

Which State Tax Should Get Hike? Is Major Study

By ROGER LAKE

EAST LANSING (AP) — Research men have advised citizens studying Michigan's tax structure of ways to wring an extra 80 million dollars a year out of the state sales tax, or cut its yield by more than 60 millions.

As to what if anything should be done, the researchers said it's all in how you look at it, and in part dependent on conclusions reached in related taxation fields.

The Citizens Advisory Committee to the Conlin legislative tax study heard these other major points developed yesterday mainly by Dr. Harvey E. Brazer, University of Michigan economist and committee research director:

1. Taxation on insurance premiums, now netting the state 18 million dollars a year, could produce twice that much by application of a uniform rate of three per cent and broadening the base of the tax.

2. The state chain store tax is not worth much as a revenue measure, bringing in about one half million dollars a year. The 1933 statute failed in its original purpose to discourage chain store growth, is a "discriminatory nuisance" and probably should be repealed.

Staff research reports on the three taxes totaling 105 pages were presented to the advisory committee, bringing to four the number received. In all, about 30 are expected before the committee concludes its fact-finding phase in May.

No conclusions were reached yesterday, with committee members confining the discussion largely to questions. None were expected.

The group decided to meet for further fact-finding Jan. 28 in Detroit.

A report prepared by Dr. Deniz C. Cline, Michigan State University economist, showed that the three per cent sales tax last year produced $308,544,000, or $328,805,000 counting receipts from the complementary state use tax.

Gross revenue was second among the 33 sales tax states, Cline said, behind only California's $693,333,000.

On a per capita basis, Michigan stood third with $45.75. The state was fourth in per cent of total tax income derived from sales with 42.4 per cent and sixth in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Thursday the lawmakers are to hear Gov. Williams outline his legislative program at a joint Senate-House meeting at 11 a.m.

Without much further ado, other perhaps than a rash of bill introductions, they were expected to go their separate ways until the first night meeting, next Monday.

Money problems brought on by shrinking treasury balances and increasing demands for state services, particularly in the field of education, promised to hold the spotlight off and on until the regular session is scheduled to end in April.

Williams, a Democrat, again faces a Legislature dominated by Republicans in both houses. His proposal to pull the state out of financial crisis by doubling the state tax on stocks, bonds and other intangibles already has run into opposition from some Republican legislative leaders.

Timed Entry to Become Pontiac Press Headlines

Steve Played It Cagey to Win '58 Baby Title

Steven Clayton Williams kept his parents in a highly expectant state for three weeks, but he successfully played a waiting game to become the winner of the Pontiac Press First Baby of the Year Contest.

The baby boy was born at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital just seven minutes after midnight on Jan. 1.

His mother, Mrs. Jane Williams, 21, of 714 Corwin Ave., had gone to the hospital three weeks before in preparation for the joyful event. The event, however, didn't materialize.

She was sent home to her husband and daughter, Christine, 2, and told that little Steve might be born at any moment.

She and her husband, John, 23, had no idea the moment would be three whole weeks later. But Steve evidently had made up his mind not to be just an ordinary baby.

MUSKY, TOO

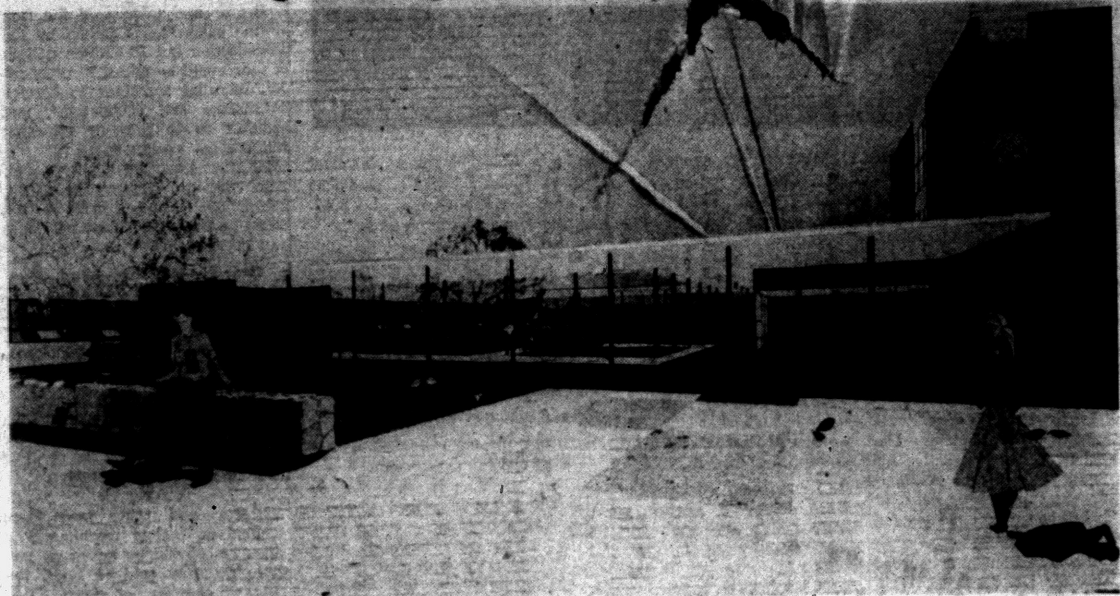

Steven tipped the scales at eight pounds and five ounces. He was delivered by Dr. Leonard H. Blackwell.

Steve's parents will receive gifts for him from many local merchants, including Waites, Foottown Markets, Redmond's Jewelers, Stapp's Shoe Store, Kresges, Peo-

Ike Will Answer Red Challenges, U.S. Criticism

State of Union Message
Will Be Presented to Congress Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (INS) —

President Eisenhower applies the finishing touches today to his 1958 hard-hitting State of the Union message which will be his answer to mounting Soviet challenges and growing home-front concern over how he is meeting them.

The chief executive will go before a joint session of Congress about noon tomorrow to present a national security program which GOP leaders already have held as a "forthright" reply to the Soviet threat.

As a prelude to the proposals he will make, Eisenhower asked Congress yesterday for new appropriations to provide $1,370,000,000 before July 1 to expand U. S.

News Secretary James G. Hagerly said this would mean an actual boost of only 191 million dollars in military spending for the fiscal year ending next June 30, plus increased obligations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I feel a lot more like I do now than when I came in," quipped Dr. James R. Killian, scientific adviser to the President at his first Washington speech last night.

On leave as president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he said it was the best way to explain how he felt after being in Washington for two months.

Pontiac shivered and suffered along with the rest of the state today, as Michigan became the nation's ice box.

Winter's icy finger plunged temperatures to zero or below in every section of the state, except the Detroit area and the northwest section of the upper peninsula, the weather bureau reported.

The deep freeze promises to continue at least to the end of the week. For the Pontiac area, the U.S. Weather Bureau reports fair and not so cold tonight, with a low of 15-19 degrees. Tomorrow will be fair and warmer with a high of 25-32.

The coldest spot in the nation last night was Pellston, registering a bone-chilling 25 below. It was 11 below in Sault Ste. Marie. The "warmest" spot in the state was Wakefield, in the upper peninsula, with a reading of 15 above. Temperatures dropped to zero in Kalamazoo last night and it was 5 below in Grand Rapids. The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac today was 4 above, recorded at 8 a.m. At 1 p.m., the reading was 14.

The Oakland County Road Commission reports all major roads and highways are clear, but gravel and side roads are somewhat slippery.

Report ICBM Shoot Today Slated at Cape Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS) —

A giant Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile—the second to be fired in less than a month — reportedly was scheduled for launching today from the security-cloaked Cape Canaveral test center.

