For a Successful Life

Kresge Suggests 12 Essentials

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor,
The Pontiac Press

Stanley S. Kresge, president of the Kresge Foundation and active layman of Metropolitan Methodist Church, Detroit was the speaker. He is also vice chairman of the S. S. Kresge Co.

The breakfast meeting opened with prayer by City Commissioner T. Warren Fowler.

Dr. Milton H. Bank, minister of Central Methodist Church and chairman of the Christian Emphasis Committee, introduced representatives of the Hi-Y from Pontiac Central High School and other guests.

Willard Lehman, minister of music and youth of First Baptist Church led the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" and "When I survey the Wondrous Cross." Lehman also presented a solo accompanied by Mrs. Lehman.

Kresge said "One reason that I am a Christian is that I just grew up that way. From my earliest recollections I went to church and Sunday School with my mother and father, sister and brothers."

"Mother and father always taught us to do what was right. We were brought up not to drink or smoke. Something I shall never be able to understand is why so many intelligent people drink alcoholic beverages."

Kresge went on to tell of the several ministers who had influenced his life for good, especially the late Dr. Merton S. Rice, lecturer and preacher in Detroit for 30 years.

"I believe the happiest people are those doing something constructive for the world and ministering to people around them, Kresge said.

12 SUGGESTIONS

Kresge gave 12 practical suggestions for a successful life.

They include: a willingness to work; absolute loyalty; absolute honesty; enthusiasm for your job and for life; average or better intelligence, (educate yourself); promptness; and initiative, that is, do what needs to be done without being told.

Other suggestions are reasonableness or the ability to get

Saul, Punisher of Heretics, Became Christ's Advocate

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press
Religion Writer

The witnesses peeled off their tunics, passed them to Saul, and picked up large stones to heave at the man below. At the bottom of the rough hollow, Stephen stood looking up in dismay.

An agitated crowd ringed the pit, smiting their chests and shrieking denunciations. "Blasphemeo!' Anomos!" Most of them were of Jerusalem's Greek - speaking Alexandrean and Cilician congregations. "Blasphemer! Transgressor!"

Saul, himself a Cilician, reared in the cosmopolitan city of Tarsus and a brilliant, forceful young rabbi, felt the blood pounding at his temples. The defiler had to be destroyed.

He nodded. The first stones flew.

Under Roman rule, the occupation government could impose capital punishment in the form of stoning, burning, beheading or strangling, subject in each case to confirmation by Rome's procurator.

STONING ORDERED

The land festered with wayward cults, and righteousness demanded that they be purged from the nation's sacred patrimony.

That duty lay on him like a coat of nails, driving him to the utmost in devotion, dedication and discipline. He would spare no effort to cleanse and preserve God's household.

HE MOANED

Yet he moaned as the barrage began on the condemned Stephen.

Three years or more had gone by since the man of Nazareth was crucified, a strictly Roman punishment, and the feverish impressions about Him had continued to spread and infiltrate families and institutions.

To Saul, it was a poisonous malady, eroding the vitals of Judaism, a macabre contradiction about a common Galilean who died shamefully, obviously abandoned by God, yet elevated in His ignominy to Messianic status.

The infection had been scattered by travelers to many surrounding cities, where cells multiplied, and in Jerusalem itself, it had spilled beyond Aramaic and Hebrew-speaking

Thousands Are Fleeing Homes Along Rivers

2 Die in Tennessee as Killer Tornadoes Continue as Menace

By The Associated Press

Colder weather today over the upper Mississippi River system brought a revised forecast of cresting on the rampaging stream.

The Weather Bureau said freezing temperatures had slowed melting, delaying crests on the river at Minneapolis and St. Paul, which had been expected late today or tomorrow, until about Tuesday.

But weather officials held to earlier crest forecasts for areas south of the Twin Cities.

The revised forecasts, however, brought no letup in the fight against the waters that are lapping at a five-state area along the Mississippi or its tributaries.

Record crests have also been forecast on North Dakota's Red River.

The Red Cross gave these statistics for Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota:

Twelve dead, 187 injured or ill, 35 hospitalized, 7 dwellings destroyed, 3,402 dwellings damaged, 25 farm buildings destroyed, 2,953 families suffered loss, and 50,052 persons given aid.

KILLER TORNADOES

At least four tornadoes did a hop-skip-and-jump through eastern Tennessee yesterday, killing two persons, injuring 50 and forcing 200 from their homes.

One tornado smashed into a trailer camp in Cleveland, Tenn., hospitalizing 50. Four of the injured were in serious condition. The twister upset 55 trailers.

U.S. Planes Wreck North Viet Bridges

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Half a dozen North Vietnamese rail and highway bridges were wrecked by American air raiders today. About 150 Navy and Air Force warplanes took part.

"We got three and the Air Force got three," a Navy spokesman said.

Col. Edwin J. Witzenburger of Lusk, Wyo., deputy commander of the 2nd Air Division, said the strikes were a complete success.

All planes were reported to have returned safely with only minor damage. No enemy aircraft were sighted.

A Hanoi dispatch broadcast by the New China News Agency declared North Viet Nam's armed forces shot down seven planes.

600-POUNDER

This missile, which a spokesman said the Air Force had used previously in North Viet Nam, was described as a 600-pounder guided visually by the pilot through a radio control unit.

About 70 Air Force planes rained bombs and rockets on three roads and rail bridges.

These were at Kim Cuong, on Route 8 only seven miles east of the Laotian frontier; the Trai Hoi highway bridge, 80 miles north of the Vietnamese border; and the Phu Diem Chau railroad bridge, just south of the 17th parallel.

About 80 Navy planes swept in from the sea and concentrated on highway structures.

CLAIM SHIPS SUNK

The South Vietnamese air force claimed it sank four North Vietnamese warships last night in its second night raid above the 17th parallel.

The size of the vessels was not given.

American military spokesmen in Saigon said an estimated 71 Viet Cong were killed in two operations by air strikes, Vietnamese ground forces and units flown in by helicopter.

In an action began yesterday in Binh Dinh Province, about 280 miles northeast of Saigon, 20 guerrillas were killed by attack planes and 31 by ground action. Government losses were given as one killed and 31 wounded.

Reports reached Washington that launching pads for Russian antiaircraft missiles are being built near Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam.

Sunshine Expected for Area Egg Hunts

The sun will shine for Easter egg hunts tomorrow, says the weatherman. However, temperatures will remain cool. Tonight's low is expected to be around 30 to 36, to be followed by a high of 44 to 50 tomorrow.

Sunday's outlook is mostly cloudy with occasional light rain and a little warmer.

A chilly 33 was the low mercury reading preceding 8 a.m. at 2 p.m. the thermometer registered 37 in downtown Pontiac.

JOHN V. LINDSAY

Congressman to Talk at OU

Republican congressman of New York, John V. Lindsay, will be the speaker for Oakland University's third commencement April 24.

An audience of more than 2,000 parents and guests are expected to join the 214 graduates and faculty to hear him speak at the 3 p.m. ceremony in the University's Intramural Building.

His district includes the United Nations, four major universities, the theater district, the business and garment districts, the residential areas of the East Side and Yorkville, parts of the West Side and Greenwich Village.

A native of New York, the 43-year-old Congressman began his career in the private practice of law, and served as executive assistant to the Attorney General of the United States in 1955-56.

YALE GRADUATE

He received his bachelor's degree from Yale University in 1943. After three years of service in World War II as a naval officer, he returned to Yale to earn his law degree.

Special Section Gives Rundown on Area Golf

Fore! The weatherman may disagree but the calendar says this is the golf season. See the special golf section, pages D-2 and D-3 in today's sports section of The Press for the 1965 golf directory, schedules and the story of Oakland County's 50 golf courses.

Pontiac Is Not a Quiet City, Expert Says

A consulting acoustical engineer testified yesterday that Pontiac generally "is not a quiet city" and that there are other industrial sounds louder than those produced at the Allen & Sons Scrapyard.

Defense witness Robert Lindahl of Trenton said that he was able to make the comparisons because he had taken a series of sound level readings throughout the city.

A permanent injunction is being sought against Allen by the city of Pontiac and 15 residents living near the junk yard at 22 Congress. They claim the operation is a nuisance.

Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem is hearing the nonjury case.

Lindahl admitted that standards of comparison are difficult to set up and that experts disagree on how it should be accomplished.

PRESCRIBED MEASURES

He said he had prescribed measures to reduce noise caused by a metal crushing machine at Allens and testified that the noise was cut down.

This is contrary to the testimony of some of the plaintiffs in the case who have said the noise is worse.

OCC Budgets Are Approved

Board Okays Funds for 2 Fiscal Years

The board of trustees okayed a $2.2-million 1964-65 budget and an estimated 1965-66 budget of $2.6-million.

Total expenditures for operating purposes in the current fiscal year were approved at $464,195. The current fiscal year ends July 1.

Building and sites will cost an estimated $1.7 million this year, while salaries will run $201,230.

The 1964-65 budget shows a "paper" balance of $430,000 on July 1. However, college officials said that $800,000 would still be owing on the purchase of the County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

INCOME ESTIMATE

Income for 1965-66 is estimated at $3.6 million with local taxes yielding $2.3 million, state aid $700,000 and tuition charges $576,800.

Tuition is figured at $206 per student with 2,800 full-time students anticipated.

Operating expenditures are estimated at $2.6 million in 1965-66. Biggest nonoperating expense will be the paying off of the TB sanatorium.

In other business last night, the college board abolished a vice presidency, hired a vice president for business and gave a $2,000 raise to another vice president.

OFFICIAL HIRED

The board abolished the position of vice president for student personnel and gave the duties to Dr. Albert Canfield, vice president for instruction.

Canfield was given a $2,000 pay hike with the new duties. His salary will now be $22,000 annually.

Punisher Became an Advocate

groups to Greek-language synagogues.

AROUSED ANTAGONISM

In one of these, the eloquent and literate Stephen had aroused antagonism by his claims that a "Holy Spirit" loosed by the "Christos" now transcended nation and rite. He struck at the very ramparts of the nation's sacred heritage.

A crowd hunted him out and dragged him before the court.

Condemned, he was hustled out of the city to the stoning pit.

And Saul, whose name in its Roman version was Paul, stood by as a deputy for the court to see the execution carried out. Thereafter, he pursued his determined, impassioned drive to reinforce treasured orthodoxy, and stifle departures from it.

COMMITTED THEM

Scripture recounts: "Saul laid waste the church, and entering house after house, he dragged off men and women and committed them to prison."

Yet all the while, anxiety and compassion raked his conscience. He pitied even as he punished. He shuddered at the obstinancy of these Jesus believers.

The persecution had dispersed many heretics to outlying regions. He, too, would go elsewhere. He would get away. But he would not give up. The Book of Acts relates:

ASKED FOR LETTERS

"Saul, still breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest and asked him for letters to the synagogues at Damascus" to arrest deviants and bring them bound to Jerusalem for trial.

While on his way there, in the vortex of his desolating struggle, he had his staggering vision of Christ.

"Saul, Saul, why do you persecute Me?" And Saul gave in. The thundering enforcer surrendered; the ruler for God became the ruled.

He lay flat on his face, a broken man, and so made whole.

CHRIST LIVES IN ME

"It is no longer I who live," he later wrote, "but Christ who lives in me." In a kind of death, he came alive.

Shorn of self, he found a greater self. The wrecker, wrecked, was made. "If any one is in Christ, he is a new creation."

So the strange phenomenon, the night through which breaks the day, the fall which becomes the rising. And Saul, Paul, by whatever name, mounted the long and arduous road lit through the shadows of a cross:

Not that he foreswore his ancestral faith, quite the contrary, cherished it fervently, a Hebrew, a son of Abraham. "I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee," he declared.

FOREMOST MISSIONARY

But he also was the foremost missionary and advocate of the greatest Hebrew of all, Jesus of Nazareth. Paul roamed the first-century world disseminating faith in Him and the gift of His life to mankind.

It cost dearly.

It cost Paul.

Five times, he recounted, he was lashed, three times beaten with rods, once stoned, three times shipwrecked, endangered by robbers, by his own people, by Gentiles, by wilderness, hunger, cold, exposure and hardship.

The days were fierce. Less than three decades after Christ's Crucifixion, revolution engulfed Judea to be crushed by Rome in vast slaughter and destruction which ended Jewish nationhood for 1,882 years until 1948.

In that period, thousands of Christians and Jews were slain for their faith, in Palestine, Egypt, Rome and elsewhere. In Rome, tradition says, Peter was crucified and Paul beheaded.

It was the kind of fate which Paul had once helped visit on another, Stephen, the outspoken deacon in Jerusalem, the first of the long line of Christian martyrs.

As the stones had rained on him, and his bloodied torn body crumpled toward the ground, his shattered face turned upward and his voice throbbed with awareness of a further door opening before him. "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit."

Then he cried out loudly, "Lord, do not hold this sin against them!" And he died in the heap of stones. Paul could never forget it; the image stayed with him until the blade fell on his own neck.

And also the cry, the cry which started at another execution, the cry which Jesus gave from the cross, and which ignited a fire of forgiveness and regeneration to shine ever after through the crucifixions of the world.

"Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Suggestions for Success

along with others; spiritual vitality — don't leave God out of your life,

Kresge also said, "Learn to speak well; learn how to talk and express thoughts well and convincingly. For many people this takes much effort and practice. This has been one of my weaknesses.

LEARN TO SAVE

"Learn to save. Save some amount of money, no matter how small, each week from your allowance or earnings. Put this aside or into a bank account. If you start saving while you are young, you will be surprised later on how this fund has grown and how helpful it will be when seriously needed.

"Take good care of your health. Get the proper amount of exercise and rest for your best welfare. Do your best to keep your weight under control. I strongly suggest you refrain entirely from all alcoholic beverages.

"The last authentic report I recall on this matter indicated over 7 million alcoholics in the United States. This was before Alaska and Hawaii became states. This has become a serious problem in many of our churches."

"To the above list some persons would probably add 'luck' but I would say that luck usually results from a successful application of the previous mentioned principles to one's life," Kresge added.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

Kresge said he and his wife, Dorothy, believed in daily devotions and tithing, or giving 10 per cent of one's income to the church.

Steel Offer Is Rejected by Union

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Strike fears rose today after the United Steelworkers Union rejected a steel industry proposal to swap some contract improvements for an extension of the May 1 strike deadline.

"I'm never discouraged, but I am disappointed now," said steelworkers President David J. McDonald Thursday after rejection of the latest industry proposal.

Both the union and the basic steel industry declined to reveal the cash value of the proposal.

But a union source said it was about five cents an hour per man for the duration of a limited agreement that could run from 60 days to 6 months. Some 450,000 USW members are employed in basic steel.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, criticized the union as "a house divided against itself."

He blamed it for crisis bargaining which he said has upset the domestic steel market and allowed imports to pour into the country.

CITES PROPOSAL

He said the industry proposal would have allowed the market to stabilize, added money to workers' paychecks, and permitted the union to settle the bitter election contest between McDonald and Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel.

Official results of the election are expected soon. Abel is expected to win, but a court fight could result.

Cooper and McDonald spoke at separate news conferences after talks recessed for the Easter weekend.

McDonald said he hoped the industry "would re-examine its conscience." He said the union was prepared to consider any added proposals Monday.

Sources said the union wanted 16 cents an hour and an extension no longer than 45 days.

The industry has said since talks started last January that it would agree to no more than a 2 per cent increase per year in the average steelworker earnings of $4.40 an hour.

Under a one-year limited agreement the industry first suggested earlier this week, this would have figured to slightly less than 10 cents an hour.

Mott Aid Offer Is Withdrawn

Won't Support New Flint 4-Year College

FLINT (UPI) — Philanthropist Charles S. Mott said yesterday he was withdrawing his offer of $2.4 million to aid in the formation of a Flint branch of the University of Michigan because of a state proposal to form a four-year college without U. of M. affiliation.

"For a new college, the state would have to buy land for a campus, put up buildings and laboratories, hire teachers and enroll students. It would take years to set up a good college," according to Mott.

"On the other hand, the plans now under way would open a four-year program here next September. This college would be backed by the great resources, the distinguished faculty and the prestige of the U. of M."

Gov. George Romney objected to a Flint branch of the U. of M. because not enough information on the educational needs of the state could be gathered. He asked the university to hold back its expansion plans.

Meanwhile, a blue-ribbon education committee formed by Romney recommended Michigan scuttle any expansion plans in favor of a separate four-year school.

DOES NOT AGREE

Mott said the foundation he heads "does not agree with the new proposal and is not interested or willing to support it, now or in the future."

Delay Is Ordered of NCA Stoppage

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) issued a stay today in Washington D.C., of its order permitting North Central Airlines (NCA) to drop air service to Pontiac, Port Huron and Cadillac-Reed City.

NCA had been slated to discontinue local service to the Michigan communities Monday.

The stay on the CAB's order will permit a judicial review in U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals of the local air service case.

3 Bandits Rob Local Market

Armed Trio Escapes With $3,530 in Cash

One of the three fired a 45-caliber bullet into the ceiling during the 1:30 p.m. robbery.

It narrowly missed Greg Puscas, 18, of 411 Lorberta, Waterford Township, a clerk in the store.

Store owner John Phillips said the bandits came in, ordered all customers to the rear of the store and demanded all the money in the register.

Phillips, 71, of 411 Lorberta, Waterford Township, told police two of the bandits wore dark glasses and the third had a lace covering over his face.

Besides the .45, they had a sawed-off shotgun and a sawed-off rifle, Phillips said.

ROBBED OF $30

Stanley Baker, 34, of 734 Hillsdale, a cake salesman, was robbed of $30 and James Roach, 42, of 452 Ditmar, a customer, was struck in the head by one of the bandits.

He was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

3 Teens, Man Charged With Station Robbery

Police said the four took $90 from the cash register of Tel-Square Standard Service, Telegraph at Square Lake Road, shortly after 3 a.m. today.

Being held in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bonds are a girl, Earlett Mills, 17, and Garrett V. Thomas, 21; Sam Brooks, 17; and Robert Aron Jr., 18.

Police Cracking Down on Woodward 'Cruising'

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Local police are cracking down on "cruising" — the activity associated with the township's only drive-in restaurant.

Their mark is the parade of young motorists who nightly drive up and down Woodward, using as a northern terminus Ted's Restaurant at Woodward and Square Lake Road.

"We're trying to make it hot enough for them so that only the responsible people will go there," Police Chief Norman Dehnke said.

He noted that the problem drivers are not those who patronize the restaurant but those who just circle through it and the adjacent subdivision, Colberry Park.

Specifically, the patrolmen are issuing summonses for using property for other than its intended purpose.

STIFF FOR VIOLATIONS

"We're also being stiff for violations out on Woodward — no matter how minor they are," Dehnke said.

Besides the regular patrol car in the area, the chief assigns another one to the vicinity during hours of peak traffic.

"There's a marked car in the area all the time," he said. "There have been as many as two other cars there."

'RESPONSIBLE SET'

"Surprisingly, many of them aren't going to teen-agers," he noted. "It's the so-called 'responsible set' from 21 up."

4 PRIVATE POLICEMEN

The restaurateur also has hired four private policemen to keep the situation under control.

Postage stamps Honor John F. Kennedy

NEW YORK (EN)—A very unusual series of large diamond shaped postage stamps honoring John F. Kennedy was issued recently by the Kingdom of Yemen . . . half the stamp bears a striking portrait of JFK with appropriate inscription—the top section depicts American space craft in flight . . . This very unusual set of three stamps sold out day of issue and are now quite scarce.

Interested collectors may obtain this extraordinary collection of 9 different stamps memorializing John F. Kennedy by sending $1.00 to Elmont Stamp Co., Queens Village 29, N.Y. Approvals and other offers included.

To Study Effectiveness

Area Agencies to Be Surveyed by Team

Plans for a survey of 76 area-wide health, welfare and youth serving agencies were announced following a meeting of agency representatives at the Community Services Building.

Pontiac attorney William B. Hartman, chairman of the Community Services survey committee, told agency representatives that the survey, sponsored by the Pontiac Area United Fund, would be conducted as an independent study and that survey committee members would represent an impartial cross-section of community leadership.

Survey plans, Hartman said, will be directed toward a "constructive inventory of the public and private health welfare and youth programs serving the greater Pontiac area to spot overlapping, duplication, programs gaps, unmet needs and recommendations for improved services.

"Such a study attempts to meet growing challenges in these fields resulting from growth in population and demands for increased programs and more public and private welfare dollars," Hartman added.

Hartman pointed out that the public which supports these programs as taxpayers and United Fund contributors should be aware that this survey is "a positive effort to insure the public that constructive action will be taken toward quality programs for every dollar spent."

FUTURE NEEDS

The survey will also anticipate future needs of the services to be studied.

Russel W. Leedy, visiting professor, school of social service, Catholic University, Washington, D.C., was selected by the Pontiac Area United Fund board of trustees in March to head the survey team.

He will begin the study by meeting with agency directors Monday and Tuesday. The study is expected to be completed by December 1.

The survey committee, under the direction of Hartman, will function as a liaison body between the agency and Professor Leedy's survey team.

Lodge Resumes Trip After Honolulu Stop

HONOLULU (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, touched down here for an overnight stay Thursday night before heading west to discuss the Vietnamese question with friendly nations.

He leaves today for New Zealand. He would make no comment to newsmen on his arrival at Hickam Air Force Base. He was met by Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, top U.S. military commander in the Pacific.

School of Music Plans 8-Story NY Building

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans have been filed for a $17.2 million, eight-story building in the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts to provide the Juilliard School of Music with a drama theater and music hall. It is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1967.

Architects' plans filed Thursday call for a 1,000-seat theater and a music hall to seat an equal number.

There are about 2½ million more women than men voters in France.

A NEW METHOD FOR RELIEVING PAINFUL CORNS OR CALLOUSES

A scientific new formula in an easy to apply liquid is available to those who suffer with corns, callouses, bunions, tired-aching feet or athletes foot. Although many Chiropodists and Podiatrists use similar formulas for their patients suffering with foot troubles, there is no formula that is as complete as this golden easy to apply liquid. Bunex is a liquid that promises you relief from foot troubles or your money beak.

For corns on top of the toes or between the toes, just place a little Bunex on and around the corn area and massage in well twice daily using the fingers.

For callouses or Bunions, place a little Bunex on or around the infected area and massage in well twice daily.

For tired and aching feet, apply Bunex and rub in well like applying a hand lotion.

For "Athletes foot," apply Bunex each night for about two weeks by massaging into infected area. Although the tissue will clear up in a few days, keep using this wonderful liquid for about two weeks to be sure that all the fungi has been removed.

Bunex is safe to use. Continued use of this wonderful liquid can prevent return of corns, callouses, or athletes foot.

The Savage Cell—11

Some Hazards of Cancer May Lurk in Food

(Editor's Note: This is the 11th in a 12-part series by a veteran reporter condensed from his book on cancer, "The Savage Cell.")

By PAT McGRADY

While much of the world is still stalked by hunger, the United States is richly fed — perhaps overfed.

The American food industry spends more than $100 million a year to develop new food products.

Food products are preserved against decay by freezing, canning, packaging and organism-resisting chemicals.

Two-thirds of the seven or eight thousand articles on supermarket shelves did not exist 15 years ago. Their natural beauty is maintained with anti-aging compounds and enhanced with dyes.

SOME ADDITIVES

And some of these additives cause cancer when injected into animals.

By contrast to the protection afforded domestic plants and animals, the wild creatures of the North American continent have begun to disappear.

Pesticides and other chemicals considered essential to modern farm management have poisoned them.

A few years ago rainbow trout became the beneficiaries of advances in the science of nutrition.

In United States hatcheries, they were given a cleverly concocted diet containing traces of arsenicals designed to destroy disease-causing amoebae, sulfa drugs to do away with other infections, oxidized fatty acids, vitamin supplements, and cheap vegetable protein instead of more costly meat protein.

In 1960 scientists were appalled: 80 or 90 per cent of the trout kept in hatcheries for three years had developed liver and lung cancer.

Fish as young as six or eight months old were coming down with the disease.

At this writing, the responsible agent has not been identified. The epidemic could be due to a combination of dietary chemicals, each by itself incapable of promoting cancer to any great degree.

UNTESTED 'ADVANCES'

Scientists say something like this could happen to humans exposed en masse to untested technical "advances" in nutrition.

The fight to monitor the contents of the U.S. food supply has been a long one — dating to Reconstruction days and a federal "poison squad" that found such contaminants as formaldehyde in milk and cocaine in soft drinks.

Commissioner of Food and Drugs George P. Larrick, in 1957, urged strengthening and modernization of the U.S. Food and Drug law. He said:

"We have had some very narrow escapes because of the use of additives that had no place in food. It is inconceivable that this country should continue to expose itself indefinitely to the risks inherent in the present scheme of food control."

He insisted the law should require adequate testing of a chemical before it is used in food although, he said, there is no evidence that any food distributed in the United States "produces cancer when it is eaten."

UNDENIABLE EVIDENCE

There is undeniable evidence, however, that some substances in human food cause cancer when injected into animals.

Commissioner Larrick estimated a few years ago that about 400 chemicals were being used for various purposes in food production.

He divided the additives into three categories — about 150 of them known to be harmless, another 100 considered "safe" in the quantities normally used, and the remaining 150 "a scientific no-man's land — our scientists do not know whether they are safe or not, but they suspect some of them ought not to be in use."

In 1958 and 1960, Congress legislated amendments to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act which placed a ban on old and new risky additives in food and on substances shown to be carcinogenic when eaten by animals.

FEAR HARD POLICY

The food industry, fearful of a "hard" enforcement policy, resented the indefiniteness of the law.

Some scientists, sensing too "soft" an interpretation, also were concerned. No one seemed completely happy.

What are food additives? Most simply, they are anything added to food.

Some additives are unintentional, more or less unavoidable and deplored by producer, seller, and consumer; these include pesticides, insecticides, fertilizer residues, and bacterial and viral contamination.

INTENTIONAL ADDITIVES

Many activities are intentional and beneficial, like vitamins occasionally added to compensate for vitamins lost in processing food.

Some are controversial, including many suspect substances which increase production, improve marketability and serve the producer's and sellers' purposes but are of doubtful value to consumers.

Then there are widely advertised "miracle ingredients" which often serve no purpose other than to enrich the producer at the expense of credulous consumers.

Few of the adulterants or additives are ever in such concentration as to produce an immediate toxic reaction more serious than a transient digestive disturbance; but meal-after-meal exposure to traces of 10, 20, or 30 different toxins very conceivably could result in a variety of chronic conditions.

TANNIC ACID

Tannic acid, which has caused cancer when injected into experimental animals, is a natural component of tea, coffee and cocoa. Safrol, a now-banned ingredient of some soft drinks, has induced animal cancers.

Antibiotics, a few of which have been shown to cause animal cancers and many of which can put a sensitized person into shock, are commonly used to enhance the growth of livestock and poultry and to protect chilled and canned meats.

Despite the law, antibiotics used against bovine mastitis do get into the human milk supply.

Male and female hormones are used liberally to enhance the growth and tissue texture of livestock and poultry; and these, in large and regular doses, have caused cancer in experimental animals.

COOKING MEAT

Even cooking meat at high temperatures for long periods has raised suspicions of cancer dangers.

Meat oils and fats at extreme temperatures (over 615 degrees F) form at least two hydrocarbons of the kind known to induce cancer in animals.

Curious, too, is the link between cancer and overeating.

Excess weight leads to early death from many diseases, including cancer. Lean animals and people are the longest lived.

Simple dietary restriction has reduced the incidence of disease in colonies of cancer-susceptible mice.

A few human studies have indicated that proneness to cancer increases with weight; international observers have reported that among the rare advantages of living in wartime German-occupied Europe and the consequent reduction of calories was a reduction in cancer.

There is growing public attention to the problem of cancer and man's environment, including his food.

Thanks largely to the late Rachel Carson and her eloquent "Silent Spring"—an indictment against the indiscriminate use of pesticides — several official bodies have begun to look into the consequences. So far little concrete action has been taken.

Attention has been centered on the acute and immediate toxity of pesticides.

Scarcely investigated and largely ignored are the very real possibilities that the chronic effects of pesticides — and of other additives, pollutants and contaminants — may be just as lethal as the acute effects.

In various combinations over long periods, they might cause cancer.

BEFORE YOU BUY THAT CAR
Check These 6 Rules of Auto Financing

1 Select the source for your new or used car loan as carefully as you select your make of car and local dealer. There is a difference — one that can save you time, trouble, and cash. In fact, this difference can be your biggest money-saver.

2 Work closely with your local auto dealer salesman. He knows car financing, and can handle nearly all the details right at his desk. (And ask him if he doesn't agree that auto loans from Community National Bank are best.)

3 Loan application forms should be simple and easy-to-follow, and processing of the loan should be prompt. Check to make sure that the loan can include insurance if you wish, and that you can select your own insurance company or agent. (This is a real advantage of Community Bank Auto Loans.)

4 Secure your loan from people you know and trust. And people who know and trust you. People like Community Bankers. They'll refer to your needs and budget when figuring term of the loan and monthly installments.

5 Make certain your auto loan helps you establish credit for any future money transactions. This is another area where Community Bank loans are best. By meeting your auto loan payment schedule, you automatically become a valued and trusted customer of your Community's most important financial institution — its Bank.

6 Arrange your loan with people who want to loan you money. Your Community Bank is in business to meet your money needs. If we can serve you best by making your auto loan, we want to do it.

And If You Still Have Questions, Ask Us
There's an Auto Loan Specialist at every one of the 16 Community Bank offices. He'll assist you in any way he can. And for your convenience, he's available Friday evenings and Saturday mornings, too.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Cause of Fainting Could Be Serious

BRANDSTADT

In the so-called "gay '90s," young women were subject to "vapors" and would swoon at the sight of blood, or with even less cause.

Today their great-granddaughters faint at the sight of the latest popular movie stars.

Fainting by persons of any age, however, should be investigated because, although the cause may be trivial, it may also be serious.

All fainting is due to a failure of enough blood to reach the brain.

