House Hits Drinking Drivers

Election Day Is Monday in Pontiac

"Wait and wonder" will be the watchword Monday for the 15 aspirants for City Commission as Pontiac voters go to the polls to elect their representatives.

Two six-year posts on the local municipal Court also will be decided, but the two veteran incumbents are unopposed for reelection.

The incumbent Judges are Maurice E. Flanagan and Cecil B. McCallum.

In addition to voting for the judges, voters may cast one vote in each of the seven district races.

Thus, an elector that completes the ballot will cast a total of nine votes.

Precinct Hours

Pontiac's 43 voting precincts will open at 7 a.m. Monday and remain open until 6 p.m. Every one in line at the closing hour will be allowed to vote.

City Clerk Mrs. Olga Barkley said approximately 22,229 voters are registered to vote in Monday's election.

The names of 14 commission candidates, those nominated in the March primary, will be on the ballot. One other aspirant is seeking a commission seat as a write-in candidate.

Monday's vote puts the incumbent City Commission against a contingent of eight office-seekers. Only one of the latter is a former incumbent, former Pontiac mayor Robert A. Landry, who was defeated in 1964.

District 1 — T. Warren Fowler Sr., 54, of 59 Lake, local electrical and heating contractor; Charles M. Tucker Jr., 33, of 161 Earlewood, a real estate broker.

District 2 — Kenneth H. Cumberworth, 50, of 32 Newbury, an owner in a bar and restaurant; Robert C. Irwin, 46, of 345 W. Troop, a Pontiac realtor.

District 3 — William H. Taylor Jr., 50, of 247 Ottawa, an assistant advertising manager; William J. Winter, 39, of 292 Ottawa, district loan office manager.

District 4 — George Grba, 35, of 28 Kimball, a county employee; Leslie H. Hudson, 43, of 315 Galloway, hardware dealer and real estate broker.

District 5 — John A. Dugan, 57, of 383 Nelson, Pontiac Motor Division employee; William B. Hine, 52, of 400 DeSoto, GMC Truck & Coach Division employee.

Italian Liner Limps Into NY Harbor

NEW YORK (AP) — The Italian superliner Michelangelo, struck by a killer wave at sea, reached New York today with her dead and injured.

A wave said by her captain to be 50 feet high smashed into the sleek, white ship Tuesday, killing three persons, injuring 12 and twisting her superstructure.

"I will dare to say it was the most severe storm I have so far experienced in my 41 years at sea," said Capt. Giuseppe Soletti.

Asked if there had ever been any danger of sinking, Capt. Soletti looked incredulous and replied: "With this ship?"

"It felt like an explosion," said Dr. Jay Blaskovich of San Pedro, Calif. "It was rough, I can tell you that."

GREAT STORM
The 49,900-ton streamlined ship, put into trans-Atlantic service only last May, was tossed about in a great storm that delayed her voyage from Genoa by two days.

Her flag at half mast, she steamed into New York Har-ber in the early morning mist with a giant tarpaulin struck across her damaged superstructure like a bandage.

The ship's 775 passengers praised the Italian crew and Capt. Soletti.

"They were perfect, really a great crew," said Walter Wieland of Munich, Germany.

SLEPT UNAWARE

Some passengers said they had slept through the storm, blissfully unaware of any impending danger. Others said they had been struck by fear and haunted by the roar of the storm's fury.

"It was like we weren't going to make it," said Anthony Agius of Toronto, Canada. "I was scared to death. It was frightening as hell. You should have seen those waves."

German novelist Guenter Grass said he had played cards in a companion way with his wife until water started to come through.

"Then I knew it was serious," said Grass. "I went to one of the salons and started waiting like anyone else."

SHIP DAMAGED

Half of the ship's bow-spray shield, a three-inch thick steel sheet, was torn away by the huge wave. Her quarterdeck, 75 feet above the water line, was twisted and damaged.

A pleasant 35 was the low reading prior to 8 a.m. today. The mercury had climbed, to 61 by 2 p.m.

Other Bills Passed on Liquor in Armories,
Clean Roads, Water

LANSING (AP) — The House cracked down on first-offense drinking drivers yesterday.

And it opened state armories to the serving of liquor in a session that ran from midmorning to nearly midnight. It also passed bills to beautify highways and clean up state waters.

Passed on a 63-39 vote and sent to the Senate was a bill originally introduced as a new weapon in the fight against juvenile drinking and driving. It was amended to require a jail sentence and fine on a first conviction of driving while intoxicated.

A first offender would automatically lose his driving privileges for a year, pay a $100 fine and spend at least two days in jail. A second offense within five years would result in three months in jail and suspension of driving privileges for two years.

$300 FINE

If the second offense came more than five years after the first, it would result in a fine of at least $300 and probation.

To reduce water pollution, the House approved a new $5 million program that would enable local governments to double their money for waste treatment projects.

The armories bill would allow use of liquor by outside non-military groups using the facilities.

The highway bills would allow the state to acquire land within 1,000 feet of an interstate freeway or state trunkline for scenic purposes, and require the screening or removal of junk yards.

AF Destroys Record 42 Red Trucks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers caught several North Vietnamese convoys in the open and destroyed 42 trucks, a record number in the 14-month-long war against Communist supply lines, an Air Force spokesman said today.

Twenty of the vehicles were caught in the Mu Gia Pass, clogged by landslides in last Tuesday's B52 raids.

The other were hit on alternate routes the North Vietnamese have been trying to use to reach the Ho Chi Minh Trail leading south through Laos and Cambodia.

The alternates are mostly trails with none of the advantages of Highway 15, now described as in a state of chaos around the area of the mountain pass.

The raids yesterday by Air Force and Navy carrier bombers totaled 49 strikes against the north.

PEELED OFF

Thunderchiefs peeled off from the assault on the Mu Gia Pass convoy to destroy a highway bridge at Dong Ca Thom, not far from the pass and about 60 miles north of the 17th Parallel border.

Navy planes from the carriers Kitty Hawk and Ticonderoga hit 40 targets on 28 missions, destroying 10 trucks and a large 34 miles southwest of Thanh Hoa and two more cargo junks 29 miles north of Vinh.

Air power was unleashed in South Viet Nam as well with two B52 raids on enemy troop concentration areas early today in Quang Tri Province, 55 miles northwest of Hue.

Viet Project Probe to Hear MSU Chief

LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University President John Hannah has agreed to appear before a legislative committee to discuss reports of the university's involvement with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in South Viet Nam.

Hannah will appear before the House Ways and Means Higher Education subcommittee, said the committee chairman, Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit.

Ramparts magazine has charged that MSU served as a front for CIA operatives in a 1954-65 mission to advise former President Ngo Dinh Diem in setting up of a police force and civil service system.

U.S. Buys Bombs Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States sold a German firm 7,562 bombs as junk for $12,736 two years ago and now, in wartime, is buying back 5,570 of them for $114,500, it was learned today.

The Defense Department provided this information in response to questions about the transactions which Secretary Robert S. McNamara said Thursday indicate no shortage of bombs for the Viet Nam war.

McNamara disclosed the repurchase during a press conference to answer charges by House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford that the war has been shockingly mismanaged and hampered by a bomb shortage.

McNamara denied this, pointing to increasing tonnages of explosives being dropped against the Communists in the Southeast Asian country.

Then the defense chief mentioned that the United States was buying back 750-pound bombs from a German firm that bought them in 1964 for fertilizer purposes. The nitrates of bombs are plant nutrients.

LAUGHING ANSWER

In response to a question about the bomb repurchase, McNamara said with a laugh: "Well, I would certainly hope we aren't paying more for them than we sold them for."

The figures provided today show that the United States sold the bombs for $1.79 each and now is paying $21 apiece to get them back.

The United States halted production of 750-pound bombs, favored for most missions in South Viet Nam, in the mid-1950s after the Korean war. Only recently did orders go out for renewed production.

Due to the time required to tool up for production, fresh supplies of the 750-pounders aren't scheduled to be available before July.

Drawings Approved for County Facilities

Oakland County officials yesterday moved a step closer to launching a $5-million building program by approving plans for a proposed courthouse wing, court tower remodeling and a health center.

The buildings and grounds committee of the County Board of Supervisors accepted the working drawings on the projects previously approved by the supervisors.

Bids will be taken on the estimated $3.3 million wing and the $450,000 court tower alteration project by mid-July.

Construction on both is expected to begin about Aug. 1.

The new health center to be located at Greenfield and Catalpa in Southfield will cost an estimated $971,000 with an additional $105,000 earmarked for furniture and equipment.

Bids on the health center are scheduled to be received early in July. Work will begin about two weeks later.

The new wing will be located at the east end of the courthouse tower building and will be similar in size to the present wing at the west side of the central building.

Rectangular in shape, it will extend north and south. The west wing extends west from the tower.

Both the new wing and tower remodeling projects were planned because of existing crowded conditions at the county facility.

Ultimate plans call for two more wings to the building—at the north and south.

Anti-Viet War Protest Proves Taxing

George R. Rosenblatt of New York is against the war in Viet Nam and wants his view to be counted.

So when he went to pay the balance due on his income tax yesterday he stuffed each of 174 dollar bills in separate envelopes—each marked “not to be used for war.”

Internal Revenue Service agents at the Brooklyn office took 45 minutes to open the lot and assure the count.

But patience ran out when Rosenblatt began an informal speech to his fellow taxpayers. Six marshals rushed him out.

Said Rosenblatt, “They were very serious, and they told me not to come back.”

NASTY DISPOSITION — Despite an earlier legal dispute, bloodless bullfights were introduced to a small audience of about 1,500 persons last night in Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals sought unsuccessfully to bar the show. The show went on and assistant matador Raul Capetillo was hoisted off his feet by this bull that displayed a nasty disposition. Capetillo was not hurt.

Bullfights Bow in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia, the shrine of Quakerism, the Liberty Bell, and main line aristocracy, resounded to the third of hoofs and roars of “ole!” last night as bloodless bullfighting made its much-debated debut here.

Whether the daring matadors, twirling capes, and 700-pound black bulls would be seen here again, however, depended on the outcome of a judicial hearing today. The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is still seeking to block the bullfights.

The society had asked for a preliminary injunction which was refused earlier this week by Common Pleas Court Judge Edward J. Griffiths. He left the door open to further action, however, by scheduling the second hearing.

Judge Griffiths, accompanied by Administrative Judge Vincent A. Carroll, was among the 1,500 spectators at last night's first of four performances scheduled by Bravo Enterprises, Inc.

Griffiths, who said he had read two books on bullfighting in preparation for the show, took notes by the light of a flashlight.

TAKING NOTES

Also taking notes were members of the SPCA who had been authorized by the judge to examine the condition of the bulls before and after the fights, or “displays.”

Robert G. Hudson, director of operations for the society, after a preperformance examination of the first bull, said the animal appeared in good condition. He declined to comment, however, after a second examination following the display.

Jeff Ramsey, 22, an American-born bullfighter who performs in Mexico City and who was technical adviser for the bullfights here, said that unlike the Spanish and Mexican tradition, the bloodless bullfight is conducted without injury to the bull.

Banderillas, the barbed spears jabbed into the bull in traditional bullfighting, were simulated by blunt wooden sticks which could not pierce the skin.

FALSE SWORDS

The matadors carried false swords, and even those were thrown away before the final maneuver, in which the traditional kill was replaced by a tap on the bull's shoulder, by the matador's empty hand.

What remained the same was the daring capework, and the danger to the matadors from the bull's sharp horns, which Ramsey said had not been blunted or capped.

No horses were used in the ring with the bulls.

Gustavo Castillo, 24, of Mexico City was thrown twice by a bull, but escaped serious injury.

In N.Y. Safety Drive

Story of Own Death Spurred Senator

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A minor event — an elevator operator's garbled account of a traffic accident — looms large in the life of a New York State legislator as he works to develop a safer automobile.

Recent probes into car-safety features have thrown a spotlight on the Empire State's "go-alone" project to design a car aimed at cutting in half accidental highway deaths.

The first step, a $100,000 feasibility study, has been completed. Engineers say the study clearly indicates that such a vehicle — a "streamlined straphanger" in the words of one — is a definite possibility.

The state is in the process of allocating $300,000 more to pay for the actual design of the proposed car. That phase is to be completed by next year.

Plans call for an expenditure of $4 million to $5 million to build 8 to 10 prototype models that could be crash-tested at various speeds to determine whether safety performance equals engineering promise.

The state's effort, however, might never have been launched if an elevator operator in the capitol at Albany had not misheard the name of a legislator involved in an automobile accident.

State Sen. Edward J. Speno, who was killed in a traffic accident in 1960, said that he had overheard the operator telling another person that "Senator Speno was killed in a traffic accident."

Speno, a Republican from Long Island, says that, on the day of the accident, he entered an elevator in the capitol and overheard the operator telling another person that "Senator Speno was killed in a traffic accident."

Southfield Collision Leaves Two Dead

Mrs. Lorraine Rice, 64, of Detroit lost control of her car and crashed head-on into an automobile driven by James H. Hobin Jr., 20, of Royal Oak, killing both drivers.

Southfield police said the accident occurred on Southfield near 13 Mile. The victims were dead on arrival at William Beaumont hospital.

Two other cars hit the wrecked automobiles. However, neither driver was hurt. The wreck tied up traffic for more than an hour.

Two Are Arrested in Fight Among Group of Youths

A fight involving a group of youths at Dequindre and Auburn road in Sterling Township, last night resulted in the arrest of two of them.

Stephen Johnson, 20, of Ferndale and Angelo Dicenzo of Oak Park were charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Officers from the Warren post of the State Police said about 20 were involved in the disturbance.

Miriani Says He Won't Quit

Detroit Councilman
Proclaims Innocence

DETROIT (AP)—Proclaiming his innocence, Louis C. Miriani said after a federal court arraignment on income tax evasion charges Friday that he has no intention of resigning his seat on Detroit's Common Council.

Miriani, 69, a former mayor, is accused in a federal grand jury indictment of four counts of willfully failing to report $258,000 income from 1959 through 1962.

Judge Thomas P. Thornton, before whom Miriani entered pleas of innocent on all four counts, assigned the councilman's case to Judge Wade H. McCree Jr. Court attendants predicted the trial would begin in three to six months.

Miriani was released on $1,000 personal bond. If convicted he could be sentenced to five years imprisonment and fined $10,000 on each count.

LEFT COURT

Leaving court, Miriani told newsmen: "I am innocent of these charges, and I am in a fight to clear my name and reputation."

Asked if he planned to resign the council seat he won last year, Miriani replied: "Definitely not. I was elected to office, and I still feel I can do an effective job."

The government contends Miriani failed to report all his income for the four years and owes the government $100,000 in taxes, penalties and interest.

Rhodesia Won't Take Oil off Docked Ship

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—Prime Minister Ian Smith said today the tanker Ioanna V's 18,000-ton cargo would not be pumped into Rhodesia because he did not want to aggravate the difficulties of Portugal and the ally's Greek crew.

In a broadcast, Smith also said Rhodesia would cut all its remaining diplomatic ties with Britain.

The Ioanna V is anchored at Beira in Portuguese Mozambique and the British government has been putting pressure on the Portuguese government to prevent movement of her oil through the pipeline from Beira to Rhodesia.

The Beira port authorities put her under the control of Portugal last Thursday after both the Panamanian and Greek governments revoked her registration. DENIES AUTHORITY

Smith said last week's U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing Britain to use force to halt tankers believed carrying oil for Rhodesia was not valid because two permanent council members—France and the Soviet Union—had abstained from voting.

Before the resolution, a Royal Navy boarding party had tried unsuccessfully to persuade the Ioanna V's captain from docking at Beira.

By referring the oil embargo to the United Nations, Britain had "unwittingly acknowledged Rhodesia's independence," Smith said.

Smith said Britain's behavior at the United Nations and a "blatant case of espionage" by a member of the British mission in Salisbury had forced his government to cut remaining diplomatic ties with Britain.

Smith's mention of espionage apparently was a reference to the expulsion from Rhodesia last month of Neville French, the British mission's first secretary, who was accused of spying.

