Dulles Asks United Europe

Backs Adenauer in Move to Build a 'Third Force'

Says It's Unthinkable for Free Nations to Be Neutral to Communism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today the nations of Western Europe should become a third great power in world affairs. He called it unthinkable that they should be neutral toward Soviet communism.

At a news conference, Dulles strongly endorsed efforts by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and others to convert the Western European Union into a stronger unifying force.

He said both President Eisenhower and he favor this and do not consider it to be a slap at the United States.

Under questioning as to whether Europe should become a "third force" as between Russia and the United States, Dulles said he thought it appropriate that Europe should develop into a third great power and said he believes it is within the capacity of the European nations.

Unless they so develop, he added, their future looks very dubious indeed. He said it is unthinkable that Christian countries should be neutral toward materialistic and atheistic Soviet communism.

Dulles made these major points on other matters:

1. Talks between Yugoslav President Tito and Soviet leaders presumably involve very serious questions of relations between Russia and Red satellite countries. Dulles said he believes Tito favors independence of the satellites from Soviet domination — which means Dulles thinks Tito is seeking an objective favored by the United States.

* * *

2. There are differences between the United States and Britain-France over what Dulles called fundamental issues in the Suez Canal crisis. In sum, he asserted that the United States would not identify itself 100 per cent with colonial powers because it seeks friendly relations with anti-colonial countries.

3. On a current political issue, Dulles defended U.S. dealings with Argentine Dictator Juan Peron.

The record has been attacked by Democratic candidates and criticism has now been voiced by Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, editor of La Prensa, who returned to Buenos Aires when Peron was ousted.

Body of Hunted Dad Found in Woods

Father Kills 6 Children

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Officers early today discovered six children slain by gun and ax in their humble tenant farm home, and several hours later their father's body was found in woods nearby, a gun beside him.

CLINTON, N. C. (INS)—A crazed 34-year-old tenant farmer used a shotgun, rifle and woods ax today to murder his six small children.

* * *

A deputy sheriff who went to the farm home of Rufus A. King to serve a warrant taken out by his wife after a family quarrel discovered the bodies of the children strewn about the house.

Deputy sheriff Ira Hatch peered into a window when he got no answer to his knock. He saw three bodies on the floor of the room, and one on the bed. Breaking into the house, Hatch and another deputy found the bodies of two more children, one in the kitchen and one in the doorway leading from the bedroom to the living room.

Neighbors told deputies the children were: Grace 12, Sonny 11, Melvin 10, Ruth 5, Jerry 4 and Sue 2.

A manhunt was begun immediately for the father, who was believed to have fled to a nearby wooded area. All available state highway patrolmen joined sheriff's deputies and a citizens' posse in the hunt, and bloodhounds were rushed from a nearby prison camp.

The mass slayings apparently all took place this morning, after the children were ready for school.

Neighbors saw the children playing in the yard of the home, awaiting the arrival of the school bus. On the porch of the five-room wood-frame house lay a little girl's blue and white book satchel holding a speller, notebook and some broken crayons.

A neighbor who lives about 100 yards from the King home, Mrs. William Daughtry, was overcome by the tragedy emotionally. She listed the names of the King children and observed:

"Except for the fighting between him and his wife, Mr. King was a good man. They fought quite a bit but we never interfered. He was the best tenant farmer my husband ever had. He paid all of his bills this year and had money in the bank."

The couple had one of their arguments yesterday . . . Mrs. King charged her husband with assault, and Deputy Hatch and a fellow officer went to the farm home to serve the warrant this morning.

The mother was not at home last night. She left King and the children and went to a neighboring community about 15 miles away to spend the night.

Officers who talked to her this morning said she became hysterical when told of the slayings.

Supervisors Aid Pontiac in Grand Trunk Conflict

Last-minute maneuvering by Pontiac City Attorney William A. Ewart—and unexpected cooperation from the County Board of Supervisors—yesterday left Pontiac still in bargaining position over the proposed Grand Trunk Railroad freight yard in the city's north end.

Pontiac city commissioners have opposed the railroad proposal to build a switching yard stretching half a mile west from Baldwin Avenue along Walton Boulevard.

They have said it would interfere with their plans to improve and widen Stanley Avenue as a north-south artery to relieve traffic along Baldwin.

Yesterday, Ewart told county supervisors he has just discovered Pontiac does not own the 43-foot Stanley Avenue right of way.

He said a section of the road is among parcels of county-owned land now being offered for sale and that Grand Trunk Railroad is about to buy it.

APPROVED FOR SALE

According to Ewart, this section —concealed by a lengthy legal description — was approved for sale by supervisors at the Sept. 17 meeting of the Board.

Pleading for reconsideration of the vote of approval, Ewart said loss of the right of way would be "a blow to the northeast quadrant of the city comparable to the blow received by the Andrea Doria."

He explained the right of way was inadvertently included in the city's tax rolls during the depression, and was sold to the county through the State Land Board when the taxes weren't paid.

Supervisor Harold K. Schone, moving board approval of Ewart's request said, "We have always cooperated with the city of Pontiac. I think we should continue the policy."

Supervisors unanimously agreed.

Schone, chairman of the County Building committee, made his motion despite the fact that city fathers have taken no action on a request he sent them in April asking temporary vacation of West Boulevard to facilitate building of the proposed new County Courthouse.

Headon Crash Kills Girl, 18-Months-Old

Eighteen-month-old Sally Reynolds of Lapeer, was killed yesterday when the car she was riding in with her mother and three other children was struck headon by another.

Her mother, Mrs. Florence Reynolds, 23, and a brother Michael, 3, are both in good condition at Flint Hospital today with cuts and bruises.

Lapeer County deputies said the Reynolds car was struck while turning into the driveway of her trailer home. The other driver, Lawrence Phillips, 58, of Flint, was cut and bruised.

UM-MSU Agree to Confine Capers to the Gridiron

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan and Michigan State students have agreed on a non-aggression pact to try to end raids on each other's campuses prior to Saturday's football game.

The peace pact does not apply to the football teams, however, student leaders emphasized.

In the past, UM students have daubed the Spartan statue on the East Lansing campus with university colors and painted their block "M" in strategic locations.

State students countered with such tactics as carving an "S" in the Michigan stadium turf and trying to block up the Engineering Arch on the Ann Arbor campus.

Student courts will try any vandals caught and the raiders will be made to clean up any damage, both schools agreed. In addition, prosecution of civil court action will be encouraged.

Pontiacs Total 405,729 for '56

Assembly Lines Close Down for Inventory and Model Changeover

Total production of 1956 Pontiacs reached 405,729 cars today as assembly lines closed for the annual inventory and model changeover, according to Semon E. Knudsen, GM vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

The model's run was the fourth highest in Pontiac history. It was exceeded by figures of 446,429 in 1950, 418,619 in 1953, and the all-time 1955 high of 554,090.

Production of 1957 Pontiacs will start Oct. 15, Knudsen said, with dealer showings scheduled for Nov. 9.

A total of 5,500 Pontiac workers are expected to be idled during the shutdown, beginning today. Of these, 3,440 will return to work Monday, and the rest by Oct. 15. Of the 1956 Pontiac production, 30 per cent was in the luxury Star Chief series. Another 24 per cent was in the 870 series, and 46 per cent in the economy priced 860 series.

Ike Back Home Following Tour of Two States

Visits Kentucky, Ohio for Campaign Attacks on Democrats

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower is back at the White House today after rousing political receptions in Ohio and Kentucky and a full day of attacking Democrats.

He arrived in Washington early today from Lexington, Ky., where he told a GOP rally last night there are prospects for lower taxes if Republicans win in November.

Eisenhower carried his vote-hunting campaign south for the first time to try winning two key Senate seats for the GOP.

He pictured a bright future for the nation if Republicans are victorious and said he foresees "an America where the greatest possible government efficiency allows the lowest possible government cost — and, hence, lower taxes."

Earlier yesterday, before a crowd of 50,000 in Cleveland, Eisenhower accused Democrats of spreading "wicked nonsense" that they alone "care" for the workers.

He also departed from his prepared text to warn Democrats they cannot convince the American people his administration is not working "with all its might to bring enduring peace to the world."

* * *

His Lexington speech, beamed to a nationwide radio-television audience, stressed what he called the the danger of return to Democratic rule which brought only "a drifting war . . . raging inflation . . . bigger federal spending and heavier federal taxation."

Some 35,000 persons, including Democratic Gov. Albert "Happy" Chandler, turned out for the President's Lexington appearance.

Previously, at least 150,000 Ohioans had seen him either at the rally in the center of the Cleveland business district or along his route to the airport.

Eisenhower's White House schedule this morning called for a meeting with Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, chairman of the Nationalities Division of the Republican National Committee, and another with Attorney General Jacob Javits of New York, a GOP senatorial candidate.

* * *

This afternoon Eisenhower was to confer with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in preparation for Dulles' role Friday in the U.N. debate on the Suez dispute.

Sunny Skies to Stay Through Wednesday

The weather forecast for the Pontiac area tonight is fair and cooler. The low is expected to be around 44 to 48.

Predicted for tomorrow is a little cooler and mostly sunny with a high near 66 to 70.

The low last night in downtown Pontiac was 58.

British Labor Party Gives Bevan Office

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Britain's Labor party today elected Aneurin Bevan as its treasurer, emphasizing the opposition party's sharp swing toward advocacy of more state ownership.

The fiery Welsh orator scored a substantial victory over George Brown, a moderate Labor member of Parliament, to regain his seat in the party's important National Executive Committee.

Moderate followers of Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell retained their strong majority on the 28-member executive, but the Bevanite group of left wingers increased its holdings.

Bevan's victory touched off speculation he might attempt to unseat Gaitskell as leader of Labor's parliamentary group or at least try for the deputy leader's post held by James Griffiths, a fellow Welshman.

Asked about this, Bevan replied: "I can't answer at this stage. One never rules out any possibility."

Bevan, 58-year-old former coal miner and Parliament's strongest speaker since Sir Winston Churchill stepped aside, will fill one of the party's most powerful posts as treasurer.

Bevan, who often is critical of U.S. foreign policy, is a determined advocate of more militant socialism and wider state ownership of industry.

His election underlined a growing trend within the party to erase the old lines of demarcation between the left and moderate wings of the party. The moderates in recent years have advocated that Britain stand pat and nationalize no more industries for a while.

Police Blame Mental Anguish Over Eviction

Aged Carpenter Found 5 Miles Away, a Victim of Shock

A 73-year-old carpenter apparently set fire to his rented house this morning and left his dead wife's body lying outside on a mattress, State Police said today.

The man, Wallace Niehaus of Disco, a small community near Utica, then staggered off into the woods, police said. He was found in a garage near Utica five hours after his house burned to the ground.

Police blamed mental anguish over an eviction suit for his actions. Neighbors said he was to be evicted today.

* * *

Macomb County Coroner Clifford Reed said Niehaus' wife, Christine, 63, appeared to have died of natural causes.

The blaze was spotted at 4:30 a.m. by a neighbor, Jacob Dasho, who lives across the road. His wife called firemen and State Police while he ran across to help at the fire.

The one-story frame building was destroyed by the time firemen arrived.

* * *

Niehaus is under treatment for shock and exposure at St. Joseph Hospital in Mt. Clemens.

He was taken there after his arrest by troopers of the Romeo State Police Post.

A woman neighbor told investigators she had heard the man "yelling and screaming" in her garden.

Several items of furniture, believed to have been placed outside before the blaze, were saved. Troopers said Mrs. Niehaus' body and the mattress she was on had also been brought outside before the fire.

The Dashos told police they were awakened by their dog just before the fire. They said they found some of Niehaus' furniture in their garage with a note signed by Niehaus willing it to them.

They said they saw Niehaus in his yard and he shouted at them to stay away from his house. "We went back inside and minutes later saw flames in the Niehaus home, and Niehaus running from the house," the couple told investigators.

* * *

Dasho said he found no apparent marks of violence on the woman's body which was lying face up on the mattress.

Niehaus, a retired carpenter, and his wife were to have been evicted from their rented house but neighbors said the aged couple was planning to move to another house today.

Suggests Ban on Bomb Tests

Adlai Says Ike Should Head Move; Russia Is Willing

TEANECK, N.J. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson challenged President Eisenhower today to "take the leadership" in a move to ban hydrogen bomb tests and suggested Russia is willing to go along.

Renewing his campaign call for an end to testing of large-scale nuclear weapons, the Democratic presidential nominee declared:

"The renunciation of such tests is a step which I think the great powers are now willing to take —if there is leadership in this direction.

"It is a step that can be safely taken, for no one can explode a hydrogen bomb in secret, and each would know whether the others were acting in good faith. It would be a step along a new path toward peace."

Since only the United States, Britain and Russia are known to possess nuclear weapons, Stevenson obviously included Russia when he said he thinks "the great powers" are willing to suspend H-bomb tests.

Stevenson's assertion that a hydrogen bomb cannot be exploded "in secret" apparently was a reply to Eisenhower's Sept. 19 dismissal of his proposals as a one-sided "theatrical national gesture"

Opening Morning Comes Early

Goose Talk Music to Sportsmen

By JACK PATTERSON
Pontiac Press Outdoor Writer

SENEY, UPPER PENINSULA—The only trouble with opening day is that it starts so early in the morning—particularly after a rather brief night.

* * *

The place we stayed was all right except that there appeared to be a nest of buffalo, or other large game, holding fort on the roof all night.

PATTERSON

Sleep, as it was, came in fits and starts. Breakfast was no improvement. Syrup for pancakes was served cold. The coffee was right out of the dishpan and the waitress was no Marilyn Monroe.

So it was that we arrived in the early morning twilight, at the proposed scene of action, in a mood to be mean to dogs and small children. Since sharp-tails were our planned first order of business we parked in a grassy burn, devoid of cover. But not for long.

DARK FIGURE

A dark figure approached out of the ground fog. As he drew closer we became convinced that he was the escapee from Marquette that the state police had stopped us and warned us about a few minutes before. Turned out he was just a goose hunter and it seemed to be his opinion that we were parked in the middle of the principal goose flyway.

Well, we haven't any grudge against shooting geese, so we withdrew the machine to the cover of a clump of red pines. It didn't look like a goosey setup, though we've been wrong before.

No sooner had we assembled a gun than the air was full of goose talk. The ground fog had lifted to perhaps a hundred feet beneath the fog ceiling were geese, hundreds of geese, moving in every direction.

We still didn't believe it as a close "honk" turned our attention to the left.

There not 20 feet off the ground and not more than 20 yards away were two geese, looking like B-25's on their set wings, headed right over us. They came too soon and were in too close. We bored three perfect holes in the sky and stood helpless as they majestically beat away.

Next a noise from the right and a single Canada sailed by on his downwind leg. Almost by, that is. This time we were on and he collapsed in mid-air. There are few things that look bigger, or better, for that matter than a big goose folding in the pink sky of sunrise.

From that point on the keen eye

Asks 'Severe Penalty' for 3

Poznan Prosecution Accuses Youths in June Uprising Death

POZNAN, Poland (AP) — The Poznan trials prosecution demanded today a "severe penalty" for three youths accused of killing a security police corporal in the June 28 Poznan riots.

* * *

Under Polish law the penalty can range from 10 years imprisonment to death for an attack on a state official or members of the armed forces. The prosecutor did not specifically demand death.

In a second trial against nine other Poles accused of rioting, storming public buildings and stealing arms, the defense created a sensation.

It asked that the workers' delegation of the Zipos works, which traveled in vain to Warsaw in June to work out workers' grievances with the Polish government, be called as witnesses.

* * *

It was after this delegation was refused an audience by Warsaw authorities that workers at the Zipso plant went on strike, touching off demonstrations which turned into the "bread and freedom" riots. Fifty-three persons were killed and several hundred wounded.

The two state prosecutors immediately opposed the move to call the committee. They claimed it would be unjust to "put legitimate members of the workers' class in the dock" with alleged criminals and hooligans.

Diggings Record 8,000 Years

Evidences Unearthed in Cave Excavations on Alabama Farm

WASHINGTON — The National Geographic Society has announced that a record of human life in North America reaching back 8,000 years has been unearthed in a limestone cave on an Alabama farm.

* * *

Excavations by the Society and the Smithsonian Institution reveal the oldest firmly dated evidence of man in the southeast United States.

Layer by layer, a cross section of bones, tools, and weapons has been peeled from the floor of Russell Cave, near Bridgeport, Aabama, close to the Tennessee border. It shows human occupancy from 6200 B.C., or earlier, to 1650 A.D.

Led by Smithsonian archeologist Carl F. Miller, the expedition has dug down 14 feet. Remains of a man-made fire at that point have been dated by radioactive carbon tests as being 8,160 years old, plus or minus 300 years.

* * *

At the six-foot level excavators found a skeleton of a cave Indian who died about 4,000 years ago.

Above a pleasant valley, Russell Cave burrows 107 feet wide, 26 feet high and 270 feet deep into a limestone hillside. A nearby stream provided fish and mussels for the cave dwellers, to suppement wild animals, berries, and seeds in their diet.

Truman Claims Ike Is 'Scared'

Believes Fear Reason Eisenhower Stepped Up Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Truman said today President Eisenhower has stepped up his campaign because he is "scared" about the outcome of the election.

The Democrat, taking his morning stroll, commented:

"He's scared. We've got them (the Republicans) all scared. They're scared of everything."

A reporter asked Truman for comment on Vice President Nixon's charge that Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, and Truman had deserted principles on which the Democratic party was founded.

"He's got a hell of a right to be talking about principles," Truman declared.

To a report that betting odds are 3 to 1 that Eisenhower will win, Truman said:

"I'll bet you a nickel you could not get a bet at those odds."

Truman said the betting odds were 15 to 1 against him when he was elected in 1948.

Truman said the Republicans had found that a candidate could not be elected if he restricted his campaign to television and radio appearances.

Truman, who has put in three days of campaigning here, is leaving today by train for his home in Independence, Mo.

Liberace's First British Concert Is Dismal Flop

LONDON (INS) — Liberace staged his first British concert at London's famed Festival Hall last night—and flopped badly.

The American pianist tried hard to entertain an audience of 3,500 persons but many of them became bored and left early.

The performance also took a terrific panning from newspaper critics. Typical was this comment by the News Chronicle's critic:

"Liberace is no more a concert pianist than I am a Zulu princess."

The Daily Express called the program "a cross between a circus turn and a fancy-dress parade."

And the Daily Herald's critic wrote:

"Liberace, a deliberate peacock and a preposterous walking wardrobe, took the starch out of Festival Hall."

Still another cause to dim the pianist's smile was the anti-Liberace demonstration outside the hall. The marching demonstrators carried placards reading: "We hate Liberace."

The trial was scheduled to begin here yesterday.

12-Point Agenda Faces Lawmakers

Commission to Vote on Fire Station Bids

Tabulation of new bids for the proposed West Side fire station highlights a 12-point agenda facing the Pontiac City Commission tonight.

* * *

The weekly meeting is slated to begin at 8 on the second floor of the City Hall.

City Manager W. K. Willman will recommend acceptance of low bids submitted yesterday amounting to $97,286. This is approximately $31,000 less than bids submitted in July which were rejected because they were $43,000 above an estimated $85,000 cost of construction.

Willman said he would also recommend a $22,000 allocation in the 1957 capital improvement budget to cover the increased costs.

TO HEAR COMPLAINT

Commissioners will hear a complaint from Pontiac attorney William F. Dohany who alleges that a city assessment of $510 for a sidewalk is "unfair and inequitable."

General Motors Sub-Council No. 8 UAW-CIO has submitted a letter of appreciation to the City Commission thanking three commissioners for their support of a City Democratic Committee move to establish mobile voter registration units in Pontiac.

* * *

Commissioners Philip Rowston, John Dugan, John Carry favored the plan Sept. 18 but the remaining four commissioners carried the margin to table the request.

Public hearings will be held tonight on intention to construct curb, gutter, grade, gravel, and related work on First street from Joslyn to Highwood, and on Hollywood avenue from Kennett to Parkdale.

Confirmations are expected on four other public improvement projects in Pontiac.

Resolutions are scheduled to be presented in memory of William F. Maybury, first chairman of Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and General Motors official, and Elmer Olson, long-time Pontiac newsstand operator. Both died recently.

Action is expected requesting the State Dept. of Conservation to grant a deed for two lots in the Dixieland Subdivision bordering on Osmun Lake.

Broomfield, Sutton Debate

Citizens League Hears Candidates Air Views

A debate over American foreign policy highlighted last night's Oakland Citizens League interviews with legislative, senatorial and congressional candidates for election this November.

After interviewing the candidates, the league's committee will "rate" them on a non-partisan basis, taking into account candidates' education, experience, and interview results.

At last night's meeting, six members of the 18-member committee turned up in St. Dunstan Playhouse, Lone Pine road, Bloomfield Hills. Twelve of the 16 candidates appeared.

A similar series of interviews with candidates for county office is scheduled tonight.

IMPROMPTU EXCHANGE

The debate was an impromptu exchange that started when Republican William S. Broomfield and Democrat Paul Sutton, candidates for Congress, were answering league questions on the topic.

