Harambee Spells Out Its Plan to Build Housing in City

ONE COLOR

By BOB WISLER

Harambee, Inc. efforts to initiate new housing in the Pontiac's southwest section apparently are succeeding beyond expectations.

Last night officials of the all-Negro nonprofit corporation, the firm's consultants and planners, and the Pontiac coordinator of the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority (MDCDA) outlined a timetable which calls for:

● Construction of $8.5 million worth of new housing and commercial facilities and rehabilitation of 48 single-family residences in the next year.

● Construction of nearly 1,800 new living units in the next five years at a total mortgage price of $31 million.

William Hawkins, the MDCDA coordinator, speaking at an informal meeting of the city commission last night, said MDCDA and the fledgling Negro corporation are ready to roll on the first three of a planned 10-project program.

The three phases call for:

● Construction of 80 apartment-type units and 40,000 square feet of commercial or neighborhood service facilities on a seven-acre site bounded by Howard McNeill, Warner, Diston and the Clinton River.

● Construction of 172 units — a mixture of some form of public housing and relatively expensive condiminium units — on a 17-acre site now containing the Crystal Beach housing project.

● Construction of 200 new houses and rehabilitation of 48 existing ones in an area bounded roughly by Fisher, Franklin Road, Fildew and the Pontiac Municipal Golf Course.

NEW METHOD

Hawkins said that with utilization of a comparatively new method of housing construction the new units can be completed next year.

The program outlined by Hawkins is ambitious, he said. He concluded, however, that the total program can be completed with the help of the city and federal government within five years. Once completed, he said, it will be for the rest of the country an outstanding example of civic and city cooperation.

Hawkins said federal tools will have to be used to complete the project, but, he said, the first three phrases can be

Apollo 7 Crew Forgets Colds in Second TV Bit

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, all battling colds, today performed a celestial acrobatic show and took television viewers on a high-spirited tour of their high-flying spaceship.

"Starring the great acrobats of outer space," radioed Commander Walter N. Schirra Jr. as the second live episode of the Wally, Walt and Donn show began at 9:29 a.m. CDT.

With the transmission quality about as good as it was during the crew's first live telecast Monday, Schirra and his copilots, Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham first held up a sign welcoming people to "The Lovely Apollo Room High Atop Everything."

One of the other astronauts held the 4½-pound camera at the end of its 12-foot cord as Schirra took viewers on a tour of their spaceship interior during the eight-minute show.

He showed Apollo 7's guidance and navigation station, food storage compartment, crew station for optical alignment of the guidance system and main console.

EXERCISE MACHINE

Cunningham demonstrated how Apollo 7's exercise machine is used, an elastic device to keep muscles loose.

Schirra floated up from the lower equipment bay, and let a pencil float also.

Another show has been scheduled for Wednesday about the same time, as Apollo 7 speeds over the United States within range of the two television receiving stations at Corpus Christi, Tex., and Merritt Island, Fla., near Cape Kennedy.

Harriet Eisele, the astronaut's wife, was in mission control to watch today's telecast along with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hamilton of Gnadenhutten, Ohio.

Earlier, ground controllers told the pilots their television ratings on the first show Monday "were pretty high."

Arbitrators' Route for I-696 Unveiled

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney announced today that the controversial proposed I-696 expressway through southern Oakland County will follow a route preferred by Royal Oak, but bitterly opposed by both Ferndale and Lathrup Village.

A three-member panel of professional arbitrators picked the route, after the state and six municipalities and a township through which it will pass were unable to agree in five years of negotiations.

Hemrik Stafseth, state highway director, said the route picked by arbitrators will force the evacuation of 300 families, but he added it will take two years to redesign the route and another two years to complete the $100-million project.

Romney estimated that the five year delay already had added $50 million to the cost and that each year's added delay would cost $6 million to 7 million more.

ESSENTIAL ROUTE

Stafseth described the expressway as essential to the state's transportation system and to the people of southeastern Michigan, and said it would have been impossible for the arbitrators to have picked a route satisfactory to all six municipalities involved.

Under a new state law the finding of the arbitrators is binding, but Lathrup Village already is challenging the constitutionality of the law and Pleasant Ridge has indicated it may also go to court to oppose the proposed route.

Arbitrators accepted a socalled "Royal Oak compromise" which locates the expressway at a point just west of the Grand Trunk Western Railway along Ten Mile Road, between Royal Oak and Pleasant Ridge, to a point one block west of Woodward Avenue.

From there it dips slightly south, following Ten Mile opposite the Detroit Zoo parking lot and continuing west on that alignment to the Rackham Municipal Golf Course.

SWNGS TO NORTH

There it swings to the north side of Ten Mile Road and continues west between the cities of Huntington Woods and Oak Park, taking the block north of Ten Mile in Huntington Woods to the city boundary on Coolidge Highway.

Continuing a block and a half west of that point, it then swings north approximately one-quarter mile to Greenfield Road, the boundary of Oak Park and Southfield.

FREEWAY ROUTE — Gov. Romney today announced this route (shaded in gray) for the proposed I-696 Freeway in six South Oakland County cities and one township. The decision by a three-man arbitration panel may set off further legal maneuvering.

Little Change Made in County Budget

By ED BLUNDEN

Two committees of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors took a second look at the proposed $25.8-million county budget for 1969 yesterday and after about an hour's discussion decided it was okay. The only change was a proposed slicing of Road Commission pay and functions.

The budget, largest ever, contains sharp pay increases for almost all employes. Raises range from about 8 to 20 per cent and average about 11 per cent. Salaries are the largest expenditure called for, $11.7 million. Of this about $1.1 million represents wage increases.

The budget came under fire at the yearly public hearing, the only one called for by statute, Oct. 7. Protesters paraded to the microphone at the hearing objecting to large increases in spending. The over-all budget proposal is about $4.7 million above 1968. Some supervisors also objected and the budget was ordered sent back to the ways and means and personal policies committees for restudy.

After the discussion yesterday it was decided to resubmit the budget almost as it was. Another meeting is expected in about 10 days. The only change recommended was a cut in the proposed salary of a road commissioner. The commissioners had not been given a salary increase in the budget, but their stipend remained at $12,000 yearly.

NEW PROPOSAL

The new proposal is to place the salary scale at from $4,000 to $12,000 yearly. This would only affect Frazer Stamen, the commissioner coming up for reappointment in January.

The three road commissioners serve six-year terms, after appointment by the board of supervisors. One comes up for reappointment every two years.

The supervisors discussed eliminating the Road Commission as it now exists. The announced objective was to make the body a part-time advisory group.

Allowing the supervisors to put the commissioners on the low salary scale was seen as a step toward altering the nature of the commission. If the salary scale is approved by the entire board of supervisors, it would be up to the new board to make the changes.

NEW BOARD

The new board will have 27 members after the Nov. 5 election which will establish one-man, one-vote in county government under redistricting.

In a morning session yesterday, the ways and means committee heard a group representing mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC). The group asked for a $60 yearly addition to the state allowances to provide for more clothing. They also demanded the use of the county clothing store at 1 Lafayette in Pontiac be discontinued.

The protesters picketed and slept-in at the social services building at the County Center for a three-week period which ended last week.

The ways and means committee agreed to hear their complaints and at the conclusion of the hearing, an investigation of the clothing store was ordered.

It was pointed out the clothing store, which serves other county agencies, has been in operation for 38 years. "Perhaps it is time to reevaluate our policy," said David Levinson, chairman of the committee.

Torches Tonight to Light UF Path

The Pontiac Area United Fund drive for $1,130,000 begins at 9 tonight with a dual torchlighting ceremony at Pontiac Mall and City Hall.

A special section detailing where the UF dollar goes is in today's Pontiac Press. The money is divided between 55 health, welfare, youth and research agencies.

Campaign Chairman Alger V. Conner will conduct the countdown for the dual torchlighting via a Red Cross radio. Conner will be at the formal ball for more than 200 campaign workers. The 8:30 event at the Holiday Inn is sponsored by McCullough Realty, Inc.

Children will form a circle at City Hall, pass the hand torch around once and then give it to Ralph Norvell, chairman of the commercial division, who will light the large torch.

DUPLICATE CEREMONY

A similar ceremony will take place at Pontiac Mall where Mrs. Jack Ross, chairman of the community division, will touch off the gas torch. The torches, made by Consumers Power Co., will remain lighted as symbols of hope until the campaign goal is reached. The campaign runs through Nov. 8.

The goal breakdown for each division is: community, $26,476; commercial, $294,274; manufacturing, $40,780; General Motors, $745,800; Brandon Township, $2,654; and special gifts, $20,108.

Pontiac's Hope in Olympics

Diver Has 'Winning' Twist

MICKI KING

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Micki King, Pontiac diver competing in the 19th World Olympiad, has the "twist" which can enable her to win the world's most coveted title among women divers.

The expert who makes this statement is University of Michigan diving coach Dick Kimball, who coached the U.S. divers in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

TOP DIVER

"Micki is without doubt one of the best woman divers in the world," said Kimball, who is in Mexico City at poolside daily coaching the former Pontiac Central girl who is now a lieutenant in the Air Force.

"I think Micki can win the gold medal," adds Kimball, "but whether she does or not, she will have to be considered as one of the top three divers ever in this country."

Kimball points out that Lt. King has performed dives that no woman would ever think of doing years back or even now. Preliminary diving competition begins Thursday for women and the finals are slated for Friday evening.

"She is diving beautifully," said Kimball during practice this week." I can usually tell by the way she is doing her hurdles and the reverses. The reverse one-and-half is a key dive for her. She is a little weak on it, but even so she is doing it as well as anyone here. There's no woman diver in the world who can match Micki on the twist," says Kimball. "This is where she can win."

GOOD UNDER PRESSURE

"Micki is strong and she does her best under pressure. If she is ahead in the preliminaries or even close to the lead she will win it," says Kimball, "because she saves her best for the final three dives which is where the points are won."

The reverse one-and-half with a two-

VP Challenges Nixon to Shun Wallace Deal

By United Press International

Hubert H. Humphrey says George C. Wallace is willing to bargain his electoral votes to the "highest bidder" but insists "I am not bidding." He challenged Richard M. Nixon to make the same statement.

Nixon himself has had nothing to say about charges from the Humphrey camp that Wallace and Nixon have held secret talks on the possibility of giving Wallace's electoral votes to the GOP candidate.

Nixon aides denied it, charging the vice president with "trick campaign gimmickry."

Related Stories, Page A-3

Humphrey, in his first news conference in three weeks, said Wallace has said he would not allow the election to be thrown into the House of Representatives but would decide in the event of a split election which of the other two candidates to back.

OPTIONS OPEN?

Humphrey's campaign manager, Lawrence F. O'Brien, said earlier Monday that Nixon's refusal to debate Humphrey on national television made it look like "Nixon is keeping his options open for an electoral college deal with the third-party candidate."

It was O'Brien who charged that secret negotiations were being held, saying "It would seem they . . . lie at the root of Nixon's refusal . . ."

In other political developments:

● Nixon, confident of his lead, was reportedly considering members for an economic team to turn campaign promises on urban problems into a legislative program.

● Wallace, in Fresno, charged his rivals for the presidency offer only "complicated solutions to simple problems."

● Humphrey has received the support of two southern newspapers: the Atlanta Journal, largest newspaper in Georgia, and the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal.

THOMAS E. WILSON

EDWARD A. KAEGI

Two Bloomfield Hills Execs Given New Posts at GM

Two Bloomfield Hills men have been appointed to new positions at General Motors Corp.

Thomas E. Wilson of 246 Guilford has been named executive in charge, Real Estate Activities for GM. He replaces Edward A. Kaegi of 569 Rudgate, who has been assigned to special activities on the staff of Joseph E. Godfrey, vice president in charge of the GM manufacturing staff. Kaegi retires Jan. 1, 1969. Both assignments become effective Nov. 1.

Wilson is now administrative assistant to the general manager of the GMC Truck and Coach Division. He joined the division in 1942 as supervisor of labor relations.

He was named head of the division's personnel department in 1944, production manager in 1951 and general manufacturing manager in 1953. He assumed his current position in 1967.

RESPONSIBLE FOR RETOOLING

Wilson was responsible for the retooling of the division's engine line in 1959 and 1960 and was responsible for modification of the engine production line to accommodate the four-cycle diesel engine program in 1963-64.

Kaegi joined the Delco-Remy Division in 1926. He served as engineer, process department until 1928 and assistant head of process engineering before being assigned as assistant factory superintendent in 1932. In 1938, while superintendent of the carburetor plant, Kaegi was selected as works manager by the Delco-Radio Division's plant at Kokomo, Ind.

In 1953 Kaegi was named general manager of the Detroit Transmission Division and in 1956 was appointed general manager of the Brown-Lipe-Chapin Division. He assumed his current position in 1962.

Court Will Hear Death-Row Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a death-row appeal that could result in further limits on capital punishment.

The court, which ruled last term that jurors cannot be excluded from capital punishment cases for opposing the death penalty in principle, agreed yesterday to hear the appeal of a man sentenced to die for armed robbery.

The convict, Edward Boykin Jr., pleaded guilty to holding up five Mobile, Ala., stores. He contends his death sentence is "cruel and unusual punishment" in violation of the Constitution's 5th Amendment.

The court turned down another attack on the death penalty. That one was lodged by Thomas A. Alvarez, facing death for the murder of a Lincoln, Neb., housewife.

This suggests the court may go part of the way limiting the death penalty.

Among a score of cases accepted for argument was the first direct attack on the power of military courts to try servicemen for crimes committed off-post and off-duty.

Junta in Panama Appears in Control

PANAMA (AP) — The Panamanian junta appeared to be firmly in control today after a call from deposed President Arnulfo Arias for total war against the new government failed to produce any sign of organized resistance.

A spokesman for the National Guard, the country's army, said the country was quiet. Heavily armed guards patrolled the capital Monday, ready for any shows of unrest, but none developed.

Arias, overthrown Friday, 11 days after his inauguration, remained in the safety of the U.S. controlled Canal Zone. He and about 80 supporters, including members of his cabinet, are registered as "guests," a canal company spokesman said. There was no indication how long Arias would remain in the zone.

Route for I-696 Is Announced

From that point it curves north to the south side of Eleven Mile Road and continues west on that alignment between the city of Lathrup Village and Southfield to approximately a half-mile west of Evergreen Road, where it dips slightly to the south to join the previously established I-696 right of way at Lahser Road.

The Highway Department's originally recommended route was that chosen through Huntington Woods and Oak Park and Lathrup and Southfield.

Roughly, the arbitration panel's route swings west from Ten Mile in the vicinity of Woodward Avenue for two miles and then swings northward gradually to Eleven Mile Road at Lahser.

Micki's Twist Victory Key

and-a-half twist is the dive she saves till last. This is the dive that moved her from eighth to second in the trials.

"After she did this dive, the other competitors choked and missed," said Kimball.

Keala O'Sullivan, a 17-year-old from Hawaii, won the trials in Los Angeles and Sue Gossick, a veteran of the 1964 World Games, took third in the trials behind Miss King.

"I don't think Keala can hold up under pressure. She doesn't have the experience," said Kimball.

ONE MISTAKE COSTLY

"This is where Micki is tough — under pressure."

"But in diving one mistake can almost be the end, although I tell Micki that every opponent is capable of missing one and that there are 10 dives in the Olympics, which is in her favor," he added.

As a 16-year-old in the 1960 Olympic trials in Detroit, Micki finished 28th out of a field of 30, and in 1964 in the trials in New York, she dropped from second place to fifth and failed to make the trip to Tokyo.

"If she had been able to get the coaching — and have the right facilities for practice, she would have walked off with all the major titles," Kimball said.

MOVE TO 'M' HELPED

"But as it was, she never really gained these advantages until she entered the University of Michigan in 1962," said Kimball.

In 1965, Miss King started her title bids by winning national AAU titles in platform and three meter. She added the World Games springboard title in 1966 in Japan and again the platform and three meter in 1967.

From the platform, Kimball says, she was the first woman ever to dare the reverse two-and-a-half twist, and she has never finished lower than third since participating in all major competition since 1965.

Micki studied journalism at University of Michigan and she expects to be part of the public relations field in the Air Force when she returns to duty after the Olympics.

She is practicing twice daily in the Olympic pool, one-and-a-half hours each time, and when the finals are completed Friday, she hopes she will bring Pontiac its second gold medal in as many Olympics.

Hayes Jones, who won a bronze medal in 1960, was a gold medal winner in the 100-meter hurdles in 1964.

Harambee Details Plan for City Housing

completed by Harambee with a supply of seed money from MDCDA.

MDCDA, an organization formed two years ago by the metropolitan area's top business, labor, civic and religious leaders, has a commitment to provide $6 million worth of seed money to initiate new housing in a six-county metropolitan area.

Hawkins said that in order to successfully complete all stages the city and Harambee would have to utilize money from existing federal programs, principally the Neighborhood Development program (NDA), an offshoot of the urban renewal program.

The coordinator, who also is involved in MDCDA efforts in Detroit, said the city may be two years ahead of others intending to use or using the Model Cities Program.

This is, he said, because Pontiac already meets two of the prerequisites for NDP and Model Cities — citizen involvement (through Harambee) and formulation of a plan (just completed by Urban Design Development Group, Inc.) for Harambee.

The redevelopment plan was presented to the commission last night. Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said it would be studied by the city staff and the commission before commissioners can make any real decisions. Taylor commended Harambee officials and the planners of Urban Design — an all-Negro Detroit firm — for the plan.

Charles M. Tucker, Jr., president of Harambee, Inc., and Joseph Durant, treasurer, were enthusiastic over progress.

"I think we're really on the verge of being able to do something that has never been done before," Tucker said. Durant said simply, "Right now, I'm on a cloud."

Representatives of Harambee and MDCDA said it is likely that the initial projects will be funded soon by MDCDA.

Considering this, progress in the housing effort is almost remarkable. The project began through the efforts of the privately formed Pontiac Housing Study Committee, which late last year asked MDCDA to provide assistance in producing housing for low and moderate-income families in the city, probably the city's top need according to a private study paid for by the housing study committee.

CAME IN FEBRUARY

MDCDA sent Hawkins to Pontiac in February to help with a number of local businesses paying his office expenses. Hawkins helped organize Harambee, Inc. (Harambee is a Swahili word meaning 'let us work together", with principal officers selected from throughout the Negro community.

Hawkins said it was possible to start construction this year, but the participating groups felt they did not want to begin until the needs and goals of the black community involved were known to all.

He said a survey of the housing, attitudes, desires and wishes of the black community — prepared by the Urban Design group — was completed before any decisions were made as to which way the housing programs would be directed.

The survey, which polled 13 per cent of the 10,000 persons living in the project area, produced extensive results. Perhaps the most interesting is that household heads living in the affected areas have been living there an average of about 20 years — 11 in the same dwelling unit — and that most persons wanted to stay in their neighborhoods and their city.

NO. 1 NEED

When asked what they thought the No. 1 need for them was, the answer usually was "better housing."

The project area is bounded roughly by Orchard Lake Road, Franklin Road, the Pontiac Municipal Golf Course, and the Clinton River.

Hawkins said redevelopment of the area will require a team effort by Harambee, MDCDA' the city and the Pontiac school district.

He asked that the city:

● Apply for NDP funds, which he said can be approved by the federal government in a relatively short time.

● Initiate steps to upgrade offensive properties including two junkyards, the defunct American Forge and Socket Co. and other non-conforming uses.

● Hang onto all city-owned land in the development area so it can be used in a manner consistent with the development plan.

Hawkins noted that the city planning commission had reviewed the plan and had advised the City Commission to attempt to implement it.

Congress Gets 'Good' Rating as Session Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress, described by a Senate leader as good but not great, is over.

After trying for three days to muster the House quorum needed to approve adjournment, leaders gave up Monday and voted anyway to end the session.

This was possible because no one in either the House or Senate raised the question of a quorum.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, pronounced this valedictory:

"This has been a good Congress, not a great Congress, not a poor Congress."

SIGNIFICANT LAWS

The 90th passed much significant legislation including a civil rights bill with a broad open-housing provision, anticrime and gun control measures, a big increase in Social Security benefits, a temporary 10 per cent income tax hike, an omnibus housing bill containing new ways to help poor families buy homes, a "truth-in-lending" measure, and several important conservation bills.

But it also handed President Johnson some major defeats, including its historic blocking of his nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice of the United States.

It also failed to act on key Johnson requests such as ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

Johnson said last week he might call the Senate back after the Nov. 5 election to try to win approval of the nonproliferation treaty.

A band of House Democrats abandoned efforts yesterday to keep their branch in session indefinitely to try to force the Senate to act on a bill which would permit televised debates between the three leading presidential contenders.

Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said he was convinced it would be futile to prolong the session.

Applications are now being accepted and forms can be obtained at LaVergnes Huron Street Salon, 1062 W. Huron, Waterford Township.

Cooperation Asked in City

Bag Your Leaves for Pickup

City refuse crews will pick up fallen leaves which are collected into containers or plastic bags.

But leaves that are raked from lawn areas into the street will only slow down all refuse collections, Gordon R. Matthews, superintendent of the Department of Public Works' operations division, said.

Matthews said the city needs cooperation of residents in order to carry out an efficient and economical leaf pickup program.

He said leaves put into containers or bags and placed at the curb will be collected by refuse crews on the regularly scheduled pickup day.

BAGS SUITABLE

"Large, inexpensive plastic bags suitable for this purpose are available at local stores," he said.

Matthews said if residents want to dispose of the excess leaves they can take them to the city's sanitary landfill site on West Kennett east of Oakland. The site is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

Matthews said city ordinance prohibits burning of leaves in the streets.

He also cautioned motorists about driving through any piled leaves left in the street. He said it is the habit of small children to burrow into these piles.

SWEEPERS COMING

Nixon Urges 'Realistic' Latin Program

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called Monday for "an action program of realistic dimension" in Latin America.

The Johnson administration, Nixon said in a statement, has "clearly shown its unwillingness and inability to give our neighbors priority status and effective aid which they deserve."

The statement was issued from a borrowed beach house at Key Biscayne where Nixon has been vacationing and holding campaign strategy sessions.

Nixon urged that a crash program be launched to complete a planned highway system through the interior of the South American continent. A goal should be completion within five years, he said, and all available resources should be marshaled to meet the deadline.

'IMMENSE EFFECT'

"Of course, this would not solve all the problems immediately or automatically," he said. "But the opening of the heartland of South America will have an immense effect economically and will open more doors to development for our neighbors."

The Republican presidential candidate, moving into the home stretch of his campaign, scheduled public appearances today in four states.

Nixon was set for rallies in Miami, Greensboro, N.C., and Knoxville, Tenn. Then, finally, he will get an after-dark airport welcome at Kansas City, where three more speeches are on tap for Wednesday.

Nixon, at least during the final two weeks before election, is expected to concentrate exclusively on personal appearances in the seven states with the most voters: New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Texas, and California.

In addition, he will be stepping up his appearances on nationwide television and radio.

The former vice president combined some campaigning planning and relaxation Monday afternoon while cruising on Biscayne Bay for several hours aboard the yacht "Cocolobo" owned by his close friend, C. G. Rebozo, a Miami banker.

Wallace Loses His 'Cool' Over Heckling

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Hecklers attempted to drown out George C. Wallace Monday night and the American Independent party presidential candidate reacted with a display of anger.

"Why don't you young punks just get out of the auditorium?" he asked at one point during his speech. Another time the former amateur boxer belligerently invited a heckler to "come on up here."

Normally Wallace is content to taunt hecklers with such lines as "What you need is a good haircut." He has rarely, if ever, called them punks.

The hecklers, a few hundred in a pro-Wallace crowd of about 8,000 included a new type who have been showing up lately at Wallace rallies. Monday night they seemed to momentarily baffle the third-party presidential candidate.

HELD PLACARDS

They were in a group who held Wallace placards and tried to drown out the speaker with loud chants of "We want Wallace."

Wallace turned from the lectern in the San Diego Sports Arena and walked over to whisper to one of his security guards, apparently asking him what the hecklers were chanting. He went back to the podium and said, "if you're really for me, just sit down and let me finish my speech."

To finish it, he had to shout over a microphone system above the strident voices of the hecklers who were dressed in hippie-garb and had long hair.

Members of the audience leaped to their feet time and again to cheer his pledges to seek repeal of open-housing legislation, to end the Vietnam war militarily, and put a stop to busing schoolchildren.

Humphrey Vows to 'Flush Out' Foe

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, renewing his criticism of Richard M. Nixon's refusal to debate him, says there is a new Nixon doll on the market: "You just wind it up and then it hides."

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience of 10,000 partisans in Evansville, Ind., Monday night, the Democratic presidential nominee said that his efforts to get Nixon to debate remind him of pheasant hunting, in which he said one sometimes has to kick a bush to get the bird to come out.

"I'm going to kick his bush," Humphrey said, adding that he looks forward to a debate because "I'm a pretty good shot at a moving target." He spoke to a $10-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

Humphrey arrived in Kansas City around midnight and faces a busy half-day of campaigning including a downtown rally, a television session and a question period at a high school. Despite the late hour he was greeted by bands and several hundred cheering college students, both at the airport and his hotel.

'LOOKS GOOD'

A newsman asked what he thought about some polls that showed he was gaining in the presidential race.

"The market trend looks good. Invest," Humphrey replied with a broad smile.

Third-party candidate George C. Wallace accepted Humphrey's offer to debate if Nixon also accepted. He said he would pay his share if the debate is held.

Humphrey has offered to pay the cost of the debate and has reserved one hour on CBS television Sunday night.

Nixon, who is against a three-way debate, was not heard from and Humphrey set a deadline of 5 p.m. today for acceptance.

NEWS EVENT

Meanwhile, the National Press Club proposed a Nixon-Humphrey debate that it said could be nationally televised as a news event and skirt the equal time regulations. Neither candidate has replied to the invitation.

After his appearances in Kansas City, Humphrey flies across Missouri to St. Louis, where he has three speeches planned tonight and more appearances Wednesday.

In a speech prepared for a downtown rally here, Humphrey called on the people of Kansas City to help smoke Nixon out and "light the fire under him.

"Let's show him who's in charge—Madison Avenue or Main Street, U.S.A.," the Democratic nominee said.

'NO STAGED SHOWS'

Humphrey said that a famous Missourian, Harry S. Truman, was elected president 20 years ago because "he had the courage to stand before the people as a man, a leader, without any Madison Avenue-staged TV shows or bushels of confetti or balloons.

"And with your help," he added, "we're going to do it again in 1968."

In his Evansville speech, Humphrey plugged hard at the theme of prosperity under the Democrats, in an area where large numbers of blue-collar factory workers are considered leaning to Wallace.

A vote for Wallace, Humphrey told the crowd, "is a vote that would result in Mr. Nixon's election and a Republican recession."

Low-Cost Remodeling Tip
Replace Old Worn-Out House Windows with Nu-Sash BEFORE
AFTER
Nu-Sash gives a clean modern appearance; makes window washing easy; keeps out dirt and noise; ends yearly maintenance; and increases property value.
Unique test-proved Nu-Sash updates the home instantly; forever ends window problems.

Repairing old troublesome, rotted and rattling windows has always been a problem to homeowners and property owners who want to modernize. However, a handsome unique aluminum replacement window now provides a simple and economical solution.

This revolutionary product — Nu-Sash® — is a window specifically designed to replace old outdated deteriorated windows. The cost — including installations — is nearly 40% less than other methods of renovating or remodeling old windows.

With Nu-Sash, there is no costly remodeling of inside walls; no messy or dirty construction work. Old windows are removed and expert installation men install Nu-Sash in a matter of hours without touching inside plaster or disturbing the present woodwork around windows.

Nu-Sash has been tested under rigid laboratory conditions. Results show the window superior to recommended standards set up by FHA for new construction requirements.

Savings in heat and air conditioning bills alone pay for a Nu-Sash conversion. However, the real advantages and savings of new Nu-Sash windows are greatly realized when the outstanding features are tested and compared against ordinary windows.

As an important and permanent addition to the home or building, Nu-Sash qualify for low interest home improvement loans. Modest monthly payments are available.

Additional free literature, price samples, details and drawings, and names and addresses of Nu-Sash installations in the area are available by a phone request or by mailing the coupon.

Strikes Blamed for Building Lag in SE Michigan

Construction strikes in Michigan were blamed for a continued significant decline in building in the six southeastern counties during the first six months of 1968.

Total construction in Oakland County was 25 per cent below that for last year, according to the planning division of the Southeast Michigan Council of Government.

Contractors completed 2,639 single-family homes, 10 two-family dwellings, and 1,463 apartments during the first half of the year in Oakland County.

The total was 1,402 below that for 1967.

AMONG TOP 10

Troy was the only community to remain among the top 10 of southeastern Michigan in new construction. A total of 916 homes and 576 apartment units were involved in building permits.

West Bloomfield Township was second in the single-family category with 239 permits. Waterford Township allowed 179 home permits.

Pontiac and Pontiac Township were tied for third behind Southfield with 140 apartment units each.

Because of the construction industry strike, planners were unable to determine the amount of decline due to other factors.

Wixom Meeting Airs I-96 Plans

WIXOM — No action was taken at last night's meeting regarding the proposed closing of the Beck Road exit from I-96 and improving of the Novi Road and Wixom Road access to the freeway.

Another meeting is planned for Oct. 22 to present the Wixom City Council with the information gathered by city officials at last night's informal discussion.

Three representatives from the State Highway Commission presented plans for the improvement of the Novi Road and Wixom Road accesses after the proposed closing of the Beck Road exit.

Highway Engineer Paul VanRoekel and Frank Beach of the County Road Commission were also present to hear Wixom Mayor Wesley E. McAtee spell out reasons for keeping the Beck Road exit open.

Novi City Manager Harold N. Ackley was also present at the discussion.

Commerce Candidate Forum Is Tomorrow

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The Union Lake Jaycees will present a major-candidates night tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Clifford H. Smart Junior High School, 8400 Commerce.

The meeting will be held in the school auditorium. It is open to residents of the Union Lake area.

Approximately 20 nominees for state, county and local offices will make brief statements.

There will be a question and answer period at the conclusion of the program.

Home-Rule Village Called Feasible

Bunny Run Residents Air Incorporation

By JEAN SAILE

ORION TOWNSHIP — How much will it cost?

What are the benefits?

Are we running into problems we can't handle?

These were the questions asked by some 50 residents of Bunny Run, a 45-year-old subdivision northeast of Lake Orion, at a meeting last night at Bunny Run Club House, called to explore incorporation as a home-rule village.

POSSIBILITIES OUTLINED

Members of a committee organized a year ago to seek better roads outlined the possibilities of incorporation as a means to road improvement. To most, it appeared that the idea was feasible.

Bunny Run, developed shortly after World War I as a summer resort on Long Lake and now containing about 500 year-round homes, has been plagued by problems of inadequate roads.

The roads in the subdivision are private — most of them only 25 to 30 feet wide — and much narrower than the county's standard 60-foot road right-of-way.

As a result the county has refused to accept dedication of the streets, which would enable it to provide the services necessary to smooth out the potholes and washouts which abound.

A grader, owned by the Bunny Run Country Club, has to be replaced and there is no money to do it, residents were told.

From state tax rebates, the committee estimated the area as a village might receive as much as $19,500. A 2-mill tax contemplated for the village would raise an additional $4,000.

GRADUAL BASIS

From this money it was expected that roads might be taken care of on a gradual basis, that necessary office help and equipment might be financed and that a capital improvements program be initiated.

The latter would finance replacement of the grader and eventually provide money for needed replacement of the dam on Bunny Run Lake, also lying in the area.

Fire and police protection would remain a township service, residents were told.

The problem of keeping the resident-owned club and parks private was aired, and John McGee, committee chairman, said he thought such an arrangement might be worked out legally.

SEWER LATERALS

Installation of sewer laterals, expected in Phase I of the township's Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor pact, could be guided better by a village, McGee said.

"We could ask them to put the sewers down the middle of the existing roadway, rather than condemn most of your front yards with a 60-foot right-of-way," McGee said.

He said sewer assessments will remain on an individual basis. Incorporation would not affect the drain okayed recently by the county and township, McGee assured.

Incorporation petitions, circulated last night, will be presented to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors within the next two months, McGee said. It will be up to the county to set the date for a special election on incorporation.

ELECTION COST

If the election fails, he said the county would bear the approximate $500 cost. If it passes, (by a simple majority) the new village would be expected to pay.

If the incorporation issue is approved a charter commission, also chosen in that vote, would have two years in which to present an acceptable charter.

Bloomfield Twp. Residents Fight Subdivision Paving

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — An estimated 100 persons from two subdivisions affected by proposed improvement of 10 streets there showed up at a township board public hearing last night, some in favor, most opposed.

The Meadowlake Farms and Maple Meadows Subdivisions are affected by the improvement plan which would cost each of the 161 lot owners $1,832, according to engineer estimates.

A petition had been circulated in early spring in favor of the improvement, which would be a blacktop surface with a gravel base with storm sewers and drains in accordance with specifications of the Oakland County Road Commission.

The petition was signed by 66.225 per cent of the lot owners in the affected subdivisions. State law requires 65 per cent approval before public improvements are made.

8 CHANGE MINDS

Attorney Charles J. Porter, at the hearing to represent eight lot owners who had signed the petition for improvement, said they now wished to rescind their action and register their disapproval.

Supervisor Homer Case told Porter that the signatures could not legally be taken from the petition since the board had officially accepted the petition July 8.

Two signatures on the petition were to be investigated. Lot owners who had signed the petition this spring had sold their properties to new owners who were not in favor of the street improvement.

A show of hands showed several in attendance in favor of the proposed improvements.

HEARING ADJOURNED

The hearing was adjourned to Oct. 28 after an hour and a half of discussion pending check of the petition signatures.

A second public hearing was held on Hickory Knolls Subdivision special assessments for a water main affecting 21 sites.

The total roll was confirmed on the low bid of $19,950, or a cost of $950 per site.

The assessments will be due Feb. 1, 1969. They may be paid on a 10-year installment basis, with six per cent interest.

DRAIN RESOLUTION OK'D

In other business, the township board approved a resolution of intent with Oakland County regarding a $1,700,000 relief drain in the township.

The drain would run across 14 Mile, north on Lahser past the Oakland Hills Country Club to Roland and Bradway.

INCORPORATION SEEKERS—Fred Dodd (from left), 431 Dell, Robert Hord, 745 S. Long Lake, and Clayton Harris, 1391 Woodfield, all residents of Bunny Run Subdivision in Orion Township, study a plat of the area with the idea of incorporating as a village. Petitions for incorporation were circulated last night.

Request on Library Finances Goes to Rochester Attorney

ROCHESTER — A request for an investigation of Woodward Memorial Public Library financing from Friends of the institute was referred to the city attorney last night by the City Council.

The library, created by a trust fund and beneficiary of what is reported to be several wills, is owned by the elected library board.

Financing for general operations, however, has been maintained until this year by Avon township with contributions from Oakland Township.

With the incorporation of Rochester, city councilmen agreed to share on a per-card basis the cost of operation. Final details remain to be worked out.

DEEMED EXPENSIVE

A search of Probate Court records, asked by the Friends, was deemed lengthy and expensive by city Attorney Arthur Cox. He said he would write the group that such information should be available from the library board.

In other business City Manager William Sinclair was authorized to meet with township officials to see if a subsidy might be worked out for St. Onge Ambulance Service, which is now stationed in the area. The city and township previously had a subsidy agreement with Fleet Ambulance, but St. Onge reportedly offered lower rates.

A request for water service from Slavik Developers of Great Oaks Farm was referred back to the developer to see if permission could be obtained from the township to hook into the city water supply. The township last year halted such hookups without special permission, in an effort to strengthen its own systems.

Bonds to widen West University were sold to Knauer, MacArthur & Co. at an interest rate of 4.99 per cent. The low bid of Bill Fox Chevrolet to furnish two police cars with trade-in was accepted at $3,726.

SIDEWALK PROGRAM

A sidewalk construction program on East University will be investigated with Don Bishop of Rochester. Bishop was the only bidder on a more comprehensive program.

Crossing guard salary increases voted last month as retroactive to July 1 were moved back to Sept. 23, an action made necessary by charter restrictions, according to city officials.

The gates at the city park will be taken down and a chain installed. The gates are in poor condition, councilmen were told.

National Bank of Detroit will be asked to post a police guard on Walnut Friday afternoons to straighten out the traffic snarl that results from drive-in bank traffic.

Huron-Clinton Unit Backs 2 Programs

The board of commissioners of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has announced its support of the clean water and quality recreation bond programs on the general election ballot Nov. 5.

The authority is a regional agency with eight recreational sites in the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne.

The two general obligation bond issues would (1) provide $335 million for aid to communities in sewage treatment plant construction; and (2) Provide $100 million for recreation land acquisition and development including provisions for both state level projects and grants-in-aid to communities.

Council in Clarkston Calls for Downtown Face-Lifting

CLARKSTON — The need for downtown merchants to update and dress up their facilities as a lure to getting new business was stressed by village council last night.

President Frank Russell and Councilman William Kushman reported on a meeting with Pontiac State Bank officials regarding possible new bank construction on the village-owned parking lot at Main and Washington.

"They're interested," said Russell, "but they want to know that other merchants will continue to improve."

Both the bank and the postoffice, now located in too-small quarters on Main Street, have reportedly been looking for new sites.

Russell said contact will be made again with post office officials. "Since we now propose to get sewers, other sites they have rejected may now be all right."

John Adams, owner of several rental units on Holcomb between Washington and Miller, appeared before the council to protest recent rezoning of his property to single-family residential.

He asked that his property be returned to a "B" classification which permits apartments and was referred to the zoning board of appeals.

In other business the village adopted a uniform electrical code.

