Lake Angelus Astronomers Explore Sun's Flaming Secrets

BY MAX E. SIMON

What important scientific secrets are concealed by the flaming surface of the sun?

This is a problem which will be attacked by McMath Hulbert Observatory astronomers as they join a global scientific effort to learn more about the mysteries of the earth and outer space.

In their remote scientific outpost on the north shore of Lake Angelus, observatory staff members under the directorship of Dr. Robert R. McMath are making observations for the International Geophysical Year (IGY).

They are part of a global team of 10,000 researchers from 62 nations taking part in the 18-month IGY, which began July 1.

FOCUS ON FLARES

The local astronomers are primarily interested in obtaining a better understanding of solar flares, which sometimes cause radio fadeouts, according to Dr. Helen Dodson (Mrs. E. L. Prince), who is heading the University of Michigan observatory's work in the IGY.

The surface of the sun is in a continual state of enormous activity. The sunspots, which come and go in a cycle of about 11 years, are local regions which are about 2,000 degrees cooler than the surrounding surface.

The origin and nature of sunspots are still obscure, although they may resemble terrestrial hurricanes and are known to have strong magnetic fields associated with them.

Frequently local areas around sunspots brighten up briefly and suddenly. These so-called "flares" or "eruptions" will be the object of intense examination by the observatory staff.

The Lake Angelus observatory will use telescopes and other special equipment to study these conditions.

"Solar flares are often associated with radio fadeouts and magnetic storms on the earth," Dr. Dodson said.

RADIATES LIGHT

"It is known that when a solar flare occurs, it radiates large quantities of light and may also eject high velocity atomic particles."

At the same time, Dr. Dodson said, there is likely to be a disturbance in the "roof" of the earth's atmosphere, known as the ionosphere, causing short-wave fadeout.

The atomic particles, because they travel more slowly than light, require from one to four days to travel the 93,000,000 miles to earth. When these particles reach the earth's atmosphere, they cause the series of phenomena that are associated with geomagnetic storms, Dr. Dodson explained.

Geomagnetic storms are characterized by variations in the pointing of sensitive compass needles and strong electrical currents over the surface of the earth. The storms are also accompanied by the Aurora Borealis (northern lights displays).

Another effect of solar flares on the earth, Dr. Dodson said, is a "sudden enhancement of atmospherics." This means, for example, that here in Pontiac there is an increase in radio static from thunderstorms as far away as the tropics because of change in the ionosphere during a solar flare."

Certain types of radio receivers on earth are able to pick up distinct cosmic noise from the stars and planets in the universe, Dr. Dodson said. However, during a solar flare, this cosmic static is absorbed in the ionosphere, and is not as strong as at other times.

As part of its work in the IGY, the observatory is installing equipment to measure the amount of cosmic noise absorption and increase in static during solar flares.

Red Boss Calls 3 Ousted Soviets Cunning Plotters

Khrushchev Also Tags Shepilov as Shameless Double-Dealer

LONDON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev today publicly denounced three ousted Kremlin leaders as "cunning" plotters who planned to seize control of the Soviet Communist party and government.

The Soviet Communist boss further accused Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich, former first deputy premiers, of opposing all government measures "for easing world tension and strengthening peace throughout the world."

He called Dmitri T. Shepilov, fourth member of the deposed anti-party group "the most shameless double-dealing individual."

Khrushchev made his accusations in a speech in Leningrad, the first time he has publicly condemned the ousted trio since they were expelled from party and government posts earlier this week.

London monitors who heard a report of the speech broadcast by Moscow radio first reported that Khrushchev had singled out Malenkov as "the worst" of the group.

Later, however, the monitors said Khrushchev had not in fact made such a statement. They attributed their error to "a mishearing." The mistake was caught, the monitors said, when their recording of the speech was being replayed for a final check on translation details. The original Moscow broadcast was in the Russian language.

Earlier in the day, the Soviet Union informed the west the Kremlin shakeup would cause no

Deaths Soar to 14 on Roads, Seven Drown

National Toll Sprints to 236 on Highways During Holiday

COPEMISH (AP) — Seven members of a single family were killed and an eighth critically injured in a car-truck crash outside this northwestern lower Michigan community yesterday. It was the worst July 4th holiday accident reported anywhere in the nation.

Three persons survived the crash, but two of them were in critical condition at a Frankfort hospital today.

The accident brought to 14 the number of dead in traffic accidents in Michigan so far in the four-day holiday period. Seven persons have drowned.

Nationally, death on the highways climbed with grim regularity today, but at a pace well below that predicted for the long holiday weekend by safety officials.

As Americans took to the road in the second half of the Independence Day Holiday the National Safety Council said death figures were "encouragingly low" and "well below" its estimate that 535 persons would die during the four-day period.

Since the count began at 6 p.m. Wednesday at least 236 traffic deaths were counted. Drownings totaled 132 and there were 53 deaths from miscellaneous causes. The overall total was 421.

The count ends midnight Sunday.

Those killed in the Copemish tragedy were members of a Paragould, Ark., family in Michigan to pick cherries between the harvesting of strawberries and cotton on their own farm. It was their third season in this cherry region.

Seven older children of the family of 14 survive. They didn't accompany their parents.

Killed were Bynum Collins, 55;

Retain Girard, Officials Ask

U. S. Claims Private Should Not Go Free While Case Is in Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government contended today that GI William S. Girard has no right to go free while the Supreme Court considers whether he should be tried by U.S. or Japanese authorities.

The high court will hear oral arguments on the case Monday. U.S. officials had agreed to turn the Army specialist third class from Ottawa, Ill., over to the Japanese for trial on a charge of killing a Japanese woman who was scavenging for scrap metal on an Army firing range.

Attorneys for Girard obtained an order from the U.S. district court here forbidding the Army to release him to Japanese authorities. However, the same court refused to direct the Army to set Girard free from Army custody.

On this side issue, the government in a brief filed today told the Supreme Court Girard has no valid reason to object to being held by the Army at Camp Whittington in Japan.

The Justice Department, in effect, said the district court was right in denying Girard a writ of habeas corpus to free him. However, the government still contends — and will argue next week —that the lower court was wrong in blocking Girard's transfer to Japanese custody for trial.

Girard's attorneys, in another brief filed yesterday, said the decision to let the Japanese conduct the trial was "unprecedented" and "inconceivable."

In Tokyo, the Justice Ministry reiterated today that Japan will insist on trying Girard regardless of how the Supreme Court rules.

Refuses to Clip Sideburns, Airman Court-Martialed

TOKYO (AP)—A young Colorado airman said today his refusal to get a "white sidewall" has resulted in court-martial charges against him.

In this incident "white sidewall" refers to a haircut, one that strips the sideburns bare from the ears to the crown of the head.

Airman 3.C. Don Wheeler of Cortez, Colo., said charges of disobeying orders were filed against him after his squad leader told him to get his hair cut in that fashion. He declined.

"I am not refusing an order," Wheeler said, "simply challenging an order to get a 'white sidewall' haircut because I had had an Air Force regulation haircut only the day before."

Murray Sprung, a New York lawyer practicing in Tokyo, said he had agreed to defend Wheeler in the summary court-martial.

Wheeler, 20, is a member of the honor guard platoon at Pershing Heights. An Air Force spokesman said that, as such, he should have a sharp haircut.

"Members of the honor guard should look alike," he said.

"Wheeler is not being tried for failure to get a haircut. He is charged with disobedience of a lawful order of his superior officer."

The summary court-martial opened this week, but defense challenges struck one officer from the three-man board and a new start is to be made some time after July 15.

Maximum penalties upon conviction would be a bad conduct discharge, six months' hard labor, a reduction in rank and forfeiture of two-thirds pay for six months.

Wheeler, in the Air Force three years, contended he was being harassed by the platoon sergeant. He said he had applied three times for a transfer.

Efforts of 5 Friends to Save Detroiter of No Avail

A 16-year-old Detroit boy drowned late Friday afternoon while swimming with friends at Ship-A-Hoy Beach on Walled Lake, in Novi Township.

Timothy Patrick Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Foster, 22564 Frisbe St., was about 20 feet from a swimming float when he sank.

Five Detroit boys swimming with him, told deputies they attempted a rescue but lost their hold on him only 10 feet from the float.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department was called and assisted by the Novi Police and Fire Departments. The body was recovered at 7:15 p.m., about an hour and a half after the accident occurred.

They will represent the 8,500 Boy Scouts of the Clinton Valley Council at the Fourth National Jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America.

Site of Jamboree City, built every four years since 1937 with the exception of war years, is historic Valley Forge in Pennsylvania.

Scouts and their leaders will leave Detroit by train tomorrow afternoon, after assembling at the Tel-Huron Shopping Center. They will return from the two weeks adventure July 21.

Before reaching their destination Wednesday, area boys will visit Washington, D. C. for two days. They also will spend some time in New York City before returning home.

Scoutmasters for the local group, composed of two jamboree troops, will be Dr. Jack Bell, 351 Dick Ave., and William Genette, of Milford.

Floyd L. Cobb Jr., of Rochester; Albert Lyon, of 7227 Sandy Beach Dr.; N. Reid Graham, of 705 Joslyn Ave.; and E. B. Sherrick, of Orchard Lake will assist the scoutmasters.

Six area men will also attend the mammoth get-together. The five acting assistant commissary officer are Roger Lawrence, 2152 Ridge Rd.; Van R. Braidwood, Pontiac district executive; Donald Mfilligan and Lewis Gilson, of Walled Lake; John Stoughton of Milford and Ervin Schilke, of Rochester. L. H. Mackie to Cut Delay on New Expressway

DETROIT (AP)—State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie issued orders today for subordinates to seek some method of opening the long-delayed Detroit-to-Brighton expressway within a month.

A 20-mile stretch of divided superhighway, designed to divert traffic from Grand River between Farmington and Brighton, has been under construction since 1955. The pavement is complete, but has not been opened to traffic because steel has not been acquired for construction of three bridges.

Truman Memorial Library Dedicated in Missouri

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — A chipper Harry Truman prepared to turn over to the government today a 21 million dollar monument to his two terms in the White House.

It's a crescent-shaped building of Indiana limestone containing 3½ million official documents and uncounted personal mementoes of his nearly eight years as President.

The 73-year-old former chief executive obviously looked forward with keenest anticipation to the ceremony this afternoon when the Harry S. Truman Library and Museum will be dedicated as a national monument.

And he made no attempt to hide the relish with which he took part in preliminary events. Twice yesterday, laughing and joking with the donors, he accepted gifts for the museum.

One was a piano—a duplicate of one made for the White House by the Baldwin Piano Co. He recalled that a local newsman had mistakenly identified one of his favorite songs as the "Mohawk Waltz."

"It was the Blackhawk Waltz," he laughed. "It was a song written during the Blackhawk War in which Abraham Lincoln served as a captain. Here, I'll show you what it's like."

He did — playing the tune through then following it with a minuet.

Like the piano, the Truman library building itself is a gift. Its cost, 1¼ million dollars, was raised by public subscription. The value placed on the grounds and the building's contents run the total to 21 million.

Flying over the building at today's ceremony will be the flag that flew over the inauguration stand in Washington when Truman took the oath of office in 1949. Yesterday, as he has many times before, Truman recalled it was "an inauguration a lot of folks said would never take place."

Joining him for the ceremony will be the only other living ex-President, Herbert Hoover; the widow of President Franklin D. Roosevelt; the chief justice and an associate justice of the United State; six U.S. senators; four congressmen; eight governors; and two men who were members of Truman's cabinet.

The invited guests number 2,000, and Truman shook the hands of more than 500 of them at a reception last night. For today's ceremony, it's anticipated, there will be, in addition, from 10 to 15 thousand spectators. Standing room for them has been provided on as yet unlandscaped grounds between the front entrance of the library and U.S. Highway 24, which flanks the structure.

Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States, will be the principal speaker. Truman will present his official papers and mementoes. Basil O'Connor, president of the Harry S. Truman Library Corp., will make the presentation of the building.

Franklin G. Floete, chief of the General Services Administration, and Wayne C. Grover, archivist of the United States, will accept the library on behalf of the government. Floete is President Eisenhower's personal representative for the occasion.

Tankers End 2 Weeks of Tough Field Training in Wisconsin

By JOE SINGLETON

CAMP McCOY, Wis.—With two weeks of vigorous field training behind them, members of the 703rd Army Reserve Tank Battalion will return to Pontiac early Sunday morning.

The battalion, part of the 70th Infantry Division, participated in its annual summer field exercise from June 23 to July 7 at Camp McCoy.

Training during the 1957 camp period here centered on tank operation, maintenance, driving, firing, and communication. The tankers also received instruction in the firing of small arms, including the 45 caliber pistol, the carbine, and the 50 caliber machine gun.

The tank battalion made an impressive showing last Saturday during the 70th Infantry Division parade.

In preparation for the overnight bivouac, a highlight in the summer training program, the men were briefed on field sanitation and personal hygiene, military first aid, and map and compass reading.

During the bivouac, the 703rd Tank Battalion gave tank support to the 70th Infantry Division an assimilated attack on the battalion by an aggressor force.

GI on Guard Duty Kills Korean Child

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A U.S. soldier guarding a pipeline post in Inchon accidentally shot and killed a 3-year-old Korean boy today, the Army reported. A board of officers has been appointed to investigate.

The child, King Young Ho, was sitting on the pipeline when a bullet shot from a carbine passed through his head, killing him instantly, the Army said. Officials added the carbine was discharged accidentally.

The soldier, Pvt. Ronald E. Fassett, was reported in a "state of shock" following the accident. Col. Joseph V. Smith, Inchon port commander, expressed his regret to the mayor of Inchon and extended his sympathy to the child's father, Ki Chin Chou.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Why isn't the hottest period of the year the time when the sun shines the longest on the earth? In other words, why isn't June 21th, the longest day of the year, also likely to be the hottest?

The hottest weather we experience follows the longest days of the year, and the days in which the sun shines longest, and occurs while the days are shortening, and darkness each night increasing.

This is true because the earth is a great reservoir of stored heat. The great amount of sunshine that begins in March—when the days become longer than the nights—slowly builds up heat in the earth, but this process goes on in July and August, even after the summer solstice, and the beginning of shorter days.

It continues for a long time, throughout the period when the days are longer than the nights—which is until September. Even after the autumn equinox, when the nights are longer than the days, this heat keeps the early fall from being bitter cold. And in July, August and September this stored-up heat is likely to create the hottest spells of the year. In June, the earth is still not heated up, so to speak.

In Eastern Mediterranean

Suspect Red Navy Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia may be well started on the way to becoming a limited naval power in the eastern Mediterranean.

The suspicion is growing in official quarters here that this is the real meaning behind Russia's recently disclosed sale to Egypt of three submarines.

One of Egypt's purposes in obtaining the undersea craft may lie in using them to try to prevent passage of ships through the Gulf of Aqaba to the Israeli port of Eilat.

Egypt and other Arab states contend that the gulf is Arab territorial water and that shipping to Israel can be legitimately stopped.

Two of the submarines, which arrived some time ago at the port of Alexandria, are described by authorities here as capable of laying mines. The ultimate Egyptian intention may be to try to mine the waters at the entrance to the gulf, which opens off the Red Sea.

But what intrigues and worries American experts even more is what may be behind Russia's sale of the underwater craft.

In the view of responsible authorities who have analyzed the deal, possession and operation of the submarines by Egypt will mean that Egypt will have to build up a submarine operating base possibly at Alexandria.

With President Nasser's Egyptian government already closely linked with the Soviet Union, such a base would be Russian equipped. It could easily be supplied with a large store of repair parts and with other materials and the fuel suitable for submarine operations.

Once such a base is established it could readily be used by the Soviets' own submarines as well as those under the Egyptian flag. Russian technicians could be available there to service visiting Soviet underwater vessels.

In such a case Washington officials would expect that such visits would be carried out with considerable frequency.

The presence of the Soviet submarines in Mediterranean water would then become a factor which strategic planners of the Western powers would have to take constantly into consideration.

Contrary to popular belief, geomagnetic storms such as the one which marked the beginning of the IGY, have no effect on television said Dr. Oren Mohler, assistant director of the observatory.

"Short range communications are not at all affected by the storms," he asserted. "Long range communications of 1,000 miles or so are seriously affected.

Last Sunday night, at the height of the storm, no one was having any trouble with TV sets, but it would have been difficult to pick up an overseas short wave broadcast.

"It is conceivable that a TV set might pick up a foreign station at some time or other, but this would be caused by meteorological conditions and not by solar flares."

The observatory is awaiting arrival from the IGY National Committee of an automatic-patrol telescope that will take two pictures a minute of the entire solar disc, showing when and where flares occur, how bright they are and how fast they disappear. It is being shipped from France.

Data from the telescope will be transmitted to international evaluation centers at Boulder, Col., Moscow and Paris.

CODED MESSAGES

Daily the observatory receives coded messages from the International warning center of the IGY at Fort Belvoir, Va. These messages are flashed to IGY posts throughout the world.

The observatory sends daily reports of solar activity to Central Radio Propagation Laboratory at Fort Belvoir, Va., which attempts to put together worldwide solar data, in order to forecast probable transmission and communications conditions for all parts of the earth.

Since its inception in 1930 the observatory, under the directorship of Dr. McMath, has pioneered in solar research techniques. It was the first to take motion pictures of solar flares.

Ava Sheds Frankie

MEXICO CITY (INS) — Ava Gardner is expected to marry Italian comedian Walter Chiari now that she has finally received her divorce from Frank Sinatra.

The beautiful actress was granted the divorce yesterday on grounds of desertion.

Sinatra had accepted the charges and agreed to the divorce through his attorney. The divorce was granted by Judge Agustin Espinosa de la Pena in Mexico City.

Ava and Frankie were married in 1951 following a stormy courtship. Their marriage was even stormier. They have been separated for the past two years.

Sinatra had been married once previously and Ava had been married twice, to Artie Shaw and Mickey Rooney.

Sinatra's career was at low ebb at the time of his marriage to Ava. Since the marriage he has risen to far greater heights than he had ever enjoyed before.

