Soviets, Red China in New Island Battle

MOSCOW (AP)—Bloody fighting between Red Chinese and Soviet troops erupted on a tiny island along their frontier yesterday and today for the second time in two weeks. And for the second time, each side accused the other of starting the trouble. The Chinese declared the new fighting was "continuing and expanding."

Moscow and Peking charged each other with "armed provocation" and warned of the possible consequences. Moscow radio said there were an unspecified number of dead and wounded.

The scene of action was a disputed

City Man Held in Killing of Kin

An elderly Pontiac man is being held in the Oakland County Jail today for investigation of murder in the shooting of his 20-year-old grandson last night.

Pontiac police said they will seek a first-degree murder warrant against T. P. DeWalt, 68, of 300 South Blvd. in the slaying of Arthur Simmons, of the same address.

DeWalt told police that he was angry at Simmons because the youth was planning to quit his job. Simmons was alive when police arrived at the home shortly after the 10:15 p.m. shooting, but died before he got to the hospital.

FIND LOADED PISTOL

At Pontiac General Hospital, while authorities were going through Simmons' pockets for identification, they found a loaded .25-caliber automatic pistol in his hip pocket. The weapon was turned over to police.

A .38-caliber revolver believed to be the weapon used by DeWalt was recovered near his home.

DeWalt's wife, Lela, 61, said that she did not witness the shooting but heard three shots fired while she was in the kitchen. She told police that her husband had been drinking heavily and had been showing off his revolver to people in the house.

Plunkett Asks Staff, Pay Hikes

Oakland County needs twice as many prosecutors, and more pay for them, Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett said yesterday at a budget hearing.

Plunkett appeared before the board of supervisors personnel practices committee hearing on budgets yesterday with requests which, if granted, could double the current prosecutor's budget to $1 million.

He said the requests were "based on what I think is a necessary new approach to law enforcement at a time when crime is perhaps the most serious domestic problem in our society."

Plunkett quoted comparative figures for staff and salary in Genesee and Macomb Counties. He pointed out that, with its present population, Oakland County lags both in money offered and numbers hired.

FEW STAY ON

The prosecutor noted that of his current staff of 20 assistant attorneys, only three have stayed with the department longer than two years.

He said that were he able to offer attorneys salaries of $20,000 a year, he could get and keep good trial lawyers.

The increases asked for attorneys varied from $3,000 to $5,000 in various salary categories. He also asked that a new category for experienced lawyers be initiated at a $17,000-to-$19,000 level.

Plunkett also wants two more investigators, one now. He said the present lone investigative position is handled by Gerald S. Souver and that S. Souver has spent most of his time on drug abuse education. The prosecutor requested an increase in pay from $10,500 to $13,500 for the investigator.

'SECOND RATE'

Chance of Flurries Tonight, Tomorrow

A pleasant weekend is in store, with a few snow flurries to remind area residents winter is still here until Thursday.

TODAY — Partly cloudy this afternoon, high 35 to 40. Partly cloudy, chance of few snow flurries tonight, Low 20 to 25.

Winds westerly at seven to 15 miles per hour increasing to 10 to 20 late today and tonight.

TOMORROW — Partly cloudy with chance of snow flurries. High 34 to 39.

MONDAY — Fair to partly cloudy, little temperature change.

Probabilities of precipitation are near zero today, 10 per cent tonight and tomorrow.

A frosty 21 was the low temperature before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The mercury had climbed to 40 by 2 p.m.

Mrs. King Agreed With Ray Decision

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The decision of James Earl Ray to plead guilty to killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in return for a 99-year prison term was the result of lengthy and closely guarded negotiations.

Not only did the prosecution and defense approve of the plan, a reconstruction of the events shows, but King's widow, Coretta, U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington concurred.

Notes on telephone calls made by the prosecution and information from a New York attorney's office confirm that Mrs. King was informed of the potential agreement and apparently approved it.

But Mrs. King also made it clear that she did not want it thought that she believed Ray acted alone.

yesterday protesting the Bay County Road Commission's attempt to cut down trees which the residents say protect them from speeding automobiles which stray off the two-lane road.

About 50 members of the Committee to Save Our Trees, up in arms over tree-cutting operations planned along a two-mile stretch of the road, held off county crews yesterday by threatening to drench them with water hoses. State police were called for the second time this week.

President Confident of Victory on ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is confident that after a torrent of debate he will win approval from the Democratic Congress of a Sentinel missile system protecting the nation's deterrent punch rather than its cities.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who has been critical of the program, said comments of opponents in that chamber showed why.

'SERIOUS MISTAKE'

"Make no mistake — Congress can stop this," said Wisconsin Democrat William Proxmire.

"The industrial-military establishment won at the White House," said Democrat Albert Gore of Tennessee.

"The President's decision is his first serious mistake," said Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Nixon climaxed an intensive review of the Sentinel program, suspended amid rising criticism several weeks ago, by announcing his plans to go ahead with a "modified" version at a nationally broadcast news conference yesterday.

COULD BE DAMAGING

First skirmishes in the battle, which could open serious and lasting wounds even if the President eventually wins, likely will come Wednesday when Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird testifies on defense appropriations and Friday when he appears before the Senate disarmament subcommittee.

Critics of the system have said it would be provocative, expensive and inefficient and would hold a threat of accidental detonation of its own nuclear warheads.

Several sites in the Pontiac area had been under consideration for an anti-ballistic missile base. It is not clear how the President's decision will affect this.

Nixon's program involves initially 12 sites, placed to guard this country's missile and bomber punch with the population directly protected only at Washington.

Administration spokesmen said only that original sites would be reconsidered. It was not known when work on the two new sites would start but Nixon said completion of the two will come by 1973.

PROPOSED SENTINEL SITES — This map locates 10 areas—in addition to presently planned locations at Malmstrom Air Force Base in Montana and Grand Forks Air Force Base in North Dakota—where the Defense Department will look for sites to install its "modified" Sentinel anti-ballistic missile bases.

Nixon Sketches One-Warning Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has sketched a one-warning-only Vietnam policy that one Democratic leader says puts him in the position of "walking a tightrope" and could lead to the dilemma that plagued Lyndon Johnson.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield made the comment after Nixon's fourth television news conference yesterday, at which the President said the current enemy offensive ruled out American troop withdrawals in the foreseeable future.

The President said he had warned the North Vietnamese and Vietcong on March 4 and would not repeat it.

He said he had discussed retaliation with Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and planned to go over it again today at a meeting of the National Security Council.

'MY POLICY'

"It will be my policy as President to issue a warning only once and I will not repeat it now," Nixon said.

"If we conclude that the level of casualties is higher than we should tolerate, action will take place," he added, tying American casualties to possible retaliation as he did March 4.

Mansfield said Nixon's new statements could be moving him toward the dilemma that posed tremendous problems for former President Johnson, who was caught between the hawks and doves in Congress.

The majority leader said Nixon's problem was to maintain a military effort strong enough to protect U.S. forces but not so great it would jeopardize the Paris talks.

'GREATER RESPONSIBILITY'

Vietnam comments came a day after Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he thinks the United States shares "the greater responsibility" for not de-escalating the ground war after Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam last fall.

Meanwhile, in the fighting, enemy mortars and rockets hit more than 70 allied bases and towns last week and early today and U.S. and South Vietnamese troops drove off two sharp ground-attacks northwest of Saigon.

Residents Tell Wood-Be Cutters: Leave Trees

BAY CITY (AP) — Resident of Old Kawkawlin Road in Bangor and Kawkawlin townships just north of Bay City staged a "tree-in"

yesterday protesting the Bay County Road Commission's attempt to cut down trees which the residents say protect them from speeding automobiles which stray off the two-lane road.

About 50 members of the Committee to Save Our Trees, up in arms over tree-cutting operations planned along a two-mile stretch of the road, held off county crews yesterday by threatening to drench them with water hoses. State police were called for the second time this week.

James Schumann of Old Kawkawlin Road started to climb a tree when county tree cutters attempted to cut down three huge oaks on his property. Schumann came down after the road commission agreed to take only a dead oak from the property until a March 19 meeting between residents and the county.

Wednesday, Schumann used an unloaded shotgun to order officials off his property.

He said, "We don't care if they take the dead one, because it was killed when a car hit it last year. Those two live trees are the only protection we've got, and we're not going to let them take them."

Schumann's house has been hit twice in recent years by cars. Other cars killed two trees on his property, he said.

Schumann's neighbors are backing him up. William Rank, Bay County Road Commission manager, says the approximately 100 trees, mostly oak and maple, are within the county's 66-foot right-of-way and present a traffic hazard. In addition, he says, without unobstructed right-of-way the county will not qualify for state or federal aid should it decide to improve the road.

BLAME 'LAX ENFORCEMENT'

Neighborhood spokesman blame lax county and state law enforcement along the road, posted for a maximum 40 m.p.h., for an "amazing" number of traffic accidents.

Thursday the Save Our Trees committee began a petition aimed at persuading the county to give up its plan. The group is also considering a lawsuit against Bay County.

One committee member said, "I don't know how we'd make out in a court, but it is just a shame to let healthy trees over 100 years old be indiscriminately cut down."

Apollo 9 Crew Begins Debriefing Today

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Chipper, smiling and delighted to be home, the Apollo 9 astronauts begin today the long, tedious hours of debriefing the flight that took America to the threshold of a moon voyage.

"I tell you, there's no place at all like home," Apollo 9 commander James A. McDivitt told a cheering airstrip audience upon return to Houston. Spacecrafts David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart agreed.

Their 10-day space odyssey behind them, the three crew members flew to a Texas reunion with their families yesterday, but 15 hours later they were due back on the job.

They face 10 days of quizzing by space experts trained to wring from them every detail of their risky flight, a "missing link" mission that proved the flight-worthiness of the lunar module (LEM).

NEWS CONFERENCE PLANNED

The spidery moon ship, last piece of untested Apollo hardware, is designed to ferry two astronauts to the moon's surface sometime this summer.

Once the intensive debriefing is ended, the astronauts will hold a news conference. Two days later, accompanied by their wives, they fly to Washington to attend a White House dinner.

After Thursday's Atlantic splash down, the Apollo crew spent 23 hours aboard the recovery ship Guadalcanal, then started the long air shuttle back home. They flew into nearby Ellington Air Base at 6:03 p.m. (EST) yesterday and received a rousing welcome from their families, friends, fans and fellow astronauts.

RUSH TO FATHERS

As the trio stepped from the NASA Gulfstream turbo-prop, their children broke from their mothers' sides and rushed screaming to the outstretched arms of their smiling fathers.

A band played, a chorus sang and 200 well-wishers cheered.

"We've been gone a long time," Air

Force Col. McDivitt said. "It's been, I think, the ninth of February since I left here and said goodbye to my family. It's really great to get back and see them."

As Schweickart, a civilian, moved to the microphone, the crowd roared. "Hello there, Red Rover," using the radio code name he adopted during his space walk last week.

Flashing his boyish grin, Schweickart said: "We had a beautiful mission and I want you all to know that there's just no place as welcome to our eyes, or as beautiful, as right here at home."

Birmingham Area

Program Set at St. Hugo on Parochial

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — "Will Two School Systems Survive" is the subject of a program scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at St. Hugo School.

Facts concerning parochial and the recent bill introduced in the State House of Representatives, which would provide for the purchase of teacher service from nonpublic schools, will be presented.

Following a film presentation, the Rev. J. Harold Ellen of the Christian Reformed Church will lead a question-and-answer period.

BIRMINGHAM — Several Birmingham schoolchildren will appear as educators will appear on the television program, "A Special Child" on Channel 56 at 8 p.m. Monday.

The program moderated by Mrs. George Murray, 1416 Wrenwood, Troy, will focus on educating the gifted child.

Participants include Joan Molley, director of pupil services, Bloomfield Hills public schools; George Roeper, headmaster, Rosier City and Country School in Bloomfield Hills; Dr. John Blackhall Smith, superintendent of Birmingham public schools; and Dr. Irving Siegel, director of research for the Merrill-Palmer Institute, Detroit.

Students appearing are Lucy Saunders of Baldwin Elementary School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Saunders, 685 Pierce; and Theodore Lasker, a student at Greenfield Elementary School, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Lasker of Beverly Hills.

The television program was funded by a special grant from the Merrill-Palmer Institute.

The Covington Junior High School has received a second-place award for newspapers in the 45th annual scholastic newspaper-magazine contest conducted by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association at Columbia University in New York.

Youth Is 'Critical' After Auto Crash

Johnny M. May, 19, 4592 Clinton, Waterford Township, remains in critical condition today at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where he was taken following an auto accident yesterday morning.

May reportedly suffered head and facial injuries and possible internal injuries at 6:20 a.m. yesterday.

Waterford Township police said it appeared that he had been traveling north on Sashabaw near Major when his car crossed the center line and struck a tree and fence on the southwest edge of the road.

7 Die in Auto Collision

FORT SULPHUR, La. (AP) — Six youths and a sheriff's deputy were killed today when their car and his collided.

State Trooper Arthur Terbonne said the car containing the teenage boy apparently crossed into the lane of the highway in which the deputy was traveling four miles south of here.

1,862 Violent County Deaths

Violent death struck 1,862 times in Oakland County last year, according to figures recently released by the County Health Department.

There were 314 fatalities resulting from car accidents, falls, drowning, fire and gas; 106 suicides; 35 homicides; and 1,408 other deaths of natural causes but without medical attendance. The latter number included 1,063 heart and circulatory failures.

The county found it necessary to perform 515 autopsies during the year.

Officials at 2 Sites Hail ABM Decision

By the Associated Press

Officials of communities near the first two Sentinel missile sites say they welcome them, expecting they will bring economic benefits.

President Nixon, announcing plans to go ahead with a modified antiballistic missile system, said yesterday in Washington that the initial sites will be near Malmstrom Air Force Base in Montana and Grand Forks Air Force Base in North Dakota.

Residents in communities near the two sites are already accustomed to the proximity of missiles—Minuteman missile wings are located at both bases.

and that so far it has been able to keep up with the case load. Yet he called the department "second rate."

That evaluation, he said, was based on the work that the prosecutor's staff never becomes involved in.

"Think what we could do if we had the manpower to follow through on requests for investigation," Plunkett said. He noted a need for an organized crime and fraud unit which the department does not now have.

He also pointed out that the establishing of district courts as of last Jan. 1 has increased demands on the prosecutor's staff.

Plunkett said that he was to receive the additional 20 attorneys requested, half of them could be housed in present courthouse facilities and the rest of them should be stationed around the county to provide better service for outlying residents.

The committee, by tradition, took no action on Plunkett's request but will consider it along with other budget matters later this year.

But in Massachusetts, where a once-proposed site was apparently abandoned, opponents expressed pleasure at the move and said they would continue to fight against placement of a system at Reading.

'SENSE OF RELIEF'

"I have a great sense of relief that the administration has seen fit to take these horrendous weapons out of the cities," said Harold Holappa of Lynnfield, Mass., chairman of his town's anti-ABM committee.

In Walhalla, N.D., about 100 miles northwest of Grand Forks, lawyer Robert McCann said, "With all the warheads in the ground around here now and the H-bombs on the bombers, what difference will some more make?"

Leon Dubourt, president of the only bank in the town of 1,432, said, "by the time you put this number of people with permanent jobs into the town it's bound to be a boost to our economy."

Charles W. Bullard, chairman of the Economics Department at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, said the new construction "will mean a lot to the state economically speaking."

Dissenting views were reported in the university's student newspaper which said they hoped students were starting what they termed would be a statewide protest against the proposed deployment.

Navy Says Bucher Will Get Shore Duty

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, the skipper of the USS Pueblo, is going to be reassigned to shore duty soon, but the Navy won't give any specific details.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Navy Personnel made the disclosure of Bucher's immediate future yesterday, one day after the conclusion of a court of inquiry into the capture of the intelligence vessel by North Korea.

There also were indications that the other 81 Pueblo survivors were going to have new orders soon, although the Navy wouldn't say.

TUG-OF-WAR—Firemen and students engage in a tug-of-war with a fire hose late yesterday at the Newark, N.J., campus of Rutgers University as the Black Organization of Students renewed protests of conditions at the institution. The firemen were called to extinguish fires set on campus. The

Grievances Being Settled

Peace Near at 3 Colleges

By United Press International

Settlement of student grievances appeared near at three schools which have seen much of the recent campus violence—Berkeley, San Francisco State and North Carolina A&T.

Yesterday the militant Third World Liberation Front and Berkeley teaching assistants suspended a violent seven-week strike which at one time prompted the deployment of more than 1,000 National Guardsmen near the school.

They said the strike was suspended because of progress made toward realization of their major goal, creation of a college of ethnic studies.

The militants emphasized they would now wait to see how fast the project goes forward. "Under no circumstances should it be assumed that our strike has ended," a spokesman said.

Berkeley Chancellor Roger W. Heyns said police would remain on the campus for as long as "techniques of violence and vandalism continue."

North Carolina A&T University at Greensboro, N.C., yesterday settled its three-day-old cafeteria workers' strike—the cause of a student rally late Thursday which culminated in gunfire between police and alleged snipers.

Details of the settlement were not released, but a university spokesman late yesterday said full cafeteria service "is expected to be restored by Saturday morning."

