LBJ Asks Funds for 3 Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made a three-pronged request to Congress today for urgent action to provide $55,881,000 for a rent subsidy program for the poor, a Teacher Corps and expansion of the Selective Service System.

Johnson said the first two are "vital to our efforts to improve the quality of life in America" and the third is "a direct effort of our commitment to freedom in Southeast Asia.

The funds the President requested will provide extra money for the present fiscal year ending June 30, $30 million for the rent supplement program, $12.2 million for the Teacher Corps and $12,681,000 for handling the added load on the Selective Service System.

The rent subsidy program was approved by the last congressional session but not the funds to finance it.

It is aimed at overcoming some of the shortages in decent, low-cost housing in cities.

SUBSIDIZE RENT

Private enterprise would build and manage such housing and the government would subsidize the rent.

It would, the President said, make up the difference between the rent for modestly designed dwellings and 25 per cent of the occupant's income.

The President said the housing and urban development department already has received proposals to build nearly 70,000 housing units under the program.

★ ★ ★

These involve 424 projects in 43 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

GUIDELINES

The responsible federal officials, Johnson said, have set up these guidelines:

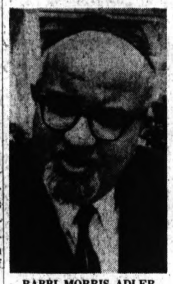
Income limits — A family must have an income level below the limits established for those in public housing projects in the various communities.

Assets limits — These, he said, are well within boundaries usually set in public housing programs.

★ ★ ★

Changes in income — All tenants receiving rent subsidies, except the elderly, must recertify their incomes annually. Supplements will be changed or eliminated on the basis of changes in the incomes.

Housing quality — Housing of modest design and cost will be required: No swimming pools, no more than one bathroom.



RABBI MORRIS ADLER

Condition Still Very Critical, Say Doctors

Accused Assailant in Southfield Shooting Remains Unimproved

DETROIT (AP) — Doctors at Detroit's Sinai Hospital today operated a second time on Rabbi Morris Adler, shot in the head Saturday by a young member of his congregation.

The hospital said it was a decision "of the team of attending doctors and consultants to reoperate on Rabbi Morris Adler to inspect the site of the injury for the possible relief of accumulated pressure."

"His condition remains very critical," the statement ended.

The team is headed by Dr. Harvey Gass, Sinai chief of neurosurgery.

The 59-year-old spiritual leader of 6,000 Detroit-area Jews was operated on Saturday shortly after he was gunned down during services at his synagogue.

His accused assailant, Richard Wishnetsky, 23, remained on the critical list at nearby Providence Hospital where he was taken with a self-inflicted bullet wound.

At Shaarey Zedek synagogue in suburban Southfield, scene of the tragedy Saturday, the 1,000 children of the congregation prayed for the recovery of Rabbi Adler.

And, said Leonard Antel, the school administrator at the synagogue, many words of sympathy were said for Wishnetsky, brilliant honors student and recent psychiatric patient, who shot the rabbi, then himself, during a Sabbath service.

IN MOST CHURCHES

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit said there were prayers in most Catholic churches yesterday for the recovery of Rabbi Adler and his assailant.

Some 125 persons of the Catholic, Congregationalist and Methodist faiths were among the approximately 600 who watched helplessly Saturday as Wishnetsky shot down the rabbi, then turned the 32-caliber pistol on himself.

The Christians had been invited to Saturday's ecumenical service at the synagogue.

One bullet smashed into the left side of the rabbi's head, shattering part of the skull and sending splinters tearing into the brain.

Bus Blasts Kill 54 Vietnamese

Mines Set Off Near Guarded Rice Area

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)— The Viet Cong mined three buses today, killing 54 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 18 in retaliation for an allied operation that is guarding a huge rice harvest.

★ ★ ★

Allied ground forces reported killing 150 Viet Cong in scattered clashes elsewhere in South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, while U.S. planes hammered Communist targets in North and South Viet Nam.

Guerrillas attacked a government outpost in the Mekong River delta, at Dinh Mon, and killed or captured all 11 defenders.

The death-dealing Viet Cong mines were set off on a road 10 miles southwest of Tuy Hoa, on the central coast where the U.S. 101st Airborne, South Korean marines and South Vietnamese troops have been roaming the countryside for several weeks while the rice was being harvested.

★ ★ ★

An American spokesman said the first blast was touched off about 7:30 a.m., catching a bus-load of farmers and killing 27 and wounding 11.

★ ★ ★

About an hour and a half later, the spokesman said, a three-wheel vehicle used as a bus and jammed with passengers drove along the same stretch of road and touched off a second mine. Another 20 Vietnamese were killed and seven wounded.

★ ★ ★

An hour and a half later a second three-wheel bus drove onto the scene and set off a third mine. This time seven persons were reported killed.

MISS OU — Kathleen Longeway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Longeway of 2076 Kennoway, Beverly Hills, wears the new Miss Oakland University crown. She was crowned Saturday at midnight. Kathleen will represent OU in the Miss Michigan Contest to be held in June at Muskegon. (See additional photo, page 2.)

Area Beauty New Miss OU

Sponsored in the contest by the Newman Club, Kathleen dazzled judges with her dramatic presentation of Joan of Arc's soliloquy from George Bernard Shaw's, "St. Joan."

"You know," confided the 19-year-old beauty, "I never saw myself as Miss OU.

"I was so pleased and excited to be a finalist, I just never even thought I'd be chosen.

"When my name was called out as the winner, I couldn't think, I didn't have time."

★ ★ ★

Dramatics have always been a favorite hobby of Kathleen's. A 1964 graduate of Wylie Groves High School, Birmingham, she was active in "Dramaticus," the school's drama club, serving one year as its president.

INITIAL INTEREST

"Groves' teachers Katy Bigge and Georgeann Jordan were responsible for developing my initial interest in drama," said Kathleen.

"And Tom Aston, OU's drama director, helped me a great deal in polishing St. Joan's speech," she added.

Kathleen was awarded an Olivet College dramatic scholarship the summer she graduated from high school.

★ ★ ★

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Longeway of 20706 Kennoway, Beverly Hills, were on hand to see their daughter crowned by the university's first Miss OU, Sharon Snyder of 6765 Woodbank, Bloomfield Township.

SCOOP NECKLINE

Kathleen's gown of silk organza, featured a pale pink floor length skirt and a fitted bodice of white with pale pink beading framing the scoop neckline.

★ ★ ★

An elementary school major, Kathleen hopes to teach the third or fourth grade.

★ ★ ★

"School was the most fun for me at that age," said Kathleen, "And I think it will be fun as a teacher too."

At Milford Proving Grounds

GM Plans to Add Facilities

General Motors Corp. announced plans today to build additional car-testing facilities at its Milford Proving Ground in Milford Township.

The new facilities will be added in the center of the existing complex of buildings on the 4,011-acre test area.

Plans for the testing facilities were announced in the midst of a controversy over how safe U.S.-built autos really are.

Cost of the building program, described as a two-year effort designed to expand GM's safety efforts, was not disclosed.

★ ★ ★

Planned facilities included a safety test engineering building, a tire - testing laboratory and an added paved test area on which maneuvering, handling and emergency situation tests can be performed, the company said.

SAFETY CENTER

James M. Roche, president of the auto industry giant, said the 88,000 - square - foot building would become the coordinating center for all GM vehicle, driver and highway safety efforts.

Pressure has mounted on the auto industry this year from critics, including some in Congress and the federal executive branch, who contend American-made autos should feature added safety equipment.

GM last week announced plans to make collapsible steering columns and dual braking systems standard equipment on 1967 models.

The company said its planned testing area would be unique in the industry, permitting testing of autos at all speeds and making possible better evaluation of controllability of vehicles, especially in critical situations and unfavorable weather.

The new program, Roche said, "will maintain GM vehicle safety testing facilities as second to none in the automotive industry."

Ask $10 Million for Auto Safety

Bill May Be LBJ Drive on Highway Dangers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Authorization for $10 million which would be spent to study auto and highway safety is included in a draft of a bill the Washington Post says may become the President's attack on the automobile safety problem.

A Post article today by Morton Mintz reported that the bill also authorizes $20 million for the year ending in June 1968 to help states establish highway safety programs.

The $10 million would expand federal "highway safety research and development activities . . . to include all aspects of highway safety systems research and development relating to vehicle, highway and driver characteristics, accident investigations, communications, emergency medical care, transportation of the injured, and any other elements of the highway safety problem."

The Post said the 20-page draft, stamped "for official use only," does not request authority for mandatory automobile safety standards or specifically for the construction of prototype safety cars. But both could be accomplished under the proposed legislation.

Two Soviet Writers Given Prison Terms

MOSCOW (AP)—Two Soviet writers were convicted today of anti-Soviet propaganda because of books they published abroad under pen names.

Andrei D. Sinyavsky was sentenced to seven years at hard labor, and Yuli M. Daniel was sentenced to five years of ordinary labor, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

* * *

Prosecutor Oleg Temushkin had recommended the seven and five-year sentences but in addition demanded that Sinyavsky serve five more years in Siberian exile and Daniel three years.

Tass said Judge L. N. Smirnov sentenced both to what was called "a strict regime corrective labor camp."

PENAL CODE

They were sentenced in the Supreme Court at the Russian Federation under an article of the penal code that was originally written for use against internal opponents of Communist power. The article makes no mention of publication abroad.

The case has aroused protests from writers in the West and caused considerable concern in Russian intellectual circles. Throughout the trial young people gathered outside the courtroom in support of the defendants, although they were outnumbered by plainclothes policemen and Communist party youths.

* * *

The defendants were arrested Sept. 13 and their trial began last Thursday. The foreign press was barred, and received only reports from the Soviet press.

The prosecutor called them "slanderers and renegades."

Candace Ill Again as Convict Testifies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Candace Mossler became ill at her first-degree murder trial today while an Arkansas penitentiary convict was testifying that he received a bid in 1962 to kidnap and kill her husband.

The trial of Mrs. Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, was recessed until later today.

* * *

It was the fourth time since the trial began a month ago that Mrs. Mossler had been stricken by nausea and migraine headache. She had returned to court only this morning after a similar attack forced a recess of her trial last Friday.

Testifying at the time Mrs. Mossler became ill was Arthur Grimsley, who said that Powers solicited the kidnaping of Mrs. Mossler's husband and told him: "We don't want him back, we want him killed."

* * *

Grimsley testified that he has been convicted of eight crimes and arrested at least 50 times. He currently is serving a term for burglary and larceny.

Percy Foreman, Powers' defense attorney, suggested in cross-examination that Grimsley's arrest record totaled more than 200 entries. When the convict denied this, Foreman asked:

HOW MANY TIMES?

"Can you tell this jury how many times you have been arrested?"

"I really don't know," Grimsley replied.

* * *

Turning to Grimsley's Bible studies, Foreman asked the witness if he had studied about Ananias, a biblical liar.

When Grimsley replied that he had, Foreman asked:

"Have you modeled your ministry after this individual?"

Grimsley denied this and when asked who Ananias was said: "Well, I can't tell you exactly."

"He was the biggest liar of all times," Foreman declared in the face of a state objection.

ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING

Powers is on trial with Mrs. Mossler for the slaying of millionaire Jacques Mossler in 1964.

Billy Frank Mulvey, 35, serving a thievery sentence in the Texas State Penitentiary, was brought to court earlier in the case. He testified that Mrs. Mossler gave him a $7,000 down payment in 1962 to kill her husband, but that he spent the money and never went through with the deal.

A $32,381 to the association will be for aid to communities throughout the state which request technical assistance in formulating legal services programs under the Anti-Poverty Act.

Area Quieter, People Angrier

Old Rebel Enclave Is Restored in Spirit

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The disquiet and smell of disaster, so familiar at the height of last April's Dominican revolution, pervades the heart of Santo Domingo.

Streets get dirtier and emptier, people seem angrier, shuttered homes even more hostile and quivers of apprehension increase as one drives from the western part of the city toward the downtown sector.

Plumes of dirty gray smoke give off an acrid smell as they rise from burning mounds of garbage uncollected for weeks. Many people are in black — some mourning lost ones, others the occupation of the city by foreign troops.

Gunfire crackles sporadically here and there in the old part of town laid out 470 years ago. Amid the carnival of disorder and hate, authority seems an anachronism.

RESTORED IN SPIRIT

The old rebel enclave has been restored in spirit, if not in actual form. Mounting resistance to the country's military leaders is finding its most eloquent expression in the 20-square block area where for four months last year rebel "constitutionalists" fought for survival of their ideals.

Although the old military checkpoints have disappeared, it is difficult and probably more dangerous to get into the central sector these days. Roving bands of teen-agers throw rocks at almost every passing vehicle.

* *

Snipers fire with apparently less concentration on specific targets and stray bullets are the norm, not the exception.

For this reason, traffic into the center of town is at a minimum. Foreigners, particularly Americans and especially newsmen, are not welcome. However, the Americans are represented right in the middle of it all by a company of 82nd Airborne paratroopers.

"It gets pretty lonely in here, even at noon," said Lt. John Counts, 24, of Denver, Colo.

The Americans are under orders not to fire without specific orders.

* * *

The angry mood downtown is the result of a wave of disorders that began last Wednesday and has taken 17 lives so far. The violence set off a strike, mostly in government offices and the sugar industry. Its chief purpose is to force two more military leaders to obey a presidential order transferring them abroad.

The chief target of the constitutionalists, Armed Forces Minister Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, finally left the country last week. To get him to go, Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy rescinded his order transferring two of the three chiefs of staff.

* * *

Former President Juan Bosch, the leader of the constitutionalists, said the strikers don't want to destroy the military because "without armed forces there can be no country." But he added that most Dominicans "also know that there can be no country if the military does not respect civil authority."

Seeks Nomination in Commission Primary

A 40-year-old real estate sales manager filed petitions today for the District 1 nomination in the March 7 City Commission primary.

William A. Garling of 502 Bloomfield is sales manager for the Marshall Realty Co. of Pontiac.

Garling is making his second bid for public office. In 1958, he was an unsuccessful candidate for the City Commission.

A native of Pontiac, he graduated from Pontiac Senior High School in 1944. He served 30 months with the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II.

* * *

Garling is a charter member of the Neapolitan Club and its immediate past president. He was one of the organizers of the group now known as the Progressive Action Committee for Equality.

SERVED 3 TERMS

Garling served three terms, 1952-55, as a member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. He served on the juvenile committee which established Camp Oakland.

He has three children.

He is a member of the Pontiac Area Urban League, Gibraltar Masonic Lodge and Trinity Baptist Church. He is athletic director of the church.

Daly set examination for Feb. 23 and ordered Rappuhn held on $10,000 bond.

Customer Right? Machines Say No

Some inhabitants of Pontiac's hilltop City Hall are grumbling, but not because of complaints from taxpayers.

The automatic vending machine has taken over the favorite and only spot for a coffee break on the hill.

Nine vending machines and a can opener have replaced two waitresses who formerly ran the small employe cafeteria.

The results:

- One day, coffee drinkers received hot water without coffee.
- Then the dollar changer returned only 95 cents.
- A 65-cent chicken sandwich was sold by a machine for 50 cents.

No complaints, however, have been noted against the cigarette machine.

A SPECTATOR

This device, which coexisted with the former human help, has been a spectator to the switch from girl-type service to machine-type self-service.

He's a mechanical veteran of the preautomation era. He hears the employes whispering behind the backs of his mechanical friends.

A sample of the comments?

- "They (the machines) don't lend money."
- "They don't agree with you that you're overworked."
- "They don't hand out aspirins."
- "They don't smile."

But, secretly, the wise old cigarette machine smiles. He knows.

It will take time. Acceptance comes hard in this business.

Waitresses are softer.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration generally has an excellent record launching spacecraft and making them work. But there's a skelcton in the closet: the hapless Surveyor program whose goal is to soft-land an unmanned vehicle on the moon.

The recent gentle landing of the Soviet Union's Luna 9 on the lunar surface focused attention on Surveyor — a program which a congressional subcommittee recently termed "one of the least orderly and most poorly executed of NASA's projects."

* * *

Had Surveyor done what it started out to do, the first craft would have been on the moon in 1963 and the Soviet Union would not have reaped the propaganda value of achieving this historic feat first while a similar American attempt foundered.

The first Surveyor now is scheduled to rocket toward the moon in May, but chances of a successful soft landing on the initial attempt are not great. Project officials noted the complexity of the mission and the fact the Russians failed at least four times before recording a success.

3 YEARS BEHIND

Not only is the program three years behind schedule, its cost has spiraled out of this world. Originally conceived in 1960 as a $50-million program for seven launchings, the price tag already has reached $350 million and is expected to surpass $725 million by the time the presently planned 10 launchings are completed.

To find out what went wrong, the NASA oversight subcommittee of the House Space Committee recently conducted a probe. The group was headed by Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn.

* * *

The result was a blistering 35-page attack on both government and industry management.

In a nutshell it said: "A project as troublesome as Surveyor demands vigorous centralized management and effective control from the top. From all appearances, these important elements have been largely missing right from the start."

APPEARS READY

The report said program management has been strengthened in recent months, most technical problems seem to be solved and the first Surveyor now appears ready for flight in May.

The Karth subcommittee dealt mainly with the spacecraft. But the program's difficulties also involved the launch vehicle, the Atlas-Centaur rocket.

* * *

In 1960 no U.S. rocket was powerful enough to send the 2,150-pound Surveyor to the moon. So a new stage, the hydrogen-powered Centaur, was developed for use with the Atlas.

High-energy liquid hydrogen was an untried rocket fuel and engineers had trouble taming this frigid fluid which must be kept at 423 degrees below zero, even in flight.

A YEAR LATE

The first test launching was more than a year late. Then the rocket exploded high above Cape Kennedy and 18 months were required to redesign the vehicle.

During this period, congressional and government agency investigations resulted in transfer of Atlas-Centaur management from NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center to the Lewis Research Center. In 1963, the General Accounting Office charged NASA and the rocket's builder, General Dynamics-Astronautics, with bungling which delayed the program two years and cost the taxpayers an unnecessary $100 million.

* * *

Additional problems cropped up, but a fully successful test flight last summer indicated the rocket was ready to boost a Surveyor. Another Atlas-Centaur was erected on a Cape Kennedy launch pad, slated to attempt the feat last October. But Surveyor wasn't ready, and the booster was carted back to a hangar.

* * *

That's when the Karth subcommittee went to work.

LAX MANAGEMENT

Its report blamed the troubles on lax management by NASA headquarters, neglect by NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory which directs the program, and evidence of disappointing performance by Hughes Aircraft Co., which makes the spacecraft.

The subcommittee said the program as originally conceived was overambitious considering the limited knowledge of space flight in 1960.

* * *

Other conclusions of the report:

—Perhaps direction of the program should have been shifted from JPL to another NASA center. During the first three years of the program, JPL concentrated key manpower on the Ranger moon probes and Mariner shots to Venus and Mars and virtually turned Surveyor over to Hughes. The number of JPL personnel on the program during this period ranged from 20 to 100. After an extensive review in 1964, JPL assigned 500 to the project.

* * *

—At the beginning there was insufficient liaison between NASA headquarters and Hughes. NASA later was displeased with Hughes management and asked a reorganization after the 1964 review. Hughes complied only partially with the recommendation.

* * *

—Not enough preliminary study was done before Hughes began building the spacecraft. This led to several major modifications and program reorientations throughout the "stormy 4½ year history" of the program as technical difficulties were encountered.

—Major spacecraft problems involved heat protection, vibrations, the retro-rocket system, a radar device to sense altitude above the moon and small vernier engines designed to guide the craft to a touchdown on the moon.

—The test program was "too austere." This has been corrected and recent drop tests of the vehicle from an airplane were successful.

ORIGINAL PLANS

Originally the first four Surveyors were to be engineering models, carrying only television cameras and basic instruments to test the bearing strength of the lunar surface. The last six were to be more sophisticated and would pack equipment to dig up and analyze samples of the terrain.

In December it was decided to make the first seven craft engineering models.

Officials said this was done in order to concentrate the effort in developing a vehicle that could be soft-landed on the moon, because lunar bearing surface information must be obtained by the end of 1967 to support the Apollo manned lunar landing program. The data is essential for building suitable Apollo landing gear and to help select a touchdown spot.

The space agency said it would not be possible to develop all seven of the spacecraft for launching by the end of 1967 unless all were the basic model.

The officials said the mission is extremely difficult and seven identical shots with the simpler vehicle would enhance chances that at least one will succeed.

4 Are Killed on Freeways

Weekend Death Toll Across State Is 14

By The Associated Press

Two cars, in separate mishaps one day and 30 miles apart, sailed off Michigan freeways during the weekend, killing four persons and helping boost the state's weekend traffic death count to 14.

The Associated Press tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

A young couple from Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James Stopa, both 26, died Sunday when their auto flew off I-94 near Brighton and rolled over. Both victims were thrown from the car.

That same day, two Detroiters died in a hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night in a similar smashup.

ON JOHN LODGE

The victims, Thomas H. Harper, 44, and Thomas Jones, 15, were fatally injured when a car driven by Harper smashed into a utility pole beside the John Lodge Freeway in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Also killed:

John Driscoll, 17, Saginaw, when his car hit trees and a utility pole in Saginaw Sunday.

Robert Pawloski, 22, Harbor Beach, early Sunday when his car left a rural road near Port Austin in the Michigan thumb and rolled over six times.

UTICA RESIDENT

John Schultz, 53, Utica, two-car crash in Macomb Township, near Mount Clemens, Saturday.

Robert Lee Yale, 25, Chicago, struck by car in Hermansville, Menominee County, Sunday.

Lesley Rogers, 40, Manchester, when his car left a road near Napoleon in Jackson County and struck a tree Saturday.

Walter Shafer, 77, Berrien Springs, struck by a car Saturday while crossing a street in Berrien Springs.

DETROIT MAN

Jack C. Baker, 59, Detroit, when his car struck a utility pole near a Detroit intersection Saturday.

Mrs. Ann Bousley, 40, Ann Arbor, two-car, head-on crash on I-94 near Ypsilanti Saturday.

TO REMEMBER THEM BY — Surely each woman holds in her heart the memory of at least one valentine that is special. Mrs. Jack Tocco (at right), has two, while Mrs. Dora Wood (left) has more than 2,000. Mrs. Tocco, 5026 Carroll Lake, holds in her lap the large card given to her mother by her father, Louis Naneville, 63 years ago today. The smaller one, given to an uncle when he was a boy, is 60 years old. Mrs. Wood, a third grade teacher at Decker Elementary School in Walled Lake, has saved every valentine given her by pupils since she began her career in 1925. Her collection, which also includes cards dating back to 1911, is on display at the school. The valentines, she said, "were just too pretty to throw away."

Avon Chief Still Seeking Crossing Light

AVON TOWNSHIP — There is going to be a traffic light at the intersection of Rochester and Tienken roads if Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller has his way.

★ ★ ★

The Township Board was informed by the State Highway Department last month that traffic conditions there do not warrant a light, but Miller feels they do.

He admits that a light there now might create a bottleneck for motorists entering Rochester Road from Orion Road just a few yards north of Tienken. This problem can be eliminated, he feels, by relocating Orion further to the north.

He will discuss his plan with representatives of the Highway Department and the Oakland County Road Commission at a meeting scheduled for sometime this week.

★ ★ ★

He says a light is "definitely needed" at the corner, particularly when the Holley Computer and Parke-Davis plants are letting out.

TABLED REQUEST

At its last meeting, the Township Board tabled a request for a gas station at the corner of Tienken and Rochester.

★ ★ ★

The request was approved by the Oakland County Coordinating Committee but denied by the planning commission and the zoning board.

Miller said the board wants to study the request.

Slate Special PTA Program

All local Avondale PTA units will meet with the PTA Council for a special program at 8 p.m. Thursday at Avondale High School.

Guest speaker will be Dr. D.L. McKinney, principal of the Wayne County Youth Home and the D. J. Healy School.

★ ★ ★

Special recognition will also be given to teachers who have worked in the Avondale system.

'Annie Get Your Gun'

Avon Players Plan Gala 'First Night'

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avon Players are planning a gala evening for opening night of their performance of "Annie Get Your Gun" on March 16.

★ ★ ★

Festivities will begin with cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and dinner at two local restaurants, followed by bus transportation to the Playhouse, an "afterglow" on the stage following the performance, and transportation back to the restaurants for after-theater dancing.

All will be included in one ticket price, proceeds of which will go into the building fund of the new Rochester Unit of Crittenton General Hospital, now under construction on Walton Boulevard.

The evening's entertainment is intended to honor all those individuals who have contributed efforts to making the hospital a reality.

★ ★ ★

Singled out for honors will be the original group of Rochester residents who first planned a hospital in Rochester, as well as the staff, directors and executive committee of the hospital.