Board to Act on Overpass

The Waterford Township Board Monday night will reconsider specifications for a proposed pedestrian overpass at the Scott Lake-Otsego intersection near a new elementary school slated to open in September.

Action on specifications for the estimated $15,000 structure, to be financed equally by the Township Board and Board of Education, was tabled April 4 for two weeks.

Board members wanted verification that sewer facilities for the school would be provided soon enough for the building to open by September.

Designed to upgrade walking safety for pupils, the overpass would be the third to be built in the township.

In other business, the board is expected to accept a bid for purchase of a fire truck body and equipment.

APPARENT LOW BID

Fire Trucks, Inc. of Mount Clemens submitted the apparent low bid of $13,262 last Monday, underbidding four other firms. Bids ranged up to $15,900.

Bids were referred to Clerk Elmer Fangbener and Fire Chief Lewis Goff for analysis and they will report to the board Monday night.

Demonstrate for Civilian Rule

Da Nang Buddhists Tell Ky to Resign

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 3,000 demonstrators took to the streets of Da Nang today and demanded that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government give way to civilian rule.

One speaker burned a copy of the government's decree promising general elections in three to five months. Many of the marchers were civilian government employees.

The noisy rally and march followed by a day a statement by Buddhist leaders in Saigon reaffirming support of the government's election promise. The Buddhists warned demonstrations would follow if the regime did not keep its promises.

The Saigon Buddhist statement made no reference to demands, voiced in the north, that Ky resign immediately and a transitional government take over until elections are held.

TWO CRITICS

The demands were made by two persistent critics of the Ky junta, Li Gen. Nguyen Chan Thi and Mayor Nguyen Van Man of Da Nang.

A spokesman for the Saigon Students' Union announced the union's members would go in a 24-hour hunger strike to protest Buddhist monks' accusations that student leaders had accepted a huge bribe in return for government support. The union usually has 200 to 300 active members.

In Hanoi, the North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan today denounced one of the moderate Buddhist leaders as "a U. S. agent under a monk's cowl." He is Thich Tam Chau, who has called for a non-violent struggle against Ky's government but has made it clear that to be anti-government does not mean being anti-American.

The paper charged Tam Chau was playing a double game in the current political crisis by using the Buddhist movement to put pressure on the government while also helping the government suppress the mass movement against it.

GRENADE HURLED

A terrorist hurled a grenade at a U. S. military intelligence jeep near Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport today. Two U. S. soldiers in the vehicle escaped injury, but a Vietnamese civilian was slightly hurt.

Romney Sets 2nd Meeting on I-696 Route

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney has called a second meeting with 10 Oakland County community officials and Highway Department officers to discuss routing of the proposed I-696 freeway.

Romney said the meeting will be held Thursday here and attended by the mayors of Berkley, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Huntington Woods, Lathrup Village, Madison Heights, Oak Park, Pleasant Ridge, Royal Oak and Southfield, in addition to members of the Highway Commission and Highway Director Howard Hill.

"During our March 16 discussions concerning proposals for location of Interstate Route 696 west of I-75, it was agreed that the Department of State Highways would study alternate proposals and report back in a joint meeting with the leaders of the affected communities," Romney said.

"Highway Director Hill advises that preliminary studies of the alternate locations are near completion and that he and his staff will be prepared to report their findings next week."

Train Crash Injures 28

PONTREMOLI, Italy (AP) — Twenty-eight persons were injured Friday night when a passenger train crashed into a derailed freight car in a tunnel near Pontremoli.

Cuba Trip Charges Dismissed

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed charges against three college students accused of organizing a Cuban trip despite a State Department order against it. The judge said, in effect, that Congress had not granted the State Department jurisdiction in such cases.

The decision was handed down in Brooklyn U.S. District Court Friday by Chief Judge Joseph Savat, who tried the three without a jury last year. They made the trip during the summer of 1963.

The defendants were Lee Levi Laub, 27, Stefan Martinot, 26, and Anatole Schlosser, 28, all of New York.

A fourth defendant, Phillip A. Luce, was granted a separate trial.

CHARGED AS ORGANIZER — Laub and Martinot made the trip to Cuba and back on a route that took them to Europe, both going and coming. Schlosser did not go but was charged as one of the organizers.

Zavatt's 81-page ruling said Laub and Martinot "departed from and entered the United States bearing valid passports within the meaning of 'depart' and 'enter' and valid passport."

The government indicted the students in 1963 on charges of leaving and reentering the United States without valid passports. They had passports, but the indictment said they lacked the special validation for Cuba required by a State Department regulation issued in 1961.

However, Zavatt ruled that authority to bar travel to Cuba apparently rested with Congress, not the State Department.

Body of Lake City Man Is Found in Grass Fire

LAKE CITY (AP) — The body of Raymond Prater, 64, of Lake City, was discovered in flames of a grass fire Friday on a rural plot he owned about midway between Lake City and Cadillac on M55.

State Police of the Cadillac Post said it had not been determined how the fire started or whether Prater may have suffered a heart attack or collapsed while fighting it.

City Hall Meets Elderly's Need

In approving at Tuesday's meeting a preliminary application for Federal funds to initiate a housing project for its elderly, the City Commission took a significant step in that direction.

The housing facility would be entirely financed by the national government, though subject to step-by-step approval of local authorities.

While designated as housing for senior citizens (those 65 or older), the design has a semblance of public housing, since the government requires that after a nine-month period following completion any vacancies will be filled from applicants regardless of age.

Patterned after Dearborn's 79-unit Townsend Towers, one of the pioneer developments in the field, local plans envision accommodations for 250 persons.

Eligibility for residence is based on "means," with monthly rentals scaled accordingly. The minimum at Townsend Towers is $45 a month, although elsewhere it has been possible to establish a lower base.

The Press commends the City Commission on its progressive action on behalf of Pontiac's elderly.

Ovation for Young Well-Deserved

Some 600 white and Negro persons attending the Urban League annual dinner Wednesday night gave speaker Wm. M. Young Jr. a standing ovation when he finished.

It was well deserved. Young, the executive director of the National Urban League, delivered a compelling, logical appeal for racial equality.

One of the vital points he made to those assembled was this: Don't consider attending this function once a year as your share of the job of solving our race problems. It takes more than sitting down together and sharing a meal.

Another score: Sure, Pontiac has made some progress. Sure, it's better than Selma, or Jackson, Miss., or South Africa. But is it as good as it could be, and should be?

The Urban League is fortunate to have a young man of Young's ability leading its work and Pontiac was fortunate in having him here.

New Area of Interest Exposed to Girl Watchers

Things may seem to be in good shape to the casual observer of the short-skirt craze (and have you heard any complaints from observers?), but the ugly truth is that the fascinating fact is creating problems.

One problem is what to do about knees that seem not to have been made for high hemlines.

Another is what to do about that heavy hand that goes around the stocking top.

Well, it stands to reason that American ingenuity which can conquer space isn't going to strike out on a problem like this.

So the cosmetic people are coming out with special creams, lotions, make-up and things to make plain knees unplain and beautiful.

And the hosiery manufacturers are scheming to make that stocking-top band more glamorous or eliminate it.

It will be interesting to see what happens.

Won't it, fellows?

Con Men Ply Their Trade on the Trusting

A recent survey conducted by the National Better Business Bureau, Inc. shows that the con artists are thriving today in record-breaking fashion. The NBBB polled 114 Better Business Bureaus, asking them to list the most common frauds and rackets in their communities.

No. 1 around the Country was "bait and switch" wherein a fantastically low-priced item is advertised as bait to lure the customer, who is then switched to buying a higher-priced product.

The rest of the rackets in order were: Home improvement plans, charity frauds, phony credit certificates, business opportunity schemes, debt consolidation gouging, victimizing the aged, health quackery and earn-money-at-home gypsies.

Health quackery topped all the others in dollar volume.

All of these rackets are but variations on old, time-tested themes, yet millions continue to fall for them—sometimes out of need, sometimes out of greed, but always because of naive trust and failure to investigate, preferably through their local BBB, before handing over or signing over hard cash to smooth-talking strangers.

Johnson Is a Restless President

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON — President Johnson is a restless man, bent on doing things his way, even though he gets criticized. He's been criticized for not holding more news conferences. He's held fewer, not more.

President John F. Kennedy liked to read a book at night. Johnson takes a bundle of government papers to his bedroom with him, and, as if that were not enough, telephones people all night long.

Kennedy had a mixed life, government and social. Johnson's whole life is government and always has been, with some interruptions for the necessary social occasions.

Kennedy might stride along the sands at Cape Cod or relax on a yacht. Johnson's idea of relaxing is to march around the White House lawn, drive his own car around his ranch or get a massage every night before bedtime.

And sometimes, in sheer frustration, it seems, he gets away from the center of something that plagues him but can't be solved right away.

Earlier this year, when his Viet Nam policy was being heavily criticized in the Senate, but he had no intention of changing it, he abruptly flew to Honolulu for a conference with South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ky's enemies later accused him of being a lackey for running off to Hawaii to meet Johnson.

And as the Buddhists were in the midst of trying to topple Ky's military government, and the American government seemed in a box about doing anything to stop it, Johnson flew off to his Texas ranch.

Then, after a few days there, he made a 24-hour trip to Mexico, although all this seemed like a good time for him to stay close to the White House since so much was at stake for the United States in Viet Nam.

SIMPLE ANSWER

He could give a simple answer to this, of course. He was in just as close contact with the State Department and Pentagon on his ranch as he would have been at the White House. Possibly.

Nevertheless, while some of his actions—like the sudden trip to Honolulu—have been criticized as impulsive, his critics would have more difficulty putting the impulsive brand on his decisions, like ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam resumed after a long pause while peace efforts were made.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

SYMBOLS OF FAITH

Among the many ceremonies that affirm the Jewish faith, the Seder, celebrated on Passover Eve, is the first that tells the story of Israel's deliverance from Egypt and impresses the lessons of faith in God. The symbols used aim to give each participant a sympathy with their forefathers of the generation of the Exodus, of the trials of their life in bondage and the joy of their triumph in freedom.

Seder literally means The Order of the service. It is a meal of intense spiritual tone mingled with serious observations on Jewish life and a light vein of good humor for the children. The visible symbols, the living word of instruction and the ceremonial acts all help to bring the parent and child into a warm union of religious sympathy.

The lighting of the two holiday candles symbolizes the warm glow of happiness the festival brings. The four cups of wine—the four divine promises of redemption made to Israel in Exodus. The unleavened bread—the hardship and haste of their departure from Egypt. The parsley—gratitude to God for the four seasons. The bitter herb—the embittered life of the Israelites in Egypt. The Haroseth (mixture of apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine)—the mortar used in Egypt. The roast shank bone—the Paschal lamb. The roasted egg—the free will offering in the Temple. And the Afikoman or dessert is hidden away in the Seder to keep the children's interest.

For thousands of years this tradition has meaning and strength to the power of faith of each succeeding generation of Jews.

Confident Living:

Enthusiasm Will Keep Us Going

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Enthusiasm makes people go and keeps them going. And sometimes it makes them go high and far. For example, one of the most widely traveled men in the world today is the famous author and news commentator, Lowell Thomas.

DR. PEALE

From youth on, he has found high adventure in remote corners of the earth. He might be called a 20th century Marco Polo. Not so long ago he said to me, "I have always the urge of faraway places. I've got to go there."

But I exclaimed, "You've already been everywhere!"

"I haven't yet hunted wild horses on the Arabian steppes," he said with a grin. This exceptional man, though of quiet and modest personality, is one of the most enthusiastic human beings I ever knew. I asked him where he got his inexhaustible enthusiasm.

"From my father," was his ready answer. I knew this father very well. A physician, Dr. Thomas took courses at New York University when he was eighty-five. I asked him why at his age he went back to college. "Because I don't know enough yet," he told me and added, "It's a tremendous world and I want to know all I can about it." That's the kind of enthusiasm he had.

In Lowell's boyhood his family lived in Colorado, high in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, where you could see 150 miles from the front door. And his father used to say, "Voices are calling you from the other side of the Sangre de Cristo. Listen for them, son." Lowell says he did hear those voices calling and followed them everywhere, even along the faded road to Samarkand. And on he traveled—to adventure, fame and fortune, empowered by enthusiasm that never runs down.

I'm grateful for being reared in a home filled with enthusiasm. Our family never had any money. My father was a preacher on a very modest salary. And he had three sons to clothe and educate. But my parents' boundless rest for life more than made up for all the material things we didn't have. They gave us the gift of irreplaceable enthusiasm.

My mother, a natural-born enthusiast, often said as she put me to bed, "Some day you're going to see a mountain." Around Cincinnati, Ohio, where we lived there were only little hills. "I've never seen a mountain," she would say wistfully. "I've always lived among little hills or on the plains. But you will see a mountain someday. And when you do you will thrill to it in your heart."

And how right she was. Then and there I conceived a lifelong love of mountains. And I'll never forget the first one I saw. It was Mt. Mononock, in New England. I first saw it outlined in mystic shades of blue against a clear winter sky. And I could hear my mother saying excitedly, "Some day you're going to see a mountain."

Later I experienced the massive grandeur of the great peaks of the Rockies. Still later I learned to know the Alps. And the moment I first saw them, lofty and majestic in their manly of deep snow, I had the feeling that I belonged there, that this, too, was my country. And I reflected on the debt in life I had due to a mother who had little of material goods but ardently loved the world and God and who had enthusiasm for the wonders and the romance of life.

Enthusiasm is certainly one of the biggest assets a person can possess. "When a man dies," said the great inventor Thomas A. Edison, "if he can pass enthusiasm along to his children, he has left them an estate of incalculable value."

But suppose you just don't feel enthusiastic. What can you do about that? Enthusiasm springs from faith in God. So the first step in developing it is to add to the God spirit within yourself according to the basic meaning of the concept.

The rest is practice and affirmation. Practice being thrilled. Does life thrill you? Or is it, to you, always just the same old stuff? Actually, it's impossible to walk the street, any street, without seeing something fascinating! Practice being fascinated, be interested, be excited, be enthusiastic about people, things, events, everything. Make yourself enthusiastic and all life will respond to you.

Develop enthusiasm by affirming it against indifference, irritation and dullness. Affirm enthusiasm and it's a fact that soon you will really start being enthusiastic. Then just watch how interesting, how exciting, life becomes; how it flows toward rather than away from you. And if you keep on practicing and affirming enthusiasm, a strange new power will presently develop within you. Stick with it and this kind of real enthusiasm will never run down. Member of Local Union Replies to Letter

The recent letter in the Voice of the People was derogatory to the present officers of GMC Truck & Coach Local 594 and to the union as a whole. It is very obvious that Brother or Sister Atkins does not actually participate in Union affairs. In fact, the address given was fictitious. 312 Perry Street is a vacant lot.

A notice was posted in the plant seven days prior to the union meeting called for the purpose of discussing the taking of a "strike" vote. This meeting was held and the officers were authorized to take a strike vote. Again, seven days prior to the actual vote, notices were posted in the plant notifying the union members of the time and place for voting. Also, three or four handbills were passed out at the factory entrances informing the membership of some of the "issues" in dispute. This is the normal procedure and each member has a right to express his or her opinion.

The strike vote was taken and the results showed over 86 per cent voted "yes." This does not mean that the officers automatically call a strike. They start a series of meetings to negotiate the grievances that have accumulated over the years. Provided the company refuses to settle these grievances, then and only then the officers can call a strike.

Another point that concerns all members of Local 594 is that if a strike is called the local union will give each member that participates a check to help his family. The "new union slate" does not have anything to bid from the membership and urges each and every member to attend the meetings. This way you members can be properly informed of local union affairs and derogatory remarks or political gossip will be treated as such.