* * *

In a blistering attack on Eisenhower foreign policy, Sutton said: "First we have to know what American foreign policy is. I don't know what it is, but it is not bipartisan."

* * *

Sutton charged the Republican administration has not appointed Democrats to policy positions.

In addition, he said, Democratic lawmakers are not permitted the voice in foreign affairs held by the late Sen. Arthur Vandenburg under Presidents Truman and Roosevelt.

* * *

Broomfield held the Eisenhower foreign policy has "proved itself" by the fact that there are no present wars, and that "we haven't lost a country to the communists in the past four years."

The two candidates also debated Federal aid to education. Broomfield maintained Federal aid should be given to "underdeveloped communities, but we in Michigan have solved our problems by ourselves.

"In any Federal aid program, I would insist that we maintain control of the schools on the local level."

* * *

Sutton, reviewing the history of the Republican administration's interest in schools, said he would favor Federal aid.

* * *

Senatorial candidates L. Harvey Lodge and Fred Elias exchanged views on three issues: The question of a constitutional convention to rewrite the Michigan Constitution, the highway issue and mental health.

* * *

Eight candidates for the State Legislature also reviewed these topics. They were Lloyd L. Anderson (R., Dist. 1); Steven K. Kolar (D., Dist. 1); Robert C. Miller (R., Dist. 2); Leslie H. Hudson (D., Dist. 2); Farrell E. Roberts (R., Dist. 3); James B. Clarkson (D., Dist. 4); Donald A. Brown (R., Dist. 5); and David Paul (D., Dist. 5).

Village Women Total 850; Plan Classes, Clubhouse

BIRMINGHAM — With membership up to 850, the Village Women's Club when it meets tomorrow will be registering for three courses, hearing of real estate plans, and puzzling on finances.

The meeting is at 12:15 p.m. at Oakland Hills Country Club, with Robert Nadal, drama critic as speaker. Mrs. James J. Nance, president of the group, will preside.

The new classes, according to Mrs. Brooks Marshall, vice president in charge of program, will include art, drama and investments.

The art course, for which 168 indicated interest, will, along with the others, be held in the Baldwin Public Library.

Arranged by Mrs. Edward Rothman, it will feature history of art taught by William McGonagle of the Detroit Art Institute. He has spent the last two months in research in Europe.

Drama course teacher will be Mrs. Willis Wagner of Franklin, and investments teacher will be a group of stock exchange officials, arranged for through Mrs. Sheldon Noble.

The art course starts Oct. 8, 9:45 to 11 a.m.; the drama course on Oct. 11 and the investments course Oct. 22 at 8 p.m.

Investigating of real estate with an eye to what building will become the Club's house has kept the board of 14 members busy all summer.

"When and if we buy property we would have to start a voluntary gift drive on a tax-free basis," says Mrs. Nance.

"Meanwhile," she adds, "we are going on with plans for classes, and projects to do with social service and local philanthrophies, so the club will come under the civic and educational job needed for that tax bracket."

* * *

The group formed with about 400 in membership last June, and this is the second membership meeting, though the board has met frequently all summer.

Defense Gives Alibi Testimony

Tries to Prove Three Brink's Suspects Were Elsewhere

BOSTON (AP)—The defense has presented testimony in superior court to try to prove that three of the eight defendants were several miles away at the time Brink's headquarters was robbed of $1,219,000 on Jan. 17, 1950.

* * *

As the trial progresses in the ninth week, the defense tried to prove all eight men accused of the nation's biggest cash robbery were busy elsewhere at the hour of the robbery—about 7 p.m.

Defense Chief Paul T. Smith presented several witnesses yesterday on behalf of Joseph F. McGinnis, Anthony Pino and Vincent J. Costa, three of the eight defendants.

The others are Michael V. Geagan, Henry D. Baker, James I. Faherty, Adolph Maffie and Thomas Richardson.

Timothy Nyhan, employed by McGinnis as a clerk in the liquor store, then owned by McGinnis, testified he saw his employer talking with Police Lt. James V. Crowley in the doorway of the liquor store at the approximate time the robbery was committed.

The state contends that while McGinnis did not participate in the actual robbery, he was one of the conspirators. The state also contends that McGinnis telephoned Pino and told him to go to the liquor store to be seen by Lt. Crowley for alibi purposes.

Ask Endorsement for International Control of Suez Canal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States, Britain and France were reported determined today to press for a U. N. endorsement of their plan for international control of the Suez Canal.

* * *

This information came from reliable Western sources as Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic and some others talked of a possible compromise when the 11-nation Security Council begins debate on the Suez issue Friday afternoon.

Western diplomats said their resolution is not yet in final form. They made it clear, however, they would not go along with any attempt to sidetrack the problem into a subcommittee without open discussion.

* * *

The United States, Britain and France were engaged in intensive strategy talks both in New York and Washington.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd arrived here this morning to take part in the discussions. French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi are expected tomorrow. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles also will be on hand Friday.

* * *

Lloyd, Pineau and Popovic were scheduled to confer separately with Dulles before the debate.

On his arrival in New York, Lloyd told newsmen that force would be used only as a "last resort" in the Suez dispute.

"We certainly hope for a solution by peaceful means," Lloyd said. "We trust that the Security Council will act speedily."

Suspect Youths Damaged Fresh-Poured Concrete

Juveniles are suspected in a Pontiac Police investigation of weekend malicious destruction which caused $150 damage to a building at 22-26 Longfellow Ave.

A basement floor which had recently been poured was damaged by stones thrown into the cement and writing while it was still wet. Walls and windows in the building were smeared with plaster.

Early '56 Pay Raises Highest Since 1951

CHICAGO, (INS)—The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., reports pay raises in the first half of 1951 when wage stabilization was in effect.

A survey of 1,880 wage settlements showed that pay raises of 10 cents an hour of more were granted in half the contracts negotiated.

Kekkonen was met at the airport by King Gustaf VI Adolf and Queen Louise, the entire Swedish Cabinet and top leaders of Sweden's armed forces.

The three-day visit emphasizes Finland's ties with Scandinavia. Kekkonen is expected to visit Denmark and Norway next.

The Day in Birmingham

Commission Waits to Put Priority on City Projects

BIRMINGHAM — Commissioners, eying a schedule for projects such as paving of many streets last night, decided to go into committee session to discuss placing of top priority on certain projects.

At the commission meeting, no decision was made as to whether to agree with L. S. Gare, director of public works, on which should be first and which second priority.

The Masonic request for rezoning of the Arlington and West Maple corner for erection of a new Masonic temple was referred to the planning board for its next meeting in mid-October.

The new temple will replace the Victorian structure that is now home to Masonic organizations on South Woodward avenue.

Approval of final contracts for the cleaning project at Nixon pond was voted by commissioners.

For awhile it looked like the old days on the prairies. Flocks rising, flocks settling everywhere. Only hitch was they were a little long for the open 16. Two Faiths Talking of Merging Into One

DES MOINES (AP) — The international convention of the Disciples of Christ (Christian Churches) voted here yesterday "to explore the possibilities" of merging with the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed churches, which already have committed themselves to union.

The Congregational Christian church has 1,300,000 members and the Evangelical and Reformed church 760,000. Their merger is to be formally ratified next June with the formation of the United Church of Christ.

If a merger with the Disciples, with 2 million members, is effected membership in the United Church would jump to more than 4 million members to rank fourth among Protestant denominations.

It would be exceeded only by the Methodists with 9 million, the Southern Baptists with 8 million and the National Baptists (Negro) with 4,500,000.

Abandonment Idea Kennan's—Nixon

HARTFORD, Conn. (INS)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today named former ambassador to Moscow George Kennan as the author of a proposal to abandon the European satelite nations to the Communists.

* * *

Nixon first raised the issue yesterday in a Milwaukee speech when he said some advisers to the State Department under the Democratic administration had urged such abandonment.

The vice president told a news conference today that under the "Kennan theory," abandonment "is a fact we must recognize and one which we can do nothing about."

He said such a proposal has never had any effect on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and never would have. He said "millions" of Democrats, including Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson, disagree with it.

Red Foreign Minister Heads for New York

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today announced the departure of Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov for New York to take part in the Security Council's Suez Canal debate.

Shepilov is expected in New York tomorrow.

Man, Girl Friend Dead in Subway

Shattered Love Affair Behind Murder-Suicide, Police Suspect

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The bodies of a Philadelphia man and an attractive young New Jersey woman were found last night in a dimly lit section of a north-central Philadelphia subway.

* * *

Detective Daniel O'Mahoney said it "seems to be murder and suicide" in the death of the couple, both employes of a Philadelphia pharmaceutical firm.

The victims were identified as Miss Claire Perkowitz, 21, of Westville, N. J., and Roy W. Luther, 40, of Philadelphia. She had been shot four times and Luther twice by a German luger found near Luther's outstretched hand.

A sawed-off shotgun, which had not been fired, was found against a nearby pillar of the subway.

* * *

O'Mahoney quoted the girl's parents as saying she had been "going with Luther for about six months but broke off with him several weeks ago." A note found in Luther's pockets said that unless a reconciliation were affected the writer was going to "do something drastic," O'Mahoney said.

Investigators said the shootings may have occurred about an hour before the evening rush hour, when the bodies were found.

Big Adlai Rally for California

4 Democratic Bigwigs to Help Blanket State for Votes Oct. 12

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strategists for Adlai E. Stevenson are planning a one-day saturation effort Oct. 12 aimed at getting what they call "the Democratic story" to "as many people as we can reach" in politically important California.

* * *

Outlining this plan today, Clayton Fritchey, Stevenson's press secretary, said in an interview "we believe this is the biggest mass speaking campaign ever attempted in behalf of a presidential candidate."

As projected now, the plan calls for Stevenson and four other top Democratic figures to appear separately at a series of rallies held simultaneously in various California cities.

Fritchey said invitations have been sent to two governors and two senators. He said he would announce their names when the expected acceptances are received.

* * *

The four speakers will meet with the Democratic nominee at Oakland Thursday night, Oct. 11, at a rally there.

The next day, when Stevenson takes off from Oakland for a rally at Fresno, the others will disperse by air to four other cities within a 100-mile radius.

* * *

Stevenson then will fly to Long Beach for an airport rally and the operation will be repeated within a similar radius of that city.

All five campaigners are to link up that night for a big rally, and a Stevenson speech, in San Diego.

Paint Equipment for Playgrounds the Right Color!

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — When a child sees red, it's good psychology.

* * *

That's the word from a meeting of the International Recreation Assn. in Philadelphia.

Delegates were advised that children have color preferences and that playground equipment should be painted accordingly.

Tests on city playgrounds indicate that bright red is the color most liked by the two-to-five year olds; bright blue for children in the five-to-ten bracket, and pastel blue for the 10-to-15 year old set.

Recreation leaders were told that properly painted slides, swings and climbing devices will keep children on the playground for longer periods.

* * *

Selective painting will also induce older boys and girls to stay in their own areas of preferred coloring rather than to crowd in with the smaller fry.

To Publish Books

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University is going back into the paperback book publishing business. University Press Director Harold Basilius said the books will be originals and scholarly in content "but broad enough in scope to insure the interest of many readers." The first two books will deal with voting and political party patterns in Michigan.

Bob Considine Says:

Now the Lowdown on Brooklyn's Victory--

EBBETS FIELD CLUBHOUSE, THE DAY THE DODGERS WON (INS) — Hello folks, this is your genial old announcer Scabby Scavoni just a'talkin' to you folks from the clubhouse as Our Boys storm in from the diamond—as I call it—where they have just won the gonfalon in the Senior Circuit—as I call the National League—by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates of Pittsburgh by a score of eight to six, the Brooklyn Dodgers having eight runs and the Pittsburgh Pirates having six, and believe you me, folks, there's never been a scene like this because the lads had to go all out to win this one and if they had not won it and Milwaukee beat the St. Looie Cardinals of St. Looie, Missouri, it would have been all tied up and that would have meant we went into overtime—as I call it—or in other words a two out of three game playoff for the right to represent the Senior Circuit against the Yankees, who had things pretty much their own way most of the year owing to the fact that the competition over in the Junior Circuit isn't what it is in the Senior Circuit, but be that as it may, and no harm intended if any was given, we are certain having a great celebration here in the dressing room of the Brooklyn Dodgers and if they can spare the time from the happy time they are having, one and all, I want to bring them to this microphone after a word from Urpo, for that nauseated feeling each morning, who brought you this season's games on radar.

* * *

(Twenty minutes later.)

Thank you, Eustus P. Fraggle, vice president in charge of sales of Urpo, for that nauseated feeling each morning, and now back to our happy celebration here in the locker room of the winners of the pennant in the Senior Circuit, and believe you me it's a sight to remember, but I know you want to hear from the heroes themselves and not from your genial old announcer Scabby Scavoni, so without further ado—as I say—let's have them come up to our Urpo microphone and tell us in their own words, right from the bottom of their happy little hearts, how they feel about coming from behind, closing fast in the home stretch, and nipping the Milwaukee Braves at the wire in the nick of time when all seem lost and many had deserted the cause, as you might say.

And so come over here Captain Pee Wee Reese, right over here Pee Wee, right between the drum major of the symphony band which is playing something or other and Walter O'Malley, who has just put in a fine plea for the people to build our heroes a new stadium, you can see me Pee Wee, but, oh, I see, yes I forgot about you being signed up by No Growl, the answer to Urpo, but no hard feelings, and so on to Duke Snyder, whose two home runs today, four runs scored and those great catches saved the day and, oh, you've promised Happy Felton first dibs on you?—well, I understand Duke, so here's good old Don Newcombe, who is more fun than a barrel of monkeys who will now step up and—

Just a moment, folks—Don is tied up with an Ed Sullivan contract and can't talk, but next we have my good friend Sandy Amoros who, opps, just remembered, he can't speak English good like me, so we'll pass right on next to Roy Campanella who . . . who just left unfortunately . . . but don't go 'way, folks, we've got a special message to give you from none other than Urpo.

(Thirty-four minutes later.)

Thank you, Mr. Fraggle, for that inspiring message and I'm sure that if every red-blooded American took your words to heart, well, it would be a lot happier country and a stronger bulwark against communism — as I call it—and I could say more but here we are back at that happy celebration in the Ebbets Field lockerroom, getting the lowdown from the bottom of their hearts from victorious Dodger players who today reached the pinnacle of the crest, if not the topmost rung of a comeback that will be talked about for years to come, and with that thought in mind I was just wondering as I looked around the place what become of the players who were here, but it takes more than players to win a pennant and so it's my pleasure to present the only remaining person in the victorious clubhouse, your friend and mine, Lee Scott, custodian of the press box, so step right up to our Urpo microphone and said a word Mr. Scott.

"I got an ulster myself," Scotty said proudly.

Mentions Elvis Presley Tunes

Kefauver Rides Coattails of Fellow Tennesseean

EN ROUTE WITH KEFAUVER (INS)—Estes Kefauver, who is known to shake nothing but hands, has latched firmly to the quivering coattails of Elvis Presley in recent campaigning.

* * *

The Democratic vice presidential candidate has been mentioning the fellow Tennesseean in just about every speech since last Thursday.

It began that day when Rep. Kenneth Gray, Democratic candidate for re-election to Congress in Southern Illinois, told a curbstone crowd waiting to hear Kefauver:

"The Republicans come around on election day and sing you that song, like Elvis Presley sings, 'I Want You, I Love You, I Need You.' But come Nov. 7, they turn that record over on the other side and play you, 'See You Later, Alligator.'"

KEFAUVER STEALS GAG

Kefauver thought this was amusing and said so. He stated openly that he intended to steal the gag and he refined it by adding: "They sing another Elvis Presley song, too, called 'You Ain't Nothin' but a Houn' Dog.'"

* * *

Nearly every time Kefauver speaks now, the Presley bit comes into it. However, the senator has kept those about him in complete suspense as to whether the first title will come out "I Want You, I Love You, I Need You," or "I Need You, I Want You, I Love You," or "I Need You, I Love You, I Want You." So far, he has said it each way.

* * *

"Alligator" has gotten even more confused treatment from Kefauver, whose musical taste generally runs to and from the "Tennessee Waltz."

One time, he called the song "Catch You Later, Little Alligator." Another time, he called the tune "See You Later, Little Alligator." Finally, it came out, "I'll See You, Alligator."

* * *

"Houn' Dog" has come through unscathed.

To a youthful audience in Illinois, Kefauver noted that Presley not long ago had come out in support of the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket. "He's a Memphis boy," Kefauver proudly added.

But to a more elderly Texas group, Kefauver solemnly declared prior to reciting the titles that they came from Elvis Presley songs, and intoned: "I'm not too proud of some of his performances."

Australia Totals Up Marsupials

These Rare Beasts Are Survivors of Early Age in Evolution

WASHINGTON — Australia is counting its wombats, bandicoots, walleroos, cuscuses, and dasyures.

These are among the marsupials comprising so distinct a fauna that some scientists have suggested dividing the world into two zoological realms — Australian and non-Australian.

With their more familiar relatives, the kangaroos and wallabies, and rarer beasts such as the Tasmanian wolf, the oddly named animals are survivors of an early age in evolution, the National Geographic Society says.

Marsupials give birth to tiny, almost embryonic, young. These must be nursed in the mother's pouch until they are fully developed. In other lands the dominant animals are the placentals, which retain the young in the mother's body until they are better equipped to deal with the world.

When reptilian dinosaurs roamed the earth, marsupials were the leading mammals. But they gave way to the placentals, leaving only a few scattered species, such as the American possum, outside Australia.

There are marsupial moles, marsupial flying squirrels, a marsupial anteater, marsupial badgers, marsupial carnivores, and other forms. They range in size from the great kangaroo, seven feet tall, to a mouselike creature three inches long.

Now evolution is catching up with these Australian animals. The most highly developed of the placentals, modern man, has broken their isolation, bringing with him other animals, such as the rabbit, cat, and fox. The encroachment of civilization and new enemies have cut down the number of marsupials.

ARE TAKING CENSUS

The Australians, finding some of the marsupials extinct, and others nearing the vanishing point, are taking a census to see what's left.

One of the animals believed extinct, or nearly so, is the Tasmanian wolf, sometimes called the tiger. Although a relative of the kangaroo, it looks like a short-legged wolf and has tigerlike stripes on its hindquarters.

More common are the wombat, a thick-set burrower; the bandicoot, a sharp-nosed insect eater; the walleroo, a small kangaroo; the cuscus, a large possum; the dasyure, a catlike meat-eater, and the koala, a living teddy bear.

2 Giraffe-Like Okapis to Get Necking Partners

NEW YORK (INS)—Two refugees from the Belgian Congo arrived in New York today to become "brides" of zoo inmates in the Bronx and Chicago's Zoological Park.

The female okapis will be quarantined for 30 days before they can see their mates. The long-necked, partly striped relatives of the giraffe are known as muyoni (heart) and museka (maiden) to their Pygmy captors.

The okapi, whose ancestors disappeared 60 million years ago, was not known to science until 1900. It is the last large animal discovered in Africa.

The Bronx Zoo obtained the first okapi in America in 1937, and it lived for 15 years. Its present okapi, named "Bilota," arrived in 1949.

Excelsior Plant Fire Damage at $150,000

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Firemen today kept close watch on seven acres of still-burning pulpwood which erupted in a spectacular blaze last night near the American Excelsior Corp. plant.

Fire Chief Frank H. Burns said it was "the largest firefighting operation I've experienced in 37 years with the department." Damage was estimated by Plant Manager E. W. Habighorst at about $150,000.

A crowd estimated at 30,000 flocked to the plant on the southwestern limits of Grand Rapids, attracted by 100-foot flames visible five miles.

Some 750 firefighters, including men from all the city's 35 engine companies, worked past midnight before the ulpwood blaze was contained. It had threatened to spread to the plant where the highly inflammable excelsior is manufactured.

Poultryman's Earnings

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)— Earnings of poultrymen range from a low of 21 cents an hour to a high of $2.35, and the difference says an Oregon State College publication, is the efficiency of planning.

The average labor return is put at $1.17.

M. H. Becker, agricultural economist at the college, wrote the booklet entitled "Egg Production Costs and Returns in Western Oregon." It discusses wise use of labor, amount of feed needed, egg production per layer, value of different breeds and use of pullets vs. old hens.

Legend Engulfs Adam's Bridge

India Plans to Dredge Channel Through Reefs Between Ceylon

WASHINGTON—India is considering a project to cut a big-ship canal route at Adam's Bridge.

A narrow chain of rocks, reefs and shoals stretching between India and the northwest coast of the British island-dominion, Ceylon, Adam's Bridge is about 20 miles long. Its waters are too shallow for any but small craft.

The proposal calls for a deep channel and lock canal to join Palk Strait on the north with the Gulf of Mannar on the south. If carried out, the project will save the long trip around Ceylon, and bring modern commercial traffic to a region long associated with religious rites and pilgrimages.

At the western end of Adam's Bridge lies India's temple-dotted Rameswaram Island, a holy place to followers of the epic hero Rama, revered as the incarnation of the Hindu god Vishnu.