Before their final separation two years ago, Ava and Frank had been separated for short periods but reconciliations followed. Ava had established residence for a divorce in Nevada in 1954, but didn't pick up the decree.

She and Chiari have been in Spain since June 25. She said she was going there for a rest. Chiari said he would make a movie in Barcelona.

During June, 144 building permits were granted worth $501,086. Included in this total were 39 for new homes in the city with an estimated combined value of $317,000.

May totals showed 173 permits totaling $468,200. There were 39 new home permits ($353,000) issued during that month.

Helping boost the June totals were permits issued to the Board of Education for alterations and additions at several city schools. These totaled $74,930.

Miss Evans has five adopted children and two of her own. The children include a Korean and an American Indian.

Before beginning his sermon, Graham asked all those under 25 to stand. An estimated 60 per cent of the crowd arose.

The evangelist's subject was "youth aflame." His text was Ezekiel 22:30—"And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none."

Graham said God is searching for young people to serve him.

There were 576 "decisions for Christ" last night. That brought the total for the 50 meetings in the Garden to 27,582. Attendance now totals 847,800.

Van Atta Seeks Board Hearing

Former Police Chief Points to His Seniority on Waterford Force

Waterford Township's dismissed police chief, Frank Van Atta, has made a formal request to board members for a hearing before the trial board, according to clerk James Seeterlin.

Van Atta pointed out that he had two months more seniority than any other member of the Waterford Township police department.

Along with two patrolmen, he was released from the police force June 16 in a second cut to curtail township expenditures.

The township board contends there was no disciplinary action in Van Atta's dismissal.

Held in Knifing of Former Wife in Oak Park

Arthur O. Ritzert, 42, a resident of the Edison Hotel, Detroit, was arraigned Friday before Oak Park Justice Burton K. Shifman on charges of assault with intent to murder.

Ritzert, who stabbed his wife, Mary Louise, Thursday night, demanded examination and was returned to the Oakland County Jail with bond set at $10,000.

Oak Park police said that Ritzert, who is separated from his wife, returned to her home at 13641 Allen St., Oak Park, and the two began fighting. He was carrying a knife with him, which he plunged into her back twice, officers reported.

Their daughter, Kathleen, 11, ran into the yard screaming, attracting the attention of police. The house is located directly behind the Oak Park Police station, and officers ran into the home just in time to see Ritzert pulling the knife from his wife's back, they said.

Mrs. Ritzert was rushed to William Beaumont Hospital where she is reported to be in "fair" condition today.

Raises Start Rash of Demands at South Lyon

They raised the salaries of four city employes at their previous meeting and now two other employes, Floyd Bradley, city treasurer, and Lloyd Birckelbaw, sewage plant worker, demand raises.

To add to the dilemma, Councilman Reynold Sweet told his colleagues that one of the employes who received a raise last month approached him and scorned the boost because it wasn't enough.

Water Festival Begins

PORT HURON (AP) — The week-long Blue Water Festival begins Sunday and will be climaxed by the annual running of the Port Huron to Mackinaw yacht race which gets under way July 13. A 10-band parade July 11 and the Black River canoe race over a 16-mile course July 14 will highlight the program.

Bergman Rushes Home to Join Ailing Daughter

ROME (AP)—Ingrid Bergman hurried home from Paris today to be with her 5-year-old daughter, Isabella, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last night.

At the Rossellini home, a spokesman said the child came through the operation very well and is improving rapidly.

Isabella, her twin sister and her brother had been spending the summer at their parents' seaside summer home at Santa Marinella, 40 miles north of Rome. Isabella was rushed to Rome when she became ill.

Her mother has been acting in a Paris stage play. Her father, Roberto Rossellini, is in India directing a film.

Nevada Testers to Fire 'Diablo'

Small Nuclear Weapon Next to Be Detonated After Big Blast

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—With the biggest atomic explosion of the six-year test series in the United States accomplished, the Nevada test organization today turned its attention to the scheduled firing of the long-postponed "diablo" device July 12.

"Diablo" a relatively weak nuclear weapon, is the one that failed to explode June 28 because of a power failure.

Following on the schedule is the July 19 firing of the first air-to-air rocket with an atomic warhead. The missile will be launched from a plane. Its target will be a predetermined point in the air.

The radioactive air masses which developed from the mushroom cloud erupting from yesterday's explosion were moving across Utah today. The test organization said they are "depositing only minute and insignificant fallout."

The only report of offsite damage by the blast's shock wave came from the Groom mine, 25 miles northeast of the detonation site. The test organization said it had been advised that windows were broken, window frame, doors and casings blown in and metal buildings bulged.

Dr. G. M. Johnson, test director, announced the explosion was "well over" the power of the previous record for a device set off on this testing ground. That probably would make it between three and four times the power of the World War II atom bombs.

Khrushchev Blasts Malenkov as 'Worst' changes in its "peace-loving foreign policy."

Moscow Radio replied in a righteous tone to an American challenge to the Russians to follow up the purge of Stalinist elements with measures "to promote peace and stability."

The broadcast beamed to North America said Soviet policy all along has been "to live peacefully side by side with all countries and to do everything possible to improve our relations and cooperation with the U.S.A. since promotion of world peace depends largely on that."

The broadcast said Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich and V. M. Molotov — who were purged from the Kremlin leadership this week-end opposed the "Soviet policy for peace" and tried to hamper its implementation, but their plans were frustrated.

"The conclusion is clear," said Moscow Radio. "The Soviet Union's peace-loving foreign policy remains unchanged. And he assured it will be pursued still more actively and still more perseveringly."

Moscow radio described as "absurd" reports that repressive measures had been taken against the deposed Soviet leaders. The broadcast said Malenkov, Kaganovich and Molotov attended meetings yesterday "of the local Moscow party organizations to which they belong." Sources in Warsaw had reported the three under house arrest.

Massachusetts Set to Contest Adoption

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis will be opposed by a lawyer for the State of Massachusetts and Hildy McCoy's natural mother when they seek court approval Monday of their petition to adopt the child.

Blonde 6-year-old Hildy, who has been reared by the Jewish couple almost since her birth to a Catholic mother, has been the center of a long controversy over her custody.

Miami Attorney Robert Asti will represent Mrs. Marjorie McCoy Doherty of Hingham, Mass., and the state of Massachusetts.

Massachusetts is seeking to retain jurisdiction of the case under an adoption petition filed earlier in Boston. Massachusetts law requires an adopted child to be reared where practicable in the faith of its real parent.

The Day in Birmingham

Maple Under Preparation for Paving Work to Start

BIRMINGHAM—The Maple avenue area between Hunter boulevard and Adams road looks at present as though it had been the path of the tornado.

Trees, minus all limbs, line both sides of the streets, awaiting the final cutting and removal of stumps. A half-completed office building adds to the illusion of destruction.

Detour signs have been placed, ready to route traffic around the area, which soon will be blocked for work on the new pavement.

Police and engineers have arranged "emergency routes" which will permit customers to reach stores and office building so that business may continue as usual.

The program calls for the relocation of utilities, as well as the laying of a 44-foot concrete pavement. Since much of the work depends on weather, no definite date can be given for the start of the actual paving.

It is expected, however, that it will require about six weeks to complete the project after it gets underway.

Police are again asking parents to take action and help stop children from playing along the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley pointed out today that neither his department nor the railroad can do anything until the children are actually on the right-of-way.

"Parents," he said, "can help by stressing and enforcing the fact that the track area is strictly out of bounds. We have no rights in this, nor does our combined forces have enough men to patrol the track area as it extends through the city.

"Railroad officials have said they will crack down on youngsters and call the police whenever they are seen on or near the tracks. When youngsters are apprehended, it will then become a project to be handled by our Juvenile Department and the parents.

"This is all right as far as it goes, but before a boy is sighted and reported, he may fall victim to a train. The new, fast Diesels make little noise and when a group is playing noisily along the tracks, its approach might go unnoticed.

"We know railroad tracks have an attraction for most boys. You parents can help us prevent it being a fatal one," Moxley concluded.

Silence is the keynote but the slowly moving white trucks of the ice cream vendors still draw their youthful customers. Walter Gross, Don W. Moore and Kenneth Phipps, Good Humor salesmen, drew fines in Birmingham Municipal Court for bell ringing.

They violated a section of the city's noise ordinance, phrased perhaps by some bygone city official whose humor was not so good.

Service for Jet Pilot Sunday at Somerset

They were met at Willow Run Airport by Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Atwood and driven to the home of her late husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeGrande Smith of Addison. There she awaited the return of the body of her husband, who lost his life in a crash landing over Japan on June 22.

Lt. "Chan" Smith, 24, a jet airplane pilot, joined the service in March, 1955, receiving his wings July 27, 1956 at Big Springs, Tex. He had been overseas one year, stationed at Kadena Base, Okinawa.

His wife Bonnie joined him in October of 1956 and their baby daughter was born a month ago.

Service for Lt. Smith will be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the Congregational Church at Somerset.

Surviving besides his wife and daughter and his parents, is a brother, Nick, who also is in the Air Force.

The choir and special music will be under the direction of Mrs. Walter Spink. Mrs. Addison Cary and Mrs. John Cline have worked with the church history committee to present a historical display, showing many of the old records, new receipts, pictures of former ministers, etc.

Also among the items displayed will be a picture of the grave marker of the founder of the church, The Rev. Isaac Ruggles, who was buried in Oakhill Cemetery at Pontiac. The Rev. Ruggles founded not only the Rochester Church but also the Pontiac and Romeo Congregational Churches.

Infantile Paralysis Below Last Year

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's infantile paralysis case load still is running behind last year and the year before, the State Health Department reported today.

Only six cases were reported during the past week, all non-paralytic.

There has been 43 polio cases reported in Michigan so far this year compared to 58 for the same period in 1956 and 102 in 1955.

Health department authorities said, however, that the case load generally begins to rise in late July or early August.

Check Your Puzzle Answers Here

The following are correct answers and explanations for the Pot-O-Gold puzzle which appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (2) DAILY. To show devotion to a pretty teacher, a young child likes to take her some small thing every day, even if only a hand-picked flower. Presents from small boys are quite likely to be something like a frog, which he loves, but which is certainly not Dainty.

B. (3) WARNINGS. Adequate Earnings lead to spending, which, in a rising spiral, means inflation, a danger signal. Economists hope that they can read the signs and, with proper WARNINGS, take steps to avoid a depression.

C. (5) BREEZE. A cold does not always start with a Sneeze; many people have allergies and SNEEZE because of something in the air. A dank BREEZE that chills you often starts a cold.

D. (8) YELLOW. Most documents turn YELLOW with age; we think of Mellow more usually in connection with ripe fruit, or benign, tolerant, old people.

E. (9) CONVICTS. It's generally the CONVICTS themselves who cause damage in prison riots, by breaking up chairs etc. And even if there are Conflicts, or fighting, in the prison, the CONVICTS started the riots, didn't they?

F. (11) SMARTING. A maid who is Starting under sharp orders would not quit unless they irritated her, and she was SMARTING under them.

G. (13) TABASCO. Being highly spiced, TABASCO would certainly be forbidden for a man with ulcers. He would be told to cut own as much as possible on Tobacco, but most doctors find it useless to forbid it.

H. (16) MORALE. Mom would be concerned about the mental attitude of her son in the army overseas; is he cheerful or depressed? The average Mom would take pride in her son, and her belief in him would give her complete confidence, and no worry, as to his Morals.

I. (18) EXPLORING. We do not know what resources there are in desert areas; in Africa, for instance, there is thought to be oil. But EXPLORING these resources is the first step before Exploiting them -- we find them first before they can be made use of.

J. (19) VOLLEY. Though the Valley, the land between the mountains, would echo with the sound of firing, it's the shooting itself which is noisy, the VOLLEY.

K. (22) RIDES. A police patrol at night covers many incidents which would seem adventurous to a citizen who RIDES with it; Raids would occur only now and then.

L. (23) BILLION. One thousand million is too much money for any one, or any firm, to think of; only the government deals in such vast sums as a BILLION. Jewelry makers and silversmiths buy gold and silver in Bullion form — in the mass — and of course think of it in terms of money that they pay for it.

M. (25) PROTRACTING. Probably sentries guarding a Big Four conference regard the assignement of Protecting it as an honor. It is also boring, however, so they might well regret the necessity for PROTRACTING, or prolonging, the conference.

N. (28) PALLOR. A wan-looking man is usually not in robust health; PALLOR, after an illness, would suggest to the explorer's wife that he wasn't yet fit for such hazardous work. Probably she has long since ceased to worry about his Valor, or readiness to face danger.

O. (30) CONFUSE. An opinionated man is so oversure of himself that there's no use trying to embarrass or disconcert him; it can't be done. Even if you should Confute him, or prove him wrong, he'd wriggle out of it, and refuse to let it CONFUSE him.

P. (31) DIRECTIVES. To solve a series of robberies, the police department often works out a master plan, assigning Detectives to cover whole areas. The instructions — for carrying out the plan DIRECTIVES — are shrewdly worked out to catch the robbers; good detectives do their share as individuals.

Q. (34) VANITY. An aging ex-beauty who dresses in teen-age clothes makes you wonder about her VANITY. Is she so conceited that she thinks she is still young and beautiful? It's a silly weakness, but taken alone, does not involve the question of Sanity.

R. (35) SCREED. An angry harangue will only make a child resentful and sullen, rather than ashamed of his conduct. An angry Screech, when the parent screams at him indignantly is not good, but it is impulsive and quickly forgotten.

S. (37) ACCIDENTAL. A visiting Korean might be pleased by an ACCIDENTAL meeting with his former American officer. Occidental — pertaining to Europe and the Western hemisphere — more usually is applied to things and to people "of" The West, rather than "in" the West. The meeting was "in" the West.

T. (40) GENTRY. The "upper-crust" people at the governor's party would be well-protected since there are always guards around a governor. It means little to protect an Entry — in the singular —; there are many doors, hallways, etc. in a mansion.

Mike Todd, Liz En Route Home

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Relax, world. Mike Todd and Elizabeth Taylor are on the high seas for five days, en route home.

For a time last night there was some doubt that the sawed-off, cigar-chewing American showman and his pregnant actress wife would get away on the liner Liberte — Liz had misplaced their passports. But the American consul in Southampton came to the rescue with temporary papers.

An amused witness to the furor was Michael Wilding, Miss Taylor's last husband before Todd.

"Look at him," said Todd in their London hotel room, "he's laughing."

"Yes, I am laughing," said Wilding. "It all sounds so familiar."

Mr. and Mrs. Todd have been visiting France and England for a vacation and also presiding at local premieres of his movie, "Around the World in 80 Days." The unveiling in London this week was accompanied by a party of considerable proportions.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd expect a child this fall. She has two by Wilding.

BIBLE QUIZ

QUESTION: What price was set on Jesus' head?

As one of the twelve Disciples, Judas held the purse strings of the group, acting as sort of a treasurer for their meager funds. He was said to believe that Christ would become a great king and that he would need a treasurer to keep his riches. Later Judas became aware that Christ did not want to be an earthly king and cared not a whit for treasures of gold and silver.

Acting on an evil impulse, Judas agreed to betray Christ for the 30 pieces of silver offered by the priests — worth about $20 today, and sufficient then only to buy a slave. Soon after, he realized what his action meant to himself and the other disciples. He rushed to the temple and threw down the leather pouch and its money. But it was too late. He then went off and hanged himself.

Later the illgotten money was used to buy a field that had belonged to a Potter. The field was called Potters Field and was used to bury those who had no family or friends.

Cleanup Fizzles in Labor Unions

Little Has Happened Since Beck Was Ousted Three Months Ago

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union labor's corruption cleanup seems to have fizzled in the summer's hot weather, although leaders promise to pick it up again in a month or so.

The avowed cleanup—keyed to disclosures of the Senate Rackets Committee—was kicked off with Teamsters boss Dave Beck's quick ouster three months ago as a federation officer. Little has happened since then.

The federation's Ethical Practices Committee launched probes of the Teamsters Union itself and the Bakery Workers Union, based on charges they were corruptly dominated. But although initial hearings were held, others planned later were canceled to await action within the individual unions.

Nor has the AFL-CIO yet followed up another Senate committee's charges that Maurice Hutcheson, president of the big Carpenters Union and an AFL-CIO vice president, profited from right-of-way sales in Indiana on a federally financed highway project. Like Beck, Hutcheson invoked the Fifth Amendment.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, sand the Hutcheson situation will be considered by the AFL-CIO Executive Council, which meets in Chicago in mid-August.

Nowhere among the labor organizations does there appear a sense of urgency in cleaning out the situations revealed this spring and early summer.

Al Hayes, chairman of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, has been vacationing in the Wisconsin woods. The committee's counsel Arthur Goldberg has been lecturing in Europe on American labor.

Wikol-VanWagoner Vows Spoken in Birmingham

Ellen Louise VanWagoner became the bride of Walter O. Wikol today in a 10 a.m. ceremony performed by Mons. Eugene Paddock of Holy Name Church in Birmingham.

KENNETH B. CUTLER

Beginning Aug. 5, Kenneth B. Cutler of Voorheis road will be associated with the New York law firm of Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York. Mr. Cutler was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School and is a member of the Michigan State Bar Association.

Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Delos VanWagoner of Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ziolkowski of Detroit are parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding, the bride chose a princess style gown of white Italian silk. Her two-tier fingertip veil, a crown of orange blossoms, is the same veil her mother wore for her marriage. White rubrum lilies with stephanotis comprised the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Fred E. Karhohs of Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., was her sister's matron of honor. The bridemaids were Christine Boomer of Royal Oak, Nancy Chapel of Birmingham, and Mrs. Richard Dietz of Hazel Park.

ATTENDANTS IN LACE

The attendants were dressed alike in sheath gowns of white lace over aqua taffeta, accented by aqua sashes.

Attending the bridegroom were Thomas Roache of Royal Oak as best man, and Bob Jurma of Northville, Capt. Fred E. Karhohs of Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and Chester Ziolkowski, brother of the bridegroom, of Detroit.

