Set 3rd U.S. Try at High N-Blast

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States will make a third try at setting the highest and highest atmospheric nuclear shot of the current Pacific series on Wednesday night, the fourth of July, about 10:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Joint Task Force 3 is conducting the tests at Johnston and Christmas Islands. The third try is scheduled between 4 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. Pacific time Tuesday.

Washington reports have indicated the explosion will bring the Pacific series to a close.

The test comes within the two or three months mentioned by the Kennedy administration when it announced the decision to resume nuclear testing. The series, tagged Operation Dominic, began April 25.

Original announced plans called for "three or four" tests at Johnston Island. This was before the two failures.

Unofficial sources indicate that one successful shot could tell scientists what they want to know, making further high-altitude explosions unnecessary.

OVER 1 MEGATON

Officially, the high-altitude test will have the explosive force of more than 1 million tons of TNT, the power scientists call a megaton. Unofficially, it is expected to be from five to 50 times as powerful as the nuclear warhead dropped on Hiroshima.

The explosion is expected to go off at an altitude of about 200 miles.

The first high-shot attempt, June 4, was aborted when the rocket engine failed to ignite.

The second attempt, on June 19, was scrubbed when the rocket engine failed to ignite.

Part of the second try was scrubbed on Johnston Island, slightly injuring two civilian technicians.

The Defense Department has cleared the Thor of fault in the second failure. Package of instruments attached to the outside of the missile upset the air flow as the rocket blasted off, official announcements said.

Air turbulence produced a vacuum which sucked hot air off the engine into the interior of the Thor, overheating it. The overheated portion of the skin collapsed.

Another Thor presumably will be used in the upcoming attempt.

The explosion is expected to be visible in Hawaii, about 750 miles northeast of the test site.

The blast may knock a hole in the ionosphere, a layer of space particles which reflect radio waves, and disrupt communications throughout the Pacific for hours.

Transpacific airliners presumably will fall back on emergency communications at low level during the period of disruption.

The planned shot will be the 27th announced nuclear test in the series. Twenty-four have been staged at Christmas Island. The last, detonated Friday, was of the megaton-plus range and was dropped from a plane.

Nixon Mentions Romney for '64

Michigan Candidate for Governor Listed With Rocky, Goldwater

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Richard M. Nixon yesterday labeled George Romney an outstanding possibility for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

The former vice president told a news conference here he is not a candidate for the nomination himself. He said he hopes to be elected governor of California and to serve a full term.

"But that doesn't mean the Republicans are going to roll over and play dead," Nixon said. "There is plenty of talent for 1964."

He mentioned as outstanding possibilities Romney, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Rockefeller resigned as president of American Motors Corp. this spring to concentrate on his bid for the Michigan governorship.

TO START PUSH

He first entered Michian public affairs with the formation of his committee for Michigan Committee, which was active in campaigning for the constitutional convention. He was elected last summer as a Republican delegate to the convention.

Currently on vacation, Romney will lead his gubernatorial campaign into high gear Wednesday with several Fourth of July appearances.

EXPLOSIVE SITUATION — Capt. Clayton Sconrains of the Waterford Township Fire Department, aided by his son Bob, unloads a shipment of fireworks for the big show Wednesday on Elizabeth Lake. Sconrains has been conducting 4th of July fireworks displays for over 20 years and has a perfect safety record.

Fireworks Pad Set for 4th Blast

Waterford to See Big Firing on Wednesday; Chief 'Launcher' Ready

All eyes will be focused on the fireworks night when the annual Elizabeth Lake Estates Association fireworks display gets underway at dusk.

Chances are, few of the thousands expected to view the Fourth of July spectacular will even know the most important individual in the huge throng, the man responsible for setting off the colorful array of rockets and today bombs.

As in the past five or six years, the responsibility for presenting a good and safe show will fall on the broad shoulders of Capt. Clayton Sconrains of the Waterford Township Fire Department.

Sconrains has been conducting fireworks displays for more than 20 years. He knows all the tricks of the trade such as the proper angle to launch a rocket in relation to wind direction and velocity. Rockets go as high as 800 feet.

He knows that the steel mortar from which the rockets are launched must be meticulously cleaned after each firing. Parties of paper left in the mortar can cause an altitude loss of as much as 100 feet.

There are many things to be considered by the man on the firing line. Sconrains knows them all.

"This year's show should last about 45 minutes," the fire department captain said. "The people on Elizabeth Lake allocated $25 for the purchase of a wide variety of fireworks."

During the 35 years he conducted displays at the Droyler Ball Park, and the years at Elizabeth Lake, Sconrains has never been injured.

"Several years ago," he said, "we had that didn't go off. We poured a lot of water on it and later buried it deep in the ground."

When the sun dips out of view at about 9 p.m. on the 4th, Sconrains will be poised and waiting on the northeast side of the lake.

Electrical Device Co. Back From South

EOURSE (AP)—Tenn-Tronics, Inc., moving back here from Columbia, Tenn., says at least 20 new jobs will be created when full scale operations begin in several months.

The electrical device producing firm is moving back to consolidate with its parent firm, Duo-Met, Inc., and several million dollars in government contracts are coming to Michigan with it.

The firm expects "very substantial savings" in operating costs here because of lower labor charges, and the company's proximity to Michigan's suppliers, small run production shops and supply of semi-skilled labor.

"A small company just cannot move down there and prosper as well as it can in the Detroit area," said Douglas J. Muhlen, 1717 president.

The five-day session will include discussion of such concerns as mental health, use of natural resources, costs of education and the impact of automation on the Public Welfare Act in 1966.

New NACO officers also will be elected for the coming year. Hamlin has been appointed to the nominating committee. He is a member of the NACO board of directors.

He also will serve as chairman of the general session during the second day of the meeting.

Following the NACO meeting, Hamlin and three other board members from here will leave on a 15-day tour of Europe to study local government in the United Kingdom, France and Germany.

They will be traveling at their own expense.

Others going from here are Larson, Horton and O'Donoghue.

2 Women Dead After Crashes

Head-On Collision Kills Wayne Miss; Injuries Fatal to Arab Mother

A Waterford Township woman died today from injuries suffered in an auto accident last Wednesday. A Wayne woman was killed over the weekend in a head-on collision in Southfield.

Dead are Mrs. Fred (Edith) Collette, 43, of 75 N. Winding Drive and Leah M. Sloan, 29, of Wayne.

Police said Miss Sloan was dead on arrival at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, after her car collided Saturday night with one driven by Donald V. Yarnall, 61, of 2300 Thornhill Road, Southfield.

Yarnall told police he apparently fell asleep as he was driving south on Westland Road. His car veered across the center line and struck Miss Sloan's north-bound car, police said.

Police have not yet determined if charges will be brought against Yarnall, who was injured and is reported in fair condition at the Royal Oak hospital.

Miss Collette was the driver of a car which, Waterford Township police said, went through a stop sign and collided with another auto at Main and Airport Road early Wednesday.

Six other persons, including Mrs. Collette's husband and her 16-year-old daughter, were hospitalized.

Nonetheless Mrs. Collette was critically hurt. She died at 4:45 a.m. today in Pontiac General Hospital.

To Represent County at NACO Sessions

At least 15 representatives of Oakland County government are planning to attend a five-day meeting of the National Association of County Officials which opens in New York City Saturday.

The theme of this year's annual NACO meeting, "County Home Rule," is of particular interest to representatives from here.

Nearly 3,000 county officials from throughout the nation are expected to gather in New York to discuss home rule and other county issues ranging from noise in airports.

County Home Rule has been proposed by several officials in Oakland County as a means of streamlining local government.

Proponents say home rule also could coordinate various county departments through an administrator, much as the administration of some cities is handled by a city manager appointed by elected officials.

LEGISLATIVE DECIDES

If the newly-proposed state constitutional amendments adopted at the polls the question of permitting county home rule will be decided by the state legislature.

Then, whether home rule would be adopted here would be decided in a county wide election.

Home rule proponents in Oakland County have said that the rapid growth and resulting problems here require an ability to make decisions faster on the administrative level.

Presently most of these decisions are being made by the 35-member Board of Supervisors.

Many of the problems that arise in county government at present can only be answered by seeking legislative permission. Lt. Governor Charles B. Edwards Jr., Madison Heights; Hugh Dobney, Southfield; Thomas O'Donoghue, Ferndale; Frank J. Voll Sr., Oakland Township; David Webster, Detroit Township; David Calhoun, Huntington Woods, and Fraser Stanan, Novi Township.

PLANNING TO ATTEND

Members of the Road Commission planning to attend are Chairman Hamlin, Thatcher, Sen. D. Conner, vice chairman; Robert O. Felt and Willis M. Brewer, co-chairmen.

The five-day session will include discussion of such concerns as mental health, use of natural resources, costs of education and the impact of automation on the Public Welfare Act in 1966.

New NACO officers also will be elected for the coming year. Hamlin has been appointed to the nominating committee. He is a member of the NACO board of directors.

He also will serve as chairman of the general session during the second day of the meeting.

Following the NACO meeting, Hamlin and three other board members from here will leave on a 15-day tour of Europe to study local government in the United Kingdom, France and Germany.

They will be traveling at their own expense.

Others going from here are Larson, Horton and O'Donoghue.

Swanson Upset Over Court Talk

Michigan AFL-CIO President says he is upset by talk of a lawsuit in which the state would sue the Detroit tax ordinance.

Judge Fitzgerald also said the Detroit tax does not infringe on the legislature's Home Rule Act in 1966.

He quoted from the court finding in a 1943 Philadelphia case, brought by a resident of New Jersey, that said the court in this instance found that Philadelphia's tax did not violate the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment.

Judge Fitzgerald also said the Detroit tax does not infringe on the legislature's Home Rule Act in 1966.

"It must be concluded that in the Home Rule Act," the court said, "the legislature was dealing only with the general tax law. And accordingly the limitations of the Act apply only to ad valorem or property taxation—not excises."

"Any other conclusion would render the grant of power to levy excises nugatory and would defeat the legislative intent."

The court therefore finds that the Home Rule Act was intended to apply solely to ad valorem taxation and is not in conflict with the Detroit city ordinance enacted under the power granted in section 4 (1) of the same act.

On the suburban issue, Judge Fitzgerald said:

"This question has been raised many times in the United States and the great weight of authority is to the effect that there is no legal objection to local tax use."

The Day in Birmingham Opposes Park Dedication for a Specific Purpose

BIRMINGHAM — City Manager L. R. Gary will recommend to the City Commission tonight that he not dedicate any of the city parks for the purpose of public recreation.

Gary cited several reasons for his recommendation, the most important being that it would irreversibly tie up property forever.

In his report, Gary quotes from a legal opinion that states "the use of a park as a playground for the city is a permanent dedication of the property to the public purpose, that use cannot be discontinued by action of the commission, the electorate or the courts."

Gary said, however, that there already is adequate playground facilities in the city charter which would preclude any disposition of city-owned property to the detriment of the parks.

He pointed out that the dedication of Springdale Park, for example, would involve the loss of the present restrictions upon the use of the park.

Currently, the park is restricted to use by residents and their guests because of crowded conditions, but if the park is dedicated it could be used by the general public, he said.

If the parks are dedicated, "it is not out of the realm of reason," Gary said, "that some time in the near future, when the playing field is at its peak, the park becomes overcrowded, we might not be able to restrict the use of the facilities to our own people."

A Detroit article will be presented the 1962 Affinity Award by the Michigan Wing of the Air Force Association at a dinner meeting at the Birmingham Country Club.

Rowland W. Fisel, retired Air Force Colonel, legal expert and author of several books and articles on aviation law, is the recipient of this year's award, according to R. G. Baltimore of 208 Larchdale Ave., Birmingham, commander of the Michigan Wing.

Harvey J. Skelton

A Requiem Mass for Harvey J. Skelton, 61, of 2825 Larchdale Road, Birmingham, will be held 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Hugh of the Hills Catholic Church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Mr. Skelton, the owner of Earl Clemens, Clawson, died following a heart attack Saturday while at work.

Surviving are his wife Edna F.; two daughters, Mrs. Edward L. Aton of Clawson and Susan of Birmingham; a son, Burton of Detroit; two brothers and five grandchildren. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that any material donations be made to the Earl Skelton Fund for the Blind, Rochester.

Arrangements were made by the Gramer Funeral Home, Clawson.

No More Shots at Sports Cars, Man Warned

Brandon Township may be an ideal place for hunting, but Oakland County Sheriff's deputies have warned that the quiet country road never to shoot down another sports car.

Caddill, 545 Lockwood Road, got caught in a shooting Saturday afternoon on the quiet country road in front of his home was suddenly injured by a herd of the little two-wheeled speedsters.

So Caddill got out his 11-gauge shotgun and took a shot in the direction of one of the little cars, he said.

The shot hit the car. It was occupied, Norman S. Miller and Reginald R. Larrie, both of Detroit, suffered only slight cuts.

"I shot at it to get it to stop. I could find out why they were driving down the road," Caddill said.

Miller and Larrie told police they were taking part in a sports car rally and that Lockwood Road was the route of the rally.

The two men said they would not press charges if Caddill would pay for damages to their car. Caddill agreed to pay.

Caddill said he was sorry.

Spy Out of Danger After Suicide Try

The Lithuanian-born doctor was rushed to Birmingham Hospital where he was held by police. He was held in a room at the hospital.

A British Home Office spokesman made clear that Soblen, who was deported Sunday from Israel, would not be allowed to stay in Britain.

"As soon as Dr. Soblen is fit enough to travel, he will have to leave the country," the spokesman said.

Soblen forfeited $100,000 bail and fled from the United States last week after losing an appeal against the life sentence given him for spying for the Soviet Union during World War II.

He was traced by Tel Aviv, Israeli authorities/expelled him from the grounds that he entered the country on false documents — a Canadian passport of his late brother.

Soblen was secretly bundled aboard an Israeli airplane at Lydda Airport Sunday morning for Athens and transferred there to a chartered El Al airliner returning 152 Americans from vacations in Israel.

He was a member of the Village Players and the Stewards and Caterers Association.

Surviving are his wife Alice K.; a daughter, Susan P. of New York City; a son Thomas K.; at home; and one sister.

The family request that any memorial tributes be made to the American Cancer Society.

Japan's Top Party Wins; Group in Favor of U.S.

TOKYO (UPI)—The ruling Liberal-Democratic party, which campaigned for closer ties with the United States, retained control of Japan's upper house today in the country's national elections.

Returns were incomplete and unofficial but Premier Hayato Ikeda's Liberal-Democratic appeared certain to increase their number of seats in the 260-member upper chamber of diet (parliament).

The Liberal-Democrats' major opposition, the leftist Socialist party, also appeared likely to increase its seats.

Latest returns tallied by the government, sponsored Japan Broadcasting Corp. (NHK) indicated the ruling party had all but wrapped up 67 of the 127 seats at stake. The NHK tally gave the Socialists 28.

The Moderate Democratic Socialist party appeared certain of at least one and the Communist party also had one.

Independents appeared certain of at least 10 seats, with seven of these going to members of the Soka Gakkai, a rising religious party.

The 67 seats apparently sewed up the Liberal-Democrats, coupled with the 73 not up for election this time, assured them of continued control of the upper house.

Refined Gen. Minora Genda, former commander of the air defense force and one of the men who helped plan the 1941 attack on Pearl Harbor, made his political debut in the election.

He was successful, winning a seat in the national constituency as a member of the ruling party.

The results showed a disquieting trend for the Democratic Socialist party, formed a few years ago by a group of moderate Socialists who became fed up with the dogged adherence of the Socialist party to the lines laid down by Moscow and Peking.

Both major parties and the Soka Gakkai Buddhist group gained at the expense of the Democratic Socialists.

Although the ruling party retained control of the upper house, it was not likely to achieve the two-thirds majority it sought.

A total of 76 of the 127 seats at stake were decided in local constituencies. The remaining 51 were decided in the national constituency.

It was in the local areas that the ruling party candidates made their best showing, a result of the traditional conservatism of the rural areas.

The Soka Gakkai religious group candidates made their gains in the national constituency.

About 12 per cent of the nation's house of representatives members, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Texas. Top states are Iowa and Illinois.

Algerian Takeover May Be Rough

by PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables.

ALGERIAN TAKEOVER
The Nationalist exile government's takeover in Algeria may be less smooth than originally expected. There already is a serious split between the Nationalist leaders in Tunis, with Mohammed Ben Bella leading a "hard line" revolt against Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and the "moderates."

Now that the independence referendum is out of the way, it also is not certain how things will go inside Algeria itself.

It is not certain just how far the exile leaders will find they can control the mass of Moslems when they return to Algeria after seven years of absence.

KENNEDY-DE GAULLE
There still is diplomatic talk of a Kennedy-De Gaulle meeting later this year. However, the French made it clear to Secretary of State Dean Rusk during his recent visit that De Gaulle is in no hurry for mon market are likely to keep the French president preoccupied for some time, although he probably will visit West Germany toward the end of this year or early next year.

BERLIN TALKS
It now looks almost a certainty that the Western foreign ministers will hold Berlin talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva in the second half of this month.

There will be no formal negotiations. But the ministers will have informal exploratory talks on the lines of their consultations in Geneva last March.

Disarmament also will be discussed in a new effort to get nuclear test ban talks going again. Unless the ministers find some "give-and-take" over Berlin, informed diplomats believe the "probe" may collapse.

SOVIET HOPES
Soviet diplomats are gambling that West German businessmen already have made their peace with the issue of the Berlin wall. As a result, the men from Moscow are going around the country suggesting that West Germans ought to have a manufacturing exhibition in Moscow in 1963.

A similar project tentatively scheduled for this year was dropped in the wake of the furor kicked up when the Red wall was built in August 1961.

BORDER GUARDS
Communist border guards are expected to become more wary over shooting into West Berlin territory and setting off gunfights with West Berlin police.

The strongly-worded protest by the three Western allies to Moscow over border clashes along the Communist-built Berlin Wall and the proposal for a meeting of the four commandants in Berlin is believed to have brought Kremlin orders to East German Red boss Walter Ulbricht to keep his anti-refugee bullets on his side of the wall.

Irregularities in patterns and colors often account for the beauty of hand-woven Persian rugs. Copies woven on power looms lack the same vitality and luminosity.

Public's Apathy Toward Crime Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover decried today in testimony made public today, that the public is not "passing the ammunition" in the war against organized crime.

Hoover made the statement in late January before a House Appropriations subcommittee. The FBI director also testified that the Bureau-directed espionage scheme against the U.S. "continues factor."

He said, however, that the FBI's counterintelligence programs "is the best that it has ever been."

Discussing the crime trend, rising at a rate four times faster than the population of the nation, Hoover also testified that the Bureau's efforts to identify offenders as a contributory factor.

Stressing the mounting role of juvenile crime, he said the "permeating plague" of juvenile delinquency should not be "left against crime."

Hoover called it "youthful criminality."

"Public apathy and the lack of citizen cooperation with law enforcement agencies is one of the shocking great weaknesses in the fight against crime," Hoover said.

Citizens do cooperate in investigation of serious crimes such as murder, rape, and robbery, he said.

"But when it comes to those offenses which support organized crime and breed the murderer, the rapist and the robber, the vast majority of Americans turn their heads apparently feeling that it is legal gambling, prostitution, the sale of narcotics and obscene material, and other such vices do not affect them and are none of their business," he said.

Hoover estimated the nation's annual crime bill at $22 billion and said it amounts to $128 for every individual in the United States.

"The overlords of organized crime could be dealt, I believe a death blow if citizens would stop trading with the bookie, the prostitute, the drug pusher, and other 'salesmen' of the criminal empire," he said.

Hoover deplored what he called a "rejection" of minimize the internal threat of Communist activity.

The party has declined in strength since 1945, he said, but it is now "a Trojan horse of rigidly disciplined fanatics unilaterally committed to bring this free nation under the yoke of international communism."

Hoover listed missile sites, radar installations and other military bases as prime targets of Soviet-bloc intelligence efforts. Their agents, he said, "have probed to penetrate our most critical intelligence and counter-intelligence organizations."

Communist-bloc officials stationed in the United States are used "extensively" for espionage, Hoover said, as are Soviet trade, cultural and tourist groups.

He said personnel from bloc nations assigned to the United Nations "are becoming increasingly more active in Soviet bloc intelligence operations."

MSUO Receives $580,586 in Aid

Report on Voluntary Support of Colleges 1960-61 Completed

Michigan State University Oakland received a total of $580,586 in voluntary support during 1960-61, according to a survey by the Council for Financial Aid to Education, Inc.

(This is the first time MSUO has appeared on the survey. Its classes began in fall of 1959.)

The survey lists a record in more than one billion dollars received in 1960-61 by U.S. colleges, and universities from alumni and friends, foundations, and business corporations and from religious denominations.

Not included in the total are grants from governmental agencies.

In Michigan, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University were the only universities listed as receiving more than one million dollars in voluntary donations.

RANKS FIFTH

U. of M. ranks fifth in the nation with $6,454,872 and Wayne State ranks 23rd with $1,523,816.

Michigan State University, East Lansing, with $980,342, failed to make the list of 27 universities receiving over a million dollars in donations. MSU's 1959-60 total had been $1,700,100.