At San Francisco State, scene of sometimes violent disputes between students and administration since November, acting President S. I. Hayakawa met privately with student leaders for more than an hour, indicating some agreement was near.

Other campus indications were not so bright, as generally nonviolent protests forced cancellation of classes at two Chicago colleges and Rutgers University's Newark, N.J., campus.

At Chicago State college, about 125 protesters occupied the cafeteria to back demands the school build a black studies center on the campus.

At the southeast campus of Chicago City College, protesters forced cancellation of classes for the fourth time since last Friday. They demanded establishment of a degree-granting black studies program and open hearings on charges of racism in the school's nursing department.

Rutgers University President Mason W. Gross ordered suspension of classes on the Newark campus because of what he called "serious threats of violence from Negro students."

Supervisors Eye Activating Israeli Is Wary of 'Big 4' Talks

People of Oakland County may get the direct ear of county officials on human relations matters, providing a now-defunct committee can be reactivated.

The human resources committee of the board of supervisors yesterday voted to ask Corporation Counsel Robert Allen for a status report on the old human relations committee.

Composed of two men from each of the political parties and two supervisors, the committee once had evening meetings to hear grievances from individuals and groups regarding county practices in the human relations field.

Members of the human resources committee briefly reviewed the Civil Rights Commission report on Pontiac and Oakland County and moved to invite Ora Hinkley, director of Oakland County Social Services, to make a detailed report at its next meeting, March 28.

MEETING ON SCHOOL

The report's section on hiring practices will be referred to the personnel practices committee of the board for study.

Early next month the group will meet with Dr. William Emerson, superintendent of the Oakland County Intermediate Schools, concerning the building of a school for court wards housed at Children's Village.

"We've been waiting for this school for three years," noted Committee Chairman Robert Patnales. He indicated that Emerson had promised to provide the facility.

Patnales noted there might be some difficulty in financing construction. He said Corporation Counsel Allen recently reported construction bonds are impossible to sell until legal determination is made regarding county tax levies. A recent attorney general's report cast doubt on the county's past procedures of paying for such bonds.

The committee's responsibility in extending county services, such as branch offices of the clerk and treasurer's department, to the south end of the county was discussed.

William Richards, D-Royal Oak, said the long trip to the County Courthouse imposed inconvenience on outlying residents. He said satellite services could be started in a very small way.

Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, suggested toll-free telephone service to the county for outlying residents. No action was taken.

School Blast Hurts 17

By The Associated Press

A hand grenade exploded in the quadrangle of a Gaza boys' school today, wounded 17 students, sources said.

The injured pupil of El Hashimiya School were taken to Aishla Hospital.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Restating his doubts about the value of "big four" talks on the Middle East crisis, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban moved to the United Nations today after winding up three days of talks with President Nixon and other U.S. officials.

Eban, who is in the U.S. on a speaking tour, was scheduled to meet today with U.N. Secretary General U Thant in New York.

The Israeli foreign minister, during a speech yesterday at the National Press Club in Washington, said Israel would make "full use of the mission of U.N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring" which has now resumed its activity.

But he added that the mission "would lose its purpose if it were to be obscured by a pluralism of initiatives outside the region, at United Nations headquarters or anywhere else."

Eban said the problem of four-power guarantees of a peace settlement "is full of complexities, some of them dangerous."

One-Warning Viet Policy Told

U.S. spokesmen said the stepped-up shellings were the heaviest since the Vietcong's spring offensive began three weeks ago.

U.S. infantrymen of the 25th Division and South Vietnamese paratroopers backed by artillery and bombers fought off enemy forces that tried to overrun bases 37 and 45 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen said they killed 40 enemy, took four prisoners and captured 28 weapons, including a flamethrower.

ONE YANK WOUNDED

U.S. losses were one man wounded, and first reports said South Vietnamese suffered one killed and several wounded.

U.S. headquarters also reported an Air Force F100 fighter-bomber was shot down by enemy gunners yesterday in the central highlands, 19 miles southeast of Dak To. It was the 34th warplane shot down and destroyed in combat.

U.S. headquarters also reported the loss of a Marine helicopter just south of the demilitarized zone, where two days of fighting cost Leathernecks 10 killed and 40 wounded. It said the CH-46 chopper was evacuating American wounded when it was hit by a rocket-propelled grenade. It flipped over and burned, but only three Americans were wounded.

The loss raised to 2,431 the total number of U.S. helicopters lost in the war.

B25s IN ACTION

Saigon today, dropped 1,500 tons of explosives on enemy troop concentrations and base camps. The closest strike to Saigon was 22 miles northwest of the capital.

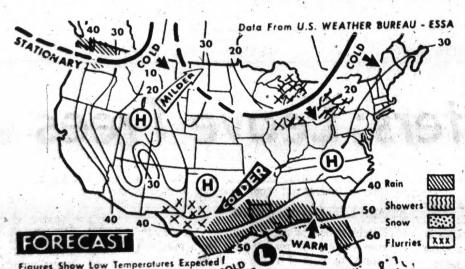

Vietcong and North Vietnamese gunners hit installations in the north around Hue, in the border areas northwest of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta south of the capital. U.S. headquarters said over-all military casualties and damage were light, without listing figures.

Comic, a Onetime Painter, Paints Sad Picture of Self

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"I don't get no respect," is the catchphrase that comedian Rodney Dangerfield happened onto, but he's right... he don't get no respect.

We met in Gallagher's and immediately the barmen started slamming in the ice for the night so we couldn't hear. The former Jack Roy, who gave up being a paint salesman to go into comedizing at 43, incurring a $20,000 deficit at the same time, shrugged it off.

"That's me, I don't get no respect," Rodney said. "I took my daughter to Central Park and helped her on and off the merry-go-round. One of my old friends sees me and says, 'Are you all right? Is this a side job for you?' One night I'm leaving the Living Room feeling very proud of being the star there. A guy in a bagel truck says, 'Get in, Rodney, I'll give you a lift to the subway.'"

One reason, he supposes, that he don't get no respect, is that he's a Jewish comedian.

"The Jewish comedian is always the last one to get the girl. First the Italian singer gets her, then the Negro drummer, then the Puerto Rican bongo player, then the Polish garbage man, then when she's broke and depressed and old, she comes to the Jewish comedian."

"Little things get me—pressures," Rodney explained.

"I go into a gas station to go to the men's room. The door is locked in the men's room. They tell me to go into the front and get the key. The cash register is open, the safe is open, but the men's room is locked. Pressures, pressures. When I walk into a diner, it's always time to mop the place. Why do they always mop it when I come in?"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Producer David Black will talk to Liza Minnelli about the Broadway musical, "Alice" (a psychedelic "Alice in Wonderland"). . . The rest of the "Crooked Man" film company will live in the desert location, but Henry Fonda'll commute daily by 'copter from his plush Palm Springs pad.

Rock singer Donovan, like John Lennon, will have his nude photo on his album—but Donovan's was taken when he was two. . . Footballer Timmy Brown, trying for an acting career, had tailor Ace Tesone whip up a whole Edwardian wardrobe.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Betting is like liquor. You can make it illegal, but you can't make it unpopular. —Arthur Baer.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Everything is relative. A minute is a short moment, unless you're holding your breath."

EARL'S PEARLS: A man grumbled about his wife's cooking: "When she wants to punish the kids she sends them to bed with dinner."

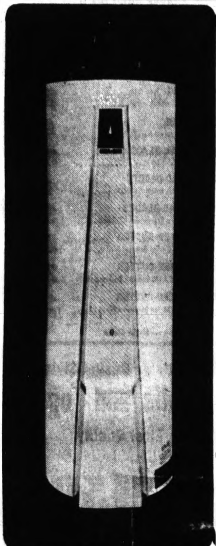

MGM boss Bo Polk—who resembles Charlton Heston—heard of the fan who told Jeff Chandler he liked him in "Ben-Hur." Chandler explained he wasn't in "Ben-Hur." "Well," said the fan angrily, "if you ain't Burt Lancaster, then who the hell are you?" . . . That's earl, brother.

Disarmament Conference Reopens Tuesday

GENEVA (AP) — The 17-nation disarmament conference reopens here Tuesday after a seven-month recess. It will be the first prolonged confrontation between top officials of President Nixon's administration and the Kremlin.

The biggest priority is the proposed bilateral talks between the United States and the Soviet Union on limiting antimissile systems.

The Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia last August delayed the start of these negotiations, but an informed Western source said the international climate has sufficiently improved for such talks to get under way "within a few months."

President Nixon's decision to "substantially moderate" America's antiballistic missile shield and new Communist Chinese sabre rattling along the Manchurian border could help get things moving. Both Washington and Moscow believe the Chinese will be capable of launching long-range nuclear missiles within the next two years.

The conference is almost certain to center on the American and Soviet capitals, and observers view it as a thermometer for measuring future East-West relations.

The United States will have a new delegation head for the first time in more than five years. William Foster, veteran chief of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, has retired. Nixon has named as his successor Gerard C. Smith, 54, a lawyer, publisher and disarmament expert who first proposed the Washington-Moscow "hot line."

Three major issues are expected to dominate the Geneva conference:

1. An underground nuclear test ban.
2. A treaty to ban the manufacture and use of biological and chemical weapons.
3. A treaty to ban fixed nuclear or other armament installations on the seabed.

Chances of a comprehensive test ban treaty seem remote. The Soviet Union claims modern detection methods are so sophisticated visiting inspectors are unnecessary and would be potential spies. The United States says on-site inspection is vital because there is no equipment sensitive enough to distinguish between a minor earthquake and an underground nuclear test.

Swedish compromise proposals for an interrelated international inspection system could help break the ice.

Britain is pushing for an international treaty that would outlaw biological and chemical weapons. But the initial Soviet reaction has been cool.

A diplomatic source said the seabed treaty is certainly the best bet for progress during the forthcoming session, which is expected to continue, with a short summer recess, until the next U.N. General Assembly in the fall.

The sources said the Nixon administration is keenly interested in procuring such a treaty. The sea bed has largely been ignored as a means for promoting atomic warfare, but potentially it could provide the safest and most undetectable site for nuclear missiles.

The source said Moscow appears to be equally interested. But following last year's agreement on the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons, observers in Geneva generally agree that no immediate breakthrough can be expected. obligation by the nuclear powers to press on immediately toward new disarmament agreements.

Observers note the conference is under more pressure than usual to come up with something positive before the General Assembly. This is because one of the most important provisions of the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons is an Nonaligned countries who ratified or signed the treaty are expected an act of good faith from the nuclear powers in return.

The United States and Britain have ratified the treaty and the Soviet Union is expected to follow suit. But the Russians may insist on West Germany signing before they do. West Germany has indicated it will not do so as long as the Soviet Union reserves the right to interfere in its internal affairs.

Hail Apollo Moon Test

Americans everywhere thrilled to the news Thursday that Apollo 9 had completed its 10-day space mission and achieved a pinpoint splashdown in the Atlantic, 340 miles north of Puerto Rico.

The latest and final of the National Aeronautics Space Authority's exploratory thrusts toward a manned moon landing scheduled for midsummer went off like clockwork as Apollo 9 completed 151 orbits of the planet we call Earth.

It was essentially a dry run for the climactic trip to the moon since the space vehicles and the maneuvers executed were simulations of those that will bear the Stars and Stripes on its historic venture.

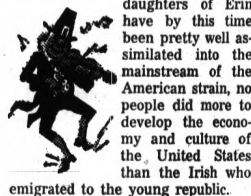

Because of this aspect of the flight, it was considered the riskiest of any of its predecessors but the two colonels, James A. McDivitt (commander of the expedition) and David A. Scott, and civilian Russell L. Schweickart ran through their paces flawlessly and scored a scientific triumph that has become virtually standard procedure for the Nation's corps of intrepid spacemen. The only untoward incident was the brief illness of Schweickart that shortened somewhat the duration of the key maneuver he successfully executed.

We render a warm salute to our three lunar trail blazers and congratulate them and the scientists and technicians of NASA on the stupendous accomplishment of Apollo 9 for which they were collectively responsible.

We Salute Saint Patrick

Monday is Saint Patrick's Day, on which we honor the patron Saint of the Irish. Although the sons and daughters of Erin have by this time been pretty well assimilated into the mainstream of the American strain, no people did more to develop the economy and culture of the United States than the Irish who emigrated to the young republic.

It is fitting that we pay vicarious tribute to them by the annual recognition of the anniversary of their revered symbol, Saint Patrick — an anniversary, oddly, that marks not his birth but his death that occurred about 461.

As for Saint Patrick himself, much of his life and works is shrouded in legend and fantasy — notably the fiction that he charmed all the snakes in Ireland to the seashore and drowned them.

But it is known that he began an adventurous, seafaring life at 16, escaped to France after six years of slavery in Ulster during which he became a devout Christian, and returned to Ireland in the role of a missionary zealot. He is credited with having founded over 300 churches and baptized more than 120,000 persons throughout "heaven Ireland."

Saint Patrick's Day is celebrated throughout the world wherever Irish are congregated. That the commemorative date occurred 1,500 years ago speaks eloquently for the hold Patrick had and retains on the spirits of his countrymen.

The Press warmly salutes Saint Patrick and the Irish among us on this March 17, signalized figuratively if not literally by "the wearing of the green."

A Rule for 'Safe Stopping'

Those who'd mix mathematics with driving (it's much safer than alcohol) will multiply their car's rate of speed by 1½ to determine how many feet are being traveled a second, e.g., at 40 m.p.h. a car is traveling 60 feet per second.

At that speed, it would take about nine car lengths to stop, if the road were dry and the driver had average reaction time. But if the road is slippery, brakes not up to par and the driver not in good physical condition, the stopping distance could be double that.

A good mental sticker for every driver to paste on his windshield would be: "Can I Stop in Time?"

American Legion --- 50 Years Later

By RAYMOND MOLEY

After 50 years, marked by the tragic interruptions of three wars, the American Legion is celebrating its golden anniversary.

While the concept of a veterans' organization had been in the minds of many who served in World War I, the first constructive step was taken in February 1919 when Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. gave a dinner for 20 fellow officers.

There was agreement among those present that a new veterans' organization should be wholly divorced from the high military brass; that it should be nonpolitical except in the sense that it should support or sponsor beneficial legislation for those who had served in the war; that it should concern itself through its posts with community service of all sorts; and that it should be dedicated to the cultivation and preservation of American ideals.

While there were spirited debates about details, there was agreement about principles or organization and objectives which have remained, with some amendments, until today.

SOME CONCERNS

The deep concerns of those American Legion founders were not unlike those which disturb so many Americans now. They realized that victory in a "war to end wars" might infect Americans with an apathy toward the domestic and foreign perils which would be inevitable in an imperfect nation and world.

They wanted to work toward the maintenance of our military strength and to pursue peace in a manner suitable to the responsibilities of a nation destined for leadership. They saw the growth of Communist infection in Western Europe and its threat to the American society.

They saw, too, with extraordinary prescience the need to maintain in a new generation the spirit of patriotism and the maintenance of American ideals. And they realized that these ideals must be fortified by wholesome community service.

As the years passed, the ranks of the Legion were thinned. But when the new war began in 1941 it was still sufficiently vigorous and influential to secure the enactment in 1944 of the GI Bill of Rights.

NEW GENERATION

World War II and the Korean conflict brought a whole new generation into the Legion. Its membership now numbers over 2.6 million, and it has more than 16,000 posts in the United States.

And now, as new veterans are returning from Vietnam, its concern is not only to absorb them in the Legion, but to dedicate its efforts to provide for the absorption of these men into civil life and especially to see that they have the advantages of further education.

It may well be that these new veterans in our colleges will provide the support and leadership for the great majority of students there who are seeking an education despite the pernicious disturbance of a small revolutionary minority. There are 150,000 of these "Viet vets" who have already joined the Legion.

The POWER of FAITH

BY

WOODI ISHMAEL

As Others Portray the Lenten Story—4
Christ On the Road to Calvary—India

Contemporary Indian Christian artists have inherited a tradition that goes 5,000 years back into the history and culture of India.

Christianity is a small minority in India but well enough established so that its faith is now being re-expressed through the art of India.

The above drawing from the painting by the Christian artist Valsh uses many of the ancient classical forms. The figure of Christ is painted blue. In classic art when a figure is painted blue, a Hindu thinks at once of the god Krishna who vicariously swallowed the poison intended to destroy the world. This painting of the blue Christ figure, falling under the cross, makes clear at once, to the Indian, the meaning of the atonement, the death of the Son of God for the sins of the world.

Confident Living:

Forget Yourself, Think Courage

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Sometimes you have to do some fast thinking. I recall as a young man, two or three years out of college, I suddenly found myself one day in a predicament requiring this fast thinking, and courage too.

It was several years after the end of World War I. Having seen service in the war, I had been designated the American Legion's chaplain for Kings County, New York. In this capacity I was asked to give the invocation at a Memorial Day meeting in Prospect Park.

A big crowd was expected, but I figured I could handle the few sentences of an invocation even though I was very young. I did not reckon, however, on the huge crowd that gathered on that occasion. Approaching the designated area of Prospect Park, I asked a police officer how many people were there. "Oh," he said, "about fifty thousand."

I proceeded to the platform and introduced myself to the chief speaker of the day, Teddy Roosevelt's son, Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. (who later served in World War II with the rank of general and gave his life for his country). I informed him that I was the person scheduled to give the invocation.

