Cooler Weather? It's Just a Dream

Tumbles Into Basement

AP Wirephoto

INJURED IN FALL — Firemen, ambulance attendants and fellow workers crouch around a man who had just fallen 22 feet after the collapse of flooring at the construction site of the new Hall of Justice Building at Sixth and Broadway in Oakland, Calif. The debris around him fell when the section fell. Five others were plunged into the basement at the same time. Two were injured quite seriously.

Ike to Pledge Western Unity on Europe Trip

Will Reaffirm Stand Against Any Aggression Toward Allies

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today one purpose of his trip to Europe is to pledge Western unity "in opposing, by force if necessary, any aggression" against the Allies.

The President also told a news conference that on his trip, starting tomorrow, he wants to pledge once again "America's devotion to peace with honor and justice."

Eisenhower met with newsmen about 14 hours in advance of his scheduled departure for conferences with leaders of West Germany, Britain and France.

His talks with them will be a prelude to his discussions with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Washington starting Sept. 15, and to his own planned visit to the Soviet Union later in the fall.

On the trip to Europe, Eisenhower will meet first in Bonn with West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer; in Britain with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan; and in France with President Charles de Gaulle.

At the outset of today's session with reporters, Eisenhower announced he wanted to read a statement.

Reading from it, he then said his trip to Europe has several purposes, and added that one is:

"To pledge, once again, in the several capitals I shall visit, America's devotion to peace with honor and justice."

Next in clear words of caution obviously directed to the Soviet Union, the President said a further purpose of his journey is:

"To support Western unity in opposing, by force if necessary, any aggression; and to preserve the defensive strength required for our common security."

Besides their caution to Russia, the President's words seemed intended also as reassurance to Adenauer and De Gaulle—both of whom reportedly have misgivings about the President's forthcoming talks with Khrushchev—that under no circumstances will he make any deals behind their backs.

In his statement, Eisenhower said further that he intends to suggest to the Western leaders that the Allies "restate our readiness to negotiate realistically with the Soviets on any reasonable and mutually enforceable plan for general or special disarmament."

President Eisenhower also called

Breaks Neck While Diving; Saved by Pal

An 18-year-old boy was saved from drowning by a companion after breaking his neck while diving into a flooded gravel pit in Troy yesterday.

Dale Magill, 18, of 325 S. Bywood St., Clawson, was swimming with four other youths at Walker's gravel pit on Atkins road between Square Lake and John R roads.

He was noticed struggling in the water by one of his companions, Ronald Aldridge, 16, of 1271 Stephen St., Clawson, who jumped in and brought the injured youth onto the bank.

Dale was taken by the Troy Fire Department rescue squad to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac where his condition is listed today as "critical." He is semi-conscious and paralyzed from the waist down.

Who can remember a cool day? It seems like it has been seven years!

A pall of heat continued to cling like an unwanted blanket over Pontiac and the eastern half of the nation today, while the populace turned and squirmed trying to avoid it like the plague.

It would be a 1,500-mile exodus from the Eastern Seaboard to find cool winds, for only west of the divide of the country enjoyed comfortable weather as temperatures dipped up to 10 degrees below Monday's readings.

Yesterday's high of 92 will be equalled today for Pontiac and vicinity, says the weatherman, with a low tonight of 72.

The forecaster says it will be continued warm and humid tomorrow and the next few days, and partly cloudy. Afternoon thundershowers are possible.

A southwest wind "blowing" at one-mile-per hour wafted no one at 1 p.m. today while the weatherman was adamant as a pharoah.

His decree early this morning that light winds would prevail throughout the land today and tonight is considered by the masses as another false promise.

The plains eastward to the sea have been in sweltering bondage of 90 degree and above temperatures for six straight days. Only an area at the northern coast goes unblighted.

Temperatures pushed higher in New England, the South, Midwest and Southwest. Forecasters gave no promise of early relief.

2 Mountain Climbers Die From Bitter Cold

FRANCONIA, N.H. (AP)—Two young climbers, trapped 28 hours on a ledge halfway up the almost perpendicular granite face of Profile Mountain, died Monday with rescue almost in reach.

The White Mountains' bitter weather was too much for them. Clad only in light cotton trousers and shirts, they had endured numbing 38-degree cold overnight, the soaking of a driving rain borne on 50-mile winds, and thick fog.

Appalachian Mountain Club teams, exhausted by a nine-hour climb, planned a new attempt to recover the bodies today, assuming fair weather.

The victims were Alfred Whipple Jr., 20, Gales Ferry, Conn., a sophomore at Brown University, and Sidney Couch, 21, Ledyard, Conn., a student at Export Pa. Bible Institute. They had been friends since elementary school.

John E. Taylor, 29, Princeton, Mass., who led a seven-man team that climbed to the ledge, said they found one man slumped over, either dead or dying. The other was incoherent.

"He could not understand what I was saying. He yelled at me. It appeared to be a monotonous 'Hurry up.'

"I don't know which one it was. It might have been the older one. When I got within 25 feet of him, his head was bobbing. He was standing erect with his eyes closed."

Taylor said that by the time he got near the marooned pair "I would have to grip a rock, then loosen one hand with the other to move up." He described the cold as ferocious.

David Sanderson, Portsmouth, N.H., climbed to the ledge and

AMC Aiming for 8 Per Cent

Thinks It Can Capture That Amount of 1960 New Car Market

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. staged a press preview today of its 1960 model automobiles and announced it was aiming for an 8 per cent share of the new car market in the coming model year.

Roy Abernethy, AMC automotive distribution and marketing vice president, told newsmen 1959 had been a great year for the company and predicted 1960 would be even better.

"Estimating for August and September," Abernethy said, "we anticipate total deliveries of Ramblers for the current fiscal year will be approximately 350,000."

American Motors auto sales objectives for 1959 were projected at 6 per cent of industry sales, he said. "To date we have 6.55 per cent."

For 1960, Abernethy said, "We are asking our dealers to get 8 per cent of the industry."

Citing the continued growth of AMC in the compact car field, he said that in the 10 months ended July 31 "we sold 297,653 cars, an increase of 128.1 per cent over the same 10 months of last year."

AMC's new models are scheduled for public introduction in October.

White Sox Trade 2 for Ted Kluszewski

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Big Ted Kluszewski of the Pittsburgh Pirates was traded today to the American League's Chicago White Sox in a "two for one deal." The Pirates obtained Harry Simpson and utility infielder Robert Sagers from the White Sox.

The Pirates obtained waivers from all National League clubs to trade Kluszewski who was a home run star for many years with Cincinnati before coming to the Pirates.

SAGE Protects Industrial Areas

Reds Can't Get Near Us

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

If you believe in electronic wizardry, sit back and relax.

The Russians don't stand a ghost of a chance of even getting within spitting distance of Pontiac and other American industrial empires with their A-bombs or H-bombs.

Your Mr. K-era tranquilizer is an astonishing air defense system which the Air Force and several civilian contracting geniuses have tagged S-A-G-E. They say it stands for Semi-Automatic Ground Environment. A better name might be: So, Another Gremlin Erased.

For erase it will, this unbelievable, huge, new high-powered radar network and massive electronic data processing and computation system designed to protect Pontiac, the rest of Michigan, and the whole American continent from enemy air attack.

Pontiac area residents need only travel out east M59 toward Selfridge Air Force Base to see from a distance a million dollar sector of SAGE under construction. It will be in full operation in the very near future. The exact date is secret.

A handful of Michigan newsmen yesterday boarded sleek Burroughs Corporation planes to take a behind-the-scenes peek at SAGE at Selfridge. It leaves you wondering, "What can't machines do?"

Getting away from the mumbo-jumbo of the scientific wizards, what we saw was a part of a multi-million dollar radar detection system which can detect, track, identify and send up counter weapons, if what is detected is foe, in a matter of seconds.

It used to take minutes, our guides pointed out, for the same operation, and this was subject to human error.

Now, in another example of automation galore, machines replace bodies.

It all began back around the Korean War when our guardian angels of the skies realized that things were going too fast for their manually-operated warning devices to keep up with. So Burroughs Corp. and other firms sat down at drawing boards in an attempt to up-date things. We saw the finished product yesterday.

Monday, with jets screeching overhead, workmen were hard at work in a barbed-wire enclosure on the north central portion of Selfridge putting finishing touches on one of six SAGE installations in Michigan. Others are at Fort Custer, Port Austin, Empire, Sault Ste. Marie, and Calumet.

Burroughs' part (their defense contract for SAGE units amounts to $155,000,000) is the manufacture of computers which translates a plane's altitude, range, and direction into digital code and, in a matter of seconds, flashes it through land lines to a direction center.

We flew over the heart of the Detroit area SAGE system. This was a large four-story, windowless block building at Fort Custer which houses this area's direction center.

Here the code which comes over

Polaris Rocket Darts Over Atlantic in Test

The 28-foot missile, forerunner of the Navy's submarine-launched ballistics missile, appeared to function smoothly as it sped across the sky. Its path was clearly marked by a long trail of white smoke from its solid-fuel engines.

A break in the smoke trail and a puff of fire after about 55 seconds indicated burnout of the first stage and ignition of the second.

The Navy announced the main objectives of the flight were stage separation and general missile performance.

Accepts Edict for $3.9 Million

Ex-Detroit Gambling Kingpin Lucido Bows to Federal Court

DETROIT (AP) — Sam Lucido, once a big-time Detroit gambling operator, consented today to a federal court judgment of $3,909,211 against him for unpaid income taxes.

Lucido, 52, of Grosse Pointe, signed a "consent judgment" before U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton, but there was no indication immediately how much money the government actually will be able to collect.

Orrin C. Jones, assistant U.S. attorney, said steps would be taken to seize whatever assets Lucido may have, but that the only specifically known assets are five life insurance policies with a cash value totaling $7,000.

Jones said attempts would be made to take possession of Lucido's Grosse Pointe home, but that there might be complications since it is listed in the name of Lucido's wife.

It's Hot at AF Academy, 'but We Don't Sweat It'

This is the first of several articles about the U. S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., written by Pontiac Press reporter Dick Saunders, who is touring the installation.

By DICK SAUNDERS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—"It may get hot out here but we don't sweat it" is the way one officer put it.

That's the way it is on the outskirts of Colorado Springs where the Air Force Academy stands basking in the hot sun and thin moisture-proof air at 7,000 feet above sea level.

An average 17½ inches of rainfall is recorded here annually. You step from a Fairchild C119 after six airborne hours and suddenly realize you're hot but there's not a drop on your brow.

The flight from Selfridge AFB was about par for the course, the final hour being a bit rough.

Twenty-five lunches were eaten over Illinois. Four of them became unstable over Nebraska and were lost somewhere just over the Colorado state line.

Col. James H. McPartlin of 3930 W. Orchard Hill Dr., Bloomfield Township, was at the controls most of the way.

Assisting him were Maj. Leroy Melton, a Rochester High School teacher, and Sgt. James Gagarin Jr., of 100 Martell Dr., Bloomfield Hills.

Melton and Gagarin are Air Force reservists. Gagarin, a flight engineer, has spent 4½ years in the reserves.

In this 22-year-old young man is a look at the future. He is now a student at the University of Detroit but his eye is on the Academy, which he hopes to enter in the near future.

This is his fourth flight to Colorado Springs. His future lies in his love for flying. When you step off a plane with him into this wild rolling country spotted by modern airfields, you begin to see what he means.

For here in the foothills of the Rockies lies a fortress of knowledge and progress dwarfed only by the vastness of its setting.

LAKE OAKLAND HEIGHTS — This subdivision is built around the shores of a large bay coming out of the main part of Lake Oakland. White Brothers Real Estate of Waterford owned the land and did the original developing of the 301 lots. There are about 50 lake and canal front lots still vacant. A large lake lot for residents is complete with playground. The three-bedroom brick homes sell in the $14,000 to $16,000 range.

Waterford Sets Library Election

Voters Vetoed Issues in Spring

Board Requests Right to Borrow Bond Money and Increase Taxes

A special election will be held Oct. 27 in Waterford Township to determine whether or not residents want a library. Scheduling of the election took place at a long meeting of the township board last night.

The same three questions that were turned down by voters in the spring election will again be placed on the ballot, it was decided.

Voters will be asked, first, to allow the township to borrow $300,000 through general obligation bonds to construct a public library.

The second proposal asks that a one mill tax increase be levied for a 10-year-period to pay off the bonds.

The third asks for a half mill increase to cover operational and maintenance costs for a 10-year period.

A picturesque, 17-acre site on Highland and Pontiac Lake roads was donated to the township for a library by Frank Steere of Watkins Lake two years ago.

Since then, the 11-member Waterford Township Library Committee has been working on data concerning plans, cost estimates and publicity. The committee's report is on file at the Township Hall and available to the public.

In other board action, several restrictions were added to an amusement park license issued to David Senter last week. Some 20 people were present last night supporting Senter's midget car race track operation on Telegraph road at Dixie highway.

After 90 minutes of discussion, it was decided Senter must close at 10:30 p.m., add noiseless mufflers to the cars, and not allow children under 14 years of age to drive the cars.

Bids will be opened at next week's board meeting for a new power digger costing approximately $6,500 for the Water Department. Bids will also be opened for a 1½ ton pickup truck for the Water Department.

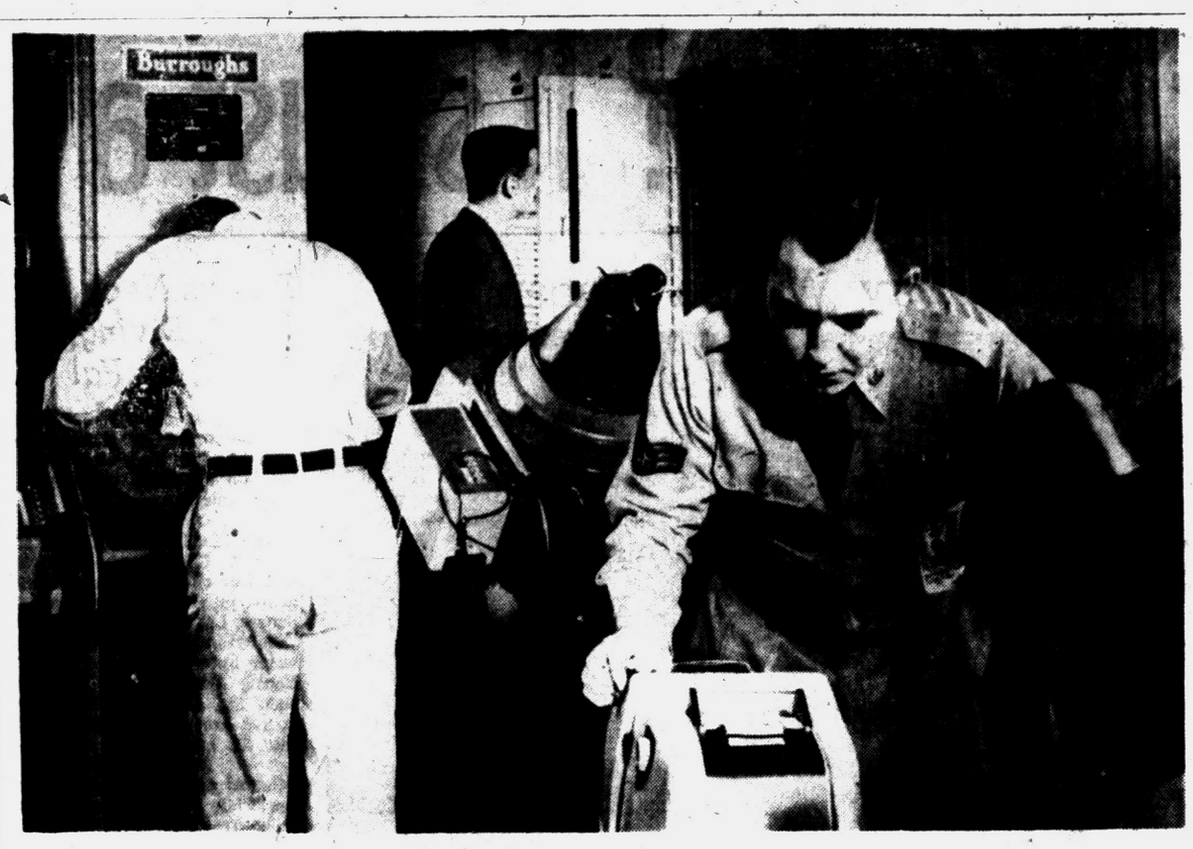
The board authorized no parking signs (except for business) around the township hall and approved a new club license for the Italian-American Club, 60 Tilden St.



FOR YOUR DEFENSE—These men of the Air Force and Burroughs Corp. yesterday put a million dollar SAGE radar detection system at Selfridge Air Force Base through its paces for the benefit of Michigan newsmen who were given a look at portions of the highly secret system. The Selfridge system will be put into full operational use to guard our skies in the near future.

Chrysler Starts 1960 Production

Some Now at Work; 12,000 to 15,000 Will Be on Jobs Monday

DETROIT (AP)—Assembly line production of Chrysler Corp.'s 1960 model autos will begin next Monday at Newark, Del., Los Angeles and three Detroit plants, the company announced yesterday.

Production workers are being recalled from average layoffs of three weeks duration, Chrysler said. Within a week some 15,000 workers will have been called back to their jobs, including 10,000 to 12,000 here.

Limited 1960 production already has begun at the corporation's new plant in St. Louis and at the Detroit Imperial plant. The St. Louis facility will begin two-shift work Monday.

Chrysler cars are scheduled for public sale early in October.

R. S. Bright, Chrysler automotive manufacturing vice president, said he believes current steel supplies should enable the company to meet full production schedules at least into November.

Bright said that when full production is resumed Chrysler expects to have some 70,000 employes at work in the Detroit area and 100,000 nationally. The company said initial production of Chrysler's new small car, the Valiant, will be at the Hamtramck plant where Dodge's new Dart line also will be produced.

SAGE Protects Industry From Enemy Air Attack

lines from Selfridge is processed, evaluated along with similar data from other SAGE sectors, with the end result being a command decision of what weapons (like Oakland County's Nike missiles) to put up against the enemy.

Because of the critical need for reliability, each SAGE site has "duplexed" or two electronic systems to check on each other's accuracy. They can also fall back on the old manual system in case of breakdown.

Realizing that the enemy is in a never-ending process of devising weapons even faster than those SAGE can cope with, men of Burroughs are currently in a day-by-day process of keeping SAGE up with their changes.

One reporter asked if SAGE can defend against missiles. The answer: "Our development is moving real fast, but its unfair to say whether it will be anti-missile."

Each Burroughs system has over 6,600 vacuum tubes and literally miles of wiring housed in 21 large cabinets.

There are 58 SAGE installations now being maintained by Burroughs. Soon there will be a network of 200 ringing the U. S. and Canada.

Some conception of what is to come in size is a statement made by a researcher. He said soon 2,000 component parts of a set will be able to be crammed in one cubic inch.

I was corrected immediately by an Air Force major. "Don't forget it takes men's minds to come up with these ingenious systems."

"More and more people are cooking at the parks to get out of their homes.

"The youngsters are using park facilities to play some of the less exhausting games in an effort to forget the heat. Some may even be sleeping out there at night, but I don't know about it."

The present weather situation is a boon in one way to Streit, as to many home owners. "The humidity keeps the grass green."

Four AFL-CIO Vice Presidents to Eat With Nikita

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Four vice presidents of the AFL-CIO will dine with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Sept. 21 in San Francisco, according to James B. Carey, president of the Electrical Workers Union.

Carey, one of the four who will join Khrushchev, said the other union officials will be Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers; Joseph Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, and William C. Dougherty, president of the Letter Carriers Union.

City Announces 1-Way Streets

School Traffic to Run East; Fairgrove Will Travel Westbound

Heavy east-west traffic north of Pontiac's business district will be routed over a one-way system beginning at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow.

The newest one-way changes were announced by Theodore M. Vanderstempel, traffic engineer. School and Fairgrove streets will be affected.

School will become one-way headed east and Fairgrove, a block north, one-way headed west, Vanderstempel said.

Vanderstempel said that present two-way traffic between Saginaw and Perry streets tends to jam up on School, while Fairgrove is not used too much.

"Splitting the traffic load equally between the two streets will help reduce tie-ups," he said he believes.