It may follow a prolonged fit of coughing, sudden rising from a recumbent position, prolonged standing in the hot sun (common among soldiers required to stand at attention), heart block, paroxysms of very fast pulse and other abnormal conditions.

MOTOR NERVES

In a recent study in France it was found that 65 per cent of persons subject to repeated brief fainting spells had a condition known as spasmophilia, in which the motor nerves are abnormally sensitive to various stimuli.

A simple test that requires only about five minutes helps to identify these victims.

When fainting spells occur it is also wise to have the brain waves studied to rule out epilepsy.

Your doctor should check the blood for evidence of an abnormally low sugar level.

An electrocardiogram helps to determine whether a disturbance in the mechanism controlling the heart rate is the cause.

In any case, these spells should not be neglected.

Even if the cause is believed not serious, the results—a fall or loss of control of an automobile you are driving—make it imperative that the cause be found.

This is the first step toward a program of effective treatment.

Q—I have chronic emphysema. My doctor is giving me Medrol and Orthoxine.

This medicine has helped my breathing problem, but the side effects are very annoying.

Consult your doctor about reducing the dose of this drug.

Mental Loophole Pends for Convicted Slayer

We seriously question the soundness of Oakland County Prosecutor S. JEROME BRONSON'S decision to order a pre-sentencing psychological test for convicted murderer HARRY M. BELCHER.

In our opinion the eight-day trial, concluded by a verdict of guilty by a conscientious jury, was ably and fairly conducted.

At no time during the trial was the issue of mental unbalance raised by the defense — invariably the initiator of such a plea. Now to have the prosecution raise it after the case had presumably been closed impresses us as an act of capricious leniency, and an uncalled-for prolongation of the matter.

As a result of the prosecutor's move, a new trial could be ordered and BELCHER, if judged criminally insane in a pre-trial hearing, institutionalized accordingly—with possibility of eventually gaining freedom.

In ordering the mental examination for the convicted slayer, the prosecutor was quoted as saying that BELCHER'S attitude while hospitalized and his subsequent trial conduct imposed "a strong moral obligation to have the tests conducted."

What about your moral obligation to the respectable element of the citizenry, Mr. Prosecutor?

Man but Pawn in Game of Nature's Elements

Probably no form of nature gone wild inspires as much fear as the tornado.

Though tornadic storms are usually limited in extent and duration, they are unlimited in the explosive havoc they can cause. It is this, together with the unpredictability of their courses, that creates the sense of human helplessness we associate with these wild winds.

The storm system that battered six mid-western states was a big one by any measure. Spawning some 37 tornadoes and 50 less severe storms, its death toll of 250 (45 in Michigan) is only exceeded by the raging storm that swept a 219-mile-long path of death through three states in March 1925, killing 689 persons.

Though man has no way of controlling tornadoes, even in theory, he is not entirely helpless. Every year storm forecasting becomes more accurate, more rapid.

How many lives have been saved over the years by the U.S. Weather Bureau's Severe Storm Forecasting Center in Kansas City, Mo., it is impossible to say. Certainly the death toll of the recent calamity would have been higher without warnings issued from this and other weather centers.

Since no area of the country is immune to cyclonic onslaughts, it behooves every resident to condition himself in precautionary moves at the first indication that a twister is imminent.

Toward that end, the U. S. Weather Bureau, while emphasizing that a cave or storm cellar is the only real protection against a tornado, gives this advice:

● In open country — Move at right angles to the path of the tornado. If you can't get out of the way, find a ditch or any other depression and lie flat.

● At home—Get to the southwest corner of the lowest floor. That corner of the basement in both brick and frame houses usually offers the greatest safety. If the house has no basement, take cover under heavy furniture.

● In the city — Stand against the inside wall or lower floor of any office building you can get to.

● In schools — Avoid gymnasiums and auditoriums.

Lincoln Called Tormented Man

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—When Abraham Lincoln died 100 years ago this week at 56 he looked much older, already worn out by four years of civil war. But this wasn't what made him a tragic figure.

He was tormented. In 1858, he made his famous "house divided" speech which opened this way: "If we could first know where we are, and whither we are tending, we could better judge what to do and how to do it."

MARLOW

It was an insight into the life-long division within himself about slavery and the Negro and a forecast of his own dilemma when he became president.

Between his election in 1860 and the time he took the oath of office on March 4, 1861, seven Southern slave states had seceded from the Union, splitting it.

This was the worst calamity any president ever inherited.

Lincoln, a moderate and conservative man, felt his first obligation was to pull the Union together. The problem was how. And he moved slowly. He stated his dilemma in a letter to Horace Greeley in 1862:

SAVE UNION

"My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save slavery or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves, I would do it."

But the Union wasn't being saved. The war went on. He gradually moved toward the emancipation proclamation which he issued Jan. 1.

As an effective document, it was a joke, or worse. All it did was say that all slaves in the Confederate states where Union forces had not yet won control should be free. That didn't give them much freedom.

But it didn't say anything about freeing them in the loyal slave states. Later, Lincoln worked hard to get approval of the Constitution's 14th Amendment abolishing slavery but he was dead before it was approved.

AMENDMENT

Much earlier, he had backed a constitutional amendment — which didn't get approved — guaranteeing the federal government would never interfere with slavery.

All this showed the division within Lincoln on how to win the war. But his deeper internal division on the Negro problem existed long before. These were some of his positions before he became president:

He abhorred suppression of the Negroes but he was against letting them vote. He wanted slavery abolished in the District of Columbia but he also wanted fugitive slaves escaping into the district sent back to their masters.

He wanted all men to have the chance to rise economically but he didn't consider the Negroes the social equals of white men. He denounced the injustice of slavery but, while not advocating its abolition, he opposed its extension beyond the slave states.

Lincoln was not the only president who suffered from such contradictions. Thomas Jefferson had them, too.

At one time, Jefferson had 100 to 200 slaves whose work on his broad acres made it possible for him to read 18th century philosophy, fight for freedom from Britain and write the Declaration of Independence.

"—And What's for Dessert?"

David Lawrence Says:

Overtones Highlight Veep's Talk

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey made yesterday to the American Society of Newspaper Editors a long speech with plenty of political overtones in it.

LAWRENCE

There was nobody on the program to present a rebuttal — but it really wasn't necessary. For the editors are knowledgeable people, and they know the other side of the arguments the vice president made.

Humphrey, for example, in answer to a question, insisted that the administration is not opposed to literacy tests, but merely to their abuse.

Yet the pending voting-rights bill would, in effect, abolish in several states their present laws governing voting qualifications and leave it to the attorney general of the United States to prescribe what should or shouldn't be the qualifications for registering to vote.

There is nothing in the Constitution, of course, which gives any agency of the federal government the right to pass laws for the states.

The Fifteenth Amendment does forbid any state to abridge the right to vote by reason of race or color, but the existing provisions of the federal constitution do not say a state can lose its right to legislate on the subject or to be governed thereafter by the whims of Department of Justice officials or civil service registrars.

Humphrey took the position that there has been discrimination under literacy laws. This is, of course, conceded.

PROPOSED STATUTE

The proposed statute, however, would not only punish the states by forbidding them to use any of their past literacy tests — even if they parallel those of northern states — but would put certain southern states on probation for a period of 10 years.

It would not necessarily relieve them of this penalty even if they made their statutes conform to the objectives of the Fifteenth Amendment itself.

Humphrey discussed the economic situation as a whole and spoke of it in glowing terms. He said, for instance:

"We will continue to forge a strong economy, unmarked by recessions. We will continue to search for and develop tools to overcome the so-called 'business cycle.'"

But throughout his entire speech — which was optimistic if not virtually a promise of utopian conditions — Humphrey didn't say a word about the financial position of the United States government in the world today.

HISTORIC TRAGEDIES

Many tragic occurrences in history point to the fact that a nation which year after year spends more than it takes in gradually depreciates its own currency and forces up the cost of living. The vice president, however, seemed to think there is no crisis in American fiscal affairs. He said:

"Today this nation is no longer under threat of deep depression, of revolution, of near-fatal division. There is no great domestic economic crisis goading us into action. There are no breadlines."

Yet not long ago President Johnson was telling Congress of the terrible state of poverty existing in many regions of the country and why the federal government simply had to appropriate more money to wage a war on poverty. The idea conveyed was that millions of American citizens do not have enough to eat.

The Humphrey speech was an interesting example of the political motif of all the administration's speeches nowadays — to give the impression that the country not only is prosperous but is going to continue so indefinitely.

The assumption during the prosperity of the 1920's was also that there never would be another recession or depression — but events turned out the other way.

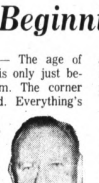
Bob Considine Says:

Age of Color Television Just Beginning to Bloom

NEW YORK — The age of color television is only just beginning to bloom. The corner has been turned. Everything's coming up roses, and other hues.



CONSIDINE

"It was like trying to sell Cadillacs in countries without roads," says young, energetic Robert S. Bell, boss of Packard-Bell Electronics Corp., biggest producer on the coast.

"The industry will turn out 2,000,000 of them this year.

"The networks are going more and more to color — even CBS. That makes it easier for the people who make sets.

"Before that it was a case of trying to learn all over again that you can't stone people to death with popcorn."

BIG HANDICAP

"Color television's big handicap today — even more than its price — is the production of color tubes. The four companies that make them — RCA, Sylvania, National Video and Rauland — can physically make just so many and no more.

"In black and white tubes the electronics problem is comparatively simple. Let's say a gun shoots 525 lines at the back of your screen 32 times a second.

"Well, in color you've got three guns shooting blue, green and red, so to speak, through a screen containing 400,000 holes and hitting, or trying to hit, a triad of color at the same speed as black and white.

"Makes a beautiful picture, if the tube is built right and everything else pans out."

100-MILLION GAMBLE

There will be room for everybody, for this is the most resilient economy ever known.

If Bell and the others have their way it will also be the most colorful . . . provided, of course, nothing clogs those 400,000 holes.

Encourages Cooperation With Cancer Program

During a recent routine checkup, my doctor detected that I had cancer. Surgery was advised and performed. No post-operative therapy was required. No indication of the disease remained, and there is no fear of recurrence.

I would urge all women to depend more on doctors' examinations. It could mean the difference between joy and sorrow, avoiding pain or loss of life for themselves and grief for their families.

The time and monies spent on neglected cases might well be spent on research to eliminate the disease. Perhaps if the same public cooperation would be given the cancer program as was given to the polio program, the same glorious statistics might be recorded in medical history.

"Bad Drivers Must Pay Their Own Way'

Compulsory insurance is not the answer to our problem. I notice the insurance companies don't demand a crackdown on bad drivers, but keep demanding more money from all.

It's time good drivers demanded that bad drivers pay their own way or get off the road. The answer is car inspection and better law enforcement.

'Pleased With Decision on TB Patients'

I know there are a lot of minds at rest since the decision was made to keep the tubercular patients in Oakland County.

EX-PATIENT

We appreciate the support given efforts to keep TB patients in Oakland County. Members of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors showed their interest in the health and welfare of the people was more important than money or politics by voting to keep the patients in Oakland County and to start remodeling work necessary at the Medical Care Facility so the transfer of patients can be made as promised.

Comments on President's Voting Law

Once the people realize that the President's voting law is punitive, divisive and unconstitutional, and formulated under pressure of street demonstrations and sit-ins, they will urge their representatives to reject it until it is changed to comply with the Constitution.

To pass the bill as it now stands is to violate the basic provisions of the Constitution which guarantees each of us our freedom.

Press Relations

The Atlantic Monthly

The President's human frailties are most sharply seen in his relations with the Washington press. Instead of openness, frankness, and awareness of the limitations and restraints that should govern all human relations, there is a carping and distrust on both sides.

The press believes that the President enjoys playing games with it; the President seriously believes that the press dislikes him because he is a Texan, a Southerner, or the inheritor of the Kennedy mantle. Moreover, he seems not to have learned that it has an obligation to report as much of the truth as it can find, not just what one party or one politician wishes.

Johnson has been at once the most accessible and the most tight-lipped of Presidents. His walking news conferences have produced little news but much insight into his varied personality. When he began every Washington correspondent applauded. The big televised conferences of the Kennedy days had their limitations. But they were a natural development of the press conference as it had evolved under Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower. Johnson thought that he could go back to the more informal Roosevelt-type with sixty or seventy men standing around his desk.

While the President has handled himself effectively — if often evasively—he has refused to schedule regular conferences or to hold more than one or two where all could be accommodated. The newsmen think that the President simply does not like probing questions. He does not want to be compared with his predecessor on television. He does not like to comment on subjects until he is ready to announce his position. He is angered by questions that attempt to draw him out.

In 1941 President Roosevelt told the White House Correspondents Association that "you, more than you realize, have been giving me a great deal of information about what the people of this country are thinking."

When President Truman was asked whether the presidential news conference helped, he replied: "Yes, I do. It is one way the President has to get his ideas over in the way that people can understand. I have had as much fun out of them as you have had." Truman knew that the news conference also informed the bureaucracy. Today the bureaucracy is almost as much in the dark about some Johnson policies as the public.

President Kennedy said that the news conference "serves its purpose, which is to have the President in the bull's eye. And I suppose that is in some ways revealing." It is immensely revealing, to the public and officialdom. But President Johnson does not like being in the bull's eye except when he can stage-manage the whole event.

It would be tragic if this man who has proved to be exceedingly capable in many things should be worn down by petty quarrels growing out of his excessive secretiveness, his unwillingness to learn that the press is most cooperative when the official is most frank, his failure to appreciate that in the end a democracy cannot be operated in the dark.

Anticipate U.S. Declaration on German Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to tell the world soon that it insists on the right of the Germans to move toward peaceful reunification by their own free choice.

This restatement of the U.S. position will probably come in form of a major policy speech by a top figure of the administration, authoritative sources reported.

Such a speech might replace a three-power declaration, suggested by the Germans, to remind the Soviets of their responsibility toward Germany.

Bonn would temporarily be satisfied with a joint declaration by the United States, Britain and France. The West German government originally asked for a "new initiative," an effort to revive the dormant question of reunification.

Willy Brandt, mayor of Berlin and head of the opposition Social Democratic party, sided with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in urging Washington to make such a step, possibly on May 8, the 20th anniversary of Nazi Germany's surrender in World War II.

The United States, informants said, agreed to this plan and the British government is known to be sympathetic to it. There was, however, no response from Paris as yet.

American officials do not conceal their annoyance over the French delay, but say they have no reason to doubt that France ultimately will consent. If not, the appeal will be made unilaterally, in form of a top-level speech.

The same officials privately expressed doubts about the wisdom of the timing as suggested by the Germans. It is questionable, they say, that such a step should be associated in any way with Nazi Germany's defeat.

'POSITIVE'

Brandt, who leaves Washington today after three days of meetings, told a news conference Thursday that "in connection with May 8 —not necessarily on that day, but perhaps around that day — something positive should be stated on behalf of the Western alliance and/or the individual Western states."

The mayor said "we know that a large Communist propaganda is under preparation pointing back to the past. We think it is necessary to say something which points into the future."

LBJ Relaxes at His Ranch for Weekend

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson was at his Texas ranch today for a long Easter weekend of relaxation.

Defense Secretary and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara accompanied the chief executive from the White House yesterday. Their presence was described as a "social visit."

They flew from rainy, chilly weather to bright sunshine when the chief executive's Air Force One jet transport plane landed at 5:26 p.m. CST (6:26 p.m. EST) at Bergstrom Air Force Base, near Austin, Tex.

Johnson and his guests went by helicopter the remaining 65 miles to the President's LBJ ranch where they joined Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. She had remained there since the President's trip last weekend.

The President left the White House at 3 p.m. EST by helicopter to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., which he departed at 3:18. He took with him his pet beagle, Him, a veteran air traveler. And for the first time, he also brought his rare white collie, Blanco.

OTHER AREA

Within a half hour of his arrival at the LBJ Ranch, Johnson and his party reboarded his helicopter for a flight of about 50 miles to another property he owns, known as the Haywood Ranch.

This property is on Lake Granite Shoals, and Johnson went for a later afternoon boat ride aboard a motor crusier he keeps there.

Nixon Finds Race Prejudice in Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, reporting on his recent trip to the Soviet Union, says Negroes there "have a worse lot" than anywhere in the Southern United States.

Racial prejudice in the Soviet Union "is greater than anywhere in the world, and a great many African students are leaving because of it," he says.

The former vice president discussed his impressions of the Soviet Union Thursday night in a departure from his prepared speech before 400 business leaders at the National Industrial Conference Board's first public affairs conference.

Nixon, who contrasted his recent visit to the one he made six years ago as vice president, said there has been "a great growth in racism and race prejudice."

He said there is no single leader in Russia today following the ouster of Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Only 1 man in 25 he questioned acknowledged Khrushchev's existence, he said.

The "great question as to who is boss" is the reason the Soviet Union "is so uncertain in world affairs, as evidenced in Viet Nam," Nixon said.

He predicted a strong leader will soon emerge, and Russia then will begin a new challenge to the United States in economics. He said the challenge will not be military or in the field of space and predicted the Soviets will attempt to dominate the world "by means short of war."

Nixon, who spent one day in the Soviet Union, said the economic picture is somewhat brighter than he found it six years ago.

BIG GOVERNMENT

In his prepared speech, Nixon said Americans are developing "a healthy skepticism about the usefulness of big government in modern society."

He said "scholars are discovering, sometimes to their surprise and consternation, that big government has rolled up an impressive record of failure."

As examples of failures, he cited the agriculture program and the federal urban renewal program. He said federal urban renewal has "clumsily destroyed more low-cost housing than it created" while private enterprise "quietly dwarfed its meager accomplishments."

* * *

Nixon called the war-on-poverty program "flamboyant," and said that beneath it lies the "tacit admission that 30 years of expensive federal effort to eliminate dependency has, if anything, increased and institutionalized it."

* * *

Dick Acted Like a Clown, Says Paper

MOSCOW (AP) — A Moscow newspaper said today former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's one-day visit to Moscow last weekend was a publicity stunt.

Komsomol Pravda said:

"Conceited by the fact that this person still means something, the former vice president and erstwhile candidate took to advertising himself, even if it was scandalous, if only they wrote and talked about him.

"On the street, Nixon for some reason accosted a policeman with stupid questions. He tried to start arguments with strangers and invited them to be his guests.

The newspaper also complained about statements Nixon made to newsmen after his visit about conditions in Russia.

an explanation... an apology... and an unusual compensation

Hughes Hatcher Suffrin is being picketed by a union attempting to organize a small group of our employees. The election at which these employees will decide whether they wish to be represented by this union is dependent upon a ruling by the National Labor Relations Board; a ruling which will determine the proper bargaining unit.

In the meantime, however, some of our tailoring shop employees, who already work under union contract, are refraining from crossing the picket lines.

Obviously, this presents a certain difficulty in servicing our customers. With this in mind, we are offering

20% off all mens' & boys' suits, sport coats & dress slacks

... in other words, items that normally require the alterations we are currently not able to give. These items will be sold at a 20% reduction on the basis that you take them with you and have them altered. While this saving far exceeds the cost of alterations, we'd like to make up for any inconvenience that may be caused you.

This 20% reduction applies to all the normally altered suits, sport coats, and dress slacks we carry in our men's and boys' departments... even our finest makes. We hope that these savings in some way compensate for the service we are not able to provide at this time.

On Display During Passion Week

Holy Grail Center of Attention

ABERYSTWYTH, Wales (AP)—A chipped bowl many are convinced Christ used at the last supper is once again the center of attention as Easter approaches at this seaside resort in western Wales.

Pilgrims flocked to see the legendary Holy Grail on display during Passion Week at an ivy-covered 18th century manor house owned by Maj. and Mrs. J. S. Mirylees.

Historians, prelates and poets have shared a fascination for the origin of the blackened vessel. They have traced its 3,000-mile journey from Palestine to the Cardiganshire hills near Nanteos.

While there is no proof linking it with the Last Supper, there is none to explode the legend either.

NANTEOS CHALICE

Ballads and poems about the Nanteos chalice have abounded for centuries. The Welsh believe it inspired the tale of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table who were dedicated to finding the sacred cup.

One fact appears certain. The cup is old enough to fit the role. And it did not originate in Britain.

Painstaking research through old records and a certain amount of guesswork point to a theory that Joseph of Arimathea brought the chalice when he carried Christianity to the British Isles in 63 A.D. The scriptures name the Arimathean as a wealthy disciple who devoted his life and fortune to the spread of the faith. Joseph died in England.

The story is that he passed the chalice on to his son at Glastonbury in Somerset. It remained there for centuries as the prize of a monastery which was erected on the spot —Glastonbury Abbey.

1ST TARGETS

The abbey was one of the first targets of Henry VIII in his attack on Roman Catholicism and in 1539 the buildings were wrecked by Henry's troops.

Richard Whiting, the last abbot of Glastonbury, gave the cup to seven monks with instructions to flee over the mountains of Wales, which in those days constituted a fearsome journey. The abbot was hanged.

The tale says that the monks brought the cup safely to the Cistercian Abbey of Strata Florida deep in the Cardiganshire hills. The Glastonbury monks who managed a getaway joined them there but the journey was not over. The king's men began closing in on Cardiganshire and the cup was taken to the friendly lord of the manor of Llechwedd Dirus near Nanteos.

POWELL FAMILY

The Powell family acquired the Nanteos estate in the 18th century and it passed down the line to Mrs. Mirylees, a direct descendant.

The present abode of the cup was built in 1739. It has attracted many. The German composer, Richard Wagner, was one who came to see it and it is said he was so impressed that it inspired his Parsifal, closely associated with the legend of the Holy Grail.

Nanteos open to the public attracts thousands of tourists. The route also includes a visit to the Strata Florida Abbey where the cup rested previously, though like Glastonbury before it, it has been in ruins for more than 400 years.

Whatever the truth of the cup, its mere existence — especially in Passion Week — arouses veneration among the faithful.

35 Kettering Students

Weekend in New York

By JAMIE SCHUTT

After months of planning and hard work, 35 dramatics club students from Waterford Kettering left yesterday to spend Easter weekend in New York City.

The group traveled to New York by bus. Under the auspices of the Seniorama tour service, students will visit the Lincoln Cultural Center, the United Nations Building, and Radio City Music Hall.

In addition to other optional tours, the group will attend the Broadway play "Fade In, Fade Out," with Carol Burnett, and Arthur Miller's off-Broadway play, "View From the Bridge."

Faculty members Patty Looman, Duward Chaffee, and Robert Seeburger accompanied the group. They will return Monday morning.

"Hoot 'n' Hop," a combination dance and hootenanny, will be held next Monday night, 8-11, at Waterford Township High School.

Sponsored by students traveling abroad this summer, the dance is a joint effort to raise funds.

A nominal admission will be charged and identification cards are mandatory.

For Speech Contest

Preliminaries Held

By JEAN PERRY

Students at Waterford Township High School are now enjoying spring vacation as Easter draws near.

Lockers are closed and halls are still for the four day vacation. Students will return Wednesday to their classes.

The Waterford Township High's preliminaries for the Michigan High School Forensics Association Competition were held last week. Five categories were discussed; original oratory, extemporaneous speech, declamation, interpretive reading, and humorous reading.

Maria Becker's declamation discussion won for her first place in this division while James Herrington won second for a Civil War presentation.

Sandy Hughes' facial expressions helped her win first place in the interpretive reading category. Lynn Hamilton was awarded second. Donald Stanger took third with an excerpt from "To Kill a Mockingbird."

The last division ratings in humorous reading were headed by Barb Humphries, first and Adele Madonio, second.

The contest was judged by Sally Misner and Mrs. Patricia Poteet, both English instructors, and Marlyn Jost, librarian and an active member of Lakeland Players.

An all-school assembly will kick off the campaign next Friday, for WTHS' '65 magazine drive. Students will be pushing towards a $6,000 goal. The money will be used for landscaping, primarily the court area behind the school.

Student council representatives will handle the drive in their respective homerooms. Prizes will go to each homeroom with 100 per cent participation.

High homeroom will be treated to a Tiger ball game. Teachers of the two homerooms turning in the most sales each day will dine without charge at the Old Mill Restaurant.

Candidates for next year's student council have been nominated. They are Mike McIntyre, Steve Main and Dennis Sundwall, president; Gayanne Mansifield, Carol Petar and Judy White, vice president; and Julie Appel, Gwen Coppinger and Cathi Hendry, recording secretary.

By LINDA McNEILL

Plans for the sixth annual carnival sponsored by the Girls Athletic Association are being completed.

The carnival will be held on April 30 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in the BHHS gym.

Rehearsals for the 1965 variety show are under way.

Entitled "The Year of the Tiger," the show will be produced May 13, 14, and 15 in the Little Theatre.

A large portion of the show is based on events of the past year.

Musical groups performing include the Jills, the Soph Singers and the Marauders, as well as several folk-singing groups.

Benefits of the show will be given to the executive club to be used for charity purposes.

Recently a "bottle raid" took place in the BHHS area. The purpose of collecting bottles was to raise money to send two students to Europe for the summer through the National Association of Student Council. Students collected $176 worth of bottles from March 29 through April 3.

Seniors at St. Frederick's Rehearse Class Play

By JANIS QUARLES

Members of the St. Frederick High School senior class are preparing for the annual senior play, "Don't Take My Penny." It will be presented April 24 and 25 at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

The director is Delores Lamb from the University of Detroit. Student director is Pat Yarnold.

The play, a three act comedy, centers around Penny, portrayed by Carol Manion, a star-stuck young girl who thinks she is destined for Hollywood, and the wild antics of Kerry Harper, played by Frank O'Neill, to keep her home.

The plot thickens as other girls are introduced to Hollywood glory and Director Harrison Day, played by Mike Dean, must choose between them.

CHAIRMEN, USHERS

Committee chairmen and ushers include Peggy Polmear, refreshments; Mike Vosburg, programs; Guy Soda, tickets; Ruth Lange, makeup; Jenny White, publicity; Sandy Burneel, costumes; Barry Smothers, lights; Joe Roncone, props; Ed LaBarge and Art Pope, sets.

Wednesday was the annual student day sponsored by the student council.

On this day the teachers handed over their duties. Larry Walter, president, presided as principal. All student teachers were presented with boutonnieres or flowers to distinguish them from the students.

The junior - senior banquet, featuring Futura's Band, will be held Tuesday at Holiday Inn. Chairman is Daryle Swanson assisted by the other junior class officers.

PCH Is Again Speech Champ

By KAY COSMA

Last week in the Saginaw Valley spring speech contests Pontiac Central High School orators won the championship for the third year in a row.

One hundred and twenty students representing all the conference schools competed in preliminary contests held in the afternoon with the top two in each room qualifying for the final contest in that event.

Contest judges were from the speech departments of Wayne State University and the University of Detroit.

In the finals in humorous reading, Central came up with the top three. They were Jack Bletstein, Marjy Rosner, and Carol Beckett, respectively.

For the third year straight, Robert Sullivan won the conference championship in extemporaneous speaking while William Chafets finished second.

Cheryl Hight took third in interpretation and Wendy Wold took third in declamation. Phillip Schlesinger also placed in the finals of extemporaneous speaking.

The top two winners in each event will now participate in the regional tournament at Flint, May 7. Walter Smith is the speech teacher.

Student council plans to hold a post-Lenten dance on April 23 are now being put into action. Posters emphasizing the dance theme of interschool friendship, have been sent to all schools in the Northwest Catholic League.

Chairmen of the dance committees are Margaret Finnegan, Mary Finnegan, Roseann Spadafore, Scott Gagel, Jean Loviska, Judy Saxton and Lynn Bauer.

In a final assembly Thursday afternoon before classes terminated for the Easter recess. Mother Maura presented James Stickle with the Optimist Citizenship Award. She also announced that Rick Lavoie was the recipient of a State Elks Most Valuable Student Scholarship Award of $500.

Troy

By ANITA CAPRON

On Monday, Joseph Beachard, principal of Troy High School, described to the student body features to be used in the school next year.

This year, Troy began to use the rotating schedule. It is hoped that next year steps toward having a non-graded high school based on individual study will begin.

PLAY REHEARSAL — Cheri Mason of 2310 Silver Lake, Waterford Township, struggles with her unknown assailant as she enacts the part of Roane, a blind girl, in the Pontiac Northern High School mystery, "The Night Is My Enemy." A special matinee will be held April 29 for Northern students. Evening performances are scheduled April 30 and May 1 at 8.

'Night Is My Enemy' Has 10-Member Cast

By ALICE TURNER

As the production date draws near for Pontiac Northern's coming murder-mystery, "The Night Is My Enemy," those involved in the play find themselves frantically at work with many of the last minute details.

The play will open April 29 at a special matinee for Northern students. Evening performances will be held April 30 and May 1 at 8.

Under the direction of Anthony Chiarilli, the play takes place in the early 1900's in an old mansion off the coast of England.

When an accidental death is discovered to be a murder, Roane becomes next in line for death as it is disclosed that the murderer cannot stand imperfections in humans.

The murderer is revealed to the audience as he makes an attempt at Roane's life, yet is still unknown to her.

As the play progresses, Roane finds herself alone and blind in the old house with a mentally unbalanced killer.

The cast, which consists of only ten members, is made up of: Cheri Mason, the blind girl; George Wren and Monika Knab, who act as husband and wife; Gary Eldridge, who plays their mentally unbalanced son; Suzy Meggitt, the town gossip; and Rob Jackson as the doctor of the house.

Also included in the cast are Neil Findley, who becomes attracted to Cheri; Chris Skillman, the "Sherlock Holmes" of the story; Mary DeClute, the maid; and Tony Wyrick, the sophisticated lady of the house.

Sound effects and lighting are important to the play as an eerie effect is essential in the thrilling mystery.

Wayne Anabel will be in charge of attaining this effect. Alan Lince will head the stage committee made up of Ron Forrester, Jim Bailey, Daryl Dugas, Pat Pushnicki, Dave Sudbury, Larry Hawkins, Bob Smith and Rick Lyons.

Vicki Muttersbaugh will be in charge of props while Judy Dove, Phyllis Edgar and Nancy Gibson will provide the art work. Bob Hayes will act a technical director.

