

Welcome, Little Man

What Lies Ahead?

Will the new year be bright with the promise of progress and filled with the hope of peace?

Or will it be a year of trouble and turmoil for mankind?

The little fellow with the 1959 on his suitcase doesn't quite know what to expect as he sets out on his long journey down the months, but his grip is crammed full of courage and faith in the future.

The rockets, missiles, jets and satellites whirling about the earth don't seem to faze him a bit, as he gets a final word of advice from old Father Time before taking his place on the calendar.

This is artist Dick Hodgins' imaginative concept of our world on the threshold of another momentous year.

Life or Death Battle 2 Teachers Held Now Rages in Cuba in Cuba Arrive

HAVANA, Cuba (P)—Army forces today smashed a rebel attempt to capture Santa Clara in central Cuba and are driving the insurgents eastward, the government said. Rebel broadcasts conceded that the fighting now had moved north and east of that city controlling highways from Havana to eastern Cuba.

HAVANA (UPI) — A life or death struggle for the central Cuban city of Santa Clara raged today. Informed sources here said the rebels still were unable to crack government defense lines, after four days of bitter fighting.

Wild rumors circulated in Havana, but Cuban Army sources said the rebels had barely been able to penetrate the outskirts of Santa Clara, the capital of the province of Las Villas at Cuba's narrow waist.

Within the city itself, the Army said, there was only sniping but on the city's outskirts the Rebel and government forces were engaged in frequent and heavy fighting, with both sides suffering heavy casualties.

Foreign diplomatic sources in Havana said they had heard "rumors" of an estimated 1,500 Rebel casualties, but they said this referred to fighting throughout Las Villas province and not in Santa Clara alone.

Cuban Army authorities said they were not worried by the status of the fighting there.

Cuban officials described as "highly exaggerated" reports abroad that thousands had died in the fight for the city. Army officials said only small Rebel combat units had been able to penetrate the city's defense lines and only in the outskirts.

At 8 a.m. today neither side had made any official statement concerning the Santa Clara fighting in more than 24 hours.

The Rebel radio claimed that more than 300 government troops had deserted to the insurgents in the fighting for Santa Clara.

But another Rebel broadcast said the attempt to capture Santa Clara, a city of 150,000 and a key communications center in central Cuba, had failed.

Red May Visit Detroit

DETROIT (P)—Russia's Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan may visit Detroit, it was reported today. Diplomatic sources have reported that Mikoyan is interested in seeing automobile assembly lines.

Business Outlook

The business and financial forecast for 1959 of Roger W. Babson, noted economist and business writer, will be run by The Pontiac Press in its January edition.

In addition to a prediction for the Pontiac area, Babson's forecast will also include a preview of the national outlook in business.

Farmington Sewer Plan in Supreme Court Today

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

A second attempt was to be made today to have the Michigan Supreme Court hand down another opinion on the Farmington sanitary sewer case in an effort to put more legal teeth into financing the $4,900,000 sewage disposal system.

This case is considered by county officials as the key to future projects of Oakland's fledgling Department of Public Works, the only one of its kind among Michigan counties.

Claude H. Stevens of Detroit, county bonding attorney, said yesterday he would file a second petition with the high court hoping a supplemental opinion would iron out disputes over the method of payment for the sewer.

The high court in October split 4 to 4 on an appeal from an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling which said, in effect, DPW plans for financing were constitutional and therefore the project could proceed.

Although this vote upheld the lower court decision, by reason of affirmation by equal division, DPW planners became skeptical of how it still might upset the Farmington and similar department jobs, probably to be paid for in like manner.

So they asked the Supreme Court to reconsider the appeal and reply to some unanswered questions in the case they considered vital to the project. The request was (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Eastman Shifts City Police Units for New Year

He's Ahead in His Plans; Moves Traffic Bureau Under Patrol Group

By MAX E. SIMON

Ahead of his timetable by three months, Public Safety Director George E. Eastman today revamped the Pontiac Police Department organization.

The changes will be effective tomorrow.

Eastman had planned a major overhaul of the department in March, but acted today, he said, "because we're moving ahead of schedule."

The Traffic Bureau has been abolished and 13 officers from the defunct bureau switched to the Patrol Bureau.

He said the Patrol Bureau will bear the brunt of police activities in the future. Its activities will include patrol, traffic enforcement, criminal investigation, license inspection, and it will supervise the police reservists.

Under the new setup, the police force will consist of five major bureaus. Besides Patrol, these are the Staff, Detective, Services and Crime Prevention bureaus.

The Staff Bureau previously called the Planning Research and Training Unit, will take on the additional duties of public relations, budgetary matters, and inspection.

The Detective Bureau will follow up criminal investigations after they have been initiated by patrolmen.

The Services Bureau, previously called the Administration Bureau, will handle records, communications, drivers licensing, fleet maintenance, property control, building maintenance, animal welfare, weights and measures, and identification activities.

Eastman said the juvenile unit has been renamed the Crime Prevention Bureau and has been removed from under the wing of the Detective Bureau. It will be directly responsible to him he said.

The Vice Squad will now be called the Special Investigation Unit, Eastman announced. Under a chain of command included in the reorganization plan, Capt. Oliver H. Lemaux, Patrol Bureau commander, is second to Eastman.

Next in responsibility are Inspector Clark Wheaton, Detective Bureau commander; Capt. Joseph Koren, services Bureau commander; and Lt. George Scott, senior Patrol Bureau lieutenant.

Of Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, Eastman said that the chief remains on "special assignment" without command or supervisory responsibility.

"He can, however, take over in emergencies," Eastman said.

Deputies, Troopers Out in Force

Guard Area Highways

State Police and Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies were out in force today in an effort to keep county highways accident-free over the next 24 hours.

The Pontiac area weather forecast calls for light snow late tonight and tomorrow which, coupled with a predicted low of 23 tonight and high of 30 tomorrow, may add up to hazardous driving conditions.