Firing of the 5,500-mile range rocket, designed to deliver a nuclear warhead to any point on the globe in a matter of minutes, is believed set for between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. (EST), barring interference from the weatherman.

The Atlas "shoot" is expected to be followed quickly as possible by another U. S. attempt to launch an earth satellite.

Newsman got a preview of things to come late last night when floodlights were switched on at the Cape and technicians went to work on a 72-foot Vanguard rocket, the missile the U. S. will use for its satellite launching.

Clearly Visible

The towering red and white projectile was clearly visible from 10:30 p.m. until 1:15 a.m., today and apparently was put through extensive tests.

Streams of liquid oxygen could be seen pouring from the rocket and flashing warning lights in the launching pad area gave rise to an erroneous report a firing was at hand.

The U. S. launched its first successful Atlas Dec. 17 in what the Defense Department termed a "limited range test" of 800 miles.

Two previous attempts to fly the giant rocket proved only partially successful when the missiles were destroyed in flight after rising only a few hundred feet in the air.

The missile test center has been virtually idle since the start of the holidays.

A stepped-up testing schedule had been expected to get under way promptly after New Year's Day, but the area has been plagued by inclement weather.

FALSE ALARM

A red warning signal indicating an imminent missile launching was hoisted at the Cape yesterday afternoon, but was later hauled down when rainy, gray skies again moved in on the area.

In addition to the Atlas and Vanguard shoots, a 200-mile range Army Redstone missile also is reportedly ready to go, along with an Air Force Aero-dynamic Navaho.

The Navaho is an air-breathing, long-range strategic missile. The Air Force cancelled the Navaho contract last July but the rocket is still flown in "component testing" since its propulsion system resembles that of more recent rockets.

brought by Dr. Sullenberger, who was suspended from the hospital Nov. 13.

Flath's action to protect his evidence came yesterday afternoon during a 24-hour conference at his office with county and state officials.

Present were Ziem, Assistant Prosecutor LeRoy W. MacIntee, Assistant Atty. Gen. Maurice M. Moule and Ray M. Sweet, investigator for the State Board of Registration in Medicine.

TO PREVENT LEAR

Flath's position was that if the evidence were made public or leaked out before the trial, its strength might be lost.

Following the conference, he made this explanation:

"Although I have no objections to answering questions, we must protect the hospital. You must remember that we are being sued for a quarter of a million dollars.

"It is certainly not our intention at this moment to reveal evidence that would tip our hand in this suit."

It might be better, Flath said, for the investigations to wait until the trial is concluded.

Informed of the development, City Attorney William A. Ewart agreed with Flath.

"I don't think we should reveal anything that would jeopardize our position in court," Ewart said last night. "I'm going to stand my ground on this and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

$10 Billion More Price to Finish U.S. Highways

Weeks Asks Congress to Apportion Funds on Basis of Higher Sum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks reported to Congress today that the estimated cost of completing the nation's 41,000-mile superhighway network has jumped 10 billion dollars.

Nevertheless, he recommended that new apportionments to the states be based on the higher cost figures.

He estimated the interstate system of expressways linking all parts of the country would cost $37,622,000,000.

This compares with the $27.645,000,000 figure used when the superhighway law was passed 19 months ago.

In the report, the secretary also released a state-by-state breakdown estimating money required to complete each state's portion of the system.

The 1956 law provided that apportionment of federal funds to the states for the last 10 years of the program be based on the estimated cost of each state's portion. Washington pays 90 per cent of the cost of the interstate system.

USED OLD FORMULA

The apportionments in the first three years of the program now under way were based on an old formula using chiefly population and current road mileage.

Weeks' report was released shortly before he was to appear before the Senate Public Roads subcommittee headed by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) to give a progress report on the interstate system.

The new estimates were worked out by the Bureau of Public Roads in cooperation with the various state highway departments.

NO TAX INCREASES

The secretary said that even though the cost estimates were up 37 per cent as compared with two years ago, he would not now recommend any increased taxes to finance the program.

He noted that work on the interstate program was in the early stages and that the 1956 (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

County Health Department Seeking Mental Housing

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

County officials have placed the responsibility of finding emergency housing for the mentally ill into the lap of the Oakland County Health Department.

Members of the Health Committee of the Board of Supervisors asked yesterday that the department investigate all possible institutions in Oakland and adjacent counties which might house mentally ill patients prior to commitment.

"Sheriff Irons reported that in one year, from July 1956 through July 1957, 55 patients had been committed from the jail," said Mrs. Hope F. Lewis, Birmingham supervisor and chairman of the Board's Welfare Committee.

The Board has charged the Health Committee with locating temporary housing for mentally-disturbed patients, according to Cyril E. Miller, committee chairman from Avon Township.

Harold G. Webster, executive director of the Michigan Society for Mental Health, recommended to the 14 persons present at Tuesday's session that the county spend a portion of its expenses in caring for the committed patients for the emergency housing and treatment.

Later he told this reporter that the county's best facility for this would be the Annex.

"Emergency care and treatment is the crying need now," he said.

Seasonal Drop Causing Layoffs

U.S. Rubber, Chrysler Plants Are Reducing Current Production

DETROIT (AP)—Layoffs involving 4,000 Dodge and DeSoto plant workers will go into effect today and tomorrow.

And U.S. Rubber Co. will lay off 1,300 hourly workers at its Detroit plant by the end of January. A company spokesman said yesterday the layoffs were caused by a cutback in auto production and the usual seasonal decline. The layoffs may last until spring, he said.

Chrysler Corp. spokesmen said last night some 3,400 employees will be laid off at the Dodge plant Thursday and 600 at DeSoto today. The company said the layoffs are for indefinite periods.

Chrysler employs 14,800 workers at its Dodge plant and about 2,700 at DeSoto. The firm employs about 100,000 in the Detroit area.

The company last week laid off 1,000 workers at its Highland Park parts and equipment plant.

Chrysler gave no reason for its latest layoffs plans, saying only it planned "operations on an adjusted schedule" at the Dodge and DeSoto plants.

A Detroit newspaper said it learned that Chrysler plans a 20 per cent production cut that will affect nearly 10,000 workers. The newspaper said that in addition to Dodge and DeSoto, Plymouth and Chrysler stamping plants will be affected next week.

Chrysler officials declined to comment on the report.

Highway Network Cost Up $10 Billion

Law requires four more cost estimates in later years.

In the new total cost estimate, the federal share would be $33,952,000,000. The states would provide $3,670,000,000.

The report indicated that even the new cost estimate might be low. It said the cost of 2,102 miles of the proposed roads allocated among the states on Oct. 18, 1957, was not included.

Weeks listed as reasons for the big increase in the cost of completing the interstate network:

1. A 15 per cent increase in traffic forecasts for 1975.

2. A 15 per cent boost in costs required by the section of the 1956 law which states that the interstate routes must give full consideration to local needs, such as peak commuter traffic in suburban areas and cities.

3. A 12 per cent increase in construction costs in a two-year period.

The new figures were more than double in the case of some states, including Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, Tennessee and Virginia.

But in some cases, including Connecticut, Michigan, New Jersey and Oklahoma, the estimates submitted today were lower than those of two years ago.

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT HIRED — Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac public schools (left), congratulates Dr. Philip Proud who has been named assistant superintendent of schools in charge of staff personnel and public relations. Glenn H. Griffin, president of the board of education (right), was also present to announce the appointment yesterday.

Assistant Superintendent for Schools Appointed

Dr. Philip Proud, educational consultant for the Michigan Department of Public Instruction for the past six years, will be Pontiac's new assistant superintendent of schools in charge of staff personnel and public relations.