Comments on Press' Support of Cavanagh

I am very grateful to have you supporting Mr. Cavanagh. You have usually been wrong in your past prognostication. Mr. Williams is highly qualified for the United States Senate. What are Mr. Cavanagh's accomplishments to give him the idea that he would make a good Senator? He has about four years' executive experience, and that in good times. He is father of the nefarious City of Detroit income tax. As far as citizen of Pontiac are not subject to this "taxation without representation." The mayor now states that he will increase the annual wages of the Detroit Police by $1,000. Where will the money come from? He will probably ask the legislature to pass enabling legislation so that he can soak the nonresidents. If that is not possible he will go to Washington and bring back Federal funds. He has been quite successful in "Operation Washington."

Washington Notebook:

Finding Postal Zip Code Proves No Zippy Matter

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON (NEA)—D.C.

Several government agencies are beginning to insist that all outgoing mail bear the addressee's correct ZIP Code. Though this addition may well insure speedier delivery, it's beginning to give many secretaries headaches.

To begin with, the Post Office Department has separate booklets listing the ZIP Codes for each street block in the country's 367 largest cities; physically, they can use up a fairly large bookcase.

And it is sometimes no zippy matter for a harassed secretary to locate the ZIP Code for, say, the 1700 block of Peachtree St. in Atlanta.

Then there's the federal government. In the old days, any correspondence to an agency in the capital could be covered by the tag line, "Washington 25, D.C."

But in the Post Office Department's latest list, there are no fewer than 145 separate ZIP Codes for Washington agencies. They range from the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations (20575) to the Veterans Benefit Office (20422).

Political sophistication seems to be reaching into even the most undeveloped corners of the earth.

A top Army officer, helping to launch an engineering survey for a possible new inter-oceanic canal in the jungles of eastern Panama, got talking with the chief of a native Indian tribe in the region.

The officer said consideration was being given to using nuclear excavation methods. The chief said that would mean his tribe would have to be moved beyond fail-out limits. The officer said he knew that. Then the chief added:

"Of course, moving our tribe would cost the United States a great deal of money. But it's nothing compared to the cost of the Gemini flight you're launching next week."

He was informed the meetings took place in the Indian Treaty Room of the Executive Office Building.

"Oh," he breathed. "Another minority group."

They May Die in Viet Nam, but Hearts Are Far Away

By TOM TIEDE

Newspaper Enterprises Assn.

QUI NHON, Viet Nam (NEA) — There is a feeling in this war that, although some men are killed here, they may die somewhere else.

Bud Stephenson, for instance.

He was shot to death in Viet Nam recently, but he actually died where his heart was . . . 12,000 miles away.

Stephenson, a Trenton, N.J., lieutenant, was piloting a helicopter scout feet above jungle treelines when his final hour began. His ship, a Sioux observation craft, was little more than a soap bubble with propulsion.

No armor protection, precious little fire-power and a canopy window that gave every Viet Cong sniper within a mile an encouraging target.

CHARTING ENEMY — The lieutenant was there to chart enemy movement.

But the shooting started first.

Automatic weapons and small arms opened up. The ship was shattered with a hot, its navigator killed instantly and its pilot, Stephenson, filled with a shocking amount of lead.

Wounded several times, his mind exploding, the lieutenant nevertheless reacted with an escape maneuver.

FAST TURN

He pulled his ship sharply up and into a dipping cant in an attempt to turn and run as fast as mechanically possible.

But it was in vain. Instead of coming out of the turn, the helicopter flattered down like a murdered bird.

It crashed with a shuddering crunch.

And with it crashed all hope of human survival.

And yet, the victims weren't to be left. Rescue began immediately. Alive or not, the fallen were GIs; and alive or not they'd be taken out and taken home.

SISTER SHIP

Within moments, a sister ship clattered in over Stephenson's position. It dropped a machine gunner to stand sentry, took several rounds of fire, and then

State in Network of Crime Messages

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State Police will join a 46-state communications network to handle urgent crime messages on an around-the-clock basis.

Col. Fredrick Davids, State Police director, said the law-enforcement teletypewriter service will begin operation May 1.

The network will provide instant all-station reception of urgent messages. Advantages include secrecy, increased accuracy of transmission and selective station calling.

'Soviets Train for Moon Trip'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The president of Russia's Academy of Sciences said today Soviet spacemen are training for a moon landing, but that Russia plans to put a man in orbit around the moon before trying to land on its surface.

"(The moon-orbit problem) has been solved in principle," Mstislav Keldysh told a news conference. "There is nothing unusual about it."

"The most difficult problem is recently into the earth's atmosphere. Nobody knows how many more (unmanned) landings will be needed for this purpose."

Russia's Luna 10 satellite has been orbiting the moon since April 3. Keldysh denied today that it had failed in attempts to photograph the moon's surface.

"Luna 10 carried no cameras," he said. "It was designed to explore near-lunar space."

MEASURING DATA

Other scientists said instruments in the satellite are measuring such items as radiation on the moon's surface, meteorite showers pepping the moon, and the moon's magnetic field and shape.

Keldysh said Russia is more interested in this sort of data than in more pictures of the moon's surface.

"The lunar station is equipped with measuring instruments," he said. "Naturally, cameras can be installed on this kind of satellite, but now it is not necessary."

"We feel the most important problems are those we are studying now."

LOPSIDED MOON

Prof. Alexander Mikhalov told the newsmen that the moon is lopsided.

"The center of the moon mass does not coincide with the lunar center itself," Mikhalov said. "This is due to the moon's irregular shape."

"The moon consists of heavy mountain-type rock, and therefore it will keep its present shape."

Mikhalov said the moon is moving away from the earth. Once, he said, it was 53,000 miles away. Now it is 238,000 miles from the earth.

Keldysh said Luna 10 has made 100 orbits of the moon so far and has transmitted data for 5 hours and 16 minutes.

Suspect Is Held in Robbery of Firm in Warren

WARREN (UPI)—Police arrested a suspect yesterday in the $65,000 robbery of the Tek-Ni-Kal Credit Union.

Officers were questioning a man they said might have knowledge of Thursday's hold-up in which a bandit overpowered a cashier as he was walking into his office with the money.

Police also said they recovered a car that may have been used in the robbery. The cashier, Michael Scherb, 23, was released after treatment at a hospital for head injuries suffered when the bandit struck him with a gun.

He told police his assailant and another man escaped on foot.

Funk Drops Out of Senate Race and Joins Ferency Backers

By the Associated Press
Zollon Ferency held another endorsement for the Democratic nomination for governor today.

This one for Ferency, the Democratic state chairman, came from Louis H. Funk, Wayne County treasurer, who renounced a drive he had launched for the nomination.

Funk said he had collected more than 30,000 signatures on nominating petitions but was withdrawing in the interest of party unity.

"All indications point to Ferency being the nominee," Funk said, "and in the interest of not having another competition within the party, I will not run."

SENATE RACE

The competition to which Funk referred is that between former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., has been given a "preferred" rating by Republican leaders for the GOP senatorial nomination.

Youth Pleads Guilty in Case of Auto Death

An 18-year-old Waterford Township youth yesterday pleaded guilty before Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer to a charge of failing to report a traffic accident causing death.

Paul D. Heiple, of 4355 Island Park was sentenced May 16. He could receive a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail or $100 fine or both.

Heiple was the driver of a car which struck and killed 13-year-old Artha S. Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Kline, 5325 Cleary, Waterford Township, last Dec. 2.

The accident occurred on Williams Lake Road near Van Zandt as the girl crossed the road on her way to a party at the Community Activities, Inc., building.

Heiple was arrested by Waterford Township police a few hours later.

Dwight Eisenhower, the 34th president, ranked 61st in a class of 164 when he graduated from West Point in 1915.

Teen Driver Is Home Wrecker

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sociologists frequently voice concern over the deterioration of traditional family patterns in America.

They say that the pressures of modern living make it difficult for families to function as the close knit units they once were. But they seldom say what these pressures are.

I'm not a sociologist, but I can tell you exactly what causes a family to come apart at the seams. It happens when a father starts trying to teach his teenage daughter to drive a car.

The two may be on the best of terms, united by love and mutual understanding. But once she gets behind the wheel of the family chariot, that relationship is kaput.

The knitting in my family unit began to unravel last year when my daughter passed her 15th birthday by announcing that she was eligible to obtain a learner's permit.

"You must be kidding," I said. "Surely they don't give those permits to kids your age."

A call to the authorities confirmed that the law was on her side, however. Being legally defenseless, I then began to muster arguments about the importance of maturity in motor-ing.

GOOD QUESTION

"Well," she said indignantly, "How old do you think we should be before we start learning to drive?"

"I would say that 35 is about right," I replied.

My wife, who heard the case on appeal, ruled that 20 years was an unreasonable waiting period. She volunteered to take the plaintiff to get the permit.

When I returned home from work that evening, my wife was in bed with a severe disintegration of the central nervous system. Interrogation conducted under semihysterical conditions disclosed that she had given said daughter her first driving lesson.

You can easily guess who was designated to take over as instructor.

SILLY FEELING

For a while, I resorted to subterfuge to avoid giving her lessons. But a grown man feels ridiculous hiding under the living room couch. Besides that, she always found me.

The experience of the ensuing year was too distressing to relate. I can only say that the chief threat to the family unit is parallel parking.

Finally, this month, with all of us near the breaking point, my daughter turned 16 and went to take her driving test. She flunked.

Junior Editors Quiz on MAN IN MOON

QUESTION: How did the idea come about that there was a man in the moon?

ANSWER: In the old days before telescopes, people looked at the moon the way we do now when we use our naked eyes. One could see dark patches but could not tell exactly what they were.

People thought these patches suggested certain faces or figures.

Our picture to left suggests how, with a good dose of imagination, one could see a big grinning face which came to be called the man in the moon.

As soon as telescopes were invented, however, the man in the moon features became resolved into sharply-defined dark areas which bore no resemblance to a human face.

Our picture to upper right shows how the moon looks in a small telescope. Actually, a telescope reverses the moon's image so the telescopic view would show it with the light areas on top.

But we have turned this upside down so you can see the resemblance between these dark patches and the man in the moon to the left. It was once thought these dark patches were seas but we know now that the surface is dry and arid.

The picture to the lower right gives a suggestion of what the actual surface of the moon is like, as we now know from the remarkable pictures taken by spacecraft.

FOR YOU TO DO: Ancient peoples also thought they could see a rabbit and the whole figure of a man with sticks on his back. During the next full moon, see if you can detect any of these legendary appearances.

$116,309 OEO Grant to Soo Branch of Tech

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Office of Economic Opportunity grant of $116,309 to the Sault Ste. Marie campus of Michigan Technological University for a summer study program for high school students was announced today by Rep. Raymond Clevenger, D-Mich.

He said 10th and 11th graders from low-income families in Chippewa, Mackinac and Lapeer counties will live on the campus for 7½ weeks of study, recreation and cultural activities.

State Gets Road OKs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan has been granted authority by the Bureau of Public Roads to award federal highway construction contracts totaling $30.4 million for the January-March quarter of 1967.

What happened when Larry Pauly and Jane Alwin met face to face?

Nothing. You see, they're both defensive drivers. So when Jane wanted to make a left turn, she waited for a safe opening. And she kept her wheels straight, so if a car hit her from behind she wouldn't be knocked into opposing traffic. Are you a defensive driver?

Hey Buddy, Sign This Paper, Urges Worried Grandma

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a grandmother who is greatly disturbed about the declining moral standards of our young people. Not only of the uneducated and underprivileged, but the intellectuals and upper class as well.

Why don't our young women realize that their most prized possession is their virtue?

If I had my way, every girl old enough to go out with a boy would carry in her purse a contract which the boy would have to sign should they find themselves involved to the point where the girl considered surrendering her virtue.

The boy would agree to assume full responsibility for children, should there be any, and to marry the girl, should she desire it. Should the boy refuse to sign such a contract, if the girl does not insist on being taken home immediately, she might as well commit suicide on the spot.

MRS. D. A. J.

DEAR MRS. D. A. J.: In order for a contract to be legal and binding, the signer must be in his right mind at the time he signs it. I doubt if your plan would work.

DEAR ABBY: My best friend's husband died, so I let her and her three children move in with my husband and me. I treated her like a sister. I even looked after her children while she was out with my husband. (She made me believe it was someone else.)

He never took me out much before she came to live with us, then suddenly he started taking us both out. Everybody knew what was going on but me. When I found out it nearly killed me, Abby. We have been married 16 years and I thought we were happy.

We finally had a showdown and she left town. I would never consider divorce, but I can't seem to forget the past. My husband is better to me now than he has ever been. How can I get over this?

DEEPLY HURT

DEAR HURT: One of the most difficult things we are called upon to do in this life is to forgive and forget. But with determined effort, it can be done. Try not to dwell on the past.

We should all learn the art of forgiving, for who among us does not need to be forgiven?

DEAR ABBY: I am a new bride with a problem I am unable to solve. Newlyweds have many adjustments to make, and I feel that the more time my husband and I spend together, the sooner we will make the adjustments.

Our biggest problem is this: My husband has been asked to play golf again by some of his college friends. I don't especially enjoy being left at home on Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and holidays. Especially without a car.

When I complain it always ends up in an argument, so I decided to solve the problem by taking up golf, too. I play a fairly decent game, but somehow I get the idea that he would rather play with his men friends.

Am I wrong to object? At 22, I am...

A GOLF WIDOW
DEAR WIDOW: If you

"somehow get the idea" that your husband would rather play with his friends, he probably would. And you should let him. Don't be so possessive! Either find something to do at home or line up a golf game with some women friends. A young husband who's interested in improving his swing is less apt to be a "swinger" later on.

Troubled? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This happy threesome left by train today for Washington, D.C. where they will attend next week's three-day Democratic Women's Campaign Conference. Posing with their colorful luggage at the

Tell New Officers for ADK Sorority

Rho chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa sorority gathered Thursday in the Otis Drive home of Mrs. E. Ole Wiley for the fraternal education meeting. Mrs. Evelyn Woodworth was cohostess.

Officers elected for the next two years are: Mrs. Melvin Boersma, president; Mrs. Melvin Newton, vice president; Mrs. Alyce Hagood, recording secretary; Mrs. Byford Laur, treasurer; William P. Whitfield will sponsoring secretary.

Others are Margaret Scott, sergeant at arms and Mrs. Wiley, historian. Chaplains are Mrs. Ross Terry and Madge Sturdy.

The sorority has made a final payment on furnishing a room at Pontiac General Hospital.

A parade of spring fashions was featured when members of the Michigan Children's Aid Society Auxiliary met Friday for their fourth annual luncheon. The affair was at Devon Gables.

BOARD SETS EVENT

The board of directors of the Oakland County branch, Michigan Children's Aid Society will honor foster parents Wednesday at a dinner in the Gold Room at Oakland University.

Mrs. Keith Crisman, president of the Women's Auxiliary will act as official hostess and Dr. William P. Whitfield will be master of ceremonies.

Dr. Robert Turpin, outgoing president of the board will speaking along with the Hon. Norman E. Barnard of the Probate Court. The Jacks and Folksingers of Bloomfield Hills High School will deliver a program of music under the direction of Clarence Luchman.

Arrangements for the event are being handled by the auxiliary.

Mrs. Reed Dewey of Birmingham, secretary for the Michigan Children's Aid Society Auxiliary, was carrying a colorfully wrapped door prize when snapped by our photographer at Friday's luncheon. Stationed at the program desk was Mrs. Warren Newton, St. Jude Drive.

SUMMING UP

CHAPTER 24

Here are several questions that crop up time and again. Perhaps some of the solutions I've worked out will work for you.

Question: I'm so busy I never have a minute to myself. Is there any way to add an extra hour to the twenty-four?

Answer: Get organized! When you don't know what you have to do, or when you have to do it, you build up all kinds of nervous tension. Take a tip from successful people everywhere—you'll save time and frazzled nerves. Each night, make out a written schedule for the next day. It helps to make three columns: the first entitled TO DO, the second TO CALL, and the third TIME SCHEDULE. Clip the schedule inside your purse so that you'll see at a glance exactly what's on the agenda. You could, of course, invest in a professional-looking appointment book for the same purpose. Do what you have to do first, so that you can enjoy your "play" time with a clear conscience.

Question: How can I be more popular?