For the reception breakfast at Devon Gables, Mrs. VanWagoner chose a biege dress with white lace inserts, a large dusty pink hat and a brown cymbidium attached to her purse.

The bridegroom's mother wore a cool water-blue dress with lace and white accessories. Her corsage was a beige cymbidium orchid.

For a honeymoon in Canada, the new Mrs. Wikol changed to a black and white printed sheath with matching accessories.

The couple will reside in Birmingham.

Gene Kelly Tells How to Stay Slim

Cut Down on Fluids and Do Situps, Says Actor-Producer

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK (INS) — Gene Kelly likes his women dehydrated. It takes "drying out" to keep in shape, he explains.

"Fluids are fats," says Kelly. "If you want to stay trim you have to cut out fluids; 'dry out' just the way athletes do. That means no beer, no soda, no cream in the coffee."

That's one-half of the "Kelly dehydration and slow motion exercise system" for preserving flat tummies and slim hips. The other half sounds easy, but Kelly warns that it's tough at first.

"It's just the old sit-up, but you'll feel it when you first try it. "Lie down on the floor, lock your hands behind your head, and hook your feet under the bed or dresser. Keep your legs flat on the floor and try to sit up in slow motion—at least 15 seconds from floor to sit-up.

The pull will be in your stomach muscles— and if you do sit-ups 20 times each morning and night, you'll have a flat stomach."

EASY FOR HIM

For Kelly personally, keeping in trim is easy. The versatile actor-director-producer, now 44, still weighs the same 165 pounds he did when he left Pittsburgh for dancing success on Broadway.

"Dancing keeps me in shape," he pointed out. "It takes two months of steady dancing to perfect one of those three-minute routines you see in a movie.

"And when I'm not dancing, I play ball—volley ball, handball, softball — any kind of ball."

Right now, Kelly's many talents are cutting down his time for ball games. He's just completed a non-dancing movie called "The Happy Road," for which he was both director and actor.

July 9th, he'll debut as a television MC, subbing for Hal March on "The $64,000 question."

He's also completing routines for a new movie musical called "Les Girls" and keeping an eye out for "anything interesting to do" in TV or movies.

"Work can keep you in shape, too," he smiled. "Housewives may not appreciate it but walking up and down stairs is a figure exercise.

"One thing, though — no matter what system you try — it's best to try it on a doctor's say-so."

JANE MARIE FLYNN

To work for the Oakland County Health Department is Jane Marie Flynn, a recent graduate of the University of Michigan School of Nursing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Flynn of Roxie street.

Hang Clothes Right for Easier Ironing

Keep inroning in mind when you hang clothes up to dry, particularly all those nicely square-cornered pieces. Hang them straight on the line and fold them evenly as you take them down. It will reduce ironing time.

Hang dresses, blouses and other such garments on padded hangers; trousers by the waist band or preferably on pant stretchers. Iron several handkerchiefs together at one time.

Fall Fashion Preview ONE COLOR

Here is a preview of the brilliant style trends for fall and winter. The oval line is the way designer Louis Claverie describes the deft away-from-the-body look of this suit in white-flecked gray, black and red Forstmann plaid. The convex shaping starts low on the shoulders with deeply set armholes.

Lowly Hassock Comes Into Style Focus

NEW YORK (INS) — This year the lowly hassock has become both multi-purpose and high fashion conscious.

Once upon a time all you did with hassocks was put your aching feet on them. But today it takes a flick of a cushion to turn them into anything from tables to shoe storage units.

One stylish number is covered in velvet. Open it up and there is a shoe storage unit lined in satin. Another has black wrought iron legs, angled for stylishness. The 20-inch cushion is mounted on a swivel base. Whip off the cushion and you have a snack table.

Still another new hassock is topped by a tufted cushion in leather-like plastic for smart, tailored good looks and wipe-with-a-damp-cloth cleaning ease. The convertible feature is the legs which come off to reveal an on-the-floor seating piece.

Hassocks are becoming fashion conscious, too. Wood finishes like black, scandinavian and ivory are showing up on the market.

Shapes vary from square to round to oblong, usually brass tipped with tapered legs.

And when you talk about colors in this year's hassocks you hear glibly mentioned such shades as orange, turquoise, pink, gold, charcoal and black.

Hand in Glove Idea

Experts advise home carpenters to wear clean canvas gloves to prevent fingermarks or stains on unfinished wood surfaces.

First Presbyterian Chapel of Birmingham was the scene for the wedding today of Alice Mae Richards and Thomas Charlesworth Corin. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyle Richards, and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Corin.

MRS. THOMAS C. CORIN

Alice Richards Becomes Bride of Thomas Corin

Alice Mae Richards and Thomas Charlesworth Corin were married at 3:30 p.m. today in the First Presbyterian Chapel of Birmingham.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyle Richards of Birmingham, and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Corin.

The bride wore a full length dress of white silk taffeta which featured basque bodice, long sleeves of imported Venice lace and a chapel train. A lace Juliet cap held her fingertip veil of illusion, and she carried white roses with ivy.

Mary Richards, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sally Woontoon of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Sarah Colwell of Birmingham.

Cameron F. Campbell of Novi, Mich., was the best man. Seating the guests were Edward Taras and Henry Doering.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church reception hall.

For a trip to Northern Michigan, the new Mrs. Corin wore a gray silk sheath dress with a yellow coat. The couple will live in Ann Arbor.

Little-Bitty Hat Back in Style at Sally Victor's

NEW YORK (INS) — The little-bitty hat is back in fashion again, to sit coquettishly on the side of your head come fall.

"It'll be important to show your hair again," says milliner Sally Victor. "Hats won't be nearly as big as they have been. We'll have a few big glamor hats, of course, but most hats will be little ones."

Mrs. Victor's own choice for the stylish smaller hat is a cap or shell that stays on through comb-power.

She has little draped crepes, tiny winged profile bonnets, petite back-of-the-head turbans and moldable berets. Her littlest hat is what she calls a "demitasse cap" — eight inches of fabric shell on the side of the head.

It's trimmed with a whisk of feathers or amusing appliques, like red velvet fingers placed exactly where a woman would place her hand to keep it on.

Reception to Honor Newlyweds

One hundred fifty guests have been invited to the Union Lake home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Foley today for a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Kerry Keating, who were married June 8 at the First Congregational Church in Angola.

The new Mrs. Keating is the former Victoria Foley, and Kerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Keating of Motorway drive.

The couple was attended by Frances Garrison and James Bugg at their wedding.

The two-to-five p.m. open house will feature a bridal table laid with a cloth of pink, silver and white, and centered with flowers and a wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests will include the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Mitchell of Portsmouth, Ohio. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Keating of Port Clinton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brady of Port Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott Clark, Port Huron and Barbara Lee and Richard Vanderhoof of Ann Arbor.

Press Tip: Fall Necklines Due to Take 'Big Plunge'

Daring Dip Afore or Aft Is Lowdown Direct From New York Couture Group

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Women's Editor, Pontiac Press

We have a few "first hand" tips on fashion for you, coming directly from Eleanor Lambert, press director of the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute.

Miss Lambert told us during a recent trip to New York, that necklines will take a daring plunge this fall—even Marilyn Monroe will have to make some changes.

Backs will be very low on some evening clothes. But whether the decolletage is back or front, it will be an important part of the fashion scene for late day and evening wear.

Colors will be vibrant — there'll be bright reds, purples and greens in the best dressed lady's wardrobe this fall.

Brown is favored over black for the town dress, but Miss Lambert said black will still be important.

She disagreed with some fashion authorities who claim that the big look for fall will be the "all one color look" with stockings and shoes dyed to match costumes. Some of the designers belonging to the Couture Group frown on this look, according to Miss Lambert.

Another important change is in shoes. All toes will be pointed — the rounded look will disappear from the scene. So point your toes, gals, and step in style.

5,000 Rally, Hail 'King' at Wedding

See Prince Henri of France, Duchess Speak Vows

By ELIE MAISSI

DREUX, France (INS)—Five thousand Norman Frenchmen shouted "long live the King" and staged an impromptu Royalist rally yesterday at the society wedding of the son of the pretender to the French throne.

Cries of "long live the Dauphin" also rang out as Prince Henri of France, 24, and his new bride, Duchess Maria Theresa of Wurtemberg, 22, braved 95-degree heat to drive to the Dreux War Memorial to lay a wreath. Dauphin is the traditional name of heirs to the French throne.

The demonstration by the Normans, traditional French Royalists, was the first of such size since World War II. It was especially welcome to the 132 kings, princes, dukes, etc.—most of them throneless and exiled—who flocked to Dreux for the wedding.

The only reigning monarchs in attendance were King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece. Other notables present were Gen. Georges Catroux, former Premier Edgar Faure and famous American party-giver Elsa Maxwell.

The pretty auburn-haired bride was the principal victim of the highest temperature recorded in France in eight years. She struggled through the civil and Catholic ceremonies in a 50-pound wedding gown of white lame satin with an eight-yard train and a bouffant petticoated skirt.

Paris designer Jacques Heim earlier had lopped two yards off the train because its weight unbalanced Maria Theresa. Nevertheless, 10 wedding attendants had great difficulty holding up the remaining eight yards.

There were 2,500 hand-picked guests at the wedding, the men suffering in winter-weight cutaways and trousers. Only the cream of the cream was allowed into the little Chapel of St. Louis to see Maurice Cardinal Feltin, archbishop of Paris, marry the young couple.

Some 30,000 persons were on hand in the afternoon to celebrate the nuptials with Prince Henri's father, the Count of Paris, at l'Eveche, the nearby royal manor. A buffet luncheon was served to the guests.

Secretarial Job Can Be Fine Career

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (INS)—Secretarial work need not be a career stepping stone for the college graduate—it can be a career in itself.

At the risk of sounding discouraging, the U.S. Department of Labor points out that "it may take as much ability, determination, and initiative for a college woman to advance into professional work with secretarial experience as without it."

There are several things that can happen to deflate a career. If a girl is too good a secretary, her boss may wish to hang onto her in that capacity. The answer is not in being a poor secretary, however, since then an employer has no reason to promote you.

Many fields are just not open to women, or are open to a very limited number of women, and a secretarial toehold isn't enough.

Another thing college graduates who go to work as secretaries should keep in mind is the fact that they may find taking the boss' dictation more profitable than the high-glamor low-salary jobs they are trying to get. Executive secretaries are about the highest paid clerical workers around.

Those who want to make a top grade career out of secretary-ing will find these qualifications helpful: A college degree with an English major, good typing and shorthand, some knowledge of figures and filing, and—very important — a good telephone voice.

Career Girls Aren't All Fashionable

BY ANNE HEYWOOD

"I've been away from the business world for a long time," a woman writes, "and I'm planning to go back, now that my family is raised. I've brushed up my typing and I hope to get a job. However, I'm worried about clothes.

"I need a new wardrobe, not only for interviews but for going to work, too. I haven't much money to spend and my present housewife's wardrobe looks wrong, somehow. Will you give some suggestions?"

There is a legend to the effect that it cost the housewife a fortune to dress for business — but it's just a legend.

In the first place, when you're at home you picture the career woman as a fashion plate, with an extensive and very chic wardrobe. But wait and see!

The average career woman has a limited budget for clothes. Sometimes she knows how to dress and sometimes she doesn't.

FIRST REACTION

When my sister, Martha Hutchings went back to work after 20 years at home, her first reaction was, "They're no more chic than I am!" She couldn't believe it.

But — and it's a big but — the career girl as a rule is much better groomed and takes better care of her clothes.

It's natural to slip a little when you're at home with no audience but the postman and the milkman.

So the first step before you go to business is to work out a beauty routine which will be regular, efficient and not too time-taking and to get all your clothes in apple-pie order.

As for the clothes themselves, suits are perfect, of course, and dark plain dresses. But even a print or an afternoon dress can be worn if it isn't too fancy or cut too low. Add a leather belt, a cardigan, and you can wear most prints.

SIMPLE ACCESSORIES

As for accessories, keep them simple. Plain shoes, simple jewelry if any. Leave off the ruffles, fancy flowers and dangling earrings. When in doubt, don't wear it!

Most of all, on the interview as well as on the job, wear clothes that you feel comfortable in.

Settle on the old dress that you feel at home in above the new chic one that makes you feel "all dressed up."

And, last, don't buy anything until after you're in the job. By then, you may find you don't have to buy anything at all!

Later Types Are More Dangerous

Catch Dandruff in Earliest Stage

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

While dandruff is not usually a serious disease it can be most annoying and very embarrassing. There are three kinds. There is dry dandruff (the simplest kind), oily dandruff, and the most severe version which is called seborrheic dermatitis.

Practically everyone has dry dandruff at one time or another. The skin is constantly shedding old dead cells as new ones are formed. This is a natural process and is invisible when the process is normal. However, due to illness, extremes in the weather, strains, anesthetics and other causes sometimes the shedding may become extreme.

Instead of shedding individual cells, large collections may slough off at once so that they are noticeable to the naked eye. Thus you have dry dandruff.

If the secretion of oil is excessive the dead cells may mass together and adhere to the scalp. This is a bad situation because it provides such a perfect setting for the growth of bacteria. When this occurs treatment by a skin specialist is usually required.

The three factors governing dandruff are the amount of oil, rate of scaling, and infection. As you can readily see, it is important to catch dandruff in its earliest and simplest stage—dry dandruff.

INADEQUATE RELIEF

In the past, many treatments have been used and many of them have been discarded. At best they only brought relief for very short periods. Sulphur was perhaps the most effective. It has strong antibacterial properties and controls the rate of shedding to some degree.

Naturally, shampoos are important in removing loose scales and oil and dirt; also some of the shampoos fight bacteria. Great strides have been made recently. There are products which control dry and oily dandruff, after several applications, for from four weeks to four months. You apply them before shampooing the hair.

Many simple defects of skin and scalp develop into more serious ones with neglect. While we require natural oil to lubricate our skin and scalp, excessive amounts of it can speed the process of deterioration.

This is true of the formation of blackheads. An extremely oily skin is much more apt to develop blackheads than a drier one.

May Nieces Call Upon Ailing Aunt?

They're Reluctant to Visit the Home of Cousin Uninvited

BY EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My aunt, who is recuperating from an operation, is staying with her son and his wife. My sisters and I would like to go to visit her but have hesitated to do so because in the eight years of their married life, her son and his wife have never invited us to their house.

"I feel that since it is not my aunt's house it would be wrong to go uninvited to a house where we have never been invited. What is your opinion?

"I called my cousin to inquire about his mother's health and he never said anything about going to see her. Under the circumstances, would it be proper for us to go and see her?"

Answer: One does not have to be invited to go to see a sick relative and I am sure your cousin did not want to place you in the position of having to go to see his mother by asking that you come.

If I were you, I would call this cousin again and say that you would like to see his mother if she is well enough to have visitors and then be guided by the tone of his answer.

"Dear Mrs. Post: If guests are invited to one's house a week in advance, is it necessary for the hostess to call the day before the expected dinner to verify the engagement? The hostess in question did not call and consequently the guests did not come to dinner.

"Their excuse was that not having heard anything further they took it for granted that the dinner was off and made other arrangements. I would very much appreciate hearing from you on this matter."

Answer: If you made a definite engagement with them to come to dinner on a certain evening and said nothing about calling them later, the guests were inexcusably rude not to come.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to go to a party on a husband's invitation alone without any word from his wife? One of the men in my husband's office has invited us to his house to a cocktail party. The invitation was given verbally. We don't know his wife."

Asnwer: To a dinner party, the wife's invitation is necessary, but to a cocktail party the husband's invitation is sufficient.

Woman in Business Errs by Forgetting Femininity

Unbecoming Characteristics Develop if She Acts Like 'One of the Boys'

By RUTH MILLETT

During business hours women should forget they are women, a successful career woman claims.

That is a piece of advice that has been handed to women before.

Faced with age, smart women give up rounded lines for more sophisticated diagonals. White flatters any age.

Sweetness in the mature woman is a very desirable quality but sweetness is very different from "cloying" just as youthful rounded lines that show up the too rounded shoulders and back, are very different from the protective back and sleeves.

But it never has made sense and it never will. A woman can be intelligent, competent, responsible and ambitious, and still be every inch a woman and conscious of it.

Her very consciousness of her own femininity doesn't detract from her capabilities. It only enhances them.

On the other hand, the woman who tries to forget she is a woman and to make others forget it because she wants to be treated like "one of the boys" during her working day develops all kinds of unbecoming characteristics.

USUALLY BOSSY

She is usually brusque, bossy and belligerent. Neither men nor women feel comfortable around her.

And, of course, in trying to cover up her femininity she is denying herself all the advantages that being a woman gives her.

Men never try to hide their masculinity. They practically wallow in it. The bigger and stronger and tougher a man is the beter.

So why shouldn't women make the most of their femininity instead of trying to deny it?

Just because men once had the business world to themselves doesn't mean it is still a man's world.

For a long time it has been a world in which women are not only welcome but needed.

So they don't have to sneak around pretending they aren't women in order to get ahead.

'Sophisticated' Describes Slim-Lined Junior Dress

Sophisticated is really the right word for this junior model by Anne Klein, designed with high modesty in front and a daring and surprising cutout sailor collar in back.

The body is very slim with easing over the hips and a pleat in the skirt back for graceful walking. Miss Klein suggests you add an important pin to the collar as placed in the sketch.

There are only eight pieces in the pattern, especially sized to eliminate tiresome alterations, and carefully perforated for quick and accurate matching.

Make it now in linen, pique, embroidered cottons, shantung, rayon or silk crepe; for fall, it will win again in wool crepe, faille or wool jersey. From this chart select the one size best for you:

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
7	32½	22½	33½	15¾
9	33½	23½	34½	16
11	34½	24½	35½	16¼

Tips to Help Pare Costs on Moving

NEW YORK (INS) — Families in the midst of moving sometimes think it would be cheaper and easier just to burn the old furniture and start from scratch.