The appointment was announced yesterday by Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent and Glenn H. Griffin, president of the board of education. The board is expected to take official action on the appointment at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Proud, who now lives in Lansing with his wife Dorothy, a son Jim, 12, and a daughter, Patricia, 5, will take over the job Feb. 15 and will reside in Pontiac.

The appointee fills the vacancy left by J. Cecil Cox, who retired as assistant superintendent in charge of personnel Sept. 1.

The 39-year-old educator will receive a salary of $11,500, according to Whitmer.

Before his present job in Lansing, Proud was the administrative assistant for guidance in Tenafly, N.J., and also taught English and social studies in the high school for four years.

Three of the five years he served in the U.S. Army, he was

State to Intensify Drive Against Traffic Deaths

LANSING (AP)—Some "out of the ordinary" methods may be needed to cut Michigan's highway traffic death toll again this year, the State Safety Commission was told yesterday.

Again in 1958, the commission has set a goal of reducing the highway death toll by 10 per cent from 1957.

"This really is a stupendous challenge," commented Gov. Williams as the first commission meeting of the new year. "We've carved away at some of the meat of the problem so far. Now we'll be cutting at the bone."

Williams said all the methods used to promote highway safety in 1957 should be utilized again in 1958.

Flath Balks Ziem Probe of Sullenberger Charges

I don't think anyone can get a court order to make me do otherwise."

Questioned about the hospital's stand, Ziem agreed yesterday afternoon that "the investigations can not proceed without access to the hospital's files."

However, Ziem added, "I'm sure we can get access to them one way or another."

It was MacIntee who brought up the possibility of recourse to legal moves to force the hospital to open up its files "if all else fails."

Both Ziem and MacIntee emphasized that yesterday they had only wanted to discuss the "general outlines" of the case with Flath. "We didn't request that the files be opened up to us then and there, we only suggested that we would want to see the information they hold as the investigation proceeds," Ziem said.

Ziem, who chose MacIntee yesterday as his assistant in the case, explains that his investigation was aimed at determining whether any law has been broken.

Moule, who acts as legal counsel for the state medical board, said the investigation to be conducted by Sweet would probe whether there have been any violations of the state's medical practices act.

EYE REVOCATION

Evidence of a violation might be sufficient grounds to call a hearing by the board at which Dr. Sullenberger's license to practice medicine in Michigan might be revoked or suspended, Moule said.

Although no formal complaint has been lodged with the county or state, Ziem and Moule explained they became interested in the controversy "because of its importance."

Both said that the first step would be to discover what evidence, if any, there is to back up Flath's charges.

How soon the damage suit could be brought to trial was still a matter of conjecture today. Dr. Sullenberger's attorney, Harry N. Dell, said he was preparing a reply to Flath's charges.

State Tax Research Seeks Greater Yield

Income per $1,000 personal income at $26.99.

Cline reported Michigan ranked 14th in relative productivity of state sales and use tax base, realizing $6.87 annually for each per cent of tax per $1,000 personal income in 1952-57.

This, he said, showed the base of the tax was narrower in Michigan than in many other states.

BRAZER FROZEN

Brazer and Cline said the rate of the sales tax is frozen by the Constitution but 30 million dollars a year could be added to revenues by extending coverage to service businesses and occupations, and another 50 millions by knocking out present exemptions.

On the other hand, they said, removing the sales tax from food, which has been advocated from time to time, would shrink sales tax revenues by 60 millions.

Brazer said that more than half the sales tax states now apply the levy to some services, chiefly to transient lodgings (hotels and motels), telephone services and admissions to entertainment exhibitions.

Auto repair, tailoring, laundries and intrastate transportation were listed as other possible services that could be brought under.

Brazer and Cline said there seemed no logical reason why a sales tax should be levied on tangible property sold at retail but not an intangible, or service, sold at retail.

BEER OR BASEBALL

If a man spends $2 drinking beer he is taxed, but if he chooses to entertain himself by going to the baseball game for $2, he is not, Brazer commented.

The spending trend nationally, Brazer said, is toward proportionately greater outlays for services, and that to the extent this continues the Michigan sales tax base will shrink accordingly.

He said an important defect in the present sales tax is its regressive tendency, that is its proportionately lighter impact as income rises, and that extending it to services would mitigate this factor.

He mentioned weightier objections to removal of sales tax exemptions on machinery and equipment used for industrial and agricultural processing, which he estimated would add 50 millions a year to revenues.

While this exemption has "unusually broad range," he observed, it should be considered that to take it off would have the effect of boosting total state taxes on business about 40 per cent over the present level.

"The committee may wish to consider this as an influence in plant location," he said.

Brazer said he doubted that any other sales tax state was as attractive to industry in this particular.

As for the possibility of exempting food, Cline suggested that as a practical matter it probably wouldn't get very far because of opposition from the school people.

Under a constitutional distribution formula, two thirds of present state sales tax revenues go to schools, one sixth to the state and

Clamor to Keep Him in Army Senate Group Hears Gavin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin was called today to testify at a Senate missile hearing amidst a mounting clamor that he change his mind about retiring from the Army in March.

In advance of the hearing, two senators—Stennis (D-Miss.) and Goldwater (R-Ariz.)—urged the general to reconsider. Several other members of Congress have made similar statements.

Secretary of the Army Brucker said Gavin had been offered two ways in which he could reach four-star rank as an inducement to remain in service.

The 50-year-old general is chief of Army research and development, which includes the Army missile program. He disclosed his retirement plans last weekend, and indicated his decision was partly a protest against what he called "the Pentagon system."

Yesterday, however, he told newsmen there is a 50-50 chance he would remain in service. Last month, he proposed a reorganization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff system, and there were hints these views resulted in pressures which led him to request retirement.

Gavin has given other reasons for his move.

The Day in Birmingham

one sixth to county and city governments.

Analyzing the maximum revenue capabilities of the insurance premiums tax, Brazer said its yield could be doubled by this program:

1. Establish a uniform tax rate of three per cent, currently now paid only by foreign "fire marine and strictly automobile" companies. Other foreign companies pay two per cent. Domestic companies are exempt, paying instead a kind of franchise tax that nets the state $400,000 annually.

2. Broaden the tax base to take in annuities considerations, now included in the insurance tax base of 27 other states. He said there is close similarity between some annuity contracts and some life insurance contracts.

3. Apply the premiums tax to business written by the non-profit medical and hospitalization organizations, notably Blue Cross and Blue Shield. About three million dollars a year would be added by this change.

Brazer said that by and large insurance companies enjoy "comparatively light taxation" in Michigan.

He said the Blue Cross and Blue Shield exemption "runs afoul of uniformity and equity considerations," mentioning that for-profit firms writing similar policies are taxed.

Almond Presman of St. Johns, a committee member who is also serving on Gov. Williams' group studying hospitalization insurance problems, wondered if any such tax might be passed along thus raising rates.

John Carton of Battle Creek, another committee member who heads two insurance companies, raised the issue of reciprocity among the states on insurance tax rates.

Carton said it should be considered whether a rise in the premiums tax paid in Michigan by companies domiciled in other states might lead to tax increases by those states on insurance written in them by Michigan companies.

State Finance Unit OKs High School Bond Issue

BIRMINGHAM — Birmingham School District's proposed three million dollar bond issue for construction of a new high school and junior high was approved yesterday by the State Municipal Finance Commission in Lansing. The project is part of a $6,800,000 total financing.

The "chance in a million" happened in Birmingham yesterday, according to Detective Lt. Merlin Holmquist.

