Radio Contact Is Broken With U.S. Satellite

Fear Communications Craft Knocked Off Axis by Motor

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Syncom communications satellite soared into orbit today but radio contact was lost with it and there was speculation the craft was knocked off its spin axis by a small rocket motor intended to kick it into the world's first synchronous orbit.

A synchronous orbit is one in which the satellite seems to stand still in space because it is traveling at the same speed the earth rotates.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced nearly 11 hours after the 12:35 a.m. launching that radio contact had vanished at 5:42 a.m.—just after the so-called apogee motor in the spacecraft was ignited by a timer.

A program official reported the trouble an hour before the official announcement.

The NASA statement said radio signals were not heard after the apogee motor burned its full 20-second duration.

It said officials have been unable to confirm synchronous orbit —"They are operating under the assumption that the spin axis was misaligned at the time of the apogee motor firing."

The satellite was to have spun 150 revolutions a minute for stabilization.

CONTINUE EFFORTS

NASA said trackers could not confirm if the satellite had been damaged. Efforts were continued to try to regain contact.

★ ★ ★

Failure of the experiment would be a blow to U.S. hopes of starting experimentation with high-altitude synchronous satellites, three of which would suffice to provide worldwide communications coverage.

The satellite was launched at 12:35 a.m. (EST) by a three-stage Delta rocket which performed perfectly in drilling the craft into a giant egg-shaped orbit at about 22,800 miles an hour.

Syncom coasted upwards, gradually losing speed, until it reached a point about 22,300 miles high, and a timing device ignited the small rocket at 5:42 a.m.

★ ★ ★

'FIRED SUCCESSFULLY'

"The motor fired successfully," the official said, "but radio signals stopped 13 seconds later. We regained a brief signal about 7 a.m. but nothing more. We may be in a beautiful orbit and just encountering transmission difficulties."

More Refugees Pour Into City

Miami May Shut Cubans Out

MIAMI (AP) — There was growing indication today that Miami may soon have to slam the door to Cuban refugees.

This sympathetic city of refuge from Communist oppression opened its arms to another pathetic band of 746 Cubans this morning.

But alarm was rising that south Florida's economy was slowly drowning in the human flood.

Appeals went out to other cities to pitch in and help take some of the load off a Miami area already choking from the pressure of 155,000 penniless escapees from Fidel Castro's Red regime.

"There are other ports where these unfortunate people could be disembarked without causing any serious problems," said Richard Basinger, Port Everglades commissioner.

"Everyone in south Florida agrees that we should aid anyone who is in serious trouble," Basinger said. "But the time has come when this influx of refugees into our area must stop.

"It is unfair to the Cubans to bring them into an area where the job situation is so bad. I think it is time for Baltimore, Savannah, New York, New Orleans and other port cities to offer their help."

In Tallahassee, an identical reaction was expressed by Gov. Farris Bryant.

It would be better both for the refugees and for south Florida, he said, "for the impact of these people to be spread over a larger area of the nation."

In the stuffy holds of the banana freighters Santo Cerro, the newest arrivals reached Port Everglades, the port of Fort Lauderdale, at 8:55 a. m. (EST) today.

As usual, they were to be brought to Miami Stadium for reunion with friends and relatives —another of the emotional scenes which have become almost commonplace in a city which has given its aid and comfort to so many from the once friendly island to the south.

300,000 FLEE

Since Castro took Cuba into the Communist orbit, some 300,000 citizens of the once happy and fun-loving republic have fled his rule.

About 200,000 have come to Miami on ransom freighters, freedom flights and by making the perilous water crossing in tiny boats.

The conduct of the Cubans has been exemplary, and they have been absorbed smoothly into the life of the city.

But there have been many complaints lately about the large numbers of refugees moving into available jobs.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy Seeks 2 Youth Corps

Special Message to Congress Urges Steps

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy asked Congress today to set up a youth conservation corps with 15,000 members and create a national service corps similar to the Peace Corps operation abroad.

In a special youth message keyed to the theme of serving young people better so "they will serve their nation better" Kennedy also proposed an expansion in the overseas peace corps.

The proposed conservation corps would provide work and training for 15,000 youths in national forests and recreation areas. It would resemble the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of the 1930s.

The national service corps would be a domestic Peace Corps, composed of volunteers of all ages willing to serve in hospitals, mental health centers, schools, on Indian reservations, and in city slums or poor rural areas.

Kennedy said his proposals were designed to reduce unemployment among younger Americans, boost the economy and permit citizens of any age to help meet the need for homefront services.

The President emphasized need for action on juvenile delinquency, family welfare, education and health and physical fitness.

The total price tag for all the projects is obscure, even though Kennedy has recommended all of them before in general if not specific terms.

Kennedy buttressed the plea for action with figures and arguments he has used many times.

He spoke of the mounting birth rate, the over-crowding of schools, the growing proportion of unemployment among young people, the increase in juvenile arrests and delinquency.

"The future promise of any nation," he said, "can be directly measured by the present prospects of its youth.

Crash Caused by Weather?

Link Jetliner's Plunge to Thunderstorm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blustery Florida weather got the tentative blame today for a Northwest Orient Airlines jetliner's plunge into the Everglades with loss of 43 lives.

A federal investigator who would not be quoted by name said the plane apparently "broke apart in a thunderstorm. It just wrenched apart."

Rain and gusty winds ruffled Florida Tuesday, the day of the crash, unroofing some dwellings and prompting tornado warnings in north and central portions of the state.

The Civil Aeronautics Board sent investigators to the marshy scene of the four-engined Boeing 720B's tragic plunge, nine miles from the nearest road, but said its findings would not be made public for several days.

The CAB and other investigative agencies apparently were not prepared to say the airplane blew apart in flight. But officers who explored the crash scene said bodies and other substantial debris of the crash were scattered within a radius of more than 200 yards of the shattered aircraft, and made dents of one foot or more in the spongy, yielding ground surface of the swampy region. This indicated some of the occupants and baggage of the plane reached the earth in a "free fall" outside the stricken airliner's fuselage.

Investigators attached prime significance to a charred but substantially undamaged black box, containing in effect the story of the plane's life after its Miami take-off into rain squalls Tuesday afternoon.

State Leaders Unite

Fight for Olympics

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's politicians, civic leaders, businessmen and industrialists are pulling up a united front to shore up Detroit's bid for the 1968 Olympic Games.

The decision of directors of the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) to reopen bidding to other cities—particularly Los Angeles—stirred quick action in Detroit and the state capital in Lansing yesterday.

Man Survives Sand Pit Burial

LAKE TOMAHAWK, Wis. (AP) —A durable woodcutter buried to his shoulders in treacherous shifting sand for nearly 15 hours after a well cave-in was pulled free early today in apparently good condition.

★ ★ ★

Raymond (Fuzzy) Fink, 31, was rescued from a 20-foot pit he had dug in this northern Wisconsin community by a volunteer force which battled sand slides and numbing cold throughout the night.

"I'm okay, honey; I'm okay, honey," Fink said as he embraced his wife Bernice, who had kept a constant vigil despite the subzero weather.

★ ★ ★

Fink, slightly haggard and covered with sand, rejected an offer of a stretcher, walked to a power station and, despite protests, was taken to a hospital in nearby Woodruff.

★ ★ ★

He complained only of a few minor aches and pains as he ordered — and was given — a drink of whisky.

Dr. Charles H. Flint said Fink appeared "perfectly all right," but would be kept at the hospital for additional examinations.

Fink, who is 5-foot-10 and has a slight but muscular build, was described by the doctor as "pretty darned tough." A check of his heart and lungs showed no damage in the long ordeal.

'Document Nonpartisan'

Michigan's proposed new constitution is not a partisan issue and should not be treated as such, an Oakland County con-con delegate told an audience at Pontiac Northern High School last night.

Attorney Henry L. Woolfenden of Bloomfield Hills said, "The new document should be decided on its own merits and not what any party says about it."

Woolfenden, the delegate from the county's Third Legislative District at the 7½-month convention, was one of three delegates who spoke in favor of the ratified constitution.

★ ★ ★

The others were John E. McCauley, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, and Vera Andrus, a retired schoolteacher from Port Huron and a member of the education committee at the convention in Lansing.

All urged the support of the proposed constitution when it is voted on April 1.

Woolfenden said 75 per cent of all the recommendations presented to the convention as a whole were adopted by unanimous vote of the committee members who drafted them.

"And 65 per cent of all decisions at the convention were unanimous or substantially unanimous — less than five votes in favor or against," Woolfenden added.

★ ★ ★

"Republicans outnumbered Democrats nearly two to one, but at no time, like some people would like you to think, did they steam roll over the convention."

APPORTIONMENT

The closest to becoming a partisan issue was apportionment," Woolfenden said, "but actually that argument is mainly urban and rural."

The meeting was sponsored by the Oakland County Non-partisan Committee for the New Constitution.

Cosponsors were the Pontiac League of Women Voters, the local chapter of the American Association of University Women, Pontiac Education Association, United Church Women and the Pontiac Parent-Teacher Association Council.

Pontiac attorney James W. Howlett was the moderator.

Students and Faculty Like OU's New Name

A sampling of opinion among students and faculty at Oakland University indicated a generally favorable reaction to a change in the school's name from Michigan State University Oakland.

But because of previous campus discussions and explanations by Chancellor D. B. Varner the change came as no surprise.

The name of the institution was changed last weekend by the Michigan State University board of trustees.

Following are some reactions by students and faculty.

Jerome Cisaruk, 23-year-old sophomore from Detroit, said he is "most happy the word university has been retained.

"It's for the best to establish our own identity separate from Michigan State University at East Lansing."

Wallace Liley, 21-year-old senior from Oxford, said "after being here four years it doesn't really make that much difference to me."

★ ★ ★

He thought the new name would prove beneficial in attracting high school students.

"They aren't likely to think of Oakland University as just a branch of MSU . . . We like to think of it as being better than MSU," he added.

'LESS CONFUSION'

Patricia Hanes, 20 year-old junior from Royal Oak said "I think the new name is better for us. When you told people you are from Michigan State University Oakland it took a lot of explaining to set them straight that you weren't at East Lansing."

Ardith Morris, 20-year-old junior from St. Clair Shores, said "Oakland University is all right because it's shorter. Otherwise it doesn't matter to me; the curriculum is the important thing."

David Fullerton, 24-year-old sophomore from Pontiac agreed that the new name is "all right . . . It's the least offensive name they could come up with.

'NOT IMPORTANT'

"I believe most students don't think the name change means too much; they are mostly concerned

Venezuelan Freighter Is Spotted

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—U.S. Navy planes sighted and circled a hijacked Venezuelan freighter today about 200 miles due south of the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean Sea, the Venezuelan Navy announced.

The freighter was seized Tuesday night by members of a Communist terrorist organization opposed to the government of President Romulo Betancourt, Communications Minister Pablo Miliani reported. Earlier reports said the terrorists had help from an unidentified warship.

The Venezuelan government declared the seizure an act of piracy and asked the navies of all nations to help in capturing it.

The navy announcement said the U. S. Navy planes, presumably from Puerto Rico, were circling the ship.

Venezuelan destroyers had been carrying out a search for the 3,127-ton freighter Anzoategue, whose skipper radioed that members of the Communist Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN) took over as she steamed toward New Orleans.

Miliani's report changed the time of the hijacking from yesterday to Tuesday, shortly after it left Venezuelan waters.

The government shipping company first reported that the captain of the ship had messaged the ship was intercepted by a warship but later the company said it could not confirm whether another vessel was involved.

Miliani said there was evidence the terrorists stowed away with the help of some of the 36-man crew.

The terrorists said in messages they meant the seizure of the ship to stir world opinion against Betancourt.

In Caracas, a fresh wave of terrorism exploded, apparently timed with the seizure of the freighter. More than a score of persons were wounded in scattered gun battles between FALN terrorists and police.

Terrorists also burned down a tire factory and set fire to several buses and cars.

The terrorists threw flaming bottles of gasoline at passing police cars and against the building of Radio Continente, a pro-Betancourt station.

Goldfine OKs Tax Settlement

Agrees to Receivers' Sales of Assets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department announced today Bernard Goldfine has agreed to receivers' sales of his assets to settle $10.3 million of tax claims.

The claims are against Goldfine individually and the former New England millionaire's textile companies.

A department spokesman said the agreement is contained in papers filed this morning in federal courts in Boston, Concord, N.H., and Rutland, Vt.

The department said that the amount that may be actually received can not be accurately estimated. But it is expected, the spokesman said, that the sales will satisfy most of Goldfine's $3.5-million personal liability and at least half of the $6.8 million liability of his companies.

HAPPENED UNDER IKE

Goldfine, Russian-born industrialist from Boston, became a figure of controversy during the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It was developed during House hearings that Goldfine had made gifts to Sherman Adams, No. 1 aide to Eisenhower, and had paid for hotel stays at resorts by Adams.

There was testimony, too, that Adams had made inquiries to government regulatory agencies, such as the Federal Trade Commission, about the status of cases involving Goldfine companies.

Both Adams and Goldfine, who were old friends, insisted there was nothing improper in what had been done.

There was a political uproar, however, and Adams resigned his post.

10 Organizations to Air Business District Plan

BIRMINGHAM—Ten municipal and civic organizations tonight will begin a joint effort aimed at eventual adoption of Birmingham's central business district development (CBDD) plan.

City Planner William R. Brownfield said no action is expected to be taken at the meeting. It will serve primarily as an informational session, he explained.

* * *

The plan has been described by Brownfield as "a concept that would revitalize the central business district."

It was designed as a guide for improvement of parking, street lighting, appearances of downtown buildings and the movement of traffic.

Completed in 1961, the plan was financed at a cost of more than $15,000 paid for by Birmingham merchants. The city administration worked with professional planners hired by the merchants.

* * *

Brownfield said today's 8 p.m. meeting, which will be held in the Municipal Building, will open with a general presentation of the CBDD project.

Afterward, organizations will present brief individual statements of their needs in relation to the existing plan.

Among Birmingham organizations to be represented tonight will be the Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Board of Realtors, the local Council of Churches and the Citizens' Action Committee.

Others attending will be officials from the City Commission, city planning board, the Community House board of directors, the board of education, and the Baldwin Public Library Board.

Alice Price, English teacher at Birmingham Seaholm High School, has been chosen for the "Distinguished Teacher Award" presented annually by the Birmingham Education Association.

Miss Price, who has been with the Birmingham School District since 1945, was selected "for her significant contribution to the upgrading of the entire teaching profession through her working in helping to develop the system's professional growth program."

A lecture - demonstration by Laurence Barker, instructor at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, will be held 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Birmingham Art Center, 1516 S. Cranbrook Road.

The lecture, open to the public, is sponsored by the Bloomfield Art Association.

Weatherman Has Cold Heart

By United Press International

The weatherman gave the Midwest a chilly valentine today.

From Grand Forks, N. D., where it was 4 below, to Texas Rio Grande Valley, where another freeze threatened tender vegetable and citrus crops, the mercury stood low.

The cold pierced far into Florida, dropping temperatures to an expected 28, but probably not enough to hurt the crops.

A cloud cover moved in yesterday and held temperatures above predicted levels in the Rio Grande Valley. Farmers burned smudge pots in an attempt to prevent any damage to the multimillion dollar garden crops.

The current cold snap was the fifth sub-freezing mass of Arctic air to strike the valley this year. Another hard frost could wreck next year's production, and hurt early sweet corn, field corn and watermelons.

Secretaries 'Feeling Great' Following Walk of 32 Miles

By the Associated Press

A miss is as good as a mile.

A good miss is good for 32 miles.

* * *

Five good and healthy misses —congressional secretaries — decided to uphold the physical fitness of the legislative branch of government by following some advice given by the Chief Executive.

They walked yesterday for nearly 12 hours until they had traversed 32 miles of the nation's capital.

"We feel great," said one of the quintet: Shia Green, 25, of New York City; Jackie McDonald, 23, of St. Louis; Carolyn White, 21, of Washington; Alice Schneider, 22, of Cincinnati, and Patricia Hughes, 18, of Washington.

* * *

Army Spec. 4 Craig Fallon of Long Branch, N.J., who accompanied the girls, commented: "It was a nice day for a walk." Fallon rode alongside the secretaries in a jeep.

ONE OF MANY

The hike was one of several walkathons set off by President Kennedy after the commandant of the Marine Corps dug up a 1908 order of President Theodore Roosevelt saying that any U.S. Marine should be able to walk 50 miles in three days. Kennedy wondered if today's Marines could do it.

* * *

Well, you know the Marines. Thirty-four of them, led by Brig. Gen. Rathvon McClure Tompkins—who has a game leg as the result of an old shrapnel wound—crossed the 50-mile line at Camp LeJeune, N.C. Tompkins did it in 15 hours and 32 minutes.

One of his men, 2nd Lt. Marty Shimek, a long-distance runner from Hazen, Ark., finished the 50 miles in 9 hours and 53 minutes.

Shimek's time knocked down the record claimed by a U.S. Air Force prison guard in Britain, S.Sgt. Norman Roth of Modesto, Ill., who took five minutes more. Roth's claim in turn had knocked down the record of 10 hours and 27 minutes by an infantry sergeant in Germany.

Meanwhile, three legislative aides of Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., made a comparatively modest five-mile hike between the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial. It took 90 minutes for the trio — William P. Kendall, Thomas Vandervoort and Phyllis Parker—to make the trek.

Said Kendall to a newsman: "Our Republican hike illustrates the difference between the parties. We're all for physical fitness but are trying, in the face of the usual Democratic bluster, to keep it on a sensible level."

Barbara Whitman, 18-year-old freshman from Utica, agreed, "I think the name has a definite effect on how people accept you . . . MSUO always made me think of Podunk U."

Robert G. Hoopes, dean of the faculty and professor of English, said "I think the name change was good indeed. Chancellor Varner's reasons for the change are sound.

"I wouldn't have cared for Oakland College. It would have required another change later on when it would be more difficult."

David Lowy, psychology teacher and director of psychological services, said "Oakland University gives us a unique identity and so a better chance to remain unique.

"The crucial aspect is what we accomplish here rather than depending on another's reputation."

Bomb Threat Stirs Washington

Disturbed Man Scares Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—A disturbed man who wanted to "take his trouble right to the top" gave historic Pennsylvania Avenue a bad case of heebie-jeebies with a two-hour bomb scare.

Nathan Wise, 33, of Phoenix, Ariz., wheeled his car out of the noon hour traffic yesterday and drove it up on the steps of the Justice Department building.

Swiftly crawling under it, Wise demanded to see FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover—the only man he said he could trust.

He had evidence, he said, to "impeach President Kennedy and his cabinet."

In Phoenix, Wise's wife and mother revealed he had been under psychiatric care for a year since taking it very hard when his father died.

His car also gave the impression of a great homemade bomb. Police who approached him got a strong whiff of gasoline and spotted a strange suitcase wired to the bottom of the car.

"I won't come out," Wise told them. "I'll die right here. I'll never leave here alive. Don't come near me or I'll blow the place up."

* * *

Police didn't take chances. They called an Army bomb squad and blocked off the neighborhood. Traffic was stopped. The first two floors of the big Justice Department building were evacuated.

For two hours they tried to coax him out, while he chatted amiably with them but refused to budge.

Finally police decided not to wait any longer and flushed him out by rolling tear gas grenades under the car.

* * *

Police grabbed Wise as he emerged red-eyed and hustled him off to D. C. General Hospital where he was held for mental observation. There was no bomb. The suitcase was stuffed with newspapers. The smell of gasoline came from three five-gallon cans in the back seat.

State Fighting for Olympics

pic stadium at the State Fairgrounds.

A copy of the proposal was rushed 80 miles by police car to Lansing so it could be introduced in the legislature without delay.

Rep. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, who sponsored the state legislative proposal, said it was essential for getting federal aid in building a 100,000-seat stadium and other olympic facilities.

Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, prepared a resolution to set up a six-man legislative committee to support efforts to get the games for Detroit. He said the committee would consider a possible course of legislative action to aid in the effort.

The State Chamber of Commerce promised the support of business and industrial leaders.

Industrialist Fred Matthaei, for many years leader of efforts to get the games, voiced bitter disappointment over the decision to reopen bidding.

He said, "I'm sure the executive committee acted under threat of legal action by Los Angeles. It's unheard of in amateur sports to make a move like this."

Electrical Union May Walk Out

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A strike which could affect electrical service in much of Wisconsin, including Milwaukee, and Michigan's Upper Peninsula has been threatened by a union representing workers at the Electic Co.

Local 317 of the Operating Engineers' Union voted last night to strike at 2 p.m. Sunday unless a contract dispute with the Milwaukee utility is settled.

James T. Horaitis, business manager of the local, told a meeting of about 450 members that several Milwaukee trade unions have assured him they would honor picket lines.

The Electric Co. serves an area from Port Washington, just north of Milwaukee to Watertown, in east central Wisconsin, south to the Illinois line.

Real Dope on Teddy's Hiking Order

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As everyone in the entire, ever-loving, ambulatory world must know by now, America is on a hiking binge.

★ ★ ★

The way things are going, hiking will become the biggest fad since flagpole sitting. Some people apparently are just now discovering that they have feet.

WEST

It all started, of course, with President Kennedy's revival of an old Theodore Roosevelt directive fixing a three-day, 50-mile hike as a fitness test for military officers.

Would you like to hear the true, inside story of what was behind the original directive? Very well. Just stay right there in your easy chair and I will give you the scoop.

Roosevelt was never exactly a 98-pound weakling, but he did have what might be described as a "Charles Atlas complex."

As a youth, according to his autobiography, he was "rather sickly and awkward" and "quite unable to hold my own when thrown into contact with other boys of rougher antecedents."

If Atlas, the famous body-builder, had been in business at the time, young Teddy probably would have enrolled in his correspondence course in muscle development.

PRE-ATLAS PRIMITIVE

But he lived in the primitive era before Atlas and so for several years, Roosevelt went in big for wrestling.

While governor of New York, he billed the state for a wrestling mat, but the expense was disallowed by the comptroller, who took the position that it was not a "proper gubernatorial amusement."

Roosevelt next took up boxing, but abandoned it after a poke in the eye ruptured some blood vessels. He was by then getting pretty old, so he turned to less strenuous exercise — jiu-jitsu.

It was his high regard for, what he called "the vigor of life" that prompted him to issue the hiking directive. The armed forces were dismayed by the order and did all they could to circumvent it.

But Roosevelt himself said it was "a test which many a healthy middle-aged woman would be able to meet."

To prove his point, he often went on hikes with an athletic group known as the "Tennis Cabinet."

When they came to a river, they didn't bother with bridges. They swam across.

"If we swam the Potomac, we usually took off our clothes," Roosevelt recalled.

On one occasion the French ambassador joined the hike and as they were about to swim the river someone noticed that he was still wearing his gloves.

"I think I will leave them on," said the proper but otherwise naked envoy. "We might meet ladies."

Euclid Was a Bit Late

Mathematical problems inscribed on clay tablets found near Baghdad, Iraq, indicate that schoolboys were learning about the hypotenuse of a right triangle 1,700 years before Euclid's time.

Judge Refuses City Rehearing

Circuit Judge William J. Beer yesterday denied a request by the city of Pontiac for a rehearing on appraisal fees for seven properties condemned under the city's R20 urban renewal project.

Judge Beer said he had reviewed his allowances in the cases and found they were reasonable.

The city asked Monday for reconsideration of $11,960 awarded to appraisers for their services and court testimony concerning the seven properties.

The City Commission instructed Harold W. Dudley, its condemnation attorney, to appeal the awards to the Supreme Court.

Judge Beer Monday granted the city a 30-day extension of time in which to file such an appeal.

The seven fees range from $930 to $3,120, according to the city, which claims such fees usually run no higher than $100 per day.

The U. S. Internal Revenue Service, which received 100 million returns in 1962, anticipates 113 million returns by 1970 and 135 million by 1980.

Expect Light Turnouts in Most Area Primaries

Light turnouts are expected in most of the 18 area townships where primaries are being held Monday to nominate party candidates for public office.

Main exceptions are in the townships and that portion of Troy that make up the Avondale School District where recall of three board members will be decided and in a section of Avon Township where residents will be balloting on city incorporation with Rochester.

A heated contest also is anticipated in Shelby Township where a full slate of candidates is vying for party nominations.

Rose Township is the only township in Oakland County where party caucuses are slated to pick candidates. They will be held Saturday.

Following is a roundup of office-seekers in each township:

Fired or Resigned? It's Not Clear

Inspector Jobless at Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE — It is not clear whether Ernest Campion quit or was fired, but the former Walled Lake building inspector definitely is out of a job today.

Campion said City Manager E. V. Mercer "refused to reinstate me" in a meeting between the two men yesterday afternoon.

Mercer said today that he "has accepted Mr. Campion's resignation."

"I didn't consider it a firing," stated the city manager.

★ ★ ★

The meeting yesterday afternoon was held before Walled Lake Justice of the Peace Gene Schnelz, who acted as Mercer's attorney at a public hearing before the City Council Tuesday night.

Campion had requested the hearing. At the public session, Campion asked to be reinstated as a city employe.

The council decided that Campion's reinstatement should be left up to the city manager and suggested the meeting between the two men.

Following yesterday's meeting, Campion said Mercer told him he had been advised by the council not to reinstate him.

"He refused to reinstate me, but said he would write a letter saying I was not fired," said Campion.

At Tuesday's hearing — when Mercer said Campion's "insubordination" brought about the problem—the city manager said he "would be willing to give Campion another chance."

Mercer said today that "the amount of new building out here is nil."

"That's the whole thing in a nutshell," said the city manager. "There just wasn't enough work to do."

It was a dispute betwen the two men over whether Campion should become building inspector for the police and fire departments that ignited the issue.

Mercer proposed that Campion become dispatcher in addition to his duties as building, electrical, plumbing and heating inspector and as head of the DPW and water departments.

★ ★ ★

"He (Campion) had a lot of titles," said Mercer today, "but in a community of this size we can't have a job for every title."

"There is absolutely no fault to be found with Campion's work or his ability," Mercer concluded.

The situation today is much the same as it was at the start of a Jan. 15 council meeting when it was not clear whether Campion had been fired or had quit.

★ ★ ★

Mercer, who first said Campion had quit, later in the meeting said the building inspector could consider himself fired.

Schedule Primaries in 2 County Villages

Primary elections will be held Monday in two Oakland County villages.

Voters in Holly and Lake Orion will go to the polls to nominate candidates to represent their respective parties in the April 1 general election.

In both communities only trustee candidates will be decided since other office seekers are either unchallenged or have no party opposition.

★ ★ ★

In Holly, Lott Everly will try to unseat one of the three incumbents seeking the two-year terms. The incumbents are Aaron Ganshaw, Clarence Lester and Fred Disbrow.

Unopposed candidates in Holly are all incumbents. They are John F. Oldani, president; George J. Patterson, clerk; Hulda H. Anderson, treasurer; and Grant Hulet, assessor.

All candidates belong to the Union party.

They are Robert Hauxwell, Gilbert Woodcock, both incumbents, John Leonard, Russell Gilmore and Thomas Arthur.

Only three Village party candidates filed for the trustee posts so there will not be a need for a runoff. They are G. Eugene Thompson, Michael LaMagna and Stewart Drahner.

Other candidates and the offices they are seeking are:

President: incumbent Irvine J Unger, (C) and Robert D. Stokes (V); clerk: incumbent Mrs. Mary Parkinson (C); treasurer: incumbent Geraldine J. Campbell (C) and Margaret A. Iles (V); and assessor incumbent Mrs. Geraldine Storey (C).

Board Picks Administrators

UTICA—The school board here has chosen six men to fill administrative positions to be available when three new schools open next fall.

Phillip E. Runkel, presently assistant principal of Eppler Junior High School, will be principal of Shelby Junior High School, to be completed by the beginning of the next school year.

Replacing Runkel will be Norbert Lerch, currently a teacher at the high school.

★ ★ ★

Assistant principal of the new Junior High School will be William A. Teller, who is now principal of West Utica Elementary School.

Louis Boggs, a teacher at the elementary school, is slated to take over as principal.

A teacher at Jack Harvey Elementary, Charles Dugan will move up to the principal's slot. Mrs. Ollabelle Wilson, who has been acting head of Jack Harvey and Plumbrook Elementary Schools will confine her efforts to serving as principal of Plumbrook.

★ ★ ★

The final administrative promotion moves Donald Minchella, a teacher at Plumbrook, up to the position of principal of Switzer Elementary School, when it opens in the fall.

City Status Vote Up in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Although no primary will be held here this year, voters will go to the polls Monday to decide on the proposed city incorporation and to select nine charter commission members.

Voters will decide whether to retain the present village and its boundaries, or incorporate the village and an adjacent portion of Avon Township into a city.

Nine charter commission posts must also be filled in Monday's balloting. If incorporation is rejected, the election of the commissioners will be nullified.

Should incorporation pass, the nine commissioners would draft the city charter for voter approval. Then city incorporation would become a reality.

Under the proposed city plan, the present western and southern village limits would remain, while the northern boundary would be set at Tienken Road. Dequindre Road would enclose the new city on the east.

The nine candidates for the charter commission are Ally Ensign, Edwin Forbush, John Low Roy Rewold, Neil Rosso, Charles Seed, John Terry, J. Francis Voll, and Frank Wolff.

Oxford firemen said the cause of the fire was undetermined. The property is owned by Chuck Felvmann.

Gail Johnson Weds

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Central Methodist Church, Pontiac, was the setting for the recent candlelight wedding of Gail Lee Johnson and Raymond G. Fulkerson.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Milton H. Bank performed the 7 p.m. rites.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Allen Amoe, 8760 Arlington St., and Leslie Johnson of Detroit. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hurl Fulkerson Sr., 8990 Pontiac Lake Road.

MRS. R. G. FULKERSON

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of peau de soie and tulle fashioned with a mandarin collar and puff sleeves.

Her fingertip veil was attached to a rhinestone - studded floral headpiece, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and carnations.

★ ★ ★

Sandra K. Johnson attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Marylee Judge and Judith Wade, both of Pontiac.

Serving as best man was James Caspers of Pontiac. The guests were seated by Glen Smith of Saginaw and Leonard Janisse of Detroit, cousin of the bride.

Flower girl was Michelle Janisse of Detroit, cousin of the bride, and ring bearer, Richard Fulkerson of Pontiac, nephew of the bridegroom.

★ ★ ★

A reception in the White Lake Township Hall followed the nuptials. The newlyweds are living in Pontiac.

10 to Run in Southfield for 4 Council Vacancies

SOUTHFIELD—Ten candidates, including the four incumbents, are in Monday's primary race for four vacancies on the Southfield City Council.

The balloting will trim the field to eight who will vie for office in the general election in April.

The incumbents are Clarence A. Durbin, O. David Edwards, John C. Hollywood and Thomas C. Rowley.

Other candidates are James J. Julian, 30561 Balewood St.; Mrs. Jean McDonnell, 19860 12-Mile Road; Elizabeth Molner, 25982 Rouge Court; Will J. Oliver, 23975 Beech Court; William L. Reeves, 21521 Indian Road; and Jim Wells, 19831 Saxton St.

A second council race will be decided in the April 1 general election as well as the contest for mayor.

In both instances, only two filed for the single openings and therefore are not on the primary ballot.

Appointee Alex Perinoff is running for the unexpired four-year term of former Councilman Robert Landers, the vacancy he is now filling. He will be challenged by Thomas P. Saks, 18916 Greenwald St.

Competing against Mayor S. James Clarkson for the top city post will be current Council President C. Hugh Dohany.

Dohany, who is midway in a four-year council term, is not required to relinquish his present post to run for mayor.

City Clerk Patrick G. Flannery and Treasurer Clara Lane are unopposed for re-election in the April 1 balloting.

Recall Vote in Avondale Set Monday

Electors of the Avondale School District will decide the proposed recall of three school board officers in conjunction with township primaries Monday.

Residents of Troy who reside in the district will vote in the southwest Avon Community Building, located at 2137 W. Auburn Road.

Persons living in the portions of Avon, Bloomfield and Pontiac townships which are within the school district boundaries will cast ballots at the usual polling places.

