DEATH SCENE—This trailer in an Oxford Township mobile home park was the scene early today of the fatal shooting of William G. Greene, whose wife is being held in Oakland County Jail for investigation of murder in connection with his death. Oakland County sheriff's detectives said they found Greene in the bedroom of the vehicle at 1540 Lapeer, shot twice in the head.

Shots Kill Area Man; Wife to Be Arraigned

A 36-year-old Oxford Township man died of gunshot wounds early today, and his wife is in custody in Oakland County Jail for investigation of murder.

Dead is William G. Greene, a resident of the Parkhurst Trailer Park, 1540 S. Lapeer.

Sheriff's detectives, responding to a shooting complaint about 3 a.m., said they found Greene in the bedroom of his trailer in lot 265 of the park.

He had been shot twice near the right ear and was lying in a pool of blood, they said.

Mrs. Lois Greene, the victim's wife, met officers at the door and told them Greene had shot himself, according to deputies.

They said she handed over a six-shot 32-caliber revolver which had apparently been recently fired.

Detectives said they felt circumstances surrounding the shooting merited further investigation, including the arrest of Mrs. Greene.

She was scheduled to be arraigned this afternoon before Justice Patrick K. Daly of Waterford Township.

Oakland County Asst. Prosecutor Charles Woodruff said an autopsy scheduled for this morning in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital will, to some extent, determine what, if any, formal charge will be filed against Mrs. Greene.

Detectives said the Greenes are parents of two small children.

Open Housing Gets Legal Lift

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled today that Michigan cities may pass open occupancy housing laws containing criminal penalties.

Kelley said yesterday at a rally in Flint that he thought cities have this power. But today's ruling was the first formal attorney general's opinion to that effect.

Kelley ruled in 1963 and repeated today that cities may not enforce open occupancy ordinances by use of such simple processes as injunctions and cease-and-desist orders. Those powers, he ruled, have been preempted by the State Civil Rights Commission.

The Pontiac City Commission was asked last week to enact an open housing ordinance at tomorrow night's meeting.

The request touched off more than an hour of discussion but the meeting ended without commissioners giving any commitment to when or if such an ordinance would be considered.

An open housing ordinance was defeated by Flint's City Commission last week, causing Negro Mayor Floyd McCree to say he would resign. Kelley and Gov. George Romney took part Sunday in a Flint rally supporting McCree.

Pentagon Says 2 Jets May Be Down in China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said two Navy jet attack planes inadvertently may have crossed the Communist Chinese border early today in their attempts to evade North Vietnamese planes and missiles.

Both planes are missing and may have been downed in Red China, a spokesman said.

A spokesman said both planes — A6As from the carrier USS Constellation — are missing. They had been part of an air strike early today on the Duc Noi railroad yards seven miles northeast of Hanoi.

The spokesman said the target area is about 75 miles south of the Chinese border.

Disclosure last week that the Johnson administration has authorized air strikes within 10 miles of the North Vietnam-China border erupted in controversy in Congress and brought charges the flights increased the risk of Chinese intervention.

"After encountering heavy antiaircraft fire in the target area and while under withdrawal route, the aircraft were attacked by MIGs and surface-to-air (SAM) missiles," the Pentagon said.

It added that both planes reported navigational difficulties, perhaps due to severe thunderstorms to the south.

'EVASIVE MANEUVERS'

"During the course of their evasive maneuvers from the MIGs and SAMs, both A6As are believed to have inadvertently crossed the Chinese border," the Pentagon added.

"It is probable that one or both of the aircraft were shot down by MIGs, either by those pursuing them or by Red Chinese aircraft across the border," it continued. "Each A6A carried a crew of two. We have no information on the crews."

Although there have been previous reports of U.S. planes crossing the Chinese border, only one airman — Philip E. Smith of Roadhouse, Ill. — has been reported captured.

Smith, an Air Force captain, is one of five Americans known to be Chinese prisoners. He is the only one captured in connection with the Vietnam war.

The others include Roman Catholic Bishop James A. Walsh of Cumberland, Md., serving a 20-year sentence imposed in 1960 for alleged espionage and subversion.

Bullets Hit U.S. Post in London

LONDON (AP) — Police throughout southeast England searched today for three well-dressed men in a white car who machine-gunned a side entrance of the U.S. Embassy in London and left a note attacking American racial and foreign policies.

The burst of fire at 11:35 p.m. yesterday dented holes the size of tennis balls in and around the side door of the concrete and glass building, smashed three glass door panels and punctured lamps on the steps.

One of the two U.S. Marine guards in the building — Cpl. John McNamara, 23, of the Bronx, N. Y. — was about to pass the side door when the attack came. But no one was injured.

Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and service, said the standard ratio of four single-family residences can be built on an acre. An acre can likewise accommodate 12 multiple units.

POSSIBLE RESIDENCES

Assuming that three-quarters of the land would be used for single-family residences some 4,900 homes could be built in the area served by the Galloway Creek sewer line. If all multiple dwelling units were constructed it would support 17,100 units.

Neippling believes the entire area could be built up within two construction seasons — by the end of 1969.

Gov. Romney Says Credibility on Viet Is Key to 1968 Race

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — Republican Gov. George Romney says the 1968 presidential candidate with the best chance of election will be the one who can convince voters he can achieve peace in Vietnam "at a reasonably early date."

The people are concerned that the war in Vietnam might last five, 10 or 15 years, Romney told newsmen in an informal "background" meeting on Mackinac Island during the weekend. The governor's summer vacation residence is on the island located between Michigan's two peninsulas.

"I think that in 1968 the people will want to have some confidence that whoever is asking them for support can bring peace at a reasonably early date," he said.

Romney is considered an all-but-declared candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

He declined to indicate what he feels would be a reasonable date to bring peace in Vietnam.

LATE THIS YEAR

Romney said he plans to discuss the war "in more specific terms after I go to Vietnam." He has said several times that he hopes to visit Southeast Asia "later this year."

The governor said he believes the Vietnam war will be the main issue in the 1968 campaign.

He said his position on the war basically is the same as that which he outlined in a speech at Hartford, Conn., in April, and in a subsequent position paper.

Meanwhile, Romney today turned his attention to the Michigan Legislature.

SPECIAL SESSION

He meets with 19 GOP state legislative leaders to discuss subjects for consideration at a special session he has called for Oct. 10.

Romney aides announced a series of fall trips which will take the governor to 15 states, primarily for fund-raising appearances.

He said he still plans to go to Europe in September.

Romney interrupted his weekend at the governor's mansion on this remote, resort island to fly to Flint, to try to head off possible racial trouble over the resignation of the city's Negro mayor.

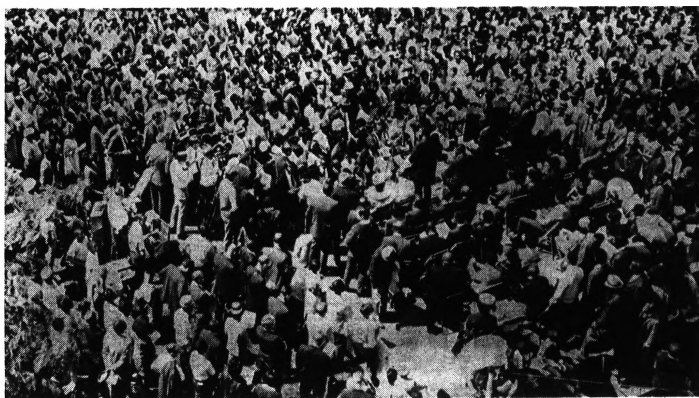

ALREADY THE LAW?

Romney told a rally of some 3,000 Negroes in Flint that he supports "the basic idea that there must be an open occupancy ordinance in the state of Michigan and the City of Flint."

Romney said he thought the Michigan Supreme Court would rule that open housing already is the law under the State Constitution.

Several speakers suggested that an open housing bill be introduced during the Legislature's special session.

The governor returned to the island late last night.

FLINT DEMONSTRATION — About 4,000 persons gathered at Flint's City Hall yesterday to protest the defeat of an open housing ordinance and the subsequent announcement by Negro Mayor Floyd McCree that he would resign. Gov. Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley were among the major state officials who addressed the predominantly Negro audience.

Poison Kills Boy, 13 Daring Rescue by Copter Crew

A Dearborn teen-ager died in Pontiac General Hospital Saturday and another youth from the same city became ill after they drank a poisonous liquid. They were en route to an outing at Camp Dearborn near Milford.

The youths thought the liquid was whiskey, according to Pontiac State Police.

After disembarking from a bus at the camp, the boys became ill and were rushed to the hospital via ambulance.

Patrick T. Lennon, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lennon, died shortly after arrival at the hospital.

Reported improved and in satisfactory condition is Allen Kozlowski, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kozlowski.

The liquid they drank is believed to be either fluorescein, a rare, highly fluorescent chemical used as a diagnostic aid in the treatment of eye disease; or Zexon antifreeze which contains fluorescein.

The afflicted boys were part of a group taking part in a swimming outing at the camp. They represented the Dearborn Recreation Swimming Club, police said.

While traveling on I-696, Kozlowski said he had some whiskey which he offered to Lennon and other youths.

The victims remarked how "awful" the liquid tasted, which discouraged the other youths from drinking it.

Kozlowski reportedly obtained the liquid from a 16-year-old neighbor who later told police he found the container in his garage.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today, tonight and tomorrow, 10.

BENEFITS OF FORESIGHT

The city is already seeing signs that foresight in laying plans for the Galloway Creek sewer area is beginning to pay off.

Sewer Trunk Functioning Nears

By BOB WISLER

One big step toward opening great parts of Pontiac for new residential construction is only 60 to 90 days away.

That's the time that the now-under-construction Galloway Creek trunk sewer is expected to be far enough along so it can begin to function.

The $11-million sanitary sewer line will connect to the sewage treatment plant at Opdyke and Auburn and will serve as the main artery for draining some 1,900 acres of relatively undeveloped land in the northern and western parts of the city.

Sewer installation is the first step in development of previously undeveloped land, and a big one. But as past experience indicates, once it's begun development follows rapidly.

Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and service, said the standard ratio of four single-family residences can be built on an acre. An acre can likewise accommodate 12 multiple units.

Assuming that three-quarters of the land would be used for single-family residences some 4,900 homes could be built in the area served by the Galloway Creek sewer line. If all multiple dwelling units were constructed it would support 17,100 units.

Neippling believes the entire area could be built up within two construction seasons — by the end of 1969.

Variables which could affect this forecast, he said, are the availability of money for building and the ability of the city "to control its water system."

By that, Neippling means the ability of the city to provide sewer lines which connect residential streets into the main Galloway Creek trunk line.

TRUNK FINANCING

Although the city pays for the main trunk by issuing bonds, it must depend on assessments and tax revenue to pay for the lines connecting residential areas to the main lines.

"Our present assessment rate is antiquated," Neippling says. The director said cash reserves are being drained off to pay benefits of private property, "which in most other cities are being paid 100 per cent by the residents who are benefited."

Neippling said under the present rate schedule the city is paying up to 50 and 70 per cent, in some cases, of the assessment costs of installing the local sanitary sewers.

He said that if the city can change the rate schedule, the city "has an adequate revenue base to complete the sanitary sewer system for the city."

The city is already seeing signs that foresight in laying plans for the Galloway Creek sewer area is beginning to pay off.

Senators Up in '68 Are Divided on Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson found 44 senators in support of his Vietnam war policies among 28 senators whose seats will be at stake in the 1968 elections, an Associated Press poll shows.

An over-all canvass of the Senate in which 84 of the 100 senators expressed their opinion on Johnson's conduct of the war is the underlying issue in hearings which the Senate Foreign Relations Committee resumes today.

Led by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., war policy doves showed every intention of airing further complaints that the President is overcommitting the United States militarily and isn't taking steps that lead to peace negotiations.

More Lumps Facing Aid Bill in the House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's foreign aid program, fresh from a drubbing in the Senate last week, appears headed for more lumps in the House.

Despite 27-7 support from the House Foreign Affairs Committee for a $3.1 billion aid measure close to what the administration sought, opponents could not get enough votes to push through cuts in most of the economic assistance categories.

Waterford Boy Burned in Fire

A Waterford Township child was injured this morning when a flash fire broke out in his home.

John R. Parker, almost 3, received second- and third-degree leg and arm burns. His hair also was singed.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Parker, 4470 Clintonville, he is listed in general condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Township fire fighters said the fire was caused when a gas furnace ignited gasoline vapors from a nearby container.

The child was playing near the furnace.

FIREMEN SUMMONED

Firemen were summoned at 11:28 a.m. and remained at the scene for one hour and 20 minutes.

However, it took only about one minute to quench the fire with a dry powder fire extinguisher, firemen said.

Damage to the one-story frame home was estimated at $500. Smoke caused minor damage to the contents.

The fire was confined to the room.

British Ignore China Demand

'Bad Language' Cited in Hong Kong Note

HONG KONG (AP) — British officials said today they will ignore Red China's ultimatum that they allow three pro-Communist Hong Kong newspapers to resume publication and free the papers' arrested employees by Tuesday night.

The British Foreign Office said in London that its representative in Peking had rejected China's demand — as he has other similar notes — for offensive language. Officials pointed out that Red China has issued 48 "serious warnings" to the United States charging infringement of air space but never has acted.

British policy makers believe that because of its internal upheavals, China is not planning any big push to force the British out of Hong Kong. The threats are believed intended to boost the moral of Hong Kong's local Communist agitators.

Communist China's charge of affairs in London was called to the British Foreign Office for a veiled warning on any further action against British diplomats and newsmen in Peking.

Death Claims Bank Chief for '33 Reopening

CHICAGO (AP) — Walter J. Cummings, who directed the reopening of the nation's banks during the Depression, will be buried Thursday after a morning Mass at Holy Name Cathedral.

The 86-year-old retired banking executive died Saturday in his home after a long illness.

Cummings was put in charge of reopening the banks in 1933 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who declared a banking holiday after panic had touched off runs by depositors that forced many banks into financial ruin.

Cummings also played a part in creating the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which insures bank depositors against unwarranted losses.

RETURNED TO CHICAGO

In 1934, Cummings returned to spend the rest of his life in his adopted city of Chicago. He was born on a farm near Springfield.

He was elected chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co., which grew during his 25 years of service from $750 million to more than $2.5 billion in assets.

After six years as a clerk in a Chicago bank, in 1904, Cummings, then 24, became a partner in a railroad company.

Later he organized the Cummings Car and Coach Co., manufacturers of street cars and railroad cars, and operated the Chicago & West Town Railway, the Des Moines Railway Co. and the Chicago & Calumet District Transit Co.

SURVIVORS

Survivors include three sons, Walter I. Jr., a judge on the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals, Edward and Arthur.

Union Rivals Clash in Mexico; 22 Killed

By the Associated Press

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — A blazing gun battle between two rival factions at the 25th anniversary banquet of a copra growers union Sunday left 22 persons dead and an estimated 100 wounded in this Pacific Coast resort.

Police and soldiers rounded up 184 persons for questioning. Those involved are men who grow and harvest copra—dried coconut meat — either on their own or by hiring workers.

Claudio Monreal, Acapulco police watch commander, said one group of about 600 men was holding the banquet at the two-story building of the regional copra growers union. Another group of about 1,000 dissatisfied with a recent union election, gathered outside.

No Charges in Minnesota Deaths Yet

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — David Hoskins, 30, held in the deaths of his wife and four children in a farmhouse fire, may be released from a hospital today or Tuesday.

Stearns County Atty. Paul J. Doerner said he had not decided on what specific charges would be filed against Hoskins, a former Minnesota National Guard helicopter pilot.

Meanwhile, autopsies on the bodies of Hoskins' wife, Lorretta, 29, and their four children were ordered.

The bodies were recovered Friday from the burned out rubble of the Hoskins farmhouse some 17 miles southeast of St. Cloud.

HAPPY MARRIED

Hoskins, described by friends as happily married and a man who never displayed a temper, was found bleeding and tied to a clothesline pole near his burning home early Friday.

He told Stearns County Sheriff Peter Lahr that four or five men seized him outside his home, shot him and tied him up before setting fire to the house.