'My Fair Lady'

35 in CHS Musical

By CATHY RICHARDSON

Lerner and Loewe's delightful musical "My Fair Lady" will open at Clarkston High School's Little Theatre at 8 p.m. Thursday. The play, Clarkston's first musical, will run for six nights, April 22-30.

Headlining a cast of 35 students are Arnold Taylor as speech professor Henry Higgins, and Mary Wertman (playing April 22, 29 ,30) and Penny Cook (April 23, 24, 28) as the Cockney flower girl, Eliza Doolittle.

Paul Walker, Paul Taylor, Charlene Bachand, Ted Hollis, Carol Taylor, Gwen Ostrom, Charles Pearson, John Merkel and Roger Chrysler are also in the cast.

Last Wednesday, Eliza Doolittle Day, the cast presented entertainment during lunch hours and sold "My Fair Lady" flowers to the student body.

Assembly programs will be given to both high school and junior high audiences to promote ticket sales.

MONTHS OF WORK

Thursday evening the curtain goes up after many months of hard work, not only for the cast, but also for the technicians, set workers, Lee Moore, director; and Mrs. Sherry Moore, musical director.

Junior and senior boys will be introduced to the United States Air Force program in an assembly on April 22. They will view a film on the air force and learn about its background and future.

Class competition will enter into the Girl's Athletic Association's annual basketball tournament.

On April 22, the freshmen team will meet the sophomores and the juniors will battle the seniors on the court.

On April 23, the two winning teams will participate in the play-off game.

Clarkston students return to school Tuesday.

'Tulip Turnabout' at Rochester High

By KATHY MORGAN

Next week, the girls of Rochester High School have a chance to catch their boys.

The Honor Society is presenting the "Tulip Turnabout" on Friday from 8-11 p. m. The Starlighters will play.

Through the courtesy of Oakland University, Rochester High School students enjoyed a performance of Misha Mishakoff and Misha Kottler. The piano and violin concert was presented Wednesday morning in the cafeteria.

Reshape Criminal News Release Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new set of rules governing the release of information on criminal cases by all Justice Department law enforcement officers was issued today by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

The attorney general announced the code in a speech to the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

FORMALIZATION

Katzenbach described the rules as a formalization of the same policies, generally, now observed by the department in trying to protect a defendant's right to a fair trial while respecting the public's right to be informed.

"The first consideration, I believe, is that it is not for us to regulate the conduct or the content of the press," Katzenbach told the 450 editors.

"We, whether in the Department of Justice or in the bar, are hardly the exclusive keepers of the keys to the kingdom of justice," he added.

Katzenbach's move was a fresh development in a debate which has raged among journalists, lawyers and jurists since the arrest of Lee Harvey Oswald for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy: Should there be additional safeguards against the publication of information which might influence a jury?

SPECIFICATION

The department's new code specifies a number of facts which may be released, following an arrest, by FBI agents, U.S. marshals, federal prosecutors and other officers of the department.

These include the defendant's name and identifying background information; the charges against him; the arresting agency and length of the investigation, and the circumstances of the arrest, including the time and place, resistance, pursuit, possession and use of weapons, and a description of items seized.

But Katzenbach's orders directs that officials "should refrain from making available:

"Observations about a defendant's character.

"References to investigative procedures, such as fingerprints, polygraph examinations, ballistic tests, or laboratory tests.

"Statements concerning the identity, credibility, or testimony of prospective witnesses.

"Statements concerning evidence or argument in the case, whether or not it is anticipated that such evidence or argument will be used at trial."

The attorney general ruled that officers shall not volunteer for publication any information on a defendant's prior record, but may provide a record of convictions upon a specific inquiry. His statement also declared:

"Personnel of the Department of Justice shall take no action to encourage or assist news media in photographing or televising a defendant or accused person being held or transported in federal custody.

"Departmental representatives should not make available photographs of a defendant unless a law enforcement function is served thereby."

EXEMPTION

The restrictions include a blanket exemption for the release of information on fugitives from justice. The rules thus avoid conflict with the FBI's practice of publicizing the "10 most-wanted" list of criminals.

Otherwise, the identifying information about an arrested person is limited to his "name, age, residence, employment, marital status, and similar background information."

WALKING FISH

QUESTION: Can any fish walk?

ANSWER: Fish are the most ancient group of vertebrates, or animals with backbones; they existed long before there were any vertebrates on land.

In the great span of time that fish have been swimming in the sea, nature has had opportunity to carry out many strange experiments with them.

Some fish have learned to break above the surface and fly—or rather, glide—for short distances. Some have turned to fishermen themselves, dangling lures in front of their gaping snouts.

The fins of others have become adapted so that they can walk in addition to swimming.

The sea robin, in the upper picture, is one of these walking fish, with a fondness for ambling around in shallow water. The strange little "legs" which it uses to pull itself with are not true legs, but have developed from the rays of what were once a pair of breast fins.

The fishes in the lower picture are even more remarkable, for they can move around on land, often doing so with a skipping motion which has given them the name of mud skipper.

This fish has a unique way of breathing while in the air: it carries a supply of water in its gill compartments and so breathes by extracting oxygen from water as other fish do when swimming below the surface.

FOR YOU TO DO: We still haven't explained why these fish walk. Try to figure this out for yourself, then check with the answer. (Answer: It's not that they are bored with swimming, but that walking brings them closer to the small creatures which are their favorite food.)

Confession Was Voluntary

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero ruled yesterday that a confession made seven years ago by convicted slayer Billy Ray Van Horn was given voluntarily.

The decision came after a five-hour hearing which saw Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem, Sheriff Frank Irons and Van Horn take the witness stand.

Van Horn is appealing his 1958 conviction in the murder of Mrs. Hazel Murdock, 39, of 127 N. Josephine, Waterford Township, on the basis of recent Supreme Court ruling which makes it necessary for the voluntariness of a confession be determined by a judge rather than a jury.

Van Horn, 31, testified that the statement was not true.

When assistant prosecutor Walter Schmier asked why he had made the statement, Van Horn said, "I was promised to see my wife if I did."

WERE SEPARATED

Schmier noted, however, that Van Horn and his wife were not living together at the time.

Van Horn has been at Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for the past three years.

Earier, Judge Ziem recalled taking the statement when he was county prosecutor.

Asked if the statement was accurate, Ziem replied "These are the questions that were asked-and these are the answers that were given."

LEADING QUESTIONS

Ziem admitted that there were some leading questions asked by him, but disagreed with Van Horn's court-appointed attorney Allen Greenberg that the statement contained mostly yes and no answers from Van Horn.

Greenberg contended that Van Horn was unduly detained before making his statement and that he was treated poorly.

"Did you promise him (Van Horn) a big dinner if he made a statement?" Greenberg asked Sheriff Irons.

"Absolutely not," said Irons, who added that Van Horn was not treated any differently than other prisoners.

Judge Dondero's ruling will go to the Michigan Court of Appeals for reviewing before it considers Van Horn's case.

Hundreds Are Invited to 'Make It Legal'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The governing Pri party announced today that it will make honest women of hundreds of unwed mothers at a mass wedding ceremony here on Mother's Day.

A party spokesman said 500 couples, some of whom have lived together for years without bothering to marry, already have been invited to the ceremony. Social workers are combing the city for other prospects.

City Man Is Robbed in Hotel Parking Lot

David Holmes, 22, of the Auburn Hotel, 464 Auburn, told police he was robbed of $98 at 1:50 a.m. today in the hotel parking lot.

Adjournment Delays Bill

Family Planning Policy Measure Is Altered

LANSING (AP) — A controversial state "family planning" policy bill hung in a legislative no man's land today after preliminary approval of sweeping, liberalizing changes Thursday.

A rapid adjournment prevented final adoption of amendments which would have allowed welfare agencies to extend birth control assistance and information to unmarried women and permitted social workers to initiate discussion of birth control with welfare recipients.

The amendments could not have received final approval, since fewer than 60 legislators were left in their seats at the end of a long day, and it would have been impossible to get the 56 votes required for adoption.

The bill, one of two sponsored by Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, permits family planning help, but limits it to married women living with their husbands, or to unwed mothers with two children.

NO INITIATION

It also prohibits initation of discussion of birth control by social workers.

Both issues have been the center of a growing controversy. They were prohibited in the Kent County Social Welfare Department's policy adopted last September, permitted in Detroit's policy adopted earlier this year and permitted — with modifications—by the State Social Welfare Commission last month.

The bill cannot come up for a final vote until Monday without a suspension of the rules—unlikely, considering the light Good Friday anticipated in today's session.

"And I don't know how it's going to go," Ryan said. It has been difficult to line up sure votes in the strongly divided House, he added.

SECOND BILL

Ryan's second bill, establishing state family planning clinics, is next on the legislative calendar, and has not yet been debated.

Opponents argue that initiation is "inherently coercive," since social workers hold a strong persuasive power over welfare recipients. It also runs the risk of violating the consciences of people whose religious beliefs prohibit birth control.

Dividend Declared

The board of directors of Winkelman Brothers Apparel, Inc., yesterday declared a cash dividend of 17½ cents per share to holders of record of Class A Common Stock at the close of business May 5, 1965, payable May 20, 1965.

Joint Initiation for Legion Slated at Pontiac Post

Joint membership initiation ceremonies will be held at Chief Pontiac Post No. 377 of the American Legion Saturday at 7:30 p.m., according to Post Commander Billie L. Coyle.

New members of the Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63, Clarkston, will be initiated at the same time.

Following the initiation ceremonies, the 19-piece drum and bagpipe corps from the Berkley Post No. 374 will present a formation drill and tattoo.

State Commander Duane T. Brigstock of Battle Creek and his wife will be guests of honor at the initiation.

The total amount of energy from all fuels used for heat and power in the U.S. factories increased 203 per cent between 1909 and 1962.

3 Youths Held for Burglary

Pontiac police arrested three youths early today on a charge of breaking into Conn's Clothes, 71 N. Saginaw and taking merchandise valued at approximately $2,000.

The three, all juveniles, were taken to the Oakland County Children's Center.

Police said they stopped two of the youths at 1:20 a.m. running along the railroad tracks near Clinton carrying clothing wrapped in a curtain and a box containing more wearing apparel.

The pair implicated another youth and he was picked up at his house, according to police.

Entry to the building was gained by prying a steel bar loose from in front of a rear window and then breaking the window, police said.

PR Clinic Set at Oakland U

Sixteen newspaper editors, radio and television news directors, public relations and advertising specialists will be featured at a six-session clinic on public relations for health, welfare and youth-serving agencies scheduled to begin Tuesday from 3-5 p.m. at Oakland University.

Cosponsors of the clinic, which is open to volunteer and staff personnel of agencies, are the Pontiac Area United Fund and the university's division of continuing education.

Registration may be made by contacting the division of continuing education, Oakland University.

Discourage Crabgrass

'Foam' Mattresses; Recent Development

This is the season when two techniques can do much to lessen crabgrass in your lawn later.

One is to cooperate with nature so as not to give crabgrass much of a toe hold. Thicken up the earlier bluegrasses, fescues and bentgrasses by fertilization, bolster seeding and sufficiently high mowing.

By the time soil is warm enough for crabgrass to sprout, there won't be "room" for it (you never find crabgrass in the shade, whether of a thick sod or of a tree).

Another preventive is to spread a pre-emergence herbicide. There are half a dozen good chemical crabgrass preventers, which, if they blanket the lawn before crabgrass sprouts, kill the seed as it germinates.

These must be accurately and uniformly spread according to directions, and if used properly will not damage established Kentucky bluegrass.

4th Garden Forum Planned April 28-30

The fourth annual Clara B. Ford Garden Forum will open at Greenfield Village April 28. Prominent speakers in the flower and gardening field are scheduled to lecture at this outstanding Midwest spring forum.

Three lectures are scheduled each day during the Forum at 10 and 11:15 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Panel discussions are planned for each afternoon as well as tours of Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum. A nature walk through the Village will be conducted on April 28 at 6:30 a.m.

According to James A. Fowler, director of education for the Museum and Village, and Forum chairman, the lecture schedule is as follows:

April 28, "A Rose by Any Other Name," — The Story of Plant Patents, Kenneth N. Metcalf, Librarian, Henry Ford Museum; "A Fresh Look at Trees and Shrubs," Clarence E. Lewis, professor of horticulture, Michigan State University; "Annuals, Perennials, and Bulbs," Anne Wertsner Wood, Swarthmore, Pa.

Growth Regulator Amazes Scientists

Chemical growth regulators continue to astonish scientists. And everyone from agriculturists to connoisseurs of cut flowers couldn't be more pleased.

The latest startling results from using these chemicals came from Michigan State University where a pair of horticulturists found that two of the growth regulators can prolong the life of cut flowers by as much as 50 per cent.

This finding came just a few weeks after the scientists had seen another growth regulator do an "about-face." Normally a growth retardant, the chemical made snapdragons grow bigger and faster.

For the MSU researchers, Drs. Sylvan H. Wittwer and A. H. Halevy, results such as these are becoming commonplace. And they are intrigued by the possibilities these chemical growth regulators offer for revolutionizing the plant world.

First, the cut flower study. Drs. Wittwer and Halevy found that immersing the bases of the cut stems of flowers overnight in solutions of a growth regulator called B-Nine prolonged the life of cut carnations from 1.5 to 2.5 days — about 20 to 40 per cent, depending on te variety. Another chemical, CCC, extended life 1.4 to 3.1 days — around 20 to 50 per cent.

LIFE EXTENDED

On snapdragons, the life of the White Apollo was extended 4.4 days (81 per cent) with a 50 parts per million (ppm) solution of B-Nine. The same concentration of CCC extended the life of this variety 2.4 days (44 per cent). The Hercules variety's life was extended by as much as 23 to 34 per cent with B-Nine and CCC, respectively.

For those who would like to add another pair of jawbreaking terms to their vocabulary, the chemical name for B-Nine is N, N - dimethylaminosuccinamic acid; CCC is simply 2 - chloroethyltrimethylammonium chloride.

Next, the "mixed-up" growth regulator. CCC normally retards plant growth but, in the case of snapdragons, it did just the opposite.

Drs. Wittwer and Halevy found they could boost snapdragon growth by applying relatively high concentration of the growth regulator to the foliage.

That's why Drs. Wittwer and Halevy were at first surprised with the way snapdragons behaved when CCC was applied to their leaves. But this surprise soon turned to fascination and speculation of what this reaction might mean to science.

Says Dr. Wittwer, "Since the chemical behaved in such a peculiar fashion (as compared to many early experiments), we are hopeful that the tests will open up an area which seems to have been neglected until now — the possibility of boosting plant growth with a chemical commonly thought to be a growth retardant.

"It seems that research is definitely in order to test the chemical on different plants and at varying concentrations. And applications should be made to both the roots and leaves."

Drs. Wittwer and Halevy are well aware that studies of this type might open the doors to entirely new areas of research. For example, they've already noted that CCC and B-Nine can slow down the loss of chlorophyll from bean leaves. Other scientists have found that other growth regulators can make plants more resistant to environmental stresses: drought, heat and cold.

And the cost of these chemicals is practically negligible. CCC and B-Nine, for example, are only about one-hundredth as expensive as N6-benzyladenine, one of the most common chemicals for extending the shelf life of vegetables.

PLANT REVOLUTION

As a result, these inexpensive chemicals could provide the beginning of a revolutionary plant world made up of compact, long lasting flowers; giant sized field crops; and-or pint sized crops grown in areas formerly considered unsuitable for agriculture.

The Wittwer-Halevy experiment on reducing chlorophyll loss, for example, offers possibilities of keeping plants lush and green for long periods of time, even after the plants have been cut and placed in supermarkets.

In this study, CCC and B-Nine were applied by immersing the base of cut bean stems in the chemicals. When the bean leaves were removed and observed, the MSU researchers noted that chlorophyll had been preserved in the detached leaves.

Even more remarkable results were produced when similar treatment was tried on lettuce.

"We observed a very pronounced delay in deterioration of heads of leaf lettuce when we momentarily dipped whole heads in 10 to 100 ppm solutions of CCC and B-Nine," reports Dr. Halevy. "Shelf life was doubled with optimum treatments!"

Since he and Dr. Wittwer had seen similar results when the growth regulators applied to bean and broccoli leaves, the chemicals were next tried on cut flowers. As noted earlier, this resulted in prolonged life for some cut varieties.

Then, too, these chemicals (and others like them) can provide plants with more hardiness. This effect is particularly interesting to Dr. Wittwer, who was one of the pioneers in the study of this biological phenomenon, and Dr. Halevy, who had also worked in this field at Hebrew University (Relovot, Israel), before coming to MSU for a year of research.

They theorize that plant hardiness, after treatment with growth regulators, may be related to the chemicals' ability to inhibit aging, preserve chlorophyll and protein and reduce respiratory metabolism.

At any rate, the MSU researchers believe that further studies are needed in this area to take full advantage of the growth regulators' full potential.

Fungus Disease Wracks Havoc

If you find your lawn damaged by snow mold this spring, give the area a thorough cleaning but remember to do something about the situation next fall.

Snow mold is a fungus disease. The damaged area my be white, gray, pink or tan. The spore may survive through the warm season on dead grass mat and reactivate in cool weather. Snow cover aids the fungus development.

As soon as you discover snow mold, rake out the dead material. The grass roots will send out new shoots if they have not been killed. If they don't reseed the spots.

Apply a good turf fungicide. If you reseed, use inorganic fertilizer. When you mow, remove the clippings and in the fall rake away leaves and apply the fungicide again.

Strawberries in Eight Weeks

Do you know that you can grow strawberries from seeds?

There's a variety named Baron Solemacher which will flower eight weeks after planting and will produce large, sweet, very fragrant berries for weeks.

This is an Alpine type strawberry which does not produce any runners, but will remain small.

This little strawberry is especially useful as a border to a path or a flower bed, near the house of course so you can pick the berries as they ripen.

Cherry Trees Like Well-Drained Soil

Cherry trees should be planted on a choice site. They must have a deep, well-drained soil in as frost-free a location as possible.

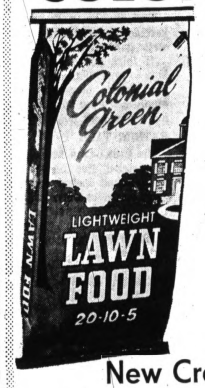
COLONIAL GREEN



The market is flooded with cheap fertilizer and most of them are worth even less than their price. We have tried a good many, and we have found that colonial green is one of the few that does not expand all its growth energy in a flash after the first rainfall. Colonial green lasts much longer and it will not burn when properly applied. It is manufactured for us by a prominent maker of high priced fertilizer, and we can recommend it.

Fifteen-month-old Charlene Joy Shaw, daughter of the Richard O. Shaws of LaSalle Street, will wear this heirloom dress for her baptism, Easter morning, in the Central Methodist Church. The dress was made by her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Frank Wilkinson of Perry, Mich., 73 years ago.

Charlene to Wear 73-Year-Old Gown

By MADELEINE DOEREN

Charlene Joy Shaw will be baptized by the Rev. William Brady, Easter morning in the Central Methodist Church.

She will be the third generation baby to wear a dress made 73 years ago by her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Frank Wilkinson of Perry, Mich.

Mrs. Wilkinson is the grandmother of Mrs. Richard O. Shaw of LaSalle Street, the baby's mother.

The dress was made for Charlene's great-aunt and was also worn by two great-uncles and by her grandmother, Mrs. LaVerne Herbert of Fowlerville.

Several aunts and uncles have also been baptized in the dress which originally was 18 inches longer than it is now.

SHORTENED

With each child, the styles had changed which required shortening at the waistline for each wearer. It has, however, remained the present length of 23 inches for the past 50 years.

So she used number 50 sewing thread for the crochet work in the spiderweb pattern. All tucking is quarter-inch wide.

Six tucks center the waist between two bands of lace insertion and three tucks are placed close to the sleeveline.

The lace collar is two inches deep and lace also edges the sleeves.

LONG PETTICOAT

The slip skirt or petticoat is 18 inches long. This includes three and one-half inches of lace and six tucks. It also has a four and one-half lace insert beneath a row of five tucks.

Both the dress and the slip which are of cotton are becoming very thin. They will be put away carefully after the christening until another cousin is ready for them.

Charlene, who is 15 months old, has blonde hair which has a tendency to curl. Her sister Carol is eight years old.

When their brother Douglas, who is four, talks about his operation (a tonsillectomy on Wednesday) he will be sure to tell about 'breaking out' with the measles shortly after surgery.

WOMEN'S SECTION

These Twins Have Many Relatives

By JEANNE NELSON

Mia Marie and Michael David, week-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. David Phelps of Mt. Clemens Street are well supplied with grandmothers. Nearly all live in the Pontiac area.

Beginning with the paternal side of the family are the twin's grandmother and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phelps, great-grandmothers Mrs. Noble Phelps and Mrs. Leonard Wardell.

FIFTH GENERATION

Going on from there, are the great-great-grandmothers, Mrs. Charles Richison, Mrs. John Wardell and Mrs. Jake Tofelsky.

Now for the other half of the family (maternal side): The twins' grandparents are the Clinton Threets.

Great-grandmothers are Mrs. William Threet and Mrs. Henderson Burgess of Crossville, Tenn.

Born April 8 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, the twins will be christened by Rev. Herbert Mansfield in St. Michael's Church Sunday.

The infant, Michael David, will be wearing a handmade christening dress trimmed with Belgian lace. It has been handed down for several generations in his father's family.

She Has a Dozen Easter Bonnets

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — Most women know very well what bonnet they'll plunk on their heads for the Easter Parade. Sheila MacRae, though, is in a dilemma.

She has only a dozen spring hats to choose from.

The actress-singer, wife of Gordon MacRae, confesses that, "I just love hats. I think Carol Channing and I own more hats than anybody."

Mrs. MacRae not only loves hats, but all apparel and candidly counts out the five wardrobes she owns:

VARIED WARDROBE

Her wardrobe for television specials, this one built around the photogenic neutrals of beige, gray and pale blue. Her personal wardrobe for the east, mostly suits and dress-coat combinations in whites, blacks or grays, her favorites.

Mrs. MacRae figured she spends about $10,000 a year on her personal wardrobe and she's a clothes saver, owning among other suits one 10 years old from the late Jacques Fath of Paris and another, aged 12, by Irene of Hollywood.

The outlay for her professional clothes runs about $30,000 a year, she said. They're more expensive because they must be specially built.

TAX DEDUCTION

"I have some beaded gowns from Norell (the designer) that cost $2,500 each," she said. "But I can't wear them outside the clubs, I'd lose the tax deduction. Professional wardrobe and personal can't overlap at all."

Most of the "dozen or so" hats Mrs. MacRae added to her collection (she's not sure how many hats there are in it) came from Sally Victor.

"I think you have to like hats to wear them well," said the blonde, blue-eyed Mrs. MacRae. "Being tall and having a long neck helps."

RATHER TALL

The British-born Mrs. MacRae stands five feet seven and one-half inches barefoot and has an excellent figure. She described it as "size 10 here (hips), size 10 here (waist), size 12 here (bust and shoulders)."

She keeps track of what clothes are where by careful labeling.

"If we're going to Palm Springs," she said, "I can just call my secretary and have her ship down trunks labeled Palm Springs."

"We have a room as big as this one for nothing but clothes storage," she said. "This one" referred to a studio, about 40 by 40 feet, where she is rehearsing for her first Broadway musical, a two-week return engagement of "Guys and Dolls," opening April 28.

She's also preparing for a world's fair special with her singer-husband, scheduled for April 29 on ABC-Television and for a tour in the summer in "Born Yesterday."

WCTU Unit Sees Charts

Family Has Needs, Too

Charity Begins at Home

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is one of those big-hearted, generous, "treat-the-gang" kind of men who is leading us to the poorhouse.

ABBY

When we go to his family's for dinner, he takes most of food.

Not only that, but he tips like a millionaire and he thinks nothing of lending people money when he knows he'll never see it again.

It's nice to be such a big-hearted guy, but we can't afford it.

Our children wear rags and I am afraid to answer the phone for fear it's an angry bill collector.

I have pleaded with him to let me handle the money, but he never does.

What on earth ails a man like mine?

SECURITY HUNGRY

DEAR "HUNGRY": Your husband is "hungry" too.

Hungry for praise and thanks.

He wants desperately to make an impression. His heart may be in the right place, but he is only kidding himself.

No one can buy friends. And furthermore, to treat others while one's own family does without is morally wrong.

Luxury, as well as charity, should begin at home.

DEAR ABBY: I am 54 and everybody tells me I look 40.

I have a boy friend who is 66 and we have been going together for 12 years.

I have my own flat and he owns his own house. I go over there almost every day to clean it up and keep his clothes in order.

Lately he has been pretending that he is so tired at night he can't keep his eyes open when he's with me.

But I found out that after I go home he gets dressed up again and goes out to meet girls who are young enough to be his granddaughters.

Believe me, he looks his age, and if he didn't have money, no young girl would look at him twice.

Do you think he is worth keeping? Or should I look for someone else?

KANSAS CITY LADY

DEAR LADY: Your "boy friend" appears to be enjoying his second childhood more than most boys enjoy their first.

If he is slipping around behind your back, it's too late to decide whether or not you want to "keep" him. You've lost him.

If you want to put up with that kind of foolishness, that's your business. But if you want a one-woman man, he's not it.

DEAR ABBY: Some friends of mine told me that back in 1922 they stood up at a wedding where the Justice of the Peace performed the ceremony, and his wife acted as a witness.

The Justice of the Peace had St. Vitus' dance so bad that he was unable to read the service from the book, so his wife took the book from his hands and read it for him.

When she got to the part where it said, "I Now Pronounce You Man and Wife," she handed the book back to her husband and let him say it.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Yes — the J.P.'s wife was obviously assisting her husband, in his presence and with his approval.

New Leaders Are Elected

Mrs. James Dando and Mrs. Maude Morgan will serve as matrons at arms; Mrs. Edwin May, color bearer and Mrs. Dando, banner bearer. Mrs. Thurman is auditing committee chairman.

Welfare chairman, Mrs. Ball, reported on work being done at the USO in Detroit also in the Battle Creek and Dearborn Veteran's Hospital. Mrs. Cowley reported on assistance to veterans at Pontiac State Hospital.

Delegate to the Michigan State convention, May 13-16 in the Executive Inn, Warren, will be Mrs. Boice, with Mrs. Thurman, alternate.

Installation of officers will be May 20.

Romneys Will Entertain Family With an Easter Sunday Dinner

Gov. and Mrs. George Romney will entertain at a family dinner in their Bloomfield Hills home on Easter Sunday. Joining their family, along with the Romney sons, Mitt and Scott, will be the two daughters of the Romneys, and their families, Mrs. Lauren Keenan and Mrs. Bruce Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Jewell of Oneida Road will travel to Cleveland for the Easter weekend.

A visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Suehrstedt and their two sons, Dick and Eric, is the reason for the proposed trip.

Home for the Easter weekend is "Biff" Jones of Michigan State University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Jones of Bloomfield Hills who have just returned from a vacation in Palm Beach, Fla. with their other four children, Crys, Stephen, Janet and Mark.

Mrs. J. Patriek Kane of Orchard Lake and small son, Patrick are planning a trip to Tucson, Ariz. over the Easter holidays. They will be the houseguests of her aunt, Mrs. Henry Taylor, formerly of Orchard Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kuijala of West Iroquois Road will be the houseguests this weekend of the Ted Kayes of Melrose Park, Ill.

A combination birthday and Easter Dinner is planned for Saturday evening in the James R. Jenkins home on Wenonah Drive.

Kathy will be six years old and brothers Mike (home from University of Michigan) and Ricky, Billy and Tom will all be on hand to help celebrate.

Mrs. Blenda Anderson, Mrs. Jenkins' mother will also be present and another guest, Grant Hubenet of Detroit is expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will leave Sunday, with friends, for a week's vacation in Greenbrier, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glenn of Bloomfield Hills will entertain at a family brunch Easter morning.

Mrs. Glenn's brother Robert S. Nelson, his wife and their children Jim, Lynn and Susie will be here from Arlington Heights, Ill.

Mrs. Glenn's mother, Mrs. Victor E. Nelson of East Iroquois Ave. and Mr. Glenn's mother, Mrs. Howard D. Glenn of Franklin Blvd., will also be there.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Howlett and their son Thomas, of East Iroquois Ave. recently returned from a 10-day vacation in New York City.

When Choosing Mate

Sense of Humor, Factor

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE V-455: Clarence G., age 28, is an engineer who registered with our Scientific Marriage Foundation.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I'd like to get married. For I make a good salary.

"But I travel around a great deal so I don't have much chance to meet attractive women of the sort I'd want for a wife.

"So I am registering with the S-M-F and hope you can introduce me to a girl around 25 years of age who is congenial.

"But what do the women registrants say they like most in a prospective husband?"

In addition, they very often add this interesting footnote:

"And he must have a good sense of humor!"

"If a man brings home a good pay check regularly, what difference does it make if he lacks a sense of humor?"

Instead, they want a man who has a broad perspective so that he doesn't make mountains out of molehills.

They prefer a husband who is not such a slave to rules and ritual that he throws a fit if any slight annoyance interrupts his smooth routine.

In other words, they want a man who can shrug off occasional rebuffs to his plans and still not grouch or gripe all day about the matter.

By their "sense of humor," as I have learned through questioning any of these prospective wives, they refer to a jolly personality who can laugh at himself occasionally.

By contrast, notice this frequent remark from girls:

"Oh, Henry is too stuffy! He takes the world too seriously, so he sees no fun in doing silly things once in awhile!"

If you men wish to rate higher as good husbands, please remember that women are more like children in their emotional outlook than are you grown males.

Both children, as well as grown women, thus are delighted by surprises, even if the cost thereof is not more than a dime.

They are easily sidetracked by trivial things which the average man would brush—aside as totally irrelevant and unimportant.

That's why they like to save dance programs and souvenirs of places they have visited, for such tangibles let them daydream later on about their former gay trips or good times.

