ARGENTINE PRESIDENT DEPARTS—President Arturo Frondizi and his wife, Elena wave from the ramp of a chartered airliner before leaving Buenos Aires yesterday for a visit to the United States. The party is scheduled to land in Charleston, S. C. at 3 p. m. today.

Burglars Sought in $10,750 Theft

Jewelry, Cash Taken From R. W. Scripps Home in Birmingham

Birmingham Police are seeking burglars who broke into the home of newspaper executive Robert W. Scripps at 1099 N. Glenhurst Dr. sometime between 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 3:50 p.m. Sunday and stole $10,750 in jewelry and cash.

The burglars made a thorough search of the Scripps residence to the extent that they removed wall fixtures concealing plumbing fixtures.

They sorted out the jewelry in bedrooms, leaving costume jewelry behind. Most of the loot was jewelry, with only about a hundred dollars in cash taken, police said today.

There were five missing items valued at $1,000 and more. These included a diamond and emerald pin, two diamond and ruby clips, a diamond and ruby ring, a diamond bracelet and a diamond and sapphire bracelet.

Another diamond pin and a diamond encrusted lady's watch valued at $800 also was stolen.

Scripps is a grandson of the founder of the Detroit News and is on the newspaper's board of directors.

Argentina President Flies to U. S. for Aid

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A crippling wave of strikes swept Argentina today as President Arturo Frondizi flew to the United States for help to pull his country out of economic chaos.

With diehard followers of exiled dictator Juan D. With die-hard followers of exiled dictator Juan D. officials served notice they would call out troops if violence erupted.

The capital was in a virtual state of siege as orders went out to conscripts in the 24-26 age class to stand by for a call from the army "at any moment."

★ ★ ★

Frondizi was due in Charleston, S. C., today to start a two-week state visit. He arrives in Washington Tuesday to confer with President Eisenhower and other top officials.

Left at home to direct action against the strikers were Senate Chairman Jose Maria Guido, acting president, and Alfredo Vitolo, acting minister of national defense and interior minister.

Scattered violence Sunday pointed up the gravity of the situation.

★ ★ ★

One bomb went off in La Plata, 35 miles southeast of the capital, doing about $1,000 in damage to the building housing the U. S. Information Service. Another exploded in the capital, damaging the home of Rogelio Frigerio, economic adviser to the president.

Frondizi, a stern lawyer with the nickname "El Flaco"—the Thin Man—is the first Argentine president to visit the United States.

He leaves behind for two weeks a storehouse of troubles. But he has a traveling bag full of hopes, and his journey to the United States is a key in his bold program to tug Argentina out of chaos.

Auto Financing to Be Probed

Rising Monopolization Fear Aggravated by Ford Re-Entry

WASHINGTON (AP)—A probe will be launched into automobile sales financing by the Senate because of concern over what was described as increasing monopolization."

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), chairman of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, said yesterday "the subcommittee has been concerned about increasing monopolization in automobile financing for some time."

Kefauver added that this concern has been aggravated by announcement last week of the Ford Motor Co.'s intention to establish its own financing organization.

General Motors Corp. already has a wholly-owned subsidiary, General Motors Acceptance Corp. (GMAC), to handle financing of car sales.

Kefauver recalled that Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), as acting chairman of the subcommittee in 1956, recommended that General Motors be required to get rid of GMAC.

★ ★ ★

In an accompanying statement, O'Mahoney renewed that recommendation and urged a law that would make it illegal for large manufacturers to establish similar financing subsidiaries.

Such a law, he said, "would be a positive stimulus to the expansion of free independent enterprises."

Kefauver said an early meeting of the subcommittee will be held to set a date for public hearings.

He said witnesses will include officials of Ford Motor Co., who will be asked to explain their decision to re-enter the auto financing field. Representatives of Chrysler Corp. also will be asked if they have similar plans.

Spokesmen for the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission also will be called, Kefauver said, to discuss "whether GMAC's relationship to General Motors and a financing outlet set up by Ford would violate present law and, if not, what recommendations, if any, they might have for changes."

Blasts Refusal to Ease Limits on Mutual Trade

Says State Department Continues Cold War With Economic Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan today accused the U. S. State Department of continuing the cold war by refusing to ease restrictions on Soviet-American trade.

Mikoyan delivered his blast after a 1¾-hour meeting with Deputy Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon who is in charge of foreign economic policy.

His face grim, Mikoyan told newsmen afterward:

"Apparently the State Department is not prepared to repeal those discriminatory restrictions which are in the way of expanding shipment of Soviet goods to the United States in order that we could place big orders."

Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov, who accompanied Mikoyan and acted as translator, added:

"He's of the impression the cold war in the State Department is going on and that it affects foreign trade.

★ ★ ★

"We hope the cold war will be over and that trade will expand."

Mikoyan had a second trade conference set up for later today with Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss.

Mikoyan's words were the sharpest and bluntest criticism of American policy which he has made since he arrived in this country 15 days ago.

In talks with business leaders and others he has put on a campaign for trade—with implied emphasis on Soviet purchases of goods the United States considers strategic.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, he has shown no inclination on the part of the Kremlin to offer any concessions in the continuing crisis over Berlin.

Mikoyan denounced American trade policy as he put on his overcoat to head for the National Press Club to make a luncheon speech and answer questions.

More Snow Hits Oakland County; Low Tonight 10

A new blanket of snow covered the Pontiac area today, with both drivers and pedestrians finding the going rough outdoors.

Before it stops snowing sometime this afternoon, three to four inches of new snow will have fallen, according to the Weather Bureau.

The weatherman said it would get colder this afternoon with the low tonight expected to range from about 10 in this area to five in the northern part of the state.

No immediate relief is in sight for shivering citizens. Temperatures are expected to be 10-15 degrees below normal through Thursday. A slight warming trend is expected Friday.

Roads in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Macomb counties were reported hazardous.

The high today was expected around 31 degrees.

The lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 14. At 2 p.m. the mercury registered 27.

Anti-Integration Laws Tumble

Virginia Supreme Court Knocks Down School Racial Barrier

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Supreme Court today struck down the state's statutes against racial integration which have closed nine schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville and Warren County.

The state court's action was disclosed after a three-judge federal court in Norfolk threw out the closure law which has displaced some 10,000 secondary school pupils in the big port city.

But the unappealable state court decision had more immediate effect on the future of Virginia public school operations.

★ ★ ★

In a 22-page majority opinion by Chief Justice John W. Eggleston, the court rejected a principal contention of the Almond administration.

This was that when the U. S. Supreme Court knocked out the segregation section of the Virginia constitution it also invalidated the section requiring the state to provide for a system of public schools. The decision came on a 5 to 2 division.

The action of the state court brought the probability that some school integration in Norfolk, Arlington, Alexandria and other areas under federal orders would occur within a matter of a few weeks.

Asks 4½-Cent Car Fuel Levy, Nickel Stamp

Balanced $77 Billion Fiscal Spending Plan Goes to Congress

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today sent Congress a precariously balanced budget of $77,030,000,000 demanding higher federal gasoline taxes and a new hike in postal rates.

He requested an increase in gasoline taxes from 3 cents to 4½ cents a gallon and a $350,000,000 boost in postal charges, apparently by instituting a five-cent stamp for some letters.

These proposals, combined with higher taxes on aviation fuel and some other tax revisions, would bring in $1,356,000,000 of new revenue in fiscal year 1960, which starts this July.

No tax cuts were proposed. On the contrary, there was a mild threat of more general tax increases, if the Presirent's goal of achieving a $70,000,000 surplus in the coming year should fade and the government again goes into the red. The current year's "recession-induced" deficit was estimated at $12,900,000,000.

Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson told reporters it "might prove to be necessary" to consider a general tax hike if the Democratic Congress should fail to give Eisenhower the legislative support he needs to balance the budget, and if business is good.

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower proposed to cut spending by nearly $3,900,000,000 below this year's figure. He held the defense budget at virtually the same level as this year — nearly $41,000,000,000 and ordered big reductions in outlays for agriculture, foreign aid and housing.

Spurred by Soviet satellite and sun rocket triumphs, the administration's new budget steps up sharply the funds for a U. S. race into space.

The budget estimates made public today would greatly accelerate satellite ventures and lunar and deep space probes. Figures asked for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration also would more than double the spending rate on solid fuel research and on development of a million pound thrust engine and nuclear rocket engines.

By far the biggest chunk of the new budget was $40,945,000,000 for

Amateur Detective Ends Trail for 2 Holdup Men

A Clarkston man was credited with leading State Police and Oakland County sheriff's deputies to two armed bandits less than an hour after they robbed a Waterford Township tavern of $180 early Sunday morning.

Fred Hipp, 21, of 6530 Transparent St., was one of about a dozen patrons at Mike's Bar, 4800 Dixie Highway, when the two men entered the tavern at 12:25 a. m.

The bandits were identified by police as Robert L. Tate, 26, of 450 Druin St., and Richard K. Allen, 25, of 7 Short St.

Witnesses told police that Allen stood at the door with a double-barrel shotgun and covered the customers while Tate went to the bar, pointed a pistol at the bartender and told him to hand over all the cash in the cash register.

Behind the bar was Vic Bozzo, manager. Bozzo gave Tate the money and the two men left through the front door, police said.

★ ★ ★

Hipp ran out a back door, got into his car and followed the bandits' auto several miles to the east where they parked on a side road in Oakland Subdivision.

Hipp then returned to the scene of the holdup, told police what he had done and led them to the pair, who were still in their car.

The money was found in the glove compartment of the car. Police said the men had two shotguns, a pistol, and several knives in the auto.

★ ★ ★

The pistol Tate used was a "starting" gun used in races and capable of shooting only blanks.

Police said both Allen and Tate have past police records. Troopers said Tate had just been taken off probation and that Allen was still on probation for past convictions.

They are being held at the Oakland County Jail for investigation of armed robbery.

Could Put Man on Moon — Gently

Bare New Rocket Engine

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (AP) — The Navy has a new rocket engine which it says can land man on the moon — gently — and bring him back alive.

The engine was disclosed Sunday by the Naval Ordnance Test Station here along with another development: a safe new way of packaging dangerous fuels that scientists say will eliminate long countdowns.

Douglas D. Ordahl, head of the station's missile propulsion division, told a news conference "We hope to make a test vehicle within the next six months."

During ground tests, the engine has developed thrusts of up to 10,000 pounds — compared with the 400,000-pound thrust of the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

★ ★ ★

But Ordahl said, "There is no limit to the ultimate size and power of the engine."

★ ★ ★

Some of the test engines, Ordahl said, have burned as long as four hours, throttled down.

"Current missiles burn up all their fuel in a minute or so," he said. "The new engine does not have to burn all its fuel at once. It can burn only what is necessary and save the remainder for later spurts."

"We have had engines that could go to the moon — if we had proper control over them," he said. "This new engine gives that control.

"It means we can change direction and speed in flight, that we can slow down and make a feather-soft landing on the moon or any of the planets, and take off again.

"It also means we can bring manned satellites back from orbit without damage by controlling direction and speed as they re-enter the atmosphere."

★ ★ ★

Instead of kerosene and liquid oxygen, which is hazardous and difficult to store, the engine burns two secret fluids which ignite on contact with each other.

The fluids are fed through a valve which controls the flow into the engine's combustion chamber. This enables scientists to regulate the amount of thrust produced — either by a hand lever or by remote radio control.

"These liquids can be stored indefinitely without corroding their aluminum tanks," Ordahl said. "A missile using this type of fuel could be loaded at the factory and stored for years. When delivered to troops in the field, it could be fired on a moment's notice."

Polaris ICBM Flies to Success

Navy Missile Soars Over Atlantic in First Perfect Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —A trim Polaris, the Navy's intermediate range missile with ICBM reach, catapulted out over the Atlantic today in the first fully successful flight of the weapon in its final shape.

★ ★ ★

The 28-foot missile, shaped like a bowling pin, leaped from its launching platform at 10:51 a.m. EST and headed southeast on an 800-mile flight. The Navy said the second half of the two-stage solid fuel missile burned out about two minutes after firing.

★ ★ ★

Smaller and lighter than other intermediate ballistic missiles, the solid fuel Polaris is designed to be fired from either a submerged or surface submarine. The Lockheed missile has a range of about 1,700 land miles, but from its mobile launching vehicle it could hit any target on earth.

Navy officials said the flight "was fully successful."

It was clear and cold in the Atlantic Coast states. Below zero readings were reported in sections of the Northeast. Some warmer weather was indicated in the north and middle Atlantic states as well as in the Southeast.

The main area of wet weather covered by the storm extended from northern Missouri and eastern Iowa across northern Illinois and Indiana and northward into the upper Great Lakes.

Rain or a mixture of rain and snow fell near the southern borders of the wet belt. Blowing and drifting snow was reported to the north, with driving conditions reported hazardous in some areas. Falls ranged from one to two inches in a six-hour period during the night.

Tuller Open for Business

Blame Match in Hotel Fire

DETROIT (AP) — A carelessly discarded match today was blamed for setting off the fire in the Tuller Hotel which claimed three lives and injured 14 persons.

Fire Marshal Matthew J. McNally theorized a match was thrown into a rubbish container in a hat shop off the hotel lobby, starting the million dollar blaze Saturday.

He said investigations by arson and homicide detectives have ruled out criminal intent.

★ ★ ★

The fire-scarred hotel, once a downtown showpiece, opened for business as usual today. But charred reminders of the fire remained.

Makeshift facilities were set up in the blackened lobby. The odor of fire lingered. About 250 of more than 420 guests who fled Saturday in numbing 13-degree cold had returned.

A desk clerk spent yesterday registering incoming guests and staring at his old counter the flames had reduced to charcoal.

"About 10 or 12 people have checked in since the fire," said the clerk.

Upstairs the second floor was scorched by flames and blackened by smoke. Guests were placed higher in the undamaged portions of the 800-room, 14-story hostelry overlooking Detroit's Grand Circus Park.

Employes toiled, mopping up water-logged floors and burned rugs, moving out singed furniture, picking up soggy chunks of plaster.

Fire inspectors moved about, searching for clues to the cause of the blaze. Eight policemen were stationed at the hotel on guard against souvenir hunters.

★ ★ ★

Arson squad detectives believed the blaze was ignited by a cigarette in a rubbish basket in a hat shop on the mezzanine floor.

Fire Commissioner Paxton Mendelssohn said the flames spurted out of the hat shop into the lobby, setting paneled walls and rugs ablaze. The fire shot up elevator shafts and poured smoke throughout the building.

Fire Marshal Matthew J. McNally estimated the damage at a million dollars. Fire Chief Joseph H. Alder said his investigators were trying to determine if the lobby carpeting had been cleaned recently with an inflammable fluid. Witnesses said fire had gushed up from the carpet as it would from the wick of a cigarette lighter.

★ ★ ★

Fire inspectors said the 53-year old hotel had passed Detroit fire safety requirements recently.

Under investigation was the possibility that highly glazed lobby panels may have eased the racing route of the fire.

It was in an elevator that three Tuller employes died. They were John P. McDermitt, 47, an assistant manager, and John Henderson, 60, and George Washburn, 65, both hotel engineers.

Hundreds managed to escape. Some crept down smoke-drenched corridors to waiting aerial ladders. Others made their way to fire escapes. Many fled wearing just night clothing.

6 Die in Traffic Over Weekend

String of 3 Deathless Sundays Broken but Toll Is Better Than Year Ago

By United Press International

Michigan's record of three straight deathless Sundays on the highways came to an end when three persons were killed in traffic accidents yesterday.

Three other persons died Saturday to give the state a weekend fatality count of six.

It was a vast improvement over the same weekend a year ago when state police records showed 17 lost their lives.

Most Michigan roads were clear yesterday, except for the southwestern portion of the state where driving was dangerous because of near blizzard weather.

★ ★ ★

The state's first Sunday traffic victim since the weekend before Christmas was Mrs. Donald J. Omans, 41, of Pontiac.

August B. Seeley, 55, of Flint was killed when his car ran a red light and struck another at a downtown intersection in Flint.

Robert G. Stacks, 27, rural Saranac, died when his car ran off a road near his home and hit a culvert.

Stanley Tetuntez, 80, Detroit, was crossing a city street when he was struck and fatally injured by a car driven by Paul Mudrak, Mudrak, of Detroit, was not held.

Vincent Norton, 70, Trenton, was killed on U.S. 24 in Wayne County when his car ran into a ditch.

Phyllis Kappe, 28, Grand Rapids, died Saturday of injuries suffered in a head-on collision on M-46 six miles west of Six Lakes.

No Lag 'Til Mid-February

Sees Steady Employment

Employment, which rose by 4,100 between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15, should remain steady through mid-February, the Pontiac branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission said today.

Because of the Christmas season, retail stores added 800 workers and area post offices another 500 during the 30-day period. Because of increased industrial productivity, the transportation industry added 300 workers, the MESC said.

The manufacturing employment increase was 2,800, according to the MESC, as auto plants reached volume production after model changeovers.

A seasonal decrease of 300 took place in construction, the MESC said.

As of Dec. 15, unemployment stood at 7,500, or about 9.2 per cent of the labor force, according to MESC estimates.

Unemployment insurance volume last month was the lowest since January, 1958, the MESC said. The December figure of $554,640 was a sharp drop from November's $915,806.

Ike's Budget Asks Gas, Postal Hikes

defense, with the accent on missile and space projects.

Eisenhower gave no precise figure, but one source made an educated guess that space spending of all types would hit three-quarters of a billion dollars. His space program envisioned projects ranging from space weather stations to manned flight to the planets.

Eisenhower hiked prospective outlays for the Atomic Energy Commission, too, but budgeted nothing for nuclear weapons tests for the year starting next July 1 in hopes a ban on testing will be agreed upon. This country offered to suspend such tests for a year starting last Oct. 31.

CUT IN AID

He outlined a 10 per cent cut in foreign aid, from an anticipated $3,881,000,000 this year to $3,498,000,000 next. Biggest reduction was a $462,000,000 drop in military assistance, partly offset by increases elsewhere.

Placing heavy emphasis on halting or tapering off what some regard as federal handouts, Eisenhower stepped on many toes by:

—Proposing to slash the farm budget from an estimated $7,340,000,000 this year to $6,450,000,000 and announcing he will try to revamp the "largely outmoded" price support system.

—Refusing to okay any new low-rent public housing projects; flood control, navigation and irrigation programs, or hospitals for war veterans.

—Cutting new spending for local hospital grants, health research facilities and waste treatment works.

And huge as it was, his military budget was only $145,000,000 more than expected spending this year, a fact sure to provoke outcries from Congressmen clamoring for bigger defense outlays.

The President said he would ask for legislation to "encourage" more private financing of veterans housing, rural electrification and telephone projects, college housing and maritime mortgages.

Eisenhower said in his 78-page message that his austerity-prosperity budget was neither "extravagant" nor "unduly limiting."

"It rejects the philosophy that the national welfare is best served by satisfying every demand for federal expenditures," he said.

CHANCES SLIM

His chances of keeping the budget balanced appeared slim, however, on the basis of Democratic attitudes in Congress. For example, if Congress failed to approve the postal rate hike alone, it would throw finances into the red.

Both Eisenhower and Secretary Anderson painted bright pictures of the economic outlook.

Anderson said the revenue estimate of $77,100,000,000 for the coming fiscal year was based on the assumption that personal income would climb from $353,500,000,000 in calendar 1958 to $374,000,000,000 this year, and that corporate profits would rise from $36,500,000,000 to $47,000,000,000.

On this basis, government income was budgeted to rise $9,100,000,000 over this year, while spending was cut.

Budget Director Maurice H. Stans told newsmen the administration deliberately held down the introduction of new programs in what the President has called "a breather in expansion."

A White House emissary delivered the budget message to the House and Senate at noon for formal reading by clerks. The Senate, in recess today, will receive the message Tuesday.

Youth Revived From Fumes in Ice Shanty

SPRING LAKE (AP)—Richard L. Matzen, 17, was recovering today after his rescue from near asphyxiation in an ice fishing shanty fire.

Two Muskegon fishermen, Ralph Hall and Harry Hart, investigated yesterday when they saw smoke coming from a shanty occupied by the Grand Haven High School senior on nearby Lloyd's Bayou. They found the youth overcome, his legs dangling through the hole in the ice.

★ ★ ★

Matzen was revived by artificial respiration at a nearby home. The youth later told his mother he attempted to leave the shanty after becoming dizzy, but his movement apparently slid a plastic boat cushion into contact with the open flame of a bottled gas heater and set it afaire.

A&P Coffee Prices Cut on 3 Premium Brands

NEW YORK (AP) — A & P Food Stores cut prices for three of four premium coffee brands by four cents a pound as a result of weakness in Brazilian and Columbian green coffee markets.

★ ★ ★

The action brought total reductions of these brands during the last five weeks to eight cents a pound. Unaffected by the cut was Eight O'Clock brand, recently slashed six cents a pound.

BONNIE MARLOWE

City Elks Open Way for Young Dancer

A 16-year-old Pontiac tap dancer will get a shot at the "big time" later this month, thanks to members of the Pontiac Elks Lodge who have voted her winner of their recent amateur show.

Bonnie Marlowe, of 145 Mohawk St., a cute Pontiac Central High School student, was presented with a $100 check Saturday night at the Elks Temple.

Donald Wilson, exalted ruler, made the presentation. Miss Marlowe won all three of the lodge's amateur shows last fall competing against 45 other contestants.

The award money will be used to pay expenses to New York where she will audition for the Ted Mack Show on Jan. 27. She will make the trip with her mother.

Milford High Junior Wins Cherry Pie Title

Sixteen-year old Cordree Heard, a Milford High School junior, outbaked 16 other contestants Saturday in the annual Oakland County Cherry Pie Baking Contest.

She is now preparing to enter the state contest Jan. 29-30 in Grand Rapids.

Cordree, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Heard, 3502 Old Plank Rd., Milford Township, was awarded the President's Trophy from the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and an overnight traveling bag from The Pontiac Press for baking the winning pie.

Second place in the county contest went to Gwen Bennett of 2685 Buno Rd., Milford. She represented the Rolling Acres 4-H Club of Milford.

Judy Cudnohufsky of 1940 S. Lapeer Rd., Lake Orion, the 1958 contest winner, placed third. Gwen and Judy each received a wallet from the S. S. Kresge Co. in Pontiac.

Cordree, who was beaming with excitement when she found out her pie was declared the winner, said she made four pies last week in preparation for the contest.

But she said she had only experimented with the crust the night before and used confectioner's sugar. This was pointed out by judges to be one of the main taste features of the pie.

Cordree's expenses and those of her 4-H leader, Mrs. Carlos Long of Lake Sherwood, will be paid to the Grand Rapids contest.

The contest, held at Pontiac Northern High School, was sponsored by the Michigan Canners and Freezer Assn., the Michigan Cherry Producers Assn. and the Michigan Cherry Commission.

Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, Oakland County, also aided in the project.

The Day in Birmingham

Commission to Consider Ambulance Problem

BIRMINGHAM — An extensive report on how Birmingham may solve the problem of no local ambulance service will be presented to the city commission tonight by Asst. City Manager Robert Kenning.

Several weeks ago Mike O'Hara, owner of the Birmingham Ambulance Service told the city that unpaid bills amounting to several thousand dollars might put him out of business. Commissioners, feeling a responsibility to the public, began a study on this service.

Kenning has contacted cities in the area on the problems they face with city-owned ambulance service and its operation. His report shows the possibility of additional men being employed by the police department, plus the expense of the vehicles to be a major problem.

He also includes reports from cities which subsidize privately owned ambulances. He said that if the commission concurrs with this type of solution, further study will be made and plans brought forth to enter such an agreement, probably with O'Hara.

Commissioners also will begin an early study of the 1959 street paving program. This will include the Frank street construction from Woodward avenue to Bates street and participation with the county on widening W. Maple road from Westchester way to Cranbrook road.

License and permit fees under the newly adopted fire ordinance also will be discussed.

Unusual among the courts of honor held by Birmingham Boy Scouts will be that of Troop B-5 at 8 p.m. tonight in the Quarton Elementary School.

Scoutmaster Peter Hoffman said that everyone of the awards made in scouting will be presented tonight.

John Emmett will receive the Eagle award, while Fred Muenchinger will receive the bronze palm Eagle Award and the God and Country award.

A Birmingham city employe, Genevieve Wall, 54, of 115 E. Maple Ave. suffered a broken right arm when she was struck by a car yesterday while crossing Maple avenue at Woodward avenue.

Driver of the car was Geraldine Wedge, 18, of 156 S. Glengary Rd. She was not held.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Samuel Lang, 43 Oxford St., Pleasant Ridge, this afternoon, Birmingham Rotary Anns will see the prize-winning operetta "Cradle Song."

Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. William Averill, Mrs. Erik Bergishagen, Mrs. Lynd, Mrs. C. B. McCormick and Mrs. Lewis Morley.

Birmingham Democratic Club will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Clinic Room at the Community House. Election of officers, plans for the new year, committee reports and appointment of committee members will be held.

To Arraign 5 Today on Gambling Charges

Four men and one woman, charged with operating a horse race bookie ring in Pontiac, were scheduled to be arraigned today before Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer on gambling charges.

★ ★ ★

Charged with conspiracy to violate state gambling laws are Basil W. Burke, 59, of 29 Salmer Ave., described as the ring's kingpin; former Deputy City Treasurer LaRue E. Gullett, 41, of 301 Dick Ave.; his wife, Gladys, 35; James "Chinaboy" Pruzor, 54, of 4 S. Saginaw St., and Charles D. Apley, 44, of the Salmer address.

All five were bound over to Circuit Court last month following preliminary examination before Pontiac Municipal Court Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Hearing Scheduled on Street Project

The only item of business scheduled for tonight's Waterford Township Board meeting is another hearing on the controversial Lansdowne street blacktopping project, according to Supervisor Elmer Johnson.

★ ★ ★

At a hearing held two weeks ago, property owners protested the cost of repairing the one-mile stretch of road, claiming they paid the Oakland County Road Commission for this work two years ago.

It is expected that engineering cost estimates and Road Commission reports will be presented at tonight's hearing.

Operate on Mario Lanza

ROME (AP) — Singer Mario Lanza underwent minor surgery at a Rome clinic yesterday. Mrs. Lanza said her husband was "feeling fine today and will be able to leave the clinic tomorrow." Lanza and his wife have been living in Rome for several months.

Enters Innocent Plea to Arson

Arraign Thompson on Charge of Burning in Kierdorf Case

A plea of innocent was entered for Flint Teamster business agent Jack D. Thompson when he was arraigned today in Genesee County Circuit Court on a charge of arson in the mysterious burning of fellow unionist Frank Kierdorf.

Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke said the 41-year-old Thompson might stand trial sometime next month.

Thompson's Detroit attorney, James E. Haggerty, told Judge John W. Baker that his client would stand mute when asked how he pleaded to the arson charge. Thompson's $1,500 bond was continued.

Thompson, described by some as Kierdorf's closest friend, was bound over to Circuit Court for trial following a two-day examination which, according to Flint Municipal Judge Donald R. Freeman, linked Thompson with the burning of a dry cleaning establishment by means of fingerprints found on Kierdorf's station wagon.

Kierdorf, 56, also a business agent, died at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Aug. 7 as the result of burns suffered in the fire.

Democrats Pick Convention Site

Select Los Angeles for Gathering in 1960; GOP Undecided

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles is the choice of the Democrats' site committee as the location for the party's 1960 national convention. It's still a toss-up where the Republicans will hold theirs.

★ ★ ★

Los Angeles won the committee's recommendation Sunday after putting up a $350,000 cash offer. Top offers also were made at the committee's New Orleans meeting by San Francisco, Miami Beach and Philadelphia. Chicago and New York also were in the running.