Saturday, Sheriff Lahr told newsmen Hoskins had admitted shooting his wife, then turning a 22-caliber rifle on himself and setting fire to the farmhouse and a barn before tying himself to the clothes line pole.

Peking Perils Pacts-Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has warned China it is endangering trade and shipping agreements between the two countries by harassing Soviet ships.

The warning was sounded in a new protest note delivered Sunday to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow and made public today. It demanded harassment stop.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry charged in the note that it has become impossible for Soviet ships to use the Chinese port of Dairen on the Yellow Sea. This is one of the main ports for Soviet-Chinese trade by sea.

SHIPS UNLOADED

The note disclosed that two Soviet ships—the Turkistan and Kamchatskiy—left Dairen unloaded last Tuesday because of continuing trouble with Chinese authorities. This followed the detention of the Soviet ship Shirak, which was boarded and damaged by a Chinese mob before being allowed to sail Aug. 13.

Smoking StudySenate Panel to Eye
a 'Safer' Cigarette

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Health, Education and Welfare Department has issued an updated report that reaffirms earlier conclusions that cigarette smoking is a serious health hazard.

The 200-page report, released yesterday, reasserts that cigarette smokers in the United States suffer substantially higher death rates from coronary disease and disabling illnesses than nonsmokers.

In 1964, the U.S. surgeon general issued the first major report condemning cigarette smoking as a health menace, and the latest survey is based on more than 2,000 research studies conducted since that date.

The Senate Commerce Committee plans to hold hearings Wednesday on the development and marketing of a less-hazardous cigarette.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said Columbia University officials will be asked to explain their endorsement of a new cigarette filter that allegedly reduces the harmful effects of tobacco.

RECOMMENDATION

Yesterday's report includes HEW Secretary John W. Gardner's recommendation to Congress last month to toughen the "May be hazardous" warning on cigarette packs and develop a less-dangerous cigarette.

The report, prepared by the National Clearinghouse of Smoking and Health, also says lung cancer deaths are continuing to rise rapidly and singles out cigarette smoking as the most important cause of chronic bronchitis.

After the 1964 report cigarette consumption declined, but it made a comeback when the initial impact of the study wore off.

Tobacco stocks rose after Gardner's statement last month because of reports Columbia University had acquired rights to a revolutionary new cigarette filter that eliminated most of the harmful effects of smoking.

Farmington Near Paving Hearing

FARMINGTON — The final public hearing on the concrete paving proposed for Brookdale between Grand River and Nine Mile will be held at 8 tonight at the City Hall.

The City Council will present an opinion survey it took of residents of the street in question. The Council decided to take the poll because some of the property owners opposed the paving at a hearing two weeks ago.

Initially, the property owners had expressed a desire for the paving. But after the first public hearing about a month ago when the council announced an estimated special assessment price of $12 per foot, a number of residents changed their minds.

Also on the agenda is a report on the Alla Loma Road improvement program and a report from Farmington Public Schools on the traffic on Thomas and School streets.

Seymour Lake Group Elects New Officers

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — The Seymour Lake Improvement Association yesterday held their annual meeting and elected William Bevan of 3569 Lakeview to the post of president.

Other officers elected were William Travis, vice president; Mrs. William Miner, treasurer. Board members elected were Mrs. Thomas Ryan, C. West, L. Kesell and Jerry McDowell.

Juana cigarettes and a small bottle of ground marijuana leaves.

Police Lt. Martin McLaughlin said the cigarettes were apparently being readied for sale. He said the arrests grew out of information provided police by a maid at the motel.

State Police in Lansing were to analyze the leaves this morning to determine their potency and value. McLaughlin said the pair would be arraigned on the narcotics charge this afternoon.

Rochester Art 'n' Apples Festival Will Be Best Ever, Say Sponsors

ROCHESTER — "Everybody is taking part."

So say sponsors of the second Rochester Art 'n' Apples Festival due to take place Sept. 14-17 on grounds behind the city civic center.

A communitywide effort involving nearly every organization in the city and Avon Township plus a patronage drive which has attempted to reach every home in the area is expected to result in a "bigger and better" festival than the one two years ago.

At that time, the festival's first attempt drew crowds exceeding 20,000 visitors who saw a complete cross section of the arts as provided by area talents.

This year the Rochester Arts Commission and Festival Committee plan improvements at the site as well as the addition of an art market to be conducted by the Rochester Branch, American Association of University Women.

EXTERIOR WALKWAYS

Cement block exterior walkways are being added to the grounds by means of a $100 contribution from the Junior Woman's Club. Electrical power has been multiplied eight times to provide better viewing.

The patronage drive, under the chairmanship of Robert V. Jasinski, raised just under $2,000 insuring that free admittance to the festival will again be allowed.

More than just an exhibit of paintings, sculpture, and works of graphic art, the festival is billed as an all-round display.

Population Absorbs Fund Growth

Utica Schools Walk Money Tightrope

By JEAN SAILE

UTICA—Despite a 15.2 per cent increase in state equalized valuation of the district and an additional voted 6.32 mills, the Utica Community Schools expect to only break about even during the coming year.

The reason — the population keeps growing and new schools with new staffs and the equipment to furnish them are a necessity, according to this year's budget forecast.

Another factor seen in the budget is the employe pay raises granted by the district this summer.

Total state equalized valuation of the area served by the Utica Schools is $218,350,452. The district covers Utica, Shelby and Sterling Townships and portions of Washington, Ray and Macomb Townships. It is recognized as one of the most populous and largest districts in the Detroit suburban area.

Residents in the area served pay $32.10 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation toward upkeep of the schools.

Finance officers figure on an adjusted state equalization per student of $12,432 with $583 in cash income.

The budget is based on an enrollment of 16,971.

EXPENSES HAVE EDGE

Total revenue for the year 1967-68 is plotted at $9,924,000. Expenses are viewed at $9,900,000.

A total of $7,945,335 was spent last year out of the operating fund.

The budget shows a total of $27,339,000 outstanding in construction bonds. The figure includes the $8.5-million bond issue voted earlier this year. A reduction of about $1 million in bonded indebtedness is contemplated at the end of the 1967-68 school year.

The budget shows the Adlai Stevenson High School due to open for the first year in Sterling Township, has been accomplished at a total cost of $4 million.

A swimming pool there is estimated at another $810,000.

Additions are in progress at nine elementary schools and three completely new ones are planned. Four other new elementary schools have recently been opened.

The school district also plans remodeling and improvement at the existing Utica Senior High School and construction of a new warehouse facility.

State 4-H Show Draws Near

By JACQUELINE KORONA

EAST LANSING — More than a half century ago, a small group of teenage "pioneers" put their heads, hearts, hands and health into an exhibit at the Michigan State Fair.

They were 4-H'ers, members of a newly formed organization dedicated to teaching young people to be good, productive citizens.

Tomorrow the organization descendants of these first 4-H'ers — some 5,000 teenagers — are expected on the Michigan State University campus for the 52nd annual State 4-H Show.

"The 4-H Show moved from the State Fairgrounds to the MSU campus during World War II when the State Fair was canceled," explains Jake Wamhoff, general chairman of the four-day meet.

"Our major objective for holding it on the campus now is to offer the young people an opportunity to gain experiences unlike those they can get in their home communities."

A peek at the schedule of activities for the four days proves Wamhoff's point.

On the agenda are visits to the university's veterinary medicine facilities, tours of the beef cattle research center on the campus and, tours of horticulture industries in south-central Michigan.

If the sky is their limit, the young people may view the MSU cyclotron or talk with university scientists in their laboratories.

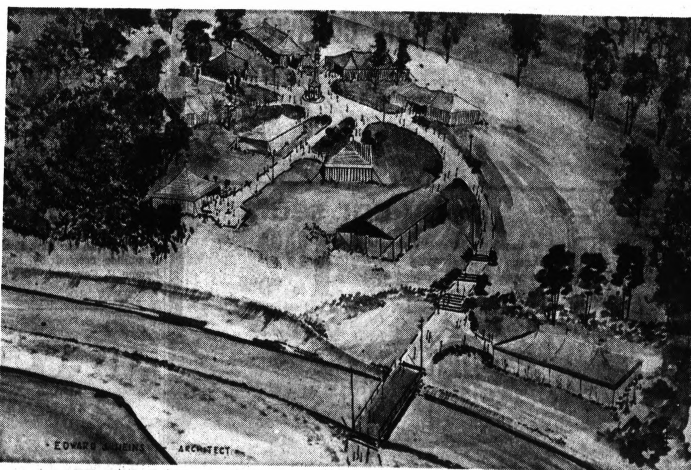

Those 4-H'ers involved in wood and leather handicraft projects are invited to visit Grand Rapids furniture manufacturing plants. Others may tour Detroit museums and interior decorating studios.

In addition, there are literally thousands of other events — from demonstrations on collecting weather data to collecting insects with black light, from showing dogs to showing other teens how to sew a sophisticated dress for a big dance.

"We'll have exhibits and contests, of course," Wamhoff said.

"But the girls don't just bring in a pie and set it on a shelf or they don't just hang up a dress and wait for the judges to put a blue or red ribbon on it."

"The judges talk with the exhibitors and contestants about their projects, they discuss ways of improving what the youngsters have done."

Rochester Art 'N' Apples Festival Site Is Planned.

Functioning Nears for Sewer Trunk Line

• Dr. John R. Yiviskar of Bloomfield Hills this month revealed plans for building a $20-million multiple dwelling-shopping center complex on a 53-acre site south of Walton and west of Perry, next to the school. This is planned for 1,000 units.

• The City Commission has in the past rezoned an 800-foot band (40 acres) north of Walton and east of Giddings, running to the city limits, for 596 units.

The developer, Walton Investment Co. of Royal Oak, also has plans for 97 acres of land — already rezoned — to be used for 280 single family residences. This is to be located north of the proposed apartments.

The Walton Co. also plans to build a 500-square-foot commercial center on the northeast corner of Giddings and Walton.

All these projects are made possible by construction of the Galloway Creek sewer line.

FURTHER HOOKUPS

By spring, Neippling said, the city should be able to construct main sewer lines in Walton, Perry and University Drive allowing further hookups to these lines.

In another move, bids will be taken this week on construction of the $700,000 Opdyke trunk line which will also connect to the sewage treatment plant and allow development in the southeast section of the city.

It should be completed in the spring, Neippling said. An 80-acre site west of Opdyke and north of Square Lake Road has been rezoned for construction of a commercial shopping center and multiple dwellings.

It is planned to contain a 50-acre shopping center with stores — including two one-story department stores — built around a mall and 296 multiple units including 48 townhouses.

AWAITS CONTRACTS

Neippling said he expects that this project will begin once contracts for construction of the Opdyke sewer have been signed.

This is already proof positive that sewer development can initiate new construction, Neippling said. He expects that development will continue rapidly as the sewer system is expanded in those areas served by the Galloway and Opdyke lines.

It Seems to Me . . .

Sen. Byrd's Viet Proposal
Reflects Nation's Sentiment

Democratic Senator HARRY F. BYRD Jr., introduced an amendment to the Export-Import bank legislation which said: "these funds of the American taxpayers shall not be used to assist or to build up the economy of those nations which are supplying equipment used to kill and wound American soldiers in Vietnam."

We applaud vigorously.
And so will the Nation.

LBJ marshalled his Senate forces to defeat Byrd's proposal, but the President was whipped, 56 to 26. Previously, the matter had been left to Johnson's discretion.

Why should we pay for guns to kill our own sons? Is there anything more revolting or horrible? How could any true American anywhere want his tax dollars used to buy war munitions and death dealing agencies that are used against our own people in this Asiatic imbroglio?

Senator BYRD is currently receiving more than 4,000 letters a week from dissatisfied citizens. They protest against:

Riots around the Nation
Disregard for law
Gigantic public debt
Government wastage
$10 billion current deficit
Projected $20 billion in 1968
10% surtax on everyone

These constitute the bulk, but Vietnam leads everything by a wide margin.

People are deeply concerned.
The Nation is finally aroused.

This new attitude has been slow in crystallizing. However, we now sense that the profligate waste visited upon the United States exceeds anything ever known anywhere in the world at any time.

But through it all, Vietnam ranks as the paramount issue and blunder. U. S. citizens are beginning to realize that this can go on forever. Airplane pilots on the Kitty Hawk told me in simple terms that the present war could "easily continue for the rest of the century."

We fight by rules the enemy lays down. They tell us what bombing targets are "off limits." A constant lane of freighters en route to the "sacred" port we can't bomb or close, steams a few miles away from our airplane carriers bringing all manner of supplies to kill our soldiers.

Can you think of a greater farce? How could we sink lower?

A misunderstanding gripped this nation for a time as everyone vaguely expected the Vietnam business to "end soon." We were told officially it would be over by the end of 1965. That's more than 18 months away and we're barely holding our own.

These 200 million Americans are facing the facts at last. They're disturbed and openly uneasy. President Johnson is learning their attitude and he "steps up" the action. If an election were held tomorrow, Major Hoople could lick President Johnson.

If there be no actual plan for ending this daily loss of life, let's bring everyone home. Must we contemplate 30 years of U.S. deaths and horrible injuries?

Let's end it—or get out.

We need more Harry F. Byrds in the Senate — and in the House — and in the White House.

Solution to Starvation . . .

India and China are the two nations suffering inordinately from starvation.

Insider's Newsletter says the worst of this problem could be eliminated quickly by terminating the role of India's sacred cows.

In the rest of the world "sacred cows" is merely a facetious phrase explaining something held precious beyond the facts.

In India, it's the plain truth. Cows can't be killed. All life is held sacred.

Hence, Insider's Newsletter says experts suggest starvation could be solved by eliminating the taboo on killing India's 100 million cows.

To the rest of the world this is beyond comprehension and education should start at once.

This may be the solution.

And in Conclusion . . .

David Lawrence Says:

War Declaration Not Unfeasible

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's significant reference in his recent news conference to the fact that Congress could at any time withdraw the concurrent resolution it passed in August 1964 authorizing the military operations in Vietnam doesn't mean that the chief executive really wants to see the resolution terminated.

LAWRENCE

It does mean that, in President Johnson's opinion, Congress along with the executive is clearly responsible for the continued presence of American armed forces in Vietnam.

But something else — in certain respects even more important — can be inferred from the President's comments.

It is that Congress could have declared a state of war, and thus could have made possible the search, if not the seizure, of all ships carrying arms or military supplies to the North Vietnamese.

Since this hasn't been done, it may be argued, therefore, that Congress is in part to blame for the prolongation of the conflict.

When Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach testified last week before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that a declaration of war is "outmoded," he probably meant that such a resolution had not been adopted in situations wherein the United States had landed its Marines and troops — as in the Dominican Republic and other Latin-American countries — either to protect American lives and property or to assist an existing government to repel aggression.

FAR FROM IRRELEVANT

But the declaration of a state of war is far from irrelevant in Vietnam, where both Red China and the Soviet Union have been supplying to the North Vietnamese the weapons and munitions with which to kill American soldiers.

Under international law, if a state of war is declared, American naval forces or airpower can be applied against supply lines.

Since this might involve a possible entry into the war by the Soviet Union and Red China as belligerents, the State Department presumably theorizes that the advantage in our exercising what is known as a belligerent right of search and seizure could be outweighed by the dangers of an enlarged war.

But in the present war the the confiscation of contraband goods is hardly likely to result in armed intervention by Red China or the Soviet Union.

CAN BAN TRADE

Congress, however, has one remedy it can use. It can at least forbid Americans from "trading with the enemy," either directly or indirectly.

Certainly the pending treaties or agreements to ease up on restrictions in trade with the Soviet Union and Communist countries in Eastern Europe could be put aside until peace comes in Vietnam.

Bob Considine Says:

S. Viet Military Chief
Talking of 30-Year War

NEW YORK — Gen. Cao Van Vien, chief of staff of the South Vietnamese armed forces, came up with a figure about the war's length in a news conference in Saigon.

It happens to jibe with a figure I've been using for some time — a figure that sometimes caused short-fused reaction.