Then I sat down, picked up the program and examined it. To my consternation I saw I wasn't listed for an invocation at all. Instead, believe it or not, I was down for a speech just preceding Col. Roosevelt's talk. The program read "Norman Vincent Peale, Chaplain of the American Legion of Kings County, will deliver an address." I gulped. Indeed I froze. I had no speech prepared. What was I to do?

I walked over to Col. Roosevelt and chattered, "Colonel, there's been a big mistake. I was just asked to give the invocation, but look at this program; they have me down for a speech."

"Well," he said, "if you are down for a speech I guess you will have to give one."

"But," I protested, "Colonel, I just can't. To make a speech you have to be prepared. I'm not. I can't do it. Somebody else will have to speak."

He looked me over apologetically. "What's the matter, son?" he asked. "Are you afraid?"

"Afraid! That's not the half of it!" I frankly acknowledged. "A huge crowd like this scares the life out of me! And anyway, how can I think up a speech in the next few minutes? It just isn't in the cards."

"Oh, yes it is," he answered, "and I'll tell you how. For one thing, stop telling yourself that you're scared and start thinking courage. And for the next thing, stop thinking of yourself. Come over here with me a minute."

He led the way to the front of the platform and drew my attention to a big section of reserved seats all occupied by women. "Do you know who those women are?" he asked me. "They are Gold Star Mothers. That means that every one of them lost a son in the war."

"They are sitting here on this Memorial Day afternoon thinking of beloved sons who aren't with them any more. Maybe they are remembering the days when those sons were little boys who had to be held by the hand, sometimes had to be consoled to sleep at night. They miss their boys. They have their sorrow. They are lonely and sad."

"Isn't there anything you can say to these Gold Star Mothers? You certainly can love them. Forget yourself and start feeling compassion for those wonderful mothers. Then get up and give a talk just for them. Forget everyone else if you want to. What you say to those mothers will reach everyone else."

And he threw in two final words: "Think courage." I drew a deep breath and said, "All right, Colonel, I'll try. But it's going to be a very short speech."

"The shorter it is," he grinned, "the better it will be. But put something into it. Send out love to those people and you will shake off that fear of yours."

So I made my little speech. When I finished and sat down Col. Roosevelt leaned over and clasped me on the knee. "Boy, that was great!" I am sure it wasn't very great. But of course I have remembered that man with affection ever since.

He was right. Love does indeed prevail over fear. When your mind is full of concern for other people and responsive to human brotherhood, fear lets up. And that is doubly true when you forget yourself and sincerely try to do something to make life easier and happier for other people.

Forget yourself! Think courage! There's a formula that's worth using. It works.

In reply to the letter concerning the cessation of feeding geese because they pollute the water, how selfish can someone be? We live on a small, quiet lake where motorboat noises, slaphappy skiers and beer parties aren't heard, and we prefer the company of the "polluting" geese, ducks, swans, etc.

'Facts on School Millage Need Clarification'

On April 29, the Walled Lake Board of Education is holding a special election for the purpose of increasing school millage from 30.6 mills to 35.6 mills, claiming the raise is necessary for operation of the new Western High School. The necessity of an increase is questioned because of the effect of the projected raise of the equalized valuation for Oakland County.

Justification of the recommended millage increase cannot be fairly evaluated unless a disclosure is made with respect to the amount of assessable value and millage utilized to arrive at the estimated revenue; and an analysis of the budgeted expense. The estimated revenue and budgeted expense should be compared with the previous fiscal period actual experience, providing reasons for all substantial increases. Unless more informative data is presented, justifying the issue, the increase should be rejected.

Unfortunately, retired senior citizens living in the area receive no benefits from this tax, although it absorbs at least 25 per cent of their annual Social Security benefits.

Discusses Tax Increase for West Bloomfield

West Bloomfield faces higher taxes. A concentrated drive is being made to push through a $600 swimming pool in the March 31 election. They feel that the older residents were the ones who voted the pool down before. Our taxes are too high. When the working man and the old retiree cannot pay the taxes, will a dip in the pool wash away their problems?

Several Discuss Aid to Nonpublic Schools

In opposing financial aid to parents of children who attend nonpublic schools, The Pontiac Press ignores the fact that the aid is for the child's secular education, not religious. Many other democracies share to some extent their educational taxes with all schools and do not have a problem keeping church and state separated. It would take considerably more than $100 per child (the proposed amount) to build schools and staff them with qualified teachers.

REV. THEODORE R. ALLENBACH,

THE GREATER PONTIAC EVANGELICAL MINISTERS' FELLOWSHIP

There is no doubt that any legislation passed to help finance nonpublic schools where religion is being taught is unconstitutional and against the rights of other people to compel them to support such legislation through taxation. Unless we keep church and state completely separated we will drift into the same trouble that caused our forefathers to leave the old world and seek a new country where they could worship in freedom and according to the dictates of their own hearts.

We have already adopted too many old world ideologies but let us be sure we keep our right to worship by speaking out against this attempt to change our American way of life.

LON BROW

If parochial schools are to use public funds to stay open, that would mean the public may attend no matter what race, color or religion. I'm sure a few will want God in school daily, even if it means a Baptist going to a Catholic school. I'm all for it. God is God, no matter what you think and attend.

Reader Gives Opinion on Millage Elections

It would seem that once a millage is either accepted or rejected, that should be the end of it for at least the year the election was held.

Question and Answer

Is it against the law to bury your pet in your own backyard?

REPLY

Michigan law requires that dead animals be buried "under the ground," and Pontiac has no specific restriction against burying them on your own property. Persons living in other municipalities should check their local ordinances, which may contain restrictions.

Question and Answer

The story presently making the rounds in Waterford is that our taxes have already been raised 25 per cent for the coming year. Could this be possible, and what are the details?

REPLY

The present State equalization factor for Waterford is 2.09, and the proposed factor for the coming year is 2.59. If all millage rates and assessed values should remain the same, this would mean an increase of slightly under 24 per cent. This will not be confirmed until after the Board of Supervisors meets in April.

Tom Smothers Ties Return to CBS Changes

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Smothers says that unless changes are made in CBS censorship of "The Smothers Brothers Show," he and brother Dick won't return next season, even though CBS renewed its option on the show.

Smothers said Friday, after CBS announced it was extending the program's run, "We assume they're going to make some changes because they picked up the option."

He said he would meet early next week with CBS television network President Robert D. Wood to discuss their differences.

"If he says the network will maintain its same enforcement of continuity acceptance, then we definitely won't perform," Smothers said by telephone from Hollywood.

TROUBLES CLIMAXED

The brothers' problems with CBS were climaxed last week when the network replayed an earlier show in place of the scheduled broadcast. A network spokesman said late delivery of the show's tape, and not its content were to blame. Smothers insisted the network had wanted to trim the remarks of two guests on the show, comic Jackie Mason and Joan Baez, the folk singer-pacifist.

CBS rescheduled the show for March 30.

Meanwhile, Mason announced he would file suit if the edited version of his routine were shown on March 30. Smothers said the unedited tape would be shown if he could reach agreement with Wood.

"You know who's responsible for all this?" Smothers said. "Sen. Pastore saying that television is all filth, gore and violence. I'm surprised no one in television has stood up to him." He referred to Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., whose subcommittee on communications is studying television violence.

"I'd like to go down there and tell 'em," Smothers said. "I'd like to have him come on my show and make those charges."

Computer Has the Goods on Escapees' Car

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — City police and state troopers put a computer in Washington to work yesterday to capture two escaped prisoners from the federal prison in Milan, Mich. with Ohio license plates on it inside the city limits for a traffic violation. The routine check on the car was made on the hookup here with the National Crime Information Center in Washington.

Minutes later officers said they got a "hit" on the computer, indicating an alert was out for the car.

State Trooper Sid L. Blair heard the alert on his patrol radio for a car containing three men and a woman.

AT TRUCK STOP

He spotted the auto seconds later and stopped the occupants when they pulled into a truck stop south of the city. Blair said Floyd Albert Van Camp, 22, and Carlos Darrel Wise, 22, offered no resistance.

The FBI said both men were serving six-year terms for interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle and had served less than half their terms when they escaped from Milan Feb. 20.

The other man and woman in the car were not arrested.

Nude on Stage in Detroit Causes Little Reaction

DETROIT (AP) — The first reported appearance of a nude cast member in a Detroit dramatic performance apparently was a case of "Much Ado About Nothing" for the audience.

Either that or audience sophistication has been underestimated.

Appearing at the Fisher Theatre in a first night performance of "Dr. Faustus" Magie Wright appeared nude in profile near the end of the second act before an audience of 900.

The play is booked through April 12, alternating with "Much Ado About Nothing."

On Board Tug Donated to College

'Gentlemen Crew' Setting Sail for State

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The USS Allegheny is overrun with a crew of "gentlemen seamen."

The Navy donated the tug to Northwestern Michigan College last December and the crew of doctors, lawyers, teachers and businessmen from Traverse City, Mich., signed on Friday to get it home.

It sails this afternoon for Castine, Maine, and Montreal, then through the St. Lawrence Seaway. The crew expects to arrive around April 10 at Grand Traverse Bay where the college is organizing the Great Lake Maritime Academy.

"It's badly needed," said Las Biederman, a radio-television executive who is chairman of the college's board of trustees.

'MANY TO RETIRE'

"Thirty-five per cent of the U.S. registered mariners work today on the Great Lakes and in five years 61 per cent of the present officers must retire."

Biederman is communications officer on the Allegheny for its maiden college voyage — "I got a first-class radio-telephone license" — and helped Capt. Mike Hennick lower the gangplank for the crew's arrival.

"Can you show us to our staterooms?" asked Dr. Warren Clute as he climbed up lugging a fancy leather suitcase and a physician's bag.

Dr. William Peterson, another internist, was better outfitted, dragging a bright blue duffle bag.

Junior Editors Quiz on WIND INSTRUMENTS

QUESTION: What were the first wind instruments?

ANSWER: The music-making impulse is very old, for we have found traces of primitive instruments from the stone age. In our picture we show several ancient types, along with the modern instruments derived from them.

Any hollow log served as a primitive drum. A bit of hide stretched over the top provided a stronger sound. From such ancestors descended our modern snare and bass drums, as well as the tympani.

By cutting the end off a conch shell and compressing the lips, primitive man could blow a powerful blast. Hollow animal horns were used in the same way. The horn principle led to our modern bugle, trumpet, trombone, tuba and others.

Recently, an ancient flute, found in Peru, was estimated at 9,000 years old, possibly the oldest known musical instrument in the world.

The discovery that a bit of reed, when set into a hollow tube, could be made to vibrate and would produce a musical sound when blown, led to the clarinet type of wind instrument. The use of a small double reed led to the development of the oboe. Stringed instruments may have resulted from hunters getting a sound by tapping their bowstrings.

Migrant Farm Workers Lack Protection—CRC

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission said in a special report yesterday that present inadequate legislation "serves to create and maintain an underclass of poverty among migratory farm workers in Michigan."

The Commission released a 24-page report which included recommendations for improving the lot of such farm workers, most of whom, it said, are members of Spanish-American or black minority groups.

It said testimony at a two-day public hearing conducted by the commission at Grand Valley State College near Grand Rapids last August showed "migrant workers are simply powerless to change their own conditions."

"The indifference and insensitivity of staff workers in agencies dealing with migratory workers and uncoordinated efforts among the various agencies make migrant programs largely ineffective," it said.

"Unprotected by law, should workers are not protected either by the National Labor Relations Act or the State Labor Mediation Act. It added that neither cause they lack residence in the state's minimum wage laws."

workmen's compensation laws gave the migrant workers proper coverage.

It recommended that both federal and state laws should be amended or interpreted to take the farm workers under their protection.

One of the major problems between the workers and government agencies is a lack of sufficient workers' pay.

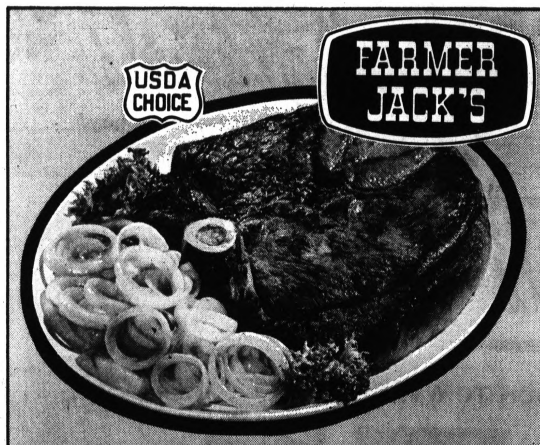

CRC officials said some of the migrant workers did not make the $1.25 per hour pay rate, sometimes because of lean crops and sometimes because the piece work rate is lower. It urged corrections to increase the workers' pay.

Blind Can Learn to Adjust—With Help

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is a series of weekly articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

The ophthalmologist is the first source of help with failing vision. This eye specialist also is the first to render the tragic diagnosis — "you are going blind."

Meat-Inspection Hearing Is Slated

LANSING (AP) — A proposal to amend the state's meat inspection law to include reinspection during postmortem processes will be the topic of a public hearing Thursday at Lansing.

The measure, which will affect an estimated 400 meat wholesale fabricating, processing and storage establishments in Michigan, would bring the state into compliance with the Federal Wholesale Meat Act.

However, a person can have a little better vision and still be considered blind. Legal blindness requires that the person's better eye can see no further than 20-200th, which is fullest.

GLAUCOMA LEADS

Glaucoma is the leading cause of blindness in the adult, but there are many, many other causes — diabetes, in some instances; cataracts; nerve damage; congenital developments; and, of course, physical mishaps.

The blind do not develop any unique knowledge or sensory perception. Of course, there are always exceptional blind people with exceptional talents in certain areas — music, the arts, sciences.

With the special training that is available to the blind and visually handicapped, they can develop their talents to their fullest.

Sighted people are amazed

Fiance Won't Spill Beans on Costly Jam He's Into

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What kind of a "jam" could a man have gotten himself into that would cost him $6,600?

My fiance tells me that we have to postpone our marriage because a "jam" he got himself into took all his savings. I asked him to tell me the circumstances, but he refused to discuss it. I think that since we are engaged to be married I have a right to know. What do you think?

BERTIE
DEAR BERTIE: I think you do, too. A $6,600 "jam" represents a lot of sugar.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law is a doll. I love her as though she were my own daughter, but here is the problem: She has been married to my son for over three years now, and she has never had Dad and me to her house for a meal. Not once!

I have her and my son over for meals all the time, and we get along fine, so I know it's not that she doesn't care for me.

I know she has had little company dinners. (She has even asked me for recipes, which I give her gladly.) But we are never invited. It's not that she can't afford it because money is the least of their worries. Also she has a nice home and beautiful things to entertain with, so why hasn't she ever invited Dad and me over for a meal? BEWILDERED IN L. I.

DEAR BEWILDERED: If I had to guess, it would be because she lacks confidence and fears she wouldn't measure up.

DEAR ABBY: I was a student nurse but dropped out after one year. One of the things I learned was how to give a massage. In fact, that was just about the only thing I really liked about nursing.

A few months ago my roommate had her boy friend over to the apartment and he complained about some sore muscles he had from playing touch football, so I gave him a massage.

In a few days he asked if I'd give him another massage, but this time he insisted on paying me. Since then he has sent me four other clients, and now I'm massaging regularly. I enjoy doing this and I also like the extra money, but someone told me I am breaking the law!

Is it true a person can't massage without a license? I also heard it's against the law to massage someone of the opposite sex. I can't believe it.

DEAR DIANE: In all states it is illegal to massage professionally without a license, and in some states one may not massage a member of the opposite sex. Check this with your county or state medical society. Or ask a lawyer to check it out.

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any male readers who will give me their honest opinion?

I was taught that the most precious gift a woman could give to a man she loved and married was having kept her body just for him; that he would respect and honor her for having waited.

More and more I'm accused of being "Victorian." Just recently a man told me, "You've got to wise up for your own good. If you don't give a man what he wants, he'll go elsewhere."

Even the man whom I recently loved deeply said he thought that after a half dozen dates, sex was in order.

I believe the proper setting for sex is love and marriage. This way it is something sacred and meaningful. There is a real commitment on both sides, not just a satisfying of one's appetite temporarily—until the next time.

I am not a young provincial lass tied to her mother's apron strings. I am 41 and have been completely "on my own" since 17. I've lived in many large American cities and several foreign countries, and have been exposed to all kinds of tempting social situations. I am romantic and sensitive and I'm not ugly. What is a man's opinion?

WAITING
DEAR WAITING: Well, we shall see. Men?

CONFIDENTIAL TO HATTIE: A man who really wants to work will take any kind of job he can get until something "more in his line" is available. Your man sounds like the kind who, when opportunity knocks at the front door, is out in the back yard looking for four-leaf clovers.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Prospective Nurses to Have Open House

Open House for prospective nursing students will be held at Mercy School of Nursing on Fulton Street, Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m.

The school offers a two-year nursing program to qualified high school graduates. Completion makes students eligible to take state board examinations to become a registered nurse.

Some scholarships are available. The school participates in the Federal Student Nurse Loan Program.