RESCUES WIFE

According to Hindu mythology, an army of monkeys in Rama's service built a causeway from this island to Ceylon. The god in mortal form marched over it with legions of monkeys and bears to rescue his wife from Ceylon's 10-headed giant king.

AF Tanker Plane Goes Wild in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—A big U.S. KB29 gasoline tanker plane crash-landed and plunged from the runway in a rainstorm at nearby Yokota Air Base today, but the Air Force said none of the 11-man crew was seriously hurt.

* * *

Returning from refueling smaller planes in the air, the tanker version of the four-engine B29 bomber was attempting an instrument landing when it got out of control.

The plane veered off the runway and sideswiped a base building before stopping in an adjoining field. There was no fire, but the plane and the building were damaged.

* * *

One man reportedly suffered a broken leg. Names of the crew were withheld pending notification of relatives.

Figureheads Stay on Ships

Old Nautical Custom of Sculptured Forms Returns

WASHINGTON- Symbolic figureheads such as adorned the old wooden ships of sailing days still cut salt spray at the prow of modern steel vessels.

A new tanker of one of America's leading oil companies will carry the heroic-sized form of a sea goddess, sculptured in bronze along classic lines.

Some 30 years ago, Norwegian shipbuilders began adding traditional figureheads—including an Arabian dancer and an armored knight—to motored craft of Norway's merchant marine. And those who watch ships come into port today note increasing bow emblems for owners' names and fancies.

The use of figureheads, from works of art to the crudely grotesque, goes back to the dawn of shipping, says the National Geographic Society. Breasting the waves from the high curve of the hull, they served as guardians to guide sailors safely home or as symbols of terror to impress the enemy. Many personified ships' names, propitiated nature gods, or honored fictional characters as well as real persons.

The sailing age that opened the world to trade gave impetus to figurehead art. Designs that rode frigates, brigs and clippers from 16th to 19th centuries were as fanciful as imagination could make them.

Models of saints and navel heroes vied for place with Indian princesses, Chinese manlarins, and members of shipowners' families. There were variations of mermaids, Neptune, and national emblems of eagles and lions.

Some of the more incongruous figures included statesmen in frock coats and top hats, and prim Victorian ladies. One represented a women carring a book and an umbrella. With the coming of the steamship, the custom went into decline. But countless examples of the fine and gaudy art linger on in nautical museums and schools, navy yards, private collections, and on remote shipwreck shores where salvage relics are on exhibit.

Williams Loses Soul, Says Cobo in UP

CASPIAN (UP)—Gov. Williams is "losing his soul," the Republican candidate for governor said last night, and "has no sincerity of purpose and no principle."

Detroit Mayor Albert E. Cobo said Williams is "no longer any good to himself or the state of Michigan. He is under the control of the boss."

Cobo did not identify the so-called "boss," but GOP leaders have charged that President walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers union is the kingpin behind both the state and national Democratic campaigns.

Cobo spoke to 220 persons attending an Iron County Republican rally in this iron mining district. He is continuing his campaign tour today in the Western section of the Upper Peninsula.

Despite what he called a program of "tax, tax, tax" during the Williams administrations, Cobo predicted a 40 million dollar deficit in the state budget at the end of this fiscal year.

Fifth Annual Event

Toronto Masons to Visit Pontiac Lodge Members

Indian chiefs and warriors will welcome Scots dressed in kilts and playing bagpipes when the Pontiac Masonic Lodge No. 21 is host to the Kilwinning Lodge No. 545 of Toronto October 13.

* * *

The event will be the fifth annual visitation between the two units and the third time the Canadian lodge has visited Pontiac to take part in such a program.

Samuel E. Smith, master of Lodge 21, will preside over the event at Stevens Hall. A luncheon and fellowship period will follow the program at the Greek Hall on Mariva street. It will be staged by the Pontiac Iraq Grotto under the direction of Monarch Lee Hunt.

The visiting Masons will present a display of their ritualistic ceremony as one of the highlights of the program.

Some 300 Masons from both sides of the border are expected to participate in the evening festivities.

The Pontiac Lodge will make its third visit to Toronto next year.

* * *

Irwin Mills, past master, will be general chairman of the event. Other committee leaders are Robert Peterson, refreshments; Charles Kugler, reception; Robert Burnes, housing; and Alfred Weber, transportation.

Benjamin Franklin, other than being a diplomat and printer, was also a skillful athlete. He won many contests in wrestling, swimming, boating and running.

Pledges to Curb Integration Quiz

Congressman Dawson Calls Probe of Schools in D.C. 'Illegal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William L. Dawson (D-Ill) said today he plans to "do something" about what he termed the "illegal" House investigation of the impact of racial integration on the Washington school system.

* * *

The hearings, before a special House District of Columbia subcommittee, ended yesterday, at least for the present.

Dawson, one of three Negro House members, declined to say just what action he would seek against the school investigating group. But he hinted he might move to curtail its funds.

Subcommittee Chairman James C. Davis (D-Ga) replied that he would not have proceeded if he thought the inquiry was illegal.

* * *

The Washington superintendent of schools, Hobart M. Corning, underwent five hours of questioning as the final witness yesterday.

Among other things, he challenged subcommittee counsel William Gerber's statement that Washington's public schools were a "mess" following integration in compliance with a Supreme Court ruling against separate classrooms for white and Negro pupils.

Corning also promised to supply the investigators with the names of any children and grandchildren of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, cabinet members, White House aides, Supreme Court justices, senators, House members and District of Columbia commissioners attending integrated Washington schools.

* * *

This came about after Gerber, of Memphis, Tenn., said Nixon—whom Gerber described as "very much wrapped up in integration"—is sending his two daughters to an all-white public school in Washington.

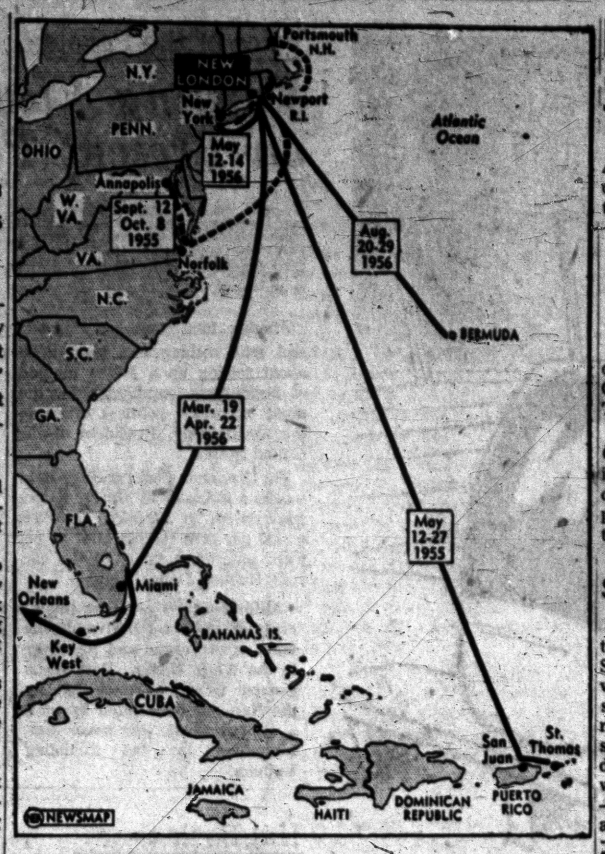

Gerber added that Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son son who is stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va., has two children at an all-white private school in nearby Alexandria, Va. A third child was listed as attending an integrated kindergarten at Ft. Belvoir.

Michigan National Bank Hints at Merger Plans

PORT HURON (AP) — The Peoples Savings Bank of Port Huron, with more than 17 million dollars in deposits, shortly may become a unit of the state's fourth largest bank — the Michigan National.

Frank J. McCabe, senior vice president of Michigan National, said "it is contemplated that at a later date" his bank and Peoples Savings "will be brought together."

McCabe declined details, saying they will be announced later.

LOG OF THE SUPER SUB — As of Sept. 1, the Nautilus, the Navy's first atomic-powered submarine, had traveled the equivalent of the distance around the earth under water. The map shows her cruises between her New London base and other points since her Jan. 16, 1955 launching. In May, 1955 she traveled totally submerged to San Juan, P. R. — almost 1,300 miles in 84 hours.

Sewing Keeps Hands Nimble

Pixies Fill Household of Arthritic Grandmom

BENTON HARBOR (AP)—Pixies—pink, yellow, red and blue ones—overrun the neighborhood around Mrs. Clarence Scott's house.

* * *

So do pandas, rabbits, rag dolls and clowns. They're the hand-sewn stuffed toys Mrs. Scott has been turning out in her Scottdale house for the past 17 years.

Mrs. Scott got started on her colorful family of little creatures after an attack of arthritis in 1939.

"I knew I just couldn't sit around, so I began to sew," she said. "I found a pattern for a doll in the paper and sent for it, and began making little toys."

25 SINCE JULY

Doing all the work by hand—"I never use a sewing machine"—Mrs. Scott makes as many as three toys a day. Since July she has made more than 25 of her pixie dolls, besides other animals.

Pixies are her favorite, although they're the hardest to make. "They come in so many different pieces with separate arms and legs," she said.

When the house gets overcrowded with pixies and stuffed puppies, Mrs. Scott passes them out to her six grandchildren and to neighborhood youngsters.

"My toys can't hurt children," Mrs. Scott said. "There are no buttons or snaps on any of them."

Toymaking is more than a hobby for Mrs. Scott. She says she feels it helps keep her arthritic fingers limber.

Sometimes the task of creating worries her. She said:

"One night I couldn't sleep because the fringe on a Santa Claus beard didn't quite suit me. I stayed awake all night trying to figure out how to make him look better. Now he's just fine."

Burglar Alarm in City Treasury Does the Job!

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It could be that police thought someone was stealing their payroll when they made a record run to the city treasury.

A burglar alarm went off accidentally in Treasurer Leon McCardle's office and he said that "it had hardly begun to ring when I was surrounded by policemen."

National Airlines Seeks New Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Airlines has propsed to extend its operations into the region between the Great Lakes and Florida.

The carrier's flights now sweep down the East coast from New York City to Key West, Fla., then slant Westward along the Gulf Coast to New Orleans.

National has asked for a maze of new routes zig-zagging from Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo to Tallahassee and Jacksonville.

The request was presented to Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner William F. Cusick in a big case in which 10 airlines are competing for Great Lakes-Southeast traffic.

Sleepyhead Slumbers

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The teacher in the first grade at Ralph Street School quickly called police when she saw a 6-year-old child slump over her desk. Police, a rescue squad and a doctor answered the emergency call. The doctor reported to police there was nothing wrong with the child—she was just "tired and fell asleep."

Fuzzy Dog Takes Lion's Job in Circus

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A dog named Fuzzy joined the circus with the job of nursing a newborn lion.

* * *

Fuzzy was grieving over the loss of a puppy, and the cub was trying to escape being killed by its mother when police got the two together. They hit it off fine.

The cub's mother, Giner, belongs to a traveling wild animal show. She killed cubs she had once before, owner Eddie Kuhn said.

* * *

Lion cubs will not feed on a bottle, and the mothers rarely raise their young in a circus because of the nearby humans, Kuhn said. So Fuzzy will travel with the troupe, nursing the cub about 30 days.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1956

Study Group Is Named

Five Oakland County Supervisors have been named a study committee to consider the later creation of a County Department of Public Works. They were named by Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

They will study a suggestion made by former Drain Commissioner Ralph A. Main that such a department might assist in solving the county's increasing drain problems, caused by the steady increase in population.

Main proposed that such a department could take the initiative in organizing and helping to finance intercommunity drainage districts. Previously the local officials of the various areas concerned had to take the initiative, and much valuable time was lost in setting up an organization through which they might work. The proposed new plan would make it possible for county planners to assist from the very start.

★ ★ ★

Main proposed that such a department might be authorized to back such drain bonds with the full faith and credit of the county, and might assess the cost against the various areas benefiting.

★ ★ ★

This is a new and challenging idea. It would fill a distinct need in the present situation where rapid population increase is bringing with it serious drainage problems.

However, the ever present question of safeguarding the rights of the local governments, and preserving their control over their own projects, including their financing, is so important that the committee is sure to give it careful study.

If the committee, after detailed study, feels that such a program is feasible, and that it can be undertaken without danger of infringing upon the rights either of the individual taxpayer or the local units of government affected, then the Board of Supervisors may be expected to take whatever steps are necessary to implement the plan.

Mantle Does O. K.

Mickey Mantle failed to equal Babe Ruth's sixty home runs in a single season, but the New York Yankees' brilliant outfielder chalked up a remarkable record, nevertheless.

He won the triple batting crown, with the most home runs, the highest batting average in the American League and the most runs batted in. He is the first player to achieve this feat in nearly ten years.

Mantle hit 52 home runs, which is an impressive total, and well ahead of all 1956 competition, even though it was below Ruth's all-time record.

★ ★ ★

He batted in 130 runs, two ahead of Al Kaline of Detroit; and his batting average of .353 was eight points above Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox.

★ ★ ★

Mantle probably helped the Yankees more percentagewise by doing just what he did. When a man aims all his energies at a single goal, he is apt to slip in other departments of his game.

Dollarwise, he would have helped the Yankees' gate if he had tied or beaten the Babe's record. But his club's treasury isn't exactly empty as it is, so everybody should be well satisfied.

Autumn the Loveliest Time of the Year

"Temperature slightly above normal and fair weather."

Such a forecast from the Weather Bureau brings smiles of anticipation from Michiganders. It serves as a pleasant reminder that Autumn frequently is our loveliest period of the year.

There is just enough crispness in the air to make one realize that cooler weather is lurking just around the corner. It makes any current warm spell all the more acceptable.

And there is a clearness in the air that is invigorating. The warmth of the sun provides a pleasing contrast to the coolness of the breeze. And all about, Nature begins to paint the colors that add beauty to the Autumn scene.

"The earth compares in size to the sum total of bodies in the universe as a drop of water compares to the Atlantic ocean," says an astronomer. Raw material must have been exceedingly cheap when the universe was created.

"Love is blind," says a cynic, "and getting married is taking a leap in the dark." Even so, many who gamble on matrimony by taking this leap make happy landings.

The Man About Town

Ike Is Gaining

Week's Poll Shows Boost in His Strength Locally

Autumn: A season that can't get over the bad habits it inherited from summer.

Contacts on our poll since last Tuesday number 66, mostly in Oakland County. They show an increasing trend for Eisenhower. The mothers are strong for him. A typical case is a Waterford woman with three young sons, who said, "I couldn't look them in the face if I didn't favor Ike. I'm not raising them for atomic fodder."

The gubernatorial race continues neck and neck, Cobo making some slight gains during the week. Gathered promiscuously from people we previously did not know, and quite equally divided among city, village and rural residents, these 66, added to last Tuesday's totals, make the present standing as follows:

Eisenhower	272
Stevenson	229
Cobo	255
Williams	246

Again Oakland County far outstrips the other principal Michigan counties in the percentage of its sale of Series E in U. S. Savings Bonds. In the first eight months of 1956 its residents bought 110.1 per cent of its quota. Wayne failed to reach its quota, with 97.7 per cent. Kent bought 91.6 per cent and Genesee 101.3 per cent.

Still Warming the Bench

David Lawrence Says:

Keep the Pulpit and Politics Apart

WASHINGTON—When a presidential nominee goes to church to hear a sermon, must the minister grow so conscious of his presence as to feel called upon to articulate political bunkum? Or is it a good opportunity to call for truth and an end to the tricks of deception that plague modern politics?

* * *

Dr. A. Powell Davies, Unitarian minister here, had Adlai Stevenson in his congregation last Sunday and used the occasion not to expose the fraud and trickery involved in the so-called joke about "Joe Smith" but to glorify that individual in the role of the "forgotten man," as the Democratic campaigners did in New Deal days.

The "Joe Smith" gag is supposed to be funny. Yet it is grimly analogous to the kind of parliamentary tactic—based on false premises—which is used in the filibusters in the Senate when, by a ruse, a minority of one gets the floor, talks on imaginary and irrelevant issues and blocks the will of other senators who want to vote on a pending question.

For what really happened at the Republican National Convention has never been put in its true light by the Democratic campaigners. A delegate wanted to get the floor to make a nomination for vice president. He favored a certain candidate who had written a letter to the chairman asking that his name not be presented. When the chairman of the convention asked the delegate the name of the man he wanted to nominate, the answer came: "Joe Smith."

JUST A TRICK

It was a trick by a delegate—in a meeting operating under parliamentary rules—to get the floor. It was a device to fool the chairman and the convention. It was a phony stunt. It should be denounced from every pulpit as the deception which it patently was.

Instead, today Democratic campaigners, including Adlai Stevenson, have latched on to the "Joe Smith" episode because they think it somehow embarrasses the Republicans. The Democrats have tried to put over the far-fetched and false idea that anyone with the name of Joe Smith couldn't be placed in nomination at a Republican convention.

Trickery and misrepresentation, of course, are expected of politicians, and this time "campaign oratory" has sunk to a low level. But a minister of the Gospel, without involving himself in personalities, can appeal for truth in campaigns.

There are many ministers in America who preach sermons about truth and sincerity and who manage to do it without seeming to take part in political campaigns. There are some, to be sure, who are obviously political or partisan, and their listeners are well aware of it.

JOE SMITH LEFT OUT

Davies spoke of "Joe Smith" as having been regarded sometimes as a "statistic" or "consumer" and said that Joe Smith "feels, sometimes strongly, sometimes in mild bewilderment, that he is being left out—or that he is being too much taken in."

The minister might better have told of the many Joe Smiths who have risen from poverty and humble surroundings in free America to make the grade. He could have pointed to several persons eminent in American life—in the churches, in the press, in the colleges, in the world of business and labor leadership—who have risen to fame with the name Joe Smith.

He could have pointed to the Joe Smiths who have laid down their lives for their country in World War I, in World War II and in the Korean War. There is no reason to classify all the Joe Smiths as having the same outlook on life or attitude toward public questions—as the politicians like to picture them—in a standardized category of citizens because they have the same name.

* * *

What the American people would like in this season to hear on Sundays from the teachers of truth is something that the parishioners can take to heart on all days of the week—something that proclaims how the Christian ethic and philosophy is violated nowadays by the politicians who sacrifice principle and truth just to get elected. There might even have been a scriptural quotation cited as advice to present-day candidates: "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

(Copyright 1956, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Dr. William Brady Says:

Tonsil Removal Often Silly in Case of School Children

"I wish," writes a Michigan reader, "your column had been in our paper when we were persuaded to have our son's tonsils removed by school authorities years ago.

"His nose and throat have never been free from trouble since.

"When the doctor removed them they were large, he said, but showed no sign of inflammation or infection.

"Three weeks later we took the boy back to the doctor who removed his tonsils, because he couldn't breathe well.

"The doctor didn't recognize him as his patient, but glanced at his throat and said he needed an operation for the removal of those bad tonsils.

"When I told him that he had removed the boy's tonsils just three weeks ago, he looked at his throat again and said: 'Ah, yes, it is remarkable how quickly they grow back in again'."

Although the Michigan reader's letter does not name the doctor who made the faux pas nor offer evidence to corroborate the three weeks story, it is all too credible.

Once upon a time I was the guest of a nose and throat specialist—perhaps I should explain that even I had some friends in the profession before I began telling the truth in print—and I accompanied him on his weekly operating day in the hospital. In rapid succession patients were wheeled in, all of them school children, already under anesthesia, for tonsillectomy.

Not because I was looking on, I assure you, for the nose and throat man didn't give—anyway he looked into the throat of one patient, asked why the patient was there, got no answer, as nobody seemed to know, and sent the patient back to the ward to recover and go home. "Must have got mixed in with the kids the teacher or social service worker had lined up for tonsil and adenoid operation."

Tonsils do not "grow back in," as this Michigan reader expresses it, as though tonsil (or adenoid) tissue were malignant. This common notion, however, reflects the view many fast operators have taken and some still take of enlargement of the tonsils.

The tonsils of school children are normally large, very large in the late winter and early spring.

About the time that youngster "got mixed in with the kids lined up for operation" the late Dr. William Barron of Addison, N.Y., reported in the N. Y. State Medical Journal that most of the pupils in a school had enlarged tonsils and the school physician advised removal of the tonsils. However, the same children, examined by the same physician after summer vacation, had normal tonsils. Fortunately for the kids, few parents had followed the school physician's advice. But not all school children are blessed with sensible parents.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Varying Views Presented on Present Political Scene

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Another four years have passed and still nothing has been done about setting up a better method of nominating candidates for the most important political office in the world today, President of the United States.

The National Convention system makes a mockery of representative government in America. Millions of 100 per cent Republicans do not want four more years of the current Rubber Dollar regime.

Millions of 100 per cent Democrats do not want the vaudeville team of Stevenson and Kefauver in the White House. Both these groups were disfranchised by the National Convention System, a system which was never contemplated by the Founding Fathers.

In order to eliminate this insult to our republican form of government, I suggest that the Constitution be amended to provide for the selection of the President and Vice President by our most representative body, the House of Representatives and that no President be eligible to serve for more than one term.