Gen. Vien said the war might last 30 years.

His point was that South Vietnam leaks like a sieve. The enemy infiltration is not confined to the so-called Ho Chi Minh Trail (which is a series of paths as prevalent as veins in the human body.)

Aid reaches the Vietcong, the guerrillas and the infiltrated North Vietnamese army regulars through Laos and Cambodia, neither of which places the U. S. cares to clobber.

He dismissed the efficacy of our bombing of the north with a wave of the arm. It hasn't and won't stop infiltration from that area — believed to run about 8,000 men a month.

RECALLS ANSWER

The dilemma, as outlined by Gen. Vien, recalls the distressed answer made by Gen. Rosy O'Donnell after he had reluctantly sent his B-59's to drop heavy strategic bombs on what was believed to be a concentration of North Korean troops assembled in a heavily wooded area.

The Air Force's public relations machine ground out an optimistic view of the effect of the mission. I accepted it as gospel until I checked with Rosy.

"Nonsense," the great man roared. "It was like trying to kill an elephant by jabbing a pin in its rump."

One can only hope that Gen. Vien is off on that 30-year figure as he was one bright sunny day last November. The rugged little 3-star general joined in a paratroop jump at the Saigon race track.

He was supposed to land in the cushioned infield. He missed the infield, the track, the grandstand, the parking lot, an adjoining highway — and landed smack-dab in somebody's chicken-littered back yard about half a mile off target.

President Thieu and Premier Ky doubled over into paroxysms of laughter.

United Nations Secretary-General U Thant has, once again, proved publicly his amazing diplomatic tact and political wisdom — by lecturing the United States on how to conduct its foreign policy! Speaking at a Quarter international conference Thant said the war in Vietnam could not be ended unless the U.S. recognized that it was "a war of national independence" rather than a war of Communist aggression.

U Thant likened the policy of North Vietnamese Communists, whose main weapon is terrorism, to the fighters for American independence in 1776! The U.N. chief also said he expected North Vietnam and the Vietcong guerrillas eventually to win the war.

In addition he lamented the fact that "the use of force" (presumably, of course, American force) had "eroded the standards of international morality."

As secretary — general of the United Nations, U Thant has no right to express publicly any opinion about the

Discusses New Zoning for Village of Clarkston

Let me commend The Pontiac Press for a fine paper and for the service it renders the area served.

Your article regarding new zoning for the Village of Clarkston struck a sour note. Let's hope the citizens of the Village will keep their community as it is and not let a few merchants with selfish motives augment a shopping area that spreads and spreads.

It's good to have money and the things that money can buy, but it's also good to check once in a while and make sure you haven't lost the things that money can't buy. I'm for preserving the residential character of Clarkston.

Mr. Young's letter regarding alcoholism and the priests at Guest House is sadly lacking knowledge and Christian compassion. I am a Protestant wife of an alcoholic and through our association with A.A. we have gotten to know and appreciate many of these fine men. They are most worthy individuals but they are also human and therefore susceptible to the disease of alcoholism.

It is easier to self-righteously judge fellow men than to extend a helping hand or give some understanding. There is also a difference between being a practicing Christian or merely saying you are saved.

ALANON

I read the story of Guest House and of the priests being treated for alcoholism. Being a Christian, I felt a terrible ache in my heart to think that these men who were supposed to be called to give spiritual help to lost souls would allow drink to drag them down until they were desperately in need of help.

Suggests Government Sponsored Work-ins

I have heard of break-ins, sit-ins and love-ins, but I have yet to hear of work-ins. Why does the government spend millions on welfare while jobs go begging and many homes need paint and repairs. The government should loan this money to home owners and public works at a low rate of interest. This would put everyone to work and the government would get its money back plus interest.

Anyone who goes through life without doing his share of work is a cheat and leaves the world without paying his board bill. The Good Book says we shall earn our bread by sweat of our brow, not by doles and handouts which only degrade the people.

Question and Answer

It was bad enough when we had 17-year-olds racing motorcycles up and down residential streets. Now it's spreading to below 16-year-olds. Isn't it necessary to have a driver's license (and thus be over 16) to operate motorcycles, mini-bikes and bicycles with motors? I've heard mini-bikes are outlawed on public streets. Is this true?

MADDENED BY MOTORIZED MINORS

REPLY

Any powered vehicle on any street or highway must be licensed and the driver must be a licensed driver. According to Lt. Randolph of the Traffic Bureau, mini-bikes are allowed on public streets if they pass a motor vehicle inspection, but they, too, must be licensed and operated only by licensed drivers.

foreign policy of a member state, unless he is authorized to do so by the United Nations.

Moreover, as a foreign diplomat working at U.N. headquarters in New York, U Thant is an official guest of this country. He enjoys diplomatic privileges and he is, therefore, obliged to observe diplomatic practice.

Diplomats are absolutely forbidden to express openly, let alone in public speeches, critical opinions of the country in which they serve. Recently French President de Gaulle, who is, after all, the elected head of state of an important European state, learned a good diplomatic lesson in Canada.

De Gaulle made a few speeches which were interpreted as critical to Canada and were, therefore, pronounced "unacceptable" by the Canadian government.

This meant, in effect, that de Gaulle himself had become "unacceptable" to Canada. The French president took the hint and left hurriedly for home — after creating a diplomatic scandal which outraged public opinion in every free country in the world, including France.

As the United Nations is considered an international "sacred cow" by official Washington, it is too much to hope that somebody in authority in the White House or the State Department might do to U Thant what Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson did to de Gaulle, namely, tell the gentlemen, in so many words, that his speeches criticizing U.S. foreign policy are quite "unacceptable."

But, perhaps, the protocol desk of the State Department might discreetly send the U.N. secretary-general a booklet on diplomatic behavior. Busy as he is with the problems of the world, the U.N. chief might find time enough to read it — and behave accordingly.

HUDSON'S

Road Dept. Wary of Disciplining Aide

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Writer
LANSING — The State Highway Department will have a hot potato on its hands if it tries any disciplinary action against Frederick Tripp, deputy director for administration.

Tripp was criticized in an investigation by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley for failing to obtain written permission for some outside business activities and for arranging a credit union loan using subordinates as cosigners. Kelley found Tripp innocent of any criminal action. He suggested any disciplinary action should be taken by the Highway Department.

The Highway Commission first tossed the issue to the State Civil Service Department but saw it lobbed right back.

SUGGESTIONS ASKED

Highway Department brass asked suggestions on "avenues of action."

The Highway Department was told Civil Service does not become involved in disciplinary action except on an appeal by employees. As an impartial third party, Civil Service said, it cannot prejudice the case.

Both Civil Service and the Highway Department are aware of a case 10 years ago with striking similarities.

A 1957 State Supreme Court decision ordered Harold Groehn reinstated with $28,000 in back salary after he was fired as deputy director of the State Corporation and Securities Commission because of outside business dealings.

Justice Talbot Smith, now a federal judge, said in part in his prevailing ruling:

"Can a man be punished to board, Groehn appealed to the full Civil Service Commission. The commission ordered him reinstated with a 90-day suspension and told Groehn to cease his outside real estate dealings."

The Corporation Securities Commission, insisting on dismissal, appealed the Civil Service Commission decision to the State Supreme Court. The court ordered the reinstatement and full back pay.

Groehn said his outside real estate transactions were known to his superiors.

Tripp's land purchases, ownership of two restaurants and former operation of a miniature golf course and driving range are along the same lines.

Tripp said he orally told his superiors of his activities although he did not obtain written permission.

QUESTION DISMISSED
In the Groehn decision, the court dismissed the question of supplementary employment, asking: "Who would be his employer?"

Groehn was self-employed and investing his own money rather than working for someone else, the court said. This also is the case with Tripp.

The background of this similar case makes it understandable why Civil Service and the Highway Department feel they might be on shaky ground in attempting any disciplinary action against Tripp.

Alaska Flood Claims Two More

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Residents of this flood-scarred city moved back to their homes in increasing numbers today, hoping that the receding waters of the Chena River would uncover no further dead.

Two more victims of the waters that swirled through Fairbanks and downstream Nenana, on the Tenana River into which the Chena flows, were found Sunday, bringing the total of known deaths to seven—four in Fairbanks, one in Nenana and two at Tok.

One of the new victims, Bill Wardzella, 54, was found in the back room of a business house in downtown Fairbanks. The other, an unidentified woman, was discovered floating in the flood-covered streets at Nenana.

Police Chief Stanley Zaverl credited volunteer boatmen for keeping the death count down in Fairbanks.

SAVED BY VOLUNTEERS

"I'd say that 75 per cent of the people rescued from trees, rooftops and other refuges, were saved by volunteer boatmen. You just can't give them enough praise," Zaverl said. Great roles were gauged in the city's streets by the rushing water. Houses were tipped and torn.

Windows in homes and businesses were shattered. Stock in stores was water-stained. Debris was piled against buildings, fences, abandoned cars and trees by the surging floodwaters.

Meat, women and children alike pitched in together under sunny skies to clean the silt from their homes and salvage what they could of sudden belongings.

MUSKEGON (UPI) — Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams will be keynote speaker at a dinner sponsored by the AFL-CIO Labor Day committee on Labor Day at the Doo Drop Inn. U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., also will be a guest of honor.

3 Hold Up Store, Flee in Full Car

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Climaxing their getaway by piling into a waiting car filled with children and driven by a woman, three holdup men fled Sunday after robbing $110 from a Coconut Grove convenience store, police said.

The men reportedly beat John Gordon Tucker, 56, a clerk at the market.

The intruders then grabbed $45 from the register and found another $65 in a storage room and then they piled into the waiting car, sharing seats with several youngsters.

11 State Teens Get Interlochen Awards

INTERLOCHEN (AP) —

Eleven Michigan teen-agers walked off with some of the biggest scholarships and awards at the closing day honors convocation Sunday at the National Music Camp in Interlochen.

About $35,000 in scholarships and awards was distributed at the assembly.

Celloist Peggy Howe, 16, of Ann Arbor took two of the top awards. She received the $400 Sigma Alpha Iota scholarship and a four-year, full-tuition scholarship at the Eastman School of Music of Rochester University in New York.

Two other Ann Arbor students were among the 59 young persons receiving awards. Celloist Store Doane, 16, won the $400 National Music Camp Scholarship, and art student Richard Jacob, 14, received the $400 for making the greatest contribution to the camp senate.

Other Michigan winners included Ralph Evans, 14, of East Lansing, who received a $400 music scholarship; Taylor Mitchell, 17, of Grand Rapids, who won the Interlochen Arts Academy Scholarship for cello; and Paul Schierhorn, 16, of Adrian, who was awarded a $400 drama Isle, won a $400 scholarship in piano and Rota Neech, 17, of Grosse Pointe Woods received a $400 art scholarship.

Denise leBlanc, 14, of Grosse Pointe Woods received a $400 drama scholarship.

High Court Nominee Called 'Prepared,' 'Iconoclast'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall was described today as "perfectly prepared" to be a Supreme Court justice — and also as "A constitutional iconoclast" whose appointment is a disservice to the country.

The conflicting views are stated in majority and minority reports of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which voted 11 to 5 to recommend confirmation of Marshall's nomination. The five voting against him are Southerners.

The committee vote was announced Aug. 3 but contents of the reports became known today.

The first Negro ever nominated for the court, Marshall is the U.S. Solicitor General and a former judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York.

NO DATE SET
President Johnson submitted his nomination June 13. No date has been set for the Senate's confirmation vote.

The majority report said Marshall's long, close association with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People did not disqualify him but rather redounds to his and the nation's benefit.

"As for director-counselor of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund for so many years," the report said, "his extraordinary legal ability was honed and proven in every court of the land."

"The Senate will do itself honor, the court will be graced, and the nation benefited by our confirmation of this nominee to the Supreme Court," the majority added.

MINORITY REPORT

The minority report said the Supreme Court has become dominated by "judicial activists who affirm the Constitution while professing to interpret it" and declared Marshall's confirmation would add to their number.

"Judge Marshall is by practice and philosophy a constitutional iconoclast," the minority report said, and his elevation to the court would make it "virtually certain that for years to come, if not forever, the American people will be ruled by the arbitrary notions of Supreme Court justices rather than by the precepts of the Constitution."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., wrote the minority report and was joined by Sens. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman, John L. McClelland, D-Ark., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., voted against recommending confirmation but was not listed as signing the minority report.

The majority report was drafted by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and joining in it were Sens. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., Edward V. Long, D-Mo., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Quentin D. Burdick, D-N.D., Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Roman L. Hruska, R-Nebr., Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, and Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Their report said Marshall's record and his testimony disclose he believes the Constitution is a living document which the Supreme Court is to interpret according to the facts in each case.

Ervin wrote that because Marshall is a Negro, knew he was risking a charge of racism but would not let this deter him from doing everything he could "to save the Constitution for all Americans of all generations."

McClelland, in addition to joining in the minority report, filed a separate statement saying a majority of the Supreme Court has materially contributed to lawlessness by recent decisions "that have favored the criminal to the injury of society," adding he was convinced Marshall shares the philosophy of the present court majority.

Bill Would Block FDA Vitamin Curbs

By Science Service

Congress has come up with a bill to block the Food and Drug Administration's proposed controls over vitamin advertisements.

Last year the FDA proposed regulations governing advertising and sale of vitamin pills and vitamin-enriched foods on grounds that the public is spending thousands of dollars on food supplements it doesn't need.

Since then, letters of protest from the food and drug industries, as well as food faddists, dieticians and others, have been pouring in. Scheduled public hearings have been delayed.

TWO-PARTY BACKING

The bill blocking FDA action, introduced by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Calif.), is cosponsored by 22 congressmen from both parties. They say that since vitamin pills and foods cause no physical damage, individuals should be free to take them if they want to. "If they feel they are helped by them, then they are helped," Rep. Hosmer says.

But FDA feels it has a responsibility to what it considers the public good. "Except for persons with special medical needs, there is no scientific basis for recommending routine use of dietary supplements," FDA Commissioner Dr. James L. Goddard says.

Guard Gets Word on Riots: Apply Principles of Combat

WASHINGTON (AP) — New military training directives stress that National Guard units are to apply basic principles of war if called upon to quell any future street riots.

The half-million Guardsmen also are being taught new methods of dispersing mobs, fending off snipers, quickly apprehending looters and protecting utilities, hospitals, banks and communications media.

"Meet force with greater force, but avoid bloodshed," says one of 16 detailed lesson plans supplied to National Guard instructors this month.

The Army prepared the lesson plans when the Pentagon, at White House direction following the Detroit and Newark riots, ordered a five-fold increase in the National Guard's riot control training.

OTHER SOURCES

Although unclassified, the National Guard Bureau wouldn't release the lesson plans, saying the Army forbade it. Official Army channels also refused to supply the plans but the Associated Press obtained a full set of the documents from other sources.

In Lesson Plan No. 11, under a section titled "Application of the Principles of War to Riot Control Operations," this statement appears:

"An examination of military literature has indicated that the principles of war are applicable to all types of military situations. These principles are also basic in the execution of riot control operations."

The principles of war are generalized statements of basic strategy such as economy of force, maneuver, unity of command, surprise and simplicity. Guardsmen also are being told in the series of special lectures to give extra protection to certain community installations.

"The loss of the supply of water and power can seriously endanger the health of the community," the lesson plans say.

"The seizure of stored weapons in armories, clubs or arms stores can increase violence; the destruction of important government buildings can seriously disrupt procedures of government; mob control of banks, post offices or hospitals may lead to collapse of the society; and mob control of communication media can readily gain psychological advantage for further spread of the disorder."

WOMEN'S SECTION

Is It End to Marriage?

Separate Bedrooms Cause Frenzy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After 15 years of living in a two-room apartment, my husband and I finally bought a three-bedroom home. Of course I am delighted, but now my darling husband has informed me that he would like separate bedrooms! I think this is asking for trouble.

I gave in a few years ago when he asked for twin beds because he wakes up three and four times during the night to smoke a cigarette, which disturbs me. I have to get up at 5:30 to get to work, so the twin beds did solve the problem of my being disturbed. But separate bedrooms! Won't that be the beginning of the end of our married life?