But there are ways you can cut costs in your dealings with a moving company. The first thing to do is some comparison shopping to get estimates from several national long-distance moving firms.

Next, according to experts on the subject, you should insist on a direct move without a transfer along the way. You chip in and keep the load to one van-full. Also, ask to be allowed to check at the weigh-in point.

Check into rail rates, since even for less-than-carload shipments the prices are sometimes cheaper.

Another economy measure is mailing of books in packages up to 70 pounds, since the parcel post rates are eight cents for the first pound and four for each additional pound.

When it comes to your bill of lading, check the gross weight, deduct weight of van to find net weight, then multiply net weight by per pound rate. Add insurance, transportation tax, transportation and accessories charges and you have the cost.

One of the surest ways to wipe out a beautiful friendship is to sponge on it.

Valuable Antiques Deserve Care

NEW YORK (INS) — Too many American women pride themselves on antiques so age-worn company can't sit on them.

That's the opinion of George Blundell, who makes a living repairing and restoring old furniture.

Why be afraid of your furniture," he asks. "Only one in a thousand antiques can't be repaired. If they are in such bad condition that they can't be, what's the point of cluttering up your living room with them?"

Blundell advises against trying to "do it yourself" on the grounds that expensive antiques deserve and need expert handling, and the average "how to" fan doesn't have the necessary knowledge nor equipment.

"Once taken care of," he adds, "a 200-year-old piece should stand up another 200 years."

Blundell estimates that taking apart, strengthening, cleaning and waxing an antique chair, for instance, should cost about $22-25.

When it comes to everyday care of antiques, this expert advises against just waxing, further smearing and engraining dirt. Wiping carefully with a damp rag cleans off the dirt before wax is applied.

If a piece of veneer chips off an antique, Blundell says, glue it back on right away. Although this home repair won't last too long, it insures against losing the missing piece.

When the time comes to have the veneer put on by a professional, the operation is much less expensive.

Victims Believed Storm Could Be Survived

"It may happen elsewhere, but it won't happen here."

That seems to have been the belief of many of the victims of the recent hurricane which swept tidal waves over Cameron, Louisiana, killing several hundred people. Warned in advance by Weather Bureau reports, the residents refused to leave their lowland homes and died when the huge waves rolled in from the Gulf of Mexico.

At first there were reports that proper warning was not given. Later checks by federal and state investigators, however, indicate that the people were warned, but that they stayed in their homes. They had weathered bad storms before, and they chose to stay this time, despite the warnings.

Val Peterson, sent by President Eisenhower to inspect the ravaged area, reported that most of the deaths were unnecessary. His views are echoed by Donald W. Stout, who is directing Red Cross relief operations.

Out of this tragedy comes a lesson to all. It is one thing to be brave, to keep your head and to act wisely in an emergency. But it is quite another to ignore storm warnings and to court death through sheer bravado.

When Nature unleashes the full power of her fury, no human being nor man-made structure can withstand her force. In the case of water, there is only one safe recourse, seek higher ground immediately. It is far wiser to evacuate a home a dozen times than to wind up as a mere statistic, one of the many victims of a storm.

State's Traffic Deaths Are Still Declining

Michigan traffic deaths declined again in June, but the drop last month, from comparable figures of one year ago, was less than the record made in previous months this year.

Any saving in lives is welcome, but with the opening of the summer vacation season traffic will be at its heaviest. The record made during the next three months will go a long way toward deciding whether Michigan drivers are really serious about saving more lives this year.

One hundred and four persons lost their lives in traffic in the State during June. This was eleven fewer than died in June of 1956. The reduction for the first six months was eighteen per cent. For June it was less than 10 per cent.

It would probably have a beneficial effect on the accident toll if every driver had to visit a hospital emergency ward once each year to see what happens to human beings when accidents occur at high speed. It wouldn't be a pleasant sight, but it would provide a most impressive object lesson.

Perhaps accidents have become so common that more people are becoming eye witnesses. At any rate and whatever the cause, this year's totals are down so far from a year ago. But the June figures show a slowing down in the gains made.

As Joseph A. Childs, State Police Commissioner, said as he announced the latest figures, "there is still a lot of room for improvement and we must not get indifferent or careless in the high-traffic summer months."

Home Building to Rise?

Dr. Robert O. Harvey, director of the University of Illinois Urban Land Economic Program, had some good news for the building industry the other day. He predicts a rise in the volume of home construction during the balance of this year.

Dr. Harvey addressed a meeting in Detroit attended by builders and leaders of building trades unions. They have not been hearing such predictions for some time.

The Illinois professor forecast that about one million new homes would be started this year. This is about one hundred thousand fewer than last year, but if his prediction is correct, this will require a faster pace than has been maintained during the early months of 1957.

Through April, home building proceeded at a rate of 940,000 for the year. So, if one million homes are to be built, the rate will have to be stepped up.

Even more important than his forecast of a slight improvement this year is Dr. Harvey's prediction that there will be a slow but steady increase in the volume of home construction for several years. He sees prospective home owners spending their own savings more readily and an easing in money rates. He also sees more labor unions investing their money in mortgages.

If Dr. Harvey is correct, better days are ahead for the construction industry. This in turn will have its effect on fundamental business and economic conditions, continuing to strengthen them in the years immediately ahead.

Mackie's Plans

New State Highway Boss Faces Fund Shortage

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—John C. Mackie, the new state highway commissioner, is intent on some bold road-building moves, his aides say, but at the same time wants to avoid rash ones.

As a Democrat, his approach to the job necessarily is conditioned by the rain of criticism directed against Charles M. Ziegler, former Republican highway commissioner, by Gov. Williams.

Essentially, Mackie's advisers believe, the governor made the point stick with the public that the Ziegler program was one of "bits and snatches."

Then if Mackie is to keep from being tarred by the same brand of Republican criticism, he must embark on some ambitious projects—build or rebuild some of Michigan's main routes, and preferably from one end of the state to the other.

Right after the election April 1, he mentioned U.S. 16 and U.S. 12 as two of the major routes that were going to get a lot of attention.

He also spoke of pressing development of a principal north-south route as a four-lane, divided, limited-access highway.

INTERSTATE SYSTEM

U.S. 12 and U.S. 16 both lie on the federal interstate system and therefore 9 of every 10 dollars invested in them by the state can be recovered through federal reimbursement, thereby stretching road dollars.

The north-south route on the interstate system runs from the Ohio line near Toledo up to Rockwood, and then northward and northwesterly through or near Dearborn, Pontiac, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Standish, Grayling and from there to the Straits over U.S. 27.

U.S. 27 south of Grayling and U.S. 127 are not on the interstate system. For this reason, work undertaken on them would require proportionately more state dollars.

Taking into account all the other needs that must be attended to, some of Mackie's advisers say, there just isn't enough money in sight to simply step on the gas and rush all these main routes to dramatically quick completion.

Days of All Faiths:

Slavs Name Churches for Orientals

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Slavic people in America —and in their own countries—like to name their churches for Saints Cyril and Methodius, who were themselves not Slavs but Orientals.

These two scholarly brothers, from the Macedonian town of Thessalonica, deserve their popularity. They not only brought the Christian faith to the Slavs, they also profoundly affected Slavic literary culture.

When, in 862, emissaries came from Middle Europe to Constantinople to ask for missionaries who could teach the people in their own language, the Patriarch had just the men for them: Cyril, a professor at the Imperial University, and his brother, Methodius, a monk. New languages were no problem at all to them.

As soon as they began to learn the Slavic tongue, they discovered it had no letters and could not be written. So they invented an alphabet — legend says Cyril got it in a vision—and went right ahead. Methodius, who outlived Cyril by 30 years, spent the latter part of his life translating the Bible into Slavonic.

Cyril and Methodius are patron saints of Church Unity because, as Asians who spent most of their ministry in Europe, they represent the Christian unity that underlies cultural and geographical differences.

TRUE IMAGE

Few legends are better known or more loved than that of St. Veronica, who compassionately wiped the face of Jesus when He fell under the burden of His cross on the way to Calvary.

The miraculous result of this simple kindness was that the image of the Lord's face remained permanently on her handkerchief. Reproductions of this handkerchief are still among the most popular of pictures—one sees them everywhere.

The legend is an ancient one, but it has really nothing to support it. Even the name Veronica does not give any clue to the good woman's identity—it is a combination of the words "vera" and "icon" meaning "true image." There is no St. Veronica to be found in the early martyrologies.

There are several traditions about who she was. One makes her the wife of Zaccheus, the wealthy publican whom Jesus honored with a visit to his house. (St. Luke, chapter 19, verses 2 to 10). Another says she was Martha, the painfully domestic sister of Lazarus and Mary (St. Luke, chapter 10, verses 38 to 42). And one identifies her with the woman who was cured of a chronic issue of blood. (St. Matthew, chapter 9, verses 20 to 22).

There is now in the Chapel of St. Veronica at St. Peter's in Rome a cloth which is said to be the lady's handkerchief or veil, and is greatly venerated as such. The church does not guarantee its authenticity.

CONTRIBUTION BOX

Those contribution boxes on the end of a stick, like corn poppers, that the ushers used to pass around in church seem terribly old-fashioned to us now, but they were really a new thing in church equipment only about two centuries ago. And, as the church measures time, that makes them fairly recent.

The boxes were purely American in origin. Back in colonial times it was not customary to take up any offering at church services. The only item of congregational expense was the minister's salary, and he was paid in commodities: wood, meat, potatoes, tobacco, and sometimes even whisky. These staples were brought to his house; there was no point in making an offering of them at church.

But as the church grew and developed there began to be some demands that had to be met with money. For example, the support of missionaries abroad. So, someone had the idea of stationing a deacon or other dignitary at the door with a warming pan, which worked fine but made a terrible racket when the people dropped in their coins. Next they really used corn poppers, which were made of wire mesh and deadened the sound considerably.

Wisdom in 'Dutch Treat' Maternity

"Received my training in a large city hospital in Holland. We had rooming-in even in the large maternity wards with 20 beds — every mother had her baby right by her side and breast feeding was general. They seemed to be the happiest mothers and healthiest babies ever — second only to those lucky babies born at home." (R. N.)

DR. BRADY

Answer — What! No show window?

My husband has suffered from allergy for 40 years. We sent for your pamphlet "Relief for Allergy" — he has had relief from the very first dose and now can eat anything he wants, and sleeps nights with now and then a dose or two . . . We are so happy about this and grateful to you for the help you have been to us . . ." (Mrs. R. McI.)

Answer — Forty years ago, ma'am, I, for one, had never heard of allergy. I really wonder whether the condition has become common in recent years or whether we just did not recognize it then. On request, if accompanied with self-addressed, stamped envelope, the pamphlet "Relief for Allergy" will be mailed to any correspondent who is allergic.

"Please recommend the best means of removing hair from the legs . . ." (Miss R. D.)

Answer — Mix two teaspoonfuls of fresh barium sulfide with three teaspoonfuls of zinc oxide and three teaspoonfuls of cornstarch. Moisten this with water to make a paste.

Apply to hairy surface and allow to remain ten minutes — or less if any burning sensation, scrape off paste and hairs with smooth wooden blade, and wash skin with several rinsings of warm water. Some women prefer simple shaving with safety razor. Every girl to her taste.

"Wife tells me I have had a bad breath for years. Have had teeth and tonsils checked and I don't eat onions or garlic. Keep my teeth brushed and use mouthwash. What to do now?" (E.J.N.)

Answer — Read the chapter on breath odor in the booklet How to Breathe — for copy send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Country Parson

"Our lack of moral growth often isn't so noticeable until we are too old to be spanked for it."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Vitamin 'R' Cures Many Ailments

Notice the miracle which Dr. Smith worked on Howard. Although Howard had been a confirmed "Worry Wart" with a fear of heart attacks and insomnia, Dr. Smith gave him a psychological prescription. It is called Vitamin "R". And it is free for the asking. You can find it wherever you live, so take advantage of it now.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-330: Howard G., aged 47, has been a chronic "Worry Wart" about his health.

DR. CRANE

"He is the type of neurotic patient that we like to refer to our medical colleagues," one of my physician friends said, with a rueful smile.

"For most of his aches and pains are of his own making. But I finally tried a new prescription on Howard and he seems to be a changed man.

"Three months ago he was heading for Florida for a vacation. So I told him to get your new book and read the last chapter in it every Sunday afternoon.

"Because you had headed that chapter 'How Vitamin "R" Helps Us,' Howard apparently imagined it referred to a new medical drug.

"And he is always the first addict of every new pill that comes out. So he followed my advice, as his letter will indicate."

USE VITAMIN "R"

The Vitamin "R" to which I referred in that final chapter is really "Religion," which is our very best medicine.

"The medical profession is hailing the various sedative effects of Rauwolfia (reserpine), obtained from India," I wrote at the start of that chapter.

"It would be more sensible to hail the far more significant influence of Vitamin 'R' as derived from Bethlehem in Judea."

Then I went on to show why the 40 per cent who are non-church people in America, are adding a disproportionate percentage to divorces, delinquent children, and neurotic patients.

I also explained why Jesus was the "World's Greatest Applied Psychologist."

HOWARD'S REPORT

"Dear Dr. Smith," Howard's letter to his physician began. "You really cured me of my aches and pains, for I've felt better the past month than for many years.

"Maybe you recall that one of my complaints was insomnia. I'd fret and worry and wonder what would happen if I got a heart attack while all alone in my bedroom in the middle of the night. That kept me sleepless.

"Well, I read Dr. Crane's book each Sunday afternoon. And I decided to get on God's team. So I joined a church here in Miami and I attended services both on Sunday and a couple of times during the week.

"When I got into bed at night, I'd then tell the Lord that I was on His team, so I wished He would take over the night shift for me so I could sleep like a log.

"Well, bless my soul, it worked! I fell asleep almost instantly and was more refreshed next morning than I had been since I was a boy on the farm while my parents were still living.

"One night, however, I got palpitation of the heart and began to suffer some of my former panic over threatened heart attack.

"So I just used the method outlined in the book by which to hyper-oxygenate my blood.

"Meanwhile, I also said, 'Lord, I'm still on your team, so I am counting on your help.' And my heart palpitation subsided, so I went to sleep.

"Now I don't mean to say I shall never need your medical drugs again, Dr. Smith, but I certainly have eliminated two of my worst bugaboos, namely, insomnia and fear of heart attacks.

"Meanwhile, I am happier when I now get into a church congregation and participate in the singing, as well as the rest of the service.

"It makes me feel less lonely, for I regard these other members as spiritual kinfolk. That thought banishes a lot of my former fears. So tell your other jittery patients that Vitamin 'R' is great medicine."

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Lake Home Owner Asks Consideration of Guests

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature

People are swarming to the lakes again, but did it ever dawn on people how much it costs a lake owner just to feed all those people? I've read articles in this column about everything else, so I'd like to say it would help a great deal if people would fix a little lunch when planning to visit a lake owner. People live on the lake because they like it, not because they enjoy staying home every week fixing for everyone else. In order for a lake property owner to get away from home on a weekend, he must leave before breakfast. Please stop and think how much extra the grocery bill runs every week all summer long, besides the wear and tear on the nerves.

Readers Still Are Debating Presley

I think J.R. is trying to kid himself about the fact that Elvis' motions are clean. It seems if Elvis were a Christian, he would sing to the honor of God instead of singing in worldly places.

Praying Teenager

Most people who complain about Elvis and his movements are just jealous because he makes so much money with them. There's a saying that everyone has his own way of expressing himself. If his movements are his way, why doesn't everyone leave him alone? If you don't like him, don't watch him. As for his being a good church goer, there's no doubt in my mind.

Seconds Letter on Getting Facts

I like the July 4th Voice of the People that said people should get facts before saying one is wrong. The man that said Roosevelt was to blame just said it to dodge the facts. The facts are that Eisenhower is trying to copy after Roosevelt, which is good. He's so sly, though, that the Republicans don't see it.

Explains Reason for Wide Choice

The primary reason there's such wide choice of subjects in schools is that we're trying to encourage the love of knowledge—learning for learning's sake—in students who won't learn the "three R's" of their own volition, yet whose parents rant and rave over low grades on report cards, blaming teachers or schools, but admitting no faults of their own.

Tour Offered by Presbyterians

Would Visit Missions in Latin, South America During Month's Travel

An opportunity to see at first hand the work of Presbyterian missions in Latin and South America and to confer with local church leaders is offered by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, 156 Fifth Ave., New York.

Presbyterians are invited to join in an Ecumenical Fellowship Tour Around the Middle Americas from July 29 to Aug. 25, 1957. The 5000-mile tour will cover Mexico, Guatemala, Panama, Colombia, and Venezuela.

The group making the tour will assemble in Houston, Texas, for a brief pre-departure period of fellowship and orientation. Return to the U. S. will be at Miami.

In addition to meetings with church leaders and missionaries, the tour will visit hospitals, Bible institutes, Indian villages and historical sights along with general sightseeing, including the Panama Canal. The tour rate of $1,190 provides for everything but personal expenses. Sixty-six pounds of baggage will be permitted each passenger.

The tour is being arranged by Brownell Tours of Birmingham, Ala.

Confident Living

Song of Joy Would Follow Release of Fear, Cares

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I have often thought that at every religious service, two collections might be taken — one of money and one of worries.

Picture the ushers coming down the aisles with great baskets into which you could drop all your worries. Of course, by the time they got halfway down, assistant ushers would be needed to help carry the overflowing baskets. They might even have to bring in extra receptacles.

DR. PEALE

But can't you imagine how it would feel to have no more worries? How profoundly relieved you and every member of the congregation would be! The pastor wouldn't even have to ask you to stand up and sing.

You would leap to your feet and the organ would strike up the only appropriate hymn, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." You would be wondrously happy because you would be free.

Then all those baskets of worries would be brought to the altar just like the collection plates. And the minister would pronounce the benediction. You and everyone else would head for the doors. But, then, do you know what some would probably do?