CO-CHAIRMEN

Co-chairmen of the evening are Daniel S. Holefca and John J. Cochran.

Volunteer ticket chairmen will be busy in communities throughout the area providing tickets and coordinating tables for the dinner party.

Seating arrangements for dinner will provide for a maximum of eight persons to a table. This is to make it possible for neighborhood groups, employes from large industries and other groups to sit together.

★ ★ ★

Party arrangers who have not completed their plans may indicate their desire to sit with a specific group, or they may leave seating arrangements to the committee.

TICKET REFUNDS

Refunds will be made on tickets until March 1, after which time all reservations will be final.

Additional information on the ticket price or dinner reservations may be obtained by calling or writing the Crittenton General Hospital, Rochester Unit, P. O. Box 84, Rochester.

There is a limited supply of tickets and those interested in attending are urged to order tickets now.

★ ★ ★

Dress is optional but formal evening will probably be predominant, according to party arrangers.

STAR IN SHOW

Starring in "Annie Get Your Gun," the Avon Players second production in their new Playhouse, will be television star Jerry Booth and Sherrie Elliott of Royal Oak, recreating the role of "Annie," which she previously played in a Berkley High School production.

The show, which will have a 10-day run, March 16-20 and 22-26, has a cast of about 50 persons. A 10-piece orchestra will supply music.

The play is directed by Jarvis Lamb. Producer is Mrs. Edward Ramsay; choreographer, Mrs. Earl Montross; and vocal direction is by Mrs. George Ross.

★ ★ ★

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m., except the March 20 2:30 p.m. matinee.

Debate Slated on 14B Repeal

FARMINGTON — Repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act will be the subject of a debate to be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Francis Council Hall, 21900 Middle Belt.

★ ★ ★

Speaking in favor of repeal will be Rev. Edward A. Keller, professor of economics at Notre Dame University. Father Keller is nationally known as an outspoken advocate of right-to-work legislation.

The education department of the AFL-CIO will provide a speaker of equal stature to urge repeal of this controversial provision.

Vacant House Hit by Fire in Brandon

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — An unoccupied house at 4129 Poll burned to the ground yesterday despite the efforts of volunteer firemen from the township.

★ ★ ★

The home, owned by Emil Dimitrie of Warren, was discovered in flames about 5 p.m. by a neighbor, Hiram C. Minard of 4029 Poll.

Poll told Oakland County sheriff's deputies the blaze was well started by the time he saw it and called the Township Fire Department.

Past Presidents to Talk to Proper School PTA

LAKE ORION — Past presidents of the Proper School PTA will speak at the Founder's Day meeting at 8 this evening.

The "Little Theater" consisting of fourth, fifth and sixth graders will present a play for the members.

History Group Plans Meeting

TROY — A meeting of residents interested in forming an historical society will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the city hall.

The meeting is being arranged by the newly organized Historical Committee to give interested citizens an opportunity to help in recording the history of the city and to help make plans to preserve and mark historical sites.

★ ★ ★

Morris Wattles, chairman of the Historical Committee, has asked that residents bring to the meeting any information they may have about the history of Troy.

For National Contest

Boys' Club Names Finalist

Auburn Heights Boys' Club member Charles Devereaux has been selected as a finalist in the Boys' Clubs of America's 20th annual "Boy of the Year" contest.

★ ★ ★

Sixteen-year-old Charles will compete with nominees chosen by 675 Boys' Clubs throughout the country for $3,200 in scholarships awarded by the Reader's Digest Foundation.

He is now eligible to win either national, regional or sectional honors. The national "Boy of the Year" will receive $1,000 in scholarship aid; each of seven regional winners will receive $200; and each of eight sectional winners $100.

Charles was chosen to represent his club on the basis of the amount and quality of his service to home, school, church, community and Boys' Club.

CHARLES DEVEREAUX

If he is named national "Boy of the Year," he will receive, in addition to the $1,000 scholarship, a trip to Washington, D.C., and New York, where he will take part in newspaper, radio and television interviews.

TRADITIONAL CEREMONY

In recent years, it has become traditional for the President to "install" each new "Boy of the Year" in ceremonies at the White House.

Among other events, he will be guest of honor at the 60th annual convention of the Boys' Clubs of America to be held in New York in May.

★ ★ ★

Winners will be announced during National Boys' Club Week, March 27 to April 2.

Shotgun, $55 Cash Reported Stolen

ORION TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Norma Metz of 939 Hemingway reported to Oakland County sheriff's deputies yesterday the theft of $55 in cash and a $300 shotgun from her home.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Metz said she left her home Saturday night and returned early yesterday to find the front door of the house standing open.

★ ★ ★

The money was taken from a purse in the home and the shotgun from a room on the first floor.

More than 10,000 Americans across the country are probably alive today because of a tiny device that has been implanted in their bodies, an electronic pacemaker which generates impulses that replace nature's organic heart pacemaker.

Firm Planning Fight Over Gravel Rights

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP — Cooper Supply Co. of Detroit is apparently going to carry through with its threat to "go to court if necessary" to obtain gravel mining rights in Oakland Township.

John Cannon, attorney for the Texas Industries subsidiary, said he plans to file a complaint in Oakland County Circuit Court this week against the township.

He said the Township Board's recent decision not to rezone part of the township for gravel mining is depriving his client of "the right to use the property in the manner to which we feel it is best-suited."

The zoning ordinance as it presently exists, he claims, is "arbitrary and unreasonable as it applies to the property we want."

★ ★ ★

He plans to enjoin the enforcement of the ordinance against Cooper Supply. He says it is "unreasonable restriction of the use of the property" and "unconstitutional because it deprives Cooper of the property without due process of law."

REQUEST DENIED

The Township Board last week denied a request from Cooper Supply to rezone the northeast sector of the township at Inwood and Hixon to allow gravel mining.

Listed among the reasons for turning down the request were that gravel mining would be a detriment to neighboring property and would constitute spot zoning, that it would destroy the topography of the area and adversely affect the natural drainage system, that township roads are not built to carry heavy gravel trucks and that the trucks would be a hazard to children.

Cooper Supply contended that there would be no truck traffic through the township and that after 10 or 15 years the land would be completely restored.

★ ★ ★

The board noted that it is impossible to predict accurately what will take place that far in the future.

ANGERED BY REQUEST

Township residents, angered by the rezoning request, formed a group known as the Citizens for Oakland Township to fight the rezoning.

A spokesman for the group said last week that members of the organization felt the Township Board's decision was a fair one.

The group had threatened earlier to go to court if necessary to bar the gravel mining operation.

★ ★ ★

Township Supervisor Frank Voll said today that he had expected Cooper to take the matter to court.

He said the Township Board will have to wait until the court makes a decision, "but if it goes against us I am certain we will appeal."

Hand of Mate Sent to Wife

Estranged Husband Is Found Near Death

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The package was soaked with blood. Inside was a human hand and a note that read: "This is the hand that caused the trouble."

Dr. Margaret Ansari stared at the package's grisly contents yesterday and called police who found her estranged husband, an Indian neurosurgeon at Barnes Hospital, near death on the bathroom floor of his home.

The couple had been married for five years but for the past two months had been separated.

Police said Dr. Kjurshed Ansari, 30, apparently had used a hacksaw to cut off his right hand and had then sent his hand to his estranged wife, an American.

Hospital authorities said today Ansari remained in critical condition but was improving.

WITH FRIEND

Mrs. Ansari was staying with a friend.

Yesterday, a cabdriver knocked on the door and left a package, from which blood was trickling, with the friend, who opened the parcel and gave it to Mrs. Ansari.

Police said they found four notes in Dr. Ansari's home. They were addressed to the city coroner; to whom it may concern; Nazir Ansari, the doctor's brother; and William Cox, an associate of Ansari at Barnes Hospital.

Police did not reveal the contents of the notes.

Student Trainees at Area Restaurant

Too Many Cooks Don't Spoil the Broth

Extra help, although inexperienced, has fortified operations at the Skyroom Restaurant at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

* * *

The newcomers — 15 students from Waterford Township and Waterford Kettering high schools — began training last week with the start of second semester classes.

Mostly juniors, they have their hearts set on culinary careers.

Upon completion of the two-year program, most can be expected to seek employment in local restaurants, according to Dr. Burton K. Thorn, director of vocational education of Waterford Township Schools.

* * *

But some, he predicted, will further their education, enrolling in outstanding courses as offered by Oakland Community College and Michigan State University.

MORE PROMISING

Employment in the restaurant field is more promising than many believe.

Products of Detroit Chadsey High School's model three-year program "are in high demand," noted Thorn.

They go directly into hotels and better restaurants as chefs, assistant managers and dining room supervisors, starting off at salaries ranging from $100 to $150 a week.

* * *

Mrs. Charlotte Korte, a one-time teacher at Chadsey, is manager of the Skyroom and also instructs students.

The students work in two three-hour shifts at the restaurant, 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Besides learning the fundamentals of cooking, they receive dining room training.

In fact, much emphasis is placed on the customer. The restaurant is planning a workshop on "How to Put the Customer First."

Should Draft 'Minor Criminals,' Says Selective Service Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, says "minor criminals" should be drafted as part of the push to satisfy Viet Nam manpower needs.

Hershey said yesterday local draft boards have been ordered to reexamine men rejected on a moral basis in conjunction with the over-all lowering of mental and physical standards for military service.

According to Hershey, there have been incidents of "young men committing crimes to escape the draft. I feel the armed forces should take some of these minor criminals."

The downward revision of draft standards was made to facilitate induction of 360,000 men in the current fiscal year, and another 160,000 in fiscal 1966-67 which opens July 1, 1966.

Defense Department figures show that more than 200,000 men have already been added to the service in the buildup.

AUTHORIZED STRENGTH

With the additional 150,000 or more to be called before July 1, authorized troops strength in the fall would be 3,093,000, 453,000 more than planned a year ago.

In a related development, a House Education subcommittee scheduled Wednesday hearings on the impact of drafting college students on the reservoir of trained professional manpower for civilian programs.

Hershey has said that college students in the lower ranks of their class would lose their deferments and be subject to the draft. This prompted the committee hearings.

* * *

Hershey also said yesterday he has had "several phone calls" on the subject of deferments or rejection of those who have been involved in minor crimes.

Griffin Opens Bid for Senate Nomination

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Rep. Robert P. Griffin, claiming support of at least half the state Republican leadership, has opened his bid for the GOP Senate nomination.

* * *

Griffin, nine-year veteran in Congress, said he was confident he would get the GOP nomination for the seat now held by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

* * *

The 42-year-old Traverse City attorney said he did not expect to "ride on the governor's coattails" if nominated. However, he admitted it would be an advantage to be on the same ticket with Gov. George Romney and Lt. Gov. William Milliken.

Griffin spoke at a Lincoln Day dinner in Ionia Saturday night.

* * *

Griffin said he decided to run for the Senate, giving up a safe congressional seat, because of "a growing concern among the American people that the two-party system is too weak for the good of the country."

Legalized Lotteries Gaining Throughout United States

Las Vegas lives off gambling.

New Hampshire legalized lotteries. Many states approve horse racing and the easy taxes therefrom. Now New York State will probably make lotteries official and provide $400 million a year for education. In Maryland, this will be a major issue in the gubernatorial race.

★ ★ ★

Objections to gambling are well-known. In a legalized lottery, those who don't believe don't have to pay a cent. The whole cost rests on the participants and yet everyone shares in the money that accrues.

★ ★ ★

Some gambling attracts undesirable elements, but the lottery is largely bookkeeping. A New York legislator has had a national lottery bill ready, but it remains bottled up for fear of violent opposition. If the proceeds of a national lottery reduced the national debt, the move might claim a wide circle of adherents.

It may become a red-hot issue. What do YOU think?

Reaching a New Low . .

One of the most despicable occupations in this hysterical era is the theft of children's pets for quick sale to laboratories for scientific research.

It isn't new or tiny.
It's a big time deal.

★ ★ ★

There are gangs that definitely earn a living through the theft of puppies and other dogs. The labs used 2,250,000 dogs and cats last year. "At least half are family pets," says Pageant Magazine, "and documented cruelty precedes sale to the yawning maws that await them." A half-ton pickup truck in Missouri was jammed with 99 dogs, 19 of which were injured to the point they were destroyed right there by Humane Society agents.

★ ★ ★

Some are sold as pets.
But labs get the bulk.
And they're stolen from children.

Cost of Public Interest? . . .

Professional athletics may have reached the zenith of financial largesse.

★ ★ ★

NBC is through paying exhorbitant fees for TV rights. Carl Lindermann, VP in charge of sports, declares they're hooked with specific commitments but they're looking elsewhere for the future. The stupendous charges far outweigh public interest.

★ ★ ★

Some of the money paid untried college football players bordered on the realms of mild insanity. (O.K. I take out the "mild.") The current Lions flareup, stems back to the idiocy of a few pro moguls. HUARTE, Notre Dame, was one of the boys in the astronomical bonus division and he couldn't even make the team.

★ ★ ★

If the National Football League ever gets bright enough to wave an olive branch in the direction of the American League and works out a mutual draft, the situation will return to normalcy. Otherwise, it will bankrupt some of the clubs or place them in the doldrums, saddled permanently with the weakest squads in the two leagues and a future of dismal financial failure.

Speeding Talk . . . .

Speed-talk is the latest.

★ ★ ★

Any verbal announcement is fed into a machine that compresses each word into half the time and an electric device removes distortions. Then the listener will sit with jaws ajar as the same remarks are delivered twice as rapidly. This compressed voice is very commanding and demands attention.

★ ★ ★

Most of the people that tell me off, talk too rapidly and with too great assurance as it is.

Can this process be reversed?

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Watch for this: LBJ wants the post offices open a trifle longer in the evening . . . . . There's a chestnut street vendor in New York that has this waggish sign on his little wagon: "Eat now. Pay Now." . . . . . Overheard: "A recent wedding in Rochester lasted three days. That's longer than some of TOMMY MANVILLE'S marriages." . . . . . Chicago schools want a $75 million bond issue, just for buildings.

★ ★ ★

Trusted Scouts advise me Linda Morse deserves mention as one of our attractive young ladies. . . . . If the room temperature sinks to 67, why is it the little woman thinks it will warm up faster if she pushes the thermostat to 88? . . . . . The other day we ran a list of TV programs that had been frowned upon for children. Several protests were phoned in but they rarely agreed on the shows that were "right." . . . . . Overheard (in Cuba): "There's nothing like a fine cigar after no dinner."

The A. C. NIELSEN TV standings only phone 1,100 homes for their official ratings. . . . . Sporty looking automobiles are receiving increasing customer acceptance from the public. The "teenage" demand is reaching into the older brackets. . . . . Overheard: "Substandard homes are those without color TV." . . . . . 'Call The U.N.!'

David Lawrence Says:

Viet War Could End Suddenly

WASHINGTON — Nobody can predict just when the Viet Nam war will end, but it could happen suddenly.

An unexpected break has often come in the past.

LAWRENCE

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, one of the advisers on Viet Nam who accompanied President Johnson to Honolulu, makes this very point in a copyrighted interview published this week by "U. S. News & World Report." He said:

"I can remember how quickly situations have changed in the past. Take the Berlin airlift — how quickly it stopped once the other side made its decision. And we had no intimation that it was going to end, or very little.

"The opening of negotiations in Korea came very quickly, although the negotiations thereafter dragged interminably.

"So we're never quite sure. When you're in action against an enemy and you're hitting each other day by day, the only thing you know is that, if you keep hitting him long enough, some day he'll give way. And I hope we're approaching that day."

IN COMMAND

Gen. Taylor was commander of our forces in Berlin during the latter part of the blockade crisis there. He later was U. N. commander in Korea and then became chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1962. He served last year as American ambassador to Viet Nam.

He is very knowledgeable on the whole Viet Nam problem, and believes that steady, unrelenting pressure is more significant in its effect than some single action or dramatic maneuver.

But even a policy intended to be resolute can fail to convince the enemy that it's time to quit.

If, for instance, the highbrow debates by professorial witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee continue to belittle our strategy and, to give an impression of irresoluteness or weakness, the enemy will be encouraged to stick it out.

HIGHER PRICE

Only when the North Viet Nam government makes up its mind that the punishment being inflicted on it daily is not to be relaxed — and, instead, that the price is going to be higher in lives and damage to property— will there come a sudden decision to be realistic and arrange a cease-fire.

Gen. Taylor explained America's military position as follows:

"We're trying to create a situation which, in the eyes of the leaders in Hanoi, will be more disadvantageous than what would arise if they give up their aggression. So we have indicated there can be compensations, in terms of economic aid, participation in the development of Southeast Asia, and other advantages.

"One would hope that this will be the 'silver bridge,' which is always open to them, to withdraw from their situation."

4-POINT STRATEGY

Gen. Taylor, in his interview, outlined the four-point strategy which the United States is pursuing in Viet Nam—the use of ground warfare, the effective employment of air power, the advancement of non-military activities and the continuance of the effort through diplomacy to find "an honorable, peaceful solution at the negotiation table."

He said the four components together make up what he calls "the American strategy in South Viet Nam."

He called it a "package" and remarked that one component can't be separated from the other.

The general stressed also one of the significant steps that has been taken by the United States in sending 1,200 American civilians to Viet Nam to help in the development of a program in agriculture, health, education and economic expansion.

WILL CONTINUE

This form of help will continue even after the war ends. The objective is to hold free elections, unite the North and South Vietnamese and bring a better life to all the people in this hitherto underdeveloped area.

★ ★ ★

The policy of the United States indeed envisions Viet Nam as an example of how substantial progress can be made by a small country when given guidance and direct aid by the nations of the free world.

Bob Considine Says:

'Friendless' Billy Rose Had One Key Contact

NEW YORK — Toots Shor, who is essentially a kind man, said the unkindest thing about Billy Rose. But he said it without malice about the incredible little showman who died the other day.

CONSIDINE

I once told Toots that I had heard a report that a mob was going to kidnap Billy.

Toots made gruff noises that indicated he didn't believe the report.

I assured him that it had come from a highly respectable hoodlum.

★ ★ ★

But still he wouldn't believe it, even though Billy was the perfect kidnap case: very rich, and easy to pick up and run with in case the bulls swooped down on the scene at the time of the snatch.

SHOOK HIS HEAD

Toots shook his head and all of his jowls.

I asked him what was wrong with the report that Billy would be kidnapped.

"Who would they contact?" Toots asked, spreading his hands.

★ ★ ★

Billy heard the story in time, was at first angry at the suggestion that he had no friends, but finally got around to laughing about it — with the same laugh he used during tirades directed against him as he wended his way to his broker's place to buy another ton of AT&T stock.

WITH SOME HEAT

"I'll tell you who they could contact," Billy said to me with some heat, the last time I talked to him and heard him relate Toots' story to my surprise. "They could contact Bernard Baruch."

He spoke of his close friend and adviser, a giant in his time. But now they are dead, Bernie and Billy, his protege.

And as one who knew both of them, and wrote a lot about them, my grazing ground is diminished.

★ ★ ★

And I am poorer, though you'd hardly know it with the brave front I'm putting up.

Where are the mothers who are satisfied with a used refrigerator, or can save half a week's pay by darning a sock, altering growing children's clothing, cutting a head of hair or fussing over a special pot of stew? Where are the mothers who really stretch dad's inadequate paycheck and make him feel proud and needed?

Why are they spending taxpayers' money and time when they could be assisting the war?

The new bond issue is upon us again in Waterford Township. Why don't we protect what we already have in our community before we put out more money for something else for children to destroy? The money that has been paid for repair of destruction by children would pay next year's taxes for a lot of people.

★ ★ ★

Why don't taxpayers pitch in and see what kind of policing is necessary to stop this vandalism? If more parents knew where their children were at night and cared about what they were doing, this would be a beginning to at least cutting down the destruction.

Government Controlled

The Harlingten (Tex.) Star

In view of the way the federal government is taking over control of the federally subsidized public school system, any indication that the government is moving into the newspaper field via the subsidy route is disquieting. That which the government subsidizes, the government will control. The Supreme Court has laid down that ultimatum.

★ ★ ★

According to the Chronicle-Herald of Hoopeston, Illinois, the federal government has used $188,000 of the taxpayers' money to set up a subsidized newspaper in Willow Run, Michigan, which, in the subsidized newspapers' own words, was to provide "honest and true reporting the government feels of interest." That was bad enough. But now, the federal government is considering another $150,000 in tax funds to launch a newspaper which will be owned and operated by a quasi governmental agency . . . a community action group. We quote:

★ ★ ★

"The press is threatened by a request for a $150,000 federal grant to launch a weekly newspaper here, Rep. Donald Runsfeld, (R-Ill.) says.

"He denounced a proposal now under consideration by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) for the demonstration grant to a Washington community action group to start the paper. The eight-page, 5-cent tabloid would serve residents of a poverty area.

★ ★ ★

"Approval of the request would put the government directly into the business of propagandizing, in competition with privately owned newspapers.

"This would amount to a violation of the constitutional guarantee of a free press. The next step could be for the government to tell the newspaper what it can and cannot say in print. Just how far has the federal government gone in a process which could ultimately result in official Pravdas and Izvestias in the United States."

All Ways Help

Negro athletes have contributed a lot to improving the situation of all Negroes. This has been particularly true in prize fighting, from Joe Louis to Floyd Patterson. But lately, what a change!

Sonny Liston, despite some really decent impulses — his association with groups working with Negro orphanages, for instance — was a sorry champion. Cassius Clay has outraged and embarrassed Negroes and whites alike.

It's good to read, therefore, that Clay has hired Louis to advise him. We hope Louis won't limit his advice to ring conduct.

He's quite wise in other ways. Once he was asked about his contribution to the civil rights movement. He said, "Some people do it by shouting, some march, some talk, some give lots of money, I do it my way, behaving. All ways help."

Viet War Affects Nations in Asia Area

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Although not generally realized by Americans, the war in Southeast Asia involves more than Viet Nam. Other nations in the area are involved in a variety of ways. The following dispatch by a UPI diplomatic reporter examines this aspect of the conflict and what the future may hold.)

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Like lava from a live volcano, the fury of the war in Viet Nam has been spilling over into neighboring nations ever since it erupted.

As the conflict has widened, so has the involvement of Laos, Cambodia and Thailand. And the end is not in sight.

The role of these countries seldom has been publicly discussed because of diplomatic secrecy and Asian political sensibilities.

However, director David E. Bell of the Agency for International Development recently said for the record that North Viet Nam Communists have given "clear and open notice" they are ready to wage wars of liberation in Laos and Thailand.

★ ★ ★

"It already has started in Thailand," he said.

ITEM—Laos is the main infiltration route from North to South Viet Nam. Without publicity, its "Ho Chi Minh Trail" has been massively bombed by U.S. planes. But the infiltration continues and how to deal with it is a growing problem.

ITEM — Cambodia provides secondary infiltration channels. It seems to have made the political assessment that the Viet Cong will win and that Red China, not the United States, will dominate Asia.

ITEM — Thailand has made the opposite bet. It has become a major base for U.S. military operations in the area, and is itself a target of Communist guerrillas.

Here is the situation country-by-country:

LAOS

In many ways the centerpiece is Laos. It has its own low-key war—a skirmishing between Communist Pathet Lao forces and the Laotian government. The Communists are aided by some 10,000 North Vietnamese troops.

In June 1961, President John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev agreed in Vienna to leave Laos out of the cold war. Accords were signed in Geneva in July 1962, requiring removal of all foreign forces. U.S. military personnel left Laos, but the North Vietnamese never did.

The Communists have never made a major try to gobble up all of Laos. They hold its eastern and economically undesirable half. But this provides the corridor to South Viet Nam.

It is assumed that the main Communist military objective in Laos has simply been to keep the supply route open.

★ ★ ★

Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma is a dedicated neutralist who wants to stay out of a big war. He has said: "When the elephants fight, the grass is trampled."

INCREASINGLY OUTSPOKEN

For a neutral, however, he has become increasingly outspoken against Hanoi's aid to the Pathet Lao and use of Laos as a corridor. Though it must have come hard, he asked for U.S. assistance in the form of military equipment and aerial reconnaissance.

He apparently acquiesced in U.S. bombing of Laos supply routes on condition it not be made public.

These flights, plus the Laotian air force's own missions using converted training planes, have pulverized the visible parts of the Ho Chi Minh Trail —the junctions and bridges.

But the infiltration goes on through the jungle by night, largely immune from bombing.

GROUND TROOPS

Recently Moscow and Peking radios have accused the United States of planning to put ground troops across the narrow panhandle of Laos to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

There is no doubt U.S. strategists have thought of this. But Souvanna has not wanted U.S. troops. On purely military grounds the idea is open to debate.

Large forces would be needed. The possibility of massively expanded North Vietnamese invasion of Laos would have to be weighed.