He said Lloyd Dafee of East Square Lake road, Pontiac, came into the Police Department to report the theft of his 1957 Chevrolet from a Woodward-avenue parking place.

Shortly after, John Shield of Lake Orion came in to report that he had mistakenly driven someone else's car away. Shield's car, also a 1957 Chevrolet, had been parked on Woodward, too.

The vehicles are identical in color and model. And by coincidence, Shield's keys fit the Dafee's car.

Natural ice rinks at Quanton School and St. James and Pembroke Parks now are lighted for evening use, according to Robert Giardin, recreation director.

Giardin said whenever the weather is favorable for natural ice, the rinks would be put into condition and made available for skating.

11 Injured as Train Derails in Wisconsin

PORTAGE, Wis. (AP)—Eleven mail clerks were injured and 70 passengers were shaken up at 4 a.m. today when the Milwaukee Road's "Pioneer Limited" apparently struck a broken rail in the road's yards near Portage, derailling 11 of 17 cars on the train. Fire broke out in the yards after the crash.

Witnesses said one of the derailed cars crashed into the caboose of an eastbound freight on a parallel track, wrecking the caboose. The caboose wreckage burst into flames.

The postal clerks were in a mail car which overturned. They were taken to Divine Saviour Hospital where attendants said injuries were undetermined.

About 40 coach and 30 sleeper passengers were shaken up, but no one was injured. They were taken to the Portage depot to await bus transportation.

The train was bound from Minneapolis to Chicago.

Weather Brings Pontiac Lake Dam Setback

Dur to adverse weather conditions, the deadline date for completion of the Pontiac Lake dam in Waterford Township has been advanced from Friday to Feb. 10, according to Oakland County Drain Commissioner Dan Barry.

Work was started on the dam two months ago by the Tuzillo Construction Company of Cleveland, who was awarded the $48,044 contract for reconstruction of the dike as well as work on the dam.

Slated as the next major project in Waterford Township is the rebuilding of the Oakland-Woodhull Lake level control dam on the property of the Catholic Ukrainian summer camp on Walton Blvd.

A modification of two existing structures will be made, and the present dike will also have additional reconstruction work.

Dear Abby....

Tell Fatso You're Wise --- He'd Better Shape Up

DEAR ABBY: My brother is supposed to be on a diet. My mother has spent a fortune on doctors and pills for him. She breaks her neck making special foods for him and he isn't losing a pound.

In fact, he is gaining — and I know why, too. I can hear the refrigerator door opening and closing at all hours of the night. He thinks he is putting one over on us.

I get so mad when I think of how he is cheating and getting away with it. Should I tell Mother and take the chance of getting beat up? I am 15 and Fatso is 12.

SIS

DEAR SIS: If your brother is cheating and eating, he is not getting away with anything. You can't fool the scales. Tell him you are wise and give him a chance to go straight. If that doesn't work — tell Mama.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have never had a spat in 30 years and here is our secret: Jealousy is out! My wife goes where she wants to go, with whom she wants, and comes home when she pleases with no questions asked.

The same goes for me. The door in our house is never locked. We are very broad-minded and understanding people and I think it would do for newlyweds to take a leaf out of our book.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

DEAR LIVE (and, believe me, you are living): This kind of arrangement is dandy for brother and sister, but a husband and wife are "joined together" in holy matrimony and should live that way. Put that leaf back in your book, and turn it over.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and my mother won't let me get married because she is afraid she will lose a maid and babysitter. She works herself, but only to get away from my little brothers and sisters. If I get married she won't have anybody to do the work for her. What should I do? I have thought about running away to get married. I have a boy friend, he is 19, who keeps asking me to.

IN LOVE AND TROUBLED
DEAR IN LOVE: Stay home and forget about running away to get married. You are not dry behind the ears yet and your boy friend is ALL wet!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of people who accept a dinner invitation for 6 o'clock and come at 7 and leave at 8? I had this happen to me.

They said they had to go home as one of their children was sick. When I telephoned them at 9 to see how the child was, a sister answered the phone and said she thought they were still at my house.

I am so disgusted I could cry. How should we act toward them in the future?

COULD CRY

DEAR COULD: For heaven's sake, have nothing to do with these people. Be pleasant — but distant.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GLADYS: You didn't hear from him again for one of two reasons. Either you gave him too much — or not enough.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Norman Allen Is Hostess to PEO

Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. Joseph Bara were in charge of the program when AW Chapter of PEO met Monday evening in the Newberry street home of Mrs. Norman Allen. "What's New About Cotter College?" and the educational loan fund were the topics of discussion.

Guests were Marsha Hauser of Clarkston and Mrs. Archie McKillop of Gladwin.

POLICE FORCE GOAL
The life of a policeman is the goal of Kelly, who, according to his mother, gets the best grades in school.

"I want to put all those drunk people who drink beer while they are driving in jail," he explained. He too has an admirer by the name of Gay and "she even wants to marry me already," he exclaimed.

His brother Kenny, the youngest of the quartet, likes "throwing snowballs at recess" the best about school especially when "I duck my head and nobody hits me back." Kenny just recovered from a broken arm he received several months ago while playing at recess.

He intends to team up with his policeman brother and become a fireman "who holds the hose and squirts out the fire."

Kristine, more shy than her brothers and sisters, is looking forward to the day when she will become a nurse and "take care of all the sick peoples by giving them shots." She also would like to get married and have just one baby because "one would be a lot easier to handle."

Tomorrow won't be an extra special birthday for the Rosebush quads... but, with the four of them, you can be sure it will be a party in itself.

The boys want BB guns. Krystal hopes for a kitten and Kristine just wants new clothes for birthday presents.

How do we compute standard time, from "mean sun time" in obtaining the actual specific time in our locality?

Fishermen, hunters and those who study weather or the stars, can obtain the exact time for their home community by a simple rule, used with an accurate map.

They should add four minutes for every degree of longitude they are west of the Meridian measured from.

Or, subtract four minutes for every degree you are east of the Meridian used. That will give you the exact time for your home community.

The fierce winter storm was blamed for at least 33 deaths when it lashed the east coast with avalanches of snow, wind gusts of gale force at up to 75 miles an hour, sleet, rain and lightning.

In fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital are Deputy Carl Raymond, 40, of Lake Orion, with head injuries and Ferris Holcomb, 52, of Clarkston, with a fractured right hip. Passenger Ronald Winingar, 24, of Detroit, was treated and released. The other driver, Gilbert C. Smith, 57, of Grant City, Ill., and his wife, Violet, 52, were not injured and were released after making a statement. Cause of the crash has not been determined.

Gen. White Discloses B52 Production Halt, Log in Missiles

WASHINGTON (INS) — Senate missile probes voiced alarm today over disclosures that production of B52s is being halted and that the Air Force considers funds for transatlantic rockets "inadequate."

He said the Air Force at this time is "not getting enough manned bombers fast enough for this transition period." Despite this, he said production of the intercontinental B52 planes is "not only being cut down, it is scheduled to be phased out."

White said he has made "every plea before every proper authority" for more money for the bombers and for intercontinental ballistic missiles. He said the administration has not and is not asking enough funds to step up the ICBM programs "as they can and should be."

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) vice chairman of the subcommittee, said "I was surprised and disturbed" by White's disclosures. He said he was amazed to know that "we are not having full production of B52s and declared: 'I think the (original) production' scheduled should be reinstated."

Tax Hike's Impact Viewed by Banks

$15,000 a year so it would cost the bank some $185,000 to absorb the rumored increase.

Gov. Williams has denied that he definitely has set 20 cents a hundred as the figure he will present to the legislature.