However, the total of $1,580,828 in both MSUO and MSU receipts would place the two institutions just ahead of Wayne State, edging in into 24th place.

The top five state universities in the nation for voluntary donation receipts are:

California — $15,087,562; Wisconsin — $8,895,684; Pennsylvania State — $7,005,306; Purdue — $6,841,922; and University of Michigan — $6,454,872.

Hoover estimated the nation's annual crime bill at $22 billion and said it amounts to $128 for every individual in the United States.

"The overlords of organized crime could be dealt, I believe a death blow if citizens would stop trading with the bookie, the prostitute, the drug pusher, and other 'salesmen' of the criminal empire," he said.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction of protrusion (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, including 27th year of bleeding.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue, all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

It Seems to Me . . .

Proposed New Constitution Is Step Toward Betterment

When Con-Con first arose, The Pontiac Press opposed the convention as unnecessary State expense. Michigan was already burdened financially. Furthermore, the current constitution was a workable and reasonably satisfactory document. An amendment or two would have avoided the necessity of staging the political round robin which was recently an additional part of the madcap scene in Lansing's perpetual puppet show. However, a majority of the voters wanted the new constitution and the proposal is ready.

Sharply divergent lines of political thought have been alternately protecting and sniping at the handiwork of the delegates. The editors of The Pontiac Press have tried to study the situation objectively and evaluate the whole. It's a consensus here that the good outweighs the bad. No one—and no group—can EVER draw a new constitution that will suit everyone.

Let's face that.

AUGUST SCHOLLE has been the most vociferous critic, and yet, if he drafted one himself, the roar of disapproval would probably trouble the current volume of protest. Let's agree that we'll NEVER find a new constitution that fits all purposes. If you accept that premise, then the question resolves rather directly into this:

Is the proposed constitution an improvement on the one we have now?

I believe that it is, and so do my associates at The Press. Interestingly enough, if we could change it, we are in disagreement on many of the things we would alter.

One element the State wants complete control of everything, permanently. This group wants redistricting done so that Wayne County and the City of Detroit will be all-powerful. Probably there are more racketeers in that area per thousand of population than in any similar sector of Michigan.

Do you want them at the helm?

Both constitutions guard against that somewhat, but mathematical redistricting would eliminate this ribbon of protection. The new constitution tries to strengthen Michigan's wobbly competitive position in the Nation. It tries to improve our tax situation. It tries to modernize elections by making many elective offices good for four years.

It does away with the Highway Commissioner as an elective office and we feel this is a mistake. However, anyone anywhere, can attack isolated sections. We're all capable of that. The thing must be viewed in its entirety. Is it an improvement? Is it a step backward?

Down here on West Huron Street we feel it's a move toward betterment.

From almost every angle, the BILLIS-SOL ESTEY deal is a mess. It can't classify any higher. However, the Press refuses to arise in indignation and point the quivering finger of accusation at JOHN P. KENNEDY.

The ebullient Texan pulled the wool over a flock of official, unofficial and unsuspecting eyes. That's for sure. He's up to his neck in a peck of trouble and it doesn't look as though he'd extricate himself from the nets and nooses that have dropped over his head. Still, how can you tie the President into his far-flung activities?

Apparently, getting "involved" in something is a part of the official Presidential cross that incumbents bear. WARREN HARDING was dragged through the mud with associates' defections, but the balance have been relatively sideline observers.

We hope Estes gets all that's coming to him and that no one tries to lessen the charges with the pious pronouncement that "he's just a boy (and such a nice boy, too)." But why bother the President? He has plenty-plus to worry about anyway. Let the Agriculture Department shoulder this as it should. The squirming ahead is staggering.

Senator Speaks Out . . . Bumping into Senator PHILIP A. HARR at the airport, I queried him as to this current furor on the school oath.

"I think," said the Senator, "that this is an excellent time for the families of America to strengthen a very ancient custom in our country. We must pray together in the home as a group. A regular morning devotional in every family would be a heartening and forward step. It would help reaffirm our belief in God—and in the family group."

Amen, Senator. We all concur.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

That Tempest four-cylinder motor has proved to be the star of the whole lot. . . . The Royal Oak Tribune and The Pontiac Press are giving four scholarships apiece to MSUO. . . . Of all languages I've ever heard spoken, German rates at the very bottom in sound or beauty. . . . Rumors persist about possible recall petitions for two recently elected City Commissioners. . . . JFK's new motto: "Billions and billions for defense, but not five cents for The Herald Tribune." . . . A new helicopter holds 25 passengers—a record.

I can't prove it, but I'll bet a sugar cookie the boozing Roger Marks gets every time he goes in to the Yankee Stadium, isn't because of his home run failure but because he's such a bum. . . . "They" tell me the reason Hitchcock's bid for Grace Kelly finally dissolved was because Grace insisted on having so much to say about the script, the actors and everything else. Her Royal Highness, no less. . . . More than 50,000 toes and 18,000 fingers have been lost to power mowers. Don't clear the blades with the motor running and be almighty careful of steep grades and turns.

Insider's Newsletter says two Russians may have been lost in outer space. One capsule failed to orbit and the poor chap simply went on his way forever. The other was consumed when it re-entered the earth's atmosphere. . . . Don't fail for the new version of the old "Spanish prisoner" letter which is tied in with Cuban refugees. David Lawrence Says:

Coalition Votes Hide Responsibility

When the farm bill was voted down by a very close margin in the House of Representatives the other day, the word was spread far and wide that the President had suffered a "defeat."

Then when the administration's new foreign trade bill was passed by the House by a substantial margin, the event was described as a big "victory" for Mr. Kennedy.

But, actually, in an issue as complex as the farm problem and with so many varying interests involved, it can hardly be said that the verdict on this measure was clear-cut for either side.

The vote did, of course, reveal a negative trend—the feeling that governmental controls of farm production are questionable.

But, aside from the merits of this particular issue, it cannot be assumed under the American system of government that a president has been "defeated" just because a measure he has recommended to Congress is not passed.

The converse is also true. The national legislature has not been "defeated" when a president vetoes a measure that has received one less than a two-thirds majority of both houses.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION The Constitution plainly provides for a difference of opinion between the executive and the legislative branches of the government.

What is lacking today, to be sure, is party responsibility in the same sense in which it is usually exercised under a parliamentary system.

In Europe, if a prime minister makes a proposal to parliament and it is denied by a substantial vote, it is not his party, the prime minister, but the government as a whole that is held responsible.

At times this brings about a general election in which the people decide whether to support the prime minister or the parliament.

In America today there are not just two parties but really four segments of political division. In the case of the farm bill, there were at least a half-dozen factions involved on both sides.

On the foreign trade bill, a large number of Republicans joined the Democrats in voting for the measure. It wasn't really a partisan vote at all.

Under a system of so-called "responsible government," where the executive and legislative branches are united, it is not so difficult to fix the responsibility for cravages that occur.

In the United States, however, the tendency in recent years has been to never swindle has bilked a large and unhappy number. . . . BRUCE COLEMAN, one of my regular Central High passengers this past year, says he looked the whole situation over and he can't find any next year's senior girls in my neighborhood. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—move toward a City-County Airport; the J's—stopping a simple prayer in U.S. Schools. —HAROLD A. FITZGERALD been for "coalitions" to be formed from the membership of both parties.

In fact, ever since New Deal days, conservatives within the Democratic party have often united with conservatives in the Republican party to form a majority in Congress.

Since the Democrats obtained virtually a two-thirds majority in both houses in 1960, there has been a feeling that perhaps the coalition would weaken and that it might even be wiped out by the election in 1962 of more so-called "liberals" in both the Republican and Democratic parties in the North.

The vote in the last few weeks in Congress, however, failed to support the theory that the coalition is still as strong as ever.

CAMPAIGN ISSUE

President Kennedy hinted at his new campaign last week that he was campaigning on this issue this autumn.

One of the reasons, however, why bipartisan coalitions are natural in Congress is that there are diversified interests throughout the country.

Congressmen from rural districts have many problems in common, irrespective of party, just as members who represent urban communities find themselves looking at many questions the same way.

For this reason it is not likely at any time, no matter how powerful a president's leadership or how eloquent his words, that there will be an exact relationship between a president's strength and the votes that he gets in Congress on particular measures.

The American system provides for two independent branches of government, and in a mid-term election—when the president, of course, isn't running—members of Congress must stand alone on their record. The real victory or defeat is at the polls.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Blood Types Common to All Races of People

Q—My wife just returned from our local hospital where she suffered a severe hemorrhage following the birth of our first child. After the first of several transfusions, she had a severe chill and a very high temperature.

From the work of her nurses I learned that the blood donor for this transfusion was of a different race. Is there any danger in mixing bloods?

A—There are many factors that cause reactions during and following blood transfusions. None of these, I assure you, is related to skin pigment. The Red Cross makes no racial distinction at its blood banks.

The most frequent cause for a reaction such as your wife suffered is a mismatch of blood types. There are, as you may know, four principal blood types and several subtypes. They are called A, B, AB and O, and are based on the presence or absence of certain substances in the blood.

A second cause for transfusion reactions is the presence of some impurities in the blood or glassware. And a third known cause is too rapid injection, a condition first described by me as "speed shock."

I have not returned from Hawaii, where I developed a fish allergy swimming. The rash was only red and later became blistery. Have you any idea what might have caused the rash and how I can avoid it? I enjoyed my vacation all other respects, and would like to return again next time I have a holiday.

A—Col. Graner of the Tripler Army Hospital has just reported the appearance of just such an outbreak as you describe from sensitivity to microscopic organisms that are present in seaweed. The eruption occurs only from June to September.

French War Bride Writes of Helpfulness of The Press

I have been a faithful reader since I moved to Pontiac as a French war bride. My English was limited, but with the help of a dictionary I managed to keep informed on world events.

It would be impossible to try and tell you how much help The Press has been as I had no friends or family except my husband (who did not speak French). The Pontiac Press soon became my best friend, helping me to understand better my new country and her people. Everything was so different—the way of life, dressing and eating habits, cooking, entertaining, housekeeping, school affairs, politics, just to mention a few things. But I always found some useful and interesting article in The Press which enabled me to cope with many of my problems.

I was too shy and self-conscious to take part in community affairs, but I began to feel that as a citizen of this wonderful country I had rights and responsibilities. I have become involved in school affairs because education is the foundation on which depends the strength of our nation.

I often take the privilege of expressing that feeling in the Voice of the People. Many friends have told me that seeing how interested I am although born in a foreign land, made them ashamed of their own apathy. I write to tell you what I have learned from The Press and how it gave me the opportunity to communicate with others.

Court's Prayer Ban Disturbs Readers

What is our government's coming to? Billy Graham recently said how the United States is trying to do away with the Bible and officials would soon stop praying in our government functions. It was so right.

We as Americans have our duty to retain the prayerful attitude our country was founded upon.

Everyone should take time to write his congressman and voice rejection of this.

Disgusted

The Press is to be commended for its courageous, cogent editorial on the Supreme Court's ruling against official prayers in public schools. The ruling implies two important truths: there is no such thing as a neutral education; that is, education without morality and religion. If education does not instill a moral outlook, it will instill a materialistic outlook.

Neutrality is impossible in education. Secondly, the ruling implies that the home and the church can adequately take care of the child's religious training. This is madness. If the child's environment outside his home is completely devoid of religion, then the work of the home and the church is greatly frustrated. Religion must permeate the whole of the child's life.

L.H.

The Press carried news that we have gained ground on the Soviets. This particular burst of speed was given by the Supreme Court. I no longer have respect for this office or any of its rulings. We are now under the rule of a government which "has no dependence on Almighty God."

Have we waited too long or can Christians unite and put God at the head of everything?

'Kennedy Knows of Our Problems'

I hope we've heard the last of the grippers who are jealous of the Kennedys' financial status.

Just because our President isn't the "legible" type doesn't mean he doesn't know anything about the people and their problems.

Before the election, Kennedy traveled to nearly all fifty states learning about our problems and worries.

Lay off the unjust remarks about him. He's doing a great job.

The Supreme Court has made a ridiculous exhibition of itself by an attempt to expel God from American life. Incidentally, it is possible that the six justices of the United States Supreme Court have prepared themselves, for when they took the oath of office, they said: "So help me God!"

It is difficult to understand how any six men in the United States could agree on this decision, written by Justice Hugo Black, who started his political career in the Ku Klux Klan and who, on the bench, became the leader of the radical left. Here, in a decision without a quoted precedent, with no roots in law, with an historic basis in the Constitution, he is eternally in their hearts.

This decision goes deeply into American ideas and habits. Ours is a civilization based on the Bible. Most of our ancestors immigrated to this country originally for religious reasons and to our people, the word, God, is eternally in their hearts.

We, as a people, have accepted the guidance of God and our civilization is not based on dialectical materialism or upon the accidents of geography, but in the faith of courageous men and women who crossed the seas to find here a place where they could worship God, each according to his own lights. And now six men say that God is no more in a tax-supported building where children are to be taught not only letters and numbers, but how to be decent, upright citizens.

Why not get Francis Cardinal Spellman, Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver and Episcopal Bishop H. W. B. Dongen (none of whom is a public official) to make up a nonsectarian prayer? Then, why not daily recitation of this petition in public schools where the majority of the pupils' parents register a wish for such devotion?

If this device is voluntarily produced by an atheistic, agnostic or what have you Supreme Court majority, other dogmas and end-time can be figured out by active students in religious circles.

Some time later, such letters should make a complete mockery and good-better out of Warren Court ruling. In the process, a lot of people would have a lot of fun, just as they did in making a mockery of federal prohibition, and popular interest in religion should be greatly stimulated.

Since the Supreme Court has not indicated hostility to the religious feelings of the great majority of Americans of all creeds, why shouldn't those Americans strike back at the Supreme Court, in every legal way they can dream up and as hard as they know how?

Not Only Prayer

Buffalo Evening News

If the only constitutional flaw in the 22-word, "humble, innocuous, nonsectarian" New York school prayer is that the State Board of Regents composed it, then our court, our anthem, our Pledge of Allegiance are likewise unconstitutional.

national. "How can the Supreme Court refrain from forbidding the Congress—and every legislature, board of supervisors, city council or school board—to make a prayer? How can it even continue its own ancient and honorable tradition of invoking divine protection—"Is the Supreme Court decision really that narrow?"

What To Do

New York Journal American

Seldom in recent years has an issue stirred such widespread dismay and indignation as the Supreme Court decision outlawing prayer in the public schools. This newspaper has been deluged with letters and telephone calls from outraged readers.

There are two things that every American can do:

1. Write to your Senator and Congressmen urging them to support federal amendment of the Constitution to legalize simple non-sectarian prayers to God in the public schools.

2. Urge your local school authorities in the meantime to permit two minutes of meditation in the classrooms.

Such a voluntary plan would not conflict with the high court's decision. Prayer would not be forced on anyone. In this way, every child would have the opportunity to express the faith in Divine guidance.

Indians Resume Hospital Fight

N.D. Chippewas Dance to Protest Lack of Care; Aroused by Baby Death

BELOUIT, N.D. (UPI)—Chippewa Indians have resumed their protest, dancing at a reservation hospital, spurring the peace pipe offered by federal forces.

The dancing, begun three days after an Indian baby died a few hours after he was released following hospital treatment, went into its 13th day today.

The dancers led by tribal chairman Francis Cree, of the Turtle Mountain Reservation, met over the weekend with Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., and U.S. Public Health Service (PHS) representatives.

The Indians claimed the hospital's doctors were inexperienced, lacked emergency facilities and attempted too much experimentation. "If nothing else, the Indians have brought the situation vividly to the attention of the American public," Burdick said.

Dr. Donald McNaughton, of the PHS office at Aberdeen, S.D., said there have been improvements at the hospital and the Chippewas' life expectancy has risen 10 per cent in the past five years.

Dr. John Monroe, Holla, N.D., physician, supported the Indians. He cited instances of neglect of patients.

Sunday Sermons Are Divided on Prayer Ruling

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Supreme Court decision banning official prayers in public schools evoked both anger and praise in Sabbath sermons. One minister called it "proper, fair and correct" while another said it "seeks to quarantine religion." Some took the middle ground. Among them was the Rev. Dr. Charles D. Kays of the Epiphany Church of the Epiphany of Washington D.C., who said the court's ruling was "neither a great victory for religious liberty nor an attack upon the religious traditions of our country."

"The Supreme Court decision did not say religious devotion of a voluntary nature may never be held in public schools," he observed in a sermon Sunday.

Last Monday, the court ruled that a 22-word prayer drafted by the New York State Board of Regents for recitation at the start of each school day was unconstitutional.

The prayer reads: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and beg Thy blessing upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

APPROVES DECISION
Dr. E. S. James, editor of the Baptist Standard and a Southern Baptist leader, called the court's decision "proper, fair and correct," adding the school prayer "could not hurt anyone."

However, Dr. J. Richard Sneed of the First Methodist church in Los Angeles told his congregation that the ruling will produce a more revolutionary effect on U.S. society than Karl Marx ever could.

He said the court's philosophy "seeks to quarantine religion." Dr. Sneed said, "With the Delly constitutionally incapacitated, only materialism, secularism and atheism can publicly prevail."

Richard Cardinal Cushing, speaking at Gloucester, Mass., in the annual blessing of the fishing fleet, said the decision "breaks the hearts of millions and millions of people who live in captive nations behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, whose only hope is in God and our own beloved country."

"The only thing communists fear is religion, and religion is the only thing that can save the world from being dominated by the butchers and tyrants of the Communist world," Cardinal Cushing said.

The Catholic bishop of Providence, R.I., the Most Rev. Russell J. McManey, said "our founding fathers must be apologizing before the courts of heaven today for the agnostic, even atheistic declination of our U.S. Supreme Court."

In sermons Sunday, a number of New York rabbis said the decision has helped the cause of religion, not hindered it. Some described the prayer involved as being so neutral that it is meaningful to all.

The Rev. Dr. Edward E. Klein of the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue in New York City urged that citizens follow President Kennedy's counsel to support the decision and accept it as a challenge to cultivate prayer at home and intensify religious education in synagogue and church.

Some churchmen said a larger reason for alarm were predictions that the ruling may lead to elimination of Bible reading and religious observances from the public schools.

The Rev. Dr. John M. Krumm, Columbia University chaplain, said the prediction "justifies causes alarm to churchmen who would regard an education from which all references to the role of religion in the formation of our history and culture had been removed as a distorted and inadequate education."

the court's ruling "deserves general applause."

"But let us be clear about the substance of the decision," he added. "The court has not decided 'against God' in the United States or in the public schools. On the contrary, it has decided that the reality of God can neither be guaranteed nor denied by action of the state."

"Where reverence for God is lost, loss of reverence for man follows," he said. "This has been clearly exemplified in Russia."

Dr. Shirley reminded worshippers, however, that "we must at all times abide by the decisions of the Supreme Court." He recommended a period of silent prayer in public schools in which each individual "can speak to God in his own fashion."

"DISAGREEMENT"
"In many cases," he added, "individuals and churches are in

Johnson's Initials to Leave Air Waves

WASHINGTON — The initials of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson are sprinkled liberally around his big ranch in Texas — but the LBJ brand will no longer be used as call letters on a nearby radio homing beacon.

A federal aviation agency spokesman said last night that the landing strip now is known officially as JCY (for nearby Johnson City) instead of LBJ.

"We think it is more appropriate to call it JCY," the spokesman said. "I guess there are some people besides the vice president who use that little airport."

There is some evidence that Johnson himself asked the FAA to take his initials off the air waves. An FAA spokesman said the change was made after Johnson learned of the call letters — but he said he did not know whether the vice president requested the change.

Earhart Vanished 25 Years Ago Today

By M. A. BATES
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Twenty-five years ago today Amelia Earhart vanished in the mid-Pacific.

From that day to this, the mystery of exactly what befell America's most famous woman flier and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, has intrigued the minds of many men, with no positive answer ever reached.

The famous aviator had left Lee, New Guinea, on the last laps of a daring 27,000-mile flight around the world. The date was July 2, 1937.

Only three ships remained: the Howland Island, Honolulu, then a triumphal landing at Oakland, where they were met.

PLANE WELL STOCKED
The plane was an $80,000 twin-engine Lockheed 10 long-wing monoplane, top speed 305 miles an hour. It was well stocked with food and survival equipment.

She was flying at 10,000 feet over the vast Pacific. Navigator Noonan, an famed his instruments, expecting to sight Howland Island momentarily.

At that very moment, the Coast Guard cutter Itasca was making a black smoke plume at the island to guide the fliers to a safe landing.

On voice radio, Miss Earhart called the Itasca: "Gas is running low." "Been unable to reach you by radio." "We are circling but cannot see you."

Then silence.
At a thousand feet altitude, she must have seen many miles from Howland Island, or she would have seen the Itasca's black smoke plume.