COME SNEAKING BACK

They would watch to see that nobody was looking and sneak back and go hunting through the baskets for those familiar, though hated, old worries. That is the strange way human nature is. We hate our worries, yet we hold on to them. We can't seem to let them go.

Yet you can be free of your worries if you will do only that one thing: With the help of God, let them go!

A tailor once told me. "To keep your clothes in good condition, empty your pockets every night."

DROP ALL CARE

One night, as I was doing this and, in the process, dropping quite a few items into the wastebasket, it occurred to me that I might sleep better if I took my worries out of my mind and dropped them into a sort of mental wastebasket. This curious procedure proved to be a helpful practice and, in a television talk, I recommended its use.

A woman from Lynchburg, Va., writes, "I have an 8-year-old son who heard you on TV telling about emptying your pockets and your mind. I had been in the hospital and was filled with fear. 'My little son was trying to help me by telling me what you had said. 'But I didn't get up to put mine in the wastebasket, Mama,' he told me. I just stuck them in my pajama pocket and went to sleep. You try that, Mama'."

An 8-year-old child could do that! Why? Simply because he is 8 and has the priceless gift of imagination, the ability to believe and practice truth. Such creative imagination becomes more difficult as you grow older, for then you tend to lose the blessed simplicity of the childlike mind.

Huxley said, "The essence of genius is to carry the spirit of childhood into old age." Jesus Christ said, "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child he shall not enter therein."

CAPACITY TO BELIEVE

The childlike mind in adult life does not imply a lack of maturity. Such would be an abnormality. But it does mean the capacity to believe that the great promises of the Bible will work. And, when you do believe in this manner, you can indeed overcome your worries.

The Bible says, "Perfect love casteth out fear." A childlike faith is capable of loving God as nearly perfect as is possible for human beings.

Live every day of your life with the good common sense which God has given you and with confident faith that He will help you solve your problems. Do this and worry ultimately will lose its hold upon you.

To discard your worries, remember what the Bible tells you: "Fear thou not; for I am with thee. Be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee."

What more could anyone ask?

Meet to Discuss Church Colleges

Swelling Enrollments, Rising Costs, Teacher Shortages Analyzed

More than 500 college presidents and trustees, businessmen and financiers met last week for the first conference of its kind ever held to analyze the problems facing the church-related college today.

Called by the National Committee of United Church Men for Church Colleges, they conferred for two days at Lake Junaluska, N. C. and heard addresses by prominent authorities in allied fields. The UCM is a unit of the National Council of Churches.

Rising costs, swelling enrollments, the shortage of teachers and pressing financial concerns were reviewed in the light of what Dr. Henry T. Heald called today's "swirl of great changes." Dr. Heald, who is president of the Ford Foundation, told the group: "The measure of these colleges' strength and hope for their future usefulness lie in their ability to move with the times."

Equally important on the agenda were discussions of the relationships of denominations to their colleges and the "preservation and advancement of Christian teachings"—the church-related college's primary function.

The conference, which marked the first year of existence of the United Church Men's committee was co-sponsored by the Methodist Division of Educational Institutions and the Presbyterian (U.S.) Division of Higher Education.

The softball team will play Columbia Baptist at Weaver Field on July 9 and Christian and Missionary Alliance on July 11.

The Women's Prayer Group will meet at the home of Mrs. W. H. Lehman at 9:30 Tuesday morning. At 11 a.m. Tuesday, the WCTU will meet in the church dining room.

The Professional Women's Group will meet for a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the summer home of Mrs. Allan Monroe on Watkins Lake.

Religious Freedom Found in Poland

NEW YORK (AP) — A prominent Protestant clergyman says there is "far more religious freedom" at present in Poland than there is in Spain and Portugal.

The Rev. Dr. Gaither P. Warfield, imprisoned by both the Russians and Germans during World War II in Poland where he was superintendent of the Methodist church, made his comment after a recent 10-day visit to Poland.

Now general secretary of Methodist overseas relief, he said he found there was "freedom of religious worship" there, and a "ready willingness" on the part of Poles to freely voice opinions to strangers.

Methodists Seek Doctors, Nurses for Alaska Posts

The Board of Missions of the Methodist Church is looking for enough doctors, nurses and medical technicians to operate three small hospitals in Alaska—hospitals that cannot be operated unless such key personnel are found.

And without the hospitals, large areas and thousands of persons are currently without adequate medical care. Three doctors, 12 nurses and four technicians are minimum needs.

One hospital, the Community Hospital at Valdez, is built and equipped, but is not operating for lack of medical personnel.

The town council of this community of 1,200 on the coast of south central Alaska has asked the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the mission board to operate the hospital.

The Woman's Division has had to turn down the request because a doctor, four nurses and a medical technician have not been found.

If any qualified doctor, nurse or medical technician is interested in helping to fill either need, he (or she) may write to: Office of Missionary Personnel, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y.

'And I Saw the Holy City . . .'

Since time immemorial man has looked to the sky for signs of the magnificence of God.

While recent manifestations of Northern Lights have had people here scanning the night sky, a Pontiac prospector and explorer, Frank F. Rand of 4224 Lanette St., tells of a similar experience — only so intensified and magnified that Rand describes it as of "a grandeur almost beyond words."

It occurred hundreds of miles to the north, at Shicatica Bay, Labrador, where Rand and his small company were prospecting.

The group, seated in a small boat, had watched the sun sink and darkness creep over the nearby hills, Rand said. Then came the forerunner to that magnificent spectacle which Rand says he never can forget, although it occurred some years ago.

Here are excerpts from the prospector's account of the stellar demonstration and the rare phenomena which followed it:

THE AURORA BOREALIS A TRUE STORY

By Frank F. Rand

. . . A myriad of stars began to appear. They seemed low and hung like lanterns just over our heads . . . in fact, it looked as though the heavens themselves were descending on us. The stars gleamed with great radiance — making the sky look like a silvery dome in their boundlessness.

My thoughts turned to a remembered Bible passage — "In my Father's house are many mansions." Surely in that multitude of stars, there should be one for every being.

Just then a white light appeared in the North. It grew brighter and brighter.

RARE SPECTACLE

"Northern Lights," we thought since many times before we had seen them. What we did not know was that this was the 11th year of the cycle of the aurora borealis.

Soon, great shafts of light shot upwards, their colors changing and interchanging as the great fan took shape. Blending into the glory of the picture before us, there appeared a half circle of light on a base of gleaming gold.

Then as our wonderment increased at the splendor we were beholding, out of that golden base came a shining band, resembling a road of gold, winding its way down and on to the West where it broke into little islands.

None of us had ever read of, or seen, anything like this. We sat entranced, watching the silvery - gold trail that seemed to lead right to Heaven's door.

As I looked on the grandeur of that scene, I could easily imagine the "streets of the City being of pure gold."

Then a veil of mist floated down. Little stars began to flash with a sharp crack and a swish as they darted this way and that, leaving a trail behind them.

We sat on the cabin of that little boat far into the night until the glory of what we had seen faded and died. As the dark returned and folded its curtain about us, we crawled into the cabin and into our sleeping bags.

Wondering if perhaps we had not looked upon or into the glory of Heaven, we drifted off to sleep.

Later, on returning home, I turned to the Bible for an answer, for some explanation of that awesome scene. I read and found in the book of Revelations: 21 — surely a fitting answer to the wonders we had seen that night.

"And I saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of the Heaven from God . . . and the city was pure gold."

NORTHERN LIGHTS — Shown is a photograph of a drawing by Frank F. Rand of the northern lights seen by him several years ago while on a small boat on Shicatica Bay, Labrador. The white mass at the left is a transparent cloud. The road of gold of which Mr. Rand speaks in the story starts at the base of the lights.

British Pastors to Preach Here

Annual Interchange of Ministers in Its 31st Year

A hero of the Anzio beachhead, now the rector of a Dublin church; a former Royal Air Force chaplain; and an authority on Welsh folk music will be among 10 British clergymen who will take over pulpits in American churches this summer.

Similarly, 10 American ministers are crossing the Atlantic this week to serve as guest preachers in churches in the British Isles.

"This annual interchange of British and American ministers is now in its thirty-first year," Dr. Robbins W. Barstow declared, announcing arrangements made by the National Council's Department of Ecumenical Relations, which he directs.

The exchange takes leading American churchmen to Britain, among them: Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, president of the World Methodist Council; Dr. Albert J. Penner, minister of Broadway Congregational Church, New York City; and Dr. F. W. Schroeder, president of Eden Theological Seminary.

The Rev. Kenneth D. Slack, general secretary of the British Council of Churches, who arranged their schedules in England, Ireland and Scotland, will attend the World Council of Churches sessions at Yale University, July 20-24, Dr. Barstow said, as will several of the visiting clergymen who also will address local and state councils of churches.

Heifers to Aid Refugees

NEW YORK (AP)—Purchased by Congregational Christian churches in New England and by Evangelical and Reformed churches in Virginia, 65 pure-bred heifers were shipped overseas this week to be distributed to refugee families in West Germany and Austria.

Churches Move to Halt Gambling in Massachusetts

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—The Massachusetts State Council of Churches is launching an 18-month campaign "to help stop the gambling mania," announced Dr. Myron W. Fowell, head of the council's department of social relations.

As a result of recent Massachusetts Crime Commission investigations showing extensive gambling throughout the state, he said, the council's 1,800-member churches will join in the effort to wipe out organized gambling.

He said an educational program, through county and community committees, will be started.

Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.

He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son.

Pray Comfortably in Episcopal Church

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Parishioners of the Episcopal Cathedral here should try and be comfortable while they pray.

Dean N. R. H. Moor isued some warm weather etiquette yesterday.

"If you don't feel like standing during service on a warm Sunday, sit. If you don't feel like kneeling during prayers, sit," he said.

STAR ASCENDING — Natalie Wood, the 18-year-old actress who was just given the leading role in "Marjorie Morningstar," is looked on at Warner Brothers as one of their hottest and most valuable properties. Miss Wood, according to an article in the June issue of a national magazine, which also features her on its cover as shown above, is relentlessly devoted to one ambition — to be the best actress in the United States.

Jim MacArthur Resumes 'Summers Only' Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—James MacArthur may well become Hollywood's favorite summer actor.

The rugged-looking son of Helen Hayes and the late Charles MacArthur has returned to Hollywood for the second straight summer. This year he's making "The Light in the Forest" for Walt Disney. After a week's rehearsals, he turns right around and heads East—for locations near Chattanooga, Tenn.

Jim started the pattern for his unique film career last summer when he came here for "The Lonely One." His film debut was a brilliant one and prompted more offers. One was for "Peyton Place."

"But I would have played another mixed-up kid in it," Jim commented, "and I've had enough of that. Besides, I didn't like the story. I'd rather work for Disney."

His work for Disney is more wholesome than "Peyton Place," but he's still playing a mixed-up kid. Only this kid was mixed-up in 1760. He's a white boy who was reared by the Indians.

Jim's contract reads that he must be through with the picture in time to return to Harvard Sept. 21. He'll only work in the summer.

"Sure, I want to graduate from college," he remarked. "But even if I did quit, what would I do? There aren't enough roles for young guys. I'd be lost."

Although his first picture drew many critical raves, it hasn't been doing too well. Jim thought it was partly the company's fault.

"Of course, a lot of it is because of the confusion over RKO giving its pictures to U-I to release," he observed. "But I think the picture was poorly sold. It has appeal to grown-ups, but it should have been sold to the kids."

TV Sets Start Invasion of American Bathroom

By International News Service

Television sets are even turning up in the bathroom these days. Colonel Terrell J. Murrell, builder of cooperative apartments in Ft. Married Couples Leave Relations, Go Out on Own

WASHINGTON (AP) — More married couples are getting out on their own instead of living with relations.

The Census Bureau reported today that as of last March about 1,200,000 of the 38,900,000 married couples in the United States did not maintain their own household. This compares with about two million living "doubled up" in households of others in 1950 and nearly three million 10 years ago, the bureau said.

The report said the nation now has 49,500,000 households, a jump of some six million over 1950.

The figures showed a drop of one million since 1950 in the number of rural farm households, now 5,200,000, and an increase of seven million in nonfarm households, now 44,300,000.

Royal Coach Outmoded

LONDON (INS) — On state occasions, Britain's Queen Elizabeth rides in a royal coach that is magnificently uncomfortable. Since George III bought "Old Rattlebones" two centuries ago, monarchs have complained of the unpleasant swaying and jolting of the four-ton, elaborately carved conveyance. Rubber tires and fluorescent lighting — but little comfort — where added for the Coronation ceremonies in 1953.

Easy Way to Long Life

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (INS)—Mrs. Nancy Arthusia Robey, observing her 101st birthday party, offers this formula for a long life:

"I eat when I'm hungry and drink when I'm dry."

About 20 per cent of the world's 850,000 doctors are in the United States.

Maintains There's Art to Doing Commercials

By EARL WILSON

Barbara Britton, Step Into the Isolation Booth! . . .

"Barbara, you once aspired to be a great actress—have you given up Art to do TV commercials?

BARBARA: "Why, I beg your pardon, there's an art to what I'm doing! I still study with Lee Strasberg of the Actors Studio and he will make some cracks about TV commercials, but some of his students do them—he's being paid by TV commercials, if he only knew!"

"You're perfectly happy now doing only commercials?"

BARBARA (smiling as she leans back in her East Side apartment): "You grow up. I think maybe I've found my niche. I'm doing something I enjoy—it's a good job—I get a kick out of it. There are very few people who have arrived at this point in their life."

"You don't plan any more Broadway shows?"

BARBARA: "Oh, sure, I want to do another play. But I'm not going to do any summer stock this year for the first time."

"Why?"

BARBARA: "I've been through a siege of flu and I need a rest. A couple weeks ago I had a 102 fever and they had a cot for me at the studio.

BARBARA

"But 'the show must go on' with commercials, too. I was huddled up in a coat one minute; then as soon as the camera was on me, I was bright and gay, and when it was off of me, I collapsed again."

"Can you change your appearance if you wish?"

BARBARA: "No more than an actress in a play. If I change my hair just a little, the sponsors raise Cain. You know, when my hair's sort of blown, I've been told I look like Marilyn Monroe. One day when my hair was like that somebody said, 'Doesn't Barbara look sexy?' But one of the agency men got frightened and said, 'Let her alone. She's got to remain the family type!'"

Barbara's children, Teddy, 10, and Chris Czukor, 5½ came running into the apartment about this time.

"Do your children ever mimic the commercials like they do in some homes?"

BARBARA: "My kids seem to have a great respect for commercials. Teddy will come home and say "The kids at school want to know if you really use So-and-so products.' "

"What do you answer?"

BARBARA: "I merely say 'Yes, of course. Are there any other kinds?"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

D.C. Buzz! When Stassen resigns, his disarmament job will be handled by Nixon (part of the '60 buildup) . . . Peggy Lee, working on TV, was asked if she'd mind being hit in the face with a pie. "It sounds like fun," she said, "but I hate to go off my diet."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Most people don't mind suffering in silence—if they're sure everybody knows they're doing it.—Dave (Tamarack) Levenson.

Lou Holtz tells of the man who wrote the tax dept. . . "Enclosed is $600 I owe you. I cheated once and haven't been able to sleep. P.S. If I still can't sleep, I'll send the rest of the money." . . . That's earl, brother.

Millions Vacate Roads for Avocation — Sports

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—It may seem like it but not everyone in America will spend all his time this weekend burning up gas on the highways.

At least part of the time he's likely to be pursuing his avocation as a sportsman or sports participant (although he'll burn some gas getting there). And this will gladden the hearts of a number of industries who collect several billion dollars a year from catering to and supplying this side of American life.

There are some 20 million fishermen (4½ million of them women); an equal number of bowlers (six million of them women); four million golfers to crowd some 5,000 courses; and 12 million hunters (half a million of them women). Devotees of softball and sandlot baseball, tennis and swimming are beyond counting.

A large portion of these will spend a fair part of the time at their favorite sports.

Bowling has grown fast since its big boost during World War II. The American Bowling Congress, with a membership of 2¼ million bowlers of all ages using the 68,000 alleys it approves, says about 2,500 new alleys are being built each year. They cost anywhere from $90,000 to 1½ million dollars to build. The industry does an annual business of about 350 million dollars.

Outdoor sportsmen of the fishing and hunting variety will spend three billion dollars this year, according to a poll of state fish and game departments by American Express. Up to a fourth of that will go for food and lodging, but 85 million dollars will go for license fees.

Men Make Fortunes Selling Fresh Scotch

GLASGOW, Scotland — Mystery men of Scotland's whisky trade are making big money shipping immature whisky, "hot from the still" to Central America, the Scotch Whisky Association charged in Glasgow. It is illegal to sell in Britain whisky less than three years old.

A while ago, however, the ban on shipment of immature whisky was lifted. Some 70,000 gallons were shipped in 1955; last year it rocketed to 130,000 gallons. If the amount this year doubles, as expected, the mystery men's "take" will be several million dollars. "Anyone who drinks this stuff must get a wrong idea of what good Scotch is," says Philip Gee, of the association. Others claim it's hard to tell the difference with gingerale or soda. To which Gee says: "Absolute tosh."

Studnickis Buy in Wide Open Spaces

background for LIVING

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

When you have three young sons to raise, you are concerned about play space for them. That is one of the reasons the Ted Studnickis bought their new house on Rugby Circle in Kimberly Acres.

Kimberly Acres is a small subdivision between Franklin and Telegraph roads. The lots are spacious—a little over an acre in each—and the houses are set far apart. The subdivision backs up to another suburban area, Hickory Court.

★ ★ ★ ★

Moving from a smaller home in Washington Park, the Studnickis are delighted with the space in their tri-level house. It is red brick with white trim and has a two-car attached garage. All utilities are concentrated in a fourth level below ground. This also makes a perfect tornado shelter.

Both front and back of the house have covered porches. The front one passes the living room windows, while the rear one connects the garage with the kitchen door.

A cathedral ceiling adds to the spaciousness of the living room and dining room. Using a monotone color scheme, the Studnickis painted the exposed beams to blend with the walls. The ceiling itself is white.