Drivers have been urged to be extremely wary of any seemingly innocent thin coatings of snow on highways.

When temperatures do not permit melting, say authorities, a light snowfall can make roads extremely slippery and deceiving to motorists.

The National Safety Council estimates 390 Americans may die in traffic accidents over the four-day New Year holiday and another 11,000 persons may suffer disabling accident injuries.

The official 102-hour period extends from 6 p.m. today until midnight Sunday. The council figured an increase of 40 deaths over the 350 traffic fatalities that would occur during a non-holiday period of equal length.

Local authorities will be making an all-out effort to hold the county's death toll at its present figure, 93, which is the lowest recorded in the county since only 88 were killed in 1949.

Troopers at the Pontiac and Redford Posts began working on special extended shifts at noon today and will do so until 6 a.m. Thursday.

Sgt. Lorenz Ahlgren, commander at the Pontiac Post, warned motorists today that "troopers will be out on county highways in full force tonight and early tomorrow morning."

"We will be on the lookout for any drivers who appear to be driving in an erratic manner. All those arrested for drunk driving will go to jail."

Sheriff's deputies likewise will be out in full force and any drivers found to be under the influence of alcohol will be firmly dealt with.

Authorities, realizing that the great majority of New Year's Eve drivers will be either going to or returning from parties, urge them to follow several simple rules.

One of these suggests that wives do the driving if their husbands are drinking. In any case, officials urge those who do any drinking tonight to let a friend or relative drive them home.

If both husband and wife have been drinking, authorities say it is a good idea to take a taxi home. They point out that a taxi fare of several dollars is very small in comparison with the usual fine of $100 for drunk driving.

"No fine or jail sentence can take the place of a human life," said Sheriff Frank W. Ions this morning.

"We know there is nothing more dangerous on the road than a drunk driver and tonight's celebrations will potentially raise the number of these people on area highways," he added.

"Therefore, deputies will jail any drivers under the influence of alcohol in an effort to prevent them (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Banks, City Hall Slated to Close All Day Thursday

Pontiac began its New Year's observance at noon today.

City offices closed until Friday morning, and so did banks and savings and loan companies. Even the drive-in windows at banks closed, although they are usually open Wednesday afternoons.

County offices were scheduled to maintain regular hours today.

Some stores may remain open tonight, although most plan to halt business at the end of the day, said Norman L. Pattison, president of the Downtown Merchants Assn.

Just about everything will be closed up in Pontiac on New Year's Day, opening again at regular hours Friday. Most stores plan to remain open Friday night, but not Saturday night, Pattison said.

Robber Takes Dare, Shoots Man Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (P)—"If you want my wallet you'll have to shoot me," said a film studio executive to a gunman Tuesday night during a robbery in a Hollywood bar.

A shotgun blast was the reply. Kenneth Savoy, 35, an executive of Samuel Goldwyn Studios fell dead.

Savoy had wandered into the bar while a holdup by two men was in process. The gunmen had cleaned out the cash register and the wallets of eight customers. They asked Savoy for his.

The gunman fled.

Pontiac Vice Law Proposal Puts Purchasers on Spot

To add weight to the new vice suppression policy, Pontiac last night began tightening its vice laws.

City commissioners favorably received proposals that would hit as hard at the purchaser of vice as at the seller.

Sherwin M. Birnkrant, assistant city attorney, made the proposals in the form of an ordinance amendment, which was given its first reading last night. The amendment may be made law next week.

Birnkrant said some of the ideas had been proposed by the city's municipal judges, who try all of Pontiac's disorderly conduct cases.

"The strengthened ordinance would spell out the law even more clearly than the present ordinance," Birnkrant said.

SPURRED BY DRIVE

Birnkrant, who prosecutes most Municipal Court cases for the city, said that changes in the vice laws were contemplated several months ago, before Pontiac began its vice crackdown.

"However, the present campaign caused us to speed up our preparation of the changes we think are necessary," he said.

The new law would "pull no punches," Birnkrant explained. Like the old law, it is aimed at illicit trade in liquor, gambling, gaming, prostitution, drugs, narcotics and contraceptive devices.

But by its wording, the new law throws the spotlight on the customers of the vice trade, making them fully liable for prosecution.

It defines a disorderly person as anyone "who shall accost, solicit or invite another by act, word, sign, signal or any other means for the purpose of procuring, purchasing or selling (vice)."

HITS MIDDLEMAN

The new law also hits at the middleman in vice transactions. It takes into its scope anyone "aiding, abetting, or participating in any of the illegal activities, directly or indirectly, in any manner as agent, procurer, panderer or otherwise."

The key phrase in the definition is "directly or indirectly," said Birnkrant.

Teamsters See New York Job as First Move

Chief Promises to Fight Picketing but Drivers Sure to Honor Lines

From Our News Wires

NEW YORK — James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union was revealed today to be using the New York City Police Force as a stepping stone to organizing 14 other American police departments.

The Union's first step is a drive in New York involving picketing of headquarters, precinct stations and supply depots.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, a cop risen from 30 years in the ranks, angrily pledged to fight with every legal weapon any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

Henry Feinstein, Teamster representative in New York, said the picketing, set to start Jan. 12, was in no way a strike move and that no attempt would be made to interfere with police supplies by asking truckers or other Union members not to cross picket lines.

Yesterday, however, Feinstein, in disclosing Teamster plans to picket police installations in New York, said he was certain that Teamster truck drivers would observe the picket lines and thereby cut off deliveries of fuel, gasoline and other materials.

Feinstein declined to comment when asked whether his reversal might be attributed to a report that Hoffa had informed local Teamster representatives he would not tolerate interference with deliveries to police installations.

"We do not believe policemen should go out on strike," he said. "We do not believe police should have the right to strike. This will simply be a demonstration to bring home to the public the policemen's plight."