That's one reason bankers, mechanics, engineers, farmers and doctors are usually masculine, for women are physically strong enough in this machine age to handle any of those duties.

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and go through those 200-point specific ratings.

Spadea Designer Pattern

by Anne Klein of Jr. Sophisticates N-1358

If you want to feel new or daring and be the conversation piece at a party, make this Junior sized dress in sheer chiffon or lace.

If chiffon is used, make it double thickness and double the yardage requirement. There are two tiny buttons on each shoulder closing.

There is a center back seam and side seams. The accompanying slip pattern is included and fits beautifully with a zipper closing down center hook.

This dream of a dress is very easy to make!

Straps Are 'In' for Spring Shoes

Straps are afoot for spring, reports the National Shoe Retailers Association.

Watch for straps that bare some arch, go thin, skim either high or low to fasten at tiny closed backs, or wide open ones.

Dr. William Trethowan bases his say-so on a study of 500 married men. It showed that one in nine complained of such ills as toothache, stomach pains and morning sickness. The symptoms were most acute immediately before their wives gave birth.

Phone First Is Always Best Way

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Before paying a visit to friends, is it not proper to telephone first to see if it is convenient?

I have always made it a practice to do this. However, so few people seem to folow this practice.

Is this not an exacted courtesy?

A: Telephoning before paying a visit is not exacted, but it is certainly a thoughtful courtesy that should be encouraged.

EATING PIZZA

Q: Last evening a group of boys and girls went bowling aand afterward we stopped and had pizza.

Half of us ate our pizza with a knife and fork, the other half used their fingers.

In fact, burning hot pizza dripping with oil and melted cheese is practically impossible to eat in the fingers.

Of course if one should buy a slice from a roadside stand where no fork is available, one has no choice but to eat it as best he (or she) can in the fingers.

UNEATABLE FOOD

Q: When invited to a friend's house for dinner and after having helped yourself to a portion of food, found it poorly cooked, greasy or overly spiced, would it be considered rude to leave most of it uneaten on the plate?

A: If it is really uneatable and you are afraid it will make you ill, you need not finish the food on your plate but you must at least make a pretense of eating it.

If your hostess should comment on how little you have eaten, you can make some excuse about indigestion or lack of appetite.

The correct wording and addressing of wedding invitations and announcements are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements."

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self - addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Hall of Fame for Women

A Women's Hall of Fame paying tribute to the twenty outstanding women of the Twentieth Century will be established in the Official World's Fair Women's Hospitality Center for the 1965 season, it was announced by Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, Chairman of the Women's Advisory Council to the Fair.

Newspaper and magazine Women's Editors nationwide are casting their votes now for 10 women of the past and 10 living from a list of 100 nominees compiled from such sources as "Who's Who in America," "Who Was Who," "Who's Who of American Women," and the "Encyclopedia Britannica."

CAMP FIRE HEAD

Serving on a special Ballot Committee to tally the votes are Miss Martha Allen, Executive Vice President, Camp Fire Girls, Inc., as Chairman, Mrs. Margaret Truman Daniel, Mrs. Mary Jane McCaffree, Director of Women's Activities for the World's Fair, Miss Gail Benedict, Purex Program Director for the Women's Hospitality Center, and Mrs. Lord.

HOSPITALITY

The Official Women's Hospitality Center, provided by Purex Corporation, Ltd. atop the Better Living pavilion, will house the Hall of Fame Gallery of photographic portraits of the twenty outstanding women. A formal reception in May will be held at the Center to honor the chosen women and to mark the official opening of the Gallery. Members of women's organizations, individual women, as well as men accompanied by women are welcome to view the exhibit weekdays from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. during the 1965 Fair season.

Pick Colors to Create Atmosphere

Choosing the right color for furnishings, walls and flooring is vital to a successful decorating scheme and to family comfort.

Scientists claim that a million different colors are visible to the human eye and can create atmosphere and affect a person's mood and temperament.

Soft, colored light streaming through a stained-glass church window, for example, sets an aura of quiet and reverence.

SIMPLE RULES

Errors in home decorating can be avoided by recognizing a few simple color guidelines. Color selection should be based on your personality and the intended use of the room.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Mrs. Vernon Abbott has an Orange-Nut Bread recipe that has become famous. It is always served at the annual antique show and sale at All Saints Church.

We have run this recipe in the past, but think there are many new cooks who will welcome it. You can taste it if you attend the show April 20-22.

ORANGE-NUT BREAD
By Mrs. Vernon Abbott

2 tablespoons salad oil
¾ cup orange juice (half undiluted frozen, half fresh)
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Let stand overnight to make slicing easier. Makes one loaf.

A summer wedding is being planned by Eva Joyce Hauer and David Lee Irwin. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Hauer and the Edward R. Irwins, are all of Jossman Road, Groveland Township.

Save Dish Drainer

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — After I bought a new dishdraining rack I hung the old one on a nail in the kitchen closet.

It makes a good holder for folded paper bags with the larger ones on top, middle-sized in the center and smaller ones at the bottom.—MARY

DEAR POLLY — The rope than dangled down from our pull - down stairway attracted flies, became unpleasant to look at and to handle and there was no way to clean it.

During this past summer my husband replaced this rope with plastic clothesline which he knotted at intervals to make hand grips.

It gets just as dirty but washes like a dream.—H.S.G.

DEAR POLLY — One of my most valuable time - saving gadgets is a tape measure that I always keep in my purse.

I carry my children's measurements with me as well as a record of the shirttail length my husband likes and you would be amazed at the bargains I am able to pick up just by knowing all these things.

Often garments do not run true to size so I do not depend solely on the labels but measure with my own tape.

This saves time for the sales clerk and eliminates the necessity of returning merchandise. The tape also comes in handy when shopping for furniture.—LOU

GIRLS — I learn something every day. For years I bought shirts for a husband and three sons and never before knew that shirttails were different lengths.—POLLY

Brims New Shapes in Spring Hats

Level brims, suggestive of the planter's hat, is one shape. Sloping coolie hats, ideal for shading hair and complexion, are suggested for wearing with bare, sleeveless dresses.

Oversized bretons and flattering upturned brims frame the face and make good suit hats. For the very tailored look, there are snappy fedoras and slouch hats.

Low to medium temperatures are best for ironing wash-and-wear finishes, most of which require some ironing.

Navy Top Color

Pearls and Topaz Good Combination

Two strands of large, rare golden cultured pearls, worn with a single strand of golden topazes, add an exciting dimension in jewelry accessories, with each striking lights from the other.

A torsade of small blue pearls twisted with creamy Biwa fresh water pearls is made to be worn in place of the classic choker for special occasions or a new effect with a suit.

Wickersham Nips Twins

Tigers Take 6-4 Decision at Minnesota

Norm Cash, Al Kaline Clout Home Runs to Pace Attack

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — There are those among the American League hitters fraternity who scoff at Dave Wickersham's fastball.

It was his fastball, Wickersham said, that brought him a route-going 6-4 victory over the Twins Thursday.

Wickersham whipped out a national sports magazine in the dressing room in which the preseason condition of his right arm was discussed. "He doesn't throw hard enough to hurt it," the article stated.

CAN THROW HARDER

Wickersham laughed. "I think I throw harder than that," he said, "but I think it's funny what they wrote. I'd say my fastball is a little slower than the average, speedwise, but it's above average in movement."

He had it moving pretty good the last six innings Thursday, holding the Twins to two singles after getting rocked for seven hits in the first three frames when the Twins built a 4-1 lead.

What did he change to check the Twins in the last six innings while his teammates were rallying on a three-run home run by Norm Cash and a two-run homer by Al Kaline?

"I dazzled 'em with my footwork," Wickersham joked. "Actually, after the third inning I started throwing my fast ball a lot more. I think they were looking for a lot of breaking stuff. I just started pitching better."

Detroit got off to a one-run lead in the third. After two were out, Dick McAuliffe tripled to right center and came home on Jerry Lumpe's single.

But the Twins staggered Wickersham in the third. Zoilo Versalles hit a ground rule double into the left field corner. Cesar Tovar singled. Harmon Killebrew's single scored Versalles and moved Tovar to second.

Jimmie Hall walked to fill the bases. Bob Allison's single scored Tovar and Killebrew, and Battey's sacrifice got Hall home. McAuliffe threw out Jerry Kindall.

McAuliffe doubled and Jerry Lumpe singled ahead of Cash's homer in the fifth. It was Cash's first homer of 1965.

Northern Michigan 11 Starts Drills Tuesday

MARQUETTE (AP)—Some 65 candidates, including 21 lettermen, are expected to report when Northern Michigan opens spring football practice next Tuesday.

NMU's spring practice will conclude with the annual Green-White game May 15.

Chicago Whips Sapped Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Rival coaches Billy Reay and Sid Abel agreed Thursday night that the Detroit Red Wings' surge to the National Hockey League's regular season championship took a lot out of the team.

"We reached our peak a little too early," Abel said after watching the Black Hawks thump his Detroit team, 4-2, in the deciding game of the Stanley Cup semifinal playoffs.

WIN BY FOUR

The Red Wings won 12 and tied another of their last 15 games and won the title by four points.

"It takes a lot out of a team to win the regular season championship," Reay echoed. "I said that last year but no one would listen to me. I said the Red Wings breezed in to finish fourth while we were in a fight for first. They beat us because they were fresher.

"This year, and especially tonight, we just wore them down," Reay concluded.

And, while Stan Mikita and Eric Nesterenko notched goals in the last period to decide the issue, the two coaches agreed the turning point came in the second stanza.

TURNED TIDE

Reay said Doug Mohns' scoretying goal with less than two minutes remaining turned the tide in Chicago's favor.

Abel said Bobby Hull's marker, his eighth of the series, while the Red Wings were playing two men short, gave the Black Hawks the lift they needed.

"It was a good series to win, and a hard one to lose," Reay offered.

The Black Hawks, who last won the coveted Stanley Cup in 1960-61, will be playing in their first final in three years.

Montreal, which plays host in the first two games of the best-of-7 final starting Saturday, last appeared when it captured the Cup in 1959-60.

"Montreal has more scoring depth than Detroit and is about as fast as we are," Reay said in evaluating his next foe.

Abel said he did not feel the extra days of rest — Montreal won its semifinal series last Tuesday — would help the Canadiens.

Celtics 'Steal' Crown

BOSTON (AP) —"I couldn't believe it when Johnny Havlicek got that ball. I couldn't believe it. I lost my voice."

Thus did Boston Coach Red Auerbach, caloused veteran of 19 years in the National Basketball Association, describe the 110-109 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night which gave his Celtics a ninth straight Eastern Division playoff crown.

Havlicek's interception of a pass-in for what was to be Philadelphia's winning basket and a guide wire supporting the temporary basket were the features of a high basketball drama.

FINAL SERIES

Boston, which opens the title series here against Los Angeles Sunday afternoon and Monday night in quest of a seventh world championship in a row, never had it tougher.

Auerbach called it "one of the greatest victories I've ever had because Philadelphia was a great team."

The Celtics were emotionally drained and could not bring themselves to look ahead to the Lakers. They generally agreed the five seconds before the final buzzer were the longest of their lives.

Here's how it happened.

Boston led 110-107 when Sam Jones, game high scorer with 37 points, misread the clock and the 24 second limit ran out. The Celtics let Wilt Chamberlain go to the basket uncontested for his 30th point, a dunk.

There were five seconds left.

Boston capt. Bill Russell, forgetting himself, took the ball out of bounds, jumped in the air to launch his pass-in and saw it carom back out of bounds off the guide wire.

Philadelphia, with possession, took time out, set up a play—and then Havlicek pilfered Hal Greer's pass-in.

This Is Michigan's Golf Capital

Master Pros Meet County's Top 18

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Experience is the best teacher and for the golfers who play one of the 50 courses in Oakland County there's plenty of experience to help them sharpen their games.

Put together, the top nine veteran club pros—each of whom has 30 or more years dedicated to his profession—and it would amount to 345 years of golfing experience.

The three Masters who have more than 45 years of seniority in the game are Brownie Meyer, Al Watrous and Frank Syron.

STARTS IN ILLINOIS

Meyer, who started his career as assistant pro in Quincy, Ill., in 1916, came to Michigan in 1927 to be the head pro at Eastwood Hills CC in Troy, which now is the site of a cemetery. He has been at Twin Beach now for 25 years.

Watrous, probably the most famous of county golf pros, started his career in 1920 and holds the longevity title for being at one course, famous Oakland Hills, for 35 years.

Syron starts his 24th season at Pontiac Country Club, with 45 years in pro golf ranks, including 21 years at Bloomfield Hills and Orchard Lake Country Club.

Second in longevity service is Bill Graham, who came from Scotland to Bloomfield Hills Country Club in 1931 and begins his 35th year at the course.

Bill Uzelac at Plum Hollow for 17 years, Warren Orlick at Tam O'Shanter for 13 years and Bald Mountain's Ken Wilson all boast 32 years of service in the profession.

Wilson has spent all 32 years with the public course northeast of the city which has been popular with publinx golfers.

The "back nine" of golf pros is shorter in length of service but talented in their profession.

Ted Kroll, long famous touring pro, starts his 2nd year at Franklin Hills, and has 28 years background as a pro, followed by Ray Maguire, who has spent 20 of his 27 years at Birmingham Country Club.

Frank Metzger, head pro at beautiful Red Run for 15 years, looks back on 25 years to complete the quarter century club.

Still a few years from this club is Preston Meisel at Farmington CC, Bob Gajda at Forest Lake and Elmer Prieskorn at Pine Lake, all 20 year men in total service.

Tony Battles Buick Odds

Champagne Tony Lema will be battling the odds when he tries to retain his Buick Open golf title June 3-6 at Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc.

No champion has ever repeated in the tournament, which draws most of the top names on the professional golfing tour.

Lema won last year with a 72-hole total of 277, and in doing so became the seventh Buick Open champion.

The Women's professional tour will hit the state in July for the Yankee Open July 15-18 at Atlas Valley Country Club near Flint.

City Sponsors Program of Golf Classes

A five-week course for beginning golfers will get under way Wednesday at Pontiac Central High School.

The program, sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, will feature fundamentals of the game with emphasis on grip, stance, swing, rules and etiquette.

After the Wednesday class, golfers will meet April 28, May 5, 12 and 19.

Outdoor practice at Carl's Golfland at 1976 South Telegraph is slated during the last two class sessions.

REGISTRATIONS

Advance registrations for the class may be made by calling the Parks and Recreation Department office, FE 3-7131, before Monday. Late registrations will be accepted at the gym shortly before the first session starts.

Cost of the program is $5 a person. Members are required to bring a No. 2 wood, a No. 5 iron, a putter and two practice (rubber or plastic) balls.

50 Golf Courses Within 18-Mile Radius of Pontiac

Golf to the East; Golf to the West; Golf to the North and Golf to the South—travel any direction of an 18-mile radius from Pontiac city limits, all within Oakland County, and there's a golf course within reach.

Augusta, Ga., may be the Masters golf capital of the world, but if there's another city that can lay claim to 50 courses within this radius, let it be known.

Add another seven courses just outside Oakland County lines and there wouldn't be enough time to play a different course in each week of the year.

Within the 25-mile range are several fine courses such as Warwick Hills, home of the Buick Open; Sunnybrook in Utica; Hillcrest and Burning Tree, between Utica and Mt. Clemens and Romeo Golf Club.

In 1958, Oakland County had 35 courses, today there are 50. Four of these are in the completion stages including Arrowhead Golf Club, Oxford Hills, Holly Acres and the unnamed course of Ernie Fuller, one of the brothers in the ownership of Edgewood Country Club.

Arrowhead GC, bounded by Lapeer Road, Walton and I-75, is hoping to be ready by the latter part of summer with 6,600 yards over 18 holes.

Holly Acres is shooting for an opening in late summer on its 300 acre site at I-75 and Holly Road.

The 18 holes under construction, aiming for fall or spring opening on Commerce Road by Fuller, will add more golf yardage to that area of Oakland County which already has a heavy concentration of courses.

Birmingham has another municipal course with the opening of Lincoln Hills in its planned recreational area near Cranbrook Road.

Many historic golf events have taken place on Oakland County links.

Most famous of course is Oakland Hills in Bloomfield Township, 4-time home of the USGA Open and last year the site of the first Carling World Open. Oakland Hills hosted the Open in 1924, 1937, 1951 and 1961.

The PGA championship came to the area in 1947 at Plum Hollow, in 1953 at Birmingham Country Club and in 1955 at Meadowbrook.

In the amateur field, the National Publinx took place at Rackham in 1961 and the Western Amateur was at Orchard Lake in 1962.

Indianwood in 1930, Plum Hollow in 1957 and Red Run in 1958 were sites of the Western Open, while Forest Lake was a popular one for lady golfers with the LPGA Open in 1956 and the USGA Women's Open in 1958.

These along with a great number of state tournaments and PGA tour tournaments have made the beautiful courses within a short reach of Pontiac their sites through the years.

The oldest and most challenging of the courses include Indianwood, Oakland Hills, Plum Hollow, Red Run, Franklin Hills and Birmingham, all within at least 40 years of historic tradition.

Courses Different After Long Layoff

Making that first trip to your favorite golf course after a long winter is somewhat akin to coming home late at night after the wife has rearranged the furniture.

It's different.

There were a few changes at several clubs during the off season, but nothing as revolutionary as the lighted courses which opened last year, bringing golf-after-dark to local golfers.

The two area clubs with par-3 courses under lights — Waterford Hill Country Club at Clarkston and Carl's Golfland on South Telegraph — made a hit with the golfers.

Carl Rose, owner of the Golfland, has added sand traps on his par-3 layout and has plans for a youth program that will include instruction, practice and league play.

At Waterford Hills, manager Robert Schmude has 18 par-3 holes under lights and the course will remain open each day until 2 a.m.

Clarkston Golf Club, a regulation course on Eston Road, will have three holes under lights — 1st (345 yards), 8th (435 yards) and 9th (140 yards).

A couple of pleasant changes are in store for players at Bogie Lake Country Club in Union Lake — a swimming pool and dining terrace.

The pool and terrace will be open this season, and the club has another nine holes under construction along with ski facilities.

Bald Mountain, now with 18 holes, has another nine under construction which is expected to be ready for play at mid season.

Rochester Country Club at 655 Michelson has replaced several greens and tees and 400 trees have been added to the course.

WATER FAIRWAYS

The clubhouse at Morey's Golf and Country Club in Union Lake has been renovated and fairways watered.

At Highland Hills Golf Club, the watering system has been extended to include 1,500 additional yards of fairways.

Two greens were enlarged and several new traps added at Twin Beach Country Club near Walled Lake.

Golfers will also find two larger greens and six new traps at Northwood Golf Club in Troy.

Two greens were changed and an addition built to the bag storage room at Franklin Hills Country Club on Inkster Road.

New caddie quarters and an addition to the pro shop represent the new look at Plum Hollow Golf Club.

TUNING UP — Don Behrend (right) and his son, Don Jr., both members of Morey's Golf Club team that plays in the Michigan Publinx Golf Association (MPGA), started sharpening their game this week at Morey's course on Union Lake Road. The MPGA will hold its first tournament of the season May 2 at Morey's.

Hills' Team Favored in Press Tournament

Bloomfield Hills' golf team, with a near-monopoly in the past six Pontiac Press Invitational Golf Tournaments, will be a heavy favorite to take the 14th annual crown when the firing opens May 24 at Pontiac Country Club.

Another record fell when Hills' Ron Holden, who has since graduated, fired a four-under-par 70 to top the mark of 73 set by Walled Lake's Bill Dingel in 1960.

SEAHOLM QUITS

Seaholm, six-time winner of the tournament, dropped out last year and was replaced by Milford.

Orchard Lake St. Mary joined the list of teams this season when St. Michael dropped golf and withdrew from the tourney.

The field is limited to 20 teams and, consequently, no team is added unless one withdraws.

Teams in the 14th annual tournament are:

Michigan 2nd for 'Golf Day'

The nation's amateur golfers will take on a pair of the best in the professional ranks in National Golf Day May 31.

The "target" score for the amateurs to shoot at will be set by 1964 PGA champion Bobby Nichols and last year's USGA Open king Ken Venturi in an 18-hole round at Laurel Valley Golf Club in Ligonier, Pa.

The tournament is open to all golfers and rounds may be played at any club. Fee for an 18-hole round is $1.

Michigan ranked second in 1964 in the amount of money contributed to the National Golf Fund, Inc., with $6,579.

Illinois, the leader in 1963, was also tops last year with $6,779.

Michigan led the nation in the number of golfers participating with 5,891. Illinois trailed with 5,866.

One of the leading clubs (in contributions) across the nation was Black River Country Club in Port Huron with $504. The club ranked third.

Other clubs in the state helping to swell the total were Tam O'Shanter ($411) in Orchard Lake and Edgewood ($263) in Union Lake.

Major Tournaments Missing This Year

Michigan's golf fans will have few opportunities to see the nation's touring professionals in action this season.

The biggest pro attraction in the state is the Buick Open, scheduled for June 3-6 at long Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc.

Some of the touring pros will be on hand for the local USGA Open qualifying at Meadowbrook Country Club and the outstate USGA Open qualifying at Cascade Hills near Grand Rapids. Both are set for May 24.

Sectional qualifying for the Open is set for June 8 at Birmingham Country Club. Barton Hills near Ann Arbor is the site of the sectional qualifying for the PGA May 24.

Owosso Country Club will play host to the Michigan PGA championship June 27.

MICHIGAN OPEN

State players will qualify for the Michigan Open July 12 at Spring Meadow Country Club, with the survivors battling for the Open championship July 30-31 and August 1 at Brookwood Golf Club in Flint.

The Michigan Publinx Golf Association will kick off the season May 2 at Morey's Golf & Country Club. The MPGA match championship is slated for July 21-24 at Green Acres Golf Club at Bridgeport.

The Golf Association of Michigan will hold its state amateur 'Open' championship at Belvedere Country Club at Charlevoix June 23-27 and its closed amateur tournament August 5-8 at Essex Golf and Country Club.

State Among Course Leaders

The family of golf courses across the United States continues to grow, and Michigan is one of the leaders in this growth.

Michigan ranks sixth in the nation with 386 courses, 50 of them in Oakland County. The state listed 354 last year.

New York state leads the way in number of courses with 563, followed by California (507), Pennsylvania (458), Ohio (440) and Illinois (410).

Oakland County is one of the most populous areas in number of golf courses in the nation, with the county's 50 exceeding the total in each of 10 states.

With some 700,000 persons living in Oakland County, the population per course is approximately 14,000.

However, in the period 1931-1964, Michigan's private clubs decreased from 200 to 142, a loss of 58, but increases in semi-private and municipal during the same period gave the state a net gain of 88.

Club Tourneys Dominate Local Scene

Although the professional tour hits the area only once (Buick Open) this summer, there are a number of local tournaments to whet the golfer's appetite.

The list of invitationals opens with the Pine Lake and Red Run events June 17-20.

The Indianwood Invitational, with Pete Green of Forest Lake and Pete Shubeck of Birmingham in the defending champion's role, is on the June 24-27 schedule.

The Forest Lake event is slated for July 8-11. Defending titlists are Harry Nederlander and Gene Eyler.

The 20th annual Birmingham Country Club Invitational will get under way July 15 and close the 18th. Expected to defend their 1964 crown are Jack Geiss and Jim Murphy.

Bud Stevens of Western CC and Don Mead of Detroit are defending champions in the George C. Sadowski Memorial best-ball tournament slated for September 5-6.

Hardest Loss of All

Ted Lindsay Bows Out

DETROIT (UPI) — He sat by himself on a wooden bench, half-clothed with a white towel in his hands.

After the inevitable question had been asked, he leaned his head back against the brick wall of the dressing room, wiped his sweaty, scarred face with the towel and muttered the answer in a gutteral monotone. "Yup."

Robert Theodore Lindsay had just played his last game of professional hockey . . . at least, that's what he said.

The 4-2 defeat inflicted Thursday night by the Chicago Black Hawks on the Detroit Red Wings was an acrid loss for the Detroit players.

They had won the regular season championship—their first in eight years — and they felt confident they could grab their first Stanley Cup in 10 years.

But Lindsay, more than any other Detroit player, took defeat the hardest for it probably meant the end of his dream.

"Terrible Tempered Ted" ended four years of retirement last September and rejoined the Red Wings, a team he had played on for 13 seasons. He had enjoyed most of his success in a Red Wing uniform while becoming the highest scoring left wing in National Hockey League history.

SOME SCOFFED

He was 39 years old and there were those who scoffed at his comeback. They said he was too old for the bruising game.

But Lindsay silenced them quickly. He scored 14 goals and played regularly on Detroit's No. 2 line. When people were analyzing "why Detroit won the title," they always included Lindsay's comeback as one of the plus factors.

New York Posts First Victory

Stottlemyre Tunes Up Yank Machine

By United Press International

When the Yankees' well-oiled machine stalls, the man to call for is Mel Stottlemyre.

He may not have worked opening day but that doesn't mean Manager Johnny Keane considers him anything other than his No. 1 hurler.

It was Stottlemyre who got the Yankee caravan rolling Thursday night with a seven hit, 4-0 whitewash of the Los Angeles Angels for New York's first victory after two consecutive one-run setbacks.

The 6-foot-2 blond righthander doesn't possess an over powering fast ball, nor does he break off back bending curves. He works in a steady, if not spectacular fashion, but the results are simply astounding.

HAD FINE CONTROL

The Angels couldn't put two hits together in the same inning Thursday and the 23-year-old sensation was razor sharp with his control, striking out four and walking none.

Stottlemyre was in mid-season form two weeks ago. He had the best spring on the Yankee staff, toiling 40 innings and compiling an earned run average of 1.57.

And for those who may have forgotten, Stottlemyre was the youngster fervently summoned from the minors last August when the American League champions were in dire straits and who proceeded to put together a 9-3 mark and a 2.06 ERA, working the crucial games consistently.

New York jumped on starter and loser Marcelino Lopez for single tallies in the first, third and fifth innings and home run king Roger Maris clubbed his first of the campaign in the eighth to complete the scoring.

OTHER AL GAMES

In other American League action, Washington clipped Chicago 3-1 and Kansas City downed Cleveland 7-3. Boston and Baltimore were idle.

Washington's Bennie Daniels held the White Sox hitless for 7⅔ innings before yielding a single to pinchhitter Smoky Burgess.

The Pale Hose pushed over a tying run in the eighth and Daniels retired for a pinchhitter the following inning. Willie Kirkland and Frank Howard homered in the ninth to assure the 32-year-old Senator veteran of the victory.

Rocky Colavito, acquired by the Indians from the A's in an off-season deal, socked his first homer of 1965 in a losing cause. Cleveland's Sam McDowell was pulled after 4⅔ frames, during which time he whiffed 10 men.

Steel-Nerved Young Pros Lead Classic

HOUSTON (AP) — Bert Yancy and Homero Blancas are two young golf pros who say pressure does not make them nervous.

They are newcomers the first round gallery of the $55,000 Houston Golf Classic applauded. Such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player were absent but Yancey, 26, and Blancas, 27, performed like steel-nerved veterans.

Yancey's wife, Linda, picked the score — 65 — on the first tee and her husband, a former West Point cadet adjutant, ignored a light rain and tricky wind to match it with a mid-afternoon 31-34 — 65.

Blancas, son of a maintenance worker at Houston's swank River Oaks Country Club, finished in the last threesome in bright late afternoon sunlight and saw a 50-foot putt that would have given him a first place tie with Yancey stop two feet from the cup.

It was Blancas' first official 18-holes as a tournament pro and he thought he played a "loose game" while taking a 33-33 — 66 on the 7,233-yard, par 35-36 — 71 Sharpstown Country Club course.

The Merc 110, and the 3.9, 6 and 20 hp fishing Mercs, all have a smooth, slanted one-piece lower unit housing that glides up and over submerged obstacles. There's no protruding gear-case to damage by impact, or catch weeds that cause overheated engines or fouled props.

Merc's exclusive Jet-Prop exhaust improves engine breathing, increases thrust and reduces underwater drag. Fumes and noise are buried far behind the boat. Mercs have no shear pins to fail . . . a live-rubber safety clutch protects the prop on impact. All Mercurys have full gear-shift . . . forward, neutral, reverse.

Merc's tilted powerhead and internal bleed system eliminates misfiring and spark plug fouling. Fixed-jet carburetors need no adjustment, let you go further, faster, on less fuel.

World Champs Still Winless

Cardinals Continue to Falter

By The Associated Press

Schoendienst must be starting to wonder about that fact even though he was there — as a coach — when St. Louis defeated the New York Yankees in the 1964 World Series.

For, the rookie manager still seeks his first victory after Cincinnati walloped St. Louis 10-4 Thursday night.

THREE STRAIGHT

As the 1965 baseball season nears its first weekend, the Cardinals haven't looked anything like the team that came from 4 games back and won the National League pennant in the final two weeks of last season.

Even the New York Mets are ahead of St. Louis. The Mets edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings, marking the earliest they've won a game in their four-year existence.

The Braves, opening their final season in Milwaukee, whipped Chicago 5-1 in the only other NL game. Rain washed out the San Francisco-Philadelphia and Los Angeles-Pittsburgh games.

TWO HOMERS

Two of the hits off St. Louis starter Bob Purkey were home runs, Vada Pinson clouted a three-run blast that capped a four-run uprising in the third inning, and Gordy Coleman unloaded a grand slam in the fifth.

John Tsitouris limited the Cardinals to five hits, two of them run-scoring doubles by Ken Boyer and Dick Groat in the third and another Curt Flood's homer in the eighth.

The Mets won their first game on Bobby Klaus' 10th-inning homer off Claude Raymond after Jim Wynn tied the game for Houston with a two-run homer in the ninth. In their first three seasons, the Mets lost nine, five and four games before winning.

En route to the triumph, the Mets pulled the third triple play of their brief career.

Wynn started it in the second inning when he flied to Johnny Lewis in right field. Lewis fired to catcher Chris Cannizzaro, who tagged Walt Bond at the plate and then threw to Roy McMillan to nail Bob Aspromonte trying to reach second.