In nominating their candidate for the Presidency, the Democratic Party would have been well advised to follow Al Smith's realistic slogan: "Let's look at the record." By what miracle should a mediocre Governor of Illinois become a great President?

Hal Boyle Says:

Northland Designer Sees Paradise for Pedestrians

NEW YORK (AP)—What can be done to keep traffic from choking to death the centers of America's big cities?

Victor Gruen, a distinguished architect, has a simple but revolutionary solution—ban all automobiles from downtown areas and restore the streets to the pedestrians. Gruen predicts this will happen by the end of the century.

FOOLISH NOTION

"I predict that by the year 2,000, and maybe a little before," he said, "it will be considered just as foolish to take vehicles into the interiors of business centers as we feel today it's peculiar to drive a truck into a living room.

* * *

"A city of a million people has a population of 500,000 automobiles. They crowd humans off the street.

"Cars need 20 times as much space as people do, and their birth rate is higher. The time seems not far off when, unless countermeasures are taken, people would be better off to move out and leave the cities to the mechanical monsters."

* * *

Gruen, designer of Northland at Detroit, one of the world's largest shopping centers, has been retained by the Greater Fort Worth Planning Committee to redesign the entire downtown area of that city for the next 15 years.

GOING UNDERGROUND

One of his projected ideas: Putting service and delivery traffic in the 300-acre business district underground and banning passenger vehicles from surface areas.

Pedestrians would have the streets entirely to themselves except for slow-moving electric shuttle cars for the ill, the crippled—and the downright lazy.

Sounds like a jaywalker's heaven. The heart of the city would be converted into a pleasant business and recreation area with plenty of trees, fountains, gardens and arcades. One fashionable street in the shopping center would be roofed over and completely air-conditioned.

Buses would penetrate into the pedestrian paradise at three points. No building in the business center would be more than a six-minute walk to a ring of 10,000-car garages that would also serve as heliports for flying commuters.

FANTASTIC COST

The cost of such a civic change-over would, of course, be fantastic. But Gruen optimistically believes the increase of land values would reduce the outlay, says if large cities don't adopt some such measures soon they face actual traffic strangulation.

The idea of auto-free streets sounds wonderful to us career pedestrians. But will the motorists regard it as sporting? For them it might take all the fun out of driving.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Calls School Trend Un-American

Notice Roger's remarks. And think about this case record seriously. Don't sell out your children's future to salve your present vanity or attain temporary security. Our American system can crumble from within by the insidious imitation of decadent systems from abroad. Keep Uncle Sam strong by encouraging competition instead of monopoly, both as regards labor as well as industry.

* * *

"Dr. Crane, our entire school is buzzing and your ears should be scarlet," he informed me.

"For our school is also one of those wherein pupils are all given the same grade of 'E' for working 'Efficiently.'

"The teachers defend themselves by saying they were taught that this plan is superior. Their professors in the state university urged them to protect the vanity of the slow learner in this manner.

"But a lot of us parents have been griping for a long time at the unfairness of such a system.

"We think that merit deserves its proper reward, even though there is hurt pride for the also-rans.

"I was a track man in college, and lost many races. But I'd rather be in a competitive race and lose, than run and be given an 'E' along with all other track men in that event."

WHAT IS GENIUS

Edison once said that genius is 99 per cent perspiration.

So hard work is vital to success, as well as inherited I.Q., morality and a rugged physical chassis.

A diligent person with average I.Q. can run circles around a brilliant but lazy student.

But when that brilliant student also works as hard as the average, he should merit a superior mark. Otherwise, you kill the whole incentive principle that has made civilization progress.

Even our enthusiasm for sports would largely disappear if nobody kept track of strokes on the golf links, or runs scored when the Yankees play ball.

Our Olympic Games are of tremendous interest because specific scores are allotted. We want no Olympics where all contestants get "E" marks, regardless of where they finished in a race.

What would happen to our World Series if the scores were averaged and no team ever could win?

The American principle of greater reward to the better worker is violated when the Russian plan is advocated.

That is one of the inherent dangers in the labor union field, for the fast, efficient workmen must drag along their inept comrades and let the latter draw the same scale.

Piecework is the ideal plan wherever it can be adapted to industry, for that gets back to the American principle.

Whenever you level off the good with the bad and give everybody the same pay or the same score or the same school mark, you have patterned after Russia's ideology.

COMMUNISM CAN'T WIN

And Communism can't possibly succeed. For it violates inherent human nature.

Even in the ideal environment of the early Christian era, it failed. And Peter, as well as other Apostles who had lived with Jesus personally, still couldn't keep Communism going. See the fifth Chapter of Acts.

* * *

Just as in Russia where the leaders get big incomes and live in luxury, while the average worker receives a standard wage, so our American society shows a similar parallel.

For the ambitious union workers move out of the hourly wage scale and become union organizers or officials where top salaries are often $50,000 per year, plus expenses, free houses, etc.

Our military or mob coercion can keep the Communism plan in effect. And you patriotic Americans better oust it from your school grading.

For America must remain strong and that can't occur by leveling off the top scorers.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Show Business Behind the Iron Curtain

Red Theater Fare Calls for Mental Deep Freeze

Editor's Note: In another installment of his current Press series on show business behind the Iron Curtain, Billy Rose takes readers into the part tragedy plays in the Russian theater.

By BILLY ROSE

Tragedy has always been the mainstay of the Russian theater. It still is, but the most tragic performance I witnessed last summer was the real life drama of show people knuckling under to the political dictum, "Thou shalt not think."

Despite this mental deep freeze, there's a lot of entertainment in the USRR for the theater-goer who doesn't mind candy-coated formalism and time-tested staginess.

Take, for instance, the Bolishoi Ballet's version of "Romeo and Juliet."

This is undoubtedly the most spectacular example of traditional ballet to be seen anywhere on this billous green earth. When playing its own theater in Moscow, the Bolshoi employes a cast of over 700, and scenitically it makes New York City Center Ballet look like a magic lantern show.

Another big league ballet troupe is the one choreographed by Igor Moiseyev, which my old friend, Sol Hurok, is planing to bring to the United States next year. The high spot of its repertoire is "The Partisan Dance," and I predict that this number will shiver the chandeliers of every theater it plays over here.

* * *

Attraction No. 3 in my book is the Red Army Ensemble of 200 male singers, dancers and instrumentalists. For theatrical flair and firepower I've never seen its equal.

No. 4 on my Soviet Hit Parade is Obraztsov's Puppet Show. It is witty, satiric and gay as cotton candy. It presents few language barriers, and it's my hunch that it would sell out for five years in a small New York theater.

As for Soviet drama, the acting is almost invariably good; the direction, for the most part, reminiscent of "The Outlaw's Christmas."

* * *

The theater in Russia doesn't go in for long runs; it is virtually all repertory, and during the season as many as 150 different plays are presented politically safe classics. The rest are variations on the theme of Boy Meets Tractor, Girls Meets Tractor, Work Norm Doubled!

In Leningrad, I caught a performance of Verdi's "Don Carlo" at the Molotov Theater. The voices were not up to those at the Met, but the total effect was pretty much the same—a museum in which sopranos and tenors have replaced the paintings and sculpture.

I also saw "The Seven Beauties" danced by the Leningrad Ballet, an outfit which certain critics rate ahead of the Bolshoi. This group darn near repealed the law of gravity, and the scenery was scrumptous if you care for elaborate scenery.

* * *

The audience hung on to every minute, and I found their hunger for something beautiful, to offset the drabness of their lives, more than a mite touching.

The only operetta I got to see was "Countess Maritza." It bored me 30 years ago in New York, and bored me even more three decades later.

Incidentally, the Soviets stopped putting on anti-American plays about a year ago. "Too many," confided one of their top theater men, after a vodka campaign, had been written off by the Ministry of Culture as an expensive failure. The reasons the shows were box office flops . . .

* * *

Earlier in this piece I listed what I considered the four top shows in Russia. Actually, there are four other productions which, for pure showmanship, are even more impressive: (1) the New Subway, (2) the GUM Department Store, (3) the Manusoleum starring Lenin and Stalin, and (4) the Agricultural Exposition.

Every station on the Moscow and Leningrad subways is part palace, part art museum. Outside of the Winter Palace of the Czar, I never saw so much marble and gold-and-white trim, and so many crystal chandeliers, murals, mosaics and bronze fittings.

The GUM Department Store is almost as long as Red Square, which it faces, and it, too, houses enough crystal and gilt to put all the kings back in business. But there's precious little one can buy without hocking his children. Shoes are $150 a pair, a bar of chocolate $5.25, and bits of porcelain tagged $59 could be duplicated in any one of our five-and-dimes.

* * *

The tomb where Lenin and Stalin are on display rates a rave review for its staging and lighting. The approach is dimly lit, and one proceeds slowly down a series of red marble levels. At each turn there's a handsomely caparisoned soldier with gleaming bayonet.

The impresive coffins, side by side, are surounded by inch-thick, shatter-proof glass. A blend of amber and straw spots highlights the chrome-yellow faces. David Belasco couldn't have done it better, and the line waiting to get in is generally a mile long.

The show of shows, however, is the 100-milloin-dollar Agricultural Exposition on the outskirts of the capital. On 200 acres, a landscaped and befountained midway is flanked by 30 fairyland pavilions which house the farm and industrial products of the 16 Soviet republics.

* * *

In the Hall of Heavy Machinery, I saw big diesel engines, giant cranes, heavy-duty excavators, mammoth steam boilers, and even the Electronic Brain.

I, of course, had no way of knowing whether this stuff was actually in production or whether I was looking at their one existing model.

In the Hall of Light Industry there were typewriters, television sets, vacuum cleaners—almost everything one finds in an American department store.

To round out my report, on show business, I checked on how people reacted to the Voice of America. The news isn't good. Virtually everybody I talked to prefers the programs of the British Broadcasting Co. I heard a lot of different reasons why, but a university student gave me the best explanation.

"The BBC," he said, "gives us world news and is objective about it. You give us practically nothing but American news and slant it to suit your purpose. We're sick and tired of our own propaganda. Why should we listen to yours?"

Next: Poland and Czechoslovia.

Four Parents Killed in Car Crash

10 Orphaned Youngsters Concern of Community

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—There's only one topic of conversation in this community of 1,900 today.

It concerns the future of 10 orphaned children, and the accident that killed their parents.

The children, five each in the Smith and Bowman families, were left orphans Sunday morning when their parents, returning home in one car from town where they had a midnight snack, crashed into a tree.

"I've never seen a community so affected by anything. Everyone is broken up," said Gregg R. Potvin, an attorney.

* * *

"The whole town has turned out 100 per cent. We have been so flooded with food and help that we've had to ask people to stop sending more because it might spoil," said Mrs. Lee Kosanke, president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

What about the children? It's too early to decide.

* * *

"I feel the community is going to do everything it can to keep the children together," Mrs. Kosanke said.

"I imagine the brothers and sisters of the parents will want to take care of them" said Probate Judge Henry Vollweiler. The children are wards of the state under his jurisdiction.

* * *

It was about 1:30 a.m. Sunday when it happened. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bowman were heading home. Within two blocks of their homes the car driven by Smith failed to make a curve, sideswiped two trees and slammed headon into a third tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, aged 39 and 32, and Mrs. Bowman, 35, were killed outright. Bowman, 41, died 24 hours later.

* * *

"No one can figure out how it happened," Potvin said. "It is a gradual curve. There were no skid marks. There are theories that the steering gear failed, or Mr. Smith had a heart attack."

"I don't think it was excessive speed," said Mrs. Kosanke. "He wasn't that kind — and why would he be speeding so close to home?"

* * *

For the present the Bowman children are in the family home. They have relatives in town — David West is a brother of Mrs. Bowman.

* * *

The Smith children are staying with friends. The Legion Auxiliary, Women of the Moose, church and other groups are seeing that they are cared for.

The Bowman children are: Tommy, 3; Jerry, 6; Jimmy, 8; Janice Ann, 10; and Arthur, 13.

The Smith children are Paul J., 5; Jimmy Allen, 8; Steve Neal, 9; Ruth Diane, 12; and Richard Ray, 14.

Hazel Park Citizens
Ask $7¼ Million for Schools

HAZEL PARK — A seven and one-half million dollar bond issue for schools was recommended last night to the board of education after the board had accepted preliminary architectural plans for a 14-room school building.

* * *

The board has been operating on limited funds since voters turned down a school building bond issue of $8.5 million in June.

The school building would stand at Stevenson and 9½ Mile road, according to plans at the board of education meeting at the high school last night. Later the board members attended, in the same building, the meeting of the citizens committee which has been studying schools here.

Assistant Supt. Wilfred Webb said, "Authorization was given to the architects to go ahead to draw up necessary documents to be given the board as soon as possible for the planned school."

Webb said that the recommendation of the citizens group will be received in writing at a special meeting Oct. 8.

The citizens' group requested funds would be used for a new high school, two junior high schools and eight elementary school additions. Cost figures were presented at last night's meeting.

Foregoes Study to Sail
Youth, 21, Joins Crew of Brigantine

By LILLIAN REDMOND
Lapeer Correspondent

LAPEER—Dreams do come true. At least Ted Parker of Metamora, a Junior at the University of Michigan, is realizing his dream of sailing around the world as one of the crew of the brigantine "Yankee."

Ted, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parker, will be one of 22 aboard the famous square-rigged ship of Commander Irving Johnson when it shoves off from Gloucester, Mass., on Nov. 4. It is expected the voyage will take 18 months.

Back in 1940, the Parkers were in Honolulu, when the craft came into Pearl Harbor, and they went down to see it. Mrs. Parker recalled that Mrs. Johnson was a former classmate at Dobbs, in New York, and went aboard to renew acquaintanceship.

Ted was just five years old at that time, but he never forgot the Yankee and his family kept in touch with the Johnsons. A few years ago, Parker arranged for Commander Johnson to give a travel talk in Lapeer.

Now Ted is taking a leave of absence for 18 months from the U. of M. to make the voyage—the last one that Johnson plans to make.

There will be 18 young men aboard, from 18 to 25 years of age — and four women, whose ages are 23 to 28. Then there will be Mrs. Johnson and a paid cook. All the others are amateurs.

Three of the group will be from Michigan. One is Victor Nelson of Royal Oak, whose brother went on the last cruise and liked it so well he urged Victor to go.

Sailing from Gloucester, the island stop at the GalWWWWW Yankee will head south to the Panama Canal, and make its first island stop at the Galopagos in the Pacific.

Then to the South Seas—Pitcairn Island, Tahiti, Cook Island, Tonga, Fiji, New Guinea, Siam, Indonesia, the east coast of Africa, the West Indies and back to Gloucester by April 1958.

Few of the crew will have had sailing experience. Ted has sailed little sloops on Michigan lakes, but that is a far call from the mighty Yankee.

But Commander Johnson has taken out crews like that on all his voyages, and the young men and women quickly learn the profession of sailing.

Supervisor Tells of New Group

Lloyd Anderson to Head Public Works Committee in County

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Lloyd Anderson told the Township Board, in regular session here last night, that the Farmington Interceptor project is again a probability. Secondly, he told the group that a public works committee has been established for Oakland County by the Board of Supervisors.

* * *

Flowage rights to the City of Detroit's sewer system are again available for both the Farmington and Evergreen Interceptors.

The Farmington project would serve the communities of the city of Keego Harbor and Farmington, West Bloomfield and Waterford Townships.

Preliminary engineering has been completed and the proportionate shares of cost have been set. There remains only the program of financing and a meeting of the group with Louis Schimmel, municipal finance expert, which is being planned for next week.

Anderson is chairman of the public works committee recently appointed by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

This group is to study similar county committees in other states, supervising the development of sewer, water and drainage systems. Eventually a three-man public works commission would be established which would have the authority to appoint a full-time engineer. Before any of this can take place, Anderson said, laws will have to be drafted to make the committee function.

In other business, the Board discussed leasing its police cars instead of buying them. Police Chief Frank VanAtta was on hand to explain both systems. No action was necessary at the present time.

Approval was given for street lighting in the Lakewood Farms Subdivision and Lakewood Farms Annex. The hearing date for the project is Oct. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The contract for black-topping Crescent Lake road, between Pontiac Lake road and Elizabeth Lake road, has been awarded to the Ann Arbor Construction Co. Their bid was $8,632.60.

Despairing Man Free of Charges

Attempt to Rob Bank Forgotten for Man Who Had So Much Pain

NEW YORK (AP) — A despairing, down-and-out lawyer who made a fumbling attempt to rob a bank is now free of all police charges.

The case against Edward J. Monkenmeyer was dropped yesterday in Queens Felony Court.

Monkenmeyer had a prosperous practice 30 years ago. But the 1929 crash wiped him out. He never got back on his feet.

* * *

Life grew increasingly grim and he sank to a desperate low last Aug. 31 when Monkenmeyer, 63, was evicted from his room.

That same day the homeless man walked into a Manufacturers Trust Co. branch in Forest Hills with a note demanding $1,000.

* * *

In court yesterday, Asst. Dist. Atty. Burt Kohler told Magistrate Thomas J. Fitzpatrick:

"They say there is a chance to rebuild him, physically and mentally . . . no useful purpose would be served in bringing him to trial."

* * *

The magistrate dismissed the attempted holdup charges.

Later, Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor explained:

"A man can endure just so much pain and frustration in a lifetime. It seems to us that Ed Monkenmeyer has had just a little more than his share."

'Apple Blossom Time' Song Writer Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Albert Von Tilzer, writer of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" and other hit songs, died in his apartment yesterday after a long illness. He was 78.

He also produced such Broadway shows as "The Gingham Girl" and "Bye Bye, Bonnie." He was a charter member of ASCAP.

March Also Plays Havoc With Romance

Autumn Winds Blow Out the Fires of Love

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—Love is a delicate, prismatic sort of experience at strongest, and the first cold winds of autumn tend to bash in its heady head.

* * *

More lovers fall out of the mood in the month of November than any other time of the year, except the month of March.

Seems March leaves romantics cold, too. There are more couples getting muddled than cuddled about that time.

In case any reader thinks this is just a vague impression dreamed up by a columnist in a churlish frame of mind, study the facts and surveys. They indicate that the autumnal and vernal equinoxes stir up all sorts of psychological misgivings in both men and women.

In other words, while the sun is crossing the equator, men are crossing women and vice versa. All those crosses leave a lot of exed-out love matches.

LETTERS ANALYZED

The latest proof of this nasty business comes from Scotland, where a gentleman named Cyril Greenleaf long ago began collecting and analyzing letters that were written in to the writers of British lovelorn columns.

* * *

Now in England, they take their lornness seriously indeed—the loss of love apparently being intensified and rendered drippier by fog conditions — and Greenleaf has wept through several years of research into 10,000 grim letters.

An unreasonably high percentage of the saddest of these were being delivered to the ladies who give out editorial British bravery in the month of November. There seemed, to Greenleaf, to be very little cheerio in the fall. If any at all.

At first, the social worker surveyor was bemused. By love, he doubtless thought, this does not figure. Why should it happen in the autumn with all the beautiful leaves and the hot buttered grog and so forth?

* * *

But in delving into the writings of one Havelock Ellis, Greenleaf soon learned that it is the equinox that knocks off romance.

Reassured that he could do nothing to stop that—Greenleaf doesn't particularly approve of rainmakers, much less sun rerouters—he continued his survey for more facts.

YEARLY LETTER

According to news returned to this country via the wireless, he discovered that: Fourteen out of every 1,000 adults write at least one letter a year to lovelorn columnists; 90 per cent of these troubled persons are women; more than half are between the ages of 16 and 24.

* * *

From discussing this particular set of findings with lovelorn editors around New York, we gather that the same general ratios apply.

The biggest difference between the English and the American approach in confessing to, and asking guidance of, a newspaper writer appears to be that the girls abroad are interested only in learning about love, courtship and marriage! whereas here, the girls tend to get off the subject rather abruptly.

The following note is typical of a troubled American girl:

"I just broke up with my boy friend which is all right, I didn't like him anyway. Can you tell me where I can get a record called 'Rockin' With a Rat,' as I would like to present it to him?"

* * *

Obviously many American girls are not savvy either to love or equinoctial conditions — and that may save them a lot of (you'll excuse the expression) hard nox.

Convert Money to Loot in a Hurry

Red Artists Catch On to Capitalism

By CHARLES VLENSCH

MOSCOW (INS) — While Nina Ponomareva hides out from a bail-jumping rap growing out of a London shoplifting spree, other Russian cultural exports are hauling home planeloads of legal capitalistic loot.

* * *

This reporter has just returned to Moscow from a leave in Western Europe on a plane with a troupe of Russian variety artists.

The 18 singers, musicians, jugglers and managers were so heaped with swag that the pilot had to order a baggage-trainload held at Stockholm for later flight so he could find space for passengers.

Nina the discus champ reportedly had an allowance of only $15 to spend on bourgeois finery in London.

MORE FOR STARS

But top performers such as violinist David Oistrakh and pianist Emil Gilels may have up to $25,000 for spending money after a successful U.S. tour.

Gilels left America last fall with a new piano, a big-screen TV set, a hi-fi phonograph, tape recorder, cameras and other luxury items. Oistrakh toted up his net from concerts and recordings and went shopping for a $20,000 Stradivarius.