RSVP

DEAR RSVP: You will be healthier, happier and better humored if you get your rest at night. And your husband will be easier to live with if he doesn't feel guilty for having disturbed you.

And by the way, a man who gets up three and four times a night to smoke a cigarette may not be around too many more years to worry about.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I asked the 16-year-old daughter of a neighbor of ours down the block to babysit for us for an evening while my husband and I went out. This was the first time we ever had her sit for us.

After we came home we found a note she had left for us, saying, "CLEAN YOUR FILTHY HOUSE, PLEASE." Abby, I know I am not the world's greatest housekeeper, but my house is NOT filthy, either.

We live in a newly developed area (none of the houses is even a year old yet) and we have never met this girl's parents. In a way I think they ought to know about this rude and uncalled for note, but I don't want to become acquainted with my neighbors under these circumstances. What do you suggest I do?

HURT IN EUGENE

DEAR HURT: Let the matter drop, and the next time you need a babysitter, ask someone with better manners. DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who insists on taking his nap on the living room couch, from one to two hours each day, yells at the kids if they aren't extra quiet, and makes the whole family miserable with no place to sit down? This man has a comfortable bedroom he could go to.

He sleeps at night same as the rest of the family. If he needs more sleep, shouldn't he go to his own room and not upset the whole family? I think he's selfish and stubborn. What do you think?

THE MAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I agree with you. But worse yet is the example he is setting for the children. If they are going to learn respect and consideration for other people, you will have to do double duty, because unless you can get your man to change his ways, your children will never learn them from their father.

DEAR ABBY: ASHAMED shouldn't think she is the only mother who loses her temper with her children and regrets it later. Sometimes I wonder how some children can stand their mothers.

Last week I screamed like a maniac at my 10-year-old son. I would do anything in the world to keep him from getting hurt, yet I am the one who seems to hurt him the most. I couldn't believe it was my voice saying all those horrible things to that boy.

Those temper fits left me with a churning stomach and raw nerves, so I finally went to my doctor, hoping he would give me something to calm my nerves. He gave me something all right. A good talking to.

He explained that sometimes mothers take out all their anger and hurt on their children because they are always handy, and the poor little things can't fight back. I then realized that was my problem.

And now that I understand why I acted like I did, I am better able to control myself.

Print this, if it will help others realize why they are forever exploding all over their kids. It helped me.

Cranes, Stranahans Exchange Saturday Vows

The former Jill Martha Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Anderson, Wenona Drive, became the bride of Robert George Crane Saturday afternoon in the First Congregational Church.

His parents are the Robert E. Cranes of East Boulevard South.

Gowned in the Empire fashion, the bridal ensemble featured appliques of Alencon lace which were repeated again on the full chapel train.

Seed pearls with lace formed the headpiece resembling a trio of white roses.

Her bouquet was a cluster of white roses.

Dianna Epley, Mrs. William Tudor and Jane Barrett were bridesmaids with maid of honor, Michelle Morrow.

Standing for the bridegroom was best man, Jan Anderson, the bride's twin brother. Ushers included Larry Boice, Larry Ragdale and Jack Johnson.

A reception in the church parlors honored the couple.

Stranahan - Swartzloff

The newlywed Douglas J. Stranahans (nee Joan Kay Swartzloff) repeated Saturday afternoon vows in the First Presbyterian Church of Niles.

A garden reception at the bride's home followed for the pair whose parents are the Richard Swartzloffs of Niles and the Neil Stranahans of Fremont Drive.

Instant Embroidery Adds Elegance to New Autos

When your grandmother set out to embroider a cover for the sitting room easy chair, she probably was resigned to spending most of a winter at the task.

Today, the interior trim engineers at Fisher Body Division of General Motors have perfected machines that can bring the elegance of hand embroidery to auto seat covers with thousands of stitches in less than an hour.

The initial effort was a comparatively simple design requiring 4,200 stitches of the famous Cadillac crest offered to the limousine's limited clientele.

In 1967, batteries of tape-controlled embroidery machines turn out designs requiring over 35,000 stitches in two and a half hours.

And the elegance of embroidery work once reserved for the select few is now available on many regular models of Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac.

The art of embroidery is centuries old. Intricate needlework patterns have been found on Egyptian mummies dating back to 1,000 years B.C.

Today, embroidery is having a revival. From priceless museum pieces to

The new Mrs. Stranahan selected a white silk organza sheath with train. White ribbons and roses fashioned a headpiece for her fingertip veil of illusion.

She carried lilies, Stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. John Ryan was matron of honor with bridesmaids, Mrs. Michael Lorime and Judy Stranahan.

Standing as best man with ushers, Thomas Swartzloff, Paul Henne, Douglas McFarlane and Jerry Ryan, was John Ryan.

Following a honeymoon in St. Charles, Ill., the couple will reside in Elkhart, Ind.

Eskimo Arts Exhibit at Cranbrook

An exhibition of carvings, prints and traditional utilitarian objects of bone, steel and cloth representative of the arts of an Eskimo community will be on view at Cranbrook Institute of Science in Bloomfield Hills from Saturday through Sept. 17.

Called "Cape Dorset," the exhibition was organized by Eskimo Art, Inc., of Ann Arbor, and is being circulated throughout the United States and Canada by the Smithsonian Institution's Traveling Exhibition Service.

PRIVATE COLLECTION

Exhibited in connection with this show will be the collection of Eskimo art of Mrs. Sylvia Eilman of Troy, which includes 30 stone carvings and 10 prints.

Besides the objects needed for the mere survival of the Eskimo, the exhibition includes 16 soapstone carvings and 18 engravings and stone cut prints in color and black and white.

The prints provide an insight into the beliefs and way of life of the Eskimo.

The soapstone carvings have a quality of movement and power and a surface which implies the texture of fur and leather.

They depict the animals of the Canadian arctic: owls, polar bears and hawks. There are also mermaids, fierce birds and a sea-spirit.

Cranbrook Institute of Science is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on the weekends during the exhibition.

It will also be open from 7 to 10 p.m. on Aug. 30 but closed Labor Day. An admission fee is charged.

Never Remove Dinner Dishes; Wait Patiently

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a dear friend who has a habit of removing dishes if service is too slow. She does this at weddings, showers, or wherever we go. She piles them one on top of the other and puts them aside. I don't think this is the right thing to do.

If I am right, won't you please print this in the paper in the hope that she may read it? Mrs. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: I'll be glad to print your letter for the benefit of all impatient diners. When you are finished with your meal, it is in very poor taste to shove your plate away, push or tip your chair back, or stack up your dishes. The service may be slow, but you leave your plate where it is, knife and fork neatly placed together on it, and wait patiently for the next course, or the waiters at the table to finish.

RECALLING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: I was to be married next month. All plans were made and about 200 invitations were sent out. Last week my mother had a heart attack and died. We are, of course, postponing the wedding.

I am now faced with the task of notifying the guests that the wedding will not take place. Will you please tell me how this can best be done?—Eloise M.

Dear Eloise: If there is time, have the following printed and sent to all those who were invited to the wedding.

Owing to the sudden death of Mr. John Smith the marriage of her daughter Eloise to Mr. Henry Brown will not take place. If time is limited, guests would be notified by telephone and telegram.

BUFFET PARTY

Dear Mrs. Post: When invited to a buffet party, is it up to the man to go to the table and fill a plate for his companion and bring it to her, or does she help herself?—J. K.

Dear J. K.: Generally, you go to the table together and she makes her own selection.

Intricate embroidered patterns are constantly checked for loft, dimension, contour and design. As the pattern is completed, the machine will automatically stop.

The average embroidered pattern has 10,000 stitches and can be run in less than an hour. The first patterns used in 1962 had 4,200 stitches while the more sophisticated patterns call for more than 35,000 stitches. This elegantly embroidered pattern below is used on the 1967 Oldsmobile 98 luxury sedan. The pattern has 18,000 stitches and takes an hour and 20 minutes to process.

private treasures to the crewel work on your pillows and wall hangings, needlework chairs and petit point evening bags, embroidery is enjoying a return to high fashion.

ELEGANT TREND

Fisher Body designers, working closely with GM Styling and Cadillac Car Division, recognized the trend toward elegance in 1962 when they offered embroidered patterns on the Cadillac Fleetwood Seventy Five Limousine.

The initial, simple pattern was enthusiastically received by owners. It required 4,200 stitches and took 20 minutes to make.

The multi-head sewing machines, automatically controlled by a complex Mylar tape feeder were set up at Fisher's Fleetwood and Livonia plants.

The tape, resembling a player piano scroll, wound around spools as it unspooled its intricate design.

Before quantity production started, there were many problems new to the designers and unique to embroidery work.

Stitch lengths, straight or curved lines color schemes, thread weight and fabric characteristics were just a few items demanding thorough investigation.

Such previously foreign terms as feather, blanket, cretan, lazy daisy and blanket stitches rapidly became everyday language to the automotive trim engineer.

As the tape starts its cycle, a plunger registers each stitch. This in turn triggers the sewing heads of the six machines and the stitch pattern begins.

A limit switch was set up to automatically stop the machines if a thread breaks or the tape runs off the track.

Highly trained female employees monitor the tape and equipment. Patterns were constantly checked for loft, dimension, contour and design. As the tapes wore out and the pattern became exaggerated, they were replaced.

As the complexity of the patterns grew, faster, more accurate workmanship became necessary. Today, some of the tapes stretch over 700 feet and take more than two hours to run through a cycle.

The 1967 models offer GM customers seven complicated patterns in almost endless variety of colors.

His Rhyming—Fine Timing

By BEA SWORDS

It would seem that everyone is a poet lately — but a real poet is someone who gets some money for his effort and someone who is on the way of being read by school kids everywhere.

Robert Francis of Amherst, Mass. is such a poet.

He writes verses lightly secured with rhyme and dealing with sports, nature and just living in general.

CONFERENCE

The occasion for our meeting was a writing conference at Cranbrook sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

He had agreed to meet with a group of these young people, selected from various Michigan colleges, and discuss the possibilities of the craft and give a critique on their work.

"One of America's most gifted and distinguished poets", a nation wide student publication recently called Francis. This information, however, is not something you are told by him.

He is a tall, rather spare man, wearing at the time I met him, a plaid shirt and burlap colored tie as wide as his once were.

He general air is one of someone who is happy to be what he is, but a little embarrassed about all the fuss.

I asked him what he thought of our current poetry plosion.

He winced and then smiled. "Well, some of it is promising, some good, some at least a bit frightening. One must have complete control of a verse. A verse is a balance of things."

"A poem must be as old as rock and as new as foam, (he quoted Emerson); that is a fine way to say it. Many new poets use verse as a confessional — they must learn to be subtle."

At this point a neatly bearded student in bare feet wandered into the room.

"Joins us," the poet master said, "we are discussing some of what you people will be discussing."

The bearded boy sat a moment or two and then quietly padded out to join friends.

I asked Francis if he ever wrote for a specific market as other writers often do.

"There are types of poetry, of course, where you may select your market and then write to suit it. I find that I must write for a specific market as other writers often do."

"There are types of poetry, of course, where you may select your market and then write to suit it. I find that I must write the poem and then decide where it will present itself best — if at all."

LAUGHS

When asked if most poets wrote for themselves only, he gave a small laugh, "Ah, that is not the question anyone asks a sculptor," he said. "Of course I write my poems to be seen — and I write for myself as well. It's a dual purpose — one gives to get, do you see?"

It is difficult at best to make money at poetry he emphasized. One should — in fact, must have an occupation beyond poetry. He has done a number of things to support his verses — mostly he has taught.

He remarked that occasionally a college will hire a poet to teach something and give him the honorary title of "poet in residence".

He has written six books of poetry — I asked which came first — his first book or recognition in periodicals.

Poetry books are published often at the expense of the poet. This is due to the fact that few people buy books of poetry and a small volume is printed to meet this need.

"You don't see books of poetry on the best selling lists," Francis remarked wryly.

He will be leaving shortly for Europe to study under the Amy Lowell Scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen K. Marsh of Glengary Road, Commerce Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Louise, to Pvt. James E. Wells, USA, son of the Ervin R. Wells of Milford. He is stationed in Fort Knox, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Muszkiewicz of Grand Rapids announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Anne of Watkins Lake Road, to Daniel Tisdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tisdale of Novi. Her fiancé attended Flint Community Junior College. Oct. 7 vows are planned.

The engagement is announced of Deborah Sue Guthrie to Michael R. Wilson. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Guthrie of Taylor and the Thomas F. Wilsons of Rochester. The ceremony will take place Sept. 16.

Why Grow Old?
By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women who fail to indulge in adequate hair and complexion care, and figure molding, would do so if they had the time and the money to go to a wonderful beauty salon for treatment and instruction.

There is no doubt that such surroundings have great psychological value. The appointments are so beautiful, the soft pastels and the music are so relaxing, that one feels prettier just being there.

The atmosphere convinces you that it will be easy to become lovely. You feel as though you are tucked away in a luxurious little cocoon, far from the tensions and obligations of everyday life, and you are, for a short time.

YOU CAN

Beguiling as this may be, do not let it discourage you from a self-improvement program at home. You can buy beauty with your own efforts. You can take the creams and other cosmetics home with you. You can eat the right foods at home, and you can exercise at home.

The creams will be just as effective when applied by you at home, and the exercises will be just as slimming. Massage is the only thing you cannot duplicate.

A few stretching and deep breathing exercises at the end of your exercise period, followed by a warm relaxing bath will compensate for this somewhat.

I admit that it will not be as easy to keep the goal in mind, away from the luxurious surroundings and the encouragement of an instructor, but it is possible, no matter what your income, where you live, or how old you are. It will be much more difficult to carry out your routine with the slow cooking, the baby crying, the telephone ringing, and the many other interruptions you will have, but you can do it.

Actually, the essentials do not require a lot of time. The difficulty is keeping activated at home. Exercises will require only one-half hour, and hair and skin care take little time.

They just have to be worked in as a regular part of your daily routine so that you do not skip them.

Try this deep breathing and stretching exercise. Stand erect with toes pointing forward and arms at sides. Rise high on the toes as you breathe in deeply. Exhale as you lower your heels to the floor and raise your arms up over your head, and touch the fingertips of the hands together above your head. Stretch upward.

Breathe in deeply as you lower your arms to your sides and rise on your toes. Do this exercise slowly, taking time for the upward stretch and the deep breathing.

Need Fence
for Yard Pool

NEW YORK (UPI)—A high fence around backyard swimming pools will protect wandering tots — and possibly save you from negligence charges, safety experts report. Other safety tips for owners of home swimming pools:

— Arrange for an adult to be present when children swim; be sure swimmers stay out of the water for at least an hour after meals; have a life preserver handy; run filters to make sure the water is completely filtered every 18 to 24 hours; clean filters every three to 10 days.

Stops Curling

To prevent bacon from shriveling when frying, roll first in flour.

Cellophane Tape Tip

As soon as you are through taking cellophane tape off the roll, place a button under the loose end and press lightly down over it. This makes it easy to find the end the next time you want to use the tape.

Parents of the couple who later greeted guests in the church parlors are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Everett of Lotus Court and the Richard Nutters of Baybrook Drive.

The bride wore an organza A-line gown with empire styling and kubuki sleeves that showed through her chapel length coat. Appliqued pea d'angle lace accented her sleeves and encircled the gown's hemline and coat.

PETAL

Her elbow length veil of silk illusion cascaded from a petal headpiece with crystals and pearls.

The wedding bouquet was of roses, Stephanotis and lilies.

Parents of the couple, who later celebrated at a reception in Knights of Columbus Hall, are the Theophil J. Dobski of Empire Drive and the Edward R. Finans of Doherty Drive, West Bloomfield Township.

Medallions of reembodyed Alencon lace highlighted a peau de soie sheath cage for the bride whose buffant illusion veil fell from a matching lace cap.

Her flowers were a cascade of ivy and Stephanotis with white satin streamers.

New Treatment for Clean Faces

A new beauty appliance is giving mothers and daughters much more in common than they could have believed possible.

