State Extends Welcome to Emperor Haile Selassie

DETROIT (UP) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia crossed the Ambassador Bridge into Michigan from Canada today for visits to Detroit, Ann Arbor and Lansing. The 61-year-old monarch, who is touring the United States, Canada and Mexico, landed at Windsor, Ont., Sunday night after a flight from Montreal in a Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

He rode across the giant Ambassador Bridge in a motorcade, accompanied by an official party of 18 which included his third son, Prince Sahle Selassie Haile Selassie, a granddaughter, Sebia Desta Selassie, and U. S. State Department dignitaries.

Traffic Crash Almost Fatal

Mother, Baby Survive Birth, Ambulance-Car Collision

A Hazel Park policeman successfully delivered a baby boy while receiving a doctor's instructions by telephone early Sunday, then mother and son narrowly escaped injury as their ambulance collided with a car en route to the hospital.

William Hogrebe, of 1704 E. Hayes St., Hazel Park, called police at 5 a.m., saying that his wife, Concetta, 28, was having a baby and they didn't have a doctor. Officers, who rushed to the Hogrebe home, called Lt. Robert Law who had contacted a local doctor. The lieutenant, while talking to the doctor on one telephone, gave the doctor's instructions for delivering the child to Officer Eugene Webster.

Webster in turn relayed the information to Officer Matthew Nickland who successfully delivered the infant.

Mrs. Hogrebe and her new arrival were being taken in a police ambulance to Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital when it collided with a car at W. Eight-Mile road and Pinecrest in Ferndale.

Both the mother and her son escaped injury, and are reported doing fine today.

The driver of the car, Floyd Warstler, 28, of 2838 Bolingbroke, Troy Township, received slight injuries and was reported in good condition today.

Hazel Park Fireman Ernest Hendry, 45, who drove the ambulance, and Patrolman Tim Scannell, 26, of Hazel Park, were shaken up in the crash.

According to Ferndale Police, the ambulance was traveling at 75 miles an hour and ran a red light.

'Old 38' Steam Engine Chugs Over Last Mile

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP) — "Old 38," a steam locomotive and a rare sight in these parts since the New York Central converted to diesel, has chugged over its last mile of track.

The engine was on its way yesterday to a railroad museum in Sandy Creek on Lake Ontario. "Old 38" was bought from the Huntington and Board Top, a Pennsylvania line.

Has Name for It

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Sidney R. Yates (D-Ill.) gave the Army-McCarthy dispute a new name today. In a prepared speech he called it "The Cohn mutiny."

Vietminh Form Gigantic Pincers to Capture Delta

May Hit the Rice Land Hard Very Soon Unless Geneva Acts

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — Vietminh troops which crushed Dien Bien Phu have wheeled back into position all around the defense lines guarding the vital Red River delta, the French high command announced today.

The rebel forces form a gigantic pincers threatening an all-out assault to drive the French from their north Indochina bastion.

Barring the slim chance the Geneva conference might stop the war by ordering a cease-fire, indications increased that the Communist-led rebels will hit the delta with everything they have before the end of June.

A French army spokesman said rebel infantry units — estimated at upwards of 20,000 troops — had completed their movements back to the bases from which they moved to capture Dien Bien Phu. Other rebel troops reportedly were moving toward the delta area from the southwest.

The French continued to build up their forces in the strategic area, pouring in reinforcements from other parts of Indochina and from Europe.

In an all-out assault, the French expect the rebels to try first to isolate Hanoi by severing the road and rail lines linking the city with (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Maryland Crash Kills 10 Persons

Auto in Wrong Lane of Traffic; Cars Collide, Burn on Crest of Hill

OWINGS, Md. (UP) — Eight men and two women died in a flaming head-on auto collision near Lyons Creek early today when one of the cars approached a curve on the crest of a hill in the wrong lane of traffic.

One of the cars, a convertible, was in "full blaze" when Thomas Eozzo, assistant chief of the North Beach volunteer fire department, arrived on the scene.

The automobiles were so mangled it was difficult at first to determine in which direction either one had been traveling.

Police said the vehicle driven by Robert E. Abell, 24, Silver Spring, Md., was in the wrong lane of traffic on Maryland Route 416 and caused the crash. The driver of the other car was Clarence M. Thomas, 34, Olivet, Md.

Other victims in Abell's car were identified by police as John P. Schweinhout, 24, Robert Lee Schweinhout, 20, Milton E. Stottmyer, 20, all of Silver Spring, and an unidentified boy about 19.

Victims in the other car, beside Thomas, included Earl S. McCreag, 24, and Mrs. Benjamin Thomas, 55, both of Olivet, and Norman T. Carey and Helen P. Carey, 25, both of Baltimore.

42,500 Are Qualified for School Election

A record 4,000 registrations from Pontiac's School District's "fringe" areas has boosted the total number of voters qualified for the June 14 school election to 42,500.

Pontiac City Clerk Ada R. Evans said 38,500 city residents are registered to vote June 14. Registrations from parts of Pontiac school district in Waterford, Orion, Pontiac, Bloomfield and West Bloomfield townships and Sylvan Lake city make up the rest.

Vern M. Schiller, school treasurer, again emphasized that anyone living in the school district who is registered to vote in any general election is registered for school elections. He doesn't have to own property.

Total Eclipse of Sun to Occur June 30; Scientists Hoping for Clear Weather

Scientists are keeping their fingers crossed in hopes June 30 will be a clear, bright day.

For cloudy skies would deprive them out of a sight few Michigan astronomers have seen: A total eclipse of the sun.

Pontiac area watchers will not see the total eclipse, but may see the moon blot out with 90 per cent of the sun, with good weather.

Observers on the Keweenaw Peninsula may see the whole show. The weather is the big problem. William Schultz Jr., astronomer at Cranbrook Institute of Science, Bloomfield Hills, and Dr. Orren C. Mohler, assistant director of the McMath-Hulbert Observatory, Lake Angelus, said there is only a one-to-five chance the weather will be clear enough.

One reason for the big odds is that the eclipse will occur early in the morning and mist may interfere.

"The total eclipse will occur about 6:09 Pontiac time," Schultz said, "but the partial stages will extend over a period of almost two hours."

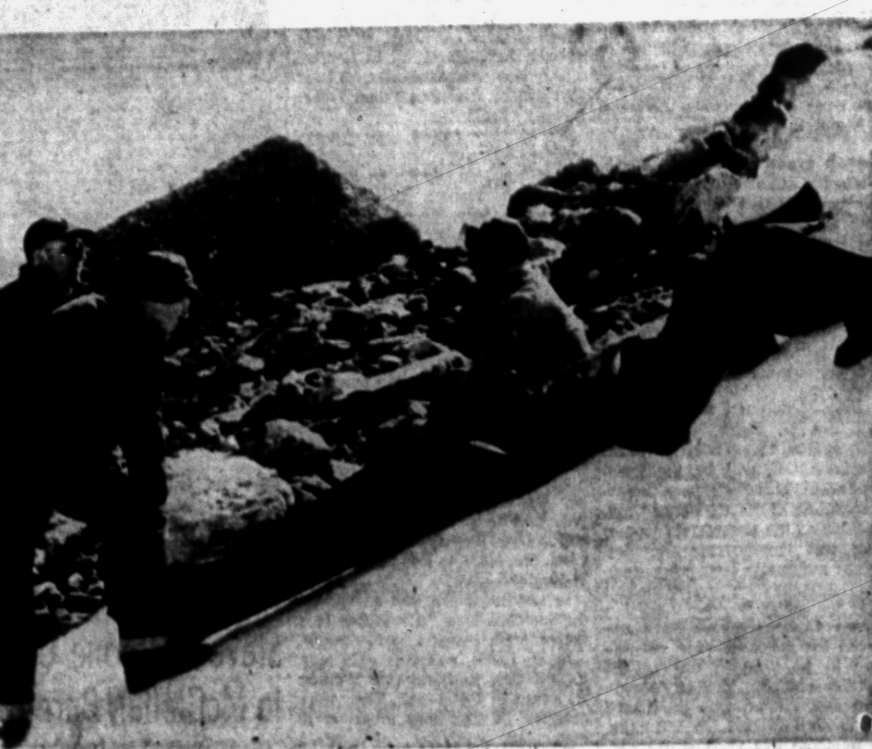

"The sun will look like a crescent moon from this area if suitable weather conditions prevail for the viewing."

Both Dr. Mohler and Schultz said an observable eclipse would be a rarity.

"The last time it occurred over Michigan was in 1925 and then nobody saw it," Dr. Mohler explained. "It probably would be a fair statement to say that no living astronomer ever saw the total eclipse in Michigan."

The astronomers said the eclipse can be clocked at various locations (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Mountain Climber's Body Recovered

FELL 1,100 FEET — A stretcher bearing the battered body of a Denver University student was brought down 14,255-foot Long's Peak at Estes Park, Colo., Sunday by unidentified Rocky Mountain National Park rangers. The student, Earl Franklin

Harvey, of Gretna, Va., fell over a cliff and plunged 1,100 feet to his death Saturday while descending the mountain with a companion. The body was recovered about 12,100 feet up the mountain.

Rider Awakens in Time to Halt Driverless Car

DETROIT (UP) — A sleeping passenger woke up in time today to bring a driverless car under control, after the driver had fallen out the door.

The driver, Patrolman John Bryant, 28, of the Detroit Police force, was in serious condition with head and body injuries. His wife said the car door latch was defective.

Bryant's car swerved to the shoulder of the road, and the bumping awoke Clarence A. Reibling, 21, a passenger, who managed to bring the car to a stop some 400 feet further on.

'Joe Must Go' Misses Its Goal

Group Fails to Obtain Enough Signatures to Recall McCarthy

SAUK CITY, Wis. (UP) — The Joe Must Go Club announced today it failed to obtain enough signatures on petitions to recall Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The club issued a statement signed by its officers declaring the drive to secure signatures, which ended at midnight Saturday, did not reach the 403,904 signatures required by law.