★ ★ ★

When U.S. Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman stopped in Vientiane to see Souvanna last Jan. 13 during the peace initiative, a communique was issued, the main paragraph of which said:

"Contrary to the speculations to which certain sectors of the press have attached considerable importance, Mr. Harriman pointed out that 'the United States has no intention of sending troops to Laos in order to use that country as a base for attacking North Viet Nam.' "

CAMBODIA

Cambodia is at odds with most of its neighbors. It and Thailand have accused each other recently of border "invasions." Cambodia has a running border dispute with South Viet Nam.

It broke relations with the United States in a huff last May.

Its leader, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has publicly explained his philosophy thus: "If we continue to quarrel with the Americans, we will continue to enjoy security. China told us frankly that if we change our attitude toward the Americans, China will change its attitude toward us."

The United States is convinced that some of the infiltration southward through Laos continues into Cambodia and then enters South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Some prisoners captured in South Viet Nam said they took this route. Allied Forces say the Viet Cong have used the Cambodian Border as a refuge from pursuit.

SMUGGLING

Washington believes that supplies entering Cambodia by sea have found their way to the Viet Cong.

Long before there was a Viet Nam war, there was major smuggling in this area.

Sihanouk's response is to flatly deny it all. He said recently: "There have been absolutely no Viet Cong and Viet Minh in Cambodia."

He has offered, to back up his statement, to have the four-man international control commission, which has never been effective in Southeast Asia, expanded to inspect Cambodia.

THAILAND

Thailand has involved itself with the American military effort more extensively than any Asian nation cares to admit.

President Kennedy sent 5,000 U.S. troops to Thailand in May 1962, when a Laotian Communist offensive moved to the Thai border. They were withdrawn the following July.

But the maneuver revealed logistic problems which promoted a major U.S. building program in Thailand in case it should have to be repeated.

Roads have been built, harbor facilities and airfields improved.

★ ★ ★

Now there are said to be 13,000 U. S. servicemen in Thailand. It has been reported — though never officially — that U. S. bombing missions over North Viet Nam started from Thai airfields.

ASSISTANCE

The Thais also give assistance in Laos, which neither they nor the Laos discuss.

Northeast Thailand has been the scene of what looks like the same kind of beginning Communist movement that Viet Nam had in the 1950s.

A local "independent movement" and "patriotic front" have been formed. Incidents of terrorism have increased.

Last December Thai military forces began a police action in the area. They have captured some Laotians and Vietnamese Communists in the process.

Blast, Fire Hit Jet's Engine on Landing

DALLAS (UPI) — An explosion and fire ripped the No. 1 engine on a Braniff International 720 jetliner with 121 passengers aboard as it touched down at Dallas Love Field last night.

★ ★ ★

No injuries were reported and the passengers were transferred to another jet for the trip to Houston.

★ ★ ★

The fire was quickly put out by Capt. Lay T. Dutcher, the pilot, who turned on the plane's automatic extinguisher.

★ ★ ★

The four-engine jet was Flight 464 from Denver.

Valentines Are for Real and Cupid Scores a Hit

MRS. KENNETH B. VALENTINE

KATHLEEN VALENTINE

ROSEANN AND CATHERINE VALENTINE

By MADELEINE DOEREN

Today has a special significance for some 20 families in the Pontiac area with the name of Valentine!

Historians are somewhat vague about the early observance of Valentine's Day except for the fact that it falls on the feast of two different Christian martyrs named Valentine.

Three hundred years ago on St. Valentine's Day in England, young ladies behaved in a most peculiar manner. And with good reason.

★ ★ ★

Their strange conduct was based on an old superstition: that the first man seen by an unmarried girl on the holiday was destined to be her spouse.

Some girls took odd precautions to ensure their seeing the 'right' man first. Some stayed home all day to await his arrival. Others were said to have kept their eyes closed for interminable lengths of time.

★ ★ ★

When the gentleman did appear, he usually brought a gift, perhaps a heart-shaped box of porcelain, enamel or gold, perhaps with a message inside.

It is from these tokens and missives that our present-day valentines and the custom of gift-giving on February 14 are derived.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kenneth B. Valentine of Phelan Street, in Deer Lake Estates will undoubtedly pursue Valentine genealogy further, for she is the subject of one of our thumbnail sketches today.

She is an alumna of Butler University, Indianapolis, and earned her master's degree at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania.

★ ★ ★

Her affiliations include Clarkston Women's Club, Clarkston Village Players, Waterford Book Review Group and 15 years with the Waterford Great Books Group.

This came about through an advertisement in The Pontiac Press.

Her avocations include bird-watching (she has logged 83 birds to date in the Deer Lake area); gardening, bridge and pinochle. A well rounded Valentine we would think!

Q: I am in my early 20s and plan to go to Europe this spring. I have never traveled before, at least not any distance, and am completely at a loss as to how to go about making arrangements for this trip. Can you offer any helpful advice?

A: The best and simplest thing for you to do is to go to a travel bureau. Tell them just where you want to go and when and how — in fact, give all the details you can, and let them work out the best possible plan for you.

This is their business, and they can do it not only better but much more economically than you can and at no extra cost to you, as they get their commission from the transportation company or hotel.

WOMEN

Q: When writing to a business organization composed of women, what is the proper salutation to use? "Mesdames" doesn't seem right but neither does "Dear Sirs" and certainly "Dear Ladies" isn't correct. Is there an acceptable salutation?

A: Whe writing to a firm or organization composed of women, the correct salutation is, "Dear Madams."

Are Facts Accurate?

Why the Curiosity?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently, someone I know very well (I'll call her Vera), made a 6,000-mile round trip in order to be with her daughter when she gave birth to her first baby.

ABBY

Vera stayed ten days, leaving her own husband at home with a heart condition. He didn't want her to make the trip, but Vera convinced him that she had to go.

Vera returned exhausted. I told her that she should have stayed home and sent her daughter the money to hire a competent helper. And later on she could have made the trip with her husband to see the daughter and new grandchild.

Vera insisted that her presence at the time of the child's birth was necessary and appreciated, and had not choice but to go. What do you think?

"CURIOUS"

* * *

DEAR CURIOUS: I would have to know more about the husband's "heart condition." And how he really felt about Vera's making the trip. Also more about the relationship between Vera and her daughter and their respective financial situations.

I would also have to know how accurate your reporting is, who you are, and why you are so "curious."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend, a married woman, who has a collection of hub caps you wouldn't believe. She said she "bought" some, and others were given to her, but I found out different.

Last evening I saw this woman walk over to the curb, take a screwdriver out of her purse, and remove the hub caps from a parked car. What would you do in a case like this?

A FRIEND IN FAIRMONT, W. VA.

* * *

DEAR FRIEND: Your friend is a thief. Tell her what you know and urge her to stop "collecting" before she collects a jail sentence.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I seldom saw my daughter studying, so I wasn't too surprised when she brought home a warning that she was failing in two subjects. Her teacher called and asked me to come to school for a private conference. I did, and this is what I learned:

* * *

My daughter had told the teacher she was failing in school because of her "home situation." She said her father and mother fight constantly about bills and his drinking.

* * *

Also I sleep all day and she (the child) has to do all the cooking and housekeeping. Abby, I just don't know what to do about this because there is not one word of truth in it.

My husband and I get along very well. I am a competent cook and housekeeper and neither my husband nor I drink.

Why on earth would a child make up such wild tales? Can you help me?

FLABBERGASTED

* * *

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: Whether your daughter is just an imaginative storyteller or is psychologically disturbed is something you should look into.

If her school provides a counseling service for "problem children," utilize it. If not, ask your family doctor or pediatrician for his recommendation.

* * *

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here we are with February well launched and speeding along. Lovely spring clothes are already winking at us from store windows, reminding us of the soft, lovely, romantic days just ahead.

They also remind us that if we are to do the clothes justice we will have to work on any bulges and rolls, overweight and droops, we may have.

This is the sixth week of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan. Those of you who have been following it from the first must be happy by now, but don't setttle for less than the best.

Keep on until you have reached your goal. Many of you started late and have several weeks longer than two to go.

Anyway, by now many of you are beginning to wonder how many calories you should have in order to maintain your ideal weight once you have reached it. When calculating the number of calories you will need you must consider two factors.

First is the so-called minimum calorie need or the number of calories required just to keep your body functioning. Second are the calories needed for your daily activities, work and play.

AGE, SIZE FACTOR

The minimum calorie need is influenced by age, size, and the composition of the body. Larger folks need more calories than smaller folks to keep the body running. Men usually need more than women and older people fewer than younger ones.

The number of calories required for your activities, of course, depends on the kind of activity and the length of time you indulge in it.

You can get a general idea of how many calories you need to maintain your ideal weight if you are moderately active by multiplying it by 18 if you are a woman and by 21 if you are a man.

If you are quite active you will need about one-fourth more calories. If most of your work or life is sedentary you will need about one-fourth fewer calories.

Here is today's sample menu for those of you who want to lose 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks or about 2½ pounds a week.

SAMPLE MENUS
BREAKFAST

½ medium grapefruit with one teaspoon sugar
1 slice toast with one teaspoon butter or margarine
3 slices crisp bacon
Coffee with one teaspoon sugar

LUNCHEON

2 scrambled eggs with one teaspoon butter
1 slice whole wheat toast with one teaspoon butter
¾ cup broccoli or other green, with lemon juice
8 oz. skim milk

DINNER

1 cup consomme
Celery curls
5 oz. roast leg of lamb
½ cup rice seasoned with onion salt or chopped chives
Lettuce salad with reducing dressing
½ cup jello
Before retiring one cup tomato juice

If you missed my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan for a loss of 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks (there's still time before real spring) you may want to start now.

If so send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press. Ask for the Bip Kit.

Is Working Wife Blessing or Burden?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Has somebody said to you lately: "Maybe you ought to give up your job because you're putting your husband into a higher income tax bracket — and it just doesn't pay."

MARY FEELEY

I'm talking to you working wives. You hear and read a lot of stuff about whether a wife should work. Economists and psychologists both discuss the subject at great length.

I know a lot of wives who hold down a five-day a week job because they're trying to pay off the bills or put the children through school. They feel their income is essential. Yet they feel guilty about "the income tax break."

Now here comes a tax accountant who says: "The idea that a working wife raises her husband out of his normal income tax bracket is a misconception."

It seems to me that now's a good time to clear the atmosphere where Working Wives are concerned. Let's skip over, for the moment, the reasons why you really want a full-time job in preference to staying home and being a housekeeper.

That's your own private business. What I want to talk about is: are you helping or hindering your husband when he has to face up to income taxes?

This tax accountant says, in effect, if a man makes $12,000 yearly and his wife makes $125 weekly this year for the first time, the tax on his income will amount to approximately what it was last year — if his deductions are comparable.

The tax on her income of, say $6,500 a year, will be in the 22 per cent bracket if she files separately. If she and her husband file a joint return, part of her income will be taxed in the 22 per cent bracket. The rest of her income will be subject to a 25 per cent tax bracket.

For instance, his taxable income last year, let us say, was $9,400, with the amount of the tax due, $1,688.

Now that his wife holds a job at $6,500, the part of her income that raises his figure to $12,000 will be taxed in the 22 per cent bracket. Then anything over this that she makes will be taxed in the 25 per cent bracket.

To look at the picture in figures:

Joint Tax Return —	$12,000
	6,500
	$18,500
Deductions — (Includes $600 more itemized deductions)	3,200
Taxable income —	$15,300
Tax due —	$3,085

TRY BOTH

If Mr. and Mrs. B. decide to file separate returns, the tax due would be $3,130. Unless there are special circumstances involved, there is usually no advantage in husband and wife, both working, filing separate returns. But the Internal Revenue Service suggests that both ways be figured to find out which is best.

Of course, there are other demands on a working wife's income in addition to income taxes. She can expect job-related expenses — clothing, lunches, office gifts, domestic help, transportation, food shopping — to absorb from one-third to 40 per cent of her income.

On the other hand, there may be considerable compensation—in the form of future social security benefits, possible pension, company-sponsored life or health insurance.

'Life Is No Basketball Game'

Hal Boyle Sounds Off About Tall Bosses

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the secret ambitions of many employes is to work for a midget.

They would give him total devotion.

They are weary of working for tall people.

It would be fun for them as a change to look down on the boss —rather than up — while he tediously explains why they don't have the merit to merit a merit raise.

ONE OF TROUBLES

One of the troubles of the average employe is that he rarely can see eye to eye with his boss. All he glares at is his boss's belt buckle.

It is a foible of the business world that there is a connection between a man's altitude and the quality of his brains.

* * *

The thought seems to be that the higher a man stands the smarter he is. The executive should loom above the crowd. This is supposed to build morale and improve leadership.

Actually it doesn't.

NO PROOF

Height is no proof of brains. Witness the dinosaur, the tallest creature to stride the earth. It died in swamps.

Every inch above 6 feet may help a basketball player, but life is not a basketball game. The majority of mankind's memorable leaders have stood between 5 feet 7 and 5 feet 10 inches.

* * *

Example: Winston Churchill, perhaps the greatest man of the 20th century, was almost nearer 6 feet around than 6 feet tall.

Other disturbers of the commonplace, such as Napoleon Bonaparte, Julius Caesar and Voltaire, were of medium height or below. So was Einstein.

GETS THINGS DONE

If you will go to a board meeting of many a gigantic corporation, you will find it inhabited by tall men. Then an agile, squirrelly little fellow, chunky as a tree stump, comes in — and all those big fellows haul themselves to their feet and salute him.

Snap, snap snap! He gets things done.

* * *

Tall men often are like Christmas packages. The wrapping is worth more than the contents. The best brains don't come in the large economy size. More often they come in the small economy size.

One of the reasons that most tall men are predictably less intelligent than people of average or less height is that the air is thinner up there where heads swim. They don't get enough oxygen.

* * *

And another thing—

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Well, we might as well cut off this dithy-ramb here. The facts are that Boyle is 5 feet 9. His boss is 6 feet 1.)

Oppenheimer to Resign Princeton Directorship

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Harvard economist Dr. Carl Kaysen will succeed Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer as director of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University Oct. 1.

Oppenheimer, who played a key role in development of the atom bomb, will remain as first professor of theoretical physics but resign his directorship to devote more time to research.

Foreign News Commentary

No Surprises by De Gaulle Expected

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

French sources in Paris say no major bombshells are likely to be exploded in President Charles de Gaulle's Feb. 21 news conference.

They said there will be no offer to mediate in Viet Nam and no crockery-smashing over NATO.

Best bets are he will talk mainly about easing the economic squeeze in France and about the European Common Market.

KOREAN WORKERS: — The Foreign Organizations Employes Union, an organization of Korean workers at U. S. military installations, is expected to push its labor dispute with the U. S. 8th Army labor force until some sort of status of forces agreement is reached.

* * *

The fear is that such an agreement will not satisfy the workers and more disputes will erupt.

The draft agreement does not include the Korean Service Corps, a para-military organization, and future trouble probably will center around its demands.

PARTY CONGRESS:—A plenary session of the Soviet Communist party's central committee will be summoned in Moscow, probably late this week, to make final preparations for the 23rd party congress March 29.

Viet Nam and the Sino-Soviet conflict loom as the main topics.

The Chinese are expected to send no delegates for the first time, but pro-Peking North Vietnamese and North Koreans are expected.

It would be natural for the Russians to take advantage of the presence of delegations from most of the world's 90 Communist parties to try for a showdown with China.

PEACE MOVES:—Diplomats in London say two new top-level Viet Nam peace moves are beginning to shape up.

The first will be made by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson during his Moscow visit later this month.

The other will almost certainly be made by French President de Gaulle when he flies to Moscow in June.

While Wilson strongly backs the American line on Viet Nam, de Gaulle has his own views which are at variance with the Johnson administration.

Diplomats say chances of any quick Soviet response to either is very slight at present.

EUROPEAN UNITY: — The French predict in Paris it may be some months before talks get started again on closer political cooperation in Europe.

The French government wants agreement first on financial terms for establishing an agricultural Common Market in Europe.

This is expected to need long, tough negotiations. Without agreement on this, French officials say there would be no point in discussing political unity.

France, meanwhile, is expected to resume its seat at a ministerial council meeting of the Common Market in Brussels Feb. 28 for the first time since its walkout June 30, 1965.

Much depends on whether the Belgian and Italian government crises are settled by then.

BRAZILIAN LABOR — The U.S. Labor Department has selected Brazil for its first worker-to-worker project which includes fashion shows featuring union made clothes and other attractions.

* * *

Informed sources in Rio de Janeiro say Brazil was chosen because the Brazilian labor unions have been the No. 1 target of Communist infiltration.

Thousands of Brazilians have turned up to see and argue with visiting U. S. union leaders.

Masonic Group Seeks Rebuttal to Marxist Talks

DETROIT (AP)—A Masonic organization wants equal time to dispute remarks made by Marxist historian Herbert Aptheker at three Michigan universities and a church last week.

* * *

The Sojurners, a group of past and present U. S. military officers, can present some eight persons to counter Aptheker's statements, said Col. James Kendrick.

* * *

Aptheker, director of the American Institute for Marxist Studies, spoke at Michigan, Wayne State and Michigan State Universities and at Central Methodist Church in Detroit.

Americans Finding Viet Cong a Cunning Foe

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — In Viet Nam, the U.S. military machine may take on the role of a superbly conditioned but half-blinded heavyweight boxer pushed into a strange ring full of trapdoors and stumbling blocks.

The opponent may seem like a cunning veteran lightweight with eyes in the back of its head.

This analogy was drawn by a U.S. combat commander after his troops had swooped down by helicopter in a carefully planned operation aimed at trapping a large Viet Cong force.

News Analysis

Aside from a hail of small arms fire from snipers, who later escaped, the reinforced battalion missed the enemy completely.

SAME PATTERN

The pattern is repeated constantly in Viet Nam. The major battles between the Communists and allied forces almost always have been on terms of the Communists choosing.

Intelligence over and over again has proven to be the most vital factor in Viet Nam since the Indochina war. Th pattern established during the French days remains unchanged. The enemy has lots of information from its intelligence sources, the allies too little. This was what the U.S. commander referred to when he described U.S. combat units as half-blinded.

* * *

The fact that American military operations are directed at longtime Communist redoubts prompted the reference to the weird boxing ring.

A recent example of the situation was in the central coastal area some 300 miles north of Saigon where nearly two divisions of allied troops, mostly American, closed in from the north and south on a Communist stronghold.

HUGE OPERATION

Planning of the huge operation began last December, military sources said. The operation was launched the last week in January.

U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division and Vietnamese airborne units moving from the south ran into stiff opposition near Bong Son. After a furious fight. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops broke contact and disappeared.

* * *

The South Vietnamese had reported that two Communist regiments had dug in near Bong Son in January, and it appeared the Communists either anticipated or knew of the forthcoming allied operation and wanted to contest it.

When the Communists had enough, they simply moved west into mountains where no allied force was deployed. None was sent after them. It was claimed some 800 Communists were killed in the operation.

CONG PULL OUT

Marines moving down from the north failed to run into any significant opposition. The Viet Cong in their area also pulled off to the west and safety.

Then the two American forces pounced on the An Lao Valley, Communist-dominated for nearly 20 years. There were indications this was the operation's prime target. Special forces reconnaissance units probing the area were hit hard. When the main American force finally arrived, the enemy had disappeared.

* * *

Neither the Americans nor the South Vietnamese have been able to put together an effective intelligence net to warn of Viet Cong plans. Each often operates in ignorance of what the other ally has learned. Competing intelligence agencies complicate the situation.

How do the Viet Cong know so much? It has long been accepted as fact that the Communists have infiltrated the Vietnamese military command.

NOTIFICATION

In a few cases, purely American operations have been launched without notification to the Saigon military — to guard against compromise.

But there are other factors.

There is the dilemma of whether to warn civilians that war is coming and allow them to get out of an area, or go in without warning and subject the civilians to bombardment.

Thousands of leaflets were dropped ahead of the advancing allies in the Bong Son area warning the civilians to head for safety because of impending military operations. Safe-conduct leaflets were dropped in the An Lao Valley before the allies moved in, another tip to the Communists.

In some cases, the Americans have proved less than adroit in keeping secrets. A U.S. airborne combat jump was abandoned when it was learned that word it was impending had spread all the way to the United States.

* * *

In most cases when the allies launch an operation, the Communists have the choice of standing and fighting or of breaking up into small groups and fading into the jungle over camouflaged paths known only to them.

NO INJURIES—No one was injured yesterday in Los Angeles as this automobile plunged straight down from the top of a 10-story building, smashing head-first onto a parking lot below. It was an experiment by an oil company to show on firm the impact equivalent to that of a car traveling 60 miles an hour in a head-on collision. The car was demolished.

One 'Mower' Sign Spring Is Nearing

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—About the only thing that makes February bearable, at least in these climes, is an occasional sign that spring is approaching.

WEST

I haven't yet seen a crocus or a rosebud or a robin on the wing to lift my winter- wearied spirits.

But one day this week there blossomed upon my desk the text of a speech by William V. White of the U.S. Public Health Service. And all of a sudden my heart sang.

White was addressing himself to a gladsome subject, lawnmower accidents.

As the poets say, when the government starts warning us suburbanites about the perils of grass-cutting, can spring be far behind?

AT SEMINAR

White spoke at a seinar on power mower injuries sponsored by the health service and the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute.

His part in the program was to review the history and philosophy of lawn-trimming for what light it might shed on why so many pushers of these machines wound themselves.

The present casualty rate runs about 80,000 per summer, give or take guys like myself whose hands slip off the starter rope causing them to stumble backward into the garden and impale themselves on asparagus spears.

* * *

Two statements in the white paper impressed me as being highly significant.

SHEEP GRAZED

"Until about 150 years ago," he said, "the only way that men had to keep their lawns trim was to turn sheep out to graze on them."

It is my view that lawn trimming has been downhill ever since.

Foolish creature that he is, man began developing mechanical devices, beginning with the sickle, retrogressing to the scythe, retreating through stages of horse-drawn and hand-powered mowers, and finally hitting bottom with electric and gasoline-powered machines.

Now he is being hoisted, maimed and otherwise victimized by his own petard. For, as White pointed out in his other significant comment, "You can't make a machine idiot-proof."

* * *

Yea, verily. Man's big mistake was in not developing powered sheep.

May Feel Neglected

Classroom Attention-Getter Needs Help

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.

Attention-getters are the bane of classroom teachers.

With one or more of these in the room, it is difficult for the teacher to get on with the day's work.

DR. NASON

It is easier to spot these children than it is to find out why they act that way or to decide what to do about it. Here are some of the ways you can spot an attention-getter:

His hand is always in the air whether or not he knows the answer.

He has a "smart" answer for every question.

BAD BEHAVIOR

He tries to "show off" by grimacing and extravagant behavior.

He resorts to unusual antics, such as whistling, whispering, poking his neighbor and dropping his pencil.

He has more to say than anyone else in the class.

He makes constant bids for attention by asking foolish questions.

WHY ATTENTION?

Why does the child want so much attention?

It is more often the way he feels about his life in and out of school than the way things actually are. He may feel like an unwanted and unnoticed child at home and has never before felt as important as he does in school.

Parents should give such a child a little individual attention each day, thus helping him to dispel the feeling. He may feel that he must compensate for the fact that his family lives in an inferior neighborhood or is of a minority racial group.

When such a student gets satisfaction from being a valuable, needed member of the class, he will gradually cease to need the satisfaction gained by more immature devices.

Both family and teachers should help him be proud of his race and to realize that his actions as an individual are more important than the neighborhood in which he resides.

CHANNEL EFFORT

The child may feel that he can't do the classroom work very well and so tries for attention, even in undesirable ways. In this case, the teacher must help him learn to do the work and thus channel his efforts into more acceptable patterns of behavior.

Regardless of the reasons for attention-getting behavior, teachers often get good results by using the following procedures:

Help him feel he is one of the group by assigning him a part in class projects in which he can succeed.

Find something he can do unusually well so that he can excel in a socially-accepted way.

Give him some reponsibility in the classroom and compliment him before the class when he carries out the job successfully.

Newspaperboys Learn What Schools Can't Teach

A young man who delivers a newspaper route learns a lot that many other youths miss. And these lessons of experience "sink in" faster and better than any classroom lecture.

A newspaperboy learns to become independent because he's running his own business. Route management also offers him a range of practical experience in handling people, learning the value of money, keeping records and developing efficiency and self-assurance.

All these things books can't teach . . . but a newspaper route does. That's why many school officials endorse route training as a valuable adjunct to formal education.