But, he noted, Ohio gets that amount now and even if depositors are billed at that rate, it would amount to only 18 cents a year on a $300 checking account.

The governor is reported seeking $21 million more from the intangibles tax which now yields $3 million a year. Of the $21 million more, $15 million, it is estimated, would come from bank depositors.

Girard said that until the banks know just how much the increase will be, they cannot decide what to do.

One problem, he added, is that major depositors may withdraw money to other states or invest in tax exempt government bonds.

"We probably will be guided in our decision on this by the action the Detroit banks take," Girard said. "They usually set the pattern for all outstate banks."

Milo Cross, president of Pontiac State Bank, said the decision would be up to his bank's board of directors.

His bank presently pays some $9,000 a year for its 23,000 depositors, but would have to figure how much it would cost to bill each depositor as against the increase that may be voted.

R. C. Cummings, president of Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan, said "If the rate goes up five times as has been intimated, it would be impossible for us to absorb the cost."

"At present it is good business for us to pay some $5,000 for our more than 8,000 depositors, but such a large boost would mean we would have to pass the tax on to them."

There are many facets to this problem, bankers generally say. For example, if a bank pays the tax, it can deduct this as an expense on its federal income tax. Also, it has to weigh the possible loss of deposits if it passes on the tax.

What will happen finally will depend on how big the tax increase is and how the Detroit banks react.

ZERO IN WEST VIRGINIA
Zero levels were observed as far south as West Virginia and through parts of New York state.

Near zero temperatures were reported at midnight in New England — a drop of 20 degrees from 24 hours ago.

Milder weather spread across the Plains States into the Mississippi Valley while Southern California retained the honor of having the warmest weather in the nation. The temperature early today at Los Angeles was 55.

The storm deaths included traffic fatalities and a number of heart attacks following snow-shoveling efforts.

Florida's billion-dollar citrus industry was threatened by the cold. For the first time in history, the Weather Bureau included snow in its Florida forecast.

SNOWBALLS IN FLORIDA
The northeast Florida community of Blountstown reported children were making — and throwing — snowballs. But flakes melted in most places as soon as they fell even though entire schools were dismissed so that children who had never seen snow before could marvel at the sight. Snow fell as far south as Lakeland in the heart of the citrus growing area.

A general warming trend took place from the Great Lakes through the Mississippi Valley and most of the Plains States. Temperatures were surprisingly uniform, being in the 30s, except for the teens in the Great Lakes region.

Congress Awaiting President's Message

Personal committee inquiries, as well as criticism by legislators of both parties that the administration has lagged unjustifiably in the development of space weapons.

Leaders of the Democratic-controlled Congress have pledged support for any new administration program they regard as adequate and effective. But Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas already has asserted that ultimate mastery over Russia in the long-range ballistic missile field will not be adequate. Total security, he has said, calls for ultimate mastery over space.

The State of the Union message this year deals almost exclusively with national security. The administration's domestic legislative program will be set forth in the President's budget message going to Congress Monday.

That budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and call for spending about 74 billion dollars, around two billion more than in this fiscal year.

Defense spending to deal with the Russian threat will be up about two billion dollars over the 38 billion originally earmarked in the current budget.

The appointees and their alternates will take entrance exams in March, and begin school in July.

6 Injured as 2 Cars Collide on U.S. 10
Six persons were injured last night in a two-car accident on U.S. 10 south of M15, Independence Township.

Treated at Pontiac General Hospital for bruises and cuts were: Harold T. Shaw Jr., 34, of 9160 Davisburg Rd., Clarkston, Iva Shaw, 36, and Brenda Shaw, 9.

Others injured were: Bedelia D. Gates, 35, 8335 Perry Lake Rd., Clarkston; Eula Beck, 28, of Flint; and Marsha Benjamin, 6, of 8337 Perry Lake Rd., Clarkston.

Shaw, the driver of one car, told sheriff's deputies that the other car cut in front of him. Deputies believe Miss Gates was the other driver but were unable to get a statement from her.

The Day in Birmingham

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins Outlines Future Education

BIRMINGHAM — Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the Ford Foundation and former president of the University of Chicago, gave the first of two lectures on "Where Is Education Going?" before a Birmingham Town Hall audience this morning. His second appearance at the Birmingham theater will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. George Carey, executive vice president of Town Hall, introduced the noted educator and speaker. Special guests at the luncheon table this noon at the Birmingham Country Club were Dr. James P. McCormick and Dr.

Harold Soderquist, both of Wayne State University, and Mrs. Allen Stone of Oak Park, Ill.

At Friday's luncheon gathering at the country club, Mrs. James S. Moon, Town Hall president, will present Dr. Hutchins.

Dr. Dwight B. Ireland, Birmingham schools superintendent, Mrs. Ireland, Dr. Richard Featherstone and Mrs. Donald Parry, Board of Education member, will be special guests at the speakers' table.

A Pontiac man, Donald C. Polasek, 21, of 245 Nelson St., was "arrested twice" by Bloomfield Hills Police yesterday.

Officers Joseph Kerr and William Moore said they arrested Polasek driving a car stolen in Pontiac. En route to police headquarters, the man leaped from the back seat of the police car and tried to escape, they said.

Kerr prove faster and recaptured the fleeing suspect before he could leap a fence and get into a wooded area.

Christmas in Birmingham was one of the busiest in years, according to Chamber of Commerce Manager Charles Mortensen and Postmaster Roland Reese.

Mortensen said business in the city was excellent. A few firms reported less spent than in the past, but the overall picture was an improvement over previous years, he said.

At the post office, 350 extra persons were employed to handle the 15 per cent increase in mail. Reese said double deliveries were maintained throughout the city and that when the final delivery was made Christmas Day, there was no backlog at the office.

By using night forces, a mail pileup was avoided, he said. "With the system of night sorting, we were able to keep the mail flowing out of the office as rapidly as we received it," Reese said.

ing units—financed with an FHA loan guarantee.

3. A continued drive to cut highway deaths and injuries.

ANTIQUATED STATUTE

4. A flexible, modern industrial safety act to replace the antiquated 1909 statute, with enforcement in the labor department largely by administrative regulation.

5. Creation of a state housing commission provided with $180,000 to construct and operate a pilot housing project for aged persons.

6. A retaining plan to assist unemployed workers over 45 in finding jobs.

7. A permanent state agency on problems of the aged, $100,000 for planning a 200-bed chronic illness unit at University of Michigan Hospital and state aid in quicker erection of a similar 32-bed unit at the U. of M.

8. Expanding the state's economic life. The detail of this was reserved for a later special message.

Although his proposed 1938-39 state budget will be larger than the amount actually appropriated in general funds for 1937-38, Williams said the increase will be small and "far below what I consider to be the level of public services warranted."

He listed as "inescapable" spending additions an improvement in the school aid formula and more money to support expanding grade and high school enrollments, expected to jump about 70,000 next fall.

New hospital facilities must be staffed, the new medium security prison at Ionia operated and the state's commitments on support of Wayne State University met, he said.

He said with the Conlin Tax Study going it was no use to ask for a corporation profits tax, since legislators clearly indicated nothing in a major way will be done about tax reform until the study is completed.

Williams gave no clue as to how large a bonding program for state buildings he has in mind, but guesses have put it around 40 million dollars.

On civil rights, he said the existing Fair Employment Practices Commission should be converted into a civil rights commission with broader jurisdiction.

'CONCILIATION TECHNIQUE'
Its powers would be extended to police the recommended bar against discrimination in housing sales and rentals and to supervise a newly proposed prohibition against acceptance by licensed real estate brokers or agents of discriminatory listings.