The Russian variety troupe which had been playing in Sweden probably had $200 to $300 each from a split of the profits to spend in Stockholm shops. The girls were wearing their booty.

* * *

A pretty young second-string soprano from the Bolshoi Theater who was wearing her hair in schoolgirl pigtails the last time I heard her sing now was sporting a ponytail adorned with a mother-of-pearl cinch and topped with a black and white cocktail hat.

Another was wearing a modish shingle-cut bob under a smart white felt cloche.

Several of the girls sported spike-heel pumps in dainty contrast to the clog heels which customarily clop down Gorky streeet, Moscow's "Fifth Avenue."

MEN BUY GIFTS

The men apparently invested their spoils in hard goods and clothing for wives and sweethearts which they stowed away in the ranks of brown cardboard suitcases that tied the airlines baggage-check counter in knots for nearly an hour.

A pair of towheaded twin boy tumblers conspicuously checked their wrist watches from time to time, ignoring big wall clocks in the waiting room.

The only sartorial standout among the men was a tall musician wearing an obviously non-Russian gray tweed Norfolk jacket with a five-button front and a belt all-around.

Some of the men had bought new fedoras, but had creased them in the pointed peak style of Moscow. Although the gals had decidedly seized on the "new look," the men retained the ruggedly Russian look — bell-bottom trousers, coat sleeves down to the knuckles and shirt collars two sizes roomy.

Scientists Spot Possible Factor in Heart Attacks

WASHINGTON (INS) — Heart researchers have pinpointed a substance found in the bloodstream as the possible cause of atherosclerosis, the nation's number one killer.

Atherosclerosis is the condition of clogging and narrowing of the arteries, particularly those leading from the heart.

The substance incriminated is low-density lipoproteins, the large, lightweight molecule that transports fat through the bloodstream to the body tissues for storage.

These molecules tend to rise, like cream, when blood serum is allowed to stand for a few hours in a bottle.

DEMONSTRATE ON RATS

Scientists at the U.S. Public Health Service's National Heart Institute, demonstrated the role of low-density lipoproteins in heart disease by producing its telltale fatty deposits in the hearts and arteries of laboratory rats following injection with the suspect molecules.

Rats are naturally immune to atherosclerosis.

* * *

The next question researchers must answer is: Why do some people have more of the low-density lipoproteins than others, and therefore are more susceptible to heart attacks.

A heart attack, such as President Eisenhower suffered a year ago, is caused when the heart's arteries become so clogged and narrowed that a blood clot can block the passage completely.

Diet, hormone imbalance and psychic stress have been named as among the possible factors in producing these molecules.

TRACE RACES

Certain racial groups, South Africa Bantu and Japanese among them, have low lipoprotein levels. Researchers are attempting to learn whether this is due to their low fat diets or genetic reasons.

The blood plasma of men contains a higher proportion of the suspect fraction than that of women, and male coronary death rates are twice as high as female rates. Experimental injection of female hormones in men has lowered the lipoprotein level.

The research of rats was conducted by Drs. Joseph Bragdon, Edwin Boyle and Richard Havel.

Bids Lower for Fire Station

Costs on Revised Plans Reduced by $31,449 for West Side Unit

A second round of bidding to build a West Side fire station yesterday brought low bids totaling $97,286.

This was $31,449 less than the low bids of $128,375 submitted July 30.

Pontiac architect Leo J. Heenan estimated $85,000 would build the new station at West Huron street and Genesee avenue. The city allocated $75,000 in its 1956 capital improvement program for the building.

Willman expressed confidence the station can be built for $97,000 and will be ready next spring.

LOW BIDDERS

Low bids yesterday were: architectural trades, Chissus Construction Co., $69,696; mechanical trades, Sylvan Plumbing and Heating, $21,490, and electrical trades, Paul's Electric, $6,100.

City commissioners in August referred plans for the city's fifth firehouse back to Heenan for revision to reduce costs.

Willman explained yesterday only non-essential projects such as deleting certain hallways, narrowing corridors, and reducing parking area went into the revised plans.

Willman said $550 will be tacked on to the total bid if commissioners decide to install electrically operated doors. This was stipulated in the Chissus Co. bid.

Accepts Story of Jordan Attack

Israeli Delegates Walk Out of U.N. Armistice Meeting

JERUSALEM (AP) — Despite an Israeli walkout, the Israel-Jordan Mixed Armistice Commission has accepted Jordan's story that an attack on an Israeli archeological meeting was carried out by a mentally deranged Jordanian soldier.

The Israeli delegation quit the commission meeting before the vote yesterday. The U.N. chairman, Norwegian Col. Christian Moen, joined the Jordan delegate in approving the resolution fixing the blame on the berserk soldier.

Four Israelis were killed and 16 wounded in the shooting Sept. 23 at Ramat Rachel, near Jerusalem, where several hundred members of an archeological congress were inspecting ancient ruins. Two days later Israeli forces killed 38 Jordanians in a retaliation raid.

Officials of Israel's four Arab neighbors conferred in Beirut to draft a protest to the U.N. Security Council about the Israel reprisal raid.

In Tel Aviv, the head of the opposition nationalist Heruth (Freedom) party, Menachem Beigin, predicted at a party convention that Israel would win any new Arab-Israel war.

Police Comb County to Find Ex-Convict Accused of Killing

RICHMOND, Ind., (AP) — Forty state troopers and 18 sheriff's deputies combed Wayne County early today in search of Thomas Moistner, 22, an ex-convict accused of the shotgun killing of his best friend.

State Police said Moistner, of Indianapolis, abandoned his car in Hagerstown, Ind., about 20 miles west of here. He was believed armed with a 12 gauge shotgun. Road blocks were set up. Two State Police planes were assigned to the search.

Moistner, Indianapolis police said, killed Thomas E. Scott, 17, Sunday night in Indianapolis after Scott had surprised him as Moistner was about to rape a nude 15-year-old girl.

A State Police patrol car spotted Moistner's 1935 black Plymouth in nearby East Germantown early today after a breaking and entering was reported there.

They pursued the car about seven miles into Hagerstown where the driver jumped from the auto and headed into the bottomland near a creek.

Richmond is in east central Indiana, about five miles from the Ohio Line.

Frances May Games, 16, told police Sunday night she and Scott entered her near north side home and found her cousin, Donna Games, nude and bound to a bed.

She said Moistner, a roomer, rushed out of a room and hit Scott once with the butt of the shotgun. He then killed him with one blast, she said.

Moistner, a tall, slim youth with tattoos on both arms, had served terms in the Kansas reformatory and at the Indiana State Farm on charges of grand larceny, burglary and escape.

Expressway Open, Jams Up Traffic

DETROIT (INS) — A traffic jam 10 blocks long was produced yesterday by the opening of the outbound lane of the new stretch of Detroit's John C. Lodge Expressway.

The jam developed within a half hour of the 3 p.m. opening and continued until 6:30 p.m.

Police said some of the tieup could be blamed on motorists curious to take their first ride on the new section of expressway.

The inbound section was opened in the morning with only minor tieups.

Adlai Apologizes for Clipping Off 'Name That Tune'

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has apologized for knocking out the "climactic last moments" of a television quiz show with one of his filmed political chats.

* * *

Last Tuesday night CBS presented a paid "spot" telecast starring Stevenson in the last five minutes of the "Name That Tune" show.

Honeymooning Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Keil of Herington, Kan., were on the show at the time. Mrs. Keil and her partner, Emil Haardt of New York, had won $20,000 by naming tunes.

TV viewers were watching films of the Keil wedding when suddenly the Stevenson telecast came on.

Telephone calls, telegrams and letters to CBS protested interruption of the quiz show.

* * *

CBS quoted the Keils as saying: "Mr. Stevenson can cut into our time any day — he's our boy."

Stevenson's apology will be read on tonight's show and Mrs. Keil and her partner will try for the top prize of $25,000.

Hollywood Headlines

Death Draws the Curtain on Many Bright Careers

By BOB THOMAS
(First of two articles.)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— A year ago last Sunday, James Dean's life was snuffed out on the highway, ending at 24 what promised to be a notable acting career.

* * *

The posthumous cult for Dean has not been equaled in film history. The reasons have been expounded in magazines and news articles — the identification of today's youth with Dean's film portrayals and his own mixed-up life, etc.

But I believe a prime factor is also the sentiment aroused because a star died before fulfilling his promise. In that, Dean was not unique. History has often repeated the tragedy of stars who were erased from the film scene by sickness, suicide or sudden death before the prime of life.

Wallace Reid comes to mind. He won overnight fame for a fight scene in "Birth of a Nation." He starred in picture after picture, usually as the all-American boy. When he fell ill in 1922, his studio explained it was a case of "overwork and Kleig eyes."

But the ugly truth came out: Wally Reid had become a morphine addict. His wasted body gave up life on Jan. 18, 1923, and the scandal rocked the film industry to its foundations.

The greatest after-death cult of a film star before Dean was that of Rudolph Valentino. A superbly handsome Italian immigrant, whose real name was Rodolfo Guglielmi, he enjoyed five years of stardom as the great lover of the screen. He died at 31 on Aug. 23, 1926, of complications following a stomach ulcer operation. But, as with Dean, his legend lives on.

Dorothy Dell was a New Orleans girl who started toward fame as Miss Universe of 1930. She starred with newcomer Shirley Temple in "Little Miss Marker" and was on her way toward a bright film career. But sudden death in a car crash ended her life at 19 on June 8, 1934.

On Sept. 2 of that year, another promising career came to an untimely end. Russ Columbo had ridden the top of the crooner craze with hit records like "You May Call it Madness" and "Prisoner of Love."

One day he stopped to see a photographer friend. While they talked, the friend picked up a Civil War pistol. The ancient gun suddenly exploded and shot a steel ball against a desk. It richocheted and struck Columbo in the head. For years afterward, the news of his death was kept from his ailing mother. The singer was only 26.

Hollywood was shocked on Jan. 3, 1937, to learn of the suicide at 29 of Ross Alexander. He was a talented young actor whose personality had scored in "Flirtation Walk," "Ready, Willing and Able" and other Warner musicals and comedies. Only recently he had been married to actress Anne Nagel.

Friends reasoned that he had been despondent over the death of his first wife. She had killed herself after an argument with him.

* * *

Jean Harlow, born Harlean Carpentier in Kansas City, set Hollywood afire in the early 1930s. She was the original platinum blonde and her performances in "Hell's Angels" and "Public Enemy" set the standard for sex on the screen. Later she turned redhead and became an excellent comedienne.

She was so full of life that the movie world was stunned when she died at 26 on June 7, 1937. Uremic poisoning spread to her brain. Her last love, William Powell, was at her deathbed.

Sleeping Sickness Takes Ninth Victim

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Louisville's death toll from sleeping sickness rose to nine yesterday. Eighty other persons have been stricken with the disease.

Dr. Maurice Kamp, Louisville-Jefferson County health director, said the latest victim was an 85-year-old woman who became ill in August.

The disease, encephalitis, is an inflammation of the brain. It usually strikes older persons.

Dr. Kamp said a mosquito-spraying campaign would be begun today. The disease is transmitted to animals and humans by the insects after they pick it up from birds and fowls.

Race Track Speeds Not So Good in City

DETROIT (INS) — A Detroit jockey today was wise to the fact that race track procedure doesn't get by on city streets.

Jockey Robert L. Baird was fined $50 for reckless driving yesterday by Traffic Judge John D. Watts.

Baird ran an amber light and struck a car in which Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Loftus were riding. He also was ordered to pay for Loftus' damages and slight injuries.

Ingrid Bergman of Today Shows Photos of 3 Children

Star Recalls First Meeting With Rossellini

This is the second of four articles by Hollywood's top reporter providing an intimate, candid look at Ingrid Bergman seven years after she left her husband and family for the love of film director Roberto Rossellini.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Motion Picture Editor

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — No completely happy woman could have allowed herself to be left open to such worldwide scandal as Ingrid Bergman did when she went to the bleak island of Stromboli on the north coast of Sicility to film her first picture for Rossellini.

The name of the film, "Stromboli," became an expression used by some of our local wits. It was no joke, however, to Ingrid who on that faraway island lost all sense of reason in her mad infatuation for her director.

It was no secret to many of us in Hollywood that Ingrid had not been happy with Dr. Peter Lindstrom, the former dentist, for a long time. She had paid for his education and he had become a fine brain surgeon.

Partly through her influence—and, of course, his ability—he had built up a good practice. He was engrossed in his work and it was said that every cent Ingrid made she turned over to the doctor, who was, shall we say, extremely practical.

No famous actress ever spent so little as Ingrid did on her wardrobe.

RUMBLINGS HEARD

Even as far back as when she was making her favorite picture, "Saratoga," with Gary Cooper, there were rumbles that she was restless and that she and Dr. Lindstrom were not the devoted pair the world believed.

I believe, however, that it actually wasn't until she went to New York to play in "Joan of Lorraine" on the stage and was alone that she realized the extent of her domestic unhappiness.

At first when Ingrid had those miserable years of hiding from everyone she had ever known in Rome, she was very bitter against her ex-husband, who made a trip to beg her to return home and to forget Rossellini.

I mentioned when I interviewed her in London that perhaps if Dr. Lindstrom had it to do over he would give her a divorce to spare their daughter, Jenny Ann, all the humiliation, pain and publicity, especially since he has remarried, his wife being the former Dr. Agnes Roznanek.

PROUD OF CHILDREN

Ingrid hesitated a moment and then looking straight at me, without smiling said, "I know Dr. Lindstrom is married again and I only hope that he is as happy as I am, but wait, I want to show you the photographs of my three children. They are such darlings."

She disappeared into her bedroom and in a matter of moments brought back pictures of handsome, sturdy Robertino—the little boy whom she adores — and the twins, whom she calls Isabel and Ingrid — enchanting little girls, whom little Robertino considers his special charges.

"My two girls," she said, "are as unlike as any two children could be. Ingrid, whose full name is Isotta Ingrid Frieda Juliana, is very dark, with straight black hair. She looks like her father, while her sister, Isabella Fiorella Electra Giovanna, has blonde, curly hair and looks exactly like me.

"And isn't my son handsome?" she said, handing me her favorite picture of the boy whose birth on Feb. 2, 1950, caused such worldwide excitement.

* * *

I had arrived in New York from Florida the very day of that birth. I must confess when I was met by Seymour Berkson, then head of INS, with this news I felt relieved, because every other newspaper syndicate continued to deny that Ingrid had any expectations of motherhood. That is how well she kept herself hidden after the Dec. 12 story appeared.

In 1948, after Ingrid had appeared on the Broadway stage in "Joan of Lorraine" and been acclaimed by the New York critics, I had luncheon with her at the RKO Pathe Studio, where she was making "Joan of Arc" for Walter Wanger.

* * *

She told me then that she had seen two great pictures, "Open City" and "Paisan."

"They were made," she told me, "by an Italian director, Roberto Rossellini. When I saw 'Open City' I thought it was wonderful, but when I saw the second one, 'Paisan,' I thought this can be no accident that he has made two such great pictures—He's a genius."

Then, laughing a little, she said, "I wrote him a letter and said, 'If you have a picture where I wouldn't have to speak too much Italian, I would like to work for you.'"

* * *

Little did Ingrid know then what the future held in store for her and little did she know that she would fall madly in love with the Italian director, who was emotional, volatile, romantic and entirely the opposite of Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Ingrid first saw Rossellini in London in 1948, when she was making "Under Capricorn," for Alfred Hitchcock. She was in London with Dr. Lindstrom and the three met and a partial arrangement was made to film "Stromboli" in March of the following year.

Hollywood had its first look at the Italian director, who was then very much in the limelight, in the early part of 1949. He had won the New York critic's award for "Paisan." He telephoned Ingrid from New York and came directly to California as the house guest of Ingrid and Dr. Lindstrom.

OBVIOUSLY IN LOVE

It didn't take a fortune teller to see that Ingrid was in love. She was like a young girl — blushing, happy and gay.

Perhaps Dr. Lindstrom had some premonition of what was coming, because he took a violent dislike to Rossellini and forbade Ingrid and the man for whom she was to leave everything, to be alone together.

I wondered as I sat and looked at Ingrid, if she had to do it all over again, if she would again give up everything for her many years of unhappiness and humiliation when even her career went sour.

I took my courage in my hands that day in London when I said, "Ingrid, is there any truth in the rumors that you are not happy with Rossellini?"

* * *

What she told me about her life with the Italian director will be answered in my next chapter.

Take Time Out to Cure That Cold

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

"Adolescense is when you think you will live forever. Middle-age is when you wonder how you have lasted so long." —George Hart.

Fortunately every age has its advantages, even middle-age and older years. For one thing, you have fewer colds as you grow older. That is a blessing but do not be fooled by it. Colds in the older person are more likely to lead to complications if neglected.

If you do not take care of yourself your cold may pave the way for pneumonia or real grippe, acute sinus or mastoid infection and other serious conditions.

Due to an exaggerated sense of duty, many men and women go about their work, either in their home or in an office, when they should be in bed. It seems foolish to run the risk of dangerous diseases when the old world can get along without any one of us, for a few days anyway. Your job still will be there and your family will not fold up.

CAN INFECT OTHERS

Also, you will have the heartfelt thanks of your coworkers and your family for not infecting them. One over-zealous worker can infect a whole office full of people; these in turn infect their families, and the children infect other school children. On and on it goes!

* * *

The medical profession takes a rather dim view of many of the familiar treatments for a cold. There is no known remedy which will shorten a virus cold.

Doctors are loathe to use the antibiotics for every cold which comes along, even if they were effective, because they do not want to make you immune to the antibiotics. Some day it might be a question of life and death when you need them for something like pneumonia.

If you have a fever with your cold you should go to bed and call a doctor. He will tell you what to do.

In this column I often have urged my readers to take a day or two off once in a while and loaf in bed. This is about the only way you can be sure to be rid of your responsibilities for that long. If you are one of those righteous persons who would feel guilty when giving yourself that sort of a break, you at least can have no twinges of conscience when you stay in bed with a bad cold.

The meeting was closed by prayer, led by Mrs. Karr.

came the magic that made possible so wonderfully different a Ford. In the toughest on-the-road tests ever given to a car, this "Inner Ford" demonstrated that a '57 Ford rides you sweet and low . . . that it takes the bumps without a bobble, the curves without the pitch . . . and, that in power, it "takes nothing from nobody!" Nothing on wheels hurries, handles or holds up like a Ford!

A new kind of FORD with the mark of tomorrow

The Fairlane 500, finest Ford series, features five of the 19 longer, lower, beefier Fords for '57.

YOUR LOCAL FORD DEALER

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

It was a hectic weekend in sports, especially in activities involving Michigan teams and athletic figures, plus a few national highlights.

The Brooklyn Dodgers ended the furious National League race by capturing the pennant. The Tiger sale became official with the consummation of the deal from the Briggs family to the Fred Knorr syndicate.

Michigan blasted UCLA, Michigan State overpowered Stanford, U of D had its bubble pinched on a safety to Villanova, Pontiac High was lucky to get by tying Ferndale, and the state's number one prep team felt the wrath of the Saginaw Valley by getting clobbered by Flint Northern.

St. Mike won its traditional crosstown game with St. Fred, and excitment started growing for the Michigan-Michigan State battle this Saturday.

Billy Hoeft won his 20th game on the final day of the season but the Tigers finished one game out of the first division. Al Lopez quit as manager of the Cleveland Indians and the Lions got off to a good start by winning the season opener at Green Bay.

The Red Wings made some news with impressive showings over their Edmonton farm team, and Michigan's 250,000 hunters took to the fields as the season started.

SOME INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS

A few of the postcripts from the past weekend were interesting. The crowd of 67,000 at Ann Arbor seemed to be anti-Brooklyn in regard to the National League pennant race. Every time the public address system gave the Brooklyn score with the Dodgers ahead, the boos were much louder than the cheers.

★ ★ ★

With the new Tiger owners finally closing their deal, an interesting bit of humor came out of a casual meeting between Knorr and Lion General Manager Nick Kerbawy.

"I wish you guys would get this Tiger business over with so that the Lions could get back on the sports pages," Kerbawy told Knorr.

Ken Stilley, the 265 pound line coach at the U of D, was a spectator at Ann Arbor Saturday. Stilley is presently "His Honor" the mayor of Clairton, Pennsylvania, and just recently he won the nomination as a candidate from his district for the U. S. House of Representatives.

Election would probably be the end of his football coaching. "I'll miss coaching, especially when I know things are looking up," he said.

Stilley was referring to the U of D frosh team which he figures "is one of the best group of prospects I'd have the opportunity to coach."

He also pointed out that Navy, Indiana, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Holy Cross and the Air Force Academy will be on the Titan schedule by 1960.

Yanks Pick Ford, Bums' Series Choice Unsure

BROOKLYN (AP)—The well-rested New York Yankees ruled a stout 7½ to 5 choice to dethrone the champion Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series which starts tomorrow at Ebbets Field but the National Leaguers had plenty of supporters, too.