"NERVES"

It's just my nerves. I've always been this way." So many patients offer this complaint to their doctors, and receive sedation and tranquilizers. Many resort to alcohol just to "relax." Take time right now to reach up and feel the muscles of your neck and shoulders. Chances are they are tight and painful to the touch. Remember, nerves go to every organ, muscle and gland in the body. Pressure on these nerves can cause a malfunction or short circuit to these parts. Chiropractic treatments can, in many cases, remove this pressure, relax the muscles, and place you back on the road to good health. Find out now if you are a Chiropractic case.

Britain Faces F111-Flattop Dilemma

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson met with his Cabinet today to decide whether Britain should spend $420 million for the U.S. F111 bomber or $392 million to build new aircraft carriers. The budget can not afford both.

The situation has brought about a struggle between the navy and Royal Air Force (RAF) over who would control Britain's air-strike forces.

Wilson was said to favor buying the F111 "swing-wing" bomber, on which the government has an option which expires next month for 50 to 60 of the planes.

★ ★ ★

The navy wants new carriers, arguing that the RAF is not in a position to provide air cover for the navy's wide-ranging fleet.

The government has decided to reduce defense spending to $5.6 billion for 1970, the year in which a major defense review is planned.

WASHINGTON TALKS

Defense Minister Denis Healey will be in Washington Wednesday for talks in connection with the purchase of the F111.

It was widely reported during the weekend that Navy Minister Chrsitopher Mayhew and top aides planned to resign if the proposed carriers were scrapped.

Representatives of the British air industry also are opposed to the F111 deal.

★ ★ ★

Britain dropped plans for production of a similar plan when it was decided money would be saved by buying the U.S. model.

MULTIPURPOSE PLANE

The F111, made by General Dynamics Corp., is a multipurpose tactical aircraft capable of speeds exceeding 2,000 miles per hour.

At supersonic speeds, the plane's "swing-wings" tuck back close to the fusilage to minimize air friction and heat.

During landing and low-level bombing operations, the wings are locked at a 90-degree angle to the fusilage.

★ ★ ★

The F111 issue was taken up last night at a meeting of the defense and overseas policy committee, which Wilson summend to No. 10 Downing St.

'WHITE PAPER'

The Wilson government plans late this month to issue a "white paper" on defense in which it will be explained how Britain plans to trim defense costs while maintaining its role in Western defense.

★ ★ ★

The British Association of Scientific Workers last night issued a statement condemning plans to purchase the F111, saying it was "convinced that such a decision would be a blow to the British aircraft industry and to Anglo - French cooperation on aerospace projects, from which it would be difficult to recover. . ."

Farm Blaze Kills Two

COLOMA (AP) — Two farm workers on the Albert Lietz farm near Coloma burned to death yesterday when their tenant dwelling caught fire. Killed were Alfred Lowder, 54, and Elwood Watson, 48.

Power Line Falls on Guardsmen; 2 Die, 4 Burned

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — Two National Guardsmen were electrocuted and four others suffered severe burns during a drill Sunday when a power line broke on the armory grounds and fell across them.

Two other Guardsmen endangered their own lives to pull the live wires off the injured men, a Guard spokesman said.

Roy Emery, 24, and Dennis Jerome Williams, 23, were killed.

Ronald William Cleveland and David L. Prouse were critically burned. Richard Seamens, 26, and Lawrence Rood, 22, were less seriously hurt. All four are at the Bremerton Naval Hospital.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Best sellers. Year after year, more people choose Cadillac than choose any other luxury car in the world. Shouldn't this alone lead you to consider the worth of owning a Cadillac—new or used?

The reasons for Cadillac's overwhelming popularity are numerous. Among the most important are its advanced engineering and meticulous craftsmanship. No other motor car in the luxury car field retains its value as long or as well as Cadillac—a most important consideration at trading time. Finally, your nearby Cadillac dealer is long experienced in caring for Cadillac owners—and in seeing that their every need is attended to. Whatever you plan to spend on your next car, you should investigate the elegance, excellence and excitement of a Cadillac, new or previously-owned.

Junior Editors Quiz on PAUL BUNYAN

QUESTION: How did the Paul Bunyan legend get started?

ANSWER: Americans have always had a sense of humor and a liking for exaggeration.

Perhaps it was these qualities, along with pride in what they were doing, which led American outdoor working people, during the 1800's, to invent tall stories about heroes connected with their own trades and occupations.

Some outstanding character might be selected or invented, and all kinds of impossible yarns woven about him. Paul Bunyan was such an occupational hero, a creation of the lumberjacks of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Was there a real Paul Bunyan? Possibly, but if so, he could have had little resemblance to the legendary Paul Bunyan.

Here's what Paul Bunyan the folklore hero was like: He was so strong he logged off all the forests of the Dakotas single-handed.

This made him so hungry he ate enough each day to feed an average-size city. When Paul was in the mood, he swung his axes so fast they got white hot.

He had a special gang to take the hot axes down to the river to cool them. This made the river boil. But Paul didn't mind; his cook could go out with a skillet and scoop up fish already cooked.

Paul had a huge blue ox called Babe. The ten thousand lakes of Minnesota are simply Babe's footprints which have filled up.

FOR YOU TO DO: Paul may or may not have been a myth, but the huge statues of him and Babe shown in our picture are real, standing near Lake Bimidji in Minnesota. Color this picture. Paul has a bright red jacket and red socks. Babe is bright blue with white muzzle, horns and hoofs.

Think young and you'll never get old—and look what it has done for Grover Cleveland Archer of Beech Grove, Ind. and Ella Cox Henkel of Ridgewood, N.J.

Archer was patching a leaky roof on an apartment building. When he started to climb down, he discovered his ladder was gone. He took the hard way down—sliding to the ground on a utility pole.

He is 80 years old — and a relative youngster compared with Mrs. Henkel. She was rated a "poor risk" and rejected for a life insurance policy when she was 30 years old. But that was 73 years ago.

She turned 103 yesterday. Five years ago a friend remarked she was "in a class by herself," and Mrs. Henkel snapped: "I hope it isn't kindergarten."

Must Convince Hanoi U.S. Means Business—Barry

AP Photofax

FREEMAN VISITS VIET FARM — Orville Freeman, U.S. secretary of agriculture, talks with a Vietnamese girl during a visit yesterday at her farm on the coast northeast of Saigon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona says an American demonstration of determination —and not what he calls "groveling" peace offensives — will bring Communist North Viet Nam to the conference table.

"I don't think it's our job to get the Communists to the conference table by begging, by going through other emissaries, by going through other leaders," the 1960 Republican presidential candidate said Sunday in a radio-television interview.

★ ★ ★

"I think we'll get the Hanoi government to the conference table when we convince them that we have the will to attack and that we are attacking them," Goldwater said.

"It is a very sad spectacle to see the greatest power on earth sort of groveling," he added.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

President Johnson's peace offensive — and its failure thus far — brought these other top weekend developments:

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., proposed that Johnson invite the participants in the 1954 Geneva conference to meet again to discuss a settlement in the Viet Nam war.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon, said the probability is "quite low" that increased military pressure by the United States in Viet Nam would lead to a confrontation with Red China.

Administration officials reported that the United States has started blacklisting non-Communist and Polish ships that trade with North Viet Nam.

PUBLIC ATTACK

Goldwater coupled his first public attack on Johnson's peace offensive with another plea for more reliance on U.S. air power and less reliance on American ground troops.

"We should use air power and rely on our allies and South Vietnamese for ground fighting," he said. "Our boys are not acclimated to that type of fighting."

★ ★ ★

He repeated his suggestions that air power should be used to attack the industrial complexes in North Viet Nam, bomb railroads and destroy the Ho Chi Minh Trail and said North Viet Nam's ports could be shut down by mining them or sinking ships in them.

Goldwater, a general in the Air Force Reserve, alsô renewed his attack on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He said more authority for the direction of the fighting should be given to "military people who have spent their lives studying the problems of strategy.

RAPS McNAMARA

"I think men like the secretary of defense," Goldwater said, "should be removed completely from any part of this war other than the logistic part."

Gen. Taylor credited his conclusion that Red China is not likely to enter into war with the United States to the massive U.S. air power.

★ ★ ★

He said the situation in Viet Nam is similar to that during the Korean war.

"Our air power has been belittled for its performance in Korea because it didn't stop the war," he explained. "It didn't stop the war, but it put a ceiling on the war.

ARMED CHINESE

"There were at least a million more armed Chinese north of the Yalu (River) who never came into action because they could not be supported on the front under the pressure from the air."

"By the same token," Taylor said in a radio-television interview, there is "some ceiling on the strength that can be supported in the south Viet Nam. And it is fairly low, I might suggest."

★ ★ ★

Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and now a special presidential adviser, spelled out some of his views on the possibility of war with Red China in a copyright interview in U.S. News and World Report magazine.

★ ★ ★

"It is certainly not in the interest of Red China to have a military confrontation with the United States," he said. "It would simply be completely destructive for their country if they were so rash as to do so."

TO QUIZ TAYLOR

Taylor probably will be quizzed on his views Thursday when he is expected to appear at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's current Viet Nam probe.

Ribicoff accompanied his proposal for another Geneva conference with a series of suggested ways the United States could prove it "has gone to unprecedented length to bring about negotiations."

He said President Johnson should offer to withdraw 10,000 American troops from Viet Nam if the Hanoi government would match the U.S. offer.

★ ★ ★

Johnson personally should invite participants to the proposed Geneva meeting, make it clear that no subject would be barred from the conference agenda, and name the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Arthur J. Goldberg, chief negotiator, Ribicoff said.

LETTER TO LBJ

The former secretary of health, education and welfare said he had written Johnson about his proposals.

"I am sure the President wants to negotiate," Ribicoff said, "and I believe I have given him a suggestion that might open the way."

★ ★ ★

The blacklisting of foreign ships that have traded with North Viet Nam actually began Jan. 25, it was revealed, but only came to light after the Maritime Administration had listed the first group of barred ships in the Federal Register.

★ ★ ★

The blacklist now in effect is patterned after the blacklist imposed against ships trading with Cuba after Jan. 1, 1963, administration sources said. The vessels are barred from transporting U.S.-financed cargoes from American ports, but these ships are not barred from picking up U.S.-financed cargoes in foreign ports and transporting them to other foreign nations.

COMMENT, CRITICISM

The Viet Nam hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee continued to provoke congressional comment and criticism.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Hugh Scott R-Pa., accused committee chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of being irresponsible — by Fulbright's own standards — in criticizing the President's policies in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Three years ago, Scott said, Fulbright said "it was irresponsible to criticize the administration, and he accused me of all the things he is doing now.

★ ★ ★

"I am not one of those people who advises that we stop and halt and allow ourselves to be beaten to death," Scott said, "and I'm not one of those criticizing the President. Sen. Fulbright is."

Aussies Using Dollars, Cents

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia became a dollars and cents country today, and the changeover from pounds, shillings and pence appeared to be going smoothly.

The switch after nearly three years of planning, leaves Britain and New Zealand the only major trading nations still using the sterling system. New Zealand plans to convert to decimal currency next year. Britain is thinking about it.

★ ★ ★

A British delegation, in Australia to observe the changeover, moved around Sydney today to see how people were reacting in banks, shops, trains and buses.

The chairman of the Australian Decimal Currency Board, Sir Walter Scott, was at a Sydney suburban railway station watching people buy tickets in the old currency and getting change in the new.

"Everything is going so smoothly," he said.

There was excitement in the air as people for the first time handled the brightly colored dollar notes, bronze 1 and 2-cent pieces, cupro-nickel 5-, 10- and 20-cent coins and silver 50-cent pieces.

Although banks as a rule now will issue only dollars and cents, if a rush on the new currency causes a temporary shortage at a bank it can reissue the old money. The currencies will be interchangeable for the next two years.

HE'S HITCHED — Mrs. Robert M. Goldberg, just married to the son of the U.S. ambassador to the United States, evokes a laugh as she points a finger at her husband after ceremonies yesterday in Chicago. Mrs. Louise Sproston, mother of the bride, and Ambassador and Mrs. Arthur J. Goldberg flank the couple. The bride is the former Barbara L. Sproston of Crail Fife, Scotland.

Hand in Throat Obstructs Lion

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (AP) — An African lion attacked a young mother and her 5-year-old daughter, but was stopped abruptly when the quick-thinking woman thrust her arm down the beast's throat, police said today.

Mrs. Paul DeVita, 27, of Hawthorne suffered only toothmarks on her arm.

★ ★ ★

Her daughter, Nedine, was bitten about the head, right shoulder and right hip, officers said. She was hospitalized and listed in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. DeVita said the incident took place when the family visited a stable where an employe kept the lion as a pet.

★ ★ ★

Officers said an unidentified teen-ager asked the DeVitas if they wanted "to see a tame lion." The family said yes and the youth brought the animal out of its corral on a leash, police said.

After the attack, officers said, the boy was able to return the lion to its corral.

Dorothy Malone's Valentine

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Just about everybody's Valentine this year is Dorothy Malone, the plucky Texan whose heart stopped, then was revived during an 11-hour lung operation last September.

THOMAS

The actress now is working three full days each week on "Peyton Place" more than her schedule before her illness — and enjoying it.

★ ★ ★

"I do get tired," she admitted. "And when I go out in the evening, they are very short dates. I usually go to bed at the same time as my daughters. I haven't even watched 'Peyton Place' since I've been back on the show; I'm asleep by then!"

Miss Malone looks wan, but beautiful as ever. Not only did she lose 10 pounds during the illness; she dropped another 10 since through lack of appetite. "I just regained my interest in food last week," she reported.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Now she feels strong enough to attend to some unfinished business: answering the thousands of get-well messages that came to her in the hospital.

"I may take years to do it, but I'm determined to answer all the letters," she remarked. "The stacks of mail that filled my back bathroom are beginning to diminish, but I've still got a long way to go. Now I'm starting to get thank-you notes for my thank-you notes. I'm afraid those will have to remain unanswered."

Miss Malone was stricken Sept. 22 with back pains. By evening she was near collapse and she was rushed to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where here illness was diagnosed as blood clots in her lungs. Prompt action by a team of surgeons and use of a new heart-lung machine saved her life.

Unlike some series stars, Miss Malone is content with her lot. She is, in fact, one of the biggest boosters of "Peyton Place."

IMPRESSIVE SETS

"We have succeeded where imitations have failed because of quality," she argued. "Our shows are filmed with all the care and production value of a feature movie. The sets are impressive, the stories are good, and everyone is well-cast; there are good performers on the show."

She has followed with interest the various rumors about the series: that it will reduce to twice-weekly next season, that it will be filmed in color.

★ ★ ★

"I haven't talked to the studio about cutting down from three a week, but I think it might make sense," she said. "Two shows a week would provide a better rhythm and make the production details more manageable.

"I have suggested that we film in color, and I hope we do. Our sets would photograph beautifully, and we could use color to compete with the new shows next year."

It could be added that Dorothy's tawny hair and bright-blue eyes would enhance the show as well.

Javits Speaks at Rose Rites

NEW YORK (AP) — "The music of his spirit will go on forever as part of America's anthology," eugolized Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

Javits spoke at funeral service for Billy Rose in New York Sunday while in Hartford, Conn., another show business luminary — Sophie Tucker — was also being sent to her final resting place.

★ ★ ★

At Hartford, where she grew up, about 600 persons attended Miss Tucker's funeral. Hundreds followed the procession to Emanuel Synagogue Cemetery in neighboring Wethersfield.

In New York, more than 700 persons attended the funeral service for Rose in the Broadway theater that bears his name. After the 35-minute service, Rose's body was taken to Westchester Hills Cemetery, Ardsley, N.Y.

SECOND FUNERAL

Miss Tucker and Rose died within hours of each other, she on Wednesday night at her Manhattan home, and Rose at his home in Montego Bay, Jamaica, early Thursday.

It was the second funeral for Miss Tucker, who was 78. The first was held in New York Friday.

★ ★ ★

Among her survivors are a son, Burt Tucker, and a brother, Morris Abuza.

Rose — the 66-year-old songwriter, producer, nightclub impresario and financier — was eulogized by a rabbi, Sen. Javits, R-N.Y., an ambassador and two close friends.

Rose's copper and bronze coffin was on center stage of the theater, almost hidden by a blanket of red roses.

Among those present were two of his former wives, Joyce Matthews and Eleanor Holm.

BURBANK FIRE — Flames erupt yesterday from the terminal building and flight control tower of the Lockheed Air Terminal in Burbank, Calif., the second largest commercial air facility in the Los Angeles area. The blaze broke out in the terminal restaurant kitchen. No injuries were reported as officials estimated damage at $2 million.

Life in Nigeria Has Returned to Normal a Month After Coup

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Lifehas returned to what passes for normal in Africa's most populous nation a month after the military revolution.

★ ★ ★

Nigerians discuss the new policies of the military governor, Maj. Gen. J. T. U. Aguiyi-Ironsi, while sipping palm wine between glances at "The Flintstones" and "Wrestling from Chicago" on television.

★ ★ ★

Traffic clogs the narrow, odorous streets in this seaside capital. Soccer games draw capacity crowds and Nigerian youths garbed in traditional British whites play cricket on the infield of the Lagos race track.

Few troops are seen. The police, who seemed to disappear during the uprising, have again taken up their duties. Trade union leaders who led two general strikes in three years are promising industrial peace.

SMUG ATTITUDE

Many civil servants have adopted a smug and righteous attitude since the army ousted ministers and most political appointees.

Trading stalls vending everything from auto parts to individual cigarettes are open from early morning to far into the night. Formidable "market mammies" run these businesses and trading usually is conducted in high-pitched haggling with much arm waving.

★ ★ ★

Prices of staple foodstuffs like rice and plantains increased after the revolt but were rolled back under army orders. Market mammies complain Nigerians wearing "military looking uniforms" demand free food.

Roadblocks inside the cities have been lifted, and garishly painted "mammy wagons "careen through streets scattering pedestrians and bicyclists.

BASIC TRANSPORT

Mammy wagons are basic transport here. They are trucks fitted with wooden bodies designed to carry passengers, freight and livestock, usually at the same time.

Village petitions for "pipe-borne water and other amenities" are now sent to military authorities instead of politicians.

Nigerian newspapers, most of the shrill political organs before the coup, now use much space praising the military regime.

★ ★ ★

Mail is no longer opened for inspection as it was for a week after the revolt. But the government cable office exercises strict censorship on news dispatches. All references to tribalism or corruption in the old government are deleted. Only flattering descriptions of the military rulers are accepted. (This story was airmailed.)

Photographs of slain Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa and President Nnamdi Azikiwe — who remains in London — have been removed from government and private buildings.

★ ★ ★

Nigeria's building boom continues. Charity fund-raising drives have resumed.

★ ★ ★

Schools opened on schedule for the spring semester. College students have so far obeyed a military rule against shouting slogans, carrying placards or holding political meetings.

Greek King, Ex-Premier Near to Power Showdown

ATHENS (UPI) — The seven-month-long power struggle between Greece's young king and its most popular politician in decades faces a showdown Wednesday.

Former Premier George Papandreou has called a rally for then to show support for his fight to limit the power of King Constantine.

Outcome of the rally could indicate the future course of the monarchy in Greece and possibly break the political deadlock that has stifled Greece's economic life since September.

The date is the second anniversary of the elections in 1964 when the Center Union party under Papandreou won an unprecedented landslide victory, polling 53 per cent of the vote.

★ ★ ★

The public meeting was summoned within the framework of the "relentless struggle for democracy" which Papandreou made his battle cry when he was removed as prime minister last July 15 following a bitter quarrel with King Constantine.

MILITARY JUNTA

The rift sprang from suspicions — now under judicial investigation — that Papandreou's son, Andreas, was organizing a military junta in the army, with designs on the government.

Ever since, the domestic political situation in Greece has been deepening. It has taken the form of a direct struggle between the young king, 25, and the 78-year-old Center Union leader.

Papandreou has made the issue a simple one: "Who governs in this country? The king or the people?" Papandreou has said he is not out to end the monarchy, only to make it the servant, not the master, of the nation.

★ ★ ★

Since his ouster from the premiership, Papandreou has carried his campaign to the country, making speeches in the provinces, demanding new elections — elections, he says, to answer whether "the king or the people rule."

TROUBLE DUE?

There is fear among some government officials that the public rally could bring trouble.

There has been some thought of banning it but many think this would simply be an evasion of the basic conflict. If Papandreou defied a ban, the situation could be made all the worse.

Trouble or not on Feb. 16, the political climate in Greece remains tense and uncertain, with crisis constantly in the air for these reasons:

The 72 days of political upheaval which began with Papandreou's ouster on July 15 was "solved" in September — after the longest such crisis in Greek political history — by the formation of the present government headed by Premier Stefan Stefanopoulos.

HAS MAJORITY

Stefanopoulos has a majority in Parliament of only 2 votes (152 out of a total of 300 seats).

The premier's tenuous majority is an unworkable one, not only because it is non-homogenous in makeup but because any pair of deputies can at any time try to pressure the government — the word "blackmail" has been used — for political or private reasons.

Most observers are agreed the situation cannot continue without disastrous results. Only two practical solutions are seen:

● A broadening of the present government majority which could be achieved only if Papandreou decided to support it, which he has adamantly refused to do.

● New elections. This issue has been blocked by the king on the ground that, in the present tense atmosphere, the calling of elections might touch off a new national upheaval.

There is a second reason for King Constantine to be hesitant to call new elections now. They might raise the "constitutional issue" of the monarchy itself, whether it is to be retained.

What takes place Wednesday may shed some light on further events.

For one thing, attendance at the rally will indicate just how strong a hold Papandreou maintains on his followers and whether, in fact, 53 per cent of the nation still is behind him.

If the meeting is a flop, Papandreou may have to water down his demands, and thus pave the way toward organizing a workable government.

3 Diphtheria Carriers May Leave Hospital

DETROIT (AP)—A health official says three diphtheria carriers may be released from a hospital soon.

Dr. Paul Salchow, epidemiologist for the Detroit Health Department, said tests indicate Bozy Hill, 38, does not have diphtheria. Hill's son, Lonnie, 4, died from the disease Jan. 30.

★ ★ ★

"We are treating him as a carrier and expect to be able to release him after a few days' treatment," he said.

Dr. Salchow said other patients due for release are Frederick Robbins, 23, and Algernon Tanner, 15, both of Detroit. Robbins is a roomer in Hill's home.

Student Finds Room at Dormitory 'Papered'

PUTNEY, Vt. (UPI) — Windham College sophomore Michael Resnick, 20, of South Fallsburg, N.Y., returned from a weekend at home to find his dormitory room littered with an estimated 100,000 sheets of paper.

Nine of Resnick's friends spent two hours Sunday morning filling the room from floor to ceiling and wall to wall with newspapers. One of them, Neil Deautch, 20, later explained, "We just had nothing to do."

By JACOBY AND SON

The unlucky expert will star in this week's columns. If you play bridge at all you will know one of his prototypes — the man who never makes a mistake but always loses.

JACOBY

Sometimes he is really unlucky, as with today's hand. Other times he helps out his own bad luck by making things difficult for his partner but, somehow or other, something bad always happens to him. Here is his story for today:

"Things were going pretty well. I had won one rubber and with both sides vulnerable in the second I picked up a nice hand. Nothing sensational, but a comfortable 13 high-card points plus a couple of tens.

"When my partner responded to my diamond opening with clubs, I bid a confident three one heart, then jumped to three no-trump and was only slightly disturbed when he took out to four clubs. This forced me to try four hearts. He jumped to six and I still wasn't really unhappy. My hand was certainly sound."

We looked over the hand and remarked that six hearts seemed rather safe.

"Not the way my partner played it. He won the spade opening and promptly cashed the ace and king of clubs. The queen dropped and he smiled sweetly and spread his hand, announcing that he would play trumps and the defense could take their ace when ready.

"'Play,' said West. My partner led a trump toward my jack and returned to his king. West took the ace and gave his partner a club ruff. Down one."

Our friend really was unlucky. South would have ruffed a third club and made the hand if the queen had not dropped. He should have ruffed it anyway. This would have insured his contract.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Dble.	?

You, South, hold:

♠ 5 4 ♥ K J 5 4 ♦ Q 10 6 5 4 ♣ 5 2

What do you do?

A—Pass. You only have six points and your suits aren't good enough to warrant bidding at the two level.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You pass. Fourth hand bids two hearts. Your partner bids two spades and the man who has doubled goes to three hearts. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

All spiders can produce silken strands of one kind or another, but only a few spin webs.

Percy Quits Camera Firm in Senate Bid

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles H. Percy has stepped out of the management of the Bell & Howell Co. after 28 years.

★ ★ ★

Percy is seeking the Republican nomination as U.S. senator from Illinois and wrote President Peter G. Peterson Sunday he feared the firm would not be brought into the campaign if he remained. He said he would not seek reelection as a director or chairman of the Bell & Howell board.

★ ★ ★

Percy, 46, joined the camera manufacturing firm in 1938 while a student at the University of Chicago. He became a director in 1942, president in 1949 and board chairman in 1961.

