Announce 5-Year Plan for State's Highways Drafted by Mackie

By PETE LOCHBILER

LANSING—Pontiac was left out of the five year highway plan announced today by State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

Mackie revealed an unprecedented one and a quarter billion dollar highway program, which emphasizes construction of more than 900 miles of new expressways "connecting all major Michigan cities" of more than 50,000 population.

Pontiac, with a population pushing 85,000, was evidently not considered a major city.

No expressways leading to Pontiac are scheduled in the five-year plan nor is there any anticipation "at this time" that one will be included in it at a later date, Mackie said.

There probably will be a major expressway to Pontiac included in the state's next five-year plan, Mackie said. This could push the completion date of Pontiac's first expressway as far away as 13 years.

Mackie explained that it will take six and a half years for completion of each five-year plan.

Expressways leading to and from the state's 12 other cities of more than 50,000 population were included in the plan, with two exceptions:

Detroit (plus Dearborn, Highland Park and Hamtramck) for which plans will be revealed next month; and Royal Oak which has only two-thirds Pontiac's population but finds itself in the same boat.

The reason appeared to be that Mackie has not made a final determination of the north-south national interstate highway route which has been given preliminary approval to run from the Ohio (Continued on Page 21, Col. 5)

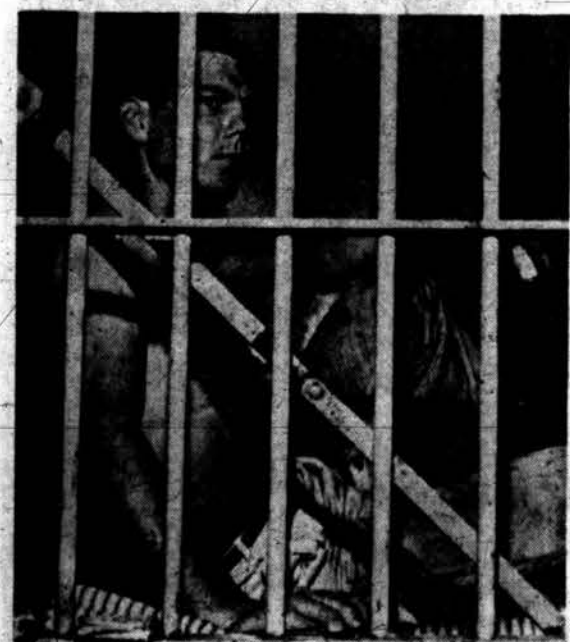

Sunny Days to Stay, Says Weatherman

Sunny days will continue, predicts the weatherman.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's outlook for tonight is fair and cool. The low will be near 44 degrees.

Tomorrow's forecast is warmer with the mercury going up to 74. The expected weather for Saturday is partly cloudy and warm. In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 41. At 2 p.m. the mercury reached 61.

Has Time to Think

BROODING PRISONER — Victor Wayne Whitley, 26, captured after a two-state bullet-riddled chase, sulked in his Jeffersonville, Ind., jail cell, refusing to talk to anyone but law officers. Two state troopers, from Michigan and Indiana, were killed in the dash, as was Whitley's companion. Simultaneous funeral services will be held for the two troopers today in Tecumseh, Mich., and Indianapolis, Ind.

Bobby's Opening Pitch

GOOD ONE COMING — Yankee Bobby Shantz sends the first pitch of today's second World Series game speeding toward Milwaukee's Red Schoendienst, who took it for a called strike. The Braves' second baseman eventually took the third strike leading off in the contest at New York's Yankee Stadium.

Knowland Out for Governor

To Oppose Gov. Knight for GOP Nomination in California Primary

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland officially entered the race for the California governorship today.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for the Republican nomination in the state's primary next June 3.

Knowland, his usually booming voice subdued, read a statement which replied to Knight's previous assertions that the California senator sought the governorship as a buildup for the 1960 Republican presidential race.

Referring to his entry in the state contest, he said:

"I have made my decision to run for this high office with no purpose other than, if nominated and elected, to devote myself faithfully to the administration of the duties of the office for the term or terms to which I might be elected."

"Should the people of California intrust me with the responsibility of being their chief executive they have my pledge I shall enter into that great office with no commitments other than the ones I make publicly to them."

Braves Even Series With a 4-2 Victory

NEW YORK—The 1957 World Series was all even at one game apiece today after Lou Burdette hurled the Milwaukee Braves to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

The Braves broke a 2-2 tie with two runs in the fourth inning and the lead was big enough for Burdette, who pitched his way out of trouble in nearly every inning. New York's Hank Bauer and Johnny Logan of the Braves each homered.

Bobby Shantz started on the mound for the Yanks and was charged with the loss.

Faubus 'Mistaken Man,' Eisenhower Tells Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower described Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas today as a mistaken man doing a disservice to his city and state.

The President also said he sees two avenues of hope for pulling troops out of Little Rock.

In response to news conference questions, Eisenhower said two different situations could justify withdrawal of the troops now being used to enforce racial integration at Little Rock's Central High.

1. The giving of unequivocal assurances that the U. S. District Court integration order will not be obstructed and that peace and order will be maintained.

2. An actual, factual development of peaceful conditions to the extent that local police could control the situation.

Eisenhower noted further that a committee of four Southern governors still is seeking a solution. The integration-troops issue was the dominating subject at the President's news conference. Only now and then did questions and answers diverge to other subjects.

One reporter asked whether Eisenhower feels that Faubus "really wants to put an end to the problem in Little Rock."

The President said he wouldn't want to answer that as he never tries to interpret motives of persons with whom he disagrees.

He said he simply believes that Faubus is mistaken in what he is doing and is doing a disservice to his city and his state.

Eisenhower declined to go beyond the Little Rock crisis to say whether his public pledges to support all measures necessary to uphold the court's mean that he would use troops to enforce integration elsewhere.

He said he didn't want to get into hypothetical questions, and that each case is different.

But Eisenhower said court decisions must be sustained or this is not America.

He also said that no one deplores use of troops more than he does. This, Eisenhower said, is not really American except as it becomes necessary in the support of institutions vital to this country.

The courts, Eisenhower said, are not here just to enforce integration. He said they are the bulwark, the shield against autocratic government.

If they can be defied in one respect, he went on, they can in all others and the result would be chaos or anarchy.

It was 15 minutes before the 30-minute news conference got around to any other topic. Then it covered such subjects as:

TEAMSTERS — Eisenhower said federal agencies were alerted long ago to corruption which has been revealed in the union. He said this was with a view to seeing whether any action could be taken beyond legislative steps already proposed.

He spoke in response to a question as to whether the administration (Continued on Page 21, Col. 2)

Waterford, Holly Schools Count Many Flu Victims

Although absences in Waterford Township and Holly High schools are high this week and many students have flu with symptoms similar to those of Asian flu, county school and health officials are not alarmed.

Attendance at Waterford schools has been decreasing since Friday. Monday 318 of the 1,427 students were absent. Tuesday and Wednesday the figure rose to 389.

The absence increase has been confined almost entirely to the junior and senior high schools. The absences in the elementary schools were normal with 10 per cent out of school daily.

In Holly High School yesterday, 155 of the total 766 students failed to report. By noontime another 10 were sent home complaining of upset stomachs, colds, headaches and chills. Tuesday, the absences were also high, 151 in the morning and 23 more by afternoon.

Attendance in the two Holly elementary schools was down but not as great as the high school.

William Shunk, superintendent of Waterford Township schools said today, "the Oakland County department of health could recommend the closing of a school district but it is within the authority of the school officials to close the school district."

"We see no reason to close schools at this time. Not one case reported to me has been diagnosed as Asian flu."

Dr. John D. Monroe, director of the Oakland County Health Department, said today there would be no advantage to closing the schools unless the school officials felt they were handicapped by lack of teachers.

"One or two days would not help cut the spread of the flu and exposure in school is not as great as at home," he added.

There has been no sharp change in attendance in Pontiac public schools, according to Nurse Josephine Seeley, coordinator of school health.

A check of other area school districts found no great decline in attendance recently.

Council to View Hospital Vote

Fact-Finding Group to Tell What Bond Issue Will Finance

Facts behind the Oct. 28 hospital bond election will be the major topic of conversation at a quarterly meeting of the Greater Pontiac Community Advisory Council to-night at 8 p.m.

A fact-finding committee under the chairmanship of Fred V. Haggard, past council president, will reveal to council delegates what the $950,000 bond issue will finance.

This information has been given the seven-member committee previously by Willis M. Brewer, hospital Board of Trustees chairman, Harold B. Euler, board public relations director, and Carl I. Flath, hospital director.

Also invited to attend the meeting in the City Hall commission chambers are seven city commissioners and the general public.

Haggard explained that the hospital officials will present additional information on the vote.

Property owners on Oct. 28 will go to the polls to say "yes" or "no" for the general obligation bond issue which, if approved, will finance the equipping and furnishing of Pontiac General Hospital's four million dollar addition.

Industry Leader Taken by Death

Victor E. Nelson Led Business, Civic Life in Pontiac for 30 Years

Victor E. Nelson, founder of Universal Oil-Seal and Nelson Manufacturing Companies, died yesterday morning at his residence, 4378 South Shore Rd., Watkins Lake. He was 63 years old.

For more than 18 years, he had served as president of Pontiac Manufacturers' Assn. and was a charter member of the board of directors of Community National Bank.

A native of Elton, Md., Mr. Nelson was connected with industry plants most of his life. He was the original designer and held patents on the oil-seal.

Since coming to Pontiac in 1924, he had served Pontiac on the board of education, part of that period as president.

On April 1, 1935, he was elected to the City Commission. He became (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Just Walking in the Rain

Teamsters Face Non-Union Cabs

By ROBERT B. TARR

MIAMI BEACH — Teamsters meeting here in convention have suddenly found themselves embroiled in a jurisdictional problem of their own.

The word was passed among the boys Monday that they should ride only union taxicabs.

An agreeable suggestion to union men ... until they discovered that in all of Miami Beach (a place of vast distances between points of call) there are but 13 unionized cabs among about 240 vehicles.

When the matter was broached from the rostrum at the close of Wednesday afternoon's long session, a delegate yelled "nuts to the cabs; we'll walk."

A brave resolution—until the delegates streamed from the auditorium into a Florida rain storm.

There is nothing gentle or hesitant about a Florida rain. It is as determined as a teamster on a picketline.

In some manner or other, delegates splashed to eating places and hotels.

The arrangements committee apologized for not having anticipated the situation earlier and promised to come up with a flock of buses (unionized) by tomorrow morning.

This scribe, trying to keep dry, hailed a passing cab and did not ask the driver any questions about his affiliations. He might have been one of the untouchables but he got us to our hotel, dry.

Teamster Vote Slated to Start This Afternoon

Vice President Drops Out, Tosses Support Over to Lee

By ROBERT B. TARR

Managing Editor, Pontiac Press

MIAMI BEACH — Forces against James R. Hoffa, a sure bet for the Teamsters presidency, narrowed today as Teamster Vice President Thomas L. Hickey withdrew as a candidate for the $50,000-a-year post.

But this withdrawal was expected to bolster the chances of William A. Lee of Chicago for the throne of the gigantic union as Hickey tossed his support in Lee's direction.

And some observers here believed that Hoffa's only other opponent, Thomas J. Haggerty, also of Chicago, at any moment might drop out and make it Lee versus Hoffa for outgoing President Dave Beck's seat.

The Teamsters credentials committee today declared Pontiac Local 614's four-man delegation of Leann Harrison, Floyd Harmon, Alvy Bush and Frank Orsini could be seated at the convention. It was one of the last delegations to be approved by this committee.

The delegation consists of Leann Harrison, 614 president, and Floyd Harmon, Alvy Bush, and Frank Orsini, all business agents.

A group of 614 members filed 50 affidavits last month charging the four had not received the approval of the rank-and-file.

This claim was somewhat substantiated when the Senate-Railroads Committee this week listed the delegation as one of 11 Michigan groups that had been selected in violation of the union's constitution.

Despite what appears as a last ditch move to halt the Hoffa steamroller, the 44-year-old Detroit vice president still stood as the overwhelming favorite to win.

Nominations were tentatively slated to begin early this afternoon with balloting expected to get under way by 5 p.m.

Anti-Hoffa forces lost another battle Wednesday night when the convention, after a brief but heated fight, refused to order a secret ballot for election of officers.

As the rules now stand each delegate must record his vote at the microphone during the election roll call.

Delegates also yesterday showed they didn't think much of charges against their union by the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee.

The entire 64-page record of the charges was read to the delegates. They sat quietly for more than two hours during the reading.

Then bedlam broke loose. Beck constantly had to bang his gavel to maintain control.

A proposal for a union investigation of the charges was overwhelmingly defeated. By virtually the same vote the delegates then wiped out completely all reference to the charges.

How does the height of small cumulus clouds on clear days give us a clue to the moisture content of the air?

The base of these small cumulus clouds tells us at what altitude the moisture in rising air is condensing into clouds.

If clouds are forming relatively low, or close to the surface, we know that there is quite a bit of moisture in the air. We can usually expect rain when this is observed in the summer, but not necessarily in the fall.

If these little clouds are forming very high in the sky, we know there is relatively little moisture in the air and rain probably will not occur.

The Day in Birmingham

Hills Will Vote Tuesday on Special Sewer Levy

BIRMINGHAM—In a special election Tuesday, Bloomfield Hills residents are being asked to approve a one-mill special levy for the construction of trunk line sewers.

Supervisor Arno Huelt said the assessment would run for 20 years. Its main purpose is an "insurance" measure for persons or companies who will purchase the sewer bonds to finance construction.

Huelt explained that it is expected that sewer taps will finance the yearly expenses. He said taps are made at $200 each, and that $100 a year would provide sufficient funds to meet annual interest and capital payments.

The supervisor emphasized that these funds are for trunk lines only, with the various communities involved each bearing the expense of its own laterals.

"The lines are important to us," Huelt pointed out, "because the township, along with neighboring communities, is under court order from the State Department of Health to correct the present pollution of the River Rouge."

"We must have the construction of these trunk lines. The levy we are asking now will make it much easier for us to seek buyers for the bonds, in that it will assure them of a return, plus interest, on their investments."

SIMPLE SOLUTION
Residents of Merritt lane, who last week petitioned the city to change the street name to Midvale, have been informed that there is a simple solution to their problem—merely replace the name sign.

The street, an apparent continuation of Midvale, was never officially designated on city plans as "Merritt lane." The changeover was requested when the three families there found friends, packages and deliverymen stumped trying to find their street.

Birmingham police are nearing the final stages of their move from the western to the eastern half of the Municipal Building. Larger quarters will be provided, with many additional facilities for holding and questioning prisoners, issuing licenses, squad rooms, photographic materials and files.

When the final phone is connected in the newly refurnished section, residents will be asked to use the Pierce street entrance, formerly that of the Fire Department, to transact police business.

Birmingham Toastmaster's Club has inducted new officers, including John Kotchian, president; Brooks Whipple, first vice-presi-

Loyalty Group Denies Investigating Reuther

DETROIT—The City Loyalty Investigating Committee yesterday denied reports that it keeps files on Council members and United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther.

A formal explanation was demanded by Councilman Eugene I.

Van Antwerp who said he had heard reports that the committee was compiling dossiers on the union leader and some councilmen.

Clifford W. Wickman, the group's director-secretary, said his staff had checked on nobody outside of city or county employees unless the person was a close associate or in personal contact with an employee being investigated for possible disloyalty.

About 75 White Students Leave Little Rock School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—About 75 white students walked out of Central High School classes today in what was scheduled as a mass protest against racial integration within the school.

The white boys and girls began straggling from the main entrance of the building within moments after the 9 a.m. change-of-classes bell rang.

They walked quietly across the campus and massed on the curbing across from the building.

There they called to other students peering from the windows and doorways to join them.

"Come on, you chickens," the demonstrating students shouted. "Dirty chickens," they yelled.

The students reportedly had been threatened with suspension if they took part in the demonstration. One brunette girl ran from the building and joined the demonstrating group. "Almost tears," she said.

"I couldn't get anyone else. They won't come out. I am so ashamed I could scream."

Another girl said many of her fellow students assured her, "We'll go. We'll go." But then they refused to walk out on the signal.

Avon Township Man Shot, Hospitalized

An Avon Township man was shot twice by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies and state troopers when he went berserk this morning and brandished a butcher knife at the Rochester Golf and Country Club.

Robert Baker, 39, of 372 Bendelow, a maintenance man at the country club, was shot in the right hand and right leg as he ran around the golf course with the knife and threatened approaching officers. He is in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Baker had been hospitalized previously as a mental patient and had been ill for the past three days, reports said. He suddenly went wild this morning and left his home in his pajamas, carrying the knife, deputies said.

His wife, Wilma, 36, notified the sheriff's department which sent a car, assisted by a state police car. She was also treated at Pontiac General for shock.

Call Jurors for Trial of Accused Red Spy

NEW YORK (U)—A panel of 125 prospective jurors was called into federal court in Brooklyn for today's start of the trial of Col. Rudolph Ivanovich Abel, alleged Soviet master spy.

Judge Mortimer W. Byers said he planned to impanel a jury and then await the pleasure of government and defense counsel for the presentation of their opening statements.

The defense sought unsuccessfully yesterday to get a stay of the trial from Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Manhattan.

James B. Donovan, court-appointed lawyer for Abel, 55-year-old member of the Soviet secret police, argued that he was not ready to present an adequate defense.

Abel, nabbed by the FBI after an extensive investigation, was indicted Aug. 7 on charges of conspiring to transmit U.S. defense secrets to Russia.

New York City Says Flu Epidemic There

NEW YORK (AP) — City officials say the expected Asian flu epidemic has arrived in New York, but thus far is mild and no cause for alarm.

Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, acting health commissioner, said yesterday: "The long-awaited epidemic of Asian flu has arrived. Large numbers of people are now being attacked by the Asian flu."

"The disease is behaving as anticipated. It is mild, the fever lasting about 48 hours. Many who have been stricken already have recovered."

Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools, estimated that "as high as 30 per cent of our 940,000 pupils are out. . . . The proportion of our 37,000 teachers is more than 8 per cent."

Mayor Robert F. Wagner's office said yesterday that 10,822 persons have applied at 15 hospitals for treatment of flu-like illness from 4 p.m. Friday until midnight Tuesday.

Judge Orders Him to Keep Flute Mute

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Robert L. Dietrich will have to keep his flute mute at home from now on. Dietrich, a flutist for the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, was piped into city court yesterday by neighbors who complained that Dietrich practiced three to five hours a day—playing the scale "up and down—never a tune."

Judge James B. McKenna invited Dietrich to blow in his own defense and listened carefully as Dietrich fingered a scale or two. "That," said the judge, "could drive a person insane."

The Gold Coast has found extensive limestone deposits in Kwahu and at Bonyeri.

Boy Learns Why He Had Sore Head

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — After two months of being a "sore-head" Gale Dean Singleton now knows why—he was shot. The 10-year-old Oklahoma City boy felt something "like a wasp sting" while playing in his front yard about Aug. 1. He fell to the ground and struck his head on the family pickup truck.

When the wound failed to heal properly the boy's parents took him to a physician, and were told to watch it closely. Weeks passed and the bump over his right eye still didn't go away, so the boy was taken to a physician again yesterday. The doctor probed the wound, and out popped a .22-caliber slug. Mrs. W. L. Singleton, the boy's mother, said she had no idea who fired the shot, adding that it apparently caused no serious damage.

Reds Don't Know It but Joe's Still Around

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The word may not have gotten around or something, but Joseph Stalin's picture is conspicuously evident on the freighter Alexander Nevsky of the Russian grain fleet which docked here this week. The picture of the former Soviet dictator, who seems to have fallen from favor of current Russian rulers, broods over the officers' dining saloon.

72,000 Stamps Added to National Collection

WASHINGTON — Nearly 72,000 specimens were added to the National Postage Stamp Collection in the Smithsonian Institution during the year ended June 30. The collection now numbers 1,178,737 stamps. Of the stamps acquired last year, 21,540 were received from the Internal Revenue Service.

India's Mineral Output Shows Large Increase

BOMBAY — India's mineral production last year was worth 10 per cent more than in 1955. This was largely due to an increase of 1-200,000 tons of coal to 39,400,000 tons. Other minerals, in order of importance, were: manganese, mica, gold, salt, iron, limestone, and copper.

Radio Spurs Growth

WASHINGTON — Agriculture researchers have found that bombardment of hard-shelled seeds with high-frequency radio waves speeds their germination. They say they've used the waves to "crack" the coatings of sugarbeet and alfalfa seeds and have found that it promotes quick and simultaneous sprouting and helps plants mature uniformly.

Harry James Wows Bavarians With Jazz

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Trumpeter Harry James and his orchestra came straight from Hollywood's Palladium to Munich's Deutsches Theater to make music for Bavarians instead of Californians. And the crowd loved it.

Until the wee hours of this morning, 2,400 fans filled the theater to capacity, stomped, whistled and clapped their hands in rhythm to "Goodie-Goody," "Lullaby of Broadway" and the "Two O'Clock Jump."

It was opening night for James' first European tour, which will take him to Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Belgium and France in the next three weeks.

Bottles May Be Cause of Some Forest Fires

Conservation people are wondering about an unsuspected fire threat in the woods.

They are studying empty bottles. Every child is familiar with the ancient practice of starting a fire by concentrating the rays of the sun through a glass medium. Magnifying glasses work perfectly. Every year there are many fires that defy explanation. Could these have been set by empty bottles which catch the sun's rays and focus them on a small point in dry grass?

This seems possible.

Of course, the lesson suggests that all campers must be careful about disposing of empty bottles, whether they hold milk, soft drinks, beer or other liquids. The original contents of the glass container are of no interest to Old Sol, who plays upon curved surfaces impartially.

Hunters and campers have been warned for years about breaking matches after they're lighted. Matches are still perhaps the greatest hazard, but science may have detected a new villain that has hitherto gone unchallenged.

Be careful of matches.
Be careful of empty bottles.
Be careful.

Don't Block Highways When Disasters Occur

A committee to study disasters named by the National Academy of Sciences and National Research Council has found that people who assemble at disaster sites seriously hinder the work of those who are trained to deal with such catastrophes.

The group cited as an example the tornado which struck White County, Ark., in 1952. For ten miles on either side of the scene cars were lined up bumper to bumper and four-fifths of the police force was needed simply to handle traffic.

We have seen how any disaster or accident, large or small, immediately will draw a crowd of persons, some desirous of helping, but most out of morbid curiosity.

If your help is not needed, a good rule to follow is to drive on in case of an accident. Don't block highways or park on the side. Unless you are trained in disaster relief work do your part by staying out of the way of those who are—the police, hospital workers, Red Cross and Civil Defense.

Imbalance of Trade Creates Dollar Gap

For the first time since 1952 there is a serious trend toward a dollar gap in world trade.

France has partially devalued the franc to make exports more attractive to foreign buyers. Great Britain has raised bank interest from five to seven per cent, the rate lending agencies have to pay the Bank of England. This means that money loaned to businesses, home buyers and others will cost even more.

There are many reasons for this predicament. The struggle in Algeria is costing the French plenty. Both France and Britain suffered because of Western Hemisphere oil purchases when the Suez Canal was closed. But inflation overshadows everything else.

While consumer prices in the United States have risen 20 per cent in 10 years, the cost of living in France increased 63 per cent and in Britain 38 per cent. Workers in both these countries have won wage increases not justified by productivity.

During the first half of this year American firms sold abroad goods worth $3.2 billion more than foreign firms sold in this country. The demand is enormous for American manufactured goods such as automobiles and machinery.

The months ahead may see a slowdown in sales of U.S. products abroad coupled with a stepped up program for sale of foreign made goods in this country. We can't continue to export on the present scale without buying more from dollar short countries. Healthy trade is a two way street.

The Man About Town A World Beater Delayed Frost, Gorgeous Weather Invites Reflection

Rainbow: What promises to soon have a strong competitor in our foliage.

One of my top weather historians, Howard Hallman, out on Pontiac Trail, tells me that only twice during the past 33 years has the first killing frost held off its icy breath in this area until after Oct. 1.

While in some sections of the Pontiac area there was a light frost a few nights ago, it generally was not severe enough to be listed in the "killing" category.

We also are in full agreement with Mr. Hallman in asking, "Did you ever see such gorgeous autumn days?" The whole world doesn't have a more magnificent area.

There's a big Pontiac angle in the life of Peter DeMet, who retired at 37. He couldn't endure the loafing and nearly went nuts. Three months later he took over a small Pontiac car agency in Chicago, which by the time he was 44 he built into one of the largest in the world. He also now has several other multi-million projects under way, but says he may retire again when he gets old—around 50.

A phone call from one of my scouts, whose opinions I highly value,

Horace Burnaby of Birmingham, says he had noticed that Eleanor Roosevelt feels that we must be more patient and listen carefully to Russia, and adds, "Somebody else did that at Yalta."

After having lived in Arkansas 27 years, Lee Beagle of 113 Tregeant St., disagrees with the recent statement in this column that the present difficulty has been smoldering for a long time.

The century-old habit of going to the country to gather hickory and other nuts now finds poor picking in the Pontiac area. According to Benson Gidley of Auburn Heights, and a number of others, the industrial and home building development of this part of the state has removed most of the trees.

David Lawrence Says:

Has Ike Succumbed to Advisers?

WASHINGTON — What has happened to divert President Eisenhower from his normal and natural course of conciliation? Has he succumbed to the influence of pettifoggery, if not politically minded, advisers?