City Income Tax Status Still Cloudy

Twelve weeks ago, on July 23, The Press urged city officials and other involved parties to take some action to speed up pending litigation concerning Pontiac's city income tax.

Again on Aug. 23, we urged emergency action on this important issue.

What has been done as of today? NOTHING.

The case in question involves an appeal concerning legal technicalities related to an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling that petitions requesting a referendum on the tax were invalid and the tax could be levied without a public vote.

While a decision upholding the appeal would not necessarily change that circuit court decision, it could force the case to be heard again at the circuit court level. Further, it is possible that extended litigation could result in the validity of referendum petitions being appealed to the high court.

This pending appeal casts a shadow of doubt over the validity of a tax which has now been levied and collected for nearly 10 months from Pontiac residents and persons employed in Pontiac.

When the appeal was filed early this year, no one asked the Court of Appeals to put this matter on an emergency docket.

The Pontiac City Attorney failed to intervene and ask for a quick ruling.

To date, none of the parties involved have sought emergency action. The Court of Appeals reconvened last week and is now in session. Maybe, if we are lucky, the case will come up before another month or two has gone by.

How long must the public wait?

Will the House and the Senate Elect 1968 Ticket?

With the Nov. 5 presidential election steadily lengthening its shadow across the land, Americans are increasingly wondering which of the three candidates will be voted the privilege of White House residence for the next four years.

According to the polls, Richard Nixon is well out in front of Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace, and an odds-on favorite to be elected.

But the surging strength of Wallace and his American Independent Party could just so muddle the electoral college vote that neither of the contenders would garner the 270 votes needed to elect, regardless of his total of popular votes. In that event, the election would be thrown into Congress, where the House would elect the President and the Senate the Vice President.

Three times — in 1824, 1876 and 1888—the nominee who got the most popular votes failed to get elected and his opponent was installed as president.

Twice — in 1800 and 1824 — the House, voting along party lines, decided the election outcome, awarding the 1824 prize to the candidate who ran second in both popular and electoral votes.

Once — in the Tilden-Hayes election of 1876—a congressionally-created commission disregarded the popular will (as reflected in the popular vote for Samuel J. Tilden) and installed Rutherford B. Hayes as part of a deal with southerners to end reconstruction and pull Federal troops out of the South.

The heart of the problem is the Electoral College, which has no campus and offers no course of instruction other than the recurrent lesson that the electoral vote system should be abolished and replaced by popular election of President and Vice President.

The Founding Fathers, who were amazingly farseeing about most things, surely blew it on this one. Hundreds of efforts, so far futile, have been made through the years to repair the damage they did.

But, although it is generally agreed that there is something wrong with the electoral picture, few would be optimistic enough to predict its reform in the near future.

Consumption of Cow Milk Drying Up, Says Source

Chalk up one more victim of modern technology—the cow.

Milk sales are declining and sales of artificial milk products are on the rise. Millions of people no longer put milk or cream in their coffee; they use a vegetable substitute. The same goes for whipped dessert toppings.

Eventually, most people will drink artificial milk instead of cow-type milk, predicts "Organic Gardening." For one thing, a cholesterol-conscious public wants to avoid the fats natural milk contains, says the magazine. Others want to avoid calories or hitherto unsuspected allergies to milk products.

Well might the poet lament: "How now, brown cow?"

Less poetical but more to the point: "What now, Mr. Dairy Farmer?"

'M' Upset Spills 10 Grid Contestants

As Michigan State kicked off to Michigan Saturday afternoon, hopes were as high as a drum major's shako in the breasts of the 17 surviving contestants of The Press Annual Football Contest. But alas! As the clock ran out, 10 had tasted bitter defeat along with the Spartans, as the Wolverines scored an upset 28-14 victory.

Although eliminated in the skirmish for the contest winner's award of a $500 U.S. Savings Bond, the 10 may salvage a bit of prediction balm in the knowledge that our own panel of four. Swamis unanimously picked State to trample the Wolverines—tch-tch-tch. Of the dopesters, only that garrulous gas bag, that pontifical pigskin pundit, Major Amos B. (for Bombast) Hoople had kaff-kaffed a win for the Maize and Blue.

What's ahead for the upcoming Saturday, you ask? Well, the contest's as tight as a new girdle, and it can't stretch out much longer.

Seven bitter-enders remain for the Texas-Arkansas fracas. Six have put their chips—er, cast their fortunes—on the Long Horns, a loner is cheering for the Razorbacks, none has called a tie.

Obviously an Arkansas victory would end the contest pronto, with the peerless predicter finding himself or herself (you'll have to guess) in the winner's circle, the sole owner and proprietor of a $500 bond and the title of Contest Champ for 1968.

If Texas wins, however, five of her backers pick Miami in the next and seventh contest game (Oct. 26) while, again, a single soul will be heard cheering for Auburn.

Just how and when it will all end, nobody knows. But end it must—any game now. Meanwhile, our advice to those entrants still in the running is to keep their fingers crossed around the clock and be careful crossing streets.

The March Resumes

David Lawrence Says:

School Issue Stirs Fuss in Cities

WASHINGTON — Demands that Negro teachers in overwhelming numbers be assigned to schools which are attended predominantly by Negro children have raised a grave issue in many of the large cities across the country.

LAWRENCE

Controversies have developed in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia, Boston, Milwaukee and Cincinnati.

The objection raised now is to the use of a centralized system of school administration whereby a city hall and a single school board manage the affairs of a big city.

Negro leaders argue that local school boards should be set up in what is called a "decentralized" system, and that each of the district boards shall have the right to fix the curriculum and choose the teachers they desire, irrespective of whether almost all of the faculty members are Negroes.

This has precipitated a labor-union dispute in New York City.

DISCRIMINATION CLAIMED

The union, called the United Federation of Teachers, contends that there is discrimination against white teachers in some areas of the city and that district school boards should be eliminated if they engage in such practices.

The current strike is largely the result of a belief that local school boards are discriminating in the selection of teachers and that this might become nationwide.

New York City was among the first to try out the idea of neighborhood control of schools, and other cities took up the same formula of decentralization.

Bitter feeling has arisen, and Negro boycotts of schools over the same issue occurred in Chicago this week, together with some disorders.

NO OBJECTION

Some of the opponents of decentralization say they have no objection to the plan in principle but they do not like to see arbitrary power exercised over the employment of teachers.

The point is made, on the other hand, by some educators that to give a special kind of education in certain districts — such as the teaching of Afro-American history and culture, languages spoken in Africa, African methods of counting and African games — may supply "the missing pages of black culture."

Others argue that this will establish a different standard of education, making it difficult for Negro students to be fitted into high schools and colleges.

Statements are being made by some Negro sociologists that schools should be controlled by Negroes if the majority of the students are Negroes.

But other educators say the whole public-school system is endangered as a result of the decentralization plans, which could bring about more segregation instead of integration.

Shall teachers be chosen by color instead of by merit? This is the fundamental issue.

Bob Considine Says:

Schirra First Astronaut With Veto From Space

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

Chalk up another "first" for Wally Schirra. He's the first man to hurl a veto down from outer space. He told his pal Deke Slayton, ground manager of the Apollo 7 flight, he absolutely refused to go through with the magical nonsense of turning on the onboard TV set to show America how astronauts eat.

CONSIDINE

He and his buddies had too damn much to do up there to be tinkering around. Besides, he said, he had sniffles.

He's all man, Schirra, and a product of a father and mother who provided the country with a few thrills and chills when Wally was a baby.

BARNSTORMER

Walter M. Schirra Sr. was a barnstormer who made a living flying a stunt plane at country fairs. Mrs. Schirra played the straight-man's role. She stood on the wing during the loops.

How could a couple like that come up with anybody but an astronaut?

A suggestion was made to Dick Nixon before he flew to Dallas last week: Why not make an informal visit to the John F. Kennedy Memorial in Dealey Plaza?

The candidate weighed the proposal for a moment, then said:

"If I were going to Dallas on any other kind of mission than the one I'm now on, that would be about the first thing I'd do. But with all these reporters and cameramen following me, a visit would get out of hand. Some writers and people in general would think I was trying to make political hay out of the tragedy."

Kennedy and Nixon were better friends than their 1960 debates and cross-fire indicated.

After his defeat by the proverbial (and perhaps actual) whisker, Nixon's closet advisers strongly urged him to contest the validity of the Illinois and Texas vote-count where there were palpable irregularities.

Nixon declined on the ground that a recount would take weeks, during which the nation would be becalmed and leaderless.

The selfless decision impressed the Kennedy camp. Richard Cardinal Cushing made a point of telephoning Nixon to thank him for the manner in which he had campaigned and had accepted defeat.

The only sure bet at the Mexico City Olympics is that Mexico will win the gold medal in the pistol-shoot. This is partly dependent, however, on how many rebellious students will be paroled during the course of the games.

There are 124 teams competing, including Lichtenstein's two-man squad. The reason why only 123 participated in the opening day parade was because North Korea's team refused to get in line. Seems the Olympic officials would not let them call themselves "Korean Peoples Republic."

The Games, as you know, always restore peace on earth.

'Gentleman's Appearance Like Breath of Fresh Air'

At the license bureau recently I observed an elderly gentleman who had come to have his drivers license renewed. He was like a breath of fresh air. In these days of sloppy dress, he was neatly turned out, smiling and going about his business with enjoyment.

He actually asked the woman sitting next to him in the waiting area if she minded if he smoked his cigar. She seemed very pleased to be accorded this small courtesy.

Opinions Continue on Presidential Candidates

As a concerned American voter, I'm greatly shocked that people can be so gullible to be taken in with Richard Nixon for the third time around. Don't they remember when he was Vice President and almost started World War III in Japan? Nixon is like a priest who argues theology but fails to bring peace to anyone's soul. Readers, can you knowingly vote for a man who has promised all your rights away before he is even in the White House?

The third party offers no threat to our Nation, but Nixon is indeed a threat and the present trend in government is lacking in many ways. I hope the public will vote its convictions and vote to bring law, order and justice back to America. This is a great Nation and the third party can make it an even greater one.

George Wallace says people that call others bigots are usually bigots themselves. This statement is well proved in Thursday's Voice of the People. I noticed everyone who criticized him and called him a racist lived in a lily-white neighborhood.

Gerald Ford is a real Republican. He would do anything to help his friends win the election. I am beyond 80 years of age and have been watching the Republicans for a long time. Herbert Hoover, Eisenhower, and Richard Nixon have given us more depressions and recessions than the Democrats have. I say forget George Wallace and the Republicans and put in a good Democrat—HHH.

WILLIAM MORRIS
35½ TAYLOR

For the last four years America has progressed considerably. It's too bad the GOP hasn't. Times are changing and the GOP wants to win with old ideas. The 1968 Republican ticket is both racist and blind to the needs of the cities. I still remember Vietnam, although Nixon doesn't seem to. I also remember a bitter concession speech by a man filled with anger in 1960. Why were the great talents of Rockefeller passed up? He would have gathered both Republican and Democratic votes while commanding the respect of all Americans. I have faith that all proud and patriotic Americans will give the Nixon-Agnew and Wallace tickets the brushoff. As for our next president, who else but Hubert?

WHITE CLARKSTON HIGH SCHOOL
STUDENT WHO HAS A DREAM

The people who are blind, do not want the truth, condemn a man that tells the truth, and are afraid of Wallace for our next president, had better get new glasses to enable them to see the truth. He was willing to sacrifice his future and his life for the future of this country.

SENNATE MARTIN
6866 OAKHILL, CLARKSTON

Regarding Romney's remarks that Wallace is a political scavenger, racist, separatist, totalitarian, militarist, a ragged peddler of worn-out social doctrines that have failed, Romney can't even run Michigan. All he knows how to do is chase all over the countryside and raise taxes. He should stick his head in the sand and stay there.

'Turnout for Meeting Was Disappointing'

For the first time in my life I have become interested in government and recently attended a "Meet the Candidate" event in Ortonville to help determine those for whom I wish to vote. I was disappointed in the poorly represented parties. Are the candidates so sure of themselves to win, or was it because it was sponsored by a Wallace committee? These same questions might be asked of the voters.

Question and Answer

One day you print the ADC mother with two children receives $102 a week, and the next you said $102 a month. How much is it? Also, what else does she receive, such as doctor and dentist care, rent, utilities, clothing, etc? I want to know if they have a reason to bite the hand that is feeding them.

ATP, A TAXPAYER

REPLY

Miss Hinckley of the Social Services offices tells us a mother of two receives (per month) $75 for food, $27 for incidentals, including clothing, $13 for heating and fuel and $9 for utilities. In addition she receives her rent money; $6 for laundry if she has no washing facilities; medical and hospital coverage for herself and children if she is not covered by Blue Cross or other insurance. Dental care can by covered by general relief funds if not covered by the schools.

Question and Answer

Local churches are cooperating with World Council of Churches to collect emergency aid for Biafra-Nigeria. I thought nothing could get through to the Biafrans. What do they plan to do with the money we send?

Church Member

REPLY

The Council of Churches tells us they are working with the international, Church World Services. The two main organizations for this project are Nord Church Aid, a Scandinavian group, and Caritas, a Catholic organization. Night flights are being made from Sau Tome, a Spanish island off the coast of Biafra. These flights are getting in an average of 70 tons of medicine and food per night. The money from church donations will buy supplies for these flights.

Soft-Coal Miners Ink New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's soft coal miners have a $7-a-day pay raise in a new contract that also provides Christmas bonuses for men who shun wildcat strikes.

"This is the best contract ever negotiated," said W. A. "Tony" Boyle, president of the United Mine Workers Union, at contract signing ceremonies Monday.

"I hope this is a sign of healthy new relations between coal miners and their employers," said George Judy, who signed for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. He called the contract "excellent."

Judy said he can't tell whether the wage increases — which raise base pay to $34.25 a day in the contract's third year—will force coal price boosts.

'NO MORE WILDCATS'

But he said increased labor costs require that miners stop wildcat strikes over local issues. Such strikes in the 30 months of the old contract caused the loss of 427,928 man-shifts of production, he said.

"The industry can't stand these expensive, contract-violating, local strikes, nor can the miners," Judy said.

"The cost of our fuel will make it tough enough to keep our share of the highly competitive fuel market," he added.

Judy said the new contract, first major rewrite of the basic soft coal agreement in 18 years, provides adequate machinery for peacefully settling local disputes.

The contract provides a $120 Christmas bonus for miners who have not engaged in any wildcat strikes during the year.

$120 BONUS

The new contract covers some 80,000 miners working for bituminous association companies in 22 states, plus another 10,000 employed by four other firms that authorized Judy to sign for them. Provisions of the pattern-setting agreement will be extended to another 40,000 men employed by other companies outside the industry association, Boyle said.

More than 40,000 miners started striking Sept. 30 in what the union said was an unauthorized walkout. Most of the rest of the miners in the industry joined the strike when the old contract officially expired Oct. 8.

The contract provides an immediate $3-a-day wage increase retroactive to Oct. 1, another $2 a day next Oct. 1 and a final $2 on Oct. 1, 1970.

Wages had been $27.25 a day for most miners, $30 for top men.

MORE THAN DOUBLE

The wage increases alone, averaging out to $2.33 per-day per-year, are more than double the combined value of both wage-and fringe-benefit hikes in each of the last two contracts in 1964 and 1966.

Boyle and Judy said they could not evaluate the cost of fringe benefits in the new contract.

The pact includes increased vacations, elimination of wage differentials for Alabama and western Kentucky and provisions for promotions, shift assignments and job bumping rights based on seniority.

The union also dropped its attempt to stop association firms from buying coal from non-union companies.

A UMW spokesman said previous provisions designed to stop such purchases are being litgated in the courts.

Boyle said there was a great deal of discussion during the negotiations over the miners' lung disease, pneumoconiosis, but that no provisions were written into the contract to control coal dust, which the union contends is the cause of the ailment.

Instead, Boyle said, it was decided to back federal legislation on mine safety that would include requirements for controlling coal dust.

Nature Tints Leaves in Lower Peninsula

GAYLORD (AP) — Lower Peninsula forests are now catching fire with color. Tinges are visible as far south as Flint.

Within the week, fall's spectacular should be at its peak in the northern tier of counties, with woodlands to the south taking on more color by the day.

Woodlands of the Upper Peninsula have been a panorama of color for the last two weeks.

Detroit Council Hopefuls Discuss Stadium Issues

DETROIT (AP) — The four candidates for the two vacant seats on Detroit's Common Council were asked at the Economic Club Monday how plans for a proposed multimillion-dollar stadium "could be moved off dead center."

Candidate Robert Tindall, executive director of the Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Colored People, said:

"I think it can be moved off dead center if Mr. Fetzer (owner of the Detroit Tigers) would do what Mr. Busch (owner of the Cardinal) did in St. Louis, and that is to start the kitty off with a $5 million contribution."

David Eberhard, pastor of Riverside Lutheran Church, said:

"I second that, Bob, and I think it should be located downtown, in the Civic Center, with adequate parking."

PLANNERS' STUDY

Former Councilman Anthony Wierzbicki, who was defeated three years ago in a bid for re-election, said:

"I thought I wouldn't have to deal with this until after I got on the council. But I think there is a need, and a place in the city it can be put. I would have the city Plan Commission investigate the best location for this stadium."

Mrs. Blanch Parent Wise, another former councilman also defeated three years ago, said:

"It should certainly be located downtown, and I have no answer as to how it could get off dead center at this moment."

Citizens Mutual Insurance Company was writing and receiving a lot of letters to keep in touch with its agents all over Michigan. They were looking for a better way . . . so they called in a Michigan Bell Communications Consultant.

Our man suggested Wide Area Telephone Service (WATS) to give the home office in Howell, Michigan, a special flat rate on calls anywhere in Michigan, and INWATS, which lets the agents call in on the same basis.

The result . . . the telephone setup cut out 1,000 to 1,500 letters a month. One call could often do the work of from four to six letters. What's more, the agents, able to get quick consultation with the home office, are writing more policies. And in Howell, people were reassigned from letter writing and filing to more productive jobs.

Negro Questioning Liberal Priorities

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

One of the reasons black people are questioning the sincerity of their liberal friends is the refusal of many liberals to place the problems of the black man at the top of their list of priorities.

YOUNG

Black people are busy trying to survive in an increasingly hostile society. They are concerned with the basic, gut issues of feeding their kids and finding decent homes and jobs.

But the minds of white liberals and radicals are occupied with other things — Vietnam, changing university administrations, and protecting their own vested interests.

We see this attitude among frustrated liberals who say they will sit out this election — no compromises for them. They say they want to spend the next four years reorganizing the Democratic Party, and they won't sully themselves by voting for any of the major candidates.

LIFE OR DEATH

But black voters can't afford to be so high-minded. For us, the next four years could mean life or death. We've got to live in rotting ghettos and we have to send our kids to schools that don't teach our kids. We can't throw away our hard-won political rights by not voting, especially in such a crucial election year.

The school decentralization fight in New York is another example of the way many white people ran out on the black community when they thought their own interests were involved.

For years they've been giving lip service to how bad the schools are, but when the Ocean Hill-Brownsville school district representing black and Puerto Rican parents got into a hassle with the teacher's union about the transfer of a handful of teachers who weren't sympathetic to community control, many white people put their own sympathies with unionism ahead of the needs of black kids and the black community.

Campus rebels offer yet another example of the failure of white radicals to communicate with black people. They are quite willing to use issues of importance to the black community among the issues around which they organize demonstrations and protests, but that's primarily to attract black students to their banner.

CARDS ON TABLE

When the cards are really put on the table, the life and death issues of importance to black people take their place behind Vietnam, the CIA, or other concerns.

Black students have shown a discipline and a maturity far exceeding that of white student rebels. Last Spring, during the Columbia University "rebellion," black students had to organize a separate demonstration of their own to protest the university's callous attitude toward its Harlem neighbors, because the white rebels were too occupied with issues of the war or the draft.

White professionals, sociologists, etc., are so hung up with the supposed pathologies of the ghetto that they spend their time running after research contracts to run down the Negro family instead of studying the real sickness of America — racism.

Black people mistrust the dilettantism of many of their white friends. They talk well, exhibit the right concerns, but when the real crush comes, they are nowhere to be seen. Then, when blacks organize themselves to deal with the issues of vital concern, these white "allies" complain that they've been left out.

FULL TIME JOB

Black people don't want to be forced into the back of the bus any more — even if the bus is driven by their friends. We need allies desperately, but they've got to enlist for the duration, not run off every time another issue tickles their fancy. Curing the sickness of racism and bringing equality to black people is a full-time job, and there is no time for side-shows.

A new machine accepts all types of wastes, crushes it and compresses it into a "brick" which can be used for land fill. It can process up to 30,000 tons an hour and is designed for apartments, hotels and institutions.

Nixon 5 Pct. Illinois Edge Likely

CHICAGO (UPI) — It was in 1952 that a Democratic governor of Illionis ruminated in Springfield. "I'm too old to cry and it hurts too much to laugh."

He was Adlai E. Stevenson and he had just lost the presidency to a Dwight D. Eisenhower landslide that carried Illinois along with it.

Stevenson had a way with words and his rueful farewell to his presidential hopes that year has been remembered as a model of how to lose with class.

This year, all indications are that the Illinois Democratic powers who followed Stevenson, may do well to learn some lessons from the old, departed master of graceful defeat.

NIXON EDGE

Illinois is where, Richard M. Nixon has figured, a 5 per cent edge in the balloting on his behalf Nov. 5 will mean a sweep of the Midwest over Hubert H. Humphrey. There are few signs to indicate, at this point, that Nixon will not get his 5 per cent.

At the very least, that would mean 26 electoral votes for the man who may have lost the White House in the Illinois voting eight years ago. Illinois Democrats would be lucky if their troubles stopped there.

Instead, they are struggling with a nightmare. No authoritative statewide polls have yet been published on how the vote is going in Illionis. But random samplings have been taken and, to Democratic eyes, they are appalling.

Downstate farmers polled have put Nixon first, Humphrey third, and George Wallace in between. At steel mill gates in Chicago, Humphrey slipped in first, but only because Negro millhands came down solidly for the Democrats. A plurality of white steel workers checked preferred Wallace.

The feat abides among Democratic precinct captains in Chicago that many more white unionists —. the men who usually make Mayor Richard J. Daley and the city's Democratic machine purr — feel the same way.

One such maverick is Thomas Enright, a union painter who lives in Daley's neighborhood near the stockyards. He has made two decisions: to vote for Wallace next month and then emigrate to Australia.

"Two years ago I would have whipped one of my kids if they had said. 'nigger'," Enright says. "Now I'm saying it myself. It's the law and order thing that gets me — to have laws they don't have to obey and we do."

Many miles downstate, deep in that part of Illinois known as "Egypt," Valgene Gould says much the same thing. Gould, a contractor, used to be a "90 to 95 per cent Democrat." Now he has opend a Wallace headquarters in his home town of Energy because he feels "the federal government is taking the country over."

The few polls presently available in Illinois reflect the same kind of talk.

The Chicago steelworkers poll, conducted by the Chicago Sun-Times, showed 44.16 per cent of white union members questioned in three plants for Wallace. Humphrey was a distant second at 27.92 per cent. But when the Negro vote was added — United Steel Workers officials estimated 30 per cent of their Chicago area membership is black — Humphrey got in front of Wallace, 45.755 per cent to 31.22.

W-K Homecoming This Weekend

Bonfire March Planned at NF

By KATHI CAMPBELL

North Farmington's band, cheerleaders and Raiderettes (NF pompon drill team) will lead a procession of NF students and alumni to begin the annual homecoming bonfire Friday night at 8.

Participants will meet at the tennis courts to join in the march to the bonfire behind the football field, according to senior Tim McMann, chairman.

Logs, provided by the NF students, will be tossed into a heap and ignited. Counselor Tom Eaton, the master-of-ceremonies, cheerleaders and Raider graduates then take the stand to lead a pep rally.

The bonfire will come to a close only when the wood or the spirit is exhausted.

RUMOR ON QUEEN

Rumor has it that Vicki Saliba will be crowned NF homecoming queen during halftime Saturday as the NF Raiders challenge the Franklin Patriots.

John Bouza, senior class president, will direct Act I of "Cinemaland" Saturday night at 9 in the NF gym.

Music will be provided by the Taxi, a local group.

Silent movies are to be shown on the gym walls.

AFTERNOON DRESSES

Girls should wear afternoon dresses and boys suits. Note to flower children: please reform—no corsages.

Debate coach, Mrs. L. Schneider expressed the enthusiasm generated at the debate team's first meeting when she said, "I think we can win."

Affirmative teams are seniors, Jeff Fishman and Steve Silverman; juniors, Steve Posen and Roger Voorheis; and sophomores, Wendy Cohn and Debbie Mordon.

Negative teams consist of seniors, Tom Conlon and Bob Hite; and sophomores, Sue Hultz and Ann Smith.

INTERSQUAD DEBATE

Meetings will be held Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. with an intersquad debate (for the benefit of the sophomores) scheduled for this Thursday.

Clubs are engaged in constructing homecoming floats for Saturday's parade.

German, French, Spanish and Latin Clubs invaded the World Market at the International Institute Oct. 10.

American Youth Hostels scheduled a canoe trip last weekend and are planning a combined bonfire, hayride, horseback riding and dance extravaganza for sometime in November.

By DONNA FURLONG

Waterford-Kettering High School's seventh annual homecoming will be held this weekend.

Activities will begin Friday afternoon at the pep assembly. At that time Coach James Larkin will introduce the team to the school.

The 1968 homecoming queen and king will also be revealed. Voting will be held Friday morning.

Queen candidates are Lynn Bachelor, Hazel Goodwin and Marcia Steehler. Vying for king are Harry Booker, Bob Earl and Mac Miller.

Sophomore and junior representatives have already been chosen. Selected by the class of 1971 were Roxanne Steehler and Steve Clauser. The class of 1970 chose Gail Zollner and Paul Curry.

Milford High School will be the opponent of Kettering's varsity football team, when it takes the field Friday at 8 p.m.

FLOAT JUDGING

During halftime W-K's marching band will perform while class floats are being judged.

Work has begun on the floats. They must be built on campus again this year. Floats will be judged on neatness, originality, how well each pertains to the theme, color and organization.

"Through The Looking Glass" is the theme for the Coronation Ball, Saturday.

ROYAL CROWNING

Beginning at 8 p.m. the highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the queen and king.

Music will be provided by the Johnny Wallis 5.

Tickets for the ball are $3 per couple and are being sold during lunch and at the door.

Working on homecoming as committee chairmen are Sue Barkell, decorations; Sid Graves, assembly planning; Missy McGrath, refreshments; Dan Orders, publicity; Bob Orosey, elections; Stephanie Stewart, tickets and invitations; and Sandy Whitehead, judges.

OLD SHEETS NEEDED

Decorations committee is still in need of old sheets. Anyone that has any please turn them in to the Student Council office.

Chairman of the directory is Chris Barger. Other members are Karen Church, John Copeman, Marilyn Craighead, Mike Haley and Mary Rexford.

As its departing gift to the school, the graduating class of 1968 donated $100 for planters to divide the cafeteria and the hall. The plants were donated by the biology classes.

SENIOR GIRLS MEET

Tonight, there will be a meeting at 7 for all W-K senior girls interested in participating in the 1968 Waterford Junior Miss Pageant.

The pageant is sponsored by the Waterford Jaycees.

PCH Students' Floats Compete

By PURVIS HUNT JR.

Once again the sophomores, juniors and seniors at Pontiac Central, are competing for the title of "best float," in the homecoming activities Oct. 25.

Each class president called special meetings throughout the week, to determine the individual themes and designs.

Pontiac Central's homecoming will end this year, with its annual dance, which will be held in Central's gymnasium.

Chief and princess elections were held yesterday, but the votes are not tabulated yet. The results will be listed next week.

DEBATE SEASON

Pontiac Central is busy preparing for this coming debate season. This year the topic is: Resolved: That the United States should establish a system of compulsory service for all citizens. (All men and women should be drafted.)

Teams are formed for the first debate meet of the season to be held Thursday at Saginaw. PCH debaters and five other schools in the Saginaw Valley will compete in four different meets through December.

Oct. 3, the debating group was victorious.

PCH's drama this year, "Dark of the Moon," is a classic of rural America and a perennial favorite of community theaters.

BASED ON BALLAD

Based on the haunting ballad of "Barbara Allen," and employing a large cast in the imaginative settings of the Smoky Mountains, it recounts the story of an elfin witch boy who one day beheld the beautiful Barbara Allen, and immediately fell in love with her.

A compact is made in which he will be given human form to woo and marry her, on the condition that she remains true to him.

She dies and he returns forever to the world of mountain witches.

SHARING ROLE

Pete Marinos and Rick Humpheries will share the role of John. Carol Haanes and Ann Purdey will play Barbara Allen.

Sophomore Student Council representatives this year are Glenn Behler, Mike Boyer, Amy Girst, Pat Larson, Drew Marshall, Nadine Mathes, Margaret Parker and Rick Vershure.

Rochester Homecoming

Fairy-Tale Themes Floated

By MOLLY PETERSON

To many, the fall semester at school would not be complete without a homecoming. Rochester Senior High School is preparing for its homecoming this weekend.

Each class is participating by the making of a float which carries out this year's theme—fairy tales.

FLOATS NAMED

The sophomore class entitled its float, "Fee Fi Fo Fumble." "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Colt" is the title for the juniors' float and "Jack Falcon the Colt-killer" was picked by the senior class.

The homecoming court is complete. Sophomores chose Deb Kilbride and Kathy Upton as their representatives. Melissa Henry and Denise Marecki will represent the junior class, and Shannon Kucharek, Ad Munchiando and Linda Sloan, the seniors.

The floats are judged Friday afternoon during the traditional parade through downtown Rochester. Each class marches behind its particular float and is given points for orderly marching, spirit and the percentage of the class participating. The floats are then brought back to the school to await the game on Friday evening.

The Troy Colts are opponents for this year's game. During the halftime each class float and court are paraded in front of the stands and winners of the float competition are named and the queen is crowned.

Music for the informal dance following the game will be provided by "The Choice." It is sponsored by the senior class.

The semiformal homecoming dance will be held Saturday night from 8-11. Two bands, "The Yellow Pages" and "The Solitary Confinement" will provide the music.

DECORATIVE THEME

Decorations will center around the theme of Never, Never Land.

Tickets ($3 per couple) for the dance are available in the school cafeteria beginning tomorrow. They must be obtained before the day of the dance.

The spirit week preceding homecoming is hectic as each class hurriedly finishes its float.

Each day during spirit week marks a special event including class colors day, Bermuda day and spirit day.

Friday, the day of the homecoming game, an assembly is held.

CLASS SKITS

Each class presents a skit to the student body. The skit is judged on originality, presentation and response.

The winner of the skit presentation is then announced. At this assembly the various courts are also presented to the students of RHS. And the fight for the spirit jug is launched.

The upperclass girls of RHS also get a chance to perform on the football field this week. The annual Little Rose Bowl takes place at 8 p.m. on Thursday with the junior and senior girls battling in touch and tag football. Last year the class of '69 beat the class of '68 and it hopes to be the victor again in this year's game.

Sunday, a Pancake Breakfast will be held at the American Legion Hall in Rochester. All proceeds will go towards the American Exchange student fund at RHS.

The junior class offered students at RHS a change of pace during the week by sponsoring a "Skip Breakfast Day." The class sold doughnuts in the morning before classes and after school.

The National Honor Society for the 1968-69 school year has chosen Jack Wise, president; Chris Vizena, vice president; Susan Carlisle, secretary; and Mary Olson, treasurer.

Afro Club Born at Cranbrook

By WHITNEY FIELD

In the last few years, there has been a considerable influx of black students to Cranbrook School, forming a constantly growing, but up to now a relatively nonvocal minority.

This year, though, under the leadership of student Ed Perrin, they have come together to form the Afro Club, the only organization of its kind in the school's history.

The club basically has two goals to fulfill. First, members, as an organized group, are trying to assert their color and realize their identity and what they represent as an integral part of the community.

They are also establishing a better communication among themselves and discuss personal problems and the problems of today's society as they relate to their race.

INVOLVEMENT

Second, in being actively involved in all areas of school life, the students want to inform the white student of their ideas, aspirations and of the significance of their background and present situation.

This information will be communicated through personal relationships, creative articles and weekly newsletters.

Over 100 sophomores, juniors and seniors from Cranbrook and Kingswood have joined the school's Forum. It is probably the largest group ever assembled at Cranbrook for a single extra-curricular purpose.

Besides the presentation of guest speakers, one of the Forum's most important functions, is to keep students posted on other interesting speakers in the Detroit area.

ELECTION WORK

For those who want to work for the Democrats or the Republicans until the election, there will be opportunities to do so on Saturdays. Interested students will also be kept informed of upcoming rallies and demonstrations.

Powder-Puff Football During Lahser Fall Festival

By GRETCHEN HAAS

Fall Festival Week at Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School opened yesterday with scratches, bumps and bruises as sophomore and junior girls battled in powder puff football.

Winners will challenge the senior girls' squad in today's game at 2:45 p.m.

A Student-Union-sponsored bake sale will also follow school dismissal.

Fall Festival activities will continue Wednesday with a bonfire at 8 p.m. Classes will compete in the collection of wood for the blaze.

CHEERING CONTEST

A student cheering contest led by varsity cheerleaders at the bonfire will be followed by the introduction of Lahser's athletic coaching staff.

Three-legged races, a tug-of-war, and a treasure hunt will be held Thursday afternoon.

Senior class members will cast their votes to elect the Fall Festival Queen on Friday.

PRINCESS'S NAMED

A pep assembly will preceed the 3:30 p.m. football game when Lahser's Knights will clash with Dearborn Annapolis at Bloomfield Andover High School.

Halftime festivities will include the presentation of the queen, court and princesses.

Saturday's semiformal dance. "Barefoot in the Park," will climax the week of events.

CAST CHOSEN

Cast members were chosen this week for the Lahser production of "Romanoff and Juliet" to be presented Dec. 5 and 6.

Taking part in the Peter Ustinov parody of "Romeo and Juliet" are Jim Balmer, Jay Bond, Debbie Brooks, Martha Freitag, Pat Hall, Gildand Hegyan and Maggie Keteyian.

OTHER PLAYERS

Others are Chris Kingsley, Phil Leach, Gigi Maganus, Lisa Marshak, Nadine Penkava, Linda Priest, Frank Reid and Marc Tirrell.

Robin Dibner is student director for the play; Tom Bond; stage manager; and Curt Ostermann will manage lighting.

Mrs. Jack Strait, drama instructor at Lahser, will direct.

Our Lady of Mercy Students Vie in Annual Magazine Sale Drive

By MARY ANNE MADDEN

Our Lady of Mercy students traded textbooks for magazines and sales pitches as the annual magazine drive began Friday.

All homerooms and the four classes are competing to bring in the most subscriptions.

Each girl's quota is $18.

Those who sell more than this amount will be eligible for honorary club recognition and will be awarded additional prizes.

Prizes include stuffed animals, clothes, gift certificates and records.

Theme of the drive is spirit, according to the Student Council at a school convocation Friday.

Each class will wear spirit buttons and homeroom slogans.

The Stock Club has been added to the list of extracurricular activities available to students. Under the direction of Mrs. Karin Grandone, math teacher, the girls will be given an imaginary $10,000 to invest.

Buying and selling will be carried on at the biweekly meetings. If a student wishes to buy or sell before the meeting, she may see Mrs. Grandone or a "broker."

Moderators are the Rev. Robert Duggan C.S.C. and Sister Helen Marie R.S.M.

FILMS SHOWN

During the year six films will be shown including "Billy Budd," "David and Lisa," "When Comedy Was King," and "Darling."

This extracurricular club, limited to juniors and seniors, will meet Sunday evenings at Catholic Central.

Membership tickets will be available during lunch hours.

The first two films are scheduled for Oct. 20 and Nov. 17.

DISCUSSIONS SLATED

After each film there will be a discussion.

Mercy's home economics Career Club recently elected Mary Pilon, president; Katy Zeimet, vice president; Pat Steimel, secretary; and Mary Rahaley, treasurer.

Sister Mary Loyola R.S.M. is moderator.

"We hope to acquaint the girls with the various fields open in a career in home economics," said Mary Pilon.

To this aim, the club will include programs by speakers from Mercy College and Oakland Community College. Field trips and a spring fashion show are also planned.

Roundup of School Activities

Marian Unfurling Field Day Spirit

By LAURA GUAY

Colors, excitement, and spirit invade Marian High School again as Thursday's Field Day, approaches.

Sponsored by the Girls' Athletic Association (GAA), this will be the sixth annual event.

Banners, spirited songs, stunts and exciting field competition will characterize the afternoon.

Replacing traditional class floats this year, stunts will give an opportunity for "each girl in school to participate," claims Mrs. Joesph Grant, physical education instructor.

DAYS EVENTS

Events for the day include hurdles, softball throw, medley relay, 50-yard dash, standing long jump and tug-o-war.

As for the purpose of Field Day, "It's a day to have a lot of fun and to bring all four classes closer together in the challenging spirit of honest rivalry," stated senior Kitty Gillooly, student organizer of the events.

Judging banner, song, and stunt competition among classes will be members of the Marian faculty. Their decisions will be based on originality, spirit, color and content.

* * *

Banners and songs should convincingly demonstrate the individual class' theme. Tradition requires that each class' theme remain absolute top secret until the big day arrives.

SECRET THEMES

Saturday's homecoming at neighboring Brother Rice was assisted by the Marian feminine touch as girls helped with decorations, refreshments and lighting effects.

Attempting Communication Together (ACT), a new social action group, enables students from each class to participate in volunteer programs last hour and after school.

GOAL-FULFILLMENT

"Our goal is to fulfill ourselves and respond to the needs of others through ACT," explained Madeleine Ruessman, head of the program and ecclesiastical commissioner on the All-School Board.