A citizen's group, the Avondale School District Improvement Association, is attempting to recall School Board President Floyd L. Cobb Jr., Vice President David W. Hackett, and Treasurer Mrs. Genevieve Porter.

Rochester to Mail Out School Questionnaire

ROCHESTER — A questionnaire on school operation will be mailed to some 450 residents here next week by the Citizen's School Study Group, as a part of its current examination of the school district.

Maintains That Skin Keeps Out Poison

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

Recently, an article on Percutaneous Absorption (percutaneous is a $1.80 way of saying through the skin) was published in a journal.

Nothing startling about that.

Yahbut you ain't heard nothin' yet! The essay itself carried a tail or tag end calculated to intimidate the poor soul who is awed by anything "scientific." The tail of the piece consisted of —hang on to your hats—218 references on the absorption of various classes of drugs and chemicals through the skin!

So what? When I say no chemical, drug, medicine, food or other substance can be absorbed through the unbroken skin, do I mean to imply that the 218 doctors, chemists or whatever identified in this list of references are wrong?

If they imply that the skin does absorb certain substances under certain circumstances — substances such as nitroglycerin in dynamite, lead in tetra-ethyl led gasoline, mercury in blue ointment, iodin in tincture, etc.—I say they're all out of step but Brady.

★ ★ ★

What's more, I'll bet anybody up to $10,000 on the outcome of a properly controlled test of the question of my skin, the proceeds to go to a charity named by the winner.

If you think I should investigate the 218 references before I sound off so rashly about the impermeability of the unbroken skin, you're crazy.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

Incidentally, since it is easier to prove a positive than it is to prove a negative, those who still maintain the skin does absorb something should make up a purse and arrange with me for the time and place to test the question on my skin. Put up or shut up! This includes the essay's author and his 218 references, as well as the hundreds of thousands who are still out of step with the pertinacious (to put it mildly) conductor of this column.

We old-timers set great store by the inunction treatment of syphilis (rubbing mercury salve—"blue ointment"—on or "into" the skin). We believed the mercury was absorbed through the skin.

The inunction method was abandoned later because there was no way of telling how much mercury the patient absorbed; also because we realized that what mercury the patient did absorb was inhaled, when the heat of the body volatilized it.

★ ★ ★

One is likely to inhale or breathe more or less of any volatile substance applied to the skin. If the substance is not volatile one can rub it on the skin until the cows come home, without risk of poisoning, provided one avoids eating, drinking, chewing, smoking or licking the fingers.

★ ★ ★

It should be reassuring to know, as I do, that the skin absolutely bars entrance of any poison into the body as long as it isn't punctured, scratched, cut, torn or abraded.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

CLAY CENTER, Kan. (AP) — A cattle-feeding trough that also serves as a fence has been developed here. The trough is on the noncattle side of the fence, so that it can be filled without interference.

The fence is spaced so that the cattle can stick their heads through and eat from the trough.

NASA Orders Two Crawlers for Moon Shot

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Marion Power Shovel Co., major manufacturer of heavy equipment, has received an order from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to build two giant crawler vehicles to be used in the Apollo moon shot program.

To cost $5 million each, the 5.5-million pound crawlers will be used to carry the Apollo spacecraft and its equipment into launching position.

The crawlers will be so big—130 feet long and 115 feet wide—that Marion Power Shovel will ship them in pieces to the space agency's launching area near Merritt Island, Fla. They will be capable of lifting a load of 12 million pounds.

Poor Sportsmanship Shown by California

Michigan and Detroit are the objects of an underhanded attack from Los Angeles and the State of California.

★ ★ ★

Every four years, the International Olympic Committee decides which nation will stage the games. When the country for 1968 is considered next October, the United States will be an active and assertive bidder with a good chance of winning.

★ ★ ★

Hence, our nation must decide which city will be designated so the proper arguments for that site can be advanced. This meeting was duly held by the Olympic committee with half a dozen U.S. cities in a spirited contest.

Detroit was officially designated. But the matter didn't end.

★ ★ ★

In an amazing fit of bad sportsmanship, Los Angeles refused to accept the official verdict and has been yackety-yacking about it ever since. Now Californians have shown their true colors by coming out in the open and demanding a completely new evaluation so that they might advance their claims anew.

This never happened before.

★ ★ ★

In previous years, whatever U.S. city was assigned the games in the event the United States was picked, immediately was recognized wholeheartedly by sister cities. It happened when Los Angeles was assigned the Olympic games in 1932. Has she forgotten? Memories in California are as short and unreliable as the California brand of sportsmanship. And mind you, this is on the international level.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, Detroit is rallying to her own cause and will expend every effort at the meeting in March to prove again that the original choice was correct.

Our own area has a double interest in all this. According to reliable estimates, Fred Matthaei has expended around a quarter of a million dollars of his own money over the last quarter of a century to bring the Olympic games to Detroit. The Matthaeis are area people, and Fred Junior and his fine family live here now while the father is currently a resident of Washtenaw County. Also, Douglas Roby of this area is Olympic First Vice President and prominent in world athletics.

If assigned to Detroit, the games would be held in a new 100,000-spectator stadium erected on the State Fair Grounds, and an authority has already been authorized to float a $35 million loan. The facility would probably be used subsequently by the Lions and even the Tigers and for other national sporting events. This area is richly entitled to the 1968 games if the United States is selected as the site. In the meantime, the Detroit committee faces the unpleasant necessity of proving our rights all over again because of the double dealing from California.

Long Walks Becoming Country's Top Fad

The current interest in walking as part of the New Frontier's fitness program is certainly a stride in the right direction.

It might be hard for officials afflicted with foot-in-mouth disease, but then it's easier than touch football and not quite so nerve-shattering as being dunked in swimming pools.

★ ★ ★

HARRY TRUMAN'S morning jaunts got considerable news play but he never won the acceptance the current fad is showing. The reason for this is probably that his fancy footwork was often outdone by his off-the-cuff remarks, which got considerable mileage despite their proven inaccuracies.

★ ★ ★

A few years ago journalist Denis Hawker of Australia paused with The Press for several months on a State Department tour of this nation.

Out to see the city on a sunny Sunday morning, HAWKER was in full stride whenever possible, but he reported that time after time he was stopped by local citizens, offering him a ride.

He was amazed at their friendliness, and they were amazed that anyone would be walking just for the heck of it.

Physicians tell us that walking is a sound exercise for everyone, provided marathon attempts are avoided. It even gives a person time to think—a rare thing today.

A Man of Few Words—About Himself, That Is

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

History and legend are replete with zealous figures who have gone in search of things, to wit:

(a) Diogenes, complete with lantern, in search of an honest man;
(b) Sir Galahad, the Round Table man, who went after the Holy Grail;
(c) Columbus, the Italian Wrong Way Corrigan, who drew a bead on the Orient and came up with North America;

• • •

(d) Unidentified persons who rummage through haystacks for needles . . . why, nobody knows;
(e) Seekers of the Lost Chord — noteless to date.

• • •

Well, you get the idea. The pursuit of disclosure is seldom crowned with success.

But the MAT is proud to present at least one searcher who scored a distinguished first in the discovery department.

Such was performed by Writing the column, a while ago, our shrinking violet made a few brief and incidental comments about himself, which appeared here . . . Talk about hiding your light under a bushel — he buried his underground!

Well, anyhow, to round out the dossier, here are a few points supplied by Mrs. S. that Mr. T. absent-mindedly overlooked:

• • •

(a) He is not only a printer but an artisan of his trade — with stationery specimens extant of his art;
(b) He is a direct descendant of Wm. C. Terry, who settled in Oakland County a short time after the Revolutionary War. (Reference Michigan Historical Society, volume 29);
(c) He served as Postmaster in Dryden for many years;

• • •

(d) He is in Michigan's "Who's Who";
(e) He is a student of history and an avid reader of historical novels.

• • •

And now, Mrs. S. if I were you, I'd stay out of range of Mr. T. for a long, long time —maybe forever.

This comes from

C. (not John F.) Kennedy.

A group of plumbers were discussing the hardships of their jobs. "You think you got it tough?" said an old-timer. "Listen. When I first started, they let us lay two lengths of pipe and then turned on the water — and we had to keep ahead."

David Lawrence Says:

Bill to Put Teeth in Desegregation

WASHINGTON — A significant bill has just been introduced in Congress on the subject of desegregation in the public schools.

LAWRENCE

Since the 1954 desegregation decisions of the Supreme Court, it has often been pointed out that the 14th Amendment specifically provides that Congress alone may enact laws to enforce the provisions of that amendment.

But somehow, during the last nine years, no such law has been enacted by Congress to require desegregation in the public schools.

It is refreshing, therefore, to see homage paid at last to the idea that Congress should pass a law on the subject.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Democrat, of Pennsylvania has just introduced a bill which, if passed, would require every school district to file a desegregation plan within three years, and the plan would be put into effect unless it was challenged in the courts as inadequate.

When asked why no such measure had been passed heretofore, Sen. Clark replied that a somewhat similar proposal has been sponsored for several years now by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois in his civil rights bills but these died in committee.

He explained that the new bill "would give legislative teeth to the 1954 decision and make it possible through legislative action to implement what the Supreme Court had ruled in its opinion."

ASKED BY JFK

The Pennsylvania senator said that he had been asked by Mr. Kennedy after the 1960 election to prepare legislation to carry out the Democratic platform pledge on school desegregation.

This correspondent asked Sen. Clark why he and others felt that legislation was necessary, especially since, up till now, the Department of Justice seems to have had no hesitancy about using numerous court orders on desegregation which have been as sweeping as if they had been derived from specific statutes.

At least it can be said that Sen. Clark's proposed legislation is more in line with constitutional theory than was the Supreme Court decision of 1954. For this was a ruling based primarily on sociological doctrine and not on constitutional law or precedent.

To put before Congress now a concrete piece of legislation on integration-desegregation issue is to give the representatives of the American people a chance to vote on the question.

If they decide in favor of such a law, the sentiment for enforcing it will at least be supported by a statute, and there would no longer be much discussion of the merits of the court decision itself.

Unhappily, however, even if Congress passed a law requiring desegregation in the public schools, this would not dispose of all of the points raised in the controversy over constitutionalism.

For "ratification" of the 14th Amendment itself was a plain fraud. It was an illegal procedure. Historians do not dispute the facts, though they excuse them as due to the emotional atmosphere of postwar days in 1868.

Oddly enough, the Supreme Court has never passed specifically on the legality of the strange method used to "adopt" the 14th Amendment.

It has dealt with hundreds of cases arising out of the wording of the amendment itself, but has refused to take any case involving the validity of the irregular and arbitrary procedures used to declare the 14th Amendment "ratified."

The court has simply said that the question is "political." But within the last few years, the Supreme Court broke precedent and accepted cases on the reapportionment of congressional districts, even though this had for decades been characterized by the court itself as a "political" question.

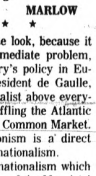
James Marlow Says:

Nationalism Not Peculiar to West; Russ Have it, Too

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration's re-examination of its foreign policy is like a doctor, with some ailments of his own, trying to prescribe for patients with everything from whooping cough to paranoia.

This re-examination is only one of many which must be made, not only during President Kennedy's time but long afterward, because the problems vary from nationalism and communism to fanaticism and pauperism.



MARLOW

★ ★ ★

The immediate look, because it is the most immediate problem, is at this country's policy in Europe where President de Gaulle, a French nationalist above everything else, is baffling the Atlantic alliance and the Common Market.

His obstructionism is a direct product of his nationalism.

But it is also nationalism which has made a farce of the Marxists' idea that communism eliminates nationalism with a special glue which keeps Communist nations together.

JUST AS NATIONALISTIC

The Russians are as nationalistic as the French, or the Americans, although they talk in big brother language.

Stalin showed he was no bleeding heart for communism—except where he was boss—in his break with Tito's Yugoslavia and the little help he gave the Red Chinese when they were trying to conquer the China mainland.

The Russians have gone through the usual period of fanaticism of early crusaders and revolutionaries. Stalin, Lenin and the other early bolsheviks were fanatics.

Their fanaticism was stoked by poverty. They had nothing—no industry, no armaments, no science really, no decent living arrangements, no sufficiency of consumer goods. But they built up fast.

Now, compared with the early bolshevik days, the Russians are an affluent society. With that affluence — that is, possessions — comes a degree of conservatism and some loss of the early crusading zeal because now they have something to lose by taking risks.

IN SAME CONDITION

The Red Chinese, whose leaders still alive were the original leaders of their revolution and therefore are comparable to the early bolsheviks, are in exactly the same economic condition as the Russians at the time of their revolution.

No wonder they have the same fierce attitude as the Russian Communists in the early decades of this century and are talking war while the now more worldly rich Russians have less compulsion to be risky.

Voice of the People:

'Why Are Missiles in Italy, Turkey Called Obsolete?'

What is an obsolete missile?

We have 45 missile bases in Turkey and Italy which are to be dismantled because they are "obsolete." These missiles are powerful weapons. They are poised like daggers at Khrushchev's jugular. They have power to destroy Soviet power many times over. Why are they obsolete?

★ ★ ★

What do we gain by taking them out? We replaced these by Polaris submarines. But we have these already and are building more. Dismantling our bases will give the people of Turkey and Italy the impression that we are withdrawing support. They can see the missile bases. They cannot see the submarines.

★

If Khrushchev decided to attempt a strike, he would first have to destroy all the missiles at every one of these 45 bases. This would be a tremendous diversion of his striking force. Destroying all would be quite a hurdle. Why make it easier for Khrushchev?

Last of Remarks on Area Dispute

The Avondale recall election is not the result of "constant heckling from members of ASDIA." It is a determined effort on the part of residents in a school district tired of petty politics. People dedicated to better Avondale schools are not willing to let things deteriorate any more. The voters of Avondale School District are going to take the first step in removing Floyd Cobb, David Hackett and Genevieve Porter from the school board.

Jimmie Houlton Apsey
Charter Member
ASDIA

In the heat of a controversy, people tend to often to lose sight of the real issues. The Avondale case has become not only a popularity contest between the past superintendent and the board members being recalled, but a battle between the "old-timers" and the "newcomers."

★ ★ ★

ASDIA members are long-time residents and have devoted much of their time to the betterment of our school system. Why should they want to destroy what they have worked so hard to build up? They have no personal interest in the matter—no position to maintain—no prestige to hang onto.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac Press has been most fair and impartial in its coverage of the situation and has given it more time and space than it really deserved. Many have objected to the "bad" publicity our small community has received, but I feel it will benefit not only ours but other communities, if only by creating a new and stronger interest in education.

Mrs. William Bishop
3295 Coolidge Highway

Avondale School Board members have been proven to be good since our schools are in the top category for a district its size. The voters elect this board to do their best and with your help they can do even better.

★ ★ ★

Since when is any school board out of line when it refuses to extend or renew a superintendent's contract? Now we have the ASDIA crying instead of going along with the majority. They started the recall when they couldn't have their way.

What has the ASDIA done for the school district? They call themselves an improvement association and all they do is disapprove.

★ ★ ★

Should any group (political or otherwise) be allowed to pressure a school board, when it has done its best? Are the voters going to let this group continue harassing the school board?

Robert D. Thor
Dexter J. Thor

328 Donley
Troy

The Avondale Defenders urge everyone to vote on Monday, Feb. 18.

Read the propositions carefully. A "no" vote for each board member will defeat the recall and keep Mrs. Genevieve Porter, Floyd L. Cobb Jr. and David W. Hackett in office.

★ ★ ★

We believe in the democratic procedure for elections. When school board members have been voted into office by the people, we have enough faith in our fellow men to accept their judgement.

★ ★ ★

Regardless of the outcome of the election we urge all parties to become one united school district again: re-establish the district's fine reputation; support the board, the administrators and the teachers.

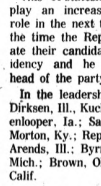
In Washington:

GOP Leaders Poised for Fight

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Republican congressional strategy is gradually taking shape. It should begin to show when Senate and House settle down for a little more work Feb. 18 after a week of GOP oratory in observance of Lincoln's birthday.

Just before this welkin ringing began, GOP congressional leaders of both houses approved two statements lambasting the Kennedy fiscal and foreign policies. These were adopted at an organization meeting of the joint Senate-House Republican leadership Feb. 7.



EDSON

This 11-statesmen group may play an increasingly important role in the next two years, up to the time the Republicans nominate their candidate for the presidency and he takes over as head of the party.

In the leadership are Senators Dirksen, Ill., Kuchel, Calif.; Hickenlooper, Ia.; Saltonstall, Mass.; Morton, Ky.; Reps. Halleck, Ind.; Arends, Ill.; Byrnes, Wis.; Ford, Mich.; Brown, Ohio, and Wilson, Calif.

The new members are Sen. Thruston Morton, former GOP National Committee chairman, and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the new House GOP Policy Committee chairman.

Morton and Wilson are Congressional Campaign Committee chairmen. Their groups will finance the staff work for leadership statements, even though this takes some money out of their campaign kitties.

It is noteworthy that Rep. William E. Miller, N. Y., who is also GOP National Committee chairman, does not sit in on this act officially. Neither do Senators Barry Goldwater of Arizona nor John G. Tower of Texas, the most aggressive attackers of all Kennedy policies.

★ ★ ★

The two minority leaders, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and Rep. Charles A. Halleck will continue as principal official spokesmen for the party in Congress and will continue the "Ev and Charlie show" from time to time, with minor changes.

They appeared on a national television panel show as a curtain raiser and they will be back on the air waves again whenever they have anything to say, which is frequently.

★ ★ ★

But they will also present guest stars now and then, particularly governors and presidential possibilities whenever they are in Washington. It's good free time, open for the asking.

★ ★ ★

It has taken over a month to get all this worked out. But as Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H. comments, no time has been lost. It has taken the Senate a month to lay the ghost of the liberals from both parties who wanted a rules change to prevent filibustering. And it has taken a month for the President to send Congress his principal messages on State of the Union, budget, economic policy, tax reform, farm, education and health programs. Also a request for a big supplemental appropriation for the rest of this fiscal year. They now give the Republicans something to shoot at.

The leadership statement on foreign policy, released this week, does not try to answer the President's State of the Union foreign policy declarations point by point. The criticisms are more on the President's conduct, or misconduct, of foreign policy in Europe, Cuba and other trouble spots.

Also, the Republicans think they can make more political hay by attacking the President's domestic policies. They say that "The Republican goal in this Congress will be a reduction of federal spending which can lead to a reasonable tax cut."

What this is taken to mean is that the Republicans are shooting for a balanced budget. They will try to reduce government appropriations first. Then they will limit the tax cuts to the amount they can slash from the budget.

The Republican congressional leadership offers no substitute program of its own other than that, "The government can help solve unemployment by encouraging industry and investment capital to promote expansion and new ventures . . . Chronic government deficits will never stimulate American ingenuity, build confidence or create jobs."

Has Theory on Failing of Orbit Radios

WASHINGTON (AP)—The communications blackout that stills the voice of astronauts during the final moments of their return from orbit may soon become a thing of the past.

Dr. Albert J. Kelley of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says that this problem may be solved simply by spraying water from the space vehicle as it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

The technique also may be applied to lunar or planetary landings.

In each Project Mercury orbital flight, radio communications with the capsule was lost for about 4½ minutes during re-entry.

The blackout created particular concern during the return of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter when he overshot his landing point by many miles.

For a brief period it was feared he had become unconscious or his vehicle had been damaged.

Kelley, NASA's director of electronics and control, told an industry program plans conference that a body entering the atmosphere at high velocities creates an ionized plasma, or an electrically charged gas, that acts as a shield to black out radio communications.

Kelley said NASA's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., has conducted experiments in the addition of materials to the gas under simulated re-entry conditions.

He said adding water "suppresses the plasma, and radio signals from the spacecraft are not blacked out."

Kelley said a similar radio blackout effect is created by the exhaust products of chemical rockets.

Unless this is cleared up, he said, the radar altimeter of a spacecraft could be blacked out during a descent to the moon or to a planet.

Cost of Nursing Care Studied by U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The cost of nursing home care in Michigan is undergoing a detailed study by the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

The study, the university said, is aimed at promoting a basis of payments that will help raise the quality of such care.

Trained accountants are collecting data on costs and patients in a scientifically selected sample of nursing homes, said Kenton E. Winter, research associate in the bureau of public health economics and director of the study.

Growing Wild Flowers Subject of Handbook

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have a special responsibility to preserve wild flowers, says the director of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, because bulldozers are rolling into wild land across the country at the rate of seven square miles a day.

To help those who wish to learn how to grow wild flowers, the organization has just published a 96-page handbook on the subject. Articles by many experts make it national in scope. It can be ordered from the Brooklyn Botanic Garden for $1, paperback or $2.50, cloth.

By 1972 vehicles will be developed to transport men to the moon and back at speeds of 25,000 miles an hour, the Aerospace Industries Association forecasts.

Burn Victim Gets Plenty of Help on Road Back to Health

(Editor's Note: Paul Staples, Seattle newsman, had a long fight to regain physical and mental health after suffering severe burns in an accident near his home last June. Here, in the last of scribes his triumphs over fear.)

By PAUL STAPLES
of The Seattle Times

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Several weeks after I received emergency treatment for severe burns suffered in a gasoline lawnmower accident last June, I was moved to a Veterans Administration hospital for rehabilitation.

I had made up my mind to overcome the depression that strikes all burn victims and now I was to start treatment under trained and skilled physical therapists.

★ ★ ★

I was still irascible, however. But my mind cleared as the days passed. The prayers, well wishes and offers of help, including many from blood donors, made me humble and ashamed.

UNBANDAGED HANDS

Finally, the time came for my arms and hands to be unbandaged for the first time.

The young doctor adjusted his instruments. He was a popular doctor with a warm smile for everyone he met on his rounds. Now he was not smiling.

"I'm going to be working on Paul's hands the next few minutes, Mrs. Staples," he said to my wife, Alice, standing nearby.

The doctor waited.

★ ★ ★

My wife, did not reply. Nor did she leave my hospital room.

"Well, you can stay — if you would like to," the doctor said after a pause.

"I would like to," Alice said.

My burned arms and hands had not been unwrapped from their dressings since the night of the accident.

The doctor was swift and sure as he cut away the bandages. He carefully studied my hands and arms.

Finally he spoke: "It is more encouraging than I had expected."

BIG DAY

My big day came soon after I entered the Veterans Administration hospital. The nurses carefully put me on a frame that could be lowered into water. The preparations were for my first bath in a Hubbard tank, which was to prove so beneficial to my recovery.

When I was lowered into the tank, five surgeons and three therapists worked over me, removing burned skin and bandages so that I could ward off infestion and grow new skin.

Weeks later doctors started my first skin grafting operation.

There were three grafting sessions requiring surgery and each brought an aftermath of pain. But I soon learned it had compensating benefits. The pain that tormented me in my day-to-day existence diminished as more and more of my exposed flesh was covered with skin on each trip to surgery.

WEEKS OF EXERCISE

Weeks of exercise for my wasted hands followed. Gradually, I was helped to sit upright. Then I could hold a glass of water. Next, I could drink from a glass without a straw. Finally, I could walk.

One day, my physical therapist led me, protesting, on a two-block hike. I then had licked the problem of walking but it was weeks before I was strong again.

I strolled around the hospital meeting people as I gained confidence. A doctor said I was "too frisky."

One morning, I stopped my doctors at the door to my room.

"What about my condition," I demanded. "How am I doing?"

The four doctors turned, they were grinning.

"You look O.K.," one of them said. Then they left.

The time was near when I would leave the hospital. I had been uneasy when I arrived. Now I disliked leaving.

★ ★ ★

Doctors and technicians had given me the finest medical treatments. But I would miss the nurses most of all. They had been so tender and thoughtful. Their job often had been far from pleasant.

The day came to say goodby. I would go back only for checkups.

Alice drove the car. The bumps and turns in the streets caused me pain.

It did not matter, though. I was going home.

Sees N-Ban 'Almost in Our Grasp'

GENEVA (UPI) — Canada urged the nuclear powers today to quit quibbling and get down to business on a nuclear test ban treaty which is "almost within our grasp."

Canadian delegation leader Gen. E. L. M. Burns told the 17-nation disarmament conference that the United States, Britain and Russia are so close to agreement that the conference should focus its efforts in this area until success is achieved.

The Russians have stalled on continuing test ban negotiations since the conference resumed Tuesday after an eight-week recess.

Western diplomats, buoyed by neutralist support on the nuclear issue, charged prior to today's session that the Russians came to Geneva for propaganda and not negotiations.

Burns said statements by the United States and Russia indicate they agree on matters of principle on a test ban. He said the big powers now must get together and work out the details.

Burns said the nuclear powers should stop quibbling over the number of on-site inspections and control stations needed to police a ban.

"Right now, no one can say that the number 3 is right, or that number 10 is right, or that the number 6½ is right," the Canadian said.

★ ★ ★

Russia will permit no more than 3 on-site inspections on its territory in a year. The United States says each power must allow 8 to 10 inspections annually to insure foolproof policing.

5 Cities to Get Centers for Predelinquents

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans were disclosed yesterday constructing "predelinquent centers" in five major cities across the country.

Aim of the centers would be to straighten out potential problem youth early, before they get into serious trouble.

Lavious N. Costerella, board chairman of the National Society for the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency, said such "youth manors" were planned in New York, Los Angeles, Detroit, Atlanta and Houston.

Each building, he said, will be a "modern, complete early rehabilitation and family activity center," capable of accommodating 200 youths each.

Diocese to Ask Law on Bias

Episcopal Clerics Vote for Real Estate Ruling

BAY CITY (AP) — The Episcopal Diocese of Michigan yesterday voted overwhelmingly to ask the legislature to enact a law banning discrimination in real estate transactions.

The 600 delegates to the diocese's 130th annual convention declared that "discrimination in housing and in other forms should be abolished."

The delegates form the legislative body for the diocese's 100,000 members and 180 parishes.

The delegates defeated a motion that would have put them on record against proposed Sunday liquor sales in Detroit.

A new commission will be established to suggest reforms in worship patterns in the church.

The Rev. Carl Sayers of St. Stephen's Church, Birmingham, said Episcopalians needed to keep up with Roman Catholics and other Protestants who are reforming their liturgy.

The Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of Michigan, said the diocese would have to save funds and make up $57,000 in its mission giving. He said the parishes gave $554,000 last year to mission work but had been asked to give $611,000.

In his annual report, Bishop Emrich told the delegates he was "troubled" by President Kennedy's proposed tax law which would not exempt contributions unless they exceeded 5 per cent of incomes.

"This will be a very serious blow to financing of every university, college, charity and church," he said. "Think about it and write about it."

Judy Garland, Luft to Try Over Again

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Singer Judy Garland and producer Sid Luft have tossed their marital problems out the window and are planning a duet instead of a duel.

Attorney Harry Clairborne said both Miss Garland, 39, and Luft, 45, were at Lake Tahoe, Nev., and instructed him to have the trial removed from the books. It had been set for Feb. 25.

Miss Garland and Luft have been married 12 years, with several separations during the period.

2 Buchanan Students Hike to Benton Harbor

BUCHANAN (AP) — Two 16-year-old Buchanan High School students, John Piechocki and Bruce Thurston, walked approximately 50 miles from Buchanan to Benton Harbor and back yesterday.

Swainson Suffered From Trip: Doctor

DETROIT (AP) — Ex-Gov. John Swainson's move from the hospital bed to the Democratic convention in Grand Rapids damaged his health, his doctor said yesterday.

Swainson re-entered Lakeside General Hospital Tuesday and was listed in "satisfactory condition" by Dr. Donald Hadesman.

He was confined for treatment of a bronchial condition on Jan. 31, but left the hospital Feb. 2 to attend the Democratic State Convention and plead for a new state Democratic chairman.

Swainson is undergoing tests and X rays to determine the nature of his illness, Dr. Hadesman said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Red Cross has suggested a painless alternative to the hiking fad.

Richard Harris, director of water safety, said yesterday swimming is much less grueling than walking and no one ever has developed blisters while doing it.

Civil Rights Search to Zero In on 3 Areas

DETROIT — Leaders of the three main forces behind the struggle for civil rights in America pledged yesterday to deploy buying power and a step-up in demonstrations in the quest for equality for Negroes.

Opening a two-day symposium on "Strategies of Stimulating Change in Civil Rights" were the national directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Urban League and the Congress of Racial Equality.

All three said they'll zero in next on discrimination in job opportunity, housing and equal access to stores and similar semiprivate facilities.

The symposium is part of Wayne State University's observance of the Emancipation Proclamation centennial.

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins sensed "a new mood of impatience" among American Negroes and predicted they will discriminately, and in this case discrimination is all right," use the boycott.

Whitney Young, executive director of the NUL, said housing discrimination is so widespread as a "northern phenomenon" that the South is sending experts up North to study how to maintain it.

He said there have been great gains in the "intangible areas, but little progress has been made on the meat, bread and potatoes issues.

"I hate to think we'll be another 100 years trying to close the housing discrimination gap," he said.

James Farmer, national director of CORE, said the first trainees of a "freedom task force" have been sent into six southern cities.

★ ★ ★

These nonpaid volunteers, mostly college students about equally divided among Negroes and whites, will expand the "freedom-ride" and "sit-in" technique to such areas as employment and housing.

★ ★ ★

Farmer, himself under $1,500 bond on a charge growing out of the Mississippi demonstrations of 1961, said CORE's efforts in transportation and highway facilities were successful but had shortcomings that are being corrected.

Fifty Fish Survivors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—About 50 tropical fish survived the crash of a jetliner in the Everglades Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

They were found wiggling in an inch of water that remained in a crumpled plastic container addressed to the Midwest Aquarium, Bensonville, Ill. Another 50 fish were dead in the container.

★ ★ ★

Honor Movie Maker in Theater Naming

NEW YORK (AP) — D. W. Griffith, pioneer movie maker, has been honored by having Broadway's first art cinema named after him.

★ ★ ★

The 350-seat Griffith replaces the Bijou playhouse that was used for legitimate stage presentations.

It is to be used exclusively for showing foreign and domestic films that aim at high artistry rather than mass audience appeal.

Chores Keep City Smoke Eaters Busy as They Await Blazes

Housekeeping Vital Part of Routine at Station

By JIM LONG

A woman's work is never done, it's said — but, again, neither is a fireman's.

★ ★ ★

The days of sitting around just waiting for a fire to happen are gone forever.

Pontiac firemen are on the go almost constantly, cleaning, shining, inspecting and repairing equipment.

This concern goes beyond neatness, however. The tools of the trade demand respect because they can mean the difference between life and death.

★ ★ ★

Every piece of equipment in each of the city's five fire stations is kept in its place, always spic and span and in top-notch condition.

"A never-ending routine of inspection is most important to us," said Chief James R. White, a veteran of 36 years with the department.

"On our job we can't afford to have equipment break down," White said. "It could prove fatal."

★ ★ ★

CODDLE VEHICLES

A daily inspection is required of the department's 15 vehicles.

The check is made on the department's six pumper engines, a 100-foot aerial ladder truck, the two 50-foot extension ladder service trucks, rescue truck, and five passenger cars used by the chief, assistant chiefs, fire marshals and training officers.

All lights, switches and brakes as well as the levels of gasoline, radiator water, crankcase oil and chemicals are inspected.

Each week the larger vehicles have their motors and chassis cleaned and batteries recharged.

A checklist, hanging on the wall near each vehicle, shows at a glance what work has been done and whether additional attention is required.

★ ★ ★

The trucks are overhauled each year.

Major mechanical work on the vehicles is done at Station 2, Wilson and South Saginaw streets, where there is a fully equipped garage.

A master mechanic is always on call to the scene of a big fire to watch for any possible failure in the truck's operation.

HOSE COSTLY

Hauled off the engines and cleaned immediately upon return to the station from a fire, is one of the most expensive items among firefighting equipment — hose.

It costs $1.75 to $2 a foot and the Pontiac Fire Department has better than four miles of 2½-inch hose (22,000 feet).

After the hose is washed it is hung in a heated tower to dry for six hours. Each fire station in the city has one of these drying rooms.

Each of the department's pumpers can carry 1,200 to 2,000 feet of hose.

"Some firemen will tell you there is more work at the fire station than there is at a fire," said White.

