is no reason you should not use your silver goblets in summer as well as during the winter months.

Stephens College Alums Plan Confab at Oakland

Stephens College alumnae, friends and relatives will gather at Oakland University Wednesday for a day-long conference, "Challenge to Change."

Sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education, the program will feature a panel of alumnae; an address by Dr. Seymour A. Smith, president of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and a discussion of "20th Century Myth" by Priscilla Jackson (Mrs. Walter N.), director of the Continuum Center at the University.

Dr. Lowell Eklund, Dean of the Division of Continuing Education, will deliver the official welcome after a registration and coffee period at 9:30 a.m.

'SHOCK IN SUBURBIA"

"Shock and Involvement in Suburbia" will be the topic of Miss Dorothy Martin's talk scheduled for 11:15. Miss Martin is coordinator of the Stephens House Plan and a member of the Social Science Department.

* * *

Charles F. Madden, chairman of the English Department at Stephens, will discuss "Key to Contemporary Music and Literature: An Open Mind" at 10:20 a.m., preceding an alumnae discussion panel. Mrs. Charles A. Parcells, Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms will be moderator.

At the luncheon, Dr. Smith will be introduced by D. B. Varner, Chancellor of Oakland University. Continuum Center advisors, John Bellefleur, education; Elizabeth Wright, volunteer work, and Helen Zdeba, employment, will be introduced to the conference participants following Mrs. Jackson's talk on the sociological change in the role of women.

* * *

A summary and evaluation of the day-long conference will be presented by Miss Margaret Witt, Stephens College Alumnae Secretary.

The conference will be held in the Gold Room of the Oakland Center Building on the campus.

* * *

Robert Shaw to Perform Rare Work

The chorale and orchestra of Robert Shaw, who is scheduled to teach and to conduct again this year for Meadow Brook Festival, make their first Detroit appearance in four years May 1. They will perform at 8:20 p.m. in the Masonic Temple auditorium.

* * *

The performance will include the rarely-heard Easter portion of Handel's "Messiah." Shaw's interpretation of the work will mark the first all-professional "Messiah" performance in Detroit in recent memory.

ORIGINAL VERSION

According to Shaw, the Detroit performance will offer listeners a chance to hear Handel's masterpiece as it was originally, the work is now performed with enormous choirs and large orchestra.

* * *

The local performance also re-establishes a tradition that goes back to Handel's time. That is performing the work in Spring rather than at Christmas time.

* * *

The work was first performed in April of 1747. The first popular performance was on May 1, 1750, exactly 216 years to the day of this Detroit offering.

* * *

According to Shaw, "The Messiah speaks to the world of resurrection, quite appropriate to the Spring and Easter."

* * *

Shaw, recently appointed Musical Director and Conductor of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, is familiar to Detroit musical circles, even though his Chorale has not appeared here recently.

* * *

The May 1 program is being presented by a new concert producing organization in Detroit, Murray Hill Productions, Inc.

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON — "Don't worry too much about not being able to set up a $100-per-plate dinner for your candidate, if a $50 or $25 or even a $10 fund-raising event is possible."

That's what Democratic women leaders from Michigan (160 strong) and 49 other states were told at one of the political action workshops during the 1966 campaign conference this week.

Democratic VIPs gave out practical advice, some of which was in the campaign handbook which is designed to serve every Democratic woman worker as a Bible.

SPAGHETTI PROFITS

"If someone can cook up a few pots of spaghetti, contribute some grated cheese, hot peppers and fresh bread this can be parlayed into a tidy campaign profit even if tickets are sold for only $5 a head," the handbook says.

Down-to-earth talk like this was the rule of the workshops, and another "Registration and Get-out-the-Vote" manual even spelled out for the women volunteers what to say on the telephone when drumming up people to serve on registration desks, to get automobiles to take voters to the polls, to write the letter of reminders to the volunteer who had promised to serve.

* * *

The kind of conference put on by Margaret Price, Vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, underlines the growing personal participation of politically-minded women in an election. Not many run for elective office. Only 13 serve in the Congress. No woman is a governor, although Mrs. George Wallace of Alabama is willing! Only a few hold statewide office.

Yet thousands do the door-to-door type of campaigning men dodge. That more than 3000 Democratic women paid their own way to come to Washington for this conference is seen as dramatic proof of their interest in things political.

WHITE HOUSE DIN

Their enthusiasm was almost too evident at the White House reception when the President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson greeted them in three waves of 1200 each. The amount of damage to property and people has been exaggerated, but at times the squeals, laughter, high-voiced greetings made the White House ring.

* * *

Many Michigan delegates visited Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh's suite in the Washington Hilton Hotel and tucked in their purse his gift of a party notebook. Neither this candidate for the Senate nor his wife were there in person.

Mrs. G. Mennen Williams, wife of the competing Democratic senatorial candidate, welcomed not only the 160 visiting Michigan women but the wives of Michigan Democrats in the Congress and many personal Washington friends at an after-dinner reception in her Georgetown home.

* * *

It was here that a petition-of-support was eagerly signed by guests in support of Zolton Ferency (chairman State Central Committee) who had just announced as a candidate for Governor. 'Milly" Jeffrey, state national committeewoman, spoke of Ferency's knowledgeability of major issues and his speaking ability.

* * *

Busy with the Michigan delegates was Adelaide Hart, vice chairman of Michigan State Central Committee, who headquartered in the Williams' guest house during the conference. Another busy greeter was Mrs. Neil Staebler, the wife of the Michigan committeeman.

After it was all over, Margaret Price, vice-chairman of the National Democratic Committee, "weary but elated" said she was especially proud not only that this was the largest of such conferences but that every state sent a goodly number, many of whom had never been to Washington.

* * *

She pooh-poohed the over-emphasis by the Press on the crush at the White House which resulted in small mishaps. She said "standing right behind the President and Mrs. Johnson it was obvious that both were delighted with the turn-out and the Democratic party en-thusiasm."

* * *

Beginning May 5th, the Republican women will come to Washington for a similar conference.

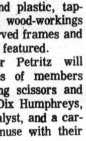
Ungrateful Customers Take Cash to Big Supermarkets

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN



ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a small independent grocer, and I have a question for you. Why do some customers (including relatives) ask for groceries on credit, but when they have the cash they will drive an extra mile to shop at a supermarket and give their money to strangers?

The people they give cash to wouldn't give them groceries on credit if their whole family was dying of malnutrition.

FED UP WITH PEOPLE

DEAR FED UP: There are two kinds of people in this world: the givers and the takers. The credit customers (including your relatives) who spend their cash elsewhere are "takers."

You may complain, but the next time someone is broke and needs groceries on credit, you won't turn him down, because you are a "giver." The takers may eat better — but the givers sleep better.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I would like a straight answer. In order for a person to get places in this world, is it WHAT you know or WHO you know?

J. B. IN K. C.

DEAR J. B.: It's neither. It's WHOM you know.

DEAR ABBY: My children are just average, but they are good kids. I have no outstanding beauties among my daughters and, while they do have friends, none of them is wildly popular. My boys are average students, just fair in sports, but none of them ever made the team.

A relative of mine has outstanding children. They are popular, good looking, and get lots of honors. And he doesn't let me forget it for a moment. What can I say when he collars me and brags on and on about his kids?

STUCK FOR WORDS

DEAR STUCK: Nothing. Just because a jackass brays doesn't mean you have to answer him.

DEAR ABBY: No woman in her right mind would hire a housekeeper to come into her home and look after her children without first checking to learn where she had worked before, the reason she is no longer working there, and something about her character, disposition and temperament.

So why, when one is considering marrying a previously divorced person, doesn't she (or he) sit down and have a long talk with the former mate? One could learn more just listening for an hour than living with someone for a year.

PRACTICAL

DEAR PRACTICAL: No doubt. But when the emotions are involved few are "practical." When one desperately wants something, he refrains from examining it too closely lest he discover too many imperfections.

