Walkout Halts Building Work

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of construction workers in Lower Michigan struck over wages today, tying up millions of dollars in building jobs.

One union group, about 1,000 reinforced steel workers, stayed at work after earlier voting to strike.

Involved were workers in virtually every metropolitan area in Lower Michigan, including Detroit, the Saginaw Valley, Flint, Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Benton Harbor and Muskegon.

Regis O'Brien, business manager for Reinforced Steelworkers Local 426, said the local yesterday voted 10 to 1 to strike. He said the rodbusters, who place reinforcing steel in concrete, had permission from the Iron workers International Union for the walkout.

Local 426 has 1,000 members in 34 southern Michigan counties. O'Brien said no further negotiations had been scheduled with the Associated General Contractors (AGC).

There were signs of activity on a $25.2-million state office building complex immediately west of the Capitol, however. An apparently reduced labor force worked on the 8.8 million secretary of state and revenue building.

Also affected was a 13-county northern Lower Michigan area centering on Traverse City and Alpena.

Spokesmen for Laborers Union Local 1247 in Traverse City said no negotiations have been scheduled with contractors and claimed all other trade unions were honoring picket lines at area commercial construction projects.

Strike Effect Expected on Projects Here

Today's strike by thousands of lower Michigan construction workers is expected to halt work on four Pontiac elementary school projects and three in Waterford Township.

The strike also could slow or stop work on the Oakland County Drain Office's Clinton River project and the Devonshire Drain on Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Township.

On strike are bricklayers, operating engineers, reinforced steel workers, carpenters and laborers.

Also affected by the strike could be two State Highway Department bridge projects on Square Lake Road near Opdyke and four overpasses in Hazel Park. The County Road Commission and county Department of Public Works anticipate no work stoppage.

New elementary schools affected are Rogers, Herrington, Emerson and Franklin in Pontiac and Manley and Cherokee Hills in Waterford Township.

U. S. Wires Sympathies

MOSCOW (UPI) — The U. S. government has sent a telegram to the Soviet government offering sympathies to the residents of Tashkent in Soviet central Asia who suffered in last week's earthquake, the Communist party's newspaper, Pravda said today.

Aim Attack at Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's management of manpower and equipment for the U.S. war effort in Viet Nam is coming under increasingly heavy congressional fire.

★ ★ ★

Senate investigators, raising new charges of supply shortages in Viet Nam, charged yesterday that the Pentagon had sold or stockpiled equipment needed in the war.

Fifteen staff members who recently returned from a tour of the Far East and Europe planned to present their case when the Senate foreign aid begins hearings tomorrow.

It was the latest in a series of allegations that U. S. forces in Southeast Asia were not getting all the equipment they needed. McNamara has denied all such charges.

★ ★ ★

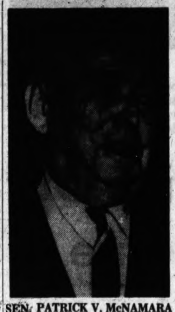
Joseph Lippman, the subcommittee's staff director, said the defense department "is disposing of useful and usable equipment." He emphasized that the equipment did not include weapons.

★ ★ ★

But, Lippman said, "there are considerable shortages. We have got lots of requisitions that have not been filled and they can be matched with disposals and excess in holding areas."

He said the list of shortages included bulldozers, tractors, cranes, rock crushing plants, dump trucks, 2½-ton cargo trucks, graders, scrapers and generators.

As for manpower management, the Senate preparedness subcommittee, in testimony taken March 23 and made public during the weekend, disclosed that the 750 Army Reserve units deactivated last fall as surplus included some types since requested for the war effort.



SEN. PATRICK V. McNAMARA

Griffin Likely Senate Choice

Could Hike Chances in November Election

LANSING (AP) — Republican Congressman Robert Griffin appears to be the best bet to succeed the late U. S. Sen. Patrick McNamara, a six-month appointment which could markedly improve Griffin's underdog chances for election to a full Senate term in November.

★ ★ ★

Political leaders from Republican Gov. George Romney on down are refusing to speculate publicly on the governor's pending appointment until after Wednesday's funeral for McNamara.

But the strongest logic points to Griffin, a five-term House member from Traverse City.

He was picked 11 weeks ago by Republican leaders as their preferred candidate for the seat McNamara planned to vacate at the end of this term.

★ ★ ★

Griffin was seen, however, as an underdog to either former Gov. G. Mennen Williams or Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

Funeral Slated Wednesday in Detroit Church

Veteran Lawmaker Died Saturday Night in Maryland Hospital

DETROIT (AP) — Patrick Vincent McNamara, who once earned only nine cents an hour as a pipefitter, today was paid the respect and homage of the state he served in the U.S. Senate for nearly 12 years.

He had been under treatment there since March 11 for a blood clot which settled in a lung.

McNamara, chairman of the important Senate Public Works Committee, announced earlier this year he would not seek a third Senate term.

★ ★

WEDNESDAY RITES

An aide of the senator said funeral services would be Wednesday in Detroit's Holy Name Roman Catholic Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

In a statement from the White House, Johnson described him as "a man of good and generous instincts. He served many worthwhile causes with concern for those Americans unable to help themselves, and he will be remembered as a champion of the people."

★ ★ ★

In Lansing, Gov. George Romney proclaimed a two-day period of mourning throughout Michigan and ordered that U.S. and state flags be flown at half staff.

County Will Seek Water Service Bids

Oakland County officials said today that quotations for water service to the county service center would be sought from both Waterford Township and Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

William G. Atchison, director of maintenance for the county, said that the service center presently has adequate water supplied by four wells.

The inquiry on possible outside sources of water was made in view of the proposed future growth of the service center, he added.

Waterford Township, which has an internal water distribution system supplied by wells, already has been contacted for an estimate on providing water for the service center.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac, which uses Detroit water, will also be asked for a price quotation, Atchison said.

ASSURE SUPPLY

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the County Board of Auditors, said that the availability of an outside water source would assure an adequate water supply for the service center if the present water table dropped.

Murphy and Atchison both pointed out that the table took an unexpected drop when Pontiac switched to Detroit water in August 1963 and two of the service center's wells failed to function properly for a few days.

County officials had anticipated a rise in the water table when Pontiac discontinued its ground water pumping.

Murphy said that the county has not been able to add a well in the past four or five years. Recent attempts have been unsuccessful, he said.

Reds Urge Peace, Assail U.S. in May Day Rallies

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

May Day demonstrations around the world followed the usual pattern yesterday with calls for peace in Viet Nam sounding at most of them.

The Russians showed no new military hardware at their Moscow parade. Mao Tze-tung did not appear in Peking. And 7,000 South Vietnamese staged an anti-American demonstration in front of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon.

Reviewing a military parade in Moscow's Red Square, Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky accused the United States of waging "a foul bandit war against the heroic Vietnamese people."

"Together with the other Socialist countries," Malinovsky said, "we support our Vietnamese brothers and are rendering them and will continue to render them all possible assistance."

Other Soviet leaders standing atop Lenin's Tomb in a cold rain reviewed the parade, which included floats denouncing the U. S. presence in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Radio Peking said three million persons turned out for the celebrations in the Communist Chinese capital, but Communist party Chairman Mao was absent. Mao, 72, has not been seen in public for more than five months.

PEKING RALLY

During the Peking rally, Premier Chou En-lai warned the United States that "even more disastrous defeats are in store" if the Viet Nam war is expanded. He said U. S. efforts to set up peace talks would fail.

In South Viet Nam, the chant "Da Dao My"—Down with Americans — resounded outside the U.S. Embassy in Saigon where Vietnamese troops faced 7,000 farmers, dock workers and students demonstrating for peace. There was no violence.

The demonstration was apparently influenced by the powerful Buddhist movement. U. S. officials also said the rally was possibly Communist-infiltrated.

★ ★ ★

President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam warned in a letter to his armed forces: "Our compatriots, cadres and army men should not indulge in subjectivism and underestimation of the enemy because of victories."

Mao Riddle Hints China Power Shift

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Deepening mystery over the fate of Mao Tze-tung spurred speculation among U.S. officials today about a possible power shift in Red China with worldwide repercussions.

The belief that the Chinese Communist leadership may be approaching a transition period is one of several reasons for recent overtures by the Johnson administration to reduce tensions and lower barriers between Red China and the United States.

All these gestures have been rebuffed by the Peking regime, but administration experts believe they may have an impact on the foreign policy attitude of future Chinese leaders.

The United States and, so far as Washington authorities can determine the Soviet Union, also, have been watching the Mao mystery develop for several months with growing fascination.

The interest of Soviet leaders in the possibility of personality changes in the top of the Peking ruling group is believed here to be a prime cause of their determination to hold the door open to some sort of Soviet-Chinese reconciliation.

RED MEETING

The Chinese refused to attend a recent Communist party meeting in Moscow but the Soviets nevertheless left the way clear for some later improvement in relations.

Mao's situation is regarded here as the key to what is likely to happen in Peking in the next few weeks or months.

But it is a Mao which the outside world, reportedly including Soviet as well as American experts on Chinese Communist affairs, does not presently understand.

After Freak Accident

Chutist Fights for Life

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Parachutist Nick Piantanida, deprived of oxygen for three critical minutes in a futile try at a record parachute fall yesterday, fought for his life—and for recovery from undetermined brain damage — in a Minneapolis hospital today.

The 33-year-old Brick Town, N.J., man, whose balloon plunged to the ground in southwestern Minnesota yesterday from an altitude of 57,000 feet, was placed in a hyperbaric chamber at Hennepin County General Hospital shortly after 7 a.m. today.

The chamber permits intensive oxygen treatment of the body, and other related care.

Dr. Claude Hitchcock, chief surgeon of the hospital, said the vital question of degree of brain damage could not be answered yet.

Dr. Leonard Thompson, flight surgeon on Piantanida's last two flights, estimated it had taken Piantanida three minutes to descend from 57,000 feet — where a still-unexplained failure occurred somewhere in his balloon system — to 40,000 feet, "where some oxygen is available."

TRACHEOTOMY

Dr. Thompson performed a tracheotomy in a Worthington, Minn., hospital.

Then the parachutist was taken by plane to Minneapolis and put in the long, blue metal cylinder.

"We can assume," Dr. Hitchcock said, "that some brain damage has occurred." He was cautious about how much.

★ ★ ★

Piantanida went aloft in a balloon early yesterday from Sioux Falls, S.D., aiming at 125,000 feet and a free fall in a pressurized suit to 7,000 feet.

GASPS, 'EMERGENCY'

When he gasped out the word "Emergency!" at 57,000 feet, ground-activated controls sent him plunging earthward via a parachute attached to the gondola in which he was riding.

★ ★ ★

Ed Yost, program director for Raven Industries, which built the balloon, said today no fault had been found in Piantanida's pressure suit, the face mask, or seal. Yost said Piantanida might "inadvertently" have uncoupled an oxygen line.

Mother Told to See Famed Heart Surgeon

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (UPI) — A mother of six children who needs two heart valves replaced said today she had been notified to report to famed heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey.

Mrs. Phyllis Wright, 40, said she appealed to the Houston, Tex., specialist after a Chicago hospital decided against surgery for her as "too risky."

Hopes Raised in Kidnaping

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Aaron Goldman, wealthy Miami contractor, said today a man who may have been the kidnaper of his 18-year-old son, Daniel, had contacted a rabbi in New York.

Goldman appealed to the abductor to contact the rabbi again for "an important message from us" or to get in touch with a clergyman of any faith anywhere in the world.

The rabbi was not identified.

"We are certain, and have been promised," Goldman said in a statement addressed to the kidnaper, "that you could do so in safety and security.

★ ★ ★

"Once the clergyman has been able to identify our son, the ransom will be paid through the church in any manner you direct.

'ANY CLERGYMAN'

"It will be sent to any clergyman you have designated and he will deliver the $25,000 in return for our son."

Dem Candidates Making Final Pitches in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Democratic candidates make their final pleas today before Alabama's historic primary that could see Mrs. George C. Wallace endorsed for governor and Negroes boosted toward office for the first time since reconstruction.

since passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which stemmed from violence-marked demonstrations in Selma and the 50-mile march to Montgomery.

★ ★ ★

Federal poll watchers will be posted in the 11 counties where examiners were sent under the act to certify voters. Assigned there by U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, they will watch for any discrimination or intimidation against the thousands of newly registered Negroes.

National attention began focusing on the election some time ago. Its many features include the bid of a woman to reach the governor's chair, Negroes seeking — and having a sound chance — to attain county offices and legislative seats, the largest Negro registration ever in Alabama, and a test of the popularity of Gov. George C. Wallace.

Impact of the Negro vote, estimated at 235,000 or 20 per cent of the electorate, was felt many months ago. Voters will see its effect the moment they step into voting booths.

At stake in the primary are the nominations for governor, the U.S. Senate, five congressional seats, lieutenant governor, attorney general, education superintendent, agriculture commissioner, auditor, treasurer, two Public Service Commission seats, state legislative seats and a host of county offices.

Negroes are not seeking statewide offices but are making bids for the legislature and county offices such as sheriff, tax assessor or school board member.

Victory in the primary is not tantamount to election, as in years past when the Democratic party was king. The Republicans say they plan to contest at least all state offices in the general election. U.S. Rep. James D. Martin has announced he'll run for governor on the GOP ticket.

★ ★ ★

Prime interest in the Democratic primary is centered on the governor's race and the candidacy of Lurleen Wallace, wife of Gov. Wallace. Nine men, including three of her husband's bitterest political critics, oppose her.

Wallace is prevented by the state constitution from succeeding himself in office. His attempt to alter this and get a constitutional amendment to the people was defeated last year in the legislature by a corps of senators led by Bob Gilchrist of Morgan County, now running for governor. So Wallace decided to put his wife in the race, making it clear he would continue to run things if she is elected.

All Mrs. Wallace's major opponents concede that the mother of four is running first. The question is will she get a majority so a runoff May 31 won't be necessary and, if not, who will come in second?

Highland Park Teachers Are Back in Class

HIGHLAND PARK (AP)—Union teachers returned to their desks in Highland Park's public schools today after negotiators reached a predawn strike-settling agreement.

The agreement, opening the way for a return to regular classroom schedules for 7,500 grade and high school students, was subject to an afternoon ratification vote by the teachers' union.

★ ★ ★

The Highland Park Teachers Federation (AFL-CIO) and the school board agreed to settlement terms at 3 a.m. in negotiations at Detroit offices of the State Labor Mediation Board.

Terms were not announced pending this afternoon's meeting of the union local's membership.

The teachers walked out last Thursday, closing at least two schools. Other schools operated Thursday and Friday with administrative personnel aiding nonstriking teachers and substitute teachers.

Over the weekend the federation agreed to quit picketing the schools as negotiations continued.

A huge crowd in Havana's Revolutionary Plaza applauded as Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro termed President Johnson "one of the biggest criminals and pirates history has ever known" because of U.S. intervention in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Castro called the U. S. role in Viet Nam "that repugnant and cowardly aggression."

The prime minister said Cuban sugar production would not reach five million tons this year, due to the worst drought in 60 years. The goal was 6.5 million tons. Castro predicted a big harvest next year.

Speaking after a parade that involved an estimated 150,000 workers, Castro also challenged the United States to admit Cuban refugees en masse.

Jets Wipe Out Missile Site

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. Navy fighter-bombers demolished another antiaircraft missile site near the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, but in the South the lull in the ground war extended into a third week, the U.S. command reported today.

★ ★ ★

American planes flew more than 300 sorties against suspected Communist targets in South Viet Nam. For the second day in a row B52s from Guam pounded Viet Cong troop areas near the Cambodian border.

★ ★ ★

Although weather curtailed air missions over the Communist North, A4 Skyhawks and F8 Crusaders from the carrier Hancock saturated the missile site 34 miles northeast of Vinh, on the North Vietnamese coast, with Bullpup air-to-surface missiles and 500- and 600-pound bombs. A spokesman said they destroyed everything within a 400-foot-square area, including two Soviet-built missile launchers.

★ ★ ★

U.S. spokesmen reported the loss of two more planes over North Viet Nam, raising the total shot down there to 227, but the pilots of both were rescued by helicopters. Four U.S. planes were lost over the North on Friday.

MARINE DRIVE

A column of U.S. Marine amphibian tractors ran into small-arms fire 20 miles south of Da Nang as the vehicles rolled across flatlands on the 12th day of a Leatherneck drive across the 1st Corps area to the sea. The tractor crews claimed they killed five Viet Cong with three volleys from 105mm howitzers.

★ ★ ★

So far, the Leathernecks say they have killed 69 Viet Cong, captured 6 and taken 223 suspects against light Marine casualties. Intelligence reports had indicated more than 1,000 Viet Cong in the area, but the Communists did not rise to the bait.

★ ★ ★

The eight-engine B52s carpeted a suspected enemy troop concentration 2½ miles from the Cambodian border in Tay Ninh Province, 70 miles northwest of Saigon. Police Training Program Starts

All Members of City Force to Participate

The Pontiac Police Department started today on the first leg of a 4-week in-service training program which will eventually involve every member of the force in a 35-hour course of instruction.

★ ★ ★

Chief William K. Hanger, scheduled to undergo the training session with the rest of the 120-man department, said the courses would necessitate deactivation of 25 per cent of the department each week during the month-long program.

Some 30 patrolman, detectives, and officers started the course today, attending classes conducted by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Next week, another 30 men will take the program. Training is scheduled to be completed May 27.

★ ★ ★

The classes include instruction in handling civil disorders, collection of evidence, laws of search and seizure and criminal interrogation, and public relations in police work.

OTHER EXPERTS

Handling the teaching assignments in addition to FBI specialists will be crime laboratory experts from the Michigan State Police, college instructors in law enforcement techniques, and juvenile court officials.

"We feel this is an important move towards upgrading the professionalism of the department," said Hanger.

"Demands on police work have increased greatly in recent years. This is one way we can meet what is expected of law enforcement in Pontiac."

The in-service program, last held in 1961, was made possible by an $11,000 budget allocation by the City Commission.

Commission Is Advised to Nix Plan for Museum

BIRMINGHAM — The city administration has recommended that the City Commission reject a proposal to acquire an old home for use as a historical museum at this time.

★ ★ ★

The City Commission will be notified of the recommendation at its meeting this evening.

At the same time, however, the recommendation, prepared by City Administrative Aide John F. Saefke, does not exclude the possibility of a historical village in the future.

In mid-April, J. B. McMechan, chairman of the Birmingham Historical Board suggested that the city establish a museum in a 100-year-old home now located at 384 Willits. The home would have to be moved to a new site.

★ ★ ★

He further proposed that steps be taken to obtain additional homes of different eras and then move them to a central location.

DIRECTIONS SUGGESTED

Should the City Commission accept the over-all plan, Saefke proposes the commission direct the historical board to:

- Identify and substantiate the selection of buildings to be preserved.
- Present a detailed plan for the method of preservation.
- Prepare detailed plans for initial and continuing financing.
- Draft plans for all aspects of responsibility, control and operations.

Saefke said McMechan's plan for the historical museum contains a "considerable amount of speculation" and there does not seem to be adequate justification now to recommend acceptance of the proposal.

If the commission approves the four steps proposed, the Historical Board would be in a better position to request action to implement the program, according to Saefke.

★ ★ ★

The board, Saefke said, would also have time to begin its financing structure and to "mold its operational organization so that there would be a better degree of preparedness when the next building becomes available."

Mao Mystery Stirs Shake-Up Speculation

MAO ABSENCE

His absence from subsequent public ceremonies did not at first arouse interest here and in other world capitals, since it has been the pattern to drop from sight for two or three months at a time.

But when he failed to reappear in Peking as winter ended, U.S. experts began to speculate that he was ill.

The belief that he has suffered a serious illness or perhaps undergone a major operation is now the dominant view in official Washington circles.

★ ★ ★

He did not appear at yesterday's May Day celebration.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Another cause of the belief here that Mao is or has been seriously ill is the fact that the Chinese press has been engaged for more than a month now in virtually deifying him.

They do not, however, expect any sudden changes in policy direction, especially so far as the United States is concerned.

★ ★ ★

So far as Washington authorities know, all these men are dedicated to the theories of aggressive communist world revolution—a major source of conflict between China and other nations, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

Beyond such men as these, Western experts have little idea who might eventually succeed to power in China, but U.S. authorities on China believe that after a period of time in the post-Mao era a power struggle among personalities inevitably would develop and some of the younger men in the political structure might have different ideas about China's foreign relations.

It is to these unknown men and this more distant future that the recent change in emphasis in U.S. policy has been directed.

However, the immediate causes of this shift of emphasis are more contemporary.

The Johnson administration obviously has been trying since last December to develop a better tactical position for the next battle in the United Nations over the proposal to vote Red China into membership.

Overtures since then include a policy decision to let U.S. doctors and public health authorities visit China, a decision to let Chinese newsmen come to the United States, and most recently, the granting of permission to various American universities to invite Chinese Communist scholars to come here.

Peking's response has been negative.

These same moves also were calculated by the administration to offset the criticism by some members of Congress of a too rigid policy toward Red China.

Another Skirmish on Spending Near in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another round in the spending battle between President Johnson and the big Democratic majority in Congress takes place in the House this week. This time the skirmish centers on education and health appropriations.

* * *

A week after it defied the President by restoring some $100 million for school lunch and milk programs, the House is expected to support the action of its appropriations committee in putting back an extra $232.8 million for impacted school districts.

* * *

The increase in funds for areas with substantial numbers of federal workers is part of a $489 million increase over the amount Johnson asked for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Other increases are for vocational education and health institutes. A vote on the $10,555,342,500 money bill is set for Wednesday.

* * *

A majority of Democrats on the appropriations committee supported the extra funds which Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., called "an invitation to a tax increase."

ATTACKED RESTORATION

The President attacked restoration of budget cuts by Congress last week, and the Budget Bureau estimated as much as $2.8 billion may be tacked onto the budget by Congress.

* * *

Some congressmen have said Johnson deliberately cut such popular programs as lunches and schools so he could blame Congress for voting the extra funds. The Democrats have better than 2-1 majorities in both houses.

Other bills on the calendar for the week include an administration proposal to reduce appropriations $4.2 billion by selling government-held loans to private interests and a controversial labor measure dealing with picketing.

The portable classrooms are being used to eliminate overcrowding at several elementary schools until additions are built. The Niles addition is being built with funds from a $4-million bond issue approved last year.

Avondale Board Will Air Issues

Avondale Board of Education tonight will discuss and possibly determine the amount of a bond issue and a proposal for renewal of operating millage to be submitted to school district voters.

Board members have been studying a citizens committee report which recommends a total building program of $1,769,000.

Schools Supt. John Dickey said 3.9 mills which expired after the December 1965 collection must be renewed. The board presently levies 26.30 mills.

Of this, 3.1 are for bonded indebtedness; 14.90 voted for operating and 8.30 allocated by the tax allocation board.

In its report, the committee has recommended construction of a new elementary school on the Bloomfield Orchards site at a cost of $491,500 and construction of the first unit of a new high school for $877,500.

SCHOOL SITE

It also recommends purchase of a new high school site for $60,000; construction of materials centers at all elementary schools for $240,000; and renovation of existing buildings for $100,000.

Enrollment figures show that by 1980, there will be 7,000 pupils in the Avondale schools.

There are now 33 pupils in each classroom. If this number were reduced to 25, 17 new rooms would be needed, according to Asst. Schools Supt. Charles E. Johnson.

Dickey has said that temporary classrooms will probably have to be used in the fall to house the enrollment. A building program could not be completed by September.