Institutions to be helped include orphanages, homes for the aged and retarded and homes for rehabilitation of alcoholics.

A new feature is added to Marian's governing body, the Marian Commission.

Each of the five commissioners on the board will have a single representative from every class to form a standing committee.

AIMS TO AID

The task of this recently formed body is to aid the Commission in carrying out activities and projects more efficiently.

Lapeer Seniors, Juniors Aiding in Car Census

By SUE DE ARMOND

The Lapeer City Police Department asked Henry Smith, Lapeer High School principal, if 100 students would be willing to help the city of Lapeer in a car census. They would be paid $1.50 an hour.

Friday, after school, the 100 junior and seniors met in the cafeteria to listen to Matt Dougherty, Lapeer's chief of police, explain their jobs.

Each student was assigned a specific street corner from 4 to 6 p.m., for five days. Each person is responsible for an accurate count on the number of cars that pass the corner during the time. After the five days, every one participating will turn in their alloted sheets with the results on them, to Smith.

ROAD DOLLARS

The city will then be able to report to the Federal government the amount of tax dollars needed to maintain a road.

Martin Hoffman is 17 years old, blue-eyed and brown-haired; a typical teen-ager, except for one thing: he is an exchange student from Frankfurt, Germany.

Martin's main reason for coming to the United States is to practice English, and to learn more about the American way of life. He is currently staying with the Donald Miller family of 320 Harrison Street, Lapeer.

Martin would be a junior in Germany but here he is a senior.

CLASS HOURS

He has a high opinion of LSH, but is having a bit of trouble adjusting to the class hours. "In Germany," he said, "we go to school six days a week for only five hours a day, but I'm sure I'll get used to it." His hobbies are playing the violin and rowing.

Martin said there were two things that he particularly liked about America. He said that he was pleased to find Americans did not always shake hands in greeting one another. He likes our more informal method of just saying "Hello." Also he liked American girls because they seem "very spirited."

NEW MEMBERS

The National Honor Society will be inducting new members Nov. 14.

Adelphian Boys Elect Officers

By PAT EDWARDS

The boys' club of Adelphian Academy, Alpha Delta Nu, has chosen its officers. Jim Sundin is president; Bryan Fenner, vice president; Denny Howell, secretary-treasurer; Chip Chaffin, parliamentarian; Jim Carter, pastor; and Rick Churchill and Bill Wilcox, sergeants-at-arms.

The Master Guide Club, a youth leadership training program, took a four-day pack trip into the Adirondack Mountains of New York State over first home leave, Oct. 9-13. Some of the group spent their time on trails along the high peaks, while the rest camped at a base camp and took daily hikes to points of interest.

The officers of the Master Guide Club are: Don Meseraull, president; Gail Gallant, vice president; and Gayle Reid, secretary-treasurer.

About 15 students from Adelphian Academy will attend a Bible camp held at Camp Au Sable, in Grayling, from Oct. 23-27.

Sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventists, speakers from the denomination will talk about soul-winning, home and family living, and other topics.

CAMP PARTICIPANTS

Those participating in the camp, from the academy, are: Gary Taber, Jim Carter, Don Meseraull, Beth Johnson and Kay Good, seniors.

Representing the sophomore class are Gayle Reid and Terry Copsey. Freshmen chosen to go are Kathy Smith and Lois Clark.

Brother Rice

By STEPHEN PALMS

The Pep Club at Brother Rice High School has once again shown its prowess in the Catholic League. Win or lose, ardent fans have supported Rice's Warriors with fantastic fervor.

Mike Mayor heads the Pep Club.

Geza Szakac's publicity committee decorates school corridors before each game, building up the enthusiasm and spirit of the entire student body.

As Coach Bill Norton has said many times, "a team with excellent student support has an added advantage in any competition." Rice students have made evidence of their support, and it has shown in the outcome of the football team.

Ellen Fellows, Claudia Gordon and Mike Kaul.

Others include: Dave LePere, Joeine Schultz and Mary Woodward. Linda Munro is the sponsor.

Sacred Heart

By TERESA FIASCHETTI

Eleven students were inducted into National Honor Society, Oct. 7.

Hollis Gibbs, Marcia Murdoch, Mary Claire Theisen and Mary Tindall are the new members in the senior class.

Clarkston

By TRUDY BEALL

Last Wednesday, at the annual Student Council sponsored powderpuff game, the Clarkston High senior girls crept by their opponents, the junior girls, winning by a score of 7-6.

Mary Ann Hennig led the senior girls to victory with a touchdown and extra point in the first quarter, while Colleen Fancher made the touchdown for the juniors.

During halftime, the powderpuff homecoming court was presented. Tom Grace was selected by the junior girls as junior prince, while Craig Hutchins was the senior prince. Powderpuff king was Chris Poole.

Quill and Scroll, the honorary journalism fraternity here at Clarkston, has named its new members.

Country Day

By JANET IVORY

Margo Buterbaugh, tennis coach and former student of Bloomfield Country Day School spoke before a school assembly on her two-year experience living and attending the Villa Mercede school in Florence, Italy.

Miss Buterbaugh was there during the destructive flood of 1966. She explained that before this tragedy the American students had a rather poor image with the Italians but because of the help we gave during the emergency, the Italians' faith in us was restored.

Miss Butterbaugh worked as long as 12 hours a day restoring books in a library.

She lived in a 13th Century villa where central heating was unheard of. For many weeks she existed on bread, salami and wine.

REWARDING EXPERIENCE

Though Miss Buterbaugh felt it was a worthwhile and rewarding experience helping restore the historic culture of Florence, she missed something dear to all girls — bathing. There was no pure water and she was unable to wash her hair for two months.

This year at BCDS, the entire school is divided into two teams representing the school colors blue and yellow. After the selection of the teams, captains were elected. Janice Feldman will be gold team captain and Janet Ivory, blue.

* * *

At the end of the year a trophy will be awarded to the champion team that has earned the greatest number of points throughout the year.

TEAM SYSTEM AIM

This not only includes athletic events but academic and social as well. The purpose of the team system is to stimulate a feeling of competition and spirit throughout the school.

St. Lawrence

By MAUREEN CHAPATON

During last week, the student body of St. Lawrence School, Utica, rehearsed for Tuesday's celebration activities honoring Msgr. Edward DeKeyser's feast day.

This tradition at St. Lawrence dates back to its founding 13 years ago. The Monsignor's feast day was Sunday.

Last week was especially busy for the senior class. Senior pictures were taken and caps and gowns arrived. The chosen color of gowns was green and they were worn for the first time at Tuesday's Mass.

* * *

Seniors will continue to wear this color gowns throughout the year at special functions, until graduation exercises in June, when blue and white will be worn.

Romeo

By BERNADETTE GRABOWSKI

The annual Senior-Parent Night at Romeo Senior High School was held Thursday.

Frank Lerchen and Robert Hutton, counselors, discussed, with the seniors and their parents, college applications, available scholarships, job opportunities and post-graduation plans in general.

The yearbook subscription sale began Wednesday. A deposit of $2.50 must be placed in order to hold a subscription. The total cost of the yearbook is $5.

COVER AVAILABLE

A plastic cover is also available for the book for an additional thirty-five cents. The yearbook orders will be taken until Friday.

Kingswood Swings to Pep Assembly

By MARY STEWART

The Kingswood-Cranbrook cheerleaders and Pep Club will swing into this year's Homecoming activities with a pep assembly at Kingswood Thursday.

Cranbrook's football players will be introduced and the tactics of the game explained for the girls' benefit.

Highlights of homecoming for Kingswood students are the game and the judging of the floats Saturday.

Under the organization of Stephanie Frank, homecoming chairman, KSC students will design, construct and display an exhibit for the first time.

ELECTION ISSUES SEEM CLEARER ON A ZENITH.

All the little details are sharper, clearer, crisper on the new 1969 Zenith Super Screen Portables. You see more. And you see it better.

That's because they're handcrafted. That means longer TV life. Greater operating dependability. Fewer service problems.

Zenith portable TV's feature a unique 3-stage IF amplifier, too. IF (Intermediate Frequency) is a complicated electronics word that simply means you get a better picture because three are better than two. You get greater picture detail. Better contrast. Less interference.

And they have Zenith's own Sunshine picture tube. It's Zenith-developed and Zenith-engineered to give you superior brightness and contrast for outstanding picture realism.

In short, you see more, better, for less on a Zenith.

Arkansas Prison Guards Wound 24 Inmates

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Prison guards fired eight shotgun blasts into a group of 75 inmates Monday, wounding 24, after the convicts refused to work in the prison fields unless some institution policies are changed.

Supt. Victor C. Urban defended the use of gunfire as a reasonable tactic under the circumstances. Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller called for a full investigation.

All but one of the 24 prisoners who were wounded were taken to the hospital infirmary. Urban said Herman Goad, 30, of Natchez, Miss., was struck in the eye by birdshot and taken to a Little Rock hospital.

Urban said about 100 prisoners refused to work Monday morning but that about 22 changed their minds and went to work.

'FIRED FIRST SHOT'

He said Gary Haydis, an associate superintendent, fired the first shot.

"Mr. Haydis told them to go back to work," Urban said. "He fired his shotgun in the air as a warning shot, and they did not move. So he fired into them. Then they moved."

Two of the inmates who were wounded told newsmen that no warning shot was fired.

Urban, who said he did not witness the shooting, reported that the inmates were wounded in the head, back and arms.

"Those who were wounded in the head were sitting down," he said. "The others were standing."

He said 10 of the leaders of the strike had been transferred to Tucker Prison Farm to be put in isolation, and another inmate was placed in isolation at Cummins.

Urban said the prisoners wanted to outline about 10 grievances "but only two or three came out in the discussions."

"Let me make one thing clear," he said. "No inmate is going to tell Mr. Haydis or I or the prison board that we should run the prison this way or that."

About 1,100 convicts are currently confined at the 21,000-acre prison farm 60 miles southeast of Little Rock.

"They asked that a civilian doctor, not a prison employe, be the person who gives them clearance when they want to go on sick call." Urban said, "Mr. Haydis was empowered to act in my behalf on matters where he felt competent and he granted this demand immediately."

"They also demanded the dismissal of some inmate supervisors," Urban said. "We refused to grant this one without an investigation and they refused to work."

The shooting was the latest in a series of incidents in the Arkansas prison system, which has been criticized by its opponents as brutal and outmoded.

AAA Study Cited by Hare

'Average Driver Makes Many Mistakes'

LANSING (AP) — If you're the kind of guy who never makes mistakes chances are you don't drive very much, thinks Secretary of State James Hare.

Because if you're an average driver, an American Automobile Association study indicates, you make about 2½ errors in each mile you travel.

That means, notes Hare, that if you drive only 10,000 miles a year, you'll make about 25,000 mistakes.

Hare said the AAA study involved about 1,,000 drivers, both youngsters and adults.

LESS SURPRISING

Less surprising is another driver study conducted by the Michigan State Safety Commission, of which Hare is chairman. It shows that the worse a driver is, the more likely he is to have an accident.

Hare says the commission studied the records of 42,453 problem drivers — those with eight or more violation points under Michigan law.

At the eight-point level, Hare said, a driver has a 27 per cent chance of having an accident.

At the 12-point level, at which the law allows Hare's department to take a motorist off the road, his accident likelihood jumps to 42 per cent.

65 PCT. CHANCE

A driver with 17 points is just about as likely to have an accident as not, Hare says, and one with 32 points has a 65 per cent chance—or is likely to have two accidents in every three situations.

Hare says his department will be able to make more detailed driver studies when it finishes feeding the records of Michigan's nearly give million drivers into its new computer.

One preliminary study has already been made of the records of about a million drivers whose names begin with A, B and C.

That study, which covered 1966, showed the group averaged about 1.2 moving violation tickets apiece, Hare said.

Hare added the study showed that about one driver in three had an accident during the year —but he said that figure is too low, since police in many major cities, including Detroit, weren't required to report all accidents to Hare's office in time to be included in the study.

State Police statistics indicate, though, that 523,164 drivers were involved in accidents in 1966, Hare said. That, he noted, is more than 10 per cent on Michigan's drivers.

"Using an average age of 27.8 years and an average of eight years of driving experience, the 10 per cent accident rate would mean 80 per cent of the drivers had racked up an accident record in the eight-year period," Hare said.

LeMay Not on Ballot

LANSING (AP) — The choice of retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay as George Wallace's running mate came too late to get LeMay on the Ballot in Michigan, says State Elections Director Bernard Apol.

As a result, he added, the name appearing on the ballot as vice presidential candidate of Wallace's American Independent Party will be Marvin Griffin, former governor of Georgia.

But, said Apol, it won't make any difference, since if Wallace should carry Michigan, the slate of electors pledged to him would not have to vote for Griffin for vice president, but could cast the state's 21 electoral votes for LeMay or anyone else.

"When the American Independent Party filed names of candidates they filed the names of Wallace and Griffin," Apol said. "This was filed within the statutory time and we haven't had any other filing from them of any kind since then."

The deadline for certifying candidates, Sept. 4, has passed, Apol noted, and it would take a court suit to replace Griffin's name with LeMay's now.

A DAY FOR FLAG-WAVING — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower waves the emblem of his rank out his Walter Reed Hospital window as he celebrated his 78th birthday in Washington yesterday. Outside were the Army Band, which played a 15-minute salute to him, and 200 well-wishers. Inside were members of the family and friends. Doctors chose the occasion to report Ike is now walking unassisted. And the former president marked the day with a statement: "The best birthday present I could receive would be a sweeping Republican victory on Nov. 5."

Katzenbach: Courts Made Scapegoats

NEW YORK (AP) — The former U.S. attorney general, Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach, says the nation can't afford to let politicians make the Supreme Court the scapegoat for rising crime rates. He made reference to anticourt statements by Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace.

"For politicians to charge that there is a substantial connection between the rising crime rate in our country and recent decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court is nonsense," Katzenbach wrote in the current Look magazine.

Katzenbach, now under secretary of state, referred to Nixon as "the Republican candidate," but mentioned Wallace by name.

"It is a cruel hoax," he said, "to seek to persuade the American people that the Bill of Rights should be watered down in response to rising crime rates."

CRIME DUE TO CHANGES

Katzenbach said increased crime was due to major social, economic and population changes—a growing, younger population that is concentrated in cities and less subject to parental and other controls.

"We have to be prepared to live with high rates of crime in the years ahead as our young population grows," he said.

"We can no longer afford to let politicians seek profit from this situation or to evade difficult problems by making a scapegoat of the Supreme Court."

Crash Victim Sought by Sons

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — "We won't stop looking even if it takes a lifetime," says Alvin Oien, Jr., of the search for his father, a 59-year-old Portland, Ore., hotel man whose single-engine plane crashed into a snow-covered mountain on March 11, 1967.

Seven months later the bodies of Oien's wife, Phyllis, 45, and daughter, Carla, 16, were found in the wreckage. A jointly written diary told how they had survived for 54 days awaiting a rescue that never came.

An entry five days after the crash said: "Al left to go for help." The diary said he was suffering from fractures of the right arm and several ribs. Neither Oien nor his body has ever turned up.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's alive until we find him," declares Alvin, Jr., 33, an airline pilot, of Westlake, Tex. Along with his brothers Ron, 28, and Chuck, 26 both of Portland, he spends his spare time searching the thick brush around the scene of the accident.

HOLDING BRANCHES

"With a broken right arm," says the oldest son "you would reach out with your left arm to hold onto branches to keep from sliding down the mountain. So we figure Dad must have taken off to the left.

"We're now concentrating on working south through the brush side by side, inch by inch down the slope for two miles. The probability is he got stuck in the first two miles."

Brush at the crash scene, on a 5,995-foot peak in the Trinity Mountains 35 miles west of here, is 15 to 20 feet deep at times. The senior Oien was an experienced woodsman.

The Oien plane was headed to San Francisco from Portland when it crashed March 11, 1967, apparently after the wings iced up. The diary's first entry said that in addition to Oien's injuries Phyllis had a broken left arm and Carla "a hurt back, left kidney, sore right ankle"

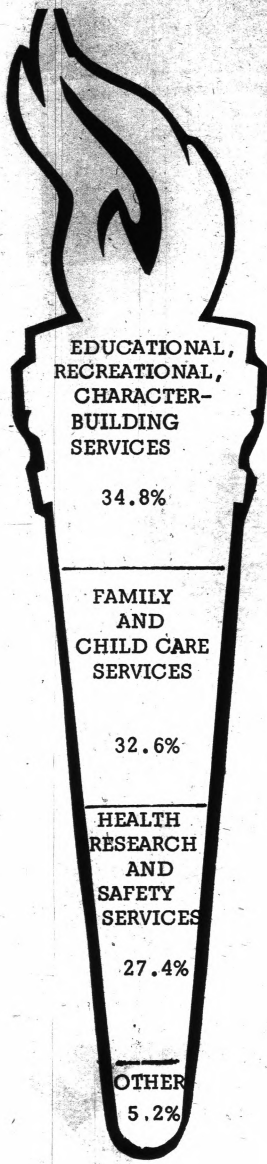
Where Does Your UF Dollar Go?



THE RIGHT NOTES — Recreational, educational and character-building services help keep children and adults happily occupied. These agencies offer central places to indulge in physical fitness activities and social activities and to take courses from woodworking to upholstering. They offer means to guide one's life in more constructive actions and counseling for those who are having difficulties.

FUN-TIME—There are several United Fund agencies working to help children and adults who are having trouble coping with their family and their lives outside the home. The goal of these agencies is to help their clients build a well-adjusted outlook for handling problems.

YOU'VE ONLY ONE LIFE — The numerous health and safety-oriented United Fund agencies spend thousands of dollars daily on research to find cures for diseases and on instruction to teach the average person how to care for his physical self and how to handle common accidents in the home and at work.

Fruits of Research Are Used Daily

Blood derivatives, cancer retardants, and the heart-lung machine — each developed by research — are used daily by members of this community.

Once, little money was allocated for studying diseases but, with each medical breakthrough, the value of men working in laboratories becomes more evident, and the allocations increase. Today thousands of dollars are spent daily in the search for cures to combat a battery of diseases.

Agencies like the Michigan Cancer Foundation, the Michigan Association for Retarded Children, the Michigan Epilepsy Center, the Michigan Heart Association and the Michigan Kidney Disease Foundation are each dedicated to finding causes of and developing cures for their particular disease.

THERAPY — Tina Tovar, Kenny-Michigan Rehabilitation Foundation girl, learns to take off her shoe during therapy treatment.

Awareness of the meaning of safety encourages more careful living. American Red Cross officials have discovered, for example, that a housewife's knowledge of first aid and of the potential hazards in her home, makes her perform daily chores more carefully.

Similarly, many plants with employes trained to prevent accidents report lower accident rates than those companies who say nothing about safety to their employes.

Even most high schools require first aid training by Red Cross trained volunteers so students will know how to cope with common accidents.

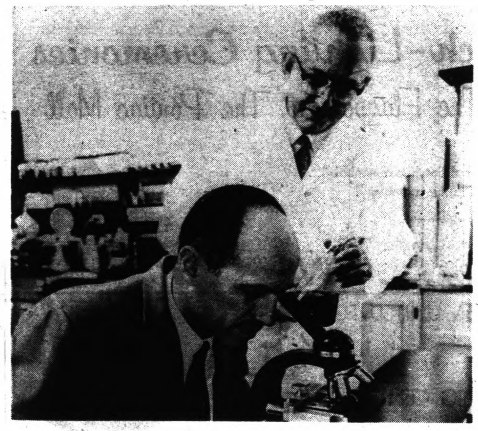
Agencies such as the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, the YMCA and the YWCA promote various areas of safety.

RESEARCHERS — Dr. Lawrence Power and his assistant, Mrs. Gussie Hightower of Wayne State University, conduct research on diabetes. The Michigan Diabetes Association conducts research and provides education, counseling services and a year-round detection program. It also sponsors a camp program for children with diabetes.

Pontiac Press Photo

BLOOD CHECK — A Red Cross nurse will check the blood pressure and type when a person offers to donate blood. The tests are part of a comprehensive Red Cross blood program which collected more than 1,000 pints of blood last year. The blood and blood derivatives were distributed to hospitals.



FINDING CURES — The American Social Health Association researches cures for venereal diseases, among other things.

15 Agencies Help the Family

A young couple afraid their marriage is falling apart, a girl who can't get along with her sisters, and an unwed mother: each is a case for the UF agencies primarily involved with solving family and child care problems.

Each of these 15 local and statewide agencies aim for Family Service of Oakland County's professed goal of "strengthening families under stress."

While individual case histories are never released, statistics show 619 area residents were helped by Family Service last year, another 304 were counseled at Catholic Social Services and 416 were given temporary assistance by the Salvation Army.

These agencies are open to any Pontiac area citizen. The fees are geared to each client's ability to pay.

There are several specialty agencies which often give supplemental aid to those already working with UF counselors.

One is Homemaker Service, an organization which provides temporary care of children, aged, or disabled in emergency situations such as when illness or social problems threaten to disrupt the household completely. Homemaker clients are primarily referrals from other UF agencies.

The Oakland County Legal Aid Society offers legal advice and representation to persons of limited finances, while the Youth Guidance Committee in Lake Orion is a voluntary citizen's group working to prevent and combat child neglect and juvenile delinquency.

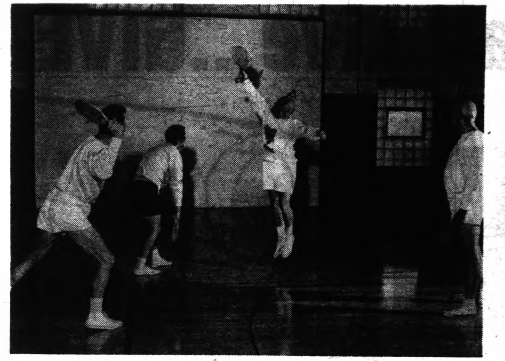
Pontiac Press Photos

Fatherless, Gary Now Has A Man To Look Up At And Talk To, Thanks To Big Brother John Spaulding Of Bloomfield Township

COUNSELING—Talking to a teen-ager experiencing growing pains is only one of Family Service worker Anthony G. Dew's daily duties. Trained case workers offer counseling for individual-personal adjustment problems, marital difficulties and child-parent relationship difficulties. The agency's goal is to help prevent breakdowns in family atmosphere.

COMFORTING — Michigan Children's Aid Society worker Patricia Pell soothes a baby up for adoption. This UF agency places infants in temporary care until the natural mother can arrange to take them or place the child for adoption. The nonsectarian child welfare agency's activities include services to unwed mothers, pre- and postnatal counseling and financial aid. The agency also places children from temporarily disrupted homes under foster care.

Your Contributions Benefit Everybody



EXERCISING—Keeping taut shapes is the real game for these YMCA members working out on the paddleball court. A place to exercise, to meet people and to have a good time, the YMCA of Greater Pontiac at 131 University serves everyone. Y programs include physical education classes, aquatics, camping, social activities and counseling.

Pontiac Press Photos

YOUTH GROUP—Y Teen members Jo Marie Hobson (left) of 32 Clay and Susan Zinnermon of 106 Wall construct paper flowers to decorate a party the Y-Teen group is giving for patients at the Pontiac State Hospital. This group meets regularly at the YWCA. The YWCA offers fun—and character-building—educational and recreational programs for women of all ages. A nursery center, an international group and classes ranging from yogi to upholstering are available.

CIVILIANS' THANK YOU—The United Service Organization clubs, found wherever U.S. military personnel are stationed, offer milk shakes, a hamburger, a place for relaxing and reading a home town newspaper or a chance to use the special stateside telephone service. The clubs are supported by civilian money.

HELPERS—Urban League staffers Terrell Massey (typing) of 6036 Warrent, Holly, and Della R. Stephens of 264 Branch help process job applications passing through their office. This professionally staffed social agency at 132 Franklin Blvd. works for housing and welfare of racial minorities. Their aim is to benefit the total community by improving conditions and promoting intergroup understanding.

The UF dollar goes to every man.

That one hour's pay per month you are asked to donate helps 55 health, welfare and recreation agencies form a united front in serving this community.

PAUF doesn't pretend to offer a cure-all for every pain and problem, nor does it claim to eliminate all other fund drives. However, more of your dollar supports actual services for people than in any other type of fund-raising campaign.

ALL ARE WELCOME

The 34 cents which goes to educational, recreational and character-building services finance activities every family can join.

All children are welcome at the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls and the Boys' Club: all groups offering friendship, constructive guidance and good times.

All ages can join the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Community Activities, Inc., the Independence Citizen's Recreation Services Committee or the Oxford Township Services.

Where would 20,000 current members of these various organizations swim, play ball, relax, and meet people without these UF-supported agencies.

OPEN-AIR COOKERS—Preparing their dinner over a hand-made grill are Campfire Girls (from right) Kim and Beckey Frazer of 1980 Beverly, Sylvan Lake, and Camp aide Kathy Rapley also of 1980 Beverly. Camp Fire Girl activities, oriented toward helping a girl become a mature, civic-conscious woman, are open to girls from age 7 through high school.

A Message To The Community...

Our campaign slogan this year is, "That Love May Live . . . Give!" It is my hope when the citizens of our area hear this slogan repeated throughout our campaign, the true significance of these words will come home to them.

In our fast moving and troubled world today, we are all too often caught up in the mad scramble to survive and compete with others. We work long hours at our jobs and replan our family budgets so our loved ones may enjoy all the advantages possible for leading a better life. That we have been successful in our efforts is evident by the fact that never before in our history has a higher standard of living been accomplished by as many people in the United States.

There is no doubt in my mind that the most basic motivating factor behind our hard work and planning toward a better life is the love we have for our families. It is true that other factors also serve to motivate us . . . but this country would not be what it is today if our forefathers had not come from foreign lands, pushed westward and carved a country out of a wilderness. Their basic motivating factor was the quest for a better life for their families.

In the hard days of the pioneer, when survival was almost a 24 hour a day struggle, our ancestors loved their neighbors and took the time to help each other in times of danger, illness and poverty. I am certain that during this time of an unprecedented high standard of living, we still have the same love and concern for our neighbors.

Although our standard of living is at an historical high, there are still many among us who are unable to work and who have mental and physical ailments. There are countless thousands of our neighbors who need our help.

To meet the requirements of those who need our help, we have established local health, welfare and youth-serving organizations geared to extend skilled services to us, our friends and neighbors. Last year approximately one out of three persons in the area was served by the 55-member agencies of the Pontiac Area United Fund. Last year the Pontiac Area United Fund Campaign was $100,000 short of its goal, and is currently operating at a deficit.

I cannot believe that we, as citizens, have lost our concern and love for one another, I choose, therefore, to believe that we did not raise the money necessary to adequately serve our families and friends for other reasons.

The United Fund here has a long record of success. It has almost become accepted that the campaign goals will be achieved. Last year the threat of a major strike hung over our heads, and we were absorbing the initial shock of new taxes. I think that many of us felt that for this one year, at least, we were going to hold back a little for that rainy day that may be around the corner . . . the rest of the community will come through and my contribution is just a drop in the bucket and won't be missed. But it was!

The goal this year is $1,130,000. This amount represents the very minimum our 55 agencies need to maintain current programs at their present level. The goal is 10% higher than the amount raised last year, a real challenge to all of us.

Now, more than ever, we must prove our love and concern for our fellowman. If we are to continue to try to help ourselves locally by supporting local services, we must open our hearts and our pocketbooks when the United Fund volunteer contacts us for a contribution. A refusal to give does not hurt our boss or the company we work for . . . it hurts our friends, families and neighbors.

Our area cannot survive without concern and care for one another. By surpassing our goal this year we will prove that we do care. Remember . . . "that love may live . . . give!"

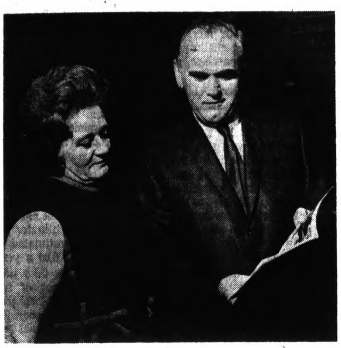
Long-time devotees of the Pontiac Symphony concerts arrive early to get their choice of seats. From left are Mrs. Roy Ward of North Telegraph Road; Mrs. Allan Monroe of Cherokee Road and Mrs. Gerald Kirkby of Silver Sands Drive. The first concert of the 1968-'69 season was played Monday evening at Pontiac Northern High School.



Birmingham composer Harold Laudenslager and his wife were present Monday evening for the performance of his "Little Suite" by the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra under conductor Felix Resnick. The composition had its first performance in 1958 and was included in the repertoire of the touring Albert Tipton Chamber Orchestra. Laudenslager is a member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. His wife is a music teacher at Webster School.

Mrs. Michael Pierce of Newberry Street gets a program from 10th-grader Vicky Perry, whose scarlet jacket identifies her as a member of the Ushers Club of Pontiac Northern High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perry of East Mansfield Street. Mrs. Pierce's husband is a percussionist with the Pontiac Symphony and a music teacher in the Huron Valley School System.

Tell 'Roomie' You Prefer Living in a Place of Your Very Own

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have shared an apartment with another girl for almost a year, and our lease is nearly up. My problem is that I don't want to live with this girl any longer.

ABBY

She's a good kid, but she needs a babysitter. She is 20 years old, and she's afraid to stay alone for one night. I went home for a weekend, and when I returned she said she was so "afraid" to be alone she slept with the lights on.

One day I failed to tell her I was going to do some errands after work, so when I got home (about two hours later) she was practically in hysterics. She was so "worried" about me, she was ready to call the police!

My mother agrees that I'd be better off living alone even if I couldn't afford such an expensive apartment. But how can I tell this girl?

UP A CREEK

DEAR UP: Tell her in plain English that you have decided to live alone. And don't start making up excuses or you will have a debate on your hands.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been having a big difference of opinion about the use of the word "BROAD," when referring to a woman.

I say it is a reflection on a woman's character, and no nice lady would care to be called a "broad."

My husband says that the term is more descriptive of a woman's figure (like a "broad expanse") and has nothing whatsoever to do with her character. Yet he admits that he would never use it around church people.

Where did this word come from in connection with ladies?

MRS. G.

DEAR MRS. G.: Beats me. But if one of my readers out there clues me in, I'll let you know.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 10-year-old boy, and I don't have anybody to play with. I asked my mother to get a brother or even a sister, but she told me not to bother her.

I told her I would be satisfied with a dog, but she said a dog is too much trouble. I had a rabbit once, but it died.

Is there some way I can get my mother to let me have a dog?

LENNY

DEAR LENNY: If your mother's only objection to a dog is the "trouble," write out an "agreement," stating you will take the dog for walks regularly, see that it's fed, and do everything you can to relieve your mother of the work of owning and training a dog. Then sign it. It's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: My 6-year-old daughter finished kindergarten in June. A 6-year-old boy in her class called her on the phone last week. He was the first boy ever to call her, so naturally she was excited. (So was I.) He called her nearly every day for a week.

She refers to him as her "boy friend." I thought it was cute. My husband says that by allowing the boy to call and seeming to be pleased about it I am encouraging the boy-girl relationship much too early. He says 6-year-old girls shouldn't have "boy friends," that he sees nothing "cute" about it, and we shouldn't allow him to call.

Abby, I'm not sure what I think. I don't want to be a mother who pushes her daughter into trying to be popular with the boys at too early an age, but I see nothing wrong with this. How do you think it ought to be handled?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: To make a big thing out of it now, telling her she's too young to have a "boy friend" and forbidding him to call, I think would give your daughter the idea that there is something "wrong" with a boy-girl relationship. Let it run its course. It's natural and inevitable, though somewhat premature. He may not call her again until she's 15.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in the Marines and is stationed in Vietnam. Shortly after he arrived in Vietnam I gave birth to a baby boy.

Abby, my baby is nearly 6 months old and my father-in-law has been over to see him only three times! I told him he was welcome to come any time. He is a widower.

On Father's day I sent my father-in-law a card and I heard nothing from him. My husband would be very hurt if he knew how his father is slighting me. What is the best thing for me to do?

SLIGHTED

DEAR SLIGHTED: Call your father-in-law. Maybe he isn't well. Whatever you do, don't write to your husband about this. If there's anything a Marine in Vietnam doesn't need, it's a letter from his wife complaining about how his father is slighting her.

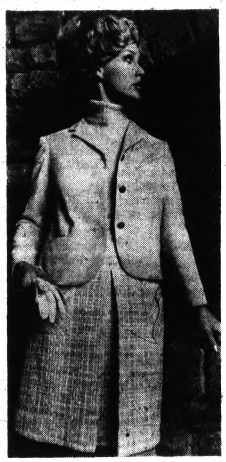
CONFIDENTIAL TO "ACCUSE": Yes, it is possible for two blue-eyed parents to produce a brown-eyed child. Consult a book on heredity and the Mendelian Law. And tell your sister-in-law about another law. The law of common decency with which she should become more familiar.



Pale it for the holidays in heavenly tinted coordinates by Koret of California. Nubby wool-cotton plaid skirt, double pocketed and single pleated rises to herald the crisp notched collar jacket of wool flannel and the contrasting cuddly angora blend turtleneck. Beginning with a skirt of pink/blue/white or custard/gray/white, go pale with white, blue, pink, gray or custard for the jacket and angora sweater.

Young Boarders Will Receive Proper Care

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My in-laws reside near a college and have decided to take in two 18-year-old girls as boarders. My mother-in-law is interested in obtaining a job. She would prefer to work during the night-time hours, at which time my father-in-law would be home to supervise the girls.

Would it be proper for the girls to be supervised at night by my father-in-law while my mother-in-law is working?—Mrs. B. K.

Dear Mrs. K.: Yes indeed! Were it only one girl, there might be some raised eyebrows in the neighborhood, but the fact that there are two should discourage any gossip. Your mother-in-law should feel perfectly free to work at night, knowing that her young boarders will be well chaperoned.

MAIDEN NAME

Dear Mrs. Post: I have recently been divorced after eight and a half months of marriage. I requested my maiden name again, which was granted. Do I sign my name Mrs. or Miss? — Thelma

Dear Thelma: Take back the "Miss." Even though you have been married, you cannot use "Mrs." with your maiden name.

Ruth Burczyk's Fiery Style Captures Symphony Audience

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

The Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Felix Resnick, opened its 15th season last night at Pontiac Northern High School auditorium with a program featuring Ruth Burczyk, pianist.

Using Liszt's monumental Piano Concerto in E. Flat Major as her vehicle, Miss Burczyk displayed a strong, masculine control of her instrument, a fiery, powerful style, an imposing and clean technique, and a polished professionalism with the turn of a phrase.

It was a carefully studied performance, carried off in the grand manner, with the many difficulties of the work easily under her strong and capable fingers, and the subtleties of the lyric passages artistically and tastefully delineated. Her touch is mellow and mature, and her communication with her audience both charming and direct.

Also featured on the program was Harold Laudenslager's Little Suite for strings, wood winds and piano. A contemporary work of wit, humor and verve, the suite is carefully constructed, its atonal combinations well disciplined, its rhythmic treatment both ingenious and delightful.

The short strident overture was satirical and pruposely pompous. The slow dance which followed had interesting rhythms and effects, especially in the unusual staccato accompaniments. Quick March, the third movement, was a charming, infectious bit of whimsy reminiscent of Shostakovitch's mocking style. A short chorale led into the final toccata, a more serious and somber conclusion.

DIRECTION

Resnick directed with skill and expertise, lending both smoothness and sprightliness to the difficult and unusual score. The unifying instrument in the work is the piano, which was handled with skill, dexterity and polish by the orchestra's staff pianist, Martha Welton.

The opening and closing selections, two familiar and popular works, were the Ballet Music from Gounod's opera, "Faust," and Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav." After a rather halting start in the violin sections, the Ballet Music was a stodgy, more or less pedestrian affair, without Mr. Resnick's usual confident and creative touch.

However, the closing "Marche Slav" more than made up for any inadequacies in the opening number. Taken at a much faster tempo than usual, the work emerged brilliant, clear and unhackneyed. In spite of slight overtoning on the part of the low brasses, the march was really a march, unsentimental, brisk and touching in its appeal, a fitting finale to concert well planned and conscientiously carried out to a rousing conclusion.

Parliamentary Club Schedules Meeting

The Parliamentary Study Club will hold a demonstration regular meeting Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the YWCA. Mrs. Lester Oles will be leader with Mrs. Fred Goines, sponsor.

On the agenda are: Order of Exercises, Introduction of Business, Purpose of Motion, Formalities of Making Motions, Steps of A Motion, Ordinary Main Motion and Memorize.

Member of Beverly Hills branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Mrs. William S. Dehm of Birmingham serves as a judge of entries in The Pontiac Mall Flower Show which opened Monday. She is shown weighing the merits of a harvest table set with colorful pottery for an entry headed "Cabbages." Theme of the show is "Of Cabbages and Kings" from the "Alice in Wonderland" adventures by Lewis Carroll.

Having just lost two teeth to the dentist's forceps, 10-year-old Kristin Kirberg didn't feel like going back to school Monday, so mother (Mrs. Ronald Kirberg of Sylvan Lake) took her to The Mall to view Mom's entry under the heading "The Sand Was Dry as Dry." Sand, driftwood, dried materials and cockleburrs in artistic arrangement earned Mrs. Kirberg a red ribbon. She is a member of the Sylvan Lake branch, WNFGA.

Writers' Confab at OU Scheduled for This Month

For the seventh consecutive year, the Writers' Conference at Oakland University will serve as a forum for beginning and established writers concerned with craftsmanship.

The one-day conference, set for Oct. 26 in the University's Oakland Center, is expected to draw a capacity crowd. Registration and a coffee hour start off the day at 8:30 a.m. A wide choice of classes and workshop panels is offered with a 12:30 p.m. luncheon break between.