"Friction in these areas will yield to the conciliation technique as it has in the shops, factories, department stores and other places of employment," the governor said.

Of the state's steadily increasing population in the over-65 bracket, now estimated at over 500,000, he said:

"One of the bitterest problems of old age is the lack of housing suited to the financial ability and needs of older people who want to live in independence.

"Other states are experimenting successfully with special housing projects for senior citizens."

Claiming the prizes in the 1938 Baby Derby is John Douglas Ryan, born at 10:16 a.m. New Year's Day.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Ryan of 2124 Dorchester Ave.

Violinist Seeks Hearing Aid for Musical Pet

DALLAS (U)—A woman violinist today sought a hearing aid for her pet, a symphony-loving cocker spaniel who was deafened last week by pranksters' firecrackers.

Miss Catherine Pierce, a violinist for the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, said she left her 14-year-old cocker Grubby in her car last Saturday while she visited some friends.

She said when she returned, the interior of the car had been damaged and her dog deafened by firecrackers thrown into the vehicle.

A veterinarian told Miss Pierce her dog was completely deaf. He said the dog's eardrums were not broken, but told her Grubby suffered a hearing collapse from the firecracker blasts because he is such an old dog.

Miss Pierce said her dog had always appeared to love music. Grubby was a regular sight in the wings of auditoriums when the orchestra was playing.

Grubby's mistress said when she and her friends got together at her home for string quartet sessions, Grubby would lie on the floor for hours without making a sound.

"He really seemed to like music," Miss Pierce said.

Only once did Grubby bark during a concert, she said. That was some time ago when the symphony had a guest tympanist who used a lot of cymbals in his performance.

"The vet told me his hearing might return in time," she said, "and since the eardrums are not broken I have some hope something can be worked out. I'm going to try to fix up a hearing aid."

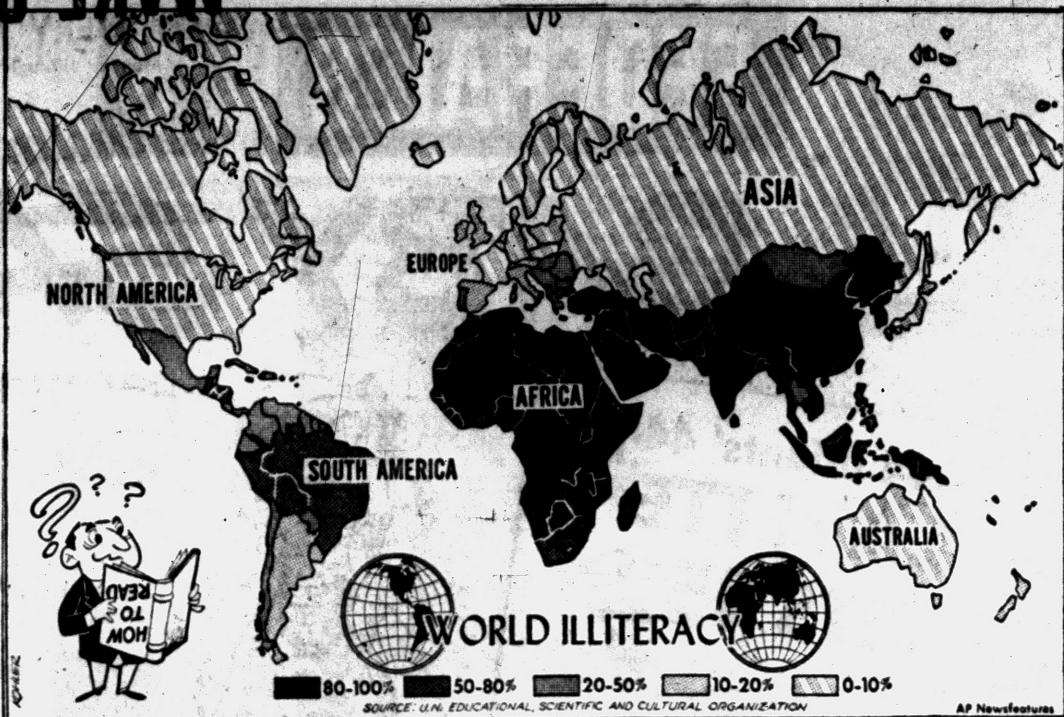

Miss Pierce said Grubby did not appear to be in pain, although "there's some sensitivity around the ears and he's quieter than usual."

Tells Filipinos About Unpleasanties in U.S.

WASHINGTON (U)—A Michigan State University graduate says she was compelled to describe some of the not-so-pleasant aspects of life in the United States while serving as an unofficial goodwill ambassador to the Philippines recently.

Mary Louise Walquist, 22, of Grand Rapids, said, "They all want to come to the States to live. I had to tell them things weren't all perfect here."

Miss Walquist, who graduated from MSU last June, arrived in Washington this week with 23 other former 4-H Club members after spending the last few months on farms in Far Eastern countries as part of the International Farm Youth exchange programs.

Percentage Decline Figures Mislead

UNESCO Points Up Illiteracy Danger

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—The world's illiteracy rate has been declining the proportion of children enrolled in school has been increasing.

This is because rapid growth of world population is outstripping energetic campaigns aimed at seeing that all mankind is able to read and write.

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) has just completed a study of world illiteracy at mid-century—the first to contain estimates on illiteracy in every country and territory of the world.

Figures in the study are based on the situation around 1950. The time lag of seven years is due to the fact that some countries do not have any figures beyond 1950.

It is estimated there are about 700 million adults unable either to read or write in the world today. They represent 44 per cent of the total world population 15 years of age or older.

The larger portions of the world's illiterates are found in Asia and Africa. But at least one country in the Western Hemisphere has more than 15 million adult illiterates and 10 European countries have at least a million illiterates in that age group.

MATTER OF POPULATION

The study and another undertaken by UNESCO surveying primary education show that while the declining the proportion of children enrolled in school has been increasing.

Dr. Luther Evans, UNESCO director general, says that in spite of the percentage decrease, there is a distinct possibility the total number of adult illiterates may increase rather than decrease in the near future.

Dr. Evans says Brazil, for example, reduced its adult illiteracy rate from 65 to 51 per cent between 1900 and 1950, but the total number of illiterates increased from 6½ to 15 million. Egypt reduced its illiteracy rate from 93 to 80 per cent in a 40-year period. But its illiteracy population increased by 50 per cent, or six to nine million, in the same period.

He says that under certain conditions this could happen to the world as a whole.

The conditions are: If the world population growth is maintained; if the present enrollment in primary schools is not increased rapidly; if the present number of adult illiterates is not reduced by emergency measures.

The U.N. has estimated that the world's population is growing at the rate of 1½ per cent a year. This means an annual increase of at least 20 million school age children.

UNESCO estimates that only 45 per cent of the world's children between 5 and 14 years of age are attending primary schools. This level is not enough, in Dr. Evans' opinion, to prevent the total number of adult illiterates from increasing.

PROGRAMS STARTED

UNESCO is attempting to tackle the problem by continuing statistical studies and establishing programs to remedy the situation in various countries.

Among such projects, one in the Latin America countries aims at putting every school age child in school by 1967. Others are co-operating in this project, including the Organization of American States, a year to this project.

Another project is devoted to development of secondary and vocational education in Equatorial Africa.

UNESCO has established a fundamental education center at Patzcuaro in Mexico and another in Egypt. Aid is being given the governments of Cambodia, India, Korea, Liberia, Peru, Thailand, Turkey, and South Viet Nam to establish their own illiteracy centers.