In other words, most people enjoy living with illusions.

For the Bridal Couple

Much to Consider With Cakes

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth in a series of articles having to do with wedding preparations. Summer brides should be in the process of choosing a wedding-cake right now.)

By MADELEINE DOEREN

Today's wedding-cake, a towering pyramid of luscious snowy white goodness, had its origin as a pile of sweet buns brought by the wedding guests, in Anglo-Saxon times.

Observing this costom of the newlyweds trying to kiss over the top of the pile, thereby assuring themselves a lifetime of happiness, a traveling French cook invented the much more convenient high-layered cake.

The cake is almost as important to today's weddings as the bridal veil and bouquet. Whether it be a caterers fancy creation or a simple cake from the family kitchen, friends watch with approval and smile their good wishes for the pair as they cut the first piece.

Any good cake-maker who is training in cake-decorating can make a wedding-cake. Good planning and pre-fitting of pans is essential. Each layer should be smaller than the one below it, with a generous two-inch difference all around to avoid a cone shape.

* * *

Only the very best of white cake batter is used, although one area Danish baker prefers a white pound cake recipe, swathed in perfect creamy frosting.

Many home bakers who would not attempt to make the towering bride's cake can, however, turn out a delicious dark fruit cake known traditionally as the bridegroom's cake.

* * *

CAKE COSTS

The cake pictured from Thomas Baking Company now operating as the Quality House Baking Company costs $68 without the ornament and will serve from 200 to 250. There is usually a three-dollar charge for delivery.

For suburban areas, the charge is $5.00.

A round two-layer round cake, ample for 35 cuttings, costs $8.50.

Another bakery will deliver and set up a cake to serve some $500 for $95, or one for 300 at $75.

A local caterer includes the ornament with his four-tiered square cake at $50. This will serve 125.

One of the oldest area baking firms offers a five-tiered cake with a 14-inch base to serve 300. It costs $75. There is a $20 deposit for pedestal or dividers which is refundable.

SWAN-SHAPE

They specialize in a swan-shaped white cake in three tiers priced at $46. This will serve 190. A four-tiered round cake cuts from 75 to 100 pieces and costs $30.

A three tiered square at $35 will serve 150 and a two-tiered round cake for the small weddihg costs about $12. It cuts into 26 pieces. A 12-inch one to serve 50 costs $18.

A Danish bakery uses only pound cake batter for its wedding-cakes. One to serve 150 is priced at $38. They do not deliver, however.

* * *

Sheet cakes, marked for cutting into 48 pieces cost from $4 to $7.50 or up to $10 for butter cream frosting. A 96-piece sheet with each piece topped with a white rose (frosting) is available at $13.50.

Some caterers offer a 'package price' for baking the wedding cakes and setting them up for the reception to be held in their establishment.

REMEMBER KNIFE

Unless some responsible person (usually a family member) is assigned to place the silver knife tied with white tulle beside the bride's cake, it is likely to be forgotten.

Pontiac Press Photo

Connie Rae Crozier, daughter of the Harold B. Croziers of South Tilden Avenue hesitates between the five-tiered wedding-cake and the smaller round one for her May 7 wedding. Mindful of the old superstition about the larger the cake the longer the happy wedded life, perhaps she will select the tall beauty with its pedestal top. Both are available at the Thomas Baking Company, West Huron Street.

Circuit Judge Philip Pratt and Harry J. Reed, managing editor of The Pontiac Press discussed "Trial by Mass Media."

Mr. Reed pointed out that emphasis has changed from free press versus fair trail to free press AND fair trial.

Judge Pratt explained that prejudicial publicity can exist before, during and after a trial, but pre-trial emphasis has the greatest impact. He stressed the increasing sense of responsibility of the press and the sensationalism of television coverage.

Both speakers concur as to the revolution in criminal law in recent years and that the law is stressing the rights of the individual.

Hostesses for the coffee hour were Mrs. Park Watson, Mrs. James Howe and Mrs. Saum.

Guests were John Bills, Crea Clark, Thomas Hunter, Mrs. Harry Reed and Mrs. Richard Morgan.

Mrs. Saum will represent the branch at the regional conference in Chicago May 6-7.

Blast in Dixie Hurts Witness

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A bomb blast early today shattered the home of a federal moonshine liquor case witness who had been warned he would never live to testify. The man, his wife and a grandchild were injured.

★ ★ ★

Police said the explosion, believed set by multiple dynamite sticks, blew the bed occupied by the woman and the child against the ceiling. Searchers found them beneath a mattress in rubble.

Asst. Police Chief D. H. Lackey said the victims, Jessie Eugene Swanner, 52, his wife, Wilma, 50, and their grandchild, Renee Gibson, 2, are white and there was no racial connection in the incident.

Lackey said another Swanner grandchild, Jacqueline Gibson, 3, was not hurt in the explosion, which occurred shortly after midnight.

★ ★ ★

FBI and Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit agents joined state and local police in the investigation. An alert was issued for two Tennessee men whom Swanner said he believed set the dynamite.

Rhodesian Regime Apparently Starting to Feel Pinch of British Oil Embargo

By RAYMOND PALMER

LONDON (AP) — Rhodesia's breakaway regime apparently is beginning to feel the pinch of the 4-month-old British oil embargo.

★ ★ ★

The white minority regime's oil reserves face possible exhaustion by the end of the summer, even with stepped-up rationing and increaed supplies from South Africa, say some observers.

★ ★ ★

A one-month supply of oil remains aboard the Greek tanker Ioanna V in the Portuguese Mozambique port of Beira, 189 miles down the pipeline from the Rhodesian refineries at Umtali. Greece has called on Portugal to observe the United Nations resolution barring oil to Rhodesia and the ship's captain has said he will not discharge his 14,000-ton cargo.

★ ★ ★

A second Greek tanker, the Manuela, carrying a further month's supply of oil for Rhodesia, is believed to be somewhere on the high seas after being headed off from Beira by the British navy. The South African government refused to allow the ship to discharge its cargo at Durban.

These two tankers were reported to have been intended as the front-runners in a $2.8-million scheme under which Rhodesia hoped to break the embargo and ship in 400,000 tons of oil —about 16 months supply at current consumption rates.

With the plan apparently foiled, Rhodesia is now thrown back on the expensive and uncertain supplies coming north by road and rail from South Africa. British officials, after recent talks with the South Africas, are confident that Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white minority government will soon begin discreetly trimming their oil aid to Rhodesia.

★ ★ ★

What seems to worry the South Africans is that if they openly flout the U.N. resolution on oil for Rhodesia, they themselves could become the target for reprisals, including a possible oil embargo.

Rhodesia's normal consumption of oil before it declared itself independent from Britain last Nov. 11 was around 72 million gallons annually.

LOW RESERVES

When Britain imposed the oil embargo Dec. 17, experts reckoned that Rhodesia had about seven to eight weeks supply on hand—roughly between 10 and 11 million gallons.

★ ★ ★

Rhodesia introduced gasoline rationing Dec. 28. The ration was cut, by 50 per cent in some cases, on Jan. 4 and tightened again two days later.

The basic ration for private users was set at a half gallon a week for motor cycles and two gallons for autos.

Available evidence indicates that consumption was cut by nearly half, to around 875,000 gallons a week. At that rate, the original stocks would have been exhausted after about 12 weeks—about five weeks ago.

Abel's Trades Paying Off for Red Wings in Playoffs

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit fans may have had some second thoughts during the regular National Hockey League season about a couple of trades made by Red Wings Manager-coach Sid Abel.

Abel traded defenseman Marcel Pronovost to Toronto to get Andy Bathgate before the season started, then made a swap with Boston which brought Leo Boivin and Dean Prentice to the Red Wings.