The change will eliminate one traffic maneuver which the city considers hazardous. This is the left turn from Perry onto School, dangerous because of the hill on Perry, Vanderstempel said.

Parking regulations on School and Fairgrove will remain unchanged, Vanderstempel said. Parking is allowed on the south side of the streets but not on the north.

Is Bentley Eying U. S. Senate?

EAST LANSING (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) said yesterday he has no interest in running for state office in 1960 but declined to rule out the possibility he may bid for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Patrick V. MacNamara.

The 40-year-old Owosso industrialist has been hinting since last November that he may try to unseat the Detroit Democrat next year.

Bentley was in East Lansing for a televised debate with Rep. James G. O'Hara (D-Mich) on the issue of federal aid to education.

The pair agreed at a news conference that Congress will probably be adjourned when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev visits the United States next month.

Adjournment or not, Bentley said he did not think the present mood of Congress would favor the Soviet premier addressing a joint session.

O'Hara disagreed, saying:

"If there is an opportunity for Khrushchev to address Congress, I would not want to commit a breach of diplomatic courtesy by denying him the opportunity."

15 Hurt as Train Derails Near Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen persons were injured Monday when seven cars of a nine-car Baltimore & Ohio passenger train derailed in suburban Perrysburg. None were hurt seriously.

The diner, last car on the train, was tilted at a 45-degree angle and rescue workers broke open the car to let the occupants out. Two other cars also were tilted but none went over completely.

About 200 passengers were aboard the train, the Cincinnatian, en route to Detroit from Cincinnati. They were taken to Toledo by bus.

W. F. Fisher, the engineer, said the derailment might have been caused when a brakeman pulled the emergency cord after hearing a thumping noise while he was in the club car.

The Day in Birmingham

City to Employ 2 New Planning Dept. Members

BIRMINGHAM — Long range plans for central business district development moved out of an embryonic stage last night as the city agreed to employ two new planning department members to be paid out of a fund set up by the Central Business District Development Committee.

Under this plan the committee, composed of downtown merchants and property owners, will collect approximately $17,500 to be handed over to the city to pay for the two planners who are to concentrate on central business district problems.

According to committee chairman Wilbur Mason, the two new planning department members would be able to utilize past city records and studies, which, if employed by the committee, they would not be able to do.

The augmented planning department would consist of a permanent, 2-year employe, and a planning consultant to work on a part time basis, both under the direction of the city planner, Mason said.

According to City Manager L. R. Gare, Birmingham has requested the State Highway Dept. to install a traffic signal at the corner of Woodward avenue and Big Beaver road.

"I realize that the spacing of the existing traffic signals in the City of Birmingham does not allow a good progressive flow," said District Traffic Engineer Samuel J. Levine, "but I believe that we have an obligation to the motorists who are using Big Beaver road."

At last night's meeting, the commission also authorized a replat of property on the south side of Maple avenue between Adams road and Elm street.

According to City Engineer G. R. Serenbetz, Birmingham lacks sufficient right-of-way on the south side of Maple road and there are several overlapping deeds for several of the parcels within this portion of the old plat.

Government Cuts Grant for Airport Construction

The federal government has cut $18,000 from its grant for a new terminal and tower at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Mystified by the slash, City Manager Walter K. Willman said he would ask the City Commission tonight to help make up the loss.

He said the Michigan Department of Aeronautics has already agreed to add $7,500 to its share in the $390,000 project if the city would add $10,500.

Willman said that if construction is to proceed on schedule this fall, the Commission would have to allocate the $10,500 before the state opens construction bids Sept. 10.

Pontiac and the state have already agreed to spend $97,500 each on the project, which was to have been financed one-half by the federal government and one-quarter each by state and local governments.

Willman said he had no official explanation as to why this figure has been trimmed to $177,000, but he hazarded a guess.

"There has been much opposition in Washington this year to the aid-to-airports program, especially where terminal construction is involved.

The $390,000 construction budget covers construction of the one-story terminal, three-story tower, entrance road, service drive to commercial hangars and a 150-car parking lot.

Only minor items are scheduled for the rest of tonight's meeting. There is a hearing scheduled on assessment rolls drawn up for a sanitary-storm sewer system in the northern portion of Assessor's Plat 144. Another hearing will cover a proposal to install sidewalks in front of the Macedonia Baptist Church, Pearsall and Motor streets.

Charter Class Visits MSUO for Orientation

Close to 200 students who will become members of the charter class of Michigan State University Oakland were introduced to university life at an all-day orientation program on the campus yesterday.

The students were welcomed by Chancellor D. B. Varner and heard an address on the aims of MSUO by Dean of the Faculty Robert G. Hoopes.

They were taken on tours of the campus, and given registration instructions and information on the student activities program.

Experienced mountaineers have avoided the route the pair took Sunday. They consider it treacherous because of the steep climb and the danger from falling rocks.

The ledge, 475 feet above Route 3a, is a short distance south of the famed Old Man of the Mountain, an outcrop of rock that from certain angles looks like a craggy face.

The youths' plight was discovered late Sunday. Since a helicopter could not reach them, state officials and the Appalachian Mountain Club summoned amateur climbers.

Fish Story in Reverse

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (UPI)—John Macbernis had a different kind of fish story to tell today. Police said he called them yesterday to report that someone put a dead fish weighing seven or eight pounds in his car.

Miriani OKs Plans for Downtown Mall

DETROIT (AP) — Plans to convert a downtown block into a shoppers mall were approved yesterday by Mayor Louis Miriani.

The mayor told plan director Charles A. Blessing to seek opinions of merchants and landowners in the proposed mall area before proceeding further.

Blessing said his group hopes to convert the Woodward Avenue block between Michigan and Gratiot avenues into a test area of grass, flowers, trees, fountains and sculpture. The block would be closed to vehicle traffic.

Plans call for a trial period of at least a month, probably beginning with Downtown Detroit Days Oct. 12-14, Blessing said.

City officials said downtown malls in Kalamazoo and Toledo, Ohio have revived local interest in the project.

Miriani told Blessing yesterday: "You've been trying to get a Woodward mall for three years and it's been stymied. Either you should do something about it or forget it."

Kalamazoo's mall, the first permanent installation of its kind in the nation, was dedicated last week.

for "a real beginning toward solving the problems of a divided Germany," and new efforts to ease world tensions.

In pursuing these purposes, Eisenhower said, the Allies also should reiterate jointly that regardless of pressure or inducement, "we shall never retreat from our ideals or principles or weaken in our resolution to remain secure as we continue the search for peace."

Responding to one inquiry, the President said this government will welcome Khrushchev to the United States as a chief of state—in effect as Russia's top man—and not as a head of government, his technical position.

That means, the President went on, that as of now he is planning to meet the Kremlin leader at the airport on his arrival here Sept. 15.

Presumably the other etiquette of diplomacy relating to visits by a chief of state will be observed throughout the Khrushchev visit.

The President said the Soviet government has informed the State Department that Khrushchev's status in Russia is in substance that of a chief of state.

Legislation — With adjournment of Congress nearing, Eisenhower announced he has written Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer, and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) that he wants acton before adjournment on legislation in the fields of debt management and interest rates, financing of the highway construction program, and the Federal Housing Administration insurance program.

The President said he also wants an effective labor reform bill, civil rights legislation and adequate funds for foreign aid.

As for foreign aid, which he referred to as the mutual security program, Eisenhower several times during the news conference spoke emphatically of a need for sufficient money. He voiced the hope that congress will refrain from any further cuts.

If there are new cuts, he said, this world is going to be in trouble.

Laos—Eisenhower cited Communist rebel action in Laos as an example of why the foreign aid program must be kept strong. In response to questions, the President said Laos has not asked the United States for troops but has requested money and equipment. Such aid is needed, Eisenhower said, to help that kingdom's police force maintain internal order. He added that the matter of granting such help to Laos is under urgent study.

Receive Signals Bounced Off Moon

MALVERN, England (AP)—Radar signals were received in Texas today after being bounced off the moon by the royal radar establishment here, the government announced tonight.

A ministry of supply spokesman said the bleep-sounding signals sent out by the 45-foot radio telescope here were received clearly by a smaller telescope at the electrical engineering research laboratory at the University of Texas.

The spokesman said the experiment was the result of joint investigation by Malvern experts and the Texas University scientists into the nature of the moon's surface.

Keep Thinking, George

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investment manager George Washburn, who was told yesterday that the government accepted his bid of $18,000 for a tiny, rocky island in Long Island Sound, has only one problem. He admitted he had no particular reason for buying the island and doesn't quite know what to do with it.

Work on Repairs Night and Day

Detroit Motorists Urged to Avoid Expressways

DETROIT (AP)—It may be weeks before storm-damaged portions of Detroit's two expressways are ready for use again.

As a result, motorists were urged to stay off the John C. Lodge and Edsel Ford expressways during rush hours until repairs are completed.

The Sunday storm, which dumped two inches of rain on the area, caused ruptures of sewer mains, turning the expressways into temporary rivers running 12 feet deep in places.

Many cars were abandoned, some of them completely covered by water. A few of the cars still were there last night.

During the height of the sudden downpour and resulting flood, police pressed a harbormaster's boat into duty to haul stranded motorists from car tops.

The mess of dirt and water was mostly cleared today. However, at several points on both expressways, the 10-inch reinforced concrete pavement was buckled.

Irving J. Rubin, of the State Highway Department, said repair work will go on around the clock. Lodge repairs probably will take a week, providing the storm sewer system underneath the pavement is not badly damaged, he said.

Rubin said work on the Ford expressway may take two weeks, depending again on condition of the sewers beneath the roadbed.

Water Skiers Who Fall Judged Not Swimmers

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit court ruled today that a water skier who topples into the water and has to swim to stay afloat is not legally a swimmer.

Traffic court referee Andrew C. Wood dismissed charges against a man who was ticketed for swimming in a prohibited part of the Detroit River.

The defendant, Arthur Wahrmatter, 27, said he was swimming in the area because he had fallen while water skiing. Wood said "Falling in the water is one of the hazards of water skiing, but it isn't swimming."

Nixon to Boost Nikita's Visit

Tells Reluctant Group in American Legion of Trip's Value

Nixon said at a press conference Monday night he is for the Soviet Premier's visit with Eisenhower because "Khrushchev is the man to see" to discuss differences between the two countries.

The vice president added that a face-to-face meeting was far better than the customary exchange of notes. He explained that, although other leading Soviet officials have visited this country, they have no power to make decisions.

Many Legion delegates in pre-convention meetings have expressed opposition to Khrushchev's visit next month. At least one resolution condeming it is expected to reach the convention floor.

Nixon said that Eisenhower expected to discuss the Berlin problem with Khrushchev but warned that it was not wise to raise hopes too high that this or other differences could be resolved immediately.

4 Disc Jockeys Spin Platters While Immersed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Four disc jockeys from station KENO have completed a 48-hour and 15 - minute record spinning marathon under water in the swimming pool at Twin Lakes Lodge near here.

The disc jockeys launched the musical marathon Friday afternoon and ended it Sunday afternoon. They worked round - the - clock spelling each other every three hours.

They remained submerged with the aid of 182-pound diving gear and announced the songs and commercials underwater while the records were played in the studio.

Gordon Kent, station news director, said the object of the under-water session was to deflate the egos of other disc jockeys in the country who boasted of holding sleepless record - spinning marathons.

Return Prison Farm Inmates to Cells

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—A dozen inmates of the London Prison Farm have been returned to Ohio Penitentiary as the result of a five-hour sitdown strike by about 1,200 inmates at the farm Monday.

The disturbance ended when Ohio highway patrolmen, armed with riot guns they didn't have to use, routed 200 prisoners from a dormitory. The prisoners were loaded onto trucks and taken to fields in which they earlier had refused to work.

Another 1,000 prisoners who had joined the sitdown strike as sympathizers quickly joined the back-to-work movement.

The prisoners complained about food but officials said they believe the 90-degree heat had more to do with the brief, nonviolent rebellion.

Gives Cat Burglar Prison Sentence, Praise for Mind

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gordon Atterberry, cat burglar extraordinary, was sentenced to prison with this comment by the judge: "This man has a brilliant mind and somehow I think it can be directed into proper channels."

Atterberry, 24, sentenced Monday, was arrested in Reno, Nev., after a nationwide manhunt. He told police he committed some 2,000 burglaries, but he pleaded guilty to only three.

He faces a term of five years to life. He said his ambition is to get a college degree and start over as a psychologist.

U. of Hawaii to Join GM Scholarship Setup

DETROIT — The University of Hawaii has been invited to participate in the General Motors college scholarship program beginning this fall, it was announced Monday.

The invitation was extended by GM's Committee for Educational Grants and Scholarships in view of Hawaii's admission as the 50th state. The University of Alaska previously had been added upon admission of Alaska as the 49th state.

Addition of the two universities raises to 304 the number of General Motors four - year scholarships awarded each year by 111 private and 70 public institutions in all of the states and the District of Columbia.

GM also awards more than 100 additional four-year scholarships through national competition for a total of more than 400 each year. Sixteen-hundred students now are attending college with GM assistance. Value of the scholarships ranges from $200 to $2,000 a year, depending upon individual need.

Prank Shakes Little Rock

2 Boys Explode Bomb Outside High School Recently Integrated

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A homemade explosive device blew up outside newly integrated Hall High School Monday night, drawing a swarm of police to the scene.

There was no damage and no one was hurt. The blast apparently was a teen-age prank.

Police grabbed two young white brothers as they ran up a hill from the school, where three Negro girls have attended since Aug. 12. Names of the boys were not released.

One boy, 17, told police he and his brother, 13, made the bomb from aluminum sulphate they had purchased at Taipei, Formosa, where they lived while their father — a colonel — was stationed there with the air force. They made the device with a glass pint jar.

"Noise is all we wanted," the 17-year-old youth said. He and his brother said they were not aware of Little Rock's integration problem. They were held for questioning but police said they had not been booked on any charge.

Open Top Auto Is Quickly Built for Ike in Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP) — At least one international crisis has been resolved. They're building a new car for President Eisenhower and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to ride in Wednesday when they drive from the airport into Bonn.

Adenauer wanted to use his own car, but its top wouldn't come down so Eisenhower could stand up and wave.

The back seat also holds only two persons. Room is needed for a third, an interpreter. The seat beside the driver must be reserved for a Secret Service agent.

The call went out to Fritz Koenecke, general director of Daimler-Benz.

"I'll solve your problem," he said. "I'll have a car built for you."

They designed a model without a roof. They reduced the upholstery on either side of the back seat, providing space for the third man. They also installed hand grips so Eisenhower will have something to hang onto.

Deems Minister's Son Delinquent for Stabbing

PETERSBURG, Ill. (UPI) — A 13-year-old minister's son who stabbed a bride in a bathhouse at New Salem State Park was deemed a delinquent Monday by Judge Henry E. Pond.

Pond continued the case to study whether to institutionalize the boy Glen Sampson, 13, as recommended in a psychiatrist's report.

The boy, son of Rev. Orval Sampson of Hart, Mich., showed no remorse over the stabbing of Mrs. Bruce Brainard, 25, Hamden, Conn., who was camping in the park with her husband when the stabbing occurred last Thursday.

New York Judge Rules Students Needn't Pray

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—A State Supreme Court justice has ruled that a public school cannot force students to participate in a state-approved prayer.

Justice Bernard S. Meyer ruled Monday against the Herricks, N.Y., school which had ordered the prayer to precede the opening of classes.

Five parents objected that the use of the prayer violated the Constitution and the principle of separation of church and state.

The 22-word prayer, approved by the State Board of Regents for use in public schools, says: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence on Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

Justice Meyer ruled that the child of any family objecting to the prayer must be given accommodations elsewhere while the prayer is being recited.

He quoted a statement in a 120-year-old case: "Those who decide that their children should engage in public prayers have no right to compel other children to unite in the exercise against the wishes of their parents."

First X-Ray Researcher OK After Operation 92

It was the 92nd in a series of operations resulting from Grubbe's early experimentation with X-rays in 1895, a few months prior to Wilhelm Roentgen's announcement of X-ray discoveries in Germany.

Steel Peace? None in Sight

Strike Will Become Second-Longest Since War Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP)—The nationwide steel strike will be 43 days old Wednesday, which will make it the second longest steel strike since the end of World War II.

And there's no settlement in sight.

Negotiations continue today.

Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald is expected to rejoin the talks Wednesday after an absence of two weeks. He stepped out to emphasize the lack of progress.

There was no sign of further action by the White House, after the release last week of a fact-finding report — without comment or conclusion—by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

Both sides claimed the facts backed their positions.

President Eisenhower is understood to be reluctant to interfere with the process of collective bargaining.

The industry position is also one of relying on collective bargaining, and the industry has indicated opposition to any government intervention to end the strike.

Band Serenades Soldiers to Get Them Out of Bed

HONOLULU (AP) — The insistent notes of the bugle no longer rouse soldiers of the 27th Infantry regiment from bed each morning.

Instead, the soldiers at Schofield Barracks are serenaded by the regimental band at 5:50 a.m.

Russians Buy Tricks

CHICAGO (AP) — Members of the Russian Festival dance and song troupe like the magic of Chicago. They bought out almost every magic trick in the stock of Charley Sanoff, who operates a trick shop in a hotel.

Real name of Buffalo Bill, who died in 1917, was William Frederick Cody.

Uruguay's constitution which was adopted in 1934 is patterned largely after that of the United States.

'Husbandly' Remarks Sound Familiar?

NEW YORK (AP)—Husbandly remarks that wives get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"I'd like you to meet my wife. She's the one standing by that pretty girl."

"Meat loaf? Why, that's what I had for lunch."

BOYLE

"If you want it fixed, fix it yourself."

"I guess marriage is a good institution — that is, if you like living in an institution."

"Hurry up. We're late already."

"Where are my cuff links? They were here just a minute ago."

"Well, who took out the garbage before you met me?"

"Oh, no, don't tell me that's a hat! Not that!"

"Good morning Mrs. Dracula. Have a tough night?"

"Surely one of those cook books ought to tell you how to make a decent cup of coffee."

"Today, instead of going back to bed after I leave, why don't you—"

"Worn out? How can you be all worn out when you got a house full of gadgets to do all the work?"

"Belt him yourself if he needs it. He already thinks I'm the chief executioner."

"When I come home at night, all I want is some peace and quiet. Is that too much to ask?"

"Do you think money grows on trees?"

"Just tell me where the needle and thread are. I'll sew it on myself."

"Wonder where I'd be today if I hadn't got married."

"The boss offered me two tickets, but I told him, 'No, give 'em to someone else. We already had a night out this morning.' "

"My mother raised six kids, did her own washing and ironing, and I never herd her complain in her life."

"The old timers were right. A woman never really appreciates you unless you beat her now and then."

"Let's get one thing straight. You run the house, I'll run the office."

"What do you mean you sometimes feel we don't have anything in common? How about junior?"

"Well just what did you expect —one long sweet honymoon?"

"Baby, to cook a three-minute egg all you have to be able to do is to tell time."

"One thing about fishing, the fish don't talk back."

"What do you mean I never talk to you anymore? I talk to you during the TV commercials, don't I?"

"The trouble with you wives is —you never had to meet a payroll."

"Sure I heard you. What did you say?"

Celebrating Birth of Oil

TITUSVILE, Pa., (AP) — This Pennsylvania city of 9,000—cradle of the wealthy oil industry—jumped with excitement today as thousands of visitors arrived to celebrate oil's 100th birthday.

Just a century ago next Thursday, Col. Edwin L. Drake, after weeks of heckling by onlookers, completed drilling a 69-foot well and struck oil. It was the nation's first commercial drilling.

Oil Centennial Week officially opened here Sunday. Rough guesses were that nearly 40,000 visitors were on hand to launch the festive week.

The community's 26 churches were jammed for Sunday morning services. A record throng visited Col. Drake Memorial Park, where the first well is marked, and where many historic tools of the first drilling are preserved.

On Thursday, a new hole will be drilled for the benefit of a nationwide television program.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield and Pennsylvania's Gov. David L. Lawrence both are to speak.

Numerous luncheons, dinners and a huge banquet for hundreds of visiting oil and political dignitaries — topped off with a fireworks display — are planned for the celebration which ends Saturday.

Solons Ask Summit Confabs for Lawyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty four senators offered a resolution today to put Congress on record on support of a series of international "summit" conferences of lawyers to strengthen "the rule of law among nations."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) said he would submit the resolution, for himself and 33 other senators. Introduction of the resolution coincides with the official presentation, in Miami, of a report by an American Bar Assn. committee on world peace through law.

