

MEADOWBROOK
71
MUSIC FESTIVAL
Where nature sets
the stage

Duke Ellington, genius of jazz, composer, pianist, arranger. A monumental musician.

Arthur Fiedler, acclaimed leader of the Boston Pops Orchestra. Revered as "Mr. Pops."

Judy Collins, the supremely talented folk singer, turns every song into a work of art.

Vladimir Ashkenazy. This world-famous pianist is returning to Meadow Brook for his fifth season.

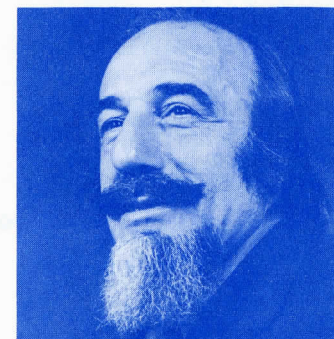

Andre Watts, the soaring virtuoso who won fame overnight, returns to Meadow Brook.

Andre Previn, Chief Conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra, is cheered by critics.

Ella Fitzgerald, a living legend and perhaps the greatest female vocalist of our time.

Mitch Miller has led the nation in song. Now he brings his magic to the Baldwin Pavilion.

Carlos Montoya is the world's reigning master of Flamenco and all other guitar music.

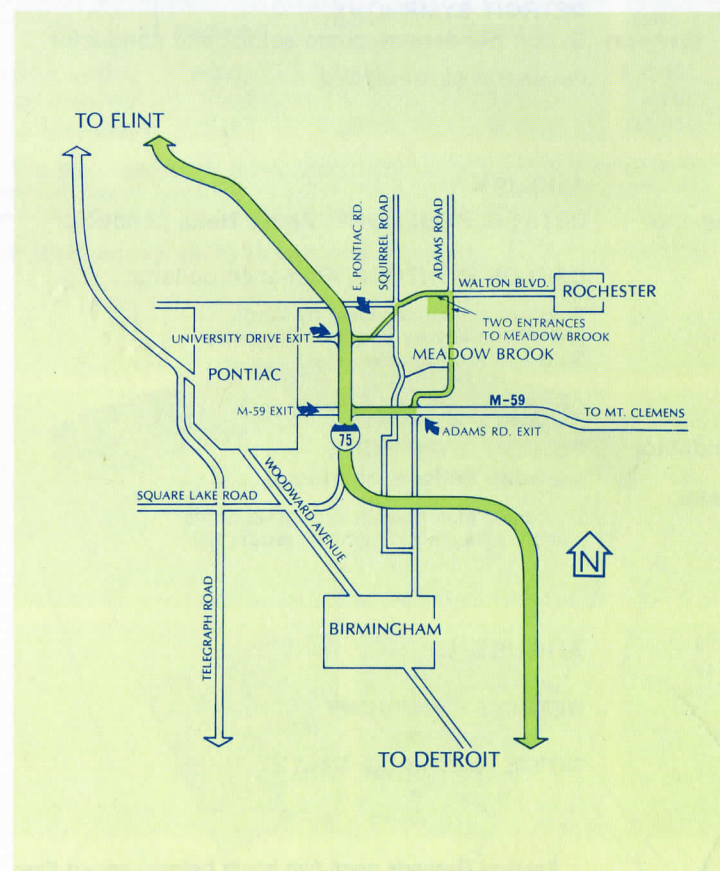

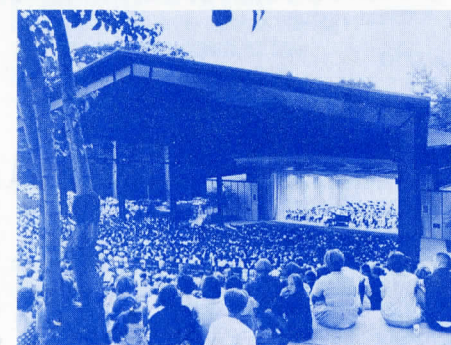

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet ranks with the world's greatest in classical and modern ballet.

Introducing Meadow Brook's new rock-folk series

Rock, folk, country blues—whatever you name it, it's the music of our time. This year Meadow Brook presents a Celebration of Today, with such modern legends as Judy Collins, John Sebastian and the driving, brilliant rock group known as Poco.

It's a new, exciting Wednesday night series at Meadow Brook. Six outdoor evening Rock-Folk concerts filled with blazing, top-rated talents.

You'll see and hear the Aquarian Age stars that are shaping our era. Herbie Mann, Stevie Wonder, B. B. King and many others.

And all this, of course, in the acoustically perfect Baldwin Pavilion.

A Rock-Folk series at Meadow Brook. It's a whole new wrinkle.

Stevie Wonder, from child prodigy to the top of the pop music scene.

Poco, one of the great young country rock groups.

Where nature sets the stage

There's nothing else quite like it. Vast lawns rolling under gracious, spreading trees and an outdoor pavilion world-famed for its tone-perfect acoustics.

Add to that the world's top musical artists and you have the Meadow Brook Music Festival. And it is truly a festival of summer sounds.

Last year's Festival broke every attendance record in the book and this year looks even better.

Symphonic, jazz, pops, ballet. Names like Previn, Fiedler, Ellington and the full Detroit Symphony Orchestra—eight weeks with 39 concert performances.

At Meadow Brook, nature and great music merge into one thrilling experience. You'll hear the new electric sounds of today. The sounds of youth and the future.

Or you can choose evenings of the ageless music of the masters performed by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra under Sixten Ehrling with such major guest artists as Andre Watts, Leonard Rose and Vladimir Ashkenazy. Or see the matchless dancing of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

All in the beautiful hills of the Festival grounds on the Oakland University campus.

Meadow Brook Music Festival. There's nothing else quite like it.

Outdoor dining at The Trumbull Terrace is one of Meadow Brook's most pleasant features. Open two hours before curtain time, the Terrace offers a menu ranging from hot dogs to a full-course steak dinner. Ample picnic facilities are also available on the Festival grounds.

Subscriptions and new reserved seating policy

For the first time at Meadow Brook—reserved seats! Responding to an overwhelming number of requests, the Meadow Brook Music Festival is inaugurating its first season of reserved seating in the world-famous Baldwin Pavilion. Now you can choose the seats you want and have them for the entire season!

Save money by buying a subscription to one or more of the four season series (Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday) and at the same time assure yourself of the convenience of reserved seating. Just pick the area in the seating chart shown on the Order Form and it's yours for the summer.

Of course, you can also still buy season subscriptions to the lawn area where you can stretch out and enjoy your favorite music under the stars.

Coupon book

Meadow Brook Coupon Books were a hit last year! Buy $25 worth of coupons for only $20 and give yourself the savings of a season ticket with greater flexibility. Use the coupons just like cash when ordering your tickets by mail or at the Festival grounds box office. The Coupon Books are available at most area banks or simply fill out the Coupon Order Form, but mail early; coupon books will not be available after July 1.