* * *

Bathgate, seventh leading all-time scorer in the NHL at the start of the season, failed to score in more than 30 straight games at one stretch and finished with 15 goals, his lowest season total since he became a regular with New York in the 1954-55 season.

Prentice started the season with 229 career goals and scored 13 this year, six of them in 19 games with the Red Wings.

Even with the added firepower, the Red Wings slipped from first to fourth place.

But in the semifinal series against Chicago, Bathgate and Prentice combined to score nine of Detroit's 22 goals to lead the Red Wings into the finals against Montreal starting Sunday afternoon.

Bathgate leads all playoff goal scorers with five.

Prentice has four and has assisted on four others. His eight points ties him with teammates Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio for the runner-up spot in the individual point race. Norm Ullman, also of the Red Wings, leads with nine.

Sunday's Cup opener will be nationally televised in color by NBC starting at 2:30 p.m., EST.

* * *

"The lights bother you at first," said Gump Worsley, Montreal's veteran goalie. "But you soon get used to them, and you certainly couldn't use them for an excuse if you get beat."

BACK SAFELY—Pontiac Central's Glen Kitchen gets a hand on the bag at first base in the fifth inning in beating a pickoff try by Pontiac Northern pitcher Larry Frye and first baseman Keith Deaton (8). Kitchen and his teammates fell to PNH, 3-1, at Wisner Field.

Huskies' Frye Hurls 2-Hitter

Victory Gives PNH 2-0 Season Record

The Huskies of Pontiac Northern rode the two-hit pitching of senior Larry Frye to a 3-1 victory over Pontiac Central at Wisner Field yesterday.

The two played on even terms through five innings, but PCH suffered a defensive lapse in the sixth and PNH seized upon the opportunity to bring a couple of runs across the plate.

The Chiefs tried to nail Deaton at second but the ball sailed into center field and Deaton came around on the error with the second run of the inning.

* * *

CHIEFS LEAD

Rick Farms put the Chiefs in front in the open inning. He was safe on an error by shortstop Tony DeLaRosa, moved around to third on a couple of ground outs and scored on DeLaRosa's second miscue of the inning.

* * *

PNH knotted the count in the fifth when Frye lashed a single to right scoring pinch runner Rick Rhoney from third. Rhoney went into run for pinch hitter Steve Rhenda who singled.

Waterford '9' Downs Kettering's Captains

The Captains took on Pontiac Northern earlier in the week and dropped a 2-1 decision in nine innings, and yesterday, they toiled for 10 frames and wound up dropping a 5-2 verdict to archrival Waterford.

Kettering came up with a run in the last of the seventh to deadlock the game at 2-2, but pitcher Dick Miceli, who went the distance, weakened in the 10th and the Skippers pushed across three runs to wrap it up.

Tim Thornton opened the 10th with a double, moved to third on a single by Bill Hill, and both came across when Larry St. Dennis lashed out a double. St. Dennis came in moments later on a single by Joe Durso.

Waterford (3-0-1) picked up its first two runs in the sixth through the generosity of the Captains who yielded two walks and three errors to produce the runs.

2 HITS EACH

John Kampsen and Miceli picked up two hits apiece for the losers, and it was Kampsen's single with two out in the seventh that produced the tying run for Kettering (1-3) in regulation.

In another game, Romeo ran its record to 2-1 with a 5-2 decision over Lapeer.

Healthy Sherry Lifts Tigers' Bullpen

Reliefer Sherry Stops Hitters in 3 Outings

Friday Game Rained Out; Teams Playing Twice Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit Tigers Manager Charlie Dressen plans to send southpaw Mickey Lolich to the mound against the Washington Senators today — with Larry Sherry in the bullpen.

Sherry, off to one of his best starts in years, has two saves and one victory in relief roles this season. He has yet to give up a run.

EARLY START

"I started working out in Los Angeles about six weeks before leaving for spring training," said Sherry. "so I'm just that much further ahead of everybody else when the season starts.

"The last two years, though, I've run into injury troubles after making a good start."

Sherry figures he needs to work every two days in order to keep a sharp edge.

"If (Dave) Wickersham stays in the bullpen, we have five real good pitchers," he explained. "That's two too many. No one is going to get enough work with five men working in regular relief."

Angels Keep Hex on Twins

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins may be champions of the American League, but not of Southern California.

Harmon Killebrew and his fence-busting teammates try to end a streak of five straight losses in California today.

The Angels won Friday night's series opener, 2-1, as rookie righthander Jim McGlothlin and veteran Bob Lee combined to subdue the Twins with a nine-hitter.

* * *

A double by Jack Warner and an error by Twins' first baseman Don Mincher helped send lefthander Jim Kaat 1-1 to his sixth straight loss against the Angels Friday night.

After '72 Olympics

Detroit 'Courts' Again

From Our Wire Services

Detroit, the perennial Olympic games bridesmaid, winged its proposal for the 1972 summer games to Italy Friday night hoping the romance of Rome would snare the elusive prize.

It was Detroit's eighth bid for the Olympics and marked a second generation on the Olympic battlefield for the Frederick C. Matthaei family which spearheaded the city's futile previous efforts.

As usual, Detroit was an underdog. Munich, Germany, was rated the favorite. But the Motor City was ready with a special Olympic stadium fund, saved from a special levy on horse race betting.

Gov. George Romney said he would arrive in Rome early Monday to join the group. Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh planned to arrive Saturday.

United States District Court Judge Wade McCree Jr., Charles F. Adams, a local advertising executive, and Jack A. Tompkins, an American Airlines vice president, already were in Rome laying the groundwork.

The Detroit group was scheduled to meet with the International Olympic Committee Saturday. The presentations last until the committee announces its choice Wednesday.

Officials of 21 international sports federations have voted secretly on the cities bidding for the 1972 summer and winter Olympic Games.

The results of the secret ballot will be made available to the IOC.

Leaders of the federations listed their preferences Friday night, but Col. L. H. Russel, British chairman of the informal meeting, said the vote was not intended to pressure the IOC.

Junior Tops Dad's Mark

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — Glenn Cunningham Jr., son of the former world record holder in the mile, won the Kansas Relays high school mile in 4:22.1 Friday, compared to his father's high school best of 4:24.7.

His father, premier miler of the 1930s, brushed aside compliments and directed them to his son. Glenn Jr. said the mile is his favorite but his endurance is better than his speed, at least at this stage.

RECORDS

Two collegiate meet records fell during Friday's rain-curtailed schedule at the 41st Relays, but prospects of the worst Saturday weather since 1947 dimmed chances for several more records.

Kansas smashed the four-mile relay mark with a 16:36.8 before the pelting rain started, as John Lawson ran a 4:05.6 anchor mile.

Olympian Oscar Moore of Southern Illinois ran a 14:25.2 for the 5,000 meters in rain and mud. The 28-year-old ex-Marine smashed the meet mark by 10.8 seconds.

Buckeye Ace Blanks MSU; 'M' Triumphs

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Ohio State opened the Big Ten baseball season with a convincing victory Friday while Michigan and Illinois also were victorious.

* * *

The Buckeyes downed Michigan State 2-0 on the five-hit pitching of Steve Arlin. Russ Nagelson provided the winning run with a second inning homer.

* * *

Chan Simonds, U. of M. senior first baseman who played for Pontiac city champion Huron-Airway last summer, homered and drove in three runs for the Wolverines.

* * *

Former Fint Central star Bob Reed won his fourth game of the season by fanning five and scattering seven hits. The Michigan ace turned down a Detroit Tiger contract last summer to remain in school.

A GOOD SIGN—St. Louis Cardinals' Charley Smith gets a safe sign from umpire Chris Pelekoudas as he scores the first run in a four-run rally in the second inning of a game last night with the Pittsburgh Pirates in St. Louis. Smith scored ahead of leftfielder Willie Stargell's throw to catcher Jesse Conder following a single by Jerry Buchek. Cardinals won, 7-5.