Bob Sadowski held the Cubs to four hits and ignited a three-run Brave outburst in the third with an infield single. The Milwaukee pitcher also figured in a later run with a sacrifice bunt. Ernie Banks homered for Chicago in the fifth.

No wheels! Toro's new Flymo handles like no other mower can . . . because it floats on air

A light push and Toro's new Flymo goes where you want it to go. Back and forth. Side to side. Straight ahead. The most revolutionary idea since power mowing began. Flymo floats on a cushion of air, just like the military hovercraft. As safe and easy to use on hills and terraces as it is on level lawns. No discharge chute—clippings and debris are deflected downward into the grass beneath the housing. Flymo cuts a 19" swath, weighs just 30 pounds, and features a fast starting 2½ hp engine FLOATS ON AIR. A whirling impeller spins a ring of air that supports the Flymo only ¼" above the ground. Floats so low . . . it glides under shrubs and bushes. Height of cut easily adjusted for ½, 1 and 1½ inches.

New Toro mower floats on air!

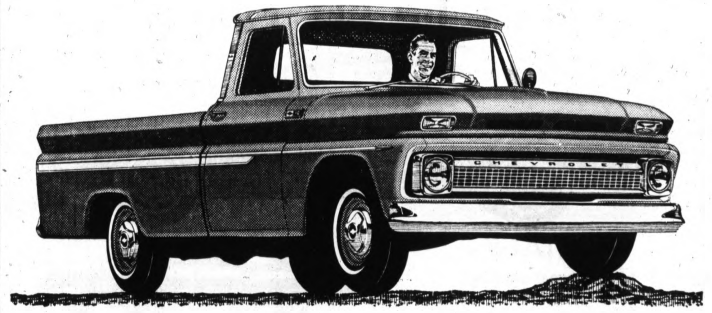
Chevrolet



workpower

"walks" right over bumps and trouble

Enter 57 Cars for Indy Race

Officials expect to accept several more entries arriving in the next few days and postmarked before the Thursday midnight deadline.

Six cars were entered late Thursday, and the nominations of rookies Mel Kenyon of Davenport, Iowa, and Ralph Liguori, Tampa, Fla. to pilot two of them brought the number of new drivers in the field to 13.

Liguori will attempt to qualify an Offenhauser roadster for Norm Demler, Niagara Falls, N.Y. Kenyon will go in a Federal Engineering Offenhauser roadster owned by Dan Levine, Detroit.

Levine also submitted a rear-engine Offenhauser and named Bob Harkey, Indianapolis, to drive it. Johnny Rutherford, Fort Worth, Tex., was nominated for a rear-engine Ford entered by Racing Associates Inc. of Indianapolis.

LOYAL NORTHERNER — The Milwaukee Braves, who will be the Atlanta (Ga.) Braves after this season, opened the baseball campaign yesterday in their Wisconsin home and found a new pennant added to the opening-day decorations — a Confederate flag.

Waterford, Oxford Thinclads Triumph

Waterford splashed past Dearborn Fordson, 82-27, on a muddy track to up its record to 2-0. Oxford downed Holly, 71-38, for its third dual meet win.

BOWLING

Felice Quality Market stretched its slim lead at Huron Bowl and 300 Bowl cut into the edge held by Oakland Vending at West Side Lanes in classic league action recently.

Felice now leads All-Star Lanes by six points in the Huron Classic aided by a 6-2 decision against Fontana Brothers last Friday despite proprietor Joe Bonfiglio's 225-645 for the latter.

Oakland's lead is now just two points in the West Side Classic after Monday's action. George Chicovsky's league-leading 246-219-659 helped 300 cut the deficit. Teammate Joe Foster hit 266.

That same night in Huron's Pontiac General Hospital circuit, Nancy Oates had 215—524 for Sterling Auto Parts, and second place Gold Cross Ambulance's Shirley Barnett had a 170 all-spare game. The Pied Pipers are in first place.

Orchard Lanes' Mixed All-Stars League that same night had a 211-221—622 by Russ Dickman and a 234 by Theophil Dobski.

The Kings & Queens League at Airway Lanes listed its top scores last Friday as Harold Stenquist's 237, John Latimer's 231 and Bev Filka's 513. The Bocci Four teams has a two-point lead.

The Primrose Lanes Wednesday Mixed Doubles loop recorded a 219 for Betty Stuart and a 2-7—10 conversion for Eileen Lincicome.

Montcalm Bowling Center action in the Ladies Quartette League last week was led by Winnie Haack (217) and Juanita Hardenburgh (205).

The Airway Lanes fourth annual Father and Son Bowling Tournament concluded its two-weekend run last Sunday with champions crowned in four divisions.

Canadian Writer Reports

Militarism Setting Theme of Life in China

(EDITOR'S NOTE — American newsmen are barred by Red China. Occasionally a Canadian writer gets a visa. This is a report sent to the Southam Newspapers of Canada by the chief of the Southam News Services.)

By CHARLES LYNCH

PEKIN G(AP) — Despite the violence of anti-American propaganda in Red China's capital, there seems to be no eve-of-war feeling in the Chinese air and no outward evidence that the Chinese government envisages escalation of the Viet Nam conflict into large-scale war.

The campaign against the U.S. government and armed forces was carried forward this week with the opening of a display of photographs, paintings and cartoons built around President Johnson as the arch-villain.

This sort of material, vividly displayed at the Peking Art Gallery, could be called the "pop art" of China today. The latest entries achieve new heights of bitterness replete with American skulls, American coffins, American graves, and American soldiers and politicians cowering before the stalwart people and troops of the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam.

Quiet crowds passed through the exhibit amid popping flashbulbs without any display of emotion. This Canadian correspondent, who from all appearances might be an American, passed through with them without incident.

RIDDLE REMAINS

The riddle remains of whether the Chinese intend to follow their battle of the posters with something more tangible. But the tenor of feeling here continues to be defensive in tone. The Chinese leave no doubt that they will fight if provoked but will not undertake provocation that would lead to military escalation.

The whole of the vast military apparatus of China is geared to defense of the homeland. In that context this is doubtless the most military-minded nation in the world, with the closest relationship between the people and the military. Troops of the People's Liberation Army are everywhere in evidence doing civilian as well as military jobs. The theme is that the army helps the people and the people help the army.

The end effect is a glorification of the military that has gone out of fashion in most nations of the world.

When the Chinese speak of contemporary themes in their current literature and theater they mean building up the army and Chairman Mao Tze-tung, and attacking old enemies, landlords and Americans, and new enemies, the Khrushchevite revisionists of Moscow.

OLD-TIME FLAVOR

This gives some of their works the character of old-time melodrama featuring Simon Legree or that villain, Desperate Desmond, who owned all the town property.

The hate campaign seems designed not so much to stir up trouble outside as to reinforce the revolution inside the country and make sure that the young people of China don't lose their fervor for the backbreaking tasks that confront them at prasks that confront them at home.

This means that the country is holding a sort of perpetual pep rally and any target that presents itself is seized upon for its emotional content. The American government — not, one is assured, the fine working people of America, but the rascals in power — presents the most prized target, though the Chinese cartoonists are having some trouble with President Johnson and in some cartoons he seems to resemble Richard Nixon.

While the propaganda drums beat, the armaments race continues.

VISITS COMMUNE

Thursday I visited the Sino-Viet Nam People's Friendship Commune in the countryside outside Peking and was shown the pastoral wonders of the place. We came upon a workshop where some 40 men and women were busy with forges, molds, lathes and other apparatus of light industry.

When I asked what they were making I was told matter of factly that they were turning out hand grenades for the militia.

"Chairman Mao says all the people should become soldiers," said commune leader Kou Hanwen, "so we are making these grenades and keeping some for our own use."

He said the grenades were for throwing practice but could be armed for combat if the need arose.

RIFLE BARRELS

They looked businesslike enough. So did some things that looked like rifle barrels but were described as parts for a tool-cutting machine.

EASTER ADORNMENT,— Picking an Easter bonnet was more difficult than usual this year for Mary Beth Wilson, 14, of Cleveland. Here she's wondering whether she has found one captivating enough to distract attention from the shiner she received when she bumped into a car door.

State Publication Rapped

LANSING (AP) — Republican Senators complained Thursday night that majority Democrats are using the nonpartisan Legislative Service Bureau to grind out what they called slanted publicity releases.

Minority Leader Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, said he was surprised to find on his desk a so-called Michigan legislative report produced by the reorganizing service bureau.

Th e one-page mimeographed sheet contained one major and five short stories on legislation and included a headline that "full-time legislature draws praise of leaders."

Lockwood disowned any connection with the report and said he as minority leader had not been consulted. Quotes in the story came from House Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, and Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, the majority leader.

Other senators quickly pointed out two technical errors in stories and Sen. Robert Huber, R-Birmingham, said he did not want any copies of the document, signed "from your legislator," to get into his district.

Dzendzel defended the document and said it would be a weekly publication available for legislators to distribute in their districts. Ten copies were initially made available to each senator and representative.

Top TV, Movie Producer

Martin Ransohoff Ranks High

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Martin Ransohoff's office at MGM is a tycoon suite, befitting his $25 million a year operation.

But behind the big desk sits a tieless Ransohoff looking less like a tycoon than anyone in town.

Often on the sets of his movies, the 36-year-old Ransohoff is mistaken for a third assistant director or some other hireling.

But he is among the most dynamic and successful of all movie and television producers.

In 1954 he invested $200 and started Filmways, Inc., making TV commercials.

MILLION DOLLARS

This year he is paying Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton better than a million dollars each to costar in "The Sandpiper."

On television, his four shows are consistently in the top 10 — "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Petticoat Junction," "Mr. Ed" and "The Addams Family." Next year he'll have two more — "O'Brien" with Peter Falk and "Country Cousins."

In the movies, he is currently making "The Cincinnati Kid" with Steve McQueen and Ann Margret. He has just finished "The Loved One," based on Evelyn Waugh's devastating satire on big cemeteries. Two more are in release "The Americanization of Emily" and "Topkapi."

"I guess you could call us a studio within a studio, but we do it all with a small organization; we only have five executives," says Ransohoff. "I don't have any close relatives."

MAYER'S RELATIVES

He, of course, was referring to relatives of the late L. B. Mayer, who founded MGM. The Mayer relatives were irreverently called "the sons of the pioneer." All occupied high-paying executive posts.

Ransohoff gets along well with his stars, but he can be forceful. He once fired one of Hollywood's top directors because he didn't like what he saw in the early rushes.

Whereas, it took a lifetime to make "Cleopatra" with the Burtons, Ransohoff brought "The Sandpiper" in on schedule and close to budget.

"I found Elizabeth very professional," says Ransohoff. "The only days she missed shooting were because I ordered her to stay in her hotel for a couple of days to lick a virus.

"She wanted to work."

WILD MOVIE

"The Loved One," says Ransohoff, is such a wild and weird movie that "It makes 'Tom Jones' look like serious drama."

Everybody from Jonathan Winters to John Gielgud is in the movie. Some of the town's top stars do cameo bits.

But the wildest scene in the movie, says Ransohoff, will make a new comedy star out of Liberace.

"He plays a casket salesman who sells Bobby Morse a coffin with all the extra equipment possible — including an automatic transmission."

Detroit Store Robbed

DETROIT (AP) — Four armed robbers smashed open a group of cash registers in stealing between $8,000 and $9,000 from the Buchanan Patent Medicine Store Thursday.

One 35,000-ton battleship required 150,000 pounds of rubber, enough to equip 2,000 automobiles complete with spare tire.

Ginger Rogers will return to Broadway Aug. 23 after a 14-year absence to play the role of Mrs. Dolly Gallagher Levi, matchmaker extraordinary, in the musical hit, "Hello, Dolly!"

GINGER ROGERS

An announcement yesterday said Carol Channing, who created the part, is taking a leave from the show to head the California company, which is scheduled to open Sept. 7 in San Diego.

Miss Rogers, 53, who won an Academy Award for her dramatic movie performance in "Kitty Foyle," last appeared on Broadway in "Love and Let Love," a comedy presented in 1951. She recently has appeared in major cities in such musicals as "Gypsy," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," and "Annie Get Your Gun."

CBS Head Receives Concert Guild Award

He said he had been inspired at the age of 8 but was rejected by a prospective music teacher before he ever touched a violin on the basis of a brief singing test.

He learned to play the piano, did "reasonably well," but lost heart and today can go to the three-quarter mark on "Whispering" before becoming tired.

Just the same, William S. Paley, 64-year-old board chairman of the Columbia Broadcasting System, received the 1965 Concert Artists Guild award last night for his performance, over many years, as an electronic bearer of good music through radio, television and recordings. This included CBS's presentation of the New York Philharmonic on radio and the Philharmonic's Young People's concerts on television.

The guild, a non-profit institution, is dedicated to finding, supporting and bringing to attention young musicians.

Andy Williams' Have Second Child

Singer Andy Williams' French-born wife, Claudine, gave birth yesterday to a son in St. Joseph's Hospital in Burbank, Calif. The child weighed 7 pounds, 9 ounces. The couple has one other child, a daughter, Noelle, 17 months old.

Say Macapagal Target of Assassination

Defense Secretary Marcario Peralta said today in Manila that security units have taken precautions to protect President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines against any attempt on his life.

Peralta said military intelligence has received a report that Communist Huk rebels are planning to assassinate Macapagal. He said he could not disclose further details.

West Coast Quake Damage Is Minor

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Only minor damage was reported from an earthquake in a three-county area Thursday.

The quake was felt at 12:08 p.m. in Riverside, San Bernardino, Fontana, Rialto, Colton, Chino, Pomona and Santa Ana.

The California Institute of Technology said it had a magnitude on the Richter scale of 4.5.

Some windows and crockery were broken and telephone service was disrupted briefly.

Judge Disregards Juvenile Gang Threats

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I'm not afraid — and won't ever be. Show fear and you're finished."

Judge Juanita Kidd Stout shuffled papers on a cluttered desk in her City Hall office and calmly analyzed her battle — despite threats on her life — to get juvenile gang members, mostly school truants, off the streets.

About those threats?

"I sleep just as well as I ever did. I regard them as an unfortunate part of my job. But you can't knuckle down to threats, otherwise law and order vanish."

But if Judge Stout shows unconcern, city officials aren't ignoring possible danger. Policemen are with the 46-year-old jurist — the first Negro woman to hold such a post in Pennsylvania — wherever she goes.

ALL SEARCHED

Every man, woman or child who enters her courtroom is searched. So far, more than 100 knives, scissors, razors and other weapons have been confiscated.

Mrs. Stout, a Democrat, has been a judge of the County Court since 1959. She has been sitting in the court's Juvenile Division in recent months.

"Gangs must be broken," she said, pounding a book she held in her hand. "Whatever it takes to do it, must be done. If it means jailing boys and girls for 10 days or 100 days or more, it has to be done. If a juvenile refuses to go to school, he should be taken off the streets."

Most of the trouble, she feels, lies with disinterested parents "too busy or too lazy to properly teach and guide their children."

Judge Stout believes jail is the only immediate solution "or at least some kind of detention institution where a pattern or responsibility can be developed."

But juvenile centers are overcrowded. Judge Stout said Pennsylvania has bed space for 3,222 juvenile offenders "yet the average number of boys and girls now held in custody each day is more than 4,500."

Pennsylvania's welfare secretary, Arlin M. Adams, said it would take $2.5 million or more to provide proper quarters and personnel. He suggests more probationary sentencing.

Disagreeing, Judge Stout said, "I think it will be even more costly to do nothing and let the cost of crime, in dollars and human suffering, continue to rise."

ISOLATION

Mrs. Stout said truants must be isolated "because the decent children cannot go to school without fear of bodily harm. And people cannot sit on their porches, even in their houses, without fear of some kind of neighborhood violence."

She admittedly isn't happy sitting in Juvenile Court and handling up to 150 cases daily.

"It is emotionally draining," she said. "Basically, I'm a lawyer with a love of legal research. I don't like to sit out there and be a social worker, a teacher and a substitute Mama."

Woman Finds Jackpot at Post Office Locale

PHOENIX Ariz. (AP) — Mrs. Donna Bechhoefer got the surprise of her life upon dropping a dime in an automatic stamp vending machine at a neighborhood post office near her home. As she stood amazed, out pumped 1,000 postage stamps before the machine stopped. And that was not all. A total of $1.40 in change popped out. But postal authorities came over and claimed all the "windfall."

Train Wrecking Teen Pastime in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Wild elements among Britain's teenagers have come up with a destructive new pastime — train wrecking.

Biggest incident so far was the derailing March 29 of a suburban train at Elm Park on the eastern outskirts of London in which two were killed and 15 injured.

Railmen told the inquiry of the terrors they face on this stretch of line they have dubbed "Hooligan Mile."

Rail officials announced that no less than 1,000 cases of trespass and vandalism were committed last year in eastern England alone.

Favorite trick of some youths is to dangle a heavy object on the end of a rope from a bridge over the line so that it smashes the driving cab windows of oncoming electric trains.

"By the time you see it, it's too late," said a railman.

The story is much the same throughout Britain.

The engineer of another express stopped just in time to avoid hitting a pile of heavy stones.

"This could have resulted in a serious tragedy," a rail official said.

It is this aspect that worries the authorities most. They feel that unless the vandalism is controlled a disaster may occur.

To this end, police and rail patrols have been stepped up at known trouble spots and railway authorities have offered a reward for information leading to the arrest of vandals.

Some Communities in Middle

Drawing Lines in Water Feud

By PAT McCARTY

The lines are being drawn in the battle over north Oakland County's water supply, but many communities remain in the middle.

Several officials are wondering about the scope of Genesee Valley Utilities Authority plans and those of the opposition, organized in the North Oakland Water Association (NOWA).

The utilities authority was organized last year by 11 townships interested in developing a water system which would loop Flint and serve the outlying communities.

The group has applied for a $321,000 federal loan to explore the feasibility of establishing such a system and to investigate potential water sources.

TOWNSHIPS STUDIED

Named for the study were six townships in Genesee County and 10 in Oakland.

Most of the money, about $270,000, would be used for preliminary planning of water mains and lateral lines. The other $50,000 would pay for test wells on either side of the county line.

The authority has invited Oakland municipalities to participate in the program on a cooperative basis.

The NOWA was established to halt the move and, it was suggested, possibly develop Oakland County water sources for Oakland County residents.

GROWTH EFFECTS

To a greater or lesser extent, all of the communities are beginning to feel the effects of growth.

The long-rural landscapes are being dotted by subdivisions, with the promise of more on the way.

While the residential areas are becoming more dense, the communities also are attempting to attract industry to build their tax bases.

To do this, they need water and sewers.

LOW WATER LEVEL

Recent low lake levels and the drying up of private wells have instilled the fear that the communities have barely enough water to meet their own needs—let alone any to share.

Engineers at Johnson and Anderson, Inc., of Waterford Township have been working with the Genesee authority.

They claim there is more than a sufficient quantity of water to go around—if the wells are drilled deep enough.

FORESEEN AMOUNT

"We're talking of taking three billion gallons a year," Philip Hampton of Johnson and Anderson said. "Initially we would need one per cent and never more than four per cent of the recharge."

He has pointed to a recent water "find" in Fenton, just across the county line from Holly.

During a test in January, a new well there produced three million gallons a day. Drillers estimated the performance could have been doubled if bigger pumps had been used.

However, Fenton Township — one of the Genesee areas the utilities authority planned to explore—has passed a zoning ordinance amendment restricting the use of underground water sources there to the township.

The NOWA is urging Oakland County townships to follow suit.

The Holly Township zoning board will hold a public hearing on a similar amendment at 7:30 p.m. April 26.

A new zoning ordinance incorporating the idea tentatively has been approved in Springfield Township and is expected to be adopted by trustees at their May 5 meeting.

AREA NEWS

Robert McKenney of Holly is chairman of the NOWA's legal committee and serves as attorney for Holly, Springfield, Groveland and Rose townships.

NO ACTION

Rose and Groveland have not yet taken action on the amendment but their zoning boards are in favor of it, according to McKenney.

He said he also sent sample ordinances to officials in Brandon, Oxford, Addison, Independence, Orion, Oakland, White Lake and Highland townships.

"We're not asking them for anything," he said. "We want them to adopt these ordinances to protect their own interests."

Hampton has labeled "isolationist" the attitudes of boards adopting the amendment.

TAKING STAND

"They're taking the attitude 'If we had 10 times as much water as we'll ever need, we still wouldn't let you in'," he said.

"If properly used and properly planned, the cooperative effort would be to the best advantage of all municipalities. Otherwise, they will freeze their growth.

"If we take advantage of our sources, we won't have to let the water run into Lake St. Clair, into Detroit and then buy it back from Detroit."

In an attempt to clear the air surrounding the controversy, Independence Township officials Wednesday night held a meeting to which they invited Genesee Valley Utilities Authority representatives and officials of neighboring communities.

GIVES ADVICE

E. Price Kimbrough, president of Shannon and Co., Detroit, is one of the authority's financial consultants.

He noted the group was organized when negotiations to buy water from Flint broke down.

As far as he could determine, Kimbrough said, the lowest of Flint's water rates to another community is 42 cents for 1,000 gallons.

When pipelines from Detroit are completed, Flint will pay 17.4 cents per 1,000 gallons for five years and 18.4 cents thereafter.

ESTIMATED COST

Estimated cost of the townships' supplying the water is only eight cents per 1,000 gallons.

Flint also would require the units to handle the installation of water lines, turn them over to Flint and let the city deal directly with the residents.

"The authority expects to serve 200,000 people in a decade at the rate of 3,650 million gallons a year per 100,000," Kimbrough said.

He calculated the savings at $1,095,000 a year for every 100,000 persons served.

BOND ISSUE

With the savings alone, he said, the authority could finance a $24-million bond issue spread over 40 years.

Cost of transmission, distribution and development of sources for the 11 Genesee townships has been estimated at $28 million.

Each unit now pays a $50 membership fee for each representative in the authority.

There is to be no other charge until the unit needs the water system and signs a contract for the service.

FAVORS JOINING

Independence Township Clerk Howard Altman said he would urge the Township Board to join the authority at its meeting Tuesday night.

He also plans to encourage other townships to do likewise.

The exploration is worth the fee, he said, although signing the contract in another matter.

Brandon Township Supervisor Richard E. Wilcox said, "This is something that is going to take a lot of study, but it has enough merit to look into it."

He will bring the matter up at his board's May 3 meeting.

HARE-RAISING STORY — Ron Hollis (left), president of the Galloway Lake 4-H Club, explains the care and raising of rabbits to nephew Bob Hollis (center) and Phil Hellman. Hollis is one of many 4-H'ers throughout Oakland County who are available to teach recipients of Easter bunnies how to take care of them. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hollis of 1066 Doris, Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hollis of 1090 Doris and Phil is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hellman of 1052 Doris, all of Pontiac Township.

4-H to Instruct Young Owners

Bunnies Require Special Care

Receiving a live rabbit for Easter is a source of delight for any child.

But three or four weeks later, the cause of so much happiness at Easter can become a major problem.

That's because few children, or their parents, for that matter, have ever raised a rabbit or know much about taking care of them.

In the interest of cutting down on the number of rabbits which die every year due to poor care by their new owners, Oakland County 4-H clubs have made it possible for children to learn how to care for their long-eared pets.

Arrangements have been made to offer instruction on rabbit care to such children by 4-H members and leaders throughout the county.

RABBIT SPECIALIST

Dr. Charles Shepard, a rabbit specialist from Michigan State University, recently conducted a training session for area 4-H'ers on rabbit care, judging and marketing.

Continued training is being given by 4-H leaders in regular club meetings.

County 4-H agent Jack Worthington points out that children who come to the 4-H clubs for information on raising their rabbits will also find an opportunity to learn about animal husbandry, gain some business knowledge and share in the fun and educational experiences of 4-H club membership.

Worthington said that many youngsters may be interested in the opportunity to exhibit at the County 4-H Fair in August.

Information on the location of present clubs and the formation of new ones can be obtained from Worthington and Ruth Montney, also a county 4-H agent.

Contract Okayed for 5 Schools

WALLED LAKE — The board of education has awarded a $281,150 contract for construction at five elementary schools.

The contract went to Waterford Construction Co., lowest of three bidders on the combined work.

Heading the list of projects to be completed by September is a seven-room addition to Keith Elementary School, 2800 Keith, West Bloomfield Township.

The 13-room unit was opened in January 1964. Total cost of the new wing has been estimated at $140,000.

Also scheduled to go into operation by September are libraries at Commerce, Walled Lake and Decker elementary schools.

APPROVED IN DECEMBER

The $1.5-million bond issue approved by district property owners in December allots $180,000 for the libraries and other projects not completed under the last building program.

Work at Union Lake Elementary School will include remodeling at the entryway and provision for the piping of water to six classrooms.

At Walled Lake Elementary School, storage space will be added and existing areas remodeled to provide a health room, book store and special education room.

Renovation at Commerce, Decker and Walled Lake elementary schools will bring the buildings up to state fire marshal specifications.

Woman Silent at Arraignment

MACOMB TOWNSHIP—Linda Dean, 22, of Detroit stood mute when she was arraigned in Detroit yesterday on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the April 5 slaying of a Cincinnati woman.

Miss Dean is accused of helping to murder Raven Shilling, 28. She is held in the Wayne County Jail without bond for a Recorder's Court examination next Wednesday.

Also scheduled for examination on that date is Theodore F. Wilson, 39, also of Detroit. He is also accused of first-degree murder in the slaying of Miss Shilling.

Both the dead woman and Miss Dean have records as prostitutes.

Wilson is the slain woman's former brother-in-law. He was arrested, as was Miss Dean, on the basis of fingerprints found in Miss Shilling's car after the slaying.

ARGUMENT

Police said witnesses reported the two suspects and Miss Shilling argued in front of the Detroit home of the latter's former mother-in-law, and that Miss Shilling was stabbed.

Puppet Show Set Tuesday

Entertaining the children at the 2:30 p.m. program will be the puppets of Mrs. Calvin Dennison of the Birmingham Puppeteers.

Because of limited seating, reservations are required for the show. They can be made with Mrs. William Evans, 5720 Bloomfield Glen.

Area Youth Dies of Wreck Injuries

ARMADA TOWNSHIP — An 18-year-old Armada Township youth died early this morning of injuries suffered when his car hit a tree on Armada Center Road at 11:15 last night.

Robert C. Delmotte of 76930 McFadden died at Almont Community Hospital at 3:30 this morning.

Police have found no cause of the accident, but the blacktopped road was wet.

Townships to Get $7,539

Railroad Is Set to Pay for Fire Damage

Weeks of effort spearheaded by a Lake Orion legislator have paid off for Oakland and Lapeer County townships which have been previously unable to collect damages for grass fires set by trains.

State Rep. Robert J. Slingerlend (D-Lake Orion) announced today that officials of the New York Central Railroad have checks written for a total of $7,539 to settle claims in nine townships.

Slingerlend said the officials are ready to get the checks to townships as soon as possible.

Included in the list of townships to receive checks are Orion, Oxford, Lapeer, Metamora, Oakland, Oregon, Millington, Mayfield and Marathon.

The largest single amount, $1,750, goes to Oakland Township, to date the most successful in collecting damages for the grass fires.

PUBLIC HEARING

The action is the outgrowth of a Lansing public hearing during which Slingerlend arrranged for a railroad representative to attend a meeting in Oakland Township Monday.

Attending that meeting were supervisors and clerks from Oakland, Avon, Orion and Oxford townships.

Avon Township will not receive a check, as it had ceased to make claims due to a lack of success in getting an answer from the railroad.

At Monday's meeting, railroad officials promised to see that claims were answered more promptly.

INTRODUCES BILL

And in Lansing, Slingerlend has introduced a bill that is aimed at extending coverage of railroad-caused grass fires to diesel locomotives. It now covers only steam engines.

The bill would establish a fine for noncompliance and put the railroads' responsibility on record.

Slingerlend pointed out that townships such as Oakland often spend as much as 25 per cent of their annual budgets on fires.

He said he is especially concerned about the families that live in combustible homes near the railroad tracks.

Just Wednesday, a train set fires that burned along the tracks from Rochester northward past the Lapeer County line. No buildings burned, however.

Pontiac Twp. OKs Budget for Fiscal Year

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — A $268,528 budget has been adopted for 1965-66 by the Township Board.

The $268,528 estimated as total expenditures compares with a higher figure of $289,864 in anticipated revenue, leaving what appears to be a $21,336 surplus.

But Assessor Clayton Lovelace explained that the difference between expenditures and revenues is actually the difference between expected collections of water and sewer assessments and 1965-66 obligations to the Oakland County Department of Public Works (DPW).

Money collected as assessments cannot be used for other purposes, and any surplus over obligations in the coming year will eventually disappear as payments are made to the county.

And, Lovelace said, estimates of revenues from assessments are always subject to inaccuracy, as home owners have a choice of paying their assessments in full or spreading payments over a period of years.

TOTAL BUDGET

It does not provide for raises for elected township officials.

Hiring and rehiring of township employes has not yet been done for the coming year, so provisions have been made to cover changes in their salaries if necessary.

Offer Course in First Aid

A five-week course in first aid will be offered starting Thursday at the Avondale Fire Hall, 2137 W. Auburn, Avon Township.

Ralph Forman, chairman of first aid for the Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross, announced that two-hour classes would be held each Thursday evening at 7 p.m.

Instructors for the course, both certified first aid instructors, are Avondale Fire Chief Vic Camp and Assistant Chief Jerry Cox.

Certificates will be issued to those who complete the course.

Registration can be made by contacting the Oakland County American Red Cross Chapter, 118 Franklin, Pontiac, or Cox at 2851 Walbridge, Avon Township.

Adding Books to Area Libraries by Loan System

Some 2,000 books will be added to those already available through the North Oakland Library Contract System.

Representatives of the 10-member system recently visited the state library in Lansing to select the volumes which will augment the current 20,000-book collection.

With headquarters in Pontiac, the organization also makes books available on long-term loans to libraries in Clarkston, Highland Township, Holly, Milford, Ortonville, Oxford, Walled Lake and Waterford.