These questions are being asked because of the extraordinary sequence of events on Tuesday evening of this week. For the breakdown that night of the efforts of four governors to bring about the withdrawal of federal military forces from Arkansas will stand forth as one of the most regrettable examples of how hair-splitting—not statesmanship—reigns today at the top level of government in Washington.

The President, through the four governors, had achieved a complete agreement at the White House on the wording of a statement to be issued by the Governor of Arkansas as a prerequisite to the withdrawal of federal troops from that state. Only two words were added afterwards by Governor Faubus, but those two words—"by me"—have become crucial in deciding whether a sovereign state should be continuously occupied by federal troops.

"NEVER INTENDED TO" The two words can be best understood by noting that Governor Faubus said at the outset of his statement that "it has never been my intention to obstruct the orders of the federal courts, that the orders of the federal courts will not be obstructed by me, and that I am prepared, as I have always been, to assume full responsibility for maintaining law and order in Little Rock."

While the foregoing was a statement of the governor's position as he saw it, the important part was in this further declaration on his part:

"I now declare that upon withdrawal of the federal troops, I will again assume full responsibility, in cooperation with local authorities, for the maintenance of law and order, and that the orders of the federal courts will not be obstructed by me."

Everything in the preceding paragraph had been approved by both sides except that the governor, before actually issuing the agreed-upon statement, added the words "by me." This caused the misunderstanding. The White House advisers suspiciously construed this to mean not merely that the governor himself would not obstruct the federal court orders, but that he was perhaps encouraging other citizens in Arkansas to obstruct them.

ASSISTING MARSHALS But how, as a practical matter, can the governor of Arkansas guarantee the behavior of every citizen of his state? All he can do is to promise to maintain law and order, and this means assisting the marshals and deputy marshals of the federal courts in going about their legal business in an orderly way.

Since Governor Faubus is personally already under a federal court injunction to obey the federal court order—not to interfere with the integration process at Central High School—he felt it necessary to reiterate on Tuesday evening his personal as well as his official pledge to abide by the "civil process" of the courts.

When the governor declares that he "will assume full responsibility, in cooperation with local authorities, for the maintenance of law and order," it means that he pledges to do his best to curb violence and see to it that the federal marshals are not impeded in their normal pursuits of carrying out their functions against those who resist arrest or refuse to obey court orders.

What other possible guarantee could the governor of Arkansas have given? He might have said that he and "the government of the State of Arkansas" will maintain law and order and that he and "the government of the State of Arkansas" would not "obstruct" any federal court order.

But isn't this what is meant when he declares that, as governor, he "will assume full responsibility, in cooperation with local authorities, for the maintenance of law and order"? Maybe the governor will still add those words now for the sake of clarity.

The spectacle of a president refusing to withdraw federal military forces from a state—where no martial law had been declared—and demanding as the price of withdrawal an abdication by the governor of his responsibility under the state constitution to maintain law and order in the manner he (the governor) thinks most effective, is a sad chapter in American history.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Blame Namby-Pamby Diet for Ridged, Brittle Nails

Growth of the nails, like growth of the skin as in the healing of wound or ulcer, proceeds at a rate which depends on the state of nutrition.

Most Americans get the bulk of their daily calories directly or indirectly from what I call cheat-food, or what more polite nutrition authorities call inadequate food—meaning the stuff has been deprived of most of the vitamins and minerals before the food barons consider it pure and refined enough for the mamby-pamby Yankee digestion.

In other words, refined white flour and refined white sugar yield most of the calories in the everyday diet of most Americans. So we hold these two high-calorie food staples, which keep so well that they may be shipped anywhere and stored indefinitely, mainly responsible for the national malnutrition.

A diet of refined white sugar and/or refined white flour will not keep animal or man alive as long as a diet of sugar cane or beet and/or wheat.

If by any chance you come across crude brown or "natural" sugar in the market, you'll be stymied by a trick notice stamped on the bag, to the effect that it is suitable for animal feed. That is not to say it is unfit for human consumption, but after all, suppose the clerk asked what kind of animals at your house?

SHOWS IN NAILS If your nails do not grow as fast as they should—it takes three to four months for the nails to grow their full length normally—or if they are brittle, ridged, pitted, it isn't just the damage done by the hideous "polish."

The trouble is malnutrition and if you hope to regain a state of good nutrition you'll have to cut out most of the cheat foods on which you worry along at present.

In the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks, sent on signed written request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope, I tell how to supplement your ordinary vitamin and mineral deficient diet to combat malnutrition evidenced by poor nails.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Bill's case shows that a new mental outlook can often do more than shock therapy or drugs in restoring sanity and self-confidence. And if you have defective youngsters, don't become so overly sympathetic with them that you fall in your duties to the normal youngsters in your home.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-310: Bill Q., aged 35, is the father of the defective son described yesterday.

Bill had been tortured by a sense of guilt because he had an affair with another woman during his wife's pregnancy. He didn't confess this to his wife.

So Bill has gone into a mental collapse with his secret fears and guilt sensations, for he feels that God has struck back at him, although in an indirect fashion, by giving him this feeble-minded child.

"Dr. Crane, nobody in my family has ever been feeble-minded," Bill protested miserably. "And the same is true of my wife's relatives."

"So how could we have a defective baby unless it were God punishing me for my sin with that other woman?"

Well, there are many ways in which defective offspring can develop, even though both family lines are of good stock and eugenically spotless.

All embryos are very susceptible to minute damage. For example, when a chicken egg is being incubated, it requires only a very tiny effect to produce a defective chick.

During incubation, therefore, if

Readers Discuss Bus Problem

When will residents of Waterford wake up? How many children will be killed or injured? Will one be your little one? Parents have been fighting over two weeks to get every child on school buses until adequate walking facilities are provided.

Buses are still being driven with little or no load, while youngsters clog the highways to and from school. Many roads aren't safe for adults, let alone children. We know these buses are being run inefficiently. If each bus were fully utilized, 4,200 children could ride to school in safety.

Wake up now while you can. Next week or next month the damage may be done, and death may claim your little one while you wait to see what happens. We want every child in Waterford on a school bus until adequate walking facilities are provided for all.

'Let's Settle It, Then Drop It'

As soon as this Arkansas situation is resolved, I hope all the newspapers drop the subject and start printing something else.

It is an unfortunate episode and does definite harm to the State of Arkansas and even more harm to the United States in the eyes of the world.

The Russians are capitalizing to the fullest extent on this Little Rock mess and on Faubus' actions and proclamations. We are having our name dragged through the slime and mud and for once the Reds have facts to cite. Our shame is broadcast in capital letters to all other peoples and we are painted as villains.

We've set up as a nation that denies equal justice to all, one that runs a high handed autocracy. Let's end the mess and try and have the subject dropped as a daily event for national and world discussion.

We'll be years winning back the ground we have lost since Arkansas went berserk.

'What Happened to Group Money?'

Since re-organization in 1954, what has happened to the Oakland County Animal Welfare Society? According to a state official, the society's charter was revoked in February of 1956 for refusal to file the compulsory annual financial report.

Since selling the shelter to the County to be used as a dog pound, the society has been inactive, in fact, unknown. What has happened to the many thousands of dollars left to the Society from the Stevens Estate and the sale of the shelter?

'Sick of Hearing About France'

Why doesn't some country annex France and use it for the only thing it's good for—a tourist attraction? The foolish pretense at government that's been going on for years would work better if they would just draw straws. I'm sick of hearing about it.

Defective Children No One's Fault

Bill's case shows that a new mental outlook can often do more than shock therapy or drugs in restoring sanity and self-confidence. And if you have defective youngsters, don't become so overly sympathetic with them that you fall in your duties to the normal youngsters in your home.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-310: Bill Q., aged 35, is the father of the defective son described yesterday.

Bill had been tortured by a sense of guilt because he had an affair with another woman during his wife's pregnancy. He didn't confess this to his wife.

So Bill has gone into a mental collapse with his secret fears and guilt sensations, for he feels that God has struck back at him, although in an indirect fashion, by giving him this feeble-minded child.

"Dr. Crane, nobody in my family has ever been feeble-minded," Bill protested miserably. "And the same is true of my wife's relatives."

"So how could we have a defective baby unless it were God punishing me for my sin with that other woman?"

Well, there are many ways in which defective offspring can develop, even though both family lines are of good stock and eugenically spotless.

All embryos are very susceptible to minute damage. For example, when a chicken egg is being incubated, it requires only a very tiny effect to produce a defective chick.

During incubation, therefore, if you will chip off a small piece of the egg shell, and then insert a tiny needle to the spot where the eyebuds are forming, you may later get a chicken that has a monstrous eye.

Not only will the physical point of the needle do this, but an almost negligible bit of acid will likewise lead to similar deformity.

Among human infants, the same type of thing can happen. Although the unborn human baby is pretty well protected from physical accidents, it is possible that chemical conditions of the mother at critical stages of the embryo's development, may account for defects.

For example, if the pregnant mother contracts measles during the early months of pregnancy, we often find the baby born with a defect such as deafness.

And a cigarette-smoking pregnant woman may likewise have a higher likelihood of defective babies, perhaps because of the dangerous effect of nicotine or other chemicals absorbed from the smoke.

Remember, too, that the amount of chemical that wouldn't faze a tough adult, may be quite adequate to produce a monstrosity in the delicate human embryo.

FACE THE FACTS "It is unfair to pass the buck," I warned Bill, "and thus try to blame God Almighty, just because you are one of thousands of parents who happen to receive defective children."

Then I advised Bill to get his guilt off his chest by confessing to his wife, so he could feel free thereafter from his secret sin.

After that, I urged both of them to get a new outlook on the sexual side of marriage, for Bill's wife had been rather prudish and thus had indirectly been responsible for driving her husband to seek affection elsewhere.

Millions of apparently virtuous wives are thus guilty of "sins of omission," and by their failure to do their proper part, thus predispose their homes to the threat of divorce.

Then I reassured both of them that although children may be injured by disease germs and by harmful chemicals, as well as deficiencies of chemicals, such as thyroid, iodine, etc. we have absolutely no scientific evidence to support the superstitious belief that a guilt sensation on the part of a parent, will produce a defective child.

Moreover, I warned them not to let undue sympathy for the defective child, blind them to their obligations to their older son.

So Bill became active in the Boy Scouts and the family began to attend Sunday school together.

For further advice on the core of this problem, send for my booklet "Sex-Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 10c stamp, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Too Lenient Restoration of Driving Licenses Cited

LANSING (AP) — The State Safety Commission chairman questions whether some judges are being too lenient in restoring driving privileges to motorists whose licenses have been suspended or revoked.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said that if this is so, the reason may be lack of information on prior traffic convictions. He mentioned no names.

Hare told the State Safety Commission at its regular monthly meeting yesterday that he had no desire to "interfere with general judicial practices."

CITES CASE

But he cited cases that he said troubled him and his staff.

In one, a woman with 49 traffic court convictions had her license restored without regard to a Department of State recommendation that she be given a clinical test before action was taken on her appeal.

In another case, a man with six drunk driving convictions got his license back last March 6, about 18 months after his latest conviction.

In a third, a motorist was convicted of drunk driving three times between 1950 and 1956, in each instance receiving renewed driving privileges within about a year.

Hare said the department thinking was that privileges in such circumstances should be withheld about two years.

Hare said that 612 administrative suspensions or revocations were taken to court on appeal last year, and that in about three-fourths of the cases penalties were eased or lifted altogether.

This experience, he said, was "out of line" with neighboring states, including Illinois and Wisconsin.

Hare said that although representatives of his office were present in court on all appeals the driving record information they brought with them often failed to come before the judge.

He said it was the practice to turn it over to the prosecutor, feeling that it was his duty to make such use of it as he saw fit after department representatives drew his attention to salient points.

The commission was told that provisional state police records for September showed 109 traffic fatalities in the state compared with a firm figure of 169 in September, 1956.

TRAFFIC DEATHS DOWN

Capt. Shirley Curtis reported that deaths for the first nine months of the year totaled 1,085, as against 1,300 for the first three quarters of 1956, a reduction of 215.

Plans were outlined for observance of Nov. 17 as Safety Sunday, a project backed by a statewide committee including Jewish, Catholic and Protestant clergy.

Gerald Shipman, commission executive secretary, said "We want to get it across that its just as dishonest to steal through a red light as it is to steal a dollar."

Red Tide Kills Over Big Area

Plague Spreads North to New Site; Rain Holds Spray Planes Grounded

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (U)—The threat of the fish-killing red tide is getting more serious.

The total number of fish estimated killed over an area of 20 square miles is more than six million.

The plague has spread northward to a new area, off the Indian Rocks Beach.

The count of the red tide organism — Gymnodinium brevis — is approaching the danger point in the Sarasota area.

The St. Petersburg beaches can expect many more carcasses to come ashore from the masses of dead fish in the Gulf of Mexico.

"The weather dealt us a heavy blow yesterday," John Evans of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said. Rain and wind grounded spray planes just when results were beginning to show from the dusting with copper sulphate.

A method of dusting with the spray from a surface craft was devised and plans were made to spray the worst areas today.

When Gymnodinium brevis multiplies to great numbers it turns the water muddy red and poisons fish. Scientists still are trying to determine just what causes the increase.

Pacific Fable Says Don't Stow Thrones

PAPUA—Some old timers in Port Moresby are reviving a story about the chief of Trobriand Island, east of Papua.

It seems the chief got hold of a mail order catalogue and saw some thrones for sale.

He sent for one and used it to sit on when his subjects sought audiences with him. Tiring of it after awhile, however, he stowed it away in the rafters of his house.

Years passed, then one day a mighty earthquake caused the throne to topple out of the rafters, hitting the chief on the head and killing him. Moral of this story—the old timers say—is that not only is almost anything obtainable from the mail order catalog but that people in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

Hal Boyle Says:

Ex-Soda Jerk May Influence Hollywood

NEW YORK (U)—Hollywood may be dismayed to learn that an ex-soda jerk here has made a full length movie for only $25,000.

"As a matter of fact, it cost me only $5,000 to turn out the film itself," said Everett Chambers. "The rest went for music, sound, and other expenses."

The film, "A Run Across the River," is the culmination of a four-year dream and a long uphill fight for its 31-year-old producer, who has a crew cut and looks like an Ivy League college instructor. A spy chase melodrama, filmed in semi-documentary style and featuring Greenwich Village backgrounds, it is now being shown to exhibitors.

"I don't expect it to rival 'Gone With the Wind,'" said Chambers cheerfully. "But I think it's a pretty fair 'B' grade picture—at least as good as 'I was a Teen-Age Werewolf.'"

Behind his unusual effort is an unusual story.

Chambers, a native of Los Angeles, came here in 1949 and got a $52 a week job dishing up sandwiches in a midtown ice cream parlor. He also met and married there a hostess named Joan.

After a few acting jobs, Chambers worked his way up to a post as one of TV's top casting directors. But he saw the handwriting on the wall when live TV shows began to be replaced by film productions.

Chambers decided he had to change with the times.

"It doesn't make much sense," he said, "but you can win more of a reputation by turning out one feature length picture, good or bad, than you can by producing any number of good hour-long TV shows."

WORK ON PROMISES

Chambers persuaded a friend, Lee Gillett, 29, to write a movie script (his first one) for the promise of a share of the profits, if any. He got a dozen actors to

Pilot Radios to Tower for Stewardess' Skirt

HONOLULU (U)—Honolulu airport officials received this communication from one of their pilots coming in on a flight from another island:

"Request have black skirt ready at ramp for stewardess."

The explanation: A passenger spilled pineapple juice all over the stewardess' uniform skirt. She borrowed a pair of pedal pushers from a passenger, and carried on.

The pilot held the damp skirt out the window so it would dry quickly. It blew right out of his hand.

take roles on the same basis. The same with the cameraman.

But he still had to have some cash. Yet who would put up any real money for such a shoestring answer. The answer was easy. Nobody. Chambers, in a blue funk, was about to abandon the project when his wife suggested:

"Why don't we call up everybody we know, and ask them to put in $200 each? That will appeal to everybody, and nobody can get hurt bad."

"We got on the phone at once," said Chambers, "and in two weeks raised $5,000. Then a friend in the garment industry chipped in $7,500—and we were off."

ASSORTED BACKERS

Among Chambers' backers are his mother, his doctor, an usher, a Chinese bartender, a policeman's widow, a teacher, a secretary, and a delicatessen counterwoman—surely the most oddly assorted group ever to invest in a movie.

No salaries have been paid yet to actors, author, cameraman or technicians. Scenery and background were borrowed. Greenwich Village friends loaned their apartments for interior shots.

Chambers figures that if he can sell the picture for $100,000 all his investors will get their money back and all salaries will be paid. That will leave him nothing for himself.

Reuther Out of Step in His New Demand

By MERRYLE STANLEY
BUCKETSEER

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, will be out of step with reality if he implements in 1958 negotiations with the motor manufacturers his reported desire to achieve a four-day work week, presumably at the rate of pay now prevailing for five days of employment.

The untimeliness of the proposed innovation is not merely related to the short term inflation and rise over the last 12 successive months in consumer prices because it would further inflate unit costs of production, but it is also out of tune with longer range population trends.

The great public need, in light of sociological realities, is to get more productivity out of the vast middle age groups who are shrinking relatively to the total population which is expanding at both ends.

Thus, unless through labor-aiding machinery and mechanization, industry lifts the per man-tool productivity per hour, living standards will suffer from a greater rise in the number of consumers than of producers.

Without direct reference to Reuther or to the upcoming labor negotiations in the spring of 1958, L. L. (Tex) Colbert, president of the Chrysler Corporation, at the recent Miami Beach press preview of new models spelled out the arithmetic of the prospective population formation.

"Between 1955 and 1965," Colbert declared, "the number of people between 25 and 44 will actually decrease while the population as a whole is increasing by 25 million (persons)."

"The population is growing fast at both ends and shrinking in the middle; and it will be at least seven years before this condition begins to correct itself."

FEWER PRODUCE
"In the meantime, proportionately fewer people will have to produce more efficiently to provide more goods and services for many more people."

Putting the coming situation in more generalized focus, the business executive commented:

"One of the conditions contributing to the pressure of inflation is the lack of balance between the size of the total population and the size of the working force."

"The Census Bureau has said that in the decade ending in 1965 our total population will increase by more than 15 per cent while the population of working age will increase by only a little more than half as much."

UTILIZE MEN
Thus, if we are to fulfill the promise of better living in the coming decade, then it will be necessary to utilize the productive manpower in the middle population group more effectively than ever, and to expand their productivity through better tools of production and greatly stepped up supplemental mechanical energy—(Kilowatts of electricity).

This means not only getting sufficient man-hours of work per week without artificial and untimely drastic shortening of the work week, but also heavy investment in additional industrial tools and electric generating equipment.

Under our competitive economic society, the public interest requires years of profitable high level economic activity, so, that, out of profit, prudent management can accumulate funds in the form of corporate savings for the financing of this program of spectacular improvement in the quantity and quality of industrial tools.

PLAN FOR FAILURE
If this analysis of the shape of things to come makes sense, then the reported program of Reuther is—wittingly or otherwise—a blueprint for frustration and national failure.

For, if advance feelers can be believed, Reuther has been considering plunging for shorter hours during the coming seven years of a critical prospective shortage in the worker age group.

Apparently some one must have alerted Reuther to the nature of this monumental blunder of bad timing. Accordingly, late in the summer the labor official reversed his cost-raising approach, proposing that, if the manufacturers lopped off $100-on-the-price of new cars, his union would take cognizance in making new bargaining demands.

FORMAT BAD
Such a proposal, outside of being bad format in taking from management its responsibility for pricing its products, is equally out of step. For, if the price reduction were taken out of profit and if it eliminated or drastically reduced net profit, the effect would not only be to weaken the industry, but specifically it would impair the socially useful ability of leaders of the automobile industry to accumulate a substantial portion of prospective profits as corporate savings or retained earnings as a fund to help finance the acquisition of urgently needed industrial tools.

Even if the human element in manufacturing is static during the next seven years—and its work week is not shortened—it will be relatively too small to achieve goals of improved living standards, unless supplemented by a spectacular upturn in the quantity and quality of labor-aiding tools of production.

Reuther has put himself and his followers out on two limbs.

Civil War Photographs Revealing

THE GREATEST — Mathew Brady, best of the Civil War photographers, whose work sets the picture pace for the new five-volume edition of "Photographic History of the Civil War."

By ROBERT D. PRICE
NEW YORK (AP) — In 1911, the American Review of Reviews published the monumental 10-volume "Photographic History of the Civil War." It was issued in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the war.

Now, with the war's centennial in the offing, the "Photographic History" has been republished, by Thomas Yoseloff, to give the present generation new insight into the character of our national conflict.

The "Photographic History" was a sensation when it was first published, with its 3,500 pages and nearly 4,000 photographs. With the equally famous "Battles and Leaders," also republished recently, it became the keystone of Civil War research.

At the time of original publication, Editor Francis Trevelyan Miller commented upon a lack of popular interest "in his remarkable war." He recognized the multiple and unique attractions of "this strange crisis in civilization," and would ascribe the public apathy to it only to the fact that "this is not a military nation... The great heart of American citizenship knows little of military maneuver."

Miller would have no reason to complain today. The current enthusiasm for Civil War matters challenges understanding. In an introduction to the new edition of "Photographic History," Henry Steele Commager calls it "one of the arresting intellectual phenomena of our time."

The new edition is in five volumes of the original work. The pages of the original work. The pages have been reproduced by the photo offset process from the original; the Commager introduction is the only new material. Some of the photographs evidence a certain graininess, with consequent marring of quality, but it is not serious enough to impair their attraction or to detract from our admiration for the cameramen.

The justly famed Mathew Brady was, of course, the greatest. His work set the pace. But there were many others who made substantial contributions to this vast picture record—Alexander Gardner; Capt. A. J. Russell, official photographer for the War Dept.; Sam

Cooley, George Barnard, and a surprising output from the Confederate side, including a series taken by A.D. Lytle for the Confederate secret service. In effect, Lytle was a pioneer in espionage by camera. Photograph was an infant profession in the 1860s. Skilled through the cameramen were, ingenious as they might be in getting maximum results with their primitive equipment, their art was not yet capable of photographing motion. Thus, we do not get closer to actual battle than the vagrant mist of an exploding shell. Perhaps it was just as well. The inability to photograph front line action led Brady and his contemporaries to concentrate on what Commager calls "the house-keeping details"—how the armies moved and lived, their weapons, fortifications, prisons and hospitals—an enduring record which brings us closer to an understanding of the character of the war and the men who fought it than could possibly have been otherwise achieved.

Junior Editors Quiz on ICE CREAM

QUESTION: In what year was the ice cream cone born?

ANSWER: The ice cream cone made an appearance in 1904, at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis. Since then, it has become an American custom. Ice cream was first served in this country by Dolly Madison, at a White House dinner in 1809. For many years the frozen food was prepared only by expert chefs for special occasions. Then in 1851 an ice cream factory was set up in Baltimore. It took time for everyone to become accustomed to the strange dessert, but now it's a rare child—and maybe grown-up too—who doesn't like ice cream almost more than any other dessert.

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask your mother if you may have an ice cream cone. But don't drip it on your clothes.

(A $10 award goes to Carolyn Bonggren, East Lansing, Mich., for this question. Send yours to Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures, in care of this paper. TOMORROW: Who was the only Indian vice president of the United States?)

Canals Are Ash Deposits

Fall-Out Bothers Martians —Volcanic, Not Atomic

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Dusty fall-out probably bothers the inhabitants on Mars too, a University of Michigan stargazer said.

But unlike here on earth, the fall-out isn't atomic in nature, Astronomy Prof. Dean B. McLaughlin said. It's volcanic.

"Extensive dark gray areas and some of the canals on Mars may be the result of ash falls to the leeward of volcanoes that erupted violently and then remained quiet for many years afterward, so that the red dust from the deserts drifted over and obliterated temporary markings," said McLaughlin.

"The amount of ash required to make these features is no greater than that produced by a full-scale eruption of Vesuvius, provided the winds distribute it far enough."

McLaughlin said astronomers at one time believed narrow stripes spotted on Mars through earthman telescopes were artificial canals for irrigation.

"Mars was pictured as a drying and dying planet whose inhabitants were having a hard struggle to conserve their scanty moisture," he said. "Hence these vast planet-wide WPA projects had been constructed."

McLaughlin refutes that with his volcanic theory.

"Apparently the wish to discover beings like ourselves on other planets is stronger than regard for fact," he said.

McLaughlin said there is reason to believe that Mars is just now beginning to support life. But whether there will be honest-to-goodness Martians someday is problematical.

"Instead of being an older planet than earth as the old superstition claimed," McLaughlin said, "it may be just now going through a stage of development through which the earth passed three million years ago. If this is so, perhaps the evolution of higher types of life belong to Mars' future."

American Spending in Europe Climbs

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department reports that expenditures of Americans traveling abroad show that Europe has become the principal foreign travel market.

Expenditures there by American travelers rose to $473,000,000, in 1956, an increase of $43,000,000, or 10 per cent, over 1955. Expenditures in Canada and Mexico were about 16 per cent higher.

Medicinal Drink Resulted in Lies, Attorney Pleads

TULSA, Okla., (AP) — Attorneys cited a novel reason for dry Oklahoma in asking a Federal District Court here to dismiss 10 counts of a perjury indictment filed Sept. 13 by a federal grand jury against their client.