FOR VOTERS

Dickey said a proposal will have to be submitted to voters at the June 13 annual school election or at a special referendum.

Also on the agenda tonight is a progress report on site improvements and a recommendation to appoint an acting principal at the Auburn Heights Elementary School.

Dickey explained that the acting principal would free William Saville to devote full time to his new position as assistant superintendent for business affairs.

State Livestock Cooperative Hits Administration Statements

Michigan's big livestock cooperative, the Michigan Livestock Exchange, Detroit, has blasted recent administration statements that farmers and the prices of butter and meat have been largely responsible for increases in the cost of living.

Allen Rush of Romeo, president of the 20,000-member cooperative, said "It is ironic that politicians should single out the farmer as their inflation whipping boy, especially since American farmers have produced so abundantly that many nations look to us for assistance."

The livestock producers were reacting to a press conference in which President Johnson was quoted as urging housewives to substitute cheaper cuts of meat for more prime beef, suggesting that she "sharpen her pencil" and substitute other products.

The Michigan livestock men expressed dismay that farmers and ranchers should be so singled out, underscoring that farmers are the largest percapita purchasers of goods of industry, and as such, are first to feel the impact of rising costs.

In a policy statement adopted at a recent Lansing meeting of the Livestock Exchange, the group passed a unanimous resolution pointing out that much of the present prosperity has been due to cheaply produced food, enabling people to use increased earnings for new cars, vacations and better homes.

Market Site of Break-In

The burglary was discovered by the market owner upon opening for business yesterday morning. Value of the loot has not yet been determined.

OTHER OFFICERS

Fire Damages Set at $7,500

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Fire of undetermined origin in a barn at 3869 Cooley Lake early yesterday morning caused damages estimated at $7,500.

Commerce Township firemen, assisted by the Milford, Highland Township, White Lake Township and Union Lake fire departments, answered the alarm at 3:06 a.m.

The building contained some $7,000 worth of building material, owned by the Lakeland Development Co., which was damaged extensively, according to Commerce Fire Chief Clarence Kuttuhn.

Another fire at 9:30 yesterday evening caused damage estimated at $1,000 in a garage belonging to Rober Lofthouse, 8756 Warbonnet.

Youth Arrested on Possession of Stolen Plate

ROCHESTER — A 17-year-old youth faces arraignment on a charge of possessing stolen license plates after his arrest yesterday by Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Christopher L. Thornber of 818 Alston was booked and held at the Oakland County jail after admitting to Deputy Gregory Putman that the license plate on his motorcycle had been stolen from another motorcycle.

Thornber said, however, according to Putman, that the plate was taken by two other youths who then gave it to Thornber..

The license plate had been reported missing from another motorcycle Saturday.

For 2nd Month in Row

Farm Product Prices Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm product prices declined 2 per cent during the month ended April 15. This was the second consecutive month of decline, prices having eased off one-third of 1 per cent during the month ended March 15.

★ ★ ★

The Agriculture Department said lower prices for hogs and cattle, together with a seasonal decline in egg prices, contributed most to the April decrease.

★ ★ ★

The department said the farm price level in mid-April was 9 per cent above a year earlier, mostly because of higher livestock prices. In mid-February, the prices were 14 per cent above a year earlier.

★ ★ ★

Prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in production and family living increased two-thirds of 1 per cent between mid-March and mid-April, largely because of higher farm wage rates.

Copters Save Downed Pilot

Yank Outruns Reds in Dramatic Rescue

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air Force pilot outran Communist pursuers in the mountains of North Viet Nam Sunday night and rescue helicopters plucked him to safety at dawn today.

Three helicopter attempts late Sunday afternoon to rescue Capt. James M. Ingalls of Palo Alto, Calif., were driven off by Communist groundfire. Ingalls had parachuted into the mountains at 3:45 p.m. after groundfire shot down his A1E Skyraider while he was flying a forward air control mission over North Viet Nam.

He was the 48th pilot brought out of North Viet Nam by the U.S. Air Force's 3rd Aerospace Rescue Recovery Group since Jan. 1. The group rescued 120 downed pilots in the last three months of 1965.

Ingalls made immediate radio contact with search Skyraiders who flew overhead after he went down along the North Viet Nam-Laos border. They were led to him by the radio "beeper" that all pilots carry in their survival kits.

BASE OF CLIFF

Ingalls landed at the base of a cliff and a pair of Air Force H33 Sikorsky helicopters told him to move a mile down the mountain slope.

There was no sign of the enemy as one helicopter hovered over Ingalls. Suddenly, hidden gunners opened fire from the surrounding jungle, driving the helicopter off.

Ingalls, carrying his tiny survival radio, was instructed to run farther west. The helicopters flew down to another clearing. More ground fire opened up.

NIGHT PICKUP

A flareship was called in to aid in a night pickup, but Ingalls did not want his position pinpointed by the flares.

Ingalls spent the night on the mountain, constantly on the move. Helicopters found him at dawn at a spot far from where he had been the previous afternoon.

They went straight in and picked him up without a shot being fired. Ingalls had successfully evaded his pursuers.

S. Viet Not a Country; Only U.S. Holds It Together---Diplomat

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — "There is no Viet Nam south of the 17th Parallel," said the highly placed Western diplomat. "There is only chaos, despair and unending struggle."

The diplomat's grim appraisal of the situation in South Viet Nam clashed with the official U.S. line but coincided with the views of many other diplomats and observers.

* * *

"South Viet Nam today is not a country," he said. "It is a group of feuding religious groups, of defiant warlords, of generals refusing to obey the orders of Saigon, of entire areas under Communist control, of political parties and groupings none of which can exercise a determining influence.

"Only the presence of Americans holds it together.

'U.S. MUST REMAIN'

"The United States must remain here. How and for how long, I don't know. But its departure from here would mean an immediate disaster."

American planners are hopeful that South Viet Nam can be forged politically in elections promised this summer. Most other diplomats and observers believe that elections are not possible in this nation at war — and that a valid vote could not result.

The country has more than 70 political parties, none of them large enough to take a determined lead.

The Buddhists, often described as one of the strongest political forces, are divided into three main quarreling factions.

DEMAND INFLUENCE

The Hoa Hoa and Cao Dai religious sects also demand influence, but they are limited to two small regions of the country without impact on the rest. A simmering revolt of the Montagnard tribesmen openly defies the central government.

The Catholics, about 15 per cent of Viet Nam's 15 million people, are ready to defend their rights.

* * *

Foreign observers believe that the influence of the Saigon military regime extends little beyond the capital. Even in Saigon's Chinese suburb of Cholon, grenades are reportedly made for terrorist attacks.

Mortar shells have been lobbed into the crowded Tan Son Nhut air base just outside Saigon from villages controlled by the enemy.

* * *

On the outskirts of the capital, from which America's war effort in Viet Nam is directed, guerrilla roadblocks freely check cars and buses.

Sweden, Norway and Denmark were once united as a single nation.

Missing Prince, Kin to Kaiser, Is Found in River

BINGEN, Germany (AP) — German authorities say suicide is indicated in the death of Prince Friedrich of Prussia, a grandson of the last Kaiser whose body was found Sunday in the Rhine River.

The prince had been missing since April 19. River pilots recovered the body about 18 miles downstream from Schloss Reinhartshausen, a converted castle owned by Friedrich.

The prince, 54, was last seen leaving his riverside hotel for a midnight walk. Discovery of the body came after an intensive search by West German police aided by helicopters, the Rhine River Patrol and Interpol—the International Police Commission.

Friedrich had spent most of the last 30 years in England and was married to Lady Brigid Guinness, British brewery heiress. They had five children, but divorce proceedings were pending.

"YOUR HEALTH" "HEADACHES"

Do you suffer from frequent headaches? Too many people do. Covering them up with aspirin gives only temporary relief. The underlying problem remains. Chiropractic treatments attempt to get to the cause of the condition, which in many cases is pressure on the nerves in the spine and neck. Once the nerve pressure is removed, most headaches disappear. If you have lived with this pain over the years, and been told, "It's your nerves, take some aspirin," then give chiropractic a chance. Results measure the merit of anything. Chiropractic claims nothing it has not already accomplished many times.

It Seems to Me . . .

Senator Dirksen Proposes to Return Prayer to Schools

A wide segment of the population in this country is hailing Senator EVERETT M. DIRKSEN's proposed constitutional amendment on prayers in school.

★ ★ ★

The Illinois Senator says he is harkening to the clamor that's widespread in America for some recognition of God in the classroom.

Imagine having to fight for that!

The Illinois savant has an amendment that would permit — and neither demand or require — prayers in public schools by the students, teachers or both.

★ ★ ★

It's difficult to picture the United States sinking so low that a step like this is necessary. However, that's precisely where our dog-eared Supreme Court placed us with its inexplicable ruling that caused consternation from coast to coast and left the world flabbergasted.

In a speech on the subject, the Senator said:

"I'm not going to let nine men say to 190 million people, including children, when and where they can utter their prayers."

A nation will be staunchly and stoutly behind him. The whole countryside was incensed at the time. It seemed grotesque, barbaric and godless.

★ ★ ★

There is also a widespread hope that if this matter is reversed as it should, it may have an additional and very wholesome effect in the future on these headstrong Washington jurists. Many think they are guided by their own personal ideas instead of the intent of the U.S. Constitution.

More power to Senator DIRKSEN.

Floundering Senator . . .

Senator J. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT still flounders about.

Currently, he blames our involvement in Viet Nam on the fact we extended assistance to the southern contingent. He may be right — for once — but his solution puts him back on the same old rusty rails that zig zag to nowhere. Senator Halfbright (as the late JOE MCCARTHY "affectionately" dubbed him) would have our foreign aid handled by "impersonal agencies."

Wouldn't that be dandy?

★ ★ ★

All our openhanded doling of cold cash would be controlled by disinterested outsiders — such as the United Nations. Thus the recipients wouldn't feel the slightest obligation to the sorely pressed U.S. taxpayers who contributed the money. Our generosity up to now seems to have earned us a spot of articulate foes who criticize us roundly — as soon as they cashed our checks. Picture their attitude when our kindness was "cleverly concealed" a la the Arkansas Democrat.

★ ★ ★

The forthright and outspoken HARRY S. TRUMAN once described Senator Halfbri — pardon — FULBRIGHT in terms we can't employ in a gentle, family newspaper but you may figure it out yourself.

International thanks have largely disappeared. We learned that the hard way. Why conceal our beneficence entirely?

What Is Our Loss? . . .

"Our casualties were light."

What do they mean—"light?"

They count the enemy down to the last rag-tag mule, and we learn "287 were shot down" or "the enemy lost 62."

But our losses are "light."

If we can count the foe so precisely, let's reveal the facts about our own boys. They are our boys, aren't they? Or do they belong to the Pentagon building lock, stock and barrel?

Must this nonsense continue?

And in Conclusion . . .

If you aren't busy in August, you might take part in the Fifth International Balloon Meet. It's in Switzerland and they provide the balloons, accommodations and baskets. The charge is a trifling $1,440 — which includes insurance. . . . . "Know how" is losing standing in the modern sweep and swing. The "proper" word now is "expertise" and it rhymes with "tease." . . . . Iowa University says farm land prices there advanced 10% in 1965 and other midwestern states are about the same.

Scouts advise me Sandra Malone ranks as one of the area's fine-looking young ladies. . . . . Bob Hope was teeing off against Jackie Gleason. "Gimme five strokes," demanded the fat boy. Hope winced. "I wouldn't give that to my grandmother." Gleason nodded. "But I can't play as well as she does." . . . . Overheard: "By the time a couple can afford to go out in the evening, they have to baby sit with the grandchildren." . . . . . Gaseous Clay continues to be the butt of an unending stream of threatening mail.

A New York Times dispatch from Washington says "Soapy" WILLIAMS's successor in Africa will strengthen our position immeasurably. WILLIAMS was constantly guilty of "poor rapport with his superiors in the District of Columbia." His replacement, JOSEPH PALMER II, is a real step forward. . . . . Stripped For Action

David Lawrence Says:

'Racial Imbalance' Law Sought

WASHINGTON — President Johnson and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts are moving toward some of the very proposals for the removal of "racial imbalance" in public schools which the late President Kennedy publicly disapproved.

Sen. Kennedy, in testifying before a Senate subcommittee last Wednesday on his bill "to provide federal assistance for school boards attempting to correct racial imbalance in public schools," declared in favor of furnishing federal funds to local boards which wish to consolidate school districts or to provide facilities for transporting students from one locality to another.

He said: "With some exceptions, segregation in educational facilities in the north and west does not exist as a result of purposeful official action. But it does exist nonetheless.

"As a result of a past history of residential segregation combined with a commonly observed school policy of pupil assignment based on place of residence, school systems which are highly segregated de facto by color can be found in almost every major city in the North and West.

★ ★ ★

"In my own state of Massachusetts, for example, a study last year by the Massachusetts Advisory Committee on Racial Imbalance and Education found that 'most Negro children in Massachusetts attended predominantly Negro schools while the overwhelming majority of white children attend schools that are either all-white or have fewer than five nonwhite children enrolled.'

MORE SEVERE

"Massachusetts is one example, but by no means the most striking one. The problem of de facto school segregation, or racial imbalance, is even more severe in those Northern and Western states which have a higher percentage of nonwhite citizens than my own state. . . .

"Although there may be no constitutional compulsion requiring the complete and immediate elimination of racial imbalance, it seems basic to me that those school districts which wish to alleviate this problem should receive the encouragement and support of the federal government."

The Johnson administration's position is that the federal government must tackle every form of segregation and seek "desegregation," even though the Civil Rights Act of 1964 says that "desegregation" does not require correction of "racial imbalance."

Unquestionably, much of the school segregation in the north is due to residential circumstances.

To help correct this, the Johnson administration now is asking for a new housing law so as to be able to prosecute anybody who refuses to sell or rent his house to anyone else because of race or religion.

The possible impact of the entire program of governmental coercion to eliminate what is called "racial imbalance" is already causing considerable dissatisfaction in the big cities, where the fear is openly expressed by real-estate agents that property values are likely to decline if the new legislation passes.

Capital Letter:

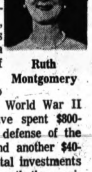
By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The perennial battle over foreign aid is simultaneously engaging the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees. Both are holding hearings on the administration bill, which this year carries a price tag of $3.38 billion.



Ruth Montgomery

In the two decades since World War II Americans have spent $800-billion on the defense of the free world, and another $40-billion on capital investments abroad. Is it worth the sacrifice to U.S. taxpayers?

Those who argue that the gargantuan effort is gaining ground will find ammunition in a new book, "The Obligations of Power," by Harlan Cleveland, a former political science professor who is now our ambassador to the tottering NATO structure in Paris.

We have yet to find a magical formula for dispensing aid, but Cleveland spikes the myth that Communist nations are better at it than we are.

SLAVISH COPY

He says they started by making their foreign aid program a slavish copy of ours, learned remarkably little from watching our errors, and systematically made the same mistakes we did, in the same order.

Is there any end in sight? Or is foreign aid a bottomless pit into which we will continue to pour our wealth until we ourselves go bankrupt?

Cleveland raises this hopeful point which had not previously occurred to us:

Forty per cent of the total population of the underdeveloped world — Asia, Africa and Latin America — lives in just two countries, India and Brazil.

Is it beyond the realm of possibility that these two giants might become self-sustaining in another decade, through hard work and international cooperation?

ON OWN FEET

And what if India and Pakistan decide to bury the hatchet and work together for mutual gain? The subcontinent they share has more people than all of Africa and Latin America combined.

★ ★ ★

If those three nations could become dispensers instead of recipients of aid within 10 to 15 years, perhaps the rest of the struggling nations could soon thereafter stand on their own feet.

★ ★ ★

At least we can dream, can't we?

Questions Use of Out-of-State Licenses

Why are there so many out-of-state licenses in the factory parking lots? Do people go back home and buy their licenses to get away from paying the $35 insurance fee? Doctor Shortage

The New York Times

On July 1 the existing shortage of physicians will be still more of a problem. On that date the new Medicare program will remove many of the financial barriers that now hinder millions of older Americans from receiving all the hospital and medical care they need.

At the same time, the Viet Nam war's drain on the availability of younger physicians will be felt more as the armed services begin enrolling the almost 2,500 medical men for whom the Defense Department recently issued a "special call."

★ ★ ★

Fear of measures that might further increase medical manpower shortages in this country has already become evident in Congress. Last month the House Rules Committee refused to schedule for floor action a bill to enact the measures President Johnson included in his international health program.

★ ★ ★

A desirable approach to meeting the doctor shortage would be prompt action on the part of the Nation's medical schools to speed up the training of their students.

★ ★ ★

One measure that would not detract from the quality of medical education would be to eliminate the traditional long summer vacations and to conduct classes, say, at least eleven months of the year. Such schedule would make a useful beginning in a period of rising demand for physicians.

Unborn Babies May Dream, Say Researchers on Sleep

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Unborn babies may dream. A major investigation into the role of dreaming was published recently by three psychiatric researchers.

Their central finding, and the basis of a new theory on the purpose of dreaming, is that newborn infants spend far more time in the dream state than adults.

There is also reason to believe the unborn child dreams or rather experiences some kind of rudimentary hallucinations in the womb.

In reporting their work, Dr. Howard P. Roffwarg of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, New York, Joseph N. Muzio of the New York State Psychiatric Institute, and Dr. William C. Dement of the Stanford University School of Medicine, Palo Alto, Calif. theorized that the dream state plays a central role in developing the brain before outside sensory experiences are available.

LIFE PREPARATION

In other words, it could prepare the central nervous system for the onslaught of sight, sense, taste, touch, smell coming with birth and maturation.

The fetus and infant probably do not dream as do adults in images since their visual centers are undeveloped. However, they could very well experience sensory hallucinations in a limited sense.

Evidence indicates that dream activity originates in the brain stem and travels upward to the higher cortical centers, therefore acting as a possible stimulus to brain development.

ALERT EYES

This has been shown to be a highly active physiological state with darting eyes, increased respiration and electrical discharge from the brain, approximately at times periods of alert wakefulness.

Dreaming does not necessarily occur always during REM sleep but the two have been very closely associated.

Newborns will spend on an average 50 per cent of their sleeping time in REM sleeps; adults 20 per cent to 25 per cent. Premature infants of seven or eight months, however, will spend almost 100 per cent of their time in the active stage of sleep.

Delinquents' Subculture 'Sociable'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Intelligent, warm, sociable and friendly — is this your idea of the juvenile delinquent?

Possibly not, but that's the finding of four psychologists who tested 338 boys committed to Green Hills School, Chehalis, Wash.

★ ★ ★

In a report to the Western Psychological Association convention, George Pierson and R. C. Taylor of Southern Oregon College, and John Moseley and Mark Olsen of the University of Washington said:

"Contrary to popular belief, the data shows the delinquent to be warm, sociable and friendly within his subculture and disadvantaged in verbal skills but on a par intellectually with the general populace."

Open Housing a Key to an Open Society

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG, JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

Two recent news articles focused on a major problem in American life—housing.

One was a report of a speech by Atty. Gen. Katzenbach who said: "We are not only failing to reduce racial ghettos, we are failing to keep them from expanding still further . . . housing freedom does not exist."

YOUNG

The other article was a feature story which reported an encouraging trend toward integrated neighborhoods.

★ ★ ★

About 1,000 such communities from coast to coast were discussed as examples of successful attempts to break down the barriers of bigotry in one of our most rigidly segregated areas of American life—housing.

★ ★ ★

These two articles highlight both the gravity of the problem and the promise of a brighter, more diverse future.

URBAN GHETTOS

Certainly, the picture presented of these integrated communities is far more appealing than the bleakness of our urban ghettos or the equally bleak sameness of our all-white suburbs.

The people in these integrated neighborhoods fully realize the advantages their children will have. One housewife was quoted as expressing relief that her children are not "growing up in a white ghetto."

She obviously realizes that such a sheltered upbringing can only harm her children's future development.

★ ★ ★

Exposure to different kinds of people, ideas and experiences is clearly the best training for adulthood in our fast-changing, increasingly complex world.

HAVE GAINED

In a material sense too, people in these neighborhoods have gained. Housing values for such areas have been increasing, contrary to the old myths about declining property values.

Study after study proves that such values are not affected by Negroes or other minorities moving into a neighborhood. On the contrary, they often rise.

But communities such as these, though ideal places in which to live, are essentially middle-class enclaves. The larger problem to which Katzenbach addressed himself — the spread of slum ghettos and the confinement of millions in substandard housing because of racial bigotry, remains.

★ ★ ★

To deal effectively with it requires determined efforts by private builders, voluntary social agencies, state, local, and federal government.

ENFORCEMENT

This full scale attack must include a massive building program, strict enforcement of local fair housing laws and other means.

And here the federal government must take the lead and set the pace for the other groups, just as the attractiveness of inetracial communities are setting the pace by their example.

I am hopeful that this session of Congress will pass a strong fair housing law which will make discrimination in the sale or rental of housing as illegal as similar discrimination in jobs and voting now is.

★ ★ ★

I am optimistic too, that the administration will redouble its efforts for an expanded rent-supplement program.

BETTER HOUSING

This is a program in which the government will place people now living in substandard dwellings into better housing, subsidizing any rentals above 25 per cent of their monthly salaries.

If this program were properly implemented with adequate funds, it could open up decent housing to many unable to afford it, and still cost far less than the huge impersonal housing projects which scar our cities with high-rise ghettos.

The Justice Department can also act vigorously against realtors who discriminate by prosecuting them under the antitrust laws, for the widespread agreements which restrain trade.

★ ★ ★

Let us not forget that part of the present problem stems from the long-standing refusal of government lending agencies to make housing loans to Negroes for the purchase of homes outside the ghetto.

A Junior Editors Quiz About FORESTRY

QUESTION: Why are foresters necessary?

ANSWER: We see so many things made of metal and plastic in our modern times, that we often forget what a large use is still made of wood and how important it is.

A great deal of good goes into modern houses, not only for such structural things as rafters, doors and siding, but also for interior paneling.

Most people enjoy the interesting grain of wood, which brings a rich look into a room. Wood has a very wide use for paper—the newspaper you are reading was probably printed on paper utilizing wood pulp in some way.

The only way we can get wood is to cut down trees but if we simply cut down trees we would soon exhaust the supply.

Modern forestry is done on tree farms, where scientific methods of growing new trees are used. This is where foresters come in.

They are experts, trained to care for our vitally useful forests in many different ways.

Some see to the replanting of areas burned off by fire or the development of new forest areas (upper left). Others supervise fire lookouts and fire fighters.

Some study the growth of trees scientifically (main picture). Some foresters work for private lumber companies, but many are hired each year by the U.S. Forest Service, often spoken of as forest rangers. Many forest rangers are at work supervising national parks.

Retiree Scorns Age to Sail Junk Across Pacific

HONG KONG (AP) — A 68-year-old retired police inspector from California plans to sail a 42-foot junk across the Pacific with a young Chinese cook as his only crew — unless he can find some others willing to risk the chancy crossing.

Arthur Treadwell, who spent 27 years on the Oakland police force before retiring in 1952, says he is making the voyage to "wake up the oldsters in the United States."

"I want to convince the elderly population of America that life does not end with retirement."

British-born Treadwell, who now lives in Menlo Park and has a son on the Alameda police force, said he plans to start the trip this week.

"I had planned for two more crewmen, an Australian and an American, but they dropped out and if I don't get anyone else, I'll take off next week with only Eddie Fong."

Former tourist guide Fong, 26, will be taking his first trip outside Hong Kong when the junk, the "Little Duck," heads for the open sea.