Dr. Evans says UNESCO has found it is necessary to provide a continuous flow of interesting reading material for adults in order to maintain their reading abilities. If this is not done, he says, they actually forget how to read and write.

Actor Hayden Asks for Return of Name

LOS ANGELES (U)—Actor Sterling Hayden wants that to be his legal name again.

His petition to the Superior Court yesterday explained:

He was born Sterling Walter 41 years ago in Montclair, N.J. His mother remarried when he was 10 and his name became Sterling Hayden.

Entering the U.S. Marine Corps in 1942, he had his name changed legally to John Hamilton to avoid publicity.

When he returned to the movies he resumed the name Sterling Hayden. He wants it as his legal name, he said, because he has four children who bear the name Hayden. He is divorced, he told the court, and lives with the children in suburban Sherman Oaks.

U.S. Position Weighed; Must Find Only Solution

(This is the last article in which a famous reporter is presenting an assessment of America's military position today—how and where the U.S. position compares unfavorably with Russia, why we lag behind and what the experts say must be done.)

By BOB CONSIDINE

WHAT IS THE WAY OUT?

The air rings with clashing opinions on how the U.S. can overcome Russia's space age lead. Proposals for reorganizing the joint chiefs of staff, including one from the high level Rockefeller brothers fund report, collide head on with statements like the one from Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, that putting our future "in the hands of a single military protector" would "lay the foundations for national disaster."

How will the U.S. extricate itself from problems such as this?

The problems of extrication are gone into deftly by Charles J. V. Murphy in the current Fortune. A close friend of the President, Murphy writes:

"Certainly no President was ever confronted with a situation comparable to the one that has enveloped Eisenhower since the Sputniks—a situation made agonizingly complicated by the illness that so soon afterward overtook him.

"The most difficult kinds of choices press for decision; they involve options that will demand outlays of vast sums, and they will involve changes not only in the military structure but in the economic and social structures of the U.S." He adds:

"A White House adviser says, 'The President's burning concern now is to keep the country from going hog wild—from embarking on foolish, costly schemes.'"

In the end, it will be the President who will be called upon to make the hard decisions. Sen. John E. Stennis, Mississippi Democrat on the Johnson subcommittee, put this in words in one of the hearings, while questioning Vannevar Bush, one of the nation's most distinguished men of science:

"This authority to have a unified control power to make decisions, and then the authority to

Order 100,000 of Rockefeller Defense Report

NEW YORK — Nelson A. Rockefeller, president of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund which sponsored the controversial report on the United States defense crisis, says interest in the report is so great that 100,000 copies have been ordered printed for wide distribution.

Rockefeller, who also is chairman of the special project which produced the report, said in an interview yesterday "the main thing is to stimulate the public interest."

He said attention should be focused strongly on the fact that our country faces a problem that might affect our survival.

"If we Americans want to achieve all the other objectives in life which interest us, we must keep our security first. This report represents the thinking of a group of Americans with experience in many fields, and we hope it will be a contribution in the debates that lie ahead," he said.

The Rockefeller Brothers Fund is not connected with the Ford Foundation.

House Committee to Question Dulles

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles reports today to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which is primed with questions about prospects for a top-level meeting with Russia.

It is his first appearance of the new session before a congressional group.

He will appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow. The secretary usually talks to both groups at the start of each session.

Rep. Morgan (D-Pa.) said the congressmen would be interested in knowing "what is our direct attitude toward a future summit meeting."

Morgan said, "I'm not for any immediate summit conference, but I think we ought to be looking ahead." He said this country should be willing to talk with the Russians if the Reds show sincerity about such talks.

BENSON AND BROGAN — New tricks for an old shoe.

Old Dog Learns Tricks

CHICAGO — Trainer Orin Benson is proving you can teach an old dog new tricks.

His pride and joy is an outlaw, 200-pound St. Bernard he has taught to do small dog parlor stunts.

The dog's American Kennel Club registration papers call him Prince Valiant but the trainer has named him Brogan. "You know," says Benson, "that's an old shoe that's been kicked around."

Brogan's early dog life in a small Minnesota town left much to be desired. He had a kindly, aged owner, but he was unmanageable. He was a bum and a fighter.

"It's hard to say how many dogs he's killed. He challenged anything to a fight. He even challenged me, but I won," Benson said.

Benson, who rehabilitated K-9 dogs after World War II, met Brogan through a hunting companion four years ago. He took him home for training.

Penalty Handed Down for Extortion; 2 Federal Indictments Pending

NEW YORK (INS)—Labor racketeer Johnny Dio, hit yesterday with a maximum 15-30 years penalty for extortion, was still in the meshes of the law today, with two federal indictments lodged against him.

New York General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen scored the impressive underworld figure, whose real name is Dioguardi, as a labor "pirate" in giving out the maximum for a second extortion conviction.

Dio will be eligible for parole in ten years. But still hanging over his head are true bills charging him with conspiracy to obstruct justice in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel and income tax evasion.

The 44-year-old labor thug, pallid from confinement in city prison under a current two-year term for labor bribery, listened apathetically as Judge Mullen reviewed his career.

Judge Mullen snorted, "I cannot find that you earned an honest dollar up until today."

The eight months Dio spent in city prison were ordered credited to him at State's Prison, where he was to be transferred immediately to begin the extortion stretch.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Civil Service Commission says seven Michigan men have filed applications for postmasterships in Adrian and St. Joseph. Adrian applicants include Budd A. Goodwin, Donald F. MIDLAND — Dow Chemical Co. announced Thursday it has been awarded a $282,000 contract

Presidential Illness Problem Viewed

WASHINGTON — Chairman Celler (D-NY) said today the House Judiciary Committee will offer a proposal for temporary succession by the vice president if a president becomes incapacitated.

Cells said the committee will discuss the issue next week and "should not require more than one or two meetings to agree." Meanwhile, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said, "I think we should act to clear up this cloudy area of our Constitution in this session of Congress."

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Constitutional Amendments subcommittee, announced that group will start hearings after this month on pending proposals to deal with presidential inability.

"Oh, heavens, I don't know how you could get along without the newspaper! You'd never know about sales or where to buy anything."*

* From "The Functions of Newspapers for Their Readers," a study conducted for newspapers by Social Research, Inc.

Copyright 1957, Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Inc.

NEWSPAPERS + PEOPLE = ACTION

Every day when newspapers and people get together, things start popping. News stories, editorials and features constantly arouse readers to action. So does the advertising. Without the daily newspaper, as the lady says, "You'd never know about sales or where to buy anything."

Newspaper advertising differs from many other kinds of advertising because it is wanted. It is looked upon as news and read with as much interest. But people not only look for advertising in the newspaper — they act upon it. They buy from it.

That's why advertisers, year after year, spend more money in daily newspapers than they do in radio, television, magazines and outdoor combined.

Over 58,000,000 newspapers are bought daily, providing complete news, features, information — and advertising. If it's action you want — action you'll get — from your advertising in the action medium, the daily newspaper.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.

Many Fabulous Treasures Buried at Bottom of Sea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On a brisk November morn, the Spanish Plate Fleet of 1643 left Puerto Plata, Hispaniola, bound for Spain. Aboard was 21 million dollars in bullion, a year's loot from Central and South America.

A few days later, its flagship, the Santissima Trinidad, hobbled back to port to report the loss of the fleet, 14 great galleons and their cargo of treasure.

HURRICANE STRUCK

They had been halfway through the narrow passage of deep water between the shoals of the lower Bahamas when a hurricane struck. The flagship sneaked through. The others went down on the reefs.