Feinstein disclosed organization drives were under way in 15 cities, including Denver and the Florida area "from Palm Beach down to Key West." He said New York could be a "model" for unionized police forces.

Kennedy scoffed at Feinstein's assurance police would never be called on to strike.

"Does anyone seriously believe an outfit like this, after starting with picketing, would hesitate to strike to get what they want?" he said.

"If the police are unionized I would advise people not to waste their money paying a commissioner his salary because Hoffa, not the commissioner, would be in fact head of the police department."

Kennedy recalled the 1919 strike of Boston police when the city was terrorized for five days as hoodlums roamed the streets and citizens hid in their homes. Eight persons were killed before National Guard troops called in by then (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Teamster Defends Union Bribe Money

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A boss has testified at his trial on income tax fraud charges that it's permissible to use union money for bribing public officials.

Glenn W. Smith, president of Local 515, is charged with evading income taxes on $18,500 in 1951. Smith insisted Tuesday he paid out the money as a union bribe intended for a judge.

Smith told the court that bribery "as such" is against the constitution and by-laws of the international Teamsters Union.

However, he explained: "Under a condition such as political pressure, as we had in our union, the spending of money to protect our members' under such circumstances, in my opinion, would not be against the international constitution and by-laws."

Blanket of Snow Covering West

Storm Dumping 4 to 10 Inches

Moving Slowly East and North, Road Travel Reported Hazardous

From Our News Wires
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A large part of the Midwest and Southwest will greet the new year under a cover of snow 4 to 10 inches deep.

After covering New Mexico earlier this week, a moisture-laden storm moved east and north Tuesday. It cut deep into Texas, then dropped 4 to 8 inches of snow on parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Its slow movement was expected to continue today across southeast Kansas into northeast Missouri. Along the south and eastern edges of the snow—roughly from St. Louis southwest to north central Arkansas and northeast Texas—there was sleet and freezing rain.

Thirteen deaths, most from traffic accidents, have been attributed to the storm.

Roads were hazardous through out the storm area.

The storm, which earlier buried Albuquerque, N. M., under record 14-inch snows and stranded 600 travelers in Liberal, Kan., drove eastward during the night toward the Ohio Valley and southern Great Lakes.

Weathermen warned of heavy snow during the day from eastern Oklahoma through portions of Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, with lighter amounts in the southern Great Lakes and northern sections of the Ohio Valley.

Drifts eight feet high blocked roads in the west and southwest Tuesday, and hundreds of motorists took refuge in hotels, motels and private dwellings.

Some Rose-Bowl bound travelers were stranded at Liberal by a paralyzing 10-inch snowfall. Snowplows opened most roads out of Liberal by nightfall, but Bowl ticket holders feared the delay would prevent them from reaching California in time for the New Year's Day game.

Monumental traffic jams occurred in Wichita, Kan., and Dallas, Tex. At Wichita, fire combined with snow-slicked streets to snarl traffic in the downtown section Tuesday night. Traffic was halted for three hours while firemen battled flames in a two-story building.

The Dallas tieup was described as one of the worst in the city's history. Cars queued in jams three miles long, unable to move for hours because of slippery streets. Some drivers abandoned cars in the middle of streets, adding to the congestion.

Traffic also bogged down on highways in Oklahoma. At one point south of Davis, Okla., cars were backed up for five miles Tuesday while plows cracked through drifts to free them.

Asks $90 Million for Detroit Schools

DETROIT (U) — A 90-million-dollar construction program which he said would meet Detroit's school needs for the next five years was handed the Board of Education by Superintendent Samuel M. Brownell last night.

Included in the proposal was replacement of 10 of 37 schools singled out as firetraps by a citizens advisory committee and 22 new schools to care for what Brownell said was anticipated enrollment increases.

The superintendent said the program could be financed by a bond issue which he has proposed be put on the April election ballot.

New Year's Is Holy Day

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor, Pontiac Press

Celebrating the first day of the New Year is an ancient custom. The Christian Church has observed New Year's Day as a holy day since 487 A.D. when it was declared the Feast of the Circumcision.

The early fathers forbade any festivities, because of their pagan associations, but these prohibitions were eventually ignored.

In the Orient, homes are decorated, and gifts exchanged, all in a spirit of gaiety.

In Europe, the day is an occasion for parties, the giving of gifts and calling on friends.

Religious rites and watch night parties "see the old year out and the new year in" in America. Open house is held by many, an occasion for friends to call.

Churches in the Pontiac area have announced services for tonight and New Year's Day as follows:

The Parkdale Church of the Nazarene will be joined by the Zion, First and Clintonville Nazarene churches in a watchnight service from 9:30 to midnight.

The Rev. Kenneth A. Hutchinson of the First Church will bring a New Year's message. The Rev. Robert A. North of the Zion Church and the Rev. Orville Rogers of the Clintonville Church will assist in the service.

Special music will be arranged by the young people. The Rev. Wayne E. Welton of the host church will conduct the service of Holy Communion from 11:30 to midnight.

New Year's Eve service will begin with singing at 7 p.m. in the Church of Christ, 1180 N. Perry St. A program and fellowship hour with refreshments will follow Bible study at 7:30. Midnight will find the pastor, the Rev. W. W. Hall, leading the congregation in prayer.

The Rt. Rev. D. H. Harris of Pittsburgh, Pa., will speak at 8 o'clock in the Triumph and Kingdom Church of God in Christ, 63 Elizabeth St. He is an archbishop of the denomination.

The Rev. Warren A. Rogers, district superintendent of the Gulf Central District, Church of the Nazarene, will be one of the speakers and singers tonight at the annual watchnight service in Evangelistic Tabernacle, 2800 Watkins Lake Rd.

New Year's Eve will be observed by members of Northeast Community Church at the home of the pastor, 820 Mt. Clemens St. The School for Christian Living will begin as usual at 7:30 p.m.