Calendar

MONDAY

Women's Association of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, Inc., 1 p.m., G. W. Stark home on Cambridge Lane. Mrs. Robert Peterson will present the program.

Pontiac Woman's Club, 1:30 p.m., First Federal Savings of Oakland. James Shea of the Drayton Plains Nature Center will speak. An election of officers will also take place.

Pilot Club of Pontiac, Inc., 7:30 p.m., Seminole Hills Nursing Home. St. Patrick's Day party.

Sylvan Shores Women's Club, 8 p.m., Woodbine Drive home of Mrs. Cyle Haskill. Program on flower arrangement.

Senior Citizens of Future to Be Peppy as Youngsters

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — If science succeeds where Ponce de Leon failed, humans of the year 3000 or thereabouts will dip into the fountain of youth — living 200 to 300 years.

"Our moisturizer will help you look as young as you did at 75," cosmetic firms of the era might advertise. And tonic makers of America can be expected to advance preparations "guaranteed to restore the pep you had at 100."

But there will be problems. What, for example, do you give people celebrating their 175th wedding anniversary? Moon dust in a locket? A bunch of lichen from Mars?

Dr. C. W. Hall, of the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, Tex., is one scientist who has no doubt that advances by medical men, scientists and engineers will help to extend man's life until it will be measured in centuries rather than scores.

PROBLEMS

However, he reminds, this will cause problems we should begin to consider now.

Hall is head of the Institute's Artificial Organs Program. Artificial organ research and resulting prosthetic devices plus disease research are milestones along the road to that life of 200 to 300 years.

Some of the problems:
● What will be the normal work span? When will you retire? Will you get a gold watch and your Social Security at 175?
● Schooling in institutions of higher learning may have to be extended past what we now call middle age to keep youth out of the job market.

● Will all of those under 150 blame all the problems of the world on those over 150?

● Family reunions will need to be held someplace spacious — say a park or ballroom. Christmas cards, just to relatives, will need to be machine-adressed if the sender wants to avoid writer's cramp.

The Institute's newsletter, "Research Through Tomorrow," reminds that grandchildren will be a problem.

Supposing a man became a grandfather at 50. He would be rocking his great - great - great - great - great grandchildren on his knees when he was nudging 250 — if his knees were up to it. And when a man gets to have "grandchildren to the sixth power" how can he keep up with the names of all already on the family tree?

But the real threat of such longevity, according to the Institute's eggheads, is in terms of food and space.

"Perhaps the humane solution will be on the planets where mature adults, 150 years and above, may be sent to compulsory retirement supported by payments made to the government by their 100-year-old sons and daughters," they said.

These are some thoughts even Ponce de Leon probably never considered. We can be relieved that Hall says this life spanning two to three centuries won't happen in our time.

Maybe, though, you should pass this on to your children.

Alumnae Schedule University Gala

Would Favors Be Proper for Boys as Well?

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning a Sweet Sixteen party. I have asked the girls to invite their own boys. A few of my friends do not have a boy to invite. I will invite boys for them.

Should I send these "extra" boys invitations and not those already coming with girls, or should I send everyone invitations? Also, is it proper to give out favors for the boys as well as the girls?—Sue.

Dear Sue: If you can get the names of the girls' dates, it would be nice to send them invitations as well as the boys you invite to come "stag."

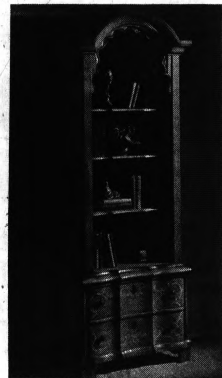

Don't leave the boys out of the favor fun—they enjoy a small amusing gift as much as the girls.

BIRTHDAY SQUABBLES

Dear Mrs. Post: I disapprove of gifts at birthday parties for children under school age. There is always confusion, squabbling, and some tears over the toys received, spoiling everyone's good time. How do you and your readers feel about this?—Mrs. T.

Dear Mrs. T.: I'd be glad to hear how other readers feel, but I don't agree with you about birthday gifts for toddlers. This is a very special day to them, and they look forward to their gifts with great excitement.

They mind the squabbles far less than you, and the pleasure they get from opening the packages far outweighs the trouble they cause their mothers.

Why Grow Old?
By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. I am 28 years old and have one child, 2½ years old. I notice that I am gradually getting varicose veins. I had a few during my high school years, but they were never really unsightly. I have long legs which were always one of my better assets. Now these veins are so unsightly that I am embarrassed to be in a swim suit or even bermuda shorts.

Can you tell me the causes of these? I have heard that pregnancy, poor circulation and heredity are some. I had a nine pound baby. I have heard of an operation to remove veins called stripping. Does such an operation cause scars and interfere with circulation?

I don't feel that my legs are in the worst shape yet, but they could become worse. Would a surgeon operate when he sees that they are not bad now but could become worse?

Please reply to my questions, because the appearance of my legs is important to my physical and mental well being.

A. Many pregnant women develop varicose veins because of the extra pressure. Of course, many do not. These do seem to "run" in families. They are inherited in that the type vein may be inherited. The veins have many little valves and when these become weakened, varicosity may develop. Also habits of life have an effect. People who stand on their feet for hours at a time often have these.

Veins can be removed by stripping. Other veins then do the work of those which were removed. Sometimes the offending vein is tied off. Injections into the vein are frequently successful. Naturally, there must be some scars when stripping is done, but these are not usually very noticeable, certainly not so much so as the enlarged veins.

The important thing is to see a specialist in vascular difficulties. If corrective measures are adopted when the condition is mild, the situation may not worsen. Some of these are resting periodically with your feet up; walking regularly each day; the avoidance of tight clothing and such as round garters or girdles which are not properly fitted, and supporting stockings. Seek the advice of an expert if you have varicose veins, even in the beginning stage.

Leaders Needed
As Volunteers

Do you have organizational and leadership ability? A national agency needs volunteer administrators to direct a transportation committee and to direct a speakers' bureau.

Other agencies need coordinator volunteers for diversified executive level positions. A real challenge for the right people!

Training will be given in specific duties and procedures, but volunteers should be dependable and capable of inspiring others in this stimulating work.

For further information, call the Oakland County Volunteer Bureau, in Birmingham.

From the Press Box

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Fred Shadrick, Dean of Students at the University of Detroit, and a very ardent and exceptional golfer, once figured that the worst thing which could happen to him in every day life would be to miss an 18 inch birdie putt.

That is until recently when Shadrick found himself in the role of "villain" when coach Bob Calihan at U. of D. tendered his resignation as basketball coach.

"I never experienced a week like that," said Shadrick, "everyone made it appear that my hands were dripping with blood for some kind of conspiracy against Calihan."

LOCAL RESIDENT

A former resident of West Bloomfield and once the golf coach at Royal Oak Kimball High School when it first participated in the Press Invitational Prep Tournament, Shadrick said, "In my position at the University, making me the liaison between the athletic board of control and the athletic department, I had the unpleasant task of telling Cal that it did not appear that the board would renew his coaching contract for next year."

"However, I thought I had what was good news for Bob, that he was going to get the best contract ever at the University to retain the position of athletic director."

The word then got around that Shadrick, Bill Ebben and Joe Davis, two former cave pupils of Calihan's were the trio responsible for putting the knife to the coach.

"That was the most vicious and untrue statement to come out of this whole thing," said Shadrick.

"There isn't a nicer guy than Bob, but in coaching it isn't a matter of personalities, but winning or losing. Remember, the University made its commitment to become a major basketball power and the athletic board of control felt the move had to start at the top."

CRITICIZED

"It's funny," said Shadrick, "when we didn't do anything to move in that direction, we were criticized. Now that we've made a move to build our basketball team, we are criticized again."

Calihan submitted his resignation with the request for making it effective after the 1969-70 season.

The board accepted the resignation but denied the request and as Shadrick pointed out, "the board felt that if Cal were to have a poor season next year it would be disastrous for him and for the program we have committed ourselves to."

"The pressure would not be as great on any new coach here in his first season," he added.

Shadrick, Calihan, Davis, Ebben and Howard Keating are on the screening committee for applicants, and Davis, the chairman, who lives in the Pontiac area commented, "We hope to have a final decision by April 15, maybe sooner."

"It's not a matter of money. We intend to pay the top dollar for the best coach available," he added.

There was no amount mentioned for that "top dollar" of which Davis speaks, but leading college basketball coaches are said to be in the range of $18,000 and $22,000 and indications are that U. of D. is willing to top this.

What coach wouldn't like to look ahead to Fall 1969 with a $25,000 contract and Spencer Haywood?

TOP CANDIDATE

Our crystal ball says that Jack Hartman, head coach at Southern Illinois, winner of the NIT two years ago, holder of a 17-7 record this season with one of the best defensive teams in the country, is the top candidate for the job.

Hartman has a career record of 132-53 in seven years at Southern Ill., finishing runnerup in the NCAA College Division tournament in 1965 and 1966, before moving up to the University Division in 1967 when he won the NIT, defeating such teams as Marquette, Duke, Rutgers, Louisville and St. Louis.

Tech Skaters Defeated in NCAA Semifinals

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Gordon Lowe scored after 3:40 of a sudden death overtime to carry Cornell to a 4-3 victory over Michigan Tech in the semifinals of the NCAA hockey championships Friday night.

The Big Red will carry a 25 game winning streak into their battle with Denver's defending champions Saturday night for the national crown.

A rally by Michigan Tech in the third period gained a 3-3 deadlock at the end of regulation time after Cornell had held the Huskies scoreless since the first seven seconds of the game.

W. Bloomfield Finds Success With Balance

Looking at it from the sports angle, it's been quite a year for the Lakers of West Bloomfield.

Coach Art Paddy guided the football team to a Wayne-Oakland League championship last fall, then moved inside and promptly moved the team to a league basketball crown.

And now, Paddy and the Lakers are gunning for the biggest prize available — a state championship.

NEXT STEP

The Lakers take the next step in their bid for the Class B honors when they tangle with Redford St. Mary (14-5) this evening at 8 o'clock at Birmingham Seaholm.

If all goes well the Lakers will then advance to the quarter-finals next Wednesday. Semifinals and finals are Friday and Saturday in East Lansing.

BOUNCED NO. 2 TEAM

But first things first. The Lakers, after bouncing No. 2 ranked Holy Redeemer from the tournament trail Thursday night, now own a 20-1 record.

What's behind the team? "It's just a good team offensively and defensively," says Paddy, who is now in his 23rd year of coaching and in his 13th at West Bloomfield.

GOOD CASE

And Art builds a good case for his statement. He has no big gun, so to speak, no one outstanding performer. He doesn't have anyone scoring 14 points a game.

"Take the district tournament for example," Art was saying yesterday. "Our highest scorer for the three games had 40 points (Steve Westjohn), and then it was 32 (Dave Karlson), 31 (Don Johnston), 30 (John Crowder), 24 (Jim Bays) and 23 (Curtis Britton). That's good balance. You can't argue with something like that."

SAME ALL YEAR

It's been like that all year. "I think Karlson had 212 points for the year and averaged 12 or 13."

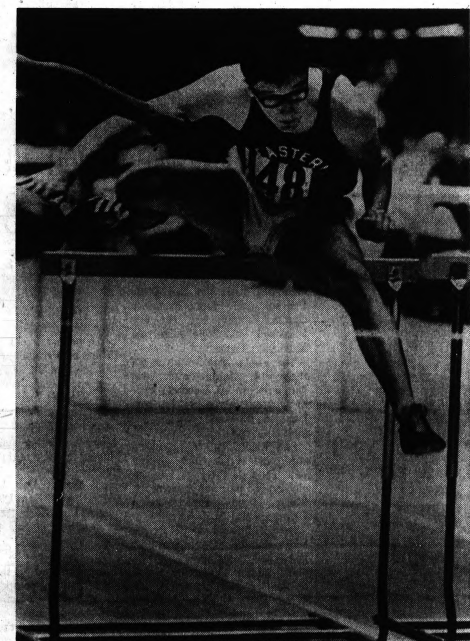

"And our defense has been outstanding, too," says Art, and he again builds an airtight case. In 21 games, the Lakers gave up an average of 44 a game. Only three times did they give up 60 or more.

'ONE OF BEST'

Paddy calls this team one of the best he's ever coached. "I'd say it's one of the three best," said Art. "We had a good one at Bay City Central when we had Gary Giffin who was 6-9 (Saginaw Valley Conference scoring leader). And I had a good one at Cass City that was 16-0."

Thing about those two, however, was that neither fared well in tournament play. "We lost our first or second night at Bay City. At Cass City we were knocked out in the district by a team we beat twice during the regular season."

MOVING THE MUSTANGS — Sam Taub, head coach of the Mumford Mustangs, is continuously active on the bench directing the Detroit city champions over the court. Tonight, the Pontiac Central Chiefs will face the Mustangs in the class A regional final at Southfield. Game time is 7:00 p.m. Mumford defeated North Farmington Thursday night to reach the finals, while PCH won over Brother Rice Wednesday night.

Kansas Jayhawks Setting Track Pace

By JERE CRAIG

There's a lot more to the Kansas University track team than Jim Ryun.

The Jayhawks from the Big Eight Conference had a "field night" Friday by stealing the show from the rumpers and grabbing a commanding lead with seven championships decided at the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships at Detroit's Cobo Arena.

Defending champion Villanova has 15 points to trail Kansas' 25. Another usually strong coastal challenger, Southern California, has eight points and sprint-middie San Jose State is sixth with seven. Also at eight are Harvard and Nebraska.

The NCAA indoor title is being resolved this afternoon with 10 more finals slated beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The Jayhawks would seem to be certain winners except for the fact area distance runner Ryun is a question mark for the mile finals after dropping out of the two-mile qualifying last night with blisters on his feet and a twinge in his left knee.

Ryun confirmed he "has a problem with blisters when running indoors on boards," but said he would be able to go in the mile today.

Villanova, with ICA mile king Marty Liquori in the finals, seems certain to gain valuable points in the event unless Ryun can approach his NCAA championship form of the past two years.

The Wildcats and Kansas also have strong entries in the distance middle relay, and the 60-yard high hurdle semifinals.

Southern Cal and San Jose State are also expected to score well today but will need help to catch either Kansas or Villanova.

FIELD EVENTS

The Jayhawks amassed their healthy point total by taking the top three places in the shot put, first and second in the long jump, and a fourth in the triple jump — all of which are field events.

Bulky Karl Salb, a 6-4-165, 275-pound tackle on the Jayhawks' grid squad, broke the meet shot put standard with a heave of 66 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

Teammates Steve Wilhelm and Doug Krop also bettered 60 feet in placing two-three. In the long jump, Kansas' Ron Jessie and Stan Whitley finished within a half inch of each other at 25 feet 2 1/2 inches and 25-2, respectively, to earn the leaders 10 more points.

'Work to Do' Says Pontiac Hurdles Ace

Pontiac's Bill Tipton is wasting no time in working out his faults after a disappointing debut Friday night in the National Collegiate Indoor Track Championships at Detroit.

"I've a lot of work to do," the slender ex-Pontiac Central state and national champion confided before he ran.

Now a sophomore at Eastern Michigan for whom he captured the NAIA hurdles title this winter, Tipton received recognition from the huge throng watching the meet prior to his heat in the 60-yard high hurdles qualifying.

But after strong start he faded quickly and lost the third and final qualifying spot to Marshall Bush of Maryland although both were timed in .07.4.

Yale's Kwaku Frempong and Tom Hill of Arkansas State both posted .07.3 marks in placing one-two in the heat. Tipton's best this season has been a .07.3.

PLANS WORKOUT

"One of the officials told me I looked like I lost my rhythm at the start," said Tipton afterwards. "I'll be out at Wisner Field tomorrow working out; there's no reason for me to come back here."

Regional Finals Face Chiefs, Lakers

PCH to Meet Mumford in Battle at Southfield

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

"We've got to stop them (Pontiac Central Chiefs) from getting that second and third shot," says Mumford basketball coach Sam Taub who faces the young PCH Chiefs in the class A regional finals tonight at Southfield High School.

In the PCH wigwam, coach Ralph Grubb remarked, "Having won the Detroit city championship, they have to be a good ball club. We'll do our best with a man to man defense, putting Russell on Taylor, but how long we can keep him there I don't know."

The outside sharpshooter of the Mustangs is Steve Harris, the smallest member of the team at 5-10 who can hit from any angle on the court.

Against North Farmington, Harris however did show signs of defensive weakness, a factor which might favor the Chiefs.

The driver of the team is Mel Carr a sturdy built 6-footer who can break fast to the inside on his drives.

BIG MUSTANG

Of course, the big man for Mumford is 6-9 Marvin Taylor who can hit the outside shot, but likes to take the long stride on his drive from the key with the hope of drawing the foul.

He hit nine straight free throws in the first half against N. Farmington and led Mumford with 27 points.

The Chiefs could have the advantage up front even though they give way height to 6-5 John Andrews and 6-3 Bruce Morrow.

Both Jerry Ratliff and Monte Herring, stand 6-2, but their big asset has been the outside shot and the ability to do what coach Taub fears most, getting the offensive rebounds for the second and third shots.

"Only way we can run with Central is if we can get the board advantage," said Taub, who analyzed that Mumford could have the guard advantage, Central the edge at forward and a close battle in the center spot.