The 14 galleons and the bulk of their great treasure are still there, between eight and 20 fathoms down on Silver Bank. A couple of million has been recovered but the rest awaits a finder.

The sunken treasure of Silver Bank is but one of thousands of lost fortunes that dot the seas and lands of the world. Most went down on treasure ships or were buried by owners who never returned.

HIGH VALUE

F. L. Coffman, who put 18 years of research into his new book, Atlas of Treasure Maps (Thomas Nelson & Sons), estimated the value of "those treasures whose origin and existence have been authenticated" at 275 billion dollars.

Coffman's atlas lists 3,047 treasure locations in the Western Hemisphere and the British Islands, many of them in the Caribbean Sea, the famed Spanish Main of the lumbering treasure galleon and the buccaneer.

Forty-one of those Caribbean locations, containing an estimated half billion dollars in treasure, are shown on the accompanying map.

BOTTOM OF SEA

The bulk of the treasure lies on the bottom of the sea in galleons of the Spanish Plate Fleet or is buried on the myriad islands by the pirates who looted the treasure ships.

The plate fleet was an annual flotilla of galleons that made collections at conquistador ports of Spanish America and gathered at Puerto Plata in a formidable flotilla to transport the treasure across the Atlantic to Mother Spain.

Many of the big ships didn't make it.

Three plate galleons, collecting in South America, appeared before Maricao, Venezuela, while the pirate Henry Morgan was sacking the city.

PIRATES ESCAPED

The galleon captains tried to bottle up the pirate ships but Morgan rammed them and escaped. The galleons, with six millions, went to the bottom of Lake Maricao.

The Santa Paula, with three millions aboard, was off Cuba's Isle of Pines when a Negro slave, who didn't want to go to Spain, chopped a hole in the bottom. The Santa Paula went down.

The pirates who preyed on the Spanish galleons buried much of the loot they couldn't spend. Many who were caught or lost at sea never returned to claim their fortunes.

A good deal of the buried treasure is located on or near the islands that were the pirate strongholds.

Best known is the island of Tortuga, off the north coast of Haiti, the strategic spot from which the swift pirate craft sailed out to ambush the Plate Fleet.

It has been estimated that many millions of dollars lie buried on Tortuga.

Millions more have been searched for near other buccaneer headquarters on Vache Island, off Haiti's southern coast, and on Half Moon Cay and Roatan Island off Central America.

What are the chances of finding a buried or sunken treasure? Coffman says that in one year (1950) more than 11 million dollars were reported by finders, mostly in the Florida-Caribbean area. Most finds, he says, were made by non-professional searchers.

Veteran treasure hunter Coffman recommends these steps to finding a treasure trove:

Select a location near home. Compile all the data you can on that location. Arm yourself with a good metal detector, a boat of some sort and some skin-diving equipment. Go to it.

Most of the countries of the Caribbean area require that a prospective treasure hunter take out a license or permit to dig or dive. And, if the seeker finds anything, the government skins off a percentage, usually about 50 per cent.

That's why no one is quite sure exactly how much treasure remains at the bottom of the Caribbean. Most recoveries, says Coffman, go unreported to avoid payment of the government cut.

Buyers Ad to Prove Love

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP)—Doris West knows her husband still loves her. He took a full page ad in the Corsicana Daily Sun; in his own handwriting, three columns wide and four inches deep, the ad read: "To Doris on our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. I love you, Doyle."

William Matus, director of Camp Oakland, and William Kopp, a supervisor of the summer camp program, spoke to members of Pontiac Opti-Mrs. Club when that group met in the Garland avenue home of Mrs. Robert Bradley. Mrs. Gerard Slack introduced the program at the Tuesday evening meeting.

Mr. Matus explained the new winter program for older teenagers who are out of school but not ready for the adult labor market. They are working at the camp preparing and repairing equipment used in the summer program. In addition they take some classes in basic subjects such as mathematics.

The plans for Girls' Ranch, a home to accommodate some 14 girls on a year-round basis are being completed now, and building is expected to commence in April. This will add a fourth division to the work, summer camp, winter camp, Boys' Ranch and Girls' Ranch. Mr. Matus pointed out.

The Opti-Mrs. next meeting will be Feb. 4 in the Mohawk road home of Mrs. Irving Gillies for a cooperative dinner.

Makes Rich Canadian Ores Available to Industry

Arctic Sea Route Valuable

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Northwest Passage promises to play an important part in Canada's mining industry.

The recently conquered trans-Arctic waterway is destined to become a profitable sea route for transporting rich mineral deposits from the northern reaches of Canadian territory.

Its new high potential as a valuable commercial asset is revealed by Commodore O. C. S. Robertson, Arctic expert and Canadian naval attaché to Washington.

He explains that as present mineral payloads are exhausted, new mines must be opened up in far northern regions. The nearby passage would provide a convenient means for getting the deposits out.

This is only one of a series of future Arctic events which promise to focus interest on the Northwest Passage for some time to come.

Next year Canadian ships will replace the U. S. Military Sea Transport Service in the task of supplying a large part of the Dis- tant Early Warning radar stations. At the same time they will take over another job that could uncover further secrets of the famed polar waterway.

Vice Admiral John M. Will, MSTs commander, reports, "Canada will carry on the hydrographic survey work in the central Arctic which has been accomplished by MSTs during the last three years."

It was Admiral Will's painstaking probing of the frigid waters that uncovered a passage deep enough to provide DEW line cargo ships with an escape route to the East. Such a route was necessary in case ice should block their Western exit.

SURVEYS NEEDED
Robertson believes more surveys of the passage are needed to increase its safety. "We know where ships can go," he says, "but we don't know where they can't go."

Although the recent work to open the passage has been a man-sized job, Robertson credits a woman with making the project possible in the first place.

Several years ago Miss Moira Dunbar, a geographer for the Canadian Defense Research Board, was studying some aerial photographs of the Arctic waters. She noticed several ice islands floating in waters which make up part of the passage. Islands of this size could only enter areas where the water was deep.

Her findings were largely responsible for Admiral Will's decision to survey the area.

The joint U.S.-Canadian effort reached its climax in September when three Coast Guard ships and a Canadian icebreaker crossed Bellot Strait, the key link in the passage.

Since 1859 at least five smaller boats had passed through the strait. But the success of the U.S. and Canadian vessels proved for the first time that Bellot was deep enough for large ships.

It also closed another chapter on the search for a Northwest Passage which has lured explorers into the Arctic for about 400 years. In that time two others have been found, it is reported. But both were too far north to be of any use to the DEW line supply operations.

The first was found by Ronald Amundsen, a Norwegian explorer, in 1906. The second was discovered by Commodore Robertson in 1954.

Ex-Actress Gives UCLA $1½ Million

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A check for $1½ million dollars was given to the UCLA medical center yesterday by former actress Marion Davies.

UCLA officials described the gift as the biggest cash contribution ever received by the university. It will be used to add to the medical center a children's wing to be named after Miss Davies.

Modern public libraries, supported by taxes of the public, were hardly known in the U.S. before 1850.

Bell Telephone Ends Plea for Rate Hike

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Bell Telephone Co. wound up its plea for a $12,500,000 rate increase before the State Public Service Commission yesterday with the appearance of two key witnesses.

The rehearing of the company petition was adjourned without date while the commission, which previously had granted a $2,835,000 annual rate hike, studied the new evidence.

The phone company has said the proposed increase would mean about a five per cent boost in revenue and would amount to around 50 cents a month for the average customer.

Ferry B. Allen, assistant vice president, said the commission should take into consideration the effects of the company's expansion program on the investment per phone.