Walls and floor-length draperies are champagne color. The carpeting is beige tweed. Even the color of the Tennessee ledgerock fireplace matches the champagne tone of the rest of the room. A brass clock with sprawling wrought iron leaves around it is mounted on the chimney.

Furniture which is all Heywood-Wakefield birch finished in champagne color, includes a desk, coffee table, step lamp tables and the dining room set. The television set is light toned.

The one spot of contrasting color in the room is the brilliant aqua sectional sofa. Curving around, it forms a natural divider between living room and dining room areas. Another divider wall shuts off the front door from the living room. On top of this is a planter. Below are shelves.

Mr. Studnicki upholstered the dining room chairs with saran nylon material. He did a professional-looking job. There are sliding glass doors from the dining room to the rear porch.

All cupboards are birch, finished in champagne tone. These make ample storage space. Even the area around the refrigerator is filled in with cupboards.

Counter tops and splash boards are Formica in a plaid pattern, featuring beige and gray. Range top, double sink and all accessories are stainless steel. Curtains are white with a fruit bowl pattern. Between the kitchen and dining room there is a wooden folding door.

On the upper level there are three bedrooms, all with oak floors. Gary, the eldest boy, has the first room on the left. His walls and throw rugs are green. Curtains have a bright print. Furniture is Heywood-Wakefield. The bedspread is green and white.

Mike and Thaddeus Jr. (called T. J.), the younger boys, share a bedroom. Their furniture is limed oak; their bedspread brown. A wild west print on beige curtains sets the theme of the room. Walls are beige with an underlying peach tone.

The master bedroom has sandalwood walls and a tan rug. Furniture is birch. The bedspread is pale aqua silk with a quilted top. Curtains have aqua, pink and brown designs on a white background. The vanity has a low puffy stool. All closets have sliding doors.

In the hall there is extra storage for linen. The bathroom is all green tile, floor and wallpaper. Curtains feature a brick pattern in gold on white.

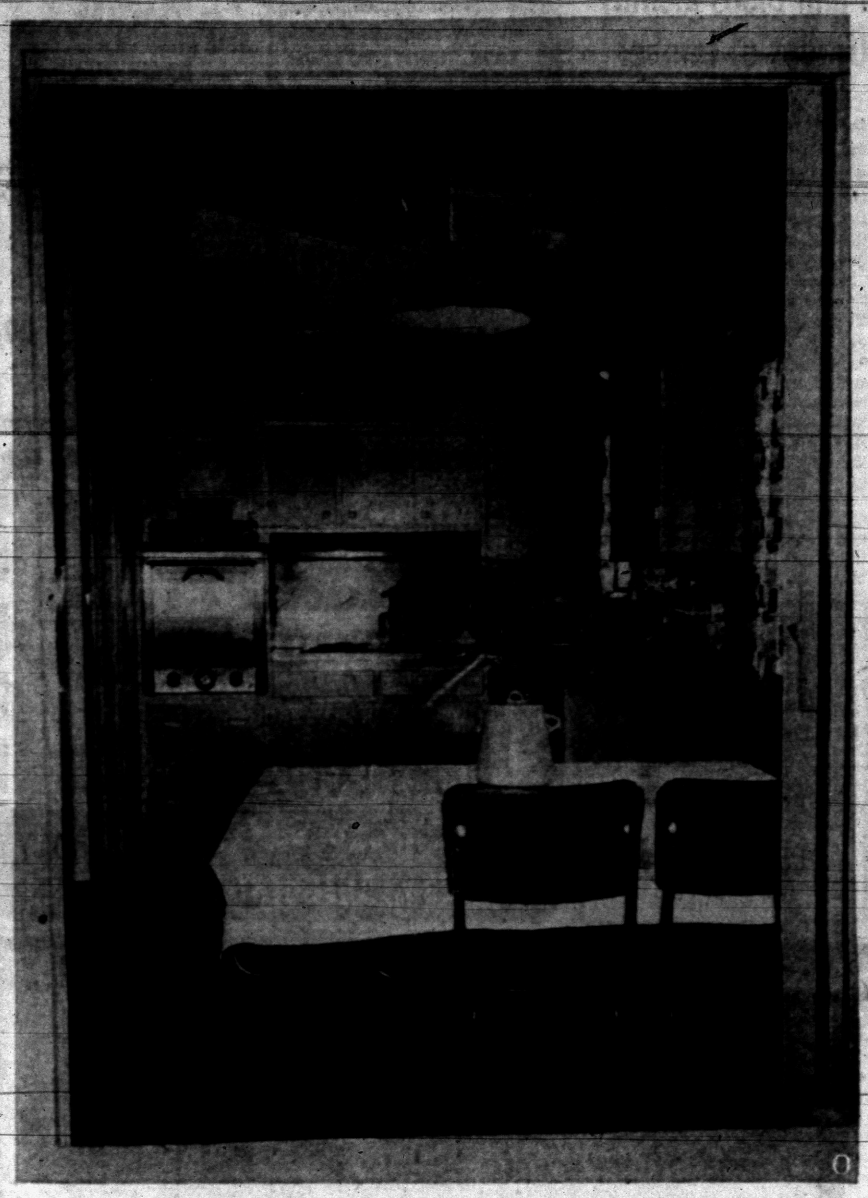

A second bathroom on the lower level has a glassed-in shower. This one is gray and pink. Mrs. Studnicki is thinking of replacing the rather delicate wallpaper with something that will better withstand the onslaught of three wild Indians.

The family room takes up most

THE TIGERS LOST — Deeply absorbed in the Tiger game on TV, Mr. Studnicki and his three sons spend the afternoon in their family room. From left to right the boys are T. J., Gary and Michael. Note the storage wall at the back of this room. All walls are paneled in knotty pine, finished in champagne tone. The floor is tiled. A gray sectional sofa is matched by the gray and wine curtains at the deep windows. There is a laundry room and a second bathroom on this level. The door at the rear leads to the sub-basement where all utilities are located.

FRAMING THE KITCHEN — The two sides of the wooden folding door and the table top frame this view of the Studnicki kitchen. Look at all the wonderful cupboard space Mrs. Studnicki has! In addition, there is room in this kitchen for a breakfast table and chairs — and a cookie jar. All accessories are stainless steel. Spotlights in the work area and a drop fixture over the table provide plenty of illumination.

CHAMPAGNE AND AQUA — The one contrasting note of color in this room that features champagne color in walls, carpeting and furniture is the sectional sofa. This is covered in brilliant aqua with a silver thread running through the upholstery. The hearth around the contemporary corner fireplace is slate. Exposed beams have been painted to blend with the walls.

BORROWING HIS CHAIR — Mrs. Studnicki relaxes in her husband's easy chair and poses for the Press photographer. Behind her is the divider wall that shuts off the front door from the living room. The vestibule floor is covered in slate and double louvered doors hide a coat closet. The top of the divider is a planter.

Judge House by Outside

You may not be able to judge a book by its cover, but houses are usually judged by their outside appearance. An attractively painted house means that its occupants are good citizens who take pride in keeping up their own property, which in turn contributes to the community as a whole. You can be pretty sure, too, that a house showing a well painted exterior will an equally well pain tedin-avh have an equally well painted interior. The two go together.

HORIZON HOUSE — This tri-level brick and frame home is a new luxury model being displayed by Austin Building Company of Birmingham. Drive out Middlebelt road to Fieldbrook, turn left to Turner. The model is open from 11-9 daily. It is completely furnished. This home sells for $30,300 with lot extra.

Haste Makes Waste

Take the time, when designing your proposed home, to blueprint basement and attic areas for future finishing. As much as half of the total cubic content of a house may be contained in these two areas, and by careful planning at the outset they can be brought up to par with the rest of the house at a later date with the judicious use of quality building materials such as ceramic tile, glass and steel. Much plumbing expense, for example, can be averted by taking the time now to lay out future additional bathrooms.

'56 Building Sets 37-State Record

NEW YORK—The year 1956 set a new record in dollar volume of contract awards for future construction in the 37 states east of the Rockies, F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news and marketing specialists, report. At $24,412,630,000, the awards were three per cent greater than the 1955 total.

However, December awards at $1,575,897,000 were 18 per cent lower than December 1955 and marked the fourth consecutive month in which awards have been lower than the corresponding periods of 1955.

The cumulative awards for 1956 also established alltime records in dollar volume in two major construction categories: non-residential awards at $9,005,948,000, were six per cent greater than the similar 1955 period; heavy engineering at $5,580,222,000 showed a 10 per cent increase.

However, residential awards at $9,826,460,000 were down four per cent compared to 1955 although they were the second highest ever recorded.

Commenting on the yearend figures, Thomas S. Holden, Dodge vice chairman, said:

"While contract awards in the past year set records, the increase was more moderate than in any earlier postwar year. This is not at all surprising, and in fact it was anticipated in our outlook statement issued in November 1955.

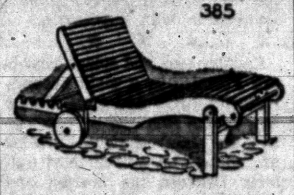

"The prospects for 1957, at this stage, seem to be for another moderate increase to new record levels, sparked largely by public works construction of all types, with particular emphasis on highways."

December awards by major construction categories show a new record in dollar volume in the heavy engineering category of $502,029,000, up four per cent compared to December 1955. However, residential awards at $450,656,000 were down 37 per cent compared to the like 1955 period.

Paint Blobs Identify Grades of Lumber

One of the big paper and pulp factories in Norway has started marking its newly cut lumber with blots of paint at each end. One blot means that the log is first quality, two blots mean second quality, and so on. The experiment has proved contagious.

Almost all the paper factories in Norway are at ends of rivers and 90 per cent of their lumber comes by log floating. Henceforth factories will keep their lumber separated by using identifying color combinations. This identification is much easier for wood floaters to spot. Formerly they had to turn the logs around to identify them by the logger's axe marks.

The paint used is very thin. It adheres well even to wet lumber and withstands the wild ride down the rivers. None of the color remains on the refined lumber.

Make It Easy for Yourself

When you're painting, it's wise to clean up spatters as you go along. For water-base paint, use a cloth moistened with water. If you're working with oil-base coating material, use a cloth dampened with turpentine or mineral spirits.

NEWS VIEWS

Some of the folks who complain about all the applause and laughter on our TV and radio shows are wondering whether we might take a tip from our English cousins. It seems the British Broadcasting Corp. has a no-applause-for-gags rule. If the audience is amused it may smirk or smile . . . but absolutely no palm banging or cheers. The applause supposedly jars home audiences . . . but the lack of same sure must pull the zipper on the performers.

Actors and comedians need applause the way sunflowers need sun. Money is nice, but incidental. Playing to an unresponsive audience is an actor's big nightmare. It's like trying to make a meal off bubbles. Actually, we all like a little appreciation for our efforts. That should be as simple as ABC to the BBC.

A Chicago woman shot her former husband when he called her a "bleached blonde." Maybe she was just dyeing to keep him around. You can add new color to our outlook on life if you'll let us look out for a solid business opporutnity for you. Enamel Is Tough

Porch and Floor Enamel is a tough, hard-wearing covering for interior and exterior surfaces such as porches, stairs, floors, dadoes, boat decks—of wood or metal. Spreading capacity is about 500 square feet per gallon, one coat. It's easy to apply, needs no primer or sealer.

One coat hides all but the most badly worn surfaces. Bare wood or metal, however, needs two coats.

Use a 3-inch brush and work with the length of the board.

Use Mirrors to Reflect Yard

Turn your landscaping inside out — is it just as attractive from the inside as it is outdoors?

It should be, says H. Creston Doner, director of color and design for the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

Even though chill winds are still the order of the day, advance planning of your spring plantings will save time and money in April and May, Doner says.

"Too often home owners plan their landscaping only from the standpoint of how it appears from out-of-doors," he said. "While that's important, landscaping should also be planned for the effect it will create in the living areas of the home."

Large picture windows are now commonplace and many home builders are constructing entire walls of insulated double pane glass.

"This means that landscaping should be planned for its effect on the total integrated living area," Doner said.

"Proper planting of shrubs and flowers can effectively enhance a pleasant view or block off an unpleasant scene in the distance." "A low hedge may be used to hide an ugly driveway or sidewalk; larger shrubs, such as lilacs or bridal wreath, can block off an unpleasant view in the distance."

Doner also pointed out the strategic location of mirrors near windows can double the effect of your landscaping as it is viewed from inside the house.

"A large decorative mirror placed near a picture window flanked by evergreens can cause a pleasing effect in a room all year," he explained.

Basic Building Material Now Used in Golf Shoes

Wood's overwhelming popularity as a flooring material, especially in homes, stems largely from the fact that it's so easy on the feet. Now, a leading manufacturer of foot wear has capitalized on wood's resiliency and shock-absorbing qualities by using it in golf shoes.

Specially fabricated birch wood is used for "foundation inserts" between the innersole and outsole of the shoes. The manufacturer explains that the wood inserts lessen "foot fatigue," insulate the feet against sunbaked fairways, act as a barrier against cold and dampness, and provide a firmer golf stance.

Vacuum Superior to Mop

Use the floor brush of your vacuum cleaner on all hard-surface floors. It is better than a dry mop because it picks up the dust as it goes along, does not scatter it, and disposes of it once and for all. The vacuum cleaner is better than a wet dust mop because it does not harm the finish of the floor. It gathers dust equally as well from tile and linoleum. Use it frequently especially in the kitchen and bathroom.

Avoid Busy Patterns on Small Room Floors

Consider the size of the room when selecting a pattern of linoleum or other types of hard-surface flooring. In small rooms use only one or two colors because a "busy pattern" will only make the room look smaller. In large rooms, bold patterns in striking colors may be used effectively, but if a spacious look is desired a plain design is best.

In living and dining areas, one color is best, or a marbelized design, plus scatter rugs to add warmth. In kitchens and bath rooms, the multi-color floors are not only more cheerful but also don't show soil so quickly.

Ever Dust the Blankets?

If you leave a blanket uncovered on a bed for only a few days, with the windows up, you will be amazed to see the dust which has fallen on it. But remember that everything else in that room, too, is gathering dust in equal proportions. The vacuum cleaner is the way to remove the dust, and prompt action is necessary in order to keep not only blankets, but mattresses, pillows and springs, too, free of this offensive intruder.

These days a girl's gown is cut so low that it's obvious she's out to catch either a man or a cold . . . About the time a man puts his foot down is when his wife's finished vacuuming under it. —Earl Wilson.

Oak Block Flooring Easy to Put Down

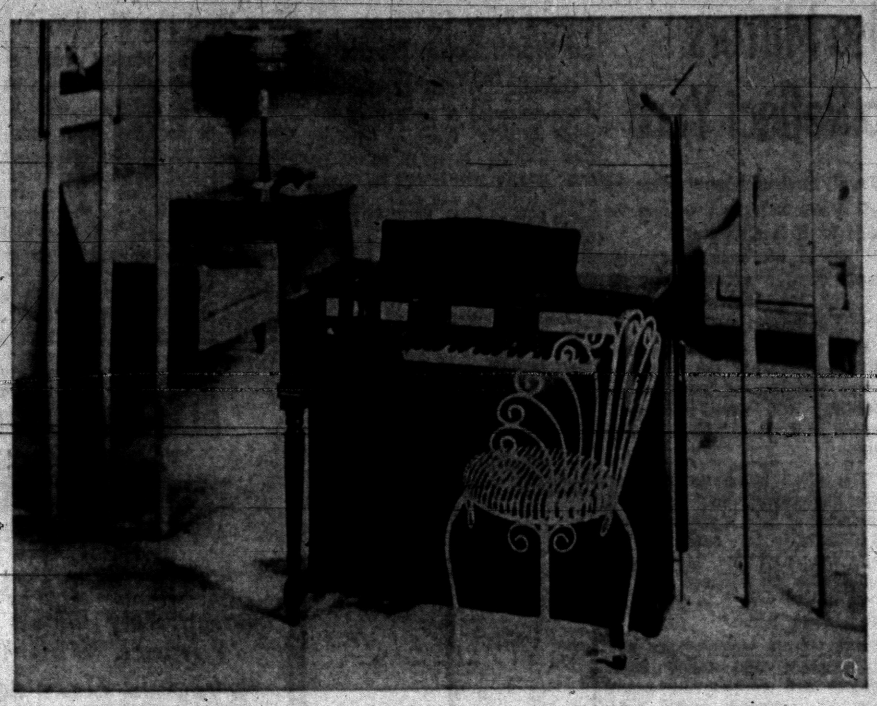

Laminated oak blocks are becoming popular as a flooring material for home modernizing projects. The blocks are especially suitable for below-ground recreation rooms and for home additions built on concrete slabs, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. The ease with which the blocks may be installed makes them ideal for do-it-yourselfers, the lumbermen explain.

Before the blocks are applied, concrete slabs should be moisture-proofed. Then, a mastic is spread over the slab with a tooth-edged trowel. The blocks, nine inches square and perfinished, have a tongue-and-groove arrangement, so the groove of each succeeding block can be "hinged" over the tongue of the adjoining one. This prevents the mastic from bunching up, while insuring a tight fit.

Since the blocks are laminated, expansion is a negligible factor and the contractor or home craftsman need not worry about allowing expansion room at the borders.

ORGAN FOR DIVIDER — New idea in space dividers is this one, made of closet poles, floor to ceiling, with a chord organ and a lamp-pole a part of it. Simple and dramatic, this "see-through" divider makes use of center floor space. A desk or small sofa might also be a part of the divider.

Putting Up a Good Front

It's possible to improve the appearance of a house greatly by repainting the ceiling, railing, pillars and floor of the porch — even though the rest of the house is not done at the same time. Hollow pillars and the spindles on railings are troublesome moisture-traps if not adequately protected with paint.

Undercoating Adds Wood Individuality

A color revolution is sweeping the country. Automobiles are gayer. Telephones come in assorted colors. Home appliances have lost the cold, white look. Color TV is expanding and there's more color in newspapers and magazines and on the supermarket shelf.