★ ★ ★

The recommendation by the site committee is subject to final action by the Democratic National Committee when it meets Feb. 27-28 in Washington. Approval usually is only a formality.

★ ★ ★

Proposed site of the Democratic meeting is the huge Los Angeles Sports Arena scheduled for completion in May. The five-million-dollar structure will have a floor as long as the playing area of a football field and wider—300 feet long and 160 feet wide.

★ ★ ★

Los Angeles, a city of 2,400,000, has never had a major national political meeting. Californians were prompt in expressing pleasure.

'Copter Rescues Mother; Boy Born in Hospital

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Mildred June Evans, 19, gave birth to a baby boy Sunday night shortly after a helicopter flight from her ice-bound Chesapeake Bay island home.

★ ★ ★

The young woman began experiencing labor pains at her Smith Island home Sunday afternoon. A commercial boat tried to take Mrs. Evans from the island to this Eastern Shore town, but was stopped by ice.

★ ★ ★

The Coast Guard dispatched a 52-foot boat from Crisfield but it also was stopped by the ice.

Finally, the Coast Guard asked the Patuxent Naval Air Station to send a helicopter for the woman and her mother Mrs. Laura Clayton. They were at Crisfield in less than 15 minutes.

Mrs. Evans gave birth to a seven-pound, four-ounce boy shortly after 9 p.m. in the Edward W. McCready Memorial Hospital.

Billy Graham Arrives for Rest in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Told by Mayo Clinic doctors to take a rest evangelist Billy Graham plans three weeks of sleeping, eating, fishing and golf in Hawaii.

★ ★ ★

Graham and his wife arrived by plane Sunday night from San Francisco. They plan to leave Feb. 8 for Australia where he is scheduled to open a religious crusade Feb. 15.

Graham underwent examination in Rochester, Minn., last week for a nervous disorder stemming from overwork.

Governor Tells Indians Youths Need Education

FORT HALL, Idaho (AP)—Gov. Robert Smylie of Idaho has advised reservation Indians that it is their responsibility to see that Indian children get an education.

"As our country grows and technical advances are made, the need for an education will be greater and greater," Smylie told a meeting of Indians at this Southeastern Idaho reservation.

One-Price Milk Area Gets More Support

LANSING (UPI)—Processors and milk producers testifying during a two-week hearing on establishing a federal milk marketing area in Central Michigan were in favor of the move, federal officials said today.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture officials moved on to similar hearings in Cleveland.

If established in Michigan, the area would be similar to ones now set up in Muskegon, Benton Harbor and Detroit areas in the southern part of the state.

If established, the area would come under uniform prices for milk, set by the USDA. It was expected the move might be made about mid-summer.

ROCHESTER—The deadline for filing nominating petitions for the four positions open on the Rochester Village Council is noon Saturday, Maxine Ross, village clerk announced today.

Council members whose terms expire this year are Frank Rewold, William Chapman, Clarence Burr and James Hill.

If no more than nine candidates file nominating petitions, there will be no primary, and the voting will take place during the regular spring election March 9, the clerk said.

Child Psychology Course Being Offered at MSUO

A course in child psychology for graduate nurses, teachers and homemakers interested in child training and development is being offered by Michigan State University at the Michigan State University Oakland campus.

★ ★ ★

The course, which carries three term hours of graduate or undergraduate credit, is meeting Mondays from 7 to 10 p.m. at the MSUO Continuing Education Center, Adams and Butler roads.

"This course is important to the graduate nurse working on a bachelor of science degree program because it is a degree requirement," Florence Kempf, director of the MSU School of Nursing, said.

"It would also have value for the nurse in whatever field she might be practicing — in the hospital, in the community or in the home," she added.

★ ★ ★

Parents and other residents with a general psychology background would find the course of interest, according to Miss Kempf.

Teaching the course is Dr. William Mahon Jr., an educational psychologist with the Ferndale school system.

"The class will discuss the physical, psychological and social development of the child and the relation of his environment to his development," Dr. Mahon pointed out.

★ ★ ★

"Special problems of child training in the family and of social adjustment at school will be tackled," he adds.

Interested adults can still enroll at the second class session tonight.

Drain Protesters Set Mass Meet

1,000 in 8-Mile Storm Sewer Area Expected to Attend

SOUTHFIELD — A group of citizens, called the 8-Mile Road Storm Drain District Taxpaying Assn., protesting the "out of line apportionment" of the proposed 8-Mile road drain, will hold a mass meeting at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Lederle Junior High School.

Spokesman for the group, Stanley E. Veighey, said this morning that at least 1,000 residents in the affected area are expected to attend.

The group is protesting a special assessment already approved by the Oakland County Drain Commission which would cost the average homeowner in the area an additional $160 per year in taxes or the next 30 years.

A Jan. 27 hearing has been scheuled by members of the group and representatives of the Oakland County Drain Commission. The meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Mason Building, Lansing.

Attorney Daniel Hodgman will represent the group, Veighey said.

Transportation is being provided free of charge for those in the area wishing to go to the hearing.

A house-to-house campaign has been going on for the past six weeks, conducted by the association, Veighey said. The purpose of this, he explained, was to get petitions signed protesting the special assessment and to solicit contributions to defray legal and professional costs in the fight against the assessment.

As of today, $5,234.30 has been contributed to the group.

Boosters Club to Meet

AVONDALE — The Avondale Band Boosters Club will hold its monthly meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Stone School on Adams road. Special music will be furnished by high school soloists and ensembles preparing for the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival to be held in Redford Feb. 6 and 7. Refreshments will be served at the close of the session.

To Address Wixom PTA

WALLED LAKE — Mrs. Myrtle Dierenga, a consultant for mentally handicapped children in the Walled Lake School District, will speak at a meeting of the Wixom Elementary School PTA at 8 p.m. Thursday.

$1,000 Goes to Boys Club in Area

AUBURN HEIGHTS—The Auburn Heights branch of the Boys Club of America is $1,000 richer today.

Two checks were presented to club officials Friday night —one for $856.08 from the Auburn Heights Parents Club, and the other amounting to $143.50 from the local Teen Club.

The check presentation at the Pontiac State Bank building here by the Parents' Club completes its consolidation with the Boys' Club—a move which was approved at a recent meeting of the two organizations.

COMPLETE MERGER — With the presentation of a check from the Auburn Heights Parents Club, the organization completes its merger with the Auburn Heights branch of the Boys Club of America. The boys club treasury was also boosted with a check from the Auburn Heights Teen Club, from the club's proceeds from dances in the past year. Participating in the Friday ceremony were, from left, Mrs. Donald F. Burt, Parents Club representative, and Boys Club officials Harold C. Newingham, president, and David E. Andrews, treasurer. The event took place at the Pontiac State Bank branch in Auburn Heights.

Parents club money was raised by club projects last year which included the annual summer carnival, a candy sale, dance, picnic and pancake supper.

The check from the teen club represented the proceeds from the teenage dances held regularly throughout 1958.

The merger of the Boys' Club and its affiliated group, the Parents' Club, is designed to "promote efficiency and understanding in dealing with the problems of the Boys' Club," Mrs. Donald Burt, publicity chairman, said today.

Newly elected officers are Harold Newingham, president; Donald Burt, vice president; Frank Veen, secretary, and David E. Andrews, treasurer. Mrs. Ben Ambrose is social chairman.

Meetings are held at 8 p.m. the first Wednesday of every month at the Community House on Squirrel Road. The membership now totals over 200.

★ ★ ★

The new group's first objective is to continue its efforts to obtain a practical building site for a club house. The club now owns property on the Clinton River, which was a gift. However, that site proved unsuitable for building because of the drainage problem, Mrs. Burt said.

She added that it could be used for a playground.

Newingham last night expressed his thanks to the merchants and other clubs in Auburn Heights for their contributions and help in the past.

He added that the Boys' Club "hopes to merit their continued support for the coming year in working for the same purpose—community betterment."

Over Wide Area Sunday

Mystery Blasts Reported

A number of area police departments received numerous telephone calls both yesterday and today from residents asking what caused the explosions they heard from 2:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The calls came from homeowners in Birmingham, Troy, Bloomfield Hills, Brooklands and Rochester. They complained mainly of the noise and broken dishes. Several residents said they either saw or heard planes overhead at the time of the explosions.

Police checked with Selfridge Air Force Base where officials denied any of their planes were in the area at the time the blasts were reported.

Residents and police suspected jets planes breaking the sound barrier caused the disturbances.

Coroner's Jury Clears Hospital

'No Cause for Action' in Traverse City Death of Patient

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—A finding of "no cause for action" has been returned by the coroner's jury holding an inquest into the death of a Traverse City State Hospital patient.

The finding was returned Saturday when the jury completed a two-day inquest that heard testimony from 30 witnesses, including 20 from the hospital.

Dr. William Fishbeck, Grand Traverse County Coroner, said the purpose of the inquest was to make public the circumstances of the death of Eldon Mason, 39, of Lake City.

Mason died at the hospital Jan. 1 after undergoing surgery for a ruptured intestine.

Gov. Williams ordered an investigation into the death after Mason's relatives charged he was mistreated by hospital attendants.

Fishbeck and Stuart Hubbell, county prosecutor, made a statement earlier which absolved the hospital and its employes of blame in Mason's death.

It said he suffered the intestinal injury before entering the hospital Dec. 18. The inquest was ordered to make public the facts turned up by the Fishbeck-Hubbell investigation.

The meeting will be held in the clubrooms adjacent to the Roosevelt School. All area boys and their parents are invited.

37 Arrested After Raid on Cockfighting Arena

POUND, Va. (AP)—State Police swooped down on a large cockfighting arena in a dense, wooded area of Wise County early Sunday and arrested 37 people. Some $10,000 worth of game birds were confiscated.

Four troopers out of uniform and two state agents reportedly had been mingling with the crowd of 250 in the arena since nightfall Saturday.

Shortly after midnight, 40 other state policemen and a force from the sheriff's office stormed into the building.

Police said the owner of the arena, Roy Lee Branham, 34, of Burpo, Ky., was charged on four counts—contributing to the delinquency of minors, operating a lottery, engaging in rooster fighting, and operating a restaurant without a license.

The other 36 persons arrested, including three women, were charged with engaging in rooster fighting. They had come from Kentucky, Texas, Michigan and West Virginia—besides Virginia.

Branham was released under $3,000 bond for a hearing in Wise County court Jan. 30. The other posted $300 to $500 bonds for hearings on the same date.

Found in special pens which lined the cinder block structure were 100 game birds, 15 of which had died from fighting wounds.

The arena was located in the Bold Camp section, five miles from Pound and near the Kentucky border.

Bronze Bust Goes AWOL for 3 Days

NEW YORK (AP)—A 125-pound bronze bust is on the way back to the New York University Hall of Fame after a mysterious three-day absence.

The bust of James Kent, a chief justice of the State Supreme Court in the early 19th century, was taken from the hall Thursday night.

An usher at a Bronx church found it Sunday on the sidewalk in front of the church, some three miles away. It was in good condition.

Police and school officials blamed the disappearance on prankish students or fraternity pledges.

Bill Asks Fair Prices for Independent Stores

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) introduced a bill today which would require manufacturers to sell their products to independent merchants at the same price they charge their own retail outlets.

Bentley also offered a resolution calling on the House Judiciary Committee to launch an investigation of possible monopoly practices by large companies.

Two Planes Burned in Blaze at Sparta

SPARTA (UPI)—One man was injured and two airrlanes destroyed yesterday in a fire which caused damager estimated between $20,000 and $30,000.

Jack Norton, manager of Sparta Aviation Service, said the fire started while mechanics were repairing a fuel line of an airplane. Splashing gasoline came in contact with a hot light bulb, starting the fire.

Harold Nagel, a pilot, suffered minor burns. Two single-engine Cessna planes, valued at $11,000 were destroyed and considerable damage was caused to the cement block hangar before it was put out by firemen from Comstock Park and Rockford.

Dulles' One-Man Show Unfair to Him, Country

Over the past six years no one man has been as controversial a figure as Secretary of State JOHN FOSTER DULLES. He has been attacked bitterly by Democrats and Republicans alike.

★ ★ ★

Two counts stand out when the subject of his attacks is mentioned. First it is the Secretary's concept of foreign policy and his implementation of that policy; second his driving desire for trying to go everywhere, do everything and make all the important decisions himself.

★ ★ ★

Dropping the first count on overall policy, consider the second and his penchant for operating a one-man department. The Secretary of State is six years older and has been in rather poor health of late.

To date he has not had to cut back drastically on his globe circling schedule, which would tire most men 30 years his junior. It is reasonable to believe that any day now he will have to curb his energies.

★ ★ ★

When that time comes, (maybe tomorrow) what will happen in a Department of State geared to a system in which so much depends on the Secretary's personal attention? Could private business operate this way? The question is one that must be considered, however high one's regard for Dulles may be.

The Secretary states that he plans to remain as long as the President wants him. President EISENHOWER is noncommital. Perhaps the President should yield to some of the pressure and institute some sort of a change.

★ ★ ★

One rumor is that Tom Dewey may soon replace Dulles. Age would certainly be in his favor. At least it would seem to make sense if others in the State Department were delegated some of the tasks.

★ ★ ★

It is not fair to the man to expect him to keep up the harrowing pace that he has maintained over the years. Let's not push our luck by clinging to a system that makes DULLES personally responsible for so much of the State Department's activities.

Riots in Leopoldville Shake Belgian Rule

Recent uncontrolled rioting among the 400,000 Africans who live in Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, caused as much by hunger as by rigid police control, has stirred the Belgian Government.

★ ★ ★

Out of a total Congo population of about 13 million (one per cent European), 1.2 million Africans are wage earners. At the present time some 50,000 are unemployed, 25,000 in Leopoldville. Belgian authorities refuse to give any public assistance to these unemployed but did offer to send them back to their villages. Few accepted as most had lost touch with their tribal past.

Looking toward future independence, the paternalistic Belgian authorities have allowed some African participation in government in the communes into which cities and towns are divided. Mayors in 10 of the 13 communes in Leopoldville are African.

★ ★ ★

An on the spot staff correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, DONALD GRANT, reports that just before the trouble started one of these African mayors returned from a visit to Belgium and was to attend a public meeting in the YMCA. However, required official persission for the gathering had not been obtained from the Belgian authorities. The Congolese had their meeting anyway, the police arrived and the rioting started.

★ ★ ★

By central African standards, the Belgian Congo is a favored place for natives. It has a high standard of living from uranium, copper, cobalt and diamond industries. About 42 per cent of its African population is literate compared with less than 10 per cent in French Equatorial Africa. Natives hold many jobs which are closed to them elsewhere and they can have vocational training. Many are shopkeepers, technicians and professional people

★ ★ ★

The Congolese have everything but political freedom which Belgium feels should come in about 10 years. It may be much sooner but let's hope that in the meantime the administration, which has had unusually good relations with the natives, eases unnecessary police restrictions and that when freedom is achieved, it will not be abused.

Ice Is Too Thick

"Fifty years ago a winter like the present would have been a near calamity to what then was an important industry in the Pontiac area," writes of Waterford. In those days thousands of tons of ice were harvested each winter on our lakes, to furnish refrigeration for Pontiac, Detroit and other cities.

Hundreds of carloads were shipped daily, and much more was packed away in sawdust in ice houses, for later shipment. It ranked among the top industries locally.

The ideal thickness for ice was 15 to 18 inches. Any that was thicker than that was difficult to cut and handle. The present ice on most of those same lakes is so thick that its harvest would be practically impossible.

Since the advent of artifical refrigeration, the business of harvesting natural ice has joined the historical horse and buggy.

There! Now Do You Follow Him?

David Lawrence Asks:

What Is Behind Warren's Action?

WASHINGTON—Chief Justice Earl Warren has resigned as a member of the American Bar Association—but how he did it and why is something of a mystery. He says he wrote a letter of resignation in the autumn of 1957. The association's secretary says no such letter was received.

LAWRENCE

Only when a bill for current dues was presented to the Chief Justice did the association learn that he wanted to resign. To clarify the matter, the Chief Justice now has written a formal letter of resignation, but he does not give any reasons.

Rumors have been current here for some time, however, that the Chief Justice was withdrawing from the American Bar Association. They were heard more often just after the Conference of State Chief Justices adopted last August, by a vote of 36 to 8, a report critical of various decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

It has been widely reported that Chief Justice Warren was not only miffed at the 1957 action but was particularly disturbed when a speech criticizing Supreme Court decisions was delivered on Aug. 25, 1958, by Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of Michigan, chairman of the Conference of State Chief Justices.

This was at the annual dinner in honor of the judiciary given by the American Bar Association's section of judicial administration.

Besides Chief Justice Warren, Justices Clark and Brennan of the Supreme Court of the United States were present and heard the Michigan Chief Justice say:

"The conference report, so far from attacking the court, expresses only its concern with certain of the decisions. . . . The power of the court to uphold and preserve human liberty and the rights of the people must not be crippled, curbed or destroyed. The conference report would have none of this.

"It concludes, therefore, in most respectful and temperate terms, and with extreme restraint, to urge upon the court, that, particularly in the field of determining federal and state powers and relationships, it exercise that greatest of all judicial powers, the power of judicial self-restraint, by constant recognition and giving effect to the vital difference between what, on the one hand, the Constitution prescribes or permits and that which, on the other, may, from time to time, to the majority of the court, seem desirable or undesirable, and by adhering firmly to its tremendous, strictly judicial powers and eschewing so far as possible the exercise of essentially legislative powers, contenting itself with use of the policy-making role, where at all necessary, with only the utmost care and moderation.

"Such is the general tenor of the report, offered in a spirit of good will and cooperation in the public interest. If, perchance, it should come to the attention of the esteemed members of the court it is our fervent wish and hope that it will be received and considered in like fashion."

(Copyright, 1959)

But evidently it wasn't. The comment among members of the bar around Washington was that not only was Chief Justice Warren annoyed but that so were the other two members of the Supreme Court who were present.

It seems incredible, however, that any members of the federal judiciary—particularly those who are so quick to crack down on the intolerance of school boards or state bar associations when they frown upon teachers or applicants with a Communist background—would be intolerant about speeches or criticisms by fellow members of the legal profession, especially state jurists.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless.—II Peter 3:14.

★ ★ ★

The expectations of life depend upon diligence; and the mechanic that would perfect his work, must first sharpen his tools.—Confucius.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Consult Family Physician Before Hunting Specialist

From a city the size of Portland, San Diego, Louisville, Rochester or Atlanta comes a story which, these days, is only too likely.

DR. BRADY

Puffing on her makeup, a woman applying mascara to her eyelashes got one of the hairs from the mascara brush in her eye. Her husband called 17 eye specialists, most of whom did not answer the phone. Those who did answer would not see her until the next morning at the office.

★ ★ ★

There was a doctors' convention in town, and the man and his wife went to the hotel where many of the doctors were reveling and demanded to see one of them.

After 30 minutes one of the doctors looked at the eye, removed the hair and charged $50.

I'm astonished to know that there are 17 eye specialists in a city of 300,000 population. But then, so-called specialists are a dime a dozen these days—in the country as a whole they nearly, if not quite, outnumber general practitioners or "ordinary doctors," as you credulous customers call 'em. Ordinary doctors or "these doctors around here."

SERVED 'EM RIGHT!

The doctor who unreveled for five minutes to pluck the hair from the woman's eye should have charged a larger fee. People who go to such extremes to keep up with the Joneses ought to pay substantially for their snobbery.

Any ordinary doctor, any of these doctors around here, could remove a foreign body from the eye as well as could the most eminent specialist.

If these people had less money and more brains they'd call their family physician in such an emergency. But that's just the trouble. Family doctors are ordinary doctors, these doctors around here. In an emergency it is comforting to know one, still more so to know the doctor who knows you.

The $50 snobs never get to know the doctor very well. They run around from specialist to specialist and, out of office hours, their specialists hardly know them.

★ ★ ★

Occasionally it may be necessary to consult a specialist without your physician's knowledge or advice, but one who had a good family doctor need never hesitate to tell the doctor he wants to do so. Moreover, a good family doctor wants patients to do so whenever they wish, and indeed often asks for a specialist's counsel himself or herself.

There is a significant point here which I am afraid the credulous customers of "clinic" racketeers and trick specialists do not get—namely, that when the family physician refers patients to a specialist he chooses a real specialist, not one of the dime-a-dozen kind to whom ninnyhammers run with all their everyday ailments.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'So Much Cheating in Class Has Serious Implications'

Teachers should be more strict about letting students get away with cheating in school. If there were strict punishment for those who cheat, there wouldn't be half as much.

★ ★ ★

It might not seem important to you, or you think it doesn't concern you, but it does. Probably 75 per cent of kids in school have cheated once or more on tests. Would you like to go to a doctor that got his degree by cheating, or a teacher training your child if he had to cheat to become a teacher?

★ ★ ★

This really is serious. Something should be done if we want to keep a strong America.

'We'd Like More Action, Less Talk'

Why should Pontiac taxpayers pay Mr. Eastman $12,000 a year to do the same job the Police Officers' Association has been doing for free? I believe the game was called "Down With Straley So We Can Be Chief."

For a city that's so full of vice, one or two raids cleaned it up. Boy, taxpayers, it would almost be cheaper to let the vice go on as to pay $6,000 to Eastman to play general on two raids.

I don't think we, the people, are getting our money's worth. Why not more action and less talk?

'Teens Would Be Arrested for It'

I read the article about ridding Oakland County of stray dogs, and I give that woman three big cheers. I live in Waterford where dogs run in packs and it isn't even safe to put your child outside to play. If a teenager caused as much trouble as some dogs do, he'd be arrested, but a dog can ruin your property and endanger your child and yourself, and nothing can be done about it.

'Why Hasn't Soapy Thought of This?'

Here is a solution to Williams' dilemma. Maybe his pal Reuther will come to his rescue and put the strike fund he has built up at the Governor's disposal.

Better to use it that way than for strikes to force more industries to leave this State of Confusion.

Funny Williams hasn't thought of that instead of the Veterans' Fund.

Wonderin'

Grammar Commission Sawt to Aid Spelling

WASHINGTON (AP)—It wil b les trublsum tu spel things rite if Rep. Harlan Hagen (D-Calif) has his way.

Hagen has introduced a bill to establish a National Grammar Commission to reform the spelling of English words and to publish an official U.S. dictionary.

"Our language is in a constant state of change anyway, and we might as well do it scientifically," he said in an interview.

It isn't that Hagen himself is a poor speller.

"I used to win spelling contests back in North Dakota where I grew up," he said.

★ ★ ★

It's just that the "inconsistencies, vagaries, and vacillations" of spelling are so frustrating, he said.

The idea he is plugging was developed by Homer W. Wood, publisher of The Porterville Daily Reporter in Hagen's California district.

Hagen has no specific recommendations for spelling revision. He'd leave that up to the Grammar Commission. He mentioned such things as "fotograf" and "thru"—spellings which he noted are now used by some newspapers.

"A complete phonetic spelling looks ridiculous — that isn't my idea," he said. "I contemplate adoption of a phoneticism that would be completely acceptable. The idea is to make spelling easy and also to shorten it."

Hagen introduced his bill in the last session of Congress but didn't press it. This year, he said, he intends to ask for a hearing before the House Education Committee.

"I'm not so naive as to believe we could put this over without some sort of mass support from over the country," he said.

★ ★ ★

He said he has received a flood of letters about the idea, mostly favorable.

Support has come, Hagen said, from newspaper publishers, educators, and others who said it would simplify the process of reading and ease the difficulties of teaching.

Hagen doesn't have any children and said he doesn't know how much time the average school child spends on spelling lessons.

"But if you could shorten that time, they could devote it to other studies," he said.

Not all Hagen's mail on the subject has been favorable. There were, for example, the three persons who wrote him:

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Calls Paper 'University in Print'

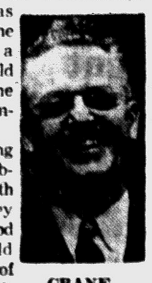

Ogden Reid has offered a formula for a topnotch newspaper which most editors subscribe to. And the unique example helps corroborate what Mr. Reid has in mind. For editors are prexies of vast "Universities in Print" and every college tries to be a "steerer," not a "mirror," of civilization.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A - 431: Ogden R. Reid, aged about 31, is a former publisher in New York.

★ ★ ★

"A good newspaper should help," said Mr. Reid, as he opposed the view that says a newspaper should simply reflect the life in its community.

CRANE

Many leading editors and publishers agree with Mr. Reid. They feel that a good newspaper should be a "steerer" of current civilization instead of merely a "mirror" thereof.

This is much the difference between a photograph versus an artist's picture.

The camera takes everything within the range of its lens. But a good artist highlights certain elements to create a definite effect.

★ ★ ★

An editor doesn't need to take partisan view or inject bias in order to steer the thinking of his area.

He operates a great local "University in Print," and all colleges try to steer our thinking without offering students a biased outlook.

For example, newspapers are noted for ferreting out hidden crimes and discovering embezzlement even in school funds.

But an Indianapolis paper recently added a new twist to the way in which newspapers cooperate with the police.

★ ★ ★

Several unsolved murders had occurred in that big city. So the paper offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer in each case.

Since many people are afraid to report information, lest the underworld or the killer's friends will waylay them, the paper used a novel plan which all newspapers might profitably imitate.

It asked any reader with information about one of the murders, to send the tip or clue in an unsigned letter.

"Put a number at the top of the page," it urged, "and then put the same number at the bottom.

★ ★ ★

"Tear off the bottom part of the page and keep it. The number thereon and the jagged edges will later identify you."

This ingenious method thus protected the identity of the person offering the tip. For he didn't need to reveal his identity till the murderer was tried and in prison.

Furthermore, if such a person didn't want to claim the reward, even then he could easily hand his half of the page to his favorite charity, or to a church, YMCA, Scout Troop, etc.

FEAR OF REPRISAL

Many intelligent Americans are now afraid of reprisals from the lawless elements if they try to help the police.

And that fear isn't unfounded, either, for here in Chicago we have had vital witnesses slain before the trial occurred where they were to testify.

★ ★ ★

So the method so ably sponsored by the Indianapolis paper meets a long overdue need in America.

I have cited this instance to show a specific example in support of Ogden Reid's motto for a good newspaper.

The Indianapolis paper, like hundreds of America's foremost newspapers, goes farther than the mere verbal "photographing" of its area. Instead, it sets the pace for improvements and is a great innovator of ideas.

You readers should thus be grateful that you have such defenders of our liberties and exposers of corruption as the newspaper. Its daily price would be cheap even if it cost us 25 cents per copy!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Britain's Flight Pioneer Found Living, Honored

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Aeronautical Society has discovered, with some astonishment, that the man who designed Britain's first successful airplane engine 50 years ago is still active.

He is Gustavus Green, 93. In belated recognition of his contribution to aviation the society has made him oe of its honorary companions.

★ ★ ★

Green, a spruce, erect figure with a sweeping white mustache, says with a chuckle:

"They thought I was dead. Someone told them I wasn't, and they decided to present me with this. Of course, it won't make any difference to me at my time of life. I will just go on pottering about in my workshop, the way I always have done."

Green, like the Wright brothers, started out in a bicycle shop. Unlike the Wright brothers, he never wanted to fly like a bird. But he got interested more than a half century ago in creating reliable engines for men who did have that dream.

He perfected his first engine of 60 horsepower in 1908. The following year it powered the biplane T. C. Moore-Brabazon, now Lord Brabazon, used for the first circular one-mile flight ever accomplished in this country.