NOT A SINGLE CLUE
Her position might have been found had she used dot-dash radio. A vast search by U.S. Navy ships and planes, aided by Japanese ships, failed to turn up a single clue to the fliers. Little more than scraps of flotsam, no evidence of any sort.

Nor has anything tangible been found in the ensuing quarter century. Amelia Earhart and her navigator vanished as if they and their plane had never existed.

Miss Earhart, often called "Lady Lindy" because of her lack of resemblance to "Col. Charles A. Lindbergh of transatlantic solo fame," was born at Atchison, Kan., July 24, 1898.

She sailed at Los Angeles when she was 30. She was a passenger when William Stutz and Louis Gordon flew the Atlantic June 17, 1924.

Her husband, the late George Palmer Putnam, a New York publisher, encouraged her flying career.

4 Joined Lutheran Bodies Begin Career as 1 Church

DETROIT (AP)—A fresh ecumenical venture was in progress today under a gold-and-white banner bearing the cross.

The emblem is that of the newly merged Lutheran Church in America, which has concluded its constituting convention here.

"God's hand has led us on our way but not to our destination," the Rev. Dr. Harry F. Baughman, of Gettysburg, Pa., said at the closing service Sunday.

Ahead, he said, the new church faces an open door to new accomplishment and greater victory in the midst of modern influences and changing spiritual truth.

SET IN MOTION
The four split-paced days of legislation and ceremony, culminating six years of planning, the new church set its organizational machinery in motion.

Its constitution sets this objective: "This church lives to be the instrument of the Holy Spirit in obedience to the commission of its Lord."

As for the effect of the four-denomination merger, embracing a total of 1,168,310 Lutherans, the Rev. Dr. E. E. Lyden, Minneapolis, a veteran Lutheran editor, said: "It will make the church increasingly dominant force, not only in the evangelization of America, but also in influencing its thinking and in shaping its ideals."

In its final weekend business sessions, the convention adopted an overall budget of $58,611,332 for the 1963-64 biennium.

Delegates authorized church participation in various ecumenical organizations of interdenominational cooperation. These include the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches, embracing most major Protestant and Orthodox bodies, and the Lutheran World Federation, including 20 million of the world's 70 million Lutherans.

Was Miss Earhart on a secret espionage mission for the United States government?

This belief was expressed by the late Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Institute of Technology, a civilian guest on the battleship Colorado, which vainly searched for the missing fliers.

Dr. Brittain during the war said he thought the Japanese had captured Miss Earhart and either made her a prisoner or executed her to prevent disclosure that they were fortifying various islands in the Pacific.

I believe there was an understanding on the part of some government officials with Miss Earhart that she have a look, if possible, at the Japanese-occupied islands," he declared.

There was no comment from the U.S. government. The Japanese denied knowledge of the fliers' fate.

Did the famous "Lady Lindy" become the mysterious "white lady of salpian"? This theory is held by radio newsmen Fred Goerner of KCBS and San Francisco, who made two trips to Salpian Island. He dived in the harbor and recovered an airplane engine generator. It was Japanese and not from Miss Earhart's plane, Bones and teeth taken from a grave were those of natives.

Hemingway Image Differs

Friends Knew 'Old Man'

(Editor's Note — It's been a year since Ernest Hemingway left, leaving behind the deal image of a man the world thought it knew, but didn't. The tourists, by the dozens, come to gaze at his grave. But his real image abides, among his friends, who don't talk much but who know the truth about a great writer.)

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP) — For 50 cents the man who drives the village cab will show you where the world said goodbye to Ernest Hemingway.

He won't take you to an impressive man-made memorial to the lanky giant of American literature. There is none. He will show you only a plain slab of marble bearing the author's name.

Those who knew the writer here will tell you the jagged Sawtooth Mountains which rise sharply from the valley floor are his memorial. And who can say these rugged peaks are not symbolic of all that was Hemingway?

WON'T RUIN YOU
If you stay longer than you planned, don't be concerned—

there's no meter on the cab, and the driver, who once hunted rabbits with Hemingway, will not hurry you.

Across the big Wood River, now gaged by runoff from the melting snow, is the hunting lodge where Hemingway died just a year ago July 2.

It was a quiet, cool Sunday morning; a day to relax, fish, golf and swim.

Nobody paid much attention to the cab which sped over the dusty warm springs road to the house on the hillside.

DIED VIOLENTLY
Hours later, the world was told that Ernest Miller Hemingway, famed author of prize-winning volumes about death and violence, had himself died violently.

Mary Hemingway, the writer's beloved "Miss Mary," had found her husband, sprawled in a foyer off the living room, a double-barreled 12-gauge shotgun across his legs. Both barrels had been fired into his head.

The authorities ruled only that Hemingway died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head. They said it could have been either an accident or suicide.

People here said he knew too much about guns to have that kind of accident. But officially they didn't say it was suicide.

WOULDN'T SAY
Cab driver-Clo Maddix said "I wouldn't want to be quoted as saying whether it was or wasn't. People figure, it was his business."

The furor which followed the death surprised and annoyed these people who considered Hemingway their own personal property.

They still feel that way.

"People expected him to be like the characters in his books," said Dr. George Saviers of the nearby Sun Valley Hospital. "But he wasn't. He wasn't the tough guy a lot of people imagined. He was an extremely sensitive man, kind and gentle. He always thought about other people. He liked the little people more than the big people."

"He wasn't a two-faced drinker and tough guy. I'd known him since 1938, and I never saw him the slightest bit intoxicated."

Dr. Saviers took a book from a shelf above his desk. It was a biography of Hemingway, published after his death.

"It's trash. This is where it belongs," he said angrily throwing it into the wastebasket.

Those who served him dinner, hunted with him or chattered with him on the street echoed Dr. Saviers' view of the author.

But the thousands who visit his grave in the tiny village cemetery will remember the legend of Hemingway the tough guy.

Farmer Leaves Hospital, Tetanus Cure a Success

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Ralph Douma, a 72-year-old farmer, left St. James Hospital Sunday, apparently fully recovered from acute lockjaw after 30 days of treatment which included emergency oxygen administration in a pressure chamber.

The successful treatment, using a decompression chamber, was believed to have been a medical first in the United States. Acute lockjaw, or tetanus, is almost always quickly fatal.

Camille Varsiale, 3, of Tinley Park, another acute tetanus victim, is still in the hospital after undergoing treatment similar to that given Douma.

AUTHOR'S GRAVE — Tourists look at the plain marble slab that marks the grave of author Ernest Hemingway in the village cemetery at Ketchum, Idaho. Hemingway died just a year ago today in a hunting lodge across the river from the cemetery. He died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound that could have been either an accident or suicide.

Says Candidate Lacks Petitions

Elections Director Reports Lewandowski Short Needed Names

LANSING — A decision similar to one reached in the primary election two years ago was expected to face the state board of canvassers at their meeting today.

State Elections Director Robert Montgomery said a check of petitions filed by Joseph A. Lewandowski, Hantrance Democrat, indicated an apparent lack of sufficient signatures for ballot placement in the Lieutenant governor primary Aug. 7.

Lewandowski and incumbent

Democratic Lt. Gov. T. John Lewandowski, Detroit, were required to file 17,830 valid signatures on the petitions.

Montgomery said Lewandowski filed about 19,000 signatures. Check of each signature indicated the prospective candidate had insufficient valid ones.

Perusal of signatures by election officials is conducted to check the legibility, address, notarization, and other requirements of law.

It is not unusual to "cut," or disqualify one or more on each of the 20-line nominating petitions, Montgomery said.

In 1960, the canvassers declined to certify Dearborn resident Eugene Keyes in his bid for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Keyes appealed the board's decision to the State Supreme Court but failed to gain a favorable judgment.

Poet's Love Plight Bad to Verse in Book for Brigitte

VERONA, Italy (UPI)—Domenico Buono, the lovesick poet who twice sneaked into Brigitte Bardot's hotel room to hilt her from sleep with his unsolicited verses, is at it again.

Buono, 35, who was briefly jailed for his prewar readings in the shapely French movie starlet, has written a book of verse entitled "In Prison for Brigitte Bardot."

He dedicated the book in the following manner:

"To my mother and grandfather—both dead. To Brigitte Bardot—alive."

Buono broke into Miss Bardot's hotel room in Florence on two occasions last April in attempts to read his outpourings of verse.

Postal Union Strike Averted in Austria

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Government and union negotiators reached an eleven-hour compromise Sunday night to avert a strike by 66,000 postal employees.

The strike was scheduled to start at midnight, to press demands for a pay hike for the postal and telegraphic employees amounting to 72.1 million schillings ($1.07 million).

After all-day talks eliminating the four-month conflict, the government-controlled post administration agreed to pay the employees a lump-sum in advance and the rest in September.

Mad Bull Moose Charges on Auto Injuring Woman

CARTHAGE, Maine (AP)—A bull moose attacked an automobile on Route 356 Sunday, injuring a woman who suffered minor lacerations from a shattered windshield.

Louise Toothaker, 22, and her son Terry, 2, were riding in a car driven by Frank Jones, 28, when port-the moose appeared at the side of the road.

Jones braked the car to a stop and the moose charged at the rear, jumping onto the hood with its front legs and putting its head through the windshield.

Plan for Integrating Fire, Police Units Hit

SOUTHFIELD—Mayor S. James Clarkson's plan to partially integrate the city's police and fire departments received stiff opposition from the City Council at a special meeting Saturday.

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Mayor's Police and Fire Advisory Committee who recommended the plan and members of the police and fire department.

According to Council President C. Hugh Doherty the departments have been integrated to some extent for the past three and half years.

"If the mayor had taken the trouble to inform himself he would have known that the police and fire departments have been partially integrated," said Doherty.

AGREE MORE NEEDED

While the council agreed with Clarkson that more police are needed for the city, they said they could not see how money could be saved by cutting the firemen's duty week from 63 hours to 40 hours to make them available for police duty.

At present there are 32 policemen and 25 firemen.

Bride of Mark Orchard Diane Terry Married

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Pink and white snapdragons graced the altar of the Free Methodist Church in Oxford for the candlelight wedding Saturday evening of Diane Kay Terry and Mark Lee Orchard. Rev. Harlow Hoyt performed the nuptials.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Terry, 2860 Noble Road. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Orchard of Appleton.

A floor-length gown of silk organza over tulle was chosen by the bride for her wedding. It featured a Chantilly lace bodice, long pointed sleeves and a chapel train of lace over tulle.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was fastened to a seed pearl crown. She carried a single gardenia with ivy on a white Bible, which was a gift of the bridegroom.

Janet Terry was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Linda Porter and Ruthann McCallum, cousin of the bride, both of Leonard, Bethel Lake, Lake City; and Marilyn Mitchell, Holly.

Assisting his brother as best man was Roger Orchard of Salsburg, Ohio. The guests were seated by Ray and Alvin Orchard of Appleton, cousins of the bridegroom, and Howard Snyder and Henry Moon, both of Spring Arbor.

Flower girls were Janice and Judy Acheson and ring bearer, Ricky Hayes of Warren.

Approximately 200 guests attended the reception after the rites in the Methodist Fellowship Hall. The newweds then left on a motor trip to Wilmore, Ky., where the bride is attending the summer session of Asbury College.

Set Blessing of Stone for Building

ORCHARD LAKE — The blessing of the cornerstone for the new St. Mary's College Residence will highlight the 18th National Alumni Convention of the Orchard Lake Schools July 19-21.

The cornerstone blessing ceremony will be held at 11:30 a. m. July 19, immediately following the opening solemn Mass.

Four business sessions will mark the two-day convention. An address by the rector, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Wallace Filipowicz, and reports by executive officers, presidents of alumni districts, convocation committees and the ladies auxiliary will take up most of the business.

Election of national alumni officers will be held July 11, with installation set at a banquet that evening.

The new college building is being constructed concurrently with Our Lady of Orchard Lake Shrine Chapel. To be ready by the fall, the new facility will house up to 100 minor seminarians and provide five additional classrooms.

MSU Expert Says Suburbs Afraid Sees Annexation Trend Easing

The trend toward suburban annexation in the United States seems to be slowing down, reports a specialist of the Michigan State University Institute for Community Development and Services.

"Resistance to the continued expansion of big cities is stiffening," states Gary W. King.

"People in recent years have been moving to the suburbs to escape the large cities, and resist the idea of again being swallowed and lost in a huge metropolitan area."

King spoke on contemporary problems in community development before an Institute for Organization. Management. meet in a which ended Saturday at MSU's Kellogg Center.

TALK BEGINS

As cities expand and engulf near-by communities, he noted, talk of annexation begins. Proponent of annexation leaves point out the greater efficiency and economy of a combined operation.

There are more and better services for all with less wasteful duplication, King added, and there are professionals in the key city posts rather than amateurs.

Suburban officials, jealous of their positions, rise in opposition. Various groups, such as volunteer firemen and suburban police, fear they will lose their jobs.

People are afraid their taxes will be increased, and worry that the city will renege on its promises of service once the community is in the fold.

But at the heart of the problem, King believes, is the defunct ideal of a "grass roots" government, close to the people.

People in the small communities, he said, treasure the privilege of running their own affairs, and of having an active voice in their local government.

Much of the emotional opposition to annexation, King stated, comes from the people's fear of being lost and ignored in an impersonal metropolitan government where their voices cannot be heard.

Janitor on Way to Poland to Tell 'Em About U.S.

His first visit home in 28 years and he probably is better equipped than many an ambassador to sell the United States.

First Klem Kowalski can about his worldwide search for a home before settling in Detroit. He has been a clerk in Belgium. And he has been a hospital orderly and longshoreman in Australia.

When he can show his prized special exhibit—several hundred shares of stock in Park Davis & Co., his employer; a collection of photographs made while he worked with H. J. Loyd, Park Davis president; and a small document that shows he is a United States citizen.

Klem carries them "because this way people can see and feel what freedom means to us in America."

He isn't worried about entering Communist territory to visit his mother, Stanislaw, 75, and two sisters, Felicia and Emilia.

"Afraid?" he asked. "Who could be afraid? I am an American."

AMERICA IN 1941

Klem fled Belgium in 1929 when the Nazi invasion came. He fought with a Polish brigade in France, was smuggled to England and then was sent to Windsor, Ont., in 1931.

In 1943 Klem and other Poles were back in the fighting again and after the war he returned to England because he was in love. But the girl died. Klem went to Australia, took two jobs, and saved.

He came to Detroit in 1955. His first job was at Henry Ford Hospital.

Then Klem went to work for Park Davis, a pharmaceuticals manufacturer. Right away he bought several hundred shares of stock in the firm from his savings.

For his trip to Poland, Park Davis gave him a leave of absence in addition to his vacation.

Yearbook of Seminary in Orchard Lake Picks World Service Theme

ORCHARD LAKE — The story of the labors and sacrifices of Polish-American clergy throughout the world serves as the theme for the annual yearbook of St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary and St. Mary's College and High School.

The 1962 Eagle, consisting of 224 pages, also reviews globally all phases of student life in each of the three divisions at the school.

Available to the public in reprint form, the theme presents a chronological study of the efforts of the Polish-American clergy from the time the United States was a mission territory to the present day.

Three pioneer Polish priests especially are noted in the book. They are Rev. Thomas Pralawicz, the first Polish priest in America; Rev. Leopold Moszygenski, first pastor of a Polish foundation in America; and Rev. Joseph Dabrowski, founder of the Orchard Lake Seminary.

Student Charles E. Borowski of Webster, Mass., was editor-in-chief and Anthony Halat of Detroit was assistant editor.

Cigarettes Hooking Teens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Parents who don't want their children to smoke had better give up the habit themselves.

This stern and widely-unwelcome advice comes from the American Cancer Society, where researchers stand out in the findings of a survey conducted by the society among high school students.

The survey showed that millions of teen-agers are cultivating the cigarette habit, despite all of the medical warnings of recent years that it may contribute to lung cancer or heart disease.

One boy out of five begins smoking by the time he's in the 8th grade. By the senior year of high school, 44 per cent of the boys are smoking.

Girls are slightly less likely to smoke, but 29 per cent of them are lighting up cigars before they're out of high school.

Taking all grades and both sexes into account, approximately one-third of our high school youngsters are regular cigarette smokers.

Why do they do it? This question especially interested Dr. Daniel Horn, a cancer society scientist who helped to make one of the pioneering studies linking smoking to lung cancer.

Dr. Horn could understand how adults, hooked to the habit, might find endless excuses for not breaking it. But he was appalled by the

Teacher Unions, Prayer Chit Issues as 6,500 Attend 100th Parley

DENVER (UPI) — Teacher unions and school prayers loomed as the top issues today before 6,500 delegates to the 100th annual convention of the National Education Association (NEA).

Debates also were expected on federal aid, desegregation and teachers' salaries.

The majority of teachers appeared to be strongly opposed to federal aid, but the feeling on the prayer question was varied. Many delegates had not had time to decide where they stood since last week's Supreme Court decision banning a regents prayer in New York State public schools.

The prayer issue has not been brought before the convention formally.

Sam Lambert, director of the NEA research division, painted a dark picture for delegates yesterday of a mythical American town where a union had triumphed.

"The teacher seeking a job would not see the superintendent of schools but the president of the labor union," Lambert said.

"Promotion and transfer would be likely to be based on service to the union as on preparation, experience and quality of work."

A vicious union is a unified, intelligent hard-working professional group.

Signs Bill to Raise Roof to $308-Billion; Extends Trade Curb Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has signed into law bills raising the public debt limit to $308 billion and extending for three years his authority to curb trade with unfriendly nations.

The administration had requested an $8-billion increase in the debt ceiling in order to give the Treasury sufficient flexibility to finance government operations during the fiscal year that began Sunday.

The new ceiling is temporary and due to revert to $300 billion next June 30. If there is an unbalanced budget this fiscal year, there could be an attempt to raise the ceiling further.

The Export Control Act extends presidential authority in effect since 1950 and adds new provisions designed to strengthen the government's hand in its efforts to keep Communist countries from getting vital goods from the United States or its allies.

One new requirement is that the government must stop shipment of any article the president finds would contribute significantly to the military or economic potential of a Communist nation and would prove detrimental to U.S. security and welfare.

BOXER'S UPS AND DOWNS — Proving that all summer days don't have to be "dog days," Mike, a boxer, lines up on a slide down just like any other 4-year-old.

Like, Mamie Set Six-Week Tour

Eisenhower to Visit Stockholm, Paris and London on Trip

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Dwight D. Eisenhower will embark on a six-week overseas tour July 18, to include stops in Stockholm, Paris and London, among others.

The trip will be one of business and pleasure for the former President and his wife, Mamie.

As Eisenhower aide, releasing the itinerary yesterday, said the general would address a world conference of teaching professions July 31 in Stockholm, Sweden.

The Eisenhowers will be accompanied by two grandchildren, Dwight David Jr. and Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Gosden — of "Amos and Andy" fame — and their son, Craig; and a secretary and an aide.

The party will leave New York July 19 on the liner SS France. Following a stop in Copenhagen, Denmark, the travelers will arrive in Stockholm, July 29.

They will leave Stockholm July 31 and will then journey to Paris, London, Scotland and Ireland. Eisenhower's office here said he possibly may stop in Bonn, West Germany, before going to Paris.

Eisenhower and his companions are due to return to New York Aug. 30, sailing on the SS America.

At Least Six Persons Drown

Weekend Traffic Fatal to 7 in State

By The Associated Press
At least seven persons were killed in traffic accidents during Michigan's pre-Fourth of July weekend.

In addition at least six persons drowned.

TRAFFIC

Elwood G. Peterson, 46, of Chicago, was killed yesterday when a house trailer came unhooked from another car and sideswiped his car on U.S. 27, five miles southwest of Charlotte.

Lloyd Owen, 18, of Jones, a sailor stationed at Great Lakes Naval Center near Chicago, was killed yesterday when his car ran off a curve and plunged down an embankment near Lawton in Van Buren County.

Harry Chiverton, 61, of Dowagiac, was struck and killed by a hit-run motorist yesterday as he walked along a road in Silver Creek Township, Cass County.

Dina Lee Ferguson, 19, of Escanaba, was injured fatally yesterday when she fell from her husband's car on the outskirts of Escanaba.

Billy Lee Sparks, 19, of Detroit, was killed Saturday night when his car ran off a road 10 miles north of Jackson and struck a tree.

Leah Marie Sloan, 23, of Wayne, was killed Saturday in a two-car collision in Southfield. Karen Jones, 3, of Detroit, was killed Saturday when a car struck her near her home. Witnesses said she ran from between parked cars.

William Shong, 19, of Alma, was drowned Saturday in a gravel pit in Pine River Township, Grafton County.

Sgt. Charles J. Miller, 38, of Wurtsmith Air Force Base, drowned in Lake Huron, three miles north of Oshtemo, Saturday while skidding with two companions.

Gary Spangler, 6, of Flint, drowned Saturday in the Middle Branch River in Marion after he apparently fell from a retaining wall along the river bank.

Clifton Crum, 9, of Mount Pleasant, drowned in Coldwater Lake near Mount Pleasant Saturday after he wandered away from a family picnic. Howard Faisess, 15, of Mears, drowned Saturday in Silver Lake. State police said his boat, loaded with stones which he intended to dump in the lake, swamped.