* * *

Bobby Bragan, who gained stature as a manager even in Pittsburgh's three season-ending losses to Brooklyn, picked the Dodgers to win.

* * *

"All they have to do is play the kind of ball they played against us in those last three days," Bragan said, "those guys were simply great."

A major league umpire, who will remain unidentified even though he will not work in the series, thought the Dodgers would win "because they are keyed up right now and they have the momentum."

* * *

"I've been reading where the Dodgers are supposed to be tired," he said. "Tired of what? Winning? Capturing the pennant on the last day of the season, and the manner in which they did it, was the best pick-me-up they could have gotten."

Whitey Ford was certain to pitch for the Yankees in the opener but Manager Walter Alston was not expected to name the Brooklyn pitcher until after the workout today.

It was believed that Sal Maglie, Brooklyn's hottest pitcher in the stretch, will get the call. Alston wants Maglie to open things up and late yesterday he had just about made up his mind to go with Sal but reserved judgment when the 39-year-old righthander complained of miseries in his shoulder.

"Maglie will pitch if his arm is all right," Alston said, "if not, it wil be Clem Labine."

Maglie admitted he felt tired and also complained of a mild stomach disorder but said he would pitch if Alston wanted him to.

* * *

The former Dodger killer's 13-5 record for Brooklyn ranks him second only to Don Newcombe (27-7), who will hurl the second game for Brooklyn against New York's Don Larsen. Sal lost his only previous World Series start against the Yankees, failing to go beyond the fifth inning in the 1951 Yankee-Giant series.

Ford, who hasn't pitched since he failed in his bid for a 20th victory last Wednesday, will have a full week's rest. The southpaw ace appeared undaunted by the task confronting him in a park called a left-handed pitcher's graveyard. In Whitey's only series appearance there, in 1951, he was knocked out in the first inning.

"For a lefthander to win at Ebbets Field is a challenge," acknowledged Ford. "But I am anxious to prove I can do it."

* * *

Stengel said he planned no lineup changes. Mickey Mantle, though still bothered by a pulled muscle in his left groin, is a certain starter in center field, as is Billy Martin at second base, despite a back ailment. Enos Slaughter has a bad toe but he will be in left field. Bill Skowron at first base, Andy Carey at third, Gil McDougald at shortstop, Hank Bauer in right field, and, of course Yogi Berra, behind the plate, complete the lineup.

Alston, who said Sunday he may play rookie Charlie Neal at second base, switching Junior Gilliam to left field in place of Sandy Amoros, was uncertain about such a move today.

* * *

"Right now I'm leaning the other way a bit and may go with Amoros," Alston said. "Sandy has been hot lately and he may continue that way no matter who is pitching."

Amoros never has started a game when a lefthander opposed the Dodgers this year. The left-handed hitting little outfielder batted 11 times against southpaw relief pitchers, getting one hit, a triple.

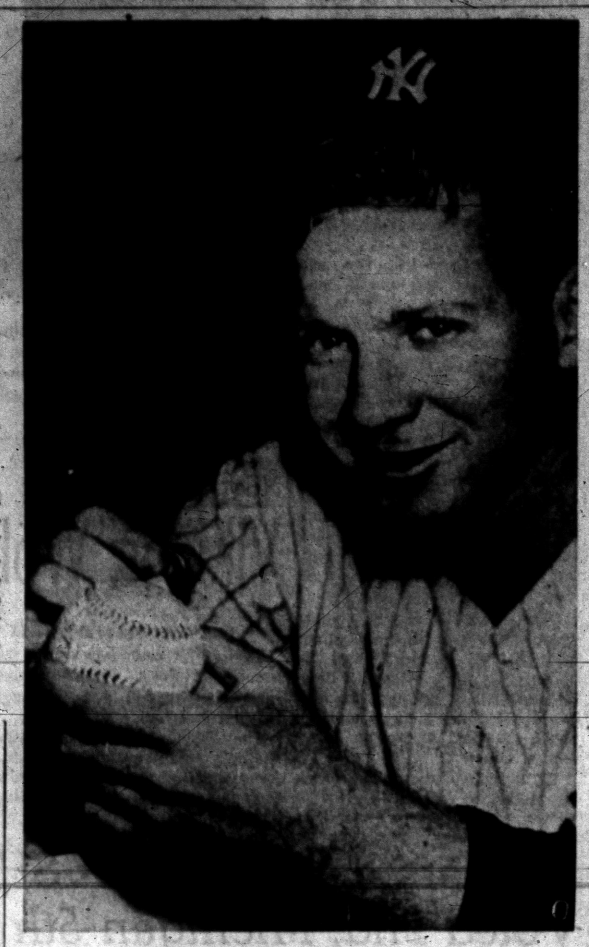

* * *

If Amoros plays, the lineup will be: Junior Gilliam, 2b; Pee Wee Reese, ss; Duke Snider, cf; Jackie Robinson, 3b; Gil Hodges, 1b; Carl Furillo, rf; Amoros, lf; Roy Campanella, c; and the pitcher.

All 34,000 tickets for the game have been sold. Those unable to get tickets may see the games on television (NBC) or hear it on radio (Mutual). Game time is 1 p.m. EDT.

MAY BE STARTER—Here's Sal (The Barber) Maglie, the Brooklyn lifesaver this season, who may be the Bums' starter in tomorrow's 1st World Series game. He would face Whitey Ford. In case Maglie is not named, the starting choice probably would be Clem Labine.

SAVES THE LEFT — Whitey Ford, Yankee southpaw who will start the 1st world series game tomorrow for the New York club, against the Dodgers, autographs baseballs with his right hand in Yankee dressing room after yesterday's workout. Bowman Fells 7-Point Buck Near Milford

The first deer to be killed with a bow and arrow in the Oakland County area since the archery season began Monday was reported to the Press sports department this morning.

George Marks, 9405 Commerce Road, Walled Lake, bagged a seven-point buck on opening day at 7:20 a.m.

Marks shot the deer from a distance of 17 yards with a home-made three-bladed arrow. Weighing an estimated 140 pounds, the animal was felled in Livingston County about 15 miles west of Milford.

In Home Town of Beaumont

Plan Memorial to Babe

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — A memorial to Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who died Thursday in a Galveston hospital, is being planned here.

* * *

The Babe formerly lived here and called the city her home town.

Her husband, George Zaharias, told Mayor Jimmie Cokinos yesterday he will bring all of the Babe's trophies, pictures, and mementoes to Beaumont if the city will provide a suitable place for them.

* * *

Cokinos said this would be done as soon as the space needed is known. One site under consideration is a lot next to the city library, he said.

Meanwhile, a total of $1,501 in contributions to the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund were received yesterday at fund headquarters in Galveston.

A plaque from The Associated Press was also received yesterday. Its engraved words named the Babe as the greatest woman athlete of the half-century.

The plaque did not arrive before Babe died, but a telegram was sent saying it was on the way.

"I'm thrilled to have it," Babe said when George told her of the wire.

Bait Wolf Trap!

Chiefs Prep for 'Big Test'

Pontiac High School football Chiefs Monday began what will probably be the toughest week of game preparations so far this season.

"Big Chief" Ed Graybiel and his war-council are "baiting the wolf trap," so to speak, for the beginning of Saginaw Valley Conference hostilities Friday night. Bay City's Wolves, co-holders of the 1955 Valley title, come here to help Chiefs get the campaign under way.

Wolves' mentor, Elmer Engle, has what appears at this stage another title contender to go along with red-hot Flint Northern and possibly Arthur Hill. These three have shown exceptional strength and just now pose a possible 3-way battle for leading Valley honors.

Assistant coaches Dean Wilson, Fred Zittel, Arnie Wilson, and cage coach Art Van Ryzin saw the Hillites turn on the power in the 2nd half against Flint Central Saturday and smother the Indians.

Said Dean Wilson, "Arthur Hill looked awfully good. They're quick, smart. You can't sell them short in this campaign. After a 1st half 6-0 edge, Hills passed Central to death in the 2nd half. They threw to everybody, at any time."

Pictures of the disappointing Ferndale game were studied by the squad Monday afternoon, after which a stiff scrimmage was held, with more of the same for today and tomorrow.

Charles Meets Welsh Fighter

Slipping Ex-Champion Faces Dick Richardson in London Tonight

LONDON (AP) — Ezzard Charles and Dick Richardson re-enact a famed old pugilistic drama tonight on the four-cornered stage at Harringay Arena—the faded favorite and the brash brat.

* * *

Old champion Charles who has lost more than he has won in recent engagements, meets the 22-year-old Welshman who is getting a fancy buildup in Britain in the hopes that this one time capital of boxing can have at least one world class heavyweight.

* * *

The fight could last 10 rounds but it is not supposed to.

London authorities say Richardson—who seems to lack a keen boxing intellect — should knock Charles out before the time limit.

* * *

Other authorities, including Charles and his manager, say Charles' superior experience and ability will see the old boy through once more.

Sidelights on World Series

BROOKLYN (AP)—"Expert" Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, said today he likes the New York Yankees over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening tomorrow.

"I think the pitching of Don Larsen will make the difference," said Williams. "I know he gave me all kinds of trouble. I got only a couple of hits off him last season."

From Brooklyn scout Al Campanis:

"I think we're going to beat them. Their pitching is not as good as it was last year when they got an unexpected lift from Tommy Byrne and they don't have the devastating power they had in the past."

Large placard outside Ebbets Field: "Maglie for rookie of the year." . . . No platooning for the Yanks this time . . . Manager Casey Stengel said Bill Skowron goes at first base because he's on a hot hitting streak . . . "Yet a month ago, I would have said he wouldn't start," laughed Case.

Yogi Berra, who will catch opening-game pitcher Whitey Ford, a lefthander, made the interesting observation: "They say Ebbets Field is tough on lefties, but when Whitey is right he can pitch anywhere . . . He's won in Fenway Park, Boston, and that's practically like Ebbets Field."

WEATHER OUTLOOK

NEW YORK (AP) — The weather for the opening World Series game between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow will be clear and cool, the weather bureau announced today. It added that there probably would be showers in the morning, but that it would clear by noon.

Maglie Insured Flag for Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP)—It is fairly certain that if the Brooklyn brass hadn't reached into the clouds and emerged with an angel, in the person of 39 - year - old Salvatore Anthony Maglie, more commonly known as The Barber, the Dodgers would not be the National League champions today.

* * *

For years, Maglie was the meanest and most hated member of the New York Giants, a genuine Dodger-killer, the difference between the Dodgers winning and losing at least a couple of pennants. This year, Maglie was still mean, but instead of being hated by Brooklyn fans, he was adored, and once again he proved the difference between the Dodgers winning and losing the pennant.

Capt. Pee Wee Reese voiced what was in the hearts and minds of all the Dodgers: "I bless the day Maglie became one of us. What a wonderful feeling it is to have him with us instead of against us. We wouldn't have had a ghost of a chance without him."

* * *

Maglie the magnificent, Maglie the quiet, confident one; Maglie the old pro, merely shrugs off the praise of his teammates and his brilliant record of 13 victories, including an epic no-hitter, since he joined the Dodgers in mid-May, by saying:

"I'm glad I helped but I knew all along I would if I were given the opportunity. I'm obliged to the skipper (Manager Walter Alston) for giving me the chance. But the job's only half done. There's still the world series to be won."

* * *

Maglie is a possible opening game series pitcher for Brooklyn but no matter how he fares in the Fall Classic, he must be regarded as the baseball story of the year, the Cinderella man of the 1956 season.

Only 14 months ago, Maglie was tossed into the human trash heap of baseball and dismissed by the Giants and the National League as thoroughly washed-up.

* * *

As late as last May, after riding the Cleveland bench for the last eight weeks of 1955 and the first six weeks of '56, Sal was waived out of the American League.

Today, this crafty pitcher, this fierce competitor, this sinister-looking man who is said to have ice water in his veins, is the idol not only of the heavily populated borough of Brooklyn, but of millions of fans across the nation.

Harris Praises Team

Flag Predicted for Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers will be a pennant-winning ball club, predicts ex-manager Bucky Harris, "if not next year, then soon."

"I'm only sorry I won't be there to have a hand in it," said the 59-year-old Harris who resigned last Thursday.

History will be repeating itself if Harris' prediction comes true. Once before — 23 years ago — Harris left as manager of the Detroit club and the Tigers immediately won two straight American League pennants.

Yesterday, in an interview, Harris had only "good things" to say about the 5th place Tigers.

"If we didn't have all those early-season injuries to so many key players, and if we didn't go into that 10-game losing streak in June, then the Tigers finish second, I am back next season and everyone in Detroit is happy," Harris said.

Same Old Story —Yanks Choice

New Yorkers Favored, 7½-5, to Win Series Against Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees today were a solid 7½ to 5 choice to win the World Series from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bookmakers also quoted the odds as 10-1 against the Yanks sweeping four straight and 15-1 against the Dodgers winnig four straight.

If Sal Maglie pitches against Whitey Ford in the opener, it will be 6-5, pick 'em. If Clem Labine starts for Brooklyn, the Yanks will be favored at 6-5.

The Brooks will be 6-5 favorites if Maglie or Don Newcombe pitches the second game for the Dodgers against either Don Larsen or Johnny Kucks.

Pirates Release Veteran Pitcher

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today gave Howie Pollet, veteran left - handed pitcher, his unconditional release.

In making the announcement, Pirate officials here for the World Series, said they understand Pollet intends to retire from baseball. He has an insurance business in Houston, Tex.

Pollet, 35, returned to the Pirates in midseason this year after having been released by the Chicago White Sox. He appeared in 19 games for Pittsburgh, winning none and losing four.

Bruin Halfback Arrested After Burglary Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gerry McDougall, senior tailback on the UCLA football team, was arrested on suspicion of burglary yesterday during football practice.

Another UCLA student, Richard E. Molen, 23, was booked with McDougall on the complaint of a woman who said she saw them carrying a clock radio and a record player from her apartment near the campus.

The woman, Fay Diane Gordon, who said she was in the apartment house swimming pool when she observed the incident, furnished police with a description of the car in which the two left.

Gaylord Man Downs 1st Deer of Year

GAYLORD (AP) — What was believed to be the 1st deer taken in Michigan's 1957 hunting season was shot silently Monday shortly after daybreak as the bow and arrow season opened.

Allan Wheelock, 30, of Gaylord, downed the 89-pound doe at 40 yards. He was hunting at Vanderbilt, 10 miles northeast of Gaylord.

The bow and arrow season runs until Nov. 5. The rifle season is Nov. 15-30.

Wants Saddler Bout

Texas Featherweight Idol of Boxing Fans

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Generally conceded to be Texas best boxing hope since Lew Jenkins, young Jorgensen is packing them in these days.

Currently rated with the top six featherweights in the world, Jorgensen's ambition is to meet Sandy Saddler.

"Somebody's got to beat Saddler sooner or later," he says. "I'd like to have a shot at it."

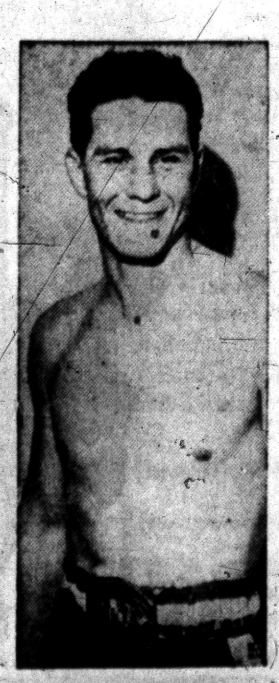

Jorgensen has fought some good boys and he has developed into one of the best attractions Texas ever saw.

For his draw with Carmelo Costa the gate was $20,400, largest in Texas boxing history. A bout with Red Top Davis drew $19,000.

He had a $13,000 house when he fought Davey Walden, $10,000 when he met Lauro Salas.

He beat Jacky Blair of Dallas the other night to make his record 46 victories against only 4 losses as a professional.

Richard McClendon, Houston real estate man who manages Jorgensen, says Paul will fight fellows with different styles so he can learn to handle any situation in the ring.

Thinks Dodgers Are Ready

Alston Not Awed by Yanks

BROOKLYN (AP) — If Manager Walt Alston of the Brooklyn Dodgers is worried about the big, bad New York Yankees, he should go in for heavy drama—he's that good an actor.

* * *

"My team was good enough to win the National League pennant in a tough, last ditch fight, and it looks all right to me to go against the Yanks," he said today before sending the club into its final Ebbets Field workout prior to tomorrow's first Series game.

Didn't he think that maybe the long, tiring battle took something out of the Brooks?

"On the contrary," he said, "I prefer a team that is keyed up like we are. I did not like our situation last year when we clinched the pennant early and sat around for weeks waiting for the Series to get under way."

* * *

"It's no big secret that Alston would like to start Sal Maglie in the opener, but the ancient Barber would be going with only three days of rest. Alston planned to talk it over with Maglie and announce his decision later today.

* * *

If it isn't Maglie, though, Alston appears to be inclined toward relief ace Clem Labine.

Babbish Is Victor in Medal Play Test

A former state and district champion walked off with the 2nd annual Detroit medal-play golf title Sunday in a three-way playoff at Red Run.

* * *

Bob Babbish made a quick finish of the knot, at 294, with Bob Whiting and Gene Woodard, both district veterans. He hit a trap on the 1st extra hole, but blasted out, sunk a four-foot putt for a birdie four while the others took fives.

Chuck Kocsis, 1955 winner, did not take part in the 72-hole test.

Spartans Look Good, 'M' Told

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan's end coach Matt Patanelli says "Michigan State looked good, very good," in defeating Stanford 21-7 last Saturday.

Patanelli scouted the Spartans at the game in Palo Alto.

The Spartans—traditional rivals of the Wolverines—will trek to the mammoth U-M Stadium this weekend for the game which partisans of both schools often consider the one that makes or breaks the season.

Patanelli said the Spartans showed greater depth than last season when they captured 2nd place in the Big Ten and went on to defeat UCLA 17-14 in the Rose Bowl.

Then too, Michigan's coaching staff points out that half the Spartans' vaunted 1-2 attack, right halfback Walt Kowalczyk, was used sparingly against the Stanford Redmen because of a leg condition. He ran with the ball but five times and picked up eight yards. He's sure to see more action against the Wolverines, coaches believe.

You can't make mistakes against Michigan. Michigan State learned that lesson the hard way last year.

That's why coach Duffy Daugherty is basing preparations for Saturday's game before 101,001 spectators at Ann Arbor on correction of mistakes uncovered in the 21-7 win over Stanford.

Last year, MSU outrushed Michigan 177 yards to 136 and outpassed the Wolverines 38 yards to 15. Most of the game was played in Michigan territory.

But the final score stood 14-7 for Michigan as the Wolverines capitalized on a pass interception and a blocked kick for their two touchdown drives — one covering 20 yards and the other 21.

An assessment of injuries, meanwhile, showed that a 1st string linesman and a 2nd string end will not make the Michigan game.

Right tackle Pat Burke, a regular since he started the 1st game of the season as a sophomore a year ago, will be hospitalized for a week or 10 days with a banged-up knee.

Joe Carruthers, a junior tackle from Detroit, and Francis O'Brien, a sophomore from Holyoke, Mass., will work the position.

Bob Jewett, six-foot-two-inch junior end from Mason, was found to have a broken bone in his stomped-on foot and probably will be out for the season. Harold Dukes of Detroit and Sammy Williams of Dansville will be moved up to work behind Tony Kolodziej, the starter at right end.

Smith Named Official World Series Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Lyall Smith, sports editor of the Detroit Free Press and president of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, will be the official scorer of the World Series starting tomorrow.

Jerry Mitchell of the New York Post and Gus Steiger of the New York Daily Mirror will be associate scorers, according to an announcement by Commissioner Ford Frick yesterday.

Casey Regrets Lost Effort

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, the grizzled old manager of the New York Yankees, sighed today at the thought of the bales of wasted effort that went into scouting Milwaukee and Cincinnati as potential World Series rivals.

* * *

"I guess I'll have to throw out all that stuff on the Braves and Redlegs," rasped the Yankee skipper who leads his team into Ebbets Field for the first game of the '56 classic tomorrow. "I think I'll dig out one of those lineups the Dodgers used last year.

"I guess the only big guy they got who is new to us is Sal Maglie, and he no only knows how to pitch, but he is in a very hot streak right now. We didn't see enough of him when he was with Cleveland in the beginning of the year to get much of a line."

* * *

Then he added with the famous Stengel wink:

"But I think those Dodgers will find that we are at least as good as Pittsburgh."

Busso Claims Split Verdict

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's East Side, long the spawning grounds for outstanding lightweights, may have another top contender before long in young Johnny Busso.

An aggressive fighter and a crisp puncher with either hand, the 22-year-old Busso ran his latest victory streak to seven last night with a split decision over Cleveland's Tommy Salem in a television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Unbeaten in 17 months, the curly-haired New Yorker, a recent bridegroom, now has an imposing 28-3-1 record.

Birmingham Rider Wins Grand Title

THOMAS—Upwards of 500 horses took part in a horse show Sunday afternoon at the Lindemeyer and Hale farm, 3165 Davison Lake Road, with about 500 people watching the events.