Reds, Mets' Boyer Struggling

By The Associated Press

Boyer, the National League's best fielding third baseman while with St. Louis last year, committed three errors that contributed to Atlanta's 8-4 victory over the Mets Friday night.

* * *

The Reds, meanwhile, again failed to play their role as preseason pennant favorites by dropping their sixth straight game, 9-7 to Philadelphia.

Boyer made only 12 errors all last season but already has five this year, all in the last three games. Two of the miscues came in the third inning when the Braves erupted for three runs and a 5-0 lead.

Robinson is the slugging outfielder whom the Reds traded to the Baltimore Orioles during the winter in an attempt to strengthen their pitching. That strength hasn't been visible, but the weakness at the plate has.

* * *

The seven runs against the Braves marked the first time this year the Reds have scored more than four runs in a game. They also have hit only four home runs as a team, the same number Robinson has.

In other NL games, Los Angeles edged Chicago 2-1, St. Louis stopped Pittsburgh 7-5 and Houston trimmed San Francisco 2-0.

Sandy Koufax pitched his first complete game of the season, bringing his record to 2-0 for LA while scattering six hits and striking out 11. Jeff Torborg singled across the deciding run in the sixth.

Home runs by Joe Morgan and Jim Gentile stopped San Francisco's winning string at five. The homers backed the eight-hit pitching of Dave Giusti, whose three hits were the first for an Astro pitcher this season.

Rain Helps Sanders in Dallas Golf Open

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Doug Sanders was shooting one over par and was in grave danger of losing his lead in the Dallas Open Golf Tournament when they told him to forget the whole thing—the round had been canceled because of rain and lightning.

Prospects of the second round being replayed today were not too promising, however, since more rain was forecast although it stopped shortly after the original second round was canceled.

UNSTOPPABLE WEST—The Boston Celtics could do little with Los Angeles' Jerry West (44) last night in the fourth game of their NBA final series in Los Angeles, but the Celts displayed a sharp team effort and grabbed a 122-117 victory and a 3-1 lead in the series. West, getting by the Celtics' Bill Russell on this play, tossed in 45 points. No. 19 is Don Nelson.

Women's Final Boosts Hopes

North - South Champ Shows Birdie Touch

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The United State's chances of retaining the Curtis Cup in the biennial competition with the British at Hot Springs, Va., three months from now look promising considering the play of two likely U.S. team members in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament finals.

* * *

Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Hollywood, Fla. staged a birdie-filled finish for a 1-up victory over Friday's 18-hole championship match.

Finals play, often ragged after a tiring week over the demanding No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, was of high caliber. Mrs. Syms won four of the last six holes, three with birdies, as she shot a 73, one under women's par for the course playing about 6,000 yards.

* * *

Mrs. Pruess lost with an even-par performance. After shooting the front nine in one under for a 1-up lead, she had gone 20 consecutive holes in four-under-par.

Cup selections probably won't be made by the U.S. Golf Association until Mid-June, but the two 27-year-old Floridians rate among the top candidates. Mrs. Pruess has played on the two previous teams and Mrs. Syms was a member of the 1964 squad.

Central Ace Cracks Low Hurdles Mark

A record - breaking performance by Pontiac Central's Bill Tipton in the low hurdles paced the Chiefs to victory in a triangular track outing against Flint Northern and Bay City Handy yesterday.

Running on the Bay City track, Tipton raced over the barriers in the 180-yard low hurdles event in a time of :19.2, clipping a tenth of a second off the former mark of :19.3, held by Dan Sowell (1958), Leon Prentis (1960) and Charles Humphrey (1963).

The new mark is Tipton's second in the PCH record book. He established a 120-yard high hurdles' standard last week in the Mansfield (O.) Relays:

In another track outing, sophomore Al Curry won the high jump, low and high hurdles for Almont but it wasn't enough as he and his teammates fell to Dryden, 55½ to 53½.

* * *

In baseball action, The Eaglets of Orchard Lake St. Mary lasted out 13 hits yesterday but their run production was a little short as they dropped their '66 debut to Ferndale St. James, 9-7.

TEAM RALLIES

Down 6-5 going into the fifth, St. James pushed across three runs to take the lead for good. OLSM's Conrad Krogulecki, who took the loss, had a busy day at the plate as he rapped out four hits and chased home four runs.

* * *

In another game, Bill Odershaw singled home the tying and winning runs in the sixth inning yesterday at North Farmington handed Farmington a 6-4 setback.

On the golf courses, Kettering halted Lapeer, 204 to 234; West Bloomfield edged Brighton, 158 to 167; Rochester nosed out Lake Orion, 205 to 212; Walled Lake downed Plymouth 194 to 205; and OL St. Mary lost to Redford St. Mary, 189 to 173.

Russ Streeter carded a two-under-par 33 in pacing Walled Lake to victory at Edgewood Country Club.

John Karvala turned in a 38 for Lake Orion, but it wasn't enough to offset 39s by Rochester's Harry Hogan and Cal Cooke at Bald Mountain.

* * *

Dave Moilanen fired a 38 and teammate Gary Quitiquit a 40 at Pontiac Country Club in pacing Kettering to its fourth win of the season.

Celts Triumph, Take 3-1 Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP)— "I'm hoping that the next game will be my last as a coach. I don't want to finish the season in Los Angeles," said Boston Celtic coach Red Auerbach.

Auerbach, who is retiring after this season, is on the threshold of his eighth consecutive National Basketball Association championship and is eager to win it before home fans in the Boston Garden.

The Celtics beat the Los Angeles Lakers, 122-117, Friday night before 15,251 Laker fans in the Sports Arena to take a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series.

And when the playoff resumes Sunday in Boston before the customary capacity crowd of 13,909 Celtics partisans, their heroes can sustain a dynasty that began in 1958-59.

Boston shot well in the first half and led 66-56 at intermission. The Celtics threatened to run away with the decision in the third quarter when, with Russell controlling the boards, they launched their fast break and sped to an 88-73 advantage.

Northville Hurler Spins Two Hitter in Halting Hills

Steve Evans tossed a two-hitter and Northville pushed across a run in the ninth inning yesterday to nip Bloomfield Hills in a Wayne-Oakland League game, 1-0.

St. Michael '9' in 5-3 Victory; Rams Triumph

St Fred pushed across seven runs in the first inning and went on to a 10-3 triumph over New Baltimore St. Mary, and the Mikemen came up with four markers in the third enroute to a 5-3 decision over Utica St. Lawrence.

Gary Roediger went all the way on the mound for the Rams, yeilding seven hits and fanning six, and he collected three hits and drove in two runs to pace the batting attack.

The big blow in St. Michael's four-run third was a two-run fouble by Jerry Stanton, who hurled the first three innings to pick up the victory.

Steve Kraft, who pitched the last two innings for the Mikemen, drove in a run in the fourth with a single and he knocked in the final St. Mike run in the fifth with a sacrifice fly.

J. L. VOORHEES

Many Giant Sequoias are 3,000 years of age, have risen to hundreds of feet elevation, yet were dependent upon FIRE.

These giants drop tiny seeds—91,000 per pound. They must have an ideal environment—sunlight and moisture, or perish. If undergrowth, ferns, grasses, shrubs cover the ground, shade it, those seeds cannot reach the soil and perish. Sunlight and moisture is vital to these seeds. Also, the undergrowth is a competitor for nutrients of the giants; if they cannot send enough food to the crown it dies for lack of food. The Giants seem to send out lateral roots to a distance equal to the elevation; they are dependent upon a very shallow depth for their nutrients. Thick undergrowth steal it. Fire solves the difficulty. A Sequoia grows a thick, fibrous, fire-resisting bark, so thick that fire does not penetrate it but it does destroy the undergrowth. Sequoias send out seeds, they take root, sunlight bathes them, they grow and we have baby Giants.