"Remember, when we return from a fire our main objective is to get the vehicle back in service so it can roll again," he added.

"This takes anywhere from 5 to 8 minutes."

White explained that his men have time for relaxation — watching television or playing cards — but much leisure time is devoted to studying for examinations.

After two years, a firefighter is eligible to take a test to qualify for the rank of lieutenant.

"The test is not an easy one since it covers everything from chemistry to city ordinances," White said.

The book lessons are only part of the fire fighters' schooling.

Once a week, a training officer visits each station to keep the men posted on the latest developments in the skills of their profession.

The rigors of a fireman's life take a very light toll here.

Denies Reds Advocate Force

Gus Hall Said Aim Is 'Peaceful Transition'

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Gus Hall says the American Communist party, which he heads, does not seek the violent overthrow of the U.S. government. He says the Communists seek peaceful transition, not change by force.

Hall, general secretary of the party in the United States, addressed 400 students at Yale University last night.

He was generally well received although there were a few boos, catcalls and uninvited bursts of laughter during his 90-minute talk.

★ ★ ★

Hall attacked the McCarran Act, the federal law which requires Communist party members to register as foreign agents —and the act under which Hall himself is under indictment.

The generally held concept that Communists are working for the violent overthrow of the government is "infantile" and "not Marxist," Hall said, adding that it is impossible to import revolutions.

Applause for the Communist leader was warm, if brief, both at the beginning and end of his talk, though boos were pronounced when he had finished.

'DOWN WITH TRAITORS'

As he spoke, a band of about 12 pickets marched outside with signs that read: "Down with Red traitors," "Man without God at Yale" and "liberty or license."

An editorial in today's edition of The Yale Daily News, the campus newspaper, said many students were left with doubts "that this was the genuine article."

The editorial said Hall seemed to be talking in favor of socialism —not communism — and noted that he made no mention in his talk of capitalists, imperialists warmongers or the class struggle.

'Must Contain Sickness'

BARNSTAPLE, England (UPI) — The North Devon Hospital Management Committee has asked married nurses to remove their rings while on duty because of "the danger of spreading infection . . ."

Our Winter Has Been Colder

January may have set some weather records, but to those who can remember back 29 years, last month's lows might be considered a warm spell.

The mercury dipped to a conversational 15 degrees below zero on one occasion last month.

But nearly three decades ago, on Feb. 9, 1934, the temperature plummeted to a minus 20 degrees in Pontiac and considerably lower in the outlying area.

In northern Michigan that day temperatures dropped to 50 degrees below zero.

The cold caused many hardships.

In Pontiac alone, the fire department responded to 12 major fires that day, setting a record for a 24-hour period.

★ ★ ★

That bitter day in 1934 equalled a weather record that had stood for 60 years.

The coldest day last month was Jan. 24 when the mercury went to 15 below at 4 a.m. It was never warmer than one below that day.

Road service calls from frustrated motorists set an all time record.

On eight other days last month the mercury rested below the zero mark.

If the extreme cold spell wiped out the memory of nicer weather, on Jan. 9, the temperature reached the high for the month, 42 degrees above zero.

Four days later it was zero.

It was the signal for nearly three weeks of deepfreeze weather.

4½-INCH FALL

During those three weeks four and a half inches of snow fell on Pontiac. Another inch dropped on the city earlier in the month.

On two back-to-back days, Jan. 21 and 22, there was a total of three and a half inches of snow.

One consolation during the cold months was that it was sunny 20 of the 31 days.

Last month's snowfall, however, was only a drop in the bucket compared to January 1962.

A year ago last month over 14 inches of snow fell on Pontiac.

The low temperature that month was eight degrees below zero. A week earlier, Jan. 3, the month's high was recorded, 41 degrees above zero.

Freezing rains a year ago was the woe of both the motorist and the pedestrian.

Place Kidney of Dead Man in Patient

LEEDS, England (AP) — Leeds General Infirmary reported today that surgeons there have successfully transplanted a kidney from a dead body into living patient. The hospital said it believed the operation was the first of its kind in medical history.

★ ★ ★

The kidney was transplanted to Peter Lucas of Sheffield 66 days ago, the hospital said.

"He is progressing well and will be discharged to convalesce shortly," the announcement said.

"The kidney was taken with the consent of the relatives from a patient who died."

Infant mortality rates have declined to a record low of 25.3 deaths per 1,000 births, the American Medical Association reports.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Communications Commission has authorized the first sale of stock in the Communications Satellite Corp. which was organized to develop a space communications system.

Marines Offer Seniors 'Gift'

June high school graduates can get four months seniority in the U.S. Marines by enlisting now, according to Pontiac Marine recruiter Gunnery Sgt. R. L. Woodruff.

Under the "120-Day Delay Program" a senior can join the Marines this month, leave for "boot camp" in late June and be entitled to a higher rate of pay than if he waited until after graduation to enlist.

Woodruff's office is in the Federal Building, Huron and Perry streets.

Moore to Succeed Holland at Ceremony

Gavel to Usher In New Judge

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore will formally take the oath of a Circuit Court judge tomorrow afternoon at the County Courthouse.

The ceremony is scheduled for 3:30 in the third floor courtroom that Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland will leave Friday.

Judge Moore was appointed by Gov. George Romney to serve out the unexpired term of Judge Holland, who voluntarily retires Friday after 27 years on the county's Circuit Court bench.

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero will preside at the ceremony.

The county's other three circuit judges, courthouse officials and local dignitaries are expected to attend.

James S. Thoburn, president of the Oakland County Bar Association, will present a gavel to Judge Moore, who will begin using it Monday in the same courtroom.

Thorburn is a candidate to succeed Judge Moore on the probate bench, along with County Corporation Counsel Norman R. Barnard and County Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

AWAIT SUCCESSOR

Gov. George Romney is expected to appoint a successor to Judge Moore today or tomorrow. Judge Moore served 24 years in the county's combined probate and juvenile court.

Judge Moore will be feted at a noon luncheon in his honor before the swearing-in ceremony. The lunch is being planned by the personnel of the Probate and Juvenile court offices.

Former U. S. Congressman George A. Dondero, with whom Judge Moore opened his first law office in 1925, is expected to say a few words at the oath-taking ceremony.

The winter of 1779-80, when Washington's troops were camped at Morristown, N.J., was the worst one of the 18th century. It snowed 28 times.

FCC to Probe 'Today' Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has notified Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., that it will check into his complaint that a recent NBC television show was blasphemous.

Eastland, earlier this week, relayed to the FCC a complaint from a group of Mississippi women who said the NBC "Today" program of Feb. 8 insulted Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi and Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas and included blasphemous material.

Eastland joined in the protest and demanded that the FCC investigate.

★ ★ ★

He said yesterday that the agency has advised him it is asking NBC for a copy of the show script so that it might study the matter.

One of the skits to which the Mississippi women objected depicted a Southern politician who died, went to heaven and discovered that the supreme diety was a Negro.

License Seekers Needn't Reweigh Light Trailers

LANSING (AP)—Boat trailers and other trailers under 1,000 pounds will not have to be reweighed this year before the owners can receive 1963 license plates, the secretary of state's office reports.

The office said this is an exception to the rule requiring the reweighing of all trucks and commercial units this year before the plates are granted.

Junior Editors Quiz on ENGINES

QUESTION: What's the difference between a two-cycle and four-cycle engine?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: A "cycle" in a gas engine, is composed of the number of "strokes," or up and down movements of the cylinder and connecting rod made between one explosion and the next.

People speak of a "four-cycle engine" and they really mean an engine which has four piston strokes to each complete cycle. Look at (1).

Here, on the "intake" stroke, as piston is going down, mixed air and gasoline is drawn in from upper left. In (2), the "compression" stroke, fuel gases are being squeezed together, making them easier to ignite. In (3), the spark plug has fired the fuel and the exploding gases push the piston down in the "power" stroke.

In (4), the piston comes up, expelling the burning gases in the "exhaust" stroke. Looking at one of several types of two-stroke cycle engines (5) we see the piston's upstroke is combining two steps, pushing up and compressing the fuel while exhaust gases are being pushed out, at the same time.

In (6), the power stroke pushes piston down, bringing fuel in from right and compressing it in the crankcase.

A four-stroke cycle is good for larger engines. The two-stroke jobs have fewer moving parts and are often used for small engines.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: If you have a miniature gas engine, examine it carefully to check on the two-stroke cycle. If you haven't one, find a friend who has one and ask him to explain the way it works.

Mauritania's Rushing Toward Modernization

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

NOUAKCHOTT, Mauritania (AP)—Carved out in the sands of the Sahara, the desert republic of Mauritania is trying to open its doors to progress.

Neat, modern buildings rise in the sands of Nouakchott where Mauritania's President Moktar Ould Daddah decided to build his capital.

Black tents of nomads huddle amidst sand dunes not far from the airy presidential palace, but all houses where Nouakchott's 10,000 inhabitants live have electricity and running water.

Planes land at 21 airstrips. Telephone lines link 15 oases and ancient towns surrounded by mud walls. About 60 per cent of Mauritania's one million people are nomads.

★ ★ ★

Turbanned Moors and black tribesmen from the country's southern regions are helping build a 400-mile railroad along the frontier of Spanish-held Rio de Oro.

"We are in a hurry, we want to build our country to catch up with others," says Interior Minister Ahmed Ould Mohamed Salah.

FIRST STATE EXISTENCE

Given its independence by France Nov. 28, 1960, Mauritania never had existed as a state. It used to be run from St. Louis in nearby Senegal. Proud emirs used to be run from St. Louis in ruled plots of sand and fought bitter wars between the Senegal River in the south, Mali to the east and Algeria and Morocco to the north—roughly 700,000 square miles.

★ ★ ★

Mauritania's independence provoked bitter charges by nearby Morocco that France created a puppet state to maintain its presence in the Sahara.

★ ★ ★

The discovery of iron ore deposits near Fort Gouraud—described as a mountain of iron holding at least 145 million tons—spurred Morocco's claims.

Rallied by Morocco, most Arab states refused to recognize "the Islamic Republic of Mauritania."

Mauritania's admission to the United Nations last year was a heavy blow to Morocco's claims, but the influential Moroccan Istiqlal party continues to demand Mauritania's incorporation into the Rabat kingdom.

★ ★ ★

Mauritania's 800,000 palm trees have been yielding 15 million tons of dates a year. The country has a surplus of livestock and has been exporting to neighboring states.

★ ★ ★

But herds chased across the desert arrive worn out, losing value. The government would like to organize ranches and transportation facilities.

IRON MAIN HOPE

The main hope for bringing in foreign currency is iron. A French company has started an all-out exploitation of the Kedia D'Idjill range near Fort Gouraud, and has financed the railroad that will link the mine area with Port Etienne, Mauritania's only modern seaport.

Politically, Ould Daddah holds the country in a firm hand. Four political parties were fused into the Mauritanian People's Union. Party cells are being organized in oases and among the roving groups of nomads.

★ ★ ★

Although most inhabitants are Moors, the links with French-speaking Africans to the south are closer than those with North African Arabs. Only Tunisia has recognized the desert republic.

The capital has a dozen large apartment buildings housing Mauritanian officials and French technicians and their families. Ministers live in modernistic villas.

★ ★ ★

Most of the houses of Nouakchott are low, one-story structures with closed courtyards where Moors and Negroes from the south live.

Dirt roads link the capital with other points of the sprawling country. Jeeps and rare cars speed in clouds of dust, past herds chased across arid plains in search of pastures. Turbanned Moorish patriarchs sway atop camels, antiquated rifles slung over their backs.

HOG WILD HIKER — The New Frontier's "hiking" fad reached a new peak when this sow joined the road walkers on an expressway near Lynchburg, Va. She fell off a passing truck, but it's doubtful she made the prescribed 50-mile distance.

Child Aid Proposal Clears First Hurdle

LANSING (AP) — A bill to qualify Michigan for federal Aid to Dependent Children of Unemployed (ADC-U) was due back on the House floor today after clearing its first hurdle in committee.

The bill, introduced on behalf of Gov. George Romney and apparently supported by a majority of both parties in the House, was to be reported out of the Social Aid and Welfare Committee.

But it was expected to emerge just long enough to go to another committee — this time, ways and means.

★ ★ ★

The committee on social aid and welfare agreed on the measure yesterday after attaching two amendments, one to limit state spending for administration of the program, the other to define eligible applicants.

BILL APPROVED

Committee approval of the bill came shortly after Democrats, pressing for action, declared they would call for discharge of the committee from further consideration of the bill unless it was reported out by today.

★ ★ ★

Such a move would have required a majority vote in the House.

Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, House minority leader, informed the House during yesterday's session he would call for discharge of the committee if the Romney bill, or another one introduced by Democrats themselves, was not produced.

Rep. Nelson Tisdale, R-Midland, chairman of the Social Aid and Welfare Committee, scoffed later at Kowalski's statement.

"The bill was ready to come out anyway," he said. "What the Democratic leader said had nothing to do with it."

★ ★ ★

The second ADC-U bill, introduced by Rep. John Sobieski, D-Detroit, was tabled by the Republican - dominated committee as it agreed to bring the Romney measure back to the floor.

★ ★ ★

The ADC-U legislation, a subject of partisan controversy and rejected by Republicans three times in the past two years, is expected to be approved this session with bipartisan support.

Romney called for "immediate enactment" of ADC-U enabling legislation, first in his "state of the state" message and later in a special message to lawmakers.

The bill was introduced Feb. 5 by Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, chairman of ways and means. At that time, many lawmakers — and Romney himself — agreed it could be the first real test of the governor's influence in the legislature.

★ ★ ★

Some GOP members said they would continue to oppose the legislation or would not be easily convinced of its merits. Democrats pledged their support.

Amendments to Constitution

Democrat Plans Counterattack

LANSING (AP)—A package of constitutional amendments designed as a counter measure to the proposed new constitution was readied today for introduction in the Senate by the Democratic minority leader.

★ ★ ★

The amendments, explained Sen. Charles Blondy, D-Detroit, will give the voters a chance to adopt the good features of the new document without having to accept those provisions which might be objectionable.

Blondy said he would like to get the amendments on the April 1 ballot, but it appeared likely that there was not enough time to have them printed and distributed.

"But we could at least have the amendments in committee and ready to bring out for a later election if the voters turn down the new constitution this April," Blondy told a reporter.

The senator said the package of amendments was proposed at the regular weekly meeting of Democratic legislative leaders, administrative board members and state central committee officers.

House Democrats discussed the proposal in a caucus Tuesday, but the meeting reportedly resulted in a wrangle over some of the amendments.

Blondy said his package included an amendment calling for four-year terms for the state administrative board, including the governor; elimination of the biennial spring election; and raising of the state debt limitation to 15 per cent of the total unearmarked funds.

Other amendments would allow defendants in criminal cases to appeal convictions as a matter of right; revamp the search and seizure provision to conform with the latest U.S. Supreme Court rulings; and strengthen the civil rights section.

Blondy said other proposed amendments would be discussed in the Senate Democratic caucus, including an apportionment article and reduction of the state sales tax from four cents to three cents.

Non-Nuclear Blasts Are Slated by U.S.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—More non-nuclear test explosions are planned by the Atomic Energy Commission, the new series to June.

These, a spokesman said Wednesday, will be conducted at the Tonopah Test Range, 30 miles southeast of Tonopah, Nev., as a joint effort with the Department of Defense.

America's last working sailboat fleet is in the Chesapeake Bay region where oysters can be dredged legally only by boats under sail.

Beverly Hills Man Sentenced to Prison

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero yesterday ordered a 32-year-old Beverly Hills man to serve 1½ to 15 years in Jackson Prison for burglary of a Birmingham home. The judge put his convicted accomplice on two years' probation.

Anthony Gillespie, of 30745 Pierce St., was found guilty Jan. 29 by a Circuit Court jury of breaking into a home at 736 Smith St., Birmingham, last August and taking a television set.

Set Meeting to Start Plans for Area Camp

City of Sylvan Lake Council members last night reaffirmed their interest in the development of a fresh air camp and scheduled a March 20 public meeting to get the program off the ground.

The council had already indicated its approval of a softball layout and basketball court at the five-acre site on Sylvan Lake. A proposed tennis court was discussed last night, and cost figures will be obtained.

* * *

City Manager Leroy Trafton is hopeful the March meeting will launch a development program to make the site usable as a park and recreational area by summer.

The property was turned over to the city several years ago. A clear title on the parcel was obtained a year ago, according to Trafton.

In other business, the council voted to explore the availability of material on the proposed state constitution for distribution to residents of the city.

Judge Delays Godfrey Case

Boy to Be Examined for Next 2 Weeks

Fifteen-year-old Douglas Godfrey of Bloomfield Township, admitted sniper slayer of his mother, will remain in the custody of Juvenile Court authorities for at least two more weeks for a psychiatric examination.

Probate Judge Donald E. Adams yesterday adjourned until Feb. 27 a hearing on a petition by Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor that the boy stand trial as an adult.

* * *

Judge Adams appointed Dr. L. Jerome Fink of Bloomfield Hills to conduct a psychiatric examination of the youth.

Dr. Fink and two psychiatrists to be named by the boy's attorney, Thomas G. Kavanagh of Birmingham, are expected to testify on the boy's mental condition at the hearing.

Judge Adams received confidential reports in the case from John McBride, clinical psychologist for the juvenile division of the Probate Court, and Wallace C. Crane, senior juvenile court caseworker.

* * *

While Taylor and Kavanagh met with Adams behind closed doors, the boy's father, Donald H. Godfrey, 44, paced the fourth floor corridor at the county courthouse.

Godfrey reiterated his pledge to stand behind his son and talked about his work as a lay preacher in the Baptist Church.

Godfrey said he preaches more than most preachers — four or five times a week — and conducts a Bible class twice a week for some 20 employes at his Roseville small parts manufacturing firm.

* * *

He questioned how anyone could call the shooting of his wife Mary, 38, a mature act. "That's a contradiction in terms."

* * *

Douglas last week admitted the fatal shooting of his mother Jan. 25 from outside the kitchen window of the home with a 22-caliber pistol stolen from a sporting goods store. He said also he had fired into two other homes "to build a reputation there was a sniper."

Straight-From-the-Shoulder

Here are Facts You Should Know!

UNFORTUNATELY . . . Some people never learn . . . that . . . you don't get something for nothing.

Every so often, the buying public becomes enamored by advertising that leads them to believe their local dealers with whom they have dealt the many years aren't able to compete with a "so called discount price." Nothing could be further from the truth!! Huge elaborate buildings look nice but somebody has to pay the rent. Commissions for salesmen cost money too. Naturally the customer pays this extra cost through higher prices. Now we admit our building isn't fancy but it is ours and it's family operated too. This means no rent and no commissions. Certainly we make a small profit, for how else would we stay in business? But our prices are clearly stated, nothing added on, no hidden charges such as delivery, etc. We sincerely urge you to compare our prices before you buy and consider what you get for your money. At Frayer's you'll find courteous sales help, no high pressure, prompt delivery and installation by our own sons, and above all, if you have any problems, see the boss. Bob Frayer is always at the store. You don't have to call Detroit, New York or Chicago for satisfaction.

CONSIDER CAREFULLY, Your Own Home Town Dealer Can Give You All This and Much More.

Aluminum Engines Falling Out of Favor in Auto Industry

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — Only two of the 1964 model cars are planning to offer aluminum engines. This represents a drop of six in just two years.

The main problem is cost.

All Chevrolet Corvair engines will continue to be mainly aluminum. And it is almost certain American Motors will stick with its aluminum six-cylinder engine which is standard equipment in the top-line Rambler Classic and optional in the two other classic series.

Oldsmobile and Buick will discontinue the small V8 which has been used, with certain modifications, in the Olds F85 and the Buick Special.

Chrysler Corp. discontinued its 145-horsepower aluminum six shortly after the 1963 model run began. This engine was optional equipment for Valiant, the Dodge Lancer in 1961 and 1962 and Dodge Dart in 1963.

And Pontiac dropped its Tempest aluminum V8—basically the same engine used for the F85 and Special—at the end of the 1962 model run. Pontiac had never pushed the engine.

All of the division's promotion had been on the various versions of the four cylinder cast iron Tempest engine.

★ ★ ★

Buick met the cost problem at the start of the 1962 model run by offering a cast iron V6 engine for the Special with a retail price $71 less than the V8. The aluminum engine still accounted for about 60 per cent of all Special production, however.

Among the Buick-Olds-Pontiac compacts, only the F85 offered no optional metals.

One current report is that General Motors will continue using aluminum cylinder heats but will switch to cast iron for the basic engine blocks.

The current issue of the trade publication Automotive Industries says the blocks in aluminum have weighed slightly more than 48 pounds each and that in 1962 this represented a total of nine million pounds of aluminum.

★ ★ ★

American Motors says a fraction less than 20 per cent of the 1962 model Classics used aluminum engines and that the proportion is much the same so far this year.

As an option the Rambler aluminum engine is $30 more expensive than the cast iron version.

The F85 and Buick Special may switch to a cast iron engine similar to the one offered this year in the Pontiac Tempest. This is a 326-cubic-inch V8 power plant developing 264 horsepower and with a 10.25-to-1 compression ratio which requires premium grade gasoline.

The aluminum V8 in its basic version is a 215-cubic-inch engine of 155 horsepower.

Prime explanation for the move away from aluminum is that manufacturing costs have run too high for the volume produced.

When Chrysler discontinued its aluminum engine it said it had no complaints on the engine's performance but that the very limited output was not economical.

Aluminum companies had predicted the savings in weight would more than make up any cost penalty for raw materials.

★ ★ ★

But sources within the major aluminum companies also complained privately over what they said was too often the prevailing attitude of auto company engineers—that they had to be shown a part would not only be better but also cheaper when made of aluminum instead of iron.

There have been no major performance complaints about the aluminum engine.

The average owner, however, has found it next to impossible to tell the difference, a factor which has made him extremely reluctant to pay a premium for aluminum.

Iran Revolt Is Felt Little by Foreign Oil Companies

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK — Overthrow of the Iraq government has had little immediate effect on foreign oil companies operating in the petroleum-rich Mideast.

The Iraq Petroleum Co., a combination of international oil firms had its troubles with Premier Abdel Karem Kassem, who was deposed and executed in a military rebellion.

Kassem welcomed Soviet and British aid but showed hostility to the United States. He became a violent foe of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Some oil company officials looked forward to better relations with the new regime headed by Col. Abdul Salam Mohammed Aref, an anti-Communist, but apparently wedded to Arab unity in some form under Nasser.

RESUME SHIPMENTS

Shipment of oil by way of the Shatt Al-Arab river was interrupted over the weekend because, with frontiers closed by the rebels tankers were unable to get in or out. Shipments have been resumed.

★ ★ ★

Closing of the frontiers didn't interfere with movement of oil by pipeline from the Kirkuk and Ain Zalah fields in northern Iraq to the Mediterranean.

Reaction on the New York Stock Exchange to the Iraq crisis was mild. Stocks of international oil companies declined only on the news of the rebellion.

The Aref regime has appointed a new oil minister, Abdul Aziz Al-Wattari. The trade publication Platt's Oilgram described this in a dispatch from London as "a hopeful sign."

Kissing Driver Gets 'Pinched' by the Judge

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) —William L. Strong, 23, charged with weaving in and out of traffic, explained: "I was kissing my girl, judge."

★ ★ ★

Municipal Judge Alex Peebles replied: "Driving a motor car is a full-time job. Kissing is a full-time job. Like alcohol and gunpowder, the two just don't mix."

Strong was fined $10 Tuesday for careless driving.

First Peace Corps Volunteers Approach Finale---Leadership

BACKGROUND IN SPECIAL REPORT OF THE NEWS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first trickle of Peace Corps volunteers returning home from overseas will begin early this summer.

In a few years this trickle will grow to a flood and the Peace Corps will contribute to the final phase of its mission: providing leadership in a complex world.

A year ago when the Peace Corps was a fast-growing infant, one of its founders commented: "Just wait until we have some 10,000 to 15,000 Peace Corps veterans back in the United States. They will help provide enlightened leadership in this country."

Some 400 volunteers will return this summer—700 by the end of the year—after a two-year term of service to people in the developing nations of the world.

A survey of the first group shows that almost two-thirds of them plan to go back to school and an equal number intends eventually to enter some sort of public service, either with the Peace Corps, other government agencies or international organizations.

CHANGED PERSPECTIVE

"The Peace Corps has changed their perspective," said one staff member. "It has been a very deep experience for many. They realize they need to go to graduate school to get what they need."

For those wanting to go back to school there are opportunities in abundance. Some 20 colleges and universities already have set up special fellowships for Peace Corps veterans.

Qualified ex-volunteers can study everything from clinical psychology to public administration and international affairs at such places as Yale, Columbia, Notre Dame, University of Chicago, the George Peabody Teachers College in Nashville, Tenn. and the American Institute of Foreign Trade.

The majority of volunteers overseas are teachers and about 14 per cent of those returning this summer say they plan to continue teaching.

MUCH IN DEMAND

Public schools in California, Michigan and Chicago, plus such private institutions as Philips Exeter Acadamy in New Hampshire and the St. Louis Country Day School are clamoring for returning volunteers.

Job opportunities are beckoning in many areas of foreign trade, engineering overseas, social work, journalism, race relations, even banking with a firm that wants volunteers for its overseas branches.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver plans to hire about 100 veterans for the Peace Corps staff in the next year or two. The Public Health Service, the Foreign Service of the State Department, the U.S. Information Agency and the Bureau of Indian Affairs also have invited Peace Corps veterans to apply.

The Peace Corps is studying the possibility of allowing some volunteers to extend their service for up to a year, where the host nation desires it and the volunteer wants to stay.

State and local property assessed valuation increased by $87 billion, nearly a third, between 1951-61, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

Two Integrated Campuses Appear Serene Today

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Campus life seems relatively quiet these days for two Negro students who shattered tradition and ended segregation in public education in Mississippi and South Carolina.

There have been no open demonstrations at the University of Mississippi since James H. Meredith began his second semester recently, although some furtive remarks and obscenities still are hurled his way.

At Clemson College, in South Carolina, reports indicate that Harvey B. Gantt has been accepted by most of the students, not socially perhaps but at least as a student entitled to be on the campus.

There were never any open demonstrations against Gantt, in marked contrast to the rioting at the University of Mississippi after Meredith's arrival more than four months ago. Two men were killed and many others injured, and federal troops finally were sent in to keep order.

AWAITS ACTION

Another Negro, Dewey Greene Jr., 22, of Greenwood, Miss., who hopes to join Meredith at Mississippi, is awaiting court action on his bid to enroll.

After university officials rejected him as not qualified scholastically, Greene went into federal court at Hattiesburg, Miss. That court deferred a ruling, telling Greene to exhaust all administrative remedies at the university.

Greene then asked the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to order him admitted. A three-judge panel will hear the case in Atlanta Friday.

Attorneys for Greene have contended that the federal court orders in the Meredith case were class action and applied to all Negroes.

Officials of the University of Mississippi have barred newsmen and photographers from the campus. But authoritative sources on campus report Meredith, 29, still is the target of profanity and off-color remarks made on the sly.

The faculty senate at the university declined to act Wednesday night on a resolution expressing concern over the ban on newsmen. This occurred only a few hours after the American Association of University Professors said in Washington it was trying to persuade Mississippi to modify the crackdown.

JOKES, ONLY

At Clemson, no incidents have been reported at any time, nor harassment of Gantt to any degree. White students at the South Carolina college made a few jokes at his expense during his first few days on the campus, but all has been quiet recently.

State Rep. A. W. Bethea, a segregationist who opposed Gantt's admission, attacked Clemson President Robert Edwards in the General Assembly Wednesday. He called for a legislative probe of the "serious misadventures and policies" of the school administration, including the quiet manner in which Gantt was enrolled.

★ ★ ★

Bethea said at a news conference later that some Clemson students had been suspended from 5 to 10 days "for merely showing up on campus to watch Gantt enroll."

Edwards said he had no comment. "Nor do I expect to comment later," he said.

THE FINAL TOUCHES — Preening the peacock feathers on the inside door paneling of a Pontiac Maharani, Margaret Kocero, a GM stylist, readies the car for viewing at the Chicago Auto Show, Feb. 16-24.

She Designs for GM

Gives Cars Feminine Touch

One of the most unique jobs open to women is held by 23-year-old Margaret Kocero, who puts the feminine touch into Pontiac automobiles.

A designer at General Motors Styling, Margaret creates upholstery, carpeting, side panels, instrument panels and steering wheels that will appeal to the woman buyer.

"Statistics clearly show women more and more are influencing purchase of a car," she said.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac officials realized this a year-and-a-half ago when they hired her out of the Philadelphia Museum College of Arts.

SENT TO WORK

They set her to work applying the feminine touch on two of their "dream cars," the Maharani and the Fleur-de-Lis, which are featured attractions at the 55th Chicago Auto Show, opening Feb. 16.

★ ★ ★

The Maharani, for example, is colored a turquoise pearl both inside and out. This, Margaret said, reflects feminine taste.

The peacock feathers which bedeck the inside door paneling of the Maharani are another example.

"These cars were created especially for show purposes rather than mass production," Margaret said of her first two "dream" projects.

"I think they represent a continuing concern with the feminine point of view as applied to automobile styling."

A 5-foot-5 brunette, Margaret works in close cooperation with a full staff of male automotive engineers. However, the attractive auto stylist says she feels no resentment from the men.

★ ★ ★

They recognize the need for feminine touch in automotive styling and design.

Conservatives Said to Be Dissatisfied

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's efforts to recover from the Common Market crisis were marred today by reports of spreading criticism in his own Conservative party ranks.

★ ★ ★

London newspapers said some Conservatives, disappointed by the Common Market failure, want a new and younger man to fight the next general election against the resurgent Labor party.

The Daily Sketch said "many Tory backbenchers would not be surprised if at Easter or in May, Mr. Macmillan decided to bow out gracefully."

The Evening News said Macmillan has hinted in private conversations that retirement is very much in his mind, but the newspapers added that the 69-year-old Prime Minister has had similar moods in the past.

★ ★ ★

Macmillan has come under fierce laborite attack in the House of Commons debate on Britain's failure to enter the six-nation European Common Market. The laborites have charged Macmillan with a "policy vacuum" and "bungling" in canceling Princess Margaret's visit to France in retaliation for the French veto of market membership.

The Conservatives gave Macmillan solid support in a parliamentary vote of confidence Tuesday, but the press implied it was a matter of self-preservation rather than agreement with their leader's position.

In the face of the mounting criticism, the government pushed ahead with efforts to counter the effects of Britain's exclusion from Europe.

Cuba Training 100s in Guerrilla Warfare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hundreds of Latin Americans are being trained in Cuba in guerrilla warfare, sabotage, and leadership of insurgent movements, U.S. officials reported today.

★ ★ ★

They said the United States also had detected "illicit movements" of funds from Cuba to Communist groups in other Latin American countries.

And the Cuban radio, these officials reported, continues to speak directly to terrorist groups which have been operating in Venezuela.

State Department officials said, however, that what the United States knows about the details and scope of Cuban subversive activities in the hemisphere is, at the moment, "classified."

They said "thousands" of persons from other countries were receiving "ideological" training in Cuba. Of these, "hundreds" were said to be getting a more practical training in the methods of insurgency.

"We use the word 'hundreds' advisedly," one official said.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, in his television report on Cuba Feb. 6, said there was no evidence of Cuba being used as a "base for subversion" and that the United States would not "tolerate" this.

★ ★ ★

But officials now say — and the context of McNamara's remarks would indicate — he had in mind a more major type of Cuban subversion involving export of arms or aggression.

'BEING MET'

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in a speech in Los Angeles last night, said, "Communist subversion in Latin America, whether connected with Cuba or not, is being met by the individuals and joint actions of the American states."

Rusk said Cuba would "not be permitted" to become "a base for offensive military operations against other countries." He again called for removal of Soviet troops from Cuba which he said "poison the atmosphere and increase the dangers."

The secretary said "the armed forces of the United States and its neighbors in the hemisphere will ensure that arms in Cuba will not be used outside Cuba."

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials said there was no evidence Cuba had been exporting arms to Communists in other Latin American countries. If the Castro regime did take such action, they said, a policy stated by Rusk in a Sept. 17 appearance before senators would apply.