★ ★ ★

Percy is seeking the nomination to face Democratic Sen. Paul Douglas in November. In 1964, he failed in his bid to become governor of Illinois.

7 Prisoners Jam Cell Doors at Jail

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Seven prisoners, including three accused murderers, sabotaged the automatic cell doors in Marion County's new $10-million jail Sunday with the handle of a mop bucket.

★ ★ ★

Workmen had to cut through a cell block wall to reach them. Sheriff Robert Fields said the jamming of the sliding doors had not been done in an escape try.

★ ★ ★

He said the prisoners were piqued at having to return to their cells after the afternoon exercise period.

Telephoning Is a Problem

YORKVILLE, Ind. (AP) — When the Rev. Charles Walsh wants to talk to neighbor Henry Alhaus, he finds it easier to open a window than to use the telephone.

Telephones used by Father Walsh, pastor of St. Martin's church, and Alhaus, who lives across the street, are operated by different companies.

Establishing telephone communication between the two involves a long-distance call over 35 miles of telephone lines.

Trading Fairly Active

Rails Pace Advancing Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Rails continued to pace an advancing stock market early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

The carriers were buoyed once again by merger prospects, good earnings and President Johnson's Food for Freedom which gave promise of even greater rail freight revenues.

Industrials followed along somewhat raggedly, with many a loser breaking up the pattern in such groups as steels, rails, chemicals, electronics, airlines, oils and utilities, which actually were down on balance under the pressure of rising interest rates which made them compare less favorably with debt securities.

A scattering of special situations enlivened the list and brought about some fairly big gains for the issues involved.

AP AVERAGE

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 368.7 with industrials up .6, rails up 1.7 and utilities off .6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .22 at 989.25.

Prices rose in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. Valley Metallurgical was up another 3 points, Xtra Inc. and Syntex 2, Giannini Controls, Molybdenum, Carnation, Community Public Service, Coronet Industries, Dorr-Oliver and Edo Corp. "A" a point or better.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged in light trading. U.S. Treasury bonds resumed their steep decline.

Jackson Man Named Pontiac Supervisor

Edward A. Weliver of Jackson has been named personnel and safety supervisor for Consumers Power Co.s. Pontiac division, Charles F. Brown, division manager, has announced.

WELIVER HARTRICK

Weliver succeeds Phillip A. Hartrick, who has been named to a similar position with the company's Battle Creek division.

A Michigan State University graduate, Weliver joined Consumers Power in 1961. Before that, he was a management employe with Kelvinator Division of American Motors Corp.

Hartrick, also a Michigan State University graduate, has been with the Pontiac division since joining Consumers Power in 1952.

Both men will begin their new assignments Monday, Brown said.

Q) "I am a widow of 53, living comfortably on interest from money in savings banks. I own 150 shares Times Inc., which is now worth $15,000. Should I hold or sell half and put the proceeds into the bank? What do you think of New England Telephone? It doesn't seem to do very much. My mother bought it five years ago at 51½ and it shows a loss." —H.C.

A) New England Telephone is an excellent income producer, but its growth—except for the past two years—has been only moderate. I advise your mother to keep the stock. The current yield is 4.5 per cent and since New England — particularly Boston — is undergoing somewhat of a renaissance, I believe the stock will show further appreciation.

You have an excellent growth holding in Time Inc. I believe you should switch half to Eastman Kodak for diversification purposes only. I advise you to add no more to savings, since these — unlike the two stocks mentioned — can offer you no inflation protection whatsoever.

Q) "I own $20,000 Series H bonds, maturing March 1966. Can you tell me the advantages in savings bonds or good municipal bonds. I am in my 70s and interested only in safety." —C.F.

A) Your Series H bonds maturing next month have been promised an extension. The President has announced that the interest rate will be raised on all bonds now outstanding, as well as on those to be extended. For a person in your position, there are great advantages in holding savings bonds. You get absolute safety combined with complete stability, which is unobtainable in any other bond whatsoever.

Municipals offer a higher taxable equivalent yield if your income is in the upper brackets. They do fluctuate on money conditions, which might disturb you. I advise you to extend your Series H bonds.

Loan Demand Ups Pressure on Rates

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—As the business boom rounds out its fifth year, the demand for loans is rising and with it the pressure for still higher interest rates.

DAWSON

Many in the banking field feel that another hike in the cost of borrowing is not too far off. Involved would be consumers, business firms, buyers of new homes.

Put the other way around, rewards for savers and returns to lenders would be rising further. This runs all the way from the interest payments on U. S. savings bonds and bank savings accounts to the yield enjoyed by suppliers of funds for mortgages or for business expansion.

* * *

The administration is expected to oppose this, or to delay it as long as possible. It prefers money to be plentiful and fairly cheap to keep the economy expanding through a sixth straight year.

Some banks already are raising again the interest they will pay on large deposits tied up for six months or more.

OTHER SIDE

On the other side of the coin, the Federal Housing Administration has just raised the interest charged on mortgages it insures. Formerly this cost 5¼ per cent. Now it costs 5½ per cent. Lenders of conventional mortgages unbacked by the FHA get an average of 6 per cent. The building industry is debating whether interest increases all along the line are in prospect.

Banks borrowing from the Federal Reserve have been paying 4½ per cent since early December, when the cost went up by ½ per cent. Dr. Roy L. Reierson, senior vice president, Bankers Trust Company, New York, predicts this soon will be raised still higher. Other bankers express the same belief privately.

* * *

The increase in the discount rate in December brought a rebuke from Washington but was quickly followed by an identical ½ per cent rise in the prime rate charged by the banks to their largest customers with the best credit rating. It is now 5 per cent. Dr. Reierson thinks it will go up again. That would mean that the great volume of bank loans, always higher than the prime rate, will be more costly, too.

The Federal Reserve since December has allowed banks to charge 5½ per cent on time deposits, but only 4 per cent on regular savings accounts. Few banks will pay that much on time deposits yet, but several have raised their interest rates close to it.

DEMAND HIGH

The reason banks and other lenders are willing to pay savers more these days is that the demand for loans has risen so high — and the interest that can be earned on bank loans has gone up so much, too — that lenders are competing for funds. To do that they lure savers with higher rewards.

Predictions that the demand for funds will goon growing — and that interest rates will keep in step — are based on the majority view in financial circles that the economic upswing is sure to continue through 1966.

* * *

Spending for the Viet Nam war will stimulate the economic growth. And if this should slacken, bankers feel that the spending for Great Society programs would be quickly increased.

They add that any real letdown in the economy's pace would inspire the administration to seek new tax cuts and bigger federal deficits to revive the boom.

N.Y. Banker Urges U.S. to Give Foreign Aid to Fewer Nations

DETROIT (AP) — New York banker David Rockefeller urged today that U.S. foreign aid be channeled to fewer recipients—especially to nations trying to cope with the problems of too many people and not enough food.

Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank, told the Economic Club of Detroit in prepared remarks:

"The problems of population and the productiveness of agriculture must be given a new and far greater emphasis in all thinking and actions relating to the economic advance of the developing world."

"Dispersing our investment efforts among dozens of nations usually results in making our contribution to each of them too small ..., at the same time depriving those relatively few which could competently utilize more aid," Rockefeller said.

NATION'S POTENTIAL

An underdeveloped nation's advancement potential, he suggested, depends largely on birth control and increased farm output. If progress is not made in these areas, he said, "widespread famine will be a grim condition of life — or rather of death — in large areas of the world."

Some poorer nations, he warned, ignored the need for more food and devote too much capital to "the fetish of industrialization." These should receive a smaller share of U.S. foreign aid, Rockefeller said.

* * *

He also urged that underdeveloped nations invest in needed building programs — roads and railroads, canals, harbors and dams. And he said such nations should take added steps to encourage private investment in their economies.

Rockefeller asked that Congress pass a measure now before it, providing a 30 per cent tax credit in the first year on private U.S. investments in developing countries.

"It is also my conviction that, by broadening still further the risk guarantees that our government provides for qualified overseas investments, more businesses would avail themselves of venturesome opportunities," he said.

LEADS SKIPPERS — Waterford's Skippers have won four of their last five games in pushing their record to 7-6, and one of the big reasons for the team's success has been the play of forward Rick Ziem, a senior, who's scoring average stands at 22.7. Ziem will be in the lineup tomorrow when the Skippers take on Clarkston's Wolves.

In Waterford-Clarkston Game

Prep Scoring Duel Forecast

A couple of Oakland County's finest marksmen will be on the court when Waterford travels to Clarkston to take on the Wolves tomorrow night.

It's a nonconference affair, so there's nothing at stake but prestige for the two quintets.

★ ★ ★

Another prestige scrap on tomorrow night's slate finds Kettering entertaining West Bloomfield.

The nets should stay warm at Clarkston with the Wolves' Dan Fife and Waterford's Rick Ziem in the lineups.

Heading into the contest, Fife is the owner of a scoring average of 31.1 through 13 games, while Ziem is zipping along at a 22.7 pace in 13 outings.

Both are excellent outside shots, and both established scoring records at their respective schools this season.

Fife poured in 43 points three games ago against West Bloomfield to establish a new Clarkston record, and Ziem cracked the Waterford mark against Walled Lake Friday evening when he connected for 41 points.

FOUR OF FIVE

Waterford, after a slow start, has come on strong and won four of its last five games and will take a 7-6 record into the game.

The Wolves (8-5) have won six of their last eight contests, but the team has trouble when opponents clamp down on Fife.

Against Northville Friday in a 60-50 loss, Fife collected only 18 points, the only time this season he's been held to less than 20 markers.

The action will open at Clarkston with a junior varsity tilt at 6:30 p.m.

Kettering, with the Tri-County League crown tucked away, has lost but once in 13 outings and should be able to handle West Bloomfield's Lakers.

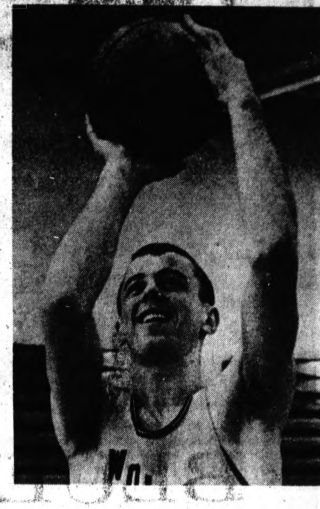
The Captains of Kettering have thrived on balance, and so far, there's always been someone around to bail the team out in the scoring department.

Coach Joe Duby and the Captains have three games remaining, counting the one tomorrow, and victories in all three would enable them to match victory total of last season.

West Bloomfield owns but a so-so 6-7 record, but the Lakers are never easy.

★ ★ ★

And the Lakers have probably one of the most underrated players in the area in Tim Moller, a center-forward who's averaging 16.4 points a game.



Pontiac Press Photo

CLARKSTON SPARKPLUG — Clarkston's all-around basketball ace Dan Fife, a junior, poses a threat for Waterford's Skippers, who move into Clarkston tomorrow night to take on the Wolves in a nonconference encounter. Fife leads the Oakland County scoring race with a mark of 31.1 a game.

Montreal Knocks Red Wings From Top Spot

Canadiens Win, 4-3; Hawks Lead League

DETROIT (AP)—Three milestones were reached and a lengthy winless streak ended Sunday but the Detroit Red Wings would have been happier just to see the milestones.

The winless streak — which saw Montreal do no better than gain three ties in 13 previous appearances on Detroit ice—came to a halt when the Canadiens took a 4-3 decision.

The loss cost the Red Wings, who gained a 3-3 tie with Toronto on Paul Henderson's last-second goal Saturday night, a share of first place in the National Hockey League.

Chicago, which played a 2-2 tie with Montreal Saturday, took over sole possession of first with a 6-4 triumph over New York Sunday.

New York rocked Boston 9-2 in Saturday's other game while the Bruins climbed back into a tie for fifth place after playing a 4-4 tie with Toronto in Sunday's other game.

SHARES SECOND

Montreal, which now shares second place with the Red Wings, rushed to a quick lead on Claude Provost's two goals before the game was six minutes old. Provost's first marker was the 200th of his NHL career and bounced off defenseman Bill Gadsby into the Detroit net.

Alex Delvecchio, playing his 1,000th game—the eighth player to reach the mark, got one back for the Red Wings in the first period.

★ ★ ★

Gordie Howe, who got his 800th career assist on Delvecchio's goal, and Ron Murphy tallied for the Red Wings in the second period.

John Ferguson pushed Montreal in front before Murphy's goal and Gilles Tremblay's goal 31 seconds into the third period proved to be the game-winner.

THEY SCORED

"You can't score goals if you don't shoot," Manager-Coach Sid Abel said. "We didn't. Montreal didn't do much better but they scored."

The Red Wings sent but 16 shots at the Montreal net, their lowest total of the season. Montreal had 20 shots, half of them in the first period.

Champ Paces ARCA Entries

250-Mile Stock Race Next Weekend

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jack Bowsher, 1965 champion of the Automobile Racing Club of America, will start in front of the field in the third annual 250-mile ARCA championship stock car race next Sunday.

Bowsher sped from behind to win the key 25-mile qualifying race Sunday. His 168.164 miles per hour speed was a record, since the distance is new in the ARCA competition here.

It was a Ford-Plymouth-Dodge battle, and Bowsher's 1966 Ford proved fastest.

One lap short of the finish, Bowsher came off the high east bank to scoot ahead of Andy Hampton of Louisville, Ky., in a 1965 Dodge. Then Bowsher circled the 2.5-mile trioval at 171 m.p.h., the last lap and finished two car lengths in front of Hampton.

Ramo Stott of Keokuk, Iowa, led the early laps in his 1965 Plymouth but had to settle for third place. He wavered heading for the home stretch but got his car straightened out and avoided a spin.

Jack Lawrence of Detroit won a slower 25-mile qualifier at 154.633 m.p.h. in a 1964 Mercury. Shad Wheeler of Fredrickstown, Ohio, was second and Elmer Davis of New Albany, Ind., third, both in 1964 Fords.

NCAA Bids at Stake

Top Quints After Berths

By The Associated Press

A number of the nation's top college basketball teams can take some giant steps toward spots in the NCAA national tournament on a key schedule tonight, while one conference is just waiting for time to count it out all together.

Such standouts as Kentucky, Duke, Chicago Loyola, Texas Western and Providence seek to nail down conference or at large spots in the first round tourney schedules, or at least improve their already very good chances in games tonight.

The important action Tuesday is off the court and on the conference table. That's the deadline for the Ivy League — and others — to file certification that they will abide by a controversial NCAA rule establishing a grade minimum for athletes.

The Ivies have announced they won't do it. And the NCAA has said that if they don't, they are ineligible for NCAA championship events — including the basketball tourney.

BIG QUESTION

Just what will happen to the Ivy spot in the NCAA tourney is still open to question—whether it will be filled by an at large team, or whether it won't be filled at all.

But while the athletic brass wrestle with that administrative problem, solutions of a more basic nature will be forged on a number of courts tonight.

Top-ranked Kentucky, eyeing a fifth national title, takes its 19-0 record to Alabama in quest of its 11th straight SEC victory. A victory, and the Wildcats are favored, would just about put them out of reach of the rest of the league.

Vanderbilt, ranked fifth in the nation at 17-3, has the best chance. The Commodores are 8-2 in the conference and have a game against Auburn tonight.

Duke, No. 2, is at home to South Carolina and figures to improve on its 9-1 league record and 17-2 over-all. The Blue Devils, of course, must survive the league's post-season tourney to make it to the NCAA.

Three other members of the top 10, all shooting for at-large berths and all practically certain of making them, are in action. No. 3 Chicago Loyola, 17-2, is at home to Western Michigan, No. 4 Texas Western, 18-0, is at home to Arizona State, and No. 6 Providence, 17-2, goes to DePaul.

Texas Western had its hands full at New Mexico Saturday night. The Miners were down by 20 points at one stage and had to go to overtime before pulling out a 67-64 victory.

Retiring Tears for Auerbach

BOSTON (AP) — Arnold (Red) Auerbach, the most successful pro basketball coach in history, is stepping out as boss of the Boston Celtics with regret and the admission he isn't quite as tough as he appears.

The fiery Auerbach, greying and balding at the age of 48, shed a couple of tears Sunday as he was hailed and showered with gifts at halftime of the Celtics' 120-110 National Basketball Association loss to Los Angeles. A Boston Garden crowd of 10,679 and a national television audience watched the festivities.

★ ★ ★

"This is just making it tougher to retire," said Auerbach, who plans to move into the Celtics' front office on a full-time basis after this season. "But I'm going to retire. I have to."

Auerbach was rather quiet in the first half as the Celtics rallied to trail only 63-59 at the intermission. After the emotion-packed salute, though, he became his old self, drawing a technical foul for protesting an official's call.

OLD STUFF

But technicals are old stuff to Auerbach, who already has paid nearly $1,000 in fines this year. His outbursts in support of his players have been widely reported in his 20 seasons as an NBA coach.

After the game Auerbach managed smiles and talked softly with writers as he puffed on a cigar in the crowded dressing room. This was a "new" Auerbach. The "old" rarely managed a weak grin and a couple of words after a defeat.

"They say that losing comes easier as you grow older," Auerbach said. "But losing keeps getting harder for me. I just can't take it like I used to. It's time for me to step out — but I want one more championship this year."

Auerbach, hailed as "the greatest coach in basketball history," received a silver tray, a captain's chair, 22 plaques featuring highlights of his 16 years with the Celtics, a lighter for his cigars, a silver cigar box, and portraits of himself, his wife and two daughters.

Pioneers Blaze Wrong Trail in Track Meet

Oakland University's Pioneers Saturday blazed a trail they'd rather forget.

Defiance of Ohio handed the Pioneers their first indoor track defeat, 64-44, aided by sweeps in the high hurdles and 50-yard dash events. Oakland U now is 3-1.

Former Pontiac Northern runner Gary Cobb was the meet's only dual winner, taking the one-mile and two-mile runs. Another ex-Huskie, Tim Kaul, won the 880.

Other O-U winners were George Walkoff (440 dash), Jon Anderson (long jump) and Chuck Clark (high jump). Defiance also won six events and had more seconds and thirds.

The Pioneers will visit Kalamazoo College Friday night to run against West Michigan University's freshman team.

Groves, OL St. Mary Win Key Cage Games

Two of the county's rated basketball teams picked up key victories Saturday while a third one suffered a defeat Sunday.

Birmingham Groves, the Associated Press' ninth-rated class A team, nipped rugged Southfield, 77-73, aided by some improved foul shooting.

Orchard Lake St. Mary reached the second division finals of the Detroit Catholic League playoffs by beating Detroit St. Gregory, 74-64. The Eaglets are tied for ninth in the "C" rankings.

But Royal Oak Shrine, the ninth-ranked "B" quintet, had its seven-game winning streak ended by tough University of Detroit High, 50-42. The Cubs hit 11 straight points in the third period to take charge of the game. High-scoring Rick Chudy was held to eight points for Shrine.

Groves won its 14th straight without a loss and its fourth over Southeastern Michigan Association inter-league foes this season.

The score was tied at 70 with two minutes to go, but Angie Fiorini hit five of six charity tosses and Mike Rafferty added a field goal to clinch the decision. The winners missed 16 free throws during the tilt.

Orchard Lake St. Mary won its 11th straight (13-1) despite 26 turnovers by outrebounding St. Gregory, 60-42. The losers, also, made only 21 per cent of their field goal attempts.

OL St. Mary now will meet unbeaten and high-scoring Detroit St. Hedwig 7 p.m. Saturday at the University of Detroit Memorial Building.

Ailing Dickinson Leads

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gutty little Gardner Dickinson, pain pills in hand for his ailing back, set out today in quest of a victory in what may be his last golf tournament for some time—the $60,000 Phoenix Open.

Dickinson fought off the pain in his back and the charges of several contenders Sunday, and his even par 71 gave him a three-round total of 206 and a three stroke lead over Bob Rosburg.

★ ★ ★

"I almost called it quits after the second round," said Dickinson, a 38-year-old, 130-pounder who plays out of Los Tree Village, Fla.

"I took three pain killers before the round," he said. "The pain subsided a little, but the pills upset my stomach. I was very satisfied with the round under the circumstances."

Dickinson has carved out rounds of 66-69-71 over the 6,765-yard Phoenix Country Club course, a par 36-35—71 layout which most of the pros haven't solved.

Pontiac Boxer Punches Way to State Title

Special to the Pontiac Press

GRAND RAPIDS — Pontiac's Bill Hollis punched his way to the 160-pound novice championship in the state Golden Gloves tournament here Saturday night.

★ ★ ★

The 17-year-old Hollis, a wrestler on the Pontiac Central High School team, pounded out two unanimous decisions Saturday enroute to the title.

Hollis, managed by Harold Dugan, local GG director, was the only one of 10 Pontiac entrants in the tournament to collect a title.

In his semifinal bout with Jim Warren of Lansing, Hollis displayed a sharp left jab before the crowd of 5,000 and won the nod of the judges, 60-56, 59-58 and 60-57.

★ ★ ★

He had an easier time in the finals as he decked Walter Young of Saginaw with a right cross in the second round and went on to an easy decision. The judges scored it 60-56, 60-57 and 60-54.

LANSING WINS

Lansing produced seven champions in taking the team title with 63 points. Grand Rapids (46) placed second, Saginaw (30) third and Flint (16) fourth.

The champions in the eight open classes will move on to Kansas City late in March for the national tournament.

The open class winners were: 112-pound, Joe Washington, Grand Rapids; 118-pound, Robert Jenkins, Flint; 126-pound, Boston Robertson, Grand Rapids; 135-pound, Ron Mask, Lansing; 147-pound, Wayne Zaucha, Saginaw; 160-pound, David Thach, Lansing; 175-pound, Floyd Lewis, Flint; heavyweight Kenneth Burns, Grand Rapids.

DOOR BLOCKED — New York Rangers' Phil Goyette (20) tries to get the puck in the net on this play, but Chicago's goalie Glenn Hall (right) and Bill Hay (11) close off the scoring avenue in first period action of their game in Chicago last night. Chicago won, 6-1.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A decision to use the zone press and an unexpected boost from Minnesota have put Michigan back on top of the Big Ten basketball race.

The Wolverines, using the press to force Wisconsin to speed up its game, walloped the Badgers 120-102 Saturday. Meanwhile, Minnesota defeated Michigan State, 81-71, to drop the Spartans one game back of Michigan.

Indiana bumped Illinois 81-77, Northwestern dropped Iowa, 81-73, and Ohio State crushed Purdue 68-54.

Michigan's pressing defense was chiefly responsible for a record breaking performance. The Wolverines broke two team scoring records and now share two, including a Big Ten mark, with the Badgers.

GAME MARK

The 120 points scored by the Wolverines broke the game mark of 117, set against the University of Detroit two years ago, and the conference high of 110 points set against Indiana in 1962.

The two-team total of 222 points eclipsed the 204 scored in the 117-97 verdict over Detroit and the Big Ten record of 214 set by Indiana (122) and Ohio State (92) in 1959 and tied by Illinois (121) and Purdue (93) last year.

Atlanta Awaits NFL Player Lists

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The new Atlanta Falcons were desperately searching for support from other National Football League clubs today as the league opened its winter meetings.

The Falcons, who must pick up the nucleus for the first team which will play in the 1966 season, were finding out that the other 14 teams didn't plan to be as generous as they had earlier anticipated.

* * *

The Falcons are to get three players from each of the other 14 clubs for total of 42 veterans. These, together with the players acquired through the college draft and those signed as free agents, are to make up the training rosters for the team which becomes the 15th member of the NFL next fall.

It was first believed that each club would freeze 25 of the 40 players who were on their active roster at the close of the 1965 season and that the Falcons would be able to select their three from the 15 remaining.

But it was becoming obvious by late Sunday night that the clubs were more inclined to set the figure no lower than 32 on the freeze list and possibly as high as 34.

This would mean that the 42 veterans which the Falcons would select would be taken from players who had seen little action for their present teams.

ROUTINE REPORTS

The first day's session was expected to be devoted almost entirely to routine reports by various league committees and the pressing question of how many players the Falcons would have a shot at was not expected to be decided until Tuesday.

The Falcons then will have until probably Thursday to complete their choices.

The only other burning issue before this year's meeting is the selection of a 16th team to complete the expansion move started when Atlanta was admitted to the NFL last year with play to begin in 1966.

The other team will not actually begin play until 1967 and it was clearly indicated that although discussions about the expansion will come up at the meeting any final decision won't be made until later.

Seven cities are seeking the new franchise in the NFL. They are Boston, Cincinnati, Houston, New Orleans, Phoenix, Portland and Seattle.

Skipper Skiers Take Two Races at Mount Holly

Waterford Township skiers beat Bloomfield Hills boys and girls' teams Saturday in the final giant slalom tests on the Mount Holly Prep Ski League runs.