Sandy Wells of Birmingham won the grand championship trophy on her horse San Min. Arthur Kage, riding Blondey, took the reserve title. Bill Johnson, astride Yellow Wolf, won the quarter-mile race against 24 other contestants.

All judged events were awarded trophies and ribbons while cash prizes and ribbons went to action events.

Grid Fans Can't Kick at Traffic Penalties

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — Superior Judge Gregory P. Maushart is tough on high school student traffic violators in football season.

Any student cited must spend from 8 to 10 p.m. Friday — high school football night — in Maushart's court taking driver education lessons.

The judge started his miss-the-game penalty four years ago. Last year he held Friday night court for only two offenders.

"I hope I don't get any this year," Judge Maushart said. "I like to see football games, too."

National's Race Boosts Crowds

NEW YORK (AP)—A down-to-the-wire pennant race boosted National League attendance to its highest total in six seasons, but the over-all major league figure declined slightly in 1956.

* * *

With Milwaukee going over the two-million mark for the third straight year and three other clubs exceeding one million, the National League drew 8,652,987 fans. This was an increase of 1,078,575 over last season and surpassed the total of 8,320,616 drawn in 1950.

The 1956 National League crowd turnout fell short, however, of the league record of 10,388,470 set in 1947 when baseball benefited by a post-war boom in attendance.

Celtics Get Coast Ace

BOSTON (AP) — Forward Jim Young from Santa Clara, Calif., has joined the Boston Celtics squad to raise the National Basketball Assn. club's roster to 15 men.

Houston Seeks 3rd Win

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Tommy Hughes was ticketed for mound duty tonight as the Houston Buffs try to stretch their 2-1 Dixie Series lead over Atlanta.

The Texas League champs whipped Atlanta of the Southern Assn. 8-1 last night behind the hurling of Ted Wieand. Pidge Browne batted in four runs with two doubles and a single and Bob Smith smacked a two-run homer and a double.

Vic Rehm was the cracker pitching choice for tonight.

Sooners Lead Poll, MSU Voted 2nd, Michigan 5th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With a string of 31 straight victories behind them and the end hardly in sight, Oklahoma's Sooners still are the Nation's No. 1 college football team until someone proves they're not.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters affirmed this rating by voting Oklahoma into the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press ranking poll for the second week of the 1956 season. The Sooners also were the preseason choice for top ranking.

* * *

The seasonal debut of the Big Ten Conference teams, many rated high in the preseason picks, had a distinct effect on this week's ratings. But Oklahoma, first on 60 of 97 ballots, still dominated.

Michigan State, returning to its preseason second rating on the strength of a 21-7 victory over Stanford, drew 17 first places and 773 points. Then came Georgia Tech, second a week ago, with 662 points.

Others in the first 10, which included two new members and a reshuffled lineup since last week, were Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

Series Ducats at Cincy Will Go Up in Smoke

CINCINNATI (AP)—The last vestige of the Cincinnati Redlegs' hopes for a National League flag will go up in smoke in the next few days.

They are the 35,540 tickets to prospective World Series games at Crosley Field. Redleg officials will burn them as soon as internal revenue men check them for tax purposes.

Northern Sets Pace

Vikings, Wolves Top Preps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's a new face atop the Associated Press Class A high school football poll, and it belongs to Flint Northern's Vikings.

The Vikings played "beat the champ" last weekend, drubbing Ann Arbor 33-0 to end the Pioneers' 40-game unbeaten streak and that victory convinced the state's sports writers and sports broadcasters that Northern is the state's finest prep outfit.

Bay City Central, which has allowed only six points while collecting three victories, ran a close second, piling up 93 points to Flint's 119 on the basis of 10 points for 1st, nine for 2nd and so on down the line.

Northern leaped from 3rd to 1st on the strength of the triumph over Ann Arbor. Bay City Central retained its strong grip on 2nd place while Ann Arbor slipped to 4th behind Saginaw Arthur Hill (3-0).

The top four teams have a combined record of 11 wins and one loss.

Grand Rapids Catholic Central, with a 21-19 loss to Flint Northern shadowing two victories, jumped into 5th place a shade ahead of Muskegon Catholic, which is averaging 36 points a game in three straight wins.

Here are the selections of the state's sports writers and broadcasters:

	1st Place Votes	Points
Flint Northern (3-0)	11	119
Bay City Central (3-0)	1	93
Saginaw Arthur Hill (3-0)	0	53
Ann Arbor (2-1)	0	48
Grand Rapids CC (2-1)	0	44
Muskegon Catholic (3-0)	0	41
Dearborn Fordson (3-0)	0	37
East Detroit (3-0)	0	32
Midland (2-1)	0	30
Battle Creek (3-0)	0	26

Others: Grosse Pointe 20, Southfield 17, Jackson 15, Lansing Eastern 12, Muskegon Heights 11, Pontiac 10, Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills and Muskegon 9, Flint Central, Kalamazoo and Alpena 6 each.

Indianapolis Pilot Wants Cleveland Job

CLEVELAND (AP) — Kerby Farrell, 43-year-old Tennesse mountaineer who managed Indianapolis to a four-game sweep of the Little World Series, is going to talk with Hank Greenberg about the manager's job on the Cleveland Indians when the two get together in New York this week.

Farrell said he "wasn't going to attend the World Series until this thing came along. Then I decided I'd better see Hank and find out where I stand.

"I'd sure like to take a crack at that job. It's always been my ambition to manage a big league club."

Falcons, Chieftains Both Unbeaten

Rochester Waits for Utica After Layoff

Whether a week's layoff has made Rochester ready or rusty will be told in Friday's big clash against rugged Utica on the Falcon gridiron, in what will be one of the leading class B games in the state this weekend.

Both teams are unbeaten and are listed among the top 20 in the Associated Press "B" poll, Utica in 12th spot and Rochester 17th.

Utica annexed its third straight victory with a 13-6 surprise over a strong Center Line eleven while Rochester was sitting out an open date last week.

The Falcons are bidding for one of the best seasons since the unbeaten 1952 campaign and a victory over the Chieftains could move Rochester high among the Class B powers.

An all-senior backfield, equally strong at all positions, will start for Rochester Friday.

Halfbacks Dave Peters, 6 feet 170 and Dave Eldred, 6 feet 185, along with 165 pound fullback Al Bonnin and 175 pound quarterback Ted Weaver, are considered by Konley as one of the best backfields in his 11 years at Rochester.

Eldred is a transfer from Big Rapids where his father, Jay Eldred was head football coach.

Rochester has shown a strong ground attack in its wins over Davison and Farmington, however Konley feels he has an adequate passing attack should the Falcons be forced to take to the air.

Depth is the problem on the line with sophs and juniors holding down all middle line jobs. Seniors Doug Falls and Don Mitchell are at the terminals.

Tackle Dave Thompson a 205 pounder who broke his hand in pre-season drills will not be ready for another week. Two huskies in the line are 217 pound Chuck Ebersole a sophomore tackle, and Ken Purdom a 205 pound center.

In his 11 seasons at Rochester, Konley can point to a enviable record of 70 wins, 12 losses and 6 ties, including three unbeaten seasons in 1947, 1949 and 1953.

Boudreaux Earns Draw

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Al Boudreaux, 136, New Orleans, turned to a punishing body attack in the middle rounds to come from behind and earn a draw decision with heavily favored Valentino Luna, 134, Austin, in their ten round fight last night.

Stress on Fitness

PHS Modernizes 'Phys-Ed' Program

Designed to meet the changing concept in needs of young people, and the necessity for a general improvement in the nation's physical fitness, Pontiac High School has modernized its physical education program.

Tom Dodson, athletic director, points out there is a major responsibility on the part of public education in moves for improvement. It is essentially a home and community problem, he says.

So, a program has been outlined to care for at least three objectives of seven proposed in a June President's Conference at Annapolis, Md. Further plans are in sight to satisfy remaining points.

Objectives were listed as—sound instructional program; general intramural program; varsity program; diversified activities; emphasis on carry-over sports; competition for individual improvement and recognition of participation as well as achievement.

Boys' physical education staff has been increased from two to four, thereby reducing class loads to an average of 35 students per instructor. This reduction has made it possible to convert from a mass type activity program to one that gives more attention to individual needs, Dodson says.

"Program will provide experiences designed to increase physical fitness and equip the student with skills that will meet his needs now as well as in later life.

"The new program is designed at the sophomore level to test the physical fitness of a student at the beginning of the year and schedule him in a broad variety of activities that will require him to exercise all of his muscle groups. Tests at the end of each semester will evaluate physical fitness growth. This program will include gymnastics, swimming, football, basketball, wrestling, weight lifting, combative games, soccer, volley ball and dancing.

"Second of the two years required of all students is one in which he will learn basic skills in archery, fishing, golf, tennis, badminton, handball, riflery, and other social skills that equip the student for adult life.

"By teaching these skills that have some practical value the student will naturally participate in the activities he likes and can do best. Through his participation he will maintain a reasonable degree of physical fitness."

A senior student may voluntarily select the activity that he would like to pursue further. Advance instruction will be provided.

Physically handicapped students will be assigned to a health class until such time as a modified program can be developed.

Little Stories About Outdoors

Experiments indicate that bees recognize honey-yielding flowers first by color and secondly by scent.

To Europeans the plover is the "rain bird" because of its habit of scolding before rain. "Plover" is derived from "pulvia," the Latin word for rain.

The Chimney Swift is the only bird known that can beat its wings alternately, this unusual faculty enabling it to be the most maneuverable bird that flies.

The pocket gopher is one of the few animals that can run backward as fast and as easily as it can move forward. Here its tail serves it in good stead as it is endowed with tactile organs, enabling the animal to feel its way around underground when it moves in reverse.

The flight of the Canada goose is heavy but powerful. It averages about 55 miles per hour. To cut down air resistance, Canada geese usually form a V-shaped flock. These magnificent migrators sometimes negotiate a non-stop flight of hundreds of miles.

Traffic Deaths Increase in August; 1956 Tolls Head for New Record High

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's traffic deaths increased in August for the 18th consecutive month and the National Safety Council says the toll for 1956 appears headed for a new record of between 41,000 and 42,000.

* * *

Accidents on highways killed 3,600 in August, the council reported today. That was a 2 per cent increase over the 3,530 killed in August last year.

The council said traffic deaths in the first eight months this year totaled 25,350 up 8 per cent than in the comparable period of 1955 when 23,460 persons died. The largest recorded toll for the first eight months of the year was 24,467 in 1937.

The all-time traffic toll was 39,969 in 1941. Last year's total was 38,300.

August's 2 per cent increase was the smallest since February 1955. That provides only "slight solace," however, the safety council said.

TRAVEL UP

Mileage figures are available for only seventh months, the council said. For that period travel was up 6 per cent and deaths up 9 per cent. The death rate per 100 million miles rose to 6.0—up 3 per cent from the 5.8 rate for the corresponding period last year.

Eighten of the 47 states reported August figures showed decreases in the number of deaths. One reported no change and 28 reported increases. The three leading states with fewer deaths for the eight months were: Rhode Island, 31 per cent; Nevada, 24 per cent and Tennessee, 16 per cent.

In Auguust, 420 cities reported perfect safety records. The three largest were Rochester, N.Y., 332,500; Miami, Fla. 259,000; and Omaha, Neb., 2551,000.

* * *

The three leading cities in each population group at the end of eight months, ranked according to the number of deaths per 10,000 registered vehicles, included:

Over 1,000,000—Detroit, 3.1; Chicago, 3.2; New York City, 3.6

* * *

25,000-50,000—Battle Creek, 0.0; Las Vegas, Nev., 0.0; Billings, Mont., 0.0.

10,000-25,000 — Hollywood, Fla., 0.0; Mt. Clemens, 0.0; Kingsport, Tenn., 0.0.

Beans, Wheat Post Advances

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and soybeans bounded up on the Board of Trade today while the rest of the grain list eased after early steadiness.

* * *

Gains in wheat ran to around a cent and in soybeans to around two cents before enough selling orders were encountered to halt the upturn. Corn firmed early and then gave up all its gains.

Buying in wheat followed upon failure of any important moisture to fall in the Southwest overnight while soybeans were wanted because of a change in the government selling policy on 1956 crop soybeans it will own.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½-1 cent higher, December $2.27⅝; corn ⅛-⅜ lower, December $1.37½; oats ¼-⅜ lower, December 75½; rye unchanged to ½ higher, December $1.57½; soybeans ¾-1¼ higher, November $2.38, lard unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, October $11.37.

Earnings

JACKSON (AP) — Sparks-Withington Co. of Jackson yesterday reported a net income of $363,336 for the fiscal year ending June 30 compared to $168,244 for the previous year. The manufacturing firm said net income equalled 37 cents a share on common stock compared to 16 cents per share in the 1955 period. Sales were $24,082,999 compared to $26,801,332 last year.

NEW YORK (INS)—American Enka reports net sales of $42,240,044 in the 36 weeks ended Sept. 9, compared with $48,856,919 in the corresponding period last year. Net income amounted to $2,046,138, or $1.51 per common share, a drop from 1955's $5,186,103, equal to $3.83 a share. President J. E. Bassill attributed the lower earnings to reduced sales coupled with rising costs and increased expenditures for long-range development.

New Mexico Goal of Estes Campaign

ROSWELL, N.M. (INS)—Cheered by a peppy Texas reception, Sen. Estes Kefauver carried his southwestern campaign tour into New Mexico today to hurl "give-away" charges at the Eisenhower administration.

* * *

The Democratic vice presidential candidate pledged:

"Adlai Stevenson and I shall, come this January, bring the give-aways to a complete stop. We shall reverse these gears."

In a speech prepared for delivery to a five-county rally on the Roswell, N.M. court house lawn, Kefauver accused the GOP of "wholesale disposal of our reclamation, water and power resources."

He pointed to the famous Dixon-Yates and Hells Canyon power controversies as examples of what he called "a natural resources policy which is bent on the surrender of the public domain."

Grounded Cargo Ship Plugs Suez Canal

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—The British cargo ship Hendrik went aground in the Suez Canal about 30 miles south of Port Said today, delaying passage of southbound ships through the vital waterway.

The Egyptian Canal Administration immediately dispatched tugs to disengage the 20,270-ton freighter and free traffic.

It was the first time a ship has gone aground in the canal since Egyptian pilots took over the piloting duties about three weeks ago.

Officials of the canal administration said they hoped to bring the Hendrik into the center channel in a short time.

Capitalistic Windows Are Admired by Reds

BERLIN (AP)—Shop window decorators in Communist East Germany were officially advised today to take tips from the capitalist world.

Commenting on the dreary window displays of an East Berlin store, the Communist party organ Neues Deutschland said:

"Perhaps the store officials who are responsible for window decorating have never observed a capitalistic show window. It would certainly be rewarding."

Seek 3 in Breakin of Clarkston Home

Oakland County deputies today are seeking three youths for questioning concerning the Monday afternoon breakin of a Clarkston home.

The youths reportedly fled from the unoccupied house at 9900 White Lake road when owner Raymond Farrell arrived to investigate. He lives at the rear of the house and used the building for storage.

Nothing was known missing from the house but Farrell said he found his kerosene stove oven left near the front door and an electric motor and handle pump outside the building.

Market Makes Good Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market hit the comeback trail today with a recovery that was still going strong in early afternoon.

* * *

Steels, motors, rubbers, oils, aluminums and coppers paced the upturn, with several issues tacking on gains of 2 points or more.

A surge of buying hit the market in the first 15 minutes, causing the ticker tape to run a minute late. Trading eased back for a while until another wave of buy orders came in around the noon hour.

* * *

Trading was at a pace of around 2½ million shares for the day. That compares with 2,600,000 shares traded in yesterday's declining market.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was ahead $1 at $173.20.

* * *

Brokers attributed today's advance to the improved outlook for general business in the final three months of 1956, and to political factors. Some said President Eisenhower had finally succeeded in convincing the financial community that he really planned to fight hard for re-election.

Favorable business news included forecasts that the new 1957 automobiles would sell like hotcakes, thanks to extensive style and engineering changes.

* * *

Steels were well out in front with Youngstown, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem up around 2. In the motors division, Chrysler was ahead 2 points and Ford and General Motors gained fractions.

Rebels Step Up Fight in Algeria

8 Killed Since Sunday; French Fear Rebellion Out of Control

ALGIERS (AP)—Nationalist rebels attacked European farms, machinegunned a train and ambushed a unit of French troops during the past 24 hours. High French officials began talking more pessimistically about the course of the rebellion.

* * *

The Nationalists, who began their uprising 23 months ago, continued to concentrate their attacks in the area of the capital city. Since Sunday 8 persons have died in Algiers and more than 60 have been wounded.

Robert Lacoste, resident minister for Algeria, conferred in Paris with Gen. Henri Lorillot, his military chief, on ways to put a brake on the speedup of rebel activity.

Lacoste, who only last week reiterated his belief that the nearly 500,000 French troops in Algeria were beginning to get a grip on the rebellion, said that the Nationalists were making "new threats."

Most Moslem parents kept their children from school again today for the second day of the fall session in Algiers as a protest against the French administration. The situation in schools elsewhere in Algeria was said to be near normal.

'Mother' Keeps Sun From Little Cacao Tree

RIO de JANEIRO—The cacao tree, a small one—only 12 to 15 feet tall—thrives in tropical forests. Even on plantations where it is carefully cultivated it must have a "mother" tree to shelter it and protect it from the sun's heat.

* * *

White and pink frowers form in profusion right on the tree's trunk and so do the handsome red, yellow and green fruit, each shaped like a small melon. Inside each of these little "melons" are the cacoa beans, sometimes as many as 50 in a single fruit.

British Diplomat Due for U.N. Suez Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd arrives in the U. S. today for high-level talks aimed at avoiding a split among the Western Big Three on a Suez Canal solution.

Lloyd will confer with key U.S. and French officials on a common approach to the Suez dispute in the U. N. Security Council debate which gets under way Friday.

Britain and France want to present a resolution to the council calling for international control in accordance with the 18-nation London conference proposal, which Egypt turned down.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has stressed repeatedly, however, the key to a Suez solution lies in finding a basis for mutual accord between the Western powers and Egypt on the canal's future operation.

New Fords Glamorized to Appeal to Fairer Sex

DETROIT (AP)— Women drivers will enrage men next year in the prettiest cars ever.

That's one conclusion from press previews now under way of the 1957 models.

* * *

Ford even had a special showing of its new line for women of the press. The biggest crowd gathered around a gleaming continental—"The women like that simple $10,000 price tag," said one onlooker (male).

At any rate, men should take fair warning—the ladies will do more head craning than usual so they can admire their auto's reflection in store windows.

Colors are toned down some but the combinations are strange and wonderful. Don't be surprised to see yellow, green and lavendar combined, with gold trim.

SAFETY FEATURES APPEAL

Don't expect women to take advantage of higher horsepower to try new speed records. They'll be aware of the safety lesson in padded dashboards and safety belts. (optional but nice, said preview audiences).

As a matter of fact, ladies driving high speed but longer cars will probably require more slow speed cruising to find big enough parking spots.

Lower roof lines may cause a styling revolution in hat fashions. High flying feathers and bulky crowns won't fine much headroom.

The wide front seats are a blessing for women who will have ample room to pile handbags, parcels, gloves, shopping lists and babies between themselves and one or two passengers.

ENLARGE GARAGES?

There may be a slowdown in projects to enlarge the garage to make room for the new car. The 1957 model will probably be parked out in front of the picture window so everybody can keep an appreciative eye on it.

George W. Walker, vice president and director of styling for Ford, says women of the country are largely responsible for the good styling reflected in the new cars.

* * *

"It's being increasingly recognized," said Walker, "that a product must appeal to women or it will fail. And women influence 85 per cent of all purchases made."

Cohan to Look Over Broadway

Famed Song Writer's Statue Proposed for Times Square Site

WASHINGTON- It's Broadway's turn to give its regards to George M. Cohan, favorite son and songwriter of New York's "Great White Way."

The Times Square site proposed for a statue of the composer playwright-actor, who died in 1942, flanks one of the world's most famous streets, whose name has long been synonymous with that of New York itself, the National Geographic Society says.

In relation to its city, Broadway compares with Piccadilly Circus, Threadneedle and Bond Streets, San Francisco; Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C.; and the Champs Elysees, Paris.

The Cohan statue will look upon the best known part of Broadway. There, a wonderland of flashing lights towers above congested sidewalks and traffic jams, window displays, theaters and noises--the hub of show business and New Year's celebrations.

Broadway flaunted its first electrical displays by 1891 on the site of the present Flatiron building. The pioneering lights told of soaps, pens, tobacco and a bathing beach. Within 15 years awe-struck visitors to New York eyed a boulevard blazing from Herald Square (to which Cohan also wanted to be remembered) to 47th Street.

FOLLOWED INDIAN TRAIL

Now called a street that belongs to the world, Broadway was fashioned by Manhatton's 17th-century Dutch settlers. Some say it followed on Indian trail along a chain of hills from the island's tip to a forest-darkened fringe of the Hudson. The route was pounded northward by the feet of roaming cattle.