Tab Leftist Favorite for Gaitskell Job

LONDON (AP) — Harold Wilson, an eloquent leftist intellecutal, was heavily favored to win election tonight as leader of the Labor party, a job that could make him Britain's next prime minister.

Wilson, 40, a party veteran and economist, was opposed by right-winger George Brown, 45, the party's blunt-spoken deputy leader who placed second in the three-corner first ballot last week.

Nearly all political forecasters predicted Wilson would make it when the second ballot, cast by Labor members of the House of Commons, was counted tonight.

★ ★ ★

The party leader's post was left vacant by the death last month of Hugh Gaitskell, whose leadership had closed deep divisions in the party and raised it to its strongest position in years.

If the new leader can hold the party together, many feel it will win the national election which Conservative Prime Minister Harold Macmillan must hold by October 1964. The leader of the winning party becomes prime minister.

In last week's ballot, Brown and Wilson were opposed by James Callaghan, a middle-roader who many thought would draw heavy support from both left and right party factions. Callaghan polled 41 votes to 115 for Wilson and 88 for Brown.

★ ★ ★

This eliminated Gallaghan. But because Wilson collected less than 50 per cent of the votes, a runoff was necessary.

Man Killed With Arrow; Crossbow the Weapon?

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Police believe a powerful crossbow was used to shoot an arrow which killed Dillmon Thrasher, 28, of Chattanooga.

A feathered wooden shaft was recovered after an autopsy showed a steel arrowhead imbedded in Thrasher's body. It is the first homicide of its kind in police department records.

Smog, Crowded Freeways Not Enough

City Council, Mayor Warring in LA

By DIAL TORGERSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles, beset with freeway traffic you frequently can outwalk and smog so thick you can hide a city in it, has just what it doesn't need: a new problem.

BACKGROUND IP OF THE NEWS

Things are in an uproar at City Hall.

Some say the mayor has given the City Council 60 day to get out. The council has its own plans for the mayor: something along the lines of annihilation.

★ ★ ★

It's a classic case of a mayor vs. the City Council.

One one side is handsome, aggressive Samuel W. Yorty, 53, not yet halfway through his first four-year term.

On the other side is the City Council—14 men, one young woman. Its cliques shift membership like kids playing touch football, but the majority always seems to agree on one alignment: anti-Yorty. Municipal offices are nonpartisan.

The breakdown in relations has its basis in the city charter. It gives the mayor few powers, the council many. Yorty is determined to be a strong mayor.

ROSALIND WYMAN SAMUEL W. YORTY

People are getting shouting mad. One councilman, Karl Rundberg, called Yorty "the most pompous man I have ever met in my life."

★ ★ ★

Rundberg used to be a Yorty friend. What changed him?

"Rubbish," said Yorty at a recent news conference. "He changed suddenly after the rubbish matter came up."

Rundberg hinted the mayor was a fringe paranoid. Said Yorty of his former supporter: "He's a bit erratic and unstable. He may be back on my side tomorrow."

MAYOR CAMPAIGNING

For the first time anyone can recall, a Los Angeles mayor is going to the voters to campaign for City Council candidates who will back him in the council.

The council says Yorty wants to boss a Tammany Hall-type machine so he can run the city. Council members hint at ulterior motives and mutter darkly about a recall action against Yorty.

★ ★ ★

Yorty and his backers describe the struggle as a sort of morality play — good government against bad government — in which the mayor is in the right.

Yorty cites the garbage problem:

ONCE A MONTH

"Because the city gave a private firm a contract to pick up tin cans, the cans are only picked up once a month—and the housewives have to wash out the cans and store them until the pick-up day.

★ ★ ★

"The small amount the company pays the city for salvaging the cans isn't worth the inconvenience to the housewives. I favor a weekly combined trash pickup.

★ ★ ★

"This contract—which was voted by the council before I came into office—is to expire in June. The can company is lobbying with the council to get it to continue the contract. The council was hoping to make a quiet vote on it and renew the contract when I turned the spotlight on them."

'CUTEY' CHALLENGES

The mayor's talk of lobbyists' shadowy figures in City Hall infuriated the council members. Rosalind Weiner Wyman — who was called "the world's cutest councilman" when she was elected 10 years ago at 22—challenged Yorty to a lobbyist count.

★ ★ ★

"He gets three times more lobbyists than the council does," she said. "Because of the number of lobbyists going into Yorty's office, he can raise a slush fund the likes of which will never be equaled."

The mayor says that oil, real estate, hotel, railroad and lumber lobbies actively woo council members, keeping the body from taking responsible action on many important issues.

PUSHES CHANGE

He advocates rewriting the city charter to give some council responsibilities to the executive department.

He also wants to make council membership a part-time occupation, attracting "civic leaders instead of paid, professional politicians." The councilmen are paid $12,000 a year—full time. (The mayor makes $25,000. He's full time, too.

★ ★ ★

When Yorty began to make doomsday plans for his council members, they dropped a block-buster of their own.

Two council seats were vacated when members were elected to Congress. The council agreed to leave them vacant until the April 2 primary.

SURPRISE ACTION

Then, in an action which even caught a couple of councilmen by surprise, they voted to fill the two jobs with interim appointees. One is the first Negro to sit on the council. The other is a fire captain.

"A secret deal was cooked up" between the 10 members who voted for the pair, Yorty charged. State law bans secret meetings by lawmakers.

The move meant that the appointees will be able to campaign in the April primaries as incumbents.

★ ★ ★

This places them on top of the list of candidates on the ballot. Others are listed alphabetically, below. There's a theory that voters' eyes go out of focus after reading the top name on councilman ballots.

This gives Yorty an uphill fight in his battle to change the council membership. But he's a man who obviously isn't afraid of a fight.

"I'm not worried about a recall movement," he said. "As long as I can appeal to the people, I have nothing to fear."

Heart Expert Warns About 50-Mile Hikes

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted heart specialist, doesn't think it necessary to embark on 50-mile hikes to keep fit.

Dr. White, who was called in when President Eisenhower was stricken with heart trouble, was commenting on the current hiking urge which was inspired by the White House.

★ ★ ★

"I wouldn't recommend an extreme—like a 50-mile hike—for someone who is not used to this sort of thing," he said.

"I'm all for walking, it's wonderful exercise. But untrained muscles wouldn't stand the strain of a long hike like that. It's fine for military men and for those people involved in athletic activities."

Bid to Dems Discussed by Cavanagh, Ferency

DETROIT (AP)—Zolton A. Ferency, new Democratic state chairman, and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh discussed the city's campaign to get the 1964 Democratic National Convention when the two met yesterday.

Both emphasized that not a word was said about Cavanagh possibly being a Democratic aspirant for governor in 1964.

Indonesia Turns Back on Olympic Committee

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno declared Wednesday night that Indonesia is withdrawing completely from the International Olympic Committee which last week barred Indonesia from the 1964 Olympics.

Sukarno, in a speech to the National Front Rally, said Indonesia must set up a new sports federation which is opposed to imperialism.

He said its members should be Asian, African, Latin American, and communist countries.

MSU Prof Succumbs

EAST LANSING (AP)—Dr. Walter J. Haney, 46, associate professor of horticulture at Michigan State University, died yesterday after collapsing in a university greenhouse.

ATTRACTIVE — Please do not eat the China brussels sprouts, they are only here to entice you. The edible sprouts, however, are very edible indeed. Frozen at their prime . . . with the California dew still upon them . . . they are available the year around for your dining pleasure.

Vary the Vegetable

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Last week when we interviewed the Richards' who are now on their way back to Afghanistan for two years, we came away even more grateful for our American supermarkets. The Richards' say that the only winter vegetables they get are beets, carrots and cauliflower.

★ ★ ★

Think of the variety we have! And how few most of us include in our meal planning. We stick rather closely to the same favorites — peas, beans, corn and one or two more.

In this dreary time of year spark up your meals with a different vegetable dish.

Brussels sprouts will do for a starter. You can buy these miniature cabbage-like vegetables in frozen form so that they are ready to cook at any time.

Serve them some night with a mustard sauce.

Brussels Sprouts Alla Moutarde

4 packages (10 ounces each) frozen Brussels sprouts
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
2 egg yolks
1½ teaspoons wine vinegar
1½ teaspoons water
1 tablespoon Dijon or other prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook Brussels sprouts according to package directions; drain if necessary.

Meanwhile, prepare Sauce Moutarde as follows: Melt butter in saucepan; stir in flour. Gradually add 1 cup water and stir over low heat until thickened. Beat egg yolks with vinegar, 1½ teaspoons water, salt and pepper; gradually stir into sauce and whip vigorously over low heat until thickened. Serve over Brussels sprouts.

You will find some interesting vegetable combinations in the frozen food cases. Recently we tried and liked corn and tomatoes; and the peas with little cubes of white sauce are good. While heating this package we added some canned mushrooms, using the mushroom juice for part of the liquid.

Frozen corn on the cob can be good if you steam-bake it. It tastes almost like summer.

Steam-Baked Frozen Corn on Cob

Prepare frozen corn on cob (do not defrost) by spreading with softened butter or margarine and sprinkling with salt each ear loosely in a sheet of heavy foil cut four inches longer than the corn.

Seal by folding a double seam the length of the ear and twisting ends. Be sure the foil does not cling tightly to ear and the closure is secure. Place wrapped ears on cooky sheet and bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) for one hour.

Spiced vegetables are good by themselves, something you can serve for a buffet. Add an avocado - tomato dip and you have an unusual appetizer.

Spiced Vegetables

4 raw carrots
4 stalks celery
1 small head cauliflower
¼ pound small fresh mushrooms
4 cloves garlic, sliced
1 tablespoon salt
3 cups water
½ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice
1½ teaspoons whole dill seed
1 teaspoon whole mustard seed

Cut carrots and celery into 3-inch sticks. Separate cauliflower into flowerets. Place vegetables in a bowl with sliced garlic and salt. Combine water, vinegar, mixed pickling spice, dill seed, and mustard seed. Bring to boil. Pour over vegetables. Cool.

Refrigerate several days before serving. Remove vegetables from spiced brine and arrange in hors d'oeuvre dish. Serve cold. Yield: 3 pints.

Avocado-Tomato Dip

2 avocados, peeled and pitted
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 medium tomato, peeled, chopped, and drained
¼ cup finely chopped onion
2½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 dashes Tabasco sauce

Press avocados through a coarse sieve. Add lemon juice and vinegar immediately. Then add chopped tomato and blend. Add chopped onion, salt, Worcestershire sauce, sugar, pepper, and Tabasco sauce. Mix well. Cover tightly and chill. Serve as a dip with spiced vegetables. Yield: 3 cups.

Coffee Cake Is Delicious Breakfast Dish

A baking-powder coffee cake with fine flavor and texture.

Chef's Coffee Cake

1½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 eggs (separated)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup milk
½ cup blanched slivered almonds
½ cup sugar mixed with ½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter (melted)

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream the ¼ cup butter with the sugar and lemon rind; beat in yolks well, one at a time, then lemon juice.

Add flour in three additions alternately with milk, stirring just until smooth. Beat egg whites stiff; fold in.

Turn into 9 by 9 inch baking pan. Sprinkle almonds over top, then sugar - cinnamon; dribble with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven about 30 minutes. Cut in squares in pan and serve warm.

Avocado Recipe Is New and Different

Curried California avocado cubes rolled in crushed cornflakes are alternated in cocktail picks with sweet pickle and smoked salmon for festive "California Avocado Kebabs."

Now is the time of year that the winter crop of California avocados is coming into markets. The fruit is mature when picked but it is usually still firm on arrival in stores. It's a good idea to buy several avocados at a time and use them after they become eating-ripe at room temperature.

California Avocado Kebabs

1 California avocado
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon curry powder
Dash salt
1 cup crushed cornflakes
12 chunks sweet pickle
12 thin slices smoked salmon

Cut avocado lengthwise into halves; remove seed and skin. Cut fruit into large cubes. Combine butter, mixture and roll in cornflakes. Thread on cocktail picks alternately with pickle and salmon.

Makes 1 dozen kebabs.

Party Entertaining Is Informal—Delicious

Entertaining is fun and easy when done in a well planned fashion. Especially for the working gal . . . the career gal . . . foods that can be cooked quickly or prepared the night before are in order. And, whether your guests are the girls from the office or other members of a foursome there's nothing more appropriate than a buffet supper. It's gay and informal.

★ ★ ★

For the main dish, Sweet 'n' Sour Meatballs are ideal. Season and shape the meat the night before; wrap and refrigerate. Brown and cook with the remaining ingredients when you arrive home. The sauce . . . which lends overall magic . . . for this delicious dish is ready and waiting on the pantry shelf. It's canned condensed chicken with rice soup. A wonderful time saver for any dish. Accompany this saucy good entree with canned chow mein noodles.

★ ★ ★

It takes only a few minutes to toss together a salad when you have the greens washed and stored in the refrigerator. For a pretty-to-look-at as well as delicious-to-eat combination try spinach, onion rings, and strips of pimiento.

Dessert . . . another do-ahead . . . is a gelatine parfait to be topped with whipped cream, if you like. The beverage . . . coffee or tea . . . as your guests desire.

Sweet 'n' Sour Meatballs

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup finely chopped celery
4 teaspoons soy sauce
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed chicken with rice soup
2 tablespoons vinegar
⅓ cup pineapple juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ green pepper, cut into strips
½ cup drained pineapple chunks

In bowl, combine beef, celery, 1 teaspoon soy sauce, and garlic. Shape into 1-inch balls; brown in skillet. Pour off drippings. Add soup, vinegar, and remaining soy sauce. Cover; cook over low heat for 15 minutes, stirring now and then.

Blend juice and cornstarch; gradually stir into sauce. Add green pepper and pineapple. Cook, stirring until sauce is thickened and clear. Makes 4 servings.

Wake Appetite With Dill

In a pickle for a different main dish to perk up lagging winter appetites? Try a recipe containing dill. This herb has a sharp taste and fragrance that serves to stimulate the appetite. Dill is also supposed to have a quieting influence — in fact, its name is derived from the Norse word "dilla," meaning "to lull".

★ ★ ★

If fresh dill is not available, use dill seed, dill salt or caraway seeds.

Pan-Fried Halibut With Dill Butter

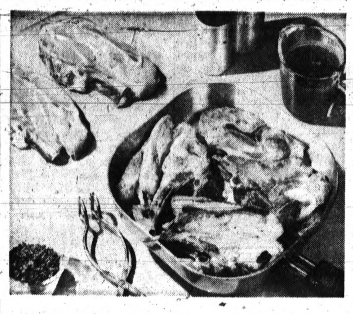
4 halibut steaks, fresh or frozen
Flour
Salt and pepper
¼ cup butter or margarine (½ stick)

If halibut is frozen, let stand at room temperature 30 minutes.

Dust steaks lightly with flour and season with salt and pepper. Brown in butter about five minutes, turn carefully and brown other side about five minutes. Halibut is done when it flakes easily with a fork.

Remove steaks to warm platter and garnish with fresh dill, if available. Serve with Dill Butter (recipe below). Makes 4 servings.

Dill Butter: Melt ¼ cup of butter or margarine (½ stick). Add ¼ teaspoon chopped fresh dill, if available. Otherwise use the same amount of dill seed, dill salt, or caraway seed.



SPICY VEAL CHOPS — Fine-grained, lean veal chops need slow and gentle cooking. For succulent chops, brown the meat, add a flavorful sauce, cover and cook over low heat until tender.

Spicy Sauce Is Good on Veal

If you're a cook who likes to add a pinch of spice to a braising liquid or prepare meat in a savory sauce, then you'll find veal chops willing culinary partners.

★ ★ ★

Veal contains little surface fat, marbling (streaks of fat through the lean), or moisture. Cooking veal in liquid prevents the meat from drying and allows the seasonings to mellow. This moist cookery insures a tender, juicy chop that is not possible when veal is broiled.

★ ★ ★

There is the same variety in cuts of veal chops as pork chops — rib, center loin, shoulder blade bone, and shoulder round bone. Shoulder chops are suggested in the following recipe, but rib or center loin chops are equally as tasty when cooked in this spicy liquid.

Spicy Veal Chops

4 veal shoulder chops, cut ¾-inch thick
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup catsup
¼ cup water
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon thyme

Brown chops in hot fat. Combine catsup, water, parsley, Worcestershire sauce, salt, and thyme; pour over chops. Cover and cook over low heat 1 hour or until tender. 6 servings.

Ripe Olives for Accent

For wonderful color and flavor, toss ½ cup of sliced pitted ripe olives and 1 orange, sliced, with your best green salad. Oil and vinegar dressing is fitting for this dish.

Ripe olives add meatiness and glossy color to almost any salad. Include them in Sunshine or Perfection molds, or in tomato aspic, shrimp molds. Jaunty ripe olive rings are marvelous with cole slaw, chicken or crab salad, Caesar salad, potato, egg or marraroni salad.

Possibilities are endless! Cut in wedges, rings or chop. Cans of ready-chopped ripe olives are on your grocer's shelf.

Butterfly Chops Are Simple to Prepare

Flavorful, tender, juicy and surprising—that's what folks will say when you serve pork chops "butterfly" fashion. The shape and varied surface of the meat presents an interesting entree for family or company. Butterfly pork chops are cut from the same area as rib or loin chops. They can be made from either boneless pork strips or regular loin, boned out.

While many meat markets carry butterfly pork chops, it is easy to "butterfly" the meat at home, the American Meat Institute advises. Purchase either boneless pork loin or the bone-in meat. If the bone is present, run a knife between the bone and meat, freeing the meat from the bone. Cut the loin into one-inch slices.

Cut the slice almost in two, holding knife parallel to the surface of the meat. Use care to cut only to opposite edge of chop so that meat is held together by a kind of hinge. Spread out the two sides of meat so that the chop lies fairly flat.

Blueburger Balls

Try this idea for a festive hot hors d'oeuvre. Blend hamburger meat with seasonings and shape into tiny balls around a chunk of mellow American blue cheese. Brown these "Blueburger Balls" in butter until done, and spear them on hors d'oeuvre picks. Your guests will love the tasty blue cheese surprise inside.

French Chocolate Dessert Is Appropriate in Any Setting

Whether you travel to France in person, in memory or in day-dreams, plan to include Chocolat Pots de Creme as the finale to a typical French meal. This famous French dessert with its rich, creamy chocolate flavor, is sure to make your experience an unforgettable one, regardless of your means of travel.

The fine sauces and creamy desserts of France have won a distinguished place in the world of fine cookery. Of the many French contributions to good eating, Chocolat Pots de Creme is an international favorite of all ages. Served in covered china pots which the French use to serve their "creme" desserts, they make an attractive dessert service. The china pots are now available in most stores.

This delectable dessert is as appropriate for school lunches as it is for elegant dinner parties. The chocolate-rich custard, topped with fresh cream, owes its pleasing flavor and creamy smooth texture to the liberal use of milk and cream, and careful slow cooking, so essential to creamy puddings.

Chocolat Pots de Creme

2 to 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, shaved
3 cups milk
⅗ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
5 egg yolks
½ teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate in milk over low heat. Add sugar and salt; cook until chocolate is completely melted. Remove from heat and slowly stir into beaten egg yolks. Cook over very low heat stirring constantly until pudding thickens. Remove from heat, stir in vanilla. Pour into custard cups or serving dishes and chill. Serve with cream or whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

You Have a Secret

Have your answer ready for egg nog lovers who will be asking why yours has something mysteriously different about it when you have secretly combined your nutmeg with grated orange peel.

Make Custards for Calorie Counters

How long has it been since you've enjoyed the simple goodness of baked cup custard, old-fashioned stirred custard, or creamy custard pudding? Most families love these old-time favorites, and, of course, they can be dressed up for party desserts as well.

* * *

A custard, properly prepared, is a delicate affair, its velvety smoothness pure pleasure to the palate. Nutritious, and easily digested, custards are considered especially good for children and invalids. At the same time, those with somewhat sophisticated tastes rate the custard as a true delicacy.

Certain care should be taken in cooking custards to preserve their delicate flavor and insure a fine texture. Use of low heat is a cardinal rule. Too high a cooking temperature can cause the eggs to curdle or separate. It's advisable to cook custard sauces and puddings in the top of a double boiler over boiling water. They should be stirred constantly while cooking, and should not be permitted to boil at any time.

* * *

If you've been trying to curb your intake of sugar, you'll be especially pleased with the sugar-free custard recipes presented here. In each of these basic types of custard, sweetening is accomplished through the use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than with sugar.

Baked Custard

3 eggs
2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups skim milk, scalded

Heat oven to 300 degrees. Lightly grease 5 custard cups. Combine eggs, Sucaryl, salt and vanilla; mix well. Gradually add scalded milk, blending well. Pour into custard cups to within ¼ inch of top. Place cups in a pan of hot water; bake about 1 hour, or until silver knife inserted near center comes out clean. Serve warm or chilled. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg, if desired.

Makes 5 servings. Each serving contains 81 calories; 7 grams protein; 3.5 grams fat; 5 grams carbohydrate.

* * *

Stirred Custard
(or Custard Sauce)

4 eggs
4 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
2 cups skim milk, scalded
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine eggs, Sucaryl and salt in the top of a double boiler; blend well. Gradually add scalded milk, stirring constantly over hot, not boiling, water until mixture just coats a silver spoon. Remove from heat immediately; cool slightly; add vanilla and chill rapidly.

Serve plain in dessert dishes, or as a sauce over fruit. If desired, garnish top with grated coconut, grated chocolate, or a sprinkling of grated nutmeg.

Sherry, rum or brandy flavoring may be substituted for vanilla.

Makes 2½ cups sauce. Each ¼-cup serving contains 48 calories; 4 grams protein; 2 grams fat; 2.5 grams carbohydrate.

Custard Pudding
(or Custard Filling)

2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
4 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
¼ teaspoon salt
3 cups skim milk
2 eggs, well beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla

* * *

Combine all ingredients, except vanilla, in the top of a double boiler; cook over hot water until mixture coats a silver spoon. Add vanilla; chill until mixture begins to mound from spoon. Serve as pudding in dessert dishes, or as a filling for cream puffs or eclairs.

* * *

Makes 3 cups. Each ½-cup serving contains 72 calories; 7 grams protein; 2 grams fat; 6.5 grams carbohydrate.

BAKED CUSTARD — Treat the family to old-fashioned Baked Custard, made the new-fashioned, calorie-streamlined way.

Cheese Is Baked on Top of Dough for Snacks

Use homemade biscuit mix to concoct lots of little appetizers.

Cheese Snacks

2 cups homemade biscuit mix (made with nonfat dry milk solids)
1 teaspoon caraway seed
½ to ¾ cup water
Melted butter or margarine
1 jar (5 ounces or ¾ cup) pasteurized process sharp cheese spread
Paprika

Stir the caraway seed into the biscuit mix; add just enough of the water to make dough that leaves the sides of bowl to form a soft ball. Turn out on prepared pastry cloth; knead gently 30 seconds.

Roll out to a rectangle (8 by 10 inches); brush with melted butter. Spread with cheese spread; sprinkle lightly with paprika. Cut into 1-inch squares with floured sharp knife.

Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 10 to 12 minutes. Serve hot or reheat. Makes 6½ dozen.

Don't use lump sugar when you are baking; get the lumps out before measuring.

Chilling Is Essential for Good Taste

Begin your dinner on an elegant note with "Artichoke Cocktail." Tender artichoke hearts and glossy ripe olives are a flavorful pair, and doubly so when topped with a tangy catsup-horse-radish sauce.

Serve this cocktail icy-cold. You might like to nestle cocktail glasses in sauce dishes of crushed ice for this special occasion.

Artichoke Cocktail

⅓ cup ripe olives
6 cooked artichoke hearts
⅓ cup chopped celery
½ cup tomato catsup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon prepared horse-radish

Cut olives into large pieces. Quarter artichoke hearts and arrange 6 pieces in each cocktail glass. Combine remaining ingredients with olives and spoon over artichokes. Chill thoroughly.

Makes 4 servings.

Fruit With Meat

When winter vegetables pall, serve a broiled fruit instead. Drizzle canned cling peach halves with lemon juice and a sprinkling of your favorite spice. Broil or bake till piping hot.

Honey and Cereals Combine to Make Sweet Desserts

One taste of honey in a dessert, bread or confection quickly suggests another tempting use for this distinctive golden sweet. Delightful directly from the comb or jar on hot breads, honey also gives a unique quality to foods in which it is an ingredient.

Bran Orange Cake is a good example. An easy topping of honey and chopped walnuts drizzled over the cake while it is still warm imparts an incomparable touch. The simple loaf cake includes ground orange, raisins and walnuts, the flavors of which are tastefully complemented by honey.

A honey candy your youngsters will enjoy — and probably can prepare for themselves — is called Happies. Made with corn flakes, brown sugar, honey and butter, Happies take the form of crisp clusters. The simple-to-make recipe yields four dozen.

Apricot Bread Pudding is a dessert especially appreciated during the winter months. It calls for canned apricots, mixed with corn flakes, toasted bread cubes, butter, spices and honey. Served warm with cream or ice cream, the pudding invites second helpings.

Bran Orange Cake

1 medium-sized seedless orange
½ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup walnut meats
½ cup whole bran cereal
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup soft shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
¼ cup honey
¼ cup chopped walnut meats

Put whole orange through food chopper with raisins, walnut meats and whole bran cereal. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Blend shortening and sugar until light and fluffy; add egg and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing after each addition. Stir in whole bran cereal mixture.

Spread in greased 8x8-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes.

Drizzle honey over warm cake; sprinkle with walnut meats. Serve warm or cold, cut into squares.

Happies

¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
3 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
3 cups corn flakes

Combine sugar, honey and butter in medium-sized saucepan. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved and mixture begins to bubble, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in corn flakes. Drop by teaspoonful onto waxed paper or buttered baking sheets. Set in cool place to harden. Yield: about 4 dozen confections, 1 inch in diameter.

Apricot Bread Pudding

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) apricots
½ cup butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon mace
2 cups corn flakes
2 cups toasted ½-inch bread cubes (4 slices)
1 cup honey

Drain apricots, reserving ½ cup syrup. Melt butter with salt and spices in 1½-quart baking dish. Add corn flakes and bread cubes, mixing gently. Combine honey, apricots and syrup; add to corn flakes mixture. Toss all ingredients together lightly.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 25 minutes. Serve warm or cold, with cream or ice cream, if desired. Yield: 6 servings. Note: 2 cups cooked, dried apricots may be substituted, if desired.

Muffin Mix Goes Glamorous

For a very special breakfast or morning coffee, the hostess wants something extra delectable to serve. These corn meal muffins, with an added something, are ideal. It's a real treat to break one open and see the fruity goodness of flavorful prunes sparked with grated orange rind. Spread with butter—umm, a delicious taste combination!

Glazed Prune Corn Muffins can easily fit into your breakfast preparation schedule, for they're quickly made with a corn muffin mix. You merely add dried prunes and orange rind along with the egg and milk when mixing. Then the muffins are ready to pop into the oven for just 15 minutes or until they're high, light and golden brown.

While the muffins are baking, you can combine butter and honey for a quick glaze and finish up the rest of the breakfast menu. It might include chilled pineapple juice, soft-cooked eggs, crispy bacon strips and coffee.

GLAZED PRUNE CORN MUFFINS

1 12-oz. pkg. (2 cups) corn muffin mix
½ cup cut-up dried prunes
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 egg
⅔ cup milk

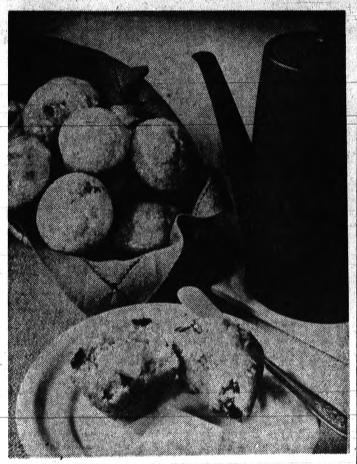
Glaze:

1 teaspoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon honey

Heat oven to hot (400 degrees). Empty corn muffin mix into bowl; stir in prunes and orange rind. Add egg and milk. Blend only until dry ingredients are thoroughly moistened. (Batter should be slightly lumpy.)

Fill greased medium-sized muffin cups half full. Bake about 15 minutes or until golden brown.

While muffins are baking, melt butter and honey together over low heat. After the 15 minutes' baking, remove muffins from oven, brush immediately with glaze. Serve piping hot. Makes 12 muffins.



SOMETHING'S ADDED — Honey-glazed corn muffins contain prunes and orange for a special flavor addition.

Valuable Food

Peanut butter ranks among the best sources of protein and, as such, provides an excellent and economical substitute for meat, eggs or cheese dishes. According to the Department of Agriculture, six tablespoons of peanut butter will supply the equivalent protein value of four eggs, or more protein than one 4-ounce hamburger. Peanut butter is also a valuable source of niacin, thiamin and phosphorus.

For Good Gravy

Worcestershire, tabasco or cayenne may be just what is needed to season meat gravy made from the drippings in the roasting pan. If you keep caramelized sugar syrup on hand it will add good flavor and rich brown color.

Expect Clamor Over Cuba Aid

U. N. to Spend Million on Farm Help

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Diplomatic observers expect U.S. congressmen to speak out soon against the decision by the U.N. Special Fund to spend $1,157,600 on an agricultural research station in Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Communist officials are considered certain to reply with charges that the United States is trying to use its contributions to the United Nations as a cold war weapon.

Despite U.S. government protests, the special fund announced Wednesday that it will start the long-delayed five-year project at Santiago de Las Vegas in three or four months, as soon as it recruits the necessary foreign experts.

'NO U.S. FUNDS'

Paul G. Hoffman, an American who is managing director of the fund, said that although the United States puts up 40 per cent of his organization's total funds, "We will not use one single American dollar" on the Cuban project.

★ ★ ★

U.S. sources said they understood technicians from the Soviet bloc or other non-American countries will carry out the project and would be paid in nondollar currencies.

Despite this, officials of the U.S. delegation obviously were apprehensive of congressional reaction, particularly because of the current dispute between the Kennedy administration and Republicans over the presence of Soviet troops and weapons in Cuba. Delegation sources noted that the American contribution to the fund must be approved by Congress.

★ ★ ★

In four years the United States has given $99 million of the $247 million the fund has been spending on 289 aid projects. The countries receiving the aid have added $342 million.

On the Cuban project, the Castro government will spend $1,878,000 on buildings, equipment and personnel.

The swift is aptly named. Some species are said to fly more than 200 miles per hour.

Dignified Campaign Proposed by Jurist

PORT HURON (AP)—"A dignified and unpartisan" campaign for the April 1 election of two state Supreme Court justices was proposed yesterday by Justice Eugene Black.

Black, a candidate for re-election, suggested his running mate, former Justice Paul L. Adams, and the two Republican nominees join him in planning the campaign.

The Republicans will choose their candidates Saturday at the GOP convention in Grand Rapids.

Court candidates are nominated by party conventions, but elected by nonpartisan ballots.

French Hoods Undone

PARIS (UPI) —Paris police announced yesterday they have arrested 58 juvenile delinquents in swoops on six separate gangs of "Blouson Noirs" (Black Jackets), the French equivalent of teen-age gangs in the United States.

George Goes to Jail

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — George Washington was sentenced to one year in jail yesterday for the theft of eight pairs of trousers from a local department store.

Cites Romney as 'Vigorous Republican'

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., last night called Michigan Gov. George Romney an "attractive, vigorous Republican" who "might have the astuteness to wait until 1968" before entertaining presidential ambitions.

He intimated that any Republican, regardless of who it might be, would face an uphill fight contesting President Kennedy in 1964 "unless things change. At this time, the President is very popular."

★ ★ ★

However, not all was lost for the GOP, Cotton said. He said Republican positions on Cuba, Europe and such domestic programs as "red ink" budgets and tax cuts correctly assessed the issues.

He said the President "must enforce the Monroe Doctrine" in this hemisphere, adding he hoped the President "did not commit himself on the invasion issue of the Cuban question."