"You might say Fong is my protege. I'm teaching him everything I know about the sea," Treadwell said.

Treadwell, a onetime merchant seaman, says he is an expert navigator and has no fear of big seas or typhoons.

He recently took a two-month crash training course in navigation, "just to brush up." But he is not confident about his ability with a radio — "I know nothing about them."

Asked what will happen if the radio breaks down, Treadwell laughed and said:

"It will just be our bad luck. But we intend to stick to conventional shipping lanes along the route to Yokohama, Midway, Honolulu and San Francisco."

Treadwell has aboard four solar stills to convert salt water into drinking water — "just in case we run out of luck."

★ ★ ★

The nine-ton junk will, according to the skipper, be under sail all the way, though she carries a 36-horsepower engine.

"We hope to grab southwesterly and have a downhill ride all the way," he added.

He expects the junk, which cost $15,000, will make the 5,460-mile trip in three months.

Romney-Javits Team Viewed

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Republican 1968 presidential ambitions seem to involve New York State and Michigan with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., as the "swing man."

Michigan's Gov. Romney is the most-mentioned "moderate" Republican widely supported, especially since Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton has reassured Romney he has no interest in running for president in 1968.

Young moderates Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Gov. John Love of Colorado are said to be in Romney's corner.

To be taken seriously, Gov. Rockefeller must win a third term handsomely and that's where Sen. Javits' decision about seeking the governor's seat from his friend is important.

At the moment Javits is said to be reluctant to run despite the earlier encouragement from the pros impressed by his vote-getting ability.

Javits is on close terms with Romney. So is Leonard Hall of New York, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, formerly for Nixon.

★ ★ ★

Nixon, who has adopted New York State, would inherit the Goldwater bloc, but this isn't likely to be a sufficient asset in getting the presidential nomination come the next GOP National Convention.

POSSIBLE TICKET

Could the GOP ticket be Romney and Javits?

★ ★ ★

Not Friendly Say Some

Newcomers Criticize PTA

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You were very charitable to say that not all PTA's were like the one in Leavenworth, but I have found those that I attended to be exactly like "Had It" described.

ABBY

Unfriendly, clickish, and cool to newcomers. I have had experiences with three different PTA's so I am not jumping to a conclusion. If you don't have money or social standing, you haven't a chance.

I think PTA has become a farce. When my parents were in PTA not too many years ago, they met in the evenings so fathers and working mothers could attend.

Today they meet at 1 p.m. and the business is over by 1:30, after which they sit around drinking coffee, nibbling goodies, and gossiping. Someone had a wonderful idea in getting parents and teachers together, but it fell apart.

ALSO HAD IT IN GLENDALE

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for "HAD IT" from Leavenworth! She took the words right out of my mouth. I also have attended my last PTA meeting because I was treated like an outcast. I went to the meeting as a newcomer, hoping to make a friend, but I was frozen out.

They all stood around in their own tight little circles. For goodness sakes, don't use my name. I still have children in schools here. Sign me . . .

"HAD IT" FROM REDONDO BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I have also had it, but not with the PTA. I have had it with women like "HAD IT," who come to a meeting, fold their arms and wait for someone to come up to them and say, "Won't you please be one of us, we were just waiting for you?"

★ ★ ★

Why doesn't Mrs. Newcomer introduce herself with, "I am new here. What can I do to help?" Smelling salts would be in order for the handful of "doers" in the organization. And I assure you, Mrs. Newcomer would be more than welcome. At least, that's the way it is in Seattle.

HAD IT WITH "HAD ITS"

Not Proper Unless Pair Chaperoned

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter's boy friend has invited her to go with him to his college class reunion in another state. They will spend the weekend there. She's all excited about going.

Neither her father nor I think she should go but I promised her if you approved we would give our consent. —Marge K.

Dear Marge: As long as she is properly chaperoned in the place her boy friend has arranged for her to stay, she may certainly go. But I will back you and her father up if they are planning to go and stay in a hotel or motel alone.

QUESTION

Dear Mrs. Post: I would appreciate your helping me solve a business problem which has become increasingly perplexing each year. When writing a letter to a woman and there is no indication whether she should be addressed as "Miss" or "Mrs." would it be permissible to use the abbreviation "Ms" when faced with this dilemma? — Pauline.

★ ★ ★

Dear Pauline: If she signs her name Mary Smith without adding Mrs. John Smith in parenthesis, you may assume that she is referred to as Miss in the business world. The abbreviation "Ms" is not proper.

Knees are on view this year and this young lady knows it. Sunday was Child Health Day. A picture of health, the model wears the new printed gauze diapers by Curity, as does her fluffy companion. The diapers are made like a pillowcase, come in one size and are prefolded.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. I would like to have my nose fixed. I have a very large nose and I'm always being teased about it. Can you give me some information about this?

* * *

A. This is done very successfully and is considered one of the simpler plastic surgery operations. Make an appointment with a plastic surgeon and talk with him about it. You can locate a competent one by calling your local County Medical Society.

* * *

Q. In a recent column you mentioned paste polish for splitting nails. I had never heard of this. Please give me the brand name.

* * *

A. If any of my readers want this information, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

* * *

Q. I am 21 years old, five feet 4 and weigh 112 pounds. Everyone says I have a cute figure. I help this along with the most flattering styles available and other feminine tricks. I am supposed to look like my mother and my aunt and I do, except for one thing. They both have full and lovely busts while I all but disappear unless I am wearing one of those half bras with underpadding. Is there something I can do to give my bust as well as my ego a boost? I have tried many exercise trying to add at least three inches to my bust and nothing helps. Just call me Flatty Patty.

* * *

A. I wonder if you were impatient and didn't do the exercises for long enough. It takes quite a few months to see a difference. The bustline CAN be increased by building up the underlying chest muscles. Also you are about five to seven pounds underweight even if you have a small frame. A gain would increase the size of the busts.

* * *

Q. I am a girl almost 15 years old. I have a terrible time finding an exercise which will take inches off my unwanted hips without decreasing the size of my waist. Every exercise I have takes more off my waist than my hips. All my skirts, slacks and shorts have to be altered.

A. Do the following exercise faithfully. Sit on the floor with your hands on the floor at your sides and your legs straight. Now lift your legs until your body weight falls right over the largest part of your hips. Hold your legs in this position as you roll from side to side, catching yourself with your hands at the end of each roll.

What's Important When You Buy Luggage

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Are you about to shop for luggage?

The hundreds of styles and materials you'll find in the luggage department of any big store, or in any luggage store, will woo you right away from your old — and old-fashioned — bags. So for that very reason I'm going to say: Think before you buy.

You know how I feel about any kind of shopping — put your mind to it and get your money's worth.

First of all, how do you plan to use this new luggage — for car travel, plane, train, or bus? I'm not saying you have to have a specific type of bag for each type of travel. But some luggage is more convenient for one kind of trip, maybe, than for another.

If this summer's trip is a family affair, you will do well to plan in advance the amount of clothing and incidentals you'll have to carry. If you're a honeymoon couple — then shoot the works for glamour, provided you also get bags that will last as long as the honeymoon!

NOT TOO HEAVY

Let's say you're going to travel by car. Your luggage should be easy to put in and take out of the car. And it shouldn't be too heavy or clumsy for you to carry in and out of motels. Since your bags won't be sharing storage space with other people's bags, you can settle for types that are adequate for space but not necessarily the last word in strong construction.

If you're going by air, you'll want bags constructed sturdy enough to take the wear and tear that is inevitable at major air terminals. But there's also this welcome new regulation by the major airlines: two checked bags whose length, width and height added together total no more than 62 inches for one, and no more than 55 inches for the other, will be the deciding factor in free luggage allowance.

As you know, your luggage used to be judged according to weight. But now size is what counts — even if you load the bags with bricks.

If you're interested in luggage strictly from a construction point of view, you should keep these types in mind: Hard-side construction bags with a rigid molded plastic case, strengthened with magnesium frames, covered with a synthetic rubber material which wears well and can absorb considerable punishment.

Hard-side leather or leather-looking vinyl with a wood frame panel. Soft-side construction made of vinyl, fabric or a combination of both, stretched over a lightweight metal frame.

★ ★ ★

Some other things you'll want to know when you spend your money: Hard-side constructed luggage has gained a reputation for durability — but it has little give and can crush tightly-packed garments. Soft-side luggage, as the words imply, is more flexible. The frame is a skeleton rather than a box.

This type of luggage is available in a variety of colors, textures, and designs. But because of its soft construction, it can bend, warp or crack.

Soft-construction bags having no frames offer little protection to the garments in the bag — unless the covering is sturdy.

★ ★ ★

Many attractive and expensive cloth luggage pieces — tapestries, needlepoint, cut velvet — offer high fashion. But unless the covering has a "finish" to withstand water and soil, its use will be short-lived.

★ ★ ★

(You can get Mary Feeley's booklet, "Make Every Dollar Count," by sending $1 to Dollar Book in care of The Pontiac Press.)

The engagement is announced of Susan Orvis, daughter of Mrs. John E. Orvis of Muskingum Road and the late Mr. Orvis, to Arthur Jeremiah St. Peter, son of Mrs. Patricia Tate of Arapahoe Street and Arthur St. Peter of Detroit. A July 23 wedding-date is set.

Railroad Ticking Favored Fabric

"Railroad ticking" is a new term for a cotton fabric that's been around for a long time—riding the rails, in fact, as a trainman's uniform.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Railroad ticking, also called railroad-striped cotton, is used for bell-bottom pants, Western-cut jackets, swim suits, and beach cover ups, as well as crisp-looking summer dresses.

Betty Ann Crawford, daughter of the Emil Jaworskis of Stanley Avenue, was graduated cum laude with a bachelor of arts degree Saturday from the University of Detroit. A journalism and social science major with a minor in philosophy, she has been awarded a scholarship for graduate study in journalism at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis.

Virla Lee Landon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Landon, Voorheis Road, has been graduated from Western Michigan University with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education. She will teach in the Kalamazoo Public School System in the fall.

Zontians Have Breakfast

Members of the Zonta Club of Pontiac heard an entirely different concept of Viet Nam at their annual May breakfast Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Speaking at Devon Gables, was Dr. Alice E. Palmer of Detroit, who spent two years in Saigon and is currently medical consultant for the Far East Health branch of the Agency for International Development, U. S. Department of State.

★ ★ ★

The people in southern Viet Nam are friendly toward the United States and are most concerned about our pulling out and leaving them to the Communists.

COMMON PROBLEMS

There are problems there, similar to problems all over the world — poverty, race, hygiene among others. TB is the number one disease but it will not be eradicated until living conditions are improved.

★ ★ ★

With the help of the United States a water system has now been constructed in Saigon and a sewer system is next.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Palmer showed slides and passed around many articles from Saigon.

She praised the exquisite handwork of the Vietnamese. Although the French no longer rule the country, Parisian boutique shops still stock sweaters and clothing made by the Vietnamese women.

INITIATED

Verna Overend and Mrs. Charles Harmon were initiated as new members of the group by Mrs. Edna Withrow of Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Evelyn Fay of Flint installed new officers: Mrs. Beecher Fawcett, president; Charlotte McManus and Mrs. C. J. Odell, vice presidents; Mrs. Thomas Fitzpatrick and Mrs. H. T. Jackson, secretaries; and Margaret Stark, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Directors are Mrs. Melvin Correll, Mrs. Dimitri LaZaroff, Mrs. Hiram Smith, Mrs. Iva O'Dell, Mrs. Herman Stenbuck and Mrs. Manny Zalants.

Mrs. Herman Dickstein presided as toastmistress. Cochairman for the event were Miss McManus and Mrs. Howard Brooks.

Take Care Lip Colors Don't Clash

If you apply all your lipstick shades with one brush, as many women often do, be sure it is free from one lipstick shade before applying another, says a noted beauty authority.

★ ★ ★

Although many lipstick colors and finishes are beautifully blended and mixed together, others may not create a shade you desire.

★ ★ ★

For instance, if you have previously used a definite orange shade and decide to use one with rose overtones, the mixture you create in your brush may be grayed.

★ ★ ★

Or, if you have used a lovely red and wish to wear a soft honey tone, the paler tint will be overly influenced by the red left in the brush. To insure the application of the color you desire, stroke your brush across a cleansing tissue until it is lipstick free, or after applying each shade.

★ ★ ★

Reserve the freedom of mixing colors when you intentionally plan to create a new color effect. A bright lipstick shade may be toned down with one of the soft pastels by adding brush strokes of the paler tint.

★ ★ ★

So your brush will not continue to hold unwanted lipstick color in its base, give it an occasional thorough cleansing by swishing the entire tip through a small amount of cleansing solvent and allowing to dry.

Assuming Office for Figure Club

Assuming new official duties on Thursday for the Fashion Your Figure Club will be Mrs. J. R. Harris as president.

Others who will begin new terms at the 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Adah Shelly Library are Mrs. John Felts, Mary Trask, Mrs. Raymond Gartly, Mrs. Archie Woods, Mrs. Clarence Edwards.

Mrs. Robert Tucker, Mrs. Joseph Lynch, and Mrs. Richard Stevenson.

Easy to Prepare

Here is an easy-to-make cosmetic base that is also an excellent skin tonic.

Pour eight ounces of good quality witch hazel into a bottle or stoppered jar. Add a half-teaspoon of boric acid and a half-teaspoon of glycerin. Shake well before each use. Spread the solution lightly over the face and allow it to dry; takes only a moment. It tones the skin; makes a satiny powder base.

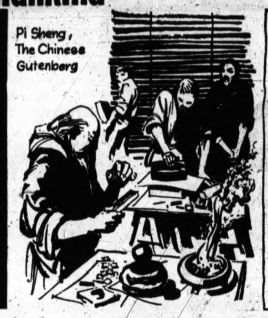
(13) China Crystallizes

by Don Oakley and John Lane

The Imperial Examinations—China's Intellectual Straightjacket



The literati will only walk in the ways trodden by their ancestors. If they are offered safer, more useful and more convenient ways, they will not condescend to take a single step to test them.

—Wang An-shih

The 300-year Sung dynasty 960-1279) has been called the outstanding example in Chinese history of Confucianist ideals in practice.

A refurbished Confucianism, called Neo-Confucianism and tinged with ideas borrowed from Buddhism and Taoism, was firmly entrenched as the national philosophy-religion.

Confucian learning was the core and substance of the civil service examinations, the one road to public employment or acclaim.

China paid a high price, however, for what with all its faults was probably the best system any people had ever yet devised for governing themselves.

The emphasis upon skill in literary composition and giving the orthodox answers rewarded conformity and discouraged originality.

REORGANIZATION MOVE

A move to reorganize the imperial examinations to test candidates' practical knowledge was made in the 11th century by a prime minister named Wang An-shih.

Like the Socialist reformer Wang Mang, 1,000 years before him, he also attempted to give the state a monopoly over commerce, improve the tax structure, make loans to farmers and strengthen the nation's declining military power.

Unfortunately, his reforms did not outlive the emperor who sponsored them.

In culture, the Sung was another brilliant, if not original, era, particularly in landscape painting.

It also saw the invention of movable type for printing by one Pi Sheng, who carved type out of clay 400 years before Gutenberg.

But the Sung was as weak militarily as it was strong culturally.

Taxes grew heavy under the double burden of an inflated bureaucracy and invasions by the eternal barbarians of the north, who more and more often were bought off rather than fought off.

Even a new invention, the "fire cannon" — a primitive rocket — was not enough to keep a large part of China proper from being occupied by the barbarians throughout the Sung.

In the late 12th century, a new scourge arose on the arid plains of Mongolia — Genghis Khan, whose undefeatable hordes swept all before them from northern China to Russia to India to Persia to Europe itself.

It was the great khan's grandson, Kublai, who finally vanquished the last of the unwar-like Sung.

By 1279, and for the first time in history, all of China was under foreign rule.

Underprivileged Child Has Complex Problems

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.

Solving the problems of underprivileged children is far more complex than was once thought.

School performance is not the only area in which children from poverty areas lag behind their more fortunate classmates. The complex nature of their handicaps is evident from a study of children involved in the Head Start Project during the summer of 1965.

DR. NASON

Dr. Julius Richmond, the program's national director, reports that more than 35 per cent of the 5,000 preschool children who received medical examinations last summer as a part of the project had health problems not previously recognized. Visual defects and hearing deficiencies were among the most usual handicaps uncovered.

★ ★ ★

In a California joint study of students' health problems and school performances directed by Dr. B. Otis Cobb, involving school age as well as preschool children, poor school performance was found to be associated with such health problems as frequent or regular constipation, diarrhea, the taking of laxatives regularly, bed wetting and symptoms associated with digestion.

Lack of parental attention and interest in the child's health problems also were found to be factors. Children were found to be poorer students if they did not have a family doctor or dentist or had not seen a doctor or a dentist for more than two years.

In many cases, lack of parental interest in the child's school success was also apparent. These are real barriers.

A child, to succeed, needs first of all to feel that the adults in his life think he can succeed, want him to succeed and encourage him to succeed. He must feel that someone really cares.

MULTIPLE HANDICAPS

As in past studies, no one handicap could be identified as the primary cause of poor school performance. No matter what single handicap was considered, there were always some who succeeded well despite it.

Lack of success was almost certain when handicaps appeared in combinations of two or more.

Since it is difficult to attack simultaneously several problem areas in a child's life, health may be a good area in which to begin, especially with the younger children.

★ ★ ★

do you have a fitting problem?

Well, no one's perfect. But if your physique is less than Greek, come to HHS. We've got a magic non-diet formula for shaping you up, whatever shape you're in. It's called tailoring . . . and all it requires is for you to stand still a moment. It begins with highly trained fitters who know exactly what to do to make you look slimmer if you're stout, taller if you're short, smoother if you're bumpy, and evened-up if you're lopsided. Then we follow through with alterations made by craftsmen working in one of the most modern, beautifully equipped tailoring shops just about anywhere. (In fact, it's such a remarkable facility that people come from all over the country to see it.) This new tailoring shop can accommodate two hundred tailors, and handle a thousand garments a day; yet each tailoring operation is performed by a single-job expert—to make sure that every stitch of every alteration is exactly right. ∿ But perfect fit isn't just a matter of skillful alterations. It begins with the original product—and that's why we carry clothing by the country's most knowledgeable makers. These are the makers who know how to translate a perfect size 40-regular into stout sizes, short sizes, tall sizes, and all the other sizes—and still retain the trim, well-tailored look of the original. Then, to make sure we can fit you without delays, we carry just about every size in the book . . . right in stock. And as a fitting close to fitting clothes, we'll do all the sizing and shaping your clothing needs to give it a custom-tailored look, at no additional charge.

Milling Students Gather On Galveston Beach

Scores Arrested in Texas 'Student Fling'

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI)—Unruly students attacked two police cars with a barrage of beer cans last night in what harassed police called "one last fling" ending a weekend of rioting on Galveston beaches.

★ ★ ★

Police arrested hundreds of students, some from as far away as Kansas. Two persons were shot and at least a dozen other injuries were reported.

Police estimated as many as 20,000 students crowded onto this island city's beaches in what used to be called "Splash Days," the official start of the swimming season.

"Splash Days" was abolished as an official event after student riots of 1961 but students usually come anyway.

Two brothers checking into a motel were wounded with a pellet gun but were released after a few hours in a hospital.

SUITS TORN OFF

Two coeds had their bathing suits torn off by the beer-gulping male students Saturday and screams from victims of similar mischief brought screaming police cruisers yesterday.

No one was injured and police, aided by Texas liquor control officers, sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers, finally drove the students back and blocked auto ramps leading to the beach.

"It's just a rabble-rousing drunken element that causes all this," said Police Chief William J. Burns.

City Workers Making Use of Unionism

News Analysis

By L. GARY THORNE

Employe-employer relations on the hilltop seat of Pontiac municipal government are due to change.

The machinery is already in motion.

No stranger to industrialized Pontiac, the labor or trade union has become a recognized vehicle for expression by those on the city's tax - supported payroll.

Employe groups are directing their energies more toward wages, hours, working conditions and provisions of a written contract.

State legislation last year liberalized terms of the Hutchinson Act, paving the way for a stronger brand of unionism for public employes.

★ ★ ★

The Hutchinson Act prohibited striking by public employes and made firing and loss of seniority mandatory penalties for any employe taking such action.

NOW OPTIONAL

Under the old act, the local governing body had no choice. Under the new act, it has the entire burden of decision.

Since passage of the amended legislation:

• A tentative agreement covering nonwage items has been negotiated with the Pontiac Firefighters Association (PFA). It with the Pontiac Police Officers still is to be ratified by the City Association (PPOA) after a rep-Commission. resentative election.

• Negotiations have begun • The Pontiac Municipal Employes Association has filed petition for an election to select a bargaining agent for salaried employes.

• A letter has been sent to the City Commission asking that Local 100 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, be designated exclusive bargaining agent for all city employes, excluding fire and policemen.

• Informational picketing was carried out during the PFA negotiations by off-duty PFA members.

With taxpayers providing the dollars, directly or indirectly, the collective bargaining of public employes necessarily differs from that of industry.

Final approval of contract terms rests with the seven-member Ctiy Commisison which, naturally, must answer to the voting public.

Meantime, City Manager Joseph A. Warren is cast as the main "bargainer" or negotiator for City Hall.

Current indications are that Warren will have four groups—PFA, PPOA, PMEA and Local 100 — to deal with across the negotiating table.

8 Wounded in Clashes

Director of Bosch Party Slain

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A director of leftist presidential candidate Juan Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party (PRD) was killed yesterday and eight other persons wounded in separate clashes between political factions of this island nation.

Reports reaching here said Hermagenef Vasquez Martinez died from machete wounds in one of two fights that erupted in small towns in the northeastern section of the country.

Both battles involved clashes between the supporters of moderate presidential candidate Joaquin Balaguer and Bosch, both of whom are former Dominican presidents.

It was the first open political violence since the presidential campaigns opened two months ago.

According to the reports, both clashes occurred shortly before sundown yesterday.

MOST SERIOUS

The most serious one took place in Canca la Reina near Santiago when a group of Balaguer supporters began stoning a PRD motorcade.

Another four persons were wounded in a fray in a small town near Moca, between members of the Revolutionary Social Christian party, which supports Bosch, and Balaguer supporters.

Primaries Set in Six States Tuesday

By The Associated Press

The 1966 elections drama begins Tuesday with primaries in six states, and the opening scene is dominated by a figure who isn't officially in the cast — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

* * *

In addition to Alabama, states with primaries Tuesday are Florida, Indiana, New Mexico, Ohio and Oklahoma.

Governorships are up in all the states except Indiana. Two of the six — Alabama and Oklahoma — have contests over nominations for the Senate.

In Ohio, Robert Taft Jr., son of the late former Republican Senate leader and grandson of President William Howard Taft, is trying for a political comeback by seeking a GOP nomination for Congress.

* * *

He has opposition in the primary from William E. Flax, a Cincinnati attorney and political novice. But political analysts expect Taft will have no difficulty in defeating Flax.

Democratic Gov. Haydon Burns of Florida has primary opposition from two men he defeated two years ago — Mayor Robert King High of Miami and Scott Kelly, a former state senator from Lakeland. A fourth candidate, Sam Foor, publishes a political news letter.

BRIEF RUNDOWN

ALABAMA — In addition to the gubernatorial nomination, Democrats will vote o na nomination for senator. Sen. John J. Sparkman is being challenged by Mrs. Frank R. Stewart, widow of a former state school superintendent; Frank E. Dixon, 32, a Huntsville engineer, and John G. Crommelin, a former naval officer and often an unsuccessful candidate for office. Republicans will nominate their candidates for governor and senator at a July 29 convention.