The club did not report on the number of signatures it did obtain.

"Although the 403,904 legally required signatures were not obtained, the members of the recall group are very heartened and pleased at the tremendous response they received from their efforts," the statement said.

Officers of the club, who last week indicated they felt the movement would not succeed, reiterated they would not give up their efforts to unseat McCarthy and would investigate and study the possibility of a future recall movement.

The statement said that while the group failed to obtain the signatures it needed, it felt certain that:

"The effort produced results which proved beyond doubt that the anti-McCarthy sentiment would see him defeated in an election today, and the effort was so successful as to compel consideration of a future recall campaign."

Thundershowers Expected Tonight

Although continued warm temperatures will prevail in the Pontiac area, scattered showers and thundershowers beginning late tonight are expected to continue through Tuesday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts a low of 65 to 67 tonight and a high of 84 to 86 on Tuesday. Sunday the mercury rose from a low of 46 to a high of 75 degrees in the city. No precipitation, for the first time in a week, was recorded in Pontiac over the weekend.

At 8 a.m. today the temperature stood at 66 degrees, and by 1 p.m. the reading in downtown Pontiac was 76.

'Beat McCarthy to the Punch,' Stevens Told

Sen. McClellan Urged Secretary to Get Jump on Investigators

WASHINGTON (AP) — A monitored telephone call of last February in which Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) advised Secretary of the Army Stevens to beat Sen. McCarthy to the "punch" was read into the record today in the McCarthy-Army hearings.

Stevens had telephoned McClellan Feb. 20 to discuss his clash with McCarthy over alleged abuse of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker over the honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, an Army dentist.

McCarthy "hopped on me pretty hard," Stevens said, when the secretary told McCarthy he was not going to allow Zwicker to come back before the McCarthy subcommittee.

McCarthy told Stevens at that time that he was under subpoena to testify the following Tuesday.

Stevens told McClellan he was willing to go before the McCarthy subcommittee at the "appropriate time," but was undecided whether Tuesday was that time.

McClellan suggested that Stevens consult an attorney and "beat him to the punch" by announcing that he was requesting to appear before McCarthy.

Zwicker, commander of Camp Kilmer, N. J., had been questioned on Feb. 18 by McCarthy at a one-man subcommittee hearing behind closed doors in New York about the discharge of Peress whom McCarthy has described as "a Fifth Amendment communist."

In a second call from Stevens to McClellan on Feb. 21, Stevens said "I certainly appreciate the way you, Sen. Symington and Sen. Jackson have viewed this thing." (McClellan, Symington and Jackson are the Democrats on the McCarthy subcommittee.)

Stevens on this day said he did not want to appear to be requesting an appearance before the McCarthy subcommittee on the Zwicker issue, but he would be glad to appear if asked.

Stevens said he hoped sessions could be deferred until Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) returned from a trip to Europe. He also said he (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Blizzard Traps Motorists in Colorado; 36 Are Saved

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — About three dozen motorists which trapped their cars on Trail Ridge Road high in Rocky Mountain National Park.

Dist. Ranger Edward J. Kirk of the National Park Service said it was necessary, however, to leave seven to nine cars stalled in two to three-foot drifts.

Their occupants doubled up with travelers in the last four or five cars escorted down from the 12,100-foot level by rescuers using snowplows. They reached Estes Park, eastern gateway to the park, shortly after 3 a.m. (MST).

"I'm pretty sure we got everyone out," Kirk said. "No one was left on the road, but you couldn't see more than a few feet. It's still snowing and blowing hard up there and visibility is practically zero."

He said none suffered serious effects from being marooned "except for the wear and tear on their nerves." Their names were not learned.

Most of the motorists were stalled near the top of Trail Ridge Road, 26 miles from Estes Park and along the spine of the Continental Divide, as the storm struck suddenly in mid-afternoon. Melting snow quickly froze, glazing the road with ice, and the snow then drifted.

Park Service officials said there was a sizable Sunday crowd of cars and they could only guess (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Weekend Traffic Takes 4 Lives

Near Record Low Set in State for Accidental Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rainy stay-at-home weather and extra caution on the part of motorists were credited today with a near record low in accidental deaths in Michigan over a 48-hour weekend.

State Police and local law enforcement agencies reported only four fatalities, all traffic, up to midnight Sunday.

The low death toll was in sharp contrast to the longer Memorial Day weekend which saw 35 persons die by violence in Michigan.

The victims were: Albert Fountain, 29, of Detroit, killed Friday night in Detroit when he walked into a streetcar.

Leo T. Connors, 45, of Detroit, killed Sunday when his car rammed into a bridge abutment in Detroit.

Charles Dykeman, 75, of Saginaw, killed Sunday night when struck by a car at a downtown Saginaw intersection.

Donald Phelps, 22, of Fostoria, Mich., was killed Friday night in a two-car collision 13 miles south of Caro in Tuscola county.

Rejected by Army, Accepted by Navy

Residents of the Milford area stand to lose one of their favorite dentists June 14, and they don't like it one bit. In fact they're fighting mad about the situation.

Subject of the ruckus is Dr. Robert J. Lawrence, 36, of 2640 Charms Rd., now Lt. Robert J. Lawrence, with orders to report to Great Lakes Naval Training Center June 14.

What gripes Milford residents is that:

1—Dr. Lawrence is physically handicapped as a result of a bone infection in his thigh which he has had since he was 2 years old. He works from a stool in his office, and was previously rejected for service as "permanently disabled."

2—Dr. Lawrence is the father of five children: Mary Michele, 10; Joanne, 9; Donald, 7; Maureen, 6; and Patricia, 3 months.

3—Dr. Lawrence is one of only three dentists serving the Milford area, one of whom has a limited practice. Affidavits of the dentist's indispensability to the community have been forwarded to draft officials unsolicited by him by the village council, the chamber of commerce, the superintendent of the Huron Valley school system, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Birmingham Commission Will Continue Hearings on Proposed '54-'55 Budget

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM—Important hearings will be held at tonight's City Commission meeting, with the 1954-'55 budget hearing continued from last week and an informal hearing scheduled to work out details for a proposed off-street parking lot in the southwest quadrant of the city.

Another hearing on the agenda would amend the zoning ordinance permitting the re-zoning of five lots owned by the Wabash-Jacobson Corp., from multiple family to parking B district zoning.

Proposals for the sale of the $225,000 five station general obligation bonds will also be received tonight.

A necessity hearing for the construction of pavement on Haynes street from Hunter to Adams, and a sewer on Haynes from Worth to Adams, will be held.

Commissioners will discuss the paving and sidewalk needs to serve the area when Pembroke School opens this fall, with consideration given to an improvement program.

Tonight's smorgasbord supper marks the final meeting for the Stewardship Class of the First Baptist Church until fall. New officers will be elected following the 7 p.m. affair, and Louise Giffin, a Baptist Missionary in China for 20 years, will be the guest speaker. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Lamar Gilchrist, Mrs. Delyle Service and Mrs. Alex Jakushevich. The Rev. Emil Kottis will lead devotions. In charge of special music is Mrs. Stuart Smith.

American Legion, and several professional men in the community.

Millford Justice Bartlett Smith, who notarized the documents, has acknowledged the move to retain Dr. Lawrence. "These affidavits have not even been acknowledged," he adds.

Dr. Lawrence, who started his practice in Millford in 1931, coming from Detroit, enlisted in the Army's special training program and served 11 months in 1944 when he was attending dental school at the University of Detroit.

He was discharged in 1944 to receive a commission in the Army Dental Corps. However, his rank of first lieutenant was immediately revoked following a physical examination at that time.

The examining physician pronounced him "permanently incapacitated for active service." Following this, Dr. Lawrence practiced in Detroit for nine years.

When the so-called doctors and dentists draft bill was passed in 1950, he was examined and classified permanently disqualified or 4F. Yet in January 1953 he was informed by Draft Board 90 in Detroit that he had been reclassified 1A.

Appeals to the board have been fruitless, and he was informed he would be drafted April 29 if he did not apply for a commission. Dr. Lawrence was examined by Navy doctors, and pronounced disqualified, but then his disability was waived by the chief of naval personnel, and he was sworn in as a lieutenant in the Navy Dental Corps, with orders to report to Great Lakes.

Superintendent of Huron Valley schools, Harold Hansen, said, "Dr. Lawrence has handled our school sanitation program for the past two years, and is considered by me essential to our community."

Millford's Dr. William Grant said, "I've been in medical practice in Millford for the past 33 years, and I understand the needs of this community. I can positively state that Dr. Lawrence's services are much needed here."

The chronic osteomyelitis which has shortened his leg two inches, has caused Dr. Lawrence to undergo nine operations.

Telephone Call Saves Divorcee

Man in London Alerts Wife to Avert Suicide of California Friend

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP)—A 38-year-old divorcee today owed her life to a transatlantic telephone call from the man "I cannot face life without."

Mrs. Elizabeth Evans was seriously, but no longer critically, ill, as police told this story of a near-fatal marital triangle.

Mrs. Evans took an overdose of sleeping pills Saturday, then telephoned John Hurd, 45, in London. Hurd, representative of an American airline, heard a "thud"—then there was silence.

He quickly called Mrs. Evans' number but got a busy signal. He called his wife Cecilia in Burlingame. She alerted police. They broke into Mrs. Evans' apartment and found her lying unconscious on the floor, dressed in a complete wedding ensemble.

Nearly two notes—one from Hurd to Mrs. Evans saying all was off between them and he was going back to his wife, and one from Mrs. Evans to Hurd saying, "I cannot face life without you, I am sorry you couldn't see the wedding ensemble."

Mrs. Hurd told police she and her husband separated early last year and he met Mrs. Evans. Mrs. Hurd said they had been reconciled. She plans to join her husband in England soon.

In London, Hurd told a reporter the incident was "a tempest in a teapot." He refused to discuss it. In St. Louis, relatives said Mrs. Evans' first husband was William H. Evans of Pittsburgh. They were married in 1938 and divorced in 1941.