Answer: Charm—a combination of warmth, sympathy, and caring, about others—does more for your popularity than any other factor. Since charm is so very important, I've made a list of little hints which will increase your popularity by leaps and bounds:

- Never air your troubles and illnesses—nobody loves a whiner. When anyone asks how you are, say, "Fine, thank you," and smile (even if your stomach aches and your feet are killing you and you just failed your history final).
- Think twice before you speak, to avoid "putting your foot in your mouth."
- If someone says or does something wrong, don't corner him. Make it possible for him to bow out gracefully.
- If you meet someone you dislike, don't snub him or her. Speak impersonally, but be polite.
- If you like someone you meet through a friend, don't drop the original friend like a hot potato.

- Be a diplomat. Begin sentences with "Don't you think," "Isn't it true," "Don't you feel."
- Be considerate. This covers everything from sneezing into a handkerchief instead of into space, to restraining your muddy Airdale from jumping into Aunt Tillie's lap.

Question: This is the first time I've lived away from home. How can I make the most of it?

Answer: Leaving home for the first time is a bit of a jolt, whether it's going away to school, first year of college, or as a vacation guest. Suddenly, it seems as if you can do all the things you've always wanted to do—stay up all night, forget about studying because there's no one to prod you, date as much as you like.

If you're sensible, you won't use your newfound freedom to wear yourself out in an effort to be popular. Ration your dates—weekends are usually best. And don't let "what everyone else is doing" change your mind; you know what's best for you.

Living away from home can be a wonderful experience—you start off with a clean slate. No one knows that you weren't too popular in the eighth grade, or that your father runs the town council. You're on your own, and will be accepted on your own merits.

Question: Do you have any party pointers?

Answer: Don't hover over your guests, anxiously asking them if they're having a good time. If you combine interesting, compatible people, they're sure to enjoy themselves. When you introduce strangers, say something like, "Mary, this is Jean Smith. Jean is a history major, too." Then they'll have something to talk about while you whizz off to see about the food.

ADD SPICE

Don't be afraid to throw in a few "different" people at a party—they add spice. That Balinese exchange student you met last week is probably dying to go to a real, honest-to-goodness American party, and you'll learn a lot from her, too. Try to serve food that everyone (even dieters) will enjoy. It marks you as a considerate hostess. Play soft, unobtrusive background music; it creates an instant mood.

This series, I hope, will be a base from which to launch your newfound inner and outer beauty.

The most wonderful person you can be is yourself. That's why I've concentrated so much on how to find out what's best for you.

Please don't just finish this series and let it go at that. Keep on experimenting, learning, finding out what makes you tick.

Self-improvement is a day-to-day affair—from choosing clothes that make you stand out in a crowd to taking a course in Sanskrit. Try to open yourself to every single facet of the wonderful person that will be a New You.

Q: I am giving a party shortly and have hired a catering service. There will be a bartender, waiter and a cook.

Do I pay them at the end of that party, or are their salaries included in the bill, and should they receive an additional tip?

HELEN M.

A: You should ask your catering service what their arrangements are and go by what they tell you. Some include salaries and tips on their bills; others do neither.

If they don't, pay your help when they are ready to leave, and include a tip, usually $5 each for an evening's work.

IN-LAWS

Q: My husband died a week ago. His two brothers and their wives each sent a beautiful flower piece to the funeral. I did not write thank-you notes to them because I felt it was not only unnecessary but an insult to thank members of his family.

I have just learned, however, that my sisters-in-law are quite perturbed because I didn't. Will you please tell me if notes were necessary?

A: Thank-you notes were totally unnecessary unless your sisters-in-law live far away, or if for some other reason you did not see them to thank them in person for their flowers.

GRACE

Q: My husband and I always say grace before our meals but we are having a dinner party with several people of other faiths.

Is it right to ask the guests to say grace or should we skip it for that occasion?—Mrs. E.B. A.

To avoid any embarrassment to your guests and still stick to your religious convictions, the best solution I know is for you and your husband to say grace silently to yourselves before you start your meal.

Julie Cameron Bennett Is Married

Reception in the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club followed the marriage of Julie Cameron Bennett to Brenton Davis Curtis today in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Bennett Jr. of Birmingham, Mrs. A. Morse Curtis of Cranbrook, Conn. and the late Mr. Curtis.

WHITE IRISH LINEN

Bell sleeves and a hemline flounce of Venise lace accented the bride's gown of white Irish linen styled with detachable train.

A matching lace cap marked with a large bow held her cathedral-length veil of imported illusion. She carried gardenias and variegated ivy.

Mrs. Chue J. Walsh Jr. was her sister's honorary matron performed by Rev. William T. Irwin.

With Nancy Judd, maid of honor, were bridesmaids Sue Wollenberg, Kaye Mark, Diane Curtis, Heather Stirling and Judy Corrad.

A David Baumhart III was best man, Richard A. Fischer, James Price, Richard Stutz, Alexander Aranyos and Clune J. Walsh Jr. seated the guests.

OLIVET ALUMNUS

The couple will reside in North Branford, after a Florida honeymoon. He is an alumnus of Olivet College where his bride was a former student.

MRS. BRENTON DAVIS CURTIS

Julie Cameron Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Bennett Jr. of Birmingham, and Brenton Davis Curtis, son of Mrs. A. Morse Curtis of Cranbrook, Conn. and the late Mr. Curtis, were wed today in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Rite Is at St. Michael's

St. Michael's Catholic Church was the setting today for the marriage of Connie Jean Mineweaser to Joseph Anthony Lada.

The Robert W. Mineweasers of LeBaron Avenue and Mr. Lada.

and Mrs. Frank Lada of Valencia Drive are parents of the couple who will reside on Cameron Avenue.

With her sheath gown and chapel train of white silk organza over taffeta, the bride wore a short illusion veil with floral headpiece.

For the nuptial ceremony performed by Rev. Charles Rooney, she carried white roses and carnations.

Mrs. Robert Mineweaser as honor matron, with bridesmaids Mrs. Douglas Hoisington and Judith Slabinski.

On the esquire side, were best man William Slabinski, and ushers Michael Samulow, Francis and Leonard Lada and Robert Mineweaser.

WEDDING BREAKFAST

The wedding breakfast was served in the Knights of Columbus club rooms where the evening reception will be held.

Hairsetting Help

Next time you wash and set your hair, tuck soft cosmetic puffs under the net around the hairline.

They'll cushion your forehead, prevent marks which hairnets often cause.

MRS. J. A. LADA

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lehigh of North Ardmore Street who were married April 7, 1916 in Kankakee, Ill., will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at an open house Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. The affair will be at the Williams Lake Road home of the couple's son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Russell D. Lehigh with granddaughter Sheryl Lynne assisting. Also thought for the occasion will be another son and daughter-in-law the junior Paul Lehighs of Seeden Street.

Will Honor Luther Gothards

A dinner party this evening in the North Francis Street home of the Ray Rhines will mark the golden wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Gothard of Foster Street.

The couple who were married in Harlan, Ky. have been Pontiac residents since 1943.

They have four sons, George and Robert at home, Thomas of Detroit and Rufus of Goshen, Ind. Their other daughters are Mrs. Edward Vane (Nellie) of Detroit and Mrs. Huey Craven (Juanita) of Chicago.

There are 13 grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Make Net Bows

Don't throw away those strips of nylon net left from your sewing. Put them away carefully and use for tying gifts. It saves buying ribbon, and they make lovely ties and bows.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin T. Tripp of Farrant Drive, Commerce Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lona Alice, to Ronald Leon West of State Street, son of the Leon Wests of Vienna, Ill. She is a nursing student at Oakland Community College. Mr. West attended Tennessee Temple College in Chattanooga. A May 28 wedding date is set.

An afternoon reception in the Oakland County Sportsman's Club followed the nuptial rite performed by Rev. David Britz.

Mr. and Mrs. Rubin G. Lima North Perry Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Gwendell G. Purkiss, Cambrook Lane, are parents of the newlyweds.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace accented the bride's Empire gown of white silk organza over taffeta and her court train of peau de sole.

China Hits Jakarta Riot

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Red China today angrily denounced the sacking of its Jakarta embassy and likened the 2,000 Indonesian Chinese rioters to "Hitlerite hordes." China handed a protest note to Indonesian Ambassador Djawono in Peking, the official New China News Agency said in Tokyo. The note charged that Chinese Embassy staff member Chao Hsiao-shou was shot in the chest and seriously wounded during the attack Friday, the news agency said.

Pokey Being Towed to Sea for a Burial

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Lashed tail-first to the end of a Coast Guard towline, Pokey the venturesome whale rode toward a burial place in the sea today. The journey to the Atlantic deep, where he was to be abandoned, was the final indignity for the 34-foot whale which somehow wandered into Virginia's James River and fought all week to survive.

In the end, mankind, the sun and the shallow James proved too much for Pokey. His 3,000-pound body punctured by nearly 40 bullet holes, he died on a mud flat early Friday.

By afternoon, enough governmental red tape had been unraveled to permit the Coast Guard cutter Cape Falcon to take Pokey in tow with a 6-inch line.

With the dead whale 75 feet astern, the Cape Falcon arrived in Hampton Roads Friday night.

House OKs Financing Curbs

LANSING (AP)—House members clamped down Friday on giant financing organizations, but quailed before the prospect of a repeal. They passed, 85-3, and sent to the Senate an installment sales bill — dubbed the "Truth-in-Lending" bill — but women's commodity parties or the housewife who makes some extra money as a cosmetics salesman contributed to its 22-60 defeat.

Rep. Donald Pears, R-Buchanan, in explanation of his "no" vote, said simply: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

Other members blamed an avalanche of telegrams from salesmen, and direct-sales firm officers for its defeat.

TOLD IN ADVANCE The lending bill "enables each buyer to know exactly what he is agreeing to when he signs a contract and exactly what it will cost him," said sponsor Francis Beeson, D-Muskegon.

The bill requires basically that the buyer be told in advance what his interest and other charges will be for the privilege of buying on time, the cash sale price of the commodity, and the total price including all charges and fees.

It would include a notice to the purchaser not to sign the contract if it contained blank spaces and informing him that he is entitled to a partial return of the finance charge if he pre-pays the balance.

Violation of the act would be a misdemeanor, and the attorney general would be empowered to take action against offenders.

Blind Dog Dead.

Aid for Heroic Pup Too Late

MIDDLEVILLE (UPI)—A 2-month-old blind puppy, a hero so young it didn't even have a name, is dead but not forgotten. The puppy's yapping awakened the seven members of the Theodore Bird family before dawn Monday, allowing them to escape to safety. The puppy also was carried out, but not before he had inhaled a fatal amount of smoke. He died the next day, still nameless.

Richard C. McKendry, Dayton, Ohio, who describes himself as a "pushover for animals of all kinds," read a United Press International dispatch in the Dayton Daily News describing the puppy's heroic deed.

McKendry wrote to the Grand Rapids police department asking for assistance in locating the puppy. The police department turned the letter over to UPI yesterday.

McKendry said he believed the puppy had cataracts which were robbing him of his eyesight and believed an operation could be performed to correct the problem.

BORN BLIND

The puppy was born blind, according to the family. "If the dog's eyes cannot be corrected, then perhaps we can do something else," McKendry said.

But McKendry was too late. Bird returned to the burned out shell of his home the next day and expected to find the puppy in the garage where he had been taken.

Instead the puppy was back in the basement of the house, dead.

Bird decided to bury the gray spotted cown bound before the children, housed at the home of an uncle, could see him. Bird told the children that evening. They wept.

Underachiever Studies Cited

Don't confuse the underachievers in school with the deprived, Oakland County curriculum directors have been warned.

Dr. Milton W. Beckmann, a professor of mathematics education at the University of Nebraska, cited studies that indicate that, in general, underachievers have well-educated parents.

According to studies, one-third of their fathers are college graduates and only one-fifth of the fathers did not graduate from high school.

Their mothers are predominately full-time housewives and 14-per cent of them are college graduates.

In general, the child with better-than-average intelligence and poorer than average grades, said Beckmann, come from privileged homes socially, but possibly inferior psychologically.

"The child is pushed for achievement in school to such an extent," he said, "or in such a way that he rebels."

Heirlooms Highlight Southern Colonial

By JODY HEADLEE

Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Surrounded by towering trees and spacious grounds, the stately southern colonial of the Alton J. Deutsers provides an ideal setting for the family's collection of antiques and heirlooms.

Conversation centers in the home's formal living room create an atmosphere of warmth and welcome, facilitating Mrs. Deutscher's hostessing duties when she is entertaining large groups.

Introducing a decorating change of pace is the nearby library where the accent is on informality.

"Notice," said Mrs. Deutscher, pointing toward the fireplace, "the hand-carved oak chair. It is what is known as a captain's chair."

"In olden days, to help pass the time when his ship was at sea, a captain would straddle the seat and whittle a design into its back."

CLASSY A-FRAME: This increasingly-popular style, once regarded principally as a vacation house, is now gaining recognition as a year 'round residence, especially when both its exterior and interior structural features are as sound as those in Design G-32.

Modern A-Frame Is Year-Round Home

The modern version of the ancient Indian teepee, the A-frame house, has captured the imagination of many American families in recent years.

Like the teepee, the outer walls and roof of the A-frame are one and the same, with diagonal beams converging at the roof apex.

In some of the newer models, such as the latest House of the Week, stone veneers are used around the bottom exterior of the structure to enclose recreation areas and facilities for boats and automobiles.

While the earlier styles of the A-frame made then suitable mostly for vacation homes, the present houses can accommodate the family all year 'round' or while on vacation in the country, in the mountains, by a lake or at the seashore.

Architect Lester Cohen, who designed this A-frame, has analyzed the features that make this kind of home so popular, and has crystallized them into four key points:

- Young persons, who became familiar with A-frame construction at ski lodges and similar winter recreation places, have convinced their seniors of the economical and practical aspects of the design.

- The A-frame lends itself readily to expansion. When the building program is on a budget, the home owner can start with a two-bedroom version, roughing in the lower and upper levels for completion at a later time.

- Many city and suburban families are finding it wise to have vacation homes where they can enjoy recreational facilities more than just once a year. The A-frame has a real flair to it and makes everyone feel in a vacation mood, which might otherwise be difficult to achieve in a house too similar to the style of the "first" house.

- With the continued popularity of this new design, the A-frame has a ready resale value.

Design G-32 has 1114 square feet of habitable area on the living room level.

The living room itself is 22' long and is just to the left of the glass door leading to the sun deck at the front of the house.

The dining room, to the right of the door, is separated from the compact but complete kitchen by a snack bar. There are two bedrooms and a bath on the same level.

In the heart of all this is a dramatic circular staircase leading to a large master bedroom on the balcony, where a second bath and plenty of storage space are located.

On the ground level, the area is divided into a game room, a dressing room-storage area with its own shower, a utility-laudry section, a lavatory, a garage at the rear and a boat storage portion at the front.

A family without a boat can, of course, utilize that area any way it sees fit.

There is plenty of room for relaxing, either in or out of the sun.

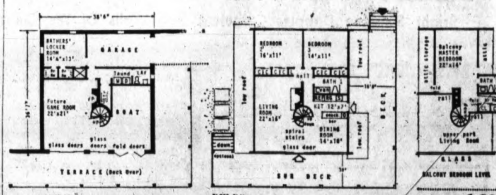

The sun deck above and the terrace below it take care of that. Note that the deck can be reached from inside the house or from an outside stairway.

This is a kind of story-book house in appearance, but wholly practical from a living standpoint.

In weighing its possibilities, remember the expansion feature previously mentioned. Life could be very comfortable on that living room level without utilizing the lower and upper levels until desired.

G-32 STATISTICS

Design G-32 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, bath and two bedrooms on the main level, with a habitable area of 116 square feet. There are 383 additional square feet on the balcony level. None of these figures includes the lower level, with a game room, utility-laudry section, lavatory, dressing room and space for a car and a boat. Neither do they include the sun deck and the lower terrace. Overall dimensions of the basic house, excluding the sun deck, are 38' 6" by 36' 7".