Car Hits Pole; Youth Hurt

TROY — A 16-year-old Troy youth was hospitalized for observation last night after the car in which he was riding struck a utility pole at Maple Road and Stephenson Highway about 11:18 p.m.

Edward Hughes of 1240 E. Long Lake, a passenger in an auto driven by Robert LeGrand, 16, of 927 Hannah, is in satisfactory condition at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

LeGrand told police he was eastbound on Maple (15 Mile Road) and attempted to stop for a traffic light.

He said the power brakes locked and the engine stalled, causing him to lose control of the vehicle.

Clarkston OES to Hold Initiation on Monday

CLARKSTON — Joseph C. Bird Chapter No. 294, Order of Eastern Star, will initiate new members at 8 p.m. Monday at the Clarkston Masonic Temple.

The initiation will follow a 6:30 p.m. cooperative dinner. Master Masons will be guests of honor at the program which marks the chapter's 64th birthday.

Nonteaching Personnel Draw Pay Increases at Farmington

FARMINGTON — Following recent improvement of the teachers' salary schedule, the Farmington Board of Education has granted raises to nonteaching personnel for 1965-66.

Secretaries were awarded across-the-board improvements. Their annual increment on the existing schedule was raised from $200 to $250.

Maintenance staff jobs will be classified into two, rather than three, categories with higher salaries assigned to each.

Minimum for skilled workers will be $5,050 and the maximum $6,100. For semiskilled maintenance men, the range will be from $4,400 to $5,200.

Improvements of $250 were incorporated into the schedule for custodial employes. Custodians in charge of buildings will have a minimum salary of $4,650 with the top rate $5,750.

JANITORIAL

Salaried janitors can earn from $4,050 to $4,550. Raises for hourly-rated janitors are from $1.83 to $1.95 for the minimum and from $2.07 to $2.22 at the maximum.

Transportation employes were granted raises of 10 cents an hour and cafeteria personnel boosted five cents an hour.

Wheat Output to Drop

Michigan farmers will produce 32.2 million bushels of winter wheat this year, according to forecasts by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The estimate is some 7 million bushels below last year's crop.

Must Strive for Ease

Practice Will Speed Up Child's Writing

By LESLIE J .NASON, Ed. D.

Dear Dr. Nason: We have an eight-year-old, third-grade boy who is an extremely slow writer. His class is given an average of 50 arithmetic problems each night, but they are allowed time in school to get many of them done. It takes our son approximately 2½ hours a night to do his work.

Mentally, the work is quite easy for him. There is no learning problem, just a writing problem. Our son is small for his age and is left-handed. Could muscle coordination be playing a part here?

When we get after him to speed up, he says that when he goes fast he can't do neat work.

Can you suggest what to do to get him to work faster?

Mrs. R.I.,
Falls Church, Va.

Practice is the answer. Have him hold his pencil comfortably, with the point extending at least an inch beyond the end of his fingers (this because he is left-handed and needs to see what he is doing). Have him write and rewrite a short sentence or a series of numbers. While doing this, he must strive for ease of writing as well as legible, well-formed letters. A page a day is a good amount. When the work is going smoothly, say about two thirds the way down the page, he should try speeding up and at the same time maintain the quality of his writing.

Dear Dr. Nason: Please make some suggestion for an efficient method of study for an older person. For example, a person in the middle fifties who wishes to learn a foreign language. Do you think it possible for a person of this age to become proficient in German for instance? This person had French in high school and was very good at it.

Mrs. R.K.A.,
Nashville, Mich.

You have probably heard it stated that learning ability declines with age. The adage "It is hard to teach old dogs new tricks . . . "has some basis in fact. However, the fact that a person has gotten out of the habit of learning plays a more important role than the decrease in a new language.

It is entirely possible for a person in his fifties, sixties or seventies to become proficient in a new language.

Dear Dr. Nason: Some time ago an 18-year-old girl wrote you that she would like to go to college to study nursing but could not afford it. Will you please advise her and any other young aspirant to contact:

U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Public Health Service — Bureau of State Services, Division of Nursing, Washington, D.C. 20201 for "Quick Facts About the Student Loan Program" under the Nurse Training Act of 1964?

G.P.O.,
Washington, D.C.

Thank you for the specific information. We have only initials so cannot contact her directly, but hope that BSP of Massapequa Park, N.Y. and other interested teen-agers will read this.

(You can write to Prof. Nason in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of widest interest will be answered in his column.)

By JACOBY & SON

What do you do when you use intermediate jump overcalls and pick up a really strong one suit hand such as South's?

JACOBY

You shouldn't double. Your partner just might happen to leave the double in and your hand is most unsuitable for defense against an adverse contract. Or your opponents would have a chance to bid at a low level and find their way to a good contract of their own. Another possible bad result would occur if your partner happened to get into the act at a high level in a suit of his own.

The best bid with today's South hand is an immediate four-heart overcall. You only have nine playing tricks and may not get a trick from your partner. In that case you will be down one. That might be a bad result and again it might not. For all you know if your partner has a really bad hand your opponents may be able to romp into four spades and make it. If this wouldn't happen today, it might some other time.

Your partner has the spades and his king of clubs is a trick for you so you chalk up four hearts with 100 honors.

Would anything bad happen to you if you made a takeout double? Not necessarily, but you can't tell. West might decide to try an immediate diamond raise and he and East might then go to five diamonds.

You could double and beat them two tricks if you defended properly but that would not make up for your loss game.

Even worse might happen if your partner got carried away with his six card spade suit and went to four spades. Then you would have to go down one at five hearts.

At Pontiac General

Cite Emergency Rise

Pontiac General Hospital's recurring problem — a bed shortage and consequent cancellation of admissions — received another look last night by the board of trustees.

Results of a 16-day study of the emergency department were given to the board. However, board members appeared dissatisfied with the study and asked for further statistics.

The 16-day study, March 19-April 3, showed the hospital handled 207 emergency cases. All but four of the patients were from the hospital's service area, except those patients from other areas involved in accidents in this area.

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, reported that the hospital has had 100 per cent occupancy for the entire first quarter of the year.

CANCELLATION

The high occupancy forces cancellation of admissions.

The board of trustees had asked for the study in an attempt to learn where the hospital's patients were coming from.

Referring to the emergency room load, Trustee William P. Babcock said, "It all boils down to the question: Are we doing too much of the job again?"

Babcock said the number of cancellations are getting "ridiculous."

STATISTICS

Board Chairman Aleck Capsalis directed Euler to meet with the administrators of other area hospitals to get statistics on emergency cases.

In other business last night, the board went on record against pending state legislation that would require hospitals to make annual reports to the attorney general on all expenditures outisde of those for general operation.

'Radio Priest' Due to Retire

DETROIT (AP) — The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, nationally known "radio priest" of the 1930s, reportedly plans to announce his retirement Easter Sunday. He now is 73.

The Detroit Free Press reported today it had learned Father Coughlin likely would announce his retirement Sunday from the altar of his Roman Catholic Shrine of the Little Flower in suburban Royal Oak.

Father Coughlin declined to accept telephone calls or see newsmen, but a secretary quoted him as saying "There is nothing definite about it.'"

"I can't deny it and I can't confirm it," said the Rev. William J. Murphy, an assistant pastor to the one-time controversial, barbed-tongue Father Coughlin who sometimes lauded Hitlerite Germany while castigating President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his national radio network programs.

State Sums Up Case Against 2 Generals

LANSING (AP) — State attorneys, summing up their case against two suspended generals after a 93-hour hearing, said Thursday that testimony showed there was "no excuse for the manner in which state money was handled."

Their 27-page brief went to Gov. George Romney, who conducted the hearing, and to attorneys for Maj. Gen. Ronald McDonald and Brig. Gen. Carson Neifert, who are accused of gross neglect of duty.

Romney's decision is not expected before early May. Defense attorneys Thomas McAllister, for McDonald, and Russell Noble, for Neifert, will have until April 26 to reply to the brief and state attorneys then will have until May 3 for a rebuttal.

Romney, who said he first dismissed the generals on recommendations of the State Military Board, said during the hearing he had heard evidence which would modify the board's recommendations. He did not elaborate.

CONTENTION

The brief contended the hearing had shown the generals were guilty of gross neglect, misfeasance and malfeasance "which would justify taking of such disciplinary measures... as in your sound discretion you find to be warranted under the circumstances."

The charges involved allegedly illegal land transactions at Camp Grayling and use of local armory funds to pay for items for Lansing Headquarters or the camp.

The brief says in their testimony, both generals showed knowledge of proper methods of purchasing equipment for headquarters and the camp.

"This knowledge leaves no excuse for the manner in which state money was handled," the brief says. "It suggests an intention to conceal the true facts relating to expenditures from the legislators and other interested persons."

ONLY NEEDS?

It also says: "Certainly there is nothing in the statutes... which remotely suggests that the armory funds may be used for purposes other than the needs of the armory to which they were sent."

Senate Okays Probe of CMU

LANSING (AP)—The Senate narrowly approved Thursday an investigation of faculty-administration relationships at Central Michigan University.

It knocked out a provision of the resolution which would have allowed such an investigation of all 10 state-supported institutions of higher education.

The vote was 17-15 in favor of substituting the more restrictive resolution for the all-schools measure. The revised resolution passed 19-13.

Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Dearborn, demanded the investigation after a January trip to the Mount Pleasant school at which he said some faculty members complained about the administration's treatment of faculty.

FOUGHT PROBE

Sen. Guy Vanderjagt, R-Cadillac, fought the probe on grounds it interfered with the constitutional autonomy of the schools.

Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, the majority leader, voted against the measure and said later he did not know when he would appoint the balance of investigating committee. Robinson will head the five-man group and Vanderjagt will be one of two Republicans on it.

April 15 and 16, 1965

COUNTY OF OAKLAND, CITY OF Pontiac, Township of Bloomfield.

Notice of hearing. Re: Petition to locate, establish and construct a drain in Franklin Road and Square Lake Road.

Notice is hereby given, that pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 20 of Act No. 40 of the Public Acts of 1956, as amended, a petition was filed with the County Drain Commissioner of Oakland County, Michigan, petitioning for the following project, to-wit:

Beginning at a point on the existing branch of the Rouge River at Square Lake Road distant East 1938 feet from the SW corner of Section No. 4 T2N R10E, Bloomfield Township, Oakland County, Michigan; thence west in Square Lake Road to Franklin Road; thence north in Franklin Road approximately 1000 feet; thence northeasterly to the southeast corner of Supervisors Plat No. 1; thence northerly to a point of terminus at the Pontiac City Limit Line in the vicinity of Howland Avenue which said drain is necessary for the public health and is located entirely within the limits of the County of Oakland.

Notice is further given, that the Drainage Board for said project has considered the said petition and has made a tentative determination that said petition is sufficient and that the said project is practical; has given the name "Murphy Drain" as the name of said drain and the name "Murphy Drainage District" as the name of the drainage district therefor; and has made a tentative determination that the following public corporations should be assessed for the cost of said project, to-wit: State of Michigan on account of drainage to state highways; County of Oakland on account of drainage to county highways; City of Pontiac and Township of Bloomfield.

Notice is further given, that the said Drainage Board will meet on the 3rd day of May, 1965, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., Eastern Standard Time, in the Town Hall, 4200 Telegraph Road in the Township of Bloomfield, Michigan, for the purpose of hearing any objections to said project, to the petition therefor, and to the matter of assessing the cost thereof to the public corporations above named. At said hearing any public corporation to be assessed or any taxpayer thereof, will be entitled to be heard.

This notice is given by order of the said Drainage Board for the Murphy Drain.

Dated: April 1, 1965.

DANIEL W. BARRY
Chairman of Drainage Board for the Murphy Drain
Oakland County Drain Commissioner
April 9 and 16, 1965

One Survives Road Tragedy

Ten Die in Idaho's Worst Traffic Mishap

MASSACRE ROCKS, Idaho (AP) — A 12-year-old boy is the lone survivor of the worst traffic accident in Idaho's history — a two-car collision Thursday that claimed the lives of 10 persons near this spot on the old Oregon Trail.

Billy Warford suffered deep shock and a broken leg in the accident that killed his mother, father, four brothers and sisters and the four occupants of the other car.

Sheriff Rulon Neal said the Warford family was apparently moving from Fayetteville, Ark., to Brewster, Wash. The other car was from Emmett, Idaho.

The crash occurred on a stretch of highway straightened and widened eight years ago after complaints the old road twisting through lava beds was a safety hazard.

DEAD LISTED

The dead in the other car were Claude Warford, 22; Darlene Warford, 20; Zona Warford, 46; Elmer Warford, 52; Alice Warford, 15, and Dorothy Fay Warford, 9.

Officers said they estimated both cars were traveling about 70 miles an hour. They said there was no sign of skid marks.

Court's Proceeding Provides a Feeding

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif (UPI) — Court reporter Bob Dowdy discovered a unique occupational hazard recently when a Santa Ana Superior judge held court in a field here in connection with a condemnation suit.

Earl, Seeking Shoeshine, Given 'Fringe Benefits'

By EARL WILSON

HOUSTON — All I wanted was a shoeshine.

I was at the beautifully elegant Warwick Hotel, owned by multimillionaire John Mecom, which is part of Houston's new look, like the Domed Stadium.

WILSON

"Barbershop's downstairs," a bellboy said.

A beautiful blonde (named Gwen Chick) smiled charmingly across a handsome antique desk when I walked into the lush Paris salon atmosphere of the "Norris of Houston" barbery. It was so palatial I couldn't believe I was in a barbershop. It was like a Hollywood set.

"I . . . uh . . . just want a shoeshine," I apologized.

"Sit down and take your shoes off," Miss Chick said.

But where were the barbers? I couldn't see any. A millionaire customer almost wept when Miss Chick said he was 15 minutes late and his appointment was canceled.

"But I was on time for a whole year," he whimpered.

I felt like whimpering myself. I had my stockinged feet curled up under me to hide them. A shine man took my shoes away, and then returned them. Intrigued at this barbershop with invisible barbers, I decided to get a haircut.

And—here in the supposed cow country—they rushed me into four rooms . . . shampooing, cutting, drying and combing.

Board Deals With School Real Estate

In a meeting devoted largely to real estate matters, the Waterford Township Board of Education last night authorized the purchase of an existing building for conversion to a maintenance bus garage.

The board will exercise its option to buy the building just west of the present bus garage site at 4584 Pontiac Lake for $45,000 and allow up to $20,000 for renovation.

In deciding to buy the American Van Lines building, the board rejected two other alternatives — continue using the present garage which was termed too small to serve the growing fleet of buses, or construct a new building.

The proposed new building, which would have been large enough to meet requirements in the forseeable future but smaller than the warehouse building, would have cost $70,000.

Also in the realm of real estate, the board accepted recommendations of its building and site committee to make purchase offers on an elementary school site and a site for an elementary school addition.

PROPOSED SITES

An offer of $28,500 will be prepared for a proposed 10-acre school site south of Eagle Lake and a $12,750 offer will be readied for a 4.17-acre site adjacent to the Houghton School to allow an addition.

In its resolution to buy the Eagle Lake site, the board added the provision that condemnation proceedings will begin if the offer is rejected.

The board also adopted a set of minimal site purchase standards as proposed by the building and site committee.

These specify a five-acre site for elementary schools 10-acres for junior high locations and 20-acres for senior high school sites.

EXTRA ACRES

In each case, an extra acre would be acquired for recreational and playground use for each 100 students in the proposed building.

Still in the area of real estate, the board authorized the administration to apply for federal aid under the open space land grant to assist in the proposed purchase of three elementary school sites.

These include previously approved land acquisitions near Pleasant Lake and on Dafodil in Section 19 of the township and the Eagle Lake site purchase authorized last night.

In other action, the board authorized the construction of a combination press box and concession stand at Waterford Township High School at a cost of $14,950.

CONTRACT AWARDED

The Waterford Construction Co., which submitted the low quotation for the job, was awarded the contract.

Mrs. Barbara Mehoke, coordinator of the elementary school library program, explained the vital part the school libraries play in the total education of children.

She commended the efforts of the many volunteer mothers who work in the libraries of each of the 27 elementary schools.

The board approved contracts for 15 new teachers and authorized leaves of absence for two teachers.

By State Senate

Nonpublic School Aid Is Ok'd

LANSING (AP) — Two bills that could require government and school districts to aid nonpublic schools in their area won Senate approval Thursday night.

The measures require that if the local unit provides certain health and auxiliary services to its schools, it must make them available on an equal basis to the nonpublic schools in the district.

Only Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, opposed the bills and he was primarily asking for more time to consider them. Each had been signed by 37 senators.

The equal health treatment would be required whenever the health department or health board of any township, village, city, county, district or the state provides any examination of health services to school children.

INCREASED COST

The equal auxiliary services would be required when provided by any board of education. Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, said the resultant increase in services could cost the state $1.75 million.

Auxiliary services protect the health, safety and general welfare of schoolchildren and include such items as health and nursing service and exams, street crossing guards, certain testing, speech correction, visiting teachers for delinquent and disturbed children, and diagnostic or consultant services for the handicapped or emotionally disturbed.

The Senate passed 33-1 after some cost arguments a bill cutting the fishing license fee for persons past 65 years of age to 50 cents. Sen. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, that some way should be found to make up what he said would be a $107,800 loss in license revenue. Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, called for a means test to insure against elderly millionaires getting reduced rates.

In a compromise, the Senate required that potential barbers must have a tenth-grade education. Present law requires eight years and bill sponsors had hoped for a 12-year requirement. Hours of required instruction also were boosted, but not as high as sponsors hoped.

A possible forerunner bill to county home rule passed 27-6. It authorizes counties at their choice to create the office of county assessor to replace existing local tax assessors.

Pakistani Leader Postpones Journey

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistani Foreign Office announced today that President Mohammed Ayub Khan has postponed his visit to the United States "on Washington's advice."

No other details were available.

Ayub Khan had been scheduled to leave April 21, spend four days in Geneva and arrive in New York April 25. He was to spend two days in Washington as President Johnson's guest and leave New York for London April 30.

Folk Singer Still Refuses to Pay Tax for Weapons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Folk singer Joan Baez filed her income tax return Thursday hours before the deadline and again applied some withholding of her own to the taxes she owes Uncle Sam.

For the third straight year the 24-year-old singer has sent in only 40 per cent of the taxes due.

"I shall again refuse to pay that 60 per cent of my income tax which goes for armaments," she wrote the Internal Revenue Service.

Miss Baez's current return showed she owed the government $57,330. Her check was for $22,920.

Yanks Bomb Bridges

150 Planes Hit N. Viet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—North Vietnamese highway and rail bridges were systematically destroyed today by about 150 U.S. Navy and Air Force jet fighters and bombers.

A U.S. military spokesman said the strikes were a complete success.

About 70 Air Force planes rained bombs and rockets on three road and rail bridges, starting with a blow at Kim Cuong bridge near Laos and continuing up highway Route 1.

About 80 Navy planes swept in from the sea and concentrated on highway structures.

All planes returned safely with only minor damage, the spokesman said, adding that no enemy planes were sighted.

He said a direct hit was registered on the north side of the Bai Duc Thon Bridge, 170 miles south of Hanoi, and its north approach also was damaged.

Two parallel bridges were attacked at Xom Ca Trang, 185 miles south of Hanoi.

The spokesman said one span of the larger bridge was knocked into the water.

One hit was reported on the smaller bridge, but the spokesman said dust and smoke prevented an accurate estimate of the damage.

CLAIM SHIPS SUNK

The size of the vessels was not given.

American military spokesmen in Saigon said an estimated 71 Viet Cong were killed in two operations by air strikes, Vietnamese ground forces and units flown in by helicopter.

In an action begun Thursday in Binh Dinh Province, about 280 miles northeast of Saigon, 20 guerrillas were killed by attack planes and 31 by ground action. Government losses were given as one killed and 31 wounded.

20 REDS DIE

In Anxuyen Province, at the tip of South Viet Nam, an estimated 20 Communists were killed by fire from U.S. Army helicopters.

A fleet of 67 helicopters airlifted Vietnamese troops into the jungle northwest of Saigon where the biggest air strike of the Viet Nam war was carried out Thursday.

Twenty-four armed helicopters flew cover for the airlift and 19 Skyraiders bombed the area before landings to soften up possible resistance.

The pilots reported no ground fire and said the ground units had made no contact with the Reds.

REPORT CONSTRUCTION

Reports reached Washington that launching pads for Russian antiaircraft missiles are being built near Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam.

U.S. sources in Washington said there is no evidence that Soviet missiles are in North Vie Nam, but it was assumed they would be sent once the pads are ready.

Mott Aid Offer Is Withdrawn

Won't Support New Flint 4-Year College

FLINT (UPI) — Philanthropist Charles S. Mott said yesterday he was withdrawing his offer of $2.4 million to aid in the formation of a Flint branch of the University of Michigan because of a state proposal to form a four-year college without U. of M. affiliation.

"For a new college, the state would have to buy land for a campus, put up buildings and laboratories, hire teachers and enroll students. It would take years to set up a good college," according to Mott.

"On the other hand, the plans now under way would open a four-year program here next September. This college would be backed by the great resources, the distinguished faculty and the prestige of the U. of M."

Gov. George Romney objected to a Flint branch of the U. of M. because not enough information on the educational needs of the state could be gathered. He asked the university to hold back its expansion plans.

Meanwhile, a blue-ribbon education committee formed by Romney recommended Michigan scuttle any expansion plans in favor of a separate four-year school.

DOES NOT AGREE

Mott said the foundation he heads "does not agree with the new proposal and is not interested or willing to support it, now or in the future."

OU Chooses Congressman to Give Talk

Republican congressman of New York, John V. Lindsay, will be the speaker for Oakland University's third commencement April 24.

An audience of more than 2,000 parents and guests are expected to join the 214 graduates and faculty to hear him speak at the 3 p.m. ceremony in the University's Intramural Building.

His district includes the United Nations, four major universities, the theater district, the business and garment districts, the residential areas of the East Side and Yorkville, parts of the West Side and Greenwich Village.

A native of New York, the 43-year-old Congressman began his career in the private practice of law, and served as executive assistant to the Attorney General of the United States in 1955-56.

YALE GRADUATE

He received his bachelor's degree from Yale University in 1943. After three years of service in World War II as a naval officer, he returned to Yale to earn his law degree.

His speech and the formal OU commencement ceremony will be followed by a reception in the Oakland Center, to be hosted by the Friends of Oakland.

Sunshine Expected for Area Egg Hunts

The sun will shine for Easter egg hunts tomorrow, says the weatherman. However, temperatures will remain cool. Tonight's low is expected to be around 30 to 36, to be followed by a high of 44 to 50 tomorrow.

Sunday's outlook is mostly cloudy with occasional light rain and a little warmer.

Steelworkers' Union Rejects Industry Offer

Both Sides Quiet on Cash Value Involved; Strike Fears on Rise

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Strike fears rose today after the United Steelworkers Union rejected a steel industry proposal to swap some contract improvements for an extension of the May 1 strike deadline.

"I'm never discouraged, but I am disappointed now," said steelworkers President David J. McDonald Thursday after rejection of the latest industry proposal.

Both the union and the basic steel industry declined to reveal the cash value of the proposal.

But a union source said it was about five cents an hour per man for the duration of a limited agreement that could run from 60 days to 6 months. Some 450,000 USW members are employed in basic steel.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, criticized the union as "a house divided against itself."

He blamed it for crisis bargaining which he said has upset the domestic steel market and allowed imports to pour into the country.

CITES PROPOSAL

He said the industry proposal would have allowed the market to stabilize, added money to workers' paychecks, and permitted the union to settle the bitter election contest between McDonald and Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel.

Official results of the election are expected soon. Abel is expected to win, but a court fight could result.

Cooper and McDonald spoke at separate news conferences after talks recessed for the Easter weekend.

McDonald said he hoped the industry "would re-examine its conscience." He said the union was prepared to consider any added proposals Monday.

Sources said the union wanted 16 cents an hour and an extension no longer than 45 days.

Kresge Suggests 12 Essentials

More than 200 Pontiac area business, industrial and civic leaders gathered at the YMCA for the annual Good Friday breakfast this morning.

Stanley S. Kresge, president of the Kresge Foundation and active layman of Metropolitan Methodist Church, Detroit was the speaker. He is also vice chairman of the S. S. Kresge Co.

The breakfast meeting opened with prayer by City Commissioner T. Warren Fowler.

Dr. Milton H. Bank, minister of Central Methodist Church and chairman of the Christian Emphasis Committee, introduced representatives of the Hi-Y from Pontiac Central High School and other guests.

Willard Lehman, minister of music and youth of First Baptist Church led the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" and "When I survey the Wondrous Cross." Lehman also presented a solo accompanied by Mrs. Lehman.

Kresge said "One reason that I am a Christian is that I just grew up that way. From my earliest recollections I went to church and Sunday School with my mother and father, sister and brothers."

Saul, Punisher of Heretics, Became Christ's Advocate

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press
Religion Writer

The witnesses peeled off their tunics, passed them to Saul, and picked up large stones to heave at the man below. At the bottom of the rough hollow, Stephen stood looking up in dismay.

An agitated crowd ringed the pit, smiting their chests and shrieking denunciations. "Blasphemeo! Anomos!" Most of them were of Jerusalem's Greek - speaking Alexandrean and Cilician congregations. "Blasphemer! Transgressor!"

Saul, himself a Cilician, reared in the cosmopolitan city of Tarsus and a brilliant, forceful young rabbi, felt the blood pounding at his temples. The defiler had to be destroyed.

He nodded. The first stones flew.

Under Roman rule, the occupation government could impose capital punishment in the form of stoning, burning, beheading or strangling, subject in each case to confirmation by Rome's procurator.

STONING ORDERED

The land festered with wayward cults, and righteousness

Pontiac Is Not a Quiet City, Expert Says

A consulting acoustical engineer testified yesterday that Pontiac generally "is not a quiet city" and that there are other industrial sounds louder than those produced at the Allen & Sons Scrapyard.

Defense witness Robert Lindahl of Trenton said that he was able to make the comparisons because he had taken a series of sound level readings throughout the city.

A permanent injunction is being sought against Allen by the city of Pontiac and 15 residents living near the junk yard at 22 Congress. They claim the operation is a nuisance.

Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem is hearing the nonjury case.

Lindahl admitted that standards of comparison are difficult to set up and that experts disagree on how it should be accomplished.

PRESCRIBED MEASURES

He said he had prescribed measures to reduce noise caused by a metal crushing machine at Allens and testified that the noise was cut down.

This is contrary to the testimony of some of the plaintiffs in the case who have said the noise is worse.

Pontiac Motor Division Foundry, General Motors Truck and Coach and Seman Manufacturing Co. were among the locations Lindahl said produced louder readings than Allen's operation.

City Attorney William A. Ewart has not rested his case but agreed to have Lindahl called out of order to testify. He was to take the stand again today to undergo cross-examination.

Cities Bracing to Withstand Flood Waters

Tornado Attacks Still Plague Nation; 2 Are Killed in Tennessee

By The Associated Press

Murky, debris-littered water from the swollen Mississippi River churned through low-lying areas of five states today, leaving thousands homeless.

Minnesota's river communities braced for their wettest Easter weekend in history.

The Weather Bureau said today that cold weather has slowed the snow and ice melt on the upper Mississippi River system and will delay crests on the river at Minneapolis-St. Paul until about Tuesday.

This means several more days of high water than expected earlier, when crests were forecast for today. And, workers must be ready to brace dikes for a longer-than-expected hold against the river.

Ten dead, 187 injured or ill, 35 hospitalized, 7 dwellings destroyed 3,402 dwellings damaged, 25 farm buildings destroyed, 5,953 families suffered loss, and 50,052 persons given aid.

KILLER TORNADOES

At least four tornadoes did a hop-skip-and-jump through eastern Tennessee yesterday, killing two persons, injuring 50 and forcing 200 from their homes.

One tornado smashed into a trailer camp in Cleveland, Tenn., sending 50 persons to hospitals. Four of the injured were in serious condition. The twister upset 55 trailers.

Rescue workers pulled screaming victims from the debris.

PLANES DAMAGED

Officials said 21 small airplanes at the Cleveland airport were damaged and three hangars were destroyed. Damage to the facility was placed at $200,000. One plane was carried two blocks and dropped on the trailer park.

Joseph Strub of the Weather Bureau of Minnesota, said the Mississippi crest might remain at its high mark for three to five days before receding.

OCC Budgets Are Approved

Board Okays Funds for 2 Fiscal Years

The board of trustees okayed a $2.2-million 1964-65 budget and an estimated 1965-66 budget of $2.6-million.

Total expenditures for operating purposes in the current fiscal year were approved at $464,195. The current fiscal year ends July 1.

Building and sites will cost an estimated $1.7 million this year, while salaries will run $201,230.

The 1964-65 budget shows a "paper" balance of $430,000 on July 1. However, college officials said that $800,000 would still be owing on the purchase of the County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

INCOME ESTIMATE

Income for 1965-66 is estimated at $3.6 million with local taxes yielding $2.3 million, state aid $700,000 and tuition charges $576,800.

Operating expenditures are estimated at $2.6 million in 1965-66. Biggest nonoperating expense will be the paying off of the TB sanatorium.

In other business last night, the college board abolished a vice presidency, hired a vice president for business and gave $2,000 raise to another vice president.

OFFICIAL HIRED

The board abolished the position of vice president for student personnel and gave the duties to Dr. Albert Canfield, vice president for instruction.

Canfield was given a $2,000 pay hike with the new duties. His salary will now be $22,000 annually.

demanded that they be purged from the nation's sacred patrimony.

That duty lay on him like a coat of nails, driving him to the utmost in devotion, dedication and discipline. He would spare no effort to cleanse and preserve God's household.

HE MOANED

Yet he moaned as the barrage began on the condemned Stephen.

Three years or more had gone by since the man of Nazareth was crucified, a strictly Roman punishment, and the feverish impressions about Him had continued to spread and infiltrate families and institutions.