Asked if he would resort to Brother Rice's strategy of Wednesday in slowing the game against Central, Taub said, "I wouldn't think so, but it would depend on the circumstances."

TRY SLOWDOWN

Mumford did use a slowdown for nearly three minutes against North Farmington Thursday in the third quarter with a seven point lead, but then went into a fast break in the final quarter to shatter the outclassed Raiders.

Coach Grubb, meanwhile will be trying to outguess Taub's strategy and plan his own.

"Their big men, Taylor and Andrews, really hit the boards hard and we will have to match them on the boards and then stop Harris," said Grubb.

Mumford has been known to use a pressing defense which might cause some problems for PCH, "but we've been pressed a lot this year," said Grubb.

Clayton Burch will have the responsibility of stopping Harris not only in scoring but with his good feed passes.

"I know one thing," coach Taub added in summary. "I don't think we'll whip Central. They will either whip us or we will win a close game."

The game begins at 7:00 p.m. at Southfield High School, located at Lahser and 10 Mile Road, and on the basis of a report card rating system by positions, Mumford holds the role of favorite.

REGIONAL REPORT CARD

| Pontiac Central vs. Mumford |      |            |      |
|-----------------------------|------|------------|------|
| Player                      | Hgt. | Player     | Hgt. |
| Herring                     | 6-2  | F. Andrews | 6-5  |
| Ratliff                     | 6-2  | F. Morrow  | 6-3  |
| Russell                     | 6-5  | C. Taylor  | 6-9  |
| Burch                       | 6-0  | G. Carr    | 6-0  |
| Styles                      | 5-9  | G. Harris  | 5-10 |

FORWARDS

Pontiac Central: Herring and Ratliff should have the shooting advantage, and even a slight edge on the boards . . . Rating—A.

Mumford: Andrews is big (260) and Morrow maneuvers well. Mumford has size advantage here . . . Rating B-Plus.

GUARDS

Pontiac Central: Advantage to the Chiefs with speed and possibly better defense. Guards need to avoid too many turnovers . . . Rating B-Plus.

Mumford: Advantage to the Mustangs in shooting with Steve Harris able to hit from all angles. Carr a strong driver . . . Rating A.

CENTERS

Pontiac Central: Campy Russell is the key to the offensive boards, getting that second shot. He will give way to height and experience . . . Rating A-Minus.

Mumford: Marv Taylor, 6-9, has the height and experience advantage. Has good shot and moves, but can be prone to walking and fouling . . . Rating — A-Plus.

FINAL TALLY

Pontiac Central: A, B-Plus, A-Minus—24 Quality Points.

Mumford: B-Plus, A-Minus, A-Plus — 25 Quality Points.

Tally Choice Mumford favor by two.

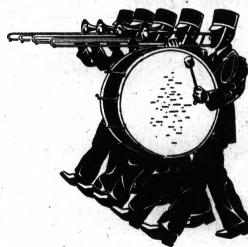

Our Choice: Central by four.

In Moscow Meet

U.S., Russians Lead

MOSCOW (AP) — Athletes from the United States and Russia dominated the opening of a two-day international track meet here Friday.

The host Russians captured four events and the Americans three as 250 athletes from East Germany, Bulgaria, Cuba, Poland, the United States and Russia gathered for the meet.

The competition was not without controversy.

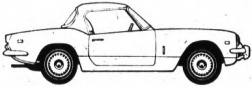

Norman Tate of East Orange, N.J., registered an official complaint after his sixth and final try in the long jump when someone switched on a television floodlight and he fouled by less than an inch.

"I was blinded. I couldn't see a thing," Tate said. But judge Vladimir Garber of the Soviet Union refused to change the ruling. Igor Ter-Ovanesian won the event with a jump of 26 feet, 4 1/4 inches.

Other Russian winners were Yrui Rybachenko, who took the 3,000-meter race in 8:04.4; Antonia Lazerva, with 5-11 1/4 in the women's high jump, and Tatyana Bychkova, with a 20-3 in the women's long jump.

Mamie Rallins of Chicago tied the world record in the women's 50-meter indoor hurdles with a 7.1 clocking.

128 in overtime. The loss ended the Royals' chances of making the playoffs.

In other games Friday, Los Angeles beat Milwaukee 111-103 and San Francisco edged Detroit 114-110.

In the ABA, Dallas decked New York 123-106. New Orleans outscored Houston 139-116 and Oakland trimmed Minnesota 133-122.

Baltimore, with a three-game lead over Philadelphia, needs only to split its remaining six games to clinch, no matter what the 76ers do in their final four games.

Bob Lewis and Jeff Mullins dropped in two free throws apiece in the final 18 seconds to cement San Francisco's victory over Detroit. Mullins led the Warriors with 32 points, three less than Detroit's Dave Bing, who took game honors.

BOWLING

A veteran woman bowler and two North Oakland County families proprietors earned the scoring spotlight in recent outings.

Norma Conley set a new women's sanctioned all-time high series at Howe's Lanes Wednesday night in the Community League. She rolled 210-234-244 for a 694 total actual.

Going into the final frame she needed a double to become only the first local woman to bowl a 700 in the area. She got her first strike but delivery No. 2 left two corner pins and Mrs. Conley spared out for the 694.

She is a member of the M. & R. Mechanical team.

Tom Mayes set a season high for his Montclair Center lanes with 232-226-267-725 Monday in the Northside Community Men's League.

Don Lumsford rolled a 266-619 duo, Lloyd Knack a 268-609 combination, Glenn Kitchen Sr. hit a 235 and Dave Weitz a 232.

Muskegon Falls

Upsets Mark Tournament Action

By the Associated Press
Idleness took its toll Friday night, as several highly-rated high school basketball teams which hadn't played in six days because they drew byes in opening round regional play, dropped semi-finals.

The top upset came at Wyoming, where unranked Grand Rapids Union rebounded from a 19-10 first-quarter deficit to whip fifth-ranked Muskegon in Class A play.

Muskegon, looking ahead to its supposed Saturday night meeting with fourth-ranked Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills, which had won the first semifinals 85-41 over Escanaba, actually led 51-48 in the last minute.

But then Dave Sukup hit a layup, was fouled and converted the free throw for a tie and Gerald Edwards put in a bucket with but six seconds remaining and the Big Red had had it, 54-51.

In other mid upsets, fifth-ranked Wyoming Golden Heights clipped No. 3 Grand Rapids East Christian 59-53 in class B semi-final play.

Grand Rapids, while No. 3 Grapevine Pointe St. Paul topped No. 1 Detroit St. Martin 20-10 in a final at St. Ignace, De Tour is ranked eighth in class D.

Another major upset came at Ypsilanti where class D powerhouse Detroit All Saints, which won the class C state championship last year and was ranked second dropped a 65-62 shocker to unranked Ypsilanti St. John in a regional final.

Another upset came in class B semifinal play at Marquette, where Marquette Bishop Baraga whipped No. 9 Baraga 65-61.

Holding to form as the night wore on were Menominee, No. 7 in class B which shipped Neagame 78-54 at Marquette as Dewey Bellisle had 33 points, one short of the tournament record for the fieldhouse and De Tour, which whipped Algonquin 87-76 in a final at St. Ignace, De Tour is ranked eighth in class D.

Delinquent Teens at Lifeline Camp

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is a series of five articles detailing the organization and function of Lifeline, a branch of International Youth for Christ. Today—Camping.)

Dealing with delinquent teens is serious business, but there's an occasional light touch.

Two years ago, the Rev. William Ballard, local director of Lifeline known as Bill by friends, took 12 delinquent boys on a bike hike from Pontiac to the Mackinac Bridge — 380 miles.

Bikes used were those that went unclaimed at area police departments. Spare parts to put them in riding order were donated by Scarlett's Bicycle Shop.

Shortly after they passed the halfway point, Ballard and two of the boys were well behind the rest of the party.

"They were well out of sight," said Ballard, thinking to himself that little could happen on open highway. Then a state police patrol car, pulled alongside, Ballard and the boys had been on the road a few days and he was a bit unkempt with the beard and all.

"Who are you?" asked the police. "I'm the Rev. Bill Ballard," said Bill. "Prove it," said the state trooper. Bill did and asked what was up.

"Well, several members of your party — those on ahead — moved some detour signs on the highway and bottled up a lot of traffic. Since they're with you, you handle it," said the trooper. Ballard did!

CAMPING Today, camping has become a major part of Lifeline, a 15-year-old program that works in cooperation with other agencies and courts to meet the needs of delinquent teens.

Ballard's bike hike is one of which is also completely several outings in which delin-have been under Christian influence and it has a stabilizing effect on others."

Lifeline uses various state facilities for its camping program although the hope is that in time the organization will have the funds to obtain and operate permanent sites.

There's one permanent camp now in operation in Michigan. It's an 83-acre site near Brighton owned by Youth for Christ. It was purchased for $93,000 in 1961. On the property is a 16-acre lake.

At the Brighton site there are accommodations for 200 persons. The facilities are modern and usable year round.

Bob Vaden, Lifeline director in Detroit, directs the camping operations. Vaden was named "national director of the year" for his Lifeline work in 1962.

STARTED IN 1950s

The camping phase of Lifeline had its start in the 1950s. One of the pioneers in this area was Bob Rudell, then chaplain at the Nebraska State Penitentiary.

Later Love, then director of YFC in Gary, Ind., began to experiment with the camping idea. He started by introducing persons in penal institutions to the program.

In 1958 Love became director of Lifeline and channeled much of his effort into the camping program. He sought and received help from former Indiana Gov. Welsh Matthews.

With the governor's blessing he began a 10-week summer camp. The State of Indiana provided the facilities. Love had to provide the staff and fill the camp with needy boys. He did. During the first year 1,000 boys were exposed to camp life.

"The governor was a frequent visitor and real friend," said Love. "Without him we couldn't have accomplished what we did in so little time."

Help Poor People of South Carolina

A campaign to help a severely poverty stricken city in South Carolina will begin Sunday.

The Fathers and Mothers of Mercy of the Pentecostal Church of Jesus is sponsoring the campaign and called the meeting for 5:30 p.m. at the UAW Local 596 hall, 821 Baldwin.

The group hopes to get money, food and clothing to send to the families of Beaufort by Easter. A church investigator discovered the extreme poverty of the town, about 95 miles from Columbus, Ga.

Ballard's bike hike is one of which is also completely several outings in which delin-

Teen Rally at Southgate

Some 60 young people of Oakland Avenue Church and adults will meet at the church tonight before driving to Southgate High School auditorium for a teenagers rally.

The rally sponsored by the Rev. Billie Walker usually draws hundreds of teenagers from the Detroit Metropolitan area.

Music will include piano duets by Clayton Erb and Roseann Brandenstein, the Omega Singers and a vocal trio comprised of Dave Edwards, Bob Carpenter and Mark White.

Adults driving the young people are Mrs. Gaylord Ellis, John Schram, Mrs. Cletus Slade, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Bruce Brede, Mrs. Leo Criva and Mrs. Ted Girtman.

Guest speaker at the 7 p.m. service tomorrow will be the Rev. Richard Pickering of Arlington, Va. He will also sing, playing his own guitar accompaniment. Other music includes solos by Mrs. Thomas Mackie, and Tim Well; a piano selection by Kathy Pourn, and a quartet composed of Mike, Mark, Janene and John Martin.

COUNTRY SETTING — Youngsters visiting the Youth for Christ Pine Hills camp near Brighton will find a country-like atmosphere at the 93-acre site. Above, Detroit Lifeline Director Bob Vaden checks one of 10 horses at the camp, which was opened in 1961.

One Great Hour of Sharing

Offering for Overseas Relief Program

More than 30 Protestant denominations will join in observing One Great Hour of Sharing during morning worship tomorrow.

In addition to that portion of the offering which goes for overseas relief, a scholarship program is also supported.

Capital funds are provided from the offering for emergency church projects in Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. United Methodist support for the ministry to servicemen in the Far East is also provided. Centers are located in Okinawa, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Bangkok, Japan and Korea.

In these centers American servicemen are able to find a home-like atmosphere and are afforded the opportunity of meeting fellow Christians and learning more about the culture of these lands.

Methodist Church will begin a 6:30 dinner. Following a hymn sing and devotions, the program will begin at 7:15 p.m.

The Rev. Jack H. C. Clark, pastor of North Oakland Christian Church and executive secretary of Pontiac Area Council of Churches, will be guest speaker.

The Rev. M. Clark and his wife will speak and show pictures of the World Council of Churches Assembly which they attended last summer in Uppsala, Sweden.

WALLED LAKE
The Rev. Horace G. Thurston, minister of Walled Lake United Methodist Church, Walled Lake, will preach on "The Larger Fellowship" during morning worship tomorrow as the congregation observes One Great Hour of Sharing.

The Bible Study and Continuing Prayer Vigil group will meet at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the church parlor.

THE SUDAN BOOTH—Looking over linens embroidered by people in The Sudan are the Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Creswell, and his mother, Mrs. Andrew Creswell Sr. of 61 Summit (center). The minister and his wife have returned from serving mission fields in Africa. On display are curios from many countries during the Missionary Conference this week at Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. The missionary's wife holds an ebony wood carving.

Missionaries Home From the Sudan

Home again.
Teaching Bible evening classes this week at the Missionary Conference in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, 404 Oakland is the Rev. Andrew Creswell, former member of the church and missionary to The Sudan.

Creswell is the son of Mrs. Andrew Creswell, of 61 Summit and the late Dr. Creswell, pastor of the Oakland Avenue Church for many years.

The Creswells are home from The Sudan after serving 11 months in Khartoum, the capital city with a population of 95,000. Khartoum is located at the point where the Blue Nile and the White Nile meet.

The Creswells' work has been among Arabs, southern Sudanese and expatriates—teaching literacy classes, Bible classes and conducting courses for children and young people.

They also operate a bookshop, corresponded with those living in remote areas of the country, and conducted preaching services in both Arabic and English. Until they receive another assignment, the Creswells will live in Lyons, Colo., ministering to churches nearby.

A cross section of Sudan's varied population lives in Khartoum—Arabs of the North Sudan, descendants of nomadic tribes roaming the area between the Sahara Desert and the Red Sea.

These people have controlled and ruled the Republic of Sudan since its independence on Jan. 1, 1958.

Previous to this the area was called the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, a condominium ruled jointly by Great Britain and Egypt.

In Khartoum there are thousands of southern Sudanese, Africans from the numerous tribes living in southern provinces who have recently come in contact with Western civilization.

Each tribe has its own language. About 269 languages are spoken in the Sudan.

Islam is the chief religion of the Sudan, but work only in the cities of the North Sudan, said Creswell.

Vesper Hour

High School age members of

First Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, will present a contemporary vesper service

"Darkness to Light" with the Calvin Choir accompanied by organ, guitar and percussion at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The service will be presented to the congregation by its youth members following a family night potluck supper served at 6:15 p.m.

The theme of the modern litany and music is taken from the book of Genesis.

On Wednesday at noon, Dr. Glen Harris will continue his current series of Lenten midweek sermons on "How Can We Know the Way?"

This week's answer will be "By Study." Immediately after the noon service, a luncheon is available in Knox Auditorium of the church at 12:40 p.m.

The Sudan. Friday is the religious holiday.

"In March 1964 some 300 missionaries who worked in southern provinces of the Sudan were expelled by government order. A handful that remained are southern provinces for the last six years with thousands killed and over 100,000 living as refugees in Ethiopia, Kenya, Uganda, Congo and the Central African Republic."

"The southern Sudanese are looking for the day when schools, clinics and hospitals can be reopened in a South Sudan ruled by their African leaders," Creswell said.

Soviet 'Terror Reign' Charged by Chinese

TOKYO (AP) — Communist high-ranking officers to China let loose another torrent of anti-Soviet propaganda today, accusing Kremlin leaders of conducting a "reign of terror" at home and collaborating with the United States to achieve "joint domination of the world."

The charges came in more than 6,750 words of invective broadcast in English by the official New China News Agency.

NCNA declared: "The most glaring counterrevolutionary crime committed by the Soviet revisionist renegade clique in Southeast Asia is the arming of the reactionaries in Southeast Asian countries with large quantities of arms and other military equipment to help them rabidly suppress the revolutionary armed struggles of the people."

This "sabotage" is "in pursuance of its counterrevolutionary global strategy to achieve U.S.-Soviet joint domination of the world," it added.

ARMS TO INDONESIANS

The agency said the Soviet Union has provided "reactionary" Indonesian troops with $1.2 million worth of arms and help in anti-Communist operations. The Russians also have given military aid to India, Burma and Malaysia, it said.

NCNA also charged the Soviet Union agreed in 1967 to cooperate with Japan in "organizing counterattacks against aggression—virtually an open announcement by the Soviet revisionist renegade clique of forming an anti-China military alliance with the U.S.-Japanese reactionaries."

Within the Soviet Union, said the broadcast, Moscow's leaders have "turned the homeland of the Soviet working people into a land of terror by practicing fascist dictatorship under the signboard of democracy of the whole people. Everywhere in the country are concentration camps, jails and 'lunatic asylums' for detaining and suppressing the Soviet revolutionaries."

The Peking broadcast reiterated charges that the Soviet Union lied about the March 2 border clash between Soviet and Chinese troops 200 miles north of Vladivostok.

