Plot to Kill Soviet Leaders Revealed

Trout Fishermen Head for State's Streams Today

—Pontiac Press Photos

EASY DOES IT — This scene will be duplicated many, many times today (the sportsmen hope) as Michigan's trout season opens.

HEADING NORTH — Jack Patterson, Pontiac Press outdoors writer, packs his gear preparatory to a trip north to report opening of the trout season for Press readers.

Opening Day Trout Angler Faces Special Problems

By JACK PATTERSON

Whether the traditional "last Saturday in April" trout season opening is earlier than it should be is a subject for much debate. Most fishermen agree that mid-May is a much safer bet for topnotch trouting but would hate to have to wait until then. April takes long enough getting here, as it is.

Because today's opening is early, the opening fisherman faces special problems and must gear his efforts accordingly unless he wishes to bring home the stock fisherman's answer: "We had a good time, anyway."

The opener is faced with one or more of the following conditions in his favorite stream: Cold water (a certainty this year), high water, discolored water (from slight to downright opaque).

Of the three conditions, water temperature is probably most important to the fisherman. In very cold water, trout are relatively inactive. Because of this their energy requirements are fairly modest and as a result they feed rather lightly and won't go to much effort to get food. Insect activity is limited in cold water and the picture is one that clearly calls for worms as the preferred bait.

Worms or nightcrawlers (there's debate on which is better-we like n.c's because they're more durable) should be allowed to drift as naturally as possible. To do this they should be hooked so they can stretch out and not be gobbed around the hook.

Brook trout, which are pretty naive, usually don't give a hoot how the worm looks, but a big brownie is apt to have definite theories. Rainbows can be choosy, too. In fishing waters where there are big trout it's worth it to make the worm look as unencumbered as possible.

Sinkers of any sort are abomination, but may have to be used to get the worm to the bottom. The fewer the split shot the better. Usually fished downstream, worms can be cast upstream and allowed to drift down with the current, often with deadly results.

High and discolored water isn't too important a drawback to the worm fisherman, other than that it may make it hard to find "fishy" spots.

Although cold water is a natural

British Source Discloses Plan of Assassination

Two Anti-Communist Groups Checked by Tip to Scotland Yard

LONDON (AP) — A government source said today two anti-Communist underground groups had plotted to assassinate Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev during the visit of Soviet leaders to Britain.

"One of the organizations was reported to be centered on the Continent and the other in Britain," the source said.

Both Scotland Yard and the Foreign Office were tipped off, the source added. He said agents had identified the plotters as "emigres."

Scotland Yard declined comment.

"We do not discuss security matters, for then they cease to be security," a Scotland Yard official said.

A spokesman said the Foreign Office had no knowledge of a plot but added:

"The Russian security officers and our people took logical action against the large number of people hostile to the (Soviet) regime."

Two British newspapers said the vigilance of Scotland Yard had blocked the plot. There were no major incidents during the visit of the Soviet chiefs.

The Daily Express and Daily Sketch said secret agents on the Continent tipped British security officials on the reported conspiracy long before Bulganin and Khrushchev arrived here on their goodwill mission.

As a result, Scotland Yard set up the tightest security screen in British history during the 10 days of negotiations, partying and sightseeing by the Russians in England and Scotland.

The famed British force didn't relax until the Soviet chiefs boarded a Russian cruiser at Portsmouth yesterday and Khrushchev's shouted "Stay healthy. . . goodbye, good luck!" echoed across the docks.

Two Area Men Traffic Victims

Collisions Claim Lives of Utica and Bloomfield Township Residents

Traffic accidents took the lives of two Pontiac-area men and resulted in serious injuries to another within the last 24 hours.

Palmer A. Marsh, 62, of 6760 Buckland Rd., West Bloomfield Township, died in a truck-car collision on US16 in Farmington at 1:31 today.

Joseph Trever, Jr., 16, of Utica was killed instantly when the truck he was driving went off the road and hit a utility pole in Sterling Township, Macomb County, yesterday at 6:15 p.m.

In serious condition at Redford Receiving Hospital is Ernest Campbell, 44, of 2025 Union Lake Rd., Commerce Township. He was the driver of the car in which Marsh was riding when fatally injured.

Marsh was reported dead on arrival by Pontiac General Hospital with a fractured skull and traumatic shock.

Farmington police said the Campbell vehicle struck a parked gas tanker only a few minutes after the tanker's driver Joseph L. Rawlings, 57, of Wyandotte, had left the cab to check his tanks.

Trever's panel truck went out of control when the right front tire blew out, according to Center Line State Police. He was pronounced dead at the scene with a crushed chest and head injuries.

Merger Studied by Area Banks

Directors Give Tentative Approval to Combining 2 Institutions

Negotiations toward the merger of the Community National Bank of Pontiac and the Oakland County State Bank of Milford were announced today by A. C. Girard, president of the Pontiac institution.

Girard said tentative agreements have been reached by the boards of directors of the two banks but that further action must await examination and approval by Washington and Lansing bank authorities.

The Milford bank reported assets of $6,132,429 and total deposits of $5,679,546 at the end of 1955, according to President Paul H. Sinclair. The institution was founded in 1935.

The Community National Bank listed resources of $78,271,000 last year with capital accounts of $4,292,000.

More Rain Seen for Tonight

Tornado Threat Passes as Showers Drench Area

Tornado threats turned into thundershowers last night.

The all-clear in the second alert this year was sounded at 10 p.m. Chilling winds that blew into the warm front caused rain and not the death-dealing destruction which resulted from Western Michigan twisters April 3.

Tornado weather developed in mid-afternoon throughout Oakland County as well as most of Southern Michigan. The threat extended into Northern Indiana, Illinois and Southern Wisconsin.

But no tornadoes materialized. One tornado cloud was reported near Decatur in Van Buren County.

As in the rest of the area, temperatures in Pontiac dropped sharply from a high yesterday of 75 degrees to a low of 43 degrees at 7:30 a.m. today.

High winds accompanying the cold wave reached isolated speeds of 70 miles an hour.

The weatherman said skies today will remain partly cloudy with showers or thundershowers again this afternoon and tonight. Showers may continue through Sunday, the forecast said.

Winds calmed down today to speeds of 15 to 25 miles an hour.

The mercury is expected to reach 58 degrees today and from 45 to 50 degrees tomorrow. The low tonight is forecast as 34 to 40 degrees.

The temperature in downtown Pontiac was 38 at 2 p.m.

Otto John to Answer Charges of Treason

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — West Germany's Supreme Court today refused to open the jail doors for Otto John, the double turncoat and former West German intelligence chief.

Court experts said this almost certainly meant the 47-year-old John would have to stand trial on charges of suspicion of treason.

John fled to East Germany in July, 1954, then slipped back to the West last December and surrendered.

Shortly after he made his dash to East Germany, John appeared at a news conference in East Berlin. He said he went over to the Reds voluntarily to work for peace and against a revival of militarism and nazism in West Germany.

Senators Predict Full Cooperation in This Session

$51.5 Billion Program Stipulates Long-Range Tax to Defray Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several Senate leaders predicted today Congress will compose Senate-House differences and send a giant highway construction bill to President Eisenhower this session.

Ignoring a different highway bill passed by the Senate last year, the House passed 388-19 yesterday its own bill calling for 51½ billion dollars worth of new roads over the next 13 years and providing new taxes to help pay for them.

All of Michigan's 18 representatives voted with the majority.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) told reporters, "The Senate will go to work on this promptly and I am confident we will have a good road bill before Congress adjourns.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), chairman of the Senate Public Works subcommittee on highways and author of the road construction measure passed by the Senate a year ago, had this prediction:

"I am confident we will be able to merge the two bills into a vigorous highway improvement program."

LIMITED HEARINGS

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said the Finance Committee which he heads will hold limited hearings on the tax features of the House bill. These include a one-cent increase, to three cents a gallon, in the federal gasoline tax, along with boosts in other taxes motorists must pay.

However, Byrd said the hearings will not cause any undue delay, adding "I am for a highway program, and I am sure we will get it enacted into law."

Gore's bill provided for a five-year, 18 billion dollar federal-state road building program. It would have greatly increased U.S. allotments for all four federal aid programs—the interstate, primary

Annual Effort May 7-14

Scouts Will Aid Jaycees Prepare Clean Up Week

Some 300 Boy Scouts from local troops will be doing an extra good deed next week when they help the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce kick-off their annual "Clean Up, Fix Up, and Paint Up Week."

Armed with petitions, the scouts Monday afternoon will begin their tour of the city asking Pontiac residents to sign a pledge to keep Pontiac clean.

The pledge will read: "I pledge with the Boy Scouts of America my cooperation and efforts in making Pontiac a clean, healthy and safe city in which to live."

The week in which the mops, brooms, and shovels come out to beautify Pontiac is scheduled for May 7-14 and is sponsored each year by the Jaycees.

Several nights during this week Jaycee members will grab a rake and bushel basket and pitch in to help keep their Jaycee Park at Walton and Joslyn, beautiful.

It is the first year for the operation of this park which was financially backed by the Jaycee organization.

Auto Club Plans Building Here

Buys Harnack Property at Williams and Pike; Breaks Ground Soon

The Automobile Club of Michigan will build a large new office for Pontiac AAA members at the northwest corner of Williams and Pike streets, Arthur Bogue, the club's new Pontiac division manager announced today.

The location, 24,000 square feet of land, was purchased this week from the heirs of Henry Harnack estate: Jack Habel of Leslie R. Tripp Co., realtors, handled the transaction.

"Date of groundbreaking has not been set, but we will begin building as soon as possible," Bogue said.

He revealed that there would be ample offstreet parking adjacent to the building, which will house 32 club employes with room for future growth.

"Plans are being drawn now to make the Pontiac office one of the finest of all the AAA buildings in the United States," Bogue revealed.

It will be the 44th Auto Club building in Michigan.

Daylight Savings Sets Clocks Ahead 1 Hour

An unofficial hallmark of summer will take place at 2 a.m Sunday. But Pontiac and Michigan won't pay any attention to it.

It's the annual switch to daylight savings time. Clocks will be set forward one hour in 21 states and the District of Columbia.

Michigan, however, will remain on Eastern Standard Time. Clocks need not be changed, but some favorite TV programs are apt to be seen an hour earlier for the rest of the summer.

Barber's Report Nearer Confirmation

Leonard Panther Evidence Covers Past Five Years

The people of Leonard finally are beginning to take Carl Keuchenmeister seriously.

For five years, Keuchenmeister has insisted he saw a black panther in his back yard just before dusk one evening.

And for five years, while his barber's shears snipped at their scalps, the people of Leonard hooted politely.

"I guess they thought I'd taken to drink," Keuchenmeister said yesterday.

But recently there have been so many reports of sightings of the four-foot-long, sleek black beast that Keuchenmeister now is convinced there's more than one roaming the North Oakland County woods and swamps.

"What this panther really is," Keuchenmeister said, "is a puma the color of a panther. They're very rarely seen, so there must be more than one.

"It stands to reason," he added. "For one thing, an animal like that usually travels at night. It's rarely out in the daytime. I don't think just one animal would be seen so often in broad daylight."

Keuchenmeister and two companions, scouring the swamp where the panther reportedly has its den, found the skeleton of a good-sized animal Thursday night. It could be a deer, he thinks, or a calf.

It was just a few hours earlier that a "safari" of seventh and eighth graders from Leonard School found a freshly-killed calf's carcass on the farm of Kenneth Spies. Near the skeleton were tracks measuring three inches across.

Said Spies: "Something certainly stripped that carcass in a hurry."

Depredations in area poultry yards, recently on the increase, had been attributed to foxes before Wednesday afternoon, when school bus driver John Sutherby, with several children in his bus, reported seeing the beast in a field about 400 feet off the road.

After that, panther speculations started booming, and area residents recalled several recent reports.

Mrs. Margaret Stoddard, Leonard school principal, said she saw a shiny black beast with a long, curled tail walking along the railroad tracks several months ago.

"While I was watching, it pounced on something," Mrs. Stoddard said.

"I wish somebody would track it down and prove what it is," Keuchenmeister said wistfully. "People have really been giving me the old raspberry."

NEW YORK (INS)—For the second successive day a dense fog rolled in on the New York area this morning bringing road, rail and plane traffic to a virtual standstill for hours.

Auto Layoffs Up Another 10,000

But Initial Idle Pay Claims for Nation Show Down Trend

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security said last night a survey of seven states employing more than three-fourths of the nation's auto workers showed 10,000 new layoffs during the week ending April 21, in Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin and New York. This brought the total layoff in the industry to 123,000.

There were 2,000 recalled to auto jobs in the same week in Michigan, Illinois and New York.

For all types of workers in the nation, the volume of inital claims for unemployment compensation decline by 21,000 to 202,900, the lowest weekly volume reported since mid-November. It compared with 234,400 for the same week last year.

Total unemployment among workers eligible for state jobless benefits rose by 4,000 during the week to 1,380,700, compared with 1,499,000 a year ago.

In Detroit Ward's Report indicated the current month's car assemblies will reach about 556,000, with the May production schedules calling for about 38,000 fewer units than in April.

Trout Angler Faces 1956's Opening Day

for worms, it by no means rules out the fly fisherman. Most opening day fly fisherman lean toward under water stuff. Nymphs, properly fished, are very effective for better than average trout probably better than worms. Wet flies can be useful and streamers are apt to be most acceptable when the fish are lazing around waiting for something they can get their teeth into.

High, discolored water is a handicap to the nymph and wet fly artist, and to a lesser degree to the streamer fisherman. We should note here that while we don't think spinning gear has a place on trout streams, except in big rainbow waters, spinning lures can be very effective when water conditions are poor for fly fishing.

Cold water doesn't put the dry fly purist out of business. While insect activity may be very slight, there will be some and there will be some fish attracted to the floating fly regardless.

We can recall but one opening in the last decade when dry flies didn't work well some time during the day.

Experimentally, we have taken trout on dry flies in January.

Very high, or badly discolored (muddy water) will just about chase the dry fly boys off the stream.

Police Probe Destruction at Area Service Station

Pontiac police were asked yesterday to investigate the malicious destruction of a gasoline pump at a service station at 94 E. Walton Blvd.

The owner, John Gregory, 3160 Dixie Highway, told them a $200 pump was broken down and thrown to one side of his station sometime Thursday night.

Guidance Clinic to Display Facilities at Public Event

In recognition of National Mental Health week, the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic will hold Open House Thursday at the clinic on Franklin Boulevard.

The clinic is a joint endeavor of the state and local community supported by funds from the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, Pontiac Area United Fund and the United Foundation of Detroit.

Work of the agency, according to Madaleine Half, director, is focused on preventive aspects in the field of mental health.

The open house will give local residents an opportunity to meet both the staff and board members of the clinic and to learn more about how the agency promotes mental health for all children in Oakland County, Miss Half said.

The clinic will be open from 2 until 5 p.m. and 7 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

A recent film, "A Family Affair," will be shown at 4 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. The film concerns an everyday family whose relationships are strained to a breaking point, Miss Half says.

The film illustrates some of the difficulties experienced between parents and adolescent children and shows how these can be helped with professional advice.

Dr. Robert Mason, chairman of the board announced that Mrs. Edwin B. Clarke is chairman of the committee for arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Eugenia Hunter of Huntington Woods, Marjorie Caston of Birmingham and Mrs. A. H. Williams of Royal Oak.

Ted Mack Gains Fans by Ditching Joke Line

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—To Ted Mack a joke is a joke and it's also a good way to lose money and television audience.

The more jokes he tells, the less popular he is. Ted therefore hasn't told a joke on TV in years.

Yet—and this may surprise the viewers of his "Original Amateur Hour" program—he used to be a joke-teller. He was

"I got somebody that writes jokes for me," Waldron said.

★ ★ ★ ★

This opened a whole new world to me," Ted says now. "I'd never heard of such a thing. I scooted right over to Al Boasberg's house, got him out in the vestibule, told him I didn't make enough money to pay him for new jokes, but that maybe he could sell me some used jokes.

"He did, and gee, people laughed at me! I thought it was wonderful.

"I asked Boasberg how much I should pay him. He said 'What's your birthday?' I said, 'Feb. 12.'

"Boasberg said, 'The 12th, huh? It'll cost you $12 a week.'

"He wrote for me for a year for maybe $25 a week. I think he used me to try out some of his jokes and sold the good ones for big money. He was entitled to because I wasn't paying him much."

Later Mack became m.c. at the Paramount Theater here and set up a system whereby Boasberg's jokes went out every week to every Paramount m.c. in the country.

"But the sharp jokes, where you made amateurs the butt of comedy, always seemed brash and cruel to me.

"I recoiled from it and when I refused to do it and quit telling jokes altogether, I seemed to do better. I haven't told one in a long time and this is the first time I've ever made any real money."

Ex-Red Sailors Face Quizzers

3 Seamen to Testify Why They Rejected Bid to Return to U. S. S. R.

WASHINGTON (INS)—Three former Soviet seamen go before Senate investigators today to tell why they and a shipmate rejected a plea by Russian Ambassador Georgi Zaroubin to return home.

The four young sailors, in a dramatic face-to-face meeting with Zaroubin at an immigration hearing yesterday, refused to follow the example of five fellow crewmen who suddenly redefected from the U. S. April 7.

They used what was described as "salty phrases," "unprintable language" and "very harsh words" in telling the ambassador they want to "stay here forever, or until Russia is free."

One of the four, 20-year-old Victor Soloviev, appeared before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee on April 20. The other three were called on to testify at a public hearing of the subcommittee today.

The program in the House bill includes $37,600,000,000 in federal money with the rest coming from the states.

The great bulk of the total, or $27,585,000,000 would be applied to completion of the 40,000 mile interstate system—the key highway network of the nation. The federal share would be 90 per cent of this.

The House bill would levy an estimated $14,808,000,000 of new taxes over the next 16 years, on gasoline, diesel fuel, tires and rubber, trucks, buses and trailers. There also is a special levy for heavy trucks.

2-Year-Old Runs Into Side of Backing Truck

Shari L. Irwin, two-year-old resident of 623 E. Walton Blvd., was in good condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today after running into a truck that was backing out of her yard Friday at 6:30 p.m.

The child's mother, Mrs. Mary L. Irwin, told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies the girl ran into the left rear wheel of the moving truck. The vehicle was operated by Neil Craig of the same address.

Alcoholism Unit to Open Doors

City Information Agency Will Begin Operations Next Tuesday

The recently-established Pontiac Alcoholism Information Center, to be operated by the City Health Dept., will officially open its doors next Tuesday.

The center will be located in the basement of the City Hall in the health office and will be operated by Mrs. Mary M. Burrell, supervising nurse of the department.

A $3,251 grant by the State Board of Alcoholism last month paved the way for the establishment of the center, the first of its kind in the city.

The center will serve primarily as an information center for alcoholics and persons with similiar, but lesser problems, Dr. John D. Monroe, acting director of public health, said.

The service will be rendered free and will not be limited to Pontiac residents.

The state grant will be matched by the city to finance the operation of the new branch.

"We will attempt through this service to direct people to the proper source of help whether it be their family doctor or a clinic," Mrs. Burrell stated.

Graham Faces FBI Confession

Signed Statement to Be Presented at Trial of Alleged Bomber

DENVER (AP)—A signed confession which the FBI got from John Gilbert Graham will go before a jury trying him on a murder charge in the dynamite bombing of an airliner that killed his mother and 43 others.

* * *

"The court is fully convinced the statement was voluntary," Dist. Judge Joseph M. McDonald ruled yesterday after hearing Graham claim the confession was not true.

Graham testified in the absence of the jury that he signed the statement because he feared the FBI would arrest his wife, Gloria, 22, because of a discrepancy in statements she and Graham had made to the FBI.

The discrepancy concerned Graham's actions the evening of Nov. 1 when a United Air Lines plane exploded near Longmont, Colo.

Judge McDonald's ruling approving introduction of the confession assures consideration of the death penalty among the verdicts in the case.

* * *

Graham, father of two, is charged in the death of his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55. He is accused of hiding a 25-stick dynamite bomb in her suitcase before it was placed aboard the airliner that exploded 11 minutes after taking off from Denver. The FBI said Graham took out a $37,500 air trip policy on her life, payable to him.

State Holds Decision on Dumping Request

The State Water Resources Commission yesterday postponed action on a request from Dow Chemicla Co. for dumping brine waste from a Chesaning processing plant into the Shiawassee River.

Meeting at the Haven Hill Lodge in Highland Township, the commission tabled for a month the request after a two-hour public hearing on the proposal.

Chairman Gerald Eddy moved the deferment to allow Dow time to reconsider its request and to seek other available waste disposal.

Spokesmen for State Conservation Dept. and the Fish and Wildlife Service said the brine waste would jeopardize agriculture, fish and wildlife in the area.

ILA Breaks Off With Teamsters

End of Working Alliance May Take Pressure Off Dave Beck

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Assn. has cast off the lines that tied it to part of the huge AFL-CIO Teamsters Union.

The move announced by the ILA yesterday appeared to take teamster President Dave Beck and his 1,300,000-member union off a hot spot. The truckers faced possible expulsion from the AFL-CIO for their working agreement with the unaffiliated longshoremen.

Last month the teamsters bowed to pressure from AFL-CIO President George Meany and abandoned plans to loan $400,000 to the nearly bankrupt ILA.

At the same time Meany insisted he would enforce the AFL-CIO constitutional ban against pacts between member groups and unions that have been expelled from the national organization.

The ILA was kicked out of the AFL in 1953 for alleged domination by gangsters and racketeers.

Recently Meany asked the AFL-CIO executive board to meet in Washington May 1 to discuss the teamsters' alliance with the longshoremen. Last night he said the meeting would go ahead despite the breakup of the ILA-teamsters alliance.