Harold English, 50, of Arkon, drowned Saturday in the Kalamazoo River near Marshall. He apparently fell from a river bank while fishing.

Swedish Torpedo Radio Station Off the Coast

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The floating commercial station "Radio Nord" was off the air yesterday for the first time since it started operating from a ship in the Baltic Sea last March.

The station, which broadcast popular music and commercials, went out of business when the Swedish parliament banned commercial transmission from stations off the coast. Only semi-state monopoly radio stations are permitted here. Radio Nord's last broadcast song was "Hit the Road, Jack."

Writer-Producer Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Barney Gerard, 80, a veteran writer and producer for the stage and motion pictures, died Saturday of cancer. He established his reputation by writing and producing "Follies of the Day" on Broadway from 1908 to 1926.

Suffragette Succumbs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Lucy Kennedy Miller, 81, a founder of the League of Women Voters and a leader in the women's suffrage movement, died Saturday. Mrs. Miller was a Braddock, Pa., native.

Man Must Say It With Poetry in Egyptian Desert

CAIRO — A man who wrote a wife among the western desert tribes of Egypt must be a poet. The woman can cheat a little by getting someone else to help her write the verses.

By ancient custom, courtship usually flourishes around some desert well in the early morning hours.

A boy seeing a girl who brings that old light to his eyes will begin singing a poem he has composed.

If she feels likewise, she will respond with a spontaneous verse of weight are considered harmful, or, if she can't think of a verse, she will give him a token to hold, while she runs off to get help in composing a proper reply. The following morning she will chant it off to her suitor.

If she doesn't, he may as well go look for another well.

U. S. Sportsmen Spend $3.8 Billion Last Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some 30 million American sportsmen and sportswomen spent $3.8 billion to go hunting last year, according to the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

About 3 per cent of the cost went for licenses, 10 per cent for food and lodging, 14 per cent for transportation, 17 per cent for fishing and hunting equipment, 30 per cent for auxiliary equipment and 24 per cent for privilege fees and miscellaneous costs.

An intercontinental missile platform bomber uses 1,708,798 rivets, 205,528 nuts and 139,984 washers.

Urbanization Goes On

WASHINGTON — The United States' change from a predominantly rural society to an urban one was noted by the 1960 census, which showed that 51.2 per cent of the population lived in cities and towns. The 1960 census revealed that 69.9 per cent lived in cities or suburbs.

Girl Right in Refusing Your Gift

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: My son is in the army and stationed in a small town several hundred miles from here. In a letter he wrote to me recently he enclosed a check and asked me to buy a birthday present for his fiancée as he could not get anything for her in town.

I bought her a very pretty slip. When I gave it to her, she said it was lovely but that she could not accept it. I was very hurt over this and think she was very impolite to refuse the gift.

A: I bought the slip and not my son and considering that they are engaged, don't you think she was overly punctilious in refusing to accept it?

A: A slip was not a very proper choice for a gift from your son even though you selected it, and the girl was, strictly speaking, right in not accepting it.

Q: I have been asked by my nephew to take the place of his mother (my sister, now deceased) at his wedding. Never having acted in this capacity before I am completely non-plussed as to my duties. Most of the guests will be strangers to me. Will you please tell me what I am expected to do?

A: Further than standing in the receiving line at the reception, no more is expected of you than of any other wedding guest.

You will probably stand next to the bride's mother and she will introduce those who are strangers to you, and you shake hands with them and make the usual answers to what they each say to you.

Q: How should the professional cards of a dentist be engraved, and how the personal cards that include his wife?

A: Professional cards should be engraved John Henry Smith followed by the letters of his degree, and personal cards would be engraved Dr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith.

Q: My engagement has just recently been announced and I received a very beautiful engagement ring from my fiancé. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to show it to people without their asking, or must I wait for them to ask to see it?

A: Except to really intimate friends it would be in best taste not to show your ring, or mention it unless someone notices it, asks, "Is that your engagement ring?" You would then hold up your hand and say, "Yes it is." Or if one overheard, "What a beautiful ring," you would say, "I think it is!" (with recent on D.)

Q: Who pays for what at the wedding? The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Wedding Expenses" answers this question in detail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

Looking very young and very fresh is this short summer froth of sheer cotton-chiffon. Dubbed "Sheer Bliss" by Pauline Trigrere, the dress is fashioned of Gale and Lord fabric in brown and white diagonal plaid with pleated flounce and a simple bodice.

(NEW YORK UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has sponsored new interest in Americana with her program of refurbishing the White House in authentic furnishings from various periods of U.S. history.

Above all similar interest in Americana gets a giant assist from a unique museum started by two men who believe the cultural image overseas of the United States could stand improvement.

The two are founders of the American Museum in Britain, which has just opened its latest addition — a detailed replica of the flower gardens at George Washington's Mount Vernon home. The gardens are the gift of the Colonial Dames of America.

AT BATH, ENGLAND — The museum is located at Claverton Manor, Bath, England, 107 miles west of London. Sir Winston Churchill is supposed to have made his first political speech at Claverton 65 years ago.

When we heard of the garden presentation, we hid ourselves off to the headquarters of the Friends of the American Museum in Britain, where we found Mrs. Norman Walker, widowed mother of four grown sons, presiding.

The late Mrs. Walker, with a background in fashion sales and magazine work, is the Friends' executive secretary. The Friends' chairman is Mrs.

Thomas S. Lament of the Morgan and Lament banking families.

"I'm the lookout girl for more items of historical interest to add to the museum," said Mrs. Walker. "Our next big project will be the Old West and we'll have to add a wing to the museum to house it."

ORIGINATED IDEA — She said the "taking coals to Newcastle" project was the brainchild of Dr. Dallas Pratt, psychiatrist on the staff of St. Luke's Hospital, New York, and John Judkyn, English-born American who runs a wholesale antiques business.

"The two, friends from World War II days and both collectors, were as Mrs. Walker put it, "plucked" that the English thought all Americans new-rich and not appreciative of the arts."

Judkyn has put it another way — "We hope to correct the popular image of America as a country with little cultural background."

The site of the museum is 35 acres of rolling countryside including the manor house of some 33 rooms and galleries built in 1820 for one of England's landed gentry.

The architect, Sir Jeffrey Wyattville, worked for George IV and helped restore Windsor Castle, which is one of the homes of the British royal family.

Mrs. Walker said the museum's convention which is held every four years.

Model Husband Overworked

Too Pooped to Participate

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have one of the best husbands in the world, and I know it. He puts in a nine - hours day of hard work, and then comes home and helps me with the housework.

He keeps all the floors waxed and polished. He takes care of the woodwork, keeps the windows sparkling, and he even does the washing and ironing (yes, I said ironing) when I am behind in my work.

Last week he canned 100 quarts of peaches. Now, here is my problem. He isn't very loving. It would mean so much to me if he would just be a little more affectionate. I am only 33 and he is 38.

NEEDS AFFECTION

DEAR NEEDS: Maybe he's tired!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is having in-law trouble and she isn't even married yet!

When her future in-laws saw the wedding invitations, they hit the ceiling because their names didn't appear along with ours.

We checked all the etiquette books and the first-class printers and engravers in town and they agreed that in no instance should the names of the groom's parents appear on the invitations.

Well, to make a long story short, we had to have another set of invitations made up to keep peace in the family.

So, Dear Abby, in your role of peace-maker, please suggest that everyone have two sets of wedding invitations made. One to be socially correct, and the other to keep peace.

FATHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR FATHER: You are to be admired for your generosity, but I doubt if your suggestion will be taken by many. In putting on weddings, most people would rather be socially correct than "friendly."

DEAR ABBY: The person who wrote in to say it was "unhealthy" for a husband and wife to sleep in the same bed reminds me of the mother who wouldn't kiss her baby because it might spread "germs."

Personally, I couldn't wait to find a man I truly loved. Nuts to hot water bottles and electric blankets to keep me warm. There is nothing wrong with sharing a bed with your own husband. That's the way the good Lord intended it to be.

If married folk would throw out the twin beds and go back to the big old-fashioned double bed, there would be fewer divorces.

NO PROBLEM

DEAR NO: And to that I say "Amen." What's a poke in the ribs or an occasional cold foot in your back compared to togetherness?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "N": You never realize how fast a month can go by until you pay alimony. Think it over.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

Don't Starve Work Hard Say Yes

How to keep from starving in Hollywood: Be in the right place at the right time, say yes to a part in any kind of movie, and work like a dog to learn the business.

This formula, rather than knowing influential people in high places, keep appearing in interviews with youngsters who recognize not everyone can be a star, but that the right performer can keep busy even in the highly competitive movie capital.

TIMING RIGHT
John Ashley arrived in Hollywood when there was need for more young men to appear in "Men of Annapolis." The timing was right, and in no time he was marching around the Annapolis parade grounds, and being paid for it.

Now teamed with Brian Kelly in a television weekly, he works as completely as though he hoped for an Emmy. Both he and Brian debunk the theory that being seen in the right places has any bearing on their professional success.

"The important thing is your performance on the set. You learn a tremendous amount about acting by watching the other performers and listening to the director."

Actually, both young men have dramatic training in college days behind them. Brian majored in political science in college, but spent the summers in stock. A dramatics major in college, John picked up all the technique he could and then headed west.

With Parties, Luncheons

'Shower' Mrs.-to-Be

"Rockin' round the clock" was the theme for a shower and luncheon given by Mrs. John Hauser of Birmingham and Mrs. Gerald Gilbert of Charlottesville, Va. at the Detroit Golf Club honoring bride-elect Sally Lynne Young.

Mrs. Stephen Pettit of Bloomfield Township, Mrs. Robert Scullen and daughter Mary Ellen were hostesses at a buffet supper and linen shower. Mrs. Howard T. Howlett of Detroit and daughter Mrs. Dick Mabey gave a shower and luncheon at the Detroit Golf Club, and last week Mrs. John P. Denison of Birmingham invited all the hostesses to luncheon.

The Loy Sutherlands of Lake Orion honored Miss Young and her fiancé, Roderic V. Wiley Jr., at cocktails and dinner in the Detroit Athletic Club. Mrs. Martin W. Bosa of Detroit and daughter Mrs. John Norton, Farmington, received guests for tea and a linen shower.

A kitchen shower is set for July 21 with Mrs. George Olmstead and daughter Carol of Bloomfield Village, hostesses. Maryann Ogur of Bloomfield Hills will entertain the younger set at a personal shower.

COUPLES PARTY

The Robert T. Kellys will have a couples' party in their home and the L. P. Mannings of Detroit have set a bar-becue shower and dinner for Aug. 4.

Mrs. Cecil Akroyd, Bloomfield Hills, will give the spinster luncheon Aug. 10 in Oakland Hills Country Club. Among the guests will be the honoree's bridesmaids Mrs. Gerald Roosa, Mrs. John Norton, Mrs. Sandra Cinnamon, Miss Ogur, Judith Boca of Chicago, Karen Kansteiner of Milwaukee, Wis., and the maid of honor, Sue Carol Young.

The Stanley M. Humphreys (left) of Bloomfield Hills chat with Stewart M. Cram of Birmingham, vice chairman of the Detroit Horse Show, during the party given by the Irving A. Pine Lake Unit Presents First Flower Exhibit

"Summer Portraits" was the theme for the first flower show to be presented by Pine Lake Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, last week, in the Sylvan Lake Lutheran Church.

Judging the 25 entries by members and five invitational entries were Mrs. Marvin Kaite and Mrs. John Rundell. Student judges were Mrs. Parker Rockwell, Mrs. Newton Skilman Jr., Mrs. Frederick Stefanski and Mrs. Russell Kock. Assisting as clerks were Mrs. Kenneth Scoblin and Mrs. Clarence W. Suhr.

Two blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. Richard Finze for her arrangements "Roses for Remembrance" and "Green Tranquillity". Eight members received blue ribbons for arrangements and 18 for horticulture. Cub Scouts, Den 9, Pack 22, displayed conservation plant materials.

Recipients of the greatest number of ribbons were Mrs. Carl R. Giese, Mrs. Suhr, and Mrs. Harold E. Schneider. Mrs. Kock was show chairman and Mrs. James E. Jones, cochairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grosse of St. Joseph Road, West Bloomfield Township, were hosts Saturday at a patio dinner for members and husbands.

The number of new animals discovered each year is about 50 mammals, 100 fish, 15 birds and 5,000 insects.

A "real cool entry" in the decor class was this ice horse perched on the table during the Duffys' party. Mrs. Dan O'Madigan of Birmingham and a member of the horse show's hostess committee and Mrs. Stewart Cram admire the icy artwork before it drips away.

Linen Inventory

Household linens will wear longer if you keep a sufficient supply on hand so you can rotate their use. Place clean laundry at the bottom of the pile in the linen closet and select top pieces for use.

Be sure to change both sheets at least every week. Unless laundered often, bedding will require strenuous washing action which may weaken fibers.

Cars Drive Gals to Think

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Millions of women have traded back-seat driving for front-but they're still sounding off.

So reports N. Jeanne Wertz, founder and director of the Automotive Council for Women. Its purpose is education of women in the finer points of owning, operating, maintaining and enjoying the family auto.

Miss Wertz estimates there are 30 million women drivers, that women account for 60 per cent of service station sales, and that there are 7.4 million two-or-more car families, which means 7.4 million feminine chauffeurs particularly in the suburbs.

Membership in the council, organized at the beginning of the year, now numbers nearly 10,000, said Miss Wertz. Although only a fraction of the potential, Miss Wertz said it's a highly vocal fraction judging from letters coming into council headquarters.

Many of the letters praise the automotive industry, but Miss Wertz said the bulk either are the "why don't they" type or outright gripes.

"When a woman gets into a car, knocks off her hat and her skirts ride up, she's more apt to sound off than she is to write about convenience of owning a car, the fun of driving, or its pleasing color scheme," she said.

Letters comment on car size, safety on buying, and on filling station treatment.

One woman figured the solution to some design problems lay in Detroit's hiring women engineers.

Said another, "If I gained a pound, I wouldn't fit behind the steering wheel."

"Where has the running board gone and why don't they bring it back?" asks another member.

One writer complained about the auto "well" on some makes, because it "is so hard to clean and uncomfortable to ride with."

Letters also have commented on the amount of glass used — "cinemascope windows which let too much sun both front and back," said one writer. Said another, "I would feel safe if the windows were smaller and there was less glass."

One woman suggested that designers produce a car with a special roll-in grocery car which would do away with the back-breaking lift in and out of car seat or trunk. "That," she said, "is the kind of extra I'd like."

Miss Wertz said numerous letters are concerned with children's safety.

One woman suggested that someone design a car safe for children to stand in, since most children were determined to do just that. Another suggested doing away with "the buttons on doors so children can't open them when the car is moving." Still another wanted some sort of safety equipment to make a car "rump-proof" when little drivers are at the wheel of a parked auto.

Car salesmen irritated some writers. "Why don't they treat us like they do when we shop for refrigerators, stoves and houses?" wrote one.

"Help," wrote another, "I am buying a car, or trying to, and am lost in prices, deals, financing and extras."

Miss Wertz said one of the most confusing areas to women is that of service station or garage.

"The worst thing is trying to understand them (service station men)," wrote one woman. "They talk Greek to women."

"Can you help me not feel too dumb and at their mercy?" asked a woman who said she drove from 30,000 to 40,000 miles a year on her job.

Miss Wertz said so many letters begin, "I hate to ask a man because he might laugh."

"They're right," she said. "Men would probably laugh. Yet if men stopped to think how confused they would be in a beauty shop or dress shop they would appreciate our dilemma."

Heirloom Earrings Lend Note of Grace as Jo Ann Hurlburt Speaks Vows

Antique metal and bone earrings made from buttons on her great-grandmother's wedding dress provided the traditional "something old" when Jo Ann Hurlburt became Mrs. Elwyn D. Myers Saturday in the First Congregational Church.

Rev. Malcolm K. Burton officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony, first to be performed in the newly finished sanctuary.

Daughter of the William T. Hurlburts of Elmhurst Street, Waterford Township, the bride wore white silk organza over tulle. Re-embroidered Alencon lace formed the bodice and encircled the bouffant floor-length skirt.

A seed pearl tiana caught the triple-tier bubble veil of silk illusion. The bride carried pink sweetheart roses, Stephanotis and miniature carnations.

Attending their cousin as bridesmaids were Janice Stearns, Cherry Hill, N. J., and Sandra Nicholson; her former college roommate Carolyn Buta, Ponton, and Judy Kuhn, Detroit. Gail Mitchell was maid of honor. Snappedragons and carnations in mutation shades of pale pink to deep red complimented their dresses of pink chiffon.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Myers of Pontwater, had his brother-in-law, Harold Carlie, Lake Orion, for best man, and his cousin, Robert Gunberg of Chicago, as usher.

MRS. ELWYN D. MYERS

with Lewis Melino and William Bush, Cleveland, and James Russell, Brandon, William Stearns, Cherry Hill N. J., was candle lighter.

After a northern Michigan honeymoon, the couple will summer in Parma, Ohio. The bride will teach in Louisville, Ky., this fall while Mr. Myers attends University of Louisville dental school.

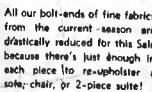

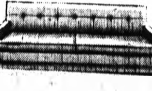

For the wedding and church reception Mrs. Hurlburt wore an imported pink silk organza tiered abetah dress and wrist corsage of pink sweetheart roses. White curtains accented a pink silk print for the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Fred Stahelin of Custer.

Jo Ann Hurlburt, daughter of the William T. Hurlburts, Elmhurst Street, Waterford Township, and Elwyn D. Myers of Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Myers of Pontwater, spoke their vows Saturday in the First Congregational Church.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

This week's Tailor This pressing board winner is Mrs. Earl Ryan, Haddon, Ont.

"My little tip," she writes, "might help anyone who has a hat that is a little loose. I buy a velvet ribbon about 1 inch wide in a color to match the hat. Sew it over the grosgrain head band inside the hat. The velvet clings to the hair and keeps the hat on much better. The velvet ribbon also makes the hat a little smaller."

"Dear Eunice:

"Seems like in summer my small children wear out the knees in their jeans, corduroys and pajamas faster than I can mend them. Do you have any good ideas for a quick mending job?"

Mrs. T. J.

In doing any mending or patching of pants legs of any type, it will be much easier if you rip open the in-seam and mend them in a flat position. It only takes a second to re-stitch the inner leg seam.

For PJs and corduroy pants, make patches look like characters in a coloring or story book, such as a cat, dog, clown, angel, or most anything that seems appropriate. They can be applied on or put on with a zig-zag attachment on your machine. They will actually add something novel to the pants and delight the small children more than a new pair.

STRIP OF FABRIC

If boys are unusually hard on their play pants, sew a strip of fabric across the front of the pants, exactly where the knees will come. This should be sewed onto the WRONG side of the pants legs and this double-layer of fabric will keep the knees from coming through quite so fast.

DEAR READER:

I very innocently started a "wet" about silks, when I mentioned recently that they didn't shrink and needed underlining. Thanks to all of you for writing me both the hostile as well as the informative letters.

The main point of controversy seems to be the "type of silk." I was referring to the most popular type of silk used today, namely, the hand-loomed raw silk from India. This usually is rather loosely woven; some types actually resemble burlap.

It is advisable to have these silks dry cleaned instead of washing them and for this reason I didn't suggest shrinking the silk. Also, because of the loose weave, it is much better to underline the material to help retain the shape of the garment.

The silk so many of you wrote to me about was the Japanese raw silk which is very closely woven and rather stiff, almost like denim.

This silk would shrink a great deal if washed, but again, if dry cleaned, it would not have to be reshaped. It is usually not color-fast, so if you are planning to wash it, soak it in cold salt water or vinegar water before cutting to help "set" the color.

This is a very practical type of fabric and is a glutton for hard wear, whereas the Indian raw silk is more of a luxury fabric, although its wearing qualities are also excellent.

SAYS 'THANKS'

"Dear Eunice:

"I can thank you indirectly for helping me regain a good figure again. When I had to measure myself and then try my dresses on for fitting, I couldn't stand to look at myself, so I did something about it. Now I love to see for myself and don't cringe at the sight of my figure. My question is this: How does one fit oneself when the dress has a zipper down the center back?"

Mrs. M. J.

I believe in fitting your garments at the two side seams. Baste the bodice to the skirt, both front and back. Now baste the center back seam together up to 7" below the neck edge. You can slip your dress over your head now and be ready for the side fittings.

First, be sure the waistline is in the proper place. This is easily done by tying a string tightly around the waist. The waistline seam should be slightly below this string so that you have a little ease in the bodice.

If the waistline seam is exactly right, you can fit the side seams next. Place the pins vertically on the stitching line. WRONG sides of fabric touching, and the seams extending at the sides.

After the garment has been fitted correctly, take a piece of marking chalk and, with the seams spread open, rub the chalk on your pins. When you take your dress off, the marks will appear on the wrong side of your dress and be ready for machine stitching.