To Saul, it was a poisonous malady, eroding the vitals of Judaism, a macabre contradiction about a common Galilean who died shamefully, obviously abandoned by God, yet elevated in His ignominy to Messianic status.

The infection had been scattered by travelers to many surrounding cities, where cells multiplied, and in Jerusalem itself, it had spilled beyond Aramaic and Hebrew-speaking groups to Greek-language synagogues.

AROUSED ANTAGONISM

In one of these, the eloquent and literate Stephen had aroused antagonism by his claims that a "Holy Spirit" loosed by the "Christos" now transcended nation and rite. He struck at the very ramparts of the nation's sacred heritage.

Condemned, he was hustled out of the city to the stoning pit.

And Saul, whose name in its Roman version was Paul, stood by as a deputy for the court to see the execution carried out. Thereafter, he pursued his determined, impassioned drive to reinforce treasured orthodoxy, and stifle departures from it.

COMMITTED THEM

Scripture recounts: "Saul laid waste the church, and entering house after house, he dragged off men and women and committed them to prison."

Yet all the while, anxiety and compassion raked his conscience. He pitied even as he punished. He shuddered at the obstinancy of these Jesus believers.

The persecution had dispersed many heretics to outlying regions. He, too, would go elsewhere. He would get away. But he would not give up. The Book of Acts relates:

ASKED FOR LETTERS

"Saul, still breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest and asked him for letters to the synagogues at Damascus" to arrest deviants and bring them bound to Jerusalem for trial.

While on his way there, in the vortex of his desolating struggle, he had his staggering vision of Christ.

"Saul, Saul, why do you persecute Me?" And Saul gave in. The thundering enforcer surrendered; the ruler for God became the ruled.

He lay flat on his face, a broken man, and so made whole.

CHRIST LIVES IN ME

"It is no longer I who live," he later wrote, "but Christ who lives in me." In a kind of death, he came alive.

Shorn of self, he found a greater self. The wrecker, wrecked, was made. "If any one is in Christ, he is a new creation."

So the strange phenomenon, the night through which breaks the day, the fall which becomes the rising. And Saul, Paul, by whatever name, mounted the long and arduous road lit through the shadows of a cross.

Suggestions for Success

right. We were brought up not to drink or smoke. Something I shall never be able to understand is why so many intelligent people drink alcoholic beverages."

Kresge went on to tell of the several ministers who had influenced his life for good, especially the late Dr. Merton S. Rice, lecturer and preacher in Detroit for 30 years.

"I believe the happiest people are those doing something constructive for the world and ministering to people around them, Kresge said.

12 SUGGESTIONS

Kresge gave 12 practical suggestions for a successful life.

They include: a willingness to work; absolute loyalty; absolute honesty; enthusiasm for your job and for life; average or better intelligence, (educate yourself); promptness; and initiative, that is, do what needs to be done without being told.

Other suggestions are reasonableness or the ability to get along with others; spiritual vitality — don't leave God out of your life.

Kresge also said, "Learn to speak well; learn how to talk and express thoughts well and convincingly. For many people this takes much effort and practice. This has been one of my weaknesses.

LEARN TO SAVE

"Learn to save. Save some amount of money, no matter how small, each week from your allowance or earnings. Put this aside or into a bank account. If you start saving while you are young, you will be surprised later on how this fund has grown and how helpful it will be when seriously needed.

"Take good care of your health. Get the proper amount of exercise and rest for your best welfare. Do your best to keep your weight under control. I strongly suggest you refrain entirely from all alcoholic beverages.

"The last authentic report I recall on this matter indicated over 7 million alcoholics in the United States. This was before Alaska and Hawaii became states. This has become a serious problem in many of our churches."

"To the above list some persons would probably add 'luck' but I would say that luck usually results from a successful application of the previous mentioned principles to one's life," Kresge added.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

Kresge said he and his wife, Dorothy, believed in daily devotions and tithing, or giving 10 per cent of one's income to the church.

Committee members assisting Dr. Bank with arrangements were Rev. L. R. Miner of Macedonia Baptist Church; Rev. Jack H. C. Clark of First Christian Church; Maynard Johnson, Clyle Haskill, Gelston V. Poole, Floyd P. Miles, A. D. Stimer and John E. McClure. Women of Blue Star Mothers served the breakfast.

Not that he foreswore his ancestral faith, quite the contrary, cherished it fervently, a Hebrew, a son of Abraham. "I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee," he declared.

FOREMOST MISSIONARY

But he also was the foremost missionary and advocate of the greatest Hebrew of all, Jesus of Nazareth. Paul roamed the first-century world disseminating faith in Him and the gift of His life to mankind.

It cost dearly.

It cost Paul.

Five times, he recounted, he was lashed, three times beaten with rods, once stoned, three times shipwrecked, endangered by robbers, by his own people, by Gentiles, by wilderness, hunger, cold, exposure and hardship.

The days were fierce. Less than three decades after Christ's Crucifixion, revolution engulfed Judea to be crushed by Rome in vast slaughter and destruction which ended Jewish nationhood for 1,882 years until 1948.

In that period, thousands of Christians and Jews were slain for their faith, in Palestine, Egypt, Rome and elsewhere. In Rome, tradition says, Peter was crucified and Paul beheaded.

KIND OF FATE

It was the kind of fate which Paul had once helped visit on another, Stephen, the outspoken deacon in Jerusalem, the first of the long line of Christian martyrs.

As the stones had rained on him, and his bloodied torn body crumpled toward the ground, his shattered face turned upward and his voice throbbed with awareness of a further door opening before him. "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit."

Then he cried out loudly, "Lord, do not hold this sin against them!" And he died in the heap of stones. Paul could never forget it; the image stayed with him until the blade fell on his own neck.

And also the cry, the cry which started at another execution, the cry which Jesus gave from the cross, and which ignited a fire of forgiveness and regeneration to shine ever after through the crucifixions of the world.

"Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

U.S., Britain Eye Path to Viet Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain are eying a proposed conference on Cambodia as a possible channel for peace talks on Viet Nam.

President Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson discussed the prospects Thursday. Both U.S. and British sources said later the diplomatic picture will have to clear some before they can decide whether such a conference would be worthwhile.

Southeast Asia mixed with economics on Wilson's agenda as the British Laborite leader stopped in Washington for a day en route home from a speech-making trip to New York. It was his second visit here since becoming prime minister last October and both he and Johnson expressed satisfaction with it.

Meeting separately with Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor, Wilson expounded his views on expanding commerce and forming a more flexible international payments system.

WANTS SUCCESS

Some informants said Wilson wants to be sure a Cambodian conference would be successful before Britain would endorse it. His former foreign secretary, Patrick Gordon Walker, is now in Asia sounding out sentiment.

U.S. sources gave this outline of the situation:

Cambodia, a neighbor of Viet Nam, renewed last month its old proposal for a conference of the 1954 Geneva-Indochina agreement powers with the aim of getting guarantees for Cambodia's neutrality and security.

Since the Geneva powers are also the same nations — East and West — which deal with Viet Nam, a meeting on Cambodia could easily get into talks on Viet Nam. The Reds have spurned Johnson's offer to talk peace and a proposal by 17 neutralist nations for negotiations, but they have endorsed the Cambodian initiative.

stage, and the St. Paul crest at 27 feet, 13 feet beyond bankful levels.

No major business districts of either city are threatened, but several industrial areas are, or will be, waterbound.

The outpouring of water and ice from the St. Croix River along the Minnesota-Wisconsin border resulted in crest forecasts one to two feet higher than earlier estimates.

Snowplows were called out at Elk River, northwest of Minneapolis when the Mississippi heaved ice chunks onto U.S. 10.

The Mississippi River retreated slowly and the Crow River crested at flooded Delano and Rockford, west of Minneapolis, after wide areas were under water.

BANKS HOLDING

The Mississippi strained against plywood extensions added to the St. Paul's Dike system, but they were holding. Dirt and sandbags were being added in strategic locations.

The Red Cross estimated that 207 families have been moved out of the St. Paul area.

Water reached one of four industrial areas in Minneapolis. Bridges were patrolled to guard against ice jams. Dozens of highways and many bridges were blocked.

Armed Trio Escapes With $3,530 in Cash

One of the three fired a 45-caliber bullet into the ceiling during the 1:30 p.m. robbery.

It narrowly missed Greg Puscas, 18, of 411 Lorberta, Waterford Township, a clerk in the store.

Store owner John Phillips said the bandits came in, ordered all customers to the rear of the store and demanded all the money in the register.

Phillips, 71, of 411 Lorberta, Waterford Township, told police two of the bandits wore dark glasses and the third had a lace covering over his face.

Besides the .45, they had a sawed-off shotgun and a sawed-off rifle, Phillips said.

ROBBED OF $30

Stanley Baker, 34, of 734 Hillsdale, a cake salesman, was robbed of $30 and James Roach, 42, of 452 Ditmar, a customer, was struck in the head by one of the bandits.

He was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Police Cracking Down on Woodward 'Cruising'

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Local police are cracking down on "cruising" — the activity associated with the township's only drive-in restaurant.

Their mark is the parade of young motorists who nightly drive up and down Woodward, using as a northern terminus Ted's Restaurant at Woodward and Square Lake Road.

"We're trying to make it hot enough for them so that only the responsible people will go there," Police Chief Norman Dehnke said.

He noted that the problem drivers are not those who patronize the restaurant but those who just circle through it and the adjacent subdivision, Colberry Park.

Specifically, the patrolmen are issuing summonses for using porperty for other than its intended purpose.

STIFF FOR VIOLATIONS

"We're also being stiff for violations out on Woodward — no matter how minor they are," Dehnke said.

Besides the regular patrol car in the area, the chief assigns another one to the vicinity during hours of peak traffic.

"There's a marked car in the area all the time," he said. "There have been as many as two other cars there."

Combining the total for a typical Friday and Saturday night, patrolmen are issuing upwards of 50 tickets, Dehnke said.

'RESPONSIBLE SET'

"Surprisingly, many of them aren't going to teen-agers," he noted. "It's the so-called 'responsible set' from 21 up."

The crackdown was instituted at the request of Colberry Park residents and the owner of Ted's, Luke Little.

4 PRIVATE POLICEMEN

The restaurateur also has hired four private policemen to keep the situation under control.

Postage stamps Honor John F. Kennedy

NEW YORK (EN)—A very unusual series of large diamond shaped postage stamps honoring John F. Kennedy was issued recently by the Kingdom of Yemen . . . half the stamp bears a striking portrait of JFK with appropriate inscription—the top section depicts American space craft in flight . . . This very unusual set of three stamps sold out day of issue and are now quite scarce.

Because of the intense interest in JFK memorial stamps issued by foreign nations, Elmont has prepared a collection containing recently issued John F. Kennedy stamps from Colombia, Paraguay, Nicaragua and Togo, plus the popular Yemen set mentioned above. . . .

Interested collectors may obtain this extraordinary collection of 9 different stamps memorializing John F. Kennedy by sending $1.00 to Elmont Stamp Co., Queens Village 29, N.Y. Approvals and other offers included.

To Study Effectiveness

Area Agencies to Be Surveyed by Team

Plans for a survey of 76 area-wide health, welfare and youth serving agencies were announced following a meeting of agency representatives at the Community Services Building.

Pontiac attorney William B. Hartman, chairman of the Community Services survey committee, told agency representatives that the survey, sponsored by the Pontiac Area United Fund, would be conducted as an independent study and that survey committee members would represent an impartial cross-section of community leadership.

Survey plans, Hartman said, will be directed toward a "constructive inventory of the public and private health welfare and youth programs serving the greater Pontiac area to spot overlapping, duplication, programs gaps, unmet needs and recommendations for improved services.

"Such a study attempts to meet growing challenges in these fields resulting from growth in population and demands for increased programs and more public and private welfare dollars," Hartman added.

Hartman pointed out that the public which supports these programs as taxpayers and United Fund contributors should be aware that this survey is "a positive effort to insure the public that constructive action will be taken toward quality programs for every dollar spent."

FUTURE NEEDS

The survey will also anticipate future needs of the services to be studied.

Russel W. Leedy, visiting professor, school of social service, Catholic University, Washington, D.C., was selected by the Pontiac Area United Fund board of trustees in March to head the survey team.

He will begin the study by meeting with agency directors Monday and Tuesday. The study is expected to be completed by December 1.

The survey committee, under the direction of Hartman, will function as a liaison body between the agency and Professor Leedy's survey team.

Lodge Resumes Trip After Honolulu Stop

HONOLULU (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, touched down here for an overnight stay Thursday night before heading west to discuss the Vietnamese question with friendly nations.

He leaves today for New Zealand. He would make no comment to newsmen on his arrival at Hickam Air Force Base. He was met by Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, top U.S. military commander in the Pacific.

School of Music Plans 8-Story NY Building

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans have been filed for a $17.2 million, eight-story building in the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts to provide the Juilliard School of Music with a drama theater and music hall. It is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1967.

Architects' plans filed Thursday call for a 1,000-seat theater and a music hall to seat an equal number.

A NEW METHOD FOR RELIEVING PAINFUL CORNS OR CALLOUSES

A scientific new formula in an easy to apply liquid is available to those who suffer with corns, callouses, bunions, tired-aching feet or athletes foot. Although many Chiropodists and Podiatrists use similar formulas for their patients suffering with foot troubles, there is no formula that is as complete as this golden easy to apply liquid. Bunex is a liquid that promises you relief from foot troubles or your money back.

For corns on top of the toes or between the toes, just place a little Bunex on and around the corn area and massage in well twice daily using the fingers.

For callouses or Bunions, place a little Bunex on or around the infected area and massage in well twice daily.

For tired and aching feet, apply Bunex and rub in well like applying a hand lotion.

For "Athletes foot," apply Bunex each night for about two weeks by massaging into infected area. Although the tissue will clear up in a few days, keep using this wonderful liquid for about two weeks to be sure that all the fungi has been removed.

Bunex is safe to use. Continued use of this wonderful liquid can prevent return of corns, callouses, or athletes foot.

Mental Loophole Pends for Convicted Slayer

We seriously question the soundness of Oakland County Prosecutor S. JEROME BRONSON's decision to order a pre-sentencing psychological test for convicted murderer HARRY M. BELCHER.

In our opinion the eight-day trial, concluded by a verdict of guilty by a conscientious jury, was ably and fairly conducted.

At no time during the trial was the issue of mental unbalance raised by the defense — invariably the initiator of such a plea. Now to have the prosecution raise it after the case had presumably been closed impresses us as an act of capricious leniency, and an uncalled-for prolongation of the matter.

As a result of the prosecutor's move, a new trial could be ordered and BELCHER, if judged criminally insane in a pre-trial hearing, institutionalized accordingly—with possibility of eventually gaining freedom.

In ordering the mental examination for the convicted slayer, the prosecutor was quoted as saying that BELCHER's attitude while hospitalized and his subsequent trial conduct imposed "a strong moral obligation to have the tests conducted."

What about your moral obligation to the respectable element of the citizenry, Mr. Prosecutor?

Man but Pawn in Game of Nature's Elements

Probably no form of nature gone wild inspires as much fear as the tornado.

Though tornadic storms are usually limited to extent and duration, they are unlimited in the explosive havoc they can cause. It is this, together with the unpredictability of their courses, that creates the sense of human helplessness we associates with these wild winds.

The storm system that battered six mid-western states was a big one by any measure. Spawning some 37 tornadoes and 50 less severe storms, its death toll of 250 (45 in Michigan) is only exceeded by the raging storm that swept a 219-mile-long path of death through three states in March 1925, killing 689 persons.

Though man has no way of controlling tornadoes, even in theory, he is not entirely helpless. Every year storm forecasting becomes more accurate, more rapid.

How many lives have been saved over the years by the U.S. Weather Bureau's Severe Storm Forecasting Center in Kansas City, Mo., it is impossible to say. Certainly the death toll of the recent calamity would have been higher without warnings issued from this and other weather centers.

Since no area of the country is immune to cyclonic onslaughts, it behooves every resident to condition himself in precautionary moves at the first indication that a twister is imminent.

Toward that end, the U. S. Weather Bureau, while emphasizing that a cave or storm cellar is the only real protection against a tornado, gives this advice:

● In open country — Move at right angles to the path of the tornado. If you can't get out of the way, find a ditch or any other depression and lie flat.

● At home—Get to the southwest corner of the lowest floor. That corner of the basement in both brick and frame houses usually offers the greatest safety. If the house has no basement, take cover under heavy furniture.

● In the city — Stand against the inside wall or lower floor of any office building you can get to.

● In schools — Avoid gymnasiums and auditoriums.

Lincoln Called Tormented Man

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—When Abraham Lincoln died 100 years ago this week at 56 he looked much older, already worn out by four years of civil war. But this wasn't what made him a tragic figure.

MARLOW

He was tormented. In 1858, he made his famous "house divided" speech which opened this way: "If we could first know where we are, and whither we are tending, we could better judge what to do and how to do it."

It was an insight into the life-long division within himself about slavery and the Negro and a forecast of his own dilemma when he became president.

Between his election in 1860 and the time he took the oath of office on March 4, 1861, seven Southern slave states had seceded from the Union, splitting it.

This was the worst calamity any president ever inherited.

Lincoln, a moderate and conservative man, felt his first obligation was to pull the Union together. The problem was how. And he moved slowly. He stated his dilemma in a letter to Horace Greeley in 1862.

SAVE UNION

"My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save slavery or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves, I would do it."

But the Union wasn't being saved. The war went on. He gradually moved toward the emancipation proclamation which he issued Jan. 1.

As an effective document, it was a joke, or worse. All it did was say that all slaves in the Confederate states where Union forces had not yet won control should be free. That didn't give them much freedom.

But it didn't say anything about freeing them in the loyal slave states. Later, Lincoln worked hard to get approval of the Constitution's 14th Amendment abolishing slavery but he was dead before it was approved.

AMENDMENT

Much earlier, he had backed a constitutional amendment — which didn't get approved — guaranteeing the federal government would never interfere with slavery.

All this showed the division within Lincoln on how to win the war. But his deeper internal division on the Negro problem existed long before. These were some of his positions before he became president:

He abhorred suppression of the Negroes but he was against letting them vote. He wanted slavery abolished in the District of Columbia but he also wanted fugitive slaves escaping into the district sent back to their masters.

He wanted all men to have the chance to rise economically but he didn't consider the Negroes the social equals of white men. He denounced the injustice of slavery but, while not advocating its abolition, he opposed its extension beyond the slave states.

At one time, Jefferson had 100 to 200 slaves whose work on his broad acres made it possible for him to read 18th century philosophy, fight for freedom from Britain and write the Declaration of Independence.

"—And What's for Dessert?"

David Lawrence Says:

Overtones Highlight Veep's Talk

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey made yesterday to the American Society of Newspaper Editors a long speech with plenty of political overtones in it.

LAWRENCE

There was nobody on the program to present a rebuttal — but it really wasn't necessary. For the editors are knowledgeable people, and they know the other side of the arguments the vice president made.

Humphrey, for example, in answer to a question, insisted that the administration is not opposed to literacy tests, but merely to their abuse.

Yet the pending voting-rights bill would, in effect, abolish in several states their present laws governing voting qualifications and leave it to the attorney general of the United States to prescribe what should or shouldn't be the qualifications for registering to vote.

There is nothing in the Constitution, of course, which gives any agency of the federal government the right to pass laws for the states.

The Fifteenth Amendment does forbid any state to abridge the right to vote by reason of race or color, but the existing provisions of the federal constitution do not say a state can lose its right to legislate on the subject or to be governed thereafter by the whims of Department of Justice officials or civil service registrars.

Humphrey took the position that there has been discrimination under literacy laws. This is, of course, conceded.

PROPOSED STATUTE

The proposed statute, however, would not only punish the states by forbidding them to use any of their past literacy tests — even if they parallel those of northern states — but would put certain southern states on probation for a period of 10 years.

It would not necessarily relieve them of this penalty even if they made their statutes conform to the objectives of the Fifteenth Amendment itself.

Humphrey discussed the economic situation as a whole and spoke of it in glowing terms. He said, for instance:

"We will continue to forge a strong economy, unmarked by recessions. We will continue to search for and develop tools to overcome the so-called 'business cycle.'"

But throughout his entire speech — which was optimistic if not virtually a promise of utopian conditions — Humphrey didn't say a word about the financial position of the United States government in the world today.

HISTORIC TRAGEDIES

Many tragic occurrences in history point to the fact that a nation which year after year spends more than it takes in gradually depreciates its own currency and forces up the cost of living. The vice president, however, seemed to think there is no crisis in American fiscal affairs. He said:

"Today this nation is no longer under threat of deep depression, of revolution, of near-fatal division. There is no great domertic economic crisis goading us into action. There are no breadlines."

Yet not long ago President Johnson was telling Congress of the terrible state of poverty existing in many regions of the country and why the federal government simply had to appropriate more money to wage a war on poverty. The idea conveyed was that millions of American citizens do not have enough to eat.

The Humphrey speech was an interesting example of the political motif of all the administration's speeches nowadays — to give the impression that the country not only is prosperous but is going to continue so indefinitely.

The assumption during the prosperity of the 1920's was also that there never would be another recession or depression — but events turned out the other way.

Bob Considine Says:

Age of Color Television Just Beginning to Bloom

NEW YORK — The age of color television is only just beginning to bloom. The corner has been turned. Everything's coming up roses, and other hues.

CONSIDINE

"It was like trying to sell Cadillacs in countries without roads," says young, energetic Robert S. Bell, boss of Packard-Bell Electronics Corp., biggest producer on the coast.

"The industry will turn out 2,000,000 of them this year.

"The networks are going more and more to color — even CBS. That makes it easier for the people who make sets.

"Before that it was a case of trying to learn all over again that you can't stone people to death with popcorn."

BIG HANDICAP

"Color television's big handicap today — even more than its price — is the production of color tubes. The four companies that make them — RCA, Sylvania, National Video and Rauland — can physically make just so many and no more.

"In black and white tubes the electronics problem is comparatively simple. Let's say a gun shoots 525 lines at the back of your screen 32 times a second.

"Well, in color you've got three guns shooting blue, green and red, so to speak, through a screen containing 400,000 holes and hitting, or trying to hit, a triad of color at the same speed as black and white.

100-MILLION GAMBLE

There will be room for everybody, for this is the most resilient economy ever known.

If Bell and the others have their way it will also be the most colorful . . . provided, of course, nothing clogs those 400,000 holes.

Voice of the People:

Encourages Cooperation With Cancer Program

During a recent routine checkup, my doctor detected that I had cancer. Surgery was advised and performed. No post-operative therapy was required. No indication of the disease remained, and there is no fear of recurrence.

I would urge all women to depend more on doctors' examinations. It could mean the difference between joy and sorrow, avoiding pain or loss of life for themselves and grief for their families.

The time and monies spent on neglected cases might well be spent on research to eliminate the disease. Perhaps if the same public cooperation would be given the cancer program as was given to the polio program, the same glorious statistics might be recorded in medical history.

"Bad Drivers Must Pay Their Own Way'

Compulsory insurance is not the answer to our problem. I notice the insurance companies don't demand a crackdown on bad drivers, but keep demanding more money from all.

It's time good drivers demanded that bad drivers pay their own way or get off the road. The answer is car inspection and better law enforcement.

'Pleased With Decision on TB Patients'

I know there are a lot of minds at rest since the decision was made to keep the tubercular patients in Oakland County.

EX-PATIENT

We appreciate the support given efforts to keep TB patients in Oakland County. Members of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors showed their interest in the health and welfare of the people was more important than money or politics by voting to keep the patients in Oakland County and to start remodeling work necessary at the Medical Care Facility so the transfer of patients can be made as promised.

Comments on President's Voting Law

Once the people realize that the President's voting law is punitive, divisive and unconstitutional, and formulated under pressure of street demonstrations and sit-ins, they will urge their representatives to reject it until it is changed to comply with the Constitution.

To pass the bill as it now stands is to violate the basic provisions of the Constitution which guarantees each of us our freedom.

Press Relations

The Atlantic Monthly

The President's human frailties are most sharply seen in his relations with the Washington press. Instead of openness, frankness, and awareness of the limitations and restraints that should govern all human relations, there is a carping and distrust on both sides.

The press believes that the President enjoys playing games with it; the President seriously believes that the press dislikes him because he is a Texan, a Southerner, or the inheritor of the Kennedy mantle. Moreover, he seems not to have learned that it has an obligation to report as much of the truth as it can find, not just what one party or one politician wishes.

Johnson has been at once the most accessible and the most tight-lipped of Presidents. His walking news conferences have produced little news but much insight into his varied personality. When he began every Washington correspondent applauded. The big televised conferences of the Kennedy days had their limitations. But they were a natural development of the press conference as it had evolved under Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower. Johnson thought that he could go back to the more informal Roosevelt-type with sixty or seventy men standing around his desk.

While the President has handled himself effectively — if often evasively—he has refused to schedule regular conferences or to hold more than one or two where all could be accommodated. The newsmen think that the President simply does not like probing questions. He does not want to be compared with his predecessor on television. He does not like to comment on subjects until he is ready to announce his position. He is angered by questions that attempt to draw him out.

In 1941 President Roosevelt told the White House Correspondents Association that "you, more than you realize, have been giving me a great deal of information about what the people of this country are thinking."

When President Truman was asked whether the presidential news conference helped, he replied: "Yes, I do. It is one way the President has to get his ideas over in the way that people can understand. I have had as much fun out of them as you have had." Truman knew that the news conference also informed the bureaucracy. Today the bureaucracy is almost as much in the dark about some Johnson policies as the public.

President Kennedy said that the news conference "serves its purpose, which is to have the President in the bull's eye. And I suppose that is in some ways revealing." It is immensely revealing, to the public and officialdom. But President Johnson does not like being in the bull's eye except when he can stage-manage the whole event.

It would be tragic if this man who has proved to be exceedingly capable in many things should be worn down by petty quarrels growing out of his excessive secretiveness, his unwillingness to learn that the press is most cooperative when the official is most frank, his failure to appreciate that in the end a democracy cannot be operated in the dark.

35 Kettering Students

Weekend in New York

By JAMIE SCHUTT

After months of planning and hard work, 35 dramatics club students from Waterford Kettering left yesterday to spend Easter weekend in New York City.

The group traveled to New York by bus. Under the auspices of the Seniorama tour service, students will visit the Lincoln Cultural Center, the United Nations Building, and Radio City Music Hall.

In addition to other optional tours, the group will attend the Broadway play "Fade In, Fade Out," with Carol Burnett, and Arthur Miller's off-Broadway play, "View From the Bridge."

Faculty members Patty Looman, Duward Chaffee, and Robert Seeburger accompanied the group. They will return Monday morning.

"Hoot 'n' Hop," a combination dance and hootenanny, will be held next Monday night, 8-11, at Waterford Township High School.

A nominal admission will be charged and identification cards are mandatory.

For Speech Contest

By JEAN PERRY

Lockers are closed and halls are still for the four day vacation. Students will return Wednesday to their classes.

The Waterford Township High's preliminaries for the Michigan High School Forensics Association Competition were held last week. Five categories were discussed; original oratory, extemporaneous speech, declamation, interpretive reading, and humorous reading.

Sandy Hughes' facial expressions helped her win first place in the interpretive reading category. Lynn Hamilton was awarded second. Donald Stanger took third with an excerpt from "To Kill a Mockingbird."

The last division ratings in humorous reading were headed by Barb Humphries, first and Adele Madonio, second.

The contest was judged by Sally Misner and Mrs. Patricia Poteet, both English instructors, and Marlyn Jost, librarian and an active member of Lakeland Players.

An all-school assembly will kick off the campaign next Friday, for WTHS' '65 magazine drive. Students will be pushing towards a $6,000 goal. The money will be used for landscaping, primarily the court area behind the school.

Student council representatives will handle the drive in their respective homerooms. Prizes will go to each homeroom with 100 per cent participation.

High homeroom will be treated to a Tiger ball game. Teachers of the two homerooms turning in the most sales each day will dine without charge at the Old Mill Restaurant.

Candidates for next year's student council have been nominated. They are Mike McIntyre, Steve Main and Dennis Sundwall, president; Gayanne Mansfield, Carol Petar and Judy White, vice president; and Julie Appel, Gwen Coppinger and Cathi Hendry, recording secretary.

By KAY COSMA

Last week in the Saginaw Valley spring speech contests Pontiac Central High School orators won the championship for the third year in a row.

One hundred and twenty students representing all the conference schools competed in preliminary contests held in the afternoon with the top two in each room qualifying for the final contest in that event.

Contest judges were from the speech departments of Wayne State University and the University of Detroit.

In the finals in humorous reading, Central came up with the top three. They were Jack Bletstein, Marjy Rosner, and Carol Beckett, respectively.

For the third year straight, Robert Sullivan won the conference championship in extemporaneous speaking while William Chafets finished second.

Cheryl Hight took third in interpretation and Wendy Wold took third in declamation. Phillip Schlesinger also placed in the finals of extemporaneous speaking.

The top two winners in each event will now participate in the regional tournament at Flint, May 7. Walter Smith is the speech teacher.

PLAY REHEARSAL — Cheri Mason of 2310 Silver Lake, Waterford Township, struggles with her unknown assailant as she enacts the part of Roane, a blind girl, in the Pontiac Northern High School mystery, "The Night Is My Enemy." A special matinee will be held April 29 for Northern students. Evening performances are scheduled April 30 and May 1 at 8.

'Night Is My Enemy' Has 10-Member Cast

By ALICE TURNER

As the production date draws near for Pontiac Northern's coming murder-mystery, "The Night Is My Enemy," those involved in the play find themselves frantically at work with many of the last minute details.

The play will open April 29 at a special matinee for Northern students. Evening performances will be held April 30 and May 1 at 8.

Under the direction of Anthony Chiarilli, the play takes place in the early 1900's in an old mansion off the coast of England.

When an accidental death is discovered to be a murder, Roane becomes next in line for death as it is disclosed that the murderer cannot stand imperfections in humans.

The murderer is revealed to the audience as he makes an attempt at Roane's life, yet is still unknown to her.

As the play progresses, Roane finds herself alone and blind in the old house with a mentally unbalanced killer.