Associates said Meany wants to make certain the break is genuine and "not phony."

5 Detroit Juveniles Admit Stealing Auto

Five Detroit juveniles were caught following a chase by Pontiac State Police yesterday abandoning the stolen car. The boys were nabbed at Orchard Lake and Northwestern roads, West Bloomfield Township, at 4:30 p.m. They admitted taking the car in Detroit.

The troopers went to the aid of West Bloomfield police following a report the juveniles had argued with a woman at her farm off Farmington road at noon. The woman called police to complain and set off the chase.

With police on their trail, the youths drove into another farm, left their car, and ran into a field. They were finally picked up at 4:30 and returned to Detroit.

Teenager, Sisters Hurt in Collision

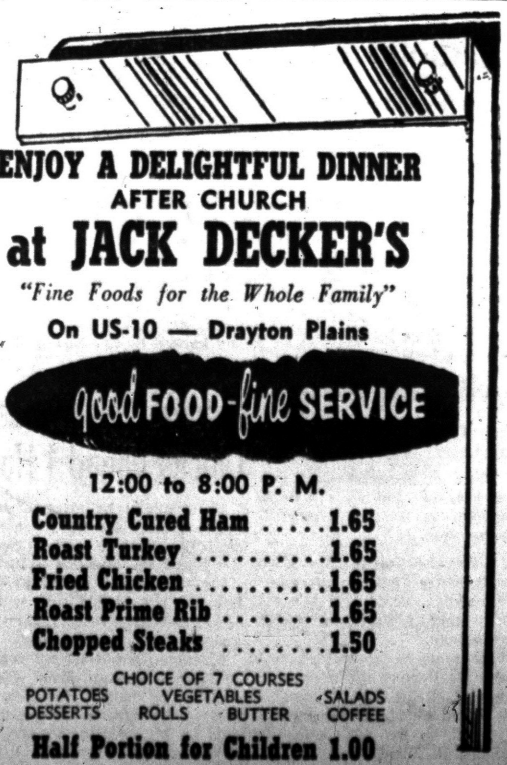

A White Lake Township teenager and two younger sisters suffered minor injuries and a Detroit youth received contusions in a two-car head-on collision on Telegraph Road at 10:45 a.m. today.

Most serious of the injured was Donna May Sloan, 13, of 361 Tower Rd. She is to be given X-rays for a possible jaw injury. Her sisters Mary, 8, and Lou Ann, one, and Jerome Kaminski, 20, were the others hurt. Both were treated and released by Pontiac General Hospital.

The Sloan girls were passengers in a car operated by their uncle Gus Sloan, 50, of 498 Central Ave., Pontiac. Kaminski was driving the other vehicle which struck the Sloan car as it was making a left turn onto Gulfside Drive.

Wilson School Fifth Graders Ready for Camp Out

Fifty excited Wilson School fifth graders can hardly wait until May 6 because that's the day education, as they know it, takes a new twist.

These Wilson students are the first elementary schoolers in Pontiac to take a one week camp out trip to learn of outdoor life.

This new type project is still in the planning stages for many schools and Mrs. Ralph Waterman, Wilson teacher and program director for the week's stay at Proud Lake Recreation area near Milford, says that the first idea for this type of outdoor education for the Wilson students came three years ago.

This is no play day for the 50 students. Their week has been planned and replanned to get as much "outdoor life" in as humanly possible.

* * *

A representative of the state conservation department will visit the camp one day for lessons, the county cooperative extension service is sending a soil man to help the youngsters learn about soil. Dr. Daniel S. McGeen, Pontiac dentist, will visit the group during the week for bird study.

In addition, hikes galore, weather study land use, handicrafts, use of maps and compass will be studied.

The youngsters will be responsible for "KP" duties, too. Evening sessions will include campfire singing, square dancing and conservation movies.

A top planner of the week's camp out is Glenn Husted, principal of Wilson School. He, Mrs. Waterman and counselors Mrs. Melvin Newton, Virginia Ottem, Mrs. Kathleen Wright and Edwin Rydell, have met in several sessions weekly in the past month to formulate the extensive plans required for such a project.

The main purpose sought of such a project is to explore nature and to find a deeper appreciation and a deeper spiritual value of out-of-doors.

Through various fund raising projects and PTA support, the cost per child has been lowered to $8 for the week's stay, Husted said. Children have helped earn the $8 by shoveling snow, making candy for sale, and several other projects, he continued.

The campers will be housed in a dormitory with one wing for boys and one for girls. The wings are separated by a lobby containing a small library which camp planners intend to supplement with books from the Pontiac City Library for the week.

The dormitory is a modern structure with oil heat, bunk beds and showers.

An insurance policy giving coverage for accident, sickness and death has been taken out on each child to cover them the whole week plus the 48 hours immediately before and the 48 hours right after the week's trip.

* * *

Husted also said that Mrs. Adelaide Harrison, school nurse will be present at the camp the entire week.

* * *

And the students? Busy as beavers and good as can be because they might not get to go if they don't behave. They are learning camping songs from Mrs. Olive Hunt and new square dances from Mrs. Doll Adams, physical education instructor.

You Can Meet Cancer Halfway - - and Control It

By DR. CHARLES S. CAMERON
Medical and Scientific Director of the American Cancer Society

A major goal in our battle against cancer is the discovery of its causes. Although knowledge of the causes of a disease does not always make prevention possible, there is good reason to believe that it would in the case of cancer.

Even if we learn that cancer cannot be totally eliminated through preventive measures, a thorough understanding of its causes might well lead us to wholly effective treatment methods.

But this goal will probably not be reached quickly, in spite of the present rapid pace of progress. Cancer itself has placed too many obstacles in our course.

Yet there is another goal—a nearer one, and a vastly more personal one: The greatest possible measure of control over cancer, here and now, is through the fullest use of all that we know about it today.

If we never learned another new fact about cancer—either in the research laboratories or in the clinics—it would still be possible to save twice as many lives as are now saved by making the best use of what is already known.

And that means saving 70,000 lives a year that are now being lost unnecessarily.

This is the near goal. This is the one that you yourself can work toward. How?

By facing up to the risk of cancer and by assuming personal responsibility for its earliest possible discovery.

"Form the habit of having routine physical examinations periodically—not less often than once a year. And in between, all men over forty-five should have regular X-ray examinations of the chest, and all women over thirty-five should have regular vaginal smears taken.

These examinations will check up on the most common areas of cancer growth. And fortunately they are simple and effective.

The patient and the doctor are equally responsible for a detection "program" of this kind. The patient must request the examination, and the doctor must perform it.

But if the doctor stands prepared and willing to fulfill his role—to do his job—it is still up to the patient to seek or to ignore his services.

But when you are tempted to sit back and do nothing, remind yourself of this: Your chances of a personal encounter with cancer is one in four.

And early cancer—very early cancer—causes no symptoms. It can be present for quite a while in spite of "good health." And then think of the striking difference between the curability of early cancer and that of not so-early cancer.

Clearly, the personal responsibility for seeking out possible cancer through periodic physical check-ups is one of the more important responsibilities in your life.

When cancer is present and growing, the danger signals will sooner or later force their way into the consciousness of any patient—no matter how insensitive he is to matters of health.

But a calm alertness—a reasonable state of readiness to perceive them—will often bring them to our attention sooner.

Meet cancer halfway, instead of letting it slip into a position of complete control.

Clark Opposed GI Integration

General Hits at Mixing of Negroes and Whites From a Military View

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Gen. Mark W. Clark, former supreme commander of United Nations forces in the Far East, says he was opposed to integration of white and Negro troops "from the military point of view" when the government adopted the policy in 1950.

* * *

"I did not feel that we should integrate then, and I don't think so now," Clark, now president of the Citadel, South Carolina military college here, told a luncheon meeting of the Southern Regional Conference of State Governments yesterday.

WWII EXPERIENCE

Clark said he based his opinion on his experience in Italy during World War II when he commanded the 5th Army.

"The worst division I had was a Negro division," he said. Clark stated that the troops could not be relied on and said that they bolted from the enemy.

"I looked at it not from the sociological standpoint . . . I wanted the best fighting unit possible, politics or no politics."

* * *

Clark said the government's troop integration "was expedient from a military standpoint," adding: "There were no social problems involved. There we had no schools, no buses and no families to consider."

Aim at Protection from Disaster

State Officials Appoint Leaders

Would Build Schools to Save Children in Catastrophe

DETROIT (AP) — State school officials have named a 17-member committee to study ways of building schools which will protect children from natural and atomic disaster.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, State Superintendent of Public Insturction, said the recent tornadoes in Western Michigan demonstrated the need for shelters.

He told the Michigan safety conference that the school building in Hudsonville played an important role in feeding and housing victims after the tornado struck.

"The storm also emphasized the importance of having a safe place for children in case a tornado or other war disaster like radioactive fall-out should occur in a community," he said.

The committee will look into the possibility of building shelters under school playgrounds and using materials which can offer greater resistance to wind, fire, flood and atomic attack.

URGES ORGANIZATION

Taylor urged school administrators at the conference to create civil defense organizations in their schools which can "prepare for every kind of disaster."

Loy Norris, Kalamazoo Superintendent of Schools, was named chairman of the committee.

Area men named to the committee were Fred M. Atkinson, Utica Superintendent of Schools; Roy E. Robinson, Ferndale Superintendent of Schools and Linn Smith, Birmingham architect.

Live Fish, Turtles Lose Deluxe Home

Buys Sunken Car, Marine Life Gratis

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Milford Corrspondent

MILFORD — Fish, muskrats and other submarine creatures have had a deluxe home in a Ford car at the bottom of White Lake for the last four months.

When Kenneth Milan drove his car out on the ice, about Christmas time, he drove too near a weak spot on the lake, 500 feet from shore, and his front wheels dropped down. (This is the same spot that teenagers were playing "chicken" last winter and were fined by conservation officers).

Milan got out of his car and called a wrecker. In the process of pulling the car back onto the ice, it broke through completely and disappeared out of sight into ten feet of water.

All efforts to get the car up failed and work was abandoned until the ice had melted. In fact, no service station in the area wanted the job until yesterday when the Seven Harbors Garage accepted it.

In the meantime, boats with outboard motors were driving over the auto and smashing their propeller blades on the top. When complaints began to come in, Conservation Officers warned the owner to remove the car in 30 days or receive a heavy fine.

Milan gave up and sold the car, (sight unseen) to Harold Rice who made arrangements to have the water-logged machine brought up.

Rice went out in a boat to locate the car, then when it was found, he pulled the radio aerial up and tied a red flag on the end. A chain was dropped down and hooked on the front axel, a cable attached to the chain, then power-winched ashore.

In the process, the car dropped into a 5-foot mud bed, so that when it was finally on dry land, four inches of muck clung to the motor, top and inside.

Workmen also found the trunk of the car full of live fish. Muskrats had chewed the top and stolen upholstery material. Live turtles and eels were under the floor mats.

Rice, who lives at White Lake, said that he bought the fish-smelling contraption for the motor, transmission and tires, but didn't bargain for all the "extras" found in the car.

"HONESTY PAYS"

J. L. VOORHEES

Two boys, one 14 and the other 13, coming home from Sunday School were talking about the lesson that morning: "Honesty Pays."

"Suppose, right now, we found a bag of money," the 14 year old boy said, "without identification." He smiled, acted out in pantomime the division. "We'd each take half; I'd buy a bike for myself, and buy dad a new sander he wants," stopped! Made a leap! Picked up a sack. "Money," he whispered. They counted $69 cash and looked at an endorsed check for $251. Each boy had $34 cash.

M. E. SIPLE

"It isn't mine," the younger boy said. "Honesty pays," he repeated, let his share dribble back into the sack. The older boy's hand shook as he replaced the check and his share of the cash.

"We'll take it to the police."

The Officer called the endorser who told him, "Give each boy a $5.00 bill and my thanks."

Those two boys walked out of that police station like two kings. Both of them had learned a lesson: "Honesty pays."

Set Open House at Fisher Body

Program on May 16 Marks Dedication of Research Center

"Where Today Meets Tomorrow" will be the theme of a public open house at the local Fisher Body plant celebrating the dedication of a new General Motors Technical Center in May.

T. F. Wiethorn, Fisher body plant manager, announced today that the plant will be open to visitors from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, May 16.

"It is appropriate that the dedication in Detroit of the General Motors Technical Center should be the occasion for a national open house of all GM plants," he said.

"The GM Technical center is a sort of headquarters for General Motors progress in engineering, research and styling development work. It is such that makes possible a better tomorrow with more and better things for more people.

"Here in Pontiac we plan to share in the dedication by holding open house for the citizens of our community.

"It is perhaps not well known but many of the practical, day by day developments in our local Fisher Body operations come out of the basic research conducted at the GM Technical Center."

A FUNNY NAME FOR A FLOWER
"Queen Anne's Lace"

Even the real queen's lace could hardly have been prettier than that on this wild flower.

It flourishes all over the United States and Canada during the warmer months, growing from one to three feet tall. The little fine-petaled white flowers have tiny touches of green here and there, and there is a dark spot in the center that is a small purple flower.

Suggested by the name of the flower is the picture in the background that shows a little girl hanging out some white lace against a bright blue sky. The yellow clothes basket at her feet has a pink cloth on top.

You will see many wild flowers this summer if you look for them, just as the Pilgrim children found them in their first spring in America. Let's all be friends of the wild flowers by helping to keep them alive and growing.

Now you can collect all the pictures and make a scrapbook of your wild flowers.

(Marcia Anderson, Richmond, Va., suggested this idea first and she gets Junior Editors' $10 award. If you have an idea we can use, send it in care of this newspaper and perhaps you will get an award too. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

"I WANT MY MONEY BACK... I WANT A CREDIT!"

Yes! Yes! This is the time of year that the Board is swamped with these questions where some people want to take back the shirt or tie that Aunt Tillie gave them and get their money back. The following is the summary from a pamphlet called: "I Want My Money Back":

"Whether you can return merchandise for credit or refund depends entirely upon the polidy of the company with whom you do business. There is no outside agency which can force refunds for customers."

Stores are not required to post signs that "all sales are final," nor are they required to post signs regarding refunds, or exchanges, although some stores may do so or may provide such notice on sales slips.

In the case of a store whose policy is unknown to you and which states the merchandise can be "returned," you should establish whether it can be returned for a refund or only for an exchange.

Some stores make refunds because it is their policy to do so, not because they are required to. It is a "privilege" they extend to their customers. It is a "privilege" that should not be abused by needless return of merchandise which adds tremendously to the cost of doing business and penalizes all customers.

A reliable store is always anxious and ready to correct its errors. Give it a chance to do so.

Mental Health Week a Community Program

We strongly urge readers to take advantage of Pontiac State Hospital's Mental Health Week, April 29 through May 2.

These days will mark the open house section of the program during which visitors will be shown the latest methods and equipment used in the treatment of mental illness.

A highlight will be the workshop Monday, April 30. At that time visitors will meet with Dr. Ivan A. LaCore, medical superintendent, and men and women anxious to learn more about mental illness, what causes it and what can be done about it.

The Press is in complete sympathy with this program. As a result of it Dr. LaCore and his aides hope to bring about a wider and better understanding of the problems of mental illness. Especially they want to emphasize that there should be no more stigma attached to mental illness than to any other human ailment.

Another aim is to present the hospital to visitors for what it is — a modern, scientific institution in which mentally ill persons really do get well. One of the most interesting departments of the hospital is that in which emotionally disturbed children, not mentally defective or ill, are treated.

Take time to visit the hospital next week and learn how psychiatric progress has made the word "insane" only a regretful memory of the days when mental treatment was largely custodial.

Rev. Rufus M. Traver

When death called Dr. Rufus M. Traver, it ended a career marked by distinguished service to two Pontiac churches.

Sixteen of his 50 years in the ministry, from 1902 to 1918, were devoted to the First Baptist Church. In 1906 he organized a mission Sunday school which in 1917 became the Bethany Baptist Church.

Born in Rensselaer County, New York, he completed his education and earned his doctorate at Bucknell University. A veteran of World War I, Dr. Traver was appointed field secretary of the Baptist Church in 1918 and served with the U. S. Army.

★ ★ ★

Evidence of the high esteem in which he was held includes the naming of the Traver Adult Bible Class of Bethany Baptist Church. Other deserved tributes were his election to the office of honorary deacon for life and the furnishing of the pastor's study which was named in his honor. On October 9, 1954, Bethany Men's Club gave a dinner commemorating Dr. Traver's 50 years of religious and community service.

★ ★ ★

The privilege of living 85 years is given few men. Fewer still spend their adult years in such selfless and devoted service to their fellow men as did Dr. Rufus M. Traver.

Lesson in a Tragedy

Normally this newspaper doesn't moralize about fatal highway accidents which clearly are the result of bad judgment.

But the tragic crash on Pontiac Lake Road which killed four young men should serve as a ghastly reminder to all motorists that alcohol and gasoline will not mix.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Police Chief Van Atta had no trouble in determining that the victims of this crash had been drinking. The report shows the car did have beer bottles in it. Earlier there was a report that five young men in a car bearing the same license number had thrown a beer bottle through a passing car's window and were acting as though drunk.

★ ★ ★

Obviously the car had been driven at such speed that it missed a curve and struck a tree with terrific force. The engine, torn free by the impact, landed 75 feet away. The only mystery is how the lone survivor managed to escape instant death.

It is to be hoped that the memory of this horrible crash will serve as a constant warning to other motorists against drinking and driving.

PHS Band Wins Again

As has been the case every year since 1933, Pontiac High School Band has won first division rating in State Class AA competition.

The 85 young musicians under the direction of Dale C. Harris, were competing in the annual Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival at Michigan State University. So noteworthy was the skill and finish with which they played, that all four judges gave them number one ratings.

★ ★ ★

The only other Class AA school which won top honors was Muskegon. Other bands in that class which competed at East Lansing include those from Owosso, Flint Central, Midland and Benton Harbor.

Once again congratulations to the students and their director on this festival victory. All Pontiac can be proud of the great contribution they are making to the cultural advancement of the community.

Republican Team Scores on Absenteeism Issue

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—For the first time in quite while, Republicans put Gov. Williams on the political defensive with their gadfly tactics in Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids.

They turned what gave promise of being some high road politicking in "nonpartisan" State Government Days into political pitched battles.

They have had a chance to draw a number of issues sharply and attract a goodly amount of public attention to them.

To some extent, the effort put out by the State Central Committee probably has heartened Republican workers in the ranks and stiffened their will to get into the campaign and pitch.

* * *

In a way, the Republicans are availing themselves of about the only device at their disposal, lacking as they do any rough and ready spokesman in state office to answer Democratic sallies promptly and effectively.

NOT PANICKED

Certainly, the Republican newspaper and television queries put to the governor and his Democratic associates in their first two "reports to the people" didn't panic or even bewilder them, despite the element of surprise at Kalamazoo.

* * *

That isn't the point. It did throw them a little off stride, and kept them from harvesting a full crop of political hay. It may have forced a couple of political errors.

Take the absenteeism issue raised at Grand Rapids, for example. Did the governor make a mistake in the way he met it? Some people think so, although at the same time believing that the Democrats got back on the track with Neil Staebler's counterattack a day or two afterwards.

Staebler, Democratic state chairman, said in effect that the same allegations leveled against Williams could be directed against two Republican stars, President Eisenhower and Detroit Mayor Albert E. Cobo, the party's probable nominee for governor.

Those who chalk up an error against Williams say he would have done better to ignore or laugh off the Republican shaft.

* * *

Many television viewers Thursday night felt that the absenteeism question got under the governor's hide, and that he showed it in his face and voice.

Will the absenteeism tag stick on the governor or boomerang? The final answer might not be in until Nov. 6.

But plenty will be heard in Michigan about absenteeism between now and then, and it won't all be about Williams. The Democrats will see to that.

Lag B'Omer, Observed Sunday, Breaks Season of Semi-Mourning for Jews

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday in the Jewish calendar is Lag B'Omer which literally means "33 omer." A day with such a name needs some explaining, and this is the explanation: Between Passover and the next Jewish festival (Shavuoth) there are 50 days. In the book of Leviticus (chapter 23, verses 10 to 16) the people were commanded by Jehovah to make an offering of a sheaf of barley on each of these days.

* * *

A sheaf is an omer, but over the years an omer came to be standardized at about seven-and-a-half pints of grain. So, on each of the 50 days an omer was offered, and the days were counted and every evening, after the service, the number of the day was solemnly announced. This ceremony, in time, came to be known as "the counting of the omer."

Now, Passover was the time of the barley harvest and Shavuoth was the time of the wheat harvest, and you would think that the interim period would have been a time of joy and merry-making as harvest time has always been among privitive peoples. Remember, this goes away back in Jewish history, to an era when the Jews were greatly influenced by their pagan neighbors on all sides.

But it did not work out that way. Instead of being happy during this period, the Jews—their scholars do not know why—decided they should be in a state of semi-mourning. So, without any really known reason today, there are no feasts, no joyous events, no marriages, and among the especially devout, not even any haircuts all through the 50 days.

* * *

Except Sunday: Sunday, for some reason that is lost in the dim mists of antiquity, is a break in the season. Today one may take time out.

MORE ANCIENT SOURCE

Actually, Jewish scholars believe the 33rd day of this period is connected with ancient rites that were going on among the pagans, long before the Jews really got themselves separated from the heathen life around them in the Promised Land.

Rabbis have tried to give this midharvest day some Jewish significance by relating it to actual events in Jewish history. For example, they have said the celebration is because it was on this day that a terrible plague was lifted from among the students of Rabbi Akiba. But this is really baseless.