Swim 'n' Rain Apparel Is Fashionable 'n' Bright

By ALICIA HART

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

An attractive swimsuit will always draw attention. It's a rare gem on the beach who won't have an appraising look at the feminine scenery.

The length of the glance depends pretty much on whether or not his wife is with him. But whether that glance will be one of appreciation or derision was decided the day the swimsuit was bought.

For anyone who is not a swim team, there's just one kind of swimsuit that can flatter—namely, the one-piece suit.

As for the mature woman who thinks she looks young in a bikini, I suggest she look in a full-length mirror before she ventures on the beach. Unless a h's wearing the right clothes ever made, she'll give up the idea.

The bikini will get attention, but any dictionary will tell you that attention isn't a synonym for admiration.

You might long to be a swim team thing, but wishing won't make it so. Give some thought to becoming an attractive woman instead.

There's no point in adding to the dreariness of a rainy day by going to class in a combination of old clothes. The teenager who wears any old thing on wet days is missing

Mental Illness

Q. I have heard that mental illness can often be traced to some unfortunate experience in early or childhood. Is this true?

A. Over the years the belief that early experiences contribute to development of mental illness has gained acceptance. However, this basic idea has always been a subject of sharp debate. Those who disagree contend that mental illness has its roots elsewhere than in early childhood. Much of the disagreement springs from the difficulty of conducting research studies on mental illness. The usual procedure is to start with the mentally disturbed person and try to find out what made him that way. This approach is not satisfactory because of the long time between the events thought to be important and the actual occurrence of the illness.

Morrill Act Ended Caste System in Higher Education

WASHINGTON, D.C.—They said later that Abraham Lincoln "on that day had lighted a candle that would guide future generations of Americans out of the dark night of ignorance."

But it was a moment of history that passed without notice, an act of faith that was long unrequited.

In midsummer, 1862, the nation was in a civil war, a tragedy that was to claim more than half a million lives and leave horrible scars on the face of American history.

Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee had just thrown back Gen. George B. McClellan's Army of the Potomac in the Seven Days' battles.

The Treasury Department in Washington was advising its agents: "Wherever you find an agent, a product, a trade, a profession, or a source of income, fight it." Long months of bloody fighting lay ahead, and the future was bleak.

Small wonder, then, that the country paid scant heed when President Lincoln on July 2, 1862, signed into law the Morrill Act, the most important single piece of federal legislation in the history of American Education.

The Morrill Act led to the establishment of 68 unique land-grant colleges and universities, including such honored and distinguished institutions as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Illinois, Auburn, Texas A. & M. and Michigan State University. But it did more than that, much more.

It put higher education within the grasp of all who could profit by it, be they sons of wealthy families or children of the poor. It paved the way for an agricultural revolution that is the envy and the wonder of the world, and which is not yet ended.

It spawned programs of adult education and extension services which may well be this country's most important exports to the undeveloped areas of the world in the years ahead.

Former Rep. Henry Aldous Dixon, R-Utah, told the House of Representatives three years ago:

"The Morrill Act opened the way to equality of opportunity in education, the right of every American to learn what he can. The act, in effect, abolished the caste system in higher education; it made college possible for people who work for a living."

Not even Rep. Justin Smith Morrill of Vermont, himself, could have foreseen the wonders that were to blossom from the legislation for which he had fought so long.

If Lincoln made any comment when he signed the bill, history doesn't record it.

UNIMPOUNDED

The Washington Star made no mention of it in reporting each of the "important" bills Lincoln signed that day.

But sometime during a hot and sticky day 100 years ago today Abraham Lincoln took a quill pen in hand and signed:

"An act donating public lands to the several states and territories which may provide colleges . . . where the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes."

The act granted each state 30,000 acres of federal land lying within that state for each of its members of Congress. States which no longer had enough federal land within their boundaries for the purposes of the act were given script which entitled them to land in still undeveloped western states. New states collected when they entered the union, or sometimes while still territories.

Income from the sale of the land and the script was to be invested in "stocks of the United States or of the states, or some safe stocks, yielding not less than 4 per cent upon the par value of said stocks."

The capital investment itself was to remain forever undiminished. The income from the investment was to be used only for the educational goals of the act.

Eventually, the states received 11,383,082 acres in either land or land scrip, and sold them for a total $13,478,946. By today's standards, that $13.5 million is bagatelle.

Purdue University, for instance, now has an annual operating budget of $30 million, which does not include construction.

But the interest alone from that $13.5 million set great forces in motion.

Today there are 68 land grant colleges or universities, at least one in every state and one in Puerto Rico.

They enroll 20 per cent of all U.S. college students. They use 40 per cent of all the doctors' degrees awarded in this country. Through their ROTC programs, they furnish practically almost half of all the regular and reserve officers in the armed forces.

Twenty-five of the 42 living American Nobel Prize winners have earned degrees from land-grant institutions.

Research at these colleges and universities brought the development of the first cyclotron, television tube, transistor, the production of pure uranium, and the discovery of such wonder drugs as streptomycin, stillbirth and dicumaron.

The ceramics, soybean and wood-pulp industries all had their start in land-grant colleges.

But perhaps the greatest impact these institutions have had is the field of agriculture.

As Rep. Dixon told the House: "The fact that the productivity of our agriculture is unparalleled in world history, the fact that our problem in America is how best to use our abundance rather than how to prevent starvation, the fact that we are sharing our plenty with the hungry of this earth—all of these blessings are due in innumerable degree to our land-grant colleges."

In 1862, a farmer produced enough for himself and only four others. Today he produces enough for 26 others.

In 1862, the average corn crop in Illinois was about 15 bushels per acre. Today it is 77.

In 1862, the South harvested about 150 pounds of cotton per acre. Today that same acre produces 430 pounds.

All this was part of the dream of Rep. Morrill when he first introduced his land-grant act in Congress on April 20, 1858.

"Men waste hundreds of acres of land on the theory that it is unobtainable," Morrill told the house.

"Our population is rapidly increasing and brings annually increasing demands for bread and clothing. If we can barely meet this demand while we have fresh soils to appropriate, we shall surely reach the point of our decline and fall."

"The nation which tills the soil so as to leave it more than they found it is doomed to decay and degradation."

Historians do not agree on whether Morrill or Jonathan Baldwin Turner should be credited with originating the land-grant idea.

Turner in 1850 urged that Illinois endow a state university with the money it received from the sale of public lands. Morrill said later he first got the idea of land-grant colleges about 1863. But "where I obtained the first hint of such a measure, I am wholly unable to say."

But, whoever had the idea first, it was Morrill, son of a Vermont blacksmith, who pushed it through Congress.

To do it, he had to overcome opposition from Westerners, who did not want the land within their borders sold to outsiders; from Southerners, who saw the federally funded institutions as an invasion of states rights; and from President Buchanan, who vetoed the measure after it first passed the House and Senate.

The Morrill Act squeaked by the House in 1858 by a vote of 165

versities, and violate the constitution, and declared, "The telegraphic news of this veto will start a tear from the eye of more than one manly boy, whose ambition will now be snuffed in the bud."

In December 1861, when Morrill brought his bill before the House again, he found the going much easier.

First, the secession of the South gave a boost through Congress by being called "the National Defense Education Act of 1868."

This time the vote was 91-25 in the house and 32-1 in the Senate.

Although Lincoln made no recorded comment when he signed the bill, he was aware of the potential. As he eloquently put it at the both a profit and a pleasure."

Festive Food Important on Fourth

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Father no longer gets his thumb blown off, setting a light to fireworks on the Fourth of July.

Now he burns that thumb on the barbecue grill.

The Fourth is truly a picnic day. Fortunately, most of us aren't afflicted with long-winded speeches as our parents and grandparents were. But the galaxy remains.

Until now I haven't said a word about safety in your picnic basket. So let me get in a few admonitions about keeping cold foods cold and hot foods hot.

Make your sandwiches at the picnic table. Add the mayo, make to salads at the last minute. And leave cream-filled pastries out of the picnic basket entirely.

Insulated picnic refrigerators are such a common part of the picnic equipment these days that it should be easy to keep your food well chilled. Anyhow, you can take along a can and open when you eat is safer.

Chicken firecrackers are a main dish in aluminum foil. You make chicken salad sandwiches in French rolls, wrap them in foil and heat them on the grill. Get everything ready except the mayonnaise; carry it all on ice. Then add the mayonnaise just before grilling the sandwiches.

Chicken Firecrackers
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1/4 cup diced celery
1/4 cup diced almonds, toasted
1 tablespoon diced onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 pound grated cheddar cheese
8 French rolls

Combine chicken, celery, almonds, onion, lemon juice, salt, pepper, mayonnaise, cheddar cheese well.

Scoop out center of each French roll; fill with chicken mixture. Wrap each roll in aluminum foil, making ends to resemble firecrackers.

Place on grill; heat about 20 minutes, turning several times. Yield: Eight firecrackers.

If there are a number of children at the picnic, treat them to popcorn rockets. These you can make at home and carry anywhere.

Popcorn Rockets and Launching Pad
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups light corn syrup
1 tablespoon salt
1-3 cup water
1/4 cup butter or margarine
6 quarts popped popcorn
Heavy wooden meat slicer (gummed if possible)
Small flags

Narrow (1/4 inch wide) red and white ribbon

Combine sugar, syrup, salt, water and butter or margarine in large saucepan. Cook over med-

POPCORN ROCKET — Why not "blast off" your holiday meals with a most unusual centerpiece — popcorn rockets, complete with colorful nose cones and launching pad! Your own little astronaut will applaud the idea of an edible rocket, and so will you because it's as simple as ABC to make.

erate heat, stirring constantly, until sugar melts. Continue cooking, stirring frequently, until syrup reaches the crack stage (200 degrees). Pour syrup over popcorn; stir just until kernels are evenly coated.

Park about 1-3 of the mixture into a well buttered 8-inch round layer pan. Press corn down evenly. Shape remaining popcorn into rockets (one end pointed) about 5 inches long and 2 inches in diameter. Plunge wooden skewers into blunt end of each rocket.

Cut 5-inch circles out of colored paper; cut out 1-3 of each circle and paste edges of remaining 2-3 together to form a cone, leaving a tiny hole in top of cone. Set cone on pointed ends of rockets and hold in place with a tiny flag on a wooden pick.

Turn popcorn cake out of pan and make holes in it with pointed end of wooden skewer. Press onto

Mix Wheat Germ Into Hamburgers

These nutritious additions stretch ground beef and add good flavor and texture.

New Healthburger
1 pound ground beef
1/4 cup wheat germ
1/4 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons instant minced onion

Mix all ingredients thoroughly; shape into 6 hamburgers. Grill over charcoal or fry in 1 tablespoon butter in 5 heavy skillet. Double recipe if desired.

Make up the barbecue sauce ahead of time too.

Seafood Kabobs
4 medium-size rock-lobster tails (5 to 7 ounces each)
1/2 pound sea scallops
1 large green pepper
8 large fresh mushrooms
Seafood Special Barbecue Sauce
4 skewers

Let rock-lobster tails and scallops thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Cut away thin undershell of lobster tails with scissors. Carefully slip fingers under meat and work meat out of shell; cut into pieces about same size as scallops.

Remove seeds and cut green pepper into 1 1/2-inch pieces. Cook 5 minutes in boiling salted water to cover; drain. Remove stems from mushrooms.

Arrange seafood, pepper and mushroom caps on skewers as desired. Brush with barbecue sauce. Cook kabobs 2 to 3 inches from source of heat (bed of coals or broiler); 5 minutes; turn, brush again, and cook 2 to 5 minutes longer. Serve with extra sauce spooned over. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

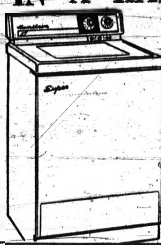

Seafood Special Barbecue Sauce
Saute 1 medium onion, chopped, in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until tender. Add 1 cup catsup, 1/3 cup water, juice 2 large lemons, 2 tablespoons sherry, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire. Cover, cook over low heat 15 minutes. Mixture about 2 cups.

CHICKEN FIRECRACKERS — Chicken firecrackers create their own Fourth of July fun — as picknickers discover the tasty sandwiches heated in foil wrappers. Prepare the fixings at home and assemble the firecrackers at the picnic site. Only a brief heating is necessary.

Shortest on Record

Carol Lynley Ends 'Retirement'

By BOB THOMAS
 AP Movie-Television Writer
 HOLLYWOOD — It seemed like the shortest retirement on record. Carol Lynley was back at work after reportedly quitting movies a year and a half ago for the domestic life.

There, she was, working under the hot lights again, roller skating with Richard Beymer for a second in "A Woman in July." But even under such circumstances she looked as fresh as vanilla ice cream while coolly denying an intention of quitting.

"Other people retired me for me," she said, sitting around the syntax. "It was the brainstorm of a certain producer, who thought he would pull another Diane Varsi. Not mentioning any name." I will, Jerry Wald. He is the producer of "A Woman in July," as well as Miss Lynley's last picture before her so-called retirement. "Return to Peyton Place." I provide this service because Mr. Wald sometimes gets upset when his name isn't mentioned.

MARRIED, MOTHER
 During Carol's absence from the screen, she married publisher

Mike Selzman, settled in a home here and gave birth to a baby, named Marguerite. Despite all this domesticity, retirement is further from her mind.

"I was miserable the whole time I was gone," she commented with refreshing candor. "If the experience taught me anything, it is that I am entirely unsuited to be a housewife. My before being hauled to Hollywood husband agrees with me, and heifer 'Light in the Forest' at Dine."

She has been doing it for half of her 20 years, having started early in New York. She did modeling, television and stage acting.

Featured in the daytime activities was the Freedom Festival of parade and the judging of parade floats at Jackson Park, Windsor, Ont.

University officials say it is one of the most complete collections of storage grain insects in North America. Some of the specimens were collected as far back as 1890.

Dear Patrons:
 For all the years that I have been presenting motion pictures, I have seen only a handful as great as "The Counterfeit Traitor". I am happy to report that this is not only my opinion, but that of critics coast-to-coast, who have written reviews like:

"THRILLING, AS 'THE BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI'... EXCITING FOR WOMEN AS WELL AS FOR MEN!"
 — ALICE HUGHES, King Features columnist

I feel sure that you will agree with the critics and myself that "The Counterfeit Traitor" is a tremendous motion picture that must be seen. I urge you to see it.
 Sincerely yours,

READY TO ROLL — Actress Carol Lynley skates on the set of "A Woman in July," marking her return to movie making after reportedly quitting over a year ago. She is married and a mother, but is nevertheless glad to get back to acting, she says.

Fireworks: Display Stated for Festival

DETROIT (UPI) — A mammoth fireworks display over the Detroit River was the highlight of the city's activities in the international Freedom Festival.

The display, scheduled for 9:30 tonight, was expected to draw a crowd of some 250,000. The pyrotechnics will be shot from barges anchored in the river and down town traffic will be blocked off in the area an hour before the show is scheduled to start to avoid traffic jams.

Featured in the daytime activities was the Freedom Festival of parade and the judging of parade floats at Jackson Park, Windsor, Ont.

University officials say it is one of the most complete collections of storage grain insects in North America. Some of the specimens were collected as far back as 1890.

Detective Uses Trade To Regain Pictures

DES MOINES, Iowa — Edward J. McCarthy, chief of detectives for the Des Moines Police Department, picked up some color film he had taken of his grandchildren, only to discover the pictures were not his.

So he reported to his production, and with a magnifying glass spotted a license number on a car in the picture. Thus McCarthy traced the pictures to Walter Twister of Des Moines, who had received McCarthy's film.

Featured in the daytime activities was the Freedom Festival of parade and the judging of parade floats at Jackson Park, Windsor, Ont.

University officials say it is one of the most complete collections of storage grain insects in North America. Some of the specimens were collected as far back as 1890.

Dear Patrons:
 For all the years that I have been presenting motion pictures, I have seen only a handful as great as "The Counterfeit Traitor". I am happy to report that this is not only my opinion, but that of critics coast-to-coast, who have written reviews like:

"THRILLING, AS 'THE BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI'... EXCITING FOR WOMEN AS WELL AS FOR MEN!"
 — ALICE HUGHES, King Features columnist

I feel sure that you will agree with the critics and myself that "The Counterfeit Traitor" is a tremendous motion picture that must be seen. I urge you to see it.

Tornado Hits Boyne City

BOYNE CITY, Mich. — A small tornado touched down at several places along a four-mile stretch of farmland Saturday, knocking down one barn, damaging another and causing heavy crop damage. The twister, accompanied by hailstones reportedly the size of golf balls, also felled trees and power lines.

India's 1960-61 rice crop is estimated at 33.7 million tons, 8 per cent more than in 1959-60.

Medicare Debate Opens in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate began debate today on the 1962 session—health care for the aged financed under the Social Security System.

Assistant Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota told a reporter he was confident a bipartisan proposal to establish such a system would close the Senate by the end of the week despite a Fourth of July break Wednesday.

STILL OPPOSED

Sponsors claimed a good margin for the health program and said a number of Republicans would vote for it. However, many Republicans and some Southern Democrats remain opposed to Social Security financing.

Even if the measure clears the Senate it would face rough days ahead. The House Ways and Means Committee has refused to act on the administration measure for more than a year and obstacles to House action would be formidable.

The House has arranged to pass an atomic energy authorization bill today or Tuesday, then adjourn for the holiday Wednesday with no business scheduled for the rest of the week.

A compromise sugar act extension bill, passed by the House Saturday, also comes up in the Senate today. The measure may be cleared for President Kennedy's signature by nightfall.

The Social Security health plan will be offered by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., as an amendment to a House-passed bill amending the public assistance law.

Democratic leaders are anxious not to delay the House bill for long because a number of its provisions extend programs which expired Saturday midnight, the end of fiscal 1962.

Anderson's proposal, worked out after prolonged negotiation with five Republican senators who agree to co-sponsor it along with 17 Democrats, contains the same benefits as the administration bill pushed earlier in this Congress.

BENEFITS INCLUDED

These include hospitalization, nursing home care, home health services and outpatient hospital diagnostic services.

They would be financed by a one-fourth per cent increase in the Social Security payroll tax on both employers and employees and by raising the taxable base from $4,800 to $5,200 a year.

Anderson won some Republican support by agreeing to an option feature under which a person reaching 65 could elect to continue with a private insurance plan. It gave him the same benefits as the basic Social Security package. The Social Security Administration then would reimburse the company for payments and for administrative costs.

Anderson also agreed to bring under his bill the 2½ million persons over 65 not covered by Social Security or railroad retirement, to put the new issue into a special trust fund and to give the states a role in the program. All these helped win some GOP support.

The Senate Finance Committee has scheduled its final two days of hearings today and Tuesday on Kennedy's tax revision bill, which passed the House in March.

Committee Chairman Harry J. Byrd, D-Va., strongly opposes the two most important provisions of the tax measure—a $1.35-billion investment credit to give business incentive to modernize its plants and individuals and interest.

Larger Mexican Cities Require Bigger Tips

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Tourists traveling from the United States to Mexico are advised that a 15 per cent tip is expected in most restaurants and hotels.

Bellboys in Acapulco, Mexico City, Monterrey and other popular resort areas expect higher tips than elsewhere. A traveler who tips 50 cents for a service rendered in a hotel in the United States should tip about 35 cents for the same service in Mexico.

Monumental Monument

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Senator Alfred Just says plans are under way at Nogales to build the largest monument in Latin America. He says his creation will be about 400 feet long, 98 feet wide and high, and feature a 32 foot figure of Mexican hero Benito Juarez.

Bushey Tree Pretty Big

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Don't blame Theodore Bushey, 88, Tucson, if he can't name off his grandchildren. He has an even 100 of them.

Teamsters End 7-Week Strike

Walkout at N.Y., N.J. Parcel Service Over After Locals Agree

NEW YORK (UPI) — Members of four Teamster locals in New York and New Jersey return to work today on United Parcel Service trucks ending a seven-week long strike.

Two New York Teamster locals — 804 and 138 — voted to accept a contract offer yesterday by a narrow 505 to 536 vote.

The New Jersey locals had accepted the contract 10 days ago, but remained on strike because of an overriding rejection by the New York locals.

However, deliveries from department and specialty stores in New York City, Long Island, Westchester County and northern New Jersey were not expected to be back to normal until Wednesday. UPS said it delivered 150,000 packages daily.

PROVIDES WAGE HIKES

The new three-year contract provided an $5 wage increase this year, $6 in 1963 and $5 in 1964 along with a liberalized pension system and a ninth paid holiday for the 3,000 Teamster members.

The walkout started May 14 when the New York locals turned down a contract offer. New Jersey locals 177 and 478 joined the strike May 15.

U.S. Airman Held by Vopos 36 Hours

Local 804 headquarters here yesterday while other union members voted on the pact under the supervision of a three-man committee appointed last week.

Iranian priests of the ancient Zoroastrian religion were making while tending sacred fires in their temples. They believe the coverage keeps their breath from contaminating the fire.

BERLIN (AP) — An American airman was seized by East German police on Berlin's Red wall and held for 36 hours on charges of being a border violator.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said the airman was Arvid R. Olson, 24, born in Cloquet, Minn., who now lists his home as Los Angeles, Calif.