Holy Communion will be observed at 7:30 tonight in St. Trinity Lutheran Church. The Rev. Ralph C. Claus will preach on "Jesus, Lead Thou Me On."

Vespers will be at 8 tonight in the Hellenic Orthodox Community Church of St. George, 97 Mariva St.

Watchnight service will be held in the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church from 8 until midnight.

The new Couples Club is sponsoring the New Year's Eve party at First Congregational Church tonight for couples of all ages. Fun, frolic and refreshments are on the agenda.

Dulles Extends Vacation in Jamaica to Saturday

Oakland County was virtually assured today of getting a $250,000 federal grant to help finance the North Evergreen sanitary sewer for 10 communities south of Pontiac.

"There is no question but what we have met the major deadline necessary to be eligible for the federal fund," said Harold K. Schone, director of the Department of Public Works, which is planning the $6,175,000 project.

Schone said that certain plans were in the hands of the State Water Resources Commission today, meeting the deadline set by the U.S. Public Health Service, which controls the grant.

The principal hurdle was the approval which Detroit Common Council gave last night to contracts providing for Detroit treatment of the Evergreen system's sewage flow at the standard suburban rates. The Evergreen system would tap into Detroit's at Eight Mile road.

Federal aid means that the Board of Public Works will be able to trim $250,000 off its bond sale said.

It also means that participating communities will be charged relatively less by the county to pay off the bonds.

Schone said that, to be fully eligible for the grant, the county must sell its bonds by March 1 and have the project under construction by May 1, both of which deadlines should be easily met, he said.

Schone's announcement came on the heels of awarding of $4,435,600 in bids by the Board of Public Works. Schone said that the bids were awarded subject to the sale of the general obligation bonds by the county.

Winning bidders were: Northeast Construction Co. of Detroit, for two sections, $359,739.50 and $322,484; S. Weissman Excavating Co. of Southfield, $184,233; J. Wyke Inc. of Warren, $165,578.62; Frank J. Knight, of Center Line, $1,139,341.10; Rocco Ferrara & Co. of Livonia, $414,230; Michigan Sewer Construction Co. of Southfield, $1,002,038.30; and Friedrich & Co., pumping station, $436,795, and miscellaneous, $201,141.

Schone said bids on four other sections of the sewer were rejected and will be readvertised.

Those bids approved, received by the board Dec. 23, ran about eight per cent more than engineering estimates of construction costs, Schone said. There were 29 bidders altogether.

The long-awaited sewer is planned to bolster inadequate sewer facilities in the cities of Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Lathrup Village, Birmingham, Troy, a small part of Pontiac Township, Bloomfield Township, and the villages of Westwood, Bingham Farms and Franklin. The latter two are awaiting elections to approve entrance into the DPW project.

The bids awarded are valid for 90 days, Schone said. He added he expected the department to advertise for the sale of the bonds around the middle of January.

Bandit Does His Best, But . . .

Cabs Mess Up Getaway

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Griffin, 35, had a little trouble making his escape after robbing a supermarket of $300 last night, police said.

Griffin ran from the store, jumped into a taxi cab and terrorized the driver into fleeing. The bandit jumped into a second cab and his driver also fled.

He tried to drive the cab himself, but another car blocked his path. He left the cab and got into another passing car. He was let out moments later and began running.

Police cornered him hiding behind an old Army tank used to advertise a nearby surplus store. He was carrying two pistols and confessed the holdup, authorities said.

TAKES 14TH OATH — Oakland County Treasurer Charles A. Sparks (left) yesterday made county history when he took his oath of office to start his 27th consecutive year as county treasurer. With the start of his 14th two-year term Jan. 1, Sparks, a Republican, sets a record of elected county officers in length of service. He was first elected to the post in 1932 and took office Jan. 1, 1933. Administering the oath is County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr. Other swearing-in ceremonies of county officers and deputies is scheduled for midnight tonight.

DETROIT (UPI) — Police today sought a bold daylight bandit who invaded a home in northwest Detroit, held a woman and her 10-year-old daughter captive for half an hour, and escaped with furs and jewelry valued at $6,500.

Victims of the holdup were Mrs. Manny H. Silverman, and her daughter Donna.

Blue Law Curb Gets 1st Reading

City Studies Proposal to Tighten Restrictions on Sunday Sales

Details of Pontiac's proposed Blue Law controls were under study by the City Commission today.

Accepted for first reading last night was an ordinance amendment prohibiting the Sunday sale of all but essential items, such as food, medicines and gasoline. It wouldn't affect sales of beer and wine.

The amendment was presented by City Attorney William A. Ewart who prepared it after meeting with a special committee comprised of Mayor Phillip E. Rowston, Commissioner Floyd P. Miles and representatives of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

The amendment adds 23 items to the present ordinance, which outlaws only Sunday sale of furniture and household appliances.

Several commissioners have indicated they will oppose the amendment when it comes up for final passage next Tuesday. The move toward Blue Law controls was prompted two weeks ago after a major Pontiac department store elected to stay open Sundays during the Christmas shopping period.

The amended ordinance would brand most Sunday sales a misdemeanor, punishable by up to $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

Under it, the following items could not be sold legally in Pontiac on Sundays:

Household furnishings, appliances and equipment, including men's, women's and children's wearing apparel; all electrical household appliances; jewelry, stationery and office supplies; sporting equipment; hardware; housewares; books, and farm implements.

Other items would be paint; electrical wiring; equipment for the care and maintenance of shrubbery and lawns; plumbing and heating equipment; automobile accessories and tires; wall paper; millinery; building materials; cameras and projectors.

It specified that automobile accessories and tires could be sold in emergencies, as well as plumbing and heating equipment.

Life or Death Battle Now Rages in Cuba

Developed into a "life or death struggle."

Authorities here discounted many of the rumors circulating about the extent of fighting in the city. They noted that no private communication channels existed between Santa Clara and Havana and that there was no road, rail or air traffic.