The Skippers' boys were four and a half seconds faster than Hills' cumulative times for four boys making two runs each. Walled Lake was a distant third and Utica finished well behind the Vikings.

Individually, Scott Thornley and Cheryl Smith, both of Bloomfield Hills, led the way with Township skiers close behind.

Wildcats Beat Orion, 64-58

A couple of also-rans gained a little cage respect with victories Saturday night.

Oxford won its fifth game of the season, a 64-58 verdict over Lake Orion, while Milford ended a 12-game losing streak with a 59-56 decision over West Bloomfield.

* * *

In another Saturday outing, Walled Lake suffered its 13th loss in a row in an 89-70 setback at the hands of Redford Union.

In other games, Romeo downed Troy, 58-51, and Cranbrook turned back University School, 75-56.

Oxford (5-10) and Orion (1-13) battled on even terms for three quarters, but the Wildcats came up with a 15-9 point advantage in the final period to wrap up the win. The loss was Orion's seventh straight.

Roger Miller led the winners with 25 points, and Dennis Brophy picked up 17 for Orion.

Mike Yeager and Paul Skinner collected 20 points apiece in bringing Milford's (2-12) losing string to a halt. Tim Moller tossed in 24 for West Bloomfield (6-7).

Romeo, which made only four of 18 free throws in losing to L'Anse Creuse Friday night, picked up 20 of 35 Saturday, and the shooting from the charity line proved the difference as both teams recorded 19 field goals apiece.

* * *

Dale Craft paced the winners with 16 points and Bruce Baas tossed in 22 for Troy.

John Pavloff tossed in 24 points in sparking Cranbrook (6-8) to its third win in a row.

MSU Shows Class in 43rd Track Relays

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State forgot about the rule that the polite host doesn't take the biggest chunk of cake at its 43rd annual relays Saturday night.

No team score is kept at the relays, but MSU clearly dominated the event with five firsts.

Air Force Academy and Southern Illinois won three events each to help spread around some of the honors.

Gene Washington, the pass-snatching end, won both the 70-yard high and low hurdles. His times of :08.5 in the highs and :07.9 in the lows both were only one-tenth of a second off the meet and Jenison Fieldhouse records.

Fortunes Rise for Ice Squad

The Lakeland Hawks are finding the second half of the Southeast Michigan Juvenile Hockey Association race more to their liking.

The Hawks under coach Ray Graham won two games over the weekend, boosting their record to 2-1 since the January realignment that put them in the Midget Division. The Hawks are in second place.

* * *

Friday night, Lakeland drubbed Utica, 10-1, as Bruce Strohm scored three goals and brother Brian two. Former goaltender Randy Sutt tallied twice while Richie Bell was a strong playmaker. Ron Young and Dick Gorman also scored.

* * *

Yesterday, the Hawks got another good performance by goalie Larry Schneider and dumped Warren, 5-1. Robbie Hall scored his second and third goals of the weekend; Sutt, Brian Strohm and Chuck Graham added the others.

* * *

The Waterford Rangers trailed 2-0 until the final two minutes when Glen Burke and Mike Dunlop scored to give them a 2-2 tie with Fraser. Waterford is now 1-1 in Juvenile Division.

156 Points Tallied by Local Hoopsters

Michigan Christian Junior College remained a strong contender for the post-season state Christian College AA basketball tournament title with an impressive win Saturday.

The Warriors' fast break riddled hapless Great Lakes Bible College of Lansing, 156-56, for their seventh win in nine league starts. The win kept them in second place behind undefeated Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music.

* * *

Seven players were in twin figures for the winners. Jim Martin had 31, Bud Pressley 29, Jim Hudson 24 and Wes Taphin 21 as the main gunners. The Warriors scored 89 points in the final half.

Wolverine Tankers Dunked

Michigan, rated the No. 1 swimming team in the country, suffered its first loss of the season Saturday at Bloomington where the Indiana Hoosiers scored a 66-57 triumph.

It avenged the one point loss Indiana suffered at the hands of the Wolverines earlier this season.

In another Big Ten meet, Michigan State defeated Ohio State, 75-48.

Pontiac area swimmers took part in the Michigan State victory and also for Ohio State.

Bob Wolf and Lee Driver, ex-Birmingham swimmers, helped MSU to the 400 medley relay win, while Driver touched first in the 200 breastroke at 2:18.0.

Ex-PCH swimmer Ben Donaldson settled for second place in the 1,000 freestyle and the 500 freestyle for Ohio State.

Feather Champ Posts KO Win

Mexico's Saldivar Stops Ghana Boxer

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Featherweight champion Vicente Saldivar has finally repaid his Mexican compatriots for their loyalty and the thanks couldn't have come in a more formidable manner.

Saldivar, who rates a tossup with sombreros as the most popular thing in Mexico, retained his featherweight title in a most devastating way Saturday night by scoring a second round knockout over Ghana's Floyd Robertson at the Plaza Mexico, a reconditioned bullring.

Saldivar sprang from his corner at the bell, and cooled Robertson at 2:29, as fast as these things can be done without raising screams of outrage.

Before Robertson could shake off the effects of the stinging left jabs, Saldivar stepped inside the African's longer reach, whacked him in the abdomen to drop his guard, and turned loose that left-handed blow that Mexicans call "the golden punch."

It was the 22nd KO victory of his career for Saldivar, and the second time Robertson had been knocked out in 38 fights.

BALTIMORE (NEA) — When John Kerr, the Baltimore Bullets center, was with the old Syracuse Nationals, his coach Alex Hannum told him to begin isometric exercises.

North Michigan Upset

By The Associated Press

It was rough sledding this weekend for Michigan basketball fans.

In a major upset, Minnesota-Duluth stunned Northern Michigan, No. 4 in the Associated Press small college poll, 104-91.

In other games, Miami of Ohio defeated Western Michigan 88-68, Notre Dame whipped Detroit 76-67; Youngstown of Ohio, No. 3 in the small college poll, bombed Michigan Lutheran 110-66, John Carroll whipped Wayne State 94-81, and Western Illinois bounced Central Michigan 68-59.

* * *

Ohio Northern defeated Ferris State 105-91, Hillsdale bombed Detroit College 116-77, Spring Arbor thumped Fort Wayne 100-63, Northwood pounded St. Francis of Indiana 130-104, Moorhead State whipped Michigan Tech 83-63 and Dominican outlasted Aquinas 91-88.

In the MIAA, Hope defeated Adrian 82-76, Calvin bombed Albion 82-65 and Kalamazoo downed Olivet 88-78.

THIRD LOSS

Minnesota-Duluth, winning only its fifth game in 18 starts, held Northern Michigan to less than 100 points for only the second time this season. The Wildcats had been averaging 109 points a game. The loss was Northern's third in 17 games. The big factor in the game was Duluth's rebounding edge, 43-28. Gene Summers, who fouled out with seven minutes to play, had 25 points for Northern.

* * *

Miami, the top defensive team in the Mid-American Conference, led all the way in dumping Western Michigan in an MAC tilt. Jerry Fisher topped the victors with 20 points. Reggie Lacefield had 18 for the Broncos.

* * *

Notre Dame led all the way in defeating Detroit. The victory was the second in a row for the Irish after 13 straight losses. Detroit, now 15-6, outrebounded Notre Dame, 45-33. Bucky McGann of Notre Dame and Dorrie Murrey of Detroit each had 18 points.

Our '66 Automobiles come with a spare car.

If you lease a '66 from us, we'll give you a spare: a car to use (free) if yours is ever in for major repairs (also free).

Under the Kinney Leasing system (we're an authorized agency) you'll get your new car for a monthly fee that includes everything you can think of.

The cost of your insurance coverage, for instance. Public liability ($500,000 to $1,000,000) property damage ($100,000) deductible collision and fire and theft.

The fee also covers the cost of winterizing, summerizing, tune-ups, sparkplugs, points, replacement tires (including snow tires), all parts and labor, towing and license plates.

Compared to buying a new car every two years, leasing can save you a lot of cash.

There are also potential income-tax savings, and there is no financing charge.

Ask us for details on leasing any make or model '66 you'd like.

Suspects Are Captured in Area Break-ins

Oakland County law officers arrested two suspects Saturday night in two Pontiac area break-ins.

One of the suspects, 25-year-old Glen D. Tindell of 204 State, was caught inside a jewelry store some 200 feet from the Oakland County Jail.

Tindell was apprehended by three sheriff's deputies and turned over to Pontiac police, who promptly returned him to the sheriff's department for retention in the county jail.

Besides being charged with breaking and entering, police said Tindell suffered a gash on his right leg, apparently when he climbed through a broken window at the front of the store.

* * *

Officials of the store, Pauli's Jewelry at 28 W. Huron, said nothing had been taken.

PICKED UP

Ralph Bush of 300 Plumstead, Waterford Township, was picked up by sheriff's deputies Saturday night after officers from four departments assisted in tracking Bush's car from the scene of a break-in.

Deputies were first alerted by a burglar alarm at Giroux' Party Store, 1535 Union Lake, Commerce Township.

Tire tracks from the rear of the store, which had been forcibly entered, led patrolmen from Sylvan Lake, Keego Harbor and Waterford Township to Bush's home.

* * *

He was arrested there and faces arraignment on a charge of breaking and entering.

More Traffic Studies Due in Commerce Township

Additional traffic studies will be conducted in Commerce Township now that the Carroll Lake-Wise intersection has been improved, an Oakland County Road Commission official said today.

"There are intersections as bad or worse than Carroll Lake," said Highway Engineer Paul Van Roekel. "We'll take a good hard look at the signing, number of accidents and use at these corners."

Large lattice-type warning signs were installed on Wise last week following a study that was prompted by the death of two young sisters early in January.

The 10-foot-wide and seven-foot-high signs are installed on both sides of the road about 500 feet from the intersection to let motorists know that they must stop.

"They should do the trick," said Van Roekel. "I can't imagine that anyone wouldn't be impressed by the signs."

MAIN REASONS

Van Roekel said excessive speeding and inattention seem to be responsible for the number of accidents in the township.

The quality of the roads may have something to do with it, according to Van Roekel.

"Commerce is one of the few townships that levies millage for roads to pay half the costs of improvements and in the last seven or eight years 15 miles have been paved," he added.

* * *

"People may be used to scooting around paved roads, and there isn't enough police to enforce traffic laws."

INTERSECTIONS

The following are among the intersections to be studied within the next several months.

Carroll Lake and Cooley Lake; Carroll Lake and Commerce; Bogie Lake and Cooley Lake; Benstein and Oakley Park; Benstein and Maple; Benstein and McCoy; and Welch and Oakley Park. All are paved.

Fatally injured when a car failed to stop at Wise and skidded into them on the roadside were Mary A. Wilson, 14, and her sister Lynette, 13, of 280 Wise.

* * *

The driver of the car, Mrs. Kenneth H. Ostin, 24, of 335 Main, Milford has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 3 deaths.

Farm income in Canada was $1,500 million net in $964, $180 million more than the average for the previous five years.

Troop Buildup in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian government announced today it was increasing its combat forces by 5,500 men "in face of almost daily aggressions by our neighbors."

* * *

The buildup, effective immediately, came amid increasing border skirmishes with Thailand. Cambodia is also bordered by South Viet Nam and Laos. The increase would bring Cambodia's total combat forces to 23,500 men.

Cambodia has enough war material on hand — most of it from Communist China—with which to arm new troops. Official announcements have listed Peking-supplied weapons and other items for nearly 75,000 men.

Avon Motorcyclist Collides With Auto

A 23-year-old Avon Township man is in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital after his motorcycle skidded on loose gravel Saturday night and slid into an automobile.

James L. Gibbs of 3604 Emmons was injured when his cycle, which witnesses told Pontiac police was going about 60 miles an hour, failed to make a turn on Pontiac Road near North Perry.

* * *

Driver of the car, which was coming to a halt at the intersection, was John F. Pellerito, 18, of 471 Maplehill, Avon Township.

Pellerito was uninjured.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MOTHER and Grandmother, Bessie M. Wilson who passed away 6 years ago Feb. 14, 1960.
We miss you mother, but we know
It was God's will that you must go.
You are with him up above
In that bright home of heavenly love.
And sometime, we know not when,
We will see you once again.
Sadly missed by son Jay L. and family.

Cable May Link Earth and Satellite

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — An earth-circling satellite could be a true "skyhook," or ladder to the sky, if a proposal made here proves possible in the future.

The skyhook would start with a thin cable linking a satellite in an orbit keeping it over the same position on the earth's surface to the earth itself.

The details concerning Project Skyhook are now available publicly for the first time in the journal Science here.

The existence of studies concerning the feasibility of Project Skyhook were revealed last July in an exclusive Science Service story.

* * *

A sky-piercing cable with the necessary properties requires strengths about 100 times greater than those now attainable.

EARTH ROTATION

Drs. John D. Isaacs, Hugh Bradner and George E. Bachus of Scripps Institute of Oceanography, University of California, La Jolla, and Dr. Allyn C. Vine of Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, Woods Hole, Mass. reported here that most of the energy for such cables would come directly from the rotation of the earth, Mars or a rapidly turning asteroid.

In an unusual note prefacing the scientists' report, the editors emphasized the problems of stability in connection with Project Skyhook that might make it "impracticable."

Nevertheless, the idea was considered such a "delightful and grandiose" scheme that it should have wide attention.

* * *

The theory behind putting Skyhook into operation can be considered in the following way:

Imagine slinging a piece of rope around your head, then letting a ring loose at the end of the rope.

The ring would fly off into the atmosphere due to the acceleration given it by the rope.

However, because of earth's gravity, the ring has to be hurled into an orbit 22,300 miles above earth's surface before it will go into an orbit that will keep it always over the same point, the so-called synchronous orbit such as the Syncom satellites maintain.

* * *

The real problem is to establish the first link between the earth and a satellite, Dr. Isaacs told Science Service.

Once even a thin cable was established, he said, it could be used to build upon itself to make an elevator to the sky.

Bachelor's Marital Views Recipe for Nuptial Stews

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Comedian Jackie Mason, a bachelor, doubts if women are here to stay. (His opinions are strictly his own and not mine.)

WILSON

"Women," he says, making a gesture with his hand which Ed Sullivan could describe better, "Ugh! Today when a woman says 'I do,' that's the last thing she does. She gets married, not to start housekeeping and cooking, but to start eating out. If you say 'Let's eat at home,' she hires a cook. If I want to marry a person who can cook, I have to go to the Waldorf and marry the chef.

* * *

"The only thing a housewife does by herself today without hired help is go on a vacation.

"Why should I get married? First thing I'd do would be to get her appendix out, cap her teeth, shorten her nose, send her to a reducing spa, and buy her a wig. Now the short fat little brunette is a tall thin blonde. She looks at me and says, 'The way I look now, why do I need this guy?'"

I mentioned this opinion of Jackie's to several girls around the Booze Beat, and they said: "I hate to say this—but you know, he's right—not about us . . . but about some girls we know."

Gleason Plans New TV Format

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Gleason will return to television next season and has nailed down his ideas about a "new concept" for the future series, the Columbia Broadcasting System says.

Three weeks ago the rotund comedian announced his determination to take next year off.

* * *

But Michael Dann, CBS vice president in charge of programs, said Sunday Gleason had made a new agreement with the network to return to his Saturday night spot next September. Dann said the new format will have a musical comedy slant to it, and Gleason is pleased with it.

* * *

Dann said Gleason had signed Art Carney as a regular performer for next season. It was reported that many of the current show regulars would be dropped.

Gleason's Miami-based production company, will receive about $200,000 a week to turn out the variety shows.

Legislature to Start on Budget

LANSING (AP) — Committee work, including a start on Gov. George Romney's 1966-67 state budget, is the legislative menu for the week.

Both House and Senate plan daily meetings which will handle only housekeeping chores as leaders strive to avoid an end-of-session logjam of bills.

★ ★ ★

Romney unveiled his record $944.9 million budget more than two weeks ago but spending committees in each house have been forced to delay hearings until they receive the inch-thick volume of budget detail.

★ ★ ★

Testimony from the state's colleges and universities — traditionally among the most determined seekers of more money — isn't expected until late next month.

★ ★ ★

Hard questioning at those hearings may come from some senators who don't like the way Wayne State and Michigan State ignored a Senate resolution Friday urging them not to permit Communist speakers on campus.

★ ★ ★

When Wayne President William Keast telegraphed Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, Friday that he would ignore the resolution, Dzendzel declared that Keast might have to "face the consequences."

★ ★ ★

Self-styled Marxist Herbert Aptheker then spoke on both campuses.

There was a chance the matter might even come up in the Senate again tonight. The resolution passed 16-15 Friday after two days of debate.

A 'NO' VOTE

Shortly after passage, Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, returned to the chamber from a meeting and said he would have voted no—killing the resolution.

★ ★ ★

He said later he might offer a new resolution in effect aimed at canceling the no-Communists measure.

★ ★ ★

The House, as it did last week, planned to begin work today at 2 p.m. instead of its customary 8 p.m.

TARNISHED HERO—North Salinas, Calif., High School senior Paul Murray, 18, was a hero when he rescued a drowning clam digger from the Pacific Ocean Feb. 3. However, after the story hit the local paper, Murray was given an automatic 10-day suspension for playing hookey to go surfing.

A Family Wedding for Luci

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Johnson bid the Nugent family farewell today with all in agreement that Luci's marriage to young Pat Nugent will be a family affair.

★ ★ ★

The Nugents, Gerard and Tillie, planned to drive the 900 miles to their home in Waukegan, Ill., after a White House weekend that was the first meeting for the families and the Nugents' first trip to Washington.

Luci and Patrick are to be married in late summer. Pat is on active duty as an airman and is stationed at nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

Yesterday was a blustery, rainy day which the two families spent in a leisurely fashion, chatting and recapping the Saturday night party for Luci and Pat.

★ ★ ★

White House sources said yesterday that it was agreed the wedding would be a family affair, not a state function; a "sentimental" occasion instead of a public spectacle with a good deal of fanfare.

The plans for a family affair gives no indication of the size of the wedding, however, although the accent will be on gathering old friends and loved ones from Luci's babyhood on.

That Jingling of Money More Than Coincidence

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans have more cold cash jingling in their pockets and stuffed in their billfolds than they did five years ago.

The business boom is only part of the answer for the proportionate increase.

The Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va., part of the agency which distributes coins and paper money, has come up with some explanations.

More teen-age spending, to name one, but most factors lack accurate measurement.

★ ★ ★

John K. Carlock, fiscal assistant secretary of the Treasury, said only theories can be advanced to explain the phenomenon and one theory is probably as good as another.

MONEY SUPPLY

Hard cash makes up only about 20 per cent of the total money supply. The rest consists of time deposits, mainly checking accounts.

Here are some of the cold facts:

On June 30, 1960, the total currency in circulation was valued at $32.06 billion compared with $41.82 billion last Nov. 30, the most recent date for which Treasury figures are available.

★ ★ ★

This represented a per capita jump from $177.47 to $213.79.

BY ITSELF

Treasury officials said the increase has nothing to do with any trend toward inflation, which is a much broader problem of production, supply and demand, over-all fiscal policy and a variety of other factors.

Two definite developments in the new pattern, the bank reported; are the increased demand for coins and an upturn in the business cycle.

The remaining possible causes, the bank added, are less measurable. It listed them as:

1. The demand for pocket money by the increasing number of teen-agers who hold jobs or receive allowances.

26 PER CENT

The number of teen-agers between 15 and 19 increased by 3.5 million between 1960 and 1965 — some 26 per cent above the increase for the previous five years.

2. Increased travel, both domestic and foreign, which prompts Americans to carry more ready cash than normal.

The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank reported that although travelers checks are widely used by travelers, most still find it convenient to carry more currency than they normally would at home.

★ ★ ★

3. Possible hoarding of American currency abroad to offset sometimes shaky currencies in emerging countries.

IRS POLICIES

4. Internal Revenue Service policies, including a crackdown on federal gambling tax collections and use of computers to check income tax returns.

"Persons who were evading the gambling and income taxes may have been sufficiently impressed by these two policies to switch to a currency basis for conducting their business rather than depositing their funds in banks," the bank said.

5. Strong and steady increases, especially since 1961, in personal income, savings and public holdings of liquid assets.

The rising use of credit cards and higher interest rates are factors in the opposite direction, the bank said, but pressures toward bigger holdings of hard cash were much stronger.

One Treasury spokesman summed up the whole situation in one word—affluence.

Crowned Miss Oakland University during Saturday's Snow Ball festivities was Kathleen Longeway, a sophomore commuter student.

Sponsored in the contest by the Newman Club, Kathleen dazzled judges with her dramatic presentation of Joan of Arc's soliloquy from George Bernard Shaw's, "St. Joan."

"You know," confided the 19-year-old beauty, "I never saw myself as Miss OU.

"I was so pleased and excited to be a finalist, I just never even thought I'd be chosen.

"When my name was called out as the winner, I couldn't think, I ddn't have time."

★ ★ ★

Dramatics have always been a favorite hobby of Kathleen's. A 1964 graduate of Wylie Groves High School, Birmingham, she was active in "Dramatics," the school's drama club, serving one year as its president.

INITIAL INTEREST

"Groves' teachers Katy Bigge and Georgeann Jordan were responsible for developing my initial interest in drama," said Kathleen.

"And Tom Aston, OU's drama director, helped me a great deal in polishing St. Joan's speech," she added.

Kathleen was awarded an Olivet College dramatic scholarship the summer she graduated from high school.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Longeway of 20706 Kennoway, Birmingham, were on hand to see their daughter crowned by the university's first Miss OU, Sharon Snyder of 6765 Woodbank, Bloomfield Township.

Rabbi Is Near Death; Faiths Join in Prayers

Accused Assailant in Southfield Shooting Also on Critical List

DETROIT (AP) — In churches and synagogues throughout Detroit, Jews and Christians alike joined yesterday in prayers for Rabbi Morris Adler who lay near death after being shot by a younger member of his congregation.

The 59-year-old spiritual leader of 6,000 Detroit-area Jews was reported in critical condition at Sinai Hospital where he was admitted Saturday for emergency brain surgery.

His accused assailant, Richard Wishnetsky, 23, remained on the critical list at nearby Providence Hospital where he was taken with a self-inflicted bullet wound.

At Shaarey Zedek synagogue in suburban Southfield, scene of the tragedy Saturday, the 1,000 children of the congregation prayed for the recovery of Rabbi Adler.

★ ★ ★

And, said Leonard Antel, the school administrator at the synagogue, many words of sympathy were said for Wishnetsky, brilliant honors student and recent psychiatric patient, who shot the rabbi, then himself, during a Sabbath service.

IN MOST CHURCHES

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit said there were prayers in most Catholic churches yesterday for the recovery of Rabbi Adler and his assailant.

Some 125 persons of the Catholic, Congregationalist and Methodist faiths were among the approximately 600 who watched helplessly Saturday as Wishnetsky shot down the rabbi, then turned the 32-caliber pistol on himself.

The Christians had been invited to Saturday's ecumenical service at the synagogue.

★ ★ ★

One bullet smashed into the left side of the rabbi's head, shattering part of the skull and sending splinters tearing into the brain.

2-HOUR OPERATION

The bone fragments and blood were removed from the rabbi's brain during a two-hour operation Saturday by Dr. Harry Gass, chief neurosurgeon at Sinai.

GM to Expand Facilities at Milford Proving Grounds

General Motors Corp. announced plans today to build additional car-testing facilities at its Milford Proving Ground in Milford Township.

The new facilities will be added in the center of the existing complex of buildings on the 4,011-acre test area.

Plans for the testing facilities were announced in the midst of a controversy over how safe U.S.-built autos really are.

Cost of the building program, described as a two-year effort designed to expand GM's safety efforts, was not disclosed.

★ ★ ★

Planned facilities included a safety test engineering building, a tire - testing laboratory and an added paved test area on which maneuvering, handling and emergency situation tests can be performed, the company said.

SAFETY CENTER

James M. Roche, president of the auto industry giant, said the 88,000 - square - foot building would become the coordinating center for all GM vehicle, driver and highway safety efforts.

Pressure has mounted on the auto industry this year from critics, including some in Congress and the federal executive branch, who contend American-made autos should feature added safety equipment.

GM last week announced plans to make collapsible steering columns and dual braking systems standard equipment on 1967 models.

★ ★ ★

The company said its planned testing area would be unique in the industry, permitting testing of autos at all speeds and making possible better evaluation of controllability of vehicles, especially in critical situations and unfavorable weather.

The new program, Roche said, "will maintain GM vehicle safety testing facilities as second to none in the automotive industry."

AF Moves Trainees to Curb Meningitis

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) —The Air Force moved ahead today with preparations to transfer thousands of basic trainees from Lackland Air Force Base in an effort to prevent a major outbreak of spinal meningitis.