FLORIDA — Claude Kirk of Jacksonville and Richard Mudrew of Melbourne are contending for the Republican nomination for governor.

OHIO — Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes has opposition in the primary from William L. White, a Mount Vernon businessman, but is expected to have no difficulty winning renomination. Candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor are Henry H. Mellwain, a Cincinnati attorney, and Frazier Reams Jr., a Toledo attorney.

INDIANA — With only nominations for Congress in the national picture, interest centers on the 10th District where two present Republican House members — Reps. Ralph Harvey and Richard L. Roudebush — were thrown against each other by redistricting.

* * *

NEW MEXICO — T. E. Lusk, party leader in the State Senate, and John Burroughs, a former governor, are fighting for the Democratic nomination for governor. Incumbent Democratic Gov. Jack M. Campbell is ineligible by state law for reelection. David Cargo and Clifford Hawley, both state representatives, are seeking the Republican nomination.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy, mother of the late president, took part yesterday in ground-breaking ceremonies for a center for mental retardation and human development named in her honor.

Mrs. Kennedy, 75, said that as a mother of a mentally retarded child she was thinking "of the millions of children who will come here in future years filled with high hopes and great expectations."

Wielding shovels for the ground-breaking were Mrs. Kennedy; her son, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.; and Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of Yeshiva University.

Protest Singer Visits East, West Berlin

She sang Tuesday before television cameras and a studio audience in Communist-ruled East Berlin, and did a show Saturday night in West Berlin.

Both times she was vigorously applauded.

At a news conference in East Germany, she said it was the first time she wasn't asked the question: "Don't you know if the Americans pull out of Viet Nam the Communists will take over?"

Her comment drew laughs.

'Honor' Is Well-Protected

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Being an exceptionally pretty girl, Honor Blackman has naturally spent a lot of time defending her first name.

WEST

She has, in fact, become so expert at blocking passes, that she has written a book about it.

A blurb on the dust jacket describes Miss Blackman, who played the role of Pussy Galore in one of the James Bond movies, as "striking" actress. That she is. And more.

As one peruses the contents of the volume, one becomes aware that Miss Blackman is also a kicking, kneeing, "swivel wristlocking," "reverse armlink throwing" actress.

What she does in her "Book of Self-Defense" is combine certain elements of judo, jujitsu and karate with a few little tricks she has picked up through experience.

It is primarily intended to serve as a guide for other girls who, having gone to a great deal of trouble to make themselves alluring, may want to mitigate the consequences. But I think it has merits far beyond that.

"Since I took up judo, I find that I feel far better equipped for any discussions with men," Miss Blackman writes.

A CONTRIBUTION

This, I submit, makes the book a valuable contribution not only to girls in need of protection but to literature and to society as a whole.

Books on self-defense are fairly common, but I believe she is the first author to recommend judo as a means of reviving the dying art of conversation.

If the mastery of judo and karate has made Miss Blackman more eloquent and articulate, it behooves us all to bring these skills out of the gymnasium and into the drawing room.

* * *

An indication of their persuasive powers can be seen in some of the book's illustrations. In one sequence Miss Blackman is shown on the beach in a bikini.

Two muscular males approach her, presumably with the intent of discussing the prospects of Great Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

With a karate kick to the abdomen of one and a judo twist to the arm of the other, Miss Blackman sends them both sprawling in the sand.

Reward Fund Hits $2,850

Reward money in the killing of Carlaroy W. Henry 18 days ago has risen to $2,850, according to Detective Sgt. John A. DePauw of the Pontiac police.

DePauw said additional sums of $500 and $200 were posted by the Great Lakes Insurance Co. of Detroit and a Teamsters local based in Jackson.

Henry, 29-year-old truck driver from Caro, died early April 15, after being shot in the chest by an assailant who also took his wallet.

The shooting took place some time between 2:19 and 2:30 a.m. in a parking lot adjacent to the Jet Bar and Grill, 716 Woodward.

Police have been stymied in the case by a lack of witnesses to the shooting and only a small scattering of evidence, including a 22-caliber long-rifle slug removed from the victim's body and an ammunition clip found in a nearby field.

Reward money totaling $2,150 had previously been posted by Central Transport Co., Henry's employer, and Teamster Local 614 of Pontiac.

Russians Gambling on Aid to Syria

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Considering the short life expectancy of many Mideastern regimes, diplomats in London are wondering why the Soviets risked an estimated $150 million in brand new aid to Syria.

NEWSOM

Generally, it is considered a political gamble in an attempt to strengthen the only Mideastern regime that not only has legalized the Communist party but given it a voice in government.

Most of the money will go for a new dam on the Euphrates River — a project that will keep Soviet specialists in Syria for years, no matter who runs the country.

OLD VS. NEW — Nearly nine months after they were announced, the fight just has begun to implement Russia's new economic reforms, with liberal economists pushing and bureaucrats stone-walling.

★ ★ ★

The tip-off — two articles recently published by Prof. Yevsei Liberman, father of the reforms, who said the "argument is still continuing," and by the economist Lev Leontyev, giving the reforms a big propaganda push.

WELCOME De GAULLE—Look for increasing praise in the Soviet press and by Soviet officials for President Charles de Gaulle's policies — especially toward NATO.

Whatever the outcome of this proposal, the Kremlin is expected to give de Gaulle the biggest reception seen in Moscow in years.

VIET NAM ELECTIONS — French sources remain skeptical that planned elections in South Viet Nam ever will take place.

But if they do, then they expect them to be scheduled for around Aug. 15.

A draft electoral law is likely to be adopted May 20 and enacted May 30, according to these reports.

STRIKE PRESSURES — French government employes and workers in state-run industries plan another walkout May 17 — the fourth such "wave" in the current series of strikes against government's refusal to boost wages more than 4.5 per cent this year.

LBJ Votes Absentee

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President and Mrs. Johnson have sent absentee ballots for the May 7 Texas Democratic primary election, said Mrs. Jeffy B. Furber, county clerk.

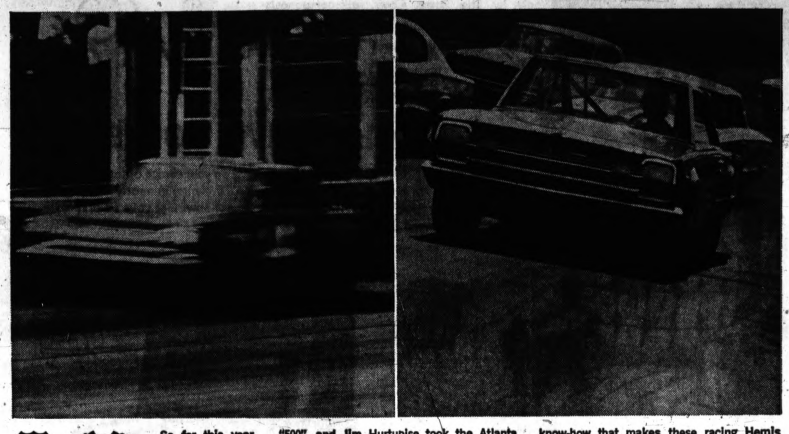
PLYMOUTH TAKES 2 MORE MAJOR STOCK CAR RACES, IN TWO DAYS!

Richard Petty's first in the Rebel "400" and Norm Nelson's victory in the Yankee "300" add two back-to-back wins to Plymouth's string of stock car triumphs.



So far this year, Hemi-powered Plymouth Belvederes have taken the four major NASCAR races. In addition to the Rebel "400" win, a Hemi Belvedere driven by Richard Petty was first in the Daytona "500", Paul Goldsmith took his Plymouth to a first in the Peach Blossom "500", and Jim Hurtubise took the Atlanta "500" in his Plymouth Belvedere. And winning the Yankee "300" proves that Plymouth's off to the same kind of running that took them to last year's USAC Championship.

Of course you can't buy a racing Plymouth like the specially modified cars that won these grueling races. But the same engineering know-how that makes these racing Hemis great goes into every '66 Plymouth you can buy at your Plymouth Dealer's. Test-drive one of them . . . Belvedere, Fury, Valiant or Barracuda, see what we mean by great engineering. See why Plymouth sales have more than doubled in the past three years. Check out a winner at your Plymouth Dealer's.

Johnson Plays Host to Wounded GIs

AP Photofax

A ROMP FOR COURTENAY — President Johnson reaches out to intercept little Courtenay Valenti, one of his favorites, as she romps yesterday in the flower garden at the White House. The President was conducting a tour for a group of wounded servicemen, injured in Viet Nam, who are patients at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the troops at his elbow, the commander in chief picked up his "favorite little girlfriend" and confidently asked, "Who do you love?"

But Sunday was Courtenay's day to be fickle. Without hesitation she replied: "I love Pat," looking over the President's shoulder to Patrick J. Nugent, Johnson's future son-in-law.

The shift in affections by the young daughter of presidential assistant Jack Valenti touched off a round of laughter in Johnson's office in which the President, his daughter Luci—who will become Nugent's bride in August, and Nugent joined. It also drew laughs from the troops—13 wounded Viet Nam veterans who were getting a special tour of the White House at the time.

ON SIDEWALK

Instead, they got:

—A stroll through the White House rose garden with the President and the Johnson family's four dogs.

LUCI, NUGENT

—A tour of the rest of the White House with Luci and Nugent serving as guides.

—A pat on the back from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

—And presidential medallions and photographs as souveniers.

"It was all so fantastic, so utterly impromptu," said Col. Edward J. Costello, chief of information activities at Walter Reed Army Hospital who was escorting the group of about 30 veterans on a weekend tour of Washington.

About half the soldiers decided to take up posts outside the church, Costello said, while the other half slept late in their hotel rooms across the street from the church.

As Johnson walked down the church steps, he shook hands with the soldiers and stopped to talk with Pfc. William Klotz of Pittsburgh, Pa., who lost a foot in Viet Nam. The President was about to enter his limousine when he returned to Klotz and asked whether he and the other veterans would like to visit the White House.

About half the soldiers were in sport clothes. They hurried back to their hotel rooms to change into their uniforms. After arousing a few of their drowsy buddies, they headed for the White House in a sightseeing bus.

"We were actually keeping the President waiting—he was waiting in the rose garden," Costello said.

Secretary and Mrs. McNamara were at the White House for lunch with the President. But lunch was delayed while the President, the McNamaras, Luci and Nugent played hosts.

Johnson showed the group the gardens, his office and the first floor of the White House, handed out the small medallions and posed for pictures with the soldiers. Then he turned the veterans over to Luci, Nugent and a guard for the rest of the tour, telling the group: "Needless to say, we are proud of you and what you have done for your country."

Iowa Band Not Music to the Ears of Russian Critic

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet critic today asked why U. S. cultural officials bothered to send the University of Iowa symphony band on a European concert tour that included the Soviet Union.

The critic said the Iowa group was not as good as the group of amateur musicians from the University of Michigan which toured the Soviet Union some years ago.

"Their way of playing," the critic said of the Iowa band, "it is monotonous and sometimes clumsy to some extent."

Clear Caffeine in Heart Study

By Science Service

LONDON — Heart patients who drink daily cups of coffee show increased cholesterol levels, but tea drinkers among them do not.

This would seem to exonerate caffeine as the culprit, a group of Canadian researchers report, inasmuch as both beverages contain a like amount.

Drinks made from ground coffee and from tea leaves each contain 100 to 150 milligrams of caffeine.

Coffee appears to contain a substance that elevates blood fats in susceptible persons, and such people may be liable to coronary heart disease, the scientists conclude.

The findings, published in London, are based on a study of 125 coronary patients, 25 each in the 40s, 50s, 60s, 70s and 80s. Healthy men from the same population were matched by age as controls.

DISEASE FREE

All were up and about at home, on no special diet and free of any other significant disease.

They had survived myocardial infarction, or damage to the heart muscle, for at least three months.

No other foods or fluids had any apparent relation to glood cholesterol levels except coffee.

Claymore Mine—Simple but Terrible

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BIEN HOA, Viet Nam — The Claymore mine is a football-sized container of sharp steel fragments which, when detonated, sends its mutilation over an area the size of Yankee Stadium.

They use it not so much to murder men as to murder man's morale.

No one is safe from its effects here. A blast takes a toll not only at ground zero but throughout the country, wherever GIs read or hear of the latest incidents.

"Heard about the Claymores at Bien Hoa?" a man will ask another.

"Again?" his buddy will answer.

"Gof, where'd it happen?"

★ ★ ★

"Cripes, where next?"

"I wish I knew, pal."

ELECTRIC MINE

The mines are normally exploded by electrical impluse. A simple process . . . two attached wires, strung as much as a thousand yards from the bomb, are stripped of insulation and touched together.

It is so lacking in complexity, in fact, that only a couple of peabrained guerrillas can and do upset the routine of entire U. S. units.

An example occurred here the other day. Sgt. George Thomas was bringing 10 members of an ambush patrol back to base after an all-night stay in the thicket surrounding the 173rd Airborne Brigade. The men were weary, dirty and close to home—just outside the gates in fact.

★ ★ ★

Three Claymores at once. The boom was audible miles away.

"We had three men wounded," Thomas said afterward.

"Any dead?" he was asked.

"No, we were spread away from the blast."

"How far?"

"I was 300 meters from it, myself."

★ ★ ★

"You were safe then?"

"Relatively. I only took two fragments."

"Did you see anyone?"

"No, we figured they were way back in the brush."

"How many do you think?"

"Maybe two or three."

Only two or three. But the havoc spread through the entire camp. First, the noise woke up everyone and set them on edge for the day. Second, a massive search was instigated to hunt the trio down.

Two platoon-sized patrols went one way. Several helicopters another. A squad with a police dog another. And reinforced elements still another.

Before it was over a couple of hundred men were trying to box in three Vietnamese bad guys in an area full of Vietnamese good guys. It was all to no avail.

GIVES REPORT

One platoon leader was asked if he saw anything.

"Nope," he answered.

"What if you had?"

"If they had guns, I'd a shot them."

"And if they had stashed their guns?"

"Well, then I don't know. That's always the problem here."

Indeed it is. The enemy and the ally look alike. And many are the ally by day and the enemy by night. The Bien Hoa base, for instance, has thousands of Vietnamese laborers and nearby rubber plantations have hundreds more.

Who is to know one from the other?

Who is to guess where and who will strike next?

Claymores and booby traps and sniper fire. In the city, in the country, at restaurants and railroads, by buildings and bridges.

★ ★ ★

'Work Force' Commended on Cleanup

"A dandy display of civic mindedness," was the comment of Clyde Christian, head of the Pontiac Department of Public Works.

★ ★ ★

Christian was commenting on a more than four-hour cleanup Saturday of a portion of Featherstone by a group of children and adults from the Herrington Hills area.

The right-of-way along Featherstone, Opdyke to East Boulevard, was cleared of trash and other litter by 41 youngsters and seven adults.

The DPW furnished two men and trucks for the cleanup effort.

Calcutta Herds No Exception

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — The other day, the residents of an American city — Hialeah, Fla., —got quite excited when some cattle broke loose and went sight-seeing down the city streets.

★ ★ ★

But Calcutta, the dangers and frustrations of herds of cattle running down the streets is the rule, rather than the exception.

Goats, sheep, cows and water buffalo are driven through this city's congested streets daily, posing a threat to human limb and an obstacle to traffic.

In addition to the herds, being taken to dairy barns or slaughter houses, there are countless sacred Brahma cows which know no owner and wander aimlessly through the streets seeking morsels of food.

★ ★ ★

REOPEN SHOPS

But the courts issued an injunction against the increase, the meat shops reopened, and the herdsmen again pushed their animals through the streets.

Slaughter fees, incidentally, are relatively low — 60 cents for a cow, and 17 cents for a goat or sheep.

So, once again the cattle are knocking down unwary pedestrians and blocking busy intersections, regardless of the traffic lights.

In addition to the herds being driven through the city to slaughter, goat herders drive their animals door-to-door, peddling fresh milk.

Many Indians do not trust bottled or other prepared products, suspecting it may be adulterated or spoiled. Therefore, they insist that a goat be milked at their door.

Canadiens Even Cup Series at 2-2

AP Photos

HOW(E) TO STOP A CANADIEN—Gordie Howe (9) of the Red Wings halts break-in attempt by Montreal's Jim Roberts while the visiting Canadiens were shorthanded in the first period Sunday at Detroit. The Wings' star, however, drew a penalty for elbowing on the play. Substitute goalie Hank Bassen (30), who was a star despite Montreal's 2-1 series-squaring win, watches the action.

Wings' Relief Man Shines in Setback

DETROIT (AP) — The star took a day off, and the understudy stepped into the spotlight Sunday when Detroit Red Wings goalie Roger Crozier was injured in the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs.

★ ★ ★

OUT EARLY

Both Detroit coach Sid Abel and Montreal coach Toe Blake praised Bassen, who was credited with 25 saves after Crozier went out early in the first period with a sprained knee and twisted ankle.

★ ★ ★

Does the Canadiens victory, which evened the best - of - seven series 2-2, give the Montreal team a psychological advantage because of the two - game winning streak? The teams meet again Tuesday in Montreal.

★ ★ ★

"There's no use saying home ice will be beneficial in this series," Blake said with a grin, "We've had a hard time winning here all year."

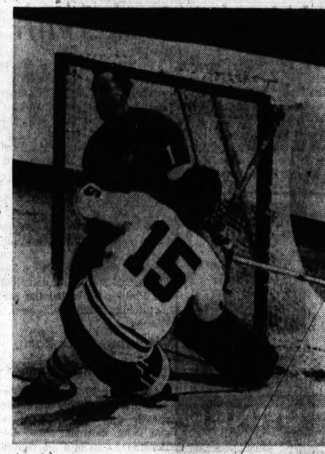
"This doesn't place us at a psychological disadvantage. In fact, since we won two at Montreal and lost two here, maybe it gives us an advantage to get out of here."



AP Photofax

Crozier Injured as Red Wings Take 2-1 Loss

Backstrom Collects Winning Goal; Fifth Game Tomorrow

DETROIT (AP) — That 10-day rest the Montreal Canadiens had between the conclusion of their Stanley Cup semifinal series with Toronto and the start of the finals against Detroit just might prove to be the deciding factor in this year's series.

★ ★ ★

The Canadiens looked flat—and some observers felt the reason was the long layoff—in the first two games in Montreal but outskated and outhustled the Red Wings in Detroit and came back to even the best - of - seven series at two games each.

Ralph Backstrom's goal with less than seven minutes remaining carried the Canadiens to a 2-1 victory Sunday and back into the favorite's role.

SUBSTITUTE

The Red Wings were not sure whether or not Crozier would be available for the fifth game in Montreal Tuesday night.

"We'll just have to wait and see how he feels Monday," Manager-Coach Sid Abel said.

Bassen, who appeared in 11 regular season games and was playing only his fifth playoff game, stopped everything the Canadiens shot at him and could not be faulted for the two goals.

★ ★ ★

Jean Beliveau tied the score when he deflected J.C. Tremblay's shot on a power play in the final minute of the second period and Backstrom capped a well-played three - man rush with Dick Duff and Jim Roberts.

"Those two goals would have beaten anybody," Montreal Coach Toe Blake said.

"We're still not playing our best game but I think we are beginning to get our skating back in line," Blake added.

"That goal deflected off one of our players before it went into the net. I don't think we could have played any better than we did. It was a tough hockey game, and we lost it on breaks."

The Canadiens' victory means the series will go at least six games. The sixth game will be played in Detroit Thursday.

A seventh and deciding game, if necessary, will be played in Montreal. The Canadiens have scheduled it for Saturday night but may move it to Sunday afternoon to take advantage of the television coverage again.

Baltimore Sweeps Punchless Tigers

Birds Win, 4-1, in Sunday Tilt

Victory Keeps Orioles in First Place

DETROIT (AP) — The punchless Detroit Tigers had a day off Monday after leaving 26 base runners stranded while losing a three - game weekend series to the American League leading Baltimore Orioles.

Detroit outhit the Orioles in all three games but never got a sustained offense going.

The Tigers had Steve Barber of the Orioles in trouble most of Sunday afternoon but, with relief help from Dick Hall, he hung on to notch a 4-1 win and a sweep of the series.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore ran its winning streak to 10, thus equalling the winning streak with which the Cleveland Indians opened the AL campaign.

Joe Sparma, first of four Tiger pitchers, tangled with Barber in a scoreless duel for three innings before he ran into home run trouble.

Brooks Robinson singled to set the stage for a two-run blast by Boog Powell. It was Powell's second hime run of the season, both of them coming in the Detroit series.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore struck again in the fifth for two more runs to run the score to 4-0. The big wallop was a bases loaded single by Brooks Robinson after singles by Andy Etchebarren and Luis Aparicio and a pass to Curt Blefary had loaded the bases.

The Tigers got the leadoff man on base in five of the eight innings they faced Barber but could not bunch their hits.

Their only run came in the sixth when Don Wert walked and took third on Jerry Lumpe's single to center. Don Demeter grounded to Aparicio who started a double play while Wert scampered home.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers loaded the bases in the seventh with one away and could not score. In the eighth, Barber got into a jam again as he gave up a single to Lumpe and a walk to Al Kaline with one out. Hall rushed in and got Bill Freehan on a line drive and Orlando McFarlane on strikes to preserve the win for Barber (2-0). Loser Sparma is now 1-1.

Totals for the weekend series showed Detroit outhit the Orioles 25 to 21, but got only four runs across while Baltimore was scoring 15 times. Detroit left 26 men on base, the Orioles 16.

Salesman Wettlaufer North-South Champ

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—When Ward Wettlaufer, the new North and South amateur golf champion, was a teen-ager in Buffalo, N. Y., his father told him, "If you want to play golf, play serious golf."

★ ★ ★

The 30-year-old Atlanta printing supply salesman, has followed that advice.

His 4 and 2 victory over Marion Heck in Saturday's 36-hole North and South Tournament final gave Wettlaufer what he termed his greatest tournament victory.

Heck, who has played golf only six of his 26 years, took a 1-up lead in the morning round. The muscular Columbiana, Ohio, player shot 76, four over par, for his 18 holes over the 7,000-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club. He had won three holes in a row, two with birdies, starting at No. 8.

Pontiac Champ in MPGA Win

Pontiac golfers dominated the opening handicap tournament on the Michigan Publinx Golf Association schedule yesterday at Morey's Golf & Country Club.

Paul Bada, Pontiac City champion, carded a two-under-par 33-36-69 to top the field of 250 by two strokes.

Sharing second with even par 71s were Wally Smith and Ed Wasik, both of Pontiac, along with Lee Gohs and Bill Schwope of Detroit.

"It was the second tournament in less than a year in which Smith finished second to Bada. In the Pontiac Medal Play last August, Bada trimmed the Royal Oak policeman on the second hole of sudden death to take the title.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Harold Henning came to play in the Texas Open as a guest and stayed to win the championship and $13,000.

The 31-year-old Henning, a South African citizen, can play in United States PGA tournaments by special invitation only.

His guest status didn't keep him from tearing apart the Oak Hills Country Club course by posting an eight-under par 272, three strokes ahead of Gene Littler, Wes Ellis and Ken Still.

Henning staged a two-round charge, coming from deep in the pack to tie for third place Saturday and finishing in a burst Sunday.

Spahn Looks at Offer in Texas League

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, the winningest left-hander in baseball history, said Saturday night he is considering an offer to pitch in the Texas League.

"I've been watching television, and I think I can do as well as some of those guys," said the 45-year-old Spahn, who was released by the San Francisco Giants after the 1965 season.