Mayberry, 49, Dewey, Okla., imbibed half a pint of liquor on a doctor's orders to relieve pain caused by a disease in his left leg. The motion for dismissal said this action resulted in Mayberry's "mental faculties being somewhat affected" when he appeared before the jury.

Mayberry is scheduled to go on trial next Thursday. No date was set for hearing on the motion.

Many Haitians Demand Visas

Residents Fear Negro Republic Stands at Brink of Civil War

PORT AU PRINCE, HAITI (AP) — Hundreds of Haitians are clamoring for visas to the United States, fearing this Negro republic is at the brink of civil war.

Many even urge publicly that the U.S. Marines return to maintain order. The Marines occupied Haiti from 1915 to 1934.

The ceaseless political warfare that has unseated six governments on this Caribbean island since December has nearly paralyzed the economy.

Tourist hotels are all but deserted. Many businessmen are trying to sell out and leave.

The military junta in power since last June hopes for quick economic aid from the United States. Business leaders see little hope from this quarter, however, in view of the political turbulence.

The presidential election Sept. 22 only made matters worse. Dr. Francois Duvalier won the presidency on the basis of unofficial returns. Former Sen. Louis Djoie, the defeated candidate, charged the election was a fraud. His backers vow blood will flow once more in the streets if Duvalier takes over the presidency Oct. 14, as expected.

1960 Presidential Race in Background

Knowland to Announce Decision Today on Running for Governor of California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sen. William F. Knowland gives his decision at a news conference today on running for governor of California next year in an election with overtones of the 1960 Republican presidential race.

Everyone guessed he'd battle Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the June 3 primary. He has just completed a six-week grass roots tour of the state.

President Eisenhower's name was brought into the campaign yesterday when Knowland released a "Dear Bill" letter praising the Californian for "stalwart leadership" of the Republican minority during the last session of Congress.

Knowland offered the letter, dated Sept. 11, in answer to Knight's assertion that "it is generally known throughout the country that the senator on many occasions has opposed the President, particularly in the field of foreign relations."

Knowland, who has differed with the administration notably on China policy, told a Vallejo news conference that figures compiled in Washington show he voted 83 per cent in support of the President. He accused Knight of trying to create a false issue.

All the early maneuvering looks ahead to a primary that will eliminate one of the three principals involved in a continuing struggle for state GOP control.

The third Republican figure in Vice President Nixon, and at stake is the second largest vote of the California delegation at the party's 1960 nomination convention.

Knowland, first appointed to the Senate in 1945 by former Gov. Earl Warren, has said "I have made no deal" or reached any understanding with Nixon based on any support in the state race.

Knight indicated, in announcing his candidacy for re-election Aug. 19, that Knowland's supposed presidential ambitions would be a key issue in his campaign. Obviously beamed at Knowland, he spoke out against using the state office as a pawn in the maneuvering for the White House.

"The record shows," Knowland replied, "I have never used any public office as a pawn."

Teenagers Find It's Hard to Make Missiles Fly

HOLLOMAN AIR DEVELOPMENT CENTER, N. M. (INS)

The homemade product of two 17-year-old missile makers failed to leave the launching site at Holloman Air Development Center and an Air Force officer told the boys: "The first missile is always the hardest."

For Bradley Glover and Clifford Ramsey, both of Tulsa, Okla., the recent firing of their nine-foot-long rocket with a diameter of 11 inches was a big disappointment.

The youths had worked three years on the missile and spent $1,000 of their own cash. Air Force rocket experts helped the teenagers prepare their product for firing in the middle of the Holloman test range.

It belched a brilliant, amber-colored flame but did not take off although theoretically it might have reached 20,000 feet and attained a speed of 1,000 feet per second.

Airless Balloon American Moon

Won't Go Off Course if It Gets Punctured by Meteorite

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE, AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A balloon without air will be one of the American moons whirling through space.

Lack of air will prevent it from acting like a jet rocket and going off course if it gets punctured by a meteorite.

Blow up an ordinary balloon, let go of it suddenly by its neck, and you get the idea. Air escaping through the open neck exerts equal pressure on the inside and the balloon goes skittering across the room. That's the jet principle. —This can't happen to our space balloon because there won't be any gas-pressure inside it which can rush out after a shooting star punctures it. It won't go pop either.

Details of this hollow balloon moon were described today to a special conference of the International Geophysical Year by William J. O'Sullivan Jr. of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The balloon will be made of ultrathin plastic film and aluminum foil. Compactly folded, it will be fitted into the top of a moon-launching rocket.

Some 300 miles above the earth, the rocket releases a metal moon for studies of magnetism. It also pushes out the folded balloon and trips a little tank to inflate it with compressed nitrogen gas.

For a while, the balloon may follow closely the heavier but smaller metal moon. Then drag or resistance from even the very thin air in space will slow it down.

Careful observations of how much and how quickly it slows down and spirals to earth will give invaluable clues to the density of air 300 to 1,500 miles out in space.

Crewmen aboard U. S. Coast Guard lightships get little sleep during foggy weather. The fog horns vibrate the ship so much that sailors can hardly hold themselves in their bunks.

DIANE E. DAILEY

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dailey of Orchard Lake have announced the engagement of their daughter, Diane Eleanor, to Frederick Anthony Graczyk of Detroit.

The bride-elect attended Denison University and is now at Michigan State University, where she and her fiancé are both seniors. No wedding date has been set by the couple.

ELEANOR McMULLEN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMullen of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to James Richard Blumenschein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Blumenschein of Holly. A summer wedding is planned.

'Dog's Life' Looking Up in Ferndale

FERNDAL (INS) — Ferndale City Commissioners have begun action on an ordinance to improve conditions for Fido.

To make a "dog's life" more pleasant, the ordinance would make it unlawful to mistreat a dog; require owners to provide a shaded area for Fido during the summer; make owners maintain clean yards and quarters for Fido and require owners to provide sufficient food and water.

Holly Council to Close Dump to General Public

HOLLY — As of Nov. 1, the Holly dump will be closed to the general public. The action has been taken by the village council here after long contemplation on the solving of indiscriminate use of the dump grounds. Use will be limited to commercial haulers authorized by the village, members stated.

The council here also has passed an ordinance to provide for "orderly growth and harmonious development of the community." Under it would come the regulation of subdivisions and coordination of street systems.

Bushel Remains U.S. Unit for Measuring Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The traditional bushel will continue to be the measuring unit of the government for measuring grains handled under its price support program.

The Agriculture Department announced yesterday that it has abandoned for the time being a proposal that it shift to the hundredweight. Advocates had contended the latter unit would simplify bookkeeping and reduce government costs.

Sharp opposition was voiced by the grain storage industry.

Area Band Slated

KEEGO HARBOR — Forty-eight members of the West Bloomfield High School marching band will take part in the half-time activities of the Michigan - Georgia football game in Ann Arbor on Saturday.

The band, directed by R. J. Pfeuffer, and the Dreyer sisters, serving as majorettes, have been preparing for their performance for about four weeks. It will be the first appearance of the band at Ann Arbor.

County Man Remodels Ancient Weapon

Develops Missile Arrow

CADILLAC (AP) — The ancient arrow is getting a remodeling in a small Michigan factory, a modernizing job that puts scattergun fire power in the hands of the archer.

Modern machinery and science turned out the steel arrowhead and the wooden shaft to give the twentieth century bow and arrow hunter a chance for accuracy undreamed of by the legendary American Indian.

This time the ingenuity, provided by Alex Martin of Royal Oak, an industrial designer with only a passing interest in archery, has developed what he calls a shotgun arrow.

Any resemblance to a red-skin's arrow is only slightly more than coincidence.

Instead of an arrowhead designed to zip through the air and puncture the hide of an animal or the feathers of a bird, the shotgun arrow has an aluminum tube about four inches long and one inch in diameter.

MULTI-POINTED TIP
Inside this container is a collection of needle-like steel missiles. The bundle makes a multi-pointed tip on the arrow.

At the back of the arrow, instead of the usual sleek fins to guide it true to its course, is what archers call a flu-flu — a pom-pom of feathers that will brake the flight of the arrow.

When the arrow is shot, the pom-pom of feathers slows the arrow's flight. This enables the missiles in the front of the arrow literally to outrun the arrow.

The three-inch missiles, on their own in front of the arrow, spread into a wicked blanket of steel projectiles.

At 20 yards they penetrate to cover about 18 inches. At 30 yards they penetrate about three-eighths of an inch in solid wood.

The advantage is obvious. A bird in flight or a rabbit on the run no longer is a hopeless target for an archer. The weapon is effective on small game at ranges up to 40 yards. It is not recommended for big game because the needle will penetrate, causing internal bleeding and a slow death.

NOT AN ARCHER

Martin designed the shotgun arrow while he was living at Traverse City and doing design work for Kenneth Uptegraft's Marine Hardware Manufacturing Co., at Cadillac.

Although he is not an archer, even of the Sunday-afternoon target variety, he worked out his plan and took it to Uptegraft.

Uptegraft, an enthusiastic archer for about 15 of his 34 years, jumped at the idea. He converted his small plant—five employees, plus himself—and the shotgun arrow went into production.

The first pilot run of 2,000 sold out quickly, through direct mail advertising.

Now they are getting set for full production. They have ordered 250,000 steel missiles from a New Jersey firm and are prepared to turn out 500 shotgun arrows a day.

Uptegraft says he is almost completely clear of any legal barriers to his product. Only five states are specific in their hunting and — since the shotgun arrow is new — it did not get specific mention. He hopes to overcome the drawback in those five states through legislation sponsored by archery clubs.

The firm is manufacturing and marketing the cedar-shaft arrow, aluminum tube replacements in case of breakage, and missiles, which for the most part must be counted as lost when shot.

Huron-Thorpe Corner Rezoned

Planning Board Moves to Permit Expansion of Shell Station

Approved by the City Planning Commission at their regular monthly meeting last night was the rezoning to Commercial 1 of three lots at the northeast corner of West Huron and Thorpe streets.

The rezoning was requested by the Shell Oil Co. in order that an existing gas station there might be expanded and improved. The city's non-conforming rule prohibited such a change under the old Residential 2 zoning.

At the same time, planners turned down a proposal of city commissioners that the remaining four lots on West Huron east of Lincoln also be changed to commercial. They felt the lots shouldn't be opened up to all of the permissible uses under C-1 zoning. Henry C. Smith, commission secretary explained.

They forwarded a suggestion to the City Commission that these four lots might be zoned to the city's personal service district.

Planning commissioners last evening also forwarded to the city manager their proposed boundaries for Pontiac's civic center. Roughly, the area is bounded by East Pike on the north, Perry on the west, Auburn on the south, and a line running parallel to Hill street on the east.

Other action taken included: Approval of rezoning 249 Auburn Ave. from Residential 2 to Commercial 1.

Denial of a request from the Palmer-Becker Cigar Co. for a 17-foot alley right-of-way off Cooley street.

Calling a public hearing Nov. 6 on a proposal that the east side of Oakland avenue between Lounsbury and Northview be rezoned from R-2 to C-1.

The second meeting, on Oct. 20, will feature the subject, "Ethics in Business." Speaker and resource person will be Mark D. Littler, resident partner of Arthur Anderson and Co., certified public accountants.

The programs afford young adults in this area an opportunity to think, discuss, listen, and to decide for themselves what stand they, as Christians should take on some of the most vital issues of our time. All young adults have been invited.

All sessions are held in the Parish House at 8 p.m.

BOA FOR PLAYMATE — Sixteen-month-old Lanny Bastianson plays with his favorite little pet, a six-foot Mexican boa constrictor affectionately called "Bertha." The reptile reached Minnesota in a banana shipment to St. Paul. Mrs. B. J. Broderick there raised it from 27 inches long, recently selling it to Lanny's dad, Orlando Bastianson, of Austin. The new owner says the snake, which will some day be 28 feet long, is generally kept in a glass cage. He added that Lanny cries when he can't play with Bertha.

Weird Rites Mark Village

Inhabitants of Nile Town Creep Out After Dark to Conjure Spirits

CAIRO (U)—After darkness falls on the Nile Delta, inhabitants of a weird village near Cairo creep out of their mud huts and gather round an old man who unrolls a sheet of ancient Egyptian papyrus.

From the sheet he reads ancient incantations — the key to contact with the world of the "jinn," those shadowy beings who hover between the natural and the supernatural.

This is the village of Aghour Alward, the seat of rites which the inhabitants say date back thousands of years.

An Egyptian ill with a mysterious disease, a man who wants to make a beautiful girl love him, a husband from going out too often at night—all these go to Aghour Alward. They see one of the magicians, pay the equivalent of 15 cents, and get a charm to serve their needs.

When you seek such a charm, you have to go to Aghour Alward after dark. The houses are mud huts. The streets are narrow passages barely two yards wide. Most of the huts have no windows.

The dark figures of black-veiled women dart in and out, but you'd better not stare. Legend has it you may find yourself turned into a monkey, a snake, or a donkey by the wizards of Aghour Alward.

An Egyptian who recently visited an old crone in the village says that in her hut he listened to an uproarious "conference of the jinn." Then a tiny hand, like that of a baby, held his and handed him the charm he needed. He assumed the hand was that of a jinn.

Two men and a woman are the chief magicians in Aghour Alward. But the village as a whole is noted for the secrets that it keeps within its own little circle.

Belief in jinn is widespread in the East, especially in the Arab world. Jinn have the power to do evil or good, depending on the charm you hold. Aladdin happened to conjure up a good jinn when he rubbed his magic lamp.

Faculty Wives to Dine Together in Waterford

All faculty wives of Waterford Township school teachers have been invited to attend a breakfast at 10 a.m. Saturday, at the Montith School, according to President of the group, Mrs. William Aebersold.

The annual affair is a get-acquainted meeting of veteran Waterford Township school teacher's wives, with the new-comers, Mrs. Aebersold said.

One motor truck in every five produced in the United States in 1956 was exported.

Japan Awakens to Its Problem of 'Untouchables'

TOKYO (U)—For years Japanese newspapers and magazines have been silent about the country's "untouchable" class.

Now the silence is being broken. Japan's largest magazine, Shukan Asahi, says: "Discrimination of Negroes is now a great problem in the United States, but we Japanese are also unjustifiably discriminating against three million persons of the 'unliberated Buraku'."

"Buraku" literally means "community" but is usually used for "special community" — the untouchables.

The magazine's 15-page article is filled with examples of discrimination in school, employment and marriage.

The untouchables were outcast about 300 years ago when the Japanese people were divided into four castes—samurai (warriors), farmers, artisans and merchants.

In feudal days, those deprived of civil rights became untouchables and were forced to do what Buddhists considered "dirty and filthy" jobs—as butchers, skin and hide tanners, grave diggers or executioners. Finally in 1871 a decree proclaimed them equal to other commoners. But Shukan Asahi paints this picture:

The policy on jobs has remained unchanged in about 6,000 communities. The majority of the untouchables are small farmers, day laborers and scavengers, and live in slums.

Segregation is illegal in Japan. Untouchable children ride the same trains and attend the same schools as other children but the latter don't talk to them.

Most employers screen the background of applicants for jobs and drop those from such communities. It is still practically impossible for untouchables to marry other Japanese.

World Atomic Body Bars Red Hungary

VIENNA (U)—The United States has moved in the new International Atomic Energy Agency to bar Communist-ruled Hungary from active membership in this atom-for-peace organization.

The American delegation also effectively opposed a Russian move to unseat Nationalist China.

A report on the closed meeting of the Agency's Credentials Committee, published today, disclosed that a proposal by the U. S. delegate in the committee to take "no decision" on accrediting Hungary at this time was endorsed 5 to 2 with one abstention.

The committee rejected Russia's move to unseat Nationalist China. Instead the U. S. suggestion not to consider any proposal to exclude National China or to seat Communist China during 1957 was carried 6-2.

Hungary had sent to Vienna a delegation including British-trained scientist Lajos Janossy, who went to Budapest in 1950 to work for the Communists.

Prescriptions Aim at Clarity for All Druggists

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The scribble your doctor puts down on a slip of paper for you to take to your pharmacist may appear to be medical hocus-pocus. But prescription symbols aim at clarity, not mystery.

The hieroglyphics are a shorthand used between druggists and physicians. The symbols are usually abbreviations for Latin words. The practice dates back to the time when Latin was the common language of the science.

Your doctor isn't trying to keep anything from you. In fact you can learn some of the more common prescription symbols yourself.

The familiar RX is an instruction to the druggist. It means "take thou of" and compound the medicine.

Water Rates to Be Raised

Waterford Clerk Says $22,000 More a Year Sought for Operation

Waterford Township needs an additional $22,000 a year for water supply operations. This was revealed by Clerk James Seeterlin at a special meeting held Wednesday.

"It will be necessary to raise water tax rates throughout the township, he said, but as yet no definite new rate has been established.

Residents using the service pay $12 per year based on a 1,500 cubic foot usage.

Total amount received for water operations last year was $33,802. "Some $50,000 is needed for adequate operations and maintenance," said Seeterlin.

Other business at yesterday's meeting was the awarding of insurance bids to James Boaz of the Auto Owner Co., covering all township vehicles.

Bids for a fence around Waterford Village Cemetery were awarded to the Oakland Fence Co. of Pontiac.

Members of the Waterford Township Board denied counter petitions submitted by residents opposing the establishment of a street lighting special assessment district in the Cass-Elizabeth-Highland Subdivision.

Another street lighting project for the Crescent Lake Highland road area was dismissed until such time when residents can re-petition and have a new hearing.

The board appointed Super-

STAND-OUT

MIRACLE PAINT THAT HARDENS TO A SMOOTH TEXTURE FINISH

"STAND-OUT" TRANSFORMS "PROBLEM WALLS" IN ONE EASY APPLICATION MAKES CRACKS, CHIPS, NAIL HOLES, SEAMS, DISAPPEAR LIKE MAGIC
"BURIES" CRACKS, HOLES, SEAMS WITH PAINT BRUSH

"STAND-OUT" Contains No Sand or Grit Surface Is Smooth To Touch, Yet Richly Textured

"STAND-OUT" is a ready-mixed, ready-to-use wall finisher. There are other products in powder form which require messy mixing, and still others that contain sand or grit, resulting in a rough surface that is hard to wash. But "STAND-OUT" is applied right from the can. It goes on smoothly and easily, hardens to a sleek textured finish that has no rough edges or gritty lumps.

"STAND-OUT" is economical, too. Three gallons will finish the walls of an average room . . . and remember, this is not merely a coat of paint. "STAND-OUT" does triple-duty: it paints, plasters and resurfaces in one operation. It gives you a brand new room for ONE-THIRD the cost of washable wallpaper, ONE-EIGHTH the cost of replastering, ONE-TENTH the cost of paneling or tile. The finish is practically indestructible—stain resistant, water proof, can't chip or peel.

STAND-OUT Walls Are Scrubbable Time After Time

"STAND-OUT" will stand up under the hardest scrubbing year after year. Its granite hardness makes it impervious to scrubbing that would mar ordinary finishes. You can test its toughness by taking a silver coin with indentations—a quarter or half-dollar—and rubbing the milled edge hard against the painted wall! This leaves an ugly black mark.

Now take any strong cleaner, a sponge and water, and with vigorous scrubbing the mark will vanish completely with absolutely no harm to the surface. On particularly stubborn dirt, you can even use raw cleanser—or a very strong cleaning solution. Simply rinse with clear water when you are finished.

"STAND-OUT" Goes on Over Any Kind of Interior Surface

"STAND-OUT" covers a multitude of sins on a wall, and goes on over almost anything. Plaster, wallboard, wallpaper, brick, cement, and other surfaces—all take "STAND-OUT" as though they were made for it. So no matter what your "problem wall" may be, rest assured that "STAND-OUT" will cover it . . . and make it look newer than new. And when you want to change colors, you can paint "STAND-OUT" with any conventional paint.

Although "STAND-OUT" goes on four times as heavy as regular paint, the color goes ALL THE WAY THROUGH. Its beauty is "built-in" . . . and will stay lovely for years. You simply can't scrub away its original richness of color and texture.

Refinishes Ceilings
"STAND-OUT" not only refinishes ceilings like new . . . it adds an interesting texture and pattern to the plain surface. An added value at no extra cost is its soundproofing quality: "STAND-OUT" is used in large auditoriums and churches because of its excellent acoustical properties.

Says Baby Boom to Last Long Time

ANN ARBOR (INS) — American's typical family plans to have an average of three children—meaning "the present population boom will continue for some time to come."

These findings of a University of Michigan survey were reported by Prof. Ronald Freedman at the 10th annual U. of M. Institute on Survey Research Techniques. Freedman pointed out only 2.2 children per family are needed to maintain this country's population at its present level, he said:

"All the evidence is people want, expect and idealize a family of two, three or four children. This is true throughout in all kinds of social, economic and religious groups, in all parts of the country, and in all kinds of communities."

Hunters Ride in Pursuit but Fail to Get Fox

MEQUON, Wis. 48 — The hunters rode in hot pursuit, but they didn't get the fox.

A group of Ozaukee County hunters and their hounds had chased a red fox through swamps, up hill and down and after hours of the pursuit figured the hunt must end. It did, but not the way they figured.

The fox dashed across a highway and was struck and killed by an auto. As the hunters watched from a distance, the driver got out, tossed the fox into the trunk, and drove off — possibly headed for the court house to collect a $5 bounty.

HOLLY — Milton J. Weaver, 73, 12435 Fish Lake Rd., farmer and Holly resident all his life, died suddenly at his home this morning. The body is at the Dryer Funeral Home here.

Nor, right now, does he see how the entire budget can be brought down by 2 billion dollars to a spending level of 70 billions for the 1959 fiscal year starting next July 1. Budget Director Percival Brundage has said the administration will attempt to restrict spending to that figure.

Asked where cuts could be made, Eisenhower replied that if he could answer that, one of the hardest problems would be solved. Every department of government, he said, wants more money.

Hickey Withdraws From Union Election

tion floor yesterday. To the cadence of "We Want Hoffa," some 300 demonstrators marched through the aisles of the Miami Beach Auditorium waving placards and pictures of the fiery little Detroit labor leader.

As he plowed ahead toward victory, it appeared that it would be a sure sign for the AFL-CIO parent union to make good of their threat to oust the Teamsters if they don't clean house.

But he made it clear that he is ready to discuss with the AFL-CIO executive council its demand and added that the IBT (International Brotherhood of Teamsters) executive board will be present when the issue is discussed at an Oct. 24 meeting in New York.

Upon his withdrawal today, Hickey reiterated his stand against Hoffa because he (Hickey) firmly believes the union owed an obligation to its members to "restore the good name of the Teamsters Union" and keep it within the AFL-CIO.

"These objectives are shared by Vice President William Lee, a good Teamster and a good trade unionist," Hickey told newsmen at a hurried press conference.

"Because I feel that the support of Bill Lee's candidacy offers the surest way of achieving victory for our joint objectives, I am withdrawing as a candidate for the president and urge all delegates to unite in voting for William Lee."

Besides the balloting for president, the local point of the 17th national convention, 13 vice presidents will be chosen.

Five-Year Highway Plan Announced by Mackie

line through Detroit and Pontiac to Sault Ste. Marie.

The only section of this route which has been approved and will be built in the five-year plan runs from Grayling to Sault Ste. Marie via the Mackinac Bridge.

A second section of the interstate route which has been finally determined by the Bureau of Roads in Washington will not be built under the five-year plan. This section runs from Standish to Grayling.

But the section from Standish to Ohio has not been finally decided upon, said Mackie, and even if it is in the next five years will not be included in the present five-year construction program.

Mackie said he would gladly have authorized an expressway from Detroit to Flint through Pontiac as an extension of the Oakland-Hastings expressway in Detroit, but the fact that $30 million in bonds were already pledged to an expressway extension of Northwestern Highway made this impossible.

He also said that the turnpike route from Detroit to Flint under consideration by George Higgins, State Turnpike Authority was still up in the air but he would meet with Higgins next week on the matter.

Mackie revealed his long awaited five-year plan before the Michigan Good Roads Federation.

The program is to be financed through an estimated $305 million in federal aid, $330 million in available state funds and $415 million in bonds.

The highway plans center around two national interstate highway routes: From Detroit to Chicago and from Detroit to Muskegon.

Mackie said that final Detroit plans hinge on negotiations with Wayne County and the City of Detroit on routes.

He will announce in November a $300 million stepped up Detroit Metropolitan Area expressway program, he said.

In introducing Mackie this morning, Gov. G. Mennen Williams said, "Michigan's road should be built fairly and according to a logical system." The idea is to connect major and smaller communities with roads that lead from one place to another, Williams said, criticizing the former Republican State Highway Department "bits and snatches" program.

The five-year plan, Williams added, should be a benefit to commerce, industry, and pleasure driving.

In Oakland County, the highway plan call for projects that had previously been announced by the former highway administration.

Heading this list is the proposed 35 mile extension of Northwestern Highway as a four-lane expressway from Eight Mile road northwest to U.S. 23 in Livingston County.

This expressway would connect with the southern end of the all but completed 23 million dollar Fenton-Clio Expressway.

Other area projects are the extension of M24 as a divided highway from Lake Orion north to the Lapeer County line and the reconstruction of M15 from Clarkston, north to the Genesee county line.

This latter project is already under way. Included in the plans is the widening and resurfacing of M87 for 1.5 miles in Holly.

In Pontiac the Telegraph Orchard Lake underpass will be completed in December and the widening of M24 (Perry street) has already been agreed upon.

State-wide, the major items are:

Four north-south and two east-west expressways connecting all major Michigan cities of over 50,000 population.