Sponsored jointly by the University, Detroit Women Writers and the University's Division of Continuing Education, this conference has been planned by a committee of published authors and University staff.

Reservations are due in by Oct. 18. Contact the University for further information.

New Challenges Open at Maturity

By EVE THOMAS
Women's Medical News Service

Women in the 18 to 34 age bracket are so healthy that accidents rank as their major cause of death. The stresses of adolescence past, the newly-mature woman in full bloom faces a series of exhilarating challenges — of adulthood, of marriage, of pregnancy, of motherhood.

Marching off, head high, either to college or her first real job, the young high school graduate is apt to be a great deal more knowing than her mother was. The talk is no longer of femininity but of sexuality, with all its implications of individual decisions to be made. "The sexual revolution" is apparently here to stay.

However, probably most of today's young people behave sexually very much the way their parents — and grandparents — did! Sexual abstinence is still the dominant mode for most unmarried women and for many bachelors although there is some evidence that, on the more cosmopolitan and sophisticated campuses, a minority of seniors have retained their virginity. Even there, faithfulness and profound emotion are highly valued.

More than in the past, young adults associate sex with genuine affection. Far fewer young men patronize prostitutes. A young woman who prefers to retain her virginity will not automatically condem a friend who's jumped the gun on marriage.

Despite the virtually fool-proof protection offered by oral contraceptives, one out of every 15 babies born is illegitimate. The abortion rate is estimated at from 200,000 to 1,500,00 a year.

Forced marriages take their toll; perhaps one out of five brides is pregnant. More than 5,000,000 women too poor for private medical care want and need advice about family planning but 87 per cent do not have access to subsidized medical care.

APPEALS

Different contraceptive techniques have different appeals. What one woman finds acceptable is loathsome to the next. But a technique's reliability is basic. The authoritative British medical magazine, "Lancet," recently gave the following failure rates; for every hundred women using the rhythm system, 19 will get pregnant within the year; when a condom is used exclusively, 11 women will find themselves pregnant; for a diaphragm with cream the rate is 9; for the intrauterine device (only rarely prescribed for a women who has not borne a child) 1; for oral contraceptives, virtually none.

Premarital examinations by a gynecologist should take place two or three months before the wedding. That way, the bride-to-be can settle whatever problems she have well in advance of her wedding night.

Dr. Alan Guttmacher, a famous New York obstetrician-gynecologist, recommends that young women start taking oral contraceptives a few months before the wedding so any side-effects will have time to disappear. If no contraceptive is used, chances are two out of three that the bride will find herself pregnant within three months.

HAZARDOUS MIRACLES

Compared to the miracle of giving birth to a wanted child, getting married is a pedestrian affair. Seldom a nightmare experience in these days of refined anesthetics and natural childbirth, having a baby is nevertheless still a delicate matter. Out of every 100,000 births, 25 women die from complications. The death rate for newborns is even higher.

A recent study by University of North Carolina doctors revealed something astonishing: the well-known post-natal blues are rosy compared to pre-natal depression. More women feel depressed and anxious in the last months of pregnancy than do new mothers. Pregnant women also have more trouble falling asleep.

As the children grow up, life gets easier. Unfortunately, youth's immunity to disease lessens simultaneously. Even in the 18 to 34 bracket, cancer is the second leading cause of death after accidents. Breast lumps may well be merely small cysts, particularly if they appear just before menstruation and disappear after the period, but any lump should be checked out with a doctor.

So should any unusual vaginal bleeding. It is well to realize that not all vaginal bleeding is menstruation. Cancer of the cervix is a possible cause, although it is rare in women under 35. If every woman had an annual test for uterine cancer, 32,000 deaths could be avoided each year.

Day by day, a woman has less weighty concerns. "After 21, life is one long diet," sighed a willowy young woman recently. The average woman of 5'2" weighs 127 pounds in her early 20s, 132 pounds between the ages of 25 and 35, and 143 as she nears her 45th birthday.

Eternal vigilance is one answer. Another is: Let is spread.

A buffet tailored to both masculine and feminine appetites is planned for Wednesday's Harvest Festival luncheon at All Saints' Episcopal Church. Mrs. Charles Crittenden, left, of Sawyer Streets, chairman, and her cochairman, Mrs. Bill G. Willis (right) of Percy King Drive, confer with decorations chairman, Mrs. Kenneth A. Scott of Sylvan Lake, while looking over the harvest produce which will enhance the autumn atmosphere of the event.

All Saints' First Buffet

The first of what is hoped will become an annual event, the Harvest Festival buffet luncheon, will take place Wednesday at All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Sponsored by the Episcopal Church Women, the affair will combine luncheon for businessmen and shoppers with a number of booths for browzing. Holiday items will be for sale in the Thanksgiving and Christmas tradition.

Hot dishes and salads will be available along with the usual accompaniments of a meal. The best cooks in the congregation are preparing their special recipes. Kitchen service is under the direction of a trio of chairmen, Mrs. Clarence Smith, Mrs. Arnold Thingstad and Mrs. John Riley.

The luncheon will be served between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Polly's Pointers

Looks Neater, Cleaner

Dear Polly—Mrs. D. W. asked why one must line dresser drawers. Of course this is not necessary but I always do it because the drawers stay clean longer. When a drawer is lined dirt collects in the liner and can be easily discarded.

Fresh paper, or whatever you choose for lining, keeps the drawers neat and clean and can also be decorative. To me, not lining one's dresser drawers is like not putting a cover on a mattress.—Jan

POLLY'S PROBLEM

Dear Polly — I have an oversupply of linen and also some cotton and nylon napkins and would appreciate some suggestions as to ways to utilize them. Some have never been used. —Mary

Dear Polly — When casseroles are to be frozen and stored, I line the baking dish or pan with foil, fill with the mixture to be frozen and press the foil firmly over the mixture to seal it air-tight.

When it is solidly frozen, foil-wrapped block can be removed from the pan. This saves storage space in the freezer as the "blocks" stack nicely, and pans or casserole dishes are not tied up for long periods of time. When ready to use the frozen casserole you can easily remove the foil and slip the block into the original pan to heat. Some may only require unwrapping the foil from the top and placing the foil-wrapped block on a cookie sheet.—Sue

Dear Polly — After cleaning the toilet bowl with your preferred cleanser, use a few drops of nicely scented dishwashing liquid. Stir around with the brush a few times and leave the pleasantly scented suds for awhile. You will be delighted with results.—Ella T.

Non-Stick Coat on Utensils, Too

Now non-stick finishes are being applied to the outside of kitchen utensils. In the trade, this inside-outside application is called "Hardbase" and it represents one more step toward an easier time for Mom.

This new coating is tough, comes in colors, and may be applied to a variety of materials — such as glass ceramics, aluminum, and cast iron. It boards heat resistance to 800 degrees — and is obviously safe in very hot or detergent suds.

Design Tips Offered for Space Illusion

To create illusions of space take a tip from trend-setting artist-designer Jack Denst. Use large-scale wall decorations.

"The returning vacationist who has enjoyed spacious accommodations is conscious of the limits of his own home or apartment. It is especially true of travelers in Europe who become accustomed to 10 or 12-foot ceiling heights."

Denst suggests a single large scale floral or an important verticle stripe of florals to draw the eye to that single decoration and endow the rest of the room with an expansive air. A mural, tapestry or large painting, will also achieve this effect.

He advises travelers not to overload their home with foreign acquisitions, but to limit collections to three basic colors. Denst restricts his own collection of art pieces to subjects executed in black, white or actual wood, thus enabling him to vary use of objects from time to time while maintaining a decorative balance.

RUGS CHANGE SCENE

The use of area rugs will also permit a floor level change of scene with rugs alternating to freshen the appearance.

Furniture pieces of different scale, an occasional floor plant instead of a lamp to give an outdoor look to the area are other ideas suggested by Denst for gaining the illusion of more space.

Tarnish can be removed from brass or copper by rubbing with a mixture of vinegar or lemon with a pinch of salt, then rinsing and drying.

Harvey Korman Is Gaining Fame as Funny Second Banana

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Every comic dreams of playing Hamlet. Well, Harvey Korman has already done it, but has gained greater fame as probably the best Second Banana in television. When the big stars need a backup man to assure that things go well the call goes out for this towering funnyman.)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) If Harvey Korman had chosen baseball for a career instead of acting — and had been as good at it — he would have wound up as the best catcher in the business. And he would have yearned, but not too much, to have been a star pitcher.

As it is, Korman, at 41, has achieved a success more appreciated inside the acting business than outside it — as the best and strongest support a comedian or comedienne can have in a variety show with its diverse requirements.

Korman backstopped Danny Kaye through four-years of that star's weekly show and moved right over to perform the same function for Carol Burnett and her variety hour.

Six-feet four in height and a calory-counter, Korman can sing enough to get by, fake a little dancing but becomes a giant in the sketches — which is the place, these days, when the chips are down. He is a master of accents.

STAR HELPER

"My job is to help the star," Korman says flatly. "Whether it was Kaye or is Carol, I'm there to offer all the support I can. And, I may say, it is a joy to work with them — as it is with Lucille Ball, Dick Van Dyke, Jackie Gleason and, of course, Jack Benny. Every one of them is a consumate actor."

Korman, although he participates in some wild comedy, considers himself an actor who is playing comedy parts in a variety show. Other pretty funny people have been careful to make the same distinction between being a comedian and an actor. Benny and Art Carney are among them.

Korman, as backstop man for the stars, however, slips into all sorts of different roles. On the Burnett show, he has numerous acting chores to perform depending on the whims of the show's writers, but has registered solidly in sketches in which he plays Carols Burnett's husband.

"I don't look for comedy in the sketches," Korman explained. "The thing an actor always looks for is the give and take with the other performers. In the case of Carol, there is plenty of it. If I can find some place in the sketch that I can make a statement of some sort, Carol adores it . . . but of course, not all performers like to work that way when they are stars."

Co-star and general utility man for "The Carol Burnett Show" though he is, Harvey still would like to reach the top of his profession. But being the No. 2 man in a show has many advantages — financial security, steady employment, longevity in career and none of the trauma involved in trying to keep your own show somehow in the top third of the Nielsen ratings. Still, there is something about being the second banana that makes a performer just a little bit wistful.

He is, however, one funny fellow who does not dream of the day when he can play "Hamlet." He already has done that, on the stage, in Chicago, and to excellent critical notices.

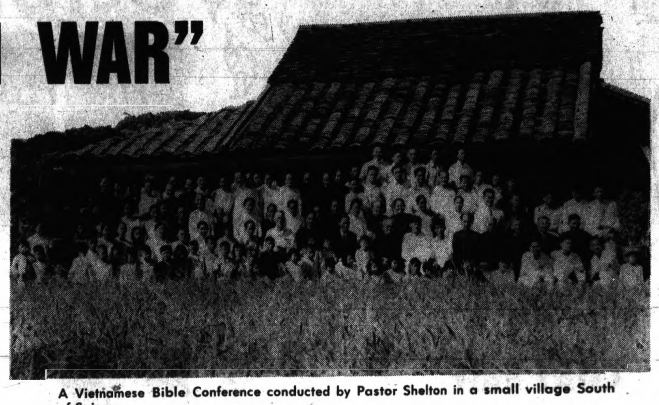
"THE VIETNAM WAR"

by

Rev. Robert H. Shelton
Pastor — First Baptist Church
Former Missionary to Vietnam



A Vietnamese Bible Conference conducted by Pastor Shelton in a small village South of Saigon.

REV. SHELTON

There are many portions of God's Word that now and then need to be emphasized for there are many issues that face us in the world today that need to be viewed in the light of God's Word.

With that brief introduction, I would like you to turn with me for a moment to Hosea, chapter 1, verses 6 and 7. About half way through verse 6 we come to these words: "For I will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; but I will utterly take them away. But I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen."

It is within the power of God to destroy or to save a nation. I want us to think of this, particularly as it relates to the little land of South Vietnam. By way of introduction, let me pass on to you something I heard from Dr. John Walvoord, President of the Dallas Theological Seminary. In my estimation he is one of the comparatively few men in this country who is rightly dividing the word of truth, expecially prophetical truth.

Dr. Walvoord believes that the Lord is sparing the United States from destruction because of two basic reasons.

First, because of our kindness toward the Jews. He refers to Genesis chapter 12, verses 1 through 3, especially verse 3, "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.

Here is the Abrahamic Covenant — The Covenant that was given to that Old Testament giant of the faith, who became the father of Isaac and Jacob and the sons of Israel. Here is a Covenant that certainly was to have a fulfillment through Isaac as we later discover in chapter 17 of this same book. But the promise is, "I will bless them that bless thee". If you follow the nations that have brought blessing to Israel and those that have brought a curse to Israel, you will find in turn nations that have been blessed of Almighty God and nations that have been cursed by God.

Dr. Walvoord believes the second reason God is sparing America is because it is the home base for the modern foreign missionary program. Did you know that 90 per cent of all foreign Christian missionaries come from America? And 95 per cent of all missionary funds come from the United States. I believe of all the programs existing in the world today, there is no program so much in line with the Word of God; no program so important in God's sight as the program of World Evangelism — at home and abroad. Although our country, the United States, is no longer a Christian nation (actually, according to the United Nations it is classified as a pagan nation, and that is probably true), the fact is, of all the nations in the world, more is being done in the United States to implement the program of world evangelism than any other national church in the world. Dr. Walvoord believes this is another reason why God is sparing our nation in spite of its sin; in spite of its rejection of the Lord. A great work is being carried on through the body of Christ in our beloved country.

Now, I would like to add one more reason to Dr. Walvoord's list — one more reason why I think God is sparing the United States in spite of the way we have turned from Him. We still hold to the principles of freedom — principles that I believe are in line with the Word of God.

Our country was founded upon these principles. Our forefathers came here because they wanted to be free to study, interpret, and obey the Word of God; and to worship Him as they pleased; to live according to the dictates of their own hearts. I am glad to say, for the most part, those dictates were in line with God's Word.

Now how does all this apply to the struggle in Vietnam? I would like us to go back about 95 years, to that time when France came to Southeast Asia. Their goal was wealth and they found it in the little countries we now call Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam. These areas were tied together by the French and became a colonial possession of this great European country. Things went quite well for the French for about 70 years, but the people, particularly of Vietnam, became very agitated and restless. They no longer wanted the French to be their leaders and lords. They wanted to be free from the colonialism that France had imposed upon them. It was about that time that a nationalistic organization called the Viet-Minh began to form and make an impact in the French controlled colony of French Indo China. Unfortunately, as the months progressed, the Viet-Minh was taken over by Ho-Chi-Minh and what we now call the Vietcong. So the Vietcong was now the organization that the French had to deal with, and this was not a nationalistic group — this was a communist organization.

The war that followed was long and costly and finally in 1954 in that famed battle of Dien-Bien-Phu, the French were defeated. They had lost the war and their colony. For the French it was total defeat. They were out. They lost everything. They were finished.

But the Vietnamese people were still divided. There was that group headed by Ho-Chi-Minh who had their headquarters in the Northern Capital of Hanoi. Then there were other people who for many years (70 years of French rule) didn't know how to organize their own democracy, but they did know they didn't want to live under communism. This led to the Geneva Convention, and in July 1954 it was decided that at the 17th parallel this nation would be divided. The northern half of the country would be a communist state, and the southern half of the country would be free.

So there was a division of Vietnam. It was a division that divided the country geographically and also from the standpoint of population. It left about 12 million people in the North and 12 million people in the South.

The following weeks were hectic. Those who wanted to live under communism could move to the North and those who wanted to live in a free society could move to the South. Nobody went to the North, but over one million people fled to the South. They didn't want to live in a communist state. They didn't want to live under Ho-Chi-Minh, so they moved to the South. This then was the picture — the French government had lost its hold on Indo China. North Vietnam was communistic and South Vietnam was free. Then why the conflict today? People have already decided where they want to live and the kind of government they want. Why the conflict? What's going on in Southeast Asia?

I think the reason is so obvious that most of us have missed it. We have failed to understand that the struggle that is really going on in Vietnam; the problem behind the whole situation is not a matter of one faction within the country wanting this kind of government and the other faction wanting another kind of government. That was decided in July 1954, in Geneva. That was settled. What is the problem?

I think the problem is very simple: the agitation in the South today is just one more step toward international communism.

I read a book last week in which the author tells of a memorandum that was sent by Chairman Mao Tse-Tung in 1953 at the hand of Chou En-lai to the leader of the Soviet Republic, Joseph Stalin. This memorandum actually was a time table of world conquest for communism. It was a blueprint. The information in this communique was reported to have been intercepted by a friendly agent, and was given to Senator William F. Knowland who in turn presented it to our United States Congress.

Frankly, I have read so many stories in recent months that I found out later were a little distorted and some of them were not true, that I made up my mind I had to know the truth about this communique. So I traced Mr. Knowland. He is no longer a senator but is the President and Publisher of the Oakland Tribune in Oakland, California. In a telephone conversation I asked him about this communique. He assured me that it was presented to Congress and that before the day ended he would have a copy of that communique in the mail. I am glad to say I received that communique and I have it here. I want to share it with you.

When Mr. Knowland received this Communique he presented it at a session of Congres with this introduction:

"Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the body of the Record, as a part of my remarks, some information which came to me purporting to be an outline of Mao Tse-tung's memorandum of the new program for world revolution, carried to Moscow by Chou En-lai in March of 1953. I believe the information substantially states the communist policy on world revolution. In any event, I think the Senate may find this matter of interest."

In all honesty I should make this statement. Because this document was placed in the Congressional Record does not mean that Congress took any action. As a matter of fact, they did not take any action, and this record has almost laid dormant in Washington from that day to this. But Mao Tse-tung's memorandum was presented to Congress April 29, 1954, 13 months after it was sent from Chairman Mao of China to Joseph Stalin in Russia.

This memorandum is in eleven sections, actually there are eleven different steps that Chairman Mao outlined for the possession of the world. We don't have time to read all of these steps as each one involves a paragraph or two, but in brief, here is the outline:

Step number one — Asia to be the immediate goal.

Step number two — World war is to be temporarily avoided.

China Doesn't want a world war — at least not right now.

Step number three — Diplomatic offensive.

Step number four — Military preparedness.

Step number five — Korean War.

Step number six — Formosa.

Step number seven — Indochina. And this is the paragraph I do want to read. Remember Chairman Mao is speaking.

"We shall give the maximum assistance to our comrades and friends in Indochina. The experiences we have had in Korea should enrich their knowledge in fighting for liberation. The case of Indochina cannot be compared with that of China. In Indochina, as in Korea there is serious intervention of the capitalist bloc, while in China there was nothing so direct and vigorous. The experience in Korea tells us that so long as there is foreign intervention and so long as we have no naval support, military operations alone cannot achieve the objective of liberation.

"The military operations in Indochina should be carried out to such an extent as to make the war extremely unpopular among the French people and to make the French and Americans extremely hateful among the Indochinese people. The object is to force the French to back out of Indochina preferably through the face-saving means of an armistice. Once foreign intervention is out of the picture vigorous propaganda, infiltration, forming united fronts with the progressive elements in and outside the reactionary regimes will accelerate the process of liberation. A final stroke of force will accomplish the task. Two years may be needed for this work."

When the memorandum was given, Chairman Mao had certain plans not only concerning the possession of the North but of the South. Apparently he envisioned there would be a serious problem and that two years would be necessary to break down this resistance.

Step number eight goes on to include the neighboring nations — Burma, Thailand, Indonesia and Malay Peninsula. Chairman Mao says, "After the liberation of Indochina, Burma will fall in line as good foundation has already been laid there. The then reactionary ruling clique in Thailand will capitulate and the country will be in the hands of the people. The liberation of Indonesia, which will fall to Communist camp as a ripe fruit, will complete the circle around the Malay Peninsula".

This falls in line with General Eisenhower's statemnt of the Falling Domino principle. In other words, once South Vietnam is gone, then you cannot hold the rest of Southeast Asia. The next step would be Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, Burma, the Malay Peninsula, Singapore, Indonesia (which is now called Malasia) and the Philippines.

Mr. Eisenhower concurred with this — that once South Vietnam is gone you might as well wave goodbye to all of Southeast Asia. The Communists know this too, and this is why they are so anxious to win South Vietnam but they are behind schedule, for Chairman Mao went on to say:

"The British will realize under these circumstances the hopelessness of putting up a fight and will withdraw as quickly as they can. We expect that the whole process will be completed in or before 1960".

They are off schedule. And what has thrown them off schedule? They did not think the United States would do what we are doing in South Vietnam.

I would like to say again, although I know it is in opposition to the way most American preachers feel, that as I have observed this situation, one of the most noble efforts we have made as a country in recent years has been our involvement to save a struggling little nation that has already made up its mind. It does not want to live under the tyranny of communism.

It has taken a bit of fortitude for President Johnson and those working with him to continue down this road with all the opposition they have received, and of all the people, from the so called church more than anybody. (I use the term church in its loosest sense.) I think we should be praying for our President and for our nation. Our President knows, as Chairman Mao knows and the whole Communist bloc knows that there is more involved that just saving a little nation, now numbering something like 16 million people in South Vietnam.

In 1965 Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was interviewed by the U.S. News and World Report and he made this statement:

"Every American should go to the Congressional record and read there a report submitted by William Knowland of a document of the plans of the Communists of China. Though interrupted here and there it is on schedule and in the main we are seeing this fulfilled."

The Generalissimo was referring to the document I just read to you.

In light of all this, I am amazed that we have men in high places who continue to talk about this unnecessary war. This senseless war. This immoral war. If war is immoral then put all of them in the same category, but don't take this war out of that concept. World War I, World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, put them all together. The stakes are just as high. Either we face it now or we will have to face it some day.

I was amazed that a very distinguished Governor, whom all of you know, made a statement that was nearly as unthinkable as some of the statements from our senators. He said the only thing to do now is to neutralize Vietnam. Frankly, I don't understand his thinking. To neutralize, according to the Communist vocabulary, is absolute victory. How can you neutralize Vietnam? It is already divided in half. The people have already decided what they want. We must face the issue as it is and stop this verbal nonsense.

As we conclude may I turn your thoughts again to the Word of God. Frankly there are no direct references in the Bible to Vietnam, but there are some indirect prophecies I wish to leave with you.

Our Lord Jesus tells us in Matthew 24, verses 6 and 7 — "And of shall hear of wars and rumours of wars; see that ye be not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places.

Consider these verses:

Daniel 11:44 "But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble Him: Therefore He shall go forth with great fury to destroy and utterly to make away many. "

Revelation 16:12 "And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the ways of the kings of the east might be prepared."

Please keep in mind that usually when directions are give in scripture they are associated with the land of Israel. When you read North, it usually means North of Israel; East means East of Israel. So the verses we have just read speak of those nations to the East of Palestine.

The day is coming when the anti-Christ will gather together on the plains of Megiddo the greatest army that has ever been assembled. His object will be to destroy the tiny nation of Israel. It's at this time that God will intervene. That one sided battle between God and the great army of the anti-Christ is pictured for us in Revelation, chapter 19. It is called the battle of Armageddon. The church will have been raptured at least 7 years prior, so this battle actually concludes the end of the tribulation period and will be the introduction to Christ's reign of peace and righteousness here on the earth.

One might ask, what does the present conflict in Vietnam have to do with the future struggle in the Holy Land. Let me repeat, there are no direct references in scripture to the tiny little nation of Vietnam, but may I suggest the leaders of North Vietnam, as the leaders of China, and North Korea might well fall under the category "Kings of the East".

Another interesting observation appeared in the last issue of U.S. News and World Report. "Communist success in South Vietnam is having an impact on Arab states that are anxious for revenge against Israel for their loss of the June war. Observes one Arab leader: "The Vietcong heroism in Vietnam reveals to us Arabs the potential effectiveness of the armed struggle in Palestine."

The events of the past few months and the prospects of the coming days might well bring discouragement to the hearts of Christians were it not for these prophetical words from the lips of our Saviour.

Matthew 24:6 "And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet".

For you who have never received God's crucified, resurrected Son as your Lord and Saviour, may I urge you to open your heart by simple faith. Those who have Christ as Saviour not only have the promise of Eternal Life but the peace that He offers to us in this life. One of His final promises before going to the cross is found in John 14:27 — "Peace I leave with you My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

If you don't know this wonderful promise of peace, may I encourage you to open your heart to Him today. He is waiting to enter upon your invitation.

MEXICO CITY — National heroes, honored in countries around the world, arise out of the World Olympics. In most European countries especially Russia and in other lands such as Japan, the champions of this the greatest competition in the world, are often welcomed on the same level as political or military heroes.

Just for qualifying in one of the heats of a track event this week in Olympic Stadium, a large contingent of Japanese visitors mobbed their entry and escorted him to the bus going back to the Olympic village.

The Australians in the crowd cheered and huddled around one of their contestants who just qualified for the 800 meter event, and the Mexicans, about 70,000 strong, stood in standing ovation screaming "Martinez, Mexico" for Juan Martinez for finishing fourth in the gruelling 10,000 meter run.

This is national pride at its height, a feeling which makes the spectator choke, which brings goose pimples to the flesh and tears to the eyes of the competitors and their families and friends . . . it's not just winning a medal.

And the idea of individualism which they say is the essence of the Olympics is a bunch of bunk.

NATIONAL PRIDE

True, it's the individual against the world, but it's the pride of representing your country against a 105 countries of the world which resounds in the voices of the crowd and in the heart of the competitors.

The City of Pontiac has been fortunate to have had a representative in three straight Olympics now, and a bronze and gold medal to show off as result of Hayes Jones' triumphs in 1960 and 1964.

Thursday, Pontiac will have another representative, Micki King, to challenge the greatest women divers in the world. As a 16-year-old at Pontiac Central in 1960, Miss King had the courage to make an Olympic bid in the trials and failed. She missed in 1964 but, ever more determined, she has now reached the goal she set eight years ago.

GOOD CHANCE

The chances of Micki winning a medal are excellent; the possibility of a gold medal are tough, but good. The encouragement Micki needs must come from her hometown, just as hometowns of all of the athletes from U.S.A. need to give their kids, when their hour of competition comes up.

Micki will be nervous and she'll be tense when she takes the 3-meter board for the first time Thursday evening, and the butterflies could make her float off the board should she reach the finals Friday night. Her coach, Dick Kimball, the excellent U. of Michigan ex-diver and now coach, has to be the psychologist to temper nervousness as well as her teacher.

"At 5 p.m. Thursday when the contestants take their positions, there's nothing more I will be able to do," said Kimball. "Eight long years of hard work for Micki will reach a peak.

"Pontiac should feel proud to have had a contestant in the Olympics for the third straight time, and if Micki should win a medal, possibly gold, it will be an accomplishment not too many cities in Michigan could boast about," he said.

In Pontiac, a former schoolmate of Micki's, Bruce Norvell, himself an outstanding swimmer who has many times known the feeling of nervousness and of winning, has undertaken the task of getting the city residents behind Micki.

SEARCH NOT NEEDED

By unbelievable coincidence, when this writer walked into Olympic Village faced with an almost impossible task of trying to locate Micki from among the 7,300 athletes, it was a shock when we almost ran head on into each other coming around the corners of a building.

"I can't believe it," I said. "Here I am figuring at least a few hours of trying to find you and I bump into you."

Micki was equally as startled, but excited to see someone from Pontiac. I got the feeling that Micki felt alone in her greatest moment of her life. Of course I knew what Bruce Norvell and her friends in Pontiac were doing in getting a telegram crusade going to boost her morale.

Of course we don't know how the people of Pontiac will respond to what may seem a minor, yet mighty big thing on signing their name to a telegram which Micki can take to poolside with her.

This is nothing to what the city of Grand Rapids has done for its Olympic entry, Ron Kutschinski. But it will do something for Micki when she takes the board and the public address says:

"Micki King, from Pontiac, Michigan, U.S.A."

MEDAL WINNER — Jimmy Hines of the United States (279) breaks the tape to win the 100-meter dash yesterday in Olympic Games competition in Mexico City. Second was Lennox Miller (536) of Jamaica, with Charlie Greene (right) of the United States third and Montes Casanova (207) of Cuba fourth.

Jim Cracks Olympic Mark With 9.9 in 100 Meters

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Bob Hayes, the speedy flanker of the Dallas Cowboys, can now look back at "what was."

The title of "the world's fastest man" now must belong to Jim Hines, 22-year-old senior at Texas Southern, who set the world and Olympic record with a 9.9 time in the 100-meter dash of the 19th Olympics here yesterday.

The sweep of the 100-meter event as many figured might happen never came about. However, the United States took the gold and bronze medal in this event and the gold and silver medal in the shot put finale yesterday.

Hines, who had a 9.9 clocking along with Charlie Greene on sea level time, went 10.0 flat in the semifinals earlier.

The final was a thriller as Hines edged Lennox Miller of Jamaica and Greene, who were both clocked at 10.0 flat to tie the record which existed. Miller was awarded the silver medal.

Capt. Mel Pender, 30-year-old veteran of the '64 Olympics, was among four with a 10.1 time and he finished sixth among the eight finalists.

There were five runners tied at 10.0 previously as world record holders including Hines and Hayes. Hines and Greene both had pending marks of 9.9 awaiting approval from U.S. competition.

Matson, the 6-foot-6½ strongman from Texas who shattered the Olympic shot put record Sunday on his first preliminary toss with a distance of 67 feet 10¼ inches, breaking the Olympic mark of Dallas Long four years ago in Tokyo at 66-8½, didn't match his preliminary toss. However, he and George Woods of Southern Illinois finished 1-2 ahead of Soviet's Eduard Gushchin.

Matson's toss was 67-4¾ feet while Woods shot went 66-0¼ feet.

David Maggard of Santa Clara took fifth place as the third U.S. entry.

MISSED FINALS

In the semifinals of the 800-meter run, Ron Kutschinski of Grand Rapids faltered at the finish and missed qualifying for the finals today.

Australia's Ralph Boubell led the semifinalists with a 1:45.7 clocking in a sizzling race with Wilson Kiprugut of Kenya at 1:45.8 and Josef Placy of Czechoslovakia in 1:45.9.

Tom Farrell, 24, of New York was the lone American to qualify in the event which will be decided today. Farrell took fourth in the heat with 1:46.1.

Kutschinski was clocked at 1:47.3 bettering his Sunday preliminary time of 1:47.6 but it was good enough for only fifth place in his heat which was led by Germany's Walter Adams in 1:46.4.

This was an interesting heat as will be the finals with Adams going against East Germany entry Dieter Fromm. Fromm was second in the heat with 1:46.5.

THREE EVENTS

Today's excitement in track will be centered on the men's 400-meter finals, the women's 100-meter finals and the finale of 800-meter dash for men.

Three Americans took the honors in the 100-meter prelims for women yesterday, all tying the Olympic record at 11.2.

The final today looks like a 1-2-3 sweep for the American girls with Wyomia Tyus of Tennessee State and Barbara Farrell of Los Angeles holding the current world mark of 11.1.

Margaret Bailes, who also went 11.2 yesterday, could complete the sweep today. Miss Tyus is Olympic defending champion of the event, having won in Tokyo in 1964.

RECORD TOSS — Jay Silvester of the United States winds up for his discus qualifying throw yesterday in the Olympic Games which set a new record of 207 feet, 1½ inches. The old mark was 200 feet, 1½ inches, set by Al Oerter of the United States in 1964.

Royals, Pilots Hunt Baseball Talent

BOSTON (AP) — The Kansas City Royals and the Seattle Pilots, getting ready for a 1969 entry into the American League pennant race, went talent-hunting at a cost of $5.125 million each today in a generous expansion draft.

"There is a tremendous amount of good young players on the unprotected lists," Seattle General Manager Marvin Milkes said on the eve of the Pilots' and Royals' raids on the league's 10 established clubs.

"This draft will be just the start of things," Milkes predicted. "We'll make deals later."

Seattle won the toss of a coin flipped by AL President Joe Cronin. However, the Pilots exercised an option and gave Kansas City the first draft choice in order to take the second and third selections.

"We think we can do better by getting the second and third choices," Dewey Soriano, the Pilots' president, explained.

The 10 established clubs were permitted to protect only 15 players each in their far-flung organizations. That left plenty of solid players, as well as promising youngsters, available for Kansas City and Seattle.

BETTER OUTLOOK

Although they will pay $175,000 for each of 30 players drafted, the two new entries in the American League should fare much better than expansion clubs in past years.

"There is plenty of talent available," Harry Dalton of the Baltimore Orioles said. "This is going to hurt all of us. Anytime an organization loses six players in one day it has to hurt."

Opinions differed on whether the two new clubs would go for veterans or youth in the draft. Most agreed that Kansas City and Seattle would go after proven talent at the start and then lean towards promising youngsters.

"I don't want to even think about it, but I guess I have to," said Manager Mayo Smith, who still is on Cloud Nine after leading the Detroit Tigers to a World Series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. "Everyone is going to lose good ballplayers."

The Tigers have been forced to expose such players as pitchers Joe Sparma and Don McMahon and infielders Ray Oyler and Tom Matchik, all of whom helped the club to the pennant.

2 Club Owners in NL Satisfied

MONTREAL (AP) Buzzy Bavasi and John McHale, the National League's newest club presidents, are much happier with the players they acquired in this year's expansion draft than they would have been with the players they gave away eight years ago in the original expansion draft.

"I'm not satisfied with the price we paid," said Bavasi, who has moved on from Los Angeles' general manager to president of the new San Diego Padres.

Each of the new clubs paid $10 million for entry into the National League, or $333,333.33 for each of the 60 players grabbed off Monday in the first half of the two-day, two-country sessions that stocked baseball's four newest teams.

McHale's Montreal club went heavy for the veteran player while Bavasi's San Diego club looked to youth as they selected three players from each of the 10 existing clubs.

OVER 30

It was not until their 19th pick — outfielder Tony Gonzalez of Philadelphia — that the Padres took their only player over 30 years old. By that time, the Expos had taken six.

The Expos raided the Pittsburgh Pirates for three of the over-30 players, grabbing outfielder Manny Mota, first baseman Donn Clendenon and infielder Maury Wills, a former Most Valuable Player award-winner, among their first dozen picks.

The Padres, meanwhile, went for only two players closing in on 30, St. Louis pitcher Dave Giusti and shortstop Zoilo Versalles of Los Angeles, like Wills a former MVP winner.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Quarterback Bart Starr was listed Monday as a questionable starter for the Green Bay Packers in their National Football League game Sunday at Detroit with the Lions.

Jogging Course Opened for Conditioning Buffs

In what kind of physical shape would you consider yourself? Excellent? Good? Poor? Blah?

If you're in the excellent group, probably occasional exercise will help you maintain that condition. If you're in one of the other categories, then you might be interested in a program launched this week by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

It's a program for mom, dad and the kids and you won't need a lot of fancy equipment to participate in it.

It's a jogging course, located at Hawthorne Park on Walton Boulevard, and it'll be open daily from noon until 6 p.m.

Jogging — just a slow run, a comfortable pace — has caught on around the country and it's a means for maintaining good physical condition.

TWO COURSES

The Parks and Recreation Department has laid out two courses at the park — a one-half mile red course and a one mile blue course. Markers are located along the course to keep the joggers on the right track.

Sweat clothes and tennis shoes are recommended attire while using the course.

WEATHER A FACTOR

Operation of the course will depend on weather conditions. Weather permitting, an attendant will be on duty during the 12-6 hours. Lavatories will also be open during those hours.

Books on conditioning will be available while the attendant is on duty. In the immediate area of the jogging courses, there are shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits, playground equipment and a picnic area.

Touring Golf Pros Win Court Point

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Dissident professional golfers won a court skirmish Monday in their effort to form a tour to rival Professional Golf Association-sponsored tournaments.

Chief Judge Caleb M. Wright of the U.S. District Court set aside a temporary restraining order and freed the newly-formed American Professional Golfers to sign up tournament sponsors and organize a 1969 tournament schedule.

British Sailors Sunk by Games Protest Jury

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — In a midnight decision after hours of deliberation, the International Yacht Racing Jury Monday night nullified England's victory in the first Flying Dutchman Class race of the Olympic Regatta.

The decision, which came as a result of a protest by Canadian Rogers Stewart Green, threw out the first place gained by British Flying Dutchman European champion Rodney Pattison and Iain MacDonald Mason Smith.

The ruling against the Englishmen, who have been the favorites to win a gold medal in the event, arose from a port-and-starboard tacking incident at the start of the first race of the seven-race series.

The disqualification raised West Germany's Ullrich Libor and Peter Maumann to first place and Norway's Bjorn and Odd Lofterod to second place. Australia's Carl Ryves and Dick Sargeant moved to third place.

For the two English competitors, the disqualification means they earn no points whatsoever for their first effort. Since each competing boat is allowed to "throw away" the worst of its seven races, this is obviously the one the British sailors will choose.

Laver Leading Choice

NEW YORK (UPI) — Professional Rod Laver of Australia was the unanimous No. 1 choice in the current balloting for the Martini and Rossi tennis player-of-the-year.

Ken Rosewall, another Australian pro, was second and Lt. Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va. moved up to third.

NBA Opens With One Game

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Bulls and the New York Knicks get a head start on the rest of the National Basketball Association teams by breaking the ice all by themselves tonight.

The Los Angeles Lakers, on the other hand, figure they can wait until April for the champagne.

The Bulls and Knicks open the 23rd NBA season in New York and the rest of the teams all get into action by Saturday night. And while New York is a prime contender for the Eastern Division crown this year, the Lakers appear—on paper—to be a shoo-in for the NBA title.

Los Angeles now has a trio of superstars—center Wilt Chamberlain, guard Jerry West and forward Elgin Baylor. Many consider the Lakers to be the most powerful team in NBA history.