"In fact," Spahn said, "Chuck Tanner, who is manager of the El Paso team in the Texas League, called me recently and offered me a job. I just might go there to show people I can still get them out."

Spahn said he had made "no concrete commitment to anyone on anything" and that he had no immediate plans.

Jockey Locates Mount

Graustark on Sidelines; Derby Minus Top Choice

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With Graustark sidelined by a broken bone, Saturday's running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby shapes up today as a wide-open scramble with at least four colts vying for the favorite's role.

There are about 20 3-year-olds either at Churchill Downs or en route who can be listed as possible starters in the 1¼-mile race.

However, the list may be trimmed to 14 or even 12 by the weather, Tuesday's Derby Trial and the owners' unwillingness to part with the $1,500 necessary to get a horse into the starting line up.

ENTRIES DUE

Entries for the first of the Triple Crown series, which also includes the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, will be made Thursday morning. Post time Saturday is 5:45 p.m., EDT.

"He is through racing for the season and probably forever," said Gentry after listening to the report of Dr. Alex Harthill.

The veterinarian has nursed the Darby Dan Farm colt through a series of ailments, including bucked shins last year and a sprained ankle early this season.

The colt, still in intense pain, will be sent to the farm at Lexington, Ky., within a few days and is expected to enter the stud there. The final decision will be up to owner John Galbreath.

Buckpasser, the other early favorite, is convalescing from a kuarter-crack. He took the Flamingo this year following a 2-year-old campaign which carried him to the juvenile title.

Graustark was unbeaten in his first seven races, three last year, but was beaten by Abe's Hope in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland last Thursday.

76ers Release Coach of Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dolph Schayes, the National Basketball Association's Coach of the Year, was fired today as coach of the Philadelphia 76ers and replaced by Alex Hannum.

Irv Kosloff, owner of the club which won the Eastern Division title only to be eliminated in the recent playoffs by the champion Boston Celtics, said he made the coaching change for one reason, "to bring the NBA championship to this city (Philadelphia)."

Kosloff said Hannum, released at the end of the season after three years as coach of the San Francisco Warriors, "is familiar with the style of our club as he coached it when it was the Syracuse Nationals before moving to Philadelphia."

Philadelphia still is seeking a general manager. Kosloff said no decision had been made on this job.

Kosloff has been running the club since the death last fall of his partner and associate, Ike Richman.

Willie Ends Weak Week With Sore Knee

By the Associated Press

It was a weak week for Willie. While everyone waited for him to hit his 512th home run, Willie Mays was having trouble hitting anything.

The injury, suffered in a first base collision with the Cardinals' George Kernek, forced Mays from the game in the fourth inning, marking the third time in the past week that he left a game before it was over.

The result has been a drastic reduction in his hitting output.

When he hit his 511th homer and tied Mel Ott's National League career record last Sunday.

But six games later Mays not only failed to break the record, he also has seen his batting average drop 62 points from .348 to .286.

He has managed only two hits in 17 at bats during that time while failing to drive in a run and getting the ball out of the infield only five times.

Houston Astros Romp to 7-1 Win at Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Mike Cuellar's four-hit pitching and home runs by Jim Gentile, Lee Maye and John Bateman swept the Houston Astros to a 7-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves Sunday.

Cuellar, winning his third game without a loss, lost his bid for a shutout in the ninth when Hank Aaron, the major league leader, hit his eighth homer. It was only the second earned run in 28 2-3 innings off the 28-year-old left-hander.

Lefty One-Hits White Sox, 1-0

McDowell Also Shines With a Bat

By the Associated Press

They're calling him Sudden Sam McDowell, but Sensational Sam would seem to be more appropriate for a pitcher who has collected as many hits in one game as he's given up in two.

* * *

McDowell, Cleveland's ace left-hander, collected two hits Sunday and his second straight one-hitter, allowing only a bloop double by Don Buford in the second inning as he pitched the Indians to a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The feat of hurling successive one-hitters had been accomplished only three previous times in major league history, by Lon Warneke when he was with the Chicago Cubs, Mort Cooper when he was with the St. Louis Cardinals and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees.

* * *

McDowell also lived up to his Sudden label, applied because of his blazing speed, by striking out 10 and bringing his major league-leading total to 49. The undefeated southpaw also became the first American Leaguer to win four games and lowered his earned run average to a sparkling 1.54.

The victory was the 11th in 12 games this season for the Indians, who started off by winning their first 10 games.

Michigan Keglers Stay in Spotlight of ABC Tourney

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Michigan bowlers continued to hold prominent positions in standings of the American Bowling Congress Tournament over the weekend, although one slipped a notch.

Vic Iwiew of Kalamazoo dropped from sixth place to seventh in the classic all-events division. Other Michigan bowlers were:

Bill Smith, Detroit, 3rd place in the regular all-events; Tony Loiacano and Bob Kwiecien of Detroit, first place in actual doubles; Richard Viles and Larry Angott of Pontiac, tied for sixth place in actual doubles, and Ralph Nicol and Art Kirchen of Lansing, ninth place in same event.

Lola Bergman of Farmington carded a hole-in-one on the 143-yard, 10th hole Friday at Edgewood Country Club. She shot a 99 for the round.

Richard Petty Masters '400'

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — After trying since 1959, Richard Petty has finally mastered tough old Darlington International Raceway. And his record-setting victory in the Rebel 400 mile stock car race may stand as a classic.

* * *

Petty, star of the Chrysler's Corp.'s Plymouth race team, led 261 of the 291 laps Saturday over the 1½ midle raceway to finish more than three laps ahead of his nearest challenger and set a spectacular average speed of 131.585 miles per hour.

His check of $12,500 ran his winnings for the season to nearly $5,000. He previously had won the rich Daytona 500 that started the season in February.

Paul Goldsmith finished second on a factory Plymouth, David Pearson was third in a Dodge, Bunkie Blackburn fourth in a Dodge and G. C. Spencer fifth in a Plymouth.

Pitches Better in Sunshine

'Mudcat' Doesn't Take to Rain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jim Grant is known as Mudcat but the big Minnesota pitcher doesn't take to rain as would his namesake, a fish found in such streams as the Mississippi River.

Grant prefers the sunshine, so he can work more often.

* * *

He pitched Sunday, his first chore in eight days, and defeated the Washington Senators 3-1 in the second game of a double-header. He knocked in two of the runs with a double.

The Senators won the opener 5-3.

The 30-year-old right-hander, who had a 21-7 record last year scattered eight hits and struck out seven in a game that was played in a steady light rain.

He was especially tough on Washington batters with men on base.

Homer Triggers Rally for Yankees' Victory

NEW YORK — Roy White's leadoff homer in the sixth inning triggered a six-run rally that carried the New York Yankees to a 10-4 second-game victory over Kansas City and a split of their doubleheader Sunday.

Kansas City had a 4-2 lead in the nightcap until White started the sixth with a homer off Chuck Dobson. Roger Maris followed with a walk and Lew Krausse replaced Dobson.

Joe Pepitone greeted Krausse with a double, and after Tom Tresh was passed intentionally, Lou Clinton put the Yankees ahead with a two-run single. Jake Gibbs added a two-run double and Bobby Richardson a run-scoring single.

Red Sox Gain Split in Win Over Angels

BOSTON (AP) — Jerry Stephenson became the first Boston pitcher to hurl a complete game this season, checking California on nine hits as the Red Sox crushed the Angels 9-1 Sunday and gained a split of their Sunday doubleheader.

The Angels won the opener 6-1 with a three-homer attack.

Boston, Angels Garner 12 DPs in Twin Bill

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Knoop of the California Angels broke one major league record for double plays and tied another Sunday as the Angels and the Boston Red Sox engaged in a double play festival.

* * *

California pulled off six double plays in the opener of the doubleheader and two in the second game. The Red Sox had three and one.

The first game total of nine tied the major league record, and the over-all total of 12 equalled the American League record.

Knoop participated in all six DPs in the first game, setting a major league record for second basemen. He also was involved in the two in the nightcap, enabling him to tie the major league mark of eight.

* * *

The Angels' Jim Fregosi tied two major league records for shortstops, participating in five double plays in a game and starting five.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

'M' 9 Chases Loop Leader

By the Associated Press

Pitcher Bob Reed appears a key to success as powerful Michigan fights to overtake Minnesota in the Big Ten Conference baseball race.

Reed stepped to the mound in relief twice, and emerged twice as the winning hurler, as Michigan whipped Wisconsin 14-6 and 9-5 in a doubleheader Saturday.

MSU SPLITS

Michigan State, meanwhile, split a pair of games with Northwestern, overpowering the Wildcats 20-4 in the first but losing the nightcap 4-6. MSU is sixth in the Big Ten with two victories and three losses.

★ ★ ★

The only other state college teams in action during the weekend were Northwood and Aquinas. Northwood shut out Aquinas 5-0 and 4-0 in that contest.

4-TIME WINNER

Reed has been the winning pitcher in each of Michigan's four conference triumphs. The Wolverines are a half game behind Minnesota which has won five games.

In the first game, the Badgers were leading 6-3 when Michigan exploded for 11 runs in the ninth inning. Every Wolverine scored at least once in the barrage.

★ ★ ★

In the nightcap, Keith Spicer and Rick Sygar smacked double in a seven-run seventh inning. Michigan got seven of its 12 hits in that frame.

Michigan State's 20 runs came on only nine hits. Northwestern issued 14 walks and committed six errors.

In the second game, Wildcat pitcher Glen Cermak rapped a single that drove in two runs and broke a 3-3 tie in the fourth inning.

★ ★ ★

Villanova Sloshes to Relays Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The weather conditions Friday and Saturday at the Penn Relays turned the principal conversation to next year and Penn's proposed spanking new $190,000 all-weather track.

Villanova and its young sophomore sensation, Dave Apatrick, along with Florida A&M's spring relay stars shared the competitive honors of the 72nd annual track and field meet.

Due to the bad weather there were only two meet records broken, and most times and distances were unimpressive. Sam Bair Jr. of Kent State of Ohio took the college two-mile run in 8:49.2, breaking the 8:53.6 Army's Bill Straub set two years ago, and Villanova's distance medley team clipped 7.5 seconds off that mark.

Villanova also won the two-mile run in 7:39.3, and Georgetown surprised Villanova by winning the four mile in 17:16.3, the Hoyas' first relay victory here in 15 years.

Villavona now has won 27 relays in the past 12 Penn carnivals.

Among the Michigan entries was the victory by Jack Harvey of U. of M. in the shot put at 58-7½.

George Canamare of Michigan was second in the pole vault at 15-feet. The Wolverines finished third in the two-mile relay with a time of 7:43.7.

Florida A&M won its first Penn titles with a two-yard edge over Morgan State in the 440 in 41.6, and later made it a double by gaining the 880 in 1:26.9.

Maryland picked up three individual titles as Frank Costello repeated his high jump crown with a leap of 6-9, Ed Marks took the triple jump at 48-8½, and Dick Pull tossed the javelin 219-8.

Cubs Option Pitcher

Two-Year Reign Ends at OL St. Mary Meet

Saginaw SS Peter and Paul ended Detroit St. Anthony's two-year reign in the Orchard Lake St. Mary Relays Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Three first place finishes, two seconds and two thirds helped the Saginaw Crusaders compile 68 points. St. Anthony totaled 60 to tie Dearborn Divine Child for second.

★ ★ ★

Host Orchard Lake St. Mary faded in the track events to place fifth after notching two firsts and two runner-up berths in the field competition.

The Eaglets won the shot put and long jump combined distances. Saginaw SS Peter and Paul paced the high jump and pole vault.

Both Divine Child and St. Anthony were strong in the running relays. They won seven of the eight events. Six new records were set and Divine Child nabbed three of them.

15 Drake Relay Marks Fall

MSU Hurdlers Crack Record

DES MOINES (AP) — Michigan State's 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay team smashed the National Collegiate Athletic Association record Saturday in the closing day of the two-day Drake Relays.

★ ★ ★

The quartet of Clinton Jones, Robert Steele, Fred McKoy and anchorman Gene Washington covered the distance in 57.4 seconds, topping the :57.5 mark set by Winston-Salem in 1959 and tied by Rice last year.

The team also broke the Drake record of :57.9 set by MSU in 1965.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Michael Bowers of MSU cleared 6 feet 8 inches to win third place in the high jump. Eastern Michigan's 3:16.2 clocking was good for fourth place in the college one-mile relay which was won by Southern University in 3:07.4.

FIFTEEN RECORDS

Fifteen Drake Relays records were shattered over the weekend, but one mark expected to tumble is still on the books today

Kansas freshman Jim Ryun, the fastest American miler affot, ran a 4:05.6 mile Saturday, disappointing 18,000 observers who turned out in windy, 45-degree weather to see him attempt his fourth sub-four-minute mile in little ore than two weeks.

Although the carnival here featured such prominent trackmen as Ryun, Randy Matson, world record-holder in the shot, Nebraska sprinter Charlie Greene and a bevy of outstanding baton men, an unheralded distance runner was selected the outstanding athlete.

Van Nelson, a slender 20-year-old sophomore from St. Cloud, Minn., state, who posted a meet record victory in the three-mile run and also won the six-mile run, a new event here, was chosen the top performer in a poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

Nelson, a top Olympic prospect in the 5,000 meters, beat highly-regarded Malcom Robinson, a 30-year-old Englishman, by more than 12 yards in the six-mile jaunt Saturday. He was time d in 13:29.2 in the three-mile Friday.

San Diego Aces Without Teams for '66 Season

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, two of the American Football League's top defensive players, became free agents Sunday and the stalemate continued over who will have their 1966 services.

Ladd and Faison played out their options with the San Diego Chargers, refusing 1965 contracts because they wanted more money and wanted a share in the big bonuses given rookies.

The 6 foot 9, 315-pound Ladd and 6-5, 270-pound Faison were all-AFL at tackle and end for the Chargers last year. Signed in 1961, they were half of a defensive line that helped establish AFL records in nearly all defensive aspects of the game in 1965.

Walcoff ran 10.2 to take second in the 100-yard dash. Cobb took fifth in the mile run.

The biggest was 17 inches long. "Longest I've ever seen," said Merics, who lives at 4707 Linwood in Pontiac. Hoffmeyer lives in Farmington. The splake is a combination speckled and lake trout.

Brazil Takes on Spain

Brazil's young tennis team has earned a shot at formidable Spain, the beaten Davis Cup finalist a year ago, in the second round of 1966 elimination play.

The 16 second round berths in European Zone play were filled Sunday when Spain, Brazil, Hungary, Israel, Switzerland and Egypt advanced. Italy polished off Russia Saturday to move up with South Africa, France, the Netherlands, West Germany, Poland, Canada and Czechoslovakia. Britain and Morocco nailed second round spots earlier.

Spain, knocked off by Australia in the 1965 Challenge Round, will meet Brazil while other second round pairings are Poland-Egypt, France-Canada, Czechoslovakia-Israel, Switzerland-Germany, Hungary-Britain, Morocco-Italy and Netherlands-South Africa.

The United States team will play the survivor of the American Zone series between Venezuela and Jamaica, which stands 2-1 in favor of Venezuela after its doubles victory Sunday. Iyo Pimentel and Eduardo Alvarez rallied for a 5-7, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3 verdict over Jamaicans Lance Lumsden and Richard Russell. The teams split two singles matches Saturday.

Brazil wrapped up its best-of-5 series against Denmark when Thomas Koch and Eduardo Mandarino won the doubles for a 3-0 advantage. The Brazilian pair downed Denmark's Torben Ulrich and Jan Leschley 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

Lurleen Wallace Hopes to Follow Footsteps of 'Ma' and 'Nellie'

NEW YORK (AP) — If Lurleen Wallace wins the Democratic nomination Wednesday in Alabama, she'll be on her way toward following the petticoat pattern set by Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming and Miriam Amanda (Ma) Ferguson of Texas, the only two women ever elected governors in the United States.

Mrs. Wallace is admittedly a stand-in for her husband, Gov. George C. Wallace, who is barred by law from another term. Their husband-and-wife team effort is reminiscent of a 1924 Democratic campaign in Texas.

★ ★ ★

"Two governors for the price of one" was Ma and Pa Fergusons' campaign slogan then.

James E. Ferguson had been governor, and his wife made no claim that he wouldn't be helping to run things if she got elected.

NO BABY KISSER

"A vote for me is a vote of confidence for my husband, who cannot be a candidate," she would say bluntly. She was not a baby kisser, and even her two daughters admitted she didn't go out of her way to make a good impression.

But the stickers on the Model T's read: "Me for Ma, and I ain't got a dern thing against Pa," and on Jan. 20, 1925, Ma Ferguson, at 49, became governor of Texas.

After an operatic soprano sang "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," a campaign song, accompanied by the Old Gray Mare Band from Brownwood, Tex., she made her inaugural address: "Recognizing and freely admitting my inexperience in governmental affairs, I must ask the advice and counsel of others."

BACK IN MANSION

Everybody knew that meant that Jim Ferguson, impeached in 1917, was back in the gubernatorial mansion.

Ma Ferguson's first official act that same afternoon was to call in the concrete man and have her name restored to the threshhold of the mansion's greenhouse, her pride and joy when her Jim was in office. His successor had removed it.

★ ★ ★

What bothered the Texans about a woman governor, now that they finally had elected her, was that Wyoming had beaten them to the draw.

On Jan. 5, 1925 — 15 days before Ma — Nellie Tayloe Ross took the oath of office as governor of Wyoming, first state to give women the vote.

MOTHER OF 3

Up to that moment Mrs. Ross, a slender, good-looking Missouri-born blonde of 45 — "a gentlewoman" everyone liked to say — had been only a mother of three boys — a fourth had died in infancy — and a housewife taking no part in politics. Then her husband, Gov. William Bradford Ross, died in office, and the Democratic State Convention nominated her to serve the remainder of the term.

Mrs. Ross had had a close intellectual association with her husband — a contemporary biography put it — and through him gained an intimate knowledge of practical politics. She carried all but 3 of 23 counties in the election, and at her inauguration she pledged she would continue her husband's policies.

★ ★ ★

Her first message to the Legislature stressed tax relief for farmers. She got a measure adopted protecting bank deposits and making bank examiners responsible to the governor. She stood firmly for the direct primary. She insisted upon rigorous enforcement of prohibition. Three times she removed law-enforcement commissioners because of laxities.

Opponents who argued that entering the political arena "was conducive to masculinity in women," met their match in soft-voiced, kindly, exquisitely dressed Mrs. Ross.

WAS DEFEATED

She was defeated for reelection — later becoming the first woman director of the U.S. Mint — but the Denver News wrote: "She has been an executive of sense and discrimination; a credit to women in political office."

The nation's colleges are graduating only 4,700 agriculturists a year, but an estimated 25,000 new, well-trained people are needed annually in the field.

Photos Cited in Moors Trial

CHESTER, England (UPI)—The Crown charged today in cross-examination that Ian Brady, 28, not only buried his victims on the desolate Penning Moors but took photographs of the graves to gloat over "the trophies of his murders."

Brady and his mistress, Myra Hindley, 23, are on trial charged with the slaying of 10-year-old Lesley Ann Downey, 12-year-old John Kilbride and Edward Evans, 17.

The first two children were buried on the moors and the prosecution contends that Evans was destined for a similar grave after he was axed to death last Oct. 6—except that police arrived while his body was still in Brady's house.

Sir Elwyn Jones, the attorney-general, taking time off from the urgent business of government in London, personally conducted the cross-examination, the first time the chief law officer of the Crown has done so in nine years.

★ ★ ★

The duel between the slender, almost cadaverous, defendant and the attorney general in his black robes and white curly legal wig, was the high point of the sensational trial in the historic Chester Castle.

TOOK SHOTS

Jones hounded Brady on photographs he admitted he took which the Crown contended show the sites of the graves of the Downey girl and the Kilbride boy.

Building Gift Given to Mackinac College

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—A $1.5 million gift for construction and equipping of a classroom-laboratory building at Mackinac College was announced today by the board of trustees. They said the 75,000 square foot, two-story building was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Alan Clark of New York City. The building is set for completion in August, 1967.

Rising Rivers Threatening More Damage Across Flood-Battered Texas

DALLAS (AP)—Rivers made powerful by the relentless storms of recent weeks threatened still more damage across flood-battered Texas today.

★ ★ ★

The rains subsided in all but South Texas, where deluges yesterday of up to 5 inches sent the Nueces and Frio rivers out of their banks.

In Dallas, the normally lazy Trinity River gnawed furiously at levees protecting low industrial and residential areas as the river neared a crest of 41.3 feet, more than 11 feet above flood stage.

Additional flooding was feared on the Brazos, Sabine, Cypress, Sulphur and Red rivers in north central and northeast Texas, hardest hit by the 10 days of constant thunderstorms.

The weather bureau also warned that the Nueces and Frio rivers would continue to flood south Texas areas for the next several days.

As the rains moved south, the weather bureau still made no guarantee of sunshine for the upper half of the state. A light drizzle fell many places this morning and temperatures were chilly for May.

In Dallas, an eight-man shift worked around the clock to sandbag and patrol weak spots in levels along the Trinity.

Two wrecking yards and a lumberyard already have been inundated, and only the levee keeps the raging waters from the Brook Hollow industrial area and several motels.

Dallas police said a body was spotted in the Trinity yesterday but the current washed it loose of a tree before it could be recovered.

Five persons were pulled into the churning river Saturday night when their car bypassed a police barricade on a flooded low-water bridge. They are listed as missing and presumed drowned. A sixth person in the car escaped.

★ ★ ★

In between rainfall yesterday, two tornadoes were spotted at Kingsville and near San Patricio but neither touched ground.

About 10 million trees in the U.S. yield maple sap.

Drill-Dodging Reservists, Guardsmen Face Demotion

★ ★ ★

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, recently ordered demotion of any Reserve or National Guardsman ducking too many drills. The demotion would be for inefficiency.

★ ★ ★

Another part of Johnson's order provides that certain draftage Guardsmen and Reservists who fail to keep up their obligated drills may be referred to Selective Service for two years of active duty.

The order specified that three unexcused absences in any year "are considered excessive."

45 DAYS OF TRAINING

The new penalties are in addition to an existing requirement that any Guardsman or Reservist failing a drilling obligation may be called to active duty for 45 days of training.

Most National Guardsmen and Reserves in the Ready Reserve are required to drill with their units 48 times a year. Men serving in the highest-priority units must attend 72 drills a year.

Th demotion in rank, according to Johnson's order, will be imposed before a man begins his 45-day active duty training penalty.

There is special emphasis on National Guard and Reserve training currently because of the Viet Nam situation and, particularly in the case of highest-priority units, because of a drive to get a 150,000-man "select force" in top readiness by July 1.

The men who would be vulnerable for "priority induction" are Reserves or National Guardsmen below 26 years of age who have signed up for four to 10 months of basic training in a regular Army center, but who have not yet been able to undergo this training.

Because of overcrowded Army training centers, there currently is a backlog of more than 120,000 men obligated to serve with their Reserve or National Guard units for as much as 5½ years after their brief basic training.

Jordan: 7 Killed by Israeli Raiders

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Mines planted by Israeli raiders killed seven Jordanians, including a number of children, in the village of Tel Arbaeen last Friday, A Jordanian military spokesman says.

★ ★ ★

Gun battles with Israelis also resulted in four Jordanian Guardsmen killed and 37 Israeli casualties, the spokesman said yesterday.

Merrill And Bob Graham

Fastest Guns in the West

STANTON, Mo. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Bob Graham may be the fastest guns in the West—or anywhere else, for that matter.