Mother's Hectic Pace Includes Decorating

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press
Being a working mother sets a hectic pace for Mrs. Robert Edwards of Bloomfield Township, but her family (husband, daughters Katherine, 12, and Linda, 10, and son David, 9) can testify to her prowess as a master juggler.

"It's not easy," she admitted, "but I have the help of my family."

Decorating her home is one of Mrs. Edwards' pleasures. She chose to follow a modified Italian provincial in the formal areas with a swing to the traditional in the family room.

"Right now," said Mrs. Edwards, "I'm in the process of switching the family room to a more Early American approach. I like its warmth and with growing children you can't beat it."

TAKES TIME
"But the switch takes time."
Paneled in oak, the room is floored in white brick vinyl. A deep green round-back chair stands before the rose-flecked fireplace for perfect viewing of the family's colored television set. Vivid colors of orange, red, black and gold highlight the matador print above the fireplace mantel.

In the living room, white walls, sculptured gold carpeting, white glass sheers and gold antique satin draperies set the bicolor background.

A sofa covered in a green-on-ivory antique satin furnishes one corner of the room providing ample seating capacity. A planter pole lamp in brass adds a contemporary touch to the over-all decor.

RUBY GLASS ACCENTS
Before the sofa, a fruitwood cocktail table is topped by ruby glass pieces to emphasize the red in the grouping's velvet covered, white wood framed occasional chair.

On the opposite wall, matching moss green antique satin chairs flank an Italian provincial walnut table. Above the table hangs a Roman fountain scene stressing gold, black, green, brown, white and rusty rose.

Americans Are Moving Constantly

Latest research figures show that almost one out of every five Americans changes his address each year, and other statistics reveal that the average homeowner sells his house after seven years. America is truly the land of the nomad.

Because we move so much, it is even more important that we find comfortable homes.

Since we don't stay long enough in one place to change it to our heart's content, it should be close to perfection when we move in.

The difference between a house and a home, is its heating system. Unless a home has a well-balanced heating system it will be either over-heated and stuffy or underheated and drafty.

To be sure that it is evenly heated the installation of a hydronic (modern hot water) heating system with baseboard panels on all "outside" walls.

BASEBOARDS

The baseboard panels are only ankle high and create a curtain of warmth where it is needed most, under windows.

Also prospective homeowners should make sure that their new homes are well-insulated. This will cut down on heat loss and keep out drafts. It will also keep the home cool in the summer time.

Use Strips for Accent

A truly different wall covering can be created with 1x1-inch strips of lumber applied vertically with edges butted together.

It's great for the back of a room divider or as an accent for a tiny entryway.

The surface will be slightly uneven, but that accents the pattern.

Sheraton Motor Inn Ready in July

Invalid Home Care Easier

Is someone in your family suffering from arthritis or other painful ailment that makes it difficult for him to get into and out of the bathtub or use other bathroom facilities?

If so, you'll be interested in devices that once were found only in hospitals nursing homes and other places devoted to caring for the sick, the aged or the infirm.

You can now get portable bath lifts for assisting people into and out of the tub and toilet seats with arms that attach directly to the water closet.

You can also get receptor tubs or those of conventional size with seats that enable a person to shower sitting down.

Wide roof overhangs are attractive and also lower house maintenance, reduce heating and cooling costs by protecting windows, walls and doorways.

Other conveniences offered by the motor inn include a banquet room which will accommodate over 350 people and two other eight-room penthouse, four separate bridal suites, indoor

A French motif decorates the main dining room with the cocktail lounge following a New Orleans setting complete with a riverboat mural behind the bar. Snacks and informal luncheons and dinners will be served in the coffee shop.

Ample, well-lighted parking areas will add to the convenience of the inn's guests.

Proper Tile for Resilient Home Floors

How to select floors for heavy traffic areas of the home that will look good and still be functional is a common decorating problem.

One must evaluate the almost infinite number of types, surfaces, colors, textures and designs of floor coverings now available and then often confusing claims made for them. It is not always easy, especially for the non-professional.

Preconceived ideas on decor that do not include adequate practical considerations are the biggest stumbling block.

For example, a homemaker may see a magazine article showing an attractive floor covering in a front hall or foyer. Immediately she decides, "that's for me!" forgetting that the flooring must be functional as well as beautiful. In other words, the covering she has fallen in love with may wear out too fast or be too difficult to keep clean in a heavy-traffic area.

That's why, resilient floor coverings such as vinyl asbestos tile are increasingly popular for foyers, halls, kitchens, playrooms, and bathrooms, where heavy traffic is to be expected.

VINYL ASBESTOS Vinyl asbestos tile is especially suitable because it lends itself to any decor, is simple to clean and still "wears like iron."

Oregon is top state for producing logs, lumber, plywood and particle board. And paper output is growing rapidly.

Use Cedar Boards for Low-Cost Siding

For handsome but low-cost siding, use ordinary cedar boards rather than tongue-and-groove boards.

A random pattern of 1x4, 1x6 and 1x8s applied vertically is particularly good looking.

Nail the cedar boards over 30-pound building paper.

JIG-SAW ENTHUSIASTS will be delighted with this beautiful Leaf-Scroll Design for wall shelves. Pattern 336, which may be traced right on the wood ready for cutting, is 50 cents. This pattern is also in the Jig-Saw Packet No. 33 with full-size designs for a seven and a 12-inch bracket to match these shelves, picture and mirror frame designs and 10 novelties — all for $1.50.

Plumbing Old Profession

The next time you need the services of a plumbing contractor, it might interest you to know that he belongs to one of the oldest professions in the world.

The rise and fall of civilizations are closely tied to their ability to provide safe drinking water and sanitary waste disposal.

Like so many other words in the English language, the word "plumbing" comes from the Latin — from "plumberius," which means a worker in lead, the material most commonly used for pipelines.

As the Romans went about conquering their neighbors, they took their high standards of cleanliness with them.

Many of their watering places are still in use today, one of the most famous being Bath, in England.

INTENSE TRAINING

Today's plumbing contractor has to have intensive training in mathematics, hydraulics and other sciences.

A journeyman plumber, for example, requires five years of

Follow Tip List

Always Practice Indoor Ladder Safety

Start the year off right by giving your home a thorough inspection for areas which need either repainting or minor touch-ups! You may find many such areas on ceilings or point of safety and long-term upper moldings, since these frequently go unnoticed — until they actually become unsightly! The ladder, greater safety is provided before attempting to repair or replace when the ladder is propped up high surfaces, keep in bear full weight against the side rails. The following tips on indoor ladder safety.

No matter what type ladder you're using, make sure it is the best type ladder for the job. First, the best ladder for the job is the one that is most light service around the house. Before each use, check varying in size from 3-foot to 6-foot all your equipment by testing foot. For more extensive main- and inspecting each working part. See that the locks are firmly attached to the rungs before mounting a section ladder. NEVER, NEVER, NEVER. Never use a damaged, bent or broken ladder! It's best not to paint a ladder, since this can cover any potentially dangerous cracks. Instead, use linseed oil or a coat or two of clear varnish to preserve the wood of a new ladder. Treat any metal areas with oil to prevent rust. And if you're using a metal ladder, always check for sharp, rough edges or burrs.

Steady footing on a ladder is of utmost importance—it must be firm and even for safety! Therefore, the surface must be flat and stable for each vertical leg of the ladder, and the top of a straight ladder must rest against a flat, firm surface. Set a straight ladder one-fourth as far out as the height to its support. Never use a step ladder in a locked down position. Never stand on the top, rail shelf or back section! You could lose your balance if you climb higher than the second step from the top of a step ladder—the platform is only a shelf for tools or pails.

Climb on the middle of each step or rung to assure proper weight distribution—and never allow more than one person at a time on a ladder!

Properly used and cared for, your ladder can be an indispensable helpmate for household projects—but it's not a place to seek shortcuts and sacrifice safety!

The few moments it takes to descend and move your ladder are well taken to avoid dropping your instruments or to risk a catastrophic topple! And don't be tempted to move a ladder laden with tools or buckets—the results of haste will only produce hours of clean-up!

FULLY OPEN
A step ladder should always be fully opened with the spreader or folding metal braces in a locked down position. Never stand on the top, rail shelf or back section! You could lose

Hidden Gold

'Handyman's Special'

Men even lightly talented with a hammer and screwdriver can find hidden gold in a "handyman's special."

For the uninitiated, a "handyman's special," is a house with sound structure, plumbing and heating systems, but with floors, ceilings or walls in such bad shape as to cut the asking price sharply. The substantial money saved on labor can be used for other improvements.

Suppliers increasingly are developing products keyed to amateur abilities to make modern, attractive restorations. "The homeowner's demand for easily installed ceiling materials, wall paneling and floor coverings and, therefore, labor-saving economy, is keeping pace with the inflationary trend," said James E. Hazeltine, Jr., associate director of research of the Armstrong Cork Company.

Americans Still Want More Space

The American frontier may no longer exist, but Americans are still hankering for space.

A University of Michigan survey has found that an overwhelming majority of the families interviewed preferred single family homes, with emphasis on the amount of space inside.

One area that received special mention was a desire for space for spare-time activities — workshop, sewing, hobbies.

At first glance, many homes seem to lack extra space to pursue special interests, but under-utilized areas can often be easily transformed and used for a number of activities.

LAUNDRY ROOM

The laundry or furnace room is most often overlooked for additional uses. By removing some accumulated storage, a workbench or sewing table can often fit in along one wall. A vinyl asbestos tile floor adds color to this area and makes cleanup from projects quick and simple.

A breezeway between house and garage can be closed in with glass panels and work areas installed along the two solid walls as another area for expansion in many homes. Here also a vinyl asbestos tile floor provides an inexpensive and wear-resistant floor surface.

In warm climates, many families have found that the garage makes an ideal space for overflow family activities.

TILE CEILING
"Just about anyone can install a modern acoustical ceiling or put up handsome wall paneling with adhesive, small nails or molding; and now it's even possible to install quality sheet vinyl flooring on a do-it-yourself basis."

In a sturdy but rundown old house, a new kitchen floor is usually inevitable and probably the need is urgent because it's where the homeowner does most of her daily work.

A good vinyl floor in the part of the basement away from the heating plant adds instant living space — and cash resale value. The new "floor-it-yourself" development, Hazeltine said, is a 12-foot-wide cushioned vinyl sheet material that can be "loose-laid" with no adhesive, wall to wall, using quarterround molding or cove base around the perimeter.

The flooring is usually flexible and trims easily with a linoleum knife or heavy shears. It can be put down over old floor covering or any other surface, including concrete in a basement, for which some types of traditional floorings are unsuitable.

Beam Ceiling Made by Floor Joists

Are you daring enough to try this?

To get a beamed dining room ceiling, one young couple knocked off the plaster to expose the floor joists and a subflooring supporting a bedroom upstairs.

Then they stained the exposed lumber. Result? Great!

Spacious Kitchen in Dutch Colonial

Anyone who has ever visited The Netherlands knows that the houses there combine a quaintness and charm with a kind of neat and orderly look, as though every detail had been planned with considerable thought.

One is likely to get the same impression from the latest House of the Week, a delightful Dutch Colonial of modest proportions that seems larger than it actually is.

Much of the reason for its spacious appearance is the characteristic gambrel roof, introduced to America hundreds of years ago by Dutch colonists. The front entrance, set deep under the porch roof, enters into a foyer with a large guest closet.

Straight ahead from the foyer — at the back half of the house — is what the family is likely to consider the main interior feature: a sizable farm-type kitchen.

It has a large Dutch-styled breakfast nook, splayed counter corner with the cooking unit set

Wood paneling is on the walls around the breakfast nook.

There is an entrance from the kitchen to a porch at the left rear of the house. Adjacent to the kitchen is the dining room, which also has an entrance to the porch.

A huge bay window increases the size of the dining room as well as enhancing its appearance.

LIVING ROOM

The living room is accessible from the front foyer and the dining room. It is 20' long, rather large for this modest-size home.

The front wall is decorated with an internal-chimney fireplace, flanked by windows and two window seats.

Architect Rudolph A. Matern has also placed the master bedroom on the first floor.

It has two closets, a corner window seat and a private bathroom with shower. A separate lavatory is located in the rear hall and easily accessible to the kitchen, the one-car garage and the rest of the downstairs area.

GARAGE

The garage has its interior entrance in the foyer, contains two large closets and a neat, latticed compartment for refuse containers.

A central bath services the two bedrooms on the second floor.

A deep dormer gives the

Z-84 STATISTICS

Design Z-84, a 1½-story house, has a living room, dining room, family kitchen, bedroom, bath, lavatory and foyer on the first floor, with a total of 1280 square feet of living space. Also on the first floor are a one-car garage, a porch off the dining room and kitchen and a covered porch at the entry. There are two bedrooms and a bathroom on the second floor, totaling 489 square feet. A large storage area upstairs could be utilized as a play area if desired. Over-all dimensions of this house are 33'7" by 24'7", which include the garage and the two porches.

HOUSE HUNTING?

All homes, regardless of age or price, have defects. Even minor defects can cause serious damage if neglected or overlooked. For many reasons very few homes get all the maintenance and periodic modernization they require. If you underestimate the amount of needed repairs and improvements, it can cost you hundreds, even thousands of dollars.

Our inspection takes about 3 to 4 hours and covers a checklist of hundreds of items. You get a 15 to 17 page detailed report of our findings. The fee is modest ($50.00 for homes priced up to $20,000). Service is expert, prompt and courteous.

Don't Eradicate, Alienate

Fighting Two-Legged Pest Invasion?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When lush greenness carpets the countryside, can uninvited guests be far away?

Absolutely not. If you don't hear, don't give up. They may be tied up in a traffic jam.

Fifteen unexpected guest calls from a nearby filling station booth are about par for the average country dweller. Some seashore people aren't that lucky — they may be approached via boat, sand or land without any warning at all.

One way to shorten visits of unexpected guests is "work," agree housewives mulling over the situation.

BUSINESS FRIENDS TOO

And that goes for their husbands' new secretaries and business friends.

"Most urban people go to the country to get away from the hot city rather than to soak up the joys of outdoor living," says one housewife, clearing her conscience.

"They have visions of a cool, tree-shaded living room to seek refuge in between dips."

"When such lounge lizards announce a prospective visit, say with a great sigh of yearning, 'Oh, marvelous, our swimming pool needs draining and cleaning and we sure can use an extra hand with the lawn mower.'"

WORKS

It works every time, she says. They go elsewhere.

Then there are the "eaters." Their vision of bacolic scenes is beef on the spit rather than steer on the hoof. They also dream of chicken and dumplings and garden-to-oven deep-dish rhubarb pie.

"You'll be just in time to spray our garden," will work wonders, says one who has tried it. If there is anything an "eater" fears, it is spray. He also fears a family "on a diet."

Night lifers will be discouraged learning that "we rise at 6 and hope it won't be too noisy for you" and "we are in bed at 9 and hope it will not be too dull."

HOW ABOUT THAT

Fastidious types can be run off by learning that your animals use the swimming pool. And practically any urbanite will shiver at the mention of a "big wasp or mosquito year."

Insects are very helpful in this respect. If you haven't seen one for days, they will oblige you by showing up when your guest appears.

Some vacation house owners get into the uninvited guest rut by falling for their own propaganda — "I'm so glad they called. The place looks so beautiful right now. Someone should enjoy it."

The chances are a guest will find it too sunny, too foggy, too delegates certain chores to visitors.

"Some take the hint. Some think it is a joke. This is the greatest guide you can have for a guest list in the future. You invite those who fit into the family and do their share of work," she says.

Of course there are guests who do not give you the feeling that you have turned your vacation house into a guest house.

CHORES FOR ALL

Each member of the family is listed with a chore for each day of the week.

Spend Now to Save in the Future

The American homeowner is getting ready to give the economy a 20 billion dollar shot in the arm.

Tah! the estimated amount he will spend next year for modernization.

Storage as it may seem, this money is being spent to save money.

Many families undertake modernization because they have decided to stay where they are rather than move to a larger or newer home. They are applying the additional money they would have spent for a new home into making their older home more livable.

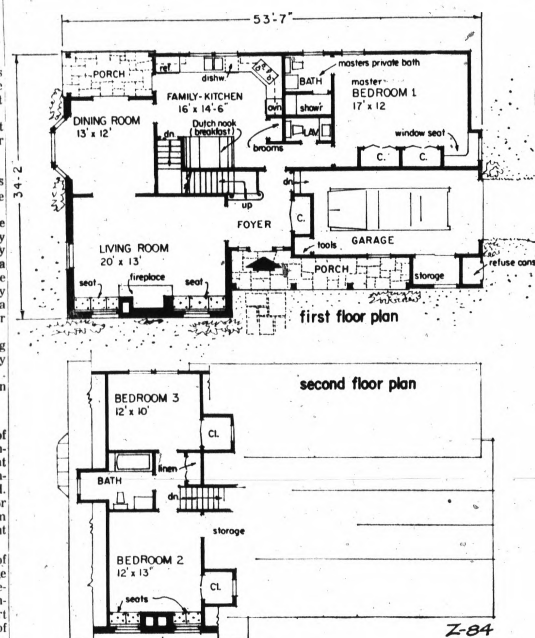

Other families are looking ahead to the day when they have to sell their house. Modernization for them is seen as adding dollars to its value.