Olson was arrested by the Communists Thursday night and released Saturday. The U.S. spokesman said the incident was still being investigated and declined comment on the Communist charge that Olson interfered with border security.

Lost More Than Seat

OTTAWA (AP) — Only 14 of the 31 members of Canada's Parliament defeated in the June 18 elections will qualify for Parliament's annual $3,000 life pension. A member must have served in at least three Parliaments to receive the pension.

Andonian Turns Gambler to Win Michigan Amateur Golf Title

RECEIVES TROPHY — Dr. Helga Laufenstein of Oxford presents Ben O'Meara with the Red-Bob Farms Challenge trophy for winning the Open Jumping Championship at BOH.

Jacks Proves Better In Open Hunt Show

Jacks or Better proved to be the better horse in the Detroit Horse Show that ended Sunday night at Bloomfield Open Hunt.

The Mountville, N. J., horse won for Ben O'Meara its owner and rider, the coveted Red-Bob Farms Challenge Trophy, emblematic of the high scoring horse in the show.

Jacks topped off his five-day performance in the show by winning the $1,000 Open Jumping State Sunday night.

High Society, with Robert Sample as rider, was named the show's reserve champion. Sample and his horse finished second to the Col. state's Jacks or Better in the state.

Sample triumphed in Sunday's $500 Open Jumpers Pulesance Class.

STAKE WINNER

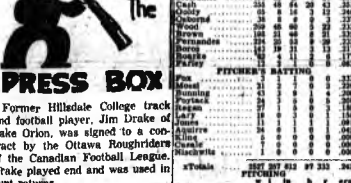

Monopolist, owned by A. J. Long, topped the $1,000 Hunter State and Jean Dunsmuir's King Arthur took the $500 Green Hunter State. The win gave King Arthur the Green Hunter Conformation Championship.

Julian B. Hiron Jr., was a double winner Sunday. He rode Col. to first place in the $500 Green Working Hunter State and to the overall title for Green Working Hunter.

Hands Down, owned by Mary O'War Farms was the Regular Conformation Hunter Champion.

The horses are now being moved to the Waterloo recreation area east of Jackson for the Waterloo Horse Show which gets under way Thursday.

No registration is necessary. All interested players need only bring their racquet and tennis shoes. The program is conducted by Harry Wenzel and Sandra Hilderley.

Former Hilldale College track and football player, Jim Drake of Lake Orion, was signed to a contract by the Ottawa Roughriders of the Canadian Football League. Drake played end and was used in punt returns.

Caberge left area in Cadillac bus retired from Cab as head of its athletic school for the 4th straight year. He operates a junior racing school during the summer at Mt. Baker, Wash., and begins at Caberge in November.

Tigers to Face Chisox Rebel

DETROIT — There are two cooperative teams in the American League that have beaten the Detroit Tigers only once each. But there are signs of revolt.

One of them, Baltimore, staged a two-out, ninth-inning attack yesterday that almost got out of hand before relief pitcher Terry Fox came in to preserve the Tigers' 3-2 victory.

The other is Chicago, which comes here tonight for the opener of a two-game series. A new White Sox member, Charlie (Paw Paw) Maxwell, is likely to be a rebel leader against the team that traded him last week.

The Tigers moved into fifth place by bumping the Orioles. Baltimore fell when Fox got Brooks Robinson to line a 2-3 pitch right to centerfielder Billy Bruton with the bases loaded in the ninth.

That gave the Tigers a 3-1 edge over the Orioles in the four-game series and a 6-1 margin for the year.

They have a 3-1 edge over Chicago.

All through the contest the Orioles waited until two were out to do anything, scoring their two runs in the fourth on Wiley Herges's two-out single and following doubles by John Powell and Jerry Adair.

All but one of Baltimore's 13 base runners got aboard after two were out.

The Tigers talked on Rocky Colavito's 17th home run of the season, leading off the second inning, and two unearned runs, spoiling Robin Roberts' bid for a fifth straight American League victory. He now is 4-3.

After Colavito's homer, Bubba Morton singled, moved to second on a wild pitch, then scored on a wild pitch, then scored on a wild pitch, then scored on a wild pitch.

In the fourth, a dropped throw by first baseman Jim Gentile opened the way for another unearned Tiger run. Morton scored on a single by pitcher Jim Bunning, who was credited with his eighth victory against four defeats.

Bunning was relieved by Nisch.

DOUBLE RELIEF

Fox appeared after another 31-gamer, Ron Nischwitz, gave up two-out singles to pinchhitter Dick Williams and Johnny Temple and a walk to pinchhitter Ron Hansen.

STATE CHAMPION — Mike Andonian of Pontiac celebrates the Michigan Amateur golf championship trophy which he won Sunday at Jackson after a 19-hole battle with Bud Stevens' of Detroit. Andonian ended the match with a par four on the first extra hole.

Andonian reached the finals last year at the Country Club of Jackson and had Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile 4 down at the turn. Then Johnson rallied brilliantly to hand Andonian a heartbreaking 1-up loss.

The same old handwringing started to go on the way Sunday. Mike had Stevens 3 down at the turn, but Stevens charged back and won four straight holes to take the lead and put Andonian on the ropes.

Mike refused to stay pinned, however, and his clutch putt on the 18th green drew a spontaneous round of approval from the large gallery encircling the course.

Flirting with the danger of out-of-bounds markers on the right side, Andonian took the short route to the 18th green while Stevens, nursing his 1-up lead, decided to play safe.

HE SINKS IT

Both players were home in the 18th green when Stevens missed his long up hill putt and had to settle for a par five. Then, through suspense-filled silence, Andonian came in 15-fopter for a birdie and the tense match was all over.

Each man overshot the green on the 34-yr-old first hole. Mike chipped within two feet of the cup, but Stevens rolled five feet beyond the pin.

Stevens missed his tricky putt coming back to leave the title door wide open. Andonian calmly tapped home his putt for a second time in the State Amateur crown.

Andonian is the second Pontiac golfer to win the title. Lloyd Syron annexed the crown in 1957 at Charlevoix's Belvedere course with a 2-2 triumph over Detroit's John Kurucz.

Andonian never lost a hole until No. 12 when Stevens began his rush by winning four in a row. Mike came a five-foot putt for a birdie on the 2nd hole to get 1 up and brought a rousing cheer from the gallery at No. 4 by sinking an 80-foot chip shot for a winning birdie as Stevens.

They leveled the hole with a birdie but as Stevens dropped a six-foot putt and Andonian held a sensational 30-fopter uphill.

Andonian's lead reached three at No. 6, where Stevens came back to level the hole after two consecutive fairway wood shots out of bounds.

Stevens won the 12th with a par five as Mike pitched over the back of the green and the beefy Detroit swinger deuced 13th to cut his deficit to one.

BEHIND A TREE

He was home in two on the 513-yard 14th hole for a winning birdie but took the 15th hole with a four after Mike's hole shot left him stranded behind a tree, cut his deficit to one.

Andonian sank a six-foot putt for a birdie four on the 2nd extra hole in the 27-minute for a 1-up victory over the 37-year-old Bill Curtis, public links rival from Farmington.

Pontiac Player Rallies to Nip Stevens, 1 Up

Birdie Putt on No. 18 Wins Match, Then Mike Wins on 19th Hole

By BILL CORNWELL

JACKSON — Mike Andonian has never been considered much of a gambler on the golf course.

But with his back to the wall, the 35-yr-old Pontiac Central high school teacher became one Sunday afternoon and was eventually rewarded with the richest prize of his illustrious links career — the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship.

One down approaching the 18th hole, Andonian went for broke on the 500-yard hole, won it with a pressure-packed birdie putt to make the match, then parred the first extra hole to defeat power-hitting Melvin (Bud) Stevens of Detroit in the finals of the first event.

Formerly, Mike was not to be denied here yesterday at Arbor Hills Country Club. Just when it appeared that history might repeat itself, Andonian pulled his faltering game together and rescued victory from impending defeat.

Andonian reached the finals last year at the Country Club of Jackson and had Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile 4 down at the turn. Then Johnson rallied brilliantly to hand Andonian a heartbreaking 1-up loss.

Brother Team Shoots 63 at Municipal

The brother tandem of Columbus and Avery Burton was just too much for 71 other teams Saturday in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's annual City Best Ball golf tournament at Municipal course.

The Burtons combined for a brilliant six-under-par 63 to win the event by three strokes.

They carded 28 on the north side against par of 34, then moved to the south side and shot 31 against par of 35.

Eight birdies were on their scorecard, equally divided between the two.

A heavy schedule in the American circuit of the city softball league was held Sunday with Soo Bol rolling over Huron Bowl, 10-0; Howe's edging Flusher Bowl, 6-5; 300 Bowl nipping UAW Bowl, 3-2 and 10-Way defeating Elks, 5-1.

In National league games at Northside, First Presbyterian defeated CIO 6-3, 8-7 and Stadium Inn posted a farcical victory over Oakland Auto Supply in a game which was rescheduled as result of rain June 25th.

Pete Keltz allowed only three hits in Soo Bol's victory which saw four runs in the first inning. Tom Study and Jerry Hesse each collected a pair of hits for the winners who had a total of 10 base knocks. Loser was Yert Sheldon.

Jerry Dennis, Tom Metzford and Dave McDonald all had two hits for UAW 9-4, but 300 Bowl was able to win the game on only six hits, including a pair by Don Quackenbush. The UAW team

'No-Hit' Koufax Sights Feller's Strikeout Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That no-hitter Sandy Koufax pitched the other night may be only his second greatest achievement this year.

At the rate he's going, the 26-year-old Los Angeles left-hander stands a good chance of turning a trick far more extraordinary than holding the New York Mets hitless for nine innings.

More than 100 no-batters have been pitched in the major leagues since 1900. But few pitchers have ever even approached Bob Feller's record for strikeouts in a single season.

Koufax could break that record this year.

AFTER RECORD
Feller—the only major league pitcher besides Koufax to throw 18 in one game—set the one-pitcher strikeout record in 1946. In 371 innings, he fanned 348.

With the 1962 season exactly half over for the Dodgers, Koufax has struck out 183 in 130 1/3 innings. If he can match these figures in the second half of the season, he'll finish with 366 strikeouts. And he won't have pitched as many innings as Feller did for the Cleveland Indians in 1946.

Koufax already has surpassed Feller in one aspect by becoming the first man in major league history to fan 18 on two occasions.

Lanes has a strikeout average of nearly 11 per game—the highest in big league history. He set the one-season National League strikeout record last year with 269.

Koufax, who has won 11 of 15 decisions this year, fanned 13 in his brilliant performance against the Mets Saturday night.

CASEY'S TRICK
Solly Hemus, New York's third base coach, was needing Koufax about the no-hitter throughout the game. But that didn't bother Sunday as much as the trick New York manager Casey Stengel pulled on him in the ninth.

"I was expecting to see Gil Hodges pinch hit in the ninth," Koufax said. "I sat in the dugout, planning how to pitch to him. Then Casey sent Gene Woodling up to hit instead and I had to start thinking all over again."

Woodling, in the National League only a few weeks, never had batted against Koufax before. Casey sent Gene into the game with this wry summons:

"Woodling, grab a bat. I've got a new experience for you."

Woodling, leading off the ninth, walked. Koufax got the next three hitters to ground into forecourt.

Moments after the game ended, Dodger President Walter O'Malley had the following command flashed on the message board:

"Koufax, report to (general manager) Buzzie Bavasi and have your contract torn up."

Drysdale, Jay File Entries

By The Associated Press
Don Drysdale of Los Angeles and Jerry Jay of Cincinnati are the latest candidates to file for the job of starting the All-Star game for the National League team. But the job may have been taken.

Sandy Koufax, Drysdale's sensational Dodger teammate, weighed in with such an impressive record in his Saturday night no-hitter against the New York Mets that the others may be waiting their time.

Freddy Hutchinson, the manager who must make the decision, is well aware that Koufax's lefty slant would be just the thing to handle an American League lineup, heavily spiked with left-handed hitters.

FANNED 13 METS
Drysdale and Jay kept their names in the running, especially the handsome Dodger right-hander. Drysdale struck out 13 Mets, pitched a five-hitter and won 5-1 for his 14th victory, tops in the majors. He won only 13 all last season. Jay chalked up No. 11 with a 6-1 nine-hitter at Houston.

Actually an unusual Chicago Cub pitcher, Don Cardwell, who has won only five games, turned in the best pitching job on the Sunday program but he lost his two victories to Milwaukee 1-0 because of fielding lapses, including his own.

Despite the dramatic weekend performances by the Dodgers' pitchers, the San Francisco Giants still are hanging in there with a one-half game lead in the National League. Willie Mays' two-run single was the big blow in three-run rally in the eighth inning for a 5-4 edge over the troublesome Phillies.

St. Louis brought back some of the old Cardinals and the Yankees of the 1952 World Series on up to that point. Mahaffey hit Bailey, starting the eighth. Then came a single by Jim Davenport and a bunt single by pinch hitter Chuck Hiller's single scored one run and Mays singled to center for two more. Don Larsen was the winner in relief.

POWER THROWS
So much has been written about Drysdale in recent weeks that it is difficult to add any new praise except to say that he had won only seven games at the All-Star break last year. The Mets' only run was a homer by Sammy Taylor in the second. Ron Fairly and Frank Howard hampered the Dodgers against ex-mate Roger Craig.

The Phillies outdid the Giants 14-7 but lost the game when San Francisco got to Art Mahaffey for three runs in the eighth. He had allowed only three hits, including a two-run homer by Ed Bailey.

Huron, Westside Travel Tournery Semi Winners

Huron Bowl and Westside Lanes will meet in the finals of the Travelers Bowling Tournery, after having the best of three in the semi-finals yesterday.

Huron Bowl defeated Wonderland Lanes in consecutive matches in the first match, the two teams had an eight-point tie, but Huron won out in total pins, 1965-1990.

In the second round, Huron defeated Wonderland, 11-7, with Lowery and Spadafore scoring four points each for the winners. Spadafore was high for Huron with 233 and Lowery hit 286. High man for Wonderland was Harris drawing four points and 229.

At the Huron Bowl, Westside Lanes out bowled Airway Lanes, 2-1, dropping the first round 15-12 and picking up the last two, 18-12 and 25-11. Arnold Osta was high for Airway in their winning round, scoring eight points with 277. In the second round, Westside's Johnny Casper scored a 228 with teammate Bob Richards bowling 231. Airway's Karl VanDeMoortel took eight points with 206 and 206, in a losing effort.

In the final round, Westside poured it on, as Monroe Moore scored 256 and 246 good for 11 points, and Casper knocked down 265 and 215 to score eight points. Richardson scored three points with a 233. For Airway, Arnie Reah racked up six points with a 245.

Westside Lanes and Huron Bowl will meet Sunday for the final bet of five, at the Wonderland Lanes at 1 p.m.

LA Angels Sit on Cloud Nine

By The Associated Press
 If the Angels are wearing their halos at a slightly jaunty, rakish angle, and if their smiles are more devil-may-care than angelic these days... well, there's a pretty good reason for it.

Of course, it may be a rather un-angelic attitude that's struck by these Los Angeles Angels, but then, they don't often look much like angels in any event.

For example, there's bulky Steve Bilko, who could more easily pass for a retired wrestler.
 Or 5-foot-5 Albie Pearson, who looks like a jockey. Or free-wheeling Bo Belinsky, more the pool hustler type than an angel.

No, they don't look like angels at all. And, at least on paper, they certainly don't look like contenders for the American League title.
 But the name on the uniform confirms the first point and the American League standings verify the second. They're only three percentage points out of first place and here it is almost time for the All-Star break.

CLOUD NINE
 And the Angels, generally picked to finish deep in the second division in the pre-season sections, give no indication of foresaking the ride on cloud nine for the more earthy regions they're supposed to inhabit.

They gave a good indication of that Sunday when they split a doubleheader with New York at Yankee Stadium, losing the first 6-3 but rallying for the second
 12-5. It gave the Angels a 2-2 split in their four game series in New York, and marked the first time in their two-year history they had won at the Stadium.

The split, along with Chicago's sweep over Cleveland, 5-4 and 7-4, dropped the Indians from first to third in a virtual tie with Minnesota, which blanked Washington 9-0. That put New York in first, three points up on Los Anges, Cleveland in third only one half game behind and Minnesota in fourth, only three points back of the Indians.

Detroit edged Baltimore 3-2 and Kansas City beat Boston 9-5 in the others.

The Angels' affair with the Yankees was a bit on the stormy side, involving a full-blown ruckus and some unholy language in each game.

The Yanks won the first on homers by Hector Lopez and Tom Tresh, while the Angels rallied for four runs in the eighth to take the second.

Lopez' three-run homer in the sixth of the opener was disputed by the Angels. Right fielder Leon Wagner fell into the stands as he grabbed the ball, but umpire John Stevens ruled he had not held on to it.

The second major argument broke out in the eighth inning of the second game. With men on first and second, Jim Fregosi lifted a fly along the right field line.
 The ball was touched by a fan and ruled a ground rule double.
 Gordon Windhorn scored the tie-breaking run, but the umpires would not allow Bilko to score from first. Winning pitcher Art Fowler (3-3) drilled a single as the next batter, driving in two runs.

Chicago took advantage of Cleveland errors and the resulting unearned runs in sweeping two from the Indians. Camilo Car-reon's pinch triple with two out in the ninth drove in three unearned runs and won the first game. A fifth-inning six-run uprising, five of which were unearned as Gene Green dropped two fly balls, secured the nightcap.

FAIR DEAL — Sandra Haynie shades herself from the sun while competing the U.S. Women's Open at Myrtle Beach,
 S.C. The 19-year-old from Fort
 stars on the women's pro tour.

Cupit in Grove of Western Open

No Place for 'Lazy' Golfer on Circuit

CHICAGO (AP) — Jacky Cupit, finish before the Western was a tie bid with a 67 that included the new Western Open golf champion, says he never again will get lazy.

"It happened to me last fall when I had reached the first 20 money winners on the PGA circuit," said the 24-year Texan from Longview. "I went home for two months, quitting the tour because I just got lazy."

"The layoff just about wrecked my swing. When I got back on the tour I was looking everything.
 My brother, Buster (one of five brothers who are professionals) finally discovered that I had un-knowingly developed a strong right hand."

"I corrected it and gradually got back into the groove. I had my swing just right for this tournament. It had to be on such a demanding course as Medinah
 No. 3. But I'll never get lazy again, you can bet on that."

The 5-8, 130-pound Cupit won the Canadian Open in 1961 and was voted rookie of the year after finishing 18th on the money list with $22,813. This year his best tie for 10th in the Houston Classic.

 His 281 score earned $11,000, boosting him from 48th on the winning list to 14th with a total of $18,507.

Gary Player, who shared the 54-hole lead with Cupit with 3-ing 76. With him at 286 was Fred Hawkins with a final 70.

Nightly, 'They' Climb the Wall

BERLIN (U) — The staccato bark of Tommy guns echoed through the night along the wall dividing Berlin.

A young man, about 20, head bent low, hastened along the concrete and barbed wire barrier. He had just scrambled over it into the West.

NEAR SUICIDE

He was panting with emotion and physical exertion. He had just completed a near-suicidal run across an open space under the muzzles of the border guards' machine guns.

He was bleeding from scratches inflicted by the rusty barbed wire. Again the Tommy guns stuttered in East Berlin. Another burst. Then silence. Two truckloads of West police rushed up, men sprang into position, guns at the ready.

It was near midnight, as on nearly every night, there was gunfire again at the Berlin Wall. The scene was reminiscent of the scene that once led from Berlin into the American sector — before it was blocked by the Wall.

The man who had broken through to freedom told West police he had a companion on the break.

There was no sign of the second man.

Suddenly flames blazed through the sky, tearing aside the cloak of darkness.

"Don't stand around, take cover," a policeman bellowed, pushing a bystander into the shelter of a doorway.

The missing refugee could not be found. The extra guards withdrew.

ON POLICE BLOTTER

The entry in the police blotter said an unknown East German was believed shot while trying to escape into West Berlin.

This sort of incident — an almost nightly occurrence in West Berlin — is expected to be taken up by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk when he meets Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in the Laos conference at Geneva.

Since the Communists along the Berlin border last August and began building their wall, at least 28 refugees from the East have lost their lives trying to reach freedom.

Some Western officials fear the actual total may be much higher.

In return, the Big Three sent notes to Moscow blaming the East German Communists for putting up the wall and ordering the shooting of refugees.

Basu's attorney, Miguel Ortiz-Castell, promptly announced he will try to have the American granted conditional liberty and permission to go back to the United States. That, court officials said, is not difficult to get.

Basu told the tribunal he did not remember doing such a thing.

"I had been drinking before boarding the plane in Malaga and even in Madrid taxicab before catching the taxi," he said. "Furthermore, I took some tranquilizing pills in Malaga because I was feeling sick."

Basu is still in Madrid's provincial prison.