The Houston, Tex., couple proved yesterday in the National Fast Draw Association's world championship that they are the fastest guns around.

Graham, 31, a bespectacled bank-equipment salesman, won his second straight world championship. He averaged .45 of a second—drawing, shooting and hitting targets—in the contest's four classes.

His wife, Merrill, 21, a long-haired blonde, won the women's title with an average drawing and shooting time of .61 of a second. Her fastest was .44.

★ ★ ★

"I can give the average person a pistol, have him cock it and point it at me and draw and fire before he can," said Graham who uses a modern plastic-lined holster for the old Western sport of gunslinging.

BREAK BALLOONS

Two of the events involved blanks used to break balloons. The other classes call for wax slugs for target shooting.

When a light flashes, the gunman draws and fires against an electric clock instead of another man.

"We had the competition in Las Vegas a few years ago," said Donald Oplinger of Chicago, president of the Midwestern Fast Draw Association. "Several television and movie cowboys were around to add glamour, but they couldn't compete with our slowest shooters."

"Greed is a terrible thing," muttered South as he looked over dummy. "Why couldn't I have settled for a nice, comfortable small slam, game and rubber?"

JACOBY

He counted 12 easy tricks but where was his 13th coming from? There was one easy way to make his try. He could play a low spade from dummy and if West had led from the queen he would have his grand slam. South gazed fixedly at West and decided that West just wouldn't lead from a queen against a grand slam contract.

Was a squeeze possible? The more expert of you readers have already seen that it was not only possible but that it was sure to work against the actual East-West holdings. That is, the right squeeze is sure to work. There are all sorts of squeezes for declarer to try.

Correct technique is for South to assume that East has the queen of spades and to start play by taking the ace of spades and running off four trump tricks.

Dummy will discard the deuce of spades and the chances are that West will jettison two diamonds and East a couple of spades. South's next play should be to lead out dummy's king of spades and note that both opponents follow. By this time South can suspect the actual distribution.

He leads three rounds of hearts, trumping the third one with his next to last trump.

Then he leads out his last trump. West will have to throw another diamond in order to keep the high heart. Dummy's last heart will be thrown and East will also have to chuck a diamond to hold the spade queen. The diamonds will all be good!

Another Garfield Making His Bid for the Spotlight in Filmdom

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

THOMAS

You see the same deep-burning eyes, the easily-rumpled brow, the square cheekbones. You also catch glimpses of the same intensive energy. The only jarring note is his height — a towering 6-feet-2 vs. his father's 5-9.

* * *

Young Garfield has come to Hollywood at age 22 — his father was 30 before he made the journey. John Sr. was already a Broadway star when he made his film debut in "Four Daughters" in 1938.

His son has a year of stage repertory behind him and is starting with a two-page bit in "The Warning Shot," starring David Janssen. Oddly, Garfield is replacing Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale, who has gone on to other things.

FAMOUS NAME

Like all second generation performers, Garfield is aware of the assets and liabilities of bearing a famous name.

"It used to be a hang-up with me, but I've learned to live with it," he remarked. "Listen, it can be a real advantage in getting to see people who can help you. But, of course, that's all it does for you; then you're on your own."

* * *

Young John was born here during his father's tenure as a Warner Bros. star — "so in a sense I'm coming home." He moved to New York when he was 6, and his father died when the boy was 8. So his memories of his father are dim, but his image has been refreshed, thanks to television.

"I've seen all his pictures about 30 times," said John. "My favorite of all is 'Body and Soul'. Then comes 'They Made Me a Criminal' and parts of 'The Fallen Sparrow,' 'Pride of the Marines' and of course, 'Four Daughters.'"

RECITES SCENE

He can — and did — recite the famous "Four Daughters" scene in which Garfield played piano and mused about how the fates were against him.

Young Garfield attended New York's Ethical Culture High School — "Strong as an Eagle Swift as a Vulture! Hooray, Hoorah Ethical Culture." The urge to act was always deep in his consciousness and he pursued dramatics during his year and a half at Brandeis University.

* * *

"Then I decided I needed more practical instruction, and I went to London to study at the Academy of Musical and Dramatic Arts," he said. "I learned a great deal and acquired some needed confidence. That's what it takes in acting — confidence, and having something to say."

He defined what he had to say: That everyone should be accepted for what he is; that people should love one another.

SHAKESPEARE

Returning to New York, Garfield found work with the New York Shakespeare Festival, which brings the Bard to the people, wherever they may be.

"There's no training like walking onstage to be greeted by a barrage of paper cups," he said. "Once during 'Taming of the Shrew' a pop bottle sailed past my head. But when the audiences dug what we were doing, they were great."

* * *

He then joined the National Repertory Theater for a tour of the United States. That's when he decided on his name.

"I was born David — what good Jewish father would name his son a junior?" he said. "But a David Garfield was already a member of the actors' union, and I wasn't allowed to use the name.

"So I decided to be John Garfield Jr. Why not? There are 8 million actors for every job. Why shouldn't I use a name that would at least get me through the door?"

There are two million handicapped children in the U.S.

Schools Rate a Prime Target Across Michigan for Vandals

DETROIT (AP) — Hit-and-run vandals are leaving a jagged trail of broken glass across Michigan that runs from school to school, an Associated Press survey showed today.

More than 20,000 windows a year are broken in Detroit's 300 schools. The city spends more than $100,000 a year replacing the shattered glass as well as repairing school interiors damaged by vandals.

* * *

And over a year's time, the suburban Livonia School District had to come up with $12,000 to replace shattered glass at 35 schools.

PROBLEM GROWS

School vandalism is a continuing problem and neither education officials nor police know how to stop it.

"Our scout cars give schools special attention," Inspector Henry Sedmak of the Detroit Police Department's Record Bureau said today. "They use their spotlights to study the buildings, then the officers get out and check the building doors to see if they're locked. But this does not stop school vandalism."

* * *

He's seconded by a school official who says "there doesn't seem to be any rhyme or reason to it. They just see a rock and a window, and they're off to break it."

'JUST ANGRY'

A Wayne State University psychologist theorized that "very often the child is manifesting some rebellion against authority and the school represents authority. Kids are sometimes just angry. They have a resentment toward society in general and this is how they show this resentment."

Although most school vandalism occurs in the big cities such as Detroit, it is not confined to them.

* * *

At Greenville, a town of 8,000, vandals struck at a junior high school last month and caused damages estimated at $10,000. They broke nearly every classroom door window as they rampaged through the building.

The 12,895 students of the suburban Southfield School District got an unexpected day off this past February.

RIP OUT WIRES

Police said two 16-year-old boys were responsible for immobilizing 49 school buses by ripping out wires from under the dashboards. About 75 per cent of the district's students depend on the buses to get to school. Damages were estimated at $1,000.

The Detroit Board of Education said more than two-thirds of all the loss from wrongdoing to its school buildings, grounds and equipment was the result of window breakage.

Detroit School Superintendent Samuel Brownell said a recent report covering the 10-year period from 1954 through 1964 showed vandalism cost the city schools more than $1 million.

Brownell said that in one year there were 1,476 incidents of vandalism at 263 of the city's 300 schools.

Airlines Surge Ahead

Market Is Cautious, Selective

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines, steels, coppers and tobaccos moved higher in a mixed stock market early today.

Wall Street seemed cautious and selective following last week's sharp setback, but there was no lack of enthusiasm for airlines.

* * *

In contrast, rails moved irregularly lower, analysts commenting that some switching from the rails to airlines has been under way.

Steels, after an uncertain start, moved ahead with fair unanimity on estimates that steel industry shipments in the second quarter will be even more than in the strong first quarter.

WEAKER TREND

Weakness showed among some aerospace and other glamor stocks, electrical equipments, drugs, blue-chip chemicals and oils.

PRICES MIXED

Prices were mixed in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Conductron rose 4, Kysor Industries 3,

AMC to Omit Dividend Pay

Same Action for 3rd Consecutive Quarter

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. directors voted today to omit a quarterly dividend payment, marking the third consecutive quarter in which they have done so.

Chairman Richard E. Cross and President Roy Abernethy reported the nation's fourth largest auto firm lost $8,359,399, equal to 44 cents a share, in the second quarter of its fiscal year.

* * *

The firm made approximately $4.1 million in the preceding quarter, Cross said.

AMC paid three quarterly dividends of 25 cents and one of 12½ cents in the fiscal year ended last Sept. 30 but has not paid a dividend since then.

WORLDWIDE SALES

Worldwide sales of AMC cars totaled 198,351 vehicles in the six months just ended, compared with 239,044 for the corresponding period last year. Figures for the second quarter were 75,287 this time compared with 96,989 in the similar second quarter last year.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, all of which are on a calendar year basis, reported last month that quarterly profits and sales were running strong.

* * *

AMC's Kelvinator Division reported its sales up 7.2 per cent in the first six months, compared with the same period in the last fiscal year. The firm still refused to break down its figures by auto and appliance divisions.

Abernethy and Cross said AMC's auto lines had been shut down twice for a total of 20 days in the second quarter to get inventories in line with demand.

DISAPPOINTING

They termed sales of the firm's Classic and American series disappointing but added "The new 290 cubic inch V-8 engine for the American series, now being introduced, is expected to significantly increase sales."

AMC's two top men said, "There will be increased advertising and merchandising activity in the third quarter when consumer demand in general also rises."

* * *

On a six months basis, AMC's financial report showed a loss of $4,163,504, equal to 22 cents a share, on net sales of $479 million. A year ago, AMC earned $11,308,076, or 59 cents a share, on first six months business totaling $563.8 million.

Nix Dropping of Rail Ferry

LANSING (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has rejected railroad company plans to abandon Mackinac Straits railroad car ferry service and 288 miles of track in Northern Michigan, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said today.

* * *

Kelley said he was notified Division 3 of the ICC has adopted all findings of its hearing examiner, Hyman J. Blond, who earlier had ruled against the Pennsylvania, Soo Line, New York Central and Michigan Central railroads.

A spokesman for Kelley said that while the railroads could petition for a re-hearing, the ICC decision virtually closed the lengthy case.

* * *

Kelley called the announcement "a tremendous victory for all of Michigan. It is the result of many months of excellent cooperation between state agencies, representatives of communities throughout the affected area, and representatives of industry and labor who expressed their vital interest in this matter."

Sam's List Is 'Bully'

Unsnarls Mart Jargon

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

DAWSON

But if these and other descriptions of stock market activity confuse you, remember that brokers and financial experts are just human beings. And like you, they use terms they think will put matters in the best light. Or maybe sometimes the phrases are designed to hide the speaker's own confusion.

* * *

All you need is a primer that translates the jargon. Here are some terms often heard, and what the Wall Street denizen may really mean:

Excessive speculation — what the other fellow is doing.

'WHAT WE'RE DOING'

Wise investing — what we are doing.

Technical correction in stock prices — buyers who ran prices up fast are now selling even faster.

* * *

Glamour stocks — shares we bought and would now like to sell to you — at a still higher price than we paid.

Slow-moving quality stocks — looked like a sure thing when we bought them, but now there's not a fast buck in a carload.

UPS AND DOWNS

Selective market — your stocks went down; your mother-in-law's went up.

Writers of market letters have a line of double-talk all their own. If the pronouncements of brokerage houses occasionally puzzle you, here are some interpretations now making the rounds of Wall Street luncheon tables:

* * *

"This stock has growth characteristics." Double-talk for: "This year may be better than last year."

SALES LEVEL OFF

"Chart action shows this stock to be building a base." — "The wretched thing just hasn't moved."

* * *

One list of the more complicated brokerage house advisory pronouncements, with simplified explanations, has been compiled by Lester Avnet, president of Avnet Inc. Some of his favorites:

"This undervalued special situation is a vehicle for dynamic capital gains, has explosive potential, is pointed for action." — "stocks look okay."

REACHED OBJECTIVE

"This stock, while suitable for long-term investors, may be considered to have reached its intermediate objective." — "We're out."

"This stock has been one of our favorites." — "We recommended it two years ago. It hasn't gone down too much, and we still play golf with the management."

* * *

"Penetration of the recent intermediate upside resistance point on some volume would augur well unless followed or perhaps preceded by a move on volume to support level." — "It'll go up if it doesn't go down."

Or perhaps you may have wondered about the meaning of this: "The market looks to be in a broad trading range." In other words: "Our chartist didn't show up this morning."

Connor Sees No Need for Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor assured the U.S. Chamber of Commerce today he sees no need for an anti-inflationary tax increase now.

Connor told the opening session of the chamber's 54th annual meeting that the economic signs are not cause for "undue alarm, any more than they are cause for complacency."

* * *

"I think they indicate that we must be especially watchful and ready to act if necessary, but they do not in my opinion call for drastic measures on an emergency basis at this time," he said in an address prepared for 4,500 delegates and guests.

Connor backed President Johnson's plea that business slow its plant expansion by deferring less-essential projects "until we are through this period when excessive pressures must be avoided."

REACTIVATED

Postponed outlays, the secretary said, "could be reactivated next year or later on at a time when they would be needed to maintain adequate economic growth."

"We hope that after the middle of this year we will be able to level off our defense spending and thus help to slow down total demand," he added.

Purse Stolen From Woman

Mrs. Pearl Tear of 1120 Meadowlawn told Pontiac police she was crossing the street about 7:30 p.m. when she was "nearly knocked over" by someone behind her.

* * *

When she recovered, Mrs. Tear said, her purse was gone, including $64 in cash, a $35 wristwatch and other items.

No Kidding! Taxes Aren't Going Up

WASHINGTON (UPI)—NO one's taxes are going up—it just seems that way, but millions of people are being asked to pay them sooner, starting this month.

Pay checks dated May 1 or later will be subject to a new graduated system of withholding federal income taxes, the first in the nation's history.

The new withholding system will mean bigger pay envelopes for single persons earning less than $50 a week and for married persons—with two children—earning less than $140.

Millions of others will have more taxes deducted.

* * *

Up to now, the federal government has had employers withhold federal income taxes from pay checks at a flat 14 per cent rate.

'ROUGH JOB'

But since some people belong in lower tax brackets and others in higher brackets, 14 per cent withholding did a very rough job of paying taxes people actually owed.

As a result, millions of higher income people ended up the year with additional taxes due, while millions of lower income people had refunds coming.

In order to remedy this, and to bring payroll withholding more in line with actual tax liabilities, Congress—at President Johnson's request—has replaced the old flat 14 per cent rate with six rates ranging from 14 to 30 per cent.

Middle and upper income people will be subject to these higher rates and will thus have more withheld from their pay.

LOWER INCOME

Lower income people will have less withheld because the minimum standard deduction, adopted by Congress in 1964, has now been built into the withholding tables.

The result: more people will come out even on their taxes. Fewer will have to make additional payments at the end of the year, and there will be fewer refunds.

Probers Sent to Bulgarian Disaster Site

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — Bulgarian authorities dispatched a top-level government investigating team to the northwestern town of Bratsa today where cascading waters from a broken dam killed about 50 persons.

★ ★ ★

Officials said there was no final death toll from the disaster which marred May Day celebrations in this Communist nation. But one official said "several dozens or at least 50 persons" perished in the flood.

The seriousness of the disaster was underlined by the fact that Interior Minister Diko Dikov and three other government ministers were appointed members of the team.

"Huge waves up to five meters high swept the village of Zgoregard, destroyed bridges, buried houses and killed many persons," one witness said.

Liz Becomes Battleground for a Cat and Dog Fight

By EARL WILSON

ROME—At 3 a.m. there was big excitement out at the Richard Burton-Elizabeth Taylor villa.

Liz had finished her first day's shooting of "The Taming of the Shrew" and come home to learn that her Abyssinian cat Charlie Brown was missing—a tragedy of spic immensity to Liz.

Charlie Brown was found in a treetop. The butler tried to shinny up the tree. He failed. Then he got a ladder. He succeeded in getting Charlie Brown in his arms.

WILSON

Liz was standing there watching, holding in her arms her newest Pekingese, "Oh Fie." Suddenly as the butler was buttling down the ladder, Charlie Brown shot out of his arms and leaped straight at Liz and Oh Fie. As the cat crashed into the Peke, they were both clawing. There was considerable danger to the famous features of the world's most famous actress.

As Liz stood there with her arms full of pets—which, in their nervousness, had misbehaved—she didn't see the toppling ladder falling toward her. It conked her on the head.

At 9 a.m., while out gawking on the Via Veneto, I learned of this wild night at the Burtons when I encounterer their secretaries Richard Hanley and John Lee. They were buying eyedrops for Liz' bloodshot look, and also some dog and cat perfumes.

'Melting Pot' Hard on Teeth

By Science Service

LOS ANGELES — People of mixed ethnic origins have more teeth problems than those of homogenous populations.

This was seen in a three-year study conducted in New Zealand by Dr. M. C. McCann, assistant professor of pediatric dentistry at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. McCann evaluated the dental-facial handicaps of resident European children and native New Zealanders, the Maoris.

He found that one out of three European children need orthodontic treatment compared with only one out of 10 Maori children.

★ ★ ★

The Maoris are from a relatively stable genetic pool of homogenous Polynesian population.

ADEQUATE SPACE

Their jaws generally grow and develop with adequate space for all teeth.

Modern New Zealand Europeans tend to be of mixed population with a variety of jaw structures and tooth sizes. The result is often handicapping crowding of teeth and jaws.

Dr. McCann said that the prevalence of orthodontic problems in the United States was similar to that among the New Zealand Europeans.

★ ★ ★

He pointed out that the U. S. population is largely of hybrid European stock as is the nonnative population of New Zealand.

The most damaging insects which feed on leaves and stems of grass are the sod bedworms, armyworms and cutsworms, according to the Agricultural Research Service.

State Support Troops Arrive at Camp McCoy

CAMP McCOY, Wis. (UPI) — Michigan support troops arrived during the weekend to help boost the camp's training capacity for summer drills from an early estimate of 36,732 men to 48,000.

The 700 support troops included engineer units from Battle Creek and Muskegon and quartermaster units from Traverse City. Also included were units from Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., Indianapolis, Wichita, Kans., and the XIV Corps from Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and South Dakota.

NASA to Ask for Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it will ask industrial firms soon to bid on the design and manufacture of 14 major subsystems for the two Mariner Mars spacecraft. Each will carry 50 pounds of instruments to study Mars.

Javits: Not Seeking N.Y. Governorship

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits has formally bowed out as a possible contender for the New York governorship this year and says he will support Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in his bid for a third four-year term.

The Republican senator, who is 61, made the declaration at a news conference Sunday. He left open the possibility that he might seek his party's nomination for president in 1968.

★ ★ ★

Noting that both Rockefeller and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon had sought the presidency, Javits urged that the Republican party look for "new faces."

"Mine would be a new face, a new and established face," Javits said later in answering a question about his aspirations.

★ ★ ★

He said it would be "pretentious" for him to declare himself a candidate for president at this early stage.

Stowaway Is Seized on Detroit River Ship

DETROIT (UPI) — Immigration and FBI agents boarded the Ghanian freighter Pra River in the Detroit River here yesterday and seized a stowaway.

Authorities said the man, James Jackson, 26, Chicago, would be charged as a stowaway with a crime on the high seas in Federal Court here today.

Boats Arrive in Cuba

'Better Half' Out at 1st

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay sent in his wife as a substitute for himself yesterday in a softball game against a press-corps team called "The Power Brokers."

"Here, you should have Mary on the team, she's the best player around," Lindsay said.

★ ★ ★

But she went hitless as he had before her — both grounding out weakly to the infield.

Despite their showing, however, the "Lindsay Lancers" squeezed out a 10-9 victory.

Ex-U.S. Aide Leaves Prison

Convicted of Giving Secrets to Poland

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Irving Scarbeck, a former state department official who was blackmailed into turning over classified documents by threats to expose his illicit affair with a Polish femme fatale, leaves the federal penitentiary today after being imprisoned for nearly five years.

The 45-year-old Scarbeck was convicted on charges of giving away government secrets to Polish agents between January and May of 1961.

It was charged that he became involved in the espionage while trying to get Urszula Discher out of Poland.

He and Miss Discher were romantically involved at the time, and she later come to the United States to testify against him.

★ ★ ★

Scarbeck's parole was announced in Washington April 1 at the same time as that of atomic spy Harry Gold. Gold will be released May 18.

PRISON CONDUCT

Prison officials said Scarbeck's conduct had been "exemplary" and that he performed outstanding services as a personal secretary and in related clerical matters.

He will remain under federal supervision until 1973.

Scarbeck, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the second secretary in the American Embassy in Warsaw, Poland, when he was arrested June 13, 1961.

★ ★ ★

He was convicted Oct. 17, 1961, and sentenced to three concurrent terms of 10 years each.

THIRTY YEARS

Gold was sentenced to the 30 years in the federal prison here in December, 1950.

Gold's testimony also helped convict Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed as spies in 1953.

Mexicans Nab 8 in 'Red Coup'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Eight persons—including three Argentines—were indicted today for conspiracy to establish a Communist regime in Mexico.

Mexico's attorney general charged that the eight tried to infiltrate the student strike at the National University and use it as a base for the eventual overthrow of the government.

★ ★ ★

No trial date was set.

DURING RIOTS

The eight were arrested by agents of the federal security office during riots at the university where students forced the rector to resign.

The students have denied their strike was Communist-led, saying it was only a manifestation of student desire for more rights in the governing of the autonomous university.

The eight are charged with conspiracy, criminal association, falsification of government stamps and using false stamps and documents.

They denied the charges and told Judge Eduardo Ferrer MacGregor a statement they signed shortly after their arrest was forced from them. But MacGregor ruled there was enough evidence against them to warrant a trial.

CREDENTIALS

The prosecutor showed the judge credentials he said were taken from the prisoners that identified the owners as professors at the university.

The government claimed the eight were members of the Trotskyite Workers party and that the party is dedicated to overthrowing the Mexican government.

10 Die, 60 Injured in Bus-Train Crash

★ ★ ★

Officials said 10 of the injured were in critical condition and the death toll was expected to rise.

★ ★ ★

The collision, which occurred at a grade crossing near the small town of Hammerun in Jutland, was so violent the bus was sliced into two pieces and the rear part burst into flames.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Surgery Only Treatment for Contracture

Q — I recently developed small bumps on the palms of both hands. My doctor says I have Dupuytren's contracture but he did not recommend any treatment. Would ultrasound help?

A — Dupuytren's contracture is a slowly progressing hereditary disease that starts with the tumors you describe on the palms.

BRANDSTADT

As the disease progresses the fingers are gradually pulled toward the palm and cannot be straightened out.

This is due to a thickening of the strong fibrous sheath (palmar fascia) which lies between the skin of the palm and the tendons attached to the finer muscles.

Ultrasound, of value in some cases of bursitis, would be of no help.

CAREFUL DISSECTION

The operation should be performed early in the course of the disease.

Q — My trouble is seepage from the bladder, especially when I laugh. What can be done for it?

A — This very common and troublesome condition is known as stress incontinence.

It is found chiefly in women who are over 50 and have borne several children, but these factors are absent in some victims.

CAN BE TAUGHT

When women with this complaint can be taught to contract their pelvic muscle and repeat this many times throughout the day, these exercises may result in better control.

Q — Would the constant use of Robaxin be harmful?

About 10 per cent of those who take it complain of drowsiness, dizziness, blurred vision, headache, nausea and skin rash, but these usually clear up when the dosage is reduced.

The drug is not habit-forming.

Island Near Alaska Once Had Glaciers

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A small ice cap covering about four and a half square miles, once topped St. George Island, part of the Pribilof Islands to the west of Alaska, about 300,000 years ago.