It's a beauty machine that gives deep down facial cleansing through a mist treatment causing the face to perspire and dislodge impurities in a natural manner, the manufacturer reports.

The appliance also is suggested for use by sons who have trouble keeping their faces real clean.

When not in use it can be neatly packaged and carried in the purse. But, when needed, a woman can open it up and set it on her lap, and hide behind it.

The "Waiting Game" Just for Women

By BETTY CANARY

I learn something new every day and now I have found out where that classic movie scene originated, the one with the man crawling along the desert floor, clutching his throat and gasping for a drink.

It was really a woman, she and she was headed out of the Denver airport where she had the same waitress I had.

I do not usually compete with men. After all, men are men and women are women, and as the French say, "Vive la difference!" But, I have discovered when a woman is traveling alone and wants a cup of coffee, she had better be ready to compete or else carry her own little Thermos.

I sat at the counter because I was in a hurry. The waitress kept walking past me and I thought maybe the customers at the end were ordering lots of things or perhaps they kept changing their minds. I began to feel sorry for the poor girl. Then I realized it was the customers who were changing, and they were all handsome men.

I waited 10 minutes and, after waving a napkin, coughing loudly, dropping my pocketbook with a thump and finally failing headlong onto the counter, I still hadn't succeeded in attracting that girl's attention.

By then other customers were looking at me and a security policeman had edged a bit closer.

I have decided that unless a woman is carrying a baby in her arms and trailing diapers and teething rings, or unless she has white hair and crutches, she is not going to distract a waitress from those businessmen or the Air Force officers in their natty blue uniforms.

I did think of borrowing a baby to take with me next time, but obviously that is not the answer. Then I thought of taking along a white wig and collapsible crutches.

Finally, I came up with what may well be the perfect solution. I am constructing a fold-up cardboard cutout of John Wayne.

Junior Editors Quiz on METEORS

QUESTION: Why do most meteors burn before reaching the earth?

ANSWER: Shooting stars or meteors are piece of stone or metal, or a combination of the two, which form a part of our solar system and travel around the sun. Most are small. Many are no larger than a grain of sand. Others weigh tons.

These objects are invisible in the night sky, but when the earth comes close enough to attract one of them because of gravity, the meteor comes whizzing down.

When it enters the layer of atmosphere about 65 miles up, the meteor, travelling at tremendous speed, becomes so heated by friction with the air that it turns white hot (right). Its trail as it hurtles down is what you see.

Most meteors are completely burned up before they hit the earth, which is fortunate for us, as about two hundred million enter Earth's atmosphere every day. Some meteors are large enough, however, for fragments of them to reach the earth.

Such fragments are called meteorites. There is one in the American Museum of Natural History in New York weighing 15½ tons.

Give Negroes Reparations --Cavanagh

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh says new federal programs to aid Negroes should be based on "the principle of reparation for long-standing injustice."

In a presentation discussed last Tuesday by President Johnson's Riots Commission, Cavanagh also proposed federal aid for police training to create special forces of riot police in major cities.

Detroit was swept last month by the worst riots in recent U.S. history.

Cavanagh's presentation to the Riots Commission said the reparation he proposes should take the form of "special work training programs, special educational programs, special community reconstruction and reconstruction programs . . . involving efforts not only by government but by business, by private and public organizations, by the schools and the universities."

The United States is spending an estimated 3.3 billion dollars a year to put a man on the moon by the end of this decade.

"YOUR HEALTH" "HEADACHES"

Do you suffer from frequent headaches? Too many people do. Covering them up with aspirin gives only temporary relief. The underlying problem remains. Chiropractic treatment attempts to get to the cause of the condition, which in many cases, is pressure on the nerves in the spine and neck. Once the nerve pressure is removed, most headaches disappear. If you have lived with this pain over the years, and been told, "It's your nerves, take some aspirin," then give chiropractic a chance. Results measure the merit of anything. Chiropractic claims nothing it has not already accomplished many times.

Star Theories Dusted Off

By Science Service
Photographs taken by Gemini II astronauts last year have yielded new data from the constellation Orion that could lead to revised theories on star formation.

As it appears in the ultraviolet photos, a large cloud, known as the Barnard Loop Nebulae, has extensions and structures not seen from earth.

A analysis reveals that the newly discovered radiation was caused almost entirely by scattering from dust particles.

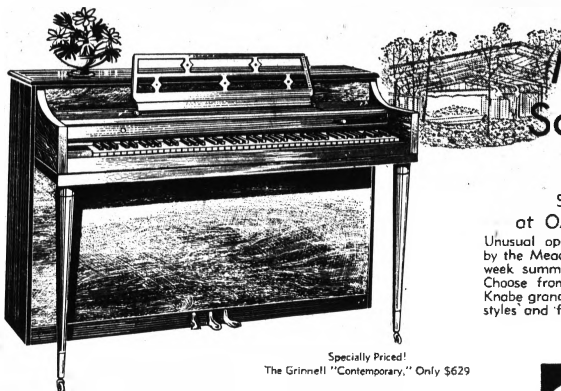

Plants of the poison ivy family are found in every state except Alaska and Hawaii.

Automobile parts, valued at $125, were taken in the break-in, according to police.

Charged with breaking and entering the business establishment are Gordon E. Myers, 17, of 26 Edgemoor, Waterford Township; and Jerry R. Rowsey, 19, of 5224 M59, White Lake Township.

Myers and Rowsey stood mute at their arraignments before Waterford Township Justice Kenneth Hempstead.

PEA Names Ex-Teacher to Key Post

Pontiac Education Association has opened an office and named a former teacher as its full-time executive secretary, TOM EVERITT, PEA president, announced.

The PEA has a membership of about 700 out of 1,000 Pontiac School District teachers.

James McCoy, 34, who taught English and social studies at Madison Junior High School for the past five years, recently took over the new full-time executive secretary position.

His job is to oversee the operations of the PEA and serve as a liaison between the national, state and local units of the education association.

The PEA office is located at 3513 Elizabeth Lake in the Miller Building.

FORMER EDITOR
McCoy, a former PEA vice president and editor of a teachers' newspaper called "Insight," set up an association speakers bureau where officers for the first time visited faculty meetings at each of the district's 36 schools last year.

Active in religious endeavors, McCoy and his wife, Betty, a teacher at Alcott School, and two sons live at 1875 Elsie.

Clothes Are Taken From Auto in City

Clothing valued at about $140 was stolen from an Evanston, Ill., man's car while parked on a city street, Pontiac police were told late Saturday.

Officers said the thief forced a wire between the window and roof to unlock the car.

Owner Neil Sobel, 26, told police the stolen items included a suit, a raincoat, pants and dresses.

Three members of the Pontiac Urban League are attending the organization's national conference in Portland, Ore. through Thursday.

Representing the local unit are E. Eugene Russell, president; James Mathews, a delegate; and Leroy Moore.

Rocket tests recently have proved that the Milky Way galaxy is a comparatively young phenomena, still capable of producing numerous new stars.

Investigators said the burglars smashed out the door glass to make entry.

Kuhn to Mayors Veto Fire-Aid Pact With Detroit

State Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield, said today that he is sending letters to mayors in Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties, urging them to veto a proposal that the suburbs enter into a mutual-aid fire-fighting pact with Detroit.

Kuhn contends that Detroit is seeking an estimated $20,000 "free ride" from suburban communities which provided fire-fighting help to Detroit during the riots.

The proposal was suggested by Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh Thursday when he met with a group of Macomb County mayors.

Stress Poverty War, Urban League Chief Urges

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The head of the National Urban League placed top priority on peace at home Sunday, and said M. Young Jr. told an applauding audience of 1,200 that congressional cutting of programs dealing with Negro slum problems has led him to question his previous public position—that we could fight both slums at home and a war abroad.

"If it is time we have to make a choice, the Urban League feels the first priority ought to be peace and justice here at home," he said, drawing the first roar of applause from an integrated audience that had sat quietly through most of his 40-minute speech.

"I said the country has enough resources not to have to make a choice between guns and butter," he said. "Recent actions of Congress have led me to question this. I am no longer sure we can have both."

DEPARTURE FROM SPEECH
To make his point, Young departed from a prepared keynote speech which had warned that "Racism, the refusal of society to effect meaningful change," is creating "the shock troops of rebellion" in American cities.

In his departure, he also suggested a national conference of business, industry and civic leaders to mobilize support for a program like a four-year-old domestic Marshall plan that would guarantee jobs through public works.

Most of the 1,200 were delegates to the league's annual conference.

Young's previous position, which he questioned Sunday night, was taken last March in response to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who announced he was stepping up his campaign against the Vietnam war, partly on the theory that the war drained resources needed for work in city slums.

NO GUARANTEE
Young told the Associated Press afterward there was no guarantee that Congress would spend more money on the war against slums if it were available. Buthe said the Vietnam war was the major reason Congress gave when it shelved a variety of programs.

He ticked off a list that included dropping the rent supplement program, cutting model-city funds, killing a rat control bill while approving one to control riots, and passing through the House last week new Social Security laws which termed "dangerous, callous and cruel."

His views were supported Monday by another League official who said cities convulsed by violence "represent a far more dangerous threat to the stability of our national life than any other problem before us, foreign or domestic." Mrs. Ersel H. Poston, secretary of the board of directors and president of New York State's Civil Service Commission, said "The situation is urgent almost beyond our powers to grasp it."

"Vietnam or no Vietnam, the first priority of a public in desperate torment and a people in anguish must be the curing

RICKY WASIK

Woman Dies as Parachute Fails to Open

ROCKLEDGE, Fla. (AP) — A pretty young woman, who described her first parachute jump as "the most thrilling thing" she had ever done, plunged 1,200 feet to her death from an airplane Sunday.

Officials said Ricky Wasik, 22, plummeted to the earth when she caught her arm in the lines of a pilot chute, causing her main parachute to stay closed.

HUSBAND WATCHES

Her husband, John, 26, space writer for the Melbourne Times and an amateur skydiver, watched her body hurtle to the turf of Green Airport. Terry Alford, jump master for Mrs. Wasik, said the pilot chute opened by static line for student jumpers, snagged her arm and fouled her main parachute.

Then she pulled the ripcord of the main chute but that too became snarled.

The couple was married one year ago and she was stepmother to his four children by a previous marriage.

By the Associated Press
The return of Arab war refugees to their homes in Israeli-occupied Jordan lagged for the second day Sunday, while in the Sinai Desert, Israeli troops scoured El Arish for Arab arms and organizers of a general strike.

In Baghdad, the Arab economic warfare conclave ended with indications of a continuing split on whether to continue the embargo on Arab oil exports to Britain, West Germany and the United States.

The International Red Cross reported that 1,876 Jordanian war refugees crossed the Jordan River Sunday to go back to their homes. Added to the 355 that crossed the Allenby Bridge and another bridge at Um Al Shareh Friday, 2,231 of about 170,000 refugees were repatriated in the first two days.

The Israelis stopped the refugee traffic Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath. If the repatriation is stopped for next Saturday, too, only nine days are left until the Israeli-set deadline of Aug. 31 to complete the massive repatriation.

EXPECTED TO CROSS

The Red Cross said 2,500 refugees were expected to cross the Jordan today, although Israel announced it would accept 3,000. The Israeli Interior Ministry said that 800 more Jordanians would have been accepted in Sunday's crossings, but Jordan appeared to have trouble rounding up refugees and taking them to the two bridges.

The Red Cross says it will take until the end of October to get all the refugees back home and is negotiating with Israel to extend the deadline. But all Israeli newspapers are arguing against any extension, and Premier Levi Eshkol said Sunday that the Aug. 31 deadline still stands.

The Israelis appeared to be mostly women, children and old security risks, rejecting few refugees Sunday, men were accepted and young. But one Arab taxi driver from across the river, "I've changed my hand to liberate Jerusalem in contrast with Friday when men appeared to be regarded as Jerusalem turned back on his mind," he declared, "I'll go home."

own just as he was about to back only when I have a gun in cross the river. "I've changed my hand to liberate Jerusalem in contrast with Friday when men appeared to be regarded as Jerusalem turned back on his mind," he declared, "I'll go home."

F-Birds Post Upset Over Flint 11, 13-6

The Pontiac Firebirds evened their exhibition record to 1-1 after surprising the Flint Blue Devils, 13-6 Saturday night at Wisner Stadium.

Now the F-Birds look forward to the regular season opener next Saturday night at Mt. Clemens against former coach in Pontiac Lisle Wells.

Pontiac started slowly in the first half against Flint, but came up with several key defensive plays to hold the Blue Devils to a 6-0 halftime advantage.

On the first series of plays, Chuck Stein intercepted a pass and gave Pontiac the ball on the Flint 38. The F-Birds could not move and Ed McQueen's attempted field goal from the 42 was blocked.

Another break gave Pontiac the ball on the 40 as result of a poor punt, but after a 39 yard screen pass play from Bill Harrington to Jim Stewart was called back, Pontiac again failed to get any offense going.

INTERCEPTION
Early in the second quarter, Jim Walker intercepted Marty Malatin's pass and Flint had the ball on the Pontiac 47. Aided by a 22 yard pass, The Blue Devils scored in six plays with Bob Brown going the final 9 yards. The point attempt was blocked and it was 6-0.

On the next series, Ken Conrad intercepted another Malatin pass and Flint moved from its 35 to the Pontiac 3. The threat ended when Bob Lulek intercepted for Pontiac in the end zone and he brought it out to the 8-yard line.

The second half was dominated by the Firebirds, as the defensive unit headed by end Don Quinn and linebackers Joer and Ed McQueen stopped the Flint passing and running game cold.

Lonnie Humphrey slanted over his right tackle for 48 yards to the Flint three and he carried it over on the next play to give Pontiac a 6-0 deadlock as the snap on the point try was fumbled.

Flint got to the Pontiac seven late in the third quarter when Jim Long went 39 yards on a sweep, but three passes failed and Pontiac took over on the 20 as the period ended.

FINDS RANGE
Harrington then found the range. He hit Willie Washington with a 44 yard pass play, fired another 32 yarder to Stewart and on the 6th play of the quarter he tossed to Barker Sam West for a 4 yard touchdown. McQueen added the point.

Flint threatened once more in the late stages of the game but the other Willie Washington, 67 defensive end hit the Flint quarterback forcing a fumble allowing Pontiac to use up the clock.

Coch Tom Tracy was pleased with the F-Bird defensive play, but indicated that the offensive unit had much to do to be ready for the opener with Mt. Clemens.

The Firebirds open the home season, Saturday night Sept. 9 against the huge Ypsilanti Vikings, considered the top challengers for the NFL title.

Season tickets and individual home game tickets are available at the Firebirds downtown office, 12 N. Saginaw, or by calling FE 2-9254.

By DON VOGEL
Outdoor Editor, Pontiac Press
An English springer spaniel from Troy is fast becoming one of the all-time greats of the dog show world.

Ch. Sally's Aristocrat, owned by Mrs. F. H. Gasow, 4001 Coldgate, romped to best-in-show designation No. 48 yesterday afternoon at Wisner field in the annual Pontiac Kennel Club summer show.

Dick Cooper of Algonquin, Ill., who has handled other winners in the PKC show, directed Sunday's top dog, Mrs. Gasow placed her champion with Cooper when he was a puppy.

London L. Skarda of Clovis, N.M., selected the best-in-show. But before reaching the final round of six, Aristocrat had to overcome some proven group competition that included Ch. Buckett O'Bois owned by Arlene K. Law of Berkeley and winner of last winter's PKC show.

Other finalists from the 87-entry field were a basenji, Ch. Leah's Brandy Boy, owned by Donald E. Hardin, Cicero, Ill., hound group winner; Tailwinds Jacks or Better, a Doberman pinscher owned by Eunice Plotkin, Detroit, working winner; Mrs. B. G. Frame's West Highland white terrier, Ch. Rampho Dune Down-Beat from Indianapolis, terrier winner.

Ch. Amehens Poona Dancer, a Maltese owned by F. E. Oberstar, Encino, Ohio, toy group; and a standard poodle, Ch. Freeman C. Dickey and Joan E. Schilke, Brunswick, Ohio, nonsporting winner.