★ ★ ★

Green has been off the ground only one. In 1913 he made a brief pioneer, Col. F. B. Cody, the Next day Cody was killed in the same aircraft.

"That was enough for me," said Green.

During World War I Green turned his engineering talents to lightweight engines for motor torpedo boats and submarine chasers. When the war ended his doctor told him he had been working too hard. Green took the doctor's advice to retire.

Since then his hobby has been making clocks an watches. He has about 150 in his Twickenham home.

Recently, while cleaning out his coal cellar, he found one of his original 1908 engines. He is restoring it to workable condition. It probably will wind up in the British National Aeronautical Museum.

Search for Saginaw Boy in Statewide Alert

SAGINAW (AP)—Sheriff's deputies and state police continued a search today for a 16-year-old rural Saginaw youth who has been missing ince last Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The Saginaw County Sheriff's Department issued a state-wide alert yesterday for Roy Pepin.

Deputies said Pepin failed to return home after visiting a friend the night of Jan. 14.

Pepin was described as 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighing about 130 pounds. He has brown hair and eyes and was wearing dungarees, a sports shirt and a leather jacket.

Girls' Frolicking Turns to Agony

16 Teenagers Injured in Dizzy Slide Down Ice-Glazed Ski Trail

NORTH CONWAY, N.J. (AP)—Sixteen terrified teen - age girls were injured, one seriously, when they went sliding dizzily down an ice-glazed ski trail on 3,000-foot high Cranmore Mountain Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The trail had been closed to skiing as hazardous. In a frolicsome mood the girls decided to try sliding.

Almost instantly their speed was beyond their control and they were thrown against trees, brush and rocks as they plummetted 100 yards down the steep, icy trail.

About an inch of glare ice, left by freezing rain, encrusted a foot of snow.

When found, they were strewn about the trail, bruised and bleeding, some unable to stand.

Most seriously injured was Carol Di Spirito, 16, who suffered pelvic and lumbar spinal fractures and bladder injury. Five girls were held at Memorial Hospital for less serious injuries. Ten others were treated at the hospital and released.

The girls were among about 200 members of St. Patrick's Catholic Youth Organization of Lawrence, Mass., who went to the ski resort on the parish's second annual winter sports party.

Bob Considine Says:

Pilot Gives $5,000 Bonus to Advance U. N.

NEW YORK — United Air Lines senior pilot Charles Dent was given a $5,000 bonus by United's president, Pat Patterson, for making a beaut of a wheels-up landing at Los Angeles International Airport in October 1957.

He promptly gave the money to the United States Committee for the United Nations, a non-partisan group whose aim in life is to get more Americans interested in the whys and wherefores of the world organization.

None of Capt. Dent's friends was surprised. The good-looking and engagingly serious flier from Allentown, Pa., and Lehigh University, has been all-out for this work for a long time. In fact, he's just about its foremost pro-consul.

It hasn't been easy. His own airline had to erase the U.N. symbol it had placed on its ships after a consistent campaign by isolationist and anti-U.N. groups, one of which objected because the presence of the design on the side of an airliner meant that, while in flight, "it would be displayed above the American flags on the ground below."

Dent's conversion to U.N. work emerged from a bull session with other pilots and crew members a few years ago. The general theme of the gab was that our leaders are less than gifted.

Somebody finally asked, "Okay, let's say they're disappointing in a lot of ways, but what are we doing to help them . . . to back them up?" It set Dent to thinking, and his thoughts and activities (over and beyond his piloting duties) in time led to U.N.

★ ★ ★

Mary Lord, of the U.S. delegation to U.N., steered him toward the crusading path he has since been trodding. They met accidentally along the Hungarian border at a time when Mrs. Lord was helping compile U.N.'s White Paper indictment of Soviet Russia's suppression of the Hungarian rebellion, and Dent was a curious bystander.

His interest in wanting to aid the cause of U.N. was such that Mrs. Lord sent him to Stanley M. Rumbough Jr., president of the American Totalisator Company, Inc., and chairman of the U.S. Committee for the U.N.

★ ★ ★

Dent's specialty since then has been getting industry interested in stamping its wares with the standard U.N. world-map and laurel design, plus the legend "We Believe."

Men and women have lived by signs and symbols through the ages," Dent told us in the course of a briefing with maps and charts. "There is comfort in the recognition of a trade-mark. Think of what the star of David, the Cross, and the crescent have meant through history.

"We may not make the U.N. symbol as known as they, of course, but it seems to me we can make the people as familiar with it as, say, the little dog listening to His Master's Voice, or the shape of a 'coke' bottle.

Did you know that one of the things that delayed the U.N. observation team that went to the border in the Lebanon crisis was that its cars and trucks were stopped every now and then by guards who had never seen the U.N. insignia?"

★ ★ ★

Dent reports progress. Gimbel's and Macy's here in New York, have used the emblem in their ads and stores. The National Retail Merchants Association has backed the identification idea and urged it upon their 10,000 stores and foreign affiliates. The Airline Pilots Association contains many spreaders of the gospel.

★ ★ ★

A man named Olaf Anson, who makes jewelry in Providence, R.I., has become a kind of Paul in the crusade, content that as time goes on the U.N. symbol will become a kind of open sesame to better understanding among the peoples of the world, all of whom, presumably, will then know by heart the lofty prose of the Charter's preamble:

"We the peoples of the United Nations, determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind . . . etc."

Dent is sure that Abraham Lincoln, speaking of an issue of his own day, held the dream of U.N. when he said:

"The world knows we do know how to save it; we — even we here — hold the power and bear the responsibility. We shall nobly save or meanly lose the last best hope of earth.

"Other means may succeed; this could not fail. The way is plain, peaceful, generous, just — a way which, if followed, the world will forever applaud and God must forever bless."

by RAY STORM, District Manager

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL was deeply interested in the hard-of-hearing. And so is the company that bears his name. That's why we're so pleased that a telephone company invention, the transistor, has had such a beneficial effect in the manufacture of hearing aids. For the same reason, we don't charge the hard-of-hearing for the installation of special phones. And, to make quite sure that an instrument really does make a customer's telephoning pleasant and easy, we allow a free trial period before we charge the normal monthly rental.

NEW USE FOR FAMILIAR OBJECT. The day was chill and windy. The man on the street tried, four times, to light his cigarette . . . no luck. Then he noticed a public phone booth a few yards away. He stepped inside, shut the door and achieved success with his next attempt. Then he went his way—and we like to think that he carried with him some small feeling of gratitude to the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, for placing at his disposal a really storm-proof cigarette lighter.

CORDS GET PERMANENTS. "Spring" type telephone cords—the kind that can't twist and catch on things—eventually lose their neat tight curls, just like a lady's hair. When this happens, they're not thrown away. Like a lady's hair they get a permanent wave. (They get it when the telephones come in for repair.) Around one million cords get the full beauty treatment each year—washing, rewinding and heat setting. $400,000 is saved by this annually. It helps keep down telephone costs.

THE FOLLOWING STORY is vouched for by a highly respected newspaper. A parakeet, name of Jerry, flew away from home and didn't stop until he reached Shawnee, Kan., thirteen miles as a parakeet flies. The man who found him was wondering what to do next when Jerry chirped up loud and clear: "Call Mary . . . Jackson 3-4312." The man, more from idle curiosity than anything else, dialed the said number. Believe it or not, but the person who answered was none other than Mrs. Mary Neal, Jerry's worried owner.

WIN, PLACE, AND BEAK — There's no telling where those Hialeah flamingos will turn up. Painter Obie Tomlin thought he was all alone as he was putting a fresh coat on the tote board in preparation for the opening of the racing meeting, but but popped one of Hialeah's flamingos which evidently got separated from the flock living in the infield lake of the Florida track.

37 Saved From Ship in Storm

BIZERTE, Tunisia (AP)—Thirty-seven crewmen from the American freighter Valiant Effort are safe after their vessel ran aground off the northwest Tunisian coast in a violent storm.

★ ★ ★

The crewmen were taken from lifeboats Sunday by the French aircraft carrier Arromanches, which answered an SPS. Two of the sailors were injured slightly and hospitalized in Bizerte.

★ ★ ★

The Valiant Effort was reported damaged and sinking. It was bound from Galveston, Tex., to Calcutta, India, with a cargo of 10,000 tons of wheat. Its master was identified as Andrew Vapka of Galveston.

Farms of the U. S. contain about 15 per cent of the total population, but they earn only five per cent of the gross U. S. national income, according to government reports.

About two million school children in the U. S. have impaired hearing. Figures show children so afflicted fail in their school work four times as often as normal children.

Horned toads are protected in New Mexico and anyone who kills, sells or transports one of the species is subject to a fine of $100 or an alternative of up to 60 days in jail.

'Human Icicle' Reports:

'Whisky, Steam Baths Saved Me'

SAULT STE. MARIE (UPI) — "Human Icicle William Korpi said today he owed his life to Finnish baths and the winterizing effect of "a couple gallons" of whisky.

Korpi, 54, was asleep in a snow bank when two surveyors chanced upon him Friday on Drummond Island at the tip of the eastern end of Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

He was "stiff as a board" after 16 hours of exposure to zero temperatures.

"I'm Finnish," Korpi said today. "We can take the cold."

★ ★ ★

Korpi was born in this country but his father, Otto, immigrated from Finland before the turn of the century.

He said his victory over the elements might be due partly to his practice of taking Finnish baths.

He agreed it "takes some doing" to jump into a snow drift after sitting in a steam room alongside some hot rocks. "But there's a bath that's good for you."

Dr. William F. Mertaugh, attending physician, said that when Korpi was admitted to War Memorial Hospital in Sault Ste. Marie, his body temperature ranged from 93 degrees at the neck to 39 at the ankles and "probably near freezing" at the toes.

He said Korpi's chances for recovery were good. But he added it would be several days before it would be known whether gangrene had set in, necessitating amputation.

Korpi was up and walking around at the hospital the day after being found and today he dismissed "a little numbness' in his feet as "nothing to worry about."

Doctors disagreed as to whether the large amount of alcohol in Korpi's blood had actually served as anti-freeze, keeping his blood from icing and bursting the blood vessels in the cold.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Mertaugh suggested that possibility and held to the view even though he joshed it might get him "into trouble" with the medical profession and organizations "like the WCTU."

A Chicago doctor, who declined to be identified, disagreed. He said the alcohol probably acted more as an anesthetic. He said the narcosis effect of alcohol does permit the heart to stand low temperatures without quivering of the muscles.

Korpi joked that he had stoked up on "a couple of gallons" of whisky. He said he had been visiting a friend and started home with two bottles of whisky in his pocket. He stopped for "a private party with the rabbits." He started to "take a snooze" in the snowbank.

★ ★ ★

He was unconscious when found. When he awoke at the hospital he asked for a cigarette and some water. Later, he couldn't remember asking for the water.

Korpi, a bachelor odd jobs man, said he doesn't mind cold weather. "That's for sure. That's when you can work the best." But he admitted his latest experience started him thinking about moving to a warmer climate.

Korpi expressed interest in the theory that the whisky had shored him up against the cold. He said he probably would be "on the wagon" for a while. But he doesn't plan to quit drinking altogether.

"A fellow might need some protection like this again," he said.

McNamara Asks Bill to Study Lakes Basin

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich) said he will introduce today a bill to give congressional blessing to the Great Lakes basin compact.

The compact is designed to study ways of developing the resources of the Great Lakes basin, stabilizing the water level, fighting pollution, halting beach erosion, making fishing rules uniform and developing hydroelectric power.

School Council Seeks Money

Adapts Major Financial Proposals, Asks More Aid for Poor Districts

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Several major proposals, most of which would provide more money for public schools or would safeguard the present levels of spending, were adopted today by the executive council of the Michigan Assn. of School Administration.

The financial proposals would, in brief:

1. Hike the present 15 mill limitation on property taxes to 20 mills by constitutional amendment.

2. Seek an "improvement factor" in the state aid formula which would make more equalization among districts by giving more state aid to poorer school districts.

3. Ask the current year's state aid pledge to be paid in full. The amount pledged is about $151.50 per child. The total now paid is about $25 short.

MASA president Russell Isbister, superintendent of Plymouth schools, said the 20 mill tax limit planned envisions earmarking up to 11 mills to the schools, 7 to the county, 1 to townships and 1 as a "floating" mill to be allocated by the allocation board where need is greatest.

This would provide more funds and also prevent allocation boards from cutting funds to any unit of government, he said. He also said the 15 mill limit had been based on the 1932 cost of living and ignores effects of inflation. Approval of two-thirds of each legislative branch is needed to get the proposal on the April ballot.

On the state aid "improvement factor" proposal the MASA rejected three formulas submitted and provided for the head of its legislative committee to meet with representatives of five other school groups, including the State Department of Public Instruction, to seek the change.

MASA leaders, representing more than 500 school superintendents in the state, pointed out that more funds will be needed next term solely on the basis that 70,000 more children are expected to enroll than last fall, as well as the fact that more funds are needed to better education.

Settle Printers Strike in Upper Peninsula

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP) — A printers strike against the Escanaba Daily Press and the Iron Mountain News ended today when agreement on new two-year contracts was reached.

The pacts were signed by the locals of the International Typographical Union and officials of the newspaper a few minutes after midnight. The agreements were sent to ITU headquarters for ratification.

The two Upper Peninsula newspapers were to resume publication today.

The two papers were struck Nov. 18 but continued to publish with supervisory and nonunion employes until last Friday when they suspended publication after negotiations with the ITU broke down.

Storm Fails to Daunt Lovers of Symphony

BOSTON (AP)—Seldom has man's love of good music been put to so trying a test.

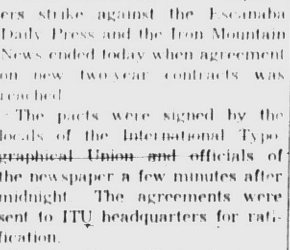

During a concert under the stars at the Esplanade on Boston's Charles River the audience was drenched by a torrential downpour. The conductor considered calling off the concert but some 3,000 listeners held their ground.

The music lovers were put to still another test. Brahams First Symphony—against a backdrop of thunder and lightning—took on an unfamiliar Wagnerian touch.

The unretrieved kill of ducks and geese totaled more than 3,000,000 during 1957, or more than 20 per cent of the national bag.

Kim Novak Searching for the Right Mate

NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood's most eligible bachelor gal is ready to say "I do."

But the sea-green eyes of Kim Novak still haven't sighted the right guy on the horizon.

★ ★ ★

"I'd like to be fulfilled as a woman," she said. "What is a woman without the right man? I'd like to marry and have children.

"But marriage isn't something to rush into just because it's popular or the thing to do. I want more than a good companion, and I want to be more than a good companion.

"Marriage is companionship—plus. You have to give all that you are, and I am prepared to do that."

Anyone particular in mind?

"No," she said. "But I'm not really worried about that. It will happen, I feel sure. And meanwhile it's a nice life, being a bachelor."

Actually, Kim gives the impression of being somewhat lonely and not sure whom she can trust. In five years and 10 pictures the slender blonde ex-model has soared from obscurity to become one of filmdom's top 10 stars at the box office.

Now she is paying the price all pay who stand in the limelight, the price of feeling misunderstood, of being gossiped about, or having her ability questioned.

Shy by nature, she is still a bit uneasy in the role of glamour queen. She also is weary of gossip column tidbits linking her with men she never has met in night clubs where she never has been.

ANCIENT BASE — This picturesque home of a mechanic in Heilsbronn, Bavaria, rests atop the foundation of a former church built early in the twelfth century.

Seated on a chaise lounge g pink dressing room in the Bronx studio of her latest film, Paddy Chayefsky's "Middle of the Night," costarring Fredric March, she talked of her troubles.

★ ★ ★

"I have a feeling this is going to be a good year," she said. "Last year was such a bad year — so treacherous—this has to be a good year.

"They had me tied up with every man I ever heard of. That's what I get for being single. Maybe I should have got married when I first went into pictures. They let married women alone.

"It doesn't bother me any more what people say. Oh, yes, it does, too! One day last year when I went on the set I just broke out crying. But I finally got exhausted with it.

"I used to be all exposed. Now I'm covered up."

Some of the things her critics and detractors say about Kim is that she is moody, temperamental, and that her glamour lies wholly in her beauty and not at all in her acting ability.

★ ★ ★

But her present film crew is behind her to a man. And Chayefsky, no easy one to please, praises Kim.

"She's wonderful to work with, completely cooperative, not at all moody or temperamental," he said. "She has an amazing talent. She is a fine actress."

Kim said of her acting and herself: "It is what people like that is important to your career. They judge your ability, not you.

"I don't like professional things. It's kind of an insult to me when somebody says, 'You're a real pro.' I don't want to be a pro.

"I don't want to be systematic. It's boring when everything is pinpointed and in its place. I don't like life in a set pattern, or perfect people, or the manufactured look. I like the home-made touch."

As to glamour, Kim said: "I'm sure most people don't think of glamour as just looking beautiful or being beautifully dressed. Glamour is interior.

"It's either in you or it isn't. You can dress up glamour or add to it, but you can't take it away or cover it up if it's really there. I hope not, anyway."

A big star, Kim Novak, and also a nice kid looking for truth in a world of glitter.

Dizzy Dean's 17 strikeouts in one game is still a record.

January Forecasts Normal Year

NEW YORK (AP)—January is running true to form — and that is a comfort in itself. Last year January wasn't as good as usual and tipped businessmen off that the steep slide into the recession trough was just ahead. A couple of years back January was better than usual, riding the boom that took its toll in a rising cost of living.

★ ★ ★

This year January is behaving in its normal, healthy way:

More persons out of work than last fall although industrial output is up. Many wage scales higher but take home pay for most workers down because of the increased withholding for higher social security taxes. Debt conscious Americans trying to clear up their Christmas bills and still take advantage of the clearance sales.

The rise in unemployment in December and January is unpleasant but expected — and largely seasonal. It comes from the normal drop in outdoor work — aggravated this time by bad weather in many sections. Factory employment, particularly in nondurables, is holding up well, and foretelling better days ahead when outdoor jobs open up again.

After their biggest Christmas ever, retailers are predicting even higher volume this year. Some may be hurt by the unusually early Easter but expect to make that up later on.

★ ★ ★

The auto industry is building up stocks, as it does in a normal January. It still has to prove the sales appeal of the new models. Sales are good for January, but the big test lies ahead when dealers are fully stocked and the snow is off the highways.

Construction, in spite of the weather, continues to be a shining star in the economy. Housing starts to continue to increase, in contrast to a year ago when the home building industry was groggy. Construction contract awards foreshadow greater activity in the spring.

★ ★ ★

Mostly, though, January is shaping up as being neither very good or very bad for business.

On the one hand, this has allayed some of the fears that a runaway boom, egged on by the stock market's enthusiasm, might lead to a bust. On the other, it has allayed fears that the vigor of the recovery in its early stages might be borrowing from future demand and might peter out about now, leaving the economy in the doldrums.

The stock market and international affairs have furnished the month with most of its financial headlines.

★ ★ ★

February and March could be more decisive months for business, but having January back to being its normal self again augurs well.

Gas Routs 3 Families

MELVINDALE (AP) — Three families were evacuated from their homes in this suburban Detroit community Sunday because of gas escaping through a storm sewer. No one was injured. The gas leak was repaired in about six hours and the families returned to their homes.

Seeks U. of M. Post

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Ted Kennedy Jr., vice president and general manager of Trenton Corp., says he will be a candidate for the University of Michigan Board of Regents on the Republican ticket. Kennedy is a Michigan alumnus and has been active in university affairs.

Vets' Fund Worth Less

LANSING (AP) — Because of shrinkage in market value, each $1,000 bond in the state Veterans Trust Fund would support an average loan of only $750 from a bank.

★ ★ ★

Thus, if they were pledged as collateral for borrowing as proposed by Gov. Williams, the 50 million dollar fund would yield only about 38 or 39 million dollars in cash.

The present market value of the entire bond nest egg would be just under 43 million dollars.

These facts were explained by the governor Friday at his meeting with leaders of state veterans organizations in an attempt to sell them on his plan for meeting the state's cash emergency.

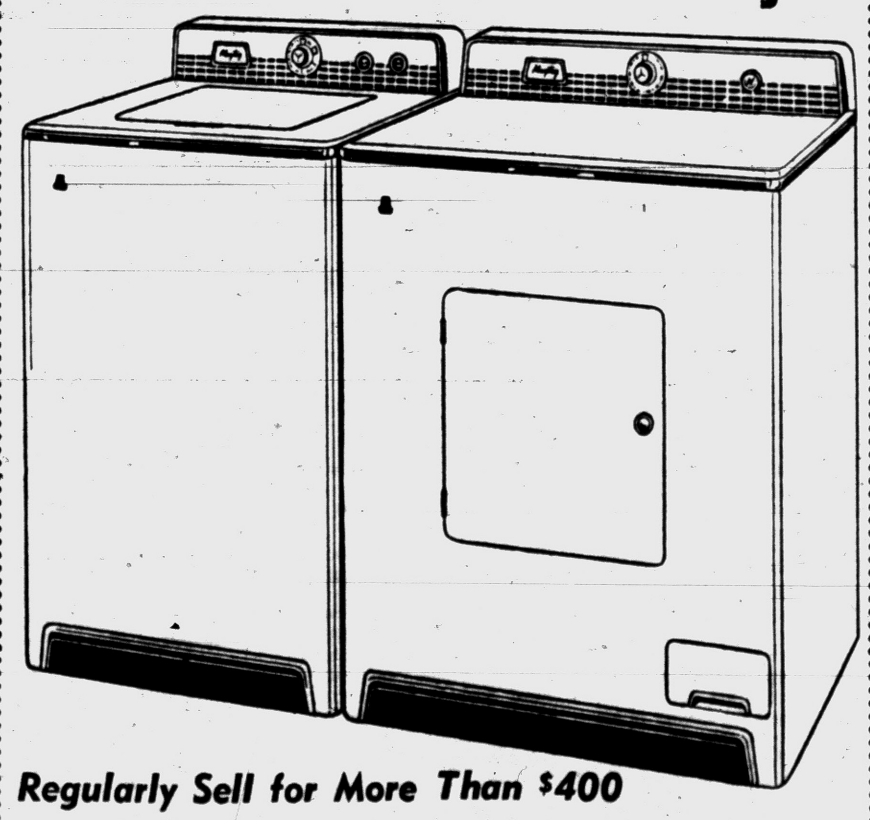

Low-cost folding doors made of vertical mahogany slats laced together with nylon-reinforced tape are being manufactured by a Jamaica concern. The company says the doors equal the performance, appearance, and durability of folding doors costing up to four times as much.

Furs Are Rich, Practical

The Young Designer Collection of 12 spring furs showr to visiting fashion editors in New York are not "flights of fancy" furs, but are sensible and practical.

Six young non-fur designers, turned loose to work with fur for this group retailing for $500 or less, are Luis Estevez, Jeanne Campbell, Donald Brooks, Jeanne Carr, Eloise Curtis and John Weitz.

These designers insisted that their designs be finished in other than luxurious furs, as they wanted women rich in fashion taste but poor in pocketbooks to be able to afford them.

The group was commissioned to make furs appealing to teenagers, the college girl, the career woman and the young-marrieds.

"Shrug a-la Mode" by Luis Estevez is one of the little furs for spring. White fox bands a black moire ribbon which bow-ties in front. This is one of the young furs which sells for $250.

The "hug-me-tight" bolero by Jeanne Carr of Jonathan Logan is in broun squirrel. A modern fashion mobile, it can be worn buttoned down the back or buttoned down the front.

Phyllis Smith Draws Crowd at PCH Recital

Singer Recaptures City Audience

By GEORGE A. PUTNAM

The voice recital by Phyllis Smith Sunday evening in Pontiac Central High School auditorium provided Pontiac with another noted cultural event.

The large crowd that listened so attentively as this young artist sang her way through a very taxing program was evidence that our community enjoys good music.

HAS CHARM, POISE

Miss Smith, a graduate of Pontiac High School and currently enrolled in the New England Conservatory in Boston, is an aspiring singer with much charm and poise. Her manner completely captivated her audience throughout the evening.

The program opened with a group of Italian compositions, two by Scarlotti and an aria, "Porgi Amor," from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro." The Pergolesi "Se Tu a M'ami, Se Sospiri" received the polished treatment of a veteran singer. The Italian diction was carefully handled and gave Miss Smith opportunity to demonstrate some very fine training.

The second group of German lieder consisted of three songs by Schubert. Here again the versatility of the singer gave an exceptionally fine treatment to these art songs.

Three songs that great artists have consistently used in concert halls provided variety to the next group. Vocal literature of this type is demanding of the singer. The audience especially enjoyed the "Laughing Song" from "The Bat" by Strauss. Other selections were "Little Shepherd Song" by Watts and "Slave Song" by Del Riego.

HIGH POINT OF PROGRAM

The high point of the evening was Miss Smith's singing of "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." At this time the audience and singer were held in a deeply reverent mood, as this spiritual was sung without accompaniment in clear, true, bell-like tones.

After three contrasting spirituals, Miss Smith responded with "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

Gladys Manning, a Pontiac pianist and organist, provided excellent accompaniment throughout the program. She was also heard as soloist in Lecumona's "Molaguena."

To present a program of this scope is a great undertaking. However, the concert-goers left the auditorium knowing that our city has young artists who add greatly to our musical life.

But Who Raised Him, Ma?—Abby

Blames Son's Actions on 'Stuck-Up' Wife

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: My son is a mechanic in a garage and he married the daughter of the man who owns the garage. I called him up this morning and asked him if he would come with his car and drive me to the doctor's. I have to have shots for my nerves. He said 'Why don't you walk, Ma? The walk will do you good.' The doctor's office is a good two miles from my house and he knows it. Do you think it is his fault or that stuck-up girl he married?" MRS. L.

ABBY

DEAR MRS. L.: The girl didn't raise him — she only married him.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: My husband was engaged to another girl before he married me and she had this child. I knew all about this before I married him and accepted the fact. Naturally I wasn't thrilled with the idea of his having to pay out so much every week for child support, but I loved him, so what could I do?

My problem is that my husband keeps wanting to go see the child. I am not jealous, but I know the mother of his child would stop at nothing to get him back and I am sure she tries to vamp him when he comes to see the baby. I don't feel right asking him not to see his own child. Please tell me what to do." BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: You can't deny him the right to see his own child . . . but there is nothing to stop you from going with him."

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I am to be married soon and the man I am marrying doesn't want my family to attend the wedding. The reason is because he is ashamed for his people to meet my people. He thinks they are crude and downright trash. I will admit they are poorly educated but they are hard working people and never asked anybody for anything. Should I have them anyway, or forget about it and always feel bad secretly?" HURT

DEAR HURT: Do you think you could live happily with a husband who is "ashamed" of your family for their lack of education? By all means, INVITE them, but I suggest that first you take a long look at the man you intend to marry.

"DEAR ABBY: I was married to a man for over 25 years and was proud to bear his name. He died and he wasn't even buried yet when I started receiving sympathy cards with my given name instead of his. Why? For 25 years I was 'MRS. JOHN DOE' and I want to remain 'MRS. JOHN DOE' — not 'MRS. JANE DOE' even after he is gone. Am I going against proper etiquette?"

MRS. JOHN DOE

DEAR MRS. JOHN DOE: You are correct. Those who address you as "MRS. JANE DOE" are in error.

It is not necessary to give a death grip to a coffee cup. If your liptick has been blotted and still comes off on the china this is probably what you've been doing.

Delicacy and just enough contact to keep the coffee from dribbling is what you need, not looking as if you are going to take a bite out of the crockery.