Santa Clara is the capital of Las Villas province at the waist of central Cuba and its capture by the Rebels would cut the island in two and seal off Havana from the rich farmlands there and in Oriente Province in the extreme eastern end of Cuba.

The Rebel radio stations also reported major Rebel victories in Oriente Province, scene of the main Rebel hideouts, and said the army garrison at Guantanamo, near the U.S. Naval Base, had surrendered to Rebel forces.

There was no confirmation of the report but early reports from Oriente said the Army was pulling out from the small outlying garrisons to the major cities to prevent their being picked off by numerically superior Rebel forces.

Deputies, Troopers Guard Area Roads

from killing themselves and others.

A light snow last night made many area highways deceiving this morning. A very thin coating of snow covering roads and highways looked reasonably safe but was actually quite slippery and fooled many early morning motorists, said police.

Police reported no serious accidents, however, and main roads were clear by noon.

The record traffic toll for a New Year holiday is 409, set in a four-day period at the end of 1956 and beginning of 1957.

During the recent Christmas four-day holiday period 594 highway deaths were counted by the Associated Press, 26 less than the safety council's pre-Christmas estimate of 620.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 13 degrees. The reading at 1 p.m. was 26.

Daylight Bandit Holds 2 Captive, Takes Loot

DETROIT (UPI) — Police today sought a bold daylight bandit who invaded a home in northwest Detroit, held a woman and her 10-year-old daughter captive for half an hour, and escaped with furs and jewelry valued at $6,500.

Victims of the holdup were Mrs. Manny H. Silverman, and her daughter Donna.

The Day in Birmingham

18 in Bloomfield Township to Vie in Feb. 16 Primary

BIRMINGHAM — One of the largest slates in many years will be presented to Bloomfield Township voters at the primary election Feb. 16. A total of 18 petitions has been filed.

Arno L. Hulet, incumbent, will be opposed by Arthur J. Picotte for the office of supervisor.

Harold V. Beggs, who unsuccessfully opposed Hulet for supervisor two years ago, seeks the township post of clerk. Incumbent Robert H. Dudley also is a candidate for the same position.

Homer Case, treasurer, will be opposed by Mrs. Margaret Begovitch for his position.

Picotte, Beggs and Mrs. Begovitch spearheaded the group which recently opposed the Bloomfield Hills School Board request for tax increases and a bond issue for construction.

Nine candidates have filed for four vacancies as trustees. They are Robert A. Reid, incumbent; Henry M. Hogan Jr., Dorman D. Dickerson, Samuel J. Reece, Marcus J. Scott, James W. Jalkins, George B. Walker, Julian B. Wilson and Marshall H. Wolfe.

The two incumbents, Albert C. Carr and Clarence G. Behn, and James E. Grissom are vying for the two justice of the peace posts.

Midnight marks the opening moment of Birmingham's biggest "race" for the first baby of the year.

For the second time under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, merchants will shower the baby and the proud parents with gifts. A total of 27 business houses are participating.

Among the Birmingham churches planning special New Year's services for tonight are Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Hoffa's Union Eyes More Police Drives

Gov. Calvin Coolidge restored order.

The New York force, whose annual wages total about $130 million, are now represented largely by three Patrolmen's Benevolent Association with a membership of about 18,000.

The group can present grievances informally but they cannot participate in collective bargaining. Joining a union is grounds for dismissal.

PBA President John J. Casse said the rank and file police "want no part of any union and certainly not Hoffa's." He predicted the picketing demonstration would be a complete failure and said Feinstein's statement that 3,000 policemen had joined the Teamsters secretly was ridiculous.

"There might be between 30 and 50 but we aren't even sure of that," he said.

The New York Times said today that Hoffa has killed plans for a move by the union to cut off deliveries of vital supplies to police installations in this city.

The Times said Hoffa notified his local aids Tuesday that he would tolerate no interference with regular police operations as an outgrowth of union picketing of police headquarters.

After conversing with the aides by telephone from Washington, the Times said, Hoffa said there would be no stoppage of trucks or any other services as a result of the picketing. The paper added that Hoffa declared the picket lines would be "for advertising purposes only."

Stevens puts up two lines of defense. He states townships are municipalities, like cities, and therefore could set their own regulations within individual charters, thus escaping the 15-mill ceiling.

Secondly, sufficient income could be raised from the proposed connecting charges to meet obligations.

Justices Eugene F. Black, Talbot Smith, John D. Voelker and Thomas M. Kavanagh disagreed with Stevens' first line, saying townships are not municipal corporations and therefore are bound by the taxing limitation.

The four other justices, Leland W. Carr, John R. Dethmers, Harry F. Kelly and George Edwards, neither agreed or disagreed with this particular question, but still upheld the Oakland opinion of the late Judge George B. Hartwick.

Stevens feels the four dissenting justices, after ruling against his first line of defense, should have moved on to say whether the existing contracts are valid under the alternate, suggested pay plan. Apparently feeling this not material to the case, they skipped this question, he said.

"We are in hopes that our new petition will show the justices the need for such an answer on this point," Stevens remarked.

Farmington Sewer in High Court Today

turned down early this month without explanation.

Testing of the project began in March of this year when Irwin I. Cohn, a Detroit real estate attorney and a West Bloomfield Township resident, sought an injunction as a taxpayer to block the proposal.

It is designed to benefit residents of Farmington and West Bloomfield townships, and the cities of Southfield and Keego Harbor.

Cohn's contention is that contracts between the county and two townships, setting forth the way they are to fulfill their obligations to the county in paying their shares, are void because the areas would have to levy taxes in excess of a 15-mill constitutional taxing limitation on townships.

He further stated an alternate method of reimbursing the county, that from charges levied against residents connecting to the system, were not in proportion to cost of making such connections.

Lastly, Cohn argues the county cannot legally pledge its full faith and credit behind issuance of general obligation bonds in anticipation of collections from participating communities.