The cast, which consists of only ten members, is made up of: Cheri Mason, the blind girl; George Wren and Monika Knab, who act as husband and wife; Gary Eldridge, who plays their mentally unbalanced son; Suzy Meggitt, the town gossip; and Rob Jackson as the doctor of the house.

Also included in the cast are Neil Findley, who becomes attracted to Cheri; Chris Skillman, the "Sherlock Holmes" of the story; Mary DeClute, the maid; and Tony Wyrick, the sophisticated lady of the house.

Sound effects and lighting are important to the play as an eerie effect is essential in the thrilling mystery.

Wayne Anabel will be in charge of attaining this effect. Alan Lince will head the stage committee made up of Ron Forester, Jim Bailey, Daryl Dugas, Pat Pushnicki, Dave Sudbury, Larry Hawkins, Bob Smith and Rick Lyons.

Vicki Muttersbaugh will be in charge of props while Judy Dove, Phyllis Edgar and Nancy Gibson will provide the art work. Bob Hayes will act a technical director.

'Tulip Turnabout' at Rochester High

By KATHY MORGAN

Next week, the girls of Rochester High School have a chance to catch their boys.

The Honor Society is presenting the "Tulip Turnabout" on Friday from 8-11 p.m. The Starlighters will play.

Through the courtesy of Oakland University, Rochester High School students enjoyed a performance of Misha Mishakoff and Misha Kottler. The piano and violin concert was presented Wednesday morning in the cafeteria.

HOLLYWOOD BOUND — Frank O'Neill of 92 N. Ardmore pleads with (front) Carol Manion of 3159 Martell, Avon Township, to forego the lure of the bright lights as Julie Vallier of 56 N. Edith helps her practice for her Hollywood debut. The trio are rehearsing St. Frederick High School senior play, "Don't Take My Penny." It will be presented April 24 and 25 at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

Spring Fling in Full Swing at BHHS

By LINDA McNEILL

Plans for the sixth annual carnival sponsored by the Girls Athletic Association are being completed.

The carnival will be held on April 30 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in the BHHS gym.

Rehearsals for the 1965 variety show are under way.

Entitled "The Year of the Tiger," the show will be produced May 13, 14, and 15 in the Little Theatre.

A large portion of the show is based on events of the past year.

Musical groups performing include the Jills, the Soph Singers and the Marauders, as well as several folk-singing groups.

Benefits of the show will be given to the executive club to be used for charity purposes.

Recently a "bottle raid" took place in the BHHS area. The purpose of collecting bottles was to raise money to send two students to Europe for the summer through the National Association of Student Council. Students collected $176 worth of bottles from March 29 through April 3.

Seniors at St. Frederick's Rehearse Class Play

By JANIS QUARLES

Members of the St. Frederick High School senior class are preparing for the annual senior play, "Don't Take My Penny." It will be presented April 24 and 25 at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

The director is Delores Lamb from the University of Detroit. Student director is Pat Yarnold.

The play, a three act comedy, centers around Penny, portrayed by Carol Manion, a star-stuck young girl who thinks she is destined for Hollywood, and the wild antics of Kerry Harper, played by Frank O'Neill, to keep her home.

The plot thickens as other girls are introduced to Hollywood glory and Director Harrison Day, played by Mike Dean, must choose between them.

CHAIRMEN, USHERS

Wednesday was the annual student day sponsored by the student council.

On this day the teachers handed over their duties. Larry Walter, president, presided as principal. All student teachers were presented with boutonnieres or flowers to distinguish them from the students.

Honors Earned by 40 Students

By HERVEY LAVOIE

Third-quarter report cards were given out at St. Michael High School last week. Forty students earned a berth on the honor roll.

Sophomores were Lynn Bauer, Jean Loviska, Diane Smith, Daniel Hylla, Janis Greek, Roger Magerman, Dianne Campbell, Carol Frieberg and Roger Walther.

Freshmen making the honor roll were Joseph Cassabon, Maurice Finnegan, Richard Jamnik, Atwood Lynn, Joseph Nurek, Christine Stickle and Richard Land.

Student council plans to hold a post-Lenten dance on April 23 are now being put into action. Posters emphasizing the dance theme of interschool friendship, have been sent to all schools in the Northwest Catholic League.

In a final assembly Thursday afternoon before classes terminated for the Easter recess. Mother Maura presented James Stickle with the Optimist Citizenship Award. She also announced that Rick Lavoie was the recipient of a State Elks Most Valuable Student Scholarship Award of $500.

Troy

By ANITA CAPRON

On Monday, Joseph Beachard, principal of Troy High School, described to the student body features to be used in the school next year.

This year, Troy began to use the rotating schedule. It is hoped that next year steps toward having a non-graded high school based on individual study will begin.

'My Fair Lady'

35 in CHS Musical

By CATHY RICHARDSON

Lerner and Loewe's delightful musical "My Fair Lady" will open at Clarkston High School's Little Theatre at 8 p.m. Thursday. The play, Clarkston's first musical, will run for six nights, April 22-30.

Headlining a cast of 35 students are Arnold Taylor as speech professor Henry Higgins, and Mary Wertman (playing April 22, 29 ,30) and Penny Cook (April 23, 24, 28) as the Cockney flower girl, Eliza Doolittle.

Paul Walker, Paul Taylor, Charlene Bachand, Ted Hollis, Carol Taylor, Gwen Ostrom, Charles Pearson, John Merkel and Roger Chrysler are also in the cast.

Last Wednesday, Eliza Doolittle Day, the cast presented entertainment during lunch hours and sold "My Fair Lady" flowers to the student body.

Assembly programs will be given to both high school and junior high audiences to promote ticket sales.

MONTHS OF WORK

Thursday evening the curtain goes up after many months of hard work, not only for the cast, but also for the technicians, set workers, Lee Moore, director; and Mrs. Sherry Moore, musical director.

Junior and senior boys will be introduced to the United States Air Force program in an assembly on April 22. They will view a film on the air force and learn about its background and future.

Class competition will enter into the Girl's Athletic Association's annual basketball tournament.

On April 22, the freshmen team will meet the sophomores and the juniors will battle the seniors on the court.

On April 23, the two winning teams will participate in the play-off game.

Growth Regulator Amazes Scientists

Chemical growth regulators continue to astonish scientists. And everyone from agriculturists to connoisseurs of cut flowers couldn't be more pleased.

The latest startling results from using these chemicals came from Michigan State University where a pair of horticulturists found that two of the growth regulators can prolong the life of cut flowers by as much as 50 per cent.

This finding came just a few weeks after the scientists had seen another growth regulator do an "about-face." Normally a growth retardant, the chemical made snapdragons grow bigger and faster.

For the MSU researchers, Drs. Sylvan H. Wittwer and A. H. Halevy, results such as these are becoming commonplace. And they are intrigued by the possibilities these chemical growth regulators offer for revolutionizing the plant world.

First, the cut flower study. Drs. Wittwer and Halevy found that immersing the bases of the cut stems of flowers overnight in solutions of a growth regulator called B-Nine prolonged the life of cut carnations from 1.5 to 2.5 days — about 20 to 40 per cent, depending on te variety. Another chemical, CCC, extended life 1.4 to 3.1 days — around 20 to 50 per cent.

LIFE EXTENDED

On snapdragons, the life of the White Apollo was extended 4.4 days (81 per cent) with a 50 parts per million (ppm) solution of B-Nine. The same concentration of CCC extended the life of this variety 2.4 days (44 per cent). The Hercules variety's life was extended by as much as 23 to 34 per cent with B-Nine and CCC, respectively.

For those who would like to add another pair of jawbreaking terms to their vocabulary, the chemical name for B-Nine is N, N - dimethylaminosuccinamic acid; CCC is simply 2 - chloroethyltrimethylammonium chloride.

Next, the "mixed-up" growth regulator. CCC normally retards plant growth but, in the case of snapdragons, it did just the opposite.

Drs. Wittwer and Halevy found they could boost snapdragon growth by applying relatively high concentration of the growth regulator to the foliage.

That's why Drs. Wittwer and Halevy were at first surprised with the way snapdragons behaved when CCC was applied to their leaves. But this surprise soon turned to fascination and speculation of what this reaction might mean to science.

Says Dr. Wittwer, "Since the chemical behaved in such a peculiar fashion (as compared to many early experiments), we are hopeful that the tests will open up an area which seems to have been neglected until now — the possibility of boosting plant growth with a chemical commonly thought to be a growth retardant.

"It seems that research is definitely in order to test the chemical on different plants and at varying concentrations. And applications should be made to both the roots and leaves."

Drs. Wittwer and Halevy are well aware that studies of this type might open the doors to entirely new areas of research. For example, they've already noted that CCC and B-Nine can slow down the loss of chlorophyll from bean leaves. Other scientists have found that other growth regulators can make plants more resistant to environmental stresses; drought, heat and cold.

And the cost of these chemicals is practically negligible. CCC and B-Nine, for example, are only about one-hundredth as expensive as N6-benzyladenine, one of the most common chemicals for extending the shelf life of vegetables.

PLANT REVOLUTION

As a result, these inexpensive chemicals could provide the beginning of a revolutionary plant world made up of compact, long lasting flowers; giant sized field crops; and-or pint sized crops grown in areas formerly considered unsuitable for agriculture.

The Wittwer-Halevy experiment on reducing chlorophyll loss, for example, offers possibilities of keeping plants lush and green for long periods of time, even after the plants have been cut and placed in supermarkets.

In this study, CCC and B-Nine were applied by immersing the base of cut bean stems in the chemicals. When the bean leaves were removed and observed, the MSU researchers noted that chlorophyll had been preserved in the detached leaves.

Even more remarkable results were produced when similar treatment was tried on lettuce.

"We observed a very pronounced delay in deterioration of heads of leaf lettuce when we momentarily dipped whole heads in 10 to 100 ppm solutions of CCC and B-Nine," reports Dr. Halevy. "Shelf life was doubled with optimum treatments!"

Since he and Dr. Wittwer had seen similar results when the growth regulators applied to bean and broccoli leaves, the chemicals were next tried on cut flowers. As noted earlier, this resulted in prolonged life for some cut varieties.

Then, too, these chemicals (and others like them) can provide plants with more hardiness. This effect is particularly interesting to Dr. Wittwer, who was one of the pioneers in the study of this biological phenomenon, and Dr. Halevy, who had also worked in this field at Hebrew University (Relovot, Israel), before coming to MSU for a year of research.

They theorize that plant hardiness, after treatment with growth regulators, may be related to the chemicals' ability to inhibit aging, preserve chlorophyll and protein and reduce respiratory metabolism.

At any rate, the MSU researchers believe that further studies are needed in this area to take full advantage of the growth regulators' full potential.

Fungus Disease Wracks Havoc

If you find your lawn damaged by snow mold this spring, give the area a thorough cleaning but remember to do something about the situation next fall.

Snow mold is a fungus disease. The damaged area my be white, gray, pink or tan. The spore may survive through the warm season on dead grass mat and reactivate in cool weather. Snow cover aids the fungus development.

As soon as you discover snow mold, rake out the dead material. The grass roots will send out new shoots if they have not been killed. If they don't reseed the spots.

Apply a good turf fungicide. If you reseed, use inorganic fertilizer. When you mow, remove the clippings and in the fall rake away leaves and apply the fungicide again.

Strawberries in Eight Weeks

Do you know that you can grow strawberries from seeds?

There's a variety named Baron Solemacher which will flower eight weeks after planting and will produce large, sweet, very fragrant berries for weeks.

This is an Alpine type strawberry which does not produce any runners, but will remain small.

This little strawberry is especially useful as a border to a path or a flower bed, near the house of course so you can pick the berries as they ripen.

Cherry Trees Like Well-Drained Soil

Cherry trees should be planted on a choice site. They must have a deep, well-drained soil in as frost-free a location as possible.

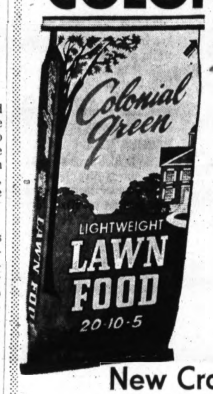
COLONIAL GREEN



The market is flooded with cheap fertilizer and most of them are worth even less than their price. We have tried a good many, and we have found that colonial green is one of the few that does not expand all its growth energy in a flash after the first rainfall. Colonial green lasts much longer and it will not burn when properly applied. It is manufactured for us by a prominent maker of high priced fertilizer, and we can recommend it.

When Choosing Mate

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE V-455: Clarence G., age 28, is an engineer who registered with our Scientific Marriage Foundation.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I'd like to get married. For I make a good salary.

"But I travel around a great deal so I don't have much chance to meet attractive women of the sort I'd want for a wife.

"So I am registering with the S-M-F and hope you can introduce me to a girl around 25 years of age who is congenial.

"But what do the women registrants say they like most in a prospective husband?"

In addition, they very often add this interesting footnote:

"And he must have a good sense of humor!"

"If a man brings home a good pay check regularly, what difference does it make if he lacks a sense of humor?"

Instead, they want a man who has a broad perspective so that he doesn't make mountains out of molehills.

They prefer a husband who is not such a slave to rules and ritual that he throws a fit if any slight annoyance interrupts his smooth routine.

In other words, they want a man who can shrug off occasional rebuffs to his plans and still not grouch or gripe all day about the matter.

By their "sense of humor," as I have learned through questioning any of these prospective wives, they refer to a jolly personality who can laugh at himself occasionally.

By contrast, notice this frequent remark from girls:

"Oh, Henry is too stuffy! He takes the world too seriously, so he sees no fun in doing silly things once in awhile!"

If you men wish to rate higher as good husbands, please remember that women are more like children in their emotional outlook than are you grown males.

Both children, as well as grown women, thus are delighted by surprises, even if the cost thereof is not more than a dime.

They are easily sidetracked by trivial things which the average man would brush aside as totally irrelevant and unimportant.

That's why they like to save dance programs and souvenirs of places they have visited, for such tangibles let them daydream later on about their former gay trips or good times.

That's one reason bankers, mechanics, engineers, farmers and doctors are usually masculine, for women are physically strong enough in this machine age to handle any of those duties.

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and go through those 200-point specific ratings.

Drifter Is Latest Version of Shift

Out of the mid-west comes news that the "drifter" will take its place in the sun, on the sportswear horizon for summer.

The drifter, says Ralph Green, president of Minnesota Apparel Industries, is the latest version of the shift. Designed tunic style, it is slashed to the thigh and worn over matching shorts.

Cut roomy enough for action, it is covered enough to wear on the beach, on the terrace and even for suburban shopping.

Lemon Juice Helps Remove Stains

Mothers like to share their discoveries, whether it is a new variety of baby food or a new way to remove stains from baby clothes. Rub milk spots with lemon juice, then with soap. Then the spots really come out in the wash.

"Currier & Ives"

Internal Revenue Medical Deductions

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

In making out our income tax returns, I am always at a loss to know what can be included under Medicines and Drugs.

MARY FEELEY

A friend of mine told me that I could include toothpaste, mouthwash, etc. in this category. Since I have never done this, it occurs to me that maybe I have been missing out on items that can be deducted. Will you please advise me?

Mrs. C. L., Williamson, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. L.:

This question, like the crocus, always comes up at this time of the year. It's unquestionably one of the most confusing categories in the whole area of reporting our income tax.

Most of us think of medicine and drugs as any of those things that help us guard our health.

However, the Internal Revenue Service has nicely settled the whole problem for us: they list what we can and cannot consider — and deduct for — under this heading.

You may not legally deduct the cost of toothpaste, mouthwash, toiletries, cosmetics, and kindred items as Medicines and Drugs. Kindred items cover all the millions of pink curlers which American women — and young girls — buy in the drugstore and consider utterly essential to health and well-being!

Maybe you'd like to have a copy of the Internal Revenue's "Your Federal Income Tax" publication No. 17 which lists specifically what can be deducted in various categories.

It's available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402, or local Internal Revenue offices, for 50 cents a copy.

Dear Miss Feeley:

My son, age 26 and single, lives at home and has no expenses — other than gas to put in the car which his company is buying for him.

He gets $132 per week take-home-pay.

What do you think would be a fair amount to ask him for room and board? I pay for his cleaning and do his laundry at home.

Mrs. H.E.M., Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Mrs. M.:

Usually room and board is expected to cover housing, food, and laundry. And for those, you're entitled to ask one-fourth to one-third of the take-home pay.

Now, when the "boarder" is your own son, naturally you have other things to consider.

You want him to save some of his salary, buy some life insurance while he's young and can get it at a low rate.

I don't see why he couldn't put $20 a week into savings at this point, to cover both of those items.

I also think he could well afford to contribute $33 a week to the household, as his share of room and board.

Dear Miss Feeley:

My husband is working in Europe and since he is going to be away for some time, I plan to join him.

As this will be my very first trip, I am puzzled as to storage of furnishings. I would greatly appreciate pointers on this matter.

Mrs. E.T., Flushing, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Forgive me if I ask you a very basic question: are your furnishings worth the price you'll have to pay for storage? I don't mean to imply that storage prices are out of line.

But if you live abroad for a long period of time, you might find it financially smarter to try and sell your furnishings now and start accumulating what you will need later — in what may be an entirely different environment.

Of course, if you have furniture that you value highly and that you may not be able to replace, then you're right to think in terms of storing it.

Be sure you deal with a reliable moving company, and I suggest you see the warehouse where your furniture is to be stored.

There will be charges for moving, wrapping, etc. These may be by the hour or the weight, and you should have the movers come and give you an estimate before you make any decision.

Then you will be billed by the month for storage charges — the usual procedure by the bigger companies.

Settle all financial arrangements beforehand so that no unexpected problems will come up when you're too far away to handle them in person.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of widest interest will be answered in her column.)

Master Pros Meet County's Top 18

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Experience is the best teacher and for the golfers who play one of the 50 courses in Oakland County there's plenty of experience to help them sharpen their games.

Put together, the top nine veteran club pros—each of whom has 30 or more years dedicated to his profession—and it would amount to 345 years of golfing experience.

The three Masters who have more than 45 years of seniority in the game are Brownie Meyer, Al Watrous and Frank Syron.

STARTS IN ILLINOIS

Meyer, who started his career as assistant pro in Quincy, Ill., in 1916, came to Michigan in 1927 to be the head pro at Eastwood Hills CC in Troy, which now is the site of a cemetery. He has been at Twin Beach now for 25 years.

Watrous, probably the most famous of county golf pros, started his career in 1920 and holds the longevity title for being at one course, famous Oakland Hills, for 35 years.

Syron starts his 24th season at Pontiac Country Club, with 45 years in pro golf ranks, including 21 years at Bloomfield Hills and Orchard Lake Country Club.

Second in longevity service is Bill Graham, who came from Scotland to Bloomfield Hills Country Club in 1931 and begins his 35th year at the course.

Bill Uzelac at Plum Hollow for 17 years, Warren Orlick at Tam O'Shanter for 13 years and Bald Mountain's Ken Wilson all boast 32 years of service in the profession.

Wilson has spent all 32 years with the public course northeast of the city which has been popular with publinx golfers.

The "back nine" of golf pros is shorter in length of service but talented in their profession.

Ted Kroll, long famous touring pro, starts his 2nd year at Franklin Hills, and has 28 years background as a pro, followed by Ray Maguire, who has spent 20 of his 27 years at Birmingham Country Club.

Frank Metzger, head pro at beautiful Red Run for 15 years, looks back on 25 years to complete the quarter century club.

Still a few years from this club is Preston Meisel at Farmington CC, Bob Gajda at Forest Lake and Elmer Prieskorn at Pine Lake, all 20 year men in total service.

Tony Battles Buick Odds

Champagne Tony Lema will be battling the odds when he tries to retain his Buick Open golf title June 3-6 at Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc.

No champion has ever repeated in the tournament, which draws most of the top names on the professional golfing tour.

Lema won last year with a 72-hole total of 277, and in doing so became the seventh Buick Open champion.

The Women's professional tour will hit the state in July for the Yankee Open July 15-18 at Atlas Valley Country Club near Flint.

City Sponsors Program of Golf Classes

A five-week course for beginning golfers will get under way Wednesday at Pontiac Central High School.

The program, sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, will feature fundamentals of the game with emphasis on grip, stance, swing, rules and etiquette.

After the Wednesday class, golfers will meet April 28, May 5, 12 and 19.

Outdoor practice at Carl's Golfland at 1976 South Telegraph is slated during the last two class sessions.

REGISTRATIONS

Advance registrations for the class may be made by calling the Parks and Recreation Department office, FE 3-7131, before Monday. Late registrations will be accepted at the gym shortly before the first session starts.

Cost of the program is $5 a person. Members are required to bring a No. 2 wood, a No. 5 iron, a putter and two practice (rubber or plastic) balls.

50 Golf Courses Within 18-Mile Radius of Pontiac

Golf to the East; Golf to the West; Golf to the North and Golf to the South—travel any direction of an 18-mile radius from Pontiac city limits, all within Oakland County, and there's a golf course within reach.

Augusta, Ga., may be the Masters golf capital of the world, but if there's another city that can lay claim to 50 courses within this radius, let it be known.

Add another seven courses just outside Oakland County lines and there wouldn't be enough time to play a different course in each week of the year.

Within the 25-mile range are several fine courses such as Warwick Hills, home of the Buick Open; Sunnybrook in Utica; Hillcrest and Burning Tree, between Utica and Mt. Clemens and Romeo Golf Club.

In 1958, Oakland County had 35 courses, today there are 50. Four of these are in the completion stages including Arrowhead Golf Club, Oxford Hills, Holly Acres and the unnamed course of Ernie Fuller, one of the brothers in the ownership of Edgewood Country Club.

Arrowhead GC, bounded by Lapeer Road, Walton and I-75, is hoping to be ready by the latter part of summer with 6,600 yards over 18 holes.

Holly Acres is shooting for an opening in late summer on its 300 acre site at I-75 and Holly Road.

The 18 holes under construction, aiming for fall or spring opening on Commerce Road by Fuller, will add more golf yardage to that area of Oakland County which already has a heavy concentration of courses.

Birmingham has another municipal course with the opening of Lincoln Hills in its planned recreational area near Cranbrook Road.

Many historic golf events have taken place on Oakland County links.

Most famous of course is Oakland Hills in Bloomfield Township, 4-time home of the USGA Open and last year the site of the first Carling World Open. Oakland Hills hosted the Open in 1924, 1937, 1951 and 1961.

The PGA championship came to the area in 1947 at Plum Hollow, in 1953 at Birmingham Country Club and in 1955 at Meadowbrook.

In the amateur field, the National Publinx took place at Rackham in 1961 and the Western Amateur was at Orchard Lake in 1962.

Indianwood in 1930, Plum Hollow in 1957 and Red Run in 1958 were sites of the Western Open, while Forest Lake was a popular one for lady golfers with the LPGA Open in 1956 and the USGA Women's Open in 1958.

These along with a great number of state tournaments and PGA tour tournaments have made the beautiful courses within a short reach of Pontiac their sites through the years.

The oldest and most challenging of the courses include Indianwood, Oakland Hills, Plum Hollow, Red Run, Franklin Hills and Birmingham, all within at least 40 years of historic tradition.

World Champs Still Winless

Cardinals Continue to Falter

By The Associated Press

Schoendienst must be starting to wonder about that fact even though he was there — as a coach — when St. Louis defeated the New York Yankees in the 1964 World Series.

For the rookie manager still seeks his first victory after Cincinnati walloped St. Louis 10-4 Thursday night.

THREE STRAIGHT

As the 1965 baseball season nears its first weekend, the Cardinals haven't looked anything like the team that came from 4 games back and won the National League pennant in the final two weeks of last season.

Even the New York Mets are ahead of St. Louis. The Mets edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings, marking the earliest they've won a game in their four-year existence.

The Braves, opening their final season in Milwaukee, whipped Chicago 5-1 in the only other NL game. Rain washed out the San Francisco-Philadelphia and Los Angeles-Pittsburgh games.

TWO HOMERS

Two of the hits off St. Louis starter Bob Purkey were home runs. Vada Pinson clouted a three-run blast that capped a four-run uprising in the third inning, and Gordy Coleman unloaded a grand slam in the fifth.

John Tsitouris limited the Cardinals to five hits, two of them run-scoring doubles by Ken Boyer and Dick Groat in the third and another Curt Flood's homer in the eighth.

The Mets won their first game on Bobby Klaus' 10th-inning homer off Claude Raymond after Jim Wynn tied the game for Houston with a two-run homer in the ninth. In their first three seasons, the Mets lost nine, five and four games before winning.

En route to the triumph, the Mets pulled the third triple play of their brief career.

Wynn started it in the second inning when he flied to Johnny Lewis in right field. Lewis fired to catcher Chris Cannizzaro, who tagged Walt Bond at the plate and then threw to Roy McMillan to nail Bob Aspromonte trying to reach second.

Bob Sadowski held the Cubs to four hits and ignited a three-run Brave outburst in the third with an infield single. The Milwaukee pitcher also figured in a later run with a sacrifice bunt. Ernie Banks homered for Chicago in the fifth.

No wheels! Toro's new Flymo handles like no other mower can . . . because it floats on air

A light push and Toro's new Flymo goes where you want it to go. Back and forth. Side to side. Straight ahead. The most revolutionary idea since power mowing began, Flymo floats on a cushion of air, just like the military hovercraft. As safe and easy to use on hills and terraces as it is on level lawns. No discharge chute—clippings and debris are deflected downward into the grass beneath the housing. Flymo cuts a 19" swath, weighs just 30 pounds, and features a fast starting 2½ hp engine FLOATS ON AIR. A whirling impeller spins a ring of air that supports the Flymo only ¼" above the ground. Floats so low . . . it glides under shrubs and bushes. Height of cut easily adjusted for ½, 1 and 1½ inches.

New Toro mower floats on air!

workpower

"walks" right over bumps and trouble

Independent front suspension takes the "truck" out of truck ride. It smooths rough roads, protects truck, driver and cargo from excessive jolting. And on Chevrolet pickups it's a proved system with millions of miles of user experience behind it. Try it out on one of Chevrolet's great Fleetside or Stepside pickups. It's one of the big reasons that Chevrolet is first choice with pickup users from coast to coast.

PROBLEM SOLVED — Jane Elizabeth Baudistel, 1, serenely watches the world go by from the back of her father, Herbert H. Baudistel Jr. of Los Angeles, as he trims the lawn. Baudistel dug out the pack seat he uses while hiking with his daughter when he found himself stuck with baby-sitting duties at a time when the lawn needed cutting.

Cite Emergency Rise

Pontiac General Hospital's recurring problem — a bed shortage and consequent cancellation of admissions — received another look last night by the board of trustees.

Results of a 16-day study of the emergency department were given to the board. However, board members appeared dissatisfied with the study and asked for further statistics.

The 16-day study, March 19-April 3, showed the hospital handled 207 emergency cases. All but four of the patients were from the hospital's service area, except those patients from other areas involved in accidents in this area.

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, reported that the hospital has had 100 per cent occupancy for the entire first quarter of the year.

CANCELLATION

The high occupancy forces cancellation of admissions.

The board of trustees had asked for the study in an attempt to learn where the hospital's patients were coming from.

Referring to the emergency room load, Trustee William P. Babcock said, "It all boils down to the question: Are we doing too much of the job again?"

STATISTICS

Board Chairman Aleck Capsalis directed Euler to meet with the administrators of other area hospitals to get statistics on emergency cases.

In other business last night, the board went on record against pending state legislation that would require hospitals to make annual reports to the attorney general on all expenditures outside of those for general operation.

Pioneer Aviator Dies

PARIS (AP) — Roger Sommer, 88, a pioneer French aviator, died Thursday. Sommer beat the record of Wilbur Wright for duration of a flight when he stayed in the air 2 hours, 27 minutes and 15 seconds in 1909.

'Radio Priest' Due to Retire

DETROIT (AP) — The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, nationally known "radio priest" of the 1930s, reportedly plans to announce his retirement Easter Sunday. He now is 73.

The Detroit Free Press reported today it had learned Father Coughlin likely would announce his retirement Sunday from the altar of his Roman Catholic Shrine of the Little Flower in suburban Royal Oak.

Father Coughlin declined to accept telephone calls or see newsmen, but a secretary quoted him as saying "'There is nothing definite about it.'"

"I can't deny it and I can't confirm it," said the Rev. William J. Murphy, an assistant pastor to the one-time controversial, barbed-tongue Father Coughlin who sometimes lauded Hitlerite Germany while castigating President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his national radio network programs.

State Sums Up Case Against 2 Generals

LANSING (AP) — State attorneys, summing up their case against two suspended generals after a 53-hour hearing, said Thursday that testimony showed there was "no excuse for the manner in which state money was handled."

Their 27-page brief went to Gov. George Romney, who conducted the hearing, and to attorneys for Maj. Gen. Ronald McDonald and Brig. Gen. Carson Neifert, who are accused of gross neglect of duty.

Romney's decision is not expected before early May. Defense attorneys Thomas McAllister, for McDonald, and Russell Noble, for Neifert, will have until April 26 to reply to the brief and state attorneys then will have until May 3 for a rebuttal.

Romney, who said he first dismissed the generals on recommendations of the State Military Board, said during the hearing he had heard evidence which would modify the board's recommendations. He did not elaborate.

CONTENTION

The brief contended the hearing had shown the generals were guilty of gross neglect, misfeasance and malfeasance "which would justify taking of such disciplinary measures... as in your sound discretion you find to be warranted under the circumstances."

The charges involved allegedly illegal land transactions at Camp Grayling and use of local armory funds to pay for items for Lansing Headquarters or the camp.

The brief says in their testimony, both generals showed knowledge of proper methods of purchasing equipment for headquarters and the camp.

"This knowledge leaves no excuse for the manner in which state money was handled," the brief says. "It suggests an intention to conceal the true facts relating to expenditures from the legislators and other interested persons."

ONLY NEEDS?

It also says: "Certainly there is nothing in the statutes... which remotely suggests that the armory funds may be used for purposes other than the needs of the armory to which they were sent."