Chamberlain, who once scored 100 points in a game and pulled down 55 rebounds another time and has been voted Most Valuable Player three times in nine pro years, was acquired by Los Angeles in a 3-for-1 deal during the off-season. The Lakers shipped guard Archie Clark, center Darrall Imhoff and forward Jerry Chambers to Philadelphia.

CLOSE RACE

The Lakers appear to have the Western Division crown all to themselves, but a three-way race shapes up in the Eastern Division among Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

Although Chamberlain-less, the 76ers still are strong enough to repeat as division champs.

Jack Ramsay, in his first year as a pro coach, promises a less-stilted brand of basketball for the Philadelphia fans. Ramsay says the 76ers will shoot more from the outside and run, run, run.

The Knicks, with as good a group of young players around today, will probably give the 76ers a lot of trouble. Then there's Boston, who usually wins it every year, anyhow—despite claims they are aging.

Two expansion teams join the league—Milwaukee and Phoenix. Also, five new coaches will be in the NBA—Ramsay with Philadelphia; Dick Motta (Chicago); Larry Costello (Milwaukee); George Lee (San Francisco) and John "Red" Kerr (Phoenix).

RULE CHANGE

One major rule change will be in the books this year, allowing only one 20-second injury time-out each half for a team.

Detroit opens at Baltimore, Chicago is at Milwaukee and Cincinnati at Atlanta on Wednesday night. Seattle plays San Diego Thursday and Boston is at Detroit, Los Angeles at Philadelphia, Seattle at Phoenix and San Diego at San Francisco Friday.

Tourney Lures Top Golf Pros

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Three hundred golfers, the top 100 of them professionals, set siege on par today in the first 18 of 36 holes of pro-amateur competition, prelude to the $122,222 Sahara Invitational.

A purse of $22,222 will be divided between the pros. Thursday they will get down to serious business in the $100,000, 72-hole medal play tournament.

The pro-am is played over two courses, the Paradise Valley Country Club and Municipal Golf Club. Paradise, 7,142 yards long, with par 36-36—72, is the setting for the tournament proper.

John Cullen scored twice Sunday in leading Our Lady of Refuge of Orchard Lake to a 26-13 win over Pontiac St. Benedict in Catholic Youth Organization football.

Cullen also tossed a nine-yard scoring strike to Dick Mineweaser, and Brad Almas scored the other on a one-yard run.

State Runner Slow Starter

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY, Mex. — Former Birmingham Seaholm student Jack Bachelor has very little to show in the way of records or honors while in high school.

In fact, even of his college days at Miami of Ohio, he says, "There's really nothing exceptional about my track experience except that I finished 10th in the NCAA in cross-country one year."

IN LONG RACE

Today, Bachelor and Detroiter Louis Scott get their first taste of Olympic competition when they compete in the 5,000 meter preliminaries.

The leading U.S. contender in the event is Bob Day, an Army private who led the Olympic trials at Lake Tahoe, although he and Bachelor were both clocked in 14:37.4.

KENYAN FAVORED

The Kenyan, Natali Temu, who won the 10,000-meter run Sunday, is naturally the favorite when the finals are staged Thursday.

Bachelor, who is studying for his doctorate in etymology at the University of Florida, never started running at Seaholm until his senior year under coach Kermit Ambrose in 1962.

"I never really hit my peak until after I left Miami," he said, "and I just didn't want to quit after I left college."

He obtained his masters degree this year from Florida and at the time he entered the U.S. Olympic trials he said, "I was running from 80 to 85 miles a week."

"After the trials and up to the past weekend, I think I was going about 100 to 105 miles a week," he added.

LITTLE EXPECTED

"I guess we're not expected to do much in this event against the Kenyan's and Ethiopians," he said, "but I feel I'm as ready as I'll ever be because the high altitude training at Tahoe really helped.

"There are about 35 runners in the world who have faster times than we do at sea level, but I'm going to give it a real try today," he added.

WIFE ON HAND

His wife, Jeanne of Dayton, is planning to be in the audience today at Olympic stadium.

Scott on the other hand collected a host of records in Detroit and state track while at Eastern High School.

CITY MARK

He holds the Detroit city mile and half mile records and set a state record in 1963 with a 4:13.2 in the mile. A year earlier he went 4.17.4 in the state and matched his state time in the mile in the Detroit city meet.

At Arizona State, he ran the mile and two mile and when he left school with his degree in 1966, he said, "I decided to lay off track for awhile I was very tired and ill."

"I started thinking about the Olympics last year and was real happy about making the team in the trials," he said. He finished third at Tahoe, but he said that "if the wind is down he could do better than he did at Tahoe."

"The wind is tough for a little guy," he added noting he was only 5-7 compared to Bachelor at 6-1.

Scott has plans to teach in the Detroit school system, because after the Olympics he says, "I'll give up distance running."

TORTURE TWIST — The face of Mexico's Jose Pedraza (20) reflects the strain as he tries to catch gold medal winner Vladimir Golubnichiy of Russia at the finish line yesterday in the Olympic Games' 20,000-meter walk. Golubnichiy was timed in 1 hour, 33 minutes, 58.4 seconds. Pedraza was in at 1:34:00.0. Third was Nickolay Smaga of the Soviet Union.

U.S., Russian Fives Best in '68 Games

MEXICO CITY — The basketball powers in the 19th Olympics are making themselves known, and the way they are running up scores, the coaches in the states would call it "pouring it on."

The United States team routed Senegal, 93-36, and today Uncle Sam's quintet faces twice beaten Philippines, a 108-79 loser to Spain yesterday.

Russia continued its mastery of the lower bracket by walloping Morocco, 123-51, while Brazil stayed unbeaten in the same bracket in trouncing Bulgaria, 75-59.

As it now appears, Russia and Brazil could be the semifinalists while Puerto Rico and Yugoslavia offer the closest challenge to the U.S. in the upper bracket.

Yugoslavia defeated Puerto Rico 93-72 in their meeting last night.

RESERVES PLAY

Haywood Spencer once again led the U.S. with 16 points as Coach Hank Iba substituted freely. The U.S. led 44-15 at halftime.

Former Ohio State Bill Hoskett chipped in with 14 and Charles Scott, a junior at North Carolina, added 12.

The Soviets showed no mercy in their rout of Morocco, leading, 51-30, at halftime and adding 72 points in the second half with seven double figure shooters led by 6-9 Anatoli Polivoda with 21.

Haywood calls Polivoda the Soviet's best player. The 7-2 beanpole Andreev Vladimir had only six points. The Russians should have an equally easy time against Korea today.

Shakeup in State Prep Rankings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

None of the 10 leaders in last week's Class D Associated Press High School Football Poll of sports writers remain in the same position this week, as upsets and big victories over the weekend forced a complete reshuffling of the standings.

However, the Class A, B, and C polls remained relatively stable.

Potterville, which was in first last week with 130 points was upset by Webberville 19-6 and fell to fifth place. Webberville, meanwhile, entered the top ten by moving to ninth.

Unionville, second last week, lost to Akron-Fairgrove 12-7 and dropped to sixth.

Atlanta took over first place with 103 points, just edging out Ecorse St. Francis Xavier by two points. St. Francis, sixth last week, had an easy time defeating Anchor Bay Catholic 32-0.

POINT TOTAL

Points are given on a 10 for first, nine for second, etc., basis.

Battle Creek Central and Midland continue to run 1-2 in Class A, with Detroit Denby moving up from fifth to third after the Tars defeated Detroit Northern 35-12.

The only change in the top five in Class B is between Riverview and Mount Clemens Clintondale. They were fourth and third respectively last week but switched places.

Sturgis and Reed City are newcomers into the top 10, while Kalamazoo Hackett and Lansing Gabriels dropped into the also rans column. Hackett lost 33-12 to Muskegon and Gabriels was betaen 12-6 by Howell.

Battle Creek Springfield moved up to fifth place in Class C behind Flint Holy Redeemer, which moved up a notch from its fifth place spot of last week.

Despite a 25-13 victory over Bay City All Saints, Saginaw Sts. Peter & Paul fell from fourth to sixth.

Tiger Series Film Ready for Showing

DETROIT (AP)—Highlights of the Detroit Tigers World Series victory will soon be available to civic groups, clubs and organizations in a 30-minute sound color film.

The film available Nov. 15, compiles vidio tape and filmed highlights. The National Bank of Detroit is picking up the tab for the film.

The bank and the Detroit Tigers office will have a limited number of these films for public showing. Requests are now being taken.

U.S. College Nine Entering World Tourney

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —The names of the 18 collegiate players to compete in the Mexican International Baseball Tournament next month have been released by Danny Litwhiler, Michigan State coach and coach of the U.S. Baseball Federation team.

The tourney will be played Nov. 2-10 following the Olympic Games at Mexico City. Expected to compete in the round robin tourney are Cuba, Mexico, Puerto Rico and the United States.

"This tournament is not actually a part of the Olympic Games because baseball is not yet an official Olympic event," Litwhiler said. "We are holding it with the idea of getting it into the games in the future.

Litwhiler said the tourney will be held after the Olympics, which run through Oct. 26, because sponsors did not want to do anything to detract from the Olympic Games.

Litwhiler said players included in the roster include three 1968 NCAA All-Americans and four others honored on all-district teams.

Lake Orion Wins in Cross-Country

Chuck Hopper, Dave Stenquist and Mike Baranowski ran one-two-three yesterday to pace Lake Orion's 21-34 cross-country victory over Waterford Mott. Hopper was clocked at 11:17.

Jim Drogosch ran fourth and Roger Strader fifth for Mott (3-6).

Buckeyes Stopped Purdue Stars

Defense Sparks Ranked Gridiron Teams

By DUFFY DAUGHERTY
Head Football Coach
Michigan State University

With the college football season nearing the halfway mark and the mythical championship up for grabs among several fine teams you can look for the defense to rear its ugly head more often.

The trend is starting to reverse itself to the point where one or two mistakes by a high scoring team can lead to disaster. Two intercepted passes helped unseat Purdue from its No. 1 location and has put Ohio State in the driver's seat.

Southern California, Penn State, Kansas, Tennessee and Arkansas have every right to dispute this reasoning because each has ambitions for top recognition nationally.

But Ohio State came up with the greatest defensive effort in the long regime of Woody Hayes. As we mentioned last week Woody and his Buckeyes can be mighty tough when they have a whole year to prepare for you. They certainly prepared for Purdue which had averaged 41 points a game. I would have thought it impossibly to hold the Boilermakers scoreless.

TOP CHOICE

This one game isn't the end of the season but the 13-0 victory over Purdue means that Ohio State is now the choice to take the Big Ten championship.

The schedule the rest of the way favors the Buckeyes for they do not meet Indiana or Minnesota. And since Ohio State is loaded with fine sophomore talent it figures to become even stronger as the season wears on.

By holding the great Leroy Keyes to 19 yards in seven carries on the ground the Buckeyes also may have ended the speculation of a Rose Bowl confrontation between Keyes and Southern California's O. J. Simpson.

Meanwhile, Simpson, with 12 touchdowns in four games, has gained a comfortable edge in the race for the coveted Heisman award. His big test will come late in November when the Trojans face the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

There's an old adage in football which is apropo to Ohio State's defense. Before you can win a football game you must keep from losing it. I have to believe Woody Hayes insisted that his Buckeyes apply this theory against Purdue.

BALL CONTROL

Ohio State apparently had great ball control in gaining the ground yardage that they did — 333 yards. When this happens it means your defense gets the breathing room so necessary in two platoon football. The defense seems to rise to its zenith while waiting on the sidelines to take over.

However, ball control always isn't the difference. Our Spartans ran off 90 plays against a fine Michigan team's 55. We outgained them but they outscored us. Ball control pays off only when you take advantage of the times you get inside of your opponent's 30-yard line.

Ball control also pays off when your team has the kind of a defense Ohio State employes. Hold your rival on the ground, force him into the air and then capitalize on the interception.

JOHN LaMOTTE

Ex-PCH Swimmer in YMCA Position

Former Pontiac Central swimming star John LaMotte has been promoted to director of physical fitness at the downtown branch of the YMCA in St. Paul, Minn.

A graduate of George Williams College, LaMotte worked at the Milwaukee YMCA before moving to St. Paul.

Injuries Thin Flanker Ranks for Michigan

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan came out of its 28-14 weekend victory over Michigan State with only a single healthy flankerback. Junior John Gabler, who had just recovered from a neck injury suffered three weesk ago, suffered badly bruised ribs Saturday and may not be ready for Indiana this weekend. Sophomore flankerback Paul Staroba still has not recovered from a slight shoulder separation two weeks ago, leaving sophomore Jim Betts alone on the flanks. Michigan's fourth flankerback, David Farabee, was lost for the season when he suffered a broken arm in the opening game against California.

Volleyball Starts

Waterford Township will commence its men's volleyball program tonight at 7 o'clock in the gymnasium at Pierce Junior High School.

All men desiring to participate should attend the session this evening or contact the Waterford Township Recreation Office at 674-0376.

The GOOD GUYS are turning up the fever

All-New 1969 DODGE POLARA

The low-priced field takes a brand-new shape...
Just when other cars are trying to catch up to Polara's size, the Good Guys pull a fast one. 1969 Dodge Polara. It's still bigger and more powerful than its competitors—with an all-new shape that puts it way ahead of other low-priced cars.

with a new luxury feel...
Polara moves way ahead in luxury, too. All-new instrument panel. Foam-padded seats. Carpeting. Concealed windshield wipers. They're all standard. Along with a big 230-hp V8.

and more room to enjoy it.
For years, Polara's given you more room inside than other low-priced cars. This year's Polara's even better. With more shoulder room, hiproom and rear legroom. See the Good Guys and their all-new Polara. They'll show you how you don't have to be rich to go "big car."

By FLETCHER SPEARS

The Press' fearless football forecasters — members of the Swami Association — are a little red-faced after overlooking Novi's football team two weeks in a row.

While the Swamis were busy proclaiming the demise of Novi at the hands of Waterford Mott and Bloomfield Hills Lahser on successive weekends, the Wildcats were just as busily preparing themselves for the 'upsets' which they administered to both Mott and Lahser.

The Swamis are now convinced that, perhaps, they were not upsets. The opinion now is that the Wildcats have a pretty fair team.

Novi is Class C and many of the schools on the schedule are bigger. With a tough slate, the Wildcats have posted a 4-1 record, winning four in a row after losing to Hartland in their opener, 18-13.

"The kids have good spirit. They work well together," says coach John Osborne, 29, a product of Alma where he played football and baseball.

LONG ASSOCIATION

Osborne has had most of these players since they were seventh graders. "You'd think it's time we were winning, wouldn't you?" he asks with a laugh.

* * *

"I felt we could have won that first game. I think we lost it because of coaching on my part. I could see it in practice. I had the feeling we weren't getting across to the kids.

GOOD CHANGES

"We made some changes then," Osborne explained. The changes made gave his offensive players an opportunity to get a breather during the game and Osborne said it paid off.

* * *

"Our strong point . . . I guess I'd have to say it's our work in the line. We play ball control and we can do it because of the strong line. Same for the defensive line."

This week, Novi entertains Ypsilanti Roosevelt. The Swamis have agreed that Novi should win. The 'Cats have convinced them.

TOP FINISH

Pontiac Northern's fourth place finish in the Oakland County cross-country meet Saturday was the school's best performance in that event . . . top 15 individual runners in that meet represent an All-County team.

A couple of former Bloomfield Hills Andover players had a hand in Leelanau's 13-6 upset win over Mesick last week. Gary Anderson scored twice on runs of 60 and 45 yards, while Jim Schmidt spearheaded the defense.

Press photographer Ron Unternahrer was a minor casualty at the Michigan-Michigan State game Saturday at Ann Arbor. Ron, while impartial, still was a lukewarm MSU rooter. While shooting from the sidelines, a play came his way and he suffered a spike wound on his left ankle . . . by a Michigan player.

Ferndale continues to head the Top Ten list of football teams in Oakland County. This week:

1. Ferndale (5-0); 2. Walled Lake (4-1); 3. Rochester (5-0); 4. Waterford (4-1); 5. West Bloomfield (4-1); 6. Bloomfield Hills Andover (4-1); 7. Madison (3-1-1); 8. Royal Oak Kimball (3-2); 9. Madison Lamphere (5-0); 10. Pontiac Central (2-2).

'Big Blow' Says Giusti in Leaving St. Louis

HOUSTON (AP) — What's it like, Dave Giusti, to move from the last-place Houston Astros to the first-place St. Louis Cardinals and then to the infant San Diego Padres in less than a week.

"I'm very disappointed," the 29-year-old right-handed pitcher said "It was a big blow."

Giusti, a native of Seneca Falls, N.Y., was acquired by San Diego from St. Louis in the National League expansion draft Monday. Only last Friday, he was traded to the Cardinals from the Astros.

"Sure it's unusual for them to offer a player to the draft after they just picked him up in a trade," Giusti said. "Nobody in St. Louis told me this was going to happen."

Giusti and catcher Dave Adlin 1961, a year before Houston entered the major leagues. He finished this season with an 11-14 record and 3.19 earned run average.

"I was a little bit shocked about the trade," he said. "But then I thought it was a great thing to go with the Cardinals, a great asset to me and the Cardinals."

Giusti and catiher Dave Adlesh were traded to St. Louis for catchers John Edwards and Tommy Smith.

"In the back of my mind I thought perhaps the Cardinals would protect me from the expansion," he said. "That was one of the first things I asked. But they didn't say 'yes' or 'no'."

"Now it's like 1962 with the Houston Astros," Giusti said.

"I had some good years with the Astros and felt I would have seen better years with the Cardinals. I wanted to work for a championship ball club," he added.

BOWLING

Sometimes the head-pin dances around even for the best bowlers; the classic league reports last week indicate a drop in the averages was common in recent outings.

The West Side Lanes Classic was topped by a 627, rolled by Bill Bull. He was closely pursued by Les Pennell and Bob Murphy, both hitting 623.

The high game distinction went to Buck McDonald with a strong 246. Mel Boothe hit 245. The Oakland Vending team posted a 1015 and West Side's entry had 1012.

Burt Wilcox set the pace at Mavis Lanes in Holly. His 630 included a 254 that claimed high game laurels. He was the only one to reach 600. George Leo hit a 237 and Ralph Dean a 222.

The pins were falling a bit better at Collier Lanes in Oxford. Bill Johns shot a 234-209—644, and Bruce Beardsley applied pressure with his 236-223—641.

A 246 by Dave Sherman Jr. drew challenges from Alan McMillan (236), Fred Gingell (235), J. B. McQueen (234) and William Riker (232).

Record Run Leads Rochester to Win

Keith Wattles cracked the school record in leading Rochester (8-0) to a 16-47 cross-country victory over Waterford yesterday.

Girma Tedlay, an exchange student from Ethiopia, set the record of 10:40 back in 1962, and Wattles lowered it to 10:36 yesterday.

Trailing Wattles in the scoring column were Cal McDaniel, Ed Griffis, Doug Hauk, Dave Arnold, Bob Sanderson and Chris Vizena. Mile Knight placed fifth for Waterford.

Presser-Erb Duo in Best-Ball Win

Steve Presser of Huntington Woods and Dick Erb of Dearborn teamed to take the Troy best-ball title Saturday at Sylvan Glen Golf Club.

The two checked in with a 68, five shots ahead of Dave Mowery of Ferndale and Kim Knapp of Highland Park.

Pontiac golfers were third and fourth. Alex Kinder and Fred Pinkney carded a 75 while Bill Myers and George Johnson came in with a 76.

Junior Editors Quiz on EARTH'S POLES

QUESTION: Why are the North and South poles both so cold?

ANSWER: Shine a flashlight, as Cathy is doing in upper left, slantwise across a sheet of paper and mark the shape it makes with a pencil.

You will find it to be a large oval. You will notice, too, that the light is quite faint. This is because the light is spread or diffused across the paper.

Now hold the flashlight upright and point it directly down. The image on the paper is a small, brilliant ball. This situation is like that of the sun's rays falling on the earth. Because of the inclination of the earth's axis, the sun's light falls slantwise across the areas of both extreme north and extreme south.

This is why these areas are both cold. Sunlight falling slantwise has much less heating effect than when it is falling directly down. Toward the middle of the earth's surface, no matter what the season, the sun shines almost directly down.

Remember when the flashlight was pointed directly down, the ball of light was very bright. The heat of the sun's rays in this position is also very strong, so tropical regions have a warmer climate than northern ones.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Yank Infantryman Respects Viet Foe

IN THE DMZ, Vietnam (AP) —The rain-soaked American infantrymen pushed through the southern part of the demilitarized zone with one thought in mind—kill as many Charlies as possible.

But as they moved through a large bunker complex where the enemy recently made his home, many GIs expressed curiosity and respect for the foe.

The area had been heavily bombed and shelled. Some bunkers had been caved in by explosions. Others were burned black by napalm. It was clear the enemy troops who were here had lived through hell before pulling back, perhaps to set up an ambush over the next ridge.

There was open sympathy in the voice of a few GIs as they discussed the life and fate of their enemy. The Americans saw a partial mirror image of their own life. The North Vietnamese here had been riflemen like themselves, the man at the bottom of the heap whose nose is alternately rubbed in the mud and choked with dust, but always pointed toward the next battle.

LOTS TO TALK ABOUT

"You know, I'll bet old Charlie and us would have a lot to talk about if the shootin' would just stop," one bearded corporal said. A few diaries taken from enemy bodies have voiced similar sentiments.

The big Z, GI slang for the Demilitarized zone, is a place that can make strong men stronger and break the weak. It is consistently the most dangerous place in Vietnam, and also as unpleasant a place as troops on both sides are likely to find.

In hot weather, water is short and the sun merciless. When the rains come, they are not the sudden cloudbursts common in the South but often last for days and leave infantrymen soaked, mud-caked and shivering until the clouds break again.

This knowledge of shared misery has caused more than one Marine and Army rifleman to speculate on the enemy.

TERM OF RESPECT

The Marines, who have for years borne the brunt of the DMZ fighting, refer to the North Vietnamese as Mr. Charles to differentiate from the homegrown Vietcong guerrillas, or Charlie. Both expressions are derived from radio code for the enemy, Victor Charlie—Vc.

This image has survived for many despite repeated stories of enemy atrocities including shooting wounded and prisoners and disfiguring bodies. By some lights, there have been battlefield excesses on both sides, and many American GIs accept those of the enemy as the work of a handful of zealots or acts ordered by higher-ups.

Some time ago a Marine company stopped for chow during a day-long operation that had cost it several killed and wounded. In looking for a place to sit, one rifleman found the body of a North Vietnamese soldier in a camouflaged fighting hole. They casually wondered what to do with the body.

'BURY HIM'

The company commander settled the question: "Break out your entrenching tools (shovels) and bury him. He died fighting for what he believed in."

Such charity is rare, but it happens.

When U.S. infantrymen discuss their foes, two things often dominate the conversation, a respect for the enemy's ability to endure hardships and his seeming readiness to die in battle.

American troops often spend weeks and sometimes months in the field. Rotting clothes, festering sores, acrid drinking water scooped from muddy shellholes, the sight of dead buddies, fear—all these and more make life almost a nightmare.

SAME MISERIES, MORE

Mr. Charles and Charlie suffer the same miseries and many more. There are no helicopters for the wounded, no aerial resupply, no post exchange, no date for rotation home.

But given their Buddhist fatalism, plus the fanaticism preached by their Communist leaders, and their peasant backgrounds, the argument can be made that the difference between civilian life and war is probably less for North Vietnamese and Vietcong infantrymen than for Americans.

During the 71-day siege of Khe Sanh U.S. Marines suffered under the heaviest and most prolonged shelling of any allied unit in the war. But fear and hatred over lost buddies didn't prevent one Marine from saying one night, "Man, it's sure bad in here. But can you imagine what old Charles is going through out there?"

Out there was anywhere from 500 yards to a dozen miles where Air Force, Navy and Marine jets were carrying out the most concentrated tactical bombing campaign of any war. Between waves of jets, Marine artillery spit salvo after salvo into enemy trenches and troop concentrations.

Irish Recall Vote Near

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish are reaching the point of decision in a national referendum on an issue so long debated they call it the neverendum.

Wednesday the 1.5 million electors vote yes or no on Prime Minister Jack Lynch's demand for an end to PR — the proportional representation system by which parliaments have been chosen since Ireland won statehood in 1920.

This involves a change in the constitution, hence the referendum. The signs are that the Irish will tell Lynch they want no change.

If Lynch does fail, opposition parties will demand an immediate general election but are unlikely to get it. The government's five-year term ends in 1970. Until then the prime minister can call an election whenever he wishes.

STALEMATE PARLIAMENT

Lynch and his Fianna Fail-Soldiers of Destiny-party argue that PR tends to produce stalemate parliaments and make strong government impossible.

The last election in 1965 ended with the Dail lower house exactly divided.

The government held 72 of the 144 seats. The Fine Gael party had 47, the Labor party 22 and independents 3. Lynch's government depends on the votes of the independents to stay in office.

Board to Seek Bids on Sewer Bonds Again

A readvertisement for sale of $150,000 in sewer bonds was ordered by the Waterford Township Board at its meeting last night. The original advertisment did not bring a response.

The bonds would provide a sewer construction project in an assessment district in the area of the streets of Marion, Elizabeth Lake, Voorheis, Colrain and Chadwick.

The board announced the township offices will be closed Nov. 11 for Veterans' Day. The regularly scheduled Township Board meeting has been rescheduled for Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Public hearing on the township budget has been scheduled for Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Hiring-Bias Suit Dismissal Asked by Parke, Davis

DETROIT (AP)—Dismissal of a Justice Department suit charging employment discrimination was requested in Federal Circuit Court Monday by Parke, Davis & Co.

The civil suit, filed by Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, alleged that the company made no effort to recruit and hire Negro clerical and professional employes on the same basis as white personnel.

In the motion for dismissal, the company said it had placed advertisements in Negro newspapers, that contacts were maintained with the Urban Leagues of Detroit and Pontiac, various community action programs, predominently Negro high schools and other agencies.

Of 195 persons hired recently, 45 represented minority groups and 41 were Negroes, said the company.

Minor Items Face City Commission

Pontiac city commissioners will meet at 8 tonight to handle a number of minor items.

The commission is expected to pass a resolution congratulating the Detroit Tigers on their World Series victory and another encouraging a "yes" vote on the state bond issue in the Nov. 5 election which would raise $335 million to fight water pollution.

Former Head of Freuhauf Firm Is Dead

DETROIT (AP) — Harvey C. Freuhauf Sr., whose involvement in the transportation industry reached back into a turn-of-the-century blacksmith shop in Detroit, died Monday at the age of 74.

Freuhauf, who was responsible for the evolvement of the family blacksmith shop into the giant Freuhauf Trailer Co. was stricken in his Detroit apartment, the victim of an apparent heart attack.

One of four sons of the late August Freuhauf, young Harvey joined his father in the blacksmith shop shortly after graduation from high school and convinced the elder Freuhauf that they enter some aspect of the fledgling automobile industry.

The younger Fruehauf retired as board chairman of the firm in 1953 and severed all connections before it diversified and became known as Fruehauf Corp.

HAULING RIGS

The trailer business started when a Detroit lumber merchant asked the Fruehaufs to design a piece of equipment that would permit him to pull a boat behind his Model T Ford.

The merchant was so impressed with the result that he commissioned the Fruehaufs to build a similar rig to haul lumber.

The slogan "a horse can pull more than he can carry so can a motor truck," was circulated and the father and son formally entered the trailer business in 1916.

By 1918, the firm's capital had grown from $500 to $108,000 and the Fruehaufs began to look beyond their specialty of trailers for grocers, dairies and lumber firms. In the 1920s, the company began producing a variety of trailers for long-distance hauling.

From the 1920s until 1949, Fruehauf served as the firm's president, succeeding his father. In 1949 he became chairman of the board and resigned in 1953 as a result of a dispute with his brother Roy, who had succeeded him as president.

In recent years, Fruehauf managed extensive oil and cattle investments in the southwest.

Faculty Unit at OCC Elects

Richard Thompson, assistant professor in counseling at the Highland Lakes campus in Waterford Township, has been elected president of the Oakland Community College Faculty Association for the 1968-69 academic year.

Thomspon of 4774 Halberd, Commerce Township, is also a delegate at large from Highland Lakes.

The OCC Faculty Association (OCCFA) is an independent organization recognized as bargaining agent for the teaching faculty, counselors, librarians, and coordinators. It was created following an uncontested election in March 1966.

Campus presidents are Joseph Harman, assistant professor at the Learning Resources Center at the Auburn Hills campus in Pontiac Township; James Stackhouse, assistant professor of social sciences at Highland Lakes; and Dr. Donald Starr, associate professor of chemistry at the Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Township.

He Does His Planting in Pot

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Johnny Pot, a modern-day Johnny Appleseed, is being sought by agents of the Federal Bureau of Drug Abuse Control for planting marijuana seeds in northeastern Ohio and other states.

According to reports, the hippie planter scatters marijuana seeds in little-used pasture land and on acreage of abandoned farms. Then he sends detailed maps of his latest plantings to fellow hippies when he stops to rest.

Agents say the garishly dressed hippie—he wears a black derby hat, a madras sport coat, burgundy trousers, and gold sandals — is about 6 feet tall, 140 pounds and has a brown Van Dyke beard with brown, shoulder-length hair.

The search for the seed planter is being intensified because this is the time of year he replenishes his seed supply. In late August and October the marijuana plant is bursting with seed.

DUBBED BY AGENT

Johnny Pot was given his nickname by an agent who has chased him from the timberlands of Washington and Oregon through Kansas and Idaho to Ohio.

Johnny carries the seeds in a mailman's pouch.

He travels on foot and will accept rides only from long-distance truck drivers. He appears only during the early morning hours and near dusk.

Johnny Pot's task of planting is relatively easy. Marijuana seeds need merely to be scattered on fertile ground to grow. They need almost no cultivating and will flourish any place weeds grow.

It is said Johnny will accept a day's work of washing dishes or windows in order to get food money. He is well known and honored in the hippie areas of large cities.

He enthralls fellow hippies, recounting tales of spending nights in farm community jails on charges of vagrancy. He loves to tell that never once has he been relieved of his supply of marijuana seeds.

An agent said that this is understandable because the seeds are not easily recognized.

Johnny was reportedly spotted last week near Cleveland. It is believed that he hides in heavily wooded areas during daylight hours.

Johnny Appleseed, whose real name was John Chapman, traveled through Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana on horseback more than a century and a half ago, carrying apple seeds and a Bible in his saddlebags.

LAW AND ORDER

Excerpts from a speech by EMIL MAZEY, UAW Secretary-Treasurer

Looking for scapegoats is an old custom—especially during an election year. The so-called "law and order" campaign issue provides an excellent example of that.

Both Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate, and George Wallace, the ultra-conservative candidate, offer a seemingly simple solution. They are saying to the electorate: "Elect me President and I will end crime in the streets."

First of all, street crimes are a matter for state and local authorities, and neither Nixon nor Wallace have said just how they would or could involve the federal government to make our streets "safe."

PROMISE VS. PERFORMANCE

But having made the promise, these candidates—or their parties—leave themselves open to judgment on their past performance on this very issue.

The states of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, California and Wisconsin have Republican governors. They have also experienced increases in their crime rate. The city of New York is governed by a Republican mayor. It too has suffered from an increase in crime during that mayor's tenure.

It would be grossly unfair to blame these Republican office holders for that crime rate—just as it is unfair to blame it on the present Administration in Washington.

NIXON, TELL YOUR FRIENDS!

But if Nixon has a solution to this problem, he ought to give it to his Republican colleagues now holding office on the state and local level.

THE WALLACE RECORD

Wallace has even less to brag about when it comes to fighting crime.

Birmingham, the largest city in Alabama, has 12.2 murders per 100,000 population, according to the latest FBI Report, compared to a rate of 7.7 murders in Washington, a city Wallace holds up as an example of a "crime-infested city." And the national average is 5.6, less than half the Birmingham rate.

The rate of murder for the entire state of Alabama is THE HIGHEST of any state in the nation. Alabama's rate of aggravated assaults (muggings, beatings, etc.) is the fourth highest in the country.

Alabama is also the state where four young girls were killed in church by a bomb, and those who did it were never tracked down by Wallace's "crime fighters."

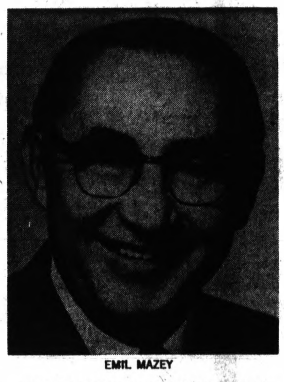
This is the state George Wallace has controlled for quite a few years. How can he now tell people in Michigan and elsewhere that he has the solution to the problem of crime?

CRIME'S CAUSES

Poverty, unemployment, discrimination, poor housing, lack of medical care and inadequate educational opportunities contribute to increasing crime. However, crime is also increasing in the affluent sector of our society. Many youths from well-to-do suburban families are involved in more crimes than ever before.

HUMPHREY: BEST BET

Vice President Hubert Humphrey knows how to establish law and order with justice in our country.



EMIL MAZEY

As a Senator, he supported housing legislation to wipe out slums; he supported Medicare to improve the health status of older people and to take the financial burden of such bills off the backs of younger people; he supported minimum wage legislation to raise the living standards of people at the bottom of the economic ladder; he supported legislation to give poor children the opportunity for a decent education.

HUBERT HUMPHREY HAS SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED LEGISLATION TO HELP SOLVE SOME OF THE PROBLEMS IN OUR SOCIETY THAT ARE THE ROOT CAUSES OF CRIME.

Crime will not be solved by easy answers or phony promises. I hope no American will be fooled by the easy-answer boys.

Swede in U.N. Silent on Mideast Peace Hopes

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) — On one of his shuttle trips between his headquarters on Nicosia and the Arab capitals Gunnar Jarring was collared by a reporter.

"Are you optimistic or pessimistic about an Israeli-Arab peace agreement?" the reporter asked.

"No comment," replied the U.N. peace envoy.

Ralph Bunche, the undersecretary-general with special responsibilities for the Middle East, heard about it.

MISQUOTED

"Jarring must have been misquoted," Bunche said. "He would never say that much."

Since last December the Swedish diplomat has been trying to persuade Israel and the Arab countries to agree to peace negotiations in accord with a U.N. Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1967.

There has been a flurry of reports that he was about to resign and return to his diplomatic post in Moscow. These have been denied officially by a spokesman for Secretary-General U Thant.

As usual Jarring won't talk. But if he does resign the people who know him best say he'll do it in a formal report to Thant that further efforts would be useless.

NO HERMIT

While Jarring is not a publicity-seeking man by any account, he isn't a hermit, either. But he has adopted a policy of saying nothing publicly about his current efforts because he feels anything he might say could be misinterpreted and thus wreck what is obviously a touchy and delicate mission.

He has been described as encouraged by the public speeches of Abba Eban, the Israeli foreign minister, and Mahmoud Riad, the Egyptian foreign minister, before the General Assembly. Both pledged continued cooperation with Jarring.

In addition the top delegates of the United States and Britain are urging him to continue.

Jarring is no stranger to the United Nations or the United States.

UN REPRESENTATIVE

The 61-year-old tall, black-haired blue-eyed diplomat with an enigmatic smile was permanent representative of Sweden at the United Nations from 1956-58, and ambassador to the United States in Washington from 1958-64.

While at the United Nations he undertook a peace mission to India and Pakistan over Kashmir, an issue which has frustrated the United Nations fully as much as the Middle East. He didn't get any place, but U.N. diplomats say that considering the circumstances success was too much to hope for.

He is an accomplished linguist—French, German, English, Russian and a number of Oriental languages. While in Washington he had a persian dog acquired while in Tehran, and he employed Persian in commanding his pet to obey.

He was born Oct. 12, 1907, the son of a farmer, and one of his brothers still operates the family farm in Skane, the southernmost province of Sweden. The Jarrings have a home on the farm.

SCHOLAR-DIPLOMAT

He is a scholar-diplomat, and his wife, Agnes, a student of Slavic affairs, is the daughter of one of Sweden's most noted astronomers, Carl Charlier. They met while both worked in the library at the University of Lund. They have one daughter.

He is known to like his assignment in Moscow, where because of his scholastic background he has access to gatherings of Soviet scholars.

He has served with diplomatic missions in Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Ethiopia, India, Ceylon and Pakistan. From 1933 to 1940 he was assistant professor of Turkish languages at the University of Lund.

Thant announced his designation as the Middle East peace envoy on Nov. 23, 1967, and he went into action immediately, setting up headquarters in Nicosia, capital of Cyrpus.

TRIPS TO EAST

He has made frequent trips to Jerusalem, Amman, Beirut and Cairo. The Syrians have refused to talk to him, saying they regard themselves as still at war with Israel despite the U.N. cease-fire reached after the war of June 5-10, 1967.

While he refuses to talk with reporters, he is an avid reader of what they have to say in their newspapers.

The press officer said in some bewilderment that he had scanned the newspapers and society column," Jarring replied.

Daring Sex Movies Uncurbed by Danes

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

COPENHAGEN — American tourists shopping along Copenhagen's famed Walking Street get a jolt when they pass the nygade-Cinema Theater. There in living color are displayed photographs usually seen on "feelthy" post cards.

THOMAS

The movie, "Man's Sweet-Playthings," is advertised as "the most daring sex picture ever made" and customers are advised: "It will be banned in most countries . . . Play safe—see it during your stay in Copenhagen." Those who heed the admonition witness the kind of sex depiction that is seen in the United States only at men's stags.

Such films can be exhibited in Denmark without fear of reprisal as this country moves toward absolute freedom of expression in terms of sex.

A year ago, the Danish Parliament, with virtually no opposition, passed a law that virtually lifted all bans against written pornography. This fall the Parliament is expected to pass another bill doing away with the last vestige of movie censorship.