The resolution states the sense of Congress that the proposal for privately sponsored international conferences, as proposed in the Bar Association report, can make a "substantial contribution to international peace and security" and thus merits the nation's support.

Actually the legal conferences would be a first step along the way toward greater use of the international court of justice at the Hague and toward establishment of regional courts to handle international legal disputes.

Citizens Hail Toledo's Mall

Malls that are bringing a park-like air to downtown Toledo are hailed by the local citizenry. Kalamazoo hit the headlines last week with a similar type setup.

New life, rejuvenation, or what-have-you seems to be definitely the new theme for many downtown areas across the country. Changing times create new trends, which in turn must be followed to stay alive.

In the case of Toledo, the test has been an experiment. Current reaction to Toledo's move to revitalize its downtown area through pedestrian malls has met enthusiastic public reaction. Only three weeks of the 45-day experiment have passed, but city and county are already talking of making the malls permanent.

The "shoppers' seaway," as it is called in Toledo, now embraces four city blocks. Hard pavement has been converted into areas having grass, flower beds, trees, tiny-tot play areas, statues borrowed form the Toledo Museum of Art, and a pond with penguins from the Toledo Zoo. Fountains and soft background music add to the mood.

The consensus is that the program is successful. County Commissioner NED SKELDON and City Manager RUSSELL RINK are ready to recommend added spending to make the malls permanent.

To date the experiment cost $15,000 and permanent installations would cost $200,000 to $300,000, it is estimated. It is pretty much agreed that if they continue to be the traffic builder they presently are, they actually would not cost much in relation to the rejuvenated areas.

If nothing else, they have gained Toledo $15,000 worth of publicity. Delegations from more than 230 cities have inspected them so far, coming from as far away as Los Angeles and Dallas, Texas. There was an inquiry from New Zealand.

"THE American Association for the Advancement of Science says women should be urged to use their latent brainpower."—Press report. Oh, no, they shouldn't. With their coasting along on only a part of their brainpower, it's from difficult to impossible for us men to cope with them.

ANOTHER great trouble with the coming generation is that it wants to be going all the time.

Chilean Conference Restates Doctrines

The just concluded meeting of the 21 Foreign Ministers of the Organization of American States (OAS) in Santiago, Chile, seems to have provided at least one thing — a forum for Cuban and Dominican Republican representatives to rail against each other.

The conference was called at the instance of the Dominican Republic. Nicaragua was invaded by revolutionaries in May and the Dominican Republic in June. Haiti complained of a recent invasion attempt. All accused Cuba and Venezuela. Cuba, in turn, protested a Dominican invasion. Troubles in the Caribbean may become worse before they are better.

Secretary of State Herter stressed the fact that our object is not to safeguard dictators but to safeguard peace. Recent Congressional approval of $450 million in funds for the Inter-American Development Bank strengthened his hand. The Secretary is said to have found anti-dictatorship sentiment stronger than he had expected.

No one can quarrel with the resolutions passed by OAS. They simply restate two basic doctrines — nonintervention by one state in the internal affairs of another, which Sec. HERTER called "the most important foundation stone in the hemispheric structure," and resistance to dictatorships. All parties agreed to an investigation by the five nation Inter-American Peace Committee created in 1940 and recently given new life.

David Lawrence Says:

Bad to Let Bond Rates Smoulder

WASHINGTON — Smouldering fires often do not attract attention whether in government or anything else. Then when a conflagration comes, those who are responsible for the neglect run to cover.

LAWRENCE

The Democratic Party today controls both houses of Congress and is, therefore, responsible for the smouldering fire on the subject of interest rates.

Despite urgent appeals from the executive branch of the government heretofore, nothing has been done by the lawmakers to remove the ceiling that keeps the interest rates on government bonds frozen.

This means that nobody really knows what the real rate for government borrowing is and the consequence is a worldwide apprehension that the dollar is deteriorating.

The answer that some Democrats make is that there has been "too much talk" about inflation and that the less said about it the better. Actually the lenders of money in the markets don't do much talking—they simply refuse to lend their money to the government at existing rates. They know money should bring higher rates and they are under no compulsion to lend when they can get better rates from private borrowers.

Politically it is supposed to be bad to allow interest rates to rise. But the fact is the politicians are driving the interest rates up artificially by refusing to let the market for government securities find its natural level.

MONEY LENDERS WORRY

Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, in a copyrighted interview this week in "U. S. News & World Report," said flatly that the fear of inflation has made the price of money go up. He declared:

"If people who have money to lend begin to worry that the dollars they are loaning out now won't be worth as much when they get them back, then they are going to ask for a higher price. They'd like a little insurance against the likelihood of an inflationary price rise, and the only way they can get it is to charge more interest. Part of the additional interest is really an insurance premium. . . ."

When asked if the removal of the ceiling as now fixed by law would cause interest rates to rise, Sec. Anderson replied:

"I do not believe that they would rise because of this recommended change in law. In the first place, while interest rates are influenced by government borrowing, interest rates in free credit markets are by no means determined by the rates we put on our new issues of securities.

"It's the other way around: The rates we select are determined, after considerable study and consultation, on the basis of what's been going on in the market, the rates on existing government securities, on corporate bonds, and the like. So, removing the ceiling would simply permit us to meet the market.

"Secondly, since ability to do some long-term borrowing would help hold back inflation, removal of the 4¼ per cent ceiling would tend to promote lower—not higher—rates of interest. Nothing shoots up interest rates as fast as fear of inflation. That's one reason rates rose so fast in the summer of 1958.

"Investors are understandably reluctant to tie up their funds in long-term bonds if they believe the value of the dollar will go down. If they become convinced that we'll protect the value of the dollar, partly through sound debt management, they'll be more likely to buy long-term bonds at lower interest rates. . . ."

SAME OLD STRUGGLE

The secretary thinks that continuation of the ceiling on interest rates must inevitably force the United States more and more into a "controlled economy."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Infected Tonsils Require Diathermy Treatment

A Wisconsin reader writes:

"When my wife was young her parents took her to have her tonsils removed via Spanish butchery. She bled so profusely that they left the other alone. Every so often, all through the years, she had trouble with the one left, and she had to have it lanced time and again. She was always afraid to have it removed. Now she is 62 and recently had to have it lanced again. She was in much pain too.

DR. BRADY

"I can't find a doctor here who will give the diathermy treatment. Not even one who will tell me of another doctor who will do it. One told me it takes six or eight weeks, that it is very painful and attended with much bleeding, and usually has to be done over by tonsillectomy."

I'm sorry I can't afford to compile and maintain a directory service.

Evidently your wife has an infected tonsil.

If I had an infected tonsil I would choose diathermy treatment — electro-desiccation, electro-coagulation — in preference to tonsillectomy.

The purpose of diathermy treatment is NOT to remove the tonsil, but simply to disinfect, drain, pasteurize or destroy the septic focus, the centre of infection.

Any one who has had diathermy treatment of infected tonsils will testify that the treatments are comparatively painless — provided, of course, that the operator had the necessary skill.

The doctor who told the Wisconsin reader that this treatment is attended with much bleeding betrayed lack of knowledge or lack of probity.

A certain famous American doctor once authored a remarkable ten-page essay, in which he said:

"When the public learns of the dangers that may occur during the removal of tonsils by electrocoagulation . . . it will shun this operation as it would a rabid dog . . ."

In the very next paragraph the doctor said:

"Occasionally cases are referred in which there is a history of advanced tuberculosis, exophthalmic goiter or myocardial degeneration . . . Electrocoagulation is the salvation of these cases."

Having given his two minds about it, the man added that he considered "electrocoagulation a method of removing tonsils that every laryngologist should master, as he will find it occasionally necessary to remove them by this method."

Manifestly this doctor didn't know what he was talking about, but his double talk was probably just what the Pooh Bah wanted.

It is sad to find that so many physicians misrepresent and condemn alternatives for major surgery just because they do not understand how or haven't the skill required to use them.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Woman's Letter Inspires Gripes on Similar Topics

I will take up where So and So left off. After running to the telephone for those give-away gimmicks and trying to bathe her baby at the same time, she no doubt, after finishing with the baby, turns on TV for a minute's rest and what does she get thrown at her but a lot of commercials for beer, wine, cigarettes, bras, detergents, barbiturates, and patent medicines.

I don't ever remember signing anything to give these hungry TV hogs the right to use our living room as a billboard. I don't mind a commercial that supports a legitimate show, as most of them are interesting. It's those quickies 100 times a day that get me. Victim

One thing a housewife will do, regardless of how busy she is, is answer the telephone. I agree it's extremely annoying to pick up the receiver and hear, "Is this Mrs. Grim? We have a so-and-so for you if you can answer such and such a question. Know what I do? I angrily say: "I am not interested and I detest telephone soliciting," and I hang up at once. There should be a law against such annoying practice.

Mrs. Grim

Keego Harbor

Only yesterday I received a call such as Mrs. So and So wrote about. I handled it as I have several others — I hung up on her. The only way we can stop this nuisance is to let companies know we don't like this practice. This can be done by hanging up on the caller or by being so obnoxious he or she hangs up on you. I've tried both. Let's all get busy and put a stop to this.

Thoroughly Fed Up

If only part of those who share Mrs. So and So's dislikes would write, it would fill two books.

And how about the fellow who every evening for months insults people's intelligence trying to sell some kind of siding for houses. His latest inducement is a give-away of dishes. It used to be blankets, electric fans and what not.

We wonder if this had the same effect on other people as it had on us. That is, not to tune in the newscasts he sponsors. Is business really so bad a company has to practice this, and are TV stations so bad off they must accept such sponsors?

SEATO Must Decide What to Do About Laos

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Developments in Laos are approaching a point where they may become a test of the effectiveness of the Southeast Asia Treaty organization.

Communist guerrilla infiltration has now spread from the two northern provinces, where Communists have been powerful from the time of the Indochina war, to a point near the capital. Red forces are reported concentrating along the whole 1,000-mile border with the Communist bloc.

If this represents the beginning of a Communist attempt to take the whole country, SEATO will either have to intervene or assume, in Asiatic eyes, some of the aspects of a paper tiger.

Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam are barred from SEATO membership by the Geneva protocols which ended the Indochina war. Nevertheless, the organization was founded with their defense as part of its objective, and they are specifically named in one of the treaty's protocols.

There has always been some doubt about the efficacy of SEATO.

It was organized as part of the Allied position that, following the North Korean and Viet Nam armistices, no further Communist advances would be permitted. It was born along with the idea of "massive retaliation."

First there was Anzus, an agreement between the United States, Australia and New Zealand which recognized fear of a revitalized Japan. For extension of defense plans around the Southeast Asia perimeter, these countries joined with Britain, France the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand.

This virtually completed a worldwide line of containment of communism which had been tacitly envisioned under the Truman Doctrine, first enunciated with regard to Greece and Turkey.

But the line, especially in Asia with India not participating, always was and still is a tenuous one.

GIVING SOME AID

The United States already is giving Laos some very slight aid through military advice and materiel. The test for SEATO will come if much more is needed.

The United States, for propaganda purposes, is attributing the current trouble to Communist headquarters in Moscow. Many observers, however, consider it much more directly a Chinese Communist project, perhaps even designed to cut into the initiative held by Moscow through the recent Berlin crisis and negotiations between Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

Advises Wives to Act Enthusiastic

When I address large audiences of wives and tell them about Clara, most of the women laugh self-consciously, for they are all guilty of such sins. Never jeopardize your happy marriage by ignorance of the sex facts. And by all means, NEVER deflate your husband's sex ego as Clara did. At least ACT enthusiastic,

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-426: Clara D., aged 34, was a neurotic wife whom a medical colleague referred to me.

She had been in my office several times, when she unexpectedly called for a special appointment.

DR. CRANE

When she arrived, she had a black eye and was crying. Her husband was with her but he looked mighty glum.

Clara came into my consultation room first and tearfully explained that her husband had struck her in the eye with his fist and had also beaten her left breast till it was so black and blue she feared cancer would develop.

"He is a beast," she wept, "and I know he doesn't care for me at all, so shouldn't I get a divorce?

"Why, Dr. Crane, he beat me just at the height of our romancing. Doesn't that prove he has no love for me whatever?"

When I examined Clara, I found her breast was certainly almost a solid mass of black and blue marks.

So I quizzed her repeatedly to find out why his love had turned so suddenly to hate.

"Didn't you do anything to offend him?" I asked, but she vigorously shook her head. "Are you positive?" I went on. "Many wives unwittingly offend their mates."

But Clara still protested she hadn't done the slightest thing to incur her husband's wrath and physical abuse.

HENRY'S VERSION

So I sent her out into the reception room and asked for her husband to come in. Then I got a different slant on the affair.

"Sure, Dr. Crane, I hit her," Henry admitted angrily. "And if I had access to a butcher knife at that moment, I'd have slit her throat!"

"Humph," I replied, "you must have been irate, but Clara says she didn't do a thing to anger you. So let's hear your version of the matter."

Then Henry informed me that he had petted his wife and tried to work up her romantic enthusiasm to match his own, figuring that a gallant modern husband should try to make marital indulgence a mutually thrilling experience.

"After about 15 minutes of such prelude," Henry exclaimed, "when I thought she was just at the height of our romantic interlude, Clara accusingly blurted out: 'Henry, did you mail that letter I gave you this morning?'

"Well, Dr. Crane, all my affection for her left in the blink of an eye and I had a tremendous feeling of hatred. I struck her without thinking, and I would have murdered her at that instant if a knife had been within reach."

Wives, please study this case over and over again, for we doctors obtain various versions of it month after month.

Yet she had affronted his masculine ego in a man's most vulnerable spot. She had shown Hen-

During Paris' Liberation

Earth Stood Still—for Awhile

(Editor's Note: For those who helped to liberate Paris from the Nazis, Aug. 25, 1944, will always be "the day the earth stood still . . . and they saw the stars dance," says Richard Hollander, writer of the following 15th anniversary reminiscence. Hollander entered Paris by jeep on the morning of Liberation Day with a team of psychological warfare specialists, of which he was one. He is managing editor of the Washington Daily News.)

By RICHARD HOLLANDER

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Late summer in France is lovely indeed. And on this day of Paris' liberation 15 years ago it seemed ever lovelier than usual.

There was a hush on the countryside as the jeeps sped over the cobblestones to awaken Paris from a past that was dead, to begin a future from scratch.

This countryside hadn't been churned by artillery. Except for the pitted paving and the wrecked belfries where German snipers had lingered you might almost have thought there hadn't been a war at all.

The poplars in parallel rows curved toward Paris. The nearer you came, the more excited the people.

In Rambouillet, southwest of the city, the excitement mounted. Tanks rumbled. Gen. de Gaulle waited in the chateau to make his triumphant entry, grumbling, people said, because Gen. LeClerc would get there ahead of him.

The champagne and the cognac and the kisses, all the tangible gratitude intended for millions of fighting men, was poured out for the handful of British and Americans fortunate enough to be in on this greatest day in the long history of Paris.

Suddenly, the speeding jeeps veered into the Boulevard Raspail. All was ominously quiet.

Behind those blank facades there were still snipers and the whine of bullets echoed around your ears.

The jeeps went faster and then they were swinging in front of the Chamber of Deputies and heading across the Seine Bridge that leads into the Place de la Concorde.

The bridge is called the Pont de la Concorde, and it was there that an American captain from Cambridge, Mass., hauled his jeep to a stop and begin banging away happily with his carbine at the Hotel Crillon across the Place where a few Germans were holding out.

It wasn't until later that the captain remembered that it was at another Concord Bridge that an ancestor had helped fire the shot heard 'round the world. Even after 15 years, it's still probably a good dining-out anecdote.

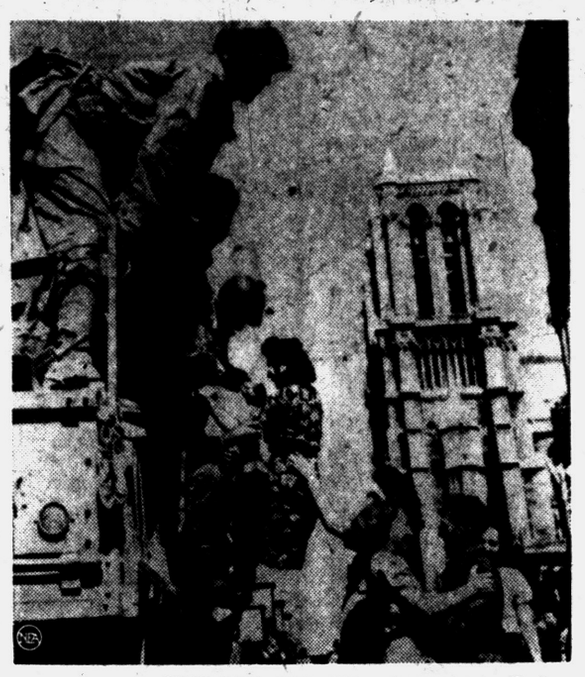
That night the boulevards, packed from wall to wall with all of the people of Paris, exploded with singing of The Star Spangled Banner and God Save the King and the Marseillaise and Madelon and Tipperary.

Near the Madeleine, a GI stopped



PARIS LIBERATION DAY, 1944: "The champagne and the cognac and the kisses, all the tangible gratitude . . ."

in a doorway to light a cigarette. In the flare of the match he saw a middle-aged couple approach. The man tipped his hat and said, uncertainly:

"You are an American?"

The GI nodded.

"Then," said the Frenchman, "will you please kiss my wife?"

The mood lasted through the next day.

There was a parade and de Gaulle went to Notre Dame to give thanks. In the narrow roadway of the Rue di Rivoli between the shops and the gardens of Louis XIV, the snipers began again. But the people joked as they rolled in the gutters to hide. The firing continued, even into Notre Dame itself, like a half-remembered, unbelievable movie.

In fact, after 15 years, that's what the whole long civic upheaval seems like to those who were there.

On Saturday night, the dream came to an end. German bombers ranged low over the city and dusted it for hours. Paris had been an open city, had no anti-aircraft defenses. We hadn't brought any.

To the people, the little handful of token liberators suddenly seemed just as insufficient as they really were. By Sunday morning, the chastened Parisians eyed the liberators with hostility. Why were they so few? Was this the end or only the beginning of more trouble?

In their minds, the people of Paris had somehow linked their own liberation with the end of the war. It hadn't occurred to them in their first flights of unbounded joy that there might be another long winter of war, far to the north and east. Not to mention the island hopping and jungle rot and Kamekasis half way across the world.

Sometime during that Saturday night the world had begun to move again.

From there on, it moved too fast for most people. After all, who in this generation was born to digest the implications and the actuality of nuclear weapons, of two world wars that didn't seem to solve anything at all?

Perhaps the realization of all this is toughest on the people of Paris. It was for them alone to know the happiness to which men can soar. For them the earth stood still for a moment and they saw the stars dance, if only for a little while 15 years ago.

Pressures Hike in Gasoline Tax

Rayburn Applies Heat on House Committee to Forestall Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heat was on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee today to approve a compromise 1-cent-a-gallon boost in the federal gasoline tax for one year.

The pressure came from Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), and he was applying it to forestall a deadlock in the waning session over financing the interstate highway program, now in the red.

At his insistence, the House Ways and Means Committee meets today to reconsider a plan it had approved earlier. This plan, which would boost the present 3-cent tax a penny a gallon for 22 months, has run into strong opposition in the House. Rayburn proposed cutting the period to 12 months.

Both the original committee plan and the Rayburn compromise differ from the request of President Eisenhower. He had asked Congress to raise the tax 1½ cents a gallon for five years.

Since the penny increase would bring in half a billion dollars a year or less revenue than the proposal of the President, both the Rayburn and committee plans would make this up by taking 800 million dollars a year from the government's general revenues.

This would begin in 22 months under the original committee proposal and in 12 months under the Rayburn compromise.

Unless Congress agrees on ways to get the program out of the red for the next few years, construction on the 41,000-mile interstate network will soon come to a halt.

Steichen Photo Pulled Down at U.S. Exhibition

MOSCOW (AP) — Edward Steichen's photograph of a Chinese child holding an empty rice bowl has been removed from the "Family of Man" display at the American Exhibition, U.S. officials said Monday it was pulled down in response to Soviet objections.