These islands lie near the southwestern edge of the continental shelf that extends between Alaska and Siberia, and are thus favorably situated to provide a record as to time and environment of former land connections between Asia and America.

At least two, and probably four, glaciers were present on the island during the Illinoian glaciation which was the third stage of the Great Ice Ages, said David M. Hopkins of the U. S. Geological Survey, Menlo Park, Calif., and Thorleifur Einarsson of the University Research Institute, Reykjavik, Iceland.

Water Service Bids Sought

County Asks City, Waterford for Prices

Oakland County officials said today that quotations for water service to the county service center would be sought from both Waterford Township and Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

William G. Atchison, director of maintenance for the county, said that the service center presently has adequate water supplied by four wells.

The inquiry on possible outside sources of water was made in view of the proposed future growth of the service center, he added.

Waterford Township, which has an internal water distribution system supplied by wells, already has been contacted for an estimate on providing water for the service center.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac, which uses Detroit water, will also be asked for a price quotation, Atchison said.

ASSURE SUPPLY

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the County Board of Auditors, said that the availability of an outside water source would assure an adequate water supply for the service center if the present water table dropped.

Murphy and Atchison both pointed out that the table took an unexpected drop when Pontiac switched to Detroit water in August 1963 and two of the service center's wells failed to function properly for a few days.

County officials had anticipated a rise in the water table when Pontiac discontinued its ground water pumping.

★ ★ ★

Murphy said that the county has not been able to add a well in the past four or five years. Recent attempts have been unsuccessful, he said.

★ ★ ★

Reds Call for Peace in May Day Rallies

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

May Day demonstrations around the world followed the usual pattern yesterday with calls for peace in Viet Nam sounding at most of them.

Reviewing a military parade in Moscow's Red Square, Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky accused the United States of waging "a foul bandit war against the heroic Vietnamese people."

"Together with the other Socialist countries," Malinovsky said, "we support our Vietnamese brothers and are rendering them and will continue to render them all possible assistance."

Other Soviet leaders standing atop Lenin's Tomb in a cold rain reviewed the parade, which included floats denouncing the U. S. presence in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Radio Peking said three million persons turned out for the celebrations in the Communist Chinese capital, but Communist party Chairman Mao was absent. Mao, 72, has not been seen in public for more than five months.

PEKING RALLY

During the Peking rally, Premier Chou En-lai warned the United States that "even more disastrous defeats are in store" if the Viet Nam war is expanded. He said U. S. efforts to set up peace talks would fail.

In South Viet Nam, the chant "Da Dao My"—Down with Americans — resounded outside the U.S. Embassy in Saigon where Vietnamese troops faced 7,000 farmers, dock workers and students demonstrating for peace. There was no violence.

The demonstration was apparently influenced by the powerful Buddhist movement. U. S. officials also said the rally was possibly Communist-infiltrated.

President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam warned in a letter to his armed forces: "Our compatriots, cadres and army men should not indulge in subjectivism and underestimation of the enemy because of victories."

Mao Riddle Hints China Power Shift

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Deepening mystery over the fate of Mao Tze-tung spurred speculation among U.S. officials today about a possible power shift in Red China with worldwide repurcussions.

The belief that the Chinese Communist leadership may be approaching a transition period is one of several reasons for recent overtures by the Johnson administration to reduce tensions and lower barriers between Red China and the United States.

All these gestures have been rebuffed by the Peking regime, but administration experts believe they may have an impact on the foreign policy attitude of future Chinese leaders.

The United States and, so far as Washington authorities can determine the Soviet Union, also, have been watching the Mao mystery develop for several months with growing fascination.

The interest of Soviet leaders in the possibility of personality changes in the top of the Peking ruling group is believed here to be a prime cause of their determination to hold the door open to some sort of Soviet-Chinese reconciliation.

RED MEETING

Mao's situation is regarded here as the key to what is likely to happen in Peking in the next few weeks or months.

But it is a Mao which the outside world, reportedly including Soviet as well as American experts on Chinese Communist affairs, does not presently understand.

★ ★ ★

Mao, 72, last made a public appearance in November when he received a delegation from Cambodia.

MAO ABSENCE

His absence from subsequent public ceremonies did not at first arouse interest here and in other world capitals, since it has been the pattern to drop from sight for two or three months at a time.

But when he failed to reappear in Peking as winter ended, U.S. experts began to speculate that he was ill.

The belief that he has suffered a serious illness or per-

Probers Aim New Assault at Defense Chief

Allege Equipment Needed in Viet War Sold or Stockpiled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's management of manpower and equipment for the U.S. war effort in Viet Nam is coming under increasingly heavy congressional fire.

Senate investigators, raising new charges of supply shortages in Viet Nam, charged yesterday that the Pentagon had sold or stockpiled equipment needed in the war.

Fifteen staff members who recently returned from a tour of the Far East and Europe planned to present their case when the Senate foreign aid begins hearings tomorrow.

It was the latest in a seris of allegaions that U. S. forces in Southeast Asia were not getting all the equipment they needed. McNamara has denied all such charges.

★ ★ ★

Joseph Lippman, the subcommittee's staff director, said the defense department "is deposing of useful and usable equipment." He emphasized that the equipment did not include weapons.

But, Lippman said, "there are considerable shortages. We have got lots of requisitions that have not been filled and they can be matched with disposals and excess in holding areas."

He said the list of shortages included bulldozers, tractors, cranes, rock crushing plants, dump trucks, 2½-ton cargo trucks, graders, scrapers and generators.

As for manpower management, the Senate preparedness subcommittee, in testimony taken March 23 and made public during the weekend, disclosed that the 750 Army Reserve units deactivated last fall as surplus included some types since requested for the war effort.

Walkout Halts Building Work

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of construction workers in Lower Michigan struck over wages today, tying up millions of dollars in building jobs.

One union group, about 1,000 reinforced steel workers, stayed at work after earlier voting to strike.

Walking out were bricklayers, operating engineers, carpenters and laborers.

Involved were workers in virtually every metropolitan area in Lower Michigan, including Detroit, the Saginaw Valley, Flint, Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Benton Harbor and Muskegon.

Regis O'Brien, business manager for Reinforced Steelworkers Local 426, said the local yesterday voted 10 to 1 to strike. He said the rodbusters, who place reinforcing steel in concrete, had permission from the Ironworkers International Union for the walkout.

Local 426 has 1,000 members in 34 southern Michigan counties. O'Brien said no further negotiations had been scheduled with the Associated General Contractors (AGC).

The affect on state building projects across the state could not be determined immediately, said Clarence Rosa, deputy state building director.

There were signs of activity on a $25.2-million state office building complex immediately west of the Capitol, however. An aparently reduced labor force worked on the 6.8 million secretary of state and revenue building.

Also affected was a 13-county northern Lower Michigan area centering on Traverse City and Alpena.

Spokesmen for Laborers Union Local 1247 in Traverse City said no negotiations have been scheduled with contractors and claimed all other trade unions were honoring picket lines at area commercial construction projects.

Strike's Effect Expected Here

City, Area School Projects Threatened

Today's strike by thousands of lower Michigan construction workers is expected to halt work on four Pontiac elementary school projects and three in Waterford Township.

The strike also could slow or stop work on the Oakland County Drain Office's Clinton River project and the Devonshire Drain on Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Township.

On strike are bricklayers, operating engineers, reinforced steel workers, carpenters and laborers.

Also affected by the strike could be two State Highway Department bridge projects on Square Lake Road near Opdyke and foru overpasses in Hazel Park. The County Road Commission and county Department of Public Works anticipate no work stoppage.

New elementary schools affected are Rogers, Herrington, Emerson and Franklin in Pontiac and Manley and Cherokee Hills in Waterford Township.

The township's Riverside Elementary School addition also would be affected.

SEN. PATRICK V. McNAMARA

Homage Paid by President, State Leaders

Wednesday Services Scheduled in Detroit for Senate Veteran

DETROIT (AP) — Patrick Vincent McNamara, who once earned only nine cents an hour as a pipefitter, today was paid the respect and homage of the state he served in the U.S. Senate for nearly 12 years.

He had been under treatment there since March 11 for a blood clot which settled in a lung.

McNamara, chairman of the important Senate Public Works Committee, announced earlier this year he would not seek a third Senate term.

★ ★ ★

His faiilng health was believed to have prompted the decision.

WEDNESDAY RITES

An aide of the senator said funeral services would be Wednesday in Detroit's Holy Name Roman Catholic Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

In a statement from the White House, Johnson described him as "a man of good and generous instincts. He served many worthwhile causes with concern for those Americans unable to help themselves, and he will be remembered as a champion of the people."

★ ★ ★

In Lansing, Gov. George Romney proclaimed a two-day period of mourning throughout Michigan and ordered that U.S. and state flags be flown at half staff.

CONTENDERS

Leaders in the race for McNamara's Senate seat, including ex-Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, Democrats, and U.S. Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., joined in the tributes.

McNamara was born in North Waymouth, Mass., son of Irish immigrants and eldest of eight children.

He moved to Detroit in 1920 and became active in union and civic affairs. He married Kathleen Kennedy in Cleveland in 1921 and they had two children, Mary Jane and Patrick Vincent Jr.

WIFE DIES

McNamara's wife died in 1929. The next year he married Mary Mattee of Calumet, Mich.

In 1937 McNamara became president of Local 636 of the Pipefitters Union, a post he held until 1955.

Griffin Seen as Likely Successor

LANSING (AP) — Republican Congressman Robert Griffin appears to be the best bet to succeed the late U. S. Sen. Patrick McNamara, a six-month appointment which could markedly improve Griffin's underdog chances for election to a full Senate term in November.

★ ★ ★

Political leaders from Republican Gov. George Romney on down are refusing to speculate publicly on the governor's pending appointment until after Wednesday's funeral for McNamara.

But the strongest logic points to Griffin, a five-term House member from Traverse City.

He was picked 11 weeks ago by Republican leaders as their preferred candidate for the seat McNamara planned to vacate at the end of this term.

★ ★ ★

Griffin was seen, however, as an underdog to either former Gov. G. Mennen Williams or Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, principal contenders for the Democratic nomination.

OPPORTUNITY

But an incumbent position could provide Griffin with additional opportunity to speak — and be heard — by the voters.

The second possible choice Romney might make would be to appoint an interim senator who would not run for election in November.

Best bet for this type of appointment could be Michigan State University president John Hannah.

★ ★ ★

Some top Republicans had evaluated him last year as the party's best Senate candidate for 1966 but he rejected their overtures.

DEADLINE

Deadline for filing for election is June 14.

The other two possible but extremely remote moves Romney could make would be to appoint no one to the vacancy or to name himself.

Sky Diver Is Battling for Life After Mishap

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Sky diver Nick Piantanida, foiled in his third attempt to set a world's free fall record when a freak accident cut off his oxygen in the stratosphere, fought for his life today.

Piantanida was flown to Hennepin County General Hospital here early today from Worthington, Minn., where he had been taken after his balloon plunged to earth yesterday.

He suffered brain damage during the heart-stopping 10-mile fall to earth.

Less than half way to his planned altitude of 124,000 feet, the face visor on Piantanida's spacesuit cracked and released his vital supply of oxygen.

★ ★ ★

He had time to gasp only a few hoarse words on the radio to his ground controllers before lapsing into unconsciousness.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

The ground crew immediately released the gondola from a giant helium-filled balloon, and Piantanida plunged earthward. He was taken to the hospital moaning and sucking on an oxygen tube.

The Bricktown, N.J., father of three had hoped to ride the balloon to the planned height and then jump overboard, falling more than 20 miles before opening his parachute.

The accident occurred at little more than an hour after a perfect ascent foom Sioux Falls, S.D., and about 3,000 feet under the level of sudden death.

Dem Candidates Making Final Pitches in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Democratic candidates make their final pleas today before Alabama's historic primary that could see Mrs. George C. Wallace endorsed for governor and Negroes boosted toward office for the first time since reconstruction.

See Story, Page B-7

since passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which stemmed from violence-marked demonstrations in Selma and the 50-mile march to Montgomery.

★ ★ ★

Federal poll watchers will be posted in the 11 counties where examiners were sent under the act to certify voters. Assigned there by U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, they will watch for any discrimination or intimidation against the thousands of newly registered Negroes.

National attention began focusing on the election some time ago. Its many features include the bid of a woman to reach the governor's chair, Negroes seeking — and having a sound chance — to attain county offices and legislative seats, the largest Negro registration ever in Alabama, and a test of the popularity of Gov. George C. Wallace.

NEGRO VOTE

Impact of the Negro vote, estimated at 235,000 or 20 per cent of the electorate, was felt many months ago. Voters will see its effect the moment they step into voting booths.

At stake in the primary are the nominations for governor, the U.S. Senate, five congressional seats, lieutenant governor, attorney general, education superintendent, agriculture commissioner, auditor, treasurer, two Public Service Commission seats, state legislative seats and a host of county offices.

Negroes are not seeking statewide offices but are making bids for the legislature and county offices such as sheriff, tax assessor or school board member.

Victory in the primary is not tantamount to election, as in years past when the Democratic party was king. The Republicans say they plan to contest at least all state offices in the general election. U.S. Rep. James D. Martin has announced he'll run for governor on the GOP ticket.

★ ★ ★

Prime interest in the Democratic primary is centered on the governor's race and the candidacy of Lurleen Wallace, wife of Gov. Wallace. Nine men, including three of her husband's bitterest political critics, oppose her.

Wallace is prevented by the state constitution from succeeding himself in office. His attempt to alter this and get a constitutional amendment to the people was defeated last year in the legislature by a corps of senators led by Bob Gilchrist of Morgan County, now running for governor. So Wallace decided to put his wife in the race, making it clear he would continue to run things if she is elected.

★ ★ ★

All Mrs. Wallace's major opponents concede that the mother of four is running first. The question is will she get a majority so a runoff May 31 won't be necessary and, if not, who will come in second?

Highland Park Teachers End 2-Day Strike

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Members of the Highland Park Federation of Teachers reportedly reached agreement with the city's board of education today, averting the third day of a strike which closed two schools last week.

Robert Blackwell, executive secretary of the State Labor Mediation Board, said tentative agreement was reached early this morning. Teachers will report to their classrooms today, he said.

A court session scheduled for today before Circuit Judge John B. Swainson to seek an injunction against the teachers was adjourned until Tuesday, Blackwell said.

Terms of the agreement will be discussed at a meeting of the teachers after classes today, according to the mediation board.

About 200 teachers picketed last week to support demands for a $500 annual raise and increased fringe benefits. Two schools were closed and the school board reported classes were disrupted at nine other schools and the Highland Park Community College.

Contract Is Ratified by Bus Mechanics

Members of UAW Local No. 417, mechanics of Great Lakes Transit Corp., yesterday ratified a new three-year contract with the corporation thus averting a threatened strike.

According to Local President Dean Spooner, the economic package amounted to 48 cents an hour, including fringe benefits and wages.

Jets Wipe Out Missile Site

Although weather curtailed air missions over the Communist North, A4 Skyhawks and F8 Crusaders from the carrier Hancock saturated the missile site 34 miles northeast of Vinh, on the North Vietnamese coast, with Bullpup air-to-surface missiles and 500- and 600-pound bombs. A spokesman said they destroyed everything within a 400-foot-square area, including two Soviet-built missile launchers.

★ ★ ★

So far, the Leathernecks say they have killed 69 Viet Cong, captured 6 and taken 223 suspects against light Marine casualties. Intelligence reports had indicated more than 1,000 Viet Cong in the area, but the Communists did not rise to the bait.

Police Training Program Starts

All Members of City Force to Participate

The Pontiac Police Department started today on the first leg of a 4-week in-service training program which will eventually involve every member of the force in a 35-hour course of instruction.

Chief William K. Hanger, scheduled to undergo the training session with the rest of the 120-man department, said the courses would necessitate deactivation of 25 per cent of the department each week during the month-long program.

Next week, another 30 men will take the program. Training is scheduled to be completed May 27.

The classes include instruction in handling civil disorders, collection of evidence, laws of search and seizure and criminal interrogation, and public relations in police work.

OTHER EXPERTS

Handling the teaching assignments in addition to FBI specialists will be crime laboratory experts from the Michigan State Police, college instructors in law enforcement techniques, and juvenile court officials.

"We feel this is an important move towards upgrading the professionalism of the department," said Hanger.

"Demands on police work have increased greatly in recent years. This is one way we can meet what is expected of law enforcement in Pontiac."

The in-service program, last held in 1961, was made possible by an $11,000 budget allocation by the City Commission.

In 1946, McNamara ran successfully for a Detroit City Council seat and, two years later, was elected to the city's Board of Education.

ENTERS RACE

Still almost unknown outside of Detroit, McNamara set out after the Democratic Senate nomination in 1954 challenging former Sen. Blair Moody, favorite of virtually the entire state party.

Moody died before the election, too late for any other Democrat to get his name on the ballot.

★ ★ ★

He beat Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson by 39,000 votes.

These were a few of the tributes his death called forth:

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill.: "Sen. McNamara was one of the most candid men in public service. He had absolutely no guile. The United States has lost an honest servant."

Commission Is Advised to Nix Plan for Museum

BIRMINGHAM — The city administration has recommended that the City Commission reject a proposal to acquire an old home for use as a historical museum at this time.

The City Commission will be notified of the recommendation at its meeting this evening.

At the same time, however, the recommendation, prepared by City Administrative Aide John F. Saefke, does not exclude the possibility of a historical village in the future.

In mid-April, J. B. McMechan, chairman of the Birmingham Historical Board suggested that the city establish a museum in a 100-year-old home now located at 384 Willits. The home would have to be moved to a new site.

He further proposed that steps be taken to obtain additional homes of different eras and then move them to a central location.

DIRECTIONS SUGGESTED

Should the City Commission accept the over-all plan, Saefke proposes the commission direct the historical board to:

- Identify and substantiate the selection of buildings to be preserved.
- Present a detailed plan for the method of preservation.
- Prepare detailed plans for initial and continuing financing.
- Draft plans for all aspects of responsibility, control and operations.

Saefke said McMechan's plan for the historical museum contains a "considerable amount of speculation" and there does not seem to be adequate justification now to recommend acceptance of the proposal.

If the commission approves the four steps proposed, the Historical Board would be in a better position to request action to implement the program, according to Saefke.

The board, Saefke said, would also have time to begin its financing structure and to "mold its operational organization so that there would be a better degree of preparedness when the next building becomes available."

Purse Stolen From Woman

Mrs. Pearl Tear of 1120 Meadowlawn told Pontiac police she was crossing the street about 7:30 p.m. when she was "nearly knocked over" by someone behind her.

He did not appear at yesterday's May Day celebration.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Another cause of the belief here that Mao is or has been seriously ill is the fact that the Chinese press has been engaged for more than a month now in virtually deifying him.

SOURCE OF CONFLICT

So far as Washington authorities know, all these men are dedicated to the theories of aggressive communist world revolution—a major source of conflict between China and other nations, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

Beyond such men as these, Western experts have little idea who might eventually succeed to power in China, but U.S. authorities on China believe that after a period of time in the post-Mao era a power struggle among personalities inevitably would develop and some of the younger men in the political structure might have different ideas about China's foreign relations.

★ ★ ★

The Johnson administration obviously has been trying since last December to develop a better tactical position for the next battle in the United Nations over the proposal to vote Red China into membership.

CLOSE VOTE

Overtures since then include a policy decision to let U.S. doctors and public health authorities visit China, a decision to let Chinese newsmen come to the United States, and most recently, the granting of permission to various American universities to invite Chinese Communist scholars to come here.

These same moves also were calculated by the administration to offset the criticism by some members of Congress of a too rigid policy toward Red China.

★ ★ ★

American authorities discount all possibility of any real change in the U.S.-Red Chinese relationship so long as the war in Viet Nam continues.

BLAME RED CHINA

And they blame Red China for much of the determination to continue it, saying the Peking leadership encourages North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong to reject all efforts to arrive at a peace settlement.

It Seems to Me . . .

Senator Dirksen Proposes to Return Prayer to Schools

A wide segment of the population in this country is hailing Senator EVERETT M. DIRKSEN'S proposed constitutional amendment on prayers in school.

★ ★ ★

The Illinois Senator says he is harkening to the clamor that's widespread in America for some recognition of God in the classroom.

Imagine having to fight for that!

The Illinois savant has an amendment that would permit — and neither demand or require — prayers in public schools by the students, teachers or both.

★ ★ ★

It's difficult to picture the United States sinking so low that a step like this is necessary. However, that's precisely where our dog-eared Supreme Court placed us with its inexplicable ruling that caused consternation from coast to coast and left the world flabbergasted.

In a speech on the subject, the Senator said:

"I'm not going to let nine men say to 190 million people, including children when and where they can utter their prayers."

A nation will be staunchly and stoutly behind him. The whole countryside was incensed at the time. It seemed grotesque, barbaric and Godless.

There is also a widespread hope that if this matter is reversed as it should, it may have an additional and very wholesome effect in the future on these headstrong Washington jurists. Many think they are guided by their own personal ideas instead of the intent of the U.S. Constitution.

More power to Senator DIRKSEN.

Our Floundering Senator . . .

Senator J. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT still flounders about.

Currently, he blames our involvement in Viet Nam on the fact we extended assistance to the southern contingent. He amy be right — for once — but his solution puts him back on the same old rusty rails that zig-zag to nowhere. Senator Halfbright (as the late JOE MCCARTHY "affectionately" dubbed him) would have our foreign aid handled by "impersonal agencies."

All our open-handed doling of cold cash would be controlled by disinterested outsiders — such as the United Nations. Thus the recipients wouldn't feel the slightest obligation to the sorely pressed U. S. tax payers who contributed the money. Our generosity up to now seems to have earned us a spot of articulate foes who criticize us roundly — as soon as they cashed our checks. Picture their attitude when our kindness was "cleverly concealed" a la the Arkansas Democrat.

★ ★ ★

The forthright and outspoken HARRY S. TRUMAN once described Senator Halfbri — pardon — FULBRIGHT in terms we can't employ in a gentle, family newspaper but you may figure it out yourself.

International thanks have largely disappeared. We learned that the hard way. Why conceal our beneficence entirely?

What Is Our Loss? . . .

"Our casualties were light."

What do they mean—"light?"

They count the enemy down to the last rag-tag mule, and we learn "287 were shot down" or "the enemy lost 62."

But our losses are "light."

If we can count the foe so precisely, let's reveal the facts about our own boys. They are our boys, aren't they? Or do they belong to the Pentagon building lock, stock and barrel?

Must this nonsense continue?

And in Conclusion . . .

If you aren't busy in August, you might take part in the Fifth International Balloon Meet. It's in Switzerland and they provide the balloons, accommodations and baskets. The charge is a trifling $1,440 — which includes insurance. . . . . "Know how" is losing standing in the modern sweep and swing. The "proper" word now is "expertise" and it rhymes with "tease." . . . . Iowa University says farm land prices there advanced 10% in 1965 and other midwestern states are about the same.

Stripped for Action

David Lawrence Says:

'Racial Imbalance' Law Sought

WASHINGTON — President Johnson and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts are moving toward some of the very proposals for the removal of "racial imbalance" in public schools which the late President Kennedy publicly disapproved.

Sen. Kenne- LAWRENCE dy, in testifying before a Senate subcommittee last Wednesday on his bill "to provide federal assistance for school boards attempting to correct racial imbalance in public schools," declared in favor of furnishing federal funds to local boards which wish to consolidate school districts or to provide facilities for transporting students from one locality to another.