FLOOR PLANS: Utilizing all three floors of this A-frame, the architect has provided everything necessary for comfortable living for a family needing three bedrooms, but the lower and upper levels need only be roughed in if not immediately needed.

Neck You Save, May Be Your Own

Be Cautious, Practice Ladder Safety

Whatever you save by painting your house yourself may be more than cancelled if you have an accident.

House painting is not the safest job there is, especially for a man who does it only once in two or three years.

But with a house that looks shabby, painting is a chore that is likely to go high on your list of things to do.

Don't rush. Check your equipment, then figure out the best way to use it.

A faulty ladder is unlike having some other tool with a flaw in it. A break while you are on it could lead to injury or death.

CHECK EQUIPMENT
So, first of all, check your equipment. Even if a ladder has not been in frequent use, it can still become faulty with age by drying out or rotting.

Check for rot, for splits and cracks. Look at supports under the rungs. They may have weakened and should be tightened or replaced.

Don't paint a ladder and don't use one that has been painted. The paint could cover a crack. Use linseed oil to preserve the wood.

If you use a plank or scaffold, check it also for cracking. Metal ladders and scaffolds should be checked for burrs, sharp or rough edges. File these down.

Don't get up on a ladder in a heavy wind. Wait for another time, another day if necessary.

Don't place the ladder too close to the house — it could fall — or too far away — it might break under the strain.

The foot of the ladder should be placed at a distance from the house about one-quarter of its length. Thus, a 20-foot ladder is placed five feet from the wall.

FIRM GROUND
Set the foot of the ladder on firm ground. Soft ground or asphalt requires metal cleats on the ladder's base.

Don't neglect the upper end. If it leans against a gutter, make certain that it isn't a rotting gutter.

Don't reach too far. Arm's length is far enough. Don't reach so far that you have to get up, or lift off one foot.

Some people paint where the ladder rests against the wall by pushing off from the wall for a split second while slapping paint on the spots. It's a dangerous trick.

A gust of wind at that moment could pull the ladder the wrong way.

Ascend and descend facing the ladder. Take it one step at a time.

SKIP TOP
Never work from the very top of a ladder. Never stand on top of a step ladder. Never extend an extension ladder to its limit.

Wasps, hornets, bees suddenly coming at you could panic you into falling. Make sure there are no nests under eaves or in gutters.

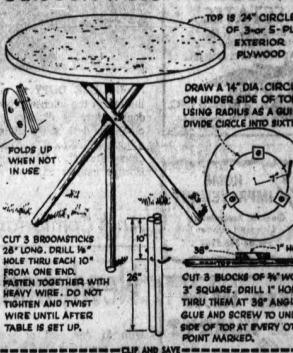

If you are using a metal ladder, keep it away from electric wires.

If you get a sudden panic or feeling of nausea because of height or some other reason, drape your arms through the rungs, rest your head against the ladder and wait there until the feeling passes.

Don't place a ladder in front of a door. If you must, make certain the door is locked.

Heating Contractor Has Time

The best time to call in your your heating contractor is when most people ordinarily stop thinking about home heating—before summer, when the heating season is over and your heating plant shut down.

Then he has time and can give your heating problem individual attention.

This holds true especially if you are considering a modernization of your heating system, or any other heating work which would improve the system's efficiency.

If you do have a problem, there are quite a few things the heating contractor can do to improve the efficiency of your old hot water or steam system, according to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

Any gravity-type hot water heating system and some steam systems can be improved at low cost by converting to a modern hydronic (forced circulation hot water) system.

In a hydronic system circulation of water is automatically started and stopped by mechanical means to provide instantaneous response to heating needs. This means steady, even heat at precise temperatures.

Test System to Get Data on Weather

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Weather conditions two weeks in the future could be predicted if the wind and temperature patterns were known accurately on a worldwide basis.

The most promising method of obtaining weather information on a global scale was by a satellites and high-flying balloons.

As the orbiting satellite passed over each balloon, it would record from the balloon's instruments such factors as wind speed, temperature and humidity.

The information from each balloon, with its position at the time, would be stored in the satellite until a ground station requested that the data be sent to earth.

A test of such a system is now being made with constant-pressure balloons launched two each day from Christchurch, New Zealand.

RECOMMENDATION
A strong recommendation that such a system be developed on a planetary basis was made here by the National Academy of Sciences' panel on International Meteorological Cooperation.

The panel concluded that a "major international research and development program directed toward an experiment to measure the large-scale motions of the entire lower atmosphere" is fully justified both because of its scientific potentialities and because it is technologically possible.

If the actual state of the atmosphere at any one time is known with sufficient accuracy, then calculations using numerical computers have shown that the large-scale motions would be predictable for about two weeks.

Brush Fire Halted Near Stars' Homes

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mop-up operations were under way today on 50 fire-blackened acres of brush in a hillside canyon area where the expensive homes of many top movie stars are located.

The fire, whipped by Santa Ana winds on the warmest day of the year, was put under control Thursday by 300 firemen and aerial tankers bombing it with chemicals.

None of the expensive homes in the area, belonging to such stars as Dean Martin and Lucille Ball, were destroyed or damaged.

LONDON (AP)—People who die young from heart disease probably were bottle-fed babies, says a leading British pathologist.
Dr. G.R. Osborne reached the conclusion from looking at the coronary arteries of 1,000 persons brought to him for post-mortems.
College of Physicians in a lecture that what he saw in his microscope prompted him to believe that a dangerous hardening of the arteries can begin in infancy and early adolescence, and that by 15 years the pattern for life is set.
REACH IS
If you can reach 15 with healthy heart arteries, said Dr. Osborne, you are unlikely to die with heart disease even if you are overweight, smoke heavily and lead a stressful and sedentary existence.
The British Heart Foundation is so impressed with Dr. Osborne's studies that it has given him a grant for further research.

Dr. Osborne started his probe after he had examined four teen-age boys killed in an auto accident.
"What I saw was unbelievable. Two had the kind of coronary hardening one associates with a fatal heart attack, yet they were slim and athletic," he said.
This decided him to examine microscopically the coronary arteries of all young people sent to him for post-mortems.
He then tried to determine what those with badly diseased coronaries — ones that might have killed them while they were still young — had in common.
Dr. Osborne said the pattern that eventually emerged was mally, setting up turbulence at heart artery junctions.
"I believe it is this turbulence that starts the process of hardening which may not show up for 30 or 40 years," Dr. Osborne added.

Opening lead—A.K.

By JACOBY & SON

Many players would open the South hand with one heart only. There is a lot of reasons for this bid. If North has the right cards there will be a slam and a four-trick opening will lose that slam out the window. On the other hand, South has JACOBY no defense against spades. This time if he opens with one heart, West will double for takeout and East will go to four spades if he has to.

Furthermore, he will have no trouble making that contract. All he has to do is to draw trumps and take the diamond finesse.

The four opening effectively shuts East and West out of the bidding. In addition it will produce a really big swing for North and South unless East and West know how to get full value out of their trick-taking cards.

If West takes his ace and king of spades he will have no way to get more than one diamond trick and not only will South have taken away the East-West spade game but he will have made a game of his own.

Proper use of signals will allow East and West to save something from the wreck and pick up 50 points for a one-trick set. East must drop his queen of spades under his partner's king.

This play cannot be read as a suit preference call for a diamond trick because if East wants a diamond shift he can get it by just playing a low spade. West is not going to shift to a club in any event.

Soviet Sailors Were 'Sunk' Without Salt

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet military paper came up this week with a salty saga of Soviet submarines.

A Soviet passenger liner received a radioed order to halt, sent by an approaching, unidentified submarine.

"What the devil!" said the liner's captain. "We are in Soviet waters."

The submarine surfaced and heared the liner under cover of night. Then an "absolutely Russian voice" called out from the submarine:

"Hey you, over there on the ship, gave us some salt!"

The Soviet submarine had been sent on a cruise without salt and stopped the passenger liner to get some.

The paper Red Star cited this in an article complaining of supply difficulties in the Soviet navy.

Iowa to Give Reuther an Honorary Doctorate

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The University of Iowa will present an honorary doctor of laws degree to Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, when he speaks at commencement exercises June 10.

The state board of regents, which supervises the school, approved awarding of the degree in a meeting here Friday.

A new political party in Israel must deposit $2,700, which it forfeits if it does not obtain at least one per cent of all votes cast.

Reports on Indonesia, Philippines

Evangelist Returns From Tour

"The land of Indonesia is a very disturbed nation," said the Rev. Richard Myers of 481 S. Squirrel, Pontiac Township, a director of Anchor Bay Evangelistic Association, New Baltimore.

Rev. Mr. Myers has just returned from a missionary tour of the Far East, which took him to Indonesia and the Philippines.

"I talked to many types of people from the army to the poorest, and they all seem to be looking for the right way to turn," he said.

"They said if someone could show them just which way is right, then their troubles would be over. But up to now, no one has come along to help. There is constant turmoil between the pro Communist and anti Communist," said Myers.

"The country is a very dirty area and only in the past two or three years have buildings of any size been put up. 'I saw thousands of people without homes. The sidewalk or any place there was room to lay down was their home. Rickshaw drivers use their conveyances as home, and those selling novelties use their small table stands for homes after business hours,' said Myers. He went on to tell of the filth in rivers. He said people use the same river for bathing, washing clothes and toilet.

Pastor Myers spoke of the beautiful carvings and paintings created by the people. He said many would be wealthy from their talent if they lived in the United States.

"The purpose of my trip was to visit our missionaries in Indonesia and the Philippines and return to promote their work. My brother, the Rev. William Myers with his family has been in Djakarta, Indonesia, for four years. Their work consists of printing and distributing Sunday School papers for the children.

"Using the children's papers from the United States as example, they translate the stories into Indonesian and then the pictures are drawn with Indonesian features.

"This all takes money and time, as all the drawing and printing is done by natives. My brother is doing the translating, a big, big job. Until a year ago when he began his project, there were no Sunday School papers to be had for the children.

"These papers are now in great demand by all Christian churches and bookstores there, said the Rev. Mr. Myers.

COST OF PAPERS

He told of the cost of the project saying "The cost varies from one day to the next because of the economy, but even though the money situation is unstable, Missionary Myers figures it costs a little less than five cents to supply Sunday School papers to one child for a full quarter period.

"He said if he had a printing press he would be able to cut the cost to about one cent per quarter for each child."

Besides the literature program, Rev. William Myers and his wife minister in two churches and teach in a Bible school they helped to start in Djakarta. They are working with Rev. Tang Kiat, a native pastor.

In speaking of the Philippines, Rev. Mr. Myers said "The land is a little different, but not much, with the exception of Manila and some large cities that are quite modern. Temperatures were in the high 90s in both countries during my stay there."

The work in the Philippines was started by Rev. and Mrs. Emmanuel Bristles some 10 years ago. In the last few years their daughter and son-in-law, the Roy Marsacks, have joined in the work. They oversee five Bible schools and numerous churches.

The William Myers, Emmanuel Bristles and Roy Marsacks are all missionaries of the Anchor Bay Evangelistic Association, New Baltimore.

BREAKFAST TOMORROW — The basketball team of Sacred Heart Catholic Grade School will be honored at breakfast in Sacred Heart Parish Hall for breakfast tomorrow. Featured speaker will be Brandon McNamara, assistant basketball coach, University of Detroit. Awards will be given.

Waterford Church to Present Pageant

"Guiltily As Charged," a play with a court room setting will be presented at 7 p. m. tomorrow in Waterford Pilgrim Holiness Church, 2681 Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

Sponsored by the Young People's Society, the play concerns four defendants. With charges of criminal negligence.

Each one has been negligent in his line of work and his duty to his fellow man in one way or another resulting in the death of an individual, according to the story.

The last defendant, Christine Christian, who's case brings the trial to a climax in that it changes the play from our moral obligations to our fellow man, to our spiritual obligations.

The judge's verdict in the last scene seems to be a verdict on the whole audience.

Characters in the drama include Richard Winans, judge; Rev. G. R. Webb, prosecutor; Sharilyn Foster, clerk; and Lynn Thompson, bailiff.

Defendants are Joe Foster, construction foreman; Sandy Powers, railroad crossing guard; Sherri Glankard, life guard; and Dottie McDowell, Christian.

SHOWING GIFTS — Rev. Richard Myers of 481 S. Squirrel, Pontiac Township shows his son, Charles, gifts given him in Indonesia and the Philippines when on a tour of missions.

Charles' dad brought him the bamboo hat from the Philippines. The large wood carving of the Lord's Supper was a gift from a native pastor in Indonesia.

GIFTS FOR GRANDCHILDREN — Rev. G. J. Bersche, pastor of Christian & Missionary Alliance Church, who has just returned from a tour of mission stations in Africa, is shown wearing a Baoule robe given him by natives. He brought a replica of an African village to grandsons, Christopher Bersche of 960 S. Lake Angelus, Douglas Bersche of 2075 Hyfield, Waterford Township, and Craig Bersche of 960 S. Lake Angelus. Carved heads of ivory are at the right.

Pastor Visits C & MA Mission Fields

Rev. G. J. Bersche, pastor of Christian & Missionary Alliance Church, returned during the past week from West Africa where he spent 64 days visiting the C. & M.A. mission fields.

His itinerary took him into Guinea, Mali, Upper Volta and Ivory Coast. This included 46 mission stations.

Traveling 6,131 miles by jeep, truck, car, train and airplane while in Africa, he preached through as many as three interpreters at a given time.

This was necessary because of the several tribal groups and languages represented at the meetings.

Pastor Bersche said there are 32 organized churches of his denomination, 401 unorganized groups, 11,527 baptized members, 309 national workers and employees, and 125 missionaries.

The total responsibility of the C. & M.A. on the four mission fields is more than a million people.

The Pontiac pastor preached in many villages where there were a few Christians and some villages where there were no Christians because the Gospel had never been preached there before.

He ministered to three national conferences and to students in two Bible colleges, and a special conference of missionaries and national workers.

Pastor Bersche said he was impressed with the liberality of the African Christians.

GIVE TITHES

Out of their deep poverty they gave tithes and offerings. They told me they wanted to give gifts to the pastor from America.

I received 13 chickens, three sheep, two goats, two pineapples, 11 eggs and two Baoule robes, he said.

Pastor Bersche reports that "Bernie" is doing a great work. With his family he will return to Pontiac in July for his first furlough.

Sunday morning Pastor Bersche will preach on "The Revival We Need." Sunday night he will recount some of his experiences in Africa.

CHECK LOCATION — Looking over plans for the founding of the Stonecrest Baptist Church of Walled Lake are (left) Roger Loop of 3565 Lawrence, Waterford Township and Rev. Leland Lloyd, associate pastor of Silvercrest Baptist Church. Members of Silvercrest Church are sponsoring the new congregation. Services will be held in the Stonecrest Building across the street from the Walled Lake Bank.

The annual Children's Rally tomorrow in Community Activities Building auditorium, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township marks the close of another season of Good News Clubs of Oakland County Child Evangelism Fellowship.

New Church to Open in Walled Lake

The congregation of Silvercrest Baptist Church is venturing out on a step of faith. Founded some 30 years ago by First Baptist Church, now members of Silvercrest Church are opening a new Baptist mission to be known as Stonecrest Baptist Church in Walled Lake. Plans are underway to hold the first service in the Stonecrest building across from the bank on April 24.

Services will be Sunday School at 10 a.m.; and worship at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Rev. Leland Lloyd and Rev. Roger Loop of Silvercrest Church will work together in the new venture until the church is established as an independent Baptist church.

An invitation is extended to all in the Walled Lake area who are interested. Rev. Mr. Lloyd said.

Annual Rally in Waterford

The annual Children's Rally tomorrow in Community Activities Building auditorium, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township marks the close of another season of Good News Clubs of Oakland County Child Evangelism Fellowship.

The rally is set for 3 p.m. with all children and their parents welcome.

The Good News Clubs are neighborhood Bible Clubs throughout Oakland County which have been meeting once a week since early October.

Chosen representatives will quote Bible verses memorized during the year.