To Transmit Signals via Special Collars

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Some of the world's most mysterious large animals, the polar bears, will be wandering across the snowy polar ice caps with neat collars around their necks transmitting radio waves to an orbiting satellite.

★ ★ ★

By 1969, about 50 polar bears will be radioing their whereabouts to a Polar Orbiting Nimbus Satellite, hopes Dr. Vagn Flyger, head of the Inland Resources Division of the University of Maryland, College Park.

Depending upon the active cooperation of the nations involved, such as Russia, Canada and Greenland, the program will procuce valuable information on a little-understood bear, Dr. Flyger told the eighth annual meeting of the Arctic Institute of North America.

The great bear program also will include marking another 450 polar bears with purple dye so they can be easily spotted from a ship or from land, or a small airplane or helicopter.

MARK, NUMBER

Each bear will be marked with an individual mark, number or even name such as Joe, so that the spotters can accurately check the individual location.

The bears also will be identified with ear tags bearing individual identification numbers and instructions to send the tag to the Arctic Institute.

By these methods, Dr. Flyger said, scientists will learn more about the bears' migratory habits and population.

Further research on the polar bear will include studies on their parasites, diseases and their ability to adapt to inhospitable weather with temperatures reaching 65 degrees F. below zero.

Dr. Flyger also hopes to find out more about the bears' curious liver which is so richly packed with vitamin A that it is poison to eat.

Ghana-China Ties Strained

Added Tension Could Be Finishing Blow

Diplomatic sources say the Soviet Union officially recognized the new regime in Accra only after an ultimatum that Moscow either grant recognition or clear out its representatives. Diplomats note that Communist Chna has not yet recognized the Ghana government and say a similar ultimatum is likely.

Peking and Accra have been bickering in a series of diplomatic notes blaming each other for the tensions between them since the overthrow of President Kwame Nkrumah Feb. 24. Nkrumah arrived in Peking on a state visit to learn his army and police had deposed him.

One of the first announcements by Ghana's new rulers was evidence that Nkrumah had enlisted Chinese help in running subversion camps to train cadres for the overthrow of other African leaders.

DENIED CHARGE

Chinese in Ghana—and other Orientals mistaken for Chinese—were manhandled in several incidents the day of the coup.

★ ★ ★

Another Ghanaian note said the Chinese have sent arms to Nkrumah in Conakry, Guinea, to use in overthrowing the new regime here and termed this "a stab in the back."

118,427 Uninsured

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare reports latest vehicle registrations show the state has 118,427 uninsured drivers. Motor vehicle registrations now have passed the 3.64 million mark, Hare said.

State House Dems Strengthen Labor Department in Bills Passed on Last Day for Action

LANSING (AP)—House Democrats realized one of their longest sought goals — a bill to strengthen the State Labor Department—on the last day for action Friday.

It was one of about 40 bills passed and sent to the Senate in a marathon session that ended about 45 minutes before the midnight deadline for passage of bills in the house of origin.

The Labor Department, which came under assault as soon as Democrats took over the Legislature in January 1965, would be headed by a five-member commission.

The "truth-in-advertising" bill—part of the Democratic consumer protection package — would provide a fine of up to $1,000 for any publicly circulated statement which was "untrue, deceptive or misleading" about goods or services.

One of the domestic relations bills would require that both parties apply for a marriage license. Present law requires only one. Both would have to supply information on any previous marriages, children or support obligations.

★ ★ ★

The other is intended to speed up child adoption and custody fights — preventing years-long delays which experts say are often more harmful than living with what is considered an unfit parent.

Also passed was a bill to prevent real estate brokers from profiting or promoting panic selling in a neighborhood that has just received its first nonwhite residents.

The famous Teapot Dome oil well was in the Salt Creek oil field north of Casper, Wyo.

College Aid Past Senate

An over-all appropriation of nearly $7 million for Oakland University and nearly $1 million for Oakland Community College were included in Senate approval yesterday of half the state's 1966-67 budget.

The grants to OU include $4.15 million in operating funds for the next fiscal year in addition to a $2.8-million capital outlay for building funds.

The OCC appropriation of more than $927,000 came under a general capital outlay spending bill for junior and community colleges.

Of the funds for OCC, $750,000 is earmarked for a classroom complex at Orchard Ridge; $118,190 for renovation at Highland Lakes; and $59,350 for renovation at Auburn Hills.

The monies allocated OU represent a $2.64-million increase over last year's appropriation, when Chancellor Durward B. Varner was denied funds for what he termed "pressing needs" at the school.

"It will be much easier to cope with the great growth we're experiencing here," Varner said, citing a 36 per cent increase in enrollment in 1965-66.

★ ★ ★

PROJECT LIST

OU's building project list includes $2 million for construction of an engineering building; $750,000 for plans and beginning construction of an office facility; and $108,000 towards cost of hooking into the Detroit water system.

The House has until Friday to approve the higher education spending measures.

The joint version of the two bodies then goes under study for more than a month, with final decision on the measures required by June 10.

PRESIDENTIAL GIFT—President Johnson shakes hands with James M. Roche, president of General Motors, and gives him a pen at a White House ceremony yesterday. Before handing out pens, Johnson made a speech strongly endorsing auto safety legislation. The occasion was the President's proclamation of the week of May 15 as National Transportation Week and May 20 as National Defense Transportation Day.

LBJ Concedes Viet Woes but Predicts Future Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, conceding some supply problems and political splits in South Viet Nam, predicts that in due course the people there will achieve unity and a constitutional government.

Johnson also told a surprise news conference yesterday that he does not expect Republican leaders to try to capitalize on the administration's Viet Nam policies as a political issue in the November congressional elections.

He added that Democrats never had "a more comprehensive record or a better record to campaign on" and said his party will go into the election with a strong edge.

The President said the administration is not yet approaching the time for decision on possible antiinflation moves such as a tax increase or wage-price controls.

Johnson, talking informally from the rocking chair in his oval office, also replied to a claim by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., that the administration's economy efforts have hit hardest at the poor.

The chief executive said appropriations for health, education and antipoverty programs have been increased by $10 billion to $12 billion "since I succeeded President Kennedy."

TO BALTIMORE

Johnson flew to Baltimore by helicopter last night for a speech at a Methodist Church anniversary celebration. He cited the same domestic spending increases and promised further social welfare efforts, but said "we shall not be stampeded into unwise programs."

Some critics of the Viet Nam war paraded outside—Johnson apparently did not see them—and the President made an off-the-cuff reference to suggestions that a new pause in bombings of North Viet Nam might promote peace.

As if addressing the Communists, he said:

"Don't ask us to stop everything you're doing while you pound us. Don't ask us to stop everything you're doing while you're marching on women and children."

★ ★ ★

Lethargy on Traffic Safety Hit

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Johnson, taking the lead as an auto industry critic, says that an aroused nation will no longer stand for "inexcusable indifference" to traffic slaughter.

★ ★ ★

"We can no longer tolerate such anarchy on wheels . . . unsafe automobiles . . . poorly planned and badly lighted highways . . . inadequate licensing procedures," Johnson said in a podium-thumping speech to transportation leaders yesterday.

Among his listeners were auto industry officials who were targets of stiff criticism in Senate hearings earlier this month.

★ ★ ★

The President's remarks were the sternest thus far, including those made by congressional critics of the auto makers in hearings on bills to require federal safety standards in several areas.

DEATH TOLL

"Since 1961, we have lost four times as many American servicemen in motor vehicle accidents as our enemies have been able to kill in all the fighting in Viet Nam," Johnson said.

Calling traffic deaths "our biggest problem, next to Viet Nam," Johnson said 50,000 Americans would die in auto accidents this year, 100,000 will be permanently disabled and 4 million will be injured.

The official occasion for the President's remarks was signing proclamations making the week of May 15 National Transportation Week and May 20 National Defense Transportation Day.