BREAKTHROUGH—Charles Sifford of Los Angeles wears a happy grin as he clings to his trophy after gaining his first major tournament victory yesterday, the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open. The win put $20,000 in the pockets of the Negro professional, who has been on the tour for 14 years.

He missed a three-foot putt to lose the final green that year to Jose Canale at 35 cents for 18 holes, to Jack Burke Jr. by one stroke. On the same 18th green at par-71 Wetherfield County Club, Sifford surveyed a four-foot putt to keep himself in first place. With his trademark, a cigar, clenched in his teeth as it is for every stroke, he rammed the putt home.

CLIMBED SLOWLY
Sifford joined the PGA tour in 1964, earning $281.43 that year. His winnings climbed slowly at the rate of about $1,000 a year, but he supplemented that with play in many unofficial tournaments to Sifford until the 14th hole of the final round. The leader that point was Oppermann, enroute to a 67.

But Sifford sank a 25-yard wedge shot on the 14th to get an eagle 3 and a tie for the lead. They stayed tied until the par-3 17th, a problem hole for Sifford in the three earlier rounds. But he put his tee shot on the green 215 yards away and made a decisive par. Oppermann came along minutes later and missed the green, carding a bogey.

Troy Aristocrat Wins
Spaniel PKC's Best
Mrs. Gasow was awarded The Pontiac Press Trophy for the victory.

The 24-year-old springer's triumph wasn't unexpected. His string of BIS awards made him the highly favorite. In addition, he was a finalist Saturday.

Earlier this summer he took the big International Kennel Club show in Chicago.

Dick Cooper of Algonquin, Ill., who has handled other winners in the PKC show, directed Sunday's top dog, Mrs. Gasow placed her champion with Cooper when he was a puppy.

London L. Skarda of Clovis, N.M., selected the best-in-show. But before reaching the final round of six, Aristocrat had to overcome some proven group competition that included Ch. Buckett O'Bois owned by Arlene K. Law of Berkeley and winner of last winter's PKC show.

Other finalists from the 87-entry field were a basenji, Ch. Leah's Brandy Boy, owned by Donald E. Hardin, Cicero, Ill., hound group winner; Tailwinds Jacks or Better, a Doberman pinscher owned by Eunice Plotkin, Detroit, working winner; Mrs. B. G. Frame's West Highland white terrier, Ch. Rampho Dune Down-Beat from Indianapolis, terrier winner.

Ch. Amehens Poona Dancer, a Maltese owned by F. E. Oberstar, Encino, Ohio, toy group; and a standard poodle, Ch. Freeman C. Dickey and Joan E. Schilke, Brunswick, Ohio, nonsporting winner.

Paul Bada to Defend City Crown in Finals
Next Weekend

Defending champion Paul Bada may have a hard time hanging onto the championship when the finals of the Pontiac Medal tourney open this Saturday.

The long-hitting, red-haired Bada had won the crown for two years in a row and five times over-all, but a former utility and the qualifying leader pose major threats for the champion.

The former champion who figures prominently in this year's title picture is Dick Robertson, who bagged the crown in 1964 and whose game is better than ever this year.

The other chief threat for Bada is 28-year-old Ken McClintock, who led a qualifying field of 117 Saturday with a two-under par 67 over the 5,589-par course.

It's the second straight year McClintock has been at the top of the qualifying heap. He shared that spot with Lloyd Sharn last year.

A stroke back of McClintock in the qualifying round were Wally Smith and Jeff Chambers.

A total of 31 shooting 75 or better qualified for the 36-hole finale next week. Those 32 making the grade on Saturday will join the low five scorers from the 1966 tournament along with ex-champions in the finals.

McClintock had only two lapses in his round Saturday, a bogey on the first and double bogey on the 21st, par-3 11th hole.

The others were easy. He bagged birdies at Nos. 3 and 4 and rolled in birdie putts on 13, 17 and 18 on the back side.

McClintock, who carded a 141 in the finals two years ago and a 143 last year, is assistant to the president at International Screw Company in Detroit. The 143 left him in ninth place last season.

All past champions and the low five scorers of 1966 desiring to enter the finals next weekend must contact the course manager before Thursday to gain starting times.

Among the casualties in the qualifying Saturday were a pair of the best young golfers in the area. Rod Skelton of Waterford and Gary Ballet of Avondale. Skelton missed by a stroke with a 76, and Ballet, seventh in the finals last season, carded a 78.

rivals were another Pennsylvania pair, Oscar Koveleski of Claris Summit and Joseph F. Welch of Dalton. They traveled 130 laps in a Sting Ray for the second-place trophy, averaging 91.58 m.p.h. for a trip that took 3 hours, 15 minutes and 53.2 seconds.

EDGE OF TRACK
Tragedy struck on the 32nd lap when Martin Krinner of Boonton Township, N.J., was killed by a speeding car as he stood next to his disabled Shelby near the edge of the track.

Krinner, 36, was hurled 50 feet after he was struck by a Cobra driven by George Taylor of Otsville, Pa. His wife, Claretta, was among an estimated 15,000 spectators at the race.

Death Claims Famed Military Tactician at 86

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—"No army in military history ever had a greater leader than Gen. Krueger." That is what General of the Army Douglas MacArthur said of Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the U.S. 6th Army in World War II, who died Sunday.

It was Krueger's 6th Army that led MacArthur's spearhead against the Japanese all the way from the Southwest Pacific to the Philippines.

Krueger, a four-star general, died in Valley Forge General Hospital at the age of 86. He had been a patient there since Sept. 14, 1965.

Krueger, a master of military tactics, remained a doughboy at heart during a half century of soldiering in the Spanish-American War, the Philippine Insurrection and two world wars.

44 YEARS LATER

He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1901 while serving under MacArthur's father, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, during the Philippine Insurrection. He returned to the Philippines 44 years later in command of a powerful army. He became a full general in 1945.

His Sixth Army was headquartered in Australia in February 1943. Within five months it had seized Woodlark and the Kiriwina Islands from the Japanese and established air bases there.

The Sixth then went on to greater leader than Gen. Krueger.

MILITARY PRECEPT

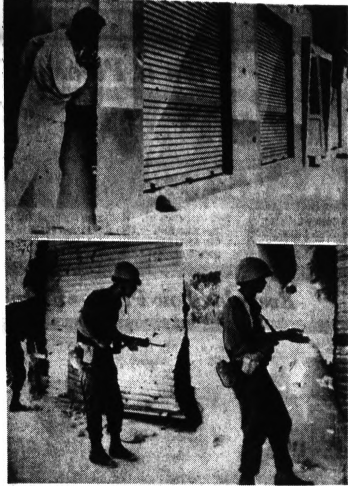

Krueger's fundamental military precept was to seize the initiative and hold it. He once said: "I don't try to direct my tactics toward thwarting the enemy's intentions. I try to hit him hard and keep him off balance so he will be worrying about what I intend to do."

He had a reputation of being a conservative general who weighed every factor and every chance minutely before committing himself.

"It is sometimes difficult to be patient, but patience is necessary in war," he once observed.

Among other military honors accorded him were the Distinguished Service Medal for heroism in World War I and the Legion of Merit in World War II.

Krueger was born Jan. 26, 1881, in Flatow, Germany. His father was a Prussian colonel.

Mental Patient Is Held in Canadian Slaying of 9

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (AP) — A 21-year-old mental patient is being held for the murder of nine members of a farm family who were shot in their home on the edge of Canada's northern wilderness.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrested Victor Ernest Hoffman Saturday night, four days after the massacre of Mr. and Mrs. James Peterson and seven of their children at their home in Shell Lake. The Petersons' 4-year-old daughter hid between the bodies of two of her sisters and escaped.

The police said Hoffman would be arraigned on a murder charge and then probably would be given a mental examination.

Locomotive Trade Lawsuit Accuses GM

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Jose, Calif., inventor filed suit in U.S. District Court here Friday asking that General Motors Corp. be ordered to divest itself of its Electro-Motive division.

The suit also names nine major railroads as codefendants, accusing them of conspiring with GM to monopolize the trade in diesel locomotives and parts. Electro-Motive is the nation's largest locomotive manufacturer.

The suit, brought by Alfonso Jordan, inventor and manufacturer of a diesel fuel flow regulator, says GM and the railroads made an illegal agreement in 1959 under which GM ships all of its products over the railroads' lines in return for which the latter purchases locomotives and parts solely from GM.

Jordan is asking for triple damages to be determined by the court.

A Gleaming New Hospital Springs to Life

Crittenton Humming With Quiet Service

By JEAN SAILE

A big, new hospital comes to life with a pulsing and humming of quiet efficiency. Nurses pad busily up and down silent corridors. Hushed conferences develop in doorways and at nursing stations.

Unexpected problems are met in huddled low-voiced conversation. A solution is offered — the correction made — and people who have never worked together form bonds of trust.

Patients — those who have put off surgery until the gleaming facility has opened and those who have sought its services for emergency problems — are cared for in aseptic rooms.

They, too, are quiet. The illness which has brought them here is still too new to permit convalescent joviality.

OPENED ITS DOORS

Rochester Branch, Crittenton General Hospital, 1201 E. University, Avon Township, the 207-bed facility serving eastern Oakland County, opened its doors to patients last Tuesday.

By Wednesday there was one new baby, fussed over by the entire maternity and nursery staff; nine post-surgical cases; and 14 emergency medical cases. New patients were being admitted regularly.

Hospital auxiliary members gowned in trim salmon-colored uniforms staffed the as yet unbusy gift shop and waited quietly with wheelchairs at the admitting office.

Green-garbed surgical nurses cleaned up after the day's work and made adjustments which would smooth the way next day.

REVIEWED OVER COFFEE

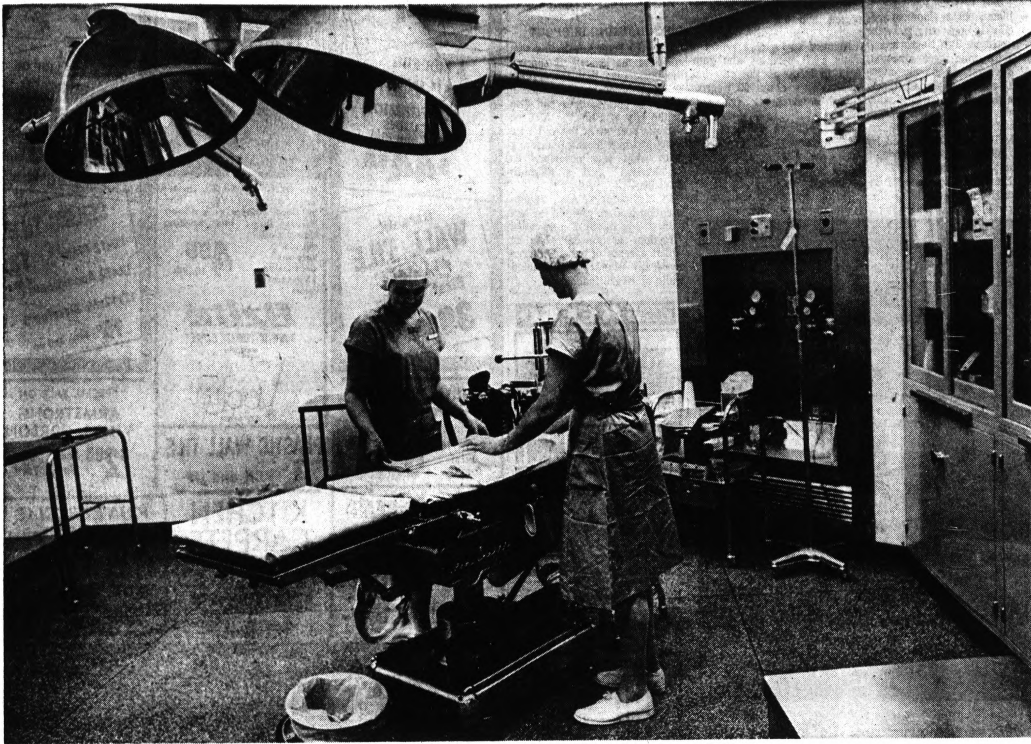

Housekeepers and security people conferred in the main lounge, and downstairs in the cafeteria the day's schedule was reviewed over coffee.

A doctor checked charts at the main floor nursing station.

A switchboard operator, confronted with a glowing board, busily placed her lines, and at times the hospital's loud-speaker insistently called the name of doctors wanted on the phone.

It was alive. The mass of steel and concrete which only recently was described in terms of dollars and details had become a living institution, ready to serve its community.

Fire-Bombs, Rallies Mark Race Unrest

By The Associated Press
Fire-bombing broke out in a Negro section of Baton Rouge, La., Sunday night after rallies by civil rights demonstrators and by the Ku Klux Klan. In New Haven, Conn., small bands of Negroes defied a curfew imposed after disturbances in predominantly Negro sections Saturday night.

New Haven youths had gone on a window-breaking, bottle-hurling rampage, and the violence continued Sunday night.

Almost 200 state troopers moved in to help police. Some 150 arrests were made during the two nights. Minor injuries were reported, as well as some looting—chiefly of liquor stores.

National Guardsmen and state troopers massed in Baton Rouge Sunday to cope with possible violence as Negroes and Klansmen staged rallies. The Negro rally marked the end of an 11-day civil rights march from Bogalusa, Ala.

BROWN STILL IN JAIL
H. Rap Brown, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, who had been scheduled to appear at the Baton Rouge rally, remained Monday in the Federal House of Detention, New York City, in lieu of $25,000 bail.

Brown was picked up early Saturday and charged with violation of a federal law which prohibits a person from carrying a weapon interstate when under indictment.

Brown had been indicted in Maryland on charges of inciting arson and rioting in Cambridge. The government said he carried a carbine on a plane from New Orleans to New York.

POLICE SWING CLUBS
Police used billy clubs and rifle butts to disperse a group of Negroes who jeered whites just before the start of the Klan rally.

Late Sunday night, authorities sealed off a Negro neighborhood for about an hour when youths began hurling gasoline bombs. The fire department answered 17 alarms, nine of them false. One blaze, in a lumberyard, was quickly put out, as were seven others. Ten Negroes and one white man were arrested. At Jackson, Mich., about 300 youths, mostly Negroes, threw bottles and rocks early Sunday as a dance ended at a recreation hall. Six persons were arrested. Ten officers, injured by flying debris, were treated at a hospital and released.

At Flint, Mich., scene of in-George Romney attended a Sunday rally supporting open housing. The governor defended his stand in an argument with a Negro minister. There were three fire-bombings in Flint Saturday night, but no injuries were reported and no arrests were made.

Romney spoke to a crowd of some 3,000 persons who gathered in front of the city hall steps, where about 50 Negroes staged a sleep-out Friday in support of Negro Mayor Floyd McCree. McCree announced last week he was resigning Monday after the City Commission failed to pass his open housing ordinance.

On the speakers' platform, a Negro minister, the Rev. Alfred L. C. Robles, linked Romney in his speech with Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

OPEN HOUSING SUPPORT
Romney leaped from his seat and told the crowd, "I support the basic idea that there must be an open housing ordinance in the state of Michigan and also in the city of Flint." McCree was not present at the rally. He remained in a hospital suffering from what was described as "exhaustion" and a stomach disorder.

At Montgomery, Ala., administration leaders pressed for legislative enactment of a so-called "freedom of choice" law in which parents of schoolchildren could say whether they wanted white or Negro teachers.

Issues Abound in Auto Talks

Contracts at Big 3
Run Out in 17 Days

DETROIT (AP) — A long weekend of homework finished, company and union negotiators today began 17 days of final examinations at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

They're faced with finding answers by Sept. 6 to hundreds of problems—not one of which have been able to resolve finally in more than six weeks of bargaining in Detroit.

Among them, of course, is the United Auto Workers' demand for a guaranteed annual income to replace hourly wages in new contracts.

And still facing negotiators on at the plant level tables literally are thousands of problems still unresolved.

'BLOW MOVEMENT'

Current UAW national wage pacts and at-plant working agreements which supplement them at the Big Three run out in 17 days—Sept. 6.

Negotiations began back on July 10.