Stevens puts up two lines of defense. He states townships are municipalities, like cities, and therefore could set their own regulations within individual charters, thus escaping the 15-mill ceiling.

Secondly, sufficient income could be raised from the proposed connecting charges to meet obligations.

Justices Eugene F. Black, Talbot Smith, John D. Voelker and Thomas M. Kavanagh disagreed with Stevens' first line, saying townships are not municipal corporations and therefore are bound by the taxing limitation.

The Green Empress

(Copyright 1958) . . . by Elizabeth Cadell

THE STORY: Angus Graham, inviolated out of the Navy, is amused at being hired as a "liaison officer" for the luxury bus tour in Europe. He's filling in for his friend, "Vas Sealing." The passenger list sounds impressive—Lord Lorrimer, father of a Navy friend, with his lovely daughter, Angela; Mr. Zoller, philanthropist, and his wife, Admiral Peterson and his psychic sister, Mrs. Denby-Warre; the irrepressible young Sir Maurice Tarrant; Stanton Holt, an American, who asks to meet Miss Seton, with the warm, humorous, intelligent eyes. The crossing to France is uneventful. Miss Seton confides to Angus she is half-sister to Rosamund Blake who has just completed a film in Italy and is sailing to South America. She plans to surprise Rosamund by meeting her boat in Lisbon. In the middle of the night Miss Seton receives a mysterious telephone call, with bad news. Frowlers tried to get at the Green Empress. Angus and Angela are in love but Angus feels he should have something to offer her. Lord Lorrimer suggests he could write to several people in England who might have something to offer Angus, and tells them they must grasp happiness when it's offered. A second attempt is made to enter the garage and the driver whacks the intruder's wrist with a torch. When the notice is again on its way the Admiral notices a bruise on Tarrant's wrist which he says was caused by a blow of a torch.

CHAPTER XIV

Scenery or not, they were in a part of the country which Angus had longed to see again. This was the route which his father and mother had taken on their honeymoon. Here he had come with his father, after his mother's death.

At Bergerac, which they had passed not long ago, he had spent more than one happy holiday by himself. But the passengers, today, had not been interested in Bergerac.

Mr. Holt remarked that the English had once owned it, and the Admiral volunteered the information that hats were made there.

Now, they were in the Landes, which the passengers thought monotonous, but which to Angus already showed signs of the Basque country to which they were bound.

Basque farmhouses, timbered and whitewashed, with wide, sloping roofs, appeared more and more frequently.

They would soon go through Dax, and then they would head towards Bayonne, where as a small boy he had joined small Basque boys and played pelota, in defiance of prohibitions, against the walls of the medieval Cathedral.

All these things, all these memories had been filling his mind — and it was occupied, instead, in trying to read what lay behind Maurice Tarrant's untroubled countenance.

WHAT'S THAT BRUISE?

"Before we talk about scenery," he began, "perhaps you'd care to explain how you got that bruise on your wrist."

"But I told you, my dear fellow," Maurice raised his eyebrows in surprise. "I hit it against something—a torch, I imagine."

"Can you explain why you were trying to get into the garage early this morning?"

Maurice appeared to consider. "Couldn't we put it down to a boyish prank?" he asked finally.

"I don't think so," Angus, with an effort, spoke quietly. "You tried the bolts of the door and—"

"No — cross my heart," said Maurice, with obvious sincerity. "I didn't touch the bolts of the door at any time."

"But you did try to climb in through the window last night?"

"Purely for exercise. I couldn't sleep, and I thought that a spot of climbing would, so to speak, make me drop off. If I'd known the driver slept so close to his baby, I—"

"— would have thought twice about trying to get at it."

"I wouldn't even have thought once," said Maurice earnestly. "A great, heavy chap like that — consider, my dear fellow! Is it likely I'd risk letting him have a bash at me?"

side was Lionel Yule, talking not at all.

Close by, he could hear Mr. Holt's deep, drawing voice addressing Miss Seton.

"Back home," he was saying, "I've got a reputation for being quite a thought-reader. Want to know how I've been reading yours?"

His voice was as easy and as relaxed as his posture; he was sitting forward on his low wooden chair, his feet outstretched, his arms resting on the table.

"I didn't know I'd been thinking at all," she said.

"I've been watching you, and I think you've been thinking," said Mr. Holt. He took off his glasses, polished them, put them on again and gave her a direct, thoughtful gaze. "You got bad news on the trip, didn't you?"

"Did I?"

"DON'T HAVE TO TELL"

"Well, I'm not asking you. You don't have to tell me if you don't want to."

"All I'm doing is proving to you what I said in the first place, that I can get a lot of information just by watching somebody and figuring out what's going on inside their heads."

"First you were happy, and then you weren't. Am I right?"

"Yes. But does it matter?"

"Of course it matters. Why would a person bother watching another person unless that first person wanted to do what he could to help the other person— if the other person would let him?"

Miss Seton stared at him for a few moments, and then laughed.

"So, I'm funny," agreed Mr. Holt placidly, "but I'm talking good sense."

"You're being very kind," said Miss Seton, sobering, "but do you honestly think that two complete strangers can—"

"Oh, but wait a minute!" Mr. Holt held up a hand for silence. "Wait a minute, now. Take this slowly. We're no strangers."

"We've been living together for three and a half days and if you parcel out the time we've spent together, you could spread it out over a whole lot of years of ordinary getting-to-know-you."

Lab Technician Hurt in Radiation Mishap

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Cecil W. Kelley, a veteran atomic laboratory technician, was injured critically in a radiation accident late Tuesday.

He was exposed to a large dose of radiation during a plutonium metal recovery operation, a spokesman for the University of California scientific laboratory said.

Kelley is a metal fabrications operator in a chemical-metallurgical division. The laboratory spokesman said the work in which Kelley was engaged had been studied carefully and was believed to have been adequately controlled.