Exhibition officials said Director Harold McClellan first explained to complaining authorities that the picture was meant to be a universal symbol of hunger and had a rightful place in the collection of the famed New York photographer.

But he agreed to the removal last week after liaison authorities were backed by M. S. Nesterov, president of the Soviet Union Chamber of Commerce which helped McClellan arrange the fair.

Reveals Development of Better Grain Dryer

MONROE (AP) — Development of a mobile, infrared grain dryer was announced today by Rite-Way Fabricating & Engineering, Inc.

John S. Wright, president and board chairman, said the device removes moisture from all types of small grains and beans without destroying germination or nutritional value. He said the dryer is 30 per cent faster than conventional dryers, yet costs only a half cent per bushel to operate as against seven cents.

Five Die When Car Speeds Into Canal

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Police said seven teenage Negroes speeding more than 100 miles an hour in a stolen car plunged over a 15-foot levee into a canal Monday night. Five died and two escaped.

Three killed were sisters. They were Barbara and Evelyn Thomas, both 17, and Brenda Thomas, 16. The others killed were Ronald Williams, 16, and Barbara Jones, 17.

The survivors, Lyndon Blanchard, 17, and Van Doston, 18, told police they escaped through a rear door after the car went into the canal.

U.S. Jets Leave Base After French Protest

ETAIN, France (AP)—A group of U.S. Super Sabre Jets left the Etain base today for a new home in Germany.

A new assistant to the Waterford Township Recreation department director has been named by the recreation board, so that township activities can be expanded and improved, according to chairman Irwin Greer.

Robert Bauer, 27, recently graduated from the University of Indiana, is a widower and plans on moving with his two children to Waterford Township in the near future. He will begin work here Monday at a starting salary of $4,500.

With the hiring of Bauer as assistant, Belton will now be working on a long-range and bigger recreation program in Waterford Township. Besides a general expansion of leisure time activities, there will be a definite program established for retirement-age groups with scheduled activities.

A theater guild, instrumental and choral groups for both the youth and adults of the community will also be part of the new programming.

Extensive study of additional park locations and park administration is also part of the plans for future expansion.

Top Senators Want Rights Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate said Monday they favor consideration of civil rights legislation before Congress adjourns.

Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas listed civil rights along with highway, labor control and other measures he said he would like to see acted on.

Similarly, Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he and the Eisenhower administration are pushing for civil rights legislation before adjournment.

Both leaders spoke out in the face of predictions by senators on opposite sides of the battle over civil rights that it might prolong the present session of Congress for weeks.

Jackson Asked to Buy Private Bus System

JACKSON (UPI) — A special transportation advisory committee will recommend this week that Jackson accept the offer of the National City Lines of Chicago to sell its bus system here to the city for $216,000.

Voters, however, will have to give the plan final approval.

The advisory committee will recommend that the purchase price be paid with an 18-year, $110,000 revenue bond issue at five per cent interest a year and $106,000 in cash.

During the time the city is paying off the bond issue, the lines would be operated by the National City Lines for five per cent of the gross revenue.

Gov. Rockefeller Deals Out Charm

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

KRISTIANSAND, Norway — I don't suppose I should attempt a weighty analysis of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's chances for winning the Republican presidential nomination, should I?

No, obviously not. After all this trip to a fjord-flanked town in Norway was scarcely of the same calibre as Vice President Richard Nixon's Soviet surrounded trip to Russia. And winning over the fishing and farmer families of Sogne is not comparable to ambling among the citizens of Siberia, is it?

So I shall not be weighty; I shall merely be extremely personal. And say, if there is any man on earth more likeable to people of all sexes and sizes than Nelson Rockefeller, I will eat my ballot, small print and all.

All us folks in Norsk feel that way and we are completely nonpartisan. The rational motto is: "It is what you are, not who your friends be, which counts." And even if Nelson Rockefeller checked into the local hotel with a Mr. Hoffa at his right and a Mr. Luciano carrying his bags, we would see him clear.

Seriously, having watched the multi-millionaire governor on television a number of times during the gubernatorial race, I — like every woman I know — was impressed by his enormous charm and sincerity and, let us face it, ladies, sex appeal.

Now in Norway, watching him neatly knock over a quiet, aloof populace and literally rouse them to cheers unheard here even for a record-breaking sardine catch, I am even more sure.

Without so much as cuddling a single tow-headed baby he could be elected king of Norway by the Sogne district.

It has nothing to do with his money, either. Here in Norway it is not only what you are that counts, it is what you don't show you possess. Gov. Rockefeller has the lovable characteristic of looking well groomed on a tight budget.

I do not like to talk about the Steven Rockefeller-Anne Marie Rasmussen wedding again, as there is nothing so old as yesterday's bridal bouquet, but since this was the happy occasion which robbed New York's state capital of Albany of Nelson Rockefeller I will make an exception.

CROWD CRUSHES IN

When the governor arrived last weekend on the wedding eve he was nearly mobbed at the airport by the curious, who merely wanted to glimpse what a man with all those millions — at seven kroner to the dollar — looked like. When the crowd crushed in upon him and Mr. Rasmussen, Anne Marie's father, he put his arm around the elderly Norwegian's shoulder as if to protect him.

I know this is Rasmussen, not Rockefeller, country. But what the governor accomplished at that moment, believe it or not, was — as a complete stranger in a land he had never seen — make a local citizen of that land "feel right at home."

Similarly young Steven Rockefeller in premarital public appearances kept his arm around Anne Marie.

The feeling of personal gallant protection and security one receives in the presence of these Rockefellers is enormous.

Anne Marie, like her fellow citizens, was almost stunned by the kind understanding of her husband and father-in-law. Most of the time she stood quietly by and, under the protective arms of the Rockefellers, looked pretty and proud. (Gov. Rockefeller didn't lose a son, he gained a political asset.)

As a voter who doesn't understand the machinations of politics I have only a little idea what the chances are for the nomination of Rockefeller. But as a woman—and three million more women than men vote next election — I feel unreservedly that if nominated the governor of New York will be tough to beat.

GETTING READY FOR A PICNIC — New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller takes a carton of beer being handed aboard as he and his wife (left) prepare to set out by boat for a Sunday picnic near Kristiansand in Norway. In foreground, with black cap, is T. J. Kraft, British vice consul and owner of the boat. Later in the day, the Rockefellers flew back to New York. Aboard the same plane were the newlyweds, Steven Rockefeller and his Norwegian bride.

Alma Plans Salute to Oil Industry

ALMA (UPI) — Alma manufacturing firms and the oil industry will get a rousing salute starting Thursday.

A two-week celebration is planned to mark the 100th birthday of the oil industry with local manufacturers to be honored for their parts in promoting economic progress.

Dr. William E. Stirton, vice president of the University of Michigan and well-known engineer will be featured guest speaker at the Thursday night kick-off banquet.

The two-week celebration will climaxed Sept. 12 with a parade which will include bands from at least 12 cities, floats, industrial equipment, military units and special marching groups.

Soviets Complete Plans for Trunk Oil Pipeline

MOSCOW (UPI) — Plans have been completed for construction of a trunk oil pipeline from a point near Kuibyshev to countries of Eastern Europe, according to the official news agency Tass.

Tass said the underground line will run through the central portion of the Republic of Russia, through the Ukraine and then into Belorussia where it will branch off into two directions. The north branch will supply oil to Poland and East Germany and the south branch will go into Hungary and Czechoslovakia, Tass said.

Vice Takes Over Town

It's not quite as bad as it sounds, however. James Vice replaced John Golden as Mulberry town marshal.

Private Refuses His Polio Shots

He Gets Undesirable Discharge but NOT for Religious Beliefs

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Army has handed an undesirable discharge to Pvt. James B. Merritt, who refused to take polio shots because of religious beliefs.

Merritt, 23, Maynardsville, Tenn., accepted the discharge Aug. 4 after waiving an appearance before an Army board named to investigate his conduct, a spokesman at Brooke Medical Center here said.

The Department of the Army ruled that Merritt need not take the shots after he said his church, the Church of God of the Union Assembly Inc., does not believe in medicine.

The Army ruled, however, Merritt still would have to face the board of officers appointed to look into his case. A spokesman said "serious personal misconduct had been discovered during an investigation of Merritt's religious beliefs.

The spokesman declined to explain the alleged misconduct.

No Wrongdoing Found in Allegan Law Groups

LANSING (UPI)—Attorney General Paul L. Adams said today he found no basis for criminal action as the result of an investigation of Allegan City Police and County Sheriff's departments.

Adams said the city was "torn by rumors" about law enforcement officers. He said charges and countercharges created a "sort of fantastic thing" in the area.

However, a five-page report on an investigation which began about mid-June failed to uncover grounds for prosecution. Adams said findings indicated operation of the sheriff's department needed revision to be more efficient "within the very limited finances available."

Boy Escapes Injury After Scooter Crash

A Waterford Township youth escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when he lost control of his motor scooter and crashed through a garage door off Hatchery road near Brightwood street.

Leo Frankowski, 16, of 7890 Highland Rd. told Waterford Township police that he was attempting to stop his scooter on a curve when he skidded on loose gravel and crashed through the glass-and-wood garage door.

Police said neither the boy nor his motor scooter was hurt.

The residential garage is at the home of E. L. Nicolay, 6792 Hatchery Rd.

Jayne Mansfield Discusses Babies

Be Affectionate, Not Sexy

LONDON (UPI) — "Child care authority" Jayne Mansfield says she never wears a black negligee when her eight-month-old son Miklos is around because "it isn't nice for babies to be conscious of their mothers as being sexy."

Miss Mansfield gave a Sunday pictorial reporter some helpful hints on how to bring up children, especially hers, Miklos Hagertay.

"Babies always like to see their mothers in simple, fresh clothes," she said.

"I adore black nighties and negligees. But Miklos will never see me in them.

"I want to keep him in a swimming pool of love all through his life. People talk nonsense, about spoiling a child.

"No baby can be loved too much. They like to see their parents kiss. I kiss my husband Mickey at least 20 times a day."

Detroit Polio at 65

DETROIT (AP) — Two new cases of polio have been reported by the Detroit Health Department, bringing the total for the year to 65. There have been no deaths. In the same period last year the city had 146 cases and six deaths.

Gubernatorial Race Tight in Mississippi Primary

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi will choose its 52nd governor today in what political observers expect to be a tightly contested Democratic runoff primary.

Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, who has served two successive terms, predicted he would sweep 50 to 55 of the state's 82 counties.

Ross Barnett, successful Jackson claims attorney making his third straight gubernatorial try, said he would take 60 counties.

About 400,000 of the state's 529,000 qualified voters were expected at the polls, where votes are still hand-counted in all but one county.

Top vote in the primary amounts to election in this solidly Democratic state. The Republican party is not running a candidate. The winner will take office Jan. 19.

Gov. J. P. Coleman, prevented by law from succeeding himself, won the primary election for state representative from Choctaw County, his home county. He threw his support behind Gartin.

Gartin, 47, has campaigned on a platform of experience and on the administration's record of industrial development and school segregation.

Craggy-faced, 61-year-old Ross Barnett has promised retroactive teachers pay, proclaimed himself an aggressive fighter for segregation, and charged Gartin was part of Coleman's political machine and labor's picked candidate.

The Mississippi AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education "recommended" Gartin, although it declined to "endorse" either candidate.

Barnett led the Aug. 4 first primary with 155,508 votes to Gartin's 151,043 and 131,000 for Charles Sullivan.

With Reports of Price Stability

Drain on Pocketbook Is Puzzling

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Making both ends meet seems to get a little harder all the time for most folk. Even the government's mythical average man finds it so.

And for the millions of Americans who only approximate the average, the steady drain on the pocketbook puzzles those who read reports in official quarters of general price stability.

But even the statistics reveal the pinch.

The consumer price index rose to a new high in July and probably is continuing in August. And because of the steel strike and its effect on other industries and because of a seasonal drop in some factory work weeks, the average take-home pay of the factory worker dropped.

Combined with rises in prices, this means he had to spend more and had less to do it with. We are told that this should change in time and industrial output and factory incomes be on the rise again. Meantime, it's rough.

And now the government comes up with two more statistics showing what was hurting you only a short time back. They add up to still tighter squeezes on the family pocketbook.

One is a rise in taxes which took a record 112 billion dollars from American taxpayers in the fiscal year ended June 30. The other states that while personal income totals were up two per cent in 1958 over 1957, over-all prices rose even more.

What with higher tax payments and higher prices for many of the goods and services it needs or wants, the so-called average family had to do some fancy footwork just to keep going. For any of them with a sudden big medical or hospital bill, for example, the result could be serious, indeed.

Part of the tax payments come from business. But they come out of gross earnings, and earnings start their way through the accountant's books in the form of prices or fees. Thus they become part of the hidden taxes that the consumer eventually pays.

The government breakdown on tax payments put the federal ones at about 80 billion dollars and the state and local ones at close to 16 billion dollars each.

The Tax Foundation, a private research group, says that state tax collections have doubled since 1949.

It also does some complicated figuring to report that a white collar worker, married and with two children, and making $7,500 a year pays $1,770 a year in taxes to the federal, state and local governments, or 24 per cent of his income. It says that for the same work he would have been paid $4,900 ten years ago, but his total tax bill would have been $679, or 14 per cent of his income.

Babies Much Simpler

The average stay in the hospital for a woman who's gone there to have a baby is 4.5 days, compared with 8.5 days for one who's been hospitalized for reasons other than maternity.

The population of Trinidad, resort island in the Caribbean, is 687,250.

Set Launching Date of Third Missile Sub

GROTON (AP) — Polaris missile submarine Theodore Roosevelt will be launched Oct. 3 at Mare Island, Calif., naval shipyard, 11 days after sister ship Patrick Henry slides down the way at General Dynamic Corp's electric boat division here, it was announced today by Atlantic Submarine Force headquarters.

The launchings will bring to three the total of American missile-firing submarines in the water. The George Washington was launched in June at Electric Boat.

Mrs. Alice Longworth of Washington, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, will christen the new vessel.

Six more Polaris craft have been contracted for by the Navy. Electric Boat has two, the Ethan Allen and the Thomas A. Edison, advanced design craft.

The Roosevelt will be the third nuclear submarine launched at Mare Island. The shipyard has four others under construction.

2 Red Farmers Jump Border With 21 Cattle

KASSEL, Germany (AP) — Two farmers from Communist East Germany brought all their cattle along when they fled to West Germany Monday.

Fearing collectivization on his farm, a 55-year-old farmer came across with wife and two children. He drove a herd of 14 cows through a gap he had cut in the barbed wire fence that marks the border.

Another farmer brought along seven cows. His herd was grazing on a pasture directly on the border. All he had to do was cut the fence.

There are about 102.7 males to every 100 female in Australia, according to recent census estimates.

IMPORTANT NEWS! Now you can add your dependent parents to your Blue Cross-Blue Shield group contracts.

New and exclusive with your M-75 group coverage... Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection for all your "income tax dependents", regardless of age

Now, for the first time, Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection is available to every member of your family circle . . . under your present Blue Cross-Blue Shield M-75 group membership!

Your father or mother . . . your adult children . . . even your in-laws (if they are "dependents" of yours) are eligible for Blue Cross-Blue Shield health care under two new additions that you may make to your present contract.

Result: You are relieved of financial burden should illness or accident strike any of your "income tax dependents".

Here's how the new Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage works:

Your employer may arrange for you to select either—or both—of two new "riders" now being offered for addition to the Blue Cross-Blue Shield M-75 contracts you already have.

One of the additions, "FAMILY CONTINUATION RIDER F", provides health care for your dependent children after they reach age 19. As you know, Blue Cross-Blue Shield has always offered group protection for your youngsters up to 19 years old. But now, the new rider extends that coverage for your unmarried children through the college years up to age 25.

The second addition that can be added to your M-75 contract is "SPONSORED DEPENDENT RIDER S". This provides 30 days of hospital and medical care for still other dependent members of your family circle. Your own parents, for example. Or even children over 25.

Limited Time Only

As a group member of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield M-75 plan, and subject to the agreement of the employer of your group, you are welcome to add either—or both—of these new "riders" to your present coverage. The cost of the additional benefits will simply be added to your regular contract payment.

However, your group must act promptly. The current "sign-up" period for these new "riders" extends only to November 1, 1959.

For full details on the most complete family coverage Blue Cross-Blue Shield has ever offered, see your personnel or payroll officer, or call the Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield office nearest you. Information about these two new riders is being sent to every M-75 group this week.

It's wonderful to feel cared for

Or Friends Will Go Wild, Then You

Don't Reveal Plans to Travel

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If you're planning a trip abroad, don't tell your friends, advises Joan Gardner, prominent advertising woman and fashion expert of St. Louis.

On the eve of her departure for a seven-week tour of Europe, Joan views with dismay the shopping list she has accumulated from Missouri well-wishers. Says she:

"I just asked casually if there was something I could bring them, but I never dreamed it would be anything like this. Everybody seemed to have a list all ready. One man asked me to bring him a Rolls Royce. I thought he was joking, but it turned out he was in dead earnest. Said it would be easy for me to expedite delivery."

Another business associate requested Joan to select a painting for the dining room she had never seen — "Just something nice and French to go with a green and tan color scheme."

A woman friend asked her to look up a remote jewelry shop in Paris that she had heard makes "the darlingest animal and vegetable earrings." She wanted a pair of each.

A doting mother commissioned Joan to buy a dozen steak knives of a specific pattern in Denmark, as a gift for her about-to-be-married daughter. Joan found them in New York at the same price and shipped them off before departure.

When in Frankfurt, Joan must pick up a German issue of Vogue Magazine, and some penny peppermints at the railroad station for a friend with nostalgic memories of a long-ago trip to Germany.

Joan's trip is one she has been planning most of her life, but hasn't had time for up to now. A native of St. Louis, she spent some years in New York as fashion editor of Bell Syndicate before returning to her home town to head up organization and promotion of the St. Louis fashion creators. In 1955 she was named advertising woman of the year. Her itinerary will take her through Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Germany, Italy, France, London and Scotland.

"It's something I've always wanted to do," says Joan, "but if I fill all these shopping orders I won't have time to do anything else. Besides, I don't think a Rolls Royce or a mink coat would fit into my $500 tourist shopping allowance."

One order she will fill is from her maid, who collects china dogs.

"She has 700 of them now," says Joan, "but she wants more, and I'm going to get them for her. After all, a good maid is hard to find."

Tell Book Borrowers His Rules

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband has always made it a hard and fast rule not to lend even one book out of his extensive collection. He loves his books too well, he says, to risk having them mistreated or lost. How, then, can I tactfully refuse friends who occasionally ask to borrow one of these books without offending?

Answer: Your husband has every right to protect his cherished books by refusing to lend even one of them. You refuse would-be borrowers by explaining with regret that if you were to lend one of your husband's books, you would be breaking one of his very strictest house rules.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my brother and his family, who live in another state, visited me. They stayed overnight. When they were leaving I called to their attention a box they had left on a table. They told me it was a gift for me. I thanked them but did not open it at the time as they were already late in leaving. The box contained a very lovely silver dish. I have been told that my sister-in-law thinks me very rude for not having written a thank-you note for the gift. I always thought that when a gift is given directly to an individual and thank you is said personally, that that was sufficient. Please correct me if I am wrong.

Answer: If you had opened it in their presence, admired the dish and thanked them for it, no letter of thanks could have been expected, but, as things were, after having opened the gift you should have written your sister-in-law telling her how much you liked the dish and thanked her for

---

Dear Mrs. Post: It doesn't seem quite right for me to stand with my gloves on receiving the wedding guests after the ceremony. Yet my daughter says this is correct. Will you advise me?

Please Cab Driver

Food Allergy May Be Culprit

Here's Lowdown on Rashes

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A lovely complexion is a great asset for a woman. The most irregular features acquire a bloom when the skin is beautiful. Some women are born with this blessing while others struggle to improve their natural heritage.

Many are embarrassed by periodic or chronic rashes and blemishes. Sometimes these are due to an allergy or to allergies. Today I want to give you some interesting facts about allergies, not only from the standpoint of beauty but of health.

1. The tendency to allergies often is inherited. If the history of your family shows that your parents or grandparents or aunts or uncles suffered with asthma, exzema, hay fever or skin rashes, this does not necessarily mean that you will do likewise.

It does indicate, however, that you may be more susceptible than others.