And they have said this is the day on which manna began to fall in the wilderness (Exodus, Chapter 15) for the children of Israel.

* * *

But the most likely explanation is that the Jews, in their early association with the heathen around them, were enticed into a midharvest festival—and this, after centuries of changes and adaptations, is what is left of that festival.

FATHER OF THE FAITH

Wednesday, May 2, the Christian Church remembers a man who, 16 centuries ago, spent his life "planting trees under which men of a later age might sit." You and I, whether we know it or not, sit under his trees today.

For St. Athanasius, Bishop of Alexandria (Egypt) in the fourth century fought, almost singlehanded, a fight that allowed the still new Christian faith to proceed on its way without alterations that might have changed it into just another of the many ideas that have appealed to men for a while and then faded out.

He had the bad luck to be bishop of Alexandria at a time when a brilliant priest there, named Arius, was disturbing the entire world with his teaching that Jesus was, however divine, not actually God—not equal with the Father. Alexandria in those days was the great world center of learning. What Alexandria said, the world listened to. And kings as well as the clergy listened to Arius and inclined to accept a doctrine that would have reduced Jesus to nothing more than an inspired human prophet.

* * *

Athanasius, through merciless persecution including four exiles, stood fast and won out against the Arian heresy, and has gone down in Christian history as one of the great figures in the formative period of Christian doctrine. He is one of the "Church Fathers" to whom modern Christians are indebted for the present defiteness and purity of the faith they have inherited.

Reader Says Psychology, Church Are Team Mates

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Why will people persist in being "surface thinkers"? Why will they content themselves with one-angle interpretations and seek no further?

I refer to the contradiction of Dr. Crane's theories on psychology and the church. It said, "Psychology is to study the human mind."

To quote Webster's New World Dictionary: "Psychology 1 a. The science dealing with the mind and mental processes, feelings, desires, etc., b. the science of human and animal behavior. 2. The sum of a person's actions, traits, attitudes, thoughts, etc.

Name a greater psychologist, if you can, than Jesus, and while you're at it, try to explain how the Christian church could have survived the centuries without the mental processes, feelings, desires, actions, traits, attitudes and thoughts of those who accepted Christian tennet, as well as those of the martyrs who died for what they believed, both those of the early church and those of the 20th century, namely, the missionaries recently slaughtered by savages in the Amazon jungles.

Psychology and the church? They're teammates.

'What's Going On Here?"

Senate Group Probe of GM Offers Confusing Picture

In an editorial on the sub-committee criticism of General Motors, the New York Daily News says:

"Sen. Joseph W. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), professional hater of big business and head of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee on anti-trust and monopoly, unveiled a subcommittee attack on Gneral Motors Corp.

"GM's profits, O'Mahoney charges, are so scandalously high that it's time for the company to slash prices of its cars and other products to the consumer.

★ ★ ★

"Let's suppose GM took this advice. Let's further suppose (and it's a very solid supposition) that some of GM's competitors were not efficient enough to be able to match the GM price cuts and stay in business.

★ ★ ★

"GM would swiftly get an even bigger share of the auto trade than it now has, and thus would come that much closer to having a monopoly on all the automobile business in the country.

★ ★ ★

"So it looks to us as if O'Mahoney, while claiming and possibly believing he is fighting monopoly, actually is proposing in this case to promote monopoly. We wish he'd explain."

★ ★ ★

The same day, Leslie Gould, financial editor of the New York Journal-American has this to say on the same subject:

"In one of the popular Broadway musicals, there was a song, the key line of which was 'What's Going on Here?'

"This might well be applied to the 'study' of General Motors just released by the staff—not the Senators—of a Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"For the report states;

"Despite its great size, the corporation (General Motors) has the reputation of being well-managed and efficiently run.

" 'It made impressive contributions to the nation's war effort.

" 'It's influence has generally been regarded as highly beneficial, and it occupies a distinctive place in the public mind.'

"Then, in the next breath, the staff report goes on to say:

" 'Nevertheless, the Subcommittee believed (note the past tense) there would be great value in a study to determine the tremendous power of the corporation, and the manner in which it is exercised, best served the public interest.'

"The chief criticisms—mostly in question form—are of GM's car financing operations, its position in the bus manufacturing field, its wholesaling of parts and the dealer franchise.

"Basically it follows the theme that success is something to be abhorred. For it states: 'One of the most striking characteristics of the General Motors operation is the extremely high profits earned by the company.'

"In any business there are practices that can be questioned. But with all its criticism the report admits GM is 'well managed and efficiently run.' Also that it was a big factor in this country's winning the war. Finally, that 'its influence has been generally regarded as highly beneficial.'

★ ★ ★

"Yet, the staff and some of the Senators with an eye to the political campaign — think the study should be continued and broadened."

Children Delight in Hearing Escapades of Parents; Try 'Grandparents Panel'

When Judy and Daniel were in grammar school, they had the most exciting auto trip they have ever experienced. For it afforded them a throwback to my own childhood! But such throw-backs are desirable so hold a "Grandparents' Panel," either at school or in your own home and let the youngsters relax by finding that Dad wasn't a Superman in his far off youth.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case R-342: When Judy and Daniel were in grammar school, they asked if they could attend summer school.

For they had originally entered first grade in February and hence were due to graduate in February.

But they preferred to move up a half term so they could enjoy all the commencement activities of a June graduation.

As we were heading back to Chicago from our summer home in Indiana, we detoured through Francisville to call on Gordon Witt, a cousin of mine whom I hadn't seen for possibly 30 years.

As soon as he entered the room, he greeted me with the childhood designation:

"Well, if it isn't George! How are you, Georgie?"

Well, 10-year-old Danny and 12-year-old Judy were literally electrified with glee.

* * *

And on our auto trip they couldn't contain their delight at hearing me called "Georgie."

"Wait till we get back to the farm and tell George and Philip and David about that," they threatened.

PARENTAL POTENTATE

Unwittingly, most parents are regarded as somewhat austere potentates. Now Mrs. Crane will tell you that I am a pretty good type of father in most respects.

In fact, on that "Test for Fathers" I rate pretty well. But, my children had seldom visualized me as a child like themselves. They always regarded me as a confident, assured adult.

So it was a delightful shock to them to realize that at one time I was just a little boy called "Georgie." And for months thereafter Judy and Danny would bring up that "Georgie" incident.

* * *

"This is the best auto trip we ever made to Chicago," they gleefully announced, figuring they had something with which to blackmail me thereafter.

This same revelation of the childhood traits of their parents, is thus one of the great benefits which children derive when they visit their grandmother and grandfather.

The latter often tell stories about the misbehavior and escapades of the Daddy and Mother of those same grandchildren. Such tales are fascinating, for they "show up" the supposedly omnipotent and omniscient Daddy and Mother.

GRANDPARENT PANELS

At a PTA meeting, if you wish a new and helpful program, schedule a "Grandparents' Panel," and be sure to invite as many of the children as possible to attend.

Then let these grandparents narrate some of the escapades and mischief of the Dads and Mothers of that current crop of school youngsters.

"But doesn't this reduce the respect for parents," somebody may inquire.

No, not to any significant degree. But it will show the children that their parents were also timid, shy, mischievous boys and girls.

And this realization will relieve the current children of much tension based on feelings of inferiority.

For it is surprising how many youngsters feel they are failing ing their parents because they fear the dark or toads or lightning, etc. And they likewise develop a defeatism complex about their low grades.

For most parents tactfully forget their own low school marks and other defects but regale their youngsters by egotistical success stories.

"When I was your age, I always worked for my money," says the usual dad, "and I always made good grades."

But he overlooks some flunk notices or other flaws, for it is human nature to forget painful events and only remember our own virtues!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Cheese, Yolk of Egg, Peas and Beans Are Other Foods to Build Up Calcium

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

If you were as good at doctoring as you are at name-calling . . . (Anonymous).

Answer—O. K., O. K. I'm not going to use the limited space vouchsafed me just lading out softsoap or exuding sweetness and light. I have a job to do—trying to teach you poor—poor souls how to keep well.

I feed my husband calcium tablets, as he is unable to drink milk. It is too bad, for he is subject to the rheumatiz . . . (T. B. F.)

Answer — Milk is the best source of calcium, not the only source. Any and every kind of cheese, yolk of egg, peas, beans, nuts, peanuts, and salad greens are good sources of calcium.

Getting desperate . . . intense itching, especially at night . . . suggested it may be pinworms, but that seems ridiculous . . . (C. F. J.)

Answer — Pinworm infestation is common in adults, although many of the sufferers do not know what ails them. Of course, there are other causes of such itching. Send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet Unbidden Guests and, if you ask for it, pamphlet on Pruritus (itching without apparent cause).

Following a minor operation my father suffered a blood clot in his leg. He has trouble with swelling of the leg if he walks too much, and painful cramps in the leg at night. I have Ben Told that yeast taken in heaping tablespoonfuls . . . will result in comfort . . . (Mrs. C. K. L.)

Answer—Eating quantities of yeast will do no harm, but I doubt it will make your father comfortable. Send stamped, self-addressed envelop for pamphlet Adult Tetany. That's probably what the cramps indicate.

A week ago I began taking kalion as per instructions in your pamphlet. It gave me immediate relief, made me feel like a new person. Beats all the shots I have ever received . . . (E. B.)

Answer — Pamphlet relief for Allergy is available on request if you provide a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please remember a clipping is not a request.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Delta Kappa Gamma Sponsors Tea and Reception

Future Teachers' Clubs Are Guests

The annual Recruitment Tea and reception of Delta Kappa Gamma, (Alpha Beta Chapter) was held at Webster School Friday afternoon, with over 200 members and guests present. Mrs. Elsie Welch was general chairman of the affair, assisted by Mrs. Harry Avey, Mrs. David Hicks, Mrs. Max Selle, Mrs. Dora Bristol, Mrs. Stuart Galbraith, Mrs. Helen Rohrer, Mrs. Stanley Olczak and Helen Bulla.

* * *

The special guests of the society were the Future Teachers Club of America of this area including Waterford Township, Milford, Walled Lake, Commerce, West Bloomfield, and the Pontiac system. Many other students who are choosing teaching as a career were also invited to attend.

Greeting the guests were the officers of the association headed by Mrs. Iva O'Dell, and assisted by Mrs. Fay Ealy, Mrs. Olczak, Mrs. Harvey Bidstrup, Mrs. David Turo, Mable Double and Mrs. T. E. Wiersema.

Following the social hour, Mrs. Galbraith moderated a panel of representative speakers from various fields affecting the field of teaching. The program was designed to give further information to the prospective teachers about their chosen line of work. Mrs. Don McKee, a PTA president, spoke of the importance of the teacher to the parent, as the teacher becomes the second guardian of the child, aids and directs the growth of the student, and works with all the factors of development as the child passes through the formative stages of life.

* * *

She spoke very strongly about the role of the parent: "I feel that the parents should assist in the school program whenever possible, that parents should follow closely the development of their children."

Cora Duke, a 9th grade student at Lincoln Junior High, spoke of the qualities a good teacher should develop: An understanding of the child, a knowledge of the material to be taught, a love of children, a sense of humor, a love of the subjects to be taught, and a genuine interest in the students.

Wendell Banks, a 6th grade student at Central School, spoke about the helping role of the teacher. He liked a teacher who was always willing to be of help. "A teacher is very important in the life of a child," he said, "for problems are always coming up that need help in solving."

* * *

A different phase of the profession was presented by Bruce Green, a student at Wayne University, who is just completing his practice teaching. "The preparation for the teaching profession is hard," said Mr. Green, "I know that each year in college has been increasingly difficult, for my responsibilities have grown and with it the work that it entails."

Mr. Green left the training for another profession to enter the field of teaching feeling that "in the classroom I can work with people, mold their lives, and be of great service to my fellow man."

Mrs. Harry King spoke as a member of a school board and as a parent as she told of the teacher's role in the community. "Never has there been a greater need for good teachers," said Mrs. King. She stressed the need for more teachers with better training to help in the directing of our growing youth.

* * *

Mrs. T. E. Wiersema, a teacher and a mother, emphasized the need of a sincerity of purpose in entering the teaching field. "A teacher should feel a great responsibility to the charge in his hands as he directs the growth of youth."

Highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of the first educational award of the society to Ruth Goodwin of Waterford Township High School, who accepted the scholarship to continue her education at college so she might be a teacher. She was selected by the society for her outstanding achievements during her school career, including her scholarship, her leadership, her fine character, and her good citizenship.

* * *

The social hour was directd by Mrs. Welch with her assistants. The community hall was decorated in the spring motif with huge stylized flowers in glittering pastel colors, potted electric pink geraniums, and cages of living birds. Background music was supplied by orchestral arrangements of Schubert's compositions. Two large tables were used in serving punch and tea. Silver candelabra and arrangements in daffodils centered the tables. Mrs. Albert Kohn and Mrs. Olive Lord presided at the tables.

9-Day Reducing Diet

Don't Be Too Fat to Go Swimming!

By JOSEPHINE LWMAN

Does "Going to the beach" make you shudder? Did you miss swimming last year because you did not want to wear a swimsuit? Did those extra pounds cause you to skip that wonderfully cooling, healthful, delightful sport?

* * *

Today whether or not a woman goes swimming depends much more on what her figure is like than on how old she is. Swimming is one sport you can safely enjoy at any age.

It is one sport which middle-aged women can learn with profit. If you haven't learned to swim, do so this summer so that you can enjoy the fun with the rest of the family and with your friends.

Do not allow your figure to be a stumbling block! You have plenty of time between now and June to take care of that situation. In fact, you can lose from 5 to 10 pounds in just nine days time. Then if you still need to lose more you will be encouraged to continue counting calories until you achieve your perfect weight.

* * *

Today I am giving you the menus for both Sunday and Monday so that you can have the prescribed food in the house on time.

Many women cut down on their food intake in dramatic ways in order to lose weight but become discouraged and fail because of food fallacies they believe. Today I want to talk about a few of them.

Sunday is the sixth day of my 9-Lay Reducing Diet. Women all over the country must be experiencing that wonderful feeling which comes with diminishing pounds. Keep up the good work for another three days!

* * *

I want to talk about some of the mistaken ideas women have about reducing in order to help you in planning your meals from here on if you had more than 5 to 10 pounds to lose.

First, let us think about potatoes. About the first thing women do when they decide to reduce is to cut out potatoes. However, a medium Irish potato, baked or boiled, has only about 90 calories and is a splendid food, nutritionwise. It is the way it is cooked, or the butter you use on it, which zooms the calorie count.

For instance, eight 2 - inch French-fried potatoes give you about 160 calories, one - fourth cup of potato salad 100 calories, and one-half cup of creamed potatoes about 100.

The potato is nutritious and also delicious with salt and pepper and just a dot of butter. The sweet potato is higher in calorie count (185 calories) and, while excellent food, had better be left off the reducing diet.

Bread is another food which is avoided by the reducing woman, and well she may, if she is thinking of hot breads or pancakes or waffles or such.

However, a slice of whole wheat bread gives you 75 calories and protein bread and Melba toast are much lower. You need some bread and cereal on the long-term reducing diet.

Most of the dry cereals give you 100 calories a cup while the cooked cereals run about 100 calories for three - fourths cup. Naturally you should use milk instead of cream and should not go haywire with sugar.

There are many more fallacies which I do not have space to discuss today. Just remember to leave off the in-between snacks and the "trimmings," take smaller portions and no seconds, and boil, bake or broil, rather than fry.

God Alone Heals Sick, With Assistance From the Doctor

Confident Living

Physician-Minister Team Brings Aid to the Afflicted

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

About twenty-seven years ago, I was awakened about two in the morning from a deep sleep by the ceaseless ringing of the telephone. I found the person calling was a prominent local physician.

DR. PEALE

"I apologize, Norman," he said, "for waking you at this hour, but I'm in trouble. I am at the home of a patient and I've done all I can for her. We are in a crisis and I need your help. Will you come?"

* * * * * *

Of course I agreed. I was a bit confused. What could I, a minister, do to help a doctor in a crisis? I stood on the steps of the house and, before ringing, prayed for guidance. The doctor took me into the living room. "What do you want me to do?" I asked.

"I don't want you to give her any advice," he said. "What I do want you to do is to help me fill that sickroom with the healing power of God. He is the greatest of physicians and I am only His servant. I may treat the patient, but God alone can heal her. And you, His minister, and I, His physician, must be partners in helping her find that healing."

We went into the bedroom. The woman's face was flushed with fever; she was restless, tossing on her pillow. "The crisis is at hand," the doctor said.

WE BOTH PRAYED TO GOD

Although she seemed only semi-conscious, I began to quote Scripture passages on faith and healing and the doctor did the same. Then I prayed and he prayed, we talked back and forth across her bed about the Lord and His healing presence with us. We told Bible stories about healing. We continued until we both felt God's presence. And presently, the patient did too, for she opened her eyes, looked at us and a sweet, contented smile come over her face.

Then she fell into a deep sleep. We continued to sit with her for two or three hours until, finally, the doctor said: "I believe the crisis has passed. I think she will get well." She did recover.

I went home but had no desire for sleep. I was too moved, so I walked the streets in a state of great excitement. I had seen, in actual operation, a power I'd heard about but never before witnessed, and it changed my thinking.

* * * * * *

Up to then, I had held a materialistic conception of medicine; I thought that while doctors treated the body, it was unscientific to treat the soul that the body might be cured. From that night on, I have held another view: by healing the soul and the mind, we may bring healing grace and power to bear upon the physical body. Are we not one unity of body, mind, and spirit?

Ever since then, I have taught God heals through His servant, the doctor, working in cooperation with His servant, the pastor. I believe this attitude toward healing is one of the most dramatic and soundest concepts of our time.

If you need healing, remember God can grant it. Ask Him to help your doctor. Then hold a strong faith that He will. Bring spiritual power and faith to bear upon your health problem. This, joined to the scientific procedures of medicine, can greatly help in the healing of your ailments.

DOES SCIENCE PROVE THE BIBLE WRONG?

Some people are convinced that it does.

They read in the Bible, for example, that the stars are fixed in the "roof" of the world like luminous ornaments, which is the way they appeared to the unscientific eyes of the authors of Genesis. Later scientific knowledge proves that stars are incandescent bodies moving in space.

Although willing to acknowledge that God created the universe, these scientific-minded folks refuse to believe the Biblical account in which apparently it all took place in six days. Also, they contend that the scientific evidences of evolution appear to contradict the Bible in this instance.

As far as Catholics are concerned, there can be no real conflict between scientific truth and religious truth. From the time of Moses down to the present day, science has opened the doors to many of the earth's physical secrets—including in our own time, the fantastic secret of atomic energy. There will undoubtedly occur, in the unforeseeable future, even more revolutionary discoveries. But the fact remains that science has yet to produce any evidence that discredits the basic truths of Holy Scripture.

The Bible, to begin with, is a book of religion—not a scientific textbook. The Book of Genesis should be regarded, therefore, not as a scientific explanation of the heavens and the earth, but as an exposition of certain divine truths. These include such matters as the creation of all things... the creation of man as the object of God's special providence... the unity of the human race... the loss of man's original state of blessedness through original sin... God's promise and plan of redemption.

In writing of these things, the authors of the Old Testament were divinely protected against error. God did not, however, stand over them and dictate what they wrote. Their writings, therefore, while recording basic truths, are clothed in language forms common to their primitive time, and are influenced by cultural and scientific concepts far less enlightened than our own.

A correct appraisal of the Book of Genesis, and the history of Creation, requires an understanding of the meanings which the Old Testament authors intended to convey, and an appreciation of the language forms, philosophy and mores of their times. An interesting pamphlet explaining these things, and detailing the doctrine of the age-old Catholic Church concerning Creation, will be sent free, in a plain wrapper, on your request. Nobody will call on you. Write today for Pamphlet No. KC-48.

25 Ministers Study to Assist the Handicapped

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Twenty-five young ministers will be given special training in working with handicapped persons at a workshop to be held here May 28-June 1. It will be sponsored by the Methodist Board of Education and the Tennessee Department of Education.

J. Hank Smith, director of vocational rehabilitation for the state agency, said it had alloted $2,880 for its federal grants - in - aid to the Methodist board for the purpose.

He added that the workshop will be the first cooperative project of its kind in Tennessee—and probably in the nation—and may well "set the pattern for joint church - state efforts to aid the handicapped."

Cards containing prayers for Protestants, Catholics and Jews have been placed on tables of all Illinois Central Railroad dining cars.

Escapee Tells of Border Battle

Surviving Hungarian Says His Brother Fired at Him in Chase

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The only survivor among four young Hungarian refugees who made a dash for freedom through the Iron Curtain on a farm tractor told reporters today he recognized his own brother among the Hungarian border guards who fired on them.

* * *

He said the other three youths were killed by machine-gun fire as they sought to tear through the barbed wire entanglements that guard Communist Hungary's frontier with free Austria.

BROTHER CURSES

Only Friedrich Fritz Hammerl, 18, made it to safety. He told Austrian border police that his family is Communist. He said his brother, Christoph, is a lieutenant in the border police and his father is the captain and commandant of another Hungarian police unit.

* * *

When Fritz went back to the border with Austrian police to reconstruct the flight, he said his brother Christoph stood behind barbed wire on the Hungarian side and cursed him as a renegade. Fritz will be given political asylum here.

Fritz and his three companions made their break Wednesday night near Nickelsdorf. He said they fled because they feared they would be drafted into the Hungarian army.

Hammerl's father also arrived at the border yesterday.

"Give me back my son," he shouted at the Austrian officials. He was refused and Fritz repeated again and again: "I don't want to go back."

U. S., Russia Supporting U. N. Atomic Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia and the United States have thrown their support behind proposals for a U.N. study on harnessing atomic energy for industry and agriculture.