The plan calls for completion of U.S.23 as an expressway from the Ohio line to Standish, completion of U.S. 16 as an expressway from Detroit to Muskegon; and completion of U.S.12 as an expressway from Detroit to Benton Harbor.

Portions of these roads are completed now.

The plans also call for an expressway along US 25 from the Ohio line, near Toledo, to Fort Huron, with details about the Detroit portion of the route to be announced later.

A sixth expressway is planned following US 31 from the Indiana line along Lake Michigan to north of Muskegon. An expressway-type link is planned from this road to Grand Rapids.

Other expressway links are planned between Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, between Flint and Lansing, and Bay City and Clare.

Mackie also announced plans for lesser improvements for two bridge-bound routes: M37 from Grand Rapids north, and US31, from Muskegon north.

"More than two-thirds of Michigan's counties and county seats will be within 30 miles of this expressway system," he said.

"These counties contain 95 per cent of Michigan's people, almost 90 per cent of its industry, more than 80 per cent of its farms, all of its metropolitan counties and the northern arm of the system reaches into the heart of Michigan's vacation and tourist area."

Other portions of the five-year plan include: construction or reconstruction of 2,900 miles of state highways, and the paving of the 800 remaining miles of gravel roads on state trunklines.

The plan calls for a $200 million program in fiscal 1958, $240 million in 1959, $260 million in 1960, $270 million in 1961, and $280 million in 1962.

Shortly, Mackie said, the department intends to announce in detail, the 1958 portion of the five-day.

year highway plan and, at a later date, the yearly programs for the remaining fiscal years.

"Despite the scope of this ambitious construction program, this plan will meet only about one-third of Michigan's over-all dollar highway deficiency," said Mackie.

"Even when contemplated with federal aid levels and existing state highway income, it will take a good many years to meet out overall highway needs," he stated. The highway department's planning division, already is at work on a second five-year plan, Mackie said.

Michigan GOP Causes Gloom

National Party Officials Point to the Absence of State Organization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican campaign officials said today that for all practical purposes there is no GOP state organization in Michigan.

They painted a gloomy picture of the party's situation in the state with the 1938 campaign not far off.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams probably will be after a sixth term next year. Sen. Fetter (R-Mich.), Michigan's only statewide Republican office holder, will be seeking re-election.

The national party workers, in an interview, referred to grass roots Republican politicians as "bow-takers who won't buckle down and work."

Republicans were stunned by a Democratic sweep in last spring's Michigan elections. That victory gave Democrats all effective state house offices.

Since then, there has been much talk of rebuilding the Republican organization. But the national party officials, who asked that their names not be used, said it has been merely "lip service."

"The Republicans stand around and 'ooh' and 'ah' at the precinct level setup the UAW (United Auto Workers) has constructed for the Democrats," one official said.

"What the unions have done for the Democrats in Michigan is just sound politics. It's nothing the Republicans couldn't do if they would get to work."

The GOP sources described the Michigan problem as one of apathy rather than factionalism.

Doctor Forms First Institute of Dreams

LONDON — An Institute of Dreams—first in the world—has been formed in London by a 48-year-old woman doctor.

Its object is to probe the secrets people are subconsciously keeping from themselves. It may also predict national disasters. The doctor is sifting through 80,000 dreams gathered from a cross-section of patients over 10 years. "I hope to learn just what people really think of atom bombs and the like and to reveal that dreams can predict disasters," she says.

"It is only when the subconscious mind takes over that people's true thoughts are revealed." A panel of experts and students of both sexes have been recording their dreams every day since 1927. "Some dreams I have studied definitely have been linked with disasters," the doctor says.

Nightshirts Nightmare for Reds

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary is suffering from an acute shortage of men's nightshirts—for the very capitalist reason that the industry can't make enough profit on them.

This is the kind of situation that often arises in Hungary's planned economy. It leads to long lines in front of shops when the report gets about that some rare item—tangerines, for example, or nightshirts—will go on sale.

Perturbed by the nightshirt situation, the enterprising Budapest evening newspaper Esti Hir-lap put a reporter on it and printed a long story on it on bureaucracy and economics.

The first thing the reporter found was that no matter what people may think of nightshirts anywhere else, there is still a big demand for them in Hungary. A shipment from East Germany was snapped up in a single day, said the manager of a government-owned shop.

SEEKS RESPONSIBILITY

Then he set out on the problem of whose responsibility it is, in a Communist economy, to see that enough nightshirts are produced.

As sometimes happens in capitalist countries too, he got something of a run-around. But finally he got an answer from a man connected with a textile mill which used to make nightshirts. Seems a nightshirt requires more cotton and less labor than a man's shirt, and the government-set selling price is lower. Now, cotton is an expensive import item, labor is the cheapest commodity available in Hungary, and even a government-owned factory has to show a profit.

LOW MARKUP

A nightshirt selling at 75 forints (about $6.40) cost about 70 forints (about $3.97) to produce. This small mark-up has to be divided among the manufacturer, the government wholesale organization and the retail shop—also usually government-owned.

What was needed, the textile mill people said, was a nightshirt subsidy.

Apparently this is going to be arranged, though the story does not say how. The director of the cloth section of the ministry of internal trade says definitely that the textile mill is going to go back to nightshirt production in the second quarter of this year.

Unfortunately, it will make only 8,000 and the demand for the Budapest area alone is estimated at 25,000 for that period.

Britain's Refugees Causing Concern

LONDON — Britain has found its 12,000 guests from Hungary something of an embarrassment. A surprisingly large proportion have turned out to be not mature adults fleeing from an alien regime but brash teenagers of the "teddyboy" type, of which Britain has had quite enough of its own since the war. In addition, the refugees have shown little disposition to leave their hostels and go to work, social service people say.

There are stories of hunger strikes, fights and smashed up hostels. Employers came forward with 6,000 offers of jobs but only 2,600 were taken up. Most of the refugees seem determined to move on from Britain to America or Canada. Meanwhile, it costs about $10 a week to keep each visitor.

Study Traffic Aerially

CHICAGO — Traffic studies for the purpose of determining new highway routes, which used to take a full 8-hour day, now can be accomplished in 40 seconds. The saving in time is made possible by aerial photography, which in many cases is replacing ground surveys. Map and plan reproduction for new roads also is being greatly accelerated by new photographic processes.

Queen Elizabeth II Most Traveled British Monarch

LONDON (U.P.) — Queen Elizabeth II, the most traveled monarch in British history, takes off next week on another jaunt — a nine-day trip to Canada and the United States. She and Prince Philip will arrive in Ottawa Oct. 12, then fly to Virginia for visits to historic Jamestown and Williamsburg on Oct. 16. The following day they will go to Washington for a three-day visit, taking a side trip to nearby College Park, Md., on Oct. 19 to see the Maryland-North Carolina football game.

On Oct. 20 they will fly to New York City, where they will spend a day before returning to Britain. "Logging the mileage of the sovereign is hardly one of our duties," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman, "but unquestionably the queen has already done more traveling than any other reigning queen or king."

The Duke of Windsor, when he was the Prince of Wales, was a much traveled young man, but this did not apply to his ruling period of 46 weeks, 3 days, 13 hours and 57 minutes.

The war obviously restricted the journeys of Elizabeth's father, King George VI. When his father, George V, was on the throne travel was not so easy as today.

King Edward VII moved about a great deal, but it was largely to Paris and other bright spots on the continent. BECAME QUEEN ON TOUR Elizabeth actually became queen in the midst of a journey. She and Prince Philip were on a 30,000-mile tour, substituting for the ill George VI, when her father died. Crowned on June 2, 1953, Elizabeth set out on a world tour on Nov. 23 that same year. When she returned to Buckingham Palace she had a total of 43,618 miles behind her.

From London she and her husband went to Bermuda and Jamaica. She walked off the gangway of the liner Gothio on Nov. 11, 1953, at Cristobal, Canal Zone, to set foot on foreign soil for the first time since her accession.

On Dec. 17, they were at Suva in the Fiji Islands. They took a flying boat to Tonga, then back to the Gothic and arrived in Auckland, N. Z., just before Christmas. The Queen celebrated Christmas, 1953, at St. Mary's Cathedral, Auckland — 12,000 miles from home and her children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Landing in Sydney, Australia on Feb. 2, 1954, they toured hundreds of miles before the Queen, on a side trip to Wollongong, showed her first signs of tiring. But on she went, to Tasmania, Melbourne, Hamilton and other Australian cities.

An airplane took her to Perth in Western Australia, where the Australian portion of her world tour ended. She and the Prince once more boarded the Gothic.

The ship halted at Homes Island, in the Cocos Islands, on April 5. Six days later they landed at Colombo in Ceylon where they shifted to a train once more.

After the eight-day Ceylon visit, the royal couple left for Aden, where they arrived on April 27.

JOINED BY CHILDREN From Aden they went to Uganda, then flew to Tobruk to rejoin their children, and happy days followed on the royal yacht Britannia, which took them to Valetta on Malta.

On May 10 they were at Gibraltar and five days later docked at home after traveling for six months.

There were many side trips, such as journeys to Northern Ireland, Scotland and places close to the British capital, and in June, 1955, Elizabeth docked in Oslo for a three-day Norwegian visit.

On Jan. 27, 1956, the Queen began an 8,956-mile tour of Nigeria. She went to Africa by plane, but while in Nigeria she clocked many miles by train.

On March 10, a fairly exhausted Queen left by air for Corsica and a Mediterranean holiday. She returned to London on March 18.

She remained at home until June, when she was off for a state visit to Sweden. It was a tiring sea voyage and much fog plagued the royal yacht in the Baltic. The Queen returned to London by air on June 18.

The beginning of 1957 saw her once more on the go.

On Feb. 16 she flew to Lisbon to be reunited with Prince Philip who had gone as far south as the Antarctic on the royal yacht. Together again, Elizabeth started on a state visit to Portugal. The Prince beside her all the time. She was off on her journeys again on April 8. This time it was a state visit to France. Her only side journeys were around the French capital — and trips on the Seine.

Denmark was the next country she visited, beginning a state visit on May 21. She sailed to Copenhagen from Hull.

Buckingham Palace will give no official total figure of miles traveled since her coronation, but a spokesman said 65,000 before the upcoming trip to North America would be close.

MR-8 KEEPS YOU GUARANTEED* SAFE

WON'T ROT HOSE

MADE BY DU PONT FOR TODAY'S COMPLEX ENGINES

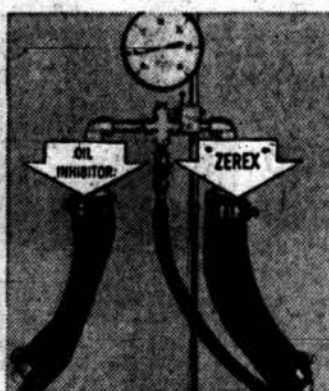

There's no question about the all-around cooling system protection you get with "Zerex," the only permanent type anti-freeze containing MR-8, a product of Du Pont research.

MR-8, Du Pont's special chemical rust inhibitor, gives unequalled protection against acid, rust and corrosion which can cause dangerous overheating and serious engine damage. And, because "Zerex" contains no oil, it won't even rot ordinary rubber radiator hose or contribute to cooling system clogging.

So don't take chances this winter. Get the complete, winter-long protection only "Zerex" with MR-8 gives. It's the premium, permanent type anti-freeze made and guaranteed by Du Pont... your best assurance of quality and satisfaction.

1. Works in all waters. "Zerex" with MR-8 is compatible with all types of water. Even in hard water the inhibitor stays in perfect solution (tube on right above). Hard water makes the inhibitor used in many anti-freezes precipitate out (tube on left), materially reducing their protective qualities.

2. Will not rot rubber hose. "Zerex" with MR-8 will not rot or soften rubber hose (tube on right) because it contains no oil. Oil is extremely harmful to some radiator hoses, softening or rotting it sometimes in one season (hose on left); often the hose may collapse or burst, causing overheating and engine damage.

3. Neutralizes all acids. Sample on left demonstrates how the seven different metals used in modern cooling systems can become corroded when permanent anti-freeze solutions turn acid. But "Zerex" with MR-8 has extra "reserve alkalinity" that gives winter-long protection from cooling system acids.

4. Keeps rust in suspension. "Zerex" with MR-8 keeps cooling systems clean and free-flowing (see above radiator core). Because "Zerex" contains no oil, it does not cause rust to stick to cooling system surfaces and clog radiator passages, which can cause overheating and engine damage.

YOU'RE SAFEST WHEN YOUR SERVICEMAN INSTALLS YOUR ANTI-FREEZE!

To fully protect, anti-freeze must be properly installed. This includes flushing the system, checking for leaks, checking the circulation—jobs for an expert. So, to be doubly safe, have your serviceman install your "Zerex" this fall.

Speakers Tonight at Two PTA Groups

Two Waterford Township PTA organizations have announced programs for their meetings tonight. The Stringham School PTA has scheduled Associate Professor of Communication Skills of Michigan State University, Dr. Russell Lowell Jenkins, as main speaker for their meeting at 8 tonight.

"Our Schools and the Growing Community," is the subject Dr. Jenkins has chosen as his address.

Plans for the annual Stringham School Fair October 19, will be discussed by Mrs. Charles Gamble, chairman.

The first meeting of the McVitte School PTA will be held at 7:45 tonight at the school.

Rev. Robert D. Richards of Livonia, will speak on "Patriotism Throughout the Community."

Firemen Called to Remove Snake From Home

PARIS, Ky. (U. P.) — The Bourbon County Fire Department has named a new unofficial — and unidentified — champion for calling with the most unusual request.

The old champ was an elderly woman who asked firemen to come build a fire in the furnace of her home — which they did.

The new champ, also a woman, called yesterday literally screaming, "There's a snake in my house. Come over here and get it quick."

Firemen Flop McCord and State Trooper Joe Hill left immediately. But the woman called again before they arrived to ask what was the delay.

When the men arrived, they found the woman had moved most of the furniture in the house. Apparently the snake moved, too — it couldn't be found.

To Echo Arabian Stand; Soviet Arms in Syria Are Not Our Business

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U. P.) — Another Arab blast at the West — this time from Egypt — was anticipated today in the continuation of the U.N. Assembly's marathon general debate.

It was believed Fawzi would echo Saudi Arabia's contention yesterday that the shipment of Communist arms to Syria is nobody's business — but Syria's. Egypt's arms now also come from the Soviet bloc.

U.N. sources said, however, that Egyptian diplomats have been openly concerned over Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's agenda.

Gold Carrier Falls in Sea; 29 Killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (U. P.) — A gold-carrying Lebanese airliner crashed in flames into the Mediterranean off Beirut today, killing all 29 persons aboard. The pilot was an American.

The twin-engine plane was flying for the Lebanese International Airways, which had been operating only about a week.

An airline agent said the American pilot was a Capt. Collmar, whose home town could not be learned immediately.

Four Britons reportedly were among the passengers. The airline said the others aboard were Lebanese, Syrians and Arabs from Persian Gulf areas.

Receives Plans for Courthouse

Supervisors' Group to Consider Specifications Despite Court Ruling

Despite a recent unfavorable court decision, a special courthouse committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors today received final plans for the proposed building.

Meeting in Birmingham this morning, the committee, headed by David Levinson of Birmingham, was presented with the plans and specifications from O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates, architects.

Levinson explained that the committee would most likely report to the board next Monday on the plans.

"We haven't given up yet," Levinson said. "If it hadn't been for the court suit we could go out now, if the specifications are accepted, and advertise for bids."

The proposed courthouse has been slowed due to a ruling in August by Harrisville Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke that building funds for the courthouse were gathered illegally.

The Oakland County Taxpayers League brought the suit.

The committee chairman said they had entered into a contract with the architects for the plans and they could not be withdrawn despite the court decision.

Confidential Case to Be Tried Again

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — A second trial is going to be held in the Confidential magazine criminal libel conspiracy case.

The sensational first trial ended in a mistrial Tuesday night, with the jury hopelessly deadlocked, 7 to 5, for conviction.

A decision to try it again was reached yesterday at a Monterey conference between State Attorney General Edmund G. Brown and District Attorney William B. McKesson.

Brown said: "There will be more evidence next time and our case will be better presented. . . . The seriousness of this case justifies another trial, in my opinion, and we intend to prosecute the second effort with all our resources."

Defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley claims the state has spent $300,000 on the case.

Check Unsolved Area Crimes for Link With Slain Gunman

By PETE LOCHBILER

Area police continued to check records of unsolved crimes today with the possibility in mind that some of them could be attributed to ex-convict Frank R. Frahm.

Frahm was shot to death yesterday by Birmingham Police Sgt. Richard E. Brown. The 38-year-old robber, who had spent more than 25 years of his life in prison, was attempting to hold up a Birmingham couple in their home.

The exchange of shots ended a life of crime which began back in 1919, Frahm had been imprisoned for theft, breaking and entering twice, and burglary.

The possibility that Frahm was the daring gunman who attempted to hold up a Bloomfield Township bank branch office last spring was discounted.

Sheriff's detectives said that the lone bandit who appeared in the Manufacturers National Bank branch at 4077 W. Maple Rd. last April had several fingers missing.

Although Frahm seemed to fit the bank bandit's general description, he did not have any fingers missing.

Records show that Frahm had a long police record, especially for burglaries. Whether he had committed any break-ins in this area since his last parole from Jackson Prison was a question police began tackling yesterday afternoon.

Birmingham Det. Sgt. Robert Schaeley said then that there were no outstanding unsolved Birmingham break-ins that looked like they might be Frahm's work. Sheriff's Det. Leo Hazen said his department would check on a number of unsolved burglaries which could have been committed by Frahm.

Detroit police, meanwhile, were checking the downtown Detroit hotel at which Frahm had recently stayed, hoping that light could be shed on the gunman's activities since paroled from prison.

Where Frahm has lived, how he earned his money and whether he has any relations were big questions confronting police as they set to work piecing Frahm's past together.

Frahm lived in Pontiac for some time during the 1920's and 1930's, it appeared. When last sentenced to prison, he lived at 159 S. Jessie St. That was in 1940.

The gunman was born in Oxford, jail records show.

In discussing yesterday's attempted holdup, Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor said it appeared Frahm had carefully planned his job, but made at least one big mistake.

Taylor had interviewed J. S. Van Alstyne Jr. and his wife, Helena, whose home at 515 Kennesaw was invaded by the gun-wielding bandit as Van Alstyne was about to leave for work at 9:30 a.m. yesterday morning.

Frahm had confronted Van Alstyne as he opened the kitchen door leading to a connected garage.

"It seems very likely that Frahm had known in advance Mr. Van Alstyne's habits and had figured closely on the time his intended victim would enter the garage," said Taylor.

Frahm also did not seem surprised, Taylor pointed out, that Mrs. Van Alstyne also was in the house, although the bandit was unable to reach upstairs before she had hurriedly contacted police through the Birmingham telephone operator.

But Frahm sadly misjudged the amount of money the couple had in the house. It amounted to $14, and the Van Alstynes affirmed that they rarely have large sums on hand, Taylor said.

Taylor noted that the bandit had rather clumsily tied both Mr. and Mrs. Van Alstyne by the hands.

Mrs. Van Alstyne said she was easily able to shake the bonds loose after Frahm left the upstairs bedroom upon hearing Sgt. Brown approaching the house.

Taylor ventured the opinion that Frahm may have been not in full possession of his faculties, due to his many years in prison.

The gunman, Taylor noted, acted almost kindly to the Van Alstynes. He responded to Mrs. Van Alstyne's repeated requests not to hurt her or her husband.

Van Alstyne had told his wife when the bandit forced him at gunpoint into the upstairs bedroom, "Do everything that he says and he won't hurt you."

Sgt. Brown was listed in satisfactory condition today at William Beaumont hospital after undergoing surgery yesterday afternoon. Doctors, however, were not probing for the one bullet that struck the policeman. It had entered the officer's right chest and passed through his body.

Before Brown was operated on, he spoke briefly with Det. Sgt. Schaeley, corroborating the shooting as it was first reported.

Taylor figured that no more than 15 minutes elapsed from the time Frahm surprised Van Alstyne at the garage entrance, until the time the gunman lay on the floor riddled with bullets.

Although Brown's gun had six shells in it, he only fired five times, reflecting his marksmanship training. At shooting matches, only five shots are fired, rapidly, in a round.

As the officer reloaded his gun, he discovered for the first time that he had not fired all his bullets. He didn't have to. All five bullets found their mark and Frahm was dead shortly after arriving at the hospital.

Owner of Building Found Dead After Fire

BAY CITY (UP) — The body of John M. Vogtmann was found today in the ruins of a grain elevator and a three-story building at Weonah Flour Milling Co., which burned last night.

The body of Vogtmann, owner of the firm, was found in a basement by workmen clearing away wreckage.

His body was not burned and firemen said they believed he suffocated.

Vogtmann entered the building while it was burning, apparently headed for his office, and no one saw him emerge.

Bob Considine Says:

Jackie Robinson Shows Way to Integration

NEW YORK (INS) — Monte Irwin, the great Negro ballplayer who helped make possible the New York Giants' pennants of 1951 and 1954, said a knowing thing at a gathering of sports people the night before the World Series opened. The talk, of course, had been about the Little Rock integration situation. It is the land's new Topic A — as in Arkansas.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful," he asked, "if one of the three boys among the nine students turned out to be a first class athlete? Just think what it would mean to him and to the others — if the football team suddenly needed him, or the basketball team, or the baseball team, or if he could just shine around the intra-murals."

Monte spoke from knowledge. He is a product of the surest of all integrated societies, the sports world — where a man generally is rated on his ability to handle ball, stick, glove, complex play and rugged situation, but not on his color.

Jackie Robinson was, in retrospect, as ordained to break the color barrier in big league baseball as, say, aristocratic Elizabeth Eckford was the ideal prototype of Negro children who had to go against the guns of the Arkansas National Guard.

Both needed more than the average mortal's share of moxie. The Eckford girl underwent careful schooling and priming by Mrs. Bates, the Little Rock leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples. By the time Mrs. Bates finished briefing her, the child would have walked across a mined field — which is just about what she had to do.

Robinson got the same sort of bracing when Branch Rickey brought him down from Montreal and told him he was putting the Negro on the roster of the Dodgers. But before the name was actually affixed, Rickey did an astonishing thing to Robinson in his office.

RICKY GIVES LESSON
He spit on him, suddenly and without reason. In the middle of a conversation about the problems a Negro might face in the majors.

Canasta Most Popular of U.S. Card Games

NEW YORK—A group of public-opinion analysts has found that Canasta is America's favorite card game and contract bridge is second.

However, the margin between the two favorites is lessening. In 1952 about 37 per cent of the players rated Canasta as tops; this year the percentage fell to 34.3 per cent. Contract bridge, rated first by 23.9 per cent of the card players in 1952, now is listed as first choice by 24.9 per cent of the card-playing public.

MSU Speaker Talks on Safety

Tells Osteopathic Group Personality Plays Role in Driving Habits

GRAND RAPIDS (U) — A Michigan State University safety expert said "Personality plays a big role in the way you drive your car."

Dr. William A. Mann discussed drivers in an address at the 59th annual convention of the Michigan Assn. of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, concluding a three-day program in Grand Rapids.

He also said parents and friends sometimes are a detrimental influence on attitudes and habits of drivers.

"If dad makes a practice of running stop signs, speeding when police are absent, or brags that he can drive better after drinking, then son and daughter are apt to copy these practices," he said.

Normal drivers may react temporarily in the same manner as emotionally disturbed persons, according to Dr. Mann. A family quarrel, a reprimand by the boss, or failure in a business transaction may affect their driving, he explained.

Dr. Mann said the basic problem is self understanding and suggested personal counseling as a good solution.

"All of us must recognize characteristics in our personality that make us prone to accident involvement. Steps must be taken to compensate when these conditions arise," he said.

Building Plan Gigantic

WASHINGTON—The Army will construct more than 1,700 training centers for Reserve units in cities and towns throughout the United States by 1960.

Now, Robinson happens to be a man of quick and decisive temper. He has been compared to a colored Ty Cobb in that respect. His instincts made him lunge momentarily for the palm-singing old boss of the Dodgers. Rickey stopped him with a gesture that would have commanded Isaiah's attention.

He told Robby that he must possess courage enough NOT to fight, if he expected to make a go of it in the majors as the only Negro there. It's easy to fight, the patriarch told the hot young Negro, but hard to resist a fight when every cell in one's body demands such release.

Robinson entered the majors with a wry if subdued sense of humor. On the day he was to make his first appearance (it was 1949 and the upper draw game has flourished exactly 100 years without a known Negro on the field) he kissed his wife goodbye at their hotel and said, as he headed for his desegregation job:

"Honey, if you come out to Ebbets Field today you won't have any trouble recognizing me." He paused with the skill of a Frank Fay. "My number is 42."

There is a parallel between Robinson's experience in baseball and what has happened in Little Rock. Just as the children were berated and threatened with boycott, the St. Louis Cardinals cursed and planned to walk out on Brooklyn if Robinson stayed. The "federal authority" of Commissioner Happy Chandler prevailed.

And restored order.
WHITE GIRL 'NICE TO ME'
In Little Rock the other day a colored girl student reported, after classes and on the point of tears, "One of the white girls invited me to their table at lunch time today and they were nice to me." She had expected to be clawed, one supposes.

Something like that happened to Robinson. Everybody came to assume that there would be a race riot the first time there was any bruising physical contact between Robinson and a white player. Then it suddenly happened in a Brooklyn-Pittsburgh game, a tremendous crash at first base involving Robinson and Hank Greenberg.

