HAVE A FLING

Here's a riddle for you: What goes "Comma leat misse, mas toil leat do bheatha thoir'n arrigh dhuit fhein!"
and then doesn't bother to translate it for you? The answer is Henry Kennedy (political science), who wants to catch our attention to point out that the third annual Highland Games will be staged on campus on Saturday and Sunday, May 16 and 17. The games are a combination of Scottish dancing, piping and partying and Kennedy's preamble is in Gaelic, the ancient tongue of Scotland. Otherwise, he tells us, there's no relationship. The sentence most likely has something to do with the Irish elections.

TSK TSK

In the May issue of "Analytical Chemistry," Dr. Anthony Van Geet (chemistry) points out that chemists have measured the temperature inaccurately while making nuclear magnetic resonance spectra of chemical compounds. In view of the fact that large numbers of chemists have made these measurements for nearly ten years, it is surprising that this inaccuracy has not been noted sooner.

MRS. DRIVER SPEAKS

Eleanor Driver (continuum center) recently spoke to 200 wives of Vickers Division's U.S. and international executives at the firm's 1970 General Sales Meeting. Mrs. Driver's topic focused on the wife's role and it's importance in the success and growth of the total family.

ANDREAS IN AKRON

Carol Andreas (sociology) delivered a paper at the Ohio Valley Sociology meetings held in Akron, Ohio, April 30-May 2. The topic of her paper was "The Women's Liberation Movement: Recognition of 'Cultural Lag' or Discovery of New Power?" She is revising the paper for inclusion in an anthology to be published by John Wiley and Sons and edited by John Conyers and Morris Medley.