James Branscomb, ventriloquist and his "Johnathan" will be the highlight of the afternoon. Mr. Branscomb, a student at Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music, is a favorite with the children. Director Marion Williams said.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Regier, missionary interns serving with Perry Park Baptist Church, will direct the children's singing. Lester M. Mack will serve as master of ceremonies.

Drama Group to Meet at Paul Closson Home

The religious drama group composed of people of all ages from Pontiac area churches will meet in the home of Mrs. Paul Closson, 1649 Inverness at 8 p.m. Monday.

Anyone of any denomination interested in religious drama, music or art is welcome. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Closson.

Pastor Lists Services

Sunday School will begin at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the True Church House of Prayer to All Nations. Worship will be at noon; Youth Fellowship at 6:30 p.m.; and evening worship at 7:30.

Minister From Congo in Services

Rev. Assani Benedict of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Rev. Alfred Larson, field leader for the Congo Branch of the Un evangelized Fields Mission, will speak at the 7 p.m. service tomorrow in First Baptist Church.

President of the churches established through the ministry of the Un evangelized Fields Mission in the Congo, Rev. Mr. Benedict is general secretary of the Congo Evangelical Alliance.

Due to illness in the family he was not in the area when the rebels took over in 1964, but was close to the Uganda border, so was able to escape. He is now back in Stanleyville.

As the area outside the city is slowly retaken by the national army, Mr. Benedict is able to make trips into the forest regions, gathering the Christians together and encouraging them.

Mr. Larson, who will interpret for Mr. Benedict has served under the Fields Mission since 1952.

MARIMONT

The Women's Glee Club of Wheaton College will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 tonight in Marimont Baptist Church.

Under the direction of Mignon B. Mackenzie, professor of music the group will sing selections of various periods including anthems and spirituals.

A former radio and concert lyric soprano, Mrs. Mackenzie is a former soloist for the Chicago Bach Singers and holds memberships in the National Association of Teachers of Singing, Hymn Society of America and Pi Kappa Lambda.

The 40 members of the glee Sanctuary Choir is sponsoring club represent various fields of the event.

study in the college. All are selected by audition.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS

Moody Chorale, the a cappella choir of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, will offer a sacred concert in Bloomfield Hills High School, 4200 Andover, Bloomfield Township at 8 p.m. on April 23.

The concert is sponsored by Bloomfield Hills Baptist Church.

The chorale is heralded on two continents as outstanding in its field. In 1954 and 1958 the group presented more than 100 "missionaries in song."

Director of the group Kerchal Armstrong, instructs in church music, voice and brass instruments in the Institute's department of sacred music. He also conducts the orchestra.

No admission will be charged. A free will offering will be taken.

Musical at St. John to Mark Anniversary

The Celestialaires Singers of Detroit will offer a musical program at St. John Methodist Church, Highland and Nebraska at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. The Sanctuary Choir is sponsoring

BRIGADIER SALLIE CHESHAM

Salvation Army Board Dinner Set for April 29

Coming to Pontiac to speak at the annual banquet of the Salvation Army advisory board of directors is Brigadier Sallie Chesham of Chicago.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at Greenfield's Restaurant, Birmingham on April 29.

Mrs. Chesham, author of a new book entitled "Born to Battle," is a third generation Salvationist, and a teacher of Salvation Army history at Central Territory School for Officers' Training.

She has written more than 250 feature articles, stories, booklets, plays and pageants.

Among her articles are the Salvation Army's report on juvenile delinquency and the Army's report to the 1960 White House Conference.

Irving Steinman is general chairman for the dinner and Jack Niggeman is taking care of tickets. Bruce Annett is in charge of special guests with Major John Grindie looking after the program and menu.

BALDWIN AVE.
The Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church will begin a week of evangelistic services at the 11 a.m. worship service tomorrow.

The crusade for Christ will continue each evening at 7:30. Preaching and singing will be the Rev. and Mrs. Mark Reep, evangelists from Green Springs, Ohio.

They will present a 15-minute service of music for children before each service. Their four-year-old daughter will sing.

Services will continue through April 24.

Evangelist Reep preaches and blows the trumpet. Mrs. Reep plays the piano and accordion, and joins her husband in singing duets.

KIRK IN THE HILLS
Dr. J. S. Gottlieb will be the speaker at Men's Brotherhood dinner, meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in Kirk in the Hills. His subject will be "Mental Health Needs."

This is the third in the series of meetings entitled "The Confrontation: Christianity Meets the Moral Crisis."

Dr. Gottlieb has been director of Lafayette Clinic and professor of psychiatry at Wayne State University, School of Medicine, since July 1955. He is president of the faculty of the school of medicine.

Members of the Kirk Men's Brotherhood are asked to note the change of meeting date from Monday to Wednesday.

Kochs Head for Alaska in Summer

Christian Koch, director of Christian education at Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian and his wife are being sent to Alaska for the summer.

Their son, David, is pastor of the Hillcrest United Presbyterian Church in Anchorage, a national missions congregation that serves families in which the father is connected with the armed forces.

Mr. Koch will serve the Hillcrest Church as special consultant for a month in Christian education.

The Session of Orchard Lake Church voted to designate the summer Vacation School offering to the work of the Hillcrest Church.

The Kochs received slides from their son concerning the work in Alaska which they will show to the Friendship Group following the cooperative supper Friday evening.

High school seniors will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Webster Sunday afternoon.

The Websters have kept in touch with more than one hundred college and university students from Orchard Lake Church during the past two years.

LATTER DAY SAINTS
The Pontiac Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 425 Woodward, Bloomfield Hills will present films, "Man's Search for Happiness" and "The Morning Breaks" for the enjoyment of Oakland County residents Monday evening.

The films to be shown at 7:30 p.m. are recommended for the entire family.

"Man's Search for Happiness" was shown in the Mormon pavilion for two years at the New York World's Fair.

The second film, "The Morning Breaks," is a travelogue of the West narrated by Lowell Thomas. It features the 575 voices of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir in Salt Lake City. This program free to the public will begin with an organ prelude at 7:15 p.m.

PRICE OF COEXISTENCE — Lulu the basnet hound has to entertain Delores the ring-necked dove several times a day, like it or not. But how do you tell when a hound is happy? The flying visits occur in the home of the Donald Starrs of Tucson, Ariz. Delores, obtained when only a few weeks old, had to be hand-fed by Mrs. Starr. When she got stronger, she landed on Lulu's head. She's been doing it ever since. Delores is now 7 months old.

Actor Charges His Energy to His Energetic Parents

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "I thank God and my parents I was born with energy!" Robert Preston declaimed-energetically. "Some people are born with charm, some with energy. David Niven and Cary Grant . . . well, they were born with both. Cary Grant has worn out many mimics just doing imitations of him."

The deep-bearded, long-haired Preston, who wears his mane that way front and back for the role of King Henry II in "The Lion in Winter," is currently using some of his energy to arouse interest in his play which is having a box office struggle.

"I don't have to do much exercising because I get such strenuous parts in shows," Preston boomed on. "I was never off stage in 'The Music Man' in 'Albatross' I was hardly off, and this Henry . . . well, those were the days when the King really rode at the head of his legions. He stood to get killed if he wasn't a great soldier. "And the reason for him wearing his hair long is the back was that the hair saved your neck from the sword. Hair is the greatest barrier to the sword blade. That's why the barber today tests a blade by trying to cut a single hair with it."

And so Bob bounds about the stage swinging his sword and quite enchanting the females as he roars his speeches . . . and then the next nighttime he may be seen around his home at Rye, chopping trees or some such.

The pendulum swings back and forth for Preston as it does for every actor. The very week "The Music Man" became the first film ever to be sold to TV for $1,000,000, Preston and his leading lady, Rosemary Harris, are wondering whether their current show will be around Memorial Day.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

Barbra Streisand's $1,000,000-plus concert contract was worked out in a nonstop 24-hour meeting on a N.Y.-to-Miami train (by her mgr. Marty Ehrlichman and Jackie Green of the Joe Glaser office) . . . Shelley Winters' quote at the Rainbow Rm.: "I don't discuss my personal life. I don't have to. Others do it for me" . . . The singing Supremes "I have their names on loaves of bread."

Famed designer Edith Head's new project: Creating a dress — for Leda Nye to wear in "Charlie's Aunt" . . . Oscar winner Sammy Cahn's writing special lyrics for a special occasion—the 50th ann'y of Nathan's hot dog emporium . . . Kate Smith "I'll be a guest on eight TV's next season."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "When you help a man in trouble, you can be sure of one thing: he won't forget you—the next time he's in trouble."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: Nowadays a good conversationalist is anyone who can talk louder than the hi-fi.

Taffy Tuttle was disappointed with her first jet flight: "The food was good, and so was the movie—but in a $5,000,000 plane you'd expect at least to be able to get the windows open." That's Earl, brother.

News of Nature and Bathing

Stories Germ-ane to Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese have almost a fetish about nature, bathing and germs. News on these fronts made headlines this past month, some of them shocking, others merely gay or funny.

A wave of anxiety arose when mysterious epidemics of dysentery and typhoid — the latter comparatively rare — broke out in Chiba and Shizuoka prefectures, making more than 100 persons ill and killing four.

Anxiety turned to horror when authorities arrested a young doctor named Mitsuru Suzuki, a researcher at Chiba University, and accused him of having deliberately created at least some of the outbreaks. They said later he had admitted smearing soft drinks and cake eaten by some of those who subsequently became sick. He was seeking to establish a new medical theory with pepper, regarded as a preventive against a cold.

To a people noted for their fastidiousness in avoiding the spread of disease — gauze face masks automatically appear on cold sufferers — the Suzuki case was news which elbowed the Viet Nam war for attention.

DIVES INTO TUB

The ancient Kabuki Theater announced it was putting on a rare, seldom-played drama in which the hero, a swaggering, devilish fellow-about-town known for his prowess with ladies, plunges fully and richly clothed into a tub brimming with water.

Since a spring chill had settled over the theater, the noted actor Kanzaburo took the precaution of wearing a special belly-band liberally sprinkled with pepper, regarded as a preventive against a cold.

A few nights later he emerged dripping from the tub to strike his braggadocio pose and shout in his stentorian he-man voice: "What came out, however, was a white and a whistle. The tub had won. And all Japan laughed."

STRIPPED OFF CLOTHES

The famed cherry blossoms burst out in all their delicate glory, and as is their wont, Japanese frolicked under them, drinking deep of sake to celebrate the joys of nature. One enthusiast stripped off his clothes and plunged into a pond and had to be dragged out by the police.

In the restaurants, sea breeze and bonito were at their marbled best. Strawberries as big as a child's fist, melons and

CHAPLIN'S AT IT AGAIN — Veteran comedian and pantomimist Charlie Chaplin takes up where he left off many years ago yesterday on a movie set in Pinewood, England, during a party celebrating his 77th birthday. Viewing Chaplin's antics are Sophia Loren and Tippi Hedren and Tippi's daughter, Melanie. The actresses are starring in "The Countess of Hong Kong," directed by Chaplin.

Suggestion for Television: Combine Doomed Shows

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD—Oh, the waste of it all! No fewer than 48 television series are shuffling off the networks this season, a record.

This throws hundreds of actors out of work and corporations into panic — three big studios suffered a total loss of 17 series. Millions of dollars are lost, since many series fail to show a profit on the first run. They need a few years of production and returns to break even.

Is there a solution to this waste? There is, and it is offered by that astute observer of the television scene, Caroline Thomas.

Miss Thomas is 7, and she was upset to learn that two of her favorite shows, "Gidget" and "The Patty Duke Show," are going off the air.

"Why can't Gidget move in with Patty Duke?" she suggested.

SPARED THE AX — A brilliant suggestion. Shows could be spared the ax by combining with others for double the viewing enjoyment. Or, triple, since Tammy would be an ideal companion for Patty and Gidget.

Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare could go into practice together. The Addams family could take up residence with the Munsters, or vice versa, and scare the dickens out of each other.

A combination of the Loner, Jesse James, the Man from Sheenahood and the chaps from "Branded" and "Rawhide" could wipe the Ponderosa off the map.

There isn't a case that could not be solved by a detective agency staffed by Honey West, Henry Phyte, Secret Agent and Blue Light. Hazel could get a job with Ozzie and Harriet. Mister Roberts and McHale's Navy could climb aboard the Wackiest Ship in the Army.

LAW FIRM — The law firm of Mason and O'Brien could rescue Raymond Burr and Peter Falk from syndication. Mr. Ed could be put out to pasture at Camp Runamuck. Donna Reed would certainly add some much-needed wholesomeness to the Long Hot Summer.

A super variety show called "The Losers" could be built around the talents of Jimmy Dean, Steve Lawrence, Sammy Davis, the Smothers Brothers and the King Family, joined by the fruggers from Shindig and Hullabaloo.

Caroline and I have not yet figured out what to do with My Mother the Car, Mona McCluskey, O.K. MacKenzie, John Forsythe and Hank. But then the networks couldn't, either.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Lynda Bird Johnson and her frequent escort, actor George Hamilton, have a date for Hollywood's biggest social event—the Academy Awards.

The President's daughter is slated to be in the audience when Hamilton presents one of the awards Monday night at the Santa Monica civic auditorium.

Afterwards, she, Hamilton and two secret servicemen have seats reserved for the Academy Ball at the Beverly Hilton.

Lynda Bird Hamilton starts a movie the same day that will take nearly eight weeks to complete.

Then he plans to visit Viet Nam and entertain troops, probably in mid-June.

TV Newscaster Bows Out of Election Race

TV newscaster Carlton Cordell hadn't thought about all the complications when he became a candidate for the school board in Millbrae, Calif.

But his employer—radio station KTVU in Oakland, Calif.,—did. So yesterday Cordell withdrew his candidacy.

"My company was very happy that I was taking an active part in community affairs," he said.

"Then, in a routine check, they discovered I would have to write letters to every candidate and offer equal time for each time I appeared on the air."

The Federal Communications Commission requires that equal broadcast time be given to candidates for elective political office.

"I could have taken a leave of absence but that would have cost me nearly $4,000 for a job that pays nothing," said Cordell.

For Confab Disruption

Poverty Chief Gets Apology

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sponsors of a "poor people's convention" here have apologized to poverty war director Sargent Shriver for disruptions Thursday which nearly drowned out a speech he was making to the group.

Richard W. Boone, executive director of the Citizens' Crusade Against Poverty, and the national committee of the crusade wired Shriver yesterday their expressions of regret and embarrassment over the episode.

The committee's telegram said it "deeply appreciates your effort to help us maintain dignity and order under the most trying circumstances," and Boone told Shriver his "personal calm in the situation."

Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity was the target of boos, catcalls and shouts from convention members who felt the poverty program was not getting results.

They came largely from persons representing impoverished areas in major cities.

The convention ended with dissidents taking over the meeting despite objections by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. who was presiding; and others.

Shriver said Shriver left only after the chairman "recessed" the luncheon itself because he couldn't obtain order.

Crackdown in State House Hits Drinking Drivers

Election Day Is Monday in Pontiac

"Wait and wonder" will be the watchword Monday for the 15 aspirants for City Commission as Pontiac voters go to the polls to elect their representatives.

Two six-year posts on the local municipal Court also will be decided, but the two veteran incumbents are unopposed for reelection.

The incumbent Judges are Maurice E. Flanagan and Cecil B. McCallum.

In addition to voting for the judges, voters may cast one vote in each of the seven district races.

Thus, an elector that completes the ballot will cast a total of nine votes.

Pontiac's 43 voting precincts will open at 7 a.m. Monday and remain open until 5 p.m. Everyone in line at the closing hour will be allowed to vote.

City Clerk Mrs. Olga Barkley said approximately 32,320 voters are registered to vote in Monday's election.

The names of 14 commission candidates, those nominated in the March primary, will be on the ballot. One other aspirant is seeking a commission seat as a write-in candidate.

Monday's vote pits the incumbent City Commission against a contingent of eight office-seekers. Only one of the latter is a former incumbent, former Pontiac mayor Robert A. Landry, who was elected in 1964.

District 1 — T. Warren Fowler, 34, of 29 Lake, local electrical and heating contractor; Charles M. Tucker Jr., 33, of 161 Earlemon, a real estate broker.