Dressed in his very best riding suit, Greg Alan thunders along on his trusty steed. He is the 19-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Baker of Bratton street.

Married Saturday evening were Judith C. Wood and George R. Lembke.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Wood of West Huron street and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lembke of Stanley avenue.

MRS. GEORGE R. LEMBKE

Judith C. Wood Becomes Bride of George Lembke

Wearing a full-length white taffeta gown, Judith Carreen Wood became the bride of George Robert Lembke Saturday evening at Lutheran Church of the Ascension. The Rev. William LaFountain officiated at the candlelight ceremony in the presence of 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Wood of West Huron street. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lembke of Stanley avenue.

★ ★ ★

A shell neckline of Chantilly lace with seed and drop pearl trim accented the bride's gown. A Juliet cap secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion, and she carried a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis in a semi-cascade arrangement.

ATTEND BRIDE

Mrs. Delmonto Manganello of Auburn Heights was matron of honor, dressed in a bronze taffeta gown featuring a boat neckline and tiara headpiece. Her flowers were tangerine carnations in a semi-cascade arrangement.

Junior bridesmaid Judith Lembke, sister of the bridegroom, and bridesmaids Carol Chaffin and Judith Wieber, both of Lansing, wore beige gowns, styled identically to that of the honor matron. They carried saturn carnations.

Flower girl Sandra Hopp was gowned in pale yellow organdy and carried yellow rose petals in a white basket.

BROTHER TAKES PART

The bridegroom's brother, W. J. Lembke, attended as best man. Ushers were G. M. Wallace, N.G. Avran of Birmingham and G. D. Barnett of Jackson.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Wood wore a slate blue lace dress with white accessories and white cymbidium orchids for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Lembke wore a printed sheer gown fashioned with a boat neckline and full skirt in tones of beige and brown. Her corsage was of green cymbidium orchids.

Following a reception, the new Mrs. Lembke changed to a brown and black tweed suit with rust and brown accesories for a skiing trip to northern Michigan.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

Lipstick First

Beauty Aids Are Accepted Slowly

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I knew that many women use false eyelashes today, however, I did not know HOW common they have become until I spent a week in New York City recently.

It was as though Nature suddenly had blossomed forth in new glory. I noticed lovely lashes in elevators, restaurants, stores and at the theater. Being of a curious turn of mind I dropped by The Eddie Senz' Salon to query him as to WHY this sudden false eyelash boom.

Eddie is make-up consultant and designer for many of Broadway's top shows as well as for movies and television. He has changed many an ugly duckling into a swan and started her on her way to stardom.

He is also a humanitarian and works with psychiatrists to help restore wilting egos through improvement in appearance or by camouflaging physical defects.

Eddie's idea is this. The use of make-up has had a gradual growth. First came the lipstick. The pioneers in its use were considered "fast," or at least bold, by the conservative part of the population. Today most women feel undressed without lip coloring and those who do not use it (if there are any) look anemic among the ruddy lips of their contemporaries.

NAIL POLISH NEXT

Nail polish was the next cosmetic to take over. Its use became almost universal in a comparatively short time. Then came hair dyeing. For a long while women as a whole were extremely fearful and self-conscious about this. Experts advised women who were going to dye their hair to do so when they first started getting grey so that their friends, and even their husbands, would not know the difference.

These same experts even left a few grey hairs so that the effect would be natural. Today the trend is much different.

If you would like to have my leaflet which gives you many make-up tricks send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leflet No. 50, "What's Going On?" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "More about hair dyeing and false eyelashes."

Have You Tried This?

Tang of Lemon Flavors Ground Carrot Relish

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

We have just heard about an interesting new relish, one similar to cranberry-orange relish. We can trace this recipe back to a church supper in another town, but our local cook is Mrs. Rodney Silkey. Her daughter gave her the recipe.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Silkey's activities are curtailed some these days by illness in her home. She belongs to a neighborhood Bridge club and is a member of Guild Ten of her church.

GOP Senators Open Key Battle

Dirksen Seeks to End Deadlock Over Top Committee Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle by Republican senators for choice committee spots offered a test today or GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

In hopes of ironing out a deadlock among individual Republicans Dirksen asked several of them to drop by for chats in his new ofice as Republican floor leader.

★ ★ ★

Two lengthy closed-door sessions and appeals by Senate GOP chieftains did not solve the intraparty contests Saturday.

Assignment to the 17 Republican vacancies on Senate legislative committees is handled by a group known as the Committee on Committees and headed by Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan).

The dispute has been caused by efforts to give at least one major committee assignment to the three freshmen Republican senators — Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Winston L. Prouty of Vermont.

★ ★ ★

Traditionally, senators with the longest service or seniority get first choice at a committee vacancy.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has partially junked this idea within his party in recent years by getting each freshman Democrat at least one major committee place.

Democratic committee assignments already have been made and approved by the Senate.

★ ★ ★

Republicans at the close-door session said Dirksen even offered to give up his seat on the Appropriations Committee if this would end the deadlock. However, several Republicans with two or more years' service said they would claim it. So his compromise offer was withdrawn.

Here's Text of Eisenhower's Budget Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following is a partial text of the budget message transmitted to Congress today by President Eisenhower:

Budget message of the President to the Congress of the United States:

The situation we face today as a nation differs significantly from that a year ago. We are now entering a period of national prosperity and high employment. This is a time for the government to conduct itself so as best to help the nation move forward strongly and confidently in economic and social progress at home, while fulfilling our responsibilities abroad. The budget of the United States for the fiscal year 1960, transmitted herewith, will effectively and responsibly carry out the government's role in dealing with the problems and the opportunities of the period ahead. . . .

This budget proposes to increase our military effectiveness, to enhance domestic well-being, to help friendly nations to foster their development, to preserve fiscal soundness, and to encourage economic growth and stability, not only in the fiscal year 1960 but in the years beyond. And it clearly shows that these things can be done within our income.

We cannot, of course, undertake to satisfy all proposals for government spending. But as we choose which ones the government should accept, we must always remember that freedom and the long-run strength of our economy are prerequisite to attainment of our national goals. Otherwise, we cannot, for long, meet the imperatives of individual freedom, national security, and the many other necessary responsibilities of government. In short, this budget fits the conditions of today because:

1. It is a balanced budget.—My recommendations call for an approximate equality between revenues and expenditures, with a small surplus.

2. It is a responsible budget.—By avoiding a deficit, it will help prevent further increases in the cost of living and the hidden and unfair tax that inflation imposes on personal savings and incomes.

3. It is a confident budget.—It anticipates, in a rapidly advancing economy, increases in revenues without new general taxes, and counts upon the unity and good judgment of the American people in supporting a level of government activity which such revenues will make possible.

4. It is a positive budget.—It responds to national needs, with due regard to urgencies and priorities, without being either extravagant or unduly limiting.

5. It is an attainable budget.—Its proposals are realistic and can be achieved with the cooperation of Congress. . . .

Growth of revenues—Our nation's population and labor force will continue to increase. The output per hour of work on our farms and in our factories can also be expected to grow as it has in the past . . .

★ ★ ★

Economic growth generates higher personal incomes and business profits. Under our graduated income tax system, with present tax rates, budget receipts should grow even faster than national income, although the rise in receipts certainly will not be uniform from year to year. Also, some tax reforms and downward tax adjustments will be essential in future years to help maintain and strengthen the incentives for continued economic growth. With a balance in our finances in 1960, we can look forward to tax reduction in the reasonably foreseeable future . . .

Fiscal soundness and progress.—Both domestic and defense needs require that we keep our financial house in order. This means that we must adhere to two policies:

First, we must review all government activities as a part of the continuing budgetary process from year to year. . . .

Second, we must examine new programs and proposals with a critical eye. Desirability alone is not a sound criterion for adding to federal responsibilities. The impact today and tomorrow on the entire nation must be carefully assessed. . . .

BUDGET TOTALS

Budget expenditures are proposed to be held to $77 billion in fiscal 1960, which is $3.9 billion less than the estimated 1959 level of $80.9 billion.

With continued vigorous economic recovery, and with the relatively few new tax adjustments proposed herein, budget receipts in fiscal 1960 are expected to reach a total of $77.1 billion, an increase of $9.1 billion over fiscal 1959.

Thus a very modest surplus of about $0.1 billion is estimated for 1960, compared with a recession-induced deficit of $12.9 billion in the current fiscal year. This estimated balance assumes enactment of recommendations for extending present excises and corporation income taxes scheduled for reduction under existing law, for some new tax legislation to remove inequities and loopholes, for increased charges for special services, and for reductions in some current programs. It also assumes that certain programs can be made self-financing by stepping up the sale of portfolio assets. . . .

Extension of present tax rates.—The budget outlook for 1960 makes it essential to extend present tax rates on corporation profits and certain excise taxes another year beyond their present expiration date of June 30, 1959.

Development of a more equitable tax system.—Considerable progress was made last year in removing unintended benefits and hardships from the tax laws. Continued attention is necessary in this area. As the budget permits, additional reforms should be undertaken to increase the fairness of the tax system, to reduce the tax restraints on incentives to work and invest, and wherever feasible to simplify the laws. I hope that the committees of the Congress will work with the Treasury Department in preparing further adjustments of our tax laws for the future. . . .

Other changes in tax rates.—In order to make highway-related taxes support our vast highway expenditures, excises on motor fuels need to be increased 1½ cents a gallon to 4½ cents. These receipts will go into the highway trust fund an dpreserve the pay-as-we-go principle, so that contributions from general tax funds to build federal-aid highways will not be necessary. . . .

★ ★ ★

Revenues.—The resurgence of our economy has been stronger than was assumed in the budget estimates that were published last September. Consequently, budget receipts for the fiscal year 1959 are now expected to total $68 billion instead of the $67 billion estimated at that time.

The estimate of $77.1 billion in receipts for 1960 is contingent on enactment of the tax recommendations mentioned earlier. . . .

MAJOR NATIONAL SECURITY

The changes in emphasis in the four major national security programs for the fiscal year 1960 reflect the growing armed strength of the United States and its allies and the continuing modernization of defense methods. The Department of Defense will significantly increase expenditures for procurement of missiles and for development and evaluation of new weapons, while reducing expenditures for other procurement and for construction.

The Atomic Energy Commission is advancing all phases of its programs, particularly research in the peaceful uses of atomic energy. Our allies' progress in equipping their armed forces and the deliveries under military assistance in 1959 and prior years permit a reduction in military assistance expenditures. Expenditures for stockpiling and expansion of defense production will be reduced because basic stockpiling objectives for most materials are now fulfilled and because many defense production expansion contracts have already been completed.

Total expenditures for major national security programs in fiscal 1960 are estimated to $45.8 billion.

Department of Defense—military functions.—The defense program for 1960 calls for new appropriations of $40,850 million. This is $288 million less than the appropriations estimated for 1959. However, approximately $0.7 billion of the funds appropriated by the Congress for 1959 in excess of the amounts recommended will be added to the 1960 program.

Expenditures in 1960 are estimated at $40,945 million, which is $145 million more than in 1959 and about $1.9 billion more than the amount spent in 1958—continuing the upward trend which began in 1956. Over the 5-year period from 1955 to 1960, annual expenditures for defense will have increased by over $5.4 billion.

Recent developments.—In the 1959 budget message I recommended a substantial acceleration of our defense effort in selected areas to enable our military strategy, techniques, and organization to keep pace with the rapid strides in science and technology.

During the last year we have made substantial progress in accelerating or starting key programs . . .

Development and control of atomic energy.—Expenditures by the Atomic Energy Commission are expected to reach an all-time high of $2.7 billion in fiscal 1960. This large amount reflects our determination to maintain our position of world leadership in the field of nuclear military armaments until such armaments are brought under adequate international control and to promote the development of peaceful applications of atomic energy.

In the light of our offer to suspend tests of nuclear weapons for a 1-year period starting October 31, 1958, and in view of the negotiations for further suspension, the budget does not provide for any weapons tests in the fiscal year 1960. Under the circumstances, testing grounds in Nevada and the Pacific will be kept on a standby basis.

A satisfactory test suspension agreement, of course, is but a first step toward reducing the grave threat of nuclear warfare. This administration intends to explore all possible means of attaining armament control under adequate inspection guaranties despite the recent suspension of negotiations on means of avoiding surprise attack. I hope that we shall succeed. Until an acceptable agreement is reached, however, financial authorizations must be provided to continue development and production of nuclear weapons at current high levels to meet a variety of military needs . . .

Mutual Security Program.—The Mutual Security Program is designed to help strengthen the defense and bolster the political and economic stability of the free world. Through it the United States shares in worldwide efforts to meet the Communist threat and to help improve the standard of living of people in less developed nations. For the fiscal year 1960, I am recommending new obligational authority of $3,930 million for the Mutual Security Program. Expenditures are estimated to be $3,498 million, which is $383 million less than in fiscal 1959 . . .

The estimate of new obligational authority for military assistance in the fiscal year 1960 is $1,600 million . . .

★ ★ ★

Highways.—The comprehensive highway program enacted in 1956 established the principle that highway users, rather than the general taxpayers, should pay the cost of federal-aid highways. The larger contract authority enacted in 1958, however, will create a cumulative deficit in the highway trust fund under present law of $241 million by the end of the fiscal year 1960, and about $2.2 billion by the end of 1962.

MORE

To maintain the trust fund on a self-supporting basis, I am recommending a temporary increase of 1½ cents in highway fuel taxes, to become effective July 1, 1959, and to remain in effect through the fiscal year 1964. This increase is necessary to assure availability of the entire 1961 and 1962 federal-aid highway authorizations without waiving provisions in the basic legislation which limit expenditures to the amounts available in the trust fund.

★ ★ ★

Postal Service.—Since 1953 this administration has been using every available method to improve the efficiency of the postal service, and to place its operations on a self-supporting basis, except for a few subsidized uses authorized by law.

In the last session the Congress took an important step by enacting the first comprehensive increases in postal rates in a quarter century. The increases, however, were considerably short of the minimum necessary amounts which I had requested and were made more inadequate by pay increases for postal employes for which no additional financing was provided. . . Further revisions in rates should be enacted adequate to provide at least $350 million of additional revenues in 1960. Legislation for this purpose will be proposed in the near future.

The Congress should act promptly upon four major revisions in the urban renewal laws: (One change follows):

(A) Assure the states and cities of continuing federal support for urban renewal by authorizing capital grants of $1,350 million for the next 6 years. For each of the first 3 years, 1960-62, $250 million should be authorized, with $200 million annually for 1963-65. This forward authorization, together with administrative steps already taken to allocate the available funds equitably, should enable each community to develop a long-term community-wide plan which may then be financed in realistic annual installments. . . .

★ ★ ★

Area Assistance.—In disapproving the area redevelopment legislation enacted in the closing days of the last Congress, I expressed the hope that the next Congress would promptly pass a more soundly conceived program. The revised legislation which this administration is proposing would:

(A) Place the major responsibility on local citizens;

(B) Authorize loans to areas where unemployment has been well above the national average for 2 or more years;

(C) Authorize grants for technical assistance to these areas and to localities dependent upon a single industry or situated in rural low-income areas;

(D) Place leadership in the Department of Commerce, with the assistance of other federal agencies.

To finance this program, I recommend initial appropriations in fiscal 1960 of $55 million. Based on the successful, comparable programs conducted by certain states, these appropriations should be adequate to meet the federal share for redevelopment of all areas expected to qualify under the proposed legislation . . .

AGRICULTURE AND RESOURCES

Legislation is urgently needed . . . to make further revisions in the price support program. Recommendations will be sent to the Congress in a special message on agriculture. In this budget I am recommending extension of the agricultural trade development and assistance act of 1954 (Public Law 480) and the sugar act, major changes in the rural credit programs and a reduction in the advance authorization for the agricultural conservation program.

★ ★ ★

Estimated expenditures for agricultural programs in fiscal year 1960 are $6 billion, which is $779 million less than the estimate for the current year, but $1.6 billion more than was actually spent in 1958. The main part of the decrease expected in 1960 is in the soil bank program, because the acreage reserve portion terminated at the end of the 1958 crop year . . .

NATURAL RESOURCES

Expenditures for the development and conservation of natural resources are estimated at $1,7 billion in 1960, approximately the same as in 1959, which itself will be higher than any previous year. About two-thirds of the expenditures in 1960 will be fore the development of water resources . . . no funds are provided in the 1960 budget for starting construction of new water resources projects . . .

Labor and manpower—This budget provides $329 million of appropriations for grants to states for administration of employment service and unemployment insurance offices . . .

Our unemployment compensation system has again demonstrated its importance in providing income for the unemployed and thereby supporting the economy while alleviating hardship. Temporary assistance of the kind provided by the temporary unemployment compensation act of 1958 is in no sense a substitute for widening the coverage of unemployment compensation and extending the duration of benefits and increasing benefit amounts under the federal-state system. I have many times urged such action. I urge it again now with added conviction as a result of last year's experience.

I am again urging prompt enactment of effective statutory protection for workers and the public from the racketeering, corruption and abuse of democratic processes which have been disclosed in the field of labor-management relations will likewise be proposed to promote equity and stability in the relations among workers, unions and employers. I shall make specific proposals in a special message on labor affairs . . .

Public Health—Expenditures by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for health programs, including those for research and construction of health facilities in fiscal 1960 are estimated at $675 million—more than duble the amount five years earlier.

VETERANS' SERVICES AND BENEFITS

Pensions—We must continue veterans' pensions and increase pension rates for those who are without other resources, particularly if they have families. . . . I have, accordingly, asked the administrator of veterans affairs to present to the Congress legislation both to provide more equitable treatment of needy veterans and to modernize the veterans' pension program in the light of social developments and changes . . .

Statehood for Hawaii and home rule for District of Columbia—I again recommend that the Congress enact legislation to admit Hawaii into the Union as a state, and to grant home rule to the District of Columbia. It would be unconscionable if either of these actions were delayed any longer.

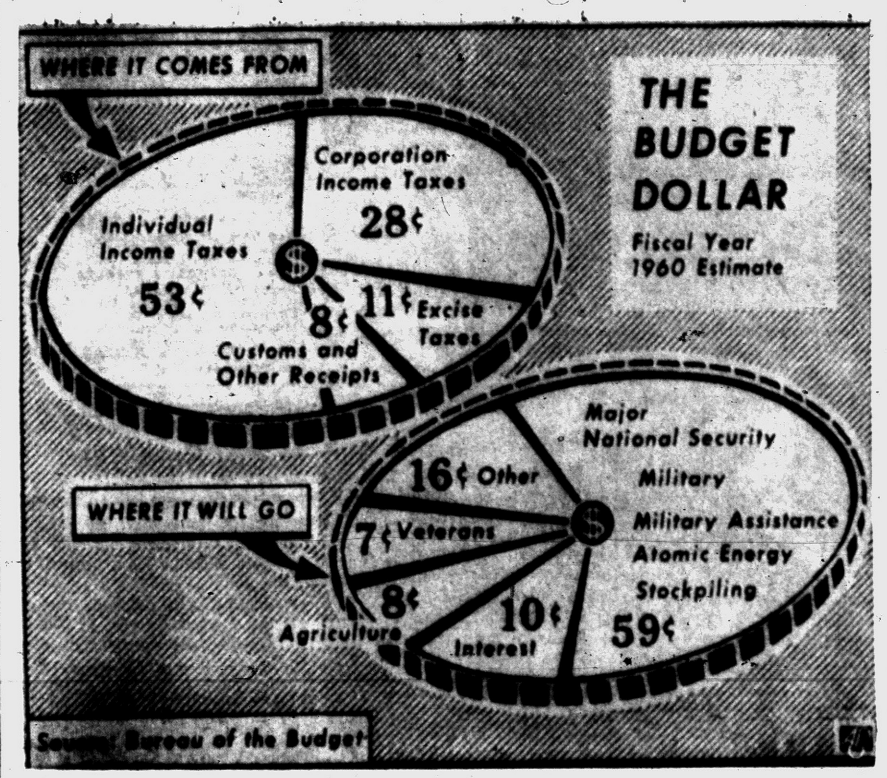

Alaska—I am highly gratified to be the first president in 47 years to have had the privilege of welcoming a new state into the Union. Alaska takes its place as the equal of the other 48 states with both the privileges and responsibilities that go with statehood. Recommendations will be transmitted to the Congress concerning certain changes needed in federal law as a result of Alaska's admission to the Union in order to apply to Alaska the same general laws, rules, and policies as are applicable to other states . . .

CONCLUSION

This budget is designed to serve the needs of the nation as a whole as effectively as possible. It rejects the philosophy that the national welfare is best served by satisfying every demand for federal expenditures.

Our objective, as a free nation, must be to prepare for the momentous decade ahead by entering the fiscal year 1960 with a world at peace, and with a strong and free economy as the prerequisite for healthy growth in the years to follow. This can be achieved through government actions which help foster private economic recovery and development, and which restrain the forces that would drive prices higher, and thereby cheapen our money and erode our personal savings. The first step is to avoid a budget deficit by having the government live within its means, especially during prosperous, peacetime periods.

The 1960 budget reflects our determination to do this.

Nearly 60 Cents in Dollar Goes for National Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 59½ cents out of each dollar in the new budget will go into national security — military costs here and abroad, atomic energy and stockpiling.

The next biggest share 10½ cents, will be paid as interest on the record federal debt.

★ ★ ★

The remaining 30 cents is cut into these slices:

8 cents for farm price supports and other farm programs.

7 cents for veterans.

5 cents for relief, health, education and welfare.

3 cents for commerce and housing.

★ ★ ★

3 cents for international affairs and finance.

2 cents for water, power and other resources.

★ ★ ★

This is where the budget dollar comes from: 53 cents from the individual income taxpayer; 28 cents from the corporation tax; 11 cents from excises; 8 cents from customs and other receipts.

Budget Averages Out to $431 Per Person

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's new spending budget for fiscal 1960 adds up to $431 for every man, woman and child in the country.

★ ★ ★

This compares with estimated per capita spending of $460 in the current fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

President Eisenhower said he expects the national debt to be 285 billion dollars. Based on official estimates the population will total 178,700,000 in fiscal 1960, the per capita debt would be $1,594 a person.

Traffic-Dodging Man Nets Wrong License

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—John Broberg, TV station employe, lost his license plate while driving on a freeway. He heard it fall, but couldn't stop in the rush of traffic. So he drove sadly home.

Next day at the same spot, lo. . . license plate on the freeway. Traffic was lighter so he turned off, circled, and parked at freeway's edge.

Dashing daringly between cars he grabbed the plate, crushed it to his breast, and like a halfback threaded his way back to his car.

Glancing down, he saw the plate wasn't his.

Chiari Flies to Australia to Be With Ava Gardner

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Italin film actor Walter Chiari arrived in Melbourne yesterday to visit Ava Gardner after a 13,000-mile trip from Europe.

Miss Gardner is here making the movie of Nevil Shute's novel 'On the Beach," about the end of life on earth because of atomic radiation. She and Chiari have been going together for months.

Governor Plays It Safe When He Goes Skiing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — When Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton left Saturday for a week of skiing at Sun Valley, Idaho, he took his physician, Dr. Kenneth Schepp, with him—just in case.

"I think this shows foresight," said Stratton.

London Pictorial to Halt Series on Queen's Life

LONDON (AP)—The mass circulation Sunday Pictorial says it will publish no more chapters in its latest backstairs series about Queen Elizabeth's home life.

The tabloid came out last week with the first installment in a series by William Charles Ellis, for nine years superintendent of Windsor Castle. It was billed as an informal and affectionate account of the royal family's life.

★ ★ ★

The Royal Court though otherwise. Last Thursday a temporary injunction was issued on the Queen's behalf. It restrained Ellis from breaking the pledge now required of all palace employes that they will not write about the royal family after leaving its employ.

Hep Doctors Happily Mix Heartbeats and Jazz Beats

The man in white turned his head and said, "Scalpel. . .forceps . . .sponge. . .trumpet. . .trombone."

Well, it may be a bit exagerated but this was almost the way a band got its start one morning in surgery at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

It all took place several years ago and today the Poh-Cats, as they call themselves, are a solidly knit group still bouncing along at a sprightly tempo.

The band is not officially connected with the hospital administration. It is made up mainly of staff members at the hospital as an extra-curricular activity.

★ ★ ★

The man who sparked the whole idea was Dr. Ben Dickinson. While preparing for an operation that fateful morning, he mentioned to Dr. Audrey Lintz that he'd just bought a new trumpet.

Dr. Lintz was astounded. She didn't realize he even played a musical instrument. In fact, none of the members-to-be knew about the musical talents of their associates.

"I haven't played for years," said Dr. Lintz.

Dickinson responded with, "Oh? You play a musical instrument?"

"Well, I used to play piano," she said modestly.

★ ★ ★

And thus began a discussion about music which, interrupted only by the operation at hand, lasted through the lunch hour.

At lunch, another staff doctor, Donald E. Fraser, heard them and nostalgicly said, "I haven't had my horn out of the attic since my high school days."

Little did he realize that, with that statement, he had just become the first member of the sax section.

The idea began to blossom. Word got around that there was music in the air—even if it was a little rusty at first. Other doctors became interested and the band grew into an orchestra.

★ ★ ★

Most of the members had a common interest in jazz, so it was only natural that their first output of tunes fell into that field.

Gradually the band has grown to a 10-piece dance orchestra with a wide variety of selections in its "book."

Aside from the three members already mentioned, the lineup includes Dr. Douglas Hackett, sax and clarinet; Dr. R. Mark Todd, violin and baritone horn; and Dr. Jack Leve, drums.

Drs. Jerry Margolis and Walt Bradley, interns at the hospital, handle trombone and electric guitar duties, respectively. Frank Whitlow, the hospital's purchasing agent, is a cornetist with the group and Dr. Bud Yonkin, of Mt. Clemens, the only non-local member, rounds out the trombone section.

The group is non-union. "We're professionals only in the medical sense," says Dr. Dickinson.

"In a way we have a great advantage over professional musicians. Everyone is here for fun, we all know each other's limitations and if someone hits a sour note we laugh and forget about it."

The band has never charged a cent for its services. It plays almost exclusively for charity functions. Sometimes it may have several jobs a week, and often it won't have an engagement for a month or more. There is no set pattern.

As far as the music is concerned, the band uses stock arrangements. Its book no longer contains only jazz material, although the group occasionally swings out with a few hot numbers.

The theme song is "Melody Of Love" played in a Wayne King style that is far from jazz. During an evening the band will cover all types of music, from waltzes to up-tempo numbers like "Two O'clock Jump."

The outfit also makes an effort to keep up-to-date by including many pop songs currently on best seller lists.

★ ★ ★

It keeps in shape with weekly practice sessions at one of the member's homes. Occasionally they are honored by having professional musicians "sit in."

One, for example, is the famous jazz trumpeter Jimmy McPartland, a close friend of Dr. Dickinson, who after sitting in with the one afternoon exclaimed those cats really [illegible] outfit. [illegible]

GOP Senators Open Key Battle

Dirksen Seeks to End Deadlock Over Top Committee Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle by Republican senators for choice committee spots offered a test today or GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

In hopes of ironing out a deadlock among individual Republicans Dirksen asked several of them to drop by for chats in his new ofice as Republican floor leader.

★ ★ ★

Two lengthy closed-door sessions and appeals by Senate GOP chieftains did not solve the intraparty contests Saturday.

Assignment to the 17 Republican vacancies on Senate legislative committees is handled by a group known as the Committee on Committees and headed by Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan).

The dispute has been caused by efforts to give at least one major committee assignment to the three freshmen Republican senators — Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Winston L. Prouty of Vermont.