These moves are likely to be studied by other nations, especially the United States, where liberalization of centuries-old puritanical traditions has lately been hastened by a series of Supreme Court decisions.

Denmark has moved toward abolition of censorship after considerable study and public debate. A commission on criminal law reported to Parliament that it could find no proven link between pornography and corruption of sexual morals in general. One psychology professor told the commission:

"I do not think a long-time member of a nudist colony would be able to get excited by seeing the naked body of a woman." He hinted that the pornography market has reached the saturation point.

Censorship has been strongest in countries such as Ireland, Italy and the United States, where churchmen exercise a strong influence on moral issues. But in predominantly Lutheran Denmark, the church has little effect on the daily lives of the people. Lacking any clerical opposition, the anticensorship bill easily passed.

CENSORSHIP INSULTING

The basic reasoning was that it was insulting to tell adults what they cannot read. Restraints were continued on the availability of pornography to children.

The same logic appears to be bringing the end of Danish film censorship, which has existed since 1913. At present the movies are reviewed by a board of three: a 72-year-old actor, an elderly woman, and an official of the Ministry of Justice. They were chosen to represent the arts, the general public, and the law.

The trio pass on films individually, if a question of censorship arises, they act in concert. Even if they ban a scene or an entire movie, their decision can be overruled by the minister of justice, as has happened. Recently the censors allowed the showing of Sweden's sexsational "I Am Curious," which has been banned in Norway, the United States and other countries.

Observers believe that the passing of "I Am Curious," in which the sex act is depicted, marked the virtual end of film censorship in Denmark.

Oddly, there has never been any censorship of television in Denmark; the television officials themselves decide what should appear on the home screen. The only complaints about the programming appear to be a few letters to newspapers by mothers critical of the violence in such U.S. series as "Bonanza" and "The Virginian." Little is said about the late-evening Scandinavian movies which include some nude scenes.

City Managers Meet in Detroit

The 54th annual conference of the International City Managers' Association will be held Sunday through Oct. 24 in Detroit. More than 1,000 city and county officials from throughout the country are expected to attend.

Pontiac City Manager Joseph A. Warren will attend the conference. Pontiac is one of more than 2,000 cities in North America to operate under the council-manager form of government.

Congr-r-ratulations

from our tiger to your Tigers

Gr-r-reat going, guys, you sure have SOME tigers on your team

On that final out, we heard your winning roar way over here in Battle Creek! And since we've been taking tigers seriesly (that's a pun Tony had to pitch in) for many years, we thought it'd be right neighborly to help you celebrate.

Gr-r-reat–let's celebrate

In honor of tiger fans everywhere, here's a 7¢ coupon to help you make a hit with your home team. Take it to your grocer's—and roar for more Kellogg's Sugar Frosted Flakes* cereal.

And finally, Tony, the poet roareate of Battle Creek (who is a very emotional tiger), dedicates this victory verse to the World Champs . . . and to tigers everywhere.

Here's to your Tigers
Long may they roar
Like real champs
They came back for more.

Happiness Is Trevor Howard's Goal

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You hardly ever meet a totally happy man anymore, but Trevor Howard says he's one.

BOYLE

"I have no ambition except to be happy — happy enough not to need any other goal," said Howard, who at 52 is rated as one of Britain's top actors.

A slender forthright man with sea green eyes, ruddy cheeks and sandy-reddish hair, Howard is allergic to stuffy people, refuses to endure boredom, and enjoys a bit of larking when he isn't working. Having completed his 49th and 50th films recently —"The Charge of the Light Brigade" and "The Battle of Britain" he was in merry mood during a recent visit here.

"I was the original rebel," he remarked, "but being alone at it, I wasn't able to win the battle. So now I've got the name of just being a hell raiser. After Errol Flynn left, I became No. 1."

SON OF SHIPPER

Son of a British shipper, he spent five years of his childhood in Ceylon, disappointed his family when he chose to be an actor rather than a soldier. However, as a paratroop officer in World War II, he won the Military Cross for gallantry.

"I became an actor because I couldn't think of anything else to be except a bum or a beachcomber," he said. "Once I was offered a job selling umbrellas in Argentina, but I didn't think I'd be good at that, and I turned it down."

Howard's deceptive skill at his trade won him fame in such films as "Brief Encounter," "The Third Man" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

"I only do the things I want," he said. "A man's a Mongolian idiot to live any other way. What's the good of stacking money away if you can't take it with you.

LIFE FOR LAUGHS

"I believe life is for laughs. If you've got laughs, you've got friends, and if you have friends you have loyalty, no matter where in the world you are—and, hell, what more do you want."

Howard has an airy manner toward his profession that cloaks his own high standards of craftsmanship. He is repelled by highbrow phrases and pretentious attitudes.

"We don't have the Method School of acting in England," he said. We simply read the script, let it seep in, then go put on whiskers—and do it.

"Character roles, particularly if they are loud, boisterous characters, are easy to play.

AP Wirephoto

A TOTALLY HAPPY MAN, HE SAYS — Trevor Howard, who at 52 is rated one of Britain's top actors, says he's a totally happy man. "I have no ambition except to be happy—happy enough not to need any other goal."

The subtle roles are the hard ones.

"Saints are very hard to play. But nobody wants to see a saint anyway. People are bored sideways with saints."

Howard has regrets that he once turned down the role of Professor Higgins in "My Fair Lady," the role that earned Rex Harrison a mint of money on stage and screen.

"I'd only have ended up five years older, doing the same thing over and over," he said cheerfully. "I don't like being a gramaphone record.

"I have never planned life, and don't intend to start now. I live from day to day. There is no real planning in this business anyway. One thing does not lead to another."

LIKE TO BE EXPLORER

If he weren't an actor, Howard would like to be an explorer.

He is interested in animal conservation, particularly African elephants which he feels are nobler and gentler than people.

Here are his likes:

"Tweedy clothes—good honest crooks—Dixieland jazz—the clip-clop of horses and the sound of a trumpeting elephant—corn on the cob and avocado pears—cricket and skiing—drinking with friends—simple, straightforward people who enjoy life."

These are his dislikes:

"Bureaucracy — rudeness — noisy motor vehicles—the smell of car exhaust fumes—food delicacies such as frog legs or sheep's eyes—golf and tennis—being alone—and pompous bores."

'69 Camaro SS Sport Coupe, plus RS equipment

Ask the kid who owns one.

Some people have a hard time communicating with youth.

Not us.

We just bring on the 1969 Camaro.

And then we tell it like it is.

It is: Restyled inside and out with a great new grille, new bumpers, new round parking lights, new instrument panel, new 2-spoke steering wheel, new striping, and new colors including Hugger Orange, which is wild.

It is: Full of new features including a quieter driveline. Bigger outlets for the Astro Ventilation. A 210-hp standard V8; lock for the steering column, ignition and transmission lever.

It is: Available with a resilient body-color front bumper, new variable ratio power steering, and (get this) a little device that washes your headlights when you hold the windshield washer button in.

It is: Still affectionately nicknamed "The Hugger."

It is: Still wider and weightier than the rival sportster we're too polite to name.

You should drive a 1969 Camaro at your Chevrolet dealer's the first chance you get.

CHEVROLET

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Trading Fairly Active

Stock Mart Holds Slight Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held a slight gain early this afternoon as it resumed the cautious recovery of Monday. Trading was fairly active.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange, but there was no vigorous leadership. Most changes were small.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 355.2, with industrials up .7, rails up .3, and utilities off .1.

With auto sales for early October at a record for the period, the market had some good fundamentals behind it, and auto executives have raised their sights on sales this year.

Auto stocks were mixed, however, with Ford making up-for its reactionary performance of Monday by advancing about a point, while Chrysler and American Motors eased, and General Motors traded about unchanged. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.99 at 951.95.

Prices advanced in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Airlift International, up a fraction, paced the list on activity.

Barry Wright was boosted high among the volume leaders by a block of 93,500 shares, off ¾ at 27. It erased the loss and posted a fractional net gain.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

The weak two bid is in almost universal use in tournament play. The American Contract Bridge League has ruled that the weak two bid may only be made with a high card holding of not less than six or more than 12 points. Most users reduce these limits to a maximum of 11 and minimum of eight and, in addition, only bid it with a good six-card suit.

JACOBY

There is a further restriction. They use the two-club opening as their only forcing bid. In any event, Count Wright's two-diamond call is a typical weak two. He has nine high-card points and a good six-card suit.

This hand was played at the Mid-South Regional in Shreveport and Jim Clinton, who sat North, was tempted to go to two spades. He and Count were playing that the only forcing response to a weak two bid would be two no-trump and Jim could expect to play two spades. Duplicate players always try, if possible, to get into majors or no-trump because in duplicate 10 or 20 points can mean a difference between a good score and a bad one.

He didn't fall for this temptation, and passed quietly. While plus 110 would be better than plus 90, a two-spade call was too likely to lead to a minus score.

West opened the six of hearts. Count let this run around to his nine. Then he cashed dummy's ace of diamonds, returned to his own hand with the ace of spades, played his king and nine of diamonds and wound up with nine tricks for a nice, comfortable plus.

It was, in fact, more than comfortable. The game was team of four and at the other table North chose to respond with two spades. He played it there and alert defense managed to set him two tricks at this contract.

What do you do now?

A—Bid one spade. You want to bid your major suits in natural order now.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid one spade and your partner bids two diamonds. What do you do now?

Entertainer Dean Martin answered quickly when America's three Apollo 7 astronauts asked by space television yesterday: "Keep those letters and cards coming."

MARTIN

Martin sent a telegram via the Houston Space Center, reminding the space travelers that he weekly tells his television audience just that.

"Hey guys," said Martin, "first, you steal my song, 'Houston.' Now you steal my 'Keep them letters and cards coming.' It's 10 to one when you land you'll start drinking.

"P.S. Like all Americans I am proud of you.

"P.P.S. I was higher last night than you are now."

Galbraith Has Mixed Feelings About 60th Birthday

"I shan't be terribly sorry when men begin to refer to me as old, but I'll be awfully sorry when women do," says John Kenneth Galbraith.

The author of "The Affluent Society" and "The Industrial State" spoke yesterday in New York City on the eve of his 60th birthday which he said he was letting "slip by as quietly and as unobtrusively as possible."

GALBRAITH

Galbraith, a professor of economics at Harvard, commented: "I'm no fonder of the notion of age than anybody else. One of the things that has always troubled me a bit is that life is rather short and you'd better crowd as much into it as possible."

Galbraith, a former U.S. ambassador to India, added the role of art critic to his life today with the publication of "Indian Painting: The Scene, Themes and Legends" which he wrote with Mohinder Singh Randhawa.

Actor Robert Taylor Gets Good News on Surgery

Actor Robert Taylor has the good news: Small tumors found in his right lung weren't malignant, a spokesman for St. John's Hospital said yesterday in Santa Monica, Calif. The lung was removed because of a fungus infection.

Taylor, 58, veteran star of films and television, was listed in good condition.

Judge Fines Himself $1 for Parking Violation

When Des Moines, Iowa, Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund, observing his 72nd birthday yesterday, received a ticket for overtime parking by meter-maid Helen Ritz, he promptly fined himself the minimum $1 fee.

Grund said he didn't think his colleagues, Judges Ray Harrison and Howard W. Brooks, would have been so easy on him.

"Harrison would have fined me $10 and Brooks would've put me in jail," he said jokingly.

Judge Grund, who was on an errand during a court recess, didn't put any money in the meter at all. "I was just going to be inside a few minutes," he explained.

TV Actor Victim of $5,365 Burglary in Honolulu

Hawaii-born actor James Shigeta was the victim of a $5,365 burglary Sunday in Honolulu.

Shigeta, 38, who is playing in television's "Hawaii Five-O" series, told police jewelry and cash were taken from his hotel room.

Shigeta, a resident of Los Angeles, returned to his native state last month for the detective series.

Exam Thursday in Gun Death

A Pontiac man who was taken into custody shortly after the shooting death of another man early Saturday faces preliminary examination Thursday on an open murder charge.

Arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum was John Byrd, 25, of 92 Crawford. He was remanded to Oakland County Jail without bond.

BYRD BOOKED

Byrd was booked for investigation of murder at police headquarters about 15 minutes after Thomas Johnson, 36, of 441 Bartlett was killed by a gunshot wound in the neck during an alleged argument on the 100 block of Clovese.

A witness told police that the victim was in a parked car when a man approached and the two began talking. A struggle ensued and two shots were fired, police were told.

Familiar Ring

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP) — Nearly two months after Ralph Larsen, Jr. of Burlington lost his wedding ring while working on a turkey farm belonging to the Central Soya Co., a truckload of turkeys from the farm was processed.

In the gizzard of one of the birds was found the missing ring.

Pontiac Man's Murder Trial Starts Today

The trial of a Pontiac man charged with the May 31 knife killing of a woman patient at Pontiac State Hospital began today in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Edward J. Stockwell of 999 James K, also a patient at the hospital, was arrested a few hours after the mutilated body of 19-year-old Dannelda Stewart was found by a guard in a little-used building on the grounds.

He was ordered to stand trial on first-degree murder earlier this month by Circuit Judge William J. Beer after three psychiatrists testified that he is capable of assisting in his own defense.

This followed an attempt by defense attorney Leonard Peres to have Stockwell declared a criminal sexual psychopath — a declaration which would have committed him to a mental hospital without criminal adjudication.

However, Beer rejected the motion.

Peres said he will argue that Stockwell was insane at the time the crime was committed.

The victim was the daughter of J. M. Stewart of 43498 Bordeaux, Utica.

'U.S. Deterrent Overwhelming'

ASHLAND, Wis. (UPI) — The Deputy Chief of Naval Operations said Monday night "no nuclear aggressor—even though he attempted to pulverize the United States — could escape certain destruction" from our nuclear submarine fleet.

Vice Admiral Francis Blouin told persons at the First Annual Admiral William D. Leahy Foundation dinner that "this overwhelming nuclear power" is the certain deterrent to war in the world.

"Nuclear deterrents is the shield which protects not only our national existence, but our relationship with every other nation on earth," Blouin said.

UAW Local Sets Forum on Labor and Social Issues

"Labor and Social Issues," a series of two-hour public lectures and discussions, begins at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

The meetings, to be held each Wednesday through Nov. 20, are being sponsored by United Auto Workers Local 653 in cooperation with the Michigan State University School of Labor and Industrial Relations.

The lectures will be at the UAW Local 653 Union Hall, 990 Joslyn.

Speaking on "Social Crises in America: An Overview" tomorrow will be Prof. Robert L. Green of Michigan State University, former education director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

About half of all families where the principal wage earner is a union member have incomes of from $7,500 to $15,000.

Cycle Gangs Hit

War on Toughs Slated

An all-out war in southeastern Michigan on what the Oakland County prosecutor calls "young toughs and hoodlums of outlaw motorcycle gangs who portray Nazi storm troopers" was announced this morning.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley called an urgent meeting for Monday of top law enforcement officials to develop a plan to meet "an alarming outbreak of brutal crimes, sadistic violence and outright warfare involving certain motorcycle gangs."

"They are going to be stopped and stopped cold," said Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson. "They must be swept off the highway."

Bronson is one of the top law enforcement officials from nine counties in southeastern Michigan who have been invited to the meeting in Lansing.

RECEIVED REPORT

Kelley called the meeting after receiving a report from Bronson on the seriousness of the problem in southeastern Michigan and after receiving complaints from individual citizens and "legitimate" motorcycle organizations.

Kelley and Bronson said that within the past month a series of rapes, kidnapings, beatings and other attacks relating to motorcycle gangs had been reported.

"There have been numerous complaints by citizens of being surrounded on the highways while driving their cars and being threatened or abused by phalanxes of motorcycle drivers," Kelley said.

"One disturbing sign has been the use of terror by some of these individuals through the wearing of tire chains, brass knuckles, hunting knives and other weapons on their uniforms."

'HIT RURAL AREAS'

Bronson said the problem also includes outlaw motorcycle gangs riding six and eight abreast on highways and congregating early in the morning at deserted homes and factories to plan their weekend activities involving clubs from three or four counties.

"Many times they zero in on rural areas that have volunteer or very few law enforcement officials," Bronson said.

"Outlaw type motorcycle gangs are those dedicated to the commission of violent and brutal acts as part of their twisted and antisocial code," Bronson explained.

Adoption Law Expert Cites Some Loopholes

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A group of legal experts studying the nation's adoption laws says that in some states a husband can "adopt" his wife.

This means that, in theory, the wife could inherit more of the husband's estate as an "heir" than as a widow, they reported.

Prof. William Pierce, who heads the group, said this is only one weakness uncovered so far in the adoption laws.

Pierce says that while the emphasis traditionally has been placed on the adoption of a child by a husband and wife together, many statutes make no provisions for adoption by a single person, such as a spouse who legally is separated but not divorced.

UNIFORM LAW BACKER

Pierce is president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which promulgated a uniform revising their original act, which they found to be defective in several respects.

The revised act, Pierce explained, will make an adoption decree in one state binding on other states and also would permit private placement of children.

Another example of revision cited by Pierce would be to specify who may adopt an adult, with one spouse not being permitted to adopt the other spouse.

In cases involving minors, the revised act will indicate whose consent should be obtained, Pierce said.

But, he added, it also will make it possible to dispense with the required consent if, for example, a natural parent has deserted the child.

JAMES M. HANNAN

New President for Hospital's Advisory Unit

The lay advisory board of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital has a new president, James M. Hannan, a Birmingham business executive.

Hannan of 344 Yarmouth was elected president of the 15-member board at its meeting last night. He succeeds Robert R. Eldred, president of Community National Band of Pontiac.

Elected vice president of the hospital board was Ralph Norvell, president of the Austin-Norvell Insurance Agency, 70 W. Lawrence.

Hannan, president of the American Safety Equipment Corp. of Michigan, Detroit, has served on the board since January 1966. He will head the board for two years.

The lay advisory board was established in August 1963. Norvell has served on the board since that time.

Pontiac Man Convicted in Traffic Death

A Pontiac man was found guilty yesterday of involuntary manslaughter in the June 9 traffic death of a 7-week-old boy.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams set sentencing of Richard Anderson, 24, of 239 Oakland for Nov. 13.

Bond of $1,000 was continued and Anderson was returned to Oakland County Jail.

He is charged in the death of Anthony Dye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dye of 108 Mary Day, who died of injuries suffered when Anderson's car collided with the Dye vehicle at Orchard Lake and South Saginaw. Anderson was arrested at the scene on a reckless-driving charge.

The boy died about nine hours later in Pontiac General Hospital.

Children Burned Igniting Gas Tank

Two Waterford Township children suffered burns on their faces and arms as a result of playing with matches yesterday, according to township police.

The children reportedly tossed a burning match into a car's gas tank. They were burned by a flash of fire at 7 p.m. police said.

Treated at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and released were two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis of 5606 Williams Lake, Larry, 7, and Scott B., 4.

Police said the boys were playing with matches in the parking lot of the nearby Community Activities Building, 5640 Williams Lake, when they were injured.

DAMAGE MINOR

The blaze was extinguished by a passerby, police said. Damage to the car was minor.

Shuckmaker for all his calls and prayers during our stay at Pontiac General. Mrs. Ralph Pilckinger and family.

WE WISH TO thank our many friends for their kindness to their kindness to us during the recent death of our Husband and Father, also for their flowers and food sent in to us. The family of Robert Schiller Sr.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Lewis Whooper, who passed away 3 years ago today.
You're not forgotten father, dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last,
I shall remember thee.
Sadly missed, wife and children.

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear father, grandfather and great-grandfather John Beems Sr., who passed away October 15, 1966.
Nothing can take away the love,
Fond memories linger each day.
Remembrances keep him near
Sadly missed by the family.

IN LOVING MEMORY of our beloved son and brother, Percy Lee Evans, who passed away 3 years ago today, October 15, 1965.
We wouldn't dare, dear son, to take from your heavenly home.
Yet we're all so lonely since you left us here, alone.
There is not a day, dear son, that we don't miss you, in so many ways.
Sadly, son, you're not gone,
You're just away.
May the good Lord bless and keep you in His loving care.
And keep us as we wait until the day, He calls for us to meet at heaven's gate.
Sadly missed by mother, brother and sisters, father, stepmother, step sister and step brothers.

IN LOVING MEMORY of our Grandmother, Lulu Thompson who passed away October 14, 1967.
Dear Mom, you're not forgotten,
Sadly missed by grandchildren,
Linda and husband, Harold, and husband Bob, Barbara, and children.

NY Pressed for Elbowroom as Crowds Engulf the City

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — This has been the time of the Great Crowd in New York.

Maybe there's never been such a crowd of tourists here. Hubert H. Humphrey was spread out thinner than a strip-teaser's bra the other night trying to attend parties at the Waldorf and the Americana. HHH was definitely responsible for some of the mob scene.

WILSON

Hundreds and hundreds of cops were near the Americana and in it, at 53rd and 7th, to check possible demonstrators. As I walked out into Broadway at 11 p.m., I sniffed a dangerous smell.

"Tear gas — like in Chicago!" I thought.

"No," shrugged a nice cop. "The liquor store guy is burning some trash in that wire basket."

HHH ran into some Yiddish at the Americana after his Liberal Party address where labor leader David Dubinsky exclaimed, "Oy, hut ere gedavnt!" Which I was assured by Mr. Dubinsky himself meant, "Oh! Did he preach!" There were also cries of "You'll be the President!"

. Patti Page took a kidding at the Americana Royal Box with friends saying, "Patti, did you see the thousands of your fans out in the street trying to see you?" The New York cops, by the way, were very thoughtful. Although they sealed off the phone booths while HHH was there, they didn't seal off the powder rooms, hurray!

Doris Duke was looking great with Wall Streeter Jack Munroe at the "Finian's Rainbow" party at the Rainbow Room — and I was so entranced by her large earrings that I asked Mrs. Jock McLain what they were.

Fakes, like mine," she said . . .However, she thought to ask Miss Duke, across the table from her, and Miss Duke said the large gold and diamond beauties with the pearl drop were not fakes but from David Webb, meaning the best. Point is, that much of the jewelry worn at these bashes are fake but such good fake that experts can't tell.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Clifford Klenk, whose Renoir was sold for a record $1,550,000, was at El Morocco later and Angelo, the maitre d', asked what he'd do with the money. "I'll be able to come in here more often," said Klenk — who said his wife bought the painting for $16,000.

Cassius Clay's expected at "Great White Hope," the show about Negro heavyweight Jack Johnson . . . Leopold Stokowski say "George M.", congratulated Joel Grey backstage: it was reportedly the first Broadway musical he's seen in 20 years.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Good humor is one of the best articles of dress one can wear in society." — Thackeray.

EARL'S PEARLS: The man who marries a raving beauty may find (claims Julius Walton) that when the beauty is gone the raving goes on and on.

Bob Hope discussed the new television season: " 'The Flying Nun' is back, but she had a bad summer — they tried to hijack her and fly hre to Havana." That's earl, brother.

Brothers' Trade Ends in Trouble

ALDERSHOT, England (AP) — Raymond Longley wanted to get into the British Army; his Brother Vincent wanted to get out. They switched places, and one landed in court and the other in the guardhouse.

Raymond, 25, had been turned down by the army but saw his chance when Vincent, 23, went absent without leave from a unit he had just joined. Posing as Vincent, Raymond gave himself up and served a month's detention for being AWOL.

The imposture lasted two months until Vincent got tired of being Raymood and turned himself in.

In court Monday, Raymond pleaded guility to charges of taking army pay under false pretenses. He was released on probation for 12 months.

Vincent is in the guardhouse awaiting court-martial trial on charges of desertion.

Big Rock Cod May Be Record

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Frank Armand, Dar es Salaam's champion spear fisherman, has landed a rock cod weighing 101 pounds 5 ounces—thought the biggest rock cod landed on the East African coast using a rubber-powered gun.

His fish is only 17 pounds lighter than one shot a year ago in the same area, near Mafia Island, on Tanzania's southern coast, by Italian fishermen, who used guns with explosive heads.

The biggest rock cod caught in the area weighed 232 pounds. It was caught with a baited line.

But a bigger one was landed in Tanga, on the north coast, a few years ago; it weighed 550 pounds. The fisherman used the hindquarters of a goat as bait. Rock cod estimated to weigh up to 1,000 pounds have been seen along the East African coast.

Levin Calls for Political Overhauling

YPSILANTI (AP) — State Democratic Chairman Sander Levin Monday night called for two "obvious changes" in political institutions involving a study of national conventions and a probe of financing political campaigns.

The needed changes, Levin told a group of Eastern Michigan University professors supporting the Humphrey-Muskie ticket, are:

● "This method of nominating presidential candidates which would have to include study of the role today of national conventions, and an increase of the individual's role possible through a system of national primaries.

● "This method of political campaign financing so greater emphasis is placed on the small, individual contributor, possibly by some form of tax incentive, and a system to insure TV discussions nationwide at a reasonable cost so candidates are not drastically handicapped by a lack of big money."

Flower Shower for Korean Envoy All a Mistake

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Chrysanthemum petals showered on the head of South Korean ambassador Ei Whan Pal Monday because his hosts thought that was the Korean custom.

"In my country we do not throw flowers around," the ambassador explained. "We present them to people in the form of garlands and bouquets."

A spokesman for Pye Ltd., the British TV equipment company that was entertaining the ambassador, explained: "We telephoned the South Korean Embassy in London and asked if there was any special Korean custom we could use. We must have got the information muddled."

The flower petals were thrown by Hijong Hyun, 23-year-old daughter of another South Korean diplomat. She said she had her doubts about the ceremony, "but I thought it was maybe an old British custom."

Safety Funds Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal Department of Transportation report released Monday says Michigan will need an estimated $1.4 billion for highway safety programs during the fiscal years 1967 to 1976. The department said all state and local governments combined would need at least $12 billion more for the period than they are providing at the present rate. In the report to President Johnson and Congress, the department did not say who should pick up the tab for the extra money. But a spokesman said officials assume part of the need would come from the federal government and part from state and local governments.

Food Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture in Washington has announced extension of the federal food stamp program to the following Michigan counties: Alger, Allegan, Antrim, Barry, Benzie, Branch, Clare, Clinton, Delta, Dickinson, Eaton, Genesee, Grand Traverse, Hillsdale, Isabella, Mason, Muskegon, Ogemaw, Saginaw, Schoolcraft, Shiawassee and St. Joseph.

Ex-Filipino Chief's Son a Candidate

MANILA (AP) — Sen. Sergio Osmena Jr., whose father was president of the Philippines government-in-exile in the United States in the latter days of World War II, announced Monday his candidacy for president.

Osmena is seeking the nomination of the Liberal party in opposing President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Nationalist party. The election will be in November 1969.

A Look at TV

Mitzi Shines in Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Mitzi Gaynor came along Monday night with an NBC special that was an impressive showcase for her talents. The show was handsome, lighthearted and bouncy.

She moved from country-style comedienne to femme fatale, from singer to dancer to sketch actress.

She danced numbers that ranged from jigs in cotton dress and sunbonnet to production numbers in a swirl of chiffon and feathers. She sang funny songs and sad songs. She had an album of objectionable people in one sketch and they were headed by the telephone bore who starts, "Guess who this is?"

Most amusing comedy bits kidded old movies—Rosalind Russell in her 1940 lady-executive films and Doris Day in her innocent maiden period were fiercely ribbed.

ONE-WOMAN SHOW

The hour was essentially a one-woman show. The sets were lavish and so were some of Miss Gaynor's costumes. The guest stars—George Hamilton and Phil Harris—didn't have much to do.

The only time Miss Gaynor let the audience down was when she tried for the sad or poignant—in one sketch and one song. Neither was exactly right for her, but then she was probably just coasting to catch her breath.

The three astronauts of Apollo 7 may not be the best television cameramen around, but those live shots seen on the three television networks Monday morning must be the most exciting shots of the year.

Viewers, with a little help from the control center, were able to see the crew in their space capsule and could read Capt. Walter Schirra's little sign: "Keep those cards and letters coming in, folks." The shots taken through the capsule window of the earth were hard to make out. But the fact that such a transmission was possible is prett ythrilling.

"Cat Ballou," an ABC rerun of a fairly recent hit movie, was the most popular program broadcast during the first week in October, according to a Nielsen report issued Monday.

Other programs in the top 10 were CBS's "Gomer Pyle"; NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in" and "Julia"; CBS's "Here's Lucy," "Mayberry R.F.D." and "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour"; NBC's "Bonanza"; CBS's "Ed Sullivan Show," and NBC's "Dean Martin Show."

The first CBS Playhouse drama of the new season, J.P. Miller's original, "The People Next Door," will be broadcast tonight and is an earnest effort to explore the motives behind youth's rebellion, the use of mind-warping drugs, and the lack of understanding between the older and younger generations.

The drama, with an excellent cast including Lloyd Bridges and Kim Hunter, has a strong point of view and probably will be controversial. It is a tragedy and it places the blame directly. The program may, in fact, produce some angry letters from parents who do not see eye to eye with playwright Miller. It is certainly worth watching, if only for the fine performance of a young actress, Deborah Winters, as a teen-ager bent on self-destruction.

OCC Fall Enrollment Tallies 83 Pct. Increase Over 1967

Oakland Community College's fall enrollment is 10,024, S. James Manilla, college director of Educational Services, announced today.

It represents an 83 per cent increase over 1967's 5,455 and a 159 per cent increase over the college's initial enrollment of 3,860 in 1965, he said.

Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Township leads in the number of students with 4,149, while Auburn Hills in Pontiac Township has 2,042 and Highland Lakes in Waterford Township, 1,782.

Taking apprenticeship-technical programs are 944 students and 1,107 attend classes at extension centers throughout the county.

A total of 8,625 students, representing 87 per cent of the enrollment, are residents of the Oakland County College District; in state but out-of-district students numbered 1,226 or 12 per cent. The remaining 1 per cent is composed of out-of-state or "unknowns," while 154 students have withdrawn since the publication of the official college figures, according to Manilla.

"The Oakland Community College Advisory Council Report, published in 1962 as a documentation for the need of a community college system in the county, indicated that if community colleges were established in the county, an enrollment between 8,000 and 14,000 could be expected by 1970," Dr. Joseph E. Hill, new OCC president, said.

"On the basis of the 10,000 students we have this year, it would seem that the 1962 report will be close to the maximum projection of 14,000 by 1970."

A total of 5,927 are enrolled in transfer programs for their freshman and sophomore years after which they will transfer to a four-year institution for their baccalaureate and advanced degrees. These students are enrolled in business administration, 1,095; education, 836; engineering, 293; math and science, 100; and liberal arts, 3,603.

Those enrolled in off-campus, nondegree apprentice, employe-in-training, and adult technical programs number 216, while 201 high school students from Farmington, North Farmington, and Walled Lake high schools are enrolled in cooperative programs in food service technology, data processing, dental assisting, and automotive technology.

Of the 1,850 students in career programs, some of the significant enrollments are as follows: accounting, 112; automotive technology, 90; commercial art, 208; data processing, 166; dental assisting, 67; drafting, 51; electronics technology, 89 executive secretarial, 177; food service technology, 42; landscape technology, 35; law enforcement, 182; library technology, 56; mechanical design technology, 65; medical laboratory technology, 54; medical office assisting, 29; professional nursing, 307; retailing, 62; and stenography, 21.

Draft Change Not Affecting Grad Schools

LANSING (UPI) — The forecast that draft law changes would cause a big drop in graduate school enrollments in Michigan this fall is not holding up.

Officials at Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University report graduate student numbers are down only slightly from last year.

U-M enrollment is 8,337, down three per cent from 1967's fall term. MSU said it has about 7,670 students on hand this autumn, about the same as last year.

At Wayne State, precise figures are not available yet but officials there said the final total will not be as low as feared last winter.

SEVERAL REASONS

Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state Selective Service director, said the predictions of a mammoth decline in graduate enrollments didn't come true because:

- Deferments were issued to students married before Aug. 26, 1965, married students with children, and students over 20 years old.

- Voluntary enlistments, mostly among last June's high school graduates, filled up draft quotas.
- Smmller than anticipated draft calls for Michigan during September and October.

ENROLLMENT DROP PREDICTED

"A great hue and cry went up from graduate schools when the new policy on draft deferments was announced," Col. Holmes said. "Some educators predicted enrollment drops of 40 per cent — but it just hadn't happened."

Last Fevruary military draft deferments were eliminated for all but medical and ministry graduate students. Previously a college graduate could be deferred for advanced study without qualification.

College officials say they are still concerned about the future impact of the law change on graduate enrollments.

"Right now our situation looks good on paper," said an MSU spokesman. "However, I suspect it will change by January or Februsry if the calls go up and the draft boards begin dipping down into the graduates."

DEPENDS ON QUOTAS

Byron Groesbeck, assistant dean of graduate affairs at U-M, commented: "I really don't know what the situation will be the first of the year . . . it all depends on the quotas."

Henry Bohm, vice president of graduate studies and research at Wayne, said a lot would depend on who wins the Nov. 5 presidential election.

"It also depends on the course the Paris peace talks take, along with the way the war itself goes," he said.

Widely scattered tiny flakes of gold imbedded in sediments on the sea floor off the coast of southern Oregon may provide clues to possible economic deposits of gold and related heavy minerals.

Harambee Spells Out Its Plan to Build Housing in City

By BOB WISLER

Harambee, Inc. efforts to initiate new housing in the Pontiac's southwest section apparently are succeeding beyond expectations.

Last night officials of the all-Negro nonprofit corporation, the firm's consultants and planners, and the Pontiac coordinator of the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority (MDCDA) outlined a timetable which calls for:

- Construction of $8.5 million worth of new housing and commercial facilities and rehabilitation of 48 single-family residences in the next year.
- Construction of nearly 1,800 new living units in the next five years at a total mortgage price of $31 million.

William Hawkins, the MDCDA coordinator, speaking at an informal meeting of the city commission last night, said MDCDA and the fledgling Negro corporation are ready to roll on the first three of a planned 10-project program.

The three phases call for:

- Construction of 80 apartment-type units and 40,000 square feet of commercial or neighborhood service facilities on a seven-acre site bounded by Howard McNeil, Warner, Diston and the Clinton River.

Construction of 172 units — a mixture of some form of public housing and relatively expensive condiminium units — on a 17-acre site now containing the Crystal Beach housing project.

- Construtucion of 200 new houses and rehabilitation of 48 existing ones in an area bounded roughly by Fisher, Franklin Road, Fildew and the Pontiac Municipal Golf Course.

NEW METHOD

Hawkins said that with utilization of a comparatively new method of housing construction the new units can be completed next year.

The program outlined by Hawkins is ambitious, he said. He concluded, however, that the total program can be completed with the help of the city and federal government within five years. Once completed, he said, it will be for the rest of the country an outstanding example of civic and city cooperation.

Hawkins said federal tools will have to be used to complete the project, but, he said, the first three phases can be

Arbitrator Route for I-696 Is Told by the Governor

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney today announced the route of the controversial proposed I-696 Freeway in six Oakland County cities and one township.

The governor announced the proposed route as decided by a three -man panel of professional arbitrators.

Affected are the municipalities of Southfield, Lathrup Village, Oak Park, Huntington Woods, Pleasant Ridge, Royal Oak and Royal Oak Township.

The board decided the route for I—696 between the control point on Longfellow near 10-Mile Road in Royal Oak and the control point on Lasher Road immediately south of 11 Mile Road in Southfield shall be as follows:

From control point on Longfellow near 10-Mile Road in Royal Oak, westerly to the control point at about Maplefield and 10-Mile Road in Royal Oak (this route is a compromise by Royal Oak); thence westerly to the control point on Greenfield Road at about 10½-mile Road in Oak Park, the route shall be the Highway Department's recommended route; thence westerly to the control point on Lahser Road immediately south of 11-Mile Road in Southfield; the route shall be the Highway Department's recommended 11-Mile Road route.

ABOUT 2 YEARS

Henrik Stafseth, state highway director, said it would take about two years to redesign the route, get approval from the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, and let contracts for the work.

Stafseth added it would then take another two years to complete the $100-million project.

Romney said the five-year delay in the project had already cost $50 million.

Stafseth said "by the very nature of its assignment, the arbitration board could not have chosen a route satisfactory to all six of the communities involved in the arbitration."

'ESSENTIAL ROUTE'

He said the freeway is essential to Michigan's transportation system and to the people in southeastern Michigan.

The decision of the arbitration board is supposed to be binding according to a recently adopted state law creating the group.

It's Indian Summer Today, Tomorrow

Indian summer will linger at least another day with skies mostly sunny through tomorrow. There's a chance of showers late tomorrow afternoon or night.

Temperatures will continue warm with the high near 80. The low is expected to be in the 60s tonight.

Thursday's outlook is mostly cloudy with a chance of showers and turning cooler late in the day.

Preciptation probabilities in per cent are: today 5, tonight 10, tomorrow 20.

A mild 61 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. By 12:30 p.m. the mercury reached 76.

SOFT-PEDALING A CIRCUS — Steve McPeak plans to ride this 13-foot unicycle 2,200 miles from Chicago to Las Vegas to promote a circus in the Nevada town. He's shown on the Windy City's busy Michigan Avenue as he started the trip yesterday. A companion follows him with a ladder truck so he can get up and down. Steve plans to cover 80 miles a day — unless he runs into a low underpass.

Little Change Made in County Budget

By ED BLUNDEN

Two committees of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors took a second look at the proposed $25.8-million county budget for 1969 yesterday and after about an hour's discussion decided it was okay. The only change was a proposed slicing of Road Commission pay and functions.

The budget, largest ever, contains sharp pay increases for almost all employes. Raises range from about 8 to 20 per cent and average about 11 per cent. Salaries are the largest expenditure called for, $11.7 million. Of this about $1.1 million represents wage increases.