Asks Examination on Breakin Charge

Gene Hill, 43, of 10-Mile and Beck Rds., Novi Township, demanded examination on breaking and entering charges Saturday before Orion Township Justice Helmar G. Stanback. Hill is being held in Oakland County Jail after he failed to furnish $3,000 bond.

Examination of Hill on a charge that he broke into a storage shed at the Dr. Goldberg Day Camp at 41300 W. 10-Mile Rd., Novi, will be held June 15.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies arrested Hill, a camp employee, after the break-in in which thieves took two portable motors and tools from the camp. The stolen property was later recovered.

Differences Lessen Between Bell, Union

DETROIT (AP)—Narrowing of differences was reported today in a marathon negotiating session between representatives of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the strike-threatening CIO Communications Workers of America.

Company and union negotiators met continuously from noon Sunday until 8:30 A. M. today. Then they had agreed to meet again at 1 P. M. today.

Federal and state mediators sat in on the long session. They said differences had been narrowed and progress made toward a new contract.

CWA locals, which represent 18,000 Michigan Bell employees, have conducted a strike vote. The union announced it was overwhelmingly in favor of a walkout unless demands are met. Agreement has been reached for the time being, however, to continue the old contract in effect on a day-to-day basis. It expired a week ago last Friday.

Vietminh Pincers Surrounding Delta

The routes are the lifeline for continued resistance to the Communist-led tide, for they carry the bulk of U.S.-supplied war material from Haiphong to Hanoi and the fighting fronts.

Vietminh attacks cut the routes nightly, but French patrols and repairsmen reopen them for about six hours of traffic daily.

Aware that Hanoi might be encircled and cut off, the French are heavily reinforcing the defenses of the seaport and the Dong Penh, 12 miles southeast of it.

To both these, the French probably could cling a long time if they had to be used as beachheads.

Thousands of Vietnamese living in villages around Haiphong and Dong Penh are being evacuated to make way for new defense preparations.

South and southeastward of Hanoi, deep in the delta, the French are constructing their entire defense network.

They are leaving to the Vietminh most of the small defense posts the rebels capture every night in overwhelming assaults.

STUDY EGYPT'S PAST — Zaharia Gomeim, chief inspector of the Egyptian antiquities department, probes the surface layer of an ancient sarcophagus in what he believes is the oldest intact royal tomb ever found in Egypt. It is thought to be the final resting place of Pharaoh Sankhet who ruled the Nile about 5,000 years ago. A workman holds a lantern for Gomeim, who found the rock tomb under the ruins of a pyramid at Sakara, about 15 miles south of Cairo. Gomeim's find was preceded by the reported discovery of the Cheops funeral boat close to the large pyramids outside Cairo.

Stevens' Phone Calls to McClellan Bared

Stevens pictured Sen. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the subcommittee for the current hearings, as "very much distressed" over reports of abuse of Zwicker.

Stevens added Mundt was anxious to see the record of the Zwicker hearings.

Stevens, during the conversation, said parts of the record of the Zwicker hearing had been deleted. McClellan suggested that Stevens ask the official reporter for a full record. Stevens said he had affidavits as to what happened, but wanted to give them to the subcommittee and not the press.

Also read into the record was another monitored call between McClellan and Stevens, March 1, in which the senator said he was "surprised when you got off over there with that gang without anybody with you."

This appeared to be a reference to the now famous "chicken luncheon" between Stevens and Republican members of the McCarthy subcommittee at which a memorandum of understanding was reached.

McClellan told Stevens his remarks "are not critical," adding: "We were left out of it."

McClellan also told Stevens he took the position that it was "a Republican quarrel."

A number of reported phone transcripts between Stevens and the McCarthy camp found their way into public print over the weekend.

McCarthy gave to newsmen Saturday what he said were the three monitored conversations he had with Stevens. Yesterday the Chicago Tribune published what it said was the text of a call between Stevens and Schine.

Stevens has testified that he had the recordings made by clerical aides as part of his normal office routine, but without telling those with whom he was talking.

McCarthy, Cohn and Carr after some delay announced they would allow the introduction in evidence of the monitored talks between them and Stevens.

In a letter to Sen. Mundt (R-SD), temporary subcommittee chairman, Cohn and Carr said Schine also has consented to allow the use of a recorded talk between him and Stevens.

In the Stevens-Schine call, the Chicago Tribune said, Stevens phoned Schine at his New York office 12 days before the 26-year-old unpaid subcommittee aide was to be inducted into the Army and told him "there was no appropriate way to avoid basic training."

It said that in the conversation dated Oct. 21, 1953—the Army secretary addressed the future private as "Dave" and outlined to him in friendly fashion how he would be treated when he went into the Army.

"I personally would like to arrange it in such a way that you would come into this Army or military establishment in such a way that you could use the knowledge and ability you have in certain fields," Stevens was quoted as saying, "but I won't discuss it over the phone."

Pontiac Youth Wins 2nd Place in State Rodeo

Second place was awarded to Pontiac's entry in the state-wide Road-E-O safe driving contest held at Lansing Saturday.

If the winner of Saturday's contest is unable to attend the national finals at Washington, D. C. later this summer, Findlay will be sent as an alternate. The winner can be disqualified from the national Road-E-O if he receives a moving violation, according to James P. Hursey, chairman for the local Road-E-O, who accompanied Findlay to Lansing.

Total Eclipse Due, Weather Holds Key

as a method of measuring distances. It also reduces the sun's brilliance, permitting a brief, but closer study of the sun's atmosphere.

The eclipse occurs when the moon passes between the sun and the earth, causing the moon's shadow to fall on the earth. The rotation of the earth speeds the shadow around the world.

The total eclipse will sweep across Canada and Labrador, just miss Iceland, dash across the Faeroe Islands, Norway, Sweden, Russia, and leave the earth at sunset in Pakistan.

Expeditions to choice vantage points are planned in Canada and in the Scandinavian countries.

Dr. Mohler said telescopes at the Lake Argus observatory will be trained on the sun, and Schults said he may go to the Upper Peninsula for a ringside seat.

"This really is a rarity, you know," said Schults. "I've been in astronomy some 35 years and have never seen a full eclipse."

If clouds obscure the eclipse this year, it will be a long wait for another chance.

The next total eclipse in Michigan isn't expected until the year 2114—160 years from now.

650 Flock to Church to Dedicate Addition

The new sanctuary of the Bethany Baptist Church was filled to its 400 seating capacity Sunday morning with about 250 more church-goers seated in the piers and vestibule.

They were there to mark the dedication of the new unit. Dr. W. J. Niven, former pastor of the church, preached the sermon and the present pastor, the Rev. Fred R. Tiffany, led in the litany of dedication.

Dr. Rufus M. Traver, the church's organizer and its first pastor, gave the prayer of dedication. His son, the Rev. Roland Traver, gave the benediction. Many guests, including former members from Pontiac and other cities, were present for the service.

At the dedication communion service Sunday evening, a baptismal service was held and a class of new members received. The sanctuary was filled for this service.

at the number requiring assistance.

Rangers from Grand Lake, at the opposite end of the road, also helped an undetermined number of visitors descend that direction.

They reported all apparently were safe before midnight.

Chief Ranger Barton Herschler said plows were being sent out again but Trail Ridge Road, the highest sustained highway in the world, probably would not be reopened to the public before tomorrow.

Kirk, on the job more than 24 hours without sleep, went back up in the park shortly before 5 p.m. MST to head the rescue party after helping recover the body of a mountain climber killed Saturday.

Earl F. Harvey, 19-year-old University of Denver student from Gretna, Va., fell 1,100 feet to death while descending Long's Peak.

Blizzard conditions prolonged the rescue operation.

"It was blowing so hard," Kirk said, "that often the showplows would progress only 5 to 10 feet, have to stop for maybe 15 minutes, then get another 100 yards only to be forced to stop again. It went on like that for hours."

The summer storm brought snow to Colorado's higher elevations, rain and hail in some other areas and high winds which raked the Eastern Plains. Following a line of thunderstorms, it moved on early today into Kansas and Nebraska.

2,147 Graduates of MSC Told to Reach Decisions

EAST LANSING (AP)—The graduate of today must reach decisions he can hold with conviction on the vital problems that face all of us.

This was the theme of the address by Dr. Arthur S. Adams, president of the American Council of Education, at the 96th annual Michigan State College commencement exercises Sunday.

Degrees were presented to 2,147 graduates as parents and friends thronged Macklin football stadium for the outdoor exercises.

Speaking on "The source of our strength," Dr. Adams told the graduates that the citizen of today faces three main problems. He outlined these as:

1—The conflict of the proper balance between the rights and liberties of the individuals and the demands of society for protection of our way of life.

2—The conflict between motives of idealism and motives of materialism.

3—The conflict between commendable initiative and unwarranted assumption of authority.

"These are questions we cannot dodge," Dr. Adams said, "even if we should like to. They press on us today with utmost urgency. We are importuned to join organizations that take one side or the other. Our friends and associates are emotionally aroused and want to know where we stand."

"There is no mathematical formula," the speaker said, "that can be applied to produce certain answers. For each of us, issues firm judgment."

"This is a personal responsibility we cannot escape and which we should gladly assume. It is faith that this responsibility can and will be assumed which

One Wants, Two Waive Examination of Charge of Entering School

Three youths, two of whom were recently returned from Oklahoma City, after a freak arrest there, were arraigned Saturday before Orion Township Justice Helmar G. Stanback on breaking and entering charges.

The third youth, Karl Eicker, 18, of Oxford, who eluded police in Oklahoma, returned to Michigan and gave himself up to Oakland County Sheriff's Detectives Delos Anderson and Leo Hazen, after they had returned with Eicker's two companions.