FUTURE INVESTMENTS

A third and growing group of families are those who are investing in newer materials that will cut upkeep costs considerably in the years ahead. This is one of the reasons for the rapid growth of aluminum siding as a home improvement product.

Aluminum siding's promise of saving money that would have been spent on exterior repainting every few years is inducing the homeowners to part with a substantial number of dollars now.

The prospect of keeping a home's exterior clean and new-looking with nothing more than an occasional spraying with the garden hose is proving extremely attractive.

FLOOR PLANS—Utilizing space under gambrel roof for two bedrooms and large storage or play area permits downstairs rooms to be more spacious than usual in a house of modest dimensions, especially so when the master bedroom is on the first floor.

Dropped Ceiling Has Cozy Effect

A dropped ceiling over the library or music end of a large living room subtly separates it from the main seating area, makes it cozier.

Nail furring strips over the ceiling surface, then apply tongue-and-groove western hemlock boards.

Actual lowering will be two inches.

Use cove molding to blend wood and painted ceiling areas.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

There is no particularly scientific way to bid the North-South cards and there is no really outstanding contract. However, the chances are that almost any round would lead to the final contract of six hearts.

So you get there and West opens the eight of clubs. You look over dummy and count 11 sure tricks.

One way to get 12 is to finesse dummy's queen of clubs right away. Against some players that might be the winner. We know players who like to make declarer decide at trick one.

That type would lead from the king of clubs to force an immediate decision. On the other hand the eight does look like a short suit lead and you would do well to rise with dummy's ace of clubs.

You do this and are in dummy for the first and last time. You can try the trump finesse. If it works you can lay down the ace next and hope to drop the king. Failing that you give a defense a trump trick, get back on lead and run all your red cards. Maybe the man with the king of spades will unguard it.

You only miss five trumps. Therefore when you lay down your ace you have better than a five per cent chance of picking up the king.

Woman Lifts Tractor to Save Husband

By MILDRED SHELL
Housewife, Marble Hills, Mo.

On that sunny August after-noon several years ago there was no indication that anything could mar the beauty and peace of the day. It was a Friday, and I could hear the hum of my husband's tractor as he moved the grass in the field next to our back yard.

MRS. SHELL

Our house stands on a hill above the highway about a mile from the little town of Marble Hill, Mo. Mr. Stephens, a farmer, is our nearest neighbor and he lives a quarter of a mile down the road.

I don't know what it was that caused me to turn suddenly and look at my husband on the tractor.

As I did so, I watched in horror and disbelief as the tractor hit something hard in the grass, then turned over, pinning my husband beneath.

In a panic I began running toward the tractor knowing that I had to get Howard out from under before it burst into flames.

Jack, our 10-year-old son, was already by his father's side. Together we pulled and pried, but all our efforts only seemed to hurt Howard, who was lying on his back with the steering wheel pressing against his chest. One of his legs was caught under the back end of the heavy machine.

Our cries for help rang out across the empty field. We could hear the cars go by on the highway, but they couldn't possibly hear us.

Howard was struggling to breathe — if the weight of the tractor weren't lifted off his chest, he might die! Frantically we searched for something to prop up the tractor. There was nothing.

SILENT PRAYER

"Oh God," I thought in despair, "send someone . . . anyone!"

I didn't stop to think how hopelessly ridiculous it would be for a woman alone to try to lift a tractor. I only knew that Howard would die if it weren't done.

With one shoulder leaning against the radiator, I took hold and lifted with all my might . . . and the tractor moved.

I was holding it up, thank God! Howard was breathing easier. He was saved, at least for the moment.

"You try and pull Daddy out," I said to Jack. "I'll hold the tractor."

COULDN'T MOVE

Jack was pulling as hard as he could, but Howard wasn't moving.

"I can't," Howard was straining to breathe and talk at the same time. "A rock . . . under my back . . . I'm hurt." His leg was still pinned under the tractor. It was obvious we couldn't get him out without help.

TIME SUSPENDED

Then, for a while, it was as if time had been suspended. I didn't seem to be aware of the weight of the tractor and I hopelessly ridiculous it would be for a woman alone to try to lift a tractor. I only knew that Howard would die if it weren't done.

agreed that death was no something to fear. We had sur-My left arm was helpless until rendered our lives to God many the burnt muscles slowly years before. Miraculously, we healed. For months we were felt, He had brought Howard quite a pair, both semi-invalids back after a head wound nearly with a house and two children killed him on Saipan during to care for.

And now, once again, that August Friday, we marvel Howard was in God's hands, at the way things worked out. With a sudden calmness I knew We still have that tractor, and I that if Howard were to live, have since tried lifting the front God would use me to hold up end. I can't budge it.

Finally I saw them, running toward us — Jack and Mr. Stephens and his son, Jerry, and Henry Thiele, another neighbor. Together they lifted the tractor. The doctor arrived, and then the ambulance.

FLESH IN SHREDS

Then Mr. Stephens took my right arm firmly and said, "Now I'll take you to the doctor."

"Me, what in the world for?" I could feel no pain anywhere.

But then I looked and saw that the skin and flesh of my left arm and shoulder was hanging in shreds.

I could hardly believe what I saw. At the clinic the doctor explained that the heat from the radiator had actually cooked the flesh on my arm and shoulder to the bone.

In a few days Howard came home in a wheelchair to nurse a

State Flower of Kansas Just Weed to Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The wild sunflower, Kansas' state flower, would be a target of Iowa's county weed commissions under a bill approved 92-18 in the Iowa House Friday.

Rep. William Gannon, D-Mingo, said the bill, which places the wild sunflower on the Iowa list of secondary noxious weeds, might bring reprisals from Kansas.

"They might even name our state rock as a secondary noxious rock," said Gannon.

Lawmakers consented to the measure after being told the sunflower was an economic threat to Iowa crops, particularly soybeans, because they rob the soil of moisture.

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, also designates wild marijuana as a secondary noxious weed.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Some 65 Sault Ste. Marie mothers are bent on proving the adage that mother love knows no bounds — by playing a hockey game.

The match is scheduled for March 26 and the participants will be members of the Mothers' Hockey Club.

It is part of the club's campaign to raise enough money to finance a second artificial ice rink for Sault Ste. Marie.

The first person to receive the Distinguished Plying Cross was Charles A. Lindberg in 1927.

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — bill to abolish the death penalty failed to clear the Assembly Judiciary Committee Friday. The committee vote was 5-3.

Safeguarding Teens Against Narcotics—6

One Fact About Marijuana: It's Illegal

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the sixth in a series by a prize-winning science writer who provides parents with background on the narcotics and drug situation and suggests ways for them to help guard their children against its ill effects.)

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

One indisputable fact every teenager should know about marijuana is that it's against the law.

Under federal statutes, mere possession of the drug for personal use is a felony. Conviction can mean two to 10 years in prison, loss of civil rights and a criminal record.

that will do you for the rest of your life.

Some state laws are even more severe.

Recently, federal law was changed imposing stiff penalties for simply having LSD on your person, or for possessing peyote, barbiturates or tranquilizers unless they have personally been prescribed for you. Laws governing illegal manufacture, sale and distribution of various mind-influencing drugs also were made more severe.

PICK UP PIECES

"I've had to pick up the pieces of boys and girls in trouble from using drugs," says a psychiatrist at a well-known university, "and it isn't pleasant."

How many youths are getting into health trouble through mind-drug use isn't known.

Abuse of alcohol, which affects the brain, has resulted in six million alcoholics.

Young people are more easily harmed than their elders by hallucinogenic and other drugs, partly because they have a yet-uncrystallized system of personality," a psychiatrist says.

"The kids who shouldn't use drugs are the ones most likely to do so and to become hurt," says Dr. Martin D. Kleber, Yale psychiatrist.

"It's possible you can use some drug and be one of the seven or eight out of 10 who won't get hurt. But do you know whether you won't be the odd man out? With LSD, you don't know but what one trip might cause damage," he adds.

While most people who smoke pot occasionally do so with no apparent harm, physicians have reported some instances of bad reactions, such as "having the horrors" for several hours afterward.

Reactions also vary because the reeferers available to most youngsters vary in potency — some are simply nothing but weed; others may be laced with a stronger drug.

Pot is insidious because it creates a false sense of well-being due to impairment of critical judgment, says Dr. Abraham Wikler, University of Kentucky psychiatrist. Marijuana and LSD make it possible to avoid problems, to evade reality, he says, but "real life requires critical judgment."

"We don't know the answers to questions about the long-term use of marijuana," says Dr. John C. Ball, sociologist formerly with the U.S. Public Health Service's Addiction

Research Center in Lexington, Ky., and now at Temple University. "We don't have good information on college students who use it daily for four years or so."

In some countries abroad, like North Africa where more powerful hashish is available, there are "skid rows" of habitués using the drug regularly. They are vagabonds, withdrawn from society, some of them mentally disturbed. Whether the drug actually caused this is argued by medical people.

The health casualty rate from LSD is far higher and more apparent than from marijuana. Bad trips or freak-outs have sent a small parade of youths to hospitals with panic reactions, or with psychotic episodes that last days, weeks or months.

130 IN 18 MONTHS

At New York City's Bellevue Hospital, more than 130 patients were treated for LSD-induced psychoses in an 18-month period, says Dr. Donald B. Lauria, president of the New York State Council on Drug Addiction. Even after treatment one-sixth of them were not sent home, but on to other institutions for more prolonged treatment.

Similar figures are reported by medical groups in other areas of the country.

Curiously, some LSD users have "flashbacks" — they relive a former LSD trip, good or bad, weeks or many months later. When this happens, some wonder if they are losing their minds. This may imply that LSD can set off some chronic process in the human brain.

LSD has driven a few persons to intentional suicide. Fantasies of inspired with LSD have led others to death by jumping out of windows or walking on highways in the belief they could fly or had become invisible.

"The trouble with LSD is that once they've taken it, people are not objective anymore — they don't see themselves accurately anymore," says one drug authority.

"It is inadvisable for an individual who takes even one dose of LSD to make a major decision about himself for at least three months," says the director of one university's health services.

Even he can't run up much of a bill at Bonanza.

The market's activity was similar to that of the previous week, except that most of the was its highest since the 1920s and the most in New York Telephone's 73-year operating history.

Initial demand was slow, although an army of individual investors descended on brokers with small orders of up to 14 bonds. Interest by large institutional investors was termed "disappointing" by dealers selling $550,000 or more.

As a whole, new record lows were established on the bond market during the week, according to Salomon Brothers & Hutzler.

There was a steady price decline in intermediate 5-7 year bonds and over-20-year long-term government bonds throughout the week.

Prices of short-term issues of 1 to 5 years, however, advanced during most sessions. Short-term rates were mixed. Treasury bill rates declined for the second consecutive week, but finance paper rates advanced.

Yield spreads of short-term obligations over high rates are now less than they have been since last October and are a little above the average level existing for the past 12 months.

Federal funds remained very tight; in contrast to Euro-dollar rates running steady to a little higher.

Investors showed little initial interest in the record new-issue corporate-bond yields that were substantially above last week's levels.

Several unused new corporate issues were released from syndicate restrictions and sold down by over two points.

Price declines were noted in seasoned and actively traded recent corporates. Next week's corporate calendar will be moderately heavy—$235 million.

Municipal bond prices continued to decline to new lows. The shorter-term 1 to 5 year municipal notes now yield 10 to 20 basis points above their January highs, and the longer term 20 to 30 issues are 35 to 40 basis points above their earlier 1969 high yields.

Significantly higher rates forced the postponement of several municipal issues and the reduction in size of one large revenue offering.

The schedule of new municipals for next week will be light—about $100 million.

was, except their most or two various market. A key parameter closed and a guarantee. The hamsters this week were down.

The closely watched Dow Jones industrial average of blue chip stocks closed the past week at 904.28, a loss of 6.90 point from the previous week's 911.13.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 3.4 point for the week at 330.7. The week before it closed at 334.1. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off .65 at 88.00, and the New York Stock Exchange index some 1,200 common stocks dipped 4.0 to 54.93.

Turnover for the week was 46,206,250 shares, compared with 46,206,250 shares, compared with 46,206,250 shares, compared with 46,206,250 shares. The figure was the lightest since the 45,552,000 million shares turned over in the four-day week ended Feb. 20. The market was closed the last day of the week for Washington's Shrove Tuesday. The Dow closed on New York Stock Exchange, 9 declined, 617 advanced, and 11 were unchanged. New highs for 1968-69 totaled 17 and new lows 177.

The market's early upbeat apparently stemmed from a feeling of relief on the part of investors that several things, such as devaluation of the French franc, had not happened. But afterwards for reflection, brokers said, Wall Street apparently realized it "still had plenty of work to do."

Mild situation and the possibility that money might be tightened.

The week began with the market shaking off the beating it had taken late in the previous week and showing forward. The Dow closed at 904.28, a rise in the Dow to blue-chip and conservative stocks combined to a level "where the institutions are beginning to nibble."

The rally continued the next day, with the Dow moving steadily upward from the start to a high of 908.00, a gain of 3.72 points. But it was all downhill after that, and the Dow was also off 3.79 points at the close. Continued selective buying by the institutions was credited for the early advance, the late ebbing was attributed to profit taking and to a slowing in buying by the institutions.

New Border Battles by Soviets, Chinese

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today announced two more clashes with Chinese Communist troops in the past 24 hours in which more Soviet soldiers were killed and wounded. No exact casualty figures were disclosed.

The announcement by the official news agency Tass said Chinese troops yesterday and today invaded Damansky Island in the Ussuri River, site of the March 2 battle which triggered angry outbursts from both major Communist powers. It charged the Chinese used artillery and mortar fire in the attack.

City Man Held in Killing of Kin

An elderly Pontiac man is being held in the Oakland County Jail today for investigation of murder in the shooting of his 20-year-old grandson last night.

Pontiac police said they will seek a first-degree murder warrant against T. P. DeWalt, 68, of 360 South Blvd., in the slaying of Arthur Simmons, of the same address.

DeWalt told police that he was angry at Simmons because the youth was planning to quit his job.

Simmons was alive when police arrived at the home shortly after the 10:15 p.m. shooting, but died before he got to the hospital.

FIND LOADED PISTOL

At Pontiac General Hospital, while authorities were going through Simmons' pockets for identification, they found a loaded .25-caliber automatic pistol in his hip pocket. The weapon was turned over to police.

A .38-caliber revolver believed to be the weapon used by DeWalt was recovered near his home.

DeWalt's wife, Lela, 61, said that she did not witness the shooting but heard three shots fired while she was in the kitchen. She told police that her husband had been drinking heavily and had been showing off his revolver to people in the house.

Plunkett Asks Staff, Pay Hikes

Oakland County needs twice as many prosecutors, and more pay for them, Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett said yesterday at a budget hearing.

Plunkett appeared before the board of supervisors personnel practices committee hearing on budgets yesterday with requests which, if granted, could double the current prosecutor's budget to $1 million.

He said the requests were "based on what I think is a necessary new approach to law enforcement at a time when crime is perhaps the most serious domestic problem in our society."

Plunkett quoted comparative figures for staff and salary in Genesee and Macomb Counties. He pointed out that, with its present population, Oakland County lags both in money offered and numbers hired.

President Confident of Victory on ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is confident that after a torrent of debate he will win approval from the Democratic Congress of a Sentinel missile system protecting the nation's deterrent punch rather than its cities.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who has been critical of the program, said comments of opponents in that chamber should stop this," said Wisconsin Democrat William Proxmire.

"The industrial-military establishment won at the White House," said Democrat Albert Gore of Tennessee.

testifies on defense appropriations and Friday when he appears before the Senate disarmament subcommittee.

Critics of the system have said it would be provocative, expensive and inefficient and would hold a threat of accidental detonation of its own nuclear warheads.

Several sites in the Pontiac area had been under consideration for an anti-ballistic missile base. It is not clear how the President's decision will affect this.

Nixon's program involves initially 12 sites, placed to guard this country's missile and bomber punch with the population directly protected only at Washington.

Administration spokesmen said only that original sites would be reconsidered. It was not known when work on the two new sites would start but Nixon said completion of the two will come by 1973.

Related Story, Page A-2

Nixon now has the Senate votes to proceed with the $6-billion to $7-billion system.

But, the Montana Democrat said, the picture could change before what shapes up as Nixon's first major confrontation with Congress — a vote likely to come in about two months on appropriations for the first phase. This will involve construction on two sites and procurement of 10 more.

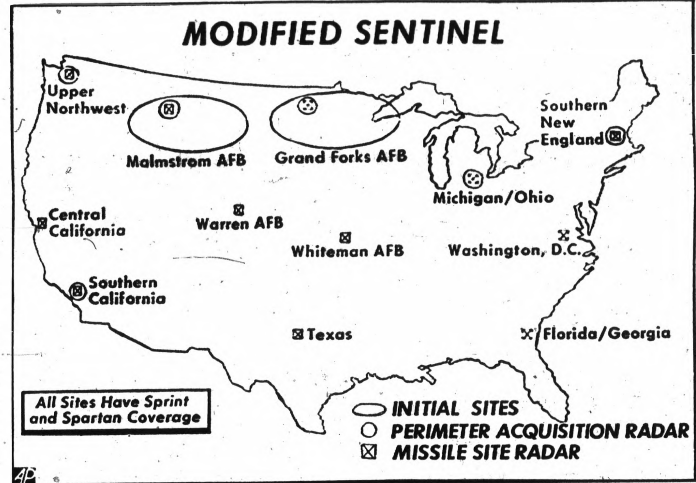

Administration sources indicated the Senate would be the target of an all-out campaign of presidential persuasion. The

"The President's decision is his first serious mistake," said Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Nixon climaxed an intensive review of the Sentinel program, suspended amid rising criticism several weeks ago, by announcing his plans to go ahead with a "modified" version at a nationally broadcast news conference yesterday.