He said: "With some exceptions, segregation in educational facilities in the north and west does not exist as a result of purposeful official action. But it does exist nonetheless.

"As a result of a past history of residential segregation combined with a commonly observed school policy of pupil assignment based on place of residence, school systems which are highly segregated de facto by color can be found in almost every major city in the North and West.

★ ★ ★

"In my own state of Massachusetts, for example, a study last year by the Massachusetts Advisory Committee on Racial Imbalance and Education found that 'most Negro children in Massachusetts attended predominantly Negro schools while the overwhelming majority of white children attend schools that are either all-white or have fewer than five nonwhite children enrolled.'

MORE SEVERE

"Massachusetts is one example, but by no means the most striking one. The problem of de facto school segregation, or racial imbalance, is even more severe in those Northern and Western states which have a higher percentage of nonwhite citizens than my own state. . . .

"Although there may be no constitutional compulsion requiring the complete and immediate elimination of racial imbalance, it seems basic to me that those school districts which wish to alleviate this problem should receive the encouragement and support of the federal government."

The Johnson administration's position is that the federal government must tackle every form of segregation and seek "desegregation," even though the Civil Rights Act of 1964 says that "desegregation" does not require correction of "racial imbalance."

The administration, however, feels it may withhold public funds if its own ideas on "desegregation" are not followed.

Unquestionably, much of the school segregation in the north is due to residential circumstances.

To help correct this, the Johnson administration now is asking for a new housing law so as to be able to prosecute anybody who refuses to sell or rent his house to anyone else because of race or religion.

The possible impact of the entire program of governmental coercion to eliminate what is called "racial imbalance" is already causing considerable dissatisfaction in the big

Capital Letter:

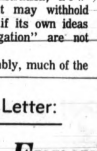
By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The perennial battle over foreign aid is simultaneously engaging the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees. Both are holding hearings on the administration bill, which this year carries a price tag of $3.38 billion.



Ruth Montgomery

In the two decades since World War II Americans have spent $800-billion on the defense of the free world, and another $40-billion on capital investments abroad. Is it worth the sacrifice to U.S. taxpayers?

Those who argue that the gargantuan effort is gaining ground will find ammunition in a new book, "The Obligations of Power," by Harlan Cleveland, a former political science professor who is now our ambassador to the tottering NATO structure in Paris.

We have yet to find a magical formula for dispencing aid, but Cleveland spikes the myth that Communist nations are better at it than we are.

SLAVISH COPY

He says they started by making their foreign aid program a slavish copy of ours, learned remarkably little from watching our errors, and systematically made the same mistakes we did, in the same order.

Is there any end in sight? Or is foreign aid a bottomless pit into which we will continue to pour our wealth until we ourselves go bankrupt?

Cleveland raises this hopeful point which had not previously occurred to us:

Forty per cent of the total population of the underdeveloped world — Asia, Africa and Latin America — lives in just two countries, India and Brazil.

Is it beyond the realm of possibility that these two giants might become self-sustaining in another decade, through hard work and international cooperation?

ON OWN FEET

And what if India and Pakistan decide to bury the hatchet and work together for mutual gain? The subcontinent they share has more people than all of Africa and Latin America combined.

★ ★ ★

If those three nations could become dispensers instead of recipients of aid within 10 to 15 years, perhaps the rest of the struggling nations could soon thereafter stand on their own feet.

★ ★ ★

At least we can dream, can't we?

Why are there so many out-of-state licenses in the factory parking lots? Do people go back home and buy their licenses to get away from paying the $35 insurance fee? Doctor Shortage

The New York Times

On July 1 the existing shortage of physicians will be still more of a problem. On that date the new Medicare program will remove many of the financial barriers that now hinder millions of older Americans from receiving all the hospital and medical care they need.

At the same time, the Viet Nam war's drain on the availability of younger physicians will be felt more as the armed services begin enrolling the almost 2,500 medical men for whom the Defense Department recently issued a "special call."

★ ★ ★

Fear of measures that might further increase medical manpower shortages in this country has already become evident in Congress. Last month the House Rules Committee refused to schedule for floor action a bill to enact the measures President Johnson included in his international health program.

★ ★ ★

Concern that this bill would result in the export of medical personnel appears to have been a prime motive.

A desirable approach to meeting the doctor shortage would be prompt action on the part of the Nation's medical schools to speed up the training of their students.

★ ★ ★

One measure that would not detract from the quality of medical education would be to eliminate the traditional long summer vacations and to conduct classes, say, at least eleven months of the year. Such schedule would make a useful beginning in a period of rising demand for physicians.

Retiree Scorns Age to Sail Junk Across Pacific

HONG KONG (AP) — A 68-year-old retired police inspector from California plans to sail a 42-foot junk across the Pacific with a young Chinese cook as his only crew — unless he can find some others willing to risk the chancy crossing.

Arthur Treadwell, who spent 27 years on the Oakland police force before retiring in 1952, says he is making the voyage to "wake up the oldsters in the United States."

"I want to convince the elderly population of America that life does not end with retirement."

British-born Treadwell, who now lives in Menlo Park and has a son on the Alameda police force, said he plans to start the trip this week.

"I had planned for two more crewmen, an Australian and an American, but they dropped out and if I don't get anyone else, I'll take off next week with only Eddie Fong."

Former tourist guide Fong, 26, will be taking his first trip outside Hong Kong when the junk, the "Little Duck," heads for the open sea.

"You might say Fong is my protege. I'm teaching him everything I know about the sea," Treadwell said.

Treadwell, a onetime merchant seaman, says he is an expert navigator and has no fear of big seas or typhoons.

He recently took a two-month crash training course in navigation, "just to brush up." But he is not confident about his ability with a radio — "I know nothing about them."

Asked what will happen if the radio breaks down, Treadwell laughed and said:

"It will just be our bad luck. But we intend to stick to conventional shipping lanes along the route to Yokohama, Kidway, Honolulu and San Francisco."

Treadwell has aboard four solar stills to convert salt water into drinking water — "just in case we run out of luck."

★ ★ ★

The nine-ton junk will, according to the skipper, be under sail all the way, though she carries a 36-horsepower engine.

"We hope to grab southwesterly and have a downhill ride all the way," he added.

He expects the junk, which cost $15,000, will make the 5,460-mile trip in three months.

Romney-Javits Team Viewed

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Republican 1968 presidential ambitions seem to involve New York State and Michigan with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., as the "swing man."

Michigan's Gov. Romney is the most-mentioned "moderate" Republican widely supported, especially since Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton has reassured Romney he has no interest in running for president in 1968.

Young moderates Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Gov. John Love of Colorado are said to be in Romney's corner.

★ ★ ★

To be taken seriously, Gov. Rockefeller must win a third term handsomely and that's where Sen. Javits' decision about seeking the governor's seat from his friend is important.

At the moment Javits is said to be reluctant to run despite the earlier encouragement from the pros impressed by his vote-getting ability.

★ ★ ★

Nixon, who has adopted New York State, would inherit the Goldwater bloc, but this isn't likely to be a sufficient asset in getting the presidential nomination come the next GOP National Convention.

POSSIBLE TICKET

Could the GOP ticket be Romney and Javits?

★ ★ ★

Javits' philosophy is spelled out in his book, "Order of Battle; a Republican Call to Reason," soon to appear in paperback.

MRS. C. E. LUND

Reception in Home for Paul Lunds

★ ★ ★

Easy Laundering for Nuns Today

Now that nuns drive cars and even participate in fashion shows, it is no surprise that members of some orders also wear stretch nylon stockings, habits made of drip-dry synthetic fibers, and suds-spongeable plastic collars.

Such modern improvements make laundering that much easier for these women who are world-famous for their knack of turning out sparklingly clean washes.

Pontiac's PTA Council Meets Tuesday Night

Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac schools, will discuss the duties of board of education members and school administrators at Tuesday's city PTA Council meeting.

The panel program begins at 7:30 p.m. in the board of education building on Wide Track Drive.

★ ★ ★

On the evening's agenda will be year-end reports from local presidents, council officers and chairmen and the presentation of scholarship checks so that recipients may be selected from Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central high schools.

SPRING CONFERENCE

Local units will attend the District 7 spring conference at 8 p.m. May 11 in Madison Junior High School. The meeting is designed to inform newly elected officers and chairmen.

★ ★ ★

Another important date for council members is June 7 when mass installation of PTA officers will be conducted. Reservations will be required.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Bomsta of South Roslyn Road announce the betrothal of their daughter, Pamela Dawn, to Thomas Eldon McKinnon, son of the Claude C. McKinnons of Overidge Drive. She attends Central Michigan University and her fiance is a senior at Western Michigan University.

Still in Demand

Despite the fashion trend to lower, more comfortable heel heights, the National Shoe Retailers Association reports the customer wanting the traditional high heel still represents an important percentage of business.

MRS. J. T. BAKER

Gave Party

Mrs. B. Bingham Gordon of Robinhood Circle entertained at a cocktail party Saturday evening. The event was in celebration of her receiving her master's degree in library science from the University of Michigan earlier in the day.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. I would like to have my nose fixed. I have a very large nose and I'm always being teased about it. Can you give me some information about this?

★ ★ ★

A. This is done very successfully and is considered one of the simpler plastic surgery operations. Make an appointment with a plastic surgeon and talk with him about it. You can locate a competent one by calling your local County Medical Society.

★ ★ ★

Q. In a recent column you mentioned paste polish for splitting nails. I had never heard of this. Please give me the brand name.

★ ★ ★

A. If any of my readers want this information, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

★ ★ ★

Q. I am 21 years old, five feet 4 and weigh 112 pounds. Everyone says I have a cute figure. I help this along with the most flattering styles available and other feminine tricks. I am supposed to look like my mother and my aunt and I do, except for one thing. They both have full and lovely busts while I all but disappear unless I am wearing one of those half bras with underpadding. Is there something I can do to give my bust as well as my ego a boost? I have tried many exercise trying to add at least three inches to my bust and nothing helps. Just call me Flatty Patty.

★ ★ ★

A. I wonder if you were impatient and didn't do the exercises for long enough. It takes quite a few months to see a difference. The bustline CAN be increased by building up the underlying chest muscles. Also you are about five to seven pounds underweight even if you have a small frame. A gain would increase the size of the busts.

★ ★ ★

Q. I am a girl almost 15 years old. I have a terrible time finding an exercise which will take inches off my unwanted hips without decreasing the size of my waist. Every exercise I have takes more off my waist than my hips. All my skirts, slacks and shorts have to be altered.

Miss Stokan, J. T. Baker Take Vows

★ ★ ★

Their parents are the Jack F. Stokans of Farmington, Mrs. Harry T. Baker, Scott Lake Road, and the late Mr. Baker.

PEARL TRIM

Seed pearl embroidery accented the bride's chapel-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, worn with short veil of illusion. Her flowers were gardenias and lilies of the valley.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Finding Cong Mines Is One More Grim Task

Claymore Mine—Simple but Terrible

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BIEN HOA, Viet Nam — The Claymore mine is a football-sized container of sharp steel fragments which, when detonated, sends its mutilation over an area the size of Yankee Stadium.

They use it not so much to murder men as to murder man's morale.

No one is safe from its effects here. A blast takes a toll not only at ground zero but throughout the country, wherever GIs read or hear of the latest incidents.

"Heard about the Claymores at Bien Hoa?" a man will ask another.

"Again?" his buddy will answer.

"Yeah, three guys in a jeep."

"Gof, where'd it happen?"

* * *

"Cripes, where next?"

"I wish I knew, pal."

ELECTRIC MINE

The mines are normally exploded by electrical impluse. A simple process . . . two attached wires, strung as much as a thousand yards from the bomb, are stripped of insulation and touched together.

It is so lacking in complexity, in fact, that only a couple of peabrained guerrillas can and do upset the routine of entire U. S. units.

An example occurred here the other day. Sgt. George Thomas was bringing 10 members of an ambush patrol back to base after an all-night stay in the thicket surrounding the 173rd Airborne Brigade. The men were weary, dirty and close to home —just outside the gates in fact.

* * *

They were crossing a road intersection when it happened.

Three Claymores at once. The boom was audible miles away.

"We had three men wounded," Thomas said afterward.

"Any dead?" he was asked.

"No, we were spread away from the blast."

"How far?"

"I was 300 meters from it, myself."

* * *

"Relatively. I only took two fragments."

"Did you see anyone?"

"No, we figured they were way back in the brush."

"How many do you think?"

"Maybe two or three."

Only two or three. But the havoc spread through the entire camp. First, the noise woke up everyone and set them on edge for the day. Second, a massive search was instigated to hunt the trio down.

Two platoon-sized patrols went one way. Several helicopters another. A squad with a police dog another. And reinforced elements still another.

* * *

Before it was over a couple of hundred men were trying to box in three Vietnamese bad guys in an area full of Vietnamese good guys. It was all to no avail.

GIVES REPORT

One platoon leader was asked if he saw anything.

"Nope," he answered.

"What if you had?"

"If they had guns, I'd a shot them."

"And if they had stashed their guns?"

"Well, then I don't know. That's always the problem here."

Indeed it is. The enemy and the ally look alike. And many are the ally by day and the enemy by night. The Bien Hoa base, for instance, has thousands of Vietnamese laborers and nearby rubber plantations have hundreds more.

Who is to know one from the other?

* * *

Who is to guess where and who will strike next?

Claymores and booby traps and sniper fire. In the city, in the country, at restaurants and railroads, by buildings and bridges.

* * *

Calcutta Herds No Exception

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — The other day, the residents of an American city — Hialeah, Fla., —got quite excited when some cattle broke loose and went sight-seeing down the city streets.

* * *

But Calcutta, the dangers and frustrations of herds of cattle running down the streets is the rule, rather than the exception.

Goats, sheep, cows and water buffalo are driven through this city's congested streets daily, posing a threat to human limb and an obstacle to traffic.

In addition to the herds, being taken to dairy barns or slaughter houses, there are countless sacred Brahma cows which know no owner and wander aimlessly through the streets seeking morsels of food.

* * *

REOPEN SHOPS

But the courts issued an injunction against the increase, the meat shops reopened, and the herdsmen again pushed their animals through the streets.

Slaughter fees, incidentally, are relatively low — 60 cents for a cow, and 17 cents for a goat or sheep.

So, once again the cattle are knocking down unwary pedestrians and blocking busy intersections, regardless of the traffic lights.

* * *

In addition to the herds being driven through the city to slaughter, goat herders drive their animals door-to-door, peddling fresh milk.

Many Indians do not trust bottled or other prepared products, suspecting it may be adulterated or spoiled. Therefore, they insist that a goat be milked at their door.

Viet Reports in Book Form

Among the many newsmen covering the Viet Nam war, one reporter stands out — Tom Tiede, winner of the Ernie Pyle Award, whose column is a regular feature of The Pontiac Press.

Tiede's writings are from a soldier's point of view and tell of the day-to-day anguish and heroism of our men.

'Work Force' Commended on Cleanup

"A dandy display of civic mindedness," was the comment of Clyde Christian, head of the Pontiac Department of Public Works.

* * *

Christian was commenting on a more than four-hour cleanup Saturday of a portion of Featherstone by a group of children and adults from the Herrington Hills area.

The right-of-way along Featherstone, Opdyke to East Boulevard, was cleared of trash and other litter by 41 youngsters and seven adults.

The DPW furnished two men and trucks for the cleanup effort.

* * *

AP Photos

HOW(E) TO STOP A CANADIEN—Gordie Howe (9) of the Red Wings halts break-in attempt by Montreal's Jim Roberts while the visiting Canadiens were shorthanded in the first period Sunday at Detroit. The Wings' star, however, drew a penalty for elbowing on the play. Substitute goalie Hank Bassen (30), who was a star despite Montreal's 2-1 series-squaring win, watches the action.

Wings' Relief Man Shines in Setback

DETROIT (AP) — The star took a day off, and the understudy stepped into the spotlight Sunday when Detroit Red Wings goalie Roger Crozier was injured in the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs.

★ ★ ★

OUT EARLY

Both Detroit coach Sid Abel and Montreal coach Toe Blake praised Bassen, who was credited with 25 saves after Crozier went out early in the first period with a sprained knee and twisted ankle.

★ ★ ★

Does the Canadiens victory, which evened the best - of - seven series 2-2, give the Montreal team a psychological advantage because of the two - game winning streak? The teams meet again Tuesday in Montreal.

★ ★ ★

"There's no use saying home ice will be beneficial in this series," Blake said with a grin, "We've had a hard time winning here all year."

"This doesn't place us at a psychological disadvantage. In fact, since we won two at Montreal and lost two here, maybe it gives us an advantage to get out of here."

AP Photofax

Crozier Injured as Red Wings Take 2-1 Loss

Backstrom Collects Winning Goal; Fifth Game Tomorrow

DETROIT (AP) — That 10-day rest the Montreal Canadiens had between the conclusion of their Stanley Cup semifinal series with Toronto and the start of the finals against Detroit just might prove to be the deciding factor in this year's series.

The Canadiens looked flat—and some observers felt the reason was the long layoff—in the first two games in Montreal but outskated and outhustled the Red Wings in Detroit and came back to even the best - of - seven series at two games each.

Ralph Backstrom's goal with less than seven minutes remaining carried the Canadiens to a 2-1 victory Sunday and back into the favorite's role.

SUBSTITUTE

The Red Wings were not sure whether or not Crozier would be available for the fifth game in Montreal Tuesday night.

"We'll just have to wait and see how he feels Monday," Manager-Coach Sid Abel said.

Bassen, who appeared in 11 regular season games and was playing only his fifth playoff game, stopped everything the Canadiens shot at him and could not be faulted for the two goals.

★ ★ ★

Jean Beliveau tied the score when he deflected J.C. Tremblay's shot on a power play in the final minute of the second period and Backstrom capped a well-played three - man rush with Dick Duff and Jim Roberts.

"Those two goals would have beaten anybody," Montreal Coach Toe Blake said.

"We're still not playing our best game but I think we are beginning to get our skating back in line," Blake added.

"There's no use saying home ice will be beneficial in this series," Blake added with a grin. "We've had a hard time winning here all year."

"That goal deflected off one of our players before it went into the net. I don't think we could have played any better than we did. It was a tough hockey game, and we lost it on breaks."

The Canadiens' victory means the series will go at least six games. The sixth game will be played in Detroit Thursday.

A seventh and deciding game, if necessary, will be played in Montreal. The Canadiens have scheduled it for Saturday night but may move it to Sunday afternoon to take advantage of the television coverage again.

Baltimore Sweeps Punchless Tigers

SPORTS

Birds Win, 4-1, in Sunday Tilt

Victory Keeps Orioles in First Place

DETROIT (AP) — The punchless Detroit Tigers had a day off Monday after leaving 26 base runners stranded while losing a three - game weekend series to the American League leading Baltimore Orioles.

Detroit outhit the Orioles in all three games but never got a sustained offense going.

The Tigers had Steve Barber of the Orioles in trouble most of Sunday afternoon but, with relief help from Dick Hall, he hung on to notch a 4-1 win and a sweep of the series.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore ran its winning streak to 10, thus equalling the winning streak with which the Cleveland Indians opened the AL campaign.

Joe Sparma, first of four Tiger pitchers, tangled with Barber in a scoreless duel for three innings before he ran into home run trouble.

Brooks Robinson singled to set the stage for a two-run blast by Boog Powell. It was Powell's second hime run of the season, both of them coming in the Detroit series.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore struck again in the fifth for two more runs to run the score to 4-0. The big wallop was a bases loaded single by Brooks Robinson after singles by Andy Etchebarren and Luis Aparicio and a pass to Curt Blefary had loaded the bases.

The Tigers got the leadoff man on base in five of the eight innings they faced Barber but could not bunch their hits.

Their only run came in the sixth when Don Wert walked and took third on Jerry Lumpe's single to center. Don Demeter grounded to Aparicio who started a double play while Wert scampered home.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers loaded the bases in the seventh with one away and could not score. In the eighth, Barber got into a jam again as he gave up a single to Lumpe and a walk to Al Kaline with one out. Hall rushed in and got Bill Freehan on a line drive and Orlando McFarlane on strikes to preserve the win for Barber (2-0). Loser Sparma is now 1-1.

Totals for the weekend series showed Detroit outhit the Orioles 25 to 21, but got only four runs across while Baltimore was scoring 15 times. Detroit left 26 men on base, the Orioles 16.

Atlanta Golfer Amateur Titlist

Salesman Wettlaufer North-South Champ

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—When Ward Wettlaufer, the new North and South amateur golf champion, was a teen-ager in Buffalo, N. Y., his father told him, "If you want to play golf, play serious golf."

★ ★ ★

The 30-year-old Atlanta printing supply salesman, has followed that advice.

His 4 and 2 victory over Marion Heck in Saturday's 36-hole North and South Tournament final gave Wettlaufer what he termed his greatest tournament victory.

Heck, who has played golf only six of his 26 years, took a 1-up lead in the morning round. The muscular Columbiana, Ohio, player shot 76, four over par, for his 18 holes over the 7,000-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club. He had won three holes in a row, two with birdies, starting at No. 8.

Wettlaufer won only five holes in the morning round, halved seven and lost six. In the afternoon he lost only one, the 14th, by which time he had a comfortable lead.

Pontiac Champ in MPGA Win

Pontiac golfers dominated the opening handicap tournament on the Michigan Publinx Golf Association schedule yesterday at Morey's Golf & Country Club.

Paul Bada, Pontiac City champion, carded a two-under-par 33-36-69 to top the field of 250 by two strokes.

Sharing second with even par 71s were Wally Smith and Ed Wasik, both of Pontiac, along with Lee Gohs and Bill Schwope of Detroit.

It was the second tournament in less than a year in which Smith finished second to Bada. In the Pontiac Medal Play last August, Bada trimmed the Royal Oak policeman on the second hole of sudden death to take the title.

Spahn Looks at Offer in Texas League

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, the winningest left-hander in baseball history, said Saturday night he is considering an offer to pitch in the Texas League.

"I've been watching television, and I think I can do as well as some of those guys," said the 45-year-old Spahn, who was released by the San Francisco Giants after the 1965 season.

"In fact," Spahn said, "Chuck Tanner, who is manager of the El Paso team in the Texas League, called me recently and offered me a job. I just might go there to show people I can still get them out."

Spahn said he had made "no concrete commitment to anyone on anything" and that he had no immediate plans.

Graustark on Sidelines; Derby Minus Top Choice

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With Graustark sidelined by a broken bone, Saturday's running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby shapes up today as a wide-open scramble with at least four colts vying for the favorite's role.

There are about 20 3-year-olds either at Churchill Downs or en route who can be listed as possible starters in the 1¼-mile race.

However, the list may be trimmed to 14 or even 12 by the weather, Tuesday's Derby Trial and the owners' unwillingness to part with the $1,500 necessary to get a horse into the starting line up.

ENTRIES DUE

Entries for the first of the Triple Crown series, which also includes the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, will be made Thursday morning. Post time Saturday is 5:45 p.m., EDT.

"He is through racing for the season and probably forever," said Gentry after listening to the report of Dr. Alex Harthill.

The veterinarian has nursed the Darby Dan Farm colt through a series of ailments, including bucked shins last year and a sprained ankle early this season.

The colt, still in intense pain, will be sent to the farm at Lexington, Ky., within a few days and is expected to enter the stud there. The final decision will be up to owner John Galbreath.

Buckpasser, the other early favorite, is convalescing from a kuarter-crack. He took the Flamingo this year following a 2-year-old campaign which carried him to the juvenile title.

Graustark was unbeaten in his first seven races, three last year, but was beaten by Abe's Hope in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland last Thursday.