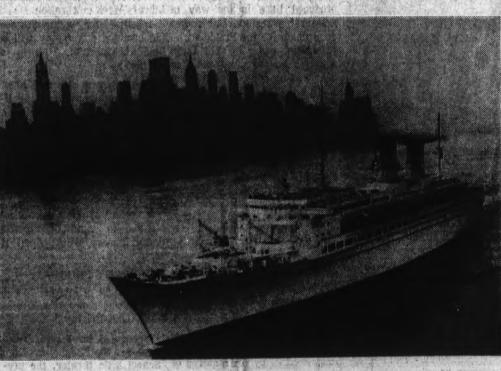

District 2 — Kenneth H. Cumberworth, 36, of 33 Newberry, an owner in a bar and restaurant; Robert C. Irwin, 36, of 345 W. Iroquois, a Pontiac dealer.

District 3 — William H. Taylor Jr., 50, of 247 Ottawa, an assistant advertising manager; William J. Winter, 30, of 228 Ottawa, district loan office manager.

District 4 — George Grba, 35, of 28 Kimball, a county employee; Leslie H. Hudson, 43, of 315 Gallogly, hardware dealer and real estate broker.

District 5 — John A. Dugan, 57, of 353 Nelson, auto plant employee; William B. Hine, 32, of 490 DeSota, GMC Truck & Coach Division employee.

Italian Liner Limpers Into NY Harbor

NEW YORK (AP) — The Italian superliner Michelangelo, struck by a killer wave at sea, reached New York today with her dead and injured.

A wave said by her captain to be 50 feet high smashed into the sleek, white ship Tuesday, killing three persons, injuring 12 and twisting her superstructure.

"I will dare to say it was the most severe storm I have so far experienced in my 41 years at sea," said Capt. Giuseppe Soletti.

Asked if there had ever been any danger of sinking, Capt. Soletti looked incredulous and replied: "With this ship?"

"It felt like an explosion," said Dr. Jay Blankovich of San Pedro, Calif. "It was rough, I can tell you that."

GREAT STORM — The 48,900-ton streamlined ship, put into transatlantic service only last May, was tossed about in a great storm that delayed her voyage from Genoa by two days.

Her flag at half mast, she steamed into New York Harbor in the early morning mist with a giant tarpaulin strick across her damaged superstructure like a bandage.

The ship's 775 passengers, praised the Italian crew and Capt. Soletti.

"They were perfect, really a great crew," said Walter Weiland of Munich, Germany.

SLEPT UNAWARE — Some passengers said they had slept through the storm, blissfully unaware of any impending danger. Others said:

"Then I knew it was serious," said Grass. "I went to one of the salons and started waiting like everyone else."

SHIP DAMAGED — Half of the ship's bow-spray shield, a three-inch thick steel sheet, was torn away by the huge wave. Her quarter deck, 75 feet above the water line, was twisted and damaged.

Nine windows were boarded up, and inside was the debris left by the storm. Broken chairs and tables lay on water-stained carpets, and whole sections of ceiling had been ripped loose.

In the first-class dining hall 30 men and women at breakfast were thrown violently across the room. None was seriously hurt, but broken chairs, tables and dishes were strewn everywhere.

A pleasant 33 was the low reading prior to 8 a.m. today. The mercury had climbed to 60 by 1 p.m.

First Offenders Face Stiffened Penalties, Jail

Other Bills Passed on Liquor in Armories, Trout, Pollution, Arts

LANSING (AP) — The House cracked down on first-offense drinking drivers yesterday.

And it opened state armories to the serving of liquor in a session that ran from midmorning to nearly midnight. It also passed bills to beautify highways, help trout, clean up state waters and promote the arts.

Passed on a 63-30 vote and sent to the Senate was a bill originally intended as a new weapon in the fight against juvenile drinking and driving.

It was amended to require a jail sentence and fine on a first conviction of driving while intoxicated.

A first offender would automatically lose his driving privileges for a year, pay a $100 fine and spend at least two days in jail. A second offense within five years would result in three months in jail and suspension of driving privileges for two years.

$300 FINE — If the second offense came more than five years after the first, it would result in a fine of at least $300 and probation.

To reduce water pollution, the House approved a new $5 million program that would enable local governments to double their money for waste treatment projects.

The armories bill would allow use of liquor by outside non-military groups using the facilities.

The highway bills would allow the state to acquire land within 1,000 feet of an interstate freeway or state trunkline for scenic purposes, and require the screening or removal of junk yards.

AF Destroys Record 42 Red Trucks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers caught several North Vietnamese convoys in the open and destroyed 42 trucks, a record number in the 14-month-long war against Communist supply lines, an Air Force spokesman said today.

Twenty of the vehicles were caught in the Mu Gia Pass, clogged by landslides in last Tuesday's B52 raids.

The other were hit on alternate routes the North Vietnamese have been trying to use to reach the Ho Chi Minh Trail leading south through Laos and Cambodia.

The alternates are mostly trails with none of the advantages of Highway 15, now described as in a state of chaos around the area of the mountain pass.

The raids yesterday by Air Force and Navy carrier bombers totaled 49 strikes against the north.

PEELED OFF — Thunderchiefs peeled off from the assault on the Mu Gia Pass bridge to destroy a highway bridge at Dong Ca Thom, not far from the pass and about 60 miles north of the 17th Parallel border.

Navy planes from the carriers Kitty Hawk and Ticonderoga hit 40 targets on 29 missions, destroying 10 trucks and a barge 34 miles southwest of Thanh Hoa and two more cargo junks 29 miles north of Vinh.

Air power was unleashed in South Viet Nam as well with two B52 raids on enemy troop concentration areas early today in Quang Tri Province, 55 miles northwest of Hue.

Viet Project Probe to Hear MSU Chief

LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University President John Hannah has agreed to appear before a legislative committee to discuss reports of the university's involvement with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in South Viet Nam.

Hannah will appear before the House Ways and Means Higher Education subcommittee, said the committee chairman, Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit.

Ramparts magazine has charged that MSU served as a front for CIA operatives in a 1964-65 mission to advise former President Ngo Dinh Diem in setting up of a police force and civil service system.

At Huge Markup U.S. Buys Bombs Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States sold a German firm 7,562 bombs as junk for $12,736 two years ago and now, in wartime, is buying back 5,370 of them for $114,500, it was learned today.

The Defense Department provided this information in response to questions about the transactions which Secretary Robert S. McNamara said Thursday indicate no shortage of bombs for the Viet Nam war.

McNamara disclosed the repurchase during a press conference to answer charges by House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford that the war has been shockingly mismanaged and hampered by a bomb shortage.

McNamara denied this, pointing to increasing tonnages of explosives being dropped against the Communists in the Southeast Asian country.

Then the defense chief mentioned that the United States was buying back 750-pound bombs from a German firm that bought them in 1964 for fertilizer purposes. The nitrates of bombs are plant nutrients.

LAUGHING ANSWER — In response to a question about the bomb repurchase, McNamara said with a laugh: "Well, I would certainly hope we aren't paying more for them than we sold them for."

The figures provided today show that the United States sold the bombs for $1.70 each and now is paying $21 apiece to get them back.

The United States halted production of 750-pound bombs, favored for most missions in South Viet Nam, in the mid-1950s after the Korean war. Only recently did orders go out for renewed production.

Due to the time required to tool up for production, fresh supplies of the 750-pounders aren't scheduled to be available before July.

Drawings Approved for County Facilities

Oakland County officials yesterday moved a step closer to launching a $5-million building program by approving plans for a proposed courthouse wing, court tower remodeling and a health center.

The buildings and grounds committee of the County Board of Supervisors accepted the working drawings on the projects previously approved by the supervisors.

Bids will be taken on the estimated $3.3 million wing and the $450,000 court tower alteration project by mid-July.

Construction on both is expected to begin about Aug. 1.

The new health center to be located at Greenfield and Catalpa streets, because of existing plans in Southfield will cost an estimated $971,600 with an additional $105,000 earmarked for furniture and equipment.

Bids on the health center are scheduled to be received early in July. Work will begin about two weeks later.

The new wing will be located at the east end of the courthouse tower building and will be similar in size to the present wing at the west side of the central building.

Rectangular in shape, it will extend north and south. The west wing extends west from the tower.

Both the new wing and tower remodeling projects were planned because of existing crowded conditions at the county facility.

Ultimate plans call for two more wings to the building at the north and south.

TO GET WING — The $3.3-million proposed addition to the Oakland County Courthouse Building complex will be in the form of a wing to the right of the lattice-faced courthouse tower in the right foreground. It will be similar in size to the existing west wing which extends to the left of the central building in a westerly direction. The new wing, however, will extend from north to south. Located behind the courthouse is the Children's Center, a housing unit for juveniles. In the upper left are the Oakland County Department of Health, the first roofed building, and behind it the county sanitarium, recently remodeled.

Trip Boosts LBJ With Latins

City Police Officer to End Long Career

Capt. George T. Scott, a 29-year veteran of the Pontiac Police Department, is retiring from the force effective Friday, it was announced today.

Scott of 680 Joslyn joined the department in 1937 and for the last five years has supervised the police service bureau.

A native of Dublin, Ireland, the 61-year-old Scott served in the intelligence department of the Irish National Army before coming to this country in 1926.

He worked for the Grand Trunk & Western Railroad for over nine years prior to joining the police force.

Of his early days, Scott modestly admitted he was "the best darn motorcycle cop on the long gone."

The captain commented on the progress of police work in the last two decades.

"The day of the strong back and weak mind is long gone," he said.

"Police now must think fast on their feet and have a knowledge of the law."

"In a large sense, they must be unprejudiced and fair-minded to do their job well."

Scott and his wife, Margaret, plan to build a year-round home at St. Helen, on property across from where the couple presently owns a summer cottage.

Police Hunt Firm Clues in Slaying

Pontiac police detectives seeking a concrete clue in the gunshot slaying of a Caro truck driver early yesterday, continued today to piece together the last moments of the victim's life.

Investigators headed by Detective Sgt. John A. DePaue have now pinned down the park- Carlawy W. Henry to a 9-minute time period between 2:19 and 2:28 a.m.

Henry, the father of three young children, was found just before 2:30 a.m. outside a tavern at Woodward and South Boulevard.

Two GMC Truck & Coach Division employees who discovered the body said they found Henry lying face down next to the cab of his still-running diesel truck.

Just minutes before, the victim had called the Detroit dispatch office of his employer, Central Transport Inc., from a pay phone in front of the Jet Bar and Diner, 714 S. Woodward.

50-FOOT DISTANCE

Detectives theorize the young trucker was attacked as he walked the fifty-foot distance between the phone booth and his truck.

An autopsy confirmed that Henry died from a single bullet let which entered his chest, deflected off a rib and ripped through the victim's heart and left lung before lodging in his back.

The only solid pieces of evidence turned up so far in the investigation are a spent 22-caliber shell and an ammunition clip containing nine bullets.

FOUND AT SCENE

Both items were picked up at the scene of the shooting yesterday by agents from the State Police Crime Laboratory and taken to Lansing for analysis.

Explanations of motive for the killing point towards robbery Henry's wallet was not found on his body.

Big Welcome Elates Johnson

Advisers Fearful After U.S. Dominican Move

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's trip to Mexico city — his first visit to a foreign capital — may have produced little in the way of measurable results. But it has done much for the President.

Johnson, eager to visit Latin America for many months, had been told by some advisers that such a trip would be unwise. That advice followed American intervention in the Dominican Republic a year ago.

Now the President has stepped across the southern border. And all portents stemming from the 24-hour trip he concluded Friday turned out favorable.

In fact, Johnson said he couldn't recall a warmer welcome anywhere in the world, and he saw some pretty big ones as well.

ENCOURAGED

Without question, the chief executive was encouraged — a mild word — by the hundred of thousands of Mexicans who turned out to greet him Thursday and forced a 2 1/2-hour pace. Some local police officials estimated the crowd at two million. The real figure couldn't be calculated.

Perhaps this reception helped prompt Johnson to suggest a more ambitious south-of-the-border tour.

In his big speech of the trip at the unveiling Friday of a statue of Abraham Lincoln in a Mexico City park, the President endorsed a proposal that he get together with Latin-American chiefs of state for a hemispheric summit conference to promote the Alliance for Progress.

This served to strengthen speculation Johnson wants to visit South America this year.

In Mexico, Johnson in his own way demonstrated his pleasure with the way things went. For example, on his departure motorcade to the Mexico City airport, the car assigned to the bodyguard of Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz preceded the big limousine from which U.S. Secret Service agents protect American presidents at home and abroad.

This may have been an accident — and White House reporters couldn't recall when it happened before. But they suspected Johnson may have had a hand in it, to affirm respect for a fellow president.

In addition, Johnson prolonged his stay in Mexico to visit the push Chapultepec Heights home of Latin America's most famous screen comic, Cantinflas.

Agricultural Output

Decline in Cuba Noted

ROME — Statistics issued by the United Nations, for the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) in Rome, adjudge Cuba a world's record in steadily decreasing agricultural production. Analyzing the production of 36 countries between the years 1956-57 and 1963-64 the FAO shows that the decrease in Cuba represented 22 points.

The Cuban decrease in food is considered the most grave in the world for the last 15 years.

Businessmen to Assist in Library's Celebration

BIRMINGHAM — Local businessmen will help Baldwin Public Library kick off its National Library Week celebration. A coffee hour for members of the business community will be held at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday at the library.

Businessmen also will have an opportunity to tour the library and discover available services geared to their needs.

Special book lists and exhibits have been planned, and staff members will be on hand to answer questions.

A variety of other events are planned to commemorate National Library Week, April 17-23.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

A highlight of interest to children will be a program entitled "All About Brighty."

Scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Seashell High School little theater, the program will feature author Mrs. Marguerite Henry and film producer Stephen Bosch.

They will discuss the soon-to-be-released film "Brighty" based on Mrs. Henry's book for children.

Mothers will be invited to a 10 a.m. program Thursday to learn about "The Livey Art of the Picture Book."

PICTURE BOOKS

The 60-minute film to be shown then illustrates the work which goes into the planning and publication of children's picture books.

Friday will be "No Fines Day" when overdue books can be returned without penalty.

Library visitors on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday can enjoy a cup of coffee during 10-11:30 a.m. open houses.

A number of special book lists will be distributed by the library.

Gaming Raid Made in City

15 Are Arrested at North Side Building

Pontiac police armed with warrants broke into an alleged gambling operation on the city's north side early today, arresting 15 persons.

Two were apprehended on state law charges of assisting in keeping a gambling place, while the others face city ordinance counts of loitering at a gambling operation.

Held at the Oakland County Jail pending arraignment on the state law charges are Walter J. Stafford, 49, of 825 Highland, White Lake Township, and Peter H. Margosian, 28, of 571 Second.

The charge is a high misdemeanor and punishable by as much as two years imprisonment.

The arrests were made by vice squad plainclothesmen headed by Lt. Fred L. Gaines and Sgt. Robert C. Gaines.

ENTER BUILDING

With the assistance of six uniformed men, vice officers cracked into an apparently empty building at 33 Baldwin just after 2:30 a.m.

Inside, they found two large card tables, several dozen decks of cards, and about six cases of beer and soft drinks.

In addition, a notebook with listings of card dealers and betting notations was found.

Arrested for loitering and free on $25 bond are:

Peter G. Venes Jr., 36, of 43 Court; Theodore E. Reever, 31, of 464 E. South Blvd.; William A. Weicht, 49, of 6840 Brightwood, Waterford Township; Burton F. Hodgson, 29, of 2498 Harrison, Avon Township.

Also, Gregory B. Stevens, 25, of 6501 Alden, West Bloomfield Township; Guy H. Freer, 33, of 289 Baldwin; Daniel S. Margosian, 26, of 571 Second; Leo J. Motloch, 46, of 4805 Baldwin, Orion Township; Thomas Covington, 35, of 113 State.