Home interiors, in keeping with this trend, have color, but without gaining a painted look. New wood paneling finishes fit the trend well.

For a touch-of-blue finish—Add one-third cup of gold dust to one quart of alpine blue paint. Brush on, wipe off immediately. Allow to dry, then apply clear finish (clear varnish, lacquer or shellac) to surface, or wax.

For a green room — Mix two-thirds quart of black paint and one-third quart of deep blue. Add two tablespoons of chrome yellow. Paint on panels and wipe off immediately. Dry, then apply clear finish, or wax.

For a maroon-room — Mix two-thirds quart of red paint and one-third quart of deep blue. Apply to panels and wipe off. After drying, apply clear finish to surface, or wax.

For a buff finish — Brush on mixture of flat white undercoat paint tinted with lead blue and burnt umber color in oil. Wipe off and let dry Apply clear finish to surface, or wax.

For color experimentation, use waste pieces of wood.

Where knotty pine panelling has been installed; the knotty effect may be retained by rubbing knots with steel wool after the pigment has been wiped off the wood.

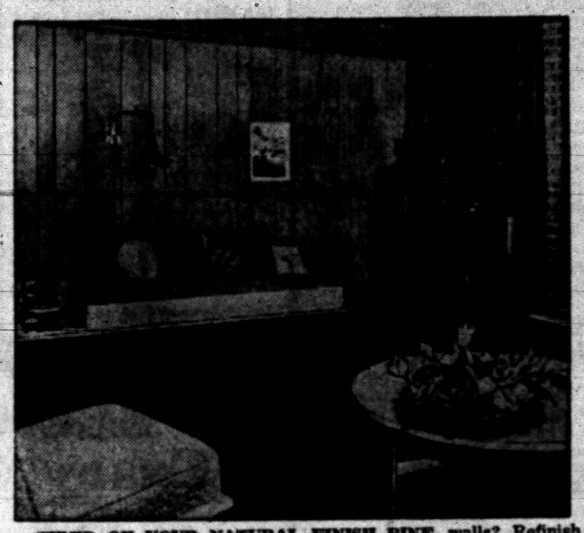

A knotty pine wall that fits in well with Early American furniture easily can be transformed through refinishing.

To do such a refinishing job use a fine sandpaper (3-0 or finer). Carefully sand off the gloss of the previous finish.

Or, treat the surface with a paint conditioner available from most paint stores.

Then apply a medium-heavy pigmented finish and wipe off. Remember, this method makes the color applied translucent. If the walls were already stained, the old coloring should be considered when choosing the new.

After coloring, several coats of varnish, lacquer or shellac (at least two) may be applied. The last coat may be rubbed to a satin-like sheen with fine steel wool. Or use a simple application of a good paste wax.

TIRED OF YOUR NATURAL FINISH PINE walls? Refinish pine panelling in color as first step to modernizing panelled room. Next, substitute contemporary furniture, planter and storage unit for bookshelves.

Amazons, Supermen No Longer Needed

Not so long ago the housewife had to be an Amazon or call in the old man for help every time she wanted to open or close a sliding glass door. Today, with advances in design, tracks, balancing and materials, sliding glass doors and windows can be manipulated by a child.

The president of the Sliding Glass Door and Window Institute, Frank B. Miller, gives these reasons for the easier operation: "The wheels generally are located right under the center load line instead of off to one side.

"Aluminum allows greater precision engineering than wood or steel, thus giving freer movement. Hardware is better engineered. And weatherstripping made of wool woven pile contributes to finger-tip control."

Sliding Doors Save Space on Cupboards

Cabinets will be more attractive and their accessibility improved if they are fitted with sliding doors made of "Peg-Board" or presdwood panels. Sliding doors also take up less space in a room than the hinged type.

Tracks for the doors can be cut in the framing with a bench saw or the work can be done by the lumber dealer when material is purchased. Edges of the door panels should be beveled to permit easier sliding.

Free construction tips on installation of sliding doors can be obtained by writing to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill. and requesting plan No. AD-239.

Choose Open Fence for Decorative Feature

Since the calendar indicates that the outdoor living season is approaching, now is the time to prepare for summer recreation. One of the intriguing aspects of fence building today is the great freedom of choice in design and materials that make it feasible to plan your fence so that it is functional and beautiful.

If, for instance, a fence is used to set apart one area of a year or if it is part of a decorative landscape it need not be solid. For such purposes a formal black design is excellent, as is an open lattice fence with wide interstices on which vines can climb.

If privacy is the motive for fencing, as it might be when the objective is to shield from sight a service area or swimming pool, then fairly solid construction such as a woven design or board 'n batten should be chosen.

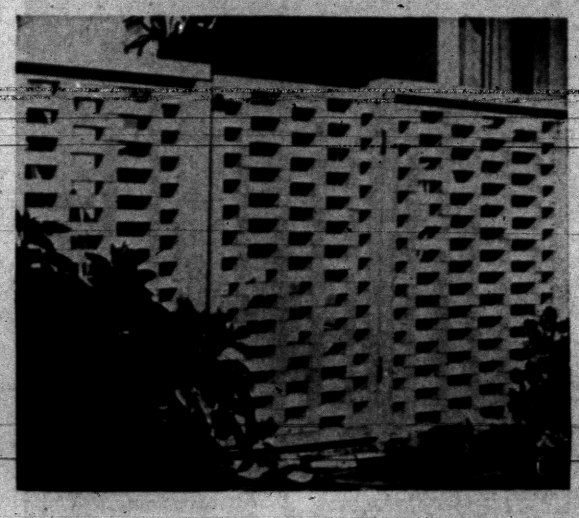

Whatever the type of fence, and whatever its purpose, it will probably be built of wood and if there is an amateur craftsman in the family, it will probably be a do-it-yourself project. Under the circumstances, any one of the 10 woods from the western pine region will fill the bill as they nail easily and resist splitting, that bugbear of the Sunday carpenter.

They also accept preservatives and finishes readily, a very important factor in fence construction. The fine even grain and natural tone of the wood not only shows through many finishes, but is enhanced by them.

One of the rewarding aspects of building your own fence is that you can take what you consider the best features of several designs, and thus come up with one that is peculiarly your own. One thing to remember is that you do not want to conceal any good facets of the house, nor should you build to close to the driveway and thus impair access to the garage. Local regulations should be checked as should property lines to avoid building on neighbor's property.

Upright posts that support the fence should be four by fours spaced no more than eight feet apart. One-third the length of the post should be below ground and that portion of the posts should be treated with preservative. Stringers or rails should be of two-by-fours, and the ends of these should also be treated with preservative. With these basic suggestions, you have a sturdy frame for any type of fence you elect to build.

One final hint, don't fence yourself in. Make gates wide enough to handle all expected traffic, and use heavy gate hardware to withstand heavy strains.

BLOCK-TYPE FENCE — This formal block-type fence is built of widely available wood from the western pine region and is ideal for setting off outdoor living areas within a yard or for a background to landscaping. It is easy to build, and although it provides semi-privacy, its interesting textural pattern does not exclude light or breeze.

Polka Dot Paint Available

Some magician invented a trick which involved the use of "polka dot paint." The illusion created was quite convincing, too. But now there really is a polka-dot paint, which leaves a colored surface flecked with bits of many other colors. It must be applied by a sprayer, not by brush, and the sprayer tool of the vacuum cleaner is perfect for this purpose.

Mushroom Opera Wins

SYDNEY, Australia — The winning design among 932 submitted in a contest for a new Sydney opera house was a mushroom like structure conceived by a Danish architect, John Utzon.

No Trick to Install Mineral Wool Batts

You don't have to be handy with tools to install mineral wool insulation. The easiest method is to use thick batts or blankets which are placed between the joists, as shown in the sketch, with the vapor barrier side down.

The only tools you'll need are a sharp knife to cut the insulation to the proper length and a piece of board to kneel on so you won't step on the ceiling. When the job is done, your mineral wool will start paying for itself in heat savings and will make your house more comfortable in all seasons.

Mineral wool batts or blankets are recommended for open joists. However, if the attic has a finished floor, a professional installer can blow insulation into the hidden areas.

Caulking Is Economical

Careful caulking of a house pays big returns on a modest investment. Not only will caulking seal out fuel-robbing drafts, it will seal out moisture that is harmful to both wood and paint. Before launching your exterior painting job, check up on trouble spots that may need caulking — cracks around window and door frames, balustrades, butt joints of wood and stone on porches, butt joints of siding and corner boards.

Steel Braces Joists

There's a new type of steel bridging designed to replace the wood bridging that long has been used with wood joists. The steel braces, locked into place to form an X, are put up without tools of any kind. Anchor spurs on the braces dig deeper into the joist when there is a shrinkage of the wood, thus preventing squeaks caused by unstable joists.

of the lower level. There is a laundry room at the back. An outside door into the family room means the boys need not run all through the house when they go in and out from play.

At one end of this family room there is a storage wall with open bookshelves on top and closed cupboards below. The Formica counter top has a wood pattern. Walls are knotty pine finished in the champagne tone of the rest of the house.

A sectional sofa in gray tweed gives plenty of space for all the boys to watch the ball game on TV. Dad has his own easy chair. Gray and wine curtains hang at the deep-framed windows. Window sills are all marble. The floor is tiled.

This is the first complete summer the Studnickis have spent in their new home. They moved in August of last year. This year they have planted a vegetable garden on a sunny southern slope. Even Spotty, the brown and white mongrel dog, feels right at home. With all the space between houses he can scare up an occasional rabbit.

Englehardt, Buettner and Holt of Royal Oak built the Studnicki house. It was nearly completed when the family bought it.

Paneling Easy to Clean

House Preferences Vary

Split-level homes dot many geographical areas, but Massachusetts reveals a nostalgic preference for its Cape Codders. The Spanish stucco motif remains popular in the Southwest while Florida favors one-level, ranch-type houses.

Oil Burners Need to Be Replaced Every 15 Years

What's the replacement age of an oil burner? About 15 years, in the opinion of oil burner dealers who responded to a survey made by a trade paper in the fuel oil industry. While some dealers said ten years, others said 20 years, but 73 per cent said that the logical time would be 15 years.

This checks with earlier studies made by the same trade paper in which is was found that three-fifths of oil burners are replaced after 15 years.

It is interesting to note that the age at which oil burning equipment is being replaced is constantly being pushed farther ahead. The explanation, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, is that oil burners are being improved with the result that they last longer.

These improvements go all the way down the line, the Bureau points out. The burner itself is better, quieter, less likely to clog, with the result that it needs fewer service calls. Most important of all is the fact that it provides better combustion and therefore greater economy.

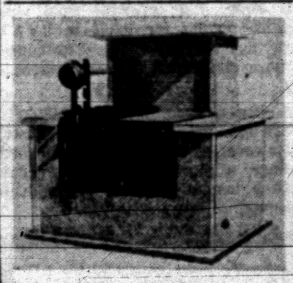

Improvements also go down the line to the fuel itself which is of better quality, cleaner, and with non-corrosive additives. Also there are available boiler-burner and furnace-burner combinations that are teamed up for efficiency and attractiveness.

Right Angle—No Swirls

Power disc sanders have a tendency to make swirling marks on wooden surfaces unless they are carefully handled. This tendency can be kept in check by holding the sander against the wood at a slight angle, keeping it moving constantly and not applying pressure.

Check Up on Moisture

Moisture troubles arise when moisture gets into places where it shouldn't be. A large percentage of paint blistering and wood-rotting is caused by moisture seeping in from outside. Faulty construction and downright neglect are the usual causes. So check-up and fix-up before it's too late.

Building With Poles Has Modern Revival

Pole-frame construction, a building method popular with pioneer settlers, is gaining wide acceptance again for a variety of commercial, industrial and farm buildings. Pole-frame structures, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, are among the most economical to erect because they require only a limited amount of skilled labor, no expensive excavations or concrete foundations, and no costly bracing or scaffolding.

Construction involves only the sinking of long wood poles into the ground. Then, the building's walls and roof are fastened directly to these poles. Often, such structures can be erected for as little as $1 or less per square foot. Wood siding is recommended as one of the wall materials to hold down costs.

Architects have revived the pole-frame technique for utility buildings, warehouses, garages, bulk storage bins, equipment sheds, boat houses and even factories. To increase the life of such buildings, poles should be preservatively treated, the lumbermen suggest.

At a 40-mile an hour cruising speed the average fuel economy of 29 different makes of automobiles has been increased by about 30 per cent in the interval from 1930 to 1950.

Bunning Boosts All-Star Game Chances

Yankees Refuse to Let Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Probably the most difficult obstacle in baseball is overcoming the Yankees once they get that feel of 1st place. The New Yorkers built up a three-game lead recently and seem to find a different way to win every day to hold on to their familiar position in the standings.

A 5-3 victory over Washington last night was the latest example of Yank "clutch" playing in crucial games. The White Sox were routing Cleveland 14-4 and appeared certain to pick up a full game with Casey Stengel's boys down by two runs after seven innings. But the World Champions fought back to send the game into overtime and then clinched the verdict in the 10th.

In other American League action, Boston regained 3rd place from the Indians by downing Baltimore 7-5 as Detroit's Jim Bunning won his 10th with an 8-4 decision over Kansas City.

Bill Skowron was the Friday hero for the Yankees as his single batted in the tie-breaking marker in the 10th. Mickey Mantle had helped spark a three-run 8th with his 1,000th hit. Relief pitcher Art Ditmar won it. Washington's Julio Becquer had the only homer.

Ex-Tiger Earl Torgeson and Jim Rivera did the heavy stickwork as Chicago combed three Cleveland hurlers for 14 hits. Torgeson batted in four runs with a homer, double and single and Rivera chased in three more. Jim Wilson pitched steady ball for an easy victory.

Mike Fornieles beat his old mates as Boston snapped Billy Loes' seven-game win streak. A three - run 6th put the Red Sox ahead to stay after Baltimore led 4-3. Gus Triandos had two home runs for the losers. Billy Klaus hit for the circuit for Boston. The defeat left Loes with a 9-3 record.

TUTTLE NIPPED — Detroit Tigers' outfielder, Bill Tuttle, didn't have quite enough margin on the above try, yesterday, for a run in the 6th inning of the game with Kansas City. He was nipped at the plate by catcher Hal Smith, who took a throw from 3rd baseman Hector Lopez. Umpire Bill McKinley calls the play. Tuttle tried to score on Jim Bunning's grounder. Tigers won anyway, 8-4.

Tiger Hurler May Get Starting Role Tuesday in AL-NL Classic

DETROIT (AP) — Next stop for big Jim Bunning is the All-Star game, and there's a good chance that Casey Stengel will call on the Detroit Tiger righthander to start Tuesday's classic.

Bunning did nothing last night against the Kansas City Athletics that would prove he's anything but the best pitcher in the American League. He struck out seven batters as the Tigers whipped the A's 8-4 before 24,230 faithful spectators.

"I'll be ready if he needs me," said Bunning, who has won 10 games against just two defeats. "I'm going to stop off at my home in Kentucky for a short visit before the wife and I go to St. Louis—but I'm not going to waste any time getting there."

The 25-year-old Bunning has been the one Tiger pitcher with consistent effectiveness this year and stands a chance of becoming a 20-game winner.

Someone mentioned to Bunning that he's "halfway to 20."

"I don't want to look at it that way," said Bunning. "Let's say I've doubled my 1956 winnings."

Bunning won five and lost one over part of the 1956 season and has a 15-3 record over the past two years.

He got solid batting support from Charlie Maxwell, Frank Bolling, little Ron Samford and Harvey Kuenn last night in his seventh complete game in 12 starts. Maxwell cracked his 17th home run, Bolling got his 12th with a man on base, Samford collected a triple and a single and scored twice and Kuenn drove in a pair of runs with a single and a double.

Tonight the same two teams meet at Briggs Stadium with luckless Frank Lary (4-10) opposing Yankee castoff Ralph Terry (3-2).

The first four hits in last night's contest were over the fences, Maxwell getting his clout leading off the second and Bolling hitting his behind Kuenn's walk in the third. Hector Lopez and Gus Zernial smashed Kansas City home runs in the fourth.

Bunning yielded another home run in the fifth to catcher Tim Thompson, then held the A's until the ninth when they bunched three singles for their final tally.

It was Samford, who went into the game with a .224 average and without a hit in 12 at-bats, who pushed the Tigers ahead to stay. He pounded reliefer Virgil Trucks for a line drive triple and scored on Kuenn's single in the fifth. Tigers loaded the bases against Trucks in the sixth on Maxwell's double, an error and an intentional walk—and Samford came through with a two-run single.

The Tigers added one in the eighth when Ray Boone's pop fly fell between Lopez and Joe Demaestri for a hit and scored Al Kaline, who had doubled and taken third on an out. Samford scored again in the ninth, leading off with a walk, going to second on a bunt and coming home on Kuenn's single.

Samford didn't lack anything at bat last night as former Tiger Trucks accepted his second defeat against seven triumphs.

Keego Harbor Had Bob Walter

Remember the Sport Stars of Yore?

(This is the third of a series of articles about some of the outstanding area athletes of yesteryear. Today we feature Bob Walter of Keego Harbor. The series will continue next Thursday and be run each Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Many great names of the area such as Al Conner, Lyle Knapp, Rolland Langerman, Maurice Finnegan, Russ Oliver and others will be featured.)

A big reason why Keego Harbor's Roosevelt High School came into its own as a Michigan athletic power, especially in basketball, during the late 30's and in 1940 was the play of a fellow named Bob Walter.

Walter teamed with the late Jack Fultz to spark the Presidents to their greatest basketball season in 1940 when they won 22 straight games before losing in the state finals. Fultz was named on the all-state team that year and Walter received honorable mention.

Now an engineer at the local General Motors Truck & Coach plant, Walter is still well remembered by area sports followers as one of the few athletes ever to win 16 letters at Keego.

He lettered in each of his four years in basketball, football, baseball and track. Opponents were happy to see him graduate in 1940.