★ ★ ★

Traditionally, senators with the longest service or seniority get first choice at a committee vacancy.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has partially junked this idea within his party in recent years by getting each freshman Democrat at least one major committee place.

Democratic committee assignments already have been made and approved by the Senate.

★ ★ ★

Republicans at the close-door session said Dirksen even offered to give up his seat on the Appropriations Committee if this would end the deadlock. However, several Republicans with two or more years' service said they would claim it. So his compromise offer was withdrawn.

Here's Text of Eisenhower's Budget Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following is a partial text of the budget message transmitted to Congress today by President Eisenhower:

Budget message of the President to the Congress of the United States:

The situation we face today as a nation differs significantly from that a year ago. We are now entering a period of national prosperity and high employment. This is a time for the government to conduct itself so as best to help the nation move forward strongly and confidently in economic and social progress at home, while fulfilling our responsibilities abroad. The budget of the United States for the fiscal year 1960, transmitted herewith, will effectively and responsibly carry out the government's role in dealing with the problems and the opportunities of the period ahead.

This budget proposes to increase our military effectiveness, to enhance domestic well-being, to help friendly nations to foster their development, to preserve fiscal soundness, and to encourage economic growth and stability, not only in the fiscal year 1960 but in the years beyond. And it clearly shows that these things can be done within our income.

We cannot, of course, undertake to satisfy all proposals for government spending. But as we choose which ones the government should accept, we must always remember that freedom and the long-run strength of our economy are prerequisite to attainment of our national goals. Otherwise, we cannot, for long, meet the imperatives of individual freedom, national security, and the many other necessary responsibilities of government. In short, this budget fits the conditions of today because:

1. It is a balanced budget.—My recommendations call for an approximate equality between revenues and expenditures, with a small surplus.

2. It is a responsible budget.—By avoiding a deficit, it will help prevent further increases in the cost of living and the hidden and unfair tax that inflation imposes on personal savings and incomes.

3. It is a confident budget.—It anticipates, in a rapidly advancing economy, increases in revenues without new general taxes, and counts upon the unity and good judgment of the American people in supporting a level of government activity which such revenues will make possible.

4. It is a positive budget.—It responds to national needs, with due regard to urgencies and priorities, without being either extravagant or unduly limiting.

5. It is an attainable budget.—Its proposals are realistic and can be achieved with the cooperation of Congress. . . .

Growth of revenues—Our nation's population and labor force will continue to increase. The output per hour of work on our farms and in our factories can also be expected to grow as it has in the past . . .

★ ★ ★

Economic growth generates higher personal incomes and business profits. Under our graduated income tax system, with present tax rates, budget receipts should grow even faster than national income, although the rise in receipts certainly will not be uniform from year to year. Also, some tax reforms and downward tax adjustments will be essential in future years to help maintain and strengthen the incentives for continued economic growth. With a balance in our finances in 1960, we can look forward to tax reduction in the reasonably foreseeable future . . .

Fiscal soundness and progress.—Both domestic and defense needs require that we keep our financial house in order. This means that we must adhere to two policies:

First, we must review all government activities as a part of the continuing budgetary process from year to year. . . .

Second, we must examine new programs and proposals with a critical eye. Desirability alone is not a sound criterion for adding to federal responsibilities. The impact today and tomorrow on the entire nation must be carefully assessed. . . .

BUDGET TOTALS

Budget expenditures are proposed to be held to $77 billion in fiscal 1960, which is $3.9 billion less than the estimated 1959 level of $80.9 billion.

With continued vigorous economic recovery, and with the relatively few new tax adjustments proposed herein, budget receipts in fiscal 1960 are expected to reach a total of $77.1 billion, an increase of $9.1 billion over fiscal 1959.

Thus a very modest surplus of about $0.1 billion is estimated for 1960, compared with a recession-induced deficit of $12.9 billion in the current fiscal year. This estimated balance assumes enactment of recommendations for extending present excises and corporation income taxes scheduled for reduction under existing law, for some new tax legislation to remove inequities and loopholes, for increased charges for special services, and for reductions in some current programs. It also assumes that certain programs can be made self-financing by stepping up the sale of portfolio assets. . . .

Extension of present tax rates.—The budget outlook for 1960 makes it essential to extend present tax rates on corporation profits and certain excise taxes another year beyond their present expiration date of June 30, 1959.

Development of a more equitable tax system.—Considerable progress was made last year in removing unintended benefits and hardships from the tax laws. Continued attention is necessary in this area. As the budget permits, additional reforms should be undertaken to increase the fairness of the tax system, to reduce the tax restraints on incentives to work and invest, and wherever feasible to simplify the laws. I hope that the committees of the Congress will work with the Treasury Department in preparing further adjustments of our tax laws for the future. . . .

Other changes in tax rates.—In order to make highway-related taxes support our vast highway expenditures, excises on motor fuels need to be increased 1½ cents a gallon to 4½ cents. These receipts will go into the highway trust fund an dpreserve the pay-as-we-go principle, so that contributions from general tax funds to build federal-aid highways will not be necessary. . . .

★ ★ ★

Revenues.—The resurgence of our economy has been stronger than was assumed in the budget estimates that were published last September. Consequently, budget receipts for the fiscal year 1959 are now expected to total $68 billion instead of the $67 billion estimated at that time.

The estimate of $77.1 billion in receipts for 1960 is contingent on enactment of the tax recommendations mentioned earlier. . . .

MAJOR NATIONAL SECURITY

The changes in emphasis in the four major national security programs for the fiscal year 1960 reflect the growing armed strength of the United States and its allies and the continuing modernization of defense methods. The Department of Defense will significantly increase expenditures for procurement of missiles and for development and evaluation of new weapons, while reducing expenditures for other procurement and for construction.

The Atomic Energy Commission is advancing all phases of its programs, particularly research in the peaceful uses of atomic energy. Our allies' progress in equipping their armed forces and the deliveries under military assistance in 1958 and prior years permit a reduction in military assistance expenditures. Expenditures for stockpiling and expansion of defense production will be reduced because basic stockpiling objectives for most materials are now fulfilled and because many defense production expansion contracts have already been completed.

Total expenditures for major national security programs in fiscal 1960 are estimated to $45.8 billion.

Department of Defense—military functions.—The defense program for 1960 calls for new appropriations of $40,850 million. This is $288 million less than the appropriations estimated for 1959. However, approximately $0.7 billion of the funds appropriated by the Congress for 1959 in excess of the amounts recommended will be added to the 1960 program.

Expenditures in 1960 are estimated at $40,945 million, which is $145 million more than in 1959 and about $1.9 billion more than the amount spent in 1958—continuing the upward trend which began in 1956. Over the 5-year period from 1955 to 1960, annual expenditures for defense will have increased by over $5.4 billion.

Recent developments.—In the 1959 budget message I recommended a substantial acceleration of our defense effort in selected areas to enable our military strategy, techniques, and organization to keep pace with the rapid strides in science and technology.

During the last year we have made substantial progress in accelerating or starting key programs. . . .

Development and control of atomic energy.—Expenditures by the Atomic Energy Commission are expected to reach an all-time high of $2.7 billion in fiscal 1960. This large amount reflects our determination to maintain our position of world leadership in the field of nuclear military armaments until such armaments are brought under adequate international control and to promote the development of peaceful applications of atomic energy.

In the light of our offer to suspend tests of nuclear weapons for a 1-year period starting October 31, 1958, and in view of the negotiations for further suspension, the budget does not provide for any weapons tests in the fiscal year 1960. Under the circumstances, testing grounds in Nevada and the Pacific will be kept on a standby basis.

A satisfactory test suspension agreement, of course, is but a first step toward reducing the grave threat of nuclear warfare. This administration intends to explore all possible means of attaining armament control under adequate inspection guaranties despite the recent suspension of negotiations on means of avoiding surprise attack. I hope that we shall succeed. Until an acceptable agreement is reached, however, financial authorizations must be provided to continue development and production of nuclear weapons at current high levels to meet a variety of military needs . . .

Mutual Security Program.—The Mutual Security Program is designed to help strengthen the defense and bolster the political and economic stability of the free world. Through it the United States shares in worldwide efforts to meet the Communist threat and to help improve the standard of living of people in less developed nations. For the fiscal year 1960, I am recommending new obligational authority of $3,930 million for the Mutual Security Program. Expenditures are estimated to be $3,498 million, which is $383 million less than in fiscal 1959 . . .

The estimate of new obligational authority for military assistance in the fiscal year 1960 is $1,600 million . . .

★ ★ ★

Highways.—The comprehensive highway program enacted in 1956 established the principle that highway users, rather than the general taxpayers, should pay the cost of federal-aid highways. The larger contract authority enacted in 1958, however, will create a cumulative deficit in the highway trust fund under present law of $241 million by the end of the fiscal year 1960, and about $2.2 billion by the end of 1962.

MORE

To maintain the trust fund on a self-supporting basis, I am recommending a temporary increase of 1½ cents in highway fuel taxes, to become effective July 1, 1959, and to remain in effect through the fiscal year 1964. This increase is necessary to assure availability of the entire 1961 and 1962 federal-aid highway authorizations without waiving provisions in the basic legislation which limit expenditures to the amounts available in the trust fund.

★ ★ ★

Postal Service.—Since 1953 this administration has been using every available method to improve the efficiency of the postal service, and to place its operations on a self-supporting basis, except for a few subsidized uses authorized by law.

In the last session the Congress took an important step by enacting the first comprehensive increases in postal rates in a quarter century. The increases, however, were considerably short of the minimum necessary amounts which I had requested and were made more inadequate by pay increases for postal employes for which no additional financing was provided. . . Further revisions in rates should be enacted adequate to provide at least $350 million of additional revenues in 1960. Legislation for this purpose will be proposed in the near future.

The Congress should act promptly upon four major revisions in the urban renewal laws: (One change follows):

(A) Assure the states and cities of continuing federal support for urban renewal by authorizing capital grants of $1,350 million for the next 6 years. For each of the first 3 years, 1960-62, $250 million should be authorized, with $200 million annually for 1963-65. This forward authorization, together with administrative steps already taken to allocate the available funds equitably, should enable each community to develop a long-term community-wide plan which may then be financed in realistic annual installments. . .

★ ★ ★

Area Assistance.—In disapproving the area redevelopment legislation enacted in the closing days of the last Congress, I expressed the hope that the next Congress would promptly pass a more soundly conceived program. The revised legislation which this administration is proposing would:

(A) Place the major responsibility on local citizens;

(B) Authorize loans to areas where unemployment has been well above the national average for 2 or more years;

(C) Authorize grants for technical assistance to these areas and to localities dependent upon a single industry or situated in rural low-income areas;

(D) Place leadership in the Department of Commerce, with the assistance of other federal agencies.

To finance this program, I recommend initial appropriations in fiscal 1960 of $55 million. Based on the successful, comparable programs conducted by certain states, these appropriations should be adequate to meet the federal share for redevelopment of all areas expected to qualify under the proposed legislation . . .

AGRICULTURE AND RESOURCES

Legislation is urgently needed . . . to make further revisions in the price support program. Recommendations will be sent to the Congress in a special message on agriculture. In this budget I am recommending extension of the agricultural trade development and assistance act of 1954 (Public Law 480) and the sugar act, major changes in the rural credit programs and a reduction in the advance authorization for the agricultural conservation program.

★ ★ ★

Estimated expenditures for agricultural programs in fiscal year 1960 are $6 billion, which is $779 million less than the estimate for the current year, but $1.6 billion more than was actually spent in 1958. The main part of the decrease expected in 1960 is in the soil bank program, because the acreage reserve portion terminated at the end of the 1958 crop year . . .

NATURAL RESOURCES

Expenditures for the development and conservation of natural resources are estimated at $1.7 billion in 1960, approximately the same as in 1959, which itself will be higher than any previous year. About two-thirds of the expenditures in 1960 will be fore the development of water resources . . . no funds are provided in the 1960 budget for starting construction of new water resources projects . . .

Labor and manpower—This budget provides $329 million of appropriations for grants to states for administration of employment service and unemployment insurance offices . . .

Our unemployment compensation system has again demonstrated its importance in providing income for the unemployed and thereby supporting the economy while alleviating hardship. Temporary assistance of the kind provided by the temporary unemployment compensation act of 1958 is in no sense a substitute for widening the coverage of unemployment compensation and extending the duration of benefits and increasing benefit amounts under the federal-state system. I have many times urged such action. I urge it again now with added conviction as a result of last year's experience.

I am again urging prompt enactment of effective statutory protection for workers and the public from the racketeering, corruption and abuse of democratic processes which have been disclosed in the field of labor-management relations will likewise be proposed to promote equity and stability in the relations among workers, unions and employers. I shall make specific proposals in a special message on labor affairs . . .

★ ★ ★

Public Health—Expenditures by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for health programs, including those for research and construction of health facilities in fiscal 1960 are estimated at $675 million—more than duble the amount five years earlier.

VETERANS' SERVICES AND BENEFITS

Pensions—We must continue veterans' pensions and increase pension rates for those who are without other resources, particularly if they have families. . . . I have, accordingly, asked the administrator of veterans affairs to present to the Congress legislation both to provide more equitable treatment of needy veterans and to modernize the veterans' pension program in the light of social developments and changes . . .

Statehood for Hawaii and home rule for District of Columbia—I again recommend that the Congress enact legislation to admit Hawaii into the Union as a state, and to grant home rule to the District of Columbia. It would be unconscionable if either of these actions were delayed any longer.

Alaska—I am highly gratified to be the first president in 47 years to have had the privilege of welcoming a new state into the Union. Alaska takes its place as the equal of the other 48 states with both the privileges and responsibilities that go with statehood. Recommendations will be transmitted to the Congress concerning certain changes needed in federal law as a result of Alaska's admission to the Union in order to apply to Alaska the same general laws, rules, and policies as are applicable to other states . . .

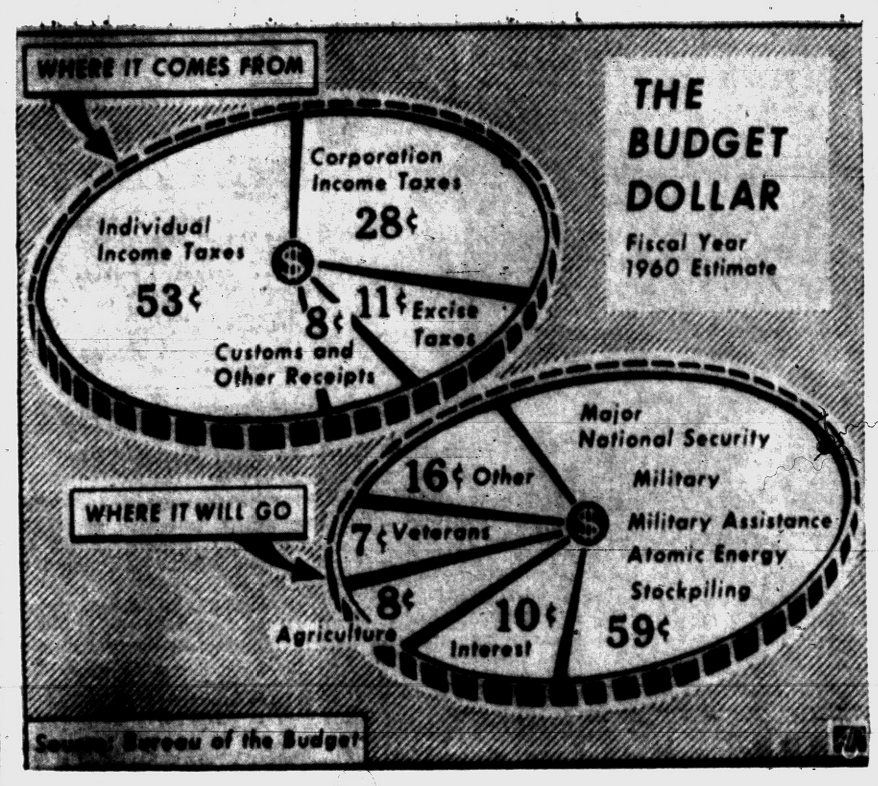

CONCLUSION

This budget is designed to serve the needs of the nation as a whole as effectively as possible. It rejects the philosophy that the national welfare is best served by satisfying every demand for federal expenditures.

Our objective, as a free nation, must be to prepare for the momentous decade ahead by entering the fiscal year 1960 with a world at peace, and with a strong and free economy as the prerequisite for healthy growth in the years to follow. This can be achieved through government actions which help foster private economic recovery and development, and which restrain the forces that would drive prices higher, and thereby cheapen our money and erode our personal savings. The first step is to avoid a budget deficit by having the government live within its means, especially during prosperous, peacetime periods.

The 1960 budget reflects our determination to do this.

Nearly 60 Cents in Dollar Goes for National Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 59½ cents out of each dollar in the new budget will go into national security — military costs here and abroad, atomic energy and stockpiling.

The next biggest share 10½ cents, will be paid as interest on the record federal debt.

★ ★ ★

The remaining 30 cents is cut into these slices:

8 cents for farm price supports and other farm programs.

7 cents for veterans.

5 cents for relief, health, education and welfare.

3 cents for commerce and housing.

★ ★ ★

3 cents for international affairs and finance.

2 cents for water, power and other resources.

2 cents for general government costs.

★ ★ ★

This is where the budget dollar comes from: 53 cents from the individual income taxpayer; 28 cents from the corporation tax; 11 cents from excises; 8 cents from customs and other receipts.

Budget Averages Out to $431 Per Person

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's new spending budget for fiscal 1960 adds up to $431 for every man, woman and child in the country.

★ ★ ★

This compares with estimated per capita spending of $460 in the current fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

President Eisenhower said he expects the national debt to be 285 billion dollars. Based on official estimates the population will total 178,700,000 in fiscal 1960, the per capita debt would be $1,594 a person.

Traffic-Dodging Man Nets Wrong License

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—John Broberg, TV station employe, lost his license plate while driving on a freeway. He heard it fall, but couldn't stop in the rush of traffic. So he drove sadly home.

Next day at the same spot, lo. . . license plate on the freeway. Traffic was lighter so he turned off, circled, and parked at freeway's edge.

Dashing daringly between cars he grabbed the plate, crushed it to his breast, and like a halfback threaded his way back to his car.

Glancing down, he saw the plate wasn't his.

Chiari Flies to Australia to Be With Ava Gardner

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Italian film actor Walter Chiari arrived in Melbourne yesterday to visit Ava Gardner after a 13,000-mile trip from Europe.

Miss Gardner is here making the movie of Nevil Shute's novel 'On the Beach," about the end of life on earth because of atomic radiation. She and Chiari have been going together for months.

"I think this shows foresight," said Stratton.

London Pictorial to Halt Series on Queen's Life

LONDON (AP)—The mass circulation Sunday Pictorial says it will publish no more chapters in its latest backstairs series about Queen Elizabeth's home life.

The tabloid came out last week with the first installment in a series by William Charles Ellis, for nine years superintendent of Windsor Castle. It was billed as an informal and affectionate account of the royal family's life.

★ ★ ★

The Royal Court though otherwise. Last Thursday a temporary injunction was issued on the Queen's behalf. It restrained Ellis from breaking the pledge now required of all palace employes that they will not write about the royal family after leaving its employ.

Hep Doctors Happily Mix Heartbeats and Jazz Beats

The man in white turned his head and said, "Scalpel. . .forceps . . .sponge. . .trumpet. . .trombone."

Well, it may be a bit exagerated but this was almost the way a band got its start one morning in surgery at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

It all took place several years ago and today the Poh-Cats, as they call themselves, are a solidly knit group still bouncing along at a sprightly tempo.

The band is not officially connected with the hospital administration. It is made up mainly of staff members at the hospital as an extra-curricular activity.

★ ★ ★

The man who sparked the whole idea was Dr. Ben Dickinson. While preparing for an operation that fateful morning, he mentioned to Dr. Audrey Lintz that he'd just bought a new trumpet.

Dr. Lintz was astounded. She didn't realize he even played a musical instrument. In fact, none of the members-to-be knew about the musical talents of their associates.

"I haven't played for years," said Dr. Lintz.

Dickinson responded with, "Oh? You play a musical instrument?"

"Well, I used to play piano," she said modestly.

★ ★ ★

And thus began a discussion about music which, interrupted only by the operation at hand, lasted through the lunch hour.

At lunch, another staff doctor, Donald E. Fraser, heard them and nostalgicly said, "I haven't had my horn out of the attic since my high school days."

Little did he realize that, with that statement, he had just become the first member of the sax section.

The idea began to blossom. Word got around that there was music in the air—even if it was a little rusty at first. Other doctors became interested and the band grew into an orchestra.

★ ★ ★

Most of the members had a common interest in jazz, so it was only natural that their first output of tunes fell into that field.

Gradually the band has grown to a 10-piece dance orchestra with a wide variety of selections in its "book."

Aside from the three members already mentioned, the lineup includes Dr. Douglas Hackett, sax and clarinet; Dr. R. Mark Todd, violin and baritone horn; and Dr. Jack Leve, drums.

Drs. Jerry Margolis and Walt Bradley, interns at the hospital, handle trombone and electric guitar duties, respectively. Frank Whitlow, the hospital's purchasing agent, is a cornetist with the group and Dr. Bud Yonkin, of Mt. Clemens, the only non-local member, rounds out the trombone section.

The group is non-union. "We're professionals only in the medical sense," says Dr. Dickinson.

★ ★ ★

"In a way we have a great advantage over professional musicians. Everyone is here for fun, we all know each other's limitations and if someone hits a sour note we laugh and forget about it."

The band has never charged a cent for its services. It plays almost exclusively for charity functions. Sometimes it may have several jobs a week, and often it won't have an engagement for a month or more. There is no set pattern.

As far as the music is concerned, the band uses stock arrangements. Its book no longer contains only jazz material, although the group occasionally swings out with a few hot numbers.

The theme song is "Melody Of Love" played in a Wayne King style that is far from jazz. During an evening the band will cover all types of music, from waltzes to up-tempo numbers like "Two O'clock Jump."

The outfit also makes an effort to keep up-to-date by including many pop songs currently on best seller lists.

★ ★ ★

It keeps in shape with weekly practice sessions at one of the member's homes. Occasionally they are honored by having professional musicians "sit in."

One, for example, is the famous jazz trumpeter Jimmy McPartland, a close friend of Dr. Dickinson, who after sitting in with the group one afternoon exclaimed, "Man, those cats really have a swingin' outfit. I had a ball."

McPartland knew why he "had a ball." He was playing with a band that had not forgotten for a moment that its original idea was to play for fun.

Wings Battle Worst Slump in History

Detroiters Now Only One Point From Basement

Rangers Triumph, 4-2 Before Booing Crowd at Olympia

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, champions of the National Hockey League eight times in the last 10 seasons, are battling the worst slump in the club's long and storied history.

"It's so bad," said Coach Sid Abel, "that we can't even blame our trouble on bad luck. We're just lousy — that's how simple it is."

The Red Wings bowed to the New York Rangers 4-2 last night. That makes it nine straight games without a victory for the once-mighty Detroiters, who have only one triumph in their last 15 games.

Only one point separates Detroit from the last-place Toronto Maple Leafs and for the first time in 17 seasons the Red Wings are in danger of not making the Stanley Cup playoffs.

★ ★ ★

"For a while there," said Abel, "we were making little mechanical errors, and the puck really wasn't bouncing our way. Now it is bouncing all right — but no one is thinking out there. We're all shook up, as they say, and we're stinking up the joint."

Abel, the generally-soft spoken guy who succeeded Jimmy Skinner last January, can find no remedy.

"We've tried extra practice, we've tried resting them, we've tried to talk and plead with them — I've played some bad hockey in my time, too, but this one really has me stumped," he said.

★ ★ ★

Attendance at Olympia Stadium always is good when the Red Wings are home, but now the fans are booing the players and some are publicly criticizing General Manager Jack Adams for trading so many players.

"Let 'em yell," Adams always fires back. "We'll be back up there."

Leading Montreal also fell a bit frustrated today after settling for two ties in its weekend action. The Canadiens played a 3-3 stand off with Boston Saturday and then a 1-1 deadlock with the Chicago Black Hawks last night.

★ ★ ★

Chicago beat the Rangers 7-1 Saturday while the Red Wings were losing to Toronto 2-1. Boston beat Toronto 4-3 in Sunday night's other action.

Montreal goalie Jacques Plante had a busy weekend with the pair of ties but a partisan crowd at Chicago last night almost brought down the house as Black Hawks goalie Glenn Hall stopped 30 Montreal shots.

★ ★ ★

Both teams scored in the third period, while Montreal lost Maurice Richard in the first stanza with an ankle injury of undetermined consequence.

Boston took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Vic Stasiuk, each with defenseman Tim Horton in the penalty box. Toronto also added a goal in the first period then worked until the Bruins took a 4-1 third period lead before coming to life.

Horton scored near the midway point and Ron Stewart added the third with four seconds remaining.

Royals Beat Detroit, 107-88

Even 'Cousins' Rap Pistons

CINCINNATI (AP) — Those family gatherings the Detroit Pistons have been holding apparently haven't had much effect on their Cincinnati cousins.

The Pistons had found Cincinnati real friendly this season, winning six of the first seven meetings. But yesterday the Royals turned on their tormentors and won 107-88.

The defeat kept the Pistons winless since coach Red Rocha called the first of a series of team meetings last Wednesday night to iron out club difficulties.

Since then Detroit has lost two games — its first game this season to Philadelphia Saturday 106-104 and yesterday to the Royals.

About the only positive result from the team huddles had been the gradual return to form of George Yardley. The National Basketball Assn.'s slumping 1958 scoring leader put two productive games back-to-back for the first time in several weeks.

Yardley tallied 20 points against Cincinnati after his 22-point output against Philadelphia.

The Royals, out to avenge a 32-point licking last week by Detroit, started quickly yesterday. They held a commanding 17-point lead at halftime and added to it after intermission. Only in the fourth quarter, after the game was out of reach, could the Pistons outscore their revived opponents.

Walt Dukes topped the Piston's scoring with 26 points. Yardley and Phil Jordon, with 12 points, were the only other Detroiters to hit double figures. The Royals, in contrast, had seven men with 11 or more points headed by Archie Dees with 18.

Fighting almost broke out in the second period when play became tight under the baskets. But the officials had matters under control until the fourth quarter. Then Cincinnati's Wayne Embrey had brief skirmishes with Duke and Shellie McMillon.

★ ★ ★

Detroit stayed 11½ games behind the St. Louis Hawks, leaders of the Western Division, who were defeated 139-117 by the Boston Celtics, leaders of the Eastern Division. Bill Sharman had 36 points for Boston.

In other NBA games yesterday, New York beat Syracuse 120-118 and Minneapolis, headed by Elgin Baylor's 30 points, whipped Philadelphia 119-98.

The Pistons are idle until Wednesday when they play at Philadelphia.

Men Fail to Place at State Tourney

City Women Elks Leaders

Two Pontiac teams were leading the way in that department but visiting keglers held the edge in every other division today following the first weekend of activity in the 2nd Elks Ladies National Invitational Bowling Tournament being held here.

Meanwhile, three Pontiac teams failed to place among the leaders as the Men's State Elks event got under way at Ann Arbor.

The Question Marks hit 2927 and Vasbinder Inc. hit 2888 to head the team list which had two other city entries among the top 10 women's contingents.

Mrs. Helen Lavey, of Jackson, President of the Michigan State Elks Ladies Bowling Association, and her sister, Mrs. F. Beattie of Detroit teamed to take the early doubles lead with a 1236 total sparked by the top game of 131.

★ ★ ★

Alice Havranek of Royal Oak led the singles with a sparkling 704 featuring a big 273 game. Dorothy Kovlach of Battle Creek tops the all-events actual scores with 1556. Evelyn Jacob of the same city compiled the best handicap total of 1852.