★ ★ ★

But he used the ceremony to call for congressional passage of two administration bills.

Huge Outlay Is Approved

State Budget May Be Over $1 Billion

LANSING (UPI) — With barely a ripple of debate, the State Senate yesterday approved its portion of what may become the first $1-billion budget in state history.

Senators okayed and sent to the House five spending bills, totaling $466.4 million, to finance public health, higher education, mental health, corrections and some state building projects during the 1966-67 fiscal year.

The bills, all passed with heavy bipartisan support, represent less than half of the proposed Democratic budget that now rises about $12 million over the one billion dollar mark. The Senate was able to shave only $10 million from its spending package before passage.

The House Ways and Means Committee reported budget bills worth $546.5 million to the floor in the House of Representatives last night. The package included $262.5 million for school aid, by far the largest single item in the general revenue fund budget.

★ ★ ★

Midnight yesterday was the deadline for passing all Senate-originated bills and sending them to the House of Representatives.

DEADLINE EXTENDED

But as the deadline neared the House, wrestling with its larger share of spending bills, asked for and got a one week extension of the deadline for action on budget proposals.

The Senate has about $18-million in miscellaneous appropriation bills still to be acted on.

★ ★ ★

The $1-billion budget would wipe out all but about $10 million of the current $135 million state surplus, a spending pace which Democrats feel they can live with.

JUDGES PAY

Action on the Senate bills followed a 14-hour session in which senators also approved a pay raise and broader pension benefits for circuit court judges.

The Senate, which earlier this week approved a $5,000 pay raise for legislators, upped the minimum pay for 55 circuit judges from $15,000 to $29,500.

CRASH VICTIM—Dr. John Adair works over an unidentified victim of the crash last night of an American Flyers Electra plane near Ardmore, Okla. The plane, with 92 servicemen and a crew of 6 aboard, was en route from Fort Ord, Calif., to Fort Benning, Ga, There are 17 known survivors.

Airliner Cracks Up in Mountain Foothills of Southern Oklahoma

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — A chartered airliner crashed in the foothills of the rugged Arbuckle Mountains in southern Oklahoma last night, killing 81 of its 98 passengers, most of them Army recruits preparing for advanced basic training.

Seventeen survivors of the crash, which occurred when the huge turboprop overshot a converted World War II airbase runway, were hospitalized, most of them in critical condition.

The dead were taken to a temporary morgue set up in Ardmore's Civic Auditorium.

OFFICIAL COUNT

There were 92 Army recruits and six civilian crew members aboard the plane.

The plane was an American Flyers airliner, preparing for a fuel stop here while on a cross-country flight from Ft. Ord, Calif., where the recruits had just completed basic training, en route to Ft. Benning, Ga., where they were to start airborne and other types of advanced training.

★ ★ ★

'LIKE SLAVES'

"We worked like slaves, but it just didn't do any good," said Dr. James Schuller at Ardmore General Hospital when the 18th survivor died.

"It looked like an oil well blowing up," an eyewitness,

Former GOP Leader Named to State Post

Former Oakland County Republican chairman Dale A. Feet has been appointed state insurance commissioner by Gov. George Romney.

Feet of 4260 South Shore, Waterford Township, was named to succeed acting director John W. Wickstrom.

★ ★ ★

Feet said today, "I am anxious to get to work on the job. There is much to be done now, especially, with Medicare coming in. My qualifications speak for themselves."

★ ★ ★

PCH GRAD

Feet graduated from Pontiac Central High School, attended Michigan State University, and received his bachelor degree in business administration from the University of Florida.

He has been active in the Young Republican Club and has served in several posts promoting Michigan Week.

Heart Patient Gains Slightly

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Methodist Hospital authorities said today that although Marcel DeRudder remains unconscious after a partial artificial heart was implanted in his chest, his electroencephlograph "would suggest slight improvement."

Blood pressure and pulse appear within the normal range and the heart pump continues to function satisfactorily, performing approximately 75 per cent of the left ventricle's work, the advisory said.

Physicians said DeRuder suffered possible brain damage during Thursday's six-hour operation when an artificial pump took over part of the work load

'Head-West, Driver'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo taxicab is on the road to San Francisco today, with two drivers chauffeuring a woman who produced $1,250 to get to the Golden Gate in style.

Nobody asked why the well-dressed woman, about 35, wanted to hire a taxi for a trip that will take about three days by cab.

"The person just wanted to rent a cab to go, she had the money and so she went," said Malvin Farrell, dispatcher for the Black and White Cab Co. who dispatched two drivers to the trip.

The woman came into the cab office Thursday night and ordered a cab to drive her to San Francisco. She produced the fare—50 cents a mile—without hesitation.

Drivers Paul Mertz and Chester Reanue then set out to alternate driving straight through to San Francisco and back.

OTHER EXPENSES

The woman will have to pay for meals or any other expenses along the way.

The trip will wind up costing a good bit more than the $141.12 it would have cost for a first class airplane ticket or the $130.49 for a two-day train trip on a sleeper car.

The company has had other requests for out of town taxi trips, but this is the longest one, Farrell said, adding, "You can't go much farther than that."

Weekend Refrain Pitter-Patter, Rain

★ ★ ★

Temperatures will continue mild, the low near 44 to 52 tonight. Highs are expected to climb to 62 to 68 tomorrow.

Morning south to southeast winds will continue at 5 to 15 miles per hour.

Forty-one was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The 1 p.m. reading was 42.

A Good 'Page' in the Press

Thursday they requested through The Press that persons believed to have witnessed a fatal accident the previous day come forward with whatever information they might have.

County Unit Backs Boost in Valuation

An increase in Oakland County's equalized valuation of nearly 10 per cent was recommended yesterday by the equalization committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac's recommended 1966 equalized value is $401,047,416 — an increase of $14.7 million over 1965, according to city officials.

This would net the city about $140,000 more revenue over 1965 for the 10-mill operating fund.

SET AT 1.26

Pontiac's recommended equalizing factor for 1966 was set at 1.26, an increase from last year's 1.24364848. The state this year requires only two digits past the decimal point to make arithmetic easier.

Waterford Township's preliminary equalization factor was set at 2.26, the same as last year, according to Claude Wagner, the township's deputy assessor.

However, the township's total equalized valuation should rise

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky said yesterday Russia has developed an antiaircraft system capable of "capturing" whole formations of fighter planes.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, Malinovsky said the Soviet Union has a new system to combat long-range rockets. The antimissile system has been introduced in Russia, the defense chief told officers and men of the Budapest Garrison in a speech carried by the official Hungarian news agency, MTI.

"We have introduced a new type of long-range rocket-combatting antiaircraft system and created a system of capturing fighter plane battalions," Malinovsky said.

★ ★ ★

(In London, Western defense experts said they were intrigued by Malinovsky's claim that the Soviet Union has developed a system for "capturing" enemy aircraft.

HOW EXTENSIVELY

(They also speculated on how extensively Rusia might have introduced the new antimissile system to which he referred. They noted that Russia paraded a new weapon in Moscow in 1964. A commentator described it as an antiballistic missile missile, and NATO chiefs code-named it "Galosh."

(The defense experts said it was not clear whether Malinovsky was referring to a new antimissile system or whether numbers of "Galosh" has been deployed throughout the Soviet Union, possibly in an improved form from the one guardedly displayed in 1964.

(Very little is known in the West about the "Galosh.")

Malinovsky also said Russia has improved its conventional weapons — armored, motorized and artillery forces.

"In many respects, our military machinery is superior to that of the United States and to the most modern tank units of the other NATO states," he said.

REAFFIRMED

As he did in another speech yesterday in Hungary, the Soviet defense minister reaffirmed Russia's support for the Viet Nam Communists and said the United States "shall never be able to bring the Vietnamese patriots to their knees."