In both 1961 and 1964 crippling local level strikes erupted in the wake of agreements on national contracts. The companies and the union have complained of slow movement this year in at-plant bargaining. In attempts to speed up action there, UAW national bargaining teams at General Motors and Ford broke off sessions last Thursday to return home and lend assistance.

TOP-LEVEL EXEC'S

Ford announced it would keep top-level executives at telephone and available to local managers over the week-end. GM said it expected to take a weekend reading on local-level progress with a hope of untangling major snarls.

Chrysler Corp. called its discussions to headquarters for discussions. UAW negotiators at Chrysler did the same thing with their local level bargainers earlier this month.

UAW — Chrysler chiefs said they were seeking to determine, among other things, what issues at the local level, if any, should be moved to the main table.

Presumably the company was doing the same thing. At Chrysler, negotiators have been working recently under a mutually agreed upon news blackout.

MORE ISSUES

There are 26,000 local-level demands on at-plant bargaining tables in the GM empire, compared with 24,000 in 1964 when strikes over unresolved local issues knocked GM out of auto-making for more than five weeks.

Ford reported its local managements were wrestling with more than 26,000 demands, about twice the number of 1964 when Ford lost two weeks through national agreement had been reached. Ford said it had made some 400 demands itself for changes in at-plant working agreements.

There are approximately 250 items in each national bargaining table under the UAW and the Big Three. Both the companies and the union agree not a single item yet has been initiated to make it binding—and union spokesmen contend meetings of the kind have occurred only on a very few and relatively minor items.

Book by Prof

BIG RAPIDS (UPI) — Dr. Herbert L. Carson, of the school of general education faculty at Ferris State College, has written a speech textbook which has just been published. The book is entitled, "Steps in Successful Speaking."

2 Escape, Crash

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — Two men narrowly escaped injury Sunday when a Civil Air Patrol plane crashed and burned at Escanaba Municipal Airport.

The plane, piloted by Paul Kirby, 46, of Marquette, Wis., crashed landed when its landing gear failed to clear. A passenger on the plane, Eugene Pittman, 46, of Menominee, Mich., also escaped uninjured.

Car-Wash Fire Is Investigated

MUSKOGON (UPI) — Local and state fire marshal representatives are investigating a blaze that destroyed the Red Barn car wash Saturday.

Damage as a result of the fire, believed to have been set, was estimated at $100,000.

AMBITIOUS SYMBOLS — These are some of the political symbols being used in the South Vietnam presidential campaign. Each stands for a slate of presidential vice presidential candidates. Among the symbols are rice stalks, rice cultivation, a rice sower, buffalo, white dove, lotus and incense burner, lotus blossom, and a map of North and South Vietnam imposed of the national flag — that of the odds-on favorites, Nguyen Van Thieu and Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ticket Symbols Litter Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Like politicians everywhere, South Vietnam's candidates have adopted symbols that uphold the highest ideals and promise something for everyone. Posters calling for the election of Nguyen Van Thieu and Nguyen Cao Ky, heads of the present military government and favorites in the Sept. 3 balloting, bear an outline map of South Vietnam and the national flag. Put together, this is supposed to symbolize nation-building, democracy and social improvement.

The symbol of the leading citizen ticket, made up of Tran Van Huong and Mai The Truyen, is a sewer of rice seed. This is said to represent a call for restoration of national order, efforts to bring peace and build an "equal and bright society."

Other election symbols include a white dove for unity, prosperity and peace; a torch for democracy and respect of national laws; a white lotus and a black incense burner, meaning "pity and justice, the country pacified and happiness for everyone."

Selection of the buffalo as an election symbol by two slates precipitated charges from one side of unfair campaign tactics. The squabble died out when it was decided that the animals were of different types.

ROLE OF SYMBOLS

The symbols themselves play an important role in the voting, especially in rural areas where many people can't read. Campaign workers are seeking to make symbols familiar to the voters because the system calls for them to place one ballot in the box and tear up the others. If a symbol can be sold to the voter, that may determine which ballot goes in the box.

Campaign strategists also hope that the symbols themselves may mean something to the voter and affect his choice. In hamlet elections earlier this year, it was found that voters selected a ballot bearing the picture of a plow over one with a picture of a mechanical reaper — which meant nothing to them.

SAIGON COVERED

Posters with the ticket symbols started going up when the campaign period began Aug. 3. In Saigon almost every available inch of wall, fence and doorway display space is plastered with them.

Sniping, Marine-Style, a Fine Hit-and-Run Art

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—True or false:

A sniper is a sharpshooter in a tree, armed with a high-powered rifle, who picks off enemy soldiers one by one as they march past about 100 yards away.

False, the way the Marines teach it. Sniping Marine-style is often a one-shot, hit-or-miss proposition.

You find an inconspicuous hiding place—never a tree or landmark — and wait for Vietcong or North Vietnamese soldiers traveling alone or in small groups. The ideal range is 600 yards, but at least one sniper has scored a "kill" from 1,700.

Your target must be carrying a gun, radio or piece of military equipment that marks him as "enemy." Making adjustments for wind velocity and target movement, you sight the biggest visible part of his body in on your eight-power scope and squeeze the trigger.

Once you shoot, your enemies know your general location. They may come looking for you or just stay out of sight for the rest of the day.

You may fire more shots, but the more you fire, the better the enemy's chance of finding you. Move to another position and you've lost what remained of your best hunting time.

"Charlie (the Vietcong) doesn't move in the heat of the day," Sgt. V. D. Mitchell teaches his sniper trainees. "You usually have to catch him shortly after dawn or just before dark."

Mitchell, a champion rifleman from Vista, Calif., was summoned back into the Marines in March to train snipers for the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam. At the same time, the Marines' first sniper school opened at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

"We had snipers in World War II and Korea," Mitchell says, "but then they were just picked out and told 'You're a sniper.' Now we have a sniper guidebook and school for the first time."

The terrain of Vietnam, he says, is almost perfect for snipers, with vast fields of fire. The successes the Communists have had with snipers prompted the Marines to go into the sniping business.

Snipers are no longer picked at random. To make the 15-day school, a Marine must be a volunteer with 20-20 vision and must be classified as an expert rifleman.

The course includes map reading, use of compass and radio, the effects of the weather on sighting and accuracy, and shooting and more shooting, then comes the subtle part: how to carry a successful ambush.

Mitchell says snipers can be deployed "anywhere, anytime." Sometimes they are left behind a Marine sweep to hit Communist troops that re-occupy the area. Other times, they just go out, find a good spot, and wait.

Marine snipers travel in pairs. One carries the Winchester 700 sniper rifle; the other is his spotter. The spotter uses field glasses to find targets and tell the sniper of their location.

Two of a dozen infantrymen may accompany the snipers on a mission to provide protection from attack. The more danger involved, the more infantrymen there are.

Credibility on Viet '68 Key-Romney

MACKINAC ISLAND (P) — Republican Gov. George Romney says the 1968 presidential candidate with the best chance of election will be the one who can convince voters he can achieve peace in Vietnam "at a reasonably early date."

The people are concerned that the war in Vietnam might last five, 10 or 15 years, Romney told newsmen in an informal "background" meeting on Mackinac Island during the weekend. The governor's summer vacation residence is on the island located between Michigan's two peninsulas.

"I think that in 1968 the people will want to have some confidence that whoever is asking them for support can bring peace at a reasonably early date," he said.

Romney is considered an all-but-declared candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

He declined to indicate what he feels

would be a reasonable date to bring peace in Vietnam.

LATE THIS YEAR

Romney said he plans to discuss the war "in more specific terms after I go to Vietnam." He has said several times that he hopes to visit Southeast Asia "later this year."

The governor said he believes the Vietnam war will be the main issue in the 1968 campaign.

He said his position on the war basically is the same as that which he outlined in a speech at Hartford, Conn., in April, and in a subsequent position paper.

Meanwhile, Romney today turned his attention to the Michigan Legislature.

SPECIAL SESSION

He meets with 19 GOP state legislative leaders to discuss subjects for consideration at a special session he has called for Oct. 10.

Romney aides announced a series of fall trips which will take the governor to 15 states, primarily for fund-raising appearances.

He said he still plans to go to Europe in September.

Romney interrupted his weekend at the governor's mansion on this remote, resort island to fly to Flint, to try to head off possible racial trouble over the resignation of the city's Negro mayor.

ALREADY THE LAW?

Romney told a rally of some 3,000 Negroes in Flint that he supports "the basic idea that there must be an open occupancy ordinance in the state of Michigan and the City of Flint."

Romney said he thought the Michigan Supreme Court would rule that open housing already is the law under the State Constitution.

Several speakers suggested that an open housing bill be introduced during the Legislature's special session.

The governor returned to the island late last night.

DEATH SCENE—This trailer in an Oxford Township mobile home park was the scene early today of the fatal shooting of William G. Greene, whose wife is being held in Oakland County Jail for investigation of murder in connection with his death. Oakland County sheriff's detectives said they found Greene in the bedroom of the vehicle at 1540 Lapeer, shot twice in the head.

Gun Kills Orion Twp. Man; Wife Held for Questioning

A 38-year-old Orion Township man died of gunshot wounds early today, and his wife is in custody in Oakland County Jail for investigation of murder.

Dead is William G. Greene, a resident of the Parkhurst Trailer Park, 1540 S. Lapeer.

Sheriff's detectives, responding to a shooting complaint about 3 a.m., said they found Greene in the bedroom of his trailer in lot 265 of the park.

He had been shot twice near the right ear and was lying in a pool of blood, they said.

★ ★ ★
Mrs. Lois Greene, the victim's wife, met officers at the door and told them Greene had shot himself, according to deputies.

DEATH GUN

They said she handed over a six-shot 32-caliber revolver which had apparently been recently fired.

Detectives said they felt circumstances surrounding the shooting merited further investigation, including the arrest of Mrs. Greene.

She will probably be arraigned later today, they said.
Oakland County Asst. Prosecutor Charles Woodruff said an autopsy scheduled for this morning in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital will, to some extent, determine what, if any, formal charge will be filed against Mrs. Greene.

Detectives said the Greenes are parents of two small children.

FLINT DEMONSTRATION — About 4,000 persons gathered at Flint's City Hall yesterday to protest the defeat of an open housing ordinance and the subsequent announcement by Negro Mayor Floyd McCree that he would resign. Gov.

Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley were among the major state officials who addressed the predominantly Negro audience.

Gunfire Rakes U.S. Embassy Door in London

LONDON (P) — Police throughout southeast England searched today for three well-dressed men in a while car who machine-gunned a side entrance of the U.S. Embassy in London and left a note attacking American racial and foreign policies.

The burst of fire at 11:35 p.m. yesterday drilled holes the size of tennis balls in and around the side door of the concrete and glass building, smashed three glass door panels and punctured lamps on the steps.

One of the two U.S. Marine guards in the building—Cpl. John McNamara, 23, of the Bronx, N. Y.—was about to pass the side door when the attack came. But no one was injured.

NOTE LEFT BEHIND

The gunmen left behind a foot-long sheet of paper. Scrawled on it in capital letters was this message: "STOP CRIMINAL MURDERS OF THE AMERICAN ARMY. SOLIDARITY WITH ALL PEOPLE BATTLING AGAINST YANKEE FASCISM ALL OVER THE WORLD. RACISM NO. FREEDOM FOR AMERICAN NEGROES."

The note was signed "REVOLUTIONARY SOLIDARITY MOVEMENT."

Cuban Refugees Saved

NEW ORLEANS (P) — The Coast Guard reported today an American freighter was steaming toward Texas with five Cuban refugees saved from a sinking 16-foot boat in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Coast Guard said the tanker Esso Exeter rescued two men, two women and a child yesterday off the Florida coast.

Drink of 'Whisky' Kills Dearborn Boy

A Dearborn teen-ager died in Pontiac General Hospital Saturday and another youth from the same city became ill after they drank a poisonous liquid. They were en route to an outing at Camp Dearborn near Milford.

The youths thought the liquid was whisky, according to Pontiac State Police.

After disembarking from a bus at the camp, the boys became ill and were rushed to the hospital via ambulance.

Patrick T. Lennon, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lennon, died shortly after arrival at the hospital.

Reported improved and in satisfactory condition is Allen Kozlowski, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kozlowski.

The liquid they drank is believed to be either fluorescein, a rare, highly fluorescent chemical used as a diagnostic aid in the treatment of eye disease; or Zorox antifreeze which contains fluorescein.

The afflicted boys were part of a group taking part in a swimming outing at the camp. They represented the Dearborn Recreation Swimming Club, police said.

While traveling on I-96, Kozlowski said he had some whisky which he offered to Lennon and other youths.

The victims remarked how "awful" the liquid tasted, which discouraged the other youths from drinking it.

Kozlowski reportedly obtained the liquid from a 15-year-old neighbor who later told police he found the container in his garage.

Two Jets May Be Down in China

WASHINGTON (P) — The Pentagon said two Navy jet attack planes inadvertently may have crossed the Communist Chinese border early today in their attempts to evade North Vietnamese planes and missiles.

Both planes are missing and may have been downed in Red China, a spokesman said.

A spokesman said both planes — A6As from the carrier USS Constellation — are missing. They had been part of an air strike early today on the Duc Noi railroad yards seven miles northeast of Hanoi.

"After encountering heavy anti-aircraft fire in the target area and while under withdrawal route, the aircraft were attacked by MIGs and surface-to-air (SAM) missiles," the Pentagon said.

It added that both planes reported navigational difficulties, perhaps due to severe thunderstorms to the south.

'EVASIVE MANEUVERS'

"During the course of their evasive maneuvers from the MIGs and SAMs, both A6As are believed to have inadvertently crossed the Chinese border," the Pentagon added.

"It is probable that one or both of the aircraft were shot down by MIGs, either by those pursuing them or by Red Chinese aircraft across the border," it continued. "Each A6A carried a crew of two. We have no information on the crews."

Sewer Trunk Functioning Nears

By BOB WISLER

One big step toward opening great parts of Pontiac for new residential construction is only 60 to 90 days away.

That's the time that the now-under-construction Galloway Creek trunk sewer is expected to be far enough along so it can begin to function.

The $1.1-million sanitary sewer line will connect to the sewage treatment plant at Opdyke and Auburn and will serve as the main artery for draining some 1,500 acres of relatively undeveloped land in the northern and western parts of the city.

Sewer installation is the first step in development of previously undeveloped land, and a big one. But as past experience indicates, once it's begun development follows rapidly.

Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and service, said the standard ratio of four, single-family residences can be built on an acre. An acre can likewise accommodate 12 multiple units.

POSSIBLE RESIDENCES

Assuming that three-quarters of the land would be used for single-family residences some 4,900 homes could be built in the area served by the Galloway Creek sewer line. If all multiple dwelling units were constructed it would support 17,100 units.

Neippling believes the entire area could be built up within two construction seasons — by the end of 1969.

Variables which could affect this forecast, he said, are the availability of money for building and the ability of the city "to control its water system."

By that, Neippling means the ability of the city to provide sewer lines which connect residential streets into the main Galloway Creek trunk line.

TRUNK FINANCING

Although the city pays for the main trunk by issuing bonds it must depend on assessments and tax revenue to pay for the lines connecting residential areas to the main lines.

"Our present assessment rate is antique," Neippling says. The director said cash reserves being drained off to pay benefits of private property, "which in most other cities are being paid 100 per cent by the residents who are benefited."

Neippling said under the present rate schedule the city is paying up to 50 and 70 per cent, in some cases, of the assessments costs of installing the local sanitary sewers.

He said that if the city can change the rate schedule, the city "has an adequate revenue base to complete the sanitary sewer system for the city."

BENEFITS OF FORESIGHT

The city is already seeing signs that foresight in laying plans for the Galloway Creek sewer area is beginning to pay off.

Pontiac Catholic High School is being constructed on land being bounded by Walton, Giddings and Perry.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Is It End to Marriage?

Separate Bedrooms Cause Frenzy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After 15 years of living in a two-room apartment, my husband and I finally bought a three-bedroom home. Of course I am delighted, but now my darling husband has informed me that he would like separate bedrooms! I think this is asking for trouble.