Greenberg got up first. Robinson lay in the dust. Hank put his hand down and helped Robinson son to his feet. "You Okay?" Hank asked.

"Okay," Robinson said. There were sudden tears in his eyes, too. (But not enough to keep him from stealing second.)

So on with the integrated World Series. One doubts if any intermarriages will result from the meeting of these mixed stalwarts from New York and Milwaukee, some of whom actually live in New York and Milwaukee.

Israel Launches Copper Mines

To Exploit Rich Deposit Near Site of Solomon's Ancient Smelters

WASHINGTON — A Biblical prophecy fulfilled 3,000 years ago has taken on fresh meaning in modern Israel with the launching of a copper-mining project north of Eilat on the Gulf of 'Aqaba.

"For the Lord bringeth thee into a good land . . . a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass," the Israelites were told in the description of the Promised Land (Deuteronomy 8:7-9).

The current undertaking will exploit rich copper deposits at Timna, some 15 miles north of the Gulf. Its ancient prototype was King Solomon's highly successful copper and iron industry whose ruined mines, crushers, and smelters still scar the barren near-by hills.

During the 1930's, archeologist Nelson Glueck painstakingly explored the Wadi Araba-desert rift that stretches more than 100 miles from the Dead Sea to the Gulf of 'Aqaba.

He came on the remains of many mines worked during the Iron Age, and especially during the reign of King Solomon in the 10th century B.C.

One important site, in what is now western Jordan, was traced by its Arabic name, Khirbet en Nahas, meaning "Copper Ruin."

A PALESTINE PITTSBURGH
Most spectacular of the Glueck finds was the long-lost city of Ezion-geber at the narrow head of the Gulf of 'Aqaba.

Covered by later settlements, Solomon's industrial center was a Palestine Pittsburgh as well as seaport, naval base, and fortress.

Ezion-geber's arid location offered a puzzle to scholars. Why did Solomon, with his wisdom, build the city west of more abundant sweet-water supplies and, still worse, put it directly in line with hot, fierce winds carrying sandstorms along the Wadi Araba?

The answer became clear with study of the buildings. Made of heat-hardened mud bricks, the walls of many were pierced with flues and stained green by sulphurous gases.

The structures had been used as huge smelters. Their flues, linked by a system of air passages, provided forced draft from steadily blowing winds to keep the flames going for the refineries.

Finished articles of various kinds were made from the purified copper. Some doubtless went into the "burnished-brass" decorations described in Chapter 7 of Kings I — which were used in Solomon's Temple at Jerusalem.

Army Guard Shoots, Kills Korean Boy

SEOUL (AP)—A U. S. Army train guard shot and killed a 15-year-old Korean boy near Taegu today.

The guard was identified as Specialist 3.C. Raymond L. Bailey, Brownsville, Ind.

The Army said Bailey found several youths tampering with the door of a sidetracked boxcar at Kumchon. He ordered them in Korean to halt but they fled.

Bailey told military investigators he fired a shot in the air, then one at the ground in the direction of the fleeing boys. Song Joen Won was wounded and died an hour and a half later in the provincial hospital.

Notices Stolen Radio After Twelve Years

QUERETARO, Mex. (AP)—Twelve years after a radio was stolen from the home of Mrs. Maria Juana Saldivar she noticed it in a radio repair shop.

The discovery led to an investigation and the arrest of a man who finally admitted the old theft, police said.

Business Loans Soar

NEW YORK—Major banks in New York City made loans of some 12 billion dollars to businesses during the first six months of this year, a rise of 1.7 billion above the total of business loans in the same period a year ago.

Tiny Republic Bitterly Divided

Italy Guards San Marino

SAN MARINO (AP)—Italian police today brought up tanks and armored cars to the borders of this tiny mountain republic divided into armed camps of Communists and anti-Communists.

The arrival of 20 or more armored vehicles at the border was without explanation.

Italy has recognized the anti-Communist regime set up Monday night and is blockading all road leading into San Marino to keep out any Italian Communists who might try to enter.

Inside the 38-square-mile mountain republic, the anti-Communist regime issued World War II German machine pistols to guards around its headquarters in an abandoned steel factory near the Italian border.

A guard officer said the weapons came from hidden stores inside San Marino. He claimed that the anti-Red forces have enough hidden arms to equip a division.

The Communists still held control of all San Marino except for the small area around the steel plant. But most of the Reds concentrated in San Marino village, eight miles from the anti-Communist headquarters.

Squads of armed Communist volunteers set up roadblocks on San Marino's side of the border to bottle up the anti-Red supporters and to keep out any reinforcements.

The Communists, who have ruled San Marino since the end of World War II, called on the United Nations to send in a U.N. police force to keep them in power.

At the old steel mill where anti-Communist members of Parliament set up their provisional government, searchlights played nervously across the nearby countryside at night to spot any Communist invaders.

Inside the building a member of the four-man provisional government declared it will accept "no other" solution than unconditional surrender of all powers by the Communists, who are holding them now unlawfully.

Owners of Boats Urged to Check Motor Numbers

Boat owners in Waterford Township have been urged to check the serial numbers on their motors and keep better watch on their boats, by Patrolman Jack Hart, in charge of lake patrolling duty.

Lately there have been numerous motors stolen and boats stripped of accessories. Police have a hard time recovering motors and equipment, due to lack of identification, Hart said.

"Boats have been found on opposite shores from where they were anchored," he said, "and every piece of equipment has been stripped off, including windshields, lights and even steering wheels," he added.

Spare lids for testpots are being advocated by Mrs. J. Robson of Chirnside, Eire.

"If it were harvest time," said one San Marino citizen, "we wouldn't have time for a political crisis."

In Rome, Christian Democratic Premier Adone Zoli defended his government's actions toward San Marino in the face of Communist hoots and catcalls in the Italian Senate. Zoli said his government acted "on the basis of the right and constitution of the republic of San Marino" and that "the people of San Marino have nothing to fear from the Italian government."

Japanese Detain Two Americans

U.S. Civilian Employees
Held at Labor Office
Over Army Dismissals

TOKYO (U)—Japanese workers fired by the U.S. Army in a cut-back held two American civilian employees of the Army prisoner to-day for more than three hours.

The Americans, William Oglesby of Denver, Colo., and Walter Nebeta of Hilo, Hawaii, were released unharmed from the Japanese labor management office in Tokorozawa, 20 miles northwest of Tokyo, after local police intervened.

The pair had gone to the office to explain the dismissal of 250 employees of the Army logistic depot at Tokorozawa. The Army is reducing its labor force in Japan in connection with the withdrawal of troops now in the works.

The workers, seeking another day's employment to qualify for dismissal benefits as "permanent workers," claimed that they were told Oct. 2 they would be re-employed but that the order was rescinded the same day. Col. B. Abrams of Funston, Tex., the base commander, said they could not be taken back unless other Japanese workers were dismissed.

The Army said after Oglesby and Nebeta explained the situation to the crowd, the Americans tried to leave but were stopped. The crowd demanded that Abrams come to the office, and then that it be allowed to see him at his office. Both requests were refused.

"Oglesby was permitted to telephone, but neither he nor Nebeta were permitted to eat lunch," the Army said.

Man, 70, Drives His Motor Scooter

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (U)—When Robert A. Shurter Sr. started from Chattanooga Sept. 10 on a motor-scooter for Atlantic City, he vowed nothing would prevent him from completing the trip in time for the American Legion convention parade.

Five days later, he arrived in the New Jersey city, one day ahead of schedule. Behind him were 800 miles, three wrecks, a fractured foot, wrenched neck muscles and assorted bruises.

Shurter made the return trip on his scooter in three days. The trip cost him only $9 for gasoline.

"If I had been an old man, I couldn't have taken the knocks," he said.

A new agreement provides for a 60 per cent increase in trade between Soviet Russia and Yugoslavia, Belgrade learns.

Fair Weather Still Prevails in Most of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was cool and wet in the Northwestern part of the country and more showers fell in the Southeast but mostly pleasant weather prevailed in other sections today.

Fair weather was the outlook for the second game of the World Series in New York.

Considerably cooler air moved southward across Northwestern areas and temperatures were 10 to 15 degrees lower than yesterday morning. Scattered showers and cloudy skies moved in with the cooler breezes in Montana and westward to coastal areas of Washington and Oregon.

Snow fell in the northern Rockies, with freezing temperatures at Mullen Pass, Idaho.

Three of Quintuplets Born in France Die

TOULON, France (U)—Death during the night took three of the quintuplets born prematurely here yesterday.

A doctor said the chances for survival of the other two babies, Ronald and Michele Christoffe, were "not too bad."

The 29-year-old mother, Mrs. Camille Christoffe, was reported doing well. The husband, 33, is a social security worker. They have been married eight years and the quintuplets were their first born.

The two boys and three girls, born three months prematurely, ranged in weight from 2 to 2.3 pounds.

Tiny Philippe died shortly before midnight. An hour and a half later Helene died. Genevieve died at 6 a.m.

Only two sets of quintuplets are known to have survived more than a few days—the Dionnes of Canada, born in 1934, and the Dilligents of Argentina, born in 1943. The two boys and three girls of the Dilligents family are all flourishing. Four of the five Dionne girls are living. Emilie died three years ago.

No Cake, No Food Put Bride in a Suing Mood

LOS ANGELES (U)—A bride is suing a catering firm for $25,000 damages because the cake and other food didn't arrive at her wedding reception.

Mrs. Joanne Gilden's breach-of-contract suit, taken under consideration by a judge, says this made her wedding day one of "tears and unhappiness . . . shame and humiliation."

It says 55 guests assembled at Beth Zion Temple last June 1, when she and Raymond Gilden were married, had only champagne and after-dinner mints. Caterers Alfred and Leonard Marks finally were located at a boxing match, the complaint adds.

Caught Red-Handed at Painted Fire Alarm

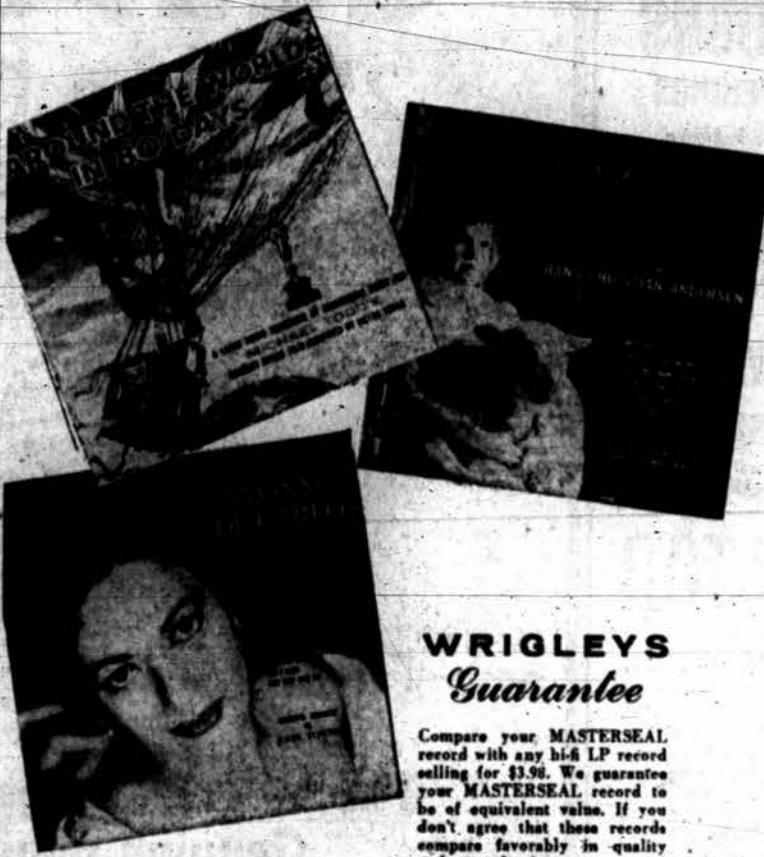

DETROIT (U)—Lawrence W. Mish Jr., 31, was caught red-handed turning in a false fire alarm. Mish, who was sentenced to 90 days in jail, was seen standing near the fire alarm box when seven pieces of fire equipment roared to the scene.

Battalion Chief James Wright said he spotted no fire but saw Mish trying to wipe red paint off his hands.

The alarm box had just been painted.

Security for You

Outline of Women's Rights Under SS

By RAY HENRY

"Dear Mr. Henry: I used to have a fairly clear understanding of Social Security. But in recent years there have been so many changes that I've lost track. Could you summarize for me just how women may benefit from Social Security? Mrs. C. B."

The best way for a woman to understand her rights is to list those which she might be entitled to (1) before she reaches 62 and (2) when she is 62 or over.

A woman may be entitled to Social Security payments at 62 or over in four different ways:

—As a woman who has worked long enough under Social Security to qualify for payments in her own right. Her payments may range from $34 to $108.50 a month, depending on her age at retirement; how long she worked under Social Security and her earnings while she was working.

—Or, as a wife of a worker who has reached 65 and who is eligible for payments. The total payments for her and her husband may range from $41.50 to $162.80 a month, the amount depending on her age at retirement, how long her husband worked under Social Security and his earnings for that work.

—As a widow of a deceased worker. A widow's payments may range from $30 to $81.40 a month, the amount depending on how long her husband worked under Social Security and his wages while he worked.

—Or, as the mother of a deceased worker who was furnishing at least half of his mother's support and who left no widow or child entitled to payments. The payments may range from $30 to $87.40 a month, depending on how long her son worked under Social Security and his wages while he worked.

If a woman qualifies for payments in more than one of the ways listed above, she can collect under only the one which would give her the highest payments.

For example: Suppose a woman worked under Social Security long enough to be entitled to payments as a worker. And, suppose she is also a widow of a deceased worker. She could receive payments as a working woman or as a widow—whichever way her payments would be higher—but she couldn't collect as a widow and as a working woman.

There are two different ways which a woman may receive Social Security payments before reaching age 62:

—As a working woman covered by Social Security if she is between 50 and 65 and if she becomes severely disabled.

In order to qualify, she must have worked under Social Security for a certain length of time.

The size of her payments may range from $30 to $108.50 a month depending on how long she worked under Social Security and her wages while she was working.

—As a wife, widow or dependent divorced wife of a deceased worker if she is caring for a child under 18 or a disabled child who was disabled before reaching 18. Payments may range from $30 to $200 a month, depending on the number of children a woman is caring for, the length of time that the father worked under Social Security and the amount of his wages while he was working.

Payments based on being qualified under this category will stop after the child or children reach 18, unless the wife, widow or dependent divorced wife has reached 62.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Duke of Windsor, Duchess Plan Baltimore Burial

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII of England, and his American-born wife have made plans to be buried in Baltimore, the Evening Sun reported.

The duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, was reared in Baltimore and was a member of its select society before visiting England and eventually marrying the former monarch after he abdicated Dec. 11, 1936.

The Evening Sun article by Francis Rackemann said the information came from a source "close to the couple." There was no further identification.

Burial will be in historic Green Mount Cemetery, about 1½ miles from the downtown section, the Evening Sun said. Records of the 113-year-old burial ground list at least a dozen Warfields, as well as Sidney Lanier, the poet, and John Wilkes Booth, President Lincoln's assassin.

The story added: "Although the proprietors of the cemetery declined to comment on the burial plans of the royal couple, one member of the board said negotiations for the lot in Green Mount Cemetery were made about six months ago."

In 1936 California led all states in truck sales with 92,374. Texas was second with 70,433.

A Fillip for Oldsters, New Wine for Youth

Newsmen Write 'Made in Detroit'

By GEMMA STRIFFLER
Pontiac Press Editorial Staff

'Made in Detroit'

By Norman Beasley
and George W. Stark
Published Sept. 30, 1957

Oldsters will chuckle over those early Detroit days. Middle-agers will have their own more recent memories of the 20s and 30s.

Youngsters, in the throes of this atomic age, should not miss reading of the embryo automobile era. For their lives today are the result of the social and economic influences of 15,000,000 Model Ts.

Two veteran newspapermen have put their reminiscences together, and after much loving research have this week published the book, 'Made in Detroit.'

Norman Beasley is perhaps best known for his earlier book, 'Money and Motors,' and was for many years a reporter on the old Detroit Journal. George W. Stark is the dean of Detroit newspaper reporters and is still with The Detroit News. He also has written other books about Detroit.

If you are an oldster, you should remember:

Buddhist Monastery Uncovered in India

COMILLA, India — An old Buddhist monastery has been discovered during excavations at Mainamati, near Comilla, India.

It unfolds a fourth period in the history of Buddhism remains there, taking their origin back another century. This shrine, discovered at a lower level, alters the picture drawn on the basis of two previous excavations.

The new discovery now becomes contemporary with the monastery at Paharpur, built by Pal rulers in the 7th Century A.D., it is stated. Terracotta plaques, carved bricks and pottery found are similar to those at Paharpur. The shrine was built by the Deva ruler, Sri Bhavadeva, who ruled southeast Bengal.

Churchill's (the gentlemen's saloon), the Russell House, Fielding Yost who came to the Michigan campus in 1901, the 64 new automobile companies in that same year, also the year 1907 when Automobile Row with 18 dealers was along Jefferson avenue on both sides of Brush, and when Mr. and Mrs. Detroit went to the theater to see Jesse Bonstelle.

And what about the date Sept. 16, 1908, when the General Motors Company was incorporated with a capitalization of $2,000!

Within two years, among 20 companies it absorbed, were three from Pontiac: Oakland Motor Car Co., Welch Motor Car Co. and the Rapid Motor Vehicle Co.

Middle-agers hardly will remember that such never-to-be-forgotten songs as 'The Japanese Sandman,' 'Tulip Time in Holland,' and 'Till We Meet Again' (Dick Whitting) were composed in Detroit.

But they should remember when Woodward avenue was paved all the way from Detroit to Pontiac with a concrete ribbon all of 14 feet wide . . . and Edlde Guest, whose verse fame could never outstrip his loyalty to the Detroit newspaper that gave him his first opportunity.

The authors have made this book Oh, so readable; just as if a group of friends was sitting around the fireplace chatting about old times, and each one interrupting with 'Do you remember . . .'

But today's youngsters will do well to heed, and to learn, of these traditions, for it is from these . . .

And that was the way of it!

Peppermint Flavors Quick Nut Clusters

These sweet tidbits usually receive praise!

Chocolate Nut Clusters
4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate pieces (1/2 cup)
1/2 cup crushed peppermint stick candy
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
Melt chocolate over warm (not hot) water. Stir in peppermint candy and walnuts until nuts are coated. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper to harden. Makes about 2 dozen clusters.

No Need to Go to Mexico

Treat yourself to a Mexican type meal without long hours in the kitchen. With canned and packaged foods it can be done. Serve canned chili con carne with beans on canned tamales or enchiladas. You'll want pickles, ripe olives and hot peppers for the relish tray and a melon and fruit plate to double as salad and dessert.

Accent Leftover Chicken With Curry and Coconut

The homemaker who enjoys the gourmet touch to food will heighten appetites with this unusual recipe for curried chicken soup. Cooked chicken will cease to be considered a leftover when it is used in this nutritious and flavorful soup with a pronounced curry flavor. Bits of chopped parsley with diced celery and chicken make a pleasant texture and flavor to the soup. A generous quantity of milk helps supply valuable nutrients which makes it a suitable main dish for a luncheon or supper.

Toasted coconut may be used as a garnish for the soup, and also used with chutney and butter on assorted crackers or Melba toast as a soup accompaniment. You will enjoy this curried soup on many of your very special menus.

Curried Chicken Soup
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup diced celery
1/2 cup minced onion

1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder
1 quart milk
2 cups diced, cooked chicken
1/2 cup chopped parsley
Sauté celery and onion in butter over low heat until tender. Blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk stirring constantly and cook until smooth and thickened. Add chicken and heat thoroughly. Add parsley just before serving. Serve in hot bowls. Garnish with a spring of parsley or toasted coconut. Makes 6 servings.

Sandwich filling made from chopped or mashed hard-cooked eggs will benefit from the addition of finely diced celery and green pepper along with the usual mayonnaise.

Caution: always freeze food immediately after you wrap or package it.

Cheddar Cheese Is Most Popular of All

Meet the Jack-of-all meal trades, cheddar cheese. Most homemakers know how good cheddar is in main dish casseroles and what delicious salads it makes. Cheddar cheese makes soup, too. Just stir grated cheese into potato soup.

Don't throw away that piece of cheddar cheese you left in the refrigerator and now is moldy. Just trim off the mold and use what is left suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. It is just as good as the day you bought it.

Be a label reader when you buy cheddar cheese. Buy the flavor you like — mild, medium or sharp. To get your flavor's worth use low heat when you cook cheese.

Flower Petal Pastry Holds Mincemeat Filling

Cut circles of pastry to fit bottoms of tiny cup-cake pans. Overlap other pastry circles, five of them, around edge of pans, using a little white of egg to hold the petals together. Bake until delicately browned, and you'll have lovely little flowers. Fill with mince meat.

To convert a 9-ounce condensed package of mince meat into the ready-to-use kind, break into a small saucepan, add 2 1/2 cup of water, and stir over heat until lumps are broken down. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for about a minute. Cool.

Marinate Shrimp to Broil
Marinate peeled raw shrimp in a tangy French dressing for about an hour and then broil. Serve with a baked potato and a green salad to which shredded red cabbage has been added. Toss the salad with French dressing mixed with cream and crushed garlic.

GLAZED LAMB SHOULDER — Serve lamb shoulder roast with a delicately-flavored fruit and mint sauce prepared with almonds and celery. Lamb shoulder is an economical year-round cut.

Boned Lamb Shoulder Makes Satisfying Dish

Mr. Clifford Bowes, in a cutting demonstration before the nation's food editors, presented recently the many cuts of lamb which are available to homemakers the year 'round. Stressing newer cuts such as leg steaks, rolled shoulder, French chops, spareribs, sirloin roast, lamb cutlets and short ribs, Mr. Bowes, meat merchandising consultant, also emphasized the fact that lamb is economical.

The carcasses being marketed today are meatier, weighing 50 to 60 pounds, and provide a higher ratio of meat to bone which is an important economy factor. Also brought out was the fact that because lamb is a satisfying meat, it is possible to serve smaller portions of lamb than other meats.

Cheese in Prune Plums Makes Delicious Salad
Prune Blossom Salad is as pretty as a picture and mighty delicious too. Cut Idaho fresh Italian prune plums in 6 sections, not quite through. Spread open enough to remove the seed, easy to do since this is a freestone fruit. Place on a bed of shredded lettuce or of watercress. Fill centers with cottage cheese. Sprinkle with shredded orange rind.

Pass a French dressing made of orange and lemon juices. Or pass a salad dressing made by combining 1/4 cup of heavy cream, whipped, with 1 cup mayonnaise and a bit of orange juice.

Squash Season Is Here With Many Varieties

Fall seems just around the corner now that so many fall squashes are in the markets. Which will you serve this week, asks the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

The small acorn shaped squash is dark green on the outside, golden on the inside. The tan-colored butternut squash is sometimes called 'dogbone' because its shape reminds one of a huge bone — large on one end and small on the other.

The Delicious variety is larger than the acorn squash. Most are dark green with lighter green stripes at the blossom end. The shape reminds you of a child's top.

The largest squash is Hubbard which is usually better after frost. The squash that looks as if it wears a small turban on top is called Buttercup.

There is plenty of squash at about 10 cents a pound or 10¢ each. Why not fit more squash into your menus, and try all kind for different flavor treats.

Use Bananas, Not Water

It's easy to make banana muffins, with a real banana flavor, using the packaged commercial mixes for plain muffins. When the mixing directions on the usual 14-ounce package specify the addition of 1 1/4 cups water, simply add 2 cups mashed ripe bananas instead of the water.

Need Ascorbic Acid to Freeze Peaches

Frozen peaches will be high on your popularity list this fall and winter after the fresh fruit is gone but not forgotten. Peaches are one of the best fruits to use for freezing, but the one problem you might run into, tells Mary C. Hixon, Oakland County Home Demonstration Agent, is that of darkening. To prevent light-colored fruits, like peaches, from turning dark, Mrs. Hixon suggests you add ascorbic acid (vitamin C) to the syrup just before you pour it over the fruit.

Either your grocery store or your drugstore will have some form of ascorbic acid on hand. Your grocer will have a commercial preparation of ascorbic acid; just follow directions on the package about amounts to use. You will find either the crystalline or tablet form of ascorbic acid at your drugstore. For each quart of cool syrup, add ½ teaspoon of the crystals or 1,000 milligrams of the tablet form. Peaches will have a better texture if they are packed in syrup or sugar. You can make the syrup with hot or cold water, but he sure it's cool when you pour it over the peaches. The peaches may be packed with plain water to which you have added ascorbic acid, if you are one who does not care to add any sugar.

Raisins Are Losing in Popularity Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that the raisin is losing ground in the competition for a place on the consumer table.

Consumers ate an annual average of 3.1 pounds during the late Twenties. But since that time, the consumption rate has been declining. By 1936 it had dropped, the Department said, to 1.7 pounds.

Officials said an increased availability of fresh and frozen fruits was an important factor in the smaller demand for raisins.

You Can Stuff Half a Bird

Half turkeys, weighing 8 to 13 pounds, may be roasted over a mound of dressing at the same time and temperature recommended for a whole bird. That means a large half turkey will bake in four to four-and-one-half hours in an oven set at 325 degrees. The rack in the baking pan should be covered with aluminum foil so the stuffing can be transferred easily to the serving platter.