The other two, Louis Vanitvelt, 24, of Cleveland, and Kenneth Hill, 23, of Clarkston, were arrested in Oklahoma when an off-duty policeman spotted them in a car ahead of him shortly after hearing a radio description of the pair. A third youth arrested in Oklahoma, Robert E. Wilks, 19, of Auburn Heights, was released.

Vanitvelt demanded examination on a charge that he and the other youths, broke into the Sashabaw Grade School on Maybee road in Independence Township May 8 and took a $250 camera, after attempting to get into a safe. Vanitvelt will be examined on this charge June 15.

Eicker and Hill waived examination and will be arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court June 14. All three are being held in Oakland County Jail after they failed to furnish $10,000 bond.

Crypt Oldest Royal Tomb Found Intact in Egypt

Editor's Note: The recent discovery of an ancient pharaoh's tomb, probably the oldest royal chamber found intact in Egypt, is expected to unlock secrets of the Nile civilization of 47 centuries ago.

In the following article, Dr. John A. Wilson, an authority on ancient Egypt for 30 years, tells how the discovery at Sakhara, 12 miles southwest of Cairo, will throw light on a 1400-year segment of history as the dawn of civilization.

By DR. JOHN A. WILSON
CHICAGO (INS) — I feel the newly discovered Egyptian tomb will provide historians with a long-missing link between tribal life and the beginnings of a nation as we now know it.

And, after discussing evidence with Dr. Zakaria Gosein last year, I would agree that the tomb apparently is that of King Sanakht who ruled sometime around 2750 B.C., 47 centuries ago.

The reason the discovery is so important is that only a few Egyptian pharaohs of the fabulous pyramid-building era have been located in their own tombs. Some 1400 years have been a big question mark with regard to royal burials.

I, for one, am a scoffer of so-called "curses." Apparently the ancient Egyptians were, too.

For most royal tombs were ransacked by thieves. Demons, ghosts and hexes stood little chance against the attraction of gold, silver and gems.

Hence, modern man has uncovered the remains of only about half a dozen kings where they originally were entombed.

Among those were King Amenhotep II of 1440 B.C., uncovered in the 1890s, King Tut-ankh-amen of about 1350 B.C., discovered in 1922 and kings of about 900 B.C., discovered in the Nile's delta in the 1930s.

These dates show that we've touched little that dates back as far as 2750 B.C. — considering the pyramid builders ranged about 2775 B.C., the period of King Zoser, to 2300 B.C.

Sanakht, a brother and successor of Zoser, ruled nearly three million subjects in the dawn of stone architecture. Life was a few cuts above being primitive.

The Egyptians had just emerged from a shakedown period of setting up their state. By Sanakht's time, there was more leisure for games, sculpture, music and entertainment.

Men played a form of checkers and ball games. It is undetermined whether the games actually were contests or exhibitions like the many religious pageants which provided what he could call entertainment.

These featured music, drama and dancing. Drums, harps, lutes and a clarinet-like horn made up orchestras. But instruments were regarded merely as accompaniment to singing.

Life was comparatively leisurely. It took two weeks to send a message from one end of the country to the other, a distance of 600 miles. "Rapid transit" was supplied by barges on the Nile.

The all-powerful pharaoh lived in a castle for the period. Yet actually it may have been no more luxurious than a 12-room house in one of our suburbs.

Barley was the staple food. It was baked into bread and fermented into beer. Diet was supplemented by onions, lettuce, cucumbers, celery, grapes, figs, watermelons and occasionally beef and mutton.

Labor was handled by slaves captured in battle and by periodic drafts of citizens for special projects such as a pyramid. Egyptians of the period faced little danger of invasion. But they themselves, launched seasonal plundering expeditions. Targets were copper mines in the east and gold mines in the south.

This was a leisurely life, but no longer primitive. Men and women of the upper classes dressed in white linen and wore jewelry and both used face cosmetics.

The women had a respected standing. They owned property, had their own servants, secretaries and priests, and had tombs built for themselves separate from their husbands' tombs.

The reasons I feel the tomb is of this era are:

1. It is located near Zoser's pyramid.
2. Its outside architecture, stair-stepped sides, mark it as belonging to Zoser's period.
3. It was uncompleted, indicating a short reign as was Sanakht's.

It took Dr. Gosein three years of painstaking work — beset by dangers of cave-ins and destruction of valuable objects — to dig down to the crypt. In contrast to the ancient civilization preserved underground, the site was pinpointed by a study of modern aerial photographs.

In knowing, historically, where to look, the photos disclosed flat surfaces, indications of angled corners of wall beneath sand and traces of masonry which guided the expedition.

As for future discoveries, there are other areas which could bear browsing. From what we now know, however, it is doubtful whether they would turn up such a treasury of information as this one.

And for this reason, they may go untouched for some time. An American archeological expedition to Egypt for five months would cost between $50,000 and $60,000.

Former PWs Honor Catholic Chaplain

PILSEN, Kan. (UP) — THE Rev. Emil J. Kapaun, heroic Catholic chaplain who died in a wretched North Korean prison camp, was honored in his hometown church yesterday by his fellow prisoners of war.

A crucifix exquisitely carved by prisoners from a piece of oak firewood with a makeshift knife in the prison camp was presented to the St. John Church in this tiny town where Father Kapaun preached his first sermon.

Capt. Ralph Nardella, Paterson, N.J., presented a check for $8,300 from fellow prisoners of the chaplain. Nardella told how the camp's inmates vowed to contribute a fund in Father Kapaun's honor after he died of dysentery and pneumonia May 6, 1951, at the age of 35.

Mary Ann Toles Speaks Her Vows

The Rev. J. Harvey McCann of Auburn Heights performed the ceremony Saturday evening at Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church where Mary Ann Toles spoke her vows with Harold Emerson Wiggins.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Toles of Orlando avenue, and the junior John E. Wiggins of West Newberry street are the bridegroom's parents.

Three hundred guests saw the bride approach the altar in a gown of Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a cathedral train. The bodice was highlighted by a bateau illusion neckline finished with a band of lace and long sleeves tapered at the wrists.

Her French illusion veil was secured by a white satin tiara encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations surrounding a white orchid.

Greta Hedlund was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Joan

Bowhall, Joyce Finzel, Nadene Borsvold and the bridegroom's sister, Elaine Wiggins.

All the attendants were gowned in similar ballerina-length gowns.

MRS. HAROLD E. WIGGINS

of nylon tulle over taffeta with matching taffeta jackets. Feathered carnations formed their headpieces and they carried matching Carleton bouquets of carnations. The honor maid was dressed in pink and the other attendants in blue.

Heleen Hunt of Reed City, the bridegroom's cousin, was flower girl. Jerry Swanson was best man for the bridegroom, and ushers were Rick Jones, Kenneth Schlueter, Stewart Bos, and Jack Hurska. Keith Dextrom carried the ring.

A reception at Chieftain Hall followed the ceremony. Mrs. Toles wore a charcoal-colored silk dress with black and white accessories and an orchid corsage, and Mrs. Wiggins wore navy and white with an orchid corsage.

Yvonne Mitchell sang the bridal recital. For the wedding trip to New York the new Mrs. Wiggins wore a white suit with red accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. On their return the newlyweds will reside on Ypsilanti avenue.

Irene C. Gertz Becomes Bride

Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church was the setting for the wedding of Irene Christine Gertz and Robert Duane Lorenz May 29.

The bride is the daughter of Theodore Gertz of First avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lorenz of Auburn Heights are the bridegroom's parents.

For the service the bride wore white net over satin gown with a bodice of Chantilly lace fashioned with a portrait neckline. A headpiece of seed pearls held her fingertip veil and she carried a white Bible with a corsage of white roses and stephanotis.

Eva Johnson was maid of honor and Wilma De Rouse was bridesmaid. After a reception in Auburn Heights Community Hall, the couple left for a wedding trip to Canada. On their return the newlyweds will reside on Heacock street.

Tulle Over Satin Worn for Wedding

David Bess Claims Marlene Sue Coin as His Bride

White gladioli, candleabra and palms decorated the altar of First Presbyterian Church Saturday evening when Dr. William H. Marbach united Marlene Sue Coin and David W. Bess in marriage.

Marlene is the daughter of the Ralph W. Coins of Baldwin road, and Mr. and Mrs. David C. Bess of Drayton Plains are the bridegroom's parents.

For the 8 o'clock ceremony Marlene wore a gown of white embroidered tulle over satin. The tulle-type overskirt of embroidered tulle ended in a full fan train. The bodice featured a portrait neckline.

The bride's only jewelry was the bridegroom's gift of pearls and she carried a hand cascade bouquet of white roses with white streamers and a detachable white corsage.

Suzanne Dickie of Farmington wore a gown of orchid silk shantung and carried a bouquet of tall-man roses as maid of honor. Nancy Gray and Phyllis Bess as bridesmaids wore pink silk shantung gowns similar to the honor maid's and carried hand cascade bouquets of red roses.

Don Kratt of Clarkston was best man and Bob Beattie of Drayton Plains, Edward Amos of Waterford and Don Rouse seated the guests.

Bridal music was sung by Mrs. John B. Nicolls Jr., accompanied by Lyndon Salathiel. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Coin wore a coral pink dress of nylon organza with white accessories and Mrs. Bess wore a navy blue dress with pink accessories.

After the reception in the church parlors, the new Mrs. Bess donned a beige suit with white accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return the newlyweds will reside on Sasabaw road.

Some Plain Talk About Being "TOO FAT"

1. What Makes People Fat?

Except in unusual cases, the chief cause of overweight is the intake of too many calories for the amount of work the individual does. Calories measure the energy that foods give to the body. If you take in more food energy than your body uses, fat is stored. It is safe to restrict calories to maintain your ideal body weight, but in doing so you want to remain healthy, so your diet must also contain foods that supply you with necessary protein, vitamins, minerals, fats, and carbohydrates.

2. Is Overweight Dangerous?

The dangers to health resulting from overweight have been shown convincingly by life insurance records. Life expectancy decreases as the amount of overweight increases.