The budget came under fire at the yearly public hearing, the only one called for by statute, Oct. 7. Protesters paraded to the microphone at the hearing objecting to large increases in spending. The over-all budget proposal is about $4.7 million above 1968. Some supervisors also objected and the budget was ordered sent back to the ways and means and personal policies committees for restudy.

After the discussion yesterday it was decided to resubmit the budget almost as it was. Another meeting is expected in about 10 days. The only change recommended was a cut in the proposed salary of a road commissioner. The commissioners had not been given a salary increase in the budget, but their stipend remained at $12,000 yearly.

NEW PROPOSAL

The new proposal is to place the salary scale at from $4,000 to $12,000 yearly. This would only affect Frazer Stamen, the commissioner coming up for reappointment in January.

The three road commissioners serve six-year terms, after appointment by the board of supervisors. One comes up for reappointment every two years.

The supervisors discussed eliminating the Road Commission as it now exists. The announced objective was to make the body a part-time advisory group.

Allowing the supervisors to put the commissioners on the low salary scale was seen as a step toward altering the nature of the commission. If the salary scale is approved by the entire board of supervisors, it would be up to the new board to make the changes.

NEW BOARD

The new board will have 27 members after the Nov. 5 election which will establish one-man, one-vote in county government under redistricting.

In a morning session yesterday, the ways and means committee heard a group representing mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC). The group asked for a $60 yearly addition to the state allowances to provide for more clothing. They also demanded the use of the county clothing store at 1 Lafayette in Pontiac be discontinued.

The protesters picketed and slept-in at the social services building at the County Center for a three-week period which ended last week.

The ways and means committee agreed to hear their complaints and at the conclusion of the hearing, an investigation of the clothing store was ordered.

It was pointed out the clothing store, which serves other county agencies, has been in operation for 38 years. "Perhaps it is time to reevaluate our policy," said David Levinson, chairman of the committee.

Torches Tonight to Light UF Path

The Pontiac Area United Fund drive for $1,130,000 begins at 9 tonight with a dual torchlighting ceremony at Pontiac Mall and City Hall.

A special section detailing where the UF dollar goes is in today's Pontiac Press. The money is divided between 55 health, welfare, youth and research agencies.

Campaign Chairman Alger V. Conner will conduct the countdown for the dual torchlighting via a Red Cross radio. Conner will be at the formal ball for more than 200 campaign workers. The 8:30 event at the Holiday Inn is sponsored by McCullough Realty, Inc.

Children will form a circle at City Hall, pass the hand torch around once and then give it to Ralph Norvell, chairman of the commercial division, who will light the large torch.

DUPLICATE CEREMONY

A similar ceremony will take place at Pontiac Mall where Mrs. Jack Ross, chairman of the community division, will touch off the gas torch. The torches, made by Consumers Power Co., will remain lighted as symbols of hope until the campaign goal is reached. The campaign runs through Nov. 8.

The goal breakdown for each division is: community, $26,476; commercial, $294,274; manufacturing, $40,780; General Motors, $745,800; Brandon Township, $2,654; and special gifts, $20,108.

Apollo 3rd of Way; Crew All Has Colds

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 7's astronauts sped past the one-third distance mark today with all three pilots battling colds for the first time and concerned about stuffed-up ears that may be painful on reentry.

Meanwhile, with the majority of their mission goals already achieved, astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham planned another spaceship-to-earth telecast today of the Wally, Walt and Donn Show.

In the first seven-minute broadcast yesterday when Navy Capt. Schirra delighted millions of home viewers with a sign greeting them from "The lovely Apollo room high atop everything."

"It appears that at least Donn Eisele and Walter Schirra have bona fide colds," Dr. John Zieglschmid astronaut flight surgeon, said today, "and there's a slight question in my mind as to whether Walt Cunningham just has a few sumptons such as a little bit of sniffles and maybe a slight nasal discharge or whether he has a full-blown cold syndrome."

SCHEDULE CONTINUES

There was no reason to believe the problem would force the mission to be ended sooner than the 11 days planned, he added.

Schirra, who has been bothered by a cold since his second day in space, "is about holding his own on his ears," Cunningham reported in a volunteered medical report to ground controllers concerning ear stuffiness.

"Donn may be getting a little worse," he said, "and my ears are still clear and that's barely it." Prior to his report late yesterday, Eisele appeared to be the only astronaut to escape symptoms of the virus.

"Have the doctors done any talking down there about the possibility of one or all of us having a cold and stuffed-up ears on re-entry?" Cunningham queried.

Stuffed-up ears could be painful on re-entry, scheduled Oct. 22, since the crew will experience an increase in atmospheric pressure as they near sea level. Officials advised the crew to save three decongestant pills — one for each pilot — to help clear up the discharge in their ear-nasal passages.

The decongestant, coupled with the fact that Apollo 7 will not repressurize rapidly, should mean that "we do not have a problem" in re-entry, Zieglschmid said.

Pontiac's Hope in Olympics

Diver Has 'Winning' Twist

MICKI KING

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Micki King, Pontiac diver competing in the 19th World Olympiad has the "twist" which can enable her to win the world's most coveted title among women divers.

The expert who makes this statement is University of Michigan diving coach Dick Kimball, who coached the U.S. divers in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

TOP DIVER

"Micki is without doubt one of the best woman divers in the world," said Kimball, who is in Mexico City at poolside daily coaching the former Pontiac Central girl who is now a lieutenant in the Air Force.

"I think Micki can win the gold medal," adds Kimball, "but whether she does or not, she will have to be considered as one of the top three divers ever in this country."

Kimball points out that Lt. King has performed dives that no woman would ever think of doing years back or even now. Preliminary diving competition begins Thursday for women and the finals are slated for Friday evening.

"She is diving beautifully," said Kimball during practice this week." I can usually tell by the way she is doing her hurdles and the reverses. The reverse one-and-half is a key dive for her. She is a little weak on it, but even so she is doing it as well as anyone here. There's no woman diver in the world who can match Micki on the twist," says Kimball. "This is where she can win."

GOOD UNDER PRESSURE

"Micki is strong and she does her best under pressure. If she is ahead in the preliminaries or even close to the lead she will win it," says Kimball, "because she saves her best for the final three dives which is where the points are won."

VP Challenges Nixon to Shun Wallace Deal

By United Press International

Hubert H. Humphrey says George C. Wallace is willing to bargain his electoral votes to the "highest bidder" but insists "I am not bidding." He challenged Richard M. Nixon to make the same statement.

Nixon himself has had nothing to say about charges from the Humphrey camp that Wallace and Nixon have held secret talks on the possibility of giving Wallace's electoral votes to the GOP candidate.

Related Stories, Page A-3

Humphrey, in his first news conference in three weeks, said Wallace has said he would not allow the election to be thrown into the House of Representatives but would decide in the event of a split election which of the other two candidates to back.

OPTIONS OPEN?

Humphrey's campaign manager, Lawrence F. O'Brien, said earlier Monday that Nixon's refusal to debate Humphrey on national television made it look like "Nixon is keeping his options open for an electoral college deal with the third-party candidate."

It was O'Brien who charged that secret negotiations were being held, saying "It would seem they . . . lie at the root of Nixon's refusal . . ."

In other political developments:

- Nixon, confident of his lead, was reportedly considering members for an economic team to turn campaign promises on urban problems into a legislative program.

- Wallace, in Fresno, charged his rivals for the presidency offer only "complicated solutions to simple problems."
- Humphrey has received the support of two southern newspapers: the Atlanta Journal, largest newspaper in Georgia, and the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal.

THOMAS E. WILSON

EDWARD A. KAEGI

Two Bloomfield Hills Execs Given New Posts at GM

Two Bloomfield Hills men have been appointed to new positions at General Motors Corp.

Thomas E. Wilson of 246 Guilford has been named executive in charge, Real Estate Activites for GM. He replaces Edward A. Kaegi of 569 Rudgate, who has been assigned to special activities on the staff of Joseph E. Godfrey, vice president in charge of the GM manufacturing staff. Kaegi retires Jan. 1, 1969. Both assignments become effective Nov. 1.

Wilson is now administrative assistant to the general manager of the GMC Truck and Coach Division. He joined the division in 1942 as supervisor of labor relations.

He was named head of the division's personnel department in 1944, production manager in 1951 and general manufacturing manager in 1953. He assumed his current position in 1967.

RESPONSIBLE FOR RETOOLING

Wilson was responsible for the retooling of the division's engine line in 1959 and 1960 and was responsible for modification of the engine production line to accommodate the four-cycle diesel engine program in 1963-64.

Kaegi joined the Delco-Remy Division in 1926. He served as engineer, process department until 1928 and assistant head of process engineering before being assigned as assistant factory superintendent in 1932. In 1938, while superintendent of the carburetor plant, Kaegi was selected as works manager by the Delco-Radio Divison's plant at Kokomo, Ind.

In 1953 Kaegi was named general manager of the Detroit Transmission Division and in 1956 was appointed general manager of the Brown-Lipe-Chapin Division. He assumed his current position in 1962.

Court Will Hear Death-Row Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a death-row appeal that could result in further limits on capital punishment.

The court, which ruled last term that jurors cannot be excluded from capital punishment cases for opposing the death penalty in principle, agreed yesterday to hear the appeal of a man sentenced to die for armed robbery.

The convict, Edward Boykin Jr., pleaded guilty to holding up five Mobile, Ala., stores. He conteds his death sentence is "cruel and unusual punishment" in violation of the Constitution's 5th Amendment.

The court turned down another attack on the death penalty. That one was lodged by Thomas A. Alvarez, facing death for the murder of a Lincoln, Neb., housewife.

This suggests the court may go part of the way limiting the death penalty.

Among a score of cases accepted for argument was the first direct attack on the power of military courts to try servicemen for crimes committed off-post and off-duty.

Arbitrators' Route for I-696 Unveiled

Several cities, however, have indicated they may challenge the constitutionality of the board in the court if they find the decision unacceptable.

A spokesman for Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur Moore said the judge is not expected to take any action on the freeway decision until one of the complaining cities brings it before him.

Judge Moore earlier heard pleadings from Lathrup Village and Pleasant Ridge representatives asking for temporary injunctions against the board while it was in session.

Romney appointed the arbitration board Aug. 12 in an effort to settle the dispute. The arbitrators include William Bleimeister, John Dodds, and Boaz Siegel.

Panama Junta Seems in Charge

PANAMA (AP) — The Panamanian junta appeared to be firmly in control today after a call from deposed President Arnulfo Arias for total war against the new government failed to produce any sign of organized resistance.

A spokesman for the National Guard, the country's army, said the country was quiet. Heavily armed guards patrolled the capital Monday, ready for any shows of unrest, but none developed.

Arias, overthrown Friday 11 days after his inauguration, remained in the safety of the U.S. controlled Canal Zone. He and about 80 supporters, including members of his cabinet, are registered as "guests," a canal company spokesman said. There was no indication how long Arias would remain in the zone.

The U.S. State Department said it did "not condone the call to arms" by the ousted president. Robert McCloskey, the department press spokesman in Washington, said he did not know how long Arias would remain in the zone or whether U.S. facilities had been used by him to issue his call for resistance. Previously Secretary of State Dean Rusk had expressed "profound concern" over the removal of a constitutionally elected chief of state.

The leader of the coup and Panama's new provisional president, Col. Jose M. Pinilla, 49, was directing affairs of state from the heavily guarded presidential palace. With him was Col. Bolivar Urrutia, second in command of the National Guard and a member of the junta.

Micki's Twist Victory Key

and-a-half twist is the dive she saves till last. This is the dive that moved her from eighth to second in the trials.

"After she did this dive, the other competitors choked and missed," said Kimball.

Keala O'Sullivan, a 17-year-old from Hawaii, won the trials in Los Angeles and Sue Gossick, a veteran of the 1964 World Games, took third in the trials behind Miss King.

"I don't think Keala can hold up under pressure. She doesn't have the experience," said Kimball.

ONE MISTAKE COSTLY

"This is where Micki is tough — under pressure."

"But in diving one mistake can almost be the end, although I tell Micki that every opponent is capable of missing one and that there are 10 dives in the Olympics, which is in her favor," he added.

As a 16-year-old in the 1960 Olympic trials in Detroit, Micki finished 28th out of a field of 30, and in 1964 in the trials in New York, she dropped from second place to fifth and failed to make the trip to Tokyo.

"If she had been able to get the coaching — and have the right facilities for practice, she would have walked off with all the major titles," Kimball said.

MOVE TO 'M' HELPED

"But as it was, she never really gained these advantages until she entered the University of Michigan in 1962," said Kimball.

In 1965, Miss King started her title bids by winning national AAU titles in platform and three meter. She added the World Games springboard title in 1966 in Japan and again the platform and three meter in 1967.

From the platform, Kimball says, she was the first woman ever to dare the reverse two-and-a-half twist, and she has never finished lower than third since participating in all major competition since 1965.

Micki studied journalism at University of Michigan and she expects to be part of the public relations field in the Air Force when she returns to duty after the Olympics.

She is practicing twice daily in the Olympic pool, one-and-a-half hours each time, and when the finals are completed Friday, she hopes she will bring Pontiac its second gold medal in as many Olympics.

Hayes Jones, who won a bronze medal in 1960, was a gold medal winner in the 100-meter hurdles in 1964.

Harambee Details Plan for City Housing

completed by Harambee with a supply of seed money from MDCDA.

MDCDA, an organization formed two years ago by the metropolitan area's top business, labor, civic and religious leaders, has a commitment to provide $6 million worth of seed money to initiate new housing in a six-county metropolitan area.

Hawkins said that in order to successfully complete all stages the city and Harambee would have to utilize money from existing federal programs, principally the Neighborhood Development program (NDA), an offshoot of the urban renewal program.

The coordinator, who also is involved in MDCDA efforts in Detroit, said the city may be two years ahead of others intending to use or using the Model Cities Program.

This is, he said, because Pontiac already meets two of the prerequisites for NDP and Model Cities — citizen involvement (through Harambee) and formulation of a plan (just completed by Urban Design Development Group, Inc.) for Harambee.

The redevelopment plan was presented to the commission last night. Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said it would be studied by the city staff and the commission before commissioners can make any real decisions. Taylor commended Harambee officials and the planners of Urban Design — an all-Negro Detroit firm — for the plan.

Charles M. Tucker, Jr., president of Harambee, Inc., and Joseph Durant, treasurer, were enthusiastic over progress.

"I think we're really on the verge of being able to do something that has never been done before," Tucker said. Durant said simply, "Right now, I'm on a cloud."

Representatives of Harambee and MDCDA said it is likely thatthe initial projects will be funded soon by MDCDA.

Considering this, prograss in the housing effort is almost remarkable. The project began through the efforts of the privately formed Pontiac Housing Study Committee, which late last year asked MDCDA to provide asstance in producing housing for low and moderate-income families in the city, probably the city's top need according to a private study paid for by the housing study committee.

CAME IN FEBRUARY

MDCDA sent Hawkins to Pontica in February to help with a number of local businesses paying his office expenses. Hawkins helped organize Harmambee, Inc. (Harambee is a Swahili word meaning 'let us work together", with principal officers elected from thrfoughout the Negro community.

Hawkins said it was possible to start construction this year, but the participating groups felt they did not want to begin until the needs and goals of the black community involved were known to all.

He said a survey of the housing, attitudes, desires and wishes of the black community — prepared by the Urban Design group — was completed before any decisions were made as to which was the housing programs would be directed.

The survey, which polled 13 per cent of the 10,000 persons living in the project area, produced extensive results. Perhaps the most interesting is that household heads living in the affected areas have been living there an average of about 20 years — 11 in the same dwelling unit — and that most persons wanted to stay in their neighborhoods and their city.

NO. 1 NEED

When asked what they thought the No. 1 need for them was, the answer usually was "better housing."

The project area is bounded roughly by Orchard Lake Road, Franklin Road, the Pontiac Municipal Golf Course, and the Clinton River.

Hawkins said redevelopment of the area will require a team effort by Harambee, MDCDA' the city and the Pontiac school district.

He asked that the city:

- Apply for NDP funds, which he said can be approved by the federal government in a relatively short time.
- Initiate steps to upgrade offensive properties including two junkyards, the defunct American Forge and Socket Co. and other non-conforming uses.
- Hang onto all city-owned land in the development area so it can be used in a manner consistent with the development plan.

Hawkins noted that the city planning commission had reviewed the plan and had advised the City Commission to attempt to implement it.

Congress Gets 'Good' Rating as Session Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress, described by a Senate leader as good but not great, is over.

After trying for three days to muster the House quorum needed to approve adjournment, leaders gave up Monday and voted anyway to end the session.

This was possible because no one in either the House or Senate raised the question of a quorum.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, pronounced this valedictory:

"This has been a good Congress, not a great Congress, not a poor Congress."

SIGNIFICANT LAWS

The 90th passed much significant legislation including a civil rights bill with a broad open-housing provision, anticrime and gun control measures, a big increase in Social Security benefits, a temporary 10 per cent income tax hike, an omnibus housing bill containing new ways to help poor families buy homes, a "truth-in-lending" measure, and several important conservation bills.

But it also handed President Johnson some major defeats, including its historic blocking of his nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice of the United States.

It also failed to act on key Johnson requests such as ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

Johnson said last week he might call the Senate back after the Nov. 5 election to try to win approval of the nonproliferation treaty.

A band of House Democrats abandoned efforts yesterday to keep their branch in session indefinitely to try to force the Senate to act on a bill which would permit televised debates between the three leading presidential contenders.

Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said he was convinced it would be futile to prolong the session.

Cooperation Asked in City

Bag Your Leaves for Pickup

City refuse crews will pick up fallen leaves which are collected into containers or plastic bags.

But leaves that are raked from lawn areas into the street will only slow down all refuse collections, Gordon R. Matthews, superintendent of the Department of Public Works' operations division, said.

Matthews said the city needs cooperation of residents in order to carry out an efficient and economical leaf pickup program.

He said leaves put into containers or bags and placed at the curb will be collected by refuse crews on the regularly scheduled pickup day.

BAGS SUITABLE

"Large, inexpensive plastic bags suitable for this purpose are available at local stores," he said.

Matthews said if residents want to dispose of the excess leaves they can take them to the city's sanitary landfill site on West Kennett east of Oakland. The site is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

Matthews said city ordinance prohibits burning of leaves in the streets.

He also cautioned motorists about driving through any piled leaves left in the street. He said it is the habit of small children to burrow into these piles.

SWEEPERS COMING

Street sweepers will follow pickup crews to give streets a final cleaning before winter, he said.

Strikes Blamed for Building Lag in SE Michigan

Construction strikes in Michigan were blamed for a continued significant decline in building in the six southeastern counties during the first six months of 1968.

Total construction in Oakland County was 25 per cent below that for last year, according to the planning division of the Southeast Michigan Council of Government.

Contractors completed 2,639 single-family homes, 10 two-family dwellings, and 1,463 apartments during the first half of the year in Oakland County.

The total was 1,402 below that for 1967.

AMONG TOP 10

Troy was the only community to remain among the top 10 of southeastern Michigan in new construction. A total of 916 homes and 576 apartment units were involved in building permits.

West Bloomfield Township was second in the single-family category with 239 permits. Waterford Township allowed 179 home permits.

Pontiac and Pontiac Township were tied for third behind Southfield with 140 apartment units each.

Because of the construction industry strike, planners were unable to determine the amount of decline due to other factors.

Home-Rule Village Called Feasible

Bunny Run Residents Air Incorporation

By JEAN SAILE

ORION TOWNSHIP — How much will it cost?

What are the benefits?

Are we running into problems we can't handle?

These were the questions asked by some 50 residents of Bunny Run, a 45-year-old subdivision northeast of Lake Orion, at a meeting last night at Bunny Run Club House, called to explore incorporation as a home-rule village.

POSSIBILITIES OUTLINED

Members of a committee organized a year ago to seek better roads outlined the possibilities of incorporation as a means to road improvement. To most, it appeared that the idea was feasible.

Bunny Run, developed shortly after World War I as a summer resort on Long Lake and now containing about 500 year-round homes, has been plagued by problems of inadequate roads.

The roads in the subdivision are private — most of them only 25 to 30 feet wide — and much narrower than the county's standard 60-foot road right-of-way.

As a result the county has refused to accept dedication of the streets, which would enable it to provide the services necessary to smooth out the potholes and washouts which abound.

A grader, owned by the Bunny Run Country Club, has to be replaced and there is no money to do it, residents were told.

From state tax rebates, the committee estimated the area as a village might receive as much as $19,500. A 2-mill tax contemplated for the village would raise an additional $4,000.

GRADUAL BASIS

From this money it was expected that roads might be taken care of on a gradual basis, that necessary office help and equipment might be financed and that a capital improvements program be initiated.

The latter would finance replacement of the grader and eventually provide money for needed replacement of the dam on Bunny Run Lake, also lying in the area.

Fire and police protection would remain a township service, residents were told.

The problem of keeping the resident-owned club and parks private was aired, and John McGee, committee chairman, said he thought such an arrangement might be worked out legally.

SEWER LATERALS

Installation of sewer laterals, expected in Phase I of the township's Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor pact, could be guided better by a village, McGee said.

"We could ask them to put the sewers down the middle of the existing roadway, rather than condemn most of your front yards with a 60-foot right-of-way," McGee said.

He said sewer assessments will remain on an individual basis. Incorporation would not affect the drain okayed recently by the county and township, McGee assured.

Incorporation petitions, circulated last night, will be presented to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors within the next two months, McGee said. It will be up to the county to set the date for a special election on incorporation.

ELECTION COST

If the election fails, he said the county would bear the approximate $500 cost. If it passes, (by a simple majority) the new village would be expected to pay.

If the incorporation issue is approved a charter commission, also chosen in that vote, would have two years in which to present an acceptable charter.

Bloomfield Twp. Residents Fight Subdivision Paving

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — An estimated 100 persons from two subdivisions affected by proposed improvement of 10 streets there showed up at a township board public hearing last night, some in favor, most opposed.

The Meadowlake Farms and Maple Meadows Subdivisions are affected by the improvement plan which would cost each of the 161 lot owners $1,832, according to engineer estimates.

A petition had been circulated in early spring in favor of the improvement, which would be a blacktop surface with a gravel base with storm sewers and drains in accordance with specifications of the Oakland County Road Commission.

The petition was signed by 66.225 per cent of the lot owners in the affected subdivisions. State law requires 65 per cent approval before public improvements are made.

8 CHANGE MINDS

Attorney Charles J. Porter, at the hearing to represent eight lot owners who had signed the petition for improvement, said they now wished to rescind their action and register their disapproval.

Supervisor Homer Case told Porter that the signatures could not legally be taken from the petition since the board had officially accepted the petition July 8.

Two signatures on the petition were to be investigated. Lot owners who had signed the petition this spring had sold their properties to new owners who were not in favor of the street improvement.

A show of hands showed several in attendance in favor of the proposed improvements.

HEARING ADJOURNED

The hearing was adjourned to Oct. 28 after an hour and a half of discussion pending check of the petition signatures.

A second public hearing was held on Hickory Knolls Subdivision special assessments for a water main affecting 21 sites.

The total roll was confirmed on the low bid of $19,950, or a cost of $950 per site.

The assessments will be due Feb. 1, 1969. They may be paid on a 10-year installment basis, with six per cent interest.

DRAIN RESOLUTION OK'D

In other business, the township board approved a resolution of intent with Oakland County regarding a $1,700,000 relief drain in the township.

The drain would run across 14 Mile, north on Lahser past the Oakland Hills Country Club to Roland and Bradway.

Wixom Meeting Airs I-96 Plans

WIXOM — No action was taken at last night's meeting regarding the proposed closing of the Beck Road exit from I-96 and improving of the Novi Road and Wixom Road access to the freeway.

Another meeting is planned for Oct. 22 to present the Wixom City Council with the information gathered by city officials at last night's informal discussion.

Three representatives from the State Highway Commission presented plans for the improvement of the Novi Road and Wixom Road accesses after the proposed closing of the Beck Road exit.

Highway Engineer Paul VanRoekel and Frank Beach of the County Road Commission were also present to hear Wixom Mayor Wesley E. McAfee spell out reasons for keeping the Beck Road exit open.

Novi City Manager Harold N. Ackley was also present at the discussion.

Commerce Candidate Forum Is Tomorrow

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The Union Lake Jaycees will present a major-candidates night tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Clifford H. Smart Junior High School, 8400 Commerce.

The meeting will be held in the school auditorium. It is open to residents of the Union Lake area.

Approximately 20 nominees for state, county and local offices will make brief statements.

There will be a question and answer period at the conclusion of the program.

Chicken Dinner Friday

OXFORD — Order of the Eastern Star Chapter No. 266 will serve a family-style chicken dinner to the public from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday at the Masonic Temple, 22 S. Washington.

Request on Library Finances Goes to Rochester Attorney

ROCHESTER — A request for an investigation of Woodward Memorial Public Library financing from Friends of the institute was referred to the city attorney last night by the City Council.

The library, created by a trust fund and beneficiary of what is reported to be several wills, is owned by the elected library board.

Financing for general operations, however, has been maintained until this year by Avon township with contributions from Oakland Township.

With the incorporation of Rochester, city councilmen agreed to share on a per-card basis the cost of operation. Final details remain to be worked out.

DEEMED EXPENSIVE

A search of Probate Court records, asked by the Friends, was deemed lengthy and expensive by city Attorney Arthur Cox. He said he would write the group that such information should be available from the library board.

In other business City Manager William Sinclair was authorized to meet with township officials to see if a subsidy might be worked out for St. Onge Ambulance Service, which is now stationed in the area. The city and township previously had a subsidy agreement with Fleet Ambulance, but St. Onge reportedly offered lower rates.

A request for water service from Slavik Developers of Great Oaks Farm was referred back to the developer to see if permission could be obtained from the township to hook into the city water supply. The township last year halted such hookups without special permission, in an effort to strengthen its own systems.

Bonds to widen West University were sold to Knauer, MacArthur & Co. at an interest rate of 4.99 per cent. The low bid of Bill Fox Chevrolet to furnish two police cars with trade-in was accepted at $3,726.

SIDEWALK PROGRAM

A sidewalk construction program on East University will be investigated with Don Bishop of Rochester. Bishop was the only bidder on a more comprehensive program.

Crossing guard salary increases voted last month as retroactive to July 1 were moved back to Sept. 23, an action made necessary by charter restrictions, according to city officials.

The gates at the city park will be taken down and a chain installed. The gates are in poor condition, councilmen were told.

National Bank of Detroit will be asked to post a police guard on Walnut Friday afternoons to straighten out the traffic snarl that results from drive-in bank traffic.

Huron-Clinton Unit Backs 2 Programs

The board of commissioners of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has announced its support of the clean water and quality recreation bond programs on the general election ballot Nov. 5.

The authority is a regional agency with eight recreational sites in the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne.

The two general obligation bond issues would (1) provide $335 million for aid to communities in sewage treatment plant construction; and (2) Provide $100 million for recreation land acquisition and development including provisions for both state level projects and grants-in-aid to communities.

Council in Clarkston Calls for Downtown Face-Lifting

CLARKSTON — The need for downtown merchants to update and dress up their facilities as a lure to getting new business was stressed by village council last night.

President Frank Russell and Councilman William Kushman reported on a meeting with Pontiac State Bank officials regarding possible new bank construction on the village-owned parking lot at Main and Washington.

"They're interested," said Russell, "but they want to know that other merchants will continue to improve."

Both the bank and the postoffice, now located in too-small quarters on Main Street, have reportedly been looking for new sites.

Russell said contact will be made again with post office officials. "Since we now propose to get sewers, other sites they have rejected may now be all right."

John Adams, owner of several rental units on Holcomb between Washington and Miller, appeared before the council to protest recent rezoning of his property to single-family residential.

He asked that his property be returned to a "B" classification which permits apartments and was referred to the zoning board of appeals.

In other business the village adopted a uniform electrical code.

AUTUMN RAMBLING — Highland Recreational Park is a popular place on these pleasant fall days as people explore the many trails and wooded paths either in groups or separately. Picnic tables are ignored as visitors turn their attention to nature's seasonal scenic display of color.

Bonfire March Planned at NF

By KATHI CAMPBELL

North Farmington's band, cheerleaders and Raiderettes (NF pompon drill team) will lead a procession of NF students and alumni to begin the annual homecoming bonfire Friday night at 8.

Participants will meet at the tennis courts to join in the march to the bonfire behind the football field, according to senior Tim McMann, chairman.

Logs, provided by the NF students, will be tossed into a heap and ignited. Counselor Tom Eaton, the master-of-ceremonies, cheerleaders and Raider graduates then take the stand to lead a pep rally.

The bonfire will come to a close only when the wood or the spirit is exhausted.

RUMOR ON QUEEN

Rumor has it that Vicki Saliba will be crowned NF homecoming queen during halftime Saturday as the NF Raiders challenge the Franklin Patriots.

John Bouza, senior class president, will direct Act I of "Cinemaland" Saturday night at 9 in the NF gym.

Music will be provided by the Taxi, a local group.

Silent movies are to be shown on the gym walls.

AFTERNOON DRESSES

Girls should wear afternoon dresses and boys suits. Note to flower children: please reform—no corsages.

Debate coach, Mrs. L. Schneider expressed the enthusiasm generated at the debate team's first meeting when she said, "I think we can win."

Affirmative teams are seniors, Jeff Fishman and Steve Silverman; juniors, Steve Posen and Roger Voorheis; and sophomores, Wendy Cohn and Debbie Mordon.

Negative teams consist of seniors, Tom Conlon and Bob Hite; and sophomores, Sue Hultz and Ann Smith.

INTERSQUAD DEBATE

Meetings will be held Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. with an intersquad debate (for the benefit of the sophomores) scheduled for this Thursday.

Clubs are engaged in constructing homecoming floats for Saturday's parade.

German, French, Spanish and Latin Clubs invaded the World Market at the International Institute Oct. 10.

American Youth Hostels scheduled a canoe trip last weekend and are planning a combined bonfire, hayride, horseback riding and dance extravaganza for sometime in November.

Afro Club Born at Cranbrook

By WHITNEY FIELD

In the last few years, there has been a considerable influx of black students to Cranbrook School, forming a constantly growing, but up to now a relatively non-vocal minority.

This year, though, under the leadership of student Ed Perrin, they have come together to form the Afro Club, the only organization of its kind in the school's history.

The club basically has two goals to fulfill. First, members, as an organized group, are trying to assert their color and realize their identity and what they represent as an integral part of the community.

They are also establishing a better communication among themselves and discuss personal problems and the problems of today's society as they relate to their race.

INVOLVEMENT

Second, in being actively involved in all areas of school life, the students want to inform the white student of their ideas, aspirations and of the significance of their background and present situation.

This information will be communicated through personal relationships, creative articles and weekly newsletters.

Over 100 sophomores, juniors and seniors from Cranbrook and Kingswood have joined the school's Forum. It is probably the largest group ever assembled at Cranbrook for a single extra-curricular purpose.

Besides the presentation of guest speakers, one of the Forum's most important functions, is to keep students posted on other interesting speakers in the Detroit area.

ELECTION WORK

For those who want to work for the Democrats or the Republicans until the election, there will be opportunities to do so on Saturdays. Interested students will also be kept informed of upcoming rallies and demonstrations.

W-K Homecoming This Weekend

By DONNA FURLONG

Waterford-Kettering High School's seventh annual homecoming will be held this weekend.

Activities will begin Friday afternoon at the pep assembly. At that time Coach James Larkin will introduce the team to the school.

The 1968 homecoming queen and king will also be revealed. Voting will be held Friday morning.

Queen candidates are Lynn Bachelor, Hazel Goodwin and Marcia Steehler. Vying for king are Harry Booker, Bob Earl and Mac Miller.

Sophomore and junior representatives have already been chosen. Selected by the class of 1971 were Roxanne Steehler and Steve Clauser. The class of 1970 chose Gail Zollner and Paul Curry.

FLOAT JUDGING

During halftime W-K's marching band will perform while class floats are being judged.

Work has begun on the floats. They must be built on campus again this year. Floats will be judged on neatness, originality, how well each pertains to the theme, color and organization.

"Through The Looking Glass" is the theme for the Coronation Ball, Saturday.

ROYAL CROWNING

Beginning at 8 p.m. the highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the queen and king.

Music will be provided by the Johnny Wallis 5.

Tickets for the ball are $3 per couple and are being sold during lunch and at the door.

Working on homecoming as committee chairmen are Sue Barkell, decorations; Sid Graves, assembly planning; Missy McGrath, refreshments; Dan Orders, publicity; Bob Orosey, elections; Stephanie Stewart, tickets and invitations; and Sandy Whitehead, judges.

OLD SHEETS NEEDED

Decorations committee is still in need of old sheets. Anyone that has any please turn them in to the Student Council office.

Chairman of the directory is Chris Barger. Other members are Karen Church, John Copeman, Marilyn Craighead, Mike Haley and Mary Rexford.

As its departing gift to the school, the graduating class of 1968 donated $100 for planters to divide the cafeteria and the hall. The plants were donated by the biology classes.

SENIOR GIRLS MEET

Tonight, there will be a meeting at 7 for all W-K senior girls interested in participating in the 1968 Waterford Junior Miss Pageant.

The pageant is sponsored by the Waterford Jaycees.

PCH Students' Floats Compete

By PURVIS HUNT JR.

Once again the sophomores, juniors and seniors at Pontiac Central, are competing for the title of "best float," in the homecoming activities Oct. 25.

Each class president called special meetings throughout the week, to determine the individual theme and designs.

Pontiac Central's homecoming will end this year, with its annual dance which will be held in Central's gymnasium.

Chief and princess elections were held yesterday, but the votes are not tabulated yet. The results will be listed next week.

DEBATE SEASON

Pontiac Central is busy preparing for this coming debate season. This year the topic is: Resolved: That the United States should establish a system of compulsory service for all citizens. (All men and women should be drafted.)

Teams are formed for the first debate meet of the season to be held Thursday at Saginaw. PCH debaters and five other schools in the Saginaw Valley will compete in four different meets through December.

Oct. 3, the debating group was victorious.

PCH's drama this year, "Dark of the Moon," is a classic of rural America and a perennial favorite of community theaters.

BASED ON BALLAD

Based on the haunting ballad of "Barbara Allen," and employing a large cast in the imaginative settings of the Smoky Mountains, it recounts the story of an elfin witch boy who one day beheld the beautiful Barbara Allen, and immediately fell in love with her.

A compact is made in which he will be given human form to woo and marry her, on the condition that she remains true to him.

When Barbara gives birth to a witch child, the midwives burn the baby. In the frenzy of a religious revival Barbara is led to betray her witch boy husband in order to break the spell.

She dies and he returns forever to the world of mountain witches.

SHARING ROLE

Pete Marinos and Rick Humpheries will share the role of John. Carol Haanes and Ann Purdey will play Barbara Allen.

Sophomore Student Council representatives this year are Glenn Behler, Mike Boyer, Amy Girst, Pat Larson, Drew Marshall, Nadine Mathes, Margaret Parker and Rick Vershure.

Rochester Homecoming

Fairy-Tale Themes Floated

By MOLLY PETERSON

To many, the fall semester at school would not be complete without a homecoming. Rochester Senior High School is preparing for its homecoming this weekend.

Each class is participating by the making of a float which carries out this year's theme—fairy tales.

FLOATS NAMED

The homecoming court is complete. Sophomores chose Deb Kilbride and Kathy Upton as their representatives. Melissa Henry and Denise Marecki will represent the junior class, and Shannon Kucharek, Ad Munchiando and Linda Sloan, the seniors.

The floats are judged Friday afternoon during the traditional parade through downtown Rochester. Each class marches behind its particular float and is given points for orderly marching, spirit and the percentage of the class participating. The floats are then brought back to the school to await the game on Friday evening.

The Troy Colts are opponents for this year's game. During the halftime each class float and court are paraded in front of the stands and winners of the float competition are named and the queen is crowned.

Music for the informal dance following the game will be provided by "The Choice." It is sponsored by the senior class.

The semiformal homecoming dance will be held Saturday night from 8-11. Two bands, "The Yellow Pages" and "The Solitary Confinement" will provide the music.

DECORATIVE THEME

Decorations will center around the theme of Never, Never Land.

Tickets ($3 per couple) for the dance are available in the school cafeteria beginning tomorrow. They must be obtained before the day of the dance.

The spirit week preceding homecoming is hectic as each class hurriedly finishes its float.

Each day during spirit week marks a special event including class colors day, Bermuda day and spirit day.

Friday, the day of the homecoming game, an assembly is held.

CLASS SKITS

Each class presents a skit to the student body. The skit is judged on originality, presentation and response.

The winner of the skit presentation is then announced. At this assembly the various courts are also presented to the students of RHS. And the fight for the spirit jug is launched.

The upperclass girls of RHS also get a chance to perform on the football field this week. The annual Little Rose Bowl takes place at 8 p.m. on Thursday with the junior and senior girls battling in touch and tag football. Last year the class of '69 beat the class of '68 and it hopes to be the victor again in this year's game.

Sunday, a Pancake Breakfast will be held at the American Legion Hall in Rochester. All proceeds will go towards the American Exchange student fund at RHS.

The junior class offered students at RHS a change of pace during the week by sponsoring a "Skip Breakfast Day." The class sold doughnuts in the morning before classes and after school.

The National Honor Society for the 1968-69 school year has chosen Jack Wise, president; Chris Vizena, vice president; Susan Carlisle, secretary; and Mary Olson, treasurer.

Powder-Puff Football During Lahser Fall Festival

By GRETCHEN HAAS

Fall Festival Week at Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School opened yesterday with scratches, bumps and bruises as sophomore and junior girls battled in powder puff football.

Winners will challenge the senior girls' squad in today's game at 2:45 p.m.

A Student-Union-sponsored bake sale will also follow school dismissal.