The agreement virtually assured the Economic and Social Council's (ECOSOC) approval of a resolution inaugurating the study.

Three wards of Queen Victoria Hospital, in England, have been closed because of a shortage of nurses.

Hollywood Headlines:

Enthusiastic Anna Plans to Come Back to Filmdom

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Anna Magnani will be coming back to Hollywood.

* * *

That is the word from producer Hal Wallis, who wishes to correct reports that the Italian star wouldn't return here and thought little of her recent Academy Award. As proof, he offered a personal letter he recently received from Magnani. Here are some excerpts, with Miss Magnani's capitalizations:

"After the famous news of the OSCAR, received on March 21 at 6 o'clock in the morning from an American reporter, I spent four days and four nights sleepless. My home was literally invaded from reporters of all nationality, from radio men of all parts of the world, from television reporters, and dozens and dozens of photographers every day.

SLEP 14 HOURS

"At the end of the fourth day, when I was through with all my obligations as a WINNER I collapsed from weariness, FROM HAPPINESS AND GLORY, AND I SLEPT I BELIEVE, SOMETHING LIKE 14 HOURS!

* * *

"When I woke up I thought it was all but a wonderful dream!!!! Instead it was the actual truth!!! For a few days after I was unable to realize that I had won! Just imagine, Hal, I was dumfounded from emotion and happiness. Rome was completely drunk from victory, and the common man as well as the important people, the man in the street, the policeman directing the traffic, all of them sent their congratulations because they felt that my victory was a national affair! ....

* * *

"I never believed to win the most coveted prize an artist can wish. The names of my rivals were names of big actresses and I had already won so many prizes for my interpretation, that I was positive not to win."

HAPPY LOSER

So positive was she that she bet two Paramount men $50 apiece that she would lose. She added: "I lost and paid!!!!! HAPPILY, BELIEVE ME! Think, I've lost hundred dollars but won the OSCAR!

* * *

"Just think that the morning of March 21 when a reporter insisted to talk to me, I thought it was a joke and hang up on him. He called back to ask me if I was crazy!!!!!!! What happened after, I leave that up to your imagination." (Miss Magnani, who does most everything intensely, added 11 exclamation marks after that sentence.)

* * *

She concluded: "Dear Hal, keep going for the second picture, it must be a big success, A VERY BIG SUCCESS! GOOD LUCK! I HAVE FAITH IN YOU."

New Dean Appointed

Lowly Lil' Field Mouse Believes It's His Home

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Don't quarrel with that mouse who raids your kitchen pantry; he thinks he's got a perfect right to stay in your house.

* * *

Prof. William H. Burt, curator of mammals in the University of Michigan's museum of zoology; explains that field mice, like small animals, roam over a pretty small area.

In general, says Prof. Burt, "the smaller the animal, the smaller the home range."

"A mouse may spend its entire life within a fraction of an acre," he adds—and it might be your fraction of an acre.

Besides, says the professor, they're a lot like people, these mice.

"We buy a piece of property and will defend it against trespassers; mice appropriate a piece of property and will defend it even against others of their own kind," he adds.

MICHIGAN RODENTS

You can find nine types of field mice in Michigan—all of them a headache to home owners. The most common is the white footed or deer mouse.

These mice, says Prof. Burt, are most usually seed eaters and if you stumble on a nest, you're liable to find as much as a quart of seed stored up for winter.

They are also very adaptable and make a comfortable home almost anywhere, including the kitchen.

Some mice, he says, are jumpers, instead of the scurrying creatures. Some jumps have been measured at six to 12 feet.

Some mice do more than squeak too. Some of them actually sing. In fact some people say the white footed deer mouse and the house mouse sing a song so high the human ear can't hear it until it lowers in pitch on rare occasions.

HANGS UP HIS GLOVES—Rocky Marciano hangs up his world famous boxing gloves after an unbeaten record of 49 pro fights. He announced his decision to retire at a news conference yesterday in accordance with the wishes of his wife, whom he said "begged him" to give up the game for her sake and their daughter Mary Anne.

Rocky Retires to Start Rush of Title Claimants

NEW YORK (AP) — Wanted: a heavyweight champion of the world.

The retirement of Rocky Marciano, unbeaten in 49 pro fights, leaves boxing's "golden" division in a state of wild confusion. Everybody wants to get into the act.

Before Marciano had confirmed his wife's announcement from Brockton, Mass., of his decision to quit, Archie Moore, the light-heavyweight champ, had claimed the title through Charlie Johnston, his manager and later called himself heir apparent to the crown. Floyd Patterson, through his manager Cus D'Amato, also filed a claim.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, started to talk of Moore, Hurricane Jackson, Floyd Patterson and "six or seven others including Bob Baker, Nino Valdes and Johnny Holman."

* * *

The IBC plans an elimination tournament, starting with a Baker-Holman pairing in 12 rounds at Miami Beach, May 9.

"I will go to the New York State Athletic Commission, the European Boxing Union and the National Boxing Assn. to see if they will recognize the winner of the tournament that we, or any other promoter, run," Norris announced.

* * *

Norris said he was trying to make a Patterson-Jackson match but it was "nowhere near closed."

The names of Eddie Machen of San Francisco, Johnny Summerlin of Detroit, Willie Pastrano of New Orleans, Bob Satterfield of Chicago, Harold Carter of Linden, N. J., Sonny Liston of Pittsburgh and Fanco Cavicchi of Italy, the European champ, also were tossed into the arena.

* * *

Marciano, admitting he will be 33 on Sept. 1, a year older than the record books show, listed Moore, Patterson and Jackson as men he considered potential successors. Rocky spoke at a news conference flanked by Manager Al Weill, trainer Charlie Goldman and Norris.

Favored Chiefs Defend Relays Crown at CMC

Inkster Wins Class B, Pickford D Title; Utica 2nd in B

MT. PLEASANT—Pontiac High School's heavily favored Chiefs rolled into Mt. Pleasant today intent on winning their 15th straight track victory, and on making a successful defense of their 1955 Central Michigan College Outdoor Relays crown. Pontiac won the title for the 1st time, a year ago, with a record 101 point total.

Among the Class A schools from which opposition is likely to develop, are Flint Northern, Arthur Hill, Flint Central, Sexton, and others. Waterford and Birmingham also sent teams for the Class A event. Class C division also is held today.

In yesterday's B-D section, Inkster again was tops, scoring 59½ points with Utica, a first time entry, 2nd with 43. Pickford, an Upper Peninsula team, took the D title with 49½ points.

Utica collected one first place, a victory in the sprint medley, with Art Barnett, Ernie Malzahn, Bernard Janowsky and Bryan Castle turning the ¾ mile event in 2:38.4. Malzahn also shared a new mark for the high sticks at 15.2 in a preliminary.

Imlay City Takes Triangular Event

Setting up an early lead Imlay City's track team yesterday after noon walked away with a triangular meet over Millington and Ortonville. Imlay totalled 70 points on 8 firsts and scattered other places. Meet was at Imlay City. Millington had 38, Ortonville 26.

Jets Oppose Fords

Ford All-Stars will provide opposition Sunday afternoon for the L. C. Anderson Jets. Game time is 2 o'clock and the tilt will be played on Wisner Field.

Lefty Earl Williams and Billy Johnson comprise Jets battery for the exhibition. Ed Raschell was expected to start for the Stars.

Fever Pitched High for Rival LaCrosse Match

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (INS)—Two top, undefeated LaCrosse teams—Maryland and Navy — renew their ancient rivalry today in a match that may decide the national championship.

A crowd of 15,000 is expected to be on hand at Byrd Stadium to see Navy's aggressive stickmen and the smooth-playing defending titlists lay their victry strings on the line.

So intense was the pre-game fever that Naval Academy officials sent 1,100 midshipmen and the academy band to College Park for the crucial contest.

* * *

At Annapolis, last year, a crowd of 13,000 saw the Terrapins win, 9 to 8, and go on to capture the national championship.

Logart Wins Dull Fight by Decision

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (INS)—Cuba's Isaac Logart, third-ranking welterweight, won a unanimous but unpopular ten round decision last night over Joe Micelli of New York in a nationally-televised bout at the War Memorial Auditorium.

The crowd booed the decision mostly because the fight was generally dull and without excitement.

Both judges scored it 7-2 for Logart, who chalked up his 6th straight win and is anxious for a title shot at champion Johnny Saxton. Referee Joe Palmer had it 5-4-1 in favor of Logart.

Littler Holds Lead

Champions in Third Round

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Gene Littler was a concerned young golfer today despite the fact that he held a solid lead of four strokes over the field going into the third round of the $38,500 Tournament of Champions.

* * *

Seeking a repeat victory in this event, with its $10,000 top money, the 25-year-old professional from San Diego had sub-par rounds of 70-71 for 141.

* * *

This was one stroke better than Littler enjoyed here a year ago.

But Gene did a bit of scrambling, and immediately after finishing play late yesterday afternoon he adjourned to the practice tee and a session of hitting the ball—straight.

Littler's nearest challengers when today's play began were Lloyd Mangrum, Shelley Mayfield, Ted Kroll and young Gardner Dickinson Jr., all tied at 145.

Mangrum and Dickinson recovered beautifully with 70's after first - round 75's. Mayfield and Kroll had 73's. Mangrum brought a terrific roar from the gallery on the 18th when his putt for a birdie three made a complete circle of the cup before dropping in.

At 146, and still to be considered, were five other pros—Dick Mayer, Al Balding, Mike Fetchik, Frank Stranahan and Doug Ford. Mayer, the good looking player from St. Petersburg, fashioned a 69 after a disappointing first-round 77 for his 146.

There were three other comeback performances, notably Cary Middlecoff's. He soared to a 79 in the wind the first day. Yesterday his brilliant 68 was the lowest score of the tournament to date.

Julius Boros recovered from an 80 with a par 72, and Tommy Bolt reduced a first-round 81 to a more respectable 72.

National Open champion Jack Fleck, who amiably admitted he wasn't playing well, reached the midway mark with 82-80—162.

Scoring eight firsts to Kennedy Collegiate's six, Cranbrook yesterday afternoon chalked up its fourth track victory of the season against a single loss, 76-42. Meet was held in Windsor, Ont.

Among outstanding results of the meet were the victories for captain Bob Waddell of Cranbrook in the 100(10.6) and the 220-yard dash. Owen Sett took the high jump at 5-4, was 2nd in the discus and shot. Kennedy's Dave Mitchell won both discus and shot.

Wertz in Dream, Tigers in Nightmare

Detroit Loses Homer Slugfest to Tribe, 4-3

Ex-Bengal Collects 3 Hits to Pace Indian Batting Attack

DETROIT (AP) — Vic Wertz says he's "having a wonderful dream and I hope I never wake up."

The bald, Cleveland Indian slugger has connected for 14 hits in his last 19 trips to the plate, and has been on base 19 of his last 24 appearances.

Yesterday he collected a long home run and two solid singles in four times at bat against the Detroit Tigers, as the Indians won a 4-3 slugfest.

"I don't know how to explain it," Wertz said in the clubhouse later. "I've changed my swing a trifle, but I'm using the same bat and doing everything the same way. It feels wonderful, though . . . I just hope it keeps up. Right now I'm in the middle of a wonderful dream—I hope I never wake up."

* * *

But for the Tigers, it was more like a nightmare. They hit three home runs, and still came out on the short end of the count. Two of them came after the Indians had rushed ahead 2-0 and the 3rd one was in the 10th inning after Cleveland had used the same weapon to take a 4-2 lead in the extra frame.

Bobby Avila, peppery Mexican second baseman, was the hero. He drove one of loser Frank Lary's deliveries far into the lower left centerfield seats with a man aboard in the 10th to give the victory to reliefer Don Mossi.

Earl Torgeson popped one out of the park in the lower tenth to close the gap to 4-3 with two out. Successive singles by Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn put runners on first and third, but Ray Narleski, who pitched the 10th, got Ray Boone on a fly to centerfield.

Gene Woodling's single and Rocky Colavito's double gave Cleveland a run in the 3rd and Wertz' drive made it 2-0 in the 6th. Then the Tigers picked up the home run cue and tied the game.

Charlie Maxwell got one in the 7th and Kaline's distant clout into the upper left field seats evened the score in the 8th. The loss gave Detroit a 3-5 record.

Bud Black opposes the Indians' veteran righthander Bob Lemon in this afternoon's tussle at Briggs Stadium. The two teams wind up the series with a single game Sunday and Billy Hoeft is to get his first outing of the season. Cleveland's Herb Score will face the Tigers.

Pierce Wins 3rd Game for Chisox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pity the poor, porous and pathetic pitching staff of the Brooklyn Dodgers!

Wasn't it only a couple of weeks ago that Dodger Manager Walter Alston was moaning about his "hurting" hill crew, cripped by the loss of sore-armed Billy Loes, Karl Spooner and Sandy Koufax, not to mention the hospitalized Don Bessent?

* * *

In defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates last night 7-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Roger Craig, the Dodgers got their fourth consecutive complete game by their pitching staff. They lead both leagues with five route-going performances in eight starts. They would have had six if it hadn't been necessary for them to go 10 innings to defeat Philadelphia on April 19.

The victory widened the Dodgers' first-lace National League lead over idle Milwaukee to a full game. The New York Giants climbed into fourth place by defeating the Phillies 5-3 behind the six - hit pitching of Allan (Red) Worthington. Cincinnati won its second game in seven starts, beating the Chicago Cubs 7-4. Rain washed out the scheduled contest between the St. Louis Cardinals and Braves in Milwaukee.

* * *

Chicago, New York and Cleveland, running one-two-three in the American League, continued their winning ways but Boston was still in the dumps dropping its fifth straight. The surprising Washington Senators evened their season's record at 5-5 with an 8-5 triumph over Baltimore.

* * *

The White Sox won their fifth in six starts, taking a 9-7 slugfest from Kansas City to maintain their first-place percentage lead over New York. The Yankees whipped the Red Sox 5-2 for their fourth straight over the Ted Williams - less Beantowers. Bobby Avila's 10th-inning home run with a man on base gave the Indians a 4-3 decision over Detroit.

* * *

Billy Pierce got a poorly pitched game out of his system and was fortunate to win his third game in as many starts for the White Sox. The little lefthander was tagged for four home runs and 12 hits but managed to outlast four Kansas City pitchers. Harry Simpson whacked him for two home runs and two singles, Hector Lopez and pinch hitter Bill Renna also hit him for four-baggers.

Pierce got the benefit of 13 Chicago hits including a home run by Walt Dropo, three singles by George Kell and double and single by Minnie Minoso that chased in three tallies.

* * *

The Yankees got a well-pitched game from Don Larsen, who turned the Red Sox back with six hits. Tom Brewer, the loser, was the victim of three teammate errors which presented the Yankees with two unearned runs. Elston Howard's two-run homer in the eighth iced the victory for New York. The Yankees actually hold a full-game lead over Chicago but the White Sox are in first place percentagewise, .833 to .800.

Sprinters Hold Drake Limelight

Sophomore Speedsters Match 0:09.4's in 100 Yard Preliminaries

DES MOINES (AP)—An anticipated spectacular 100-yard dash was the top attraction in the windup of the Drake Relays today.

The headliners were Dave Sime of Duke and Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian, two sophomore speedsters, and Dick Blair of Kansas.

Both Sime and Morrow, with a gusty wind at their backs, matched 0:90.4's in the preliminaries yesterday. They were one-tenth of a second under the Drake record set by the late Roland Locke of Nebraska in 1926. But they were kept from sharing a new record because the wind was above the allowable 4.47 m.p.h. maximum.

Blair ripped off a :90.5 in his heat but his also was a windblown performance.

Iowa and Kansas split honors in the two university relays yesterday. Iowa won a sizzling duel from Occidental College (Los Angeles) in the sprint medley and Kansas, winner at the Texas and Kansas Relays, made it a sweep by taking the 4 - mile relay with ease in 17.36.8.

The college distance medley went to Western Michigan in 10:15.5 Howard Payne was second and Miami, Ohio, the defending champion, third.

Hyndman Meets Robbins in Finale

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)— Bill Hyndman and Hillman Robbins, who met in the semifinals of the National Amateur Golf tournament last summer, matched strokes again today in the 36-hole finals of the North and South Amateur Tournament.

Robbins, a 24-year-old Memphis, Tenn., automobile salesman, was never worse than even as he won from Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., 2 up in yesterday's semifinals. Hyndman, 40-year-old insurance salesman from Abington, Pa., led from the second hole on as he turned back 20-year-old Jake Howard of Augusta, Ga., and the University of Georgia, 3 and 2.

He has pitched 41 successive innings without needing relief. Bob, a freshman at Northeastern, plans on entering a major college or University after two years in the Junior College.

State Baseball Teams Beaten on 4 Diamonds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan and Michigan State switched opponents today after dropping their Big Ten baseball openers yesterday.

Indiana whipped Michigan, 9-4, in 11 innings en route to today's double header against Michigan State at East Lansing, and Ohio State, en route to Ann Arbor for a twin bill against Michigan today, copped an 8-7 decision from Michigan State.

The University of St. Louis defeated Detroit, 8-4, in a Missouri Valley conference game at Detroit.

Michigan Normal missed a chance to grab the Interstate Conference lead when front-running Western Illinois scored three runs in the 6th inning of the second game of a double header and won the encounter, 3-2. Normal took the first, 2-0, at Macomb, Ill.

* * *

Indiana bunted and walked its way to victory over Michigan in their extra-inning encounter at Ann Arbor. The first three men up in the 11th bunted successfully against relief pitcher Mark Ferrelli. Then Jim Clark, rushed in to relieve Ferrelli, walked home a run, which would have been enough.

But Indiana added three more on a two-run single by relief pitcher Bill Smith, who was credited with the victory, and a sacrifice fly.

Ohio State, the defending Big Ten champion, collected five runs on two wind-blown homers at East Lansing in beating Michigan State.

* * *

With high winds taking any high ball on a long ride, Frank Howard lifted a two-run homer for OSU in the second and Dan Kelley a three-run one in the third.

OSU was leading 8-1 when Michigan State came to life in the 5th, but the rally wasn't quite enough.

Pitcher Bob Page of St. Louis held Detroit to only six hits as he registered his 4th consecutive triumph. Detroit's Dick Jungwirth gave up 12 hits, but it might have been closer had his Titan teammates not erred six times.

Derby Nominees in Tuneup Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., (AP)—An erstwhile ordinary 6-furlong race, now carrying the full-blown glory of a Kentucky Derby tuneup, featured today's opening of spring racing at Churchill Downs.

Nine nominees for next Saturday's 82nd Derby, taking their tip from Swaps' successful training program a year ago, will try their legs in the race.

After Swaps used the sprint as a springing board to Derby fame, it was re-christened The Swaps.

It carries only a $5,000 purse, but such hopefuls as Terrang—Swaps' young stablemate—Ben A. Jones and Count Chic are entered.

Contesting the trio were Swoon's Son, Manassas, Fleet Peet, Dark Toga, Come On Red and Mark's Rickey. All but Swoon's Son are believed to have Derby ambitions.

Also on the nine-race opening card was the Oaks prep, which drew 11 hopefuls for the Kentucky Oaks. They included Claiborne Farm's Doubledogdare, winner of the recent Ashland Stakes at Keeneland.

The 25-year-old Beckner won the parallel bar and calisthenics preliminary and was runner-up in the horizontal bar.

Number one on the list of 15 women finalists is Sandra Ruddick, 23-year-old Indianapolis housewife who had her second child just 5½ months ago. She won three preliminary events and tied for first in a fourth to score 35.85 points out of a possible 40.

Six men and six women will be named tonight to represent America in the gymnastic competition at the Olympic Games in Australia this November.

Your Neighbor's House

Ralph Derragons Build in Otter Hills

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

By the time you have lived in five different homes and have remodeled some of them, you know fairly well what kind of a house you really want.

The Ralph Derragons of Otter Hills drew on their past experiences with homes and built a new one fitted exactly to their needs. Mrs. Derragon says this house was built around the closets. She actually has enough of them.

Their Belden brick home is set at an angle on the 155x180 foot lot at the corner of Bow Lane and Windcroft. It affords an excellent view of Otter Lake from the living room windows.

A small covered porch protects callers until they enter the front door. Inside there is a large, double door coat closet—of course.

The hall is in the form of a T and leads to the bedrooms and the den. In this back part there are two linen closets. The walls are papered in gray. A cuckoo clock makes cheerful noises at frequent intervals.

The 29x18 foot living room has dining space at one end. Here, there is a dropleaf table with leather covered chairs. A china cupboard stands close to the kitchen door. All the furniture is dark wood in a traditional design.

Gray, green and silver striped paper covers the long fireplace wall. The other walls and the woodwork are painted pale green. The carpeting is gray.

The fireplace is framed in gray marble with a hearth of the same marble. The fireplace itself is of a beautiful classic design.

Twin arm chairs on either side of the fireplace are upholstered in brown with a gold thread. For Mr. Derragon there is a large lounge chair in gray leather.

One smaller arm chair has gold upholstery. This color is repeated in all the lamp shades. Mrs. Derragon made the flowered faille draperies and hung them under green cornices put up by her husband.

In the kitchen the decorating takes its keynote from the gay Mexican paper on two walls. The cupboard walls and ceiling are a soft yellow.

Organdie curtains have polka dots of red, blue, yellow and green. Except for blue, the same colors are found in the mottled linoleum. The wide array of custom built cupboards and work units is white.

There's a short hall leading from the kitchen to the den. One wall of this space is given over to closets. A shallow one holds canned goods. A walk-in closet is used for bulky household items like luggage and cleaning supplies.

On the other side of this hall there is a minute lavatory. The lower walls are painted charcoal gray, while the upper ones have a black and white paper.