Mrs. Lavey had been one of the key figures in the opening program for the tourney when she and Pontiac Mayor Philip Rowston rolled the 1st balls. Exalted Ruler Don Wilson, Invitational director Don Long, Past Exalted Rulers Thomas Gilliotte, Frank Mitzel, secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, and officers of the Pontiac Women's Bowling Association and Elks Ladies Association also took part.

The tournament, which was dominated by local contestants last season, will continue for three more weekends.

★ ★ ★

A team made up of men 65 and over led a Pontiac trio at Ann Arbor with 2739. "Cap" Holliday's 70 and over unit rolled 2650 and Donelson & John totaled 2587.

Dick Huck and Bill Rick combined for the best doubles score of 1132 followed by P. Miller-D. Coleman 1106.

Rick had the best singles tally of 601. Frank Gooden hit 584, Carl Keller 582 and Huck 578.

★ ★ ★

Ferndale bowlers stole the show at the Men's State opening. Ken's Market became the early team pacesetter with 2933. Ray Buckner and Larry Montage bowled 1278 for 1st in doubles and Dick LaBelle captured the lead in all-events with 1666. Owosso's Marv Wietzke is tops in singles at 659.

There are eight more weeks to go at Ann Abor.

Baseball Party a Big Success

CHICAGO (AP) — An overflow crowd of more than 900 persons, including numerous baseball dignitaries Sunday night turned the 19th annual Chicago Baseball Writers' diamond dinner into one of the most successful in history.

Outgoing President Will Harridge of the American League, President Warren Giles of the National League and General Managers Frank Lane of Cleveland, George Weiss of the New York Yankees and Gabe Paul of Cincinnati were on hand.

However, there was no business conducted in the line of possible trades.

Wall $6,000 Richer After Crosby Triumph

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Despite a $6,000 victory in the Bing Crosby golf tournament, Art Wall Jr. may look up his pro golfing buddies for a little help.

Wall carded a final nine of 41 while Gene Littler was closing fast. Only a shot hooked into the Pacific Ocean on the 18th removed the San Diego battler from contention.

He was nine down and in third place when the pair started the final eight holes. By the 18th he was only one down.

Littler came to the par five 540-yard hole with Wall anything but sharp. He had three-putted both the 16th and 17th.

But with a national television audience looking on Littler hit his drive, then hooked his second shot into the ocean. He said he was not pressing, that he was trying for position for a good approach.

The TV program time ran out before the golfers putted but viewers must have known who would win.

Wall took a six and won with a total 279 after shooting 34-41—75 for the day. Littler and Jimmy Demaret, who started the day in second place, tied for second place with 281 and $2,150 apiece.

★ ★ ★

Wall won $4,000 for the individual pro and $2,000 for low pro-amateur score—252—with national amateur champ Charles Coe. Littler added $1,200 to his haul as he and Art Anderson of Hollywood finished third in the pro-am with 250.

The big haul gave Wall $9,970 for three tournaments this year.

He said, however, he was worried about his recent bad finishes. He finished second at Los Angeles and tied for 12th at Tijuana.

Asked about his feelings when Littler shot into the drink, Wall said: "I don't wish the man any bad luck, but it made me feel better."

Wally Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich., finished in a tie for 27th place with a 70-77-70-76—293. Burkemo won $164.55 in the 72-hole tournament.

In the pro-amateur, Fred Kammer Jr. of Grosse Pointe, Mich., teamed with Gardner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla., for an eighth place finish at 67-64-65-67—263. William Ford of Grosse Pointe and George Fazio of Flourtown, Pa., combined for a 268 in the pro-amateur and John Miles of Detroit and John Pott of Shreveport, La., finished with a 269.

Hope Has 7-0 Mark in MIAA

Heavy League Card for State Colleges

By The Associated Press

Michigan's small college teams returned to heavy conference basketball competition over the week end.

In four Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. games, Hope routed Olivet 100-54; Kalamazoo downed Hillsdale 69-57; Alma stopped Ferris 73-51; and Adrian edged Albion 79-77.

Michigan teams split in interstate intercollegiate Athletic conference play with Eastern Michigan defeating Eastern Illinois 79-65 and Southern Illinois stopping Central Michigan 92-75.

Marshall downed Western Michigan 91-65 in a Mid-American conference game and in non-conference play Northern Michigan stopped Detroit Tech 52-46.

★ ★ ★

Vince Giles connected for 33 points in Adrian's close victory over Albion. Giles scored eight quick points in the first half to give Adrian a narrow lead it never relinquished.

Alma held a 34-23 halftime lead in its rout of Ferris Institute for its 10th victory in 16 starts this year. Ferris Saxton had 20 points for the winners.

Hope jumped to a 19-0 lead over Olivet in posting its 7th straight MIAA victory. The dutchmen used their first unit less than half the game. MIAA scoring leader Paul Benes, with an average of 23.1 points in league play, collected only eight for Hope in the one-sided contest. He played only eight minutes.

★ ★ ★

Kalamazoo held Hillsdale to five points in the last 8½ minutes in a comeback victory. The Dales had a 52-50 lead but lost the scoring range and were held to two field goals and a free throw by Kalamazoo's defense.

Tom Mackenzie hit for 20 points in Eastern Michigan IIAC victory over Eastern Illinois. It was Eastern Michigan's first conference-triumph since Feb. 28, 1957. Eastern now has a 1-4 league record. Eastern Illinois now is 2-3 in conference competition.

★ ★ ★

Seymour Bryson poured in 29 points and led Southern Illinois to its IIAC victory over Central Michigan. Gary Lee was high scorer for Central with 21 points. It was Central's ninth defeat in 10 starts this year.

★ ★ ★

George Albeck and Dave Jhiardi paced Northern Michigan to its non-conference victory over Detroit Tech with nine points each. Northern and Tech were tied 27-27 at the half. The victory was Tech's eighth in 10 starts.

★ ★ ★

Traverse City defeated Battle Creek 72-66 in a Community College game and Michigan State, with an off night in Big Ten play, stopped a team of former MSU players 63-56 in overtime.

Rochester vs. Spencer Team Which Won 2 Over Weekend

The Rochester Royals and Spencer Floor Covering meet tonight to decide Thursday's Class A finalist which will oppose the Fisher Hill Merchants in one of a pair of championship games in the City Junior Hockey tournament.

Pontiac Northern B and Bulman's are matched for the Class B crown.

Spencer gained a shot at the title with successive victories Saturday and Sunday. Jim Smith shut out Sylvan Lake 6-0 and held Standard Forge to one goal in an 8-1 contest as Jim Dickson scored a hat trick each day. The Royals bowed to Fisher Hill Saturday 2-1 in overtime as Jim Atkinson made both the winner's tallies. Standard Forge won by forfeit over Huron Valley Boys Club.

Northern moved into the finals by blanking the Thunderbirds Saturday. Neil Pender's two goals and Wendell Oak's work in the nets led the way. The Thunderbirds had advanced by nipping Jim's Hardware 4-3 in a 40-minute overtime earlier with Jim Dawson the hero.

BEST-IN-SHOW — Top dog at the winter all-breed show held Sunday by Pontiac Kennel Club, is the handsome English springer spaniel, Salilyn's MacDuff, owned by Mrs. F. H. Gasow of Birmingham, who accepted The Pontiac Press trophy, from The Press' H. Guy Moats. The victory was Salilyn's 2nd best-in-show in two days.

Birmingham Dog Wins Press Award

By H. GUY MOATS

Four-year-old Salilyn's MacDuff, handsome English springer spaniel went best-in-show yesterday at the winter show held by Pontiac Kennel Club, Mrs. F. H. Gasow of Birmingham. MacDuff's owner, was doubly proud of her fine spaniel's victory for it was the 2nd best-in-show in two days. MacDuff also took top honors in the Detroit Progressive Dog Club's show on Saturday, and competed again Sunday, against most of the same top dogs. He won The Press best-in-show trophy.

Salilyn's MacDuff was handled both days by Dick Cooper who brought him along to the country's top breed winner in his group during the last year and in 1957. He scored five "bests" and 31 groups last year.

Mrs. Gasow was very proud of her dog's wins, and remarked when she received The Press trophy "I'm delighted to get this fine award. It'll go along with a number of other Press awards our dogs have won in other years."

★ ★ ★

The Birmingham entry, one of 488 dogs in the show, at the Pontiac Retail Store, had to beat off competition from five other group winners, characterized by best-in-show judge, Dr. A. A. Mitten of Rockhall, Md. as some of the finest dogs he had ever judged. "It was a difficult job, with the fine Kerry Blue terrier a very close next choice."

Junior showmanship competition and an obedience trial provided added interest for the large gallery that witnessed the day-long judging in the unbenched show. PKC officials said it was a "very successful" event.

Group winners included:

Sporting breeds — Salilyn's MacDuff (Mrs. Gasow).

Hounds — Sandiarl's Randver, Norwegian elkhound (Richard Sanderson, Lansing); Basset, Ch. Siefenjagenheim Lazy Bones (Chris Teeter, Birmingham).

Working group — Shetland sheepdog, Thistlerose Arcwood Alladin (John Patricia Hay, White Bear Lake, Minn.); Ken Ho Lady of Velvet, rc. collie (Kenneth Howling, Ypsilanti).

Terriers — Kerry blue, Tailtean's No Regret (Mr. Eileen McEachren, Ontario).

Toys — Ch. Blaylock's Mar-Ma-Duke, pug (Gordon Winders, Skokie, Ill.).

Non-sporting — Ch. McNeil's Jeeper Jackie, French bulldog (Mrs. Ralph West, Livonia).

No More 'Incidents' Assured

Lakers' Boss Raps Royals

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Laker management promised Negro ace Elgin Baylor today there would be no repetition of a racial incident in Charleston, W.Va. as long as the Lakers have any voice in the matter.

★ ★ ★

Baylor got back into uniform yesterday and gave fresh evidence of his value to an otherwise punchless basketball club. The big rookie hit 30 points in the Lakers' 119-98 conquest of Philadelphia here.

★ ★ ★

"We've told him we would see to it this never happens again," said Laker President Bob Short.

Short centered his displeasure on President Tom Grace of the Cincinnati Royals, the team Minneapolis played at Charleston. He said the Royals gave him their assurance there would be no problem over segregation in Charleston.

Because there was, Short wants the National Basketball Assn. to declare the game "no contest." Cincinnati says it doesn't follow Short's reasoning and doesn't see any reason why the game shouldn't count.

Norman Evaluates Tigers of 1959

Stronger Relief Pitching Seen as Big Factor

Bengal Manager Hopes Help Will Come From Promising Youngsters

By BILL NORMAN
Manager, Detroit Tigers

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — You have to crawl before you walk; you have to walk before you run. And the Tigers will have to get into the first division before they can challenge the New York Yankees for the pennant.

It isn't going to be easy because the Cleveland Indians, who edged us for the fourth slot last season, will be an improved ball club. Herb Score holds the key to their success.

★ ★ ★

I think the acquisition of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi, a pair of fine reliefers, will give our bullpen needed depth. Eddie Yost and Rocky Bridges, whom we also received in trades, would be my third baseman and shortstop respectively if I had to name a lineup for a game tomorrow.

The rest of that lineup would have Gail Harris on first, Frank Bolling on second, Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline in two outfield spots and Charley Maxwell, Johnny Francona or Gus Zernial in the other. Our catcher would be Bob Wilson, Charley Lau or Lou Berberet.

★ ★ ★

Punch, or the lack of it, was one of our biggest problems last year. We were second in the league in hitting, but we were singles-hitters. Another league-leading shows we lost 30 games by one run.

We were third in the league in pitching but we were last in double-plays, a pretty good indication that our pitchers had to rely almost entirely on their own arms to get out of jams.

Our bright spot last season, incidentally, was our pitching. Fine work by Jim Bunning, Paul Foytack, Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft kept us as far up in the standings as we finished. With Narleski and Mossi we'll be in a far better situation as far as relief help is concerned.

What we really need is an improved defense and a big bat. Nobody on our club drove in as many as 90 runs last year.

That big bat might well come from some of the promising youngsters we'll have in training camp. Kids like Steve Demeter, a third baseman, and outfielders Larry Osborne and Ken Walters might make the big jump to the Majors.

St. John's, Kentucky, Cincinnati Roll Along

'Redmen' Back in Limelight

By United Press International

St. John's of New York, responding once again to the magic touch of old-Celtic Joe Lapchick, has raised New York City basketball prestige to its highest level since the college scandals of 1952.

A smashing 97-72 victory over St. Joseph's at Philadelphia Saturday night wiped out all doubts of St. John's right to a national ranking.

St. John's victory was easily the most significant of a Saturday night program on which six of the seven teams rated among the top 10 won. The lone loser was ninth-ranked Northwestern, which bowed to Ohio State 88-72 in a typical Big Ten conference upset.

Kentucky beat Tennessee 79-58, second-ranked North Carolina State topped Wake Forest 64-59, third-ranked Kansas State defeated Missouri 75-60, fifth-ranked Cincinnati whipped Drake 97-60, and seventh-ranked Auburn shaded Alabama 57-55 in other games involving the top 10.

Kentucky's 14th victory in 15 games this season also marked the 598th win of coach Adolph Rupp and Auburn's win extended the longest major college unbeaten streak to 22 games—11 this season and 11 last season. St. Bonaventure, the only other major unbeaten, downed Canisius 86-79.

★ ★ ★

Alan Seiden led St. John's scoring with 31 points and sophomore sensation Tony Jackson added 28. St. John's was ahead 50-38 at halftime and never seriously threatened in the second half.

Sid Cohen, an import from Brooklyn, scored 14 points in the second half to lead Kentucky; John Richter's 15 points led North Carolina State, which did not take command against Wake Forest until the last seven minutes; Bob Boozer's 30 points sparked Kansas State and Oscar Robertson connected for 40 points as Cincinnati romped against Drake. Robertson tallied on 17 of 26 field goal tries and has scored 390 points in 12 games for a 32.5 average.

Here's the situation in various major conferences:

SOUTHEASTERN: Auburn 4-0 after squeaker with Alabama; Kentucky and Mississippi State tied for second place at 4-1 each. Championship race is between latter pair because Auburn is ineligible.

SOUTHERN: West Virginia leads with 6-0 league mark and 13-3 overall. Virginia Tech is 4-1 in league and 9-3 overall.

ATLANTIC COAST: North Carolina, idle Saturday, still leads at 5-0 with North Carolina State second with 6-1 record. North Caroline is 10-1 overall while State is 12-2.

BIG TEN: Michigan and Illinois tied at 3-1 and there'll be a four-way tie for the lead if Michigan State beats Ohio State and Minnesota beats Northwestern tonight.

MISSOURI VALLEY: Cincinnati 5-0 after smashing victory over Drake; Bradley, idle Saturday, is 3-1 and St. Louis is 2-1. Overall records of three teams are 10-2, 11-2 and 10-2 respectively.

Bluth Compiles Record, but Welu Wins All-Star

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—It was a tough one to lose.

Ray Bluth fired a record average of 214.56 for 100 games in the grueling All-Star bowling tournament. He set pinfall records for the qualifier and the final.

★ ★ ★

But when they handed out the championship trophy and the $5,000 cash prize for first place last night, it was Billy Welu, the towering transplanted Texan, who stepped forward to accept the awards. Bluth was second.

The match-game tournament puts a premium on clutch bowling and Welu, 26, was tough when it counted.

Although Bluth, 31, spilled a record 13,726 pins in the 64-game final, while Welu had 13,448, Welu won the 18th annual tournament by the simple process of winning games.

The pressure was on full force when he outscored Bluth, 210-197, in the final game of the tournament to cut short Bluth's late rally.

★ ★ ★

Going into the last game, Welu had a slim nine pin margin. Splits put him in trouble in the second and third frames but — with his back to the wall — he hammered five consecutive strikes to win the game and the championship.

★ ★ ★

Welu, a member of the St. Louis Falstaff's finished with 311-48 Petersen points, winnig 43 games while losing 21. Bluth had 310-26 points as he compiled a 36-28 record. Bluth is also from St. Louis.

The defending champion, Don Carter of St. Louis, was fourth with 307-05 points. Lou Campi of Dumont, N.J., was third with 310-07.

★ ★ ★

Under the Petersen point system, each bowler got one point for every game he won plus one point for every 50 pins he knocked down. Half-points were given for ties.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., won her seventh championship in the women's division. She averages 201 for 32 games and scored 149-33 Petersen points.

Donna Zimmermann of Akron, Ohio, was second with 143-00.

Four Michigan entrants were in the money. They were Joe Joseph of Lansing, whose 5th place finish was worth $800; Bob Hitt of Livonia, who tied for 8th and won $612.50; Robert Kwiecien of Fraser, 10th and $575; and Fred Riccilli of Detroit, 13th and $530.

Three other Michigan women finished in the money. Marge Merrick of Detroit was 8th and won $275; Elvira Toepfer of Detroit finished 11th, winning $230; and Eloise Vanfest of Grand Rapids was 15th, and won $205.

Ottawa 'Swaps' Duncan

OTTAWA (AP) — The Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football Union traded negotiation rights for Iowa All America quarterback Randy Duncan to the British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Ottawa will get a British Columbia Canadian College draft choice, and if Duncan signs with the Lions, an undisclosed amount of money and perhaps another player.

Frontier Justice Unique in American Rebellions

'War Crime' Trials New in Latin Revolutions

The rise and fall of Latin American dictatorships in recent years has been splotched with bloodshed but the mass "war crimes" trials and executions in post-Batista Cuba are without precedent in the Western Hemisphere.

* * *

Personal vendettas, party slayings, lynchings and stabbings and shootings by mobs, looting and pillage by conquerors, legal and illegal seizing of opposition property — all have had their place in Latin American revolutions.

In Colombia an estimated 150,000 to 200,000 persons have met violent death since 1949. And today, 20 months have the overthrow of Dictator Gusavo Rojas Pinilla, the killing still is going on in a large section of the country.

* * *

But the "frontier justice" being dispatched by Fidel Castro's revolutionaries in Cuba is unique in modern American rebellions.

In the first place, the trials and executions are being held in the full glare of worldwide publicity. Castro and his cohorts, far from attempting to hide them, have permitted newsmen, photographers and television and movie cameramen to witness them.

Secondly, Castro wasted no time meting out his revolutionary punishment. President Fulgencio Batista's government fell Jan. 1. In two weeks the confirmed number of executed Batista men topped the 200 mark.

Third, the trial courts are composed of Castro's revolutionary soldiers. Many are young men. For most of them, little is known of their judicial experience or ability.

* * *

All of this was missing when Marcos Perez Jiminez was overthrown in Venezuela last January, when Juan D. Peron was crushed in 1955 in Argentina, wher Jacobo Arbenz Guzman was defeated in Guatemala in 1954, when Rojas Pinilla was felled in 1957 in Colombia.

* * *

In fact, there is not even a precedent in previous Cuban revolutions.

The last Cuban dictator who had anything like Batista's power was Gerardo Machado who ruled the country from 1925 to 1933.

* * *

He was ousted by a military coup in the middle of a two year period —1932-34—in which there was more anarchy than law and order. Lawless mobs held great areas of the island while army mutineers held the capital.

AP Wirephoto

"DIAMONDS ARE . . ."—And you take it from there as Zsa Zsa Gabor holds up her hand to show the huge one she's wearing. It is from builder Hal B. Hayes who smiles beside her as they leave the 21 Club in New York after lunch. Zsa Zsa, who has been married three times, will wed Hayes, of Beverly Hills, Calif., "in about three months."

Oldtimers in Cuba say the killings that followed Machado's downfall were far greater in number — were accomplished without trials — than the executions being conducted by the Castro regime.

Legal sources contest the parallel Castro's revolutionaries attempt to draw between the Cuban military trials and the Nuremburg trials of German war criminals after World War II.

They point out that the Nuremburg trials were conducted by legal and judicial experts, months and even years after the war, and on the basis of carefully assembled evidence and witnesses.

Castro defenders give two prime reasons for the type and speed of the Cuban "war crimes" trials.

* * *

First, they say, Batista's army and secret police repressed opposition with such savagery — much worse than dictators of other Latin American countries — that if the revolutionary courts did not condemn them the people might take matters into their own hands and this would breed anarchy.

Secondly, it has to be done speedily, they say, before the exiled Batista has an opportunity to rally his forces and attempt a comeback.

* * *

Raul Castro contended in an interview in Santiago with United Press International this week that mass graves being discovered by the rebels were yielding hundreds of corpses of Batista enemies, some mutilated.

10,000 SLAIN

He estimated 10,000 persons had been slain by Batista men since Batista ousted President Carlos Prio Socarras in 1952.

There was no such parallel of slayings in Guatemala under Arbenz Guzman or in Venezuela under Perez Jimenez or in Argentina under Peron.

In Colombia, one of the most Democratic and law-abiding countries in Latin America up to 1949, Rojas Pinillas now has been charged with crimes he allegedly committed during his regime and will be tried by the senate.

This could lead to trials for other Rojas Pinillas henchmen. But there will be no executions. The death penalty is outlawed in Colombia.

One of the factors common to Venezuela, Colombia and Argentina that prevented immediate, retaliatory retribution was the fact that military men who had served under the dictators took over the governments in each case. Since, all three have had free, democratic elections.

* * *

In Guatemala, Carlos Castillo Armas also had been a leading military figure before he fled into exile and then returned as a conqueror.

In Cuba, an attempt to set up a military junta failed and the rebels moved into power immediately, preventing any transitional power from acting as a buffer between the old and the new.

In Argentina, after Peron's downfall, those military men accused of collaborating with the dictator were tried and sentenced by their own military tribunals. Some of these trials are still going on but none of the accused has been executed.

An abortive uprising by Peronistas about seven months after the fall of their leader resulted in the deaths of 40 of them and shortly before Arturo Frondizi took over as president last year about 600 Peronista union leaders were arrested for troublemaking.

But there was nothing on the scale of the Cuban revolutionary reaction.

Harvester Co. Resumes Work

67-Day Strike Ends as UAW Members OK 3-Year Contract

CHICAGO (AP) — Most of the International Harvester Co. plants resume operations today, marking the end of a 67-day strike by some 37,000 United Auto Workers against the big farm implement firm.

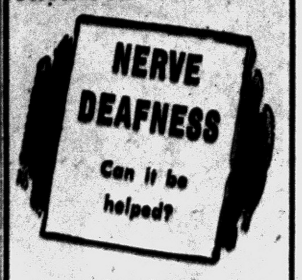

* * *

The union's rank and file members ratified a new three-year contract over the weekend, formally ending the long and costly strike. Seymour Kahan, international representative of the UAW's Harvester department, said the voting by members of 33 union locals showed about 90 per cent favored acceptance.

* * *

The contract agreement was first reached last Wednesday by negotiators for the company and union. On Friday the UAW Harvester Council, delegates from 33 locals at 15 Harvester plants and 10 depots and warehouses, approved it.

CHAPTER XXX

Angus walked to the top of the steps and watched them as they settled themselves. Mr. Zoller handed his wife in, waited to count the pieces of luggage and tip the boys, and then got into the car beside his wife. He raised a hand in farewell and then they had gone.

Angus turned and went into the office. It did not take long to confirm what he knew already; no message had come to the hotel since the day before.

There was no possibility that Mr. Zoller had met and bribed a member of the taff. Breakfast had been taken to his room at an early hour and the maid had remained to help Mrs. Zoller with her packing. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Zoller had left their room until they went downstairs to the car.

Angus walked thoughtfully upstairs and entered the room they occupied. Maids were at work clearing the beds, and he walked out on to the wide balcony and stood trying to guess what had made husband and wife depart so abruptly.

He waited for ideas, and none came. If anybody needed a detective's stooge, he thought morosely, he could give an entirely natural performance.

The sun slanted on to the balcony. On one side of the low dividing wall was the balcony of Miss Seton's room, on the other, Mr. Holt's. No sound came from Miss Seton's side, but the clink of cups suggested that Mr. Holt was having his coffee.

For a moment, Angus thought of going in to see him. Here was another inexplicable incident, perhaps Mr. Holt would see the connecting thread running through this one too.

★ ★ ★

Instead of going to Mr. Holt's room, he went to Angela's. She was not there, and he went in search of her and found her at last in the small, wall-enclosed garden.

He took her wrists, holding her prisoner, and bent and put his lips on hers. The garden was cool and deserted and peaceful, and the worry in his mind died away, leaving him calm and at ease.

She drew away at last, took a deep breath and looked at him.

"Your breakfast must have agreed with you," she said. "Tell me what it was, and I'll have it on your plate every morning when we're married."

He looked down at her, his expression sober.

"I love you," he said. "I don't care whether it's madness or not, or whether it's taking advantage of your kindness of heart or not. I love you. I don't know anything about Canada, but if you're there, it'll be all right. If we're poor, we're poor.

"If I'm taking you from a gold-plated past to a tin-plated future, I'll try to make it up to you. I'll work for you. I'll love you all my life. I'll take care of you. I'll be a good father to our children, and to the end of my days I'll remember that it was your courage that brought us together. When can we be married?"

'YOU MOVE FAST'

"When you start moving, you move fast," she commented, and quoted softly:

"'How is it you're so early of late? You used to be behind before, but now you're first, at last.'"

"When will you marry me?"

"Now. There's just one thing —"

"Well?"

"You won't get any silly ideas about leaving me behind while you make a home for me over there? I couldn't bear it if you went off and—"

He frowned.

"That reminds me."

"Of what?"

"The Zollers. They went off."

"Went off where?"

"They hired a car and left for Lisbon. He said he'd been sent for in a hurry. He said something about an urgent message, but it was a lie. I checked. I came down just in time to see them going off. He'd made all the arrangements, and there was nothing for me to do but stand there like a fool and wave them good-by."

"They didn't make any complaints?"

"None. He even went so far as to say he'd be making the return trip in an Empress, but . . ."

"But what?"

"I don't know. I feel that if only I could see it, this would be tied up with all the other things that have happened on the trip. Holt says there's a connecting link."

She led him to a bench and drew him down beside her.

"Sort it out," she suggested. "Begin at the beginning and then perhaps it'll clear itself up as you talk. My father says that articulation leads to clarification. Say it all, just as though I weren't a passenger."

"You won't discuss it with any of the others?"

"Cut my throat."

'THERE'S A CONNECTION'

"Well, it's all completely unrelated, as far as I can see, but I'm coming round to Holt's idea. There must be some sort of connection. It can't just be a series of misadventures."

"Where do you think it began?"

"The night Miss Seton got a telephone message. Not night, early morning, about two. I took her down to the phone and waited for her while she took the call. It was bad news, but I didn't know what kind."

"Is that why she turned so quiet?"

"Yes. Then somebody tried to get into the garage; you and the Admiral came along just as Ferdy was telling me about it. Then Tarrant tried to climb through the garage window."

"Maurice did?"

"Yes. Ferdy tried to catch him, but all he succeeded in doing was hitting him on the wrist with a torch—and that's how I found out it was Tarrant. I saw the mark on his wrist."

"Then?"

"Then the dispatch case disappeared—and was pushed into your father's room. Then Tarrant's luggage went. Somebody put a note on my table—unsigned—telling me where to find it. It's hopeless to try to get anything out of Tarrant, but Holt seems to know something, and won't tell me what it is, because I'd have to report it to the company.

"He said, in effect, that I wasn't responsible for anythhing that took place outside my sphere of duty. I felt that he was right, and I made up my mind not to worry about it—and then Mr. Zoller talked to me about changing his room, and this morning made up a lying excuse and left.