Under Mohammedan law husbands can divorce their wives simply by saying to her three times: "I divorce you."

Coffee Confection

Monochromatic in shades of beige and brown, this dessert is a natural for autumn entertaining. Melt a ten-ounce package of marshmallows in one cup of strong, hot coffee. Cool, then fold in a cup of heavy cream which has been whipped. Put the dessert in 12 fluted paper cups, sprinkle with grated chocolate and slices of Brazil nuts. Place in the freezer compartment until firm.

Shake Up Mayonnaise for Guest's-Choice Salad

A choose-your-calories salad is a plentifully. And don't dress them beforehand. Serve a tempting salad dressing, like this magic mayonnaise made with sweetened condensed milk, which may be used lavishly or sparingly—or not at all by the too, too plump. Group various salad accessories around the greens—sliced cucumbers and tomatoes, rings of onion and sweet pepper, sticks of celery and carrots, with radishes and olives, too, if you wish.

To make more substantial eating, add a supply of whole wheat and white bread sandwich sticks—two slices of bread, one of each kind, buttered together and cut into four strips. Add, too, sticks of yellow cheese rolled in sliced ham or salami or bologna rolled around celery sticks into easily eaten servings. The magic salad dressing that goes so well with all this assemblage of good things to eat is failure proof, just whipped up or shaken up in a couple of minutes.

Magic Mayonnaise

½ cup (1½ 15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup vinegar or lemon juice
¼ cup salad oil or melted butter
1 egg yolk
Dash of cayenne
1 teaspoon of dry mustard

Place ingredients in a pint jar, cover tightly and shake vigorously two minutes. If desired ingredients may be placed in a mixing bowl and beaten with rotary eggbeater until mixture thickens. If thicker consistency is desired, chill for about one hour before serving.

Try Raisin Applesauce

Raisins are good for children and so is apple sauce. So why not combine the two good things—a handful of raisins tossed into dishes of canned apple sauce, with a pour of light cream added. When to serve? Oh any time from breakfast on to bedtime.

No Salt? Try Tabasco

A desirable seasoning for ordinarily drab low-salt diets is Tabasco, a liquid red pepper containing practically no sodium. In using canned dietetic pack vegetables, drain liquid into saucepan. Add Tabasco; boil liquid rapidly until reduced to one-half. Add vegetables and heat to serving temperature. Top with unsalted butter if desired.

Use simmering, not boiling, water when you are poaching fish.

For 1200 Years It's Been Shoyu

If you can believe the people who make it, Shoyu sauce is wonderful stuff and there's a lot of it.

Its makers claim it makes people grow tall, prevents infection and heart disease, and takes the place of salt, sugar and vinegar. Although the U. S. Department of Agriculture doesn't endorse all those claims, a recent USDA publication "Foreign Agriculture" recognizes the fact that Japan uses a lot of American soybeans to make the wondrous shoyu, or soy sauce.

The process today is about like it was 1,200 years ago, depending on natural fermentation of soybeans and wheat to give the soy sauce its rich, distinctive flavor.

About 18 million bushels a year of American soybeans make the long haul across the Pacific to produce part of the six billion bottles of soy sauce the Japanese ferment. That's about 70 bottles for each person in Japan.

Although the Japanese themselves are generous with the shoyu in their cooking and on their tables, they have some to spare. So, some of our U. S. soybeans, this time in bottled form, will trek back across the Pacific to American grocery shelves, and eventually find their way to American tables.

Crumbly Peach Pudding Good With Vanilla Sauce

Drain No. 2½ can peach halves; arrange in pie plate. Mix ½ cup brown sugar with ¼ cup graham cracker crumbs, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg and ¼ cup margarine until crumbly; spoon over peaches. Bake in 425 degree oven about 15 minutes, or until browned.

Serve hot with sauce made by combining 1 package vanilla pudding and pie filling mix with 3 cups milk, cooking until mixture thickens and boils 1 minute, while stirring. Makes 6 servings.

Fresh peas are wonderful when you add a dash of sugar, along with the salt during the cooking and a few tablespoons of heavy cream after they are cooked and drained.

BROILED CHICKEN BURGERS — Crusty Kaiser buns make this sandwich treat doubly appetizing. Hearty sandwiches like these are excellent to serve the youngsters when they dash in for lunch on school days. The chicken buns would also make good late evening refreshments.

Cranberry - Chicken Sandwiches Broiled

Sandwiches made with buns are good and different. You can choose from so many shapes and sizes, and every one makes a satisfying sandwich when filled with something tasty.

Broiled Chicken Burgers owe their appeal to crusty Kaiser rolls. Try them for your school youngsters' lunches or the next time you have a crowd in. There's no complicated arithmetic to enlarging the recipe, either, because this one will produce an even dozen sandwiches.

All it takes to make 'em is jellied cranberry sauce and some easy-to-do chicken salad. Place a slice of cranberry jelly on each buttered bun and top with chicken salad. Then pop the sandwiches under the broiler to heat. To serve, cover with the bun tops.

If Kaiser rolls aren't available in your neighborhood, any round buns will do as long as they are enriched buns. Enrichment is important to you, because it assures you three essential B-vitamins and food iron.

Broiled Chicken Burgers
12 enriched Kaiser or round buns
Butter or margarine
1-pound can jellied cranberry sauce
Cut into 12 thin slices
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ cup chopped sweet pickle
Salt and pepper

Split buns and spread with butter or margarine. On bottom half of each bun, place slice of cranberry sauce. Mix chicken, mayonnaise or salad dressing, pickles, salt and pepper. Spread on top of cranberry sauce. Place under broiler until hot and bubbly. Cover with bun tops. Makes 12 sandwiches.

Serve Fragrant Compote

For a luscious hot fruit compote as finale for a meal on a brisk day, try this: Combine and gently heat through, in their own syrup, stewed prunes, canned apple slices and canned apricots. Serve while still fragrant and hot — with a bit of cream, if you wish.

Keep Rice Nutritious by Preparing Right

October is Rice Harvest Festival month, and if you're one of the many homemakers who really puts rice "through the mill" when cooking it, now's a good time to practice the correct way of preparing this versatile, easy-to-use food.

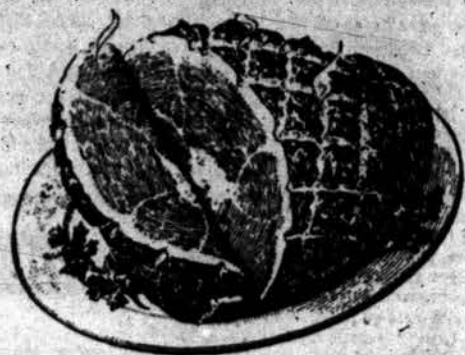

Firstly, washing packaged rice is a waste of time and nutrition — it doesn't need to be washed, and shouldn't be washed. By just following these simple directions, you'll have perfect rice every time in the century-proven Oriental tradition.

To make three heaping cups of white fluffy rice, put one cup uncooked rice into two cups cold water with one teaspoon of salt added, using a two-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil and turn down the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid and cook over this low heat for 14 minutes. If not used immediately, keep the lid on the saucepan and the rice will stay hot and fluffy until serving time.

COSMIC CORN SQUARES — Food of the future! It looks as if everything will be speeded up when we take trips into outer space and rocket ships to the moon. One quick trick you can use now is to make variations of corn bread with an easy mix that includes a baking pan in the package.

Cosmic Corn Squares Give Taste of Future

Before all seat-belts are fastened for the first rocket trip to the moon, there are still many meals to prepare for the age in which we are now living. One of the newest variations on a favorite new-come to grocer's shelves is called Cosmic Corn Squares made from an easy corn bread mix. The very name implies the exciting future it holds for you once you have tried it.

Follow the package directions for the amounts of egg and milk. Then for Cosmic Corn Squares, simply add chopped apple and grated Cheddar cheese to the corn bread mix in the easy-to-squeeze plastic bag. Not a mixing bowl or measuring spoon is needed for this product which truly belongs in this era of supersonic speed.

The following recipes are also results of the meeting of the world of today and that of the future.

Cosmic Corn Squares
One 10-oz. package corn bread mix
1 egg, unbeaten
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup chopped raw apple
1/4 cup grated sharp cheese

Put unbeaten egg and milk into bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force air out. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger. With bag resting on table, mix by working vigorously with fingers. (Mix about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended.) Add apples and cheese to batter; knead a few times to mix with batter. Squeeze bag to empty batter into special aluminum foil pan contained in the package. (Do not grease pan.) Bake in preheated oven (425 degrees) about 20 minutes. Open corner folds of pan for easy cutting and serving. Serves eight.

Cosmic Cookies
8 squares (2-oz.) unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1/4 cup slivered almonds
Melt chocolate and butter over low heat (may use double boiler). Add remaining ingredients, except almonds, blending thoroughly. Pack firmly into well-greased 7 x 11-inch square pan. Sprinkle slivered almonds on top.

Bake in pre-heated oven (425 degrees) about 12 minutes or until mixture is bubbly and almonds toasted. Thoroughly cool in refrigerator; run knife around edges to loosen, then turn out of pan. Cut into bars and store in refrigerator. Makes 20 bars.

Cut leftover vegetables into toothpick-size strips and add to consommé. Pretty and good!

"BEAT THE CLOCK" BREAKFAST — Here is a breakfast for those who eat on the run with one eye on the clock. It features two convenience foods. The fully cooked Canadian style bacon requires only brief heating. English muffins are available at your bakery. Toast one half, spoon over Devil-Scrambled Eggs. These are topped with chives and shredded cheddar cheese, now available in cellophane bags holding one cup.

Beware of Pliable Beans

If you are buying green snap beans, check to see if they snap rather than bend, reminds the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. If beans bend, they are too long off the vine or just too old for really tasty eating.

Coffee Cake Made With Muffin Mix

Here's a new flavor twist for a breakfast-time standby that's quick and easy to make and bound to make morning grrouches sit up and smile.

Pineapple Coffee Cake
1 12-ounce package corn muffin mix
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup (8 oz. can) crushed pineapple, drained

Melt butter in 8-inch square pan; remove from heat, and sprinkle with brown sugar, cinnamon and drained pineapple. Empty contents of package into bowl; add eggs and milk; and blend until dry ingredients are moistened. Spread batter over pineapple mixture. Bake at 375 degrees (mod. oven) 20 to 25 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Turn upside down on serving platter. May be served hot or cold.

Keep Hamburger Juicy by Cooking Slowly

If homemakers could have one wish, at least some of them would wish for one more way to serve hamburger. Hamburger seems to fit the menu in every way. It is all meat, good nutrition and economical. It provides 3 to 4 servings from a pound.

To cook hamburger, keep the heat low reminds the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs.

the top of the patties, for this squeezes the juice out and makes the meat dry. For tops in flavor serve hamburger the day you buy it.

If your refrigerator does not have a special compartment for storing meat, place the meat on a plate with a piece of waxed paper over the top. Do not cover the meat tightly. Store in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Bowling, Cake Decorating Are New Courses

Fall Classes Announced by YWCA

Bowling and cake decorating are among the new classes offered by the YWCA, according to an announcement by Mrs. William A. Crisp Jr., young adult chairman.

Fall term classes, which begin the week of Oct. 7, include such perennial favorites as bridge and sewing, as well as conversational Spanish, copper enameling, ceramics, wood fiber flower making, and a food marketing course offered through courtesy of the MSU Extension Service.

A varied crafts class offers a choice of textile painting, charcoal sketching, china painting, oil painting, and wood or metal painting.

Swimming and exercise classes will begin Oct. 16 in the YMCA pool and gym. An innovation will be the "grandmothers' swimming class" for women over 45 years of age who never had the time or opportunity to learn to swim when younger.

CARE FOR CHILDREN

Nursery service will be available for pre-school age children above 2½ years on both Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Use of limited parking facilities in the neighborhood of the YWCA has been arranged for both day and evening classes.

Noon programs will follow the class sessions Wednesdays, according to Mrs. Crisp. The first program, on Oct. 16, will feature a speaker on "Charm in a Capsule" from a modeling school in Detroit.

Later programs will include travelogues, white elephant auctions, puppets who expound on diet and health, Christmas Workshop sessions, and other novelties. All morning classes are preceded by coffee periods. Evening sessions—in most subjects except swimming—are also planned. Folders giving times, dates and fees are available at the YWCA.

Mike Believes Liz Deserves an Oscar

By LEE BELZER

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Producer Mike Todd was plugging today for an Academy Award for his wife, Elizabeth Taylor.

Todd, who has flown to Louisville, Ky., to attend, along with Liz, the world premiere of "Raintree County," which stars Miss Taylor, Montgomery Clift and Eva Marie Saint, said:

"I think this is the finest dramatic performance Liz has ever turned in and I think she's deserving of an Oscar."

THE CIGAR-SMOKING producer grabbed an Academy Award last year for his "Around the World in 80 Days," and he believes it only fair that his wife has one, too — a "his" and a "hers."

Critics, who already have witnessed sneak previews of the film, agree that Miss Taylor is "excellent" as bewitching Susanna Drake, the Scarlett O'Hara-type character who falls in love with a Yankee and winds up drowning herself in a swamp.

Liz, long considered the most beautiful woman in Hollywood, began her screen career as a moppet in "Lassie Come Home" away back in 1942.

Since then she has matured as an actress. She has been voted three times to hotel heir, Nicky Hilton, to British actor Michael Wilding and lastly to Todd, the "madman of Broadway."

To properly prepare herself for the demanding role of Susanna, Liz studied the motion picture script for months and spent long hours in conversation with Marguerite Lamkin, dialect coach for "Raintree County" so she could roll out those Southern "you'llas."

ACCURATE DETAILS

Although Miss Taylor and Miss Saint are the two beauties of the piece, devotees of Civil War history will be interested to know the MGM research department checked details so carefully on the $6,000,000 epic they even discovered the wording used on a press pass for a Yankee news correspondent.

They also checked and found, through a study of numerous documents, articles and pictures, that the mentally ill during Civil War times, in this country and abroad, were imprisoned and little else.

In some instances, patients were confined in cages and cared for as mere animals.

In the film, Miss Taylor portrays a person who is a little "tetched."

Both Mike and Liz were among some 50 movietown personalities who were on hand in Louisville last night for the world premiere of the most extravagant Civil War film in history.

Start Drive for Earlier Adoptions

Agencies Hope to Speed Placement of Children

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—One way social agencies are trying to meet the increasing demand for babies for adoption is to encourage placements at an earlier age.

This is a marked change in concept of agencies concerned with adoptions, according to the U.S. Children's Bureau. It is the result of careful scrutiny of past practices, of experience and of exhaustive conferences with specialists, psychologists, genetics and psychiatrists.

OUTWEIGH RISKS

"They have learned the advantages of early placement (under 4 months) to the child and adoptive parents usually outweigh the risks that are involved," says the bureau.

These risks were the ones formerly eliminated by observing the child over an extended period to be sure he didn't develop physical, mental or health problems.

"Much emphasis is being placed on early placements of children and early decisions on the part of the mother," explains Miss Ursula Gallagher, the bureau's consultant on unprotected adoptions and services to unmarried mothers.

This, she says, has grown out of a real willingness to study and analyze the best knowledge, and a real willingness to experiment, too.

FEELING OF SECURITY

"The sooner a child has permanent placement with parents, the sooner he will have a feeling of security and of belonging," Miss Gallagher says.

"For the parents, it's best to have the experiences and satisfactions of carrying a child through infancy."

Miss Gallagher stresses, however, the necessity of combining early placements with services of the natural parent. "Cases involving heartaches," she explains, "usually are the ones where the mother has given up the child without facing all possibilities."

"In order to make a decision, the natural parent needs expert help. Agencies are trying to help her do what is best in her individual situation, weighing all alternatives."

GROWING CONCERN

Communities are showing a growing concern about the unmarried mothers who do not receive service, she said. Committees under the sponsorship of the Federation of Social Agencies in various cities are concentrating on the subject of the independent adoption and services to unmarried mothers.

Don't Pen Toddler In — He Needs Adventure

Exercise Program Should Begin in Early Days of Babyhood

(This is the fourth of a series of five articles based on the book "The Child's Healthy Start" by Bonnie Prudden, published by Harper & Bros.)

Here are some positive things you, the parents, can do right at home to build the vital strength and flexibility your youngsters must have. They must begin—all medical factors in the case being equal — immediately following birth.

That is when probably you enjoy your child the most and that is when he must start right off to enjoy the life into which he has been born—and be able to enjoy it from then on out.

Here is what you do.

Start the baby on an exercise program the day he comes home from the hospital. Stretch his arms and legs, gently, of course, but move them. Let him pull himself up on your fingers. Allow him plenty of kicking time, unencumbered by clothing—preferably in the sun on the floor on a large blanket.

Make the horizon as large as possible. From the beginning, the baby should not have the feeling of being penned in.

He should feel that the world is a place of adventure and be free to investigate it. Sitting still should never be made too comfortable.

Starting as soon as the youngster is able to walk, make a point of walking with him daily, even if at first it is only a block. Try to have a pleasant objective in mind—visiting a friend (this as well as yours).

Find him a rock to climb, a park or woods where he can run free. But remember, he has to walk back. So start with short distances in order not to discourage him.

Help him to climb and balance on every available object on the way. When he has mastered it, he will do it without your help. This is the best insurance against injury.

A child sure of his balance knows where he is in space. He reacts quickly to sudden changes and is a far better bet in an emergency than a child who has never been permitted to try his wings before the emergency arose.

Indoors, the child should have a small exercise mat. It can be an old mattress covered with duck or denim for appearance's sake. On his mat he can start, almost as soon as he can walk, to learn somersaults.

He places his head and hands on the floor with his bottom in the air. A gentle push will send him over. If you wait until he has grown tall and inflexible, this will be much more difficult to learn.

In general, allow the youngster free time, free space and freedom from clothing as much as possible. Play with him often, with firm and gentle hands. He must know from the beginning that those hands will never drop him.

GOOD FOR BALANCE

Roller skating is good for balance, coordination, strength, self-confidence and rhythm. When you are planning to build a new driveway make it wide and of smooth cement. It then can be used as a roller skating rink, a basketball court, a place to bounce a ball and for all games requiring chalked ground markings.

If chalk disturbs you, paint stripes in bright colors. And console yourself with the thought that it is better to have a gaily marked driveway than a child who sits and watches TV or reads a comic book.

Make up a progress card on which can be noted everything he does in competition with himself.

Keep better track of his progress card than you do the family budget. A good card makes a wonderful birthday present for Dad. It is an incentive to the child also to see how much he has improved.

These foregoing suggestions are built around the concept of a home

United Church of Big Rapids was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding of Dorothy Jane Ostrander and Gerald Albert Klein. The John E. Ostrand is parents of the bride, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Klein.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD A. KLEIN

Dorothy Jane Ostrander Weds in Big Rapids Rite

Vases of white gladioli and pom-pom chrysanthemums banked the altar of United Church, Big Rapids, for the Saturday evening wedding of Dorothy Jane Ostrander and Gerald Albert Klein. The Rev. Burton E. Erickson performed the candlelight ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ostrander of Park Way Drive are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Klein of Ludington.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina-length gown featuring a bodice of French lace and tulle re-embroidered with sequins and pearls, long tapered sleeves and a skirt of nylon tulle with a front lace panel.

She wore a pearl and lace-trimmed cloche which held a pure silk ballerina-length veil. The bridal bouquet was a colonial arrangement of white roses and carnations with baby white streamers.

Mrs. Alfred Ostrander served as her sister-in-law's only attendant. She was gowned in a cocktail-length American Beauty red velvet dress fashioned in princess style with a boat neckline. She wore a crownlet of white roses and carnations. Her bouquet was

But Major League Baseball Will Be Welcome on Coast

Dodgers, Giants Don't Impress Western Teenagers

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Tens of thousands of words have been written about the proposed removal of the baseball Giants and Dodgers to the West Coast, but no one I know of has taken the trouble to consult the teenagers about it.

And where will you find more important baseball fans, present and future, than among the high school set? My own previous surveys have confirmed that, in fact, baseball is their favorite sport.

Now that World Series time has rolled around again, the Gilbert poll takers have gone to the teenage grass roots in the San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York areas and come up with some fresh viewpoints that should hearten, as well as surprise, some of the baseball magazines, and give pause to some of the adult fans.

For one thing, the teenagers out West aren't as bowled over as you might expect by the reputations of the big league clubs.

"The standard of the Pacific Coast league is as high as the Eastern leagues," asserted Walter Brown of San Francisco.

LOYAL ROOTERS

Nearly a third of the Western youngsters backed him up in this assertion. Even more surprising, so did a quarter of the Easterners.

The majority opinion was voiced, however, by Phil Andrews of Los Angeles who said, "It would be ideal if our teams could make the major league grade, but they wouldn't stand a chance."

Even so, more than a third of the Westerners would prefer that the local Pacific League teams be raised to major league status, instead of having the Giants or Dodgers imported.

Getting to the more optimistic returns on the situation, no fewer than 57 per cent of the West Coast youngsters interviewed asserted that game attendance there would be better than in New York, often considered the nation's No. 1 baseball stronghold.

CONTRADICTION REPLY

And, giving an answer somewhat contradictory to a previous one, 57 per cent also asserted that they like the idea of having the Giants and Dodgers on the coast.

For one, Barbara Roth of Beverly Hills confided, "I wouldn't say this to a New Yorker, but I did envy them having a big league team to root for."

Nearly 100 per cent of her generation also admitted being envious.

Paula Michaels of Sacramento is sure that big league baseball "will get a wonderful reception out here."

Even Patrick Nolan of New York agreed "they will have better attendance and more avid fans, like Milwaukee has now."

isn't baseball the great American sport?"

As things stood when our survey was made, the New Yorkers were evenly divided between the fans of Giants and Dodgers, whereas the Westerners preferred the Giants, two to one.

BETTER PLAYING?

And two-thirds of the Westerners (but only 15 per cent of the New Yorkers) thought that the teams would play better under California sunshine than in Eastern climes.

"We have good ballplayers to add to these clubs," asserted Margaret Henderson of Sacramento confidently.

Bob Gardner of San Francisco explained that "they will play better when they are appreciated."

A number of the more vocal New Yorkers followed the same line of reasoning.

"With more attendance and subsidy," commented Daniel Younger of Flushing, "they will have more money to spend on players and farm clubs."

Howard Able of New York added "more competition makes for better baseball," Fred Hanser of the Bronx said "the two teams will be trying harder to make an impression," and Miles Soberman of Brooklyn said "the change of coast will raise their morale."

LOTS OF DISSENTERS

Of course there were plenty of dissenting opinions from the East.

"They either know how to play or they don't," snorted Angelo Ferrone, of New York.

"I like the Dodgers and they owe something to their fans," said Jerry LaManita of New York. "They should stay here."

"If they move," threatened S. Galitzner, another New Yorker, "I won't be a fan anymore."

And Richard Bagley of Flushing applied the crusher: "New York City may lose its appeal as a baseball town."

Do You Truly Love Youngsters?

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I just love children!" people will frequently say. But when you pin them down, you find it's mostly the idea of liking children that they love.

You find that they never see children, now that their own are grown. They never give parties or presents for the neighborhood kids, or give a young mother a helping hand in their free time.

SOME REALLY DO

Fortunately, for each person like that, there are a dozen others who really do like children and who work out hobbies or even paying projects working with children.

If you've thought of this, here are some things to bear in mind.

First, be really sure that you do like children, that you enjoy being with them and that they don't make you nervous.

Second, realize from the beginning that just plain babysitting is not often very profitable. You'll have to add an extra gimmick.

For example, there's a retired couple, Mr. and Mrs. T., who solved their problem.

They loved children and missed their own grandchildren who lived out of the country with their naval officer father. So Mrs. T. began letting her young neighbors leave their youngsters with her while they went marketing. She always had a fine time with them.

Mr. T. sometimes let the youngsters watch him when he worked in the carpentry shop he had rigged up in the basement.

Mrs. Floyd Locke Heads City WCTU

Mrs. Floyd Locke was elected president of Pontiac WCTU when the group met Tuesday evening in First Presbyterian Church.

Also elected were Mrs. Ralph Osbourn, vice president; Mrs. Roy Riley, recording secretary; Mrs. Roy Fobender, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Allen Ebey, treasurer.

Mrs. Ray Fleming was named delegate to state convention to be held Oct. 23 through 25.

Sorority Gathers

Arlene Swanson of Brooks road hosted members of Phi Alpha Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Tuesday evening. Mrs. Thomas Ogden was named new sponsor of the group. Plans were made to assist in a Saturday money-making project.

Officers Installed

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gould conducted installation of officers for First Philathea Class of First Baptist Church Tuesday evening. Mrs. Gould also participated in the regular program.

It's not what you eat that causes ulcers; it's what's eatin' you.

—Henry Paetzel

He was very shy and did not talk easily. But when he began describing some complicated bit of carpentry, he was clear and interesting. "Finally," he told me, "I decided to give a regular class in making furniture."

A REGULAR CLASS

"I didn't charge for it, because it was so enjoyable for me. Two afternoons a week all summer, I had neighborhood children in for three hours.

"They supplied their own materials and we made footstools, lamps, small bookcases and a toy wheelbarrow. I showed them how to paint and shellac and how to mend things.

"Then my wife would bring in, cookies and lemonade and we'd end up having a party."

"Well, eventually I had to stop. When school started, I figured nobody would want to come — but I figured wrong. The parents said the kids missed it so much and asked me to continue 'shop' on Saturday through the fall.