A brilliant red cotton rug lightens the gray tile floor. The towels and curtains are also red. There's a magazine rack on one wall.

Our women readers will envy Mrs. Derragon her sewing room. In this house the master goes to the basement to work in his workshop. The mistress goes to her sewing room.

This room is a combination utility room, sewing room and guest room. The washer and dryer occupy space on one wall and are vented outside. Above them are supply cupboards.

Mrs. Derragon has her desk in an alcove. Around this alcove there are built-in drawers and cupboards galore. She has room to store patterns and extra materials in neat order. A rack on the door holds partially finished garments and those to be mended.

The floor here is vinyl tile in a deep ruby shade. Walls are off-white, while the ceiling is the palest yellow. The white curtains have a multi-color plaid valance.

As one of the first projects in her new sewing room Mrs. Derragon made a slip cover for the studio coach. This matches almost exactly the ruby red floor.

The family bathroom is yellow and brown. All the tile is yellow. Mermaids sport on the wallpaper. Window and shower curtains are brown, as are scatter rugs and towels.

Above the built-in vanity there is a large mirror. On the other side of the room, handyman Derragon has rigged a second mirror that adjusts. There's no excuse in this house for untidy back hair.

Young Dick Derragon is in the Army. His room is waiting for his return. It has sandy beige walls and a brown tile floor The simple furniture is maple.

Curtains appropriate for a young hot rodder are made from antique car printed material. The bedspread is reddish coral. Scatter rugs are vertically braided in browns and tans.

In the master bedroom there is light gray cotton carpeting. The walls are papered in deep rose, with woodwork painted to match. The furniture is dark.

Under the long wardrobe closet there are three built-in storage drawers. Cornice boards covered with the rose wallpaper are mounted over the flowered draperies. Mrs. Derragon, of course, made both draperies and bedspread.

The breezeway is a five-sided room, with entrance doors to both front and back yards. Here the Derragons eat from early spring to late fall. The walls are Philippine mahogany, the floor rose vinyl tile. Furniture coverings are rose.

An interesting feature of this home is the fact that it has five TV outlets, one being in the breezeway.

The 2½ car garage is plastered. There is a partial basement. Under the rest of the house there is a well ventilated and heated air space.

On the exterior redwood paneling has been used for trim and for the gable ends. Mr. and Mrs. Derragon designed this house themselves. It was built by P. D. Clawson of Pontiac.

Trial by Fire Leads to Decoration Idea

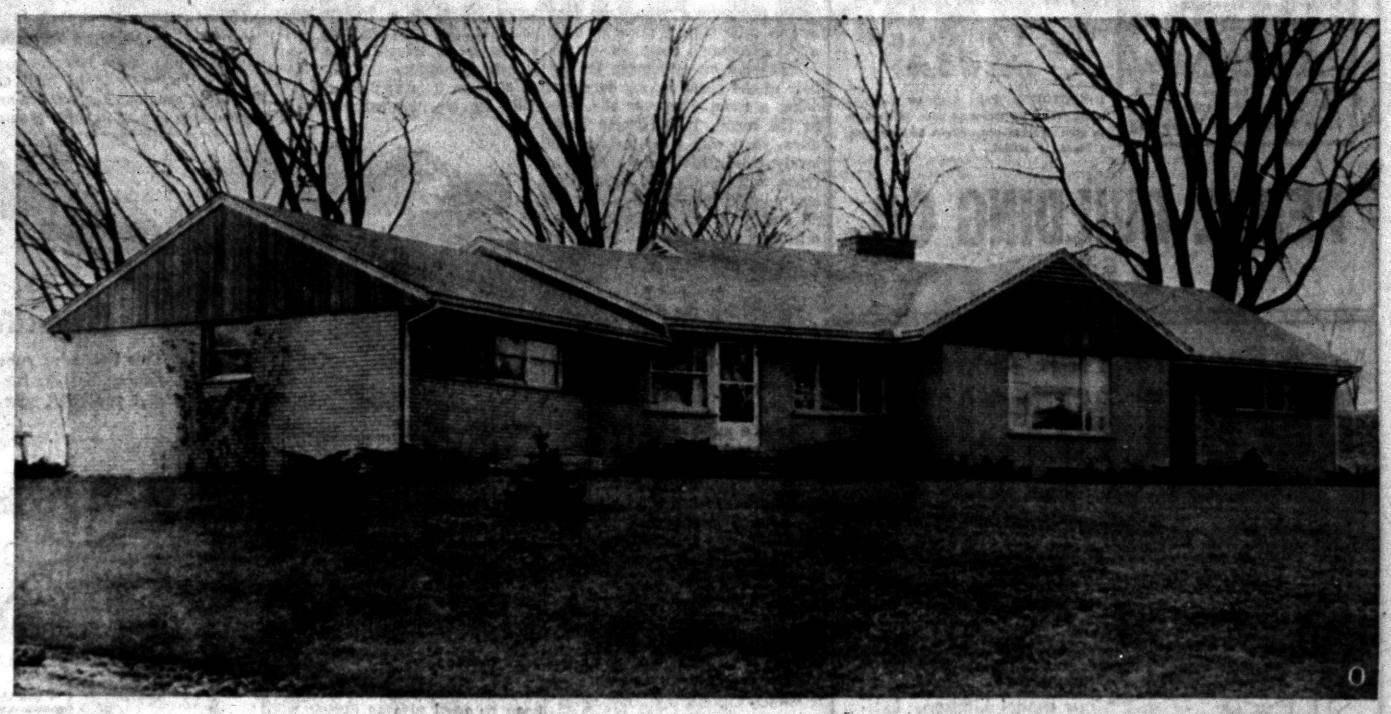

A trial by fire—or by smoke, anyway—led to a redecorating decision recently at the Harry Ulm residence in McKeesport, Pa.

* * *

In cleaning up the house after fire had damged it, the Ulms were impressed to see how well a greasy smoke deposit could be removed from the Marlite planks, a predecorated hardboard, in their bathroom. This led them to choose planks and blocks of the same paneling for a bedroom where another kind of surface had been damaged beyond restoration.

* * *

Because of the paneling's protective baked plastic finish, the Ulms felt assured that their new all-white bedroom decor would be easy to keep clean.

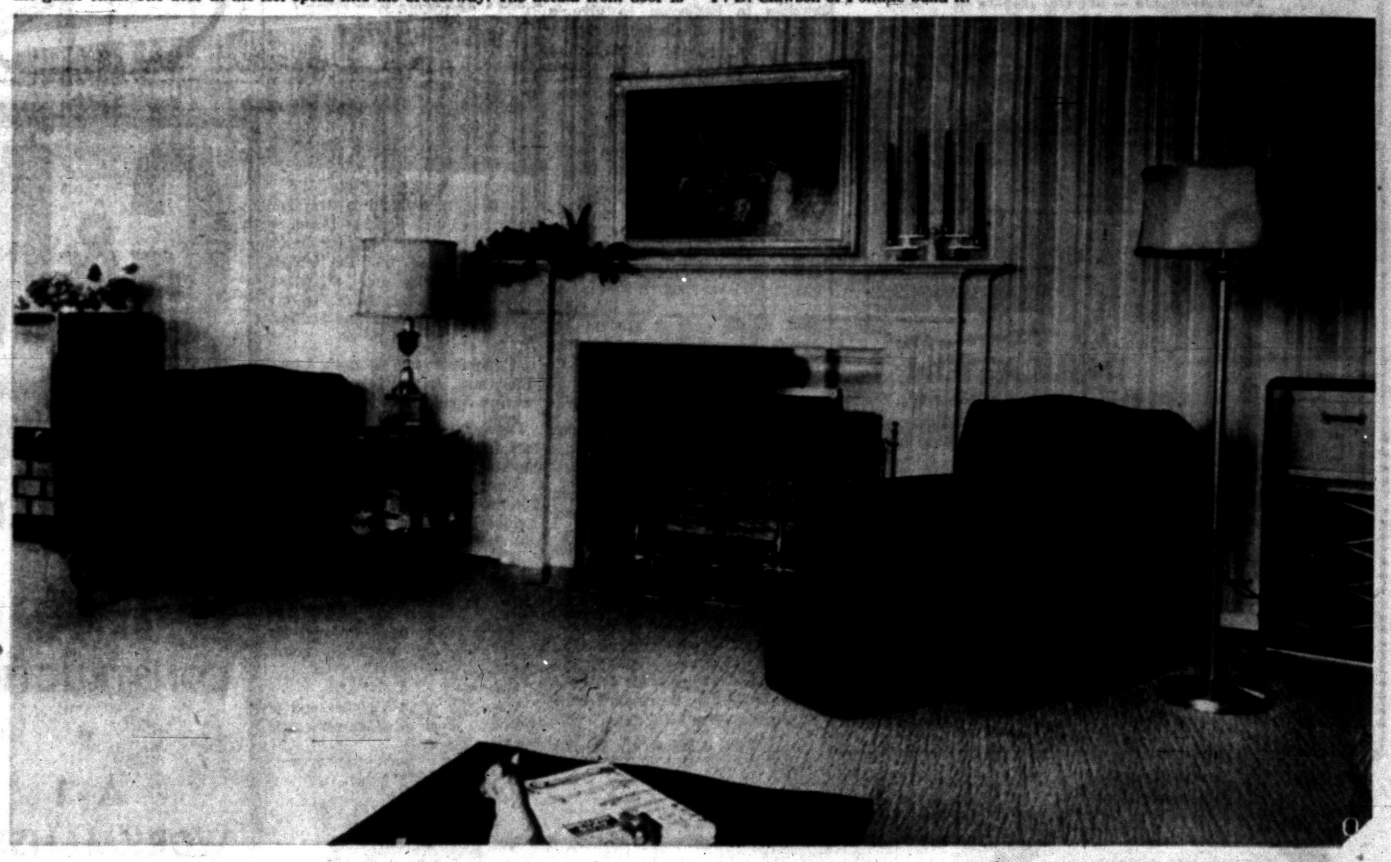

OTTER HILLS HOME — The brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Derragon is set at an angle on their gently sloping lot. Redwood siding has been used for trim and for the gable ends. The door at the left opens into the breezeway. The actual front door is at the right of the large window. The Derragons designed their own home, then had P. D. Clawson of Pontiac build it.

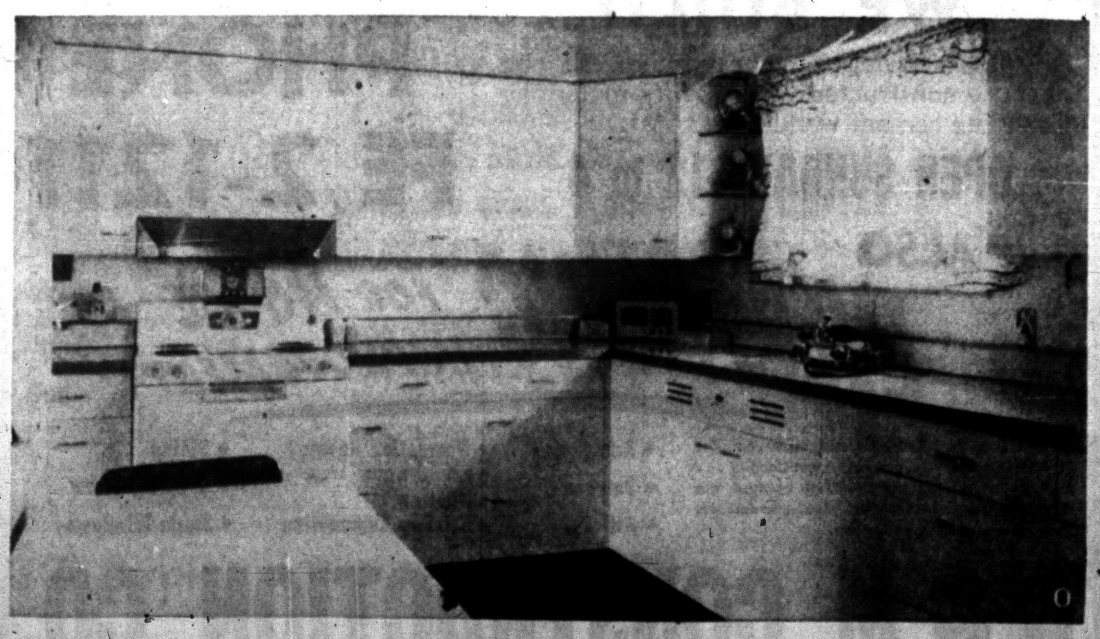

—Pontiac Press Photos by James Mahar

HER HOBBY—Mrs. Derragon's hobby is sewing. There could be no more appropriate picture of her than this one taken in her sewing room. She made the cover for the studio couch. Its ruby color matches exactly the vinyl tile floor. Walls here are an off-white. This room doubles also as a utility room with a washer and dryer.

QUIET CHARM — The Derragon living room is a quiet room. Silver, gray and green striped paper decorates one wall, with green paint covering the other three walls. The simple classic fireplace has a facing and hearth of gray marble. Note the monogram on the fire screen. Carpeting is gray. The armchairs in the picture are upholstered in brown with a gold thread.

CUSTOM BUILT KITCHEN — When Mrs. Derragon planned her kitchen, she submitted her ideas to a kitchen cabinet manufacturer. He made the units to fit the room exactly. All the lower shelves pull out, giving easy access to items stored in the back. There are storage drawers for pastry, sugar, flour and coffee. The window curtains are white organdie, polka dotted with yellow, red, green and blue.

PLENTY OF ROOM — The living room with dining space at one end is large — 29x18 feet. Large windows frame a pleasing view of Otter Lake. Mrs. Derragon made the faille draperies. Mr. Derragon made the cornice boards. Dining room furniture is traditional dark mahogany. Shades on all the lamps match, are a cheerful gold tone.

Today's Painting Is Simple and Takes but Little Time

You can paint a room these days in less time than it takes to bake a cake. A small room, of course.

That is a lovely excuse for the lady of the house taking over and doing a room whenever she feels in the mood. It is simple these days, what with paint rollers and lovely colors to select. Colorwise types will venture to mix their own paint colors. Fun too, because all you do is squeeze color from a little metal tube into a bucket of plain white paint to get the shade you like.

* * *

More women are doing the home painting, what with dad complaining that he can't find the time or can't afford a painter or can't find one that is available. Well—why not Mom?

Some paint producers have devised a simplified paint-tube process that makes possible a range of some 1,300 hues. That way if Mom likes pink and Mrs. Jones has a pink kitchen, she can still have pink and have her own special pink.

The small home, for instance, may be done all in one color, using a different hue in each room. This makes the house seem larger and with a little thought in advance, Mrs. Homemaker can plan it neatly.

BLUE IS BACK

Paint stores have pamphlets on how to mix these paints so that one color may be deepened from kitchen to bathroom to give a lovely range of shades. Or your paint store man can mix the paint for you.

Blue, a color in the decline a few years back is making a strong comeback. Pink-coral, yellow-maize, white-off-white and gray follow in succession. Chartreuse is popular again too.

All sorts of effects may be achieved with little effort. Polka-dot paint, a spray on coating that consists of fine droplets of various-colored lacquers suspended in a water medium so that the color used in the largest amount becomes the background while other colors appear as colorful contrasts is easily applied.

FROSTED GLASS

One paint gives a chalkboard surface, still another simulates frosted glass.

Most paints today are odorless and some states have outlawed lead-mixed paints for safety reasons. Latex or emulsion type paints have little or no odor, are water-thinned, requiring no special solvent. They may be cleaned up with plain water. Resin paints are odorless and give a good decorator type finish. These are thinned with solvents and excess may be cleaned with turpentine after using.

One of the loveliest all-over-the-house colors in a dreary house, one that is shaded by trees or obscured by buildings in yellow. It brings sunshine into the house as soon as it is applied and your color scheme may range from the palest yellow in the brighter rooms of the house to the deep glowing yellows in the darker rooms for an enchanting effect.

* * *

Pink offers a pleasant glow too in dark rooms. Blues, greens and darker colors are lovely in bright rooms especially. Apricot and burnt orange are popular shades in high-style decorating. These may be used also as accent with white-off-white shades for unusual effects.

Got Kids, Roses, Dogs?—Build Picket Fence

If the house has roses, but no picket fence, get busy. It's easy to fence the kids in and the neighbors' dogs out.

* * *

Besides, you build a tradition when you build a picket fence.

You'll need: four-by-four posts, two feet longer than the fence's height; two-by-four stringers, enough for two lengths of the projected fence; pickets and rustless nails.

Equipment for the job: hammer, saw, carpenter's level and narrow spade.

Dig holes for the posts slightly less far apart than the length of the stringers.

Place small rocks at the hole bottom and sink the posts. Level stringers and nail onto the posts, one at the top, the other about a foot from the ground.

Nail the pickets to the two stringers, a picket's width apart.

For stability, use two nails for each joint, one diagonally below the other.

* * *

Allow the pointed picket end to protrude about six inches above the top stringer.

Family Room Trend Becoming Popularized

There is a strong trend towards more family rooms in new homes. National surveys show more families have group hobbies and group interests than ever before.

Special rooms can be built out of attics, basements or porches and remodeling is made simple if some easy-to-work softwood like Douglas fir is used for framing, paneling and builtins. Any weekend carpenter or do-it-yourself fan can use this lumber which requires only a saw, square, hammer and plane to build most anything.

Wood holds up the Brooklyn Bridge. The towers of that giant span rest on submerged timber cushions 15 feet thick.

Diagram Helps Room Changes

URBANA, Ill. (INS)—If you're thinking of rearranging your living room after spring cleaning, do it according to some kind of plan.

* * *

So advises Ellen Hansen, University of Illinois home furnishings specialist.

First, draw a detailed diagram of the room to scale and study it for possible methods of separating it into various activity areas.

If your room is large, says Miss Hansen, section it into areas for reading, music or radio and conversation by grouping the furniture for these purposes.

If it is small, begin your grouping around the room's center of interest—a window or fireplace.

In deciding where to place your large pieces, be sure to place them parallel to the wall.

Miss Hansen said it's not hard to keep the room balanced. She said:

* * *

"If there's a fireplace at one end, you'll need something at the other end to balance it. Your arrangement will be more interesting if you vary the height of articles in a grouping.

An estimated 27,000 Americans went blind in 1955.

Five Questions for Homeowners

Many of the questions a corporation will ask before launching a multi-million-dollar plant expansion and modernization program are ones that also should be posed by the home improver.

* * *

That's a tip from the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, whose nearly 600 members not only supply the residential market but also have a major role in the record-breaking industrial expansion now under way.

Certain questions, says GAMA, deserve a sharp pencil at the kitchen table conference, as well as at the executive's desk. Here are some of them, with application as they may affect the householder:

1. Will the finished project be efficient? If not, don't start it. Benefit by others' skills and experiences; for example, by a qualified heating contractor when considering a gas furnace or boiler or a conversion to gas central heating.

* * *

2. Are you putting first things first? One possible improvement must be weighed against another on the basis of scope of benefits, possible labor savings and frequency and duration of use.

* * *

3. Will the money be available as needed? Because financing conditions change, anyone borrowing for home improvements should have up-to-date assurance from his bank at the very start.

* * *

4. Does the improvement fit the property? You should not add more than a building can reasonable carry or downgrade a fine home by adding items unworthy of it and its neighborhood.

Some Facts on Your Air-Conditioning

Modern air-conditioning systems and equipment which have been developed by the industry can duplicate every enjoyable comfort feature of the ideal spring day.

* * *

Many folks ask how to select a good heating or air conditioning system. "Specify that the system provide you with the comfort needs which you know about," says the Air Conditioning Association, "and outline to your dealer-contractor that you expect the system he installs to provide you with the conditions specified. It is his job to design and install the system to perform according to your expectations."

Here are some things to keep in mind when outlining the comfort needs of your home and family:

1. You will want both temperature and humidity to be held within the comfort zone of 70-78 degrees as far as temperature is concerned, and 30-35 per cent relative humidity. The dealer will have to make heat gain calculations necessary to determine proper size of the mechanical equipment.

* * *

2. You will want air circulation in all rooms so that cool air will not stratify on the floor. The dealer will design an adequate distribution and return air system so that no perceptible air movement will impinge on occupants and cause discomfort.

* * *

3. Just as you cannot economically operate a heating system in the winter with the windows open, you cannot have economical summer cooling with the windows open, but you will still want a constant supply of fresh air. The dealer can design a dampering arrangement which brings in outside air, filters it, cools it, and dehumidifies it before circulating it through the house.

4. If any in your family are prone to asthma, hayfever, or sinus ailments, or if you merely want your home as dust-free as possible, you can have country-fresh air even if you live in a sooty, fume-laden area. The dealer can include an electro-static filtering device which removes cigarette smoke, pollen and other airborne junk.

* * *

5. Remember that your home has both relaxing areas and working areas. You should have cooler temperatures in the working areas because physical activity generates heat, and warmer temperatures in relaxing areas so that you will not feel cool while sitting still. The dealer can provide for this either by balancing the flow of air to the various rooms or by installing electronic zone controls.

* * *

6. Ask your dealer to check over your house for conditions which might put unnecessary burdens on the air cooling system. He may suggest such things as exhaust fans in the kitchen and bathroom to eliminate humidity and heat from cooking and bathing operations, and in the laundry. He may also suggest sunshades where large glass areas are exposed to the sun. If you are beginning to build your home, consult with him on orientation and insulation.

Check Moisture Leaks Before Painting Home

Before repainting the exterior of your house, make sure that every precaution is taken to prevent any future invasion of destructive moisture that might cause the paint to blister.

Roof leaks, clogged gutters and rainspouts, defective flashings, siding that's too near the ground, uncovered earth under the house, foundations that are not water-resistant, poorly joined lumber and similar conditions can permit a lot of destructive moisture to enter the house and cause expensive damage.