Also, Harold E. Stevens, 45, of 1604 Petrolia, West Bloomfield Township; Dennis M. Allen, 29, of 4120 Mapleleaf, Waterford Township; Claude D. Williams, 45, of 28 S. Shirley; and Jose G. Flores, 33, of 730 Corwin.

In N.Y. Safety Drive

Story of Own Death Spurred Senator

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A minor event — an elevator operator's garbled account of a traffic accident — looms large in pioneering efforts by New York State to develop a safer automobile.

Recent probes into car-safety features have thrown a spotlight on the Empire State's "go-it-alone" project to design a car aimed at cutting in half accidental highway deaths.

The first step, a $100,000 feasibility study, has been completed. Engineers say the study clearly indicates that such a vehicle — a "streamlined strongbox" in the words of one — is a definite possibility.

The state is in the process of allocating $300,000 more to pay for the actual design of the proposed car. That phase is to be completed by next year.

Plans call for an expenditure of $4 million to $5 million to build 18 to 20 prototype models that could be crash-tested at various speeds to determine whether safety performance equals engineering promise.

The state's effort, however, might never have been launched if an elevator operator in the capitol at Albany had not misheard the name of a legislator involved in an automobile accident.

State Sen. Edward J. Speno recalls that one legislator was killed and two others injured in the 1960 accident. One of the injured was former State Sen. Frank J. Spino.

Speno, a Republican from Long Island, says that, on the day of the accident, he entered an elevator in the capitol and overheard the operator telling another person that "Senator Speno was killed in a traffic accident."

"SCARED ME" Speno says, "It scared me at first." Speno says, "It gives you a funny feeling to hear yourself described as an accident victim."

"Later, I really began to think about the problem of traffic safety. Not just the drivers and the highways — but also the car. So I decided to try and do something."

Speno, along with Democratic Sen. Simon J. Liebowitz of Brooklyn, mapped plans for a systematic study aimed at producing a "safety car."

The state contacted with the Republic Aviation Division of Fairchild Hiller Corp. to consider in every detail the factors that would go into the production of such a vehicle.

WOULD BE POSSIBLE

The engineers concluded it would be possible to build a car that would cut — by at least 50 per cent — the chances of death or injury in a 50-mile-an-hour collision.

The experts said the car still would perform as economically, carry as many passengers and be as attractive as the standard American-made auto of today. They advanced 134 proposed changes, ranging from rewriting owners' manuals to new braking systems.

Among the revolutionary features the aviation engineers suggested:

—A rooftop periscope that would give drivers a clear view of traffic in front and back. It could be lowered into the car for clearance.

—A buzzer system that would alert other drivers when the car was backing up.

—Padded bucket seats, equipped with belts and shoulder harness, and cushioned head rests designed to prevent whiplash injuries.

—A plastic bladder gasoline tank that would not rupture in a collision.

SWINGING GATE

—A swinging gate bumper designed to deflect other vehicles or objects on impact.

—Collapse structuring of the engine and trunk compartments, to absorb shock before it reached the passenger compartment.

2 Stand Mute in Dope Case

Two Pontiac men stood mute yesterday at their arraignment in federal district court on multiple charges of sale and possession of narcotics.

A plea of not guilty was entered on behalf of the defendants—Roy White, 30, of 173 Bagley and Lewis Cummings, 39, of 240 Wessen — by U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton.

The pair were indicted Tuesday by a grand jury on 10 counts of violating the federal narcotics statute.

Although trial date was not set, Asst. U.S. Atty. Howard E. O'Leary Jr. said he would seek to try White and Cummings "within a month."

Following arraignment, both were released in continuance of $2,500 bond set at their preliminary hearing.

CAPT. MEGGITT

New Captain Is Named by Chief Hanger

Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger today announced the promotion of Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt to the rank of captain, effective May 1.

Hanger said Meggitt would function in a supervisory capacity in a main bureau of the department.

Meggitt's present duty as lieutenant is administrative assistant to the chief of police.

He joined the department in February 1946 and resides at 659 Westbrook with his wife, Rosemary, and two daughters, Suzanne, 18, and Marjorie, 15.

Firemen Make Threat to Quit in W. Bloomfield

Five full-time and 11 volunteer West Bloomfield Township firemen have threatened to walk off the job Monday at 7 a.m. if their demands for a raise in pay are not met by that time.

Township Supervisor John C. Rehner said today the action was in the hands of the fire committee, of which Walter Whitmer is chairman.

Whitmer is attempting to get the committee together over the weekend, to settle the matter.

DETROIT (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-Shek will address the Economic Club of Detroit Monday. The wife of Nationalist China's premier is to arrive at Detroit Metropolitan Airport Sunday. Nationalist China's ambassador, S. K. Chow, and L.S. Bork, president of the Economic Club, will welcome her.

Southfield Collision Leaves Two Dead

Mrs. Lorraine Rice, 64, of Detroit lost control of her car and crashed head-on into an automobile driven by James H. Hobbs Jr., 20, of Royal Oak, killing both drivers.

Southfield police said the accident occurred on Southfield near 13 Mile. The victims were dead on arrival at William Beaumont hospital.

Two other cars hit the wrecked automobiles. However, neither driver was hurt. The wreck tied up traffic for more than an hour.

Two Are Arrested in Fight Among Group of Youths

A fight involving a group of youths at Dequindre and Auburn road in Sterling Township, last night resulted in the arrest of two of them.

Stephen Johnson, 20, of Ferndale and Angelo Diemaco of Oak Park were charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Officers from the Warren post of the State Police said about 20 were involved in the disturbance.

Three From Holly Are Hurt in Crash

Robert Tinsman, 17, of 2068 Tinsman, Holly, was the driver of a car which smashed into a parked automobile in Holly last night, injuring himself and two passengers.

Gerald Sura, 1103 Marion, and Wayne Rowe, 17, of 2068 Tinsman, both of Holly, were hospitalized along with Tinsman. Tinsman was charged with reckless driving.

Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

"My husband and I have always been intrigued with the brilliant colors and warmth of Mexico and the southwest," said Mrs. William Mitzfeld.

"When we were ready to build our home, we tried to adapt this warmth and look to our mode of life.

"I guess you might call the results, Spanish-Contemporary."

Designed by Mr. Mitzfeld, the adobe-colored brick two-story is found on Tartan Drive, Avon Township.

Massive double doors lead from the landscaped courtyard into the entrance hall, floored in quarry tile.

Examples of handmade furniture, typical of Old Mexico, spice the home's interior. The primitive finish on the sun-dried lumber is achieved by a technique developed during the Renaissance.

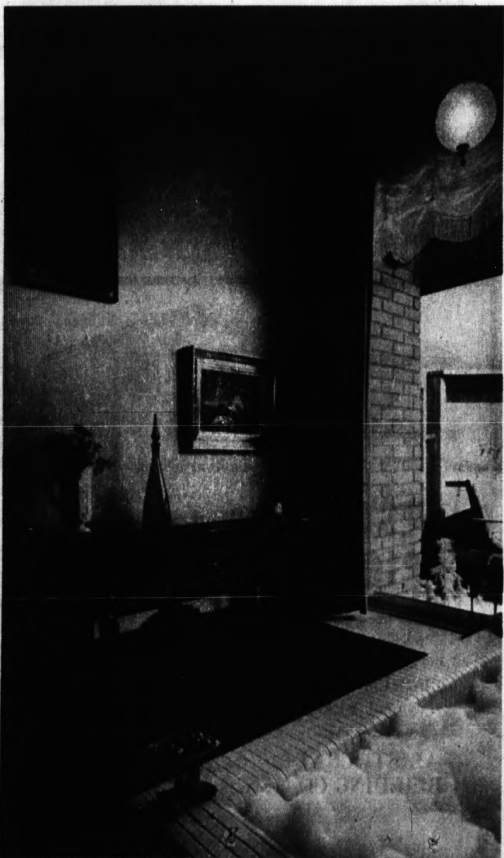

The Mitzfelds' home will be among those shown on the 1966 Home and Garden tour sponsored by the Rochester Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Breakfast for two is served in the master bedroom before a crackling fire as an aura of early spring-time brilliance pours through the window wall.

Reflecting the charm of a gracious hostess, Mrs. William Mitzfeld pauses by the Polynesian chair in the foyer of her Spanish-Contemporary home.

Pontiac Press Spectacular by Edward R. Noble

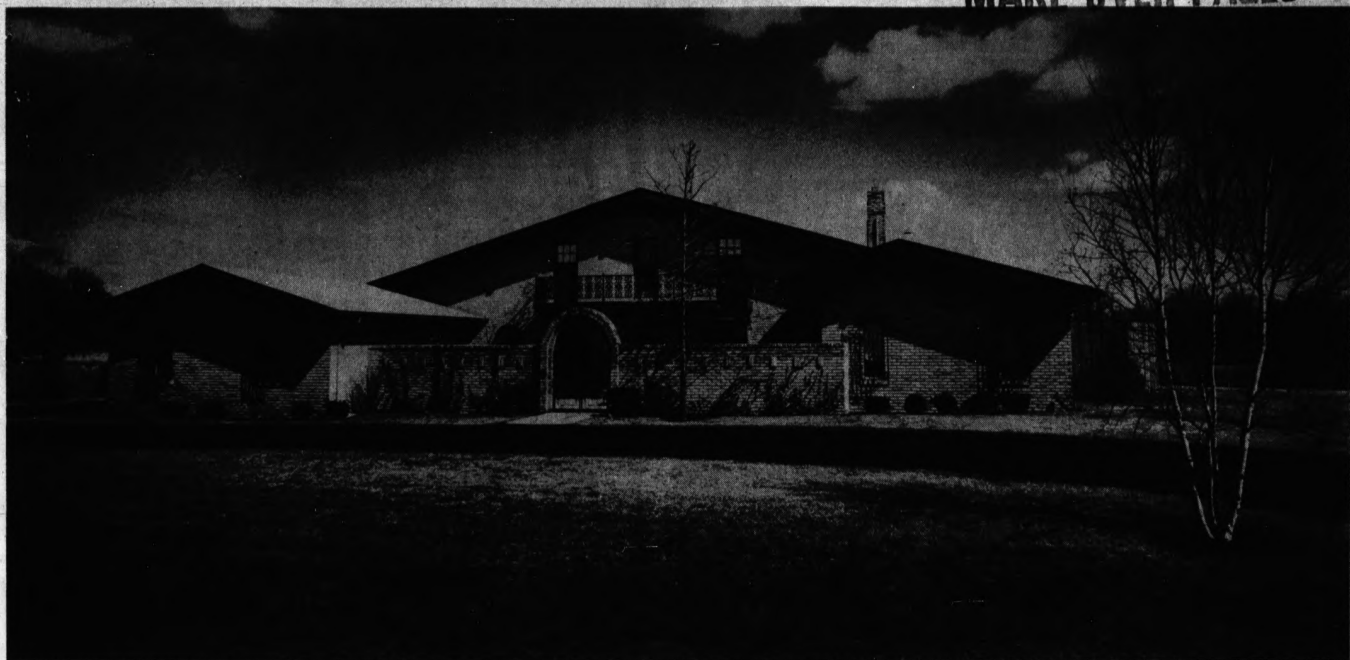

The fun-oriented game room serves as a social center for the Mitzfelds' sons, Monty, 16, and Bradley, 14, both of whom join their father as avid pool enthusiasts. Illuminating the pool table is an authentic Tiffany fixture. The art glass piece was found by the Mitzfelds in an out-of-the-way shop during a New York buying trip for their Rochester department store. Permanent panels of flocked foil introduce an interesting texture change and brighten the pecan paneling of the handsome room. Custom-turned balusters screen the below-ground windows.

Accenting glamour and luxury, from its cathedral ceiling to its sunken tile tub, the master bathroom features a sliding glass window wall which opens onto a wood screened, private courtyard.

Distinctive beauty is added to the brick and walnut paneling of the family room by the rare, hand-carved walnut molding which was discovered and retrieved from an about-to-be demolished mansion.

The best time to call in your your heating contractor is when most people ordinarily stop thinking about home heating—before summer, when the heating season is over and your heating plant shut down.

Then he has time and can give your heating problem individual attention.

This holds true especially if you are considering a modernization of your heating system, or any other heating work which would improve the system's efficiency.

If you do have a problem, there are quite a few things the heating contractor can do to improve the efficiency of your old hot water or steam system, according to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

Any gravity-type hot water heating system and some steam systems can be improved at low cost by converting to a modern hydronic (forced circulation hot water) system.

In a hydronic system circulation of water is automatically started and stopped by mechanical means to provide instantaneous response to heating needs. This means steady, even heat at precise temperatures.

Rev. Leland Lloyd and Rev. Roger Loop are planning the new congregation of the Stonecrest Baptist Church in Walled Lake. The church is to be built on the site of the old Stonecrest Baptist Church, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The new church is to be a modern building with a large sanctuary and a community center.

REV. ASSANI BENEDICT and KERCAL ARMSTRONG are the new ministers of the Stonecrest Baptist Church in Walled Lake. Rev. Benedict is a native of the Congo and has served in various capacities in the Congo and the United States. Rev. Armstrong is a native of the United States and has served in various capacities in the United States.

Glee Club, Moody Chorale Sing

Minister From Congo in Services

Rev. Assani Benedict of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Rev. Alfred Larson, field leader for the Congo Branch of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, will speak at the 7 p.m. service tomorrow in First Baptist Church.

Due to illness in the family he was not in the area when the rebels took over in 1964, but was close to the Uganda border, so was able to escape. He is now back in Stanleyville.

As the area outside the city is slowly retaken by the national army, Mr. Benedict is able to make trips into the forest regions, gathering the Christians together and encouraging them.

Mr. Larson, who will interpret for Mr. Benedict, has served under the Fields Mission since 1952.

MARIMONT
The Women's Glee Club of Wheaton College will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 tonight in Marimont Baptist Church.

Under the direction of Mignon B. Mackenzie, professor of music the group will sing selections of various periods including anthems and spirituals.

New Church to Open in Walled Lake

The congregation of Silvercrest Baptist Church is venturing out on a step of faith. Founded some 30 years ago by First Baptist Church, new members of Silvercrest Church are opening a new Baptist mission to be known as Stonecrest Baptist Church in Walled Lake.

Plans are underway to hold the first service in the Stonecrest building across from the bank on April 24.

Services will be Sunday School at 10 a.m.; and worship at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Rev. Leland Lloyd and Rev. Roger Loop of Silvercrest Church will work together in the new venture until the church is established as an independent Baptist church.

An invitation is extended to all in the Walled Lake area who are interested, Rev. Mr. Lloyd said.

Annual Rally in Waterford

The annual Children's Rally tomorrow in Community Activities Building auditorium, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township marks the close of another season of Good News Clubs of Oakland County Child Evangelism Fellowship.

The rally is set for 3 p.m. with all children and their parents welcome.

The Good News Clubs are neighborhood Bible Clubs throughout Oakland County which have been meeting once a week since early October.

Chosen representatives will quote Bible verses memorized during the year.

James Branscomb, ventriloquist and his "Johnathan" will be the highlight of the afternoon. Mr. Branscomb, a student at Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music, is a favorite with the children. Director Marion Williams said.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Regier, missionary interns serving with Perry Park Baptist Church, will direct the children's singing. Lester M. Mack will serve as master of ceremonies.

Drama Group to Meet at Paul Clösson Home

The religious drama group composed of people of all ages from Pontiac area churches will meet in the home of Mrs. Paul Clösson, 1649 Inverness at 8 p.m. Monday.

Anyone of any denomination interested in religious drama, music or art is welcome. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Clösson.

It's the man with the smile who usually wins out in business, as well as in other walks of life, for that matter. Sometimes it is surely no easy trick to smile, but the trick in business is to do the hard things.
Anyone can do the easy things — the reason a boss is paid a boss's pay is because he can be counted on to do some of the hard things. The practice in country is a great schooling in self-control for the courteous man must think of others as well as of himself. He must keep his temper under trying circumstances. He must be polite — not cringing, but just even tempered and polite.
He can win more often, influence more people, be more valuable, in short, it is the thing that makes him what he is.

M. E. SIPLE The boss.