FOOD ALLERGIES

Many folks are allergic to certain foods. If there are just one or two items which are not necessary to health, it is simple to cut them out. However, any drastic changes in diet which eliminate essential foods should be prescribed by and supervised by your physician. Otherwise you may be short-changed on proteins, minerals and vitamins.

2. Many folks react unfavorably to dust and pollens. Desensitization by injection often helps.

3. One of the more recent thoughts concerning allergy is the recognition of bacterial allergy.

In other words you may become allergic to your own bugs if you have had a chronic infection, such as one in the tonsils, or sinuses, for instance.

HIVES

4. Hives are very common. Almost everyone has this once or twice during his lifetime. Hives may occur in the form of a rash or medium sized or large bumps.

We think of hives as a simple affliction and it usually is, but it can be severe, causing difficulty in breathing, fever or nausea.

Hives usually lasts only a few hours or days but it can become chronic and last for months or even years.

Food is practically always the offender, not something you touch or come in contact with. Melons, strawberries, nuts, peaches and shell fish are frequent sources of trouble.

Many people are allergic to drugs, especially penicillin and the sulfa drugs.

Pores Enlarged by Hot Water

Never use hot water or a steamy cloth to wash your face if your pores are large. This causes the skin to relax and eventually will add to the condition. But remember, keep your skin thoroughly clean because enlarged pores can cause trouble when clogged.

She's Sensible, Not Mean . . . Abby

Grandma Hates Tending Children

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is there any help for us Grandmas? I raised eight children. My youngest is 14. My children keep sending me their kids for vacations. It makes no difference how I am feeling or what I have to do.

ABBY

This year I turned over a new leaf. One daughter-in-law wrote me that she was sending me all seven of her kids for 3 weeks. I wrote back, "Oh, no you aren't. You have a mother and 3 sisters. I will take part of them but not all seven at once."

My daughter lives in another state. She called asking me to take her 5 for all summer. I said, "I took care of kids for 35 years and I am tired. Take care of your own kids."

My husband says I am a very mean person and will not go to heaven. Am I wrong?

TIRED GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: You are certainly NOT wrong. There is nothing "mean" about your refusal to let others take advantage of you. You've earned your retirement. Don't worry, Grandma, you'll get to heaven all right. But there's no sense in rushing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teenager. I have already had my polio shots and my mother, who is 33, has taken hers, too. But my father said he wasn't going to take any because polio does not strike people after their late thirties.

Is he right about this or not? I think I read where a man 42 years old got polio.

WORRIED ABOUT DAD

DEAR WORRIED: Your father is mistaken. Polio has stricken thousands of adults in their thirties, forties and even fifties. Tell your Dad if he loves his family he will get his polio shots immediately.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to marry a boy who works on the second shift. He is 25 and I am 21. He never sees me on Saturday night. He tells me he is working but he will not give me any proof. Like showing his check stubs. He complains about not having any money from one paycheck to another, but if he works on Saturdays he should get time and a half.

Am I wrong in wanting proof that he is not lying? What should I do?

WANTING PROOF

DEAR WANTING: Something is fishy! A truthful man could easily prove his statements. Get this Romeo out of the moonlight and take a good look at him in the daylight before you promise to spend the rest of your life with him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STEVE: If you have a "honeymoon salad" in mind, you'd better start a bank account. You are shelling out too much lettuce to go with the tomatoes.

Give Your Marriage a Chance to Succeed

By RUTH MILLETT

Nobody can guarantee a bride that her marriage will be happy. But she can improve the chances that it will be if:

She makes up her mind at the start to get along with her in-laws and never, no matter what the provocation, talk against them to her husband.

She is determined to be a good housekeeper. Any husband has a right to expect a pleasant, well-run home — even if "home" is just a small, efficiency apartment.

She realizes, from the start of her marriage, the importance of a married couple's having good friends — not just her friends or his friends, but their friends.

She is determined to be a good manager and to make her husband's pay check go as far as possible, instead of being careless in money matters.

She realizes the importance of a couple's having goals to work toward, and so plans with her husband for the future instead of trusting to the future to take care of itself.

She builds her husband up instead of tearing him down.

She gladly takes on a woman's responsibilities when she marries, instead of wanting to be a spoiled darling all her life.

She takes an interest in her husband's job, but has enough judgment to know that she shouldn't repeat office gossip or her husband's business affairs with "the girls."

She keeps her husband's faults to herself, instead of complaining about him to her friends or to her parents.

Living up to those rules may not make a marriage successful. But it will certainly give it a better chance to succeed.

A reception was held at Orchard Lake Country Club. Before leaving for a honeymoon to Franconia Notch and the White Mountains, N. H., the bride changed to a navy silk shantung sheath dress with matching jacket, a red velvet hat and navy accessories.

They will live in Cambridge, Mass. where the bridegroom is attending Harvard Law School. He is a graduate of Princeton University where he was a member of Colister Inn Club. The bride is a graduate of the University of Michigan. She was affiliated with Chi Omega sorority.

Mrs. Bensen wore a dress of gray silk organza over taffeta with a yellow hat and orchid corsage. Mrs. Ketchum was dressed in blue silk organza with matching accessories and white flowers.

Friends and Critics Speculate

Will Wedding Change Sogne?

By ROBERT MUSEL

SOGNE, Norway (UPI)—Suppose you live in a very small town and one of your neighbors' children married into a mint of money. It would only be natural to speculate how this might change your neighbor's way of life.

In this very small town today there was just such speculation about Kristian Rasmussen, the retired grocer whose daughter Anne Marie Saturday married into one of the wealthiest and most powerful families in the world — the Rockefellers.

Some of it was the friendliest kind of discussion, and some of it was tinged by envy—just what you would expect anywhere in the world.

The Rasmussens live in a small wood and concrete cottage. They are one of the few families who do not have a telephone. At one time Rasmussen ran a general store on the off-shore island of Boroya, but he sold out and "retired"—that is, he became a lobster exporter, which is a seasonable trade.

Meanwhile his daughter Anne Marie went to the United States to perfect her English, got a job in the home of the Rockefellers, and Saturday in the church in which she was baptized and confirmed became Mrs. Steven Rockefeller, mistress of millions.

Or anyhow, the wife of a man who will someday be master of 40 million or 50 million dollars.

Small town folks close ranks in a sort of conspiracy when outsiders pry. The other day when Steven bought Anne Marie a zither the local music shop refused to tell the price.

"I'll buy one then," said the exasperated journalist.

"I would not sell it to you," snapped the salesgirl. So today in Sogne friends and critics would speak only anonymously.

The Rasmussens are not poor people by the standard of southern Norway. They live comfortably because living here is not expensive. But they are a degree or two below the well-to-do.

Neighbors think one result of the marriage will be more schooling for Anne Marie's 18-year-old sister and maid of honor, Torhild.

Rasmussen will have fewer business worries than in the past. Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Anne Marie's new father-in-law, invited the Rasmussens to visit the United States.

The bride's father spent an estimated year's income on the wedding and the expense of such a trip for three people might now be beyond him.

"But I don't think he will have any troubles finding financing for the trip, eh?" said a taxi driver.

Other neighbors thought the Rasmussens would live about the way they have been doing.

The house, though small, is fairly new. They do not have extravagant tastes, "although a car would be handy."

Friends said with a loving daughter, they would not have to worry about their old age.

One villager said they haven't lost a daughter—they've gained a millionaire.

Boycotting and Picketing Up for Discussion Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees plunge into debate today on two of the most controversial sections of the labor control bill after reaching agreement on three Taft-Hartley provisions.

Up for discussion are secondary boycotts and organizational picketing, two of the three subjects on which the Senate and House versions of the legislation are most sharply divergent.

The 14 conferees worked at two sessions Monday. When the afternoon session broke up, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), conference chairman, reported agreement on these points:

1. To accept the Senate provision under which replaced strikers in a labor dispute would be allowed to vote, but limiting the right to the first nine months of the walkout. There was no limitation in the Senate bill. The House measure did not allow such strikers to vote.

2. To knock out the Senate provision setting up a procedure for prehearing elections in labor disputes. This was designed to eliminate delaying tactics sometimes used to stall elections on the question of union representation.

3. To reject a Senate provision excluding service assistants in the telephone industry from the definition of a supervisor, and thus make them subject to union membership. It was not in the House bill.

The first of these makes a dent in a section of the Taft-Hartley law—a section once denounced by President Eisenhower as union-busting. Some employers strongly opposed eliminating it.

The prehearing election provision also had administration support but again was fought by some employers, especially retailers.

39 Still Missing After Earthquake

At one time Monday, the Red Cross listed as many as 88 persons as possibly missing. Many of these were located alive and well.

Nine persons were killed, and a 10th is missing and presumed dead.

The immediate concern here is for the massive earthslide which may have buried alive some campers in the Rock Greek area, downstream from Hebgen Dam where the quake centered.

Water spilling through the dam has formed a seven-mile long lake known as Quake Lake, and officials say the waters will crest the natural dam formed by the rock slide in from 20 to 30 days.

The greatest length of South America is about 4,800 miles and its greatest width is 3,300 miles.

Comedian Stang Bangs Into Capital Cherry Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Squeaky-voiced comedian Arhold Stang, 35, suffered what was described as severe facial cuts and head injuries when his car rammed into one of the famed cherry trees here early today.

A spokesman said Stang, taken to a hospital, would probably not be able to appear tonight as the lead in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" at a local theater.

Stab Tree for Water

Train commuters pay about 1/2 as much as drivers!

Of course, Grand Trunk doesn't hand you a check. But you can save close to $200 a year riding GTW to Detroit daily instead of driving your car. It takes about four gallons of gas to drive to work from Pontiac and back. And if you spend 75 cents to park, that's $1.95 a day.

Commuting by GTW costs only $1.22 a day, a saving of just under $200 a year. And think . . . air conditioned comfort, time to relax and read, no more traffic jams. Be smart. Commute by train.

How much does it cost not to go to college?

Everybody deplores the high cost of going to college.

But the rapid and exciting scientific developments of recent years make one thing obvious. It is vitally important that America's young people be well educated to meet the challenge of the future.

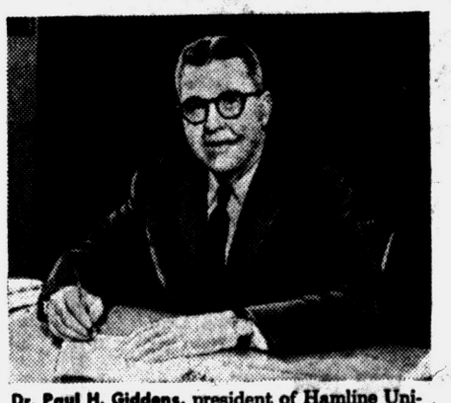
For quite some time, American business has been aware that the high cost of going to college is not nearly as high for the nation as the cost of not going to college. The cost of not going to college could be a critical weakening of democracy itself. The nation cannot afford that price!

To help promising students and privately-financed liberal arts colleges, we and many other companies give financial aid in various ways. Standard Oil, for example, has made funds available which provide for 34 graduate fellowships and undergraduate scholarships in science and engineering. The educational institutions select those who receive the awards. Four-year scholarships awarded through the National Merit Scholarship Corporation also are included in the program. Supplementary grants are made to schools chosen by the Merit Scholarship winners.

In addition, Standard Oil has made funds available from which $175,000 is paid yearly, through the State Associations of Colleges, to aid privately-financed liberal arts colleges in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain areas.

At Standard Oil, where so much of our planning concerns the future, we believe there are few things more vital to America's security than a well-educated public. And we think that industry should back up such beliefs with substantial aid to colleges and students.

W. W. Mixon of Hammond, Indiana, is a physics major at the University of Chicago. He holds a National Merit Scholarship. Aid to students and colleges is another way in which business helps assure America's strength and security.



Dr. Paul H. Giddens, president of Hamline University, St. Paul, Minnesota, says: "Financial assistance to students by business places a premium on scholastic achievement and serves to increase the future supply of talented leaders."

WHAT MAKES A COMPANY A GOOD CITIZEN?

For one thing—the way it looks ahead, for the good of all. In years to come, America will gain strength and security through the combined efforts of business and colleges today in making higher education more available to more people.

LOVES TO COOK — Pretty Lorelei takes a batch of cookies out of the oven to feed hungry members of her family and friends who have dropped in to catch up on the news of her pre-Festival activities.

SMART SALESLADY — When not rushing from one pre-Festival activity to another, the Romeo Peach Queen works part time in her mother's shops in Armada and Richmond. Called the Jo Lo San Shops, the mall department stores are named after the Hoxies' three daughters, Joanne, Lorelei and Sandy.

Taking Fruit to Mayor, to Visit Race Track

Lorelei Hoxie Sparkles With Personality

Pictures and Story
By LEE WINBORN

the whirlwind round of activities that will keep the Armada miss really stepping until the Festival weekend.

ROMEO — The judges who picked Lorelei Hoxie, 18, of Armada as the 1959 Romeo Peach Queen certainly knew what they were doing.

They chose a girl with all the queenly attributes of beauty, poise, talent and charm, plus a sparkling personality that endears her to everyone she meets.

And meeting people is Lorelei's job for the two weeks leading up to the 27th annual Peach Festival celebration to be held over Labor Day weekend in Romeo.

She will present a basket of peaches to Detroit's Mayor Louis C. Miriani at 10 a.m. tomorrow after which she will be interviewed on a Detroit television show.

Later in the afternoon she will visit Hazel Park Race Track where the feature race will be named in her honor.

The queen will be accompanied by her first maid of honor, Frances Goff of Waterford Township, second maid, Carole Bird of Rochester and her chaperone, Mrs. W. A. Parks of Romeo.

ONLY THE BEGINNING

On Thursday Lorelei, along with "Miss Romeo" Sheila Dahn and her maid of honor Mary Mar'l, will ride on the Peach Festival publicity float in the "Lapeer Day" parade in Lapeer.

This is only the beginning of

And Lorelei is a girl who likes to keep busy and is used to a pretty full schedule most of the time. She is one of five children — three girls (she's in the middle) and two boys.

Her parents are the Lyman Hoxies of 7424 Burk St., Armada. Her mother owns and operates the Jo-Lo San Shops in Richmond and Armada where Lorelei works part-time.

SHE CAN COOK TOO

The shops are named after the three Hoxie girls — Jo for Mrs. Joanne Teller, 20; Lo for Lorelei; and San for Sandy, who is 16. Their father is a tool and die maker in Detroit.

When at home Lorelei busies herself in the kitchen. She loves to bake and turns out very tempting dishes, her mother says.

She also likes to paint, but admits that lately she hasn't had much time for it. By way of illustration she said she was Homecoming Queen at Armada High School last fall, entered the Utica Rhubarb Festival queen's contest in the spring and received her high school diploma in June.

She was named first maid of honor in the Utica competition.

To keep in trim, the lovely Peach Queen enjoys a game of tennis, but more often can be found at the beach in the summertime. Not content to lie on shore soaking up the sunshine, she likes to dive right in and do an expert crawl stroke.

In the winter she loves to ski and practices her sittsmarcks and gelandsprungs on the slopes of Mount Holly.

When talking about the Romeo queen's contest, Lorelei said, "I knew what tough competition I had and could not believe that I even had a chance of winning the title."

WANTS TO BE A MODEL

Ironically enough, Lorelei's mother had made arrangements for her to take a course at John Robert Powers Finishing School in Detroit just the week before the contest.

Little did Mrs. Hoxie dream that her daughter would win the crown and a free course at Patricia Stevens Finishing School in Detroit as her prize.

Now Lorelei is going to Patricia Stevens on her queen's scholarship, and when she finishes she will take a post graduate course at the Powers School in high fashion modeling.

"Since the contest I've changed my mind about becoming a secretary. Now I want to get a job and try to break into the modeling field," said Lorelei.

Her first official appearance as queen in Romeo will be at the Queen's Ball to be held at the Youth Center from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Sept. 4.

Highlights of the following day's program will be the opening of the carnival, welcoming ceremony and street dance.

Her majesty will be crowned with much pomp and ceremony by Gov. Williams in Romeo's Memorial Stadium on Sunday, Sept. 6.

On Labor Day she will ride at the head of the Children's Parade at 10 a.m. in an open convertible. She will don her coronation robes again for the gala Floral Parade at 2 in the afternoon, and then in the evening will witness the humorous Mummers' Parade climaxed by a giant fireworks display.

Peach Queen Will Compete at State Fair

Girls who are contest winners in their own communities will be eligible to compete for the title of Miss Michigan State Fair on Sept. 9.

Among those competing for the crown will be Romeo Peach Queen Lorelei Hoxie of Armada. Other entrants will include several members of her court, who are title holders in the towns they represented in the Peach Queen contest in Romeo.

LIKES PEACHES — Appropriately enough, the Romeo Peach Queen likes peaches. She is shown here taking a large bite out of one at Welsh's roadside stand south of Armada. She'll see a lot more peaches before the Festival to be held in Romeo over Labor Day weekend. She will present them everywhere she goes in the next few weeks, to publicize the forthcoming celebration.

DABBLER IN OILS — With her hair pulled up in back to keep cool on these hot days, Lorelei puts the finishing touches to a painting she is working on. Admittedly just a dabbler, she loves to work on landscapes and seascapes.

TENNIS ENTHUSIAST — Ready to serve a ball over the net on the Armada High School court, Her Majesty says she plays for fun and is not trying to display expert form.

SHALL WE DANCE? — Her Majesty will make her first Festival appearance in Romeo at the Queen's Ball to be held in her honor on Sept. 4. She and her escort will lead the grand march followed by members of her court and their dates.

Drop Zoning Law Case in Washington Township

Clarence Burr to Be Delegate

Rochester Council OKs President for Trip to Mackinac Convention

ROCHESTER—Meeting in short session last night, the Rochester Village Council approved the appointment of Clarence Burr, village president, to be Rochester's official representative at the Michigan Municipal League Convention Sept. 9 to 12 at Mackinac Island.

Councilman John Dahlman was named as alternate.

Other members of the Rochester delegation who are planning to attend the conference are Councilmen Roy Rewold and John Boeberitz, Village Attorney Roscoe Marfin and Village Manager Paul York.

In other action, the council decided to place village policemen under the Social Security Act rather than the Michigan Municipal Employes Retirement plan which was under consideration. The rest of the village employes are under Social Security.

York also was authorized to place surplus bond money on hand for the water improvement program in short-term investments until it is needed in the next month or two.

At State Fair
To Judge Twirlers

For 10 years Sharon Dreyer of 3717 Wards Point Dr., Orchard Lake, has competed in state and national baton twirling competition and she has her share of championships against all types of competition, evidenced by her 260 medals.

But now 18-year-old Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dreyer and a sophomore at Wayne State University, faces the stiffest assignment of her life—she's the sole judge of the 17 classes of competition in baton twirling at the 110th annual Michigan State Fair.

Her selection was announced by Cleighton Melin, director in charge of all activities at the Music Shell, and State Fair General Manager Donald L. Swanson.

So for the first time in 10 years, the shoe will be on the other foot for petite Sharon—she'll be on the sidelines judging the competition.

Sharon's chores start Sept. 5, the second day of the fair which opens a 10-day run Sept. 4 and concludes Sept. 13, and she'll be busy on five days.

She has built quite a reputation as a baton twirler in her long years of participation, winning the National Baton Fingerwork crown in 1957; National Showmanship in 1958; runnerup in the Miss Majorette of America contest in 1959, and the Grand Championship at the Orange Bowl at Miami.

Gravel Company Work Finished

Related Suit Brought by Washington Couple Set for Monday

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP — The case brought by Washington Township against the Western Contracting Co. for alleged failure to follow zoning law directives was dismissed yesterday.

Macomb Circuit Judge Alton H. Noe ruled that there was no reason to continue the suit because the gravel firm had completed operations in the township.

The township had issued a stop-order last month contending that the company was hauling gravel on Sundays and holidays and at other times prohibited by the hours section of the ordinance.

When the stop-order failed to bring the desired results, the court action was instituted.

The township also is the defendant in a related suit brought by a Washington couple who has charged officials with laxity in enforcing the zoning ordinance which went into effect last October.

The plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fettig, have asked the court to issue a writ of mandamus to require action in the matter of zoning law enforcement.

The stop-order against Western Contracting Co. was initiated in accordance with an understanding reached in Macomb Circuit Court June 29.