★ ★ ★

"It can't just be one damned thing after another. They're not isolated incidents, they're connected. They're related."

There was silence.

"It's easy," said Angela slowly at last, "to let one's imagination run away. Mine did at the beginning of the trip, when I couldn't discover what was making my father so depressed. I found that I was beginning to . . . well, to work myself up. I had to shake myself out of it and tell myself that if I could do anything, he'd tell me—and unti lhe said something, it was useless to imagine this and that. And I think the same goes for you. Don't try to fit the pieces together. Do as Mr. Holt said: Don't make them your business unless or until you have to."

He frowned.

"Did you really worry seriously about your father?"

★ ★ ★

"Yes. He was—and still is—completely unlike himself. As a rule he's—he's amusing, and interesting and tremendous fun to be with. But now . . . he's gone off somewhere by himself. He broods nearly all the time. He dreams, and he loses the thread of what he's saying. I wouldn't mind that, if he didn't look so unhappy. If you look at him when he doesn't know you're looking, you see that he's . . ."

★ ★ ★

"How long has he been like this?"

"Since he came home from Greece. He was there for a month—not on a one-day thing like this present job, but a long and I think much more important mission."

"Couldn't he be suffering from strain?"

"I thought so, but he seemed perfectly all right for a time—and then just before we came on this trip, he seemed to get miserable again."

Tiny Electronic Tuner May Find Many Uses

LOS ANGELES—A Los Angeles firm has introduced a tiny electronic component no bigger than a teardrop, that can do a job similar to that of one tuning capacitator used in AM and FM receivers. In one application, used with a resistor and a mica capacitator, it performed the same function as 24 other parts.

★ ★ ★

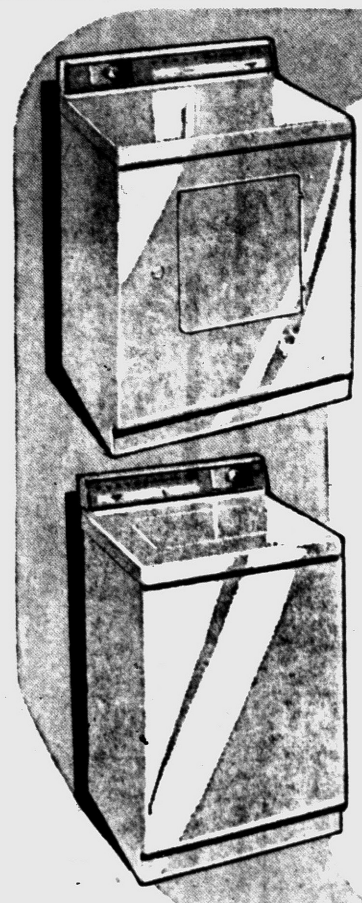

Because it saves so much space, it is expected to find wide use in tuning and modulation of frequencies in FM receivers and transmitters, telemetering, missle control, and miniaturized communications systems.

A United Nations survey, covering 65 countries, indicates that about 44 per cent of the world's people over 15 years of age — or a total of 700,000,000 — are still illiterate.

With only about six per cent of the world's population, the United States has an estimated 75 per cent of the world's total motor vehicles, according to industrial records.

No Smog Device Needed in L. A.

DETROIT (UPI) — Los Angeles residents don't need a special device to cut down the amount of smog-causing elements emitted in the exhaust from their cars, three Chrysler Corp. engineers said today.

W. S. Fagley, M. V. Sink and C. M. Heinem, Chrysler engineers who conducted a survey of the effect of automotive maintenance on the emission of smog-causing exhaust fumes, said Los Angeles residents could cut down on the fumes and save gas at the same time.

All they have to do, the engineers said, is to keep their cars in good running condition.

The Chrysler engineers substituted ignition parts from a new car for those of an older car used in their test. The result was a greatly reduced amount of smog causing elements flowing from the exhaust pipe of the car, they said.

★ ★ ★

"A wide range of emissions result from modification of the carburetor idle adjustment," they said. "Cars which had the carburetor idle adjusted properly emitted far less noxious fumes than those which hadn't been maintained properly."

MAINTENANCE IMPORTANT

Proper maintenance will not only reduce emission of the smog causing elements in exhaust fumes but will give the car far better gasoline economy, they said.

Fouled spark plugs and valves also cause greater emission of smog-causing elements and reduce gasoline economy, they said.

★ ★ ★

Although proper maintenance may not reduce smog as much as specially-designed devices which burn up gasoline vastes in the exhaust system, it is an extremely practical means of getting at the problem, they said.

The engineering trio suggested the procedures they used in their survey might be used by Los Angeles officials to inspect vehicles driven in the area in an effect to control exhaust fumes until a better method can be developed for practical use.

★ ★ ★

"The methods used could be developed into a rapid and practical means of inspecting vehicles to ascertain car condition and to determine whether maintenance is required to reduce emissions," they said.

The methods used included comparing data from test cars with that from a regularly maintained service fleet of company vehicles.

The volume of exhaust emitted, the engineers said, determines the amount of pollution caused by the car. This means, they said, a large car will generally cause more pollution than a small one.

But a well-maintained large car might emit a smaller volume of exhaust than a smaller one and, therefore, be less of a hazard than the smaller car.

Suit's Suit Suits Judge Just Fine

MUSKEGON (UPI) — A circuit judge has denied a motion to dismiss a $2,500 damage suit by a Muskegon housewife who claims her new bathing suit became transparent the first time she wore it in the water.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge Noel P. Fox ruled a suit filed by Mrs. Donna Dibble, 25, against a dress shop indicated a "valid breach of warranty" and contained "suficient evidence of invasion of privacy."

In her law suit, the 5-foot-2 blonde said she was "humiliated, embarrassed and publicly disgraced" when she went swimming in the bathing suit in Lake Michigan July 19, 1957.

Mrs. Dibble contends the suit became transparent as soon as it got wet, but that she was not aware of what had happened until she left the water and other persons on the beach began "calling and staring and pointing (at her) . . . in a shocked manner."

★ ★ ★

She said she plunged back into the water and waited until her sister brought her a robe.

Top Virginia Court to Rule on Integration

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia's prolonged, and so far successful struggle to thwart integration in its public schools faced another test today.

★ ★ ★

The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals was to hand down a decision on the validity of the state's anti-integration laws. The ruling will help determine Virginia's future course in the school crisis.

A three-judge federal court at Norfolk was to disclose its ruling in a test of the law under which six white high and junior high schools were closed in Norfolk last September, idling 10,000 students.

Arizona Director Brands Rattlers

Tests to Learn Habits, Check Homing Instinct, of Diamondbacks

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Desert trekkers who come across curious numbered rocks around here would do well to approach with caution. Chances are they are the sites of the wierdest roundup and branding operations in the history of Arizona.

Arthur E. Damman, assistant director of the poisonous animals research laboratory at Arizona State College at Tempe, is conducting a unique experiment. He tattoos a number on a rattlesnake and then paints the same number above the rattler's den.

His purpose is to find out if the rattler has a homing instinct which brings it back through its lifetime to the den in which it was born. He believes his experiments can prove beneficial to science and help dispel some aversion toward the critters.

Damman has spent three years testing his theory. He studied the ancient Polynesian skin-art to learn how to etch identifying marks on snakes' bellies in a way that would not wear off.

Forty miles east of Phoenix, Damman selects several rock piles where the diamond-backs congregate. Outside den entrances he paints large white numbers. In the summer he selects several specimens and etches on their bellies the number of the den. In winters he has found, so far, that snake number 10 returns to den number 10. Several years of checking will be required to establish scientifically the homing instinct theory.

While carrying out the "branding," Damman also collects rattlesnake venom and returns it to the college lab for use in making serum. He collects materials from the snake's mouth and tests it for disease.

So far, the scientist's work is unique. No one seems anxious to compete with him in this particular field.

Remove Old Paint Before Refinishing

Many a householder is occupied these early winter days, with a redoing project on certain pieces of treasured furniture. It's important in such jobs to know the value of the proper use of paint and varnish remover.

When the old paint coating has become thick or rough you can apply the remover to a small area at a time and let it stand until the old coating has softened — about twenty minutes in most cases. Then do your scraping with a putty knife and steel wool.

★ ★ ★

When all the old coating has been removed, wash the piece with mineral spirits or turpentine to take off any vestiges of wax that might possibly be left from the paint and varnish remover. Let the surface dry thoroughly, then apply your priming coat — and finally your finishing coat.

Credit for No Absence Given to Older Sister

CONNERSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — Sarah Riley refused to take all the credit for attending school for 12 years without missing a single day of class.

"I owe it all to my older sister," she said. "She brought all the childhood diseases home to me, so there was nothing left for me to have after I started school."

Retired Man, 64, Asks Return to Job—No Pay

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Walter A. Todd, 64, can't give up working.

Todd retired in March as head of Hawaii County automotive and equipment division after working for the county for 44 years. Now, he offers to work without pay if the county will give him back his job.

"You have to do something," says Todd. "I enjoy fishing and hunting, but there's a limit to that."

In the last eight years the portion of the average Frenchman's budget spent on health and medical care has increased from 5.1 per cent to 7 per cent.

'Gazebo' Sold to MGM for Quarter of Million

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — Freddie Brisson, basking in sunshine in Palm Springs, took time out to close a deal to sell "Gazebo" to MGM at a price of almost a quarter of a million dollars. Lawrence Weingarten's Avon Productions gets this plum. Larry has assigned George Wells to write the script, and Wells goes to New York to see the play and to discuss it with playwright Alec Coppel.

In the Broadway play Walter Slezak and Jayne Meadows have won praise from the critics, and it's possible that the Broadway actors will star in the motion picture.

It cannot be made until July, 1960, but Larry has a couple of other important pictures to do, so he won't be idle. His "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof" is MGM's top moneymaker.

Freddie's doing okay. He's also sold "Pleasure Of His Company" to Paramount which, of course, will star Dolores Hart, Hal Wallis' pride and joy.

★ ★ ★

Buddy Adler tells me (and he ought to know, he's boss of 20th) that "Oh, Mistress Mine," the Lunt and Fontaine stage hit, goes before the cameras in April. Phoebe and Henry Ephron are putting the final polish on the script of the sophisticated comedy.

"And no matter what you have heard or read elsewhere—Deborah Kerr is the only star signed," said Buddy. It will be good news to the 20th studio workers that Deborah will be back on the lot. She's always so friendly, with no temperament, and from the errand boys clear up to the front office the verdict is "she's a doll."

★ ★ ★

The temperature of 100 degrees in Melbourne, Australia, may be partly responsible for Ava Gardner's disposition, and her dislike for newspaper people. I am told that a love scene between Ava and Gregory Peck on the first day's shooting of "On The Beach" was shot in terrific heat, and that didn't improve Ava's disposition.

Whatever has happened to the nice girl who used to come and see me and tell me all her troubles? Ava hasn't taken her success too well, and even though it's nothing new for her to be snobbish to the American press, she should use more tact in another country.

★ ★ ★

Bright and early came the cheerful voice of an old friend, Eddie Lowe, to tell me he's signed for an "actor's dream part" with Sophia Loren in "Heller With A Gun."

Said Eddie: "It's a poor man's Edwin Booth role and gives me the chance to chew up the scenery to my heart's desire." It's also the biggest part Eddie's taken on in months—although I told him I see him a lot oftener than he sees me—his old pictures are on TV almost all the time.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Helen O'Connell, who just charged in court that her husband Tom Chamales chased her with a butcher knife, was dining on the Star On The Roof with—Tom Chamales!

Dorothy Towne (the former (Mrs. Jack Webb) has it bad for Cubby Broccoli. She's leaving in a week on a safari for Africa with Mrs. Johnny Meyer. Cubby has a picture to make in Africa starting in February.

Jennifer Jones and David Selznick, who have been in Switzerland for so long, return here Tuesday. They were delayed in New York until daughter Mary Jennifer recovered from mumps.

Is there a feud on between Alexis Smith and Lola Albright, who is appearing in the "Peter Gunn" TV series with Alexis' husband, Craig Stevens?

Bird Dog Has Litter, 6 Pups White, 1 Green

HARRISBURG, Ill. (UPI) — John Jones had something to talk about when his bird dog gave birth to a litter of pups — one of them green.

All six other pups are white.

A Marion doctor said an infection in the mother may have caused the green coloring of the pup but whether it will remain that way is not known.

Bristlecone Pine Is Oldest Living Thing

WASHINGTON — Methuselah Walk and the surrounding area in the White Mountains of Inyo County, California, which contain bristlecone pine trees — the oldest living things on earth — have been designated the Ancient Bristlecone Pine Forest, according to the Forest Service.

The botanical area includes 27,000 acres of Inyo National Forest. Within it are 100 bristlecone pines over 4,000 years old and thousands in the 3,000-to-4,000-year bracket.

Trailer Family Keeps Three Bears, Baboon

DALLAS (UPI) — Mrs. Joe Fain and Mrs. Jean Wilkey called police to report three bears chained to a tree. Police found the three bears, allright, plus a baboon. They said they could do nothing unless the animals escaped or made a fuss.

The animals belonged to a family living in a nearby trailer house.

Soldier Roams Post Carrying Butterfly Net

FORT KNOX, Ky. (UPI) — Pfc. Robert Naylor wanders around this military post with a buterfly net.

Naylor, assigned to the post's Preventive Medicine Laboratory, has orders to catch all bugs he can find.

They're classified, mounted, and sent to Second Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md., for study.

Modern Flagpole Sitter Seeks Title in Comfort

CHICAGO (UPI) — A flagpole maker recalled with nostalgia today the zany "good old days" when flagpole sitters really sat—because that was all they had room to do.

Ralph Watkins said present-day sitters are "a bunch of pikers" compared to such old masters as "Shipwreck" Kelly and "Hold Em-Joe" Powers.

Back in the roaring 20's, Watkins reminisced, Kelly and Powers clung to bosun's chairs or equally skimpy perches while they waged their famous battle for the world sitting championship.

Watkins couldn't get excited about the efforts of Mauri Rose Kirby, 17-year-old girl who ensconced herself with books, radio and telephone Aug. 16 in a little hut atop a utility pole in Indianapolis and announced she would try to crack the modern sitting record of 169 days aloft.

"The sitters today are a bunch of pikers," said Watkins, whose company claims to be the oldest manufacturer of flagpoles in the United States. "They practically live in houses with all the comforts of home."

Powers touched off the see-saw contest with Kelly by sitting for 16 days and two hours on the flagpole atop the 42-story Morrison Hotel in Chicago.

Kelly came right back by roosting on a pole atop a Newark, N. J., hotel for 18 days—and incidentally earning up to $500 a day while acquiring a callous and a suntan.

The pair kept right on whomping each other until Powers beat Kelly, 52 days to 51, aboard a building on Chicago's Northwest Side.

STANDING RECORD

Kelly, not to be outdone, shinnied right back up and became the champion flagpole STANDER with a nine hour and 47 minute stint above the Hotel Belvedere in New York.

"Every generation has a bunch of idiots, Watkins philosophized.

After World War II a new generation took up flagpole sitting. Ozzie Hamilton Osborne slid down a Long Beach, Calif., flagpole in September 1948 with a new mark of 52 days, 13 hours and 58 minutes.

The next month Milton Van Nolan completed a 70-day ride in a horse saddle atop a San Francisco pole. His mark was topped in 1949 by Charlie Lupica, who spent 117 days aloft in Cleveland in a vain attempt to root his beloved Indians to an American League pennant.

At last report the modern record was 169 days—set by Kathleen (Flagpole Kitty) Donham in Tacoma Park, Wash., in 1955.

★ ★ ★

That's only the modern record. The all-time, world record actually was etched for posterity some 1,400 years ago by Simeon the Younger, who thought he could atone for the world's sins by staying aloft.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Meet Mikoyan's U. S. Mouthpiece

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — If the Soviet Union had free enterprise, a certain young Russian could undoubtedly turn out a best-seller entitled: "I was the mouthpiece for Mickey."

Probably the only man in America who has talked more than Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan these past two weeks is Oleg Troyanovsky, who not only must translate what the junketing Red says to Americans, but what our big and little shots reply in kind.

For Oleg, this work is all play. Quaker-educated in America while his father was Soviet ambassador here, he won a prize as the most outstanding boy in his class when he graduated from Sidwell Friends School in 1937.

His Washington schoolmates remember him well. Distinguished in English, French and mathematics, he co-edited the school's literary publication, belonged to the drama club, student council, soccer and tennis teams, and won election as senior class president.

★ ★ ★

He also tossed a class party at the Soviet Embassy which provided a cozy glimpse of life with Alexander Troyanovsky, the first Russian envoy to be admitted to our diplomatic circles since the Bolshevist revolution nearly two decades before.

WHISKED HOME

Oleg, who had previously studied at an English language school in Tokyo, proceeded from Sidwell to Swarthmore College, but after a year was whisked back to the state university in Moscow. Rumor has it that Daddy Alex thought Oleg was becoming too ragtime Americanized.

★ ★ ★

Be that as it may, the 39-year-old interpreter has seen plenty of the English-speaking world in the years between. His first diplomatic posts were as attache and third secretary at the Soviet Embassy in London from 1944 to 1946.

Soon he was back in America as an interpreter to the Russian delegation at the U.N. General Assembly, a chore which he has skillfully repeated almost yearly since.

In the combined roles of expert, advisor and interpreter, he also attended the 1954 foreign ministers meeting on Berlin and the Geneva conference on Asia.

IN SPOTLIGHT

Young Troyanovsky first captured the international spotlight when he served as interpreter for the Pulitzer prize-winning interviews conducted by the Hearst task force with Red boss Nikita Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders in 1955.

★ ★ ★

He accompanied those gay junketeers — Khrushchev and Nikoli Bulganin — to England in 1956, but was in considerable more morose company when he came to Washington the next year to translate for Andrei Gromyko and Georgi Zaroubin in their conferences with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Oleg's voice flooded American television sets in 1957 when he interpreted for Khrushchev in a featured film interview on "Face the Nation."

Make no mistake about it, this father of one son gets around. His own views on American democracy vs. Communist dictatorship are as mysterious as the Kremlin towers. But should he someday become ambassador to Washington, it would be the first time that local gentry could be moved to say of a Communist: "Home town boy makes good."

This week provided dazzling new heights for the Quaker-educated Red. After whispering Mikoyan's sweet nothings into the shell-like ears of Hollywood movie stars, he drew up a chair beside President Eisenhower to translate his boss's secret utterances on Berlin and the state of the world.

Monday, after a talkathon stint as Mikoyan's mouthpiece at the National Press Club, he will again serve as go-between while the No. 2 Red tries to wheedle increased trade from right-wing Commerce Secretary Lewis Strauss.

What a book Oleg could write! The one-time editor of Sidwell's literary "quarterly" could even dispense with the services of a translator, while equaling fellow-Russian Pasternak's accomplishment on the best-seller lists of America.

Just Wasn't This Fellow's Day to Win

PHOENIX, Ariz., (AP) — It was a poor day for business for Earl Welk, 30, Santa Clara, Calif. who flew to Phoenix Sunday to buy some used TV sets from a motel. He lost his return ticket and finally had to buy another.

★ ★ ★

He rented a car to go to the race track—and lost $200 on the horses. Coming back, he got in the wrong traffic lane and drew a citation. That was $5.

★ ★ ★

Then he found the TV sets were 17-inchers. He cancelled the order because he needed bigger ones.

Minor Traffic Violation Links Madison Man to Check Burglary

William R. Williams, 23, 30524 Palmer St., Madison Heights, has to answer charges in two police departments today — and all because he had defective lights on his car.

★ ★ ★

Williams was stopped by Romeo State Police Saturday night for this minor traffic violation. Then upon further investigation, officers found beer in his car. He was taken to Oakland County jail where he was booked for furnishing intoxicants to minors.

State troopers then looked through Williams' wallet and found a $500 check payable to Utilities Construction Co., Madison Heights. They called the owner of the firm, Thomas B. Connolly, Charnwood, Birmingham.

Connolly said he did not realize the check was missing and went down to his company offices and found they had been broken into. The check was all that was missing, police said.

★ ★ ★

Now Williams will be turned over to Madison Heights authorities to answer charges of breaking and entering, State Police said.

Castro Invites 350 to Rally

Wants U.S. Newsmen to See That People Support Executions

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro said today he has invited 350 newsmen and commentators from the United States and Latin America to attend a giant rally called in Havana Wednesday to show support for his speedy trial and execution of Batista henchmen.

The revolutionary chief said he also had invited U.S. congressmen who "in recent days have severely criticized the executions of war criminals by the revolutionary army."

★ ★ ★

A statement from Castro's press headquarters said personal invitations had gone out to the foreign journalists. A spokesman said five planes would be sent to Miami to pick up those wishing to attend and another plane might go on to Washington.

★ ★ ★

"We have extended the invitation," Castro's statement said, "so that the truth of what is happening in Cuba may be told to all citizens of every country in America. We believe that if the truth is known any misunderstanding that has occurred in recent days regarding the situation in our country will disappear."

★ ★ ★

Castro has called for a half million Havana residents to turn out Wednesday to back his regime's rejection of foreign criticism of the speedy execution of those convicted of killing opponents of ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The auxiliary Roman Catholic bishop of Havana, Msgr. Alfredo Muller, Sunday night endorsed the executions, reported to have reached 216 throughout Cuba.

Goldfish Pond Creates Problem for Firemen

PORTSMITH, Ohio (AP) — One of the biggest problems for firemen at the Gallia Street station here is, ironically, water.

It's in the station's goldfish pond and it creates a problem because of what goes into it. Firemen say the most frequent visitors are (1) high school students pushed in by companions, (2) cats trying to get to the goldfish, and (3) larger—and hungry—fish put in by pranksters.

Wheat Futures Feel Pressure

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures were under moderately heavy selling pressure today in early activity on the Board of Trade while soybeans attracted fairly general support.

Weakness in wheat was attributed in part to the government report on stocks in government loan, and also to failure of expected export business to develop over the weekend.

Some of the soybean demand was linked with reports that Turkey has begun negotiations with the United States for a good volume of soybean oil.

Other grains held generally within narrow ranges both above and below Friday's closes.

Wheat was ¼ to ¾ cent a bushel lower near the end of the first hour. March $1.95½; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, March old type contract $1.14¼; oats ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, March 66⅝; rye ⅛ to ½ lower, March $1.35⅞; soybeans ⅞ higher to ¼ lower, January $2.17⅜.

Union Accepts Offer in Sinclair Talks

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Sinclair Oil Co. announced today its offer of a general five per cent wage increase had been accepted by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

Millard E. Stone, vice president and director of industrial relations for Sinclair, said the offer was accepted late last night.

The increase will be made effective as of Jan. 18, he said, provided the union's membership ratifies the settlement within the next 30 days.

Korean Pickets the White House to Protest Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lone Korean in a black homburg picketed the White House today in protest against what he termed the dictatorship of South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The picket, Byung Choll Koh, marched in 20 degree weather with a sign saying: "S. O. S. Rescue Korean civil liberties. Down with dictatorship and communism."

Koh said he was protesting passage of a new national security law in Korea. That statute, the picket added, denies Koreans any right to criticize their government.

Belote Trim Shop Fire Causes $250 Damage

A fire of unknown origin caused an estimated $250 damages to Belote's Auto Glass & Trim Shop, 206 S. Saginaw St., Sunday afternoon.

Firemen battled the blaze for almost an hour before it was brought under control.

'Payless Paydays Loom Within Weeks' – Williams

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams, in a new appraisal of the state's cash emergency, says: "The only reason we're still in business is that the state universities are operating themselves."

"We are getting to the point where payless paydays are something we will have to wrestle with in a matter of weeks," he told a Democratic State Central Committee meeting yesterday.

In an unexpected appearance at the party gathering, Williams spent a half hour reviewing the grayity of the state's financial situation.

Once again, he said, the 50-million-dollar Veterans' Trust Fund is the only suitable source of available funds to meet the immediate problem.

★ ★ ★

He again rejected use of the 70-million-dollar state employes' retirement fund as a possible key to the situation.

"It was shocking to find out that the State Supreme Court says that this was state money and not earmarked for retirement," he said. "We have a moral obligation to keep that fund inviolate."

★ ★ ★

He pointed out that a large share of the employes' fund was contributed through payroll deductions by individual workers to help provide for their own pensions.

Many Republican legislators and heads of organized veterans groups have frowned on the governor's proposal to hand over the bulk of Veterans' Fund securities to the University of Michigan and Michigan State University to use as collateral for borrowing.

★ ★ ★

Williams repeated that he opposes outright liquidation of the state veterans' fund and said that mortgaging it would give added protection and put it beyond the Legislature's present power of liquidation.

2 Waterford Fires Blamed on Chimneys

Waterford Township firemen answered two calls yesterday for fires which started in the chimneys of homes.

The first blaze, at the home of the Milton Green family at 3320 Lexington Ave., was blamed on a faulty fireplace. Green smelled smoke and roused his sleeping family.

The fire was quickly extinguished by firemen, who estimated damage at $300.

At 11:30 a.m. yesterday, a fire causing $2,000 damage at the home of Walter Rohphi at 3932 Oaknoll St., was attributed to a faulty chimney in the attic.

4-Month-Old Baby Suffocates in Crib

A four-month-old baby suffocated in his crib Saturday afternoon and was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

A Pontiac Fire Dept. inhalator squad rushed the infant, Michael T. Angel, 80 Longfellow St. to the hospital, but attempts to revive the baby failed.

Michael was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Angel.

Announce Classes for Dancers Here

The Department of Parks & Recreation announced that registrations are being accepted for eight-week classes in beginners' square dancing, novelty, round and ballroom dancing.

Scheduling of the two-hour sessions will be arranged as soon as class quotas are filled, said John A. Streit, assistant director.

Fees of $2 a couple will be charged Pontiac residents and $4 a couple for outside residents.

Instead of paying President John Wheelock his salary of $912 in 1814, Dartmouth College was so financially pinched that it had to borrow money from him.

County Plans to Avert Tax Losses to State

A special committee of three Oakland County officials has come up with a plan which should lessen somewhat the drain on county funds should a proposed new taxing program for Michigan be adopted.

Norman R. Barnard, corporation counsel, William J. Emerson, superintendent of public schools and chairman of the Tax Allocation Board, and Robert E. Lilly, secretary of the Board of Auditors, today released a nine-page report which is being distributed to county supervisors.

In it the three have come up with three major recommendations to supervisors:

1. That a formula of state subsidy be devised to make up for the annual tax loss to the county should a recommended exemption on taxing personal property be adopted in the new program.

2. That supervisors urge the Legislature to pass laws designed to underwrite 80 per cent of the cost of child care, welfare relief, medical care and hospitalization, and 50 per cent of Board of Education costs.

3. Find a solution to meet increasing county needs even should these increases in state aids be considered favorably.

★ ★ ★

The three officials were authorized by the Supervisors Ways and Means Committee last month to look into what effect the proposed Conlin Tax Study would have on Oakland County.

This was prompted when Emerson had learned that industrial counties like Oakland would be hard-hit should factory machinery, such as dies and presses, be exempted from taxation, with the exception of inventories.

"This is but a factual guide for supervisors and is not intended to be a stand of the county either favoring or opposing the Conlin plan," Barnard emphasized.

★ ★ ★

However, it appeared evident from the statistical report that Oakland's fiscal future will not be too rosy under the Conlin plan, which contemplates a net gain in state revenues of 137.7 million dollars.

"Oakland County taxpayers would pay $33 million in state income tax" under the proposal, the report points out.

"The state tax revision proposal now before the Legislature will produce an additional $137.7 million, none of which is earmarked for Oakland County after 1959," was another point contained in the study.