"The kids wanted to make Christmas presents and things like that."

WONDERFUL TIME

"So now I charge each child 50 cents for Saturday mornings—and it really adds up. Most of all, my wife and I have a wonderful time. We really like kids!"

If you like children, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of The Pontiac Press and I'll send my pamphlet, "Playing With Children for Profit."

Girl Advised Not to Ask for Corsage

She Should Have Substitute Flowers
Ready in Icebox

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Very soon our school will be having a dance. It is one of the important dances of the school year. All of the girls wear corsages to this dance and it is customary for the boys to buy them.

"The boy I have invited to go with me is from another town and I am afraid he will not think to send me flowers. I don't want to be the only girl at the dance without flowers. Would it be proper for me to write and tell him about this?"

Answer: I'm sorry, but you cannot ask him to send you flowers. The only thing you can do is to have substitute flowers ready in the refrigerator in case he brings you none. You can tell him that your father has given them to you if he seems embarrassed at not having sent you flowers.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have been told that you said it is incorrect for husbands and wives to be seated next to each other when invited out to dinner. This doesn't sound right to me and I am sure that the person who told me this must have misunderstood you.

"I know that when I invite guests to my house for dinner I always seat husbands and wives next to each other and so do many other hostesses whom I know. I am curious to know who is right."

Answer: One of the reasons for any dinner is to allow guests to talk to and exchange ideas with others, rather than the husband or wife they see every day. No, husbands and wives should not be seated next to each other.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow with a daughter-in-law by the same name. Should I add Sr. to my name, or is my daughter-in-law Mrs. John Jones Jr.?"

Answer: Yours is the one situation which for the sake of clarity requires that you add Sr. to your name. Your daughter-in-law is Mrs. John Jones without any suffix.

Americans Enjoy Bathroom Luxury

American tourists returning from abroad can't help but feel a bit proud of our so-called "bathub culture." We didn't have bathtubs first, but when we did get them, we added all the necessary fixings.

Almost every family in this country can now enjoy hot baths or showers. And even if they don't have a maid to draw the water and test its temperature with a thermometer like the Ritz in Paris, they do have something the Ritz doesn't always provide — and that's plenty of soap.

They conquer who believe they can. He has not learned the lesson of life who does not each day surmount a fear.
— Ralph Waldo Emerson

Nothing Is So Boring as Nothing to Do

Routine Chores Hold Many Joys

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

We are all human in that we become bored at times with our work and our surroundings. We long for a change. The usual and well-loved obligations and daily routines pall on us. We feel trapped. We tire of doing the same old things every day!

This is even true of work and obligations we really love. It is especially true of the woman who has the constantly demanding job of child rearing and housekeeping. I have a letter before me which came recently from a reader. It might be well to remember it on days when things seem too difficult and you long for release from routine.

A reader writes: "There is joy in preparing meals and receiving compliments on some culinary delicacy."

I know it impressed on me anew what sheer bonus it is to be alive and well and how much we would miss some of the obligations and duties if they were taken away from us.

I judge that this reader has had a stroke although she did not say so.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: When I read your article yesterday I was spurred on to write this letter. I agree with you heartily. While being a good mother and wife and housekeeper are very difficult jobs, I cannot think of more interesting or rewarding ones.

"To the reader who disagrees with you I would like to say, 'Have you ever thought of how it would be if you were not able to do the things about which you now complain?' Almost nothing equals the joy of accomplishment, of being needed.

Gliming to Girlhood Has Harmful Effect on Woman

and Shirks Adult Responsibilities

By RUTH MILLETT

The hardest thing in the world for some women to do is to admit to themselves that they have left girlhood behind.

It seems so pleasant to a lot of women who cling to the notion that they are still girls, when their years of girlhood are long since past.

What's so wrong about a woman's kidding herself that she is just a girl when she isn't?

Well, as long as a woman thinks of herself as a girl she drifts along in her old ways of thinking, feeling and doing. She should be developing a womanly personality to replace the girlish one she has outgrown.

If she thinks of herself as still a girl, she puts herself in competition with women much younger than she is.

If she thinks of herself as still a girl, there seems to be all the time in the world left to her to develop her own inner potentialities. So she keeps on concentrating on being just pretty, and cute and helpless.

If she refuses to acknowledge that she is a woman with a woman's responsibilities, she is sure to shirk many demands she should be learning to meet with calm and patience.

So long as she thinks of herself as a girl, a woman refuses to grow up.

False Fireplace Has Advantages

There are some very definite advantages to artificial fireplaces.

First, they're non-dependent upon chimneys and can be placed wherever you wish. Second, they keep the room soot-free because they don't "work" in the conventional fire-and-smoke way — even though most of them do have lighting effects.

One type of "fake" fireplace is composed of hard plaster which simulates real flagstones. It can be scrubbed clean with just a sponge dipped into soap or detergent suds.

Families Start 'Afightin' Then End Up 'Afeudin'

ANN ARBOR — What touches off a family feud in the South? "They get started any number of ways," says John E. Tracy, professor emeritus of law at The University of Michigan, in The Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review published at U. of M.

"Someone shoots another man's dog, and the owner shoots the man who shot the dog, and the other man's relatives shoot him and maybe someone is caught and hanged. The thing smolders on."

"Every boy in each family is brought up to know that all the members of the other family are his enemies. Every time the families get anywhere near one another, as in town on court days, there may be some hot words, someone will start shooting and the feud is on again," says Professor Tracy, who originally hailed from Tennessee where there have been some pretty long-continued feuds.

FORGOT HOW IT STARTED

He recounts: "One of our bitterest feuds was between the Hixons and the Gosses. It started generations ago, so long ago that no one ever can remember how it started. But it lasted and lasted and every Hixon hated a Goss and every Goss hated a Hixon."

Gradually, says the professor, the Hixons began to lose out. A number of them got killed off and others didn't produce many children. Finally there were only two male Hixons left — two brothers in their late teens, Virgil and Lon. Virgil went out to Texas where he later died a natural death.

Lon stayed on the old place. He courted a very fine girl down Burgess way, Lizzie Tollet, a school teacher, and they were married.

Lizzie taught all of her big flock of children as she couldn't risk sending them to a school attended by the Goss children, and they got a fine education. Every one hoped the trouble was over.

But when Lon was about 40 years old, he was called into town to serve on a grand jury which had been called to investigate some hog stealing. When Lon found out that it was probable the guilty person was a Goss, he asked to be excused from further duty but the judge would not let him go. Goss was indicted and arrested, but let out on bail.

STARTED ALL OVER

A few days later, Lon stepped to the door to see why the dog was barking. He fell dead with a bullet in his heart. The murderer was never known, but everyone in the community knew it must have been a Goss.

Young Lon, then about 15 years old, grabbed his father's gun and it was all his mother could do to keep him from going out to kill Gosses.

The morning after the funeral, Lizzie loaded all the children and household goods into the wagon and started out for Texas where the feud mustn't have a chance to continue any more. Since she wasn't a born Hixon, she could be the one to make the decision. What became of the Gosses? "Well," says the law professor, "George was tried and convicted for hog stealing and served a term in the penitentiary. Later he got killed in a fight over a card. A graduate of Maryville (Tenn.)

College and the University of Wisconsin, Tracy practiced law at Menominee and Marquette before coming to the U. of M.

Some of the deepwater piers in the Hudson River jut out one-fifth of a mile to match several of the major ocean liners which are almost that long.

'Around the World'

Mike Todd's Big Movie Grosses Fortune Weekly

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD UP—A lesson in economics by Prof. Mike Todd, delivered on the run, you might say, since that's the way you find him.

It started at his studio office, where he spoke out the window to passing celebrities in between phone calls to France, England, Hawaii and New York.

The matter of economics arose from a printed report that his take from "Around the World in 80

Absolutely false, he said, bristling. The figure is much too low. "During a recent week," he declared, "the total gross for the picture was around $1,200,000. Our return from the picture never can go under 60 per cent."

"We are now open in 46 cities," Todd said, "and by Oct. 17—a convenient date (it's the film's first anniversary)—we'll be open in 25 more. At Christmas time, it will be playing in 100 locations. The picture has closed only in two cities, and then from extraneous circumstances."

"So far the domestic take has been 36 million. On this basis, I think the estimates of a 50 million gross are in error. A hundred million is more like it."

The producer remarked that he was forced into such prosperity. When he needed $300,000 badly to finish the picture, he offered a distributor 16 per cent of the profits for a loan. The firm declined, preferring to be repaid in cash.

When Victor Young died, Todd picked up the rights to the composer's music company. The result: the "Around the World" album blossomed forth as a top seller, yielding Todd another $200,000 a year.

Todd has blown many other millions, and I asked him if he could do it again.

"I don't think so," he said as he lathered his face for a shave. "There's so much coming in now that it taxes even my ability to spend."

FAMILY AFFAIR — Retiring Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, holding his last news conference before handing the post over to Neil McElroy, smiles as he gets a question from his wife, who attended the conference. Between the Wilsons is the Pentagon's public information director, C. H. Scheele.

Wilson Happy, Hates Nobody as He Returns to Private Life

By ED CREAGH

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON — Charles E.

Wilson goes back to private life a happy man, hating nobody and satisfied he has helped make his country stronger.

The former General Motors head steps out as secretary of defense next week. He held a farewell news conference yesterday and—well, it would be safe to say he was in top form: half hard-headed businessman, half pixie. It's a combination Washington long ago learned to love and respect.

"I have," said Wilson at the outset, "a special guest today." He indicated a gray-haired woman in a chic polka-dot outfit with a black hat. "That's Jessie," said the secretary of defense, by way of introducing his wife. Then he added, somewhat apprehensively: "I didn't quite get a commitment from Mrs. Wilson that she wouldn't ask any questions."

She did ask one, as it developed. She answered a couple too. Charlie Wilson had a costar in his last appearance before the capital press corps, and they both enjoyed themselves hugely.

Mostly, the questions and answers were serious — about such things as missiles and military spending. But Wilson, as always, was willing to talk about almost anything — from segregation to goony birds.

Segregation? "I went to school about 60 years ago with a little colored boy," he said reflectively, "and it didn't hurt me any. I do remember he wasn't the dumbest boy in the class."

Wilson joined in the laughter but declined the implied nomination.

"Mr. Wilson," another voice piped up, "have you ever used the goony bird story on these people?"

That was Mrs. Wilson. She won fame on her own hook in Washington by chiding President Eisenhower when the President seemed to be rapping her husband gently on the knuckles some months ago. She was just as irrepressible yesterday. Her husband grinned fondly.

Kind of a family joke, he explained. After he got back from Korea with President-elect Eisenhower in 1952 he was asked all sorts of questions he didn't want to answer. His stock technique was to start talking about the goony birds he saw at Midway Island, and the crazy flying dance they do.

"I'll admit," Wilson added, "that at times I've dodged (reporters') questions and talked about something else. That's the goony bird treatment."

He's more famous, of course, for saying exactly what he thinks — to the point of planting his foot firmly in his mouth on occasion.

Too Many Copy TV Griller Mike Wallace

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Mike Wallace, the gent who perfected the art of putting people on hot seats under cold lights, has entirely too many followers. Not only followers, in fact, but mimics.

His TV show — in which he asks leading questions while the camera glues itself on a guest's multiple chin and each expression on the intensely wary face above it — has started a new fad for personal, psychological grilling.

COPY TECHNIQUE

There is a growing tendency for fans of Wallace to copy his technique in every day dealings.

Thus, when a man nowadays asks, "What are you doing tonight?" he does not necessarily want a date; he wants data on what kind of girl you are after five.

And when you get on an elevator, your old cliché-loving elevator acquaintances no longer inquire: "Cold enough for you?"

SNEAKY PRYING

Now it's likely to be, "Is it true that this 30-degree weather is too cold for you and, if so, why is it that you do not wear a hat?"

Everything is sneaky, psychological prying these days.

Wallace, a very lovable fellow off-screen, was not the first to belt people with crumbling questions, of course, but his show got down to every man's emotional level. Before his time, there were the Senate crime hearings and the dozens of panel-grill shows, but they generally dealt with persons with whom the public had no real sense or rapport.

DISSECTS STARS

Then along came Mike to dissect movie stars, showgirls and hams in every class of life, and to find out — let's face it — the worst about them in the briefest possible period.

In trying to dismantle them and ascertain what makes them tick, he bombarded them with tricky, quick-changing queries that would do justice to a DA at a murder trial.

This new treatment of publicity-seeking personalities was fascinating for awhile (though ever slightly nauseating way down deep, where the let-live conscience meets the liver).

But lately the technique is becoming so widespread, both in so-called entertainment circles and in personal dealings, that it's got me wearing a frozen smile most of the time for fear some probing pal will discern that I really despise roaches. He would, of course, demand to know why — and goodness knows how my reputation would come out of it all.

I was discussing the Wallace

"Polite Pow!" system the other day with Arthur Van Horn, newsman and interviewer for WABC, a friend of both Mike's and mine.

After 15 years of interviewing people, he has now developed a new system — to suit a harassed world. He keeps his voice soothing, his questions unhurried, and he would as soon bite a sponsor as interrupt an interviewee in the middle of a sentence.

SOME CONFIDE

Van Horn's theory: A person usually will confide in an interviewer he trusts; a person invariably will hide the truth from an interviewer who frightens or offends him.

It seems to work out, too. On his daily "Midday Composite" radio show, Van Horn has wrung more truths, tears and secret fears out of movie stars and dignitaries by remaining gently silent, than most hard-hammerers have by tenacious attack.

So out with the national inquisition, the loud tugging at the closet door with a possible skeleton in it. Try a little tenderness and who knows how many bees in bonnets you'll catch.

New Wall Panel Has Foamed Plastic Core

NEW YORK — A recent survey of some 700 moderate-income American men discovered that 71 per cent of these questioned tried cooking in the family kitchen once in a while and 74 per cent of them expressed the opinion that they could cook as well as the lady of the house.

Twenty-six per cent even claimed they could do better than their wives.

Deaths Hit New Low

CHICAGO — The nation's 1956 pedestrian death toll of 7,950 was the lowest on record and 50 below the previous low of 1954.

Man, 76, Weds His 14-Year-Old Sweetheart

HERNANDO, Miss. — A 76-year-old great-grandfather from Missouri married his 14-year-old sweetheart here yesterday.

The bride, the former Mary Lou Lawson of Zelma, Mo., felt it would be a happy union. "I would rather be an old man's darling than a young man's slave," she said.

Her new husband, John G. Tatro, of Sturdivant, Mo., beamed. He said he has nine children, six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, but had been a lonely man since his first wife died last December. Mary Lou was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson. The newlyweds said they will head back to Missouri tomorrow.

Plastic Film Makeup Developed for Nails

NEW YORK — A New York firm has developed a new plastic fingernail makeup consisting of a strip of this plastic film cut into appropriate sizes and shapes. The "color petals" are said to be longer lasting and more easily applied than regular liquid nail polish. The manufacturer says the film can be peeled from its adhesive backing with little or no effort and it will adhere to nails for up to 10 days.

Fight on Disease Begins in Africa

MWANZA, Tanganyika — In the first large-scale attempt in Africa to eradicate the disfiguring disease of filaria, natives on an island in Lake Victoria are acting as "guinea pigs." The small isle is Ukara, 60 miles from Mwanza in Tanganyika.

The East African Medical Survey is administering one pill a month to each of the 4,000 inhabitants. The pills are a specific against elephantiasis. Ukara was chosen because of its high incidence of filariasis and elephantiasis and because of its isolation.

There, filariasis is spread by the Anopheles mosquito which picks up small worms of microfilariae by biting an infected person and transfers them to another bitten person. The natives are cooperative but the medical team has to visit every hut and make sure the monthly pill is taken.

Night Nurse Errs; 'Dead' Woman Alive

EDINBURGH — The night nurse telephoned Mrs. Dora Coulson's anxious relatives, from an Edinburgh hospital: "She has passed away." In the morning an undertaker called, and then the blunder was discovered.

At breakfast time an urgent call reached Mrs. Coulson's daughter: "It was a mistake. Mrs. Coulson is alive." And the 72-year-old patient sat up in bed at the Royal Infirmary, unaware that her death notice had appeared in a paper in her home town at Gateshead, England.

For 12 hours she had been mourned by her 76-year-old husband and their daughter and son-in-law. The hospital explained: "The ward's sister was off duty when a woman died and the staff nurse, overtired after a trying day, got the wrong name from the records. One can only be glad that such a mistake does not happen oftener."

Yanks Send Shantz Against Burdette Today

NEW YORK (U)—The victorious New York Yankees ruled a solid 12-5 choice to capture the World Series today as lefthander Bobby Shantz and Milwaukee right-hander Lew Burdette prepared to take the mound at Yankee Stadium in what is regarded as the key game of the October classic. Another crowd of some 70,000 was expected.

Should Shantz subdue the Braves, following Whitey Ford's five-hit, 3-1 triumph for New York yesterday, the Yankees could conceivably sweep the set in four straight over the tight and tense Milwaukeeans. Should the Braves rally behind Burdette and even the series, the outlook is for a knock-down and drag-out seven games.

The Braves were noticeably nervous and uneasy in the opener. They didn't hit, their fielding wasn't sharp and didn't play alert, heads-up ball. The Yankees outthrew them, outfielded them, yet the Braves weren't exactly outclassed. Certainly the Yankees didn't overpower them. They just did everything a little bit better than the Braves.

Warren Spahn, who was batted out in the sixth inning to suffer the loss, may have sounded the keynote for his team when he remarked in the clubhouse after the game:

"The Yankees showed us they were human, too. They didn't exactly roll over us. We were in the game all the way."

If manager Fred Haney was discouraged, he failed to show it. "We have no excuses," he said.

"We got beat, that's all. We had several opportunities, but we just didn't hit enough. The Yankees can be beaten. I'm still confident we'll win."

Haney was banking his hopes on Burdette, second only to Spahn during the Braves stretch run in September. The slender 30-year-old Virginian is an experienced pitcher even though he never before has appeared in a World Series. A 17-game winner, Lew's best pitches are a curve and a slider. He pitches like Spahn, who wasn't exactly bombed, giving up seven of the nine Yankee hits before leaving under fire in the Yanks two-run rally in the sixth.

For Shantz, as well as Burdette, this was series assignment No. 1. The little southpaw, acquired in a trade with Kansas City last February, earned his shot at Milwaukee with an 11-5 record and an earned run average of 2.44, lowest in the majors. The 5-7, 145-pounder also relies on breaking stuff, slow curves, screwballs and knucklers.

Ford turned in a neat performance but he has pitched better games in World Series. He issued four passes and was in several trouble spots but remained firm in the clutch. Milwaukee batters swung at bad pitches and watched good ones pass by.

Ford struck out five. His best pitch was a curve, which he admittedly threw 60 per cent of the time. Whitey's shutout bid was ruined in the seventh when Wes Covington's second hit, a double, pinch hitter Nippy Jones' infield out and Red Schoendienst' single produced the lone Milwaukee run. It was the only inning the Braves managed two hits.

It was a methodical game devoid of thrills. The crowd of 69,476, which paid $425,346.72, saw only one fine fielding play. That was made by Gil McDougald on Pafko in the fifth. The Yankee shortstop raced behind second for a fine stop and throw to ruin Andy's bid for a single.

That play probably saved at least one run because Covington's single, a miff by substitute first try, Coleman's relay of a potential double play grounder and a walk to Spahn put three other Braves on base in that inning.

Howard was in the game because Bill Skowron reinjured his back while running the bases in the first inning and was forced to retire. He may be lost to the Yankees for the rest of the Series.

Mickey Mantle, the other injured Yankee, played the entire game but his efforts were limited to two infield singles, one a beautiful drag bunt in which he gave a demonstration of his old speed.

Coleman, regarded as a light hitter, shared hero honors with Ford, along with Hank Bauer. The graceful second baseman contributed hits, scoring the first run and driving in the third.

FLYING YANKEE — Yankee second baseman Gerry Coleman leaps clear of sliding Hank Aaron of Milwaukee to get the ball off to complete a double play in the fourth inning yesterday in the opening game of the World Series at Yankee Stadium. The Yanks won, 3-1.

Full Slate for Prep Grid Teams

By CHUCK ABRAH

The Eastern Michigan League opener matching Birmingham and Mt. Clemens, two games in the Oakland B, full slates in the Wayne - Oakland and Southern Thumb loops, and several scattered non-league battles head a long list of prep contests coming up this weekend starting tonight.

Oakland B favorite Clawson and Oak Park begin this week's busy schedule at the home of the Trojans tonight and Lapeer will conclude hostilities in a Saturday game at Owosso. All others play Friday.

Birmingham will be on the road for the first time following a split of two home tilts. The Maples will be all out to start off league play on the winning side of the ledger but will have to contain hard-running Jack Smoot to do so.

The remainder of the EML teams meet outside opponents.

East Detroit is at home against Edsel Ford, Port Huron plays at Lansing Eastern and Hazel Park hosts tough Royal Oak Kimball.

Frank Crowell's improving Avondale eleven has hopes of snapping out of the losing doldrums in its Oakland B opener against Madison at Auburn Heights. Lake Orion goes after its 2nd loop triumph and 3rd for the season at Fitzgerald. Troy plays its 3rd warmup facing Roseville.

Top games in the Wayne-Oakland and 1st place Milford at Bloomfield Hills in an afternoon finale and West Bloomfield at Holly. Clarkston is home against Clarkston and Northville begins defense of its crown traveling to Brighton.

FORD GETS EARFUL — Manager Casey Stengel gives pitcher Whitey Ford an earful of words in the 6th inning of the World Series opener yesterday. Ford invited the conference when he had Milwaukee runners on second and third with two out. He then proceeded to strike out Andy Pafko.

Maglie's Wizardry Aid to Whitey Ford's Win

NEW YORK (U)—The hero of the opening World Series baseball game was curve-baller Edward Charles "Whitey" Ford, but he was a hero with a trailer. He said so himself.

The trailer was Sal "The Barber" Maglie, the corner-cutting veteran whose tour of duty has included the old-outlaw Mexican Leagues, New York Giants, Cleveland Indians, Brooklyn Dodgers and now the New York Yankees.

Bought by the Yankees Sept. 1, after the deadline for World Series eligibility, the Barber could not be put on the firing line against the Milwaukee Braves.

But some of his wizardry was in every pitch as Ford moved down the National League champions 3-1 on five hits to score his fifth world series pitching victory.

"I had a pretty good book on the Braves but I think Maglie helped me more than anybody," Ford, a mild-mannered young man said in the dressing room after the game.

"Our scouts did a very thorough job. But Maglie knew all there was to know about the Braves because he had faced them so many times. The dope he gave me was invaluable."

"During the past two weeks as we trained for the Series we would take outfield sprints together. All this time Maglie would be going over the Braves hitters with me."

Recently this column looked at the levels of collegiate football in the country and expressed the opinion that football in East was just second class to the Midwest, Southwest, Pacific Coast and Southeast.

It is interesting to note that the current Sports magazine presents an article about where the toughest football is played.

Where do they play the toughest football? Sports says clearly, "the Midwest." The article follows with the Southeast, Southwest, East, Pacific Coast, Missouri Valley, South and Rocky Mountain.

We would agree except we still transpose the East and the Pacific Coast in the majority of cases.

WISNER STADIUM LIGHTS TERRIBLE

It's no secret that the lights at Wisner Stadium are terrible. But it is a secret wondering if anything is being planned to correct the situation.

It is embarrassing that such a fine stadium should be criticized by opposing teams because of the lighting.

One high school coach recently remarked, "I felt ridiculous when we played in Pontiac."

"I asked one of the Pontiac coaches just before game time when the bright lights would be put on. I thought it was like most fields where they keep the dim lights on until game time and then they give it more power," he explained.

"I guess he thought I was being sarcastic, but I really didn't know those lights were that bad," he added.

How about all 4,000 people bringing flashlights Friday night, a little light shining on the goal line may be all the Chiefs need to guide them through the darkness.

DITTO FROM THE PRESS BOX

The fracas staged in Chicago last year between the Lions and the Bears must still be alive even among some of the traded players. Ex-Lion Ollie Spencer now with the Green Bay Packers, as result of the trade for Tobin Rote, was ejected from the Packer-Bears game Sunday along with Stan Wallace of Chicago after the pair exchanged blows. Spencer still has his home in Birmingham. He will have his homecoming game against the Lions this Sunday.

An Australian coach says that the Russians are taking their athletics so seriously that a team of 36 scientists are working full time in a special laboratory in Lenin Stadium on the science of all forms of sports.

Wayne Gets Season Started

State's 17 Small Colleges in Grid Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Every one of Michigan's 17 football-playing colleges will be in action this weekend.

While the three "big" schools—Michigan State, Michigan and Detroit—are busy with intercollegiate opponents, the little guys from Michigan's small colleges will begin settling some old league arguments.

A full slate of conference games is on tap in the MIAA, Central Michigan opens its interstate play Wayne State finally starts its season with a league game and Western Michigan tries to draw even in the rough Mid-American conference.

Chances are that nothing will be settled except Hillsdale's 23rd straight triumph when the Dales take on Olivet in a night game at Hillsdale. It will be Hillsdale's first MIAA start. Olivet dropped a 26-0 decision to Adrian last Saturday.

Albion has defeated Adrian regularly since 1950 and the two rival Methodist schools will resume their feud Saturday night at Adrian. Coach Bob Gillis said before the season started that Adrian's campaign would be considered a success if the Bulldogs could defeat Albion.