Attorneys for both sides agreed to allow the township to proceed with action against one of the pit operators said to be violating the ordinance before the court case was resumed.

Now the hearing in the Fettig versus township action case is set for next Monday, and the township is left with no "test case" to prove its intention to enforce the ordinance.

May Control Sex of Cattle

MSU Dairy Researcher Reports 70 Per Cent Success With Rabbits

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Farmers may some day be able to control the sex of calves, pigs and lambs.

This is the cautious prediction of Manuel J. Gordon, a dairy researcher at Michigan State University who is seeking a way to achieve this control.

Gordon warned that although experiments so far with rabbits have been about 70 per cent successful, there is no guarantee that similar results can be found with cattle.

In fact, he said insemination hasn't yet started with cattle but it will soon.

If such a step could be made, Gordon indicated, it would be possible for dairy farmers to have only cows born on their farms and for beef farmers to make sure only bulls were born.

Gordon warned the solution to the problem was a long way off and there was no certainty it would ever be found but said the rabbit experiments were "encouraging so far."

Principles of reproduction chemistry are similar with rabbits and cattle, he said, but there also are many differences.

Besides the economic advantage of such control for farmers, it would "provide science with a tool for better herd improvement," Gordon said.

Southfield Holds Up Xway Vote Results

SOUTHFIELD — Because of the absence of two councilmen at last night's city council meeting, a vote on the proposed east-west expressway route here was held in abeyance.

The Southfield Highway Committee had recommended that the council approve a section of the state-proposed expressway at Inkster road to Telegraph road.

Four of the five councilmen present voted in favor of the route, but the City Attorney James T. Allen advised the council that the vote should be held in abeyance due to the absence of the other two councilmen. Council members agreed to his proposal.

Those absent were Emanuel Christensen who is on vacation and O. David Edwards who is ill.

The next meeting of the council is scheduled Monday.

Reynolds was accompanied by his wife and daughter on the trip. Now all three are back home safe and sound, police said.

John F. Bulloch, 21, of 30445 Townley Rd., Madison Heights, was released on a $500 bond and is to appear before Municipal Judge Keith Leenhouts Sept. 4 at 1:30 p.m.

Bulloch's car was involved in a fiery three-car collision Aug. 14 which resulted in the death of Nicholas Stoffel, 79, of 1803 W. Farnum Rd.

The arrest of Bulloch was ordered by Assistant Prosecutor Donald A. Brown after a week's investigation in which witnesses testified that Bulloch's car was traveling at a high speed when he rammed into the rear of Stoffel's car on Woodward avenue near Warick street.

Defendant's Songs Leave Judge Cold

Philip Lombardo, 65, was charged with creating a public nuisance. He sang operatic arias —too much and too loudly, said his neighbors.

Said Lombardo: "I sing because I am full of happiness."

"Good" he asked.

"No," said Grady. He gave Lombardo a four - month suspended sentence.

In Huron Valley District
Invite Parents to School

Parents of youngsters who will attend kindergarten in the Huron Valley School District this semester will be able to meet their teachers in conferences slated at the elementary schools Sept. 2, 3, 4 and 8.

Parents and teachers will go over the children's health traits and any problems at this time.

"If a child is to bridge successfully the gap between his home and school life, cooperative action between his family and teacher is necessary," said Arthur Burkland, elementary principal and curriculum coordinator. "Parent-teacher conferences are the first step in the right direction," he added.

Children who are five years of age on or before Dec. 1, 1959 can be enrolled this semester. Parents must bring birth certificates to the conference.

Over 370 kindergartners are expected this year. Kindergarten begins Sept. 9.

Parents whose children are entering the Huron Valley Schools for the first time may enroll them now at the principal's office of the school where they will attend.

Poor, but They'll Open Schools

Capac, Marine City Not Following Other St. Clair County Units

PORT HURON (AP)—Marine City and Capac school districts will open on schedule next month despite limited funds and decision by three other St. Clair County school districts to delay opening until the Legislature enacts a school aid bill.

Board members of the Marine City Community School District and the Capac School District voted the same course of action in separate meetings last night.

The St. Clair district was to take up the issue tonight.

They contend they cannot operate without a new state aid bill. The decision affects 4,600 children in 10 schools.

Both Marine City and Capac districts said their limited funds will be exhausted by early October. They urged the Legislature to speed action on school aid.

Marine City schools have an enrollment of about 1,600. The district has a deficit of about $25,000 and like Capac is applying for other loans.

A joint legislative conference committee reportedly was scheduled to meet Thursday in an effort to work out differences in school aid proposals.

Charge Chiropractor With Negligence

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—A chiropractor was under court order today to pay $75,000 damages to a former waitress who underwent surgery in his clinic.

Dr. Steven Kruszka of Detroit also faces trial on charges of practicing medicine and surgery without a license.

Macomb County Circuit Judge James E. Spier, in making the default judgment, said Dr. Kruszka was guilty of "wilful and gross negligence."

Gwen Scott, 32, of Detroit, testified from a stretcher. She told the court she was operated on by Kruszka last year for removal of a cyst.

Miss Scott said since the operation she has been bed-ridden and has required further surgery to correct conditions she said were caused by "delay in proper diagnosis and treatment."

Dr. John R. Hyland, a Detroit physician, also testified. He said Miss Scott's condition probably could have been cured with early diagnosis.

Kruszka also faces trial Nov. 5 in Detroit Recorder's Court on the practicing without license charge.

Oil Tanks Still Burning Today

Firemen Have Blaze in East Oklahoma City Under Control

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) —Oil tanks which caught fire at the Cato Oil & Grease Co. late Monday night continued to burn today, but firemen had the blaze well under control.

Firemen expected to have the fire completely out by midday. They battled the conflagration throughout the night. Seven fire fighters were treated for burns at hospitals and released.

Nightwatchman Homer Rogers said the fire started shortly after 10 p.m. in one of three warehouses. He said it spread so quickly the building was engulfed when firemen arrived a few minutes later.

Charge Pontiac Man With Stolen Car Wreck

A 20-year-old Pontiac man was in jail today as a result of a traffic accident in which he is accused of wrecking a stolen car.

James H. Eubanks, 604 N. East Blvd., pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of drunken driving at the time of the accident Saturday. Eubanks was sentenced to six days in jail and fined $100 by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Fear Additional Business Tax

Men It Would Affect Tell State Senators of Damage Likelihood

LANSING (AP)— Michigan businessmen and industrialists say they're carrying more than their share of the state tax burden and any increase would do serious damage.

More than 20 witnesses, ranging from a small-town druggist to a Ford Motor Co. official, told that story to the Senate Taxation Committee yesterday in a fight against increased taxes on business.

Another 29 were waiting to get in their licks today at the second of two days of hearings called by Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland), committee chairman.

Gov. Williams said yesterday he will go on television Wednesday to make this one issue clear: "The House is not trying to clip business; it's trying to ensure that this tax question gets settled this year and that we don't have to go through all this again in 1960."

Williams will appear on WWJ-TV (Channel 4) at 7 p.m. He was offered public service time some time ago after three Republican senators aired their tax views on the station.

INFORMAL AGREEMENT

Geerlings said any acceptable formula for breaking a 7½-month legislative deadlock on taxes almost certainly would include a 10 to 15 million dollar increase in the business activities taxes.

Both the House and Senate have informally agreed to a 120-million dollar increase in the three-cent use (sales) levy. The House, and especially Democratic lawmakers, have demanded business pay some of the bill.

"Which would you prefer?" Geerlings asked each witness. "An across-the-board increase or a still higher increase with some relief for small businessmen and firms which don't show a profit."

"Neither," declared Willis H. Hall, manager of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce. "You're asking us, in effect, do you want us to take cyanide or be electrocuted."

Pressed, however, Hall said he preferred a flat increase to any changes in the BAT structure, contending they would "amount to a back door approach to a business income tax."

About half of the others agreed. One supported relief for low profit firms and the rest refused to commit themselves.

"But thank God we're finally getting a chance to express ourselves on this issue," said Simon D. Den Uyl, board chairman of the Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corp. and president of the Detroit Board of Commerce.

Den Uyl said employment in the firm's Michigan plants has dropped 3,500 in the last six years.

"Our costs are too high and state taxes are a real contributing factor," he said. "Unless we get some help, we will have to expand outside the state."

"Michigan has been noncompetitive as far as its neighboring states are concerned," said Alan L. Gornick, director of the office of tax affairs for Ford Motor Co.

"Michigan business carries much more than its fair share of the tax burden—far more than other states have deemed either necessary or advisable," he said.

State business taxes have jumped more than 1,300 per cent in 11 years and need reduction, he said.

Mother Hears Bryants Are Safe After Quake

A six-day search for a Pontiac family feared lost in the Yellowstone earthquake was ended yesterday by a longed-for letter to a mother in London, England.

For six long days the mother of Dennis Bryant had awaited news from her son indicating that he and his family of 181 Seminole Ave. were safe.

That news arrived yesterday by letter from Dennis which said, "All OK, heading for home. Expect to arrive the 30th."

Bryant's mother relayed the news to his wife's mother, also of London, who in turn cabled the information to his employer, J. C. Austerberry's Sons, Detroit.

According to C. R. Austerberry, the cable gave the text of the letter and also said, "Dennis safe. God bless you for your help."

Bryant, his wife Elaine, his son Ronald, 6, and daughter Cynthia, 8, left about three weeks ago for a camping trip in Yellowstone National Park. They weren't heard from until yesterday.

The search was begun a week ago after a frantic, long distance telephone call from Mrs. Bryant's mother alerted his employer.

Bandit Needs Help to Get Register Open

Masked by a red handkerchief and armed with a hunting knife, an amateur bandit needed help last night to take $50 from the cash register of the Shamrock Dairy, 936 Joslyn Ave.

The masked man entered the dairy shortly before midnight and ordered two waitresses to remain seated at one end of the serving counter while he made his way to the other end, where the cash register is.

Punching futilely at various keys on the register, the man couldn't get the cash drawer to open.

Brandishing the knife at one of the waitresses, Mrs. Bernadette Wardell, 554 E. Madison Ave., the bandit demanded to know which keys to punch. Fearfully, Mrs. Wardell told him.

The cash drawerr opened, the bandit scooped all the bills from it and fled.

Mrs. Wardell said the man was middle-aged, of medium height and weight, with dark, unruly hair. He was wearing a blue jacket and green pants.

Det. Orville Johnson said the robbery apparently was not connected with two other minor knife-point holdups currently under investigation.

Herter Hinting U.N. Laos Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has reportedly told several members of Congress that "the United Nations may take some part in what is going on in Laos before too long."

The report came from Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) Monday after Herter briefed five members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and five members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee at a private session in the State Department.

In the 75-minute session, Herter told the congressmen that the situation in Laos is a "very dangerous one" and he is "deeply concerned about it," Fulbright said.

But, Fulbright continued, Herter reported that the department has not received enough information to see clearly what is going on in the tiny Southeast Asian kingdom.

Meanwhile, the growing concern here over Laos was reflected throughout the government. Officials of several agencies attended a briefing on the situation by the Department of Defense.

Property Group Asks for Sewer

Tilden Street Residents Present Petition to Halt Pollution Problem

Waterford Township residents have taken a step to curb pollution of Crystal Lake in Pontiac.

A group of property owners on Tilden street, in Huron Gardens subdivision, last night petitioned the Waterford Township board for a three-block sanitary sewer on Tilden, between Novara and Huron.

If constructed, the line would eliminate a portion of the pollution problem that eventually affects Crystal Lake, via a county storm drain.

Most homes in the subdivision have septic tanks that were hooked onto the drain many years ago. Overflow from the tanks enters the drain, which flows into the lake at Orchard Lake avenue.

Concerned about pollution in Pontiac, the City Commission has had a study made of Crystal Lake contamination. The report says pollution there comes mainly from the Waterford Township storm drain and partially from a storm drain feeding in from Bloomfield Township.

City Commissioners have done little more than complain about Crystal Lake pollution, being unwilling to go to court for legal action.

Township Supervisor Elmer C. Johnson said the Tilden street petition is the first from the area that indicates at least 50 per cent of the affected residents are willing to pay for the cost of a sewer. Other petitions have been distributed by the township, but none has been returned.

"It is evident that there is not majority support for sewers on the other streets, but perhaps the community spirit on Tilden street will wake up the other residents of the subdivision," said Johnson.

Under state law, the township can install sanitary sewers only if half of the affected residents want them and are willing to pay the entire construction costs, over a 30-year period.

The township engineers were asked to prepare cost estimates for the Tilden street sewer.

For Mentally Handicapped Children

Jaycees' Drive to Help Hospitals

Thanks to the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce, a statewide drive will get under way soon to benefit mentally handicapped children in Michigan hospitals.

The drive will be sponsored by the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has enthusiastically adopted a plan already initiated in the Pontiac area.

Norman O'Brien Jr., Jaycee president in Pontiac, proposed the plan at the summer board meeting of the Jaycees in Port Huron.

Under it, all Jaycee chapters in Michigan will undertake to collect toys and hospital equipment for mentally-retarded youngsters.

"We have found that state institutions for youngsters need help badly," said O'Brien.

"The hospitals have very few toys, not enough to go around. We have found they also need such items as play pens, cribs, baby strollers, wheelchairs and orthopedic equipment.

"These items need not be new, but they are desperately needed in the operation of the hospitals."

Children at Farmington Children's Hospital are the main concern of the Pontiac Jaycees. The hospital serves the whole state, including the Pontiac area.

"We also stand ready to help Pontiac and Lapeer State Hospitals if they need help," said O'Brien.

Merkovitz and several other local Jaycees attended the Port Huron meeting, including Donald Weddle, first vice president; Robert Costello, John Caples, Robert Compton, E. W. Watchpocket and Brent Jett.

George Wilson said he has learned not to judge a pro football candidate by one performance.

The Lions' coach admitted he almost made what would have been a disastrous judgment of a player's ability back in 1949.

"Bo McMillin, then coach of the Lions, invited me to go to Mobile with him to help coach a team in the Senior Bowl that year," recalled Wilson.

"After watching him for the first time in this game, I thought to myself—is this the back who is supposed to be our top choice?"

"Well, as it turned out you can see for yourself how wrong I was in making hasty judgment," he added.

When someone mentioned to Wilson after the All-Star game about the poor showing of Lions' draft choice Bob Grottkau, he hastily replied," I learned my lesson 10 years ago, I wasn't passing judgment immediately.

After last Saturday's game with the Browns, Wilson hailed the playing of Grottkau. "See what I mean. What if I had decided after the All-Star game to let him go? We want a good look at these kids before letting them go," he added.

Then Wilson pointed out that he was also voted down on decisions during his term as assistant coach.

The example in mind are two players who were gifted to the Eagles.

"When we let Pete Retzlaff and Lee Riley go they turned out to be the best offensive and defensive players respectively for the Eagles," he commented.

"The Eagles thought there was something so fishy about letting them go, they wouldn't even talk trades with us because they thought we were trying to pull a fast one," Wilson noted.

"I was against letting them go too fast, but I didn't have the final decision then so I was voted down," he finished.

This is one reason why the Lions have been slow this year in making their cuts. Wilson remembers what hasty action almost did 10 years ago.

Pan-American Games Set to Open Thursday

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Kelly Jr., a famed, old hand at international sport carnivals, and sprinter Ray Norton, a comparative newcomer, today were singled out for high honors at the Pan American Games starting Thursday.

Kelly, brother of Princess Grace of Monaco, a three-time Olympian and 1955 Pan American singles sculls champion, was picked by United States officials to recite the Pan American oath — same as the Olympic oath — in the colorful opening ceremonies at Soldier Field Thursday afternoon.

Norton, latest sprint king in the long line of American dash greats, was chosen to carry the Stars and Stripes in the parade of nations.

The tall, 22-year-old speedster from Oakland, Calif., and San Jose State, is the outstanding choice to win both the 100 and 200 meter crowns and lead a relay team to victory just as he did against the Russians at Philadelphia last month.

Kelly, 31-year-old Philadelphian, won't defend the crown he won at Mexico City. He has given up singles competition. But the former Diamond Sculls winner will team up with Bill Knecht of Philadelphia in a try for the doubles sculls championship.

While the Americans and the Chicago organizing committee went full speed ahead for the coming games, the congress of the Pan American Sports Organization met today (3 p.m. EST) to award the 1963 games.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, a booming, skyscraper city of more than 3,000,000 population, was a virtual cinch to be awarded the fourth Western Hemispheric games.

In other actions Monday the Paso congress moved to decrease the number of entries in track and field and basketball squads for 1963 and changed a rule on team sports.

Starting four years from now, each nation will be permitted only two instead of three entries per event in men's and women's track and field. Basketball squads will be cut from 14 to 12 men.

A team sport will be considered an official part of the games if only three nations, instead of five, enter a competition.

This was made retroactive to the current games so that yachting and women's gymnastics, with three entries, and women's volleyball, with four entries, became official sports instead of exhibitions here.

Claims Laryngitis Cause of Drunk Charge on Layne

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Pittsburgh quarterback Bobby Layne had a bad case of laryngitis which police may have misunderstood for drunkenness, his attorney claimed yesterday.

Frank Erwin said Layne was so hoarse he could barely speak and quoted three other professional footballers as saying that Layne had only "one or two beers" following Saturday nights football exhibition.

Layne was arrested at 5:30 a.m. Sunday and charged with driving while intoxicated, driving without a license and leaving the scene of an accident.

"Layne's extreme hoarseness, which may have led the police to suspect intoxication, was the result of a severe case of laryngitis from which he has been suffering for about two weeks," Erwin said

'Heavy' Return Off Until 1960

Johansson May Sign New Contract Today, Says Dempsey

GOTEBURG, Sweden (AP)—The return match between heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and ex-champ Floyd Patterson will take place early next year, Jack Dempsey, promotional director of Rosensohn Enterprises Inc., announced today.

No definite date has been set and no site has been chosen, Dempsey added, "and all speculation concerning the date and site are meaningless."

The former heavyweight champion, acting as spokesman for the six-man American delegation here to close the fight, said the decks had been cleared for Johansson to sign a new contract, probably today. He and his group spent Monday drafting a new contract with the help of attorneys for the promotion group and Johansson.

The return bout originally had been set for Sept. 22 in New York but Johansson had ruled out that date, primarily because he had not received a financial accounting of the June 26 bout in which he won the title at Yankee Stadium.

Although Johansson is known to prefer Los Angeles as the site of the bout, Edwin Ahlquist, his adviser, said emphatically that no definite date or site had been agreed upon.

43 Ball Players Participate in All-Star Game

With 43 players, representing every team in the leagues taking part, Avondale Church Leaguers held their all-star contest last night on North Side field. Team No. 1 was winner, 15-8 before a big gallery.

Number One grabbed the lead in the 7th after snapping an 8-8 tie with seven runs. That outburst ended the scoring although the game went two more frames.

Winning pitcher was Phil Bartholomew, 3rd hurler of four for Team No. 1. Loser was Jim Peralta, also 3rd of four moundsmen for No. 2 team.

Team No. 1 was managed by Henry Knight and Francis Verville and had players from Pontiac RLDS, Lake Orion RLDS, First Church of God, Auburn ME, St. Paul ME. For No. 2 "Doc" Davis and George Granger were pilots. The players came from United Presbyterian, Nike, Elmwood ME, Stone Baptist, Avon Baptists.

Trophies were also awarded at this time to Pontiac RLDS (year's league champion), Nike (A playoffs) and Church of God (B playoffs).

Win 4th Straight With 6-0 Over Giants

Bucs 'Blowin' Up a Storm'

By The Associated Press

Hey! Maybe those Pittsburgh Pirates ain't dead after all.

Sure, they're still fourth, seven games shy of first in that National League race, but Bob Friend, the ashen ace, is back in business and the Bucs are blowin' up a storm.

They've lost only five of 20 since shelving a 1-12 skid, and they've won 11 of their last 13—including a perk-up 7-2 record against the three clubs they trail.

After taking three of four from both Los Angeles and Milwaukee, the Pirates made it four straight last night, knocking off first-place San Francisco as Friend gave up a dozen hits but won his third in a row with a 6-0 decision over the Giants in the opener of a three-game series.

That ended the Giants' streak at four and trimmed their lead to 3½ games over Los Angeles. The Dodgers regained second place with an 8-2 breeze against last-place Philadelphia while the Chicago Cubs beat Milwaukee 3-0 behind Bob Anderson's six-hit pitching, slipping the Braves to third, four games back, in the only other NL game scheduled.