3. Are Milk and Butter Fattening?

Milk is not fattening. As a matter of fact, no food is fattening until the calories you have eaten total more than the calories your body needs. Relatively, milk furnishes less calories than it does the important protective nutrients of protein, minerals, and vitamins. The butterfat in milk and butter is the type which "burns up" quickly, much more so, in fact, than vegetable fats, which have a tendency to "stick to the ribs." A lot of folks have said, "Let's feed Johnny plenty of milk and butter and fatten him up." What happened is that Johnny drank milk to build him up solidly and healthfully and accomplished just that without becoming excessively fat, unless, of course, the rest of his diet was completely out of balance. A recent test shows milk does more for the reducer than any other one food.

4. What Should I Do If I'm Too Fat?

Consult your physician. He will work out a sensible reducing plan for you and will see that your diet contains enough health-giving foods while cutting down on your calories. The Nye Dairy has available, upon request and without charge to anyone, a booklet containing 1400 and 1800 calorie reducing menus which have been tested and proved in a reducing program at Michigan State College. A postcard requesting this booklet, addressed to Nye Dairy, 585 Oakland Ave., Pontiac, Mich., will get you one by return mail.

Woman Succeeds by Combining Her Knowledge of Writing and Crafts

Establishes Career at Home Pens How-to-Do Articles

By ANNE HEYWOOD
Many women at home like to write, and many others like to do projects in the arts and crafts field. But this week I got a letter from an enterprising woman who does both.

Her name is Mrs. Wilson and she lives in New Jersey. For years now Mrs. Wilson has been selling articles and books in the how-to-make-it field, and she gives some very good pointers to women who are interested in doing something similar.

She said:
"I began writing about craft work, sewing, etc., as a result of so many rejections in the fiction-writing field that I decided fiction-writing was not my particular 'niche.'"
"I thought I'd try writing about something very familiar to me, and the results have been most gratifying."

"It all boils down to a practice of the first basic rule for all writers, write about what you know, and I believe that rule is the best formula for success in the writing field."

"Managing my home and writing simultaneously haven't been too difficult for me, since I don't have small children to care for any more and I am free to devote the morning to household chores, leaving the afternoons free for my writing."

"Sometimes I work early in the evenings, if my regular routine has been interrupted. I feel that a systematic routine should be followed as closely as possible for the best results."

"I myself work out practically all the craft items about which I write. If I didn't, I don't think I could write up the 'how-to-do' angle very clearly."

Mrs. Wilson also contacts the firms that manufacture the materials and lets them know what she is doing. Since their desire is to sell more of their materials, they welcome such letters.

Here's how she puts it. "A few months ago I wrote one manufacturer regarding some decorating I had done with one of his products."

"He asked me to meet him and show samples of other craft work I had done, and my published articles."

"The result of that conference was a job for me as a free-lance craft technician to handle special assignments from time to time. I am right now finishing up the third assignment and he pays very well!"

Acceptance of Old Ring Questioned

Bride's Sentiments Should Be the Only Consideration

By EMILY POST
Today's first letter asks: "Could a young woman object to being given her fiancé's mother's engagement ring as her engagement ring?"

"The mother was divorced many years ago and after that never wore her engagement ring but has been saving it for her son's use. It is a very beautiful stone and setting and he could not possibly afford to buy one of such value."

Answer: It is not a question of propriety, but of the personal feeling of the bride-to-be, as to whether she would rather have a new ring of less value but bought especially for her, or this one of great value with its past history.

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the correct way to introduce a man friend who is in his late 20s to my friends who are all near this same age, and also to older friends and relatives. Should he be introduced as "Mr. John Jones" or just "John Jones"?

Answer: If he is an intimate friend and you are introducing him to friends of your age and also to relatives, you say John Jones. To other people you would introduce him as Mr. Jones.

Dear Mrs. Post: In order to settle a dispute, will you please tell me if it is proper to give a baby shower after the arrival of a baby?

Answer: Yes, certainly! In my opinion, better than before.

Dear Mrs. Post: Are the expressions "mistress of ceremonies," "Chairlady," "Toastmistress" considered acceptable today? Is it not proper to say "master of ceremonies," "chairman," "toastmaster" regardless of sex, or is it optional to express it either way?

Answer: According to best taste, "toastmaster," "chairman," "master of ceremonies" are considered correct for a woman as well as a man.

Don't Press Little Boy to Be 'Man'

Youngster Needs Reassurance and Comfort

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Nick's Uncle Ted recently gave him a two-gun holster to go with his cowboy suit. It was the finest holster Nick had ever seen. Every untrapped him from it after he'd gone to sleep.

Then a playmate broke one of the guns.

Feeling helpless and very discouraged, Nick sought out his father. He showed him the wobbliness of the broken trigger. Then Nick's lips quivered and he began to cry.

His father said, "Shame on you. What kind of a cowboy are you to cry like a baby? There are more guns in the world. Come on, son, take it like a man..."

For Nick's father felt deep embarrassment at his child's helplessness and discouragement. It made him feel so uncomfortable that he had to try to make Nick ashamed of his weakness, too.

Nick's father really believes that his distaste for weak feelings is an indication of superior "manliness." Actually, of course, it is fear of them. But so long as he insists on regarding it as Spartan virtue, he could not know this—or even suspect how this fear influences his life.

For example, though Nick's father is a capable salesman, his horror of ever appearing helpless often loses him important commissions. He will press a sale to the critical point—and then delay the final interview lest he lose the sale.

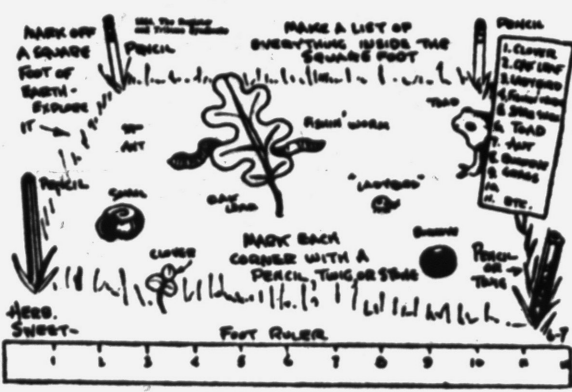

Though he wants and can afford a summer cottage for his family, he never gets past the "looking" stage. Nick's father, who must never expose himself as weak or discouraged, dares not buy a cottage that could turn out to have any disadvantages.

It makes his marriage less happy than it could be. For of course Nick's father often does feel helpless and discouraged. But since he denies himself all recognition of it, he has to express this weakness in irritation and bad temper.

As a result, Nick's mother can't see that he needs comfort. Instead of giving it, she says, "Oh, for goodness sake, stop sulking. Bill. There's just no sense trying to talk to you when you're in this mood..."

I bet Nick's father grew up with people who were always exhorting him to be a "man" before he was one. It wasn't fair. Like Nick, he needed to be given comfort and restored power.

Perhaps if he could confess how much he still wants them, he would not deny them to his own little boy.

Try It Explore Foot of Ground

This is the time of year when flowers and grasses are at their best, and even the bugs are busy going about their business. I wonder if you have ever taken the time to really look at them? Here is an idea for you to carry out. This is a suggestion for a "nature hike" which you can take sitting down. This sounds like a riddle, but how about marking off a foot square of ground and exploring it carefully?

Mark the plot off with old pencils stuck in the corners, then get down on your knees to see what you find. You may want to try this with several foot plots. Look for fishing worms, various leaves, bugs, stones, different kinds of grasses and seeds. Your list will surprise you!

Use a foot ruler to mark off the ground, and if you like, you can tie string around three sides of your square. It is fun to keep the plot for several days and see if anything new has come upon it.

Perhaps your friends will want to try their luck, too. Keep a list of things found.

Some Areas Need Fine Screening

18x18 Mesh Best at Seashore or in the Southern States

By HUBBARD COBB
As we are getting into the bug and fly season, it seems like a good idea to put together a few choice words on the general subject of keeping insects out of the home.

Insects come in varying sizes and so does insect screening. Sometimes people who have their homes well screened find a good many small bugs passing right through the wide mesh screening.

This can be avoided by using a fine mesh screening—18 x 18 rather than more standard 18 x 14 mesh. As a general rule, if you live near the seashore or in the South you should have the fine mesh screens.

Screens, as you have probably noticed, have a strange attraction for flies. They like nothing better than to gather on the outside of a screen door and wait for it to be opened, then they slip into the house.

The best remedy for this is to coat the outside of the screen with a residual DDT spray. This kind of insect spray hangs around for a good many weeks and any bug that sits on the screening won't last for very long.

People are usually pretty careful about screening doors and windows in the house proper but they often forget that insects can also enter the house through basement and attic windows, attic louvers, chimneys and other similar openings.

If you want a bug-free summer, be sure these openings are screened.

Screens that have been stored in the basement or attic all winter can pick up a good deal of dust and dirt and unless they are washed off before they are installed in the window they are almost sure to stain the house siding and trim the first time there is a hard rain.

IF large back view—

Blousing at the back slim large doria. Short jacket looks well with slightly flared skirt, longer with slim skirt.

Mrs. B. V.—The bloused look holds promise as a brand new look for the incoming fall season. The tall figure can wear the longer bloused jacket with slim skirt, the shorter figure looks well with the shorter jacket with bloused back only.

With this I have tender little morsels of veal, broiled with lemon juice, salt, pepper and butter, a field salad with tart dressing, a bit of Italian cheese and black, chicory-flavored coffee served with a twist of lemon peel in a glass.

All this is accompanied by the warm generous interest... the mark of the really great restaurateur who takes hospitable joy in feeding the world.

A psychologist gets paid for asking the same questions any woman can ask for nothing.

Among other unforgettable items of the four days were: A pomegranate cocktail made of pomegranate juice spiced with cinnamon and ginger, a soup of—believe it or not—coconut and almonds accompanied by the puffed bread called loochie, all supplied by India; Russian syrniki, which are hot cheese puffs browned in butter; Hungarian tarhonya, barley cooked in bacon fat, and my pr. dessert from anywhere, Armenian emek kadiet, a special bread soaked in honey and anointed with clotted cream.