One serviceman has died of meningitis at Lackland and six other trainees are hospitalized with the disease. Three are listed in serious condition and three in fair condition.

★ ★ ★

Meningitis has claimed three other servicemen's lives in military basis throughout the nation recently.

To limit the spread of the disease, the Air Force training command plans to move several thousand Lackland trainees 500 miles northwest to Amarillo Air Force Base in the Texas Panhandle.

Ask $10 Million for Auto Safety

Bill May Be LBJ Drive on Highway Dangers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Authorization for $10 million which would be spent to study auto and highway safety is included in a draft of a bill the Washington Post says may become the President's attack on the automobile safety problem.

★ ★ ★

A Post article today by Morton Mintz reported that the bill also authorizes $20 million for the year ending in June 1968 to help states establish highway safety programs.

★ ★ ★

The $10 million would expand federal "highway safety reties . . . to include all aspects of search and development activihighway safety systems research and development relating to vehicle, highway and driver characteristics, accident investigations, communications, emergency medical care, transportation of the injured, and any other elements of the highway safety problem."

★ ★ ★

The Post said the 20-page draft, stamped "for official use only," does not request authority for mandatory automobile safety standards or specifically for the construction of prototype safety cars. But both could be accomplished under the proposed legislation.

Mines Set Off Near Guarded Harvest Area

18 in Vehicles Injured; 150 Cong Said Killed in Scattered Clashes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —The Viet Cong mined three buses today, killing 54 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 18 in retaliation for an allied operation that is guarding a huge rice harvest.

Allied ground forces reported killing 150 Viet Cong in scattered clashes elsewhere in South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, while U.S. planes hammered Communist targets in North and South Viet Nam.

Guerrillas attacked a government outpost in the Mekong River delta, at Dinh Mon, and killed or captured all 11 defenders.

The death-dealing Viet Cong mines were set off on a road 10 miles southwest of Tuy Hoa, on the central coast where the U.S. 101st Airborne, South Korean marines and South Vietnamese troops have been roaming the countryside for several weeks while the rice was being harvested.

★ ★ ★

An American spokesman said the first blast was touched off about 7:30 a.m., catching a busload of farmers and killing 27 and wounding 11.

DEEP CRATER

The explosion left a crater nine feet deep in the road, hurled the bus into a canal and scattered bodies along the roadside.

About an hour and a half later, the spokesman said, a three-wheel vehicle used as a bus and jammed with passengers drove along the same stretch of road and touched off a second mine. Another 20 Vietnamese were killed and seven wounded.

An hour and a half later a second three-wheel bus drove onto the scene and set off a third mine. This time seven persons were reported killed.

★ ★ ★

Patrols found new Viet Cong hideouts today, including abandoned tunnels and fortifications. A battalion-sized camp was discovered near where the farmers were blasted. A spokesman said it contained about 40,000 rounds of small arms ammunitions and had been deserted for about a week when the paratroopers converged on that district.

Laotians Get Reassurance by Humphrey

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey flew from Bangkok to Laos for a brief visit today and told the Laotians he had come to reassure them of his government's pledge "to work with you in developing your resources."

Humphrey flew across the Mekong River from Thailand after making an aerial inspection tour of eight projects including sites for a huge power dam to serve both Laos and Thailand and a dam that will create a giant lake for irrigation.

2nd Trial to Open in '59 Miami Killing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — After serving six years of a life term for a murder he confessed "because I wanted to die," Joseph Shea, 26, now says he is innocent.

A bloody shirt and an Air Force logbook figure as probable key exhibits in Shea's new trial starting today.

The former airman's admission that he shot Mary Meslener, 23, Feb. 23, 1959, was uncorroborated at the first trial except for a psychiatrist's report, and testimony that there was a spot of the victim's type of blood on a shirt belonging to Shea.

A Dade County laboratory technician, Edward Whittaker, who said a trace of Mrs. Meslener's kind of blood was found on the shirt along with much of Shea's type, was on the state's list of about 25 witnesses. Among some 35 the defense planned to call were two experts expected to testify that none of the blood was the victim's.

RELIGIOUS BACKGROUND

Shea, a handsome youth with a religious background but a record of some mental distress, was expected to tell the jury he had been "mixed up" and stained his shirt with blood drawn from his arms with an Air Force snakebite suction cup.

Lt. Col. Arthur W. Brown, formerly a psychiatrist at the West Palm Beach, Fla., Air Force Base where Shea was stationed, testified the shirt was an article of morbid fascination to Shea, "a symbol of his act." Dr. Brown was expected to be a witness again.

★ ★ ★

Miami Herald reporter Gene Miller, whose six months' research led to granting a new trial, wrote that the Air Force logbook showed Shea could not have been in Miami at the time of the murder. The defense will call Henry S. Stevens Jr., keeper of the log for Shea's unit in 1959, to testify about this.

★ ★ ★

Miller wrote that the logbook shows Shea was at the base, 65 miles from Miami, until 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Meslener punched a time card at 7:36 p.m. at a Miami airline office where she was reservation clerk. Her body was found near Miami International Airport. Her blood-stained car, which had been parked at the airport, was found abandoned in Tampa, Fla.

If Shea didn't commit the crime, why did he confess?

TRUTH SERUM

During a truth serum test in prison, Shea gave this explanation: "I wanted to die. I was all mixed up."

Defense attorneys said they also will seek to prove coercion was used in obtaining the confession.

'Powers Asked Me to Kidnap Mossler'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An Arkansas penitentiary convict testified today that Melvin Lane Powers asked him to kidnap Jacques Mossler in 1962.

"We don't want him back, we want him killed," Powers was quoted by the witness, Arthur Grimsley.

★ ★ ★

Powers is on trial with his aunt, Candace Mossler, accused of slaying the 69-year-old Mossler in 1964. Mrs. Mossler, the widow, was said by the state to have engaged in an illicit love affair with Powers.

Mrs. Mossler returned to court today after illness had forced her to miss last Friday's session. She told newsmen she had received a number of valentines, although none from Powers.

MRS. MOSSLER ILL

Suffering from nerves, tension and a migraine headache, Mrs. Mossler was unable to make it to court last Friday. Judge George Schulz recessed the trial for the weekend, with medical assurance that she would be back today.

One of the first scheduled witnesses in the fifth week of the sensational trial is Arthur Grimsley, a convict from the Arkansas State Penitentiary — the second prison inmate on a bizarre slate of state witnesses.

★ ★ ★

Grimsley is expected to support a prosecution claim that Powers and his aunt shopped around for a hired killer to do away with her husband, Jacques Mossler, 69, head of a $33 million banking and loan empire.

Billy Frank Mulvey, 35, serving a thievery sentence in the Texas State Penitentiary, was brought to court earlier in the case. He testified that Mrs. Mossler gave him a $7,000 down payment in 1962 to kill her husband, but that he spent the money and never went through with the deal.

PAIR ACCUSED

The chic Mrs. Mossler, who gives her age as 39, and her 6-foot-3 nephew, 29, are accused of premeditated design to kill her husband, to achieve access to his money, and to further an illicit love affair. The maximum penalty upon conviction is death.

Mossler was bludgeoned and stabbed with a knife 39 times in his Key Biscayne apartment June 30, 1964. Unable to obtain a hired killer, the state says Powers performed the slaying himself, during his aunt's planned absence.

Twisters Rake Parts of Dixie

Rain, Flash Floods Widespread; 1 Death

By the Associated Press

A tornado-spawning wind and rainstorm that raked portions of the South for hours moved out to sea today.

Tornadoes in North Carolina, Virginia and Georgia yesterday caused heavy damage to private property. At least one death was reported.

Rain and flash flooding were widespread. Heavy rain fell over sections of Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Mississippi, Ohio, West Virginia, Alabama and portions of New England.

An 11-year-old boy died at Troutman, N.C., when a small building collapsed on him during a storm yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Four to five inches of rain fell over northwestern North Carolina, flooding many low-lying areas.

4 COUNTIES

Tornadoes skipped through at least four North Carolina counties.

In Virginia, rain, hail and several small twisters marked a variety of weather yesterday. Wind gusts reached 70 m.p.h. and caused some damage.

Houses and house trailers were damaged when tornadoes hit Griffin and Wintersville, Ga.

At Nicholson, Brazelton and Winder, Ga., tornadoes toppled 10 chicken houses. One farmer estimated he lost 75,000 chickens in the storm.

New York received nearly 2½ inches of rain yesterday — the heaviest fall for the date since 1893 — and added nearly a billion gallons to the city's upstate watershed.

Area Quieter, People Angrier

Old Rebel Enclave Is Restored in Spirit

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The disquiet and smell of disaster, so familiar at the height of last April's Dominican revolution, pervades the heart of Santo Domingo.

Streets get dirtier and emptier, people seem angrier, shuttered homes even more hostile and quivers of apprehension increase as one drives from the western part of the city toward the downtown sector.

Plumes of dirty gray smoke give off an acrid smell as they rise from burning mounds of garbage uncollected for weeks. Many people are in black — some mourning lost ones, others the occupation of the city by foreign troops.

Gunfire crackles sporadically here and there in the old part of town laid out 470 years ago. Amid the carnival of disorder and hate, authority seems an anachronism.

RESTORED IN SPIRIT

The old rebel enclave has been restored in spirit, if not in actual form. Mounting resistance to the country's military leaders is finding its most eloquent expression in the 20-square block area where for four months last year rebel "constitutionalists" fought for survival of their ideals.

Although the old military checkpoints have disappeared, it is difficult and probably more dangerous to get into the central sector these days. Roving bands of teen-agers throw rocks at almost every passing vehicle.

★ ★ ★

Snipers fire with apparently less concentration on specific targets and stray bullets are the norm, not the exception.

For this reason, traffic into the center of town is at a minimum. Foreigners, particularly Americans and especially newsmen, are not welcome. However, the Americans are represented right in the middle of it all by a company of 82nd Airborne paratroopers.

"It gets pretty lonely in here, even at noon," said Lt. John Counts, 24, of Denver, Colo.

The Americans are under orders not to fire without specific orders.

The angry mood downtown is the result of a wave of disorders that began last Wednesday and has taken 17 lives so far. The violence set off a strike, mostly in government offices and the sugar industry. Its chief purpose is to force two more military leaders to obey a presidential order transferring them abroad.

The chief target of the constitutionalists, Armed Forces Minister Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, finally left the country last week. To get him to go, Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy rescinded his order transferring two of the three chiefs of staff.

★ ★ ★

Former President Juan Bosch, the leader of the constitutionalists, said the strikers don't want to destroy the military because "without armed forces there can be no country." But he added that most Dominicans "also know that there can be no country if the military does not respect civil authority."

Pontiac Man Asks Exam on Assault Charge

A 23-year-old Pontiac man held for investigation of kidnaping was arraigned Saturday on a reduced charge of felonious assault.

Gary J. Rappuhn of 302 Clifford demanded examination at his arraignment before Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Daly.

Daly set examination for Feb. 23 and ordered Rappuhn held on $10,000 bond.

Pontiac post State Police said Rappuhn forced a 48-year-old woman off the road early Saturday, hit her on the head and drove around with her some 30 minutes before being apprehended.

COL. RUDOLPH ABEL

Spy Claims He Outwitted FBI

Destroyed Evidence, Ex-Soviet Agent Says

MOSCOW (UPI) — Col. Rudolph Abel, the former Soviet master spy in the United States, said yesterday he was able to outwit FBI agents and destroy an important decoding device and other evidence during his 1957 arrest in New York.

Abel, who was convicted in Brooklyn Federal Court on Oct. 25, 1957, of spying for the Soviet Union and sentenced to 30 years in prison, was exchanged for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers on Feb. 10, 1962.

Writing in a Soviet newspaper about his arrest and interrogation, Abel said he had been in communication with Moscow the night before his arrest and that his code and a copy of a message from Moscow were in the hotel room when FBI agents arrived.

Under the careless watch of an FBI agent, Abel said, he flushed the decoder down a toilet.

★ ★ ★

"The message was under a pile of papers on my desk," he said. "While packing art material I had used for painting, I simply cleaned my brushes on the paper, then crumpled it up and flushed that too."

"The FBI saw me do all of this," he added.

ANOTHER PIECE

Abel also said he disposed of another piece of incriminating evidence during the ride with the agents to FBI headquarters after the arrest.

★ ★ ★

Abel said he adjusted his tie clip which contained a thin film and, as he had hoped, an agent grabbed it. "But instead of looking at it, he started immediately to dismantle it," Abel said, and "the film slipped out of the clip unnoticed."

Customer Right? Machines Say No

Some inhabitants of Pontiac's hilltop City Hall are grumbling, but not because of complaints from taxpayers.

The automatic vending machine has taken over the favorite and only spot for a coffee break on the hill.

Nine vending machines and a can opener have replaced two waitresses who formerly ran the small employe cafeteria.

The results:

- One day, coffee drinkers received hot water without coffee.
- Then the dollar changer returned only 95 cents.
- A 65-cent chicken sandwich was sold by a machine for 50 cents.

No complaints, however, have been noted against the cigarette machine.

A SPECTATOR

This device, which coexisted with the former human help, has been a spectator to the switch from girl-type service to machine-type self-service.

He's a mechanical veteran of the preautomation era. He hears the employes whispering behind the backs of his mechanical friends.

A sample of the comments?

- "They (the machines) don't lend money."
- "They don't agree with you that you're overworked."
- "They don't hand out aspirins."
- "They don't smile."

But, secretly, the wise old cigarette machine smiles, He knows. It will take time. Acceptance comes hard in this business. Waitresses are softer.

Surveyor Program Is Skeleton in NASA Closet

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration generally has an excellent record launching spacecraft and making them work. But there's a skeleton in the closet: the hapless Surveyor program whose goal is to soft-land an unmanned vehicle on the moon.

The recent gentle landing of the Soviet Union's Luna 9 on the lunar surface focused attention on Surveyor — a program which a congressional subcommittee recently termed "one of the least orderly and most poorly executed of NASA's projects."

Had Surveyor done what it started out to do, the first craft would have been on the moon in 1963 and the Soviet Union would not have reaped the propaganda value of achieving this historic feat first while a similar American attempt foundered.

The first Surveyor now is scheduled to rocket toward the moon in May, but chances of a successful soft landing on the initial attempt are not great. Project officials noted the complexity of the mission and the fact the Russians failed at least four times before recording a success.

3 YEARS BEHIND

Not only is the program three years behind schedule, its cost has spiraled out of this world. Originally conceived in 1960 as a $50-million program for seven launchings, the price tag already has reached $350 million and is expected to surpass $725 million by the time the presently planned 10 launchings are completed.

To find out what went wrong, the NASA oversight subcommittee of the House Space Committee recently conducted a probe. The group was headed by Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn.

★ ★ ★

The result was a blistering 35-page attack on both government and industry management.

In a nutshell it said: "A project as troublesome as Surveyor demands vigorous centralized management and effective control from the top. From all appearances, these important elements have been largely missing right from the start."

APPEARS READY

The report said program management has been strengthened in recent months, most technical problems seem to be solved and the first Surveyor now appears ready for flight in May.

The Karth subcommittee dealt mainly with the spacecraft. But the program's difficulties also involved the launch vehicle, the Atlas-Centaur rocket.

★ ★ ★

In 1960 no U.S. rocket was powerful enough to send the 2,150-pound Surveyor to the moon. So a new stage, the hydrogen-powered Centaur, was developed for use with the Atlas.

High-energy liquid hydrogen was an untried rocket fuel and engineers had trouble taming this frigid fluid which must be kept at 423 degrees below zero, even in flight.

A YEAR LATE

The first test launching was more than a year late. Then the rocket exploded high above Cape Kennedy and 18 months were required to redesign the vehicle.

During this period, congressional and government agency investigations resulted in transfer of Atlas-Centaur management from NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center to the Lewis Research Center. In 1963, the General Accounting Office charged NASA and the rocket's builder, General Dynamics-Astronautics, with bungling which delayed the program two years and cost the taxpayers an unnecessary $100 million.

★ ★ ★

Additional problems cropped up, but a fully successful test flight last summer indicated the rocket was ready to boost a Surveyor. Another Atlas-Centaur was erected on a Cape Kennedy launch pad, slated to attempt the feat last October. But Surveyor wasn't ready, and the booster was carted back to a hangar.

★ ★ ★

That's when the Karth subcommittee went to work.

LAX MANAGEMENT

Its report blamed the troubles on lax management by NASA headquarters, neglect by NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory which directs the program, and evidence of disappointing performance by Hughes Aircraft Co., which makes the spacecraft.

The subcommittee said the program as originally conceived was overambitious considering the limited knowledge of space flight in 1960.

★ ★ ★

Other conclusions of the report:

—Perhaps direction of the program should have been shifted from JPL to another NASA center. During the first three years of the program, JPL concentrated key manpower on the Ranger moon probes and Mariner shots to Venus and Mars and virtually turned Surveyor over to Hughes. The number of JPL personnel on the program during this period ranged from 20 to 100. After an extensive review in 1964, JPL assigned 500 to the project.

★ ★ ★

—At the beginning there was insufficient liaison between NASA headquarters and Hughes. NASA later was displeased with Hughes management and asked a reorganization after the 1964 review. Hughes complied only partially with the recommendation.

★ ★ ★

—Not enough preliminary study was done before Hughes began building the spacecraft. This led to several major modifications and program reorientations throughout the "stormy 4½ year history" of the program as technical difficulties were encountered.

—Major spacecraft problems involved heat protection, vibrations, the retro-rocket system, a radar device to sense altitude above the moon and small vernier engines designed to guide the craft to a touchdown on the moon.

—The test program was "too austere." This has been corrected and recent drop tests of the vehicle from an airplane were successful.

ORIGINAL PLANS

Originally the first four Surveyors were to be engineering models, carrying only television cameras and basic instruments to test the bearing strength of the lunar surface. The last six were to be more sophisticated and would pack equipment to dig up and analyze samples of the terrain.

In December it was decided to make the first seven craft engineering models.

Officials said this was done in order to concentrate the effort in developing a vehicle that could be soft-landed on the moon, because lunar bearing surface information must be obtained by the end of 1967 to support the Apollo manned lunar landing program. The data is essential for building suitable Apollo landing gear and to help select a touchdown spot.

The space agency said it would not be possible to develop all seven of the spacecraft for launching by the end of 1967 unless all were the basic model.

The officials said the mission is extremely difficult and seven identical shots with the simpler vehicle would enhance chances that at least one will succeed.

Hand of Mate Sent to Wife

Estranged Husband Is Found Near Death

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The package was soaked with blood. Inside was a human hand and a note that read: "This is the hand that caused the trouble."

Dr. Margaret Ansari stared at the package's grisly contents yesterday and called police who found her estranged husband, an Indian neurosurgeon at Barnes Hospital, near death on the bathroom floor of his home.

The couple had been married for five years but for the past two months had been separated.

Police said Dr. Kjurshed Ansari, 30, apparently had used a hacksaw to cut off his right hand and had then sent his hand to his estranged wife, an American.

Hospital authorities said today Ansari remained in critical condition but was improving.

WITH FRIEND

Mrs. Ansari was staying with a friend.

Yesterday, a cabdriver knocked on the door and left a package, from which blood was trickling, with the friend, who opened the parcel and gave it to Mrs. Ansari.

Police said they found four notes in Dr. Ansari's home. They were addressed to the city coroner; to whom it may concern; Nazir Ansari, the doctor's brother; and William Cox, an associate of Ansari at Barnes Hospital.

Police did not reveal the contents of the notes.

SPACE PROBLEM—Accommodating ever-longer runways isn't the only space problem faced by modern air terminals. There's also the matter of adequate parking areas for ground transportation. This view of San Francisco's international airport shows outdoor areas which now handle 1,400 vehicles. A giant new multilevel garage next to the terminal is adding another 2,700 parking places.

Student Trainees at Area Restaurant

Too Many Cooks Don't Spoil the Broth

Extra help, although inexperienced, has fortified operations at the Skyroom Restaurant at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

★ ★ ★

The newcomers — 15 students from Waterford Township and Waterford Kettering high schools — began training last week with the start of second semester classes.

Mostly juniors, they have their hearts set on culinary careers.

Upon completion of the two-year program, most can be expected to seek employment in local restaurants, according to Dr. Burton K. Thorn, direction of vocational education of Waterford Township Schools.

★ ★ ★

But some, he predicted, will further their education, enrolling in outstanding courses as offered by Oakland Community College and Michigan State University.

MORE PROMISING

Employment in the restaurant field is more promising than many believe.

Products of Detroit Chadsey High School's model three-year program "are in high demand," noted Thorn.

They go directly into hotels and better restaurants as chefs, assistant managers and dining room supervisors, starting off at salaries ranging from $100 to $150 a week.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Charlotte Korte, a one-time teacher at Chadsey, is manager of the Skyroom and also instructs students.

The students work in two three-hour shifts at the restaurant, 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Besides learning the fundamentals of cooking, they receive dining room training.

In fact, much emphasis is placed on the customer. The restaurant is planning a workshop on "How to Put the Customer First."

Soon cards will be placed on tables so that customers can evaluate the operation.

LEASED FROM AIRPORT

Leased by Waterford Township Schools from the city-owned airport, the restaurant is assigned to Waterford - Kettering High School.

★ ★ ★

Restaurant hours are 7:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays. The restaurant is closed Mondays.

Should Draft 'Minor Criminals,' Says Selective Service Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, says "minor criminals" should be drafted as part of the push to satisfy Viet Nam manpower needs.

Hershey said yesterday local draft boards have been ordered to reexamine men rejected on a moral basis in conjunction with the over-all lowering of mental and physical standards for military service.

★

According to Hershey, there have been incidents of "young men committing crimes to escape the draft. I feel the armed forces should take some of these minor criminals."

The downward revision of draft standards was made to facilitate induction of 360,000 men in the current fiscal year, and another 160,000 in fiscal 1966-67 which opens July 1, 1966.

★

Defense Department figures show that more than 200,000 men have already been added to the service in the buildup.

AUTHORIZED STRENGTH

With the additional 150,000 or more to be called before July 1, authorized troops strength in the fall would be 3,093,000, 453,000 more than planned a year ago.

In a related development, a House Education subcommittee scheduled Wednesday hearings on the impact of drafting college students on the reservoir of trained professional manpower for civilian programs.

Hershey has said that college students in the lower ranks of their class would lose their deferments and be subject to the draft. This prompted the committee hearings.

★ ★

Hershey also said yesterday he has had "several phone calls" on the subject of deferments or rejection of those who have been involved in minor crimes.

Griffin Opens Bid for Senate Nomination

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Rep. Robert P. Griffin, claiming support of at least half the state Republican leadership, has opened his bid for the GOP Senate nomination.

★ ★ ★

Griffin, nine-year veteran in Congress, said he was confident he would get the GOP nomination for the seat now held by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

★ ★ ★

The 42-year-old Traverse City attorney said he did not expect to "ride on the governor's coattails" if nominated. However, he admitted it would be an advantage to be on the same ticket with Gov. George Romney and Lt. Gov. William Milliken.

Griffin spoke at a Lincoln Day dinner in Ionia Saturday night.

★ ★ ★

Griffin said he decided to run for the Senate, giving up a safe congressional seat, because of "a growing concern among the American people that the two-party system is too weak for the good of the country."

Scout Will Get Eagle Award

Seventeen-year-old David L. Bone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bone, 1634 Inverness, Sylvan Lake is to formally receive tonight his Eagle Scout award.

He is the first Scout from the troop to attain Eagle ranking since 1942.

Legalized Lotteries Gaining Throughout United States

Las Vegas lives off gambling.

New Hampshire legalized lotteries. Many states approve horse racing and the easy taxes therefrom. Now New York State will probably make lotteries official and provide $400 million a year for education. In Maryland, this will be a major issue in the gubernatorial race.

★ ★ ★

Objections to gambling are well-known. In a legalized lottery, those who don't believe don't have to pay a cent. The whole cost rests on the participants and yet everyone shares in the money that accrues.

★ ★ ★

Some gambling attracts undesirable elements, but the lottery is largely bookkeeping. A New York legislator has had a national lottery bill ready, but it remains bottled up for fear of violent opposition. If the proceeds of a national lottery reduced the national debt the move might claim a wide circle of adherents.

It may become a red-hot issue. What do YOU think?

Reaching a New Low . .

One of the most despicable occupations in this hysterical era is the theft of children's pets for quick sale to laboratories for scientific research.

It isn't new or tiny.

It's a big time deal.

★ ★ ★

There are gangs that definitely earn a living through the theft of puppies and other dogs. The labs used 2,250,000 dogs and cats last year. "At least half are family pets," says Pageant Magazine, "and documented cruelty precedes sale to the yawning maws that await them." A half-ton pickup truck in Missouri was jammed with 99 dogs, 19 of which were injured to the point they were destroyed right there by Humane Society agents.