The Pirates got to right-hander Sam Jones (16-12) for eight of their 13 hits and the first of Rocky Nelson's two home runs for a 3-0 lead. A double by Don Hoak and a single by Bill Virdon scored one in the third.

Friend, who shared the major league lead with 22 victories a year ago, put together his longest winning streak of the season for a 7-15 record. The big right-hander gave up nothing but singles, walked just one and struck out eight. He fanned three in the eighth, then put it away by whiffing rookie Willie McCovey after the Giants had loaded the bases with two out in the ninth.

The major league record for most hits allowed in a shutout, incidentally, is 14.

Gil Hodges drove in five runs for the Dodgers, singling home a pair in a four-run first inning and then counting three in the second with his 20th home run. Norm Larker also homered for the Dodgers, combining with Hodges for five of their nine hits.

Southpaw Sandy Koufax (7-4), pitching his first complete game since June 27, checked the Phillies on four hits, one Joe Koppe's home run, and struck out 13. Right-hander Ed Keegan (0-0) lasted just a third of an inning in his major league debut with the Phils.

Young Bob Anderson (11-8) gained his first major league shutout for the Cubs and beat the Braves for the first time in three decisions during his short career. He walked one, struck out five while beating Lew Burdette (17-13) for his fourth straight success.

The Cubs got six of their seven hits during Burdette's eight innings, scoring in the first on a walk, Jim Marshall's single and an error, and making it 2-0 on Tony Taylor's seventh homer in the third. Their other run came in the eighth on singles by Cal Neeman and George Altman.

Orioles Easily Regain Berth in 11-0 Waltz

Wilhelm and Triandos Star in Another Loss for Mossi

DETROIT (UPI) — After a brief visit to the first division, the Detroit Tigers were back in fifth place today, a half game behind the fourth-place Baltimore Orioles.

The Tigers were fourth less than 24 hours.

The Orioles knocked them back into the second division yesterday with a 19-hit attack off five Detroit pitchers which produced a 11-0 victory for Baltimore.

Wilhelm teased the Tiger batters with his knuckler for eight innings and gave up only four hits.

Detroit didn't come up with a safety off the veteran Baltimore righthander until the fifth inning when Charley Maxwell singled.

Wilhelm then allowed one hit an inning until he retired for a pinch hitter in the ninth after working two hours in the humid 87-degree heat of Briggs Stadium.

Jack Fischer took over the mound duties in the last inning and allowed the Tigers' final hit, a single by Harvey Kuenn which was the only hit of the day for the league's leading batter.

Don Mossi led off the parade of Tiger pitchers and was tagged for six hits and three runs which were enough to hand the Detroit lefthander his ninth loss of the season against 11 wins.

It marked the fourth straight defeat for Mossi who was relieved by Ray Narleski in the third after he had allowed four straight hits without getting anyone out.

Narleski retired the side in that inning, but he was charged with six Baltimore tallies in the fourth.

After the first five Oriole batters singled, Triandos belted a grand slam home run which prompted Narleski's exit. Rookie Jim Stump then went to the mound for the Tigers and checked the Baltimore rally.

Triandos smashed another homer off Stump in the sixth inning, however. It brought the big catcher's RBI total to seven for the day.

Aparicio Busy as Hose Pad AL Lead

By The Associated Press

First thing you know, the Chicago White Sox won't even have to work to get Luis Aparicio home with singles or sacrifices. Little Luis will steal his way home all alone.

The thin kid who gets the fat lead on harried pitchers has put away 42 stolen bases—the top total in the majors in 15 years—on 52 tries. And he does it even though everyone knows he's going to go almost every time he gets on base.

A cinch for his fourth straight stolen base title, Aparicio was at his usual best yesterday, stealing second and third after getting a walk and then scoring on an infield single for an extra cushion as the White Sox beat New York 4-2 and padded their American League lead to two games over idle Cleveland.

That gave the White Sox a 12-8 record against the collapsed champs — locking up their first winning season against the Yankees in 34 years.

The White Sox broke a 1-1 tie and handed Don Larsen (6-7) his sixth straight defeat when Aparicio collected a pop-fly double in the third inning and scored on Jim Landis' single. Landis scored the clincher in the fifth with a two-out single ahead of Sherm Lollar's double for a 3-1 lead.

Reliever Turk Lown then came

on and blanked the Yankees on three hits over the last 3 1-3 innings, saving it for Ray Moore (3-6), who also allowed only three hits, but walked a run home in the sixth.

Aparicio scored on a Landis single again in the seventh after his two steals. It was the seventh time this year he's stolen two bases in one game and he now has pulled off more thefts than any major leaguer since George Stirnweiss stole 55 for the Yankees in 1954.

Luis has tapped Washington for his biggest haul, 12, while pulling off nine thefts against Cleveland and six against both New York and Kansas City.

Fires 76 in Jaycee Golf

Mouw Slips on Back Nine

(Special to The Pontiac Press

PORTSMOUTH, Va. — The final round of qualifying began today in the International Jaycee Junior golf tournament with the giant-sized field chasing a pint-sized teenager, Ronnie Gerringer.

The 16-year-old, 132-pound swatter from Newport News, Va., led all the 199 tourney contestants in Monday's opening 18 holes of qualifying with a two-under-par 68 at Elizabeth Manor Country Club.

After today's 18-hole round, the 100 low scorers will begin competition tomorrow in 72 holes of medal play for the championship.

The back nine spelled trouble yesterday for the Michigan team entries. Both Gary Mouw of Birmingham, Michigan Jaycee champion, and Willard Kari of Montague were even par 35 at the turn while Dennis Golbesky of Dearborn was 38 and Lansing's Dennis English 41.

Mouw took a double bogey and two bogies on the last three holes for a closing 41 and a total of 76. Kari also slipped to 41 on the back side for another 76 score.

Golbesky came home in 39 strokes for 77. English was the best of the foursome on the back nine with 38, but he had all kinds of trouble on the front side where he hit out-of-bounds tee shots on the 1st and 3rd holes. He ended his round at 79.

Tied for 3rd place with 70's were Tom Hornbuckle of Albuquerque, N.M., and Tom Cassady of Marietta, O. Steve Oppermann of Millbrae, Calif., came next at 71.

Last Softball Team Ousted

With the help of a disqualification, Spencer advanced to the final round of the Class C district tournament last night at Memorial Park in Mt. Clemens, only to suffer a 4-0 defeat at the hands of the Mt. Clemens Merchants in the title game.

Spencer got a break when Royal Oak was disqualified from the tourney for using an ineligible player. Spencer and RO were scheduled to resume a rain-delayed 2-2 contest in the 9th inning when the ineligibility was announced.

The Spencer team ran into more than it could handle against Mt. Clemens, netting only three hits and never getting a runner beyond 2nd base. Two of the loser's safeties were made by Hank Shell.

Grand Rapids Plays Tonight in Non-Pro

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The Drain, Ore., Black Sox must beat the capable Branson, Mo., Sho-Me's tonight to remain in contention for a second straight national non-pro baseball championship.

Both are 2-1 and the loser will be eliminated. The second game matches the Wichita Indians and Grand Rapids, Mich., both 2-0.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: "My scores are slumping!"

DIAGNOSIS: They are natural.

TREATMENT: In the course of a season of golf, there are bound to be times when you lose your sharpness. You just seem to lose your scoring punch. Up goes the score five or ten shots per round, and you just can't figure out why. I can't tell you why, but maybe I can help you crawl out of that slump.

Get out your practice balls and start hitting short chips and pitches. Work on these shots at length.

Then spend some time on the practice putting green — the more, the better. Practice long approach shots, medium length putts, and short putts.

This type of practice restores your timing. It also tends to restore your zest for hitting the longer shots better and making them count for something in lower scoring.

The thought behind this is that if you feel you can play well around the greens, your confidence in the longer shots will be heightened. Try it. You've got nothing to lose and lots to gain.

Hamtramck Plays Puerto Ricans

Little Leaguers Begin 'World Series' Action

The 20th annual baseball tournament for boys 9 to 12 years old opens here today with two afternoon games in a new stadium that seats 10,000.

In the first round of the week-long tourney, Schenectady, N.Y., faces Valleyfield, Quebec, and San Juan, Puerto Rico, meets Hamtramck, Mich.

Eight teams of youngsters are entered in the tourney. They survived playoff eliminations in the 5,200 affiliated leagues in the United States, Canada, Latin America and Europe.

The championship will be decided Saturday.

The Hawaiian entry will play the European champion, a team from Bad Kissengen Army Base in Germany, tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the eight teams were feted at a welcoming dinner last night. Earlier in the day, they were outfitted in new uniforms and given physical examinations.

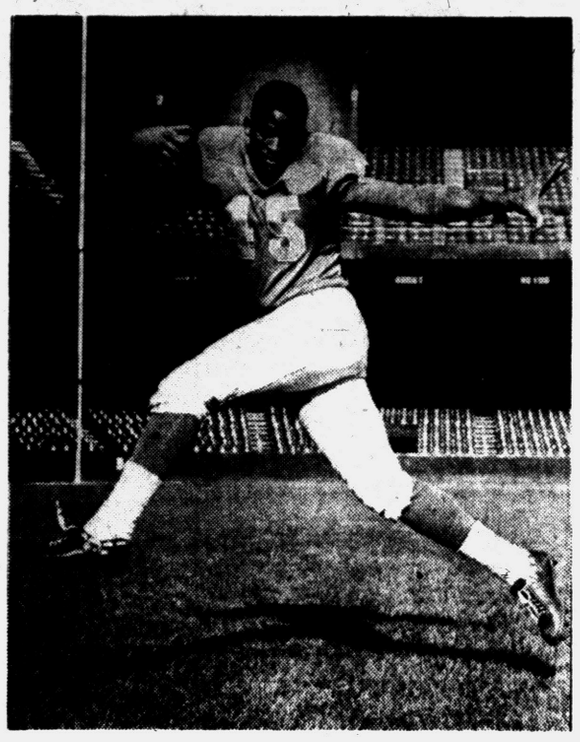
Lions' New Ground Attack to Get Real Test



KEY TO LION ATTACK — Danny Lewis, former University of Wisconsin ace, is the back the Lions are hoping will be the "bread and butter" man of the ground attack this year. Lewis has been called one of the most improved players in camp thus far and top ground gainer in exhibition games thus far.

Running Total Against Browns Best Since '56

Giants' Tough Defense Will Be Stern Test for Detroit Backs

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Saturday night when the New York Giants visit Briggs Stadium for a National Football League exhibition, the Detroit Lions' newly found running attack will get a stern test.

Last Saturday night against the Cleveland Browns in Akron, the offensive ground total of 259 yards was the highest total since 1956 for any single game.

John Henry Johnson, showing old form, ripped off 97 yards including a 51-yard dash. Danny Lewis got 95 with a 44-yard run and Nick Pietrosante added 58 yards rushing including a 37-yard sprint.

Grottkau, a 6-foot-4 guard from Oregon, played the entire game against the Browns and he threw several key blocks which helped the backs on their long sprints.

But, Saturday night these Lion backs will be facing one of the best defensive lines in pro football against the Giants.

This will be the test to see if the running game is really beginning to jell or if last week's display was a fluke.

Teams have resorted to passing in the past against the Giants, and the New Yorkers themselves have been known as a strong ground team.

But the running attack is Wilson's concern. Not since the potent backfield of Doak Walker, Pat Harder, Bobby Hoernschemeyer and Bobby Layne have the Lions had a strong inside-outside attack.

"He is one of the most improved players on the team," said one of the coaches, "and Danny could be our bread and butter man this year."

Saturday will be the Lions' first pre-season home game after three road trips. Next week they meet the Eagles in Toledo before playing the last two exhibitions at home.

Yesterday, the Lions released five players to bring their roster down to 47. Linebacker Jim Baldwin, guard Harry Jacobs, halfback Carl Smith, end Tom Rychlec and center Dan McGrew were dropped.

Maverick, Supertest III Duel Today

DETROIT (UPI) — It's strictly a two-boat race on the Detroit River today when Maverick and Miss Supertest III start competing for the 56 - year-old Harmsworth Trophy.

About 75,000 spectators are expected to line the shores of Detroit and Belle Isle by 5 p.m. (EST) this evening to watch the oldest powerboat race in history get under way.

They will be able to see two of the fastest craft afloat cover a 45-mile course at speeds exceeding 100-miles - per - hour.

A second race will be held at the same time tomorrow and a third, if necessary, will take place Thursday. The winner of two races takes the Harmsworth Trophy.

Miss Supertest III represents the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, Ont., which has made three unsuccessful attempts since 1949 to take the trophy away from the U.S.

It is owned by sportsman Jim Thompson, London, Ont., and it will be driven by Bob Hayward, Embro, Ont.

Maverick, owned by W. T. Waggoner of Phoenix Ariz., is the winner of the 1959 Gold Cup and the only boat to top 120 m.p.h. on a three-mile course.

Veteran driver Bill Stead, who piloted Maverick to the Gold Cup title, will be at the controls in the Harmsworth.

The Detroit Memorial was the only race in which the new Miss Supertest has ever been entered, but with Hayward as the driver it defeated some of the top boats in the U.S.

Levan, a former first baseman for the Lookouts, was banished from the game for life by minor league President George M. Trautman on July 30 on charges he acted as a liaison man for betting interests and offered fellow club members to throw games.

He said at the time he would appeal the action.

Another Chattanooga player, shortstop Waldo Gonzalez, was suspended for one year on charges he tried to obstruct Trautman's investigation into the gambling case.

Career at End as Silky Sullivan Goes to Ranch

Tendon trouble has forced him out of the Del Mar meeting, and co-owner Tom Ross says the big fellow will be returned to his ranch for stallion duty.

Silky earned only $157,700 in three years of racing, and $83,400 of that came from winning the 1958 Santa Anita Derby, his only major victory.

Silky didn't live up to his early reputation of running down the speed horses from 15 to 30 lengths back, and he failed miserably in the 1958 Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Jet Hydroplane Tests Thursday in Saginaw Bay

KAWKAWLIN, Mich. (AP)—The jet-propelled hydroplane Tempo Alcoa will undergo its first actual test Thursday in Saginaw Bay.

It is being built as the first American challenger for the world water speed record currently held by England's Donald Campbell. The record is 260.35 m.p.h., set by Campbell May 14.

Staudacher said Tempo Alcoa will not exceed 100 m.p.h. on its first launching. Main purpose of the test run, he explained, is to find out the craft's handling characteristics in water.

Too Many Aces!

The eighth hole-in-one at Bald Mt. Golf club, yesterday, was "too many" for the season manager Ken Wilson reported today. "That's away over par for the season" Ken said, telling about Skip Holmquist's ace on No. 6, 4th of the year for the hole.

Skip fired a 3-iron for the 172-yard shot, while playing with Stan Savage, Eddie Jones and Norm Thompson, all from Pontiac. Skip had 43 for the nine holes.

Coast Skin Diver Claims World Mark

SEATTLE (AP) — Dripping but grinning, Mack F. Thomson, 27, climbed out of a 12-foot deep tank of water Monday afternoon to claim a world's underwater endurance record for skindivers.

He entered the tank about noon Friday and remained under for 72 hours, 5 minutes and 35 seconds.

Anne, a 21-year-old brunette from Marysville, Wash., was one of only two in the starting field of 128 to better par at the Congressional Country Club. Joanne Goodwin, 23, Haverhill, Mass., also clipped one off regulation to dispose of Mrs. Davis L. White, Winchendon, Mass., 5-4.

SEATTLE (AP)—The speedboat Miss Bardahl, in which driver Jack Regas was critically injured last month, will compete in the Silver Cup race in Detroit, a spokesman for owner Ole Bardahl says.

Asians, Africans and Europeans

Interracial Marriages Increasing

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In colonies in the Caribbean, interracial marriage among Asians, Africans and Europeans has "become an accepted norm."

Under a 1957 law in Britain's Fiji Islands, Fijians and Indians now "are allowed to drink beer without restriction." They still need permits to drink hard liquor.

LESS COLOR BAR

"During the past decade a good deal of progress has been achieved in removing the color bar in territories in Africa." In French territories, such discrimination in hotels and restaurants "has virtually disappeared."

These developments are cited in a new report from the United Nations secretariat on race relations in nonself-governing territories.

Under the U.N. charter, countries running such territories are obliged to promote the well-being of the inhabitants and to give the U.N. information periodically on conditions. Seven countries now give information on 50 territories.

The report on race relations says that whereas in some territories such relations have improved, in many others different races "have tended to confine social activities to their own kind," and this has made good relations impossible.

The study remarks that passing laws to guarantee all races equal rights to jobs and to the use of public facilities "does not necessarily, by itself, bring about a willing cooperation between different racial groups."

"A large measure of responsibility," it concludes, "still lies with the peoples concerned."

Another report, on population trends in dependent territories, intimates that many of these have "too many children to support."

In a typical territory, it says, about 40 per cent of the population consists of children under 15, compared with 20 to 30 per cent in economically advanced countries.

Because of this, it declares, the working population is smaller, the burden of dependents heavier and productivity lower.

The trouble is, says this report, that birth rates are high and going higher and death rates low and going lower.

"Only when the birth rate tends to balance the low declining death rate," it asserts, "will a more satisfactory age structure come into being."

Would Delay Nikita's Visit

Group Asks President to Wait; Fears Russian Will Win Publicity

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of Americans wants Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to this country postponed until he proves that "he is no longer the enemy of freedom."

In a letter to President Eisenhower, the group asked him to reconsider his decision to meet with Khrushchev here.

The group, with offices in Belmont, Mass., calls itself the Committee Against Summit Entanglements.

Among its officers are listed former Ambassador Spruille Braden, Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.), Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer and Clarence Manion, former dean of the Notre Dame law school and more recently operator of a radio forum program.

Other pleas concerning the Khrushchev visit were voiced by Freedom House, established here in 1941 as a center dedicated to the American free way of life and opposed to totalitarianism.

Its program, among other things, urged that Communists and fellow travelers must not be allowed to take over and create false impressions which could result in a propaganda victory.

Will Ease Taxes on GM Stock Shift

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Ways and Means Committee Monday approved a bill designed to ease the tax impact of the court-ordered distribution of $3,500,000,000 in General Motors stock to Du Pont Company shareholders.

Two years ago the Supreme Court found that it was a violation of antitrust law for Du Pont to own 63,000,000 of the 281,000,000 outstanding shares of General Motors stock.

Under a justice department plan, 42,000,000 shares now held by Du Pont would be distributed over 10 years to the public stockholders of Du Pont, and the rest to two corporate shareholders of Du Pont — Christiana Securities and Delaware Realty.

Under present law, stock distributed to public shareholders would be subject to income taxes based on present market value—about $55 a share now for General Motors.

The bill approved by the committee today would tax only the original price paid by Du Pont for the GM stock in 1917—$2.10. Present Du Pont shareholders would pay income taxes based on the $2.10 figure when they received their shares of the GM stock. Later, if they sold the GM stock, any profits realized would be subject to capital gains taxes.

Soviet Newspaper Raps AFL-CIO for Nikita Snub

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet trade union newspaper Trud today chided the AFL-CIO for deciding to snub Premier Nikita Khrushchev on his visit to the United States next month.

Trud said the attitude taken by th AFL-CIO Executive Committee "only reveals the fear the American trade union bosses have of U. S. public opinion, which comes out ever more resolutely for rapprochement with the Soviet Union."

Dartmouth College in New Hampshire was founded in 1769 for "spreading Christian knowledge among the savages of our American wilderness."

Police Believe Baby 'Worked' as Bookie Sitter

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (AP)—Was the baby-sitter a bookie? Or was the baby a bookie-sitter? Or both?

Police pondered.

The baby sitter was no bobby-soxer. He was a 62-year-old grandfather, and the baby was his 18-month-old granddaughter.

And he seemed always to greet the same people.

Monday, police said they saw him exchanging money and pieces of paper with commuters at a Long Island railroad station. They booked grandpa—Frank Ferrara—as a bookie.

There was, of course, no charge against the baby.

Trading Slow, Prices Irregular

Gains and losses of most pivotal stocks ranged from fractions to about a point. Most changes were narrow.

Zenith was an exception, climbing more than 2 points on news it had raised the dividend to 40 cents from 25 cents.