Check Barbecue Things Today

BOSTON (INS)—Spring is just around the corner and everything outdoors is ready to blossom with new color, so how about the patio, porch and barbecue things?

They looked pretty weather-worn when they were stored down in the cellar last year. Maybe they were neglected last spring. But now is a good time to get rid of that run-down look with a new spring outfit—a coat of paint.

Antique white, cream, a dusky black, aqua, pale pink and coral are popular colors for wrought iron chairs and tables with glass, tile or marble tops. But various shades of green are always popular.

Black or white color for the plastic webbing of aluminum tubing furniture makes a nice contrast.

Wooden furniture allows a wide choice. Transparent varnishes show the natural grains and protect the wood. But for variety there is a range of reds, greens, royal blues and glistening whites.

* * *

But no matter what the job may be, the first thing to remember is to have the surface clean, free of rust, dust or old paint. Steel wool does a fine job on most any surface.

Prefab Furniture?

You can modernize the feeling of your home without replacing any of your furnishings, simply by getting rid of an old, dingy, wornout carpet or rug. Choose one of a color that will merge into the upholstery or draperies.

If these patterns are large and showy, then it is best to choose a plain floor-covering. A simple one is best in a home where it is expected to last for a number of years. A contrast always can be achieved with fabrics or even with painted walls or wallpaper.

Screen Is Painted in Matching Colors

The frames of sceens should be painted so that they match the color of their companion window and door frames. This may mean, of course, that the inside colors differ from the outer ones. The screen wire should also be painted —on both sides—and before the frame is coated.

Steel or galvanized screens need the protective coating to prevent their rusting. While copper and bronze wire screens do not rust, they should also have a protective coating because a corrosive wash develops that stains and disfigures any light-colored areas below them. Spar varnish or special screen paint should be used.

Both types of coatings can be applied with a spray gun, brush, short-napped roller or an inexpensive screen-painting tool, made from a block of wood and covered with carpet on one side.

Decorators Use Simulated Stone

Wall Coverings Appear as Brick, Rubble, Bark, Other Textures

NEW YORK—There was a time when being "against a stone wall" meant the end-point in frustration. Decorators and architects today are deliberately seeking out "stone walls."

* * *

But to these decorators—and an increasing number of homemakers—these "stone walls" are a new type of wall-covering, simulating not only such stone as rubble and lannon, but, as well, bricks, bark, wood and fabrics.

Such wall coverings have many advantages. Simulated brick, without the high cost of actual brick construction, can create a "textured" background for playroom or den—or even in modern living rooms, where such wall interest accents modern furniture.

Available in all-white washed and such high fashion colors as pink and turquoise, the coarse texture of brick and unevenness of mortar gives an actual three dimensional effect.

MATCHES THE WALL

Still another way to use texture in a traditional setting was recently illustrated by decorator Leon Desser, in a French Provincial room, the pattern, called "Striated" is used in a blue tone with white flecks repeating the white of the draperies. Blue upholstery fabrics have been matched to the wall color.

In contrast to the combination of traditional furniture with modern textured wallcoverings, some room settings feature nostalgic murals — reproductions of turn of the century scenes—for combination with modern furniture. One such setting was recently displayed by a mural designer who used rattan furniture with gold-anodized aluminum frames for high fashion attention.

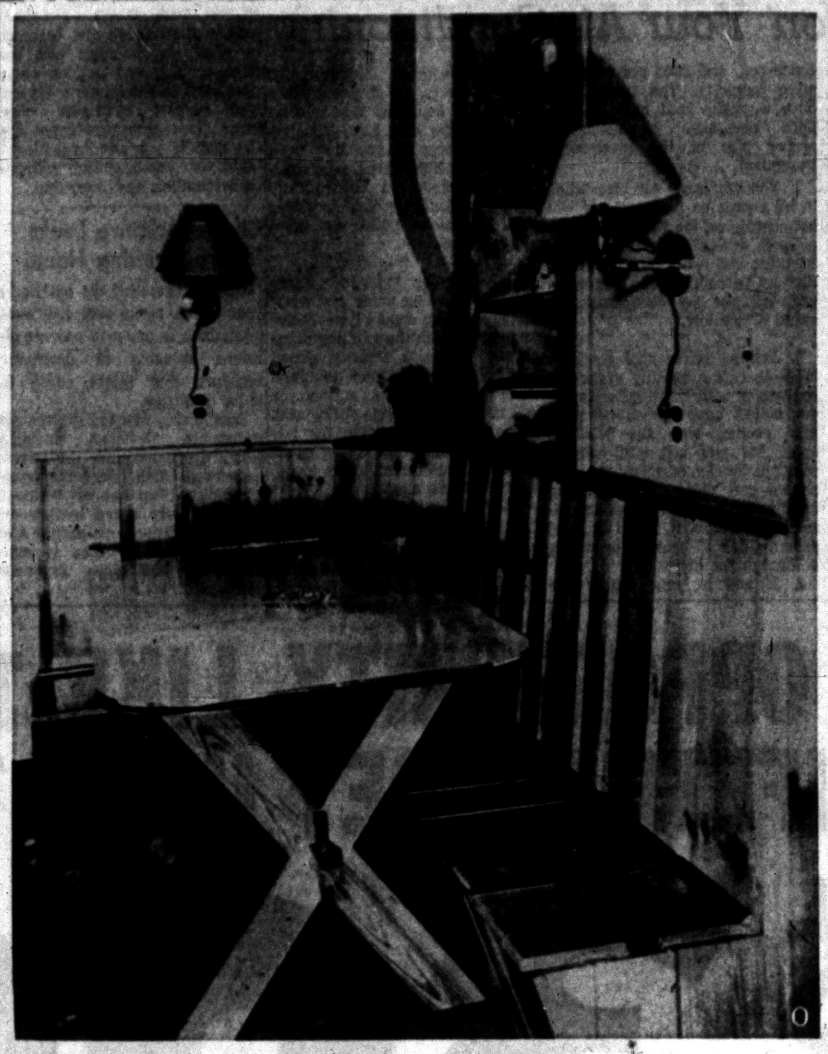

While some decorators use new textured wall treatments as foils for traditional furniture, and other decorators highlight modern furniture against old-fashioned murals, still another decorator has used an old-time floor for wall treatment.

* * *

Watch Out!—Don't Cut

Don't cut or trim boards separately when you want to join them together for a large flat surface, advises the American Builder, trade journal. Place the boards together and nail wood strips across the ends. Set a fine-tooth circular saw blade to cut right through the crack of the proposed joint.

BREAKFAST BOOTH — Quick and easy meals are the order of the day with a built-in breakfast booth. Utilizing out-of-the-way corner space, this breakfast booth of western pine adds to the kitchen's appearance and meal-time comfort. Table on casters makes it easy to get in and out.

Breakfast Nook Possible Now in Almost Every Home

Having a separate breakfast area has progressed from the luxury class to a necessity in the minds of most modern homeowners.

* * *

If you're building a new home, there's no problem. You can plan ahead for an attractive breakfast bar or other suitable facilities. But what about those of us with "second-hand" homes, ten, fifteen, or twenty years old? If no provisions were made originally, what can we do without major remodeling?

A breakfast booth with a table that's easily moved—preferably on casters—is a practical answer. Usually there is a corner in the kitchen which lends itself to a space-saving built-in booth. Even if your home has a separate breakfast room, a booth making use of wall area opens up the room and eliminates the clutter of an "island" formed by the usual table-and-chairs grouping.

Consisting basically of a bench with a back and a free-standing table, a breakfast booth is a project that most home handymen can tackle in their spare time. From your lumber dealer you can get suggestions and plans on different styles which can be adapted to your own requirements. At the same time, he can show you a variety of easy-to-work woods with which to build the booth.

A CORNER UNIT?

From the western pine region, for example, there is a wide variety of colors and grain patterns in ten separate species, headed by the widely-available ponderosa pine, Idaho white pine, and sugar pine. From creamy white to rich dark shades, all are available in knotty or clear grades and are particularly noted for their ability to accept any type of finish.

A breakfast booth can be designed for only one wall or as a corner unit. In a corner unit it is wise to round off the corner of the back rest for more comfortable seating. This also provides a shelf in the corner for plants or appliances. Double duty can be gained from the benches if the tops are hinged to provide storage space.

Finishing time is the time for self expression. If your kitchen cabinets are of knotty western pine, perhaps you'll want to finish your booth naturally to match. If so, remember to apply a good sealer to the knots, then several coats of varnish or shellac, rubbing between coats with a fine grade of steel wool.

* * *

Maybe you'll want to paint the unit to match kitchen colors. If a common grade of lumber has been used, again seal the knots, then apply a coat of flat white undercoater paint, then your finish coat. If you want to try one of the interesting pastel tints, thin down a color pigment with mineral thinner, brush it on, and wipe it off. This produces an attractive tint of color and still allows the distinctive grain pattern to show through.

Cedar Closets Top in Home Features

A great number of contractors and builders are including several cedar closets in each of the new homes they are building. These home experts find that cedar closets are second only to kitchen facilities as home-selling features.

* * *

Most housewives are vitally concerned with kitchens because they spend so much of their time there; closets also are important for the storage space they provide. When the closets are lined with cedar, which protects furs and family woolen clothing from moths, they have an even greater value in the home buyer's eye.

* * *

When cedar closets are installed as part of the original construction they cost little or no more than regular closets.

Toothbrush Has Useful Purposes

Consider the toothbrush.

This handy item is well suited for countless uses around the home once its 'teething' stage is past. With bristles bent and weary, the toothbrush still has years of service to offer to the homemaker concerned with cleaning and dusting hard-to-reach places.

So don't let the dump get this cleaning 'trump.' Here are a few examples of how the retired toothbrush can help you:

1. Bathroom and kitchen cleaning. The waterproof ceramic tile in your bath and kitchen is the easiest thing in the world to keep clean. Sometimes, though, the homemaker neglects the fine cement lines between tiles. A damp cloth—all it takes to clean tile—goes right over the cement joints. A retired toothbrush, however, and some mild scouring powder will reach them. For stubborn stains use an ordinary hair bleach.

2. Dusting. The toothbrush can reach inside grillwork, get into tricky corners and cracks. Window ledges and screens are other places it can be put to work.

* * *

3. Workshop use. Try it for cleaning rust off tools, refurbishing old paint brushes, taking grime off screw threads, cleaning out pipes, spreading glue. Many do-it-yourselfers keep one or more at hand for brushing sawdust away from work on the power saw or iron filings away from the job on the drill.

* * *

4. Shining shoes. Here's a use of some tradition. The edge of sole and heel absolutely need, for best results, some such instrument as the retired toothbrush.

5. Kitchen range. For a thorough cleaning of all parts, nooks and crannies, which is no easy job, try the retired—eh, the re-hired—the loyal, the magnificent toothbrush!

Shortage in Apprentices for Building Crafts Noted

WASHINGTON—The sharp lag in the training of apprentices for the building crafts is beginning to pose a problem for the home building industry which may well become a critical shortage of skilled labor, a spokesman for the National Association of Home Builders said today.

* * *

The spokesman, Earl W. Horttor, Kansas City, Missouri, is Chairman of the NAHB Labor Committee. He was in Washington to attend a series of NAHB planning meetings.

"We are today training only between 75,000 and 80,000 young men in the building crafts, according to Labor Department estimates, and this in a period when the construction industry is engaged in the greatest amount of activity in its history, "Horttor pointed out. "This number does not even keep abreast of the journeymen who leave the labor force each year.

"By conservative estimate, there should be a minimum of 200,000 trainess now engaged in apprentice programs, and this number makes no allowance for the needs of the enormous contruction programs predicted for the next decade. Aside from industrial construction, the requirements for the home building industry may well reach two million units a year by 7965 if the tremendous expansion in new family formation materializes as it is now expected to."

QUOTAS FALLING OFF

Horttor said some improvement had taken place in the number of men training to become carpenters, plumbers, pipefitters, painters and craftsmen in the trowel trades. But the increase, he added, has fallen far short of requirements.

* * *

"There undoubtedly are many factors contributing to this apparent reluctance of young men to enter the apprentice training programs," Horttor said. "The construction industry and the labor unions are not without their share of responsibility. They should encourage young men to enter these fine crafts, and see to it that the training programs maintain interest and turn out men well prepared for their jobs.

* * *

"I think that it also is fair to say that the more we encourage and help young men to enter useful and well-paying crafts and trades the less problem we will have with juvenile delinquency."

* * *

Horttor disclosed that NAHB is taking a number of steps to encourage and assist its local affiliated associations in the establishment of apprenticeship programs. These include the dissemination of information on the training facilities available through state and Federal vocational programs, maintaining a close relationship with the Bureau of Apprenticeship of the Labor Department and working with other interested groups in developing model apprenticeship training programs.

Sheathing Strength

The advantages of diagonal sheathing for strength have long been recognized. However, gypsum sheathing carries claims, too, for bracing exterior walls. This material in 16-square foot panels provides a fine base for any exterior finish—stucco, wood siding, brick or stone veneer, or wood or asbestos shingles.

A faded rug can be moved to a less conspicuous location in the home and given new life and color by using the vacuum cleaner sprayer and the right kind of dye material as obtainable in various kinds of stores.

Silicone Enters Newest Textiles

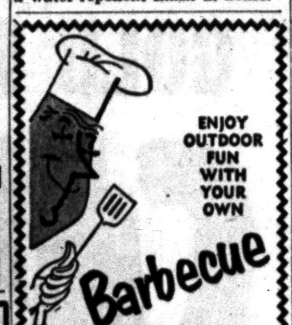

DENVER (INS)—Many of the new fabrics you'll be wearing or using for home furnishing this spring will be the result of recent discoveries in textiles and textile finishes.

Specialists report a wide variety of new finishes and treatments for garments and fabrics to make them more practical, more attractive and easier to care for.

Newest treatment for water repellency is with silicone emulsions, which frequently are combined with other resins. The label should tell the story when this finish is used.

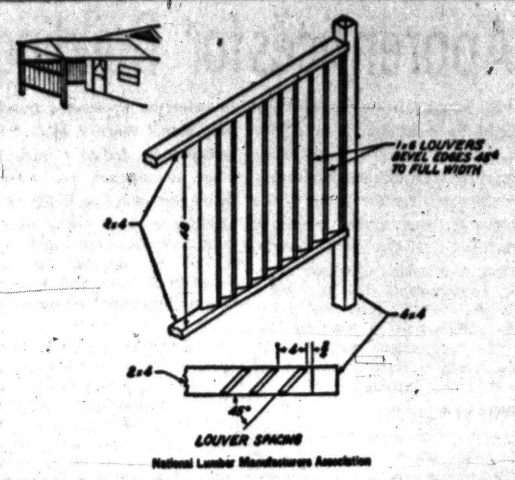

It is water repellent finish and highly permanent, since the silicone is bonded to the fiber and each fiber is completely coated in the process.

Some water-repellent finishes are labeled as durable, but others must be renewed after each cleaning or washing. Dry cleaners offer this service, and some preparations are on the market now to add a water-repellent finish at home.

The Louver-Type Screen Affords Privacy in Patio

A louver type screen is not only attractive but affords privacy in the patio, garden, or carport. It is easily made from 4 by 4, 2 by 4, and 1 by 6-inch lumber.

* * *

The screen shown is 48 inches high, but the dimensions may be varied to suit different adaptations. The 4 by 4-inch posts should be of natural decay resistant wood or wood treated with preservative. Spans between posts should not be greater than 6 to 7 feet. They should be long enough to reach below the frost line. Bevel the tops, as shown, and set the bottoms in concrete.

Cut the rails from 2 by 4-inch lumber. Make dado joints ¾ inch deep in the posts, as shown, and attach the rails to the posts by toe-nailing with galvanized 10-penny nails. Place the bottom rails 2 feet above the ground.

Cut the louvers the desired length from 1 by 6-inch boards. Bevel the edges at a 45-degree angle, and place the boards at an angle of 45 degrees to the edges of the rails. Space the louvers as shown. Use 8-penny galvanized nails to toe-nail the louvers to the top and bottom rails.

If treated or decay resistant wood has not been used for the rails and louvers, coat them with a clear wood preservative. Paint the screen any desired color or leave natural.

* * *

The same construction may be used for interior screens such as a partition between a furnace and a recreation room. The pattern may be varied by installing the louvers horizontally instead of vertically.

Breezeway Hides 'That Vacant Spot'

Waste space is a stigma to almost every building lot, but with a few small inexpensive tricks, unused yard areas can be turned into attractive and practical living space.

* * *

The area between house and garage, difficult to landscape, and often just an awkward, open spot without purpose can become a charming little terrace breezeway.

Paved the ground to as large a floor as you want with brick, concrete, wood blocks, or flagstones, and roof the area with western red cedar slats. Perhaps you will want to enclose part of the side with a trellis of slats for climbing vines or roses.

The roof will be held aloft with cedar posts in the size you choose —2x4s or 4x4s.

Not only will the family find use for this patio-breezeway in a variety of ways, for entertaining, relaxing, and a post for the kiddies to play in all weather, but it will tie house and garage together, imparting a larger, more attractive line to the home.

* * *

If you choose to make the roof to your breezeway solid, cedar or Douglas fir decking will again do the trick and protect from the weather those passing between house and car.

Plaids, Prints Possible for Window Dressing

That windows, like the well-dressed homemaker, can be "outfitted" in plaids, prints or plain fabrics with matching "accessories" is evident in recent introductions to the curtain and drapery market.

In a wide selection of light and heavy weight materials for window "dressing," Titus Blatter has coordinated from 18 to 20 colors in a group of plain and printed fabrics. This mix-and-match collection makes it possible for sheer curtains, draperies and valances not only to be matched with printed and plain fabrics, but also in one color or in graduated tones of one color.

Let It Dry Out!

Laying of the maple floor should be the last operation in building. Never lay floors in a cold, damp building. Heat it for 10 days to at least 70 degrees regardless of the season. Flooring should be piled loosely in the house for at least three days before laying.

Leather Returns for Upholstery

NEW YORK (INS)—The latest word in upholstery fashions—whether for home or car—is leather.

* * *

The people who design automobile interiors took a long look at the leather used in the home fashion field and came up with printed designs in angular and geometric patterns.

Even the eastern influence on interiors has been carried over to more mobile units—a printed India pattern leather of gold and black on a maroon background will be a 1956 feature. To go with this, the instrument panel will be covered in maroon leather, and a maroon mouton carpet will cover the floor.

Other fashionable driving colors include Persian purple, lavender, blue-green, olive and aqua.

Leather is being used for flooring, too. Woven leather "yarn" as well as leather tiles edged with raised aluminum or brass stripping are part of the car of tomorrow. Favored leathers for the floor of the auto of the future are natural calf hide and black-and-white calfskin.

* * *

The really luxurious new car interiors will mix leather with such materials as mink, for the swanky set.

The species of softwood to use as subfloors include Pine, Douglas Fir, Spruce and Hemlock. Plywood in the ¾-inch thickness is also recommended, due to its enormous strength factor.

Melamac is the material for three new items by the Kenro Corp. One is a hot-cold server with a textured finish. It holds 2½ quarts. With it go a 6½-inch circular tidbit server and a 3-quart salad bowl and spoon.

POURING A CONCRETE DRIVEWAY — This composite drawing of concrete driveway construction shows all steps at once. Remember, however, each step must be completed before the next is begun.

Working With Concrete Requires Adequate Skill

Amateurs have stayed away from concrete work in droves, apparently for two reasons: (1) Because it is work, and (2) because final surface finishing demands a degree of skill.

* * *

Yet there is reason to believe that practically anyone with a little small-scale practice under his belt could build a driveway, patio or other ambitous concrete project. He'll need help, though and plenty of it.

Concrete should be poured, tamped and "struck-off" within an hour of arrival at the job site. It should be given its final finish within another hour or so. In one community neighbors banded together and built each other's driveways. It's a good idea if you can work it.

Properly constructed, a concrete driveway will outlast a house and save many times its cost in long-term service. Steel reinforcement, called welded wire fabric, is important to driveway longevity. Increasing slab strength as much as 30 per cent, it deters cracking.

GOOD FOUNDATION

However, wire reinforcement and the finest concrete mix available won't make up for an unstable foundation for your drive. Soil under the concrete should furnish equal, firm support to all parts of the slab.

Well-drained soil should be thoroughly compacted after sod, vegetable matter, soft spots and bumps have been removed and depressions filled in. If soil is poorly drained, dig it out and replace it with about six inches of gravel, tamped to form a firm, level foundation.

Forms, or molds, for driveways may be made up of 2x4 or 2x6-inch boards set on edge. Brace the form boards with stakes driven deep into the ground about a foot apart. Top edges of the form should be level and at the desired height of the finished driveway surface.

EASIEST WAY

To be effective, welded wire reinforcement must be placed at the midthickness of a five or six-inch thick slab. Perhaps the easiest way of doing this is to pour concrete half thickness, level or strike it off, then position the wire fabric. Immediately pour the remainder of the concrete.

Reinforcement is usually placed lengthwise of a slab. Twelve-foot driveways call for two lengths from a six-foot-wide roll of 6x6-6/6 fabric, overlapped six inches. This allows three-inch clearance between sides of forms and edges of the reenforcement.

Driveways are often poured in alternate sections. That is, pour a section, skip one, and pour another. When these have hardened enough to hold their shape, remove boards forming the joints and pour concrete in the empty sections.

* * *

After concrete has been poured up to the level of the forms, work a 2x4 or other plank back and forth over the tops of the forms to strike off the mix while it is still plastic. A convex strike board will give a crown to the drive for drainage.