Chicago Businessman Rips Down Portrait of Franco; May Get Year

MADRID (U) — Chicago businessman William Basu was sentenced to one year in prison for ripping down a portrait of Gen. Francisco Franco, the civil court that tried him June 26 announced today.

Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., said, "We have the most powerful military in the world. We have the most powerful military in the world. We have the most powerful military in the world."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said, "We have the most powerful military in the world. We have the most powerful military in the world. We have the most powerful military in the world."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a member of both the Armed Services Committee and the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, said the United States has a "survivable" retaliatory force "even in the case of a surprise attack like Pearl Harbor."

"This force is dispersed all over the world," Jackson said. "I don't believe it would be possible for them (Russians) in view of the state of alerting readiness, means of retaining and destroying them."

The senators were members of a nationwide television show which also included Brig. Gen. Joseph J. Fox, Air Force Association president; Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., and columnist Bob Condit.

Goren said qualifications for such extensions grew more strict in the last few months. "They probably had friends who told them when they were thinking of this, the situation would be no problem," he said.

When laws applied for the extension, saving Harper Hospital had offered her a permanent job, the application had been filed. It was denied, and her application was not applied for.

Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., said he would like to direct Immigration Director Walter Seltz about the case.

Sen. Hart's office says they get five or six applications a day. Several factors have to be considered, he said. "The 'acquirer' is sure. She just hollers away, all by herself, when the mood strikes her."

Sec. Ribicoff Expected to Resign in Few Days

HARTFORD, Conn.—Wet Haven, Ribicoff said when asked last Secretary Abraham Ribicoff's resignation from the cabinet is expected to be on President Kennedy's desk within the next two weeks.

Ribicoff's resignation will clear the way for a full-scale campaign by him for the U.S. Senate on the Democratic ticket.

The former governor said during the weekend he will step down from the federal post on or before July 15, the day Connecticut Democrats gather in Hartford for their state nominating convention.

Ribicoff is an avowed candidate for the Senate nomination. He is opposed by U.S. Rep. Kenneth E. Felt, who has threatened to challenge Ribicoff in a primary.

INTENDS TO RESIGN

"I can't wait to hit the campaign trail once again," said Ribicoff at a gathering in Groton on Saturday. Later in the day, in New Haven, he said.

DANISH NURSE, GERMAN DOCTOR PLAN APPEALS ON IMMIGRATION LAWS

DETROIT (UPI)—A newlywed Danish nurse and German doctor planned action on three fronts to stop immigration laws from separating them.

United States' senator has promised to appeal to the district immigration office on behalf of Hans Fischer, who arrived here a year ago under a student exchange program as Inge Maersco.

The Fischer's lawyer, Robert Goren, plans to appeal to Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, whose office gives him top authority over the immigration.

"I thought we could get an extension after we got married," said Koenig-born Dr. Fischer. "I knew it would be difficult, but I didn't think we would meet this much disapproval."

Goren said qualifications for such extensions grew more strict in the last few months. "They probably had friends who told them when they were thinking of this, the situation would be no problem," he said.

Portugal's Top Official Explains Chilly Attitude Between Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Antonio Salazar of Portugal said the United States bears special responsibilities for the ill success of the Cold War.

United States seems to be less favorable to an ally than to a neutral or to an enemy, and to foster political convenience of the moment rather than an ideal.

Salazar, interviewed at his home in Lisbon, said he could not force circumstances under which Portugal would withdraw from NATO "an long time."

Mark Historic Reconciliation in Paris

DeGaulle, Adenauer to Seal Friendship

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the two "grand old men" of Western Europe, today seal the historic reconciliation of France and Germany, which have fought three major wars in less than a century.

De Gaulle ordered special honors for Adenauer, who arrives in Paris for a six-day visit.

De Gaulle himself will greet the 86-year-old Adenauer at Orly airport when his plane from Bonn touches down (noon, Pontiac time). Adenauer will receive a welcome normally reserved only for heads of state.

The black-red-gold banner of the new postwar West Germany flew today morning will take the salute together in a combined parade of French and West German Bundeswehr troops at Mourmelon Camp near Rheims. German armored units are currently undergoing training at the camp.

1ST SUCH SHOW

The event will mark the first time such a joint demonstration of friendship between the two nations has taken place since prior to World War I.

All was not sweetness and light for Adenauer on the home front, however. He leaves behind his angry coalition partners, the Free Democrats, who made last minute efforts to tie the chancellor's hands during his talks with De Gaulle.

Knut von Kuehlmann-Stumlin, Free Democrat deputy parliamentary leader, told a news conference last night in Wiesbaden. Adenauer had been warned he would "stain the government coalition" if he made any further policy concessions to De Gaulle.

There was no immediate comment from Adenauer's Christian Democratic party.

The 72-year-old De Gaulle and Adenauer will find time between official receptions, banquets and sight-seeing for a full five hours of talks.

They will be aided by French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Milleville and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder, who is accompanying Adenauer to Paris.

Among the problems to be discussed by the two statesmen will be the future of the European Common Market, on which they do not entirely see eye to eye.

MORE FAVORABLE

Adenauer is more favorable than De Gaulle to the idea of Great Britain becoming a member of the Common Market. The French president wants a loose federation of sovereign European states. Adenauer is inclined toward a greater degree of integration.

But these disagreements will to temporarily pushed aside today when Adenauer goes to Paris for a six-day visit.

burnished diamond helmets and breastplates will form a sovereign's escort, on the way to the airport.

Later this week Adenauer will be guest of honor at a dinner and reception hosted by De Gaulle at the Elysee Palace. He will lunch at the Hotel Marigny with President Charles de Gaulle and his wife, and attend a gala performance at the opera.

Adenauer, who flies back to Bonn from Rheims next Sunday, also will get the usual sight-seeing tour, visiting the Chateau de Versailles and the Louvre Museum in addition to trips to Rouen, Beauvais, Bordeaux and Rheims.

Hunting Black Bear in Niles Country

NILES (UPI) — A State Conservation Department officer and two Berrien County deputies combed the surrounding country today for a black bear, which killed an attacking dog yesterday and fled into a berry patch.

Deputies said the bear was first seen at noon yesterday.

Two men, Joseph Willis and Robert Steward, told officers that they saw two German shepherd dogs attack the bear and one of the dogs was killed in the fight.

Authorities said they found the carcass of the dog. When the bear broke away from the dogs, the two men said, it fled into a berry patch. The bear was reported a second time browsing in a garbage dump.

Medicare Fires Doctors' Strike in Saskatchewan

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—A strike by most of Saskatchewan's 700 private doctors swept this province of 925,000 people today as the Socialist provincial government launched the first big compulsory medical insurance plan in North America.

Charging that the plan opens the door to government control over their profession, doctors took off on vacation or quit the province to practice elsewhere.

Most doctors' offices and clinics were closed for the Dominion Day holiday today, but many displayed signs saying they would remain shut. Physicians said they would not give medical advice by telephone and would make house calls only in dire emergencies.

The government medical plan and the doctors' strike—look of fear Sunday.

Free emergency treatment was provided by about 240 volunteer doctors at 24 of the province's 130 hospitals, but officials warned they may be unable to extend this service beyond two weeks.

Authorities began moving emergency and chronic cases to the 34 hospitals. The hospitals said they were busy but were not overbooked. One fatality, an infant, was reported.

The dispute has been moving ever since last week when 34 hospitals. The hospitals said they were busy but were not overbooked. One fatality, an infant, was reported.

A bulletin issued at Hillingdon Hospital said: "Noblen's condition has improved, and it is unlikely that an operation will be necessary."

Other sources said Soblen was out of danger though still too weak to travel. He lost two pints of blood. Promptly administered blood transfusions restored a measure of his strength.

SUFFERER LEUKEMIA
Soblen suffers from leukemia—cancer of the blood—and doctors said last August he had less than a year to live.

Soblen, accompanied by a U.S. marshal, made his suicide attempt aboard an El Al Airlines Boeing 707 over the English Channel as the jet approached London for a routine stop.

The Libman-born doctor was rushed to Hillingdon Hospital where Scotland Yard detectives stood guard over his room.

A British Home Office spokesman made clear that Soblen, who (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Nationalists May Cause Trouble

Big Vote Frees Moslems

ALGERIA (AP)—Algerian rebel guerrillas, aided by deserters of the French-trained local force, were reported mauling for a military coup in the new nation, official French sources said today.

From Our News Wire
ALGERIANS — Algerian Moslems triumphantly celebrated their hard-won independence today as a bitter civil war was reported brewing with France.

Many thousands of Europeans, mainly Jewish, fled the country. Many towns registered no single "no" vote. The final result was expected to be close to 90 percent affirmative.

SEAL OF APPROVAL
The vote set a sweeping seal of approval on the cease-fire agreement that ended the bitter, 7½-year Algerian war.

It did not yet make Algeria an independent nation legally. The separation from France will be formally decreed by President Charles De Gaulle when the final results of Sunday's referendum are known, probably within two or three days.

The Tunis-based regime was said to have split sharply between right and left. Vice Premier Mohammed Blough, 900 Scott Lake Road, Waterford Township, had his citizens' Band radio turned on.

The two-way radio, normally with less range than those of its cousin ham operators, picked up a distress call from Quintman aboard a disabled cable cruiser.

William Ley said his 19-foot boat had lost its propeller and was drifting helplessly off the Florida coast.

Other ham operators in the Midwest also heard the call but Blough was first to act.

He telephoned the U.S. Coast Guard in Carabelle, Fla., which dispatched two patrol boats to the area.

The boat was found early today aground on an island 50 miles southeast of Panama, Fla. The family of five was safe, Coast Guardsmen reported.

Blough said the ability of his radio to pick up such a distant signal was due to prevailing weather conditions.

The Algerian Nationalist Government (GPR), which has been in exile in Tunis.

Throughout the country, Algerians flocked to the polls Sunday to vote a virtually unanimous "yes" to independence and collaboration with France.

Many thousands of Europeans, mainly Jewish, fled the country. Many towns registered no single "no" vote. The final result was expected to be close to 90 percent affirmative.

Boumediene's whereabouts were whereabouts unknown, but there were unofficial reports he had slipped into Algeria to court the support of guerrilla bands totaling perhaps 10,000 men.

Reports circulating in Paris said the Algerian Nationalist leaders were moving troops into some Algerian cities and villages without waiting for the formal independence proclamation. In many places the green-and-white flag of the FLN already flew.

Swainson on Redistricting
Decries Talk of Impeachment

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Governor Swainson yesterday charged Michigan Republicans were trying to intimidate the State Supreme Court with talk of impeaching the justices if they order a change in state senatorial districts.

Swainson described as "a most appalling show of arrogance" the Republican demand that the court appoint a five-man committee to study the present state senatorial districts.

A suit against the current apportionment, brought by Michigan Republicans, has 36 votes in the House — the exact number needed to impeach the justices, and would meet with a veto by the Senate. A two-thirds Senate vote would be required for conviction on the impeachment charges.

"What would the people of Michigan say if I, as the governor, as a lawyer, told a judge 'I'll get you if you rule against me'?" Swainson asked.

"This is the John Birch approach, telling people to do it my way or I'll destroy you," Swainson told a news conference at the 50th annual governors' conference here.

The governor said legislators have no reason to fear he wouldn't call a special session promptly if the Supreme Court recommended one to act on Senate districts.

One Per Cent to Hit 165,000 Suburbanites

Berkley's Mayor Kuhn, Committee Will Meet Saturday; May Appeal

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's controversial one per cent income tax on residents and non residents was upheld as constitutional today in a decision by Wayne County Circuit Judge Neal E. Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald, handing down his ruling 24 hours after the tax went into effect, found it valid both as it applied to the Motor City's own residents and others who earn incomes in Detroit but live elsewhere.

Fitzgerald announced his verdict in a courtroom about half filled with attorneys and others who have taken part in one of the hottest city tax battles in Michigan history.

The one per cent tax, besides affecting all Detroit's thousands upon thousands of wage earners, also is a levy on 165,000 suburbanites.

The tax is calculated to bring the city $35 million a year. Even before the decision came down, the opponents of the tax had said they were almost certain to appeal a verdict against them to the Michigan Supreme Court.

BERKLEY INTERESTED
Mayor George W. Kuhn of Berkley, leader of the suburb's battle against Detroit Mayor Jeannette Cavanagh's tax, was present as Judge Fitzgerald announced his verdict.

Kuhn told newsmen that the vigilance tax committee, his group which as plaintiff in the court case, will make a decision at a meeting Saturday in Pleasant Ridge, also a suburb, whether it not to appeal to the high court.

Kuhn said he could not say definitely at this time whether an appeal would be taken.

Fitzgerald commented on Friday the rank of local advocates, which also include the AFL-CIO.

The Kennedy administration is known to be thinking in terms of a $5-billion tax cut if it becomes convinced such action is needed to keep the economy from sliding down.

TAX IS VALID
"I'm convinced," he then said. "The tax is an excise. I find no invalidity of unconstitutionality in it." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

SEN. ADOLF P. SWEENEY
Sen. Adolf P. Sweeney of Coldwater, the GOP floor leader, said the reverse is designed to give the Republican dominated legislature a free hand if the court orders present state senatorial districts void.

A suit against the current apportionment, brought by Michigan Republicans, has 36 votes in the House — the exact number needed to impeach the justices, and would meet with a veto by the Senate. A two-thirds Senate vote would be required for conviction on the impeachment charges.

"What would the people of Michigan say if I, as the governor, as a lawyer, told a judge 'I'll get you if you rule against me'?" Swainson asked.

"This is the John Birch approach, telling people to do it my way or I'll destroy you," Swainson told a news conference at the 50th annual governors' conference here.

The governor said legislators have no reason to fear he wouldn't call a special session promptly if the Supreme Court recommended one to act on Senate districts.

BACK IN LANSING
In Lansing the legislature may be a proposal to increase Michigan's senatorial districts this year from 34 to 38 when it convenes July 26.

Four Republican state senators plan to introduce such a constitutional amendment, saying they distrust the state as it is. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

NO SWEAT — Lugging a big bucket full of water on a warm summer day sounds like work, unless you're watering circus elephants. Glen Milliken (left), 9, of Carpenter Court, and Elmer Decker, 13, of 38 Carpenter Court, Waterford Township, were up early today to help the Clyde Beauty-Cole Brothers Circus get ready for two benefit shows today sponsored by the Pontiac Lions Club behind the Pontiac Mall.

Any U.S. Levy Cut Seen as Temporary

WASHINGTON (AP)—If there is an income tax cut effective this year or even next Jan. 1, it will have to be a temporary slash, with an early date fixed for automatic restoration of higher rates.

This is the opinion of key members of Congress who would have to do the spade-work of tax-reducing legislation.

The procedure still officially favored by the Kennedy administration—income tax rate reduction as part of general tax reform, enacted next year but made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963—simply isn't practicable for any quick relief, they believe.

Two years is the minimum time required to work out and enact a general revision of the Internal Revenue Code, say congressional experts of the highest qualifications estimated.

While leaders have made no commitments, the methods that would be required for an early tax cut inevitably are being talked about informally as presidential campaign strategy for a last-acting blow to the economy.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce joined on Friday the ranks of local advocates, which also include the AFL-CIO.

6 Death Row Inmates Doomed Fail in Escape
By DONALD D. JACKSON
SAN QUENTIN (UPI) Six death row inmates at San Quentin Prison surrendered amid a barrage of tear gas shells early today three hours after they took two guards hostage in a bold effort to escape.

"We gambled and lost," said Luis Moya, one of the six convicts. "We were going out the gates."

They also surrendered two guns they had taken from one of the hostages, gun officer C. L. Deatrick. Deatrick was struck on the head by the inmates but not seriously injured.

The first sign of trouble came when R. H. Kartell, the guard assigned to death row, telephoned at 1:07 a.m. P.D.T. (3:01 a.m. Pontiac time) and said urgently "We're in trouble." Deatrick went to his aid and moments later Associate Warden Dale Frady learned that both men were hostages.

James Neisewander, supervisor of the parole violator unit, said that the prisoners returned to their cells at 6:07 a.m. (Pontiac time) and order was restored.

Indians Resume
Hospital FightN. D. Chippewas Dance to Protest Lack of Care, Aroused by Baby Death

BELOCOURT, N.D. (UPI)—Chippewa Indians have resumed their protest dancing at a reservation hospital, spurning the peace pipes offered by federal fathers.

The dancing, begun three days after an Indian baby died a few hours after he was released following hospital treatment, went into its 13th day today.

The dancers led by tribal chairman Francis Cree, of the Turtle Mountain Reservation, met over the weekend with Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., and U.S. Public Health Service (PHS) representatives.

The Indians claimed the hospital's doctors were inexperienced, lacked emergency facilities and attempted too much experimentation.

"If nothing else, the Indians have brought their situation vividly to the attention of the American public," Burdick said.

Dr. Donald McNaughton, of the PHS office at Aberdeen, S.D., said there have been improvements at the hospital and the Chippewas' life expectancy has risen 10 percent in the past five years.

Dr. John Monroe, Rolla, N.D., physician, supported the Indians. He cited instances of neglect of patients.

Sunday Sermons Are Divided on Prayer Ruling

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Supreme Court decision banning official prayers in public schools evoked both dissent and praise in Sabbath sermons. One minister called it "proper, fair and correct" while another ascribed to the court a philosophy that "seeks to quarantine religion."

Some took the middle ground. Among them was the Rev. Dr. Charles D. Kean of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany of Washington, D.C., who said the court's ruling was "neither a great victory for religious liberty nor an attack upon the religious traditions of our country."

"The Supreme Court decision did not say any religious devotion of a voluntary nature may never be held in public schools," he observed in a sermon Sunday.

Last Monday, the court ruled that a 22-word prayer drafted by the New York State Board of Regents for recitation at the start of each school day was unconstitutional.

The prayer reads: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and beg Thy blessing upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

APPROVES DECISION
Dr. F. S. James, editor of the Baptist Standard and a Southern Baptist leader, called the court's decision "proper, fair and correct," adding the school prayer "could not hurt anyone."

However, Dr. J. Richard Speed of the First Methodist church in Los Angeles told his congregation that the ruling will produce a more revolutionary effect on U.S. society than Karl Marx ever could.

He said the court's philosophy "seeks to quarantine religion."

Dr. Speed said, "With the deity constitutionally incapacitated, only materialism, secularism and atheism can publicly prevail."

Richard Cardinal Cushing, speaking at Gloucester, Mass., in the annual blessing of the fishing fleet, said the decision "broke the hearts of millions and millions of people who live in captive nations behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, whose only hope is in God and our own beloved country."

"The only thing communism fears is religion and religion is the only thing that can save the world from being dominated by the butchers and tyrants of the Communist world," Cardinal Cushing said.

The Catholic bishop of Providence, R.I., the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinnay, said "our founding fathers must be apologizing before the courts of heaven today for the agnostic, even atheistic decision of our U.S. Supreme Court."

NEUTRAL PRAYER
In sermons Saturday, a number of New York rabbis said the decision has helped the cause of religion, not hindered it. Some described the prayer involved as being so neutral that it is meaningless and cannot help religion.

The Rev. Dr. Edward E. Klein of the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue in New York City urged that citizens follow President Kennedy's counsel to support the decision and accept it as a challenge to cultivate prayer at home and intensify religious education in synagogue and church.

Some churchmen said a larger reason for alarm were predictions that the ruling may lead to elimination of all Bible reading and religious observances from the public schools.

The Rev. Dr. John M. Krumm, Columbia University chaplain, said the prediction "justifiably causes alarm to churchmen who would regard an education from which all references to the role of religion in the formation of our history and culture had been removed as a distorted and inadequate education."

the court's ruling "deserves general applause."

"But let us be clear about the substance of the decision," he added. "The court has not decided against God in the United States or in the public schools. On the contrary, it has decided that the reality of God can neither be guaranteed nor denied by action of the state."

DISAGREEMENT
"In many cases," he added, "individuals and churches are in complete disagreement with each other on the whole matter, and many of the opinions have been formed without studying the problem objectively."

The Rev. Dr. Albert P. Shirkey of Mount Vernon Place Methodist church in Washington, D.C., said the court's decision could lead to "complete secularization of America's national life."

"Where reverence for God is lost, loss of reverence for man follows," he said. "This has been clearly exemplified in Russia."

Dr. Shirkey reminded worshippers, however, that "we must at all times abide by the decision of the Supreme Court." He recommended a period of silent prayer in public schools in which each individual "can speak to God in his own fashion."

Johnson's Initials to Leave Air Waves

WASHINGTON (AP)—The initials of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson are sprinkled liberally around his big ranch in Texas—but the LBJ brand will no longer be used on an call letters on a nearby radio homing beacon.

A federal aviation agency spokesman said last night that the landing strip now is known officially as JCY (for nearby Johnson City) instead of LBJ.

"We think it is more appropriate to call it JCY," the spokesman said. "I guess there are some people besides the vice president who use that little air strip."

There is some evidence that Johnson himself asked the FAA to change the call letters—but he said he did not know whether the vice president requested the change.

An FAA spokesman said the change was made after Johnson learned of the call letters—but he said he did not know whether the vice president requested the change.