I gave in a few years ago when he asked for twin beds because he wakes up three and four times during the night to smoke a cigarette, which disturbs me. I have to get up at 5:30 to get to work, so the twin beds did solve the problem of my being disturbed. But separate bedrooms! Won't that be the beginning of the end of our married life?

RSPV

DEAR RSPV: You will be healthier, happier and better humored if you get your rest at night. And your husband will be easier to live with if he doesn't feel guilty for having disturbed you.

And by the way, a man who gets up three and four times a night to smoke a cigarette may not be around too many more years to worry about.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I asked the 15-year-old daughter of a neighbor of ours down the block to babysit for us for an evening while my husband and I went out. This was the first time we ever had her sit for us.

After we came home we found a note she had left for us, saying, "CLEAN YOUR FILTHY HOUSE, PLEASE." Abby, I know I am not the world's greatest housekeeper, but my house is NOT filthy, either.

We live in a newly developed area (more of the houses is even a year old yet) and we have never met this girl's parents. In a way I think they ought to know about this rude and uncalled-for note, but I don't want to become acquainted with my neighbors under these circumstances. What do you suggest I do?

HURT IN EUGENE

DEAR HURT: Let the matter drop, and the next time you need a babysitter, ask someone with better manners.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who insists on taking his nap on the living room couch, from one to two hours each day, yells at the kids if they aren't extra quiet, and makes the whole family miserable with no place to sit down? This man has a comfortable bedroom he could go to.

He sleeps at night same as the rest of the family. If he needs more sleep, shouldn't he go to his own room and not upset the whole family? I think he's selfish and stubborn. What do you think?

THE MAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I agree with you. But worse yet is the example he is setting for the children. If they are going to learn respect and consideration for other people, you will have to do double duty, because unless you can get your man to change his ways, your children will never learn them from their father.

DEAR ABBY: ASHAMED shouldn't think she is the only mother who loses her temper with her children and regrets it later. Sometimes I wonder how some children can stand their mothers.

Last week I screamed like a maniac at my 10-year-old son. I would do anything in the world to keep him from getting hurt, yet I am the one who seems to hurt him the most. I couldn't believe it was my voice saying all those horrible things to that boy.

Those temper fits left me with a churning stomach and raw nerves, so I finally went to my doctor, hoping he would give me something to calm my nerves. He gave me something all right. A good talking to.

He explained that sometimes mothers take out all their anger and hurt on their children because they are always handy, and the poor little things can't fight back. I then realized that was my problem.

* * *

And now that I understand why I acted like I did, I am better able to control myself.

Print this, if it will help others realize why they are forever exploding all over their kids. It helped me.

Cranes, Stranahans Exchange Saturday Vows

The former Jill Martha Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Anderson, Wrentham Drive, became the bride of Robert George Crane Saturday afternoon in the First Congregational Church.

His parents are the Robert E. Cranes of East Boulevard South.

Gowned in the Empire fashion, the bride ensemble featured appliques of Alencon lace which were repeated again on the full chapel train.

Seed pearls with lace formed the headpiece resembling a trio of white roses.

Her bouquet was a cluster of white roses.

Dianna Epley, Mrs. William Tudor and Jane Barrett were bridesmaids with maid of honor, Michele Morrow.

Standing for the bridegroom was best man, Jan Anderson, the bride's twin brother. Ushers included Larry Boice, Larry Ragsdale and Jack Johnson.

A reception in the church parlors honored the couple.

Stranahan - Swartzloff

The newlywed Douglas J. Stranahan (nee Joan Kay Swartzloff) repeated Saturday afternoon vows in the First Presbyterian Church of Niles.

A garden reception at the bride's home followed for the pair whose parents are the Richard Swartzloffs of Niles and the Neil Stranahans of Fremont Drive.

Instant Embroidery Adds Elegance to New Autos

When your grandmother set out to embroider a cover for the sitting room easy chair, she probably was resigned to spending most of a winter at the task.

Today, the interior trim engineers at Fisher Body Division of General Motors have perfected machines that can bring the elegance of hand embroidery to auto seat covers with thousands of stitches in less than an hour.

The initial effort was a comparatively simple design requiring 4,200 stitches of the famous Cadillac crest offered to the limousine's limited clientele.

In 1967, batteries of tape-controlled embroidery machines turn out designs requiring over 35,000 stitches in two and a half hours.

And the elegance of embroidery work once reserved for the select few is now available on many regular models of Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac.

The art of embroidery is centuries old. Intricate needlework patterns have been found on Egyptian mummies dating back to 1,000 years B.C.

Today, embroidery is having a revival. From priceless museum pieces to private treasures to the crewel work on your pillows and wall hangings, needlework chairs and petit point evening bags, embroidery is enjoying a return to high fashion.

ELEGANT TREND

Fisher Body designers, working closely with GM Styling and Cadillac Motor Car Division, recognized the trend toward elegance in 1962 when they offered embroidered patterns on the Cadillac Fleetwood Seventy Five Limousine.

The initial, simple pattern was enthusiastically received by owners. It required 4,200 stitches and took 20 minutes to make.

The multi-head sewing machines, automatically controlled by a complex Mylar tape feeder were set up at Fisher's Fleetwood and Livonia plants.

The tape, resembling a player piano scroll, wound around spools as it unraveled its intricate design.

Before quantity production started, there were many problems new to the designers and unique to embroidery work.

Stitch lengths, straight or curved lines color schemes, thread weight and fabric characteristics were just a few items demanding thorough investigation.

Such previously foreign terms as feather, blanket cretan, lazy daisy and blanket stitches rapidly became everyday language to the automotive trim engineer.

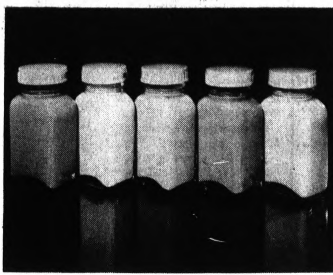

As the tape starts its cycle, a plunger registers each stitch. This in turn triggers the sewing heads of the six machines and the stitch pattern begins.

A limit switch was set up to automatically stop the machines if a thread breaks or the tape runs off the track.

Highly trained female employees monitor the tape and equipment. Patterns were constantly checked for loft, dimension, contour and design. As the tapes wore out and the pattern became exaggerated, they were replaced.

As the complexity of the patterns grew, faster, more accurate workmanship became necessary. Today, some of the tapes stretch over 700 feet and take more than two hours to run through a cycle.

The 1967 models offer GM customers seven complicated patterns in almost endless variety of colors.

The true test of a nonglowing floor wax is its color when observed through clear glass. This unretouched photograph shows an amazing color difference among the leading wax brands, ranging from murky yellow to almost pure white. The white waxes are least likely to discolor vinyl and linoleum flooring. Any color apparent in a wax will impart that same color to your resilient floor.

Never Remove Dinner Dishes; Wait Patiently

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a dear friend who has a habit of removing dishes if service is too slow. She does this at weddings, showers, or wherever we go. She piles them one on top of the other and puts them aside. I don't think this is the right thing to do.

If I am right, won't you please print this in the paper in the hope that she may read it? — Mrs. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: I'll be glad to print your letter for the benefit of all impatient diners. When you are finished with your meal, it is in very poor taste to shove your plate away, push or tip your chair back, or stack up your dishes.

The service may be slow, but you leave your plate where it is, knife and fork neatly placed together on it, and wait patiently for the next course, or the others at the table to finish.

RECALLING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: I was to be married next month. All plans were made and about 200 invitations were sent out. Last week my mother had a heart attack and died. We are, of course, postponing the wedding.

I am now faced with the task of notifying the guests that the wedding will not take place. Will you please tell me how this can best be done? — Eloise M.

Dear Eloise: If there is time, have the following printed and sent to all those who were invited to the wedding.

Owing to the sudden death of Mrs. John Stranahan, the marriage of her daughter to

Eloise

will not take place.

If time is limited, guests would be notified by telephone and telegram.

BUFFET PARTY

Dear Mrs. Post: When invited to a buffet party, is it up to the man to go to the table and fill a plate for his companion and bring it to her, or does she help herself? — J. K.

Dear J. K.: Generally, they go to the table together and she makes her own selection.

Intricate embroidered patterns are constantly checked for loft, dimension, contour and design. As the pattern is completed, the machine will automatically stop.

The average embroidered pattern has 10,000 stitches and can be run in less than an hour. The first patterns used in 1962 had 4,200 stitches while the more sophisticated patterns call for more than 35,000 stitches. This elegantly embroidered pattern below is used on the 1967 Oldsmobile 98 luxury sedan. The pattern has 18,000 stitches and takes an hour and 20 minutes to process.

New Treatment for Clean Faces

A new beauty appliance is giving mothers and daughters much more in common than they could have believed possible.

It's a beauty machine that gives deep down facial cleansing through a mist treatment causing the face to perspire and dislodge impurities in a natural manner, the manufacturer reports.

The appliance also is suggested for use by sons who have trouble keeping their faces really clean.

The "Waiting Game" Just for Women

By BETTY CANARY

I learn something new every day and now I have found out that classic movie scene originated, the one with the man crawling along the desert floor, clutching his throat and gasping for a drink.

It was really a woman, see, and she was headed out to the Denver airport where she had the same waitress I had.

I do not usually compete with men. After all, men are men and women are women, and, as the French say, "Vive la difference!" But, I have discovered when a woman is traveling alone and wants a cup of coffee, she had better be ready to compete or else carry her own little thermos.

I sat at the counter because I was in a hurry. The waitress kept walking past me and I thought maybe the customers at the end were ordering lots of things or perhaps they kept changing their minds. I began to feel sorry for the poor girl. Then I realized it was the customers who were changing, and they were all handsome men.

I waited 10 minutes and, after hearing a napkin, coughing loudly, dropping my pocketbook with a thump and finally falling headlong onto the counter, I still hadn't succeeded in attracting that girl's attention.

By then other customers were looking at me and a security policeman had edged a bit closer.

I have decided that unless a woman is carrying a baby in her arms and trailing diapers and teething rings, or unless she has white hair and crutches, she is not going to distract a waitress from those businessmen or the Air Force officers in their natty blue uniforms.

I did think of borrowing a baby to take with me next time, but obviously that is not the answer. Then I thought of taking along a white wig and collapsible crutches.

Finally, I came up with what may well be the perfect solution. I am constructing a fold-up cardboard cutout of John Wayne. When not in use it can be neatly packaged and carried in the purse. But, when needed, a woman can open it up and set it on her lap, and hide behind it.

Ticker Tape Lags

Active Stock Mart Advances

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced early Monday in active trading.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 5 to 3. The ticker tape lagged.

Weakness in some key blue chips dampened the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

Steels were moderately higher, with Jones & Laughlin up about a point. Electronics posted a string of fractional gains.

OIL SPIRIT

Shamrock Oil spiked 3 points or more and Diamond Alkali lost a fraction. Diamond Alkali was reported to have reached an agreement to acquire Shamrock.

Kayser Roth also was ahead about 3 while U.S. Smelting dropped nearly 3 and Russ Togs dropped about a point. Fractional losses were taken by such blue chips as Goodyear, International Harvester, International Nickel and Du Pont.

The market resumed the full

54-hour sessions after almost two weeks of four-hour sessions, abbreviated so that brokerage houses could catch up with a big accumulation of paper work.

Opening blocks included: American Telephone, unchanged at 51 1/2 on 20,000

Shannon Wireless Electric up 1/4 at 65 on 6,000; Pan

American World Airways, unchanged at 24 1/2 on 5,000; International

Paper, off 1/4 at 29 on 4,300, and Westinghouse Electric, up 1/4 at 65 on 6,000.

Broadening price increases among basic products tended to give the market a more inflationary background. This was countered somewhat by an easing in durable goods orders in July.

Federal Cars Safest of 1968

Tougher Dashboard Standards Required

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unless some changes are made, "death seat" passengers in 1968 model cars will have a better chance of surviving crashes than those in cars of 1967.

The reason: Uncle Sam has laid down tough new dashboard safety standards for 1968 cars, being purchased for the federal motor pool; but other cars—

the ones sold by auto dealers to U.S. consumers—will be permitted to have harder, more dangerous instrument panels.

Currently, many fatal head and neck injuries occur in crashes when the passenger is hurled into the instrument panel.

Accidents of this type are the

No. 2 cause of highway deaths in the United States.

Developed several years ago by federal aviation researchers was a method to dramatically limit such injuries. It called for constructing the panel of thin steel and covering it with one inch of padding.

Instead of remaining rigid the instrument panel yields and deforms to have harder, more sharply reducing human damage.

CRUCIAL FACTOR

A crucial factor is how quickly the panel will yield.

The General Services Administration

(GSA), which buys cars for the federal government, has pioneered introduction of the deforming dashboards.

Until the Federal Highway

Safety Bureau took over, GSA was the only agency to require

Detroit to start building deforming panels, but on a limited basis.

Most 1967 cars currently have these GSA-required instrument panels. But the performance of the panels is far below what scientists and engineers contend is needed.

For 1968 cars, GSA required that the panels be made to yield more quickly, in less than three milliseconds (one thousandth of a second), GSA

Contracts at Big 3 Run Out in 17 Days

DETROIT (AP) — A long weekend of homework finished company and union negotiators today began 17 days of final examinations at General Motors Ford and Chrysler.

They're faced with finding answers by Sept. 6 of hundreds of problems—not one of which they have been able to resolve finally in more than six weeks of bargaining in Detroit.

Among them, of course, is the United Auto Workers' demand for a guaranteed annual income to replace hourly wages in new contracts.

And still facing negotiators on at the plant local tables literally are thousands of problems still unresolved.

'SLOW MOVEMENT'

Current UAW national wage pacts and at-the-plant working agreements which supplement them at the Big Three work out in just 17 days—Sept. 6.

Negotiations began back on July 10.

In both 1961 and 1964 crippling local strikes erupted in the wake of agreements on national contracts.

The companies and the union have complained of slow movement this year in at-the-plant bargaining.

In attempts to speed up action there, UAW national bargaining teams at General Motors and Ford broke off sessions last Thursday to return home and lend assistance.

TOP-LEVEL EXECS

Ford announced it would keep top-level executives at plant telephones and available to local plant managers for the week end, GM said it expected to take a weekend reading on local-level progress with a hope of untangling major snarls.

Chrysler Corp. called its bargainers to headquarters for discussions. UAW negotiators at Chrysler did the same thing with their local level bargainers earlier this month.

UAW Chrysler chiefs said they were seeking to determine, among other things, what issues at the local level, if any, should be moved to the main table.

Presumably the company was doing the same thing. At Chrysler, negotiators have been working recently under a mutually agreed upon news blackout.

MORE ISSUES

There are 26,888 local-level demands on at-the-plant bargaining tables in the GM empire, compared with 24,180 in 1964 when strikes over unresolved local issues knocked GM out of auto-making for more than five weeks.

Ford reported its local managers were wrestling with 7,500 at the plant demands about twice the number of 1964 when Ford lost two weeks through local strikes after the national agreement had been reached. Ford said it had made some 400 demands itself for changes in at-the-plant working agreements.

There are approximately 250 items in each national contract and the Big Three. Both the companies and the union agree not a single item yet has been initiated to make it binding—and union spokesmen contend meetings of the mind have occurred only on a very few and relatively minor items.

Book by Prof

BIG RAPIDS (UPI) — Dr. Herbert L. Carson, of the school of general education faculty at Ferris State College, has written a speech textbook which has just been published. The book is entitled, "Steps in Successful Speaking."

2 Escape Crash

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — Two men narrowly escaped injury Sunday when a Civil Air Patrol plane crashed and burned at Escanaba Municipal Airport.

The plane, piloted by Paul Kirby, 46, of Marinette, Wis., crashed—landed when its landing gear failed to lock. A passenger on the plane, Eugene Pittman of Menominee, Mich., also escaped uninjured.

Car-Wash Fire Is Investigated

MUSKEGON (UPI) — Local and state fire marshal representatives are investigating a blaze that destroyed the Red Barn car wash Saturday.

Damage was the result of the fire, believed to have been set, was estimated at $100,000.

Death Notices