★ ★ ★

In the other speech, Malinovsky told Hungarian military units that Communist China has hampered Russian attempts to give more efficient aid to the Communists in Viet Nam."

Crash Victim Listed Serious

A 46-year-old Troy woman is in serious condition at Pontiac General Hospital after a two-car collision last night on I-75 in Pontiac Township.

Mrs. Edsel Peacock of 6355 Rochester was injured when the car she was riding in was struck broadside while making a U-turn on I-75 near the Mt. Clemens exit.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said the car, driven by John R. Churchill, 39, of 1196 Beta, Walled Lake, made an illegal turn into the southbound lane of the freeway in front of a second car.

Mrs. Glendora M. Wynn, 41, of Turner, driver of the other car, said she was unable to avoid the collision, which hurled Churchill's car 135 feet back across the median.

Mrs. Wynn and two of her children riding in the automobile were treated for injuries at Pontiac General and released, as was Churchill.

City Woman Hurt in Two-Car Crash

Lucille E. Ryan, 63, of 358 N. Johnson is listed in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today after a two-car collision yesterday.

Pontiac police said a car she was driving collided with another vehicle driven by Nellie K. Taylor, 57, of 974 Argule.

Strong Quake Hits Soviet Coastal Area

SHOOTING THE BULL—Packing house workers kill a bull with rifle fire on the streets of Hialeah, Fla., yesterday after a herd of 60 cattle escaped from a stockyard and roamed the streets of the Miami suburb. A young boy suffered a broken leg from a charging steer, and much shrubbery was damaged before the herd was rounded up.

By Noted Surgeon

Research Center Project Is Praised

Plans to establish a Pontiac Medical Research Center received a boost yesterday from a noted researcher and surgeon.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Edwin Ellison, instrumental in the creation of research facilities at the Marquette University School of Medicine in Milwaukee, offered praise for Pontiac's effort toward a research center.

Dr. Ellison toured the projected local research center to be housed at Pontiac State Hospital.

"This looks like a nice development," said the noted ulcer researcher. "It will answer the needs of area hospitals."

★ ★ ★

Conceived by doctors on the staffs of Pontiac State and Pontiac General Hospitals, the research center is planned to involve the entire medical community.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Donald Dawson, also on the staff at Pontiac State, is director of the research center, which has begun limited operations with Dawson's own experiments.

Dr. Ellison said research experience for future surgeons now is anticipated, and even expected. He said such experience was an important part of training the man who is going to become a surgeon.

For example, he noted that the future surgeon must learn electronic instrumentation that is so important in today's modern operating room.

★ ★ ★

"You have to see such equipment used and learn how to use it," he said.

BEST PLACE

Dr. Ellison indicated the best place to learn how to use the various monitoring equipment now used in the treatment of patients was in the laboratory, not the classroom.

The teaching function of a research center can also benefit the practicing physician, acording to the Pontiac visitor.

He said the research center can provide continuing education for the established physician.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Dawson, who rated Ellison's Marquette center as "probably the best surgical training area in the country," said the Milwaukee facility was begun in very much the same surroundings as those planned here.

BARN, KITCHEN

Among the hospital areas being renovated at Pontiac State for research purposes are an old cow barn and a kitchen.

The Milwaukee research program began five years ago with two old buildings. One had been the county morgue.

Plane Crash Kills 81 of 98 Aboard

Richardo Herera, 23, an American Flyers student said.

"The plane wobbled all over the place as we were coming down," said Pvt. James Gorman of Bellerose, N.Y., one of the survivors. "Then the plane hit."

★ ★ ★

Pvt. Joseph Deeny, 20, Lindenwold, N.J., said he "had to crawl to get away from the flames — they were licking at my legs."

IN REAR OF PLANE

"A couple of my friends were near me, and they were hurt awful bad," Deeny said. He had been sleeping in the rear of the plane and was thrown out when it slammed into the sandstone and granite slopes.

Gorman said he was still fastened by his seat belt when the plane slammed to earth.

"There was fire all around me and I undid my seat belt and got out ... But I didn't have to climb out. There wasn't any more plane."

★ ★ ★

ON RANCH

Mrs. W. A. Broughton, a caretaker on the ranch, went to the scene and described it as "terrible. The plane is just all over the mountainside."

★ ★ ★

Report of the crash sent scores of federal, state and local officers swarming over the area, guiding emergency vehicles and restricting the many spectators who clogged highways into the area.

Heart Patient Said Slightly Improved

LATE ADVISORY

An advisory late yesterday said it was hoped "any possible brain damage" would be temporary.

"This condition has been encountered previously in open heart cases,' the bulletin said.

The former coal miner's lack of response, the advisory continued, was not due to the plastic pump, "which is working satisfactorily."

★ ★ ★

After assuming about 67 per cent of the work normally done by DeRudder's left ventricle, the pump began carrying 75 per cent of the work load, an earlier advisory said.

MAKES TRIP

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, heart surgeon who performed the operation with a team of specialists, briefed Mrs. DeRudder on her husband's condition before she saw him in a special three-room intensive care suite.

Ex-Newsman Covered 'Beat' Well at OU

To anyone else, it might sound as though 62-year-old John MacLellan had put the cart before the horse.

MacLellan will graduate with honors from Oakland University tonight, having earned a degree after completing a distinguished 40-year career as a newspaperman.

The gray-haired undergraduate sees nothing incongruous about the event. He was brought up to believe in education for its own sake, not simply for its economic value.

As a result, he never came to regard the success he achieved without the aid of a college degree as any reason for not continuing his education.

John MacLellan

MacLellan, who lives with his wife Jean at 1920 S. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township, began pursuing a college diploma more than four decades ago at Antioch College in Ohio.

So MacLellan went to work.

After leaving Antioch, he returned to Windsor where he had gotten his first job as a reporter two years earlier. He worked in Windsor a year and then landed a job on the Detroit Times as a night police reporter.

ON TIMES STAFF

MacLellan stayed at the Times until it was purchased by the Detroit News in 1960.

During his career there, he rose from reporter to rewrite man, the city desk, city editor, assistant managing editor and, finally, to managing editor.

MacLellan worked in public relations for awhile but then decided to retire.

"At that point, I took a good look at myself," he said, "I was healthy, tired of working and figured that I had saved enough to be financially secure.

"I wasn't equipped to plant roses ... I planted two last year and they both died ... so I finally decided to go back to school."

"Mac," as he is known by fellow students, quickly found that the passage of time had not dulled his wits — nor had it sharpened his learning ability in those areas which had given him problems in high school and at Antioch.

"I was lousy in French and math then, and I'm lousy in them now," he said.

★ ★ ★

He strongly recommends college to other mature citizens, even though it may have little bearing on their occupations.

ENLARGEMENT

"It doesn't really matter if you are a bricklayer or a mechanic," he said. "A college education can do a great deal to enlarge your experience."

After graduating cum laude from OU, MacLellen plans to work toward a master's degree in history at the University of Michigan.

He has successfully met the challenge of competing with young scholars.

★ ★ ★

"In some ways, being older is an advantage," he siad. "I'm free from parental conflicts, anxiety about my future and problems of romance—I can study on Saturday nights."

Retrial Fight Lost by Estes

May Face Perjury Charge After Hearing

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Instead of the retrial Billie Sol Estes sought in his multimillion-dollar fraud case, the imprisoned promoter faced a prospect today of prosecution on a charge of lying under oath.

U. S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster said Friday that Estes "got caught redhanded in as brazen an exhibition of perjury as I have ever seen in the 40 years I have been going to the courtroom."

The judge read a 14-page statement in refusing to set aside Estes' 15-year sentence for peddling worthless anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) tank mortgages to nearly a dozen finance companies.

He held that defense lawyers failed to prove that a Chicago official of one lending firm gave false testimony at Estes' trial here in 1963 or that there was new evidence to justify another jury hearing the case.