Allis-Chalmers was active and ahead fractionally.

Du Pont gained a fraction but there was no particular activity following a favorable House committee ruling which would affect distribution of Du Pont's holdings of General Motors stock.

The market as a whole was moving "sidewise" in a continued mood of caution dominated by concern over the steel strike and other labor situations.

Grain Prices Move Little

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market showed small price changes today in early dealings on the Board of Trade although transactions were in fairly good volume.

Dealers said there appeared to be some profit taking in wheat as a result of the good advances of yesterday but that there also was a continued good volume of short covering.

Soybeans eased again but offerings met a somewhat better acceptance than they had encountered in other recent sessions.

After about an hour wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel lower to ¼ higher, September $1.91 ⅛; corn ⅛ to ⅜ lower September $1.18 ¼; oats ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, September $1.30; Soybeans ¼ to ½ lower, September $2.09 ⅛.

'400 Soviet Subs Ready to Attack'

Pacific Admiral Says U.S. Must Build Up Force to Strike Back

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Adm. Herbert G. Hopwood said today that "more than 400 Communist submarines stand ready to attack us throughout the world." The United States must strengthen its ability to strike back, he said.

Adm. Hopwood, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, revealed that the Navy has made two major reorganizational changes to bolster its antisubmarine force.

An Eastern Pacific Naval Defense Force has been established and the job of deputy commander of the Pacific Fleet for antisubmarine warfare has been created, he said.

Hopwood spoke at an antisubmarine warfare conference sponsored by the Navy and the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

Students Seek Longer Vacation by Using Rocks

Youngsters in the vicinity of Bagley School have caused $175 damage in an apparent protest against school opening in two weeks.

Forty-seven windows in the school were smashed overnight, it was reported yesterday. Seven had been broken previously.

Youngsters, standing in the shadows at night, hurled rocks through every second floor window and through the window of a first floor door, said Patrolman Fred Stormer.

The protest is getting to be an annual occasion. Last fall, just before school opened, 200 windows in the school were broken, Stormer said.

Studying Safety; Dislike Tail Fins

House Group Debates Bill Regulating Devices on Automobiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — More emphasis on auto safety and less on fancy tail fins.

That was the stand taken by some House members yesterday in debate over a bill which would require safety devices on passenger-carrying cars purchased by the government.

The House reached no final decision but tentatively refused, 57-31 to return it to committee. The next vote will come Wednesday.

Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts (D-Ala), author of the bill, contended it offers a chance for the government to exhibit leadership in the safety field.

But Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich) countered it would "put the federal government into the business of designing and engineering automobiles." . . . jobs that are now done mainly in Bennett's home state.

The bill would authorize the secretary of commerce to prescribe the standards for safety devices. It mentions no specific device. The discussion included seat belts, crash padding, recessed knobs and handles, and safety steering wheels.

Rep. John A. Blatnik (D-Minn) mentioned the high-flying tail fins and said there should be more emphasis on safety and less on "some of the frills."

Bennett sought to change the legislation so it would call for the secretary of commerce to make a study of what safety devices were necessary. This was turned down 43-31.

Rocky Jr., Bride Determined to Do Disappearing Act

The couple arrived yesterday from Norway, said goodbye to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and other members of the family at the airport, and rode away in the elder Rockefeller's official limousine to the family estate in Westchester County.

Today they hoped to "disappear" for the first time since they replied "We're just good friends" to newsmen who asked whether there was a romance brewing between the young millionaire and the 21-year-old Norwegian girl who once worked as a kitchen maid in the Rockefeller home.

"We would like to have the next month to ourselves," Steven said yesterday.

News in Brief

Believe Coed Knew Slasher

They Argued . . . She Screamed . . . Died

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brunette coed steps nude from a bath at her fiance's apartment and confronts an intruder who will slash her to death with a knife in the next few minutes.

Without bothering to cover herself with a towel from the bath room, Linda Martin, 21, and the intruder argue for five minutes in voices loud enough for a neighbor to hear.

"You get out of here," Miss Martin finally shrieks. A moment later, as the killer strikes, she cries: "Help me, help me."

Slashed several times — once near the heart — Miss Martin stumbles down a flight of stairs to a side door. Her flailing fists break the door's glass pane in a frantic effort to get away. Then, her life blood ebbing, she crumples and dies.

That's how homicide detectives reconstructed the Sunday night slaying of the talented graduate piano student who planned to marry an art student in a few months.

Police said the fact that she didn't bother to cover herself and argued with the man so long indicated she may have known him. They said she apparently was not sexually molested.

Her fiance, balding, bearded G. Robert Kinzie, 27, broke down when he returned to the apartment after visiting with friends at a coffee house in Hollywood.

"This was a fine, genuine thing," he said, speaking of his love for Miss Martin. "There was nothing cheap or tawdry about it."

Detectives checked Kinzie's movements Sunday and said they are satisfied he is not involved. However, Kinzie voluntarily took a three-hour lie detector test Monday night. Authorities said his account was confirmed by results of the test.

Miss Martin's dying screams attracted a neighbor couple, Gerald and Gertrude Jump. Mrs. Jump said they ran outside to the side door.

"We saw her standing inside the door pounding her fists against it," she said. "We could see her face. . . She was screaming. . . . 'There's a man in here' or 'There's a man at my door.' It was something about a man.

"Then she ran her fist through the glass and shattered it."

Kinzie said his fiancee stayed overnight Saturday at his flat. Although she lived with two roommates 10 blocks away, Kinzie said she was a frequent visitor at his apartment.

Miss Martin's former husband John Taylor lives with his parents in Glenview, Ill., and works on a slum survey for the city of Chicago. She obtained an annulment last April, saying the marriage was never consummated.

Miss Martin, a dedicated pianist who had studied at New York's Juilliard School of Music, had practiced at her apartment Sunday night. The work: "Danse Macabre." A neighbor complained of the noise and Miss Martin bicycled to Kinzie's apartment.

An hour later she was dead.

CLEARED IN KILLING — California art student G. Robert Kinzie, 27, has been freed after questioning in connection with the knife-murder of his fiancee in Los Angeles. University of Southern California coed Linda Edna Martin, 21, was slashed to death in Kinzie's apartment late Sunday night.

Williams Signs Bills

Driver's License Up 50c; No Doubles on Scooters

LANSING (AP)—The cost of a driver's license is going to go up 50 cents.

Gov. Williams yesterday signed a bill authorizing the increase 90 days after the Legislature adjourns. More than 3½ million drivers will be affected.

Original licenses will be raised from $3.50 to $4, renewals from $2 to $2.50 and chauffeur's licenses from $2.25 to $2.75.

The boost will raise about $500,000 a year to support driver education courses in high schools.

The new law also bans 14-year-olds from motor operation, raising the minimum age to 15. It also prohibits double riding on scooters and prohibits operation after dark without permission of local police.

Others:

Regulate the height of structures, mostly in the approach areas of airports.

Exempt from the ban against entering a railroad right-of-way representatives of railroad employes and anyone granted written permission by the railroad company plus the Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Permit re-registration of transferred vehicular license plates either on the strength of the old registration certificate or certificate of title.

Broaden the responsibility of utilities constructing facilities across drains. And require the approval of the appropriate drain authority.

Amend the Judges' Retirement Act to permit a member's widow who is under age 55 and who has custody of minor children to collect up to half of a regular annuity.

Ford Again to Finance Car Sales

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is re-entering the new car financing field after a 21-year absence. The company announced yesterday formation of Ford Motor Credit Co., a Delaware corporation.

In 1938, Ford and Chrysler Corp. consented, after anti-trust action, to drop working agreements with large credit corporations. Ten years later they were freed from restraint by the U.S. Supreme Court.

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Pickets at the struck Cross Co. in nearby Fraser clashed briefly with police and Macomb County deputies yesterday after an incoming nonstriker's ear was reported scratched.

A short shoving match between shouting pickets and some 25 Fraser police and deputies began after an officer pulled a picket from the line when one of 50 entering workers suffered a scratched ear.

Meanwhile, a group of United Auto Workers officials met with federal and state mediators for two hours yesterday. Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, described the meetings as exploratory.

The strike at the automation machinery firm began Aug. 4. The union says the company has refused to bargain, saying the UAW does not represent a majority of Cross' production workers.

Potato Salad Causes 300 Poisoning Cases

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Food poisoning which felled an estimated 300 persons here Sunday has been traced to potato salad served at two group picnics.

State and county health officials made the announcement after tests of food served both groups by the same catering service.

Will Build 8 Boosters for Manned Missiles

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said today it will build eight Redstone-type missile boosters for project Mercury, which aims at putting an American human into orbit in outer space.

The boosters will be constructed at the Chrysler operated missile plant in suburban Sterling Township.

The Redstone boosters will be used as power units on manned trainer capsules to be used in tests for orbital flight. It is planned to carry a spaceman several hundred miles in a ballistic trajectory at an altitude of more than 100 miles.

LANSING (AP) — A temporary restraining order has been issued against the establishment of a third bank in the Traverse City area.

Ingham County Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon issued the order here yesterday and set a Sept. 28 hearing date on the dispute.

Two Traverse City banks claim there is a conflict between the official duties of Alonzo L. Wilson as state banking commissioner and his personal interest in the new bank.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY dear husband who passed away August 28, 1958.
Do not ask me if I miss him,
For there is such a vacant place;
Or I think I hear his footsteps,
Or I see his smiling face.
For he left me broken hearted,
Friends may think the wound is healed
But they so little know the sorrow,
That is in my heart concealed.

Thieves Ransack Home of Bernard Goldfine

The thieves apparently were seeking hidden money or securities. They ripped pictures from walls, overturned chairs, tables and cabinets, and moved rugs. A rear door had been forced.

The textile millionaire and real estate owner was a central figure in the Washington controversy climaxed by the resignation of Adams. Adams was a recipient of Goldfine's generosity, but denied any influence was involved.

It's the Little Things . . .

The Homestake Mine at Lead, South Dakota, is the United States' top gold producer. Yet few of its miners ever see anything resembling gold. From each ton of ore comes only enough metal for a wedding ring, the National Geographic Society says.

Polka-Go-Round Possible for Video's Big League

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Consider this a progress report on Polka-Go-Round, a show I remember poking last summer in this space.

It's making progress. While the sets still fall short of the mark, improved lighting and an itchy camera have hopped up the proceedings considerably.

Now, if the producers could unclutter the stage and tone down those glistening "three musketeer"-type costumes the men wear, they'd be in the big leagues with their show.

The music on this ABC-TV dansant included happy samples from Poland, Germany, the Ukraine, Bohemia, France, Austria, Rumania, South America and the United States.

This wild determinedly international flavor is guided by emcee Bob Lewandowski, a Polish version of Dick Clark, and a smiling, stomping array of singing quartets, banjo and guitar players, organ players, accordion players, pretty girls and, of course, polka dancers.

To me, one polka resembles another, but I thought the Chain Dancers performed a Polish Krakowiak with unusual style.

And I also was stirred by a dance interpretation of Enesco's Rumanian Rhapsody (even though the cameras lost some of the movements on the crowded dance area).

Incidentally, next Monday's guest dancers will be the Pearls of the Pacific, a Tahitian troupe. Men, if you missed them last month on this show, don't make the same mistake again. And these gals don't even polka.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Alec Guinness and James Stewart have been lined up by Hubbell Robinson, producer of the Ford series on NBC-TV that debuts Tuesday, Oct. 6. Guinness will star in "The Sin of Gebel Dekes," based on the John Hess story. No air date has been set, but taping is expected to take place in late September or early October. Stewart and George Gobel will star in a western-comedy adaptation of the "Cinderella" story, "Cindy's Fella." At the same time, it was learned that Robinson has shelved plans to star Tony Curtis in "The Russ Colombo Story."

The annual Pillsbury bakeoff will be carried on NBC-TV Tuesday, Sept. 22, from 4:30 to 5 p.m. (EDT) . . . Nat Hiken's musical comedy, "The Ballad of Louis the Louse," will be Phil Silver's vehicle in a CBS-TV special set for Saturday night, Oct. 17.

Haiti Asks Removal of Archbishop

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A spokesman for President Francois Duvalier says the Vatican can end the rift between the Haitian government and the Roman Catholic Church by withdrawing Archbishop Francois Poirier, head of the church in the Negro Caribbean republic.

Presidential Secretary Clement Bardot told an interviewer Monday he thinks the Vatican will relieve the 86-year-old French-born prelate, who has openly criticized the government.

The government is holding a suspended arrest order over the archbishop's head while putting the issue of his removal up to the Vatican. Vatican sources have warned that Hitian government officials face excommunication, with denial of the sacraments, if the order is put into effect.

Women Seek Ugliness

WASHINGTON — Tribeswomen along the Zambezi River in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland knock out four front teeth, smear themselves with red clay, and put sticks through their noses — customs dating from slaving days, when the least attractive women were safest, the National Geographic Society says.

Capt. Kangaroo Plans Concerts for Kiddies

By HUGH MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Captain Kangaroo, the portly, bewhiskered grandfather who presides over the good ship "Treasure House" on CBS, is about to unlock the treasure house of classical music for millions of moppets.

"I'm not cutting in on Leonard Bernstein," insists Bob Keeshan, 32, who while neither portly, bewhiskered nor a grandfather created the role of Captain Kangaroo four years ago and built it into a top kiddie show. "I'll be working with a different age group, children from 4 to 8, the preschool set mostly."

Keeshan tried out his "pre-Young People's Concerts" last year with symphony orchestras in Rochester, Houston, Tampa and Rock Island, and this fall will do the same with orchestras in Kansas City, St. Louis, Dallas and other cities.

If all goes well, he hopes to inaugurate his kiddie concerts, still under the auspices of Captain Kangaroo, as a separate television show, probably on Saturday afternoons.

"The project has generated a lot of enthusiasm around here," says Keeshan. "The way it worked in Houston and other cities is we would bring the children into a concert hall, show them a good time and at the same time try to give them an appreciation of what a symphony orchestra does.

"For instance, as Captain Kangaroo I have them sing 'Row, Row Your Boat' or "Merrily We Roll Along' or some such familiar song and then have them go through the motions of rowing a boat or driving a car while the orchestra plays the tunes.

"Next we show them what each instrument does and from there progress to something a little more advanced, like the Triumphal March from Prokofiev's 'Peter and the Wolf.' The idea is to show the children through little games that music is fun and that there is nothing dull or forbidding about a symphony orchestra. As you can see, it's far removed from what Leonard Bernstein does with an older group. We don't get into the complexities of style and composition. We just want to break down barriers. I have a feeling that if children can learn to appreciate good music at an early age then perhaps the coming generation might turn to something better than rock 'n' roll."

TV Show Tonight Tells School Woes

"Back to School," a television report on community educational problems, will be presented on Channel 4 to 8:00 tonight.

Oakland County area educators want to call special attention to this documentary, which spotlights such topics as the gifted pupil, emphasis on science and languages, money problems, racial integration and overcrowding and wasted space in city schools.

New York Policemen Shun TV Shoo-fly Cop

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I love cops . . . they've never even given me a ticket, bless 'em . . . and yet . . .

WILSON

A press agent had a brilliant idea recently when Binn came in from L.A. He phoned Police Commissioner Kennedy's office: "We could get a great news picture at the airport if you'd have two pretty policewomen greet Binns."

"WHAT!" roared a Kennedy aide. "Binns plays a shoo-fly. Not only do we refuse to cooperate . . . we don't like the show!"

The shoo-flies, whose duties include checking up on other cops, are usually recognized, despite their plain clothes.

"The N.Y. cops have a set of signals, like a baseball team, and when a shoo-fly comes around you can see them making signs," says Binns.

"Actually, the regulations are strict. A cop on a beat isn't supposed to go into a restaurant to go to the powder room without calling the sergeant. It's just like in school when we had to say 'Teacher, my I leave the room? Now it's 'Sergeant, may I leave the sidewalk?'"

JOSETTE

Hollywood's Joe Pasternak has shown professional interest in shapely Paris-born actress Josette Banzet — who now lives in Hackensack. Josette was telling me that at 14, she was embarrassed at having a size 38½ "boost." She added, "But when I see how theengs are in New York, I was very happee about it."

Nehru Warns: We Will Fight

Red Chinese Are Told India Would Defend 2 Tiny Protectorates

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru warned Communist China today that India wil defend the tiny protectorates of Bhutan and Sikkim against any invasion.

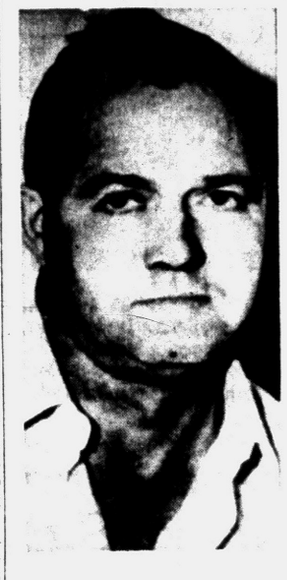
"Any infringement of their border will be infringement of our undertaking (to protect the two little states)," Nehru told Parliament, 'and we shall certainly defend them against such intrusion."

Nehru replied to House members' questions about growing fears in the two Himalayan states adjoining Red - occupied Tibet. There has been a stream of unofficial reports that Peiping is massing troops to the north of Bhutan and claiming that both the Indian protectorates rightfully belong to Peiping.

Nehru said there had been some anxiety in the minds of authorities in both Sikkim and Bhutan since the Chinese smashed the Tibetan revolt last spring. He noted that Bhutan's Prime Minister Jigme Dorji is coming to New Delhi in a few days and said, "We will be meeting."

Meanwhile the Dalai Lama predicted in an interview with the Hindustan Times that if the Red Chinese oppression of Tibet is brought before the United Nations, most non - Communist countries will rally behind his occupied kingdom.

Interviewed at his exile home in Mussoorie, in northern India, the deposed ruler of Tibet declined to say whether he planned to try to get the issue before the U.N.



LARRY MOTHERWELL

FBI Recognizes Murder Suspect

Man Who May Have Killed Wealthy Widow Arrested in Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Larry Lord Motherwell, object of a nationwide search, was arrested at the airport early today.

Motherwell, 43, was the object of a search by the FBI in connection with the disappearance of Pearl Ida Putney, 72, a prominent Washington, D. C., widow last August.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Motherwell, using the name Craig DuBar Foster, was recognized by two FBI agents as he was about to take off on a flight for Cleveland, Ohio.

He offered no resistance and was unarmed.

Motherwell told authorities he had been living in Atlanta since mid-July and that he was unemployed. He was seeking a job as a salesman in Cleveland, the FBI said.

California authorities issued a murder warrant for Motherwell and on Aug. 20, the FBI secured a warrant for the arrest of Motherwell for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

Mrs. Putney was the widow of Albert H. Putney, onetime State Department official and university professor. She was reportedly carrying about $60,000 in cash and securities when she was last seen in August, 1958, leaving a motel in Marysville, Calif., about 60 miles southeast of the area where her skeleton was found.

NOW HE'S SORRY — New York teenage gang leader John Cruz, 17, lowers his head as he is booked at a police station in the slaying of a 15-year-old Negro girl, Theresa Gee. The girl was shot to death during a gang "rumble" Sunday night. Cruz was already on probation in an extortion case.

Leader of Teenage Gang Weeps Over Killing Girl

When it was over a 15-year-old Negro girl had been shot to death, four other teenagers wounded by bullets, and three people had been stabbed.

Police said the violence stemmed from trouble between two gangs, the Sportsmen and the Forsyth St. Boys, both made up of Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

John Cruz, 17, who said he was the leader of the Forsyth St. Boys, was held without bail. He is accused of shooting to death Theresa Gee, the former girl friend of Frank (Brother) Boyd, leader of the Sportsmen.

His eyes filled with tears.

He is the oldest of three boys and three girls in the family of Carmen Marquez, 37, whose second husband is in Puerto Rico. The family is on relief.

Mrs. Marquez sobbed openly at the police station. "I don't believe my son killed anybody," she cried. "He's a very smart boy, a good boy. My son never had a gun."

Cruz told police he got a .22 caliber rifle and ammunition from a back yard.

'Teachings' Expensive

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Judge Alfred W. Whitehurst sentenced an adult here to a year in jail and a fine of $50 for teaching young boys how to turn in false fire alarms without leaving fingerprints. The city estimates it has answered 25 false alarms in ten months at a cost of $50 each.