STRONG WINE SMELL

When the coach stopped, they draped the coats round them and ran quickly across the few yards between the coach and the house. Inside, the room was rather dark, smoke-filled, and smelled strongly of wine.

The arrival of the party caused a smiling stir, and the stout farmer and his wife and several small children came to greet them.

Soon the passengers were seated at small tables. Mr. and Mrs. Zoller sat with Mrs. Denby-Warre while the Admiral and Lord Lorrimer took a table beside a window. Angus stood talking to the farmer.

Angus could see Angela seated on a bench at a long table; beside her on one side was Maurice Tarrant, talking volubly; on the other

U.S. Governors to Visit Moscow

Reds Invite Executive Group but Trip Must First Be Financed

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet Union has invited the governors of eight states and Hawaii to visit Russia this summer.

The invitation went to the nine members of the Governors' Conference Executive Committee, which met in Chicago three weeks ago.

John E. Ivey Jr., executive vice president of New York University, said Tuesday night that NYU and the Institute of International Education hope to serve as joint sponsors if funds to finance the trip can be raised.

A number of foundations are being approached to underwrite the cost.

The governors would visit the Soviet Union in June, returning in time to report to the annual Governors' Conference in Puerto Rico in late August.

In Chicago, Brevard Crinfield, executive secretary of the conference, who made the invitation public, said these nine governors were invited: Leroy Collins, Florida; William G. Stratton, Illinois; Cecil H. Underwood, West Virginia; George D. Clyde, Utah; James P. Coleman, Mississippi; Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey; Victor E. Anderson, Nebraska; Stephen L. R. McNichols, Colorado; and William F. Quinn, Hawaii.

The invitation is scheduled to be acted upon at an Executive Committee meeting at Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 23. Crinfield said there is every indication it will be accepted.

3 Fatalities Last New Year's

Hope for Better Record

LANSING (AP)—Michigan motorists will have to turn in a good driving performance on New Year's holiday if they hope to beat last year's record.

A year ago, three persons died in highway accidents in the 30-hour period starting at 6 p.m. Dec. 31 and continuing through midnight.

"I'll be satisfied with that kind of a record this year," said State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, "but it would be even better to celebrate the New Year with no fatalities."

To help make it a safe holiday, he said, State Police will work 10-hour shifts starting at noon Wednesday. About 100 National Guardsmen will assist troopers and sheriff's deputies on highway patrol, he said.

Claim U.S. Tobaccos Cause Cancer

Reds OK Smoking Ban

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet authorities have approved a campaign against smoking.

The Ministry of Health's official journal "Health" stated: "It is now abundantly clear that smoking is a dangerous form of chronic poisoning of the body which can cause grave illness."

The official journal slapped a bit of politics into its campaign with the claim: "Everywhere American tobacco products have been exported since World War II, mortality in lung cancer has been mounting at the same rapid pace as in the United States."

Quoting at length from special medical investigations in the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, and Czechoslovakia, the publication reported: "The fight against cancer of the respiratory organs, and that is a fight against smoking, is an urgent problem in our country as well as abroad."

Apart from a press campaign, lectures in schools, and a ban on smoking at political meetings, there are posters against use of tobacco. They are prominently displayed in pharmacies.

Tobacco advertisements are banned. Coin-operated vending machines distribute Soviet cigarettes singly rather than by packs in most public places.

Post Office to Close at Lumber Company

The contract post office station, located in the Lowrie-Hick Lumber Company, 1 W. Walton Blvd., since August, will close today at 4:30 p.m. but should reopen by Jan. 12, Robert C. Miller, acting postmaster, announced today.

Miller explained that the lumber company's lease with the Albert B. Lowrie Co., Inc. in Detroit, had expired and that the owners had decided not to negotiate again for a new lease.

He said he received word this morning that the Detroit company, owners of the property, would sign a contract for the station at the same lease fee as that charged Lowrie-Hicks leasing the property until June 30.

Irving Foss, assistant clerk in charge of the station, will now be employed as clerk. Donald R. Hicks, secretary and treasurer of the lumber company, had been clerk.

All postal services with the exception of postal savings are provided at the station.

Ford Plans on Selling More Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it expects to sell from 20 to 40 per cent more Ford cars in 1959 than it did the past year.

For the month of January it is increasing its Ford production by 15 per cent. A "stronger national economy" is one of the factors cited for the anticipated increase.

J. O. Wright, a Ford vice president and general manager of the company's Ford division, predicted yesterday a 1959 sales increase of from 200,000 to 400,000 cars.

For the past year sales of the Ford car will total slightly over one million, according to the company.

Wright said the 1959 increase in sales may contribute as much as one billion dollars additional to the nation's economy.

Bankers, Executives Predict Good Year

Most Financial Experts Show Optimism

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — With the season for predictions at its peak let's take a look today at what some of the experts think 1959 has in store for us. Later on, perhaps, it might be fun to see how close they come to the mark in their economic penny-pitching.

One of the leaders in the expert business, the magazine Business Week, looks for a good year. About to add push to the recovery already under way, it says, will be inventory accumulation by industries which were trimming stocks in 1958. Another force will be increased home building over the next few months.

But if 1959 is to be better than just good, the magazine says, people will have to buy more autos. And on that point it declines to guess. It says consumers should have five billion dollars more at hand in 1959 for buying durables — autos, household appliances and the like. If they spend it, the business year is made.

They'll be able to borrow if they like. S. Clark Beise, president of the Bank of America, the nation's largest, says. The Californian says credit resources will be adequate for business and industry, for many more new homes, and for purchases of autos and appliances.

The National Industrial Conference Board has had 15 economists in a huddle. They agree that 1959 is unlikely to see much of a drop in unemployment and expect four million to be out of work next June.