Fall Festival activities will continue Wednesday with a bonfire at 8 p.m. Classes will compete in the collection of wood for the blaze.

CHEERING CONTEST

A student cheering contest led by varsity cheerleaders at the bonfire will be followed by the introduction of Lahser's athletic coaching staff.

Three-legged races, a tug-of-war, and a treasure hunt will be held Thursday afternoon.

Senior class members will cast their votes to elect the Fall Festival Queen on Friday.

PRINCESS'S NAMED

A pep assembly will preceed the 3:30 p.m. football game when Lahser's Knights will clash with Dearborn Annapolis at Bloomfield Andover High School.

Halftime festivities will include the presentation of the queen, court and princesses.

Saturday's semiformal dance. "Barefoot in the Park," will climax the week of events.

CAST CHOSEN

Cast members were chosen this week for the Lahser production of "Romanoff and Juliet" to be presented Dec. 5 and 6.

Taking part in the Peter Ustinov parody of "Romeo and Juliet" are Jim Ballmer, Jay Bond, Debbie Brooks, Martha Freitag, Pat Hall, Gildand Hegyan and Maggie Keteyian.

OTHER PLAYERS

Others are Chris Kingsley, Phil Leach, Gigi Maganus, Lisa Marshak, Nadine Penkava, Linda Priest, Frank Reid and Marc Tirrell.

Robin Dibner is student director for the play; Tom Bond; stage manager; and Curt Ostermann will manage lighting.

Mrs. Jack Strait, drama instructor at Lahser, will direct.

Our Lady of Mercy Students Vie in Annual Magazine Sale Drive

By MARY ANNE MADDEN

Our Lady of Mercy students traded textbooks for magazines and sales pitches as the annual magazine drive began Friday.

All homerooms and the four classes are competing to bring in the most subscriptions.

Each girl's quota is $18.

Those who sell more than this amount will be eligible for honorary club recognition and will be awarded additional prizes.

Prizes include stuffed animals, clothes, gift certificates and records.

Theme of the drive is spirit, according to the Student Council at a school convocation Friday.

Each class will wear spirit buttons and homeroom slogans.

The Stock Club has been added to the list of extracurricular activities available to students. Under the direction of Mrs. Karin Grandone, math teacher, the girls will be given an imaginary $10,000 to invest.

Buying and selling will be carried on at the biweekly meetings. If a student wishes to buy or sell before the meeting, she may see Mrs. Grandone or a "broker."

Forming a joint Film Club for the third year are Catholic Central High School and Mercy High School.

Moderators are the Rev. Robert Duggan C.S.C. and Sister Helen Marie R.S.M.

FILMS SHOWN

During the year six films will be shown including "Billy Budd," "David and Lisa," "When Comedy Was King," and "Darling."

This extracurricular club, limited to juniors and seniors, will meet Sunday evenings at Catholic Central.

Membership tickets will be available during lunch hours.

The first two films are scheduled for Oct. 20 and Nov. 17.

DISCUSSIONS SLATED

After each film there will be a discussion.

Mercy's home economics Career Club recently elected Mary Pilon, president; Katy Zeimet, vice president; Pat Steimel, secretary; and Mary Rahaley, treasurer.

Sister Mary Loyola R.S.M. is moderator.

"We hope to acquaint the girls with the various fields open in a career in home economics," said Mary Pilon.

To this aim, the club will include programs by speakers from Mercy College and Oakland Community College. Field trips and a spring fashion show are also planned.

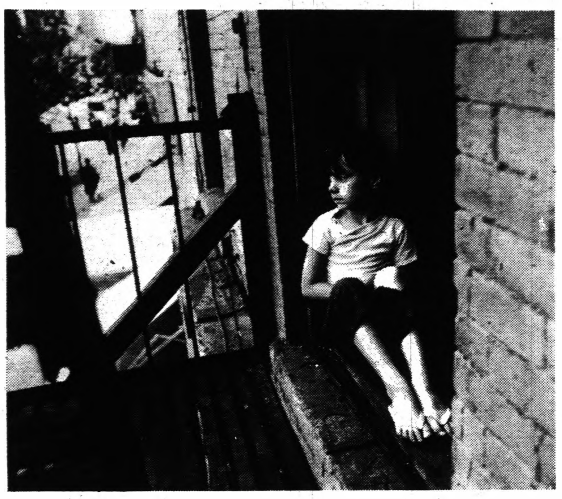
Give Her Dreams A Chance!



A little girl can have big thoughts. But what chance has she to realize them, without the care of living parents . . . if she's sick and cannot get proper medical attention . . . if she can't learn to play with other children and get along with grown-ups? Your United Way gift might make all the difference to one little girl. Or one little boy.

Tell 'Roomie' You Prefer Living in a Place of Your Very Own

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have shared an apartment with another girl for almost a year, and our lease is nearly up. My problem is that I don't want to live with this girl any longer.

She's a good kid, but she needs a babysitter. She is 20 years old, and she's afraid to stay alone for one night. I went home for a weekend, and when I returned she said she was so "afraid" to be alone she slept with the lights on.

ABBY

One day I failed to tell her I was going to do some errands after work, so when I got home (about two hours later) she was practically in hysterics. She was so "worried" about me, she was ready to call the police!

My mother agrees that I'd be better off living alone even if I couldn't afford such an expensive apartment. But how can I tell this girl?

UP A CREEK

DEAR UP: Tell her in plain English that you have decided to live alone. And don't start making up excuses or you will have a debate on your hands.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been having a big difference of opinion about the use of the word "BROAD," when referring to a woman.

I say it is a reflection on a woman's character, and no nice lady would care to be called a "broad."

My husband says that the term is more descriptive of a woman's figure (like a "broad expanse") and has nothing whatsoever to do with her character. Yet he admits that he would never use it around church people.

Where did this word come from in connection with ladies?

MRS. G.

DEAR MRS. G.: Beats me. But if one of my readers out there clues me in, I'll let you know.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 10-year-old boy, and I don't have anybody to play with. I asked my mother to get a brother or even a sister, but she told me not to bother her.

I told her I would be satisfied with a dog, but she said a dog is too much trouble. I had a rabbit once, but it died.

Is there some way I can get my mother to let me have a dog?

LENNY

DEAR LENNY: If your mother's only objection to a dog is the "trouble," write out an "agreement," stating you will take the dog for walks regularly, see that it's fed, and do everything you can to relieve your mother of the work of owning and training a dog. Then sign it. It's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: My 6-year-old daughter finished kindergarten in June. A 6-year-old boy in her class called her on the phone last week. He was the first boy ever to call her, so naturally she was excited. (So was I.) He called her nearly every day for a week.

She refers to him as her "boy friend." I thought it was cute. My husband says that by allowing the boy to call and seeming to be pleased about it I am encouraging the boy-girl relationship much too early. He says 6-year-old girls shouldn't have "boy friends," that he sees nothing "cute" about it, and we shouldn't allow him to call.

Abby, I'm not sure what I think. I don't want to be a mother who pushes her daughter into trying to be popular with the boys at too early an age, but I see nothing wrong with this. How do you think it ought to be handled?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: To make a big thing out of it now, telling her she's too young to have a "boy friend" and forbidding him to call, I think would give your daughter the idea that there is something—"wrong" with a boy-girl relationship. Let it run its course. It's natural and inevitable, though somewhat premature. He may not call her again until she's 15.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in the Marines and is stationed in Vietnam. Shortly after he arrived in Vietnam I gave birth to a baby boy.

Abby, my baby is nearly 6 months old and my father-in-law has been over to see him only three times! I told him he was welcome to come any time. He is a widower.

On Father's day I sent my father-in-law a card and I heard nothing from him. My husband would be very hurt if he knew how his father is slighting me. What is the best thing for me to do?

SLIGHTED

DEAR SLIGHTED: Call your father-in-law. Maybe he isn't well. Whatever you do, don't write to your husband about this. If there's anything a Marine in Vietnam doesn't need, it's a letter from his wife complaining about how his father is slighting her.

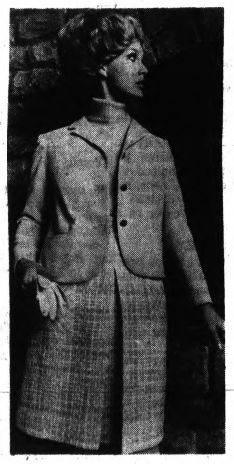
CONFIDENTIAL TO "ACCUSE": Yes, it is possible for two blue-eyed parents to produce a brown-eyed child. Consult a book on heredity and the Mendelian Law. And tell your sister-in-law about another law. The law of common decency with which she should become more familiar.



Pale it for the holidays in heavenly tinted coordinates by Koret of California. Nubby wool-cotton plaid skirt, double pocketed and single pleated rises to herald the crisp notched collar jacket of wool flannel and the contrasting cuddly angora blend turtleneck. Young Boarders Will Receive Proper Care

Dear Mrs. Post: My in-laws reside near a college and have decided to take in two 18-year-old girls as boarders. My mother-in-law is interested in obtaining a job. She would prefer to work during the night-time hours, at which time my father-in-law would be home to supervise the girls.

Would it be proper for the girls to be supervised at night by my father-in-law while my mother-in-law is working?—Mrs. B. K.

Dear Mrs. K.: Yes indeed! Were it only one girl, there might be some raised eyebrows in the neighborhood, but the fact that there are two should discourage any gossip. Your mother-in-law should feel perfectly free to work at night, knowing that her young boarders will be well chaperoned.

MAIDEN NAME

Dear Mrs. Post: I have recently been divorced after eight and a half months of marriage. I requested my maiden name again, which was granted. Do I sign my name Mrs. or Miss? — Thelma

Dear Thelma: Take back the "Miss." Even though you have been married, you cannot use "Mrs." with your maiden name.

Ruth Burczyk's Fiery Style Captures Symphony Audience

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

The Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Felix Resnick, opened its 15th season last night at Pontiac Northern High School auditorium with a program featuring Ruth Burczyk, pianist.

Using Liszt's monumental Piano Concerto in E. Flat Major as her vehicle, Miss Burczyk displayed a strong, masculine control of her instrument, a fiery, powerful style, an imposing and clean technique, and a polished professionalism with the turn of a phrase.

It was a carefully studied performance, carried off in the grand manner, with the many difficulties of the work easily under her strong and capable fingers, and the subtleties of the lyric passages artistically and tastefully delineated. Her touch is mellow and mature, and her communication with her audience both charming and direct.

Also featured on the program was Harold Laudenslager's Little Suite for strings, wood winds and piano. A contemporary work of wit, humor and verve, the suite is carefully constructed, its atonal combinations well disciplined, its rhythmic treatment both ingenious and delightful.

The short strident overture was satirical and pruposely pompous. The slow dance which followed had interesting rhythms and effects, especially in the unusual staccato accompaniments. Quick March, the third movement, was a charming, infectious bit of whimsy reminiscent of Shostakovitch's mocking style. A short chorale led into the final toccata, a more serious and somber conclusion.

DIRECTION

Resnick directed with skill and expertise, lending both smoothness and sprightliness to the difficult and unusual score. The unifying instrument in the work is the piano, which was handled with skill, dexterity and polish by the orchestra's staff pianist, Martha Welton.

The opening and closing selections, two familiar and popular works, were the Ballet Music from Gounod's opera, "Faust," and Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav." After a rather halting start in the violin sections, the Ballet Music was a stodgy, more or less pedestrian affair, without Mr. Resnick's usual confident and creative touch.

However, the closing "Marche Slav" more than made up for any inadequacies in the opening number. Taken at a much faster tempo than usual, the work emerged brilliant, clear and unhackneyed. In spite of slight overtoning on the part of the low brasses, the march was really a march, unsentimental, brisk and touching in its appeal, a fitting finale to concert well planned and conscientiously carried out to a rousing conclusion.

Member of Beverly Hills branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Mrs. William S. Dehm of Birmingham serves as a judge of entries in The Pontiac Mall Flower Show which opened Monday. She is shown weighing the merits of a harvest table set with colorful pottery for an entry headed "Cabbages." Theme of the show is "Of Cabbages and Kings" from the "Alice in Wonderland" adventures by Lewis Carroll.

Having just lost two teeth to the dentist's forceps, 10-year-old Kristin Kirberg didn't feel like going back to school Monday, so mother (Mrs. Ronald Kirberg of Sylvan Lake) took her to The Mall to view Mom's entry under the heading "The Sand Was Dry as Dry." Sand, driftwood, dried materials and cockleburrs in artistic arrangement earned Mrs. Kirberg a red ribbon. She is a member of the Sylvan Lake branch, WNFGA.

Harvey Korman Is Gaining Fame as Funny Second Banana

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Every comic dreams of playing Hamlet. Well, Harvey Korman has already done it, but has gained greater fame as probably the best Second Banana in television. When the big stars need a backup man to assure that things go well the call goes out for this towering funnyman.)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) If Harvey Korman had chosen baseball for a career instead of acting — and had been as good at it — he would have wound up as the best catcher in the business. And he would have yearned, but not too much, to have been a star pitcher.

* * *

As it is, Korman, at 41, has achieved a success more appreciated inside the acting business than outside it — as the best and strongest support a comedian or comedienne can have in a variety show with its diverse requirements.

Korman backstopped Danny Kaye through four-years of that star's weekly show and moved right over to perform the same function for Carol Burnett and her variety hour.

Six-feet four in height and a calory-counter, Korman can sing enough to get by, fake a little dancing but becomes a giant in the sketches — which is the place, these days, when the chips are down. He is a master of accents.

STAR HELPER

"My job is to help the star," Korman says flatly. "Whether it was Kaye or is Carol, I'm there to offer all the support I can. And, I may say, it is a joy to work with them — as it is with Lucille Ball, Dick Van Dyke, Jackie Gleason and, of course, Jack Benny. Every one of them is a consumate actor."

Korman, although he participates in some wild comedy, considers himself an actor who is playing comedy parts in a variety show. Other pretty funny people have been careful to make the same distinction between being a comedian and an actor. Benny and Art Carney are among them.

Korman, as backstop man for the stars, however, slips into all sorts of different roles. On the Burnett show, he has numerous acting chores to perform depending on the whims of the show's writers, but has registered solidly in sketches in which he plays Carols Burnett's husband.

"I don't look for comedy in the sketches," Korman explained. "The thing an actor always looks for is the give and take with the other performers. In the case of Carol, there is plenty of it. If I can find some place in the sketch that I can make a statement of some sort, Carol adores it . . . but of course, not all performers like to work that way when they are stars."

Co-star and general utility man for "The Carol Burnett Show" though he is, Harvey still would like to reach the top of his profession. But being the No. 2 man in a show has many advantages — financial security, steady employment, longevity in career and none of the trauma involved in trying to keep your own show somehow in the top third of the Nielsen ratings. Still, there is something about being the second banana that makes a performer just a little bit wistful.

He is, however, one funny fellow who does not dream of the day when he can play "Hamlet." He already has done that, on the stage, in Chicago, and to excellent critical notices.

"THE VIETNAM WAR"

by Rev Robert H Shelton, Former Missionary to Vietnam

The First Baptist Church of Pontiac is known at home and around the world for its faithfulness to the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. That must never change. The Great Commission never changes; we must be involved in getting the gospel into all the world. Our message never changes. it is the message of God's love expressed through His Son who came and took our sins upon Himself and died in our place and rose again. I trust people will never think of any other message than this message as they think of the First Baptist Church of Pontiac

A United Nations Christian Bible Conference conducted by Pastor Shelton in a small village South of Saigon

REV SHELTON

But there are many other portions of God's Word that now and then need to be emphasized and there are many issues that face us in the world today that need to be viewed in the light of God's Word

With that brief introduction, I would like you to turn with me for a moment to Hosea, chapter 1 verses 6 and 7. About half way through verse 6 we come to these words: "For I will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; but I will utterly take them away. But I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses nor by horsemen

It is within the power of God to destroy or to save a nation. I want us to think of this, particularly as it relates to the little land of South Vietnam. By way of introduction, let me pass on to you something I heard from Dr John Walvoord, President of the Dallas Theological Seminary In my estimation he is one of the comparatively few men in this country who is rightly divining the word of truth, expecially prophetical truth

Dr Walvoord believes that the Lord is sparing the United States from destruction because of two basic reasons

First, because of our kindness toward the Jews He refers to Genesis chapter 12, verses 1 through 3, especially verse 3, "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed

Here is the Abrahamic Covenant — The Covenant that was given to that Old Testament giant of the who became the father of Isaac and those that have brought a curse to Israel, you will find in turn nations that have been blessed of Almighty God and nations that have been cursed by God

Dr Walvoord beleves the second reason God is sparing America is because it is the home base for the modern foreign missionary program Did you know that 90 per cent of all foreign Christian missionaries come from America? And 95 per cent of all missionary funds come from the United States I believe of all the programs existing in the world today, there is no program so much in line with the Word of God; no program so important in God's sight as the program of World Evangelism — at home and abroad. Although our country, the United States, is no longer a Christian nation (actually, according to the United Nations it is classified as a pagan nation, and that is probably true), the fact is, of all the nations in the world, more is being done in the United States to implement the program of world evangelism than any other national church in the world. Dr Walvoord believes this is another reason why God is sparing our nation in spite of its sin; in spite of its rejection of the Lord. A great work is being carried on through the body of Christ in our beloved country

Now I would like to add one more reason to Dr Walvoord's list — one more reason why I think God is sparing the United States in spite of the way we have turned from Him. We still hold to the principles of freedom — principles that I believe are in line with the Word of God

Our country was founded upon these principles. Our forefathers came here because they wanted to be free to study, interpret, and obey the Word of God; and to worship Him as they pleased; to live according to the dictates of their own hearts. I am glad to say, for the most part, those dictates were in line with God's Word

Now how does all this apply to the struggle in Vietnam? I would like us to go back about 95 years, to that time when France came to Southeast Asia. Their goal was wealth and they found it in the little countries we now call Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam. These areas were tied together by the French and became a colonial possession of this great European country Things went quite well for the French for about 70 years, but the people, particularly of Vietnam, became very agitated and restless They no longer wanted the French to be their leaders and lords. They wanted to be free from the colonialism that France had imposed upon them. It was about that time that a nationalistic organization called the Viet-Minh began to form and make an impact in the French controlled colony of French Indo China. Unfortunately, as the months progressed, the Viet-Minh was taken over by Ho-Chi-Minh and what we now call the Vietcong. So the Vietcong was now the organization that the French had to deal with, and this was not a nationalistic group — this was a communist organization

The war that followed was long and costly and finally in 1954 in that famed battle of Dien-Bien-Phu, the French were defeated They had lost the war and their colony. For the French it was total defeat. They were out. They lost everything. They were finished.

But the Vietnamese people were still divided. There was that group headed by Ho-Chi-Minh who had their headquarters in the Northern Capital of Hanoi. Then there were other people who for many years (70 years of French rule) didn't know how to organize their own democracy, but they did know they didn't want to live under communism. This led to the Geneva Convention, and in July 1954 it was decided that at the 17th parallel this nation would be divided. The northern half of the country would be a communist state and the southern half of the country would be free

So there was a division of Vietnam It was a division of Vietnam. It was a division that divided the country geographically and also from the standpoint of population. It left about 12 million people in the North and 12 million people in the South

The following weeks were hectic Those who wanted to live under communism could move to the North and those who wanted to live in a free society could move to the South. Nobody went to the North, but over one million people fled to the South. They didn't want to live in a communist state. They didn't want to live under Ho-Chi-Minh. so they moved to the South. This then was the picture — the French government had lost its hold on Indo China North Vietnam was communistic and South Vietnam was free Then why the conflict today? People have already decided where they want to live and the kind of government they want Why the conflict. What's going on in Southeast Asia?

I think the reason is so obvious that most of us have missed it We have failed to understand that the struggle that is really going on in Vietnam, the problem behind the whole situation is not a matter of one faction within the country wanting this kind of government and the other faction wanting an other kind of government. That was decided in July 1954, in Geneva That was settled What is the problem?

I think the problem is very simple the agitation in the South today is just one more step toward international communism

I read a book last week in which the author tells of a memorandum that was sent by Chairman Mao Tse-Tung in 1953 at the hand of Chou En-lai, to the leader of the Soviet Republic, Joseph Stalin This memorandum actually was a time table of world conquest for communism. It was a blueprint. The information in this communique was reported to have been intercepted by a friendly agent, and was given to Senator William F Knowland who in turn presented it to our United States Congress

Frankly, I have read so many stories in recent months that I found out later were a little distorted and some of them were not true, that I made up my mind I had to know the truth about this communique So I traced Mr Knowland. He is no longer a senator but is the President and Publisher of the Oakland Tribune in Oakland, California In a telephone conversation I asked him about this communique He assured me that it was presented to Congress and that before the day ended he would have a copy of that communique in the mail. I am glad to say last Monday I received that communique and I have it here I want to share it with you

When Mr Knowland received this Communique he presented it at a session of Congres with this introduction

"Mr President. I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the body of the Record, as a part of my remarks, some information which came to me purporting to be an outline of Mao Tse-tung's memorandum of the new program for world revolution, carried to Moscow by Chou En-lai in March of 1953. I believe the information substantially states the communist policy on world revolution In any event, I think the Senate may find this matter of interest

In all honesty I should make this statement. Because this document was placed in the Congressional Record does not mean that Congress took any action. As a mater of fact, they did not take any action. and this record has almost laid dormant in Washington from that day to this. But Mao Tse-tung's memorandum was presented to Congress April 29 1954, 13 months after it was sent from Chairman Mao of China to Joseph Stalin in Russia

This memorandum is in eleven sections. actually there are eleven different steps that Chairman Mao outlined for the possession of the world. We don't have time to read all of these steps as each one involves a paragraph or two but in brief, here is the outline

Step number one — Asia to be the immediate goal

Step number two — World war is to be temporarily avoided

China Doesn't want a world war — at least not right now

Step number three — Diplomatic offensive

Step number four — Military preparedness

Step number five — Korean War

Step number six — Formosa

Step number seven — Indochina And this is the paragraph I do want to read. Remember Chairman Mao is speaking

"We shall give the maximum assistance to our comrades and friends in Indochina The experiences we have had in Korea should enrich their knowledge in fighting for liberation The case of Indochina cannot be compared with that of China In Indochina, as in Korea there is serious intervention of the capitalist bloc, while in China there was nothing so direct and vigorous The experience in Korea tells us that so long as there is foreign intervention and so long as we have no naval support, military operations alone cannot achieve the objection of liberation

"The military operations in Indochina should be carried out to such an extent as to make the war extremely unpopular among the French people and to make the French and Americans extremely hateful among the Indochinese people The object is to force the French to back out of Indochina preferably through the face-saving means of an armistice Once foreign intervention is out of the picture vigorous propaganda, infiltration, forming united fronts with the progressive elements in and outside the reactionary regimes will accelerate the process of liberation A final stroke of force will accomplish the task. Two years may be needed for this work."

When the memorandum was given, Chairman Mao had certain plans not only concerning the possession of the North but of the South Apparently he envisioned there would be a serious problem and that two years would be necessary to break down this resistance

Step number eight goes on to include the neighboring nations — Burma, Thailand, Indonesia and Malay Peninsula. Chairman Mao says, "After the liberation of Indochina, Burma will fall in line as good foundation has already been laid there The then reactionary ruling clique in Thailand will capitulate and the country will be in the hands of the people The liberation of Indonesia, which will fall to Communist camp as a ripe fruit, will complete the circle around the Malay Peninsula"

This falls in line with President Eisenhower's statemnt of the Falling Domino principle In other words, once South Vietnam is gone, then you cannot hold the rest of Southeast Asia. The next step would be Laos, Cambodia. Thailand, Burma, the Malay Peninsula, Singapore, Indonesia (which is now called Malasia) and the Philippines

Mr Eisenhower concurred with this — that once South Vietnam is gone you might as well wave goodbye to all of Southeast Asia The Communists know this too, and this is why they are so anxious to win South Vietnam but they are behind schedule. for Chairman Mao went on to say

"The British will realize under these circumstances the hopelessness of putting up a fight and will with draw as quickly as they can We expect that the whole process will be completed in or before 1960"

They are off schedule And what has thrown them off schedule? They did not think the United States would do what we are doing in South Vietnam

I would like to say again, although I know it is in opposition to the way most American preachers feel, that as I have observed this situation, one of the most noble efforts we have made as a country in recent years has been our involvement to save a struggling little nation that has already made up its mind. It does not want to live under the tyranny of communism

It has taken a bit of fortitude for President Johnson and those working with him to continue down this road with all the opposition they have received, and of all the people from the so called church more than anybody. (I use the term church in its loosest sense.) I think we should be praying for our President and for our nation. Our President knows, as Chairman Mao knows and the whole Communist bloc knows that there is more involved that just saving a little nation, now numbering something like 16 million people in South Vietnam.

In 1965 Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was interviewed by the U.S News and World Report and he made this statement.

"Every American should go to the Congressional record and read there a report submitted by William Knowland of a document from the plans of the Communists of China Though interrupted here and there it is on schedule and in the main we are seeing this fulfilled"

The Generalissimo was referring to the document I just read to you

In light of all this, I am amazed that we have men in high places who continue to talk about this unnecessary war This senseless war This immoral war If war is immoral then put all of them in the same category, but don't take this war out of that concept. World War I World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, put them all together. The stakes are just as high. Either we face it now or we will have to face it some day

I was amazed that a very distinguished Governor, whom all of you know, made a statement that was nearly as unthinkable as some of the statements from our senators He said the only thing to do now is to neutralize Vietnam. Frankly, I don't understand his thinking. To neutralize, according to the Communist vocabulary, is absolute victory How can you neutralize Vietnam? It is already divided in half The people have already decided what they want We must face the issue as it is and stop this verbal nonsense

As we conclude may I turn your thoughts again to the Word of God Frankly there are no direct references in the Bible to Vietnam, but there are some indirect prophecies I wish to leave with you

Our Lord Jesus tells us in Mat thew 24, versus 6 and 7 — "And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, see that ye be not troubled. for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet — For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places

Consider these verses

Daniel 11:44 "But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble Him. Therefore He shall go forth with great fury to destroy and utterly to make away many"

Revelation 16:12 "And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates, and the water thereof was dried up, that the ways of the kings of the east might be prepared."

Please keep in mind that usually when directions are give in scripture they are associated with the land of Israel. When you read North, it usually means North of Israel, East means East of Israel. So the verses we have just read speak of those nations to the East of Palestine

The day is coming when the anti-Christ will gather together on the plains of Megiddo the greatest army that has ever been assembled. His object will be to destroy the tiny nation of Israel. It's at this time that God will intervene. That one sided battle between God and the great army of the anti-Christ is pictured for us in Revelation, chapter 19 It is called the battle of Armageddon The church will have been raptured at least 7 years prior, so this battle actually concludes the end of the tribulation period and will be introduct on to Christ's reign of peace and righteousness here on the earth

One might ask what does the present conflict in Vietnam have to do with the future struggle in the Holy Land Let me repeat, there are no direct references in scripture to the tiny little nation of Vietnam but may I suggest the leaders of North Vietnam, as the leaders of China, and North Korea might well fall under the category "Kings of the East"

Another interesting observation appeared in the last issue of U.S News and World Report "Communist success in South Vietnam is having an impact on Arab states that are anxious for revenge against Israel for their loss of the June war Observes one Arab leader "The Vietcong heroism in Vietnam reveals to us Arabs the potential effectiveness of the armed struggle in Palestine"

The events of the past few months and the prospects of the coming days might well bring discouragement to the hearts of Christians were it not for these prophetical words from the lips of our Saviour

Matthew 24:6 "And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, see that ye be not troubled. for all these things must come to pass but the end is not yet"

For you who have never received God's crucified, resurrected Son as your Lord and Saviour may I urge you to open your heart by simple faith Those who have Christ as Saviour not only have the promise of Eternal Life but the peace that He offers to us in this life One of His final promises before going to the cross is found in John 14:27 — "Peace I leave with you My peace I give unto you. not as the world giveth. give I unto you Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid"

If you don't know this wonderful promise of peace, may I encourage you to open your heart to Him today He is waiting to enter upon your invitation

Entertainer Dean Martin answered quickly when America's three Apollo 7 astronauts asked by space television yesterday: "Keep those letters and cards coming."

MARTIN

Martin sent a telegram via the Houston Space Center, reminding the space travelers that he weekly tells his television audience just that.

"Hey guys," said Martin, "first, you steal my song, 'Houston.' Now you steal my 'Keep them letters and cards coming.' It's 10 to one when you land you'll start drinking.

"P.S. Like all Americans I am proud of you.

"P.P.S. I was higher last night than you are now."

Galbraith Has Mixed Feelings About 60th Birthday

"I shan't be terribly sorry when men begin to refer to me as old, but I'll be awfully sorry when women do," says John Kenneth Galbraith.

The author of "The Affluent Society" and "The Industrial State" spoke yesterday in New York City on the eve of his 60th birthday which he said he was letting "slip by as quietly and as unobtrusively as possible."

GALBRAITH

Galbraith, a professor of economics at Harvard, commented: "I'm no fonder of the notion of age than anybody else. One of the things that has always troubled me a bit is that life is rather short and you'd better crowd as much into it as possible."

Galbraith, a former U.S. ambassador to India, added the role of art critic to his life today with the publication of "Indian Painting: The Scene, Themes and Legends" which he wrote with Mohinder Singh Randhawa.

Actor Robert Taylor Gets Good News on Surgery

Actor Robert Taylor has the good news: Small tumors found in his right lung weren't malignant, a spokesman for St. John's Hospital said yesterday in Santa Monica, Calif. The lung was removed because of a fungus infection.

Taylor, 58, veteran star of films and television, was listed in good condition.

Judge Fines Himself $1 for Parking Violation

When Des Moines, Iowa, Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund, observing his 72nd birthday yesterday, received a ticket for overtime parking by meter-maid Helen Ritz, he promptly fined himself the minimum $1 fee.

Grund said he didn't think his colleagues, Judges Ray Harrison and Howard W. Brooks, would have been so easy on him.

"Harrison would have fined me $10 and Brooks would've put me in jail," he said jokingly.

Judge Grund, who was on an errand during a court recess, didn't put any money in the meter at all. "I was just going to be inside a few minutes," he explained.

TV Actor Victim of $5,365 Burglary in Honolulu

Hawaii-born actor James Shigeta was the victim of a $5,365 burglary Sunday in Honolulu.

Shigeta, 38, who is playing in television's "Hawaii Five-O" series, told police jewelry and cash were taken from his hotel room.

Shigeta, a resident of Los Angeles, returned to his native state last month for the detective series.

Exam Thursday in Gun Death

A Pontiac man who was taken into custody shortly after the shooting death of another man early Saturday faces preliminary examination Thursday on an open murder charge.

Arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum was John Byrd, 25, of 92 Crawford. He was remanded to Oakland County Jail without bond.

BYRD BOOKED

Byrd was booked for investigation of murder at police headquarters about 15 minutes after Thomas Johnson, 36, of 441 Bartlett was killed by a gunshot wound in the neck during an alleged argument on the 100 block of Clovese.

A witness told police that the victim was in a parked car when a man approached and the two began talking. A struggle ensued and two shots were fired, police were told.

Familiar Ring

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP) — Nearly two months after Ralph Larsen, Jr. of Burlington lost his wedding ring while working on a turkey farm belonging to the Central Soya Co., a truckload of turkeys from the farm was processed.

In the gizzard of one of the birds was found the missing ring.

Pontiac Man's Murder Trial Starts Today

The trial of a Pontiac man charged with the May 31 knife killing of a woman patient at Pontiac State Hospital began today in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Edward J. Stockwell of 999 James K, also a patient at the hospital, was arrested a few hours after the mutilated body of 19-year-old Dannelda Stewart was found by a guard in a little-used building on the grounds.

He was ordered to stand trial on first-degree murder earlier this month by Circuit Judge William J. Beer after three psychiatrists testified that he is capable of assisting in his own defense.

This followed an attempt by defense attorney Leonard Peres to have Stockwell declared a criminal sexual psychopath — a declaration which would have committed him to a mental hospital without criminal adjudication.

However, Beer rejected the motion.

Peres said he will argue that Stockwell was insane at the time the crime was committed.

The victim was the daughter of J. M. Stewart of 43498 Bordeaux, Utica.

'U.S. Deterrent Overwhelming'

ASHLAND, Wis. (UPI) — The Deputy Chief of Naval Operations said Monday night "no nuclear aggressor—even though he attempted to pulverize the United States — could escape certain destruction" from our nuclear submarine fleet.

Vice Admiral Francis Blouin told persons at the First Annual Admiral William D. Leahy Foundation dinner that "this overwhelming nuclear power" is the certain deterrent to war in the world.

"Nuclear deterrents is the shield which protects not only our national existence, but our relationship with every other nation on earth," Blouin said.

UAW Local Sets Forum on Labor and Social Issues

"Labor and Social Issues," a series of two-hour public lectures and discussions, begins at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

The meetings, to be held each Wednesday through Nov. 20, are being sponsored by United Auto Workers Local 653 in cooperation with the Michigan State University School of Labor and Industrial Relations.

The lectures will be at the UAW Local 653 Union Hall, 990 Joslyn.

Speaking on "Social Crises in America: An Overview" tomorrow will be Prof. Robert L. Green of Michigan State University, former education director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

About half of all families where the principal wage earner is a union member have incomes of from $7,500 to $15,000.

Cycle Gangs Hit

War on Toughs Slated

An all-out war in southeastern Michigan on what the Oakland County prosecutor calls "young toughs and hoodlums of outlaw motorcycle gangs who portray Nazi storm troopers" was announced this morning.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley called an urgent meeting for Monday of top law enforcement officials to develop a plan to meet "an alarming outbreak of brutal crimes, sadistic violence and outright warfare involving certain motorcycle gangs."

"They are going to be stopped and stopped cold," said Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson. "They must be swept off the highway."

Bronson is one of the top law enforcement officials from nine counties in southeastern Michigan who have been invited to the meeting in Lansing.

RECEIVED REPORT

Kelley called the meeting after receiving a report from Bronson on the seriousness of the problem in southeastern Michigan and after receiving complaints from individual citizens and "legitimate" motorcycle organizations.

Kelley and Bronson said that within the past month a series of rapes, kidnapings, beatings and other attacks relating to motorcycle gangs had been reported.

"There have been numerous complaints by citizens of being surrounded on the highways while driving their cars and being threatened or abused by phalanxes of motorcycle drivers," Kelley said.

"One disturbing sign has been the use of terror by some of these individuals through the wearing of tire chains, brass knuckles, hunting knives and other weapons on their uniforms."

'HIT RURAL AREAS'

Bronson said the problem also includes outlaw motorcycle gangs riding six and eight abreast on highways and congregating early in the morning at deserted homes and factories to plan their weekend activities involving clubs from three or four counties.

"Many times they zero in on rural areas that have volunteer or very few law enforcement officials," Bronson said.

"Outlaw type motorcycle gangs are those dedicated to the commission of violent and brutal acts as part of their twisted and antisocial code," Bronson explained.

Adoption Law Expert Cites Some Loopholes

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A group of legal experts studying the nation's adoption laws says that in some states a husband can "adopt" his wife.

This means that, in theory, the wife could inherit more of the husband's estate as an "heir" than as a widow, they reported.

Prof. William Pierce, who heads the group, said this is only one weakness uncovered so far in the adoption laws.

Pierce says that while the emphasis traditionally has been placed on the adoption of a child by a husband and wife together, many statutes make no provisions for adoption by a single person, such as a spouse who legally is separated but not divorced.

UNIFORM LAW BACKER

Pierce is president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which promulgated a uniform revising their original act, which they found to be defective in several respects.

The revised act, Pierce explained, will make an adoption decree in one state binding on other states and also would permit private placement of children.

Another example of revision cited by Pierce would be to specify who may adopt an adult, with one spouse not being permitted to adopt the other spouse.

In cases involving minors, the revised act will indicate whose consent should be obtained, Pierce said.

But, he added, it also will make it possible to dispense with the required consent if, for example, a natural parent has deserted the child.

JAMES M. HANNAN

New President for Hospital's Advisory Unit

The lay advisory board of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital has a new president, James M. Hannan, a Birmingham business executive.

Hannan of 344 Yarmouth was elected president of the 15-member board at its meeting last night. He succeeds Robert R. Eldred, president of Community National Band of Pontiac.

Elected vice president of the hospital board was Ralph Norvell, president of the Austin-Norvell Insurance Agency, 70 W. Lawrence.

Hannan, president of the American Safety Equipment Corp. of Michigan, Detroit, has served on the board since January 1966. He will head the board for two years.

The lay advisory board was established in August 1963. Norvell has served on the board since that time.

Pontiac Man Convicted in Traffic Death

A Pontiac man was found guilty yesterday of involuntary manslaughter in the June 9 traffic death of a 7-week-old boy.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams set sentencing of Richard Anderson, 24, of 239 Oakland for Nov. 13.

Bond of $1,000 was continued and Anderson was returned to Oakland County Jail.

He is charged in the death of Anthony Dye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dye of 108 Mary Day, who died of injuries suffered when Anderson's car collided with the Dye vehicle at Orchard Lake and South Saginaw. Anderson was arrested at the scene on a reckless-driving charge.

The boy died about nine hours later in Pontiac General Hospital.

Children Burned Igniting Gas Tank

Two Waterford Township children suffered burns on their faces and arms as a result of playing with matches yesterday, according to township police.

The children reportedly tossed a burning match into a car's gas tank. They were burned by a flash of fire at 7 p.m. police said.

Treated at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and released were two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis of 5606 Williams Lake, Larry, 7, and Scott B., 4.

Police said the boys were playing with matches in the parking lot of the nearby Community Activities Building, 5640 Williams Lake, when they were injured.

DAMAGE MINOR

The blaze was extinquished by a passerby, police said. Damage to the car was minor.