Proud of their street, the early Dutch called it de Herre Straat, meaning grand or lordly, changing it to Breedeweg as cart traffic grew. They shot bears at its wild upper end where forest bordered outlying orchards.

Extending nothward as the population grew, Broadway bent west at 10th Street because an obstinate farmer, Hendrick Brevoort, refused to allow it near a tree where he took a daily nap.

Broadway accomodated same of New York's first horse-drawn buses. Pedestrians had a hard time crossing the street as early as 1850. Today Broadway reflects New York's business, culture and recreation in its city-long bordering of shops, skyscrapers, theater districts and uptown colleges.

Farmer Devises Way to Protect Young Pheasants

ALBANY, Ore. (INS)—A lot of China pheasants are alive and flying today because an Albany farmer has devised a way to save them from being killed by mowing machines.

Lewis Boesel hangs a cow bell on the front of his tractor when he's mowing hay.

The clanging bell scares the nesting pheasants and saves them from sudden death. Apparently the tractor noise is not enough to frighten the birds but the extra din of the bell makes them fly for their lives.

Killarney Lakes Pride of Europe

American Purchases Scenic Wonderland of Ireland

WASHINGTON — The Lakes of Killarney, recently sold to an American, rank among the foremost scenic attractions in Europe.

* * *

Famed in poetry and song as Beauty's Home and the Reflection of Heaven, the lakes have been acclaimed by some experienced searchers as among the most beautiful places in the world. They are like blue opals amid the green mountains of Ireland's County Kerry, the National Geographic Society says.

The new owner has promised to keep the lakes open to visitors, and to retain their traditional character.

There are three lakes. The Upper Lake remains in the hands of the estate of the Earl of Kenmare. The other two, Muckross Lake and Lough Leane, with the encircling land, have been sold to J. Stuart Robertson of Boca Raton, Florida.

The charm of the landscape lies in part in its lack of suddenness. Here is no dramatic scenery, or rugged sights, such as characterize the Irish coast. All is soft and rounded; contrasts are muted.

Centuries ago this was a seat of Irish learning, with renowned abbeys such as Innisfallen, Muckross and Aghadoe.

Ross Castle, once the stronghold of The O'Donoghue, hero of a local saga, stands on the land just sold. Every seven years, in May, The O'Donoghue, who died in a plunge from the castle wall, rises from the waters on a snowy horse. All who see him on his ride, and hear the ghostly music that accompanies him, are guaranteed happiness.

The famous Gap of Dunloe, a pass slashed in the mountains by the sword of the mighty Finn McCool, and a black tarn or lake, where St. Patrick drowned the last snake in Ireland, are in the Killarney district. Those who wash their hands in Muckross Lake are immune to toothache ever after. To the east lie the Tomies Mountains, home of a magic white heather which has the power to make wishes come true.

These and other Irish legends lay over the region an aura of enchantmest to match the scenery.

Family Makes Habit of Rescuing People

WAKEFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Saving lives seems to be a MacAuliffe family trait.

Story Travels Behind Screen

'A Face in the Crowd' Depicts Rise and Fall of Entertainer

NEW YORK (AP) — No first-rate movie about the world of television has yet been released. Neither has a first-rate novel been published about life behind the home screen.

* * *

So when a writer of excellent movies and novels spends a long time strolling quietly through the maze of the big new industry, something is bound to happen. One has and it will.

The writer is Budd Schulberg, author of "What Makes Sammy Run" and "The Disenchanted," the writer of that excellent film, "On the Waterfront." As a result of his bemused strolling on the TV front, he and Elia Kazan are making a movie in New York called "A Face in the Crowd." To be released next spring, it will star Andy Griffith and Patricia Neal.

* * *

"A Face in the Crowd" is based on a short story by Schulberg entitled "The Arkansas Traveler" concerning an entertainer from Arkansas who rose to fame and plunged to spiritual destruction in radio. In his movie script Schulberg has transferred the medium to TV.

"The character of the man, called Lonesome Rhodes, is that of one who is happy until he moves into the false environment of television," Schulberg said the other day.

* * *

The theme of the movie, says Schulberg, truthfully reflects his own observations of the TV world:

"New York television is Hollywood raised to the tenth power. It's much more frantic. In Hollywood they say you're as good as your last picture. But in television you're only as good as your last rating. The audience rating has become a neurosis with people in television. Probably more than anything else it creates the sense of human insecurity that permeates the medium.

"You see it in nearly everybody —account executives, producers, talent. Everybody's worried. The industry is the greatest boon for the pill business that ever has come along. . . .

"But I believe that, like the films, it can be improved by achieving more independence. It means an uphill battle against the advertising viewpoint, but I don't see why it can't be won eventually."

South's Cotton Pickin' Bows to Guitar Pickin'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Finding myself down in Nashville, deep in the Elvis Presley country, I flew back here to catch Judy Garland at the Palace.

Sometimes it seems like the South's big industry is no longer cotton-pickin' but guitar-pickin'.

★ ★ ★

Over at Tupelo, Miss., they were having Elvis' homecoming. Southerners are divided about him, too.

"You mean 'Elvis De Presley?'" said one anti. "He's just Frank Clement set to music."

But he had friends there, too, including one who said his gyrations are just kind of a "leg-jigglin'" common to all good gittar-ticklers. At a certain point in all Presley conversations, you should change the subject.

★ ★ ★

Once at the Palace, we saw—as Judy sang—something flutter out of her brown bouffant dress and fall to the floor but cling to her.

"What is it? Can you fix it?" she asked in alarm, running to the wings. A guy with scissors cut the piece of ruffle that'd got loose.

Next her hair got caught on the top of a black zipper —and there was another stop. Then Judy forgot who she records for.

JUDY GARLAND

"Capitol?" she smiled thankfully to her maestro. "I've been fired from so many companies, I don't remember who I'm working for."

Judy The Legend was on for one hour and five minutes singing 15 songs and exciting the toughest critics to say she's not the Elvis Presley of today but the Al Jolson. Employing no tricks, no leg jiggling, she just sang.

Judy seemed corseted or cinched in and we wish she could lose the thing. It seemed to make her look stiff when she bowed. Suppose she's not skinny! The mother of three isn't supposed to be!

What a turnout, with the Jack Bennys, Phil Silvers and Evelyn Patrick, Esther Williams in glasses, Joe DiMaggio and Lee Merriweather, and the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

It wasn't a blue-blood audience. Photographer Bill Mark, focusing his camera on Joe DiMaggio, was told, "But there's the Duke sitting beside him." Bill replied, "Never mind the Duke—I've got the King."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Grace Kelly's bridesmaid, Judy Balaban Kantor (wife of the brilliant young agent, Jay Kantor) is expecting in February—same time as the Princess . . . Groucho Marx goes into tax court to defend the capital gains deal he made with NBC 5 years ago, now being contested . . . Violinist Jack Benny advised this interviewer, "Come early—I gotta practice for Carnegie Hall."

Sugar Ray Robinson will open a beauty parlor in Paris . . . Nancy Valentine — ex-Maharanee of Cooch-Behar—and husband Fred Tillinghast are expecting . . . Arthur Treacher will do a cafe act with a Dagmar-style stooge . . . Jeanne Crain's El Morocco escort shielded his face when the photog flashed a picture.

EARL'S PEARLS . . . Marriage is a two-person business that's run by a woman.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The handshaking being done in the current election campaign would milk all the cows in the country.—Quote.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Frank Parker figures that summer must really be over — the fans in the subway have started working.

Joey Carter reports the reform schools giving the kids a half-holiday—it's Willie Sutton's birthday. That's earl, brother.

Church Objects to Charity Drive

Catholics in Ohio Town Disapprove of Funds to Protestant Groups

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—United Appeal officials are considering what to do about a pamphlet Roman Catholic priests distributed advising parishioners they "could not properly contribute" to the charity fund campaign here this year.

* * *

To do so "would be a serious violation of our faith," the pamphlet said. It explained that the church objected to inclusion in the community chest budget of funds for buildings which the Young Women's Christian Assn. and the Salvation Army would use for religious purposes.

That meant, the pamphlet said that contributing would be "to recognize these forms of religion" as promoted by the Protestant organizations.

The pamphlet was passed out at worship services Sunday. Msgr. William L. Newton, dean of the Lorain Dreanery, said the action "had the approval of the head of the diocese."

* * *

Catholics make up about 60 per cent of the 55,000 population in this steelmaking community, and withdrawal of their support could wreck the drive scheduled to start Oct. 15.

* * *

The goal is $411,790, and an official of United Appeal said $40,000 of that was earmarked for the building fund, including an item of $15,264 to establish a YWCA. There is no YWCA here now, and the Community Welfare Council, after study, recommended one was needed, the spokesman said.

Navy Officer Goes to Greece to Adopt Child

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A Navy officer who 20 months ago ran a diaper derby from here to Greece and back while adopting a Greek orphan is on another Odyssey.

Lt. Norman K. (Moose) Donahue left Corpus Christi yesterday on the first leg of his trip to Greece to adopt another child. He is scheduled to leave Norfolk, Va., today.

Donahue nearly two years ago battled dwindling leave time and a rapidly vanishing pile of diapers as he brought home Roni Marie, a then 17-month-old orphan.

Beginning last January paper work was initiated for the adoption of the Donahue's second baby. This time the child is a 2½-year-old boy, Stephan Amilios. Donahue should be back in three weeks.

Her Daddy's Advice Wards Off Prowler

SOUTH NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — When an armed intruder broke into her home while her parents were away, 12-year-old Mary French knew just what to do. Daddy had told her. And, shaking with fright, she did it.

* * *

Fleeing into an adjacent room, Mary locked the door, took her father's .38-caliber pistol from a drawer, inserted five shells, unlocked the door and shot the gun-waving intruder in the leg. He fled in panic.

Police said the girl was at home with several smaller children when James Bell, 24, broke into the house Sunday night and asked where her father was.

* * *

Bell was arrested when he turned up at a hospital for treatment. He was charged with breaking and entering.

"I just did what daddy said to do," Mary told police.

Weekly Paper Owners Buy Yale Expositor

PORT HURON (AP)—Publishers of the weekly Sandusky Republican-Tribune have also acquired weekly newspapers in Yale and Pack.

William A. Irving andn his son-in-law, Elden Felker, bought the Yale Expositor from Fred Belleville and his son, Phillip. The Bellevilles, publishers of the Expositor for eight years, bought a weekly in Tecumseh.

Order Sanity Hearing in Slaying of Neighbor

MIDLAND (AP) — John Wicks, 67, charged with slaying a neighbor Sept. 18 with a deer rifle, will be given a sanity hearing Oct. 12.

Circuit Judge Donald E. Holbrook appointed three doctors to examine Wicks, a Midland County farmer accused of first degree murder in the death of Charles E. Maxson at Mills Township, 10 miles north of Midland.

Pianist in Nightclub

Earl's Kin Plays for Pay

LONDON (AP) — Robin Douglas-Home, nephew of the Earl of Home and an escort of Princess Alexandra, sat down at a nightclub piano and started to play for pay.

"I'm not broke, or anything like that," said the 24-year-old socialite. "I'm just doing this for fun. I get paid, but it's really for fun that I play."

The former army captain ran his aristocratic fingers over the keyboard.

"Besides," he added, " a nightclub is a good place to meet people."

Young Robin already knows a lot of people, including the Duke of Kent and his pretty sister Princess Alexandra. During the recent London "season" Douglas-Home was Alexandra's constant companion. Both like jitterbugging.

Another friend Robin has escorted to numerous swank parties is Anna Massey, stay of "The Reluctant Debutante," a stage hit written by another of his uncles, William Douglas-Home. She is the daughter of actor Raymond Massey.

One of the first requests he received as a professional was from another friend, Sharman Douglas, daughter of a former U.S. ambassador to Britain, Lewis Douglas.

Douglas-Home pronounces his name the way his uncle, the earl, does—hume, not home. The motto on the Douglas-Home coat of arms is "True to the End."

Road Trouble, GOP Politics—Williams

DETROIT (AP)—Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams denied yesterday that Michigan has been losing industry to other states and declared that "the trouble wit hour roads is not lack of money" but "Republican politics."

Speaking to the Economic Club of Detroit, Williams said: "The Democrats contend that Michigan is a good place to do business. The Republicans deny it. You know, and I know, that Michigan is not losing industry to anybody in the net account."

In a statewide televised speech last night Williams said Michigan is the only state which elects its highway commissioner and said "the Republicans long ago rigged that important election to occur in the spring, when everybody is tired of politics . . . and that is why the Republican party has retained control of road building in this state for the last 13 years.

He continued:

"For 13 years the Republican road builders have been using our roads to get votes—as a form of political patronage. Highways are programmed not where the people need them but where some local Republican politician wants them."

Camera Helps Trap Suspect

Photograph, Bebop Cap Are Clues in Capture of Alleged Slayer

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a floppy bebop cap and an electronic camera helped them track down the alleged slayer of a Queens patrolman.

Virgil Richardson, 28, pleaded innocent yesterday to an indictment of first degree murder in the shooting of Patrolman William G. Long.

The patrolman, 27-year-old father of three, was slain in a dimly lit parking lot in Queens last Sept. 2. The officer had entered the lot in search of a prowler.

Queens Dist. Atty. Frank J. O'Connor said yesterday a size 7 bebop cap found near the scene was a pivotal clue.

Detectives traced the cap to a Brooklyn sporting goods store that employs an electronic camera to photograph check cashers.

O'Connor said an examination of 8,000 negatives on file with the camera manufacturer disclosed that Richardson cashed a $337 government refund check in the store July 16.

He bought a size 7 bebop cap at the store, O'Connor added.

The district attorney said the negative showed Richardson's wife was with him and offered an identification card. The card led police to Richardson's address.

She told police he had gone to Atlanta, Ga. FBI agents seized Richardson as he stepped off a bus at Atlanta Sept. 12.

Will Wilson Quit? Recent Surgery Revives Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, due back at his desk soon after a recent operation, is going to find that old question revived:

Will he leave his cabinet job, whatever the outcome of the presidential election?

Wilson, 66, is reported by Army medical officials to have made "excellent" progress in recovering from the surgery performed Sept. 24 for a prostatic condition. He is scheduled for release from Walter Reed Hospital some time this week.

Nevertheless, the incident has produced new speculation about his continuance in the Pentagon post where he has served since Jan. 28, 1953—far longer than any previous defense secretary.

From time to time during the last three years and nine months there have been reports (A) that he would resign or (B) that he would be fired. He denied the former and has outlasted the latter.

Disregard Clock, Ulcer Sufferers

LONDON (INS)—A British doctor has advised ulcer sufferers to ignore, in part, the annual fall change from daylight saving to standard time.

Dr. J. V. Sparks, writing in the British Medical Journal, reported stomachs with ulcers may be adversely affected by having dinner an hour later.

He advises ulcer sufferers to keep their mealtimes the same, regardless of the clock.

All Those Law Officers Didn't Mean a Thing

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Some 100 law officers were attending the 1956-57 regional convention of the Texas Police Assn. last night. But two burglaries and an armed robbery were committed, just the same.

A Sherman service station was robbed of $150, a church pilfering netted $4 and an undetermined amount was stolen from a juke

Brahman Heifer Spends 2 Hours in Wild Freedom

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— A 750-pound Brahman heifer ran wild for about two hours and knocked down and slightly injured Gaylen Powers, 2, who was riding her tricycle.

* * *

The heifer broke its rope and leaped from a truck. It charged Gaylen and knocked her from her tricycle. As it started to charge again, it was diverted by Mrs. Beverly Fox, who chased it with a broom.

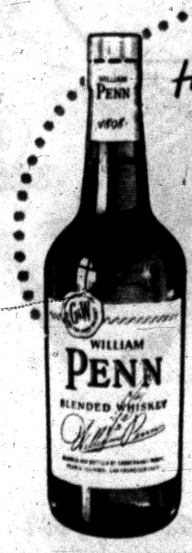

Police got into the act and the heifer took to the bayous.

Patrolman W. E. Spies used his car to head off the heifer as it charged a passing woman and child. Finally Spies shot it with a rifle and the animal was finished off with police pistols.

Gaylen was treated for cuts, and bruises and three broken teeth.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Democrats Optimistic as Republicans Hustle for Support

Grass Roots Signs Say Ike Is Losing Ground in California

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series by AP's veteran political reporters surveying sentiment in key states.

By MORRIE LANSBERG

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—An aggressive, well-organized Democratic campaign is forcing Republicans to get out and hustle to maintain President Eisenhower's edge in California.

* * *

A statewide tour by this reporter showed grass root signs that, for a variety of seasons, Eisenhower has lost ground here. He's in solid with Republicans. He appears less popular with the state's all-important majority Democrats.

Democratic officials, united behind a ticket they consider made-to-order for California, are highly optimistic.

This rosy view — firmly disputed by Republicans — extends to the vigorous drive by 39-year-old State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles to dump Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif). The Democratic nominee has pushed Kuchel into the most active barnstorming of his long California career.

HOPE FOR 2 SEATS

Democrats are hopeful of gaining two seats in the House, where the state's lineup is now 19 Republicans to 11 Democrats. The state legislature, traditionally Republican, is closer to going Democratic than at any time in the present century.

Beset by party squabbling and worried by their minority position, Republicans do not discount the danger of losing the state where are three Democrats for every two Republicans.

* * *

They recognize the Nov. 6 outcome—good for 32 electoral votes—is likely to be closer than the GOP's runaway victory in 1952. Eisenhower returned California to the Republican column after it went to Franklin D. Roosevelt four times and to Harry Truman in 1948.

"We've got to get out and work and work and work," Gov. Goodwin J. Knight told fellow Republicans.

Generally, though, an informal survey by this reporter indicated no pronounced revolt among Democratic independents who helped Eisenhower defeat Adlai Stevenson by 699,762 votes in their first go-around.

One reason may be some statistics.

August employment in California was the highest in the state's history. More than 5½ million Californians had jobs. The rate of increase over a year ago was about 2½ times that for the country as a whole.

* * *

Republicans are leaning heavily on the booming good times and Eisenhower's personal glitter to carry them over the Democratic registration hump. Some party spokesmen actually predict the President and his California running mate will widen their 1952 margin. Others settle for "around 500,000."

The Democrats anchor their optimism to results of the state's presidential primary, vastly improved organization and the team-up of Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, both popular with California Democrats.

Among Democratic voters, Eisenhower's health was mentioned frequently along with a distaste for Vice President Nixon as his possible successor.

This is offset in Democratic ranks by farmers who are doing well, by Negroes who don't like Stevenson's "moderation" on civil rights, by women who mention peace along with prosperity.

Stevenson, the winner, and Kefauver amassed a combined Democratic vote of 1,820,686 in the June primary. Their total topped the Republican vote for Eisenhower, unopposed, by 465,922.

GOP Sen. William F. Knowland said recently the Democrats are better organized than any time in his 25 years' experience in state politics.

The Democrats will control both houses in the state legislature for the first time in 65 years if they can make a net gain of 6 seats in the 80-seat State Assembly and 3 in the 40-seat Senate.

* * *

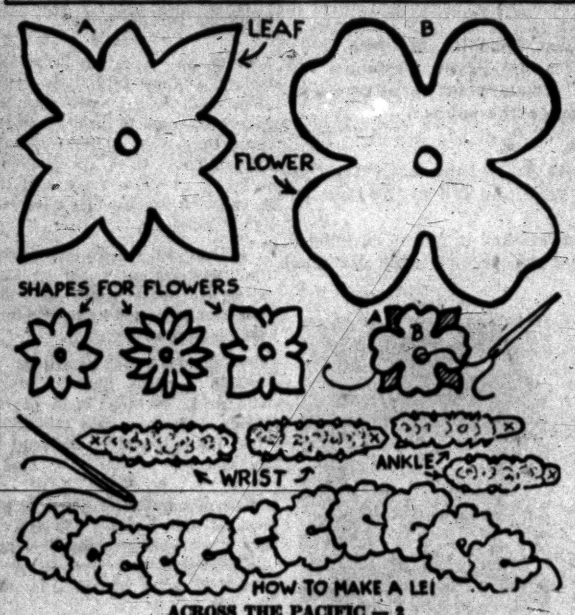

The Republicans have been badly split since former Gov. Earl Warren left for the Supreme Court. It has created a situation in which California, like Gaul, is divided into three parts—Knight's, Knowland's and Nixon's.

* * *

The GOP's differences reached a stormy climax in the dispute over Gov. Knight's refusal to endorse Nixon for renomination until the last minute. The governor is now going all-out for the ticket.

A Lei for Luana

To make a lei, or garland of flowers, for Luana, the little Hawaiian girl you met yesterday, string small bits of brightly colored paper together and loop them around the little figure.

Here are some patterns for you to make a larger lei that you can wear. The figure at the top left is the pattern of a green leaf. At the right is a pattern for a flower, and below are several suggestions for different shaped flowers. These can be cut from wall paper, construction paper, crepe paper or bits of bright colored cloth.

Cut a tiny hole in the middle of each and string them together with a needle and strong thread. Tie the finished garland into a loop and wear it around your neck.

The small anklets and bracelets shown can be colored, cut out and pasted around Luana's ankles and wrists. Bring one end over the tab marked X.