Cotton voiced agreement with those Republican senators who have urged Kennedy to "reinforce the blockade" of last fall. He said, "It would be justified because of the build-up in Cuba of trained military and civilian Soviet agents."

'Women Have Made Valentine's Day a Con Game'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Valentine's Day is a woman's racket."

Shortly after my marriage 25 years ago I made this unfortunate remark to my wife, and I have been hearing about it intermittently ever since.

BOYLE

But I still stick to my guns.

I'm allergic to valentines, just as other people are allergic to poison ivy, cats or feather pillows.

I suspect a lot of American men are allergic to valentines, but are too cowardly to put their thoughts into words.

Traditionally, Valentine's Day is supposed to be a time when lovers exchange sweet endearments and small tokens of affection.

Actually, it has become for the gals a kind of popularity contest and a second Christmas. A fellow is expected to go into hock up to his elbows to buy his girl friend an expensive gift to show how much he truly loves her.

ONE-WAY STREET

But it is usually a one-way street. You fork out $30 or so to buy a gal a mink-lined compact, or a portable radio, and what do you get in return? A pat on the back, a 10-cent greeting card showing a heart pierced by an arrow, and an absent-minded kiss—which probably causes you to come down with influenza.

I have pleasant memories of National Pickled Beets Day. I have had memorable experiences during National Doughnut Week and National Make Better Sandwiches Month. But for the life of me, I can't ever recall getting anything out of Valentine's Day except an empty feeling.

My dislike stems from boyhood. My fate then was always to be the smallest boy in my class, and my doom was to fall in love with the tallest girl in the class, usually the captain of the feminine basketball team.

What I lacked in stature, I tried to make up for by an expansive pocketbook. I sold newspapers on street corners and always had ready cash, and I was probably the last of the big money spenders in our grammar school.

Each Valentine's Day I tried to overawe my current crush by buying her the largest box of candy I could find. What happened?

She'd put the box on my head, bend down, open it—and pass out pieces of candy to the other fellows, the taller boys.

But my allergy to Valentine's Day, springing originally from my lack of height, has deepened over the years with the realization that this anniversary is pretty much a con game for most members of the fair sex.

It has become for them just another symbolic occasion to exercise their power over the hapless male and remind him of his real role in this world—to serve woman.

On last Valentine's Day my daughter, then 8, came home and announced triumphantly:

"Well, I got a valentine from every boy in my class."

"How many boys did you give valentines to?' I inquired.

"Why, none," she replied, as if the question surprised her.

★ ★ ★

Right then I made a mental reservation to start a private fund for my future son-in-law just so in case he ever wants to run away from home, the poor lad won't have to go empty-handed.

I said it before, and I say it again. Valentine's Day is a woman's racket.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Louis Prima's singing discovery is now his bride.

The bandleader and Gia Maione were married Tuesday at Gardnerville, Nev., 20 miles southeast of Lake Tahoe, he announced Wednesday. He is 51, she 21.

They had been appearing together at Harrah's Club in Lake Tahoe and now are at the Sahara Hotel here. Prima was divorced from singer Keely Smith Oct. 3, 1961, and Miss Smith has custody of their two children, Toni Elizabeth, 8, and Francis, 5.

Boy Scouts Honor U.N. Chief Thant; Present Jacket

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A group of boy scouts Wednesday gave U.N. Secretary General U Thant a flaming scarlet explorer's jacket and a scout utility knife. In return, the scouts got a good word from the secretary general.

Thant told the 12 scouts his son—who was killed last year in an accident in Burma—had been a scout. He said the Scout movement was strong in his country.

"If world leaders observed scout goals and ideals a great many problems confronting the world today would be solved," Thant said.

Romance Is Popular Tradition of Valentine's Day

By MADELEINE DOEREN

The custom of sending greetings on St. Valentine's Day sprang from an ancient Roman festival dating back to the third century, A.D.

Both Chaucer and Shakespeare refer to the festival in old England and Scotland as a day in early spring when lots were drawn to decide which young men and women should be each other's "valentine" during the ensuing year.

Lending a nostalgic touch to our page for this hearts-and-arrows day are the wedding pictures of a group of Pontiac-area brides of yesteryear.

The traditional white or ivory satin featured in several of the gowns shown was often touched with heirloom lace, usually repeated in the headpiece. Molded bodices were styled with long, tapered and buttoned sleeves, ending in wrist-points.

The voluminous skirt and cathedral train have given way to controlled fullness and today's chapel or sweep train. A revival of the detachable court train which falls from shoulders or waistline may be expected this season.

★ ★ ★

Shorter veils falling from the Swedish crown or tiara-type headpiece do not hide butterfly or Watteau bustle-backs when the bride turns to face the altar.

★ ★ ★

Bouquets are less bulky, with the cascade, crescent or round shape predominating for today's bride. The colonial nosegay type is ideal for the bridesmaids and flower girl.

Mrs. Paul Lennox Connolly (Nancy Fitzgerald) of Karen Lane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald of Ottawa Drive. She and Dr. Connolly were wed in 1949.

Mrs. Donald A. Lloyd (Muriel Smith) of Tilmore Drive, December bride of 1947, is the daughter of the Harlan S. Smiths of Cherokee Road.

Mrs. S. M. Dudley (Ethel Roy of Birmingham) and Mr. Dudley, former teacher in Pontiac schools, were married in 1910. They live on Augusta Avenue.

Mrs. Newton D. Skillman Jr. (Sally Ekelund) of Lake Angelus Shores wed 75 years ago, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clifford T. Ekelund of Ottawa Drive.

Mrs. John H. Cvengros (Barbara Schimmel) of Eileen Drive, September bride of 1950, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Schimmel of West Iroquois Road.

You Can't Find Happiness by Hurting Another Person

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Sixteen years ago I married a man I did not love. I knew I didn't love him but I was lonely.

ABBY

Now I have met a man I love dearly. He loves me, too. It is a decent love and not a dirty one. There are children on both sides.

What should I do? Go on living with a man I don't love or go to the one I love with all my heart? Please help me.

SO IN LOVE

DEAR SO: How can an illicit "love" between two married parties be a "decent" love? That "love" didn't flower all by itself. It was born in impulse and cultivated by stealth.

If that is "love," then love is a dirty word (which it isn't)! Stay with your husband and tell your "love" to stay with his wife. No one finds real happiness stepping on the hearts of others.

DEAR ABBY: Our office is in an uproar this week. Every girl here received a post card invitation with the following message: "Bridal shower for Minnie. Please call the above number for gift suggestions."

It's Minnie's number, so apparently she is giving it herself. Minnie was married once, had three children and was divorced. She married again last January. Now, five weeks later, this "bride" is giving herself a "bridal" shower. Who's crazy?

VIRGINIA

★ ★ ★

DEAR VIRGINIA: Anyone who accepts such an invitation.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "L": Drop that pill, grandpa, and get yourself a Valentine!

Describes Red Chinese

By JEANMARIE ELKINS

Felix Greene, internationally famous lecturer and traveler, spoke yesterday to a Huron Theater audience of Pontiac - Oakland Town Hall women and some students which nearly filled the building.

Greene, a tall, handsome, greying Englishman with an appealing air of shyness, made it clear early in this discussion that this was not to be an ordinary lecture on Red China.

It certainly wasn't.

AMAZING TALE

Speaking from his own vast personal knowledge, Mr. Greene told an amazing tale of the growth and development of Red China and of her common people. He believes the public has been given a false impression of life in Red China.

In the last 12 or 13 years only nine Americans have been allowed behind the Bamboo Curtain, Red China is extremely hostile and bitter toward us. She has the oldest civilization in the world, dating back some 4,000 years, and has a high sense of moral superiority. She is proud of her cultural heritage.

"The United States is thought of as some sort of external dragon toward which all animosity is directed with Britain as a junior dragon attached, but not too important."

Contrary to what we would like to believe, the Chinese people are firmly behind the Communist government. In any revolution someone must lose and those refugees trying to get out of Red China are mostly people who have lost something in the revolution.

Approximately 2 per cent of the people belongs to the Communist party. This is the hard core of the party, intense, severe young people who are much like a religious order with a sense of dedication.

"It is the most effective political machine I've ever seen," Greene stated.

A peoples militia of youth from 17 to 35 drills at least once a week. These volunteers take their guns home with them after practice and as Mr. Greene pointed out, "an insecure government does not arm her people."

On the current rift between Russia and Red China, Mr. Greene declared that this was a real and bitter difference of opinion.

Red China does not believe in the possibility of Russia's ever disarming and feels she is being hypocritical for even discussing it.

With a running commentary and an excellent series of slides, Mr. Greene made one realize the fantastic developments in medicine, education and industry.

His final slide was an appealing girl of about 2 or 3 which he called "Young China today wondering what the dickens it's all about." His memory of China will always be of the children he met.

He appealed to us to take our heads out of the ground and not to "remain strangers shouting lies about each other across a sea of ignorance."

For Gloomy Dieters

Weighty Encouragement

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today, I want to bring those of you who are following my 8-week Beauty Improvement Plan some encouragement and a few suggestions from other readers who have been successful with such a plan. Here are some quotes which I feel certain will spur you on.

"I just love pretty clothes and the size I wear has always meant more to me than the pounds I weigh. So, I decided to get down to a size 12. Without your column, I would never have started or gotten anywhere.

"The first two weeks I lost 6 pounds, the next week 4 pounds and from then on I averaged 2 pounds a week, although my loss wasn't the same every week. I was going so strong that I kept right on until I got down to a size 9 which is what I should wear.

★ ★ ★

"Every two weeks I went to the doctor and I felt too cheap not to have lost any weight, since he weighed me and recorded my weight on my chart at each visit. The office girls took note of my diet, too, and this spurred me on.

★ ★ ★

"I did not follow any special diet, but just cut down my intake of fattening foods, counted calories and lived on meats, vegetables, salads, cottage cheese and tomato soup.

"I had raw carrots and celery for snacks in the place of cookies and candy. Cottage cheese is delicious on any kind of salad—jello, tossed or what have you. I didn't use salad dressings or oils.

★ ★ ★

"May I give a word of advice to mothers? If you want your daughters to lose weight, you do it first. My daughter was overweight and when she came home from college and saw how much I had lost, she was jealous of my small size and reduced to her ideal weight."

There are many valuable ideas in these quotations for those who are losing weight. The idea of aiming toward a certain size dress or of wearing one again you have gotten too fat for is always a spur.

Checking in with your doctor certainly provides an impetus as indicated, and surely we can best teach our children by our own example!

If any of you have missed part of my 8-week Beauty Improvement Plan, send 25 cents and your printed name and address for a BIP kit. A booklet with complete reducing instructions will accompany the BIP Weight Chart on which you can watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. Just send your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

What to Do When You Can't Pay?

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: What does one do when one has invited several guests to dinner in a very nice restaurant and when the bill is presented finds it much more than he anticipated and does not have quite enough money to cover it?

A: If he does not want to borrow from one of his guests, the only thing he can do is go to the manager of the restaurant, explain his predicament and if he will not accept a check for the extra amount, offer to leave his watch, cigarette case or driver's license as security that he will return later to settle with him.

Q: Where do the serving implements belong when the serving dishes are put on the table and passed around to the guests? Should they be put in the dish or on the table beside it?

A: If the dishes are uncovered, you would put the serving implements in them. If they have lids on, you lay the implements beside the dishes and put them into the dishes when they are passed.

The lids turned upside down are left where the dishes were until each has made the round of the table, then the lid is placed on the dish with serving implement (or implements) left in it.

Q: Very soon I will have to introduce a young married couple to several friends of mine and I am not sure how it should be done. The wife is a doctor and her husband is not.

A: If you wish to introduce them both at the same time you can say, "Mr. John and Dr. Mary Brown," or more probably you will introduce one first and then the other — "Dr. Brown" and then, "her husband, Mr. Brown," or "Mr. Brown" followed by, "his wife, Dr. Brown."

Use Machine to Wash Best

In general, machine-washing gets clothes cleaner than hand-washing. Either way, it takes an adequate "dose" of soap or detergent to remove soil.

Love Crosses Miles From Korea to Flint

FLINT (AP)—Warm smiles and a bear hug were exchanged yesterday in the first meeting of a childless Flint widow and a deaf mute Korean girl who was her foster child.

Three years ago, Mrs. Alex Baird learned of an appeal for sponsoring Korean orphans.

"I heard of a little girl who was deaf-mute and said, "That's my child," said Mrs. Baird, who has been hard of hearing since childhood.

So she began sponsoring Soon Lee and sending gifts and dresses she made to an orphanage at Inchon Sung Dong.

Soon Lee, which means "a virtuous child," sent Mrs. Baird a picture of herself with a note saying, "I am delightful and very healthy." Mrs. Baird learned that the girl's mother was dead and that her father was killed in the Korean War.

Soon Lee is one of the stars of the Korean Orphan Choir singing Thursday night in Detroit.

In sign language she "sings" such things as "The Lord's Prayer" and folk songs like "Bee Stings" and "Little Stone Bridge."

Mrs. Baird, 67, was brought to Detroit for the two days the choir will be in town by Frank Teich, general manager of the Statler Hilton Hotel, who heard that Soon Lee's foster mother lived in Flint. A nurse accompanied Mrs. Baird, who recently had a heart attack.

Two interpreters were with Mrs. Baird and Soon Lee when they met in Teich's office, but they weren't needed.

The little girl, fighting back the tears, rushed into her foster mother's arms. Soon Lee's hands danced in front of her heart and she traced a finger from her eye.

The sign language went from Korean into English and was translated by interpreter Peter Lee. "She says she's just happy —joy—and tears coming out of eyes which I try to keep from coming out," Lee added.

To which Mrs. Baird said, "but I knew all that."

Hands are flaring into fashion this spring. Riding high, wide and handsome is this dramatic gauntlet glove, cut on classic lines that burst into a deeply flared cuff just below the elbow. The perfect length and shape for flared-to-the-elbow sleeves or to wear over the new long skinny sleeves, this gauntlet can also show off a turned-down cuff for more tailored manners. In fine double-woven cotton the glove comes in white, bone and black.

Here, the glovemaker translates the glove with a flair for chic into a short-cut version in crisp white double-woven cotton. Just long enough to reveal the fashion-right length of arm between sleeve and glove, this mini-gauntlet marks its flare with a turned-back button-centered triangle. Contrasting stitching completely outlines the cuff, adding to the trim tailored

Polly's Pointers

Wash Day Back Saver

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Here is my way to get soiled clothes from the bathroom down to the washer without lugging a wash basket up and down stairs.

Keep a heavy shopping bag in the hamper so the clothes are thrown directly into it. When laundering, lift out the bag; it is easy to carry to the washer.

Clean, folded clothes that do not need ironing go into another bag and upstairs to be put away.

M. R.

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — A cute miniature garden for children can be made by putting soil and seeds in the half shells of eggs.

Put the shells in a brightly painted or papered egg carton.

The children will have fun taking care of their plants and watching them grow.

C. R.

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — When storing a hot water bottle, blow lightly into (after draining) and quickly screw on the cap. It will hold the sides apart.

New, large, cheap garbage cans make excellent containers to store clothing in attic or cellar. They are air-tight so moth preventives can be used.

We are not within walking distance of any stores, so it is a real calamity to come home and find something was forgotten.

Now I buy the standard spiral shorthand pads, run a shoelace through the spiral, hook it over a nail on the kitchen wall and find it handy at all times. One column gets the grocery list and the other is for drugs and miscellaneous.

Hospitals? You Can Have 'Em!

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — The boss said, "Now, really, isn't a little time spent in a hospital a pleasure?

BARBARA ANN McINNIS

Mr. and Mrs. William McInnis of Lewis Street announce the engagement of their daughter Barbara Ann to Donald J. Wier, son of the Ralph Wiers of Fiddis Street.

The man of our house said, "Boy, I'd like just about a week of doing nothing but staying there sleeping, reading, eating . . ."

Neither added what I also suspected as the reason for envying the patient hospitalized briefly—their chance to watch the nurses go by.

But I'm the wrong sex to appreciate a Gina or a Jayne in starched white. And none of my doctors for all their quiet efficiency even resembled Kildare or Casey.

So, all I have to say to both husband and boss after my seige of staring at hospital green walls (why won't they paint hospital areas pale beige or daffodil yellow?) is, "fellows, you may have the antiseptic life."

I'll take home instead, where the care is loving and tender, although not always as crisply efficient.

★ ★ ★

Never has a tiny island called a New York apartment looked so good!

And it is this one person's wager that most of the 349,000 patients in the nation, the group into which I seem to fit, feel the same way.

The American Hospital Association estimates this number as the daily case load of voluntary, short-term patients in general hospitals.

A short stay produces not only the physical therapeutic results. You learn anew to appreciate good health and gain a whole fresh understanding of and sympathy for those who are long-term and less lucky in their speed of recovery.

Fortunately, after a few days of rest and medication for a respiratory ailment, the hospital figured I was just taking up space someone else could use.

SOME COMPENSATIONS

I also was running up the food bill. Caught with a pesky germ that still let me eat (dine now, diet later), I lived up on everything from welsh rarebit to lamb stew.

Yes, I know, hospital cooking is maligned from coast to coast, but I know one hospital chef who'd do a good restaurant proud.

Many are the things you notice when you're ill, but not too ill. For one thing, the pills—like the bills—are getting bigger each year.

There's an easing of hospital routine to the extent that you're not hauled out of sleep at 7 a.m. to have a thermometer shoved under your tongue, your temperature and pulse noted, then left to lie there until 8:30 before food arrives.

★ ★ ★

The hospital gown, that cumbersome cover which used to be the attire from portal to portal, no longer is de rigueur. Had I owned a mink bed jacket, I'm sure the hospital would have said, "wear it." A portable beauty salon also was there to help lift morale.

A hospital stay teaches the renewed appreciation of friends.

Winter vacationers send cards—one from Tahiti showing suntanned natives, and another from a couple vacationing in the Caribbean mentioned the golfing he was getting in and the suntan she was acquiring under tropical skies.

★ ★ ★

A picture postcard from a stepson at Fort Myers, Fla., reported the temperature there was 86 degrees.

Mine at the time was 102.

Eight of every 10 persons hospitalized are discharged within 10 days, with the average stay less than six days, the Health Insurance Institute reports.

Don't Pretend to Like Children's Friends

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our son is dating a girl we don't trust or like. During the recent holidays he insisted on inviting her to family celebrations.

We agreed because we know parents' opposition to children's relationships is supposed to encourage the attachments. But this girl is really hard to take.

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: We can't like people because our children do. And I personally deplore the child guidance advice that tells us to pretend we do. For such acts fool nobody.

Our child knows — and his friend senses—that we are assuming an approving front with our own separating purpose in mind. We resent our own dishonesty.

Such psychological advice benefits nobody, and irritates our real problem—fear of our dislike.

★ ★ ★

So I urge you to try and relax about yours. If we can peacefully accept our dislike of a child's friend, he can begin to live with it, too.

When he pushes us for our opinion of the aggressive girl, we can tell him the truth without anxiety, saying: "I don't like her—but I don't have to see them because you do."

Because we can be content in our differing opinion, our son may be disappointed in us but it won't destroy him. The calm with which we express our right to disagree with him helps him to accept his right to disagree with us.

CLARIFY SIGHT

If we are relaxed enough about our right to dislike his girl, we may begin to actually see her. We may be able to perceive, for example, that the possessiveness and brashness we have found so offensive is her discomfort with us—her expectation of our dislike expressed in challenging behavior.

We find we can "take" her, not as a prospective member of the family, but as a struggling young human creature.

But unless this acceptance is rooted in unanxious acceptance of our original dislike, it's phony—and simply creates more painful constraint for everyone.

Like so much child psychology advice, the idea that we can wean a child from an undesirable attachment by pretending to accept it does not consider parents.

It does not consider our proper resentment at the obligation to lie about our feelings.

Use Soap to Combat Winter Skin-Flaking

A combination of frosty weather and artificial heating tends to dry the skin in winter, so that it may start to scale off in little white flakes.

★ ★ ★

To combat this condition, give yourself a good daily scrub in the tub or under the shower. Use a body brush, loofah, or washcloth with plenty of soapsuds to stimulate your circulation and remove the dry flakes of dead skin. Rinse and dry well, then apply cream or lotion to lubricate the soft new surface.

Can You Help Cooks Who Need Recipes?

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Usually we put new recipes for our readers in this space. Today we are requesting them.

This week we have had two requests and are asking women's page readers to help us. Perhaps you have one or more of these somewhere in your files.

Mrs. T. R. Bedford would like a recipe called "Grandpa's Cookies." She remembers they were made by a man in Oxford and were the best sugar cookies she ever made.

A reader who signs herself "A subscriber" wants recipes for a canned baked bean and ground beef dish, Lsagna and fried rice, Greek and Armenian style for buffet serving.

Who will come to their aid?

The Edward J. Conleys of Troy announce the engagement of their daughter Carole Lynn to Martin E. McClure, son of the Norman C. McClures of Birmingham. Her fiance attends Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Soapy Begins Visit to Congo; His 4th

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (UPI)—G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, began a four-day visit to the Congo today.

The visit was Williams' fourth since the Congo became independent in 1961. He arrived last night from Nigeria on a tour of African countries.

The population of Rome, which slipped to 50,000 in the middle ages, is now over two million, or twice that of its ancient peak.

Movie Studio Diner Reopens 'Mid Flood of Memories

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—In these economically perilous times, movie people search for omens with the zeal of Roman soothsayers.

Hence the reopening of the 20th Century-Fox commissary was hailed as a good sign, good indeed.

THOMAS

There was gloom when the dining room closed last September after 32 years of continuous operation. The studio's affairs were then in disarray, personnel was cut to a skeleton crew. The financial drain of even an unprofitable lamb chop could not be countenanced.

★ ★ ★

The recrowned king of 20th-Fox Darryl F. Zanuck, ordered the commissary closed. What few employes were left had to partake of lunch from the back of a lunch wagon.

This week I went out to the Westwood lot to witness the commissary opening that presaged a stir of activity. The large, mural-decorated room was only one-quarter filled, mostly with lonely department heads, secretaries, telephone operators and a scattering of writers, directors and producers.

No actors. They come later.

HUSTLE LUNCHES

"Take Her, She's Mine" is supposed to start with James Stewart in April, followed by "Something's Got to Give" with Doris Day and James Garner.

A waitress and three bus boys hustled lunches for the self-conscious patrons under the careful eye of Nick Janios, who has managed the place for 30 years.

I lunched on halibut amandine and memories, since the commissary stirred a flood of remembrance. Some of the fondest memories concerned blondes. There was something about Fox that seemed to require a reigning blonde. I had lived through the incumbencies of Alice Faye, Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield.

★ ★ ★

The most vivid memory concerning the commissary harked back to Nikita Khrushchev's visit to Hollywood.

The foremost stars and creators of Hollywood gathered in the dining room to see the Soviet chief and he gave them a show to remember. First he declared that the artist is revered in the Soviet Union. As proof, he introduced a member of his entourage, the author of "And Quiet Flows the Don."

FOILED BY DISNEY

Then the Fox commissar, Spyros Skouras, attempted to engage in some banter with Khrushchev, who proceeded to demonstrate his skill as a propagandist. Working up a temper, the Russian launched a tirade against the sinister forces visiting Disneyland.

From there he went to the set of "Can-Can" and you know what happened there.

So many memories—the welcome party for Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Cesar Romero, Victor Mature and others home from the war. Ty and Lana Turner lunching together during a brief, flaming fling. The party for the start of "Let's Make Love," with Marilyn Monroe breathlessly introducing Yves Montand.

With luck, there may be more memories to come.

Claims U. of M. Economic Key

Calls for More Funds to Push Romney Plans

LANSING (AP) — University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher, pleading for an increased 1963-64 appropriation, said yesterday that the university is one of the keys to Gov. Romney's plan to strengthen the state's economy.

Hatcher told the Senate Appropriations Committee he expected to see a $5-million appropriation authorized for agricultural research in the state, while only 6 per cent of the population works on farms and the figure is declining steadily.

"Why don't you grant another $1-million for job-creating scientific research at the university?" he asked.

Hatcher said that a new science and technology research building will be opened on the campus this summer, but there has been no provision in the proposed state budget to carry on scientific research there.

The university originally requested a $44.17-million appropriation for the 1963-64 fiscal year, an increase of some $7-million over its current budget allotment. But Romney's proposed budget cut the total to $38.22-million.

In asking for more money for research activities, Hatcher said scientific work at the university has attracted private industrial investment of some $1-million in one or more of the past three years.

★ ★ ★

Hatcher said this job-creating investment fits the pattern of Romney's planning for accelerated economic development of the state.

"I'm quite distressed that no provisions have been made for more scientific research," he declared.

"It really puzzles me that in planning for Michigan's commercial and economic health, there is no provision for this one going and creative center."

ABOUT AVONDALE SCHOOL DISTRICT

Today, I received my absentee ballot and find that the board members Floyd Cobb, David Hackett, and Genevieve Porter state that "Mr. Watt knowingly attempted to submit inaccurate information to the Oakland County Board of Education in an effort to obtain public funds to which the school district was not entitled." Now this is a new accusation . . . it is entirely separate from the one which the Federal Government has completely cleared him of with a letter to the Board of Education. This new charge, I believe, is in regard to special education. This area in the school system has been difficult for Mr. Watt. It began before he took up his duties as superintendent of the Avondale School District. In the spring of 1959, Mrs. Bonnie Norman wrote him at his address in Fairgrove, Michigan, recommending that he appoint her as head of the Special Education Department of the Avondale Schools. Had he conceded to this, I am certain his problems during the past three years would have been few. He is a trained and dedicated administrator and felt the children in the Stone School needed a full-time principal. This step was taken — the principal of the Auburn Heights Elementary, who had been serving both schools was asked to also head the Special Education Department, and Mrs. Norman remained as Visiting Teacher. Mr. Watt demanded that she keep a regular work schedule to serve the children of the school district needing this type of help. The Speech Correctionist (and we had two at different times during his tenure as superintendent) never required prodding — each one was young in years but mature in her work. Back to the "Oakland County funds charge." The Assistant Superintendent compiled the Special Education Report for reimbursement of funds from the Oakland County Office — he listed $30 for secretarial help for the complete special education program. Mr. Watt questioned him on this figure . . . the bookkeeper made the statement that the figure didn't even cover the telephone service for that department. There never was any question about the reimbursement from the County Office for funds. It was checked by the Oakland County Board of Education Office and verified by them each and every year, and they will surely testify to this.

We, who are dealing with the lives of children, must stand for Principle. I tell you the following in all humility and with a very deep sense of gratitude to God. I was fired by the Avondale Board of Education for standing for Principle. I did not have a college degree for credentials toward applying for a new position. I took a skills test — and, today, I work for one of the finest of men who has dedicated his life to the youth of the world. He has placed me in a salary bracket that far surpasses any salary I might have earned in my former position.

By the way, "Dr. William Emerson, Mr. Watt's little nine-year-old daughter, Susie, questioned me last August with 'my Daddy is a good superintendent, isn't he, Mrs. Riggle?' I answered, 'He certainly is, Susie.' I answered the child truthfully — did I not, Dr. Emerson?"

Other Nations Also Fighting to Reduce Traffic Deaths

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

(Editor's Note: A record 41,000 persons were killed by traffic accidents in the United States last year. Elsewhere the toll rose in some nations, fell in others. Reasons were sought by AP bureaus abroad.)

By The Associated Press

The West German motorist is told "keep your distance."

A Moscow truck carries painted on its rear a warning to Soviet drivers, who often seem to make their own rules, "Less speed on turns."

Dutch motorists draw a complaint from the Netherlands Road Safety Association: many still have the outlook of their bicycling days.

Translated in many languages is the slogan, "If you drink, don't drive."

Americans concerned about deaths on U.S. streets and highways—a record 41,000 in 1962—can take note. They have company in other nations less richly endowed with motor vehicles.

The U.S. mark, announced by the National Safety Council in Chicago, was set in a year that saw 79 million American vehicles traveling a total of 767 billion miles. That would equal 1.65 million round trips to the moon.

No other nation came close in either number of vehicles or mileage. But the fatality rate on a per capita basis was in some cases startlingly similar.

West Germany's record is worse than that of America, although German fatalities decreased slightly.

On the streets and autobahns 14,000 persons were killed. That toll, in a nation of 56 million, would be about 46,000 if projected among the 187 million people of the United States.

On the same terms, Austria just about matched the United States. There was mourning among its 7 million people for 1,596 traffic dead.

France ran close. A nation of 46.2 million, its toll was 10,112.

The Canadians' auto driving habits and traffic regulations most closely resemble those of the United States. With almost one-tenth as many people, Canada's safety record was better. The dead totaled 3,440.

3-PRONGED ATTACK

Efforts to stem the tide take three broad forms:

Safety campaigns. Rome plans a four-month drive through newspapers, billboards, radio and television to promote a higher regard for pedestrains, speed limits and right of way at intersections.

A crackdown on the tipsy. A new law empowers Swiss courts to jail any drunken driver for six months and lift his license for a year.

* * *

Built-in precautions. Effective next Jan. 1 French car makers will be required by law to install seat belt fittings, though not the belts, on all models.

Reception of the idea of seat belts, which the National Safety Council estimates could save 5,000 American lives a year, is about as spotty abroad as in the United States.

Of two nations in which deaths were up moderately last year, Sweden took to the belts readily and Italy not at all. It is estimated half of Sweden's cars are equipped to strap in the drivers and their front seat companions.

* * *

The West German Automobile Club believes a considerable decrease in the number of scooters and motorcycles — vehicles which it deems fatality-prone — is one reason for a slight downward trend in the German death toll. Also cited are improved driver discipline and the fact that a rise in the number of cars slows traffic.

* * *

A reduction in the number of motorcycles and bicycles on the road is called a factor in a 3 per cent drop in Britain's fatalities last year. The British Transport Ministry also lists a campaign against drinking drivers and a 50-mile speed limit on holidays and weekends.

METHODS VARY

In France, safety campaigns as Americans know them are rare, but city police crack down after particularly bad accidents. In Italy, safety education has been handled largely through state-approved driving schools.

Norway has a special problem because practically nobody was permitted to drive a car during the German occupation in World War II and driver education was limited by car rationing that persisted until 1959.

* * *

Publicity campaigns and increasing skill of the people behind the wheels helped to reduce the Norwegian toll somewhat last year, even though the number of cars increased by 20 per cent.

Jaywalking remains a problem in many metropolitan areas.

You'll never know how the Russians made out. Like so many other things in the Soviet Union, traffic statistics are a state secret.

Soviet newspapers occasionally publish an article about traffic safety.

Buenos Aires police have launched "a campaign of persuasion" to stop it. Of 547 traffic deaths in the Argentine federal capital last year, 294 victims were on foot.

New York City's 1962 record: among 626 victims, 418 pedestrians.

Freed Official Starts Work at Sister's Store

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — Orville Hodge, former Illinois auditor recently released from Menard Penitentiary, went to work Wednesday at his sister's hardware store in Granite City.

There was a brief flurry of excitement as some reporters and photographers appeared at the store but it quickly died down.

The two weeks since his release Hodge has been resting and taking physical examinations.

Hodge pleaded guilty to stealing $600,000 in state funds. Some estimates place the figure at more than $1 million. The state regained most of the money.

He served 6½ years at Menard.

Young Escape Artist Does Houdini Tricks

MORRISTOWN, N. J. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy is mastering the art of the late Harry Houdini, the greatest escape artist of all time.

Ronald Kolb makes escape from a mail sack while handcuffed and tied look like child's play.

His friends strap him in a leather and steel harness, and bind him with 50 feet of heavy chain which is then padlocked, and it takes him less than 25 seconds to get out.

NATO Headquarters in Country of Rebel Member

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

LONDON — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has everything it needs in France except the French.

"It's a little like running a boat with the anchor down," says a NATO source.

The heart and nerve center of NATO are in France and probably will remain there indefinitely. That is where headquarters is, where planning is done, where the NATO Council sits.

Right now, France's major contribution to NATO is geography. The French delegate sits in the council, but that's about all he does.

The Atlantic crisis provoked by France's blunt rejection of Britain's bid to enter the European Economic Community or Common Market turned a spotlight on NATO's problems with France. NATO sources say French attitudes hamper planning, that French failure to cooperate in defense systems and French insistence on acting exclusively of the other allies can cause more harm.