They look for price stability in most lines, and for little increase in business spending on new plant and equipment. But they think the gross national product — total dollar volume of the nation's output of goods and services — will

Tempers Fray in Air Strikes

Senator Suggests Law to Ban Transportation Walkouts

By The Associated Press
Old strikes continued to plague two of the nation's major airlines on the eve of the new year.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) suggested the strike of pilots at American could lead to federal legislation outlawing strikes in transportation industries.

Government officials showed signs Tuesday of increasing annoyance with the prolonged disputes at Eastern Air Lines and American Airlines.

The National Mediation Board sent a strongly worded recommendation to Eastern and its striking flight engineers to take immediate steps to settle the strike, which began Nov. 24. The board urged arbitration, if necessary.

The threat of a Walkout against a third major line — National Air Lines — diminished somewhat when the Airlines Ticket Agents Assn. formally accepted an offer from the national board to mediate the association's dispute with the company.

The association is preparing a strike vote against National in protest of the dismissal of an agent in New York.

Church School Damaged by Basement Fire

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A fire caused by an overflow in the fuel line to an oil furnace broke out yesterday in the basement of the newly-completed Sunday School of the Cedar Crest Lutheran Church.

Pastor Howard Claycombe reported that the blaze was confined to the furnace room in the basement, but that the new school and the church proper, which is connected by a passageway, were damaged by smoke.

The White Lake Fire Dept. was called to the scene. They cut the fuel line outside the building to stop the feed of oil to the fire; arresting the blaze within an hour. No estimate of damage was given.

The new Sunday School was to have been dedicated Jan. 18.

Chrysler Given Defense Contract for Jupiter, Tank

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chrysler Corp. was awarded contracts totaling more than $7,800,000 yesterday for work on the Army's Jupiter missile and the M-48 medium tank.

The Defense Department said a $3,975,024 contract for engineering services on the Jupiter missile system would be carried out at Chrysler's Sterling Township, Mich., plant.

Work on a $1,844,644 contract for unspecified modifications to existing M-48 tanks will be done at Center Line, Mich., the department said.

Both contracts were awarded by the Detroit Ordnance District.

GM Veep Given Transportation Post

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Cyrus R. Osborn, vice president of General Motors Corp., was named Monday night as chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Transportation Center at Northwestern University.

Dr. J. Roscoe Miller, university president, said Osborn would succeed Fred G. Gurley, chairman of the Santa Fe Railroad, who is retiring Jan. 1.

Osborn has been associated with GM's Allison division, manufacturer of jet airplane engines, and formerly headed General Motors' Electromotive Division.

senhower, looks on 1959 with some concern. He says federal spending is "an impulse center for inflation with so large a fraction of so large a federal budget focused on particular segments of our economic base." And he also thinks we "sorely need more light on the wage-cost-price-profit sequence."

Another worry, in a special field, is expressed by William F. Crawford, vice president of Rockwell Manufacturing Co. He sees tougher competition in 1959 between American and foreign metal goods producers because American wages are rising faster than are European, while foreign productivity is rising faster than American.

But Donald M. White, executive secretary of the Aluminum Assn., says there is general optimism in that industry over chances of increased output and sales in 1959.

And T. E. Veltfort, managing director of Copper & Brass Research Assn., says "copper's future is as bright as the metal itself."

As for steel, Max D. Howell, executive vice president of the American Iron & Steel Institute, is out on the limb with fairly precise figures. He says 1959's output will be 100 to 110 million tons, compared with this year's $5 million, and with 1958's record 117 million tons.

Waterford Township Clerk
Dec. 31, '58

Incumbent Donald E. Adams, a Democrat, faces no opposition for re-election as justice of the peace.

Republicans Willard Johnson, Ray R. Peterson, Clayton Tibbals, Wilfred Mitchell and Newton S. Dempsey filed for seats on the township committee; incumbent Lloyd Gidley filed for constable, and Dempsey filed for Board of Review.

Democrats Fred V. Haggard, Adams and Patrick Daly filed for the township committee; Gerald Carter, Arlo G. Fleisher, Floyd A. Tonkin and Howard H. Somerville filed for constable, and Robert Chapin filed for Board of Review.

Incumbent Elmer R. Johnson, Clerk James E. Seeterlin and Treasurer Mrs. Dorothy Olson were assured of nomination without the necessity of a primary runoff on election day, Feb. 16.

But by yesterday's deadline, three Republicans had filed for supervisor, two for clerk and one for treasurer.

Challenging Richard D. Kuhn, who's seeking the supervisor's nomination for a second time, are two candidates with the same last name as the township's popular Lloyd L. Anderson, former supervisor.

Oliver Motor Design To Add Missionary Chapel as Mackinac Restoration

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — A replica of a missionary chapel used by a French priest among the Chippewa Indians in 1670 soon will be added to the historical lures of this resort island.

The 25-by-15 foot structure, resembling an Eskimo igloo in shape, will be put up by the Mackinac Island State Park Commission as part of a $125,000, two year historic sites improvement program.

First stage work was done last spring and early summer.

Dr. Eugene Petersen, director of the improvement program, said it is known that Fr. Claude Dablon, S. J., who wintered on the island in 1670, established the mission. Its exact site is not known.

Petersen said it apparently was a typical Chippewa type dwelling of the period with the addition of a portable altar and other religious devices. It is assumed that Fr. Dablon used part of the building for living quarters.

Fr. Dablon left the island after a brief stay, returning to Quebec in 1671. Eventually, he was put in charge of Jesuit missionaries operating in the region.

References to the Mackinac Island missionary chapel were recorded in Fr. Dablon's "relations," or written commentaries.

Petersen said the outer shell of the building, to be completed by June 5, will be of cedar bark in a shingled effect. A 20-foot cross will be placed outside the chapel.

Inside there will be a diorama depicting Fr. Dablon, in the costume of a pioneer priest, baptizing two Indians while two French voyageurs look on. Historical pictures will be hung.

A sheltered viewing area for the public will be provided.

Petersen said the chapel will be placed opposite Fort Mackinac.