Alma is at Kalamazoo for an MIAA contest and hope, the other MIAA football school, will be at Marquette for a night game against Northern Michigan. The state's other Upper Peninsula college, Michigan Tech, tries for its first win against once-victorious Ferris Institute. This, too, is a night game.

Wayne state gets its customary late start in the football season and opens its campaign against a President's Athletic Conference opponent, Case Tech. The game will be played in Detroit.

Western Michigan, beaten 20-0 by Miami after a 33-0 victory over Central Michigan, takes on undefeated Marshall at Kalamazoo. The thundering herd has whipped West Virginia State and Morehead.

Central Michigan, loser of three in a row after winning 15 straight, tries Interstate Conference competition for its first victory. The Chippewas, despite the three defeats, will be trying to protect several other streaks. They have 11 straight conference wins and six straight over Illinois Normal, their Saturday opponent at Normal, Ill.

For the second straight week, Eastern Michigan starts the firing. The Hurons who downed Illinois Normal 33-14 last Friday night after losing to Hope College in their season inaugural, entertain Youngstown College of Ohio.

Walled Lake opens defense of its Inter-Lakes Conference football championship Friday afternoon and it shouldn't take too long for the Vikings to find out just how good they really are this season.

Coach Dave Smith takes his Viking marauders to Southfield for a battle which could shed a great deal of light on the race for conference honors.

Waterford invades Farmington tomorrow afternoon and Berkley plays host to Van Dyke under the lights in other league games that are also bound to hold much significance.

Walled Lake and Waterford, co-favorites for the title in the pre-season analysis, have been disappointing thus far. Both will have to improve to a marked degree if they hope to stage a repeat of last year's neck-and-neck race for the crown.

A year ago the two schools matched perfect records in a showdown clash at Walled Lake and the Vikings pulled out a thrilling last-minute 12-7 win to nail down all the laurels.

On the basis of their two showings in 1957, they won't be that well off when they collide Oct. 25 at Waterford.

Walled Lake has defeated Redford Union, 26-12, and West Bloomfield, 18-0. The victory over the Lakers was particularly unimpressive. The Vikings were sluggish and Smith made no effort to hide his disappointment.

The Skippers started out by losing to Royal Oak Dondero, 25-0, which surprised no one. They were underdogs in that game and it was more or less expected. But it was their 6-6 tie with Lapeer last week that really got coach Dave Freeman up in arms.

They were lucky to get a tie with the Panthers. Only a tying touchdown in the waning seconds saved them from another setback after being thoroughly outplayed by Lapeer.

Southfield will provide Walled Lake with a severe test on the basis of the Jays' two showings so far. Not expected to be strong this year, the Jays fought Royal Oak Kimball to a 7-7 tie and last Friday surprised Ferndale, 14-0.

Coach Monte Charles' outfit will be looking for a big hunk of revenge in this one. The Jays were title contenders last year until Walled Lake handed them a 40-18 pasting, a setback from which they never fully recovered.

Star halfback Ron Brewer is no longer available, but Charles has come up with a talented halfback in Tom Ridley and a skilled quarterback in Bob Flair plus some unexpected help from "green" personnel.

Farmington could well be a tough hurdle for the Skippers. The Falcons snapped Livonia Bentley's 15-game winning streak in the season opener before dropping a 13-12 decision to Rochester last week.

Berkley, the "dark horse" in the Inter-Lakes picture, will be favored to defeat Van Dyke, which is winless in two starts.

Staley to Guide Chiefs Against Ferndale Friday

Pontiac After Second Straight Victory at Wlmer Stadium

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A 16-year-old Pontiac High sophomore quarterback will be rewarded for a job well done against Lansing Sexton last weekend.

Little Fred Staley, 5-foot-7, 135 pounds who passed for one touchdown and scored another as the Chiefs defeated Sexton, 13-6 last Friday, will get the starting nod against Ferndale at Wlmer Stadium tomorrow night.

In his first pass attempt of his grid career, Staley fired an aerial to Bob Manning who scooted for the touchdown in a 63-yard play. He substituted with Dick Whitmer throughout the game and as result has earned the starting assignment.

Coach Jesse MacLeay however intends to utilize Whitmer as a linebacker. The 195-pound senior has been going both ways and with Staley in the picture Whitmer would be a valuable asset behind the defensive line.

Other sophomores and juniors are slated to see more action, including guard Charley Brown, a 185-pound soph, and Tom O'Brien a 170-pound junior end.

Other juniors in the lineup are regulars Willie Dunkin at guard, center Duke Relyea and Larry Douglas at fullback.

The flu has sidelined several players including regular end John Phlegm and tackle Bill Green. Halfback Jim Hawkins will be out of action due to a knee injury suffered in the Sexton game.

Ferndale will be looking for its first victory with a reshuffled lineup against the Chiefs. Last year, Pontiac was highly favored in the game in Ferndale, but was lucky to come out with a 7-7 tie.

Dales' coach Ted Meister has lost the core of the 1956 squad, but will have a definite weight advantage in the line tackles at 230 and 240. Halfback Dick Sherwood carries the brunt of the Railsplitter running attack which is directed by quarterback Tom Morey. Transplanted from right halfback because of his passing abilities.

Big Ten Leads Statistics

NEW YORK (U) — For the first time in the 21 years of the NCAA service bureau, teams from one conference—the Big Ten—dominated all departments of offense and defense, as well as kicking after last Saturday's games.

Although Big Ten clubs divided their openers, the NCAA bureau reported today they led the major colleges in seven departments, with Iowa tops in total offense, forward passing, and rushing defense. Michigan State led in rushing offense and total defense, while Ohio State was the forward pass defense leader, and Minnesota excelled in punting.

In total offense, Iowa ran up 648 yards in its 70-14 rout of Utah State, as Michigan State followed with 555 yards and Minnesota was third with 552 yards. Iowa's Big Ten champions connected for 328 yards in the air, while the University of Utah in two games is second, averaging 241.5 yards. Iowa's defense allowed a minus six yards, and Dartmouth was second, permitting New Hampshire but 33 yards.

Michigan State, in defeating Indiana 54-0, averaged 426 yards rushing, and Minnesota was second with 390 yards in the Gophers' 46-7 victory over Washington. Michigan State yielded only 80 yards to Indiana in 48 plays, topping Dartmouth, which permitted the same number of yards in 45 plays.

Ohio State is the only major team not to allow a single aerial yard, although Texas Christian, in defeating the Buckeyes 18-14, threw only three passes. Similarly, Minnesota gained the punting lead for the week on one kick, which traveled 50 yards. Boston University is second with a 43-yard average on two kicks.

Back in the old days, Doc Kearns of the boxing world was a close friend of Sheriff Wyatt Earp, current TV hero of the west.

Spahn Satisfied With His Pitches

NEW YORK (U) — Southpaw Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee ace who won 21 games this season, had no regrets after his loss in the opening game of the World Series against the New York Yankees.

"I'd pitch it the same way, except for maybe two or three pitches," said Spahn, who was battered out in a two-run sixth. "And the pitches I'd like to have back didn't hurt me. I hung a curve to Berre, but he fouled it. I sent a pitch high to Bauer, when I wanted it low, and he grounded to short. I did the same thing to McDougald and he hit it to right for a single, but didn't go any place."

Romeo Meets Oxford Friday

High-Scoring Bulldogs Face Strong Defense; Ortonville vs. Hoover

The unbeaten Romeo Bulldogs go after their 3rd straight conquest Friday night facing a winless Oxford eleven on the Wildcat grid-iron.

Romeo will be heavily favored to keep rolling but its highly-touted offensive attack will get a stern test against the strong Oxford line which has allowed only 19 points in two setbacks.

The Bulldogs tallied 43 in two opening triumphs led by veteran Dave Proper. Oxford is still looking for its 1st point under new coach Dick Figg. It is a non-league contest.

Ortonville, Oxford's area rival in the South Central Conference, will also be involved in action outside the loop playing host to Flint Hoover.

Demon Rum and Colonel Gallon Race Winners

LEXINGTON, Ky. (INS) — Demon Rum, Meadowland and Colonel Gallon were winners yesterday in Grand Circuit harness racing at the Lexington Tots.

For Demon Rum and Meadowland the victories were their second of the current meeting. Demon Rum scored in straight heats in the $2,800 Sheppard Trot and Meadowlands won the $6,500 Fallin pace in similar manner.

Cecil Champion drove Demon Rum and Bill Hilliards was behind Meadowlands.

Colonel Gallon, an aged trotter, won the $4,600 Edwards Trot. The driver was W. N. (Doc) McMillen.

Stengel Thinks Mantle Is Best Cripple

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel, still talking about Mickey Mantle, the young man with the old legs. "Unless of course he comes up to me and says 'Case, I can't play.' But maybe that's one thing wrong with him, he always wants to play. He hardly ever asks to be taken out."

It was an hour or so after his New York Yankees had beaten Milwaukee's Braves 3-1 in the first game of the World Series yesterday. Most of the reporters had scrambled and now Casey was free from questions and was able to talk about what HE wanted to talk about with the few who remained.

Mantle was half of Stengel's problem in this Series. The other half was Bill Skowron, his scow-

Cuts Duck Hunters' Bag

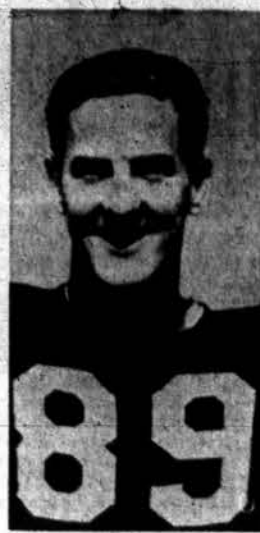

LANSING (AP) — Mild, sunny weather; typical of early October, limited hunter success during the opening days of Michigan's 70-day wildfowl season, state game experts reported today.

Hunters who converged on lakes, marshes and rivers at dawn Tuesday generally reported ducks—about the same numbers or slightly less than last year's opening day.

A noteworthy exception was Saginaw Bay, where flights of native "dabblers" species furnished marksmen with plenty of targets on both sides of the bay. South along the Lake Huron shore, however, and in Lake St. Clair, ducks were no more numerous than last year.

"First days of the season are never really good overall," said Dr. Don Douglass, research chief with the state conservation department's game division. "There

Lions Move Into Packers' Den

All the excitement which has stirred the Milwaukee area because of the World Series, will not affect the attendance at nearby Green Bay where the Packers and Lions square off in the 48th meeting between the two teams Sunday.

A crowd of 45,000 will jam County Stadium for the fourth game of the Braves-Yanks series, and another capacity crowd of 32,000 will fill Green Bay's new stadium for the grid clash.

Last Sunday, the Packers initiated the new gridiron by taking a 31-17 decision from the Chicago Bears. Every one of the 32,000 available seats were taken.

Packer fans however have a special interest in the game with the Lions. The center of attraction is certain to be Tobin Rote who last year wore the Green Bay colors.

Tourney Enters Quarter-Finals

PARAMUS, N. J. (AP)—Defending champion Fred J. Wright of Waretown, Mass., faced Tom Robbins of Mamaroneck, N. Y., today in the quarter-finals of the United States Golf Assn.'s third annual Senior Amateur Championship at the Ridgewood Country Club.

Carl Braun, who has been signed for another year by the New York Knickerbockers, holds the Knicks' all-time single game high of 47 points.

Air Force Next for U. of D. 11

Service Team Is Host to Titans in Denver Saturday

DENVER — U.S. Air Force Academy, with its aims set on reaching the level of Army and Navy on the gridiron, will play host to the University of Detroit in Denver, Colorado, Saturday afternoon.

The AFA Falcons opened the season with a 47-0 loss to UCLA, and last week the Airmen rolled up 17 first downs in crushing Occidental College of California.

Detroit, after a week layoff following the 14-0 win over Marquette in the opener, will have its tricky winged-T formation tested by Air Force which is coached by Buck Shaw.

One of the area freshmen on the Air Force squad is Tom McIlhenny, who last year led Clawson to the Oakland-B title.

The Titans, who employed two backfield units against Marquette, will have Bruce Maher, smooth looking sophomore and speedster Billy Russell along with quarterback Bill Dando in the starting backfield.

Ray Dumont, congress president, said Detroit, 1957 host, is favored again for the 1958 series next September.

Japan and Mexico already have asked for the playoff among national non-pro champions if the series is placed on a rotating basis, Dumont added.

City Loop Players Honored

City League baseball and softball players were honored Wednesday night at the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's annual summer sports banquet in St. Benedict's church hall.

Team trophies were awarded to city champions in five divisions. The winners were Shaw's Jewellers, Class AA; Stadium Inn, Class A; Louie's Tavern, Class B; Pontiac Police, Class C, and North Side Auto Sales, women's champ.

Individual trophies were presented to all members of the winning teams.

The "most valuable player" awards, made annually by The Pontiac Press, were given this year to Jim Wagner of CIO Local 884 in Class A baseball, Al Hayward of Richard's Tavern in men's softball and Marie Pollina of Commerce Drive-In Theater in women's softball.

Bill Cornwell, Pontiac Press sports writer, presented the MVP awards.

Flu Hits Football Teams

The flu bug may have more to say about Pontiac-Ferdale game Friday night than any of the officials.

It was reported this morning that 15 of Pontiac's 48-man varsity was down with the flu, and a check at Ferdale showed that 30 grid players at that school have been stricken.

The game however will be played as scheduled at Wisner field.

More Grouse, Few Bagged

By JACK PATTERSON

WATERSMEET — Yesterday was a long and most peculiar day. We woke up with what we diagnosed as an advanced case of Asian flu and any thoughts of early ventures afield were summarily dismissed as we learned later we didn't miss a great deal by not spending the usual long hours beating bushes.

Figuring that in our weakened condition mechanical transportation was better than shanks mare, we spent the greater part of the day moving around talking to available hunters.

One fact shows up with increasing clarity. Almost all hunters report more ruffed grouse this year than last but the same hunters report rather poor shooting success. Leaves, the enemy of the opening shooter, get most of the blame.

Foliage is thick and the old U.P. practice of shooting birds on the ground has something to commend it under such circumstances. Naturally this writer cannot condone any such performance but one more birdless day and nobody is looking, who can say what might happen.

We checked the Upper situation as far west as Ironwood—beyond would still be in our territory. Area-wise the situation falls into the set patterns mentioned, about no particular shortage of birds but pocketing ones are hard to come by. While we were in the Ironwood area we slipped over the border to see if Hurley, Wis., still had any vestiges of the rip roaring reputation it once had. Sad to relate, there weren't any.

We spent some time in an area around Matchwood that used to provide excellent sharpshooting. But the open stuff is going into brush and trash trees, and is no longer suited to the purpose. If sharpshooting is to hold their own in Michigan, a lot of controlled burning must take place and without too much delay.

Late in the afternoon we ran into Bob Swanson and Ed Laird at Bruce Crossing and followed them down to Watersmeet. They had one bird to show for a long day's effort, but when host Jim MacDonald and Gus Lazique came in with eight we knew who had been working.

Promised Land Beats 9 Others in Belmont Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Promised Land, a grey 3-year-old son of Palestinian, won his greatest race by upsetting nine other sophomores in the 65th running of the Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park. But, just when Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' colt proved he could handle a distance of ground, the Belmont management discovered Promised Land isn't eligible for the two mile Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 12.

Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate, who won the $108,100 Woodward Stakes last Saturday, and Ralph Lowe's Gallant Mar are considered possible rivals for the $75,000-added Gold-Cup, along with several others.

Bay Filly Brings $22,600 at Sale

LEXINGTON, Ky. (INS) Forty Walnut Hill Farm yearlings go through the ring tonight to climax a week of harness horse sales at Lexington, Ky.

Lady Alice, bay filly by Rodney, brought $22,600 last night. It was purchased from the Whitehall Farm consignment by Mrs. C. F. Gaines of Lexington. Whitehall averaged a record $4,782 on 11 heads, tops for the current session. Walnut Hill stud averaged $4,661 for 36 head.

Thus far in five sessions 282 horses have changed hands at a purchase price total figure of $664,200.

Michigan—MSU Breathe Easy for Saturday

Georgia Offers Little to Fear for Wolverines

Oosterbaan, However, Sends Team Through Scrimmage Session

ANN ARBOR (U.P.)—The tediousness of football practice was punctuated by realistic head-knocking at Michigan yesterday.

It's rare for the Wolverines to scrimmage a week after a win. And it's almost unheard of for them to scrimmage on a Wednesday, three days before a game.

Coch Bessie Oosterbaan obviously feels the flaws shown in the lackluster Southern California victory can be eliminated in game-type practice.

"I really can't say how much progress we've made this week," Oosterbaan said after the scrimmage. "I won't know until Saturday's game."

On paper, Michigan shouldn't be too concerned with its next foe, twice-defeated and apparently puny Georgia. But lurking in the distance is a monster frightening the Wolverines—Michigan State.

The game with the Spartans is less than 10 days away. Michigan doesn't know if it can be ready on time.

So, with one eye on the calendar, Oosterbaan attempted to push progress and polish his still-sputtering team via a mid-week scrimmage.

Impending Michigan's advancement all fall has been a string of nuisance injuries, nothing serious but bad enough to cut down the tempo.

Everyone on the squad should be available Saturday, but many won't be 100 per cent effective.

Jerry Goebel, the second-string center, hobbles through practice on an injured knee, the result of a clip at Southern Cal. Top pivot man Gene Snider likewise is below par.

Right halfback Fred Julian, now on the third team, suffered a recurrence of his leg injury yesterday.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

Now you're ready for the third step in the four-step approach. The bowler we show today is just completing this step with his right foot as the ball has reached the top of his backswing. All steps in the approach must point straight toward the target. Any drifting to one side or the other may pull you off-line and also affect your timing.

Note that the backswing is at shoulder height which is considered maximum; any higher backswing is risky. The style in today's drawing is very similar to Ed Lubanski's, one of the best bowlers in the game, but most good bowlers will look pretty much the same at this stage of their approach.

The left foot is getting ready for the final step and slide, in coordination with the right arm.

The bowler's eyes continue to concentrate directly ahead on his target, whether he's a pin bowler or a spot bowler. His hips still face directly ahead, and the shoulders stay square to the target as he delivers the ball.

GEORGIA'S PEACH—A sophomore, Charley Britt, will attempt to bring Georgia an upset victory over Michigan Saturday at Ann Arbor where the two teams tangle. Georgia has lost its first two games and the Wolverines are heavily favored to win.

NEW ORLEANS (U.P.)—Boxer Ralph Dupas' birth certificate suit was continued yesterday until Oct. 10, when attorneys will present closing arguments in his fight to get a certificate listing him as white.

Civil District Judge Rene Vio- ca ordered the continuance yesterday after completion of testimony in the case.

George Wilson was named head coach of the Detroit Lions just twenty years after he entered the National Football League as a player with the Chicago Bears.

EAST LANSING (U.P.)—The talent-loaded Michigan State football team, meeting California Saturday, once again will be taking on an outfit with a new head coach trying out a fresh system.

But the televised meeting with the Golden Bears of California shapes up as a better yard stick to measure the MSU Spartans than the opener against Indiana.

The Hoosiers, routed 54-9, were just so much hamburger for the Michigan State meat grinder. State jumped up to second in the Associated Press ratings on the basis of that performance.

Spartan coach Duffy Daugherty tried to show mercy by cleaning his bench of reserves. But the eager subs kept up the two touchdown a period pace set by the varsity.

Michigan State played a near flawless game. The 570 yards total offense was two yards short of a Big Ten record and the 32 first downs was a conference record. Only criticism by coaches was on the 155 yards in penalties, also a Big Ten record—attributed mostly to green sophomores still going by high school rules.

California coach Pete Elliot is installing a new, Split T pattern learned at Oklahoma. The Bears lost their first two games, but only by one touchdown each, to Southern Methodist 13-4 and Washington State 13-7.

Michigan State has had a hoodoo on West Coast teams in recent years. The Spartan record is nine straight wins in the intersectional contests, including two from UCLA in the Rose Bowl.

The 38-man MSU travelling squad flies to Berkeley today and will arrive in time for a late afternoon workout in California's Memorial Stadium. The game, at 1:30 P.M. coast time Saturday, will be a national television feature.

Eisenhower Passes Up Baseball Series

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—President Eisenhower passed up the World Series on television yesterday and scheduled an afternoon golf game with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

White House news secretary James C. Hagerty said that Mr. Eisenhower didn't watch the opening series game but added: "I informed him on the progress of the game."

Hagerty, who watched the first game on a TV set in his own office, also said that the President does not expect to attend any series games either in New York or Milwaukee.

Chalk Up First Win

PHS Harriers Edge Oaks

Mike Andonian was a pleased coach, yesterday, after his PHS cross-country squad came through with its first dual meet to win of the season in three starts. Chief harriers defeated Royal Oak Don- dero 22-35.

But the best thing, after the victory, Mike reported, was that no one was hurt. PHS ran without ace Larry Beamer who had a cold, but captain Rog Coats led the pack home with a good 11:00 time. Twice this year Coats was involved in incidents that cost him top spots. Yesterday he ran as he pleased, a good race.

West Bloomfield also was a winner in the harrier business yesterday. Steve Rogers (11:30) led the Keego runners to a 27-30 win over Clarenceville, at Keego Harbor. KH had six of the first 10 runners.

Waterford harriers are at Van Dyke today, seeking their first win in two starts. Birmingham goes to Mt. Clemens Friday, shooting for its 17th straight victory and 3rd SML win. Maples have won six straight this fall. Flint Central, SVC favorite, and Northern collide Friday in an important test.

Come-Home Rockets Used

Red Missiles Soar Up Fifty Miles, Parachute Back to Earth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is using a come-back-home weather rocket which soars up 50 miles or more, then parachutes back to land near its launching site for another trip.

The 21-foot rocket is aimed so it can usually be recovered and used again and again.

On its sky trip it records temperatures and air pressures to help forecast weather.

This rocket and all its components were described in full detail last night by Prof. A. M. Kasatkin to a conference of International Weather analysis is one main IGY study.

The weeklong conference was called for reports of IGY programs to explore the upper atmosphere with rockets, and for details of Soviet and American plans to launch baby moon satellites into outer space.

Soviet reports on moon plans have so far been couched in general terms, but Kasatkin presented a fully detailed report on all aspects of the weather rocket used for the last six years.

Its nose contains weather-sensing instruments. The nose is shot away by explosive bolts when the rocket reaches a 50-mile height. Both the nose and main rocket body parachute separately back to earth.

By testing winds with balloons beforehand, the rocket can be angled so the parachutes bring both parts back close to the launching site.

The parts often land within half a mile of the launching site, Kasatkin said.

Brown Coal Replaces Oil as Fuel for Jets

CANBERRA — The Minister for Supply reports that Australian experiments have produced promising results in the use of brown coal as a replacement fuel for oil products in the operation of turbojets and other types of jet engines.

Workers in the airplane-research laboratories involved in the experiments injected finely pulverized brown coal into jet engines and found it particularly adaptable as fuel, the Supply Minister reports.

Although tests revealed that damage could result to the rapidly spinning rotor blades of the turbine engine by the impact of solid instead of gaseous fuel, it is believed research can solve this problem.

Grains Lower in Active Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains turned lower in fairly active dealings on the board of trade today.

All grain futures and soybeans declined following issuance of a private crop report which estimated most grain and soybean crops would be larger than forecast a month ago.

December corn shot up nearly a cent at the start of trading, influenced by the government's announcement of a boost in rice supports in feed grains and rice. But the rally petered out on news that the forecast for the 1957 corn crop had boosted production about 180 million bushels.

The forecast, by C. M. Galvin of Francis I. DuPont and Co., based on conditions as of Oct. 1, estimated wheat production at 927 million bushels, corn 3,229,000,000 bushels, and soybeans 82 million bushels. These estimates are higher than the department of agriculture's forecast of September 1.

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was 1/4 to 1/4 lower, Dec. $2.15; corn was 1/4 to 1/4 lower, Dec. $1.18; oats were 1/4 to 1/4 lower, Dec. $1.27; soybeans were 1/4 to 1/4 lower, Nov. $2.25; and land was 2 to 22 cents a hundred pounds lower, Oct. $11.05.

Nebraska Road Men Join in Hunt for Relics

OMAHA — The Nebraska State Highway Department is going into the relic-hunting business. The department will furnish the State Historical Society with plans for every proposed road job. The department has also instructed crews to watch for relics and avoid destroying such historical items as ruins, sites, artifacts, fossils, or other objects of antiquity.

Building Solar Furnace

SYDNEY — Excavations have been started at New South Wales University of Technology for construction of the first miniature solar furnace in Australia. The 55-foot high tower will hold a system of mirrors to concentrate the sun's rays. The furnace is expected to produce temperatures of 3,000 degrees centigrade. The heat will be used for research on aluminum oxide and other compounds with extremely high melting points.

Discover Odd Sheep

CANBERRA — Four specimens of a freak type of merino sheep, whose breeding has not been explained, have been discovered in widely separated parts of the interior of Australia's New South Wales State. The sheep have long, shiny yellow wool, quite different from the fine white wool of the normal merino. Experiments indicate the yellow wool lends itself to felting processes better than any other wool in the world.

Temperature Changes Sensed in Twinkling

CHICAGO — A thermometer that can sense a temperature change in less than one millionth of a second has been developed for use on aircraft and missile models now undergoing tests. Conventional thermometers take 10 to 20 seconds to register any change. Benjamin Franklin invented the lightning rod in 1752.