★ ★ ★

Military planning will go on, even if NATO in effect must operate virtually without France. But recent events pose new dangers for NATO.

A split among the six Common Market nations over France's veto of Britain might make the French "empty chair" a full reality, at least for a time, and that would weaken the alliance.

"I think it would be a disaster if we should divide," President Kennedy has said. "The forces in the world hostile to us are powerful."

He has responded softly to de Gaulle thunderbolts, but he has made it clear any division between the United States and Europe is a serious danger to Western security.

BRITISH REASSESSMENT

The possibility of a weakening is painfully present. France's veto brings grave economic problems to Britain. She may feel obliged to review her NATO commitments. Britain's three divisions—55,000 men plus support troops—in Germany cost her in the neighborhood of $200 million a year.

France herself has made no move to restore to NATO the two divisions withdrawn in pre-de Gaulle days for the Algerian crisis. She has withdrawn her dozen ships from NATO's Mediterranean force. Her contribution now amounts to two divisions in Germany, and that's it.

NATO is still nearly six divisions short of the 30 which planners hold necessary to proceed with the forward defense program for Europe.

While de Gaulle insists "the Atlantic Alliance is absolutely necessary," he provides its biggest headaches.

He rejects integration, which means blending defense forces under a single command. That suggests to de Gaulle a surrender of sovereignty. On that issue France caused the collapse of the European Defense Community in 1954.

De Gaulle has refused to permit stockpiling of atomic weapons in France. Striking-force squadrons must be located in Germany and Britain.

WANT'S OWN BOMB

De Gaulle rejects Kennedy's proposal for a multination nuclear force. He wants his own atomic striking force. His idea is getting to be known Europe by the curious name of "the little deterrent."

Eventually, in de Gaulle's words, France's deterrent "will have the somber and terrible capability of destroying in a few seconds millions and millions of men."

De Gaulle says the Cuban crisis showed that America's nuclear weapons are ready to go into action for "something other than the defense of Europe and nobody can say "where, when, how and to what extent the American nuclear weapons would be employed to defend Europe."

France's policy is not to turn French weapons over to a multination force under foreign command, but "to construct and if necessary use atomic forces ourselves—without refusing cooperation, technical or strategic, if it is desired by France's allies."

By the end of this year, de Gaulle intends to have on wheels an atom bomb about three times the size of the one dropped on Hiroshima in 1945. It will be carried by Mirage IV planes, which need U.S. refueling planes.

By 1966 de Gaulle hopes to have 50 Mirage IVs. He plans a force of solid fuel missiles of 900 to 1,200-mile range, and eventually underwater missiles with three submarines.

★ ★ ★

It would do no good, NATO sources say, to deny France the U.S. KC135 refueling planes, or to make other threats against de Gaulle. Such actions would only serve to underscore de Gaulle's complaint that the United States wants to dominate Europe.

Nor can the United States threaten to withdraw its 425,000 troops from Europe. De Gaulle knows Washington would not leave Europe stripped. The very thought frightens West Germans. Even now Germans express worry about reaction in Congress to French-German reconciliation, in the light of France's attitudes toward the United States and the alliance.

So far as military men are concerned, the 14-nation alliance has been a miraculous success since its creation in 1949. They are ready to sit it out and carry on business as usual.

But France is a large chunk of Europe.

De Gaulle's impact, in the opinion of many responsible Europeans, has created a situation which arouses resentment in the United States and which could generate pressure for a review of American commitments to Europe.

Army to Aid Nursing Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced yesterday expansion of its student nurse program to provide financial help for male students in approved nursing schools.

Female students in the program have been receiving such help for seven years.

The rising cost of nursing education and the need for more Army nurses are reasons for opening the student nurse program to men, the Army said.

The Army Nurse Corps now includes 2,800 women and 275 men.

PCH FLYER — Pontiac Central's season-long double winner Bob Lorenz won two more events last night as the Chiefs nipped Pontiac Northern in a swimming meet, 53-52 in the Huskie pool. Northern won the first meeting between the two teams to start the season by the same score. The Chiefs got revenge last night and did it by winning the final freestyle relay. Lorenz' time in the butterfly was 1:03. Pontiac Press Photos

Final Event Decides Meet for Chiefs

PCH Tankers Edge PNH, 53-52

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

This is beat Pontiac Northern week at Pontiac Central.

The PCH swimming team followed the pattern of the basketball team by avenging an earlier defeat with a thrilling 53-52 victory in the Northern pool. The score was identical to Northern's triumph in the first meet of the season.

For the second straight night a standing room crowd watched the two city rivals engage in athletics and the noise and wild demonstration which followed, closely matched Tuesday night's court battle.

Six pool and varsity records were set as PCH took six firsts and PNH five.

★ ★ ★

The story of the meet was actually told in the second place finishes which were responsible for changing the complexion of the results several times.

DOWN TO WIRE

The final result went right down to the wire and it was PCH freestyler Jim Howard who took the hero's role in the last lap of the freestyle relay event.

Howard easily won the 50 freestyle in 24.7 and after Northern took a 48-45 lead by taking 1-2 in the breaststroke, everything was dependent on the relay event.

PCH freestylers Gordon Kaufman, John Rothe and Gary Forrest, and PNH relay swimmers John Bilkey, Butch Tatu and Mike Landers matched strokes in near simultaneous fashion.

★ ★ ★

At the turn Howard was two strokes ahead of Steve Daniels, but after pushing away he went ahead by 10 feet and PCH swimmers were at the finish line to greet him as he made the winning touch.

MEDLEY RELAY

In the opening medley relay, Bob Powers pushed PCH ahead in the butterfly, but Northern's Bilkey and Central's Paul Phillips staged a close battle in the freestyle and Phillips made the first touch with the time of the event at 1:56.6. Northern's time was 1:56.7.

Bob Lorenz won the 200 freestyle as expected and the 100 butterfly in 1:03.

Carl Cascaddan changed three records. His new varsity record in the individual medley was 2:21.1 and later he went 1:06.3 for a varsity and pool record in the breaststroke.

Another varsity mark was Bob Basinger's 55.4 in the 10.0 freestyle and also Alex Hiller's total of 224.6 points in diving.

The key event was probably the 400 freestyle. Northern's Skip Ervin won as expected in 4:23.7, a varsity mark, but the battle between Northern's Don Chambers and Central's Roy Johnson for second place was the exciting and eventually the crucial race.

The two swimmers stayed close all the way, exchanging leads. Johnson went ahead on the turns and Chambers then moved ahead in mid-lane.

This is the way it went except on the final lap. Chambers took a short lead on the final turn and stayed ahead until 10 feet from the finish when Johnson caught up and made the winning pass.

Johnson came in a 4:47.7 and Chambers at 4:48.0. For Chambers it was six seconds better than he had ever posted in the event, but three-tenths of a second short of giving Northern the lead and the possible victory.

PCH coach Doug Treais received a victory bath amid the glee of chief rooters.

Central now is 7-5 for the season and Northern is 7-4. The Huskies meet Fitzgerald in the PNH pool next Wednesday and finish with Kimball.

Red Wings Stunned by Toronto

Leafs Escape 3rd Place Tie With Rally

Jeffrey Knots Score With Goal; Detroit Then Loses, 6-2

TORONTO (UPI) — The Toronto Maple Leafs erupted for four goals in the third period last night to defeat the Detroit Red Wings, 6-2.

The loss cost the Wings a tie for third place in National Hockey League standings with the Leafs. By virtue of the win, Toronto took over undisputed possession of second place with 61 points. Montreal holds third with 60 points and the Detroiters are in fourth with 57.

Frank Mahovlich hiked his goal total for the season to 29 to take over first place in league statistics. Going into the game, he was tied with Gordie Howe of the Wings with 27.

ASSIST ONLY

Howe scored only an assist and raised his point total to 57, two off the league leading pace set by John Bucyk of Boston.

The Leafs rallied for four goals in the final period after Larry Jeffrey pulled Detroit into a 2-2 tie in the early minutes of the session.

Mahovlich scored his first goal of the night in the final minute of the second period to give Toronto a 2-1 lead and hit again at 6:07 of the final session. It followed Jeffrey's tying marker and proved the winner.

Howe's assist came on a picture book play when Alex Delvecchio slapped home a first period goal.

Tim Horton, Bob Pulford, George Armstrong and Red Kelley scored the other Maple Leaf goals.

The Leafs scored first when defenseman Horton belted through the entire Detroit team midway through the first period. Detroit goalie Hank Bassen halted Horton's rush but was unable to clear the Leaf rebound and Horton, standing on the crease, tipped it in.

Bassen received a 10-minute misconduct when he hotly protested Horton's score.

Pistons Conquer SF With Ohl's Scoring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Detroit used the hot shooting of Don Ohl to nip San Francisco, 134-132, in overtime in a National Basketball Association game last night.

Ohl dumped in six straight points at the beginning of the five-minute extra period. It gave the Pistons an insurmountable 127-121 margin after Wilt Chamberlain had forced the overtime with a tip-in just a second before regulation time ran out.

In another NBA game, the New York Knicks blew a three-point lead in the final 15 seconds and were nipped, 103-102, by the St. Louis Hawks. The Los Angeles Lakers, leading the Western Division, rallied to upset the Boston Celtics, 134-128, and the Cincinnati Royals edged the Syracuse Nats, 103-102, in remaining games.

Ohl tallied 17 points during the fourth quarter as he personally kept Detroit in the game. He hit a long jumper, a lay-in and two free throws in the overtime to finish with a Detroit high of 32 points.

The Warriors bounced back to a one-point deficit at 129-128 in the overtime but Ray Scott and Bob Ferry kept the Pistons on top.

The victory solidified Detroit's hold on third place in the Western Division, moving the Pistons 2½ games ahead of the Warriors.

The great Los Angeles guard Jerry West may be sidelined by injuries, but the Lakers have a pretty good man to take his place in Dick Barnett.

The jump-shooting Barnett hit 38 points and mighty Elgin Baylor 50 as the Lakers defeated Boston.

Tom Sanders and Tom Heinsohn meshed 25 and 23 for Boston.

The Lakers, who trailed until the last four minutes of the game, outscored the Celts, 15-2, in the final quarter spurt. The win enabled Los Angeles to hold a 3½-game lead in the won-lost column against Boston.

After a slow start this season, the Hawks are flying high and yesterday won again on Cliff Hagan's jumper with one second to go. Bob Pettit netted 25 for the winners and Hagan 20, while Al Butler had 27 for the Knicks.

Cincinnati took a 124-122 decision as Oscar Robertson of the Royals hit 12 of 16 shots for 34 points. Lee Shafer scored 31 for Syracuse.

Seaholm Five Faces Battle to Hold 2nd

The only place Birmingham Seaholm's cagers can look and see distance in the Eastern Michigan League standings is in front.

★ ★ ★

Ferndale is a four-games in the lead and is expected to wrap up the championship Friday at Roseville.

Seasolm goes to Mt. Clemens in second place, but is pressed from the side and rear.

Royal Oak Kimball is tied for second. Port Huron and Mt. Clemens are tied for third, a game behind. And the race for runnerup honors could go to the final game of the season.

In other action Friday, Port Huron plays at Hazel Park, and Kimball goes to last place East Detroit.

The Maples appear to have the most difficult task. Mt. Clemens has been tough at home this season and there is little reason why the same won't hold true this time.

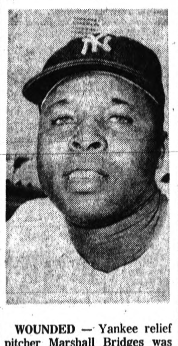
Table Tennis Fans Will Help Charity

Table tennis fans will have the opportunity for competition and contributing Sunday at the Pontiac Central High School girls' gymnasium.

Beginning at 2 p.m. the city table tennis association will hold a handicap championship for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

There will be seven divisions including: boys, juniors, mens, senior mens, womens, mixed doubles and mens doubles. All play will be open to the public.

Contributions of $1 and 75 cents are requested from the adult and junior participants, respectively, for each event entered; while adult and junior spectators will be asked to donate 50 cents and 25 cents, respectively to the March of Dimes.



WOUNDED — Yankee relief pitcher Marshall Bridges was shot in the left leg in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., home of the New York training camp. His condition was listed as fair and police were questioning a woman on the charge of aggravated assault.

Jones to Try Sprint in West Coast Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It takes speed and spring to hurdle and broad jump.

★ ★ ★

Indoor hurdle king Hayes Jones and Olympic champion broad jumper Ralph Boston think they've got enough of that speed and spring to move out of starting blocks faster than sprinters.

And so, putting their feet where their mouths are, they're taking on the sprinters in a 25-yard dash door track meet Friday.

ONLY THREE SECONDS

That's not even as far as a batter runs going from home plate to first base. It should take the winner only 3 seconds, give or take a tenth.

★ ★ ★

If Jones and Boston prove their point, they'll have done it against indoor track's best dashmen. Herb Carper and Roscoe Cook, coholders of the indoor 60-yard record of 6.0 seconds are both in the field.

★ ★ ★

Carper equalled his 6.0 mark Saturday at Los Angeles.

Jones has perhaps understandably grown tired of only hurdle competition — he has won 39 straight indoor races and holds the 60-yard hurdle mark of 6.9 seconds.

Boston, though best known as a broad jumper, has sprinted and hurdled well while displaying superb decathlon potential.

The sprinters will have a busy evening, running a 50-yard dash at 8:10, a 60 at 8:30 and the 25 at 8:50.

★ ★ ★

Forrest Beatty of the California frosh will be making his bay area season debut in the sprints. Off his 9.4 for 100 yards and 20.2 for 220 while a prep, Beatty is a promising contender for the 1964 Olympic team.

Ace NY Pitcher Wounded

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Marshall (Sheriff) Bridges, ace relief pitcher of the New York Yankees, was listed in fair condition at Broward General Hospital today as police questioned a woman they said shot him in the left leg after "some sort of argument" at an Elks Club.

Police said the wound was not serious, but Yankee officials said Bridges could be sidelined for two months.

The shooting occured shortly after 10 p.m. Wednesday night, at a Negro club known as the Pride of Fort Lauderdale Elks Lodge.

WOMAN BOOKED

Police booked a woman identified as Carrie Lee Raysor on a charge of aggravated assault in connection with the shooting. They said the woman appeared to be excited during preliminary investigation. They planned to resume questioning her today.

A patron at the club, Erskine Hepburn, said he drove Bridges to the hospital after the shooting.

He was sitting next to Bridges and Miss Raystr when the shooting occured, he said.

"I heard a shot, looked around and saw Bridges fall to the floor," Erskine said. "I helped him to my car and drove him to the hospital. All the way to the hospital he kept telling me to call the hotel and get in touch with Yankee Manager Ralph Houk."

Bridges was under sedation at the hospital and could not give his version of the incident immediately.

Yankee officials said he was shot in the leg below the knee with a small caliber weapon.

"We have no definite idea how long he will be out," said Yankee public relations director Bob Fishel. "But it seems certain that he will miss at least two months, and then he will have to get into shape.

"It won't do our chances any good. We had been counting on him. He was a very effective pitcher for us, especially in the first half of last season."

BULLPEN WEAK

Only hours before the shooting, Houk said at the Yankee advance training camp here that Bridges was counted on for full time bullpen duty. Pitching depth is the Yankee weak spot.

The shooting recalled that of first baseman Eddie Waitkus of the Philadelphia Phillies, who was shot in the chest by a 19-year-old girl in a Chicago hotel room on June 15, 1949. Waitkus did not return to baseball until the following season.

The girl who shot Waitkus, Ruth Steinhagen, later was adjudged insane and spent two years in a mental hospital. She did not know Waitkus when she shot him.

Bridges, 31, had a 3.17 earned run average for the Yankees and an 8-4 won-lost record last year. He appeared in 52 games, and was a key factor in the Yankee pennant drive after an arm injury put the club's top relief pitcher of 1961, Luis Arrogo, out of action.

Caberfae ski area will celebrate its 25th anniversary this weekend with a display of fireworks and an anniversary ball.

Walt Doherty, sports information director at University of Detroit, is resigning effective March 1st to become assistant public relations director at Detroit Race Course.

★ ★ ★

Three University of Detroit football players, including former All-county quarterback Ron Bishop of Shrine, have been ruled scholastically ineligible for the 1963 season. Bishop, a junior was figured to be Jerry Gross replacement. Other two ineligible are Joe Henze a tackle and halfback Mitch Skorski.

No Letup for Central Five Friday

PNH Danger Flag Set for Skippers

Danger lurks at every stop on the schedule when a team is on top.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Northern's Huskies found this out in their last two games. PNH went to Farmington last Friday needing a win to clinch a share of the Inter-Lakes crown. The Huskies lost by a point.

Tuesday they sought their second victory over Pontiac Central this season. It slipped away in the closing minutes.

Waterford will attempt to keep Northern's new string—two straight losses after nine wins in a row—going Friday night in the PNH gym.

After losing two heart-breakers, the Huskies may be ripe for an upset. They also may be prepared to take out the frustration on the next foe.

In either case, Waterford will be hampered by not having its scoring punch, Bob Readler, in uniform.

The senior center suffered a sprained wrist against Berkley last Friday and is not expected to play until the state district tournament the first week in March.

CLOSE DECISION

The Skippers' plight became evident Tuesday when they dropped a close decision to Rochester, another team weakened by the loss of key personnel.

Northern coach Dick Hall will probably use the same five who have started most of PNH's games. They are forwards Gary and Roger Hayward, center Wayne Daniels and guards Jerry Reese and Mike Burklow.

For the Skippers it probably will be Paul Moran, Rick Russ, Dave Patterson, Clark Lemaux and Chuck Swenson.

A victory for Northern and a Southfield upset at Farmington would give the Huskies a share of the crown.

But it is doubtful if the Blue Jays have the strength to handle onrushing Farmington. The Falcons are rolling after a slow start and could force a battle to the wire for the I-L crown.

Walled Lake, in a minor slump, hosts Berkley. The Vikings need a win to tie the Bears for third place.

Both teams have shown definite improvement the last six weeks and the game is rated a tossup. Berkley has good balance while Walled Lake has an edge in rebounding.

D Quintet Continues on Point Rampage

It may only be a Class D ball club but Jo-Jo's is making its "big brothers" sit up and take notice with its scoring prowess in the city's recreational basketball play.

The Parks and Recreation Department's only unbeaten team put on another display of offensive fireworks last night, pounding New Hope Baptist, 128-66. It went over 90 for the fifth time.

To add spice to the victory, Jo-Jo's two top scorers were Willie Harsten and Frank Kettonen with 85 points between them. Harsten bested his teammate for game honors by scoring one free throw in his 43 point performance while Kettonen had no attempts from the line.

The winners led 60-22 at halftime and 94-44 after three sessions. They doubled New Hope's field goal performance with 62 buckets.

OTHER GAMES

Other city games saw The Spartans slip past Victor Paint, 42-35, in Class D action; while the Class C league had two close contests.

League - leading Local 594 defeated improving Town & Country Lounge, 60-55; and runnerup Michigan Bell held on to nip Columbia Avenue Baptist, 52-49, as Bill Buck and Bob Becker sank crucial foul shots in the final minute of play.

In Waterford Township recreational basketball, Reeves Service stayed a half game in front of O'Neil Realty when both teams posted Class B loop triumphs last night.

Reeves coasted past Hoyt Realty, 56-41; while O'Neil had little difficulty in downing A&W Root Beer, 62-37. O'Neil's Jim Patterson took the night's scoring honors with 18 markers.

Activity tonight features four games. The Class A city league's top contenders (Westside Recreation and Southwest Community Club) will clash at 8:30 in the Madison JHS gym following a 7:00 contest between the top Class C clubs (Michigan Bell and Local 594).

At Crary JHS, Spencer Floors will meet Woodcum Drilling at 7:15 and an 8:30 contest is scheduled between Drayton Inn and Tim's Barber Shop.

Chiefs Travel to Flint for Big Rematch

Battle for 2nd Place and 7-Game Streak at Stake for Central

There will be no let-up for the Pontiac Central Chiefs Friday night.

Winner of seven straight—including a 63-53 grudge match Tuesday from Pontiac Northern—PCH will journey to Flint for a game with its counterpart in that city at Ballenger Field House on the Flint Junior College campus.

The Indians of Flint Central and the Chiefs of Pontiac tangled early in December with Flint quintet earning a 45-44 nod in a tepee burner at PCH.

In that game, the Chiefs trailed most of the way but stormed back in the final period to take a brief one-point lead that Flint's Mel Summers overcame with two free throws with 50 seconds left.

SVC TIE

The two teams are presently tied for second place in the Saginaw Valley Conference; and the championship hopes of both, slim as they are, will be on the line Friday.

Saginaw Arthur Hill's 10-0 log is two and a half games better than the runnerups' identical 7-2 records, but the Lumberjacks will not have the opportunity to clinch the crown with a loop victory before next week.

Flint Central has won two straight after a 5-point upset loss to Bay City Handy and will have the advantage of the Ballenger "home" court where it has only lost to Arthur Hill, 56-54.

The first PCH game's offensive leader was Jerome Rutland who hit 18 markers. The Indians are the seventh-rated Class A quintet in this week's AP poll.

The PCH team is 11th-rated despite its continually improving performances and should make a contest of it. Coach Art VanRyzin's main problem will be where to start newcomer Lester Hardiman.

The 6-4 transfer student is showing rapid strides toward developing into a steady stalwart for the Orange and Black and with his fine versatility can play outside, underneath or in the corner.

One of the Chiefs' leading pointmakers Mel DeWalt has relinquished his starting slot reluctantly the past two games and the erstwhile PCH mentor may be ready to let another regular chafe away some playing time on the bench this contest.

★ ★ ★

Rebound specialist McKinley Jones figures to start along with Hardiman and DeWalt. VanRyzin will most likely choose among team captain Ray Sain, Gerald Henry and Jesse Hodge depending upon whether he wants the rebounding might of the first one or the defensive and offensive contributions of the latter two.

Bloomfield Battle Is Geared Again

They are reviewing the what-to-do-in-case-of-emergency plans at West Bloomfield High School gymnasium preparatory to Friday night's monumental clash between the Lakers and arch rival Bloomfield Hills.

The two schools have been quite successful in football and basketball competition this year in the Wayne-Oakland race but haven't been able to settle the issue of which one is the better.

Both teams tied for loop football championship by fighting to a deadlock on the gridiron. West Bloomfield whipped the Barons, 58-49, in the first basketball showdown this year but the Lakers only have a slim half-game lead in the W-O title chase.

A full house can be expected Friday when they open the doors, with the crowd tensions and uproar at a high pitch.

Victories by the quietly confident Barons Friday and then at home Saturday against Milford would shoot them a full game in front of the Keego Harbor quintet.

CHANGES MADE

Bloomfield Hills has scored four straight wins since coach Ed Wickert reshuffled his personnel and is considered a much improved contender since its first efforts against the Lakers.

The addition of 6-3 juniors Doug Tanner and Dan Mautte from the reserve squad and 5-11 sophomore Greg Anderson off the junior varsity roster has produced increased offensive effectiveness.

Offense has been a recent problem for coach Art Paddy at West Bloomfield but the Lakers regrouped their forces in the second half against Clarkston Tuesday and appear to be healthy again.

Both teams have had strong defenses this season with each relinquishing more than 50 points only twice.

Wickert expects to start Roger Stewart and Jay DeBandt at forwards, Bill Calhoun in the middle, and a backline of Tom Augustin and Brian Bish. Paddy has Dan Greig and Charlie Robison as backcourt regulars, Dave Helmreich at center, and the forwards will probably be Bill Eliason and Dan Armistead.

Other league contests will have Clarenceville attempting to repeat its lone triumph with a win at Milford; Holly will risk its slim title hopes at Northville; and Clarkston has a game date at Brighton. Northville's Mustangs also will play a Saturday night contest at Clarenceville.

Top Bowlers Meet Today in Tournament of Stars

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (UPI) — Defending champion Tom Hennessey and perennial winner Don Carter lead a field of 86 professional bowlers into today's opening round of the $25,000 Tournament of Stars.

The tournament also has attracted such bowlers as Billy Welu, Dick Weber and the hottest on the tour this season, Andy Marzich, who has won two tournaments already.

Carter, who set an all-time Professional Bowlers Association record by winning $40,017 last year, has been ill with the flu. He spent Sunday and Monday in bed after competing in a tournament in St. Louis last week.

Joining the 86 touring pros are 10 Oklahoma bowlers who qualified in state competition. The bowlers will be divided into two squads of 48 men apiece and each group will bowl four six-game blocks today and tomorrow. The four on top after Saturday morning's semifinals will compete for the title Saturday afternoon before a nationwide television (ABC) audience.

Twenty-four bowlers will share in the $25,000 purse. The winner will get $5,000, the runnerup $2,500 and the third man $1,250.

Pitt Upsets West Virginia

By The Associated Press

Pitt's Panthers may have won bigger games or scored victories that were more satisfying. But not this season. That's for sure.

Two weeks ago at Pitt the Panthers lost a heart-breaking one-point decision to West Virginia, 68-67, when a potential winning field goal with one second left was not allowed.

The Panthers, unranked nationally but one of the country's better independents, made up for that one with a 69-68 triumph at West Virginia Wednesday night.

FREE THROWS

Paul Krieger dropped in two free throws with 12 seconds left to provide the tying and winning points as the Panthers advanced their record to 15-4 for the season.

Duke and Georgia Tech protected their positions in the top ten rankings, but each had trouble doing it. Third-ranked Duke won its 12th in a row in a 79-74 edge over Virginia at Charlottesville and 10th ranked Georgia Tech broke out of a two-game losing slump at the expense of Vanderbilt, 69-62.

* * *

Pitt, a prime contender for a post season tourney berth, trailed 37-30 at the half, finally caught up with 6 minutes to go, then fell behind again, 68-67, with 3 minutes left.

The Mountaineers went into a stall that lasted until the closing seconds. Jim McCormick was fouled, but missed his free throw Kreiger was fouled on a rebound, and calmly tossed in the two big points.

THORN OUT

Mountaineer star Rod Thorn missed the game because of influenza.

Pitt's 5-foot-9 Dave Roman had 22 points, including 16 in the last half. It was his 40 foot jump shot, which could have won the previous West Virginia game, that was disallowed because two of his teammates called time out as he shot.

* * *

Duke was outscored by 14 points from the floor but more than made up for it from the foul line against Virginia, hitting 27 of 33 tries. The triumph ran the Blue Devils' Atlantic Coast Conference record to 11-0 and their over-all mark to 18-2.

Art Heyman of Duke led all scorers with 27 points, 15 on free throws.

Duke built a 40-32 halftime lead, then Virginia battled back in the last half. The Blue Devils, however, nailed it down with nine consecutive free throws late in the game.

* * *

Georgia Tech, which had lost two straight, broke the slump at home against Vanderbilt. The Yellow Jackets edged to a 32-30 halftime lead, then broke it open by outscoring Vandy 18-8 in the first 11 minutes of the second half.

Sophomore Jim Caldwell scored 21 points, and Alan Nass 18 for the winners, now 7-3 in the Southeast Conference and 18-3 over-all.

In some of the other major games Tennessee State upset St. Bonaventure 86-85 on Andy Chesser's three-point play at the gun; Notre Dame crushed Gannon 82-47.

Kilmer May Miss 1963 NFL Season

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco 49er halfback Bill Kilmer, who broke his leg in an auto accident last fall, apparently will miss the 1963 National Football League season.

* * *

"I guess it would be pretty tough to get back this year," he admitted from a hospital bed where he has lain flat on his back for three months.

* * *

"But I'm sure I'll make it the next season," he told the San Francisco Chronicle. "Dr. Milburn (Lloyd Milburn, 49ers' physician) told me I wasn't through with football. I know he's right and I still have some hope for this year."

SECOND YEAR

Kilmer was in his sophomore year with the 49ers and had already become established as an outstanding pass-run halfback when the accident occurred with two games to play.

* * *

His car plunged off a freeway south of here.

"My foot was sticking through the floorboard in muddy water for 30 or 40 minutes while they tried to pry the car open," said Kilmer. "I don't remember much about it." But, probably because of the mud, an infection developed.

* * *

"Lucky, the infection was in the skin, not the bone," Kilmer said Wednesday. "The doctors have taken the pin out of my ankle, and the bone is healing fine. I don't have an infection now, but the bug is still there. The doctors hope when more tissue grows that'll destroy the bug.

"I hope to get on crutches and out of here in about three weeks."

Kilmer revealed what may have caused the accident:

* * *

"I borrowed a car with power steering. My own car doesn't have it, and I guess I spun the wheel too far."

* * *

Kilmer keeps in shape in the hospital by chinning himself 40 times a day and continually exercising his toes. They're the only movable portion of his injured right leg and foot.

Cox Paces Toledo in 80-44 Rout

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo's Jim Cox poured in 29 points as the Rockets soared to an easy 80-44 victory over Western Michigan in a Mid-American Conference basketball game last night.

Cox put on a shooting exhibition at the outset by scoring Toledo's first ten points. He ended up making 12 of 17 field goals and 5 of 6 free throws to lead all scorers. Teammate Ray Wolford added 18 points.

The Rockets, who moved into first place in their conference, led 42-19 at halftime and increased their margin to as much as 30 points before the reserves took over midway in the second half.

Bloomfield Hills Skiers Favored in Prep Meet

18 High Schools to Compete on Holly Slopes

15 County Ski Teams Vie for Honors This Saturday

High school skiing is on the rise in Oakland County.

Fifteen of the 18 teams entered in the Southeast Michigan High school ski meet at Mt. Holly Saturday are from the county, and Bloomfield Hills is rated as the top choice for the title.

The Baron skiers have Geoff Smith, Marc Miller, Dick Wood, Rusty Spiern and Greg Lau as their top entries. Only three, however, will count toward a team score.

Last year Bloomfield Hills won the girls title and Walled Lake took the honors in the boys' division.

★ ★ ★

Waterford, Royal Oak Kimball and Berkley may give Bloomfield Hills a close race for the girls' title.

Kimball has a top brother-sister act in Dave and Carol Clark, Pontiac Central will have Dick Gorman, Jack Stragea, Dick Taylor and Jim Joyner among the boys' entries and Waterford's girls contenders include Debbie McNair, Jane Tripp and Nancy Scribner.

Walled Lake will defend its title with John Steckling, Chuck Schaper, Mark Fish, Eric Wentzel, Veit Pagel and Scott Galbraith. The girls' team has Heidi Hafner, Mary Schroeder, Pam Paget and Sue Hess.

★ ★ ★

The meet will start at 11:00 a.m. with the portion from 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. to be televised live.

Learn Proper Waxing

Skiing Tips by Toni Sailer

By TONI SAILER

Dry, hard-packed snow makes a skier's paradise. Wet, heavy snow can be hell.

The harder the snow, the less dangerous it is for skiing. Even those mean - looking bluish ice spots are easier to tackle than deep, bottomless Spring snow.

If you fall on ice or hard snow, you may hurt a thumb or bruise your skin. Deep powder snow is ideal for soft landings. But wet snow can be like a trap closing on your legs.

I'm not telling you this to discourage skiing in balmy Spring weather, but to caution you against reckless speeding. Always remember: Nothing is as easy as swinging down a hardpacked run. But it takes all your skill and power to maneuver in heavy snow. Here, a perfect Stem Turn or Stem Swing pays off.

This brings us to the problem of waxing.

SPECIALL COATING

Your skis will have a smooth special coating covering the soles to protect the wood, or metal or fiber, against damage, and to serve as a base-wax.

But in order to preserve this coating, and to adjust it to the different kinds of snow, you should use additional waxes.

Cold, hard-packed or powdery snow take hard waxes. For dull, watery snow it should be a soft-paste-like wax. Wherever you ski, especially in late winter and early spring, you should take these two waxes along.

★ ★ ★

Watch out for those abrupt changes from cold, fast snow in the shadow to wet, slow snow in the sun. Sometimes you'll even have to stop and put on the right wax.

And now: Go and try it yourself. Good luck!

Wax your skis right, says Sailer, before you take off.