* * *

About an hour later the concrete will begin to set and then can be smoothed with a wooden trowel, or float. If the float digs in, the concrete is still too plastic and should be left to harden a little longer. After floating, texture the surface by drawing a straw broom lightly and straight across the concrete.

* * *

Wet down the finished job and cover with canvas, burlap, straw or building paper and keep it wet for a week. Concrete gains strength during the wet-down curing process.

Portable Radios Aid Housework

While modern housewives cook, it seems they like to listen to radio music. Well, this business of having a separate radio in every room of a house while only the housewife is at home proves to be somewhat of an expensive proposition.

* * *

Even though radios are now made in pocket size, thanks to the invention of transistors to replace tubes, a lot of people would like to economize on fewer radios.

Radio manufacturers became aware of this about the same time they realized a big vacancy had been created in living rooms when console type radios disappeared.

There was a piece of furniture missing. So they have come up with what they call a porta-console—a transistor radio on a stand. It has no cords—really wireless—so you can carry it to any room, porch or shady spot on the lawn. It is more powerful than the old style console types, yet measures only 12¾ inches wide, 9¼ inches high, 6¼ thick and when on its stand its overall height is less than 21½ inches.

* * *

Like all transistor portables, it works on batteries which cost about $3 for two years' use. Its 9-inch ovel speaker is larger than that in the average television set.

Soft Subflooring Best When Laid Over Joists

When the finish flooring is laid over joists, the subflooring should be of softwood, surfaced one or both sides, 25/32" thick, not 8" wide, well seasoned (preferably kiln-dried), as green or wet boards are sure to shrink and open cracks between finish flooring strips. Subfloor boards should be laid diagonally, with at least two 10d nails at each joist and each board end. Firmness of top floor depends on this.

PINE BUNK BEDS — Made of sculptured pine, these bunk beds will delight any boy. If there are two young men in the family, this bed will fill the bill without using limited bedroom space. Or, if there is only one boy, he will be quickly making out a list of friends to invite as overnight guests. Note the two side guards on the top bed — a wonderful safety feature.

The 27,000 Americans killed in home accidents in 1955 was about twice the number killed in work accidents.

Turning of House Aids Air Conditioning

Orientation — the turning of a house to shelter major window areas from hot summer sun—is taking on greater importance with the spreading popularity of air conditioning.

Sometimes you can accomplish a lot by reversing a plan. Hold a clipping of a plan, or a tracing of it, against a window pane and look through the reverse side to see if you like the layout better in reverse.

In the experimental air conditioned village at Austin, Texas, it was found that as much as a ton of cooling capacity might have been saved by slightly turning some of the houses on their plots.

Color Schemes Ideal for Carpet Durability

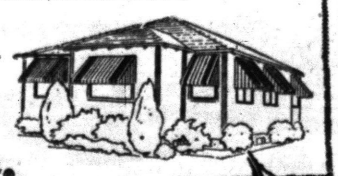

Good news about carpet is the wide color range in all fibers, and greater weaving dexterity to achieve new designs. The growing popularity of pattern in carpet, whether through colorful combinations or ingenious one-toned textures, has reason beyond pure decoration.

* * *

A broken surface, to the touch or the eye, is downright practical for everyday living. Footprints don't show, nor do cracker crumbs at a party, nor the fine dust that seems to settle on slick surfaces right after cleaning. Carpet stays looking better longer.

* * *

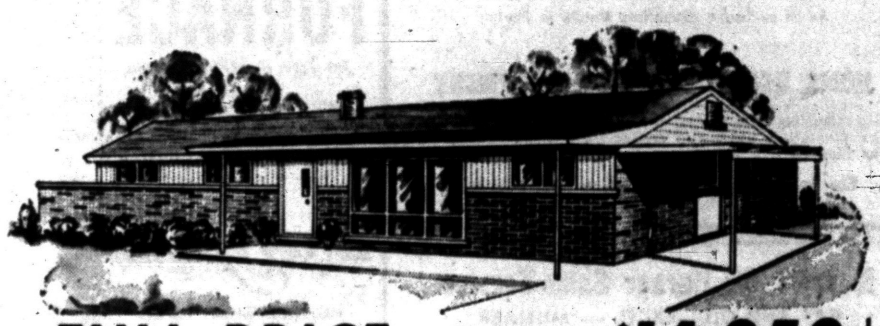

The natural resilience of carpet fiber tends to keep dirt on the surface, where a vacuum or carpet sweeper can remove it easily. Naturally, regular care is required to remove top-soil before it works down, but in between cleaning times, a patterned or textured carpet will keep the need for housekeeping a secret.

Wright Chair Made of Linen

NEW YORK (INS) — More and more chairs are being booby-trapped these days so that if you push the proper place you find yourself with head back and feet up.

These reclining chairs have made great strides in design since the early ones which were easy on the body but tough on the eyes.

Top name designers like Russell Wright have contributed their know-how to the field. The Russell Wright lounger looks like an ordinary, contemporary-styled wing back chair when closed.

The tight back has flaring sides, and the arms flare slightly to tie in with the back treatment. Legs are tall, slim, angled and tapered, in hardwood, either blond or ebony finish, and are tipped in brass for the metallic accent so popular these days.

COST $119 - $129

The chair is offered with a tightly woven tweed-patterned upholstered in any one of six colors—black and white, charcoal, red, green, toast or turquoise — in such easily wipeable fabrics as nylon and duran. It is also available with linen upholstery.

* * *

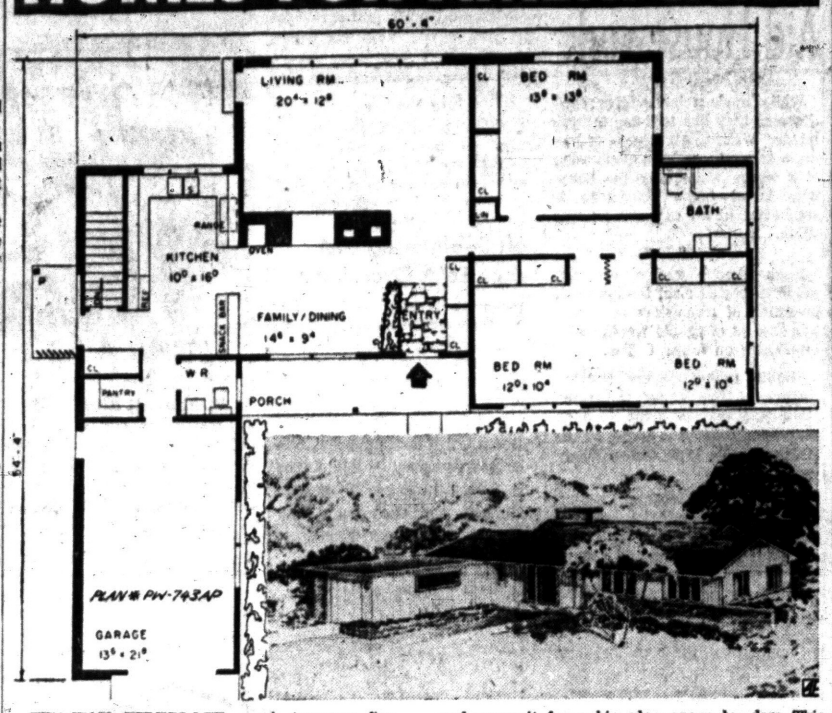

Prices range from $129 for the nylon version to $119 for the other two fabrics. The chair, when open, slants back in both the seat and back, and the front of the chair opens up into a footrest.

Wood Is Versatile

One of the reasons for the growing popularity of wood windows is that they can be put together at the building site to fit any opening for which there is not a ready-made size. In many contemporary homes, floor-to-ceiling, cathedral windows are the focal point of attention and creat a feeling of luxury and spaciousness.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

TWO-WAY FIREPLACE — A two-way fireplace, serving both the living and family-dining room, is a special feature of this plan. Another unusual idea is a 24-foot children's room. A folding partition divides it into two rooms at night and opens it for a big play space by day. This is plan PW-743AP by Palmquist and Wright, architects, 16310 Grand River, Detroit 27, Michigan. The house covers 1580 square feet without garage and porches.

Waxed Floors Cause Mishaps

Homemakers should not overwax their floors. Overwaxed, slippery floors increase the chance of accidental falls, which now rank as the leading cause of home fatalities and serious injuries, says the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

* * *

Accidents in the home disable 5,000,00 Americans yearly, according to the most recent figures. Family bills for medical attention, nurses, prescriptions and loss of time from work total more than $1,000,000,000 annually, without including hospital expenses and incidental costs.

A floor should be waxed only after it has been thoroughly cleaned of all old wax and is dry. A liquid water base wax that is self-polishing is less likely to be slippery.

Resilient title floors have a gleaming surface sheen that is slip-proof and lasting, despite the hardest wear. An occasional light mopping with mild soap suds, followed by a clean water rinse, maintains the shine indefinitely, and waxing is needed only two or three times a year.

MEN HAVE MORE FALLS

Fatal accidents in and about the home are considerably more frequent among men than among women from 15 years through 64 years, even though the men are generally not around the house a large part of the day.

During the five years from 1950 through 1954, the home accident rate among men averaged from one and three-quarters to more than twice that for women.

The higher mortality among men from accidental falls cannot be explained by the recent growth of do-it-yourself and fix-it-yourself activites.

These were a minor item in the excess mortality among men caused by accidental falls in and about the home, and 'were a smaller factor than falls on stairs and steps.

* * *

The U. S. Bureau of Standards has made extensive tests to determine the safest type of flooring for use in American homes. These tests definitely proved that asphalt tile is safer to walk on than any other smooth-surfaced resilient material, and possesses the most anti-slip factors of any flooring material installed in homes.

Mahogany Has Beauty

Distinctive beauty is found in even the plainest mahogany grain pattern. One well-known figure type goes by the name "cathedral" because of its resemblance to the cathedral spires on gothic architecture. Variations of the inverted V-shaped design include both wide and narrow "heart" designs.

New Colored Pitcher

An anodized aluminumware one-quart pitcher by Basca Manufacturing comes in three colors. To go with it come a cream and sugar, a spoon rest and a butter dish.

Evaluation of U.S. Homes Set at Around $250 Billion

The cash value of all American homes, numbering approximately 48 millions, has been estimated at a total around $250 billion. Yet one in every ten residential units in the United States is sub-standard housing. Four out of every ten need repairs and improvement, and the balance require regular maintenance to keep their full value, says the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Probably there isn't a home in the country that doesn't require some kind of spring repairs, inside and outside. Sharp temperature changes and seasonal storms loosen roof shingles, crack mortar, make paint dingy, and cause other minor flaws in the outer shell of the structure. None of these is serious if given prompt attention.

Inside the house, the daily wear and tear of family living also have taken a toll. Walls and woodwork are soiled by winter grime and children's fingers, upholstery and draperies need cleaning or replacing, and floor coverings need repairs or renewal.

Spring is the season of the year when every home owner should make a thorough inspection and check-up of his house, from cellar to attic, and from foundation walls to chimneys. Small repairs can be made by the owner himself, larger ones may require professional help.

Check walls and ceilings for any evidence of dampness or leakage. Inspect all visible plumbing pipes for signs of moisture that indicate cracks or faulty joints. Have the heating plant given a thorough cleaning and check-up.

An inexpensive level will show if sagging sills and floors need bracing. Check all floor beams to insure their soundness. If strip or parquet flooring is loose, renail thoroughly to make it solid and smooth.

Then install resilient tile flooring, which will give lasting beauty, durability and underfoot ease to your home. Asphalt tile increases the family's protection against fir and flood. The asbestos fibers do not support flames, and water cannot harm the smooth surface and rich color of these tiles.

Select new wallpaper or paint that harmonizes with the crisp colors of the asphalt tile, and give your home interior an entirely fresh appearance for spring and summer. If the outside hasn't been painted within three years, new paint will work wonders there, too.

An attractive home with modern color treatment is always worth more than a drab house, even if the dingy structure is just as sound structurally, as the more colorful home.

New Trap Door Is Push-Button Operated Device

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (INS)—The trap door has been re-introduced in modern homes but it doesn't need to be shoved or lifted open—it operates by push button.

The mechanized trap doors, bigger than conventional versions, lead to basement stairways in six new houses built for the 1956 Milwaukee Home Show.

The doors are 40 feet square and have been installed in a room that can serve as an all-purpose area or as a dining area in wood-pandeled house.

The hinged floor has been covered with carefully matched carpeting or linoleum to be barely noticeable when shut.

Got Tree Trouble?

Too many trees in the yard may make a desirable home grounds appear gloomy, claims J. T. Cox, landscape architect at M.S.U. Removal of some trees directly in front of the home and those that are mis-shapen may improve the appearance.

London constables got a raise and now start at salaries of $1,330 a year.

As an inflation curb, Australia will boost auto sales taxes to 30 per cent.

First Step—the Primer

When new wood is to be painted, a primer is applied first. Next, all cracks or nail-head indentions are filled with spackling material (indoors) or putty (outdoors). The filler is carefully smoothed and allowed to dry before brushing or the finishing coats.

POLYETHYLENE — Mother's little helper can lift this big laundry basket — because it's made of lightweight polyethylene.

Old Polyethylene Invades Modern Home in Guises

Polyethylene, the wartime "baby" of plastics, is rapidly finding many uses in the home. Because it is ordorless, tasteless, unaffected by foods, practically unbreakable, and can be colored in rainbow hues, it is the ideal material for a great variety of housewares.

* * *

In the kitchen, polyethylene is used for mixing bowls, dishpans, colanders, canister sets, bread boxes, step-on disposal cans, salt and pepper shakers, juice containers, refrigerator food storage boxes and ice cube trays.

In the nursery, it is used for baby baths, diaper containers, feeding bottles, as children's bowls and dishes—and, what delights all mothers, as unbreakable toys.

In the living room or recreation area, it serves as ice buckets, pitchers and tumblers that do not "sweat" or drip and chill the hand. In the bath and dressing room, there are polyethylene squeeze bottles, cosmetic jars, massage and shampoo brushes.

Even in the garden, polyethylene helps. Coated to paper it is used as a packing for rose bushes and other plants to hold in moisture during shipment. Do-it-your-self sprinkler systems using polyethylene pipe assure green lawns and flowering shrubs during dry seasons.

Tenite polyethylene, extruded into film, is widely used in the packaging of fruits, vegetables and soft goods. On the farm, it serves as a lining for irrigation ditches and, made into water-proof envelopes, as temporary silos.

In building construction, too, it is used as permanent moisture barriers and, in highway construction, polyethylene film slows down the curing rate of concrete and produces harder surfaces. This versatile plastic is finding more different uses, and faster, than any other plastic.

New Apartments Feature Lobbies

Luxury Buildings Have Community Recreation Areas Built-In

NEW YORK (INS)—New trends in homes appear every so often, ranging from the first ranch-style house through split level homes and similar architectural innovations.

* * *

But today there's something new in apartment houses, too.

Building contractor and apartment house owner Fred Trump says that lobbies, "particularly in luxury type apartment houses," are becoming community rooms.

As an example he points to his own apartment development on Long Island.

LINED WITH COUCHES

The lobby is large and was designed by Morris Lapidus, the fellow responsible for some of the newest and most luxurious Miami Beach hotels.

It is lined with couches, chairs and tables arranged in groupings in case some of the neighbors want to drop downstairs for a chat. It's also a good place for a teenager to say good night to her date.

One wall, overlooking the grounds, is all picture window and has a trough of green plants running its length. Swinging from the ceiling by brass chains are gilded cages with lovebirds, cockatoos and other interesting, singing birds. Colors include greys, mauve and blues ranging from deep to pale tones.

Hard Up for Space?

"Hard up" for storage space in your home? An easy and practical way for solving the difficulty might be to build a shallow closet in a corner or two of rooms where a little space is available. This is easily accomplished with one or another of the various wallboards. Painting or papering to match the walls will make the closet seem simply a structural part of the room.

Plastic Wood Prevents Sap From Ruining Paint

Before painting over a knot, be sure to fill any cavities with plastic wood or wood putty and then apply a sealer to the area to prevent the sap in the knot from staining the new coating. This sealer may be a product made especially for the purpose—or shellac.

When you use shellac, remember that you usually need alcohol to "cut" or thin it. The label on the can will let you know the proportions to use.

Plastic wall coverings may be installed over old walls to cover gouges and nicks. The coverings are resistant to moisture, grease, heat, wear and marring, and need only wiping with a sudsy cloth or sponge to keep clean.

Chemical Treatment on Wood Adds Long Life

Another tribute to the resiliency and long life of wood is made by S. R. Hursh, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Hursh notes that all railroad ties made from material other than wood either corrode, crack, weigh too much or cost too much.

Now with chemical treatment for the wood ties, they last twice as long and no other type of crosstie has been used on the Pennsylvania since 1942. Wood ties, treated and untreated, have been used exclusively on this system since 1928.

Use of Wood in Schools Can Effect Economies

Recent cost studies indicate wood construction can bring important economies in new school building. Figures released by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association show other types of construction cost up to 241 per cent more than wood construction for the principal parts of a school building.

Even more important, properly designed and planned one-story wood schools are safer for children than the best fireproofed three-story school, the lumbermen report.

Wonderful Plastic Pail

A plastic pail is a wonder aid for jobs you do with hot suds. It's flexible enough to be fitted under the hot water faucet even in a shallow sink. That way, you can put some soap or detergent in the pail and let it fill with hot water, creating dirt-chasing suds automatically.

DIFFERENT TYPE OF SAW — This hacksaw attachment fits any power drill of ¼ inch or larger capacity, saws metal, plastics, plaster or wood. Known as the Thor "Sabersaw," it comes in a handy kit that includes blade, chuck plate, adaptors.

Sabersaw Appeals to Men Who Have Home Shop

There's a new and different type of saw now on the market that should appeal to home handymen, particularly the more advanced type who already have the usual power tools in their workshops.

It's a "Sabersaw," a versatile attachment that fits any power drill of ¼" or larger capacity. It cuts wood, plaster and composition board, and doubles in brass by cutting metals, pipes and plastics.

Weighing just over three pounds, the attachemtn is 7¼" long and less than three inches at its widest point. It fits comfortably in the hand. Gear-less, it operates on a ball-bearing reciprocator that whips the blade back and forth. Blades are easily changed by loosening two set screws.

To assure accurate cutting there are a rifle-sight pointer and a rest rocker for steadying the tool when it is in motion. The attachment is housed in a durable, die-cast alloy shell. It can be used with all drills developing 1000 to 2500 rpm, with the help of the adaptor.

The Sabersaw, starts its own hole in wood, plaster or composition board and can be used effectively for keyhole cutting, scroll cutting or as an all-purpose saw. A heavy duty blade is required for metal work, and a starting hole must first be drilled.

Equipment included in the complete kit are an all-purpose blade, a chuck plate, a ¼" chuck adaptor and a ½" spindle adaptor. Also available are special keyhole blades, general work blades up to five inches long, special hacksaw blades for stainless steel and other metals, and multi-sized wood cutting blades.

Considering the scores of jobs around house, garage or barn where a portable saw saves time and steps, as well as energy, a unit like this offers more versatility than the ordinary power saw. Besides working in a wide variety of mediums, it serves for scroll and other precision tasks usually reserved for a specialized tool.

Another advantage is that for close-quarters work, the chuck can can be removed from the drill and the Sabersaw screwed directly on the drill sprindle.

Wood Is Beneficial for Hospital Patients

Some of the wildest superstitions often have some basis in fact. In certain parts of Africa, for instance, the natives believe that a victim of illness can be cured by being passed through the trunk of a tree.

The trunk is split down the middle and pried open to form an archway. The arch functions as a passage to good health and as a barrier to the "evil spirits" associated with sickness.

Modern doctors and psychologists recognize the therapeutic values of wood but they're more realistic about it than the African natives. Wood paneling is installed in hospitals because the different texture, grain and color patterns create a cheerful, friendly atmosphere to help speed recovery. Also because wood is a natural and familiar material, it gives patients a feeling of security.

All these values are in addition to wood's practical advantages—low maintenance, exceptional durability and adaptability to any style of architecture.

Chair Is Welded

Lightweight folding seats, four to a set, are a big convenience for use at spectator sports and when standing in line. The canvas is green, double-stitched. The frame is welded tubular steel with a weather-resistant, aluminized-backed enamel finish.

There are almost no tides in the Mediterranean.

Walk Around New Furniture

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (INS) — Housewives who plan to buy a new piece of furniture this spring can take a profitable hint from oldtime horse traders who walked around the "critter" they were of a mind to buy.

* * *

Miss Vanis Deeter, Purdue University specialist, says:

"Homemakers should walk around the piece of furniture to notice its appearance from all angles."

Main reason for the backward look at a prospective new addition or replacement to the family furniture is the change in placement during recent years.

A sofa, pair of chairs, bookshelf or desk is just as apt to be out in the middle of today's wide open home spaces, as against a wall.

* * *

Manufacturers of good furniture already have taken care of this trend by giving more attention to the back of their products as to the front and sides. The prospective buyer needs to assure herself that the new furniture she buys can pass the back test.

The premiere in Austria of Robert Anderson's Broadway hit, "Tea and Sympathy," resulted in a highly successful German-language performance, Vienna reports.

Fiberglas Used as Wallpaper

Attention, home economists: forget all about cooking and baking and cleaning house and learn how to work with fiberglas.

* * *

It seems that you can hardly get through a day's living without finding out what new thing this material and its plastic brethren can do.

For example:

In Miami Beach, Fla., it is made for the first time as a wall covering. It appears in a textured finish, a striated finish or in a ratine variation—whatever that is.

And its makers say it can be cleaned and kept lovely with no effort at all. The fibers of glass are combined with vinyl plastic.