"I never went on to college although I had chances for scholarships at different schools, because my family didn't have the money. Scholarships then were not much compared to how they are now," said the former versatile star today.

Walter played on one championship football team, while the hoop aggregations dominated the Southwestern Oakland League during each of his last three seasons. The 1939 quintet ran up a win streak of 18 victories before bowing.

It was in the Walter era that Roosevelt High and Keego actually got on the map in state athletics.

He played a key role in football, was a steady hitter and dependable fielder in baseball and ran in the dashes and relays and broad jumped in track.

Bob has been at GM since shortly after he left high school and played on and coached ball teams there for several years before dropping out to become just a fan.

"I retired last year to please my wife," he explained.

Queen Sees Finale

Althea Wins Wimbledon Net Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Althea Gibson of New York became the first Negro to win a Wimbledon tennis championship today. She beat Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, in the women's finals before a crowd of 17,000, including Queen Elizabeth.

It marked the 14th straight time the title had gone to an American woman since 1937 when the championship was won by Dorothy Round of Britain.

The Queen's visit to Wimbledon was her first since she became monarch. She wore a rose and white printed silk dress and straw hat.

Miss Gibson, who learned her tennis with crude paddles on the sidewalks of New York, raced to a 4-0 lead before the 21-year-old Miss Hard could get into the fight.

The Montebello girl, a blonde waitress, broke Miss Gibson's service in the fifth game and then held her own to make the score 4-2. The set followed service the rest of the way, with Miss Gibson winning her last two deliveries with the loss of only one point in each.

Miss Gibson was in command of the second set all the way.

Shut out in the men's singles won yesterday by Australian ace Lew Hoad, the U.S. hoped for another Wimbledon crown from the old guard tandem of Gardnar Mulloy of Denver, Colo., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles.

The 43-year-old Mulloy and the 34-year-old Patty earned a finals berth in the men's doubles against top-seeded Hoad and Fraser by beating Britain's Roger Becker and Australia's Bob Howe, 9-7, 7-5, 6-3, in the semi-finals.

Another Big Perch

Big perch from Oakland county lakes have been the regular thing the last few days. Latest to report a husky "yellow-belly" is Willard Gallance, 210 North Winding Drive, Pontiac. Willard hooked a 11½-inch-1½ pounder early this morning in Elizabeth Lake. He was fishing in 20 feet of water, using night-crawlers as bait. His catch also included a few bluegills.

Survey Favors Trust Laws

WASHINGTON (INS)—Baseball and other team sports may be placed under the anti-trust laws if Senate and House legislators decide to act on the recommendations of a Library of Congress survey.

The study, released yesterday, proposes that the anti-trust laws should apply, with certain exemptions required by "peculiar business conditions," to protect players and the public from "flagrant monopoly."

The report, prepared in the Library's American law division as an outgrowth of Supreme Court decisions and a congressional probe of professional sports, said the exemptions appear necessary because strict anti-trust regulation would "spoil the game and wreck the business."

It was pointed out, however, that complete immunity would "condone a number of restrictive practices which are almost universally condemned as abuses."

A Supreme Court order currently exempts baseball from the anti-trust laws. But the court recently made professional football subject to such laws and invited Congress to take such action regarding baseball and other sports.

Mizell Puts Cards Back on Top Beating Redlegs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This nerve - numbing National League pennant race, closest first-to-fifth scramble in the modern era, is back to normal in one repect. Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell is beating Cincinnati again.

Their 4-3 victory in 11 innings pushed St. Louis back into first place in the flip-flop race after a week's absence, dumping the Redlegs into second, a half game behind.

Mizell, winning only his second in eight decisions, did it with a nine-hit, seven strikeout performance. Of his 39 major league victories, Mizell owns 12 over the Redlegs, five last year.

Milwaukee, in third place a game behind, lost ground when beaten by Chicago 7-4, but fourth-place Brooklyn stepped up to within two of the top on Roy Campanella's three-run homer that beat Robin Roberts 6-5 and dropped fifth place Philadelphia 3½ off the pace. New York's Giants routed Pittsburgh, 11-6 in the other NL game.

Hank Aaron blasted his 27th homer and seventh in eight games and Johnny Logan hit his fourth home run, but that was about all the Braves could manage against the Cubs' Don Elston. The Brooklyn castoff, 2-0 with both victories over Milwaukee, needed help from Turk Lown in the ninth. Jerry Kindall's home run, his first in the majors, helped chase loser Bob Buhl in the second inning.

Campanella's homer was the 23rd this season off Roberts, now 6-11 with five straight losses. It came in the eighth with Gino Cimoli and Gil Hodges on base. Roger Craig won it in relief.

Seven runs in the sixth inning won for the Giants and Johnny Antonelli, now 7-7. The Giants tied a NL record when three pinch batters hit safely in the rally. Bobby Thomson homering and Ray Jablonski and Ossie Virgil contributing two-run singles. Eddie Bressoud, hitting his first in the majors on the day he was recalled from Minneapolis, homered for New York along with Dusty Rhodes and Gail Harris.

Feller Blasts Magnates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bob Feller asserted yesterday "loud-mouthed magnates who talk about shifting their major league franchise are hurting their attendance at home and hurting the minor (league) cities where they may not even land."

The former Cleveland pitching ace told a news conference "baseball is a big business not operating under the laws of the United States."

Feller, who earned nearly a million dollars while pitching 18 years for the Indians, also criticized the handling of bonus players by major league clubs.

"It is ridiculous," he said, "that an owner is obligated to a player for only 30 days but a player is obligated to an owner for his entire career."

He said he favors a modified reserve clause contract in which, after two or three years in the majors, a player would be free to deal for himself. In general, this is the substance of the Hillings bill before Congress.

Feller didn't elaborate on his reference to "loud-mouthed magnates" but it was an obvious reference to the much-discussed proposal for shifting the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles and the New York Giants to San Francisco.

He said he wants to make it clear that he is not "anti-baseball."

"It is my game and my life," he said. "I may even be a part owner of a ball club myself some day."

U. S. Showdown in Henley Race

HENLEY-ON - THAMES, England (AP)—One big question was posed today as the Henley Royal Regatta prepared for an all-American showdown between Cornell and Yale. Everybody was asking whether Cornell can stand the strain.

Coach Stork Sanford conceded "It is entirely possible" that his gallant eight took too much out of themselves while beating the Russians yesterday.

Cornell stormed over the one-mile 500 yards course in 6½ minutes, eight seconds, better than anything produced by generations of oarsmen in the 118-year-old history of the regatta.

Now they meet Yale, in the final of the Grand Challenge Cup, major event of the championship.

Connecticut Yacht Looks Like Winner

The Carina appeared unexpectedly at the finish line just after 7 a.m. There was nobody on hand to greet the bearded Americans except the official timekeeper.

The Carina made the 3,000-mile crossing in 19 days, 13 hours, 28 minutes and 47.5 seconds.

Coach Has Steady Job

DETROIT (AP)—The first varsity athletic team sponsored by Wayne State University was the 1917-18 basketball squad which won nine and lost one. Its coach was David L. Holmes, who 40 years later still is on the Wayne State athletic staff. He's athletic director and coaches track and cross-country.

Vishnesky, considered one of the top prizes from the talent-laden Virginia military school circuit has speed as well as size and is regarded as top-flight for both offense and defense.

Concerned About Green

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — It happened here during the British Open Golf Championship this week.

A cat chased a mouse across the 18th green in the midst of the title play. But the dour Scots, to whom golf is a mighty serious game, saw nothing funny about it.

All that was said was:

"I hope the animals don't hurt the green."

Qualifying for Publinx Berths Monday

189 Play at 2 Sites for 10 Open Positions

Winners at Birmingham, Plum Hollow to Enter National Tourney

Ten berths in the U.S. Public Links golf championship will be at stake Monday when Plum Hollow and Birmingham play host to the sectional qualifiers.

A giant field of 189 amateur golfers, including several standout players from the Pontiac area, is entered in the 36-hole qualifying rounds at the two Oakland County courses.

Beginning at 6:30 a.m., threesomes will start their simultaneous journeys over the Plum Hollow and Birmingham layouts. Each golfer plays an 18-hole round at each course.

Only 10 will make the grade for the national Public Links tournament, which is scheduled July 29-Aug. 3 at the Hershey Park Country Club in Hershey, Pa.

Five alternates will also be selected and any playoffs that are necessary will take place at Plum Hollow immediately following the regulation 36 holes.

Leading the area delegation is Mike Andonian, Pontiac High School mathematics teacher who has won the state Publinx title for the past two years. Andonian made the trek to last year's national tourney at the Harding Park links in San Francisco and bowed out in the 3rd round of match play.

Roy Iceberg, who lost to Andonian on June 9 in the state Publinx finals at Saginaw, is this year's No. 2 area contender. Iceberg also took the trip to the 1956 national event, but failed to qualify.

Ron Rothbarth, defending city champion, Paul Bada and Joe Burgdorf are other outstanding Pontiac entries. Among the other prominent area contestants are Joe Kocsis, Jay Law, Sal Pomante, Don Nelson, Dick Allison, Stan Sabat and Tex Ellison.

Monday's most conspicuous absentee will be Sam Kocsis. Kocsis won the national Public Links championship in 1955 at Indianapolis and was defending his crown last year when death in the family called him home from San Francisco.

The 10 golfers who succeed here will join 140 other players at Hershey were they are once again required to qualify. Sixty-four survivors will enter match play for the national title.

Middlecoff Offers Advice

Locke Wins, Cary Is 14th

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Cary Middlecoff, vanquished challenger for the 1957 British Open golf championship won by South Africa's Bobby Locke, sends word back to future candidates for the ancient title, to stay home unless they have ten days of practice time in Britain.

"The people at home who want to have a shot at the British Open "should also get themselves a nice, big, hard, bumpy green,"

AP Wirephoto

said Middlecoff after finishing 14th with a 289, 10 strokes more than Locke's 279.

"Long before they come over here, they should get on the edge of that green and pitch the little British ball to it a few thousand times.

"Then they should get on that bumpy green and putt till they drop. About every thousand putts they should water the green just to change the speed.

"Because, that is the way British greens—at least these at St. Andrews—react. Sometimes they are so slow, sometimes fast, but usually slow."

Only three men ever won the British Open championship on their first try, which means Middlecoff is in with the vast majority since he lost on his first try.

Ben Hogan in 1953 at Carnoustie and Sam Snead in 1946 at St. Andrews were first time up winners. The other was Willie Park of Musselburgh, who won at Prestwick in 1860.

But of course that was the first British Open.

Peter Thomson, Australia's three - times - in - a - row British champion, finished second with a 282 and Scotland's Eric Brown was third with 283.

Then came a surprise — Angel Miguel was fourth with 285. Miguel comes from Spain where at least 95 per cent of the people never heard the word "golf."

Five places below Middlecoff was the United States' only other player who survived qualifying and the 36-hole field cut. He was Frank Stranahan of Toledo with a 291.

2 Youths Share Montreal Lead

Long - Hitting Harney, Venturi Tied at 138 in Canadian Tourney

Ventiri and Harney headed a parade of sub-par rounds by U. S. professionals that left the Canadian bid for the title four strokes off the pace.

One stroke back of the leaders with 139 were Al Beselink of Grossinger, N.Y., and Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex. Besselink had a 69 yesterday and Conrad posted a 70.

Scale Model of School Shown at U. of M.

Milford Miss Fashions $2 Million Miniature

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Janie Hodgins, 17, is out of school for the summer, but she has something to remind her of one more year of education in Milford.

She has fashioned an exact replica of the new two-million dollar high school, now under construction on North Milford road.

Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hodgins, 5431 General Motors road.

The scale model school, with its parking lot and flagpole, took Janie three months of spare time work to build. The entire structure is made of white pine.

During her school year, Jane was an all-A student in science and mathematics and received the top science award in the Arts and Crafts Show sponsored by the Literary Club.

She is interested in designing and architectural work, someday planning to "get into engineering work, preferably chemistry."

Jane was the only girl who registered for the shop and mechanical drawing course at Milford high, last year. This did not detract from her femininity and she is a very popular young teenager, according to superintendent Harold Hansen.

As president of the Girls' Athletic club, she is an expert swimmer, skier and baseball fan. She knows the name of every baseball player on the Detroit Tiger team and never misses a televised game.

Jane's father is plant engineer at the General Motors Proving Grounds, which maybe accounts for her terrific drive and enthusiasm in the engineering field, and she has her sights set on graduating from her dad's alma mater—the University of Michigan.

DESIGNING MISS — Janie Hodgins, a 17-year-old junior of Milford High School, has set her sights on becoming an architectural engineer. Her scale model of the two-million dollar Milford High School has been on display at Michigan State University as an example of fine workmanship.

Divers Hoping to Find Treasure

Rumored Rich Cargo of Sunken Ship Spurs Expedition's Efforts

WASHINGTON — In the will-o-the-wisp world of lost treasures, many are sought but few are found. An exception may be the sunken cargo of an East Indiaman, the Grosvenor, whose battered hulk is being investigated by a diving expedition off South Africa's east coast.

CARRIED FORTUNE

She is believed to have carried a fabulous fortune in gold and silver bars, coins, ivory, precious stones, and pearls. Also aboard may have been two gem-encrusted gold peacocks from the throne of the Great Mogul at New Delhi — an extra touch of romance in a treasure valued today as high as $90,000,000.

On the last lap of her journey, off the desolate Pondoland coast, the Grosvenor ran into bad weather. About 30 miles northeast of what is now Port St. Johns, she was trapped between rocks and broken up.

Captain John Coxon and most of his crew and passengers managed to get ashore. But it was across a wild and hostile region that they set out for the Cape, many hundreds of miles away.

8 SURVIVORS

Only eight men made it. According to the exhausted and dazed survivors, Capt. Coxon had organized his original group into two parties. The remnant of one reached Cape Town. The other, under the captain's leadership, vanished into the veld, where apparently all perished from hunger and thirst or were killed by tribesmen.

As the years passed, gold and silver coins washed up on the Pondoland shore kept the lure of the Grosvenor fortune alive. Cannon and boxlike objects on the ocean floor were reported by occasional daring divers.

So far, however, strong tides and the violent breakers that pound this rocky coast have defied the efforts of all treasure seekers, from large and well-financed combines to imaginative individuals.

BORED TUNNEL

In 1906, one ambitious group bored an undersea tunnel to within 40 feet of the ship's hulk, then abandoned the work for lack of capital.

Some 40 years later, a South African engineer considered a fantastic scheme of covering the ship with tons of rock, topped by cement reaching above the water's surface. He then proposed to drill down to the prize, pumping out water as is done in sinking oil wells. Later, he decided simply to build a protective jetty around the wreck — a project that also failed.

Palladium is being used in some types of new jewelry to replace platinum. It is said to cost one-fourth as much and has the quality of being strong, light and easily workable.

'Wide Wide World' Maps Big Plans for Next Year

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Although "Wide Wide World" has just begun its summer vacation from NBC-TV, its creative minds already are percolating with ideas for its Sunday afternoon return next fall.

After talking with executive producer Barry Wood you come away with the feeling that next season will see a good deal of superior programming on "Wide Wide World."

"We plan to concentrate on fewer locations," Wood says. "Where this year we went to 10 or 12 places, we plan in general to concentrate on five or six spots next season. The result we feel, will be greater depth."

Historical drama, live on location, is one of the projected ideas of "Wide Wide World." One of these is the story of John Brown, done live from the actual locations where the abolitionist performed some of his significant acts before the Civil War: Kansas, Harper's Ferry and Charleston, W. Va., and Elba, N. Y.

Other dramas the program is considering include a dramatization of Nathaniel Hawthorne's "House of the Seven Gables" in the Salem, Mass., house which still stands; a dramatization of "The Scarlet Letter" by Hawthorne done live from the reconstructed pioneer village in North Salem, Mass.; and a Western drama from an actual Arizona ghost town.

"Wide Wide World" also would like to do a live dramatization of "Huckelberry Finn," made on a raft floating down the Mississippi.

Some of these might appear in other time spots than the actual program. If, for example, a Sunday night-time sponsor were found for one, the drama would be taped live that afternoon and shown that evening. The chief problem in live remotes obviously is weather—and the fact that a live show cannot be televised after dark.

Doctors doubt that hard work ever really killed anybody — but they have known cases where it scared people half to death . . . It's been said that there is nothing worse than a suspicious wife. Unless, adds H. C. Diefenbach, it's one who knows. —Earl Wilson

Quickie Trips Fly to Mexico

New Plane Can Make It to Intriguing Metropolis in Few Hours

MEXICO CITY (INS) — A quick trip to Mexico City by plane is just the thing for that crowded vacation schedule.

The new Douglas DC-7C super luxury flights just inaugurated by Compania Mexicana De Aviacion between Los Angeles and Mexico City cover the distance in less than five hours and at a price attractive to any tourist's pocketbook.

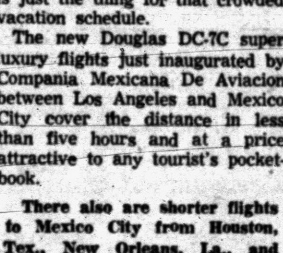

There also are shorter flights to Mexico City from Houston, Tex., New Orleans, La., and Miami, Fla., via Pan American World Airways, with which Mexicana is affiliated. And there are a number of other airlines which offer fine service to the Mexican capital.

The favorable rate of money exchange — about 12 pesos for one dollar — means that a Mexican vacation is not expensive for any vacationer's budget and that the best living in grand hotels, resort spots and places of recreation need not overtax the pocketbook.

Even if one does not leave Mexico City, there are enough points of interest to keep occupied for several days — seeing bullfights, cockfights, the breathtaking University of Mexico, beautiful multistoried buildings, broad avenues dotted with plazas and hundreds of statues, sprawling public parks, Chapultepec Castle and ancient ruins.

Almost anything made in Mexico — from native handicrafted baskets to exquisite sterling ware — can be bought in Mexico City and the visitor, after having stayed in Mexico two days, is entitled to bring up to $200 worth of goods back to the United States.