Slalom Races Slated for Summit Ski Area

The 6th annual slalom and cross country races for all ages will be held Saturday, Feb. 16th, at the Summit Ski Area near Fenton.

The one mile cross country event, only race of its kind in Michigan, annually draws top skiers, who use a longer type of ski than the slalom skiers and bindings which permit heel lift.

Junior events will begin at 10 a.m., according to Bob Harl, ski school director, who will officiate the race.

Jack Nicklaus Versus Field

TUCSON, Ariz., (UPI) — It's National Open champion Jack Nicklaus against the field as the $25,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament gets under way today.

With Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, the one-two finishers in the Phoenix Open taking a vacation, Nicklaus took over as the favorite to caputre the crown now worn by young Phil Rodgers, who has been off his stick in recent weeks.

Nicklaus, still suffering from bursitis in his hip, got a couple of injections yesterday and said he's be able to play. He finished third at Phoenix after winning the Palm Springs Classic the previous week.

This tournament is being played on the beautiful new 49er's Country Club, 15 miles North of Tucson. The scorecard says the course is 7000-yards long, but in the high altitude (4,000 feet) the ball travels long, and 300-yard drives are commonplace.

The International and Canada Cup golf matches in 1963 will be held at Saint-Nom-La-Breteche near Paris, France, Oct. 24-27.

Giants' Dark Pursuing Title Again . . . in Golf

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A field of 146, including 45 active major leaguers, tee off today in the 23rd annual National Baseball Players' Championship Golf Tournament.

Defending champion Alvin Dark, who shot a winning 72-hole total of 298 last year, was back trying to add to his tourney record of five championships, but other former titlists offered stiff competition.

★ ★ ★

Former Detroit Tiger infielder Roy Cullenbine, three-time winner of the inactive major league division, was forced to miss this year's tournament when he was involved in a fatal auto accident en route.

Cullenbine was not seriously injured but had to return to Detroit.

Tiger Pitcher Bob Anderson to See Action

LAKELAND, Fa. (UPI) — Recently acquired pitcher Bob Anderson, who came to the Detroit Tigers in an off-season trade for Steve Boros, will see action this weekend against the Hanshin Tigers.

Tigers' manager Bob Scheffing said he planned to use Anderson, Doug Gallagher and Bill Faul in the weekend series. Anderson was slated for action Sunday and Faul and Gallagher were scheduled to pitch Saturday.

The Japanese team and Tigers' youngsters, sprinkled with some veterans, have been working out at Tigertown since Sunday in early drills.

High winds slowed down the workouts for the second straight day yesterday.

Family Skiing Grows Locally

The turnout of 4,000-plus skiing enthusiasts that braved the elements last week to witness professional ski racings' debut in southeastern Michigan was a convincing display of the impact the winter sport has made locally.

Pine Knob's "evening of glory" was threatened by all-day warm, wet weather that would have discouraged the faint-hearted followers of most outdoor sports, but the ski buffs came and brought their friends and families.

Families, in fact, are playing an increasing role in the development of most area ski resorts such as Dryden, Brighton, Mt. Holly, Alpine, Pine Knob, Grampian and Christie.

Practically all lodges have family plans to attract a solid core of customers. Some areas also sponsor yearly rates for the single skier, but the family and, in most cases, the group plans are more conducive to enjoyable skiing.

BIG INCREASE

The increase of participants at all areas is pocket warming to the resort owners, and should be encouraging to the President's hopes for increased physical fitness at all age levels.

The family season plans normally cover only area privilege fees and do not include equipment. Various types of group plans exists which may or may not include meals, lodgings and entertainment in addition to the skiing.

Rapid strides are being taken at the high school and lower levels. Skiing teams are being developed and bus loads of students may be seen arriving at the resorts during the week.

Not all the adults who crowd into the slopes, particularly on the snowy weekends, will be found slipping, sliding and snow-plowing down the slopes.

Proud parents may be seen, camera in hand, closely following their offspring's progress, while remaining skiless themselves. Women bring their knitting, men their playing cards and can be found frequently firmly entrenched in the wining or dining lounges to which the resort operators are now giving careful attention.

SKILL TO SPARE by Dick Weber

ALL-STAR CHAMPION

THE 3-10 LEAVE

To pick up a 3-10 leave more to the left on the approach and roll over the same arrow you use for a strike.

The body should be angled, feet aimed at and shoulder parallel to the target. The 3 ball should be his to the right, so it bounces off and takes the 10.

The 3-10 leave usually results from rolling toward the Brooklyn side, hitting the head pin right on the nose. The 1 pin goes through, leaving the 3.

The 5 slides over to take out the 6, but leaves the 10.

The New York Yankees have scheduled 26 night games at home during the 1963 baseball season. The champions played 30 home night games in 1961.

Player Leads List of Money-Winners

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player, who owns a chicken farm in South Africa, apparently is out to build a quick nest egg.

★ ★ ★

Player leads the list of 10 top money-winners of professional golf with $18,702 this week. Player's one victory and four finishes among the top five in six tournaments gives him a bare edge on his closest rival, Arnold Palmer.

The all-time money-winner, Palmer has two victories and one finish in the top five in five times out this season, according to PGA figures.

The fourth man on the list, Bill Casper Jr. has $10,978 to his credit and is followed by Jack Burke Jr., with $9,540.

The bottom half of the top 10 has Tony Lema, $7,806; Don January $6,470; Bob Rosburg, $6,284; Gardner Kickinson Jr., $6,102; and Julius Boros, $4,975.

Trading on Heavy Side

Steels Pace Market Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels resumed leadership and paced the stock market to a further gain early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The advance was irregular, marred by profit taking on some recent big gainers.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to about a point.

Chrysler was a notable casualty falling about 2 points as profits were taken on its latest burst of strength. Some sources have advised selling the stock because of its tremendous rise and these took effect belatedly.

Steels, after an uncertain start, got a new lease on life following news that U.S. Steel probably will reopen its suburban Pittsburgh works because of rising orders. Steel makers have been reporting an order increase, due to hedge buying against a possible strike and also because of seasonally rising consumption.

MOTORS UP

Aside from Chrysler, motors were slightly higher. The trend was to the upside among chemicals, rails, oils, and aerospace issues.

U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin advanced more than a point, Lukens 2, and Youngstown Sheet 1. Wheeling Steel rose nearly a point. Fractionally higher were Bethlehem and Republic.

★ ★ ★

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was moderately active. Syntex gained more than 2.

Bond Prices Mostly Unchanged

NEW YORK (AP)—Bond prices were mostly unchanged at the opening today. The relatively few moves among corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange were mixed.

Over the counter dealers in U.S. government bonds said the market was exceptionally quiet. There has been little change all week.

There were few moves of as much as a point in the corporate list—outside the convertible section. Numerous convertibles were ahead 1 to 3 points as the stock market rise continued.

ITU to Strike Outside Plants?

Union Eyes Extension of Walkout in NY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The 69-day strike against New York newspapers may be extended to plants of the New York Times in Los Angeles and Paris, France, says the president of the printers union.

Elmer F. Brown, president of the International Typographical Union, AFL-CIO, said the possibility of extending the strike would be considered today when a conference with leaders of two striking locals resumes.

★ ★ ★

He made the statement after meeting briefly Wednesday with the New York leaders, Bertram A. Powers of ITU Local 6 and Thomas M. Laura of Mailers Union Local 6.

Brown said New York publishers had tried to get other newspapers to print their editions.

'TRIED TO ISOLATE'

"We have tried to isolate the strike to New York City, but in view of the fact that the New York publishers have gone outside to seek allies, we are having to do that also," Brown said.

In New York, Turner Catledge, managing editor of the Times, said, "I know of no such arrangements."

There was no comment from the Publishers Association of New York City.

In Cleveland, Ohio, members of the American Newspaper Guild striking the Cleveland Press & News voted 134 to 92 to accept a proposed two-year contract, provided it is made retroactive to Nov. 1 and provided no union member loses his job. Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the afternoon Press & News, said management would accept the conditions.

Guildsmen on strike against the morning Cleveland Plain Dealer are expected to vote on the management proposal Friday or Saturday.

Offerings Absorbed in Early Transactions

CHICAGO (AP)—Buying absorbed all offerings quickly during the first several minutes of transactions today on the board of trade, and prices were mostly firm.

Wheat was up a major fraction in spots, rye and soybeans a cent or more.

Brokers said the support appeared to indicate a more general speculative preference for the long side of the market. Commercial business was light all around.

First Since Sunday

Fighting Again in Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) — The first serious outbreak of fighting since Sunday erupted today on both sides of the Tigris River which runs through the heart of this Iraqi capital.

Newsmen could not check out details of the fighting because of a curfew which restricted their movements, but it was believed to be between the newly installed revolutionary forces and diehard Communists who oppose them.

Bursts of automatic weapons fire and the crack of rifles could be heart distinctly on both sides of the Tigris in what appeared to be a renewal of the bloody conflict that started last Friday.

The outbreak came shortly after Col. Abdel Salam Aref, the revolutionary government's provisional president, held his first news conference—a session that ended in a near riot.

Oil Companies Confident, Page B-10

Foreign Minister Taleb Hussein Chabib also met newsmen yesterday and had assured them that all resistance had ended.

He added that total casualties were believed to be "very small" since the revolt started last Friday and overthrew the regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

The premier later was given a drumhead courtmartial and shot, along with several aides.

However, several hours later, the sound of gunfire echoed through several parts of the city.

Baghdad appeared to be returning to normal until the new fighting developed.

GM Employes Get Best Pay in History

DETROIT (UPI)—General Motors' hourly rated employes in the United States earned an average $136.19 per week in 1962, highest in history.

The weekly pay for the 338,000 blue collar workers was an increase of $14.97 over 1961 and figured out to $3.26 per hour.

The earnings were substantially higher than the national average and compared with Ford Motor Co. figures of $129 per week and $3.15 per hour for 1962.

Worldwide employment averaged 605,000 during 1962, including 141,000 employes outside the United States. Payrolls for both hourly and salaried employes totaled a record $3.895 billion.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I live alone and have no close relatives and need advice desperately. I feel I can trust you. I own 35 shares of Vanadium Corp., 50 shares of Bowmar, 80 shares of Central Soya, 800 shares Bowser Common and 500 shares Bowser Preferred. Have been advised to sell all but Central Soya and put proceeds into Public Service of Indiana, General Foods and Stowe-Woodward." L. R.

A) I am always glad to help someone in your lonely position and you can certainly trust me to the limit of my knowledge and experience. In general, the advice you have been given is sound. I would definitely sell my Bowser and Vanadium shares, but I would hold off on Bowmar Instrument, a relatively small but growing science stock that seems undervalued.

As for replacements, Public Service of Indiana is satisfactory but General Foods yields only per cent and Stowe-Woodward, though well-managed, seems to me unsuitable for someone in your position. For the latter two, I would substitute Socony-Mobil and Union Pacific Railroad.

Q) "My husband, a teacher, will be retiring in ten years. I am also a teacher and will retire in 15 years. The money we save is put into savings and loan associations at 4-4¼ per cent. We have been thinking of putting some of our savings into stocks. What percentage do you think should be so invested and in what stocks?" J. S.

A) All my life, I have been very grateful to the teachers who helped me through my formative years. It is a genuine pleasure to try to assist you and your husband.

The market has staged a sharp and very rapid advance. Under present conditions I would invest no more than half my savings in common stocks. I would buy the very best stocks, such as General Motors, Standard Oil of N. J., and American Electric Power, and avoid speculative issues or even medium grade issues until I had learned more about equity investment.

U.S. Recalling B47s

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department plans to start withdrawing U.S. nuclear bombers from overseas bases during the next 16 months, it was learned today.

Barring some new emergency, plans call for reducing the number of Strategic Air Command B47 jets that now are kept on constant alert at bases circling the Soviet Union.

The cutback in B47 operations at European and other bases will follow the dismantling of Thor missile sites in England and Jupiter missile sites in England and Jupiter missile sites in Italy and Turkey.

It will coincide with the rapid increase in Minuteman and Polaris missiles based respectively in the United States and in submarines in the North Atlantic. Submarines also are slated to go to the Mediterranean this spring.

★ ★ ★

B47 bombers now are stationed at bases in England, Spain, Morocco, Alaska and Guam—nuclear armed and ready to take off on six to 15 minutes notice.

The United States has agreed with Morocco to give up its three big bomber bases at Sidi Slimaine, Ben Guerir and Nouasseur in that North African country this year.

But there are signs that the U.S. hopes to remain at Port Lyautey, Morocco, where the navy has a port, airfield, ordnance facility and cargo terminal.

Beyond leaving the African bases, the Strategic Air Command is scheduled to cut down operations at European bases during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

In that same period, the U.S. Army is planning further cuts in its manpower in Europe.

A Pentagon spokesman said "something less than" 25,000 troops may be pulled out under plans now being studied, which would raise total withdrawals since the Berlin crisis subsided to about 40,000.

Call Off Active Hunt for Missing Tanker

MIAMI (UPI) —The Coast Guard last night called off the active search for a tanker which disappeared with its 39 crewmen 12 days ago on a voyage from Texas to Virginia.

The Coast Guard said, however, that all units had been directed to maintain a sharp lookout for the missing Marine Sulphur Queen during normal patrols.

★ ★ ★

A total of 63 planes covered 348,400 square miles in the search for the tanker which left Beaumont, Tex., with a cargo of molten sulphur for Norfolk, Va., and has not been seen since.

From 1817 until the Civil War no internal taxes were levied by the United States, as customs and sale of land provided sufficient revenue.

Plight Before Flight

She's Kind to Any Kind

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Courtesy sometimes becomes a habit. Take the example of a woman employe of a loan company victimized yesterday by a bandit.

She said she placed the money on the counter as the man ordered, then noticed the bandit was having trouble in figuring where he would carry the $500 loot.

Without giving it a second thought, the woman asked: "Can I put it in a bag for you, sir?"

"I don't know what in the world made me say that," she said later.

Gets Sack Hard Way

LONDON (UPI) —Lord Stonham, making a plea yesterday in the House of Lords against harsh prison sentences, said a man was recently sentenced to eight years in jail for stealing an empty sack worth 28 cents.

Nurses Offer to Aid Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The Ceylonese Nurses Association has written to Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike offering a day's pay to help make up for the loss of American aid.

The nurses say they will go through hardships, but that compensation should not be paid to oil companies for properties taken over.

U.S. aid has been suspended pending settlement of the issue of compensation for U.S. oil property taken over by the government.

Defense Aide to End N-Conference Tour

PARIS (UPI) — Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric winds up a nuclear fact-finding tour for President Kennedy today with talks with top Western defense officials.

★ ★ ★

The talks do not include France, which has thrown repeated roadblocks in the way of Kennedy's plans for a multilateral nuclear force within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

★ ★ ★

Gilpatric was due from Bonn where he held conferences with West German leaders. He will return to Washington tonight.

Yemen President Plans Collective Leadership

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — President Abdullah Sallal of Yemen said yesterday he plans a government system based on "collective leadership."

★ ★ ★

In a statement broadcast by the official Yemen radio Sallal said a presidency council would be formed of tribal chieftains, members of the 18-man revolutionary council, top-ranking army officers and leading businessmen

Opening lead—♥K

By OSWALD JACOBY

If West should open a club he could defeat South's four spade contract, but no one can blame West for leading and continuing hearts.

JACOBY

South ruffs the third heart and notes a sure club loser and a very probable diamond loser. Of course, finesses sometimes work, but West has made a takeout double and is likely to hold the king of diamonds as part of his bid.

South can avoid leading the diamonds himself by an elimination play. He will have to be lucky, but luck comes to those who give the cards a chance and South has nothing to lose. He leads a trump to dummy, ruffs the 1st heart, plays one more trump in order to eliminate the last trump and then plays the ace, king and another club.

West has seen what South is up to and West would like to unblock the club suit. Unfortunately he is also looking right at the nine of clubs in dummy. If West unblocks he will merely make that nine of clubs good and West is forced to win the club lead.

That leaves West right in the soup. A fourth club lead will give declarer a ruff and discard. A diamond lead will be right up to South's ace-queen.

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1♠	Double	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

What do you do?

A—Bid two hearts. Prefer the major suit to the minor even though the minor is slightly stronger.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner raises to three hearts. What do you do now?

Dramatize picture windows with a floor grouping of large green plants in the center or on one side. Don't string plants out in a row. Group them according to height, leaf shape and color, SAF advises.

State GOP Set for Showdown

Convention to Choose Elliott or Gibbs

By JIM DYGERT

Some 300 Oakland County Republicans are preparing today for their crucial role this weekend in the battle between two of their own for the GOP state chairmanship.

Campaign leaders for both Arthur G. Elliott Jr. and John A. (Jack) Gibbs plan to leave today for Grand Rapids to set up their camps for the state convention Friday and Saturday.

Most of the county's contingent of 161 delegates, 161 alternates and Republican onlookers are expected to leave tomorrow.

The county's delegation will form the largest voting bloc among the 1,553 delegates who will elect a new party chairman.

★ ★ ★

Furious campaigning by both sides has shoved into the background the main business of the convention—nomination of candidates for two State Supreme Court seats and eight policy-level state educational posts.

Party leaders reportedly still are looking for name candidates for the Supreme Court and the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

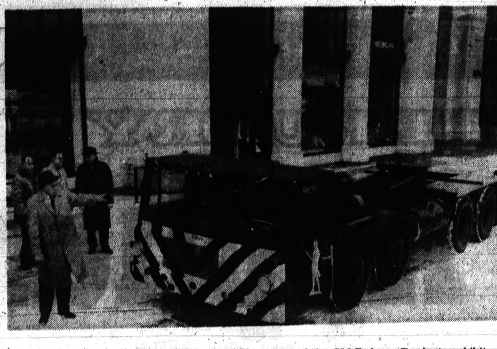
Three Wayne County Circuit judges have turned down the high court posts. Judges Edward S. Piggins, Neil Fitzgerald and Joseph A. Moynihan gave personal reasons for not running.

★ ★ ★

Republicans seeking the jobs are Circuit Judges Richard Smith of Bay City and Donald Holbrook of Clare, both of the 10th Congressional District.

Other offices for which nominees will be decided are two seats each on the University of Michigan Board of Regents, and the Michigan State University Board of Trustees, one post on the State Board of Education, and the state superintendent of public instruction.

Kent County GOP Chairman Walter J. Russell is expected to preside over the convention as chairman.



MISSILE MOVER DISPLAYED — A Minuteman missile transporter, built by GMC Truck & Coach Division of Pontiac, is shown being jockeyed into position prior to the opening of the GM Defense Products exhibit at the General Motors building. 'Physical Fatness' Ahead if You Eat Like President

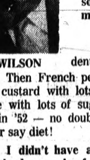
BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — President Kennedy's eating very high on the steer and the mashed potatoes these days — if I followed his physical fitness program, for me it would be physical fatness.

He's younger . . . and bigger . . . works harder . . . and burns it up . . .

You heard how he took his First Lady to the famous Voisin for brunch. I then took my Old Lady to the same place for dinner.



WILSON

"You're going to eat the same as he did," my wife said. "Do everything just like Kennedy did . . ."

The first part wasn't hard. A couple of Grant's Scotches. So far, fine! Then, onion soup . . . Minute steak medium rare . . . mashed potatoes . . .

"But I don't eat mashed potatoes!"

"If they're good enough for the President. . ."

Then French peas. ("Peas, it's wonderful"). Dessert: Caramel custard with lots of cream. ("Custard's last stand"). Demitasse with lots of sugar tossed in. Did I forget the champagne? Voisin '52 — no doubt with thoughts of White House '64. In fact, never say diet!

I didn't have all of JFK's problems. His Secret Service arrived a couple of hours ahead, put in a phone line so he could be reached in one minute from the White House. The Secret Service then went into the kitchen, watched the light switches, the cooks, the people coming in.

My Secret Service sat beside me looking at the gals I was making eyes at.

"Do everything just like the President," my Secret Service kept urging me.

I hope I don't overdo it — but when the check came I did the same as the President did — I signed it "John F. Kennedy."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Atty. Gen. Bobby Kennedy's got a date to meet Richard Zanuck (Darryl's son) and proceed immediately with plans to film "The Enemy Within," Bobby's book. They insist the book—blasting crooks, including those in unions — isn't dead . . . Jackie Mason ran across a book, "How To Be Happy Without Money," that was interesting. It cost $15 . . . Billy Reed, ex-hoofer now operating the enormously successful Little Club, makes his movie debut in "The Cardinal," playing a song-and-dance man. It happened that Producer - Director Otto Preminger liked Billy's roast beef, dropped in repeatedly for dinner, and while there, got the idea of casting him in the picture.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: George Burns told the Lambs Club that as a young vaudeville actor, he kept changing his name, and "in the act called 'Delight and Davis,' I was Sammy Davis. In fact, I was Jewish before he was."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "I won't tell you what pay I got when I started acting but if I'd been working in China, I'd have been picketed by the coolies. I was the only guy who could cash his pay check at a newsstand." — Jack Waldron.

EARL'S PEARLS: "Are we living longer — or does it just seem so?"

REMEMBERED QUOTES: "Jack Benny plays the violin in a way that makes you think the catgut would sound better back in the cat."

Harry Hershfield claims a B'wayite demanded of a waiter, "What's this in my soup?" The waiter answered, "I'll have to call the boss. I don't know one insect from another" . . . That's earl, brother.

Probe at Oakland U. Called Off by Group

ROCHESTER (AP) — The American Association of University Professors has called off its investigation of Oakland University's refusal to renew a professor's contract, saying the university had followed approved procedure.

The AAUP said Prof. Samuel Shapiro's activity as a writer and lecturer on Cuba and Latin America notwithstanding, academic freedom was not a factor in his failure to win tenure.

Shapiro has declined to contest the action since it was announced last November.

The American Civil Liberties Union yesterday urged John A. Hannah, president of the parent Michigan State University, to issue a public statement "to set the record straight."

A MSU spokesman said the ACLU letter would be called to Hannah's attention on his return from Nigeria March 11.

Dozen Shelters in City Stocked

Report Project Moving Rapidly Ahead

A dozen community fallout shelters have been stocked in Pontiac since Feb. 2.

Assistant City Manager David S. Teel said today that the city's stocking program is "moving rapidly ahead."

The shelters stocked to date have a total capacity of 870. Four more are slated for stocking in the next week.

"Co-operation of the merchants and building owners has been outstanding," Teel said.

The supplies are being transported from the General Services Administration warehouse in Livonia by the department of public works.

O. T. Hubbuck, of the DPW, is in charge of the operation.

Buildings with shelter areas stocked include the Federal Building, Waldron Hotel, Pontiac Business Institute, Standard Electric Co., GMTC Employes' Federal Credit Union and the Eagle Theater.

Others are the city's main library and fire station on East Pike Street, Riker Building, Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, Oakland County Medical Care Facility and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland.

Mrs. Romney Speaks for Constitution

Nearly 100 Oakland County business and professional men and women heard Michigan's first lady, Mrs. George Romney, speak for the proposed new state constitution Wednesday in Birmingham.

They also heard Detroiter Frank A. Balcer, Democratic constitutional convention delegate an outspoken advocate of the document he helped draft.

Mrs. Romney and Balcer spoke at a meeting launching a countywide campaign to raise $4,000 to promote passage of the new constitution.

The meetings were sponsored by the Oakland County Non-Partisan Committee for the New Constitution (CNC) made up of representatives of some 20 organizations supporting the new document.

Campaign materials for the group's efforts were exhibited by Richard H. McManus, chairman of CNC's ways and means committee.

Bock Beer Brings Spring

LANSING (AP)— As one sure sign spring can't be too far away, bock beer is on its way to the consumer, reports the State Liquor Control Commission.

The commission has a strict schedule for the distribution of the beer. Breweries were allowed to release it to wholesalers Feb. 11. Wholesalers will be allowed to deliver to retailers Feb. 18. Bock beer can be sold to the public starting Feb. 25.

A commission liquor expert said bock formerly was made of the stronger leavings in the bottom of the vats. Now it is commercially manufactureed as a heavier-bodied beer with added malt flavor.

Kennedy Seeks 2 Youth Corps

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy asked Congress today to set up a youth conservation corps with 15,000 members and create a national service corps similar to the Peace Corps operation abroad.

In a special youth message keyed to the theme of serving young people better so "they will serve their nation better" Kennedy also proposed an expansion in the overseas peace corps.

The proposed conservation corps would provide work and training for 15,000 youths in national forests and recreation areas. It would resemble the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of the 1930s.

The national service corps would be a domestic Peace Corps, composed of volunteers of all ages willing to serve in hospitals, mental health centers, schools, on Indian reservations, and in city slums or poor rural areas.

Kennedy said his proposals were designed to reduce unemployment among younger Americans, boost the economy and permit citizens of any age to help meet the need for homefront services.

The President emphasized need for action on juvenile delinquency, family welfare, education and health and physical fitness.

The total price tag for all the projects is obscure, even though Kennedy has recommended all of them before in general if not specific terms.

Kennedy buttressed the plea for action with figures and arguments he has used many times.

He spoke of the mounting birth rate, the over-crowding of schools, the growing proportion of unemployment among young people, the increase in juvenile arrests and delinquency.

"The future promise of any nation," he said, "can be directly measured by the present prospects of its youth.

"This nation-facing increasingly dependent on the opportunities, capabilities and vitality of those who are soon to bear its chief responsibilities."

Man Survives Sand Pit Burial

LAKE TOMAHAWK, Wis. (AP) —A durable woodcutter buried to his shoulders in treacherous shifting sand for nearly 15 hours after a well cave-in was pulled free early today in apparently good condition.

★ ★ ★

Raymond (Fuzzy) Fink, 31, was rescued from a 20-foot pit he had dug in this northern Wisconsin community by a volunteer force which battled sand slides and numbing cold throughout the night.

"I'm okay, honey; I'm okay, honey," Fink said as he embraced his wife Bernice, who had kept a constant vigil despite the subzero weather.

★ ★ ★

Fink, slightly haggard and covered with sand, rejected an offer of a stretcher, walked to a power station and, despite protests, was taken to a hospital in nearby Woodruff.

★ ★ ★

He complained only of a few minor aches and pains as he ordered — and was given — a drink of whisky.

Dr. Charles H. Flint said Fink appeared "perfectly all right," but would be kept at the hospital for additional examinations.

★ ★ ★

Fink, who is 5-foot-10 and has a slight but muscular build, was described by the doctor as "pretty darned tough." A check of his heart and lungs showed no damage in the long ordeal.

'Proposed Constitution Is No Partisan Issue'

Michigan's proposed new constitution is not a partisan issue and should not be treated as such, an Oakland County con-con delegate told an audience at Pontiac Northern High School last night.

Attorney Henry L. Woolfenden of Bloomfield Hills said, "The new document should be decided on its own merits and not what any party says about it."

Woolfenden, the delegate from the county's Third Legislative District at the 7½-month convention, was one of three delegates who spoke in favor of the ratified constitution.

★ ★ ★

The others were John E. McCauley, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, and Vera Andrus, a retired school teacher from Port Huron and a member of the education committee at the convention in Lansing.

All urged the support of the proposed constitution when it is voted on April 1.

Woolfenden said 75 per cent of all the recommendations presented to the convention as a whole were adopted by unanimous vote of the committee members who drafted them.

"And 65 per cent of all decisions at the convention were unanimous or substantially unanimous — less than five votes in favor or against," Woolfenden added.

★ ★ ★

"Republicans outnumbered Democrats nearly two to one, but at no time, like some people would like you to think, did they steam roll over the convention."

APPORTIONMENT

The closest to becoming a partisan issue was apportionment," Woolfenden said, "but actually

Disturbed Man Scares Capital

2-Hour Bomb Threat Stirs Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disturbed man who wanted to "take his trouble right to the top" gave historic Pennsylvania Avenue a bad case of heebie-jeebies with a two-hour bomb scare.

Nathan Wise, 33, of Phoenix, Ariz., wheeled his car out of the noon hour traffic yesterday and drove it up on the steps of the Justice Department building.

Swiftly crawling under it, Wise demanded to see FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover—the only man he said he could trust.

He had evidence, he said, to "impeach President Kennedy and his cabinet."

★ ★ ★

In Phoenix, Wise's wife and mother revealed he had been under psychiatric care for a year since taking it very hard when his father died.

His car also gave the impression of a great homemade bomb. Police who approached him got a strong whiff of gasoline and spotted a strange suitcase wired to the bottom of the car.

'WON'T COME OUT'

"I won't come out," Wise told them. "I'll die right here. I'll never leave here alive. Don't come near me or I'll blow the place up."

★ ★ ★

Police didn't take chances. They called an Army bomb squad and blocked off the neighborhood. Traffic was stopped. The first two floors of the big Justice Department building were evacuated.

For two hours they tried to coax him out, while he chatted amiably with them but refused to budge.

Finally police decided not to wait any longer and flushed him out by rolling tear gas grenades under the car.

Police grabbed Wise as he emerged red-eyed and hustled him off to D. C. General Hospital where he was held for mental observation. There was no bomb. The suitcase was stuffed with newspapers. The smell of gasoline came from three five-gallon cans in the back seat.

Gals Hike 32 Miles and 'Feel Great'

By the Associated Press

A miss is as good as a mile.

A good miss is good for 32 miles.

★ ★ ★

Five good and healthy misses—congressional secretaries—decided to uphold the physical fitness of the legislative branch of government by following some advice given by the Chief Executive.

They walked yesterday for nearly 12 hours until they had traversed 32 miles of the nation's capital.

"We feel great," said one of the quintet: Shia Green, 25, of New York City; Jackie McDonald, 23, of St. Louis; Carolyn White, 21, of Washington; Alice Schneider, 22, of Cincinnati, and Patricia Hughes, 18, of Washington.

★ ★ ★

Army Spec. 4 Craig Fallon of Long Branch, N.J., who accompanied the girls, commented: "It was a nice day for a walk." Fallon rode alongside the secretaries in a jeep.

The hike was one of several walkathons set off by President Kennedy after the commandant of the Marine Corps dug up a 1908 order of President Theodore Roosevelt saying that any U.S. Marine should be able to walk 50

Can't Maintain Communication With Syncom

Spacecraft Intended to Synchronize With the Orbit of Earth

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A syncom communications satellite rocketed into orbit today but loss of radio contact with the spacecraft prevented trackers from determining if it had become the world's first satellite to seemingly stand still in space.

A program official reported in midmorning several hours after launching, that radio signals were lost 13 seconds after a small payload motor fired with the intention of kicking Syncom into a synchronous orbit — one in which the vehicle appears to hover over one spot on Earth because its speed matches that of the Earth's rotation.

The satellite was launched at 12:35 a.m. (EST) by a three-stage Delta rocket which performed perfectly in drilling the craft into a giant egg-shaped orbit at about 22,860 miles an hour.

Syncom coasted upwards, gradually losing speed, until it reached a point about 22,300 miles high, and a timing device ignited the small rocket at 5:42 a.m.

★ ★ ★

'FIRED SUCCESSFULLY'

"The motor fired successfully," the official said, "but radio signals stopped 13 seconds later. We regained a brief signal about 7 a.m. but nothing more. We may be in a beautiful orbit and just encountering transmission difficulties."

★ ★ ★

But he said the kick rocket might have knocked the craft off course.

There was a possibility, he said, that temperature in the satellite was too hot, upsetting communications.

There was no explanation why the National Aeronautics and Space Administration did not announce the loss of signals immediately.

Crash Caused by Weather?

Link Jetliner's Plunge to Thunderstorm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blustery Florida weather got the tentative blame today for a Northwest Orient Airlines jetliner's plunge into the Everglades with loss of 43 lives.

A federal investigator who would not be quoted by name said the plane apparently "broke apart in a thunderstorm. It just wrenched apart."

★ ★ ★

Rain and gusty winds ruffled Florida Tuesday, the day of the crash, uprooting some dwellings and prompting tornado warnings in north and central portions of the state.

★ ★ ★

The Civil Aeronautics Board sent investigators to the marshy scene of the four-engined Boeing 720B's tragic plunge, nine miles from the nearest road, but said its findings would not be made public for several days.