Not only are the wall coverings beautiful and dirt resistant, but they are impervious to spilled foods—a terrible threat to most walls.

WHAT'S NEWS?

Wall coverings are only one of the resounding alarums in the decorating industry. An outfit in New Jersey has come up with a fiberglas-and-polyester plastic window box.

What makes this news?

Well, you know what an awful problem you've been having with soil acids attacking your old window box. Seems as though fiberglas is impervious to soil acids.

Not only that, but the new window box is also resistant to pollen erosion—a wearing away of the box by pollen falling on it (you know, the way a river can eat away a mountain of rock).

The window boxes are light — about three pounds—and can be attached to the house with metal brackets and screws.

* * *

Long after your house disintegrates under the elements, the window box and wall coverings will still be standing—striated, haughty and impervious.

Paint Won't Do It?

Don't expect paint to cover imperfections in your patching job; be sure the repaired spot has been sanded thoroughly with fine-grained paper to remove all roughness.

GI Loans Near Deadline Date

WASHINGTON—Joseph B. Haverstick, President of the National Association of Home Builders, today warned World War II veterans that time is rapidly running out on their rights to buy a home under the GI home loan guarantee program.

* * *

"The unpleasant fact must be faced that there is a strong indication that the Congress may not extend this patriotic program beyond its expiration date of July 25, 1957," Haverstick said. "If the three-year extension recommended by NAHB and the major veterans groups is denied, the program for all practical purposes will terminate some time this fall."

The Dayton, Ohio builder pointed out builders will have to quit starting GI houses well in advance of the actual termination date because of the long period of time involved in planning, financing, building and actually giving possession of a house to its new owner.

"Builders in the northern sections of the country in particular may not be able to start projects of GI houses after November, or thereabouts, with any reasonable expectation of getting finished and ready for the VA guaranties before the July 25 cut-off date," Haverstick said.

* * *

Under the terms of the GI home loan program, administered by the Veterans Administration, the Federal Government guarantees up to $7,500 of the purchase price of a house. Equally important, the veteran pays only 4½ per cent interest. This compares with 4½ per cent plus a one-half of one per cent insurance charge under the FHA program and the conventional interest rate which seldom, if ever, is under 5 per cent and more often than not is more.

Hardwood May Be Laid on Concrete Slabbing

Installing hardwood flooring over concrete slabs is gaining in popularity. If the concrete is laid on grade, an underfill of cinder or washed gravel is generally essential. To bar out ground moisture, waterproofing membrane should be used—usually two layers of 15-lb. asphalt felt. Butt the joints of both layers tightly and stagger all joints. Mop layers with hot asphalt pitch and carry membrane at least 6" up walls behind baseboard.

Sleepers or screeds should be treated with preservative to retard deterioration. Good results may be had if sleepers or screeds are laid in mastic. Air circulation under finish floor is helpful, especially if there is no basement under the house.

TREAT BEFORE PAINTING — Preparatory to house painting, examine and treat the danger zones which can soon ruin a paint job if neglected.

Begin Preparatory Work Before Starting Paint Job

Whether you plan to paint your house yourself or have a contractor do it, you'll save labor and folding green by carefully doing the preparatory work on your own.

Examine the exterior of your home and make sure it is in condition to receive new paint. Pay particular attention to the following "danger zones":

Window sills, porches, steps — Remove loose paint by scraping, wirebrushing and sandpapering. Replace water-logged or damaged wood with new boards. Cover bare wood with house-paint primer, and let dry before applying finish coat.

All joints, pillars—Where there are loose or open joints, or wide breaks in the paint film, apply primer and fill with calking compound when dry. When calking has set paint it with primer and follow with house paint.

Siding—Look for flaked, chipped, cracked or blistered paint and loose boards. Remove loose paint and smooth the rough edges of sound paint with sandpaper before spot-priming bare wood and repainting.

Renail all loose boards with single eight-penny siding or casing nails at each stud crossing. Set the nail heads below surface of siding. Putty over nail heads, then spot-prime the putty.

DEEP CRACKS

Deep cracking or alligatoring of the old paint film indicates paint has been applied excessively thick. If this condition is limited to a few relatively small areas you can remove the old finish before repainting. If the whole house is affected you would be better off leaving paint removal up to a paint contractor.

Possibly the easiest safe method for paint removal calls for one of the new liquid removers. Some types are heavy-bodied and will adhere to vertical surfaces while their chemical action loosens paint.

Gutters and down-spouts — Clean out leaves and brush out dirt with a whisk broom. Use steel wool to get rid of all traces of rust and coat the spots of brightened metal with rust-inhibiting primer. Paint the inside of gutters with tinner's red and paint the outside to match the siding.

Windows—Cracked or loose putty allows moisture to enter the pores of wood sash, where it may eventually cause rot or ruin the paint film on the sash. Clean out loose putty, daub linseed oil on the bare wood, and then re-putty.

Masonry — Look for loose and crumbling mortar, which should be cleaned out and replaced. Patch cracks and crevices with mortar, undercutting or dovetailing them first with hammer and chisel. If new mortar is to be painted, neutralize it with a wash coat of two pounds of zinc sulphate crystals dissolved in a gallon of water.

* * *

Stains — Rust stains from nailheads and gutters are common. So are stains from knots in lumber. Unless both types of stain are removed they soon penetrate a new paint film.

Remove rust from nailheads with steel wool and apply rust-inhibiting primer.

Inexpensive Yard Shed Houses Garden Tools

Ever think about building a backyard shed to house your garden tools, lawnmower and other outdoor implements? You can put up an attractive shed with little effort and expense by using two-by-four lumber for the framing and economy-grade boards and battens for the siding.

* * *

To give the shed a special rustic charm, you can use a pigmented stain or leave the boards unpainted for a weathered look.

Don't apply varnish in a room where anyone will be walking around for a few hours, since even the slightest movement of dust will settle on the wet finish.

Fatigue Can Cause Many Costly Errors

Ever get the feeling that the clock is watching you?

If in addition you imagine a mocking smile on its face, then it's clear that you've let the minutes get the upper hand. For the benefit of such victims we'd like to tick off a few suggestions.

* * *

As a start in reclaiming wasted minutes, budget the hours by matching available time with things that must be done. Try to wedge an occasional rest period between chores. Even a brief break can help. Mistakes caused by fatigue often necessitates repeating a task—thus wasting the very time you're trying to save.

* * *

During the morning rush hour help the entire family save time lost in sleepy fumbling among toilet articles by assigning each member his own shelf. Dentifrice and other items used by everyone everyday rate front positions. Push things used rarely to the rear. If bathroom floor and walls are surfaced with a waterproof, easily-cleaned material like ceramic tile, more minutes are yours.

* * *

Priorities also can help hold the clock at bay in the kitchen. Instead of tucking breakfast ingredients like coffee away on a shelf opposite the sink, keep it near the coffeemaker, which in turn should flank the sink for fast filling.

* * *

Likewise store dishwashing and cleaning essentials within easy reach rather than in a remote closet.

Don't use cold varnish; if necessary, warm it by placing the can in a pan of hot water, but not by placing it over a flame.

Ancients Slept Hard on Torture Machine

Anybody actually wanting to can make himself extremely uncomfortable these days. For instance, if you are anthropologically inclined, you might take a notion that you'd like to sleep on the virtual "torture-instruments" popular—or at least endured—2,000 years ago.

In that case, instead of a pillow you'd fix your neck into a wooden headrest rising to a height of several inches. You might be uncomfortable, but you'd be in no danger of actually dashing your brains out unless you tried to turn over. And for a mattress you might like one of the "pads" filled with boughs from trees, straw, or what-have-you, or maybe just boards covered with silk cloth . . . the ancients used them too.

Except for a few colorful characters, however, most Americans now go in for luxurious comfort and health, especially as the best in sleep equipment is obtainable these days at moderate cost. That being the case, you might take a look at the mattress and its comfort features.

Press House of the Week Highlights All Conveniences in a Basic Floor Plan

A house of proved popularity, Design A-60 for The House of the Week, is an expanded version of one of the most widely built homes planned by Samuel Paul, nationally known architect.

* * *

The addition of a family room enclosed in glass jalousies, two spacious bedrooms upstairs and a third bathroom make this basic three-bedroom ranch house a complete and luxurious home for a large family.

It's the kind of a house you can build in stages. The upper floor can be left unfinished for future expansion and even the family room can be added as an extra embellishment. Such flexibility fits this plan to a limited present budget without cramping a growing family.

The basic house has a floor area of 1,695 square feet. The family room adds 280 square feet. This gives you an area of 1,975 square feet without the two-car garage, which figures lower in estimating your building costs. The expansion attic gives you space for an additional 1,200 square feet of floor area.

ROOM LAYOUT

The room layout of this house combines the gracious efficiency of the conventional center hall scheme with the airy open plan of the modern ranch house. All rooms are readily accessible from a good sized foyer.

As you enter the front door, a smartly modern version of the traditional open staircase rises before you. At the right, beyond an indoor flower box and vine trellis, is a 23-foot living room with a wide log burning fireplace on a raised hearth. From the foyer you can look through the dining room and sliding doors to the jalousie enclosed family room.

At your left from the front entrance is a multi-purpose room with accordian type folding doors to merge it with the foyer and living room. This room makes a fine television den, library, study, or studio-bedroom.

CONVENIENCE PLUS

Convenience distinguishes this plan. Take a pencil and trace your path from the front door to any room. The main bathroom with a double lavatory-vanity counter is directly at the end of the hall that leads from the foyer.

This is convenient for use as a powder room for guests. The master bedroom on the quiet garden side of the house has its own private bathroom with a glass-enclosed shower stall. All closets are planned for sliding doors to save room space.

Kitchen and dinette form one big room, entered from the front hall as well as from the garden terrace and the dining room. The most efficient kitchen layout the U-shaped arrangement — is used. Double electric sink and dish washer are under a garden window overlapping to provide weather-tightness.

They open awning-wise, so when slightly opened they give you ventilation in a drawing rain without worry abut water coming into the room. When fully opened, they give you virtually unobstructed air space.

with refrigerator at one side and top burners at the other. By placing the top burners on a peninsula of counter space, you have them handy to the dinette for serving directly from the frying pan.

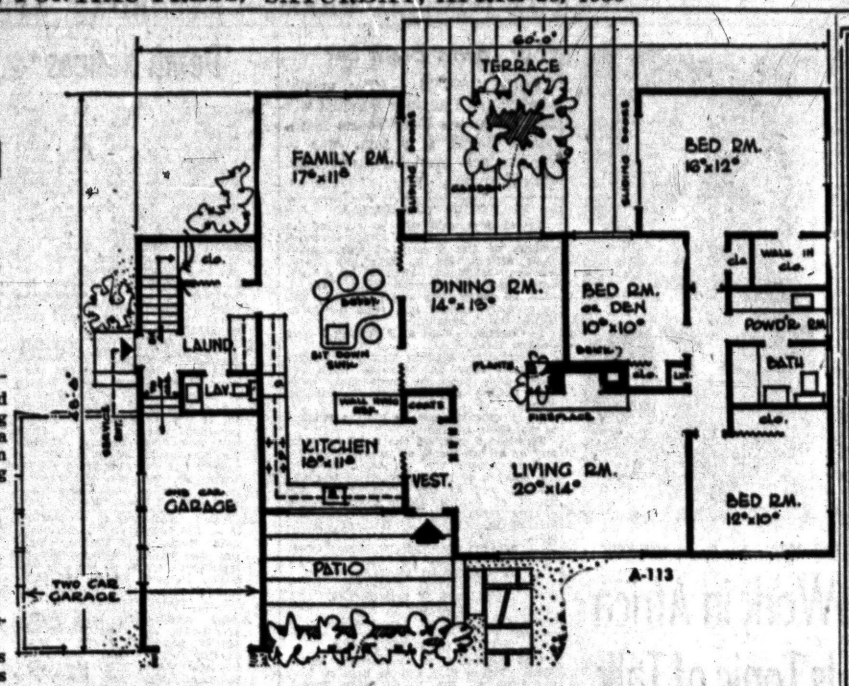

The more seldom-used oven is built in the wall next to the fireplace chimney, where it can be at waist height and next to a handy counter.

There's even space for a telephone desk in the dinette.

A lot of thought and possibilities have been incorporated in this plan. The covered front porch provides a weather-protected passage to and from the garage. If you wanted to, you could cut a door from the garage into the family room, too.

* * *

And if you build this house with a basement, which provides enormous space for a recreation room, the basement stairs are smartly located midway between front and back doors. An outside cellar entrance with a weather-tight steel hatchway would provide access for garden storage, lawn furniture and other outdoor accessories.

ELECTRIC KITCHEN — The kitchen is the talking feature of this plan. With the family room, it occupies a space about 11x35 feet. There are two sinks, one a sit-down sink at the breakfast bar. The three bedrooms in the plan are away from the family room. One may be used as a den or a library. Note the powder room in connection with the bath.

Wall to Wall Carpet Solves Floor Problem

If you are doing a renovation job in your home this spring, which necessitates refinishing of the floors, consider installing wall-to-wall carpeting instead.

It creates an impression of spaciousness, it deadens sound and it is easy to take care of. If your upholstery and hangings are in bright, vivid colors, a subdued tone in a carpet would be more harmonious.

Glass Jalousies End Rain Water Worries

GLASS JALOUSIES, as shown in the family room of Design A-60, are one of the most glamorous and useful forms of modern fenestration. These contrivances consist of 4-inch slats of beveled plate glass, opening and closing at a turn of a crank and

Fences Beautify Family Garden; Keep Out Pests

Fences can be more than an obstruction to four- and two-footed neighborhood marauders, says Robert Hale Ellis Jr., prominent landscape architect.

* * *

With outdoor living dominating the family living habits more and more, ellis suggests there are inexpensive ways to make this new mode of life even more enjoyable.

Fences, designed to dress up the family yard, can give character to the architectural lines of the house, he says, as well as beauty and seclusion.

* * *

Texture, so important in modern design and decorating, is just as easy to develop for the outdoor living area, Ellis points out. Rough fir or red cedar has texture, coloring and characteristics which blend well with the natural setting.

* * *

These inexpensive woods can be obtained in lower grades and can be allowed to weather or can be stained to add life and character.

* * *

Fences come in many patterns and styling, with some of the most popular the basketweave, estate-type solid boards, and off-set board to permit cooling breezes.

The butts of wood shingles used for siding are easier to paint while the shingles are in their bundles than when they are on the house.

TREASURED ISLAND — Island installations are being used in many of today's larger steel kitchens where it is desirable to cut down steps between work centers. Centrally located, this handy snack bar island contains a convenient steel storage cabinet for china — for snacks or at mealtime. The one piece counter, extending at right angles from the cabinet, not only serves as a dining spot but provides a nearby landing place for foods or dishes from oven.

Lawnmower Sharp?

Q—How should cutting blades o fa reel-type lawnmower be adjusted in relation to the knife, or cutter bar?

A—The blades should not scrape across the full surface of the knife's cutting edge, but should barely touch it. Test the setting by placing a sheet of newspaper on the knife and revolve the reel by hand. If the paper is cleanly cut, the adjustment is correct.

The church celebrated Easter according to the Julian Calendar which was used by the church fathers in Turkey in 325 A.D., at which time it was decided to celebrate Easter on the first Sunday after the first full moon after the day of the equinox.

Bedroom Thief Flees in Burglary Attempt

The "Bedroom Burglar" was back on the prowl again last night, Pontiac police say, and this time the sneakthief, who snatches billfolds from bedrooms while occupants sleep, was spotted by one of his victims.

But Mr. and Mrs. George Ewing caught only a glimpse as the thief shined his flashlight around in their bedroom at 510 S. Paddock St., Det. Raymond Meggitt added.

Ewing chased the burglar out the front door. Apparently he had entered the dwelling through an unlocked rear door, but took nothing, Meggitt said.

At 315 Central St. he reportedly stole a woman's handbag containing 50 cents, before the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Welch, awoke and scared him off.

He also is believed to have stolen a wallet containing $16 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Tartar, of 767 Portland St., last night.

Work in Africa Is Topic of Talk

Missionaries Report on Teaching Tribe of Habbes in Interior

Rev. F. J McKinney, missionary to French West Africa, will be guest speaker in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 178 Green St. Sunday in all the services.

Mrs. McKinney will address the Branch Sunday School at 230 N. Cass Lake Rd. at 9:30 a.m.

Recently returned from Africa, the McKinneys will make their home in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio for a year. They will then return to the interior of Africa to work with the Habbe Tribe of Cliff Dwellers about 250 miles south of Timbuktu.

When the McKinneys went into the interior alone with their eight-month-old daughter, the Habbes were a wild and cannibalistic tribe. For 17 years they lived in a mud house with thatched roof. There was no civilization. No one had ever heard of Christ.

When they left Africa recently, there were thousands of Christians and 40 churches which are recognized by the government, a dispensary with a full time nurse, three bungalows, teachers and workers with the language.

The language had to be put in writing form through the use of international Phonetics. The Rev. and Mrs. McKinney are planning to return to Africa.

Prosecutor Questions Survivor of Collision

Any possibility of legal action in the auto collision death of four Waterford Township youths Wednesday night was all but ruled out by Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem yesterday.

Ziem questioned the sole survivor of the accident, Wayne Cunningham, 23, of 280 N. Saginaw St., who stated he was asleep when the car rammed a tree on Pontiac Lake road.

The hospitalized youth admitted that the five had been drinking and earlier in the evening had had an argument with another driver and had smashed the windows in his car because he reportedly came "too close" while passing.

The prosecutor had considered legal action when it was thought that one of the victims, who reportedly purchased beer and liquor for the boys, was a minor. Police found out later that he was 24.

Young Couples Held on Stolen Car Charge

Two young couples running away from Pontiac are reportedly held by authorities in Kingman, Ariz., Pontiac police said, after their allegedly stolen car crashed there yesterday.

• • •

None of the occupants was reported injured, Det. Charles Hewitt said. The youngsters, all 16, reportedly were on the way to California to get married, he said.

The car, a 1956 sedan, was reported stolen Monday night from a dealer's lot at 63 Mt. Clemens St. youngsters' disappearance Tuesda

Federal agents have been advised since the stolen car was taken over the Michigan State line, Hewitt added.

Injures Lip in Crash

William H. Young, 31, of Walled Lake, suffered a lacerated lip when his car went off the highway Friday at 9:45 p.m. on Commerce Rd., Commerce Township. He was treated and released by Pontiac General Hospital.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son and brother Charles E. Williams, Jr. who passed away 4 years ago April 29, 1952. God called him home, it was his will, But in our hearts we love him still, His memory is as dear today, As in the hour he passed away. We often sit and and think of him, When we are all alone. For memory is the only thing that grief can call its own. Sadly missed by mother, father and sister.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY husband, Loyal Wertz, who passed away April 29, 1954.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
Sadly missed by his wife, Myrtle Wertz.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF EMMA Deacon, who passed away April 29, 1954. Sadly missed by her children.
As much today as
On the day she passed away.

Jack Benny Plays Violin With Symphony Tonight

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Comedian Jack Benny visited his favorite spot yesterday on a "look, but don't take" basis.

* * *

Benny will appear as guest violinist with the Oklahoma City Symphony Orchestra tonight in a benefit performance. On a tour of the Liberty National Bank, Benny was taken into the bank's innermost vaults.

The comedian, who has earned a great deal of fame by poking fun at his so-called stinginess, said he just wanted to "see all that money."

Former Clerk Arraigned on Embezzlement Charge

Charged with embezzlement of $100 in the sale of groceries, a former employe of a market at 888 Orchard Lake Ave. was freed under $500 bond yesterday.

Donald Jewell, 29, of 4401 Baywood Dr. demanded examination on the charge at arraignment before Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum, who scheduled the examination for May 2.

Pontiac police said the warrant for Jewell's arrest was sought by Dominic Franklin, of Madison Heights, the store owner.

Communists Drop the Ax on Party Chief

DENVER (AP) — The Communist party has expelled Arthur Bary, 44, its dapper onetime organizer in the Rocky Mountain region.

The expulsion was announced yesterday by the party's state committee through an item in the Daily Worker, party organ.

* * *

Bary was convicted in U.S. District Court last May of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Sentenced to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, Bary now is free on $30,000 bond pending an appeal. He reportedly is living in San Francisco.

* * *

The committee recalled that Bary was convicted here of shoplifting two months after he and six others were found guilty of Smith Act charges. It said he was expelled "in accordance with the party's constitution for conduct or action detrimental to the working class and the nation, as well as the interests of the party."

Utah Republicans Pick Delegates to Convention

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Utah Republicans yesterday elected an unpledged delegation to the GOP National Convention in San Francisco Aug. 20.

Although not pledged, the 14 delegates and 14 alternates are expected to favor President Eisenhower.

Forest Fires Ruin New Mexico Timber

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — A sprawling fire that consumed about 8,000 acres of prime New Mexico timberland seemed almost in check today after hard work and diminishing winds stopped it just outside a tiny mountain town.

* * *

The fire continued to rage down a valley into the Lincoln National Forest, but a crew of more than 1,000 men stopped it outside the fighters' base camp and about a quarter mile from the hamlet of Sacramento.

Except for timber and an abandoned barn, there has been no property damage and no injuries. Three fire fighters were feared trapped for a time but worked themselves free.

About 300 people have been threatened by the fire, which started Thursday in the thickly wooded mountains about 40 miles east of here.

Seven Becomes Two in California Wedding

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Bandleader Artie Shaw's divorced seventh wife is now the second wife of film executive Robert Blumofe.

* * *

Actress Doris Dowling, 32, and Blumofe, 46, a vice president of United Artists Corp., were wed yesterday and will honeymoon in New York. He formerly was married to actress Helen Walker.