NOT REASONABLE

"My opinion is that there is no reasonable probability that the defendant would be acquitted or would get a hung jury on a new trial," Judge Brewster said.

Jaw muscles of the bespectacled Estes, a former lay preacher of the Church of Christ, tightened visubly as he heard the decision.

U. S. marshals led Estes back to spend another night in the El Paso County jail before his return to the Leavenworth, Kan., Federal Prison. He has served 15 months of his term and possibly could go free under parole after five years.

★ ★ ★

Judge Brewster's comments raised the possibility of fresh charges, however. The court directed that U. S. attorneys call Estes' testimony to the attention of a federal grand jury.

Contradictory statements by Estes and Hilbert Kreeger Jr. of Chicago, formerly with the Walter E. Heller Co., were reviewed in detail by the jurist.

Part of Pig's Heart Transplanted to a Man

OXFORD, Englan d(UPI) — A British surgeon used a valve from a pig's heart this month to correct a normally fatal condition in a human patient's circulatory system, it was announced today.

A hospital spokesman said it was the first time such an animal-to-man transplant had been performed in Britain. The patient, an unidentified 56-year-old man, was discharged from the Radcliffe firmary here last night.

New Building Dedication Sunday at Baptist Church

BIRMINGHAM — The congregation of Grace Baptist Church will dedicate its new sanctuary and educational facilities at the corner of Lincoln and Edgewood Sunday at 3 p.m.

The original building adjoins the new facilities and will continue to be used for several classrooms, junior church and nursery, according to Rev. Charles Whitfield, pastor.

★ ★ ★

Twelve classrooms, choir room, fellowship hall, kitchen and study also have been added. The additions total 8,500 square feet, added at a cost of $80,000 by Kimmich Builders of Birmingham.

ORGANIZED IN 1956

The congregation was organized in 1956, and held its first meetings in a Birmingham home. Rev. Mr. Whitfield led the group in organizing a Sunday school and church.

The congregation later moved to a store building downtown. Three months later the present site was acquired.

When additional facilities were needed in 1964, the church brought more property on Lincoln. Plans were laid for an auditorium and educational unit. Ground was broken in April 1965.

★ ★ ★

Regular Sunday services are Sunday school at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m., youth groups at 5:30 p.m. and evening service at 7. Midweek prayer service is held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

2 CHILDREN

Pastor Whitfield is married and the father of two children.

D. B. Varner, chancellor of Oakland University, will be the speaker at the 18th annual meeting of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce May 3 at the Kingsley Inn ballroom.

A social hour is scheduled for 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:30.

Panel Backs Valuation Rise

This year's total assessed valuation has already been set at $54,452,050. Last year it was about $51.9 million.

County Equalization Department Director Herman W. Stephens attributed the countywide valuation increase of 241,687,338 both to the growth of the county and to the upsurge in the economy which has driven property values higher.

If the new equalization figures are approved by the board of supervisors next Tuesday, they will then be referred to the State Tax Commission for a recommendation to the State Board of Equalization, the final authority.

The hike in the Pontiac factor probably will result in little change in the 1966 city tax rate, making it similar to last year's rate of $17.90 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Likewise, the Waterford Township tax rate would stay about the same as last year's $8.21 per $1,000 assessed valuation since the equalization factor would hold at 2.26 and the tentative millage would remain at 3.6.

In Pontiac, city officials had previously predicted a tax cut of 40 cents per $1,000. However, the change in factor may trim slightly the predicted drop in the tax rate.

City officials regard as "not too serious" the fact that the recommended equalized value may fall $5 million short of their original projection.

GENERAL FUND

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said this represents only about $50,000 in general fund revenue.

★ ★ ★

He said gradual adjustments could be made in the budget to account for the loss.

The 1966 equalized value recommended for Birmingham is $111,916,069 which compares with $103,513,840 in 1965.

An equalizing factor of 1.17 was specified for 1966. The 1965 equalizing factor was 1.20.

Other 1966 city equalized valuations include $29,422,428 for Bloomfield Hills, $30,444,980 for the City of Farmington, $4,368,074 for Keego Harbor and $8,611,557 for Orchard Lake.

Villages are included in the valuation of the township in which they are located.

PARADOX of GIANT SEQUOIAS

J. L. VOORHEES

Many Giant Sequoias are 3,000 years of age, have risen to hundreds of feet elevation, yet were dependent upon FIRE.

These giants drop tiny seeds—91,000 per pound. They must have an ideal environment—sunlight and moisture, or perish. If undergrowth, ferns, grasses, shrubs cover the ground, shade it, those seeds cannot reach the soil and perish. Sunlight and moisture is vital to these seeds. Also, the undergrowth is a competitor for nutrients of the giants; if they cannot send enough food to the crown it dies for lack of food. The Giants seem to send out lateral roots to a distance equal to the elevation; they are dependent upon a very shallow depth for their nutrients. Thick undergrowth steal it. Fire solves the difficulty. A Sequoia grows a thick, fibrous, fire-resisting bark, so thick that fire does not penetrate it but it does destroy the undergrowth. Sequoias send out seeds, they take root, sunlight bathes them, they grow and we have baby Giants.

To Transmit Signals via Special Collars

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Some of the world's most mysterious large animals, the polar bears, will be wandering across the snowy polar ice caps with neat collars around their necks transmitting radio waves to an orbiting satellite.

* * *

By 1969, about 50 polar bears will be radioing their whereabouts to a Polar Orbiting Nimbus Satellite, hopes Dr. Vagn Flyger, head of the Inland Resources Division of the University of Maryland, College Park.

Depending upon the active cooperation of the nations involved, such as Russia, Canada and Greenland, the program will produce valuable information on a little-understood bear, Dr. Flyger told the eighth annual meeting of the Arctic Institute of North America.

The data transmitted from the bears' collars will be received by a Nimbus Weather satellite and then transmitted to earth receiving stations.

* * *

The great bear program also will include marking another 450 polar bears with purple dye so they can be easily spotted from a ship or from land, or a small airplane or helicopter.

MARK, NUMBER

Each bear will be marked with an individual mark, number or even name such as Joe, so that the spotters can accurately check the individual location.

The bears also will be identified with ear tags bearing individual identification numbers and instructions to send the tag to the Arctic Institute.

By these methods, Dr. Flyger said, scientists will learn more about the bears' migratory habits and population.

Further research on the polar bear will include studies on their parasites, diseases and their ability to adapt to inhospitable weather with temperatures reaching 65 degrees F. below zero.

Dr. Flyger also hopes to find out more about the bears' curious liver which is so richly packed with vitamin A that it is poison to eat.

Added Tension Could Be Finishing Blow

Diplomatic sources say the Soviet Union officially recognized the new regime in Accra only after an ultimatum that Moscow either grant recognition or clear out its representatives. Diplomats note that Communist Chna has not yet recognized the Ghana government and say a similar ultimatum is likely.

* * *

Peking and Accra have been bickering in a series of diplomatic notes blaming each other for the tensions between them since the overthrow of President Kwame Nkrumah Feb. 24. Nkrumah arrived in Peking on a state visit to learn his army and police had deposed him.

One of the first announcements by Ghana's new rulers was evidence that Nkrumah had enlisted Chinese help in running subversion camps to train cadres for the overthrow of other African leaders.

DENIED CHARGE

China denied this charge and replied with a complaint that its citizens in Ghana were being mistreated.

Chinese in Ghana—and other Orientals mistaken for Chinese—were manhandled in several incidents the day of the coup.

* * *

Another Ghanaian note said the Chinese have sent arms to Nkrumah in Conakry, Guinea, to use in overthrowing the new regime here and termed this "a stab in the back."

118,427 Uninsured

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare reports latest vehicle registrations show the state has 118,427 uninsured drivers. Motor vehicle registrations now have passed the 3.64 million mark, Hare said.