COULD BE DAMAGING

First skirmishes in the battle, which could open serious and lasting wounds even if the President eventually wins, likely will come Wednesday when Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird

Nixon Sketches One-Warning Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has sketched a one-warning-only Vietnam policy that one Democratic leader says puts him in the position of "walking a tightrope" and could lead to the dilemma that plagued Lyndon Johnson.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield made the comment after Nixon's fourth television news conference yesterday, at which the President said the current enemy offensive ruled out American troop withdrawals in the foreseeable future.

The President said he had warned the North Vietnamese and Vietcong on March 4 and would not repeat it.

He said he had discussed retaliation with Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and planned to go over it again today at a meeting of the National Security Council.

'MY POLICY'

"It will be my policy as President to issue a warning only once and I will not repeat it now," Nixon said.

"If we conclude that the level of casualties is higher than we Mansfield said Nixon's new statements could be moving him should tolerate, action will take place," he added, lying American casualties to possible retaliation as he did March 4, toward the dilemma that posed tremendous problems for former President Johnson, who was caught between the hawks and doves in Congress.

The majority leader said Nixon's problem was to maintain a military effort strong enough to protect U.S. forces but not so great it would jeopardize the Paris talks.

'GREATER RESPONSIBILITY'

Vietnam comments came a day after Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he thinks the United States shares "the greater responsibility" for not de-escalating the ground war after Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam last fall.

Meanwhile, in the fighting, enemy mortars and rockets hit more than 70 allied bases and towns last night and early today and U.S. and South Vietnamese troops drove off two sharp ground attacks northwest of Saigon.

Residents Tell Wood-Be Cutters: Leave Trees

BAY CITY (AP) — Resident of Old Kawkawlin Road in Bangor and Kawkawlin townships just north of Bay City staged a "tree-in" yesterday protesting the Bay County Road Commission's attempt to cut down trees which the residents say protect them from speeding automobiles which stray off the two-lane road.

About 50 members of the Committee to Save Our Trees, up in arms over tree-cutting operations planned along a two-mile stretch of the road, held off county crews yesterday by threatening to drench them with water hoses. State police were called for the second time this week.

James Schumann of Old Kawkawlin Road started to climb a tree when county tree cutters attempted to cut down three huge oaks on his property. Schumann came down after the road commission agreed to take only a dead oak from the property until a March 19 meeting between residents and the county.

Wednesday Schumann used an unloaded shotgun to order officials off his property.

He said, "We don't care if they take the dead one, because it was killed when a car hit it last year. Those two alive trees are the only protection we've got, and we're not going to let them take them."

Schumann's house has been hit twice in recent years by cars. Other cars killed two trees on his property, he said.

Schumann's neighbors are backing him up.

William Rank, Bay County Road Commission manager, says the approximately 100 trees, mostly oak and maple, are within the county's 66-foot right-of-way and present a traffic hazard. In addition, he says, without unobstructed right-of-way the county will not qualify for state or federal aid should it decide to improve the road.

BLAME 'LAX ENFORCEMENT'

Neighborhood spokesman blame lax county and state law enforcement along the road, posted for a maximum 40 m.p.h., for an "amazing" number of traffic accidents.

Thursday the Save Our Trees committee began a petition aimed at persuading the county to give up its plan. The group is also considering a lawsuit against Bay County.

One committee member said, "I don't know how we'd make out in a court, but it is just a shame to let healthy trees over 100 years old be indiscriminately cut down."

Apollo 9 Crew Begins Debriefing Today

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Chipper, smiling and delighted to be home, the Apollo 9 astronauts begin today the long, tedious hours of debriefing the flight that took America to the threshold of a moon voyage.

"I tell you, there's no place at all like home," Apollo 9 commander James A. McDivitt told a cheering airstrip audience upon return to Houston. Spacemates David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart agreed.

Their 10-day space odyssey behind them, the three crew members flew to a Texas reunion with their families yesterday, but 15 hours later they were due back on the job.

They face 10 days of quizzing by space experts trained to wring from them every detail of their risky flight, a "missing link" mission that proved the flightworthiness of the lunar module (LEM).

NEWS CONFERENCE PLANNED

The spidery moon ship, last piece of untested Apollo hardware, is designed to ferry two astronauts to the moon's surface sometime this summer.

Once the intensive debriefing is ended, the astronauts will hold a news conference. Two days later, accompanied by their wives, they fly to Washington to attend a White House dinner.

After Thursday's Atlantic splash down, the Apollo crew spent 23 hours aboard the recovery ship Guadaluarte, then started the long air shuttle back home.

They flew into nearby Ellington Air Base at 6:03 p.m. (EST) yesterday and received a rousing welcome from their families, friends, fans and fellow astronauts.

RUSH TO FATHERS

As the trio stepped from the NASA Gulfstream turboprop, their children broke from their mothers' sides and rushed screaming to the outstretched arms of their smiling fathers.

A band played, a chorus sang and 200 well-wishers cheered.

"We've been gone a long time," Air

Force Col. McDivitt said. "It's been, I think, the ninth of February since I left here and said goodbye to my family. It's really great to get back and see them."

As Schweickart, a civilian, moved to the microphone, the crowd roared. "Hello there, Red Rover," using the radio code name he adopted during his space walk last week.

Flashing his boyish grin, Schweickart said: "We had a beautiful mission and I want you all to know that there's just no place as welcome to our eyes, or as beautiful, as right here at home."

Birmingham Area

Program Set at St. Hugo on Parochial

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — "Will Two School Systems Survive" is the subject of a program scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at St. Hugo School.

Facts concerning parochial and the recent bill introduced in the State House of Representatives, which would provide for the purchase of teacher service from nonpublic schools, will be presented.

Following a film presentation, the Rev. J. Harold Ellen of the Christian Reformed Church will lead a question-and-answer period.

BIRMINGHAM — Several Birmingham schoolchildren and area educators will appear on the television program, "A Special Child" on Channel 56 at 8 p.m. Monday.

The program moderated by Mrs. George Murfay, 1416 Wrenwood, Troy, will focus on educating the gifted child.

Participants include John Molley, director of pupil services, Bloomfield Hills public schools; George Roeser, headmaster, Roeser City and County School in Bloomfield Hills; Dr. John Blackhall Smith, superintendent of Birmingham public schools; and Dr. Irving Siegel, director of research for the Merrill-Palmer Institute, Detroit.

Students appearing are Lucy Saunders of Baldwin Elementary School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Saunders, 685 Pierce; and Theodore Lasker, a student at Greenfield Elementary School, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Lasker of Beverly Hills.

The television program was funded by a special grant from the Merrill-Palmer Institute.

The Covington Junior High School has received a second-place award for newspapers in the 45th annual scholastic newspaper-magazine contest conducted by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association at Columbia University in New York.

2 Killed in Attempt to Flee From China

HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist border guards opened fire today on a band of people apparently making a dash for freedom from Red China into this British colony, government sources said.

No one made it across. The sources said two persons died in the burst of gunfire at 4:20 a.m. and two others were wounded.

Colony officials said Hong Kong border guards at outposts along the 22-mile border separating Red China and the new territories of Hong Kong reported hearing about a dozen shots at one point. The Communist border guards were seen dragging away dead and wounded from the shooting.

How many persons were involved in the dash was not known because of the darkness.

1,862 Violent County Deaths

Violent death struck 1,862 times in Oakland County last year, according to figures recently released by the County Health Department.

There were 314 fatalities resulting from car accidents, falls, drowning, fire and gas; 165 suicides; 35 homicides; and 1,408 other deaths of natural causes but without medical attendance. The latter number included 1,063 heart and circulatory failures.

The county found it necessary to perform 515 autopsies during the year.

Officials at 2 Sites Hail ABM Decision

By the Associated Press

Officials of communities near the first two Sentinel missile sites say they welcome them, expecting they will bring economic benefits.

President Nixon, announcing plans to go ahead with a modified antiballistic missile system, said yesterday in Washington that the initial sites will be near Malmstrom Air Force Base in Montana and Grand Forks Air Force Base in North Dakota.

Residents in communities near the two sites are already accustomed to the proximity of missiles—Minuteman missile wings are located at both bases.

and that so far it has been able to keep up with the case load. Yet he called the department "second rate."

That evaluation, he said, was based on the work that the prosecutor's staff never becomes involved in.

"Think what we could do if we had the manpower to follow through on requests for investigation," Plunkett said. He noted a need for an organized crime and fraud unit which the department does not have.

He also pointed out that the establishing of district courts as of last Jan. 1 has increased demands on the prosecutor's staff.

Plunkett said that he was to receive the additional 20 attorneys requested, half of them could be housed in present courthouse facilities and the rest of them should be stationed around the county to provide better service for outlying residents.

The committee, by tradition, took no action on Plunkett's request but will consider it along with other budget matters later this year.

But in Massachusetts, where a once-proposed site was apparently abandoned, opponents expressed pleasure at the move and said they would continue to fight against placement of a system at Reading.

'SENSE OF RELIEF'

"I have a great sense of relief that the administration has seen fit to take these horrendous weapons out of the cities," said Harold Holappa of Lynnfield, Mass., chairman of his town's anti-ABM committee.

In Wallhalla, N.D., about 100 miles northwest of Grand Forks, lawyer Robert McConn said, "With all the warheads in the ground around here now and the H-bombs on the bombers, what difference will some more make?"

Leon Dubourt, president of the only bank in the town of 1,432, said, "By the time you put this number of people with permanent jobs into the town it's bound to be a boost to our economy."

Charles W. Bullard, chairman of the Economics Department at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, said the new construction "will mean a lot to the state economically speaking."

Dissenting views were reported in the university's student newspaper which said two former students were starting what they hoped would be a statewide protest against the proposed deployment.

Navy Says Bucher Will Get Shore Duty

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, the skipper of the USS Pueblo, is going to be reassigned to shore duty soon, but the Navy won't give any specific details.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Navy Personnel made the disclosure of Bucher's immediate future yesterday, one day after the conclusion of a court of inquiry into the capture of the intelligence vessel by North Korea.

There also were indications that the other 81 Pueblo survivors were going to have new orders soon, although the Navy wouldn't say.

TUG-OF-WAR—Firemen and students engage in a tug-of-war with a fire hose late yesterday at the Newark, N.J., campus of Rutgers University as the Black Organization of Students renewed protests of conditions at the institution. The firemen were called to extinguish fires set on campus. The campus was closed yesterday over what the university called "threats of violence" in a dispute over admissions. The Rutgers Board of Governors later announced a new program aimed at admitting more disadvantaged students.

Grievances Being Settled

Peace Near at 3 Colleges

By United Press International

Settlement of student grievances appeared near at three schools which have seen much of the recent campus violence—Berkeley, San Francisco State and North Carolina A&T.

Yesterday the militant Third World Liberation Front and Berkeley teaching assistants suspended a violent seven-week strike which at one time prompted the deployment of more than 1,000 National Guardsmen near the school.

They said the strike was suspended because of progress made toward realization of their major goal, creation of a college of ethnic studies.

The militants emphasized they would now wait to see how fast the project goes forward. "Under no circumstances should it be assumed that our strike has ended," a spokesman said.

Berkeley Chancellor Roger W. Heyns said police would remain on the campus for as long as "techniques of violence and vandalism continue."

North Carolina A&T University at Greensboro, N.C., yesterday settled its three-day-old cafeteria workers' strike—the cause of a student rally late Thursday which culminated in gunfire between police and alleged snipers.

Details of the settlement were not released, but a university spokesman late yesterday said full cafeteria service "is expected to be restored by Saturday morning."

At San Francisco State, scene of sometimes violent disputes between students and administration since November, acting President S. I. Hayakawa met privately with student leaders for more than an hour, indicating some agreement was near.

Other campus indications were not so bright, as generally nonviolent protests forced cancellation of classes at two Chicago colleges and Rutgers University's Newark, N.J., campus.

At Chicago State college, about 125 protesters occupied the cafeteria to block demands the school build a black culture center on the campus.

At the southeast campus of Chicago City College, protesters forced cancellation of classes for the fourth time since last Friday. They demanded establishment of a degree-granting black studies program and open hearings on charges of racism in the school's nursing department.

Rutgers University President Mason W. Gross ordered suspension of classes on the Newark campus because of what he called "serious threats of violence from Negro students."

Supervisors Eye Activating of Human Relations Unit

People of Oakland County may get the director of county officials on human relations matters, providing a now-defunct committee can be reactivated.

The human resources committee of the board of supervisors yesterday voted to ask Corporation Counsel Robert Allen for a status report on the old human relations committee.

Composed of two men from each of the political parties and two supervisors, the committee once held evening meetings to hear grievances from individuals and groups regarding county practices in the human relations field.

Members of the human resources committee briefly reviewed the Civil Rights Commission report on Pontiac and Oakland County and moved to invite Ora Hinckley, director of Oakland County Social Services, to make a detailed report at its next meeting, March 28.

MEETING ON SCHOOL

The report's section on hiring practices will be referred to the personnel practices committee of the board for study. Early next month the group will meet with Dr. William Emerson, superintendent of the Oakland County Intermediate Schools, concerning the building of a school for court wards housed at Children's Village.

"We've been waiting for this school for three years," noted Committee Chairman Robert Patnales. He indicated that Emerson had promised to provide the facility.

Patnales noted there might be some difficulty in financing construction. He said Corporation Counsel Allen recently reported construction bonds are impossible to sell until legal determination is made regarding county tax levies. A recent attorney general's report cast doubt on the county's past procedures of paying for such bonds.

The committee's responsibility in extending county services, such as branch offices of the clerk and treasurer's department, to the south end of the county was discussed.

William Richards, D-Royal Oak, said the long trip to the County Courthouse imposed inconvenience on outlying residents. He said satellite services could be started in a very small way.

Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, suggested toll-free telephone service to the county for outlying residents. No action was taken.

School Blast Hurts 17

A hand grenade exploded today, wounded 17 students, sources said. The injured pupils of El Hashimiya School were taken to Alshita Hospital.

Israeli Is Wary of 'Big 4' Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Restating his doubts about the value of "big four" talks on the Middle East crisis, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban moved to the United Nations today after winding up three days of talks with President Nixon and other U.S. officials.

Eban, who is in the U.S. on a speaking tour, was scheduled to meet today with U.N. Secretary General U Thant in New York.

The Israeli foreign minister, during a speech yesterday at the National Press Club in Washington, said Israel would make "full use of the mission of U.N. peace envoy Gumpar V. Jarring" which has now resumed its activity.

But he added that the mission "would lose its purpose if it were to be obscured by a praisal of initiatives outside the region, at United Nations headquarters or anywhere else."

Eban said the problem of four-power guarantees of a peace settlement "is full of complexities, some of them dangerous."

One-Warning Viet Policy Told

U.S. spokesmen said the stepped-up shellings were the heaviest since the Vietcong's spring offensive began three weeks ago.

U.S. infantrymen of the 25th Division and South Vietnamese paratroopers backed by artillery and bombers fought off enemy forces that tried to overrun bases 37 and 45 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen said they killed 40 enemy, took four prisoners and captured 28 weapons, including a flamethrower.

ONE YANK WOUNDED

U.S. losses were one man wounded, and first reports said the South Vietnamese suffered one killed and several wounded.

U.S. headquarters also reported an Air Force F100 fighter-bomber was shot down by enemy gunners yesterday in the central highlands, 19 miles southeast of Dak To. It was the 34th warplane shot down and destroyed in combat.

U.S. headquarters also reported the loss of a Marine helicopter just south of the demilitarized zone, where two days of fighting cost Leathernecks 10 killed and 40 wounded. It said the CH46 chopper was evacuating American wounded when it was hit by a rocket-propelled grenade. It flipped over and burned, but only three Americans were wounded.

The loss raised to 2,431 the total number of U.S. helicopters lost in the war.

B2s IN ACTION

U.S. B52 bombers flew eight missions on three days of Saigon today, dropping 1,500 tons of explosives on enemy troop concentrations and base camps. The closest strike to Saigon was 22 miles northwest of the capital.

Vietcong and North Vietnamese gunners hit installations in the north around Hanoi, in the border areas northwest of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta south of the capital. U.S. head-quarters said over-all military casualties and damage were light, without listing figures.

Bridge Tricks From Jacobys

short suit lead and you would do well to rise with dummy's ace of clubs.

You do this and are in dummy for the first and last time. You can try the trump finesse. If it works you can lay down the ace next and hope to drop the king. Failing that you give it defense a trump trick, get back on lead and run all your red cards. Maybe the man with the king of spades will unguard it.

You only miss five trumps. Therefore when you lay down your ace you have better than a five per cent chance of picking up the king.