★ ★ ★

Helping Barnard, Emerson and Lilly prepare the study were the County Planning Commission, the Equalization Department, and Dr. Robert Pealy, professor of political science at the University of Michigan.

Major drawback of the Conlin plan, which presently is being put into bill form for presentation to lawmakers in Lansing, would be the drain on county income as the result of the exemption of tangible personal property from taxation.

The county received $916,000 from this source last year, the report says.

Although under the Conlin recommendation it is proposed that this amount be paid back to counties for the first year, no definite recommendation is made on how the counties could regain this loss in revenue in years to come.

So supervisors have been asked by the three men to "take the position that the state each year pay to the County of Oakland an amount equal to 2.72 per cent of the state income collected in this county.

"The property tax collection on Conlin exempted items in 1958 was 2.72 per cent of the estimated income tax collection as of this year. County government should expect that the state return to Oakland County an equal percentage of income tax collected here each year in the future," the study stresses.

The recommendation that the state increase its share of costs for child care, relief, medical care and education is hard to assume in the light of the cash crisis now confronting Michigan.

★ ★ ★

But Barnard explains this recommendation was made on the assumption that the Conlin report would be adopted, thus bringing into the state treasury increased taxes.

Oakland now receives state subsidies in the amount of $1,800,000.

Under the new increased subsidy suggestion, this would produce in 1959 $3,600,000, the report details, and, assuming an annual increase of 14.7 per cent increase (the average tax levy increase over the past 10 years) per year, this would produce $6,300,000 in 1963.

Should these two recommendations receive favorable attention, Oakland would still face the continuing problem of pulling in more income to meet a growing population.

"By 1963, $5,281,000 of this new money must be found or the county of Oakland will find itself in the same position as Wayne—running an unmanageable deficit," the report concludes.

DARLENE GRANGOOD

Hunt Missing Waterford Girl

Darlene Grangood, 14, Left Home to Ice Skate Saturday Afternoon

A Waterford Township mother and father waited with fear and worry in their eyes today as police throughout Oakland County searched for their 14-year-old daughter who has been missing since Saturday afternoon.

Blonde, blue eyed Darlene Grangood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Grangood of 6701 Lanman St., went skating shortly after 3 p.m. Saturday. She had no shoes, only her skates, when she left home, her parents said.

She hasn't been heard from since.

The frantic parents said this morning that Darlene, an eighth grade student at John D. Pierce Junior High School, had no steady boy friends and had never been out on a date.

SEND OUT ALARM

State police and sheriff's bulletins today said the girl is possibly "being held against her will in a motel or hotel in Wayne or Oakland County."

The Grangood house is on Williams Lake. Darlene left to skate on the lake at 3:20 p.m. Her mother, Violet, told her to be home in time to help with supper.

Darlene said, "All right, I'll take my watch and be back before 5:30 to help," according to her mother. When she didn't return, her parents began making inquiries and her father and brother, Wayne, 16, searched the lake and surrounding area until after 1 a.m. Sunday.

Her mother called the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at 10 p.m. Saturday to report her missing.

Reports by younger children in the area who said they thought they saw Darlene get into a car on Lansdowne street near the lake, were checked this morning but could not be confirmed by police.

Police plan to question her friends at school this afternoon to see if anyone ever heard Darlene say anything about leaving home.

Darlene was wearing blue jeans, a red sweater, rust colored car coat and a babushka. She was described as being slightly over 5 feet tall, weighing 110 pounds.

"She was a good skater and swimmer," her father said.

Darlene is one of six children.

Sales of automobile air-conditioning units rose to $100,000,000 in 1957 compared with $62,500,000 the year before.

Party Lines Fix Reaction Over Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional reaction to President Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar budget presented today generally followed the usual party pattern.

Most Democrats were doubtful or critical. Republicans hailed the effort to hold down spending.

★ ★ ★

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) said "I hope we can balance the budget but I don't see much chance for it under the President's proposals."

He said also that Congress is not likely to grant Eisenhower's request for authority to veto or to reduce individual items in authorization and appropriation bills.

House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind) said the budget, as it stands, will provide for a strong defense, for progress in meeting human needs, and for a prosperous and expanding economy.

DEM PRESSURE FEARED

Halleck said "all indications are that the pressure from the Democrat majorities in both the House and Senate will be to throw the new budget way out of balance, with increased spending programs all up and down the line."

★ ★ ★

The Senate's assistant Republican leader, Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, said the budget lays down a splendid formula for defense. But he said he does not agree with the President that there can be a breathing spell in asking new public works projects.

"The water problems of my own California grow more pressing with each passing year," Kuchel said.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Clarence E. Cannon (D-Mo), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said "this is a political budget based on contingencies which no one expects to materialize."

Cannon said the budget is "so precarious as to be wholly impractical . . . I am afraid there are some miscalculations."

Rep. John Taber (R-NY), ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee, said he would try to keep the appropriations within the budget.

★ ★ ★

Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex) chairman of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said he feels "that in the interest of reduced spending, a laudable aim, the defense budget may have been shaved too close in the light of the sustained challenge of the U.S.S.R."

CALLS IT UNREALISTIC

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) called the budget unrealistic because, he said, it is hard to believe Congress will increase gasoline taxes or postage rates.

★ ★ ★

"It will also be difficult to put out nearly four billion dollars in foreign aid while we are asking our people at home to put off necessary public works and other projects," Sparkman added.

Harvard Dean Gets Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today appointed Don K. Price Jr., a Harvard University dean, to his advisory committee on government organization. Price, who will be 49 Friday, succeeds Nelson A. Rockefeller, who resigned from the committee on becoming governor of New York.

Youth to Stand Trial in Chain-Beating

DETROIT (AP) — An 18-year-old youth has been ordered to stand trial on assault charges in the chain-beating of another teenager after a high school basketball game Friday night.

Police said today Kenneth E. Hansen, of Warren, has admitted striking Bruce Boardman, 18, of Grosse Pointe Woods, with a 15-inch chain after a basketball game between Grosse Pointe and Highland Park High Schools.

Hansen told police he struck Boardman because he had heard Boardman, a freshman at the University of Michigan, had land Park high schools.

Blames Ice for Loss of Car's Wheels, Tires

A Commerce Township man told Oakland County sheriff's deputies Saturday how the snow and ice caused him to lose the wheels on his car.

William J. Hosmans of 7530 Barnsbury Rd. told deputies his street was so slippery that he had to park his car on Keith road at Barnsbury Friday evening and walk to his house.

When he returned Saturday, he said, he found his car up on blocks with all four wheels and tires gone. They were valued at an estimated $250.

Ports Set Ship Record

AUCKLAND — A record number of 900 ships docked at New Zealand ports from overseas during 1957, an increase of 76 over the year before. Imported cargo totaled 4,562,000 tons, about 340,000 tons more than in 1956.

Locals May Skip Merger Parley

County Building Trade Groups Ponder Stand on AFL-CIO

The building trade may stay away from the merger convention of Oakland County AFL and CIO unions in Pontiac Saturday.

One local has voted not to send delegates and the four others in the county haven't made up their minds yet, said Grady Penner, former president of the Oakland County Federation of Labor.

Voting against attending was Carpenter's Local 998, of which Penner is business manager.

Penner said his local had decided on a "wait and see" policy, dependent on the outcome of a dispute over industrial job rates which is up before the building trades international at this time.

The building trades also stayed away from the recent AFL-CIO merger in Wayne County.

★ ★ ★

But today the UAW and the Detroit Building Trades Council announced agreement on a formula to cover organizational and jurisdictional problems.

The agreement also covers Oakland and Macomb county locals, which belong to the Detroit council.

While not necessarily paving the way for the building trades to enter into merger, the agreement provides machinery through which the two groups can implement at the local level, the UAW said. These are agreements between the AFL-CIO industrial union department and the building and construction trades.

Approximately 300 delegates are expected to be on hand when the convention opens at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the headquarters hall of Pontiac Motor Division Local 653, UAW.

★ ★ ★

Delegates will be asked to consider a constitution and a merger agreement drafted by representatives from both unions.

County mergers were ordered at the national merger convention of the AFL and CIO in 1955.

The primary runoff will nominate candidates to run for the office of circuit court judge in the spring election, April 6.

Report on Work of Unique Group

'Hard Core' Is Reached by 'Youth Anonymous,' Headed by Ex-Convict

"Youth Anonymous," a special, hour-long report on Detroit's successful battle against juvenile delinquency, will be broadcast tonight at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

★ ★ ★

ABC News chief John Daly will head a corps of newsmen surveying Detroit's three-pronged attack on juvenile crime, which has made it the only major city in America to show a decrease in delinquency over the past year. Covering the story on the scene are Edward P. Morgan, Don Goddard and Robert Fleming.

The study will cover concerted work of a progressive-minded police force, regular social agencies, and a unique self-help group called Youth Anonymous.

★ ★ ★

Headed by a ex-convict named Ernest "Tip" Rumsby, Youth Anonymous aims to aid the 15 per cent of "hard-core" troubled youngsters who normally cannot be reached by other organizations. In its methods, involving meetings and extensive talking-out of problems, it resembles the better-known Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous.

Some of the areas covered by "Youth Anonymous" include a day in the lives of three troubled boys, a court hearing, a meeting of YA and a trip with Rumsby through the scenes of his own slum youth and early crimes.

The program will be presented on film and tape.

Census Bureau Finds Answers

Americans Who Need Vital Statistics Can Get Data—and Secrecy

PITTSBURG, Kan. (NEA) —Are you one of the 30,000,000 Americans who couldn't dig up a birth certificate if you needed it for a passport, a pension or some other vital reason? Have you searched in vain for a family Bible to prove when and where you were born?

If so, your worries could be over. The Age Search Branch of the Bureau of the Census, which recently moved its 3,700 files containing census records from Washington, D. C., to Pittsburg, Kan., is designed to help people in just such predicaments. The branch office trucked nearly 900 tons of records in 3,700 filing cases to Pittsburg to take care of your questions.

★ ★ ★

During the 1930s, a trickle of letters began coming into the Bureau of the Census begging for help from Americans who found they had to have birth records. As an accommodation to them, the bureau began searching through old census records. From that beginning, the Age Search Branch now processes about 230,000 requests a year.

Uncle Sam has been taking a census every 10 years since 1790. While the British destroyed some of the records when they burned Washington in the war of 1812 and while the 1890 records were destroyed in another fire, the Pittsburg office has complete records for every man, woman and child living in the United States as of 1950.

For a fee of $3, the office workers will go through the census records if you fill out an "authorization form." You have to tell where you were living in some one of the decennial census periods and mail the request to Pittsburg.

Women who are a bit skittish about anyone else finding their true ages now that they are "over 21" need have no fear. It is impossible for anyone who isn't authorized to obtain any other person's birth record. Even Milton D. Swenson, chief of the Pittsburg office, is sworn to secrecy and can reveal no one else's age.

★ ★ ★

The office is housed in a new quarter-million-dollar building erected by a Pittsburg corporation and given free for the first two years. The branch office, though a part of the government, is entirely self-supporting and gets no funds from Congress. The $3 fees pay the salaries of the 130 employes and all other expenses. Even the cost of hauling tons of files from Washington to Pittsburgh was covered.

Phone Operators Get Limit in Call Answering

LONDON (UPI) — Following a complaint from an angry husband that a telephone operator told him his new baby was a boy, when it really was a girl, a London hospital placed this sign over its switchboard:

"No sex must be given out over the phone."

DELINQUENCY FIGHT—Commentator Don Goddard (center) talks with members of Detroit's unique Youth Anonymous organization. The work of YA will be a feature of "Youth Anonymous," an hour-long TV study of Detroit's successful battle against delinquency. (7:30 p. m. Sunday — Channel 7)

Peggy Cass Provides Inspirational Material

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Tell me somthing nice about somebody," I whined to Peggy Cass, the comedienne.

★ ★ ★

"But I thought you were a columnist!" She was busy taking out her contact lenses and putting on her glasses because it was smoky.

WILSON

"I am," I admitted, "but this is 'Be Kind to People Week.' We are looking for good deeds and inspirational material."

"Well, there was that man I gave the 48 cents to," Peggy smiled. "He came up to me after the 'Keeping Talking' show and he said, 'Miss Cass, I hitchhiked from Chicago and if you can give me 48 cents I can get a bed tonight."

"He probably wanted it to get a shot of muscatel, or to make up his $16 tab at a good hotel, but I gave him 50 cents."

I coughed respectfully. Peggy is also on the Jack Paar show, and in the movie, "Auntie Mame" — and from Boston.

★ ★ ★

"Wonderful, WONDERFUL," I exclaimed. "Now was there anybody else — besides YOU, don't you know, who did something nice?"

"Well," she hesitated. "My lowest job was being an understudy in Chicago for Jan Sterling. I was living at the Y.W.C.A. She moved me into her suite. I paid her the $13 a week I'd been paying the Y.

"I took my laundry to a laundromat—you think I was going to pay 60 cents to get a slip done?

PEGGY

"One day David O. Selznick came to discuss a picture contract with her. I'll bet he really wonders to this day who that apparition was who slunk through clutching a laundry bag and a quarter."

Peggy said that Jan and her husband, Paul Douglas, continued this niceness in Hollywood.

"They gave me their house, and swimming pool, and servants because they were going to Europe. I even had a secretary — nothing to dictate, but a secretary! And when anybody wanted to see me, I made them pick me up.

"I wanted them to see the Hollywood shack I was swanking around in!"

Peggy added that Rosalind Russell insisted that she go from the Broadway show "Auntie Mame" right into the movie, that Garson Kanin's always been nice, that Jack Paar's been a doll, and that God was good by letting her out of a show that was a flop.

★ ★ ★

"Is there something moralistic we can make out of this?" I asked.

"Sure," snorted Peggy. "Like I told you. I gave the 'bo 50 cents and didn't ask him to give me back two cents change!"

Inaugurate Son of Vice Crusader

Father of Alabama's Governor Was Killed in Phenix City Cleanup

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — John Patterson, son of a slain Phenix City anti-vice crusader, will be inaugurated today as governor of Alabama in an atmosphere of racial tension.

At 37 he is the youngest man ever to hold the state's highest office.

A lengthy parade—from which Negroes were expressly excluded on Patterson's orders — preceded the administering of the oath on the steps of the Capitol.

Completely unknown politically 4½ years ago, Patterson came to prominence following the assassination of his father, Albert L. Patterson, in Phenix City in June 1954. The slaying kicked off a purge of racketeers and gamblers who had held sway in the river town.

Patterson led a slate of 13 candidates for governor last spring in his first statewide primary and defeated Circuit Judge George Wallace in the runoff, polling a record 315,000 votes to Wallace's 250,000.

Praises Firemen for Halting Blaze in Miami Plane

DETROIT (UPI)—A Detroit drug store executive had high praise today for firefighters at Miami Airport where his plane returned after catching fire shortly after taking off Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Nate S. Shapero, board chairman of Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., and a former Detroit fire commissioner, was one of 10 Detroit area travelers who escaped from death in fleeing the flaming plane.

"In my 14 years with the fire department," Shapero said, "I never saw anything to compare with the efficiency of those firefighters at the airport."

Shapero was returning to Detroit with two guests, Lawrence J. Michelson and his wife Helen. All three slid down a canvas chute from the plane to the ground.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Michelson, who said she sprained her ankle, said the plane crew "was wonderful and the stewardesses certainly used their heads. It's the closest I've ever been to death."

'Ten Little Indians' Good Despite Being Shopworn

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI) — Agatha Christie has gotten almost as much mileage out of her mystery, "And Then There Were None," as Jack Benny has gotten out of his mystery, the Maxwell.

Miss Christie's whodunit was displayed on Broadway in 1944 and converted into a crisp and creepy movie in 1945 by Rene Clair. The Clair movie hs been stalking audiences on local TV channels for several years now.

Last night the Christie piece was turned into a one-hour NBC-TV special called "Ten Little Indians" and for a shopworn vehicle it chugged along surprisingly well.

Aside from its hand-me-down air, Ten Little Indians had only one real flaw: it was bunched into such a small chip of time that its succession of horrors seemed like hasty manufactures.

However, Ten Little Indians did boast a nice, murky set, some suitably clammy photography and a robust body of players. Chief among the artificers were Nina Foch, Barry Jones and Kenneth Haigh.

NBC-TV's Omnibus concocted a difficult kickshaw yesterday — a casserole made up of three S. J. Perelman stories about Hollywood.

Like most casseroles, it oozed a little at the edges, had no finish and contained a fair measure of what-is-its that seemed to have been chucked in during the fever of its making.

I find most of it pretty beguiling in a post-college humor sort of way although Perelman is beginning to repeat himself a little—his humor over the past decade or so has begun to smell a little too hard of formula.

★ ★ ★

SHORT SHOTS: World of Ideas, a show which bowed in yesterday on CBS-TV, was rather short on ideas and rather long on scholarly banalities. . .Russia's Anastas Mikoyan beat a panel of newsmen at their own game on NBC-TV's Meet The Press yesterday because the newsmen became needlessly entangled in their own sentiments. Their questions were frequently emotional statements rather than proper unbiased inquiries and as a result, Mikoyan, a medium clever dialectician, made polite mincemeat of them.

★ ★ ★

THE CHANNEL SWIM: ABC-TV's Naked City will kill off one of its two lead characters—John McIntyre who plays detective Dan Muldoon—in an upcoming episode. McIntyre will be replaced by Horace McMahon.

Chico and Harpo Marx will co-star in "The Best Laid Plans," a G.E. Theater offering set for March 8 on CBS-TV.

NBC-TV's Ellery Queen series will shift to New York from Los Angeles on Feb. 27—George Nader is stepping out of the title role.

ABC-TV is considering a situation comedy about a fireman, "Where There's Smoky," for new fall.

Attempts to Fire Her 2 Children

1 Critical After Mother Pours Gasoline Over Them and Lights It

BARTOW, Fla. (AP)—A young mother who police say admitted the attempted torch murder of her two children was held in county jail here today.

Mrs. Juanita Irene Hamil, 21, was charged with attempted first degree murder of her daughter, Sharon Kay, 4, and son, Olin Vivian, 3, in their Polk County home.

Sheriff Hagan Parrish said she admitted pouring gasoline on the children yesterday and locking them in a bathroom after igniting the fluid.

Sharon Kay was burned over 25 per cent of her body and was in critical condition. The boy escaped injurey when neighbors, summoned by a frantic Mrs. Hamil, battered down the door and rescued the children.

★ ★ ★

Parrish said Mrs. Hamil admitted trying to kill the children because she and the man with whom she was living decided they were "getting on our nerves." She said the screams of the burning children after she ignited the gasoline caused her to lose her nerve and she cried for help.

The man living with Mrs. Hamil, 40-year-old William Ernest Clabo, was arrested and charged with adultery and carrying a concealed weapon—a 10-inch switchblade knife. Mrs. Hamil also was charged with adultery.

The sheriff quoted Mrs. Hamil as saying she and Clabo, a 6-foot-5 pipeline worker, came to Polk City from the Midwest five weeks ago.

She said she and Clabo decided Saturday that the children were getting on their nerves and they agreed to return them to their father, Grover Hamil, in Emmett, Idaho.

GOP Leaders Meet to Revamp Strategy

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—GOP leaders opened a five-day meeting here today aimed at revamping the Republican party drive next year and at selecting a site for the 1960 national convention.

Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn said "We are meeting to do what we need to do to hold the presidency and win Congress in 1960. We will discuss what the party needs to do to revitalize and strengthen itself."

Want Amateur Talent to Hunt Down Snakes

OPP, Ala. (UPI)—Promoters of a snake-hunting contest scheduled here next month announced today that only amateurs need apply.

A spokesman said professional reptile hunters would be barred from the event which offers a prize of $100 for the biggest rattlesnake.

St. Peter's church, in the Olde Town of St. George, is situated on the site of the first Anglican house of worship in the New World, which was completed in 1612.

Raps Reintroduction of Natural Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) has branded reintroduction of the controversial natural gas bill as a new attempt by the "greedy unconscionable gas and oil lobby" to "raid" the American consumer's pocket.

Dingell said the bill introduced by chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the House Commerce Committee was identical to the measure once vetoed by the President except for amendments to "satisfy" the coal lobby and pick up 15 more votes from congressmen in coal producing areas.

The bill would exempt some 5,000 natural gas producers from direct federal controls.

Worried About Kisses, They Forget Crooks

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—The Daily Leader suggested editorially today that Karachi's policemen spend more time searching for criminals and less time arresting young couples who kiss in public, an illegal act in this country.

The newspaper noted that zealous cops had recently extended the ban on public kissing by arresting a young swain in a rowboat for kissing his girl friend in the middle of Karachi Harbor.

Revolution in Cuba Seemed Impossible

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is a recipe for revolution. In the atomic age, how can a band of 12 men—a defiant dozen—spearhead a movemet that eventually overthrows an entrenched military regime feeding on its own riches? The ingredients that made up the Cuban revolution are disclosed in this comprehensive account by an Associated Press news analyst who was on hand for the climactic developments.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

HAVANA (AP)—What makes a revolution? Cuba's looked impossible from the start.

It sprang from a jumble of romantic notions. It produced a Robin Hood of the Antilles.

But this was the day of modern military organization. Palace upheavals and military coups might succeed against entrenched tyranny, but revolution in the classic style was out of date.

Yet against enormous odds, the rebellion triumphed. Why?

Victory's ingredients included years of persistent furtive plotting, piracy, assassination, kidnaping, blackmail, smuggling and long and patient construction of a fifth column. Yeast for the ferment was provided by the rebellion's target, Dictator Fulgencio Batista himself.

For 17 of the past 25 years Batista dominated Cuba. Whatever his motives in overthrowing the cruel Gerardo Machado dictatorship in 1933, humbly born Batista found the step from liberator to tyrant an easy one.

Old habits bequeathed by the Spaniards only 60 years ago made Cuba a plunderer's paradise. Through many regimes politicians considered it their inalienable right to raid the public purse.

SAW CORRUPTION

The people knew. They saw corruption seep through every stage of Cuban political life, high to low, through army and police and subsidized press. Almost nothing could be accomplished without graft, sometimes petty, often on an incredible scale.

Even a censored, bought or otherwise muzzled press could not hide these things.

Batista returned to power March 10, 1952, ousting President Carlos Prio Socarras at gunpoint.

Fidel Castro, then 26, born to wealth, vowed to resist dictatorship. The young lawyer's rebellion actually began July 26, 1953, the date from which his movement took its name. His attack on a Batista army barracks in Santiago was repulsed. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Castro, after 15 months in prison, went to Mexico to continue his plotting with Cuban exiles. With 81 of them he returned to his native Oriente Province late in 1956 to make a new try. Batista forces wiped out all but Castro and a dozen others.

But Oriente had many people who hated Batista. Oriente, already nursing provincial suspicion of the capital, was embittered by the steady plunder of the nation's wealth, much of which it supplied.

★ ★ ★

Castro had little in the way of a definite program. His pronouncements were vague. There was only one definite goal — to drive out the dictator.

For months the ragged little band in the Maestra Mountains patiently recruited, raided small army posts for arms, got a trickle of supplies from supporters abroad.

After almost a year of bitter frustrations and reverses, Castro got his biggest break. A spectacular rebel push in Las Villas Province won him world attention. The press abroad began to build up Castro as a persistent idealist battling tyranny.

Wealthy Cuban in exile—some undoubtedly enriched by the same plunder Castro condemned—saw in the young leader their only hope of returning home and participating again in Cuban politics. They made big contributions to the cause.

But mostly the architects of Castro's success were ordinary people united in hatred of the dictatorship. Nickels, dimes, dollars flowed into rebel coffers from bellhops in U. S. hotels, busboys, cooks, professional people, businessmen, sympathizers everywhere. In other countries exiles sold "liberty bonds" to support the 26th of July.

MONEY POURED IN

The revolution had an insatiable appetite for money. In Oriente, wherever he was in control, Castro imposed a 15-cent tax per 100-pound sack on sugar. But it was the little people who did the job. Like Olga Nunez. She flitted about Havana from one sugar company to another demanding contributions. She and her younger sister raised two million dollars which the rebels serenely banked in the First National City Bank of Havana in the name of a real estate firm.

"We made no threats," said Olga. "I know. I made the contacts."

But the threat was implicit. Some companies, tired of Batista's heavy levies of fearful of rebel reprisals, coughed up. Most American-owned companies balked, said Olga, and apparently appealed to the U.S. Embassy. She believes the Embassy told Batista about it. She had to flee to Oriente.

There were people like Ernesto Betancourt. A registered agent in Washington for Castro's cause, he directed propaganda and carried on extra-official contact between the rebels and the State Department.

The sergeant assigned to Batista's military attache in Washington was a secret rebel agent. He kept Castro informed of what arms Batista got from the United States and told Castro, even before Batista knew it, of the U.S. decision to stop arms shipments in April 1958.

★ ★ ★

There were soldiers like 41-year-old Francisco Sierra, who deserted Batista's forces saying he was sick of legalized killing. He became a top Castro commander.

There were Americans like Charles W. Hormel of Miami and young William Morgan of Toledo, Ohio. Hormel won public rebel praise for flying loads of supplies to the rebels. Morgan became a Castro commander with the so-called "second front" in Las Villas Province.

There were all these and many more.

Today all have high hopes in the revolution.

But while the rebellion is over, the revolution has only just begun. It has yet to prove itself.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-five years ago the young sergeant overthrew a tyrant called himself idealist and liberator. The liberator of that day was Fulgencio Batista. He failed the test.

Still to be proved is the new liberator. He can lead the country at last to real constitutional democracy—or let it drift once again to tyranny.

Stevenson Calls U.S. Sluggish

Says Soviet Leaders Set Dynamic Tempo Toward Domination

WASHINGTON (AP) — America has been left on the defensive by its own sluggish tempo, Adlai E. Stevenson says.

The former Democratic presidential nominee told an audience Sunday night that Soviet leaders, from top to bottom, are convinced the whole human race is destined to become one in Communist brotherhood.

★ ★ ★

Stevenson, who toured the Soviet Union last summer, said "the Soviet Russians believe in their truth . . . they, not we, are firing the shots that are heard round the world—and also the satellites that orbit above it . . . their tempo is dynamic and ours sluggish—even, I think, to ourselves."

He said the Communists "show a worldwide concern which is largely lacking among the men of the West. The whole human race is their horizon."

Stevenson said that if America cannot rediscover the real purpose and direction of its existence, it will not be free.

★ ★ ★

Stevenson gave the first annual A. Powell Davis memorial address in Constitution Hall. The series, sponsored by a committee of the All Souls Unitarian church, honors the late Rev. Arthur Powel Davies, pastor of the church for 13 years before his death in 1957.

Batista's Wife Gathers Family

Arrives in New York on First Leg of Trip to Pick Up Their 3 Boys, 1 Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—The wife of ousted Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista is here on the first leg of a trip to gather four of their children in this country and take them to their father.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Marta Batista arrived by plane Sunday night from the Dominican Republic, where her husband took refuge.

She was met by a heavy police guard who escorted her through a private customs inspection and rebuffed reporters.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Batista was accompanied by Lawrence Berenson, Batista's attorney here. She went to the Waldorf Towers to meet two sons, Roberto, 11, and Carlos, 8, who have been staying there since Christmas—shortly before Batista fled Cuba.

Berenson said Mrs. Batista will leave soon with the boys for Daytona Beach, Fla., where two other children, Fulgencio, 4, and Marta Maria, 17 months, are staying with Mrs. Batista's mother.

The daughter is ill, Berenson said. When she is well, Mrs. Batista plans to take the four children to Ciudad Trujillo.