I saved my two favorite restaurants for last. Lee's in Chinatown is run by my 18-year-old godson, Calvin Lee, and I am always sure, there, of sweet and pungent sparrows and egg rolls done just the way I like them. Shark's fin soup, too, if I want it.

Finally, my friend Gene Leone made me the meal that I would eat. If allowed, seven days a week, hand-running. First came a sampling of his wonderful big prawns in a special sauce which is third cousin to Russian dressing, a few of his tiny baked oysters, a bite-sized dollop of hot seafood served in a scallop shell and a sliver of Persian melon wrapped in a paper-thin slice of Italian ham.

These were just the appetizers and I always vow I'll skip them (and never do) in order to save my appetite for Gene's superlative fettuccine made with ribbon pasta, cooked a minute beyond al dente, gently tossed like a salad with salt, fresh ground black pepper, sweet butter and grated Parmesan cheese.

Recipe Told for Blintzes of Renown

Mrs. Steinman's Cheese Pancakes Are Famed Treat

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

This is a recipe which was preceded by its fame. We had heard about the delicious cheese blintzes that Mrs. Irving Steinman makes, but her recipe was not written down. It is now in print in a local club cookbook, and she graciously said we may use it in our column.

Blintzes may be used as a dessert, the main course at a luncheon, or with fish and baked potatoes.

Long a businesswoman in Pontiac, Mrs. Steinman now devotes her time to the many activities in which she is interested. Locally she is a member of her temple sisterhood and Hadassah, and she works in the Federation of Women's Clubs.

CHEESE BLINTZES

By Mrs. Irving Steinman

For the batter:
1 large egg
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup flour
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons cold water
Sweet butter for cooking

Mix egg, salt and flour together; add cold water slowly and stir until very smooth. There must be no lumps.

Preheat a small frying pan (about 7 inches) and rub with a small amount of sweet butter. Pour in 2-3 tablespoons of batter, spreading over the surface and pouring excess back.

Fry over very low heat until it pulls away from the edge of the pan. It will be dry. Drop on clean cloth.

For the filling:
1 package dry cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon sour cream
¼ cup sugar (more if you like things sweet)

Mix ingredients together and place about a dessert spoonful on each little pancake, off to one side. Roll up, folding in the edges like a package, so that the filling is completely covered.

Return to buttered frying pan and cook over very low heat, browning on both sides. Serve plain, with sour cream or with applesauce. Make 7-10 blintzes.

The setting should be the lawn that will bother the fewest neighbors.

The high school graduate will welcome a gift of delicate toilet water, a perennial favorite hinting of flowers, green leaves and trees.

With Plenty of Stunts, Games

Make Lawn Party Lively

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: my friends and I are going to have a lawn party at night. We can't dance on the lawn, so we want some games that are fun for everyone. We're eighth-graders, so would you please suggest some sort of grownup ideas?"

You decide whether you want everybody to come all dressed up or in blue jeans. The mixings and makings of a wonderful lawn party under the stars can be the same.

The setting should be the lawn that will bother the fewest neighbors.

bors. Lights strung up from pillar to post or tree to fortify the moonlight. Radio or record-player playing just loud enough in the background.

The first stunt could be a present for everybody as a sure-fire ice-breaker. Lay in a supply of Fourth of July sparklers, the kind you light and the mechanical ones you squeeze, also some mouth organs, kazoes and other toy musical instruments.

These you can wrap separately and hide around the garden for a treasure hunt. Or you can put them in a "Jack Horner pie" and stage an exciting grand opening. The noise and the dazzle will keep everybody busy and happy until you spring the next stunt.

A beanbag toss with hazards. Play it straight first time around, then through the legs of a chair, backward over the left shoulder, over an open umbrella held as a blind, then on the tummy with chin resting on the grass. Somebody ought to win a prize after all these maneuvers.

For the nibblers, a candy hunt. Hide scads of paper-wrapped candies all over the place, and give the signal to start looking. The lucky people can keep and eat all they can find!

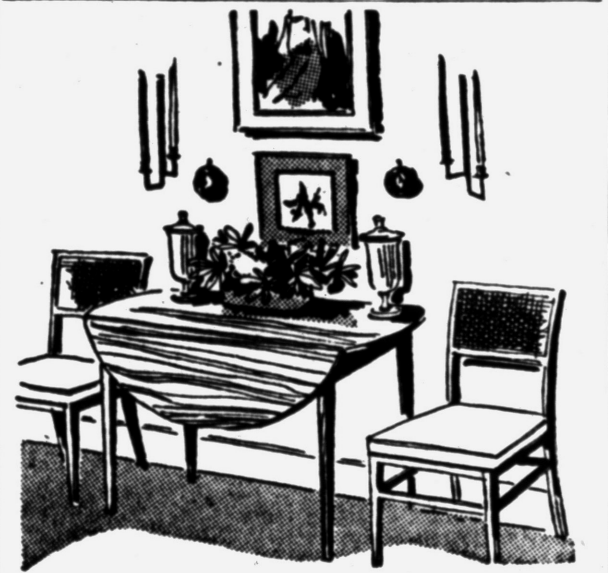

Let them haven't played "Living Statues" since you were a kid, so give it a whirl with a new twist. Your strong-arm man should spin each guest in turn, announcing firmly that when they stop they must represent the statue of a famous man in history, the name of a popular song or a book everybody is sure to have read. The rest must guess, of course.

You could rig up dartboards of various kinds from various posts or trees under various lights and stages a real competition with prizes. You could have a three-legged race or a potato race to keep things lively.

wheelbarrow. On it you can cook hot dogs or hamburgers, roast marshmallows, or make "cheese dreams"—whatever your crowd likes best.

And you could turn the music up louder for those who think they can dance on the grass. It may wind up in a Virginia reel, but who cares?

And when it comes time to eat, you can serve sandwiches, punch or soft drinks, cake and ice cream from a buffet table set up on the porch.

Unify Table and Chairs

Arrange Group Artfully

By ELIZABETH HILLIER

A table and a pair of chairs against a wall can be just that, or they can be the beginning of a charming decorative arrangement. Chances like this sharpen decorating skills, and do so much to change the room from being merely furnished to being hand-somely designed.

The grouping sketched might be a guide to a similar success at your house, with different, but similarly proportioned elements arranged in the same way.

The important thing is to remember that furniture, accessories on the table and pitchers and sconces on the wall all are part of a single unified design.

How can you be sure of the exactly right placing for everything? First set the furniture and table top arrangement in place. Make paper patterns of the pictures and sconces and try them on the wall.

Attach the patterns with cellophane tape to painted walls, and move them about experimentally. Move the furniture, too, if the grouping seems to need improvement. When everything seems right, make faint pencil marks on the wall where nails should go.

Mrs. R. R. F.—"We bought dark wine carpet for our living room years ago and it simply won't wear out. We are very tired of the color, but can't discard the carpet. So I have a real problem on my hands when it comes to changing the color scheme."

Right now I have an idea that I'd like to paint the walls rose beige because it would be such a change from the blue and green we've had before.

"Could a good color scheme be worked out in wine and rose beige? What colors should I use for draperies and slipcovers?"

You are getting into closer harmonies with rose beige than you had with blue or green, and the carpet will not contrast as it did—it may seem to be a richer and more interesting color.

Draperies might match the walls to keep the background simple or they might be a print to match one or two slipcovers, possibly in wine and fairly bright rose with touches of blue or green on a rose beige background. The same rose might be used for other slipcovers.

MRS. PAUL A. BROWN

The mother of four school-age children, Mrs. Paul A. Brown, 38, has served as church school superintendent at St. John Methodist Church, is past president of W.S.C.S. and a charter member of the Southwest Civic Assn.

She is past president of Whittier-Jefferson PTA, has been appointed assistant director of summer playgrounds by the Department of Parks and Recreation and will serve as council delegate on Pontiac Council PTA health committee.

Mrs. Brown has been a Pontiac resident 14 years and is a graduate of a Nashville, Tenn., high school. She also received business training in Pontiac High School and completed one year nurses training at Cook County Hospital.

Mrs. Brown says: "Schools of today must shoulder greater social responsibilities than before. It is no longer enough to teach children the three R's, they need training in citizenship, community responsibility and understanding."

"Most parents want the best schools they can get for their children and they are willing to pay for good schools. It is only the unthinking citizen who is indifferent to what is done in the schools as long as they can keep taxes down."

"That type of citizen fail to realize that residential real-estate values rise when schools are improved and modernized."

"Most school systems, Pontiac is no exception, are plagued with problems. One of the biggest is the shortage of teachers, buildings, books, and modern teaching aids."

"We need to join with the PTA and community organizations to cope with these problems and give support where it is needed."

"How are the salaries of teachers? Are they high enough to attract and keep the finest, most competent administrators and teachers?"

"Does the system provide a dynamic parent-community program that includes parent representation in problems that revolve around the school?"

"Does it provide opportunity for fostering mutual respect and understanding among interested and religious groups?"

"When the community is armed with an accurate picture of the schools in Pontiac and their needs the community can organize for action as other communities have done and can launch a drive to improve the system, for education is too important to be left to educators alone or to parents. It is the total responsibility of all citizens."

MRS. LOLA B. KING

Presently secretary of Pontiac's Board of Education, Mrs. Lola B. King, 56, has also served as president and vice president during her 12 years on the board.

A native of Michigan, she has been a Pontiac resident 34 years, is married, lives at 98 S. Shirley Ave. and has three grandchildren attending Pontiac public schools.

Mrs. King is a graduate of McLaughlin Business University in Grand Rapids, is immediate past president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers and past president of Pontiac Council of Parent Teacher Assns. Eastern Junior High and McConnell PTA.