★ ★ ★

Some are sold as pets.

But labs get the bulk.

And they're stolen from children.

Cost of Public Interest? . . . .

Professional athletics may have reached the zenith of financial largesse.

★ ★ ★

NBC is through paying exhorbitant fees for TV rights. Carl Lindermann, VP in charge of sports, declares they're hooked with specific commitments but they're looking elsewhere for the future. The stupendous charges far outweigh public interest.

★ ★ ★

Some of the money paid untried college football players bordered on the realms of mild insanity. (O. K. I take out the "mild.") The current Lions flareup, stems back to the idiocy of a few pro moguls. HUARTE, Notre Dame, was one of the boys in the astronomical bonus division and he couldn't even make the team.

★ ★ ★

If the National Football League ever gets bright enough to wave an olive branch in the direction of the American League and works out a mutual draft, the situation will return to normalcy. Otherwise, it will bankrupt some of the clubs or place them in the doldrums, saddled permanently with the weakest squads in the two leagues and a future of dismal financial failure.

Speeding Talk . . . .

Speed-talk is the latest.

★ ★ ★

Any verbal announcement is fed into a machine that compresses each word into half the time and an electric device removes distortions. Then the listener will sit with jaws ajar as the same remarks are delivered twice as rapidly. This compressed voice is very commanding and demands attention.

★ ★ ★

Most of the people that tell me off, talk too rapidly and with too great assurance as it is.

Can this process be reversed?

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Watch for this: LBJ wants the post offices open a trifle longer in the evening . . . . . There's a chestnut street vendor in New York that has this waggish sign on his little wagon: "Eat now. Pay Now." . . . . . Overheard: "A recent wedding in Rochester lasted three days. That's longer than some of TOMMY MANVILLE's marriages." . . . . . Chicago schools want a $75 million bond issue, just for buildings.

★ ★ ★

Trusted Scouts advise me Linda Morse deserves mention as one of our attractive young ladies. . . . . If the room temperature sinks to 67, why is it the little woman thinks it will warm up faster if she pushes the thermostat to 88? . . . . . The other day we ran a list of TV programs that had been frowned upon for children. Several protests were phoned in but they rarely agreed on the shows that were "right." . . . . . Overheard (in Cuba): "There's nothing like a fine cigar after no dinner."

LINDA

★ ★ ★

The A. C. NIELSEN TV standings only phone 1,100 homes for their official ratings. . . . . Sporty looking automobiles are receiving increasing customer acceptance from the public. The "teenage" demand is reaching into the older brackets. . . . . Overheard: "Substandard homes are those without color TV." . . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—our own BRUNO KEARN's sports arena; the J's—the junk mail from the Harvard University Press which sent us sixteen (16) (XVI) duplicate pleas to buy a certain something-or-other.

'Call The U. N.!'

David Lawrence Says:

Viet War Could End Suddenly

WASHINGTON — Nobody can predict just when the Viet Nam war will end, but it could happen suddenly.

LAWRENCE

An unexpected break has often come in the past.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, one of the advisers on Viet Nam who accompanied President Johnson to Honolulu, makes this very point in a copyrighted interview published this week by "U. S. News & World Report." He said:

"I can remember how quickly situations have changed in the past. Take the Berlin airlift — how quickly it stopped once the other side made its decision. And we had no intimation that it was going to end, or very little.

"The opening of negotiations in Korea came very quickly, although the negotiations thereafter dragged interminably.

"So we're never quite sure. When you're in action against an enemy and you're hitting each other day by day, the only thing you know is that, if you keep hitting him long enough, some day he'll give way. And I hope we're approaching that day."

IN COMMAND

Gen. Taylor was commander of our forces in Berlin during the latter part of the blockade crisis there. He later was U. N. commander in Korea and then became chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1962. He served last year as American ambassador to Viet Nam.

He is very knowledgeable on the whole Viet Nam problem, and believes that steady, unrelenting pressure is more significant in its effect than some single action or dramatic maneuver.

But even a policy intended to be resolute can fail to convince the enemy that it's time to quit.

If, for instance, the highbrow debates by professorial witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee continue to belittle our strategy and to give an impression of irresoluteness or weakness, the enemy will be encouraged to stick it out.

HIGHER PRICE

Only when the North Viet Nam government makes up its mind that the punishment being inflicted on it daily is not to be relaxed — and, instead, that the price is going to be higher in lives and damage to property — will there come a sudden decision to be realistic and arrange a cease-fire.

Gen. Taylor explained America's military position as follows:

"We're trying to create a situation which, in the eyes of the leaders in Hanoi, will be more disadvantageous than what would arise if they give up their aggression. So we have indicated there can be compensations, in terms of economic aid, participation in the development of Southeast Asia, and other advantages.

"One would hope that this will be the 'silver bridge,' which is always open to them, to withdraw from their situation."

4-POINT STRATEGY

Gen. Taylor, in his interview, outlined the four-point strategy which the United States is pursuing in Viet Nam—the use of ground warfare, the effective employment of air power, the advancement of nonmilitary activities and the continuance of the effort through diplomacy to find "an honorable, peaceful solution at the negotiation table."

He said the four components together make up what he calls "the American strategy in South Viet Nam."

He called it a "package" and remarked that one component can't be separated from the other.

The general stressed also one of the significant steps that has been taken by the United States in sending 1,200 American civilians to Viet Nam to help in the development of a program in agriculture, health, education and economic expansion.

WILL CONTINUE

This form of help will continue even after the war ends. The objective is to hold free elections, unite the North and South Vietnamese and bring a better life to all the people in this hitherto underdeveloped area.

★ ★ ★

The policy of the United States indeed envisions Viet Nam as an example of how substantial progress can be made by a small country when given guidance and direct aid by the nations of the free world.

Bob Considine Says:

'Friendless' Billy Rose Had One Key Contact

NEW YORK — Toots Shor, who is essentially a kind man, said the unkindest thing about Billy Rose. But he said it without malice about the incredible little showman who died the other day.

CONSIDINE

I once told Toots that I had heard a report that a mob was going to kidnap Billy.

Toots made gruff noises that indicated he didn't believe the report.

I assured him that it had come from a highly respectable hoodlum.

★ ★ ★

But still he wouldn't believe it, even though Billy was the perfect kidnap case: very rich, and easy to pick up and run with in case the bulls swooped down on the scene at the time of the snatch.

SHOOK HIS HEAD

Toots shook his head and all of his jowls.

I asked him what was wrong with the report that Billy would be kidnapped.

"Who would they contact?" Toots asked, spreading his hands.

★ ★ ★

Billy heard the story in time, was at first angry at the suggestion that he had no friends, but finally got around to laughing about it — with the same laugh he used during tirades directed against him as he wended his way to his broker's place to buy another ton of AT&T stock.

WITH SOME HEAT

"I'll tell you who they could contact," Billy said to me with some heat, the last time I talked to him and heard him relate Toots' story to my surprise. "They could contact Bernard Baruch."

He spoke of his close friend and adviser, a giant in his time. But now they are dead, Bernie and Billy, his protege.

And as one who knew both of them, and wrote a lot about them, my grazing ground is diminished.

★ ★ ★

And I am poorer, though you'd hardly know it with the brave front I'm putting up.

Where are the mothers who are satisfied with a used refrigerator, or can save half a week's pay by darning a sock, altering growing children's clothing, cutting a head of hair or fussing over a special pot of stew? Where are the mothers who really stretch dad's inadequate paycheck and make him feel proud and needed?

Why do they have to ask United Nations' permission for other countries to assist? There was no United Nations in World War I and II to decide whether we should help in those wars. Why are they spending taxpayers' money and time when they could be assisting the war?

Says Parents Could Help Reduce Vandalism

The new bond issue is upon us again in Waterford Township. Why don't we protect what we already have in our community before we put out more money for something else for children to destroy? The money that has been paid for repair of destruction by children would pay next year's taxes for a lot of people.

★ ★ ★

Why don't taxpayers pitch in and see what kind of policing is necessary to stop this vandalism? If more parents knew where their children were at night and cared about what they were doing, this would be a beginning to at least cutting down the destruction.

Government Controlled

The Harlington (Tex.) Star

In view of the way the federal government is taking over control of the federally subsidized public school system, any indication that the government is moving into the newspaper field via the subsidy route is disquieting. That which the government subsidizes, the government will control. The Supreme Court has laid down that ultimatum.

★ ★ ★

According to the Chronicle-Herald of Hoopeston, Illinois, the federal government has used $188,000 of the taxpayers' money to set up a subsidized newspaper in Willow Run, Michigan, which, in the subsidized newspapers' own words, was to provide "honest and true reporting the government feels of interest." That was bad enough. But now, the federal government is considering another $150,000 in tax funds to launch a newspaper which will be owned and operated by a quasi governmental agency . . . a community action group. We quote:

★ ★ ★

"The press is threatened by a request for a $150,000 federal grant to launch a weekly newspaper here, Rep. Donald Runsfeld, (R-Ill.) says.

"He denounced a proposal now under consideration by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) for the demonstration grant to a Washington community action group to start the paper. The eight-page, 5-cent tabloid would serve residents of a poverty area.

★ ★ ★

"Approval of the request would put the government directly into the business of propagandizing, in competition with privately owned newspapers.

"This would amount to a violation of the constitutional guarantee of a free press. The next step could be for the government to tell the newspaper what it can—and cannot say in print. Just how far has the federal government gone in a process which could ultimately result in official Pravdas and Izvestias in the United States."

Eventually . . .

All Ways Help

The Baltimore Sun

Negro athletes have contributed a lot to improving the situation of all Negroes. This has been particularly true in prize fighting, from Joe Louis to Floyd Patterson. But lately, what a change!

Sonny Liston, despite some really decent impulses — his association with groups working with Negro orphanages, for instance — was a sorry champion. Cassius Clay has outraged and embarrassed Negroes and whites alike.

It's good to read, therefore, that Clay has hired Louis to advise him. We hope Louis won't limit his advice to ring conduct.

He's quite wise in other ways. Once he was asked about his contribution to the civil rights movement. He said, "Some people do it by shouting, some march, some talk, some give lots of money, I do it my way, behaving. All ways help."

Valentines Are for Real and Cupid Scores a Hit

MRS. KENNETH B. VALENTINE

KATHLEEN VALENTINE

ROSEANN AND CATHERINE VALENTINE

By MADELEINE DOEREN

Today has a special significance for some 20 families in the Pontiac area with the name of Valentine!

Historians are somewhat vague about the early observance of Valentine's Day except for the fact that it falls on the feast of two different Christian martyrs named Valentine.

Three hundred years ago on St. Valentine's Day in England, young ladies behaved in a most peculiar manner. And with good reason.

* * *

Their strange conduct was based on an old superstition: that the first man seen by an unmarried girl on the holiday was destined to be her spouse.

Some girls took odd precautions to ensure their seeing the 'right' man first. Some stayed home all day to await his arrival. Others were said to have kept their eyes closed for interminable lengths of time.

* * *

When the gentleman did appear, he usually brought a gift, perhaps a heart-shaped box of porcelain, enamel or gold, perhaps with a message inside.

It is from these tokens and missives that our present-day valentines and the custom of gift-giving on February 14 are derived.

* * *

Mrs. Kenneth B. Valentine of Phelan Street, in Deer Lake Estates will undoubtedly pursue Valentine genealogy further, for she is the subject of one of our thumbnail sketches today.

She is an alumna of Butler University, Indianapolis, and earned her master's degree at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania.

* * *

Her affiliations include Clarkston Women's Club, Clarkston Village Players, Waterford Book Review Group and 15 years with the Waterford Great Books Group.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am a widow of 53, living comfortably on interest from money in savings banks. I own 150 shares Times Inc., which is now worth $15,000. Should I hold or sell half and put the proceeds into the bank? What do you think of New England Telephone? It doesn't seem to do very much. My mother bought it five years ago at 51½ and it shows a loss." —H.C.

A) New England Telephone is an excellent income producer, but its growth—except for the past two years—has been only moderate. I advise your mother to keep the stock. The current yield is 4.5 per cent and since New England — particularly Boston — is undergoing somewhat of a renaissance, I believe the stock will show further appreciation.

You have an excellent growth holding in Time Inc. I believe you should switch half to Eastman Kodak for diversification purposes only. I advise you to add no more to savings, since these — unlike the two stocks mentioned — can offer you no inflation protection whatsoever.

* * *

Q) "I own $20,000 Series H bonds, maturing March 1966. Can you tell me the advantages in savings bonds or good municipal bonds. I am in my 70s and interested only in safety." —C.F.

A) Your Series H bonds maturing next month have been promised an extension. The President has announced that the interest rate will be raised on all bonds now outstanding, as well as on those to be extended. For a person in your position, there are great advantages in holding savings bonds. You get absolute safety combined with complete stability, which is unobtainable in any other bond whatsoever.

Municipals offer a higher taxable equivalent yield if your income is in the upper brackets. They do fluctuate on money conditions, which might disturb you. I advise you to extend your Series H bonds.

Loan Demand Ups Pressure on Rates

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—As the business boom rounds out its fifth year, the demand for loans is rising and with it the pressure for still higher interest rates.

DAWSON

Many in the banking field feel that another hike in the cost of borrowing is not too far off. Involved would be consumers, business firms, buyers of new homes.

Put the other way around, rewards for savers and returns to lenders would be rising further. This runs all the way from the interest payments on U. S. savings bonds and bank savings accounts to the yield enjoyed by suppliers of funds for mortgages or for business expansion.

* * *

The administration is expected to oppose this, or to delay it as long as possible. It prefers money to be plentiful and fairly cheap to keep the economy expanding through a sixth straight year.

Some banks already are raising again the interest they will pay on large deposits tied up for six months or more.

OTHER SIDE

On the other side of the coin, the Federal Housing Administration has just raised the interest charged on mortgages it insures. Formerly this cost 5¼ per cent. Now it costs 5½ per cent. Lenders of conventional mortgages unbacked by the FHA get an average of 6 per cent. The building industry is debating whether interest increases all along the line are in prospect.

Banks borrowing from the Federal Reserve have been paying 4½ per cent since early December, when the cost went up by ½ per cent. Dr. Roy L. Reierson, senior vice president, Bankers Trust Company, New York, predicts this soon will be raised still higher. Other bankers express the same belief privately.

* * *

The increase in the discount rate in December brought a rebuke from Washington but was quickly followed by an identical ½ per cent rise in the prime rate charged by the banks to their largest customers with the best credit rating. It is now 5 per cent. Dr. Reierson thinks it will go up again. That would mean that the great volume of bank loans, always higher than the prime rate, will be more costly, too.

The Federal Reserve since December has allowed banks to charge 5½ per cent on time deposits, but only 4 per cent on regular savings accounts. Few banks will pay that much on time deposits yet, but several have raised their interest rates close to it.

DEMAND HIGH

The reason banks and other lenders are willing to pay savers more these days is that the demand for loans has risen so high — and the interest that can be earned on bank loans has gone up so much, too — that lenders are competing for funds. To do that they lure savers with higher rewards.

Predictions that the demand for funds will goon growing — and that interest rates will keep in step — are based on the majority view in financial circles that the economic upswing is sure to continue through 1966.

* * *

Spending for the Viet Nam war will stimulate the economic growth. And if this should slacken, bankers feel that the spending for Great Society programs would be quickly increased.

They add that any real letdown in the economy's pace would inspire the administration to seek new tax cuts and bigger federal deficits to revive the boom.

N.Y. Banker Urges U.S. to Give Foreign Aid to Fewer Nations

DETROIT (AP) — New York banker David Rockefeller urged today that U.S. foreign aid be channeled to fewer recipients —especially to nations trying to cope with the problems of too many people and not enough food.

* * *

Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank, told the Economic Club of Detroit in prepared remarks:

"The problems of population and the productiveness of agriculture must be given a new and far greater emphasis in all thinking and actions relating to the economic advance of the developing world."

"Dispersing our investment efforts among dozens of nations usually results in making our contribution to each of them too small ..., at the same time depriving those relatively few which could competently utilize more aid," Rockefeller said.

NATION'S POTENTIAL

An underdeveloped nation's advancement potential, he suggested, depends largely on birth control and increased farm output. If progress is not made in these areas, he said, "widespread famine will be a grim condition of life — or rather of death — in large areas of the world."

Some poorer nations, he warned, ignored the need for more food and devote too much capital to "the fetish of industrialization." These should receive a smaller share of U.S. foreign aid, Rockefeller said.

* * *

He also urged that underdeveloped nations invest in needed building programs — roads and railroads, canals, harbors and dams. And he said such nations should take added steps to encourage private investment in their economies.

Rockefeller asked that Congress pass a measure now before it, providing a 30 per cent tax credit in the first year on private U.S. investments in developing countries.

* * *

"It is also my conviction that, by broadening still further the risk guarantees that our government provides for qualified overseas investments, more businesses would avail themselves of venturesome opportunities," he said.

Record High in Wholesale Price Level

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wholesale prices — a major indicator of inflationary trends — rose 0.5 per cent in January to another record high.

The labor department reported yesterday that prices in primary markets went up to 104.6 per cent of their average level in their 1957-59 base period.

They were 3.6 per cent higher than a year ago.

Farm products and processed foods showed the largest increases and prices for industrial commodities also advanced as the nation's economy neared the five-year mark of continued growth.

Wholesale prices, along with the consumer price index, are two of the major barometers used by governmental experts to measure economic activity and the need for brakes of stimulants for the economy.

GM Worker Ideas Draw Record Funds

Employes at both Pontiac Motor Division and GMC Truck & Coach Division were awarded record amounts last year under the General Motors Suggestion Plan.

A total of $276,737 was awarded to Pontiac Motor employes for 2,549 suggestions adopted by the division and 2,521 Fisher Body workers shared $131,806.

Employe suggestions are aimed at methods of making jobs safer and easier and improving plant operations.

Pontiac Motor made five maximum awards of $6,000 last year and GMC Truck & Coach made three.

Fisher Body Division presented $59,000 in suggestion compensation during 1965 on 2,136 suggestions.

There were no maximum award winners.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A decision to use the zone press and an unexpected boost from Minnesota have put Michigan back on top of the Big Ten basketball race.

The Wolverines, using the press to force Wisconsin to speed up its game, walloped the Badgers 120-102 Saturday. Meanwhile, Minnesota defeated Michigan State, 81-71, to drop the Spartans one game back of Michigan.

Indiana bumped Illinois 81-77, Northwestern dropped Iowa, 81-73, and Ohio State crushed Purdue 68-54.

Michigan's pressing defense was chiefly responsible for a record breaking performance. The Wolverines broke two team scoring records and now share two, including a Big Ten mark, with the Badgers.

GAME MARK

The 120 points scored by the Wolverines broke the game mark of 117, set against the University of Detroit two years ago, and the conference high of 110 points set against Indiana in 1962.

The two-team total of 222 points eclipsed the 204 scored in the 117-97 verdict over Detroit and the Big Ten record of 214 set by Indiana (122) and Ohio State (92) in 1959 and tied by Illinois (121) and Purdue (93) last year.

Wildcats Beat Orion, 64-58

W. Bloomfield Upset; Romeo Posts Win

A couple of also-rans gained a little cage respect with victories Saturday night.

Oxford won its fifth game of the season, a 64-58 verdict over Lake Orion, while Milford ended a 12-game losing streak with a 59-56 decision over West Bloomfield.

★ ★ ★

In another Saturday outing, Walled Lake suffered its 13th loss in a row in an 89-70 setback at the hands of Redford Union.

In other games, Romeo downed Troy, 58-51, and Cranbrook turned back University School, 75-56.

Oxford (5-10) and Orion (1-13) battled on even terms for three quarters, but the Wildcats came up with a 15-9 point advantage in the final period to wrap up the win. The loss was Orion's seventh straight.

Roger Miller led the winners with 25 points, and Dennis Brophy picked up 17 for Orion.

Mike Yeager and Paul Skinner collected 20 points apiece in bringing Milford's (2-12) losing string to a halt. Tim Moller tossed in 24 for West Bloomfield (6-7).

Romeo, which made only four of 18 free throws in losing to L'Anse Creuse Friday night, picked up 20 of 35 Saturday, and the shooting from the charity line proved the difference as both teams recorded 19 field goals apiece.

★ ★ ★

Dale Craft paced the winners with 16 points and Bruce Baas tossed in 22 for Troy.

John Pavloff tossed in 24 points in sparking Cranbrook (6-8) to its third win in a row.

Atlanta Awaits NFL Player Lists

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The new Atlanta Falcons were desperately searching for support from other National Football League clubs today as the league opened its winter meetings.

The Falcons, who must pick up the nucleus for the first team which will play in the 1966 season, were finding out that the other 14 teams didn't plan to be as generous as they had earlier anticipated.

★ ★ ★

The Falcons are to get three players from each of the other 14 clubs for total of 42 veterans. These, together with the players acquired through the college draft and those signed as free agents, are to make up the training rosters for the team which becomes the 15th member of the NFL next fall.

It was first believed that each club would freeze 25 of the 40 players who were on their active roster at the close of the 1965 season and that the Falcons would be able to select their three from the 15 remaining.

But it was becoming obvious by late Sunday night that the clubs were more inclined to set the figure no lower than 32 on the freeze list and possibly as high as 34.

This would mean that the 42 veterans which the Falcons would select would be taken from players who had seen little action for their present teams.

ROUTINE REPORTS

The first day's session was expected to be devoted almost entirely to routine reports by various league committees and the pressing question of how many players the Falcons would have a shot at was not expected to be decided until Tuesday.

The Falcons then will have until probably Thursday to complete their choices.

The only other burning issue before this year's meeting is the selection of a 16th team to complete the expansion move started when Atlanta was admitted to the NFL last year with play to begin in 1966.

The other team will not actually begin play until 1967 and it was clearly indicated that although discussions about the expansion will come up at the meeting any final decision won't be made until later.

Seven cities are seeking the new franchise in the NFL. They are Boston, Cincinnati, Houston, New Orleans, Phoenix, Portland and Seattle.

Fortunes Rise for Ice Squad

Road Officials Show They Give a 'Hoot'

The Lakeland Hawks are finding the second half of the Southeast Michigan Juvenile Hockey Association race more to their liking.

The Hawks under coach Ray Graham won two games over the weekend, boosting their record to 2-1 since the January realignment that put them in the Midget Division. The Hawks are in second place.

Friday night, Lakeland drubbed Utica, 10-1, as Bruce Strohm scored three goals and brother Brian two. Former goaltender Randy Sutt tallied twice while Richie Bell was a strong playmaker. Ron Young and Dick Gorman also scored.

Yesterday, the Hawks got another good performance by goalie Larry Schneider and dumped Warren, 5-1. Robbie Hall scored his second and third goals of the weekend; Sutt, Brian Strohm and Chuck Graham added the others.

The Waterford Rangers trailed 2-0 until the final two minutes when Glen Burke and Mike Dunlop scored to give them a 2-2 tie with Fraser. Waterford is now 1-1 in Juvenile Division.

MSU Shows Class in 43rd Track Relays

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State forgot about the rule that the polite host doesn't take the biggest chunk of cake at its 43rd annual relays Saturday night.

No team score is kept at the relays, but MSU clearly dominated the event with five firsts.

Air Force Academy and Southern Illinois won three events each to help spread around some of the honors.

Gene Washington, the pass-snatching end, won both the 70-yard high and low hurdles. His times of :08.5 in the highs and :07.9 in the lows both were only one-tenth of a second off the meet and Jenison Fieldhouse records.

156 Points Tallied by Local Hoopsters

Michigan Christian Junior College remained a strong contender for the post-season state Christian College AA basketball tournament title with an impressive win Saturday.

The Warriors' fast break riddled hapless Great Lakes Bible College of Lansing, 156-56, for their seventh win in nine league starts. The win kept them in second place behind undefeated Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music.

Seven players were in twin figures for the winners. Jim Martin had 31, Bud Pressley 29, Jim Hudson 24 and Wes Taphin 21 as the main gunners. The Warriors scored 89 points in the final half.

Wolverine Tankers Dunked

Michigan, rated the No. 1 swimming team in the country, suffered its first loss of the season Saturday at Bloomington where the Indiana Hoosiers scored a 66-57 triumph.

It avenged the one point loss Indiana suffered at the hands of the Wolverines earlier this season.

In another Big Ten meet, Michigan State defeated Ohio State, 75-48.

Pontiac area swimmers took part in the Michigan State victory and also for Ohio State.

Bob Wolf and Lee Driver, ex-Birmingham swimmers, helped MSU to the 400 medley relay win, while Driver touched first in the 200 breastroke at 2:18.0.

Ex-PCH swimmer Ben Donaldson settled for second place in the 1,000 freestyle and the 500 freestyle for Ohio State.