BITS SCATTERED

The CAB and other investigative agencies apparently were not prepared to say the airplane blew apart in flight. But officers who explored the crash scene said bodies and other substantial debris of the crash were scattered within a radius of more than 200 yards of the shattered aircraft, and made dents of one foot or more in the spongy, yielding ground surface of the swampy region. This indicated some of the occupants and baggage of the plane reached the earth in a "free fall" outside the stricken airliner's fuselage.

★ ★ ★

Investigators attached prime significance to a charred but substantially undamaged black box, containing in effect the story of the plane's life after its Miami take-off into rain squalls Tuesday afternoon.

Students and Faculty Like OU's New Name

A sampling of opinion among students and faculty at Oakland University indicated a generally favorable reaction to a change in the school's name from Michigan State University Oakland.

But because of previous campus discussions and explanations by Chancellor D. B. Varner the change came as no surprise.

The name of the institution was changed last weekend by the Michigan State University board of trustees.

Following are some reactions by students and faculty.

★ ★ ★

Jerome Cisaruk, 21-year-old sophomore from Detroit, said he is "most happy the word university has been retained.

"It's for the best to establish our own identity separate from Michigan State University at East Lansing."

Wallace Liley, 21-year-old senior from Oxford, said "after being here four years it doesn't really make that much difference to me."

★ ★ ★

He thought the new name would prove beneficial in attracting high school students.

"They aren't likely to think of Oakland University as just a branch of MSU . . . We like to think of it as being better than MSU," he added.

'LESS CONFUSION'

Patricia Hanes, 20 year-old junior from Royal Oak said "I think the new name is better for us. When you told people you are from Michigan State University

Reds Seize Caribbean Freighter

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — U. S. Navy units today sighted a Venezuelan freighter hijacked by Communists in the Caribbean. Venezuela alerted warships to close in on the freighter.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — With the help of a warship, Venezuelan Communists carried their terrorist war against President Romulo Betancourt onto the high seas today.

They seized a government freighter steaming toward the United States.

A government announcement did not identify the nationality of the warship but it was believed here to be Cuban.

However, previous uprisings in the Navy against Betancourt raised the possibility it could be manned by Venezuelan rebels.

Venezuelan destroyers searched the Caribbean for the 3,127-ton freighter Anzoategui. The ship has a crew of 36. The government said it may ask friendly nations to join in the search.

Presumably these would include the United States, which has strong naval forces in the Caribbean.

The captain of the ship radioed that members of the pro-Castro armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN) took over his ship last night. He said the warship intercepted it en route to New Orleans from Venezuela.

In Caracas, FALN leaflets announced the seizure of the Anzoategui as "a protest before world opinion against the present government in Venezuela."

For more than a week, the FALN has conducted terrorist raids in Venezuela aimed at embarrassing Betancourt and hoping to force him to cancel a trip to the United States to see President Kennedy. He is due to leave Monday.

FALN gunmen have raided American-owned installations in Caracas and attacked Betancourt officials. Last weekend, the terrorists burned down the warehouse of the Sears Roebuck Co. here, causing nearly $5 million damage.

Serious Fighting Breaks Out in Streets of Iraq's Capital

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) — The first serious outbreak of fighting since Sunday erupted today on both sides of the Tigris River which runs through the heart of this Iraqi capital.

Newsmen could not check out details of the fighting because of a curfew which restricted their movements, but it was believed to be between the newly installed revolutionary forces and diehard Communists who oppose them.

Bursts of automatic weapons fire and the crack of rifles could be heart distinctly on both sides of the Tigris in what appeared to be a renewal of the bloody conflict that started last Friday.

The outbreak came shortly after Col. Abdel Salam Aref, the revolutionary government's provisional president, held his first news conference—a session that ended in a near riot.

Foreign Minister Taleb Hussein Chabib also met newsmen yesterday and had assured them that all resistance had ended.

He added that total casualties were believed to be "very small" since the revolt started last Friday and overthrew the regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

The premier later was given a drumhead courtmartial and shot, along with several aides.

However, several hours later, the sound of gunfire echoed through several parts of the city.

Baghdad appeared to be returning to normal until the new fighting developed.

Weatherman Has Cold Heart

By United Press International

The weatherman gave the Midwest a chilly valentine today.

From Grand Forks, N. D., where it was 4 below, to Texas Rio Grande Valley, where another freeze threatened tender vegetable and citrus crops, the mercury stood low.

The cold pierced far into Florida, dropping temperatures to an expected 28, but probably not enough to hurt the crops.

A cloud cover moved in yesterday and held temperatures above predicted levels in the Rio Grande Valley. Farmers burned smudge pots in an attempt to prevent any damage to the multimillion dollar garden crops.

The current cold snap was the fifth sub-freezing mass or Arctic air to strike the valley this year. Another hard frost could wreck next year's production, and hurt early sweet corn, field corn and watermelons.

Oakland it took a lot of explaining to set them straight that you weren't at East Lansing."

Ardith Morris, 20-year-old junior from St. Clair Shores, said "Oakland University is all right because it's shorter. Otherwise it doesn't matter to me; the curriculum is the important thing."

David Fullerton, 24-year-old sophomore from Pontiac agreed that the new name is "all right . . . It's the least offensive name they could come up with.

'NOT IMPORTANT'

"I believe most students don't think the name change means too much; they are mostly concerned with getting an education," he added.

Janet Guthrie, 18-year-old freshman from Utica, said, "I like the new name. It really was confusing before. People either thought the school was unimportant or just a branch of MSU."

Barbara Whitman, 18-year-old freshman from Utica, agreed, "I think the name has a definite effect on how people accept you . . . MSUO always made me think of Podunk U."

Robert G. Hoopes, dean of the faculty and professor of English, said "I think the name change was good indeed. Chancellor Varner's reasons for the change are sound.

"I wouldn't have cared for Oakland College. It would have required another change later on when it would be more difficult."

David Lowy, psychology teacher and director of psychological services, said "Oakland University gives us a unique identity and so a better chance to remain unique.

"The crucial aspect is what we accomplish here rather than depending on another's reputation."

A copy of the proposal was rushed 80 miles by police car to Lansing so it could be introduced in the legislature without delay.

Rep. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, who sponsored the state legislative proposal, said it was essential for getting federal aid in building a 100,000-seat stadium and other olympic facilities.

Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, prepared a resolution to set up a six-man legislative committee to support efforts to get the games for Detroit. He said the committee would consider a possible course of legislative action to aid in the effort.

The State Chamber of Commerce promised the support of business and industrial leaders.

Industrialist Fred Matthaei, for many years leader of efforts to get the games, voiced bitter disappointment over the decision to reopen bidding.

He said, "I'm sure the executive committee acted under threat of legal action by Los Angeles. It's unheard of in amateur sports to make a move like this."

miles in three days. Kennedy wondered if today's Marines could do it.

★ ★ ★

Well, you know the Marines. Thirty-four of them, led by Brig. Gen. Rathvon McClure Tompkins—who has a game leg as the result of an old shrapnel wound—crossed the 50-mile line at Camp LeJeune, N.C. Tompkins did it in 15 hours and 32 minutes.

One of his men, 2nd Lt. Marty Shimek, a long-distance runner from Hazen, Ark., finished the 50 miles in 9 hours and 53 minutes.

Shimek's time knocked down the record claimed by a U.S. Air Force prison guard in Britain, S.Sgt. Norman Roth of Modesto, Ill., who took five minutes more. Roth's claim in turn had knocked down the record of 10 hours and 27 minutes by an infantry sergeant in Germany.

Meanwhile, three legislative aides of Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., made a comparatively modest five-mile hike between the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial. It took 90 minutes for the trio — William P. Kendall, Thomas Vandervoort and Phyllis Parker—to make the trek.

Said Kendall to a newsman: "Our Republican hike illustrates the difference between the parties. We're all for physical fitness but are trying, in the face of the usual Democratic bluster, to keep it on a sensible level."

City Planner William R. Brownfield said no action is expected to be taken at the meeting. It will serve primarily as an informational session, he explained.

★ ★ ★

The plan has been described by Brownfield as "a concept that would revitalize the central business district."

It was designed as a guide for improvement of parking, street lighting, appearances of downtown buildings and the movement of traffic.

Completed in 1961, the plan was financed at a cost of more than $15,000 paid for by Birmingham merchants. The city administration worked with professional planners hired by the merchants.

★ ★ ★

Brownfield said today's 8 p.m. meeting, which will be held in the Municipal Building, will open with a general presentation of the CBDD project.

Afterwards, organizations will present brief individual statements of their needs in relation to the existing plan.

Among Birmingham organizations to be represented tonight will be the Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Board of Realtors, the local Council of Churches and the Citizens' Action Committee.

Others attending will be officials from the City Commission, city planning board, the Community House board of directors, the board of education, and the Baldwin Public Library Board.

Alice, Price, English teacher at Birmingham Seaholm High School, has been chosen for the "Distinguished Teacher Award" presented annually by the Birmingham Education Association.

Miss Price, who has been with the Birmingham School District since 1945, was selected "for her significant contribution to the upgrading of the entire teaching profession through her working in helping to develop the system's professional growth program."

A lecture - demonstration by Laurence Barker, instructor at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, will be held 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Birmingham Art Center, 1516 S. Cranbrook Road.

The lecture, open to the public, is sponsored by the Bloomfield Art Association.

Fired or Resigned? It's Not Clear

Inspector Jobless at Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE — It is not clear whether Ernest Campion quit or was fired, but the former Walled Lake building inspector definitely is out of a job today.

Campion said City Manager E. V. Mercer "refused to reinstate me" in a meeting between the two men yesterday afternoon.

Mercer said today that he "has accepted Mr. Campion's resignation."

"I didn't consider it a firing," stated the city manager.

★ ★ ★

The meeting yesterday afternoon was held before Walled Lake Justice of the Peace Gene Schnelz, who acted as Mercer's attorney at a public hearing before the City Council Tuesday night.

Campion had requested the hearing. At the public session, Campion asked to be reinstated as a city employe.

The council decided that Campion's reinstatement should be left up to the city manager and suggested the meeting between the two men.

Following yesterday's meeting, Campion said Mercer told him he had been advised by the council not to reinstate him.

"He refused to reinstate me, but said he would write a letter saying I was not fired," said Campion.

At Tuesday's hearing — when Mercer said Campion's "insubordination" brought about the problem—the city manager said he "would be willing to give Campion another chance."

Mercer said today that "the amount of new building out here is nil."

"That's the whole thing in a nutshell," said the city manager. "There just wasn't enough work to do."

It was a dispute betwen the two men over whether Campion should become building inspector for the police and fire departments that ignited the issue.

Mercer proposed that Campion become dispatcher in addition to his duties as building, electrical, plumbing and heating inspector and as head of the DPW and water departments.

★ ★ ★

"He (Campion) had a lot of titles," said Mercer today, "but in a community of this size we can't have a job for every title."

"There is absolutely no fault to be found with Campion's work or his ability," Mercer concluded.

The situation today is much the same as it was at the start of a Jan. 15 council meeting when it was not clear whether Campion had been fired or had quit.

★ ★ ★

Mercer, who first said Campion had quit, later in the meeting said the building inspector could consider himself fired.

Schedule Primaries in 2 County Villages

Primary elections will be held Monday in two Oakland County villages.

Voters in Holly and Lake Orion will go to the polls to nominate candidates to represent their respective parties in the April 1 general election.

In both communities only trustee candidates will be decided since other office seekers are either unchallenged or have no party opposition.

★ ★ ★

In Holly, Lott Everly will try to unseat one of the three incumbents seeking the two-year terms. The incumbents are Aaron Ganshaw, Clarence Lester and Fred Disbrow.

Unopposed candidates in Holly are all incumbents. They are John F. Oldani, president; George J. Patterson, clerk; Hulda H. Anderson, treasurer; and Grant Hulet, assessor.

All candidates belong to the Union party.

Five Citizen party candidates are seeking the three expiring trustee posts in Lake Orion.

They are Robert Hauxwell, Gilbert Woodcock, both incumbents, John Leonard, Russell Gilmore and Thomas Arthur.

Only three Village party candidates filed for the trustee posts so there will not be a need for a runoff. They are G. Eugene Thompson, Michael LaMagna and Stewart Drahner.

Other candidates and the offices they are seeking are:

President: incumbent Irvine J. Unger, (C) and Robert D. Stokes (V); clerk: incumbent Mrs. Mary Parkinson (C); treasurer: incumbent Geraldine J. Campbell (C) and Margaret A. Iles (V); and assessor incumbent Mrs. Geraldine Storey (C).

City Status Vote Up in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Although no primary will be held here this year, voters will go to the polls Monday to decide on the proposed city incorporation and to select nine charter commission members.

Voters will decide whether to retain the present village and its boundaries, or incorporate the village and an adjacent portion of Avon Township into a city.

Nine charter commission posts must also be filled in Monday's balloting. If incorporation is rejected, the election of the commissioners will be nullified.

Should incorporation pass, the nine commissioners would draft the city charter for voter approval. Then city incorporation would become a reality.

Under the proposed city plan, the present western and southern village limits would remain, while the northern boundary would be set at Tienken Road. Dequindre Road would enclose the new city on the east.

The nine candidates for the charter commission are Ally Ensign, Edwin Forbush, John Low Roy Rewold, Neil Rosso, Charles Seeli, John Terry, J. Francis Voll, and Frank Wolff.

10 to Run in Southfield for 4 Council Vacancies

SOUTHFIELD—Ten candidates, including the four incumbents, are in Monday's primary race for four vacancies on the Southfield City Council.

The balloting will trim the field to eight who will vie for office in the general election in April.

The incumbents are Clarence A. Durbin, O. David Edwards, John C. Hollywood and Thomas C. Rowley.

Other candidates are James J. Julian, 30561 Balewood St.; Mrs. Jean McDonnell, 19860 12-Mile Road; Elizabeth Molner, 25982 Rouge Court; Will J. Oliver, 23975 Beech Court; William L. Reeves, 21521 Indian Road; and Jim Wells, 19831 Saxton St.

A second council race will be decided in the April 1 general election as well as the contest for mayor.

In both instances, only two filed for the single openings and therefore are not on the primary ballot.

Appointee Alex Perinoff is running for the unexpired four-year term of former Councilman Robert Landers, the vacancy he is now filling. He will be challenged by Thomas P. Saks, 18916 Greenwald St.

Competing against Mayor S. James Clarkson for the top city post will be current Council President C. Hugh Dohany.

Dohany, who is midway in a four-year council term, is not required to relinquish his present post to run for mayor.

City Clerk Patrick G. Flannery and Treasurer Clara Lane are unopposed for re-election in the April 1 balloting.

Chores Keep City Smoke Eaters Busy as They Await Blazes

Housekeeping Vital Part of Routine at Station

By JIM LONG

A woman's work is never done, it's said — but, again, neither is a fireman's.

★ ★ ★

The days of sitting around just waiting for a fire to happen are gone forever.

Pontiac firemen are on the go almost constantly, cleaning, shining, inspecting and repairing equipment.

This concern goes beyond neatness, however. The tools of the trade demand respect because they can mean the difference between life and death.

★ ★ ★

Every piece of equipment in each of the city's five fire stations is kept in its place, always spic and span and in top-notch condition.

"A never-ending routine of inspection is most important to us," said Chief James R. White, a veteran of 36 years with the department.

"On our job we can't afford to have equipment break down," White said. "It could prove fatal."

★ ★ ★

CODDLE VEHICLES

A duty inspection is required of the department's 15 vehicles.

The check is made on the department's six pumper engines, a 100-foot aerial ladder truck, the two 50-foot extension ladder service trucks, rescue truck, and five passenger cars used by the chief, assistant chiefs, fire marshals and training officers.

All lights, switches and brakes as well as the levels of gasoline, radiator water, crankcase oil and chemicals are inspected.

Each week the larger vehicles have their motors and chassis cleaned and batteries recharged.

A checklist, hanging on the wall near each vehicle, shows at a glance what work has been done and whether additional attention is required.

★ ★ ★

The trucks are overhauled each year.

Major mechanical work on the vehicles is done at Station 2, Wilson and South Saginaw streets, where there is a fully equipped garage.

A master mechanic is always called to the scene of a big fire to watch for any possible failure in the truck's operation.

HOSE COSTLY

Hauled off the engines and cleaned immediately upon return to the station from a fire, is one of the most expensive items among firefighting equipment — hose.

It costs $1.75 to $2 a foot and the Pontiac Fire Department has better than four miles of 2½-inch hose (22,000 feet).

After the hose is washed it is hung in a heated tower to dry for six hours. Each fire station in the city has one of these drying rooms.

Each of the department's pumpers can carry 1,200 to 2,000 feet of hose.

"Some firemen will tell you there is more work at the fire station than there is at a fire," said White.

"Remember, when we return from a fire our main objective is to get the vehicle back in service so it can roll again," he added.

"This takes anywhere from 5 to 8 minutes."

White explained that his men have time for relaxation — watching television or playing cards — but much leisure time is devoted to studying for examinations.

After two years, a firefighter is eligible to take a test to qualify for the rank of lieutenant.

"The test is not an easy one since it covers everything from chemistry to city ordinances," White said.

The book lessons are only part of the fire fighters' schooling.

Once a week, a training officer visits each station to keep the men posted on the latest developments in the skills of their profession.

The rigors of a fireman's life take a very light toll here.

Resignations from the department are almost nil. Dropouts average less than one a year, according to the chief.

Denies Reds Advocate Force

Gus Hall Said Aim Is 'Peaceful Transition'

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Gus Hall says the American Communist party, which he heads, does not seek the violent overthrow of the U.S. government. He says the Communists seek peaceful transition, not change by force.

Hall, general secretary of the party in the United States, addressed 400 students at Yale University last night.

He was generally well received although there were a few boos, catcalls and uninvited bursts of laughter during his 90-minute talk.

★ ★ ★

Hall attacked the McCarran Act, the federal law which requires Communist party members to register as foreign agents —and the act under which Hall himself is under indictment.

The generally held concept that Communists are working for the violent overthrow of the government is "infantile" and "not Marxist," Hall said, adding that it is impossible to import revolutions.

Applause for the Communist leader was warm, if brief, both at the beginning and end of his talk, though boos were pronounced when he had finished.

'DOWN WITH TRAITORS'

As he spoke, a band of about 12 pickets marched outside with signs that read: "Down with Red traitors," "Man without God at Yale" and "liberty or license."

An editorial in today's edition of The Yale Daily News, the campus newspaper, said many students were left with doubts "that this was the genuine article."

The editorial said Hall seemed to be talking in favor of socialism —not communism — and noted that he made no mention in his talk of capitalists, imperialists, warmongers or the class struggle.

Place Kidney of Dead Man in Patient

LEEDS, England (AP) — Leeds General Infirmary reported today that surgeons there have successfully transplanted a kidney from a dead body into living patient. The hospital said it believed the operation was the first of its kind in medical history.

★ ★ ★

The kidney was transplanted to Peter Lucas of Sheffield 66 days ago, the hospital said.

"He is progressing well and will be discharged to convalesce shortly," the announcement said.

"The kidney was taken with the consent of the relatives from a patient who died."

Infant mortality rates have declined to a record low of 15.3 deaths per 1,000 births, the American Medical Association reports.

But January Has Been Lots Worse

January may have set some weather records, but to those who can remember back 29 years, last month's lows might be considered a warm spell.

The mercury dipped to a conversational 15 degrees below zero on one occasion last month.

But nearly three decades ago, on Feb. 9, 1934, the temperature plummeted to a minus 20 degrees in Pontiac and considerably lower in the outlying area.

In northern Michigan that day temperatures dropped to 50 degrees below zero.

The cold caused many hardships.

In Pontiac alone, the fire department responded to 12 major fires that day, setting a record for a 24-hour period.

★ ★ ★

That bitter day in 1934 equalled a weather record that had stood for 60 years.

The coldest day last month was Jan. 24 when the mercury went to 15 below at 4 a.m. It was never warmer than one below that day.

Road service calls from frustrated motorists set an all time record.

On eight other days last month the mercury rested below the zero mark.

If the extreme cold spell wiped out the memory of nicer weather, on Jan. 9, the temperature reached the high for the month, 42 degrees above zero.

Four days later it was zero.

It was the signal for nearly three weeks of deepfreeze weather.

4½-INCH FALL

During those three weeks four and a half inches of snow fell on Pontiac. Another inch dropped on the city earlier in the month.

On two back-to-back days, Jan. 21 and 22, there was a total of three and a half inches of snow.

One consolation during the cold months was that it was sunny 20 of the 31 days.

Last month's snowfall, however, was only a drop in the bucket compared to January 1962.

A year ago last month over 14 inches of snow fell on Pontiac.

The low temperature that month was eight degrees below zero. A week earlier, Jan. 3, the month's high was recorded, 41 degrees above zero.

Freezing rains a year ago was the woe of both the motorist and the pedestrian.

FCC Authorizes Sale of Satellite Stock

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Communications Commission has authorized the first sale of stock in the Communications Satellite Corp. which was organized to develop a space communications system.

Moore to Succeed Holland at Ceremony

Gavel to Usher In New Judge

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore will formally take the oath of a Circuit Court judge tomorrow afternoon at the County Courthouse.

The ceremony is scheduled for 3:30 in the third floor courtroom that Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland will leave Friday.

Judge Moore was appointed by Gov. George Romney to serve out the unexpired term of Judge Holland, who voluntarily retires Friday after 27 years on the county's Circuit Court bench.

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero will preside at the ceremony.

The county's other three circuit judges, courthouse officials and local dignitaries are expected to attend.

James S. Thoburn, president of the Oakland County Bar Association, will present a gavel to Judge Moore, who will begin using it Monday in the same courtroom.

Thoburn is a candidate to succeed Judge Moore on the probate bench, along with County Corporation Counsel Norman R. Barnard and County Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

AWAIT SUCCESSOR

Gov. George Romney is expected to appoint a successor to Judge Moore today or tomorrow. Judge Moore served 24 years in the county's combined probate and juvenile court.

Judge Moore will be feted at a noon luncheon in his honor before the swearing-in ceremony. The lunch is being planned by the personnel of the Probate and Juvenile court offices.

Former U. S. Congressman George A. Dondero, with whom Judge Moore opened his first law office in 1925, is expected to say a few words at the oath-taking ceremony.

The winter of 1779-80, when Washington's troops were camped at Morristown, N.J., was the worst one of the 18th century. It snowed 28 times.

Marines Offer Seniors 'Gift'

June high school graduates can get four months seniority in the U.S. Marines by enlisting now, according to Pontiac Marine recruiter Gunnery Sgt. R. L. Woodruff.

Under the "120-Day Delay Program" a senior can join the Marines this month, leave for "boot camp" in late June and be entitled to a higher rate of pay than if he waited until after graduation to enlist.

Woodruff's office is in the Federal Building, Huron and Perry streets.

'Women Have Made Valentine's Day a Con Game'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Valentine's Day is a woman's racket."

Shortly after my marriage 25 years ago I made this unfortunate remark to my wife, and I have been hearing about it intermittently ever since.

BOYLE

But I still stick to my guns.

I'm allergic to valentines, just as other people are allergic to poison ivy, cats or feather pillows.

I suspect a lot of American men are allergic to valentines, but are too cowardly to put their thoughts into words.

Traditionally, Valentine's Day is supposed to be a time when lovers exchange sweet endearments and small tokens of affection.

Actually, it has become for the gals a kind of popularity contest and a second Christmas. A fellow is expected to go into hock up to his elbows to buy his girl friend an expensive gift to show how much he truly loves her.

ONE-WAY STREET

But it is usually a one-way street. You fork out $30 or so to buy a gal a mink-lined compact, or a portable radio, and what do you get in return? A pat on the back, a 10-cent greeting card showing a heart pierced by an arrow, and an absent-minded kiss—which probably causes you to come down with influenza.

I have pleasant memories of National Pickled Beets Day. I have had memorable experiences during National Doughnut Week and National Make Better Sandwiches Month. But for the life of me, I can't ever recall getting anything out of Valentine's Day except an empty feeling.

My dislike stems from boyhood. My fate then was always to be the smallest boy in my class, and my doom was to fall in love with the tallest girl in the class, usually the captain of the feminine basketball team.

What I lacked in stature, I tried to make up for by an expansive pocketbook. I sold newspapers on street corners and always had ready cash, and I was probably the last of the big money spenders in our grammar school.

Each Valentine's Day I tried to overawe my current crush by buying her the largest box of candy I could find. What happened?

She'd put the box on my head, bend down, open it—and pass out pieces of candy to the other fellows, the taller boys.

But my allergy to Valentine's Day, springing originally from my lack of height, has deepened over the years with the realization that this anniversary is pretty much a con game for most members of the fair sex.

It has become for them just another symbolic occasion to exercise their power over the hapless male and remind him of his real role in this world—to serve womankind.

On last Valentine's Day my daughter, then 8, came home and announced triumphantly:

"Well, I got a valentine from every boy in my class."

"How many boys did you give valentines to?' 'I inquired.

"Why, none," she replied, as if the question surprised her.

★ ★ ★

Right then I made a mental reservation to start a private fund for my future son-in-law just so, in case he ever wants to run away from home, the poor lad won't have to go empty-handed.

I said it before, and I say it again. Valentine's Day is a woman's racket.

Civilized, Primitive Live Side by Side in Togo

Togo, the tiny African nation whose president was assassinated recently, is inhabited by both sophisticated and primitive tribesmen.

The dominant Ewe people along the coast are articulate and advanced. In the back country, most of the residents are fetishists. Their crude clay fetish models are common sights.

Prima Weds Singer in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Louis Prima's singing discovery is now his bride.

The bandleader and Gia Maione were married Tuesday at Gardnerville, Nev., 20 miles southeast of Lake Tahoe, they announced Wednesday. He is 31, she 21.

★ ★ ★

They had been appearing together at Harrah's Club in Lake Tahoe and now are at the Sahara Hotel here. Prima was divorced from singer Keely Smith Oct. 3, 1961, and Miss Smith has custody of their two children, Toni Elizabeth, 8, and Francis, 5.

Boy Scouts Honor U.N. Chief Thant; Present Jacket

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A group of boy scouts Wednesday gave U.N. Secretary General U Thant a flaming scarlet explorer's jacket and a scout utility knife. In return, the scouts got a good word from the secretary general.

Thant told the 12 scouts his son—who was killed last year in an accident in Burma—had been a scout. He said the Scout movement was strong in his country.

"If world leaders observed scout goals and ideals a great many problems confronting the world today would be solved," Thant said.

ITU to Strike Outside Plants?

Union Eyes Extension of Walkout in NY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The 69-day strike against New York newspapers may be extended to plants of the New York Times in Los Angeles and Paris, France, says the president of the printers union.

Elmer F. Brown, president of the International Typographical Union, AFL-CIO, said the possibility of extending the strike would be considered today when a conference with leaders of two striking locals resumes.

★ ★ ★

He made the statement after meeting briefly Wednesday with the New York leaders, Bertram A. Powers of ITU Local 6 and Thomas M. Laura of Mailers Union Local 6.

Brown said New York publishers had tried to get other newspapers to print their editions.

'TRIED TO ISOLATE'

"We have tried to isolate the strike to New York City, but in view of the fact that the New York publishers have gone outside to seek allies, we are having to do that also," Brown said.

In New York, Turner Catledge, managing editor of the Times, said, "I know of no such arrangements."

★ ★ ★

There was no comment from the Publishers Association of New York City.

In Cleveland, Ohio, members of the American Newspaper Guild striking the Cleveland Press & News voted 134 to 92 to accept a proposed two-year contract, provided it is made retroactive to Nov. 1 and provided no union member loses his job. Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the afternoon Press & News, said management would accept the conditions.

Guildsmen on strike against the morning Cleveland Plain Dealer are expected to vote on the management proposal Friday or Saturday.

Home Loan Report to JFK:

'Lift Curbs on Interest'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential committee headed by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon recommended today the scrapping of legally fixed maximum interest rates on government-backed home loans.

★ ★ ★

In a 64-page report to President Kennedy, the group urged that the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration be given "reasonably broad authority to set and adjust maximum rates" on FHA and VA mortgages.

At present, the maximum rate on FHA mortgages (including an insurance premium) is 5¾ per cent. The rate on the VA's GI mortgages is 5¼ per cent.

The recommendation, if approved by the administration and Congress, presumably would be the most far-reaching of all proposals made by the Dillon committee. The impact would be great inasmuch as FHA and VA programs account for nearly 90 per cent of all loans guaranteed or insured under various federal programs.

★ ★ ★

Any change in maximum interest charges would not be retroactive. Only future mortgage loans would be affected.

Kennedy appointed the four-man committee last March, ordering a thorough search for guidelines and priorities to be applied to almost all federal lending programs.

From the standpoint of general philosophy, these were the committees major recommendations:

★ ★ ★

1. The goal of federal credit programs should be to encourage and supplement — not displace — private lending.

2. All programs should be reviewed periodically because the committee believes "it is reasonable to expect that some programs should, over time, move from extending one type of credit assistance to another, more in tune with the evolution of private markets."

3. Occasionally, a program might be so successful in fostering "an efficient, competitive and self-reliant private market" in a given field that special federal support could "be withdrawn entirely."

4. Direct federal loans, rather than guarantees or insurance backing private lending, should be granted only as a last resort.

The committee's emphasis throughout the report was on placing greater reliance on private resources — the point emphasized by Kennedy in both his budget and economic messages to Congress.

Q) "I live alone and have no close relatives and need advice desperately. I feel I can trust you. I own 35 shares of Vanadium Corp., 50 shares of Bowmar, 80 shares of Central Soya, 800 shares Bowser Common and 500 shares Bowser Preferred. Have been advised to sell all but Central Soya and put proceeds into Public Service of Indiana, General Foods and Stowe-Woodward." L. R.

A) I am always glad to help someone in your lonely position and you can certainly trust me to the limit of my knowledge and experience. In general, the advice you have been given is sound. I would definitely sell my Bowser and Vanadium shares, but I would hold off on Bowmar Instrument, a relatively small but growing science stock that seems undervalued.

As for replacements, Public Service of Indiana is satisfactory but General Foods yields only 2 per cent and Stowe-Woodward, though well-managed, seems to me unsuitable for someone in your position. For the latter two, I would substitute Socony-Mobil and Union Pacific Railroad.

Q) "My husband, a teacher, will be retiring in ten years. I am also a teacher and will retire in 15 years. The money we save is put into savings and loan associations at 4-4¼ per cent. We have been thinking of putting some of our savings into stocks. What percentage do you think should be so invested and in what stocks?" J. S.

A) All my life, I have been very grateful to the teachers who helped me through my formative years. It is a genuine pleasure to try to assist you and your husband.

The market has staged a sharp and very rapid advance. Under present conditions I would invest no more than half my savings in common stocks. I would buy the very best stocks, such as General Motors, Standard Oil of N. J., and American Electric Power, and avoid speculative issues or even medium grade issues until I had learned more about equity investment.

U.S. Recalling B47s

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department plans to start withdrawing U.S. nuclear bombers from overseas bases during the next 16 months, it was learned today.

Barring some new emergency, plans call for reducing the number of Strategic Air Command B47 jets that now are kept on constant alert at bases circling the Soviet Union.

The cutback in B47 operations at European and other bases will follow the dismantling of Thor missile sites in England and Jupiter missile sites in England and Jupiter missile sites in Italy and Turkey.

It will coincide with the rapid increase in Minuteman and Polaris missiles based respectively in the United States and in submarines in the North Atlantic. Submarines also are slated to go to the Mediterranean this spring.

★ ★ ★

B47 bombers now are stationed at bases in England, Spain, Morocco, Alaska and Guam—nuclear armed and ready to take off on six to 15 minutes notice.

The United States has agreed with Morocco to give up its three big bomber bases at Sidi Slimaine, Ben Guerir and Nouasseur in that North African country this year.

But there are signs that the U.S. hopes to remain at Port Lyautey, Morocco, where the navy has a port, airfield, ordnance facility and cargo terminal.

Beyond leaving the African bases, the Strategic Air Command is scheduled to cut down operations at European bases during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

In that same period, the U.S. Army is planning further cuts in its manpower in Europe.

A Pentagon spokesman said "something less than" 25,000 troops may be pulled out under plans now being studied, which would raise total withdrawals since the Berlin crisis subsided to about 40,000.