At present she is a member of Educational Policies Commission, Michigan Youth Commission, Michigan Migratory Labor Commission, Intragovernmental Relations Commission and member of Board of Directors of Michigan Society for Mental Health.

In a prepared statement she says:

"I am seeking my fourth term as a member of the Pontiac Board of Education because of my continued interest in education. Due to the unprecedented increase in school enrollment, the Pontiac School District is faced with many problems, need for additional buildings, equipment and teachers."

"As a member of the Board of Education I have consistently supported and recommended proposals for improving the educational system in all areas, including the 'pay as you go' plan for building and equipping new schools."

"During my term of service the bonded indebtedness incurred in 1932 has been reduced to the point where it will be completely retired this year."

"Due to the foresight and sound fiscal practices of the board, the Pontiac School System is in a better financial position than any district of comparable size in the State of Michigan."

"As a member of the Board I assisted in the painstaking selection of a new superintendent of schools, also in surveying the immediate needs of the schools, and as a candidate for membership on the board of education, I wholeheartedly support the proposal to provide additional millage for buildings and operation."

"I would like to see the job completed and believe my past experience will be of value in helping to solve our school problems."

Archbishop Improves

LONDON (U)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, was reported "much improved" today. He has been ill for a week with a severe cold.

DR. LEONARD F. KLAUSMEYER

A Pontiac resident since 1941, Dr. Leonard F. Klausmeyer is married, the father of two children, and lives at 230 Chippewa Rd.

He is 48, a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Dentistry and Detroit Central High School.

He says: "The venture into public office by an inexperienced person undoubtedly has many pitfalls. What I have to say about this venture may be politically unwise, yet vote-getting should not be the primary objective of a candidate."

"The schools all over America are faced with virtually the same situations, namely, shortage of teachers, shortage of schoolrooms and added numbers of students. The Pontiac schools are no different; they face the same problems."

"Since we have only two sources for funds it seems obvious that school taxes must be increased in view of the fact that our share from state sales tax is expected to remain static or decrease. The spending of these funds by the Board of Education is divided into the two main sections, salaries and capital expense."

"Salaries should increase to compete with other localities and to attract desirable teachers. School rooms should be built, geared to the demand of the grade level, on a pay as you go basis, as far as possible. This is to prevent long term, deep indebtedness."

"We as a community should be happy to support our schools with taxes to perpetuate a basic American heritage, the public school system. In so doing the beneficiaries will be our present children upon whom rests the future of society."

Scientists Offer Plan

Plea for Oppenheimer to Be Written, Not Oral

WASHINGTON (U)—A written plea for barred atom scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer will come before the Atomic Energy Commission, perhaps today, but not the oral arguments his lawyers asked.

A special three-man board ruled last Tuesday that the 50-year-old "Oppie," famed as a father of the original U.S. atomic bomb, was a "loyal citizen." But, in a 2-1 decision, it found him too much of a security risk to remove President Eisenhower's order of last Dec. 23 that banned him from access to official secrets.

May Inspection Chalks Up 41

C-C Safety Committee Finds More Violators This Year Than in '53

During the May vehicle safety inspection by the Pontiac Police, more people (41) were ticketed for not having a driver's license than for all other offenses combined.

The inspection is held in cooperation with the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee.

An additional six drivers did not have chauffeurs' licenses, and were second in line, followed by persons with defaced operators' licenses, defective auto foot brakes and obscured windshield vision.

In all, 6,282 cars were checked by police, with 4,457 drivers receiving O.K. stickers. Warning tickets were issued to 1,565 drivers, and 260 of these were re-checked.

Leading the warning ticket list were violations for not having a license plate light or not having a registration available.

Emergency brakes were found lacking in 250 autos. Tail lights were not working on 154 cars, and headlights needed repairing on 102 autos.

The inspection check, officials said, was not as favorable as last year.

Civil Service Aces Arrive in Far East

TOKYO (INS)—The Army announced today that a high level group of U. S. Civil Service experts arrived in Japan Friday to conduct an overall investigation of civilian personnel practices by the Army, Air Force and Navy in the Far East.

The committee is made up of Charles F. Mullaly, acting deputy director of the Defense Department Office of Civilian Personnel; Frederick W. Weber and John D. Glasheen, section chiefs in the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

The group is scheduled to study civilian employ practices in Japan, Okinawa, Manila and Guam. They leave for Okinawa June 17.

U.S. Discovers Multi-Million Dollar Gyp in Philippines

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — U. S. Army military police criminal investigators have uncovered a multi-million-dollar confidence ring in the Philippines which has been mulcting citizens and the U. S. Government through fraudulent claims arising from World War II.

Army officials admit that it adds up to a "complex, conspiratorial rats' nest." It involves:

Two former American GIs now being sought in the U.S. by the FBI.

Forged Army documents.

Bold impersonations of U. S. claims officials.

The swindling of hundreds of Filipino citizens.

As a result of the exposure of these criminal activities, scores of war damage and other claims pending from the Philippines, involving millions of dollars, are expected to be rejected. Many more will be given a double-check by the Army.

The first clue to this fantastic conspiracy came to light last March when the Army claims office received copies of two letters signed by George Foster and Thomas Fleming, U.S. officials in the Philippines.

The letters appeared to be on official Army stationery, were addressed to a Filipino, and informed him that his claim for $1,192,890 from the Army for having supplied food and materials to guerrillas fighting the Japs had been approved.

Army officials realized something was wrong with the letters and sent a criminal investigator from the Military Police Corps to the Philippines to find out what was going on.

The investigator quickly established that Foster and Fleming had not written the letters, that they were clever forgeries. Then contacting the Filipino to whom the letters were addressed, the investigator uncovered a major phase of the conspiracy.

Shortly after the Filipino had received the letters, he was approached two different times by Americans who identified themselves as Foster and Fleming. They told him that although his claim had been approved he would have to give them $5,000 to bribe certain U.S. officials and for other expenses involved in winding up the claim.

The Filipino didn't think that this request was out of order in view of the great sum he was about to get from the U.S. Treasury. However, he sent the two forged letters to Washington. Fortunately the "CI man"—as Army criminal investigators are called—reached the Filipino before he was able to raise the $5,000 requested for a bribe.

The CI man identified the impersonators from Army records as American GIs who had received honorable discharges in Manila.

Names are being withheld pending arrest.

The continuing probe is at tempting to find out just how many fraudulent claims the pair had their fingers in, with their possession of Army stationery and forging ability. The claim numbers, the conspirators put on their forged letters also indicate that they had access to official files at some point.

Manila police have already cracked down on several individuals who are known to have been friends and frequent companions of the two former GIs. The frauds they were arrested for involved enormous claims to the U.S. for back pay while fighting with guerrilla forces against the Japs.

Bevan's Driving Similar to His Political Life

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN

Irene Corbally Kuhn is author of "Assigned to Adventure" and "The Enemy Within" and a contributing editor of The American Mercury.

Aneurin Bevan, who specializes in hit-and-run attacks on America, was recently convicted of hit-and-run driving.

America-hater Bevan, leader of the extreme left-wing of the Socialist party, was fined heavily for dangerous driving and leaving the scene of the accident.

By an ironic circumstance, Bevan might not have been caught at all if the accident had not been witnessed by Richard Davis, son-in-law of former Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, whose leadership of the Labor Party and its 14,000,000 adherents Bevan is trying to wrest away.

Prime Ministers, past and present, are bad luck for Bevan, who was driving through Beaconsfield, the hometown of Disraeli, when he swerved from his side of the road and ran into a bus. He pleaded an emergency and told the court: "I'd rather be technically wrong and alive than technically right and dead."

The magistrate answered coldly: "There is no emergency here except in your imagination," and slapped a stiff fine and license suspension on him.

Welsh-born, 57-year-old "Nye" Bevan is one of Britain's most brilliant, forceful, and dangerous men. During World War II he became notorious as the Churchill government's most vituperative and articulate critic.

He insisted Churchill was not fighting "a truly anti-Fascist war," and he opposed every major move savagely, disagreeing repeatedly with the majority opinion. He waged a private war in the House of Commons, using every weapon in his vast and varied oratorical armory.

Churchill called him "a squalid nuisance," and during one particularly vehement wartime Parliamentary exchange, branded him "a merchant of disloyalty." Bevan retorted instantly: "Better that than a wholesaler of disaster."

The feud between these two boils over regularly, and invariably produces powerful insults and purple epithets.

Mercurial in temperament, he is as capable of expansive and engaging geniality as he is of an instant turnover to monumental anger.

Elected to Parliament in 1927, he has been returned continuously ever since. He resigned from the Socialist government in 1951 over the amount of money Great Britain was spending on re-armament, a policy he had supported earlier.

The Bevanites do not constitute a party so much as a coalition backed by shrewd, able lieutenants, working on deep-seated emotional attitudes in the Labor party.

Bevan and Bevanism are still powerful in England, and both are dangerous. The showdown between radicals and moderates will come in the fall.

Allen Sees India Eying Defense

Would Undertake Job of an Alliance If Asians Lead the Way

WASHINGTON (U)—America's ambassador to India, George V. Allen, said today that country might undertake a defense alliance with its neighbors provided it felt Asians were taking the lead.

Allen, former envoy in such diplomatic hot spots as Iran and Yugoslavia, stressed India's strong feeling of nationalism time and again in a copyrighted interview in the weekly magazine U. S. News and World Report.

After reciting India's refusal to allow U. S. planes to fly over the country with French troops for Indochina, Indian opposition to U. S. military aid to Pakistan and other matters in dispute between India and America, Allen said he is nonetheless certain India would fight for its own independence and "my guess is they would" fight for independent neighbors such as Burma as well.

He said chances for India's taking part in an Asian defense system "would depend somewhat on how it came about."

"If they felt the Oriental powers themselves were leading, and we were merely backstopping nonaggression with our power and resources," he said, "I think that might happen."

Witcher said they told him, "We just liked the smell of gasoline."