'Lost' Wife, Daughter
OK After Boat Flips

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"I thought I had lost them both," Hollie Hough, 56, Louisville, had just surfaced in the Ohio River after a thunderstorm flipped over his boat. He was thrown clear but his wife and daughter were trapped inside the capsize cabin cruiser Sunday.

Then Hough heard a tapping from the overturned hull. The women, Lucille Hough, 55, and Mrs. David Hildreth, 25, Hopkinton, Ky., had survived in an air pocket.

Hough yelled instructions to them for escaping.

THROUGH HATCH
Mrs. Hough got out through the forward hatch. The younger woman followed.

Hough suffered a deep arm wound in the accident. Coast Guardsmen rescued the three.

Proposed Contitution 'Better'

Farmers Should Like It, Says Bureau Spokesman

LANSING (UPI)—Farmers in Michigan should be behind the proposed new constitution although they were opposed to the original request for a constitutional convention, according to one farm bureau spokesman who was a delegate.

Stanley M. Powell, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, was elected as a delegate to the convention on the Republican ticket.

Set Blessing of Stone for Building

ORCHARD LAKE — The blessing of the cornerstone for the new St. Mary's College Residence will highlight the 18th National Alumni Convention of the Orchard Lake Schools July 16-17.

The cornerstone blessing ceremony will be held at 11:30 a. m. July 16, immediately following the opening Mass.

Four business associates will mark the two-day convention. An address by the rector, Rt. Rev. Myer, Wallace Filipowicz, and reports by executive officers, presidents of alumni districts, convention committees and the ladies auxiliary will take up most of the business.

Election of national alumni officers will be held July 17, with installation set at a banquet that evening.

The new college building is being constructed concurrently with Our Lady of Orchard Lake Shrine Chapel. To be ready by the fall, the new facility will house up to 100 minor seminarians and provide five additional classrooms.

Celebrant of the opening Mass will be Very Rev. Peter Walkowiak, of Hamtramck, and deacon, Rev. Francis Orlik of Orchard Lake.

Rochester Church Men Planning Auction Affair

ROCHESTER — The men of St. Paul's Methodist Church will hold a white elephant auction Friday at Houghton and Sons used car lot on North Main Street.

Auctioneer Duane Upton will start asking for bids at 6 p. m. sharp. Anyone wishing to contribute articles for the sale is asked to call the church office and they will be picked up.

Then he came to Detroit in 1915. His first job was at Henry Ford Hospital.

Then Klem went to work for Park-Davis, a pharmaceuticals manufacturer. Right away he bought several hundred shares of stock in the firm from his savings.

For his trip to Poland, Park-Davis gave Klem a leave of absence in addition to his vacation.

He is not worried about entering Communist territory to visit his mother, Stanislaw, 75, and two sisters, Felicia and Emilia.

Yearbook of Seminary in Orchard Lake Picks World Service Theme

ORCHARD LAKE — The story of the labors and sacrifices of Polish American clergy throughout the world serves as the theme for the annual yearbook of St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary and St. Mary's College and High School.

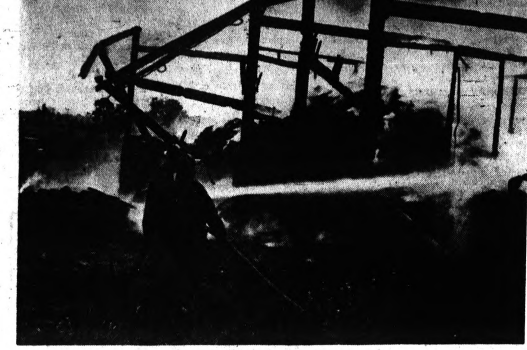

The 1962 Eagle, consisting of 246 pages, also reviews pictorially all phases of student life in each of the three divisions at the school.

Available in the public reprint form, the theme presents a chronological study of the efforts of the Polish American clergy from the time the United States was a mission territory to the present day.

Three pioneer Polish priests especially are noted in the book. They are Rev. Thomas Prande, the first Polish priest in America; Rev. Leopold Macgregor, the first pastor of a Polish foundation in America; and Rev. Joseph (Dobrowski), founder of the Orchard Lake Seminary.

Student Charles E. Borowski of Webster, Mass., was editor-in-chief and Anthony Hlat of Detroit was assistant editor.

Michigan ranks second in the production of pears; third in apples, peaches, celery and grapes; fourth in peaches; fifth in corns and carrots; sixth in sugar beets; seventh in milk; ninth in potatoes, and tenth in corn and oats.

Plan for Integrating Fire, Police Units Hit

SOUTHFIELD—Mayor S. James Clarkson's plan to partially integrate the city's police and fire departments received stiff opposition from the City Council at a special meeting Saturday.

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Mayor's Police and Fire Advisory Committee who recommended the plan and members of the police and fire departments.

According to Council President C. Hugh Dobany the departments have been integrated to some extent for the past three and half years.

"If the mayor had taken the trouble to inform himself he would have known that the police and fire departments have been partially integrated," said Dobany.

AGREY MORE NEEDED
While the council agreed with Clarkson that more police are needed for the city, they said they could not see how money could be saved by cutting the firemen's duty week from 42 hours to 36 hours to make them available for police duty.

At present there are 32 police men and 25 firemen.

Bride of Mark Orchard

Diane Terry Married

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Pink and white snappers guarded the altar of the Free Methodist Church in Oxford for the candlelit wedding Saturday evening of Diane Kay Terry and Mark Lee Orchard. Rev. Harlow Hoyt performed the nuptials.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Terry, 286 N. Valley Road. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. How and Orchard of Appleton.

A floor-length gown of silk and organza over tulle was chosen by the bride for her wedding. It featured a Chantilly lace bodice, long, puffed sleeves and a chapel train of lace and tulle.

The finger-ring of silk illusion was fastened by a seed pearl crown. She carried a single gerbera with two on a white ribbon, which was a gift of the bridegroom.

Janet Terry was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Linda Parker and Ruthann McCallum, cousin of the bride, both of Leonard; Rachel Lutz, Lake City; and Marjorie Mitchell, Holly.

Assisting his brother as best man was Roger Orchard of Sylvania, Ohio. The guests were seated by Ray and Alvin Orchard of Appleton, cousins of the bridegroom, and Howard Snyder and Henry Moon, both of Spring Arbor.

Flower girls were Janice and Judy Ackerson and ring bearers Ricky Hayes of Warren.

Approximately 200 guests attended the reception after the rites at the Methodist Fellowship Hall. The newlyweds then left on a motor trip to Wilmore, Ky., where the bride is attending the summer session of Asbury College.

MSU Expert Says Suburbs Afraid Sees Annexation Trend Easing

The trend toward suburban annexation in the United States seems to be slowing down, reports a specialist of the Michigan State University Institute for Community Development and Services.

"Resistance to the continued expansion of big cities is stiffening," states Gary W. King.

"People in recent years have been moving to the suburbs to escape the large cities, and re-evaluated the idea of again being swallowed and lost in a huge metropolis."

King spoke at a contemporary problems in community development before an Institute for Organization Management meeting which ended Saturday at MSU's Kellogg Center.

TALK BEGINS
As cities expand and engulf new communities, he noted, talk of annexation begins. Progression forces point out the greater efficiency and economy of a combined operation.

There are more and better services for all with less waste, duplication, King added, and there are professionals in the key city posts rather than amateurs.

People are afraid their taxes will be increased, and worry that the city will renge on its promises of service once the community is in the fold.

But at the heart of the problem, King believes, is the Jeffersonian ideal of a "grass roots" government, close to the people.

People in the small communities, he said, treasure the privilege of running their own affairs, and of having an active voice in their local government.

Much of the emotional opposition to annexation, King stated, comes from the people's fear of being lost and ignored in an un-personal metropolitan government of the 50-piece group, organized where their voices cannot be heard.

Girl Right in Refusing Your Gift

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: My son is in the army and stationed in a small town several hundred miles from here. In a letter he wrote to me recently he enclosed a check and asked me to buy a birthday present for his fiancée as he could not get anything for her in town.

I bought her a very pretty slip. When I gave it to her, she said it was lovely but that she could not accept it. I was very hurt over this and think she was very impolite to refuse the gift.

As I bought the slip and not my son and considering that they are engaged, don't you think she was overly punctilious in refusing to accept it?

A: A slip was not a very proper choice for a gift from your son even though you selected it, and the girl was strictly speaking, right in not accepting it.

Q: I have been asked by my nephew to take the place of his mother (my sister, now deceased) at his wedding. Never having acted in this capacity before I am completely nonplussed as to my duties. Most of the guests will be strangers to me. Will you please tell me what I am expected to do?

A: Further than standing in the receiving line at the reception, no more is expected of you than of any other wedding guest.

You will probably stand next to the bride's mother and she will introduce those who are strangers to you, and you shake hands with them and make the usual answers to what they each say to you.

Q: How should professional cards of a dentist be engraved, and how the personal cards that include his wife?

A: Professional cards would be engraved John Henry Smith followed by the letters of his degree, and personal cards would be engraved Dr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith.

Q: My engagement has just recently been announced and I received a very beautiful engagement ring from my fiancé. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to show it to people without their asking, or must I wait for them to ask to see it?

A: Except to really intimate friends it would be in best taste not to show your ring as mention it unless someone asks. "Is that your engagement ring?" You would then hold up your hand and say, "Yes it is." Or if one exclaims, "What a beautiful ring!" you would say, "I think it is!" (with accent on I).

Q: Who pays for what at the wedding? The Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Wedding Expenses" answers this question in detail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

Looking very young and very fresh is this short summer froth of sheer cotton chiffon. Dubbed "Sheer Bliss" by Pauline Trigrere, the dress is fashioned of Galey and Lord fabric in brown and white diagonal plaid with pleated flounce and a simple bodice.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has spurred new interest at home in Americana with her program of refurbishing the White House in authentic furnishings from various periods of U.S. history.

Aboard, a similar interest in Americana gets a giant assist from a unique museum started by two men who believe the cultural image overseas of the United States could stand improvement.

The two are founders of the American Museum in Britain, which has just opened its latest addition — a detailed replica of the flower gardens at George Washington's Mount Vernon home. The gardens are the gift of the Colonial Dames of America.

AT BATH, ENGLAND

The museum is located at Claverton Manor, Bath, England, 107 miles west of London. Sir Winston Churchill is supposed to have made his first political speech at Claverton 65 years ago.

When we heard of the garden presentation, we hied ourselves off to the headquarters of the Friends of the American Museum in Britain, where we found Mrs. Norman Walker, widowed mother of four grown sons, presiding.

The chic Mrs. Walker, with a background in fashion sales and magazine work, is the Friends' executive secretary. The Friends' chairman is Mrs.

Thomas S. Lamont of the Morgan and Lamont banking families.

"I'm the lookout guy for more items of historical interest to add to the museum," said Mrs. Walker. "Our next big project will be the Old West and we'll have to add a wing to the museum to house it."

ORIGINATED IDEA

She said the "taking coals to Newcastle" project was the brainchild of Dr. Dallas Pratt, psychiatrist on the staff of St. Luke's Hospital, New York, and John Judkin, English-born American who runs a wholesale antiques business.

The two, friends from World War II days and both collectors, were, as Mrs. Walker put it, "piequed" that the English thought all Americans new-rich and not appreciative of the arts.

Judkin has put it another way — "We hope to correct the popular image of America as a country with little cultural background."

The site of the museum is 55 acres of rolling countryside including the manor house of some 33 rooms and galleries built in 1820 for one of England's landed gentry.

The architect, Sir Jeffrey Wyatville, worked for George IV and helped restore Windsor Castle, which is one of the homes of the British royal family.

Mrs. Walker said the museum opened last July 15 for three months and that 20,000 persons visited it. This year, it will be open for six months and the number of visitors is expected to triple.

"There is a tremendous interest in Americana all over Europe," she said.

The museum's rooms range through furnishings and other centuries of the United States. Included is a candlestick which belonged to Peregrine White, the first American child, born on the Mayflower's voyage to Plymouth Rock.

From Adele Simpson's summer 1962 collection emerges this beige jersey, short sleeved cardigan coat over a Peruvian garden print silk dress in linen brown and beige. The ensemble features a matching hood skirt which can be thrown back to form a cord collar.

Model Husband Overworked Too Pooped to Participate

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have one of the best husbands in the world, and I know it. He puts in a nine - hours day of hard work, and then comes home and helps me with the housework.

He keeps all the floors waxed and polished. He takes care of the woodwork, keeps the windows sparkling, and he even does the washing and ironing (yes, I said ironing) when I am behind in my work.

Last week he canned 100 quarts of peaches. Now, here is my problem. He isn't very loving. It would mean so much to me if he would just be a little more affectionate. I am only 33 and he is 36.

NEEDS AFFECTION

DEAR NEEDS: Maybe he's tired!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is having in-law trouble and she isn't even married yet. When her future in-laws saw the wedding invitations, they hit the ceiling because their names didn't appear along with ours.

We checked all the etiquette books and the first-class printers and engravers in town and they agreed that in no instance should the names of the groom's parents appear on the invitations.

Well, to make a long story short, we had to have another set of invitations made up to keep peace in the family.

So, Dear Abby, in your role of peacemaker, please suggest that everyone have two sets of wedding invitations made. One to be socially correct, and the other to keep peace.

FATHER OF THE BRIDE
DEAR FATHER: You are to be admired for your generosity, but I doubt if your suggestion will be taken by many. In putting on weddings, most people would rather be socially correct than "friendly."

DEAR ABBY: The person who wrote in to say it was "unhealthy" for a husband and wife to sleep in the same bed reminds me of the mother who wouldn't kiss her baby because it might spread "germs."

Personally, I couldn't wait to find a man I truly loved. Nuts to hot water bottles and electric blankets to keep me warm. There is nothing wrong with sharing a bed with your own husband. That's the way the good Lord intended it to be.

If married folks would throw out the twin beds and go back to the big old-fashioned double bed, there would be fewer divorces.

NO PROBLEM
DEAR NO: And to that I say "Amen." What's a poke in the ribs or an occasional cold foot in your back compared to togetherness?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "N": You never realize how fast a month can go by until you pay alimony. Think it over.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

Don't Starve 'Work Hard Say Yes'

Gilbert Youth Service
How to keep from starving in Hollywood: Be in the right place at the right time, say yes to a part in any kind of movie, and work like a dog to learn the business.

This formula, rather than knowing influential people in high places, keep appearing in interviews with youngsters who recognize not everyone can be a star, but that the flexible performer can keep busy even in the highly competitive movie capital.

John Ashley entered in Hollywood when there was need for more young men to appear in "Men of Annapolis." The timing was right, and in no time he was marching around the Annapolis parade grounds, and being paid for it.

Now teamed with Brian Kelly in a television weekly, he works as competently as though he hoped for an Emmy. Both he and Brian debunk the theory that being seen in the right places has any bearing on their professional success. "The important thing is your performance on the set. You learn a tremendous amount about acting by watching the other performers and listening to the director."

Actually, both young men have dramatic training in college days behind them. Brian majored in political science in college, but spent the summers in stock. A dramatics major in college, John added acting to the technique he could and then headed west.

Two blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. Richard Fintz for her arrangements "Roses for Remembrance" and "Green Tranquillity".

The number of new animals discovered each year is about 50 mammals, 100 fish, 15 birds and 5,000 insects.

Cars Drive Gals to Think

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Millions of women have traded back-seat driving for front—but they're still sounding off.

So reports M. Jeanne Wertz, founder and director of the Automotive Council for Women. Its purpose is education of women in the finer points of owning, operating, maintaining and enjoying the family auto.

Miss Wertz estimates there are 30 million women drivers, that women account for 80 per cent of service station sales, and that there are 7.4 million two-or-more car families, which means 7.4 million feminine chauffeurs particularly in the suburbs.

Membership in the council, organized at the beginning of the year, now numbers nearly 10,000, said Miss Wertz. Although only a fraction of the potential, Miss Wertz said it's a highly vocal fraction judging from letters coming into council headquarters.

Many of the letters praise the automotive industry, but Miss Wertz said the bulk either are the "why don't they" type or outright gripes.

"When a woman gets into a car, knocks off her hat and her skirts ride up, she's more apt to sound off than she is to write about convenience of owning a car, the fun of driving, or its pleasing color scheme," she said.

Letters comment on car size, safety, air buying, and on filling station treatment.

One woman figured the solution to some design problems lay in Detroit's hiring women engineers.

Said another, "If I gained a pound, I wouldn't fit behind the steering wheel."

"Where has the running board gone and why don't they bring it back?" asks another member.

Letters also have commented on the amount of glass used in "cathinascopes" windows which let too much sun both front and back," said one writer. Said another, "I would feel safe if the windows were smaller and there was less glass."

One woman suggested that designers produce a car with a special roll-in grocery car which would do away with the back-breaking lift in and out of car seat or trunk. "That," she said, "is the kind of extra I'd like."

Miss Wertz said numerous letters are concerned with children's safety.

One woman suggested that someone design a car safe for children to stand in, since most children were determined to do just that. Another suggested doing away with "the buttons on doors so children can't open them when the car is moving." Still another wanted some sort of safety equipment to make a car "runproof" when little "drivers" are at the wheel of a parked auto.

Car salesmen irritated some writers. "Why don't they treat us like they do when we shop for refrigerators, stoves and houses?" wrote one.

"Help," wrote another. "I am buying a car, or trying to, and am lost in prices, deals, financing and extras." Miss Wertz said one of the most confusing areas to women is that of service station or garage.

"The worst thing is trying to understand them (service station men)," wrote one woman. "They talk Greek to women..."

"Can you help me not feel too dumb and at their mercy?" asked a woman who said she drove from 30,000 to 40,000 miles a year on her job.

Miss Wertz said so many letters begin, "I hate to ask a man because he might laugh."

"They're right," she said. "Men would probably laugh. Yet if men stopped to think how confused they would be in a beauty shop or dress shop they would appreciate our dilemma."

With Parties, Luncheons

'Shower' Mrs.-to-Be

"Rockin' round the clock" was the theme for a shower and luncheon given by Mrs. John Hauser of Birmingham and Mrs. Gerald Gilbert of Charlottesville, Va., at the Detroit Golf Club honoring bride-elect Sally Lynne Young.

Mrs. Stephen Petix of Bloomfield Township, Mrs. Robert Scullen and daughter Mary Ellen were hostesses at a buffet supper and linen shower. Mrs. Howard T. Howlett of Detroit and daughter Mrs. Dick Mabey gave a shower and luncheon at the Detroit Golf Club, and last week Mrs. John P. Denison of Birmingham invited all the hostesses to luncheon.

The Loy Sutherlands of Lake Orion honored Miss Young and her fiancé, Rodger V. Wiley Jr., at cocktails and dinner in the Detroit Athletic Club. Mrs. Martin W. Boss of Detroit and daughter Mrs. John Norton, Farmington, received guests for tea and a linen shower.

CUPLES PARTY

The Robert T. Kellys will have a couples' party in their home and the L. P. Mannings of Detroit have set a barbecue shower and dinner for Aug. 4.

Mrs. Cecil Akroyd, Bloomfield Hills, will give the spinner luncheon Aug. 10 in Oakland Hills Country Club. Among the guests will be the honoree's bridesmaids Mrs. Gerald Rosen, Mrs. John Norton, Mrs. Sandra Cinnamon, Miss Ogur, Judith Boca of Chicago, Karen Kanstner of Milwaukee, Wis., and the maid of honor, Sue Carol Young.

The Rodger V. Wiley of Wing Lake Road will give the rehearsal dinner Aug. 10.

Dr. and Mrs. Donald A. Young of Bloomfield Hills will host a reception of the Detroit Boat Club following Aug. 11, hours in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Heirloom Earrings Lend Note of Grace as Jo Ann Hurlburt Speaks Vows

Antique metal and bone earrings made from buttons on her grandmother's wedding dress provided the traditional "something old" when Jo Ann Hurlburt became Mrs. Elwyn D. Myers Saturday in the First Congregational Church.

Rev. Malcolm K. Burton officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony, first to be performed in the newly finished sanctuary.

A seed pearl tiara caught the triple-tiered bubble veil of silk illusion. The bride carried pink sweetheart roses, Stephanotis and miniature carnations.

Attending their cousin as bridesmaids were Janice Stearns, Cherry Hill, N. J., and Sandra Nicholson; her former college roommate Carolyn Buta, Fenton, and Judy Kuhn, Detroit. Gail Mitchell was Maid of Honor. Smidgen and carnations in mutation shades of pale pink to deep red complimented their dresses of pink chiffon.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Myers of Pontiac, had his brother-in-law, Harold Carlin, Lake Orion, for best man, and his cousin, Robert Gunberg of Chicago, ushered.

MRS. ELWYN D. MYERS

with Lewis Melloe and William Bush, Cleveland, and James Russell, Benzonia, Willis McEwen, Cherry Hill N. J., was candle lighter.

After a northern Michigan honeymoon, the couple will summer in Parma, Ohio. The bride will teach in Louisville, Ky., this fall while Mr. Myers attends University of Louisville dental school.