Santee Gets Final Shot at 4-Minute Mile

By JACK STEVENSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—This week Wes Santee gets his season's final shot at the elusive 4-minute mile and he vowed today that with proper conditions he'll get the job done.

His first two West Coast appearances last week included a 4:00.6 mile, during which he eclipsed the world record at 1,500 meters, and a half-mile win over champion

Mal Whitfield, now the University of Kansas flier says:

"With a good track, a warm, calm night and a good pace I think I can beat Bannister's record."

The attempt comes Friday during the Southern Pacific AAU meet at the Coliseum, and as all track fans know, Britisher Roger Bannister became the first man ever to break through the iron curtain of the 4-minute mile when he ran 3:59.4 in England earlier this spring.

"This will be my last race before I go to Marine summer camp next week so I'm going to give it everything. There's no reason to hold anything back," the 22-year-old Santee declared.

He expressed pleasure that his top competition will come from the Olympic 1,500 meter (metric mile) champion Josy Barthel of Luxembourg and feels it will take a 4-minute effort to win the race.

"The competition will be there," says Wes. But some experts feel the nature of the track may be against him. The oval at Compton, where Santee ran the fastest mile ever turned in by an American last Friday, is generally considered better than that at the Coliseum. The weather, of course, is problematical.

Santee blamed the chilly, breezy Compton night on his comparative slow 61.6 final lap after having run the first three in 2:59 and broken a tape at 1,500 meters (about 120 yards short of a mile) at 3:42.8.

That will be submitted as a new world record being 2 seconds better than the mark shared by Sweden's Gunder Haegg and Lenart Strand and Germany's Werner Luegg.

Saturday at Stockton, Santee faced the world record holder and Olympic champion Whitfield in an 800 and won in 1:50. It was the first time in three years Mal had been defeated at his favorite distance.

Cosmos Win Tennis Title for 6th Year

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Hamtramck took the state high school Class A tennis crown for the 6th straight year Saturday by defeating Mount Clemens 9-4.

In Class B, Holland Christian posted 6½ points for a 1-point victory over Grand Rapids.

ended in a 4-way tie for the 1954 crown with Kalamazoo St. Augustine, Galesburg-Augusta and Grosse Pointe University High. Each had 3 points.

Only two umpires officiated in the World Series from 1903 to 1908. Then two more arbiters were added. Now six take the field for the post-season classic.

Pro Net Stars Open U.S. Test

Gonzales, Segura Rate as Biggest Threats to Aussies' Sedgman

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The $7,500 U.S. Professional Tennis championships open tonight with Australia's Frank Sedgman the top threat to a couple of guys named Pancho.

Richard (Big Pancho) Gonzales, winner of the recently completed pro tour, is top seeded and Francisco (Little Pancho) Segura is the defending champion in this tournament.

Gonzales, a former U.S. Amateur champ, faces Bob Harmon of Los Angeles, and Segura goes against Ben Gorchakoff, also of Los Angeles in first round matches tonight.

Sedgman and big Jack Kramer get their first test in a doubles match against Pierre Pelizza of France and Constantin Tanasescu of Romania. Pelizza now teaches in Phoenix, Ariz., and Tanasescu in nearby Santa Monica.

Ferster Wins Feature at Lake Angelus Track

Elmer Ferster of Clawson was the fastest qualifier Sunday at the Lake Angelus Speedway, then followed up by winning the feature race and the 2nd and 4th heat races.

Bob Morris, president of the Oakland Modified Racing Association, won the 4-car dash and other heat winners included Chuck Fitch and Don McConvene. Ike Welch won the semi-final.

My Greatest Shot

By JIMMY THOMSON

My biggest thrill was winning the Australian Centenary Championship in Melbourne in October of 1934.

Using a 5 iron, I chipped in from about 15 feet off the final green for a birdie 3 to prevail by six strokes and pocket $3,500.

The chip shot in Melbourne was one of my best, but I believe my finest came at the 533-yard 15th of the St. Augustine course in the amateur-professional tournament in March of 1938. The ball for my second shot rested on the back slope of the 11th tee, way out of line. Forty feet ahead was a group of tall trees. My left foot necessarily was higher than the right.

I faced the problem of getting the ball up quickly to clear the trees, playing it to the left, and bringing it back into position with a long high slice. A lot of traps had to be carried. The shot had to be played from left to right, adding to its difficulty.

I used a 4 wood, played the ball off my left foot. I started the club back outside of the line, on the outside of my normal swing. This automatically made me slice across the ball.

I got the ball up quickly, hit it to the left, brought it back with the slice, and with the aid of a slight following wind obtained 250 yards.

This required tremendous power, but the ball wound up four feet from the pin.

Oscoda Paddlers Win Milford Canoe Test

Two Oscoda teen-agers, 17-year-old Ralph Sawyer and Eugene Roy, 18, repeated as winners of the 3rd annual Paddle Push canoe race from Milford to Kent Lake in Kensington Metropolitan Park Sunday.

They negotiated the 8-mile River course in 1 hour and 43 seconds. Veterans of canoe racing, despite their youth, Sawyer and Roy also held an all-time record for the Wolverine River race and were 2nd in the 240-mile Au Sable River race last year.

A total of 78 teams entered competition in eight classes.

Only Oakland County team to win an event was the mixed couples (over 21) division taken by Ann McDonald of Bloomfield Hills and Denis Nankivell of Birmingham in 1 hour, 11 minutes and 44 seconds.

The best streak in collegiate football belongs to the University of Washington which went 63 games without a defeat from 1907 to 1917. Four of the games were ties.

Turnpike Fever Spreading Fast

'Toll Roaditis' Strikes Across U. S., Quickens Business Pulse

NEW YORK (U)—Some call it "turnpike fever." Others, "toll roaditis." Symptoms vary, but the malady is highly contagious. It quickens the pulse of investment bankers, lawmakers and state highway officials and produces a rash of public demands for better roads.

So far, there is only one known cure—float a huge bond issue and begin constructing a multilane speedway of the future, with toll booths at appropriate intervals.

Tomorrow, Kentucky will auction 38½ million dollars of turnpike revenue bonds to finance a 40-mile toll road from Louisville to Elizabethtown. On June 16, the New York State Thruway Authority will come to market with 300 million dollars of similar obligations, second part of a financing venture to build a 427-mile toll road from New York City to Buffalo.

But this is only a sampling. Financial circles around Wall Street, the men whose job it is to raise money for these projects, are convinced that America is just on the verge of a new road-building era. Coupled with this conviction is the foreboding question—will land traffic financially support all the new toll roads?

There are only 840 miles of toll roads in operation in the United States, costing about 674 million dollars. That's not impressive when matched with the 37,000 miles in the U. S. highway system.

But more than a thousand miles of similar thruways are already under construction at a cost of more than a billion and a half dollars. And 5,000 additional miles of toll highways have either been authorized or proposed at a projected cost of nearly six billion dollars.

Newest speedway is slated to open Aug. 1. It's the West Virginia turnpike, an 88-mile strip through rugged mountains, it took 123 million dollars of bonds to build.

The need for superhighways becomes apparent when one realizes that 15 per cent of the nation's traffic passes over less than 1 per cent of the highways.

Is on Summer Variety Series

Played Piano, Bass Viol but Was Told to Warble on First Job

NEW YORK — Merv Griffin co-stars with Betty Ann Grove on the new summer musical variety series replacing the Jane Froman and Jo Stafford shows on television.

Griffin hails from California, is 28 years old, has blue eyes, brown hair and is a tennis enthusiast.

A Warner star, he has been featured in "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "Cattle Town," "This Is Love," "The Boy from Oklahoma" and "Phantom of the Rue Morgue." He has played straight dramatic roles as well as top singing parts.

Regarding his interest in tennis — his father, Mervin Edward Griffin, was once Pacific Coast tennis singles champion and later a professional.

His paternal uncle, Peck Griffin, is a former national tennis singles champion, while another uncle, Elmer Griffin, held the same championship and was later national veteran champion.

Merv, needless to say, is a handy man with a racket — but his primary ambition for as long as he can remember was to be a singer, composer and conductor.

He's now established as a singer, has written the music for a hit song, "Eternally," and has conducted small orchestras. He's still nursing one desire — to conduct some day the "greatest symphony orchestra" ever assembled.

His first job in the entertainment field was with a radio station in San Francisco. He had gone there with friends to audition for a job either as pianist or bass viol player.

He was mistakenly introduced to the station manager as a singer, so he went ahead and sang. He landed a job forthwith, and a week later had his own radio show, singing breakfast serenades to early-rising housewives.

He wasn't long on radio before movie scouts were on his trail. Freddy Martin snatched him from radio instead and made him featured vocalist with his band.

He signed a recording contract, and became a regular on various air shows. Four years after he left San Francisco he was in Hollywood by way of New York with a movie contract.

LONG AND SHORT OF IT—Talent, it seems comes in both small and large packages, if tiny Jill Corey (left) or statuesque Georgiann Johnson are any proof. Jill, who is a featured singer on TV's Dave Garraway Show, emanates radiance and charm, coupled with little-girl beauty. Tall, blonde Miss Johnson attributes her background of modeling for much of the serenity and poise of her performances. She has appeared on countless video plays and is a permanent member of the Mr. Peepers cast.

Counters GOP Claim CIO Rules Williams

GRAND RAPIDS — President August Scholle of the Michigan CIO Council scoffs at Republican claims that he "dominates" Gov. Williams.

Such claims were made last week by Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary and State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, both candidates for the Republican nomination for governor.

Scholle, here for today's opening of the state CIO convention, said last night:

"Republicans who say such things have guilty consciences because they know the Republican majority in the legislature has been under domination by General Motors Corp."

Watchman on Tugboat Dies at Cleveland Dock

He was George McLeod. Police blamed natural causes.

Bay State Talkative
BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — Aren't telephones for talking? Well, who said New Englanders were close-mouthed and nontalkative? A report shows that in Massachusetts there is a telephone for every 2.7 persons.
